PROCEEDINGS AND DEBATES OF THE 104th CONGRESS, SECOND SESSION

Vol. 142

WASHINGTON, TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 10, 1996

No. 123

House of Representatives

The House met at 12:30 p.m. and was called to order by the Speaker pro tempore [Mr. BARRETT of Nebraska].

DESIGNATION OF SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The SPEAKER pro tempore laid before the House the following communication from the Speaker:

WASHINGTON, DC,
September 10, 1996.

I hereby designate the Honorable BILL BARRETT to act as Speaker pro tempore on this day.

NEWT GINGRICH,
Speaker of the House of Representatives.

MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE

A message from the Senate by Ms. MCDEVITT, one of its clerks, announced that the Senate had passed without amendment a bill of the House of the following title:

H.R. 4018. An act to make technical corrections in the Federal Oil and Gas Royalty Management Act of 1982.

The message also announced that the Senate has passed a bill of the following title in which the concurrence of the House is requested:

S. 1324. An act to amend the Public Health Service Act to revise and extend the solid-organ procurement and transplantation programs, and the bone marrow donor program, and for other purposes.

MORNING BUSINESS

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the order of the House of May 12, 1995, the Chair will now recognize Members from lists submitted by the majority and minority leaders for morning hour debates. The Chair will alternate recognition between the parties, with each party limited to not to exceed 30 minutes, and each Member except the majority and minority leader limited to not to exceed 5 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from North Carolina [Mr. COBLE] for 5 minutes.

CLEARING UP MISUNDERSTANDINGS

Mr. COBLE. Mr. Speaker, oftentimes a speaker's messages are inaccurately interpreted. This may result because of the speaker's ineptitude and/or the inability of the listener to properly interpret the message.

My final two speeches prior to the break for our August district work period were misunderstood by some. My first speech came in response to my Democrat friends who accuse the Republicans of opposing passage of the minimum wage increase. I then admonished my Democrat colleagues for having bashed the Republicans and reminded them that it was they, the Democrats, who, during the 103d Congress, controlled the House, they who controlled the Senate, they who controlled the White House. I reminded them as well, Mr. Speaker, that during their control of the past Congress I did not recall their having uttered one peep about the minimum wage.

I was then accused of hypocrisy, since I was bashing them while at the same time lecturing them for having bashed us. But it was not the bashing of which I was critical, but rather the unjustified bashing.

My second speech came in response to the proposal to approve the extension of increased COLA's, cost of living allowances, to the Vice President, to Members of Congress, to members of the Federal judiciary, and the Executive Schedule Levels 1 through 5, highly salaried appointees and/or bureaucrats. I opposed this proposal and explained that I represent constituents in my district who earn $25,000, $30,000, $35,000 per year. I then explained, furthermore, it would be an obvious slap across their faces to those who are barely hanging on by rewarding the Vice President, Members of Congress, Federal judges, and Executive Schedule Levels 1 through 5 a generous increase in COLA's.

I subsequently was accused by colleagues of opposing Federal judges and Members of Congress. My message was again misunderstood, Mr. Speaker. I am not averse to rewarding people whose work is exemplary. I am opposed, however, to extending increased COLA's to the aforesaid group, on the one hand, while on the other hand we are desperately trying to convince the President of the significant importance of balancing our budget. The two are simply not consistent.

So to sum up, and hopefully to illustrate with convincing clarity, I am, A, not opposed to bashing or vigorously debating issues on this floor. I am indeed opposed to bashing when it is not justified by the surrounding circumstances. The rule of equity rewards only those who come to the court with clean hands.

And B, I have great respect for most Members of Congress, and for most Federal judges, five or six of whom I call good personal friends. I have respect as well for the Vice President, and as far as members of the Executive Schedule Levels 1 through 5, Mr. Speaker, I can neither condemn nor praise them because I am familiar with only a small, limited number. But I will continue to oppose the rewarding of increased COLA's to this group until we can somehow manage to live within our means. It is my belief that those who are earning $25,000, $30,000, $35,000 per year can relate to this type of reasoning, and, for that matter, so should we all.

A VOTE FOR H.R. 3539 IS A VOTE
IN FAVOR OF RACE AND GENDER PREFERENCES

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under the Speaker's announced policy of May 12, 1995, the gentleman from Florida [Mr. CANADY] is recognized during morning business for 5 minutes.

Mr. CANADY of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I rise this afternoon to inform Members about an aspect of one of the bills on today's Suspension Calendar of which they may not be aware.

Today the House will consider, and tomorrow we will vote on, H.R. 3539, the Federal Aviation Authorization Act of 1996. For the most part, this bill merely authorizes the appropriation of new funds for various programs designed to improve our Nation's airports and airways. I have no objection to the funding provisions of this legislation.

But embedded within the programs we will be reauthorizing a regime of race and gender preferences that is both unconstitutional and profoundly unwise.

One of the programs we will be reauthorizing is the Airport Improvement Program. Under the AIP, airports applying for Federal funds in connection with an airport project must guarantee the Department of Transportation that at least 10 percent of all companies doing business at that airport will be owned by so-called "socially and economically disadvantaged individuals." The statute then proceeds to presume that women or members of certain racial minority groups are "socially and economically disadvantaged individuals."

Mr. Speaker, I can hardly imagine a more offensive example of Government-mandated group preferences. Under this AIP preference program, the Government is simply using its Federal dollars to force airport authorities to treat concessionaires differently based upon the skin color or sex of their ownership. You can have our money, we are telling them, but only if you agree to discriminate based on race and sex.

The bill we will vote on tomorrow reauthorizes these preference provisions without changing them in any way, so the unfortunate fact is that a vote in favor of H.R. 3539 constitutes an endorsement of racial and gender preferences.

To Members who are opposed in principle to group preferences, this is truly a troubling development. It was well over 1 year ago now that the Supreme Court held in the Adarand case that racial classifications are presumptively unconstitutional. The Clinton administration, of course, has fought tooth and nail to preserve preference programs, even to the point of pursuing a scorched Earth litigation strategy in defense of the most offensive racial set-aside schemes.

But Adarand strongly bolstered the expectation, highlighted by the results of the 1994 elections, that Congress would finally begin to remove the Federal Government from the business of classifying American citizens on the basis of skin color and sex.

But legislation that would have furthered that objective has stalled in Congress, and it now appears obvious that no legislation will move this session to repeal even a single Federal preference program.

It is bad enough, in my opinion, that we have failed to repeal existing preferences. But now we are moving in the opposite direction, for by voting to reauthorize the AIP preference provisions, we are actually extending and endorsing them.

This is a mistake for at least two powerful reasons. First, the preferences contained in the AIP are unconstitutional. In Adarand and other cases, the Supreme Court has made it clear that the Equal Protection clause prohibits the Government from classifying citizens on the basis of race unless the program is narrowly tailored to remedy proven instances of racial discrimination by the relevant governmental actors. The court has also held that the enacting authority, in this case Congress, must have had a strong basis in evidence to conclude that remedial action was necessary before it embarks on such race-based legislation.

The AIP preference provisions cannot meet these constitutional standards. They were added to the underlying statute during a floor debate in 1987. There was thus absolutely no effort to identify any discrimination that the requirements were designated to remedy. This conclusion is reinforced by the completely arbitrary nature of the 10-percent quota requirement.

I am sure the Clinton administration and other proponents of preferences will strain to come up with an argument in defense of the constitutionality of this program, but the simple fact is this: the AIP preference provisions are an example of the Government gratuitously requiring Federal grantees to engage in race and sex-conscious activity. This the Constitution forbids.

In the report accompanying H.R. 3539, the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure notes these potential constitutional problems, but then states a preference for leaving the issue to the courts to resolve. I do not believe such an abdication of responsibility is consistent with the oath we have taken as Members of Congress to uphold the Constitution. If we believe a program is unconstitutional, as I believe this one plainly is, then we should not vote to reauthorize it.

But even apart from its constitutional flaws, the preference provisions of the AIP constitute extremely unwise public policy. Simply stated, it is wrong for the Government to grant benefits and impose burdens based on skin color and sex. The fact is that Government-mandated group preferences necessarily send the message that it is both permissible and desirable to treat persons differently based on race and sex. That is not the sort of message our Federal Government should be sending. It is a message that will only reinforce prejudice and discrimination in our society.

Mr. Speaker, I understand that because this bill is on the suspension calendar, we will not have an opportunity to vote separately on whether to reauthorize these unconstitutional and unwise provisions. We should therefore defeat this bill so these offensive provisions will not be reenacted.

RECESS

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 12 of rule I, the House stands in recess until 2 p.m.

Accordingly (at 12 o'clock and 41 minutes p.m.), the House stood in recess until 2 p.m.

AFTER RECESS

The recess having expired, the House was called to order by the Speaker pro tempore (Ms. GREENE of Utah) at 2 p.m.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. James David Ford, D.D., offered the following prayer:

As we contemplate our lives and the lives of those people that we know, we realize how cluttered are the agendas of daily living and how hurried is the pace that each day brings. Yet, O gracious God, we are thankful that we have our vocations, our work, our responsibilities, and our tasks by which we can support ourselves and serve others in their need. We remember in our prayer those who have no work and yet who wish to use the abilities that You have given in ways that support themselves and those they love. As You have called us to do the works of justice in our world, so may we be appreciative of the opportunities we have to do the works of justice in our lives. In Your name, we pray. Amen.

THE JOURNAL

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair has examined the Journal of the last day's proceedings and announces to the House her approval thereof.

Pursuant to clause 1, rule I, the Journal stands approved.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from North Carolina [Mr. BALLENGER] come forward and lead the House in the Pledge of Allegiance.

Mr. BALLENGER led the Pledge of Allegiance as follows:

I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

APPOINTMENT OF MEMBERS TO JOINT CONGRESSIONAL COMMIT-TEE ON INAUGURAL CERE-MONIES

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Without objection, and pursuant to the provisions of Senate Concurrent Resolution 47, 104th Congress, the Chair announces the Speaker's appointment of the following Members of the House to the Joint Congressional Committee on Inaugural Ceremonies: Mr. GINGRICH of Georgia, Mr. ARMEY of Texas, and Mr. GEPHARDT of Missouri.

There was no objection.

SHAMELESS HUSTLING FOR VOTES IS MAKING A MOCKERY OF IMMIGRATION

(Mr. BALLENGER asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. BALLENGER. Madam Speaker, last Friday's Washington Times contained a front-page article which showed me just how far the President will go to win votes. The article claimed that the Clinton administration has pressured the Immigration and Naturalization Service to speed up the standards and background checks on applicants for citizenship and to ignore other requirements in order to naturalize as many immigrants as possible before the November elections.

By taking such shortcuts, the President is putting in danger the naturalization of immigrants with criminal records and other immigrants not qualified for citizenship.

In the past year 1.3 million people have become naturalized citizens, nearly three times the number of previous years. The reason for this is a Presidential initiative called Citizenship USA, which is supposed to help legal immigrants through the naturalization process. Instead, the program is being used as a campaign tool of the Clinton campaign in hopes of winning votes of these new citizens. Complying with the directives established by this program has some INS officials feeling like the campaign workers of INS.

Becoming a U.S. citizen is a great honor, and I suspect the President will indeed receive the reward he has envisioned, but I believe that shameless hustling for votes is making a mockery of our immigration.

CORRECTIONS DAY PROCESS IS RESPONSIVE GOVERNMENT

(Mr. EHRLICH asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. EHRLICH. Madam Speaker, I am pleased to rise today in support of H.R. 3056, the 18th bill brought to the floor of the House this session under the corrections day process.

Since the commencement of corrections day, the President has signed nine bills into law, and the House has passed eight bills that are waiting further action in the Senate.

The American people are demanding a more responsive government, and corrections day is a key part in meeting their demands. H.R. 3056 provides a technical correction to the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1985; it permits certain county-operated health insuring organizations in California to qualify as organizations exempt from certain otherwise applicable Medicaid requirements, even though they enroll Medicaid beneficiaries residing in another county.

I believe this bill we are considering today is a perfect example of how the corrections day process works to correct outdated regulations that place financial burdens on many industries in the United States.

I want to recognize Chairman BILLEY, Mr. RIGGS, and the Commerce Committee for the expedient and hard work they did to get this bill to the floor.

DRUG USE BY TEENAGERS IS A NATIONAL TRAGEDY

(Mr. WICKER asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. WICKER. Madam Speaker, drug use is up, and the response from the White House is a plea not to make an issue out of it. Our children are getting hooked earlier and at rates never before seen in the history of this Nation. Overall drug use among 12- to 17-year-olds is up 78 percent since 1992.

But look at these figures. In just 1 year, 1994 to 1995, marijuana use in the same age group is up 37 percent; LSD use, again in just 1 year, up 105 percent; cocaine use, 12- to 17-year-olds, from 1994 to 1995 is up 166 percent. This is a tragedy, a national tragedy. We are losing a generation of children right before our very eyes. Drugs destroy families and they destroy lives.

Madam Speaker, this is no time to run and hide. We need to make sure that children can grow up in an environment where cocaine, LSD, and pot-smoking are not part of their daily surroundings.

WHERE ARE THE CLINTON ADMINISTRATION'S PRIORITIES?

(Mr. RIGGS asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. RIGGS. Madam Speaker, I think we should remember 3 weeks ago the Clinton administration released a startling report on drug abuse. It showed increases in drug use of almost unbelievable proportions. In just 1 year cocaine use among 12- to 17-year-olds has increased 166 percent; one year, 166 percent. That is completely unacceptable.

But we have to realize that when we have a President who all but ignores this problem, it is no wonder that we have a soaring rate of drug use in America. Within just a few days of becoming President, President Clinton slashed the budget of the drug czar's office by 80 percent.

Madam Speaker, President Reagan and Mrs. Reagan proved the importance of a bully pulpit, using the Presidency as a bully pulpit. They set a standard of behavior for children of the eighties when they said, "Just say no." Today we have an administration that seems to be confused about what message they ought to deliver to our children.

It makes us wonder, Madam Speaker, where are this administration's priorities?

CORRECTIONS CALENDAR

The SPEAKER pro tempore. This is the day for the call of the Corrections Calendar.

The Clerk will call the bill on the Corrections Calendar.

COUNTY HEALTH ORGANIZATION EXEMPTION ACT

The Clerk called the bill (H.R. 3056) to permit a county-operated health insuring organization to qualify as an organization exempt from certain requirements otherwise applicable to health insuring organizations under the Medicaid program notwithstanding that the organization enrolls Medicaid beneficiaries residing in another county.

The Clerk read the bill, as follows:

H.R. 3056

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. PERMITTING COUNTY-OPERATED HEALTH INSURING ORGANIZATIONS TO ENROLL MEDICAID BENEFICIARIES RESIDING IN ANOTHER COUNTY UNDER MEDICAID WAIVER FOR CERTAIN COUNTY-OPERATED HEALTH INSURING ORGANIZATIONS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 9517(c)(3)(B)(ii) of the Consolidated Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1985 (42 U.S.C. 1396b note), as added by section 4734 of the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1990, is amended by inserting "or counties" after "county".

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendment made by subsection (a) shall apply to quarters beginning on or after October 1, 1996.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from California [Mr. MOORHEAD] and the gentleman from New Mexico [Mr. RICHARDSON] each will control 30 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from California [Mr. MOORHEAD].

Mr. MOORHEAD. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

(Mr. MOORHEAD asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. MOORHEAD. Madam Speaker, I rise in support of H.R. 3056.

This bill would allow a Health Insurance Organization to serve Medicaid beneficiaries residing in one or more counties. Current law, as interpreted by the Health Care Financing Administration, limits such coverage solely to the county in which an organization operates.

This bill redefines an eligible organization to be one that "enrolls all Medicaid beneficiaries residing in the county or counties in which it operates."

This will enable eligible health insurance organizations, including the Solano partnership health plan—which operates in Solano County, CA—to extend coverage to Medicaid recipients residing in counties other than that county in which their operations are based.

In the case of the Solano plan, coverage will be extended to 12,000 Medi-Cal recipients residing in Napa County. Since coverage costs for these organizations are lower than the average monthly payment for beneficiaries, the Congressional Budget Office estimates that this bill will save the Federal Government up to half a million dollars a year.

This bill is supported by Governor Wilson, the California Department of Health Services, and the Solano and Napa County Boards of Supervisors.

I especially want to commend the gentleman from California [Mr. RIGGS] for bringing this issue to the attention of the committee.

I urge the Members of the House to approve this bill.

Madam Speaker, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from California [Mr. RIGGS].

(Mr. RIGGS asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. RIGGS. Madam Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding time to me and for his leadership on the Committee on Commerce, and as my very good friend and colleague, the gentleman from California, and the dean of our delegation, and let me just say I hope we will have future opportunities in the next few weeks as we wrap up our legislative work, but I want to salute CARLOS MOORHEAD for his distinguished service in the Congress and tell him that he will be sorely missed in our ranks, and particularly as the dean of the California Republican congressional delegation.

Madam Speaker, I rise today in support of my legislation, H.R. 3056, a very simple bill that I introduced that makes a technical change to current Medicaid law as it applies to California and my congressional district. I want to thank the gentlewoman from Nevada, BARBARA VUCANOVICH, who is the chairwoman of the Speaker's Corrections Day advisory group, the gentleman from Virginia, TOM BLILEY, the chairman of the House Committee on Commerce, the gentleman from Florida, MICHAEL BILIRAKIS, from the Committee on Commerce, the gentleman from Florida, Mr. BARR, of the Committee on Commerce, the gentleman from California, Mr. WAXMAN, and the gentleman from Michigan, Mr. DINGELL, on the minority side, for their help on this legislation.

This is a very commonsense bill that would simply allow county health systems that are currently prohibited from providing Medicaid services to eligible recipients in other counties to do so. That is to say, it changes the law by making a technical modification to Medicaid HMO amendments included in the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1985, as amended by the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1990, by specifically inserting the phrase "or counties" after the word "county" in one place to clarify the intent of the law.

What this technical amendment does, of course, is allow a Medicaid HMO, in this case the Solano Partnership Health Plan, a nonprofit Medicaid HMO, to be able to expand out of its home county, its county of origin, if you will, Solano County, to a neighboring and adjacent county, Napa County, and in the process serve an additional 12,000 Medicaid recipients in my district.

This legislation, making technical amendments to the law, will provide those 12,000 Medicaid recipients with greater access and greater quality of medical and physician services. It will decrease the reliance on hospital emergency facilities for primary health care for Medicaid beneficiaries. The Congressional Budget Office has scored this legislation and found that it will actually save the taxpayers $500,000 annually.

The bill contains no private sector or intergovernmental mandates of any kind. This bill is health care reform at its finest. It offers the neediest of patients greater access to health care, decreases the administrative burden on providers, and allows for more efficient program management, which results in savings and cost containment.

Let me suggest to my colleagues that this is the wave or the trend of the future in Medicaid health care services to the truly indigent and desperately poor in our society, a very important part of the American safety net.

I happened, flying back yesterday to Washington from my California district, to read an article in USA Today, the headline of which is "Medicaid Outcome Will Affect All." The subheadline is "The Clinton Administration, Congress, and the Nation's Governors have failed to reach consensus on future of Medicaid. With caseloads rising, the States have had to step up."

The article starts out by saying, "President Clinton and Congress succeeded in revamping the Nation's antiquated welfare system" when we passed through this Congress a bipartisan welfare reform bill that the President signed into law just last month. And it goes on to say, "President Clinton and Congress succeeded in revamping the Nation's antiquated welfare system this year only by failing a more difficult test. Left in the wake of welfare reform is Medicaid, the health insurance program for the poor, which dwarfs welfare in both caseload and cost."

Clearly, Medicaid in recent years, Medicaid expenditures, have been growing at an unsustainable rate. Because this is a 50-50 cost-shared program between Federal taxpayers and State taxpayers, State taxpayers and State government has been asked to pick up an ever-increasing portion of Medicaid health care cost in America. The program cries out for reform.

As I mentioned, I believe that the wave of the future in the Medicaid services and in trying to control Medicaid costs is managed care plans such as the Solano partnership health plan.

Presently today in America, nearly one-third of all Medicaid recipients are in managed care plans. Those States that have aggressively, those States that have aggressively experimented and expanded Medicaid managed care programs have realized a significant cost savings.

Michigan, for example, has put 80 percent of its Medicaid recipients into managed care and cut inflation, the growth of health care cost, from 11 percent to 1 percent in 1 year. To quote health policy adviser Vernon Smith for the Engler administration in Michigan, "These are real savings." So again, Madam Speaker, I believe it is unfortunate we have not been successful in enacting more ambitious or more broad-based Medicaid reform in this session of Congress, but I submit that this legislation is perhaps the only meaningful Medicaid reform that we will be able to enact in the 104th Congress.

Again I want to thank the gentleman for being so gracious in yielding me the time today. I want to reiterate, as he said, that this legislation is supported by Governor Pete Wilson, the California State Department of Health Services, and many other organizations in California. This bill is health care reform at its finest. As I mentioned before, this is going to expand access to and quality of health care for 12,000 Medicaid recipients in my district. I urge my colleagues to vote in favor of this legislation.

Mr. RICHARDSON. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

(Mr. RICHARDSON asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. RICHARDSON. Madam Speaker, we have no objection to the policy change in H.R. 3056. The bill was marked up in our Committee on Commerce in July with no controversy. As I think the gentleman from California [Mr. MOORHEAD] described the bill, what we are doing here is allowing the Solano Partnership Health Plan, which currently operates in Solano County, CA to enroll Medicaid beneficiaries residing in neighboring Napa County.

What we do question, Madam Speaker, is why is the Republican leadership choosing to move this bill on the Corrections Calendar? This should be on suspension. A correction implies that some mistake was made. What I understand we are doing in this bill is to expand a special exemption for Medicaid requirements that California obtained for three of its HMO's in 1990.

This is a policy change. I would think that it should be part of the Suspension Calendar. Now we have it in corrections. That provisions in the 1990 reconciliation bill intentionally limited this Solano Managed Care Organization and two others in California to providing services only to residents of the respective counties in which they operated because at the time this was an experiment.

Madam Speaker, there is no reason today that this legislation could not have been handled with less attention and less fanfare on the regular Suspension Calendar. So why the special attention? Our colleague, the gentleman from California [Mr. RIGGS], is a good Member. He is my friend. We serve on some committees together. But why are we hiding this useful but largely insignificant piece of legislation on the Corrections Day Calendar?

We are left wondering on this side whether it is simply a reason to make my good friend look good, which he many times, I am sure, deserves, but we are acting here in good faith. So I am going to remain perplexed and ask some of my colleagues to explain why we are doing it this way. I think we have to be very careful about how we use corrections day.

Again, I do not object to the policy in this bill. We should be handling this bill together with the other 14 small, noncontroversial bills taken up under suspension of the rules. I have been here 14 years. I have never had a corrections bill.

Madam Speaker, I support passage of this legislation, but I would urge our friends in the Republican leadership to confine the use of corrections day to corrections, not use it for expansion of special exemptions in current law to benefit specific constituents of specific Members.

Madam Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. MOORHEAD. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume. I would just make one comment, that in the meeting of the Committee on Commerce, the gentleman from California [Mr. WAXMAN], who was the chairman of the subcommittee during the last Congress and is the ranking member of it this time, said he hoped he would see the bill on the Corrections Day Calendar. So the Republican leadership was basically following his advice.

Madam Speaker, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from Maryland [Mr. EHRLICH].

Mr. EHRLICH. Madam Speaker, I regret my colleague is perplexed. Maybe I can help him out as a representative of the Speaker's Corrections Day Committee, which is a bipartisan organization, as my colleague well knows.

This is the classic example why corrections day was put together by the Speaker and this leadership. H.R. 3056 is very narrow in scope. It is certainly bipartisan in nature. Not only is the gentleman from California [Mr. WAXMAN] a member of the Committee on Commerce, but he is a member of the bipartisan group which constitutes in fact the corrections day advisory group.

This bill is a technical, commonsense bill that actually saves the taxpayers money. It is what corrections day and the entire process of corrections day is all about. It proves to the American people that this House is capable of doing things expeditiously and fairly when called upon.

Mr. RICHARDSON. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Let me continue this dialog, because the reason I am here representing the Committee on Commerce is because former Chairman WAXMAN, former Chairman DINGELL, object to this procedure. I was asked by the committee to represent the views of the minority members of the Committee on Commerce—Chairman HENRY WAXMAN is the ranking minority member; the gentleman from Michigan, JOHN DINGELL, is the ranking minority member of the full committee—and their concern with this procedure.

If I could ask my colleague, are we not talking about this legislation being a specific policy change in effect for certain beneficiaries in a State? Is that not correct? Are we not talking about a policy change?

Mr. EHRLICH. Madam Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. RICHARDSON. I yield to the gentleman from Maryland.

Mr. EHRLICH. The answer is certainly yes, but that is not exclusive of the jurisdiction maintained by the corrections committee. I missed the point the gentleman is making. I can reiterate the fact that whenever a corrections day bill is reported out of the Corrections Day Committee to the standing subcommittee of the House, it is done in a bipartisan way. Certainly this bill was done in a likewise manner, in a bipartisan way. I remain concerned on this side as to why the gentleman is perplexed.

Mr. RICHARDSON. Madam Speaker, let me be perfectly candid. A corrections day implies a mistake. This is not a mistake. This is policy change.

Would the gentleman explain to me where the mistake occurred? If we pass a piece of legislation, it is to advance a policy. The implication is, and the gentleman knows, that a Corrections Day Calendar is to correct a mistake. Where is a mistake in this legislation?

Mr. EHRLICH. If the gentleman will yield further, I believe the gentleman is actually mistaken with respect to his interpretation of the Corrections Day Committee and the Corrections Day Calendar. It is simply not limited to mistakes. It certainly can include mistakes, but it also concerns Federal regulations that may in fact have not been mistakes when they were originally promulgated but no longer make sense given the passage of time or the change of circumstances concerning any particular Federal agency. So the answer to the gentleman's inquiry is that certainly mistakes can be taken care of on the Corrections Day Calendar but the Corrections Day Calendar is not limited to, quote-unquote, "mistakes."

Mr. RICHARDSON. Madam Speaker, I remain very perplexed. The gentleman keeps talking about bipartisanship. Policywise, bipartisanshipwise, we are going to support the gentleman from California [Mr. RIGGS], but procedurally I am here to object to the use of this procedure in the Corrections Day Calendar.

I wish my colleague would stop saying about a bipartisan agreement on the process. We are going to support this bill, but I just think that this is highly unusual. There are several suspensions. Would the gentleman answer this question; I do not know if he is on the rules, and maybe it is unfair to ask him: Why is this bill not on the Suspension Calendar? On the 14 bills that we will be doing later today, why is this on corrections and not on suspension?

Mr. EHRLICH. If the gentleman will yield further, those decisions are made at a higher level than where I sit, as the gentleman well knows. But, quite frankly, in view of my membership on the Corrections Day committee and my personal knowledge as to the way the Corrections Day advisory committee operates, we certainly have not had this problem, and this committee has now been operating for well over a year.

Mr. RICHARDSON. I thank the gentleman. I just want to raise this. We support what the gentleman from California [Mr. RIGGS] is trying to do. This is again a major policy change. As the committee of jurisdiction, we will not object. We just would like to be consulted when these procedures take place. I would not be sitting here or standing here. Chairmen WAXMAN and DINGELL are not here. I was asked on their behalf to please voice these objections. This is why I am here.

Mr. MOORHEAD. Madam Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. RICHARDSON. I yield to the gentleman from California.

Mr. MOORHEAD. Madam Speaker, I obviously do not have any choice one way or the other in the operation of the House, but this is a good measure. It is something that will do good for the country. I appreciate very much the gentleman from New Mexico's support for what we are trying to do even though he does not like the way it is being done. I ask for an aye vote on the bill.

Mr. RICHARDSON. The gentleman as usual is very persuasive, and he is a very fine Member. I just want to make my point.

Madam Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. MOORHEAD. Madam Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Ms. GREENE of Utah). Pursuant to the rule, the previous question is ordered.

The question is on the engrossment and third reading of the bill.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed and read a third time, and was read the third time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the passage of the bill.

The question was taken; and (three-fifths having voted in favor thereof) the bill was passed.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. MOORHEAD. Madam Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks and to include extraneous material on H.R. 3056, the bill just passed.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from California?

There was no objection.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the provisions of clause 5 of rule I, the Chair announces that she will postpone further proceedings today on each motion to suspend the rules on which a recorded vote or the yeas and nays are ordered, or on which the vote is objected to under clause 4 of rule XV. Such rollcall votes, if postponed, will be taken on Wednesday, September 11, 1996.

MONITORING OF STUDENT RIGHT TO KNOW AND CAMPUS SECURITY ACT OF 1990

Mr. GOODLING. Madam Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and agree to the resolution (H. Res. 470) expressing the sense of the Congress that the Department of Education should play a more active role in monitoring and enforcing compliance with the provisions of the Higher Education Act of 1965 related to campus crime.

H. RES. 470

Whereas crime on our Nation's college campuses is a growing concern among students, parents, and educators;

Whereas Congress passed the Student Right to Know and Campus Security Act in 1990 so that students and parents would have access to information with respect to crimes occurring on college campuses;

Whereas Congress intended that information on crime be provided so that students could take steps to protect themselves from becoming victims;

Whereas Congress was particularly concerned with the timely reporting to students instances of violent crimes occurring on campus; and

Whereas questions have been raised with respect to compliance with the Campus Security Act and enforcement by the Department of Education: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That in order for students to have information vital for their own safety on our Nation's college campuses, it is the sense of the Congress that the Department of Education should make the monitoring of compliance and enforcement of the provisions of section 485(f) of the Higher Education Act of 1965 with respect to compiling and disseminating required crime statistics and campus policies a priority.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. GOODLING] and the gentleman from Michigan [Mr. KILDEE] each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. GOODLING].

Mr. GOODLING. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Today we are considering House Resolution 470, expressing the sense of the Congress that the Department of Education should make the monitoring of compliance and enforcement of the Crime Awareness and Campus Safety Security Act a priority.

It is most appropriate that we consider this legislation at this time. This is the time of year when tens of thousands of young people are filling college and university campuses throughout the United States.

Many of these students are away from home for the first time. They are excited. They are thinking of the friends they will meet, the classes they will take, school activities in which they will participate, and other thoughts which normally fill the minds of college students.

Few, if any, of them are thinking that they could be the victim of a crime on campus. And this is where the problem begins. Colleges and universities are not safe, carefree havens from the outside world. The same crimes which occur in our neighborhoods and on our city streets take place on college campuses. Students are robbed, they are raped, and they are murdered, and many times by other students and many times under the influence of alcohol and other drugs.

The Crime Awareness and Campus Security Act was first signed into law by President Bush on November 8, 1990. It requires institutions of higher education participating in the title IV student aid programs to provide yearly statistics to students, faculty and prospective students with respect to the number of crimes reported on campus in the following categories: Murder, forcible and non-forcible sex offenses, robbery, aggravated assault, burglary, and motor vehicle theft.

In addition to the reporting of statistics, institutions must make timely reports to the campus community of those crimes considered to be a threat to other students and employees in order to aid in the prevention of further crimes on campus.

Crime on college campuses is a very serious problem. Witnesses testifying at a June hearing on campus crime before the Subcommittee on Postsecondary Education, Training and Life-long Learning agreed that crime is a major concern of students, parents and college administrators.

During this hearing, several witnesses called into question the Department of Education's commitment to enforcing compliance with the Campus Security Act. In part, their concerns were based on a quote by the Assistant Secretary for the Office of Postsecondary Education which appeared in the New York Times on January 7, 1996. When asked about enforcement of the Campus Security Act, the Assistant Secretary said, "We aren't going to essentially establish a major monitoring effort in this area."

I share the concerns expressed by those witnesses, and I would like to remind the Assistant Secretary that this law was enacted for a reason. Students were being raped, murdered, and robbed on our Nation's campuses, and this information was being hidden from other students. Students who are provided information on crime on campuses can and will take steps to protect themselves. If they are not informed, they can become victims of campus crime.

The Department of Education must make certain that institutions are complying with the Campus Security Act. Safety of students must be the No. 1 priority. If the Department of Education fails to fulfill its enforcement responsibilities, we will have to consider other measures aimed at improving safety awareness on our college campuses.

One such measure under consideration is the Open Campus Police Logs Act of 1995. This bill, introduced by the gentleman from Tennessee [Mr. DUNCAN], would require institutions of higher education to maintain a daily log of all crimes reported to their police or security department, and make such logs open to public inspection.

All of us must work together to ensure campus safety for our college students, but we cannot do this if the law is not being enforced. I would urge my colleagues to support passage of House Resolution 470.

Madam Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. KILDEE. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Madam Speaker, I rise in support of House Resolution 470, expressing the sense of Congress that the Department of Education should play a more active role in monitoring and enforcing compliance of the Student Right to Know and Campus Security Act of 1990, signed into law by President George Bush.

I have always been a strong supporter of the Student Right to Know and Campus Security Act since it was enacted 6 years ago, and believe that it is important for the Department of Education to make the enforcement of this act a priority. This law was enacted in order to highlight the issue of crime on campus and to make information about campus crime and campus security policies available to the public.

This law also provides incentives for institutions to develop safer campus environments. I am certain that this issue will be revisited again during the reauthorization of the Higher Education Act next Congress, when we evaluate this program and its effectiveness.

We must continue to do all we can to protect students from crime on our Nation's college campuses, and I urge my colleagues to support this resolution.

Madam Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. GOODLING. Madam Speaker, I yield 4 minutes to the gentlewoman from Maryland [Mrs. MORELLA].

Mrs. MORELLA. Madam Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding me time.

Madam Speaker, I rise in strong support of House Resolution 470. This important measure calls our attention to the problem of crime on our college campuses and sends a message to the Department of Education to make enforcement of the Campus Security Act a top priority.

I commend Chairman BILL GOODLING for his commitment to our Nation's students, from kindergarten through high school, in transition from school to the job market, and on college campuses in pursuit of a higher education. He is a man who believes that every child in America deserves the best education possible in a safe environment.

Congressman GOODLING introduced legislation during the 101st Congress that was incorporated into the Campus Security Act to require schools that receive title IV student aid to compile and distribute campus crime data. It is essential that the Department of Education promote safety awareness by enforcing compliance with the Campus Security Act. Students must be informed about crimes that have been committed on their college campus so they can take precautions to prevent further crimes from occurring.

At the University of Maryland, President William Kirwan recently approved a plan to install video surveillance cameras on the College Park Campus. This decision followed five armed robberies committed on campus early in the year.

There also has been an increase in the number of rapes at the university. As cochair of the Congressional Caucus on Women's Issues, I have long been a fighter of violence against women. During the reauthorization of the Higher Education Act, the Campus Security Act was amended to require institutions to develop a policy regarding sexual assaults. Indeed, it is a necessity that the Department of Education enforce compliance with this provision.

Listen to these statistics: one forcible rape is reported to police every 5 minutes; an estimated 167,000 women were raped each year between 1979 and 1987; the U.S. Department of Justice estimates that 1 out of 500 women will be a victim of rape by a stranger during her lifetime.

Although these statistics are not limited to college campuses, they do focus the need for institutions to keep their students well-informed about campus crimes. They especially focus attention on the need for schools to develop policies regarding campus anticrime programs aimed at preventing sexual assaults.

I was one of the sponsors of the Violence Against Women Act [VAWA], provisions of which were incorporated into the crime bill during the 103d Congress. One of those provisions calls for a national baseline study on campus sexual assaults. This study would examine the scope of the problem of campus assaults and the effectiveness of institutional policies in addressing such crimes and protecting the victims. Enforcement of the Campus Security Act by the Department of Education would facilitate the baseline study on campus sexual assaults.

The litmus test of the 90's will be how we restore security and physical safety to our youth and to our citizens, in our homes and in our schools. We, in Congress, are constantly engaged in heated debate about most issues. However, I think that we can all agree that support for House Resolution 470 is essential and that the Department of Education should actively enforce compliance with the Campus Security Act.

Mr. GOODLING. Madam Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. ENGLISH].

Mr. ENGLISH of Pennsylvania. Madam Speaker, I rise in strong support of House Resolution 470. In my view, it is imperative that the Department of Education actively enforce compliance of the Campus Crime and Security Awareness Act, an important tool in ensuring our young people's safety at colleges and universities.

Students should be worrying about exams and term papers, not their personal safety on campus. Unfortunately, what we have seen as a general trend is that campus crime has been on the rise. It is imperative that students, faculty, and parents are aware of the number of crimes reported on campus within the prior year. This is important life-saving information.

The 101st Congress enacted into law the Campus Crime and Security Awareness Act as part of the Student Right-to-Know and Campus Security Act. This legislation requires that any school receiving title IV funding report to any faculty, student, and prospective students that request it a yearly number of crimes reported.

Schools are required to report in a timely fashion to the campus community on those crimes which could pose a threat to other students or faculty. This offers students, the institutions and the campus community an opportunity to exchange information and take precautions to prevent future crimes.

The Department of Education, in my view, should take an active role in monitoring compliance of the Campus Security Act to ensure that colleges and universities do everything possible to make campuses a safe and secure learning environment.

Madam Speaker, I urge my colleagues to vote in favor of this important resolution.

Mr. KILDEE. Madam Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentlewoman from Oregon [Ms. FURSE].

Ms. FURSE. Madam Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding me time.

I rise in strong support of House Resolution 470. This legislation expresses the sense of Congress of the importance of requiring colleges and universities to receive title IV student aid to provide yearly crime statistics. Students, parents, administrators, faculty, prospective students and the communities surrounding these campuses have a right to know the crime rate.

In 1990, Congress passed the Student Right to Know and Campus Security Act. This was to give students, parents and employees access to information on campus crimes. In addition, institutes of higher learning were required to make timely reports to the college community of crimes committed that are considered a threat to employees and students.

Unfortunately, this legislation has not been as strictly enforced as it should be. House Resolution 470 expresses the sense of Congress that we must make a priority of reporting crime statistics on college campuses. The Department of Education needs to be more active in overseeing and administering these laws, as campus crime is a concern we all share, whether we live in Oregon or any other State of this great country.

This legislation will allow those that live and work around college campuses to take the necessary measures to avoid becoming victims themselves. Please join me and vote "yes" on House Resolution 470.

Mr. GOODLING. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Madam Speaker, I would like at this point to appeal to all the presidents of colleges and universities to stand tall and be firm against those who would pressure them, be they coaches on the campus or alumni. There is no excuse for some outstanding athlete to go free after battering women or committing rape or breaking laws in relationship to alcohol and other drugs. To use the excuse that you are trying to save that individual cannot be used when you are thinking about the other thousands who are there.

As a high school principal and superintendent, many times I would have liked to have turned my head on something that someone may have done to try to give that person still one more chance, but you always have to realize what kind of an example does that set for the other 5,000 or 6,000 or 7,000 for whom you have a responsibility?

So when we think about campus crime, we also have to think in terms of getting those who are leading those institutions to stand tall against tremendous pressure, I realize that, from coaches and from the alumni associations.

Mr. McKEON. Madam Speaker, today, the House will consider House Resolution 470 which deals with the Student Right to Know and Campus Security Act.

The Student Right to Know and Campus Security Act signed into law by President Bush required colleges and universities throughout the United States to provide their students information on campus crime statistics and school policies related to campus security. This was a first step in providing students necessary information if they were to protect themselves from becoming victims of campus crime.

During the course of a hearing held in June by the Subcommittee on Postsecondary Education, Training and Life-Long Learning which I chair, some concerns were raised that colleges and universities were not accurately reporting crime statistics. In addition, several witnesses did not believe that the Department of Education considered the enforcement of the Campus Security Act a priority.

Since that June hearing, I have been in contact with Secretary Riley with respect to enforcement of the Campus Security Act. The resolution before the House today, puts our support on the record for the actions we insist Secretary Riley take with respect to improving and ensuring compliance with the Campus Security Act.

We intend to keep a close watch on this issue. I think that we all agree that it is imperative that colleges and universities comply with the Campus Security Act if we are going to accomplish our goal of protecting students.

I would also like to submit for the RECORD a letter received from the International Association of Campus Law Enforcement Administrators [IACLEA] in support of House Resolution 470.

INTERNATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF CAMPUS LAW ENFORCEMENT AD-MINISTRATORS,

Hartford, CT, July 30, 1996.

Hon. WILLIAM GOODLING,

U.S. House of Representatives, Washington, DC.

DEAR CONGRESSMAN GOODLING: It is my pleasure to write to express support for House Resolution 470 on behalf of the International Association of Campus Law Enforcement Administrators and current IACLEA President Yvon McNicoll of the University of Ottawa.

IACLEA exists to promote the common interest in, and public education concerning, the administration of law enforcement programs including the operation and development of life safety and property safety programs on college and university campuses. It has long been the position of our Association that statistical information developed from campus law enforcement records and crime reports should be made available to the members of the community, and that an awareness of criminal incidents which are occurring will enable community members to take appropriate precautions to avoid becoming victims themselves.

Although not perfect, the provisions of section 485(f) of the Higher Education Act of 1965 with respect to compiling and disseminating campus crime statistics and security policies represent a reasonable prescription for the framework of a program of safety awareness at postsecondary institutions. Many college and university security awareness programs go well beyond the minimum provisions established by statute, but there is undoubtedly room for improvement in some quarters. An active program of compliance monitoring on the part of the US Department of Education should lead to better information exchange regarding the intent of the statute and the identification of approaches which could serve as models for institutions whose campus security programs may benefit from enhancement.

IACLEA would be pleased to assist in this endeavor in any possible.

Sincerely,

DOUGLAS F. TUTTLE,

Immediate Past President, IACLEA.

Mr. DUNCAN. Madam Speaker, I rise in strong support of this resolution. I believe it is very important that we provide the public access to information about the crime on the campuses of our Nation's colleges and universities.

When a family chooses to move to a new town or city, they base that decision on many factors including crime rates. When a family begins to decide what college or university they will choose, they also should have the right to know about the crime rate of that area.

I have been working very hard with my colleagues on this issue. In fact, I introduced legislation, the Open Campus Police Logs Act of 1995, which would require colleges and universities to maintain a daily log of all crimes committed and make these logs available for public inspection.

This resolution, of which I am a cosponsor, will ensure that the Department of Education enforces the Campus Security Act that requires institutions to make crime statistics available on a yearly basis.

I certainly believe this is a step in the right direction.

Many States have already enacted laws which require colleges and universities to make crime statistics public. I believe every mother and father in this country should have the right to know whether or not the school they are sending their child to is a safe one.

I think that each student should be able to know what kind of crimes have been committed on his or her campus. I also believe they should have access to information that will tell them where these crimes are committed. This will only help each individual student to take the necessary safety precautions to protect him or herself.

Madam Speaker, I want to thank my colleagues for their hard work on this issue.

I urge the passage of this resolution, and I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. GOODLING. Madam Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. KILDEE. Madame Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Ms. GREENE of Utah). The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. GOODLING] that the House suspend the rules and agree to the resolution, House Resolution 470.

The question was taken.

Mr. GOODLING. Madam Speaker, on that I demand the yeas and nays.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 5, rule I, and the Chair's prior announcement, further proceedings on this motion will be postponed.

STUDENT DEBT REDUCTION ACT OF 1996

Mr. GOODLING. Madam Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the bill (H.R. 3863) to amend the Higher Education Act of 1965 to permit lenders under the unsubsidized Federal Family Education Loan Program to pay origination fees on behalf of borrowers, as amended.

The Clerk will read as follows:

H.R. 3863

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the "Student Debt Reduction Act of 1996".

SEC. 2. UNSUBSIDIZED STUDENT LOANS.

(a) AMENDMENT.—Paragraph (1) of section 428H(f) of the Higher Education Act of 1965 (20 U.S.C. 1078-8(f)(1)) is amended to read as follows:

"(1) AMOUNT OF ORIGINATION FEE.—Except as provided in paragraph (5), an origination fee shall be paid to the Secretary with respect to each loan under this section in the amount of 3.0 percent of the principal amount of the loan. Each lender under this section is authorized to charge the borrower for such origination fee, provided that the lender assesses the same fee to all student borrowers. Any such fee charged to the borrower shall be deducted proportionately from each installment payment of the proceeds of the loan prior to payment to the borrower."

(b) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—Section 428H(f) of such Act is further amended—

(1) in paragraph (3), by striking "the origination fee" and inserting "any origination fee that is charged to the borrower";

(2) in paragraph (4), by striking "origination fees authorized to be collected from borrowers" and inserting "origination fees required under paragraph (1)"; and

(3) by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

"(6) EXCEPTION.—Notwithstanding paragraph (1), a lender may assess a lesser origination fee for a borrower demonstrating greater financial need as determined by such borrower's adjusted gross family income."

(c) REPORT ON COMPETITIVE ALLOCATION.—Within 60 days after the date of enactment of this Act, the Secretary of Education shall submit to each House of the Congress a legislative proposal that would permit the Secretary to allocate the right to make subsidized and unsubsidized student loans on the basis of competitive bidding. Such proposal shall include provision to ensure that any payments received from such competitive bidding are equally allocated to deficit reduction and to pro rata reduction of origination fees in both guaranteed and direct student loans.

SEC. 3. STUDY OF LOAN FEES.

(a) STUDY REQUIRED.—The Secretary of Education shall conduct a statistical analysis of the subsidized and unsubsidized student loan programs under part B of title IV of the Higher Education Act of 1965 to gather data on lenders' use of loan fees and to determine if there are any anomalies that would indicate any institutional, programmatic or socioeconomic discrimination in the assessing or waiving such fees.

(b) REPORT.—The Secretary of Education shall submit to each House of the Congress a report on the study required by subsection

(a) within 2 years after the date of enactment of this Act.

(c) STATISTICAL CHARACTERISTICS TO BE STUDIED.—In conducting the study required by subsection (a), the Secretary of Education shall compare recipients of loans on the basis of income, residence location, type and location of higher education, program of instruction and type of lender.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. GOODLING] and the gentleman from Michigan [Mr. KILDEE] each will control 20 minutes.

Mr. GOODLING. Madam Speaker, I yield myself what time I may consume and would preface my remarks by saying, as the last bill, here is another bill that is a bipartisan bill coming from my committee. Seems that every day we are here with a bipartisan effort coming from my committee.

Today we are taking up the Student Debt Reduction Act of 1996. This bill will allow student loan lenders or any other interested party to pay the origination fees charged to students who borrow unsubsidized Stafford Loans. This practice is already allowed for subsidized Stafford Loans, but a Department of Education ruling has prohibited this benefit to students who borrow unsubsidized Stafford Loans. By enacting this bill, we are simply extending the same benefits to unsubsidized loan borrowers.

It is rather timely that we should be considering this bill today, just as millions of students are making their way to college campuses all across the country. And as they make their way, we are all painfully aware of their growing concern about paying the bills for tuition, room and board, books and basic living necessities. This bill aims to ease some of that concern by getting more cash in the hands of students.

Madam Speaker, anyone who reads the newspaper or watches television knows that college costs are a growing concern among families. A recent GAO study of college costs found that tuition at 4-year public colleges and universities has increased 234 percent over the last 14 years. Compare that to median household income which rose 82 percent and the Consumer Price Index which rose only 74 percent over the same time period, and it is easy to understand the growing concern over the cost of a college education.

That is why I am especially pleased that my committee reported out the Student Debt Reduction Act by a unanimous vote of 34 yeas to 0 noes. This bill fosters competition among student loan lenders which directly results in monetary benefits to students. For example, a student who borrows an unsubsidized loan of $6,625 receives an upfront fee reduction of $198.75. If this same student borrows the maximum allowed for an unsubsidized loan over 4 years of college, the fee reduction will amount to $1,053.75. That is cash in students hands that can be used for educational expenses.

In addition to these savings, this House approved another increase to the Pell grant program in addition to last year's increase so that students may receive the highest Pell grant maximum in the history of the program. This House also approved a $68 million increase for the work study program so that more students may obtain job related experience while enrolled in college. Efforts such as these simply reaffirm our commitment to higher education in this country.

In conclusion, I just want to talk briefly about the impact of this legislation on students in Pennsylvania. A program to help students and their families operated for 1 year before the Department of Education issued its ruling with respect to unsubsidized loans. That program helped 36,929 students from families with incomes under $21,000 by paying a portion of the originating fees. Those students had an extra $2.1 million to use toward their college education expenses.

In Pennsylvania, the program will continue on for 27,601 of those students. Unfortunately, without this legislation, 9,328 needy students who received unsubsidized loans will not be allowed to benefit from the program and will be forced to pay higher up-front fees. There is no reason this should happen. We have an opportunity to see that it does not by voting for the Student Debt Reduction Act.

Madam Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. KILDEE. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Madam Speaker, I rise in support of H.R. 3863, the Student Debt Reduction Act, even though I continue to have reservations about the timing of the legislation in light of the upcoming reauthorization of the Higher Education Act next year.

My colleagues on the other side of the aisle claim this bill corrects a simple technical problem, but I believe it does much more than that. This legislation has the admirable intent of reducing college costs for students, which I am always in favor of, but it also has significant policy implications for student loan programs which have not been examined at either subcommittee or full committee levels.

Throughout the country, students and their families are facing increasing college costs and declining Federal aid. Democrats, Madam Speaker, have always been supportive of expanding opportunities for all students in Federal financial aid programs. I, for one, would like to see the elimination of this loan origination fee altogether and will make this a priority issue during next year's reauthorization.

Madam Speaker, I am concerned that this bill as written would permit lenders to pay origination fees for some students but would not provide this same opportunity for students who receive loans under the direct loan program. We should have a level playing field in the student loan arena, and this bill upsets that equal ground, I believe.

Despite its flaws, however, this legislation has the potential, Madam Speaker, of lowering college costs for students, and I urge my colleagues to support it.

Madam Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. GOODLING. Madam speaker, I yield myself 30 seconds just to say that, if there was ever a time to try to level the playing field, it is now, because the direct lending advocates in the White House have made it very clear that they are going to do everything they possibly can to eliminate every other possibility.

So this will be leveling that playing field that they have positively piled up rocks and mounds and so on to make sure that any other program cannot succeed.

Madam Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. GREENWOOD, a member of the committee.

Mr. GREENWOOD. Madam Speaker, I thank the chairman of the full committee for yielding me this time.

Madam Speaker, H.R. 3863, the Student Debt Reduction Act of 1996, will allow students to receive lower-cost unsubsidized student loans by permitting lenders in the Federal Family Education Loan Program to waive or reduce origination fees. The savings to our students may be the full origination fee, which is 3 percent of the total loan amount.

Since budgetary concerns are paramount today, as they should be, it is important to note that H.R. 3863 is budget neutral. It will not increase or decrease the amount of student fee revenues collected and transmitted to the Federal Government, but it will increase the amount of funds transmitted to our hard-working middle-class college students and their families.

Republicans in Congress are working to make college more affordable for middle-class families struggling to afford their children the opportunity provided by a college degree, and this bill is an excellent example of our work.

Madam Speaker, current law states that a lender may charge a student borrower an origination fee on a subsidized student loan but shall charge a student borrower of an unsubsidized loan. This bill will close a loophole in the law by allowing lenders to treat unsubsidized loans the same as subsidized loans and in the process permit struggling middle-class families and students the same return as lower-income borrowers.

Under this bill we will allow the full amount of the student loan to flow to middle-class students, we can encourage competition among student loan lenders, and we can guarantee that the type of relief permitted under a subsidized loan will now be permitted under an unsubsidized loan.

This is a commonsense plan to put money in the pockets of students to pay educational expenses.

Madam Speaker, the bottom line of this bill is fairly straightforward. It is good business for banks to make these loans. They are guaranteed by the Federal Government, and they profit from the interest paid by the students. Because it is good business and attractive business for the banks, we think this provision will allow them to compete for the business by offering to waive all or part of the 3 percent loan. And for a student borrowing the maximum amount for 4 years, that thousand dollar difference can mean a great difference in the ability of that student to have the books and the other resources needed for their education. For that reason, I rise to support H.R. 3863.

Mr. GOODLING. Madam Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from California [Mr. RIGGS], another member of the committee.

Mr. RIGGS. Madam Speaker, I have to tell my colleagues that I am genuinely confused with this legislation on the floor today, because I would have sworn I have been seeing and hearing radio and television ads in my congressional district and in congressional districts around the country, of course all held by incumbent Republicans, run by the AFL-CIO, the big labor bosses of the AFL-CIO based back here in Washington, who have practically become the campaign arm of the national Democratic Party and the Clinton reelection campaign, accusing us of cutting funding for student loans.

So I am genuinely confused. I thought our 7-year plan for balancing the Federal budget increased taxpayer funding for student loans by 50 percent, or $12 billion, from $24 billion today to $36 billion 7 years from now.

As the chairman just pointed out, we have increased funding for the maximum Pell Grant award to the highest level in our country's history. We have level funded the TRIO Program for college-bound minorities. And today we bring this legislation, the Student Debt Reduction Act, to the floor, which allows lenders in the student loan program to pay origination fees charged to students who obtain unsubsidized, that is to say a situation where the student is responsible for the interest, to pay origination fees charged to students who obtain unsubsidized Stafford loans.

Madam Speaker, this bill is good legislation. It increases competition in the student loan program, and it lowers costs for college students, making a college education for all Americans more accessible and more affordable.

So, Madam Speaker, I am very confused. To hear the rhetoric that has been coming out of Washington by the national Democratic Party and their liberal special interest allies, one would be led to believe that all we have been doing is cutting or gutting taxpayer funding for student financial aid, when nothing could be further from the truth.

Republicans do care about making a college education more affordable for our young people. We realize it is a good investment, a farsighted investment of the taxpayer's dollar. That is why we have made that in fact a priority in this session of Congress, the rhetoric of our colleagues notwithstanding.

All I would say in conclusion is that those who want to continue to maintain that we are cutting taxpayer funding for student financial aid ought to go back to school because they cannot do their math.

Mr. GOODLING. Madam Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Pennsylvania, Chairman CLINGER.

Mr. CLINGER. Madam Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding me this time. Let me first commend my distinguished colleague from Pennsylvania, Chairman GOODLING, for bringing this very important legislation before us today and for his long leadership on education issues throughout his tenure in Congress. He has made a great contribution to improving education in this country at all levels.

I also want to recognize my fellow sponsors of the bill, the gentleman from Pennsylvania, Congressmen GREENWOOD, FATTAH, and GEKAS, the gentleman from California, Mr. MCKEON, the gentleman from Illinois, Mr. FAWELL, and others for their commitment to our Nation's students.

I am pleased to share my support for the Student Debt Reduction Act of 1996. The bill brings together two issues that have had the highest priority, my highest priority during my 18 years in Congress: education and debt reduction. There is no greater gift to our young people than an education. By reducing individual cost to students, we are giving students the chance to focus on their education instead of how they are going to pay for it.

Specifically, the bill allows lenders in the student loan program to pay origination fees charged to students who obtain unsubsidized Stafford, so-called Stafford loans, and in so doing we are lowering the cost to students and increasing competition within the student loan program by making unsubsidized loans an equal player, all while adding no cost, repeat, no cost to the Federal Government.

So as a Congressman who represents literally countless higher educational institutions, Penn State, Bucknell, and many others, I know the overwhelming feelings that are associated with paying for an education.

This minor and, really, technical change to existing law will help thousands of students in Pennsylvania and hundreds of thousands of students nationwide who have been treated unfavorably until this point in time.

I am proud to be a cosponsor of the Student Debt Reduction Act, and urge my colleagues to support it overwhelmingly and make education more affordable and available for an even greater number of students.

Mr. GOODLING. Madam Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. ENGLISH].

Mr. ENGLISH of Pennsylvania. Madam Speaker, it is with great pleasure that I rise today in strong support of H.R. 3863, the Student Debt Reduction Act. Access to a college education for young Americans regardless of background is key to the American dream, but the cost of higher education is making it harder for many middle-class families to pay for tuition, and many students end up saddled with a debt burden that limits ultimately their choices.

I am proud to be a cosponsor of this important legislation introduced by the chairman of the Committee on Economic and Educational Opportunities which, in effect, will allow lenders to waive or reduce the origination fee on unsubsidized Stafford loans by paying the fee for a student. Lenders are already permitted to pay the origination fees charged to a student who obtains a subsidized Stafford loan. This legislation simply extends the same consideration to those borrowers of unsubsidized loans.

As a result of this legislation, students will find themselves with more money for educational costs. With the cost of college education on the rise, that money can be put to good use.

The savings to an individual student may be as much as the full origination fee of 3 percent of the loan amount. Students will be able to use their student loans for what they were intended, to pay for a college education. This legislation encourages competition by loan providers to the great benefit of students who are able to reduce their education financing costs.

Madam Speaker, I urge my colleagues to vote in favor of this important legislation. It provides Congress with an opportunity to give students the best possible financial aid packages by encouraging competition between lenders of unsubsidized and subsidized Stafford loans.

Mr. KILDEE. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. GOODLING and I work closely together and we have had a nice bipartisan spirit out here on two bills. It is regrettable that the gentleman from California [Mr. RIGGS] had to inject a bit of partisanship in this, attacking, among other things, the AFL-CIO. This bill is too important to inject those matters into this.

I regret that Mr. RIGGS, the gentleman from California, did this. I want to remind him that he himself voted last year on the reconciliation bill that left the House for a $10 billion cut in student loans, including the in-school interest subsidy. So let us try to get this bill passed.

Mr. GOODLING and I worked very closely together. I regret this injection of partisanship. I urge passage of this bill.

Madam Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. GOODLING. Madam Speaker, I yield myself 1 minute, just to again offer another challenge on this legislation to college and university presidents by repeating what I said earlier: A GAO study of college costs found that tuition at 4-year public colleges and universities has increased 234 percent over the last 14 years, but the median house income rose only 82 percent and the Consumer Price Index rose only 74 percent. This committee wants to know why the dramatic increases in college costs, and we want to get a handle on that so that more students will have an opportunity to attend a 4-year institution and graduate from a 4-year institution, because the number of dropouts from 4-year institutions has reached an all-time high.

Mr. MCKEON. Madam Speaker, today I rise in support of H.R. 3863, the Student Debt Reduction Act. This legislation, which I cosponsored along with Chairman GOODLING and other House colleagues, allows lenders or other interested parties to pay the origination fees charged to a student upon obtaining an unsubsidized Stafford loan.

Currently, lenders are allowed to pay the origination fees on behalf of students who borrow subsidized Stafford loans. I was quite surprised to learn that the Higher Education Act, as interpreted by the Department of Education, did not provide the same benefit for students borrowing unsubsidized Stafford loans.

I support this legislation for several reasons. Most importantly, it results in lower costs for students. At a time when students and parents everywhere are worrying about paying for college, every extra dollar becomes more and more important. It also specifically prohibits any discrimination on the part of lenders when offering programs that reduce a student's origination fees. Lastly, the bill results in increased competition among lender in the student loan program, at no increased cost to the Federal Government.

This simple change to the Higher Education Act could mean a great deal to college students across the country. I urge all of my colleagues to support the Student Debt Reduction Act.

Mr. ANDREWS. Madam Speaker, I share the laudable goal of H.R. 3863, to reduce the costs to students of borrowing for educational expenses, and I applaud the Committee on Economic and Educational Opportunities for its efforts to achieve this goal by cutting student loan fees. I would note that student loan origination fees were initially intended as a temporary measure, and it is high time that we repeal this tax on borrowing for all students. However, this legislation remains flawed, because it will create an unpredictable and unequal student loan system, in which some students will see their loan fees cut, while other students will receive no benefit.

As originally written H.R. 3863 would have given lenders the discretion to pay loan origination fees for some borrowers but not others. In all likelihood, the lenders would waive the fee for the most affluent students, who are better lending risks, in order to attract their business. Thus, the most needy students would have been required to pay more to participate in the same lending programs as affluent students. Thus, the bill would have created incentives for lenders to pay the fee for students who are perceived as better lending risks. As a result, certain institutions would have a competitive advantage over others. This would have forced smaller lenders out of business, and might have led to less access to loans for needy students.

To address these concerns about potential discrimination among students and schools, I offered an amendment in committee, which I was pleased was adopted, to help prevent this possible unintended consequence of H.R. 3863. My amendment makes clear that lenders cannot vary the fee that they charge to student borrowers based on their credit risk. Additionally, my amendment gives the lender some discretion to further cut the origination fee for some student borrowers if they, in fact, show a greater need. Lenders, thus, are prohibited from discriminating against lower-income students and are empowered to offer them further assistance at their discretion.

Unfortunately, the bill as currently written would permit lenders to pay origination fees for some students, but would not provide the same opportunity for cost savings to students who receive loans under the Direct Loan Program. The result will be discrimination among students based on the program from which they receive their student loans.

Students, colleges and universities, and the taxpayers are best served if there is free, open competition and choice. Competition means that students and families can evaluate all the different loan options available to them and make the choice that is best for them. To ensure free competition in the student loan arena, the basic ground rules should be equal for all kinds of loans.

Loan fee cuts must be applied equitably to benefit students without regard to whether their institution participates in the Federal Family Education Loan Program [FFEL], the Direct Loan Program, or both. It is important to keep terms and conditions as nearly the same as possible, both to provide a level playing field so that students and institutions continue to benefit from the healthy competition that currently exists between the two programs, and to ensure that students in equivalent financial situations are treated equally. We should not only reduce the fees on the bank- and guaranty agency-based unsubsidized loans, but we should also extend that fee reduction to students who receive direct loans.

If it is a good idea to reduce these fees for students who borrow from banks or from guaranty agencies, then it is an equally good idea to extend that same opportunity to all students who would borrow from the Direct Student Loan Program. This committee has the opportunity to provide relief to all students, regardless of where they get their loan, while achieving our goal of a balanced Federal budget.

Cutting fees will help students who are faced with rising college costs and declining Federal aid. Over the past 15 years—1980–95—tuition at private 4-year higher education institutions has increased by 89 percent and at public 4-year institutions by 98 percent. In the same period of time, median family income has increased by 5 percent and student financial aid per student has increased by 37 percent. Clearly the ability of students and their families to pay for higher education has diminished significantly. Student financial aid has clearly not kept pace with rising costs. In the mid-1970's about 76 percent of the financial aid which students received from Federal programs was grants and 21 percent was loans. In the mid-1990's the proportions have been reversed, with 26 percent of the Federal student aid in grants and 72 percent in loans.

Another problem with H.R. 3863 is that guaranty agencies could take the so-called excess reserves accumulated from students who have already borrowed money, draw down those excess reserves in order to help finance this cut in the fees, and in effect, use the money paid by a student 5 years ago under a fee to help reduce the fee for a student who borrows next year. Banks would not have that same opportunity to get capital at basically no cost, nor would the Federal Government. In order to level that playing field, we should cut loan fees for all students, whether they borrow from a guaranty agency, a bank, or the Federal Government through direct lending.

To pay for fee reductions for all students, regardless of where they get their loan, we should apply savings already identified in the budget process but not yet used: recovery of these excess guaranty agency reserve funds and an increase in the lender loan fee. We have already concluded in our budget process that lenders and guaranty agencies are in a better position to bear these costs than students are.

In summary, under H.R. 3863, students who take out an unsubsidized loan from a guaranty agency or a bank get a fee cut, which will lower their cost of borrowing for school. Yet their next-door neighbors on campus, with the same family income and the same tuition, who happen to receive their loan through the Direct Loan Program, are not offered the same savings. This inequity makes no sense, and it is a serious flaw in the legislation.

Mr. GOODLING. Madam Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. KILDEE. Madam Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Ms. GREENE of Utah). The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. GOODLING] that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 3863, as amended.

The question was taken.

Mr. GOODLING. Madam Speaker, on that I demand the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 5 of rule I and the Chair's prior announcement, further proceedings on this motion will be postponed.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. GOODLING. Madam Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days in which to revise and extend their remarks on the legislation just considered.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Pennsylvania?

There was no objection.

FEDERAL AVIATION
AUTHORIZATION ACT OF 1996

Mr. SHUSTER. Madam Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the bill (H.R. 3539) to amend title 49, United States Code, to reauthorize programs of the Federal Aviation Administration, and for other purposes, as amended.

The Clerk read as follows:

H.R. 3539

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE; TABLE OF CONTENTS.

SEC. 2. AMENDMENTS TO TITLE 49, UNITED STATES CODE.

Except as otherwise specifically provided, whenever in this Act an amendment or repeal is expressed in terms of an amendment to, or repeal of, a section or other provision of law, the reference shall be considered to be made to a section or other provision of title 49, United States Code.

SEC. 3. APPLICABILITY.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Except as otherwise specifically provided, this Act and the amendments made by this Act shall apply only to fiscal years beginning after September 30, 1996.

(b) LIMITATION ON STATUTORY CONSTRUCTION.—Nothing in this Act or any amendment made by this Act shall be construed as affecting funds made available for a fiscal year ending before October 1, 1996.

TITLE I—REAUTHORIZATION OF FAA PROGRAMS

SEC. 101. AIRPORT IMPROVEMENT PROGRAM.

(a) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—Section 48103 is amended—

(1) by striking "September 30, 1981" and inserting "September 30, 1996"; and

(2) by striking "$17,583,500,000" and all that follows through the period at the end and inserting the following: "$2,280,000,000 for fiscal years ending before October 1, 1997, $4,627,000,000 for fiscal years ending before October 1, 1998, and $7,039,000,000 for fiscal years ending before October 1, 1999."

(b) OBLIGATIONAL AUTHORITY.—Section 47104(c) is amended by striking "1996" and inserting "1999".

SEC. 102. AIRWAY FACILITIES IMPROVEMENT PROGRAM.

(a) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—Section 48101(a) is amended by striking paragraphs (1) through (4) and inserting the following:

"(1) $2,068,000,000 for fiscal year 1997.

"(2) $2,129,000,000 for fiscal year 1998.

"(3) $2,191,000,000 for fiscal year 1999."

(b) CLERICAL AMENDMENTS.—Chapter 481 is amended—

(1) by striking the heading for section 48101 and inserting the following:

"§48101. Air navigation facilities and equipment"; and

(2) in the table of sections by striking the item relating to section 48101 and inserting the following:

"48101. Air navigation facilities and equipment."

SEC. 103. OPERATIONS OF FAA.

(a) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS FROM GENERAL FUND.—Section 106(k) is amended by striking "$4,088,000,000" and all that follows through the period at the end and inserting the following: "$5,158,000,000 for fiscal year 1997, $5,344,000,000 for fiscal year 1998, and $5,538,000,000 for fiscal year 1999."

(b) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS FROM TRUST FUND.—Section 48104(c) is amended—

(1) in the subsection heading by striking

"1996" and inserting "1999"; and

(2) by striking "1994, 1995, and 1996" and inserting "1994 through 1999".

(c) LIMITATION ON OBLIGATING OR EXPENDING AMOUNTS.—Section 48108(c) is amended by striking "1996" and inserting "1999".

(d) CLERICAL AMENDMENTS.—Chapter 481 is amended—

(1) by striking the heading for section 48104 and inserting the following:

"§48104. Operations and maintenance"; and

(2) in the table of sections for such chapter by striking the item relating to section 48104 and inserting the following:

"48104. Operations and maintenance."

TITLE II—AIRPORT DEVELOPMENT FINANCING

SEC. 201. APPORTIONMENTS.

(a) AMOUNTS APPORTIONED TO SPONSORS.—

(1) PRIMARY AIRPORTS.—Section 47114(c)(1)(A) is amended—

(A) by striking "and" at the end of clause (iii);

(B) in clause (iv) by striking "additional" and inserting "of the next 500,000";

(C) by striking the period at the end of clause (iv) and inserting "; and"; and

(D) by adding at the end the following:

"(v) $.50 for each additional passenger boarding at the airport during the prior calendar year."

(2) CARGO ONLY AIRPORTS.—Section 47114(c)(2) of such title is amended to read as follows:

"(2) CARGO ONLY AIRPORTS.—

"(A) APPORTIONMENT.—Subject to subparagraph (D), the Secretary shall apportion an amount equal to 2.5 percent of the amount subject to apportionment each fiscal year to the sponsors of airports served by aircraft providing air transportation of only cargo with a total annual landed weight of more than 100,000,000 pounds.

"(B) SUBALLOCATION FORMULA.—Any funds apportioned under subparagraph (A) to sponsors of airports described in subparagraph (A) shall be allocated among those airports in the proportion that the total annual landed weight of aircraft described in subparagraph (A) landing at each of those airports bears to the total annual landed weight of those aircraft landing at all those airports.

"(C) LIMITATION.—Not more than 8 percent of the amount apportioned under subparagraph (A) may be apportioned for any one airport.

"(D) DISTRIBUTION TO OTHER AIRPORTS.—Before apportioning amounts to the sponsors of airports under subparagraph (A) for a fiscal year, the Secretary may set-aside a portion of such amounts for distribution to the sponsors of other airports, selected by the Secretary, that the Secretary finds will be served primarily by aircraft providing air transportation of only cargo.

"(E) DETERMINATION OF LANDED WEIGHT.—Landed weight under this paragraph is the landed weight of aircraft landing at each airport described in subparagraph (A) during the prior calendar year."

(3) REPEAL OF LIMITATION.—Section 47114(c)(3) is repealed.

(b) AMOUNTS APPORTIONED TO STATES.—Section 47114(d)(2) of such title is amended—

(1) by striking "12" and inserting "18.5";

(2) in subparagraph (A) by striking "one" and inserting "0.66";

(3) in each of subparagraphs (B) and (C) by striking "49.5" and inserting "49.67"; and

(4) in each of subparagraphs (B) and (C) by striking "except" the second place it appears and all that follows through "title," and inserting "excluding primary airports but including reliever and nonprimary commercial service airports."

SEC. 202. DISCRETIONARY FUND.

Section 47115 is amended by striking the second subsection (f), relating to minimum amounts to be credited, and inserting the following:

"(g) MINIMUM AMOUNT TO BE CREDITED.—

"(1) GENERAL RULE.—In a fiscal year, there shall be credited to the fund, out of amounts made available under section 48103 of this title, an amount that is at least equal to the sum of—

"(A) $50,000,000; plus

"(B) the total amount required from the fund to carry out in the fiscal year letters of intent issued before January 1, 1996, under section 47110(e) of this title or the Airport and Airway Improvement Act of 1982.

The amount credited is exclusive of amounts that have been apportioned in a prior fiscal year under section 47114 of this title and that remain available for obligation.

"(2) REDUCTION OF APPORTIONMENTS.—In a fiscal year in which the amount credited under subsection (a) is less than the minimum amount to be credited under paragraph (1), the total amount calculated under paragraph (3) shall be reduced by an amount that, when credited to the fund, together with the amount credited under subsection (a), equals such minimum amount.

"(3) AMOUNT OF REDUCTION.—For a fiscal year, the total amount available to make a reduction to carry out paragraph (2) is the total of the amounts determined under sections 47114(c)(1)(A), 47114(c)(2), 47114(d), and 47117(e) of this title. Each amount shall be reduced by an equal percentage to achieve the reduction.

"(h) ALLOCATION OF AMOUNTS EXCEEDING LETTER OF INTENT REQUIREMENTS.—Of the amount credited to the fund for a fiscal year which exceeds the total amount required from the fund to carry out in the fiscal year letters of intent issued before January 1, 1996, under section 47110(e) of this title or the Airport and Airway Improvement Act of 1982—

"(1) not less than 15 percent shall be used for system planning and for making grants to airports that are not commercial service airports; and

"(2) not less than 30 percent shall be used for making grants to commercial service airports that each year have less than .25 percent of the total passenger boardings in the United States."

SEC. 203. USE OF APPORTIONED AMOUNTS.

(a) PERIOD OF AVAILABILITY.—Section 47117(b) is amended by inserting before the period at the end of the first sentence the following: "or the 3 fiscal years immediately following that year in the case of a primary airport that had less than .05 percent of the total boardings in the United States in the preceding calendar year".

(b) SPECIAL APPORTIONMENT CATEGORIES.—Section 47117(e)(1) is amended—

(1) by striking "made available under section 48103" and inserting "available to the discretionary fund under section 47115";

(2) by striking subparagraphs (A), (C), and (D);

(3) by redesignating subparagraphs (B) and (E) as subparagraphs (A) and (B), respectively;

(4) in subparagraph (A), as so redesignated, by striking "at least 12.5" and inserting "At least 31";

(5) by adding at the end of subparagraph (A), as so redesignated, the following: "The Secretary may count the amount of grants made for such planning and programs with funds apportioned under section 47114 in that fiscal year in determining whether or not such 31 percent requirement is being met in that fiscal year.";

(6) in subparagraph (B), as so redesignated, by striking "at least 2.25" and all that follows through "1996," and inserting "At least 4 percent for each fiscal year thereafter"; and

(7) by inserting before the period at the end of subparagraph (B), as so redesignated, the following: "and to sponsors of noncommercial service airports for grants for operational and maintenance expenses at any such airport if the amount of such grants to the sponsor of the airport does not exceed $30,000 in that fiscal year, if the Secretary determines that the airport is adversely affected by the closure or realignment of a military base, and if the sponsor of the airport certifies that the airport would otherwise close if the airport does not receive the grant".

SEC. 204. DESIGNATING CURRENT AND FORMER MILITARY AIRPORTS.

(a) GENERAL REQUIREMENTS.—Section 47118(a) is amended—

(1) by striking "not more than 15";

(2) by inserting after the first sentence the following: "The maximum number of airports which may be designated by the Secretary under this section at any time is 10."; and

(3) by striking "reduce delays" and all that follows through "landings" and inserting the following: "enhance airport and air traffic control system capacity in major metropolitan areas and reduce current or projected flight delays".

(b) SURVEY AND CONSIDERATIONS.—Section 47118 is amended—

(1) in subsections (a) and (d) by striking "section 47117(e)(1)(E)" and inserting "section 47117(e)(1)(B)"; and

(2) by striking subsections (b) and (c) and redesignating subsections (d), (e), and (f) as subsections (b), (c), and (d), respectively.

(c) PARKING LOTS, FUEL FARMS, UTILITIES, AND HANGARS.—Subsection (d) of section 47118, as redesignated by subsection (b) of this section, is amended—

(1) in the heading by striking "AND UTILITIES" and inserting "UTILITIES, AND HANGARS";

(2) by striking "for the fiscal years ending September 30, 1993–1996," and inserting "for fiscal years beginning after September 30, 1992."; and

(3) by striking "and utilities" and inserting "utilities, and hangars".

SEC. 205. NATIONAL CIVIL AVIATION REVIEW COMMISSION.

(a) ESTABLISHMENT.—There is established a commission to be known as the National Civil Aviation Review Commission (hereinafter in this section referred to as the "Commission").

(b) FUNCTIONS.—In order to provide Federal policymakers with objective information and recommendations concerning the future of civil aviation in the 21st century, the Commission shall conduct a comprehensive review of aviation safety oversight, airport capital needs, and the long-term capital and operating funding requirements of the Federal Aviation Administration. Matters to be studied by the Commission shall include, but not be limited to, the following:

(1) A review of the overall condition of aviation safety in the United States and emerging trends in the safety of particular sectors of the aviation industry. This review shall include a review of—

(A) the extent to which the dual mission of the Administration to promote and regulate civil aviation may undermine aviation safety;

(B) the adequacy of staffing and training resources for safety personnel of the Administration, including safety inspectors; and

(C) the Administration's processes for ensuring the public safety from fraudulent parts in civil aviation and the extent to which use of suspected unapproved parts requires additional oversight or enforcement action.

(2) A review of current and projected airport capital development needs and an assessment of various financing mechanisms to meet these needs by type and size of airport. This review shall include a review of—

(A) alternate financing mechanisms for airports, including the airport improvement program, passenger facility charges, tax-exempt bonds, State and local assistance, airport privatization, infrastructure banks, government-sponsored enterprises, and leveraging of Federal airport financing that takes into consideration the special needs of nonhub airports and general aviation airports; and

(B) the effect of alternate funding levels of the Federal Aviation Administration airport improvement program, ranging from elimination of funding to full funding of airport development requirements.

(3) A review of the Administration's current and projected financial requirements, alternate methods of financing those requirements in the future, and recommendations on an overall long-range financial plan for the Administration which would provide for future growth in the Nation's air traffic system while improving the management and performance of the system and providing for continued safety improvements. Such financing methods include loan guarantees, financial partnerships with for-profit private sector entities, multiyear appropriations, revolving loan funds, mandatory spending authority, authority to borrow, restructured grant programs, aviation taxes, and user fees.

(4) A review of the air transportation needs of rural communities, an assessment of the ability of various financing mechanisms to fund programs designed to meet those needs, and an evaluation and recommendation concerning innovative financing mechanisms designed to meet those needs.

(c) MEMBERSHIP.—The Commission shall be composed of 13 members, appointed from persons knowledgeable about civil aviation in the United States and who are specifically qualified by training and experience to perform the duties of the Commission, as follows:

(1) 3 members appointed by the Secretary of Transportation, in consultation with the Secretary of the Treasury.

(2) 10 members appointed by Congress as follows:

(A) 1 member appointed by each of the chairman and ranking minority member of the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure of the House of Representatives.

(B) 1 member appointed by each of the chairman and ranking minority member of the Committee on Appropriations of the House of Representatives.

(C) 1 member appointed by each of the chairman and ranking minority member of the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation of the Senate.

(D) 1 member appointed by each of the chairman and ranking minority member of the Committee on Appropriations of the Senate.

(E) 1 member appointed by each of the chairman and ranking minority member of the Committee on Ways and Means of the House of Representatives.

(d) RESTRICTION ON APPOINTMENT OF CURRENT AVIATION EMPLOYEES.—A member appointed under subsection (c)(1) may not be an employee of an airline, airport, aviation union, or aviation trade association at the time of appointment or while serving on the Commission.

(e) TIMING OF APPOINTMENTS.—The appointing authorities shall make their appointments to the Commission not later than 30 days after the date of the enactment of this Act.

(f) CHAIRMAN.—In consultation with the Secretary of Transportation, the Speaker of the House of Representatives and the Majority Leader of the Senate shall designate a chairman and vice chairman from among the members of the Commission not later than 30 days after appointment of the last member to the Commission.

(g) PERIOD OF APPOINTMENT AND VACANCIES.—Members shall be appointed for the life of the Commission, and any vacancy on the Commission shall not affect its powers but shall be filled in the same manner, and by the same appointing authority, as the original appointment.

(h) QUORUM.—A majority of the members of the Commission shall constitute a quorum to conduct business, but the Commission may establish a lesser number for conducting hearings scheduled by the Commission.

(i) POWERS OF THE COMMISSION.—

(1) HEARINGS.—The Commission may hold such hearings, sit and act at such times and places, administer such oaths, take such testimony, and receive such evidence as the Commission considers advisable to carry out its duties.

(2) INFORMATION FROM FEDERAL AGENCIES.—The Commission may secure directly from any Federal department or agency such information or documents as the Commission considers necessary to carry out its duties, unless the head of such department or agency advises the chairman of the Commission, in writing, that such information is confidential and that its release to the Commission would jeopardize aviation safety, the national security, or pending criminal investigations.

(3) DETAIL OF GOVERNMENT EMPLOYEES.—Any Federal Government employee may be detailed to the Commission without reimbursement, and such detail shall be without interruption or loss of civil service status or privilege.

(4) TRAVEL AND PER DIEM.—Members and staff of the Commission shall be paid travel expenses, including per diem in lieu of subsistence, when away from his or her usual place of residence, in accordance with section 5703 of title 5, United States Code.

(j) INDEPENDENT AUDIT.—

(1) CONTRACTS.—Immediately following the designation of the chairman of the Commission, the Commission shall contract with an entity independent of the Federal Aviation Administration and the Department of Transportation to conduct a complete audit of the financial requirements of the Administration, considering anticipated air traffic forecasts, other workload measures, and estimated productivity gains which lead to budgetary requirements.

(2) DEADLINE.—The independent audit shall be completed no later than 180 days after the date of the contract award and shall be submitted to the Commission.

(k) FINAL REPORT.—Not later than 1 year after the date of the appointment of the last member to the Commission under subsection (c), the Commission shall submit to Congress and the Administrator a final report on the findings of the Commission with corresponding recommendations. Included with this report shall be the independent audit required under subsection (j).

(l) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—There is hereby authorized to be appropriated $2,400,000 for activities of the Commission, including the independent audit under subsection (j), to remain available until expended.

(m) GAO ASSESSMENT.—Not later than 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Comptroller General shall transmit to the Commission and Congress an independent assessment of airport development needs.

SEC. 206. INNOVATIVE FINANCING TECHNIQUES.

(a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary of Transportation is authorized to carry out a demonstration program under which the Secretary may approve applications under subchapter I of chapter 471 of title 49, United States Code, for not more than 10 projects for which grants received under such subchapter may be used to implement innovative financing techniques.

(b) PURPOSE.—The purpose of the demonstration program shall be to provide information on the use of innovative financing techniques for airport development projects to the Congress and the National Civil Aviation Review Commission established by section 205 of this Act.

(c) LIMITATION.—In no case shall the implementation of an innovative financing technique under the demonstration program result in a direct or indirect guarantee of any airport debt instrument by the Federal Government.

(d) INNOVATIVE FINANCING TECHNIQUE DEFINED.—In this section, the term "innovative financing technique" shall be limited to the following:

(1) Payment of interest.

(2) Commercial bond insurance and other credit enhancement associated with airport bonds for eligible airport development.

(3) Flexible non-Federal matching requirements.

(e) EXPIRATION OF AUTHORITY.—The authority of the Secretary to carry out the demonstration program shall expire on September 30, 1999.

TITLE III—AIRPORT IMPROVEMENT PROGRAM MODIFICATIONS

SEC. 301. INTERMODAL PLANNING.

(a) POLICIES.—Section 47101(g) is amended to read as follows:

"(g) INTERMODAL PLANNING.—To carry out the policy of subsection (a)(5) of this section, the Secretary of Transportation shall take each of the following actions:

"(1) COORDINATION IN DEVELOPMENT OF AIRPORT PLANS AND PROGRAMS.—Cooperate with State and local officials in developing airport plans and programs that are based on overall transportation needs. The airport plans and programs shall be developed in coordination with other transportation planning and considering comprehensive long-range land-use plans and overall social, economic, environmental, system performance, and energy conservation objectives. The process of developing airport plans and programs shall be continuing, cooperative, and comprehensive to the degree appropriate to the complexity of the transportation problems.

"(2) GOALS FOR AIRPORT MASTER AND SYSTEM PLANS.—Encourage airport sponsors and State and local officials to develop airport master plans and airport system plans that—

"(A) foster effective coordination between aviation planning and metropolitan planning;

"(B) include an evaluation of aviation needs within the context of multimodal planning; and

"(C) are integrated with metropolitan plans to ensure that airport development proposals include adequate consideration of land use and ground transportation access.

"(3) REPRESENTATION OF AIRPORT OPERATORS ON MPO'S.—Encourage metropolitan planning organizations, particularly in areas with populations greater than 200,000, to establish membership positions for airport operators."

(b) REQUIREMENTS FOR PROJECT GRANT APPLICATIONS.—Section 47106(a) is amended—

(1) by inserting ", including transportation and land use plans" before the semicolon at the end of paragraph (1);

(2) by striking "and" at the end of paragraph (4);

(3) by striking the period at the end of paragraph (5) and inserting "; and"; and

(4) by adding at the end the following:

"(6) with respect to a project for the location of an airport, the sponsor has—

"(A) provided the metropolitan planning organization authorized to conduct metropolitan planning for the area in which the airport is to be located with not less than 30 days (i) to review the airport master plan or the airport layout plan in which the project is described and depicted, and (ii) to submit comments on such plans to the sponsor; and

"(B) included in the sponsor's application to the Secretary the sponsor's written responses to any comments made by the metropolitan planning organization."

SEC. 302. COMPLIANCE WITH FEDERAL MAN-DATES.

(a) USE OF AIP GRANTS.—Section 47102(3) is amended—

(1) in subparagraph (E) by inserting "or under section 40117" before the period at the end; and

(2) in subparagraph (F) by striking "paid for by a grant under this subchapter and".

(b) USE OF PASSENGER FACILITY CHARGES.—Section 40117(a)(3) is amended by striking subparagraph (F).

SEC. 303. RUNWAY MAINTENANCE PROGRAM.

(a) AUTHORITY.—Section 47105 is amended by adding at the end the following:

"(g) RUNWAY MAINTENANCE PROGRAM.—The Secretary may carry out a pilot program in each of fiscal years 1997, 1998, and 1999 under which the Secretary may approve applications under this subchapter for not more than 10 projects in each of such fiscal years to preserve and extend the useful life of runways and taxiways at any airport for which an amount is apportioned under section 47114(d)."

(b) INCLUSION IN AIRPORT DEVELOPMENT ACTIVITIES.—Section 47102(3) is amended by adding at the end the following:

"(H) preserving and extending the useful life of runways and taxiways at a public-use airport under the pilot program authorized by section 47105(g) of this title."

SEC. 304. ACCESS TO AIRPORTS BY INTERCITY BUSES.

Section 47107(a) is amended—

(1) by striking "and" at the end of paragraph (18);

(2) by striking the period at the end of paragraph (19) and inserting "; and"; and

(3) by adding at the end the following:

"(20) the airport owner or operator will permit, to the maximum extent practicable, intercity buses to have access to the airport."

SEC. 305. COST REIMBURSEMENT FOR PROJECTS COMMENCED PRIOR TO GRANT AWARD.

(a) COST REIMBURSEMENT.—Section 47110(b)(2)(C) is amended to read as follows:

"(C) if the Government's share is paid only with amounts apportioned under paragraphs (1) and (2) of section 47114(c) of this title and if the cost is incurred—

"(i) after September 30, 1996;

"(ii) before a grant agreement is executed for the project; and

"(iii) in accordance with an airport layout plan approved by the Secretary and with all statutory and administrative requirements that would have been applicable to the project if the project had been carried out after the grant agreement had been executed.”.

(b) USE OF DISCRETIONARY FUNDS.—Section 47110 is amended by adding at the end the following:

“(g) USE OF DISCRETIONARY FUNDS.—A project for which cost reimbursement is provided under subsection (b)(2)(C) shall not receive priority consideration with respect to the use of discretionary funds made available under section 47115 of this title even if the amounts made available under paragraphs (1) and (2) of section 47114(c) are not sufficient to cover the Government’s share of the cost of project.”.

SEC. 306. ISSUANCE OF LETTERS OF INTENT.

Section 47110(e) is amended—

(1) by redesignating paragraph (6) as paragraph (9); and

(2) by inserting after paragraph (5) the following:

“(6) COST-BENEFIT REGULATIONS.—The Secretary shall issue regulations to require a cost-benefit analysis for any letter of intent to be issued under paragraph (1) for a project at an airport that each year has more than .25 percent of the total passenger boardings in the United States. Until the date on which such regulations take effect, the Secretary may not issue a letter of intent under paragraph (1) for any project that is not yet under construction and that is to be carried out at an airport described in the preceding sentence.

“(7) FINANCING PLANS.—The Secretary shall require airport sponsors to provide, as part of any request for a letter of intent for a project under paragraph (1), specific details on the proposed financing plan for the project.

“(8) CONSIDERATION.—The Secretary shall consider the effect of a project on overall national air transportation policy when reviewing requests for letters of intent under paragraph (1).”.

SEC. 307. SELECTION OF PROJECTS FOR GRANTS FROM DISCRETIONARY FUND.

Section 47115(d) is amended—

(1) by striking “and” at the end of paragraph (2);

(2) by striking the period at the end of paragraph (3) and inserting a semicolon; and

(3) by adding at the end the following:

“(4) the priority that the State gives to the project;

“(5) the projected growth in the number of passengers that will be using the airport at which the project will be carried out; and

“(6) any increase in the number of passenger boardings in the preceding 12-month period at the airport at which the project will be carried out, with priority consideration to be given to projects at airports at which the number of passenger boardings increased by at least 20 percent as compared to the number of passenger boardings in the 12-month period preceding such period.”.

SEC. 308. SMALL AIRPORT FUND.

Section 47116 is amended by adding at the end the following:

“(d) PRIORITY CONSIDERATION FOR CERTAIN PROJECTS.—In making grants to sponsors described in subsection (b)(2), the Secretary shall give priority consideration to multi-year projects for construction of new runways that the Secretary finds are cost beneficial and would increase capacity in a region of the United States.”.

SEC. 309. STATE BLOCK GRANT PROGRAM.

(a) PARTICIPATING STATES.—Section 47128 is amended—

(1) in subsection (a) by striking “7” and inserting “10”;

(2) in subsection (b)(1)—

(A) by striking “(1)”;

(B) by redesignating subparagraphs (A) through (E) as paragraphs (1) through (5), respectively; and

(3) by striking subsection (b)(2).

(b) USE OF STATE PRIORITY SYSTEM.—Section 47128(c) is amended—

(1) by striking “(b)(1)(B) or (C)” and inserting “(b)(2) or (b)(3)”;

and

(2) by adding at the end the following: “In carrying out this subsection, the Secretary shall permit a State to use the priority system of the State if such system is not inconsistent with the national priority system.”.

(c) REPEAL OF EXPIRATION DATE.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Section 47128 is amended—

(A) by striking “pilot” in the section heading;

(B) by striking “pilot” in subsection (a); and

(C) by striking subsection (d).

(2) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—The table of sections for chapter 471 is amended by striking the item relating to section 47128 and inserting the following:

“47128. State block grant program.”.

SEC. 310. PRIVATE OWNERSHIP OF AIRPORTS.

(a) ESTABLISHMENT OF PROGRAM.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Subchapter I of chapter 471 is amended by adding at the end the following:

“§ 47132. Private ownership of airports

“(a) SUBMISSION OF APPLICATIONS.—If a sponsor intends to sell an airport or lease an airport for a long term to a person (other than a public agency), the sponsor and purchaser or lessee may apply to the Secretary of Transportation for exemptions under this section.

“(b) APPROVAL OF APPLICATIONS.—The Secretary may approve, with respect to not more than 6 airports, applications submitted under subsection (a) granting exemptions from the following provisions:

“(1) USE OF REVENUES.—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary may grant an exemption to a sponsor from the provisions of sections 44706(d) and 47107(b) of this title (and any other law, regulation, or grant assurance) to the extent necessary to permit the sponsor to recover from the sale or lease of the airport such amount as may be approved—

“(i) by at least 60 percent of the air carriers serving the airport; and “(ii) by the air carrier or air carriers whose aircraft landing at the airport during the preceding calendar year had a total landed weight during the preceding calendar year of at least 60 percent of the total landed weight of all aircraft landing at the airport during such year.

“(B) LANDED WEIGHT DEFINED.—In this paragraph, the term ‘landed weight’ means the weight of aircraft transporting passengers or cargo, or both, in intrastate, interstate, and foreign air transportation, as the Secretary determines under regulations the Secretary prescribes.

“(2) REPAYMENT REQUIREMENTS.—The Secretary may grant an exemption to a sponsor from the provisions of sections 47107 and 47152 of this title (and any other law, regulation, or grant assurance) to the extent necessary to waive any obligation of the sponsor to repay to the Federal Government any grants, or to return to the Federal Government any property, received by the airport under this title, the Airport and Airway Improvement Act of 1982, or any other law.

“(3) COMPENSATION FROM AIRPORT OPERATIONS.—The Secretary may grant an exemption to a purchaser or lessee from the provisions of sections 44706(d) and 47107(b) of this title (and any other law, regulation, or grant assurance) to the extent necessary to permit the purchaser or lessee to earn compensation from the operations of the airport.

“(c) TERMS AND CONDITIONS.—The Secretary may approve an application under subsection (b) only if the Secretary finds that the sale or lease agreement includes provisions satisfactory to the Secretary to ensure the following:

“(1) The airport will continue to be available for public use on reasonable terms and conditions and without unjust discrimination.

“(2) The operation of the airport will not be interrupted in the event that the purchaser or lessee becomes insolvent or seeks or becomes subject to any State or Federal bankruptcy, reorganization, insolvency, liquidation, or dissolution proceeding or any petition or similar law seeking the dissolution or reorganization of the purchaser or lessee or the appointment of a receiver, trustee, custodian, or liquidator for the purchaser or lessee or a substantial part of the purchaser or lessee’s property, assets, or business.

“(3) The purchaser or lessee will maintain and improve the facilities of the airport and will submit to the Secretary a plan for carrying out such maintenance and improvements.

“(4) Every fee of the airport imposed on an air carrier on the day before the date of the sale or lease of the airport will not increase faster than the rate of inflation unless a higher amount is approved—

“(A) by at least 60 percent of the air carriers serving the airport; and

“(5) Safety and security at the airport will be maintained at the highest possible levels.

“(6) The adverse effects of noise from operations at the airport will be mitigated to the same extent as at a public airport.

“(7) Any adverse effects on the environment from airport operations will be mitigated to the same extent as at a public airport.

“(8) Any collective bargaining agreement that covers employees of the airport and is in effect on the date of the sale or lease of the airport will not be abrogated by the sale or lease.

“(d) PARTICIPATION OF CERTAIN AIRPORTS.—If the Secretary approves under subsection (b) applications with respect to 6 airports, at least one of the airports must be an airport that is not a commercial service airport.

“(e) PASSENGER FACILITY FEES; APPORTIONMENTS; SERVICE CHARGES.—Notwithstanding that the sponsor of an airport receiving an exemption under subsection (b) is not a public agency, the sponsor shall not be prohibited from—

“(1) imposing a passenger facility fee under section 40117 of this title;

“(2) receiving apportionments under section 47114 of this title; or

“(3) collecting reasonable rental charges, landing fees, and other service charges from aircraft operators under section 40116(e)(2) of this title.

“(f) EFFECTIVENESS OF EXEMPTIONS.—An exemption granted under subsection (b) shall continue in effect only so long as the facilities sold or leased continue to be used for airport purposes.

“(g) REVOCATION OF EXEMPTIONS.—The Secretary may revoke an exemption issued to a purchaser or lessee of an airport under subsection (b)(3) if, after providing the purchaser or lessee with notice and an opportunity to be heard, the Secretary determines that the purchaser or lessee has knowingly violated any of the terms specified in subsection (c) for the sale or lease of the airport.

“(h) NONAPPLICATION OF PROVISIONS TO AIRPORTS OWNED BY PUBLIC AGENCIES.—The provisions of this section requiring the approval of air carriers in determinations concerning the use of revenues, and imposition of fees, at an airport shall not be extended so as to apply to any airport owned by a public agency that is not participating in the program established by this section.”.

“47132. Private ownership of airports.”.

(b) TAXATION.—Section 40116(b) is amended—

(1) by striking “a State or” and inserting “a State, a”; and

(2) by inserting after “of a State” the following: “, and any person that has purchased or leased an airport under section 47132 of this title”.

(c) RESOLUTION OF AIRPORT-AIR CARRIER DISPUTES CONCERNING AIRPORT FEES.—Section 47129(a) is amended by adding at the end the following:

“(4) FEES IMPOSED BY PRIVATELY-OWNED AIRPORTS.—In evaluating the reasonableness of a fee imposed by an airport receiving an exemption under section 47132 of this title, the Secretary shall consider whether the airport has complied with section 47132(c)(4).”.

SEC. 311. USE OF NOISE SET-ASIDE FUNDS BY NON-AIRPORT SPONSORS.

Section 47505 is amended—

(1) by redesignating subsection (b) as subsection (c);

(2) in subsection (c), as so redesignated, by striking “subsection (a) of” and inserting “subsection (a) or (b) of”; and

(3) by inserting after subsection (a) the following:

“(b) GRANTS TO NON-AIRPORT SPONSORS.—

“(1) AUTHORITY.—The Secretary may make a grant under this subsection to a State or unit of local government that is not the owner or operator of the airport for preparation of an airport land use compatibility plan or implementation of an airport land use compatibility project.

“(2) PLANNING AUTHORITY.—In order to be eligible to receive a grant under this subsection for preparation of an airport land use compatibility plan, the State or unit of local government must have authority to plan and adopt land use control measures, including zoning, in the planning area.

“(3) COORDINATION OF PLANNING ACTIVITIES.—

“(A) CONSISTENCY WITH OTHER PLANNING.—An airport land use compatibility plan prepared by a State or unit of local government under this subsection may not duplicate or be inconsistent with an airport noise compatibility program prepared by an airport operator under this chapter or with other planning carried out by the airport operator.

“(B) CONSULTATION WITH AIRPORT OWNERS AND OPERATORS.—A State or unit of local government receiving a grant under this subsection for preparation of an airport land use compatibility plan shall consult with the owner or operator of the airport for which the plan is being prepared regarding any recommended airport land use compatibility measure identified in the plan and any aviation data on which such recommendation is made.

“(4) APPROVAL OF AIRPORT OWNER OR OPERATOR REQUIRED.—The Secretary may make a grant to a State or unit of local government under this subsection for preparation of an airport land use compatibility plan or implementation of an airport land use compatibility project only after receiving the approval of the owner or operator of the airport for which the plan or project is being prepared or implemented. Such approval shall be based on whether the plan or program, including the use of any noise exposure contours on which the plan or project is based, has been coordinated with the airport and is consistent with the airport’s operations and planning.

“(5) WRITTEN ASSURANCES.—The Secretary may make a grant to a State or unit of local government under this subsection only after receiving from the State or unit of local government such written assurances as the Secretary determines necessary to achieve the purposes of this subsection.

“(6) GUIDELINES.—The Secretary may establish guidelines in carrying out this subsection.

“(7) DEFINITIONS.—In this subsection, the following definitions apply:

“(A) AIRPORT COMPATIBLE LAND USE.—The term ‘airport compatible land use’ means any land use that is usually compatible with—

“(i) the noise levels associated with an airport, as established under this chapter;

“(ii) airport design standards issued by the Administrator; and “(iii) regulations issued to carry out section 44718 of this title.

“(B) AIRPORT LAND USE COMPATIBILITY PLAN.—The term ‘airport land use compatibility plan’ means the product of a process to determine the extent, type, nature, location, and timing of measures to improve the compatibility of land use with the existing forecast level of aviation activity at an airport.

“(C) AIRPORT LAND USE COMPATIBILITY PROJECT.—The term ‘airport land use compatibility project’ means a project that is contained in an airport land use compatibility plan and determined by the Administrator to enhance airport compatible land use.”.

TITLE IV—MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

SEC. 401. ELIMINATION OF DUAL MANDATE.

(a) SAFETY AS HIGHEST PRIORITY.—Section 40101(d) is amended—

(1) by redesignating paragraphs (1) through (6) as paragraphs (2) through (7), respectively; and

(2) by inserting before paragraph (2), as so redesignated, the following:

“(1) assigning, maintaining, and enhancing safety and security as the highest priorities in air commerce.”.

(b) ELIMINATION OF PROMOTION.—

(1) POLICY.—Section 40101(d) is further amended—

(A) in paragraph (2), as redesignated by subsection (a)(1) of this section, by striking “its development and”; and

(B) in paragraph (3), as so redesignated—

(i) by striking “promoting, encouraging,” and inserting “encouraging”; and

(ii) by inserting before the period at the end “, including new aviation technology”.

(2) DEVELOPMENT.—Section 40104(a) is amended by striking “and air commerce”.

(3) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—Chapter 401 is amended—

(A) in the heading to section 40104 by striking “and air commerce”;

(B) in the subsection heading to section 40104(a) by striking “AND AIR COMMERCE”; and

(C) in the item relating to section 40104 in the table of sections at the beginning of the chapter by striking “and air commerce”.

SEC. 402. PURCHASE OF HOUSING UNITS.

Section 40110 is amended—

(1) by redesignating subsection (b) as subsection (c); and

(2) by inserting after subsection (a) the following:

“(b) PURCHASE OF HOUSING UNITS.—

“(1) AUTHORITY.—In carrying out this part, the Administrator may purchase a housing unit (including a condominium or a housing unit in a building owned by a cooperative) that is located outside the contiguous United States if the cost of the unit is $200,000 or less.

“(2) CONTINUING OBLIGATIONS.—Notwithstanding section 1341 of title 31, the Administrator may purchase a housing unit under paragraph (1) even if there is an obligation thereafter to pay necessary and reasonable fees duly assessed upon such unit, including fees related to operation, maintenance, taxes, and insurance.

“(3) CERTIFICATION TO CONGRESS.—The Administrator may purchase a housing unit under paragraph (1) only if, at least 30 days before completing the purchase, the Administrator transmits to the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation of the Senate a report containing—

“(A) a description of the housing unit and its price;

“(B) a certification that the price does not exceed the median price of housing units in the area; and “(C) a certification that purchasing the housing unit is the most cost-beneficial means of providing necessary accommodations in carrying out this part.

“(4) PAYMENT OF FEES.—The Administrator may pay, when due, fees resulting from the purchase of a housing unit under this subsection from any amounts made available to the Administrator.”.

SEC. 403. TECHNICAL CORRECTION RELATING TO STATE TAXATION.

Section 40116(b) is amended by striking “subsection (c) of this section and”.

SEC. 404. USE OF PASSENGER FACILITY FEES FOR DEBT FINANCING PROJECT.

Section 40117(a)(3) is amended by adding at the end the following:

“(G) for debt financing of a terminal development project at a commercial service airport that each year has .05 percent or less of the total passenger boardings in the United States if construction began on the project after November 5, 1988, and before November 5, 1990, and the eligible agency certifies that no other eligible airport-related projects affecting safety, security, or capacity will be deferred by the debt financing project.”.

SEC. 405. CLARIFICATION OF PASSENGER FACILITY REVENUES AS CONSTITUTING TRUST FUNDS.

Section 40117(g) is amended by adding at the end the following:

“(4) Passenger facility revenues that are held by an air carrier or an agent of the carrier after collection of a passenger facility fee constitute a trust fund that is held by the air carrier or agent for the beneficial interest of the eligible agency imposing the fee. Such carrier or agent holds neither legal nor equitable interest in the passenger facility revenues except for any handling fee or retention of interest collected on unremitted proceeds as may be allowed by the Secretary.”.

SEC. 406. PROTECTION OF VOLUNTARILY SUBMITTED INFORMATION.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Chapter 401 is amended by redesignating section 40120 as section 40121 and by inserting after section 40119 the following:

“§40120. Protection of voluntarily submitted information

“(a) GENERAL RULE.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, neither the Administrator of the Federal Aviation Administration, nor any agency receiving information from the Administrator, may disclose voluntarily provided safety or security related information if the Administrator finds that—

“(1) the disclosure of the information would inhibit the voluntary provision of that type of information;

“(2) the receipt of that type of information would aid in fulfilling the Administrator's safety and security responsibilities; and

“(3) the withholding of the information would not be inconsistent with the Administrator's safety and security responsibilities.

“(b) REGULATIONS.—The Administrator shall issue regulations to carry out this section.”.

(b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—The table of sections for chapter 401 is amended by striking the item relating to section 40120 and inserting the following:

“40120. Protection of voluntarily submitted information.

“40121. Relationship to other laws.”.

SEC. 407. SUPPLEMENTAL TYPE CERTIFICATES.

Section 44704 is amended—

(1) by redesignating subsections (b) and (c) as subsections (c) and (d), respectively; and

(2) by inserting after subsection (a) the following:

“(b) SUPPLEMENTAL TYPE CERTIFICATES.—

“(1) ISSUANCE.—The Administrator may issue a type certificate designated as a supplemental type certificate for a change to an aircraft, aircraft engine, propeller, or appliance.

“(2) CONTENTS.—A supplemental type certificate issued under paragraph (1) shall consist of the change to the aircraft, aircraft engine, propeller, or appliance with respect to the previously issued type certificate for the aircraft, aircraft engine, propeller, or appliance.

“(3) REQUIREMENT.—If the holder of a supplemental type certificate agrees to permit another person to use the certificate to modify an aircraft, aircraft engine, propeller, or appliance, the holder shall provide the other person with written evidence, in a form acceptable to the Administrator, of that agreement. A person may change an aircraft, aircraft engine, propeller, or appliance based on a supplemental type certificate only if the person requesting the change is the holder of the supplemental type certificate or has permission from the holder to make the change.”.

SEC. 408. RESTRICTION ON USE OF REVENUES.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 44706 is amended by adding at the end the following:

“(d) USE OF REVENUES.—

“(1) PROHIBITION.—A person holding an airport operating certificate under this section may not expend local taxes on aviation fuel (except taxes in effect on December 30, 1987) or the revenues generated by the airport for any purpose other than the capital or operating costs of—

“(A) the airport;

“(B) the local airport system; or

“(C) other local facilities owned or operated by the person and directly and substantially related to the air transportation of passengers or property.

“(2) EXCEPTIONS.—Paragraph (1) does not apply—

“(A) if a provision enacted not later than September 2, 1982, in a law controlling financing by the owner or operator, or a covenant or assurance in a debt obligation issued not later than September 2, 1982, by the owner or operator, provides that the revenues, including local taxes on aviation fuel at public airports, from any of the facilities of the owner or operator, including the airport, be used to support not only the airport but also the general debt obligations or other facilities of the owner or operator; or

“(3) AUTHORITY TO ISSUE WAIVERS TO AIRPORTS NOT RECEIVING GRANT ASSISTANCE.—

The Administrator may waive the application of paragraph (1) with respect to any airport that has not received grant assistance under chapter 471 of this title or the Airport and Airway Improvement Act of 1982 in the 10-year period ending on the date of the enactment of this subsection.

“(4) LIMITATION ON STATUTORY CONSTRUCTION.—This subsection does not prevent the use of a State tax on aviation fuel to support a State aviation program or the use of airport revenue on or off the airport for a noise mitigation purpose.”.

(b) PENALTIES.—Section 46301(a)(5) is amended to read as follows:

“(5) PENALTY FOR DIVERSION OF AVIATION REVENUES.—The amount of a civil penalty assessed under this section for a violation of section 47107(b) of this title (or any assurance made under such section) or section 44706(d) of this title may be increased above the otherwise applicable maximum amount under this section to an amount not to exceed 3 times the amount of revenues that are used in violation of such section.”.

SEC. 409. CERTIFICATION OF SMALL AIRPORTS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 44706(a) is amended—

(1) by redesignating paragraph (2) as paragraph (3);

(2) by inserting after paragraph (1) the following:

“(2) that is not located in the State of Alaska and serves any scheduled passenger operation of an air carrier operating aircraft designed for more than 9 passenger seats but less than 31 passenger seats; and”;

(3) by striking “and” at the end of paragraph (3), as redesignated by paragraph (1) of this subsection;

(4) by striking “(3) when” and inserting “if”; and

(5) by moving the matter following paragraph (3), as redesignated by paragraph (1) of this subsection, to the left flush full measure.

(b) COMMUTER AIRPORTS.—Section 44706 is amended by adding at the end the following:

“(e) COMMUTER AIRPORTS.—In developing the terms required by subsection (b) for airports covered by subsection (a)(2), the Administrator shall identify and consider a reasonable number of regulatory alternatives and select from such alternatives the least costly, most cost-effective or the least burdensome alternative that will provide comparable safety at airports described in subsections (a)(1) and (a)(2).”.

(c) EFFECTIVE DATE.—Section 44706 is further amended by adding at the end the following:

“(f) EFFECTIVE DATE.—Any regulation establishing the terms required by subsection (b) for airports covered by subsection (a)(2) shall not take effect until such regulation, and a report on the economic impact of the regulation on air service to the airports covered by the rule, has been submitted to Congress and 120 days have elapsed following the date of such submission.”.

(d) LIMITATION ON STATUTORY CONSTRUCTION.—Section 44706 is further amended by adding at the end the following:

“(g) LIMITATION ON STATUTORY CONSTRUCTION.—Nothing in this title may be construed as requiring a person to obtain an airport operating certificate if such person does not desire to operate an airport described in subsection (a).”.

SEC. 410. EMPLOYMENT INVESTIGATIONS OF PILOTS.

(a) EMPLOYMENT INVESTIGATIONS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Chapter 447 is amended by adding at the end the following:

“§ 44724. Preemployment review of prospective pilot records

“(a) PILOT RECORDS.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—Before allowing an individual to begin service as a pilot, an air carrier shall request and receive the following information:

“(A) FAA RECORDS.—From the Administrator of the Federal Aviation Administration, information pertaining to the individual that is maintained by the Administrator concerning—

“(i) current airman certificates (including airman medical certificates) and associated type ratings, including any limitations thereon; and

“(ii) summaries of legal enforcement actions which have resulted in a finding by the Administrator of a violation of this title or a regulation prescribed or order issued under this title and which have not been subsequently overturned.

“(B) AIR CARRIER RECORDS.—From any air carrier (or the trustee in bankruptcy for the air carrier) that has employed the individual at any time during the 5-year period preceding the date of the employment application of the individual—

“(i) records pertaining to the individual that are maintained by an air carrier (other than records relating to flight time, duty time, or rest time) under regulations set forth in—

“(I) section 121.683 of title 14, Code of Federal Regulations;

“(II) paragraph (A) of section VI, appendix I, part 121 of such title;

“(III) paragraph (A) of section IV, appendix J, part 121 of such title;

“(IV) section 125.401 of such title; and “(V) section 135.63(a)(4) of such title; and “(ii) other records pertaining to the individual that are maintained by the air carrier concerning—

“(I) the training, qualifications, proficiency, or professional competence of the individual, including comments and evaluations made by a check airman designated in accordance with section 121.411, 125.295, or 135.337 of such title;

“(II) any disciplinary action relating to the training, qualifications, proficiency, or professional competence of the individual which was taken by the air carrier with respect to the individual and which was not subsequently overturned by the air carrier; and

“(III) any release from employment or resignation, termination (if related to the individual's training, professional qualification, proficiency, or professional competence), or disqualification with respect to employment.

“(C) NATIONAL DRIVER REGISTER RECORDS.—From the chief driver licensing official of a State, information concerning the motor vehicle driving record of the individual in accordance with section 30305(b)(7) of this title.

“(2) 5-YEAR REPORTING PERIOD.—A person is not required to furnish a record in response to a request made under paragraph (1) if the record was entered more than 5 years before the date of the request, unless the information is about a revocation or suspension of an airman certificate or motor vehicle license that is still in effect on the date of the request.

“(3) REQUIREMENT TO MAINTAIN RECORDS.—The Administrator and each air carrier (or the trustee in bankruptcy for the air carrier) shall maintain pilot records described in paragraph (1) for a period of at least 5 years.

“(4) WRITTEN CONSENT FOR RELEASE.—Neither the Administrator nor any air carrier may furnish a record in response to a request made under paragraph (1) (A) or (B) without first obtaining the written consent of the individual whose records are being requested.

“(5) DEADLINE FOR PROVISION OF INFORMATION.—A person who receives a request for records under paragraph (1) shall furnish, on or before the 30th day following the date of receipt of the request (or on or before the 30th day following the date of obtaining the written consent of the individual in the case of a request under paragraph (1) (A) or (B)), all of the records maintained by the person that have been requested.

“(6) RIGHT TO RECEIVE NOTICE AND COPY OF ANY RECORD FURNISHED.—A person who receives a request for records under paragraph (1) shall provide to the individual whose records have been requested—

“(A) on or before the 20th day following the date of receipt of the request, written notice of the request and of the individual's right to receive a copy of such records; and

“(B) in accordance with paragraph (9), a copy of such records, if requested by the individual.

“(7) REASONABLE CHARGES FOR PROCESSING REQUESTS AND FURNISHING COPIES.—A person who receives a request for records under paragraph (1) or (9) may establish a reasonable charge for the cost of processing the request and furnishing copies of the requested records.

“(8) RIGHT TO CORRECT INACCURACIES.—An air carrier that receives the records of an individual under paragraph (1)(B) shall provide the individual with a reasonable opportunity to submit written comments to correct any inaccuracies contained in the records before making a final hiring decision with respect to the individual.

“(9) RIGHT OF PILOT TO REVIEW CERTAIN RECORDS.—Notwithstanding any other provision of a law or agreement, an air carrier shall, upon written request from a pilot employed by such carrier, make available, within a reasonable time of the request, to the pilot for review any and all employment records referred to in paragraph (1)(B) pertaining to the pilot's employment.

“(10) PRIVACY PROTECTIONS.—

“(A) USE OF RECORDS.—An air carrier or employee of an air carrier that receives the records of an individual under paragraph (1) may use such records only to assess the qualifications of the individual in deciding whether or not to hire the individual as a pilot.

“(B) REQUIRED ACTIONS.—Subject to subsection (c), the air carrier or employee of an air carrier shall take such actions as may be necessary to protect the privacy of the pilot and the confidentiality of the records, including ensuring that the information contained in the records is not divulged to any individual that is not directly involved in the hiring decision.

“(C) INDIVIDUALS NOT HIRED.—If the individual is not hired, the air carrier shall destroy or return the records of the individual received under paragraph (1); except that the air carrier may retain any records needed to defend its decisions not to hire the individual.

“(11) STANDARD FORMS.—The Administrator may promulgate—

“(A) standard forms which may be used by an air carrier to request the records of an individual under paragraph (1); and

“(B) standard forms which may be used by a person who receives a request for records under paragraph (1) to obtain the written consent of the individual and to inform the individual of the request and of the individual's right to receive a copy of any records furnished in response to the request.

“(12) REGULATIONS.—The Administrator may prescribe such regulations as may be necessary—

“(A) to protect the personal privacy of any individual whose records are requested under paragraph (1) and to protect the confidentiality of those records;

“(B) to preclude the further dissemination of records received under paragraph (1) by the air carrier who requested them; and “(C) to ensure prompt compliance with any request under paragraph (1).

“(b) LIMITATION ON LIABILITY; PREEMPTION OF STATE AND LOCAL LAW.—

“(1) LIMITATION ON LIABILITY.—No action or proceeding may be brought by or on behalf of an individual who is seeking a position with an air carrier as a pilot against—

“(A) the air carrier for requesting the individual's records under subsection (a)(1);

“(B) a person who has complied with such request and in the case of a request under subsection (a)(1) (A) or (B) has obtained the written consent of the individual;

“(C) a person who has entered information contained in the individual's records; or in the nature of an action for defamation, invasion of privacy, negligence, interference with contract, or otherwise, or under any Federal, State, or local law with respect to the furnishing or use of such records in accordance with subsection (a).

“(D) an agent or employee of a person described in subparagraph (A) or (B);

“(2) PREEMPTION.—No State or political subdivision thereof may enact, prescribe, issue, continue in effect, or enforce any law, regulation, standard, or other provision having the force and effect of law that prohibits, penalizes, or imposes liability for furnishing or using records in accordance with subsection (a).

“(3) PROVISION OF KNOWINGLY FALSE INFORMATION.—Paragraphs (1) and (2) shall not apply with respect to a person that furnishes in response to a request made under subsection (a)(1) information that the person knows is false.

“(c) LIMITATION ON STATUTORY CONSTRUCTION.—Nothing in this section shall be construed as precluding the availability of the records of a pilot in an investigation or other proceeding concerning an accident or incident conducted by the Secretary, the National Transportation Safety Board, or a court.”

(2) CHAPTER ANALYSIS AMENDMENT.—The analysis for chapter 447 is amended by adding at the end the following:

“44724. Preemployment review of prospective pilot records.”

(3) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—Section 30305(b) is amended by redesignating paragraph (7) as paragraph (8) and by inserting after paragraph (6) the following:

“(7) An individual who is employed or seeking employment by an air carrier as a pilot may request the chief driver licensing official of a State to provide information about the individual under subsection (a) of this section to the individual's prospective employer or to the Secretary of Transportation. Information may not be obtained from the Register under this paragraph if the information was entered in the Register more than 5 years before the request, unless the information is about a revocation or suspension still in effect on the date of the request.”

(4) CIVIL PENALTIES.—Section 46301 is amended by inserting “44724.” after “44716,” in each of subsections (a)(1)(A), (a)(2)(A), (d)(2), and (f)(1)(A)(i).

(5) APPLICABILITY.—The amendments made by this subsection shall apply to an air carrier hiring an individual as a pilot if the application of the individual for employment as a pilot is initially received by the air carrier on or after the 120th day after the date of the enactment of this Act.

(b) RULEMAKING TO ESTABLISH MINIMUM STANDARDS FOR PILOT QUALIFICATIONS.—Not later than 18 months after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Administrator of the Federal Aviation Administration shall issue a notice of a proposed rulemaking to establish—

(1) minimum standards and criteria for preemployment screening tests measuring the biographical factors (psychomotor coordination), general intellectual capacity, instrument and mechanical comprehension, and physical fitness of an applicant for employment as a pilot by an air carrier; and

(2) minimum standards and criteria for pilot training facilities which will be licensed by the Administrator and which will assure that pilots trained at such facilities meet the preemployment screening standards and criteria described in paragraph (1).

(c) SHARING ARMED SERVICES RECORDS.—

(1) STUDY.—The Administrator, in conjunction with the Secretary of Defense, shall conduct a study to determine the relevance and appropriateness of requiring the Secretary of Defense to provide to an air carrier, upon request in connection with the hiring of an individual as a pilot, records of the individual concerning the individual's training, qualifications, proficiency, professional competence, or terms of discharge from the Armed Forces.

(2) REPORT.—Not later than 1 year after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Administrator shall transmit to Congress a report on the results of the study.

(d) MINIMUM FLIGHT TIME.—

(1) STUDY.—The Administrator shall conduct a study to determine whether current minimum flight time requirements applicable to individuals seeking employment as a pilot with an air carrier are sufficient to ensure public safety.

(2) REPORT.—Not later than 1 year after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Administrator shall transmit to Congress a report on the results of the study.

SEC. 411. CHILD PILOT SAFETY.

(a) MANIPULATION OF FLIGHT CONTROLS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Chapter 447 is amended by adding at the end the following:

“§ 44725. Manipulation of flight controls

“(a) PROHIBITION.—No pilot in command of an aircraft may allow an individual who does not hold—

“(1) a valid private pilots certificate issued by the Administrator of the Federal Aviation Administration under part 61 of title 14, Code of Federal Regulations; and to manipulate the controls of an aircraft if the pilot knows or should have known that the individual is attempting to set a record or engage in an aeronautical competition or aeronautical feat, as defined by the Administrator.

“(b) REVOCATION OF AIRMEN CERTIFICATES.—The Administrator shall issue an order revoking a certificate issued to an airman under section 44703 of this title if the Administrator finds that while acting as a pilot in command of an aircraft, the airman has permitted another individual to manipulate the controls of the aircraft in violation of subsection (a).

“(c) PILOT IN COMMAND DEFINED.—In this section, the term ‘pilot in command’ has the meaning given such term by section 1.1 of title 14, Code of Federal Regulations.”

(2) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—The table of sections at the beginning of such chapter is amended by adding at the end the following: “44725. Manipulation of flight controls.”

(b) CHILDREN FLYING AIRCRAFT.—

(1) STUDY.—The Administrator of the Federal Aviation Administration shall conduct a study of the impacts of children flying aircraft.

(2) CONSIDERATIONS.—In conducting the study, the Administrator shall consider the effects of imposing any restrictions on children flying aircraft on safety and on the future of general aviation in the United States.

(3) REPORT.—Not later than 6 months after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Administrator shall issue a report containing the results of the study, together with recommendations on—

(A) whether the restrictions established by the amendment made by subsection (a)(1) should be modified or repealed; and

(B) whether certain individuals or groups should be exempt from any age, altitude, or other restrictions that the Administrator may impose by regulation.

(4) REGULATIONS.—As a result of the findings of the study, the Administrator may issue regulations imposing age, altitude, or other restrictions on children flying aircraft.

SEC. 412. DISCRETIONARY AUTHORITY FOR CRIMINAL HISTORY RECORDS CHECKS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 44936(a)(1) is amended—

(1) by redesignating subparagraphs (A) and (B) as clauses (i) and (ii), respectively;

(2) by striking “(1) The Administrator” and inserting the following:

“(1) EMPLOYEES.—

“(A) PERSONS WITH ACCESS TO AIRCRAFT AND OTHER SECURED AREAS.—The Administrator”;

(3) by moving the remainder of the text of subparagraph (A) (as designated by paragraph (2) of this subsection), including clauses (i) and (ii) (as designated by paragraph (1) of this subsection), 2 ems to the right; and

(4) by adding at the end the following:

“(B) PERSONS RESPONSIBLE FOR SCREENING PASSENGERS AND PROPERTY.—

“(i) IN GENERAL.—The Administrator may require by regulation that an employment investigation (including a criminal history record check in cases in which the employment investigation reveals a gap in employment of 12 months or more that the individual does not satisfactorily account for) be conducted for individuals who will be responsible for screening passengers and property under section 44901 of this title and their supervisors.

“(ii) SPECIAL RULE.—If an individual requires a criminal history record check under clause (i), the individual may be employed as a screener until the check is completed if the individual is subject to supervision.”.

(b) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—Section 44936(a)(2) is amended—

(1) by striking “(2) An air carrier” and inserting the following:

“(2) RESPONSIBILITY OF AIR CARRIERS, FOREIGN AIR CARRIERS, AND AIRPORT OPERATORS.—An air carrier”;

(2) by moving the remainder of the text of the paragraph 2 ems to the right.

(c) APPLICABILITY.—The amendment made by subsection (a)(4) shall not apply to an individual employed as a screener, or a supervisor of screeners, on the day before the date of the enactment of this Act.

SEC. 413. IMPOSITION OF FEES.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Chapter 453 is amended by adding at the end the following:

“§45304. Prohibition on imposition of unauthorized fees; fees for services provided to certain aircraft

“(a) PROHIBITION.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the Administrator of the Federal Aviation Administration shall not impose any fee that is not in effect on the date of the enactment of this section unless the fee is expressly authorized by law.

“(b) AUTHORITY TO IMPOSE FEES.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—The Administrator is authorized to establish a schedule of fees (and a collection process for such fees), to be effective not later than 60 days after the date of the enactment of this section, solely to recover the costs incurred by the Administrator in providing air traffic control services to aircraft that neither take off from nor land in the United States.

“(2) PERSONS SUBJECT TO FEE.—Fees may be assessed under paragraph (1) only on aircraft that neither take off from nor land in the United States; except that such fees shall not apply to foreign government aircraft.

“(3) LIMITATION ON MANNER OF COLLECTION.—Fees may be assessed and collected under this subsection only in such manner as may reasonably be expected to result in the collection of an aggregate amount of fees during any fiscal year which does not exceed the aggregate costs of the Administrator for such year in providing the services referred to in paragraph (1).

“(4) LIMITATION ON AMOUNT OF FEE.—The amount of any fee assessed under this subsection on any aircraft may not exceed the amount which is reasonably based on the proportion of the services referred to in paragraph (1) which relate to such aircraft.

“(5) TARGET AMOUNT OF AGGREGATE FEES.—To the extent permitted by the preceding provisions of this subsection, fees under the schedule referred to in paragraph (1) shall be at levels that will recover not less than $30,000,000 in the first year in which the fees are implemented.”.

(b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—The table of sections for such chapter is amended by adding at the end the following new item:

“45304. Prohibition on imposition of unauthorized fees; fees for services provided to certain aircraft.”.

SEC. 414. AUTHORITY TO CLOSE AIRPORT LOCATED NEAR CLOSED OR REALIGNED MILITARY BASE.

Notwithstanding any other provision of a law, rule, or grant assurance, an airport that is not a commercial service airport may be closed by its sponsor without any obligation to repay grants made under chapter 471 of title 49, United States Code, the Airport and Airway Improvement Act of 1982, or any other law if the airport is located within 3 miles of a military base which has been closed or realigned.

SEC. 415. CONSTRUCTION OF RUNWAYS.

Notwithstanding section 332 of the Department of Transportation and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 1996 (109 Stat. 457) or any other provision of law that specifically restricts the number of runways at a single international airport, the Secretary of Transportation may obligate funds under chapters 471 and 481 of title 49, United States Code, for any project to construct a new runway at such airport, unless this section is expressly repealed.

SEC. 416. GADSDEN AIR DEPOT, ALABAMA.

(a) AUTHORITY TO GRANT WAIVERS.—Notwithstanding section 16 of the Federal Airport Act (as in effect on May 4, 1949), the Secretary is authorized, subject to the provisions of section 47153 of title 49, United States Code, and the provisions of subsection (b) of this section, to waive any of the terms contained in the deed of conveyance dated May 4, 1949, under which the United States conveyed certain property to the city of Gadsden, Alabama, for airport purposes.

(b) CONDITIONS.—Any waiver granted under subsection (a) shall be subject to the following conditions:

(1) The city of Gadsden, Alabama, shall agree that, in conveying any interest in the property which the United States conveyed to the city by a deed described in subsection (a), the city will receive an amount for such interest which is equal to the fair market value of such interest (as determined pursuant to regulations issued by the Secretary).

(2) Any such amount so received by the city shall be used by the city for the development, improvement, operation, or maintenance of a public airport, lands (including any improvements thereto) which produce revenues that are used for airport development purposes, or both.

SEC. 417. REGULATIONS AFFECTING INTRASTATE AVIATION IN ALASKA.

In modifying regulations contained in title 14, Code of Federal Regulations, in a manner affecting intrastate aviation in Alaska, the Administrator of the Federal Aviation Administration shall consider the extent to which Alaska is not served by transportation modes other than aviation, and shall establish such regulatory distinctions as the Administrator considers appropriate.

SEC. 418. WESTCHESTER COUNTY AIRPORT, NEW YORK.

Notwithstanding sections 47107(b) and 44706(d) of title 49, United States Code, and any other law, regulation, or grant assurance, all fees received by Westchester County Airport in the State of New York may be paid into the treasury of Westchester County pursuant to section 119.31 of the Westchester County Charter if the Secretary finds that the expenditures from such treasury for the capital and operating costs of the Airport after December 31, 1990, have been and will be equal to or greater than the fees that such treasury receives from the Airport.

SEC. 419. BEDFORD AIRPORT, PENNSYLVANIA.

If the Administrator of the Federal Aviation Administration decommissions an instrument landing system in Pennsylvania, the Administrator shall, if feasible, transfer and install the system at Bedford Airport, Pennsylvania.

SEC. 420. LOCATION OF DOPPLER RADAR STATIONS, NEW YORK.

(a) PROHIBITION.—No Federal funds may be used for the construction of a Doppler radar station at the Coast Guard station in Brooklyn, New York.

(b) CONSTRUCTION OF OFFSHORE PLATFORMS.—

(1) STUDY.—The Administrator of the Federal Aviation Administration shall conduct a study of the feasibility of constructing 2 offshore platforms to serve as sites for the location of Doppler radar stations for John F. Kennedy International Airport and LaGuardia Airport in New York City, New York.

(2) REPORT.—Not later than 1 year after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Administrator shall transmit to Congress a report on the results of the study conducted under paragraph (1), including proposed locations for the offshore platforms. Such locations shall be as far as possible from populated areas while providing appropriate safety measures for John F. Kennedy International Airport and LaGuardia Airport.

(c) LIMITATION.—The Administrator shall not begin construction of a Doppler radar station for John F. Kennedy International Airport or LaGuardia Airport at any location before submitting a report under subsection (b).

SEC. 421. WORCESTER MUNICIPAL AIRPORT, MASSACHUSETTS.

The Secretary of Transportation shall take such actions as may be necessary to improve the safety of aircraft landing at Worcester Municipal Airport, Massachusetts, including, if appropriate, providing air traffic radar service to such airport from the Providence Approach Radar Control in Coventry, Rhode Island.

SEC. 422. CENTRAL FLORIDA AIRPORT, SANFORD, FLORIDA.

The Secretary of Transportation shall take such actions as may be necessary to improve the safety of aircraft landing at Central Florida Airport, Sanford, Florida, including, if appropriate, providing a new instrument landing system on Runway 27R.

SEC. 423. AIRCRAFT NOISE OMBUDSMAN.

Section 106 is amended by redesignating subsection (k), as amended by section 103 of this Act, as subsection (l) and by inserting after subsection (j) the following:

“(k) AIRCRAFT NOISE OMBUDSMAN.—

“(1) ESTABLISHMENT.—There shall be in the Administration an Aircraft Noise Ombudsman.

“(2) GENERAL DUTIES AND RESPONSIBILITIES.—The Ombudsman shall—

“(A) be appointed by the Administrator;

“(B) serve as a liaison with the public on issues regarding aircraft noise; and

“(C) be consulted when the Administration proposes changes in aircraft routes so as to minimize any increases in aircraft noise over populated areas.”.

SEC. 424. SPECIAL RULE FOR PRIVATELY OWNED RELIEVER AIRPORTS.

Section 47109 is amended by adding at the end the following:

“(c) SPECIAL RULE FOR PRIVATELY OWNED RELIEVER AIRPORTS.—If a privately owned reliever airport contributes any lands, easements, or rights-of-way to carry out a project under this subchapter, the current fair market value of such lands, easements, or rights-of-way shall be credited toward the non-Federal share of allowable project costs.”.

TITLE V—EXTENSION OF AIRPORT AND AIRWAY TRUST FUND EXPENDITURESSEC. 501. EXTENSION OF AIRPORT AND AIRWAY TRUST FUND EXPENDITURES.

(a) EXTENSION OF EXPENDITURE AUTHORITY.—Paragraph (1) of section 9502(d) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 is amended by striking “October 1, 1996” and inserting “October 1, 1999”.

(b) EXTENSION OF TRUST FUND PURPOSES.—Subparagraph (A) of section 9502(d)(1) of such Code is amended by inserting before the semicolon at the end “or the Federal Aviation Authorization Act of 1996”.

TITLE VI—FEDERAL AVIATION ADMINISTRATION RESEARCH, ENGINEERING, AND DEVELOPMENTSEC. 601. SHORT TITLE.

This title may be cited as the “FAA Research, Engineering, and Development Management Reform Act of 1996”.

SEC. 602. AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.

Section 48102(a) is amended—

(1) by striking “and” at the end of paragraph (1)(J);

(2) by striking the period at the end of paragraph (2)(J) and inserting in lieu thereof “; and”; and

(3) by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

“(3) for fiscal year 1997—

“(A) $10,000,000 for system development and infrastructure projects and activities;

“(B) $39,911,000 for capacity and air traffic management technology projects and activities;

“(C) $20,371,000 for communications, navigation, and surveillance projects and activities;

“(D) $6,411,000 for weather projects and activities;

“(E) $6,000,000 for airport technology projects and activities;

“(F) $37,978,000 for aircraft safety technology projects and activities;

“(G) $36,045,000 for system security technology projects and activities;

“(H) $23,682,000 for human factors and aviation medicine projects and activities;

“(I) $3,800,000 for environment and energy projects and activities; and

“(J) $1,500,000 for innovative/cooperative research projects and activities.”.

SEC. 603. RESEARCH PRIORITIES.

Section 48102(b) is amended—

(1) by redesignating paragraph (2) as paragraph (3); and

“(2)”.

SEC. 604. RESEARCH ADVISORY COMMITTEE.

Section 44508(a)(1) is amended—

(1) by striking “and” at the end of subparagraph (B);

(2) by striking the period at the end of subparagraph (C) and inserting in lieu thereof “; and”; and

(3) by inserting after subparagraph (C) the following new subparagraph:

“(D) annually review the allocation made by the Administrator of the amounts authorized by section 48102(a) of this title among the major categories of research and development activities carried out by the Administration and provide advice and recommendations to the Administrator on whether such allocation is appropriate to meet the needs and objectives identified under subparagraph (A).”.

SEC. 605. NATIONAL AVIATION RESEARCH PLAN.

Section 44501(c) is amended—

(1) in paragraph (2)(A) by striking “15-year” and inserting in lieu thereof “5-year”;

(2) by amending subparagraph (B) to read as follows:

“(B) The plan shall—

“(i) provide estimates by year of the schedule, cost, and work force levels for each active and planned major research and development project under sections 40119, 44504, 44505, 44507, 44509, 44511-44513, and 44912 of this title, including activities carried out under cooperative agreements with other Federal departments and agencies;

“(ii) specify the goals and the priorities for allocation of resources among the major categories of research and development activities, including the rationale for the priorities identified;

“(iii) identify the allocation of resources among long-term research, near-term research, and development activities; and

“(iv) highlight the research and development activities that address specific recommendations of the research advisory committee established under section 44508 of this title, and document the recommendations of the committee that are not accepted, specifying the reasons for nonacceptance.”; and

(3) in paragraph (3) by inserting “, including a description of the dissemination to the private sector of research results and a description of any new technologies developed” after “during the prior fiscal year”.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. SHUSTER] and the gentleman from Minnesota [Mr. OBERSTAR] each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. SHUSTER].

Mr. SHUSTER. Madam Speaker, I yield myself 5 minutes.

Madam Speaker, I first have the pleasant task of announcing that this is the birthday of the distinguished ranking member, the gentleman from Minnesota [Mr. OBERSTAR]. I know all of my colleagues join me in wishing him a very happy birthday.

Now, Madam Speaker, I would emphasize just as heartily that this bipartisan legislation before us must be passed because if it is not passed, the airports across America will get no money in the coming year. Indeed, the recent tragedies involving ValuJet and TWA raised our consciousness about the need for improvements in aviation safety and security.

The House already passed our bill to make the FAA an independent agency. Shortly before the August recess, the House passed antiterrorism legislation. And we will soon bring to the floor a bill to address the complaints heard from the families who lost loved ones in airline disasters.

This bill takes another important step in efforts to improve safety and security. It authorizes funding for aviation security improvements such as new bomb detection systems. The bill also provides important funding for increasing airport capacity to meet the growing needs of the aviation system which will grow, we are told, by 4 to 5 percent a year. Indeed, as we move into the next century we will soon be experiencing over a billion passengers flying commercially in America each year.

FAA Administrator Hinson has continuously stated that the single most important constraint in the aviation system is the lack of airport capacity. In 1996 funding for AIP was only $1.45 billion, even though the authorized level was $2.2 billion and at that time there was a $5 billion surplus in the Aviation Trust Fund. Indeed, if the Aviation Trust Fund were taken off budget, airport needs could be met and the huge surpluses in the trust fund would not be created.

Those airport needs are not uniform. Smaller airports depend even more heavily on AIP funds. When a low AIP funding level forces the FAA to turn down an airport's AIP grant, if it is a large airport that airport has lost a small amount of its funding sources. However, a small airport often cannot proceed with a project without an AIP grant.

Nevertheless, over the past few years small nonhub airports have seen their entitlement cut by as much as 23 percent. Small commercial service airports have seen their set-aside cut by 40 percent. One of our goals, therefore, in this bill is to revise the AIP program and make sure the smaller airports get their fair share.

This bill simplifies the formulas. It reauthorizes the AIP program for 3 years and ensures that every primary airport, both large hubs and small nonhubs, receive an increase in their passenger entitlement; increases the small airport fund; provides a minimum discretionary fund that contains enough money to ensure that all previously issued letters of intent are met; includes an airport privatization test program for six airports, subject to DOT approval and the airlines affected; imposes treble damages on anyone violating the prohibition against revenue diversion; and makes baggage screeners subject to background checks.

The bill before us today does differ from the one reported by the committee in the following ways:

It includes a National Civil Aviation Review Commission recommended by Congressman WOLF; it includes a pilot program allowing FAA to experiment with innovative financing techniques, as suggested by the Department of Transportation. It eliminates the dual mandate that requires FAA to both promote and regulate air commerce. Elimination of this dual mandate would not prevent the FAA from considering the costs of its regulatory actions but would make clear that safety is its No. 1 priority. Indeed, we would expect FAA to continue its rigorous cost benefit analyses. It clarifies passenger facility charges belong to airports and should not become part of a bankrupt airline's estate, that small airports do not have to seek certification if they do not want commuter service; includes H.R. 3267 the Child Pilot Safety Act, Report 104-683, includes H.R. 3536 the Airline Pilot Hiring and Safety Act, Report 104-684; makes changes to foreign airline overflight fee provisions that were requested by the Committee on Ways and Means; allows private reliever airports to use fair market value of their land as a local share for an AIP grant; drops the provision on the metropolitan Washington airports; drops the extension of the trust fund taxes so that this can be extended in separate legislation; and adds the research title developed by the committee on Science.

For all these reasons, this legislation must be passed, if we are going to provide funding to our airports across America. I strongly urge the passage of this legislation.

I want to say the following on behalf of Congressman FRISA of New York.

This bill does not make any changes in the Disadvantaged Business Enterprise [DBE] Program. This is a controversial provision especially as it applies to car rental companies.

In 1992, the FAA reauthorization bill established vendor purchases as an alternative, but unequal, method through which car rental concessionaires could meet DBE airport concession participation goals. The 1992 statute expressly states that car rental concessionaires must be permitted to include credit for the purchase of vehicles from DBE new car dealers toward their DBE compliance goals.

To ensure meaningful participation in the DBE airport concession program, car rental concessionaires must be permitted to apply the full purchase price of their fleet vehicles from qualified DBE vendors toward their compliance goals under the DBE airport concession program. Any other interpretation of this statutory mandate ignores the plain wording of the statute and would make it essentially impossible for car rental concessionaires to meet DBE goals through the vendor purchases established by the statute.

The committee report on this bill includes a directive that DOT must be careful not to adopt size standards that make the DBE airport concession program inherently unworkable for car rental concessionaires. Toward this end, DOT should adopt an employee size standard, rather than a standard based on total revenues, for DBE new car dealers. Such an employee-based standard would avoid a situation in which many DBE dealers would be forced from the program simply because of the large number and value of cars the car rental industry buys each year.

U.S. HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, COMMITTEE ON WAYS AND MEANS,
Washington, DC, July 26, 1996.

Hon. BUD SHUSTER,
Chairman, House Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure, Rayburn House Office Building, Washington, DC.

DEAR BUD: I am writing to you regarding further consideration of H.R. 3539, the Federal Aviation Authorization Act of 1996, which was ordered reported by the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure on June 6, 1996. The bill, as introduced, was also referred to the Committee on Ways and Means.

Specifically, Title VI of the bill, as introduced, would extend the Airport and Airway Trust Fund taxes for 3 years. On May 30, 1996, the Subcommittee on Aviation adopted an amendment concerning jet fuel excise taxes. On June 6, 1996, the full Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure adopted an amendment intended to change Title VI into a legislative "recommendation" to the Committee on Ways and Means.

The actions taken by the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure on these tax matters was contrary to both Rule X of the Rules of the House, regarding Committee jurisdiction, and Rule XXI(5)(b) of the Rules of the House, which prohibits the reporting of a tax or tariff measure in a bill not reported by the committee of jurisdiction.

I now understand that you are seeking to have the bill considered on the Suspension Calendar as early as next week. I also understand that you have agreed to include an amendment on the Floor which I am providing (attached) to address the concerns of the Committee on Ways and Means with this legislation.

The amendment would strike the tax title previously included in the bill, and add language needed to extend the expenditure purposes and authority contained in the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 through October 1, 1999, the period of the authorization bill. In addition, I wrote to you previously regarding the "overflight fees" provision included in the reported bill, expressing my interest in working with you to ensure that this provision conforms as closely as possible to a true "fee." I have also included legislative language in this amendment to that effect. Finally, I understand that the Commission proposed in section 205 of your amendment will include appointments by the Committee on Ways and Means.

Based on this understanding, and in order to expedite consideration of this legislation, it will not be necessary for the Committee on Ways and Means to markup this legislation. This is being done with the further understanding that the Committee will be treated without prejudice as to its jurisdictional prerogatives on such or similar provisions in the future, and it should not be considered as precedent for consideration of matters of jurisdictional interest to the Committee on Ways and Means in the future.

Finally, I would ask that a copy of our exchange of letters on this matter, and my previous letter, be placed in the Record during consideration of the bill on the Floor. Thank you for your cooperation and assistance on this matter. With best personal regards.

Sincerely,

BILL ARCHER,
Chairman.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, COM-MITTEE ON TRANSPORTATION AND INFRASTRUCTURE,

Washington, DC, July 29, 1996.

Hon. BILL ARCHER,
Chairman, Committee on Ways and Means, Longworth House Office Building, Washington, DC.

DEAR BILL: This is in response to your letter of July 26, 1996, regarding H.R. 3539, the Federal Aviation Authorization Act of 1996. I concur with your statement of the agreements reached by our committees on this bill. I appreciate your willingness to forego a markup on the bill based on these agreements.

We do intend to proceed to consideration of this bill in the House as soon as possible and are currently hoping for consideration on the Suspension Calendar. If we proceed under suspension of the rules, I will include the items referred to in your letter in the suspension motion. Specifically, this will strike the tax title and insert in its place extension of the Trust Fund expenditure purposes and authority through October 1, 1999. It will also include your recommended changes to section 409 regarding overflight fees and section 205 regarding the National Civil Aviation Review Commission.

If we proceed to the consideration of this bill under a rule, I will request that the Rules Committee incorporate these provisions by self-executing rule.

Finally, I will include these letters in the Record during consideration of the bill on the Floor.

Thank you again for your cooperation in this matter. With warm personal regards, I am

Sincerely,

BUD SHUSTER,
Chairman.

Madam Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. OBERSTAR. Madam Speaker, I yield myself 7 minutes.

I first want to thank my colleague, our chairman and my dear friend, for his good wishes on this day that we all face once a year. I looked in the obit column this morning and did not find my name in there so I decided to come to work.

Today we consider legislation very, very thoroughly described by our chairman to reauthorize the programs of the Federal Aviation Administration but particularly and most importantly the Airport Improvement Program.

At the outset, I want all of our colleagues on both sides of the aisle to note that this legislation in the long honored tradition of our committee has been prepared and advanced in a truly bipartisan process with complete openness and participation, not just consultation but participation on both sides of sharing of ideas, of working issues out, of coming to agreement on matters on which maybe at the first we might have had some differences. In the end we were altogether.

I want to thank Chairman SHUSTER, who has been a strong advocate for aviation and especially for small airports, as I have been, and Chairman DUNCAN, who has given aviation his full energy and effort and who has proven a really distinguished and worthy chairman of this subcommittee and has come to have a sure grasp of the issues. I salute him and congratulate him.

I also want to express my great appreciation to the leader on our side on aviation, the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. LIPINSKI], who has plunged into aviation and likewise has become thoroughly knowledgeable and self-assured on this subject.

I also see my good friend and former associate when I chaired the Subcommittee on Aviation, the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. CLINGER], now chairman of the Committee on Government Reform and Oversight. I want to thank him for the partnership that we have had over 14 years working together on economic development, investigations and oversight and aviation. As he prepares to leave our company to go on to other pursuits, I just want to say what a great, distinct pleasure it has been working with the gentleman, a professorial scholar, a dear friend, one who is committed to the pursuit of truth and of good legislation in the best public interest.

This legislation establishes funding for FAA's facility and equipment operations and maintenance and airport improvement programs at levels that assume the aviation trust fund has been taken off budget. Funding levels are necessary to support vital safety and capacity enhancing projects, including upgrading air traffic control, implementing the global positioning satellite system, meeting the safety and capacity needs of the Nation's airports.

While I completely support the funding levels included in the bill and want to assert that they are more than justified in light of the needs of the system and indeed modest compared to the needs, we must unfortunately and realistically assume that these programs will receive a lower appropriation level than the authorization that we have provided for, given the current budget climate and the fact that the other body has failed to pass off-budget legislation.

I emphasize that these levels are right, they are necessary, they are what this committee says is needed. We set that mark out there. It is important that that mark be set even though realistically the appropriation level may not come to what it should be. We will continue to argue for higher and adequate appropriation levels in the future.

This means that the different FAA accounts will essentially be competing with each other for limited funding available. So much of FAA's costs are fixed costs. That means the program likely to be most negatively affected is airport improvement. That level currently is 1.45 billion, and that represents a $450 million decrease in funding from 1992. That was the high point for AIP funding in the history of the FAA.

This funding distribution formula in the current AIP program was drafted when we expected funding levels to continue to increase. They work well when AIP is funded at close to $2 billion, but the formulas create a significant problem for a large number of airports, at funding levels closer to the 1.45 level.

So the formula modifications in the bill are recognition on our part, on bipartisan basis, of a need to streamline the program in the light of diminishing resources. We are simply dealing with reality, trying to accommodate the needs of all airports, large and small, in order to project a national airport and air capacity system.

While there are understandable concerns about the effect of formula modifications, we have struck a reasonable balance with the competing priorities. The bill preserves a significant noise program, it protects existing letters of intent commitments, it provides a $50 million discretionary account regardless of the size of the overall program.

Unfortunately, formula modifications are only one element providing adequate funding for airport needs. The effects on the system caused by extreme funding cuts cannot be remedied simply by adjusting the formula. No one disputes that projections for passenger growth will require additional airport capacity. Everybody understands our aviation system is going to go, goodness. Ninety-four percent of all paid intercity travel in America is by air. There may be dispute about existing airport needs, but everyone agrees that funding AIP at its current level or below that level in 1997 is simply not adequate to meet the demands of the projected passenger growth in this country.

We have an obligation to the future. So until we can get all the money paid by the users out of the airspace system for distribution through FAA from the trust fund, either through passage of the trust fund off budget or some other means, we have to find a way to insure that the system can meet the capacity demands placed upon it.

A critical funding issue which has significantly affected the aviation trust fund was expiration of the airline ticket tax which lasted almost 11 months and severely depleted the reserve in the trust fund account. During the time that the taxes lapsed, the uncommitted balance of the aviation trust fund was depleted at a rate of $600 million a month. We have to take responsibility to assure that taxes do not lapse again at the end of this year, and I just want to take this opportunity to urge our colleagues on the Committee on Ways and Means to pass legislation before we adjourn to extend the airline ticket tax beyond the end of this calendar year. It is simply not responsible to let that ticket tax expire at the end of the year and have airports, airlines, wondering how they are going to meet capacity needs.

The American people also want to know that they are safe when they get on board an aircraft. We have repeatedly heard the citizens of this country articulate their willingness to incur higher costs if those costs are going to mean more airport security and better safety. It is irresponsible to let the excise tax lapse when safety and security are on the line when we are going to put another billion dollars of cost on this system to make it more safe and more secure.

Madam Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. SHUSTER. Madam Speaker, I yield 5 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from Tennessee [Mr. DUNCAN], chairman of the Subcommittee on Aviation of the Committee on Transportation.

Mr. DUNCAN. Madam Speaker, I rise in strong support of H.R. 3539, the Federal Aviation Authorization Act. This bill has been developed, as the gentleman from Minnesota [Mr. OBERSTAR] noted, in a very strong bipartisan manner with primary support and leadership from our outstanding chairman, the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. SHUSTER], the ranking member of the full committee, the gentleman from Minnesota [Mr. OBERSTAR] who is so dedicated to aviation, and the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. LIPINSKI], my good friend and the ranking member of the Subcommittee on Aviation. Let me also thank every member of the Subcommittee on Aviation for their contributions to this legislation as well. I think the committee has done an outstanding job in dealing with some very difficult and complex issues. While I am sure we do not have a perfect bill, I think we have crafted a product that every Member can and should support. Any changes, any minor or technical changes that might be needed in this legislation, can be addressed in conference when we meet with the Senate.

In order for needed improvements to be made to our Nation's outdated air traffic control equipment, in order for us to improve aviation security at airports around this Nation, in order for us to do all we can to improve safety for millions of traveling Americans, we must pass this legislation.

The House Subcommittee on Aviation, which I have the privilege to chair, held several days of hearings on a number of issues ranging from privatization of airports to revenue diversion.

The bill reauthorizes for 3 years programs administered by the FAA, including the Airport Improvement Program, the Airway Facilities Improvement Program and the overall operations of the FAA.

H.R. 3539 authorizes funding to help the FAA replace the 30-year-old air traffic control equipment that has been stretched beyond its useful life.

It addresses airport development financing, including the creation of a commission to review innovative financing proposals that will help both airport and FAA financing in the future.

The legislation also adjusts the AIP formula so that the smaller airports, the general aviation airports, will get their fair share of funding.

It increases the entitlement for every airport in the Nation.

Let me repeat that, Madam Speaker. The legislation, this legislation, increases entitlement funding for every airport in the Nation, large and small alike.

The bill protects current letters of intent so that ongoing airport construction projects can continue without interruption, and it retains the set-aside for noise and military airports, the noise problems that are of so much concern to many people around this Nation.

H.R. 3539 increases the number of States participating in the State block grant program from 7 to 10, and it creates a pilot program permitting the sale or long-term lease of up to 6 airports across the Nation. In other words, a pilot experimental program for airport privatization.

The bill imposes cost limitations on FAA housing purchases, and it imposes treble damages on anyone caught illegally diverting revenue from an airport.

It also improves aviation security by permitting the FAA to require airlines to do background checks before hiring someone to screen baggage, and finally H.R. 3539 incorporates legislation that this House passed overwhelmingly last July, the Child Pilot Safety Act and the Airline Pilot Hiring and Safety Act, both very needed improvements in our aviation system.

Madam Speaker, I cannot stress enough the importance of this legislation. It makes needed improvements to various programs administered by the FAA, and it will help provide the traveling public with a safer, more secure aviation system. Experts have testified that air passenger traffic will increase to well over 800 million, possibly even 1 billion, just 10 years from now, and according to FAA forecasts the number of passengers carried on U.S. airlines will increase from 597 million this year to at least 718 million just 4 years from now, an increase of at least 20 percent by the most conservative estimates.

So obviously we are going to have to build new airports or at least expand existing airports around the country, but we need to make sure that that is done, that expansion, this expansion is done in the most cost-effective manner and the way that is best for the taxpayers.

Madam Speaker, this legislation will move our Nation in the right direction, and it will help us meet both the immediate and long-term challenges in aviation. I strongly support this legislation, I urge every Member of the House to support it as well because this is the key legislation we will have this year to improve our aviation system and make it safer and more secure for all Americans.

Mr. OBERSTAR. Madam Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. SHUSTER. Madam Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. CLINGER], a senior member of the committee and the distinguished chairman of the Committee on Government Reform and Oversight.

Mr. CLINGER. Madam Speaker, I thank the gentleman very much for yielding to me and commend him for this legislation as well as my friends, the gentleman from Minnesota [Mr. OBERSTAR] and the gentleman from Tennessee [Mr. DUNCAN] and the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. LIPINSKI]. Before I do this, this is my last opportunity to express to my good friend Mr. OBERSTAR. He has indicated that we worked together for 14 years and 10 of those years on aviation matters. It was an incredibly rewarding experience for me and one that I think we shared in accomplishing a great deal for aviation over the years, and so I wanted to publicly express my gratitude to him for the partnership we had. He was always very fair to the minority throughout that tenure, and I was very grateful for it. I would also note that he has been my mentor in many transportation areas. Most recently he is advising me on what type of bicycle I should be purchasing, and I am grateful for that as well, and I also wanted to wish him a happy birthday.

Madam Speaker, I strongly support this legislation. The bill has been explained. In the limited time I have left I just want to speak about the fundamental role played by aviation in the lives of rural Americans. I have a congressional district that includes four airports served only by commuters, and with one exception none of these communities are on the interstate highway system. Aviation has really, as we know, become the lifeblood and well-being of small communities, and though many may equate aviation as a service enjoyed only by urban areas, it has really been my experience that quality of life in rural communities is now measured in part by the degree of air service it receives, and the challenge, Madam Speaker, to small communities is maintaining affordable service. Unlike large cities where several carriers may compete for any number of routes, rural areas generally rely on one carrier providing service to one nearby 3 or 4 times a day. The lack of competition into rural communities generally results in very high prices and also holds a community captive to one carrier to book tickets for locations beyond a nearby hub. The economies of scale clearly do play a role here and to some degree I would expect to pay more to get to a remote area. But rural residents have come to expect reliable, affordable air travel, much the same way as urban dwellers.

I say this because in my years on the committee I have come to appreciate just how price-sensitive the public is to the cost of air travel. I think it especially important as Congress and the administration work to implement new safety initiatives that careful attention be paid to cost. Rural communities served by commuters are the least able to spread the cost among passengers and are clearly the most at risk for losing service altogether, so with that caveat I indicate my strong support for the legislation and urge its passage.

Mr. OBERSTAR. Madam Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Tennessee [Mr. TANNER].

Mr. TANNER. Madam Speaker, I thank the gentleman from Minnesota [Mr. OBERSTAR] for yielding the time to me.

Madam Speaker, I rise in support of H.R. 3539, and I want to commend the chairmen and the ranking members of the Transportation and Infrastructure Committee and the Aviation Subcommittee for their work on this piece of legislation. I also want to thank them for including in H.R. 3539, title VII—the Federal Aviation Administration Research, Engineering, and Development, which are the provisions adopted by the Science Committee in H.R. 3322, the Omnibus Civilian Science Authorization Act authorizing the Federal Aviation Administration's [FAA] research and development program.

The principal purposes of title VII strengthen the role of the Federal Aviation Administration's [FAA] Research Advisory Committee in setting FAA's R&D priorities and in streamlining the National Aviation Research Plan. This language is based on the recommendations of witnesses who appeared before the Technology Subcommittee during three oversight hearings on FAA's R&D programs.

The Research Advisory Committee, established by statute, is composed of aviation experts from industry, other R&D agencies, and universities. To date the advisory committee has not had much influence on setting FAA's R&D goals. Title VII now requires the Research Advisory Committee to review and provide recommendations to FAA on its R&D budget, and it also requires FAA to consider those recommendations in establishing its R&D priorities.

In addition, FAA must report to Congress on its response to the advisory committee's recommendations.

In addition, the provisions in title VII of H.R. 3539 simplify the contents of the National Aviation Research Plan to make it more useful to Congress for tracking and assessing the FAA's goals and priorities.

The goals of title VII are to strengthen public/private cooperation to develop an R&D agenda which will effectively modernize the air traffic system and ensure the safety and reliability of air travel in the United States.

Again, I want to thank Chairman DUNCAN and Ranking Member LIPINSKI for working with the Science Committee to incorporate the R&D title into the FAA authorization bill and I urge my colleagues to support H.R. 3539.

□ 1530

Mr. SHUSTER. Madam Speaker, I am pleased to yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. WALKER], the distinguished chairman of the Committee on Science.

Mr. WALKER. Madam Speaker, I rise today in support of H.R. 3539, the Federal Aviation Authorization [FAA] Act of 1996. I would like to thank the chairwoman, Congresswoman CONNIE

MORELLA, and the ranking member, Congressman JOHN TANNER, of the Science Committee's Subcommittee on Technology for their work in crafting title VI of H.R. 3539.

Title VI is the FAA Research, Engineering, and Development [RD&E] Management Reform Act of 1996. The FAA RD&E Act was originally introduced by Chairwoman MORELLA on May 16, 1996. Its major provisions were subsequently incorporated into H.R. 3322, the Omnibus Civilian Science Authorization Act of 1996 which passed the House on May 30, 1996. The language in title VI is taken directly from H.R. 3322.

Title VI authorizes $186 million for FAA research and development activities in fiscal year 1997. The title further directs the FAA research advisory committee to annually review the FAA research and development funding allocations and requires the Administrator of the FAA to consider the advisory committee's advice in establishing its annual funding priorities. Finally, title VI streamlines the requirements of the National Aviation Research Plans and shortens the time-frame the plans must cover from 15 to 5 years.

Madam Speaker, title VI strengthens an already good bill, and I would like to thank Transportation Committee Chairman SHUSTER and Aviation Subcommittee Chairman DUNCAN along with full Committee Ranking Member OBERSTAR and Subcommittee Ranking Member LIPINSKI for their support and assistance in including the FAA RD&E Act in H.R. 3539. I urge all my colleagues to vote to suspend the rules and pass H.R. 3539.

Mr. SHUSTER. Madam Speaker, I am pleased to yield 1 minute to the distinguished gentleman from Colorado [Mr. HEFLEY].

Mr. HEFLEY. Madam Speaker, I would like to engage in a colloquy with the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. SHUSTER].

I appreciate the gentleman's efforts, particularly in providing a provision on airport certification. Particularly, there is a provision in the bill which changes the FAA's requirement that all airports flying planes with more than nine passengers must have received their certification. The old requirement was 30 passengers.

I would ask the gentleman, is that correct?

Mr. SHUSTER. Madam Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. HEFLEY. I yield to the gentleman from Pennsylvania.

Mr. SHUSTER. Madam Speaker, that is correct.

Mr. HEFLEY. I appreciate that provision and the improved safety it will result in, but I was concerned that reliever airports which do not intend to fly planes with over nine passengers may be forced to apply for certification. A provision has been included in the bill which states that an airport which has not currently received certification does not have to apply if they do not intend to fly planes with over nine passengers. Is that also correct?

Mr. SHUSTER. That is correct, and I appreciate the gentleman's efforts.

Mr. HEFLEY. Another provision that I am concerned about in the bill, it allows the Secretary of Transportation to obligate funds for runway construction even if the Committee on Appropriations has specifically prohibited the runway from being built.

This section is really referring to a proposed sixth runway at Denver International Airport. Denver officials contend that this is needed. There is some argument about whether it is needed or not. There is tremendous concern about noise created by this airport that was never anticipated by the city of Denver.

Mr. SHUSTER. I would be happy to work with the gentleman in conference to try to resolve these differences.

Mr. HEFLEY. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. SHUSTER. Madam Speaker, I am pleased to yield 4 minutes to the gentleman from Virginia [Mr. WOLF], the distinguished chairman of the Subcommittee on Transportation.

(Mr. WOLF asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. WOLF. Madam Speaker, I thank the chairman of the committee for yielding me time.

Madam Speaker, there is much in this bill that is very good. I want to put this at the outset of the statement. There are two issues that I have concerns about, one the gentleman from Colorado [Mr. HEFLEY] just raised, and that is the first provision, section 411, which states that even if the Committee on Appropriations denies funding for a runway at an international airport the Secretary of Transportation may obligate funds for such projects anyway.

Essentially, this language says that despite what the Committee on Appropriations does, it can go ahead. I was pleased to hear the gentleman's comments.

The Transportation and Infrastructure Committee report accompanying H.R. 3539 indicates that the intent of this language was to ensure funding for a sixth runway at the Denver International Airport. However, this project has been specifically denied by Congress in the appropriations process for the past 3 years. Not only has the funding been denied for 3 years, no funds are provided once again in this year's appropriations bill, considered by the House only a few short weeks ago, and no amendment to that provision was offered when the bill was debated on the House floor. That appropriations bill—with no amendments offered dealing with this issue—was passed by an overwhelming vote of 403 to 2.

The rules of the House and parliamentary precedents make clear that it is the prerogative of the Appropriations Committee to provide resources for, or make valid limitations on, the financial obligations of the Federal Government. In an unusual and clever way, section 411 of this bill takes away the unambiguous rights of the Appropriations Committee and allows the executive branch to spend funds for a project even if they have been specifically denied by the Congress. In essence, this is a reverse line item veto—it allows funds to be spent even after Congress denies them. This Congress has an excellent record of reducing the deficit and forcing the hard cuts in an oversized Government. It makes no sense to set a new precedent allowing the executive branch to undermine the prerogatives of the Appropriations Committee and the Congress, by authorizing it to spend funds for a project Congress has repeatedly denied.

And this is no ordinary airport project. The access road to the Denver Airport is called Pena Boulevard—so named after the current Secretary of Transportation and former mayor of Denver and the very individual to whom the bill gives sole power to fund the project over Congress' objections. This airport receives more funding under its letter of intent with the Federal Aviation Administration than any other airport in the country, and I question whether the Department of Transportation can truly be impartial in evaluating further grant applications, given the current Secretary's prior involvement in the Denver Airport project. The Colorado congressional delegation is divided over the need for the sixth runway, and the airport has a history of management problems including illegal diversion of airport revenues.

Simply stated, Denver has not proven the case for a new runway. Management problems continue, including diversion of airport revenues, shoddy construction of the existing runways and buildings; and significant airport noise issues. There is no compelling air traffic problem at the airport justifying a new runway at this time. Even the airport director stated last year that the proposed runway would provide "marketing and business opportunities for companies throughout the region that would not otherwise exist." This is not ample justification for Federal investment, when resources are scarce and significant airport capacity issues exist in other cities around the country, and when decisions are necessary to curb the Federal deficit.

In addition, not only would this provision grant the Secretary of Transportation authority to override congressional mandates regarding the Denver International Airport, the bill as reported would allow the Secretary to approve funding for any international runway where funding was expressly denied by the Congress. There are other runway projects in this country which are highly controversial and Congress should not cede control over these projects to the Secretary of Transportation.

Section 411 is extremely controversial, unnecessary, would establish an alarming precedent, and should not be included in this legislation.

The second provision of concern to me is section 416, which prohibits the Federal Aviation Administration from installing a terminal Doppler weather radar at the Brooklyn Coast Guard Air Station in New York and requires a study of the feasibility of siting such equipment from an offshore platform.

While politically attractive perhaps, the offshore concept appears to be unworkable and unrealistic from an engineering and cost-benefit standpoint. In fact, after years of analysis, the FAA concluded that the Coast Guard air station in Brooklyn is the best site for this safety radar, which is badly needed in the New York metropolitan area. Furthermore, section 416 violates congressional direction contained in the statement of the managers on the fiscal year 1996 Department of Transportation Appropriations Act, which directed the FAA to provide enhanced wind shear detection capability for the New York metropolitan area as soon as possible.

More than a year later, this critical safety improvement still does not exist for the New York City area and the language in H.R. 3539 would lead to additional delays.

There is an unquestioned need for this safety radar system in New York and calling for another study will not only be unproductive, but would pose unnecessary delays in getting essential safety equipment in place. The longer we wait, the greater the risk of an accident.

The lack of Doppler weather radar was cited by the National Transportation Safety Board as one factor in the aviation accident near Charlotte, NC, just 2 years ago. On July 2, 1994, a DC-9 operating as USAir flight 1016 flew into terrain, colliding with trees and a private residence during a missed approach to the Charlotte/Douglas International Airport. The captain, first officer, one flight attendant, and one passenger received minor injuries. The remaining 37 passengers died. The airplane itself was destroyed by impact forces and a postcrash fire. What was the cause of the crash? According to the NTSB, a critical factor was the lack of real-time adverse weather and windshear hazard information which Doppler weather radar would have provided. Had the Doppler weather radar been in place, it is possible that this tragedy could have been avoided. We cannot allow the delays that plagued Charlotte to similarly plague New York. We simply cannot and should not run the risk of a similar accident in New York City.

If recent events have shown us anything, they have clearly demonstrated the need for increased emphasis on aviation safety and placing the highest priority on funding for aviation safety equipment. This provision would undermine aviation safety—for nearby residents in New York and for the millions who use the New York airports.

Madam Speaker, in July the House gave overwhelming approval to the fiscal year 1997 transportation appropriations legislation which places paramount importance on safety. Maintaining and improving aviation safety was the No. 1 priority in the appropriations legislation. In fact, we added some $139 million not included in the President's budget request for new air traffic control equipment and systems to improve safety and airway capacity. Final approval of the fiscal year 1997 transportation appropriations bill is expected shortly and safety will continue to be the hallmark of that legislation.

I am a strong supporter of aviation programs but am convinced that the two provisions in H.R. 3539 that I just outlined pose serious problems. I regret that these provisions are included in legislation I would like to support. However, I believe these provisions are inconsistent with congressional efforts to improve aviation safety. I cannot ignore the deleterious and dangerous effects of these provisions and regretfully oppose H.R. 3539.

Mr. OBERSTAR. Madam Speaker, I yield 1½ minutes to the gentlewoman from Colorado [Mrs. SCHROEDER].

(Mrs. SCHROEDER asked and was given permission to revise and extend her remarks.)

Mrs. SCHROEDER. Madam Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding time to me.

Madam Speaker, I rise in strong support of section 411. I think this is terribly critical, because I must say, I am very tired of my airport in Denver being bashed around. No other airport in the Nation has a legislative funding prohibition. This funding prohibition on this runway was put in before the airport even opened. It also is the sixth busiest airport in the world now.

Now we hear people talking about noise. If you are going to talk about noise, there are at least 50 other airports that should have their funding blocked if we are going to use that as a criteria.

I guess I rise today, Madam Speaker, to say we do not mind being judged by the same standards everyone else does, but why this airport has been singled out and continually battered I do not know, because it seems to be working very well. Consumers like it. It has added tremendously to the safety. I like any airport that pilots like. I think it is terribly important that we do not so micromanage that we fall all over ourselves.

The local government, the people of Colorado, and the Federal Government spent a tremendous amount of money to open this state-of-the-art airport. It was planned with six runways. To say that we are only going to do it with five, to continue to punish it, is wrong. I salute the committee for having put in this section 411 to not micromanage, and I really urge Members not to do this type of thing, when we have made these kinds of investments in infrastructure this country so desperately needs.

Madam Speaker, I want to express my support for section 411 of the Federal Aviation Authorization Act, H.R. 3539. The Transportation Committee, under the direction of Chairman SHUSTER and ranking Democrat Mr. OBERSTAR, included section 411, which returns the authority to the Department of Transportation for determining whether an airport receives funding for additional runways.

In other words, the Department of Transportation not the appropriating committee should determine if an airport should build additional runways. This addresses an egregious prohibition on building a sixth runway at Denver International Airport [DIA] that was included in the Transportation appropriations measure.

Section 411 is needed because:

No other airport in the Nation has a legislative funding prohibition. Singling out DIA is indefensible and unprecedented. DIA has proved that is one of the most efficient airports in the Nation. Placing a Federal restriction on DIA is also detrimental to the traveling public.

DIA is the sixth busiest airport in the Nation. Moreover, DIA has begun to attract international service. DIA is beginning nonstop service to Toronto, Vancouver, and Calgary.

DIA is designed to have six runways. It provides a balanced airfield of three runways for arrivals and three runways for departures during any kind of weather. The sixth runway is on DIA's airport layout plan, which was approved by the FAA several years ago.

The prohibition was enacted before DIA opened and is no longer relevant. There were problems with DIA and the baggage system, which delayed the opening until February of 1995. Now that the airport has a proven record of service, Denver should be free to complete the airport.

Section 411 in no way provides any funding to build the sixth runway at DIA. All this provision does is allow DIA, like every other airport in the United States, to apply for funding from the FAA.

Using the noise problem at DIA to justify blocking the sixth runway is a ruse. If every airport in the Nation that has a noise problem was singled out for funding restrictions, the list would be a mile long and DIA would be near the bottom. Washington National, BWI, Memphis International, Dallas-Fort Worth, Sarasota Bradenton, Lambert St. Louis, and many others—probably 50 airports—have worse noise problems. It is a complete fabrication to say DIA should not get a sixth runway because of noise.

Mr. OBERSTAR. Madam Speaker, I yield 1 minute and 45 seconds to the distinguished gentlewoman from Maryland [Mrs. MORELLA].

(Mrs. MORELLA asked and was given permission to revise and extend her remarks.)

Mrs. MORELLA. Madam Speaker, I am very pleased to support H.R. 3539, and as chair of the Subcommittee on Technology and on the Committee on Science, I am certainly very grateful that this bill includes title VI funding of Federal Aviation Administration research, engineering, and development, something that I authored along with the gentleman from Tennessee [Mr. TANNER], the distinguished ranking member of the subcommittee on technology.

Madam Speaker, I thank the chairmen of the Transportation Committee, Mr. SHUSTER of Pennsylvania, Mr. OBERSTAR, the ranking member and the Aviation Subcommittee, Mr. DUNCAN of Tennessee, for working with our committee to create an R&D title to the bill.

Title VI of this bill contains sections of H.R. 3322, the Omnibus Civilian Science Authorization Act, which passed the House on May 30, 1996.

In addition to the authorized levels of appropriations for FAA R&D, title VI also contains a number of committee amendments created under the leadership of Mr. TANNER, the Technology Subcommittee ranking member from Tennessee.

These amendments include strengthening the FAA Research Advisory Committee, which was originally created on the initiation of the Science Committee.

By strengthening the Advisory Committee, composed of aviation experts from industry, other R&D agencies, and academia, the FAA can receive better guidance on the goals, relevance, and quality of its r&d program.

This will also assist the FAA in better establishing its research priorities.

In addition, title VI would also streamline the national aviation research plan to make it a more useful document.

The plan should emphasize the overall national r&d goal and priorities; FAA's r&d resource allocations; and connecting FAA's overlapping r&d activities with other agencies.

Madam Speaker, I support the bill before us today which not only authorizes aviation research and development, but also funds airport improvements, air traffic control facilities and equipment, the military airport program, and various maintenance projects, among other important functions.

I urge my colleagues to support the bill.

Mr. OBERSTAR. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Madam Speaker, I listened with great interest to my colleague, the gentleman from Virginia [Mr. WOLF], chairman of the Subcommittee on Transportation of the Committee on Appropriations, about the Doppler radar issue.

I agree, Doppler radar is critically important. It has been cited by the NTSB as a factor, or absence of it as a factor in not only the Raleigh crash but in other situations. The unfortunate thing is that the location of the Doppler weather radar in New York is the issue, not the radar itself. It is not in my backyard. I have followed this issue for many years with great dismay.

There was a proposal to put the Doppler radar in a location in one part of one of the boroughs of New York City, whose name I do not recall, and there was an uproar by the citizens of that area, and the junior Senator from New York came to their defense and said, now, let us hold this off, let us not put it there now, let us find another place to locate it.

The provision in this bill directs a feasibility study of locating the terminal Doppler weather radar on an offshore platform before selecting some other site. I do not see this as a delay to installation of the radar. This is going to be a very quick study. It will be one conducted very readily, a conclusion that can be reached in a very short period of time.

Local concerns are the issue that are holding up this radar. I wish folks would just say, we understand the need for aviation safety, we do not want planes landing in our apartment buildings or in our backyards because they do not have the right radar, do not have the right weather information. But that is not the way people react.

We have this controversy in Minnesota over power lines, over long-distance power lines being too close to dairy farms, and fugitive electricity causing double-headed cows. People have it in their minds that that is a consequence of having electricity so close to their animals. Then we have to deal with that reality. We may have to relocate that line.

Madam Speaker, this is just a technology issue, and it is a people problem as well. We have come to a compromise. I will not stand for any unreasonable delay, and I know the chairman of the committee will not stand for any unreasonable delay. We want this radar to go forward. That is an extremely busy airport. I share the gentlewoman's concern. Let us see if we can get this study accomplished, put fears to rest, and then let the location of the technology take place on its own.

I just want to make one final comment, Madam Speaker. We have heard so much in our committee and by commentators every time there is a disability in the Air Traffic Control System about problems with the Nation's Air Traffic Control System, and allusions to vacuum tubes being used in our Air Traffic Control System. Less than 1 percent of all the technology used in our Air Traffic Control System is dependent upon vacuum tubes. All of it is scheduled for replacement.

Our committee on a bipartisan basis over several years has worked very diligently to upgrade and to speed up the technology in our Air Traffic Control System. As a result of our efforts, working with both the previous administration, the Bush administration, Secretary Skinner, Admiral Busey, when he was head of FAA, and now the current head of FAA, Mr. Hinson, they have brought a new team in, and every month we get this report, an air traffic systems development status report, with which we can track month to month the progress on all of the several key items: The end route, the terminal, the tower, the oceanic and offshore and the air traffic management systems. We know what the cost is, whether they are on track, whether they are behind schedule. I just want to say that the core of this new technology system is the initial sector suite, or the display system replacement.

The first article is going to be installed in Seattle in December, the end of this year, to begin a year of operational testing, so that by 1998 we will be able to move ahead with full deployment of the system. This program was in as bad a shape as we could possibly imagine any Government program getting into, but FAA Administrator Hinson and his team of Associate Administrator George Donahue and his deputy, Bob Valone, working with the new contractor, Lockheed Martin, have turned the program around.

We ought to take credit for this. This committee has diligently worked to make sure that the public investment has paid off. We have real results and real progress to show for it. We are going to see some real solid developments, for example, in the terminal and the end route system modernization, that are actually ahead of schedule. The display channel complex project is ahead of schedule. The voice switching and control system is enabling communication between centers and between units on the ground to do things that they never believed were possible a few years ago.

Madam Speaker, I just would like to say to the listening public, this committee has done its work diligently. We have worked together. We have made sure that the public investment has been cut where it was excessive, has been moved ahead where it was necessary. We have moved to a more modular technology system in the total modernization of the Air Traffic Control System.

This is a huge undertaking, the biggest technology program in the entire Federal Government. We have it on track. We have something really to be proud of. I want to thank the chairman of the committee for his cooperation, that of the gentleman from Tennessee [Mr. DUNCAN], to the staff, and the participation of the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. LIPINSKI], and also the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. CLINGER], who has devoted so many hours to this thing.

We have something good going here. The rest of the world envies our system, and they are buying up pieces of it as soon as we put them into operational use. We are the world's leader in aviation. Let us never forget it. Let us be proud of it. Let us make this bill the flagship of that leadership. I thank the chairman of the committee for his vigorous work on behalf of this legislation. This bill ought to pass overwhelmingly.

Madam Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. SHUSTER. Madam Speaker, I yield myself the balance of my time.

Madam Speaker, I would emphasize that this is must-pass legislation, because each airport across America, no airport will receive funds if this does not pass. It is a bipartisan bill, and I strongly urge its support.

Mr. NADLER. Madam Speaker, I rise in strong support of the language currently in this FAA reauthorization bill concerning Doppler radar for both Kennedy and Laguardia Airports. I was actually somewhat surprised to find out that neither Kennedy nor Laguardia had Doppler to detect wind shear. I commend the FAA for wanting to install Doppler radar, but, unfortunately, the site the FAA is currently reviewing does not provide the best possible coverage of both Kennedy and Laguardia Airports.

After speaking with representatives of the FAA, I was informed that if Doppler radar were installed at the site in Brooklyn, LaGuardia Airport would only enjoy approximately 75 percent accuracy in measuring wind shear. The 75 percent would be achieved only when used in conjunction with an additional system called L-WAS, a low-level wind ananometer which is approximately ten, 40-50 foot poles with windssocks on the end of them, which would be installed at LaGuardia to supplement the Doppler.

The best way to detect wind shear to the maximum extent possible at both LaGuardia and Kennedy and the safest way for any of our constituents flying in or out of New York, is to have a dedicated Doppler radar station for each of the airports. Each of the Washington and Chicago area airports have a dedicated Doppler radar station.

In addition to the technical safety reasons for not putting the station in Brooklyn, is the fact that the station would be put in a residential area. There is concern that this type of radar emits cancer-causing radiowaves. In an area that has some of the highest rates of cancer in the country, I do not believe we should subject these residents to even the possibility of cancer-causing radiation when there is an alternative that, as I said, would provide more effective safety measures for the flying public.

Also, the FAA has recently issued a final environmental impact statement scoping paper that identifies several other sites, in and around Brooklyn, that could prove to be better suited than Floyd Bennett Field or offshore platforms, as I have suggested. The FAA should be allowed to study these proposals and determine the best possible site that would cover both LaGuardia and Kennedy as well as protecting the health of local residents.

I urge my colleagues to allow the current language to stand. Send the message to FAA that we need the best coverage for both LaGuardia and Kennedy Airports. This language currently in the bill would help ensure the safety of all of our constituents who fly in or out of New York, and ensure the safety of local residents.

Mr. LIPINSKI. Madam Speaker, I rise in strong support of H.R. 3539, the Federal Aviation Authorization Act of 1996.

This legislation reauthorizes the Airport Improvement Program, as well as the FAA's facilities and equipment and operations and maintenance programs.

In an era of limited funding, this bill provides the national airport system with the best bang for the buck by fully funding the entitlement program while at the same time guaranteeing existing letters of intent from the discretionary portion of the program. Funding for noise mitigation also remains a priority in this legislation.

But for the longer term, we have no choice but to look toward alternate funding sources, including an increase in the passenger facility charge. FAA and airport funding needs continue to increase, and with the Congress' effort to balance the budget, there simply is not enough funding. The passenger facility charge is now being levied at airports around the country with great success. In future reauthorization cycles, I will continue to advocate increasing the PFC.

Madam Speaker, this legislation is critical. Without it, at the end of the fiscal year, the FAA will be unable to fund its crucial programs. With the tragic aviation accidents we have witnessed in recent months, funding for the air traffic control system, for security, for airport development, is more important than ever. This is must-pass legislation. I strongly urge its adoption.

Madam Speaker, I want to commend Chairman DUNCAN for his leadership in moving this critical legislation through the process, and Chairman SHUSTER and Congressman OBERSTAR for their support. I particularly want to thank the staff of the Aviation Subcommittee on both sides for their hard work on this and all aviation matters. They are a fine group of professionals and we are fortunate to have them working with us.

Madam Speaker, I urge strong support of this legislation and yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. TRAFICANT. Madam Speaker, I rise in strong support of H.R. 3539, the Federal Aviation Authorization Act. I want to commend Mr. DUNCAN and Mr. LIPINSKI for the excellent work they have done on this legislation.

The bill includes an amendment I offered in subcommittee dealing with the Airport Improvement Program's cargo service airport entitlement.

Current law defines cargo service airports as airports that are served by cargo-only or "freighter" aircraft which all together weigh more than 100 million pounds. Under the bill, these airports would be entitled to share in a pot of money that equal 2.5 percent of total AIP funds.

Therein lies the problem. Many smaller airports across the country would like to expand their air cargo operations by expanding or adding runways and making infrastructure improvement. However, the airports are not eligible for the cargo service set-aside under the AIP because they do not meet the 100-million-pound requirement. In order to get AIP funds for air cargo projects, these airports have to compete with other airports for discretionary AIP money.

This is counterproductive. My amendment gives the FAA the discretion to award cargo service entitlement funds to airports that the FAA determines are, or will be, served primarily by aircraft providing air transportation only by cargo.

It's a commonsense amendment, one that will benefit airports across the country. I am pleased it is in the bill.

I am also pleased that the manager's amendment includes several very important provisions—especially the one that removes the FAA's dual mandates, and makes it the law of the land that the FAA's primary mission is aviation safety. In the wake of the ValuJet crash, it has become clear that the FAA's dual mandate has made it difficult, at times, for the FAA to be effective in doing everything possible to ensure aviation safety. Removing the FAA's dual mandate won't solve all of the problems, but it is a wise move in the right direction, and one I heartily support.

The manager's amendment also incorporates into the bill the text of two pieces of legislation previously approved by the House, the Child Pilot Safety Act and the Airline Pilot Hiring and Safety Act. These are two important bills that I strongly support.

We have an excellent piece of legislation before the House, and I urge all Members to support it.

Mr. DEFAZIO. Madam Speaker, as a member of the House Aviation Subcommittee, I do not plan to object to the consideration of H.R. 3539 under suspension of the rules because this bill is long overdue and greatly needed by our Nation's airports and air travelers. However, during the subcommittee's consideration of this legislation and the full committee's markup of the bill I offered an amendment that I would have also liked to offer during floor debate. I was disappointed that the House of Representatives planned to consider H.R. 3539—which authorizes $30 billion for the FAA and airport improvements—under suspension of the rules and I would not be permitted to offer my amendment.

Although much of H.R. 3539 is not controversial, a section was included in this bill that would authorize a pilot program to facilitate the privatization of publicly owned airports. I strongly object to this provision and believe that many Members would voice similar concerns were a full debate possible. At this time I would like to take a moment to outline my objections and explain what my amendment would have done.

The current privatization provisions in H.R. 3539 allow private entities to own and operate airports that have previously been operated as a public entity. However, under the bill, these private companies would have absolutely no obligation to repay the Federal investment in these properties. This is a rip-off for the U.S. taxpayers and corporate welfare at its worst. Since 1946, the Federal Government has awarded over $23.5 billion in airport grants to finance construction, improvements, and maintenance. The U.S. taxpayers funded these grants and should be reimbursed.

My amendment would require entities that purchase or lease airports under the pilot program authorized in H.R. 3539 to repay public Federal investments made to the airport. At the discretion of the FAA these Federal grant repayments could be adjusted to account for depreciation. Funds generated by the repayment would be used to finance FAA safety programs.

Although my amendment was defeated in committee, I believe that after a full public debate on the House floor, many Members would have agreed with my argument and my efforts to make this legislation more fiscally responsible. In addition, other Members had asked to be included in the debate and would have spoken in support of my amendment.

Gifting the Federal investment in these airports to private entities is just another example of corporate welfare. The Federal grants amount to a windfall for private investors, at the expense of the U.S. taxpayers. Under the rationale of the privatization section of the bill, all public entities—including highways and office buildings—should be up for grabs without any obligation to repay the Federal investment.

This section of H.R. 3539 is highly controversial and should be carefully reviewed before enacted into law. The only current example we have of airport privatization is from Great Britain's experience. In this case commercial airports were owned and financed directly by the central government, unlike in the United States where airports are owned by local government. The British Government sold these airports for $2.5 billion in a public share offering, generating significant capital for the taxpayers.

Even after privatization, the British Government found it necessary to impose a system of price controls on landing fees at the private airports. The airports remain subject to regulation of airlines' access, airports' charges to airlines, safety, security and environmental protection. The Government also maintains the right to veto new airport investment or divestiture.

Although I continue to object to the privatization section of this legislation, I will be supporting the bill because it includes authorization for needed Federal expenditures. In addition, I am extremely pleased that the bill also includes, at my request, language eliminating the dual mandate of the FAA. This new language will clearly direct the FAA to promote the safety of air travel, not promote the airline industry. I have long sought this change in the FAA's authorizing statute and I thank the committee for including this in the bill we are considering today.

Mr. SHUSTER. Madam Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. (Ms. GREENE of Utah). The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. SHUSTER], that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 3539, as amended.

The question was taken.

Mr. CANADY of Florida. Madam Speaker, I object to the vote on the ground that a quorum is not present and make the point of order that a quorum is not present.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 5 of rule I and the Chair's prior announcement, further proceedings on this motion will be postponed.

The point of no quorum is considered withdrawn.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. SHUSTER. Madam Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on H.R. 3539, the bill just considered.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. (Ms. GREENE of Utah). Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Pennsylvania?

There was no objection.

ANTARCTIC ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION ACT OF 1996

Mr. WALKER. Madam Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and concur in the Senate amendment to the bill (H.R. 3060) to implement the Protocol on Environmental Protection to the Antarctic Treaty.

The Clerk read as follows:

Senate amendment: Strike out all after the enacting clause and insert:

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the "Antarctic Science, Tourism, and Conservation Act of 1996".

TITLE I—AMENDMENTS TO THE ANTARCTIC CONSERVATION ACT OF 1978

SEC. 101. FINDINGS AND PURPOSE.

(a) FINDINGS.—Section 2(a) of the Antarctic Conservation Act of 1978 (16 U.S.C. 2401(a)) is amended—

(1) by redesignating paragraphs (1) and (2) as paragraphs (4) and (5) respectively, and inserting before paragraph (4), as redesignated, the following:

"(1) for well over a quarter of a century, scientific investigation has been the principal activity of the Federal Government and United States nationals in Antarctica;

"(2) more recently, interest of American tourists in Antarctica has increased;

"(3) as the lead civilian agency in Antarctica, the National Science Foundation has long had responsibility for ensuring that United States scientific activities and tourism, and their supporting logistics operations, are conducted with an eye to preserving the unique values of the Antarctic region;";

(2) by striking "the Agreed Measures for the Conservation of Antarctic Fauna and Flora, adopted at the Third Antarctic Treaty Consultative Meeting, have established a firm foundation" in paragraph (4), as redesignated, and inserting "the Protocol establish a firm foundation for the conservation of Antarctic resources";

(3) by striking paragraph (5), as redesignated, and inserting the following:

"(5) the Antarctic Treaty and the Protocol establish international mechanisms and create legal obligations necessary for the maintenance of Antarctica as a natural reserve devoted to peace and science.".

SEC. 102. DEFINITIONS.

Section 3 of the Antarctic Conservation Act of 1978 (16 U.S.C. 2402) is amended to read as follows:

"SEC. 3. DEFINITIONS.

"For purposes of this Act—

"(1) the term 'Administrator' means the Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency;

"(2) the term 'Antarctica' means the area south of 60 degrees south latitude;

"(3) the term 'Antarctic Specially Protected Area' means an area identified as such pursuant to Annex V to the Protocol;

"(4) the term 'Director' means the Director of the National Science Foundation;

"(5) the term 'harmful interference' means—

"(A) flying or landing helicopters or other aircraft in a manner that disturbs concentrations of birds or seals;

"(B) using vehicles or vessels, including hovercraft and small boats, in a manner that disturbs concentrations of birds or seals;

"(C) using explosives or firearms in a manner that disturbs concentrations of birds or seals;

"(D) willfully disturbing breeding or molting birds or concentrations of birds or seals by persons on foot;

"(E) significantly damaging concentrations of native terrestrial plants by landing aircraft, driving vehicles, or walking on them, or by other means; and

"(F) any activity that results in the significant adverse modification of habitats of any species or population of native mammal, native bird, native plant, or native invertebrate;

"(6) the term 'historic site or monument' means any site or monument listed as an historic site or monument pursuant to Annex V to the Protocol;

"(7) the term 'impact' means impact on the Antarctic environment and dependent and associated ecosystems;

"(8) the term 'import' means to land on, bring into, or introduce into, or attempt to land on, bring into or introduce into, any place subject to the jurisdiction of the United States, including the 12-mile territorial sea of the United States, whether or not such act constitutes an importation within the meaning of the customs laws of the United States;

"(9) the term 'native bird' means any member, at any stage of its life cycle (including eggs), of any species of the class Aves which is indigenous to Antarctica or occurs there seasonally through natural migrations, and includes any part of such member;

"(10) the term 'native invertebrate' means any terrestrial or freshwater invertebrate, at any stage of its life cycle, which is indigenous to Antarctica, and includes any part of such invertebrate;

"(11) the term 'native mammal' means any member, at any stage of its life cycle, of any species of the class Mammalia, which is indigenous to Antarctica or occurs there seasonally through natural migrations, and includes any part of such member;

"(12) the term 'native plant' means any terrestrial or freshwater vegetation, including bryophytes, lichens, fungi, and algae, at any stage of its life cycle (including seeds and other propagules), which is indigenous to Antarctica, and includes any part of such vegetation;

"(13) the term 'non-native species' means any species of animal or plant which is not indigenous to Antarctica and does not occur there seasonally through natural migrations;

"(14) the term 'person' has the meaning given that term in section 1 of title 1, United States Code, and includes any person subject to the jurisdiction of the United States and any department, agency, or other instrumentality of the Federal Government or of any State or local government;

"(15) the term 'prohibited product' means any substance banned from introduction onto land or ice shelves or into water in Antarctica pursuant to Annex III to the Protocol;

"(16) the term 'prohibited waste' means any substance which must be removed from Antarctica pursuant to Annex III to the Protocol, but does not include materials used for balloon envelopes required for scientific research and weather forecasting;

"(17) the term 'Protocol' means the Protocol on Environmental Protection to the Antarctic Treaty, signed October 4, 1991, in Madrid, and all annexes thereto, including any future amendments thereto to which the United States is a party;

"(18) the term 'Secretary' means the Secretary of Commerce;

"(19) the term 'Specially Protected Species' means any native species designated as a Specially Protected Species pursuant to Annex II to the Protocol;

"(20) the term 'take' means to kill, injure, capture, handle, or molest a native mammal or bird, or to remove or damage such quantities of native plants that their local distribution or abundance would be significantly affected;

"(21) the term 'Treaty' means the Antarctic Treaty signed in Washington, DC, on December 1, 1959;

"(22) the term 'United States' means the several States of the Union, the District of Columbia, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, American Samoa, the Virgin Islands, Guam, the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands, and any other commonwealth, territory, or possession of the United States; and

"(23) the term 'vessel subject to the jurisdiction of the United States' includes any 'vessel of the United States' and any 'vessel subject to the jurisdiction of the United States' as those terms are defined in section 303 of the Antarctic Marine Living Resources Convention Act of 1984 (16 U.S.C. 2432)."

SEC. 103. PROHIBITED ACTS.

Section 4 of the Antarctic Conservation Act of 1978 (16 U.S.C. 2403) is amended to read as follows:

"SEC. 4. PROHIBITED ACTS.

"(a) IN GENERAL.—It is unlawful for any person—

"(1) to introduce any prohibited product onto land or ice shelves or into water in Antarctica;

"(2) to dispose of any waste onto ice-free land areas or into fresh water systems in Antarctica;

"(3) to dispose of any prohibited waste in Antarctica;

"(4) to engage in open burning of waste;

“(5) to transport passengers to, from, or within Antarctica by any seagoing vessel not required to comply with the Act to Prevent Pollution from Ships (33 U.S.C. 1901 et seq.), unless the person has an agreement with the vessel owner or operator under which the owner or operator is required to comply with Annex IV to the Protocol;

“(6) who organizes, sponsors, operates, or promotes a nongovernmental expedition to Antarctica, and who does business in the United States, to fail to notify all members of the expedition of the environmental protection obligations of this Act, and of actions which members must take, or not take, in order to comply with those obligations;

“(7) to damage, remove, or destroy a historic site or monument;

“(8) to refuse permission to any authorized officer or employee of the United States to board a vessel, vehicle, or aircraft of the United States, or subject to the jurisdiction of the United States, for the purpose of conducting any search or inspection in connection with the enforcement of this Act or any regulation promulgated or permit issued under this Act;

“(9) to forcibly assault, resist, oppose, impede, intimidate, or interfere with any authorized officer or employee of the United States in the conduct of any search or inspection described in paragraph (8);

“(10) to resist a lawful arrest or detention for any act prohibited by this section;

“(11) to interfere with, delay, or prevent, by any means, the apprehension, arrest, or detention of another person, knowing that such other person has committed any act prohibited by this section;

“(12) to violate any regulation issued under this Act, or any term or condition of any permit issued to that person under this Act; or “(13) to attempt to commit or cause to be committed any act prohibited by this section.

“(b) ACTS PROHIBITED UNLESS AUTHORIZED BY PERMIT.—It is unlawful for any person, unless authorized by a permit issued under this Act—

“(1) to dispose of any waste in Antarctica (except as otherwise authorized by the Act to Prevent Pollution from Ships) including—

“(A) disposing of any waste from land into the sea in Antarctica; and

“(B) incinerating any waste on land or ice shelves in Antarctica, or on board vessels at points of embarkation or debarkation, other than through the use at remote field sites of incinerator toilets for human waste;

“(2) to introduce into Antarctica any member of a nonnative species;

“(3) to enter or engage in activities within any Antarctic Specially Protected Area;

“(4) to engage in any taking or harmful interference in Antarctica; or

“(5) to receive, acquire, transport, offer for sale, sell, purchase, import, export, or have custody, control, or possession of, any native bird, native mammal, or native plant which the person knows, or in the exercise of due care should have known, or in the exercise of due care should have known, was taken in violation of this Act.

“(c) EXCEPTION FOR EMERGENCIES.—No act described in subsection (a)(1), (2), (3), (4), (5), (7), (12), or (13) or in subsection (b) shall be unlawful if the person committing the act reasonably believed that the act was committed under emergency circumstances involving the safety of human life or of ships, aircraft, or equipment or facilities of high value, or the protection of the environment.”

SEC. 104. ENVIRONMENTAL IMPACT ASSESSMENT.

The Antarctic Conservation Act of 1978 is amended by inserting after section 4 the following new section:

“SEC. 4A. ENVIRONMENTAL IMPACT ASSESSMENT.

“(a) FEDERAL ACTIVITIES.—(1)(A) The obligations of the United States under Article 8 of and Annex I to the Protocol shall be implemented by applying the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (42 U.S.C. 4321 et seq.) to proposals for Federal agency activities in Antarctica, as specified in this section.

“(B) The obligations contained in section 102(2)(C) of the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (42 U.S.C. 4332(2)(C)) shall apply to all proposals for Federal agency activities occurring in Antarctica and affecting the quality of the human environment in Antarctica or dependent or associated ecosystems, only as specified in this section. For purposes of the application of such section 102(2)(C) under this subsection, the term “significantly affecting the quality of the human environment” shall have the same meaning as the term “more than a minor or transitory impact”.

“(2)(A) Unless an agency which proposes to conduct a Federal activity in Antarctica determines that the activity will have less than a minor or transitory impact, or unless a comprehensive environmental evaluation is being prepared in accordance with subparagraph (C), the agency shall prepare an initial environmental evaluation in accordance with Article 2 of Annex I to the Protocol.

“(B) If the agency determines, through the preparation of the initial environmental evaluation, that the proposed Federal activity is likely to have no more than a minor or transitory impact, the activity may proceed if appropriate procedures are put in place to assess and verify the impact of the activity.

“(C) If the agency determines, through the preparation of the initial environmental evaluation or otherwise, that a proposed Federal activity is likely to have more than a minor or transitory impact, the agency shall prepare and circulate a comprehensive environmental evaluation in accordance with Article 3 of Annex I to the Protocol, and shall make such comprehensive environmental evaluation publicly available for comment.

“(3) Any agency decision under this section on whether a proposed Federal activity, to which paragraph (2)(C) applies, should proceed, and, if so, whether in its original or in a modified form, shall be based on the comprehensive environmental evaluation as well as other considerations which the agency, in the exercise of its discretion, considers relevant.

“(4) For the purposes of this section, the term ‘Federal activity’ includes all activities conducted under a Federal agency research program in Antarctica, whether or not conducted by a Federal agency.

“(b) FEDERAL ACTIVITIES CARRIED OUT JOINTLY WITH FOREIGN GOVERNMENTS.—(1) For the purposes of this subsection, the term ‘Antarctic joint activity’ means any Federal activity in Antarctica which is proposed to be conducted, or which is conducted, jointly or in cooperation with one or more foreign governments. Such term shall be defined in regulations promulgated by such agencies as the President may designate.

“(2) Where the Secretary of State, in cooperation with the lead United States agency planning an Antarctic joint activity, determines that—

“(A) the major part of the joint activity is being contributed by a government or governments other than the United States;

(B) one such government is coordinating the implementation of environmental impact assessment procedures for that activity; and

(C) such government has signed, ratified, or acceded to the Protocol, the requirements of subsection (a) of this section shall not apply with respect to that activity.

“(3) In all cases of Antarctic joint activity other than those described in paragraph (2), the requirements of subsection (a) of this section shall apply with respect to that activity, except as provided in paragraph (4).

“(4) Determinations described in paragraph (2), and agency actions and decisions in connection with assessments of impacts of Antarctic joint activities, shall not be subject to judicial review.

“(c) NONGOVERNMENTAL ACTIVITIES.—(1) The Administrator shall, within 2 years after the date of the enactment of the Antarctic Science, Tourism, and Conservation Act of 1996, promulgate regulations to provide for—

“(A) the environmental impact assessment of nongovernmental activities, including tourism, for which the United States is required to give advance notice under paragraph 5 of Article VII of the Treaty; and “(B) coordination of the review of information regarding environmental impact assessment received from other Parties under the Protocol.

“(2) Such regulations shall be consistent with Annex I to the Protocol.

“(d) DECISION TO PROCEED.—(1) No decision shall be taken to proceed with an activity for which a comprehensive environmental evaluation is prepared under this section unless there has been an opportunity for consideration of the draft comprehensive environmental evaluation at an Antarctic Treaty Consultative Meeting, except that no decision to proceed with a proposed activity shall be delayed through the operation of this paragraph for more than 15 months from the date of circulation of the draft comprehensive environmental evaluation pursuant to Article 3(3) of Annex I to the Protocol.

“(2) The Secretary of State shall circulate the final comprehensive environmental evaluation, in accordance with Article 3(6) of Annex I to the Protocol, at least 60 days before the commencement of the activity in Antarctica.

“(e) CASES OF EMERGENCY.—The requirements of this section, and of regulations promulgated under this section, shall not apply in cases of emergency relating to the safety of human life or of ships, aircraft, or equipment and facilities of high value, or the protection of the environment, which require an activity to be undertaken without fulfilling those requirements.

“(f) EXCLUSIVE MECHANISM.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the requirements of this section shall constitute the sole and exclusive statutory obligations of the Federal agencies with regard to assessing the environmental impacts of proposed Federal activities occurring in Antarctica.

“(g) DECISIONS ON PERMIT APPLICATIONS.—The provisions of this section requiring environmental impact assessments (including initial environmental evaluations and comprehensive environmental evaluations) shall not apply to Federal actions with respect to issuing permits under section 5.

“(h) PUBLICATION OF NOTICES.—Whenever the Secretary of State makes a determination under paragraph (2) of subsection (b) of this section, or receives a draft comprehensive environmental evaluation in accordance with Annex I, Article 3(3) to the Protocol, the Secretary of State shall cause timely notice thereof to be published in the Federal Register.”

SEC. 105. PERMITS.

Section 5 of the Antarctic Conservation Act of 1978 (16 U.S.C. 2404) is amended—

(1) in subsection (a) by striking “section 4(a)” and inserting in lieu thereof “section 4(b)”;

(2) in subsection (c)(1)(B) by striking “Special” and inserting in lieu thereof “Species”;

and

(3) in subsection (e)—

(A) by striking “or native plants to which the permit applies,” in paragraph (1)(A)(i) and inserting in lieu thereof “native plants, or native invertebrates to which the permit applies, and”;

(B) by striking paragraph (1)(A)(ii) and (iii) and inserting in lieu thereof the following new clause:

“(ii) the manner in which the taking or harmful interference shall be conducted (which manner shall be determined by the Director to be humane) and the area in which it will be conducted;”;

(C) by striking “within Antarctica (other than within any specially protected area)” in paragraph (2)(A) and inserting in lieu thereof “or harmful interference within Antarctica”;

(D) by striking "specially protected species" in paragraph (2)(A) and (B) and inserting in lieu thereof "Specially Protected Species";

(E) by striking ";" and" at the end of paragraph (2)(A)(i)(II) and inserting in lieu thereof "; or";

(F) by adding after paragraph (2)(A)(i)(II) the following new subclause:

"(III) for unavoidable consequences of scientific activities or the construction and operation of scientific support facilities; and";

(G) by striking "with Antarctica and" in paragraph (2)(A)(ii)(II) and inserting in lieu thereof "within Antarctica are"; and

(H) by striking subparagraphs (C) and (D) of paragraph (2) and inserting in lieu thereof the following new subparagraph:

"(C) A permit authorizing the entry into an Antarctic Specially Protected Area shall be issued only—

"(i) if the entry is consistent with an approved management plan, or

"(ii) if a management plan relating to the area has not been approved but—

"(I) there is a compelling purpose for such entry which cannot be served elsewhere, and

"(II) the actions allowed under the permit will not jeopardize the natural ecological system existing in such area.".

SEC. 106. REGULATIONS.

Section 6 of the Antarctic Conservation Act of 1978 (16 U.S.C. 2405) is amended to read as follows:

"SEC. 6. REGULATIONS.

"(a) REGULATIONS TO BE ISSUED BY THE DIRECTOR.—(1) The Director shall issue such regulations as are necessary and appropriate to implement Annex II and Annex V to the Protocol and the provisions of this Act which implement those annexes, including section 4(b)(2), (3), (4), and (5) of this Act. The Director shall designate as native species—

"(A) each species of the class Aves;

"(B) each species of the class Mammalia; and

"(C) each species of plant, which is indigenous to Antarctica or which occurs there seasonally through natural migrations.

"(2) The Director, with the concurrence of the Administrator, shall issue such regulations as are necessary and appropriate to implement Annex III to the Protocol and the provisions of this Act which implement that Annex, including section 4(a)(1), (2), (3), and (4), and section 4(b)(1) of this Act.

"(3) The Director shall issue such regulations as are necessary and appropriate to implement Article 15 of the Protocol with respect to land areas and ice shelves in Antarctica.

"(4) The Director shall issue such additional regulations as are necessary and appropriate to implement the Protocol and this Act, except as provided in subsection (b).

"(b) REGULATIONS TO BE ISSUED BY THE SECRETARY OF THE DEPARTMENT IN WHICH THE COAST GUARD IS OPERATING.—The Secretary of the Department in which the Coast Guard is operating shall issue such regulations as are necessary and appropriate, in addition to regulations issued under the Act to Prevent Pollution from Ships (33 U.S.C. 1901 et seq.), to implement Annex IV to the Protocol and the provisions of this Act which implement that Annex, and, with the concurrence of the Director, such regulations as are necessary and appropriate to implement Article 15 of the Protocol with respect to vessels.

"(c) TIME PERIOD FOR REGULATIONS.—The regulations to be issued under subsection (a)(1) and (2) of this section shall be issued within 2 years after the date of the enactment of the Antarctic Science, Tourism, and Conservation Act of 1996. The regulations to be issued under subsection (a)(3) of this section shall be issued within 3 years after the date of the enactment of the Antarctic Science, Tourism, and Conservation Act of 1996.".

SEC. 107. SAVING PROVISIONS.

Section 14 of the Antarctic Conservation Act of 1978 is amended to read as follows:

"SEC. 14. SAVING PROVISIONS.

"(a) REGULATIONS.—All regulations promulgated under this Act prior to the date of the enactment of the Antarctic Science, Tourism, and Conservation Act of 1996 shall remain in effect until superseding regulations are promulgated under section 6.

"(b) PERMITS.—All permits issued under this Act shall remain in effect until they expire in accordance with the terms of those permits.".

TITLE II—CONFORMING AMENDMENTS TO OTHER LAWS

SEC. 201. AMENDMENTS TO ACT TO PREVENT POLLUTION FROM SHIPS.

(a) DEFINITIONS.—Section 2 of the Act to Prevent Pollution from Ships (33 U.S.C. 1901) is amended—

(1) by redesignating paragraphs (1) through (9) of subsection (a) as paragraphs (3) through (11), respectively;

(2) by inserting before paragraph (3), as so redesignated by paragraph (1) of this subsection, the following new paragraphs:

"(1) 'Antarctica' means the area south of 60 degrees south latitude;

"(2) 'Antarctic Protocol' means the Protocol on Environmental Protection to the Antarctic Treaty, signed October 4, 1991, in Madrid, and all annexes thereto, and includes any future amendments thereto which have entered into force"; and

(3) by adding at the end the following new subsection:

"(c) For the purposes of this Act, the requirements of Annex IV to the Antarctic Protocol shall apply in Antarctica to all vessels over which the United States has jurisdiction."

(b) APPLICATION OF ACT.—Section 3(b)(1)(B) of the Act to Prevent Pollution from Ships (33 U.S.C. 1902(b)(1)(B)) is amended by inserting "or the Antarctic Protocol" after "MARPOL Protocol".

(c) ADMINISTRATION.—Section 4 of the Act to Prevent Pollution from Ships (33 U.S.C. 1903) is amended—

(1) by inserting "; Annex IV to the Antarctic Protocol," after "the MARPOL Protocol" in the first sentence of subsection (a);

(2) in subsection (b)(1) by inserting "; Annex IV to the Antarctic Protocol," after "the MARPOL Protocol";

(3) in subsection (b)(2)(A) by striking "within 1 year after the effective date of this paragraph,"; and

(4) in subsection (b)(2)(A)(i) by inserting "and of Annex IV to the Antarctic Protocol" after "the Convention".

(d) POLLUTION RECEPTION FACILITIES.—Section 6 of the Act to Prevent Pollution from Ships (33 U.S.C. 1905) is amended—

(1) in subsection (b) by inserting "or the Antarctic Protocol" after "the MARPOL Protocol";

(2) in subsection (e)(1) by inserting "or the Antarctic Protocol" after "the Convention";

(3) in subsection (e)(1)(A) by inserting "or Article 9 of Annex IV to the Antarctic Protocol" after "the Convention"; and

(4) in subsection (f) by inserting "or the Antarctic Protocol" after "the MARPOL Protocol".

(e) VIOLATIONS.—Section 8 of the Act to Prevent Pollution from Ships (33 U.S.C. 1907) is amended—

(1) in the first sentence of subsection (a) by inserting "Annex IV to the Antarctic Protocol," after "MARPOL Protocol,";

(2) in the second sentence of subsection (a)—

(A) by inserting "or to the Antarctic Protocol" after "to the MARPOL Protocol"; and

(B) by inserting "and Annex IV to the Antarctic Protocol" after "of the MARPOL Protocol";

(3) in subsection (b) by inserting "or the Antarctic Protocol" after "MARPOL Protocol" both places it appears;

(4) in subsection (c)(1) by inserting "; of Article 3 or Article 4 of Annex IV to the Antarctic Protocol," after "to the Convention";

(5) in subsection (c)(2) by inserting "or the Antarctic Protocol" after "which the MARPOL Protocol";

(6) in subsection (c)(2)(A) by inserting "; Annex IV to the Antarctic Protocol," after "MARPOL Protocol";

(7) in subsection (c)(2)(B)—

(A) by inserting "or the Antarctic Protocol" after "to the MARPOL Protocol"; and

(B) by inserting "or Annex IV to the Antarctic Protocol" after "of the MARPOL Protocol";

(8) in subsection (d)(1) by inserting "; Article 5 of Annex IV to the Antarctic Protocol," after "Convention";

(9) in subsection (e)(1)—

(A) by inserting "or the Antarctic Protocol" after "MARPOL Protocol"; and

(B) by striking "that Protocol" and inserting in lieu thereof "those Protocols"; and

(10) in subsection (e)(2) by inserting "; of Annex IV to the Antarctic Protocol," after "MARPOL Protocol".

(f) PENALTIES.—Section 9 of the Act to Prevent Pollution from Ships (33 U.S.C. 1908) is amended—

(1) in subsection (a) by inserting "; Annex IV to the Antarctic Protocol," after "MARPOL Protocol,";

(2) in subsection (b)(1) by inserting "; Annex IV to the Antarctic Protocol," after "MARPOL Protocol,";

(3) in subsection (b)(2) by inserting "; Annex IV to the Antarctic Protocol," after "MARPOL Protocol,";

(4) in subsection (d) by inserting "; Annex IV to the Antarctic Protocol," after "MARPOL Protocol,";

(5) in subsection (e) by inserting "; Annex IV to the Antarctic Protocol," after "MARPOL Protocol"; and

(6) in subsection (f) by inserting "or the Antarctic Protocol" after "MARPOL Protocol" both places it appears.

SEC. 202. PROHIBITION OF CERTAIN ANTARCTIC RESOURCE ACTIVITIES.

(a) AGREEMENT OR LEGISLATION REQUIRED.—Section 4 of the Antarctic Protection Act of 1990 (16 U.S.C. 2463) is amended by striking "Pending a new agreement among the Antarctic Treaty Consultative Parties in force for the United States, to which the Senate has given advice and consent or which is authorized by further legislation by the Congress, which provides an indefinite ban on Antarctic mineral resource activities, it" and inserting in lieu thereof "It".

(b) REPEALS.—Sections 5 and 7 of such Act (16 U.S.C. 2464 and 2466) are repealed.

(c) REDESIGNATION.—Section 6 of such Act (16 U.S.C. 2465) is redesignated as section 5.

TITLE III—POLAR RESEARCH AND POLICY STUDY

SEC. 301. POLAR RESEARCH AND POLICY STUDY.

Not later than March 1, 1997, the National Science Foundation shall provide a detailed report to the Congress on—

(1) the status of the implementation of the Arctic Environmental Protection Strategy and Federal funds being used for that purpose;

(2) all of the Federal programs relating to Arctic and Antarctic research and the total amount of funds expended annually for each such program, including—

(A) a comparison of the funding for logistical support in the Arctic and Antarctic;

(B) a comparison of the funding for research in the Arctic and Antarctic;

(C) a comparison of any other amounts being spent on Arctic and Antarctic programs; and

(D) an assessment of the actions taken to implement the recommendations of the Arctic Research Commission with respect to the use of such funds for research and logistical support in the Arctic.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. WALKER] and the gentleman from California [Mr. BROWN] each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. WALKER].

Mr. WALKER. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Madam Speaker, I rise today to bring before the House of Representatives H.R. 3060, the Antarctic Environmental Protection Act. I, along with the gentlewoman from Maryland [Mrs. MORELLA], the gentleman from Virginia [Mr. DAVIS], the gentleman from California [Mr. BROWN], and 16 other members from the Committee on Science, introduced H.R. 3060 on March 12, 1996 to enable the United States to implement the 1991 Protocol on Environmental Protection to the Antarctic Treaty.

Madam Speaker, the House passed H.R. 3060 on June 10, 1996 by a vote of 352 to 4. Yesterday the Senate sent back to us by unanimous consent the bill with a minor addition, a provision calling for a study of the amount of money the National Science Foundation spends on Arctic and Antarctic research. The Senate provision is non-controversial and in no way impacts the provisions of the underlying bill.

H.R. 3060 enjoys universal support. The League of Conservation Voters, the Antarctic Project, the World Wildlife Fund, Greenpeace, the Sierra Club, and the Antarctic and Southern Ocean Coalition have all endorsed the bill. The National Science Foundation and the Department of State have also testified in support of enactment of H.R. 3060. In fact the Sierra Club calls this legislation a "tremendous achievement."

Madam Speaker, H.R. 3060 provides the legislative authority necessary for the United States to implement the 1991 Protocol on Environmental Protection to the Antarctic Treaty. The protocol represents an important addition to the uniquely successful system of peaceful cooperation and scientific research that has evolved under the Antarctic Treaty of 1959.

In 1991 the consultative parties agreed to strengthen the Antarctic's environment protections through a Protocol on Environmental Protection. The protocol builds on the Antarctic Treaty in an effort to improve the treaty's protections for the Antarctic environment. The protocol reaffirms the treaty's use of Antarctica specifically for peaceful purposes and accords priority to scientific research among the permitted activities.

The 1991 protocol is not self-executing. It requires each of the consultative parties to enact instruments of ratification to codify the terms of the protocol before it can enter into force. Two previous Congresses failed to pass the needed instruments of ratification for the 1991 Environmental Protocol to the Antarctic Treaty to take effect.

As with the safe drinking water reauthorization, the House has a historic opportunity to pass long overdue environmental legislation. I urge my colleagues to join me in voting to send H.R. 3060 to the President for his signature.

Madam Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. BROWN of California. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

(Mr. BROWN of California asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. BROWN of California. Madam Speaker, I rise also in strong support of H.R. 3060. Passage of this bill, as the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. WALKER] indicated, will allow the United States to implement the Protocol on Environmental Protection to the Antarctic treaty.

The Antarctic Environmental Protection Act passed the House last June with strong bipartisan support. The bill before the House today is a slightly modified version of that bill, which was recently approved by the other body. Final passage of H.R. 3060 today will help ensure the preservation of one of the last pristine regions of the Earth and will ensure that Antarctica's enormous value as a scientific laboratory is not degraded.

I want to congratulate the chairman of the Committee on Science, the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. WALKER], for his efforts to develop this bill and to bring it to final passage today. I have been pleased to work cooperatively with him on what has truly been a bipartisan effort. The culmination of this process is a bill that enjoys the support of Antarctic scientists, environmentalists and the Federal agencies responsible for administering the U.S. national program in Antarctica.

The proponents of H.R. 3060 all recognize the importance of protecting Antarctica as a unique world resource while allowing the valuable research carried on there to go forward. The Environmental Protocol designates Antarctica as a natural preserve devoted to peace and science and sets forth environmental protection principles and specific rules applicable to all human activities on the continent. Final ratification of the protocol by the United States, which becomes possible with passage of H.R. 3060, will help spur action by the remaining nations which have not completed ratification.

Madam Speaker, H.R. 3060 is a bipartisan bill that will ensure that a sensible and comprehensive environmental protection regime is instituted to govern all international activities conducted in Antarctica. The bill has been enthusiastically endorsed by those most affected by its provisions and closest to the issues involved. I urge my colleagues to support passage of the measure.

Madam Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. WALKER. Madam Speaker, I yield 5 minutes to the gentlewoman from Maryland [Mrs. MORELLA].

Mrs. MORELLA. Madam Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding me the time, I thank him for his leadership on this issue and for the leadership of the gentleman from California [Mr. BROWN], ranking member, on this issue.

Madam Speaker, this is truly a landmark day for those of us who are seeking protection of the antarctic environment.

For the past 5 years, those of us who have been ardent longtime supporters for the preservation of the Antarctic Continent and its surrounding seas, have been working diligently toward this day.

Now with the passage of this bill today, and the President's subsequent signature into law, we will have finally achieved our objective since the United States began consideration of the implementation of the 1991 Protocol on Environmental Protection of the Antarctic Treaty.

While the United States is taking one small environmental step today, it is the Antarctic Continent and the nations with antarctic settlements which will be on the verge of taking one giant collective leap forward to protect the antarctic environment from the adverse effects of human activities.

After U.S. ratification of the Antarctic Treaty is enacted, and its eventual passage in the remaining 5 of 26 countries, the treaty will become fully enforceable.

Having had the opportunity to personally visit and participate in studies in Antarctica, under the guidance of the National Science Foundation, I clearly understand the need to reinforce the status of Antarctica as a natural reserve devoted to peace and science.

Antarctica provides the world with an unmatched natural laboratory for scientific research.

This international research is making invaluable contributions to our insights into the history of the Earth, the evolution of our universe, world climate change, global ocean circulation, ozone depletion, and astronomy, among many other very important planetary issues.

There are, however, pressures on the antarctic environment from the effect of human activity, which has risen fairly dramatically since research activities have intensified over the past few decades.

Today, there are more scientific stations on the continent, housing more scientists and support personnel, than ever.

Coupled with an increasing rise in antarctic tourism, additional pressures are made daily to this very unique and delicate environment.

The need to move forward on implementing the protocol is pressing and is never more compelling than now.

As world leaders in environmental stewardship, it is paramount that the United States join the other 20 current signatory parties that have enacted ratification of the protocol in their nation's legislative bodies.

It should also be noted, ironically however, that although the protocol is not yet in force on the U.S. settlements, we, for the most part, already adhere to the protocol tenants.

For example, NSF already conducts its antarctic activities in a manner consistent with the protocol's requirements and already issues environmental assessment regulations in compliance with the protocol.

Madam Speaker, I am a proud original cosponsor and a strong supporter of H.R. 3060, the Antarctic Environmental Protection Act.

H.R. 3060 comprehensively and effectively implements the Antarctic Treaty.

It achieves the appropriate balance between sound environmental practices and the promotion of antarctic scientific research.

It certainly deserves our support today and has already received the support of many others.

Not only is there a strong bipartisan congressional support for the bill, but it is also supported by a wide coalition of major environmental groups, the administration, and the antarctic research community.

I commend the chairman of the Science Committee, the gentleman from Pennsylvania, for his leadership in this effort.

The committee has played a crucial role in negotiating the language in this bill with such disparate groups as the State Department, the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, the National Science Foundation, the Antarctica Project, the World Wildlife Fund, and Greenpeace, among others.

Madam Speaker, I urge all of my colleagues to support this important legislation to implement the Antarctic Environmental Protocol.

In doing so, we will preserve this fragile and still-developing glacier ecosystem for generations to come.

□ 1600

Mr. BROWN of California. Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. Madam Speaker, today the House is considering the Senate amendments to H.R. 3060, the Antarctic Science, Tourism and Conservation Act of 1996. This bill brings U.S. law in line with the international agreement covering Antarctic environmental protection. The bill was referred to the House Resources Committee which I chair. In an effort to cooperate with the Science Committee, the Resources Committee agreed to let the measure be considered by the full House without amending the bill.

In the Senate, my Alaska colleague, Senator TED STEVENS, added an important amendment which I support. The Stevens amendment requires that the National Science Foundation provide Congress with a Polar Research and Policy Study by March 1, 1997. It will provide Congress with a status report on the implementation of the Arctic Environmental Protection Strategy; a comparison of Federal Arctic and Antarctic research efforts; and an assessment of what needs to be done to implement the Arctic Research Commission's recommendations for Arctic research.

The Antarctic environment is, of course, very important and I am pleased that we are acting on this bill to improve our understanding of that continent and its surrounding waters. However, the Arctic also faces many difficult resource management issues. These issues include how to fairly manage wildlife to meet the needs of native people in the Arctic, and how to deal with the massive pollution problems created by Soviet industrial and military use of Arctic land and water. The study called for in this bill will give us the information we need to properly allocate Federal logistical and financial resources in order to make sure that the Arctic and those that live there get a fair share of Federal research dollars.

I am glad that the House is acting to clear this bill today, and I urge an "aye" vote.

Mr. SCHIFF. Madam Speaker, the Subcommittee on Basic Research, which I chair, has responsibility for the National Science Foundation [NSF]. NSF is responsible, in part, for conducting research in Antarctica and the protection of the environment in this pristine and unique part of the world. The subcommittee has recently completed hearings on the future of the South Pole Station and the role of NSF in Antarctic research.

I believe it is important to recognize the uniqueness of Antarctica; a place where the temperature in winter can exceed -45° F and winds can reach 180 miles per hour; a place $1\frac{1}{2}$ times the size of the United States. Antarctica's associated seas represent nearly 6 percent of the world's oceans and its ice, 70 percent of the Earth's fresh water. Lately, there have been news articles of the discovery of a large underground freshwater lake in Antarctica, Lake Vostok, 140 miles long, 30 miles wide, buried under 9,000 feet of ice and heated by the earth's core. And, most recently in the headline news, the meteorite that is credited with evidence of life on Mars was discovered in Antarctica.

We have much to learn from this area. The United States has important foreign policy, national security, scientific, and environmental interests in this vast region. With respect to international involvement in the Antarctic, there are seven countries which have territorial claims on Antarctica. The United States does not recognize these claims and there are 26 consultative parties to the Antarctic Treaty. Therefore, as we look to the future, the responsibilities of the United States and our commitment to the Antarctic and our role at the South Pole Station raises many questions.

This is one reason why the passage of H.R. 3060 is so important. The U.S. Senate gave its advice and consent to ratification of the Antarctic protocol in 1992. All that remains for the United States to become a party to the protocol is to enact the necessary implementing legislation. The protocol will activate when all 26 of the Antarctic Treaty consultative parties implement it. So far, 20 of the consultative parties have done so. The United States' ratification will provide impetus for the remaining five to join, as well.

I am proud to have been an original cosponsor of this bill. I want to commend Chairman WALKER for his leadership on this issue. I also want to point out that this has been a bipartisan issue. Mr. BROWN and Mr. CRAMER have been very supportive in our efforts to protect, understand, and research the continent of Antarctica.

I urge my colleagues to support this legislation.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. WALKER. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks on the Senate amendments to H.R. 3060.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Pennsylvania?

There was no objection.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. MILLER of Florida). The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. WALKER] that the House suspend the rules and concur in the Senate amendment to H.R. 3060.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the Senate amendment was concurred in.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

DIRECTING THE CLERK TO MAKE CORRECTION IN ENROLLMENT OF H.R. 3060, ANTARCTIC ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION ACT OF 1996

Mr. WALKER. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent for the immediate consideration in the House of the concurrent resolution (H. Con. Res. 211), directing the Clerk of the House of Representatives to make a technical correction in the enrollment of H.R. 3060.

The Clerk read the title of the concurrent resolution.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Pennsylvania?

There was no objection.

The Clerk read the concurrent resolution, as follows:

H. CON. RES. 211

Resolved by the House of Representatives (the Senate concurring), That in the enrollment of the bill (H.R. 3060) to implement the Protocol on Environmental Protection to the Antarctic Treaty, the Clerk of the House of Representatives shall make the following technical correction: In section 201(a)(1) strike "paragraphs (1) through (9) of subsection (a) as paragraphs (3) through (11)" and insert in lieu thereof "paragraphs (1) through (10) of subsection (a) as paragraphs (3) through (12)".

The concurrent resolution was agreed to.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

CALIFORNIA INDIAN LAND TRANSFER ACT

Mr. GALLEGLY. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the bill (H.R. 3642) to provide for the transfer of public lands to certain California Indian Tribes.

The Clerk read as follows:

H.R. 3642

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the "California Indian Land Transfer Act".

SEC. 2. LANDS HELD IN TRUST FOR VARIOUS TRIBES OF CALIFORNIA INDIANS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Subject to section 3, all right, title, and interest of the United States in and to the lands described in subsection (b) in connection with each tribe, band, or group of California Indians listed in such subsection (including all improvements on such lands and appurtenances to such lands) are hereby declared to be held in trust status by the United States for the benefit of such tribe, band, or group.

(b) LANDS DESCRIBED.—The lands described in this subsection, comprising approximately 1,144.23 acres, and the related tribe, band, or group, are as follows:

(1) PIT RIVER TRIBE.—Lands with respect to the Pit River Tribe; 560 acres located as follows:

Township 42 North, Range 13 East, Mount Diablo Base and Meridian

Section 3:

S½ of NW¼, NW¼ of NW¼, 120 acres.

Township 43 North, Range 13 East

Section 1:

N½ of NE¼, 80 acres,

Section 22:

SE¼ of SE¼, 40 acres,

Section 25:

SE¼ of NW¼, 40 acres,

Section 26:

SEC. 3. EXISTING RIGHTS PRESERVED; MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS.

(a) EXISTING RIGHTS PRESERVED.—The declaration contained in section 2 shall be subject to valid existing rights in effect on the day before the enactment of this Act.

(b) NOTICE OF CANCELLATION OF GRAZING PRIVILEGES.—Grazing privileges on the lands described in section 2 shall terminate two years after the date of enactment of this Act.

(c) PROCEEDS FROM RENTS AND ROYALTIES TRANSFERRED TO INDIANS.—Amounts which accrue to the United States after the date of the enactment of this Act from sales, bonuses, royalties, and rentals relating to any land described in section 2 shall be available for use or obligation, in such manner and for such purposes as the Assistant Secretary, Indian Affairs, may approve, by the tribe, band, or group of Indians for whose benefit such land is held after the date of enactment of this Act.

(d) LAWS GOVERNING LANDS TO BE HELD IN TRUST.—Any lands which are to be held in trust for the benefit of any tribe, band, or group of Indians pursuant to this Act shall be added to the existing reservation of the tribe, band, or group, and the official boundaries of the reservation shall be modified accordingly. These lands shall be subject to the laws of the United States relating to Indian land in the same manner and to the same extent as other lands held in trust for such tribe, band, or group on the day before the date of this Act.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from California [Mr. GALLEGLY] and the gentleman from American Samoa [Mr. FALEOMAVAEGA] each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from California [Mr. GALLEGLY].

Mr. GALLEGLY. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

(Mr. GALLEGLY asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. GALLEGLY. Mr. Speaker, H.R. 3642, the California Indian Land Transfer Act which I introduced at the request of the administration in June, would transfer into trust, 1,144.23 acres of excess Federal land to the following Indian tribes: 560 acres to the Pit River Tribe; 40 acres to the Bridgeport Paiute Indian Colony; 240 acres to the Utu Utu Gwaitu Paiute Tribe; 200 acres to the Fort Independence Community of Paiute Indians; 5.03 acres to the Barona Group of Capitan Grande Band of Mission Indians; 40 acres to the Morongo Band of Mission Indians; and 59.2 acres to the Pala Band of Mission Indians.

This bill also provides that valid existing rights shall be preserved on the lands to be taken into trust.

H.R. 3642 was originally proposed by the administration and is supported by the tribes.

Mr. Speaker, I recommend the approval of H.R. 3642.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. FALEOMAVAEGA. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I am a cosponsor of H.R. 3642 along with the chairman of the Subcommittee on Native American and Insular Affairs, Mr. GALLEGLY, and the senior Democrat of the Resources Committee, Mr. MILLER.

Enactment of this bill would transfer small parcels of land from the Bureau of Land Management to various Indian Tribes in the State of California. In each instance the land has been declared as appropriate for disposal by the BLM and the affected tribal governments have formally requested the land be transferred to them. As part of the process of drafting this legislation, the Department of the Interior contacted local communities and received support for, or a lack of interest, in each land transfers. These parcels may not be large in size but I hope they will prove of benefit to the tribes.

I believe this legislation is good policy. This is a case where the Federal Government examined its registry of lands and supports the release of lands it no longer deems necessary to remain under Federal control. The land may be excess to the needs of the Federal Government but I'm confident that the Indian tribes which will take over management of the lands will put them to good use.

I ask my colleagues to join me in supporting passage of this legislation.

Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. GALLEGLY. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from California [Mr. GALLEGLY] that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 3642.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the bill was passed.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

TORRES-MARTINEZ DESERT CAHUILLA INDIANS CLAIMS SETTLEMENT ACT

Mr. GALLEGLY. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the bill (H.R. 3640) to provide for the settlement of issues and claims related to the trust lands of the Torres-Martinez Desert Cahuilla Indians, and for other purposes.

The Clerk read as follows:

H.R. 3640

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the "Torres-Martinez Desert Cahuilla Indians Claims Settlement Act".

SEC. 2. CONGRESSIONAL FINDINGS AND PURPOSE.

(a) FINDINGS.—The Congress finds and declares that:

(1) In 1876, the Torres-Martinez Indian Reservation was created, reserving a single, 640-acre section of land in the Coachella Valley, California, north of the Salton Sink. The Reservation was expanded in 1891 by Executive Order, pursuant to the Mission Indian Relief Act of 1891, adding about 12,000 acres to the original 640-acre reservation.

(2) Between 1905 and 1907, flood waters of the Colorado River filled the Salton Sink, creating the Salton Sea, inundating approximately 2,000 acres of the 1891 reservation lands.

(3) In 1909 an additional 12,000 acres of land, 9,000 of which were then submerged under the Salton Sea, were added to the reservation under a Secretarial Order issued pursuant to a 1907 amendment of the Mission Indian Relief Act. Due to receding water levels in the Salton Sea through the process of evaporation, at the time of the 1909 enlargement of the reservation, there were some expectations that the Salton Sea would recede within a period of 25 years.

(4) Through the present day, the majority of the lands added to the reservation in 1909 remain inundated due in part to the flowage of natural runoff and drainage water from the irrigation systems of the Imperial, Coachella, and Mexicali Valleys into the Salton Sea.

(5) In addition to those lands that are inundated, there are also tribal and individual Indian lands located on the perimeter of the Salton Sea that are not currently irrigable due to lack of proper drainage.

(6) In 1982, the United States brought an action in trespass entitled "United States of America, in its own right and on behalf of Torres-Martinez Band of Mission Indians and the Allottees therein v. The Imperial Irrigation District and Coachella Valley Water District", Case No. 82-1790 K (M) (hereafter in this section referred to as the "U.S. Suit") on behalf of the Torres-Martinez Indian Tribe and affected Indian allottees against the two water districts seeking damages related to the inundation of tribal- and allottee-owned lands and injunctive relief to prevent future discharge of water on such lands.

(7) On August 20, 1992, the Federal District Court for the Southern District of California entered a judgment in the U.S. Suit requiring the Coachella Valley Water District to pay $212,908.41 in past and future damages and the Imperial Irrigation District to pay $2,795,694.33 in past and future damages in lieu of the United States' request for a permanent injunction against continued flooding of the submerged lands.

(8) The United States, the Coachella Valley Water District, and the Imperial Irrigation District have filed notices of appeal with the United States Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit from the district court's judgment in the U.S. Suit (Numbers 93-55389, 93-55398, and 93-55402), and the Tribe has filed a notice of appeal from the district court's denial of its motion to intervene as a matter of right (No. 92-55129).

(9) The Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit has stayed further action on the appeals pending the outcome of settlement negotiations.

(10) In 1991, the Tribe brought its own lawsuit, Torres-Martinez Desert Cahuilla Indians, et al., v. Imperial Irrigation District, et al., Case No. 91-1670 J (LSP) (hereafter in this section referred to as the "Indian Suit") in the United States District Court, Southern District of California, against the two water districts, and amended the complaint to include as a plaintiff, Mary Resvaloso, in her own right, and as class representative of all other affected Indian allotment owners.

(11) The Indian Suit has been stayed by the District Court to facilitate settlement negotiations.

(b) PURPOSE.—The purpose of this Act is to facilitate and implement the settlement agreement negotiated and executed by the parties to the U.S. Suit and Indian Suit for the purpose of resolving their conflicting claims to their mutual satisfaction and in the public interest.

SEC. 3. DEFINITIONS.

For the purposes of this Act:

(1) The term "Tribe" means the Torres-Martinez Desert Cahuilla Indians, a federally recognized Indian tribe with a reservation located in Riverside and Imperial Counties, California.

(2) The term "allottees" means those individual Tribe members, their successors, heirs, and assigns, who have individual ownership of allotted Indian trust lands within the Torres-Martinez Indian Reservation.

(3) The term "Salton Sea" means the inland body of water located in Riverside and Imperial counties which serves as a drainage reservoir for water from precipitation, natural runoff, irrigation return flows, wastewater, floods, and other inflow from within its watershed area.

(4) The term "Settlement Agreement" means the Agreement of Compromise and Settlement Concerning Claims to Lands of the United States Within and on the Perimeter of the Salton Sea Drainage Reservoir Held in Trust for the Torres-Martinez Indians executed on June 18, 1996.

(5) The term "Secretary" means the Secretary of the Interior.

(6) The term "permanent flowage easement" means the perpetual right by the water districts to use the described lands in the Salton Sink within and below the minus 220-foot contour as a drainage reservoir to receive and store water from their respective water and drainage systems, including flood water, return flows from irrigation, tail water, leach water, operational spills and any other water which overflows and floods such lands, originating from lands within such water districts.

SEC. 4. RATIFICATION OF SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT.

The United States hereby approves, ratifies, and confirms the Settlement Agreement.

SEC. 5. SETTLEMENT FUNDS.

(a) ESTABLISHMENT OF TRIBAL AND ALLOTTEES SETTLEMENT TRUST FUNDS ACCOUNTS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—There are established in the Treasury of the United States three settlement trust fund accounts to be known as the "Torres-Martinez Settlement Trust Funds Account", the "Torres-Martinez Allottees Settlement Account I", and the "Torres-Martinez Allottees Settlement Account II", respectively.

(2) AVAILABILITY.—Amounts held in the Torres-Martinez Settlement Trust Funds Account, the Torres-Martinez Allottees Settlement Account I, and the Torres-Martinez Allottees Settlement Account II shall be available to the Secretary for distribution to the Tribe and affected allottees in accordance with subsection (c).

(b) CONTRIBUTIONS TO THE SETTLEMENT TRUST FUNDS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Amounts paid to the Secretary for deposit into the trust fund accounts established by subsection (a) shall be allocated among and deposited in the trust accounts in the amounts determined by the tribal-allottee allocation provisions of the Settlement Agreement.

(2) CASH PAYMENTS BY COACHELLA VALLEY WATER DISTRICT.—Within the time, in the manner, and upon the conditions specified in the Settlement Agreement, the Coachella Valley Water District shall pay the sum of $337,908.41 to the United States for the benefit of the Tribe and any affected allottees.

(3) CASH PAYMENTS BY IMPERIAL IRRIGATION DISTRICT.—Within the time, in the manner, and upon the conditions specified in the Settlement Agreement, the Imperial Irrigation District shall pay the sum of $3,670,694.33 to the United States for the benefit of the Tribe and any affected allottees.

(4) CASH PAYMENTS BY THE UNITED STATES.—Within the time and upon the conditions specified in the Settlement Agreement, the United States shall pay into the three separate tribal and allottee trust fund accounts the total sum of $10,200,000, of which sum—

(A) $4,200,000 shall be provided from moneys appropriated by Congress under section 1304 of title 31, United States Code, the conditions of which are deemed to have been met, including those of section 2414 of title 28, United States Code; and

(B) $6,000,000 shall be provided from moneys appropriated by Congress for this specific purpose to the Secretary.

(5) ADDITIONAL PAYMENTS.—In the event that any of the sums described in paragraphs (2) or (3) are not timely paid by the Coachella Valley Water District or the Imperial Irrigation District, as the case may be, the delinquent payor shall pay an additional sum equal to 10 percent interest annually on the amount outstanding daily, compounded yearly on December 31 of each respective year, until all outstanding amounts due have been paid in full.

(6) SEVERALLY LIABLE FOR PAYMENTS.—The Coachella Valley Water District, the Imperial Irrigation District, and the United States shall each be severally liable, but not jointly liable, for its respective obligation to make the payments specified by this subsection.

(c) ADMINISTRATION OF SETTLEMENT TRUST FUNDS.—The Secretary shall administer and distribute funds held in the Torres-Martinez Settlement Trust Funds Account, the Torres-Martinez Allottees Settlement Account I, and the Torres-Martinez Allottees Settlement Account II in accordance with the terms and conditions of the Settlement Agreement.

SEC. 6. TRUST LAND ACQUISITION AND STATUS.

(a) ACQUISITION AND PLACEMENT OF LANDS INTO TRUST.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall convey into trust status lands purchased or otherwise acquired by the Tribe within the areas described in paragraphs (2) and (3) in an amount not to exceed 11,800 acres in accordance with the terms, conditions, criteria, and procedures set forth in the Settlement Agreement and this Act. Subject to such terms, conditions, criteria, and procedures, all lands purchased or otherwise acquired by the Tribe and conveyed into trust status for the benefit of the Tribe pursuant to the Settlement Agreement and this Act shall be considered as if such lands were so acquired in trust status in 1909 except as (i) to water rights as provided in subsection (c), and (ii) to valid rights existing at the time of acquisition pursuant to this Act.

(2) PRIMARY ACQUISITION AREA.—(A) The primary area within which lands may be acquired pursuant to paragraph (1) are those certain lands located in the Primary Acquisition Area, as defined in the Settlement Agreement. The amount of acreage that may be acquired from such area is 11,800 acres less the number of acres acquired and conveyed into trust by reason of paragraph (3).

(B) Lands may not be acquired under this paragraph if by majority vote of the governing body of the city within whose incorporated boundaries (as such boundaries exist on the date of the Settlement Agreement) objects to the Tribe's request to convey such lands into trust and notifies the Secretary of such objection in writing within 60 days of receiving a copy of the Tribe's request in accordance with the Settlement Agreement.

(3) SECONDARY ACQUISITION AREA.—

(A) Not more than 640 acres of land may be acquired pursuant to paragraph (1) from those certain lands located in the Secondary Acquisition Area, as defined in the Settlement Agreement.

(B) Lands referred to in subparagraph (A) may not be acquired pursuant to paragraph (1) if by majority vote—

(i) the governing body of the city whose incorporated boundaries the subject lands are situated within, or

(ii) the governing body of Riverside County, California, in the event that such lands are located within an unincorporated area, formally objects to the Tribe's request to convey the subject lands into trust and notifies the Secretary of such objection in writing within 60 days of receiving a copy of the Tribe's request in accordance with the Settlement Agreement.

(b) RESTRICTIONS ON GAMING.—The Tribe shall have the right to conduct gaming on only one site within the lands acquired pursuant to subsection (a)(1) as more particularly provided in the Settlement Agreement.

(c) WATER RIGHTS.—All lands acquired by the Tribe under subsection (a) shall—

(1) be subject to all valid water rights existing at the time of tribal acquisition, including (but not limited to) all rights under any permit or license issued under the laws of the State of California to commence an appropriation of water, to appropriate water, or to increase the amount of water appropriated;

(2) be subject to the paramount rights of any person who at any time recharges or stores water in a ground water basin to recapture or recover the recharged or stored water or to authorize others to recapture or recover the recharged or stored water; and

(3) continue to enjoy all valid water rights appurtenant to the land existing immediately prior to the time of tribal acquisition.

SEC. 7. PERMANENT FLOWAGE EASEMENTS.

(a) CONVEYANCE OF EASEMENT TO COACHELLA VALLEY WATER DISTRICT.—

(1) TRIBAL INTEREST.—The United States, in its capacity as trustee for the Tribe, as well as for any affected Indian allotment owners, and their successors and assigns, and the Tribe in its own right and that of its successors and assigns, shall convey to the Coachella Valley Water District a permanent flowage easement as to all Indian trust lands (approximately 11,800 acres) located within and below the minus 220-foot contour of the Salton Sink, in accordance with the terms and conditions of the Settlement Agreement.

(2) UNITED STATES INTEREST.—The United States, in its own right shall, notwithstanding any prior or present reservation or withdrawal of land of any kind, convey to Coachella Valley Water District a permanent flowage easement as to all Federal lands (approximately 110,000 acres) located within and below the minus 220-foot contour of the Salton Sink, in accordance with the terms and conditions of the Settlement Agreement.

(b) CONVEYANCE OF EASEMENT TO IMPERIAL IRRIGATION DISTRICT.—

(1) TRIBAL INTEREST.—The United States, in its capacity as trustee for the Tribe, as well as for any affected Indian allotment owners, and their successors and assigns, and the Tribe in its own right and that of its successors and assigns, shall grant and convey to the Imperial Irrigation District a permanent flowage easement as to all Indian trust lands (approximately 11,800 acres) located within and below the minus 220-foot contour of the Salton Sink, in accordance with the terms and conditions of the Settlement Agreement.

(2) UNITED STATES.—The United States, in its own right shall, notwithstanding any prior or present reservation or withdrawal of land of any kind, grant and convey to the Imperial Irrigation District a permanent flowage easement as to all Federal lands (approximately 110,000 acres) located within and below the minus 220-foot contour of the Salton Sink, in accordance with the terms and conditions of the Settlement Agreement.

SEC. 8. SATISFACTION OF CLAIMS, WAIVERS, AND RELEASES.

(a) SATISFACTION OF CLAIMS.—The benefits available to the Tribe and the allottees under the terms and conditions of the Settlement Agreement and the provisions of this Act shall constitute full and complete satisfaction of the claims by the Tribe and the allottees arising from or related to the inundation and lack of drainage of tribal and allottee lands described in section 2 of this Act and further defined in the Settlement Agreement.

(b) APPROVAL OF WAIVERS AND RELEASES.—The United States hereby approves and confirms the releases and waivers required by the Settlement Agreement and this Act.

SEC. 9. MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS.

(a) ELIGIBILITY FOR BENEFITS.—Nothing in this Act or the Settlement Agreement shall affect the eligibility of the Tribe or its members for any Federal program or diminish the trust responsibility of the United States to the Tribe and its members.

(b) ELIGIBILITY FOR OTHER SERVICES NOT AFFECTED.—No payment pursuant to this Act shall result in the reduction or denial of any Federal services or programs to the Tribe or to members of the Tribe, to which they are entitled or eligible because of their status as a federally recognized Indian tribe or member of the Tribe.

(c) PRESERVATION OF EXISTING RIGHTS.—Except as provided in this Act or the Settlement Agreement, any right to which the Tribe is entitled under existing law shall not be affected or diminished.

(d) AMENDMENT OF SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT.—The Settlement Agreement may be amended from time to time in accordance with its terms and conditions.

SEC. 10. AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.

There are authorized to be appropriated such sums as are necessary to carry out this Act.

SEC. 11. EFFECTIVE DATE.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided by subsection (b), this Act shall take effect on the date of enactment of this Act.

(b) EXCEPTION.—Sections 4, 5, 6, 7, and 8 shall take effect on the date on which the Secretary of the Interior determines the following conditions have been met:

(1) The Tribe agrees to the Settlement Agreement and the provisions of this Act and executes the releases and waivers required by the Settlement Agreement and this Act.

(2) The Coachella Valley Water District agrees to the Settlement Agreement and to the provisions of this Act.

(3) The Imperial Irrigation District agrees to the Settlement Agreement and to the provisions of this Act.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from California [Mr. GALLEGLY] and the gentleman from American Samoa [Mr. FALEOMAVAEGA] each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from California [Mr. GALLEGLY].

Mr. GALLEGLY. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

(Mr. GALLEGLY asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. GALLEGLY. Mr. Speaker, H.R. 3640, the Torres-Martinez Desert Cahuilla Indians Claims Settlement Act introduced by our colleague, Mr. BONO of California, would facilitate and implement a settlement to resolve long-standing land claims made by the Torres-Martinez Indian Tribe relating to the inundation of their tribal lands by drainage water from various irrigation systems flowing to the Salton Sea. It is due to Mr. BONO's efforts that this has been brought to our attention.

This bill would establish three settlement trust funds in the U.S. Treasury which will be available to the Secretary of the Interior for distribution to the tribe.

In addition, H.R. 3640 provides that the Secretary of the Interior shall take land into trust when acquired by the tribe from within two acquisition areas defined in the settlement agreement.

It also provides that the United States and the tribe shall convey permanent flowage easements as to all Indian trust lands and all Federal lands, located below the minus 220-foot contour of the Salton Sink, to the Coachella Valley Water District and the Imperial Irrigation District.

Lands acquired by the tribe shall be subject to all valid and existing water rights.

The administration, the tribe, and the two irrigation districts have been working on this settlement for several years. Agreement has finally been reached and H.R. 3640 is the result. In fact, today Chairman YOUNG of the Committee on Resources received a letter from the Assistant Secretary for Indians Affairs at the Department of the Interior in support of Congressman BONO's bill. I will include this letter as part of my statement.

Finally, Mr. Speaker, let me point out that there is a land acquisition issue, relating to H.R. 3640, to be resolved between the Cabazon Band of Mission Indians and the Torres-Martinez Tribe. I understand that complicated differences have arisen between the two tribes regarding the implementation of H.R. 3640. These differences can be negotiated and resolved between the two tribes in a manner which is equitable and acceptable to both tribes. It is my understanding that steps are being taken to work this out as H.R. 3640 moves forward in the legislative process. We all look forward to a resolution to this matter by these two tribes.

I support H.R. 3640, Mr. Speaker. It is a good, fair settlement of a valid land claim and I recommend that it be passed by this body.

The letter previously referred to is as follows:

U.S. DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY,
Washington, DC.

Hon. DON YOUNG,
Chairman, House Committee on Resources,
Washington, DC.

DEAR MR. CHAIRMAN: I understand that the Committee unanimously approved H.R. 3640, the Torres-Martinez Settlement Agreement Act, at the August 1, 1996, make-up of the bill. If enacted, H.R. 3640 will ratify the June 18, 1996, settlement agreement resolving claims and issues related to lands held in trust by the United States for the benefit of the Torres-Martinez Indians ("Agreement").

The Administration supports H.R. 3640, which it believes is an equitable and overdue resolution to this long-standing dispute between the Tribe and two water districts in Southern California. Moreover, as a signatory to the Agreement, the Federal Government is bound by the terms of the Agreement and has a legal obligation under its terms to support the enactment of this implementing legislation which is "substantively the same in text and form" as H.R. 3640.

The Department is aware that the Cabazon Band of Mission Indians has raised concerns regarding the potential impact enactment of H.R. 3640 may have on its interests. The Department prefers that these differences be resolved without modification to H.R. 3640 and it has encouraged the Cabazon and Torres-Martinez Tribes to meet to try to resolve their differences as soon as possible. The Office of Management and Budget has advised that there is no objection to the presentation of this report from the standpoint of the Administration's program.

Again, thank you and the members of your subcommittee for your support and favorable treatment of this important legislation.

Sincerely,

ADA E. DEER,
Assistant Secretary for Indian Affairs.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. FALEOMAVAEGA. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

(Mr. FALEOMAVAEGA asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. FALEOMAVAEGA. Mr. Speaker, this bill would settle claims made by the Torres-Martinez Desert Cahuilla Indian Tribe against two irrigation districts in Southern California.

Mr. Speaker, before proceeding on, I just want to clarify for the record that the name of this tribe, the Torres-Martinez, is not in any way a reflection of the gentleman from California, ESTEBAN TORRES or the gentleman from California, MATTHEW MARTINEZ. I just want to clarify that for the record, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, some 11,000 acres of reservation land has been unusable by the tribe due to flooding by the Salton Sea. The tribe had originally accepted the land with the understanding that the Salton Sea would recede allowing the tribe access to the lands. When this did not occur, the tribe filed a trespass suit against the two local irrigation districts. The courts found for the tribe and to head off additional litigation, the Department of the Interior brought all the parties together to work out a settlement. H.R. 3640 would enact the administration's settlement.

Mr. Speaker, passage of H.R. 3640 will allow the Torres-Martinez Tribe to procure land to utilize for the tribe's benefit and put an end to an 80-year dispute. It will lift barriers which have impeded needed improvements to California Highway 86. Further, it will ensure proper drainage for the local water districts.

Mr. Speaker, support for the administration's settlement enacted by this legislation is broad. The Resources Committee has received letters of support for its passage from at least 16 nearby Indian tribes including the Barona, Cahuilla, Campo, LaJolla, Morongo, San Manuel, and Soboba Tribes. Nearly every non-Indian community in the vicinity has written in support as well. Governor Wilson and California Attorney General Lundgren also support its passage.

Let me make it perfectly clear that I believe that the Torres-Martinez Tribe is the aggrieved party in this instance and it is they who are being compensated. I think this settlement is fair and should proceed. The Torres-Martinez Tribe has waited 80 long years for the Federal Government to make good on promises it made.

Having made this point I also want to mention that the Cabazon Tribe which runs a successful gaming operation in the vicinity has raised concerns over the settlement. The Department of the Interior failed to include the Cabazon Tribe in its discussions on the settlement. It should have. Failure to do so has caused for difficulties between the Cabazon and the Torres-Martinez Tribes which should not exist. The Cabazon Tribe is looking out for the welfare of its members and we should expect no less from them.

Mr. Speaker, the Torres-Martinez Tribe has given assurances to the committee that they will continue to meet with the Cabazon Tribe to try to work out their differences, pursuant to passage of this legislation. I think that is as it should be. I would like to see the tribes come to an equitable agreement but I believe this legislation should proceed.

Mr. Speaker, I wish to clarify that this settlement for Torres-Martinez is not done for our colleagues ESTEBAN TORRES and MATTHEW MARTINEZ as some have suggested.

I urge my colleagues to support passage of this bill.

Mr. Speaker, I include the following for the RECORD:

THE TORRES MARTINEZ DESERT
CAHUILLA INDIANS
Thermal, CA, August 30, 1996.

Re Torres Martinez Settlement Act, H.R. 3640 (S. 1893).

Mr. JOHN A. JAMES,
Tribal Chairman, Cabazon Band of Mission Indians, Indio, CA.

DEAR MR. JAMES: In recent meetings with the Administration and Congress, we have been informed that representatives of Cabazon are spreading the word around Washington that Torres Martinez is unwilling to meet with Cabazon concerning the Torres Martinez Settlement Act, H.R. 3640 (S. 1893). Of course that is not true, as you are well aware.

My Tribal Council met with your Tribal Council in your tribal offices for several hours on July 29, and listened respectfully to your objections to the Torres Martinez Settlement legislation. You explained to us your view that the populated part of the valley is "Cabazon's market" and that our Tribe has no right to compete in "Cabazon's market". We explained to you our view that the entire Valley is "everyone's market", and that everyone has the right to compete in that market. You stated that you would attempt to defeat our Settlement legislation, unless we agreed to an amendment which would exclude any land acquisitions in the populated part of the Valley (north of Airport Blvd). We stated that we could not agree to such an amendment, because it would effectively destroy the most important economic-development benefits contained in our Settlement. The July 29 meeting ended on that note of respectful disagreement between sovereign tribal governments.

On August 9, I replied to your letter of August 6 requesting another meeting "to discuss our differences regarding H.R. 3640 and to make a sincere and diligent attempt to reach a compromise on this issue". After reviewing what had occurred at the July 29 meeting my August 9 letter made the following reply to your request for further meetings, discussions, and negotiations: "Unless you have a proposal different from the one which you presented to our Tribal Council on July 29th, we see no reason to revisit the same issues in another meeting. If you do have a different proposal, please put it in writing and send it to us for our Tribal Council's consideration. Any new issues can be discussed with you in another Council-to-Council meeting."

As I thought was made perfectly clear in my August 9 letter, we stand ready to meet with you at any time to discuss your concerns with H.R. 3640 (S. 1893). We still see no reason to revisit the same issues which were discussed with you for several hours on July 29; but if you have some reason to believe that further discussion for new issues might be fruitful, please contact me and we will arrange another Council-to-Council meeting at the earliest mutually convenient time. If you have a new proposal (different from the one you presented at the July 29 meeting), please put it in writing and send it to me for presentation to my Tribal Council, so that we can begin thinking about it prior to the next meeting be held in our tribal offices.

In conclusion, I reiterate that my Tribal Council is ready and willing to meet with your Tribal Council at any mutually convenient time, to discuss H.R. 3640 (S. 1893) or any other matter of concern to you. If you wish to meet with us, all you have to do is ask.

Sincerely,

MARY E. BELARDO,
Tribal Chairperson.

CABAZON BAND OF
MISSION INDIANS,
Indio, CA, September 4, 1996.

Subject: Torres Martinez Settlement Act and H.R. 3640 (S. 1893).

Reference: Your letter of August 30, 1996.

Chairperson MARY E. BELARDO,
Torres Martinez Desert Cahuilla Indians, Thermal, CA.

DEAR MRS. BELARDO: Contrary to your statements that the Cabazon Band are spreading word that your tribe is unwilling to meet with us concerning H.R. 3640 (S. 1893), it was clear from your letter that you rejected our proposals and that you felt H.R. 3640 "your bill" and therefore it is not necessary for you to accommodate other tribes by amending it.

You apparently don't understand that it is all tribes who compete for the same market for their gaming facilities and that they must do so from where their traditional tribal lands are located. It is not "our" market, but a market that seven gaming facilities must share.

We oppose your unprecedented request to jump over seven cities and three other reservations in order to circumvent our position in the middle of our ancestral lands. This is not only unacceptable land planning, it sets a precedent that all tribes who are in poor locations will try to follow.

The House Resources Committee took an official position on August 2, 1996 directing the Torres Martinez and Cabazon Band of Mission Indians to resolve their differences regarding the terms of the proposed legislation. To that end, the Cabazon Band of Mission Indians took the initiative and met with you proposing three possible alternatives:

1. Re-align the gaming site acquisition to 7½ miles west of your current reservation boundaries. This would allow you to encroach into our traditional area and be within proximity to where our casino is located and have access to the market that all the tribes share.

2. Agree that any Torres Martinez casino be built near Fantasy Springs and the neighboring Spotlight 29 Casino immediately adjacent to our boundaries thus incorporating it in an "entertainment zone" which has already been approved by local municipal jurisdictions. This would allow three tribes to create a synergy to bring customers into the region in partnership with other non-Indian local governments.

3. Support the insertion of language into the proposed legislation which would enable the Cabazon tribe to purchase land up to 15 miles west of its current reservation boundaries in the event you attempt to purchase property west of our reservation. This could easily be inserted without affecting the current agreement executed with the water agencies. (This is our least favorite alternative.)

Negotiations and/or mitigation of differences is a two-way process. It was our interpretation, based on your letter of August 9, 1996, that you rejected our proposals and had no alternative offers. You further stated that future meetings would only be scheduled if the Cabazons came up with other alternatives.

Our concerns remain with the provision of your settlement agreement as it exists:

1. Violation of territorial jurisdictions by purchasing lands within our traditional tribal occupancy area in direct violation of Department of the Interior policy and regulations;

2. That the process was flawed by not following prescribed Department of the Interior procedures, specifically: Section 151.10(b) which requires that "the tribe sufficiently justify the need for additional land for gaming purposes; section 151.10(c) which requires "conclusion on factual findings that the tribe has explored all reasonable and viable alternatives (other than gaming) for economic development; section 151.10(e) that the "impacts be considered on local city and county governments (cities within 30 miles and tribes within 100 miles be notified and brought into discussions).

3. That the proposed legislation is contrary to the requirements of the Indian Gaming Regulatory Act of 1988 by setting a precedent for developing gaming lands off of established territorial properties, and part 1, section 20(a), 25 USC 2719(a) which requires that consultation be done with appropriate state and local officials, including officials of other nearby Indian tribes, and * * * that it will not be detrimental to surrounding communities.

4. Erodes the "good neighbor" policy the tribes have been attempting to establish between themselves and with local cities by circumventing input from the cities and allowing one tribe to invade the territory of another in order to have a casino in violation of existing regulations. This creates "bad blood".

The Cabazon Band of Mission Indians continues to stand ready to discuss viable alternatives and amendments to the proposed legislation so that all parties concerned will experience a "win-win" situation and equal treatment for all tribes. We urge you to halt the legislative process while you bring forward proposals acceptable to all which would mitigate the aberration of our tribal rights. In the absence of you immediate request to Congressman Bono that the process be halted, we feel it will be necessary to maintain strong opposition to the bill.

Sincerely,

JOHN JAMES,
Tribal Chairman.

CABAZON BAND OF
MISSION INDIANS,
Indio, CA, June 28, 1996.

Hon. SONNY BONO,
House of Representatives,
Washington, DC.

DEAR CONGRESSMAN BONO: I am writing this letter in response to your inquiry of June 27, 1996. You stated that it was unclear why my tribal council is opposed to meeting in its entirety with the Torres-Martinez tribal council on the issue of the Torres-Martinez land settlement and our grave concern over their taking lands for gaming purposes in our area of jurisdiction, and the impact that it would have.

Let me start from the onset and make it clear that we very much want to meet with the Torres-Martinez tribe, but for them to call at the last minute with an ultimatum that our tribal council assemble and "face off" with theirs, on an issue which is very emotional on both sides, took us by surprise. I will be pleased to notice a meeting which is required in order for us to accommodate their wishes to meet with an equal number of representatives. It will, however, be necessary for us to have an exploratory meeting in order to define each other's issues and positions so that when our councils meet we can achieve the maximum amount of productivity.

Chairman Belardo of Torres-Martinez has indicated that her council will not allow her to meet with us except in its entirety. I am very concerned that this is demonstrative of a potential lack of confidence on the part of her council. It is critical that the Torres-Martinez be able to distill their positions and issues in order for any negotiation to bear fruit. We stand ready and prepared to meet to define the issues and subsequently have a like number of council members meet face to face and find a suitable compromise that will address their concerns, our concerns, and which will meet the federal government's trust responsibility to both of us.

I hope that this will serve to demonstrate our willingness and clear up any questions you may have about our intentions.

Thank you for committing to addressing our concerns. I would like to formally ask you to hold field hearings on this bill before it proceeds any further.

Sincerely,

JOHN A. JAMES,
Tribal Chairman.

CABAZON BAND OF
MISSION INDIANS,
Indio, CA, July 10, 1996.

Hon. SONNY BONO,
House of Representatives,
Washington, DC.

DEAR CONGRESSMAN BONO: It is my understanding that you are unavailable to meet with me this weekend while you are here in the desert.

On July 9th my office contacted your scheduler, Inda Valter, who said she would see if a meeting were possible. Ms. Valter later informed by office that Brian Nestande recommended we talk to Catherine Bailey prior to setting an appointment with you. Ms. Valter also said your office was hoping to hear that the Cabazon Band of Mission Indians would be meeting with the Torres-Martinez tribe. Our response was that we are in the process of setting up that same meeting. It has since been scheduled for July 24th.

This morning, July 10th, Catherine Bailey informed our tribal secretary that Ms. Valter found your weekend in the desert to be fully booked. She did, however, say that you wanted to know if there were something that needed to be addressed in the near future.

Rather than communicating through staff, I believe we could accomplish far more in a brief one on one meeting. I know you have an extremely heavy schedule, and would not impose on you if this were not of the utmost importance to our tribe.

In addition, I wrote to you on June 28th, formally requesting field hearings on the H.R. 3640 issue. Would you let me know if you have considered this and deem it possible?

Respectfully,

MARK NICHOLS,
Chief Executive Officer.

CONGRESS OF THE UNITED STATES,
July 11, 1996.

MARK NICHOLS,
Cabazon Band of Mission Indians,
Indio, CA.

DEAR MR. NICHOLS: Thank you for your letter of July 10, 1996.

At our meeting in June, we agreed on a plan that the Cabazon meet directly with the Torres-Martinez to resolve its particular issues, and then report to me after doing so. I believe that the Cabazon should continue to go forward with this plan. As we have discussed, the settlement agreement and ratifying legislation provide both tribes with the flexibility to do this. Please be assured that when a meeting does occur between the two tribes, I will be glad to consider whatever conclusions are reached. If you have additional information you would like to share with me in the interim, please feel free to contact my staff, as I am confident they will continue to keep me fully informed.

At this time I do not believe a field hearing is needed. In my view, a field hearing would be redundant to the briefings we have already done, the press coverage and the congressional hearing.

Thank you for keeping me informed of the Cabazon's views.

Sincerely,

SONNY BONO,
Member of Congress.

CABAZON BAND OF
MISSION INDIANS,
Indio, CA, July 10, 1996.

Ms. MARY BELARDO,
Tribal Chairperson, Torres-Martinez Desert
Cahuilla Indians, Thermal, CA.

DEAR CHAIRPERSON BELARDO: We are pleased to see that the meeting of July 26th is still on. We will have name cards made for your council and look forward to an opportunity to productively explore a situation that we hope will meet both of our respective tribal concerns. As we are prepared to try to meet you half way, my council is concerned about your recent statements in The Desert Sun that there will be no adjustment or compromise.

Your conditions for a full council to council meeting and your meeting cancellations have been accepted. However, the new demands outlined in your July 16th letter create a problem for us. We place a lot of confidence in the analysis and guidance provided to us by our tribal attorney and chief executive officer. The members of the Cabazon tribal council may wish to hear their opinions on issues as the meeting progresses, therefore we cannot agree to gag them. I am hopeful that you will understand and accept our position on this issue. Our tribal secretary will be at the meeting in a strictly secretarial capacity not as a participant.

We agree to your stipulation that there be no press or media in attendance.

Sincerely,

JOHN A. JAMES,
Tribal Chairman.

THE TORRES MARTINEZ DESERT
CAHUILLA INDIANS,
Thermal, CA, July 22, 1996.

JOHN A. JAMES,
Chairman, Indio, CA.

DEAR CHAIRMAN JAMES: Thank you for your letter dated July 17, 1996. It is clear to us through this letter that you have misinterpreted the content of our most recent letter to you.

If you will recall we originally made the first contact with your tribe to request a meeting. Our reason for this meeting was to address the rumored concerns of the Cabazon people through their elected Tribal Council regarding our Settlement Agreement. It has been through several mutual changes that we have finally settled to meet with your Council on July 26, 1996 at your Tribal Administrative offices.

As Indian tribes we are often times required to hire staff (non-Indian) that can help our tribes prosper. However, the bottom line is we are still Indian people, with Indian thinking, customs and traditions. It is in this spirit that we come to hear from the Indian people of Cabazon.

To be truthful we have read the remarks of your (non-Indian) CEO in the papers and have seen and heard enough of his comments on television and radio. Frankly, we are not concerned with how he feels about an Indian tribe that is about to receive the most meaningful award granted to them in approximately the last 120 years, however we are willing to receive any papers or analysis that he would like to submit to us.

It is our belief that Indian people have only survived over these tumultuous years by sharing what little we have with one another, this is the Indian way.

If you feel that the people of Cabazon cannot speak their own true feelings then you may want to cancel our meeting, but we will not listen to any non Indians at this meeting. You describe this thinking as putting a "gag" on your staff, we see it as expressing our sovereign right and dealing with a fellow tribe in a government to government manner. We do not take our sovereign rights lightly and will need to insist on your understanding of this.

We look forward to meeting with your elected Tribal Council on July 26, 1996.

Sincerely,

MARY E. BELARDO,
Tribal Chairperson.

CABAZON BAND OF MISSION INDIANS,
Indio, CA, August 2, 1996.

Ms. MARY BELARDO,
*Tribal Chairperson, The Torres Martinez Desert
Cahuilla Indians, Thermal, CA.*

DEAR MARY: As you have been notified in the hearing language, it is the official House Resources Committee position that a resolution be worked out concerning our differences regarding H.R. 3640. In the absence of a resolution, we will be forced to pursue this to the next level. If you want the bill to pass this session it is imperative that we work this out. We would like to immediately begin negotiations so that we can find a solution that is mutually acceptable to both of our tribes.

The tribal council to council meeting was a beginning, however, our tribal council has determined that true progress can only be made through hard negotiations between assigned negotiating teams. We are prepared to put together such a team on short notice once you have committed to a meeting time. Would Monday, August 5th, at 2:00 p.m. be suitable?

Sincerely,

JOHN A. JAMES,
Tribal Chairman.

AGUA CALIENTE BAND OF

Hon. SONNY BONO,
*House of Representatives,
Washington, DC.*

DEAR CONGRESSMAN BONO: On behalf of the Agua Caliente Band of Indians, I would like to thank you for your efforts to keep our Tribal Council informed on the status of HR 3640, the Torres Martinez Desert Cahuilla Indians Claims Settlement Act. Upon review, we can find no reason to oppose this legislation. Further, we believe the negotiations leading to this legislation reflect the proper government-to-government relationship envisioned by the founders of this Nation.

Please feel free to contact me if I can be of any assistance to you in the future.

Respectfully yours,

AUGUSTINE BAND OF MISSION INDIANS,
Coachella, CA, June 28, 1996.

Hon. SONNY BONO,
*House of Representatives,
Washington, DC.*

DEAR CONGRESSMAN BONO: This letter is written to inform you that the Augustine Band of Mission Indians supports HR 3640, the Torres-Martinez Desert Cahuilla Indians Claims Settlement Act. The Augustine Tribe has always extended full support to the Torres-Martinez Tribe in their on-going efforts to arrive at an equitable resolution of a long standing claim for lost lands.

You are to be commended for the time and effort you have dedicated to the Torres-Martinez Desert Cahuilla Indians to acquire a settlement of their claims.

Sincerely,

MARYANN MARTIN,
Chairperson.

Hon. SONNY BONO,
Congress of the United States, Cannon House Office Building, Washington, DC.

HONORABLE CONGRESSMAN BONO: We the Cahuilla Band of Indians does support the "Torres Martinez Desert Cahuilla Indians Claims Settlement Act of 1996". We understand that the term of this act supports a settlement between the Torres Martinez Desert Cahuilla Indians, local water districts and the federal government.

The terms of the settlement agreement calling for compensation to the Torres Martinez tribe in the amount of $14 million. In addition, the tribe will be able to acquire 11,800 acres of land within boundaries specified in the bill.

Acquisition by the tribe will have no impact on existing water rights of the local communities and tribes. The Torres Martinez tribe will be allowed one limited gaming site on the newly acquired lands. Local cities, county and tribal governments will have the ability to veto acquisition of new lands within their jurisdiction.

We the Cahuilla Band of Indians supports Member of Congress Sonny Bono on the bill H.R. 3640.

Sincerely,

MICHELLE SALGADO,
Tribal Chairperson.

DEAR CONGRESSMAN BONO: The Soboba Band of Mission Indians supports your proposed bill concerning a land settlement with the Torres-Martinez Band of Mission Indians.

We believe a settlement will provide long overdue compensation to the Torres-Martinez Band for their land which was rendered useless since the early 1900's. We are pleased the federal government and the Band have reached an agreement. The settlement will not only benefit the Torres-Martinez Band but also the surrounding communities.

The Soboba Band appreciates your efforts in reaching a settlement and your support of Native Americans.

Hon. SONNY BONO,
Cannon Office Building, Washington, DC.

DEAR CONGRESSMAN BONO: The Twenty-Nine Palms Band of Mission Indians, owners of the Spotlight 29 Casino located near Coachella, California, offers its support to your proposed bill concerning a land settlement with our nearby Native American neighbors, the Torres Martinez Desert Cahuilla Indians.

We believe that such a settlement will provide long overdue compensation to the Torres Martinez for their land which was flooded and rendered virtually useless since the early 1900's, and are pleased that the federal government has reached a solution which is acceptable to them.

The resolution will not only benefit the Torres Martinez but will also offer potential benefits to the surrounding communities by providing the Torres Martinez the opportunity to join with local efforts to enhance the economy and well being of citizen's in the area.

We appreciate your efforts to keep us informed of the settlement because of its effect on the overall community, and look forward to other cooperative efforts with your office in the future.

Sincerely,

DEAN MIKE,
Chairman.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. GALLEGLY. Mr. Speaker, I yield 5 minutes to my good friend, the gentleman from California [Mr. BONO].

(Mr. BONO asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. BONO. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding me time.

Mr. Speaker, I am trying to be as explicit as I can on a very complicated issue. First of all, I do want to recognize the Cabazon Indians' legitimate complaint that they were not notified by the Department of the Interior, and, therefore, had to play catch-up in this situation and have a legitimate complaint.

So I just want to say, hopefully, as this legislation progresses, that we will do everything we can to encourage the tribes to work out a settlement on their dispute, but recognize that it is an Indian dispute and that they should settle that between themselves. We do not really have a good guy or a bad guy here. It is just that this situation came, and we do understand it, and they have my support as well. So we hope it will settle as this legislation goes on.

This has been going on for 80 years, and what happened, basically, is the Torres-Martinez land was flooded and they have not had a home. Eventually they had to sue, and that litigation has been going on for 15 years. We have finally brought this to closure, which is very important because it not only deals with the tribes but it deals with the local communities, as well.

We have a highway, Highway 86, that cannot be repaired because of this litigation and we lose 10 people, annually 10 people die, and we would love to repair this highway. This would finally permit us to fix this highway and get rid of those needless deaths on an annual basis.

Furthermore, we have a big agriculture community within the district, and there is a drainage issue. This would allow that drainage problem to go away so that the agricultural industry could drain and would not have to worry about encumbrances.

This action has been supported by the National Congress of American Indians and by just about everybody and, furthermore, it grants the tribe sovereignty, which I think we have to do. So we are not trying and I am not trying to act like the person that can dictate these issues. We just want to recognize that sovereignty exists and we have to recognize sovereignty. That is all we are doing.

Again, I want to say that anything I can do to help work on the agreement between the two tribes, I do want to say that I am available anytime.

The Torres-Martinez live in poverty and have lived in poverty. This will finally get them above poverty and give them a chance to survive. So basically that is a capsulation of the whole issue, but it is a very good bill and it could cure a lot of ills, and I urge my colleagues' support.

Mr. FALEOMAVAEGA. Mr. Speaker, I yield 5 minutes to the gentleman from Michigan [Mr. KILDEE].

Mr. KILDEE. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to express both my support and my deep concern over the passage of this legislation.

I want to be perfectly clear that I strongly and unequivocally support full compensation to the Torres-Martinez Tribe for the injustices they have suffered in the last century. Today almost 123,000 acres of Torres-Martinez tribal reservation land lies submerged beneath the Salton Sea. This land was flooded early in this century. The tribe has never been fully compensated by the U.S. Government for that.

Our Government, Mr. Speaker, has a moral and legal obligation to settle this long overdue claim of the Torres-Martinez Tribe. It is my understanding that this is a tribe with very few resources, and this settlement agreement will better enable them to establish and maintain a sovereign-to-sovereign relationship with the U.S. Government.

But, Mr. Speaker, I must admit I am deeply troubled by the process which the Department of the Interior used to facilitate the settlement with the Torres-Martinez Tribe. It is my understanding that the Department of the Interior failed to meet with or even discuss the proposed settlement agreement with all the tribes who live in the area and who will be most affected by this legislation.

These consultations are especially important when we are dealing with issues that affect the economic viability of the different tribes. Unfortunately, in its eagerness to reach a settlement, the Department of the Interior failed to take these interests into account.

Mr. Speaker, when the Committee on Resources first considered this bill, I strongly encouraged the Department of the Interior to meet with the local tribes to try to resolve the differences that still exist on this bill. I am troubled that these meetings have never taken place.

Mr. Speaker, it is also unfortunate that this bill is being considered under the suspension calendar, so that there will be no chance to offer amendments to fine-tune this legislation. I hope the Senate will take the time to closely examine this bill and make sure it is equitable and fair for all groups impacted by this settlement agreement.

Mr. FALEOMAVAEGA. Mr. Speaker, I yield 5 minutes to the gentleman from California [Mr. TORRES].

(Mr. TORRES asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. TORRES. Mr. Speaker, I thank the chairman for yielding me this time, and I want to thank the chairman for clarifying the title of this legislation, known as the Torres-Martinez Settlement Act, that in fact neither I, ESTEBAN TORRES, a Member of Congress, nor Representative MATTHEW MARTINEZ, a Member of Congress, have anything to do with this bill. It is simply the name of this particular California band of mission Indians.

Let me say that it is right for the United States to compensate the Torres-Martinez Tribe for the land that it lost through agricultural flooding, and I support resolution of the long-standing dispute between the tribe and the two water districts in southern California. But as the gentleman from Michigan, Mr. KILDEE, has stated, I cannot support the bill under the discussion that is being carried out here today.

H.R. 3460 is the result of a flawed process. It is a faulty bill because the Department of the Interior failed to follow its own procedures under the Indian Gaming Regulatory Act of 1988. That act, known as IGRA, requires the Department of the Interior to consult, I want to underscore that, consult with the Native American tribes and local municipal governments. And as the chairman has stated, the Department has admitted that such discussions never took place. Such discussions never took place.

Also in violation of IGRA, and of even greater concern, the proposed legislation sets a dangerous precedent by giving the tribe the right to purchase up to 640 acres for a gaming facility outside of traditional reservation boundaries.

Let me explain. Here we have a chart indicating by the yellow the initial parcel that was a settlement under the Bush administration, that gave the Torres-Martinez Tribe the basis for settling this land that was submerged under the Salton Sea. The Babbitt administration at the Department of the Interior later designated the second red zone here as a secondary zone. And this is where, then, we see that one tribe, no matter how disadvantaged it is, is given a special privilege because it has now leapfrogged over these other Indian tribes and communities without consultation in establishing a gaming facility up in this area.

If we allow this off-reservation land acquisition to move forward, what will stop other tribes in the States from seeking the permission to build casinos in other nontraditional land localities? Such special treatment erodes the trust and the cooperation that tribes have worked to establish between themselves and their local cities. It circumvents necessary input from affected communities. It violates existing regulations, and, yes, it just simply creates bad blood.

Let me make no mistake about this. This is not simply a bill to make overdue payments and amends to the Torres-Martinez Tribe. Let me show you the other side of the picture. Members should be aware that a very powerful and wealthy consortium of non-Indians, with gambling ventures around the country, is very much a part of this shady deal.

The GTECH Corp. and Full House Resorts, Inc., are angling to develop a casino enterprise on the prime land this bill would permit the tribe to acquire. Lee Iacocca, no less, and Alan Paulson stand to gain much more, yes, much more than those poor impoverished Indians of the Torres-Martinez Tribe from this bill.

These are serious allegations and this is a serious issue, and for these reasons I am dismayed to see this bill was rushed through on the suspension calendar. I had no chance to offer amendments. My colleagues had no chance to remedy the faults in this bill.

I would like to see full field hearings, consultations, due process, safeguard procedures to remedy the faults in this legislation and make it a true settlement, a true settlement rather than a special interest giveaway. But, unfortunately, the leadership is pushing this bill through under a restrictive rule. I cannot offer needed amendments or changes, and that compounds the injustice of this.

So I call upon Members of this body and I call upon Members of the other body to step up to the plate and fix this faulty bill. The other body can work and should work to redress the flaws in H.R. 3640, and I so recommend, my colleagues in this Chamber, to call upon their colleagues in the other body to do the same.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. MILLER of Florida). The gentleman will refrain from asking the Senate to take certain actions.

Mr. RICHARDSON. The Torres-Martinez Indian Reservation was created in 1876 in the Coachella Valley of California. The Salton Sea flooded approximately 2,000 acres of reservation lands and in 1909 and additional 9,000 acres of submerged lands were included in the reservation. This was done with the belief that the Salton Sea would recede allowing the tribe access to the lands. In 1982 the United States brought a trespass suit on behalf of the tribe against the Imperial Irrigation District [IID] and the Coachella Valley Water District [CVWD]. The court found for the tribe and awarded $212,908 in damages to the tribe from CVWD and $2,795,694 in damages from IID. A second suit was filed on behalf of the tribe. At this point the United States intervened to facilitate a settlement with the tribe and the two water districts.

This settlement legislation would require the CVWD to pay $337,908.41 to the tribe and its allottees and IID would pay $3,670,694.33. In addition the United States would pay $10,200,000 to the tribe. These amounts would be held in the U.S. Treasury in trust for the tribe and its allottee members.

The tribe would be allowed to acquire 11,800 acres of land to be considered as if it were acquired in 1909 except with regard to water rights. The tribe would be allowed to conduct gaming on only one site within this area. The local communities would have to support the casino and the tribe would be required to enter into a compact with the State. In return the water districts would receive a permanent flowage easement located within and below the 220-foot contour of the Salton Sink.

If this settlement is enacted, the tribe will waive all claims regarding the flooded lands of their reservation.

The administration is a party to this settlement and strongly supports it.

All but one local Indian tribe supports the bill as well as Governor Wilson and Attorney General Lundgren. The Cabazon Tribe was probably not consulted in the way that it should have been and I strongly encourage the two tribes to meet and talk out their differences. The Torres-Martinez Tribe has assured me they are willing to talk with the Cabazon.

I believe it is time to pass this bill and fix the wrong to the Torres-Martinez Tribe.

Mr. FALEOMAVAEGA. Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. GALLEGLY. Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from California [Mr. GALLEGLY] that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 3640, as amended.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the bill, as amended, was passed.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

HOOPA VALLEY RESERVATION SOUTH BOUNDARY ADJUSTMENT ACT

Mr. GALLEGLY. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the bill (H.R. 2710) to provide for the conveyance of certain land in the State of California to the Hoopa Valley Tribe, as amended.

The Clerk read as follows:

H.R. 2710

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the "Hoopa Valley Reservation South Boundary Adjustment Act".

SEC. 2. LAND TRANSFER TO RESERVATION.

(a) IN GENERAL.—All right, title, and interest of the United States in and to the lands described in subsection (b) shall hereafter be held in trust by the United States for the benefit of the Hoopa Valley Tribe and shall be part of the Hoopa Valley Reservation.

(b) LANDS DESCRIBED.—The lands referred to in subsection (a) are those portions of Townships 7 North and 8 North, Range 5 East and 6 East, Humboldt Meridian, California, within a boundary beginning at a point on the current south boundary of the Hoopa Valley Indian Reservation, marked and identified as "Post H.V.R. No. 8" on the Plat of the Hoopa Valley Indian Reservation prepared from a field survey conducted by C.T. Bissel, Augusta T. Smith and C.A. Robinson, Deputy Surveyors, approved by the Surveyor General, H. Pratt, March 18, 1892, and extending from said point on a bearing of north 72 degrees 30 minutes east, until intersecting with a line beginning at a point marked as "Post H.V.R. No. 3" on said survey and extending on a bearing of south 15 degrees 59 minutes east, comprising 2,641 acres more or less.

(c) BOUNDARY ADJUSTMENT.—The boundary of the Six Rivers National Forest shall be adjusted to exclude the lands to be held in trust for the benefit of the Hoopa Valley Tribe pursuant to this section.

SEC. 3. SURVEY.

The Secretary of the Interior, acting through the Bureau of Land Management, shall survey and monument that portion of the boundary of the Hoopa Valley Reservation established by the addition of lands made by section 2.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from California [Mr. GALLEGLY] and the gentleman from American Samoa [Mr. FALEOMAVAEGA] each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from California [Mr. GALLEGLY].

(Mr. GALLEGLY asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. GALLEGLY. Mr. Speaker, H.R. 2710, the proposed Hoopa Valley Reservation South Boundary Adjustment Act, introduced by our colleague, the gentleman from California [Mr. RIGGS], would convey approximately 2,641 acres of land to the Hoopa Valley Tribe of California.

The land to be transferred is presently part of the Six Rivers National Forest and has been fully timbered pursuant to the Forest Service timber sales.

I note that these lands to be conveyed by H.R. 2710 contain the graves of the Tish-Tan-a-Tang band of Hoopa Indians and are currently used by the tribe for hunting, fishing, food gathering, and ceremonial purposes.

H.R. 2710 would eliminate a longstanding alternation of the originally intended boundary of the Hoopa Valley Indian Reservation.

Mr. Speaker, this is a fair and just bill and I urge my colleagues to support it.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 5 minutes to the gentleman from California [Mr. RIGGS].

Mr. RIGGS. Mr. Speaker, I want to thank my very good friend and southern California colleague, Mr. GALLEGLY, from the community of Simi Valley in Ventura County.

Mr. Speaker, and colleagues, Mr. GALLEGLY has kind of given a quick overview of my legislation. This is simple straightforward legislation, but it is something that is fundamentally important as a matter of fairness and equity to the Hoopa Valley Tribe in Humboldt County, the largest county in my congressional district.

The Hoopa Valley Tribe is the largest self-governance tribe in California. This legislation would restore their reservation to its original intended 12-mile-by-12-mile square.

Let me provide a little bit more of detail. As Mr. GALLEGLY explained, we are proposing to transfer in this legislation 2,641 acres of land now owned by the United States of America and managed by the U.S. Forest Service to the Hoopa Valley Tribe to square their reservation.

For as long as 10,000 years, the Hoopa Valley Tribe has lived in the Hoopa Valley. It is a beautiful area which is bisected by the Trinity River, and their reservation actually begins at the mouth of the Trinity River Canyon.

As early as 1851, a proposed treaty would have established a reservation encompassing an area larger than the present reservation. In restoring this land at the southeast corner of what otherwise would be a 12-mile square, this bill will eliminate a dogleg, the dogleg as they know it, in the south boundary of the present reservation, correcting an action that occurred in 1875.

At that time, the original surveyors of the reservation indented the boundary and created this irregular dogleg. This was apparently done to accommodate some miners who had staked claims in the area. Although the claims soon played out and the miners left the area, the boundary was never changed or corrected.

As I mentioned, as Mr. GALLEGLY mentioned, this land is administered by the Forest Service as part of the Six Rivers National Forest. The original timber on this parcel of land was sold off by the end of the 1970's. The area to be transferred includes Tish-Tang, Tish-Tang Campground, a Forest Service facility. The tribe has stated that it will continue to operate Tish-Tang as a public campground with public ingress and egress. There will be continued access over this land to the Trinity River.

This could be particularly important if budget reductions necessitate reductions in Forest Service campground operations and maintenance. I have received correspondence, Mr. Speaker, from several local businesses that rely on the Trinity River corridor, asking that access to the road to Tish-Tang and the gravel bar at Tish-Tang remain in the public domain; that is to say, they want a guarantee of continued public access along this road and to the gravel bar at Tish-Tang.

I have raised these concerns with the Hoopa Valley Tribe, their tribal council and leadership. I have been assured that public access at Tish-Tang will not be hindered as a result of this land transfer. Members of the Hoopa Valley have long been outstanding stewards of California's north coast environment. They have been leaders, for example, in the efforts to restore the Trinity River. This is the most critical fishery, the Trinity-Klamath river system in my congressional district. This transfer would permit the tribes longstanding land management and economic development policies to be extended to the restored lands.

I commend the bipartisan leadership of the House Committee on Resources for moving this legislation and I urge its approval, again, as a matter of fairness and equity to the Hoopa Valley Tribe so that the boundary of the tribe's reservation can be adjusted to reflect the original intent of Congress.

Mr. FALCOMA. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume. I certainly admire the Chair's generosity and sincere efforts in pronouncing my name. I know that this has always been a difficult problem with many Members but it is Falcomavaega. It is one of those Polynesian names.

Mr. Speaker, H.R. 2710 would transfer almost 2,640 acres of land currently within the Six Rivers National Forest to the Hoopa Valley Tribe to be held in trust for the Tribe. This land, which includes an operating campground, is adjacent to the southern boundary of the Hoopa Valley Reservation. There is question as to whether or not this land was intended to be part of the original reservation boundaries and by looking at a map of the area one could easily conclude that may have been the case. Regardless, the Forest Service has testified that it supports this transfer so long as public access to the area remains available. The Tribe has agreed to this and plans to continue to operate the campground for the public's use.

I hope addition of this land will benefit the Tribe in the future and ask my colleagues to join me in supporting passage of this bill.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. GALLEGLY. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. MILLER of Florida). The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from California [Mr. GALLEGLY] that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 2710, as amended.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the bill, as amended, was passed.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

CROW CREEK SIOUX TRIBE INFRASTRUCTURE DEVELOPMENT TRUST FUND ACT OF 1996

Mr. GALLEGLY. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the bill (H.R. 2512) to provide for certain benefits of the Missouri River Basin Pick-Sloan project to the Crow Creek Sioux Tribe, and for other purposes, as amended.

The Clerk read as follows:

H.R. 2512

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the "Crow Creek Sioux Tribe Infrastructure Development Trust Fund Act of 1996".

SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

(a) FINDINGS.—The Congress finds that—

(1) the Congress approved the Pick-Sloan Missouri River basin program by passing the Act of December 22, 1944, commonly known as the "Flood Control Act of 1944" (58 Stat. 887, chapter 665; 33 U.S.C. 701-1 et seq.)—

(A) to promote the general economic development of the United States;

(B) to provide for irrigation above Sioux City, Iowa;

(C) to protect urban and rural areas from devastating floods of the Missouri River; and

(D) for other purposes;

(2) the Fort Randall and Big Bend projects are major components of the Pick-Sloan program, and contribute to the national economy by generating a substantial amount of hydro-power and impounding a substantial quantity of water;

(3) the Fort Randall and Big Bend projects overlie the western boundary of the Crow Creek Indian Reservation, having inundated the fertile, wooded bottom lands of the Tribe along the Missouri River that constituted the most productive agricultural and pastoral lands of the Crow Creek Sioux Tribe and the homeland of the members of the Tribe;

(4) Public Law 85-916 (72 Stat. 1766 et seq.) authorized the acquisition of 9,418 acres of Indian land on the Crow Creek Indian Reservation for the Fort Randall project and Public Law 87-735 (76 Stat. 704 et seq.) authorized the acquisition of 6,179 acres of Indian land on Crow Creek for the Big Bend project;

(5) Public Law 87-735 (76 Stat. 704 et seq.) provided for the mitigation of the effects of the Fort Randall and Big Bend projects on the Crow Creek Indian Reservation, by directing the Secretary of the Army to—

(A) replace, relocate, or reconstruct—

(i) any existing essential governmental and agency facilities on the reservation, including schools, hospitals, offices of the Public Health Service and the Bureau of Indian Affairs, service buildings, and employee quarters; and

(ii) roads, bridges, and incidental matters or facilities in connection with such facilities;

(B) provide for a townsite adequate for 50 homes, including streets and utilities (including water, sewage, and electricity), taking into account the reasonable future growth of the townsite; and

(C) provide for a community center containing space and facilities for community gatherings, tribal offices, tribal council chamber, offices of the Bureau of Indian Affairs, offices and quarters of the Public Health Service, and a combination gymnasium and auditorium;

(6) the requirements under Public Law 87-735 (76 Stat. 704 et seq.) with respect to the mitigation of the effects of the Fort Randall and Big Bend projects on the Crow Creek Indian Reservation have not been fulfilled;

(7) although the national economy has benefited from the Fort Randall and Big Bend projects, the economy on the Crow Creek Indian Reservation remains underdeveloped, in part as a consequence of the failure of the Federal Government to fulfill the obligations of the Federal Government under the laws referred to in paragraph (4);

(8) the economic and social development and cultural preservation of the Crow Creek Sioux Tribe will be enhanced by increased tribal participation in the benefits of the Fort Randall and Big Bend components of the Pick-Sloan program; and

(9) the Crow Creek Sioux Tribe is entitled to additional benefits of the Pick-Sloan Missouri River basin program.

SEC. 3. DEFINITIONS.

For the purposes of this Act, the following definitions shall apply:

(1) FUND.—The term "Fund" means the Crow Creek Sioux Tribe Infrastructure Development Trust Fund established under section 4(a).

(2) PLAN.—The term "plan" means the plan for socioeconomic recovery and cultural preservation prepared under section 5.

(3) PROGRAM.—The term "Program" means the power program of the Pick-Sloan Missouri River basin program, administered by the Western Area Power Administration.

(4) SECRETARY.—The term "Secretary" means the Secretary of the Interior.

(5) TRIBE.—The term "Tribe" means the Crow Creek Sioux Tribe of Indians, a band of the Great Sioux Nation recognized by the United States of America.

SEC. 4. ESTABLISHMENT OF CROW CREEK SIOUX TRIBE INFRASTRUCTURE DEVELOPMENT TRUST FUND.

(a) CROW CREEK SIOUX TRIBE INFRASTRUCTURE DEVELOPMENT TRUST FUND.—There is established in the Treasury of the United States a fund to be known as the "Crow Creek Sioux Tribe Infrastructure Development Trust Fund".

(b) FUNDING.—Beginning with fiscal year 1997, and for each fiscal year thereafter, until such time as the aggregate of the amounts deposited in the Fund is equal to $27,500,000, the Secretary of the Treasury shall deposit into the Fund an amount equal to 25 percent of the receipts from the deposits to the Treasury of the United States for the preceding fiscal year from the Program.

(c) INVESTMENTS.—The Secretary of the Treasury shall invest the amounts deposited under subsection (b) only in interest-bearing obligations of the United States or in obligations guaranteed as to both principal and interest by the United States.

(d) PAYMENT OF INTEREST TO TRIBE.—

(1) ESTABLISHMENT OF ACCOUNT AND TRANSFER OF INTEREST.—The Secretary of the Treasury shall, in accordance with this subsection, transfer any interest that accrues on amounts deposited under subsection (b) into a separate account established by the Secretary of the Treasury in the Treasury of the United States.

(2) PAYMENTS.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—Beginning with the fiscal year immediately following the fiscal year during which the aggregate of the amounts deposited in the Fund is equal to the amount specified in subsection (b), and for each fiscal year thereafter, all amounts transferred under paragraph (1) shall be available, without fiscal year limitation, to the Secretary of the Interior for use in accordance with subparagraph (C).

(B) WITHDRAWAL AND TRANSFER OF FUNDS.—For each fiscal year specified in subparagraph (A), the Secretary of the Treasury shall withdraw amounts from the account established under such paragraph and transfer such amounts to the Secretary of the Interior for use in accordance with subparagraph (C). The Secretary of the Treasury may only withdraw funds from the account for the purpose specified in this paragraph.

(C) PAYMENTS TO TRIBE.—The Secretary of the Interior shall use the amounts transferred under subparagraph (B) only for the purpose of making payments to the Tribe.

(D) USE OF PAYMENTS BY TRIBE.—The Tribe shall use the payments made under subparagraph (C) only for carrying out projects and programs pursuant to the plan prepared under section 5.

(3) PROHIBITION ON PER CAPITA PAYMENTS.—No portion of any payment made under this subsection may be distributed to any member of the Tribe on a per capita basis.

(e) TRANSFERS AND WITHDRAWALS.—Except as provided in subsection (d)(1), the Secretary of the Treasury may not transfer or withdraw any amount deposited under subsection (b).

SEC. 5. PLAN FOR SOCIOECONOMIC RECOVERY AND CULTURAL PRESERVATION.

(a) PLAN.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The Tribe shall, not later than 2 years after the date of enactment of this Act, prepare a plan for the use of the payments made to the Tribe under section 4(d)(2). In developing the plan, the Tribe shall consult with the Secretary of the Interior and the Secretary of Health and Human Services.

(2) REQUIREMENTS FOR PLAN COMPONENTS.—The plan shall, with respect to each component of the plan—

(A) identify the costs and benefits of that component; and

(B) provide plans for that component.

(b) CONTENT OF PLAN.—The plan shall include the following programs and components:

(1) EDUCATIONAL FACILITY.—The plan shall provide for an educational facility to be located on the Crow Creek Indian Reservation.

(2) COMPREHENSIVE INPATIENT AND OUTPATIENT HEALTH CARE FACILITY.—The plan shall provide for a comprehensive inpatient and outpatient health care facility to provide essential services that the Secretary of Health and Human Services, in consultation with the individuals and entities referred to in subsection (a)(1), determines to be—

(A) needed; and

(B) unavailable through existing facilities of the Indian Health Service on the Crow Creek Indian Reservation at the time of the determination.

(3) WATER SYSTEM.—The plan shall provide for the construction, operation, and maintenance of a municipal, rural, and industrial water system for the Crow Creek Indian Reservation.

(4) RECREATIONAL FACILITIES.—The plan shall provide for recreational facilities suitable for high-density recreation at Lake Sharpe at Big Bend Dam and at other locations on the Crow Creek Indian Reservation in South Dakota.

(5) OTHER PROJECTS AND PROGRAMS.—The plan shall provide for such other projects and programs for the educational, social welfare, economic development, and cultural preservation of the Tribe as the Tribe considers to be appropriate.

SEC. 6. AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.

There are authorized to be appropriated such funds as may be necessary to carry out this Act, including such funds as may be necessary to cover the administrative expenses of the Crow Creek Sioux Tribe Infrastructure Development Trust Fund established under section 4.

SEC. 7. EFFECT OF PAYMENTS TO TRIBE.

(a) IN GENERAL.—No payment made to the Tribe pursuant to this Act shall result in the reduction or denial of any service or program to which, pursuant to Federal law—

(1) the Tribe is otherwise entitled because of the status of the Tribe as a federally recognized Indian tribe; or

(2) any individual who is a member of the Tribe is entitled because of the status of the individual as a member of the Tribe.

(b) EXEMPTIONS; STATUTORY CONSTRUCTION.—

(1) POWER RATES.—No payment made pursuant to this Act shall affect Pick-Sloan Missouri River basin power rates.

(2) STATUTORY CONSTRUCTION.—Nothing in this Act may be construed as diminishing or affecting—

(A) any right of the Tribe that is not otherwise addressed in this Act; or

(B) any treaty obligation of the United States.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from California [Mr. GALLEGLY] and the gentleman from American Samoa [Mr. FALEOMAVAEGA] each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from California [Mr. GALLEGLY].

Mr. GALLEGLY. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

(Mr. GALLEGLY asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. GALLEGLY. Mr. Speaker, H.R. 2512, the proposed Crow Creek Sioux Tribe Infrastructure Development Trust Fund Act of 1996, was introduced by our colleague, Mr. JOHNSON of South Dakota, last year. It would create a $27.5 million development fund to be used for the benefit of the Crow Creek Sioux Tribe.

This trust fund is being created to mitigate the effects of the Ford Randall water project and the Big Bend water project which inundated the lands of the tribe years ago.

This development fund would provide the tribe with resources for education facilities, health care facilities, a water system, and recreational facilities.

The moneys going into the development fund would be derived from the power program of the Pick-Sloan Missouri River Basin Program. The tribe would receive payments made on an annual basis derived from the interest earned on the development fund. H.R. 2512 is long overdue. It is a fair and just bill, and I urge my colleagues to support it.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. FALEOMAVAEGA. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

(Mr. FALEOMAVAEGA asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. FALEOMAVAEGA. Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to support this bill, which was introduced by my good friend, Representative TIM JOHNSON. This bill rights an old wrong by compensating the Crow Creek Sioux Tribe for the massive and devastating impact of the Pick-Sloan plan, which authorized the construction of two dams, the Big Bend and Fort Randall dams, on the best lands of the Crow Creek Tribe. The dams flooded the 15,000 acres of the tribe's best grazing and woodlands and displaced entire communities against their will. Although Congress was aware of the extent of the damage and passed legislation in 1962 to replace lost tribal infrastructure, buildings, and roads, the Army Corps of Engineers and the Bureau of Indian Affairs never fulfilled our responsibility and commitment under the provisions of the law.

I agree with Rep. JOHNSON of South Dakota that it is time we followed through on our promises to the tribe. It goes without saying that we have had a rather poor history of keeping our promises to the Indian tribes. For example, we broke the Fort Laramie treaties of 1851 and 1868, treaties which the Crow Creek Sioux Tribe signed. We made a promise to the Tribe almost 35 years ago that we would help them because of all the damage that we inflicted upon them. As the ranking member of the House Subcommittee on Native American and Insular Affairs, I am glad to see that we are finally following through on our promises to the tribe.

Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from South Dakota has worked diligently and tirelessly on behalf of the nine recognized tribes of South Dakota, including the Crow Creek Sioux Tribe, to get this legislation passed. Mr. JOHNSON has been a loyal and hard working member of the subcommittee, and I certainly enjoyed immensely working with him in working on other pieces of legislation. I urge my colleagues to support passage of this legislation.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. GALLEGLY. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I would just like to take a minute and thank my colleague from American Samoa, my good friend, ENI FALEOMAVAEGA, for the bipartisan way that we continue to work on this legislation makes it a real pleasure for me. I want to take this time to publicly thank him.

Mr. FALEOMAVAEGA. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I, too, would like to reciprocate by adding my commendation to the distinguished gentleman from California, as the chairman of our subcommittee, who has worked quite diligently in the past several months in passing this legislation that affects the needs of our Native American communities throughout the country as well as the territories. I really would like to express my appreciation to him for the fine working relationship that we have had over the past several months and on a very bipartisan basis for a change, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. JOHNSON of South Dakota. Mr. Speaker, I want to thank my colleagues for moving forward on this innovative legislation which is particularly important to the Crow Creek Sioux Tribe and to my State of South Dakota. I have been privileged to work with the tribe and with Senator DASCHLE on this bill and its companion in the Senate, and I am confident that my colleagues will support H.R. 2512.

The Crow Creek Sioux Tribe Infrastructure and Development Act would establish a trust fund within the Department of the Treasury for the development of certain tribal infrastructure projects for the Crow Creek Tribe. These projects were outlined in previous legislation but were never completed due to limited funding sources. The Crow Creek Development trust fund would be capitalized from a small percentage of hydropower revenues and would be capped at $27.5 million. Language included in this bill would prohibit any increase in power rates in connection with the trust fund. The tribe would then receive the interest from the fund to be used according to a development plan based on legislation previously passed by Congress, and prepared in consultation with the Bureau of Indian Affairs and the Indian Health Service.

The Flood Control Act of 1994 created six massive earthen dams along the Missouri River. Known as the Pick-Sloan plan, this public works project has since provided much-needed flood control, recreation, irrigation, and hydropower for communities along the Missouri. Four of the Pick-Sloan dams are located in South Dakota and the benefits of the project have proven indispensable to the people of my State.

Unfortunately, construction of the Big Bend and Fort Randall dams was severely detrimental to economic and agricultural development for the Crow Creek Tribe. Over 15,000 acres of the tribe's most fertile and productive land were inundated as a direct result of construction. The tribal community has still not yet been adequately compensated for the economic deprivation caused by Pick-Sloan.

Through the Big Bend Act of 1962, Congress directed the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and the Department of the Interior to take certain actions to alleviate the problems caused by the destruction of tribal resources and displacement of entire communities. Yet, these directives were either carried out inadequately or not at all.

Congress established precedent for the Infrastructure and Development Act with the Three Affiliated Tribes and Standing Rock Sioux Tribe Equitable Compensation Act of 1992, which set up a recovery fund financed entirely from a percentage of Pick-Sloan power revenues to compensate the tribes for lands lost to Pick-Sloan.

The Crow Creek Sioux Tribe Infrastructure Development Fund Act of 1995 will enable the Crow Creek Tribe to address and improve their infrastructure and will provide the needed resources for further economic development at the Crow Creek Indian reservation.

I am proud to have introduced this legislation on behalf of the Crow Creek Tribe, and I urge my colleagues to support this important legislation and correct this historic injustice against the Crow Creek Sioux Tribe.

Mr. FALEOMAVAEGA. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. GALLEGLY. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for his comments, and I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from California [Mr. GALLEGLY] that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 2512, as amended.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the bill, as amended, was passed.

The title of the bill was amended so as to read: "A bill to provide for certain benefits of the Pick-Sloan Missouri River basin program to the Crow Creek Sioux Tribe, and for other purposes."

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. GALLEGLY. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days in which to revise and extend their remarks on the four bills just passed.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from California?

There was no objection.

EMERGENCY DROUGHT RELIEF ACT OF 1996

Mr. THORNBERRY. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the bill (H.R. 3910) to provide emergency drought relief to the city of Corpus Christi, TX, and the Canadian River Municipal Water Authority, TX, and for other purposes, as amended.

The Clerk read as follows:

H.R. 3910

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE

This Act may be cited as the "Emergency Drought Relief Act of 1996".

SEC. 2. EMERGENCY DROUGHT RELIEF

(a) CORPUS CHRISTI.—

(1) EMERGENCY DROUGHT RELIEF.—For the purpose of providing emergency drought relief, the Secretary of the Interior shall defer all principal and interest payments without penalty or accrued interest for the 5-year period beginning on the date of enactment of this Act for the city of Corpus Christi, Texas, and the Nueces River Authority under contract No. 6-07-01-X0675 involving the Nueces River Reclamation Project, Texas: Provided, That the city of Corpus Christi shall commit to use the funds thus made available exclusively for the acquisition of or construction of facilities related to alternative sources of water supply.

(2) ISSUANCE OF PERMITS.—If construction of facilities related to alternative water supplies referred to in paragraph (1) requires a Federal permit for use of Bureau of Reclamation lands or facilities, the Secretary shall issue such permits within 90 days after the date of enactment of this Act, recognizing the environmental impact statement FES74-54 and the environmental assessment dated March 1991 (relating to the Lavaca-Navidad River Authority Pipeline permit).

(b) CANADIAN RIVER MUNICIPAL WATER AUTHORITY.—

(1) RECOGNITION OF TRANSFER OF LANDS TO THE NATIONAL PARK SERVICE.—All obligations and associated debt under contract No. 14-06-500-485 for land and related relocations transferred to the National Park Service to form the Lake Meredith National Recreation Area under Public Law 101-628, in the amount of $4,000,000, shall be nonreimbursable. The Secretary shall recalculate the repayment schedule of the Canadian River Municipal Water Authority to reflect the determination of the preceding sentence and to implement the revised repayment schedule within one year of the date of enactment of this Act.

(2) EMERGENCY DROUGHT RELIEF.—The Secretary shall defer all principal and interest payments without penalty or accrued interest for the 3-year period beginning on the date of enactment of this Act for the Canadian River Municipal Water Authority under contract No. 14-06-500-485 as emergency drought relief to enable construction of additional water supply and conveyance facilities.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from Texas [Mr. THORNBERRY] and the gentleman from Texas [Mr. ORTIZ] each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Texas [Mr. THORNBERRY].

Mr. THORNBERRY. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

(Mr. THORNBERRY asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. THORNBERRY. Mr. Speaker, at the outset, I would like to thank the full committee chairman, the gentleman from Alaska [Mr. YOUNG], and the subcommittee chairman, the gentleman from California [Mr. DOOLITTLE], for their help on this measure.

As many of my colleagues know, we have had some severe drought conditions in the State of Texas and this bill helps to provide some relief to two areas that are particularly affected.

I also want to express my appreciation to the work of my colleague, the gentleman from Texas [Mr. ORTIZ]. He has been working on these issues for some time and I am certainly grateful for his willingness to work together to solve some very real problems that both of us have in our regions.

Mr. Speaker, H.R. 3910 is a bill that addresses some serious water problems in Texas. I will leave it to my colleague from Texas to discuss the portion of the bill that particularly affects the Corpus Christi area, but I know that that part of the State still suffers from the effects of drought and has a critical need to develop another water supply.

This bill will help them do that. The bill also allows the Canadian River Municipal Water Authority to develop alternative water supplies. This bill does not reduce the amount of money that the Canadian water authority owes to the Federal Government in the way of repaying the debt for construction of the dam for Lake Meredith, but it does postpone for 3 years our requirement to make payments and that deferment for the 3-year period allows the water authority to develop a field of water wells and construct an aqueduct that will get new well water to a location where it can be mixed with the water from Lake Meredith. That lake is the primary source of drinking water for more than 500,000 people in my area. It has not produced the amount of water expected and the severe drought earlier this year certainly caused additional problems. But the quality of the drinking water is also a problem.

The water from Lake Meredith does not meet the drinking water standards recommended by either the EPA or the Texas Department of Health. Only by mixing the lake water with well water is it really fit to drink.

This bill will allow that mixing which is required to be made by freeing up some funds to be used for the other project. The bill also reimburses the water authority for land which was transferred to the National Park Service several years ago. Every one, including the Bureau of Reclamation agrees that compensation is due for the loss of control of that land by the water authority. This was approximately 6 years ago when 43,000 acres was transferred from the water authority to create a national recreation area. This bill reimburses the acquisition costs which were way back in the early 1960's and relocations costs without any adjustment for inflation so that it is a truly minimal level of $4 million.

Mr. Speaker, of course, this bill does not offset all the problems that have been experienced because of the drought and other things; but it helps, and it does so in a fiscally responsible way. I urge my colleagues to approve it.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

□ 1645

Mr. ORTIZ. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

(Mr. ORTIZ asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. ORTIZ. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of H.R. 3910, which provides emergency drought relief for the city of Corpus Christi and 24 other cities in the surrounding area and the Nueces River Authority for the Canadian River Municipal Water Authority.

As many people know, Texas is suffering the effects of a very severe drought, and these two areas have been particularly affected.

Cities in my district have been restricting water use for months, and my constituents have lost many cattle and crops in these areas.

In fact it has been estimated that the drought has cost farmers and ranchers $2.4 billion in direct losses.

Without relief, we will soon be losing jobs and industries.

In my district, the city of Corpus Christi and the surrounding water service area are in an emergency situation.

Our available water supply is down over 70 percent in the last 36 months and is projected to be completely depleted within 24 months as the current drought continues.

Our water supply comes from the Nueces River project, a Bureau of Reclamation project which has cost considerably more than originally contracted and has produced much less water than local leaders were led to believe.

Because of this combination, the city is having trouble finding the resources needed to obtain more water reserves.

H.R. 3910 allows the city of Corpus Christi and the Canadian River Authority to defer their principal and interest payments, without penalty, on their Bureau of Reclamation water projects.

This bill will allow them to develop the funding necessary to build facilities for the necessary, additional water reserves.

The bill expedites the permitting process for facilities on Bureau of Reclamation property without bypassing the NEPA process.

It also requires the Bureau to recalculate the repayment schedule of the Canadian River Municipal Water Authority to allow for property and facilities transferred to the National Park Service.

I want to thank the chairman of the Subcommittee on Water and Power Resources, the gentleman from California [Mr. DOOLITTLE] and of course the ranking member, the gentleman from Oregon [Mr. DEFAZIO] and my good friend, the gentleman from Texas [Mr.

THORNBERRY] and members of the staff for their work and help with this bill. I also want to thank the gentleman from Alaska [Mr. YOUNG] and the ranking member, the gentleman from California [Mr. MILLER] for their help in bringing this bill to the House in a bipartisan effort. I introduced this bill because of the importance of the situation in Texas, and I ask for the strong support of my colleagues.

Mr. ORTIZ. Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. THORNBERRY. Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. MILLER of Florida). The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Texas [Mr. THORNBERRY] that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 3910, as amended.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the bill, as amended, was passed.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. THORNBERRY. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on H.R. 3910, the bill just passed.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Texas?

There was no objection.

EXPORTS, JOBS, AND GROWTH ACT OF 1996

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from Wisconsin [Mr. ROTH] and the gentleman from Minnesota [Mr. PETERSON] each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Wisconsin [Mr. ROTH].

Mr. ROTH. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, the title of this bill really says it all: exports, jobs, and growth. This is legislation that every Member can and should support. This is essential legislation.

Our bill reauthorizes three export agencies. They are the Overseas Private Investment Corporation, the Trade and Development Agency, and the U.S. Foreign Commercial Service. Each of these agencies is vital to U.S. exporters.

That is why our bill is supported by a broad national coalition of business leaders, exporters, and labor groups. We have some 15 different labor groups also backing this legislation. We have everyone from the Chamber of Commerce and NAM to the AFL-CIO.

Why have American businesses and American labor joined together in support of this bill? The real reason is that it creates jobs, good-paying jobs for our American workers.

Let me review the facts. OPIC provides the insurance and financing necessary for American companies to expand into the newly emerging markets in Eastern Europe, Asia, and Latin America. OPIC has generated $43 billion in exports. That translates into 200,000 jobs for American workers, 200,000 because of this one piece of legislation.

Our bill provides a 5-year plan to allow OPIC to grow, to serve more American exporters, and to add even more jobs for American workers.

OPIC does all of this without tossing one red cent to the American taxpayer. Let me repeat that again because there is a lot of misinformation and disinformation about this legislation by people who want to demagogue the legislation.

This legislation has not cost the American taxpayer one red cent. In fact, it has put into the American Treasury $2½ billion, and if this bill passes, if my colleagues join me in passing this legislation, we are going to add, as our placard says, $189 million every year to the U.S. Treasury for the next 5 years.

That is a replica of the check that was given to the U.S. Treasury by OPIC. OPIC is going to have some $5 billion in the U.S. Treasury in 5 years, and it is not going to cost the American taxpayer one single cent.

As we can see, on our chart the total exports that are going to be increased by this legislation are over $38 billion. The amount of jobs that are created, additional jobs in the next 5 years, are over 123,000 jobs.

This is a good piece of legislation, and I am asking my colleagues, I am appealing to their reason, not to their emotion, I am appealing to their reason to pass this legislation, yes, for our workers and for our companies, but also for the people in Latin America, some of the people in Africa, and in the Third World and also in Eastern European countries that we are trying to help. This legislation is going to put $2½ billion additional into the U.S. Treasury in the next 5 years, it is going to create over $38 billion in exports, and it is going to create over 123,000 jobs. Again I am appealing to my colleagues' reason to pass this legislation.

Mr. PETERSON of Minnesota. Mr. Speaker, we have a very diverse group that is opposing this bill. I would like to start off today by yielding such time as he may consume to the gentleman from Ohio [Mr. KASICH], the distinguished chairman of the House Committee on the Budget.

Mr. KASICH. Mr. Speaker, I think one of the best days that we had on this House floor during my 14 years in Congress was the day in which we reformed the welfare system in this country. We said that there should not be giveaway programs, that people in fact ought to go to work. Well, it was with great effort and with great inspiration that we moved forward to pass a bill to reform the welfare system in America as it relates to the poor, but now this is welfare Step Two.

This is now an effort to reform a welfare system that exists in America that does not benefit people who are poor. This is a welfare system that we have created in America that provides welfare to the rich and welfare to the well off.

Now let me just talk a little bit about the Overseas Private Investment Corporation and tell my colleagues that the people who are lined up against this bill come all the way from the left to the right. It is one of the most diverse coalitions I have ever seen in the House of Representatives, and I would like to talk about a few of the people who do know a little bit about economics and what they have to say about this program.

Milton Friedman, one of the foremost leading experts in economics in the world, had a comment that he wanted to make on OPIC. He said: I cannot see any redeeming aspect in the existence of OPIC. It is special interest legislation of the worst kind.

That is Milton Friedman from the Chicago School of Economics.

The National Taxpayers Union says that few other Federal programs can combine such undesirable elements as corporate welfare, wasteful spending, unneeded foreign aid, mismanagement and risk to taxpayers into one package, in referring to the Overseas Private Investment Corporation.

Now, when we take the National Taxpayers Union and Milton Friedman all saying that this program is a boondoggle, what are we attempting to do here today? Well, what we are attempting to do here today is not just to keep the Overseas Private Investment Corporation, which makes loans and loan guarantees and provides insurance out of the taxpayers' pocket to the largest corporations in America overwhelmingly, but now they want to come back and double, and double the amount of lending authority and risk-taking that they have as proposed in this legislation.

This is not just a continuation of a dubious program like OPIC, but frankly, it is a doubling of the amount of risk the taxpayers are being asked to burden.

Let me just tell the Members a little bit about OPIC. We hear about it and we hear about all the jobs that are created. The gentleman from New Jersey [Mr. ANDREWS] did an analysis, loan by loan and jobs by jobs. The Overseas Private Investment Corporation could never connect the loans that are being made to these giant corporations to the creation of American jobs in this country.

The gentleman from New Jersey [Mr. ANDREWS] wrote into the law a provision that said that the Overseas Private Investment Corporation ought to trace the loans directly to the creation of jobs, and that organization has failed to do so. They have failed to do so because, frankly, the numbers that get thrown around on the creation of jobs are dubious at best. Let me tell the Members about some of the projects that the Overseas Private Investment Corporation invests in, using taxpayer money and taxpayer-funded risk insurance.

We developed a soft drink bottling company in Poland and in Ghana, a travel agency in Armenia. We have magazine publishing in Russia, a lumber mill in Lithuania, a shrimp farm in Ecuador, probably a jumbo shrimp farm, but a shrimp farm in Ecuador, pension management in Colombia, a hotel in the Ukraine, and restaurants in Argentina, 16 restaurants in Argentina.

Here we have a host of investments that are going on overseas, not inside the United States, but overseas, financed by taxpayers and insured by taxpayers. Let us talk about the portfolio. We asked the Congressional Budget Office to give us a list of the quality of the portfolio; in other words, what kind of risk-taking is the OPIC investing in?

As Members can see when we look at the rating in fiscal 1995, the OPIC is consistently using the taxpayers' money to give large corporations the ability to take risks in operations that are defined with a D minus credit rating, an F double negative credit rating.

If you went into a bank, if you were a taxpayer in America and walked into a bank to get a loan to buy a house and you said to a banker that "I have an F double negative rating," they would throw you out of the bank. But the Overseas Private Investment Corporation can march into these countries and they can get loans from the taxpayers, hardworking taxpayers, and then they can have those loans insured by hardworking taxpayers, the same taxpayers who do not have a prayer of securing a loan in regard to these kinds of credit ratings.

If we want to continue to debate this whole Overseas Private Investment Corporation, which, frankly, is welfare for the largest and most profitable corporations in this country, that is fine, we can debate it. But to come to this floor and argue that we ought to double the amount of loans and double the amount of risk-taking on the backs of the American taxpayers is wrong.

I would urge my colleagues to not permit, to not approve of a tremendous expansion in this program, when this Congress is engaged in trying to slow the growth of government. How much sense does it make to allow the largest corporations to use our money to invest in these kinds of investment opportunities that, in a normal American bank, you would not have a prayer of getting a loan. Let us defeat this Overseas Private Investment Corporation, take it back to the shop, try to fix the thing, and frankly, Mr. Speaker, try to phase it out. Less government is the motto of Congress.

Mr. ROTH. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, we just heard the gentleman from Ohio speak for 6 minutes and he did not say anything.

The truth of the matter is this program has not cost the American taxpayer one cent. In fact, there is $2.5 billion in the U.S. Treasury because of this program, and it will increase to $5 billion in 5 years. Those are the facts. That is not a bunch of demagoguery.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 5 minutes to my friend, the gentleman from Indiana [Mr. HAMILTON].

Mr. HAMILTON. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding time to me.

Mr. Speaker, I certainly rise in support of H.R. 3759. I want to speak a word of appreciation to the gentleman from Wisconsin, Mr. ROTH, and the gentleman from Connecticut, Mr. GEJDENSON, Mr. ROTH, the chairman of the Subcommittee on International Economic Policy and Trade, and Mr. GEJDENSON, the ranking minority member, for their very excellent work in producing this legislation.

All of these agencies that are involved here, the Overseas Private Investment Corporation and the Trade and Development Agency and the International Trade Administration, are very cost-effective and very excellent organizations. They receive uniformly high marks from the people who know them best, their clients, the thousands of firms and workers whose exports they promote. The demand for the services of these groups keeps rising.

Let me just take a moment to respond to some of the charges that are made against OPIC. The usual charge is that this is corporate welfare. The fact of the matter is, however, that the programs here are fully paid for by the fees and the premiums it charges customers and by the interest that it has earned on the reserves. There is no welfare here. There is no drain on the taxpayers' dollars here.

The charge of corporate welfare is simply wrong. It is misguided. Corporate welfare would be an appropriate label if OPIC gave away something for free, but it does not. The programs are fully paid for by the corporations which participate through fees and through premiums. OPIC, as the gentleman from Wisconsin has pointed out, is of enormous benefit to the U.S. economy. Since 1971, it has generated $40 billion in exports. That means profits for companies, and it means jobs for American workers. The estimate is that it has supported about 200,000 jobs in this country. That explains why OPIC has the support not just of corporate America, but also for the union movement.

If there were in fact corporate welfare, does anybody in this Chamber believe that the American union movement would support it? Of course, they understand that they get jobs from it. So some critics say the foreign investment by OPIC costs American jobs, but OPIC is forbidden by law to back any foreign projects that are likely to adversely affect U.S. jobs and exports.

In addition, OPIC supports U.S. foreign policy interests. That is an important point to make here. Not only does it produce more jobs in this country, not only does it produce more profits, not only is it not corporate welfare or any drain on the taxpayers' money, but OPIC supports American foreign policy interests. It uses the genius of the American private sector to promote the development of market economies in former Communist and other countries. It generates jobs and exports and growth in countries whose economic success is in our national interest. And, as has been pointed out, it helps reduce the Federal budget deficit.

The user fee, the premium, the interest earnings have enabled OPIC to turn over a profit to the United States Treasury every year of its existence. OPIC expects to contribute another $900 million to deficit reduction in the next 5 years. And OPIC has proven to be a safe investment for U.S. tax dollars. It has over a $2.5 billion reserve to cover loan defaults and insurance payouts. Yet, OPIC has historically paid claims for only 1 percent of the insurance it is provided, and fewer than 5 percent of the loans have defaulted.

OPIC does things for American exports and foreign policy that no private sector entity can do. It supports projects in places that are important to the United States, but where private firms are not ready to go. OPIC's unbroken record of profitability shows it can provide that support and still remain financially sound. This is a very small but very valuable agency. It has earned our support for more than two decades. It does not approach any definition of corporate welfare, and it deserves our continued support today.

Mr. PETERSON of Minnesota. Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to yield 4 minutes to the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. JACKSON], one of our newer Members.

Mr. JACKSON of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from Minnesota for yielding time to me. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in strong opposition to H.R. 3759, a contentious bill which in my opinion is incorrectly being considered by the House today under suspension of the rules, a procedure normally reserved for non-controversial measures. Just before we broke the August work period, a majority in this body voted to end Aid to Families with Dependent Children. This bill today will, in effect double one means of providing Aid to Dependent Corporations—the Overseas Private Investment Corporation—an agency of the Federal Government which provides welfare to America's largest corporations.

OPIC bestows corporate welfare upon multinational corporations through direct loans, subsidized loan guarantees, and political risk insurance. Secured by U.S. taxpayer dollars, OPIC provides American Fortune 500 companies with the incentive to enter into risky transactions from which conventional lenders have shied away. With the full faith and credit of the U.S. Government backing up their business ventures, OPIC's corporate clients have eliminated thousands of American jobs.

With the destabilizing effects of corporate downsizing on American workers and their families, we should not be providing incentives for America's corporate giants to invest abroad, taking advantage of low-wage labor costs, lower standards, and often exploitive working conditions of Third World countries, rather than reinvesting and creating good jobs at home. We need to raise their standards toward ours, not lower ours to meet theirs in this increasingly global economy.

Mr. Speaker, at a time when our Government is calling upon the poor, children, and legal immigrants to make sacrifices in the name of balancing the Federal budget, I cannot imagine a more inappropriate climate in which to reauthorize—and, in fact, double—OPIC's financing authority from $9 to $20 billion and insurance ceilings from $13 to $25 billion. Under good circumstances, OPIC's corporate borrowers yield a private profit, boosting their bottomline and the dividends for their shareholders. Under bad circumstances, in the event that OPIC's multinational corporate borrowers default on their private obligation the burden becomes a public one. A private profit and a public loss—that's socialism for the rich. It is the U.S. taxpayer who will bear the burden of the risky or unstable conditions surrounding these investments.

It is true that OPIC has provided a vehicle for promoting investment in developing nations and regions previously ignored from projects in Sub-Saharan Africa, in Poland and to the now exploding investment opportunities in Russia and countries of the former Soviet Union. I support foreign aid and direct investment, both private and public, in developing nations. But OPIC is a bad vehicle because it privatizes the corporate benefits but potentially leaves American taxpayers vulnerable to corporate losses.

Have we not learned anything from the savings and loan debacle of the 1980's—just because there have not yet been huge losses associated with OPIC's investments, as its proponents claim, this does not guarantee future good fortune. The same claims of solvency were made by FSLIC, the Federal Savings & Loan Insurance Corporation until its crisis years. Hind-sight is 20/20 one decade and $180 billion in taxpayer bailout dollars later.

OPIC has already placed $8.7 billion of the U.S. taxpayer dollars at risk. In 1995, OPIC made loan guarantees to DuPont for $200 million, and $165 million for CocaCola; and provided $842 million in investment insurance for Citicorp, a company with a net income of $3.5 billion in that same year. We cannot continue to underwrite the foreign investments of America's largest corporations. In doubling OPIC's corporate welfare, we are, in effect, aiding and abetting the downsizing of the American work force and the downsizing of the American dream.

Let me be clear * * * We just ended welfare—Government assistance to millions of poor people in our own communities, yet we are providing Government assistance to companies to invest in foreign countries. Before we take care of people in other countries we must take care of our people here at home.

Imagine what we could do if we invested the $120 million we're talking about today to leverage investments in our cities, our neighborhoods, and communities. It should not be used to make it easier for American companies to invest in Warsaw businesses when Polish-Americans on the southside of Chicago can't receive the same type of assistance.

Mr. Speaker, from the Congressional Progressive Caucus to the centrist Progressive Policy Institute to the conservative Progress and Freedom Foundation, opposition to this egregious form of corporate welfare spans the political and ideological spectrum. I urge my colleagues to end corporate welfare as we know it and vote "no" on H.R. 3759.

Mr. ROTH. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, let me just say to my good friend from Illinois who spoke that if we want to have jobs for those people we are taking off welfare, we have got to have good-paying jobs, and this bill provides that.

Incidentally, the Machinists Union sent me a letter and it says, "Contrary to assertions of critics of OPIC, American workers also have a stake in OPIC's reauthorization. OPIC should be permitted to continue its work in creating jobs for American workers."

Not only 1 union but 15 unions, I say to my friend from Illinois. Again OPIC has not cost the American taxpayer one red cent.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 5 minutes to the gentleman from New York [Mr. GILMAN], the chairman of the Committee on International Relations.

(Mr. GILMAN asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding me this time.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of H.R. 3759, the Exports, Jobs and Growth Act of 1996. This measure promotes U.S. exports, spurs U.S. investment in overseas markets and promotes economic development—all at minimal cost to the American taxpayer. It is supported by a broad-based coalition of 15 business organizations and labor unions and more than 150 individual companies.

Adopted by a voice vote on July 10, 1996, by the International Relations Committee, this measure provides a 5-year authorization of the Overseas Private Investment Corporation.

I want to pay tribute to my colleagues on the committee, on both sides of the aisle, who have worked long and hard on this legislation.

I congratulate the gentleman from Wisconsin, TOBY ROTH, the distinguished chairman of the International Economic Policy and Trade Subcommittee, who has taken a leading role in shaping this important legislation and bringing it to the House floor this afternoon.

Founded in 1971, OPIC is a U.S. Government agency that provides project financing, investment insurance, and other services for American businesses in developing nations and emerging economies.

Its consideration today is all the more important in so far as its operating authority expires on September 30 of this year.

In its 25-year history, OPIC has supported $43 billion in American exports and close to 200,000 jobs while building reserves of some $2.6 billion. Over the past 2 years for New York State companies alone, OPIC has provided insurance and financial support for more than 400 projects generating $4.5 billion in American exports and over 9,000 U.S. jobs.

This is one of the very few U.S. Government agencies that is self-supporting, returning money every year since its inception. Every dollar of its $189 million of net income last year was deposited in the U.S. Treasury.

OPIC has demonstrated an outstanding track record in avoiding claims and achieving recoveries: The Political Risk Insurance Program has had to pay only 1 percent in claims and has had a recovery rate of 98 percent.

In a February 1996 privatization study an outside consultant, J.P. Morgan, concluded that OPIC is adequately reserved for the business it has on the books and plans for the future.

This legislation does call for large increases in OPIC's operating ceilings for its insurance and finance programs. But these increases will be phased in over a time period of 5 years or more. In addition, there is a demonstrable need for OPIC programs from American companies in all of the emerging markets around the world.

Furthermore, the Congressional Budget Office, in its review of this bill, has concluded that even with these higher limits OPIC will make a positive contribution of some $600 million in reducing the size of the deficit.

By requiring OPIC to invest only in U.S. Treasuries, we are in effect reducing the amount that the U.S. Treasury has to borrow day-to-day to fund the deficit. As a result, the taxpayer benefits from the premiums paid by private companies who use OPIC's services. This is corporate "workfare" not "welfare".

The bill also provides a 2-year authorization for the export promotion programs of the International Trade Administration of the Department of Commerce as well as for the Trade and Development Agency.

Since its inception in 1981, TDA has provided feasibility studies, specialized training grants, and other forms of technical assistance to American businesses competing for infrastructure and other industrial projects overseas.

Finally, the bill requires the Trade Promotion Coordinating Committee to provide more comprehensive services to small- and medium-sized businesses.

In sum, this bill will support billions of dollars of U.S. exports, the creation of thousands of jobs at minimal cost to the taxpayer.

Accordingly, I urge its immediate adoption.

Mr. PETERSON of Minnesota. Mr. Speaker, I yield 4 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from California [Mr. ROYCE].

Mr. ROYCE. Mr. Speaker, we are talking today about the Exports, Job and Growth Act of 1996. Whenever supporters give a bill a motherhood and apple pie title like that, and who is not against exports, who is not for growth and jobs? But it is time to take a hard look when people give a title to a bill like that.

It should be called the doubling OPIC Act. That is what we are doing today. We are expanding and doubling a Government agency, the Overseas Private Investment Corporation, at a time when many on this floor have committed themselves to balancing the budget and encouraging the private sector by asking, Is this an appropriate role for government?

We have heard how OPIC does not give subsidies. We have heard that charge. But can anyone tell us how this is true? The fact is that not only does OPIC receive operating expenses from the U.S. Government, but most importantly what it does is it sells the full faith and credit of the U.S. Government. That is what it does.

Does that sound familiar? That is what the savings and loan industry did. It sold the full faith and credit of the U.S. Government.

Mr. ROTH. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. ROYCE. I yield to the gentleman from Wisconsin.

Mr. ROTH. Mr. Speaker, how much money is OPIC going to cost the American taxpayer?

Mr. ROYCE. The answer, if it goes bust, about $25 billion.

Mr. ROTH. Has it cost the American taxpayer one red cent?

Mr. ROYCE. Let me respond to that. The savings and loan industry in the 1970's did not cost the taxpayer one red cent, but in the 1980's it certainly did.

Mr. ROTH. The gentleman has not answered the question.

Mr. ROYCE. Let me have my time; then you may have your time.

Mr. ROTH. The gentleman is yielding to my question, so I thought I would ask how much has it cost the American taxpayer. Not one red cent.

Mr. ROYCE. I just shared with you that it could cost the American taxpayer $25 billion because that is what you are putting the taxpayer on the hook for.

Mr. ROTH. That is not true.

Mr. ROYCE. Because you are ballooning this program up and, yes, it is the full faith and credit of the U.S. taxpayer that will be on the hook.

Mr. ROTH. That is not true.

Mr. ROYCE. There are no free lunches. As I said, this puts the American taxpayer on the hook. If we look at the countries that we are rating here, that we are insuring, some of them are rated as double F, double F by OPIC itself.

There is no end in sight to OPIC's expansion because OPIC has a good racket, because there is market value to Uncle Sam's backing, and that means OPIC discourages private sector competition.

The fact is that the private market in risk insurance will not reach its potential as long as OPIC is in business. Just read the recent J.P. Morgan report on OPIC. It does not make much of a case that private sector competitors are not being crowded out of the business. The J.P. Morgan report also says the demand for political risk insurance is growing.

So what is our response here today? Not faith that the market will expand to serve this new demand, but instead some say, Let's expand OPIC and deter private interests from taking this business.

There certainly are private alternatives to OPIC's latest and growing activity, and that is starting up investment funds for developing countries. Today there are hundreds of private developing country investment funds. Portfolio money is flooding into the developing world, all parts of the developing world.

Over the last several years several funds have started up to invest in Africa, long thought to be out of bounds for investors. Look them up, they are listed on the New York Stock Exchange. Individual Americans and institutions are buying these funds. So why is OPIC involved with the Africa Growth Fund or funds in Poland or Russia? The private sector responds; it does not need a government push.

Last, I will just say, what type of message are we sending to developing countries? We rightly preach privatization and the virtues of the free market, yet here we have OPIC giving Government subsidies. It sends the wrong message to the developing world.

Mr. ROTH. Mr. Speaker, just let me say so the American people know what is going on, there is not one red cent of Federal dollars involved in OPIC. OPIC is all private funds.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 5 minutes to the gentleman from Nebraska [Mr. BEREUTER].

Mr. BEREUTER asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. BEREUTER. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of H.R. 3759. This legislation does not only deal with OPIC; it reauthorizes some of the most important export promotion programs including OPIC, the Trade and Development Agency, and the International Trade Administration.

I have heard some of my colleagues from Illinois, from Ohio, from California speak about this legislation. I would say I have always admired my colleague from Ohio. He is articulate. He is tenacious. He is also tenacious in holding onto a myth. Somebody has convinced him there is corporate welfare here. If you whisper, you shout that word, people get frightened. And, like mindless buffaloes, they stampede off the cliff or, like lemmings, they march into the sea.

We have to look out for what is in the best interests of the United States and our workers and our exporters. We have heard mention that OPIC might default. We have heard the old bugaboo raised about the savings and loan institutions. There is not a risk-free environment in the world.

But OPIC has been operating for 25 years. What kind of a record do you want? There has been no default. In fact, if you take a look at the conference report, I can tell you with verifiable numbers the following:

During the 25 years of its operation, OPIC estimates it has created $43 billion in exports to 140 countries. In direct jobs it has created at least 200,000 U.S. jobs, and they are good-paying jobs. And significantly, it is self-financing. There is no operation fund coming out of the U.S. Treasury. Through its own operations, it has funded them and it has built up in the process $2.5 billion in reserves to cover contingent liability, including deposits at the U.S. Treasury which of course we borrow because we are deficit financing government.

With a net income last year of $189 million, OPIC is able to cover, as it has always been, all of its own expenses and set reserves aside for insurance and financial risk through its own earnings.

For the U.S. economy to remain strong and vibrant in the 21st century, the U.S. Government must maintain and fund a comprehensive national export strategy. Exports currently account for nearly one-third of our Nation's reach growth. Yet stiff competition from export-driven economies in East Asia and the export-hungry countries of Europe constantly threaten the high-paying American jobs that are generated by these exports.

My colleague from Ohio mentioned the distinguished economist Milton Friedman. He is distinguished, but he is certainly not in the middle of the mainstream in the economists of the world or even the United States. He lives not apparently in a real world.

If we had a real world, we would not need OPIC, but we do not operate in a world in which other governments do not provide assistance to their exporters. They do. And more generously almost always than we do. If you want to retreat to an ivory tower. You can make a statement like the one quoted, but it is not realistic, ladies and gentlemen.

As the chairman of the Asia and the Pacific Subcommittee, this member witnessed firsthand how foreign governments take high-paying export jobs away from American workers. If this was bad for American workers, the first people here complaining about it would be organized labor and they are not here. They are supportive of this program.

Unclassified U.S. intelligence reports reveal that federal governments have stolen approximately $25 billion in recent years in potential U.S. contracts overseas by their generous assistance programs. How do these foreign governments take our jobs? Most importantly, they do not call export promotion corporate welfare. Political leaders in Germany, France, Japan, Canada, and all the industrialized countries of the world do not hesitate to give their exporters the tools necessary to win bids for lucrative infrastructure contracts in the world's developing countries.

No, they are out there working and financing it.

Today in my office, this very day, I was visiting with a senior official from Japan's Export-Import Bank, the largest by far in the world. One can be sure that if this body fails to pass this legislation, he will be back in Tokyo and declare that 6 percent of the world's population, that is everybody that lives outside the United States, as Japan's markets, only to be shared with Europeans and the new tigers of Asia. And, he can report that America's political leaders have decided not to challenge Japan's aggressive pro-export government policies.

In a perfect world, government should not be required to assist their exporters, investors or their workers. But we do not have that situation. The lucrative rewards in jobs of gaining contracts in the developing world are simply too great for those countries to resist.

That is why Japan supports over 36 percent of its total exports with some form of export credit. That's right, Japan supports over 36 percent of its total exports with some form of export credit. Compare that to the United States paltry figure of 2 percent of total exports.

Mr. Speaker, the U.S. Congress will severely disadvantage U.S. exporters and investors if we choose to unilaterally disarm. In the highly competitive race for global markets, OPIC and TDA are to American jobs what missiles and tanks are to our national security.

Therefore, this Member urges his colleagues to support H.R. 3759, the Exports, Jobs, and Growth Act of 1996.

Mr. PETERSON of Minnesota. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, there has been a lot of talk on this floor about how this program does not cost any money. I would just like to read out of the committee report here, page 11, where it has got the Congressional Budget Office cost estimate. "For 1997 through 2001, the net budgetary impact of title I is the increased cost by $120 million a year over current law."

That is just in black and white.

Mr. KASICH. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. PETERSON of Minnesota. I yield to the gentleman from Ohio.

Mr. KASICH. Mr. Speaker, not only does it cost the American taxpayers and come out of the budget to a tune of $120 million, I am not sure if my colleagues understand what a loan guarantee is. A loan guarantee by the Federal Government means if the loan goes bad, the Government makes the loan good. That is the direct liability by the taxpayers of this country involved in these programs.

If you have got an F minus-minus rating and you go under, guess who picks up the bill? The barber in Westerville picks up the bill, the beautician in Wheeling, WV, picks up the bill.

Look at this loan portfolio. We not only have direct costs of running this program, but tremendous liabilities to the taxpayers involved in loan guarantees from the Federal Government.

Mr. PETERSON of Minnesota. Mr. Speaker, reclaiming my time, we went through this with the savings and loan situation. I would like to know, the statement was made earlier this is all self-financing. What do you charge an F minus-minus company to make it a viable situation? How much do you have to charge a company like that? If you went into a bank and had an F minus-minus credit rating, you would not get a loan at all. So I think we need to get the whole facts of this out.

Mr. BEREUTER. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. PETERSON of Minnesota. I yield to the gentleman from Nebraska.

Mr. BEREUTER. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding.

Mr. Speaker, I would ask the gentleman from Ohio, in the 25-year history of OPIC, have they ever failed to generate a net operating surplus? Have they ever?

Mr. KASICH. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman will yield, let me just say to the gentleman, I will get you the loan portfolio chart. No banker that I have ever met in my lifetime would make these kinds of loans to somebody trying to go in and borrow money to build a house or create a small business. The simple fact of the matter is, is that this portfolio and the studies indicate that this portfolio is so risky you could not even privatize this operation, for the simple fact that people know that they would stand to lose billions and billions of dollars if these loans go bad, and I will anticipate that some of them in fact will.

If this is such a wonderful program, creating all these jobs that are so profitable, my question is why do you need the taxpayers to bail you out?

Mr. PETERSON of Minnesota. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from Wisconsin [Mr. KLUG].

Mr. KLUG. Mr. Speaker, I would like to thank my colleague for yielding me time.

Mr. Speaker, my colleague from Ohio just hit the nail on the head in this entire thing. What we are talking about, for folks at home who may be confused about this debate, is an insurance program run by the Federal Government for corporations who want to invest in risky political situations. They want to invest in risky political situations. We are running an insurance program for major corporations.

Now, the argument you will hear from supporters of this program is if we did not run OPIC, there would not be any U.S. exports and American companies would not invest overseas without OPIC's insurance program.

The fact of the matter is, that is not true. Of the $612 billion currently invested in developing countries, a third of them are insured by private companies who provide private insurance. You do not have to have the Government run it, they provide private insurance.

Of the 10 leading countries that the United States does export programs with, OPIC is not involved whatsoever. There is not a single OPIC dollar involved. So there are going to be export jobs out there whether or not OPIC exists, whether or not OPIC invests this money.

Listen to the irony. Here is what we are doing with OPIC. We are investing money in Eastern Europe that involves risky business deals. What we are doing in Eastern Europe is to try to help government-run corporations to make the transition to a private sector. In order to do that, we have to run a government corporation. We are trying to end government subsidies in Eastern Europe by running government subsidies right here in Washington, DC.

The bottom line is what this is about is the taxpayers' exposure for risky loans overseas. We are going to double it, in fact, up to $25 billion for one program, and $20 billion for the other program.

Who is going to get the money? Well, Coke, Union Carbide, Motorola. Last year Citicorp had income of $3.5 billion, and OPIC guaranteed $842 million. Citicorp is a bank, they do loans, they do investments. If they are coming to us to ask for insurance, does not that tell you maybe they are not too certain this portfolio is going to pay off?

It is bad deals for the taxpayers. We may not have lost money, but $20 billion, $25 billion, is at exposure for U.S. taxpayers. We should be ending OPIC, not doubling it.

Mr. PETERSON of Minnesota. Mr. Speaker, I yield 30 seconds to the distinguished gentlewoman from Washington, DC [Ms. NORTON].

Ms. NORTON. Mr. Speaker, let me try to rebut two points that have been made here.

Makes money. First of all, we lose right off the top. OPIC pays no taxes, pays no dividends, and two-thirds of its income comes from Treasury securities, from us to us. Second, unions who support it, there are always some unions who profit from exports. The real question for us is do we make up in the loss of jobs here?

For example, let me take four of the large OPIC users. Ford, minus 160,000 jobs here; Exxon, minus 83,000 jobs here; AT&T, minus 127,000 jobs here, General Electric, minus 185,000 jobs here.

When you show me they are making up for that kind of loss of jobs, you will get me.

Mr. ROTH. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Wisconsin is recognized for 15 seconds.

Mr. ROTH. Mr. Speaker, they say reason cannot beat emotion. I think reason can beat emotion. I am appealing to your reason. What other bill have we brought on the floor of this House that creates 123,000 good paying jobs? None. In 5 years, this bill will create $38 billion in exports. This OPIC has not cost the American taxpayer one red cent, but in the Treasury we have $2.5 billion because of this bill.

Mr. Speaker, this is a good bill. I appeal to your reason to pass this bill for the American people.

Mrs. MINK of Hawaii. Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of H.R. 3759, the Exports, Jobs and Growth Act of 1996. This measure reauthorizes the Overseas Private Investment Corporation [OPIC], the Trade Development Agency [TDA], and the International Trade Administration [ITA].

Over the past 20 years our Nation's trade deficit has ballooned to over $100 billion, eliminating thousands of jobs and lowering standards of living for many Americans. Ironically, as the world economy becomes more globalized due to the North American Free-Trade Agreement [NAFTA] and the General Agreement of Tariffs and Trade [GATT], other governments have increasingly subsidized their companies' operations and have gained larger market shares with their respective products. Consequently, many American companies are left at a competitive disadvantage.

To meet this challenge we need to maintain agencies, like OPIC, TDA, and ITA, that promote and strengthen our Nation's trade goals and objectives. According to the General Accounting Office [GAO], OPIC is a "net negative" program. In other words, OPIC pays for itself. OPIC has successfully operated for 25 years and its programs are user-fee based, not taxpayer financed. Nationally, the Overseas Private Investment Corporation supported 200,000 American jobs and generated $43 billion in exports. Small and medium size American companies are direct beneficiaries of this program.

Through the ITA and TDA, companies from Hawaii are able to obtain market data and initiate contacts with foreign firms. Moreover, small businesses have increased their share of the TDA awards from 22 percent in 1992 to 40 percent in 1995. In addition, this bill ensures a better coordinated export promotion service to small and medium-size businesses. The TDA supported 140,000 jobs and generated $7 billion and the ITA supported 92,000 jobs and generated $5.4 billion in 1995.

In the State of Hawaii, an estimated 230 exporting companies depend on these agencies for support. As Hawaii continues to diversify its economy, these agencies will play a greater role in the overall trade growth and investments in the islands. In 1992, Hawaii exports totalled $15.3 million, 50.5 percent of the Gross State Product [GSP].

The services OPIC, TDA, and ITA provide to America's small and medium size businesses is essential to gaining access to foreign markets, continued growth of the export market and is the catalyst to U.S. competitiveness in a global economy.

We are starting to make some headway in the battle to decrease our trade deficit. In June, the Department of Commerce reported that our trade deficit fell to $8.1 billion, a 23 percent decrease from the month of May. Overall, the U.S. trade deficit $8.7 billion less than last year. With the help of all these agencies, foreign markets once closed to American products and services are now more open than ever. Unless we provide trade assistance to our small and medium size businesses, our trade balance with other countries will continue to soar and many more American jobs will be lost.

I urge my colleagues to support H.R. 3759.

Mrs. MEYERS of Kansas. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of this important legislation. These programs are vital for maintaining our international competitiveness. The expansion of OPIC's insurance and finance authority is desperately needed to meet the demands of American businesses' increasing foreign investment. TDA is also important for providing American engineering firms the level playing field they need to compete in providing infrastructure to the developing world. As we know, this investment produces American exports, and these exports produce jobs. And the Foreign Commercial Service works directly with American exporters, both in this country and abroad, to assist them in dealing in foreign markets.

I am especially pleased that this legislation provides for special emphasis for assistance to small businesses. The export market is a key untapped resource for many American small businesses. They need the assistance of OPIC and especially the Foreign Commercial Service both in its American offices and at our embassies overseas.

Finally, I would like to refute the claims of those who say that this is corporate welfare. It is rather the Government performing its legitimate function of assisting American citizens in their dealings with foreign countries. In many countries, foreign trade and investment is still heavily regulated by the government. The only institution that can deal with those foreign government agencies as an equal is one affiliated with our Government. OPIC and TDA do not use taxpayer money to give one American business an unfair advantage over another American business, they use user fees to give American businesses an equal shot at competing with foreign businesses—all of which have equal or greater support from their own governments.

I hope this bill can be quickly enacted into law.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, today the House will vote on H.R. 3759, to reauthorize one of the most egregious examples of corporate welfare in the Federal Government, the Overseas Private Investment Corporation [OPIC]. OPIC provides subsidized loans and insurance to large corporations for overseas investments, backed by the full faith and credit of the United States. OPIC gives corporations risk insurance at bargain-basement prices, to promote their expansion in unstable regions around the world, where private markets would be unwilling to lend at such low rates.

OPIC has placed at risk over $8.7 billion of taxpayer money. OPIC's generosity is extended to many Fortune 500 companies. DuPont received $200 million in loan guarantees. Coca-Cola obtained a loan guarantee of $165 million. Citicorp, with a net income of $3.5 billion in 1995, received $842 million of OPIC insurance. US West received $100 million in financing last year, while making a $1.3 billion profit. OPIC has helped other profitable companies, including McDonald's, Motorola, and Pepsi Cola.

H.R. 3759 doubles this corporate welfare, by increasing OPIC's ceilings for insurance and subsidized loans. H.R. 3759 doubles OPIC's cap on investment insurance, from $13 billion to $25 billion, and doubles OPIC's financing authority from $9 billion to $20 billion. Recently, we reduced welfare for the poor. We should not now double welfare for rich companies.

OPIC's corporate welfare hurts American workers. In 1994, Kimberly-Clark obtained $9.27 million from OPIC; the same year, the Labor Department certified that 600 of Kimberly-Clark's U.S. employees were adversely affected by the company's increased imports. Similarly, Levi-Strauss obtained $1.8 million in OPIC insurance, while the Government stated that 100 Levi-Strauss workers in the United States were hurt by the company's overseas trade. We should not encourage the largest corporations in America to invest abroad rather than reinvesting in America and creating jobs here at home.

OPIC puts taxpayer dollars at risk. OPIC obligates American taxpayers to underwrite the insurance for the possible loss of private investments by America's richest companies. OPIC has risked over $8.7 billion of U.S. taxpayer money in these markets. If there is political turmoil in an unstable country, and large companies lose their assets, the American taxpayers will have to bail them out. Taxpayers have already paid $80 billion to bail out Savings and Loans—we should not ask them to pay if OPIC's projects go bust.

OPIC wastes scarce Federal dollars. Proponents of OPIC claim that it has actually brought $2 billion to the Treasury. But OPIC does not generate income. Rather, OPIC generates reserves against possible potential insurance claims, which is not income to the Treasury and will not help offset the deficit. If there are claims against OPIC's outstanding insurance, these reserves could be wiped out. And OPIC gives loan guarantees, as well as insurance. If borrowers default on OPIC's outstanding loan guarantees, taxpayers will have to bail it out.

OPIC supports unnecessary projects. McDonald's received $14 million in loan guarantees to build 16 fast food restaurants in Brazil. OPIC guaranteed $27 million in loans for the renovation of a luxury hotel in Jamaica. OPIC even gave loan guarantees to a Costa Rican banana plantation, an Ecuadorian shrimp farm, and an art gallery in Haiti!

I urge my colleagues to join me in opposing the massive expansion of corporate welfare in H.R. 3759.

Mr. MANZULLO. Mr. Speaker, do you want to do something about improving wages and job security for your constituents? Then, support this bill.

As chairman of the Exports Subcommittee on Small Business, I held eight hearings on Federal export promotion programs. I've come away convinced that these programs are very helpful to small- and medium-sized firms, especially those new to exporting. What I discovered at these hearings is that the main problem facing small business is a lack of timely, accurate, and cost-effective information in finding potential customers overseas. This bill authorizes the trade functions of the Department of Commerce, including export assistance centers like the one headed by James Mied in Rockford, which small business exporters can use to find this information.

Many pundits have directed low wage growth and company downsizing. But several academic studies point to a growing correlation between companies that decide to export and higher wages, benefits, increased productivity, and more jobs. A study sponsored by the respected Institute for International Economics and the Manufacturing Institute concluded that:

First, firms that export grow jobs almost 20 percent faster than comparable nonexporting firms; second, exporting plants are 9 percent less likely to shut down than similar non-exporting plants; third, exporters pay their workers up to 10 percent more than non-exporting firms; and fourth, worker productivity is 20 percent higher at exporting firms.

What many do not realize is that these amazing statistics apply equally to small firms located in the heartland of America. During the early 1980's, Rockford led the Nation in unemployment at 26 percent. Now, thanks to an export-driven recovery over the past decade, Rockford has now one of the lowest unemployment rates in the country at 4 percent. During my visits to the 16th District, I am constantly amazed at the number of small firms engaged in world trade. RD Systems of Roscoe manufactures assembly machinery. Six years ago, they employed 11 people and only 5 percent of their business went overseas. Now, they employ 30 people and 60 percent of their business are exports, including a $1.7 million sale to China of a machine to manufacture cellular phone batteries. I find this repeated over and over throughout the 16th District where a little help from the Rockford export assistance center was the difference in making an overseas sale. If we want small firms to stay alive and grow, then looking to foreign markets should be one tool in their arsenal. I ask unanimous consent to insert in the RECORD a story from Business Week detailing this nationwide phenomena and an article from the Rockford Register Star providing local examples.

The Federal Government can serve as a helpful partner through OPIC, TDA, and the Department of Commerce International Trade Administration division in encouraging more and more small businesses to enter the global marketplace. This is not corporate welfare. This one important way we can grow jobs and increase job security in this country. And, H.R. 3759 raises revenue from corporations for the Government because OPIC's political and commercial risk insurance premiums brought in $122 million into the Treasury last year.

That's why the title of this legislation, the Exports, Jobs, and Growth Act of 1996, is aply named. I also appreciate the willingness of Chairman ROTH to accede to my request to place in the statutory mandate of the Trade Promotion Coordinating Committee a requirement that they identify more ways they can coordinate export promotion services to work for small- and medium-sized businesses. Big companies have their own sources of information and more resources at their disposal. Encouraging more small business to become ready to export must be a top priority of the TPCC.

Finally, Mr. Speaker, I could not let this opportunity pass without a salute to the magnificent work of the chairman of the International Economic Policy and Trade Subcommittee, Mr. ROTH of Wisconsin. TOBY, this may be the last time, as a manager of a bill on the floor, that we can formally thank you for your service to this House. We will all miss your leadership next year.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker, for your indulgence, and I urge the adoption of this bill. The U.S. Chamber of Commerce; the Coalition for Employment Through Exports; the National Foreign Trade Council; and the United States-Russia Business Council are but a sample of the organizations in support of this legislation. Let's pass this bill on suspension today so that the other body can act expeditiously before OPIC expires at the end of this month.

IT'S A SMALL (BUSINESS) WORLD

(By Amy Barrett in Washington)

For 102 years, Bicknell Manufacturing Co. has made industrial drill bits for construction equipment at its modest plant in Rockland, Me. For most of that time, the family-owned concern thrived, with growth of about 8% a year in the late 1980s. Then came the 1990 recession. The construction market withered—and with it demand for Bicknell's products. As sales stalled, the company scrambled for new business. "We had to change course," says John E. Purcell, Bicknell's general manager.

With little likelihood of a quick turnaround at home, Bicknell set its sights on markets abroad. "There was much trepidation, with a capital T," says Purcell, 38, recalling that none of the 65 employees at the $4 million company had had any foreign experience. Still, with construction booms in Brazil, Colombia, and Mexico, the foreign market was beckoning. After Purcell found a distributor while visiting Mexico on a trade mission sponsored by the Small Business Administration, Bicknell began exporting to Latin America two years ago. And Purcell couldn't be more delighted with the results. He has just signed a deal to begin selling in China and Vietnam. This year, Purcell expects international sales to grow 20%, for 15% to 20% of the company's total revenue. "We're starting to see it pay off," he says.

Purcell's enthusiasm is just one case of a new global fever to hit U.S. business. This time, instead of afflicting the goliaths of Corporate America, it's sweeping through the ranks of U.S. entrepreneurs. Whether they're seeking to escape sluggish markets at home or build on their successes, more small companies are looking beyond the local and regional markets that have long nurtured and sustained them.

A survey of almost 750 companies by Arthur Andersen & Co. and National Small Business United, a trade group, found that 20% of companies with fewer than 500 employees exported products and services last year. That's up from 16% in 1993 and 11% in 1992, the first year the survey was conducted.

And many experts expect that the trend will continue as more and more small businesses plumb the potential of foreign markets. "It presents a huge growth opportunity," says David L. Birch, president of economic researcher Cognetics Inc.

The push abroad by a whole new stratum of U.S. companies is having a profound impact on the trade front. True, the $200,000 in foreign sales that Bicknell chalked up last year is nothing compared with Boeing Co.'s $11.4 billion in exports. But together, small companies are helping fuel an export explosion that has more than doubled total overseas sales since 1986, to $696 billion last year. While service sector exports are difficult to measure, DRI/McGraw-Hill figures that small businesses could account for 50.8% of the $548 billion worth of manufactured goods that the U.S. will likely export this year, up from 45.5% a decade ago.

Entrepreneurial success overseas is bound to produce other economic benefits. Bountiful markets abroad could insulate small companies from periodic downturns at home. And as it carves out more foreign business, small business could enhance its reputation as the job generator of the 1990s. "A lot of small businesses adding five or six people may not sound like much," says Donald T. Hilty senior fellow at the Economic Strategy Institute in Washington. "But when you add it all up, there's real potential for job creation."

Tiny Lucerne Farms in Fort Fairfield, Me., is certainly doing its part on the job front. Thanks to the dollar's precipitous drop against major currencies in recent months, George A. James, president of the $350,000 horse-feed company, says his products are 25% cheaper in yen terms compared with a year ago. That drew an inquiry from a Japanese distributor. Now, orders from Japan could double his total revenue this year. To keep up with the flood of business, James is planning to take on five new employees on top of his current eight-person team. "Without this international business, we could never expect to grow as rapidly and add these jobs," he says. "This is a real shot in the arm."

High-profile pacts such as the North American Free Trade Agreement and the General Agreement on Tariffs & Trade have also accelerated the march by small business into the global arena. Both agreements have gone a long way toward lowering barriers to imports in foreign countries, while alerting entrepreneurs to opportunities abroad.

Jeff A. Victor, for one, credits NAFTA for his surging export volume. The general manager of $6 million Treatment Products Ltd., which makes car cleaners and waxes, had been trying to expand his small presence in Mexico since 1990. But stiff Mexican tariffs that ran as high as 20% made that impossible for the Chicago-based company. Six months after NAFTA went into effect in January, 1993, and tariffs started gradually dropping, Victor says he landed contracts with almost every major retail chain in Mexico, including Futurama, Gigante, and Soriana. His shipments to Mexico have tripled, to roughly $300,000, about 20% of the company's total exports. Victor concedes that Mexico's financial meltdown has hurt. One retailer has put a big order on hold. But he's sticking it out. To make his car wax more affordable to Mexican consumers, he's considering selling it in smaller bottles. "After selling in Mexico for five years, I'm not going to pack my bags and leave," he vows.

RISKY SHORES

The threat of a Mexican-style calamity in other countries isn't the only thing that makes venturing abroad so risky and complicated. Lining up customers and distributors—tough enough at home—becomes an enormous challenge when a market is a continent away. And then there's financing. Lenders are already leery of small companies. But the thought of a pint-size outfit venturing into uncharted markets is enough to give some bankers the vapors.

They have reason to be worried, because plenty of small companies are innocents abroad. Many entrepreneurs get their first taste of global markets by filling stray foreign orders that come their way. Often generated by referrals or chance meetings at domestic trade shows, these orders are quick and painless to fill—and can give the false impression that exporting isn't so tough. "A lot of small businesses export opportunistically," says Abby K. Shapiro, chairman of International Strategies Inc., a trade consulting firm. "The problem is not enough of them do it thoughtfully."

Lack of proper preparation can lead to costly mistakes. John P. Woolley, general manager of PC Industries, recalls how he shipped a $10,000 replacement computer component to a French customer six months ago and was stunned when he was billed $2,500 for value-added tax. Woolley's company had to absorb the unexpected bill. He says such expensive lessons are causing his $3 million Glenview (Ill.) company to rethink its overseas commitment. "The jury is still out on how strongly we'll pursue it," he says.

For small companies that decide to persevere with their export strategies, identifying suitable markets is generally the first step. Many turn to federal and state agencies for market information (page 101). The U.S. Commerce Dept., for instance, has a trade database available through its 73 field offices and public libraries. The database has research reports on 117 industries in 228 countries.

It's a good starting point for figuring out what's hot and what's not. Right now, environmental companies—those specializing in everything from waste-water treatment gear to landfill management—are finding opportunities in the newly industrialized markets of South Korea, Indonesia, Malaysia, and Taiwan. And in Latin America, a growing middle class is fueling a new wave of health consciousness. Companies making cholesterol-testing equipment, for instance, may find eager customers in Brazil and Mexico.

Some entrepreneurs display a lot of ingenuity when scoping out markets. Harden H. Wiedemann, chairman of Assurance Medical Inc., a $2 million Dallas company that sells alcohol- and drug-testing services, uses the Internet. He says he has found voluminous online information on the growing concern with alcohol-related problems in Argentina. "Some of the best information we found we just stumbled on as we were surfing around," he says

FARTHER AFIELD

Not surprisingly, most first-time exporters head north of the border. With few language barriers, a similar business culture, and now NAFTA, Canada is the most appealing market for small companies. But entrepreneurs, emboldened by past trade triumphs or tempted by flourishing markets, are setting their sights on more distant climes. Fully 12% of those responding to the Arthur Andersen/Small Business United Survey say they export to Western Europe in 1994, while 11% targeted fast-growing markets in the Asia-Pacific region.

Heather Stone has certainly expanded her horizons. Last year, she began selling her invention—a scooter for people with leg or foot injuries—to a distributor in Canada. Then last fall, Stone was invited by the Japan External Trade Organization to display her product, called Roller-Aid, at a Japanese trade show. She now expects her company, Stoneheart Inc. in Cheney, Wash., to start shipping to Japan this summer. She figures exports will generate about 20% of her company's $500,000 in sales this year. "This international business just kind of fell in my lap," she says with a smile "For me, it wasn't as difficult as I expected."

Chasing emerging markets requires something many entrepreneurs already have: a stomach for risk. Like his counterparts at much bigger companies, Robert A. Giese of RGdata Inc. was quick to set his sights on untapped markets in the then-Soviet Union—as early as 1989. The Rochester (N.Y.) computer-net-working company that he founded in 1974 hadn't done any serious exporting. But he felt the opportunities in Russia and nearby countries were overwhelming. True, shipping was a nightmare, and phone communication was in the dark ages. But he says waiting until a market is stable makes no sense: "By then, everyone already has a dance partner." In 1989, he teamed up with three other small companies to pay for a $25,000 booth at a Commerce Dept.-sponsored trade show in Moscow. Last year, 20% of his $19 million in business came from former Soviet countries.

Some entrepreneurs have turned themselves into globe-trotting promoters to drum up business. Katherine Allen, who with her mother runs Allen Filters Inc., figures she spends almost a third of her time abroad, schmoozing with potential customers for her oil-cleanup products and services. Allen reckons that, of her yearly $4 million in sales, half comes from exports, thanks to her network of contacts from Singapore to São Paulo. And now—two years and numerous cocktail parties after her first visit to Beijing—she has potential customers in China. Allen Filters may not have the marquee value of big U.S. exporters, but Allen says her journeys have convinced her that a small company can make it if it understands markets and customers. "If they have a good foundation, I think the world is open to most small businesses," she says.

For the typical small company, however, a foreign partner or distributor is the only access to a new market. It's a crucial relationship. Lazy distributors won't do much for business, while inept or unsavory ones can ruin a small company's reputation in a new market. Two years ago, computer maker WIN Laboratories Ltd. in Manassas, Va., pulled out of a joint venture in Chile, blaming its Chilean partner for customs delays and weak sales. "It hasn't soured the outlook on exporting here," says Mark H. Magnussen, WIN's director of business development, who is considering joint ventures in Brazil and Mexico. "But in the future, we'll do a lot more legwork."

FISH STORY

Such research doesn't have to mean frequent trips to far-flung ports of call. One gold mine of information: U.S. companies that sell related products. Fred Hansen, vice-president for marketing at Mardel Laboratories Inc. in Glendale Heights, Ill., which makes water conditioners and other supplies for tropical-fish aquariums, hired a distributor in Hong Kong after contacting Penn Plax Plastics Inc., a Garden City (N.Y.) company that sells plastic underwater plants. The company didn't compete with Mardel, but it knew both the distributor and the industry well.

Small companies with bigger budgets can participate in trade shows sponsored by state and federal agencies. The Commerce Dept.'s Gold Key program, for example, can arrange for a small-business executive to meet with prescreened potential partners in a foreign country. Jim DeCarlo, president of Phenix Technologies, based in Accident, Md., met his Spanish distributor on such a jaunt. He spent three days in Madrid in 1993, meeting with potential partners at the U.S. embassy. The trip cost the company, which makes electrical testing equipment, roughly $3,500—a wise investment, says DeCarlo. "I wouldn't have known where to start" to look for a partner, he concedes.

Like their bigger brethren, some small businesses are establishing overseas arms. Eli E. Hertz, founder of Hertz Computer Corp. in New York, bought a small distributor in Israel in 1990 to sell his equipment. He says being nearby to handle his clients' servicing needs gives him an edge over rival exporters. Today, Israeli customers account for 25 percent of his $10 million in sales. "Being there is a huge advantage," Hertz says. His customers agree. "When they get a call, they're here in four hours," says Shlomo Stern, the head of systems operations for OFEK Securities & Investments Ltd.

Whatever their strategy for penetrating foreign markets, small companies inevitably find that lining up trade financing to pay for manufacturing or to extend credit to customers is the stiffest challenge of all. Many U.S. banks abandoned trade financing in the 1980s after the Latin American loan debacle. Even banks thought to be entrepreneur-friendly shy away from tiny, complex, labor-intensive trade finance deals. Jeanne A. Hulit, vice-president for international banking at Key Bank of Maine, a unit of KeyCorp, says one recent small trade loan—less than $100,000—took so much time and energy that she might require an up-front fee from exporters in the future. "It was way too much work for a small loan," says Hulit.

Some small companies have benefited from trade finance programs sponsored by government agencies. Phenix Technologies' DeCarlo recently lined up a $400,000 revolving credit for his export business with the help of a guarantee from the Maryland Industrial Development Financing Authority. But such programs are poorly funded. Though the Small Business Administration and the Export-Import Bank have doubled the size of their financing programs since 1991, together they guaranteed only $253 million in export-related lending for small businesses in 1994.

And entrepreneurs still complain about excessive paperwork. Last fall, Thomas Parks, chairman of 423 million Quickway Industries, applied for a line of credit backed by the ExIm Bank to boost his company's auto machine-tool exports. The bank wanted to see audited financial statements for the past three years from Parks' customers. When Quickway asked six big foreign customers for such documents, all but one flatly refused, Parks says. "They said: 'It's just too complicated dealing with you guys,'" he recalls. In the end, Parks continued to draw on his company's own limited cash flow to finance his export expansion. But he says he hasn't grown nearly as fast as he had hoped.

Unfortunately for small companies, there's plenty more red tape awaiting them overseas. Foreign governments impose standards for imported goods that are often intended as barriers to imports. The Commerce Dept. figures that for the typical U.S. machine manufacturer, the cost of additional paperwork and certification can add up to $100,000 a year. That's a big bite for any company and potentially crushing for a small one. On top of that, importers often insist that suppliers meet guidelines set by the International Organization for Standardization. The group, representing 91 countries, sets quality measures on manufacturing procedures, design, and servicing. Many small companies find the certification too costly and time-consuming.

Of course, no one said that exploring exotic markets would be easy. It never has been—neither for caravan drivers plying the Silk Road nor for sailors seeking the Spice Islands. But like them, today's entrepreneurs know that playing it safe by staying at home may be the riskiest strategy of all.

WANT TO GO GLOBAL: HERE'S WHERE TO FIND HELP

At one time or another, many small businesses have toyed with the idea of going global. But just understanding the paperwork and bureaucracy associated with exporting can be daunting. Information is hard enough to come by. Even though the Commerce Dept. is more supportive of small business these days, it's still widely viewed as an advocate of big companies. And many entrepreneurs have given up in sheer frustration. Joel Krieger, head of marketing for Taub Floor Coverings Inc., a $3 million company based in Staten Island, N.Y., put his global plans on hold three years ago when he realized he didn't have the time or the staff to devote to coping with the complexity of foreign markets. "Just gathering the information available was staggering," he recalls.

Yet for small businesses willing to do their homework, there are a number of excellent resources to help them get started. They are relatively low-cost services; many are free of charge. In the long run, the guidance these services offer can speed up a new exporter's entry into foreign markets while helping to sidestep many of the most common—and costly—blunders. Here are just a few places to go when developing an export strategy.

Commerce Dept. Hot line

A good starting point. Specialists can provide details on different federal programs details on different federal programs that will help new exporters tap foreign markets, as well as general information on state export promotion programs. The Commerce Dept. can also offer guide sheets on a number of tricky exporting problems; including how to handle the paperwork required to qualify for the low tariffs under NAFTA. Consultations and information are free. Call 800 USA-TRADE.

Export opportunity hot line

Run by the Small Business Foundation of America, a nonprofit organization based in Washington. Calls are handled by trade experts. Tips include how to find a foreign distributor and cheap ways to test-market a product overseas. Companies that are exporting for the first time can also get advice on how to research potential markets. And exporters who have hit snags can get help in solving their problems. No charge. Call 800 243-7232. In Washington, call 202-223-1104.

Service Corps of retired executives

Working on conjunction with the Small Business Administration, SCORE serves to match up small businesses with mentors who have experience in foreign trade—at no cost. These volunteer business veterans can assist new or troubled exporters in putting together a strategy for succeeding abroad. SCORE has 370 chapters throughout all 50 states and roughly 500 seasoned exporting counselors.

Access to export capital

The AXCAP program is run by the Bankers' Association for Foreign Trade, a trade group. Small exporters who don't know where to go for financing can contact AXCAP specialists. Searching their national database, the group provides a small business with a list—usually within 24 hours—of banks in its area that handle various types of transactions. The searches are all free. Call 800 49AXCAP.

Export legal assistance network

Like it or not, small exporters will probably need a good attorney. A lawyer with experience in foreign trade can give new exporters advice on everything from protecting patents and trademarks to drafting contracts with new partners. This network provides free referrals to local attorneys with trade experience who provide one free counseling session for new exporters. Contact either the Commerce Dept. hot line or Judd L. Kessler, the national coordinator for the network, at the law firm of Porter, Wright, Morris & Arthur in Washington. Call 202 778-3000.

American society for quality control

This not-for-profit trade association offers free advice to companies that want to meet manufacturing standards set by the International Organization for Standardization, a group representing 91 countries. While the standards are fairly general, companies hoping to win substantial overseas business may have to adjust their operations to pass a certification test conducted by an accredited examiner. The society can also put callers in touch with other companies that have already gone through the process.

GLOBAL ECONOMY HITS HOME—LOCAL INDUSTRY CASHES IN ON GAINS IN AMERICAN EXPORTS

(By Georgette Braun)

ROCKFORD.—Mark Ellis figured it cost RD Systems less than $10,000 to land a $1.7 million contract last week to build four machines for a Chinese company that manufactures batteries for cell phones.

That one order represents a third of the company's $5 million in annual sales.

"It was mostly faxes, phone calls. I have 150,000 miles on my frequent flier card," said Ellis, sales manager for RD. "I know my way around Hong Kong better than I know my way around Rockford."

Selling overseas has become a bigger part of Ellis' job at the Roscoe company that employs 30 workers. Five years ago, exports were about 5 percent of RD Systems' sales. Today, it's 60 percent.

RD Systems is not alone in its reliance on exports to keep sales growing. Big export gains are being made on a national and local level.

In the second quarter, exports of U.S. goods and services grew at an annual rate of 7.2 percent, the Department of Commerce reported last month. That was much faster than the economy's 0.5 percent annual growth rate.

One reason for the export increase was the decline in the value of the dollar, which made U.S. products a better buy. Another reason was growing demand for U.S. products in the Asia/Pacific market.

Exports of manufactured goods, as a percentage of the gross domestic product, climbed to 10.7 percent last year from 7.5 percent in 1984.

In Illinois, exports grew by 99 percent between 1987 and 1993, exceeding the 90 percent increase recorded by the nation as a whole.

During the same period, export sales from the 611 zip code, which encompasses Winnebago County, grew 51.1 percent.

LOCAL EXPORTERS

Large local employers are among the top exporters in Illinois, according to Crain's Chicago Business. Sundstrand Corp., a Rockford-based aerospace and industrial parts maker, ranked 12th in last year's listing; Newell Co., a Freeport-based housewares, hardware and office suppliers maker, was 20th; and Woodward Governor Co., a Loves Park-based aircraft and industrial controls maker, ranked 23rd.

Manufacturers aren't the only ones growing because of an increase in international business.

Lorna Flores started AMCORE Bank's international services program six years ago. It now serves 28 companies.

The volume of transactions made through the program has more than tripled, she said.

One of the bank's most popular services helps companies obtain letters of credit that assure payment from foreign companies through a U.S. bank.

The letters are especially important in countries "where there is a lot of political risk," such as in Brazil or Mexico, she said.

Steven Morreim, president of QED Dryer Sales and Mfg., said he uses the bank's services "to keep us straight on paperwork."

The Rockford company is in the process of shipping a grain dryer worth more than $100,000 to a company in Russia. QED has done business in Nigeria, Turkey and Colombia.

Exporting makes up about 10 percent of the company's sales. Morreim expects to at least double that in five years. The company employs eight full-time workers.

LEGISLATION, EDUCATION

Local legislators and educators are also looking at how local companies can increase their exports.

Rep. Don Manzullo, R-Egan, is trying to reorganize U.S. trade agencies within the Department of Commerce to save money without hurting business exports.

Manzullo has been holding hearings on trade promotion and the function of various programs. He is working on trying to reorganize trade promotion efforts and cut duplication.

"The future of trade promotion must be easily accessible to the entire U.S. business community," he said in a statement earlier this month before testifying to the House International Relations Committee on the future of the Department of Commerce.

Rock Valley College, with other economic development groups, hopes to help small businesses through an "export clinic" to be held at the college Thursday, Aug. 24. The college next month will begin a three-month-long, once-a-week class on how to sell overseas.

Small companies are "the ones that need (help) most," because of limited resources, said Thomas de Seve, coordinator of international programs.

Getting into the business of exporting is not as hard as it seems, according to those who have done it.

"It's not intimidating," said Larry Lewis, owner and president of National Metal Specialties Corp. "The first time you go through it, it might be, but after you start repeating it, it's not bad."

Exports at National Metal make up about $300,000 of the company's $4 million in annual sales. The company ships to countries in Central America and South America.

National Metal's 60 employees manufacture mops and parts for mops.

Lewis said the company made inroads in exporting by making contacts at international trade shows. So far, profit margins made on exports has eclipsed those made domestically.

"Overall, it's 20 to 30 percent better," he said.

"The people are so happy to find the product. You don't have the intense retail pressure."

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Wisconsin [Mr. ROTH] that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 3759, as amended.

Mr. ROTH. Mr. Speaker, on that I demand the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 5, rule I and the Chair's prior announcement, further proceedings on this motion will be postponed.

SPECIAL ORDERS

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under the Speaker's announced policy of May 12, 1995, and under a previous order of the House, the following Members are recognized for 5 minutes each.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Florida [Mr. GOSS] is recognized for 5 minutes.

[Mr. GOSS addressed the House. His remarks will appear hereafter in the Extensions of Remarks.]

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from New Jersey [Mr. PALLONE] is recognized for 5 minutes.

[Mr. PALLONE addressed the House. His remarks will appear hereafter in the Extensions of Remarks.]

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Indiana [Mr. MCINTOSH] is recognized for 5 minutes.

[Mr. MCINTOSH addressed the House. His remarks will appear hereafter in the Extensions of Remarks.]

RETIREMENT OF REAR ADMIRAL THOMAS F. HALL, U.S. NAVY, CHIEF OF NAVAL RESERVE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Mississippi [Mr. MONTGOMERY] is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. MONTGOMERY. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize the dedication, public service, and patriotism of Rear Adm. Thomas F. Hall, U.S. Navy, Chief of Naval Reserve. Admiral Hall retires from the Navy on October 1, after a distinguished 37-year career of service to our Nation.

A native of Barnsdall, OK, Admiral Hall reported to the U.S. Naval Academy in 1959, graduated in 1963 and was designated a Naval Aviator in 1964. After earning his wings of gold, Admiral Hall joined the maritime patrol forces flying the new P-3 Orion. During flight training, he was named the outstanding student, and graduated No. 1 in his class. Admiral Hall continued to distinguish himself throughout his flying career amassing almost 5,000 pilot hours.

His initial fleet assignment was with Patrol Squadron Eight, flying combat missions in Southeast Asia. Subsequent tours included the U.S. Naval Academy, as a company officer and executive assistant to the commandant of midshipmen, Patrol Squadron Twenty-Three, completion of the command and staff course at the Naval War College, graduating with distinction, and assignment to the Bureau of Naval Personnel, where his billets included aviation staffs placement officer, head of air combat assignment. Admiral Hall returned to VP-8 as executive officer and then assumed duties as commanding officer. Admiral Hall also completed the course of instruction at the National War College, again graduating with distinction, and served on the staff of the Chief of Naval Operations where he served as head of the program objective memorandum development section, as chief of staff to Commander Fleet Air Keflavik, and as a fellow to the CNO's strategic studies group. In addition to command of VP-8, Admiral Hall has also served in command of Naval Air Station Bermuda, the Icelandic defense forces, and most recently, command of the Naval Reserve.

Since September 1992, Admiral Hall has been the Chief of Naval Reserve, guiding the Naval Reserve force through its largest drawdown, while maintaining readiness and significantly increasing contributory support to the fleet. Under Admiral Hall's leadership, the total force policy was realized—Regular Navy and Navy Reservists working side-by-side, meeting forward presence requirements in operations worldwide.

In August 1989, Admiral Hall was promoted to rear admiral (lower half) and in July 1992 to his present rank of rear admiral (upper half). Admiral Hall wears the Defense Superior Service Medal, Legion of Merit, Meritorious Service Medal, Meritorious Unit Commendation, and various unit and campaign awards, holds a masters degree in management from George Washington University and attended Harvard University senior executive program. In July 1992, Admiral Hall was awarded the Icelandic Order of the Falcon, Commander's Cross with Star, by the President of Iceland.

Our Nation, his wife Barbara, and his son Tom, can be immensely proud of the admiral's long and distinguished career and his service to our country. I wish Admiral Hall and his family best wishes in his retirement.

AFL-CIO ATTACK ADS ON REPUBLICANS

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from California [Mr. RIGGS] is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. RIGGS. Mr. Speaker, I wanted to follow up on some remarks I made on the floor earlier today during the course of the debate on one of our suspension bills, and that is the reference that I made to the new round of attack ads, because I do not think you call them anything but, the new round of attack ads being aired on television stations around the country and paid for by the AFL-CIO. These are television ads orchestrated by the big labor bosses of the AFL-CIO in Washington, airing exclusively in the congressional districts of incumbent Republicans, and they are part and parcel of an orchestrated campaign by the AFL-CIO to help the National Democratic Party win back control of the House of Representatives.

These new ads follow on the heels of their MediScare ads, where they distorted our efforts to preserve and to strengthen Medicare and protect it from bankruptcy by increasing annual spending for the program at a rate of 7 percent as opposed to the 14-percent annual growth rate of Medicare in recent years. That is to say, increasing spending for Medicare at twice the rate of inflation as opposed to three times the rate of inflation.

And of course those Medicare television ads nor the fact that President Clinton, after much procrastination and foot dragging, has finally submitted his own proposal for saving Medicare from bankruptcy. That would grow the program. That would increase annual spending for Medicare benefits at 7.8 percent annually as opposed to our 7-percent growth rate.

Now the AFL-CIO has come on the air with ads claiming, using the big lie technique, that the Republican Congress voted to cut student loans. Well, let us go back and take a look at the record. In fact, the Republican majority in Congress last year as part of our 7-year plan for balancing the budget in H.R. 2491 increased funding for student loans by $12 billion, from $24 billion today to $36 billion in the year 2002. That is a 50-percent increase in Federal taxpayer benefits for student loans.

Under our proposal, which the President vetoed, a record 8.4 million student loans would be made in the year 2002 up from 6.7 million student loans in 1995. There simply are no cuts, yet the AFL-CIO insists on misrepresenting and deliberately distorting our record.

Second, Pell grants will increase this year to a maximum of $2,500 per student, the highest level of Pell grants in our country's history. That is the highest maximum award of a Pell grant for a college student in the history of our country. So we are supporting better education, especially for those who need it most.

We have attempted to begin slowly but surely transferring power and control over education back to local school districts and parents across the country. It does not belong back here in Washington under the control of bureaucrats because, after all, decision-making in public education is by a longstanding American tradition a decentralized custom.

So we have been working hard, Mr. Speaker, and we continued that work today with the passage, actually, I guess the vote was postponed until tomorrow, but we did today introduce legislation which will pass by an overwhelming bipartisan margin when we take this recorded vote tomorrow to reduce loan fees for students. That is the Student Debt Reduction Act of 1996 that we had on the floor earlier today.

We are not decreasing student loans, we are in fact increasing the accessibility and affordability of student loans. This follows on the heels of a doubling, a 100-percent increase, in taxpayer funding for public education in this country between 1945 and 1965, another 100-percent increase from 1965 to 1985, and a 20-percent increase in taxpayer funding for public education since 1985.

We Republicans are committed to improving education for our Nation's youth and saving them from a failed education system run by bureaucrats, which has too often not given them the hope and the opportunity and promise for a better future that a public education, which is the cornerstone of equal opportunity in a Democratic society, should provide.

So I will be speaking on this, I am sure again, as we proceed to conclude our legislative business over the next few weeks, but I wanted to take this opportunity, Mr. Speaker, to follow up on the debate we had today, particularly after the gentleman from Michigan [Mr. KILDEE] challenged my remarks and we were not able to debate it at that time. I would dearly like for one or more of my Democratic colleagues to come to the floor so that we could have a very legitimate, genuine, bipartisan debate on education funding and the right education policies for the future of our children.

JOB CREATION AND JOB LOSS IN AMERICA

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. MILLER of Florida). Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Florida [Mr. MICA] is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. MICA. Mr. Speaker, I come before the House tonight to talk about issues that I think are important to me, not only as a Member of Congress but also as a father and a parent and someone who is concerned about the future for my children and the future for all children in America. It is good to get away from Congress and to go out and talk to people in the district, and it has been great to have a congressional work period where I have had a chance to talk to folks and hear their concerns.

I come from central Florida. It is basically a pretty prosperous area. We do not have some of the problems of the urban areas, but one of the concerns that I hear repeated and that I personally have been concerned about is job creation.

Now, we have heard the President lauding some of the economic figures and unemployment figures, and we have heard touted the creation in this administration of 10 million jobs. So I thought I would look into these 10 million jobs and see what has been created, what has been done and what the future is for our children.

One of the interesting statistics, although 10 million jobs have been created in this administration, the bulk of those jobs are part-time jobs, they are low-paying jobs, they are contract jobs, and they are service jobs. In fact, I was startled to find that during just a 2-year period, from 1993 to 1995, that in fact a startling 8.4 million Americans lost their jobs, and that is the concern that I heard out there, is people fear losing their jobs.

What is interesting about 8.4 million people, Americans, losing their jobs during this 2-year period of the 4-year job expansion is the majority of those 8.4 million people who lost their jobs lost a good paying job, a high-technology job, or a job that was in a sophisticated area, and the majority of that 8.4 million had to take a job in a lower paying, a lower level, a less sophisticated job. And, really, that is the question that I heard asked of me and the question that I asked myself: What about the future? What about jobs for our children, when half of those jobs that are lost, that 8.4 million, we relegate our citizens to lower paying jobs?

Now, in 1989 there were 1 million more jobs in manufacturing than there were in Government. This is an alarming figure in what has happened since 1989. And listen to this: Last year there were 1.5 million jobs more in Government than there were in manufacturing in this country. So we are employing more people on the Government rolls.

And this story about ending big Government as we know it and the era the big Government is over, it just does not hold water because we have more people on public payrolls and less in manufacturing than we have ever had.

I had a conversation with a mother whose daughter was one of the few students in advanced physics, during the past weekend, and some time ago she told me about her daughter at the University of Florida, one of the few students in advanced physics. The next area after nuclear physics is the area she is in, advanced physics studies. Now she has transferred to Northwestern University and she is the only American student in her class in advanced physics. This is scary for the future. Her choices are going to be to work probably in Tokyo and Geneva when she finishes. What kinds of jobs are we creating?

And then we look at the job and education programs and they are a total failure. In my State we spent $1 billion on job training in the State of Florida, and a State report recently released said that less than 20 percent of those students who entered the job training program completed the program. Of that, only 19 percent, 19 percent of the 20 percent, ever got a job. So we are paying much more and we are getting less. We are not giving good opportunity for the future. We are replacing good paying jobs with jobs that do not pay much.

And the debate in this chamber has been about whether we pay people $5.15. That is not acceptable to me. That is not acceptable to the future. We can and we must do much better.

PROCEEDINGS AND DEBATES OF THE 104th CONGRESS, SECOND SESSION

Vol. 142

WASHINGTON, TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 10, 1996

No. 123

Senate

The Senate met at 9:30 a.m. and was called to order by the President pro tempore [Mr. THURMOND].

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Today's prayer will be offered by our guest Chaplain, Bishop H. Hasbrouck Hughes, Jr.

PRAYER

The guest Chaplain, Bishop H. Hasbrouck Hughes, Jr., Williamsburg, VA, offered the following prayer:

Let us pray:

O God, we bow in humble adoration before You this day as our Creator, Judge, and Sustainer.

As Creator, You manifest unfathomable power as the source of all life, all matter, all time and space, throughout a universe which knows no bounds.

As our Judge, it is to You we remain accountable, even as we exercise personal and collective judgments each day.

As Sustainer, You provide the natural resources of this bountiful land; and the human resources by which we help, and are helped by, one another. How grateful we are for Your manifold blessings.

Deliver us from approaching any day apart from reliance upon your guidance; especially in bearing the enormous responsibilities of leadership affecting the lives, security, hopes, and dreams, of the Nation's people.

Every Member of this assemblage feels the weight of high office; and today we ask for wisdom and strength as they undertake the tasks before them. May their decisions be harmonious with Your hope for humankind; and may the dream be unfading of a godly nation, where the blessings of liberty, justice, and peace are preserved for all. Amen.

RECOGNITION OF THE ACTING MAJORITY LEADER

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The able majority leader, Senator LOTT, is recognized.

BISHOP H. HASBROUCK HUGHES, JR.

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, before we give the opening script this morning, I yield to the distinguished Senator from Wyoming.

Mr. THOMAS. I want to thank Bishop H. Hasbrouck Hughes, Jr., for being here. Bishop Hughes has just retired from 8 years as the resident bishop of the Florida Conference of Methodist Churches. He has served nearly 40 years in various capacities in Virginia. Most importantly of all, the bishop's daughter, Kathi Wise, works for us in our office, and has been on the Hill for 18 years. We are very proud of her and very pleased to have you here, sir.

SCHEDULE

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, for the information of all Senators, this morning the Senate will begin 3 hours of debate on H.R. 3396, the Defense of Marriage Act. At 12:30, following the debate, the Senate will recess until 2:15 today for the weekly party conferences to meet. At 2:15 following the recess, the Senate will begin two consecutive rollcall votes with the first being on the adoption of the Defense authorization conference report and the second on passage of the Defense of Marriage Act.

Following those votes, there will be 30 minutes for debate equally divided before there is a vote on S. 2056, the Employment Nondiscrimination bill. The Senate will then begin consideration of the Treasury-Postal appropriations bill with additional votes expected on that bill as we attempt to finish the remaining appropriations measures hopefully in the next 2 weeks.

As a reminder, there will be a joint meeting beginning at 10 a.m. on Wednesday to hear an address by Prime Minister Bruton of Ireland. All Members are asked to be in the Senate Chamber at 9:40 a.m. so we may proceed to the House of Representatives for that address.

SERGEANT AT ARMS GREG CASEY

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, last Friday the Senate did adopt a resolution naming Greg Casey of Idaho to be the new Sergeant at Arms. It is a pleasure for me to be able to recognize Greg Casey. I think most Senators are familiar with him. He has been around Capitol Hill for a long time and has worked with Senator CRAIG and has been very close to Senator KEMPTHORNE. He has been very helpful in setting up the administrative operation in my office as leader.

With his background in Idaho, in business and government, I feel he will be an excellent Sergeant at Arms. He has a mighty responsibility of working with Senators on both sides of the aisle to make sure that we operate as efficiently and honestly as we possibly can. I am convinced that he will do an excellent job.

I yield to Senator CRAIG for comments in regard to his former chief of staff.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. INHOFE). The Senator from Idaho.

Mr. CRAIG. Mr. President, let me thank the majority leader for yielding this morning and reflect on the wise and judicious decision of the majority leader to choose my chief of staff, Greg Casey, to become the new Sergeant at Arms of the U.S. Senate.

As the majority leader mentioned, Mr. President, Greg and I and Senator KEMPTHORNE go back a good many years in working in the political effort in Idaho and here in Washington. I had the privilege of hiring Greg to be a field director for me in my first congressional campaign. He came to Washington with me and served in a variety of capacities, ultimately becoming my chief of staff while I served in the House, left to go to Idaho to rebuild an organization called the Idaho Association of Commerce and Industry into a major force as a spokesman for business and industry in the State of Idaho. When I was elected to the Senate in 1990, I asked Greg to return with me to put my Senate staff together and he has served as my chief of staff since that time.

I am extremely excited for Greg and his family, and for Idaho, that the majority leader has chosen him to become the Sergeant of Arms here in the Senate, a very large responsibility. I am extremely proud that Greg now has the opportunity to serve in that capacity, not only for the Senate but for our country and for the State of Idaho.

I, on behalf of Idaho, can speak with a great deal of pride in saying we know Idaho is extremely proud today to have Greg Casey as the new Sergeant at Arms here in the U.S. Senate. Greg, congratulations. We will look forward to working with you, and also we will seek your counsel from time to time as it comes to the administration of my office and my offices in the State of Idaho.

Again, thank you, Mr. Majority Leader, for yielding. Let me now yield to my colleague, Senator DIRK KEMPTHORNE, who also has had a close working relationship with Greg Casey over many years.

Mr. KEMPTHORNE. Mr. President, I join in commending the majority leader for his decision in naming Greg Casey as our new Sergeant at Arms. It is an outstanding decision, and again I think it reflects well on the majority leader and the sort of individuals that he is surrounding himself with to carry out these very, very, critical issues and functions relating to this institution.

I have known Greg Casey for many, many years. We attended the University of Idaho together in the mid-1970's. In fact, it was at the University of Idaho that I had the honor to serve as student body president. I must acknowledge that Senator CRAIG also had the distinction of serving as student body president at the University of Idaho. It was in that capacity that I named Greg Casey to fill a vacancy that was on the student senate.

One of the things that I have always admired about Greg Casey is his devotion to what has to be done, his devotion at that time to the university, to the State, and as I have seen him in this atmosphere, his absolute devotion to this country.

We have named a patriot, now, to be the Sergeant at Arms of this institution. He is an individual who brings great enthusiasm to anything he does, a great energy level. He is an individual who brings innovation to everything he touches. I know whenever his tenure as Sergeant at Arms is complete he will be regarded as truly one of the best Sergeants at Arms that the U.S. Senate in its history ever had.

He also has the ability to stick to it. I think this is probably something that the majority leader, Senator LOTT, has recognized, and that is if you want a job done, have Greg Casey given the assignment because he will get it done, no matter what it takes, but he will do it with a style and with a dignity, and with a tenacity that you never have to doubt whether it will be done.

I also want to acknowledge that we talk about having good people around you. Well, Greg Casey has good people around him. In the late 1980's, he introduced me to a young lady that truly is a remarkable woman, Julia Laky, who then in 1990 became Mrs. Greg Casey. In the life that we have shared together, I had the honor as serving as best man at his wedding. Again, they are the sort of people that you are proud to say are our friends, we like them, the values that they have in their home are the values that America believes in. And I remember that, following the wedding, I guess it falls on the best man to make a toast. So I made the toast that their home would be blessed with more than just the two of them, and up there joining their family is Gregory Scott Casey, Jr. He is a fifth generation Idahoan. His dad is a fourth generation Idahoan.

I would like to say this to little Greg: Your dad is a great man, and he is someone that we all look up to. I know that just as little Gregory Scott Casey is in wonderful hands with his dad, Greg, and his mom, Julia, this Senate is in good hands with this new Sergeant at Arms, Greg Casey. So I am proud to call him a friend. He is someone that is going to serve us well. Again, I commend the majority leader for his decision in making this happen.

Mr. CRAIG addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Idaho, Mr. CRAIG, is recognized.

Mr. CRAIG. Mr. President, certainly Senator KEMPTHORNE and I, by our comments, can display only great pride in the fact that the majority leader has chosen Greg Casey to be our new Sergeant at Arms. We reflect that pride for our State of Idaho.

I say to Greg, his wife Julia, and Gregory, Jr., congratulations, we look forward to a good number of years working with you during your service in the U.S. Senate. I congratulate the majority leader for a wise choice.

Mr. DASCHLE addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The minority leader is recognized.

Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President, let me join with my colleagues in our congratulations to Gregory Casey for his appointment and our best wishes to him and his family in these very important new circumstances he faces. There are a number of people that have already spoken to his intelligence, ability, and his contribution to the Senate. I have had the opportunity to work with him as a member of the Ethics Committee and have watched with great admiration as he has taken on each of his difficult tasks in working with the Senators from Idaho.

So I know I speak for all of my colleagues on this side in wishing him our sincere congratulations. Isaac Bassett, who worked in this great Chamber for 64 years, up until 1894, left a diary of many thousands of pages. When he was appointed to his last position, he came to the floor and said there is no higher calling than that of public service in the U.S. Senate. I think Greg Casey appreciates that, understands that, and in the tradition of Isaac Bassett, and many of us who have had the great fortune to follow him, we look forward to working with him in a new role.

I yield the floor.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, I just want to say how impressed I am with the excellent comments and statements that have been made by my colleagues about someone that Members of the Senate have known over a long period of time. I have had the privilege of knowing Mr. Casey. But having the name Casey, if you track back over a long period, there must have been a Democrat in there somewhere. [Laughter.]

I know I can speak, as well, along with the minority leader and assure my colleagues that we will be fairly treated as well.

Congratulations, Mr. Casey.

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, I believe we are ready now to go to the Defense of Marriage Act. Perhaps we will lay that bill down.

RESERVATION OF LEADER TIME

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, leadership time is reserved.

DEFENSE OF MARRIAGE ACT

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, the Senate will now proceed to the consideration of H.R. 3396, which the clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

A bill (H.R. 3396) to define and protect the institution of marriage.

The Senate proceeded to consider the bill.

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, I yield myself 10 minutes off of the time allocated to the Defense of Marriage Act.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The majority leader is recognized.

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, I will not take much of the Senate's time to express my strong support for the Defense of Marriage Act this morning. It has already been discussed in earlier debate, and I am sure it is going to be supported eloquently by speeches later on today from Senator NICKLES of Oklahoma and others on both sides of the aisle.

I expect the outcome in the Senate will be lopsided when the vote is taken, as it was in the House, which passed the Defense of Marriage Act, as it is popularly called, by a vote of 342 to 67.

Judging from the calls and letters and comments I received when I was home during the August district work period—from all across the country, though—it is clear to me that this bill enjoys tremendous support among the American people.

President Clinton has promised to sign it into law. His Department of Justice has affirmed its position that H.R. 3396 “would be sustained as constitutional if challenged in courts.”

This is not prejudiced legislation. It is not mean-spirited or exclusionary. It is a preemptive measure to make sure that a handful of judges, in a single State, cannot impose an agenda upon the entire Nation.

The Defense of Marriage Act is not an attack upon anyone. It is, rather, a response to an attack upon the institution of marriage itself.

This matter has received so much attention in the national press, that everyone should know by now what the problem is and why we need to pass DOMA, as it is usually referred to.

The problem is the serious possibility—some say even the strong likelihood—that the State court system of Hawaii would recognize as a legal union, equivalent or identical to marriage, a living arrangement of two persons of the same sex.

If such a decision affected only Hawaii, we could leave it to the residents of Hawaii to either live with the consequences or exercise their political rights to change things. But a court decision would not be limited to just one State. It would raise threatening possibilities in other States because of article IV, section 1 of the Constitution.

The article requires States to give “full faith and credit” to “the public acts, records, and judicial proceedings of every other State.”

Would that mean a same-sex union would be entitled to equal recognition in South Dakota, Massachusetts, or my State of Mississippi? Both proponents and opponents of same-sex unions believe it would.

I believe we should not wait around to find out. What the Hawaiian court decides could also affect the operations of the Federal Government. It could have an impact upon programs like Medicare, Medicaid, veterans’ pensions, and the Civil Service Retirement System.

If you redefine marriage, you should redefine eligibility for benefits under those and other programs. Imagine the financial and social consequences of taking such a step.

Inaction on the part of Congress would be equivalent to approval of what the Hawaiian courts may do. We can’t afford such action.

No one should doubt that Congress does have the authority to act.

The same article of the Constitution that calls for “full faith and credit” for State court decisions also gives Congress the power to decide how that provision will be implemented. It says:

And the Congress may by general laws prescribe the manner in which such acts, records and proceedings shall be proved, and the effect thereof.

“And the effect thereof.” Those words make clear what the Framers of the Constitution intended.

None of them, I don’t think, could have foreseen the day when an American court would sanction same-sex marriages or unions, but they wisely provided for the possibility that some State court might do something like that someday. I don’t know how to describe that kind of action. But it is a situation we are faced with now, and that is why we have this defense of marriage bill that we are debating this morning and will vote on probably around 2:30 or 2:45.

To force upon our communities the legal recognition of same-sex marriage would be social engineering beyond anything in the American experience.

When DOMA was discussed in committee, some objected that it violated States rights. Never mind that those who raised the objection never seemed to have any qualms about trampling those rights in the past in many instances.

DOMA actually reinforces States rights. It prevents one State from imposing upon all the others its own particular interpretation of the law.

The Defense of Marriage Act will ensure that each State can reach its own decision about this extremely controversial matter: The legal status of same-sex unions.

The Defense of Marriage Act, likewise, ensures that for the purposes of Federal programs, marriages will be defined by Federal law.

It is Congress’ responsibility to say plainly what marriage is going to mean—what the spousal relationship is going to mean—in national programs that serve elderly, retirees, and the poor.

Our failure to do so would open up those programs to all sorts of confusion and claims and court actions.

This is more than a theoretical possibility. In 1970, a Federal court denied a same-sex couple legal recognition for veterans’ benefits only because their State’s law limited marriage to persons of opposite sex. I hate to think what would happen now if that case were brought in a State where these unions had the force of law.

Fortunately, it is not going to come to that. I hope we can get this bill passed overwhelmingly, in a bipartisan way, send it down to the White House, and have it signed into law very soon. We should not have ambiguity in this area. We should not have confusion. We should not leave it to court actions and challenges. This is a very important action. I think it will pass after a relatively short time and with surprisingly little opposition. But it is a serious matter. I think the American people are somewhat stunned that we would even have to pass such a law, but we do, and we are doing our job when we pass this legislation. It will be a small but a vital victory for the American family and for common sense.

I yield the floor.

Mr. KENNEDY addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mrs. FRAHM). The Senator from Massachusetts.

Mr. KENNEDY. As I understand it, the 3-hour time limit began when the legislation was laid before the Senate. Am I correct?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The time needs to conclude by 12:30, so it would take unanimous consent to have the full 3 hours.

Mr. KENNEDY. If I could have the attention of the majority leader, would it be appropriate to have the 3 hours start at the time when the bill was actually laid down rather than at 9:30?

Mr. LOTT. We started, what was it, about 20 minutes until 10? Actually, I would prefer we do that to make sure we have the full 3 hours.

Mr. KENNEDY. I make that request then.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, the recess will be delayed.

Mr. KENNEDY. I thank the Chair.

Madam President, I oppose the so-called Defense of Marriage Act, and I regret that the Senate is allocating scarce time at the end of this Congress to consider this unconstitutional, unnecessary, and divisive legislation.

There is, however, a silver lining to the Republican leadership’s decision to schedule this debate. It gave many of us the opening we needed to raise a serious civil rights concern—the festering problem of unacceptable discrimination against gays and lesbians in the workplace. We debated that issue at length on Friday, and we will vote on it later this afternoon. I am very hopeful that a ban on job discrimination will pass the Senate. If it does, we will have the Defense of Marriage Act to thank for that achievement.

Nevertheless, I continue to be opposed to the Defense of Marriage Act for a variety of reasons.

We all know what is going on here. I regard this bill as a mean-spirited form of Republican legislative gay-bashing cynically calculated to try to inflame the public 8 weeks before the November 5 election.

I do not mean to say that opponents of same-sex marriage are intolerant, or bigots. Marriage is an ancient institution with religious underpinnings, and I understand that some people have deeply held religious or moral beliefs that lead them to oppose same-sex marriage.

But do they seriously believe this bill deserves this high priority? After all, the Hawaii court case that started all this won’t be final for another 2 years, according to Hawaiian authorities, and the outcome of the case is far from certain. Even if the Hawaii courts eventually approve same-sex marriage, other States have ample authority under current law to reject that decision in their own courts.

In fact, States and local governments across the country are already dealing with this issue in their own ways. Some have enacted domestic partnership laws. In others, mayors and Governors have issued executive orders for public employers. They don't need help from Congress to address the subject. And Federal law, which has never recognized same-sex marriages, hardly needs clarification at this suspicious moment.

This contrived debate has been gratuitously brought before Congress 1 month before adjournment. It has been placed on a suspiciously fast track to enactment despite the press of other business. The obvious explanation is a crass desire for partisan gain at the expense of tolerance and mutual understanding.

This bill is designed to divide Americans, to drive a wedge between one group of citizens and the rest of the country, solely for partisan advantage. It is a cynical election year gimmick, and it deserves to be rejected by all who deplore the intolerance and incivility that have come to dominate our national debate.

Over the past few months, we have come together as a nation to oppose in the strongest possible terms the church arson epidemic. We heard leaders across the political, racial, and religious spectrum discuss the need to rededicate ourselves to the fundamental values of tolerance and mutual respect that are the backbone of any free society. I just wish the Republican leadership in Congress would practice what they preached in San Diego.

In any event, whether Senators are for or against same-sex marriage, there are ample reasons to vote against this bill, because it represents an unconstitutional exercise of congressional power. This bill attempts to use the full faith and credit clause—article IV, section 1—of the Constitution to give the States greater authority to refuse to recognize gay marriages if such marriages are made legal in other States. But the purpose and history of the full faith and credit clause make clear that the Framers of the Constitution never intended to give Congress this power.

The full faith and credit clause was included in the Constitution as a means of binding the original separate States into a United States of America. The Framers feared that local rivalries could cause States to reject each other's laws, and that a dangerously chaotic situation could result. The full faith and credit clause requires the States to respect each other's laws; it facilitates interstate commerce and strengthens our Federal system.

The Constitution gives Congress no power to add or subtract from the full faith and credit clause. The States that ratified the Constitution would never have granted such sweeping authority to Congress, and no Congress in 200 years has exercised such power.

It is true that the full faith and credit clause gives Congress the authority to prescribe the effect of one State's laws in other States. But this does not give Congress the power to say that any such laws shall have no effect.

In fact, for that reason, leading scholars have labeled this bill flatly unconstitutional. Prof. Laurence Tribe of Harvard Law School writes that:

The full faith and Credit Clause cannot be read as a fount of authority for Congress to set asunder the states that this clause so solemnly brought together. Such a reading would mean, for example, that Congress could decree that any state was free to disregard any Hawaii marriage, any California divorce, any Kansas default judgment—or any of a potentially endless list of official acts that a Congressional majority might wish to denigrate. This would convert the Constitution's most vital unifying clause into a license for balkanization and disunity.

Conservative constitutional scholar Cass Sunstein of the University of Chicago reached a similar conclusion in testimony before the Judiciary Committee on July 11. Sunstein pointed out that if Congress possessed authority to negate the effect of State court judgments:

... a good deal of the entire federal system could be undone. Under the proponents' interpretation, Congress could simply say that any law Congress dislikes is of 'no effect' in other states. . . . This would be an extraordinary power in light of the needs of a commercial republic. Nothing in the background of the full faith and credit clause suggests that this was anyone's understanding of the clause.

In his testimony, Professor Sunstein emphasized that the Supreme Court's recent opinion in Romer versus Evans, striking down an anti-gay referendum in Colorado, also casts doubt on the validity of this bill. Like the Colorado referendum struck down in Romer, this bill is "unprecedented * * * an oddity in our constitutional tradition drawn explicitly in terms of sexual orientation. Insofar as it draws the particular line that it does, it risks running afoul of Romer's prohibition on laws based on animus against homosexuals."

Scholarly opinion is clear: The bill before us is plainly unconstitutional. But even if it were constitutional, the bill should be rejected because it is unnecessary and ill-advised.

Proponents of the bill claim to be motivated by the possibility that the Hawaii courts will validate same-sex marriage, forcing the other 49 States to recognize Hawaii marriages. But if Hawaii courts recognize same-sex marriages some day—and that is a big "if"—the other States already have ample authority to defend their own marriage policies without meddling from Congress.

Dean Herma Hill Kay of the Boalt Hall School of Law is a nationally recognized expert on domestic relations law. She writes:

The usual conflict of laws doctrine governing the recognition of a marriage performed in another state is that the state where recognition is sought need not recognize a marriage that would violate its public policy. A state with a clear prohibition against same-sex marriage could, if it chose to do so . . . refuse recognition.

Fifteen States have already made that judgment and decision. In other words, States already have the power that this bill pretends to give them. This is a matter for each state, not a matter for Congress. If Oklahoma refuses to recognize a Hawaii marriage because it violates Oklahoma public policy, that is Oklahoma's business. Congress can not give Oklahoma any more power than it already has. That is why the bill is not merely unconstitutional. It is, as Professor Sunstein calls it, a "constitutionally ill-advised intrusion" by Congress into an issue handled at the state level for the past 200 years.

For over two centuries, Congress has respected the right of States to establish their own laws of marriage, divorce, child custody, and other issues in domestic relations. It is ironic that our Republican friends who like to preach State rights are so quick to override State rights in this case.

The precedent created by this bill should alarm anyone who cares about Federal-State relations generally. If Congress invokes the full faith and credit clause to deny effect to unpopular State court judgments, why will it stop at gay marriages? Will Congress try to deny effect to unpopular commercial judgments? Will Congress try to deny effect to state court decisions protecting civil rights, divorce, child custody, or a wide range of different other issues?

As Professor Sunstein testified:

This is not about same-sex marriage and homosexuality. This is about punitive damages, default judgments, product liability, everything else under the sun. From the constitutional point of view, this is not fundamentally a same-sex marriage act. This is federal permission to some States to ignore what other states have mandated. That is a very large step.

It is indeed. I would add only that it is a very large backward step. I urge the Senate not to take it, and to vote against this irresponsible and unconstitutional bill.

Madam President, I see the Senator from Minnesota rising. How much time would he require?

Mr. WELLSTONE. Madam President, 5 minutes?

Mr. KENNEDY. I yield 5 minutes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Minnesota.

Mr. WELLSTONE. Madam President, I thank my colleague from Massachusetts and I say to my colleague from Oklahoma, I hope I have not gone before him and that this would be OK right now.

Madam President, I wanted to speak to, or build on, the remarks of my colleague from Massachusetts, Senator KENNEDY, about the ENDA bill, the Employment Nondiscrimination Act. I listened to some of the debate. Actually, when I was back home in Minnesota, I saw some of what went on, on the floor on Friday. We had no votes, and on Friday evening I caught some of it. I do not think I want to repeat the different arguments that were made. I would rather talk about this piece of legislation as it connects to people's lives.

I want to talk about a very close family friend. This friend of ours, over the years, really has had to live in a state of terror, though it has gotten somewhat better now. Several times, Madam President, he has had to go from one job to another, not because of the content of his character, not because of his ability, not because of his contributions to his employer or to his fellow workers or fellow employees, but because of his sexual orientation.

I really do think that the Employment Nondiscrimination Act is a matter of simple justice. I really hope that the U.S. Senate will vote for this piece of legislation. I am very proud to be an original cosponsor, because I believe if we vote for this piece of legislation, we really will have taken an enormous step forward toward ending discrimination in our country. It is just not right that a man or a woman, because of sexual orientation, should be in a situation where he or she could lose a job or not be able to obtain employment because of their sexual orientation. This is a basic civil rights issue.

There is no provision in this piece of legislation that calls for favorable treatment. There are no quotas. This piece of legislation just says we must extend basic civil rights protection against discrimination in employment to all citizens—to all citizens—in our country and we must end this discrimination based on sexual orientation.

I also want to mention, because I am very proud of my State, that in Minnesota, in 1992, we adopted very similar provisions to this piece of legislation in the Human Rights Act. We became the eighth State to guarantee protection against this type of discrimination. I would like to say, from the point of view of the business community, of the religious community, of communities within our larger Minnesota community, I think now there is very strong support for ending this discrimination.

This piece of legislation that we passed in our State has served our State well. If we pass this in the U.S. Senate and eventually pass this in the U.S. Congress, we will serve our country well. This is the right thing to do, to end discrimination in employment. What should matter is a person's ability. What should matter is the character of a person. What should matter is an employee's contribution to his or her business or place of work. What should not matter is sexual orientation.

We must end this discrimination. I hope my colleagues, Democrats and Republicans alike, will support this bill.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Oklahoma.

Mr. NICKLES. Madam President, I yield myself such time as necessary.

I am pleased today to bring before the Senate the Defense of Marriage Act, along with Senator BYRD and I think 30 cosponsors. We have introduced a measure which I believe is simple, it is limited in scope, and it is based on common sense. It shares broad bipartisan support, including that of President Clinton.

The bill does but two things: First, the bill restates the current and long-established understanding that marriage means a legal union between one man and one woman as husband and wife. The act also defines spouse as a person of the opposite sex who is a husband or a wife. These definitions apply only to Federal law.

Second, the bill says that no State shall be required to give effect to a second State's acts, records, or judgments respecting a relationship between persons of the same sex that is treated as a marriage under the laws of that second State.

There is nothing earth-shattering here. No breaking of new ground. No setting of new precedents. Indeed, these provisions simply reaffirm what is already known, what is already in place.

The definitions of S. 999 are based on common understanding rooted in our Nation's history, our statutes, and our case law. They merely reaffirm what Americans have meant for 200 years when using the words marriage and spouse. The current U.S. Code does not contain a definition of marriage, presumably because most Americans know what it means and never imagined challenges such as those we are facing today.

As mentioned earlier, the act's definitions apply to Federal law only. The act does not—let me repeat—does not intrude on the ability of the States to define marriage as they choose. To the contrary, this bill protects the right of States to define marriage for themselves. This way, each State will be able to decide for itself the type of marriage it will sanction.

The Defense of Marriage Act invokes Congress' constitutional authority, under article IV, section 1, to prescribe the effect that shall be given to the public acts, records, and judicial proceedings of the various states with regard to the full faith and credit clause.

As my colleagues know, in May 1993 the Hawaii Supreme Court rendered a preliminary ruling in favor of three same-sex couples who applied for marriage licenses. The court said the State's marriage law discriminated against the plaintiffs in violation of the equal-rights provision of the State Constitution. The case was remanded to the lower courts for a trial, to see if the State could show a compelling state interest to justify the marriage law. That trial is starting today in Hawaii.

It has become clear that advocates of same-sex unions intend to win the lawsuit in Hawaii and then invoke the full faith and credit clause to force the other 49 states to accept same-sex unions.

Many States are justifiably concerned that Hawaii's recognition of same-sex unions will compromise their own laws prohibiting such marriages. Legislators in over 30 States have introduced bills to deny recognition to same-sex unions. Fifteen States already have approved such laws, and many other states are now grappling with the issue—including Hawaii, where legislative leaders are fighting to block their own courts from sanctioning such marriages. This bill would address this issue head-on, and it would allow each State to make the final determination for itself.

It seems to me that the strategy of those who are advocating same-sex unions is profoundly undemocratic. I cannot envision a more appropriate time for invoking our constitutional authority to define the nature of States' obligations to one another. As State Representative Terrance Tom from Hawaii testified before a House subcommittee:

If inaction by the Congress runs the risk that a single judge in Hawaii may redefine the scope of legislation throughout the other 49 States, [then] failure to act is a dereliction of the responsibilities [Congress was] invested with by the voters.

Another reason this bill is needed now concerns Federal benefits. The Federal Government extends benefits, rights, and privileges to persons who are married, and generally it accepts a State's definition of marriage. This bill will help the Federal Government defend the traditional and commonsense definitions of the American people. Otherwise, if Hawaii, or any other State, gives new meaning to the words "marriage" and "spouse," reverberations may be felt throughout the Federal Code.

The provisions of Federal law do not, of course, regulate only the activities of the Federal Government. Federal law also regulates private persons. Consider the implication of the Family and Medical Leave Act of 1993.

Shortly before passage of the act in the Senate, I attached an amendment that defines "spouse" as "a husband or wife, as the case may be." When the Secretary of Labor published his proposed regulations, a considerable number of comments were received urging that the definition of "spouse" be broadened to include domestic partners in committed relationships, including same-sex relationships. However, when the Secretary issued the final rules, he stated that the statutory definition of "spouse" and the legislative history of the act precluded such broadening of the definition.

That small amendment, unanimously adopted, spared a lot of costly and unnecessary litigation, and it spared Congress the shock it would have received from the American people if we had allowed the word "spouse" to mean something it had never meant before.

As my colleagues know, the White House has said that the President will sign this bill if "presented to him as currently written." The U.S. Department of Justice says that it expects the bill will "be sustained as constitutional if challenged in court."

Enactment of this bill will allow States to give full and fair consideration of how they wish to address the issue of same-sex marriages instead of rushing to legislate because of fear that another State's laws may be imposed upon them. It will also eliminate legal uncertainty concerning Federal benefits and make it clear what is meant when the words "marriage" and "spouse" are used in the Federal Code.

This effort reaffirms current practice and current policy. The fact that some may even consider this legislation controversial should make the average American stop and take stock of where we are as a country and where we want to go.

This legislation is important. It is about defense of marriage as an institution and as the backbone of the American family. I urge my colleagues to join with myself, Senator BYRD, and the other cosponsors in support of the Defense of Marriage Act.

Madam President, one final comment. Some people have stated incorrectly that this bill would ban same-sex marriages. They are incorrect. This bill does not ban same-sex marriages. It says one State doesn't have to recognize another State should they legalize same-sex marriages. Big difference; a big difference. If one State wishes to legalize same-sex marriages, say, the State of Maryland, Massachusetts or any other State, they can certainly do so, and this legislation would not prohibit it.

What this legislation would do is say they would not have to recognize same-sex marriages if some other State should enact it. I think it is an important distinction.

Also, it says for Federal benefits and Federal benefits purposes, we define marriage as legal union between male and female, and we define spouse as a member of the opposite sex.

It is very simple, very plain common sense. It should become law. I am pleased the House of Representatives passed it by a 5-to-1 margin, bipartisan support in the House of Representatives. I likewise hope later this afternoon our Senate colleagues will pass it with an overwhelming margin as well.

I yield the floor.

Ms. MOSELEY-BRAUN addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Illinois.

Ms. MOSELEY-BRAUN. Madam President, at the outset, I ask everyone listening to this debate to note that the Federal Government has yet to issue a marriage license. That is not within our purview. It is not something the Federal Government does. Yet, in this instance, with the so-called Defense of Marriage Act, we are moving into the marriage business unilaterally in order to prohibit the approval by one State of another State's decision to recognize a particular marital or domestic arrangement.

The Defense of Marriage Act—and I want to quote the act—will amend the U.S. Constitution's full faith and credit clause by authorizing any State choosing to do so to deny all effect to any public act, record, or judicial proceeding by which another State either recognizes such marriages as valid and binding, or treats such marriages as giving rise to any right or claim under the laws.

In other words, this legislation says if one State decides to accept a domestic arrangement that another State does not already have, that other State can prohibit or deny the recognition of such domestic relation arrangement by the State.

Many top scholars believe this provision of the bill is unconstitutional. Our Constitution, the U.S. Constitution, states:

Full Faith and Credit shall be given in each State to the public Acts, Records, and judicial Proceedings of every other State. And the Congress may by general Laws prescribe the manner in which such Acts, Records, and Proceedings shall be proved, and the Effect thereof.

The first sentence of that clause of our Constitution is very clear: Every State is required to recognize the official public acts and judicial proceedings of other States. As was stated by the Supreme Court in Williams versus North Carolina, the very purpose of the full faith and credit clause was to alter the status of the several states as independent foreign sovereignties, each free to ignore the obligations created under the laws or by the judicial proceedings of the others, and to make them integral parts of a single nation."

Professor Tribe of Harvard, a noted constitutional law scholar, states further, in regard to this issue, that Congress possesses no power under any provision of the Constitution to legislate any such categorical exemption from the Full Faith and Credit Clause of article IV. For Congress to enact such an exemption—whether for same-sex marriages or for any other substantially defined category of public acts, records, or proceedings—would entail exercise by Congress of a "power not delegated to it by the United States Constitution"—a power therefore "reserved to the States" under the tenth amendment to the Constitution.

He goes on to state that "the proposed measure"—the domestic relations act, DOMA,

... the proposed measure would create a precedent dangerous to the very idea of a United States of America. For if Congress may exempt same-sex marriage from full faith and credit, then Congress may also exempt from the mandate of the Full Faith and Credit Clause whatever category of judgments—including not only decrees affecting family structure but also specified types of commercial judgments—a majority of the House and Senate might wish to license States to nullify such contracts as their option. Such purported authority to dismantle the national unifying shield of article IV's Full Faith and Credit Clause, far from protecting States' rights, would destroy one of the Constitution's core guarantees that the United States of America will remain a union of equal sovereigns, that no law, not even one favored by a great majority of the States, can ever reduce any single State's official acts, on any subject, to second-class status; and, most basic of all, that there will be no ad hoc exceptions to the constitutional axiom, reflected in the tenth amendment's unambiguous language, that ours is a national Government whose powers are limited to those enumerated in the Constitution itself.

Professor Tribe essentially makes the point that this is not only not the Federal Government's business, but it is an assault at the very core of the national unity that we have enjoyed.

One of the real strengths of our system is that the Federal Government has limited powers, derived from the people, and those powers not explicitly given the Government are retained by the people and by the States. Our Constitution was and is as much about preventing the erosion of our liberties by Government as it is about setting up and implementing the processes of Government.

This bill, the Defense of Marriage Act, moved through the House of Representatives faster than any part of the contract on America. In fact, based on the level of rhetoric from some Members of Congress, you would think that our principal responsibility lies in the issuing of marriage licenses, and getting involved in domestic relations. That, Madam President, I think, suggests that the real objective of this legislation is not about legislating in the appropriate way for this Congress.

The second provision of the act further demonstrates that the Defense of Marriage Act is all about the politics of fear and division and about inciting people in an area that is admittedly controversial. The act would amend chapter 1 of title I by adding the following language:

In determining the meaning of any Act of Congress, or of any ruling, regulation, or interpretation of the various administrative bureaus and agencies of the United States, the word "marriage" means only a legal union between one man and one woman as husband and wife, and the word "spouse" refers only to a person of the opposite sex who is a husband or a wife.

Madam President, you may want to consider, that it was not very many years ago that 16 States in our country prevented marriage between the races, interracial marriage. In fact, in some States it was called miscegenation. It was not until 1967 that the U.S. Supreme Court outlawed State miscegenation statutes. When that case was argued before the Supreme Court, the attorney general of Virginia seriously argued that the Virginia statute passed constitutional muster because both the white partner and the minority partner were subject to the same criminal penalty.

That kind of statutory restriction, Madam President, on people's ability to make a commitment to one another may seem unbelievable today, but it was a reality of life in this country not too many decades ago. Fortunately, our Supreme Court ultimately saw how inconsistent these statutes were to core American principles and declared them all unconstitutional. Just as importantly, the Supreme Court decision is no longer a matter of intense controversy; most Americans have come to understand just how unfair those State statutes were.

I point out, Madam President, I grew up, I would imagine the Presiding Officer also grew up at a time in our country when these statutes existed, and in fact I had the occasion to have a relative in my family married to a person who was not African American, who was white, and their marriage was illegal in half the States of this country. As a child, that did not make any sense to me. How was it that a State could decide that two people could not decide to make a domestic arrangement that they wanted to make? It did not make any sense to me then. The Supreme Court subsequently acted, and here we are faced with the exact same arguments, the very same arguments being made against domestic relations of another order. When two people decide to come together, it seems to me it should be a matter for them, their conscience, their God, and indeed that it, indeed, is inappropriate for this U.S. Congress to intervene in that decisionmaking.

As Dr. King stated so eloquently years ago, our Declaration of Independence was not just a matter of rhetoric and not an exercise in hypocrisy and not just words trotted out on suitable patriotic occasions, and then ignored while we all go about the business of real life. Dr. King knew that our Declaration of Independence was indeed a "declaration of intent," and that our history has been a history of making progress, albeit sometimes in fits and starts, but making progress toward full implementation of those American values for all of us.

In our system, the Constitution protects our freedoms and prevents Government from taking those freedoms away. At the same time, the genius of the system is that, at its best, it brings us together to expand opportunity and to expand freedom. Gay and lesbian Americans, however, do not yet fully enjoy the equal protection of the laws promised to every American by the 14th amendment. And this legislation, it seems to me, is a step in the absolute opposite direction of extending the equal protection of the laws to Americans without regard to their sexual orientation, just as we moved so fitfully in this country to extend those protections to Americans without regard to their race.

It seems to me, Madam President, that if we examine the history, it will show the fundamental truth of the notion that this Congress should be involved in expanding, and not restricting, individual liberty, that we should not involve the Federal Government in decisions that will restrict liberty, indeed, if anything, we should involve our Government in providing people with opportunities to contribute to the total of our society to the maximum extent of their ability and to be whoever they are within the context of this society.

That, indeed, is what freedom, that, indeed, is what the whole constitutional framework is about in this country, as I understand it, and as many people understand it who hold sacred the promise of freedom and independence that this declaration gives us. Strides have been made, Madam President, to provide gay and lesbian Americans the equal protection of the laws, but DOMA is a retreat from that goal.

Finally, Madam President, I point out to anyone who is listening to the debate, not only the divisive nature of the debate which, of course, becomes pretty apparent, but the fact that it is almost curious that the very people who argue against the Federal Government as an activist Federal Government, the very people who argue in favor of smaller Government, have absolutely no compunction about encouraging the Federal Government to expand its activism, to expand its role, and expand its intrusiveness into our everyday lives when it comes to their own agenda. If the agenda has to do with restricting liberty, it is OK to have an expanded Federal role. When the agenda relates to encouraging expanding opportunity, then that is when they cry foul and argue we should have smaller Government.

Indeed, this legislation represents just the opposite of smaller Government. It represents an intrusion by the Federal Government in areas that we have never trod before. It represents a decimation of a concept of a United States of America by striking at the heart of the full faith and credit clause which binds us together, and it tears us apart as Americans, and it sets up a point of controversy between and among the States that ought not be here.

I hope that every person on this floor and every person who is going to look at and vote on this bill considers for a moment what the judgment of history might be, if 50 years from now their grandchildren look at their debate and look at their words in support of this mean-spirited legislation, and consider the judgment that will be cast upon them then.

I had for a moment thought to bring to this floor some of the floor debate and some of the debate that happened during the civil rights era when the very same arguments that are being made in favor of this legislation were made in favor of keeping African Americans in second class citizenship in this country. Those arguments ultimately failed. And as Dr. King pointed out, he said, "The arc of history is long, but it bends towards justice."

I hope that we will not contribute to the retarding of that arc in the direction of justice, that we will all recognize that this is an inappropriate legislative activity by the Federal Government, and that we leave it up to the States in their wisdom to decide what kind of domestic relations arrangements they will or will not allow, and that we allow, in the final analysis, for the opportunity of every American to enjoy the same protections under the law as every other American and that we do not single out gay and lesbian Americans for second class status and as second class citizens by legislation labeled specifically to their domestic relations when we have never legislated in that area before in this body. On that point, Madam President, I yield the floor.

Mr. GRAMM addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Texas.

Mr. GRAMM. Madam President, I rise in support of the Defense of Marriage Act. My objective this morning is to, No. 1, define what it is that we are here to protect, and No. 2, to define constitutionally what this issue is all about, because I sense that there is a great deal of misunderstanding in the country as to what we are trying to do.

I will talk very briefly about the Hawaii case and why we are here dealing with this issue. I would like to talk about its potential impact on other States, such as my State, Texas and then I would like to talk about a secondary, but nonetheless important, issue: the economic ramifications of what we are doing.

Let me be the first to say that the traditional family has stood for 5,000 years. There is no moment in recorded history when the traditional family was not recognized and sanctioned by a civilized society—it is the oldest institution that exists. The traditional family is found in the oldest writings of mankind, and is an institution which people decided was so important for happiness and progress that it was worth singling out and was worth giving special status above all other contracts in terms of a relationship among people.

So when some question what, 50 years from now, we are going to think about those are defending the traditional family today, I would just remind them that the traditional family has stood as the seminal institution which has formed the foundation for civilized society for some 5,000 years. While I am confident that there will be Senators debating other issues 50 years from now, I am even more confident that if, at that time, our society is one which we treasure and one which we admire and love, then it will be a society which respects and recognizes the special status of the traditional family.

We are here today because the traditional family is important to America. Further, it has always been important to civilization. Our Founders recognize that, and they set out a procedure in the Constitution which is as clear as any procedure could be as to what is Congress' role in this matter.

Let me begin by referring you to article IV, section 1, of the Constitution.

Article IV, section 1 says: "Full faith and credit shall be given in each State to the public Acts, Records, and judicial Proceedings of every other State. And the Congress may by general Laws prescribe the Manner in which such Acts, Records, and Proceedings shall be proved, and the Effect thereof."

In other words, article IV, section 1 of the Constitution requires States to recognize the contracts, the judicial proceedings, and the public records of every other State. Obviously, at the top of this list would be marriages. But it specifically gives Congress the power to prescribe under what circumstances such recognition will occur.

My first point is, those who say Congress has no role in this issue need only read the second sentence of article IV, section 1 of the Constitution to see that Congress has the only role in prescribing the circumstance under which one State must recognize a marriage that occurs in another State. We are here today doing exactly what the Founding Fathers prescribed in the Constitution that we should do.

Now, where did this issue come from? Well, its roots come from the fact that the Hawaiian constitution outlaws discrimination based on sex—basically, they have an equal rights amendment. In 1991, three different groups of people argued that they, in trying to engage in a same-sex marriage, were being discriminated against on the basis of sex, and that this violated the equal rights amendment written into the constitution of Hawaii. Essentially, their argument was that when two women or two men are denied a marriage license, one of them is being discriminated against based on the fact that they are of the same sex as the other person applying for the license. This is the foundation of the current judicial proceedings in Hawaii.

The Supreme Court in Hawaii ruled on this equal rights argument and sent the case back to the lower court, with the instructions that the lower court, in order to deny these three groups of people a marriage license, had to show that the State had an overriding interest in this issue. Now, obviously, we are hopeful such a case can be made and that the ruling will be in favor of preserving the special union between a man and a woman which forms the foundation of our traditional family.

The point is if the Hawaii court rules under the equal rights amendment of the Hawaii constitution—a provision that is not in the U.S. Constitution, though it was long debated as a potential addition—if the court rules in favor of single-sex marriages on the basis of sex discrimination, a failure to pass the Defense of Marriage Act here today will require the State of Texas, the State of Kansas, and every other State in the Union to recognize and give full faith and credit to single-sex marriages which occur in Hawaii.

There are those who say this is not a congressional matter, that it should be left up to the courts, but if this is left up to the courts, under article IV, section 1 of the U.S. Constitution, they will have no choice except to impose same-sex marriages on Texas, so long as they are sanctioned by Hawaii.

The Constitution allows Congress—in fact, gives us the responsibility—to prescribe the manner in which such acts, records, and proceedings shall be proved and the effect thereof. What we are doing today in this bill is saying three things: No. 1, we are saying that there can be no question, as far as Federal law is concerned, that States have the right to ban same-sex marriages.

No. 2, we are saying that marriage is defined as a union between a man and a woman, and, therefore, with regard to the requirements of the full faith and credit clause, no matter what happens in Hawaii or any other State, no other State will be required to recognize a same-sex marriage as a traditional marriage.

Finally, we are saying that the Federal Government, itself, will recognize only marriages that occur between a man and a woman.

Now, let me talk very briefly about the economic ramifications of this. Speaking as a person who used to practice economics, when compared to the power of the family as the foundation of our civilization and our culture, dollars and cents—in this context—are not terribly important. But, as a secondary issue, they are important, and let me explain where.

A failure to pass this bill, if the Hawaii court rules in favor of same-sex marriages, will create, through the full faith and credit provision of the Constitution, a whole group of new beneficiaries—no one knows what the number would be—tens of thousands, hundreds of thousands, potentially more—who will be beneficiaries of newly created survivor benefits under Social Security, Federal retirement plans, and military retirement plans. It will trigger a whole group of new benefits under Federal health plans. And not only will it trigger these benefits for the Federal Government, but under the full faith and credit provision of the Constitution, it will impose—through teacher retirement plans, State retirement plans, State medical plans, and even railroad retirement plans—a whole new set of benefits and expenses which have not been planned or budgeted for under current law.

So here are the issues in very simple fashion: No. 1, is there anything unique about the traditional family? For every moment of recorded history, we have said yes. In every major religion in history, from the early Greek myths of the "Iliad" and the "Odyssey" to the oldest writings of the Bible to the oldest teachings of civilization, governments have recognized the traditional family as the foundation of prosperity and happiness, and in democratic societies, as the foundation of freedom. Human beings have always given traditional marriage a special sanction. Not that there cannot be contracts among individuals, but there is something unique about the traditional family in terms of what it does for our society and the foundation it provides—this is something that every civilized society in 5,000 years of recorded history has recognized. Are we so wise today that we are ready to reject 5,000 years of recorded history? I do not think so. I think that even the greatest society in the history of the world—which we have here today in the United States of America—that even a society as great as our own trifles with the traditional family at great peril to itself.

I intend to vote for the Defense of Marriage Act today because I want to defend, protect, and even perpetuate this historical recognition of the traditional family as the foundation for society. I believe the Federal Government is given clear a role in this debate by article IV, section 1 of the Constitution, which allows Congress to prescribe the manner in which such acts, records, and proceedings shall be proved and the effect thereof. To fail to exercise our constitutional responsibility would mean that States which would not otherwise choose to recognize same-sex marriages would be forced to do so, if in this case Hawaii grants that recognition.

To say that we should stay out of this issue is to simply endorse same-sex marriages. I believe that we have an obligation to act. I believe this is a very clear, defining issue and I think it is one of those issues where it ought to be very clear where everybody stands. I stand with the traditional family. I do not believe 5,000 years of recorded history have been in error. I believe the traditional family—the union of a man and a woman, upon which our entire civilization is based—is unique, and I believe it is the foundation of our prosperity, our freedom, and our happiness. I want to defend this and I am confident that we will do so on this very day.

I yield the floor.

Mr. KERRY addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Massachusetts [Mr. KERRY] is recognized.

Mr. KERRY. Madam President, I will not need much more than 10 minutes or so.

Mr. KENNEDY. I think if you can do it in 10 minutes, that would be all right.

I yield 10 minutes to the Senator from Massachusetts.

Mr. KERRY. Madam President, I listened to my colleague, the Senator from Texas—and we will hear from others on this floor—talk about the need to defend marriages and to affirm a traditional marriage and to assert that this vote is somehow a vote that will define who is for traditional marriage and who is not.

Well, I don't agree with that definition of what this vote is about, and I do not want my feelings about, or opinions about, marriage or traditional marriage to be somehow tailored by political definitions. I am not for same-sex marriage. I have said that publicly. I would not vote for same-sex marriage.

I do not believe that this vote is specifically about defending marriage in America. I am going to vote against this bill. I will vote against this bill, though I am not for same-sex marriage, because I believe that this debate is fundamentally ugly, and it is fundamentally political, and it is fundamentally flawed.

The Defense of Marriage Act declares today on the floor of the Senate what most Americans think is pretty obvious. It declares what no State has adopted to the contrary, and won't, I imagine, for some time. In fact, the trend among States is to the contrary, no State withstanding that trend. Therefore, I suppose we really should not be surprised that the U.S. Senate is spending its time in an exercise of this kind, which ought to properly feed the cynicism that already attaches to so much of what we do in Washington.

The truth that we know, which today's exercise ignores, is that marriages fall apart in the United States, not because men and women are under siege by a mass movement of men marrying men or women marrying women. Marriages fall apart because men and women don't stay married. The real threat comes from the attitudes of many men and women married to each other and from the relationships of people in the opposite sex, not the same sex. Yet, this legislation is directed at something that has not happened and which needs no Federal intervention.

Obviously, the results of this bill will not be to preserve anything, but will serve to attack a group of people out of various motives and rationales, and certainly out of a lack of understanding and a lack of tolerance, and will only serve the purposes of the political season.

If this were truly a defense of marriage act, it would expand the learning experience for would-be husbands and wives. It would provide for counseling for all troubled marriages, not just for those who can afford it. It would provide treatment on demand for those with alcohol and substance abuse, or with the pernicious and endless invasions of their own abuse as children that they never break away from. It would expand the Violence Against Women Act. It would guarantee day care for every family that struggles and needs it. It would expand the curriculum in schools to expose high school students to a greater set of practical life choices. It would guarantee that our children would be able to read when they leave high school. It would expand the opportunity for adoptions. It would expand the protection of abused children. It would help children do things after school other than to go out and perhaps have unwanted teenage pregnancies. It would help augment Boys Clubs and Girls Clubs, YMCA's and YWCA's, school-to-work, and other alternatives so young people can grow into healthy, productive adults and have healthy adult relationships. But we all know the truth. The truth is that mistakes will be made and marriages will fail. But these are ways that we could truly defend marriage in America.

Mr. President, this bill is not necessary. No State has adopted same-sex marriage. We have a judicial question before the court in Hawaii, and it is astonishing to me that the very people who make the loudest and most continuous arguments about Federal mandates and Federal intrusion and leaving the States to their own devices and let the States work their will, before any State in the country has made a choice to do otherwise those very people are leading the charge to have the Federal Government not just intervene, but intervene with a power grab that reaches, unconstitutionally, to do things that you cannot do by statute.

I oppose this legislation because not only is it meant to divide Americans, but it is fundamentally unconstitutional, regardless of what your views are.

DOMA is unconstitutional. There is no single Member of the U.S. Senate who believes that it is within the Senate's power to strip away the word or spirit of a constitutional clause by simple statute.

DOMA would, de facto, add a section to our Constitution's full faith and credit clause, article IV, section 1, to allow the States not to recognize the legal marriage in another State. That is in direct conflict with the very specific understandings interpreted by the Supreme Court of the clause itself.

The clause states—simple words—“Full faith and credit shall be given”—not “may be given,” “shall be given”—“in each State to the public Acts, Records and judicial Proceedings of every other State.” It says:

And the Congress may by general Laws prescribe the Manner in which such Acts, Records and Proceedings shall be proved, and the Effect thereof.

It doesn't say no effect. It doesn't say can nullify. It doesn't say can obviate or avoid. It says it has to show how you merely procedurally prove that the act spoken of has taken place, and if it has taken place, then what is the full effect of that act in giving full faith and credit to that State.

I think any schoolchild could understand that allowing States to not accept the public act of another is the exact opposite of what the Founding Fathers laid forth in the clause itself. Let me repeat:

Full faith and credit shall be given in each State to the public Acts, Records, and judicial Proceedings of every other State.

Now, if we intend to change it—and that is a different vote than having the constitutional process properly adhered to. But it seems to me that what Congress is doing is allowing a State to ignore another State's acts, and every law that Congress has ever passed has invoked the full faith and credit of another State's legislation.

All of these laws share a basic common denominator. They all implement the full faith and credit mandate. They do not restrict it. Not once has it been restricted in that way. For example, the Parental Kidnapping Prevention Act of 1990 provided the States have to enforce child custody determinations made by other States. The Full Faith and Credit for Child Support Orders of 1994 provided that States have to enforce child support determinations made by other States. It did not say you could not do it. It did not say you could avoid it. It did not diminish it. It said you have to enforce it. The Safe Homes for Women Act of 1994 required States to recognize protective orders issued in other States with regard to domestic violence.

Those laws are the products of constitutional exercises of the appropriate congressional law in implementing the full faith and credit clause. The bill before us, a statute, is the exact opposite. It is an extreme unconstitutional attempt to restrict and undermine the basic fundamental approach which helps create the concept of a unified and single nation. Madam President, this bill is not just unconstitutional. It is not just unprecedented.

It is also unnecessary.

Right now, as we speak, there is no rash outbreak among the States to recognize same-sex marriage.

In fact, States—one after another—are moving in the opposite direction. For example, the State of Michigan passed a law which defines marriage as the union between a man and a woman and declares Michigan will not recognize a same-sex marriage conducted in another State.

This bill is a solution in search of a problem.

Madam President, even if the Hawaiian Supreme Court decides to recognize same-sex marriage, Michigan and a dozen other States have spoken against it. Resolving this tension rests squarely with the judicial branch, not the Congress. This is a power grab into States' rights of monumental proportions.

Madam President, it is ironic that many of the arguments for this power grab are echoes of the discussion of interracial marriage a generation ago.

Nearly 30 years ago, this country and this body heard similar arguments against striking State laws criminalizing interracial marriage. And, the issue was resolved by the Supreme Court in the case Loving versus Virginia.

Until the Loving case was decided, many southern States had laws banning interracial marriage. When the Supreme Court ruled that this ban was unconstitutional, one Congressman from Louisiana felt compelled to come to the floor of the Senate and rail against the decision in addition to the nomination of Thurgood Marshall. He said, “this shows how far we are removed from the ideas of our Founding Fathers. The Justices of the Court interpret laws not on the basis of two centuries of wisdom, but rather in line with current social fads and their own personal theories on how to create the perfect society."

But that Congressman was wrong 30 years ago. And, thankfully the Court exhibited wisdom in overturning the ban. What if they had not? Pointedly and poignantly, Leon Higginbotham, Chief Justice Emeritus of the Third U.S. Court of Appeals, answers the question for us. He states that "if the Virginia courts had been sustained by the United States Supreme Court, Clarence Thomas could have been in the penitentiary today rather than serving as an Associate Justice of the Supreme Court."

Madam President, as late as 1981, in the midst of a discrimination case, a U.S. Senator threw his support behind a university which banned interracial dating and marriage. Defending a ban on interracial marriage in the 1980s.

Madam President, DOMA is unconstitutional, unprecedented and unnecessary. Again, I return to the original questions: What is its legislative purpose? What is its motivation? What does passage of this bill mean for the country?

It is hard to believe that this bill is anything other than a thinly veiled attempt to score political debating points by scapegoating gay and lesbian Americans. That is politics at its worst, Mr. President. It is a perfect exemplar of the polarizing issues E.J. Dionne describes in his book, "Why Americans Hate Politics."

In the past few years, legislative attacks on gay people have increased in frequency and scope. Trying to keep gay men and lesbians out of the armed services. Trying to keep AIDS educational materials free of any mention of homosexuality. Trying to take away the children of gay parents.

Certainly the struggle for civil rights is a long one and individual prejudices are difficult to overcome. The great civil rights teacher Martin Luther King observed:

It is pretty difficult to like some people. Like is sentimental and it is pretty difficult to like someone bombing your home; it is pretty difficult to like somebody threatening your children; it is difficult to like congressmen who spend all of their time trying to defeat civil rights. But Jesus says love them, and love is greater than like.

Madam President, that is the ultimate irony. For a bill which purports to defend and regulate marriage, there has been so little talk of love here in this Chamber.

Madam President, as we quickly approach the end of the millennium, the problems facing average Americans and the pressures experienced by the American family are overwhelming—personal debt and bankruptcies are at an all-time high, divorce rates are skyrocketing, schools are crumbling, education costs are astronomical and health care costs continue to rise.

It is clear the Congress should be alleviating the pressures of the American family. That would be the best defense of marriage. If we want to defend marriage, we should be working to change the ugly reality of spousal abuse. We should be redoubling our efforts to eradicate alcohol, drug and other forms of substance abuse. We should acknowledge the pernicious ramifications of abandonment.

And we should commit our collective resources to creating educational opportunities for Americans, to securing health care and to easing the economic burden too many people feel today. We should bring Americans together with common purpose and empower individuals and communities to ease the pressure of today's increasingly complicated everyday life.

This bill does not bring people together. In fact, it does the exact opposite. It divides Americans. It is a stark reminder that all citizens who play by the rules, who pay their taxes and who contribute to the economic, social and political vibrancy of this great melting pot do not have equal rights.

I would have thought that the other side would have learned by now that there is a nasty boomerang effect to the politics of division. It rends the social and political fabric. It divides the country.

I have some experience with divided countries. I fought in one. I have looked into the eyes of hatred, bigotry, ignorance, of raw unbridled passion for conflict. Look to Northern Ireland, look to Bosnia, look to the Middle East—and see the end-product of the politics of division.

Let us stop this division. Let us balance the budget. Let us provide health security and retirement security. Let us protect our environment.

And, most of all, Madam President, let us give everyone a chance for an education. Education is the key to overcoming ignorance, to keeping families together, to providing a glimpse of the American dream. Bolstering education would do more to defend marriage than anything in this bill.

This is an unconstitutional, unprecedented, unnecessary and mean-spirited bill. I urge my colleagues to oppose it. I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator has used the 10 minutes allowed.

Who yields time?

Mr. BYRD addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. CAMPBELL). The Senator from West Virginia.

Mr. BYRD. Do I have control of 45 minutes?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Yes, the Senator does.

Mr. BYRD. I thank the Chair.

Mr. President, I am pleased to join my colleague, the senior Senator from Oklahoma, in cosponsoring the Defense of Marriage Act. Although I am glad to work with Senator NICKLES in this effort, I must admit that, in all of my nearly 44 years in the Congress, I never envisioned that I would see a measure such as the Defense of Marriage Act.

It is incomprehensible to me that federal legislation would be needed to provide a definition of two terms that for thousands of years have been perfectly clear and unquestioned. That we have arrived at a point where the Congress of the United States must actually reaffirm in the statute books something as simple as the definition of "marriage" and "spouse," is almost beyond my grasp. But as the current state of legal affairs has shown, this bill is a necessary endeavor.

Mr. President, there are some who say that the Senate is not dealing with a relevant matter here, that the time has not yet arrived for the Senate to debate this subject. I say the time is now, and this is a relevant matter. Action by the Senate and debate by the Senate are not something that should be delayed and put off until another day.

Let me read from "The Case For Same-Sex Marriage," by William N. Eskridge, Jr.

Now, the author of this treatise supports same-sex marriage. Let me read extracts from the treatise which clearly indicate that this is a matter that is relevant. It is relevant now. Reading from page 46:

Many of the gay marriages have been performed by religious groups formed specifically for the gay, lesbian and bisexual faithful.

The situation is more complicated among mainstream religious denominations. A few are openly supportive of gay marriages or unions. Following a vote on the matter in 1984, the Unitarian Universalist Association now affirms the growing practice of some of its ministers of conducting services of union of gay and lesbian couples and urges member societies to support their ministers in this practice. The Society of Friends leaves all issues to congregational decision and thousands of same-sex marriages have been sanctified in Quaker ceremonies since the 1970's. Other denominations are still studying the issue.

The validity of same-sex marriage has been debated at the national level by the Presbyterian, Episcopal, Lutheran and Methodist churches.

So why not debate it here, Mr. President.

A committee of Episcopal bishops proposed in 1994 that homosexual relationships need and should receive the pastoral care of the church, but the church diluted and downgraded the report. After intense debate also in 1994, the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church USA adopted a resolution that its ministers are not permitted to bless same-sex unions. The Lutheran Church in 1993 debated but did not adopt a report advocating the blessing and legal recognition of same-sex unions. The Methodists followed a similar path in 1992.

The pattern in these denominations has been the following: an individual church will bless a same-sex union or marriage and the ministers and theologians then call for a study of the issue. A report is written that is open to the idea. The report ignites a firestorm of protests from traditionalists in the denomination. The issue is suppressed or rejected at the denominational level. Local churches and theologians again press the issue some years later and the cycle begins again. My guess—

This is the author's guess. It is not my guess. This is a guess by the author.

My guess is that one or more of the foregoing denominations will tilt towards same-sex unions or marriages in the next 5 to 10 years. Even the religions that are most prominently opposed to gay marriages have clergy who perform gay marriage ceremonies. The Roman Catholic Church firmly opposes gay marriage but its celebrated priest, John J. McNeill says that he and many other Catholic clergy have performed same-sex commitment services. Although Father McNeill's position is marginalized within the Catholic Church, it reflects the views of many devout Catholics. Support for same-sex marriage is probably most scarce among Baptists in the South.

The author says this:

You can be assured that same-sex marriage is an issue that has arrived worldwide and that efforts to head it off will only be successful in the short term.

So, Mr. President, to those who say that it is not yet time to debate this issue, let them read from the book, "The Case for Same-Sex Marriage" and hear what an advocate of same-sex marriage says.

You can be assured that same-sex marriage is an issue that has arrived, worldwide, and that efforts to head it off will only be successful in the short term.

The author closes the chapter as follows:

The argument of this book is that Western culture generally, and the United States in particular, ought to and must recognize same-sex marriages.

Therefore, Mr. President, the time is now, the place is here, to debate this issue. It confronts us now. It comes ever nearer.

There are those who say, "Why does the Senate not debate and act upon relevant matters?" This is relevant. And it is relevant today.

In very simple and easy to read language, this bill says that a marriage is the legal union between one man and one woman as husband and wife, and that a spouse is a husband or wife of the opposite sex. There is not, of course, anything earth-shaking in that declaration. We are not breaking any new ground here. We are not setting any new precedent. We are not overturning the status quo in any way, shape or form. On the contrary, all this bill does is reaffirm for purposes of Federal law what is already understood by everyone.

Mr. President, throughout the annals of human experience, in dozens of civilizations and cultures of varying value systems, humanity has discovered that the permanent relationship between men and women is a keystone to the stability, strength, and health of human society—a relationship worthy of legal recognition and judicial protection. The purpose of this kind of union between human beings of opposite gender is primarily for the establishment of a home atmosphere in which a man and a woman pledge themselves exclusively to one another and who bring into being children for the fulfilment of their love for one another and for the greater good of the human community at large.

Obviously, human beings enter into a variety of relationships. Business partnerships, friendships, alliances for mutual benefits, and team memberships all depend upon emotional unions of one degree or another. For that reason, a number of these relationships have found standing under the laws of innumerable nations.

However, in no case, has anyone suggested that these relationships deserve the special recognition or the designation commonly understood as "marriage." The suggestion that relationships between members of the same gender should ever be accorded the status or the designation of marriage flies in the face of the thousands of years of experience about the societal stability that traditional marriage has afforded human civilization. To insist that male-male or female-female relationships must have the same status as the marriage relationship is more than unwise, it is patently absurd.

Out of such relationships children do not result. Of course, children do not always result from marriages as we have traditionally known them. But out of same-sex relationships no children can result. Out of such relationships emotional bonding oftentimes does not take place, and many such relationships do not result in the establishment of "families" as society universally interprets that term. Indeed, as history teaches us too often in the past, when cultures waxed casual about the uniqueness and sanctity of the marriage commitment between men and women, those cultures have been shown to be in decline. This was particularly true in the ancient world in Greece and, more particularly, in Rome. In both Greece and Rome, same-sex relationships were not uncommon, particularly among the upper classes. Plato and Aristotle referred to the existence of such relationships in their writings, as did Plutarch, the Greek biographer.

Homer, the Greek epic poet, in the "Iliad," wrote of the love relationship that existed between Achilles and Patroclus. Homer relates that after Patroclus was slain by Hector, Patroclus appeared to Achilles in a dream saying, "Do not lay my bones apart from yours, Achilles. Let one urn cover my bones with yours, that golden, two-handled urn that your mother so graciously gave you."

As to the Romans, Cicero mentioned casually that a former consul, who was Catiline's lover, approached him on Catiline's behalf. This was undoubtedly during the time of the "Catiline Conspiracy," which took place in the years 63 and 62 A.D.

Suetonius, the Roman biographer, relates that Julius Caesar prostituted his body to be abused by King Nicomedes of Bithynia, and that Curio the Elder, in an oration, called Caesar "a woman for all men and a man for all women."

While same-sex relations were not unknown, therefore, to the ancients, same-sex marriages were a different matter. But they did sometimes involve utilization of the forms and the customs of heterosexual marriage. For example, the Emperor Nero, who reigned between 54 and 68 A.D., took the marriage vows with a young man named Sporus, in a very public ceremony, with a gown and a veil and with all of the solemnities of matrimony, after which Nero took this Sporus with him, carried on a litter, all decked out with ornaments and jewels and the finery normally worn by empresses, and traveled to the resort towns in Greece and Italy, Nero, "many a time, sweetly kissing him."

Juvenal, the Roman satirical poet, wrote concerning a same-sex wedding, by way of a dialog:

"I have a ceremony to attend tomorrow morning."

"What sort of ceremony?"

"Nothing special, just a gentleman friend of mine who is marrying another man and a small group has been invited."

Subsequently in the dialog, "Gracchus has given a dowry of 400 sesterces, signed the marriage tablets, said the blessing, held a great banquet, and the new bride now reclines on his husband's lap."

Juvenal looked upon such marriages disapprovingly, and as an example that should not be followed.

Mr. President, the marriage bond as recognized in the Judeo-Christian tradition, as well as in the legal codes of the world's most advanced societies, is the cornerstone on which the society itself depends for its moral and spiritual regeneration as that culture is handed down, father to son and mother to daughter.

Indeed, thousands of years of Judeo-Christian teachings leave absolutely no doubt as to the sanctity, purpose, and reason for the union of man and woman. One has only to turn to the Old Testament and read the word of God to understand how eternal is the true definition of marriage.

Mr. President, I am rapidly approaching my 79th birthday, and I hold in my hands a Bible, the Bible that was in my home when I was a child. This is the Bible that was read to me by my foster father. It is a Bible, the cover of which having been torn and worn, has been replaced. But this is the Bible, the King James Bible. And here is what it says in the first chapter of Genesis, 27th and 28th verses:

So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them.

And God blessed them, and God said unto them, Be fruitful, and multiply, and replenish the earth . . .

And when God used the word "multiply," he wasn't talking about multiplying your stocks, bonds, your bank accounts or your cattle on a thousand hills or your race horses or your acreages of land. He was talking about procreation, multiplying, populating the Earth.

And after the flood, when the only humans who were left on the globe were Noah and his wife and his sons and their wives, the Bible says in chapter 9 of Genesis:

And God blessed Noah and his sons, and said unto them, Be fruitful, and multiply, and replenish the earth.

Christians also look at the Gospel of Saint Mark, chapter 10, which states:

But from the beginning of the creation God made them male and female.

For this cause shall a man leave his father and mother, and cleave to his wife;

And they twain shall be one flesh: so then they are no more twain, but one flesh.

What therefore God hath joined together, let not man put asunder.

Woe betide that society, Mr. President, that fails to honor that heritage and begins to blur that tradition which was laid down by the Creator in the beginning.

Moreover, the drive being spearheaded by a small segment of today's culture reflects a demand for "political correctness" gone berserk. I think of Muzzey, who wrote the American history text that I studied in 1927, 1928, 1929, who said in the very first sentence, "America is the child of Europe." Now, Muzzey would have been hooted out of town for being "politically incorrect" in having said that. But that was nothing as compared with this.

This reflects a demand for political correctness that has gone berserk. We live in an era in which tolerance has progressed beyond a mere call for acceptance and crossed over to become a demand for the rest of us to give up beliefs that we revere and hold most dear in order to prove our collective purity. At some point, a line must be drawn by rational men and women who are willing to say, "Enough!"

Certainly in today's far too permissive world, traditional marriage as an institution is struggling. Divorce is far too frequent, as are male and female relationships which do not end in marriage. Certainly we do not want to launch a further assault on the institution of marriage by blurring its definition in this unwise way.

The drive for the acceptance of same-sex or same-gender "marriage" should serve for us as an indication that we have drawn too close to the edge and that we as a people are on the verge of trying so hard to please a few that we destroy the values and the spiritual beliefs of the many. Moreover, to seek the codification of same-sex marriage into our national or State legal codes is to make a mockery of those codes themselves. Many legal scholars believe that only after a majority of society comes to a consensus on the legality or illegality of one issue or another should that issue be written down in our legal institutions. The drive for same-sex marriage is, in effect, an effort to make a sneak attack on society by encoding this aberrant behavior in legal form before society itself has decided it should be legal—a proposition which is far in the distance, if ever to be realized.

Mr. President, I have heard arguments to the effect that the bill may be unconstitutional. I totally disagree with that.

Insofar as the proposal would relate to State recognition of same-sex marriages contracted in other States, Congress is empowered by the full faith and credit clause, article IV, section 1 of the Constitution, to enact "general Laws prescrib[ing] the Manner" in which such Acts of other States "shall be proved, and the Effect thereof."

Congress has from the beginning placed on the books implementing legislation, and it has in recent years enacted more limited statutes relating to child support and custody.

Opponents of the present bill argue that while Congress has authority to pass laws that enable acts, judgments and the like to be given effect in other States, it has no constitutional power to pass a law permitting States to deny full faith and credit to another State's laws and judgment. There is no judicial precedent one way or another on this issue, but it is not at all clear why a general empowering of Congress to "prescribe * * * the effect" of public acts does not give it discretion to define the "effect" so that a particular public act is not due full faith and credit. The plain reading of the clause would seem to encompass both expansion and contraction.

However, the argument con and the response assumes that the full faith and credit clause would obligate States to recognize same-sex marriages contracted in States in which they are authorized. This conclusion is far from evident. It is clear that the clause mandates recognition by other States of the judgments of the courts with jurisdiction in another State. But controversy has always attended consideration of the question of what the clause obligates States to do with respect to the "public acts" of other States. The judicial decisions are mixed, but "public acts" have never been accorded the same recognition as judicial judgments. States have generally been recognized to have the discretion to refuse cognizance of "public acts" that are contrary to their own public policy. Thus, in prescribing the "effect" on States of State laws that permit or authorize same-sex marriages, Congress may be deemed to be exercising authority under the full faith and credit clause to settle an issue not definitive within the clause itself.

The actual policy of the States in recognizing marriages contracted in other States to persons who would not be permitted to marry in the State in which the issue arises is mixed. The general tendency, based on comity rather than on compulsion under the full faith and credit clause, is to recognize marriages contracted in other States even though they could not have been celebrated in the recognizing State. The trend in such promulgations as the Restatement (Second) of Conflicts of Laws and the Uniform Marriage and Divorce Act was to recognize marriages everywhere if they were legal where contracted. But a "public policy" exception has been asserted, and, recently, as the Hawaii litigation has proceeded, several States have enacted laws declaring recognition of same-sex marriages to be contrary to the public policy of those States.

Thus, it cannot be said that Congress would be contracting a right heretofore clearly prescribed by the full faith and credit clause.

There are constitutional constraints upon Federal legislation. The relevant one to be considered is the equal protection clause and the effect of the Supreme Court's decision in Romer versus Evans. Struck down under the equal protection clause was a referendum-adopted provision of the Colorado constitution, which repealed local ordinances that provided civil rights protections for gay persons and which prohibited all legislative, executive or judicial action at any level of State or local government if that action was designed to protect homosexuals. The Court held that under the equal protection clause, legislation adverse to homosexuals was to be scrutinized under a "rational basis" standard of review. The classification failed to pass this review, because it imposed a special disability on homosexuals not visited on any other class of people and it could not be justified by any of the arguments made by the State.

The impact of the case, and in other areas of governmental action adversely affecting gays, cannot be clearly discerned. Despite the Court's use of the rational basis standard, the opinion appears to view with skepticism the differential treatment of homosexuals as a class. At the least, we can say that the case requires the DOMA, if it becomes law, to be evaluated under the equal protection clause. That evaluation need not be fatal to the law. The proposal does adversely classify homosexuals as a class in defining what status, under the full faith and credit clause, States must accord.

The law would not preclude any State from recognizing such marriages. The Colorado amendment fell, not solely because of its differential classification but because the Court concluded, first, that the law was intended to affect adversely homosexuals as a class, and, second, that no rational basis could be asserted for the adverse treatment.

The proposal has been presented as one that would protect federalism interests and State sovereignty in the area of domestic relations, historically a subject of almost exclusive State concern. It is presented as a measure that permits, but does not require, States to deny recognition to same-sex marriages contracted in other States, affording States with strong public policy concerns the discretion to effectuate that policy. Thus, while the proposal adversely affects homosexuals as a class, it can be argued that it is grounded not in hostility to homosexuals, not in a legislative decision to target homosexuals because of their homosexuality, but to afford the States the discretion to act as their public policy on same-sex marriages dictates.

So, Mr. President, I am not here today to blast anyone. I am not here today to lash out at anybody. I am not here today to attack anybody. I am here saying that we need to recognize this age-old institution of marriage for what it is, what it always has been under the Judeo-Christian concepts of human experience—the marriage union of male and female.

On a more pragmatic level although no less important, this bill also addresses concerns with respect to the matter of Federal benefits. As I am sure my colleagues are aware, although many other Americans may not be, the Federal Government extends certain benefits and privileges to persons who are married, but in almost all cases those benefits are given on the basis of a State's definition of "marriage." In almost all cases at the Federal level, there is simply no definition of the terms "marriage" or "spouse."

Indeed, the word "marriage" appears in more than 800 sections of the Federal statutes and regulations, while the word "spouse" appears more than 3,100 times. And, as I have said, in all but a minute number of those instances—namely, the Family and Medical Leave Act—those terms are simply not defined. Until now, of course, there has never been a need to define them. Until now. That is why to debate this issue is relevant.

As I say, in debating the issue, I am not here to bash anyone. I am not here to bash anyone's personal beliefs. But if the State of Hawaii, or any other State, for that matter, redefines those terms, then what will happen at the Federal level? Who knows, for example, what the Social Security Administration is supposed to do when a so-called "spouse" of a same-sex marriage walks in and attempts to collect survivors benefits under the Social Security program? What is the Social Security clerk to say? Without a Federal definition—and that is what we are attempting to accomplish here—without a Federal definition of something that has been previously undefined, every department and every agency of the Federal Government that administers public benefit programs would be left in the lurch. We shall have sown the dragon's teeth!

Moreover, I urge my colleagues to think of the potential cost involved here. How much is it going to cost the Federal Government if the definition of "spouse" is changed? It is not a matter of irrelevancy at all. It is not a matter of attacking anyone's personal beliefs or personal activity. That is not my purpose here. What is the added cost in Medicare and Medicaid benefits if a new meaning is suddenly given to these terms? I know I do not have any reliable estimates of what such a change would mean, but then, I do not know of anyone who does. That is the point—nobody knows for sure. I do not think, though, that it is inconceivable that the costs associated with such a change could amount to hundreds of millions of dollars, if not billions—if not billions—of Federal taxpayer dollars.

Mr. President, for these reasons and others named by the opponents of same-sex or gender marriage, I hope that our colleagues here in the Senate will demonstrate their thorough opposition to efforts to subvert the traditional definition of "marriage" by going on record today against this very unnecessary idea.

Let us make clear that in our generation, at least, we understand the meaning and purpose of marriage and that we affirm our trust in the divine approbation—you do not have to be a preacher to say this; I am not a prophet or the son of a prophet; I am not a preacher or the son of a preacher; one does not have to be a prophet or a preacher—to affirm our trust in the divine approbation of union between a man and a woman, between a male and female for all time.

Mr. President, 41 years ago I was traveling with a House subcommittee of the Committee on Foreign Affairs. I visited the city of Baghdad, the city of the Arabian Nights, where Ali Baba followed the 40 thieves through the streets, and from which Sinbad the Sailor departed on his journey to the magnetic mountain.

I asked an old Arab guide to take me down to the old Biblical city of Babylon, where one of the famous seven wonders of the world, the hanging gardens, was created. As I reached the old city of Babylon I stood on the banks of the Euphrates River, that old river that is first mentioned in the Book of Genesis, which like a thread runs through the entire Bible, the Old Testament and the New, and is mentioned again in the Book of Revelation.

I stood on the site, or at least I was told I was standing on the site of where Belshazzar, the son of Nebuchadnezzar, held a great feast for 1,000 of his lords. Belshazzar took the cups that had been stolen from the temple by Nebuchadnezzar. He and his wife and concubines and his colleagues drank from those vessels, and Belshazzar saw the hand of a man writing on the plaster of the wall, over near the candlestick, and the hand wrote "me'ne, me'ne, te'kel, uphar'sin" and the countenance of Belshazzar changed, his knees buckled, and his legs trembled beneath him. He called in his astrologers and soothsayers and magicians and said, "Tell me what that writing means," but they were mystified. They could not interpret the writing. Then the queen told Belshazzar that there was a man in the kingdom who could interpret that writing. So, Daniel was brought before the king and told by the king that he, Daniel, would be clothed in scarlet with a golden chain around his neck, and that he would become a third partner in the kingdom if he could interpret that writing. Daniel interpreted the writing:

God hath numbered thy kingdom and finished it. Thou art weighed in the balances and art found wanting. Thy kingdom is divided and given to the Medes and Persians.

That night Belshazzar was slain by Darius the Median, and his kingdom was divided.

Mr. President, America is being weighed in the balances. If same-sex marriage is accepted, the announcement will be official, America will have said that children do not need a mother and a father, two mothers or two fathers will be just as good.

This would be a catastrophe. Much of America has lost its moorings. Norms no longer exist. We have lost our way with a speed that is awesome. What took thousands of years to build is being dismantled in a generation.

I say to my colleagues, let us take our stand. The time is now. The subject is relevant. Let us defend the oldest institution, the institution of marriage between male and female, as set forth in the Holy Bible. Else we, too, will be weighed in the balances and found wanting.

I thank all Senators and I yield the floor.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, I wish to thank Senator BYRD for that statement and also for cosponsoring this legislation, and for the outstanding research that he did, putting it in a historical perspective, as well. I think his statement was very well made and I very much appreciate his assistance in passing this legislation today.

Mr. KENNEDY. I yield 10 minutes to the Senator from California.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from California [Mrs. BOXER] has 10 minutes.

Mrs. BOXER. Thank you, Mr. President. Mr. President, yesterday I spoke about my views on discrimination in the workplace and on this Defense of Marriage Act. Today I summarize those remarks, as we head toward a vote on both of these bills.

First, I want to say I am proud of many of the companies in this country who have endorsed ENDA, which would stop workplace discrimination against gays and lesbians, and I urge my colleagues to join such blue chip companies as AT&T, Eastman Kodak, Genentech, Silicon Graphics, and Xerox, in supporting ENDA.

Now, there is a much longer list that I put into the RECORD yesterday, Mr. President, and I noted that many of those companies are based in California and they practice a policy of not discriminating. After all, what we are talking about here is individual performance, and one's sexual orientation should have nothing to do with that. If someone is qualified and does a good job, they should not be discriminated against for any reason, including sexual orientation. I know that most of us in this body in our own offices practice nondiscrimination, so it seems to be quite an easy thing to do. I am very hopeful we can pass ENDA.

On the Defense of Marriage Act, I want to point out once again that this act, in my opinion, has nothing to do with defending marriage. As one who has been married for many years to the same person, I can truly say if we want to defend marriage, we should be discussing ways that truly help lift the strains and stresses on marriage. We all know what those are. We all know the financial strains and stresses on marriage.

As a matter of fact, when I heard that we were going to be discussing a bill called the Defense of Marriage Act, I was looking forward to seeing what it was because I honestly thought because it is called the Defense of Marriage Act that it would be doing something to help us defend marriage in this country. One in two marriages does end in divorce in this country, and in many cases they are tragic endings—tragic for the partners, tragic for the children, tragic for the extended families—and there are things that we could do, such things as paycheck security, Mr. President. Such things as pension security. Such things that the Senator from Connecticut brought to us in terms of the Parental Leave Act, which the President supports.

We ought to be looking at ways to give that additional 24 hours to working families so they can spend more time if their child needs them at a school appointment or some special doctor's appoint. These are the kinds of things we ought to be looking at. These are the kind of things that would defend marriage, defend families. I do not think this Defense of Marriage Act is about any of that.

I do think, however, it is about something else. I believe it is about hurting a whole group of people for absolutely no reason whatsoever. Not one group in this country that fights for fairness for gays and lesbians has asked us to legalize gay marriage here in the U.S. Senate. Not one Member of the House or Senate is proposing a bill that would legalize gay marriage or give benefits to domestic partners. Not one State in the Union has recognized gay marriage at all. As a matter of fact, many have absolutely said "no" to gay marriage.

So here we have a situation where we are watching a preemptive strike on a proposal that doesn't exist. Yes, there is a court that is looking at the subject in Hawaii, but that decision is many years away, according to legal scholars.

I ask unanimous consent to have printed in the RECORD pages 44 and 45 of the hearing on the Judiciary, where you have legal scholars telling us, in fact, that States will not have to recognize other States' gay marriages, if they so choose.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

EXCERPT FROM THE SENATE JUDICIARY COMMITTEE HEARING ON THE DEFENSE OF MARRIAGE ACT, JULY 11, 1996

I am pleased to have the opportunity to speak to you today on S. 1740, the proposed Defense of Marriage Act. I will not address the issues of policy that are raised by S. 1740. Instead I will be speaking only to the constitutional issues, which are novel, complex, and somewhat technical.¹ Because of the novelty and complexity of the issues, any judgments on the constitutional issues must be at least a bit tentative.

To summarize my view: S. 1740 is unprecedented in our nation's history; it is probably either pointless or unconstitutional; and while the constitutional issues are far from simple, it is safe to say that S. 1740 is a constitutionally ill-advised intrusion into a problem handled at the state level.

S. 1740 responds to an old problem, not a new one, and that problem—diverse state laws about marriage has been settled for a long time without national intervention. Thus there is a reasonable view that S. 1740 is pointless; it adds nothing to current law. If S. 1740 is not pointless—if states must give full faith and credit to the relevant marriages—S. 1740 may well be unconstitutional. In the nation's history, Congress has never declared that marriages in one state may not be recognized in another; it has not done this for polygamous marriages, marriages among minors, incestuous marriages, or bigamous marriages. It is unclear if Congress has the authority to enact such a bill under the commerce clause, the full faith and credit clause, or any other source of national authority. In addition, S. 1740 raises serious issues under the equal protection component of the due process clause in the aftermath of the Supreme Court's recent decision in Romer v. Evans.

I. BACKGROUND: FEDERALISM AND RECOGNITION OF OUT-OF-STATE MARRIAGES

The impetus for S. 1740 is easy to understand. If one state—Hawaii—recognizes same-sex marriage, is there not a danger that other states, whatever their views, will be forced to accept same-sex marriages as well? Perhaps people will fly to Hawaii, get married there, and effectively "bind" the rest of the union to Hawaii's rules, forcing all states to recognize marriages that violate their policies and judgments. A national solution seems necessary if one state's unusual rules threaten to unsettle the practices of forty-nine other states.

This scenario is, however, unlikely, for the full faith and credit clause has never been understood to bind the states in this way. For over two hundred years, states have worked out issues of this kind on their own. It is entirely to be expected that in a union of fifty diverse states, different states will have different rules governing marriage. American law has carefully worked out practical strategies for ensuring sensible results in these circumstances, as each state consults its own "public policy," and its own connection to the people involved, in deciding what to do with a marriage entered into elsewhere. In short: States have not been bound to recognize marriages if (a) they have a significant relation with the relevant people and (b) the marriage at issue violates a strongly held local policy.

Thus, for example, the first Restatement of Conflicts says that a marriage is usually valid everywhere if it was valid in the state in which the marriage occurred. But section 132 lists a number of exceptions, in which the law of "the domicile of either party" will govern: polygamous marriages, incestuous marriage, marriage of persons of different races, and marriage of a domiciliary which a state at the domicile makes void even though celebrated in another state. The Second Restatement of Conflicts, via section 283, taken a somewhat different approach. It says that the validity of a marriage will be determined by the state that "has the most significant relationship to the spouses and the marriage." It also provides that a marriage is valid everywhere if valid where contracted unless it violates the "strong public policy" of another state which had the most significant relationship to the spouses and the marriage at the time of the marriage. Thus a state might refuse to recognize incestuous marriages, polygamous marriages, or marriage of minors below a certain age.

The two Restatements show that it is a longstanding practice for interested states to deny validity to marriages that violate their own public policy. Many cases have reflected a general view of this kind. See, e.g., In re Vetas's Estate, 170 P.2d 183 (1946); Maurer v. Maurer, 60 A.2d 440 (1948); Bucea v. State, 43 N.J. Super 815 (1957); In re Takahashi's Estate, 113 Mont. 490 (1942); In re Duncan's Death, 83 Idaho 254 (1961); In re Mortenson's Estate, 83 Ariz. 87 (1957). There is no Supreme Court ruling to the effect that this view violates the full faith and credit clause.

All this suggests that S. 1740 would respond to an old and familiar problem that has heretofore been settled through long-settled principles at the state level and without federal intervention. If some states do recognize same-sex marriage, the problem would be handled in the same way that countless similar problems have been handled, via "public policy" judgments by states having significant relationships with the parties. Different "public policies" will produce different results. This is consistent with longstanding practices and with the essential constitutional logic of the federal system. The greater irony is that the Hawaii legislature has recently made clear that a marriage is available only between a man and a woman, and hence there is no current problem that S. 1740 would address. I conclude that S. 1740 is constitutionally ill-advised because it intrudes, without current cause, into a traditional domain of the states.

If this traditional view is correct, S. 1740 is also pointless; it gives states no authority that they lack. But a lurking question remains: Why, exactly, does the full faith and credit clause not require states to recognize marriages celebrated elsewhere? The Supreme Court has not offered an explanation. Perhaps the answer lies in the fact that a marriage is in the nature of a contract, and hence it is not a "public Act, Record, [or] judicial Proceeding" within the meaning of the Clause. Perhaps the answer lies in the long-standing view that a state with a clear connection with the parties and strong local policies need not defer to another state's law. In either case there is no reason to enact S. 1740. But if the full faith and credit clause is interpreted to require states to respect certain marriages, and if S. 1740 negates that requirement, S. 1740 raises serious constitutional doubts.

II. CONGRESSIONAL AUTHORITY

Whether S. 1740 would be struck down as unconstitutional raised novel and complex issues. My conclusion is that no simple view is plausible, and that in view of the fact that this sort of issue has always been handled at the state level, S. 1740 makes little constitutional sense.

¹I focus throughout on section 2. I do not believe that section 3 would be found unconstitutional, though it would be possible to raise questions under the equal protection clause, see Romer v. Evans, infra; see also W. Eskridge, "The Case for Same-Sex Marriage," (1996); Kuppelman, "Why Discrimination Against Lesbians and Gay Men Is Sex Discrimination," 69 NYU L. Rev. 197 (1994).

(a) Full faith and credit

The purpose of the full faith and credit clause was unifying—the clause was designed to help create a “United States” in which states would not compete against one another through a system in which judgments could be made part of interstate rivalry. The clause’s historic function is to ensure that states will treat one another as equals rather than as competitors. In this way, the full faith and credit clause is akin to the commerce clause, operating against protectionism, in which one state uses its power over its persons and territories to punish outsiders. See Jackson, Full Faith and Credit—The Lawyer’s Clause of the Constitution, 45 Column L. Rev. 1 (1945).

For reasons just stated, the full faith and credit clause has not been understood to mean that each state must recognize marriages celebrated in other states. But does the full faith and credit clause authorize S. 1740 if it is understood to give states permission to ignore judgments by which they would otherwise be bound? This is not clear. An affirmative answer might be supported by the following language: “And the Congress may by general Laws prescribe the Manner in which such Acts, Records and Proceedings shall be proved, and the effect thereof.” Perhaps Congress can say that some Acts, Records and Proceedings are of “no effect.” Perhaps Congress’ power over “the effect thereof” means that Congress can decide which Acts, Records and Proceedings have “effect.” The question, then, is whether Congress may not only prescribe the manner of proof and also implement the clause by requiring “effect” upon certain proofs (what we might call the accepted “affirmative” power), but also say that certain Acts, Records, and Proceedings may be without effect when, in the absence of legislation, they would have effect (what we might call the “negative” power). Does the negative power exist, and how might it be limited? (Even if it does, Congress would have no power here if a marriage is not an Act, Record, or judicial Proceeding. I put that point to one side.)

This is a complex and difficult question, and no Supreme Court decision gives a clear ruling. A detailed historical study of the grant of power to Congress seems to suggest that the grant was designed to ensure that Congress could implement the full faith and credit clause by expanding the reach of state rules and judgments. That is because the clause has above all a unifying power. See Cook, The Powers of Congress Under the Full Faith and Credit Clause, 28 Yale L.J. 421 (1919). In this view, the clause may well authorize Congress (for example) to make state judgments directly enforceable in other states, compel states to recognize rights created . . .

Mrs. BOXER. So one has to ask oneself, why are we doing this? I think the Washington Post today had an excellent editorial in which they say, “Why is the Senate taking up this matter now?” They also point out how this issue is years away—years away.

Well, I think we know why it is happening. It is election-year politics, and as one of the two Senators from California, I am not going to be part of that kind of politics.

As I said before, it is a preemptive strike on a nonexistent proposal. It is as if we decided, as a Nation, to bomb a country because we thought they were going to do something to harm us when, in fact, all they wanted to do is live in peace. Of course, America would never do such a thing. Why would we want to do it to a whole group of people?

I believe we are all Americans, Mr. President. I believe we do much better when we work together on issues, when we don’t divide. If you read history books, you will see so many cases in history where a group of people is identified, and they are scapegoated, and they are treated differently, and they become nameless and faceless. It is what I call the politics of division, the politics of fear. I could never be associated with that kind of politics.

Mr. President, when I went into politics 20 years ago, I said to my constituents then—and I continue to tell them—that I would not always take the popular side of an issue. If I felt it was mean-spirited, I would come to the floor of whatever body I was in—and I have been in local government, I have been in the House, and now I am very fortunate to be in the greatest deliberative body in the world, the U.S. Senate—and say I felt the proposal was mean-spirited; it was scapegoating people, and I simply could not be a part of it. I think if I were to do that—and we all know what the polls show on this one—I think it would be an insult to my constituency and to me, and it would demean all of us, because I don’t think that is why we get elected here. I think we get elected here sometimes to go against the wind. I think if we don’t do that, it diminishes us.

Now, this vote isn’t about how I feel on the issue of gay marriage. I think Senator JOHN KERRY said that very clearly. I have always supported the idea of communities deciding these issues without the long arm of the Federal Government. Many communities in my State recognize domestic partnerships for those who choose to make a commitment.

Frankly, I have to say, Mr. President, I haven’t had one letter or phone call indicating that Congress should override these community decisions. So it isn’t about how Senators feel on the issue of marriage or domestic partnerships. DOMA doesn’t have anything to do with that. It certainly doesn’t do anything, as I said, to defend marriages.

Now, we have read newspaper reports that the author of this bill on the other side happened to have been married three times. Now, I don’t personally believe, if DOMA was the law, it would have had a difference on any of his marriages. Maybe he believes that, but I don’t believe that is true. I believe if we were sincere and those of us who have long-term marriages would sit down and frankly discuss the stresses on our marriages and what needs to be done to defend our marriages, I don’t believe we would list that our marriages are threatened by some community that is considering making domestic partnerships legal in their community.

So, to me, this is ugly politics. To me, it is about dividing us instead of bringing us together. To me, it is about scapegoating. To me, it is a diversion from what we should be doing. Why don’t we use this time to pass President Clinton’s college tax breaks, to ease the stress on our families today? Now, that would be defending marriage. That would be defending marriage. So by my “no” vote today, I am disassociating myself from the politics of negativity and the politics of scapegoating.

I thank the Chair and yield the floor. The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time?

Mr. NICKLES addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Oklahoma is recognized.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, I am not positive if I heard my colleague from California correctly, but if you mentioned the sponsor of the bill has been married three times, I am the sponsor of the bill, and I haven’t been married three times.

Mrs. BOXER. I said it was in the House. I meant the sponsor in the House.

Mr. NICKLES. I appreciate the correction, because I wasn’t aware of that fact.

Mrs. BOXER. I said the sponsor of the bill in the House, clearly.

Mr. NICKLES. I yield 6 minutes to the Senator from Indiana.

Mr. COATS. Mr. President, I am pleased to rise today on the floor of the Senate, along with many of my colleagues, to support the Defense of Marriage Act. In doing so, I am reiterating my strong, unequivocal support for traditional marriage as a legal union between one man and one woman.

Marriage is the institution in our society that civilizes our society by humanizing our lives. It is the social, legal and spiritual relationship that prepares the next generation for duties and opportunities. An 1884 decision by the Supreme Court called marriage “the sure foundation of all that is stable and noble in our civilization, the best guaranty of that reverent morality which is the source of all beneficent progress in social and political improvement.”

I don’t think anything has changed that would change that definition given by the Supreme Court more than a hundred years ago.

The definition of marriage is not created by politicians and judges, and it cannot be changed by them. It is rooted in our history, in our laws and our deepest moral and religious convictions, and in our nature as human beings. It is the union of one man and one woman. This fact can be respected, or it can be resented, but it cannot be altered.

I suggest that our society has a compelling interest in respecting that definition. The breakdown of traditional marriage is our central social crisis, the cause of so much anguish and suffering, particularly for our children.

Our urgent responsibility is to nurture and strengthen the institution of marriage, not undermine it with trendy moral relativism.

The institution of marriage is our most valuable cultural inheritance. It is our duty—perhaps our first duty—to pass it intact to the future.

Government cannot be neutral in this debate over marriage. It has sound reasons to prefer the traditional family in its policies. A social thinker, Michael Novak, has written:

A people whose marriages and families are weak have no solid institutions . . . family life is the seedbed of economic skills, money habits, attitudes toward work and the arts of independence . . . parent-child roles are the absolutely critical center of social force.

So when we prefer traditional marriage and family in our law, it is not intolerance. Tolerance does not require us to say that all lifestyles are morally equal. It doesn't require us to weaken our social ideals. It does not require a reconstruction of our most basic institutions. And it should not require special recognition for those who have rejected that standard.

It is amazing to me—and I join Senator BYRD and others in this—and disturbing that this debate should even be necessary. I think it is a sign of our times and an indication of a deep moral confusion in our Nation. But events have made the definition of traditional marriage essential because the preservation of marriage has become an issue of self-preservation for our society.

We have a straightforward bill before us. We define "marriage" and "spouse" for the purposes of Federal law, and we ensure that no State will be required to give effect to a law of another State with respect to same-sex marriage. It is the reserve and the simplicity of the bill that I think ought to be commended. It does not overreach. It does not bring to bear the full range of authorities that Congress could invoke. Rather, it simply restates well-known and well-understood definitions and only legislates concerning a constitutional provision, the full faith and credit clause, which was to become the means by which same-sex marriages are promulgated throughout the States.

I'd like to discuss the two facets of the bill in greater detail. The definitions included in this bill for the words marriage and spouse are based on our common historical understanding of the institution of marriage, and simply state that marriage is the legal union between one man and one woman as husband and wife.

This definition is not surprising. But as Hadley Arkes wisely commented: "in the curious inversion that seems characteristic mainly of our own time, the act of restating, the act of confirming the tradition, is itself taken as an 'irregular' or radical move. That we should summon the nerve simply to restate the traditional understanding is taken as nothing less than an act of aggression." But no act of aggression is being undertaken. Rather, the definition included in this bill merely restates the understanding of marriage shared by Americans, and by peoples and cultures all over the world.

The Defense of Marriage Act also legislates concerning the full faith and credit clause of the Constitution. Through this bill, Congress avails itself of the power reserved for Congress in the Constitution and ensures that no State be required to give legal authority to a relationship between two people of the same sex which is treated as a marriage under the laws of another State.

Let me be very clear. This bill does not outlaw same-sex marriages: it merely ensures that if one State makes same-sex marriages legal, no other State will be automatically required through the full faith and credit clause to uphold that marriage in their own State.

That is our prerogative. That is what we seek to do today, and that is what I believe we should do.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator's time has expired.

Mr. COATS. I ask if I could have one more minute.

Mr. NICKLES. I yield the Senator an additional minute.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator is recognized for 1 minute.

Mr. COATS. As I said earlier, it is disturbing that the debate is necessary at all. I am thankful for the opportunity to discuss the importance of traditional marriage. For too long too many people have just assumed that marriage will survive whether or not it is encouraged, nurtured, or promoted.

The sad news is that the evidence is in. Marriage, like any other institution such as communities, churches, and schools, can suffer, and is, without the critical support of Federal, State, and local governments, communities, religions, and societal norms.

We need to begin a process of reminding ourselves what marriage is. We must tell our children what it means to be married. We must encourage young men and women to get married. We must help married couples to stay together when times are difficult. There is no longer any doubt that the slow demise of marriage in our country has been terribly harmful to children. It is time that we remind this country and ourselves how critically important heterosexual marriage is to a healthy society.

The Defense of Marriage Act is a wake-up call for our society. This bill gives us clear guidance as to the definition of marriage. It tells the States, clearly, that they are responsible for the marriages within their State. This bill ensures that States maintain the freedom to establish their own definitions and policies relating to marriage.

I encourage all of my colleagues to use this debate and the ensuing vote to make their support and belief of traditional marriage absolutely plain. Without a doubt, this vote is of the utmost importance to our children and to the very future of this country.

I thank the Senator from Oklahoma for the time.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, I compliment the Senator from Indiana for his excellent speech, and I will yield the Senator from South Carolina 3 minutes.

Mr. THURMOND. I thank the Senator.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, if the Senator will yield for a question, are we going to have the opportunity of going back and forth? Perhaps after this we would have that chance to do it.

I appreciate it.

Mr. THURMOND addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from South Carolina [Mr. THURMOND] is recognized for 3 minutes.

Mr. THURMOND. Mr. President, I rise today as an original cosponsor and in support of the Defense of Marriage Act.

This needed legislation is a straightforward approach to protect the rights of the individual States to determine policy decisions appropriately within their borders. Simply stated, this bill provides that no State be required to recognize a same-sex marriage that may have been given effect in another State. Additionally, this bill reaffirms the 200-year-old Federal policy in this country concerning the use of the words "marriage" and "spouse"—a marriage is the legal union of a man and a woman as husband and wife, and a spouse is a husband or wife of the opposite sex.

Mr. President, I can say without reservation that the fine people in my home State of South Carolina should not face the possibility of being forced to legally recognize same-sex marriages. This bill is needed to protect the right of every State to make their own determinations concerning the definition of a legal marriage.

Article IV, section 1 of the Constitution provides that full faith and credit be given in each State to the public acts, records, and judicial proceedings of every other State. Additionally, the Congress is granted the power to prescribe the manner in which State acts are given effect in other States. The Defense of Marriage Act is wholly consistent with the Constitution and protects the sovereignty of the States to make their own decisions concerning same-sex marriages.

Mr. President, I am amazed that we have reached the point in this country where the Congress must adopt this type of legislation to protect the sanctity of marriage. Because it is needed, I support the Defense of Marriage Act which reaffirms the notion of marriage as it has been recognized throughout 5000 years of civilization—marriage as a legal union between one man and one woman, as husband and wife.

Ms. MIKULSKI. Mr. President, I will vote for the Defense of Marriage Act. What this bill does is really quite simple.

It puts in the Federal law books what has always been the definition of a marriage—the legal union between one man and one woman. The bill also allows each State to determine for itself what is considered a marriage under that State's laws, and not to be bound by the decisions made by other States.

However, I would like to make some comments which I believe are important. First of all, I have been very concerned by the overheated rhetoric that has characterized the congressional and national debate on this issue. It has been divisive and much of it has been nasty and demeaning.

The last thing Americans need right now is another wedge issue. The last thing Americans need is an issue that turns us against one another, and that exacerbates bigotry and hate. It is time to stop the politics of hate. It might make for an exciting sound bite or a boost in the polls here and there, but it demeans us as a people. We are a better people than that.

We should recognize the politics behind this debate. It is an effort to make Members of Congress take an uncomfortable vote. It is an effort to put the President and Democrats on the spot, and at odds with a group of voters who have traditionally supported the President and the Democratic Party. I regret that. We owe it to the American people not to play politics with an issue as important as marriage.

My second point is this, and let me be very clear. I am against discrimination. My support for the Defense of Marriage Act does not lessen in any way my commitment to fighting for fair treatment for gays and lesbians in the workplace.

Later today we will have an opportunity to vote on legislation introduced by Senator KENNEDY, the Employment Nondiscrimination Act. This bill would end job discrimination based on sexual orientation. I am proud to be a cosponsor of this legislation and will proudly vote for it today. It is long overdue.

Mr. President, since I first came to the Congress I have made it a priority to fight to eliminate discrimination, whether it is discrimination on the basis of race, gender, disability or sexual orientation. Each of us deserves to be judged on the basis of our unique skills and talents and nothing else. Discrimination is wrong, plain and simple.

The Employment Nondiscrimination Act would extend Federal employment protections based on race, religion, gender, national origin, disability, and age to sexual orientation. In over 40 States, discrimination in employment based on sexual orientation is legal. Hardworking individuals can be fired from their jobs simply because of their sexual orientation.

And, as the law currently stands they have no legal recourse for discrimination based on sexual orientation. This amendment would extend the protections in title VII of the Civil Rights of 1964 and the Americans With Disabilities Act of 1990 to sexual orientation.

The Employment Nondiscrimination Act exempts from its coverage small business employing fewer than 15 people, private membership clubs, religious organizations, and education institutions controlled by religious organizations, as well as the Armed Forces.

Individuals should not be fired or denied a job simply based on their sexual orientation. Unfortunately, this kind of discrimination is rampant in both the public and private sectors. The extension of employment protections to sexual orientation is long overdue.

This is not about providing preferential treatment for any class of citizens. In fact, the Employment Nondiscrimination Act specifically prohibits preferential treatment.

The Defense of Marriage Act is about reaffirming the basic American tenet of marriage. The Employment Nondiscrimination Act is also about a basic American tenet—fairness. It is about fairness in hiring and fairness in treatment for people in their workplace.

I expect the Senate today will overwhelmingly approve the Defense of Marriage Act. And I support that. I hope that we will also pass—by an equally large margin—the Employment Nondiscrimination Act.

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, today the Senate has before it an issue that has generated a great deal of debate across this Nation. I will support this legislation because I believe the question of State recognition of same-sex marriages must be resolved by each State individually, and not by one State on behalf of all others.

While the focus of this debate is whether members of the same sex may marry, the root of the matter is the full faith and credit clause of the Constitution, article IV, section 1. This clause provides that the States must recognize legislative acts, public records and judicial decisions of other states:

Full Faith and Credit shall be given in each State to the public Acts, Records, and judicial Proceedings of every other State. And the Congress may by general Laws prescribe the Manner in which such Acts, Records and Proceedings shall be proved, and the Effect thereof.

Marriages are commonly given full faith and credit by other States. At this time, no State allows same-sex marriages, and a number have specifically outlawed them. Hawaii now appears to be on the verge of such recognition. If Hawaii becomes the first to allow same-sex marriages, other States would be required to recognize and give full faith and credit to those marriages.

The Defense of Marriage Act has been introduced in response to this possibility. The bill would restrict the effect of any state law that allows same-sex marriages to that state only. By making an exception to the full faith and credit clause, this legislation would allow each State to decide this divisive issue on its own.

The issue appears to be: Which side of the argument should have the burden of proof? If Congress does not act, the burden would be on those in opposition to same-sex marriages to affirmatively block them on a State-by-State basis. If Congress passes this legislation, those in support same-sex marriages would have to win recognition of such marriages on a State-by-State basis.

I believe each State should determine this volatile issue on its own, after a thorough debate. Therefore, I will cast my vote in favor of H.R. 3396.

Mr. MURKOWSKI. Mr. President, I rise in support of the Defense of Marriage Act.

Throughout the history of our Nation, family law has always been the province of the States and not the Federal Government. For we are a nation founded upon the principals of States' rights and limited Federal intrusion. And that is why this legislation is appropriate. The Defense of Marriage Act will ensure that each State shall be free to do what it believes is fitting and proper in regard to domestic law, including the recognition of same-sex marriages.

By defining the term marriage, Congress is protecting the individual sovereignty of each State. No State will now be required to recognize a same-sex marriage—and no State will be prevented from recognizing a same-sex marriage. Passing the Defense of Marriage Act is the surest method of preserving the will and prerogative of each and every State.

Additionally, the ramifications of the absence of a definition of marriage in Federal law are becoming apparent. The court case in Hawaii has merely brought some of those ramifications to our attention.

The Defense of Marriage Act does not prevent same-sex marriages at the State level; it merely defines marriages for Federal purposes, thereby establishing legal certainty and uniformity in federal benefits, rights and privileges for married persons.

I also rise to comment on the Employment Nondiscrimination Act. There are obvious and serious problems in employment discrimination and on its face, this bill may appear to resolve some of those problems. However, I believe that this bill will only heighten employment problems and discrimination based on sexual orientation.

The Employment Nondiscrimination Act will directly threaten an individual's right of privacy, a right specifically protected in the Alaska State Constitution. This bill will make sexuality an issue in the workplace because it will enable employers to ask employees questions regarding their sexual orientation. Indeed, the bill will require employers to keep records as to the sexual orientation of each and every employee in the same manner that employers are required to maintain records on other protected classes under title VII of the United States Code. The Employment Nondiscrimination Act represents Federal intrusion in an area that most believe warrants the highest level of privacy.

I urge my colleagues to support the Defense of Marriage Act and to oppose the Employment Nondiscrimination Act.

Mr. KEMPTHORNE. Mr. President, I rise today to express my strong support for the Defense of Marriage Act [DOMA]. The bill we consider today is an important step in defending States rights—as we have worked so hard to do throughout the 104th Congress—and in officially declaring the intent of Congress with regard to the issue of marriage.

Earlier this year, the State of Idaho took action on the issue of same-sex marriages. The State legislature, by a combined vote of 87 to 10, joined 13 other States in passing legislation which clearly declares that Idaho will not recognize same-sex marriages conducted in other States. Idaho has long prohibited same-sex marriages and should be allowed to ensure that, should such unions be approved elsewhere in the United States, Idaho's longstanding policy will not be changed. As the Idaho State Senate president pro tem stated when the bill was being considered, "[W]e should not change policy which has been there for 100 years because some other State changes policy." I could not agree more. The people of Idaho should not be forced to accept same-sex marriages, in violation of the longstanding policy of the State, merely because some other State decides to do so.

DOMA, therefore, merely serves to confirm that Idaho may do what it has already done. Acting under the guidance of the "Effects Clause" of the Constitution, section 2 of DOMA clarifies that a State has the right to deny other States' marriages which violate the public policy of that State. Opponents of this legislation have claimed that this portion of DOMA is unnecessary, and indeed, they may be correct. The courts have already upheld cases in which polygamous or incestuous marriages were not acknowledged by States outside of the one in which the marriage was performed. The courts may very well find the same thing with same-sex marriages. If so, section 2 is at worst redundant. If not, then it is imperative for Congress to use its constitutional authority to ensure that States are not required to recognize a marriage which is in violation of the policies of that State.

Section 3 of the bill establishes the Federal definition of the terms "marriage" and "spouse." There is nothing shocking here. Combined, these terms appear in nearly 4,000 places in Federal statutes and regulations, yet they have not been defined because State laws on marriage are so similar as to make such a definition unnecessary. DOMA takes the step to clarify the intent of these words, so the Federal meaning of these terms will not be changed even if a State should decide to radically alter its definition of "marriage" or "spouse."

Under the bill, marriage is defined as "a legal union between one man and one woman as husband and wife," and spouse is defined as "a person of the opposite sex who is a husband or wife." Looking at the definition of marriage and spouse in the States, this is clearly how these terms are intended to be defined. DOMA in no way prevents any State from using its own definition of these terms, but it does ensure that for Federal purposes, the definition will remain constant.

Mr. President, as part of the welfare reform bill which this Chamber overwhelmingly supported, we stressed the importance of marriage. The first two findings in the bill said, "Marriage is the foundation of a successful society," and "Marriage is an essential institution of a successful society which promotes the interests of children." What we are doing today is saying that we want to protect that institution. We want to maintain marriage as it has existed from the foundation of the United States, and, in fact, as it exists throughout the world today. Establishing a Federal definition of marriage and ensuring that States are not required to accept marriages which violate their public policies are modest, yet very important, parts of that process.

Mr. BURNS. Mr. President, as a co-sponsor of the legislation now before us, H.R. 3396, the Defense of Marriage Act, I rise today to express my strong support of this bill. This straightforward legislation does just two things: First, provides that no State shall be required—I repeat, no State shall be required—to give effect to a law of any other State with respect to a same-sex marriage. Second, the Defense of Marriage Act defines the word "marriage" and "spouse" for purposes of Federal law. Though this bill is short in length—just 2½ pages in fact—it is long in substance.

As most of you are aware, the issue of same-sex marriages and consequently the introduction of the Defense of Marriage Act has come to the political forefront in part because of a 1993 Hawaii State Supreme Court decision. In the case of Baehr versus Lewin, the Hawaii State Supreme Court rules that the Hawaiian Constitution discriminates against the civil rights of same-sex couples by declaring that a legal marriage can only exist between individuals of the opposite sex.

In response to this decision, the Hawaii State Legislature has since indicated that the question of same-sex marriages is one of public policy and that the court therefore had no jurisdiction to decide the matter. The legislature has further held that the institution of marriage is inexorably linked with procreation and therefore may be validly limited to male/female couples.

Though Hawaii's Legislature has made it unmistakably clear that marriage is limited only to a man and a woman, the same-sex marriage issue still thrives in the Hawaii courts, and a lower court is scheduled to begin considering the issue this month. Should this court rule in favor of legalizing same-sex marriages, the repercussions of such a decision would have quite a legal effect.

Mr. President, because article IV, section I of the U.S. Constitution, requires that every State honor the "public Acts, Records, and judicial Proceedings" of every other State, the Hawaii court decision could potentially create a situation in which the remaining 49 States, including Montana, would have to recognize same-sex marriages if couples from or married in Hawaii move to another State. In addition, because there is currently no definition of marriage on the books, the Federal Government would be forced to recognize same-sex marriages for Federal benefit purposes. Since the word "marriage" appears in more than 800 sections of Federal statutes and regulations, and the word "spouse" appears more than 3,100 times, Federal benefits, such as Veterans, Health and Social Security, would all be subject to revision. Given the budget difficulties we are currently facing, it would be an understatement to say that this could have an enormous financial impact on our country. That troubles me deeply.

I know that there are people who are concerned that this bill will diminish the power of States to determine their own laws with respect to marriage. Now, let me say that anyone who knows me well, understands that I have always supported giving power back to the States. And I would have serious reservations about supporting this legislation if it mandated to the State of Hawaii, the State of Montana, or any other State for that matter what marriages they can legally recognize. As written, this bill in no way does that.

By adding a second sentence to article IV, section I of the Constitution that reads, "And the Congress may by general Laws prescribe the Manner in which such Acts, Records and Proceedings shall be approved and the Effect thereof," the Framers of the Constitution had the foresight to give Congress the discretion to create exceptions to the mandate contained in the "Full Faith and Credit Clause." Therefore, the Defense of Marriage Act, as provided for by this exception, permits us to tackle the issue of same-sex marriages head on and, I am pleased to note, allows States to make the final determination concerning same-sex marriages without other States' law interfering. Let me say that another way. This bill will not outlaw same-sex marriages, it simply exempts a State from legally recognizing a marriage that does not fit its own definition of marriage. Under this bill, States will still be free to recognize gay marriages if they so choose. Under this bill, States will still be free to recognize gay marriages if they so choose. That is the way it should be, individual States deciding what is best for themselves.

Beside protecting the right of States to set their own policies on same-sex marriages, the Defense of Marriage Act puts Congress on record as defining the word marriage as "the legal union between one man and one woman as husband and wife," and the word spouse as "a person of the opposite sex who is a husband or wife." This is not groundbreaking language. It merely restates the current understanding. This language reaffirms what Congress, the executive agencies, and most Americans have meant for 200 years when using the words marriage and spouse—that a marriage is the legal union of a male and female of certain age in a holy estate of matrimony.

Mr. President, numerous polls show that the majority of American people, no matter their religious belief, clearly support protecting the sanctity of marriage. As a Nation we understand that the institution of marriage sets a necessary and high standard. Though most of us agree that everyone should have the right to privacy, most Americans believe the institution of marriage should be cherished and respected and so do I.

Although I know that this bill will not solve the problems that take place within individual marriages—particularly in light of statistics showing that one out of every two marriages in this country now ends in divorce—this legislation reaffirms that marriage between one man and one woman is still the single most important social institution. Marriage and the traditional values it represents is the heart of family life and has been shown to promote a healthy and stable society. Principles we sorely need to uphold in our country today.

Mr. President, at a time when it is becoming the exception, we have an opportunity today to reaffirm our commitment to the traditional two parent family. And I want to take a moment to thank all of those on both sides of the aisle who have worked so hard to bring this legislation to this point. I particularly want to commend Senator NICKLES for leading the way on this issue. On that note, because of Senator NICKLES efforts, and with the overwhelming support this bill received in the House earlier this summer, it looks as though we are going to see our way clear and pass this bill through Congress.

In closing, Mr. President, a number of my colleagues have delivered sound and eloquent arguments both in support of and in opposition to this bill today. I truly believe they do so with the most honorable of intentions. Let me remind my colleagues on both sides of this issue, however, that we are not the only voices speaking today. I have received literally thousands of letters and phone calls asking me to uphold the institution of marriage by voting for this legislation. I am sure many of my colleagues here in the Senate have as well. I trust you will listen to those voices.

Though I am fully aware that a vote for the Defense of Marriage Act will provide a reason for some to label me as intolerant, a bigot or uncompassionate—which I might add is not true—I am going to vote to send this bill to the President. I strongly urge my colleagues in the Senate to do the same. Thank you Mr. President.

I yield the floor.

Mr. FAIRCLOTH. Mr. President, I strongly support passage of the Defense of Marriage Act. It defies common sense to think that it would even be necessary to spell out the definition of "marriage" in Federal law. Yet it has become necessary, because what used to be a matter of self-evident truth has now become a topic of debate. The Defense of Marriage Act would make that definition clear, and it would protect States from being forced to recognize same sex unions recognized as marriages in other States.

Now, I don't claim to be an expert on what marriage is. But I think I can fairly confidently say what it should not be. First, it should not be simply a convenient arrangement that can be entered into or dissolved for frivolous reasons. Marriage forms families, and families form societies. Strong families form strong societies. Fractured families form fractured societies. So all of us have an interest in seeing that strong families are formed in the first place.

Same-sex unions do not make strong families. Supporters of same-sex marriage assume that they do. But that assumption has never been tested by any civilized society. No society has ever granted same-sex unions the same kind of official recognition granted to marriages, and for good reason.

In addition, marriage most certainly should not be just another means of securing government benefits. Yet this is one of the arguments that proponents of same-sex marriage use to justify this unprecedented social experiment. They claim that laws restricting marriage to persons of the opposite sex are discriminatory in part because, after all, same-sex partners are not entitled to health and other benefits extended to dependent spouses. I can think of few worse reasons for getting married. And I can think of few worse times to talk about creating yet another entitlement to government benefits.

Mr. President, some 15 States—including my State of North Carolina—have passed similar legislation clarifying the definition of marriage. Governors of several States have signed executive orders. And legislation is pending in some 20 other States. Even in the State of Hawaii—where a pending court case is helping drive this debate—the legislature has declared that marriage is defined as a legal union between one man and one woman.

Whatever happens in Hawaii, other States should not be forced to recognize same-sex relationships as marriages. This legislation would protect States rights to set standards in this area.

It is high time Congress spoke on this issue. I intend to vote for passage of the Defense of Marriage Act, and I strongly urge my colleagues to do the same.

Thank you, Mr. President.

Mrs. FEINSTEIN. Mr. President, I rise to address the legislation under consideration, the Defense of Marriage Act.

Proponents claim Congress needs to act swiftly to thwart an impending "threat against the family."

Let's put this in perspective.

Nearly 4,000 people have been killed in Los Angeles County alone in the last 5 years from gang-related violence. Criminal gangs are operating in more than 93 percent of American cities today. Children are being recruited to their death by gangs who prey on juveniles to do their bidding.

This is a threat against American families.

More than 10,000 people were hospitalized from methamphetamine abuse in California in 1994. Methamphetamine-addicted babies now outnumber crack babies in some hospitals.

And more than 1,000 toxic meth labs in California alone remain a public health threat because local jurisdictions don't have enough money to clean them up.

This is a threat against American families.

Right now, as we speak, some 15-year-old girl is dropping out of high school somewhere because she is pregnant, unmarried and unable to finish school. Teenage pregnancy is still at epidemic proportions in this country.

This is a threat against American families.

If we had our priorities straight, we'd be voting on legislation addressing these issues today instead of this bill.

Having said that, let me address the merits of the legislation before us.

I personally believe that the legal institution of marriage is the union between a man and a woman. But, as a matter of public policy, I oppose this legislation for two reasons: One, I believe it oversteps the role of Congress—setting a very bad precedent and perhaps even being unconstitutional; And Two, I believe it is unnecessary.

OVERSTEPS THE ROLE OF CONGRESS AND SETS A BAD PRECEDENT AND MAY BE UNCONSTITUTIONAL

I understand that the issue of same-sex marriage is one that generates strong feelings, and that an overwhelming majority of Americans are opposed to its legalization. That's why no State has, to date, ever sanctioned such unions.

But, even though some people hold deep moral convictions in opposition to the idea of same-sex marriage, and however substantial the majority opinion might be on this issue, Federal legislation is not the answer. In this case, this bill will do nothing to settle the question of whether same-sex marriages ought to be recognized.

It will only add fuel to an already divisive and mean-spirited debate—a debate conspicuously timed to coincide with the upcoming elections. It will only perpetuate more litigation and more controversy. It will only generate more division. And, worst of all, it sets this Nation on the slippery slope of transferring broad authority for legislating in the area of family law from the States to the Federal Government.

To my knowledge, never in the history of this Nation—for over 200 years—has Congress usurped States' authority to define marriage or delineate the circumstances under which a marriage can be performed.

If Congress can simply usurp States' authority to determine what the definition of marriage is, what is next? Divorce? Will we tell States they are not required to recognize divorce judgments they disagree with?

Should the Federal Government have the power to decide it won't recognize a second or third marriage?

How about age? Will the Federal Government determine at what age a person is permitted to marry?

Whether one accepts the idea of same-sex marriages or not is not the central issue here. The legislation before us will not prevent States from recognizing same-sex marriages. The issue before us is whether we want to inject the Federal Government into an area that has, for 200 years, been the exclusive purview of the States.

Proponents argue that Congress' authority to legislate in this area comes from the Constitution's full faith and credit clause. However, this is a pretty exotic interpretation of Congress' authority under that clause. Congress, in its 200-year history has never once used the full faith and credit clause to nullify rather than implement the effect of a public act or judgment by a State.

In fact, this bill would turn the full faith and credit clause on its head. If Congress enacts this bill, the consequences could reach into many other areas of law and interstate commerce.

University of Chicago Law Professor Cass Sunstein said it best in testimony before the Senate Judiciary Committee:

Under the proponents' interpretation, Congress could simply say that any law that Congress dislikes is of no effect in other States. There are interest groups all over the Nation who would be extremely thrilled to see the possibility that Congress can nullify the extraterritorial application of one State's judgments that it dislikes. Californian divorces, Idaho punitive damage judgments, Illinois products liability judgments—all of them would henceforth be up for grabs.

There is also the question of whether or not Congress has the authority to single out one class of people to impose such a broad disability on. It raises the question of whether this law would stand up to constitutional scrutiny under the equal protection clause.

LEGISLATION IS UNNECESSARY STATES ALREADY HAVE THE POWER NOT TO RECOGNIZE OUT OF STATE MARRIAGES

Even if Congress has the constitutional authority to grant itself this broad new power, there is nothing in our Nation's history to suggest that this law is necessary.

Whether or not to recognize an out-of-State marriage is not a new issue. It is quite old. And one which States have dealt with quite frequently without Federal legislation. There are volumes of cases involving incest, polygamy, adultery, minors and more, where the States have grappled with these issues successfully without the Federal Government.

According to conflict-of-laws doctrine, States may already refuse to recognize out-of-State marriages when the marriage violates that State's public policy. For example, expressions of public policy may be found in State statutes, State case law, or pronouncements by State attorneys general.

Section 283 of the Restatement of Conflicts of Law states:

A marriage which satisfies the requirements of the state where the marriage was contracted will everywhere be recognized as valid, unless it violates the strong public policy of another state which had the most significant relationship to the spouses and the marriage at the time of the marriage.

A host of State court decisions dating back to the 1880's demonstrate States ability to invalidate out-of-State marriages on public policy grounds.

For example, many States differ in what age they allow a person to enter into a marriage contract. Some States allow people to marry as young as 14. Other States do not permit such marriages or require parental consent.

State courts have made determinations on what marriages they will recognize based on their own public policies regarding age and other issues:

In Wilkins versus Zelichowski, a New Jersey court use public policy grounds to annul a marriage performed in Indiana involving a female under the age of 18.

In Catalano versus Catalano, a Connecticut court invalidated a marriage between an uncle and his niece declaring that "[a] state has the authority to declare what marriages of its citizens shall be recognized as valid, regardless of the fact that the marriages may have been entered into in foreign jurisdictions where they were valid."

In Mortenson versus Mortenson, an Arizona court applied the public policy exception to void a marriage performed in New Mexico between two first cousins.

STATES ARE ALREADY LEGISLATING IN THIS AREA

States are no less capable of dealing with the issue of same-sex marriages than they have been with other marriage issues. In fact, 15 States already have passed legislation either banning same-sex marriages or prohibiting the recognition of out-of-State same-sex marriages. Many others have or are currently considering similar legislation.

Many States already have statutes or case law reflecting State policy toward same-sex marriage. California law, for example, limits marriage to a "civil contract between a man and a woman," and has considered State legislation against recognition of out-of-State same-sex marriages.

The bottom line is, States have the authority to do what this legislation would do without Federal intervention, and should be left alone to deal with these issues according to their own laws and constitutional parameters.

I would be the first to say, that, if one State decides to recognize same-sex marriages, and if any other State is forced to recognize same-sex marriages against their own public policy as a result, then Federal legislation would be a reasonable course of action.

But, at the very least, Congress should wait until the Hawaii case works its way through the courts—which by all estimates could be several years away from final resolution—before entering into this fray and further complicating the legal issues involved.

For a Congress whose mantra has been returning power to the States, this legislation, it would seem, is a serious retreat from that idea, giving broad new power to the Federal Government in an area historically left under State control. I hope my colleagues will consider this and vote no on this bill.

Mr. President, I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. ASHCROFT). Who yields time?

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, I yield 7 minutes to the Senator from Connecticut.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Connecticut is recognized.

Mr. DODD. I thank the Senator. Let me say in regard to the Defense of Marriage Act, I agree with my colleagues who have risen and raised questions as to the motivations of why this legislation is before us. It is clearly, in my view, premature.

I hope, because this so-called Defense of Marriage Act is going to pass, that for those who claim they truly want to protect domestic relationships, partnerships that are not the traditional marriage relationships, we will consider that so that the protections in hospital rooms and other places where domestic partnerships are denied today is something all of us will determine we are going to resolve.

I do want to use this time, because I think we are on the brink, Mr. President, of adopting historic legislation in the midst of all of this, to speak in behalf of the Employment Nondiscrimination Act. I commend my colleagues, Senator KENNEDY of Massachusetts, my colleague from Connecticut, Senator LIEBERMAN, and Senator JEFFORDS from Vermont for their leadership on this issue. I am urging my colleagues to support the Employment Nondiscrimination Act.

The history of our country thus far has been a history of the gradual extension, refinement and perfection of the guarantees of human freedom. By removing the denials of freedom experienced by some Americans, we are strengthening and giving greater validity to the freedom of all Americans.

Mr. President, those words were spoken by another Senator from Connecticut 32 years ago during the consideration of the landmark 1964 Civil Rights Act. Those words were spoken by my father in this Chamber. I believe those words are as germane today as they were when they were uttered 32 years ago. Over our entire history, this Congress and this Nation embarked on a quiet but monumental revolution, and that was to realize the full aspirations of our Founders that all men and women are truly created equal.

Throughout our history, Americans have strived to extend those rights to all Americans regardless of their skin color, religion, gender, disability, or political belief. But today, one group of Americans continues to be left unprotected in the workplace. That is gay and lesbian Americans. The Employment Nondiscrimination Act would go a long way toward extending greater equality to these Americans and ensuring them that they will be judged more by the strength of their labors than by their sexual orientation.

Much has changed in the 30 years since my father and others fought to enact civil rights legislation. At the time it was a controversial notion. It inflamed great passions. It tied up this body for weeks on end, the very notion that we would not be allowed to discriminate against people based on the color of their skin.

Today, I would suggest that if we were considering the 1964 Civil Rights Act, a resolution would be carried on a voice vote unanimously without any debate and any division. That was not the case 32 years ago. But for the reasons that I believe have more to do with intolerance and ignorance and moral courage, this country continues to allow gay and lesbian Americans to be judged not by their abilities or even the content of their character but by the prejudice of others. The amendment we are considering today is a commonsense response to this outrage. I hope we all want to say to gay Americans that when you are on the job in this country, you will be judged in the same manner that any American will be judged. The American people know this is the right thing to do. In fact, 84 percent of Americans believe that employers should not be allowed to discriminate based on sexual orientation.

Prominent business leaders, from Xerox, Microsoft, and RJR Nabisco, support this legislation. In fact, more than 650 private businesses include sexual orientation in their antidiscrimination policies. Political leaders past and present are also behind this effort.

From our former colleague, the Senator from Arizona, Senator Goldwater, to civil rights leader Coretta Scott King, the Governor of New Jersey, Christine Todd Whitman, and more than 30 Senate Democrats and Republicans—they all urge the adoption of this amendment. In fact, ironically, 66 of us in this body—66 of us, and 238 House Members, already have nondiscrimination policies for their employees. If just 66 in this body would ask the country to do what they do in their own offices, then we can adopt this legislation.

In my home State of Connecticut we have such protection for gay and lesbian workers. Has our business community suffered untoward consequences? Has the moral character of our State been dramatically harmed? Has Connecticut been overwhelmed by an onslaught of litigation? Have quotas been established for hiring gay workers? All of these issues have been raised in this body over the last several days, and to every one of them the answer in Connecticut has been “no.” And in every other State where this has been adopted, the answer has been “no.” In fact, Connecticut’s antidiscrimination law is considered a success in providing recourse for those Americans affected by antigay bias, in giving them the guarantee they will be judged by the abilities of their labor and not their lifestyles.

In my view, this debate is behind the curve of where the American people are on this issue. The business community and the vast majority of American people recognize that gay Americans deserve and should be treated equally in the workplace. I believe this Congress must follow their lead. It is never a happy event when an American loses his or her job. It is particularly difficult when it is because of events out of one’s control, such as downsizing, layoffs, companies moving offshore. We all understand the pain that people go through when they lose their jobs because of those circumstances.

But I can imagine few things worse than for one to lose a job because of the intolerance of others, and that is what exists today in the workplace. Rightly, we have acted to combat these wrongs when they are committed against people because of race, gender, age, and disability. I believe we must take this opportunity to extend that protection further to gay and lesbian Americans.

I urge all of my colleagues to join us in supporting this bill and providing to gay Americans the protections against job discrimination they so desperately need and deserve.

I thank my colleague from Massachusetts.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Oklahoma.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, how much time remains?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There remain 7 minutes and 11 seconds.

Mr. NICKLES. I yield the Senator from Kansas 5 minutes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Kansas is recognized.

Mrs. KASSEBAUM. Mr. President, I would like to speak for just a few moments on the Defense of Marriage Act. I will speak in support of it. But it is an issue relating to marriage that I think is one that is an example of where divorce and related domestic matters have traditionally been subject to State law. I believe they should remain so.

Same-sex marriage is a concept with which few Americans are comfortable, and I do not believe that the judgment of one court in a single State should hold sway over the rest of the Nation. States should have the ability to disregard same-sex marriages if they so choose, and this legislation would permit them to do that.

Many aspects of this debate are troubling, as it touches not only on questions of law and the Constitution, but also on deeply held personal views about values, cultural traditions, and religion. As legislators, we are not always adept at debating matters such as this, and we find ourselves on far less comfortable ground in debating Federal legislative approaches to highly personal matters. We are more adept at debating matters of law and policy. But here I think we are on uncertain territory, and we have had already differing views expressed during the course of this debate.

Unfortunately, such debate sometimes occurs in an atmosphere of rigidity and intolerance. They are not dialogs aimed at reaching any sort of understanding but, rather, become shouting matches, which can happen in the public arena in our own States, not aimed at reaching any sort of understanding, in which each side becomes securely stationed behind its line in the sand. The terms of engagement are set by extremists at both ends. I have been picketed by both sides, out in my own State, in Kansas.

The debate over this legislation has been no exception. Nothing will make the issues any easier, but no purpose is served by abandoning civility and a respect for differing viewpoints in the process. Nor should we forget that at the heart of the debate over homosexuality are individual Americans. An abstract subject takes on different dimensions when given the face of a friend, a family member, a coworker. The things we all hold dear—family, friendships, a job, a home—present a unique set of challenges for the gay community. It should come as little surprise that, like anyone else, gay men and women would like to live their lives without being defined only by their sexual orientation.

Shortly after the August recess, I visited with a young man from Kansas who made a strong plea in opposition to the Defense of Marriage Act, arguing that fear was the driving force behind the measure. Although I was not persuaded to change my position on the legislation, I was deeply moved by his very genuine desire to move the debate beyond stereotypes and unchallenged assumptions.

Congress is not the ideal forum for the resolution of these issues, nor will any piece of legislation settle them. However, the tone we set in our deliberations is one which will be echoed around kitchen tables and worksites throughout the Nation. Let that tone be one which honors our democratic traditions of reasoned debate, responsible decisionmaking, and respect for all individuals.

I yield the floor.

Mr. KENNEDY. I yield 7 minutes to the Senator from Wisconsin.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Wisconsin is recognized.

Mr. FEINGOLD. Mr. President, the legislation before this body obviously touches upon a deeply personal and emotional area. The institution of marriage is a vital foundation of any ordered society including this one. However, I think it is important amid a great deal of talk about the need to defend marriage, that we look at the context in which this legislation is brought before this body.

As a member of the Senate Judiciary Committee, I recently had an opportunity to attend a hearing on this legislation and review the arguments made by both sides. Based upon that record, it was obvious that both sides feel very strongly about the positions they hold. However, having reviewed the arguments, I have reached the conclusion that this legislation is neither necessary nor appropriate for the Federal Government to enact at this time.

First, it is not clear that this is even an appropriate area for Federal legislation. Historically, family law matters, including marriage, divorce, and child custody laws, have always been within the jurisdiction of State governments, not the Federal Government. Throughout my tenure in this body, I have opposed legislation which needlessly extends Federal jurisdiction into issues that have traditionally been the domain of the State and local governments. For this reason, I opposed crime legislation that expanded Federal law enforcement into areas traditionally handled by the State and local law enforcement. Similarly, I opposed efforts to federally mandate helmets for motorcycle riders, because I believed that States should retain that authority. This legislation is yet another example of a continuing trend of the Federal Government needlessly injecting itself into areas of the law which have been historically left to the States.

Second, and perhaps more telling, the alleged urgency of this Federal intervention is wholly unwarranted. The simple and undeniable fact is that no State currently recognizes same-sex marriage, nor does it even remotely appear that any State legislature may be contemplating doing so. While some of my colleagues voice a concern over a court case in the State of Hawaii, resolution of that trial will not determine this matter with any finality. There will be a series of appeals, no doubt. Even if the Hawaiian State courts find the Hawaiian constitution compels recognition of same-sex marriage, final resolution of this issue is at least a couple of years away. Somehow, this is still deemed a priority in the waning days of the 104th Congress. It is ironic that this Congress would set aside time needed for addressing issues such as the Chemical Weapons Treaty and funding for Head Start, to address a perceived problem which does not exist today and will not exist, if ever, for at least 2 years.

And this is from the same Congress that, for the second year in a row, will likely fail in its fundamental responsibility to pass all of the appropriations bills necessary to keep the Government operating. The same Congress that stalled passage of health insurance reform for nearly 9 months and took nearly as long to give the working families of this Nation a much-deserved and overdue raise in the minimum wage has somehow made this issue a priority.

Mr. President, even at some point in the future the Hawaiian State courts reach the conclusion that same-sex unions must be recognized under their constitution, there is a great deal of uncertainty as to what effect, if any, that decision might have on other States.

Legal opinions vary on this, but there is plenty of legal opinion that the States simply would not be compelled to give recognition to these marriages from other States. A number of legal scholars believe that States already have the authority, under traditional conflict of laws doctrines, to refuse to recognize marriages which are contrary to their own laws or public policy. If this is the case, States do not need the Federal Government granting them permission to exercise a right which they already hold. Until that view is resolved differently, it seems to me we should defer to the power of the States to address this issue on their own.

Some scholars believe that States would be compelled to recognize these unions by the full faith and credit clause of the U.S. Constitution, irrespective of this statutory effort to say otherwise. And still others oppose this bill because it, seemingly for the first time, assumes that Congress has the power to determine the applicability and scope of the full faith and credit clause, a position which would signal a significant change in the traditional application of this provision.

The degree of uncertainty surrounding the constitutional implications of this legislation is striking. That uncertainty, coupled with the fact same-sex marriage is not legal anywhere in this country, suggests to me we should move with caution. It is far more prudent, in my opinion, given the personal and divisive nature of this issue, to wait until a real, not a speculative, conflict arises between the States.

So, in my opinion, this legislation is unwarranted. Congress and the American people face many pressing challenges, challenges we all heard so much about at the recent conventions, challenges ranging from the need to reduce the Federal deficit to increasing educational opportunities and job security for all Americans and preventing the spread of drugs and crime in our country. Real problems which affect the lives of millions of Americans today.

(Mrs. KASSEBAUM assumed the chair.)

Mr. FEINGOLD. Madam President, I cannot think of a lower priority for the Federal Government than to spend this time interfering with the private laws of law-abiding citizens. Before we endeavor to address problems which do not even exist, we should dedicate ourselves to solving those that do. The people of this Nation expect and deserve nothing less, and, therefore, Madam President, I will oppose this legislation.

EMPLOYMENT NONDISCRIMINATION ACT

Let me say with regard to the ENDA bill, that is a piece of legislation I will support and cosponsor. It does, in fact, deal with a real problem in this country, unlike the DOMA legislation, and I hope that we have a strong positive vote of putting the Senate in favor of ending discrimination in that area.

Mr. President, I rise today to offer my strong support for the Employment Nondiscrimination Act. I want to commend my colleague from Vermont, Senator JEFFORDS, and my colleague from Connecticut, Senator LIEBERMAN, as well as my colleague from Massachusetts, Senator KENNEDY, for their dedication to bringing this important piece of legislation before this body and to the attention of the American people. I am a cosponsor of this legislation and believe it should be adopted for very simple, but important and fundamental reasons.

Mr. President, there can be no doubt that the history of this Nation is marked by our continuing efforts to stop discrimination—be it in the workplace, in our schools, or in our places of public accommodation. It is also equally true that this Nation's history is marked by the simple notion that if one works hard and keeps their nose to the grindstone, then they too may share in the American dream. Yet, in this country today, these simple but important foundations of our culture are denied to gay and lesbian Americans for no other reason than that they are in fact, gay or lesbian.

Mr. President, this legislation would attempt to stop that practice and prohibit employment discrimination against individuals because of their sexual orientation. To date only nine States, including my home State of Wisconsin, have passed comprehensive legislation to ban employment discrimination based on sexual orientation. In the 41 remaining States, however, it is permissible to discriminate against a worker based upon that worker's sexual orientation irrespective of their qualifications, dedication to their job, or work performance.

What this legislation would do is to simply ensure that basic American right to fair and just treatment in the employment arena cannot be denied based solely upon a person's sexual orientation. It provides, in essence, the right for gay and lesbian workers to be treated like everyone else—to be judged on the merits of one's contributions, not their sexual preference.

Mr. President, it is essential to note that this bill confers no special or preferential rights upon gays and lesbians. It exempts small businesses, the military, and religious organizations and explicitly prohibits preferential treatment, including quotas. The focus of this effort is directed at stopping employment discrimination which exists today. The discrimination targeted by this measure is real. It is not speculative or merely a possibility at some point in the future—it is, in fact, occurring today. If this Nation is to reach its full potential in these ever changing economic times, then we must acknowledge and welcome the contribution of all hard-working Americans in the workplace. The Employment Nondiscrimination Act does just that. It is a sound, and in my view, necessary step to helping ensure the opportunity for millions of Americans to earn a living free of the fear of discrimination. It has the support of Members of both political parties, church and civic leaders, the President, as well as major corporations—corporations which know first hand the value of a discrimination free workplace. We should learn from their experiences.

The notion that someone could be fired solely because they are gay or lesbian should be offensive to each of us. Just a few weeks ago, for 8 days of political conventions, both major political parties spent countless hours in a battle to seem more inclusive, more tolerant, more fair than the other. This legislation offers Members of both parties a legitimate opportunity to move from rhetoric into action and provide gay and lesbian Americans the opportunity to work and earn a living free of the fear of losing their jobs solely because of their sexual orientation.

The very premise of job discrimination contradicts traditional American values and we must do all we can to stop it. We should adopt this legislation.

I thank the Chair.

Mr. NICKLES addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Oklahoma.

Mr. NICKLES. Madam President, how much time remains on both sides?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There are 3 minutes for the Senator from Oklahoma and 29 for the Senator from Massachusetts.

Mr. NICKLES. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent for an additional 2 minutes and recognize the Senator from Missouri for 5 minutes.

Mr. KENNEDY. I object, unless we have 4 minutes equally divided.

Mr. NICKLES. I ask unanimous consent both sides have an additional 2 minutes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. NICKLES. I yield 5 minutes to the Senator from Missouri.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Missouri.

Mr. ASHCROFT. Madam President, I thank the Senator from Oklahoma.

I am grateful for this opportunity to rise in support of this legislation, known as the Defense of Marriage Act. I believe it is important for us to outline exactly what this bill would do and what it would not do, because in much of the discussion, it is portrayed as a measure which would overrule State laws and somehow snatch from States the capacity for defining what a marriage is within the State.

The truth of the matter is, this would not change the capacity of States to define for their own purposes the nature of marriage in any State in America. It would define, for purposes of the Federal Government, what constitutes a marriage. And that is very important, because unless we have a Federal definition of what marriage is, a variety of States around the country could define marriage differently—they have not to date—and if they were to define marriage differently, people in different States would have different eligibility to receive Federal benefits, which would be inappropriate.

It has been said that it is not important to do this because there have not been any States making these changes. I think it is pretty clear that it is important to do this because States are on the brink of making such changes, one State's law having been stricken by its highest court on the basis that it was unduly discriminatory.

Let me just indicate that as long ago as in the 1970's, a male demanded increased educational benefits from the U.S. Government when he claimed that another male individual was his dependent spouse. The Veterans' Administration turned him down, and the Veterans' Administration was sued. The outcome turned on a Federal statute that made eligibility for the benefits contingent on his State's definition of "spouse" and "marriage."

If the definition is different in one State for Federal benefits than it is in another State, we will find that States will be able to accord benefits to citizens in a way which is irrational and inconsistent, giving citizens of one State higher benefits or different benefits than citizens of another State.

It is time for the Federal Government to define what a marriage is for purposes of Federal benefits which, obviously, come at the expense of the taxpayers of this country. It is not unreasonable at all, for purposes of Federal benefits, whether it is Social Security, education benefits, or veterans benefits of one kind or another, for this Congress to say these are the conditions under which those benefits flow. They should be uniform for people no matter where they come from in this country. People in one State should not have a higher claim on Federal benefits than people in another State.

For that reason, it is entirely appropriate for us, as a Congress, to say that we want a Federal benefits structure that follows a uniform definition of "marriage," and for purposes of the Federal benefits program, we have this definition, and that is what this law provides.

Second, this law then says that a State will not be required to recognize another State's definition of marriage if that includes individuals of the same sex. Now, every State has benefits that flow to those who are married. It comes from the fact that there are real societal and social benefits to marriages. Marriages bring children into the world. That is the next generation.

Unfortunately, it is the young people who defend the country when we are assaulted from abroad. And if you don't have children who grow up to be in the work force, who pays for the retirement of those who have already retired? We have set up our society on the basis of children who come into the world, and we honor the institution that brings children into the world and gives them values, by according special standing to marriage. That is not only done at the Federal level, which we already have addressed, it is done in every State in America.

A State ought to be able to say you are going to get these benefits if you are in this category, if you meet this definition of marriage. But if we use the term marriage in one State and then we allow another State to define it as something entirely different than what the first State which was developing the benefit structure intended, we have really allowed one State to define for other States what will be the qualifying characteristics for their laws and their benefits.

It is clear to me that a State should have the right to say that these are the characteristics of the relationship which will result in our State according you either the deduction or the special benefit, whether it relates to taxes or education or inheritance or the like. States should have the right to do that on their own terms.

So this proposal simply defines, in a uniform way for Federal benefits, the nature of what a marriage is, and it says that no State shall be able to impose its definition of marriage on other States.

I thank the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator's time has expired. Who yields time?

Mr. KENNEDY. Madam President, as I understand it, now there are 31 minutes remaining for our side?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. That is correct.

Mr. KENNEDY. Madam President, I yield 20 minutes to the Senator from Virginia, 6 minutes to the Senator from Nebraska, and 5 minutes to the Senator from Oregon.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Virginia is recognized.

Mr. ROBB. Mr. President, as one who represents a traditionally conservative State, it's not easy to take on this issue. In fact, many of my friends and supporters have urged me to sit this one out because of the potential political fallout, but I can't do that. I feel very strongly that this legislation is fundamentally wrong—and feeling as I do I would not be true to my conscience or my oath of office if I failed to speak out against it. I believe we have an obligation to confront the very real implications of the so-called Defense of Marriage Act.

Despite its name, the Defense of Marriage Act does not defend marriage against some imminent, crippling threat. Maintaining the freedom of States to define a civil union or a legal right to benefits cannot—and will not—harm the strength and power of marriage. Neither can it diminish the love between a husband and a wife, nor the devotion they feel toward their children.

Whether the Government should give official sanction to same-sex relationships does raise some extremely difficult issues, Mr. President—issues of morality, of religion, of child-bearing, of marriage and of the intimacies of life. But this legislation is not really about these difficult questions of domestic relations. As a constitutional matter, it is about placing the Federal Government in the midst of an issue firmly and historically within the jurisdiction of our States. And as a political matter, it is about denying a class of people benefits that no single State has yet conferred.

This bill also raises fundamental questions about the nature of our Federal system of Government, including the powers of the States under our Constitution and the scope of the full faith and credit clause. I believe the full faith and credit clause does not enable one State to legislate for another, and so the States don't need the protection of a Federal statute in this case. I also believe that it's inappropriate for the Federal Government to get involved in defining marriage—something States have done for themselves throughout our history.

These are important issues, Mr. President, and they deserve a full discussion, but they are not the issues that make this debate so difficult—or so important.

For beneath the high-minded discussions of constitutional principles and States rights lurks the true issue which confounds and divides us: the issue of how we feel about intimate conduct we neither understand nor feel comfortable discussing.

Mr. President, scientists have not yet discovered what causes homosexuals to be attracted to members of their own sex. For the vast majority of us who don't hear that particular drummer it's difficult to fully comprehend such an attraction.

But homosexuality has existed throughout human history. And even though medical research hasn't succeeded in telling us why a small but significant number of our fellow human beings have a different sexual orientation, the clear weight of serious scholarship has concluded that people do not choose to be homosexual, any more than they choose their gender or their race. Or any more than we choose to be heterosexual. And given the prejudice too often directed toward gay people and the pressure they feel to hide the truth—their very identities—from family, friends and employers, it's hard to imagine why anyone would actually choose to bear such a heavy burden unnecessarily.

The fact of the matter is that we can't change who we are, or how God made us and that realization is increasingly accepted by succeeding generations. It has been my experience that more and more high school and college students today accept individual classmates as straight or gay without emotion or stigma. They accept what they cannot change as a fact of life. Which brings to mind one of my favorite prayers:

God, grant me the serenity to accept the things I cannot change
The courage to change the things I can,
And the wisdom to know the difference.

I suspect that for older generations fear has often kept this issue from being discussed openly before now—fear that anyone who expressed an understanding view of the plight of homosexuals was likely to be labeled one. Because of this fear, the battle against discrimination has largely been left to those who were directly affected by it. Mr. President, I believe it is time for those of us who are not homosexual to join the fight. A basic respect for human dignity—which gives us the strength to reject racial, gender and religious intolerance—dictates that in America we also eliminate discrimination against homosexuals. I believe that ending this discrimination is the last frontier in the ultimate fight for civil and human rights.

Most Americans accept the basic tenet that discrimination for any reason is wrong. We grow uncomfortable, however, with some of its implications. The question we face now is whether that discomfort warrants continued discrimination.

Although we have made huge strides in the struggle against discrimination based on gender, race and religion, it is more difficult to see beyond our differences regarding sexual orientation. It's human nature to be uncomfortable with feelings we don't understand or share and to step away from those who are different. But it's also human resolve that allows us to overcome those impulses, to step forward and celebrate those many qualities we share. The fact that our hearts don't all speak in the same way is not cause or justification to discriminate.

There are not many in this Chamber who truly seek to discriminate. Some here support the Defense of Marriage Act because many of the good people they represent believe that homosexuality is morally wrong, and therefore same-sex unions should not be permitted by the Government. A number of our colleagues have told me privately that they are not comfortable supporting this legislation, but the political consequences are too great to oppose it.

Others admit that they intend to discriminate, but they believe that discrimination here is justified. They justify their prejudice against homosexuals by arguing that homosexuality is morally wrong—thereby assuming it is not a trait but a choice, and a choice to be condemned.

But history has shown that current moral and social views may ultimately prove to be a weak foundation on which to rest institutionalized discrimination.

Until 1967, 16 States, including my own State of Virginia, had laws banning couples from different races to marry. When the law was challenged, Virginia argued that interracial marriages were simply immoral. The trial court upheld Virginia's law and asserted that "Almighty God created the races white, black, yellow, malay, and red, and he placed them on separate continents. The fact that he separated the races shows that He did not intend for the races to mix." Loving v. Virginia, 388 U.S. 1 (1967). The Supreme Court struck down these archaic laws, holding that "the freedom of choice to marry" had "long been recognized as one of the vital personal rights essential to the orderly pursuit of happiness by free men."

Today we know that the moral discomfort—even revulsion—that citizens then felt about legalizing interracial marriages did not give them the right to discriminate 30 years ago. Just as discomfort over sexual orientation does not give us the right to discriminate against a class of Americans today.

Ultimately, Mr. President, immorality flows from immoral choices. But if homosexuality is an inalienable characteristic, which cannot be altered by counseling or willpower, then moral objections to gay marriages do not appear to differ significantly from moral objections to interracial marriages.

Mr. President, at its core marriage is a legal institution officially sanctioned by society through its Government. This poses the dilemma of whether a society should recognize a union which the majority either can't relate to or believes is contrary to established moral tenets or religious principles. We find ourselves again at the intersection of morality and Government, a place where some of our most divisive and complicated social issues have torn at us throughout our history as a Nation. Prayer in school, abortion, the death penalty, assisted suicide—these most troubling issues of our day force us to confront the difficulty of legislating where social mores and individual liberties collide.

I believe social mores can and should guide our Government. But sometimes we need to choose between conflicting moral judgments. For example, some believe very deeply that no matter how heinous a crime a person commits, the death penalty is immoral because no human should take the life of another. But while we respect those views, we have legally restored the death penalty. Many believe homosexuality is immoral, but many also believe that discriminating against people for attributes they cannot control is immoral. When moral objections are used to justify blatant discrimination, however, we need to tread carefully.

In this case, we should tread more carefully still, because marriage is also a religious institution. Religious ceremonies evoke powerful images: a couple committing themselves to each other before God and family, a union blessed and supported by religious teachings, a ceremony based on scripture and biblical studies. But we have to remember today that government has a role only in the civil institution, separate and distinct from marriage as a religious ceremony.

The truth is, this bill will not affect, one way or another, how individual religions deal with same-sex marriages. Government sanction of gay marriages does not alter the religious institution, and as author Andrew Sullivan has argued, "Particular religious arguments against same-sex marriages are rightly debated within the churches and faiths themselves." Religions that prohibit gay marriages will continue to do so, just as some refuse to permit marriages between individuals of different faiths. Such couples simply have to forgo the religious blessing of the marriage, and be content with only civil recognition of their union.

Marriage, as a civil institution, recognizes the union of two individuals who are so committed to each other that they seek to have their civic rights and responsibilities formally merged into one. And, Mr. President, when that civil institution is separated from a religious ceremony, and that civil institution is recognized by a sovereign State, then denying Federal recognition of that union amounts to nothing short of indefensible discrimination.

Unfortunately, Mr. President, discrimination is not new in this country. Countless courageous Americans have risked their careers and even their lives to defy discrimination. We forget today how difficult these acts were in their own time. We forget how different our world would be if these pioneers had taken the easy path. One thing we do know, Mr. President, is that time has been the enemy of discrimination in America. It has allowed our views on race and gender and religion to evolve dramatically, inevitably, in the American tradition of progress and inclusion.

We're not there yet, Mr. President. In matters of race, gender, and religion, we've passed the laws, implemented the court decisions, signed the executive orders. And every day we work to battle the underlying prejudice that no law or judicial remedy or executive act can completely erase. But we've made the greatest strides forward when individuals, faced with their moment in history, were not afraid to act. And time has allowed us to see more clearly the humanity that binds us, rather than the religious, gender, racial, and other differences that distinguish us. But I fear, Mr. President, that if we don't stand here against this bill, we will stand on the wrong side of history, not unlike the majority of the Supreme Court who upheld the "separate but equal" doctrine in Plessy versus Ferguson. And with the benefit of time, the verdict of history is not likely to be as forgiving as we might believe it to be today.

Mr. President, I believe we ought to continue to let the States decide if and how they want to confront the issue of a civil union between members of the same sex. They decide it in all other instances. In fact, they have managed it without congressional interference for 200 years. As the supreme court of Hawaii has recently noted, in the very case which has led to the introduction of the Defense of Marriage Act, "the power to regulate marriage is a sovereign function reserved exclusively to the respective States."

Most of us are uncomfortable discussing in public the intimacies of life. And most of us are equally uncomfortable with those who flaunt their eccentricities and their nonconformity, whether gay or straight.

But in the end, we cannot allow our discomfort to be used to justify discrimination. We are not entitled to that indulgence. We cannot afford it. But doing the right thing is not always easy and I know this is not an easy vote even for those who may agree with my argument.

It is, in a very real sense, a test of character and I hope as many colleagues as possible will take time to reflect before casting their vote. If enough of us have the courage to vote against the Defense of Marriage Act, I believe we can convince the President to do what I know in his heart of hearts he knows he should do to this discriminatory legislation. A nation as great as ours should not be enacting the Defense of Marriage Act.

Ultimately, Mr. President, I would say to our fellow Senators: you don't have to be an advocate of same-sex marriages to vote against the Defense of Marriage Act. You only have to be an opponent of discrimination.

Mr. President, I'll conclude today with the words of a courageous American whom I seldom quote but to whom I'm eternally indebted. President Lyndon Johnson often said, "It's not hard to do what's right, it's hard to know what's right." We know it is right to abolish discrimination. And if we reflect on what this bill is—an attempt to discriminate—rather than on what it is packaged to be—a defense of marriage—we will come down on the right side of history.

With that, Madam President, I thank the Chair, and I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Nebraska is recognized for 6 minutes.

Mr. KENNEDY. Could the Senator yield for a unanimous-consent request?

Mr. KERREY. I yield.

Mr. THURMOND. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that prior to the two consecutive votes scheduled at 2:15, there be 2 minutes of debate equally divided in the usual form.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. KERREY. Madam President, the Defense of Marriage Act [DOMA] is proposed and sold as a simple measure, limited in scope, and based on common sense. It is none of these things. DOMA certainly cannot be called a simple measure when it proposes to have the Federal Government intervene in matters previously reserved to the States. Conservative advocates of States rights should not brush aside this interference merely because they find a purpose which holds special appeal to them. And with this law the Federal Government will have taken the first—and if history is a good guide, probably not the last—step into the States' business of marriage and family law.

DOMA certainly cannot be called limited in scope except for those of us who will be unaffected by this abridgement of rights. The small class of citizens affected do not believe this law is limited in scope. Of course the fact that only a relatively few homosexual couples will be affected begs the question: Why should we heterosexuals worry? We have more important business to tend to. Why should we put ourselves at risk for a small minority of men and women who are willing to make a lifetime commitment to another human being but, whose love of someone of the same sex violates others' personal beliefs? Two reasons. First, these couples are not hurting us with their actions; in fact they may be helping us by showing us that love can conquer hatred. Second, we may be next. That's how the rights of the majority are threatened: One minority group at a time.

As to the third representation made by supporters, DOMA does not appear to me to be based on common sense. Common sense tells me: Do not pass a law that is not needed. And DOMA is not needed. States can already refuse to recognize marriages that violate their strong public policies. For example, if Nebraska's Legislature chooses to not recognize a marriage contract between under-age couples, it can do so. The courts have upheld that right. The court would also uphold Nebraska's right to not recognize a same-sex marriage in another State although no State currently allows such marriages.

In fact, same-sex marriage laws are not sweeping their way through State legislatures. Local politicians are just as nervous or frightened of this issue as we are. Rather than getting ahead of an issue that is heading our way, we are losing our way to save our political heads.

So why worry about DOMA? I worry because despite references to the contrary we are doing much more than passing a law that is not needed. We are establishing, in the Federal code, a prohibition against a narrow class of people; a Federal law will preempt State law and discriminate against these individuals by saying they cannot do what all other Americans can legally do. And, we are establishing a means to carry out other Federal remedies to State-level family law problems. I would vote against DOMA if it only did the first of these things. However, it is the second which should strike fear into the heart of heterosexual Americans who wonder if this could affect them some day. The answer is it can and probably will. Even if it is not your loved one who is unable to visit you on your deathbed because laws forbid non-family members from entering your room, this bill could someday touch your life.

For example, once this bill has passed and been signed into law, advocates of Federal involvement in personal decisions may propose adding other language. They may say: Let's examine the heterosexual activity which common sense and empirical evidence tells us is a threat to the institution of marriage: divorce. Divorce—not same-sex marriage—is the No. 1 enemy of marriage. And, with a Federal definition of marriage in chapter 1 of title 1 of the United States Code, future Congresses would have a Federal vehicle to attack divorce. DOMA's language, which provides that "'marriage' means only a legal union between one man and one woman as husband and wife," could easily be amended to prevent States from recognizing divorce decrees which occurred in the 1st year of marriage, 2nd year, or the 10th year. Beyond divorce, we could add custody language or other Federal requirements on married couples. Supporters of DOMA say they are not creating a Federal certificate of marriage. True enough today. However, they are creating an easy way for us to reach that goal.

Supporters of DOMA say a Federal definition of marriage is needed because Federal benefits are at risk. This is making a mountain out of a mole hill. Even if the same percentage of homosexual Americans were married as heterosexual Americans, 40 percent, the threat to the Treasury would be modest. Approximately 5 percent of the population is gay or lesbian. Therefore, we are only talking about 2 percent of the population that could possibly benefit if same sex marriages were recognized. Further, Congress can choose to exclude same-sex partners from any Federal benefit it chooses, as we did with the family and medical leave legislation.

Proponents also say, the current United States Code does not contain a definition of marriage, presumably because Americans have known what it means. Not true. Federal definitions of marriage, divorce, child custody, and other family matters have been omitted because Americans have known what it means when the Federal Government starts to legislate in new areas. Americans know that once we start, we cannot stop.

Heterosexual Americans who wonder why they should be concerned with a law that restricts the freedom of a minority class should be advised: The bell that tolls for them could soon toll for thee.

Heterosexual Americans should know: Marriage is not under attack from rising numbers of homosexual Americans who are making commitments to each other. Marriage is under attack when a person is too busy, too preoccupied, and too concerned about taking care of No. 1 to take care of No. 2 or 3 or 4. Marriage is under attack in that moment when a man or woman is tempted to forget their commitment to love "until death do us part."

My mother and father's generation did not forget. My generation unfortunately did. My children's generation, thank God, appears to be remembering again. And in this remembering lies the hope for marriage and other sacred traditions so important to our Nation. Not a Federal statute.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Oregon is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. WYDEN. Thank you, Madam President. Madam President, at the heart of this debate is a judgment each Senator must make about what the Federal Government ought to stick its nose into.

This has been a Congress dedicated to the proposition of reducing the role of the Federal Government in the lives of our citizens. This Congress has sought to turn away the Federal desire to intrude and leave important decisions to private individuals and, if necessary, local and State government.

Marriage has historically been a private matter between two people. It has long been a matter that has been reserved for the States. Now the Congress that has sought to contract Federal power hungers for Federal regulation of the institution of marriage. This Federal expansionism makes no sense to me.

When I talk with gay and lesbian Oregonians, they invariably ask me about the concerns held by the majority of Americans. They ask about jobs and wages and health care and crime. Not once has a gay or lesbian Oregonian come to me and asked that the Federal Government endorse their lifestyle. They simply ask to be left alone. In this regard, they are very similar to what I hear from ranchers and small business owners and fishermen and scores of other of our citizens.

One of the fundamental principles on which our Nation was built is the freedom to enjoy life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. The Constitution doesn't give Congress or the States the power to specifically exclude an individual or group of individuals from the enjoyment of life, liberty, or the pursuit of happiness. But this legislation would.

Is the legislation constitutional? Where in the Constitution does it say equal rights for all—except those that the majority disagrees with? This bill is not only of dubious constitutionality, it seems to me to be a repudiation of traditional conservatism. It is conservative, Madam President, to keep private conduct private. It is certainly conservative to promote monogamy. It is conservative to promote personal responsibility and commitment.

This bill isn't conservative; it is Big Brother to the core. My judgment is that this is a subject the Federal Government ought not stick its nose into.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New Jersey is recognized for 4 minutes.

Mr. BRADLEY. I ask unanimous consent to continue until my speech is finished.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. BRADLEY. Madam President, the first point to make is that this issue should not be coming before us today. No State in the United States has passed a law that recognizes same-sex marriages. To the contrary, 15 States have passed laws prohibiting them. I wish I did not have to deal with this issue. It makes me feel uncomfortable. I feel I'm on ground full of quicksand. But, as a Senator, one is asked to vote to decide, so that is what I am doing today.

My views on gay issues have evolved over the years. I have always been opposed to discrimination on the basis of race, gender, ethnicity. Then I came to see that the same concerns about discrimination have to also apply to sexual orientation, if I were to carry the logic of civil rights to its natural conclusion.

But the countervailing thought in a society as diverse as ours is that opponents of gay rights have rooted their opposition to religion. Many opponents assert that God has not ordained homosexuality. These individuals sometimes use the power of Scripture to perpetuate the idea that homosexuality is a choice, and if you choose it, similar to choosing anything that Scripture prohibits, you are guilty of flaunting your dismissal of God's will and strictures. These individuals also sometimes use Scripture to perpetuate blatant discrimination, hiding behind Scripture to cover up an underlying intolerance.

Madam President, I believe that homosexuality is not a choice. Homosexual behavior, on occasion, might be a choice. But having a homosexual orientation and being a gay is not a choice. I believe that it is more similar to being born with red hair than it is to choosing to tell a lie. The latter requires a decision; the former just is. You can cover up the former, but underneath the dyes and wigs the hair is still red.

At the same time, I believe there is no denying the fact that large numbers of Americans have deeply held religious beliefs about homosexuality and marriage. Even in questions of discrimination against gays, there is a conflict between religious faith and rights. Madam President, I have resolved that conflict in my own mind by saying that in things secular rights shall prevail, be dominant.

I believe, for example, that there should be no discrimination against gays in housing and employment, and that is why I have been a long supporter of gay rights in these areas, with the proviso that religious institutions that would see these anti-discrimination laws as interfering with their freedom of religion are exempted. ENDA, in my view, does that. It achieves the balance between ending discrimination against gays and respecting freedom of religion. The issue of gay marriage, in my view, does not achieve that balance.

I believe marriage is, first of all, a predominantly religious institution. For example, it is one of the sacraments of the Christian faith, but it is also, in our society, a secular institution. Therefore, it is fraught with a degree of ambiguity. In all cases, it has been a state that exists between a man and a woman. In no country in the world, in no religion that I know of, does the state of marriage exist between two people of the same sex. Therefore, when we contemplate giving state sanction to same-sex marriages, we need to proceed cautiously.

At the same time there are many partners of same-sex relationships who have loving and committed relationships over many years. The question arises, how do we acknowledge the existence of these committed relationships—the partner's desire to be at the bedside of his or her dying partner or to see that a partner receives the benefits that accrue to a survivor of a long and loving relationship?

One might point out that the only way we can do that now is through marriage. There ought to be another way, and I am prepared to look for that other way, but I do not see marriage as flexible enough an institution to accept such redefinition at this time. Too many people in too many places of too many faiths see it as the state that exists between a man and a woman, and they see same-sex marriages as an incomprehensible trespass.

Madam President, that is what this bill is all about. That is what the so-called DOMA legislation is all about. It says marriage should not be redefined to include individuals of the same sex because marriage with all its religious connotations is different from a secular desire to get housing or a good job.

So, Madam President, in trying to balance the religious and historical idea of marriage with the need for extending rights, I say that rights should extend up to but not include recognition of same-sex marriages.

I yield the floor.

RECESS

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senate will now stand in recess until the hour of 2:15 p.m.

Thereupon, at 12:52 p.m., the Senate recessed until 2:15 p.m.; Whereupon, the Senate reassembled when called to order by the Presiding Officer [Mr. COATS].

NATIONAL DEFENSE AUTHORIZATION ACT FOR FISCAL YEAR 1997—CONFERENCE REPORT

The Senate resumed the consideration of the conference report.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from South Carolina is recognized.

Mr. THURMOND. Mr. President, this Defense authorization bill has been done from the very outset in a very bipartisan spirit. Senator NUNN, I am sure, will speak on that side to that effect. We have worked together, Republicans and Democrats, to bring into the Senate a bill that we feel is fair and just. The House has already passed this particular bill. The President has said he will sign this particular bill. I urge all Senators to vote for this bill and show support for our Armed Forces, the men and women who are sacrificing by serving our country and risking their lives to protect the liberty and freedom of this country.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Georgia is recognized for 1 minute.

Mr. NUNN. Mr. President, I share the sentiments of the Senator from South Carolina. This is a good bill for the men and women who serve in our military. This bill is an increase over the President's budget, but it is a decrease in real terms from last year's budget. So the decline in defense spending continues downward, but it is an incremental step upward from the President's budget.

The President said he will sign this. Virtually every provision in the House bill that the administration objected to has been either taken out of this conference report or has been handled in a way satisfactory to the administration. That would include the arms control provisions relating to the ABM Treaty and missile defense. It would also include those members of the military service who have HIV who, under the House bill, would have been automatically expelled from the service. That provision has been dropped.

So I urge those on this side of the aisle to vote for this bill as a strong step forward for our Nation's security.

Mr. GLENN. Mr. President, I rise in opposition to the conference report on the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1997. I oppose the conference report for many of the reasons I opposed the Senate bill. Unfortunately, the conference report is in many respects worse than the Senate bill.

The conference report includes $11.2 billion in unrequested funds, including almost $1 billion in additional funding for ballistic missile defense, hundreds of millions of dollars for unrequested military construction projects, and billions of dollars for weapons programs the Pentagon does not think it needs.

Another troubling aspect of the conference report involves land conveyances. I have been very concerned by the yearly practice in which Members of Congress include special land conveyances in the Defense authorization bill enabling the transfer of Federal property outside of the requirements of the Federal Property Act of 1949. Having been unable to curb outright the practice of making these sweetheart land deals, I have worked to ensure that the properties are screened by the General Services Administration to make sure that there is no other Federal interest in the properties. The conferees found the idea of protecting the Federal taxpayers' assets so distasteful that they refused to require a Federal screening for the land conveyances contained in the House bill. This decision is unacceptable in my view and I did not sign the conference report in large part due to this decision.

In addition, the conferees adopted a provision from the Senate bill which affords special retirement rights to a select group of employees affected by base closure. There has been no demonstrated need for this authority that will cost the American taxpayer millions of dollars in the out years and it is unfair to the hundreds of thousands of other Federal employees who have been affected by ongoing efforts to downsize the Government.

I would also mention my concern with a provision in the conference report that terminates the defense business operations funds [DBOF] in the year 1999. The purported reason for this provision as I understood from its proponents is to instill more discipline in the Defense Department's financial management. I have been concerned about the state of the Government's financial management for years. I have worked to enact legislation creating the inspectors general and the chief financial officers. I have held numerous and long detailed hearings on the condition of DBOF. I agree that the Pentagon has an obligation to the American taxpayer to focus more attention on getting its financial house in order. But, I do not agree that terminating DBOF will accomplish anything other than to create chaos where we should be seeking progress.

In addition, I have concerns about section 1033 of the conference report which significantly expands an existing program within the Department of Defense regarding the transfer of excess personal property. The Senate bill was silent on this issue. The House bill however expanded an existing DOD program which enables State and local agencies involved in drug enforcement activities to have a preference to obtain excess DOD personal property. The House bill expanded this program to enable all law enforcement activities to have this preference. Beyond that the conference added counterterrorism as an additional preferential category.

Now I bow to no one in my willingness to take action to enforce our drug laws and to fight terrorism. And it may be entirely appropriate for excess small arms and ammunition to be made available to law enforcement agencies for these purposes. However, I have serious concerns regarding the conference's approach. In particular, I have questions about the effect this provision will have on other entities entitled to receive excess property as a public benefit. I'm speaking not about small arms parts, but about computers, furniture, vehicles, and other equipment. Under current law potential beneficiaries to this equipment include, State agencies, hospitals, schools, the homeless, and other worthy causes. I do not believe that this concern was adequately considered in the conference. I intend to work with other Senators and Congressmen who share my concerns to clarify how the Secretary of Defense intends to implement this provision, and to take corrective legislative action if necessary.

The conferees also dropped a provision from the Senate bill that would allow women who are serving in the military or who are servicemembers' dependents from obtaining abortions in overseas military medical facilities. We have debated this issue repeatedly and I am very sorry the conferees again chose not to afford women who are stationed overseas the same basic rights available to women living in the United States.

Finally, I mention a number of House provisions that were dropped in conference: the so-called multilateralization and successor state provisions affecting the Anti-Ballistic Missile Treaty, the provision to repeal the don't-ask, don't-tell policy and the provisions relating to servicemembers diagnosed with HIV. I am genuinely pleased that these provisions were dropped from the conference report. However, I do not believe the mere elimination of completely unacceptable provisions from the conference report is a sufficient reason to support the conference report.

HUMANITARIAN DEMINING

Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, I would like to ask a question regarding section 1304 of the pending fiscal year 1997 National Defense Authorization Act. This provision would amend title 10, section 401 entitled "Humanitarian and civic assistance provided in conjunction with military operations."

The point that I would like clarified is whether the annual $5 million cap in new subsection (c)(3) would be a U.S. Governmentwide cap, or whether it is a cap on only DOD humanitarian assistance appropriations.

Mr. THURMOND. I can assure Senator LEAHY that the cap imposed by section 1304 applies only to funds made available to the Department of Defense for humanitarian and civic assistance. It was not intended as a U.S. Governmentwide cap. It does not apply to funds that are made available to other Federal agencies such as the Department of State or the Agency for International Development.

Mr. LEAHY. I thank the Senator for his explanation.

Mrs. MURRAY. Mr. President, I rise today to express my extreme disappointment in the outcome of the House and Senate conference on the Department of Defense authorization legislation. The Senate's version of this legislation contained an amendment offered by myself and Senator SNOWE to allow women servicemembers stationed abroad to obtain privately funded abortions at military facilities. It was very unfortunate that this provision was dropped from the final version of this legislation during negotiations between the Senate and the House.

Mr. President, my amendment simply restored a policy which responds to the unique needs of women serving overseas in our armed services. This policy, which was in place between 1973 and 1988 and between 1993 and 1996, allowed women to use private resources for medical abortion services at military hospitals. This policy is necessary to ensure the health and safety of women servicemembers because overseas health care facilities often do not provide comparable and safe care. Women serving our country in the Armed Forces deserve the same quality of care as women in the United States and to put them at risk is dangerous, unnecessary, and plain wrong.

Further, as I have said before, requiring a woman to travel to the United States to perform this procedure only delays a very time-sensitive procedure and increases the cost—both for the individual and the taxpayer—when a woman is stationed abroad.

We have had many debates in the 104th Congress about a woman's right to choose. My amendment simply guaranteed that women who serve in our Armed Forces have the same rights as women in the United States. It is a right women service personnel have held for most of the last 23 years.

Dropping my amendment is yet another in a long series of actions taken by this Congress to eliminate a woman's right to choose. From the first days of the 104th Congress to the closing hours of this second session, women have seen the new majority seek to undermine their rights at every opportunity. It saddens me to see the will of the Senate and the health care options of women serving in the Armed Forces traded away to the voices of extremism.

This Congress must know that the women and men of this country are awake and aware of these actions. We will be back. I assure you.

Mr. McCAIN. Mr. President, I rise today in support of the conference agreement on the fiscal year 1997 National Defense Authorization Act. I urge all of my colleagues to support this bill, which represents a reasonable and balanced compromise between the House and Senate on a number of very difficult issues.

Mr. President, I want to take a few minutes to highlight just a few of the very positive aspects of this bill.

This bill provides $265.6 billion for defense activities for the coming fiscal year, implementing the decision of the Republican Congress to add $11.2 billion to the President's defense budget request. We fought hard for the last 2 years to add a total of $18 billion to the inadequate defense budgets of this administration, because we recognized the need to ensure both current and future readiness of our military services.

In the Readiness Subcommittee, we provided $1 billion more than the budget request for operations and maintenance of the Armed Forces, and $270 million more than requested for ammunition procurement. These increases will ensure sufficient funding for day-to-day operations and training for the coming fiscal year.

The bulk of the added funding was allocated to military modernization programs. The bill authorizes an additional $6 billion for procurement of modern weapons systems, including tactical aircraft, sealift and airlift assets, improved communications systems, surveillance and reconnaissance, and other important warfighting equipment. The bill also adds $2.6 billion for research and development to maintain the technological edge of our military forces on the battlefields of the future, including a significant increase in both theater and national missile defense programs.

The bill also includes a number of legislative provisions which, I believe, will serve the best interests of the taxpayer and the Department of Defense.

First, the bill includes a new discretionary waiver of domestic source restrictions for our allies with whom we have reciprocal defense procurement agreements. This provision, which was included in the Senate bill, will provide the needed flexibility for the Secretary of Defense to purchase the best equipment at the lowest price for our military services. It will also help to promote continued free trade among our allies, rather than threatening reciprocal trade in defense items by restricting the United States to buying only American-made products. In my view, this is one of the most important provisions in this bill because of its potential to save money and preserve our longstanding positive defense trade balances with our allies.

The bill also authorizes $14 million in a newly established account under the control of the Secretary of Defense for antiterrorism activities and programs. This provision was added to make funds available for urgent, emergency requirements necessary to deter or defend against terrorism directed at our military personnel. The bombing of the U.S. military housing complex in Dhahran demonstrated the need for such an account.

Last year, the Congress approved the enactment of several provisions related to accounting for missing service personnel which the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and our warfighting CINC's opposed, arguing that they would interfere with their ability to conduct their missions in the event of war. This bill repeals several of those provisions without harming or limiting in any way the ability of the Department of Defense to continue its intensive program to locate and recover the remains of all those missing in action in wartime.

I am particularly pleased that the conferees agreed to drop from the bill both the Senate and House provisions regarding discharge of military personnel who test positive for the HIV virus. This allows the Department of Defense to continue its current policy of non-discrimination and fair treatment of all military personnel with conditions which prevent them from deploying with their units.

The bill authorizes compensation for Vietnamese commandoes who participated in United States wartime operations in Vietnam and were captured by North Vietnam. Payment of these amounts is a matter of fairness and is long overdue.

The conferees also approved a Senate provision, cosponsored by myself, Senators LIEBERMAN, COATS, and ROBB, which directs the Department of Defense to conduct a new assessment of U.S. national security strategy and military force structure requirements. This provision provides specific guidance to the Department for its Quadrennial Defense Review. The provision also establishes a nonpartisan panel of national security experts to review the Department's work and to provide an independent assessment of alternative force structures and strategies. In light of the continuing changes in the post-cold-war world, I believe it is necessary to conduct such a comprehensive reassessment of our national security posture.

The bill also requires the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff to provide an assessment of the readiness requirements of each of the services, using a tiered readiness concept that I discussed in a March 1996 white paper. This report is important to the development of this concept, which could result in savings in operation and maintenance funding which could be reallocated to the modernization accounts where a significant shortfall remains.

The bill also includes language requiring fair pricing of United States military equipment to be transferred to Bosnia under existing drawdown authority. Since the equip and train program for the Bosnian Muslims is an essential part of the exit strategy for United States troops serving in the peace implementation force [IFOR] in Bosnia, it is essential that the program be implemented properly and promptly if we are to meet the end-of-1996 withdrawal deadline for IFOR.

Finally, the bill includes a provision requiring organizers of civilian sporting events to reimburse the Department of Defense for the cost of providing security and other support services, only if the event makes a profit. This provision is designed to ensure that defense dollars are available for defense purposes, but it will have no effect on the availability of our military services to provide needed security assistance at these events.

Again, I thank Chairman THURMOND and his staff for achieving such an excellent conference agreement on these important issues.

At the same time, Mr. President, I regret that the conferees deleted the Senate's provisions related to competitive allocation of workload among public and private maintenance depots. The Senate tried to take a positive step toward fair and open competition for depot maintenance work. I am sorry that the conferees were unable to agree to include these provisions, because it could have saved the taxpayers money and allowed the Pentagon to shed excess capacity at its government-owned depots.

The most controversial aspect of the depot issue is the 60-40 rule which requires that at least 60 percent of all funds expended on depot maintenance be spent in public depots, owned and operated by the Department of Defense. I believe that this 60-40 rule is arbitrary and prevents the Department of Defense from taking actions that could potentially result in a savings of billions of dollars. I would like to point to a recent report by the Congressional Budget Office entitled "Reducing the Deficit: Spending and Revenue Options." This report contains a section dealing with the depot issue and the potential savings that could be realized by relying upon the private sector to perform much of the work that the current 60-40 rule requires to be performed by the public depots. According to this report, cumulative savings after 6 years might amount to roughly $400 million, rising to over $3 billion after 10 years if the total workload assigned to public depots on a sole source basis is reduced to 30 percent. CBO estimates that, in the long run, DOD might save on the order of $1 billion annually if it used public depots only for those tasks that could not be handled competitively in the private sector. Estimated savings of shifting from public to private production range from 20 to 40 percent.

Mr. President, although readiness has been used as the justification for maintaining the arbitrary 60-40 rule, I believe that it is a justification without foundation. DOD already relies on the private sector to repair many specialized components on its most up-to-date systems. Furthermore, since we rely upon the private sector industrial capability to supply our military forces with this equipment, it seems unreasonable to distrust this same private sector capability to maintain the equipment.

That is the only major legislative provision which was resolved in a way that I cannot approve. In fact, let me say that I was very pleased with the resolution of a number of legislative provisions adopted in the last few days of the Senate's consideration of this bill. The conferees chose to remove legislative earmarks for all of these projects and considered each on a case-by-case basis. Of the most egregious legislative earmarks attached to the bill, none were included in this final conference agreement as legislative earmarks. For that wise decision, I thank the conferees.

However, Mr. President, I note with serious disappointment that many of the special interest and pork-barrel items, to which I objected in the additional views I filed with the Committee, are included in this conference agreement.

These programs are: $850 million in unrequested, low-priority military construction projects—$150 million more than the Senate-passed bill; $780 million for unrequested Guard and Reserve equipment, including $189.6 million for four C-130J aircraft; $470.7 million for nine additional C-130J aircraft, only one of which was requested by the Air Force; $15 million for continued aurora borealis research and construction of the High Frequency Active Auroral Research Program [HAARP], for which there is no current military requirement or validated use; $13 million for an unnecessary, duplicative, and cumbersome bureaucracy for oceanographic research, which the Navy does not need or want; and $701 million for advance procurement of a second new attack submarine, and language repeating the earmarking of these new submarines divided evenly between Newport News Shipbuilding and Electric Boat Shipyard.

Mr. President, these pork-barrel projects add up to approximately $2.8 billion. I am astonished that, once again, after fighting hard to sustain a much-needed increase in the defense budget, the conferees chose to spend these funds on pork.

Last year, we wasted $4 billion, or more than half of the total defense budget increase, on pork-barrel projects. I suppose this year's bill shows progress of a sort—we are only wasting $2.8 billion.

But, Mr. President, I will say again that the American people will not stand for this type of wasteful spending of their tax dollars. If we, in Congress refuse to halt the pork-barreling, it will be more and more difficult to explain to the American people why we need to maintain adequate defense spending. I would prefer that the $2.8 billion wasted on pork-barrel projects had not been included in the bill. I hope that, next year, with the very real threat of a line-item veto of some of these items, the Congress will stop wasting defense dollars on these kind of special interest items.

Mr. President, let me conclude by saying, again, that I believe this is, overall, a very good conference agreement on the Defense authorization bill. Chairman THURMOND, Senator NUNN, and the staff on both sides of the Senate Armed Services Committee should be commended for their excellent work. I urge my colleagues to support this conference agreement.

Mr. BINGAMAN. Mr. President, I will vote for the fiscal year 1997 National Defense Authorization Act. I signed the conference report on this bill insofar as it pertains to bill language. I did not, however, sign the conference report's report language because I do not agree with the report language on the missile defense provisions, all of which were dropped from the bill. Several of my Democratic colleagues on the Senate Armed Services Committee took a similar position on the conference report's ballistic missile defense report language.

I will vote for the national defense authorization bill because, unlike last year, the vast majority of provisions in the bill are the result of bipartisan drafting and have full bipartisan support. I commend Senator THURMOND and Senator NUNN for their efforts to improve the process of the Senate Armed Services Committee during this legislative session. I would also like to commend Senator SMITH for fostering a cooperative working relationship on the Acquisition and Technology Subcommittee.

Mr. President, let me briefly talk about the report language on arms control and ballistic missile defense. In order to get this bill signed by the President, the majority agreed very late in the conference to drop all of the provisions regarding multilateralization of the ABM treaty and theater missile defense demarcation, which the President's advisers had objected to. If these provisions had not been dropped, I would not be supporting this bill, nor would the President be prepared to sign this bill. However, having given up the bill language, the majority attempted in this report language to revive what they had given up. As a matter of law I would urge the President to treat this report language as totally nonbinding and certainly not representing the views of this conferee, and perhaps not even representing the views of the majority of conferees. This report language was first presented to the minority in the middle of the last night of conference, and we had no opportunity to discuss it at member level. I felt compelled to make my very strong views known, that this language is unacceptable to me and as I just said should be treated by the administration as not in any way having the force of law.

The provisions dropped by the conferees raised serious legal and constitutional issues and would have infringed upon the President's prerogative to make foreign policy. What could not be achieved in bill language cannot be revived through report language. That is the strongly held view of at least this Senator.

Mr. President, that having been said, there is much that is good in this bill. While I do not believe that all of the additional funding included in this bill is warranted, there are many provisions that I worked to have included and that will strengthen our national security. These provisions include the extension of flexible section 845 authority to carry out advanced research projects to the services; the clarification of the section 2371, other transactions authority, to spur broader use by the services; a fair compromise with the administration with regard to dual-use technology programs; the reduction in the total amount allocated for the renovation of the Pentagon by $100,000,000; very strong support for the Department of Energy's stockpile stewardship program; very strong support for the Nunn-Lugar program and the Department of Energy's nonproliferation efforts. I also strongly supported the additional funds for the tactical high-energy laser program with Israel, and cosponsored an amendment with Senator KYL to restrict remote sensing over Israel. I supported a pay raise and an increase in the basic allowance for quarters for our troops, which I believe is well deserved. The bill also includes a provision supported by the Environmental Protection Agency that could speed the process for opening the waste isolation pilot plant while retaining EPA's clear authority on health and safety matters.

I have previously stated that we are entering a period of military-technical transformation. I believe that by maintaining a strong lead in advanced technologies, and using these technologies as a force multiplier, we can meet our national security requirements with a smaller force structure and at reduced costs. I believe many of us on the Senate Armed Services Committee will be looking hard at the implications of these changes for our military during the coming years.

I would like to address one issue that has raised some questions from my constituents in New Mexico. The House National Security Committee inserted a provision, sponsored by Congressman THORBERRY, which allows certain Department of Energy sites, including the Pantex plant in Congressman THORBERRY's district, to report directly to the headquarters office in Washington, DC, rather than through the Albuquerque Operations Office. The provision adds no value to the performance or reporting authorities for the Department of Energy. Indeed, if carried out, it would likely lead to balkanization within the weapons program. I am working with Senator DOMENICI to block this provision in the energy and water appropriations bill. If this attempt fails, I will pursue this issue in the next Congress to have the provision repealed.

Despite my concerns regarding the excessive funds which have been allocated for missile defense, I will vote for the National Defense Authorization Act. The effort to prepare this legislation was significantly improved since last year, resulting in a bill which contains many provisions which I can wholeheartedly support. Despite some differences on emphasis or funding amounts, I believe we have struck a reasonable balance. I would again like to commend Senator THURMOND and Senator NUNN on their leadership on this defense authorization bill. I would also like to acknowledge that we are losing several valued members of the Senate Armed Services Committee at the end of this legislative year. Senator NUNN, Senator EXON, and Senator COHEN will all be retiring and moving on to new challenges. Senator NUNN, of course, is the ranking member and former chairman, and has dedicated countless hours over the past 24 years to the Armed Services Committee work. His expertise and strong leadership are widely recognized and will certainly be missed.

Senator EXON has been our leader on strategic issues for the past 10 years. His contributions both there and in tying our committee's work to the Budget Committee will be sorely missed.

Senator COHEN has been one of the most productive members of the committee, a leader on issues ranging from acquisition reform to arms control matters and one of the members of the majority who has most frequently reached out to the minority to formulate truly bipartisan policies.

We have all benefited from their participation and membership on the Senate Armed Services Committee. They will be sorely missed by this Senator. I would also like to thank the many Senate Armed Services Committee staff members who work so diligently on this complex and lengthy legislation and support us so well. I want to particularly thank Bill Hoene, who, this year, took on supporting the Acquisition and Technology Subcommittee, as well as supporting the Strategic Forces, and John Etherton, who has supported the Acquisition and Technology Subcommittee for many years. They were an effective team.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question now occurs on agreeing to the conference report to accompany the Defense authorization bill, H.R. 3230. The yeas and nays have been ordered.

The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk called the roll.

Mr. FORD. I announce that the Senator from Arkansas [Mr. PRYOR] is necessarily absent.

DEFENSE OF MARRIAGE ACT

The Senate continued with the consideration of the bill.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, there will now be 2 minutes of debate, equally divided, prior to the vote on passage of H.R. 3396, the Defense of Marriage Act.

Who yields time?

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, I yield myself 1 minute.

Mr. President, during the debate this morning, we had excellent presentations by the Members who spoke at length about the serious legal and constitutional concerns raised by this bill. The first concern was that for over 200 years the States themselves have had sufficient power in recognizing or not recognizing marriage conditions in other States. They have done that for 200 years, and 15 States now have already indicated they would not recognize same-sex marriages, so they have the authority already after 200 years.

Second, by trying to enhance or diminish the full faith and credit provisions of the Constitution, that is basically unconstitutional. We cannot enhance full faith and credit. We cannot diminish it. It is a constitutional issue, and authority and action by statute cannot affect it. Therefore, I think, there are serious questions about the constitutionality.

Third, Mr. President, this is really, I think, a dangerous precedent. Today it is marriage, tomorrow it may be divorce, the third day it may be custody. Where will it end?

Mr. President, I do not think support of this is wise judgment. The States have the authority to be able to deal with it. It is particularly not necessary at the present time. I hope the legislation will be defeated.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Oklahoma.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, today the State of Hawaii's court is considering a case that would legalize same-sex marriage. This bill does not ban same-sex marriage, it just says that any State does not have to recognize a marriage performed in a State that does legalize same-sex marriage either through the courts or through legislation. I think this is a positive bill. Senator BYRD spoke eloquently on it.

In addition to that, this bill defines marriage as a legal union between male and female. It is almost absurd or unheard of to think we would have to do that. A lot of people, a lot of gay activists are requiring that we do that.

Mr. President, I urge our colleagues to support this legislation. It is constitutional. We do have opinions from the Attorney General and others in the Justice Department saying that it is constitutional. I urge my colleagues to support this important piece of legislation today.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on the third reading of the bill.

The bill was ordered to a third reading and was read the third time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. A rollcall has not been requested.

Mr. KENNEDY. I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There is a sufficient second.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The bill having been read the third time, the question is, Shall the bill pass?

EMPLOYMENT

NONDISCRIMINATION ACT OF 1996

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, the Senate will now resume consideration of S. 2056, the Employment Nondiscrimination Act of 1996, which the clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

A bill (S. 2056) to prohibit employment discrimination on the basis of sexual orientation.

The Senate resumed consideration of the bill.

Mr. KENNEDY. May we have order, Mr. President.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senate will be in order.

The Senator from Massachusetts.

Mr. KENNEDY. I yield 2 minutes to the Senator from Illinois.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Illinois is recognized for 2 minutes.

Ms. MOSELEY-BRAUN. I thank the Chair. I thank the Senator from Massachusetts.

Mr. President, every American should have the opportunity to work, to use their talents to the fullest extent possible, and no one should be discriminated against. No one should be denied the opportunity to work at jobs they are qualified to fill. That is why I am so proud to be a cosponsor of S. 932, the Employment Nondiscrimination Act, along with 30 of my colleagues.

Strides have to be made to provide gay and lesbian Americans with full and equal protection of the laws promised every American by the 14th amendment. Nowhere is the absence of that protection felt more insidiously than in the area of employment.

The Employment Nondiscrimination Act prohibits employment discrimination based on sexual orientation. It creates no special rights, or quotas, it merely grants gay and lesbian Americans the same rights afforded other Americans in the workplace. The legislation exempts religious organizations and businesses with fewer than 15 employees, prohibits preferential treatment, and does not require an employer to provide benefits to domestic partners. It also does not apply to the Armed Forces.

It is so important to enact this bill into law. This bill is not about special rights; it is, instead, about equal rights, equal protection. Congress has the power to act to protect your rights, and overwhelming majorities of Americans support doing so. Every Member of Congress should support ENDA, because this legislation embodies American values. It is an essential step to take if we are to continue making progress toward ensuring equal opportunity for all Americans.

A broad coalition of religious, labor and business leaders have endorsed the bill, including the United Methodist Church, the Presbyterian Church, the ACLU, and the National Education Association.

The American Bar Association endorsed the bill when they stated:

Over the years, and with some struggle, this Nation has extended employment discrimination protection to individuals on the basis of race, religion, gender, national origin, age, and disability. ENDA takes the next necessary step by extending this same basic protection to another group that has been vilified and victimized—gay men, lesbians, and bisexuals. All workers, regardless of their sexual orientation, are entitled to be judged on the strength of the work they do; they should not be deprived of their livelihood because of the prejudice of others.

Ending employment discrimination is an area where Federal action is needed to protect individual liberty and opportunity. Furthermore, it is important to provide a stable, healthy, and productive work environment for employees. Many companies have already adopted their own antidiscrimination policies, recognizing the negative impact discrimination can have on our country's transition into the 21st century's global workplace. They know that there is no place for discrimination in this country.

Furthermore, this is an issue of economic competitiveness. Our work force is what makes America strong. If we are going to head into the 21st century as strong as we can, we need to utilize the talents of all. Every American stands to benefit when each citizen is given a chance to contribute to the maximum extent of his or her ability.

This is also about fundamental fairness. Each of us should be allowed to fully participate in society, regardless of our gender, race, or sexual orientation. Americans should not be held back by conditions that have nothing to do with merit, or talents and abilities.

If there is any objective that should command complete American consensus, it is ensuring that every American has the chance to succeed—and that, in the final analysis, is what this bill is about. No issue is more critical to our country, and nothing makes a bigger difference in a person's life than opening up opportunities.

At this time there is no truly effective recourse for sexual orientation job discrimination in 41 States across the Nation. Currently, nine States have laws that prohibit discrimination on the basis of sexual orientation in employment, as well as in other areas, such as housing. But the vast majority of gay men and lesbians across the country have no protection.

Opponents of ENDA claim that this legislation will provide gay men and lesbians with special treatment and cause a proliferation of litigation, but that is not the case. ENDA prohibits giving preferential treatment to any individual based on sexual orientation. Thus, employers may not provide special treatment to gay men, lesbians, or heterosexuals. The bill provides that an employer may not use the fact of an individual's sexual orientation as the basis for positive or negative action against that individual in employment opportunities.

Furthermore, existing data suggests that ENDA will not result in much litigation. Consider the experience of the District of Columbia whose Human Rights Act (1977) was the first statute to bar employment discrimination on the basis of sexual orientation. The D.C. Department of Human Rights states that in fiscal year 1995, 435 discrimination complaints were filed. Out of the 435 complaints, only 20 were based on sexual orientation. The nine States having statutes giving legal remedies to employees suffering from sexual orientation job discrimination follow the same pattern as the District.

Although Illinois does not have an employment discrimination statute, the city of Chicago has an ordinance protecting gay men and lesbians from discrimination in the work place. Due to this city ordinance, Chicago residents have protection against discrimination. And it works. For example, in October 1991, a Chicago man, shortly after being hired as a waiter at a restaurant told his manager that he was gay. From that point on, the manager yelled and screamed at the man using derogatory epithets. None of the other employees were called similar names.

After a few months on the job, the man's shifts were cut from 6 to 7 shifts per week to 2 to 3 shifts per week. The assistant manager stated that the hours were being reduced because the waiter complained about carrying three hot plates at once and because he brought a donut into the restaurant. However, none of the other waiters carried three hot plates at once, nor were other employees penalized for bringing food into the restaurant. No one else on the staff had their shifts cut for the above reasons.

Because Chicago has a city ordinance protecting gay men and lesbians from employment discrimination, this man was able to file a complaint with the city of Chicago Commission on Human Relations. The commission found substantial evidence that the ordinance was violated. The restaurant appealed the case to the State courts and the court upheld the commission's decision.

It is clear that discrimination in the workplace still occurs. Without national legislation to protect all Americans, cases of discrimination against gay men and lesbian women will continue to occur unchallenged.

The basic principle we should keep in mind is that every American must have the opportunity to advance as far in their field as their hard work will take them. Gay and lesbian Americans should not have to face discrimination in the workplace, including being fired from a job, being denied a promotion, or experience harassment on the job just because of their sexual orientation.

As a matter of fundamental fairness and because all workers should be entitled to legal protection in the work force, I will enthusiastically support this legislation.

I thank the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time?

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, I yield to the Senator from Kansas 3 minutes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Kansas is recognized for up to 3 minutes.

Mrs. KASSEBAUM. I would like to reiterate my opposition to the legislation before us.

Last Friday, we had a thorough debate on the Employment Non-discrimination Act during the course of which important arguments were made why it should not become law.

First, Senator HATCH pointed out the relationship between this bill and title VII and how the use of statistics in certain cases will also be available under this bill. The net result is that under this bill, as under title VII, statistics may be used by the EEOC as evidence of discrimination. Employers, as a defensive measure, may feel compelled to keep track of the sexual preferences of their employees. This is an example of the unintended consequences that may flow from this bill.

Second, Senator ASHCROFT pointed out that the bill itself acknowledges that there are legitimate reasons why in certain situations the law should not apply. For example, the bill exempts the military as well as religious organizations and their not-for-profit activities. His question, which I think is a good one, is: If there are reasons for exempting these employers, may not these same reasons apply to other employers in the private sector?

Finally, Mr. President, I want to repeat my own principal objection to this bill. I do not believe that relying on more lawsuits and litigation, as this bill would do, will promote greater tolerance in the workplace. I believe prejudice and discrimination can be fought in other ways, and I hope that it would be done—leading by way of example.

The Senator from Massachusetts [Mr. KENNEDY], who is the author of the legislation, pointed out numerous examples of employers who adopted their own nondiscrimination policies, and I applaud those efforts, but I do not believe we need to create another legal cause of action with compensatory and punitive damages that will only lead to more division in the workplace, not less.

Mr. President, I urge my colleagues to vote against this bill, and I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time?

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, I yield 2 minutes to the Senator from Rhode Island.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Rhode Island is recognized for up to 2 minutes.

Mr. CHAFEE. Mr. President, I wish to take a moment to make two comments in favor of this bill, the Employment Nondiscrimination Act, or ENDA.

I believe the matter before the Senate is a very simple one: Whether or not sexual orientation is a factor that should be considered in employment decisions. In my view, the answer is clear. The only factor that should be considered in the workplace is the ability of an employee or potential employee to do the job at hand. Since sexual orientation, like race or ethnicity, has nothing to do with job ability, it seems to me it has no place as a basis for discrimination.

There is nothing particularly radical about this proposition, Mr. President. It is a singularly American belief that each and every person shall be judged not on unrelated factors such as color or gender but on their merits. In the workplace, that translates to an individual's job skills and capabilities. To judge a person otherwise, I believe, goes against the grain of what this whole country stands for. As Barry Goldwater recently noted, "job discrimination against gays or anybody else is contrary to each of our founding principles."

Other Senators have recounted tales of gays and lesbians who have suddenly lost their jobs when employers discovered their sexual orientation. These instances are shocking and, I believe, shameful. No one deserves such treatment.

So let me make one point clear, Mr. President. An employee whose behavior in the workplace is inappropriate deserves no protection from sanction. A gay employee who makes inappropriate statements or otherwise conducts him or herself in an inappropriate manner should not be countenanced. That is clear. The same would apply to a nongay individual who conducts him or herself inappropriately. That conduct would not be tolerated.

As my colleague from California, Mrs. FEINSTEIN, put it last Friday, "Do something that is improper conduct, and it all changes." Any kind of untoward behavior, no matter from whom it comes, must not be permitted.

This bill before us would provide basic protection to Americans who are subject now to arbitrary and unreasonable job denial or dismissal. I think that is appropriate, Mr. President, so I urge support of this measure.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time?

Mr. KENNEDY. I yield 2 minutes to the Senator from Virginia.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Virginia is recognized for up to 2 minutes.

Mr. ROBB. Mr. President, I understand the difficulty many Members may have with the prospect of same-sex marriages, and so I understand why the vote completed just a few minutes ago was so tough for many Senators. But this one shouldn't be. Those of us who support the Employment Non-Discrimination Act have a simple plea—let's end discrimination in the workplace.

We can't forget, Mr. President, that we are a nation made prosperous and strong by the labor of millions of American workers. And each American worker—whether they build houses, pave roads, serve meals in country diners, or manage corporations—deserves to be judged by their dedication to their job and the quality of their work.

It is indefensible, that in a great country like ours men and women can lose their jobs, be passed over for promotions, or suffer harassment because they have—or are perceived to have—a different sexual orientation than the rest of us.

And for their part, American businesses deserve a work force which embodies maximum talent and minimal prejudice and dissension. Surely ending discrimination will improve productivity and enhance employee satisfaction. Former Senator Barry Goldwater, just quoted by the Senator from Rhode Island, wrote in support of this legislation: "job discrimination excludes qualified individuals, lowers work-force productivity and eventually hurts us all. It's not just bad—it's bad for business."

So this bill, Mr. President, which extends Federal employment discrimination protections modeled after those currently in place for race, gender, age, and disability to sexual orientation, is good for American businesses and good for American workers.

It is moderate, reasonable, and eminently fair. This vote on this bill ought to be an easy one. It specifically rejects special rights and preferences. It exempts businesses with 15 or less employees, as well as all religious institutions and educational nonprofits owned or managed by religious organizations. It does not affect the U.S. military. It does not provide benefits for same-sex partners.

I first became a cosponsor of the 1994 act in the midst of a very difficult reelection campaign. But I knew that equality on the job ought to be the right of every single American, that prejudice divides us, that discrimination is wrong, and that I could justify my support for this bill to anyone.

Mr. President, this bill is not about special rights for anyone. It is about equal rights for everyone. I urge my colleagues to vote "yes" to the Employment Non-Discrimination Act.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Oklahoma.

Mr. NICKLES. I yield the Senator from Indiana 4 minutes.

Mr. COATS. Mr. President, today's debate concerns an issue of extreme import and controversy—extending civil rights protection to sexual orientation.

This is an issue of great importance because, for the first time in our history, Federal legislation would protect an individual's behavior, rather than an individual's status, as traditional civil rights laws have done. The practical impact of this bill is that employers will no longer be able to consider or hold an employee accountable for any acts related to their sexual orientation.

The fact that this issue—the extension of civil rights to an individual's behavior—is controversial goes without saying. This is an issue about gay rights in the workplace, which the American people have not reached a moral consensus. Many Americans, including business people, those who support strong traditional families, and persons with religious or moral objections, have serious concerns about promoting homosexuality as a lifestyle. This is important, because if this bill becomes law, it will give the Federal stamp of approval to activities that are still considered illegal in many States. It is significant also because individual employers, employees, for-profit religious organizations and enterprises will no longer be able to conduct their business without the fear of Federal intrusion and potentially costly litigation.

Mr. President, we are not speaking of extending rights that every citizen of the United States is guaranteed—rather we are considering special rights for persons based on their lifestyle choice, as evidenced by their behavior. I share the concern of many that no person be subjected to violence and hatred simply because they do not meet with societal approval. But I am just as concerned about individuals who, because of sincerely and deeply held religious or moral convictions, find certain lifestyles to be morally unacceptable and yet are told by the Government that those beliefs must be kept private and may not be applied to their business decisions. These individuals are told that the first amendment's protections do not apply to the way they run their businesses, their family bookstore, or their day care center. This should not be the case.

I ask my colleagues to join with me in voting to preserve one of our Nation's most cherished rights: The freedom to freely exercise our religious beliefs and to not be coerced by the Government into accepting into our employ those whose behavior violates our deeply held religious convictions.

I yield back any time I have.

Mr. KENNEDY. I yield 2 minutes to the Senator from Vermont, a cosponsor on this important legislation.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator is recognized for 2 minutes.

Mr. JEFFORDS. Mr. President, I have spoken at length on this issue previously so I will not extend my remarks to any great extent. I remind people what we are talking about here.

First of all, we ought to have a sense of the public; 84 to 85 percent of the people in this country say, "What is the issue? Pass the bill." Nobody should be inquired of about their sexual preference or whatever in getting employment. They ought to be allowed to work.

The questions about all these things that have been brought up—there are exceptions to almost all of them. The religious organizations are excepted, nonprofits are excepted. The rights of employers in all these areas are protected. There is no question here.

My question is why should I or why should my wife or my kids be asked, when they go to get a job in this Nation, "Where are you living and who are you living with?" And, if it is of the same sex, be inquired of as to what their sexual preferences are, their sexual activities? To me, that is a disgrace, to allow that to happen in this Nation of freedom, where working is so important, where our people ought to be free to work where they please and ought to be able to have a life they want and to live free from that kind of intimidation.

I yield the remainder of my time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time?

Mr. KENNEDY. I yield 2 minutes to the Senator from Connecticut, a cosponsor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Connecticut is recognized for 2 minutes.

Mr. LIEBERMAN. Mr. President, I rise to support the bill. This bill offers us an opportunity to take, not only a fundamental principle of American life and history, but in my opinion the driving impulse of the American experience, which is equal opportunity, and apply it to a specific circumstance. The basic question here is whether a person who works hard, plays by the rules, does the job, is entitled to be protected from discrimination in hiring, in promotion, in salary, based on a very private and personal decision which is that person's sexual orientation.

You do not have to decide the question of whether you believe homosexuality is right or wrong. You do not have to decide the question of whether domestic partnership is right or wrong.

You do not have to decide the question of whether one's sexual orientation is a matter of choice or whether you are born with it, to vote for this bill. All of that is irrelevant.

The question here is whether we are going to protect a category of our fellow Americans, fellow citizens, fellow human beings—children of God—from being discriminated against based on their sexual orientation; a private matter.

I say the answer has to be "yes." In 1996, it is time to offer that protection to keep the promise of the American Constitution and the American dream. This is a narrowly circumscribed bill. By God, this bill even says to an employer you can regulate the clothing of someone working for you if that is an issue.

I support the bill and ask all my colleagues to do the same.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time?

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, I yield the Senator from Utah 4 minutes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Utah is recognized for 4 minutes.

Mr. HATCH. Mr. President, everybody here knows I have worked hard to pass the hate crime statistics bill, I worked hard with the distinguished Senator from Massachusetts to pass AIDS bills and do other things that benefit people who are gay and lesbians. I believe that we should respond to the needs of our citizens in these regards. Special protected status in the law, however, is another matter. I, therefore, oppose this legislation.

Mr. President, I oppose this legislation. This bill represents a massive increase in Federal power. The Federal bureaucracy will have a field day with this bill. The bill will be a litigation bonanza. Moreover, this bill deals in a blunderbuss way with an issue much more complex than issues raised by legislation addressing race, ethnicity, and gender. Sexual orientation involves conduct, not immutable non-behavioral characteristics.

Indeed, during the debate about homosexuals in the military, Gen. Colin Powell made this point in responding to the suggestion that discrimination against homosexuals in the military should be equated with racial discrimination. He said, Skin color is a benign, non-behavioral characteristic. Sexual orientation is perhaps the most profound of human behavioral characteristics. Comparison of the two is a convenient but invalid argument.

Indeed, this very bill exempts employment in the U.S. military, although it does not exempt the National Guard.

It is totally indefensible to say that a black person should be denied the right to teach children of any race in any of our public or private schools. But should the Senate run roughshod over the concerns of parents and educators about having homosexuals teach their kids?

I mentioned last week on the floor that Loudoun County, VA, parents and educators wanted to fire a male health and physical education teacher at a middle school, who was also an assistant athletic coach at a high school because of public homosexual conduct, in this case, participation in homosexual videos. Such concern is not triggered just by participation in videos. It can be triggered by public displays of romantic, physical affection between two persons of the same sex.

In Loudoun County, the school superintendent said,

We believe that teachers, as people who are chosen to be instructors as well as leaders of our young people, should be exemplary in their professional as well as personal lives. What we have here is an allegation of a lifestyle that is not in keeping with that. If the allegations are true, that is not conduct befitting a teacher.

One parent of a daughter who attended a school where this person taught said she believed that what people do in their private lives is their business—unless they are teachers. "I want our teachers to have the highest moral fiber. I'm not comfortable with him doing both." A school board member said,

Here we have a teacher in a middle school working with children who are at that age where they are struggling with their identity. This is obviously a person who has made bad choices. To give someone like this access to children at that stage of development would be irresponsible of us.

And just because some of the citizens of Loudoun County and across this country do not share the view of public morality of some of the sponsors of this measure, who seek to cast aspersions on opponents of this legislation, does not make those citizens bigots.

Moreover, those proponents of this bill who, wrongly in my view, support blatant, intentional discrimination on the basis of immutable characteristics such as race and ethnicity in teacher hires in order to provide role models to students, are in no position to lecture parents concerned about the conduct of teachers as role models. Finally, I want to know how it is that proponents of a bill that itself exempts the military can dismiss the concerns of parents about the conduct of their children's teachers.

I note, Mr. President, that if a school district wanted to dismiss, or decline to hire, a male teacher, for example, who engages in romantic, physical displays of affection in public with his male partner, this bill makes such a dismissal or refusal illegal—unless the school district will do the same regarding a male teacher's equivalent display of romantic affection for his wife or girlfriend.

Additionally, this bill will empower the EEOC to require employers to collect statistics on the sexual orientation of their employees.

One proponent of this bill last week said the bill does not give the EEOC this authority. That is wrong. The bill, at section 11, gives the EEOC, "with respect to the administration and enforcement of this act" the same power the EEOC has to administer and enforce title VII of the 1964 Civil Rights Act. Under title VII, the EEOC collects statistics on the race, ethnicity, and gender of employees. Would the EEOC request such information? No one in this body can assure us that the EEOC won't do so at some time in the future. Remember, the EEOC is one of those entities responsible for the growth and development of quotas and other preferences under title VII, relying heavily on statistics in the process.

Moreover, it is well established that statistics can be used in intentional discrimination cases under title VII, such as pattern or practice cases. So, notwithstanding language in the bill about prima facie cases of disparate impact, this bill does not at all preclude the use of statistics in sexual orientation cases.

Suppose a complainant, alleging that he was discriminatorily denied a promotion because he is a homosexual, asserts that a supervisor made anti homosexual remarks, and one or two more complainants make the same allegations. Those allegations, and evidence of a supervisor's anti homosexual remarks, could be combined by a Federal enforcement agency or private plaintiffs' lawyer with statistics on the number or percentage of homosexuals in the job in question, or the promotion rates based on sexual orientation, or both, to press a case of a pattern or practice of discrimination.

Finally, let me note that this bill will lead to reverse discrimination and preferences in favor of homosexuals, and I will mention just one way that will happen. The bill's provision allegedly barring preferential treatment does not affect judicial power to enforce this bill. This bill gives the courts the same jurisdiction and powers as such courts have to enforce title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964. Further, the procedures and remedies applicable for a title VII violation are available under this bill.

Under title VII's section 706(g), the Federal courts are authorized to order such affirmative action as may be appropriate in cases of intentional discrimination. The Supreme Court has said, unfortunately, that there are some cases in which a court may order numerical and other forms of preferential relief under title VII. Moreover, such preferential relief can be entered as part of a consent decree with the Federal Government, which wields enormous leverage over employers in these costly lawsuits, and in cases with private plaintiffs' lawyers.

Proponents of this legislation have argued that it will not produce much litigation, because there have been very few cases brought in the States with similar laws. That prediction is not persuasive. By authorizing the EEOC to become involved in and to initiate law suits based on gender-preference discrimination, this bill would lead to scores of thousands of new law suits against persons acting on the basis of strongly held religious views. Consider the case of religious broadcasters, for example. This bill would force religious broadcasters to engage in hiring and promotion practices that are contrary to their reasonable, deeply held religious views. We should not force citizens to endorse sexual practices that are contrary to their religious views. This bill, however, would do just that.

Let me also say that my support for the Hate Crimes Statistics Act, which Senator SIMON and I have gotten through the Senate and enacted into law twice, is fully consistent with my position on this bill. My view that absolutely no one should be subjected to violence or vandalism because of who they are is, of course, widely shared. But it does not follow from the fact that while everyone, including homosexuals, should be free of violence, society must confer affirmative civil protections on the basis of sexual orientation not available, I might add, to everyone else.

Let me just add this. There is a religious side to this that must be considered. There are sincerely believing, mainstream religious people in this country who believe we have gone too far in this matter. Can you imagine a religious broadcaster, because they are in a profitmaking business, having to comply with the provisions of this act?

I urge the defeat of this legislation.

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, throughout my career in public service, amounting to over four decades now, I have fought to end discrimination and advance the ideal of equal opportunity in society. One of my first successes as a young Oregon State legislator in the early 1950's was as the sponsor of the Oregon Public Accommodations Act, which prohibited discrimination on the basis of race in public accommodations. With this new law, Oregon set an example for the Nation.

The Public Accommodations Act was the first of many divisive civil rights debates in which I have become involved. I have also played a role in many other civil rights advances as this Nation has attempted to stamp out the irrational and hateful scourge of discrimination. These efforts have often taken the form of extending protection from discrimination in the workplace. Over the years, we have focused on discrimination on the basis of race, gender, national origin, age, religion, and disability. These laws are based on a simple premise: Employees should be judged on the work they do, not on the basis of prejudice not related to workplace performance.

The time has arrived to take the next logical step toward equality of opportunity in the workplace. Senate bill 2056, the Employment Nondiscrimination Act which would prohibit discrimination in employment on the basis of sexual orientation is such a step. The Employment Nondiscrimination Act focuses on a group of citizens who have been victimized and vilified like few other minority groups in this Nation's history. Oregon has not been spared from this prejudice, and I speak here today on behalf of many Oregonians touched by it. One prominent example took place in Medford, OR, last year where two women were murdered. Their murderer confessed that he killed them because of his hate for homosexuals.

While we will not be able to wash this type of deep-seeded hatred from our society merely by enacting a Federal statute, employment relations is narrowly focused and appropriate for a Federal statement of national policy, as we have demonstrated many times. This legislation now before the Senate takes a very measured approach toward addressing this difficult problem. It does not create special protections, preferences, or hiring quotas for gay people. As has been the case in prior civil rights statutes, particularly the Civil Rights Act of 1991, this legislation specifically prohibits quotas on the basis of sexual orientation. This prohibition is further undergirded by a provision that prohibits an employee from bringing a disparate impact suit.

Religious organizations are given a broad exemption from this proposal. The armed services are also exempt, as are small businesses with fewer than 15 employees. Moreover, no business would be required to provide benefits to an employee's same-sex partner.

As this Nation turns the corner toward the 21st century, the global nature of our economy is becoming more and more apparent. If we are to compete in this marketplace, we must break down the barriers to hiring the most qualified and talented person for the job. Prejudice is such a barrier. It is intolerable and irrational for it to color decisions in the workplace.

The employee manual for my office has for some time included a specific provision prohibiting discrimination based on sexual orientation. A majority of the Fortune 500 companies have reached this same conclusion. It is time for this body to do the same. It is time for our laws to reflect a point of fundamental fairness: An employee should be free from discrimination at work because of personal characteristics unrelated to the successful performance of his or her job.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Mr. President, I rise as a cosponsor of the Employment Nondiscrimination Act, or ENDA, to urge my colleagues to support this historic and important legislation.

This bill would ensure that no American citizen is discriminated against in employment because of their sexual orientation. It's a simple, straightforward bill. And it stands for a fundamental American principle: the principle that discrimination of any kind is wrong.

Mr. President, our Nation was founded over 200 years ago by people who had migrated to America largely to escape persecution. The earliest Americans often didn't fit in where they used to live. They were different. Maybe they belonged to a religious minority. Maybe they had different political ideas. Or maybe they were ostracized merely because of the way they looked.

These earliest Americans left their homes, their communities, and their homelands to live in a new kind of nation. A nation that not only tolerated differences, but honored them.

From the beginning, Mr. President, this respect for individual differences—perhaps more than anything else—is what has defined us as Americans. It lies at the heart of our culture. It's embedded in our Constitution. And, in the eyes of the world, it's what makes America the special place it is.

Unfortunately, Mr. President, our Nation has not always lived up to our own highest principles. And it's often taken great battles to make sure that we do.

It took almost 100 years and a civil war to eliminate slavery.

It took another 100 years, and enormous social strife, to outlaw racial discrimination.

And it took a long, difficult effort to win women the right to vote, and to prohibit sex discrimination.

Unfortunately, Mr. President, the fight for equal rights for all Americans is not over. Today, it is still legal to fire someone because they are gay, lesbian, or even heterosexual—or merely for being perceived as such.

This kind of discrimination affects hardworking Americans in all sorts of jobs, no matter how well they perform their duties. With hundreds of such cases documented, and many others undocumented, countless Americans fear losing their jobs to discrimination.

Mr. President, today we have another opportunity to restore our commitment to American principles. But, this time, we can do it without the bloodshed and division of previous battles.

Today we have an opportunity to extend the Civil Rights Act, and to say to each and every American, that you have a right to be treated as an individual in employment. You have a right to be judged on the quality of your work. A right to be judged on the basis of your performance. And sexual orientation is irrelevant.

Mr. President, the right to be treated as an individual in employment is consistent with the great American tradition of individual liberties. And so it should not be surprising that it enjoys strong public support. Most Americans believe that people should not be denied a job, or a promotion, simply because of their sexual orientation.

But discrimination against homosexual Americans remains a serious problem. Many employers just will not hire a gay or a lesbian. Or they will fire or fail to promote them once they have been hired.

Sometimes, Mr. President, employment discrimination is based on raw and malicious bigotry—open hatred of people different than themselves.

But often, the discrimination is more subtle. Often, employers don't hate gays. They're just uncomfortable with them. They're uneasy with the concept of homosexuality. And, so, all other things being equal, they'll choose to hire someone with whom they're more comfortable.

Mr. President, from the perspective of an individual employer, that decision may seem entirely reasonable. But that's equally true of employers who are just uncomfortable with blacks. Or employers who are just uncomfortable with Jews.

For those employers, we say: you may be uncomfortable with blacks or Jews. But you may not discriminate against them. Because it's wrong. It's wrong morally and ethically. And it's not fair.

The same reasoning applies in the case of discrimination based on sexual orientation.

Mr. President, individual employers are not making these decisions in isolation. Millions of employers are making similar decisions. And together, they can create a systemic bias with serious consequences.

In the case of homosexuals, this bias limits their opportunity to find meaningful employment. It limits their ability to make ends meet financially. It limits their ability to live full and satisfying lives, and to make meaningful contributions to society.

Mr. President, that's not right. Every American should have the opportunity to live the American Dream. Every American. No matter their race. No matter their religion. And no matter their sexual orientation.

Mr. President, as Senator LIEBERMAN said on the floor last week, we are all God's children. Each and every one of us.

And if we allow hate and discrimination against anyone, we damn our own loved ones. We shame ourselves. And we violate the fundamental principles upon which this great Nation was based.

Mr. President, let me just close by recalling the words of the Declaration of Independence. All men are created equal. They are endowed by their creator with certain inalienable rights. Among those are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness.

Mr. President, let us live up to the principles of that Declaration. Let us be true to our values as Americans. And let us ensure that our own loved ones enjoy the respect and dignity that each and every American deserves.

I urge my colleagues to support this legislation.

Mr. KENNEDY. How much time remains?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Massachusetts controls 5 minutes 30 seconds.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, I yield myself 5 minutes.

Mr. President, for 200 years, we have tried to free this Nation from forms of discrimination. Discrimination was written into the Constitution of the United States, and the American people have paid a fierce price for discrimination over its history.

We fought a civil war in the 1860's. It really was not until the late 1950's that we began to rally in support of the work of Dr. Martin Luther King—by businessmen, by laborers, by church leaders, by all Americans—and said, "Let's finally get serious and free ourselves from discrimination."

We all remember what happened with the Japanese internment, one of the darkest periods in American history at the beginning of World War II. And still this country went ahead with that dastardly act.

So in the 1960's, we began to make progress on the issues of race, with the 1964 and 1965 act. Many of the arguments I just heard on the floor of the U.S. Senate were made during that particular debate. Then in 1965, we freed ourselves from a national-origin quota system in immigration, we freed ourselves from the Asian Pacific triangle that was left over from the early part of the 1900's, called the yellow peril. We made progress.

We made progress on race. Then we began on religion and national origin. Then we began to make progress on gender. We did not include an equal rights amendment that said there were "founding mothers" as well as Founding Fathers, but, nonetheless, we began to knock down the walls of discrimination on the issues of gender, and we became a more powerful and significant and stronger nation.

In recent years, we have made progress with regards to Americans with disabilities. Six years ago we passed that legislation to say to 44 million Americans, "We will do everything we can to recognize it isn't disability, it is ability, it is what you can do, what you can contribute, that you can be a part of the American dream." That has been the path that we have taken in this country, and we have an opportunity to take a very important and significant step by supporting ENDA.

Just the other night, under the leadership of Senators DOMENICI and WELLSTONE, we began to make progress in terms of knocking down the discrimination that exists with regard to mental health in our country. That exists out there. It exists in our health care systems. We began to knock down that barrier as well with the action that was supported by Republicans and Democrats alike.

Mr. President, today we have the chance to take a meaningful forward step on the road to make America America. We have a really important opportunity to turn our back on bigotry, to turn our back on intolerance, to turn our back on discrimination. We can take an important step in the progress of making America America.

America will only be America when we free ourselves from discrimination, and this particular legislation, carefully crafted, tries to say, "If you work in America, if you have the ability to work, you can work, and you ought to be judged on your ability to work and not on the issues of sexual orientation." That is the case.

We know that discrimination against gay men and lesbian women exists in this country today, No. 1.

No. 2, we know that there are no laws to protect them.

No. 3, we know that the whole issue of gay men and lesbian women is an immutable condition. It is a condition of life.

What we are trying to say is when Americans want to work and can work and do a job, they ought to be able to be judged on the job that they are going to do and not on one of these other factors.

We can free ourselves from discrimination against those gay men and lesbian women in the employment place. This is a targeted response to that challenge, and I hope we will support it and pass it overwhelmingly.

I withhold the remainder of the time. The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time?

Mr. NICKLES. How much time remains on both sides?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Oklahoma controls 5 minutes 40 seconds. The Senator from Massachusetts 1 minute 26 seconds.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, I rise in opposition to Senator KENNEDY's bill, and I urge my colleagues to do the same.

Senator KENNEDY's bill before us elevates sexual orientation to special status under the Civil Rights Act. It grants Government approval, acceptance, and protection to homosexual and bisexual behavior under the Civil Rights Act.

Sexual orientation, as defined under the bill proposed by Senator KENNEDY, includes homosexuality, bisexuality, and heterosexuality. It does not just apply to people in a monogamous relationship. Basically, any of the above sexual behaviors are going to be protected by the Federal Government. Such behavior must be OK, because Uncle Sam is now going to protect it.

Senator BYRD made an eloquent speech earlier today, and he read from the Bible. He quoted a couple verses in Genesis talking about what God said about marriage. Many people believe the Bible and believe in it very strongly. Maybe that is recognized by the authors of ENDA, because they exempted religious organizations, but they did not exempt religious people.

We exempt churches under the bill. Well, a lot of people consider themselves part of a church 7 days a week, and they have very serious problems with granting special status to people based on their sexual orientation because they are learning, whether they are Jewish or whether they are Christian or whether they are Muslim, that homosexuality is wrong, it is immoral and should not be condoned and certainly should not be elevated to a special protected status by the Federal Government.

Does that mean that you want to discriminate? No. But should homosexuals and bisexuals have special protected status? Most people would say no.

Mr. President, nine States have something in their statutes, in their State codes, that provide some protections for sexual orientation; 41 States do not. The State of Massachusetts does. The State of Oklahoma does not. I do not really want the State of Massachusetts putting their mandate on my State. Maybe our norms are a little different.

The sponsor of ENDA did exempt religious organizations. They did not exempt schools. There is a high school principal in West Virginia who was recently caught cross-dressing, and he was arrested for soliciting. That was against the law. That was against the State's prostitution laws. What if he was just cross-dressing? He would be protected under ENDA. Cross-dressing could be considered part of a sexual orientation.

What about a schoolteacher who is found to be in homosexual videos—Senator HATCH mentioned one example—what if somebody was particularly well known as a gay activist? What if the school board said, "We really don't want this person to be teaching our kids physical education in the fifth grade." The school board might say, "That is not the type of mentor, teacher or role model that we would like to have for our young people." They can be sued, under this legislation, not only for compensatory damages, but for punitive damages.

Some of us have stated the net result of this bill is going to require employers to ask questions about sexual orientation. That has been denied by the proponents. But the facts are, if you are sued, if someone sues you and says, "Mr. Employer, you didn't hire me because of my sexual orientation, the fact I am well known as a gay, the employer might say, I didn't know that." But they can still sue.

How are employers to protect themselves? They are going to have to ask a lot of questions. One way of protecting yourself is to tell the court or convince the court that you have hired homosexuals in the past. How do you find that out? Well, you better ask questions.

You will have to ask questions and have to survey all your employees. We have never done that before. But the net result of this legislation is that employers would have to ask an employee to at least be able to defend himself. And they would have to ask what their sexual orientation is. That may not be well received by the employees, and it may not be well received by their employers because now you really have the intrusive arm of the Federal Government going into areas they should not.

The sponsors of ENDA have exemptions for religious organizations that are not-for-profit. What about a religious broadcaster? What about a religious book store? Bingo, we are going to tell them, we do not care what your belief is, you are going to have to hire somebody that maybe is diametrically opposed to your fundamental beliefs.

Three years ago, we passed legislation that said we rejected President Clinton's call for gays in the military—Congress did—with an overwhelming vote. Three years ago today, we adopted a policy that says, "Don't ask, don't tell." We are going to tell the school boards that such a policy is not good enough, because this legislation goes way beyond "don't ask, don't tell," way beyond "don't ask, don't tell."

So that is what Congress said was acceptable for the military. Congress said, sexual orientation is relevant concerning the military, but now, if ENDA becomes law, we are going to tell millions of employers, oh, sexual orientation is irrelevant; it does not make any difference; we do not care what your personal beliefs are, we do not care what your religious beliefs are, it is irrelevant. For some people it is relevant, and for some school boards it might be relevant, or for some religious people or some religious groups or religious broadcasters it is very, very relevant.

Mr. President, this legislation is a serious mistake and goes way too far. I urge my colleagues to vote no.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time?

Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President, I would like to use my leader time for whatever time I may consume.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The minority leader has a right to do so.

Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President, there has been so much misinformation about what this does and does not do, so many claims about the effect it has on certain groups and places of employment, that I would not be surprised that people are confused and very concerned.

As we vote, I think we ought to try to clear the air as much as possible as to what this does. This bill simply rectifies a significant omission in our job discrimination laws, period. It simply prohibits anyone from using sexual orientation as the basis for hiring, firing, promotion, or pay. ENDA allows no special privileges, period. It grants no special rights to any group of people. It simply ensures that no one will be denied the opportunity to support him or herself financially because of discrimination on the job.

This is a matter of simple fairness and common sense. In terms of fairness, no one should be denied employment on the basis of a characteristic that does not relate to his or her ability to get the job done. This principle is already embodied in our civil rights laws. It protects religious institutions. Churches, synagogues, and related institutions will not be forced to change their hiring practices by this bill, nor will it apply to the military or to small businesses with fewer than 15 employees. This is a narrowly crafted bill that simply upholds the basic American principle that employees should be judged by the work they do. It deserves our support.

I ask my colleagues, prior to the time we vote, how many times have we heard the same arguments raised against minorities in other segments of our society, against African Americans, against the disabled, against women? The same arguments that I just heard presented to our colleagues on the Senate floor moments ago were used in the 1960's, in the 1970's, and in the 1980's. We have heard them all.

I ask my colleagues, who today would come to the floor to roll back the rights now that we provided African Americans? Who would come to the floor to roll back the rights we have given women? Who would propose now we roll back the rights for the disabled? Every time we come to the floor, we pronounce our advocacy of freedom. We talk about how free this democracy is, how great it is for all of us to enjoy the magnificent freedom that we enjoy beyond that of anybody else. If this is true, then we will support the freedom guaranteed in this legislation, too. I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time?

The Senator from Massachusetts has 1 minute, 26 seconds remaining. For the Senator from Oklahoma, all time has expired.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, let me just check and see if the majority leader wants to make a speech on his time. In the meantime, unless the Senator from Massachusetts wants to speak, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, I will use leader time to make a closing statement.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The majority leader has that right.

Mr. LOTT. The legislation we will be voting on in a few minutes, the Employment Nondiscrimination Act, known here as ENDA, should be rejected by the Senate, in my opinion. In its various versions it has been around for many years, I think probably as many as 20 years. But even when there was a Democratic majority in the Senate, this bill was never even called up before.

We are bringing it up today for a vote, a freestanding vote without amendments, as part of our larger effort to work together and move ahead on urgent business of the Senate. There were intense and lengthy negotiations last week to try to come to a conclusion on how to handle the appropriations bill, the Defense of Marriage Act, ENDA—this legislation—and the defense authorization bill, and I have tried to set a record of trying to be fair and make sure that we have our chance to make our cases here, within limits, and then move on, do the business of the Senate, and then move on.

So that is how this legislation was set up to be considered in a freestanding way. There are those that really do not think it should have been brought up this way or would have preferred it not even come up as an amendment. But I think it is a fair process, and it is one that we agreed to in order to be able to do our business. So, be that as it may, that is how we got to where we are.

ENDA, in my opinion, is part of a larger attempt to equate, by law, what the bill itself calls, in the language of the bill, "homosexuality, bisexuality, or heterosexuality." This is part of a larger campaign to validate or to approve conduct that remains illegal in many States. That has to be of concern to a lot of Senators whose States would fall in that category.

ENDA would mean that ethical and religious objections to homosexual or bisexual conduct would have to be pushed aside or closeted. Those objections could no longer touch the workplace. The bill before us seems to be full of exceptions, exceptions for small businesses, the Armed Forces, religious organizations, though not for law enforcement, schools, day care, or for-profit entities that are part of a church's religious mission.

It seems to me there are many instances that should have been exempted or should have been excluded. It seems to me that this is just a guarantee of multiple lawsuits as to exactly what the intent is and what it means. We do not need that. I think Senator HATCH explained in his very definitive statement on September 6 those exemptions will not limit the damage that will be done by this bill. It would put the full force of the Federal Government behind the campaign to validate a lifestyle that is unacceptable in many areas. I think that is the heart of the matter.

Under ENDA, the antidiscrimination apparatus of the Federal Government—the apparatus of the Federal Government—would treat sexual orientation like race. It would scrutinize employment practices, require remedial hiring or promotion, and treat negative attitudes in this area as workplace harassment.

President Clinton's letter supporting this legislation notes that 41 States currently do not outlaw discrimination in employment on the basis of sexual orientation. Only nine States have adopted anything like ENDA. Only 18 Senators represent States which have their own versions of this type of legislation, and 82 Senators are here to represent States which do not have their own laws similar to this one. I cannot believe that the majority of the Senate will impose upon those 41 States a piece of legislation which the citizens of those States apparently do not want.

If ever there was a case of "Washington knows best," ENDA is it. If ever there was a one-size-fits-all approach to social engineering, ENDA is it.

Mr. President, the American people are not bigoted or hateful or prejudiced. They just are not. When it comes to ENDA, the American people are cautious, prudent, and weary. I think they are right. They have seen the good intentions of official Washington go astray time and time again. They have heard sweet slogans to cover up legislation with major problems.

That is the case with ENDA. Senators NICKLES and ASHCROFT and others who have spoken have very forcefully explained the ramifications of what seems to be a simple bill. But it is not simple at all. It is a blank check to a court system increasingly out of touch, in many instances, with the public. It is an open invitation to a Federal bureaucracy brutally indifferent to what goes on in American life—in our businesses, in our schools, and in our communities.

In short, I think this legislation is out of sync with the majority of American people. I think the Senate should not pass it. It a very serious matter, and I urge my colleagues to vote against it.

I yield the floor, Mr. President.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, we are about to vote on final passage of S. 2056, the Employment Nondiscrimination Act. I urge each Senator to vote "no."

Before we vote, I want to address a few issues that have come up during debate. Time does not, of course, allow me to go into these issues in detail.

I urge each Senator to consider the moral implications of this vote. In her recent, acclaimed book, "The Demoralization of Society," Gertrude Himmelfarb reminded us of a truth that needs to be repeated here:

Individuals, families, churches, and communities cannot operate in isolation, [they] cannot long maintain values at odds with those legitimated by the state and popularized by the culture. * * * Values, even traditional values, require legitimation. At the very least, they require not to be illegitimated. And in a secular society, legitimation or illegitimation is in the hands of the dominant culture, the state, and the courts.

This bill goes to the heart of traditional values—the values of religious liberty, free association, and traditional sexual morality.

ENDA is solicitous of religious organizations, Mr. President, but what about religious individuals? This bill concedes that it is going to compel an approval of homosexual and bisexual behavior—that is why religious organizations are exempted from the bill—but what about religious individuals?

ENDA will punish those Americans who believe it is important to apply their moral views in the workplace. To millions of Americans, human sexuality is still a matter of the deepest moral concern, but ENDA says to them that in the workplace they cannot make distinctions based on sexual orientation, no matter how compelling.

Mr. President, I have heard it said on this floor that ENDA is necessary to guarantee to homosexuals and bisexuals the equal protection of the laws. That is not true.

The Constitution of the United States guarantees to every person the equal protection of the laws.

Our colleagues know, for example, that under Federal employment laws as now written every heterosexual, homosexual, or bisexual person is treated equally. Of course, Federal law does not prohibit discrimination on the basis of sexual orientation, so Government bureaucrats cannot forbid or require a particular result if "sexual orientation" should become an issue in the workplace, but each person has identical rights, whatever his or her sexual orientation.

I believe that ENDA is going to mean quotas. The sponsors don't think so, and they point to Section 7 of the bill that says that an employer shall not give preferential treatment or establish a quota based on sexual orientation.

Of course, there were many people who thought that the Civil Rights Act of 1964 also prohibited quotas and preferential treatment. History has shown that view to be naive. Today, quotas and preferential treatment are a red-hot issue all across the country—but they are opposed by the vast, vast majority of the American people.

I would remind Senators that ENDA gives to the EEOC—in §11(a)(1)—the Attorney General—in §11(a)(4)—and the Federal courts—in §11(a)(5)—the same powers they have with respect to race and sex discrimination under current law—see §11(b). All of the powers of the EEOC and the courts will be brought to bear against the employer who believes that sexual orientation cannot be ignored in his workplace.

There are a hundred traps for every covered employer. For example, if ENDA is enacted 42 U.S.C. 2000e-2(m) will make it an "unlawful employment practice" if sexual orientation "was a motivating factor for any employment practice, even though other factors also motivated the practice."

Mr. President, ENDA is a power grab, and it is exactly the kind of inside-the-Beltway power grab that Americans have come to resent.

ENDA threatens to make sexuality an issue where it has never been an issue before. Currently, most employers don't know about their employees' sexual orientation and don't care. ENDA will help put an end to that. Some employers do care, and ENDA will put an end to that, too. ENDA is about sexuality, but it is not about privacy. ENDA is about going public.

Mr. President, I have heard it said on this floor that 80 percent of the American people support this bill. This is not true.

The claim seems to be based on a poll taken by Newsweek magazine: In that poll, conducted in May of this year, 84 percent of the Newsweek respondents did say there should be "equal rights for gays in terms of job opportunities"—but that doesn't mean 84 percent of Americans want a new Federal mandate. In fact, that very same poll shows that they don't.

When asked about the effort the country has already made "to protect the rights of gays and lesbians," 26 percent said the country had made the right amount of effort, 27 percent said more effort is needed, but 40 percent said the effort had gone too far.

When asked specifically if there should be "special legislation to guarantee equal rights for gays," 41 percent agreed that there should be such legislation but 52 percent said there should not be such legislation. In sum, Americans favor fairness but they oppose the heavy hand of government which is what ENDA represents.

Mr. President, ENDA equates homosexuality and bisexuality with heterosexuality, but the American people have never regarded homosexuality or bisexuality as the moral or legal equivalent of heterosexuality, whether in the workplace or not.

ENDA for bids discrimination "on the basis of sexual orientation" which it defines to mean "homosexuality, bisexuality, or heterosexuality, whether such orientation is real or perceived." Frankly, no one knows what those words mean or how they will be applied in many real-life situations.

There is much more that ought to be said, Mr. President, but let me conclude with this.

Just 3 years ago yesterday, the Senate voted 63 to 33 for a compromise policy on homosexuals in the military. With that vote and later votes and the President's signature, the laws of the United States states that homosexuality was relevant to service in the Armed Forces of the United States, and that open homosexuality was disqualifying.

Today, we will vote on ENDA, a bill that will tell every employer in America that homosexuality and bisexuality must at all times and in all workplaces be irrelevant. Can the Senate truly believe that homosexuality can be relevant in the military services but must be irrelevant in the thousands of private workplaces that will be covered by ENDA?

The Congress and the President have told the Pentagon that homosexuality is contrary to good order and discipline—is it now going to tell every private employer in America that, regardless of his or her own moral judgment, homosexuality and bisexuality are just another orientation that Congress has decreed to be irrelevant?

Mr. President, are we prepared to levy fines on a school district that uses a policy that looks very much like the military's "don't ask, don't tell"? Are we prepared to force the American people into a policy that holds sexual orientation irrelevant in every workplace except the church and the military? What are we going to say to the small business owner who wants to know why he, a private citizen with strong moral views, doesn't have at least as much freedom to choose employees as a Navy recruiter?

ENDA is a radical step, and it is a step in the wrong direction. It should be defeated.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent several letters urging opposition to this bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

U.S. CHAMBER OF COMMERCE,
Washington, DC, September 10, 1996.

MEMBERS OF THE U.S. SENATE: The Senate will soon consider the Employment Non-discrimination Act (ENDA), S. 2056. On behalf of our membership of over 215,000 businesses, 3,000 state and local chambers of commerce, 1,200 trade and professional associations, and 76 American chambers of commerce abroad, I am writing to urge you to vote against this bill.

S. 2056 amends Title VII of the 1964 Civil Rights Act to allow lawsuits against employers, for compensatory and punitive damages, based on an individual's actual or perceived sexual orientation. Notwithstanding our concerns regarding the specifics of S. 2056, a significant addition of this nature to our basic laws against employment discrimination should be thoroughly deliberated and vented through our legislative process. Thus, the measure should be the subject of hearings and careful consideration by the appropriate committees. ENDA has not been considered by the Labor and Human Resources Committee nor any other committee in the 104th Congress. To pass this bill without thorough consideration by the appropriate committees would be, at best, manifestly unfair to American employers as well as all of the citizens who would be affected by such sweeping legislation.

The Senate should not hastily pass this legislation without first thoroughly considering all of its advantages and disadvantages. We urge you to vote against ENDA and send it to the appropriate committees for careful consideration.

Sincerely,

R. BRUCE JOSTEN,
Senior Vice President,
Membership Policy Group.

NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF MANUFACTURERS,

Washington, DC, September 10, 1996.

Hon. DON NICKLES,
Senate Hart Office,
Washington, DC.

DEAR SENATOR NICKLES: On behalf of the NAM's 14,000 member companies, 10,000 of which employ 500 or fewer workers, I urge your opposition to the Employment Non-Discrimination Act (ENDA), S. 2056.

This measure is an unwarranted and unwise extension of Title VII of the Civil Rights Act. Expanding Title VII is a significant legislative initiative that should not be undertaken without the careful consideration afforded by the committee process. The ENDA has not been the subject of any hearings in the Labor and Human Resources Committee, nor has it been considered by any committee in the 104th Congress. Surely an initiative that would have such far-reaching consequences for individual privacy rights, employment policies and employers, rights should have the benefit of full congressional consideration.

Expanding the reach of Title VII would not only increase an already daunting case load at the EEOC (which currently has significant backlogs due to enforcement authority for the Americans With Disabilities Act), but would dramatically increase record-keeping requirements for most employers. The burden of federal recordkeeping requirements falls disproportionately on smaller companies. It is these same companies that continue to generate the greatest number of new jobs and growth in our economy.

I urge you to reject the efforts of the ENDA backers to short-circuit the legislative process, and vote against S. 2056.

Sincerely,

SHARON F. CANNER,
Vice President,
Human Resources Policy.

BUSINESS LEADERSHIP COUNCIL,
Washington, DC, September 10, 1996.

Hon. DON NICKLES,
U.S. Senate,
Washington, DC.

DEAR SENATOR NICKLES: On behalf of the Business Leadership Council I am writing to express strong opposition to S. 2056, the so-called "Employment Nondiscrimination Act."

At a time when Congress and the Nation should be working toward cooperation in the workplace, this measure once again revives the failed agenda of confrontation, regulation, and litigation. This bill would expand Title VII of the Civil Rights Act to include and amorphous category based on sexual orientation. As a result the legislation threatens to embroil virtually every workplace in politically and socially motivated controversies which will cost jobs for thousands of workers.

We hail your leadership in opposing this dangerous and costly piece of legislation and will work vigorously to ensure its defeat.

Very truly yours,

DAVID L. THOMPSON.

SMALL BUSINESS
SURVIVAL COMMITTEE,
Washington, DC, September 10, 1996.

Hon. DON NICKLES,
U.S. Senate,
Washington, DC.

DEAR SENATOR NICKLES: On behalf of the 45,000 members of the Small Business Survival Committee, I urge the defeat of the Employment Nondiscrimination Act, S. 2056. Unlike other protected classes under Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, sexual orientation is a private matter of choice and lifestyle. Federal workplace policy has not and should not intrude in this highly volatile area.

This radical piece of social legislation is anti-worker and anti-small business. There can be no doubt that the bill, if enacted, would result in excessive lawsuits, regulations and costs. As is typically the case with dictates and mandates, the brunt of the federal policy would fall on small businesses across the country. Every dollar spent defending against this ill-conceived measure would be money denied to workers in the form of raises and denied to small businesses to be used to create jobs.

We strongly oppose S. 2056. Thank you for your leadership against the bill.

Sincerely,

KAREN KERRIGAN,
President.

Mr. NICKLES. If the Senator yields back his time, I ask for the yeas and nays.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, I just want to take 30 seconds.

Mr. President, our friend from Rhode Island pointed out that Barry Goldwater supports this legislation. Coretta Scott King wrote to all of us. In the Coretta Scott King letter she says:

As my husband, Martin Luther King, Jr. said, "Injustice anywhere is a threat to justice everywhere," and, "I have fought too long and hard against segregated public accommodations to end up segregating my moral concern. Justice is indivisible."

Those are the words of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. They could be said again here on the floor of the U.S. Senate on this particular issue, because what it is all about is the questions of discrimination and bigotry in the workplace. Below the clock in this Senate are the words "E pluribus unum," one out of many. Why do we not eliminate the discrimination that excludes so many of our fellow citizens and make them part of the one as well?

This legislation will help. I ask unanimous consent to have printed in the RECORD the letter from Coretta Scott King.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

THE KING CENTER,
Atlanta, GA, September 10, 1996.

DEAR SENATOR: Ernest Dillon, an African-American postal employee in Detroit, worked hard and was good at his job. But that wasn't enough. Deciding he was gay, his co-workers repeatedly taunted him, until one day, while on the job they beat him unconscious. And the harassment did not end there. It continued unabated until he was forced out, fearing for his life.

Mr. Dillon sought relief—first from his employer, then from the courts. Tragically, both turned their backs on him. Had he been harassed for being black, federal civil rights law would have protected him. But job discrimination, and even serious harassment, based on sexual orientation is still perfectly legal in the United States of America in 1996. This is unjust, un-American, and intolerable.

Today, workplace discrimination against gay men and lesbians is real, widespread, and continues to cast a dark shadow on our ideals as a free and fair nation. To remedy this situation a bipartisan coalition in Congress introduced the Employment Non-Discrimination Act. This essential legislation will provide dedicated workers with long-overdue protection from irrational fear and unjust discrimination based on sexual orientation.

I am proud to join mayors, governors, religious leaders, CEOs, and the Leadership Conference on Civil Rights in support of this essential legislation. Lesbians and gay men are a productive part of the American workforce, but the gap in current law leaves them vulnerable to bigotry in the workplace. For too long, our nation has ignored discrimination against this group of Americans. They work hard, pay their taxes, and yet continue to be denied equal protection under the law. It is time for a change.

I am encouraged that in a recent Newsweek poll, 84 percent of the respondents favored protecting gay and lesbian people from job discrimination, and I am proud to stand with the overwhelming majority of Americans who recognize the importance of such protection.

The bill in Congress will grant the same rights to victims of discrimination based on sexual orientation that are now available to victims of racial, gender, and religious discrimination and those who have been unfairly treated in the workplace because of their age, ethnic background, or disability. The bill provides no preferential treatment or special rights. It simply requires that all people be judged by their skills and the quality of their work, and not by the prejudice, fear, and stereotypes of others. It is time to root out bias, whatever form it takes.

As my husband, Martin Luther King, Jr. said, "Injustice anywhere is a threat to justice everywhere," and "I have fought too long and hard against segregated public accommodations to end up segregating my moral concern. Justice is indivisible."

Lesbians and gays supported the African American freedom struggle. None of us who achieved that freedom should turn our back on this next phase of the movement for freedom and dignity. Like Martin, I believe you cannot stand for freedom for one group of people, and deny it to others. As history affirms, none of us is free until all of us are free.

The Employment Non-Discrimination Act is a logical extension of the Bill of Rights and the civil rights reforms of the 1950s and 1960s. Then as now, we were told that employers were not prejudiced, but their workers and customers feared diversity. In the 1960s, businesses cited "customer preference" to rationalize their refusal to hire African Americans. We should learn from these mistakes and not repeat them.

The great promise of our democracy is that we encourage all people to reach their full potential, and provide protection against senseless discrimination and persecution. In doing so, we strengthen ourselves as a nation and all that America stands for.

Congress should help stop job discrimination by enacting the Employment Non-Discrimination Act. Fundamental principles of fairness and human dignity are at stake. All Americans who support real equality in the workplace should watch closely on Tuesday, September 10th as Senators cast their votes on this landmark legislation.

Sincerely,

CORETTA SCOTT KING.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on the engrossment and third reading of the bill.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading and was read the third time.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second? There is a sufficient second.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. All time has been yielded back.

The bill having been read the third time, the question is, Shall the bill pass?

The yeas and nays have been ordered, and the clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk called the roll.

Mr. FORD. I announce that the Senator from Arkansas [Mr. PRYOR] is necessarily absent.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there any other Senators in the Chamber desiring to vote?

The result was announced—yeas 49, nays 50, as follows:

NOT VOTING—1

Pryor

The bill (S. 2056) was rejected.

Mr. GRAMM. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. NICKLES. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, I voted against S. 2056, the Employment Non-discrimination Act. I would like to take a few moments of the Senate's time to explain my opposition and concerns with respect to that legislation.

At the outset, however, I would first like to acknowledge the fact that I do not condone employment discrimination based on factors immaterial to the performance of one's duties. I do not practice it in my own office, nor am I aware of any other member of the Senate that does. And, as the proponents of S. 2056 have shown, many employers throughout this nation—both large and small—have adopted nondiscrimination provisions as part of their corporate policies. I applaud that effort.

But the fact that I do not approve of, or practice, employment discrimination does not mean that I believe it is wise for the Senate to pass this bill at this time. On the contrary, I think it is inadvisable, at this late stage of the 104th Congress, for us to shift our focus from the immediate tasks at hand to a matter that is clearly deserving of extended deliberation by way of committee hearings and floor debate.

Mr. President, in my opinion, the legal ramifications that could necessarily extend from enactment of this Act are monumental. I believe this is so because passage of the Act would, for the first time in our history, place sexual conduct on an equitable legal footing with such benign, nonbehav-ioral factors as race, gender, and national origin—immutable characteristics which each of us possess, but which none of us can alter.

It is my hope, then, that when the 105th Congress convenes next year, hearings may be held that will bring together various legal scholars who will concentrate on this important aspect, and in so doing help us, as Senators, in making a more informed decision.

Until such considerations and debate has taken place, I cannot, in all good conscience, support this measure.

TREASURY, POSTAL SERVICE, AND GENERAL GOVERNMENT APPROPRIATIONS ACT, 1997

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, the clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

A bill (H.R. 3756) making appropriations for the Treasury Department, the United States Postal Service, the Executive Office of the President, and certain Independent Agencies, for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1997, and for other purposes.

The Senate proceeded to consider the bill which had been reported from the Committee on Appropriations with amendments, as follows:

(The parts of the bill intended to be stricken are shown in boldface brackets and the parts of the bill intended to be inserted are shown in italic.)

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the following sums are appropriated, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, for the Treasury Department, the United States Postal Service, the Executive Office of the President, and certain Independent Agencies, for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1997, and for other purposes, namely:

(b) As authorized by section 32401, [$7,200,000] $8,000,000, for disbursement through grants, cooperative agreements or contracts, to local governments for Gang Resistance Education and Training; Provided, That notwithstanding sections 32401 and 310001, such funds shall be allocated only to the affected State and local law enforcement and prevention organizations participating in such projects.

TREASURY FRANCHISE FUND

There is hereby established in the Treasury a franchise fund pilot, as authorized by section 403 of Public Law 103-356, to be available as provided in such section for expenses and equipment necessary for the maintenance and operation of such financial and administrative support services as the Secretary determines may be performed more advantageously as central services: Provided, That any inventories, equipment, and other assets pertaining to the services to be provided by such fund, either on hand or on order, less the related liabilities or unpaid obligations, and any appropriations made for the purpose of providing capital, shall be used to capitalize such fund: Provided further, That such fund shall be reimbursed or credited with the payments, including advanced payments, from applicable appropriations and funds available to the Department and other Federal agencies for which such administrative and financial services are performed, at rates which will recover all expenses of operation, including accrued leave, depreciation of fund plant and equipment, amortization of Automatic Data Processing (ADP) software and systems, and an amount necessary to maintain a reasonable operating reserve, as determined by the Secretary: Provided further, That such fund shall provide services on a competitive basis: Provided further, That an amount not to exceed 4 percent of the total annual income to such fund may be retained in the fund for fiscal year 1997 and each fiscal year thereafter, to remain available until expended, to be used for the acquisition of capital equipment and for the improvement and implementation of Treasury financial management, ADP, and other support systems: Provided further, That no later than 30 days after the end of each fiscal year, amounts in excess of this reserve limitation shall be deposited as miscellaneous receipts in the Treasury: Provided further, That such franchise fund pilot shall terminate pursuant to section 403(f) of Public Law 103-356.

FEDERAL LAW ENFORCEMENT TRAINING CENTER

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

For necessary expenses of the Federal Law Enforcement Training Center, as a bureau of the Department of the Treasury, including materials and support costs of Federal law enforcement basic training; purchase (not to exceed 52 for police-type use, without regard to the general purchase price limitation) and hire of passenger motor vehicles; for expenses for student athletic and related activities; uniforms without regard to the general purchase price limitation for the current fiscal year; the conducting of and participating in firearms matches and presentation of awards; for public awareness and enhancing community support of law enforcement training; not to exceed $9,500 for official reception and representation expenses; room and board for student interns; and services as authorized by 5 U.S.C. 3109; [$51,681,000] $52,242,000, of which [$9,423,000] $9,884,000 for materials and support costs of Federal law enforcement basic training shall remain available until September 30, 1999: Provided, That the Center is authorized to accept and use gifts of property, both real and personal, and to accept services, for authorized purposes, including funding of a gift of intrinsic value which shall be awarded annually by the Director of the Center to the outstanding student who graduated from a basic training program at the Center during the previous fiscal year, which shall be funded only by gifts received through the Center's gift authority: Provided further, That notwithstanding any other provision of law, students attending training at any Federal Law Enforcement Training Center site shall reside in on-Center or Center-provided housing, insofar as available and in accordance with Center policy: Provided further, That funds appropriated in this account shall be available for training United States Postal Service law enforcement personnel and Postal police officers, at the discretion of the Director; State and local government law enforcement training on a space-available basis; training of foreign law enforcement officials on a space-available basis with reimbursement of actual costs to this appropriation; training of private sector security officials on a space-available basis with reimbursement of actual costs to this appropriation; and travel expenses of non-Federal personnel to attend course development meetings and training at the Center: Provided further, That funds appropriated in this account shall be available, at the discretion of the Director, for: training United States Postal Service law enforcement personnel and Postal police officers; State and local government law enforcement training on a space-available basis; training of foreign law enforcement officials on a space-available basis with reimbursement of actual costs to this appropriation; training of private sector security officials on a space-available basis with reimbursement of actual costs to this appropriation; and travel expenses of non-Federal personnel to attend course development meetings and training at the Center. Provided further, That the Center is authorized to obligate funds in anticipation of reimbursements from agencies receiving training at the Federal Law Enforcement Training Center, except that total obligations at the end of the fiscal year shall not exceed total budgetary resources available at the end of the fiscal year: Provided further, That the Federal Law Enforcement Training Center is authorized to provide short term medical services for students undergoing training at the Center.

ACQUISITION, CONSTRUCTION, IMPROVEMENTS, AND RELATED EXPENSES

For expansion of the Federal Law Enforcement Training Center, for acquisition of necessary additional real property and facilities, and for ongoing maintenance, facility improvements, and related expenses, [$18,884,000] $19,884,000, to remain available until expended.

FINANCIAL MANAGEMENT SERVICE

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

For necessary expenses of the Financial Management Service, [$191,799,000] $196,338,000, of which not to exceed $14,277,000 shall remain available until expended for systems modernization initiatives. In addition, $90,000, to be derived from the Oil Spill Liability Trust Fund, to reimburse the Service for administrative and personnel expenses for financial management of the Fund, as authorized by section 1012 of Public Law 101-380: Provided, That none of the funds made available for systems modernization initiatives may not be obligated until the Commissioner of the Financial Management Service has submitted, and the Committees on Appropriations of the House and Senate have approved, a report that identifies, evaluates, and prioritizes all computer systems investments planned for fiscal year 1997, a milestone schedule for the development and implementation of all projects included in the systems investment plan, and a systems architecture plan.

GENERAL PROVISIONS—GENERAL SERVICES ADMINISTRATION

SECTION 401. The appropriate appropriation or fund available to the General Services Administration shall be credited with the cost of operation, protection, maintenance, upkeep, repair, and improvement, included as part of rentals received from Government corporations pursuant to law (40 U.S.C. 129).

SEC. 402. Funds available to the General Services Administration shall be available for the hire of passenger motor vehicles.

SEC. 403. Funds in the Federal Buildings Fund made available for fiscal year 1997 for Federal Buildings Fund activities may be transferred between such activities only to the extent necessary to meet program requirements: Provided, That any proposed transfers shall be approved in advance by the Committees on Appropriations of the House and Senate.

SEC. 404. Section 10 of the General Services Administration General Provisions, Public Law 100-440, dated September 22, 1988, is hereby repealed.

SEC. 405. No funds made available by this Act shall be used to transmit a fiscal year 1998 request for United States Courthouse construction that does not meet the design guide standards for construction as established by the General Services Administration, Administration and the Judicial Conference of the United States, and the Office of Management and Budget] and does not reflect the priorities of the Judicial Conference of the United States as set out in its approved 5-year construction plan: Provided, That the request must be accompanied by a standardized courtroom utilization study of each facility to be replaced or expanded.

[SEC. 406. None of the funds provided in this Act may be used to implement a plan for the Ronald Reagan Building (International Trade Center, Washington, D.C.) which would permit the Woodrow Wilson Center to pay the General Services Administration less than the rate per square foot assessment for space and services which is paid by other Federal entities.

[SEC. 407. None of the funds provided in this Act may be used to increase the amount of occupiable square feet, provide cleaning services, security enhancements, or any other service usually provided through the Federal Buildings Fund, to any agency which does not pay the requested rate per square foot assessment for space and services as determined by the General Services Administration in compliance with the Public Buildings Amendments Act of 1972 (Public Law 92-313).

[SEC. 408. The Administrator of the General Services is directed to ensure that the materials used for the facade on the United States Courthouse Annex, Savannah, Georgia project are compatible with the existing Savannah Federal Building-U.S. Courthouse facade, in order to ensure compatibility of this new facility with the Savannah historic district and to ensure that the Annex will not endanger the National Landmark status of the Savannah historic district.]

SEC. 409. (a) Section 210 of the Federal Property and Administrative Services Act of 1949 (40 U.S.C. 490) is amended by adding at the end the following new subsection:

"(1)(1) The Administrator may establish, acquire space for, and equip flexiplace work telecommuting centers (in this subsection referred to as 'telecommuting centers') for use by employees of Federal agencies, State and local governments, and the private sector in accordance with this subsection.

"(2) The Administrator may make any telecommuting center available for use by individuals who are not Federal employees to the extent the center is not being fully utilized by Federal employees. The Administrator shall give Federal employees priority in using the telecommuting centers.

"(3)(A) The Administrator shall charge user fees for the use of any telecommuting center. The amount of the user fee shall approximate commercial charges for comparable space and services except that in no instance shall such fee be less than that necessary to pay the cost of establishing and operating the center, including the reasonable cost of renovation and replacement of furniture, fixtures, and equipment.

"(B) Amounts received by the Administrator after September 30, 1993, as user fees for use of any telecommuting center may be deposited into the Fund established under subsection (f) of this section and may be used by the Administrator to pay costs incurred in the establishment and operation of the center.

"(4) The Administrator may provide guidance, assistance, and oversight to any person regarding establishment and operation of alternative workplace arrangements, such as telecommuting, hoteling, virtual offices, and other distributive work arrangements.

"(5) In considering whether to acquire any space, quarters, buildings, or other facilities for use by employees of any executive agency, the head of that agency shall consider whether the need for the facilities can be met using alternative workplace arrangements referred to in paragraph (4).

(b) Section 13 of the Public Building Act of 1959, as amended, (107 Stat. 438; 40 U.S.C. 612) is amended—

(1) by striking "(xi)" and inserting in lieu thereof "(xii)"; and

(2) by striking "and (x)" and inserting in lieu thereof "(x) telecommuting centers and (xi)".

SEC. 410. Section 6 of the General Services Administration General Provisions, Public Law 103-123, dated October 28, 1993, is hereby repealed.

SEC. 411. Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the Administrator of General Services is authorized and directed to acquire the land bounded by S.W. First Avenue, S.W. Second Avenue, S.W. Main Street, and S.W. Madison Street, Portland, Oregon, for the purposes of constructing the proposed Law Enforcement Center on the site.

TITLE V—GENERAL PROVISIONS
THIS ACT

SECTION 501. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall remain available for obligation beyond the current fiscal year unless expressly so provided herein.

SEC. 502. The expenditure of any appropriation under this Act for any consulting service through procurement contract, pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 3109, shall be limited to those contracts where such expenditures are a matter of public record and available for public inspection, except where otherwise provided under existing law, or under existing Executive order issued pursuant to existing law.

SEC. 503. None of the funds made available to the General Services Administration pursuant to section 210(f) of the Federal Property and Administrative Services Act of 1949 shall be obligated or expended after the date of enactment of this Act for the procurement by contract of any guard, elevator operator, messenger or custodial services if any permanent veterans preference employee of the General Services Administration at said date, would be terminated as a result of the procurement of such services, except that such funds may be obligated or expended for the procurement by contract of the covered services with sheltered workshops employing the severely handicapped under Public Law 92-28. Only if such workshops decline to contract for the provision of the covered services may the General Services Administration procure the services by competitive contract, for a period not to exceed 5 years. At such time as such competitive contract expires or is terminated for any reason, the General Services Administration shall again offer to contract for the services from a sheltered workshop prior to offering such services for competitive procurement.]

SEC. 504. None of the funds made available by this Act shall be available for any activity or for paying the salary of any Government employee where funding an activity or paying a salary to a Government employee would result in a decision, determination, rule, regulation, or policy that would prohibit the enforcement of section 307 of the Tariff Act of 1930.

SEC. 505. None of the funds made available by this Act shall be available for the purpose of transferring control over the Federal Law Enforcement Training Center located at Glynco, Georgia, and Artesia, New Mexico, out of the Treasury Department.

SEC. 506. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall be used for publicity or propaganda purposes within the United States not heretofore authorized by the Congress.

SEC. 507. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall be available for the payment of the salary of any officer or employee of the United States Postal Service, who—

(1) prohibits or prevents, or attempts or threatens to prohibit or prevent, any officer or employee of the United States Postal Service from having any direct oral or written communication or contact with any Member or committee of Congress in connection with any matter pertaining to the employment of such officer or employee or pertaining to the United States Postal Service in any way, irrespective of whether such communication or contact is at the initiative of such officer or employee or in response to the request or inquiry of such Member or committee; or

(2) removes, suspends from duty without pay, demotes, reduces in rank, seniority, status, pay, or performance of efficiency rating, denies promotion to, relocates, reassigns, transfers, disciplines, or discriminates in regard to any employment right, entitlement, or benefit, or any term or condition of employment of, any officer or employee of the United States Postal Service, or attempts or threatens to commit any of the foregoing actions with respect to such officer or employee, by reason of any communication or contact of such officer or employee with any Member or committee of Congress as described in paragraph (1).

SEC. 508. The Office of Personnel Management may, during the fiscal year ending September 30, 1997, accept donations of supplies, services, land, and equipment for the Federal Executive Institute and Management Development Centers to assist in enhancing the quality of Federal management.

SEC. 509. The United States Secret Service may, during the fiscal year ending September 30, 1997, and hereafter, accept donations of money to off-set costs incurred while protecting former Presidents and spouses of former Presidents when the former President or spouse travels for the purpose of making an appearance or speech for a payment of money or any thing of value.

SEC. 510. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall be available to pay the salary for any person filling a position, other than a temporary position, formerly held by an employee who has left to enter the Armed Forces of the United States and has satisfactorily completed his period of active military or naval service and has within 90 days after his release from such service or from hospitalization continuing after discharge for a period of not more than 1 year made application for restoration to his former position and has been certified by the Office of Personnel Management as still qualified to perform the duties of his former position and has not been restored thereto.

SEC. 511. None of the funds made available in this Act may be used to provide any non-public information such as mailing or telephone lists to any person or any organization outside of the Federal Government without the approval of the House and Senate Committees on Appropriations.

SEC. 512. No funds appropriated pursuant to this Act may be expended by an entity unless the entity agrees that in expending the assistance the entity will comply with sections 2 through 4 of the Act of March 3, 1933 (41 U.S.C. 10a-10c, popularly known as the "Buy American Act").

SEC. 513. (a) PURCHASE OF AMERICAN-MADE EQUIPMENT AND PRODUCTS.—In the case of any equipment or products that may be authorized to be purchased with financial assistance provided under this Act, it is the sense of the Congress that entities receiving such assistance should, in expending the assistance, purchase only American-made equipment and products.

(b) NOTICE TO RECIPIENTS OF ASSISTANCE.—In providing financial assistance under this Act, the Secretary of the Treasury shall provide to each recipient of the assistance a notice describing the statement made in subsection (a) by the Congress.

SEC. 514. If it has been finally determined by a court or Federal agency that any person intentionally affixed a label bearing a "Made in America" inscription, or any inscription with the same meaning, to any product sold in or shipped to the United States that is not made in the United States, such person shall be ineligible to receive any contract or subcontract made with funds provided pursuant to this Act, pursuant to the debarment, suspension, and ineligibility procedures described in section 9.400 through 9.409 of title 48, Code of Federal Regulations.

SEC. 515. Except as otherwise specifically provided by law, not to exceed 50 percent of unobligated balances remaining available at the end of fiscal year 1997 from appropriations made available for salaries and expenses for fiscal year 1997 in this Act, shall remain available through September 30, 1998, for each such account for the purposes authorized: Provided, That a request shall be submitted to the House and Senate Committees on Appropriations for approval prior to the expenditure of such funds.

SEC. 516. Where appropriations in this Act are expendable for travel expenses of employees and no specific limitation has been placed thereon, the expenditures for such travel expenses may not exceed the amount set forth in the budget estimates submitted for appropriations without the advance approval of the House and Senate Committees on Appropriations: Provided, That this section shall not apply to travel performed by uncompensated officials of local boards and appeal boards in the Selective Service System; to travel performed directly in connection with care and treatment of medical beneficiaries of the Department of Veterans Affairs; to travel of the Office of Personnel Management in carrying out its observation responsibilities of the Voting Rights Act; or to payments to interagency motor pools separately set forth in the budget schedules: Provided further, That this provision does not apply to accounts that do not contain an object identification for travel.

SEC. 517. Notwithstanding any other provision of law or regulation during the fiscal year ending September 30, 1997, and thereafter:

(1) The authority of the special police officers of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, in the Washington, DC Metropolitan area, extends to buildings and land under the custody and control of the Bureau; to buildings and land acquired by or for the Bureau through lease, unless otherwise provided by the acquisition agency; to the streets, sidewalks and open areas immediately adjacent to the Bureau along Wallenberg Place (15th Street) and 14th Street between Independence and Maine Avenues and C and D Streets between 12th and 14th Streets; to areas which include surrounding parking facilities used by Bureau employees, including the lots at 12th and C Streets, SW, Maine Avenue and Water Streets, SW, Maiden Lane, the Tidal Basin and East Potomac Park; to the protection in transit of United States securities, plates and dies used in the production of United States securities, or other products or implements of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing which the Director of that agency so designates.

(2) The authority of the special police officers of the United States Mint extends to the buildings and land under the custody and control of the Mint; to the streets, sidewalks and open areas in the vicinity to such facilities; to surrounding parking facilities used by Mint employees; and to the protection in transit of bullion, coins, dies, and other property and assets of, or in the custody of, the Mint.

(3) The exercise of police authority by Bureau or Mint officers, with the exception of the exercise of authority upon property under the custody and control of the Bureau or the Mint, respectively, shall be deemed supplementary to the Federal police force with primary jurisdictional responsibility. This authority shall be in addition to any other law enforcement authority which has been provided to these officers under other provisions of law or regulations.

SEC. 518. No funds appropriated by this Act shall be available to pay for an abortion, or the administrative expenses in connection with any health plan under the Federal employees health benefit program which provides any benefits or coverage for abortions.

SEC. 519. The provision of section 518 shall not apply where the life of the mother would be endangered if the fetus were carried to term, or the pregnancy is the result of an act of rape or incest.]

SEC. 520. No part of any appropriation made available in this Act shall be used to implement Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms Ruling TD ATF-360; Re: Notice Nos. 782, 780, 91F009P.

SEC. 521. Notwithstanding title 5, United States Code, Personal Service Contractors (PSC) employed by the Department of the Treasury for assignment in a country other than the United States, shall be considered as Federal Government employees for purposes of making available Federal employee health and life insurance.

SEC. 522. Section 5131 of title 31, United States Code, is amended by striking subsection (c); and by redesignating subsection (d) as subsection (c).]

SEC. 523. Section 5112(i)(4) of title 31, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following new subparagraph:

“(C) The Secretary may continue to mint and issue coins in accordance with the specifications contained in paragraphs (7), (8), (9), and (10) of subsection (a) and paragraph (1)(A) of this subsection at the same time the Secretary in minting and issuing other bullion and proof gold coins under this subsection in accordance with such program procedures and coin specifications, designs, varieties, quantities, denominations, and inscriptions as the Secretary, in the Secretary’s discretion, may prescribe from time to time.”: Provided, That profits generated from the sale of gold to the United States Mint for this program shall be considered as a receipt to be deposited into the General Fund of the Treasury.

SEC. 524. Section 5112 of title 31, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following new subsection:

“(k) The Secretary may mint and issue bullion and proof platinum coins in accordance with such specifications, designs, varieties, quantities, denominations, and inscriptions as the Secretary, in the Secretary’s discretion, may prescribe from time to time.”: Provided, That the Secretary is authorized to use Government platinum reserves stockpiled at the United States Mint as working inventory and shall ensure that reserves utilized are replaced by the Mint.

SEC. 525. VOLUNTARY SEPARATION INCENTIVES FOR EMPLOYEES OF CERTAIN FEDERAL AGENCIES.—(a) DEFINITIONS.—For the purposes of this section—

(1) the term “agency” means the Internal Revenue Service, the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, and the United States Customs Service;

(2) the term “employee” means an employee (as defined by section 2105 of title 5, United States Code) who is employed by an agency, is serving under an appointment without time limitation, and has been currently employed for a continuous period of at least [12 months] 3 years, but does not include—

(A) any employee who, upon separation and application, would then be eligible for an immediate annuity under subchapter III of chapter 83 or chapter 84 of title 5, United States Code, or another retirement system for employees of the agency;]

(B) (A) a reemployed annuitant under subchapter III of chapter 83 or chapter 84 of title 5, United States Code, or another retirement system for employees of the agency;

(C) (B) an employee having a disability on the basis of which such employee is or would be eligible for disability retirement under [the applicable retirement system referred to in subparagraph (A)] subchapter III of chapter 83 or chapter 84 of title 5, United States Code, or another retirement system for employees of the agency;

(D) (C) an employee who is in receipt of a specific notice of involuntary separation for misconduct or unacceptable performance;

(E) (D) an employee who, upon completing an additional period of service is as referred to in section 3(b)(2)(B)(ii) of the Federal Workforce Restructuring Act of 1994 (5 U.S.C. 5597 note), would qualify for a voluntary separation incentive payment under section 3 of such Act;

(F) (E) an employee who has previously received any voluntary separation incentive payment by the Federal Government under this section or any other authority and has not repaid such payment;

[(G) (F) an employee covered by statutory reemployment rights who is on transfer to another organization; or

[(H) (G) any employee who, during the twenty four month period preceding the date of separation, has received a recruitment or relocation bonus under section 5753 of title 5, United States Code, or who, within the twelve month period preceding the date of separation, received a retention [allowable] allowance under section 5754 of title 5, United States Code.

(b) AGENCY STRATEGIC PLAN.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The head of each agency, prior to obligating any resources for voluntary separation incentive payments, shall submit to the House and Senate Committees on Appropriations and the Committee on Governmental Affairs of the Senate and the Committee on Government Reform and Oversight of the House of Representatives a strategic plan outlining the intended use of such incentive payments and a proposed organizational chart for the agency once such incentive payments have been completed.

(2) CONTENTS.—The agency’s plan shall include—

(A) the positions and functions to be reduced or eliminated, identified by organizational unit, geographic location, occupational category and grade level;

(B) the number and amounts of voluntary separation incentive payments to be offered; and

(C) a description of how the agency will operate without the eliminated positions and functions.

(c) AUTHORITY TO PROVIDE VOLUNTARY SEPARATION INCENTIVE PAYMENTS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—A voluntary separation incentive payment under this section may be paid by an agency to any employee only to the extent necessary to eliminate the positions and functions identified by the strategic plan.

(2) AMOUNT AND TREATMENT OF PAYMENTS.—A voluntary separation incentive payment—

(A) shall be paid in a lump sum after the employee’s separation;

(B) shall be paid from appropriations or funds available for the payment of the basic pay of the employees;

(C) shall be equal to the lesser of—

(i) an amount equal to the amount the employee would be entitled to receive under section 5595(c) of title 5, United States Code; or

(ii) an amount determined by the agency head not to exceed $25,000;

(D) may not be made except in the case of any qualifying employee who voluntarily separates (whether by retirement or resignation) before March 31, 1997;

(E) shall not be a basis for payment, and shall not be included in the computation, of any other type of Government benefit; and

(F) shall not be taken into account in determining the amount of any severance pay to which the employee may be entitled under section 5595 of title 5, United States Code, based on any other separation.

(d) ADDITIONAL AGENCY CONTRIBUTIONS TO THE RETIREMENT FUND.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—In addition to any other payments which it is required to make under subchapter III of chapter 83 of title 5, United States Code, an agency shall remit to the Office of Personnel Management for deposit in the Treasury of the United States to the credit of the Civil Service Retirement and Disability Fund an amount equal to 15 percent of the final basic pay of each employee of the agency who is covered under subchapter III of chapter 83 or chapter 84 of title 5, United States Code, to whom a voluntary separation incentive has been paid under this section.

(2) DEFINITION.—For the purpose of paragraph (1), the term “final basic pay”, with respect to an employee, means the total amount of basic pay which would be payable for a year of service by such employee, computed using the employee’s final rate of basic pay, and, if last serving on other than a full-time basis, with appropriate adjustment therefor.

(e) EFFECT OF SUBSEQUENT EMPLOYMENT WITH THE GOVERNMENT.—An individual who has received a voluntary separation incentive payment under this section and accepts any employment for compensation with the Government of the United States, or who works for any agency of the United States Government through a personal services contract, within 5 years after the date of the separation on which the payment is based shall be required to pay, prior to the individual’s first day of employment, the entire amount of the incentive payment to the agency that paid the incentive payment.

(f) REDUCTION OF AGENCY EMPLOYMENT LEVELS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The total number of funded employee positions in the agency shall be reduced by one position for each vacancy created by the separation of any employee who has received, or is due to receive, a voluntary separation incentive payment under this section. For the purposes of this subsection, positions shall be counted on a full-time-equivalent basis.

(2) ENFORCEMENT.—The President, through the Office of Management and Budget, shall monitor the agency and take any action necessary to ensure that the requirements of this subsection are met.

(g) EFFECTIVE DATE.—This section shall take effect October 1, 1996.

SEC. 525A. VOLUNTARY SEPARATION INCENTIVES FOR EMPLOYEES OF THE UNITED STATES AGENCY FOR INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT.—

(a) AUTHORITY.—The United States Agency for International Development is authorized to offer voluntary separation incentive payments to no more than 100 of its employees in accordance with section 525 of this Act.

(b) EXCEPTION.—Section 525(a)(2)(A) of this Act shall not apply to an employee of the United States Agency for International Development who, upon separation and application, would be eligible for an immediate annuity under sections 8336(d)(2) and 8414(b)(1)(B) of title 5, United States Code.

(c) EFFECTIVE DATE.—This section shall take effect on the date of enactment of this Act.

SEC. 526. That provisions of law governing procurement or public contracts shall not be applicable to the procurement of goods or services necessary for carrying out Bureau of Engraving and Printing program and operation: Provided, That the authority contained in this provision shall expire on September 30, 1999.

SEC. 527. The United States Mint is hereby authorized to establish a demonstration project under the authorities of title V, U.S.C., chapter 47: Provided, That the Director of the United States Mint shall be appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate; the Director shall serve on the basis of a six-year contract, which may be renewed, so long as the Director’s performance, as set forth in an annual performance agreement with the Secretary of the Treasury, is satisfactory; and the Director shall receive as basic compensation for a calendar year an amount equal to the annual rate of basic pay for level I of the Executive Schedule under section 5312 of title 5 and, in addition, may receive an annual bonus awarded by the Secretary, based upon the Secretary's evaluation of the Director's performance in accordance with the performance agreement.]

SEC. 528. (a) REIMBURSEMENT OF CERTAIN ATTORNEY FEES AND COSTS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary of the Treasury shall pay from amounts appropriated in title I of this Act under the heading, "Departmental Offices, Salaries and Expenses", up to $500,000 to reimburse former employees of the White House Travel Office whose employment in that Office was terminated on May 19, 1993, for any attorney fees and costs they incurred with respect to that termination.

(2) VERIFICATION REQUIRED.—The Secretary shall pay an individual in full under paragraph (1) upon submission by the individual of documentation verifying the attorney fees and costs.

(3) NO INFERENCE OF LIABILITY.—Liability of the United States shall not be inferred from enactment of or payment under this subsection.

(b) LIMITATION ON FILING OF CLAIMS.—The Secretary of the Treasury shall not pay any claim filed under this section that is filed later than 120 days after the date of the enactment of this Act.

(c) LIMITATION.—Payments under subsection (a) shall not include attorney fees or costs incurred with respect to any Congressional hearing or investigation into the termination of employment of the former employees of the White House Travel Office.

(d) REDUCTION.—The amount paid pursuant to this section to an individual for attorney fees and costs described in subsection (a) shall be reduced by any amount received before the date of the enactment of this Act, without obligation for repayment by the individual, for payment of such attorney fees and costs (including any amount received from the funds appropriated for the individual in the matter relating to the "Office of the General Counsel" under the heading "Office of the Secretary" in title I of the Department of Transportation and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 1994).

(e) PAYMENT IN FULL SETTLEMENT OF CLAIMS AGAINST THE UNITED STATES.—Payment under this section, when accepted by an individual described in subsection (a), shall be in full satisfaction of all claims of, or on behalf of, the individual against the United States that arose out of the termination of the White House Travel Office employment of that individual on May 19, 1993.

SEC. 529. None of the funds made available in this Act may be used by the Executive Office of the President to request from the Federal Bureau of Investigation any official background investigation report on any individual, except when it is made known to the Federal official having authority to obligate or expend such funds that—

(1) such individual has given his or her express written consent for such request not more than 6 months prior to the date of such request and during the same presidential administration; or

(2) such request is required due to extraordinary circumstances involving national security.

SEC. 530. MINT FACILITY FOR GOLD AND PLATINUM COINS.—Section 5112 of title 31, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following new subsection:

"(1) MINT FACILITY FOR GOLD AND PLATINUM COINS.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the United States Mint Facility at West Point, New York, shall be used to strike and distribute all gold coins and all platinum coins minted by the Secretary under this title or any other provision of law, including all proof and uncirculated gold bullion coins and commemorative coins."

TITLE VI—GENERAL PROVISIONS

DEPARTMENTS, AGENCIES, AND CORPORATIONS

SECTION 601. Funds appropriated in this or any other Act may be used to pay travel to the United States for the immediate family of employees serving abroad in cases of death or life threatening illness of said employee.

SEC. 602. No department, agency, or instrumentality of the United States receiving appropriated funds under this or any other Act for fiscal year 1997 shall obligate or expend any such funds, unless such department, agency, or instrumentality has in place, and will continue to administer in good faith, a written policy designed to ensure that all of its workplaces are free from the illegal use, possession, or distribution of controlled substances (as defined in the Controlled Substances Act) by the officers and employees of such department, agency, or instrumentality.

SEC. 603. Notwithstanding 31 U.S.C. 1345, any agency, department or instrumentality of the United States which provides or proposes to provide child care services for Federal employees may reimburse any Federal employee or any person employed to provide such services for travel, transportation, and subsistence expenses incurred for training classes, conferences or other meetings in connection with the provision of such services: Provided, That any per diem allowance made pursuant to this section shall not exceed the rate specified in regulations prescribed pursuant to section 5707 of title 5, United States Code.

SEC. 604. Unless otherwise specifically provided, the maximum amount allowable during the current fiscal year in accordance with section 16 of the Act of August 2, 1946 (60 Stat. 810), for the purchase of any passenger motor vehicle (exclusive of buses, ambulances, law enforcement, and undercover surveillance vehicles), is hereby fixed at $8,100 except station wagons for which the maximum shall be $9,100: Provided, That these limits may be exceeded by not to exceed $3,700 for police-type vehicles, and by not to exceed $4,000 for special heavy-duty vehicles: Provided further, That the limits set forth in this section may not be exceeded by more than 5 percent for electric or hybrid vehicles purchased for demonstration under the provisions of the Electric and Hybrid Vehicle Research, Development, and Demonstration Act of 1976: Provided further, That the limits set forth in this section may be exceeded by the incremental cost of clean alternative fuels vehicles acquired pursuant to Public Law 101-549 over the cost of comparable conventionally fueled vehicles.

SEC. 605. Appropriations of the executive departments and independent establishments for the current fiscal year available for expenses of travel or for the expenses of the activity concerned, are hereby made available for quarters allowances and cost-of-living allowances, in accordance with 5 U.S.C. 5922-24.

SEC. 606. Unless otherwise specified during the current fiscal year, no part of any appropriation contained in this or any other Act shall be used to pay the compensation of any officer or employee of the Government of the United States (including any agency the majority of the stock of which is owned by the Government of the United States) whose post of duty is in the continental United States unless such person (1) is a citizen of the United States, (2) is a person in the service of the United States on the date of enactment of this Act who, being eligible for citizenship, has filed a declaration of intention to become a citizen of the United States prior to such date and is actually residing in the United States, (3) is a person who owes allegiance to the United States, (4) is an alien from Cuba, Poland, South Vietnam, the countries of the former Soviet Union, or the Baltic countries lawfully admitted to the United States for permanent residence, (5) is a South Vietnamese, Cambodian, or Laotian refugee paroled in the United States after January 1, 1975, or (6) is a national of the People's Republic of China who qualifies for adjustment of status pursuant to the Chinese Student Protection Act of 1992: Provided, That for the purpose of this section, an affidavit signed by any such person shall be considered prima facie evidence that the requirements of this section with respect to his or her status have been complied with: Provided further, That any person making a false affidavit shall be guilty of a felony, and, upon conviction, shall be fined no more than $4,000 or imprisoned for not more than 1 year, or both: Provided further, That the above penal clause shall be in addition to, and not in substitution for, any other provisions of existing law: Provided further, That any payment made to any officer or employee contrary to the provisions of this section shall be recoverable in action by the Federal Government. This section shall not apply to citizens of Ireland, Israel, or the Republic of the Philippines, or to nationals of those countries allied with the United States in the current defense effort, or to international broadcasters employed by the United States Information Agency, or to temporary employment of translators, or to temporary employment in the field service (not to exceed 60 days) as a result of emergencies.

SEC. 607. Appropriations available to any department or agency during the current fiscal year for necessary expenses, including maintenance or operating expenses, shall also be available for payment to the General Services Administration for charges for space and services and those expenses of renovation and alteration of buildings and facilities which constitute public improvements performed in accordance with the Public Buildings Act of 1959 (73 Stat. 749), the Public Buildings Amendments of 1972 (87 Stat. 216), or other applicable law.

SEC. 608. In addition to funds provided in this or any other Act, all Federal agencies are authorized to receive and use funds resulting from the sale of materials, including Federal records disposed of pursuant to a records schedule recovered through recycling or waste prevention programs. Such funds shall be available until expended for the following purposes:

(1) Acquisition, waste reduction and prevention, and recycling programs as described in Executive Order 12873 (October 20, 1993), including any such programs adopted prior to the effective date of the Executive Order.

(2) Other Federal agency environmental management programs, including, but not limited to, the development and implementation of hazardous waste management and pollution prevention programs.

(3) Other employee programs as authorized by law or as deemed appropriate by the head of the Federal agency.

SEC. 609. Funds made available by this or any other Act for administrative expenses in the current fiscal year of the corporations and agencies subject to chapter 91 of title 31, United States Code, shall be available, in addition to objects for which such funds are otherwise available, for rent in the District of Columbia; services in accordance with 5 U.S.C. 3109; and the objects specified under this head, all the provisions of which shall be applicable to the expenditure of such funds unless otherwise specified in the Act by which they are made available: Provided, That in the event any functions budgeted as administrative expenses are subsequently transferred to or paid from other funds, the limitations on administrative expenses shall be correspondingly reduced.

SEC. 610. No part of any appropriation for the current fiscal year contained in this or any other Act shall be paid to any person for the filling of any position for which he or she has been nominated after the Senate has voted not to approve the nomination of said person.

SEC. 611. For the fiscal year ending September 30, 1997, and thereafter, any department or agency to which the Administrator of General Services has delegated the authority to operate, maintain or repair any building or facility pursuant to section 205(d) of the Federal Property and Administrative Services Act of 1949, as amended, shall retain that portion of the GSA rental payment available for operation, maintenance or repair of the building or facility, as determined by the Administrator, and expend such funds directly for the operation, maintenance or repair of the building or facility. Any funds retained under this section shall remain available until expended for such purposes.

SEC. 612. (a) IN GENERAL.—Section 1306 of title 31, United States Code, is amended to read as follows:

“§ 1306. Use of foreign credits

“(a) IN GENERAL.—Foreign credits (including currencies) owed to or owned by the United States may be used by any agency for any purpose for which appropriations are made for the agency for the current fiscal year (including the carrying out of Acts requiring or authorizing the use of such credits), but only when reimbursement therefor is made to the Treasury from applicable appropriations of the agency.

“(b) EXCEPTION TO REIMBURSEMENT REQUIREMENT.—Credits described in subsection (a) that are received as exchanged allowances, or as the proceeds of the sale of personal property, may be used in whole or partial payment for the acquisition of similar items, to the extent and in the manner authorized by law, without reimbursement to the Treasury.”.

(b) APPLICABILITY.—The amendment made by this section shall take effect on the date of the enactment of this Act and shall apply thereafter.

SEC. 613. No part of any appropriation contained in this or any other Act shall be available for interagency financing of boards, commissions, councils, committees, or similar groups (whether or not they are interagency entities) which do not have a prior and specific statutory approval to receive financial support from more than one agency or instrumentality.

SEC. 614. Funds made available by this or any other Act to the “Postal Service Fund” (39 U.S.C. 2003) shall be available for employment of guards for all buildings and areas owned or occupied by the Postal Service and under the charge and control of the Postal Service, and such guards shall have, with respect to such property, the powers of special policemen provided by the first section of the Act of June 1, 1948, as amended (62 Stat. 281; 40 U.S.C. 318), and, as to property owned or occupied by the Postal Service, the Postmaster General may take the same actions as the Administrator of General Services may take under the provisions of sections 2 and 3 of the Act of June 1, 1948, as amended (62 Stat. 281; 40 U.S.C. 318a, 318b), attaching thereto penal consequences under the authority and within the limits provided in section 4 of the Act of June 1, 1948, as amended (62 Stat. 281; 40 U.S.C. 318c).

SEC. 615. None of the funds made available pursuant to the provisions of this Act shall be used to implement, administer, or enforce any regulation which has been disapproved pursuant to a resolution of disapproval duly adopted in accordance with the applicable law of the United States.

SEC. 616. (a) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, and except as otherwise provided in this section, no part of any of the funds appropriated for the fiscal year ending on September 30, 1997, by this or any other Act, may be used to pay any prevailing rate employee described in section 5342(a)(2)(A) of title 5, United States Code—

(1) during the period from the date of expiration of the limitation imposed by section 616 of the Treasury, Postal Service and General Government Appropriations Act, 1996, until the normal effective date of the applicable wage survey adjustment that is to take effect in fiscal year 1997, in an amount that exceeds the rate payable for the applicable grade and step of the applicable wage schedule in accordance with such section 616; and

(2) during the period consisting of the remainder of fiscal year 1997, in an amount that exceeds, as a result of a wage survey adjustment, the rate payable under paragraph (1) by more than the sum of—

(A) the percentage adjustment taking effect in fiscal year 1997 under section 5303 of title 5, United States Code, in the rates of pay under the General Schedule; and

(B) the difference between the overall average percentage of the locality-based comparability payments taking effect in fiscal year 1997 under section 5304 of such title (whether by adjustment or otherwise), and the overall average percentage of such payments which was effective in fiscal year 1996 under such section.

(b) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, no prevailing rate employee described in subparagraph (B) or (C) of section 5342(a)(2) of title 5, United States Code, and no employee covered by section 5348 of such title, may be paid during the periods for which subsection (a) is in effect at a rate that exceeds the rates that would be payable under subsection (a) were subsection (a) applicable to such employee.

(c) For the purposes of this section, the rates payable to an employee who is covered by this section and who is paid from a schedule not in existence on September 30, 1996, shall be determined under regulations prescribed by the Office of Personnel Management.

(d) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, rates of premium pay for employees subject to this section may not be changed from the rates in effect on September 30, 1996, except to the extent determined by the Office of Personnel Management to be consistent with the purpose of this section.

(e) This section shall apply with respect to pay for service performed after September 30, 1996.

(f) For the purpose of administering any provision of law (including section 8431 of title 5, United States Code, and any rule or regulation that provides premium pay, retirement, life insurance, or any other employee benefit) that requires any deduction or contribution, or that imposes any requirement or limitation on the basis of a rate of salary or basic pay, the rate of salary or basic pay payable after the application of this section shall be treated as the rate of salary or basic pay.

(g) Nothing in this section shall be considered to permit or require the payment to any employee covered by this section at a rate in excess of the rate that would be payable were this section not in effect.

(h) The Office of Personnel Management may provide for exceptions to the limitations imposed by this section if the Office determines that such exceptions are necessary to ensure the recruitment or retention of qualified employees.

SEC. 617. During the period in which the head of any department or agency, or any other officer or civilian employee of the Government appointed by the President of the United States, holds office, no funds may be obligated or expended in excess of $5,000 to furnish or redecorate the office of such department head, agency head, officer or employee, or to purchase furniture or make improvements for any such office, unless advance notice of such furnishing or redecoration is expressly approved by the Committees on Appropriations of the House and Senate. For the purposes of this section, the word “office” shall include the entire suite of offices assigned to the individual, as well as any other space used primarily by the individual or the use of which is directly controlled by the individual.

SEC. 618. Notwithstanding any other provision of law, no executive branch agency shall purchase, construct, and/or lease any additional facilities, except within or contiguous to existing locations, to be used for the purpose of conducting Federal law enforcement training without the advance approval of the House and Senate Committees on Appropriations.

SEC. 619. Notwithstanding section 1346 of title 31, United States Code, or section 613 of this Act, funds made available for fiscal year 1997 by this or any other Act shall be available for the interagency funding of national security and emergency preparedness telecommunications initiatives which benefit multiple Federal departments, agencies, or entities, as provided by Executive Order Numbered 12472 (April 3, 1984).

SEC. 620. (a) None of the funds appropriated by this or any other Act may be obligated or expended by any Federal department, agency, or other instrumentality for the salaries or expenses of any employee appointed to a position of a confidential or policy-determining character excepted from the competitive service pursuant to section 3302 of title 5, United States Code, without a certification to the Office of Personnel Management from the head of the Federal department, agency, or other instrumentality employing the Schedule C appointee that the Schedule C position was not created solely or primarily in order to detail the employee to the White House.

(b) The provisions of this section shall not apply to Federal employees or members of the armed services detailed to or from—

- (1) the Central Intelligence Agency;
- (2) the National Security Agency;
- (3) the Defense Intelligence Agency;

(4) the offices within the Department of Defense for the collection of specialized national foreign intelligence through reconnaissance programs;

(5) the Bureau of Intelligence and Research of the Department of State;

(6) any agency, office, or unit of the Army, Navy, Air Force, and Marine Corps, the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the Drug Enforcement Administration of the Department of Justice, the Department of Transportation, the Department of the Treasury, and the Department of Energy performing intelligence functions; and

- (7) the Director of Central Intelligence.

SEC. 621. No department, agency, or instrumentality of the United States receiving appropriated funds under this or any other Act for fiscal year 1997 shall obligate or expend any such funds, unless such department, agency or instrumentality has in place, and will continue to administer in good faith, a written policy designed to ensure that all of its workplaces are free from discrimination and sexual harassment and that all of its workplaces are not in violation of title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, as amended, the Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967, and the Rehabilitation Act of 1973.

SEC. 622. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act may be used to pay for the expenses of travel of employees, including employees of the Executive Office of the President, not directly responsible for the discharge of official governmental tasks and duties: Provided, That this restriction shall not apply to the family of the President, Members of Congress or their spouses, Heads of State of a foreign country or their designees, persons providing assistance to the President for official purposes, or other individuals so designated by the President.

SEC. 623. Notwithstanding any provision of law, the President, or his designee, must certify to Congress, annually, that no person or persons with direct or indirect responsibility for administering the Executive Office of the President's Drug-Free Workplace Plan are themselves subject to a program of individual random drug testing.

SEC. 624. (a) None of the funds made available in this Act or any other Act may be obligated or expended for any employee training when it is made known to the Federal official having authority to obligate or expend such funds that such employee training—

(1) does not meet identified needs for knowledge, skills, and abilities bearing directly upon the performance of official duties;

(2) contains elements likely to induce high levels of emotional response or psychological stress in some participants;

(3) does not require prior employee notification of the content and methods to be used in the training and written end of course evaluation;

(4) contains any methods or content associated with religious or quasi-religious belief systems or "new age" belief systems as defined in Equal Employment Opportunity Commission Notice N-915.022, dated September 2, 1988;

(5) is offensive to, or designed to change, participants' personal values or lifestyle outside the workplace; or

(6) includes content related to human immunodeficiency virus/acquired immune deficiency syndrome (HIV/AIDS) other than that necessary to make employees more aware of the medical ramifications of HIV/AIDS and the workplace rights of HIV-positive employees.

(b) Nothing in this section shall prohibit, restrict, or otherwise preclude an agency from conducting training bearing directly upon the performance of official duties.

SEC. 625. No funds appropriated in this or any other Act for fiscal year 1997 may be used to implement or enforce the agreements in Standard Forms 312 and 4355 of the Government or any other nondisclosure policy, form, or agreement if such policy, form, or agreement does not contain the following provisions: "These restrictions are consistent with and do not supersede, conflict with, or otherwise alter the employee obligations, rights, or liabilities created by Executive Order 12356; section 7211 of title 5, United States Code (governing disclosures to Congress); section 1034 of title 10, United States Code, as amended by the Military Whistleblower Protection Act (governing disclosure to Congress by members of the military); section 2302(b)(8) of title 5, United States Code, as amended by the Whistleblower Protection Act (governing disclosures of illegality, waste, fraud, abuse or public health or safety threats); the Intelligence Identities Protection Act of 1982 (50 U.S.C. 421 et seq.) (governing disclosures that could expose confidential Government agents); and the statutes which protect against disclosure that may compromise the national security, including sections 641, 793, 794, 798, and 952 of title 18, United States Code, and section 4(b) of the Subversive Activities Act of 1950 (50

U.S.C. section 783(b)). The definitions, requirements, obligations, rights, sanctions, and liabilities created by said Executive Order and listed statutes are incorporated into this agreement and are controlling." Provided, That notwithstanding the preceding paragraph, a nondisclosure policy form or agreement that is to be executed by a person connected with the conduct of an intelligence or intelligence-related activity, other than an employee or officer of the United States Government, may contain provisions appropriate to the particular activity for which such document is to be used. Such form or agreement shall, at a minimum, require that the person will not disclose any classified information received in the course of such activity unless specifically authorized to do so by the United States Government. Such nondisclosure forms shall also make it clear that they do not bar disclosures to Congress or to an authorized official of an executive agency or the Department of Justice that are essential to reporting a substantial violation of law.

SEC. 626. (a) None of the funds appropriated by this or any other Act may be expended by any Federal Agency to procure any product or service subject to section 5124 of Public Law 104-106 and that will be available under the procurement by the Administrator of General Services known as "FTS2000" unless—

(1) such product or service is procured by the Administrator of General Services as part of the procurement known as "FTS2000"; or

(2) that agency establishes to the satisfaction of the Administrator of General Services that—

(A) that agency's requirements for such procurement are unique and cannot be satisfied by property and service procured by the Administrator of General Services as part of the procurement known as "FTS2000"; and

(B) the agency procurement, pursuant to such delegation, would be cost-effective and would not adversely affect the cost-effectiveness of the FTS2000 procurement.

(b) After [July 31, 1997] December 31, 1998, subsection (a) shall apply only if the Administrator of General Services has reported that the FTS2000 procurement is producing prices that allow the Government to satisfy its requirements for such procurement in the most cost-effective manner.

SEC. 627. Subsection (f) of section 403 of Public Law 103-356 is amended by deleting "October 1, 1999" and inserting "October 1, 2001".

SEC. 628. (a) IN GENERAL.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, none of the funds made available by this Act for the Department of the Treasury shall be available for any activity or for paying the salary of any Government employee where funding an activity or paying a salary to a Government employee would result in a decision, determination, rule, regulation, or policy that would permit the Secretary of the Treasury to make any loan or extension of credit under section 5302 of title 31, United States Code, with respect to a single foreign entity or government of a foreign country (including agencies or other entities of that government)—

(1) with respect to a loan or extension of credit for more than 60 days, unless the President certifies to the Committee on Banking, Housing, and Urban Affairs of the Senate and the Committee on Banking and Financial Services of the House of Representatives that—

(A) there is no projected cost (as that term is defined in section 502 of the Federal Credit Reform Act of 1990) to the United States from the proposed loan or extension of credit; and

(B) any proposed obligation or expenditure of United States funds to or on behalf of the foreign government is adequately backed by an assured source of repayment to ensure that all United States funds will be repaid; and

(2) other than as provided by an Act of Congress, if that loan or extension of credit would result in expenditures and obligations, including contingent obligations, aggregating more than $1,000,000,000 with respect to that foreign country for more than 180 days during the 12-month period beginning on the date on which the first such action is taken.

(b) WAIVER OF LIMITATIONS.—The President may exceed the dollar and time limitations in subsection (a)(2) if he certifies in writing to the Congress that a financial crisis in that foreign country poses a threat to vital United States economic interests or to the stability of the international financial system.

(c) EXPEDITED PROCEDURES FOR A RESOLUTION OF DISAPPROVAL.—A presidential certification pursuant to subsection (b) shall not take effect, if the Congress, within 30 calendar days after receiving such certification, enacts a joint resolution of disapproval, as described in paragraph (5) of this subsection.

(1) REFERENCE TO COMMITTEES.—All joint resolutions introduced in the Senate to disapprove the certification shall be referred to the Committee on Banking, Housing, and Urban Affairs, and in the House of Representatives, to the appropriate committees.

(2) DISCHARGE OF COMMITTEES.—(A) If the committee of either House to which a resolution has been referred has not reported it at the end of 15 days after its introduction, it is in order to move either to discharge the committee from further consideration of the joint resolution or to discharge the committee from further consideration of any other resolution introduced with respect to the same matter, except no motion to discharge shall be in order after the committee has reported a joint resolution with respect to the same matter.

(B) A motion to discharge may be made only by an individual favoring the resolution, and is privileged in the Senate; and debate thereon shall be limited to not more than 1 hour, the time to be divided in the Senate equally between, and controlled by, the majority leader and the minority leader or their designees.

(3) FLOOR CONSIDERATION IN THE SENATE.—(A) A motion in the Senate to proceed to the consideration of a resolution shall be privileged.

(B) Debate in the Senate on a resolution, and all debatable motions and appeals in connection therewith, shall be limited to not more than 4 hours, to be equally divided between, and controlled by, the majority leader and the minority leader or their designees.

(C) Debate in the Senate on any debatable motion or appeal in connection with a resolution shall be limited to not more than 20 minutes, to be equally divided between, and controlled by, the mover and the manager of the resolution, except that in the event the manager of the resolution is in favor of any such motion or appeal, the time in opposition thereto, shall be controlled by the minority leader or his designee. Such leaders, or either of them, may, from time under their control on the passage of a resolution, allot additional time to any Senator during the consideration of any debatable motion or appeal.

(D) A motion in the Senate to further limit debate on a resolution, debatable motion, or appeal is not debatable. No amendment to, or motion to recommit, a resolution is in order in the Senate.

(4) In the case of a resolution, if prior to the passage by one House of a resolution of that House, that House receives a resolution with respect to the same matter from the other House, then—

(A) the procedure in that House shall be the same as if no resolution had been received from the other House; but

(B) the vote on final passage shall be on the resolution of the other House.

(5) For purposes of this subsection, the term "joint resolution" means only a joint resolution of the 2 Houses of Congress, the matter after the resolving clause of which is as follows: "That the Congress disapproves the action of the President under section 628(c) of the Treasury, Postal Service, and General Government Appropriations Act, 1997, notice of which was submitted to the Congress on _____," with the blank space being filled with the appropriate date.

(d) APPLICABILITY.—This section—

(1) shall not apply to any action taken as part of the program of assistance to Mexico announced by the President on January 31, 1995; and

(2) shall remain in effect through fiscal year 1997.

SEC. 629. (a) TECHNICAL AMENDMENT.—Section 640 of Public Law 104-52 (109 Stat. 513) is amended by striking "Service performed" and inserting "Hereafter, service performed".

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendment made by subsection (a) shall take effect as if included in Public Law 104-52 on the date of its enactment.

SEC. 630. Notwithstanding any other provision of law, no part of any appropriation contained in this Act for any fiscal year shall be available for paying Sunday premium or differential pay to any employee unless such employee actually performed work during the time corresponding to such premium or differential pay.

SEC. 631. No part of any funds appropriated in this or any other Act shall be used by an agency of the executive branch, other than for normal and recognized executive-legislative relationships, for publicity or propaganda purposes, and for the preparation, distribution or use of any kit, pamphlet, booklet, publication, radio, television or film presentation designed to support or defeat legislation pending before the Congress, except in presentation to the Congress itself.

SEC. 632. (a) FEDERAL EMPLOYEE REPRESENTATION IMPROVEMENT.—Subsection (d) of section 205 of title 18, United States Code, is amended to read as follows:

"(d)(1) Nothing in subsection (a) or (b) prevents an officer or employee, if not inconsistent with the faithful performance of that officer's or employee's duties, from acting without compensation as agent or attorney for, or otherwise representing—

"(A) any person who is the subject of disciplinary, loyalty, or other personnel administration proceedings in connection with those proceedings; or

"(B) except as provided in paragraph (2), any cooperative, voluntary, professional, recreational, or similar organization or group not established or operated for profit, if a majority of the organization's or group's members are current officers or employees of the United States or of the District of Columbia, or their spouses or dependent children.

"(2) Paragraph (1)(B) does not apply with respect to a covered matter that—

"(A) is a claim under subsection (a)(1) or (b)(1);

"(B) is a judicial or administrative proceeding where the organization or group is a party; or

"(C) involves a grant, contract, or other agreement (including a request for any such grant, contract, or agreement) providing for the disbursement of Federal funds to the organization or group."

(b) APPLICATION TO LABOR-MANAGEMENT RELATIONS.—Section 205 of title 18, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following:

"(f) Nothing in this section prevents an employee from acting pursuant to—

"(1) chapter 71 of title 5;

"(2) section 1004 or chapter 12 of title 39;

"(3) section 3 of the Tennessee Valley Authority Act of 1933 (16 U.S.C. 831b);

"(4) chapter 10 of title I of the Foreign Service Act of 1980 (22 U.S.C. 4104 et seq.); or

"(5) any provision of any other Federal or District of Columbia law that authorizes labor-management relations between an agency or instrumentality of the United States or the District of Columbia and any labor organization that represents its employees."

(c) APPLICABILITY.—The amendments made by this section shall take effect on the date of the enactment of this Act and shall apply thereafter.

SEC. 633. SURVIVOR ANNUITY RESUMPTION UPON TERMINATION OF MARRIAGE.—(a) AMENDMENTS.—

(1) CIVIL SERVICE RETIREMENT SYSTEM.—Section 8341(e) of title 5, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following:

"(4) If the annuity of a child under this subchapter terminates under paragraph (3)(E) because of marriage, then, if such marriage ends, such annuity shall resume on the first day of the month in which it ends, but only if—

"(A) any lump sum paid is returned to the Fund; and

"(B) that individual is not otherwise ineligible for such annuity."

(2) FEDERAL EMPLOYEES' RETIREMENT SYSTEM.—Section 8443(b) of such title is amended by adding at the end the following: "If the annuity of a child under this subchapter terminates under subparagraph (E) because of marriage, then, if such marriage ends, such annuity shall resume on the first day of the month in which it ends, but only if any lump sum paid is returned to the Fund, and that individual is not otherwise ineligible for such annuity."

(3) FEDERAL EMPLOYEES' HEALTH BENEFITS.—Section 8908 of title 5, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end of the following new subsection:

"(d) A surviving child whose survivor annuity under section 8341(e) or 8443(b) was terminated and is later restored under paragraph (4) of section 8341(e) or the last sentence of section 8443(b) may, under regulations prescribed by the Office, enroll in a health benefits plan described by section 8903 or 8903a if such surviving child was covered by any such plan immediately before such annuity was terminated."

(b) APPLICABILITY.—The amendments made by section 1 shall apply with respect to any termination of marriage taking effect on or after November 1, 1993, except that any recomputation of benefits shall be payable only with respect to amounts accruing for periods beginning on or after the date of the enactment of this Act.]

(b) APPLICABILITY.—The amendments made by subsection (a) shall apply with respect to any termination of marriage taking effect before, on, or after the date of enactment of this Act, except that benefits shall be payable only with respect to amounts accruing for periods beginning on the first day of the month beginning after the later of such termination of marriage or such date of enactment.

SEC. 634. AVAILABILITY OF ANNUAL LEAVE TO MEET MINIMUM AGE AND SERVICE REQUIREMENTS FOR TITLE TO AN IMMEDIATE ANNUITY.—(a) CIVIL SERVICE RETIREMENT SYSTEM.—Section 8336 of title 5, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following:

"(c)(1) An employee involuntarily separated from service due to a reduction in force shall, upon written election, be given credit for days of unused annual leave standing to such employee's credit under a formal leave system as of the date of separation, if and to the extent necessary in order to meet the minimum age and service requirements for title to an annuity under this section.

"(2) The Office shall prescribe any regulations which may be necessary to carry out this subsection, including regulations under which contributions to the Fund shall, with respect to the days of leave for which credit is given under this subsection, be made—

"(A) by the employee, equal to the employee contributions which would have been required for those days if separation had not occurred; and

"(B) by the agency from which separated, equal to the Government contributions which would have been required if separation had not occurred.

Contributions under the preceding sentence shall be determined based on the rate of basic pay last in effect before separation.

"(3) Nothing in this subsection shall be considered—

"(A) to allow credit to be given for any leave standing to the credit of the employee (other than by restoration) pursuant to subchapter III or IV of chapter 63 or other similar authority;

"(B) to permit or require the making of any contributions to the Thrift Savings Fund with respect to any period after the date of separation; or

"(C) to make any days of annual leave creditable for purposes of section 8333, any determination of average pay, or any computation of annuity.

"(4)(A) The taking of a lump-sum payment under section 5551 or other similar authority shall not make any of the leave to which such payment relates unavailable for purposes of this subsection.

"(B) The use of any leave for purposes of this subsection shall not reduce the amount of leave for which a lump-sum payment is payable under section 5551 or other similar authority.

"(5) This subsection shall apply with respect to separations occurring on or after the date of the enactment of this subsection and before July 1, 2002."

(b) FEDERAL EMPLOYEES' RETIREMENT SYSTEM.—Section 8412 of title 5, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following:

"(i)(1) An employee involuntarily separated from service due to a reduction in force shall, upon written election, be given credit for days of unused annual leave standing to such employee's credit under a formal leave system as of the date of separation, if and to the extent necessary in order to meet the minimum age and service requirements for title to an annuity under this section or section 8414.

"(2) The Office shall prescribe any regulations which may be necessary to carry out this subsection, including regulations under which contributions to the Fund shall, with respect to the days of leave for which credit is given under this subsection, be made—

"(A) by the employee, equal to the employee contributions which would have been required for those days if separation had not occurred; and

"(B) by the agency from which separated, equal to the Government contributions which would have been required if separation had not occurred.

Contributions under the preceding sentence shall be determined based on the rate of basic pay last in effect before separation.

"(3) Nothing in this subsection shall be considered—

["(A) to allow credit to be given for any leave standing to the credit of the employee (other than by restoration) pursuant to subchapter III or IV of chapter 63 or other similar authority;

["(B) to permit or require the making of any contributions to the Thrift Savings Fund with respect to any period after the date of separation; or

["(C) to make any days of annual leave creditable for purposes of section 8410, any determination of average pay, or any computation of annuity.

["(4)(A) The taking of a lump-sum payment under section 5551 or other similar authority shall not make any of the leave to which such payment relates unavailable for purposes of this subsection.

["(B) The use of any leave for purposes of this subsection shall not reduce the amount of leave for which a lump-sum payment is payable under section 5551 or other similar authority.

["(5) This subsection shall apply with respect to separations occurring on or after the date of the enactment of this subsection and before July 1, 2002."]

SEC. 634. AVAILABILITY OF ANNUAL LEAVE FOR EMPLOYEES AFFECTED BY REDUCTION IN FORCE.—Section 6302 of title 5, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end of the following new subsection:

"(g) An employee who is being involuntarily separated from an agency due to a reduction in force or transfer of function under subchapter I of chapter 35 may elect to use annual leave to the employee's credit to remain on the agency's rolls after the date the employee would otherwise have been separated if, and only to the extent that, such additional time in a pay status will enable the employee to qualify for an immediate annuity under section 8336, 8412, 8414, or to qualify to carry health benefits coverage into retirement under section 8905(b)."

SEC. 635. Section 207(e)(6)(B) of title 18, United States Code, is amended by striking "level V of the Executive Schedule" and inserting "level 5 of the Senior Executive Service".

SEC. 636. REIMBURSEMENTS RELATING TO PROFESSIONAL LIABILITY INSURANCE.—(a) AUTHORITY.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, amounts appropriated by this Act (or any other Act for fiscal year 1997 or any fiscal year thereafter) for salaries and expenses may be used to reimburse any qualified employee for not to exceed one-half the costs incurred by such employee for professional liability insurance. A payment under this section shall be contingent upon the submission of such information or documentation as the employing agency may require.

(b) QUALIFIED EMPLOYEE.—For purposes of this section, the term "qualified employee" means an agency employee whose position is that of—

- (1) a law enforcement officer; or
- (2) a supervisor or management official.

(c) DEFINITIONS.—For purposes of this section—

(1) the term "agency" means an Executive agency, as defined by section 105 of title 5, United States Code, and any agency of the Legislative Branch of Government including any office or committee of the Senate or the House of Representatives;

(2) the term "law enforcement officer" means an employee, the duties of whose position are primarily the investigation, apprehension, prosecution, or detention of individuals suspected or convicted of offenses against the criminal laws of the United States, including any law enforcement officer under section 8331(20) or 8401(17) of such title 5;

(3) the terms "supervisor" and "management official" have the respective meanings given them by section 7103(a) of such title 5, and

(4) the term "professional liability insurance" means insurance which provides coverage for—

(A) legal liability for damages due to injuries to other persons, damage to their property, or other damage or loss to such other persons (including the expenses of litigation and settlement) resulting from or arising out of any tortious act, error, or omission of the covered individual (whether common law, statutory, or constitutional) while in the performance of such individual's official duties as a qualified employee; and

(B) the cost of legal representation for the covered individual in connection with any administrative or judicial proceeding (including any investigation or disciplinary proceeding) relating to any act, error, or omission of the covered individual while in the performance of such individual's official duties as a qualified employee, and other legal costs and fees relating to any such administrative or judicial proceeding.

(d) APPLICABILITY.—The amendments made by this section shall take effect on the date of the enactment of this Act and shall apply thereafter.

["SEC. 637. For purposes of each provision of law amended by section 704(a)(2) of the Ethics Reform Act of 1989 (5 U.S.C. 5318 note), no adjustment under section 5303 of title 5, United States Code, shall be considered to have taken effect in fiscal year 1997 in the rates of basic pay for the statutory pay systems.

["SEC. 638. (a) For purposes of this section, the term "political appointee" means any individual who—

["(1) is employed in a position listed in sections 5312 through 5316 of title 5, United States Code (relating to the Executive Schedule);

["(2) is a limited term appointee, limited emergency appointee, or noncareer appointee in the Senior Executive Service, as defined under section 3132(a) (5), (6), and (7) of title 5, United States Code, respectively; or

["(3) is employed in a position in the executive branch of the Government under schedule C of subpart C of part 213 of title 5 of the Code of Federal Regulations.

["(b) The President, acting through the Office of Management and Budget and the Office of Personnel Management, shall take such actions as necessary (including reduction-in-force actions under procedures consistent with those established under section 3395 of title 5, United States Code) to ensure that the number of political appointees shall not, during any fiscal year beginning after September 30, 1997, exceed a total of 2,300 (determined on a full-time equivalent basis)."]

SEC. 639. Section 608 of Public Law 104-52 is amended in the first sentence by inserting before the period, ", including Federal records disposed of pursuant to a records schedule".

SEC. 640. In reviewing and analyzing the contracting out, outsourcing or privatization of business and administrative functions, and in implementing 40 U.S.C. sections 1413 and 1423, and other provisions, in title LI of the National Defense Authorization Act for fiscal year 1996 (the Information Technology Management Reform Act)—

(1) the Director of the Office of Management and Budget and the heads of the executive agencies may have studies, analyses, reviews and other management assistance performed by the private sector;

(2) the reviews, analyses, and studies called for by 40 U.S.C. section 1413(b)(2) (B) and (C) shall be completed and reported to the Agency Head within 180 days, or less measured from when a study analysis or review is initiated unless the Agency Head determines additional time is needed; and

(3) in accordance with principles and rules governing organizational conflicts of interest, persons involved in a particular study may not compete for any work that is to be or is outsourced as a result of that study.

(4) this section will apply with respect to studies occurring on or after the date of enactment of this subsection and completed before September 1, 1999 and the Comptroller General of the United States shall review and provide an assessment of this program by January 1, 1999.

SEC. 641. (a) SECTION 1.—AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—Section 8(a)(1) of the Whistleblower Protection Act of 1989 (5 U.S.C. 5509 note, Public Law 101-12, April 10, 1989, 103 Stat. 34, as amended Public Law 103-424, Section 1, October 29, 1994, 108 Stat. 4361), is amended by striking the words: "1993, 1994, 1995, 1996, and 1997," and inserting in lieu thereof "1998, 1999, 2000, 2001, and 2002".

(b) SECTION 2.—EFFECTIVE DATE. This Act shall take effect on October 1, 1998.

SEC. 642. (a) SECTION 1.—AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—Section 8(a)(1) of the Whistleblower Protection Act of 1989 (5 U.S.C. 5509 note; Public Law 103-424; 103 Stat. 34) is amended by striking out: "1993, 1994, 1995, 1996, and 1997," and inserting in lieu thereof "1998, 1999, 2000, 2001, and 2002".

(b) SECTION 2.—EFFECTIVE DATE.—This Act shall take effect on October 1, 1998.

SEC. 643. MODIFICATIONS OF NATIONAL COMMISSION ON RESTRUCTURING THE INTERNAL REVENUE SERVICE.—(a) QUORUM.—Paragraph (4) of section 637(b) of the Treasury, Postal Service, and General Government Appropriations Act, 1996 (Public Law 104-52, 109 Stat. 510) is amended by striking "Seven" and inserting "Nine".

(b) CO-CHAIRS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Paragraph (3) of section 637(b) of such Act is amended—

(A) by striking "a Chairman" and inserting "Co-Chairs", and

(B) by striking "Chairman" in the heading and inserting "Co-Chairs".

(2) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—(A) Paragraph (5)(B) of section 637(b) of such Act is amended by striking "a Chairman" and inserting "Co-Chairs".

(B) Subsections (b)(4), (d)(1)(B), (d)(3), and (e)(1) of section 637 of such Act are each amended by striking "Chairman" each place it appears and inserting "Co-Chairs".

(c) GIFTS.—Section 637(d) of such Act is amended by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

"(6) GIFTS.—The Commission may accept, use, and dispose of gifts or donations of services or property in carrying out its duties under this section."

(d) TRAVEL EXPENSES.—Section 637(f)(2) of such Act is amended by striking "shall" and inserting "may".

(e) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall take effect as if included in the provisions of the Treasury, Postal Service, and General Government Appropriations Act, 1996.

SEC. 644. (a) IN GENERAL.—Section 202(a) of title 39, United States Code, is amended by striking "$10,000 a year" and inserting "$30,000 a year".

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—Subsection (a) shall take effect at the beginning of the next applicable pay period beginning after the date of the enactment of this Act.

SEC. 645. REGULATORY ACCOUNTING.—(a) IN GENERAL.—No later than September 30, 1997, the Director of the Office of Management and Budget shall submit to the Congress an accounting statement that estimates the cumulative costs and benefits of Federal regulatory programs.

(b) NOTICE.—The Director shall provide public notice and an opportunity to comment on the accounting statement and report under subsection (c).

(c) ASSOCIATED REPORT.—The Director shall submit with the accounting statement an associated report that shall contain, at a minimum—

(1) analysis of the direct and indirect impacts of Federal rules on the private sector, State and local government, and the Federal Government;

(2) estimates of the costs and benefits of each rule that is likely to have a gross annual effect on the economy of $100,000,000 or more in increased costs; and

(3) recommendations from the Director and public comments to reform or eliminate any Federal regulatory program or program element that is inefficient or is not a sound use of national resources.

[TITLE VIII—ADDITIONAL GENERAL PROVISIONS

SEC. 801. None of the funds appropriated by this Act shall be available to pay any amount to, or to pay the administrative expenses in connection with, any health plan under the Federal employees health benefit program, when it is made known to the Federal official having authority to obligate or expend such funds that such health plan operates a health care provider incentive plan that does not meet the requirements of section 1876(i)(8)(A) of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 1395mm(i)(8)(A)) for physician incentive plans in contracts with eligible organizations under section 1876 of such Act.]

This Act may be cited as the "Treasury, Postal Service, and General Government Appropriations Act, 1997".

Mr. DOMENICI addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. THOMPSON). The Senator from New Mexico.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I have conferred with the manager of the bill that is pending and have sought 15 minutes as if in morning business. I do not think I will use that but I want to speak to a juvenile justice bill which I am going to introduce. I ask consent that I be permitted to speak up to 15 minutes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

(The remarks of Mr. DOMENICI pertaining to the introduction of S. 2062 are printed in today's RECORD under "Statements on Introduced Bills and Joint Resolutions.")

Mr. DOMENICI. I yield the floor and thank the Chair for recognizing me. I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. HELMS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. HELMS. I thank the Chair.

THE VERY BAD DEBT BOXSCORE

Mr. HELMS. Mr. President, in February 1992, it occurred to me one day after reading some mail from people in North Carolina that the Senate wasn't paying very much attention to the steadily rising Federal debt, and I decided on that February afternoon in 1992 that I would begin a daily report to the Senate specifying the exact Federal debt as of close of business the day before down to the penny. Of course, on Monday it would have to be close of business the previous Friday.

We have not missed a day in making that report. There have been a few times when I was absent when fellow Senators made the report for me.

In any case, Mr. President, at the close of business yesterday, Monday, September 9, the Federal debt of the United States stood at $5,214,144,675,542.25.

Five years ago, on September 9, 1991, the record shows that the Federal debt stood at $3,618,482,000,000 rounded off.

And 10 years ago, September 9, 1986, the Federal debt stood at $2,106,631,000,000.

Just for the interest in it, we checked the Federal debt of 15 years ago—that was September 9, 1981—at which time the Federal debt stood at $977,439,000,000.

So those figures alone will show you the escalation of the spending practices of the Congress of the United States, and all the irresponsibility of that lies like a dead cat on the doorstep of the Congress of the United States, where I work and where Members of the House of Representatives work.

Twenty-five years ago, if you want to go back that far, on September 9, 1971, the Federal debt stood at $415,807,000,000. This report reflects an increase of more than $4 trillion in Federal debt during the 25 years from 1971 to 1996. If you want the precise figure, the Federal debt has increased during the past 25 years by $4,798,337,675,542.25.

Mr. President, this is a perfect outrage imposed upon the next generation and the next generation after that and the next generation after that, because they are the ones who are going to have to pay this debt. They are going to have to pay the interest on it, which is enormous. We have all of these promising politicians running around the countryside these days promising everything under the Sun for the taxpayers to pay for, which means that it will be bought on credit and not a thing will be done about this Federal debt. That is precisely why in February 1992 I began to make these reports.

I might add as a matter of interest, Mr. President, that one day when I came to make this report, I stopped in the cloakroom and Senators were waiting for a rollcall vote that had been scheduled by unanimous consent about 10 minutes hence. Just to see what the answers would be, I asked Senators how many million there were in a trillion. They scratched their heads, and I got two or three different answers. Only one of them was correct. Of course, as every schoolboy knows, or is supposed to know, there are a million million in a trillion, and the coming generations are going to have to deal with $5 million million-plus in debt run up by the Congress of the United States.

I thank the Chair. I yield the floor, and I suggest the absence of a quorum. The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

TREASURY, POSTAL SERVICE, AND GENERAL GOVERNMENT APPROPRIATIONS ACT, 1997

The Senate continued with the consideration of the bill.

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Paul Irving, a legislative fellow with the subcommittee, and Bruce Townsend, a fellow with the office of Senator MIKULSKI, be granted floor privileges during deliberations on H.R. 3756, the Treasury, Postal Service, and general Government appropriations bill.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, today with my distinguished ranking member, Senator KERREY, I bring before the Senate the Appropriations Committee recommendations on fiscal year 1997 appropriations for the Department of the Treasury, the U.S. Postal Service, and the Executive Office of the President and certain independent agencies.

The bill we are presenting today contains total funding of $23,487,761,000. This bill is $324,007,000 above the appropriations provided in fiscal year 1996. The mandatory accounts make up $320,850,000 of this increase. In other words, this bill is $3,157,000 in discretionary spending above the fiscal year 1996 level.

Of the totals in this bill we are recommending $11,291,000,000 for new discretionary spending.

The $11,291,000,000 the committee proposes for domestic discretionary programs is $1.354 billion below the President's request. Let me repeat that, Mr. President. This bill is $1.354 billion below the President's fiscal year 1997 request. The fiscal year 1996 bill was $1.8 billion below the President's request. That is a reduction of $3.15 billion below what the President requested in 2 years.

Reaching this level has not been an easy task. We have had to make some very difficult decisions, while trying to ensure that funds are made available to carry out essential Government services.

Mr. President, this bill includes $10,185,009,000 for the Department of the Treasury. The Treasury Department has varied responsibilities, the bulk of which are directed to the revenues and expenditures of this Government and law enforcement functions.

This bill includes $90,433,000 for payment to the Postal Service Fund for free mail for the blind, overseas voting, and a payment to offset previous shortfalls in revenue forgone funding.

The President receives $183,339,000 to exercise the duties and responsibilities of the Executive Office of the President.

This bill includes $657,724,000 for construction of new courthouses and Federal facilities. This funding provides the General Services Administration with the ability to let construction contracts for courthouses for which the construction schedule is slated in fiscal year 1997.

The courthouses funded in this bill are those listed as the top priority of the administrative office of the courts for fiscal year 1997.

There is $12.08 billion in mandatory payments through the Office of Personnel Management for annuitant and employee health, disability and retirement, and life insurance benefits. There is $850 million for other independent agencies.

Mr. President, this subcommittee continues to be a strong supporter of law enforcement. We have done what we can to ensure that the law enforcement agencies funded in this bill have the resources to do the job we ask them to do.

We have utilized the salaries and expenses account, as well as, funds from the Violent Crime Trust Fund to enhance law enforcement efforts.

In addition, the committee has provided funding over the President's request for the Nation's drug policy office. While I have been highly critical of this administration's previous commitment to combating the growing drug problem in this country, I fully support the efforts and leadership of the new drug czar, General Barry McCaffrey.

Under his leadership, it is my hope that the alarming rise in teen drug use can be turned back, before this country feels its tragic consequences—such as, more crime, more death, more young futures lost. Drugs are a plague that claim the hopes and dreams, the aspirations and goals, of our young people. We need to do more. This bill does more.

The fiscal year 1997 Treasury bill funds the Office of National Drug Control Policy at the President's request of $34,838,000 and provides $103 million for high-intensity drug trafficking areas.

While the committee has attempted to give the drug czar sufficient flexibility to address the high-intensity drug trafficking areas, the bill does encourage the drug czar to give high priority to certain areas of the country where the methamphetamine problem is overtaking many communities.

The committee has further provided an additional $13 million in funding within the Violent Crime Trust Fund to designate new HDTAs.

In addition, the committee has provided $65 million for southwest border antidrug efforts, $83 million for air and marine interdiction and $45 million for procurement of an additional P-3AEW aircraft for detection and interdiction purposes.

There has been considerable discussion since this bill was reported from the subcommittee about the level of funding for the Internal Revenue Service.

Some have questioned overall funding in this bill for the IRS, but the major focus has been directed toward the committee's action regarding the IRS tax systems modernization or TSM program. I would like to take a few moments to describe how we arrived at the funding level for the IRS.

This bill includes $6,880,221,000 for the IRS; this total is $1.14 billion below the President's request and $468 million below the fiscal year 1996 appropriation. There are those, including the President, who have said—you have to fund the IRS at the requested level to ensure that tax systems modernization continues and that funds "owed" the Government are collected.

Mr. President, the IRS budget makes up approximately 65 percent of the committee's discretionary spending. Think about it—65 percent.

As the largest consumer of revenues under the committee's discretionary budget and competitor with equally important funding priorities in the budget, like law enforcement, the IRS is subject to reductions, which would otherwise have to come from these other important programs.

A dollar more for law enforcement, means a dollar less somewhere else—and this budget, which I believe to be consistent with the priorities of the President, reflects an emphasis on law enforcement, particularly drug enforcement.

While the Committee's funding for the IRS is significantly below the President's request—$1.14 billion and $468 million below last year's appropriated level—the Committee feels strongly that these funding levels are adequate, and more than justified given the dismal record of the Internal Revenue Service.

Mr. President, the IRS, until very recently, has refused to respond to bipartisan concerns that have been raised by the Congress and the General Accounting Office.

Its overall lack of financial accountability and failure to produce quantifiable results in tax systems modernization has done little to encourage the committee of the IRS's commitment to ensuring that funds appropriated are being spent wisely or effectively. The taxpayer deserves accountability, particularly from the IRS. But more than that, Mr. President, no taxpayer should be held to a level of accountability that even the IRS cannot meet.

The committee has gone to great lengths to ensure that the IRS is adequately funded, and that sufficient resources are provided for taxpayer assistance and tax return processing.

There is nothing in this bill which will inhibit the IRS from doing their job. Any forecasts of doom and gloom are not accurate.

We have spent a long time looking at IRS operations, especially tax systems modernization over the past 1½ years during my tenure as chairman. I worked with Senator KERREY, the ranking Democrat on this. Frankly, I am not pleased with what I have seen after the expenditure of millions of dollars.

TSM programs that the committee and the GAO have reviewed, have almost always come in late and over budget and have almost universally—universally, Mr. President—not lived up to expectations, despite hundreds of millions of dollars being spent. The Department of the Treasury has indicated the current program is off course.

They are not the only ones, though, who have reached that conclusion. The General Accounting Office and National Research Council have been highly critical of the direction TSM is headed.

I have stated many times that we must modernize the IRS. I will support that effort. To follow the current course, or lack of course, the IRS has chartered for TSM at this time would be irresponsible.

TSM is clearly not providing us with what we have been seeking and what taxpayers deserve.

Mr. President, I feel very strongly that the subcommittee would be abdicating its responsibilities if it did not take action.

Funds are provided in this bill to continue current information systems, but no money is available for further TSM development. I expect the Department's review board to take an active roll in ensuring corrections are made, and made soon.

When the Department of the Treasury and the Internal Revenue Service have shown that things are back on track, we can proceed with providing funds for programs that work. Let me repeat that—we will support programs that work and provide the IRS with the necessary tools to achieve efficiency and effectiveness.

Mr. President, this bill does not spend as much as the President would like. If it did, the subcommittee would be over a billion dollars above its allocation, and that is not the way to balance the budget.

Tough choices were made as said—in a way that attempted to reflect the priorities of the President and the Congress—law enforcement is plussed up across the board. It is, however, the result of long, hard hours of work on the part of the members and the staff of this subcommittee.

I want to thank all of them for that effort. I believe it is workable and should be enacted.

I yield to Senator KERREY, the subcommittee's ranking member.

Mr. KERREY. Mr. President, as the distinguished Senator from Alabama, Chairman SHELBY, just indicated, we are bringing to the floor of the Senate recommendations on the fiscal year 1997 appropriations for the Department of Treasury, Postal Service, and independent agencies.

First of all, I thank Senator SHELBY for his dedicated work on this bill. He worked very long and hard on the difficult issues he has just outlined for Members, and throughout the process, as well, he has forged a very cooperative relationship not just with myself but with all the subcommittee members on both sides of aisle.

The subcommittee has achieved a balanced approach of dealing with the many programs and activities under the jurisdiction of the subcommittee while staying within the 602(b) allocation. This allocation is $11.081 billion, $1.6 billion below the administration's request. While required to make substantial reductions from the request level, I believe the program funding levels included in the bill are both fiscally responsible and very reasonable.

Senator SHELBY has discussed the major funding highlights, and rather than repeating those highlights, I will limit my comments to a few areas I would like to emphasize. As Senator SHELBY said, the IRS received $6.8 billion, 60 percent of the discretionary allocation, which is $1 billion lower than the administration's request, but it is $200 million above the House mark.

The reduction from the request reflects our decision to limit IRS spending to cost-effective and operational efforts. As you know, there have been continuing questions, as the chairman just indicated, concerning the TSM, the tax system modernization efforts, questions I am attempting to answer, as well, through my work on the subcommittee, as well as through the efforts of the newly formed IRS Restructuring Commission.

A June 1996 GAO report stated the IRS has not made adequate progress in correcting its management and technical weaknesses, nor have they fully implemented any of the GAO recommendations. In addition, the IRS does not have a process for selecting, controlling, and evaluating its technology investments. It does not have a clear basis for making investment decisions, and it does not have a complete procedure for requirements management, quality assurance, configuration management, project planning and tracking.

Finally, it does not have an integrated structural architecture or security and data architecture. The recommended funding in this bill is adequate to support ongoing operations and maintenance and to support those systems that have provided taxpayer assistance, such as Telefile and the Electronic File Transfer System.

Of the funds provided IRS, $200 million of non-TSM and $66 million of TSM funds may not be obligated until the Secretary of the Treasury consults with the Committee on Appropriations and provides criteria to explain the needs and priorities of the proposed programs. It is our hope that by fencing these funds, the IRS will develop an integrated systems architecture and that we can proceed toward completing a modernized tax system.

As I mentioned, I will continue to work with the IRS both through the subcommittee and the IRS restructuring commission to ensure they are moving in the right direction and that a modernized tax system will be provided to our citizens.

I believe, second, the administration is moving in the right direction. As the chairman indicated, I, too, strongly support the appointment of General McCaffrey as the head of the Office of National Drug Control Policy. This bill fully funds the administration's efforts. However, I continue to have a number of questions on the direction we are pursuing in the war against drugs.

I believe ONDCP must develop long-term measurable strategies for decreasing drug use and drug-related crimes. I want ONDCP to set standards for measuring success. I want these measures to show that the dollars being spent are keeping children from starting to use drugs, reducing the number of hard-core drug users, and limiting the amount of drugs coming into the country.

To ensure the law enforcement agencies can work in conjunction with the ONDCP to achieve these results, the subcommittee has increased the law enforcement funding levels to provide additional training and equipment, infrastructure investments in technologies on the Southwest border and, as the chairman stated, a P-3AEW aircraft for interdiction of illegal narcotics.

Through the violent crime reduction trust fund, we have continued funding for important crime reduction programs, such as gang resistance education and training, and FinCen enforcement programs.

In addition, we have provided funding above the request level to increase participation in the High Intensity Drug Trafficking Area, or the HIDTA Program.

A third area I want to mention, Mr. President, is the General Services Administration. We have provided, through the GSA, for Federal buildings funds, for the site, design, or construction of five courthouses. Funding for these court facilities is consistent with the courthouse construction criteria we established last year. The application of these criterion allowed us to choose specific court projects, as opposed to applying the House approach of applying across-the-board cuts to the entire construction program.

As Senator SHELBY indicated, we have also included funding for the five northern border stations, the construction of a Federal office building in Portland, OR, the site preparation for the Food and Drug Administration consolidation, the completion of a Veterans' Affairs office complex, and the environmental cleanup of the southeast Federal Center.

I also point out that this bill fully funds the administration's request for the Executive Offices of the President, the Federal Labor Relations Authority, the Merit Systems Protection Board, and the Office of Personnel Management.

Finally, funding increases are specified for the National Archives repairs and restoration account. These increases will provide much-needed repairs of two Presidential libraries: The Truman and Roosevelt Libraries and the National Archives headquarters facility. The funding level also indicates that we continue to support the Archives electronic access project. The Archives has recently provided us with a work plan for completing this important project to bring their files online and to provide a full catalog system. We are looking forward to the Archives making significant strides toward accomplishing this project in the near future.

However, Mr. President, I must raise an objection to the provision which provides funding of $500,000 to cover the attorneys' fees for those fired from the White House Travel Office. It is a genuine disagreement between the chairman and I—I believe the only one in the entire bill. This action, in my reasoned opinion, would set a bad precedent for Congress paying the attorney fees of an indicted individual. This is not a precedent I believe we should set.

Mr. President, that summarizes, as I see it, the bill's funding levels. We have tried to accommodate the numerous Member requests, and while it is difficult to always accommodate these requests, we have tried to include all those that were possible given funding restrictions. I also acknowledge the fine work done by the staff on this bill. They are Chuck Parkinson, Diane Hill, Hallie Hastert, Paul Irving, and others. I thank them for their helping in permitting us to bring this bill before the Senate.

I yield the floor.

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, we are trying to clear, with both sides, a number of matters. We have worked out a number of committee amendments, and we have several that we are trying to clear with the other side of the aisle at the moment. I want to take a minute to thank Senator KERREY for his leadership on the committee. We have had a number of hearings throughout the year. Some of them have been tough hearings. He has made a real contribution to the tax system changes that we envision in the future.

We have set up a task force that he is involved in. As a matter of fact, he suggested this to me a year or so ago, as he was not satisfied—and he worked on this committee before I had—with the modernization program of the Internal Revenue Service and thought that, of all the agencies in Government, Internal Revenue Service should be on the cutting edge of technology and should not be behind in any way. Some of us are concerned that maybe the IRS is getting behind. Getting behind what? The marketplace.

There has been a tremendous revolution in the software industry, and Senator KERREY and I both have talked and met with various people that are dealing in financial electronic software of various kinds. The market, it seems to me, is farther ahead in various areas than the IRS. This is not a good sign for the future of the IRS or the future of Government, because most people in America always thought—and I came to believe it—that the IRS had the best of everything and was on the cutting edge. But I will submit to you that they are not. I believe the Senator from Nebraska believes that. He is also interested in—and so am I—the task force to study the IRS and our tax laws and everything that goes with it. I believe we are going to get some good results out of that, some great recommendations. He may want to take a minute to talk about that.

Mr. KERREY. Mr. President, the chairman is quite right. Last year, during the conference deliberations—we had seen, throughout the last couple of years, a considerable accumulation of reports, specifically, the General Accounting Office evaluation of tax system modernization. While it has not all been a loss, there is no question that there has been significant disappointment and the evaluation of GAO is quite negative. I must point out that some of that difficulty is caused by us.

Earlier today, we actually had the first meeting of the restructuring of the commission. Commissioner Richardson appeared before that commission, observing that the mission statement itself very often does not connect to many of the things that are identified as great successes. Very specifically, the mission statement of the IRS is to collect taxes in the most cost-effective way possible. One of the things that we often don't look at is what does it cost us to collect the taxes, and how can we do it in a more cost-effective way, not just measuring the money we spend but the money the taxpayers spend to comply with the laws. One of the examples is we have this alternative minimum tax. There are about 4 million taxpayers that are identified as possibly candidates for paying this AMT. What has happened is, of 4 million taxpayers, 90 percent—3.6 million of that 4 million—after they have gone through all the work and hired the accountants to do the calculation of taxes, they discover they owe no taxes at all. The question is, what are the man and women hours and time on task?

That is substantial to collect a relatively small amount of money. What we have to do, in my judgment, is not just look at the cost-effectiveness of the IRS versus what they collect, but what kind of friction or cost is imposed out there for that taxpayer, either the households or the business, because they have substantial costs that are imposed. When I say “sometimes we cause the problems,” we passed a tax bill with 900 new changes that are required, and the President signed it and it goes into law. I asked the Commissioner this morning if she ever, in the 3½, or whatever years she has been in office, had a time when she has gone to the President and said, Mr. President, I urge you to veto the tax bill because this is going to make it difficult to accomplish the mix of keeping the IRS a cost-effective, low-cost operation, both in terms of the costs to the taxpayers and the costs to the people that are out there in the community. The answer to the question was, “no,” she never has. The day that starts to happen—the day the IRS Commissioner says to the President, you may want to do this for whatever the reason, but here is what it will cost the American taxpayers to fill out the forms and go through that, it seems to me that will be the day you are going to start to see the customer out there, the taxpayer, say they are finally understanding it.

We, very often, say here that we have to collect money to accomplish some social or economic good. We don't really think about what that taxpayer out there is going to have to go through in order to comply with the forms, the regulations, and the rules, and all the other sort of things to put in place.

But there is no question that we have a very, very serious problem in that we have to go from where we are now, which is we have expended $8 billion or $9 billion, thus far, on TSM, perhaps a great deal more than that, over a bit longer period of time. It depends on when you track it. We are really not much closer to where we needed to go when we started the whole process.

All of us understand that one of the most costly things that happen in tax collection is when a mistake is made—not by the taxpayer but by the IRS. When the IRS makes a mistake, that is an expensive thing to try to correct, whether it is giving somebody advice over the phone, or any mistake made in the entire system. Those mistakes are the most costly things of all to fix. So the more they can reduce the mistakes, the better off they are. The least costly environment of all, the least number of mistakes are the mistakes made in a paperless environment. Those transactions that are currently done, a limited number of transactions to be done without paper, have a very, very substantial difference in terms of mistakes versus the ones that continue to be done by paper, through all the processing centers.

So I hope, I say to my friend from Alabama, that we are able, in restructuring the commission, to come to the Congress, and all the stakeholders involved, and we are able to make some recommendations so that 10, 15 years from now, at some point in the future, people will say that it was worth spending a million dollars on. You did actually make some recommendations. I point out, Mr. President, that one of the things that I think makes that more likely rather than less, is Congressman PORTMAN and I are cochairs. He is from the House and he is also a Republican. My experience is that more often, some things you can't make bipartisan but we have a difficult subject. If you can make it bipartisan, you tend to make it more likely you are going to be successful. So I appreciate the Senator's support in the hearings.

Mr. President, I can tell you that there is no better cross-examiner than Chairman SHELBY when it comes to watching out for the taxpayer's money. There is no better cross-examiner than the Senator from Alabama when it comes to trying to make sure that the taxpayers are getting a good dollar's return on their investment, and I appreciate the Senator's support for this effort.

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, I again acknowledge the hard work and the leadership that the Senator from Nebraska, Mr. KERREY, has brought here. He is absolutely right. When we are dealing with something as complicated as the Internal Revenue Service modernization and taxes in general, it is going to take, I believe, as he does, a bipartisan effort to do this. If we can bring something out of this commission that we will listen to and do something about here that will modernize the IRS, that will help the taxpayers understand the system, will help the taxpayers keep more of their money without a lot of cumbersome involvement, we will be doing part of our job here today.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the committee amendments to H.R. 3756 be considered and agreed to en bloc, provided that no points of order be waived thereon and that the measure, as amended, be considered as original text for the purpose of further amendment, with the exception of the following amendments: Page 2, line 18; page 16, line 16 through page 17, line 2; page 80, line 20 through page 81, line 4; that portion of the amendment on page 129, line 20 through page 130, line 18.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. KERREY. No objection.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The committee amendments were considered and agreed to en bloc with the above noted exceptions.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from North Carolina.

LINE 18

Mr. HELMS. Mr. President, let me inquire of the Parliamentarian and the Chair, all committee amendments have been approved except one, is that my understanding? Except four.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There are four committee amendments that have not been adopted.

Mr. HELMS. Very well. Will the clerk just reference them.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report the first excepted committee amendment.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

On page 2, line 18, strike the numeral and insert $111,348,000.

Mr. HELMS. That is subject to amendment, is that correct?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. That is correct.

AMENDMENT NO. 5208 TO EXCEPTED COMMITTEE
AMENDMENT ON PAGE 2, LINE 18

Mr. HELMS. On behalf of the distinguished occupant of the chair, Mr. THOMPSON, I send an amendment to the desk and ask it be stated.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report the amendment.

The bill clerk read as follows:

The Senator from North Carolina [Mr. HELMS], for Mr. THOMPSON, for himself, Mr. HELMS, Mr. THURMOND, and Mrs. HUTCHISON, proposes an amendment numbered 5208 to the committee amendment on page 2, line 18.

The amendment is as follows:

At the end of the committee amendment insert the following:

No adjustment under section 5303 of title 5, U.S. Code, for Members of Congress and members of the President's Cabinet shall be considered to have taken effect in FY '97.

Mr. HELMS. Mr. President, the pending amendment that the distinguished Senator from Tennessee [Mr. THOMPSON] and I have offered forbids any Member of Congress, House or Senate, from receiving a pay raise or cost of living adjustment in the fiscal year 1997 that begins in a few days on October 1. Here we are, both Houses of Congress, asking the American people to make the sacrifices necessary to get the Nation's fiscal house in order, and it seems to me that all of us should be willing to forego even the thought of a pay increase.

Each day I make a formal report to the Senate specifying the staggering federal debt as of the close of business the previous day. Most of this enormous burden was run up by Congress in prior years. But, the point is that Congress alone is charged with the constitutional duty of authorizing and appropriating funds for Federal spending, and it's our responsibility to pay the debt down and live within our means. The activities of Congress, the timidity of Congress, the inclination to play politics with the public purse—all of this has brought us to a Federal debt that, as of close of business yesterday, stood at $5,214,144,675,542.25, or $19,625.30 for every man, woman and child in America on a per capita basis.

Mr. President, while we are systematically piling on to the arrearage which our children and grandchildren must bear, the notion that Congress deserves a pay raise is absurd.

Since I came to the Senate, interest on the money borrowed and spent by the Congress of the United States cost the American taxpayers over $3.5 trillion. Three trillion and 500 billion dollars, just to pay interest on excessive spending authorized and approved by the Congress. Just last year Congress spent over $235 billion on interest alone.

It is true, Mr. President, that the 104th Congress has garnered an impressive list of accomplishments. For the first time since Neil Armstrong walked on the moon, this Congress has enacted a balanced budget—which was vetoed to the glee of the national media. It has reformed the dilapidated welfare system; the President signed the bill, but immediately gutted part of it by issuing a host of waivers. Congress reined in the out-of-control trial lawyers and passed the Partial Birth Abortion ban, but both pieces of legislation were vetoed.) And Congress eliminated 270 wasteful Federal programs and agencies and succeeded in cutting year-to-year discretionary spending by $53 billion.

This Congress has done a lot, Mr. President, but we can't rest on our laurels. We're asking the American people to tighten their belts. And we should demonstrate our solidarity with them by rejecting the built-in congressional pay raises which, as Senator THOMPSON said last year, "stick in the craw of the American people." It's the least we can do.

It is crucial that while the American people are making sacrifices and taking steps toward independence from the Federal Government, the Congress of the United States share in these sacrifices.

Americans need lower taxes, higher wages and better jobs. Only a growing economy can provide the society we want. Only a balanced budget—and proper tax policies—can provide an atmosphere in which the economy can approach the rate of growth of which it's capable. Until this is realized, Mr. President, Congress deserves no pay raise.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. ABRAHAM). The clerk will call the roll. The bill clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. HELMS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. HELMS. Mr. President, I ask the managers of the bill, in order to save a little time: Senator INHOFE has an amendment that will take no time at all. It will not require a vote or anything like that. I wonder if it would be in order, in the judgment of the managers of the bill, for me to set aside the pending amendment for the purpose only of Senator INHOFE's being recognized for his brief amendment. Would that be satisfactory?

Mr. SHELBY. I have no problem with that.

Mr. HELMS. I make that as a unanimous consent request.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The Senator from Oklahoma is recognized.

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, it is not my intention to offer an amendment at this time, as I told the Senator from Oregon, but just to make a brief statement about the concern that I have with the bill in hopes that, when you come up with the management amendments, you will include the proposed amendment as a part of those. It should be noncontroversial. I cannot imagine anyone would be opposed to it.

Back in the 100th Congress, which is the year I was first elected to the other body, they passed Public Law 100-440, in that they made the requirement that the General Services Administration be required to hire up to, and maintain an average of, 1,000 full-time Federal positions for the full-time Federal Protective Officers. These are the people who serve as security in Federal buildings. Both the House and Senate versions have language that would take that section out.

When the Murrah Federal Office Building in Oklahoma was bombed, they, the GSA, had only provided security of one individual. It was from a company called Rent-A-Cop. That Rent-A-Cop individual, one individual, had to cover that building and several other buildings.

While it can never be known if the tragedy could have been averted, it is the opinion of the police officers from whom the American Federation of Government Employees solicited comments that any trained FPO would have noted the parked rental vehicle which carried the bomb and immediately raised questions about its presence.

It is also the opinion of the law enforcement community that the physical presence of FPO's at the Murrah Building would have served as a major deterrent to those who might have been contemplating committing that crime.

The current ratio is something in the neighborhood of one officer for every 21 buildings. If they complied with this, the GSA, they should have reached a ratio of 1 per 8 by 1992. They did not do this. I think, if we repeal this section, it is sending the wrong message out, saying we want to be more lenient in terms of protection in Federal buildings.

So I have an amendment that would merely delete that particular section that would repeal Public Law 100-440, section 10, and would allow the GSA to continue and encourage them to go ahead and comply with the law they should be complying with right now. That would be the intent. I only ask the two managers of the bill, when the managers' amendments come up, that they give serious consideration to this.

Mr. SHELBY. Will the Senator from Oklahoma yield?

Mr. INHOFE. I will be happy to yield.

Mr. SHELBY. I, as the manager of the bill, along with Senator KERREY—we are going to try to work with you to make that part of the managers' amendment. We believe it will be. But if it is not, we will tell you and give you a chance to offer it on the floor.

Mr. KERREY addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Nebraska.

Mr. KERREY. It seems to me what the Senator is asking for is quite reasonable. We will work with him to try to get it done.

Mr. INHOFE. I thank the Senator and thank the Senator from North Carolina for yielding to me. I yield the floor.

Mr. HELMS. Mr. President, regular order. What is the pending business?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The pending business is the amendment by the Senator from North Carolina.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, this amendment would deny the automatic cost-of-living adjustment [COLA] to Members of Congress.

Last year, I sponsored this very same amendment with the Senator from New Mexico, Senator DOMENICI. I believe now, as I did then, that this amendment is an important part of the efforts we have made in this Congress to balance the budget by the year 2002.

Mr. President, some might ask how passing an amendment requiring Members of Congress to forego a cost-of-living adjustment will achieve savings that will move us towards a balanced budget. The simple answer is that a pay freeze for Members of Congress will not produce significant budget savings. But, Mr. President, the savings that this amendment achieves is not the point. This amendment is important because of what it communicates to the American people. Let me take a minute to explain what I mean.

During this 104th Congress, we have debated many fundamental issues facing this country. While Republicans and Democrats still disagree on many of these issues, there are certain principles around which a consensus is developing.

Probably the most important of these principles is that we need to get our fiscal house in order to avoid national bankruptcy and to preserve the country that we have known for our children and grandchildren.

It is true that our national debt and interest on that debt are strangling us. We cannot sustain deficits endlessly in the future at the rate we have. It will cause interest rates to soar and national savings, investment and growth to plummet. If we continue on the path we have followed in the past, we will be leaving a legacy of significantly lower living standards to future generations.

Mr. President, I think we are in the beginning stages, finally, of facing up to these problems. Last year, this Congress sent the President the Balanced Budget Act, which will lead us to a balanced budget in the year 2002—for the first time in decades in this country. I regret that the President chose to veto this legislation. However, I do think that the Republicans in Congress have succeeded in convincing the President—however belatedly—that a balanced budget is both necessary and important.

As a consequence, I believe that we have a great opportunity to work together to solve this problem. Although we may differ on the means by which we solve it, I think we can certainly agree on the end that we must all work toward.

During this debate, I think that we in Congress have done a better job of communicating to the American people the level of sacrifice that is necessary to reach a balanced budget. People are beginning to realize that, if we are to solve this problem, we cannot have everything exactly as we have had it in years past. Sooner or later we are going to all have to make some sacrifices for the sake of our country. We will have to look at things like the rate of growth in non-discretionary spending, the cost of some of the major military engagements abroad, and the whole issue of cost-of-living increases, among other things.

Mr. President, the point of all of this is that everybody is going to have to pitch in, and the American people now know it. Nobody is going to get all of what they want. I feel there are very few Americans who are not willing to help, as long as they believe that they are being treated fairly, and that everyone is being asked to sacrifice.

The amendment we offer today is based upon the simple proposition that while we are asking the American people to make these adjustments, we must ask the same of ourselves. We certainly should not be having automatic cost-of-living increases for this body during this particular period of time. Automatic pay increases, where we do not even have to vote on them, stick in the craw of the American people, and further diminish the already low regard they have for Members of Congress.

Some people will say that freezing the pay of Members of Congress is a largely symbolic act. I agree. I have already stated that the turning back a COLA does not achieve much in budget savings. But, Mr. President, I believe that symbolism is important. We need to lead by example by showing the American people that we in Congress are willing to make a personal contribution to the effort of balancing the budget.

Mr. President, I think we have already begun to demonstrate to the American people that this body is willing to do its part. We have addressed the problems of gifts and free trips for Members of Congress. We have applied the laws to ourselves that have, for so many years, been applied to the American people. We have tried to face up to the pension issues which will bring us more into line with other employees and other people in the private sector. So, turning down an automatic cost-of-living increase this year—as we did last year—is a part of that overall picture.

In conclusion, Mr. President, I want to note that I did not decide to offer this amendment without giving thought to the impact that it would have on my colleagues in the Congress who have families with children and are faced with expenses for education and maintaining two separate residences. These individuals cannot continue to withstand indefinitely the erosion of purchasing power that this pay freeze represents. However, at this crucial time in our history, I believe that a pay increase is not appropriate. Since we have made significant progress on budget issues in these past 2 years, it is my hope that we can make even more progress and avoid the need for pay freezes in the future.

I urge my colleagues to support the Thompson-Helms amendment to continue the work we have started in this historic Congress.

Mr. HELMS. I do not know if there is further debate, Mr. President. That is up to the managers.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Alabama.

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, we have no objection to the amendment, the Thompson amendment.

Mr. KERREY. Mr. President, if the Senator from Alabama will just withhold and give me a couple of minutes here?

Mr. SHELBY. I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The bill clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. KERREY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. KERREY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent Senator WELLSTONE, from Minnesota, be added as a cosponsor to this amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. KERREY. I am ready to proceed.

Mr. SHELBY. We have no objection to the amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. If there be no further debate, the question is on agreeing to the amendment.

The amendment (No. 5208) was agreed to.

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. KERREY. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

Mr. WYDEN. Mr. President, I have an amendment involving managed care; 5206 is the number of the amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Does the Senator wish to amend the first committee amendment?

Mr. KERREY. If the Senator from Oregon would allow me to dispose of this, I have to dispose, I believe, of the underlying committee amendment that we just attached an amendment to.

Mr. President, I urge adoption of the underlying committee amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. If there be no further debate, the question is on agreeing to the underlying committee amendment, as amended.

The excepted committee amendment on page 2, line 18, as amended, was agreed to.

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. KERREY. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 5206 TO EXCEPTED COMMITTEE AMENDMENT BEGINNING ON PAGE 16, LINE 16, THROUGH PAGE 17, LINE 2

(Purpose: To prohibit the restriction of certain types of medical communications between a health care provider and a patient)

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Oregon.

Mr. WYDEN. Mr. President, I have an amendment No. 5206, involving managed health care.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is the Senator attempting to amend the next committee amendment?

Mr. WYDEN. Yes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The bill clerk read as follows:

Excepted committee amendment beginning on page 16, line 16, through page 17, line 2.

Mr. WYDEN. Mr. President, I rise to offer an amendment which will add much-needed new protections for the sacred, confidential relationship between physicians and their patients. In doing so, I want to single out, on a bipartisan basis, the excellent work done by a number of Members of Congress on this issue.

In particular, I would like to single out Dr. GREG GANSKE, a Member of the House, a physician, a Republican. He has done excellent work with Congressman MARKEY in the House, and also to thank Senator KENNEDY, who joins me in this effort.

This matter of protecting the rights of patients in health maintenance organizations has been thoroughly bipartisan through this Congress, and I want to make sure that this body understands that there is a very strong track record of bipartisan support for this issue.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. If the Senator will suspend so we might have the amendment read. The clerk will report.

The bill clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Oregon [Mr. WYDEN], for himself and Mr. KENNEDY, proposes an amendment numbered 5206 to the committee amendment on page 16, line 16, through page 17, line 2.

Mr. WYDEN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

At the end of the Committee amendment, insert the following new title:

TITLE —PROTECTION OF PATIENT COMMUNICATIONS

SEC. 01. SHORT TITLE; FINDINGS.

(a) SHORT TITLE.—This title may be cited as the "Patient Communications Protection Act of 1996".

(b) FINDINGS.—Congress finds the following:

(1) Patients need access to all relevant information to make appropriate decisions, with their physicians, about their health care.

(2) Restrictions on the ability of physicians to provide full disclosure of all relevant information to patients making health care decisions violate the principles of informed consent and practitioner ethical standards.

(3) The offering and operation of health plans affect commerce among the States. Health care providers located in one State serve patients who reside in other States as well as that State. In order to provide for uniform treatment of health care providers and patients among the States, it is necessary to cover health plans operating in one State as well as those operating among the several States.

SEC. 02. PROHIBITION OF INTERFERENCE WITH CERTAIN MEDICAL COMMUNICATIONS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—

(1) PROHIBITION OF CERTAIN PROVISIONS.—Subject to paragraph (2), an entity offering a health plan (as defined in subsection (d)(2)) may not include any provision that prohibits or restricts any medical communication (as defined in subsection (b)) as part of—

(A) a written contract or agreement with a health care provider.

(B) a written statement to such a provider or

(C) an oral communication to such a provider.

"(2) CONSTRUCTION.—Nothing in this section shall be construed as preventing an entity from exercising mutually agreed upon terms and conditions not inconsistent with paragraph (1), including terms or conditions requiring a physician to participate in, and cooperate with, all programs, policies, and procedures developed or operated by the person, corporation, partnership association, or other organization to ensure, review, or improve the quality of health care.

(3) NULLIFICATION.—Any provision described in paragraph (1) is null and void.

(b) MEDICAL COMMUNICATION DEFINED.—In this section, the term "medical communication" means a communication made by a health care provider with a patient of the provider (or the guardian or legal representative of such patient) with respect to the patient's physical or mental condition or treatment options.

(c) ENFORCEMENT THROUGH IMPOSITION OF CIVIL MONEY PENALTY.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Any entity that violates paragraph (1) of subsection (a) shall be subject to a civil money penalty of up to $25,000 for each violation. No such penalty shall be imposed solely on the basis of an oral communication unless the communication is part of a pattern or practice of such communications and the violation is demonstrated by a preponderance of the evidence.

(2) PROCEDURES.—The provisions of subsection (c) through (l) of section 1128A of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 1320a-7a) shall apply to civil money penalties under paragraph (1) in the same manner as they apply to a penalty or proceeding under section 1128A(a) of such Act.

(d) DEFINITIONS.—For purposes of this section:

(1) HEALTH CARE PROVIDER.—The term "health care provider" means anyone licensed or certified under State law to provide health care services.

(2) HEALTH PLAN.—The term "health plan" means any public or private health plan or arrangement (including an employee welfare benefit plan) which provides, or pays the cost of, health benefits, and includes an organization of health care providers that furnishes health services under a contract or agreement with such a plan.

(3) COVERAGE OF THIRD PARTY ADMINISTRATORS.—In the case of a health plan that is an employee welfare benefit plan (as defined in section 3(l) of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974), any third party administrator or other person with responsibility for contracts with health care providers under the plan shall be considered, for purposes of this section, to be an entity offering such health plan.

(e) NON-PREEMPTION OF STATE LAW.—A State may establish or enforce requirements with respect to the subject matter of this section, but only if such requirements are consistent with this title and are more protective of medical communications than the requirements established under this section.

(g) EFFECTIVE DATE.—Subsection (a) shall take effect 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act and shall apply to medical communications made on or after such date.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator can continue.

Mr. WYDEN. Mr. President, again, this amendment involves some very important rights with respect to consumer protection as it relates to health care practitioners, health care plans and the fact that it appears that some physicians are actually gagged in terms of what they can tell their patients about their illnesses and their treatment.

These gag provisions often are included in contracts for purely financial reasons. They limit the kinds of therapies that physicians or other licensed health care practitioners may recommend. It can restrict a practitioner from recommending a patient consult a physician outside a plan or go to a facility outside the plan's network.

In addition, these kinds of approaches may even prohibit a practitioner from discussing financial incentives or penalties physicians may be subject to based on treatments that are recommended or ignored, in the case of an individual physician.

Mr. President, the preamble of the Hippocratic oath tells physicians, "First, do no harm." The message of these gag restrictions, unfortunately, is, "First, support the bottom line." That is not good health care, and it is certainly not good managed care.

Several months ago, the Washington Post cited a startling example involving Mid-Atlantic Medical Services health plans, a large Washington metro area provider. This plan wrote a letter to network practitioners informing them that:

Effective immediately, all referrals from (the plan) to specialists may be for only one visit.

And in bold type the letter stated:

We are terminating the contracts of physicians and affiliates who fail to meet the performance patterns for their specialty.

Obviously, this is a bad deal for patients on two counts. First, the patients may not be getting the kind of health care that is needed.

Second, the plan may restrict the physician from informing the patient about referral restrictions so the patient doesn't even know whether they are being medically shortchanged via the plan's policy.

In my home State of Oregon, where we do have a great number of managed health care services and plans, our State law specifically prohibits these kinds of provisions. Many managed care plans in our State are offering good quality services. They are able to do it in a way that allows them to be both patient-oriented and consumer-friendly and still be sensitive to their financial needs.

Unfortunately, even in our State, a State where there are good managed care plans, problems can develop. For example, an orthopedic surgeon in Portland recently was in a situation where their managed care plan demanded that this particular physician diagnose problems in patients apart from the ones for which they were referred. He was, in effect, in a situation where he was told to keep his mouth shut and instead re-refer those particular patients back to their primary care physician.

This physician wrote to us:

This is extremely disappointing to patients, as you might imagine. This requires more visits on their part to their primary care physician and then back to me, which is extremely inefficient.

Another physician, a family practice physician in rural Enterprise, OR, wrote that this antigag legislation is needed because "when a physician recommends medical treatment for a patient and a plan denies coverage for that treatment, patients and physicians need an effective mechanism to challenge the plan."

I think it is understood that the free flow of information between doctors and patients is the very foundation of good health care. State legal protections on this matter vary. Some States have taken steps to limit these gag rules, but one of the reasons that I come to the floor today and why this legislation has received strong bipartisan support is that I think it is time for a national standard to deal with a national problem.

This amendment is rifle-shot legislation prohibiting only oral gag provisions in contracts or in a pattern of oral communications between plans and practitioners that limit discussion of a patient's physical or mental condition or treatment options. Health plans would still be able to protect and enforce provisions involving all other aspects of their relationship with their practitioners, including the confidentiality of proprietary business information.

In developing this amendment, Mr. President, I and others have talked with many who offer managed care health services, as well as practitioners and consumer advocates. Our enforcement provision specifies penalties for violations by plans of up to $25,000 per event. The amendment also specifies that State laws which meet or exceed the Federal standard set herein will not be preempted by Federal law.

I would like to point out to my colleagues that this amendment has been endorsed by the Association of American Physicians and Surgeons, the American Association of Retired Persons, the Center for Patient Advocacy, Citizen Action, Consumers Union, the American College of Emergency Physicians and a number of other organizations. I ask unanimous consent to have printed in the RECORD letters from these groups.

There being no objection, the letters were ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

AUGUST 1, 1996.

Hon. RON WYDEN,
259 Russell Senate Office Building,
Washington, DC.

DEAR SENATOR WYDEN: We are writing to express our strong support for "The Patient Communications Protection Act."

As you know, it has become common for insurers to incorporate clauses or policies into providers' contracts that restrict their ability to communicate with their patients. Such "gag clauses" seriously threaten the quality of care for American patients. Not only do gag clauses deny patients the fundamental right to make a fully informed decision about the care they receive, but also they prevent health care providers from delivering the highest quality of care.

Your legislation would prohibit the use of gag clauses. By opening the lines of communication between patients and their physicians, the bill helps to ensure that the practice of medicine occurs in the doctors office not in the corporate boardroom.

We, at the Center for Patient Advocacy, applaud your efforts in behalf of American patients. We look forward to working with you to secure passage of the Patient Communications Protection Act.

Sincerely,

NEIL KAHANOVITZ, M.D.,
President and Founder.

OREGON MEDICAL ASSOCIATION,
Portland, OR, July 22, 1996.

Hon. RON WYDEN,
U.S. Senate, Russell Senate Office Building,
Washington, D.C.

DEAR SENATOR WYDEN: Thank you for asking for input from the Oregon Medical Association prior to your introduction of the Patient Communication Act of 1996. The "gag rules" decreed by some of the managed care organizations would, indeed, make a reasonable person gag. We appreciate your interest in halting such activities and your intent to prohibit by federal law such draconian practices. I know how much you value and how well you understand the necessity of open communication between patients and their physicians. Such rules, and the knowledge that such rules exist, undermine the trust that patients absolutely must have for their physicians if the relationship is to be of value.

As you know, we here in the O.M.A. introduced and orchestrated the 1995 state legislature's passage of the Oregon Patient Protection Act which prohibited "gag clauses" in managed care contracts here in Oregon, as you are now intending to do at the federal level. As usual, your state is out in front showing the way in health care.

We appreciate your sharing and exchanging ideas and apprising us of pending legislation and we value such dialogue. Please keep us informed of the progress of this bill, on which we certainly are in agreement.

Sincerely yours,

FRANK J. BAUMEISTER, Jr., M.D.,
President.

NATIONAL COMMITTEE TO PRESERVE
SOCIAL SECURITY AND MEDICARE,
Washington, DC, August 30, 1996.

Hon. RON WYDEN,
Russell Senate Office Building, U.S. House of Representatives, Washington, DC.

DEAR SENATOR WYDEN: The National Committee to Preserve Social Security and Medicare, on behalf of its 5.5 million members and supporters, endorses S. 2005, the "Patient Communications Protection Act of 1996." By addressing a concern health care providers and patients may have with managed care, this bill may encourage Medicare beneficiaries to enroll in managed care plans.

This bill will encourage full and open communication between physicians and their patients, which are vital to the prevention of and recovery from illness. Frank discussions cannot occur if providers are prohibited by health plans from disclosing all available treatment options. In addition, the use by some managed care companies of financial incentives to limit costly care also limits communication between the provider and the patient.

Managed care enrollees have a right to expect that they will receive appropriate care for their medical condition, without regard to the cost to the managed care company. The best way to ensure that appropriate care is given to foster full communication between provider and patient.

We applaud your effort to advance the "Patient Communications Protection Act" and look forward to working with you toward final enactment of this important bill.

Sincerely,

MARTHA A. MCSTEEN,
President.

ASSOCIATION OF AMERICAN
PHYSICIANS AND SURGEONS, INC.,
Tucson, AZ, July 29, 1996.

Hon. RON WYDEN,
Russell Senate Building,
Washington, DC.

DEAR SENATOR WYDEN: The Association of American Physicians and Surgeons supports your efforts to protect the sanctity of the patient-physician relationship with the "Patients Right to Know Act of 1996."

Our association strongly supports the liberty of contract and freedom of association. However, such liberty has bounds. Contracts of adherence are immoral, unjust and should be unlawful. Patients are being exploited by powerful organizations.

Patients should be able to rely upon their physicians' ethics. However, today certain organizations are gaining the economic power to exclude and financially destroy conscientious physicians who place their obligations to the patient ahead of the interests of the "plan." Restrictions on communication with our patients not only undermine quality of care, but are a blatant violation of the Hippocratic Oath. Prohibition of "gag rules" is a crucial step toward protecting patients.

Contracts which restrict physicians' freedom to communicate their best judgment are only one of the most egregious violations of patients' rights.

AAPS believes Congress should consider legislation which would protect patients' right to choice, confidentiality, the ability to privately contract, and to receive full advance disclosure of the terms of their insurance/health care plan in plain language. The AAPS "Patient's Bill of Rights" which will be introduced as a Congressional resolution by Rep. Linda Smith, addresses those issues. We hope it will serve as a model and catalyst for future legislation.

Information is the best prescription. Prohibition of "gag clauses" is the first step in that direction, and we hope it sets the stage for additional patient protections to come from the 104th Congress.

Sincerely,

JANE M. ORIENT, M.D.,
Executive Director.

AMERICAN COUNSELING ASSOCIATION,
Alexandria, VA, August 20, 1996.

Hon. RON WYDEN,
U.S. Senate, Russell Senate Building, Washington, DC.

DEAR SENATOR WYDEN: I am writing on behalf of the American Counseling Association (ACA), the nation's largest nonprofit organization representing licensed and certified professional counselors, to express our support for your legislation S. 2005, the Patient Communications Protection Act of 1996. As behavioral healthcare providers, professional counselors would be greatly helped by your legislation. However, we could appreciate your consideration of a minor change in the bill's definition of a "health care provider" from "anyone licensed under State law to provide health care services . . ." to "anyone licensed or certified under State law to provide health care services . . ."

Currently, 33 states—including the State of Oregon—and the District of Columbia license professional counselors to provide behavioral healthcare services to their residents. In eight other states—including Arizona, Kentucky, Maryland, New Hampshire, New Mexico, Rhode Island, Washington, and Wisconsin—professional counselors are certified, and thus would not be considered "health care providers" under S. 2005. Attached for your information is a survey comparing state policies regarding licensure and certification.

We have discussed this issue with Steve Jenning of your staff, who states he saw no reason this change couldn't be included in the legislation as it moves forward. Should you be agreeable to this proposed change, we would be happy to provide you with any assistance or further information you may need. Please use Scott Barstow of our Office of Government Relations as our contact on this issue, at (703) 823-9800 x234.

Thank you for your time and consideration. We look forward to working with you on behavioral healthcare issues and other areas of mutual concern.

Sincerely,

GAIL ROBINSON,
President.

AMERICAN CHIROPRACTIC ASSOCIATION,
Arlington, VA, July 30, 1996.

Hon. RON WYDEN,
Russell Senate Office Building, U.S. Senate,
Washington, DC.

DEAR SENATOR WYDEN: Yesterday your office contacted the ACA seeking endorsement for a bill you are drafting to prohibit health insurance plans from restricting or limiting communication between health providers and patients about treatment options and procedures. This practice is most often employed by managed care plans through what are called "gag rules." The ACA has endorsed legislation in the House, H.R. 2976, that would prohibit these gag rules, and we commend you for your efforts to eliminate this unfair practice.

However, in the materials your staff provided us (attached), it appeared that your proposal would limit the effect of the bill to only those communications between medical doctors and health plan participants. Thus, health plans technically would be permitted to continue to employ "gag rules" on communications between non-M.D. health providers and their patients enrolled in managed care plans.

Such language concerns the ACA, since as you are aware, doctors of chiropractic are not M.D.s, but rather are fully licensed health care providers so recognized in every state. It is our belief that any legislative proposal to prohibit the establishment of "gag rules" in managed care plans should apply to all providers licensed or otherwise recognized by a state authority. Since hundreds of millions of consumers utilize non-M.D. health professionals every year, we believe your proposal needs to be broadened.

Therefore, before endorsing your bill, ACA would strongly urge you to expand its definition of health provider to mean any health professional licensed, certified or registered in a state to provide health care services. This would extend the sensible protections your legislation offers to those patients who utilize the services of health professionals who are not M.D.s.

ACA appreciates and acknowledges your past efforts on behalf of the chiropractic profession and the tens of millions of patients who visit doctors of chiropractic every year. We hope that you will see fit to make the modifications that we have respectfully submitted in this letter.

Sincerely,

GARRETT F. CUNEO,
Executive Vice President.

Mr. WYDEN. Mr. President, let me also, in closing, quote briefly from a few of these endorsements.

The Association of American Physicians writes:

Restrictions on communication with our patients not only undermine quality of care, but [constitutes] a blatant violation of the Hippocratic oath. Prohibition of "gag rules" is a crucial step toward protecting patients.

The Center for Patient Advocacy writes:

It has become common for insurers to incorporate clauses or policies into providers' contracts that restrict their ability to communicate with their patients. Such gag clauses seriously threaten the quality of care for American patients.

Mr. President, let me conclude by saying that my part of the country was involved in the pioneering work in the managed care area. I have seen in my community—we have perhaps the highest concentration of managed Medicare in the country, with almost 50 percent of the older people in managed care—that it is possible to offer good quality managed care services.

What has concerned me is that there has been a pattern documented of managed care plans cutting corners and, unfortunately, imposing these gag clauses which get in the way of the doctor-patient relationship and the patient having the kind of information that a patient needs in order to make their own decisions about their health care.

I don't think that is what the health care future of our country is all about. As I talk to patients, and I have sought to work in this area since my days with the elderly before being elected to Congress, I find that patients today hunger for information. I suspect in the years ahead, you are going to have medical patients in our country at their computer looking at the Internet to get information about medical services, and it seems to contradict the future of American health care to have these gag rules which would cut off essential information in managed care plans between providers and plans and their patients.

Mr. President, I hope that my colleagues will support this legislation. It has received bipartisan support on both sides of the Hill. I hope this will receive a unanimous vote here in the Senate today.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, one of the most dramatic changes in the American health care system in recent years has been the growth of managed care plans such as health maintenance organizations, preferred provider organizations, point of service plans, and other types of network plans. Today, more than half of all Americans with private insurance are enrolled in such plans, and 70 percent of covered employees in businesses with more than 10 employees are enrolled in managed care. Between 1990 and 1995 alone, the proportion of Blue Cross and Blue Shield enrollees participating in managed care plans skyrocketed from just one in five to almost half. Even conventional fee-for-service plans have increasingly adopted features of managed care, such as ongoing medical review and case management.

In many ways, this is a positive development. Managed care offers the opportunity to extend the best medical practice to all medical practice. It emphasizes helping people to stay healthy, rather than simply caring for them when they become sick. It helps provide more coordinated and more effective care for people with multiple medical needs. It offers a needed antidote to the incentives in fee-for-service medicine to provide unnecessary care—incentives that have contributed a great deal to the high cost of care in recent years.

In fact, in 1973, Congress enacted the first Federal legislation to encourage HMO's, in recognition of these potential benefits for improving the quality of care.

At its best, managed care fulfills these goals. Numerous studies have found that managed care compares favorably to fee-for-service medicine on a variety of quality measures, including use of preventive care, early diagnosis of some conditions, and patient satisfaction. Many HMO's—including a number based in Massachusetts—have made vigorous efforts to improve the quality of care, gather and use systematic data to improve clinical decision-making, and assure an appropriate mix of primary and specialty care.

But the same financial incentives that can lead HMO's and other managed care providers to practice more cost-effective medicine also can lead to under-treatment or inappropriate restrictions on specialty care, expensive treatments, and new treatments. As Dr. Raymond Scalettar, speaking on behalf of the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Health Care Organizations, recently testified,

The relative comfort with which the fee-for-service sector has ordered and provided health care services has been replaced with strict priorities for limiting the volume of services, especially expensive specialty services, whenever possible . . . [T]hese realities are legitimate causes for concern, because no one can predict the precise point at which overall cost-cutting and quality care intersect. The American public wants to be assured that managed care is a good value, and that they will receive the quality of care they expect regardless of age, type of disorder, existence of a chronic condition or other potential basis for discrimination.

In recent months a spate of critical articles in the press has suggested that too many managed care plans place their bottom line ahead of their patients' well-being—and are pressuring physicians in their networks to do the same. These abuses include failure to inform patients of particular treatment options; excessive barriers to reduce referrals to specialists for evaluation and treatment; unwillingness to order appropriate diagnostic tests; and reluctance to pay for potentially life-saving treatment. In some cases, these failures have had tragic consequences.

For example, David and Joyce Ching spent 12 weeks trying unsuccessfully to obtain a referral to a specialist from their primary care physician or gatekeeper in the MetLife HMO Plan. Not until David refused to leave the office of the gatekeeper physician was his wife referred to a specialist. Within 24 hours of her visit to a specialist, Joyce was diagnosed with cancer. She died 15 months later.

Alan and Christy DeMeurers had a similarly frustrating experience with their HMO. An HMO-provided oncologist recommended—in violation of the HMO rules—that Christy obtain a bone marrow transplant and made the necessary referral. The DeMeurers spent months trying to get this treatment. Not only did the HMO seek to deny the treatment, it attempted to deny the DeMeurers information about the treatment itself. By going outside the HMO plan, the DeMeurers were finally able to get answers to their questions about the treatment, and Christy was finally able to get the treatment recommended by her original oncologist.

In the long run, the most effective means of assuring quality in managed care is for the industry itself to make sure that quality is always a top priority. I am encouraged by the industry's recent development of a "philosophy of care" that sets out ethical principles for its members, by the growing trend toward accreditation, and by the increasingly widespread use of standardized quality assessment measures. But I also believe that basic Federal regulations to assure that every plan meets at least minimum standards is necessary.

With this amendment, the Senate has a chance to go firmly on record against a truly flagrant practice—the use of "gag rules" to keep physicians from informing patients of all their treatment options and making their best professional recommendations. Gag rules take a number of forms. They include:

Forbidding a physician to discuss treatment options not covered by the insurance plan or prior to consultation with officers of the plan;

Forbidding the referral of patients to specialists or facilities not participating in the plan.

So-called "non-disparagement clauses" in contracts, which are designed to keep network physicians from urging patients to switch to another plan, but which are also used to threaten physicians who recommend therapies the plan refuses to cover; rules forbidding physicians to inform patients of financial incentives or utilization management rules that could lead to denial of appropriate treatment; denying information to patients that a physician has been de-selected from a plan.

The amendment we are offering today targets the most abusive type of gag rule: those that forbid physicians to discuss all treatment options with the patient and make the best possible professional recommendation, even if that recommendation is for a noncovered service or could be construed to disparage the plan for not covering it. Our amendment forbids plans from "prohibiting or restricting any medical communication" with a patient "with respect to the patient's physical or mental condition or treatment options."

This is a basic rule which everyone endorses in theory, but which has been violated in practice. The standards of the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Health Care Organizations require that "Physicians cannot be restricted from sharing treatment options with their patients, whether or not the options are covered by the plan."

As Dr. John Ludden of the Harvard Community Health Plan, testifying for the American Association of Health Plans has said, The AAHP firmly believes that there should be open communications between health professionals and their patients about health status, medical conditions, and treatment options."

Legislation similar to this amendment recently passed the House Commerce Committee on a unanimous bipartisan vote. President Clinton has strongly endorsed the proposal. The congressional session is drawing to close. Today, the Senate has the opportunity to act to protect patients across the country from these abusive gag rules. I urge the Senate to approve this amendment.

Mr. KERREY. Mr. President, I looked at this amendment, as has the chairman. It is similar to an amendment offered by the Senator from North Carolina. We are having some review done on it. It is likely that we might be willing to accept the amendment. If the Senator would be willing to wait for a bit until we can get that language reviewed to make sure there are no problems with it, it is likely we will be able to accept it, as we did the Senator from North Carolina's amendment.

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, we have not had a chance to really study the Wyden amendment yet. We have just had a quick opportunity to review the Senator's amendment. We need to look at it more closely, and we have some other people doing it. There are some other committees this could have tremendous impact on. We do not know what CBO will say about this, if anything. It might need to be scored, what the cost is, if any. We just started into the bill. We have a little time, I believe. I was wondering if the Senator from Oregon would set it aside and let us look at it.

Mr. WYDEN. Let me first say to my friend, this is not an issue involving the Congressional Budget Office.

Mr. SHELBY. Sure. That is good.

Mr. WYDEN. This is simply a matter of patients and managed care organizations not being subjected to these gag rules which keep them from having information. But I think that the request that the Senator from Alabama and the Senator from Nebraska makes is a reasonable one. I saw the thrashing we were going through at the beginning in the effort to work out a number of these amendments on a bipartisan basis. So I am happy to hold off a bit in terms of a vote to work further with the Senator from Nebraska and the Senator from Alabama.

Let me say, also, that I have noted that what the Senator from North Carolina has indicated he was interested in as well is quite similar to what I have sought to do. If anything, it just corroborates the proposition that we are discussing here today that there is bipartisan interest on both sides of Capitol Hill in this matter with the growth of managed care in our country.

This is an issue that millions of consumers care about that I think, for those of us who believe in managed care, has great potential. It is absolutely critical at this time to lock in these consumer protections and restrict these gag rules. From my previous experience in working with the Senator from Alabama, I know that he will pursue this in good faith. I ask that we have the vote a bit later and have an opportunity to consult further with the Senators from Nebraska and Alabama. I will be happy to yield.

Mr. SHELBY. If the Senator from Oregon will just yield briefly, this would give us a chance for both my staff and the staff of the Senator from Nebraska to look at this amendment and see what the significance of it is. We will be glad to get back with the Senator. Is that OK?

Mr. WYDEN. Yes.

Mr. KERREY. If I could comment on the substance as well, I think both the Senator from Oregon and the Senator from North Carolina identified a very important problem in the current health care system. He is quite right. It is one thing to say to a patient, I am not going to pay for a procedure; it is quite another to say you cannot talk amongst one another, or I am going to be prohibited from telling you about a procedure that you may say you want.

We are moving into an environment, not just on the private-sector side, but, also, in many of the Government programs in Medicare. Many of the States are using managed care with Medicaid as well. I think the Senator from Oregon has identified a very, very important consumer problem.

It is far better for us to give the consumer more information than they need, far better for us to make certain that the consumer, the patient, is well-informed of what the choices are, as opposed to on the basis of being concerned they might ask for something that I am going to say no to if I am running the managed care program. It is far better to give them the information, it seems to me, than to deny it to them.

So my hope is we will be able to clear both this and the amendment of the Senator from North Carolina, subject to no serious problems being raised.

Mr. WYDEN. If the Senator from Nebraska will allow me to reclaim my time, let me just say I think that both of you have indicated your desire to work on this. I very much appreciate your comments.

I say to Senator KERREY, I know of your interest in this health care issue and the fact that it has been longstanding. Let us say that for purposes of working on this in a bipartisan way, I will not request that the vote be taken right now and look forward to voting a little bit later today on this when the staffs have had a chance to work with it further.

Mr. KERREY. Right.

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the pending committee amendments be temporarily laid aside.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, I have a number of amendments I will offer that are either technical in nature or necessary to change the bill because of events which have occurred since the bill was reported or are of a non-controversial nature. All of these amendments, I understand, have been cleared with Senator KERREY's staff.

Mr. KERREY. They have been cleared. We have no problem with the amendments.

AMENDMENT NO. 5209

(Purpose: Technical correction to H.R. 3756)

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, I send an amendment to the desk and ask for its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Alabama [Mr. SHELBY] proposes an amendment numbered 5209.

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that further reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

On page 131, line 13, strike "and".

On page 131, line 18, strike ":", and insert "and".

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, this is a technical amendment which corrects an initial printing error. It has been cleared on both sides. Mr. President, I urge the adoption of the amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the amendment.

The amendment (No. 5209) was agreed to.

Mr. SHELBY. I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. KERREY. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 5210

(Purpose: To strike language to conform to other bill language)

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, I send an amendment to the desk and ask for its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Alabama [Mr. SHELBY] proposes an amendment numbered 5210.

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that further reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

On page 42, strike all from line 9 through line 15.

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, this, again, is a technical and conforming amendment which is necessary to conform with the committee action, striking section 116. It has been cleared on both sides of the aisle.

Mr. KERREY. Mr. President, I have no objection to this amendment.

Mr. SHELBY. I urge its adoption.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the amendment.

The amendment (No. 5210) was agreed to.

Mr. SHELBY. I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. KERREY. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 5211

(Purpose: Technical correction to H.R. 3756)

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, I send an amendment to the desk and ask for its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Alabama [Mr. SHELBY] proposes an amendment numbered 5211.

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that further reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

On page 4, line 4, line type "$29,319,000".

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, this, again, is a technical amendment. In printing the bill, the GPO failed to line type the figure in the House-passed bill. This amendment does this. It has been cleared on both sides of the aisle.

Mr. KERREY. We have no objection.

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, I urge its adoption.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, the amendment is agreed to.

The amendment (No. 5211) was agreed to.

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. KERREY. Mr. President, I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 5212

(Purpose: To strike section 632)

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, I send an amendment to the desk and ask for its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report the amendment.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Alabama [Mr. SHELBY] proposes an amendment numbered 5212.

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that further reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

On page 118, line 16 strike all through page 120, line 15.

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, this amendment strikes section 632 of the bill. The President signed a freestanding bill, H.R. 782, which includes the provisions of section 632, on August 1 of this year. This amendment has been cleared on both sides of the aisle.

Mr. KERREY. We have no objection to this amendment.

Mr. SHELBY. I urge adoption of the amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment (No. 5212) was agreed to.

Mr. SHELBY. I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. KERREY. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 5213

(Purpose: To strike Title VII)

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, I send another amendment to the desk and ask for its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Alabama [Mr. SHELBY] proposes an amendment numbered 5213.

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that further reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

On page 135, strike line 5 through line 20.

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, this amendment strikes title VII of the bill. Because of the urgency of investigations of the church fires, this language was included in the agriculture appropriations bill. The President signed that bill on August 6. I understand that this amendment has been cleared on both sides.

Mr. KERREY. It has been cleared. We have no objection.

Mr. SHELBY. I urge its adoption.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment (No. 5213) was agreed to.

Mr. SHELBY. I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. KERREY. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 5214

(Purpose: To provide funding to the Postal Service for payment of nonfunded liabilities)

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, I send an amendment to the desk and ask for its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Alabama [Mr. SHELBY] proposes an amendment numbered 5214.

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

On page 34, after line 23 insert the following:

PAYMENT TO THE POSTAL SERVICE FUND FOR NONFUNDED LIABILITIES

For payment to the Postal Service Fund for meeting the liabilities of the former Post Office Department of the Employees' Compensation Fund pursuant to 39 U.S.C. 2004, $35,536,000.

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, this amendment before the Senate provides funding to the Postal Service for liabilities incurred by the former Post Office Department. The funds are paid to the Department of Labor for workmen's compensation claims.

Mr. President, this provision was inadvertently left out of the bill. It is a mandatory payment and does not have an impact on the discretionary funding in the bill.

This amendment, I understand, has been cleared on both sides of the aisle.

Mr. KERREY. We have no objection.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the amendment.

The amendment (No. 5214) was agreed to.

Mr. SHELBY. I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. KERREY. I move to table the motion.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 5215

(Purpose: To define and conform language for expenditure of funds for information systems of the Internal Revenue Service)

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, I have another amendment that I send to the desk and ask for its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Alabama [Mr. SHELBY] proposes an amendment numbered 5215.

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

On page 22, line 21 strike all from "(modernized)" through "systems" on line 23, and insert: "(development and deployment) and operational information systems".

On page 23, line 14 strike all from "to manage," through "Management Office" on line 17.

On page 23, line 18 strike "and other necessary Program Management activities" and insert: "the Internal Revenue Service shall seek contractual support in managing, integrating, testing and implementing".

On page 23, line 22 strike all from "none of" through "program without" on page 24, line 3.

On page 24, line 5 strike "which".

On page 24, line 8 strike all from "except that" through "Board" on line 11.

On page 24, line 18 strike all from "Provided further," through "modernization" on line 20.

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, this amendment makes a number of corrections to further define the actions that the Internal Revenue Service is to take with regard to the information systems account we have been talking about.

It has been cleared on both sides of the aisle.

Mr. KERREY. We have no objection.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the amendment.

The amendment (No. 5215) was agreed to.

Mr. SHELBY. I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. KERREY. I move to table the motion.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 5216

(Purpose: To provide for assistance to Special Agents of the Department of State's Diplomatic Security Service)

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, I send an amendment to the desk and ask for its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Alabama [Mr. SHELBY] proposes an amendment numbered 5216.

Mr. SHELBY. I ask unanimous consent reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

On page 128, line 9 before the semicolon insert the following: ", or under section 4823 of title 22, United States Code".

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, this amendment amends section 636 of the bill which provides authority for agencies to provide assistance to agents who secure liability insurance. This amendment will provide this authority to the State Department if it chooses to provide the same assistance to special agents of the Department of State's Diplomatic Security Service.

It is my understanding that it has been cleared on both sides of aisle.

Mr. KERREY. It has been cleared. We have no objection.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the amendment.

The amendment (No. 5216) was agreed to.

Mr. SHELBY. I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. KERREY. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 5217

(Purpose: To provide Federal Executive Boards ability to expand funds)

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, I send an amendment to the desk and ask for its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Alabama [Mr. SHELBY] proposes an amendment numbered 5217.

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

On page 101, on line 3, insert after "boards" the following: "(except Federal Executive Boards)".

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, section 613 prohibits the executive department from pooling or passing the hat for funds. This amendment allows for agencies to contribute funds to Federal executive boards when they are created. It is very tightly written, and it is intended to meet specific problems faced by these boards.

It is my understanding it has been cleared on both sides.

Mr. KERREY. It has been cleared.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the amendment.

The amendment (No. 5217) was agreed to.

Mr. SHELBY. I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. KERREY. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 5218

(Purpose: To expand flexibility to OPM in providing services to CSRS and FERS annuitants)

Mr. SHELBY. I send an amendment to the desk and ask for its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Alabama [Mr. SHELBY] proposes an amendment numbered 5218.

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

On page 69, after line 20, add the following new section:

SEC. 422. Subparagraph (B) of section 8348(a)(1) of title 5, United States Code, is amended by striking "title;" and inserting "title and providing other post-adjudicative services to annuitants;"

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, this amendment would expand the flexibility available to OPM in providing services to CSRS and FERS annuitants in such functions as processing health benefits enrollment changes, changes of address and responding to annuitant inquiries. All of these postadjudication matters would be funded in the same way, and therefore fully integrated with the postretirement COLA adjustments, Federal and State tax withholding and allotments from annuity payments.

It is my understanding it has been cleared on both sides of the aisle.

Mr. KERREY. It has been cleared.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question on agreeing to the amendment.

The amendment (No. 5218) was agreed to.

Mr. SHELBY. I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. KERREY. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 5219

(Purpose: To provide that the Administrator of General Service have funds available to make payments for the Federal Communications Commission)

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, I send an amendment to the desk and ask for its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Alabama [Mr. SHELBY] proposes an amendment numbered 5219.

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

On page 57, line 21 before the colon insert the following new provision: "": Provided further, That to the extent that the Federal Communications Commission does not receive sufficient appropriations for necessary expenses associated with its relocation to the Portals in Washington, DC, funds available to the Administrator of General Services shall hereafter be available for payments to the lessor of the amortized amount, to be financed at the lowest cost to the Government, of such expenses. Such payments shall be in addition to amounts authorized pursuant to section 7(a) of the Public Buildings Act of 1959 (40 U.S.C. 606) and shall be made for a term not to exceed the useful life of the improvements, furniture, equipment, and services provided, up to a maximum of ten years."

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, this amendment before the Senate provides authority to the General Services Administration to negotiate payment for housing the Federal Communications Commission in Washington, DC.

It is my understanding this amendment, too, has been cleared on both sides.

Mr. KERREY. It has been cleared. We have no objection.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the amendment.

The amendment (No. 5219) was agreed to.

Mr. SHELBY. I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. KERREY. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 5220

(Purpose: Technical amendment to H.R. 3756)

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, I send an amendment to the desk and ask for its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Alabama [Mr. SHELBY] proposes an amendment numbered 5220.

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

On page 51, line 10 strike all from "Provided further;" through "House and Senate:" on line 16.

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, this is a technical amendment that strikes a provision which is identical to a provision which appears at another place in the bill.

It has been cleared, I understand, on both sides of the aisle.

Mr. KERREY. It has been cleared. We have no objection.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the amendment.

The amendment (No. 5220) was agreed to.

Mr. SHELBY. I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. KERREY. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 5221

(Purpose: To strike provision requiring a study of courtroom utilization)

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, I send an amendment to the desk and ask for its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Alabama [Mr. SHELBY] proposes an amendment numbered 5221.

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

On page 61, line 5 strike all from "Provided," through "or expanded" on line 8.

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, the committee included language in the bill when it was reported to require the Administrative Office of the Courts to do a space utilization study of courtroom space and utilization. Since the bill was reported from the committee, the AOC has been working with the appropriate authorizing committees to review courtroom space and utilization. These issues should appropriately be reviewed in this manner. It is for that reason I am moving to strike this provision.

It has been cleared on both sides.

Mr. KERREY. It has been cleared. We have no objection.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the amendment.

The amendment (No. 5221) was agreed to.

Mr. SHELBY. I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. KERREY. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 5222

(Purpose: To allow agencies to advance employee FEHB premiums for employees on leave without pay)

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, I have another amendment, and I ask for its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Alabama [Mr. SHELBY] proposes an amendment numbered 5222.

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that further reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

On page 69, after line 20 add the following new section

SEC. . Paragraph (1) of section 8906(e) of title 5, United States Code, is amended—

(1) by striking the last sentence of that paragraph and redesignating the remainder of that paragraph as (1)(A);

(2) by adding at the end of paragraph (1)(A) (as so designated) the following:

“(B) During each pay period in which an enrollment continues under subparagraph (A)—

“(i) employee and Government contributions required by this section shall be paid on a current basis; and “(ii) if necessary, the head of the employing Agency shall approve advance payment, recoverable in the same manner as under section 5524a(c), of a portion of basic pay sufficient to pay current employee contributions.

“(C) Each agency shall establish procedures for accepting direct payments of employee contributions for the purposes of this paragraph.”

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, this amendment will solve problems that agencies, the Office of Personal Management, and the Federal employee health benefit carriers have experienced with regard to payment of health care premiums by allowing agencies to advance the employee premium for employees on leave without pay, rather than waiting for the employees to return to work.

I understand this has been cleared on both sides.

Mr. KERREY. It has been cleared. We have no objection.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the amendment. The amendment (No. 5222) was agreed to.

Mr. SHELBY. I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. KERREY. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

Mr. SHELBY. I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. DORGAN. What is the pending business, Mr. President?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment of the Senator from Oregon, the second-degree amendment.

Mr. DORGAN. I ask unanimous consent we set that aside. As I understand, the managers talked about setting aside the amendment by the Senator from Oregon.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

AMENDMENT NO. 5223 TO EXCEPTED COMMITTEE AMENDMENT ON PAGE 16, LINE 16 THROUGH LINE 2 ON PAGE 17

(Purpose: To amend the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 to end deferral for United States shareholders on income of controlled foreign corporations attributable to property imported into the United States)

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President, I offer a second-degree amendment to the second committee amendment.

I believe the second committee amendment is now the pending business.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. That is correct.

Mr. DORGAN. On behalf of myself, Senator HOLLINGS, Senator BUMPERS, Senator KERRY of Massachusetts, Senator SIMON, Senator KOHL, and Senators REID, WELLSTONE, LEAHY, HARKIN, FEINGOLD, and KENNEDY, I send an amendment to the desk.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from North Dakota [Mr. DORGAN], for himself, Mr. HOLLINGS, Mr. BUMPERS, Mr. KERRY, Mr. SIMON, Mr. KOHL, Mr. REID, Mr. WELLSTONE, Mr. LEAHY, Mr. HARKIN, Mr. FEINGOLD, and Mr. KENNEDY, proposes an amendment numbered 5223 to excepted committee amendment on page 16 line 16 through line 2 on page 17.

Mr. DORGAN. I ask unanimous consent reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

At the appropriate place insert the following:

SEC. . TAXATION OF INCOME OF CONTROLLED FOREIGN CORPORATIONS ATTRIBUTABLE TO IMPORTED PROPERTY.

(a) GENERAL RULE.—Subsection (a) of section 954 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 (defining foreign base company income) is amended by striking “and” at the end of paragraph (4), by striking the period at the end of paragraph (5) and inserting “, and”, and by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

“(6) imported property income for the taxable year (determined under subsection (h) and reduced as provided in subsection (b)(5)).”

(b) DEFINITION OF IMPORTED PROPERTY INCOME.—Section 954 of such Code is amended by adding at the end the following new subsection:

“(h) IMPORTED PROPERTY INCOME.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—For purposes of subsection (a)(6), the term ‘imported property income’ means income (whether in the form of profits, commissions, fees, or otherwise) derived in connection with—

“(A) manufacturing, producing, growing, or extracting imported property,

“(B) the sale, exchange, or other disposition of imported property, or

“(C) the lease, rental, or licensing of imported property.

Such term shall not include any foreign oil and gas extraction income (within the meaning of section 907(c)) or any foreign oil related income (within the meaning of section 907(c)).

“(2) IMPORTED PROPERTY.—For purposes of this subsection—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—Except as otherwise provided in this paragraph, the term ‘imported property’ means property which is imported into the United States by the controlled foreign corporation or a related person.

“(B) IMPORTED PROPERTY INCLUDES CERTAIN PROPERTY IMPORTED BY UNRELATED PERSONS.—The term ‘imported property’ includes any property imported into the United States by an unrelated person if, when such property was sold to the unrelated person by the controlled foreign corporation (or a related person), it was reasonable to expect that—

“(i) such property would be imported into the United States, or “(ii) such property would be used as a component in other property which would be imported into the United States.

“(C) EXCEPTION FOR PROPERTY SUBSEQUENTLY EXPORTED.—The term ‘imported property’ does not include any property which is imported into the United States and which—

“(i) before substantial use in the United States, is sold, leased, or rented by the controlled foreign corporation or a related person for direct use, consumption, or disposition outside the United States, or “(ii) is used by the controlled foreign corporation or a related person as a component in other property which is so sold, leased, or rented.

“(3) DEFINITIONS AND SPECIAL RULES.—

“(A) IMPORT.—For purposes of this subsection, the term ‘import’ means entering, or withdrawal from warehouse, for consumption or use. Such term includes any grant of the right to use an intangible (as defined in section 936(b)(3)(B)) in the United States.

“(B) UNRELATED PERSON.—For purposes of this subsection, the term ‘unrelated person’ means any person who is not a related person with respect to the controlled foreign corporation.

“(C) COORDINATION WITH FOREIGN BASE COMPANY SALES INCOME.—For purposes of this section, the term ‘foreign base company sales income’ shall not include any imported property income.”

(c) SEPARATE APPLICATION OF LIMITATIONS ON FOREIGN TAX CREDIT FOR IMPORTED PROPERTY INCOME.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Paragraph (1) of section 904(d) of such Code (relating to separate application of section with respect to certain categories of income) is amended by striking “and” at the end of subparagraph (H), by redesignating subparagraph (I) as subparagraph (J), and by inserting after subparagraph (H) the following new subparagraph:

“(I) imported property income, and”.

(2) IMPORTED PROPERTY INCOME DEFINED.—Paragraph (2) of section 904(d) of such Code is amended by redesignating subparagraphs (H) and (I) as subparagraphs (I) and (J), respectively, and by inserting after subparagraph (G) the following new subparagraph:

“(H) IMPORTED PROPERTY INCOME.—The term ‘imported property income’ means any income received or accrued by any person which is of a kind which would be imported property income (as defined in section 954(h)).”

(3) LOOK-THRU RULES TO APPLY.—Subparagraph (F) of section 904(d)(3) of such Code is amended by striking “or (E)” and inserting “(E), or (I)”.

(d) TECHNICAL AMENDMENTS.—

(1) Clause (iii) of section 952(c)(1)(B) of such Code (relating to certain prior year deficits may be taken into account) is amended by inserting the following subclause after subclause (II) (and by redesignating the following subclauses accordingly):

“(III) imported property income.”.

(2) Paragraph (5) of section 954(b) of such Code (relating to deductions to be taken into account) is amended by striking “and the foreign base company oil related income” and inserting “the foreign base company oil related income, and the imported property income”.

(e) EFFECTIVE DATE.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in paragraph (2), the amendments made by this section shall apply to taxable years of foreign corporations beginning after December 31, 1996, and to taxable years of United States shareholders within which or with which such taxable years of such foreign corporations end.

(2) SUBSECTION (c).—The amendments made by subsection (c) shall apply to taxable years beginning after December 31, 1996.

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President, this amendment is not a germane amendment to this appropriations bill. I assume notice will be made of that, so I immediately agree this is not germane to this legislation.

However, this is, perhaps, the only remaining opportunity to offer such an amendment. I offered it about a year ago, and the Senate had a vote on it. It was a 52 to 47 vote. It deals with a provision in our tax law which encourages and provides incentives to U.S. companies that move jobs overseas from this country to their foreign factories operating in tax havens.

I have believed for some long while that we have an obligation in Congress to decide that we will change our Tax Code sufficiently so we will not be providing incentives to ship U.S. manufacturing jobs overseas.

I offered this amendment last year, almost a year ago now, and, as I indicated, the vote on it was on a vote to table, and it was 52 to 47. I recognize this is controversial, but I also maintain it is critically important. I also do not prefer to offer a nongermane amendment to this particular appropriations bill. I have great respect for the Senator from Alabama and the Senator from Nebraska. They want to get this bill done, and I understand that. I don't intend to hold them up forever on this, but I would like to have a discussion about this and have a vote on it. I know there are a couple of others who want to speak about this amendment as well.

Let me try to briefly describe what this amendment would do. Before I do that, let me say again to those who will point out that this is nongermane, I admit that, and I assert that we have faced nongermane amendments from both sides of the aisle in the past year or two here in Congress. We have recently seen an amendment dealing with a gas tax repeal on a White House travel bill. So we have seen a whole range of nongermane amendments. While I agree with others that that is not the preferable way to do business, this is the last opportunity to offer such an amendment.

Let me talk for a moment about the specifics. On July 8, this year, the Boston Globe had an article that was entitled "Tax Code Gives Companies a Lift," and I would like to read a few paragraphs of it because it was a fascinating, lengthy article written by Aaron Zitner of the Boston Globe. The first paragraph describes what has long concerned me and persuaded me previously, and now again, to offer an amendment of the type I am offering today. It reads in the Globe:

When Robert M. Silva's job moved to Singapore two years ago, his company flew him overseas so he could train his replacement. Then the company closed its North Reading factory [in Massachusetts], laid off Silva and 119 co-workers and began importing from its Asian plant the medical products once made in Massachusetts.

Moving jobs to Singapore had obvious advantages for Baxter International Inc. Taxes are low, and Silva's $26,000 salary was far higher than what the company pays his replacement.

But Baxter reaped another reward for moving overseas: a tax break, courtesy of the United States Government. In the name of boosting U.S. business, the Tax Code offers a special benefit to companies that move jobs offshore. . . .

It is one of many tax breaks that ripple perversely through the economy—favoring multinationals over small firms, favoring investors over average taxpayers and favoring foreign workers over those at home.

Those are the first paragraphs of a lengthy and very interesting article in the Boston Globe. This paragraph talks about a man named Robert Silva. I have never met him, and I don't ever expect to meet him. He is one of many Americans who discovered that his job no longer exists in this country; it exists in Singapore. He discovered he was sent to Singapore to train his replacement. He is a taxpayer, like others, who pays taxes to our Government for a lot of things that he no doubt supports. But I will bet you that Mr. Silva, like many others, does not support a provision in our Tax Code that actually rewards those who would move U.S. jobs overseas.

Now, what is this reward, and what is the amendment I am proposing? The amendment I am proposing is not to repeal all of something called deferral. That is not my proposal. The Senate actually voted once to repeal deferral many years ago. It just did not go beyond the Senate. But the Senate has already acted to repeal something called deferral. What is deferral? That means that if you are an American manufacturing company producing overseas, you make an income there, and you generally don't have to report it and pay taxes on it in this country. You may defer that tax obligation until and unless you repatriate the income to our country. That is a special tax break called deferral. You can defer any taxes you would have owed to this country on income you made in a plant outside of this country.

As I indicated, the Senate in 1975 voted to repeal all of the deferral tax break. Of course, it was a different day, a different debate. It was very controversial then. In 1987, the House of Representatives voted to repeal a small part of deferral. In fact, it is exactly the part that I am proposing that we now repeal. The House of Representatives passed this provision, which I now offer the Senate, in 1987. The provision says that those U.S. companies who establish a manufacturing plant overseas, move their U.S. jobs overseas to tax havens, and then ship their products back into this country will lose the deferral on their tax break—the tax break called deferral—that amount of income attributable to the goods they move back into our country. It is a very small slice of this issue called deferral, but it would close that, because that which now exists is to say to a U.S. company, close your manufacturing plant in Boston or Bismarck or Los Angeles and then move it overseas to a tax haven and the American taxpayer will make a deal with you. If you do that, we will give you a tax break. What is that tax break worth? It is worth $2.2 billion in 7 years. That is how much is paid to companies who locate their manufacturing jobs in other countries as opposed to this country.

Now, I don't know of anyone who really can stand up and say, boy, this makes a lot of sense. It is an affirmative policy on our part to reward the export of American jobs. I don't know of anyone who is proposing that. If there are people who propose that, I would very much like them to come to the floor of the Senate and see if we can begin debating it, because I hope we will have some discussion. A year ago, when I offered this amendment, we were told that some hearings might be held and that this is not the time, the place, nor the way, and I understood all that. I did not agree with it. But as is usually the case, a year passes and not much happens. I wanted to offer this a month or two ago and wasn't able to do that, given the parliamentary circumstances. So now I am required, if I am to offer it at all in this session of Congress, to offer it today on this piece of legislation.

I would like to go over a couple of charts. Lest anyone thinks this is something that is irrelevant and not important, I would like to go over a few charts to describe why I think this is important. First of all, I would like to talk about manufacturing jobs in this country. The trend line on manufacturing jobs is dismal. The trend line is that we are a country with fewer and fewer manufacturing jobs, and manufacturing jobs, traditionally, have been the good jobs that pay good income with good benefits. But you see what is happening.

Since 1979, we have lost about 3 million good-paying manufacturing jobs in this country. We continue to see manufacturing jobs move elsewhere, and I know people say, "Well, yes, but we have more service jobs," and this and that and the other. The fact is that getting a job at minimum wage, working for some discount store on the edge of a city, is not a replacement for good manufacturing jobs that traditionally have paid good income in this country. This is what is happening to manufacturing jobs in our country. That is a ominous trend. Part of that is because those manufacturing jobs are being exported. Exported how? Well, for a lot of reasons, one of which is that we actually encourage it in our Tax Code.

Next is "Employment by Foreign Manufacturing Affiliates of United States Companies"—U.S. firms and their employment. Here is what is happening to manufacturing employment in the United States. That is the red line. You see what is happening to that. That is going down.

U.S. companies manufacturing abroad, what is happening to their employment? That is going up. Those lines show clearly what is happening on manufacturing employment by U.S. corporations in Asia and Latin America, the location of most low wage and tax haven countries.

"Employment in Foreign Manufacturing Affiliates." You can see what is happening over the years. That employment continues to increase. Again, this is manufacturing and manufacturing jobs are traditionally the best source of jobs or the best income and the most secure.

"Employment by U.S. Firms in Foreign Tax Havens." You will see Ireland, the Netherlands, Hong Kong, Singapore. Singapore, 74,700 firms. I am not suggesting that a United States company should not be able to have a foreign affiliate and manufacture in Singapore. A United States company might well want to establish an affiliate in Singapore in order to manufacture there to compete in Korea. I am not suggesting that is inappropriate. I am not suggesting we change that. I am saying that if a United States company decides it wants to manufacture in Singapore for the purpose of serving the United States market, the company that manufactures in the United States to serve the United States market is put at a substantial disadvantage. Why? Because at least in part we have provided in our Tax Code a reward for those who left which translates into a penalty for those who stayed.

"Growth of Manufacturing Employment." You can see what is happening again, in the number of countries where manufacturing jobs have been moving with robust growth and what is happening in the United States. That is not, it seems to me, what we should aspire to have happen in our country.

"Growth of Imports of Manufactured Products." Once again, the line shows that we have a steady upward trend of growth of imports from manufactured products. The moment I say this some will say, "Well, he wants to stop the imports." This is not the case. This is not, on the one hand, a debate between those who want free and open and unrestricted trade and those, on the other hand, who are protectionist, xenophobic stooges who do not understand what is happening in the world. That is the way it is characterized. That is a lot of baloney. What this is is a narrow question of whether or not we ought to have in our Tax Code that provision which provides a significant incentive to say to a U.S. manufacturer, "We will make you a deal: Move your jobs overseas and we will give you tax relief. Compete after you move overseas against a domestic company that stayed in the United States and will be at a disadvantage because we gave you a tax advantage and did not give the company that stayed here a tax advantage."

That, it seems to me, is exactly the wrong message we want to be sending to American manufacturers.

Well, I do not know that I need to provide more evidence that manufacturing jobs are leaving this country. It is, I suppose, difficult to discuss this with a great deal of success at a time when those who receive these benefits are the largest enterprises in our country, literally in many cases the largest enterprises in the world, spending an enormous amount of time lobbying to keep what they now have, preventing someone from taking away the benefits they now have. There are not people walking around the streets carrying placards telling us that we have to shut this tax loophole because almost no one knows it exists.

Mr. Silva, who has lost his job in Massachusetts, may not know it exists, but it contributed to his losing his job. A woman named Carolyn Richard probably does not know it exists. She is a woman married with one child, a 10th grade education, one of 500 people who worked in a Fruit of the Loom factory, 8-hour days, stitching shoulder joints and hemming T-shirts. She, with a lot of others, worked hard. They liked their jobs, did well. But they cannot compete against others who will work for a dollar a day, a dollar an hour, and so companies that would employ Carolyn Richard decide they will close their American plant because they can make that product elsewhere less expensively.

I admit there are several things that persuade companies to do this, one of which is a tax break. Several others include being able to pole vault over an entire range of knotty little problems in this country that we served 75 years debating—should there be child labor protection laws? Should there be safety in the workplace? If so, what should those standards be? Should we prevent the dumping of chemicals and effluents into the air and water by manufacturing plants? We spent 75 years debating that and came to some conclusions about it, and we have child labor laws; we have worker safety protection issues; we have minimum wages; we have provisions that you cannot dump chemicals into our water; you cannot dump effluents into the airshed that pollute this country.

So that is what costs money, and some are able to pole vault over all of those issues by saying: I do not have to pay the minimum wage; I can hire a 14-year old and pay them 14 cents an hour and work them 14 hours a day; I can dump chemicals into the stream; I can dump pollution into the airshed; I do not have to care about OSHA inspectors, safe work place; I do not have to care about any of those things and save money because I can move this plant overseas. Besides, when I am done doing that, I can claim a tax break because the American taxpayers will pay me and others who do it $2.2 billion in 7 years if I will just consider moving my American jobs elsewhere.

There is at the moment a wonderful series that I would commend to my colleagues being done in the Philadelphia Inquirer by fellows named Donald Barlett and James Steele. They have done a substantial amount of economic work. They have won the Pulitzer Prize, a couple Pulitzer Prizes for their reporting, and they have now published 3 of an expected 10 pieces dealing with these issues—trade, tax preferences. What is happening to an endangered label, they say. "Made in the U.S.A." "An Endangered Label: 'Made in the U.S.A.'"

Product after product once made or grown in the United States now comes from abroad and one of the biggest losers in this influx is small business.

From one of their articles I wanted to read a couple of paragraphs that I think summarize part of this issue for me.

Unlike multinational corporations that have closed factories in the United States and shifted the production abroad to take advantage of cheap labor, small companies seldom have that option. It is these businesses, employing a few to a dozen workers, that are being squeezed out. Individually, they barely register a blip on the economic indicators. Taken together, they provide a livelihood for millions.

Small businesses have scant access to people in Congress who write the laws and little influence in the White House. They rarely receive favorable hearings from regulatory authorities. With few exceptions, their appeals for help go unheard when imports of competing products from low wage countries begin flooding in.

Mr. President, Mr. Glover, chief counsel from the Small Business Administration's Office of Advocacy, said it pretty well. He was speaking of part of this amendment. He talked about the legislative offering that I have proposed, "encouraging small and mid-sized domestic businesses by reducing the competitive advantage a business might receive by moving its operations overseas."

"We recognize," he said, "the fact of life that some businesses may move their production operations to a foreign nation for reasons of market access, materials availability or a variety of other concerns."

And I recognize that as well.

He also said, "We also know that domestic small businesses, having neither the resources nor the expertise for such a move, should be assured that their globe-trotting, multinational competitors will not be provided tax advantages as well. Eliminating the deferrals for a U.S. business which has closed its domestic production and moved abroad and which now seeks to sell those same products domestically will help small businesses to be competitive and at least give them a sense of fair treatment."

Mr. President, I could go on at some length because this is a very controversial issue. Not long ago, a couple of people who worked for an organization that has been put together and funded by the largest companies in this country, which benefit from this tax break, put together a piece in one of the tax publications here in town. It was just a scathing attack of this proposal of mine. It described all that is wrong with it and why the current system is wonderful and why what I am proposing is so awful.

A response to that was recently done by the Congressional Research Service, prepared by its senior specialist in economic policy, Jane Gravelle. It was published recently, and it debunks all of the hollow issues that were raised about this legislation.

This is not rocket science, no matter what those who come to the floor may say. This is not complicated. It is not even highly technical in its application. The question that we ought to address as Members of the Senate, at the time when this country is losing more and more manufacturing jobs, is this: Do we want to continue in our Tax Code to subsidize the exodus of American jobs overseas, by saying to U.S. companies, "If you put U.S. jobs overseas rather than here at home we will give you a tax break?" "If you have a plant here at home, shut the door, get rid of the workers, move it overseas, and the American taxpayer will say thank you by giving you a check."

If you believe that makes sense and if you believe there is any room in this country where you can stand up and describe that as a sensible public policy, then you ought to vote against what I am proposing. But if you, like most people, think that our Tax Code at least ought to be neutral on the question of where you locate jobs—and it probably ought to be more than neutral—we ought to tip it on the side of saying, if you create jobs here, we will provide incentives for you. We ought to turn it around. Instead of providing incentives for those who ship jobs out of our country, we ought to create incentives for those who create jobs in this country.

We are told this is a global economy and some Members of the Senate and the House simply lack the capability of understanding the new realities of the global economy. I do not know whether they refer to me when they say that, or the Senator from South Carolina. I do not know who it is who does not understand all this global economy. I confess to growing up in a town of 300 people, attending a high school with a class of 9. I graduated in a senior class of 9. They did not teach us, necessarily, higher math in our high school, but we got reasonably good training. They taught us to think a little bit, use a little judgment, have a little common sense.

I could go back to Regent, ND, tonight, perhaps hold a meeting in the Regent town hall, and most of the folks in Regent would come, because it is a small town. There is probably not a lot going on there this evening. Regent was a town where there probably was not much going on when I was a student there. It is a wonderful community, small but wonderful. If we could get all the folks there in the Regent Center tonight, we could talk to them about what do they think we ought to do on tax policy. Do you think we ought to encourage some jobs that exist in North Dakota or in Colorado, New Hampshire, Rhode Island—do you think we ought to encourage those jobs to move elsewhere, just leave our country? Take a manufacturing job and send it elsewhere? Make shoes, shirts, belts and television sets and cars elsewhere? Or would it be better if you could find a way to try to keep most of those jobs here?

If we could get all the folks there in Regent and talk to them, they might raise the question of the global economy. They might say, "Isn't the global economy kind of an inevitable circumstance nowadays, where we are competing against those workers who live in Sri Lanka, in Bangladesh, in Malaysia, in Singapore?" Yes, it is, absolutely. That is the reality. We are competing against those people and that is precisely why we are losing manufacturing jobs. We should have to compete with virtually everyone in the world, providing the competition is fair.

I would ask this. Is it fair to ask a worker in Alabama, Colorado, South Carolina, or North Dakota to compete against someone who makes 14 cents an hour? Can we compete against someone who makes 14 cents an hour? Should we compete? Is it necessary to be required to compete against someone who makes 14 cents an hour? I can tell you about some people who do make 14 cents an hour working 11 hours a day, 6 days a week. I can tell you about them. How about making 14 cents an hour at age 14? Working 14 hours a day? I can tell you about some of them.

So, if the answer to the question is no, we should not have to compete against that, then the question is, what do we do? We not only create a circumstance in our country where we say you are going to compete against it, but we say if you will simply take the opportunity to access low wages elsewhere, we will give you a tax break.

Folks in my hometown would, I think, find that fairly dumb. I do not know how else you describe that. I think they would say that is a pretty dumb policy. What kind of minds conspired together to figure out that we ought to have a tax break if we boot jobs out of our country? What kind of high-minded people? Tell me where they got their education. What kind of high-minded people is it who believe it makes sense for us to create tax policy that has the consequence of weakening our country and weakening the job base that has been the very foundation for economic growth in America?

Economic growth in this country is not economic growth based on target discount stores on the edge of our cities, paying minimum wage. In fact, I went through one recently with my little daughter, trying to find a bathing suit. Do you know, I could not find an employee. I walked around forever trying to find somebody who worked there. They have a store and, at least to my knowledge, no discernible employees.

I finally found somebody to take my money. But is that a substitute? Are those jobs the substitute for good manufacturing jobs? Of course not. So the question is, should we decide to focus a bit on this question? We will have people come and say, "No, no, you should not focus on it. This is irrelevant, it is extraneous, and besides you have it all wrong. This tax break is not really a tax break; those who you say get it do not get it, and if they do get it, it really doesn't matter." There are always three or four stages of denial here in this Chamber.

But some of us think this is important. The global economy is a reality. I am not suggesting we put up walls and keep products out. I am not suggesting that we tie the hands of American corporations. I am suggesting that we decide, on behalf of our country, that rather than provide incentives to those who would move jobs outside of our country, we consider providing incentives to those who would create jobs inside of our country, and that is the central question before us.

So, I have a couple of other things I want to say, but I know the Senator from South Carolina wishes to speak on this. I, at this point, yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. SMITH). The Senator from South Carolina.

Mr. HOLLINGS. Mr. President, I will be as brief as I possibly can. I will not take long. This is a subject that really deserves several days of debate.

But, in a capsule, we are going to bring it right to a head, I think, in the next couple of hours, in that Pat Choate, the author of "Agents Of Influence," has been selected as the Vice Presidential candidate by Ross Perot, in this so-called Reform Party.

Mr. Choate was the vice president in charge of policy at TRW. When he published this book, which factually has never been challenged, he, of course, was relieved of his post as vice president of TRW and has been out as a consultant to industry.

There is no question that finally, finally, in this election, trade and jobs will really come into focus, as the distinguished Senator from North Dakota is bringing right here.

Let me hasten to add, I support, of course, our Democratic ticket of Clinton-Gore and will continue to support them. I have tried to work—with respect, unsuccessfully, of course—on NAFTA and GATT to change our trade policy and save us from these two flawed agreements. But we are going to have to try to do our dead level best to bring them into the real world of trade and jobs, and I am confident that the selection of Mr. Choate will really bring it front and center.

There is no question, don't put this gentleman in a debate with any of the persons mentioned here, and he is far, far more informed. They do not have to bring up the case of Smoot-Hawley and think you are going to show a picture and rattle this gentleman.

Let me first commend my distinguished colleague from North Dakota. He has been very erudite in this particular matter, because he feels keenly about the two really great issues facing our Nation.

One, of course, is trying to get this Congress to pay the bills. And you heard earlier today the distinguished Senator from North Carolina holler, "Up, up and away, the debt." The national debt has gone to some $5.2 trillion. I remember well when President Reagan came to office, it wasn't even $1 trillion.

We had 38 Presidents of the United States, Republican and Democrat, 200 years of history, and never a trillion-dollar debt, with the cost of all the wars—Revolutionary, 1812—right on up—Civil War, Spanish American, World War I, II, Korea, Vietnam, with the cost of all the wars, we had not gotten to a trillion-dollar debt.

Now, without the cost of a war, in 15 years we have gone to $5.2 trillion. And, as a result, we are raising taxes a billion dollars a day. I use that expression, "raising taxes a billion dollars a day," advisedly for the simple reason is, Mr. President, you have to pay the interest costs. They say there are two things in life unavoidable: death and taxes. Make it a third: interest costs on the national debt. We have to pay that. Republicans and Democrats vote every time to pay the interest costs on the national debt.

So that is a billion a day for nothing. That is not for schools. That is not for defense. That is not for education or housing or the environment. You don't get anything for that. You are just paying for the past profligacies of these Congresses. That is problem No. 1.

Problem No. 2 is barely mentioned, and I speak advisedly about jobs, because I have been in the game. I didn't come here as a neophyte. We can start off 37 years ago. When I took office, we had an agriculture State. When I left, we had an industrial State.

Anybody connected with the history of our great State of South Carolina will tell you the technical training program that we instituted is a big attraction for industrial investment and expansion, period, for South Carolina, New Hampshire, or anywhere else. I offered Governor Sununu in the Presidential race in the early eighties to come up there and institute my technical training, but New Hampshire wanted to leave it to the industries.

I talked to my friends at Wang, in, Nashua. I said, I don't see how you expect any expansion except to run away from the taxes in Boston, coming up Highway 128, or whatever it is, to get out of the taxes in that beautiful State of New Hampshire, which everyone will agree is one of the most beautiful in the entire Nation.

But be that as it may, we are not just talking philosophically as an economist or anything else, we are talking business sense. I have worked firsthand with the chairmen of the boards, the vice chairmen, come on down to No. 6 man who really has to get the operation in the black. That is the gentleman or lady that counts. And when you give them a spread sheet and you tell them the hourly wages and how it is going to come out, when they break ground, when the plant will be complete, you can get in operation in 7 months or a year or less, whatever it is, you are beginning to talk sense, and that is the way we work at it.

Right to the point, our poor friends in Alabama went totally overboard. In Alabama, they paid over $300 million to get Mercedes Benz. I was in that competition. I will never forget meeting with the Mercedes executives. I carried them down to South Carolina to Bosch, and at Bosch, I showed them where they not only were making the fuel injectors, but they were making the antilock brakes for the Mercedes Benz. They were making the antilock brakes for the Toyota, for all Ford cars and all General Motors cars.

I showed them a good little country boy from Dorchester County who had been trained in our technical training system, sent to Stuttgart and learned the German apprenticeship system and was instructing in Charleston, SC, the German apprentice system.

The man from Mercedes said, "This is what we want. We are looking for a port. We are looking for the skills." But the great executives back in Germany were looking for money, so we lost out on that one.

I only introduce that because these rat-a-tat talks about "I'm for jobs, I'm for jobs," they don't know anything about the retaining, anything about the work in trying to get the job there, keep the job there and get the expansion, which we are doing in South Carolina.

Having said that, Mr. President, I notice my distinguished friend had to talk almost defensively. He said, "Wait a minute, I'm not trying to put up a wall or anything else." It is very unfortunate I have to do the same thing. I am speaking defensively trying to qualify as you might a witness in a case, because this is the real case of the United States of America and nobody wants to try it, Republican or Democrat. Oh, no, they want to ignore it.

Let me go right to the heart of the matter. Yes, in the cold war, we had to sacrifice our industrial backbone in order to spread capitalism and bring about freedom in the Pacific rim and we used the Marshall plan to rebuild Europe, and it worked. Nobody is complaining about that sacrifice.

I used to testify back in the fifties before the old International Trade Commission—International Tariff it was called at that particular time. They said, "Governor, what do you expect these emerging countries to make, the airplanes and the computers?" Let them make the clothing and the shoes. That is why 86 percent of the shoes on this floor are imported; 66 percent, two-thirds of the clothing you are looking at is imported.

So I said, "Yes, you have to give the lesser skilled jobs to the emerging countries," but we have done that. As my friend, Senator Dole, says, "Been there, done that." So all right, it worked.

Now we are into a global competition, and who is making the computers and who is making the airplanes? Our competitors. So don't come now with this argument about we are rebuilding the world. We have to rebuild the United States. Our standard of living has gone out of the window.

You cannot be a world power—let's talk security and national defense—you cannot be a world power unless you are a manufacturing power. Ten years ago, we had 26 percent of our work force in manufacturing. We almost had half at the end of the war. That is what won the war.

I spent 3 years overseas in World War II. Yes, we had brave soldiers. These people are talking about the veterans' record. But Rosie the Riveter won World War II. We inundated them. I can see me now saying, "Send those planes. Keep sending them." They kept shooting them down, but we had more. Building No. 1 down in Marietta, GA, was spitting out five B-29's a day.

Rosie the Riveter, our industrial backbone, won World War II, and we are losing world war III, the economic war, because instead of now going from half to 26 percent 10 years ago, today we are down to 13 percent.

That up east Harvard group would give that lecture, "small is beautiful, service economy," all these here nonsensical arguments. And we are going to the poorhouse. That is why real wages have dropped 20 percent in the last 20 years, for the simple reason that the big multinationals have increased their profits by moving offshore.

Mr. President, we are competing with ourselves. Mark it down. I am not worried about Japan. I am not here to bash Japan. I am here to bash me, us, you, the Congress, the silly policy. What we have in manufacturing is the cost of labor is 30 percent of volume. And we know it is a given. We had many witnesses testify to that in our particular hearings, that you can save as much as 20 percent of volume of sales by moving offshore to a low-wage country.

Take a company, a manufacturer with $500 million in sales, they can keep the head office, the sales force here in America; but they can move their manufacturing offshore and make $100 million at 20 percent or they can continue to work their own people and go bankrupt, because that is the competition. Do not talk about the global competition. I am talking about the fellow next door that has already moved.

When you come up here, they dance around hollering, "retrain, retrain, retrain." I want to say a word about that to get it on the record, because we know about training. We do not have to wait on Washington to get us industrial expansion in South Carolina.

But Oneita Mills closed recently in South Carolina. We had 487 jobs making these T-shirts. We got that 35 years ago, a beautiful little plant, wonderful workers. The average age there was 47 years of age, Mr. President. Retrain them. Do it Secretary Reich's way, the Secretary of Labor. Go ahead and retrain them; and tomorrow morning give me 487 expert computer operators. Are you going to hire the 47-year-old computer operator or the 20- or 21-year-old computer operator? To ask the question is to answer it. You are not going to take on the health costs, the retirement costs of the 47-year-old.

You can keep on retraining them. They are out in this little rural town, scavenging, trying to make enough money, where their husbands probably were in the tobacco allotment. They want to cut that out. Together they work and save enough money to send the boy to Clemson. I am seeing it happening, and I am coming around here hearing "skills, skills." We have skills. Do not give me that. I have skills coming out of my ear.

And do not give me any of these other arguments they are talking about, product liability, and all of these other silly—why do you think we have Hoffmann La Roche and BMW. And go right on down. And we have now 50 Japanese plants. I have almost 100 German plants, a bunch of British plants. Michelin—the French—they just announced another expansion. I remember calling on them in Paris in 1961. Now they are going up to 11,600 employees, Senator, with their North American headquarters in Greenville, SC. I got Bowater; I have got their North American plant in Greenville, S.C. So let us get on with what the Senator from North Dakota wants to talk about, and that is, these freebies that are being given out to continue a policy that was well-conceived in order to spread capitalism and defeat communism in the cold war. We have won that war.

Now we look around, and we have sacrificed the working people of America, and our standard of living. And the job is for you and I to be realistic and start building it back up. And do not come—I can hear it now, because I can tell you, Senator, once they chose Pat Choate, you are going to find the multinationals, they are going to come down here on your necks and heads around here, "free trade, free trade, protectionism, protectionism, protectionism."

Let me plead guilty. I am a protectionist. We have the Army to protect us against the enemies from without. We have the FBI to protect us from the enemies within. We have Social Security to protect us from the ravages of old age, Medicare to protect us in ill health. The fundamentals of government, that is what we are up here for.

I remember when Ronald Reagan was sworn in in the rotunda. He raised his hand to preserve, protect, and defend. And when we came back down here on the Senate floor and started talking about it, he said, "Oh, no, we don't want to be protectionist." You darn right I want to protect our industrial backbone, our standard of living, and the jobs of America. And I want a competitive trade policy. We are not competing. We have been taken over by a fifth column within the ranks in this land of ours.

Remember, we heard this same argument about comparative advantage and free trade from David Ricardo in the earliest, earliest of days. Or the Brits, once we got our freedom, they said, "Now, just you little fledgling nation, the United States of America, you trade back with the mother country with what you produce best, and we will trade back with what we produce best," the doctrine of comparative advantage, free trade, free trade, free trade. And you know what Alexander Hamilton said? He wrote it in a little booklet, "Reports on Manufacturers." Get a copy of it. There is one left. It is on guard over there at the Library of Congress where I hope to be tonight because they have a wonderful reading going on over there. But this is even again more important.

And in the "Reports on Manufacturers," Alexander Hamilton told the Brits in one line, "Bug off. We are not going to remain your colony. We are not going to continue to ship our agricultural products, our timber, our iron, our coal, and bring in your manufactured products. You have to be a nation State. You have to have a pre-eminence in manufacturing."

The second bill, Mr. President, on July 4, 1789, that actually passed this Congress was a protectionist bill, setting a 50-percent tariff on 60 some articles going on down the list. And we built this United States of America, this economic giant with protectionism.

Abraham Lincoln, when he was going to get the transcontinental railroad—that same type of crowd is buzzing around us here tonight; and they will be around tomorrow; and they will say, go ahead and let us have free trade, free trade—they told President Lincoln that we should get the steel from England. He said no. He would build our own steel mills. When they got through, they had not only the transcontinental railroad, but they had their own steel capacity.

And so it was in the Depression, in the darkest days. Franklin Roosevelt came in with his competitive free trade under Cordell Hull. And Dwight David Eisenhower, in 1955, put quotas on imported oil because we had to sort of build up our capacity. And we have done that from time to time. And now is a time again when we survey the horizon, and start talking as realists. And quit giving us these symbolic baloney, malarkeys such as Smoot-Hawley.

Mr. President, right to the point, I ask unanimous consent—I am trying to save time here—I ask unanimous consent to have printed in the RECORD the record made by our distinguished former colleague, Senator John Heinz of Pennsylvania entitled "The Myth of Smoot-Hawley" back in 1983.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

THE MYTH OF SMOOT-HAWLEY

Mr. HEINZ. Mr. President, every time someone in the administration or the Congress gives a speech about a more aggressive trade policy or the need to confront our trading partners with their subsidies, barriers to import and other unfair practices, others, often in the academic community or in the Congress immediately react with speeches on the return of Smoot-Hawley and the dark days of blatant protectionism. "Smoot-Hawley," for those uninitiated in this arcane field, is the Tariff Act of 1930 (Public Law 71-361) which among other things imposed significant increases on a large number of items in the Tariff Schedules. The act has also been, for a number of years, the basis of our countervailing duty law and a number of other provisions relating to unfair trade practices, a fact that tends to be ignored when people talk about the evils of Smoot-Hawley.

A return to Smoot-Hawley, of course, is intended to mean a return to depression, unemployment, poverty, misery, and even war, all of which apparently were directly caused by this awful piece of legislation. Smoot-Hawley has thus become a code word for protectionism, and in turn a code word for depression and major economic disaster. Those who sometimes wonder at the ability of Congress to change the country's direction through legislation must marvel at the sea change in our economy apparently wrought by this single bill in 1930.

Historians and economists, who usually view these things objectively, realize that the truth is a good deal more complicated, that the causes of the Depression were far deeper, and that the link between high tariffs and economic disaster is much more tenuous than is implied by this simplistic linkage. Now, however, someone has dared to explode this myth publicly through an economic analysis of the actual tariff increases in the act and their effects in the early years of the Depression. The study points out that the increases in question affected only 231 million dollars' worth of products in the second half of 1930, significantly less than 1 percent of world trade; that in 1930-32 duty-free imports into the United States dropped at virtually the same percentage rate as dutiable imports; and that a 13.5 percent drop in GNP in 1930 can hardly be blamed on a single piece of legislation that was not even enacted until midyear.

This, of course, is not to suggest that high tariffs are good or that Smoot-Hawley was a wise piece of legislation. It was not. But it was also clearly not responsible for all the ills of the 1930's that are habitually blamed on it by those who fancy themselves defenders of free trade. While I believe this study does have some policy implications, which I may want to discuss at some future time, one of the most useful things it may do is help us all clean up our rhetoric and reflect a more sophisticated—and accurate—view of economic history.

Mr. President, I ask that the study, by Don Bedell of Bedell Associates, be printed in the RECORD.

The study follows:

BEDELL ASSOCIATES,

Palm Desert, Calif., April 1983

TARIFFS MISCAST AS VILLAIN IN BEARING BLAME FOR GREAT DEPRESSION—SMOOT/HAWLEY EXONERATED

(By Donald W. Bedell)

SMOOT/HAWLEY, DEPRESSION AND WORLD REVOLUTION

It has recently become fashionable for media reporters, editorial writers here and abroad, economists, Members of Congress, members of foreign governments, UN organizations and a wide variety of scholars to express the conviction that the United States, by the single act of causing the Tariff Act of 1930 to become law (Public Law 361 of the 71st Congress) plunged the world into an economic depression, may well have prolonged it, led to Hitler and World War II.

Smoot/Hawley lifted import tariffs into the U.S. for a cross section of products beginning mid-year 1930, or more than 8 months following the 1929 financial collapse. Many observers are tempted simply repeat "free trade" economic doctrine by claiming that this relatively insignificant statute contained an inherent trigger mechanism which upset a neatly functioning world trading system based squarely on the theory of comparative economics, and which propelled the world into a cataclysm of unmeasurable proportions.

We believe that sound policy development in international trade must be based solidly on facts as opposed to suspicious, political or national bias, or "off-the-cuff" impressions 50 to 60 years later of how certain events may have occurred.

When pertinent economic, statistical and trade data are carefully examined will they show, on the basis of preponderance of fact, that passage of the Act did in fact trigger or prolong the Great Depression of the Thirties, that it had nothing to do with the Great Depression, or that it represented a minor response of a desperate nation to a giant world-wide economic collapse already underway?

It should be recalled that by the time Smoot/Hawley was passed 6 months had elapsed of 1930 and 8 months had gone by since the economic collapse in October, 1929. Manufacturing plants were already absorbing losses, agriculture surpluses began to accumulate, the spectre of homes being foreclosed appeared, and unemployment showed ominous signs of a precipitous rise.

The country was stunned, as was the rest of the world. All nations sought very elusive solutions. Even by 1932, and the Roosevelt election, improvisation and experiment described government response and the technique of the New Deal, in the words of Arthur Schlesinger, Jr. in a New York Times article on April 10, 1983. President Roosevelt himself is quoted in the article as saying in the 1932 campaign, "It is common sense to take a method and try it. If it fails, admit it frankly and try another. But above all, try something."

The facts are that, rightly or wrongly, there were no major Roosevelt Administration initiatives regarding foreign trade until well into his Administration; thus clearly suggesting that initiatives in that sector were not thought to be any more important than the Hoover Administration thought them. However, when all the numbers are examined we believe neither. President Hoover nor President Roosevelt can be faulted for placing international trade's role in world economy near the end of a long list of sectors of the economy that had caused chaos and suffering and therefore needed major corrective legislation.

How important was international trade to the U.S.? How important was U.S. trade to its partners in the Twenties and Thirties?

In 1919, 66% of U.S. imports were duty free, or $2.9 Billion of a total of $4.3 Billion. Exports amounted to $5.2 Billion in that year making a total trade number of $9.6 Billion or about 14% of the world's total. See Chart I below.

CHART I.—U.S. GROSS NATIONAL PRODUCT, 1929–33
(Dollar amounts in billions)

	1929	1930	1931	1932	1933
GNP	$103.4	$89.5	$76.3	$56.8	$55.4
U.S. international trade ...	$9.6	$6.8	$4.5	$2.9	$3.2
U.S. international trade percent of GNP	3.3	7.6	5.9	5.1	5.6 ¹

¹Series U, Department of Commerce of the United States, Bureau of Economic Analysis.

Using the numbers in that same Chart I it can be seen that U.S. imports amounted to $4.3 Billion or just slightly above 12% of total world trade. When account is taken of the fact that only 33%, or $1.5 Billion, of U.S. imports was in the Dutiable category, the entire impact of Smoot/Hawley has to be focused on the $1.5 Billion number which is barely 1.5% of U.S. GNP and 4% of world imports.

What was the impact? In dollars Dutiable imports fell by $462 Million, or from $1.5 Billion to $1.0 Billion, during 1930. It's difficult to determine how much of that small number occurred in the second half of 1930 but the probability is that it was less than 50%. In any case, the total impact of Smoot/Hawley in 1930 was limited to a "damage" number of $231 Million; spread over several hundred products and several hundred countries.

A further analysis of imports into the U.S. discloses that all European countries accounted for 30% or $1.3 Billion in 1929 divided as follows: U.K. at $330 Million or 7½%, France at $171 Million or 3.9%, Germany at $255 Million or 5.9%, and some 15 other nations accounting for $578 Million or 13.1% for an average of 1%.

These numbers suggest that U.S. imports were spread broadly over a great array of products and countries, so that any tariff action would by definition have only a quite modest impact in any given year or could be projected to have any important cumulative effect.

This same phenomenon is apparent for Asian countries which accounted for 29% of U.S. imports divided as follows: China at 3.8%, Japan at $432 Million and 9.8% and with some 20 other countries sharing in 15% or less than 1% on average.

Australia's share was 1.3% and all African countries sold 2.5% of U.S. imports.

Western Hemisphere countries provided some 37% of U.S. imports with Canada at 11.4%, Cuba at 4.7%, Mexico at 2.7%, Brazil at 4.7% and all others accounting for 13.3% or about 1% each.

The conclusion appears inescapable on the basis of these numbers; a potential adverse impact of $231 Million spread over the great array of imported products which were available in 1929 could not realistically have had any measurable impact on America's trading partners.

Meanwhile, the Gross National Product (GNP) in the United States had dropped an unprecedented 13.5% in 1930 alone, from $103.4 Billion in 1929 to $89 Billion by the end of 1930. It is unrealistic to expect that a shift in U.S. international imports of just 1.6% of U.S. GNP in 1930, for example ($231 Million or $14.4 Billion) could be viewed as establishing a "precedent" for America's trading partners to follow, or represented a "model" to follow.

Even more to the point an impact of just 1.6% could not reasonably be expected to have any measurable effect on the economic health of America's trading partners.

Note should be taken of the claim by those who repeat the Smoot/Hawley "villain" theory that it set off a "chain" reaction around the world. While there is some evidence that certain of America's trading partners retaliated against the U.S. there can be no reliance placed on the assertion that those same trading partners retaliated against each other by way of showing anger and frustration with the U.S. Self-interest alone would dictate otherwise, common sense would intercede on the side of avoidance of "shooting oneself in the foot," and the facts disclose that world trade declined by 18% by the end of 1930 while U.S. trade declined by some 10% more or 28%. U.S. foreign trade continued to decline by 10% more through 1931, or 53% versus 43% for worldwide trade, but U.S. share of world trade declined by only 18% from 14% to 11.3% by the end of 1931.

Reference was made earlier to the Duty Free category of U.S. imports. What is especially significant about those import numbers is the fact that they dropped in dollars by an almost identical percentage as did Dutiable goods through 1931 and beyond: Duty Free imports declined by 29% in 1930 versus 27% for Dutiable goods, and by the end of 1931 the numbers were 52% versus 51% respectively.

The only rational explanation for this phenomenon is that Americans were buying less and prices were falling. No basis exists for any claim that Smoot/Hawley had a distinctively devastating effect on imports beyond and separate from the economic impact of the economic collapse in 1929.

Based on the numbers examined so far, Smoot/Hawley is clearly a mis-cast villain. Further, the numbers suggest the clear possibility that when compared to the enormity of the developing international economic crisis Smoot/Hawley had only a minimal impact and international trade was a victim of the Great Depression.

This possibility will become clear when the course of the Gross National Product (GNP) during 1929–1933 is examined and when price behaviour world-wide is reviewed, and when particular Tariff Schedules of Manufacturers outlined in the legislation are analyzed.

Before getting to that point another curious aspect of the "villain" theory is worthy of note. Without careful recollection it is tempting to view a period of our history some 50–60 years ago in terms of our present world. Such a superficial view not only makes no contribution to constructive policy-making. It overlooks several vital considerations which characterized the Twenties and Thirties:

1. The international trading system of the Twenties bears no relation to the interdependent world of the Eighties commercially, industrially and financially in size or complexity.

2. No effective international organization existed, similar to the General Agreement for Tariffs and Trade (GATT) for example for resolution of disputes. There were no trade "leaders" among the world's nations in part because most mercantile nations felt more comfortable without dispute settlement bodies.

3. Except for a few critical products foreign trade was not generally viewed in the "economy-critical" context as currently in the U.S. As indicated earlier neither President Hoover nor President Roosevelt viewed foreign trade as crucial to the economy in general or recovery in particular.

4. U.S. foreign trade was relatively an amorphous phenomenon quite unlike the highly structured system of the Eighties; characterized largely then by "caveat emptor" and a broadly laissez-faire philosophy generally unacceptable presently.

These characteristics, together with the fact that 66 percent of U.S. imports were Duty Free in 1929 and beyond, placed overall international trade for Americans in the Twenties and Thirties on a very low level of priority especially against the backdrop of world-wide depression. Americans in the Twenties and Thirties could no more visualize the world of the Eighties than we in the Eighties can legitimately hold them responsible for failure by viewing their world in other than the most pragmatic and realistic way given those circumstances.

For those Americans then, and for us now, the numbers remain the same. On the basis of sheer order of magnitude of the numbers illustrated so far, the "villain" theory often attributed to Smoot/Hawley is an incorrect reading of history and a misunderstanding of the basic and incontrovertible law of cause and effect.

It should also now be recalled that, despite heroic efforts by U.S. policy-makers its GNP continued to slump year-by-year and reached a total of just $55.4 billion in 1933 for a total decline from 1929 levels of 46 percent. The financial collapse of October, 1929 had indeed left its mark.

By 1933 the 1929 collapse had prompted formation in the U.S. of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, Federal Home Loan Bank Board, brought in a Democrat President with a program to take control of banking, provide credit to property owners and corporations in financial difficulties, relief to farmers, regulation and stimulation of business, new labor laws and social security legislation.¹

So concerned were American citizens about domestic economic affairs, including the Roosevelt Administration and the Congress, that scant attention was paid to the solitary figure of Secretary of State Cordell Hull. He, alone among the Cabinet, was convinced that international trade had material relevance to lifting the country back from depression. His efforts to liberalize trade in general and to find markets abroad for U.S. products in particular from among representatives of economically stricken Europe, Asia and Latin America were abruptly ended by the President and the 1933 London Economic Conference collapsed without result.

The Secretary did manage to make modest contributions to eventual trade recovery through the Most Favored Nation (MFN) concept. But it would be left for the United States at the end of World War II to undertake an economic and political role of leadership in the world; a role which in the Twenties and Thirties Americans in and out of government felt no need to assume, and did not assume. Evidence that conditions in the trade world would have been better, or even different, had the U.S. attempted some leadership role cannot responsibly be assembled. Changing the course of past history has always been less fruitful than applying perceptively history's lessons.

The most frequently used members thrown out about Smoot/Hawley's impact by those who believe in the "villain" theory are those which clearly establish that U.S. dollar decline in foreign trade plummeted by 66 percent by the end of 1933 from 1929 levels, $9.6 billion to $3.2 billion annually.

Much is made of the co-incidence that world-wide trade also sank about 66 percent for the period. Chart II summarizes the numbers.

The inference is that since Smoot/Hawley was the first "protectionist" legislation of the Twenties, and the end of 1933 saw an equal drop in trade that Smoot/Hawley must have caused it. Even the data already presented suggest the relative irrelevance of the tariff-raising Act on a strictly trade numbers basis. When we examine the role of a world-wide price decline in the trade figures for almost every product made or commodity grown the "villain" Smoot/Hawley's impact will not be measurable.

It may be relevant to note here that the world's trading "system" paid as little attention to America's revival of foreign trade beginning in 1934 as it did to American trade policy in the early Thirties. From 1934 through 1939 U.S. foreign trade rose in dollars by 80% compared to world-wide growth of 15%. Imports grew by 68% and exports climbed by a stunning 93%. U.S. GNP by 1939 had developed to $91 billion, to within 88% of its 1929 level.

Perhaps this suggests that America's trading partners were more vulnerable to an economic collapse and thus much less resilient than was the U.S. In any case the international trade decline beginning as a result of the 1929 economic collapse, and the subsequent return by the U.S. beginning in 1934 appear clearly to have been wholly unrelated to Smoot/Hawley.

As we begin to analyze certain specific Schedules appearing in the Tariff Act of 1930 it should be noted that sharp erosion of prices world-wide caused dollar volumes in trade statistics to drop rather more than unit-volume thus emphasizing the decline value. In addition, it must be remembered that as the Great Depression wore on, people simply bought less of everything increasing further price pressure downward. All this wholly apart from Smoot/Hawley.

When considering specific Schedules, No. 5 which includes Sugar, Molasses, and Manufactures Of, maple sugar cane, sirups, adonite, dulcite, galactose, inulin, lactose and sugar candy. Between 1929 and 1933 import volume into the U.S. declined by about 40% in dollars. In price on a world basis producers suffered a stunning 60% drop. Volume of sugar imports declined by only 42% into the U.S. in tons. All these changes lend no credibility to the "villain" theory unless one assumes, erroneously, that the world price of sugar was so delicately balanced that a 28% drop in sugar imports by tons into the U.S. in 1930 destroyed the price structure and that the decline was caused by tariffs and not at least shared by decreased purchases by consumers in the U.S. and around the world.

Schedule 4 describes Wood and Manufactures Of, timber hewn, maple, brier root, cedar from Spain, wood veneer, hubs for wheels, casks, boxes, reed and rattan, tooth-picks, porch furniture, blinds and clothes pins among a great variety of product categories. Dollar imports into the U.S. slipped by 52% from 1929 to 1933. By applying our own GNP as a reasonable index of prices both at home and overseas, unit volume decreased only 6% since GNP had dropped by 46% in 1933. The world-wide price decline did not help profitability of wood product makers, but to tie that modest decline in volume to a law affecting only 6½% of U.S. imports in 1929 puts great stress on credibility, in terms of harm done to any one country or group of countries.

Schedule 9, Cotton Manufactures, a decline of 54% in dollars is registered for the period, against a drop of 46% in price as reflected in the GNP number. On the assumption that U.S. GNP constituted a rough comparison to world prices, and the fact that U.S. imports of these products was infinitesimal, Smoot/Hawley was irrelevant. Further, the price of raw cotton in the world plunged 50% from 1929 to 1933. U.S. growers had to suffer the consequences of that low price but the price itself was set by world market prices, and was totally unaffected by any tariff action by the U.S.

Schedule 12 deals with Silk Manufactures, a category which decreased by some 60% in dollars. While the decrease amounted to 14% more than the GNP drop, volume of product remained nearly the same during the period. Assigning responsibility to Smoot/Hawley for this very large decrease in price beginning in 1930 stretches credibility beyond the breaking point.

Several additional examples of price behaviour are relevant.

One is Schedule 2 products which include brick and tile. Another is Schedule 3 iron and steel products. One outstanding casualty of the financial collapse in October, 1929 was the Gross Private Investment number. From $16.2 Billion annually in 1939 by 1933 it has fallen by 91% to just $1.4 Billion. No tariff policy, in all candor, could have so devastated an industry as did the economic collapse of 1929. For all intents and purposes construction came to a halt and markets for glass, brick and steel products with it.

Another example of price degradation world-wide completely unrelated to tariff policy is Petroleum products. By 1933 these products had decreased in world price by 82% but Smoot/Hawley had no Petroleum Schedule. The world market place set the price.

Another example of price erosion in world market is contained in the history of exported cotton goods from the United States. Between 1929 and 1933 the volume of exported goods actually increased by 13.5% while the dollar value dropped 48%. This result was wholly unrelated to the tariff policy of any country.

While these examples do not include all Schedules of Smoot/Hawley they clearly suggest that overwhelming economic and financial forces were at work affecting supply and demand and hence on prices of all products and commodities and that these forces simply obscured any measurable impact the Tariff Act of 1930 might possibly have had under conditions of several years earlier.

To assert otherwise puts on those proponents of the Smoot/Hawley "villain" theory a formidable challenge to explain the following questions:

1. What was the nature of the "trigger" mechanism in the Act that set off the alleged domino phenomenon in 1930 that began or prolonged the Great Depression when implementation of the Act did not begin until mid-year?

2. In what ways was the size and nature of U.S. foreign trade in 1929 so significant and critical to the world economy's health that a less than 4% swing in U.S. imports could be termed a crushing and devastating blow?

3. On the basis of what economic theory can the Act be said to have caused a GNP drop of an astounding drop of 13.5% in 1930 when the Act was only passed in mid-1930? Did the entire decline take place in the second half of 1930? Did world-wide trade begin its decline of some $13 Billion only in the second half of 1930?

4. Does the fact that duty free imports into the U.S. dropped in 1930 and 1931 and in 1932 at the same percentage rate as dutiable imports support the view that Smoot/Hawley was the cause of the decline in U.S. imports?

4. Is the fact that world wide trade declined less rapidly than did U.S. foreign trade prove the assertion that American trading partners retaliated against each other as well as against the U.S. because and subsequently held the U.S. accountable for starting an international trade war?

5. Was the international trading system of the Twenties so delicately balanced that a single hastily drawn tariff increase bill affecting just $231 Million of dutiable products in the second half of 1930 began a chain reaction that scuttled the entire system? Percentage-wise $231 Million is but 0.65% of all of 1929 world-wide trade and just half that of world-wide imports.

The preponderance of history and facts of economic life in the international area make an affirmative response by the "villain" proponents an intolerable burden.

It must be said that the U.S. does offer a tempting target for Americans who incessantly cry "mea culpa" over all the world's problems, and for many among our trading partners to explain their problems in terms of perceived American inability to solve those problems.

In the world of the Eighties U.S. has indeed very serious and perhaps grave responsibility to assume leadership in international trade and finance, and in politics as well.

On the record, the United States has met that challenge beginning shortly after World War II.

The U.S. role in structuring the United Nations, the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT), the International Monetary Fund, the Bretton Woods and Dumbarton Oaks Conference on monetary policy, the World Bank and various Regional Development Banks, for example, is a record unparalleled in the history of mankind.

But in the Twenties and Thirties there was no acknowledged leader in International affairs. On the contrary, evidence abounds that most nations preferred the centuries-old patterns of international trade which emphasized pure competition free from interference by any effective international supervisory body such as GATT.

Even in the Eighties examples abound of trading nations succumbing to nationalistic tendencies and ignoring signed trade agreements. Yet the United States continues as the bulwark in trade liberalization proposals within the GATT. It does so not because it could not defend itself against any kind of retaliation in a worst case scenario but because no other nation is strong enough to support them successfully without the United States.

The basic rules of GATT are primarily for all those countries who can't protect themselves in the world of the Eighties and beyond without rule of conduct and discipline.

The attempt to assign responsibility to the U.S. in the Thirties for passing the Smoot-Hawley tariff act and thus set off a chain reaction of international depression and war is, on the basis of a preponderance of fact, a serious mis-reading of history, a repeal of the basic concept of cause and effect and a disregard for the principle of proportion of numbers.

It may constitute a fascinating theory for political mischief-making but it is a cruel hoax on all those responsible for developing new and imaginative measures designed to liberalize international trade.

Such constructive development and growth is severely impeded by perpetuating what is no more than a symbolic economic myth.

Nothing is less worthwhile than attempting to re-write history, not learning from it. Nothing is more worthwhile than making careful and perceptive and objective analysis in the hope that it may lead to an improved and liberalized international trading system.

Mr. HOLLINGS. One, Smoot-Hawley, Mr. President, was passed 8 months after the crash. It could not have caused the crash we had that occurred in 1929. Smoot-Hawley was June 1930.

It only affected one-third of the trade. As is stated here, Alan William Wolff, in "Improving United States Trade Policy," "Smoot-Hawley was only half of that which had been put into effect by the Fordney-McCumber Tariff Act of 1922. Even after enactment of Smoot-Hawley, two-thirds of all U.S. imports, in value, entered the United States duty-free."

A statement, also, by the distinguished professor of economics at MIT, Paul Krugman, who just recently had an article, and we will get to that—I did not realize this was coming up—in the London Economist relative to monetary policy. He stated, in "The Age of Diminished Expectations," "In popular arguments against protectionism, the usual warning is that protectionism threatens our jobs—the Smoot-Hawley tariff of 1931, we are told, caused the Depression, and history can repeat itself."

The claim that protectionism caused the Depression is nonsense; the claim that future protectionism will lead to a repeat performance is equally nonsensical.

Now, Mr. President, within 3 years in 1933 we had a plus balance of trade. Trade at that time was only about 1 percent of our GNP. It is up to about 17 percent to 18 percent. It was not a factor, really, but that is the false history that these politicians run around and they will call the Senator from North Dakota "Smoot," and they will call the Senator from South Carolina "Hawley." There they are on the floor again. They are trying to get in protectionism and start a depression.

Mr. President, when they get to trade deficits, I have another article that we want to have printed in the RECORD, because they all talk, "exports, exports, exports." They never want to talk about imports.

I want to have printed in the RECORD the merchandise trade deficits since 1979, and I ask unanimous consent to have it printed in the RECORD at this point.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

Merchandise trade deficit since 1979

	Billion
1979	$27.6
1980	25.5
1981	28.0
1982	36.0
1983	67.1
1984	112.5
1985	122.2
1986	145.1
1987	159.6
1988	127.0
1989	115.0
1990	109.0
1991	73.8
1992	96.1
1993	132.6
1994	166.1
1995	174

Mr. HOLLINGS. Mr. President, it shows we lost 1.5 trillion bucks in deficits. That means more imports than exports. I could get into the argument about exports creating 20,000 jobs. The Department of Commerce finally revised that just 6 weeks ago. It is only 14,000 jobs. The exports are not the reason.

I am quoting from Business Week, September 2, just 8 days ago:

Indeed, exports are not the reason for the second quarter deterioration in the trade deficit. That blame goes to imports. Exports dipped 0.3 percent in June to $69.7 billion, but much of the decline reflected a drop in the volatile aircraft shipments. For the quarter, total exports rose at a 7.3 percent annual rate, up from 2.6 percent in the first quarter.

So far, the dollar's recent strength has not forced exporters to raise prices. Export prices fell 0.5 percent in July and, excluding farm products and the soaring cost of grain prices, are down 1.6 percent from a year ago. That plus improving economies in Mexico and Canada should continue to lift exports in coming months.

The story for imports is much less encouraging for growth. Despite a 3.3 percent drop in imports in June, goods and services from abroad in the second quarter still soared at a 13.9 percent annual rate, up from an already rapid 11.7 percent gain in the first.

Rather than get into the whole article, every time I get to this particular part of the debate they all want to talk exports, exports, and that is more or less like the octopus squirting oil on the troubled waters and escaping in its own dark mist. Exports are not our problem; they are our opportunity, and we have every office in the Lord's world working with exports. I work with the Export Council and gave out the awards in my own backyard just this past month. But the truth is that it is imports and it is the deficit of $1.5 trillion in the last 12 to 13 years.

Now, Mr. President, the competition, that is what we really want to talk about. The competition is our sales. I remember these folks coming to me in the early days now that we have been in this game for at least 35 years, and the export job creation myth—I use a figure in the debate I got from the Department of Commerce of 41 percent back in 1978, 41 percent of the imports in the United States were U.S. companies that moved their manufacturing offshore, and bringing it back in, the finished product. It was 41 percent then, and since that there has been a deluge. But if you go over there, they give you the 41 percent.

I have been like a detective trying to get the truth out of that crowd, but they are controlled. They are controlled on this particular score, particularly when you make these joint ventures. You cannot go into China. You cannot go into Japan. You cannot go into Indonesia unless you make a joint venture, and that part you have 49 and they have 50 percent, and that part of your manufacturing, the 49 percent, is not counted in the figures. That is why we do not realize how we have gone from some 26 percent in manufacturing 10 years ago down to 13 percent.

However, 50 percent of the U.S. exports come from 100 companies, 80 percent from 250 companies, a very small part. Our distinguished colleague from North Dakota is talking about small business. These are the same companies, now, that have been the largest downsizers.

Did you hear that right? Those are the ones who were talking about downsizing. General Electric in 1985 had 243,000 jobs; in 1995, they are down to 150,000. IBM shaved 132,000 jobs in the last 10 years; it now employs more people abroad than at home. Abroad is 116,000. We have a foreign company—Mr. President, IBM is not a United States company any longer. They have more workers overseas, 116,000 and 111,000 here. Intel reduced U.S. employment last year 22,000, down to 17,000. General Motors in 1985 had 559,000 and are down to 314,000 last year.

I asked unanimous consent to have printed in the RECORD at this point another emphasis on this measure, and that is by William Greider on August 8, 1996, in the Rolling Stone, "How the taxpayer-funded Export-Import Bank helps ship the jobs overseas."

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

THE EX-IM FILES

HOW THE TAXPAYER-FUNDED EXPORT-IMPORT BANK HELPS SHIP JOBS OVERSEAS (By William Greider)

WASHINGTON, D.C.—As the Nation's salesman in chief, Bill Clinton looks like a smashing success. When Clinton came to office, his long-term strategy for restoring American prosperity had many facets, but the core of the plan could be summarized in one word: exports. The U.S. economy would boom or stagnate, it was assumed, depending on how American goods fared in global markets. So the president mobilized the government in pursuit of sales.

Flying squads of Cabinet officers, sometimes accompanied by corporate CEOs, were dispatched to forage for buyers in foreign capitals from Beijing to Jakarta. The Commerce Department targeted 10 nations—India, Mexico and Brazil among them—as the "big emerging markets." Trade negotiators hammered on Japan and China to buy more American stuff. And two new agreements were completed—GATT and NAFTA—to reduce foreign tariffs.

U.S. industrial exports have soared in the Clinton years, from $396 billion during the recessionary trough of 1992 to around $520 billion last year. And as this administration has said time and again, more exports means more jobs—usually good jobs with higher wages. In his fierce commitment to trade, Clinton is not much different from Ronald Reagan, who (notwithstanding his laissez-faire pretensions) also played hardball on trade deals and, in some cases, intervened with more effective results. George Bush, too, bargained on behalf of corporate interests and played globe-trotting salesman. Promoting exports and foreign investment is not a new idea; it has enjoyed a bipartisan political consensus for decades.

What does seem to be new in American politics are the thickening doubts among citizens and a rising chorus of critics, informed and uninformed, who question Washington's assumptions about exports. The conventional strategy, the critics argue, may help the multinational companies turn profits, but does it really serve American workers and the broad public interest? The new realities of globalized production play havoc with the old logic of exports-equal-jobs. Sometimes it is the jobs that are exported, too.

This contradiction, usually covered up with platitudes and doublespeak in political debate, becomes powerfully clear when you look closely at the dealings of an obscure federal agency located just across Lafayette Park from the White House: the U.S. Export-Import Bank with only 440 civil servants and a budget of less than $1 billion—small change as Washington bureaucracies go.

Yet America's most important multinational corporations devote solicitous attention to the Ex-Im Bank. Their lobbyists shepherd its appropriation through Congress every year and defend the agency against occasional attacks. Why? The Ex-Im Bank provides U.S. corporations with hundreds of millions of dollars each year in financial grease that smooths their trade deals in the new global economy.

This year, Ex-Im will pump our $744 million in taxpayer subsidies to America's export producers, financing the below-market loans and loan guarantees that help U.S. companies sell aircraft, telecommunications equipment, electric power turbines and other products—sometimes even entire factories—to foreign markets. Since the biggest subsidies always go to the largest corporations, skeptics in Congress sometimes refer to Ex-Im as the Bank of Boeing. It might as well be called the Bank of General Electric—or AT&T, IBM, Caterpillar or other leading producers. Ex-Im's senior officers call these firms "the customers."

But the banker-bureaucrats at Ex-Im see their main mission as fostering American employment. "Our motto is, Jobs through exports," says James C. Cruse, vice president for policy planning. "Exports are not the end in itself, so we don't care about the company and the company profits." That was indeed the purpose when the bank was chartered as a federal agency back in 1945 and the reason it has always enjoyed broad support, including that of organized labor.

At this moment, the tiny agency is under intense pressure from influential U.S. multinationals to change the rules of the game. Specifically, the companies want taxpayer money to subsidize the sale of products that aren't actually manufactured in America. They want subsidies for products that are not really U.S. exports, since companies ship them from their factories abroad to buyers in other foreign countries. If the rules aren't changed, the exporters warn, they will lose major deals in the fierce global competition and may be compelled to move still more of their production offshore.

"Global competitiveness, multinational sourcing and the deindustrialization of the U.S." wrote Cruse in a policy memo for the bank, "were the three most common factors that exporters cited as reasons to revise Ex-Im Bank's foreign content policy. . . . U.S. companies need multisourcing to be able to compete with foreign companies. Foreign buyers are becoming more sophisticated and they are expressing certain preferences for a particular item to be sourced foreign . . . [and] U.S. suppliers may not always exist for a particular good."

In plainer language, foreign is usually cheaper—often because the wages are much lower—and sometimes better. As U.S. producers have begun to buy more hardware and machinery overseas, the capacity to make the same components in the United States has diminished or even disappeared. What the companies want in Cruse's bureaucratic parlance, is "broadly based support for foreign-sourced components."

As the complaints from American firms swelled in the last few years, Ex-Im officials agreed to convene the Foreign Content Policy Review Group to explore how the U.S. financing rules might be relaxed. The review group's members include 11 major exporters (General Electric, AT&T, Boeing, Caterpillar, Raytheon, McDonnell Douglas and others) plus several labor representatives from the AFL-CIO and the machinists' and textile-workers' unions.

The Ex-Im Bank must decide who wins and who loses—a fundamental argument over what is in the national interest, give globalized business. The review group discussions are couched in polite police talk, but they speak directly to the economic anxieties of Americans. If young workers worried about their livelihood could hear what these powerful American companies are saying in private, there would be many more sleepless nights in manufacturing towns across this Nation. The information below is taken from confidential Ex-Im Bank members that were recently leaked to me. What these executives have to say is not reassuring, but it's at least a more accurate vision of the future than anything you are likely to hear from this year's political candidates.

A decade ago the rule was simple: Ex-Im would not underwrite any trade package that was not 100 percent U.S.-made. Then and now Ex-Im scrutinizes the content of very large export projects, item by item, to establish the national origin of subcomponents. Any subcomponents produced offshore must be shipped back to American factories to be incorporated into the final assembly. If Caterpillar sells 10 earthmoving machines to Indonesia all 10 of them have to come out of a U.S. factory to get a U.S. subsidy, even if the axles or engines were made abroad.

By the late 1980s, however, as major manufacturers pursued globalization strategies that moved more of their production offshore. Ex-Im, with labor approval opened the door. In 1987 it agreed to finance deals with 15 percent foreign inside content. Partial financing would also be provided for export deals that involved at least 50 percent U.S. content.

Now the multinationals are back at the table again, demanding still more latitude. The bank's rules, they complain, have created a bureaucratic snarl that threatens U.S. sales. These regulations are oblivious to the complexities of modern trade which multinationals routinely "export" and "import" huge volumes of goods internally—that is among their own fur-flung subsidiaries or foreign joint ventures.

The flavor of the company complaints is revealed in Ex-Im Bank minutes of the review group's first meeting last year, where various company managers sounded off about the new global realities. David Wallbaum, from Caterpillar, urged the bank to be "more flexible in supporting foreign content," according to the minutes. General Electric's Selig S. Merber said GE needs "access [to] worldwide pricing." Merber proposed that instead of insisting on American content item by item, Ex-Im look only at the U.S. aggregate.

Lisa DeSoto of Fluor Daniel, one of America's largest construction engineering firms, suggested in a follow-up memo that Ex-Im subsidize "procurement from the NAFTA countries," Mexico and Canada as if the goods were from the U.S.

But it was Angel Torres, a representative for AT&T, who spoke more bluntly than the others, AT&T's foreign content has grown in the last 10 years because the U.S. is becoming a "service-oriented society," Torres said, according to the minutes. "AT&T's priority," he declared, "is to increase the allowable percentage of foreign content."

When I rang up these corporate managers and some others to ask them to elaborate on their views, all of them ducked my questions. The one exception was David L. Thornton, a manager from Boeing, whose newest jetliner, the 777, actually involves 30 percent foreign content in the manufacturing process (mostly from Japan). It still qualifies for full Ex-Im financing. Thornton explained, because Boeing's original investment in research and development also counts in the sales price. "Our general view of 75 percent is we can live with it for the time being," Thornton said, "but over time it probably won't be adequate."

The labor-union representatives, not surprisingly, choked at the ominous implications of such comments—especially the matter-of-fact references to America's de-industrialization. Corporate leaders and politicians, after all, have been celebrating the "comeback" of American manufacturing in the 1990s. Exports are booming, and U.S. competitiveness has supposedly been restored, thanks to the corporate restructurings and downsizings. Stock prices are rising, and shareholders are happy again.

The private corporate view is not so cheery for the employees. A memo from one multinational corporation (its identity whited-out by Ex-Im bureaucrats) made it sound like the demise of American manufacturing is already inevitable. "We believe the current policy does not reflect the de-industrialization of the U.S. economy and the rise of the Western European and Asian capabilities to produce high-tech quality equipment . . ." the memo states. "Location is no longer important in the competitive equation, and where the suppliers of components will be [is] wherever the competitive advantage lies."

The more that labor heard from the companies, the more hostile it became to any revision. "We have been presented with no credible evidence that current bank policies have cost companies sales, thereby reducing U.S. employment," the labor representatives fired back in a jointly signed letter in April. "While we understand that global corporations might prefer fewer restrictions—even the provision of financing regardless of the effect on jobs in the United States—that desire simply ignores the very purpose of extending taxpayer-based credit."

If Ex-Im agrees to finance more foreign content, the labor reps asked, won't that simply encourage the multinationals to move still more U.S. jobs overseas, thus accelerating deindustrialization? When I put this question to Ex-Im officials and corporate spokesmen, their answer was a limp assurance that this isn't what the bank or the companies have in mind.

But can anyone trust these assurances? The massive corporate layoffs have sown general suspicions of the companies' national loyalties, and the "outsourcing" of high-wage jobs has already boiled up as a strike issue in major labor-management confrontations. The United Auto Workers shut down General Motors earlier this year over that question. The UAW lost a long, bitter strike at Caterpillar when it demanded wage cutbacks, threatening to relocate production if the union didn't yield. The International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers closed down Boeing's assembly lines for two months last fall, demanding a stronger guarantee of job security as Boeing globalizes more of its supplier base.

"Ex-Im financing is corporate welfare with a fig leaf of U.S. jobs, and now they want to take away the fig leaf," says Mark A. Anderson, director of the AFL task force on trade. "They want to be able to ship stuff from Indonesia to China and use U.S. financing. I said to them, 'You're nuts. If you go ahead with this, you're going to be eaten alive in Congress.'"

George J. Kourpiss, president of the machinists' union whose members make aircraft at Boeing and McDonnell Douglas, and jet engines at GE and Pratt & Whitney, put it more starkly: "The American people aren't financing that bank to take work away from us. If the foreign content gets bigger, then we're using the bank to destroy ourselves."

EXPORTS—JOBS

According to the government's dubious rule of thumb, each $1 billion in new exports generates 16,000 jobs. By that measure, Bill Clinton's traveling salesmen brought home 2 million good jobs. So why is there not greater celebration? The first, most-obvious explanation is imports. Foreign imports soared, too, albeit at a slower rate of growth, and so America's trade deficit with other nations actually doubled in size under Clinton, despite his aggressive corporate strategy. Thus a critic might apply the government's own equation to Clinton's trade deficit and argue that there was actually a net loss of 11 million good jobs.

Bickering over the trade arithmetic, however, does not get to the heart of what's happening and what really bothers people: the specter of continued downsizing among the nation's leading industrial firms. In fact, globalization has created a disturbing anomaly. U.S. exports multiply robustly, yet meanwhile the largest multinationals that do most of the exporting are shrinking dramatically as employers. It's important to note that about half of U.S. manufacturing exports comes from only 100 companies, and 80 percent from some 250 firms, according to Ex-Im's executive vice president, Allan I. Mendelowitz. The top 15 exporters—names like GM, GE, Boeing, IBM—account for nearly one quarter of all U.S. manufactured exports. Yet these same firms are shedding American employers in alarming dimensions. The 15 largest export producers with few exceptions have steadily reduced their U.S. work forces during the past 10 years—some of them quite drastically—even though their export sales nearly doubled.

GE is a prime example because the company is widely emulated in business circles for its tough-minded corporate strategies. In 1985, GE employed 243,000 Americans and 10 years later, only 150,000. GE became stronger, then Executive Vice President Frank P. Doyle said. But, he conceded. We did a lot of violence to the expectations of the American work force.

So, too, did GM, the top U.S. exporter in dollar volume (though the auto companies are not big users of Ex-Im financing). GM has shrunk in U.S. work force from 559,000 to 314,000. IBM shed more than half of its U.S. workers during the past decade (about 132,000 people). By 1995, Big Blue had become a truly global firm—with more employees abroad than at home (116,000 to 111,000). Even Intel, a thriving semiconductor maker, shrank U.S. employment last year from 22,000 to 17,000. Motorola has grown, but its work force is now only 56 percent American.

The top exporters that increased their U.S. employment didn't begin to offset the losses. The bottom line tells the story. The government's great substitute for America's major multinational corporations has not been reciprocated, at least not for American workers. The contradiction is not quite as stark as the statistics make it appear, because the job shrinkage is more complicated than simply shipping jobs offshore. Some companies eliminated masses of employees both at home and abroad. Others, like Boeing, reduced payrolls primarily because global demand weakened in their sectors. Some jobs were wiped out by labor-saving technologies and reorganizations. But virtually all of these companies offloaded major elements of production to lower-cost independent suppliers, both in the U.S. and overseas. If the jobs did not disappear, the wages were downsized.

This dislocation poses an important question, which American politicians have not addressed. Does the success of America's multinationals translate into general prosperity for the country or merely for the companies and their shareholders? The question is a killer for politicians—liberals and conservatives alike—because it challenges three generations of conventional wisdom. That's why most Democrats or Republicans never ask it.

When these facts are mentioned, the exporters retreat to a few trusty justifications. First there is the "half a loaf" argument. Yes, it is unfortunately true that companies must disperse an increasing share of the production jobs abroad, either to reduce costs or to appease the foreign customers. But if this were not done, there might be no export sales at all and, thus, no jobs for Americans. Next, there is the "me, too" argument. All of the other advanced industrial nations have export banks that provide financing subsidies to their multinationals. The export banks in Europe do allow greater foreign content than the U.S.—but only if the goods originate from an allied nation in the European community. France supports German goods and vice versa, just as Michigan supports California. The U.S. Ex-Im Bank, as Mendelowitz has pointed out, actually provides greater risk protection and generally charges lower premiums.

Japan's Ex-Im bank is indeed more flexible than America's, but Japan's industrial system also operates on a very different principle; major Japanese corporations take responsibility for their employees. That understanding creates a mutual trust that allows both the government and the firms to pursue more sophisticated globalization strategies. Japanese jobs are regularly eliminated when Japan's manufacturing is relocated offshore in Asia or in Europe (and sometimes in the U.S.), but the companies find new jobs for displaced employees and only rarely, reluctantly, lay off anyone.

"The situation that our companies see," Ex-Im's Cruise explains, "is that Japan is willing to finance as much as 50 percent foreign content, and [the companies] say to us, 'You're not competitive.'" But an important difference is that the Japanese government doesn't have to worry about the workers because the Japanese companies worry about them. . . . If GE subcontracts work to Indonesia, it tends to lay off a line of workers back in the U.S."

BAIT AND SWITCH

In April 1994, AT&T announced a $150 trillion joint venture with China's Qingdao Telecommunications to build two new factories, in the Shandong province and in the city of Chengdu, in the Sichuan province, that will manufacture the high-capacity 5ESS switch, the heart of AT&T's advanced telephone systems. AT&T's chairman, Robert Allen, said that it will more than double its Chinese work force over the next two or three years.

Five months later, in September, the Ex-Im Bank in Washington approved the first of $87.6 million in loan guarantees to underwrite AT&T's export sales to China—switching equipment that will modernize the phone systems in Qingdao and several other cities. AT&T won the contract in head-to-head competition with Canada's Northern Telecom, Germany's Siemens and France's Alcatel Alsthom. The Clinton administration celebrated another big win for the home team.

But who actually won in this deal? A Telecom Publishing Group article provided a different version of what AT&T's victory meant for the United States. "While some equipment for AT&T's network projects in China will be built in this country," the article reported, "the Chinese are demanding that eventually the bulk of the equipment in their system be built in their country, the carrier [AT&T] said."

An AT&T public-affairs vice president, Christopher Padilla, denies this, but then Padilla also denies that AT&T is prodding the Ex-Im Bank to relax its foreign-content rules. Further, he assures me that despite their proximity, there was no explicit quid pro quo and no connection between the two transactions, the taxpayer-financed export sales and AT&T's agreement to build new factories in China.

"It's a reality of the marketplace," Padilla says. "If we tried to pursue a strategy of just making everything in Oklahoma City"—where the 5ESS switch is now manufactured—"we wouldn't have any market share at all."

The White House also led cheers for Boeing because Boeing was also stomping its competitors in the Chinese market. In 1994 alone, Boeing sold 21 737s and seven 757s to various Chinese airlines and obtained nearly $1 billion in Ex-Im loans to finance the deals. When President Clinton hailed the news, he did not mention that Boeing had agreed to consign selected elements of its production work to Chinese factories. The state-owned aircraft company at Xian, for instance began making tail sections for the 737, work that is normally done at Boeing's plant in Wichita, Kan. The first order for Xian was for 100 sets, but that was just the beginning. In March 1996, a China news agency boasted that Boeing had agreed to buy 1,500 tail sections from Chinese factories, both for the 737 and the 757. The deal was described as "the biggest contract in the history of China's aviation industry."

Unlike AT&T and some others, Boeing is relatively straightforward about acknowledging that it's trading away jobs and technology for foreign sales. China intends to build its own world-class aircraft industry, and Boeing helps by giving China a piece of the action, relocating high-wage production jobs from America to low-wage China, as well as relocating some elements of the advanced technology that made Boeing the world leader in commercial aircraft. Boeing has told its suppliers to do the same. Northrop Grumman, in Texas, is sharing production of 757 tail sections with Chengdu Aircraft, in China.

"What we've done with China," says Lawrence W. Clarkson, Boeing's vice president for international development, "we've done for the same reason we did it with Japan—to gain market access." The two transactions—the export sales and job transfers—are legally separate but typically negotiated in tandem, Clarkson explains. China always insists upon a written acknowledgement of the job commitment in the export sales contract—the same sale to China submitted to the Ex-Im Bank for its financial assistance.

Until recently, the Ex-Im Bank's operative policy on this issue could be described as "don't ask, don't tell": The bank officials didn't ask the companies if they were offloading jobs, and the companies didn't tell them. When I asked various Ex-Im managers if they knew about AT&T's new switch factories in China before they approved AT&T's export financing their answer was no. What about companies like Boeing doing similar deals?

"Yes, we're aware of that," Cruse says. It's not that the companies tell us, but it's not hard to read the newspapers."

After prodding from labor officials, the bank last year began requiring exports to reveal whether they dispersed U.S. jobs or technology in connection with the Ex-Im-financed sales. But the federal agency still approves these deals without weighing the potential impact on future employment. In fact, Ex-Im still pretends that the export sales and corporate decisions to relocate jobs are unrelated transactions, though every company knows otherwise.

The practice of swapping jobs for sales is widespread in global trade—deals are negotiated in secrecy because such practices ostensibly violate trade rules. But everyone knows the game, and most everyone plays it. If Boeing doesn't swap jobs for Chinese sales, then its European competitor Airbus will. If AT&T doesn't move its switch manufacturing to China, then Siemens or Alcatel will (in fact, Alcatel already has). The cliché at Boeing is "60 percent of something is better than 100 percent of nothing."

The trouble is that nothing may be what many American workers wind up with anyway—especially if China eventually becomes a world-class aircraft producers itself. Officials at the Communications Workers of America, which represents AT&T workers, recall that Ma Bell once made all its home telephones in the U.S. and now makes none here.

Is the same migration under way now for the high-tech switches? The AT&T spokesman insists not. Anyway, he adds the assurance that the most valuable input in these switches is the software, not the hardware from the factories, and the design work is still American. This may reassure the techies, but it's not much comfort to those who work on the assembly lines. Besides, AT&T plans to open a branch of Bell Laboratories in China.

The dilemma facing American multinationals is quite real, but the question remains: Why should American taxpayers subsidize export deals contingent on increased foreign production, or even offloading portions of the American industrial base? Americans are told repeatedly that they cannot exercise any influence over these global firms, but that claim is mistaken. The Ex-Im Bank is an important choke point in the bottom line of these multinationals. Americans should demand that the subsidies be turned off, at least for the largest companies, until the multinationals are willing to provide concrete commitments to their work forces.

The gut issue is not about economics but about national loyalty and mutual trust. "Every meeting we have in the union, we open it with the pledge of allegiance," machinists union president George Kouepias muses, "Maybe the companies should start doing that at their board meetings."

Mr. HOLLINGS. Now, Mr. President, that gives a general feel for the amendment that I cosponsored with the Senator from North Dakota, just a minuscule part, but it will start maybe in the other direction the conscience and the awareness and the understanding of us as Senators about this important particular problem.

We are giving deferrals of $2.2 billion over 7 years to companies using your taxpayer money and my taxpayer money. Talking about the deficit, using our taxpayer money to get them out of the country, to lose the jobs. We have a financial gimmick, the Eximbank; they call it the "bank of Boeing", to, by gosh, move the jobs over there.

Now they have taken over in Europe, and you watch, in China, they are demanding now and they have in the RECORD the particular article that we had about the number of tail assemblies being manufactured for the 27 747 planes ordered by the People's Republic of China. We have now orders over there to manufacture in China over 1,000 planes. So, gradually the value to the economy of these exports is being diminished. We are losing, losing, losing, and we act like we are happy about it, running around here competing with ourselves over 60 percent of exports and imports being U.S.-generated.

I don't blame the Chinese, the Japanese, and all for the ignorance or the lack of awareness on the part of the Government of the United States and its policy. I would ride a free train. I do blame—the agents of influence, Senator. They got 100 Washington law firms, paid $113 million to represent one country—Japan. Do you know what it is for the 100 Senators and the 435 House Members? Mr. President, $71.3 million. The people of Japan, by way of pay, are represented better in Washington than the people of the United States. When are we going to wake up? When are we going to sober up? When are we going to compete? You will get a little flavor of it in an hour when they announce that Vice President fellow, because he will run all over the country and run a touchdown. I am telling you right now you are going to see an "O.J." going around running touchdowns economically when this fellow gets started because he knows the subject.

This is a serious amendment to bring the attention of the U.S. Senate to this all-important problem of losing our standard of living and jobs. Let's quit financing it, let's stop subsidizing it, let's stop bankrolling it, and let's stop using that symbolic nonsense of free trade and protectionism. We have to come here and start protecting our industrial backbone. Your security as a nation is like a three-legged stool. One leg is the values of a nation. We sacrificed to feed the hungry in Somalia. We sacrificed to build democracy in Haiti. We sacrificed to try to build peace in Bosnia. Unquestioned. The second leg, Mr. President, is that of military strength. Unquestioned. The third leg, economic strength, is fractured. Our stool of the United States is about to topple because what we are talking about is family values and homosexual marriages and all kind of them silly things coming around here like we in Congress can control these things, and our duty and responsibility to pay the bill goes wanting. Our duty and responsibility is to develop, in a bipartisan fashion, a competitive trade policy because that is what we are into. Europe is protectionist. They enforce their laws. In 1980, we had a $4 billion deficit in the balance of textile trade, and Europe had it. They enforced their particular trade laws and they are down to less than $1 billion, and we are up to a $36 billion deficit in the balance on textile trade. So the Senator from New Hampshire has to know where his textile industry has gone. I thank the distinguished colleagues. I thank, particularly, the Senator from North Dakota.

I yield the floor.

Mr. KERRY. Mr. President, I am pleased to support the amendment by my colleague, the Senator from North Dakota.

Mr. President, we must balance the budget. We cannot set our sights lower than that goal. Earlier in this session of Congress, I introduced a bill which would cut wasteful and unnecessary spending by $90 billion over 7 years. This spring, I worked with my distinguished colleague from Arizona [Senator McCain], to reduce spending programs, subsidies, and corporate welfare by $60 billion over 6 years. And most recently, I introduced the Family Income and Economic Security Act—a 20-point program to provide education, job, income and retirement security for Americans while eliminating wasteful spending and costly, counterproductive subsidies and giveaways. This provision is an integral part of that 20-point plan.

Mr. President, it is clear that all sectors of our society must contribute to the effort of deficit reduction. That includes the private business sector.

The Dorgan-Kerry amendment would close a noxious loophole in our Tax Code which is costing the American taxpayers $2.2 billion over 7 years. And, Mr. President, what adds insult to injury is the fact the current tax law also encourages domestic manufacturers to move their plants overseas. The Senator from North Dakota is quite correct in calling this loophole the job export subsidy. This is clearly something the American taxpayers and our national economy cannot afford.

This is not just a hypothetical situation. I ask unanimous consent to have printed in the RECORD a compelling article from the Boston Globe which describes the effect of this loophole on Massachusetts companies and their workers.

Mr. President, if we are to remain a competitive Nation, we must do all we can to eliminate our budget deficit, reduce our national debt, maintain robust economic growth, and encourage manufacturers to retain high-wage jobs on our shores. This amendment moves us in that direction and I encourage our colleagues to support it.

I yield the floor.

There being no objection, the article was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

[From the Boston Globe, July 8, 1996]

TAX CODE GIVES COMPANIES A LIFT

(By Aaron Zitner)

WASHINGTON.—When Robert M. Silva's job moved to Singapore two years ago, his company flew him overseas so he could train his replacement. Then the company closed its North Reading factory, laid off Silva and 119 co-workers and began importing from its Asian plant medical products once made in Massachusetts.

Moving jobs to Singapore had obvious advantages for Baxter International Inc. Taxes are low, and Silva's $26,000 salary was far higher than what the company pays his replacement.

But Baxter reaped another reward for moving overseas: a tax break, courtesy of the United States government. In the name of boosting US business, the tax code offers a special benefit to companies that move jobs offshore, a gift also accepted by Massachusetts employers such as Stratus Computer Inc. of Marlborough (500 layoffs last year), Augat Inc. of Mansfield (260 layoffs) and the Shrewsbury division of Quantum Corp. (85 layoffs), among others.

It is one of many tax breaks that ripple perversely through the economy—favoring multinationals over small firms, investors over average taxpayers and foreign workers over those at home.

The federal government gives up about $70 billion each year through corporate tax breaks, enough to cover the IRS bill for every Massachusetts resident two times over. Corporate tax breaks carry a lower political profile than direct subsidies to businesses for programs such as the one that helps McDonald's Corp. sell Chicken McNuggets overseas. But they cost about as much. For a nation trying to balance its budget and pay for social services tax benefits to businesses are a gold mine.

"The tax code is a major source of corporate welfare," says US Rep. Lane Evans, an Illinois Democrat. "Not only that, but we are using our tax dollars in a way that hurts our own economy. It drains our treasury. It forces average Americans to bear a larger share of the tax burden."

The Clinton administration says that closing some tax breaks may force companies to raise prices and lose customers, and therefore pay less taxes. "There are two sides to every part of this," says Leslie Samuels, until recently the Treasury Department's tax policy chief. "If you're thinking that there's hundreds of billions of dollars, it's not there."

Republican lawmakers have actually moved to widen some tax breaks. A 1993 law, for example, narrowed the provision that benefited Baxter International, Stratus and Augat, but a GOP bill scheduled for debate on the Senate floor today would fully restore the loophole.

Other lawmakers and analysts disagree with that approach. At a time when Medicare, Medicaid and other social welfare programs are being curtailed, they say, many tax policies which explicitly benefit corporations cannot be justified. These critics argue:

The US should not give tax breaks for breaking the law. For example, after testing faulty medical products on unwitting hospital patients, C.R. Bard Inc. paid $61 million in penalties in 1993. But the pain was tempered by the tax code, which allowed Bard to take half the fine as a tax deduction.

Tax breaks to boost exports are not worth the cost. Companies naturally will try to sell their products overseas, so export incentives worth at least $7 billion a year are a waste of money.

Too many companies pay no taxes at all. Nearly 60 percent of US-controlled corporations and 74 percent of foreign companies doing business here paid no federal tax in 1991, the last year figures were available. Critics say the US is not tough enough on companies that use illegal accounting maneuvers to shift profits to low-tax nations. The amount lost to the Treasury each year: as much as $40 billion over and above the $70 billion in legal tax breaks.

Congress must stop the bidding war among the states for jobs, in which companies win ever-greater tax breaks to relocate. It should not let states use federal tax dollars when "poaching" jobs from other states. Labor Secretary Robert Reich calls it "one of the most egregious forms of corporate welfare."

Congress and the Clinton administration have cut some tax concessions to businesses. They curtailed deductions for meals, sports tickets and country club dues, raising $3 billion a year in tax revenue. They also banned write-offs for "excessive" executive salaries, those over $1 million, raising $70 million annually. And they have worked out a deal—not yet final—to phase out a tax break for companies that build plants in Puerto Rico, which costs $2.6 billion a year in tax revenue.

But as a presidential candidate, Clinton promised more. He vowed to make foreign companies, widely accused of underpaying US taxes, pay $45 billion more over four years. Clinton has taken steps in this direction, but Treasury officials cannot show how much money has been gained. Moreover, the president has done little to fulfill another promise in his 232-page campaign platform, called "Putting People First," to "end tax breaks for American companies that shut down their plants here and ship American jobs overseas."

INCENTIVE TO LEAVE

Just ask Robert Silva.

A 33-year-old father of two, Silva spent six years at the C.R. Bard plant in North Reading. He assembled and tested infusion pumps, devices that allow patients to receive regular injections without a nurse or traditional needle.

In 1993, the Bard unit was bought by Illinois-based Baxter. "They promised us the world. Then they moved the plant to Singapore after telling us they wouldn't," says Silva of Nashua. About 130 people lost their jobs. "It was quite the shock. People were in tears that day."

One incentive for Baxter's move, critics say, was a tax break known as the "runaway plant loophole," which accounts for $1.7 billion each year in lost tax revenue. Here's how it works:

The US taxes the worldwide profits of American companies. A million dollars earned in Ireland, for example, will be taxed at the US rate of 35 percent, minus the 10 percent tax the company must pay to the Irish government.

But Baxter, or any other company, is not required to pay the US tax bill unless it moves the money home to give to shareholders or to reinvest in the business here. As long as the money remains overseas—invested in foreign plants or banks—Baxter will pay only a small tax to Singapore. That is a total $191 million tax on its overseas profits over the years that the company has no intention of paying.

"The tax code literally says, 'Move your plant overseas and we'll give you a tax break,'" says Sen. Byron Dorgan, a North Dakota Democrat.

The "runaway plant loophole" also has saved millions of dollars for Stratus, Quantum, Digital Equipment Corp. of Maynard and many others that have moved New England jobs overseas while deferring US taxes on overseas profits.

"Closing it would discourage further investment in growing our business," said Mark Fredrickson, a spokesman for EMC Corp. of Hopkinton, a computer equipment maker that has accumulated $388 million in untaxed overseas profits over the years. "It helps our profitability and helps secure the local jobs we have. The bigger we become, the more people have to be employed here eat corporate headquarters."

Many companies take advantage of two other tax breaks designed to encourage exports. By creating a "foreign sales corporation," which often exists only on paper, a firm can claim a tax exemption on some of its export sales. For example, Zoom Telephonics Inc. of Mansfield said recently it lowered its tax rate by selling more products through its foreign sales corporation. These tax rules, created in 1971 and refined in 1984, cost the government $1.5 billion a year.

The US Treasury also forfeits $3.6 billion annually through the "title passage loophole," as Sen. Edward M. Kennedy has dubbed it, which allows companies to claim that some US sales were actually made on foreign soil. Companies do this because they sometimes have foreign tax credits they cannot use unless they show more foreign income.

A BREAK FOR LAWBREAKERS

While the tax code causes pain for some US workers, it provides comfort to some companies that break the law.

Last year, for example, three former executives of C. R. Bard Inc. were convicted of conspiring to conceal flaws in medical catheters manufactured in Billerica and Haverhill. Two deaths allegedly were linked to the catheters, and prosecutors said the faulty devices caused 21 emergency surgeries. Bard's $61 million legal settlement with the government was the largest ever for violations of Food and Drug Administration rules.

But the tax code cushioned the New Jersey-based company. Half of the settlement—$30.5 million—could be used as a tax write-off against earnings. That was the amount Bard paid to settle civil charges. The money was meant to reimburse the Medicare program for buying catheters that should not have been on the market. "When they earned the money they should not have earned from the catheters, they paid taxes on it. So when they give up those earnings, they should get the taxes back," said Michael Loucks, the assistant US attorney who prosecuted Bard.

After agreeing last year to pay the second-largest amount ever in a health-care fraud case—$161 million—Caremark International Inc. plans to take a $110 million charge against earnings, on top of a write-off to cover its legal costs.

Tax law prevents companies from deducting criminal penalties, avoiding an incentive to commit criminal acts. Loucks said Bard did not negotiate with the Justice Department over what portion of the settlement would be a civil penalty, and therefore tax-deductible. But some companies try to. "Part of the reason companies would rather do civil settlements is because they are deductible," he said.

ZERO-TAX ACCOUNTING

Some companies have gone beyond shielding profits from taxes. By stretching or even breaking U.S. accounting rules, they pay no tax at all. Their goal is to shift profits out of the country into low-tax nations like Bermuda, Ireland or Hong Kong. Their tool is the accounting ledger, and critics of the tax code say it is effective.

International Business Machines Corp., for example, paid virtually no tax in 1987, despite $25 billion in U.S. sales. Sen. Kennedy says IBM shifted an undue amount of its worldwide research costs onto its U.S. operation. That raised its American expenses, he says, and lowered its profits. IBM says its accounting practices are legal, but will not comment further.

Similarly, Nissan Motor Corp. of Japan overcharged its U.S. subsidiary for cars, the IRS charged several years ago, lowering its U.S. profits and tax bill. Nissan agreed to pay the IRS $160 million, one of several settlements with the agency the automaker signed between 1987 and 1993.

Both U.S. and foreign companies cut their taxes by profit shifting, but many lawmakers and tax analysts believe the practice is particularly widespread among foreign companies. More than 70 percent of foreign firms paid no tax each year between 1987 and 1991, the IRS reports, compared to about 60 percent of U.S. companies. Clearly, some paid no tax because they did not make a profit, but many lawmakers believe others are illegally shifting profits overseas.

Estimates on the tax revenue loss range from $10 billion to $40 billion a year. Treasury officials say the figure will decrease over time because of tighter regulations created under the Clinton administration.

Will the new rules raise the $45 billion that Clinton said he would draw from foreign companies over four years? "It would be nice to say, 'Here's what's going to happen,' but I don't think anyone in the trenches can reliably say that," said Samuels, the former Treasury tax policy chief.

One group of lawmakers says the transfer-pricing system must be scrapped. In its place, they propose a formula similar to what the states use now to determine what portion of a company's profits can be taxed. The formula bases the tax on what portion of a company's sales, property and personnel are in each state.

The Treasury Department, under pressure from Sen. Dorgan, is holding a conference this year to consider how such a formula might be created.

A $143 MILLION JOLT

Every year, the US government spends $143 million to help generate electricity and run recreation programs for Tennessee and six neighboring states. Now 63 years old, the Tennessee Valley Authority keeps the region's electricity rates low.

By contrast, electric rates in Massachusetts are high. And that is a key reason Lexington-based Raytheon Co. last year threatened to take 15,000 jobs out of state unless it won $40 million in tax and electric rate relief. Had it left, Raytheon's likely new home would have been in Tennessee. In other words, says US Rep. Martin T. Meehan, a Lowell Democrat, Washington collected tax dollars from Massachusetts, then sent them to Tennessee, effectively helping to lure Massachusetts jobs.

Now, Fidelity Investments of Boston and the mutual fund industry, as well as life insurance companies, are demanding similar tax relief. Increasingly, other states find themselves being forced to offer tax breaks to businesses that threaten to leave town.

"This is one of the most egregious forms of corporate welfare, because the company essentially holds the state up to ransom," Labor Secretary Reich says. "It's bad, because it's a zero-sum game. No new jobs are created. . . . From the national standpoint, this is money that is subsidizing companies with no net benefit whatsoever."

Furthermore, tax breaks don't always save jobs. Raytheon this year is trying to buy out 4,400 workers whose jobs the tax relief intended to save. In 1993, Digital Equipment Corp. angered Boston officials when it closed its Roxbury factory and laid off 190 workers after taking $7 million from the city in financing, tax cuts and other subsidies.

Now, some are calling for the federal government to step in. Last year, Massachusetts delegates to an annual small business conference at the White House urged the president to ban the use of federal money in interstate bidding wars.

Congress could tax businesses on the value of the incentives they receive from states, or it could deny federal funding to states that get into bidding wars. It also could bar states from using federal grant money or government-backed loans in incentive packages.

Massachusetts at times has used federal dollars to lure businesses. Springfield, for example, this year beat out sites in six other states to be the home of a new customer service center for First Notice Systems of Medford, which could employ as many as 900 people. As an incentive, the city offered federal funds to train company workers. It also borrowed money from the federal government and used the cash, in essence, to give First Notice a low-interest loan for building renovations.

CORPORATE DARLINGS

Businesses like the tax breaks because, unlike spending programs and direct subsidies, they are outside the federal budget and therefore not subject to Revenue Service for tax rebates on weapons programs that date to the early 1980s. The IRS says the tax credits are not deserved, since the Pentagon paid for the weapons research and usually covers the costs even of failed weapons programs. But the companies have won an early round in the courts, arguing that the Pentagon paid for the weapons, not the research that produced them. The tax refunds could total billions of dollars.

Each tax break is a choice, favoring one group of taxpayers over another. Export rules, for example, favor exporters over companies that sell in the US. The "runaway plant loophole" favors companies that hire foreign workers over companies that strive for the "Made in the USA" label.

Most broadly, corporate tax breaks generally favor wealthy Americans over the less-well off. Tax benefits are designed to help businesses create jobs, but when corporations win a tax break it is the owners of the company who gain most.

Last December, with Republicans and Democrats deadlocked over a plan to end a 21-day shutdown of the federal government, 91 corporate chief executives signed a two-page newspaper advertisement that urged Congress to balance the budget. "Without a balanced budget, the party's over. No matter which party you're in," the ad said.

Seven of the CEOs were from companies that take advantage of a major tax break for purchasing new equipment, which costs the US $26 billion a year. Exxon saved $760 million because of the so-called accelerated depreciation rules, according to calculations by the Center for the Study of Responsive Law, a Washington-based Ralph Nader group. Ford Motor Co., Chrysler Corp., DuPont and others that signed the ad saved hundreds of millions dollars more.

General Motors is a major recipient of federal technology grants. Kodak claimed $37 million in export and manufacturing tax credits last year. In 1994, IBM paid no US taxes on $11 billion in profits it earned overseas, while the US Labor Department reported that 1,755 IBM jobs were moved abroad.

"How can you demand that the budget be balanced when you're taking tax breaks like this?" asked Janice Shields, a former accounting professor now with the watchdog group. "These things save the companies from going into debt, but it's causing the country to do that."

Ms. MIKULSKI. Mr. President, I rise in support of the jobs export subsidy amendment. This amendment will help to end the exodus of U.S. manufacturing industry overseas by eliminating a provision in the tax law that encourages and rewards that exodus.

How does the Dorgan amendment do this? It ends the tax deferral on profits of overseas U.S. companies who move plants to foreign tax havens then ship products back to the United States for sale.

This amendment eliminates a tax subsidy that is unfair to America's workers, that is unfair to taxpayers, and that is unfair to domestic companies.

Current law provides an incentive to move. We are actually rewarding companies for killing U.S. jobs. That makes absolutely no sense. How can this Congress say it is for working families when we reward multinational firms who move their jobs overseas?

Since 1979, our country has lost 3 million good-paying manufacturing jobs. This tax break is one reason why. We can't afford to lose one more job, and that's why we need this amendment.

Current law costs the American taxpayer. The Joint Economic Committee estimates this subsidy will result in $2.26 billion over 7 years in lost revenues. If we are serious about giving taxpayers a break, and in reducing our deficit, this is one tax subsidy we just can't afford.

Current law actually puts companies that remain in the United States at a competitive disadvantage. We don't reward the good guys. We don't provide a tax break for them for keeping jobs here at home. Instead we make it harder for them to compete by giving an edge to those who move jobs overseas. This amendment will help create a level playing field so the "good guys" have a fair chance to compete.

It's important to understand what this amendment does not do. It does not hinder U.S. companies that produce abroad from competing with foreign firms in foreign markets. It does not burden companies with a new tax. It simply eliminates the special tax treatment given to overseas U.S. companies.

I urge my colleagues to support this amendment. It's good for America's workers. It's good for the taxpayers. It's good for America's domestic companies.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who seeks recognition?

Mr. KERREY. Mr. President, I am going to talk here for a bit until we can get a final group of amendments, which we would like to offer. Both the chairman and I have agreed to those. We should be able to get that list put together soon. One is an amendment that I and about 10 or 12 other Senators offered, having to do with reorganization of the IRS. The language of the amendment says:

The Internal Revenue Service is prohibited from expending funds for field office reorganization until the National Commission of Restructuring the IRS has had an opportunity to issue the final report.

The chairman has agreed to accept that language into this bill. Let me be clear that my intent is to change it when we get into conference. The idea is not to postpone this until after the final commission report. That, to me, would be an inappropriate thing for us to do.

What is appropriate is to ask the Treasury Department to come up with a justification on customer service, a justification on cost-effectiveness, and a number of other areas, which they currently have not done. They are talking about actually doing a reduction of force of about 2,300 at a time. For example, they are also proposing to fire another 14 or 15 upper-echelon executives. Some other questions have been raised by a number of Members. That is what this amendment is attempting to do.

It will be my intent to modify that language once we get to conference.

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the pending committee amendments be temporarily laid aside.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

AMENDMENTS NOS. 5225 THROUGH 5232, EN BLOC

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, I send a group of amendments to the desk, en bloc, and ask for their immediate consideration.

The amendments are as follows: One is for myself to extend the pilot program authority provided by the GMRA until December 31, 1999; one for Senator STEVENS to clarify section 645 of the bill; one for Senator MIKULSKI regarding closure of an alley in the District of Columbia for construction of a Federal building; one for Senators MACK and GRAHAM to transfer a property for animal research; one for Senator D'AMATO to provide criminal sanctions for fictitious financial instruments; one for Senator GREGG regarding distribution of Federal employees' names; one for Senator KOHL, a sense-of-the-Senate resolution, regarding IRS telephone service; one for Senator KERREY regarding the IRS reorganization.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The bill clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Alabama [Mr. SHELBY] proposes amendments numbered 5225 through 5232, en bloc.

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that reading of the amendments be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendments are as follows:

AMENDMENT NO. 5225

(Purpose: To extend the OMB's authority to streamline financial management authority under the GMRA pilot program)

On page 135, after line 4 insert the following new section:

SEC. . Subsection (b) of section 404 of Public Law 103-356 is amended by deleting "September 30, 1997" and inserting "December 31, 1999".

AMENDMENT NO. 5226

(Purpose: To provide for a Government accounting of regulatory costs and benefits of major rules, and for other purposes)

On page 134, line 7 strike all through page 135, line 4, and insert the following:

SEC. 645. REGULATORY ACCOUNTING.

(a) IN GENERAL.—No later than September 30, 1997, the Director of the Office of Management and Budget shall submit to the Congress a report that provides—

(1) estimates of the total annual costs and benefits of Federal regulatory programs, including quantitative and nonquantitative measures of regulatory costs and benefits;

(2) estimates of the costs and benefits (including quantitative and nonquantitative measures) of each rule that is likely to have a gross annual effect on the economy of $100,000,000 or more in increased costs;

(3) an assessment of the direct and indirect impacts of Federal rules on the private sector, State and local government, and the Federal Government; and

(4) recommendations from the Director and a description of significant public comments to reform or eliminate any Federal regulatory program or program element that is inefficient, ineffective, or is not a sound use of the Nation's resources.

(b) NOTICE.—The Director shall provide public notice and an opportunity to comment on the report under subsection (a) before the report is issued in final form.

AMENDMENT NO. 5227

(Purpose: To provide for the closing of an alley owned by the United States to allow construction of a facility for the United States Government in the District of Columbia)

On page 93, after line 19 insert the following new section:

SEC. . FACILITY FOR THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT

(a) CLOSING OF ALLEY.—The alley bisecting the property on which a facility is being constructed for use by the United States Government at 930 H Street, N.W., Washington, District of Columbia, is closed to the public, without regard to any contingencies.

(b) JURISDICTION.—The Administrator of General Services shall have administrative jurisdiction over, and shall hold title on behalf of the United States in, the alley, property, and facility referred to in subsection (a).

AMENDMENT NO. 5228

(Purpose: To transfer certain property to be used as an animal research facility)

At the appropriate place in the bill, insert the following:

SEC. . (a) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the Secretary may, on behalf of the United States, transfer to the University of Miami, without charge, title to the real property and improvements that as of the date of the enactment of this Act constitute the Federal facility known as the Perrine Primate Center, subject to the condition that, during the 10-year period beginning on the date of the transfer—

(1) the University will provide for the continued use of the real property and improvements as an animal research facility, including primates, and such use will be the exclusive use of the property (with such incidental exceptions as the Secretary may approve); or

(2) the real property and improvements will be used for research-related purposes other than the purpose specified in paragraph (1) (or for both of such purposes), if the Secretary and the University enter into an agreement accordingly.

(b) The conveyance under subsection (a) shall not become effective unless the conveyance specifies that, if the University of Miami engages in a material breach of the conditions specified in such subsection, title to the real property and improvements involved reverts to the United States at the election of the Secretary.

(c) The real property referred to in subsections (a) and (b) is located in the county of Dade in the State of Florida, and is a parcel consisting of the northernmost 30 acre-parcel of the area. The exact acreage and legal description used for purposes of the transfer under subsection (a) shall be in accordance with a survey that is satisfactory to the Secretary.

(d) For the purposes of this section—

(1) the term "Secretary" means the Secretary of Health and Human Services; and

(2) the term "University of Miami" means the University of Miami located in the State of Florida.

AMENDMENT NO. 5229

(Purpose: To prohibit the fraudulent production, sale, transportation, or possession of fictitious items purporting to be valid financial instruments of the United States, foreign governments, States, political subdivisions, or private organizations, to increase the penalties for counterfeiting violations, and for other purposes)

At the appropriate place in the bill, insert the following new section:

SEC. . CRIMINAL SANCTIONS FOR FICTITIOUS FINANCIAL INSTRUMENTS AND COUNTERFEITING.

(a) INCREASED PENALTIES FOR COUNTERFEITING VIOLATIONS.—Sections 474 and 474A of title 18, United States Code, are amended by striking "class C felony" each place that term appears and inserting "class B felony".

(b) CRIMINAL PENALTY FOR PRODUCTION, SALE, TRANSPORTATION, POSSESSION OF FICTITIOUS FINANCIAL INSTRUMENTS PURPORTING TO BE THOSE OF THE STATES, OF POLITICAL SUBDIVISIONS, AND OF PRIVATE ORGANIZATIONS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Chapter 25 of title 18, United States Code, is amended by inserting after section 513, the following new section:

"§514. Fictitious obligations

"(a) Whoever, with the intent to defraud—
 "(1) draws, prints, processes, produces, publishes, or otherwise makes, or attempts or causes the same, within the United States;

"(2) passes, utters, presents, offers, brokers, issues, sells, or attempts or causes the same, or with like intent possesses, within the United States; or

"(3) utilizes interstate or foreign commerce, including the use of the mails or wire, radio, or other electronic communication, to transmit, transport, ship, move, transfer, or attempts or causes the same, to, from, or through the United States, any false or fictitious instrument, document, or other item appearing, representing, purporting, or contriving through scheme or artifice, to be an actual security or other financial instrument issued under the authority of the United States, a foreign government, a State or other political subdivision of the United States, or an organization, shall be guilty of a class B felony.

"(b) For purposes of this section, any term used in this section that is defined in section 513(c) has the same meaning given such term in section 513(c).

"(c) The United States Secret Service, in addition to any other agency having such authority, shall have authority to investigate offenses under this section."

(2) TECHNICAL AMENDMENT.—The analysis for chapter 25 of title 18, United States Code, is amended by inserting after the item relating to section 513 the following:

"514. Fictitious obligations."

(c) PERIOD OF EFFECT.—This section and the amendments made by this section shall become effective on the date of enactment of this Act and shall remain in effect during each fiscal year following that date of enactment.

Mr. D'AMATO. Mr. President, I would like to commend the distinguished chairman and ranking minority member of the Treasury Appropriations Subcommittee. Thanks to their efforts, we have reached an agreement to include my amendment into this important legislation. This amendment incorporates the text of S. 1009, the Fi-ancial Instruments Anti-Fraud Act. This bill has bipartisan support and has been cosponsored by Senators LIEBERMAN, GRASSLEY, JOHNSTON, BRYAN, BOND, and FRAHM.

Mr. President, over the past several years, innovative criminals have exploited a loophole in Federal anti-counterfeiting laws. These laws do not specifically criminalize the production or passing of a phony check, bond or security if it is not a copy of an actual financial instrument. Criminals are now making and passing completely fictitious financial instruments. These instruments may involve, for example, a bank, an asset or a security that does not even exist.

Under existing Federal and State law, in order to prosecute a criminal who produces or passes a completely fictitious instrument, the criminal must use the wires or mails, or deposit the instrument in a bank. These laws simply do not prohibit the making and passing of fictitious financial instruments.

The International Chamber of Commerce estimates that frauds involving fictitious financial instruments cost investors around the world $10 million per day. The Office of the Comptroller of the Currency reports that in the first 6 months of 1996, con artists have attempted to pass more than $3 billion in fictitious instruments in the United States.

In many cases, criminals who are caught attempting to perpetrate these frauds cannot be prosecuted. That is wrong. This loophole must be closed.

On July 17, the Banking Committee held hearings on this issue. Charitable institutions such as the Salvation Army and the National Council of Churches of Christ testified that they lost millions of dollars in these scams. The committee also heard testimony from a private institution in North Carolina that paid out on a fictitious financial instrument.

Mr. President, there is another sinister side to these frauds. Antigovernment groups use fictitious financial instruments to commit economic terrorism against Government agencies, private businesses, and individuals. Prior to their 81-day siege, the Montana Freeman passed fictitious instruments called comptroller warrants. The Freeman used these instruments to stockpile food, water, gasoline, and even vehicles.

This past April, a California woman, Elizabeth Broderick, was arrested for mail fraud and conspiracy for passing comptroller warrants to banks, automobile dealers, bail bondsmen and even the IRS. Ms. Broderick, who calls herself the Lien Queen, has held seminars on how to produce and pass phony checks, charging her students $125 each. Federal authorities monitored the Lien Queen's activities for several years. They finally were able to arrest her only after she slipped and used the mails to send some of her phony checks.

Fictitious instruments are an important source of funds for antigovernment groups. The Lien Queen attempted to pass more than $124 million in phony checks. LeRoy Schweitzer, the founder of the Montana Freeman, successfully passed more than $85 million in phony notes, netting more than $670,000 in profits.

Armed antigovernment groups such as the Freeman use fictitious instruments to undermine the banking and monetary systems of the United States. These groups believe that the Federal Government has declared war on its citizens, and that Federal institutions such as the Federal Reserve must be destroyed.

My amendment would close this loophole. The amendment would give Federal agents the tools necessary to prevent millions of dollars in losses to banks, mutual funds, and individuals.

Under this amendment, criminals found guilty of trafficking in fictitious financial instruments would face up to 25 years in prison.

Mr. President, the Banking Committee has worked closely with the Treasury Department and the Secret Service to develop this legislation. I would like to thank my colleagues who are cosponsors of the bill and the floor managers. Federal law enforcement officials need this weapon to combat this new brand of financial fraud and to protect our financial institutions.

AMENDMENT NO. 5230

(Purpose: To prohibit distribution of federal employee personal information without consent of the individual)

On page 135, after line 4, add the following new section:

SEC. . None of the funds appropriated by this Act may be used by an agency to provide a Federal employee's home address except when it is made known to the Federal official having authority to obligate or expend such funds that the employee has authorized such disclosure or that such disclosure has been ordered by a court of competent jurisdiction.

Mr. GREGG. Mr. President, earlier this year the Vice-President of the United States, ALBERT GORE, directed the Office of Personnel Management [OPM] to make available to the Federal Employees' Union the home addresses of all Federal employees regardless of their affiliation with the Federal Employee Union. The Administration claims this is just a step to enable the unions to communicate with employees in an emergency.

Subsequently, on March 8, 1996, OPM published in the Federal Register a notice of proposed rulemaking which raises considerable privacy concerns and in my opinion severely undermines the Privacy Act of 1974. Citing as its reason for the new rulemaking—the confusion and turmoil caused by the Government shutdowns—OPM proposed permitting Federal agencies to release employee addresses to recognized Federal labor organizations. This notice went on to state that, "OPM has determined that the most current home addresses of OPM employees are contained in the payroll system records.

Because this system is updated for changes annually by OPM employees and is automated, it is the most efficient, as well as the most accurate, mechanism for releasing this information."

What perplexes me is that if the Federal Employee Union is interested in obtaining the addresses of all Federal employees, the union itself should ask for the addresses. The idea of mandating the availability of Federal employee addresses is outrageous and a direct violation of the Privacy Act of 1974. The Federal Government cannot and should not make available to the Federal labor unions the addresses of all Federal employees regardless of their union or non-union affiliation. This would not be permitted under my amendment.

My amendment is a simple one. It states that no Federal funds will be made available to the OPM or any other Federal Government agency to provide Federal Government employee addresses to anyone unless authorized by that given employee or ordered by a court of competent jurisdiction.

I ask unanimous consent that a July 28, 1996 Washington Post article, and a subsequent letter to the editor appearing in the Washington Post on August 12, 1996, be printed in the RECORD following my remarks.

I want to thank the chairman and ranking member for making my amendment part of their managers' amendment and I yield the floor.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

[From the Washington Post, July 28, 1996]
THE ERA OF JOB INSECURITY
(By Mike Causey)

If you think the words "Uncle Sam" still mean total job security, chances are you have been out of touch for a while.

In the past, about 33 percent of the people who hired on with government made it to retirement. Turnover was low compared with many private companies. But the image of the government as a rock-steady employer may be gone with the wind.

Even the Internal Revenue Service—one of the government's few moneymaking operations and an agency that has detailed plans to keep trucking AFTER a major nuclear attack—is having layoffs.

The Defense Department is shrinking rapidly. The once-glamorous National Aeronautics and Space Administration is getting smaller, and congressional Republicans still want to see the Commerce Department disappear altogether.

Working for the government today is a little like being in a big crowd at an outdoor rock concert during a violent electrical storm: Some people won't even get wet, or know it if they do. Others will get wet but won't get hurt. But a few may end up on the receiving end of a bolt of lightning. Welcome to "stable" federal employment, 1996 style.

Several things have combined to make government service less binding. They include the new retirement system (with its portable 401(k), which doesn't lock employees into a pension plan); the end of the Cold War; the new emphasis on deficit reduction and the adoption of "reengineering" as a form of New Age religion.

Federal unions have taken reengineering in stride. They are supporting President Clinton for reelection, even though he is campaigning on his success in eliminating 231,000 federal jobs. It could have been worse, and it will be if Republican Robert J. Dole is elected, unions tell members.

Unions soon will be able to reach members (and nonmembers) at home, thanks to a White House order telling agencies to give their employees' home addresses to unions. This isn't a political payoff, both sides say, but a way to allow unions to communicate with employees during emergencies. House Republicans are furious, contending that the arrangement violates the privacy rights of federal workers.

In the meantime, congressional Republicans have shut down two styles of buyouts, which, for want of better terms, might be called the "Golden Handshakes" and "Zombie Buyouts."

Golden Handshakes involved paying retirement-age workers as much as $25,000 to retire. Zombie Buyouts are so named because some agencies revived the program (which legally died last year) to offer another chance at buyouts to employees this year.

Members of Congress think some agencies milked buyouts when they offered employees as much as $25,000 to leave and then paid them big-buck bonuses to delay their departure. Those employees got bonuses and buyouts.

Because of concerns about past buyouts, future buyouts in non-Defense agencies will be selective and closely monitored.

In parts of the IRS, one in every four employees is facing layoff. That includes about 2,000 workers in the Washington area. The IRS has asked for limited buyout authority, and the Senate is working on allowing the agency to give buyouts to early retirees. But the IRS has determined that nobody who is eligible for either regular or early retirement will get a buyout, even if Congress approves them for early retirees.

The Agency for International Development also is seeking limited buyout authority. Rep. Benjamin A. Gilman (R-N.Y.) is pushing the plan. It would allow AID to pay severance of as much as $25,000 to as many as 100 workers—none of them eligible to retire—who agree to resign. Normally employees who resign can't get severance. The plan, supported by the White House and congressional leaders, would let AID—and maybe other agencies—have what amounts to buyouts without offering buyouts. It also sends a message to retirement-age workers that the era of buyouts, for them, may be gone.

[From the Washington Post]

SAFEGUARD THE PRIVACY OF FEDERAL EMPLOYEES

As the concerned wife of a federal employee, I implore The Post: Please tell me that Mike Causey misspoke in his July 28 column "The Era of Job Insecurity" [Metro]. Mr. Causey reported that the Clinton administration has ordered federal agencies to give the home addresses of their employees, including nonmembers, to federal unions. The unions and the Clinton people claim this is just a step to enable the unions to communicate with employees in emergencies.

While government employees' names, grades and salaries are matters of public record, until now, their home addresses have not been publicly available.

How are the unions going to ensure that some disgruntled person with access to the lists of home addresses—someone who is currently undergoing a tax audit, for example—doesn't start sending threatening letters to the home of the auditor who is assigned to her case? Or what if she decides to drop by the auditor's home for a personal confrontation?

I have no doubt that agencies will try to withhold the addresses of some of their employees—FBI agents, IRS criminal investigators, etc.—because they might be harassed at home. One has to wonder, through, why a secretary at the FBI or a personnel staffer at the National Archives shouldn't be entitled to the same respect for her privacy. Additionally, many federal workers are married to other federal employees. What happens when the FBI secretary is married to an FBI agent? How does the FBI manage to give the union the secretary's home address without also handing over the home address of the agent?

It's true that we give our addresses out to our friends, associates and businesses, such as bank and department stores, all the time. But that choice is ours, and we freely assume any risks attached to the release of our addresses. Additionally, we can limit the amount of information we provide to any particular person or institution. The public library has my home address, but it has no information on what either my husband or I do for a living. The same is true of various museums and charities. No one who comes across our address on a membership renewal form has any reason to associate us with the government, unless we choose for them to have that information.

Having been both a tax law specialist in the disclosure function at IRS and a personnel staffer with that agency, I am somewhat familiar with the obligation of federal agencies to safeguard information they collect. I'm curious as to whether any privacy considerations come into play here. My own gut reaction is that federal agencies have no business handing over the addresses of their employees to unions or to anyone else who asks for them.

Regina F. McCormick—New York.

AMENDMENT NO. 5231

(Purpose: To express the sense of Congress that the level of telephone assistance provided by the Internal Revenue Service to taxpayers should be increased)

At the appropriate place in the bill, insert the following new section:

SEC. . SENSE OF CONGRESS REGARDING TELEPHONE ASSISTANCE PROVIDED BY INTERNAL REVENUE SERVICE.

It is the sense of the Congress that the Internal Revenue Service should, in implementing any reorganization plan or otherwise, make all efforts to increase the level of service provided to taxpayers through its telephone assistance program. It is further the sense of the Congress that the Internal Revenue Service should establish performance goals, operating standards, and management practices which ensures such an increase in customer service.

AMENDMENT NO. 5232

On page 26 after line 9 add the following new section:

The Internal Revenue Service is prohibited from expending funds for the field office reorganization plan until the National Commission on Restructuring the Internal Revenue Service has had an opportunity to issue their final report.

Mr. CONRAD. Mr. President, this amendment would disallow funds for the Internal Revenue Service to execute their field office reorganization plan until the National Commission on Restructuring the IRS has had an opportunity to issue its final report.

The amendment addresses the recent proposal by the IRS to downsize the offices of its headquarters and those in the field. Recently, the IRS announced that it will cut back 3,300 employees at sites around the country and hire 1,400 new employees to do the same work at another location. While this Congress has routinely supported initiatives to eliminate unnecessary positions at Federal agencies, I worry that this recent decision at the IRS will do nothing to aid taxpayers in America and may reduce the level of customer service taxpayers deserve.

The IRS formulated this plan, without regard to final decisions on fiscal year 1997 spending levels, in order to consolidate the administrative operations of their field offices. Because these offices are to remain open, there does not seem to be a reason for rehiring 1,400 people to perform the jobs that are capably being done in the field. In my own State of North Dakota, our taxpayers will lose many people who provide front-line services such as a public affairs officer, a taxpayer education coordinator, and several others who provide the critical liaison between the taxpayer and the IRS. I fail to see how shifting these positions to larger metropolitan areas will increase the efficiency of work already being done.

Mr. President, I receive many letters every year from concerned North Dakotans who have exhausted several hours and days attempting to reach representatives of the IRS. Their complaints have only intensified over the years. This recent decision by the IRS will only worsen an already tenuous relation between taxpayers and the IRS.

This amendment prevents the IRS from taking these actions in their field offices until the National Commission to Restructure the Internal Revenue Service has had a chance to report back to Congress on the troubles facing the IRS and their possible solutions. Until the Congress has had a chance to evaluate and propose solutions to many of the predicaments at the IRS, it does not make sense to frustrate taxpayers with a pointless restructuring plan which does nothing to better serve their needs. I ask my colleagues to support this amendment.

Mr. SHELBY. I ask unanimous consent that these amendments be considered and agreed to, en bloc, and that accompanying statements be placed at the appropriate place in the RECORD.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendments (Nos. 5225 through 5232), en bloc, were agreed to.

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. KERREY. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

WESTERN STATES HIGH INTENSITY DRUG TRAFFICKING AREA

Mr. CAMPBELL. Mr. President, I take this opportunity to join my distinguished colleagues from the West in recognizing the alarming rise in drug trafficking plaguing our region of the country. Included in the committee report to accompany this measure, there is language giving consideration for this problem, with special consideration for the State of Colorado. The committee further directed the Office of National Drug Control Policy to evaluate the drug problem in the Rocky Mountain region and elsewhere, and report its findings back to the committee.

Would the Senator from Alabama yield a few moments at this time to enter into a brief colloquy?

Mr. SHELBY. I would be happy to yield to the Senator from Colorado.

Mr. CAMPBELL. I thank the Senator from Alabama.

As chairman of the subcommittee with jurisdiction, the Senator from Alabama is aware of the drug problem facing the entire country.

I would like to point out the efforts of the Rocky Mountain Division of the Drug Enforcement Agency. In cooperation with numerous State and local law enforcement agencies, DEA has presented a proposal to the Office of National Drug Control Policy to have the region identified as a high intensity drug trafficking area. For example, at the Treasury, Postal and Government Operations Subcommittee hearing of June 26, the ONDCP Director, General McCaffrey, cited the drug smuggling problem in Denver, CO. Thorough investigations by law enforcement personnel indicate that the trafficking problem centered in Denver impacts not only the neighboring States of Utah and Wyoming, but also the rest of the Nation. In addition, evidence suggests that Denver serves as a transshipment point between Los Angeles, Mexico, and the east coast.

Based upon the actions taken by the appropriate law enforcement agencies in the Rocky Mountain region, as well as the advanced stage of their pending request to be identified as a high intensity drug trafficking area, I take this opportunity to request that the Senator continue to work with me to address this matter.

Mr. SHELBY. I look forward to working with the Senator on this matter. I know how important combating the drug trafficking problem is to the communities in the Rocky Mountain region.

Mr. CAMPBELL. I thank the distinguished Senator from Alabama for his consideration and I yield the floor.

Mr. HATCH. Mr. President, I want to commend my esteemed colleague from Colorado, Senator CAMPBELL, for his vision and hard work on the drug trafficking problem in the Rocky Mountain region. I join him today in supporting the committee's focus on the unfortunate, growing tragedy in our region.

The Rocky Mountain region contains three important States. My home State of Utah, Colorado, the home State for my colleague, Senator CAMPBELL, and the State of Wyoming. It is important that the DEA and other Federal and State drug enforcement officers be able to accomplish their important tasks in each of these States, and the citizens of each one will benefit greatly from this project. It clearly is appropriate to this Senator that the Office of National Drug Control Policy should designate the States of Utah, Colorado, and Wyoming for increased assistance in the fight against drug traffickers.

Again, I want to thank my colleagues Senators SHELBY and KERREY for their leadership and hard work on this important legislation. I yield the floor.

GANG RESISTANCE EDUCATION AND TRAINING PROGRAM

Mr. GRASSLEY. Would the distinguished chairman of the Treasury-Postal Appropriations Subcommittee yield to a question?

Mr. SHELBY. I would be happy to yield to my friend, the Senator from Iowa.

Mr. GRASSLEY. I fully agree with the statement in the committee's report that the Gang Resistance Education and Training [GREAT] Program has proven to be highly successful. It is my understanding that the committee has provided funding for an expansion of the GREAT Program. Is my understanding correct?

Mr. SHELBY. I thank the Senator from Iowa for his support of this worthwhile program. It has proven to be very successful and very popular with State and local law enforcement authorities. The Senator is correct. The committee has provided funds for an expansion of the GREAT Program.

Mr. GRASSLEY. The Sioux City, IA, police department was one of the first agencies in my State to do a pilot GREAT Program in a public school environment. Because of their participation in the GREAT Program, this school in Sioux City went from a high-risk school to being recognized as one of Iowa's First In the Nation in Education [FINE] schools this past year. This is a significant and very important turnaround. I would urge my friend, the Senator from Alabama, to give serious consideration to adding Sioux City to the GREAT Program during the conference on this bill.

Mr. SHELBY. I can assure the Senator from Iowa that we will give Sioux City every consideration during the conference on this appropriations bill.

Mr. GRASSLEY. I thank the Senator for his assurance.

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, I yield the floor.

Mr. KERREY. Mr. President, as I understand it, we are going to go out relatively soon.

PRAISING THE FEDERAL EMERGENCY MANAGEMENT ADMINISTRATION

Mr. HOLLINGS. Mr. President, I wanted to say a word of praise for James Lee Witt of the Federal Emergency Management Administration. I was highly critical back during Hugo, at the time we had that hurricane in 1989, and justifiably so. What I did is go down at that particular time, on September 21, the next morning, with Senator THURMOND, and we reviewed the tremendous damage done to our air base, our naval base, the outer islands, the homes and everything, and realizing without electricity, communications, and otherwise, I could not do any good.

I flew back late that Friday evening and early Saturday morning, I got on the phone to FEMA, and I outlined the needs of generators, food, water, tents, and at personal insistence, Mr. Morris, then the FEMA Director, said, "Senator, you don't understand the procedure." I said, "What procedure?" He says, "You know you are supposed to get the mayor to advertise, and if he can't find two contractors to do the job, to satisfy the needs, then he bucks the request up to the Governor and the Governor does a similar thing; he surveys and gets two refusals, and then they come to Washington." I said, "Are you serious?" He said, "Of course." I said, "You are crazy," and I hung up and called General Gray of the Marine Corps, who was out at that time on the Army-Navy golf course. I said, "General, the ox is in the ditch," and I outlined it. He said, "Don't worry, we will get it in there." We have Parris Island located in the particular hurricane path down there. When I got down there the next day or day and a half, I ran into Gen. Ernest Troy Cook, who is a lieutenant general in charge of Quantico in the line of command. He motioned to me to be rather quiet. I said, "What is the matter?" He said, "They have a procedure where I am not supposed to be helping, but it is obvious that the general called me, General Gray, and I am going to continue to do it." But go easy on this FEMA fellow because he is trying to hold up everything I am trying to do. They were trying to cancel help. Here, today, we find Director James Lee Witt is down in North Carolina going over the needs of all the people down there.

He was down there on Friday morning in South Carolina and in North Carolina when Senator THURMOND and I went there. I have a brochure here, the pertinent parts of which I will include, and I ask unanimous consent to have printed in the RECORD to show you how organized and orchestrated he was.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

HURRICANE FRAN SITUATION REPORT NO. 2—RE-PORTING PERIOD: 7 A.M. EDT, SEPTEMBER 5,
1996 TO 7 A.M. EDT SEPTEMBER 6, 1996

1. Background

The National Weather Service advises that FRAN is still a large and dangerous hurricane as it continues to move inland. It has not strengthened during the past 24 hours and is expected to weaken over land. It appears to be in a state of development where tropical storm-force winds have spread out laterally.

The eye of Hurricane FRAN passed over Cape Fear, North Carolina, during late evening September 5. Hurricane-force winds spread inland up to 100 miles from the coast and tropical-force winds extended over water up to 290 miles. Power outages, flooded streets and flapping roofs were reported from south of Myrtle Beach, South Carolina, to north of Topsail Beach, North Carolina. The storm accounted for nine confirmed deaths.

Hurricane warnings remain in effect through the night from Cape Fear, North Carolina, to the North Carolina-Virginia border including Pamlico and Albermarle Sounds. A tropical storm warning continues in effect from north of the North Carolina-Virginia border to Chincoteague, Virginia, including the Greater Hamptons Roads Area. A tropical storm warning is also in effect for the lower Chesapeake Bay.

All other hurricane warnings and watches were discontinued at 11:00 p.m. September 5.

A high wind warning and tornado watch are in effect for the interior sections of northeast North Carolina. A high wind watch is also in effect for parts of east-central Virginia late September 5 and all day September 6.

The U.S. Weather Service advises that officials need to continue preparedness actions in northeastern northeast North Carolina and east-central Virginia.

2. Current situation

FEMA Headquarters: The Emergency Support Team (EST) continued Level One operations (full staffing).

Regional Activity: The Atlanta Regional Operations Center (ROC) remains operational at Level 3 activation. Regional ESFs #1 through #12 will support ROC operations 24-hours per day until further notice.

The Emergency Response Team—Advance Element (ERT-A) is in position at the Georgia EOC. Regional Emergency Support Functions #2, #3, #5, #6, #7, #8, #10, #12 and the designated 1st US Army DCO/DCE provided representation for the ERT-A at the Georgia EOC beginning at 10:00 a.m. EDT on September 5.

The Advance Element of the ERT-N Red Team arrived in Columbia, South Carolina, on September 5. Team members operated in an Alternate Emergency Operations Center. Because of the change in the storm's track, the Advance Element of the ERT-N Red Team is preparing to relocate to Raleigh, North Carolina on September 6.

Federal Coordinating Officer Lacy Suiter is leading an advance team to Raleigh to work with Region IV ERT-A on redeployment of the remainder of the Advance Element. The advance contingent consists of 16 personnel representing the following organizations or groups: Community Relations; Public Affairs; Congressional Affairs; Information and Planning; Operations; Logistics; Finance and Administration.

The remainder of the group will relocate to Raleigh by charter air on September 6. Prior to leaving South Carolina, the group will transition its responsibilities to Region VI ERT-A.

Seven Operations Sections personnel deployed with the ERT-N Red Team Advance Element to the Alternate EOC. They have begun coordinating with their counterparts in the Region IV Regional Operations Center and the State EOC.

The Operations Section Chief and an Operations Officer went to Raleigh with the advance group from the ERT-N Red Team Advance Element.

Thirteen representatives from Emergency Support Functions #1, #3, #4, #6, #7 and #8 arrived at the Interim EOC and received briefings and workspace. South Carolina had requested one representative from each support function to work in the State EOC. The temporary address is 300 Gervais Street.

The Region IV ROC has provided Mission Assignment Activation Letters and taskings to Federal agency representatives at the ROC and mailed originals to agency offices. Two National Field Assessment Teams (FAsT) have been activated, and the East Team members arrived in Columbia, South Carolina, on September 5.

Region IV State Liaison are:

Florida: Annette Harrell at 904-413-9969 (fax 904-488-1016)

Georgia: John Johnson at 404-624-7000 (fax 404-624-7205)

South Carolina: Steve Brown at 803-734-8020 (fax 803-734-8062)

North Carolina: Bobby Clark at 919-733-3718 (fax 919-733-5406)

4. Weather forecast

The official forecast moves the track farther inland. The anticipated path will take FRAN over central Virginia, the eastern panhandle of West Virginia, west central Maryland and central Pennsylvania. The hurricane is predicted to weaken gradually over land. Speed is about 16 m.p.h. Hurricane-force winds will continue to spread inland up to 100 miles.

In addition to the heavy winds, heavy rainfall is likely, particularly over higher terrain. Rainfalls of 5 to 10 inches, sometimes locally even higher, are expected along the FRAN's path. Heavy rains are expected to cause significant inland flooding over the next few days, especially in the mountainous areas of NC, VA, WV, MD, and central PA

5. Severity of impact on political jurisdictions

A. Jurisdictions Affected

(1) Florida: No evacuations have occurred.

(2) Georgia: Voluntary evacuations took place in coastal counties. Chatham County officials ordered evacuation of the coastal islands, manufactured homes and low-lying areas.

(3) South Carolina: Governor David Beasley issued an evacuation order at 2:40 p.m. EDT September 4 for those parts of Georgetown and Horry Counties east of US 17 and for all barrier islands, beachfront properties, low-lying areas and all property bordering waterways in Jasper, Beaufort, Colleton and Charleston Counties. The city of Mullins is reported to be without power.

(4) North Carolina: Voluntary evacuation occurred for beach communities in the Cape Fear region. Bald Head Island residents were ordered to evacuate. The city of Raleigh is reported to be without power.

6. Status of declaration

On September 4 Georgia Governor Zell Miller declared a state of emergency in Camden, Glynn, McIntosh, Liberty, Bryan, Chatham, Charlton, Brantley, Wayne, Long and Effingham Counties.

South Carolina Governor David Beasley declared a statewide emergency on September 4 and the following day requested from the President a major disaster declaration for the State. On September 5 North Carolina Governor James Hunt also declared a state of emergency and then requested from the President a major disaster declaration for the State. Both requests for a Presidential declaration went through FEMA Region IV Director Kenneth D. Hutchison.

7. Status of Federal operations

EST mitigation activities continue in full force. Staff has completed the following actions: Identified communities in South Carolina, North Carolina, Virginia, West Virginia and Maryland that are not participating in the National Flood Insurance Program (NFIP); alerted the FEMA Map Service Center of anticipated map shipments during the coming weekend; established which publications are available for distribution in the post-disaster environment.

Staff is working on the following items: Assisting the GIS Hub in assuring the delivery of available digital maps for the anticipated affected States; determining communities that the NFIP has not yet mapped or that are still using a converted Flood Hazard Boundary Map. (In either case, this reflects no updating since 1980.)

A FEMA Region IV mitigation staff person will meet with the ERT-A Red Team Deputy Field Coordinating Officer before going to North Carolina and South Carolina. A FEMA Region III mitigation official is on alert for deployment to Virginia and other States in Region III.

The FEMA Mobile Emergency Response support (MERS) Detachment from Thomasville, GA, deployed five Field Assessment Team (FAsT) vehicles and six MERS Support Element (MSE) personnel to Columbia, SC, to support National FAsT-A. Additionally, the Thomasville MERS has deployed 30 vehicles and 41 personnel to Warner-Robins AFB near Macon, GA, to await direction following landfall of Hurricane FRAN.

The Maynard, MA, MERS Detachment spent the night near Richmond, VA, enroute to Raleigh, NC. Maynard MERS has deployed 19 vehicles and 22 personnel. The Denton MERS deployed 5 FAsT vehicles and 6 MSE personnel to Raleigh, via U.S. Air Force C-17 aircraft to support National FAsT-B.

The Mobile Air Transportable Telecommunications System (MATTS) has deployed one truck and two personnel with two ground satellite terminal systems to Columbia, SC, in support of the FEMA Recovery Channel. In addition, the remainder of the Denton MERS Detachment and the MATTS continue on alert.

Tentatively, plans call for the State of South Carolina to transport the National FAsT Team and members of two State Assessment Teams with a limited complement of FAsT equipment and supplies to the anticipated impact areas along the coast. The three teams will merge into two units and work as Federal/State teams.

Staff from Mt. Weather are enroute to the Carolinas with a full complement of communications and support equipment. Arrival is anticipated to be during the morning of September 6. The equipment includes: 5 vehicles (2 cargo vans, 1 passenger van, 1 Bronco and 1 Explorer); 2 satellite downlink/uplink dishes (1 video, 1 digital); 1 G3 PBX with 300 phones; 1 data router; miscellaneous equipment for the Advance ERT-N Team (16 VHF radios, 1 VHF repeater, 6 satellite telephones and some cellular phones).

The FEMA National Hurricane Center Liaison Team is in the National Hurricane Center in Miami, Florida and continues to provide FEMA Headquarters with storm updates.

FEMA is identifying and preparing to ship numerous Initial Response Resources (IRR) to support hurricane response efforts. These resources include tarpaulins, plastic sheeting, tents, cots, sleeping bags, blankets, emergency portable generators, flashlights and portable radios.

A. Information and Planning Section (ESF #5) began operations on Wednesday, September 5, and has been supporting two daily situation status briefings, as well as preparing daily situation reports, population maps of the affected areas and predicted hurricane tracks.

(1) Defense coordinating element

The Department of Defense Liaison indicated that three mobilization points have been identified depending on where the hurricane hits. If FRAN makes landfall south of Charleston, South Carolina, the Base Support Installation (BSI) will be Fort Stewart, near Savannah, Georgia. If the hurricane makes landfall south of Camp Lejeune, South Carolina, the BSI will be Fort Jackson, Columbia, South Carolina. If the storm makes landfall north of Camp Lejeune, the BSI will be Fort Bragg, Fayetteville, North Carolina. Each BSI must be habitable.

After landfall, but prior to a Presidential Declaration, DOD will be ready to provide support under Section 403(C) of the Stafford Act. The DoD Director of Military Support will coordinate such support. It will consist of air transport for various kinds of response and support teams, telecommunications systems and other needed materiel.

(2) Operations support branch

a. ESF #1 (Transportation). A temporary Crisis Management Center is operational on a limited basis tracking the hurricane. A small watch team was on duty during the night. A complete augmentation cadre from all operating administrations will be activated September 6.

Federal Aviation Administration Crisis Response Working Groups are active. Two mobile communications teams are on standby. One team will support GSA regional operations and the other FAA response and reconstitution efforts.

All air facilities within 75 miles of the coast line in the storm watch area are at the highest level of preparedness. Facilities in Florida and Georgia are back on routine status. Facilities in Virginia are at Readiness Level Alpha.

The Federal Railway Administration is working with the railroads to assess their storm preparedness. FRA headquarters emergency staff will check with FRA Region III to determine specific impacts on CSXT and Norfolk Southern operations. Both carriers have experience with such storms and have emergency plans in place.

RESPA/OPS has contacted State pipeline safety offices in the Carolinas, Florida and Georgia to coordinate preparations for the storm. The OPS Eastern Region Office will monitor conditions in this area if we begin to experience flooding.

The Coast Guard districts along the east coast are in the highest readiness condition possible. The Coast Guard has received from the Secretary of Transportation involuntary recall authority for reservists.

Hurricane FRAN has had the following impacts on transportation.

The following North Carolina airports were closed: New Hanover International, Wilmington, Myrtle Beach International; Guard Strand, Myrtle Beach; Beaufort County; Hilton Head; and Fayetteville Regional/Grannis Field.

Effective September 5 AMTRAK suspended operations on trains 81/91 and 82/92 (Silver Star) and trains 97 and 98 (Silver Meteor), both New York to Florida trains. These suspensions will last at least through September 6.

The U.S. Coast Guard Captain of the Port closed these ports: Charleston and Georgetown, South Carolina and Wilmington, North Carolina.

b. ESF #2 (Communications). Georgia Emergency Management Agency has arranged with AT&T for a representative in the EOC.

GTE Mobile NET is staging backup equipment at Raleigh/Durham, North Carolina. GTE Telephone Operations in Myrtle Beach and Georgetown also has equipment at the closed Myrtle Beach AFB it can activate if the base becomes a Disaster Field Office (DFO) site.

The FEMA/Mount Weather Emergency Assistance Center (MWEAC) Communications Resource Manager has been given area points of contact for GTE and BELLCORE.

c. ESF #7 (Resource Support). The General Services Administration EOC became active at 7:00 a.m. EDT Wednesday. Its counterpart ESF #7 did the same.

GSA Region IV has deployed a number of personnel to the ROC, to the ERT-A or to other units. In addition other personnel are on stand-by. ESF 7 is contributing to the Federal response in the following ways: Determining sources for and costs of obtaining 40 shower units and 600 portable toilets with cleaning service for North and South Carolina; procuring the identified initial response resources on the commercial market; deploying the ERT-A for each state; contracting for two 53-foot trailers each day to move FEMA-help initial response resources to the disaster area.

Operational goals for the next 24-hour period include the following: Continue to assist in deploying the initial response resources to the affected States; continue to locate additional resources; determine the location of the disaster Field Offices and mobilization points; recover and restore General Services Administration and Federal operations in the disaster area; provide protection for all federally-owned or leased facilities.

GSA Region III is arranging to provide 9 drivers and tractors (rated at 80,000 lbs. gross weight) to move preloaded refrigerated trailers filled with an assortment of IRR items from the Regional Emergency Inventory Center at Fort Gillem, Atlanta, Georgia. In addition, Region III is arranging to provide drivers, tractors and trailers to load and move 768 rolls of plastic sheeting from Thomasville, Georgia, to Fort Gillem.

Region III staff has contacted 29 vendors in the Georgia, North Carolina and South Carolina areas, and 25 of the vendors stated that they will be moving their equipment out of the affected areas until after the storm subsides. Once damages have been assessed, the vendors would be willing to assist. Four of the vendors are looking for drivers and trucks to handle this request. Sheila Madison will be on duty at 6 a.m. EDT September 6 to handle this problem.

(3) Infrastructure support branch

The Infrastructure Support Branch continues to monitor all activities of ESF #3, #12, and the FEMA Infrastructure Officer. An action tracking updates shows that 50 generators are being moved from Fort Stewart to Fort Jackson and 50 more from Jacksonville, FL. These moves are to anticipate requests from North Carolina.

The Infrastructure Teams for ERT-N Red Team arrived in Atlanta, GA, late on September 6 and is scheduled to deploy Friday morning to Raleigh, NC. And the ERT-N Red Team will deploy to Raleigh, from Columbia SC.

As Hurricane FRAN came ashore and moved slowly north, there are no damage data or impact assessment at this time. Preliminary damage assessment teams are scheduled to be in the field once daylight arrives.

a. ESF #3 (Public Works & Engineering). During the past 24 hours the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers (USACE) continued preparations for individual and multi-state response. Two backup divisions were alerted and their EOCs activated to Level 1. ESF Representatives are enroute to Columbia, South Carolina, and Atlanta, Georgia, with a September 6 arrival anticipated.

Fifty generators are being moved from Jacksonville, Florida, to Ft. Jackson, South Carolina and an additional 50 from Ft. Stewart to Ft. Jackson. They will remain there until FEMA decides on their use. Also, 25,000 liters of water were moved to Ft. Gillem, Atlanta, Georgia. They will remain there until FEMA decides their use.

During the next 24 hours USACE will spend a FAsT representative to Columbia, South Carolina. Contingency planning will focus on the following activities: Identify backup command structures and hand-off procedures for smooth transition from division to division and district to district; identify possible displacement locations for the district; be prepared to relocate or deploy generators, if needed; be prepared to respond to multi-sate disaster requirements; coordinate the transfer of water and ice obtained through the Atlanta Council of Government to Fort Jackson, South Carolina.

b. ESF #12 (Energy). Coordination with the Nuclear Regulatory Commission is taking place.

(4) Human services branch

a. The Human Services Section of the ERT-N Red Team Advance Element established contact with the Region IV ROC and Region IV ERT-A in Raleigh. Arrangements are complete to start preliminary damage assessment activities. The Small Business Administration will participate in this process in both states. Initial contacts with ESF-6, the National Teleregistration Center and the National Processing Service Center have occurred. When the President approves a disaster declaration for a State, the 1-800 number for national teleregistration will be released to the public.

b. ESF #11 (Food). The US Department of Agriculture/Food Service has identified sources of bulk food supplies should they be needed.

c. Donations referred an offer 200,000 lbs. of ice left over from the Olympics from the Atlanta Council of Government to USACE. The latter accepted and is coordinating the transfer to Fort Jackson, South Carolina.

Greyhound Bus Company offered the use of 50 buses. Donations referred this offer to the Senate Donations Coordinator.

In both North and South Carolina the following activations have occurred: State donations management systems including toll-free numbers and phone banks; donations coordination teams; State donations coordinators.

The States will release the phone numbers to the public after Hurricane FRAN makes landfall. FEMA will assist the States deploying Donations Coordination to North and South Carolina.

The Red Cross is ready to receive immediate referrals of in-kind or cash donations. The number for in-kind donations is 1-800-7-IN-KIND. The number for cash donation is 1-800-HELP-NOW. In addition, the Adventist Community Service will accept donations at 1-800-253-3000.

FEMA headquarters is facilitating a conference call at 10:00 a.m. today (September 6) with national voluntary agency donations managers, State Donations Coordinators in North and South Carolina and representatives of business and industry to share basic information on donating plans and procedures.

A Community Relations advance team is in place in South Carolina and is coordinating the deployment of additional community relations personnel. Similar actions will occur in North Carolina.

(5) Emergency services branch

a. ESF #4 (Firefighting). Two Interagency Incident Management Teams (IMT) were in staging by late September 5, one in Charlotte, North Carolina, and the other in Savannah, Georgia. There are approximately 70 interagency personnel involved in the current operation. Personnel are assisting on the two IMTs, in two State EOCs, at the Region IV Operations Center and at FEMA Headquarters.

b. ESF #8 (Health & Medical Services). Eleven National Disaster Medical Assistance Teams (DMATS) and one Disaster Mortuary Team (DMT) continue on alert. In addition one 25-person Medical/Management Support Team is in staging at the Fayetteville, North Carolina, VA Medical Center.

The Veterans' Administration is identifying additional medical support in anticipation of future needs.

c. ESF #9 (Urban Search & Rescue). The initial Incident Support Team (IST) relocated to the Raleigh-Durham area on September 5. A second IST is currently being deployed to the Alternate EOC in Columbia and was scheduled to arrive late afternoon September 5.

One ESF-9 representative at the Task Force Leader level is assigned to the South Carolina State EOC and one is assigned to the North Carolina State EOC. Both were expected to be in place by early evening on September 5.

Three Urban Search & Rescue Teams geographically closest to North Carolina are in position to provide assistant to North and South Carolina if needed. These are VA-1 (Fairfax County), VA-2 (Virginia Beach) and MD-1 (Montgomery County). MD-1 will stage in Gold Rock, North Carolina. Staging areas for the other two units are unknown at this time.

d. ESF #10 staffed the ERT-N in Columbia, South Carolina, and the ERT-N in Raleigh, North Carolina, on September 5. In addition, it has also staffed the National FAsT at Fort Jackson, Columbia, South Carolina, and the Eastern FAsT at Raleigh, North Carolina.

5. A second IST is standing by to be deployed.

One ESF-9 representative at the Task Force Leader level is assigned to the SC State EOC and one is assigned to the NC State EOC. Both were expected to be in place by early evening on September 5.

Three Urban Search & Rescue Teams geographically closet to NC are in position to provide assistance to North and South Carolina if needed. These are VA-1 (Fairfax County), VA-2 (Virginia Beach) and MD-1 (Montgomery County). MD-1 will stage in Gold Rock, NC. Staging areas for the other two units are unknown at this time.

d. ESF #10 staffed the ERT-N in Columbia, SC, and the ERT-N in Raleigh, NC, on September 5. In addition, it has also staffed the National FAsT at Fort Jackson, Columbia, SC, and the Eastern FAsT at Raleigh, NC.

In addition, eight On-scene Coordinators are on standby in Atlanta, for response to potential hazardous materials incidents. The Mobile Command Post is also on standby. Contractor support is available.

Staff has coordinated with the U.S. Coast Guard as well as with State Emergency Planning Commissions in North and South Carolina.

MICHEL S. PAWLOWSKI,
EST Director.

Mr. HOLLINGS. Mr. President, we know that you have to get generators around at the fast food places. People do not have power. They are not preparing meals. You are working trying to get the mud out of the house and trying to stop the roof from leaking.

So, if you can get a hamburger, fine. Incidentally, we also found that we needed food stamps for 10 days to be honored and redeemed at the fast food places. We needed a supply company. People volunteered all around the country, and it started flowing in. And we were afraid that the perishables would spoil.

So, Gen. Colin Powell sent me a supply company from Georgia up to Charleston so we could handle it. All of these kinds of things we worked on, and finally came to the floor with the holdup by the mayor. That occurred, and the letter came from FEMA that the Governor had to take care of 25 percent of the cost, and the Governor bucked 13 percent of the 25 percent to the mayor. The mayor said, "Wait a minute. If I have to pay 13 percent of all costs for all of these troops and help and companies, what have you, I will have to raise taxes. After everybody is taken care of and happy, I will be out of office." So, more or less there was a freeze of the balance.

When we got on the floor here in the U.S. Senate with ALAN SIMPSON on the other side of the aisle, after day 8, 9, and finally day 15, we cleared that because we had the law in the Pennsylvania case where they pay 100 percent. James Lee Witt was there 100 percent with all of the units of government and joining hands and doing an outstanding job.

So having criticized FEMA, I think it is only noteworthy here and deserved that I should say that we properly praise him.

I thank the distinguished leaders of this bill for yielding me the time.

TREASURY, POSTAL SERVICE, AND GENERAL GOVERNMENT APPROPRIATIONS ACT, 1997

The Senate continued with the consideration of the bill.

Mr. KERREY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senator JEFFORDS, DORGAN, CONRAD, INOUE, HARKIN, LEAHY, THURMOND, AKAKA, and DASCHLE be added as cosponsors of the IRS reorganization amendment that I offered earlier.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. KERREY. Mr. President, we are about to go out here pretty soon. I want to talk a couple of minutes prior to that. Whenever we get ready to propound the UC to come back in tomorrow, I will cease and desist and pick it up again tomorrow.

I indicated earlier my support for the administration's selection of General McCaffrey to be the drug czar, the head of OMDCP. Indeed, I must say that I believe that some of that change can be attributed to last year Senator SHELBY and I objected to the funding of the OMDCP office. That is when Dr. BROWN was still there. We objected. We didn't see much progress. Change was made, and Senator SHELBY and I support General McCaffrey and his position.

There are three things that I think we need to focus on. One is you have to reduce the number of young people that are starting to use drugs to zero. That is only going to occur with the President leading.

A lot of people made fun of Ronald Reagan and Nancy Reagan when they did this, "Just say no." But the fact is it works. Kids do not know gray. They do not know in between. It is either yes or no, hot or cold, black or white. You have to say "no" over and over. Otherwise they will start. So that is issue No 1.

You can see one of the reasons that we were concerned last year. You can see that of all the problems that we have—I do not know if you can see it on this pretty small thing compared to what we normally put up down here: marijuana, LSD, inhalants. In Nebraska we had a young man recently who was killed as a result of consumption of methamphetamine. Every State in the country is now seeing a substantial increase in methamphetamine. It is a drug more dangerous than cocaine because of its impact upon the body, more difficult to detect, and we are seeing increased consumption. That is why people are concerned. In spite of some success in other areas, we are not willing to battle it when it comes to youth.

This is another little chart that shows alcohol and marijuana use in Nebraska in 1993 through 1995. It is up.

I just do not think there is any other workable solution than the President of the United States on national television saying to the youth of America, "Just say no." Over and over and over, we saw in the entertainment industry the bad guys who are the ones who smoked, drank, and did drugs—not the good guys. You have to send a message out there that these drugs are dangerous, and say to young people, "Just do not do them."

Second, the big area is in the area of interdiction and reducing the amount of drugs coming in. Senator SHELBY has been on our committee taking a big lead in making sure that our law enforcement people have the resources they need to knock those drugs down.

The third area that I would like to call a little bit of attention to is the area of hardcore drug users. I am going to go through a couple of charts very quickly just so people understand how we spend our $15 billion. This little thing you probably can't see. That is the drug czar up there; $137 million; Justice spent $7 billion; HHS, $2.3 billion; Treasury, $1.1 billion; even Veterans' Affairs spent $1 billion; Defense $800 million; Education $658 million. That is the proportion. The pie is put together something like that.

But one of the most interesting, and I think telling, facts for an awful lot of us trying to figure out what to do, tell the kids "no," and give the law enforcement people the resources. There is almost universal agreement on that.

But one of the most difficult problems is this fact. This is how much every single year since 1987, and this is how far this goes back—10 years. You can actually track it all the way back if you want to. We have been spending more and more, with a different mix of expenditures; different sort of combinations; one year a little more interdiction; one year maybe prevention, and treatment—all of this different mix of efforts. The number of hardcore drug users stayed the same at about 2.7 million. It is a very important fact.

I do not have an answer to it. I do not really know myself what we need to be doing with hardcore drug users. I had some experience in it. I was trained in pharmacy prior to getting a preinduction notice from my draft board and signing up for the world's hardest, most powerful Navy. I was trained in that. I was a patient in a hospital. My roommate was addicted to Dilantin from serious burns. So I got some experience with addiction.

It seems to me that just in general terms the solution lies somewhere out there in the market. The solution I would love to see would be the President—because he is the guy in the pulpit—saying to the pharmaceutical companies, "Look. You sell about $80 billion of over-the-counter and prescription drugs every single year to 260 million Americans, plus or minus a few millions. That is $80 billion a year." The Senator from South Carolina was talking about jobs in America. The pharmaceutical industry is one of the most important employers in the United States. These 2.7 million hardcore drug users spend $60 billion a year to feed their drug habit. That is a lot of money, as I see it. It is almost three-fourths of all the money that is being spent on legal drugs by Americans through pharmaceutical companies. I believe the pharmaceutical companies know a lot about addiction. It is an addiction. They know a lot about addiction. They have done research on it. They have had experience all the way for the last 30 years. I know that when I was practicing pharmacy in 1965 our No. 1 moving pharmaceutical in the store in Lincoln where I worked was Dexedrine. They then said that Dexedrine was not habit forming. We now know it is very seriously addictive, and we have restricted access to it.

I would put a challenge to it. There must be some better solution to what we have right now. Again, I have not reached any conclusion. I am not talking about legalization. I am not talking about basically throwing open the door and letting people have at it. But I know that when something is constant, when a number remains relatively constant, we ought to pay attention to it. I pay attention to gravity. I pay attention to things that stay the same no matter what I do. And the number of hardcore drug users in the United States of America has stayed the same regardless of what we have done.

I think it deserves some additional attention by any Member who is trying to figure out how to make this $15 billion-plus expenditure that we make every single year work so that we can say that we are getting the job done.

Again, I want to repeat. When it comes to kids, it has to be, "Just say no."

It has to be from parents. It has to be from political leaders, and the most important political leader is the President of the United States. When it comes to interdiction, you just have to play hardball with these guys. They are bad guys. They have to be dealt with very firmly. You have to put an unwelcome sign out in the United States, in every single State. You have to make sure that local law enforcement people have the resources to get convictions, and on and on.

But as for these hardcore drug users, I have to tell you, Mr. President, I am not persuaded at all that the status quo is working. All I have to offer right now is a big question mark. I have no answers, which is not altogether unusual for me when it comes to these more complex and difficult subjects.

I am through with my remarks here. We are ready to go out.

Mr. SHELBY. I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The bill clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

MORNING BUSINESS

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that there now be a period for the transaction of morning business with speakers permitted to speak for up to 5 minutes each.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

BILLY CLYDE DIFFIE'S RETIREMENT

Mr. HEFLIN. Mr. President, I want to take a moment to congratulate my friend, Billy Clyde Diffie, who entered the ranks of retired persons on August 31, 1996.

Billy Clyde Diffie was born on March 27, 1934 in Ohatchee, AL to Carl and Alta Diffie. He graduated from Ohatchee High School, where he excelled as a running back. He followed in his father's footsteps by later taking a job at the Anniston Foundry in Anniston, AL. In July 1959, he began a career with the Alabama Highway Department as an engineer assistant. Over the next three and a half decades, until his retirement last month, he worked his way through the engineer grades all the way to the rank of CE 1—civil engineer.

Right by his side during his long career with the Alabama Highway Department was his wife, Vera Sue, who he married on April 17, 1953. They have five children, Rodney Clyde, Stanley Keith, Anthony Karl, Pamela Rene, and Kimberly Sue. All five children graduated from Sylacauga High School in Sylacauga, AL, where the Diffies reside in the Fairmont Community. They have just recently purchased a second home in Laguna Beach, FL, just in time for his retirement. The house is located between his brother's beach house and his sister's on the other side.

As his children were growing up, Billy was very active in little league baseball both as a parent and as an umpire. He also coached baseball and football and was active in the youth program at the Marble City Baptist Church.

I congratulate and commend Billy Clyde Diffie on his outstanding career and wish him all the best for a happy, healthy retirement.

MESSAGES FROM THE HOUSE

At 5:56 p.m., a message from the House of Representatives, delivered by Mr. Hays, one of its reading clerks, announced that the House agrees to the concurrent resolution (H. Con. Res. 211) directing the Clerk of the House of Representatives to make a technical correction in the enrollment of H.R. 3060.

The message also announced that the House agrees to the amendment to the Senate to the bill (H.R. 3060) to implement the Protocol on Environmental Protection to the Antarctic Treaty.

The message further announced that pursuant to the provisions of Senate

Concurrent Resolution 47, 104th Congress, the Speaker appoints the following Members on the part of the House to the Joint Congressional Committee on Inaugural Ceremonies: Mr. GINGRICH of Georgia, Mr. ARMEY of Texas, and Mr. GEPHARDT of Missouri.

STATEMENTS ON INTRODUCED BILLS AND JOINT RESOLUTIONS

By Ms. SNOWE:

S. 2061. A bill to amend title II of the Trade Act of 1974 to clarify the definition of domestic industry and to include certain agricultural products for purposes of providing relief from injury caused by import competition, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Finance.

THE AGRICULTURAL TRADE REFORM ACT OF 1996

● Ms. SNOWE. Mr. President, I am introducing legislation today to give agricultural producers, including potato producers, some important and badly needed new tools for combating injurious increases in imports from foreign countries.

The Trade Act of 1974 contains provisions that permit U.S. industries to seek relief from serious injury caused by increased quantities of imports. In practice, however, it has been very difficult for many U.S. industries to actually secure action under the act to remedy this kind of injury.

The ineffectiveness of the act results from some of the specific language in the statute. Specifically, the law requires the International Trade Commission, when evaluating a petition for relief from injury, to consider whether the injury affects the entire U.S. industry, or a segment of an industry located in a major geographic area of the U.S. whose production constitutes a substantial portion of the total domestic injury. This language has been interpreted by the ITC to mean that all or nearly all of the U.S. industry must be seriously injured by the imports before it can qualify for any relief.

Thus, if an important segment of an industry is being severely injured by imports that compete directly with that segment, the businesses who comprise this portion of the industry will not have much recourse—even though the industry segment in question may employ thousands of Americans and generate billions of dollars annually for the U.S. economy. In other words, our current trade laws leave large segments of an industry that serve particular regions and markets, or have other distinguishing features, practically helpless in the face of sharp and damaging import surges.

In addition, even if large industry subdivisions could qualify for assistance, the timeframes under the Trade Act for expedited, or provisional, relief for agricultural products are too long to respond in time to prevent or adequately remedy injury caused by increasing imports. At a minimum, 3 months must elapse before any relief can be provided, irrespective of the damage that American businesses may suffer during that time. And 3 months is an absolute minimum. In reality, it could take substantially longer to provide expedited relief.

Mr. President, when it comes to agricultural products, the problems in U.S. trade law that I have described are particularly acute. Due to their perishable nature, many agricultural products cannot be inventoried until imports subside or the ITC grants relief—if the industry is so fortunate—many months or even years later. And most agricultural producers, who are heavily dependent on credit each year to produce and sell a crop, cannot wait that long. They need assistance in the short term, while the injury is occurring, if they are going to survive an import surge. Also, because crops are grown during particular seasons and serve specific markets related to production in those growing seasons, the agricultural industry is more prone to segmentation. Finally, many of the agricultural industry entities that would have to file a petition for relief under the Trade Act are really grower groups that do not necessarily have the financial wherewithal to spend millions of dollars researching, filing, and pursuing a petition before the ITC.

The bill that I have introduced today is designed to empower America's agricultural producers to seek and obtain effective remedies for damaging import surges. It will make the Trade Act more user friendly for American businesses. Unlike the current law, which sets criteria for ITC consideration that are impossible to meet and that do not reflect the realities of today's industry, my bill establishes more useful criteria. It permits the ITC to consider the impacts of import surges on an important segment of an agricultural industry when determining whether a domestic industry has been injured by imports. This segment is defined as a portion of the domestic industry located in a specific geographic area whose collective production constitutes a significant portion of the entire domestic industry. The ITC would also be required to consider whether this segment primarily serves the domestic market in the specific geographic area, and whether substantial imports are entering the area.

Rather than rely solely on an industry petition to initiate an ITC review of whether provisional, or expedited, relief deserves to be granted, my bill would permit the U.S. Trade Representative or the Congress, via a resolution, to request such review.

Because the time frames in the present law for considering and providing provisional relief are so long that the damage from imports can already be done well before a decision by the ITC is ever issued, this bill would shorten the time frame for provisional relief determinations by the ITC by allowing the commission to waive, in certain circumstances, the act's requirement that imports be monitored by the USTR for at least 90 days.

And, finally, the bill expands the list of agricultural products eligible for provisional relief to include any potato product, including processed potato products. Under current law, only perishable agricultural products and citrus products are eligible to apply for expedited relief determinations. But this narrow eligibility list unreasonably excludes important U.S. agribusinesses, such as our frozen french fry producers, from the expedited remedies available in the Trade Act.

Major American companies like Ore-Ida and Lamb Weston have reported that U.S. companies have lost 150 million pounds of french fry sales in the U.S. market to Canada in 1996 alone due to Canadian imports priced below market rates. And Canada, particularly the western provinces, has dramatically expanded its french fry production capacity to expand exports to the United States even further over the next several years. Without the changes in my bill, these critical American businesses will have no effective means for combating a Canadian import surge in the next year.

For too long, American agriculture has been trying to combat sophisticated foreign competition with the equivalent of sticks and stones. My bill strengthens the position of American agricultural producers in the competitive arena, and will either provide effective remedies for agricultural producers, or provide effective deterrents to the depredations of their competitors from other countries. I hope other Senators with an interest in fair play for our domestic agricultural producers will join me in cosponsoring this important legislation. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the text of my bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

S. 2061

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the "Agricultural Trade Reform Act of 1996".

SEC. 2. DEFINITION OF DOMESTIC INDUSTRY, ETC.

(a) DOMESTIC INDUSTRY.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Section 202(c)(6)(A)(i) of the Trade Act of 1974 (19 U.S.C. 2252(c)(6)(A)(i)) is amended to read as follows:

"(A)(i) The term 'domestic industry' means, with respect to an article—

"(I) the producers as a whole of the like or directly competitive article or those producers whose collective production of the like or directly competitive article constitutes a major proportion of the total domestic production of such article, or

"(II) the producers of a like or directly competitive perishable agricultural product, citrus product, or potato product, in a specific geographic area of the United States whose collective production in such area of such article constitutes a significant proportion of the total domestic production of such article."

(2) DETERMINATION BY COMMISSION.—Section 202(c)(4) of such Act (19 U.S.C. 2252(c)(4)) is amended—

(1) by striking "and" at the end of subparagraph (B),

(2) by striking the period at the end of subparagraph (C) and inserting "; and", and

(3) by adding at the end the following new subparagraph:

"(D) may—

"(i) in the case of one or more domestic producers—

"(I) who produce a like or directly competitive perishable agricultural product, citrus product, or potato product in a specific geographic area of the United States,

"(II) whose production of the product in such area constitutes a significant portion of the domestic industry in the United States, and

"(III) who primarily serve the market in such area, and

"(ii) if there are substantial imports of a like or directly competitive product in such area, treat as such domestic industry only that portion of the production of the product located in such area."

(b) SPECIFIC GEOGRAPHIC AREA OF THE UNITED STATES, ETC.—Section 202(c)(6) of such Act (19 U.S.C. 2252(c)(6)) is amended by adding at the end the following new subparagraphs:

"(E) The term 'specific geographic area of the United States' means a discrete and distinguishable geographic area in the United States in which a perishable agricultural product, citrus product, or potato product is produced.

"(F) The term 'significant portion of the domestic industry in the United States' means an important, recognizable part of the domestic industry, including a part of the industry characterized by production in the same growing season."

SEC. 3. PROVISIONAL RELIEF.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 202(d)(1)(C) of the Trade Act of 1974 (19 U.S.C. 2252(d)(1)(C)) is amended to read as follows:

"(C)(i) If—

"(I) a petition filed under subsection (a)—
 "(aa) alleges injury from imports of a perishable agricultural product, citrus product, or potato product that has been, on the date the allegation is included in the petition, subject to monitoring by the Commission under subparagraph (B) for not less than 90 days; and

(bb) requests that provisional relief be provided under this subsection with respect to such imports; or

"(II) a request made of the President or the Trade Representative, or a resolution adopted by either the Committee on Ways and Means or the Committee on Finance, under subsection (b), states that provisional relief provided under this subsection with respect to such imports may be necessary to prevent or remedy serious injury, or the threat thereof, to the domestic industry the Commission shall, not later than the 21st day after the day on which the request was filed, make a determination described in clause (ii), on the basis of available information.

"(ii) The determination described in this clause is a determination by the Commission whether increased imports (either actual or relative to domestic production) of the perishable agricultural product, citrus product, or potato product are a substantial cause of serious injury, or the threat thereof, to the domestic industry producing a like or directly competitive perishable agricultural product, citrus product, or potato product and whether either—

"(I) the serious injury is likely to be difficult to repair by reason of perishability of the like or directly competitive agricultural product; or

"(II) the serious injury cannot be timely prevented through investigation under subsection (b) and action under section 203."

(b) SPECIAL RULES FOR CONSIDERING CERTAIN REQUESTS.—Section 202(d)(1) of such Act (19 U.S.C. 2252(d)(1)) is amended by adding at the end the following new subparagraph:

"(H) In considering a petition filed under subsection (a) or a request or resolution described in subsection (b), the Commission may waive the 90-day monitoring requirement in subparagraph (C)(i)(I)(aa), if—

"(i) there is a reasonable expectation, based on all available evidence, including significant increases in production or production capacity for the product occurring in the country from which the like or directly competitive product is imported in the year preceding such petition, request, or resolution that the product will be imported from that country in the current year in such quantities as to be a substantial cause of serious injury, or the threat thereof, to the domestic industry producing a like or directly competitive product; and

"(ii) the quantities of imports of the like or directly competitive product from that country reported for the 1-month period preceding the date of such petition, request, or resolution are consistent with such expectation."

(c) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—

(1) Section 202(a)(2)(B)(i) of such Act (19 U.S.C. 2252(a)(2)(B)(i)) is amended by striking

"subsection (d)(1)(C)(i)" and inserting "subsection (d)(1)(C)(i)(I)(aa)".

(2) Section 202(d)(1)(A) of such Act (19 U.S.C. 2252(d)(1)(A)) are amended by striking "perishable agricultural product or citrus product" each place it appears and inserting "perishable agricultural product, citrus product, or potato product".

(3) Section 202(d)(5) of such Act (19 U.S.C. 2252(d)(5)) is amended by adding at the end the following new subparagraph:

"(D) The term 'potato product' means any potato product including any processed potato product."•

S. 2062. A bill to amend the Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Act of 1974, and for other purposes; to the Committee on the Judiciary.

JUVENILE JUSTICE AND DELINQUENCY MODERNIZATION ACT OF 1996

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, noting that the occupant of the chair is the chairman of the subcommittee of jurisdiction of the Judiciary Committee and noting that he and others on that committee have been working diligently in an effort to modernize the Juvenile Justice Act which has been on the books for a long time and obviously is in need of modernization, I rise today to introduce a bill which I hope the subcommittee and the Committee of the Judiciary will take into consideration as they put together a modern bill. I choose to call my bill, which is comprehensive and is the result of some long work on my part and some hard work on the part of a number of people, the Juvenile Justice Modernization Act of 1996.

Mr. President, I rise today to introduce the Juvenile Justice Modernization Act of 1996, a bill to change the focus of our Federal juvenile crime and delinquency prevention efforts. Simply put, the current Federal approach to juvenile crime is outdated, under-funded and ineffective. It fails to address today's increasingly violent juvenile offender, while simultaneously imposing unrealistic burdens on State and local governments.

The nature of juvenile crime has changed substantially since Congress first enacted the Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Act over 20 years ago. From 1985 to 1994, the teen homicide rate increased 172 percent. Today, more kids use more drugs, have more guns and commit more violent crimes than ever before. Violent street gangs have begun to supply children with the sense of belonging once provided by the traditional family structure. The time has come for a greater Federal role in combating violent juvenile crime, but that new role should not tie the hands of State and local governments nor prevent them from implementing new and innovative solutions to this growing problem.

In July, Senator THOMPSON, the chairman of the Judiciary Committee's Subcommittee on Youth Violence, and I held a hearing in my home State of New Mexico to address this issue. New Mexico faces many of the same problems as other States—rising youth violence, increased teen pregnancy rates, overburdened law enforcement, judicial and corrections systems and a lack of adequate funding for juvenile crime prevention and enforcement programs. In New Mexico alone, 43 percent of the juveniles in State correctional facilities had at least 10 prior referrals to the juvenile system, 75 percent have a history of committing violent crime, 80 percent have a history of gang involvement, 67 percent have been truant, dropped out or expelled from school, and 63 percent report weekly use of drugs or alcohol. Clearly my State, like most others, faces an enormous challenge.

When we held our hearings, I proposed that we should increase Federal funding to allow States to implement better prevention programs and law enforcement and prosecution policies which reflect the changing nature of juvenile crime. This bill increases Federal juvenile justice funding from $160 to $500 million and creates two separate $250 million block grants for States.

The first $250 million will be available to States in much the same manner as under the current Federal law. However, the bill eliminates two of the most burdensome mandates in Federal law and makes it easier for States to meet the remaining ones.

However, we cannot simply throw money at the States and expect that the problem will go away. States must be willing to try new and innovative approaches and get tough on the most violent juvenile offenders. The second $250 million will fund incentive grants, available to States which enact certain juvenile justice reforms. Many of the suggested reforms in the bill came from ideas raised at the hearings we held in New Mexico. At those hearings, we heard from a wide variety of witnesses, and I want to tell you what they told us, because many of them had thoughtful criticisms and solutions to the problems States and localities face in dealing with juvenile crime.

We heard from judges, who described to us the lack of respect many kids have for the justice system. Children are not born with a lack of respect for law and order, it is learned after numerous contacts with a criminal justice system that typically imposes no penalties until the child commits a heinous act of violence. As one judge so eloquently stated:

The initial contact with the law is a very important event in a young delinquent's life * * * when that contact occurs and nothing of significance occurs, as the youth perceives matters, that youth has turned a corner and formed an opinion about the law enforcement community.

The judges universally agreed that the No. 1 thing we need to do in our juvenile justice system is create a system of graduated sanctions, so that every delinquent act—no matter how small—has a sure, swift and substantial punishment. For quite some time, our juvenile courts have focused too heavily on rehabilitation and not enough on punishment. We instead need balance—we need to use punishment as well as treatment to re-teach kids the difference between right and wrong.

When confronted with certain penalties for bad acts, children respond and are less likely to re-offend in the future. This bill encourages States to implement graduated sanctions programs and provides them with the resources to do so.

We also heard from director of the Children, Youth and Families Department in New Mexico, and the superintendent of the largest juvenile correctional facility in the State. While both noted the need to hold juveniles accountable for their actions, they also indicated the need to get parents involved in the process and to make sure that juveniles who are parents take responsibility for their children. According to one witness who has worked with delinquent kids for over 20 years,

Two decades ago, when kids were misbehaving or out of control, [she] could talk to Mom and Dad about it. Now, parents have become enablers rather than good role models who set limits.

My bill will encourage States to enact laws and pursue programs to strengthen families in order to prevent the next generation of kids from growing up without parents and without discipline. It will require juveniles who have children to take financial responsibility for them as a condition of their parole or probation. It also will encourage States to enact laws to impose civil liability on parents for the destructive acts of their children and will provide more money for prevention programs to give families a better chance to raise their children so that they never get into trouble.

At our hearing, we also heard from educators and community leaders. They universally noted the need to keep kids in school, and to give them constructive things to do and positive role models to guide them. My bill will encourage States to adopt zero-tolerance truancy policies, enhanced mentoring programs and to increase the availability of educational and recreational programs that benefit all children. It also will encourage States to provide alternative classrooms and schools for delinquent kids, so that children who are expelled for disciplinary reasons are not simply forgotten and left out of the education system. The easiest way to ensure that children will become criminals is to expel them from school and deny them an education. Children deserve every opportunity to get an education, and my bill will encourage that.

Finally, at our hearing we heard from the victims of violent juvenile crime. Their compelling stories convinced me of the need to change the way we currently treat the most violent juveniles. In my State, an innocent young girl was brutally attacked by a 15-year-old young man who stabbed her in the neck as part of his gang initiation. The attack left her paralyzed. In New Mexico, the maximum sentence the young man can receive is a little over 4 years in a juvenile facility. Here is what the 18-year-old victim said about our current juvenile justice system:

The out-dated laws which exist in our legal system today are nothing but a joke to juveniles. Our laws were meant for juveniles who were committing crimes like truancy and breaking curfews. They are not designed to deal with the violent crimes that juveniles are committing today.

For any Senator who has spoken to victims of juvenile crime in their State, I think this comment sums up the fear and frustration felt around the country. Our system protects violent juvenile criminals rather than protecting victims. Unless a kid commits murder, our system usually fails to hold him accountable for his actions. That must change, and this bill encourages States to adopt mandatory adult prosecution for juveniles over age 14 who commit serious violent crimes.

The bill also protects victims in other ways—by giving States an incentive to adopt victims' rights legislation, to allow for open access to juvenile court proceedings, and to require adult records, including fingerprints and photographs, be kept for violent juveniles. Victims and their families should have access to court proceedings, the right to know when a criminal has been sentenced, when he will be released, and the public has a right to be protected from future violent acts through the imposition of adult sentences for adult crimes. If States adopt these suggested reforms, and I think that many States will, our streets will be safer and there will be fewer innocent victims of violent juvenile crime.

Mr. President, I realize that we cannot change the juvenile justice system overnight. And I realize that this is for the most part, an issue which must be dealt with at the State and local level. But the Federal Government has a role to play and a responsibility to fulfill. That responsibility is to ensure that our streets are safe by giving States the resources and flexibility to implement new and innovative solutions to this very serious problem. My bill provides some suggestions on how we might do that.

I realize that time is short in this Congress, but I really believe that we can no longer sweep this problem under the rug and act like the current approach actually works. Clearly, it does not. I hope that my colleagues will support my efforts along with the efforts of others, that we will give our input to the committees of jurisdiction and ultimately vote on the floor of the Senate to dramatically change the Federal Government's role as it pertains to youth offenders in the United States.

In summary, we will repeal the following mandates found in the Juvenile Justice Act:

Deinstitutionalization of status offenders, those juveniles who commit acts that are criminal if committed by a child but not criminal if done by an adult. We will remove youths from adult jails and lockups, and we will provide flexibility to States by changing the current law on "sight and sound" separation found in the Juvenile Justice Act into a broad principle: States must provide physical separation for incarcerated juveniles and adults, but not necessarily sight-and-sound separation, which has been such a burden and so expensive, in particular in rural and small town facilities in the United States. We need to provide for the sharing of staff in facilities, not require that there be separate staff in each instance.

We make new findings and purposes for this entire section. Then, ultimately, we say that our States will receive incentive grants if they do the following three things:

Implement graduated sanctions, whereby every juvenile offender receives punishment for every crime, no matter how small. Punishment should be of an increasing severity, based on the nature of the crime and if the juvenile is a repeat offender.

Second, fingerprint and photography records to be kept for juveniles 15 and under who commit felonies, and, finally, mandatory adult prosecution for juveniles 14 years and older who commit serious violent crimes.

In addition to these three, without which the incentive grants will not be available, we provide a long list of actions that many think are required in our States if we are ever going to get a handle on this, and then ask the States, as their best practices, to adopt at least five of them. These reforms have been suggested by the very best people who are out there in the field struggling to do something about this very serious problem.

Mr. President, I have a section-by-section analysis and an outline and short table of contents of the bill. I ask unanimous consent that they be printed in the RECORD and that the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

The Congress finds that—

(1) the Nation's juvenile justice system is in trouble—facilities are dangerously overcrowded, field staff is overworked, and a growing number of children are breaking the law;

(2) a redesigned juvenile corrections program for the next century should be based on 4 principles—accountability for offenders and their families, restitution for victims, community-based prevention, and community involvement;

(3) existing programs have not adequately responded to the particular problems of juvenile delinquents in the 1990's;

(4) State and local communities, which experience directly the devastating failure of the juvenile justice system, do not presently have sufficient resources to deal comprehensively with the problems of juvenile crime and delinquency;

(5) limited State and local resources are being unnecessarily wasted complying with overly technical Federal requirements for "sight and sound" separation currently in effect under the 1974 Act. Prohibiting the commingling of adults and juvenile populations would achieve this important purpose without imposing an undue burden on State and local governments;

(6) limited State and local resources are being unnecessarily wasted complying with the overly restrictive Federal mandate that no juveniles be detained or confined in any jail or lockup for adults. This mandate is particularly burdensome for rural communities;

(7) the juvenile justice system should give additional attention to the problem of juveniles who commit serious crimes, with particular attention given to the area of sentencing;

(8) the term "prevention" in the context of this Act means both ensuring that families have a greater chance to raise their children so that those children do not engage in criminal or delinquent activities, and preventing children who have engaged in those activities from becoming permanently entrenched in the juvenile justice system;

(9) in 1992 alone, there were over 110,000 juvenile arrests for violent crimes, and 16.64 times that number of juvenile arrests for property and other crimes;

(10) in 1994, males ages 14 through 24 constituted only 8 percent of the population but accounted for more than 25 percent of all homicide victims and nearly half of all convicted murderers;

(11) in a survey of 250 judges, 93 percent of those judges stated that juvenile offenders should be fingerprinted, 85 percent stated that juvenile criminal records should be made available to adult authorities, and 40 percent stated that the minimum age for facing murder charges should be 14 or 15;

(12) studies indicate that good parenting skills, including normative development, monitoring, and discipline, clearly affects whether children will become delinquent, and adequate supervision of free-time activities, whereabouts, and peer interaction is critical to ensure that children do not drift into delinquency;

(13) 20 years ago, less than half of our Nation's cities reported gang activity, while a generation later, reasonable estimates indicate that there are now more than 500,000 gang members in more than 16,000 gangs on the streets of our cities, and there were more than 580,000 gang crimes in 1993;

(14) while the premise of adult corrections is that incarceration prevents the offender from committing additional crimes and punishes the offender by depriving the offender of freedom, the premise of juvenile corrections and this Act is that, unlike adults, children have a significant potential to change and become productive, law-abiding members of society if the juvenile justice system is premised upon accountability, consistent imposition of sanctions and graduated sanctions imposed so that every wrongful Act has a penalty;

(15) the high incidence of delinquency in the United States today results in an enormous annual cost and an immeasurable loss of human life, personal security, and wasted human resources; and

(16) juvenile delinquency constitutes a growing threat to the national welfare, requiring immediate and comprehensive action by the Federal Government to reduce and eliminate this threat.

TITLE I—REFORM OF EXISTING PROGRAMS

SEC. 101. FINDINGS AND PURPOSE.

(a) FINDINGS.—Section 101 of the Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Act of 1974 (42 U.S.C. 5601) is amended—

(2) in subsection (b)—

(A) by striking "(b)"; and

(B) by striking "Federal Government" and inserting "Federal, State, and local governments";

(b) PURPOSE.—Section 102 of the Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Act of 1974 (42 U.S.C. 5602) is amended to read as follows:

"SEC. 102. PURPOSES.

SEC. 104. ANNUAL REPORT.

Not later than 180 days after the end of a fiscal year, the Administrator shall submit to the President, the Speaker of the House of Representatives, the President pro tempore of the Senate, and the Governor of each State a report that contains the following with respect to such fiscal year:

(1) SUMMARY AND ANALYSIS.—A detailed summary and analysis of the most recent data available regarding the number of juveniles taken into custody, the rate at which juveniles are taken into custody, the number of repeat offenders, the number of juveniles using weapons, the number of juvenile and adults victims and the trends demonstrated by the data required by subparagraphs (A), (B), and (C). Such summary and analysis shall set out the information required by subparagraphs (A), (B), (C), and (D) separately for juvenile nonoffenders, juvenile status offenders, and other juvenile offenders. Such summary and analysis shall separately address with respect to each category of juveniles specified in the preceding sentence—

(A) the types of offenses with which the juveniles are charged, data on serious violent crimes committed by juveniles and data on serious habitual offenders;

(B) the race and gender of the juveniles and their victims;

(C) the ages of the juveniles and their victims;

(D) the types of facilities used to hold the juveniles (including juveniles treated as adults for purposes of prosecution) in custody, including secure detention facilities, secure correctional facilities, jails, and lockups;

(E) the number of juveniles who died while in custody and the circumstances under which they died;

(F) the educational status of juveniles, including information relating to learning disabilities, failing performance, grade retention, and dropping out of school;

(G) the number of juveniles who are substance abusers; and

(H) information on juveniles fathering or giving birth to illegitimate children and whether these juveniles have assumed financial responsibility for their children.

(2) ACTIVITIES FUNDED.—A description of the activities for which funds are expended under this part.

(3) STATE COMPLIANCE.—A description based on the most recent data available of the extent to which each State complies with section 223 and with the plan submitted under such section by the State for such fiscal year.

(4) SUMMARY AND EXPLANATION.—A summary of each program or activity for which assistance is provided under part C or D, an evaluation of the results of such program or activity, and a determination of the feasibility and advisability of replacing such program or activity in other locations.

(5) EXEMPLARY PROGRAMS AND PRACTICES.—A description of selected exemplary delinquency prevention programs and accountability based youth violence reduction practices.

SEC. 105. BLOCK GRANTS FOR STATE AND LOCAL PROGRAMS.

Section 221 of the Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Act of 1974 (42 U.S.C. 5631) is amended—

(1) in subsection (a), by inserting before the period at the end the following: “, including initiatives for holding juveniles accountable for any act for which they are adjudicated delinquent, increasing public awareness of juvenile proceedings, and improving the content, accuracy, availability, and usefulness of juvenile court and law enforcement records (including fingerprints and photographs) and education programs such as funding for extended hours for libraries and recreational programs which benefit all juveniles”;

(2) in subsection (b)—

(A) by striking paragraph (1) and inserting the following:

“(1) Of amounts made available to carry out this part in any fiscal year, $10,000,000 or 1 percent (whichever is greater) may be used by the Administrator—

“(A) to establish and maintain a clearinghouse to disseminate to the States information on juvenile delinquency prevention, treatment, and control; and

“(B) to provide training and technical assistance to States to improve the administration of the juvenile justice system.”;

(B) in paragraph (2), by striking the last sentence.

SEC. 106. ALLOCATION.

Section 222 of the Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Act of 1974 (42 U.S.C. 5632) is amended to read as follows:

“SEC. 222. ALLOCATION OF FUNDS.

“(a) ALLOCATION AND DISTRIBUTION OF FUNDS.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—Of the total amount made available to carry out this part for each fiscal year, the Administrator shall allocate to each State the sum of—

“(A) an amount that bears the same relation to one-third of such total as the number of juveniles in the State bears to the number of juveniles in all States;

“(B) an amount that bears the same relation to one-third of such total as the number of juveniles from families with incomes below the poverty line in the State bears to the number of such juveniles in all States; and

“(C) an amount that bears the same relation to one-third of such total as the average annual number of part 1 violent crimes reported by the State to the Federal Bureau of Investigation for the 3 most recent calendar years for which such data are available, bears to the number of part 1 violent crimes reported by all States to the Federal Bureau of Investigation for such years.

“(2) MINIMUM REQUIREMENT.—Each State shall receive not less than 0.35 percent of one-third of the total amount appropriated to carry out this part for each fiscal year.

“(3) UNAVAILABILITY OF INFORMATION.—For purposes of this subsection, if data regarding the measures governing allocation of funds under paragraphs (1) and (2) in any State are unavailable or substantially inaccurate, the Administrator and the State shall utilize the best available comparable data for the purposes of allocation of any funds under this part.

“(b) AVAILABILITY.—Any amounts made available to carry out this section shall remain available until expended.”.

SEC. 107. STATE PLANS.

Section 223 of the Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Act of 1974 (42 U.S.C. 5633) is amended—

(1) in subsection (a)—

(A) by striking the second sentence;

(B) in paragraph (5) by striking “, other than” and all that follows through “section 222(d).”; and

(C) by striking paragraph (14) and inserting the following:

“(14) provide assurances that, in each secure facility located in the State (including any jail or lockup for adults), there is no commingling in the same cell or community room of, or any other regular contact between—

“(A) any juvenile detained or confined for any period of time in that facility; and

“(B) any adult offender detained or confined for any period of time in that facility.”;

(D) by striking paragraphs (3), (8), (9), (10), (12), (13), (15), (17), (18), (19), (24), and (25); and

(E) by redesignating paragraphs (4), (5), (6), (7), (11), (14), (16), (20), (21), (22), and (23) as paragraphs (3), (4), (5), (6), (7), (8), (9), (10), (11), (12), and (13), respectively; and

(2) by striking subsections (c) and (d).

SEC. 108. REPEALS.

The Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Act of 1974 (42 U.S.C. 5601 et seq.) is amended—

(1) in title II—

(A) by striking parts C, E, F, G, and H;

(B) by striking part I, as added by Public Law 102-586; and

(C) by amending the heading of part I, as in effect immediately before the date of enactment of Public Law 102-586, to read as follows:

“PART E—GENERAL AND ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISIONS”;

(2) by striking title V, as added by Public Law 102-586.

TITLE II—INCENTIVE GRANTS FOR ACCOUNTABILITY-BASED REFORMS

SEC. 201. INCENTIVE GRANTS FOR ACCOUNTABILITY-BASED REFORMS.

Title II of the Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Act of 1974 (42 U.S.C. 5611 et seq.) is amended by inserting after part B the following:

“PART C—INCENTIVE GRANTS FOR ACCOUNTABILITY-BASED REFORMS

“SEC. 241. AUTHORIZATION OF GRANTS.

“The Administrator shall provide juvenile delinquent accountability grants under section 242 to eligible States to carry out the purposes of this title.

“SEC. 242. ACCOUNTABILITY-BASED INCENTIVE GRANTS.

“(a) ELIGIBILITY FOR GRANT.—To be eligible to receive a grant under section 241, a State shall submit to the Administrator an application at such time, in such form, and containing such assurances and information as the Administrator may require by rule, including assurances that the State has in effect (or will have in effect not later than 1 year after the date on which the State submits such application) laws, or has implemented (or will implement not later than 1 year after the date on which the State submits such application)—

“(1) policies and programs that ensure that juveniles who commit an act after attaining 14 years of age that would be a serious violent crime if committed by an adult are treated as adults for purposes of prosecution;

“(2) graduated sanctions for juvenile offenders, ensuring a sanction for every delinquent or criminal act, ensuring that the sanction is of increasing severity based on the nature of the act, and escalating the sanction with each subsequent delinquent or criminal act; and

“(3) a system of records relating to any adjudication of juveniles less than 15 years of age who are adjudicated delinquent for conduct that if committed by an adult would constitute a serious violent crime. Such records shall be—“(A) equivalent to the records that would be kept of adults arrested for such conduct, including fingerprints and photographs;

“(B) submitted to the Federal Bureau of Investigation in the same manner as adult records are so submitted;

“(C) retained for a period of time that is equal to the period of time records are retained for adults; and

“(D) available to law enforcement agencies, the courts, and school officials (and such school officials shall be subject to the same standards and penalties that law enforcement and juvenile justice system employees are subject to under Federal and State law, for handling and disclosing such information).

“(b) ADDITIONAL AMOUNT BASED ON ACCOUNTABILITY-BASED YOUTH VIOLENCE REDUCTION PRACTICES.—A State that receives a grant under subsection (a) is eligible to receive an additional amount of funds added to such grant if such State demonstrates that the State has in effect, or will have in effect, not later than 1 year after the deadline established by the Administrator for the submitting of applications under subsection (a) for the fiscal year at issue, not less than 5 of the following practices:

“(1) VICTIMS’ RIGHTS.—Increased victims’ rights, including the right to a final conclusion free from unreasonable delay, and the right to be notified of any release or escape of an offender who committed a crime against a particular victim.

“(2) VICTIM RESTITUTION.—Mandatory victim restitution.

“(3) ACCESS TO PROCEEDINGS.—Public access to juvenile court proceedings.

“(4) PARENTAL RESPONSIBILITY.—Juvenile curfews and parental civil liability for serious acts committed by juveniles released to the custody of their parents by the court.

“(5) ZERO TOLERANCE FOR DEADBEAT JUVENILE PARENTS.—Require as condition of parole that—

“(A) juvenile offenders who are parents demonstrate parental responsibility by working and paying child support; and “(B) juveniles attend and successfully complete school or pursue vocational training.

“(6) SERIOUS HABITUAL OFFENDERS COMPREHENSIVE ACTION PROGRAM (SHOCAP).—A multidisciplinary, interagency management, information and monitoring system for the early identification, control, supervision, and treatment of the most serious juvenile offenders.

“(7) COMMUNITY-WIDE PARTNERSHIPS.—Community-wide partnerships involving county, municipal government, school districts, appropriate State agencies, and nonprofit organizations to administer a unified approach to juvenile delinquency.

“(8) ZERO TOLERANCE FOR TRUANCY.—School districts should implement programs to curb truancy and implement certain and swift punishments for truancy, including parental notification of every absence, mandatory Saturday school makeup sessions for truants or weekends in jail for truants and denial of participation or attendance at extra-curricular activities by truants.

“(9) ALTERNATIVE SCHOOLING.—A requirement that, as a condition of receiving any State funding provided to school districts in accordance with a formula allocation based on the number of children enrolled in school in the school district, each school district shall establish one or more alternative schools or classrooms for juvenile offenders or juveniles who are expelled or suspended for disciplinary reasons and shall require that such juveniles attend the alternative schools or classrooms. Any juvenile who refuses to attend such alternative school or classroom shall be immediately detained pending a hearing. If a student is transferred from a regular school to an alternative school for juvenile offenders or juveniles who are expelled or suspended for disciplinary reasons such State funding shall also be transferred to the alternative school.

“(10) JUDICIAL JURISDICTION.—A system under which municipal and magistrate courts have—

“(A) jurisdiction over minor delinquency offenses such as truancy, curfew violations, and vandalism; and “(B) short term detention authority for habitual minor delinquent behavior.

“(11) ELIMINATION OF CERTAIN INEFFECTIVE PENALTIES.—Eliminate ‘counsel and release’ or ‘refer and release’ as a penalty for juveniles with respect to the second or subsequent offense for which the juvenile is referred to a juvenile probation officer.

“(12) REPORT BACK ORDERS.—A system of ‘report back’ orders whenever juveniles are placed on probation, so that after a period of time (not to exceed 2 months) the juvenile appears before and advises the judge of the progress of the juvenile in meeting certain goals.

“(13) PENALTIES FOR USE OF FIREARM.—Mandatory penalties for the use of a firearm during a violent crime or a drug felony.

“(14) STREET GANGS.—Make it illegal to engage in criminal conduct as a member of a street gang and impose severe penalties for terrorism by criminal street gangs.

“(15) CHARACTER COUNTS.—Character education and training for juvenile offenders.

“(16) MENTORING.—Mentoring programs for at-risk youth.

“(17) DRUG COURTS AND COMMUNITY-ORIENTED POLICING STRATEGIES.—Courts for juveniles charged with drug offenses and community-oriented policing strategies.

“SEC. 243. FORMULAS FOR GRANTS.

“The amount made available for any fiscal year for grants under section 241 shall be allocated among the States proportionately on the basis of the number of residents of such States who are less than 18 years of age, in accordance with the following:

“(1) 50 percent shall be allocated among the States that meet the requirements of section 242(a).

“(2) 50 percent shall be allocated among the States that meet the requirements of subsections (a) and (b) of section 242.

“SEC. 244. ACCOUNTABILITY.

“A State that receives a grant under section 241 shall use accounting, audit, and fiscal procedures that conform to guidelines prescribed by the Administrator, and shall ensure that any funds used to carry out section 241 shall represent the best value for the State at the lowest possible cost and employ the best available technology.

“SEC. 245. LIMITATION ON USE OF FUNDS.

“(a) NONSUPPLANTING REQUIREMENT.—Funds made available under section 241 shall not be used to supplant State funds, but shall be used to increase the amount of funds that would, in the absence of Federal funds, be made available from State sources.

“(b) ADMINISTRATIVE AND RELATED COSTS.—Not more than 2 percent of the funds appropriated under section 291(c) for a fiscal year shall be available to the Administrator for such fiscal year for purposes of—

“(1) research and evaluation, including assessment of the effect on public safety and other effects of the expansion of correctional capacity and sentencing reforms implemented pursuant to this part; and

“(2) technical assistance relating to the use of grants made under section 241, and development and implementation of policies, programs, and practices described in section 242.

“(c) CARRYOVER OF APPROPRIATIONS.—Funds appropriated under section 291(c) shall remain available until expended.

“(d) MATCHING FUNDS.—The Federal share of a grant received under this part may not exceed 90 percent of the costs of a proposal as described in an application approved under this part.”.

TITLE III—GENERAL PROVISIONS

SEC. 301. AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.

Section 299 of the Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Act of 1974 (42 U.S.C. 5671) is amended to read as follows:

“SEC. 291. AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.

“(a) OFFICE OF YOUTH VIOLENCE REDUCTION.—There are authorized to be appropriated for each of fiscal years 1997, 1998, 1999, 2000, and 2001 such sums as may be necessary to carry out part A.

“(b) BLOCK GRANTS FOR STATE AND LOCAL PROGRAMS.—There is authorized to be appropriated to carry out part B $250,000,000 for each of fiscal years 1997, 1998, 1999, 2000, and 2001.

“(c) INCENTIVE GRANTS FOR ACCOUNTABILITY-BASED REFORMS.—There is authorized to be appropriated to carry out part C $250,000,000 for each of fiscal years 1997, 1998, 1999, 2000, and 2001.

“(d) SOURCE OF APPROPRIATIONS.—Funds authorized by this section to be appropriated may be appropriated from the Violent Crime Reduction Trust Fund.”.

Juvenile Justice Modernization Act of 1996—SECTION-BY-SECTION ANALYSIS

Section 1—Short title & table of contents.

TITLE I—REFORM OF EXISTING JUVENILE JUSTICE PROGRAMS

Section 101—Strikes the “Findings” in subsection (a) of Section 101 of the Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Act of 1974 (42 U.S.C. 5601). Amends subparagraph (b) of Section 101 to recognize the need for comprehensive state, local and federal government action to combat juvenile crime.

Amends the “Purposes” in Section 102 of the Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Act of 1974 (42 U.S.C. 5602) to recognize the new Act’s focus on assisting State and local governments’ efforts to promote public safety by supporting juvenile delinquency prevention and law enforcement programs and to provide for the establishment, operation and evaluation of federally assisted juvenile crime programs.

Section 102—Amends Section 103 of the Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Act of 1974 (42 U.S.C. 5603) and adds two new terms.

For purposes of the Act, “serious violent crime” means murder, nonnegligent manslaughter, forcible rape, robbery, aggravated assault with a firearm, kidnaping, felony aggravated battery, assault with the intent to commit a serious violent crime, or vehicular homicide committed while under the influence of an intoxicating liquor or controlled substance.

“Serious habitual offender” means a juvenile who meets one or more of several criteria: (1) Arrest for a capital, life or first degree aggravated sexual offense; (2) 5 or more arrests, with 3 chargeable as felonies and at least 3 arrests within the preceding 12 months; (3) 10 or more arrests, with 2 chargeable as felonies and at least 3 arrests in the preceding 12 months; or (4) 10 or more arrests, with 8 or more for misdemeanor crimes involving theft, battery, narcotics possession or possession of weapons, with at least 3 arrests occurring within the preceding 12 months.

Section 103—Amends Section 201 of the Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Act of 1974 (42 U.S.C. 5611) and renames the Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention. OJJDP will be known as the “Office of Youth Violence Reduction.”

Eliminates Presidential appointment for the Administrator of the Office. Requires that the Administrator of the Office be a career appointee with experience in juvenile justice programs. The Administrator will report to the head of the Office of Justice Programs and will continue to prescribe regulations and administer grants awarded by the Office. Eliminates the Deputy Administrator position.

Amends Section 204 of the JJ&DP Act and requires the Administrator to submit to Congress the plan for the implementation of federal juvenile delinquency programs. Eliminates requirement that the Administrator consult with the Coordinating Council on Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention. Limits the Office’s responsibilities to two: to report to the President on all matters related to federal juvenile justice programs and to reduce duplication of federal juvenile justice programs and the activities of federal departments and agencies.

Renames the Coordinating Council on Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention as the “Coordinating Council on Youth Violence Reduction.”

Amends Section 207 of the JJ&DP Act and requires the Administrator to submit an annual report to the President, Congress and the Governors of the 50 states which contains a summary and analysis of juvenile crime and incarceration data, as well as information on juvenile substance abuse and the degree to which juvenile offenders have taken financial responsibility for their children. The annual report also must contain a description of activities funded under the Act, an explanation of the extent to which states comply with the requirements of Section 223, a summary and evaluation of each program or activity for which assistance is provided, and a list and description of selected exemplary delinquency prevention programs and accountability-based youth violence reduction practices.

Section 104—Amends Section 221 of the JJ&DP Act to authorize the Administrator to make grants to states for initiatives with the additional purposes of holding juveniles accountable for all delinquent acts, increasing public awareness of juvenile proceedings, improving juvenile court and law enforcement records, including fingerprints and photographs and increasing the availability of education programs which benefit all juveniles.

Allows the Administrator to use the greater of one percent of the funds made available under the Act or $10 million to establish and maintain a clearinghouse to disseminate to States information on juvenile delinquency, prevention, treatment and control and to provide training and technical assistance to States to improve their juvenile justice systems.

Section 105—Amends Section 222 of the JJ&DP Act and creates a new formula for the allocation and distribution of grants under Part B of the Act. $250 million available under this section will be allocated based equally on the number of juveniles in each state, the number of juveniles in the state living below the poverty line and the violent crime rate of the state.

Maintains federal funding levels by requiring that each state continue to receive 0.35 percent of one-third of the funds appropriated to carry out the Act. Allows the Administrator and states to use the best available comparable data to determine eligibility under the formula. Eliminates the requirement that states use 5 percent of grant money to assist state advisory groups.

Section 106—Amends Section 223 of the JJ&DP Act and eliminates the requirement that states update their plans annually to include new programs and challenge activities. Eliminates the requirement that states form juvenile justice advisory groups. Eliminates the requirement that 75 percent of funds be used for particular programs.

Eliminates many of the mandates imposed upon states as conditions of receiving federal funds, including deinstitutionalization of status offenders and removal of juveniles from adult jails and lock-ups. Requires that States provide assurances that there is no commingling of or regular contact between juvenile and adult offenders in the same cell or community room in state facilities.

Section 107—Repeals several parts in title II of the JJ&DP Act. Eliminates the National Institute for Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention, Special Emphasis Prevention and Treatment Programs, State Challenge Activities, Treatment for Juvenile Offenders Who Are Victims of Child Abuse or Neglect, Mentoring, Boot Camps and the White House Conference on Juvenile Justice. Eliminates state incentive grants for local delinquency prevention programs.

TITLE II—INCENTIVE GRANTS FOR ACCOUNTABILITY-BASED REFORMS

Section 201—Amends the JJ&DP Act by creating a new Part C. Creates a new Section 241 authorizing the Administrator to award $250 million in new incentive grants for states which enact certain accountability-based reforms to their juvenile justice systems. States must submit applications to the Administrator certifying that the State has enacted or implemented (or will enact or implement within one year) certain laws and policies which will improve the State's juvenile justice system.

Creates a new Section 242(a). States must enact the following three reforms in order to receive 50 percent of the funds available under Part C: (1) policies and programs to ensure that juveniles age 14 or over who commit "serious violent crimes" are prosecuted as adults; (2) graduated sanctions, ensuring a punishment for every delinquent or criminal act, and ensuring that the sanctions are of increasing severity for each subsequent offense; and (3) require that adult records (including fingerprints and photographs) be kept for juveniles under age 15 who commit "serious violent crimes."

Creates a new Section 242(b). In addition to the reforms mentioned above, States must enact five of the following in order to receive 100 percent of the funds available under Part C: (1) victims' rights laws; (2) mandatory victim restitution; (3) public access to juvenile court proceedings; (4) juvenile curfews and civil parental responsibility laws for serious acts committed by juveniles released to the custody of their parents; (5) financial responsibility for offspring and successful completion of school or vocational training as a condition of parole or probation; (6) serious habitual offender comprehensive action plans, a multi disciplinary interagency system for the early identification, control, monitoring, supervision and treatment of the most serious juvenile offenders; (7) community-wide partnerships involving county and municipal governments, school districts, State agencies and private organizations to administer a unified approach to juvenile justice; (8) zero tolerance for truancy, including parental notification and mandatory make-up sessions for truants; (9) alternative schools or classrooms for expelled or suspended juveniles; (10) jurisdiction for municipal and magistrate courts over minor delinquency offenses and short-term detention authority for habitual minor delinquency behavior; (11) expedited prosecution procedures and prompt resolution of juvenile cases; (12) eliminate "counsel and release" or "refer and release" as a penalty for second offenses for which juveniles are referred to a juvenile probation officer; (13) "report back orders" whereby juveniles on probation appear before the court and advise the court of their progress in meeting certain goals; (14) mandatory penalties for the use of a firearm during a violent crime or drug felony; (15) laws making it illegal to engage in criminal conduct as a member of a street gang; (16) character education and training; (17) mentoring programs for at-risk youth; (18) courts for juveniles charged with drug offenses and community-oriented policing strategies.

Creates a new Section 243. Grants will be allocated proportionately based on the number of residents in the State under the age of 18, in accordance with the following: (1) 50 percent allocated among the States which meet the requirements of Section 242(a); and (2) 50 percent among the States which meet the requirements of Sections 242(a) and 242(b).

Creates a new Section 244 requiring that States utilize accounting, auditing and fiscal procedures prescribed by the Administrator and that States ensure that funds used will represent the best value for the State at the lowest cost and employ the best available technology.

Creates a new Section 245 prohibiting States from using grants to supplant existing State juvenile justice funds. Allows up to 2 percent of available funds be available to the Administrator for research and evaluation projects, and technical assistance. Appropriated funds will carry over and remain available until expended. The Federal share of grant received under Part C must not exceed 90 percent of the costs of the submitted proposal.

TITLE III—GENERAL PROVISIONS

Section 301—Authorizes necessary funding through 2001 for the Office of Youth Violence Reduction. Authorizes $250 million for each year through 2001 for Part B grants and $250 million for each year through 2001 for Part C grants. Allows appropriation of funds from the Violent Crime Reduction Trust Fund.

Section 302—Technical and conforming amendments.

Section 303—Sets the effective date of the Act as the first day of the first fiscal year beginning after the date of enactment.

OUTLINE OF DOMENICI JUVENILE JUSTICE BILL

TITLE I—GRANTS TO STATES

1. New "Findings" and "Purposes" sections which discuss the increase and changing nature of juvenile crime.

2. Repeat the following mandates found in the current Juvenile Justice Act:

(a) deinstitutionalization of "status" offenders—those juveniles who commit acts that are criminal if committed by a child but not criminal if done by an adult;

(b) remove youths from adult jails and lockups; and

3. Provide flexibility to states by changing the current law "sight and sound" mandate found in the Juvenile Justice Act into a broad principle:

(a) provide physical separation of incarcerated juveniles and adults, but not necessarily sight and sound separation;

(Need to allow for the sharing of staff and facilities. Rural areas should be able to keep adults and juveniles in the same facility so long as they are in separate cells.)

Require states to provide assurances that they are adhering to the principles.

4. More money and more flexibility for states:

GRANTS

Replace Justice's OJJDP with a new office within DOJ's OJP. Make the new Administrator a career person who serves at the pleasure of the Attorney General.

Increase funding from $150 million per year to $500 million.

Use one-half ($250 million) for grants to the states for prevention programs for juveniles and meeting requirements of the incentive grants. Grants will be distributed proportionately based on number of juveniles below age 18, poverty and crime rates.

States could use the money to continue to fund existing programs, create their own new programs or to meet the requirements for the second set of grants.

Allow funds to be used for programs directed at all juveniles not just "at risk" juveniles. For example, money could be used to keep libraries and gyms open and staffed after hours.

No strings other than one mandate regarding minorities and retaining one current mandate, as a "principle."

States file an action plan with the Office of Juvenile Crime Control and Delinquency Prevention.

$250 million for new incentive-based grants for states which enact certain reforms (much like Truth-in-Sentencing).

Grants would be used for law enforcement.

THREE STRINGS FOR THE INCENTIVE GRANTS

States must certify to the Administrator that they have enacted or will within one year enact laws to require that they have implemented a system of:

1. Graduated sanctions, whereby every juvenile offender receives a punishment for every crime.

The punishment should be of increasing severity based on the nature of the crime and if the juvenile is a repeat offender.

2. Fingerprint and photograph records to be kept for juveniles 15 and under who commit felonies.

Records would be kept like adult records—submitted to the FBI, available to law enforcement, courts and schools.

For non-felony crimes, records would follow juvenile as long as he/she is in the juvenile system. Whether to seal records would be at the discretion of the judge, but would always be available for law enforcement purposes.

For felony crimes (regardless of whether tried as juvenile or adult) records would follow juvenile into adulthood. There would be no special rules allowing sealing of records just because the offender is a juvenile.

3. Mandatory adult prosecution for juveniles 14 or over who commit a "serious violent crimes."

"Serious violent crimes" are defined as murder, non-negligent manslaughter, forcible rape, robbery, aggravated assault with a firearm, kidnapping, felony aggravated battery, and vehicular homicide committed while under the influence of an intoxicating liquor or controlled substance.

States would also have to enact at least five of the following juvenile justice "best practices" to receive the additional funds:

1. Provide for victims' rights including final conclusion free from unreasonable delay and right to be notified of any release or escape of an offender who committed a crime against a particular victim.

2. Mandatory victim restitution.

3. Public access to juvenile court proceedings.

4. Parental responsibility laws for serious acts committed by juveniles released to their parents by the court and juvenile curfews.

5. Financial responsibility for offspring as condition for parole.

6. Serious habitual offenders comprehensive action program. If you do the crime you do the time. Among other items, it establishes a system for tracking the most serious juvenile offenders

7. Establish community-wide partnerships involving county, municipal governments, school districts, appropriate state agencies and non-profits to administer a unified approach to delinquency.

8. Zero tolerance for truancy. School districts should implement programs to curb truancy and implement certain and swift punishments for truancy. For example, parents should be advised of every absence; schools should hold Saturday "make-up" sessions or weekends in jail or denying extra curricular activities to truants.

9. Alternative schools or classrooms for expelled or suspended juveniles. Expelled or suspended students should be required to attend. Alternative schools should start earlier and go later than regular school. Counseling, tutoring, community service, and work oriented restitution would be required during extra hours. Any juvenile who refuses to attend alternative school would be subject to immediate detention pending a hearing. Funding made available from the state on a formula for each pupil should follow the child so if the child is put into an alternative school, the state funding should follow that student.

10. Provide municipal and magistrate courts with jurisdiction over minor delinquency offenses such as truancy, curfew, motor vehicle violations and graffiti. Authorize Municipal and Magistrate courts short term detention authority in response to persistent minor delinquent behavior.

11. Establish expedited procedures for prosecution and prompt resolution of juvenile cases.

12. Eliminate "counsel and release" or "refer and release" as a penalty for a second or subsequent offense.

13. Institute a system of "report back" orders whenever juveniles are placed on probation so that after a period of time (two months) the juvenile advises the judge of his/her progress toward meeting certain goals.

14. Mandatory penalties for the use of a firearm during a violent crime or drug felony.

15. Enact a state law making it illegal to engage in criminal conduct as a member of a street gang and enact a street terrorism act.

16. Provide Character education and training, like Character Counts.

17. Establish mentoring programs for youth in trouble.

18. Youth drug courts and community oriented policing strategies targeted at juveniles.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I send the bill to the desk and ask that it be appropriately referred.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The bill will be received and referred.

AMENDMENTS SUBMITTED

THE TREASURY DEPARTMENT APPROPRIATIONS ACT, 1997

WYDEN (AND KENNEDY) AMENDMENT NO. 5206

Mr. WYDEN (for himself and Mr. KENNEDY) proposed an amendment to the bill (H.R. 3756) making appropriations for the Treasury Department, the United States Postal Service, the Executive Office of the President, and certain Independent Agencies, for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1997, and for other purposes; as follows:

At the end of the Committee amendment insert the following new title:

TITLE —PROTECTION OF PATIENT COMMUNICATIONS

SEC. 01. SHORT TITLE; FINDINGS.

(a) SHORT TITLE.—This title may be cited as the "Patient Communications Protection Act of 1996".

(b) FINDINGS.—Congress finds the following:

(1) Patients need access to all relevant information to make appropriate decisions, with their physicians, about their health care.

(2) Restrictions on the ability of physicians to provide full disclosure of all relevant information to patients making health care decisions violate the principles of informed consent and practitioner ethical standards.

(3) The offering and operation of health plans affect commerce among the States.

Health care providers located in one State serve patients who reside in other States as well as that State. In order to provide for uniform treatment of health care providers and patients among the States, it is necessary to cover health plans operating in one State as well as those operating among the several States.

SEC. 02. PROHIBITION OF INTERFERENCE WITH CERTAIN MEDICAL COMMUNICATIONS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—

(1) PROHIBITION OF CERTAIN PROVISIONS.—Subject to paragraph (2), an entity offering a health plan (as defined in subsection (d)(2)) may not include any provision that prohibits or restricts any medical communication (as defined in subsection (b)) as part of—

(A) a written contract or agreement with a health care provider.

(B) a written statement to such a provider or

(C) an oral communication to such a provider.

(2) CONSTRUCTION.—Nothing in this section shall be construed as preventing an entity from exercising mutually agreed upon terms and conditions not inconsistent with paragraph (1), including terms or conditions requiring a physician to participate in, and cooperate with, all programs, policies, and procedures developed or operated by the person, corporation, partnership, association, or other organization to ensure, review, or improve the quality of health care.

(3) NULLIFICATION.—Any provision described in paragraph (1) is null and void.

(b) MEDICAL COMMUNICATION DEFINED.—In this section, the term "medical communication" means a communication made by a health care provider with a patient of the provider (or the guardian or legal representative of such patient) with respect to the patient's physical or mental condition or treatment options.

(c) ENFORCEMENT THROUGH IMPOSITION OF CIVIL MONEY PENALTY.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Any entity that violates paragraph (1) of subsection (a) shall be subject to a civil money penalty of up to $25,000 for each violation. No such penalty shall be imposed solely on the basis of an oral communication unless the communication is part of a pattern or practice of such communications and the violation is demonstrated by a preponderance of the evidence.

(2) PROCEDURES.—The provisions of subsection (c) through (1) of section 1129A of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 1320a-(a)) shall apply to civil money penalties under paragraph (1) in the same manner as they apply to a penalty or proceeding under section 1128(a) of such Act.

(d) DEFINITIONS.—For purposes of this section.

(1) HEALTH CARE PROVIDER.—The term "health care provider" means anyone licensed or certified under State law to provide health care services.

(2) HEALTH PLAN.—The term "health plan" means any public or private health plan or arrangement (including an employee welfare benefit plan) which provides, or pays the cost of, health benefits, and includes an organization of health care providers that furnishes health services under a contract or agreement with such a plan.

(3) COVERAGE OF THIRD PARTY ADMINISTRATORS.—In the case of a health plan that is an employee welfare benefit plan (as defined in section 3(1) of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974), any third party administrator or other person with responsibility for contracts with health care providers under the plan shall be considered, for purposes of this section, to be an entity offering such health plan.

(e) NON-PREEMPTION OF STATE LAW.—A State may establish or enforce requirements with respect to the subject matter of this section, but only if such requirements are consistent with this title and are more protective of medical communications than the requirements established under this section.

(f) EFFECTIVE DATE.—Subsection (a) shall take effect 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act and shall apply to medical communications made on or after such date.

FEINSTEIN (AND OTHERS)
AMENDMENT NO. 5207

(Ordered to lie on the table.)

Mrs. FEINSTEIN (for herself, Mr. WYDEN, Mr. GLENN, Mr. KERRY, Mr. SIMON, Mr. KENNEDY, Mrs. BOXER, and Mr. REID) submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by them to the bill, H.R. 3756, supra; as follows:

At the appropriate place in the bill, insert the following:

SEC. . TAXATION OF INCOME OF CONTROLLED FOREIGN CORPORATIONS ATTRIBUTABLE TO IMPORTED PROPERTY.

(a) GENERAL RULE.—Subsection (a) of section 954 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 (defining foreign base company income) is amended by striking "and" at the end of paragraph (4), by striking the period at the end of paragraph (5) and inserting ":", and", and by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

"(6) imported property income for the taxable year (determined under subsection (h) and reduced as provided in subsection (b)(5))."

(b) DEFINITION OF IMPORTED PROPERTY INCOME.—Section 954 of such Code is amended by adding at the end the following new subsection:

"(h) IMPORTED PROPERTY INCOME.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—For purposes of subsection (a)(6), the term 'imported property income' means income (whether in the form of profits, commissions, fees, or otherwise) derived in connection with—

"(A) manufacturing, producing, growing, or extracting imported property,

"(B) the sale, exchange, or other disposition of imported property, or

"(C) the lease, rental, or licensing of imported property.

Such term shall not include any foreign oil and gas extraction income (within the meaning of section 907(c)) or any foreign oil related income (within the meaning of section 907(c)).

"(2) IMPORTED PROPERTY.—For purposes of this subsection—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—Except as otherwise provided in this paragraph, the term 'imported property' means property which is imported into the United States by the controlled foreign corporation or a related person.

"(B) IMPORTED PROPERTY INCLUDES CERTAIN PROPERTY IMPORTED BY UNRELATED PERSONS.—The term 'imported property' includes any property imported into the United States by an unrelated person if, when such property was sold to the unrelated person by the controlled foreign corporation (or a related person), it was reasonable to expect that—

"(i) such property would be imported into the United States, or

"(ii) such property would be used as a component in other property which would be imported into the United States.

"(C) EXCEPTION FOR PROPERTY SUBSEQUENTLY EXPORTED.—The term 'imported property' does not include any property which is imported into the United States and which—

"(i) before substantial use in the United States, is sold, leased, or rented by the controlled foreign corporation or a related person for direct use, consumption, or disposition outside the United States, or

"(ii) is used by the controlled foreign corporation or a related person as a component in other property which is so sold, leased, or rented.

"(3) DEFINITIONS AND SPECIAL RULES.—

"(A) IMPORT.—For purposes of this subsection, the term 'import' means entering, or withdrawal from warehouse, for consumption or use. Such term includes any grant of the right to use an intangible (as defined in section 936(b)(3)(B)) in the United States.

"(B) UNRELATED PERSON.—For purposes of this subsection, the term 'unrelated person' means any person who is not a related person with respect to the controlled foreign corporation.

"(C) COORDINATION WITH FOREIGN BASE COMPANY SALES INCOME.—For purposes of this section, the term 'foreign base company sales income' shall not include any imported property income."

(C) SEPARATE APPLICATION OF LIMITATIONS ON FOREIGN TAX CREDIT FOR IMPORTED PROPERTY INCOME.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Paragraph (1) of section 904(d) of such Code (relating to separate application of section with respect to certain categories of income) is amended by striking "and" at the end of subparagraph (H), by redesignating subparagraph (I) as subparagraph (J), and by inserting after subparagraph (H) the following new subparagraph:

"(I) imported property income, and".

(2) IMPORTED PROPERTY INCOME DEFINED.—Paragraph (2) of section 904(d) of such Code is amended by redesignating subparagraphs (H) and (I) as subparagraphs (I) and (J), respectively, and by inserting after subparagraph (G) the following new subparagraph:

"(H) IMPORTED PROPERTY INCOME.—The term 'imported property income' means any income received or accrued by any person which is of a kind which would be imported property income (as defined in section 954(h))."

(3) LOOK-THRU RULES TO APPLY.—Subparagraph (F) of section 904(d)(3) of such Code is amended by striking "or (E)" and inserting "(E), or (I)".

(d) TECHNICAL AMENDMENTS.—

(1) Clause (iii) of section 952(c)(1)(B) of such Code (relating to certain prior year deficits may be taken into account) is amended by inserting the following subclause after subclause (II) (and by redesignating the following subclauses accordingly):

"(III) imported property income,".

(2) Paragraph (5) of section 954(b) of such Code (relating to deductions to be taken into account) is amended by striking "and the foreign base company oil related income" and inserting "the foreign base company oil related income, and the imported property income".

(e) EFFECTIVE DATE.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in paragraph (2), the amendments made by this section shall apply to taxable years of foreign corporations beginning after December 31, 1996, and to taxable years of United States shareholders within which or with which such taxable years of such foreign corporations end.

(2) SUBSECTION (c).—The amendments made by subsection (c) shall apply to taxable years beginning after December 31, 1996.

THOMAS AMENDMENT NO. 5224

(Ordered to lie on the table.)

Mr. THOMAS submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the bill, H.R. 3756, supra; as follows:

At the end of title VI add the following:

SEC. 646. (a) Except as provided in subsection (b), none of the funds appropriated by this or any other Act may be used by the Office of Management and Budget, or any other agency, to publish, promulgate, or enforce any policy, regulation, or circular, or any rule or authority in any other form, that would permit any Federal agency to provide a commercially available property or service to any other department or agency of government unless the policy, regulation, circular, or other rule or authority meets the requirements prescribed under subsection (b).

(b)(1) Not later than 120 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Director of the Office of Management and Budget shall prescribe regulations applicable to any policy regulation, circular, or other rule or authority referred to in subsection (a).

(2) The requirements prescribed under paragraph (1) shall include the following:

(A) A requirement for a comparison between the cost of providing the property or service concerned through the agency concerned and the cost of providing such property or service through the private sector.

(B) A requirement for cost and performance benchmarks relating to the property or service provided relative to comparable services provided by other government agencies and contractors in order to permit effective oversight of the cost and provision of such property or service by the agency concerned or the Office of Management and Budget.

SEC. 645. REGULATORY ACCOUNTING.

(a) IN GENERAL.—No later than September 30, 1997, the Director of the Office of Management and Budget shall submit to the Congress a report that provides—

(1) estimates of the total annual costs and benefits of Federal regulatory programs, including quantitative and nonquantitative measures of regulatory costs and benefits;

(2) estimates of the costs and benefits (including quantitative and nonquantitative measures) of each rule that is likely to have a gross annual effect on the economy of $100,000,000 or more in increased costs;

(3) an assessment of the direct and indirect impacts of Federal rules on the private sector, State and local government, and the Federal Government; and

(4) recommendations from the Director and a description of significant public comments to reform or eliminate any Federal regulatory program or program element that is inefficient, ineffective, or is not a sound use of the Nation's resources.

(b) NOTICE.—The Director shall provide public notice and an opportunity to comment on the report under subsection (a) before the report is issued in final form.

MIKULSKI AMENDMENT NO. 5227

Mr. SHELBY (for Ms. MIKULSKI) proposed an amendment to the bill, H.R. 3756, supra; as follows:

On page 93, after line 19 insert the following new section:

SEC. . FACILITY FOR THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT.

(a) CLOSING OF ALLEY.—The alley bisecting the property on which a facility is being constructed for use by the United States Government at 930 H Street, N.W., Washington, District of Columbia, is closed to the public, without regard to any contingencies.

(b) JURISDICTION.—The Administration of General Services shall have administrative jurisdiction over, and shall hold title on behalf of the United States in, the alley, property, and facility referred to in subsection (a).

MACK (AND GRAHAM) AMENDMENT NO. 5228

Mr. SHELBY (for Mr. MACK, for himself and Mr. GRAHAM) proposed an amendment to the bill, H.R. 3756, supra; as follows:

At the appropriate place in the bill, insert the following:

SEC. . (a) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the Secretary may, on behalf of the United States, transfer to the University of Miami, without charge, title to the real property and improvements that as of the date of the enactment of this Act constitute the Federal facility known as the Perrine Primate Center, subject to the condition that, during the 10-year period beginning on the date of the transfer—

(1) the University will provide for the continued use of the real property and improvements as an animal research facility, including primates, and such use will be the exclusive use of the property (with such incidental exceptions as the Secretary may approve); or

(2) the real property and improvements will be used for research-related purposes other than the purpose specified in paragraph (1) (or for both of such purposes), if the Secretary and the University enter into an agreement accordingly.

(b) The conveyance under subsection (a) shall not become effective unless the conveyance specifies that, if the University of Miami engages in a material breach of the conditions specified in such subsection, title to the real property and improvements involved reverts to the United States at the election of the Secretary.

(c) The real property referred to in subsections (a) and (b) is located in the county of Dade in the State of Florida, and is a parcel consisting of the northernmost 30 acre- parcel of the area. The exact acreage and legal description used for purposes of the transfer under subsection (a) shall be in accordance with a survey that is satisfactory to the Secretary.

(d) For the purposes of this section—

(1) the term "Secretary" means the Secretary of Health and Human Services; and

(2) the term "University of Miami" means the University of Miami located in the State of Florida.

D'AMATO AMENDMENT NO. 5229

Mr. SHELBY (for Mr. D'AMATO) proposed an amendment to the bill, H.R. 3756, supra; as follows:

At the appropriate place in the bill, insert the following new section:

SEC. . CRIMINAL SANCTIONS FOR FICTITIOUS FINANCIAL INSTRUMENTS AND COUNTERFEITING.

(a) INCREASED PENALTIES FOR COUNTERFEITING VIOLATIONS.—Sections 474 and 474A of title 18, United States Code, are amended by striking "class C felony" each place that term appears and inserting "class B felony".

(b) CRIMINAL PENALTY FOR PRODUCTION, SALE, TRANSPORTATION, POSSESSION OF FICTITIOUS FINANCIAL INSTRUMENTS PURPORTING TO BE THOSE OF THE STATES, OF POLITICAL SUBDIVISIONS, AND OF PRIVATE ORGANIZATIONS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Chapter 25 of title 18, United States Code, is amended by inserting after section 513, the following new section: "§514. Fictitious obligations

"(a) Whoever, with the intent to defraud—
"(1) draws, prints, processes, produces, publishes, or otherwise makes, or attempts or causes the same, within the United States;

"(2) passes, utters, presents, offers, brokers, issues, sells, or attempts or causes the same, or with like intent possesses, within the United States; or

"(3) utilizes interstate or foreign commerce, including the use of the mails or wire, radio, or other electronic communication, to transmit, transport, ship, move, transfer, or attempts or causes the same, to, from, or through the United States, any false or fictitious instrument, document, or other item appearing, representing, purporting, or contriving through scheme or artifice, to be an actual security or other financial instrument issued under the authority of the United States, a foreign government, a State or other political subdivision of the United States, or an organization, shall be guilty of a class B felony.

"(b) For purposes of this section, any term used in this subdivision that is defined in section 513(c) has the same meaning given such term in section 513(c).

"(c) The United States Secret Service, in addition to any other agency having such authority, shall have authority to investigate offenses under this section."

(2) TECHNICAL AMENDMENT.—The analysis for chapter 25 of title 18, United States Code, is amended by inserting after the item relating to section 513 the following:

"514. Fictitious obligations."

(c) PERIOD OF EFFECT.—This section and the amendments made by this section shall become effective on the date of enactment of this Act and shall remain in effect during each fiscal year following that date of enactment.

GREGG AMENDMENT NO. 5230

Mr. SHELBY (for Mr. GREGG) proposed an amendment to the bill, H.R. 3756, supra; as follows:

On page 135, after line 4, add the following new section:

SEC. . None of the funds appropriated by this Act may be used by an agency to provide a Federal employee's home address except when it is made known to the Federal official having authority to obligate or expend such funds that the employee has authorized such disclosure or that such disclosure has been ordered by a court of competent jurisdiction.

KOHL AMENDMENT NO. 5231

Mr. SHELBY (for Mr. KOHL) proposed an amendment to the bill, H.R. 3756, supra; as follows:

At the appropriate place in the bill, insert the following new section:

SEC. . SENSE OF CONGRESS REGARDING TELEPHONE ASSISTANCE PROVIDED BY INTERNAL REVENUE SERVICE.

It is the sense of the Congress that the Internal Revenue Service should, in implementing any reorganization plan or otherwise, make all efforts to increase the level of service provided to taxpayers through its telephone assistance program. It is further the sense of the Congress that the Internal Revenue Service should establish performance goals, operating standards, and management practices which ensure such an increase in customer service.

KERREY (AND CHAFEE) AMENDMENT NO. 5232

Mr. SHELBY (for Mr. KERREY, for himself and Mr. CHAFEE) proposed an amendment to the bill, H.R. 3756, supra; as follows:

On page 26, after line 9, add the following new section:

The Internal Revenue Service is prohibited from expending funds for the field office reorganization plan until the National Commission on Restructuring the Internal Revenue Service has had an opportunity to issue their final report.

HELMS (AND INHOFE) AMENDMENT NO. 5233

(Ordered to lie on the table.)
Mr. HELMS (for himself and Mr. INHOFE) submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by them to the bill, H.R. 3756, supra; as follows:

At the end of the bill add the following:

TITLE —ADDITIONAL GENERAL PROVISIONS

SEC. . None of the funds appropriated by this Act shall be available to pay any amount to, or to pay the administrative expenses in connection with, any health plan under the Federal employees health benefits program, when the Federal official having authority to obligate or expend such funds determines that such health plan operates a health care provider incentive plan that does not meet the requirements of section 1876(i)(8)(A) of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 1395mm(i)(8)(A)) for physician incentive plans in contracts with eligible organizations under section 1876 of such Act.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

ADDITIONAL STATEMENTS

DEATH OF AN ORIGINAL

• Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, with Monday's passing of bluegrass legend Bill Monroe at the age of 84, Tennessee and the world mourn the loss of an American musical original.

In a career spanning more than 60 years, Bill Monroe was the undisputed king and keeper of the music that he pioneered. In his trademark dress suit, and white, ten-gallon hat, Bill Monroe held the stage before admiring audiences around the world who watched him create and then popularize bluegrass music.

Bill Monroe's music is truly American and completely original. He created bluegrass from his imagination and named it for the rolling hills where he was born.

With his band, the "Blue Grass Boys," Monroe mixed the music he heard as a child with the blues, Irish fiddle tunes and his own energy to create the sound we know today.

Bill Monroe's bluegrass is high-powered folk music, known for the instrumental mastery it demands, the high-velocity picking, tight harmonies, and the high, lonesome sound of the tenor lead.

Bill Monroe created a wonderful mix of crackling, bright sound with a lightning pace that instantly challenged musicians and listeners alike.

Bluegrass sounds like no other music before or since, and we have Bill Monroe to thank for it.

This musical frontiersman will be sorely missed. He was a musical museum of American folk life who regularly entertained in bluegrass clubs and at outdoor festivals until the end of his years.

Though he was born in Kentucky, those of us from Tennessee proudly claim Bill Monroe as one of our own. He was a fixture on the Grand Ole Opry, and he spent much of his time in and around Nashville when he wasn't out on the road, playing for the massive crowds that always came out to hear him.

Bill Monroe didn't talk much, but his feelings came out eloquently when he was behind his mandolin and in front of an audience. Songs like "Blue Moon of Kentucky," "Uncle Pen," and "Rawhide" have already stood the test of time to become classics, and Bill Monroe's original gift comes through in each note.

He was born September 13, 1911 in rural western Kentucky into a family where nearly everyone played a musical instrument. The youngest of eight children, he went on to win numerous awards, including a Grammy and the National Medal of Arts for his life's achievement.

Almost no kind of music can be traced to the work of a single person, but bluegrass is different. It will always belong to Bill Monroe. His contribution to music is unequalled, and he will be greatly missed by all of us. ●

CURIOUS CASE OF WHITE HOUSE VERSUS UNITED NATIONS

● Mr. SIMON. Mr. President, I have already mentioned to my colleagues that I think we are mishandling the matter of the election of the U.N. Secretary General.

Our inattention to the needs beyond our boarder—as well as to poverty here at home is not something Americans can be proud of.

And our failure to pay U.N. dues, our failure to join other nations in peacekeeping operations too frequently, our reluctance to lead when leadership is essential, and our negative tone toward U.N. Secretary-General Boutros Boutros-Ghali have all been mistakes.

Recently Georgie Anne Geyer had a column in the Chicago Tribune commenting about our handling of the Boutros-Ghali matter.

Georgie Anne Geyer is an experienced observer of the international scene; and when she comments on something like this, we should listen carefully to what she says.

Mr. President, I ask that the article from the Chicago Tribune be printed in the RECORD.

The article follows:

[From the Chicago Tribune]

CURIOUS CASE OF WHITE HOUSE VERSUS THE U.N.

(By Georgie Anne Geyer)

NEW YORK.—The international storm brewing here began May 13, when U.S. Secretary of State Warren Christopher received UN

Secretary-General Boutros Boutros-Ghali and told the controversial Egyptian diplomat flatly, "President Clinton does not want to give you a second mandate."

According to internal reports at the United Nations here, Boutros-Ghali said, only partly in jest, "Look, you are a good lawyer: Defend my case." To which, Christopher responded, not in jest at all, "I am the lawyer of the president of the United States and not yours."

Not only was this curious case of the White House versus the UN Plaza not "rested," but all hell then broke loose on a number of continents and in the corridors of myriad foreign ministries, from Beijing to Budapest.

Christopher followed up the initial shock announcement by putting forward the idea of a "compromise" by which Boutros-Ghali would stay one year and then leave. (To which the Egyptian diplomat responded tartly: "is this some sort of 'tip'? If so, it's not very generous.")

Next, in Bonn for meeting, Boutros-Ghali received a private phone call from New York warning him that an announcement would come from the State Department in Washington the next day that the United States no longer supported him. (And so, at that point, Boutros-Ghali, who is no slouch when it comes to tactics, peremptorily moved on this unique geopolitical chessboard, announcing his intention to seek re-election for another five-year term.)

On July 8, the drama moved to Africa—to the Organization of African Unity meeting in Yaounde, Cameroon—where Washington sent an unusually large delegation of nine senior diplomats to try to sidetrack any support for the secretary-general.

Indeed, Only three of the 54 African member states voted against the Egyptian UN leader, one of those being war-torn Rwanda, which opposed him because of his criticism of the massacres there.

If all of that were not enough, threats began to come out of the American administration that it would use its veto in the Security Council if Boutros-Ghali were backed this fall by a majority in the United Nations. But this presents a still further conundrum, for after the Cold War ended, Security Council members agreed not to use the veto, in order to free the UN from the constricting manner in which the Soviet Union had used it for so many years.

All of this is now at a classic diplomatic impasse. From a day and more of interviewing in the UN, I can say that many, many foreign diplomats are mad as hell at what they perceive as a repetition of historical American arrogance.

Floating around the United Nations now is the idea of a new "compromise" by which the secretary-general would accept a face-saving extension of his term. But that would not affect the main problem of this UN very much at all.

The real problem is that this administration tries to assert its power on matters like the choice of a secretary-general but consistently refused to show any leadership on the big issues facing the post-Cold War UN. If the UN has been less than what it could have been in these pivotal years, the primary responsibility for that failure has not been Boutros-Ghali's. ●

RETIREMENT OF REAR ADM. THOMAS F. HALL, U.S. NAVY, CHIEF OF NAVAL RESERVE

● Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, I rise today to recognize the dedication, public service, and patriotism of Rear Adm. Thomas F. Hall, U.S. Navy, Chief of Naval Reserve. Admiral Hall retires from the Navy on October 1, after a distinguished 37-year career of service to our Nation.

A native of Barnsdall, OK, Admiral Hall reported to the U.S. Naval Academy in 1959, graduated in 1963 and was designated a naval aviator in 1964. After earning his Wings of Gold, Admiral Hall chose to join the maritime patrol forces flying the new P-3 Orion. Excelling in flight training, he graduated No. 1 in his class, and was named the outstanding student. Admiral Hall continued to distinguish himself throughout his flying career amassing almost 5,000 pilot hours.

His initial fleet assignment was with Patrol Squadron 8, flying combat missions in Southeast Asia. Subsequent tours included the U.S. Naval Academy, as a Company Officer and Executive Assistant to the Commandant of Midshipmen, Patrol Squadron 23, completion of the command and staff course at the Naval War College, graduating with distinction, and assignment to the Bureau of Naval Personnel, where his billets included aviation staffs placement officer, head of air combat placement, and assistant head of aviation junior officer assignment. Admiral Hall returned to VP-8 as executive officer and then assumed duties as Commanding Officer. Admiral Hall also completed the course of instruction at the National War College, again graduating with distinction, and served on the staff of the Chief of Naval Operations where he served as Head of the Program Objective Memorandum Development section, as Chief of Staff to Commander Fleet Air Keflavik, and as a fellow to the CNO's strategic studies group. In addition to command of VP-8, Admiral Hall has also served in command of Naval Air Station Bermuda, the Icelandic Defense Forces, and most recently, command of the Naval Reserve.

Since September 1992, Admiral Hall has been the Chief of Naval Reserve, leading the Naval Reserve Force through its largest drawdown, while maintaining readiness and significantly increasing reserve contributory support to the fleet. Under Admiral Hall's leadership, the total force policy became a reality—Regular Navy and Naval Reservists working side-by-side, in operations worldwide, meeting the Navy's forward presence requirements.

In August 1989, Admiral Hall was promoted to Rear Admiral—lower half—and in July 1992 to his present rank of Rear Admiral—upper half. Admiral Hall wears the Defense Superior Service Medal, Legion of Merit, Meritorious Service Medal, Meritorious Unit Commendation, and various unit and campaign awards, holds a masters degree in management from George Washington University and attended Harvard University senior executives program. In July 1992, Admiral Hall was awarded the Icelandic Order of the Falcon, Commander's Cross with star, by the President of Iceland.

Our Nation, his wife Barbara, and his son Tom, can be immensely proud of the Admiral's long and distinguished career and his service to our country. I wish Admiral Hall and his family best wishes in his retirement.●

TRIBUTE TO JEROME R.
VANMETER

● Mr. ROCKEFELLER. Mr. President, I want to pay tribute to a special West Virginian, Jerome R. "Coach" VanMeter. For more than 50 years, he was a high school football and basketball coach from Beckley. He is known throughout southern West Virginia as a man who not only has won many high school sporting events, but also as someone who has touched the lives of many young people. It is in this month of August that Mr. VanMeter celebrates his 96th birthday.

Mr. VanMeter received numerous awards during his long tenure as a coach. He was named Coach of the Year from 1948 until 1951 and was later selected to the West Virginia Sports Hall of Fame in 1963. Being one of the founders of the West Virginia High School Coaches Association is another one of Mr. VanMeter's crowning achievements. He was also proud to serve on many State selections committees responsible for choosing outstanding basketball and football players throughout the State.

Coach VanMeter has achieved much more than just personal awards. He has coached many of his teams to great success. His football teams won three state championships while his basketball teams won six. Four of those six State basketball championships were won consecutively, still a State record for the longest consecutive State basketball tournament wins.

Mr. VanMeter has not only contributed on the field and court, but has also been deeply involved in community endeavors. While living in Beckley, he served as president of the local Kiwanis Club later becoming lieutenant governor of the West Virginia District. In addition, Mr. VanMeter has also contributed some of his precious skills to the Raleigh County Education Association and the Heber Street Methodist Church as chairman of the board of trustees. Furthermore, he volunteered his time to serve on the junior and senior chamber of commerce for several years.

Jerome "Coach" VanMeter's numerous accomplishments merit notice and praise. His enthusiasm and concern for the many athletes he coached and his commitment to his community provide a model we should all strive to attain.●

THE MINNESOTA PARALYMPIANS

● Mr. WELLSTONE. Mr. President, I rise today to pay tribute to the Minnesota athletes who competed in the 1996 Paralympic Games in Atlanta. Over 3,500 athletes from more than 100 nations competed in the games, making it one of the world's largest sporting events. Overall the United States won 157 medals, including 46 Gold Medals. I salute each and every one of America's athletes, but I would like to mention a few of the 10 Minnesotans who participated in these important games.

The U.S. Paralympic cycling team won 13 medals in the road and track races during this year's games. Christopher Pyrkosz of Livonia, MN, was among those receiving a team medal for his efforts on the U.S. team.

Susan Hagel of Minneapolis and Josie Johnson of Gary also took home Bronze Medals, as part of the U.S. Paralympic women's basketball team.

The U.S. Paralympic judo team surprised the crowds in Atlanta with their strong showing in this year's competition. Jim Mastro of Fridley earned a Bronze Medal for his individual efforts.

Mitch Siedenfeld of Minneapolis also took home a Bronze Medal for his performance of the U.S. Paralympic table tennis team.

The 1996 Paralympic Games in Atlanta demonstrated the independence and empowerment of individuals with disabilities. Dozens of records were broken at this year's games, and the competition received considerable media attention around the world. The strength and determination of the Paralympic athletes is amazing, and I am sure that my colleagues join me in celebrating the United States' excellent overall showing during this year's games.●

ELIOT H. BANK

● Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, it is with great pleasure that I recognize and honor Eliot H. Bank for his selection to receive the Association of Reconditioner's [ACR] Morris Hershson Award of Merit.

Eliot H. Bank was born in Chicago, IL, on March 13, 1935, to Sam & Mollie Bank. The family moved to Detroit in 1937. Like me, Eliot still considers himself incredibly lucky to have grown up in Detroit. Through his parents he gained an appreciation for many of the finer things in Michigan, including Hank Greenberg and the Detroit Tigers, fishing in the many lakes with his father—and later his son, Coney Island hot dogs, the Detroit Lions, and Belle Isle. From his parents he also learned the importance of public service and political activism. He was active in the early years of Detroit's public television station channel 56, and remains very active in many charitable organizations. He also ran for local public office in 1972.

Eliot's career in the drum reconditioning business has been long and varied. For the past 15 years, he has been executive vice president of Columbus Steel Drum Co. which operates one of the largest reconditioning plants in the world, and one which many consider to be the standard of the industry.

A member of ACR since 1960, Eliot has held almost every post in the association, including 3 years as chairman, 20 years on the board of directors, 8 years on the executive board, and the chairmanship of nearly every committee. Eliot is proudest of two of his accomplishments during his ACR chairmanship: Establishing new generation and finishing the work of his predecessors in establishing the ACR code of operating practices. New generation was initiated when Eliot decided to improve ACR's educational efforts toward the younger generation working in the industry. He recognized that within this younger generation were the future industry leaders.

In 1981, Eliot established drum management programs at 35 major automotive plants in the Midwest. This program, which continues today, provides the proper disposal and recycling of empty industrial containers that contain residues of hazardous materials.

In 1991, Eliot was part of a team put together by the International Confederation of Drum Reconditioners [ICDR]. They attended the United Nations meeting in Geneva and were successful in implementing the rules and regulations governing reconditioned steel drums in chapter 9 of the U.N. Code. From 1993 to 1996, Eliot served as chairman of the ICDR.

He is very proud of his family—wife, Elizabeth, an art and antiques dealer; daughter, Cindy Bank, Federal relations officer in Washington, DC, for the University of Michigan; son, Michael Bank, general manager of Columbus Steel Drum Co. in Columbus, OH; daughter, Katherine Garland, a designer in Chicago; daughter, Amy Katz, head of human resources, Somerset Collection, in Troy, MI; daughter-in-law, Patty Bank; son-in-law, Larry Garland; four terrific grandchildren—Brock and Shelby Bank and Addie and Ellery Garland; his sister and brother-in-law, Iris and Arnold Kaufman; and soon to be son-in-law, Todd Franklin.

I know that my Senate colleagues will join me in congratulating Eliot H. Bank on being awarded the Morris Hershson Award of Merit.●

HIGHER TUITION, MORE GRADE INFLATION

● Mr. SIMON. Mr. President, recently, Lawrence Gladieux and Robert Reischauer had an op-ed piece in the Washington Post that is a thoughtful and careful analysis of what we ought to be doing in the field of education.

President Clinton deserves praise for being a genuine education President. He was a genuine education Governor, as Governor of Arkansas, also.

President Clinton's support of direct lending in the face of strong opposition from the banks and the guaranty agencies marks him as no flash-in-the-pan gladiator who gives up easily.

But the wisdom of having any kind of tax cuts at this point in our Nation's fiscal history is extremely doubtful.

If we want to put more money into education, as I do, we can do it much more wisely and prudently than through the proposals that have been announced by the President, popular as they are.

I ask that the Gladieux and Reischauer item be printed in the RECORD.

The material follows:

[From the Washington Post]

HIGHER TUITION, MORE GRADE INFLATION
(By Lawrence E. Gladieux and Robert D. Reischauer)

More than any president since Lyndon Johnson, Bill Clinton has linked his presidency to strengthening and broadening American education. He has argued persuasively that the nation needs to increase its investment in education to spur economic growth, expand opportunity and reduce growing income disparities. He has certainly earned the right to try to make education work for him as an issue in his reelection campaign, and that's clearly what he plans to do.

Unfortunately, one way the president has chosen to pursue his goals for education is by competing with the GOP on tax cuts. The centerpiece of his education agenda—tax breaks for families paying college tuition—would be bad tax policy and worse education policy. While tuition tax relief may be wildly popular with voters and leave Republicans speechless, it won't achieve the president's worthy objectives for education, won't help those most in need and will create more problems than it solves.

Under the president's plan, families could choose to deduct up to $10,000 in tuition from their taxable income or take a tax credit (a direct offset against federal income tax) of $1,500 for the first year of undergraduate education or training. The credit would be available for a second year if the student maintains a B average.

The vast majority of taxpayers who incur tuition expenses—joint filers with incomes up to $100,000 and single filers up to $70,000—would be eligible for these tax breaks. But before the nation invests the $43 billion that the administration says this plan will cost over the next six years, the public should demand that policy makers answer these questions:

Will tuition tax credit and deductions boost postsecondary enrollment? Not significantly. Most of the benefits would go to families of students who would have attended college anyway. For them, it will be a windfall. That won't lift the country's net investment in education or widen opportunities for higher education. For families who don't have quite enough to send their child to college, the tax relief may come too late to make a difference. While those families could adjust their payroll withholding, most won't. Thus any relief would be realized in year-end tax refunds, long after families needed the money to pay the tuition.

Will they help moderate- and low-income students who have the most difficulty meeting tuition costs? A tax deduction would be of no use to those without taxable income. On the other hand, the proposed $1,500 tax credit—because it would be "refundable"—would benefit even students and families that owe no taxes. But nearly 4 million low-income students would largely be excluded from the tax credit because they receive Pell Grants which, under the Clinton plan, would be subtracted from their tax-credit eligibility.

Will the plan lead to greater federal intrusion into higher education? The Internal Revenue Service would have to certify the amount of tuition students actually paid, the size of their Pell Grants and whether they maintained B averages. This could impose complex regulatory burdens on universities and further complicate the tax code.

It's no wonder the Treasury Department has long resisted proposals for tuition tax breaks.

Will the program encourage still higher tuition levels and more grade inflation? While the tuition spiral may be moderating slightly, college price increases have averaged more than twice the rate of inflation during the 1990s. With the vast majority of students receiving tax relief, colleges might have less incentive to hold down their tuition increases. Grades, which have been rising almost as rapidly as tuition, might get an extra boost too if professors hesitate to deny their students the B needed to renew the tax credit.

If more than $40 billion in new resources really can be found to expand access to higher education, is this the best way to invest it? A far better alternative to tuition tax schemes is need-based student financial aid. The existing aid program, imperfect as they may be, are a much more effective way to equalize educational opportunity and increase enrollment rates. More than $40 billion could go a long way toward restoring the purchasing power of Pell Grants and other proven programs, whose benefits inflation has eroded by as much as 50 percent during the past 15 years. Unlike tuition tax cuts, expanded need-based aid would not drag the IRS into the process of delivering educational benefits. Need-based aid also is less likely to increase inflationary pressure on college prices, because such aid goes to only a portion of the college-going population.

Economists have long argued that the tax code shouldn't be used if the same objective can be met through a direct-expenditure program. Tax incentives for college savings might make sense; parents seem to need more encouragement to put money away for their children's education. But tax relief for current tuition expenditures fails the test.

Maybe Clinton's tuition tax-relief plan, like the Republican across-the-board tax-cut proposals, can be chalked up to election-year pandering that will be forgotten after November. But oft-repeated campaign themes sometimes make it into the policy stream. That was the case in 1992, when candidate Clinton promised student-loan reform and community service that, as president, he turned into constructive initiatives. If re-elected, Clinton again may stick with his campaign mantra. This time, it's tuition tax breaks. This time, he shouldn't. ●

HAD IT NOT BEEN FOR THE VILLAGE . . .

● Mr. SIMON. Mr. President, we are hearing a great deal of talk about whether a family should save a child or whether a village should save a child. Obviously, we all should be doing what we can to save children.

The morning after the Democratic convention, I picked up the Chicago Tribune and read one person's moving story. Her name is Bunnie Reidel. I have never met her, but sometime I hope to have the honor of meeting her.

She tells a story that is important for all Americans to hear.

I ask that her story be printed in the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD.

The article follows:

HAD IT NOT BEEN FOR THE VILLAGE . . .

(By Bunnie Reidel)

These days the word "village" makes Republicans hiss and sneer and makes Democrats cheer wildly. Maybe it's because village has become the rallying cry for Republican-backed "parental rights" laws. Or maybe because the word is Afrocentric, as is the context from which "It takes a village to raise a child" is lifted. I don't know. I am sure, however, that parental rights proposals send chills down my spine and if it hadn't been for that much-maligned village, I would not be who I am today. In fact, I'd most likely be dead.

My youth was a living hell at best. I have the distinction of having had not one, but two mothers who were total failures.

My first mother was my biological mother. She became an itinerant farm worker, alcoholic, and finally, murder victim. I was her 12th child and there were three more to follow me. She left the Ozarks of Missouri while she was pregnant with me, with my older sister at her side, stopping just long enough in Tulsa to have me and then move on to California. There she worked the fields, lived off the kindness of loser men and drank her once attractive self into complete ruin. When I was two, she became pregnant again and decided to give me (not my sister or the new baby) up for adoption to her two landlords. I didn't see my older sister, Debra, for another 20 years and I met the original 10 children (left behind in Missouri) 10 years after that.

My second mother, Naomi, thought of herself as being completely antithetical to the first and in many ways she was. She provided a home, clothes, great cooking and regular church attendance. I can count the number of times she hugged me on one hand and count even fewer times she told me she loved me. Our home looked fine from without but was a nightmare within. My father died when I was 8 and Naomi conveniently forgot his admonition that she was not to hit me. So hit me she did. With belts, coat hangers, kicks, hair and ear-pulling, Naomi was determined to beat the hell out of me.

But more than the beatings, I'll never forget the things she said: "You'll never amount to anything." "You're so stupid." "Sometimes I would like to kill you." These verbal tirades were almost worse than the physical beatings because they would last for hours. I'll never forget the time I had a girlfriend spending the night and my mother woke me up at 4 a.m. and railed on me until 7. My friend will never forget it either. Even now, after 25 years, my old friend mentions that episode every time we see each other.

For me, and for so many children like me, the village became our lifesaver. I would leave the house in the morning with swollen, red eyes (from crying myself to sleep the night before) and find haven for a few hours a day with adults who were actually kind, helpful and praised my accomplishments. School was my salvation. It was the teachers I encountered at public school who gave me a glimpse of what life could actually be like. In that glimpse, I saw a world beyond my mother's house, full of wonder and unafraid of inquiry. It was a world where discipline was administered with dignity and self-esteem was valued. Mrs. Nyberg, Mr. Woody, Mrs. Papadakis, Mr. Pessano, Mr. McDonald and Mrs. Edwards were people who broadened my horizons with ideas and information that were unattainable at home. They were people who gave me something to hold onto throughout those dark, ugly days and none of them knew that.

In my neighborhood, there were other examples of caring adults. My Girl Scout leader thought I had a keen, interesting mind and she told me so. The German woman down the street (with the six kids) taught me how to do the twist and offered me graham crackers and hot chocolate. My friend's aunt spent hours with me as I entered my teen years, talking to me like I was really a human being.

I used every excuse I could to go out into the village. I was active in after-school activities and clubs. I began working at 13. I went away to church camp. I excelled in drama, journalism and forensics. These are the things that kept me from drowning myself in drugs or alcohol. These people and activities kept me from killing myself that one awful night when I was 16 and I had reached the end of my rope. These people and activities gave me the courage to pack a bag and leave home at 17, two weeks before I was ready to start my first semester at the university my mother insisted I could not go to, even though I had a scholarship and grants that completely paid my way. If it hadn't been for that village . . .

Now, many years since Naomi's death and many miles from that home that was not a home, I count on the village as a parent. When my children were little, the village taught me simple things that I had not learned at home; how to breast feed, how to change diapers, how to teach my children to read, how to discipline without violence. As my children have become teenagers and I have become a single parent, the village has become even more critical to my family's health and well-being. There are those loving adults at our church who adore my children, give them new experiences and constant encouragement. There are those caring adults at their school who challenge them to stretch their imaginations and use their intellect. There are those adults in our neighborhood who wave and smile and provide a watchful eye of protection. As a single, custodial parent of children whose father is 3,000 miles away and rarely sees them, I count on the men in the village to provide examples to my son and daughter of what dedicated, responsible men look like.

I know firsthand that not every parent is wise, all-knowing and caretaking. Sometimes it is because they did not receive those things themselves as children; sometimes it is because they are hopelessly lost in their own egos.

Making fun of a promising and true statement, that it does indeed "take a village to raise a child," does not change bad parents into good ones, it only furthers political games at the expense of children. Writing into law that a parent's "rights" are absolute and inalienable (and thereby overturning almost 2,000 state child abuse statutes), will not strengthen families but lead to despair for the most vulnerable members of those families.

The village saved my life. ●

A CALL TO TONE DOWN THE VIOLENCE

● Mr. SIMON. Mr. President, during our recess Joan Beck, an editorial writer for the Chicago Tribune who also does a column for the Tribune, had a column in which she calls on TV and movie executives to reduce the violence.

It is a subject that I have spent a fair amount of time on, and it is important to creating a more stable society and a brighter future for our children.

This is an area where bi-partisanship should mark our actions. I applaud both Bob Dole and Bill Clinton for being concerned here.

Mr. President, I ask that the article from The Chicago Tribune be printed in the RECORD.

The article follows:

A CALL TO TONE DOWN THE VIOLENCE
(By Joan Beck)

Bob Dole's latest efforts to persuade Hollywood to tone down the amount of violence in the movies got two thumbs down from most of his critics. They ridiculed his taste in films. They fretted about censorship. And they give him only pro forma applause before ignoring what he was saying.

Bill Clinton last week got TV broadcasters to agree to air a minimum of three hours of educational television for children every week. But his critics carped about government over-regulation. They argued about how to define "educational." And they bristled about TV executives being used to further Clinton's re-election campaign.

But both the president and his Republican challenger are right about the dangers of exposing impressionable children to so much violence on TV and in the movies. The points they are making shouldn't be ignored.

Crime statistics may be down slightly in a few urban areas. But bombings, bomb threats and bomb scares are increasing. Drive-by shootings are being committed by kids on bicycles to young to have cars. One in every three black men in their 20s are either in prison or on probation or parole—up from one in four five year ago. Many urban parks and streets are abandoned at night because people fear for their lives.

Violent behavior has multiple—and interlocking—causes, of course. They include poverty, hopelessness, abuse, poor parenting, illegal drugs, mental illness, alcohol, racism, distorted values, gangs, the absence of violence in movies and TV.

Of these, the easiest and quickest to change may be television and movies.

Adults who enjoy violence as entertainment and the media executives who profit from it argue there is no convincing evidence to link violence in mass media to violence in real life. Like tobacco company honchos, they dismiss stacks of studies showing they are wrong.

But at the same time they claim TV does not promote violent behavior, media executives assure advertisers that commercials will influence millions of viewers. Their marketing departments have piles of research to back them up.

It is tricky to pinpoint how big an effect violence on TV and in the movies has on children and young people. Excessive exposure to filmed violence in childhood may not erupt into homicide and crime until adolescence. Other factors certainly make some children more vulnerable than others to media influences.

But the June issue of the Harvard Mental Health Letter sums up persuasive evidence that does link watching violence in mass media and aggressive behavior. The report is written by L. Rowell Huesmann, professor of psychology and communication, University of Michigan at Ann Arbor, and Jessica Moise, a doctoral student at the University of Michigan.

More than 100 laboratory studies done over the last 40 years show that at least some children exposed to films of dramatic violence act more aggressively afterward toward inanimate objects and other youngsters, the newsletter says. It adds, "These results have been found in many countries among boys and girls of all social classes, races, ages and levels of intelligence."

In addition, more than 50 field studies made over the last 20 years find that "children who habitually watch more media violence behave more aggressively and accept aggression more readily as a way to solve problems." The connection shows up regardless of age, sex, social class and previous level of aggression, the author says.

Watching violence in the media leads to aggressive behavior in five ways, the Harvard newsletter says. First, children may imitate characters they see in the media, especially if they are admirable and their actions are rewarded. Then they tend to internalize the behavior and use it automatically in their everyday lives.

Second, violence in the media desensitizes children to the effects of violence. "The more televised violence a child watches, the more acceptable aggressive behavior becomes," says the newsletter. It also makes children expect others to act violently and therefore feel they should, too.

Third, seeing violence in the media helps a child justify to himself his own acts of aggression and relieves any guilt he might feel, freeing him to continue to behave aggressively.

Fourth, watching violent acts on TV and in movies may activate aggressive thoughts and feelings a child already has or serve as a cognitive cue for later violent behavior. And fifth, children who watch a lot of violence can become desensitized to it and the emotional and physiological responses that might turn them away from it become dulled.

"The studies are conclusive," says the Harvard newsletter. "The evidence leaves no room for doubt that exposure to media violence stimulates aggression."

The new V chip that lets parents cut off their children's access to violent programs should help. More high quality, "educational" shows for children on TV is a positive move. And all of us who fear violence and regret the changes we are making to protect ourselves—airline security checks, gated communities, more police, more prisons, more restrictions on ourselves about walking in the parks and on certain streets—can stop supporting violence as entertainment.

We can cut violence on TV and in movies out of our lives and help make it unprofitable for those who sell it. If enough of us refuse to pay to see violent films, studios will make fewer of them. If enough of us change the channel when a violent TV show comes on, broadcasters will get the message.

Cutting back on violence as entertainment won't solve the problem of violence in the real world. But it should help. It's something we can do now, while we try to figure out how to end poverty and keep fathers in the home and create more effective schools and end drug abuse and deal with all the other factors that contribute to violent crime. ●

JOINT MEETING OF THE TWO HOUSES—ADDRESS BY THE PRIME MINISTER OF IRELAND

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the President pro tempore of the Senate be authorized to appoint a committee on the part of the Senate to join with a like committee on the part of the House of Representatives to escort His Excellency, John Bruton, Prime Minister of Ireland, into the House Chamber for the joint meeting on Wednesday, September 11, 1996.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

WATER RESOURCES DEVELOPMENT ACT OF 1996

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, I ask that the Chair lay before the Senate a message from the House on S. 640.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. SMITH) laid before the Senate the following message from the House of Representatives:

Resolved, That the bill from the Senate (S. 640) entitled "An Act to provide for the conservation and development of water and related resources, to authorize the Secretary of the Army to construct various projects for improvements to rivers and harbors of the United States, and for other purposes", do pass with the following amendment:

Strike out all after the enacting clause, and insert:

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

(a) SHORT TITLE.—This Act may be cited as the "Water Resources Development Act of 1996".

TITLE VI—EXTENSION OF EXPENDITURE AUTHORITY UNDER HARBOR MAINTENANCE TRUST FUND

Sec. 601. Extension of expenditure authority under Harbor Maintenance Trust Fund.

SEC. 2. DEFINITION.

For purposes of this Act, the term "Secretary" means the Secretary of the Army.

TITLE I—WATER RESOURCES PROJECTS

SEC. 101. PROJECT AUTHORIZATIONS.

(a) PROJECTS WITH CHIEF'S REPORTS.—Except as provided in this section, the following projects for water resources development and conservation and other purposes are authorized to be carried out by the Secretary substantially in accordance with the plans, and subject to the conditions, described in the respective reports designated in this section:

(1) AMERICAN RIVER WATERSHED, CALIFORNIA.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—The project for flood damage reduction, American and Sacramento Rivers, California: Supplemental Information Report for the American River Watershed Project, California, dated March 1996, at a total cost of $57,300,000, with an estimated Federal cost of $42,975,000 and an estimated non-Federal cost of $14,325,000, consisting of the following:

(i) Approximately 24 miles of slurry wall in the existing levees along the lower American River.

(ii) Approximately 12 miles of levee modifications along the east bank of the Sacramento River downstream from the Natomas Cross Canal.

(iii) 3 telemeter streamflow gages upstream from the Folsom Reservoir.

(iv) Modifications to the existing flood warning system along the lower American River.

(B) CREDIT TOWARD NON-FEDERAL SHARE.—The non-Federal sponsor shall receive credit toward the non-Federal share of the cost of the project for expenses that the sponsor has incurred for design and construction of any of the features authorized pursuant to this paragraph prior to the date on which Federal funds are appropriated for construction of the project. The amount of the credit shall be determined by the Secretary.

(C) OPERATION OF FOLSOM DAM.—The Secretary of the Interior shall continue to operate the Folsom Dam and Reservoir to the variable 400,000/670,000 acre-feet of flood control storage capacity as an interim measure and extend the agreement between the Bureau of Reclamation and the Sacramento Area Flood Control Agency until such date as a comprehensive flood control plan for the American River Watershed has been implemented.

(D) RESPONSIBILITY OF NON-FEDERAL SPONSOR.—The non-Federal sponsor shall be responsible for all operation, maintenance, repair, replacement, and rehabilitation costs associated with the improvements undertaken pursuant to this paragraph, as well as for 25 percent of the costs for the variable flood control operation of the Folsom Dam and Reservoir (including any incremental power and water purchase costs incurred by the Western Area Power Administration or the Bureau of Reclamation and any direction, capital, and operation and maintenance costs borne by either of such agencies). Notwithstanding any contract or other agreement, the remaining 75 percent of the costs for the variable flood control operation of the Folsom Dam and Reservoir shall be the responsibility of the United States and shall be nonreimbursable.

(2) SAN LORENZO RIVER, SANTA CRUZ, CALIFORNIA.—The project for flood control, San Lorenzo River, Santa Cruz, California: Report of the Chief of Engineers, dated June 30, 1994, at a total cost of $21,800,000, with an estimated Federal cost of $10,900,000 and an estimated non-Federal cost of $10,900,000.

(3) SANTA BARBARA HARBOR, CALIFORNIA.—The project for navigation, Santa Barbara Harbor, California: Report of the Chief of Engineers, dated April 26, 1994, at a total cost of $5,840,000, with an estimated Federal cost of $4,670,000 and an estimated non-Federal cost of $1,170,000.

(4) SANTA MONICA BREAKWATER, CALIFORNIA.—The project for navigation and storm damage reduction, Santa Monica Breakwater, Santa Monica, California: Report of the Chief of Engineers, dated June 7, 1996, at a total cost of $6,440,000, with an estimated Federal cost of $4,220,000 and an estimated non-Federal cost of $2,220,000.

(2) ALLEGHENY RIVER AT OIL CITY, PENNSYLVANIA.—Project for bank stabilization to address erosion problems affecting the pipeline crossing the Allegheny River at Oil City, Pennsylvania, including measures to address erosion affecting the pipeline in the bed of the Allegheny River and its adjacent banks.

(3) CUMBERLAND RIVER, NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE.—Project for bank stabilization, Cumberland River, Nashville, Tennessee.

(4) TENNESSEE RIVER, HAMILTON COUNTY, TENNESSEE.—Project for bank stabilization, Tennessee River, Hamilton County, Tennessee; except that the maximum amount of Federal funds that may be allotted for the project shall be $7,500,000.

SEC. 104. SMALL NAVIGATION PROJECTS.

The Secretary shall conduct a study for each of the following projects and, if the Secretary determines that the project is feasible, shall carry out the project under section 107 of the River and Harbor Act of 1960 (33 U.S.C. 577):

(1) AKUTAN, ALASKA.—Project for navigation, Akutan, Alaska, consisting of a bulkhead and a wave barrier, including application of innovative technology involving use of a permeable breakwater.

(2) GRAND MARAIS HARBOR BREAKWATER, MICHIGAN.—Project for navigation, Grand Marais Harbor breakwater, Michigan.

(3) DULUTH, MINNESOTA.—Project for navigation, Duluth, Minnesota.

(4) TACONITE, MINNESOTA.—Project for navigation, Taconite, Minnesota.

(5) TWO HARBORS, MINNESOTA.—Project for navigation, Two Harbors, Minnesota.

(6) CARUTHERSVILLE HARBOR, PEMISCOT COUNTY, MISSOURI.—Project for navigation, Caruthersville Harbor, Pemiscot County, Missouri, including enlargement of the existing harbor and bank stabilization measures.

(7) NEW MADRID COUNTY HARBOR, MISSOURI.—Project for navigation, New Madrid County Harbor, Missouri, including enlargement of the existing harbor and bank stabilization measures.

(8) BROOKLYN, NEW YORK.—Project for navigation, Brooklyn, New York, including restoration of the pier and related navigation support structures, at the Sixty-Ninth Street Pier.

(9) BUFFALO INNER HARBOR, BUFFALO, NEW YORK.—Project for navigation, Buffalo Inner Harbor, Buffalo, New York.

(10) GLENN COVE CREEK, NEW YORK.—Project for navigation, Glenn Cove Creek, New York, including bulkheading.

(11) UNION SHIP CANAL, BUFFALO AND LACKAWANNA, NEW YORK.—Project for navigation, Union Ship Canal, Buffalo and Lackawanna, New York.

SEC. 105. SMALL SHORELINE PROTECTION PROJECTS.

(a) PROJECT AUTHORIZATIONS.—The Secretary shall conduct a study for each of the following projects, and if the Secretary determines that the project is feasible, shall carry out the project under section 3 of the Shoreline Protection Act of August 13, 1946 (33 U.S.C. 426g):

(1) FAULKNER'S ISLAND, CONNECTICUT.—Project for shoreline protection, Faulkner's Island, Connecticut; except that the maximum amount of Federal funds that may be allotted for the project shall be $4,500,000.

(2) FORT PIERCE, FLORIDA.—Project for 1 mile of additional shoreline protection, Fort Pierce, Florida.

(3) ORCHARD BEACH, BRONX, NEW YORK.—Project for shoreline protection, Orchard Beach, Bronx, New York, New York; except that the maximum amount of Federal funds that may be allotted for the project shall be $5,200,000.

(4) SYLVAN BEACH BREAKWATER, VERONA, ONEIDA COUNTY, NEW YORK.—Project for shoreline protection, Sylvan Beach breakwater, Verona, Oneida County, New York.

(b) COST SHARING AGREEMENT.—In carrying out the project authorized by subsection (a)(1), the Secretary shall enter into an agreement with the property owner to determine the allocation of the project costs.

SEC. 106. SMALL SNAGGING AND SEDIMENT REMOVAL PROJECT, MISSISSIPPI RIVER, LITTLE FALLS, MINNESOTA.

The Secretary shall conduct a study for a project for clearing, snagging, and sediment removal, East Bank of the Mississippi River, Little Falls, Minnesota, including removal of sediment from culverts. The study shall include a determination of the adequacy of culverts to maintain flows through the channel. If the Secretary determines that the project is feasible, the Secretary shall carry out the project under section 3 of the River and Harbor Act of March 2, 1945 (33 U.S.C. 603a; 59 Stat. 23).

SEC. 107. SMALL PROJECTS FOR IMPROVEMENT OF THE ENVIRONMENT.

The Secretary shall conduct a study for each of the following projects and, if the Secretary determines that the project is appropriate, shall carry out the project under section 1135(a) of the Water Resources Development Act of 1986 (33 U.S.C. 2309(a)):

(1) UPPER TRUCKEE RIVER, EL DORADO COUNTY, CALIFORNIA.—Project for environmental restoration, Upper Truckee River, El Dorado County, California, including measures for restoration of degraded wetlands and wildlife enhancement.

(2) SAN LORENZO RIVER, CALIFORNIA.—Project for habitat restoration, San Lorenzo River, California.

(3) WHITTIER NARROWS DAM, CALIFORNIA.—Project for environmental restoration and remediation of contaminated water sources, Whittier Narrows Dam, California.

(4) UPPER JORDAN RIVER, SALT LAKE COUNTY, UTAH.—Project for channel restoration and environmental improvement, Upper Jordan River, Salt Lake County, Utah.

SEC. 108. PROJECT TO MITIGATE SHORE DAMAGE.

The Secretary shall expedite the Assateague Island restoration feature of the Ocean City, Maryland, and vicinity study and, if the Secretary determines that the Federal navigation project has contributed to degradation of the shoreline, the Secretary shall carry out the project for shoreline restoration under section 111 of the River and Harbor Act of 1968 (82 Stat. 735); except that the maximum amount of Federal funds that may be allotted by the Secretary for the project shall be $35,000,000. In carrying out the project, the Secretary shall coordinate with affected Federal and State agencies and shall enter into an agreement with the Federal property owner to determine the allocation of the project costs.

TITLE II—GENERALLY APPLICABLE PROVISIONS

SEC. 201. COST SHARING FOR DREDGED MATERIAL DISPOSAL AREAS.

(a) CONSTRUCTION.—Section 101(a) of the Water Resources Development Act of 1986 (33 U.S.C. 2211(a); 100 Stat. 4082–4083) is amended—

(1) by striking the last sentence of paragraph (2) and inserting the following: “The value of lands, easements, rights-of-way, and relocations provided under paragraph (3) and the costs of relocations borne by the non-Federal interests under paragraph (4) shall be credited toward the payment required under this paragraph.”;

(2) in paragraph (3)—

(A) by inserting “and” after “rights-of-way.”;

(B) by striking “, and dredged material disposal areas”;

(C) by inserting “, including any lands, easements, rights-of-way, and relocations (other than utility relocations accomplished under paragraph (4)) that are necessary for dredged material disposal facilities” before the period at the end of such paragraph; and

(3) by adding at the end the following:

“(5) DREDGED MATERIAL DISPOSAL FACILITIES FOR PROJECT CONSTRUCTION.—For purposes of this subsection, the term ‘general navigation features’ includes constructed land-based and aquatic dredged material disposal facilities that are necessary for the disposal of dredged material required for project construction and for which a contract for construction has not been awarded on or before the date of the enactment of this paragraph.”.

(b) OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE.—Section 101(b) of such Act (33 U.S.C. 2211(b); 100 Stat. 4083) is amended—

(1) by inserting “(1) IN GENERAL.—” before “The Federal”;

(2) by indenting and moving paragraph (1), as designated by paragraph (1) of this subsection, 2 ems to the right;

(3) by striking “pursuant to this Act” and inserting “by the Secretary pursuant to this Act or any other law approved after the date of the enactment of this Act”;

(4) by adding at the end thereof the following:

“(2) DREDGED MATERIAL DISPOSAL FACILITIES.—The Federal share of the cost of constructing land-based and aquatic dredged material disposal facilities that are necessary for the disposal of dredged material required for the operation and maintenance of a project and for which a contract for construction has not been awarded on or before the date of the enactment of this paragraph shall be determined in accordance with subsection (a). The Federal share of operating and maintaining such facilities shall be determined in accordance with paragraph (1).”.

(c) AGREEMENT.—Section 101(e)(1) of such Act (33 U.S.C. 2211(e)(1); 100 Stat. 4083) is amended by striking “and to provide dredged material disposal areas and perform” and inserting “including those necessary for dredged material disposal facilities, and to perform”.

(d) CONSIDERATION OF FUNDING REQUIREMENTS AND EQUITABLE APPORTIONMENT.—Section 101 of such Act (33 U.S.C. 2211; 100 Stat. 4082–4084) is further amended by adding at the end the following:

“(f) CONSIDERATION OF FUNDING REQUIREMENTS AND EQUITABLE APPORTIONMENT.—The Secretary shall ensure, to the extent practicable, that—

“(1) funding necessary for operation and maintenance dredging of commercial navigation harbors is provided before Federal funds are obligated for payment of the Federal share of costs associated with construction of dredged material disposal facilities in accordance with subsections (a) and (b);

“(2) funds expended for such construction are equitably apportioned in accordance with regional needs; and

“(3) the Secretary’s participation in the construction of dredged material disposal facilities does not result in unfair competition with potential private sector providers of such facilities.”.

(e) ELIGIBLE OPERATIONS AND MAINTENANCE DEFINED.—Section 214(2) of such Act (33 U.S.C. 2241; 100 Stat. 4108) is amended—

(1) in subparagraph (A)—

(A) by inserting “Federal” after “means all”;

(B) by inserting “(i)” after “including”;

(C) by inserting before the period at the end the following: “; (ii) the construction of dredged material disposal facilities that are necessary for the operation and maintenance of any harbor or inland harbor; (iii) dredging and disposing of contaminated sediments which are in or which affect the maintenance of Federal navigation channels; (iv) mitigating for impacts resulting from Federal navigation operation and maintenance activities; and (v) operating and maintaining dredged material disposal facilities”;

(2) in subparagraph (C) by striking “rights-of-way, or dredged material disposal areas,” and inserting “or rights-of-way.”.

(f) AMENDMENT OF COOPERATION AGREEMENT.—If requested by the non-Federal interest, the Secretary shall amend a project cooperation agreement executed on or before the date of the enactment of this Act to reflect the application of the amendments made by this section to any project for which a contract for construction has not been awarded on or before such date of enactment.

(g) SAVINGS CLAUSE.—Nothing in this section (including the amendments made by this section) shall increase, or result in the increase of, the non-Federal share of the costs of—

(1) any dredged material disposal facility authorized before the date of the enactment of this Act, including any facility authorized by section 123 of the River and Harbor Act of 1970 (84 Stat. 1823); or

(2) any dredged material disposal facility that is necessary for the construction or maintenance of a project authorized before the date of the enactment of this Act.

SEC. 202. FLOOD CONTROL POLICY.

(a) FLOOD CONTROL COST SHARING.—

(1) INCREASED NON-FEDERAL CONTRIBUTIONS.—Subsections (a) and (b) of section 103 of the Water Resources Development Act of 1986 (33 U.S.C. 2213(a) and (b)) are each amended by striking “25 percent” each place it appears and inserting “35 percent”.

(2) APPLICABILITY.—The amendments made by paragraph (1) shall apply to any project authorized after the date of the enactment of this Act and to any flood control project which is not specifically authorized by Congress for which a Detailed Project Report is approved after such date of enactment or, in the case of a project for which no Detailed Project Report is prepared, construction is initiated after such date of enactment.

(b) ABILITY TO PAY.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Section 103(m) of such Act (33 U.S.C. 2213(m)) is amended to read as follows:

“(m) ABILITY TO PAY.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—Any cost-sharing agreement under this section for flood control or agricultural water supply shall be subject to the ability of a non-Federal interest to pay.

“(2) CRITERIA AND PROCEDURES.—The ability of any non-Federal interest to pay shall be determined by the Secretary in accordance with criteria and procedures in effect on the day before the date of the enactment of the Water Resources Development Act of 1996; except that such criteria and procedures shall be revised within 6 months after the date of such enactment to reflect the requirements of paragraph (3).

“(3) REVISION OF PROCEDURES.—In revising procedures pursuant to paragraph (1), the Secretary—

“(A) shall consider—

“(i) per capita income data for the county or counties in which the project is to be located; and

“(ii) the per capita non-Federal cost of construction of the project for the county or counties in which the project is to be located;

“(B) shall not consider criteria (other than criteria described in subparagraph (A)) in effect on the day before the date of the enactment of the Water Resources Development Act of 1996; and

“(C) may consider additional criteria relating to the non-Federal interest’s financial ability to carry out its cost-sharing responsibilities, to the extent that the application of such criteria does not eliminate areas from eligibility for a reduction in the non-Federal share as determined under subparagraph (A).

“(4) NON-FEDERAL SHARE.—Notwithstanding subsection (a), the Secretary shall reduce or eliminate the requirement that a non-Federal interest make a cash contribution for any project that is determined to be eligible for a reduction in the non-Federal share under procedures in effect under paragraphs (1), (2), and (3).”.

(2) APPLICABILITY.—

(A) GENERALLY.—Subject to subparagraph (C), the amendment made by paragraph (1) shall apply to any project, or separable element thereof, with respect to which the Secretary and the non-Federal interest have not entered into a project cooperation agreement on or before the date of the enactment of this Act.

(B) AMENDMENT OF COOPERATION AGREEMENT.—If requested by the non-Federal interest, the Secretary shall amend a project cooperation agreement executed on or before the date of the enactment of this Act to reflect the application of the amendment made by paragraph (1) to any project for which a contract for construction has not been awarded on or before such date of enactment.

(C) NON-FEDERAL OPTION.—If requested by the non-Federal interest, the Secretary shall apply the criteria and procedures established pursuant to section 103(m) of the Water Resources Development Act of 1986 as in effect on the day before the date of the enactment of this Act for projects that are authorized before the date of the enactment of this Act.

(c) FLOOD PLAIN MANAGEMENT PLANS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Section 402 of such Act (33 U.S.C. 701b–12; 100 Stat. 4133) is amended to read as follows:

“SEC. 402. FLOOD PLAIN MANAGEMENT REQUIREMENTS.

“(a) COMPLIANCE WITH FLOOD PLAIN MANAGEMENT AND INSURANCE PROGRAMS.—Before construction of any project for local flood protection or any project for hurricane or storm damage reduction and involving Federal assistance from the Secretary, the non-Federal interest shall agree to participate in and comply with applicable Federal flood plain management and flood insurance programs.

“(b) FLOOD PLAIN MANAGEMENT PLANS.—Within 1 year after the date of signing a project cooperation agreement for construction of a project to which subsection (a) applies, the non-Federal interest shall prepare a flood plain management plan designed to reduce the impacts of future flood events in the project area. Such plan shall be implemented by the non-Federal interest not later than 1 year after completion of construction of the project.

“(c) GUIDELINES.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—Within 6 months after the date of the enactment of this subsection, the Secretary shall develop guidelines for preparation of flood plain management plans by non-Federal interests under subsection (b). Such guidelines shall address potential measures, practices and policies to reduce loss of life, injuries, damages to property and facilities, public expenditures, and other adverse impacts associated with flooding and to preserve and enhance natural flood plain values.

"(2) LIMITATION ON STATUTORY CONSTRUCTION.—Nothing in this subsection shall be construed to confer any regulatory authority upon the Secretary.

"(d) TECHNICAL SUPPORT.—The Secretary is authorized to provide technical support to a non-Federal interest for a project to which subsection (a) applies for the development and implementation of plans prepared under subsection (b)."

(2) APPLICABILITY.—The amendment made by paragraph (1) shall apply to any project or separable element thereof with respect to which the Secretary and the non-Federal interest have not entered into a project cooperation agreement on or before the date of the enactment of this Act.

(d) NON-STRUCTURAL FLOOD CONTROL POLICY.—

(1) REVIEW.—The Secretary shall conduct a review of policies, procedures, and techniques relating to the evaluation and development of flood control measures with a view toward identifying impediments that may exist to justifying non-structural flood control measures as alternatives to structural measures.

(2) REPORT.—Not later than 1 year after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary shall transmit to Congress a report on the findings on the review conducted under this subsection, together with any recommendations for modifying existing law to remove any impediments identified under such review.

(e) EMERGENCY RESPONSE.—Section 5(a)(1) of the Act entitled "An Act authorizing the construction of certain public works on rivers and harbors for flood control, and for other purposes", approved August 18, 1941 (33 U.S.C. 701n(a)(1)), is amended by inserting before the first semicolon the following: ", or in implementation of nonstructural alternatives to the repair or restoration of such flood control work if requested by the non-Federal sponsor".

(f) NONSTRUCTURAL ALTERNATIVES.—Section 73 of the Water Resources Development Act of 1974 (33 U.S.C. 701b-11; 88 Stat. 32) is amended by striking subsection (a) and inserting the following:

"(a) In the survey, planning, or design by any Federal agency of any project involving flood protection, such agency, with a view toward formulating the most economically, socially, and environmentally acceptable means of reducing or preventing flood damages, shall consider and address in adequate detail nonstructural alternatives, including measures that may be implemented by others, to prevent or reduce flood damages. Such alternatives may include watershed management, wetlands restoration, elevation or flood proofing of structures, floodplain regulation, relocation, and acquisition of floodplain lands for recreational, fish and wildlife, and other public purposes."

SEC. 203. FEASIBILITY STUDY COST-SHARING.

(a) NON-FEDERAL SHARE.—Section 105(a)(1) of the Water Resources Development Act of 1986 (33 U.S.C. 2215(a)(1)) is amended—

(1) in the first sentence, by striking "during the period of such study";

(2) by inserting after the first sentence the following: "During the period of the study, the non-Federal share of the cost of the study shall be not more than 50 percent of the estimate of the cost of the study as contained in the feasibility cost-sharing agreement. The cost estimate may be amended only by mutual agreement of the Secretary and the non-Federal interests. The non-Federal share of any costs in excess of the cost estimate shall, except as otherwise mutually agreed by the Secretary and the non-Federal interests, be payable after the project has been authorized for construction and on the date on which the Secretary and non-Federal interests enter into an agreement pursuant to section 101(e) or 103(j). In the event the project which is the subject of the study is not authorized within the earlier of 5 years of the date of the final report of the Chief of Engineers concerning such study or 2 years of the date of termination of the study, the non-Federal share of any such excess costs shall be paid to the United States on the last day of such period."; and

(3) in the second sentence, by striking "such non-Federal contribution" and inserting "the non-Federal share required under this paragraph".

(b) APPLICABILITY.—The amendments made by subsection (a) shall apply notwithstanding any feasibility cost-sharing agreement entered into by the Secretary and non-Federal interests. Upon request of the non-Federal interest, the Secretary shall amend any feasibility cost-sharing agreements in effect on the date of enactment of this Act so as to conform the agreements with the amendments.

(c) LIMITATION ON STATUTORY CONSTRUCTION.—Nothing in this section or any amendment made by this section shall require the Secretary to reimburse the non-Federal interests for funds previously contributed for a study.

SEC. 204. RESTORATION OF ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY.

(a) REVIEW OF PROJECTS.—Section 1135(a) of the Water Resources Development Act of 1986 (33 U.S.C. 2309a(a)) is amended—

(1) by striking "the operation of"; and

(2) by inserting before the period at the end the following: "and to determine if the operation of such projects has contributed to the degradation of the quality of the environment".

(b) PROGRAM OF PROJECTS.—Section 1135(b) of such Act is amended by striking the last 2 sentences of subsection (b).

(c) RESTORATION OF ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY.—Section 1135 of such Act is further amended—

(1) by redesignating subsections (c), (d), and (e) as subsections (e), (f), and (g), respectively;

(2) by inserting after subsection (b) the following new subsections:

"(c) RESTORATION OF ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY.—If the Secretary determines that construction of a water resource project by the Secretary or operation of a water resources project constructed by the Secretary has contributed to the degradation of the quality of the environment, the Secretary may undertake measures for restoration of environmental quality and measures for enhancement of environmental quality that are associated with the restoration, either through modifications at the project site or at other locations that have been affected by the construction or operation of the project, if such measures do not conflict with the authorized project purposes.

"(d) NON-FEDERAL SHARE; LIMITATION ON MAXIMUM FEDERAL EXPENDITURE.—The non-Federal share of the cost of any modifications or measures carried out or undertaken pursuant to subsection (b) or (c) of this section shall be 25 percent. Not more than 80 percent of the non-Federal share may be in kind, including a facility, supply, or service that is necessary to carry out the modification. No more than $5,000,000 in Federal funds may be expended on any single modification or measure carried out or undertaken pursuant to this section."; and

(3) in subsection (f), as so redesignated, by striking "program conducted under subsection (b)" and inserting "programs conducted under subsections (b) and (c)".

(d) DEFINITION.—Section 1135 of such Act is further amended by adding at the end the following:

"(h) DEFINITION.—In this section the term 'water resources project constructed by the Secretary' includes a water resources project constructed or funded jointly by the Secretary and the head of any other Federal agency (including the Natural Resources Conservation Service)."

SEC. 205. ENVIRONMENTAL DREDGING.

Section 312 of the Water Resources Development Act of 1990 (104 Stat. 4639-4640) is amended—

(1) in each of subsections (a), (b), and (c) by inserting "and remediate" after "remove" each place it appears;

(2) in subsection (b)(1) by inserting "and remediation" after "removal" each place it appears;

(3) in subsection (b)(2) by striking "$10,000,000" and inserting "$30,000,000"; and

(4) by striking subsection (f) and inserting the following:

"(f) In carrying out this section, the Secretary shall give priority to work in the following areas:

- "(1) Brooklyn Waterfront, New York.
- "(2) Buffalo Harbor and River, New York.
- "(3) Ashtabula River, Ohio.
- "(4) Mahoning River, Ohio.
- "(5) Lower Fox River, Wisconsin."

SEC. 206. AQUATIC ECOSYSTEM RESTORATION.

(a) GENERAL AUTHORITY.—The Secretary is authorized to carry out aquatic ecosystem restoration and protection projects when the Secretary determines that such projects will improve the quality of the environment and are in the public interest and that the environmental and economic benefits, both monetary and non-monetary, of the project to be undertaken pursuant to this section justify the cost.

(b) COST SHARING.—Non-Federal interests shall provide 50 percent of the cost of construction of any project carried out under this section, including provision of all lands, easements, rights-of-way, and necessary relocations.

(c) AGREEMENTS.—Construction of a project under this section shall be initiated only after a non-Federal interest has entered into a binding agreement with the Secretary to pay the non-Federal share of the costs of construction required by this section and to pay 100 percent of any operation, maintenance, and replacement and rehabilitation costs with respect to the project in accordance with regulations prescribed by the Secretary.

(d) COST LIMITATION.—Not more than $5,000,000 in Federal funds may be allotted under this section for a project at any single locality.

(e) FUNDING.—There is authorized to be appropriated not to exceed $25,000,000 annually to carry out this section.

SEC. 207. BENEFICIAL USES OF DREDGED MATERIAL.

Section 204 of the Water Resources Development Act of 1992 (106 Stat. 4826) is amended—

(1) by redesignating subsection (e) as subsection (f); and

(2) by inserting after subsection (d) the following:

"(e) SELECTION OF DREDGED MATERIAL DISPOSAL METHOD.—In developing and carrying out a project for navigation involving the disposal of dredged material, the Secretary may select, with the consent of the non-Federal interest, a disposal method that is not the least-cost option if the Secretary determines that the incremental costs of such disposal method are minimal and that the benefits to the aquatic environment to be derived from such disposal method, including the creation of wetlands and control of shoreline erosion, justify its selection. The Federal share of such incremental costs shall be determined in accordance with subsection (c)."

SEC. 208. RECREATION POLICY AND USER FEES.

(a) RECREATION POLICIES.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall provide increased emphasis on and opportunities for recreation at water resources projects operated, maintained, or constructed by the Corps of Engineers.

(2) REPORT.—Not later than 2 years after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary shall transmit to Congress a report on specific measures taken to implement this subsection.

(b) RECREATION USER FEES.—Section 210(b) of the Flood Control Act of 1968 (16 U.S.C. 460d-3(b)) is amended by adding at the end the following:

"(5) USE OF FEES COLLECTED AT FACILITY.—Subject to advance appropriations, the Secretary of the Army shall ensure that at least an amount equal to the total amount of fees collected at any project under this subsection in a fiscal year beginning after September 30, 1996, are expended in the succeeding fiscal year at such project for operation and maintenance of recreational facilities at such project."

SEC. 209. RECOVERY OF COSTS.

Amounts recovered under section 107 of the Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation, and Liability Act of 1980 (42 U.S.C. 9607) for any response action taken by the Secretary in support of the Army Civil Works program and any other amounts recovered by the Secretary from a contractor, insurer, surety, or other person to reimburse the Army for any expenditure for environmental response activities in support of the Army civil works program shall be credited to the appropriate trust fund account from which the cost of such response action has been paid or will be charged.

SEC. 210. COST SHARING OF ENVIRONMENTAL PROJECTS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 103(c) of the Water Resources Development Act of 1986 (33 U.S.C. 2213(c)) is amended—

(1) by striking "and" at the end of paragraph (5);

(2) by striking the period at the end of paragraph (6) and inserting "; and"; and

(3) by inserting after paragraph (6) the following new paragraph:

"(7) subject to section 906 of this Act, environmental protection and restoration: 50 percent."

(b) APPLICABILITY.—The amendments made by subsection (a) apply only to projects authorized after the date of the enactment of this Act.

SEC. 211. CONSTRUCTION OF FLOOD CONTROL PROJECTS BY NON-FEDERAL INTERESTS.

(a) AUTHORITY.—Non-Federal interests are authorized to undertake flood control projects in the United States, subject to obtaining any permits required pursuant to Federal and State laws in advance of actual construction.

(b) STUDIES AND DESIGN ACTIVITIES.—

(1) BY NON-FEDERAL INTERESTS.—A non-Federal interest may prepare, for review and approval by the Secretary, the necessary studies and design documents for any construction to be undertaken pursuant to subsection (a).

(2) BY SECRETARY.—Upon request of an appropriate non-Federal interest, the Secretary may undertake all necessary studies and design activities for any construction to be undertaken pursuant to subsection (a) and provide technical assistance in obtaining all necessary permits for such construction if the non-Federal interest contracts with the Secretary to furnish the United States funds for the studies and design activities during the period that the studies and design activities will be conducted.

(c) COMPLETION OF STUDIES AND DESIGN ACTIVITIES.—In the case of any study or design documents for a flood control project that were initiated before the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary is authorized to complete and transmit to the appropriate non-Federal interests the study or design documents or, upon the request of such non-Federal interests, to terminate the study or design activities and transmit the partially completed study or design documents to such non-Federal interests for completion. Studies and design documents subject to this subsection shall be completed without regard to the requirements of subsection (b).

(d) AUTHORITY TO CARRY OUT IMPROVEMENT.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Any non-Federal interest which has received from the Secretary pursuant to subsection (b) or (c) a favorable recommendation to carry out a flood control project or separable element thereof based on the results of completed studies and design documents for the project or element, may carry out the project or element if a final environmental impact statement has been filed for the project or element.

(2) PERMITS.—Any plan of improvement proposed to be implemented in accordance with this subsection shall be deemed to satisfy the requirements for obtaining the appropriate permits required under the Secretary's authority and such permits shall be granted subject to the non-Federal interest's acceptance of the terms and conditions of such permits if the Secretary determines that the applicable regulatory criteria and procedures have been satisfied.

(3) MONITORING.—The Secretary shall monitor any project for which a permit is granted under this subsection in order to ensure that such project is constructed, operated, and maintained in accordance with the terms and conditions of such permit.

(e) REIMBURSEMENT.—

(1) GENERAL RULE.—Subject to appropriation Acts, the Secretary is authorized to reimburse any non-Federal interest an amount equal to the estimate of the Federal share, without interest, of the cost of any authorized flood control project, or separable element thereof, constructed pursuant to this section—

(A) if, after authorization and before initiation of construction of the project or separable element, the Secretary approves the plans for construction of such project by the non-Federal interest; and

(B) if the Secretary finds, after a review of studies and design documents prepared pursuant to this section, that construction of the project or separable element is economically justified and environmentally acceptable.

(2) SPECIAL RULES.—

(A) REIMBURSEMENT.—For work (including work associated with studies, planning, design, and construction) carried out by a non-Federal interest with respect to a project described in subsection (f), the Secretary shall, subject to amounts being made available in advance in appropriations Acts, reimburse, without interest, the non-Federal interest an amount equal to the estimated Federal share of the cost of such work if such work is later recommended by the Chief of Engineers and approved by the Secretary.

(B) CREDIT.—If the non-Federal interest for a project described in subsection (f) carries out work before completion of a reconnaissance study by the Secretary and if such work is determined by the Secretary to be compatible with the project later recommended by the Secretary, the Secretary shall credit the non-Federal interest for its share of the cost of the project for such work.

(3) MATTERS TO BE CONSIDERED IN REVIEWING PLANS.—In reviewing plans under this subsection, the Secretary shall consider budgetary and programmatic priorities and other factors that the Secretary deems appropriate.

(4) MONITORING.—The Secretary shall regularly monitor and audit any project for flood control approved for construction under this section by a non-Federal interest in order to ensure that such construction is in compliance with the plans approved by the Secretary and that the costs are reasonable.

(5) LIMITATION ON REIMBURSEMENTS.—No reimbursement shall be made under this section unless and until the Secretary has certified that the work for which reimbursement is requested has been performed in accordance with applicable permits and approved plans.

(f) SPECIFIC PROJECTS.—For the purpose of demonstrating the potential advantages and effectiveness of non-Federal implementation of flood control projects, the Secretary shall enter into agreements pursuant to this section with non-Federal interests for development of the following flood control projects by such interests:

(1) BERRYESSA CREEK, CALIFORNIA.—The Berryessa Creek element of the project for flood control, Coyote and Berryessa Creeks, California, authorized by section 101(a)(5) of the Water Resources Development Act of 1990 (104 Stat. 4606); except that, subject to the approval of the Secretary as provided by this section, the non-Federal interest may design and construct an alternative to such element.

(2) LOS ANGELES COUNTY DRAINAGE AREA, CALIFORNIA.—The project for flood control, Los Angeles County Drainage Area, California, authorized by section 101(b) of the Water Resources Development Act of 1990 (104 Stat. 4611).

(3) STOCKTON METROPOLITAN AREA, CALIFORNIA.—The project for flood control, Stockton Metropolitan Area, California.

(4) UPPER GUADALUPE RIVER, CALIFORNIA.—The project for flood control, Upper Guadalupe River, California.

(5) BRAYS BAYOU, TEXAS.—Flood control components comprising the Brays Bayou element of the project for flood control, Buffalo Bayou and Tributaries, Texas, authorized by section 101(a)(21) of the Water Resources Development Act of 1990 (104 Stat. 4610); except that, subject to the approval of the Secretary as provided by this section, the non-Federal interest may design and construct an alternative to the diversion component of such element.

(6) HUNTING BAYOU, TEXAS.—The Hunting Bayou element of the project for flood control, Buffalo Bayou and Tributaries, Texas, authorized by such section; except that, subject to the approval of the Secretary as provided by this section, the non-Federal interest may design and construct an alternative to such element.

(7) WHITE OAK BAYOU, TEXAS.—The project for flood control, White Oak Bayou watershed, Texas.

(g) TREATMENT OF FLOOD DAMAGE PREVENTION MEASURES.—For the purposes of this section, flood damage prevention measures at or in the vicinity of Morgan City and Berwick, Louisiana, shall be treated as an authorized element of the Atchafalaya Basin feature of the project for flood control, Mississippi River and Tributaries.

SEC. 212. ENGINEERING AND ENVIRONMENTAL INNOVATIONS OF NATIONAL SIGNIFICANCE.

(a) SURVEYS, PLANS, AND STUDIES.—To encourage innovative and environmentally sound engineering solutions and innovative environmental solutions to problems of national significance, the Secretary may undertake surveys, plans, and studies and prepare reports which may lead to work under existing civil works authorities or to recommendations for authorizations.

(b) FUNDING.—

(1) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—There is authorized to be appropriated to carry out this section $3,000,000 for each fiscal year beginning after September 30, 1996.

(2) FUNDING FROM OTHER SOURCES.—The Secretary may accept and expend additional funds from other Federal agencies, States, or non-Federal entities for purposes of carrying out this section.

SEC. 213. LEASE AUTHORITY.

Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the Secretary may lease space available in buildings for which funding for construction or purchase was provided from the revolving fund established by the 1st section of the Civil Functions Appropriations Act, 1954 (33 U.S.C. 576; 67 Stat. 199) under such terms and conditions as are acceptable to the Secretary. The proceeds from such leases shall be credited to the revolving fund for the purposes set forth in such Act.

SEC. 214. COLLABORATIVE RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT.

(a) FUNDING FROM OTHER FEDERAL SOURCES.—Section 7 of the Water Resources Development Act of 1988 (102 Stat. 4022-4023) is amended—

(1) in subsection (a) by inserting "civil works" before "mission"; and

(2) by striking subsection (e) and inserting the following:

"(e) FUNDING FROM OTHER FEDERAL SOURCES.—The Secretary may accept and expend additional funds from other Federal programs, including other Department of Defense programs, to carry out the purposes of this section."

(b) PRE-AGREEMENT TEMPORARY PROTECTION OF TECHNOLOGY.—Such section 7 is further amended—

(1) by redesignating subsections (b), (c), (d), and (e) as subsections (c), (d), (e), and (f), respectively;

(2) by inserting after subsection (a) the following new subsection:

“(b) PRE-AGREEMENT TEMPORARY PROTECTION OF TECHNOLOGY.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—If the Secretary determines that information developed as a result of research and development activities conducted by the Corps of Engineers is likely to be subject to a cooperative research and development agreement within 2 years of its development and that such information would be a trade secret or commercial or financial information that would be privileged or confidential if the information had been obtained from a non-Federal party participating in a cooperative research and development agreement under section 12 of the Stevenson-Wylder Technology Innovation Act of 1980, the Secretary may provide appropriate protection against the dissemination of such information, including exemption from subchapter II of chapter 5 of title 5, United States Code, until the earlier of the date the Secretary enters into such an agreement with respect to such technology or the last day of the 2-year period beginning on the date of such determination.

“(2) TREATMENT.—Any technology covered by this section which becomes the subject of a cooperative research and development agreement shall be accorded the protection provided under section 12(c)(7)(B) of such Act (15 U.S.C. 3710a(c)(7)(B)) as if such technology had been developed under a cooperative research and development agreement.”; and

(3) in subsection (d), as so redesignated, by striking “(b)” and inserting “(c)”.

SEC. 215. DAM SAFETY PROGRAM.

(a) SHORT TITLE.—This section may be cited as the “National Dam Safety Program Act of 1996”.

(b) FINDINGS.—Congress finds the following:

(1) Dams are an essential part of the national infrastructure. Dams fail from time to time with catastrophic results; thus, dam safety is a vital public concern.

(2) Dam failures have caused, and can cause in the future, enormous loss of life, injury, destruction of property, and economic and social disruption.

(3) Some dams are at or near the end of their structural, useful, or operational life. With respect to future dam failures, the loss, destruction, and disruption can be substantially reduced through the development and implementation of dam safety hazard reduction measures, including—

(A) improved design and construction standards and practices supported by a national dam performance resource bank;

(B) safe operations and maintenance procedures;

(C) early warning systems;

(D) coordinated emergency preparedness plans; and

(E) public awareness and involvement programs.

(4) Dam safety problems persist nationwide. The diversity in Federal and State dam safety programs calls for national leadership in a cooperative effort involving Federal and State governments and the private sector. An expertly staffed and adequately financed dam safety hazard reduction program, based on Federal, State, local, and private research, planning, decisionmaking, and contributions, would reduce the risk of such loss, destruction, and disruption from dam failure by an amount far greater than the cost of such program.

(5) There is a fundamental need for a national dam safety program and the need will continue. An effective national program in dam safety hazards reduction will require input from and review by Federal and non-Federal experts in dams design, construction, operation, and maintenance and in the practical application of dam failure hazards reduction measures. At the present time, there is no national dam safety program.

(6) The coordinating authority for national leadership is provided through the Federal Emergency Management Agency’s (hereinafter in this section referred to as “FEMA”) dam safety program through Executive Order 12148 in coordination with appropriate Federal agencies and the States.

(7) While FEMA’s dam safety program shall continue as a proper Federal undertaking and shall provide the foundation for a National Dam Safety Program, statutory authority to meet increasing needs and to discharge Federal responsibilities in national dam safety is needed.

(8) Statutory authority will strengthen FEMA’s leadership role, will codify the national dam safety program, and will authorize the Director of FEMA (hereinafter in this section referred to as the “Director”) to communicate directly with Congress on authorizations and appropriations and to build upon the hazard reduction aspects of national dam safety.

(c) PURPOSE.—It is the purpose of this section to reduce the risks to life and property from dam failure in the United States through the establishment and maintenance of an effective national dam safety program which will bring together the Federal and non-Federal communities’ expertise and resources to achieve national dam safety hazard reduction. It is not the intent of this section to preempt any other Federal or State authorities nor is the intent of this section to mandate State participation in the grant assistance program to be established under this section.

(d) DEFINITIONS.—In this section, the following definitions apply:

(1) FEDERAL AGENCY.—The term “Federal agency” means any Federal agency that designs, finances, constructs, owns, operates, maintains, or regulates the construction, operation, or maintenance of any dam.

(2) NON-FEDERAL AGENCY.—The term “non-Federal agency” means any State agency that has regulatory authority over the safety of non-Federal dams.

(3) FEDERAL GUIDELINES FOR DAM SAFETY.—The term “Federal Guidelines for Dam Safety” refers to a FEMA publication number 93, dated June 1979, which defines management practices for dam safety at all Federal agencies.

(4) PROGRAM.—The term “program” means the national dam safety program established under subsection (e).

(5) DAM.—The term “dam” means any artificial barrier with the ability to impound water, wastewater, or liquid-borne materials for the purpose of storage or control of water which is—

(A) 25 feet or more in height from (i) the natural bed of the stream or watercourse measured at the downstream toe of the barrier, or (ii) from the lowest elevation of the outside limit of the barrier if the barrier is not across a stream channel or watercourse, to the maximum water storage elevation; or

(B) has an impounding capacity for maximum storage elevation of 50 acre-feet or more.

Such term does not include any such barrier which is not greater than 6 feet in height regardless of storage capacity or which has a storage capacity at maximum water storage elevation not greater than 15 acre-feet regardless of height, unless such barrier, due to its location or other physical characteristics, is likely to pose a significant threat to human life or property in the event of its failure. Such term does not include a levee.

(6) HAZARD REDUCTION.—The term “hazard reduction” means those efforts utilized to reduce the potential consequences of dam failure to life and property.

(7) STATE.—The term “State” means each of the 50 States of the United States, the District of Columbia, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, Guam, American Samoa, the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands, and any other territory or possession of the United States.

(8) PARTICIPATING STATE.—The term “participating State” means any State that elects to participate in the grant assistance program established under this Act.

(9) UNITED STATES.—The term “United States” means, when used in a geographical sense, all of the States.

(10) MODEL STATE DAM SAFETY PROGRAM.—The term “Model State Dam Safety Program” refers to a document, published by FEMA (No. 123, dated April 1987) and its amendments, developed by State dam safety officials, which acts as a guideline to State dam safety agencies for establishing a dam safety regulatory program or improving an already-established program.

(e) NATIONAL DAM SAFETY PROGRAM.—

(1) AUTHORITY.—The Director, in consultation with appropriate Federal agencies, State dam safety agencies, and the National Dam Safety Review Board established by paragraph (5)(C), shall establish and maintain, in accordance with the provisions and policies of this Act, a coordinated national dam safety program. This program shall—

(A) be administered by FEMA to achieve the objectives set forth in paragraph (3);

(B) involve, where appropriate, the Departments of Agriculture, Defense, Energy, Interior, and Labor, the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, the Nuclear Regulatory Commission, the International Boundaries Commission (United States section), the Tennessee Valley Authority, and FEMA; and

(C) include each of the components described in paragraph (4), the implementation plan described in paragraph (5), and the assistance for State dam safety programs to be provided under this section.

(2) DUTIES.—The Director—

(A) within 270 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, shall develop the implementation plan described in paragraph (5);

(B) within 300 days after such date of enactment, shall submit to the appropriate authorizing committees of Congress the implementation plan described in paragraph (5); and

(C) by rule within 360 days after such date of enactment—

(i) shall develop and implement the national dam safety program under this section;

(ii) shall establish goals, priorities, and target dates for implementation of the program; and

(iii) shall provide a method for cooperation and coordination with, and assistance to (as feasible), interested governmental entities in all States.

(3) OBJECTIVES.—The objectives of the national dam safety program are as follows:

(A) To ensure that new and existing dams are safe through the development of technologically and economically feasible programs and procedures for national dam safety hazard reduction.

(B) To encourage acceptable engineering policies and procedures used for dam site investigation, design, construction, operation and maintenance, and emergency preparedness.

(C) To encourage establishment and implementation of effective dam safety programs in each participating State based on State standards.

(D) To develop and encourage public awareness projects to increase public acceptance and support of State dam safety programs.

(E) To develop technical assistance materials for Federal and non-Federal dam safety programs.

(F) To develop mechanisms with which to provide Federal technical assistance for dam safety to the non-Federal sector.

(4) COMPONENTS.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—The national dam safety program shall consist of a Federal element and a non-Federal element and 3 functional activities: leadership, technical assistance, and public awareness.

(B) ELEMENTS.—

(i) FEDERAL ELEMENT.—The Federal element of the program incorporates all the activities and practices undertaken by Federal agencies to implement the Federal Guidelines for Dam Safety.

(ii) NON-FEDERAL ELEMENT.—The non-Federal element of the program involves the activities and practices undertaken by participating States, local governments, and the private sector to safely build, regulate, operate, and maintain dams and Federal activities which foster State efforts to develop and implement effective programs for the safety of dams.

(C) ACTIVITIES.—

(i) LEADERSHIP ACTIVITY.—The leadership activity of the program shall be the responsibility of FEMA. FEMA shall coordinate Federal efforts in cooperation with appropriate Federal agencies and State dam safety agencies.

(ii) TECHNICAL ASSISTANCE ACTIVITY.—The technical assistance activity of the program involves the transfer of knowledge and technical information among the Federal and non-Federal elements.

(iii) PUBLIC AWARENESS ACTIVITY.—The public awareness activity provides for the education of the public, including State and local officials, to the hazards of dam failure and ways to reduce the adverse consequences of dam failure and related matters.

(5) GRANT ASSISTANCE PROGRAM.—The Director shall develop an implementation plan which shall demonstrate dam safety improvements through fiscal year 2001 and shall recommend appropriate roles for Federal agencies and for State and local units of government, individuals, and private organizations. The implementation plan shall provide, at a minimum, for the following:

(A) ASSISTANCE PROGRAM.—In order to encourage the establishment and maintenance of effective programs intended to ensure dam safety to protect human life and property and to improve such existing programs, the Director shall provide, from amounts made available under subsection (g) of this section, assistance to participating States to establish and maintain dam safety programs, first, according to the basic provisions for a dam safety program listed below and, second, according to more advanced requirements and standards authorized by the review board under subparagraph (C) and the Director with the assistance of established criteria such as the Model State Dam Safety Program. Participating State dam safety programs must be working toward meeting the following primary criteria to be eligible for primary assistance or must meet the following primary criteria prior to working toward advanced assistance:

(i) STATE LEGISLATION.—A dam safety program must be authorized by State legislation to include, at a minimum, the following:

(I) PLAN REVIEW AND APPROVAL.—Authority to review and approve plans and specifications to construct, enlarge, modify, remove, or abandon dams.

(II) PERIODIC INSPECTIONS DURING CONSTRUCTION.—Authority to perform periodic inspections during construction for the purpose of ensuring compliance with approved plans and specifications.

(III) STATE APPROVAL.—Upon completion of construction, a requirement that, before operation of the structure, State approval is received.

(IV) SAFETY INSPECTIONS.—Authority to require or perform the inspection of all dams and reservoirs that pose a significant threat to human life and property in the event of failure at least every 5 years to determine their continued safety and a procedure for more detailed and frequent safety inspections.

(V) PROFESSIONAL ENGINEER.—A requirement that all inspections be performed under the supervision of a registered professional engineer with related experience in dam design and construction.

(VI) ORDERS.—Authority to issue orders, when appropriate, to require owners of dams to perform necessary maintenance or remedial work, revise operating procedures, or take other actions, including breaching dams when deemed necessary.

(VII) REGULATIONS.—Rules and regulations for carrying out the provisions of the State's legislative authority.

(VIII) EMERGENCY FUNDS.—Necessary emergency funds to assure timely repairs or other changes to, or removal of, a dam in order to protect human life and property and, if the owner does not take action, to take appropriate action as expeditiously as possible.

(IX) EMERGENCY PROCEDURES.—A system of emergency procedures that would be utilized in the event a dam fails or in the event a dam's failure is imminent, together with an identification of those dams where failure could be reasonably expected to endanger human life and of the maximum area that could be inundated in the event of a failure of the dam, as well as identification of those necessary public facilities that would be affected by such inundation.

(ii) STATE APPROPRIATIONS.—State appropriations must be budgeted to carry out the provisions of the State legislation.

(B) WORK PLAN CONTRACTS.—The Director shall enter into contracts with each participating State to determine a work plan necessary for a particular State dam safety program to reach a level of program performance previously agreed upon in the contract. Federal assistance under this section shall be provided to aid the State dam safety program in achieving its goal.

(C) NATIONAL DAM SAFETY REVIEW BOARD.—

(i) IN GENERAL.—There is authorized to be established a National Dam Safety Review Board (hereinafter in this section referred to as the "Board"), which shall be responsible for monitoring participating State implementation of the requirements of the assistance program. The Board is authorized to utilize the expertise of other agencies of the United States and to enter into contracts for necessary studies to carry out the requirements of this section. The Board shall consist of 11 members selected for their expertise in dam safety as follows:

(I) 5 to represent FEMA, the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, and the Departments of Agriculture, Defense, and Interior.

(II) 5 members selected by the Director who are dam safety officials of States.

(III) 1 member selected by the Director to represent the United States Committee on Large Dams.

(ii) NO COMPENSATION OF MEMBERS.—Each member of the Board who is an officer or employee of the United States shall serve without compensation in addition to compensation received for the services of the member as an officer or employee of the United States. Each member of the Board who is not an officer or employee of the United States shall serve without compensation.

(iii) TRAVEL EXPENSES.—Each member of the Board shall be allowed travel expenses, including per diem in lieu of subsistence, at rates authorized for an employee of an agency under subchapter I of chapter 57 of title 5, United States Code, while away from home or regular place of business of the member in the performance of services for the Board.

(iv) NONAPPLICABILITY OF FEDERAL ADVISORY COMMITTEE ACT.—The Federal Advisory Committee Act (5 U.S.C. App.) shall not apply to the Board.

(D) MAINTENANCE OF EFFORT.—No grant may be made to a participating State under this subsection in any fiscal year unless the State enters into such agreement with the Director as the Director may require to ensure that the participating State will maintain its aggregate expenditures from all other sources for programs to assure dam safety for the protection of human life and property at or above the average level of such expenditures in its 2 fiscal years preceding the date of the enactment of this Act.

(E) PROCEDURE FOR APPROVAL OF STATE PARTICIPATION.—Any program which is submitted to the Director for participation in the assistance program under this subsection shall be deemed approved 120 days following its receipt by the Director unless the Director determines within such 120-day period that the submitted program fails to reasonably meet the requirements of subparagraphs (A) and (B). If the Director determines the submitted program cannot be approved for participation, the Director shall immediately notify the State in writing, together with his or her reasons and those changes needed to enable the submitted program to be approved.

(F) REVIEW OF STATE PROGRAMS.—Utilizing the expertise of the Board, the Director shall periodically review the approved State dam safety programs. In the event the Board finds that a program of a participating State has proven inadequate to reasonably protect human life and property and the Director agrees, the Director shall revoke approval of the State's participation in the assistance program and withhold assistance under this section, until the State program has been reappraised.

(G) COOPERATION OF FEDERAL AGENCIES.—The head of any Federal agency, when requested by any State dam safety agency, shall provide information on the construction, operation, or maintenance of any dam or allow officials of the State agency to participate in any Federal inspection of any dam.

(H) DAM INSURANCE REPORT.—Within 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Director shall report to the Congress on the availability of dam insurance and make recommendations.

(f) BIENNIAL REPORT.—Within 90 days after the last day of each odd-numbered fiscal year, the Director shall submit a biennial report to Congress describing the status of the program being implemented under this section and describing the progress achieved by the Federal agencies during the 2 previous years in implementing the Federal Guidelines for Dam Safety. Each such report shall include any recommendations for legislative and other action deemed necessary and appropriate. The report shall also include a summary of the progress being made in improving dam safety by participating States.

(g) AUTHORIZING OF APPROPRIATIONS.—

(I) GENERAL PROGRAM.—

(A) FUNDING.—There are authorized to be appropriated to the Director to carry out the provisions of subsections (e) and (f) (in addition to any authorizations for similar purposes included in other Acts and the authorizations set forth in paragraphs (2) through (5) of this subsection)—

(i) $1,000,000 for fiscal year 1997;

(ii) $2,000,000 for fiscal year 1998;

(iii) $4,000,000 for fiscal year 1999;

(iv) $4,000,000 for fiscal year 2000; and

(v) $4,000,000 for fiscal year 2001.

(B) APPORTIONMENT FORMULA.—

(i) IN GENERAL.—Subject to clause (ii), sums appropriated under this paragraph shall be distributed annually among participating States on the following basis: One-third among those States determined in subsection (e) as qualifying for funding, and two-thirds in proportion to the number of dams and appearing as State-regulated dams on the National Dam Inventory in each participating State that has been determined in subsection (e)(5)(A) as qualifying for funding, to the number of dams in all participating States.

(ii) LIMITATION TO 50 PERCENT OF COST.—In no event shall funds distributed to any State under this paragraph exceed 50 percent of the reasonable cost of implementing an approved dam safety program in such State.

(iii) ALLOCATION BETWEEN PRIMARY AND ADVANCED ASSISTANCE PROGRAMS.—The Director and Review Board shall determine how much of funds appropriated under this paragraph is allotted to participating States needing primary funding and those needing advanced funding.

(2) TRAINING.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—The Director shall, at the request of any State that has or intends to develop a dam safety program under subsection (e)(5)(A), provide training for State dam safety staff and inspectors.

(B) FUNDING.—There is authorized to be appropriated to carry out this paragraph $500,000 for each of fiscal years 1997 through 2001.

(3) RESEARCH.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—The Director shall undertake a program of technical and archival research in order to develop improved techniques, historical experience, and equipment for rapid and effective dam construction, rehabilitation, and inspection, together with devices for the continued monitoring, of dams for safety purposes.

(B) STATE PARTICIPATION; REPORTS.—The Director shall provide for State participation in the research under this paragraph and periodically advise all States and Congress of the results of such research.

(C) FUNDING.—There is authorized to be appropriated to carry out this paragraph $1,000,000 for each of fiscal years 1997 through 2001.

(4) DAM INVENTORY.—

(A) MAINTENANCE AND PUBLICATION.—The Secretary is authorized to maintain and periodically publish updated information on the inventory of dams.

(B) FUNDING.—There is authorized to be appropriated to carry out this paragraph $500,000 for each of fiscal years 1997 through 2001.

(5) PERSONNEL.—

(A) EMPLOYMENT.—The Director is authorized to employ additional staff personnel in numbers sufficient to carry out the provisions of this section.

(B) FUNDING.—There is authorized to be appropriated to carry out this paragraph $400,000 for each of fiscal years 1997 through 2001.

(6) LIMITATION.—No funds authorized by this section shall be used to construct or repair any Federal or non-Federal dams.

(h) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—The Act entitled "An Act to authorize the Secretary of the Army to undertake a national program of inspection of dams", approved August 8, 1972 (33 U.S.C. 467-467m; Public Law 92-367), is amended—

(1) in the first section by striking "means any artificial barrier" and all that follows through the period at the end and inserting "has the meaning such term has under subsection (d) of the National Dam Safety Program Act of 1996.";

(2) by striking the 2d sentence of section 3;

(3) by striking section 5 and sections 7 through 14; and

(4) by redesignating section 6 as section 5.

SEC. 216. MAINTENANCE, REHABILITATION, AND MODERNIZATION OF FACILITIES.

In accomplishing the maintenance, rehabilitation, and modernization of hydroelectric power generating facilities at water resources projects under the jurisdiction of the Department of the Army, the Secretary is authorized to increase the efficiency of energy production and the capacity of these facilities if, after consulting with other appropriate Federal and State agencies, the Secretary determines that such upgrading—

(1) is economically justified and financially feasible;

(2) will not result in significant adverse effects on the other purposes for which the project is authorized;

(3) will not result in significant adverse environmental impacts; and

(4) will not involve major structural or operation changes in the project.

SEC. 217. LONG-TERM SEDIMENT MANAGEMENT STRATEGIES.

(a) DEVELOPMENT.—The Secretary shall enter into cooperative agreements with non-Federal sponsors of navigation projects for development of long-term management strategies for controlling sediments in such projects.

(b) CONTENTS OF STRATEGIES.—Each strategy developed under this section for a navigation project—

(1) shall include assessments of the following with respect to the project: sediment rates and composition, sediment reduction options, dredging practices, long-term management of any dredged material disposal facilities, remediation of such facilities, and alternative disposal and reuse options;

(2) shall include a timetable for implementation of the strategy; and

(3) shall incorporate, as much as possible, relevant ongoing planning efforts, including remedial action planning, dredged material management planning, harbor and waterfront development planning, and watershed management planning.

(c) CONSULTATION.—In developing strategies under this section, the Secretary shall consult with interested Federal agencies, States, and Indian tribes and provide an opportunity for public comment.

SEC. 218. DREDGED MATERIAL DISPOSAL FACILITY PARTNERSHIPS.

(a) ADDITIONAL CAPACITY.—

(1) PROVIDED BY SECRETARY.—At the request of a non-Federal project sponsor, the Secretary may provide additional capacity at a dredged material disposal facility constructed by the Secretary beyond that which would be required for project purposes if the non-Federal project sponsor agrees to pay, during the period of construction, all costs associated with the construction of the additional capacity.

(2) COST RECOVERY AUTHORITY.—The non-Federal project sponsor may recover the costs assigned to the additional capacity through fees assessed on 3rd parties whose dredged material is deposited in the facility and who enter into agreements with the non-Federal sponsor for the use of such facility. The amount of such fees may be determined by the non-Federal sponsor.

(b) NON-FEDERAL USE OF DISPOSAL FACILITIES.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary—

(A) may permit the use of any dredged material disposal facility under the jurisdiction of, or managed by, the Secretary by a non-Federal interest if the Secretary determines that such use will not reduce the availability of the facility for project purposes; and

(B) may impose fees to recover capital, operation, and maintenance costs associated with such use.

(2) USE OF FEES.—Notwithstanding section 401(c) of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act but subject to advance appropriations, any monies received through collection of fees under this subsection shall be available to the Secretary, and shall be used by the Secretary, for the operation and maintenance of the disposal facility from which they were collected.

(c) PUBLIC-PRIVATE PARTNERSHIPS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary may carry out a program to evaluate and implement opportunities for public-private partnerships in the design, construction, management, or operation of dredged material disposal facilities in connection with construction or maintenance of Federal navigation projects.

(2) PRIVATE FINANCING.—

(A) AGREEMENTS.—In carrying out this subsection, the Secretary may enter into an agreement with a project sponsor, a private entity, or both for the acquisition, design, construction, management, or operation of a dredged material disposal facility (including any facility used to demonstrate potential beneficial uses of dredged material) using funds provided in whole or in part by the private entity.

(B) REIMBURSEMENT.—If any funds provided by a private entity are used to carry out a project under this subsection, the Secretary may reimburse the private entity over a period of time agreed to by the parties to the agreement through the payment of subsequent user fees. Such fees may include the payment of a disposal or tipping fee for placement of suitable dredged material at the facility.

(C) AMOUNT OF FEES.—User fees paid pursuant to subparagraph (B) shall be sufficient to repay funds contributed by the private entity plus a reasonable return on investment approved by the Secretary in cooperation with the project sponsor and the private entity.

(D) FEDERAL SHARE.—The Federal share of such fee shall be equal to the percentage of the total cost which would otherwise be borne by the Federal Government as required pursuant to existing cost sharing requirements, including section 103 of the Water Resources Development Act of 1986 (33 U.S.C. 2213) and section 204 of the Water Resources Development Act of 1992 (33 U.S.C. 2325).

(E) BUDGET ACT COMPLIANCE.—Any spending authority (as defined in section 401(c)(2) of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974 (2 U.S.C. 651(c)(2))) authorized by this section shall be effective only to such extent and in such amounts as are provided in appropriation Acts.

SEC. 219. OBSTRUCTION REMOVAL REQUIREMENT.

(a) PENALTY.—Section 16 of the Act of March 3, 1899 (33 U.S.C. 411; 30 Stat. 1153), is amended—

(1) by striking "thirteen, fourteen, and fifteen" each place it appears and inserting "13, 14, 15, 19, and 20"; and

(2) by striking "not exceeding twenty-five hundred dollars nor less than five hundred dollars" and inserting "of up to $25,000 per day".

(b) GENERAL AUTHORITY.—Section 20 of the Act of March 3, 1899 (33 U.S.C. 415; 30 Stat. 1154), is amended—

(1) by striking "expense" the first place it appears in subsection (a) and inserting "actual expense, including administrative expenses,";

(2) in subsection (b) by striking "cost" and inserting "actual cost, including administrative costs,";

(3) by redesignating subsection (b) as subsection (c); and

(4) by inserting after subsection (a) the following new subsection:

"(b) REMOVAL REQUIREMENT.—Within 24 hours after the Secretary of the Department in which the Coast Guard is operating issues an order to stop or delay navigation in any navigable waters of the United States because of conditions related to the sinking or grounding of a vessel, the owner or operator of the vessel, with the approval of the Secretary of the Army, shall begin removal of the vessel using the most expeditious removal method available or, if appropriate, secure the vessel pending removal to allow navigation to resume. If the owner or operator fails to begin removal or to secure the vessel pending removal or fails to complete removal as soon as possible, the Secretary of the Army shall remove or destroy the vessel using the summary removal procedures under subsection (a) of this section."

SEC. 220. SMALL PROJECT AUTHORIZATIONS.

Section 14 of the Flood Control Act of 1946 (33 U.S.C. 701r) is amended—

(1) by striking "$12,500,000" and inserting "$15,000,000"; and

(2) by striking "$500,000" and inserting "$1,500,000".

SEC. 221. UNECONOMICAL COST-SHARING REQUIREMENTS.

Section 221(a) of the Flood Control Act of 1970 (42 U.S.C. 1962d-5b) is amended by striking the period at the end of the first sentence and inserting the following: "except that no such agreement shall be required if the Secretary determines that the administrative costs associated with negotiating, executing, or administering the agreement would exceed the amount of the contribution required from the non-Federal interest and are less than $25,000."

SEC. 222. PLANNING ASSISTANCE TO STATES.

Section 22 of the Water Resources Development Act of 1974 (42 U.S.C. 1962d-16) is amended—

(1) in subsection (a) by inserting “, watersheds, or ecosystems” after “basins”;

(2) in subsection (b)—

(A) by striking paragraph (2); and

(B) by redesignating paragraphs (3) and (4) as paragraphs (2) and (3), respectively; and

(3) in subsection (c)—

(A) by striking “$6,000,000” and inserting “$10,000,000”; and

(B) by striking “$300,000” and inserting “$500,000”.

SEC. 223. CORPS OF ENGINEERS EXPENSES.

Section 211 of the Flood Control Act of 1950 (33 U.S.C. 701u; 64 Stat. 183) is amended—

(1) by striking “continental limits of the”; and

(2) by striking the 2d colon and all that follows through “for this purpose”.

SEC. 224. STATE AND FEDERAL AGENCY REVIEW PERIOD.

The 1st section of the Act entitled “An Act authorizing the construction of certain public works on rivers and harbors for flood control, and other purposes”, approved December 22, 1944 (33 U.S.C. 701-1(a); 58 Stat. 888), is amended—

(1) by striking “Within ninety” and inserting “Within 30”; and

(2) by striking “ninety-day period.” and inserting “30-day period.”.

SEC. 225. LIMITATION ON REIMBURSEMENT OF NON-FEDERAL COSTS PER PROJECT.

Section 215(a) of the Flood Control Act of 1968 (42 U.S.C. 1962d-5a(a)) is amended—

(1) by striking “$3,000,000” and inserting “$5,000,000”; and

(2) by striking the final period.

SEC. 226. AQUATIC PLANT CONTROL.

(a) ADDITIONAL CONTROLLED PLANTS.—Section 104(a) of the River and Harbor Act of 1958 (33 U.S.C. 610(a)) is amended by inserting after “alligatorweed,” the following: “melaleuca.”.

(b) AUTHORIZATION.—Section 104(b) of such Act (33 U.S.C. 610(b)) is amended by striking “$12,000,000” and inserting “$15,000,000”.

SEC. 227. SEDIMENTS DECONTAMINATION TECHNOLOGY.

(a) PROJECT PURPOSE.—Section 405(a) of the Water Resources Development Act of 1992 (33 U.S.C. 2239 note; 106 Stat. 4863) is amended by adding at the end the following:

“(3) PROJECT PURPOSE.—The purpose of the project to be carried out under this section is to provide for the development of 1 or more sediment decontamination technologies on a pilot scale demonstrating a capacity of at least 500,000 cubic yards per year.”.

(b) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—The first sentence of section 405(c) of such Act is amended to read as follows: “There is authorized to be appropriated to carry out this section $10,000,000 for fiscal years beginning after September 30, 1996.”.

(c) REPORTS.—Section 405 of such Act is amended by adding at the end the following:

“(d) REPORTS.—Not later than September 30, 1998, and periodically thereafter, the Administrator and the Secretary shall transmit to Congress a report on the results of the project to be carried out under this section, including an assessment of the progress made in achieving the intent of the program set forth in subsection (a)(3).”.

SEC. 228. SHORE PROTECTION.

(a) DECLARATION OF POLICY.—Subsection (a) of the first section of the Act entitled “An Act authorizing Federal participation in the cost of protecting the shores of publicly owned property”, approved August 13, 1946 (33 U.S.C. 426e; 60 Stat. 1056), is amended—

(1) by striking “damage to the shores” and inserting “damage to the shores and beaches”; and

(2) by striking “the following provisions” and all that follows through the period at the end of subsection (a) and inserting the following: “this Act, to promote shore protection projects and related research that encourage the protection, restoration, and enhancement of sandy beaches, including beach restoration and periodic beach nourishment, on a comprehensive and coordinated basis by the Federal Government, States, localities, and private enterprises. In carrying out this policy, preference shall be given to areas in which there has been a Federal investment of funds and areas with respect to which the need for prevention or mitigation of damage to shores and beaches is attributable to Federal navigation projects or other Federal activities.”.

(b) NONPUBLIC SHORES.—Subsection (d) of such section is amended by striking “or from the protection of nearby public property or” and inserting “, if there are sufficient benefits, including benefits to local and regional economic development and to the local and regional ecology (as determined under subsection (e)(2)(B)), or”; and

(c) AUTHORIZATION OF PROJECTS.—Subsection (e) of such section is amended—

(1) by striking “(e) No” and inserting the following:

“(e) AUTHORIZATION OF PROJECTS.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—No”;

(2) by moving the remainder of the text of paragraph (1) (as designated by paragraph (1) of this subsection) 2 ems to the right; and

(3) by adding at the end the following:

“(2) STUDIES.—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall—

“(i) recommend to Congress studies concerning shore protection projects that meet the criteria established under this Act (including subparagraph (B)(iii)) and other applicable law;

“(ii) conduct such studies as Congress requires under applicable laws; and “(iii) report the results of the studies to the appropriate committees of Congress.

“(B) RECOMMENDATIONS FOR SHORE PROTECTION PROJECTS.—

“(i) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall recommend to Congress the authorization or reauthorization of shore protection projects based on the studies conducted under subparagraph (A).

“(ii) CONSIDERATIONS.—In making recommendations, the Secretary shall consider the economic and ecological benefits of a shore protection project and the ability of the non-Federal interest to participate in the project.

“(iii) CONSIDERATION OF LOCAL AND REGIONAL BENEFITS.—In analyzing the economic and ecological benefits of a shore protection project, or a flood control or other water resource project the purpose of which includes shore protection, the Secretary shall consider benefits to local and regional economic development, and to the local and regional ecology, in calculating the full economic and ecological justifications for the project.

“(C) COORDINATION OF PROJECTS.—In conducting studies and making recommendations for a shore protection project under this paragraph, the Secretary shall—

“(i) determine whether there is any other project being carried out by the Secretary or the head of another Federal agency that may be complementary to the shore protection project; and “(ii) if there is such a complementary project, describe the efforts that will be made to coordinate the projects.

“(3) SHORE PROTECTION PROJECTS.—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall construct, or cause to be constructed, any shore protection project authorized by Congress, or separable element of such a project, for which funds have been appropriated by Congress.

“(B) AGREEMENTS.—

“(i) REQUIREMENT.—After authorization by Congress, and before commencement of construction, of a shore protection project or separable element, the Secretary shall enter into a written agreement with a non-Federal interest with respect to the project or separable element.

“(ii) TERMS.—The agreement shall—

“(I) specify the life of the project; and “(II) ensure that the Federal Government and the non-Federal interest will cooperate in carrying out the project or separable element.

“(C) COORDINATION OF PROJECTS.—In constructing a shore protection project or separable element under this paragraph, the Secretary shall, to the extent practicable, coordinate the project or element with any complementary project identified under paragraph (2)(C).

“(4) REPORT TO CONGRESS.—The Secretary shall report biennially to the appropriate committees of Congress on the status of all ongoing shore protection studies and shore protection projects carried out under the jurisdiction of the Secretary.”.

(d) REQUIREMENT OF AGREEMENTS PRIOR TO REIMBURSEMENTS.—

(1) SMALL SHORE PROTECTION PROJECTS.—Section 2 of the Act entitled “An Act authorizing Federal participation in the cost of protecting the shores of publicly owned property”, approved August 13, 1946 (33 U.S.C. 426f; 60 Stat. 1056), is amended—

(A) by striking “SEC. 2. The Secretary of the Army” and inserting the following:

“SEC. 2. REIMBURSEMENTS.

“(a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary”;

(B) in subsection (a) (as so designated)—

(i) by striking “local interests” and inserting “non-Federal interests”;

(ii) by inserting “or separable element of the project” after “project”; and

(iii) by inserting “or separable elements” after “projects” each place it appears; and

(C) by adding at the end the following:

“(b) AGREEMENTS.—

“(1) REQUIREMENT.—After authorization of reimbursement by the Secretary under this section, and before commencement of construction, of a shore protection project, the Secretary shall enter into a written agreement with the non-Federal interest with respect to the project or separable element.

“(2) TERMS.—The agreement shall—

“(A) specify the life of the project; and

“(B) ensure that the Federal Government and the non-Federal interest will cooperate in carrying out the project or separable element.”.

(2) OTHER SHORELINE PROTECTION PROJECTS.—Section 206(e)(1)(A) of the Water Resources Development Act of 1992 (33 U.S.C. 426e-1(e)(1)(A); 106 Stat. 4829) is amended by inserting before the semicolon the following: “and enters into a written agreement with the non-Federal interest with respect to the project or separable element (including the terms of cooperation)”.

(e) STATE AND REGIONAL PLANS.—The Act entitled “An Act authorizing Federal participation in the cost of protecting the shores of publicly owned property”, approved August 13, 1946, is further amended—

(1) by redesignating section 4 (33 U.S.C. 426h) as section 5; and

SEC. 357. BONNEVILLE LOCK AND DAM, COLUMBIA RIVER, OREGON AND WASHINGTON.

(a) IN GENERAL.—The project for Bonneville Lock and Dam, Columbia River, Oregon and Washington, authorized by the Act of August 20, 1937 (50 Stat. 731), and modified by section 83 of the Water Resources Development Act of 1974 (88 Stat. 35), is further modified to authorize the Secretary to convey to the city of North Bonneville, Washington, at no further cost to the city, all right, title and interest of the United States in and to the following:

(1) Any municipal facilities, utilities fixtures, and equipment for the relocated city, and any remaining lands designated as open spaces or municipal lots not previously conveyed to the city, specifically, Lots M1 through M15, M16 (the "community center lot"), M18, M19, M22, M24, S42 through S45, and S52 through S60.

(2) The "school lot" described as Lot 2, block 5, on the plat of relocated North Bonneville.

(3) Parcels 2 and C, but only upon the completion of any environmental response actions required under applicable law.

(4) That portion of Parcel B lying south of the existing city boundary, west of the sewage treatment plant, and north of the drainage ditch that is located adjacent to the northerly limit of the Hamilton Island landfill, provided the Secretary determines, at the time of the proposed conveyance, that the Army has taken all action necessary to protect human health and the environment.

(5) Such portions of Parcel H which can be conveyed without a requirement for further investigation, inventory or other action by the Department of the Army under the provisions of the National Historic Preservation Act.

(6) Such easements as the Secretary deems necessary for—

(A) sewer and water line crossings of relocated Washington State Highway 14; and

(B) reasonable public access to the Columbia River across those portions of Hamilton Island that remain under the ownership of the United States.

(b) TIME PERIOD FOR CONVEYANCES.—The conveyances referred to in subsections (a)(1), (a)(2), (a)(5), and (a)(6)(A) shall be completed within 180 days after the United States receives the release referred to in subsection (d). All other conveyances shall be completed expeditiously, subject to any conditions specified in the applicable subsection.

(c) PURPOSE.—The purpose of the conveyances authorized by subsection (a) is to resolve all outstanding issues between the United States and the city of North Bonneville.

(d) ACKNOWLEDGEMENT OF PAYMENT; RELEASE OF CLAIMS RELATING TO RELOCATION OF CITY.—As a prerequisite to the conveyances authorized by subsection (a), the city of North Bonneville shall execute an acknowledgement of payment of just compensation and shall execute a release of any and all claims for relief of any kind against the United States growing out of the relocation of the city of North Bonneville, or any prior Federal legislation relating thereto, and shall dismiss, with prejudice, any pending litigation, if any, involving such matters.

(e) RELEASE BY ATTORNEY GENERAL.—Upon receipt of the city's acknowledgment and release referred to in subsection (d), the Attorney General of the United States shall dismiss any pending litigation, if any, arising out of the relocation of the city of North Bonneville, and execute a release of any and all rights to damages of any kind under the February 20, 1987, judgment of the United States Claims Court, including any interest thereon.

(f) ACKNOWLEDGMENT OF ENTITLEMENTS; RELEASE BY CITY OF CLAIMS.—Within 60 days after the conveyances authorized by subsection (a) (other than paragraph (6)(B)) have been completed, the city shall execute an acknowledgement that all entitlements under such paragraph have been completed and shall execute a release of any and all claims for relief of any kind against the United States arising out of this subsection.

(g) EFFECTS ON CITY.—Beginning on the date of the enactment of this Act, the city of North Bonneville, or any successor in interest thereto, shall—

(1) be precluded from exercising any jurisdiction over any lands owned in whole or in part by the United States and administered by the United States Army Corps of Engineers in connection with the Bonneville project; and

(2) be authorized to change the zoning designations of, sell, or resell Parcels S35 and S56, which are presently designated as open spaces.

SEC. 358. COLUMBIA RIVER DREDGING, OREGON AND WASHINGTON.

The project for navigation, Lower Willamette and Columbia Rivers below Vancouver, Washington and Portland, Oregon, authorized by the first section of the River and Harbor Appropriations Act of June 18, 1878 (20 Stat. 152), is modified to direct the Secretary—

(1) to conduct channel simulation and to carry out improvements to the existing deep draft channel between the mouth of the river and river mile 34 at a cost not to exceed $2,400,000; and

(2) to conduct overdepth and advance maintenance dredging that is necessary to maintain authorized channel dimensions.

(1) to expedite review of potential deepening of the channel in the East waterway from Elliott Bay to Terminal 25 to a depth of up to 51 feet; and

(2) if determined to be feasible, to implement such deepening as part of project maintenance. In carrying out work authorized by this section, the Secretary shall coordinate with the Port of Seattle regarding use of Slip 27 as a dredged material disposal area.

SEC. 375. BLUESTONE LAKE, WEST VIRGINIA.

Section 102(ff) of the Water Resources Development Act of 1992 (106 Stat. 4810) is amended by inserting “except for that organic matter necessary to maintain and enhance the biological resources of such waters and such nonobtrusive items of debris as may not be economically feasible to prevent being released through such project,” after “project,” the first place it appears.

SEC. 376. MOOREFIELD, WEST VIRGINIA.

The project for flood control, Moorefield, West Virginia, authorized by section 101(a)(25) of the Water Resources Development Act of 1990 (104 Stat. 4610–4611), is modified to authorize the Secretary to construct the project at a total cost of $22,000,000, with an estimated Federal cost of $17,100,000 and an estimated non-Federal cost of $4,900,000.

SEC. 377. SOUTHERN WEST VIRGINIA.

(a) COST SHARING.—Section 340(c)(3) of the Water Resources Development Act of 1992 (106 Stat. 4856) is amended to read as follows:

“(3) COST SHARING.—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—Total project costs under each local cooperation agreement entered into under this subsection shall be shared at 75 percent Federal and 25 percent non-Federal. The non-Federal interest shall receive credit for the reasonable costs of design work completed by such interest prior to entering into a local cooperation agreement with the Secretary for a project. The credit for such design work shall not exceed 6 percent of the total construction costs of the project. The Federal share may be in the form of grants or reimbursements of project costs.

“(B) INTEREST.—In the event of delays in the funding of the non-Federal share of a project that is the subject of an agreement under this section, the non-Federal interest shall receive credit for reasonable interest incurred in providing the non-Federal share of a project's cost.

“(C) LANDS, EASEMENTS, AND RIGHTS-OF-WAY CREDIT.—The non-Federal interest shall receive credit for lands, easements, rights-of-way, and relocations toward its share of project costs, including all reasonable costs associated with obtaining permits necessary for the construction, operation, and maintenance of such project on publicly owned or controlled lands, but not to exceed 25 percent of total project costs.

“(D) OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE.—Operation and maintenance costs for projects constructed with assistance provided under this section shall be 100 percent non-Federal.”.

(b) FUNDING.—Section 340(g) of the Water Resources Development Act of 1992 (106 Stat. 4856) is amended by striking “$5,000,000” and inserting “$25,000,000”.

SEC. 378. WEST VIRGINIA TRAIL HEAD FACILITIES.

Section 306 of the Water Resources Development Act of 1992 (106 Stat. 4840–4841) is amended by adding at the end the following:

“The Secretary shall enter into an interagency agreement with the Federal entity which provided assistance in the preparation of the study for the purposes of providing ongoing technical assistance and oversight for the trail facilities envisioned by the master plan developed under this section. The Federal entity shall provide such assistance and oversight."

SEC. 379. KICKAPOO RIVER, WISCONSIN.

(a) IN GENERAL.—The project for flood control and allied purposes, Kickapoo River, Wisconsin, authorized by section 203 of the Flood Control Act of 1962 (76 Stat. 1190) and modified by section 814 of the Water Resources Development Act of 1986 (100 Stat. 4169), is further modified as provided by this section.

(b) TRANSFER OF PROPERTY.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Subject to the requirements of this subsection, the Secretary shall transfer to the State of Wisconsin, without consideration, all right, title, and interest of the United States to the lands described in paragraph (3), including all works, structures, and other improvements to such lands.

(2) TRANSFER TO SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR.—Subject to the requirements of this subsection, on the date of the transfer under paragraph (1), the Secretary shall transfer to the Secretary of the Interior, without consideration, all right, title, and interest of the United States in and to lands that are culturally and religiously significant sites of the Ho-Chunk Nation (a federally recognized Indian tribe) and are located within the lands described in paragraph (3). Such lands shall be specified in accordance with paragraph (4)(C) and may not exceed a total of 1,200 acres.

(3) LAND DESCRIPTION.—The lands to be transferred pursuant to paragraphs (1) and (2) are the approximately 8,569 acres of land associated with the LaFarge Dam and Lake portion of the project referred to in subsection (a) in Vernon County, Wisconsin, in the following sections:

(A) Section 31, Township 14 North, Range 1 West of the 4th Principal Meridian.

(B) Sections 2 through 11, and 16, 17, 20, and 21, Township 13 North, Range 2 West of the 4th Principal Meridian.

(C) Sections 15, 16, 21 through 24, 26, 27, 31, and 33 through 36, Township 14 North, Range 2 West of the 4th Principal Meridian.

(4) TERMS AND CONDITIONS.—

(A) HOLD HARMLESS; REIMBURSEMENT OF UNITED STATES.—The transfer under paragraph (1) shall be made on the condition that the State of Wisconsin enters into a written agreement with the Secretary to hold the United States harmless from all claims arising from or through the operation of the lands and improvements subject to the transfer. If title to the lands described in paragraph (3) is sold or transferred by the State, then the State shall reimburse the United States for the price originally paid by the United States for purchasing such lands.

(B) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall make the transfers under paragraphs (1) and (2) only if on or before October 31, 1997, the State of Wisconsin enters into and submits to the Secretary a memorandum of understanding, as specified in subparagraph (C), with the tribal organization (as defined by section 4(l) of the Indian Self-Determination and Education Assistance Act (25 U.S.C. 450b(l))) of the Ho-Chunk Nation.

(C) MEMORANDUM OF UNDERSTANDING.—The memorandum of understanding referred to in subparagraph (B) shall contain, at a minimum, the following:

(i) A description of sites and associated lands to be transferred to the Secretary of the Interior under paragraph (2).

(ii) An agreement specifying that the lands transferred under paragraphs (1) and (2) shall be preserved in a natural state and developed only to the extent necessary to enhance outdoor recreational and educational opportunities.

(iii) An agreement specifying the terms and conditions of a plan for the management of the lands to be transferred under paragraphs (1) and (2).

(iv) A provision requiring a review of the plan referred to in clause (iii) to be conducted every

10 years under which the State of Wisconsin, acting through the Kickapoo Valley Governing Board, and the Ho-Chunk Nation may agree to revisions of the plan in order to address changed circumstances on the lands transferred under paragraph (2). Such provision may include a plan for the transfer by the State to the Secretary of the Interior of any additional site discovered to be culturally and religiously significant to the Ho-Chunk Nation.

(5) ADMINISTRATION OF LANDS.—The lands transferred to the Secretary of the Interior under paragraph (2), and any lands transferred to the Secretary of the Interior pursuant to the memorandum of understanding entered into under paragraph (3), shall be held in trust for, and added to and administered as part of the reservation of, the Ho-Chunk Nation.

(6) TRANSFER OF FLOWAGE EASEMENTS.—The Secretary shall transfer to the owner of the servient estate, without consideration, all right, title, and interest of the United States in and to each flowage easement acquired as part of the project referred to in subsection (a) within Township 14 North, Range 2 West of the 4th Principal Meridian, Vernon County, Wisconsin.

(7) DEAUTHORIZATION.—Except as provided in subsection (c), the LaFarge Dam and Lake portion of the project referred to in subsection (a) is not authorized after the date of the transfer under this subsection.

(8) INTERIM MANAGEMENT AND MAINTENANCE.—The Secretary shall continue to manage and maintain the LaFarge Dam and Lake portion of the project referred to in subsection (a) until the date of the transfer under this section.

(c) COMPLETION OF PROJECT FEATURES.—

(1) REQUIREMENT.—The Secretary shall undertake the completion of the following features of the project referred to in subsection (a):

(A) The continued relocation of State highway route 131 and county highway routes P and F substantially in accordance with plans contained in Design Memorandum No. 6, Relocation-LaFarge Reservoir, dated June 1970; except that the relocation shall generally follow the existing road rights-of-way through the Kickapoo Valley.

(B) Environmental cleanup and site restoration of abandoned wells, farm sites, and safety modifications to the water control structures.

(C) Cultural resource activities to meet the requirements of Federal law.

(2) PARTICIPATION BY STATE OF WISCONSIN.—

In undertaking the completion of the features described in paragraph (1), the Secretary shall determine the requirements of the State of Wisconsin on the location and design of each such feature.

(d) FUNDING.—There is authorized to be appropriated to carry out this section for fiscal years beginning after September 30, 1996, $17,000,000.

SEC. 380. TETON COUNTY, WYOMING.

Section 840 of the Water Resources Development Act of 1986 (100 Stat. 4176) is amended—

(1) by striking “; Provided, That” and inserting “; except that”;

(2) by striking “in cash or materials” and inserting “, through providing in-kind services or cash or materials,”; and

(3) by adding at the end the following: “In carrying out this section, the Secretary may enter into agreements with the non-Federal sponsor permitting the non-Federal sponsor to perform operation and maintenance for the project on a cost-reimbursable basis.”

TITLE IV—STUDIES

SEC. 401. CORPS CAPABILITY STUDY, ALASKA.

The Secretary shall review the capability of the Corps of Engineers to plan, design, construct, operate, and maintain rural sanitation projects for rural and Native villages in Alaska. Not later than 18 months after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary shall transmit findings and recommendations on the agency's capability, together with recommendations on the advisability of assuming such a mission.

SEC. 402. MCDOWELL MOUNTAIN, ARIZONA.

The Secretary shall credit the non-Federal share of the cost of the feasibility study on the McDowell Mountain project an amount equivalent to the cost of work performed by the city of Scottsdale, Arizona, and accomplished prior to the city's entering into an agreement with the Secretary if the Secretary determines that the work is necessary for the study.

SEC. 403. NOGALES WASH AND TRIBUTARIES, ARIZONA.

(a) STUDY.—The Secretary shall conduct a study of the relationship of flooding in Nogales, Arizona, and floodflows emanating from Mexico.

(b) REPORT.—The Secretary shall transmit to Congress a report on the results of the study conducted under subsection (a), together with recommendations concerning the appropriate level of non-Federal participation in the project for flood control, Nogales Wash and tributaries, Arizona, authorized by section 101(a)(4) of the Water Resources Development Act of 1990 (104 Stat. 4606).

SEC. 404. GARDEN GROVE, CALIFORNIA.

The Secretary shall conduct a study to assess the feasibility of implementing improvements in the regional flood control system within Garden Grove, California.

SEC. 405. MUGU LAGOON, CALIFORNIA.

(a) STUDY.—The Secretary shall conduct a study of the environmental impacts associated with sediment transport, flood flows, and upstream watershed land use practices on Mugu Lagoon, California. The study shall include an evaluation of alternatives for the restoration of the estuarine ecosystem functions and values associated with Mugu Lagoon and the endangered and threatened species inhabiting the area.

(b) CONSULTATION AND COORDINATION.—In conducting the study, the Secretary shall consult with the Secretary of the Navy and shall coordinate with State and local resource agencies to assure that the study is compatible with restoration efforts for the Calleguas Creek watershed.

(c) REPORT.—Not later than 24 months after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary shall transmit to Congress a report on the results of the study.

SEC. 406. SANTA YNEZ, CALIFORNIA.

(a) PLANNING.—Not later than 1 year after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary shall prepare a comprehensive river basin management plan addressing the long term ecological, economic, and flood control needs of the Santa Ynez River basin, California. In preparing such plan, the Secretary shall consult the Santa Barbara Flood Control District and other affected local governmental entities.

(b) TECHNICAL ASSISTANCE.—The Secretary shall provide technical assistance to the Santa Barbara Flood Control District with respect to implementation of the plan to be prepared under subsection (a).

SEC. 407. SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA INFRASTRUCTURE.

(a) ASSISTANCE.—Section 116(d)(1) of the Water Resources Development Act of 1990 (104 Stat. 4624) is amended—

(1) in the heading of paragraph (1) by inserting “AND ASSISTANCE” after “STUDY”; and

(2) by adding at the end the following: “In addition, the Secretary shall provide technical, design, and planning assistance to non-Federal interests in developing potential infrastructure projects.”

(b) FUNDING.—Section 116(d)(3) of such Act is amended by striking “$1,500,000” and inserting “$7,500,000”.

SEC. 408. YOLO BYPASS, SACRAMENTO-SAN JOAQUIN DELTA, CALIFORNIA.

The Secretary shall study the advisability of acquiring land in the vicinity of the Yolo Bypass in the Sacramento-San Joaquin Delta, California, for the purpose of environmental mitigation for the flood control project for Sacramento, California, and other water resources projects in the area.

SEC. 409. CHAIN OF ROCKS CANAL, ILLINOIS.

The Secretary shall complete a limited re-evaluation of the authorized St. Louis Harbor Project in the vicinity of the Chain of Rocks Canal, Illinois, and consistent with the authorized purposes of that project, to include evacuation of waters interior to the Chain of Rocks Canal East Levee.

SEC. 410. QUINCY, ILLINOIS.

(a) STUDY.—The Secretary shall study and evaluate the critical infrastructure of the Fabius River Drainage District, the South Quincy Drainage and Levee District, the Sny Island Levee Drainage District, and the city of Quincy, Illinois—

(1) to determine if additional flood protection needs of such infrastructure should be identified or implemented;

(2) to produce a definition of critical infrastructure;

(3) to develop evaluation criteria; and

(4) to enhance existing geographic information system databases to encompass relevant data that identify critical infrastructure for use in emergencies and in routine operation and maintenance activities.

(b) CONSIDERATION OF OTHER STUDIES.—In conducting the study under this section, the Secretary shall consider the recommendations of the Interagency Floodplain Management Committee Report, the findings of the Floodplain Management Assessment of the Upper Mississippi River and Lower Missouri Rivers and Tributaries, and other relevant studies and findings.

(c) REPORT.—Not later than 1 year after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary shall transmit to Congress a report on the results of the study, together with recommendations regarding each of the purposes of the study described in paragraphs (1) through (4) of subsection (a).

SEC. 411. SPRINGFIELD, ILLINOIS.

The Secretary shall provide technical, planning, and design assistance to the city of Springfield, Illinois, in developing—

(1) an environmental impact statement for the proposed development of a water supply reservoir, including the preparation of necessary documentation in support of the environmental impact statement; and

(2) an evaluation of technical, economic, and environmental impacts of such development.

SEC. 412. BEAUTY CREEK WATERSHED, VALPARAISO CITY, PORTER COUNTY, INDIANA.

The Secretary shall conduct a study to assess the feasibility of implementing streambank erosion control measures and flood control measures within the Beauty Creek watershed, Valparaiso City, Porter County, Indiana.

SEC. 413. GRAND CALUMET RIVER, HAMMOND, INDIANA.

(a) STUDY.—The Secretary shall conduct a study to establish a methodology and schedule to restore the wetlands at Wolf Lake and George Lake in Hammond, Indiana.

(b) REPORT.—Not later than 1 year after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary shall transmit to Congress a report on the results of the study conducted under subsection (a).

SEC. 414. INDIANA HARBOR CANAL, EAST CHICAGO, LAKE COUNTY, INDIANA.

The Secretary shall conduct a study of the feasibility of including environmental and recreational features, including a vegetation buffer, as part of the project for navigation, Indiana Harbor Canal, East Chicago, Lake County, Indiana, authorized by the first section of the Rivers and Harbors Appropriations Act of June 25, 1910 (36 Stat. 657).

SEC. 415. KOONTZ LAKE, INDIANA.

The Secretary shall conduct a study of the feasibility of implementing measures to restore Koontz Lake, Indiana, including measures to remove silt, sediment, nutrients, aquatic growth, and other noxious materials from Koontz Lake, measures to improve public access facilities to Koontz Lake, and measures to prevent or abate the deposit of sediments and nutrients in Koontz Lake.

SEC. 416. LITTLE CALUMET RIVER, INDIANA.

(a) STUDY.—The Secretary shall conduct a study of the impact of the project for flood control, Little Calumet River, Indiana, authorized by section 401(a) of the Water Resources Development Act of 1986 (100 Stat. 4115), on flooding and water quality in the vicinity of the Black Oak area of Gary, Indiana.

(b) REPORT.—Not later than 1 year after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary shall transmit to Congress a report on the results of the study conducted under subsection (a), together with recommendations for cost-effective remediation of impacts described in subsection (a).

(c) FEDERAL SHARE.—The Federal share of the cost of the study to be conducted under subsection (a) shall be 100 percent.

SEC. 417. TIPPECANOE RIVER WATERSHED, INDIANA.

(a) STUDY.—The Secretary shall conduct a study of water quality and environmental restoration needs in the Tippecanoe River watershed, Indiana, including measures necessary to reduce siltation in Lake Shafer and Lake Freeman.

(b) ASSISTANCE.—The Secretary shall provide technical, planning, and design assistance to the Shafer Freeman Lakes Environmental Conservation Corporation in addressing potential environmental restoration activities determined as a result of the study conducted under subsection (a).

SEC. 418. CALCASIEU SHIP CHANNEL, HACKBERRY, LOUISIANA.

The Secretary shall conduct a study to determine the need for improved navigation and related support service structures in the vicinity of the Calcasieu Ship Channel, Hackberry, Louisiana.

SEC. 419. HURON RIVER, MICHIGAN.

The Secretary shall conduct a study to determine the need for channel improvements and associated modifications for the purpose of providing a harbor of refuge at Huron River, Michigan.

SEC. 420. SACO RIVER, NEW HAMPSHIRE.

The Secretary shall conduct a study of flood control problems along the Saco River in Hart's Location, New Hampshire, for the purpose of evaluating retaining walls, berms, and other structures with a view to potential solutions involving repair or replacement of existing structures and shall consider other alternatives for flood damage reduction.

SEC. 421. BUFFALO RIVER GREENWAY, NEW YORK.

The Secretary shall conduct a study of a potential greenway trail project along the Buffalo River between the park system of the city of Buffalo, New York, and Lake Erie. Such study shall include preparation of an integrated plan of development that takes into consideration the adjacent parks, nature preserves, bikeways, and related recreational facilities.

SEC. 422. PORT OF NEWBURGH, NEW YORK.

The Secretary shall conduct a study of the feasibility of carrying out improvements for navigation at the port of Newburgh, New York.

SEC. 423. PORT OF NEW YORK-NEW JERSEY SEDIMENT STUDY.

(a) STUDY OF MEASURES TO REDUCE SEDIMENT DEPOSITION.—The Secretary shall conduct a study of measures that could reduce sediment deposition in the vicinity of the Port of New York-New Jersey for the purpose of reducing the volumes to be dredged for navigation projects in the Port.

(b) DREDGED MATERIAL DISPOSAL STUDY.—The Secretary shall conduct a study to determine the feasibility of constructing and operating an underwater confined dredged material disposal site in the Port of New York-New Jersey which could accommodate as much as 250,000 cubic yards of dredged materials for the purpose of demonstrating the feasibility of an underwater confined disposal pit as an environmentally suitable method of containing certain sediments.

(c) REPORT.—The Secretary shall transmit to Congress a report on the results of the studies conducted under this section, together with any recommendations of the Secretary concerning reduction of sediment deposition referred to in subsection (a).

SEC. 424. PORT OF NEW YORK-NEW JERSEY NAVIGATION STUDY.

The Secretary shall conduct a comprehensive study of navigation needs at the Port of New York-New Jersey (including the South Brooklyn Marine and Red Hook Container Terminals, Staten Island, and adjacent areas) to address improvements, including deepening of existing channels to depths of 50 feet or greater, that are required to provide economically efficient and environmentally sound navigation to meet current and future requirements.

SEC. 425. CHAGRIN RIVER, OHIO.

The Secretary shall conduct a study of flooding problems along the Chagrin River in Eastlake, Ohio. In conducting such study, the Secretary shall evaluate potential solutions to flooding from all sources, including that resulting from ice jams, and shall evaluate the feasibility of a sedimentation collection pit and other potential measures to reduce flooding.

SEC. 426. CUYAHOGA RIVER, OHIO.

The Secretary shall conduct a study to evaluate the integrity of the bulkhead system located on the Federal channel along the Cuyahoga River in the vicinity of Cleveland, Ohio, and shall provide to the non-Federal interest an analysis of costs and repairs of the bulkhead system.

SEC. 427. CHARLESTON, SOUTH CAROLINA, ESTUARY.

The Secretary is authorized to conduct a study of the Charleston estuary area located in Charleston, Berkeley, and Dorchester Counties, South Carolina, for the purpose of evaluating environmental conditions in the tidal reaches of the Ashley, Cooper, Stono, and Wando Rivers and the lower portions of Charleston Harbor.

SEC. 428. MUSTANG ISLAND, CORPUS CHRISTI, TEXAS.

The Secretary shall conduct a study of navigation along the south-central coast of Texas near Corpus Christi for the purpose of determining the feasibility of constructing and maintaining the Packery Channel on the southern portion of Mustang Island.

SEC. 429. PRINCE WILLIAM COUNTY, VIRGINIA.

The Secretary shall conduct a study of flooding, erosion, and other water resources problems in Prince William County, Virginia, including an assessment of wetlands protection, erosion control, and flood damage reduction needs of the County.

SEC. 430. PACIFIC REGION.

(a) STUDY.—The Secretary is authorized to conduct studies in the interest of navigation in that part of the Pacific region that includes American Samoa, Guam, and the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands.

(b) COST SHARING.—The cost sharing provisions of section 105 of the Water Resources Development Act of 1986 (33 U.S.C. 2215; 100 Stat. 4088-4089) shall apply to studies under this section.

SEC. 431. FINANCING OF INFRASTRUCTURE NEEDS OF SMALL AND MEDIUM PORTS.

(a) STUDY.—The Secretary shall conduct a study of alternative financing mechanisms for ensuring adequate funding for the infrastructure needs of small and medium ports.

(b) MECHANISMS TO BE STUDIED.—Mechanisms to be studied under subsection (a) shall include the establishment of revolving loan funds.

(c) REPORT.—Not later than 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary shall transmit to Congress a report containing the results of the study conducted under subsection (a).

TITLE V—MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

SEC. 501. PROJECT DEAUTHORIZATIONS.

The following projects are not authorized after the date of the enactment of this Act:

(1) BRANFORD HARBOR, CONNECTICUT.—The following portion of the project for navigation, Branford River, Connecticut, authorized by the first section of the Rivers and Harbors Appropriations Act of June 13, 1902 (32 Stat. 333): Starting at a point on the Federal channel line whose coordinates are N156181.32, E581572.38, running south 70 degrees 11 minutes 8 seconds west a distance of 171.58 feet to another point on the Federal channel line whose coordinates are N156123.18, E581410.96.

(2) BRIDGEPORT HARBOR, CONNECTICUT.—The following portion of the project for navigation, Bridgeport Harbor, Connecticut, authorized by section 101 of the River and Harbor Act of 1958 (72 Stat. 297): A 2.4-acre anchorage area, 9 feet deep, and an adjacent 0.6-acre anchorage, 6 feet deep, located on the west side of Johnsons River.

(3) GUILFORD HARBOR, CONNECTICUT.—The following portion of the project for navigation, Guilford Harbor, Connecticut, authorized by section 2 of the Act entitled "An Act authorizing construction, repair, and preservation of certain public works on rivers and harbors, and for other purposes", approved March 2, 1945 (50 Stat. 13): Starting at a point where the Sluice Creek Channel intersects with the main entrance channel, N159194.63, E623201.07, thence running north 24 degrees 58 minutes 15.2 seconds west 478.40 feet to a point N159628.31, E622999.11, thence running north 20 degrees 18 minutes 31.7 seconds west 351.53 feet to a point N159957.99, E622877.10, thence running north 69 degrees 41 minutes 37.9 seconds east 55.000 feet to a point N159977.08, E622928.69, thence turning and running south 20 degrees 18 minutes 31.0 seconds east 349.35 feet to a point N159649.45, E623049.94, thence turning and running south 24 degrees 58 minutes 11.1 seconds east 341.36 feet to a point N159340.00, E623194.04, thence turning and running south 90 degrees 0 minutes 0 seconds east 78.86 feet to a point N159340.00, E623272.90.

(4) JOHNSONS RIVER CHANNEL, BRIDGEPORT HARBOR, CONNECTICUT.—The following portion of the project for navigation, Johnsons River Channel, Bridgeport Harbor, Connecticut, authorized by the first section of the Rivers and Harbors Act of July 24, 1946 (60 Stat. 634): Northerly of a line across the Federal channel. The coordinates of such line are N 123318.35, E 486301.68 and N 123257.15, E 486380.77.

(5) MYSTIC RIVER, CONNECTICUT.—The following portion of the project for improving the Mystic River, Connecticut, authorized by the River and Harbor Act approved March 4, 1913 (37 Stat. 802):

Beginning in the 15-foot deep channel at coordinates north 190860.82, east 814416.20, thence running southeast about 52.01 feet to the coordinates north 190809.47, east 814424.49, thence running southwest about 34.02 feet to coordinates north 190780.46, east 814406.70, thence running north about 80.91 feet to the point of beginning.

(6) NORWALK HARBOR, CONNECTICUT.—

(A) DEAUTHORIZATION.—The portion of the project for navigation, Norwalk Harbor, Connecticut, authorized by the River and Harbor Act of March 2, 1919 (40 Stat. 1276), that lies northerly of a line across the Federal channel having coordinates N104199.72, E417774.12 and N104155.59, E417628.96, and those portions of the 6-foot deep East Norwalk Channel and Anchorage, authorized by section 2 of the Act entitled "An Act authorizing the construction, repair, and preservation of certain public works on rivers and harbors, and for other purposes", approved March 2, 1945 (59 Stat. 13), not included in the description of the realignment of the project contained in subparagraph (B).

(B) REALIGNMENT DESCRIPTION.—The realigned 6-foot deep East Norwalk Channel and Anchorage is described as follows: starting at a point on the East Norwalk Channel, N95743.02, E419581.37, thence running northwesterly about 463.96 feet to a point N96197.93, E419490.18, thence running northwesterly about 549.32 feet to a point N96608.49, E419125.23, thence running northwesterly about 384.06 feet to a point N96965.94, E418984.75, thence running northwesterly about 407.26 feet to a point N97353.87, E418860.78, thence running westerly about 58.26 feet to a point N97336.26, E418805.24, thence running northwesterly about 70.99 feet to a point N97390.30, E418759.21, thence running westerly about 71.78 feet to a point on the anchorage limit N97405.26, E418689.01, thence running southerly along the western limits of the existing Federal anchorage until reaching a point N95893.74, E419449.17, thence running in a southwesterly direction about 78.74 feet to a point on the East Norwalk Channel N95815.62, E419439.33.

(C) REDESIGNATION.—All of the realigned channel shall be redesignated as anchorage, with the exception of that portion of the channel which narrows to a width of 100 feet and terminates at a line whose coordinates are N96456.81, E419260.06, and N96390.37, E419185.32, which shall remain as a channel.

(7) SOUTHPORT HARBOR, CONNECTICUT.—

(A) DEAUTHORIZATION PORTION OF PROJECT.—The following portions of the project for navigation, Southport Harbor, Connecticut, authorized by the first section of the Rivers and Harbors Act of August 30, 1935 (49 Stat. 1029):

(i) The 6-foot deep anchorage located at the head of the project.

(ii) The portion of the 9-foot deep channel beginning at a bend in the channel whose coordinates are north 109131.16, east 452653.32 running thence in a northeasterly direction about 943.01 feet to a point whose coordinates are north 109635.22, east 453450.31 running thence in a southeasterly direction about 22.66 feet to a point whose coordinates are north 109617.15, east 453463.98 running thence in a southwesterly direction about 945.18 feet to the point of beginning.

(B) REMAINDER.—The remaining portion of the project referred to in subparagraph (A) northerly of a line whose coordinates are north 108699.15, east 452768.36 and north 108655.66, east 452858.73 shall be redesignated as an anchorage.

(8) STONY CREEK, BRANFORD, CONNECTICUT.—The following portion of the project for navigation, Stony Creek, Connecticut, authorized under section 107 of the River and Harbor Act of 1960 (33 U.S.C. 577): The 6-foot maneuvering basin starting at a point N157031.91, E599030.79, thence running northeasterly about 221.16 feet to a point N157191.06, E599184.37, thence running northerly about 162.60 feet to a point N157353.56, E599189.99, thence running southwesterly about 358.90 feet to the point of origin.

(9) KENNEBUNK RIVER, MAINE.—That portion of the project for navigation, Kennebunk River, Maine, authorized by section 101 of the River and Harbor Act of 1962 (76 Stat. 1173) and consisting of a 6-foot deep channel that lies northerly of a line whose coordinates are N191412.53, E417265.28 and N191445.83, E41732.48.

(10) YORK HARBOR, MAINE.—That portion of the project for navigation, York Harbor, Maine, authorized by section 101 of the River and Harbor Act of 1960 (74 Stat. 480), located in the 8-foot deep anchorage area beginning at coordinates N 109340.19, E 372066.93, thence running north 65 degrees 12 minutes 10.5 seconds E 423.27 feet to a point N 109517.71, E372451.17, thence running north 28 degrees 42 minutes 58.3 seconds west 11.68 feet to a point N 109527.95, E 372445.56, thence running south 63 degrees 37 minutes 24.6 seconds west 422.63 feet returning to the point of beginning and that portion in the 8-foot deep anchorage area beginning at coordinates N 108557.24, E 371645.88, thence running south 60 degrees 41 minutes 17.2 seconds east 484.51 feet to a point N 108320.04, E 372068.36, thence running north 29 degrees 12 minutes 53.3 seconds east 15.28 feet to a point N 108333.38, E 372075.82, thence running north 62 degrees 29 minutes 42.1 seconds west 484.73 feet returning to the point of beginning.

(11) CHELSEA RIVER, BOSTON HARBOR, MASSACHUSETTS.—The following portion of the project for navigation, Boston Harbor, Massachusetts, authorized by section 101 of the River and Harbor Act of 1962 (76 Stat. 1173), consisting of a 35-foot deep channel in the Chelsea River: Beginning at a point on the northern limit of the existing project N505357.84, E724519.19, thence running northeasterly about 384.19 feet along the northern limit of the existing project to a bend on the northern limit of the existing project N505526.87, E724864.20, thence running southeasterly about 368.00 feet along the northern limit of the existing project to another point N505404.77, E725211.35, thence running westerly about 594.53 feet to a point N505376.12, E724617.51, thence running southwesterly about 100.00 feet to the point of origin.

(12) COHASSET HARBOR, COHASSET, MASSACHUSETTS.—The following portions of the project for navigation, Cohasset Harbor, Massachusetts, authorized under section 107 of the River and Harbor Act of 1960 (33 U.S.C. 577):

(A) The portion starting at a point N453510.15, E792664.63, thence running south 53 degrees 07 minutes 05.4 seconds west 307.00 feet to a point N453325.90, E792419.07, thence running north 57 degrees 56 minutes 36.8 seconds west 201.00 feet to a point N453432.58, E792248.72, thence running south 88 degrees 57 minutes 25.6 seconds west 50.00 feet to a point N453431.67, E792198.73, thence running north 01 degree 02 minutes 52.3 seconds west 66.71 feet to a point N453498.37, E792197.51, thence running north 69 degrees 12 minutes 52.3 seconds east 332.32 feet to a point N453616.30, E792508.20, thence running south 55 degrees 50 minutes 24.1 seconds east 189.05 feet to the point of origin.

(B) The portion starting at a point N452886.64, E791287.83, thence running south 00 degrees 00 minutes 00.0 seconds west 56.04 feet to a point N452830.60, E791287.83, thence running north 90 degrees 00 minutes 00.0 seconds west 101.92 feet to a point, N452830.60, E791185.91, thence running north 52 degrees 12 minutes 49.7 seconds east 89.42 feet to a point, N452885.39, E791256.58, thence running north 87 degrees 42 minutes 33.8 seconds east 31.28 feet to the point of origin.

(C) The portion starting at a point, N452261.08, E792040.24, thence running north 89 degrees 07 minutes 19.5 seconds east 118.78 feet to a point, N452262.90, E792159.01, thence running south 43 degrees 39 minutes 06.8 seconds west 40.27 feet to a point, N452233.76, E792131.21, thence running north 74 degrees 33 minutes 29.1 seconds west 94.42 feet to a point, N452258.90, E792040.20, thence running north 01 degree 03 minutes 04.3 seconds east 2.18 feet to the point of origin.

(13) FALMOUTH, MASSACHUSETTS.—

(A) DEAUTHORIZATIONS.—The following portions of the project for navigation, Falmouth Harbor, Massachusetts, authorized by section 101 of the River and Harbor Act of 1948 (62 Stat. 1172):

(1) DESIGNATION.—Uniontown Lock and Dam, on the Ohio River, Indiana and Kentucky, shall be known and designated as the "John T. Myers Lock and Dam".

(2) LEGAL REFERENCES.—Any reference in a law, map, regulation, document, paper, or other record of the United States to the lock and dam referred to in paragraph (1) shall be deemed to be a reference to the "John T. Myers Lock and Dam".

(e) J. EDWARD ROUSH LAKE, INDIANA.—

(1) REDESIGNATION.—The lake on the Wabash River in Huntington and Wells Counties, Indiana, authorized by section 203 of the Flood Control Act of 1958 (72 Stat. 312), and known as Huntington Lake, shall be known and designated as the "J. Edward Roush Lake".

(2) LEGAL REFERENCES.—Any reference in a law, map, regulation, document, paper, or other record of the United States to the lake referred to in paragraph (1) shall be deemed to be a reference to the "J. Edward Roush Lake".

(f) RUSSELL B. LONG LOCK AND DAM, RED RIVER WATERWAY, LOUISIANA.—

(1) DESIGNATION.—Lock and Dam 4 of the Red River Waterway, Louisiana, shall be known and designated as the "Russell B. Long Lock and Dam".

(2) LEGAL REFERENCES.—A reference in any law, map, regulation, document, paper, or other record of the United States to the lock and dam referred to in paragraph (1) shall be deemed to be a reference to the "Russell B. Long Lock and Dam".

(g) WILLIAM L. JESS DAM AND INTAKE STRUCTURE, OREGON.—

(1) DESIGNATION.—The dam located at mile 153.6 on the Rogue River in Jackson County, Oregon, and commonly known as the Lost Creek Dam Lake Project, shall be known and designated as the "William L. Jess Dam and Intake Structure".

(2) LEGAL REFERENCES.—Any reference in a law, map, regulation, document, paper, or other record of the United States to the dam referred to in section 1 shall be deemed to be a reference to the "William L. Jess Dam and Intake Structure".

(h) ABERDEEN LOCK AND DAM, TENNESSEE-TOMBIGBEE WATERWAY.—

(1) DESIGNATION.—The lock and dam at Mile 358 of the Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway is designated as the "Aberdeen Lock and Dam".

(2) LEGAL REFERENCE.—Any reference in a law, map, regulation, document, paper, or other record of the United States to the lock and dam referred to in paragraph (1) is deemed to be a reference to the "Aberdeen Lock and Dam".

(i) AMORY LOCK, TENNESSEE-TOMBIGBEE WATERWAY.—

(1) DESIGNATION.—Lock A at Mile 371 of the Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway is designated as the "Amory Lock".

(2) LEGAL REFERENCE.—Any reference in a law, map, regulation, document, paper, or other record of the United States to the lock referred to in paragraph (1) is deemed to be a reference to the "Amory Lock".

(j) FULTON LOCK, TENNESSEE-TOMBIGBEE WATERWAY.—

(1) DESIGNATION.—Lock C at Mile 391 of the Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway is designated as the "Fulton Lock".

(2) LEGAL REFERENCE.—Any reference in a law, map, regulation, document, paper, or other record of the United States to the lock referred to in paragraph (1) is deemed to be a reference to the "Fulton Lock".

(k) HOWELL HEFLIN LOCK AND DAM, TENNESSEE-TOMBIGBEE WATERWAY.—

(1) REDESIGNATION.—The lock and dam at Mile 266 of the Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway, known as the Gainesville Lock and Dam, is redesignated as the "Howell Heflin Lock and Dam".

(2) LEGAL REFERENCE.—Any reference in a law, map, regulation, document, paper, or other record of the United States to the lock and dam referred to in paragraph (1) is deemed to be a reference to the "Howell Heflin Lock and Dam".

(l) G.V. "SONNY" MONTGOMERY LOCK, TENNESSEE-TOMBIGBEE WATERWAY.—

(1) DESIGNATION.—Lock E at Mile 407 of the Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway is designated as the "G.V. 'Sonny' Montgomery Lock".

(2) LEGAL REFERENCE.—Any reference in a law, map, regulation, document, paper, or other record of the United States to the lock referred to in paragraph (1) is deemed to be a reference to the "G.V. 'Sonny' Montgomery Lock".

(m) JOHN RANKIN LOCK, TENNESSEE-TOMBIGBEE WATERWAY.—

(1) DESIGNATION.—Lock D at Mile 398 of the Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway is designated as the "John Rankin Lock".

(2) LEGAL REFERENCE.—Any reference in a law, map, regulation, document, paper, or other record of the United States to the lock referred to in paragraph (1) is deemed to be a reference to the "John Rankin Lock".

(n) JOHN C. STENNIS LOCK AND DAM, TENNESSEE-TOMBIGBEE WATERWAY.—

(1) REDESIGNATION.—The lock and dam at Mile 335 of the Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway, known as the Columbus Lock and Dam, is redesignated as the "John C. Stennis Lock and Dam".

(2) LEGAL REFERENCE.—Any reference in a law, map, regulation, document, paper, or other record of the United States to the lock and dam referred to in paragraph (1) is deemed to be a reference to the "John C. Stennis Lock and Dam".

(o) JAMIE WHITTEN LOCK AND DAM, TENNESSEE-TOMBIGBEE WATERWAY.—

(1) REDESIGNATION.—The lock and dam at Mile 412 of the Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway, known as the Bay Springs Lock and Dam, is redesignated as the "Jamie Whitten Lock and Dam".

(2) LEGAL REFERENCE.—Any reference in a law, map, regulation, document, paper, or other record of the United States to the lock and dam referred to in paragraph (1) is deemed to be a reference to the "Jamie Whitten Lock and Dam".

(p) GLOVER WILKINS LOCK, TENNESSEE-TOMBIGBEE WATERWAY.—

(1) DESIGNATION.—Lock B at Mile 376 of the Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway is designated as the "Glover Wilkins Lock".

(2) LEGAL REFERENCE.—Any reference in a law, map, regulation, document, paper, or other record to the lock referred to in paragraph (1) is deemed to be a reference to the "Glover Wilkins Lock".

SEC. 506. WATERSHED MANAGEMENT, RESTORATION, AND DEVELOPMENT.

(a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary is authorized to provide technical, planning, and design assistance to non-Federal interests for carrying out watershed management, restoration, and development projects at the locations described in subsection (d).

(b) SPECIFIC MEASURES.—Assistance provided pursuant to subsection (a) may be in support of non-Federal projects for the following purposes:

(1) Management and restoration of water quality.

(2) Control and remediation of toxic sediments.

(3) Restoration of degraded streams, rivers, wetlands, and other waterbodies to their natural condition as a means to control flooding, excessive erosion, and sedimentation.

(4) Protection and restoration of watersheds, including urban watersheds.

(5) Demonstration of technologies for non-structural measures to reduce destructive impact of flooding.

(c) NON-FEDERAL SHARE.—The non-Federal share of the cost of assistance provided under this section shall be 50 percent.

(d) PROJECT LOCATIONS.—The Secretary may provide assistance under subsection (a) for projects at the following locations:

(1) Gila River and Tributaries, Santa Cruz River, Arizona.

(2) Rio Salado, Salt River, Phoenix and Tempe, Arizona.

(3) Colusa basin, California.

(4) Los Angeles River watershed, California.

(5) Russian River watershed, California.

(6) Sacramento River watershed, California.

(7) San Pablo Bay watershed, California.

(8) Nancy Creek, Utoy Creek, and North Peachtree Creek and South Peachtree Creek basin, Georgia.

(9) Lower Platte River watershed, Nebraska.

(10) Juniata River watershed, Pennsylvania, including Raystown Lake.

(11) Upper Potomac River watershed, Grant and Mineral Counties, West Virginia.

(e) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—There is authorized to be appropriated to carry out this section $25,000,000 for fiscal years beginning after September 30, 1996.

SEC. 507. LAKES PROGRAM.

Section 602(a) of the Water Resources Development Act of 1986 (100 Stat. 4148-4149) is amended—

(1) by striking "and" at the end of paragraph (10);

(2) by striking the period at the end of paragraph (11) and inserting a semicolon; and

(3) by adding at the end the following:

"(12) Goodyear Lake, Otsego County, New York, removal of silt and aquatic growth;

"(13) Otsego Lake, Otsego County, New York, removal of silt and aquatic growth and measures to address high nutrient concentration;

"(14) Oneida Lake, Oneida County, New York, removal of silt and aquatic growth;

"(15) Skaneateles and Owasco Lakes, New York, removal of silt and aquatic growth and prevention of sediment deposit; and

"(16) Twin Lakes, Paris, Illinois, removal of silt and excess aquatic vegetation, including measures to address excessive sedimentation, high nutrient concentration, and shoreline erosion."

SEC. 508. MAINTENANCE OF NAVIGATION CHANNELS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Upon request of the non-Federal interest, the Secretary shall be responsible for maintenance of the following navigation channels constructed or improved by non-Federal interests if the Secretary determines that such maintenance is economically justified and environmentally acceptable and that the channel was constructed in accordance with applicable permits and appropriate engineering and design standards:

(1) Humboldt Harbor and Bay, Fields Landing Channel, California.

(2) Mare Island Strait, California; except that, for purposes of this section, the navigation channel shall be deemed to have been constructed or improved by non-Federal interests.

(3) Mississippi River Ship Channel, Chalmette Slip, Louisiana.

(4) Greenville Inner Harbor Channel, Mississippi.

(5) Providence Harbor Shipping Channel, Rhode Island.

(6) Matagorda Ship Channel, Point Comfort Turning Basin, Texas.

(7) Corpus Christi Ship Channel, Rincon Canal System, Texas.

(8) Brazos Island Harbor, Texas, connecting channel to Mexico.

(9) Blair Waterway, Tacoma Harbor, Washington.

(b) COMPLETION OF ASSESSMENT.—Within 6 months of receipt of a request from the non-Federal interest for Federal assumption of maintenance of a channel listed in subsection (a), the Secretary shall make a determination as provided in subsection (a) and advise the non-Federal interest of the Secretary's determination.

SEC. 509. GREAT LAKES REMEDIAL ACTION PLANS AND SEDIMENT REMEDIATION.

Section 401 of the Water Resources Development Act of 1990 (104 Stat. 4644) is amended to read as follows:

"SEC. 401. GREAT LAKES REMEDIAL ACTION PLANS AND SEDIMENT REMEDIATION.

"(a) GREAT LAKES REMEDIAL ACTION PLANS.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary is authorized to provide technical, planning, and engineering assistance to State and local governments and nongovernmental entities designated by the State or local government in the development and implementation of remedial action plans for areas of concern in the Great Lakes identified under the Great Lakes Water Quality Agreement of 1978.

"(2) NON-FEDERAL SHARE.—Non-Federal interests shall contribute, in cash or by providing in-kind contributions, 50 percent of costs of activities for which assistance is provided under paragraph (1).

"(b) SEDIMENT REMEDIATION DEMONSTRATION PROJECTS.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary, in consultation with the Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency (acting through the Great Lakes National Program Office), may conduct pilot- and full-scale demonstration projects of promising techniques to remediate contaminated sediments in freshwater coastal regions in the Great Lakes basin. The Secretary must conduct no fewer than 3 full-scale demonstration projects under this subsection.

"(2) SITE SELECTION FOR DEMONSTRATION PROJECTS.—In selecting the sites for the technology demonstration projects, the Secretary shall give priority consideration to Saginaw Bay, Michigan, Sheboygan Harbor, Wisconsin, Grand Calumet River, Indiana, Ashtabula River, Ohio, Buffalo River, New York, and Duluth/Superior Harbor, Minnesota.

"(3) DEADLINE FOR IDENTIFICATIONS.—Within 18 months after the date of the enactment of this subsection, the Secretary shall identify the sites and technologies to be demonstrated and complete each such full-scale demonstration project within 3 years after such date of enactment.

"(4) NON-FEDERAL SHARE.—Non-Federal interests shall contribute 50 percent of costs of projects under this subsection. Such costs may be paid in cash or by providing in-kind contributions.

"(5) AUTHORIZATIONS.—There is authorized to be appropriated to the Secretary to carry out this section $5,000,000 for each of fiscal years 1997 through 2000."

SEC. 510. GREAT LAKES DREDGED MATERIAL TESTING AND EVALUATION MANUAL.

The Secretary, in cooperation with the Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency, shall provide technical assistance to non-Federal interests on testing procedures contained in the Great Lakes Dredged Material Testing and Evaluation Manual developed pursuant to section 230.2(c) of title 40, Code of Federal Regulations.

SEC. 511. GREAT LAKES SEDIMENT REDUCTION.

(a) GREAT LAKES TRIBUTARY SEDIMENT TRANSPORT MODEL.—For each major river system or set of major river systems depositing sediment into a Great Lakes federally authorized commercial harbor, channel maintenance project site, or Area of Concern identified under the Great Lakes Water Quality Agreement of 1978, the Secretary, in consultation and coordination with the Great Lakes States, shall develop a tributary sediment transport model.

(b) REQUIREMENTS FOR MODELS.—In developing a tributary sediment transport model under this section, the Secretary shall—

(1) build upon data and monitoring information generated in earlier studies and programs of the Great Lakes and their tributaries; and

(2) complete models for 30 major river systems, either individually or in combination as part of a set, within the 5-year period beginning on the date of the enactment of this Act.

SEC. 512. GREAT LAKES CONFINED DISPOSAL FACILITIES.

(a) ASSESSMENT.—The Secretary shall conduct an assessment of the general conditions of confined disposal facilities in the Great Lakes.

(b) REPORT.—Not later than 3 years after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary shall transmit to Congress a report on the results of the assessment conducted under subsection (a), including the following:

(1) A description of the cumulative effects of confined disposal facilities in the Great Lakes.

(2) Recommendations for specific remediation actions for each confined disposal facility in the Great Lakes.

(3) An evaluation of, and recommendations for, confined disposal facility management practices and technologies to conserve capacity at such facilities and to minimize adverse environmental effects at such facilities throughout the Great Lakes system.

SEC. 513. CHESAPEAKE BAY RESTORATION AND PROTECTION PROGRAM.

(a) ESTABLISHMENT.—The Secretary shall establish a pilot program to provide to non-Federal interests in the Chesapeake Bay watershed technical, planning, design, and construction assistance for water-related environmental infrastructure and resource protection and development projects affecting the Chesapeake Bay, including projects for sediment and erosion control, protection of eroding shorelines, protection of essential public works, wastewater treatment and related facilities, water supply and related facilities, and beneficial uses of dredged material, and other related projects.

(b) PUBLIC OWNERSHIP REQUIREMENT.—The Secretary may provide assistance for a project under this section only if the project is publicly owned and will be publicly operated and maintained.

(c) COOPERATION AGREEMENT.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Before providing assistance under this section, the Secretary shall enter into a project cooperation agreement pursuant to section 221 of the Flood Control Act of 1970 (84 Stat. 1818) with a non-Federal interest to provide for technical, planning, design, and construction assistance for the project.

(2) REQUIREMENTS.—Each agreement entered into pursuant to this subsection shall provide for the following:

(A) PLAN.—Development by the Secretary, in consultation with appropriate Federal, State, and local officials, of a plan, including appropriate engineering plans and specifications and an estimate of expected benefits.

(B) LEGAL AND INSTITUTIONAL STRUCTURES.—Establishment of such legal and institutional structures as are necessary to ensure the effective long-term operation and maintenance of the project by the non-Federal interest.

(d) COST SHARING.—

(1) FEDERAL SHARE.—Except as provided in paragraph (2)(B), the Federal share of the total project costs of each local cooperation agreement entered into under this section shall be 75 percent.

(2) NON-FEDERAL SHARE.—

(A) PROVISION OF LANDS, EASEMENTS, RIGHTS-OF-WAY, AND RELOCATIONS.—The non-Federal interests for a project to which this section applies shall provide the lands, easements, rights-of-way, relocations, and dredged material disposal areas necessary for the project.

(B) VALUE OF LANDS, EASEMENTS, RIGHTS-OF-WAY, AND RELOCATIONS.—In determining the non-Federal contribution toward carrying out a local cooperation agreement entered into under this section, the Secretary shall provide credit to a non-Federal interest for the value of lands, easements, rights-of-way, relocations, and dredged material disposal areas provided by the non-Federal interest, except that the amount of credit provided for a project under this paragraph may not exceed 25 percent of total project costs.

(C) OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE COSTS.—The non-Federal share of the costs of operation and maintenance of carrying out the agreement under this section shall be 100 percent.

(e) APPLICABILITY OF OTHER FEDERAL AND STATE LAWS AND AGREEMENTS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Nothing in this section waives, limits, or otherwise affects the applicability of any provision of Federal or State law that would otherwise apply to a project carried out with assistance provided under this section.

(2) COOPERATION.—In carrying out this section, the Secretary shall cooperate with the heads of appropriate Federal agencies.

(f) REPORT.—Not later than December 31, 1998, the Secretary shall transmit to Congress a report on the results of the program carried out under this section, together with a recommendation concerning whether or not the program should be implemented on a national basis.

(g) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—There are authorized to be appropriated to carry out this section $15,000,000.

SEC. 514. EXTENSION OF JURISDICTION OF MISSISSIPPI RIVER COMMISSION.

The jurisdiction of the Mississippi River Commission, established by the first section of the Act of June 28, 1879 (33 U.S.C. 641; 21 Stat. 37), is extended to include—

(1) all of the area between the eastern side of the Bayou Lafourche Ridge from Donaldsonville, Louisiana, to the Gulf of Mexico and the west guide levee of the Mississippi River from Donaldsonville, Louisiana, to the Gulf of Mexico;

(2) Alexander County, Illinois; and

(3) the area in the State of Illinois from the confluence of the Mississippi and Ohio Rivers northward to the vicinity of Mississippi River mile 39.5, including the Len Small Drainage and Levee District, insofar as such area is affected by the flood waters of the Mississippi River.

SEC. 515. ALTERNATIVE TO ANNUAL PASSES.

(a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall evaluate the feasibility of implementing an alternative to the $25 annual pass that the Secretary currently offers to users of recreation facilities at water resources projects of the Corps of Engineers.

(b) ANNUAL PASS.—The evaluation under subsection (a) shall include the establishment of an annual pass which costs $10 or less for the use of recreation facilities at Raystown Lake, Pennsylvania.

(c) REPORT.—Not later than December 31, 1998, the Secretary shall transmit to Congress a report on the results of the project carried out under this section, together with recommendations concerning whether annual passes for individual projects should be offered on a nationwide basis.

SEC. 516. RECREATION PARTNERSHIP INITIATIVE.

(a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall promote Federal, non-Federal, and private sector cooperation in creating public recreation opportunities and developing the necessary supporting infrastructure at water resources projects of the Corps of Engineers.

(b) INFRASTRUCTURE IMPROVEMENTS.—

(1) RECREATION INFRASTRUCTURE IMPROVEMENTS.—In demonstrating the feasibility of the public-private cooperative, the Secretary shall provide, at Federal expense, such infrastructure improvements as are necessary to support a potential private recreational development at the Raystown Lake Project, Pennsylvania, generally in accordance with the Master Plan Update (1994) for the project.

(2) AGREEMENT.—The Secretary shall enter into an agreement with an appropriate non-Federal public entity to ensure that the infrastructure improvements constructed by the Secretary on non-project lands pursuant to paragraph (1) are transferred to and operated and maintained by the non-Federal public entity.

(3) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—There is authorized to be appropriated to carry out this subsection $4,500,000 for fiscal years beginning after September 30, 1996.

(c) REPORT.—Not later than December 31, 1998, the Secretary shall transmit to Congress a report on the results of the cooperative efforts carried out under this section, including the improvements required by subsection (b).

SEC. 517. ENVIRONMENTAL INFRASTRUCTURE.

Section 219 of the Water Resources Development Act of 1992 (106 Stat. 4836-4837) is amended by adding at the end the following new subsection:

“(e) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—There is authorized to be appropriated for providing construction assistance under this section—

“(1) $10,000,000 for the project described in subsection (c)(5);

“(2) $2,000,000 for the project described in subsection (c)(6);

“(3) $10,000,000 for the project described in subsection (c)(7);

“(4) $11,000,000 for the project described in subsection (c)(8);

“(5) $20,000,000 for the project described in subsection (c)(16); and

“(6) $20,000,000 for the project described in subsection (c)(17).”.

SEC. 518. CORPS CAPABILITY TO CONSERVE FISH AND WILDLIFE.

Section 704(b) of the Water Resources Development Act of 1986 (33 U.S.C. 2263(b); 100 Stat. 4157) is amended—

(1) by striking “$5,000,000”; and inserting “$10,000,000”; and

(2) in paragraph (4) by inserting “and Virginia” after “Maryland”.

SEC. 519. PERIODIC BEACH NOURISHMENT.

The Secretary shall carry out periodic beach nourishment for each of the following projects for a period of 50 years beginning on the date of initiation of construction of such project:

(1) BROWARD COUNTY, FLORIDA.—Project for shoreline protection, segments II and III, Broward County, Florida.

(2) FORT PIERCE, FLORIDA.—Project for shoreline protection, Fort Pierce, Florida.

(3) LEE COUNTY, FLORIDA.—Project for shoreline protection, Lee County, Captiva Island segment, Florida.

(4) PALM BEACH COUNTY, FLORIDA.—Project for shoreline protection, Jupiter/Carlin, Ocean

Ridge, and Boca Raton North Beach segments, Palm Beach County, Florida.

(5) PANAMA CITY BEACHES, FLORIDA.—Project for shoreline protection, Panama City Beaches, Florida.

(6) TYBEE ISLAND, GEORGIA.—Project for beach erosion control, Tybee Island, Georgia.

SEC. 520. CONTROL OF AQUATIC PLANTS.

The Secretary shall carry out under section 104(b) of the River and Harbor Act of 1958 (33 U.S.C. 610(b))—

(1) a program to control aquatic plants in Lake St. Clair, Michigan; and

(2) program to control aquatic plants in the Schuylkill River, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

SEC. 521. HOPPER DREDGES.

Section 3 of the Act of August 11, 1888 (33 U.S.C. 622; 25 Stat. 423), is amended by adding at the end the following:

“(c) PROGRAM TO INCREASE USE OF PRIVATE HOPPER DREDGES.—

“(1) INITIATION.—The Secretary shall initiate a program to increase the use of private industry hopper dredges for the construction and maintenance of Federal navigation channels.

“(2) READY RESERVE STATUS FOR HOPPER DREDGE WHEELER.—In order to carry out the requirements of this subsection, the Secretary shall, not later than the earlier of 90 days after the date of completion of the rehabilitation of the hopper dredge McFarland pursuant to section 564 of the Water Resources Development Act of 1996 or October 1, 1997, place the Federal hopper dredge Wheeler in a ready reserve status.

“(3) TESTING AND USE OF READY RESERVE HOPPER DREDGE.—The Secretary may periodically perform routine tests of the equipment of the vessel placed in a ready reserve status under this subsection to ensure the vessel's ability to perform emergency work. The Secretary shall not assign any scheduled hopper dredging work to such vessel but shall perform any repairs needed to maintain the vessel in a fully operational condition. The Secretary may place the vessel in active status in order to perform any dredging work only in the event the Secretary determines that private industry has failed to submit a responsive and responsible bid for work advertised by the Secretary or to carry out the project as required pursuant to a contract with the Secretary.

“(4) REPAIR AND REHABILITATION.—The Secretary may undertake any repair and rehabilitation of any Federal hopper dredge, including the vessel placed in ready reserve status under paragraph (2) to allow the vessel to be placed into active status as provided in paragraph (3).

“(5) PROCEDURES.—The Secretary shall develop and implement procedures to ensure that, to the maximum extent practicable, private industry hopper dredge capacity is available to meet both routine and time-sensitive dredging needs. Such procedures shall include—

“(A) scheduling of contract solicitations to effectively distribute dredging work throughout the dredging season; and

“(B) use of expedited contracting procedures to allow dredges performing routine work to be made available to meet time-sensitive, urgent, or emergency dredging needs.

“(6) REPORT.—Not later than 2 years after the date of the enactment of this subsection, the Secretary shall report to Congress on whether the vessel placed in ready reserve status pursuant to paragraph (2) is needed to be returned to active status or continued in a ready reserve status or whether another Federal hopper dredge should be placed in a ready reserve status.

“(7) LIMITATIONS.—

“(A) REDUCTIONS IN STATUS.—The Secretary may not further reduce the readiness status of any Federal hopper dredge below a ready reserve status except any vessel placed in such status for not less than 5 years which the Secretary determines has not been used sufficiently to justify retaining the vessel in such status.

“(B) INCREASE IN ASSIGNMENTS OF DREDGING WORK.—For each fiscal year beginning after the date of the enactment of this subsection, the Secretary shall not assign any greater quantity of dredging work to any Federal hopper dredge in an active status than was assigned to that vessel in the average of the 3 prior fiscal years.

“(8) CONTRACTS; PAYMENT OF CAPITAL COSTS.—The Secretary may enter into a contract for the maintenance and crewing of any vessel retained in a ready reserve status. The capital costs (including depreciation costs) of any vessel retained in such status shall be paid for out of funds made available from the Harbor Maintenance Trust Fund and shall not be charged against the Corps of Engineers' Revolving Fund Account or any individual project cost unless the vessel is specifically used in connection with that project.”

SEC. 522. DESIGN AND CONSTRUCTION ASSISTANCE.

The Secretary shall provide design and construction assistance to non-Federal interests for the following projects:

(1) Repair and rehabilitation of the Lower Girard Lake Dam, Girard, Ohio, at an estimated total cost of $2,500,000.

(2) Construction of a multi-purpose dam and reservoir, Bear Valley Dam, Franklin County, Pennsylvania, at an estimated total cost of $15,000,000.

(3) Repair and upgrade of the dam and appurtenant features at Lake Merriweather, Little Calypasture River, Virginia, at an estimated total cost of $6,000,000.

SEC. 523. FIELD OFFICE HEADQUARTERS FACILITIES.

Subject to amounts being made available in advance in appropriations Acts, the Secretary may use Plant Replacement and Improvement Program funds to design and construct a new headquarters facility for—

(1) the New England Division, Waltham, Massachusetts; and

(2) the Jacksonville District, Jacksonville, Florida.

SEC. 524. CORPS OF ENGINEERS RESTRUCTURING PLAN.

(a) DIVISION OFFICE, CHICAGO, ILLINOIS.—The Secretary shall continue to maintain a division office of the Corps of Engineers in Chicago, Illinois, notwithstanding any plan developed pursuant to title I of the Energy and Water Development Appropriations Act, 1996 (109 Stat. 405) to reduce the number of division offices. Such division office shall be responsible for the 5 district offices for which the division office was responsible on June 1, 1996.

(b) DISTRICT OFFICE, ST. LOUIS, MISSOURI.—The Secretary shall not reassign the St. Louis District of the Corps of Engineers from the operational control of the Lower Mississippi Valley Division.

SEC. 525. LAKE SUPERIOR CENTER.

(a) CONSTRUCTION.—The Secretary, shall assist the Minnesota Lake Superior Center authority in the construction of an educational facility to be used in connection with efforts to educate the public in the economic, recreational, biological, aesthetic, and spiritual worth of Lake Superior and other large bodies of fresh water.

(b) PUBLIC OWNERSHIP.—Prior to providing any assistance under subsection (a), the Secretary shall verify that the facility to be constructed under subsection (a) will be owned by the public authority established by the State of Minnesota to develop, operate, and maintain the Lake Superior Center.

(c) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—There is authorized to be appropriated for fiscal years beginning after September 30, 1996, $10,000,000 for the construction of the facility under subsection (a).

SEC. 526. JACKSON COUNTY, ALABAMA.

The Secretary shall provide technical, planning, and design assistance to non-Federal interests for wastewater treatment and related facilities, remediation of point and nonpoint sources of pollution and contaminated riverbed sediments, and related activities in Jackson County, Alabama, including the city of Stevenson. The Federal cost of such assistance may not exceed $5,000,000.

SEC. 527. EARTHQUAKE PREPAREDNESS CENTER OF EXPERTISE EXTENSION.

The Secretary shall establish an extension of the Earthquake Preparedness Center of Expertise for the central United States at an existing district office of the Corps of Engineers near the New Madrid fault.

SEC. 528. QUARANTINE FACILITY.

Section 108(c) of the Water Resources Development Act of 1992 (106 Stat. 4816) is amended by striking “$1,000,000” and inserting “$4,000,000”.

SEC. 529. BENTON AND WASHINGTON COUNTIES, ARKANSAS.

Section 220 of the Water Resources Development Act of 1992 (106 Stat. 4836-4837) is amended by adding at the end the following new subsection:

“(c) USE OF FEDERAL FUNDS.—The Secretary may make available to the non-Federal interests funds not to exceed an amount equal to the Federal share of the total project cost to be used by the non-Federal interests to undertake the work directly or by contract.”

SEC. 530. CALAVERAS COUNTY, CALIFORNIA.

(a) COOPERATION AGREEMENTS.—The Secretary shall enter into cooperation agreements with non-Federal interests to develop and carry out, in cooperation with Federal and State agencies, reclamation and protection projects for the purpose of abating and mitigating surface water quality degradation caused by abandoned mines in the watershed of the lower Mokelumne River in Calaveras County, California.

(b) CONSULTATION WITH FEDERAL ENTITIES.—Any project under subsection (a) that is located on lands owned by the United States shall be undertaken in consultation with the Federal entity with administrative jurisdiction over such lands.

(c) FEDERAL SHARE.—The Federal share of the cost of the activities conducted under cooperation agreements entered into under subsection (a) shall be 75 percent; except that, with respect to projects located on lands owned by the United States, the Federal share shall be 100 percent. The non-Federal share of project costs may be provided in the form of design and construction services. Non-Federal interests shall receive credit for the reasonable costs of such services completed by such interests prior to entering an agreement with the Secretary for a project.

(d) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—There is authorized to be appropriated to carry out this section $5,000,000 for projects undertaken under this section.

SEC. 531. FARMINGTON DAM, CALIFORNIA.

(a) CONJUNCTIVE USE STUDY.—The Secretary is directed to continue participation in the Stockton, California Metropolitan Area Flood Control study to include the evaluation of the feasibility of storage of water at Farmington Dam to implement a conjunctive use plan. In conducting the study, the Secretary shall consult with the Stockton East Water District concerning joint operation or potential transfer of Farmington Dam. The Secretary shall make recommendations on facility transfers and operational alternatives as part of the Secretary's report to Congress.

(b) REPORT.—The Secretary shall report to Congress, no later than 1 year after the date of the enactment of this Act, on the feasibility of a conjunctive use plan using Farmington Dam for water storage.

SEC. 532. LOS ANGELES COUNTY DRAINAGE AREA, CALIFORNIA.

The non-Federal share for a project to add water conservation to the existing Los Angeles County Drainage Area, California, project shall be 100 percent of separable first costs and separable operation, maintenance, and replacement costs associated with the water conservation purpose.

SEC. 533. PRADO DAM SAFETY IMPROVEMENTS, CALIFORNIA.

The Secretary, in coordination with the State of California, shall provide technical assistance to Orange County, California, in developing appropriate public safety and access improvements associated with that portion of California State Route 71 being relocated for the Prado Dam feature of the project authorized as part of the project for flood control, Santa Ana River Mainstem, California, by section 401(a) of the Water Resources Development Act of 1986 (100 Stat. 4113).

SEC. 534. SEVEN OAKS DAM, CALIFORNIA.

The non-Federal share for a project to add water conservation to the Seven Oaks Dam, Santa Ana River Mainstem, California, project shall be 100 percent of separable first costs and separable operation, maintenance, and replacement costs associated with the water conservation purpose.

SEC. 535. MANATEE COUNTY, FLORIDA.

The project for flood control, Cedar Hammock (Wares Creek), Florida, is authorized to be carried out by the Secretary substantially in accordance with the Final Detailed Project Report and Environmental Assessment, dated April 1995, at a total cost of $13,846,000, with an estimated first Federal cost of $8,783,000 and an estimated non-Federal cost of $5,063,000.

SEC. 536. TAMPA, FLORIDA.

The Secretary may enter into a cooperative agreement under section 230 of this Act with the Museum of Science and Industry, Tampa, Florida, to provide technical, planning, and design assistance to demonstrate the water quality functions found in wetlands, at an estimated total Federal cost of $500,000.

SEC. 537. WATERSHED MANAGEMENT PLAN FOR DEEP RIVER BASIN, INDIANA.

(a) DEVELOPMENT.—The Secretary, in consultation with the Natural Resources Conservation Service of the Department of Agriculture, shall develop a watershed management plan for the Deep River Basin, Indiana, which includes Deep River, Lake George, Turkey Creek, and other related tributaries in Indiana.

(b) CONTENTS.—The plan to be developed by the Secretary under subsection (a) shall address specific concerns related to the Deep River Basin area, including sediment flow into Deep River, Turkey Creek, and other tributaries; control of sediment quality in Lake George; flooding problems; the safety of the Lake George Dam; and watershed management.

SEC. 538. SOUTHERN AND EASTERN KENTUCKY.

(a) ESTABLISHMENT OF PROGRAM.—The Secretary shall establish a program for providing environmental assistance to non-Federal interests in southern and eastern Kentucky. Such assistance may be in the form of design and construction assistance for water-related environmental infrastructure and resource protection and development projects in southern and eastern Kentucky, including projects for wastewater treatment and related facilities, water supply, storage, treatment, and distribution facilities, and surface water resource protection and development.

(b) PUBLIC OWNERSHIP REQUIREMENT.—The Secretary may provide assistance for a project under this section only if the project is publicly owned.

(c) PROJECT COOPERATION AGREEMENTS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Before providing assistance under this section, the Secretary shall enter into a project cooperation agreement with a non-Federal interest to provide for design and construction of the project to be carried out with such assistance.

(2) REQUIREMENTS.—Each agreement entered into under this subsection shall provide for the following:

(A) PLAN.—Development by the Secretary, in consultation with appropriate Federal and State officials, of a facilities development plan or resource protection plan, including appropriate plans and specifications.

(B) LEGAL AND INSTITUTIONAL STRUCTURES.—Establishment of each such legal and institutional structures as are necessary to assure the effective long-term operation of the project by the non-Federal interest.

(3) COST SHARING.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—Total project costs under each agreement entered into under this subsection shall be shared at 75 percent Federal and 25 percent non-Federal, except that the non-Federal interest shall receive credit for the reasonable costs of design work completed by such interest before entry into the agreement with the Secretary. The Federal share may be in the form of grants or reimbursements of project costs.

(B) CREDIT FOR CERTAIN FINANCING COSTS.—In the event of delays in the reimbursement of the non-Federal share of a project, the non-Federal interest shall receive credit for reasonable interest and other associated financing costs necessary for such non-Federal interest to provide the non-Federal share of the project's cost.

(C) LANDS, EASEMENTS, AND RIGHTS-OF-WAY.—The non-Federal interest shall receive credit for lands, easements, rights-of-way, and relocations provided by the non-Federal interest toward its share of project costs, including for costs associated with obtaining permits necessary for the placement of such project on publicly owned or controlled lands, but not to exceed 25 percent of total project costs.

(D) OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE.—Operation and maintenance costs shall be 100 percent non-Federal.

(d) APPLICABILITY OF OTHER FEDERAL AND STATE LAWS.—Nothing in this section shall be construed as waiving, limiting, or otherwise affecting the applicability of any provision of Federal or State law which would otherwise apply to a project to be carried out with assistance provided under this section.

(e) REPORT.—Not later than December 31, 1999, the Secretary shall transmit to Congress a report on the results of the program carried out under this section, together with recommendations concerning whether or not such program should be implemented on a national basis.

(f) SOUTHERN AND EASTERN KENTUCKY DEFINED.—For purposes of this section, the term "southern and eastern Kentucky" means Morgan, Floyd, Pulaski, Wayne, Laurel, Knox, Pike, Menifee, Perry, Harlan, Breathitt, Martin, Jackson, Wolfe, Clay, Magoffin, Owsley, Johnson, Leslie, Lawrence, Knott, Bell, McCreary, Rockcastle, Whitley, Lee, and Letcher Counties, Kentucky.

(g) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—There is authorized to be appropriated to carry out this section $10,000,000.

SEC. 539. LOUISIANA COASTAL WETLANDS RESTORATION PROJECTS.

Section 303(f) of the Coastal Wetlands Planning, Protection and Restoration Act (16 U.S.C. 3952(f); 104 Stat. 4782-4783) is amended—

(1) in paragraph (4) by striking "and (3)" and inserting "(3), and (5)"; and

(2) by adding at the end the following:

"(5) FEDERAL SHARE IN CALENDAR YEARS 1996 AND 1997.—Notwithstanding paragraphs (1) and (2), amounts made available in accordance with section 306 of this title to carry out coastal wetlands restoration projects under this section in calendar years 1996 and 1997 shall provide 90 percent of the cost of such projects."

SEC. 540. SOUTHEAST LOUISIANA.

(a) FLOOD CONTROL.—The Secretary is directed to proceed with engineering, design, and construction of projects to provide for flood control and improvements to rainfall drainage systems in Jefferson, Orleans, and St. Tammany Parishes, Louisiana, in accordance with the following reports of the New Orleans District Engineer: Jefferson and Orleans Parishes, Louisiana, Urban Flood Control and Water Quality Management, July 1992; Tangipahoa, Techefunct, and Tickfaw Rivers, Louisiana, June 1991; St. Tammany Parish, Louisiana, July 1996; and Schneider Canal, Slidell, Louisiana, Hurricane Protection, May 1990.

(b) COST SHARING.—The cost of any work performed by the non-Federal interests subsequent to the reports referred to in subsection (a) and determined by the Secretary to be a compatible and integral part of the projects shall be credited toward the non-Federal share of the projects.

(c) FUNDING.—There is authorized to be appropriated $100,000,000 for the initiation and partial accomplishment of projects described in the reports referred to in subsection (a).

SEC. 541. RESTORATION PROJECTS FOR MARYLAND, PENNSYLVANIA, AND WEST VIRGINIA.

(a) IN GENERAL.—

(1) COOPERATION AGREEMENTS.—The Secretary shall enter into cooperation agreements with non-Federal interests to develop and carry out, in cooperation with Federal and State agencies, reclamation and protection projects for the purpose of abating and mitigating surface water quality degradation caused by abandoned mines along—

(A) the North Branch of the Potomac River, Maryland, Pennsylvania, and West Virginia; and

(B) the New River, West Virginia, watershed.

(2) ADDITIONAL MEASURES.—Projects under paragraph (1) may also include measures for the abatement and mitigation of surface water quality degradation caused by the lack of sanitary wastewater treatment facilities or the need to enhance such facilities.

(3) CONSULTATION WITH FEDERAL ENTITIES.—Any project under paragraph (1) that is located on lands owned by the United States shall be undertaken in consultation with the Federal entity with administrative jurisdiction over such lands.

(b) FEDERAL SHARE.—The Federal share of the cost of the activities conducted under cooperation agreements entered into under subsection (a)(1) shall be 75 percent; except that, with respect to projects located on lands owned by the United States, the Federal share shall be 100 percent. The non-Federal share of project costs may be provided in the form of design and construction services. Non-Federal interests shall receive credit for the reasonable costs of such services completed by such interests prior to entering an agreement with the Secretary for a project.

(c) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—There is authorized to be appropriated to carry out this section $5,000,000 for projects undertaken under subsection (a)(1)(A) and $5,000,000 for projects undertaken under subsection (a)(1)(B).

SEC. 542. CUMBERLAND, MARYLAND.

The Secretary is directed to provide technical, planning, and design assistance to State, local, and other Federal entities for the restoration of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal, in the vicinity of Cumberland, Maryland.

SEC. 543. BENEFICIAL USE OF DREDGED MATERIAL, POPLAR ISLAND, MARYLAND.

The Secretary shall carry out a project for the beneficial use of dredged material at Poplar Island, Maryland, pursuant to section 204 of the Water Resources Development Act of 1992; except that, notwithstanding the limitation contained in subsection (e) of such section, the initial cost of constructing dikes for the project shall be $78,000,000, with an estimated Federal cost of $58,500,000 and an estimated non-Federal cost of $19,500,000.

SEC. 544. EROSION CONTROL MEASURES, SMITH ISLAND, MARYLAND.

(a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall implement erosion control measures in the vicinity of Rhodes Point, Smith Island, Maryland, at an estimated total Federal cost of $450,000.

(b) IMPLEMENTATION ON EMERGENCY BASIS.—The project under subsection (a) shall be carried out on an emergency basis in view of the national, historic, and cultural value of the island and in order to protect the Federal investment in infrastructure facilities.

(c) COST SHARING.—Cost sharing applicable to hurricane and storm damage reduction shall be applicable to the project to be carried out under subsection (a).

SEC. 545. DULUTH, MINNESOTA, ALTERNATIVE TECHNOLOGY PROJECT.

(a) PROJECT AUTHORIZATION.—The Secretary shall develop and implement alternative methods for decontamination and disposal of contaminated dredged material at the Port of Duluth, Minnesota.

(b) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—There is authorized to be appropriated for fiscal years beginning after September 30, 1996, to carry out this section $1,000,000. Such sums shall remain available until expended.

SEC. 546. REDWOOD RIVER BASIN, MINNESOTA.

(a) STUDY AND STRATEGY DEVELOPMENT.—The Secretary, in cooperation with the Secretary of Agriculture and the State of Minnesota, shall conduct a study, and develop a strategy, for using wetland restoration, soil and water conservation practices, and nonstructural measures to reduce flood damages, improve water quality, and create wildlife habitat in the Redwood River basin and the subbasins draining into the Minnesota River, at an estimated Federal cost of $4,000,000.

(b) NON-FEDERAL SHARE.—The non-Federal share of the cost of the study and development of the strategy shall be 25 percent and may be provided through in-kind services and materials.

(c) COOPERATION AGREEMENT.—In conducting the study and developing the strategy under this section, the Secretary shall enter into cooperation agreements to provide financial assistance to appropriate Federal, State, and local government agencies, including activities for the implementation of wetland restoration projects and soil and water conservation measures.

(d) IMPLEMENTATION.—The Secretary shall undertake development and implementation of the strategy authorized by this section in cooperation with local landowners and local government officials.

SEC. 547. NATCHEZ BLUFFS, MISSISSIPPI.

(a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall carry out the project for bluff stabilization, Natchez Bluffs, Natchez, Mississippi, substantially in accordance with (1) the Natchez Bluffs Study, dated September 1985, (2) the Natchez Bluffs Study: Supplement I, dated June 1990, and (3) the Natchez Bluffs Study: Supplement II, dated December 1993, in the portions of the bluffs described in subsection (b), at a total cost of $17,200,000, with an estimated Federal cost of $12,900,000 and an estimated non-Federal cost of $4,300,000.

(b) DESCRIPTION OF PROJECT LOCATION.—The portions of the Natchez Bluffs where the project is to be carried out under subsection (a) are described in the studies referred to in subsection (a) as—

(1) Clifton Avenue, area 3;

(2) the bluff above Silver Street, area 6;

(3) the bluff above Natchez Under-the-Hill, area 7; and

(4) Madison Street to State Street, area 4.

SEC. 548. SARDIS LAKE, MISSISSIPPI.

(a) MANAGEMENT.—The Secretary shall work cooperatively with the State of Mississippi and the city of Sardis, Mississippi, to the maximum extent practicable, in the management of existing and proposed leases of land consistent with the Sardis Lake Recreation and Tourism Master Plan prepared by the city for the economic development of the Sardis Lake area.

(b) FLOOD CONTROL STORAGE.—The Secretary shall review the study conducted by the city of Sardis, Mississippi, regarding the impact of the Sardis Lake Recreation and Tourism Master Plan prepared by the city on flood control storage in Sardis Lake. The city shall not be required to reimburse the Secretary for the cost of such storage, or the cost of the Secretary's review, if the Secretary finds that the loss of flood control storage resulting from implementation of the master plan is not significant.

SEC. 549. MISSOURI RIVER MANAGEMENT.

(a) NAVIGATION SEASON EXTENSION.—

(1) INCREASES.—The Secretary, working with the Secretary of Agriculture and the Secretary of the Interior, shall incrementally increase the length of each navigation season for the Missouri River by 15 days from the length of the previous navigation season and those seasons thereafter, until such time as the navigation season for the Missouri River is increased by 1 month from the length of the navigation season on April 1, 1996.

(2) APPLICATION OF INCREASES.—Increases in the length of the navigation season under paragraph (1) shall be applied in calendar year 1996 so that the navigation season in such calendar year for the Missouri River begins on April 1, 1996, and ends on December 15, 1996.

(3) ADJUSTMENT OF NAVIGATION LEVELS.—Scheduled full navigation levels shall be incrementally increased to coincide with increases in the navigation season under paragraph (1).

(b) WATER CONTROL POLICIES AFFECTING NAVIGATION CHANNELS.—The Secretary may not take any action which is inconsistent with a water control policy of the Corps of Engineers in effect on January 1, 1995, if such action would result in—

(1) a reduction of 10 days or more in the total number of days in a year during which vessels are able to use navigation channels; or

(2) a substantial increase in flood damage to lands adjacent to a navigation channel, unless such action is specifically authorized by a law enacted after the date of the enactment of this Act.

(c) ECONOMIC AND ENVIRONMENTAL IMPACT EVALUATION.—Whenever a Federal department, agency, or instrumentality conducts an environmental impact statement with respect to management of the Missouri River system, the head of such department, agency, or instrumentality shall also conduct a cost benefit analysis on any changes proposed in the management of the Missouri River.

SEC. 550. ST. CHARLES COUNTY, MISSOURI, FLOOD PROTECTION.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law or regulation, no county located at the confluence of the Missouri and Mississippi Rivers or community located in any county located at the confluence of the Missouri and Mississippi Rivers shall have its participation in any Federal program suspended, revoked, or otherwise affected solely due to that county or community permitting the raising of levees by any public-sponsored levee district, along an alignment approved by the circuit court of such county, to a level sufficient to contain a 20-year flood.

(b) TREATMENT OF EXISTING PERMITS.—If any public-sponsored levee district has received a Federal permit valid during the Great Flood of 1993 to improve or modify its levee system before the date of the enactment of this Act, such permit shall be considered adequate to allow the raising of the height of levees in such system under subsection (a).

SEC. 551. DURHAM, NEW HAMPSHIRE.

The Secretary may enter into a cooperative agreement under section 230 of this Act with the University of New Hampshire to provide technical assistance for a water treatment technology center addressing the needs of small communities.

SEC. 552. HACKENSACK MEADOWLANDS AREA, NEW JERSEY.

Section 324(b)(1) of the Water Resources Development Act of 1992 (106 Stat. 4849) is amended to read as follows:

“(1) Mitigation, enhancement, and acquisition of significant wetlands that contribute to the Meadowlands ecosystem.”.

SEC. 553. AUTHORIZATION OF DREDGE MATERIAL CONTAINMENT FACILITY FOR PORT OF NEW YORK/NEW JERSEY.

(a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary is authorized to construct, operate, and maintain a dredged material containment facility with a capacity commensurate with the long-term dredged material disposal needs of port facilities under the jurisdiction of the Port of New York/New Jersey. Such facility may be a near-shore dredged material disposal facility along the Brooklyn waterfront. The costs associated with feasibility studies, design, engineering, and construction shall be shared with the local sponsor in accordance with the provisions of section 101 of the Water Resources Development Act of 1986.

(b) BENEFICIAL USE.—After the facility to be constructed under subsection (a) has been filled to capacity with dredged material, the Secretary shall maintain the facility for the public benefit.

SEC. 554. HUDSON RIVER HABITAT RESTORATION, NEW YORK.

(a) HABITAT RESTORATION PROJECT.—The Secretary shall expedite the feasibility study of the Hudson River Habitat Restoration, Hudson River Basin, New York, and shall carry out no fewer than 4 projects for habitat restoration, to the extent the Secretary determines such work to be technically feasible. Such projects shall be designed to—

(1) provide a pilot project to assess and improve habitat value and environmental outputs of recommended projects;

(2) provide a demonstration project to evaluate various restoration techniques for effectiveness and cost;

(3) fill an important local habitat need within a specific portion of the study area; and

(4) take advantage of ongoing or planned actions by other agencies, local municipalities, or environmental groups that would increase the effectiveness or decrease the overall cost of implementing one of the recommended restoration project sites.

(b) NON-FEDERAL SHARE.—Non-Federal interests shall provide 25 percent of the cost on each project undertaken under subsection (a). The non-Federal share may be in the form of cash or in-kind contributions.

(c) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—There is authorized to be appropriated to carry out this section $11,000,000.

SEC. 555. QUEENS COUNTY, NEW YORK.

(a) DESCRIPTION OF NONNAVIGABLE AREA.—Subject to subsections (b) and (c), the area of Long Island City, Queens County, New York, that—

(1) is not submerged;

(2) lies between the southerly high water line (as of the date of enactment of this Act) of Anable Basin (also known as the “11th Street Basin”) and the northerly high water line (as of the date of enactment of this Act) of Newtown Creek; and

(3) extends from the high water line (as of the date of enactment of this Act) of the East River to the original high water line of the East River; is declared to be nonnavigable waters of the United States.

(b) REQUIREMENT THAT AREA BE IMPROVED.—(1) IN GENERAL.—The declaration of nonnavigability under subsection (a) shall apply only to those portions of the area described in subsection (a) that are, or will be, bulkheaded, filled, or otherwise occupied by permanent structures or other permanent physical improvements (including parkland).

(2) APPLICABILITY OF FEDERAL LAW.—Improvements described in paragraph (1) shall be subject to applicable Federal laws, including—

(A) sections 9 and 10 of the Act entitled “An Act making appropriations for the construction, repair, and preservation of certain public works on rivers and harbors, and for other purposes”, approved March 3, 1899 (33 U.S.C. 401 and 403);

(B) section 404 of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act (33 U.S.C. 1344); and

(C) the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (42 U.S.C. 4321 et seq.).

(c) EXPIRATION DATE.—The declaration of nonnavigability under subsection (a) shall expire with respect to a portion of the area described in subsection (a), if the portion—

(1) is not bulkheaded, filled, or otherwise occupied by a permanent structure or other permanent physical improvement (including parkland) in accordance with subsection (b) by the date that is 20 years after the date of the enactment of this Act; or

(2) requires an improvement described in subsection (b)(2) that is subject to a permit under an applicable Federal law and the improvement is not commenced by the date that is 5 years after the date of issuance of the permit.

SEC. 556. NEW YORK BIGHT AND HARBOR STUDY.

Section 326(f) of the Water Resources Development Act of 1992 (106 Stat. 4851) is amended by striking “$1,000,000” and inserting “$5,000,000”.

SEC. 557. NEW YORK STATE CANAL SYSTEM.

(a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary is authorized to make capital improvements to the New York State Canal System.

(b) AGREEMENTS.—The Secretary shall, with the consent of appropriate local and State entities, enter into such arrangements, contracts, and leases with public and private entities as may be necessary for the purposes of rehabilitation, renovation, preservation, and maintenance of the New York State Canal System and its related facilities, including trailside facilities and other recreational projects along the waterways of the canal system.

(c) NEW YORK STATE CANAL SYSTEM DEFINED.—In this section, the term “New York State Canal System” means the Erie, Oswego, Champlain, and Cayuga-Seneca Canals.

(d) FEDERAL SHARE.—The Federal share of the cost of capital improvements under this section shall be 50 percent.

(e) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—There is authorized to be appropriated to carry out this section $10,000,000.

SEC. 558. NEW YORK CITY WATERSHED.

(a) ESTABLISHMENT.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall establish a program for providing environmental assistance to non-Federal interests in the New York City Watershed.

(2) FORM.—Assistance provided under this section may be in the form of design and construction assistance for water-related environmental infrastructure and resource protection and development projects in the New York City Watershed, including projects for water supply, storage, treatment, and distribution facilities, and surface water resource protection and development.

(b) PUBLIC OWNERSHIP REQUIREMENT.—The Secretary may provide assistance for a project under this section only if the project is publicly owned.

(c) ELIGIBLE PROJECTS.—

(1) CERTIFICATION.—A project shall be eligible for financial assistance under this section only if the State director for the project certifies to the Secretary that the project will contribute to the protection and enhancement of the quality or quantity of the New York City water supply.

(2) SPECIAL CONSIDERATION.—In certifying projects to the Secretary, the State director shall give special consideration to those projects implementing plans, agreements, and measures which preserve and enhance the economic and social character of the watershed communities.

(3) PROJECT DESCRIPTIONS.—Projects eligible for assistance under this section shall include the following:

(A) Implementation of intergovernmental agreements for coordinating regulatory and management responsibilities.

(B) Acceleration of whole farm planning to implement best management practices to maintain or enhance water quality and to promote agricultural land use.

(C) Acceleration of whole community planning to promote intergovernmental cooperation in the regulation and management of activities consistent with the goal of maintaining or enhancing water quality.

(D) Natural resources stewardship on public and private lands to promote land uses that preserve and enhance the economic and social character of the watershed communities and protect and enhance water quality.

(d) COOPERATION AGREEMENTS.—Before providing assistance under this section, the Secretary shall enter into a project cooperation agreement with the State director for the project to be carried out with such assistance.

(e) COST SHARING.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Total project costs under each agreement entered into under this section shall be shared at 75 percent Federal and 25 percent non-Federal. The non-Federal interest shall receive credit for the reasonable costs of design work completed by such interest prior to entering into the agreement with the Secretary for a project. The Federal share may be in the form of grants or reimbursements of project costs.

(2) INTEREST.—In the event of delays in the reimbursement of the non-Federal share of a project, the non-Federal interest shall receive credit for reasonable interest costs incurred to provide the non-Federal share of a project's cost.

(3) LANDS, EASEMENTS, AND RIGHTS-OF-WAY CREDIT.—The non-Federal interest shall receive credit for lands, easements, rights-of-way, and relocations provided by the non-Federal interest toward its share of project costs, including direct costs associated with obtaining permits necessary for the placement of such project on public owned or controlled lands, but not to exceed 25 percent of total project costs.

(4) OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE.—Operation and maintenance costs for projects constructed with assistance provided under this section shall be 100 percent non-Federal.

(f) APPLICABILITY OF OTHER FEDERAL AND STATE LAWS.—Nothing in this section shall be construed to waive, limit, or otherwise affect the applicability of any provision of Federal or State law that would otherwise apply to a project carried out with assistance provided under this section.

(g) REPORT.—Not later than December 31, 2000, the Secretary shall transmit to Congress a report on the results of the program carried out under this section, together with recommendations concerning whether such program should be implemented on a national basis.

(h) NEW YORK CITY WATERSHED DEFINED.—For purposes of this section, the term "New York City Watershed" means the land area within the counties of Delaware, Greene, Schoharie, Ulster, Sullivan, Westchester, Putnam, and Dutchess which contributes water to the water supply system of New York City.

(i) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—There is authorized to be appropriated to carry out this section $25,000,000.

SEC. 559. OHIO RIVER GREENWAY.

(a) EXPEDITED COMPLETION OF STUDY.—The Secretary is directed to expedite the completion of the study for the Ohio River Greenway, Jeffersonville, Clarksville, and New Albany, Indiana.

(b) CONSTRUCTION.—Upon completion of the study, if the Secretary determines that the project is feasible, the Secretary shall participate with the non-Federal interests in the construction of the project.

(c) COST SHARING.—Total project costs under this section shall be shared at 50 percent Federal and 50 percent non-Federal.

(d) LANDS, EASEMENTS, AND RIGHTS-OF-WAY.—Non-Federal interests shall be responsible for providing all lands, easements, rights-of-way, relocations, and dredged material disposal areas necessary for the project.

(e) CREDIT.—The non-Federal interests shall receive credit for those costs incurred by the non-Federal interests that the Secretary determines are compatible with the study, design, and implementation of the project.

SEC. 560. NORTHEASTERN OHIO.

The Secretary is authorized to provide technical assistance to local interests for planning the establishment of a regional water authority in northeastern Ohio to address the water problems of the region. The Federal share of the costs of such planning shall not exceed 75 percent.

SEC. 561. GRAND LAKE, OKLAHOMA.

(a) STUDY.—Not later than 1 year after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of the Army shall carry out and complete a study of flood control in Grand/Neosho Basin and tributaries in the vicinity of Pensacola Dam in northeastern Oklahoma to determine the scope of the backwater effects of operation of the dam and to identify any lands which the Secretary determines have been adversely impacted by such operation or should have been originally purchased as flowage easement for the project.

(b) ACQUISITION OF REAL PROPERTY.—Upon completion of the study and subject to advance appropriations, the Secretary shall acquire from willing sellers such real property interests in any lands identified in the study as the Secretary determines are necessary to reduce the adverse impacts identified in the study conducted under subsection (a).

(c) IMPLEMENTATION REPORTS.—The Secretary shall transmit to Congress reports on the operation of the Pensacola Dam, including data on and a description of releases in anticipation of flooding (referred to as preoccupancy releases), and the implementation of this section. The first of such reports shall be transmitted not later than 2 years after the date of the enactment of this Act.

(d) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—There is authorized to be appropriated to carry out this section $25,000,000 for fiscal years beginning after September 30, 1996.

(2) MAXIMUM FUNDING FOR STUDY.—Of amounts appropriated to carry out this section, not to exceed $1,500,000 shall be available for carrying out the study under subsection (a).

SEC. 562. BROAD TOP REGION OF PENNSYLVANIA.

Section 304 of the Water Resources Development Act of 1992 (106 Stat. 4840) is amended—

(1) by striking subsection (b) and inserting the following:

"(b) COST SHARING.—The Federal share of the cost of the activities conducted under the cooperative agreement entered into under subsection (a) shall be 75 percent. The non-Federal share of project costs may be provided in the form of design and construction services and other in-kind work provided by the non-Federal interests, whether occurring subsequent to, or within 6 years prior to, entering into an agreement with the Secretary. Non-Federal interests shall receive credit for grants and the value of work performed on behalf of such interests by State and local agencies."; and

(2) in subsection (c) by striking "$5,500,000" and inserting "$11,000,000".

SEC. 563. CURWENSVILLE LAKE, PENNSYLVANIA.

The Secretary shall modify the allocation of costs for the water reallocation project at Curwensville Lake, Pennsylvania, to the extent that the Secretary determines that such reallocation will provide environmental restoration benefits in meeting in-stream flow needs in the Susquehanna River basin.

SEC. 564. HOPPER DREDGE MCFARLAND.

(a) PROJECT AUTHORIZATION.—The Secretary is authorized to carry out a project at the Philadelphia Naval Shipyard, Pennsylvania, to make modernization and efficiency improvements to the hopper dredge McFarland.

(b) REQUIREMENTS.—In carrying out the project under subsection (a), the Secretary shall—

(1) determine whether the McFarland should be returned to active service or the reserve fleet after the project is completed; and

(2) establish minimum standards of dredging service to be met in areas served by the McFarland while the drydocking is taking place.

(c) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—There is authorized to be appropriated to carry out this section $20,000,000 for fiscal years beginning after September 30, 1996.

SEC. 565. PHILADELPHIA, PENNSYLVANIA.

(a) WATER WORKS RESTORATION.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall provide planning, design, and construction assistance for the protection and restoration of the Philadelphia, Pennsylvania Water Works.

(2) COORDINATION.—In providing assistance under this subsection, the Secretary shall coordinate with the Fairmount Park Commission and the Secretary of the Interior.

(3) FUNDING.—There is authorized to be appropriated to carry out this subsection $1,000,000 for fiscal years beginning after September 30, 1996.

(b) COOPERATION AGREEMENT FOR SCHUYLKILL NAVIGATION CANAL.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall enter into a cooperation agreement with the city of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, to participate in the operation, maintenance, and rehabilitation of the Schuylkill Navigation Canal at Manayunk.

(2) LIMITATION ON FEDERAL SHARE.—The Federal share of the cost of the operation, maintenance, and rehabilitation under paragraph (1) shall not exceed $300,000 annually.

(3) AREA INCLUDED.—For purposes of this subsection, the Schuylkill Navigation Canal includes the section approximately 10,000 feet long extending between Lock and Fountain Streets, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

(c) SCHUYLKILL RIVER PARK.—

(1) ASSISTANCE.—The Secretary is authorized to provide technical, planning, design, and construction assistance for the Schuylkill River Park, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

(2) FUNDING.—There is authorized to be appropriated $2,700,000 to carry out this subsection.

(d) PENNYPACK PARK.—

(1) ASSISTANCE.—The Secretary is authorized to provide technical, design, construction, and financial assistance for measures for the improvement and restoration of aquatic habitats and aquatic resources at Pennypack Park, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

(2) COOPERATION AGREEMENTS.—In providing assistance under this subsection, the Secretary shall enter into cooperation agreements with the city of Philadelphia, acting through the Fairmount Park Commission.

(3) FUNDING.—There is authorized to be appropriated for fiscal years beginning after September 30, 1996, $15,000,000 to carry out this subsection.

(e) FRANKFORD DAM.—

(1) COOPERATION AGREEMENTS.—The Secretary shall enter into cooperation agreements with the city of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, acting through the Fairmount Park Commission, to provide assistance for the elimination of the Frankford Dam, the replacement of the Rhawn Street Dam, and modifications to the Roosevelt Dam and the Verree Road Dam.

(2) FUNDING.—There is authorized to be appropriated for fiscal years beginning after September 30, 1996, $900,000, to carry out this subsection.

SEC. 566. UPPER SUSQUEHANNA RIVER BASIN, PENNSYLVANIA AND NEW YORK.

(a) STUDY AND STRATEGY DEVELOPMENT.—The Secretary, in cooperation with the Secretary of Agriculture, the State of Pennsylvania, and the State of New York, shall conduct a study, and develop a strategy, for using wetland restoration, soil and water conservation practices, and nonstructural measures to reduce flood damages, improve water quality, and create wildlife habitat in the following portions of the Upper Susquehanna River basin:

(1) the Juniata River watershed, Pennsylvania, at an estimated Federal cost of $15,000,000; and

(2) the Susquehanna River watershed upstream of the Chemung River, New York, at an estimated Federal cost of $10,000,000.

(b) NON-FEDERAL SHARE.—The non-Federal share of the cost of the study and development of the strategy shall be 25 percent and may be provided through in-kind services and materials.

(c) COOPERATION AGREEMENTS.—In conducting the study and developing the strategy under this section, the Secretary shall enter into cooperation agreements to provide financial assistance to appropriate Federal, State, and local government agencies, including activities for the implementation of wetland restoration projects and soil and water conservation measures.

(d) IMPLEMENTATION.—The Secretary shall undertake development and implementation of the project authorized by this section in cooperation with local landowners and local government officials.

SEC. 567. SEVEN POINTS VISITORS CENTER, RAYSTOWN LAKE, PENNSYLVANIA.

(a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall construct a visitors center and related public use facilities at the Seven Points Recreation Area at Raystown Lake, Pennsylvania, generally in accordance with the Master Plan Update (1994) for the Raystown Lake Project.

(b) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—There is authorized to be appropriated to carry out this section $2,500,000.

SEC. 568. SOUTHEASTERN PENNSYLVANIA.

(a) ESTABLISHMENT OF PROGRAM.—The Secretary shall establish a pilot program for providing environmental assistance to non-Federal interests in southeastern Pennsylvania. Such assistance may be in the form of design and construction assistance for water-related environmental infrastructure and resource protection and development projects in southeastern Pennsylvania, including projects for waste water treatment and related facilities, water supply, storage, treatment, and distribution facilities, and surface water resource protection and development.

(b) PUBLIC OWNERSHIP REQUIREMENT.—The Secretary may provide assistance for a project under this section only if the project is publicly owned.

(c) LOCAL COOPERATION AGREEMENTS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Before providing assistance under this section, the Secretary shall enter into a local cooperation agreement with a non-Federal interest to provide for design and construction of the project to be carried out with such assistance.

(2) REQUIREMENTS.—Each local cooperation agreement entered into under this subsection shall provide for the following:

(A) PLAN.—Development by the Secretary, in consultation with appropriate Federal and State officials, of a facilities or resource protection and development plan, including appropriate engineering plans and specifications.

(B) LEGAL AND INSTITUTIONAL STRUCTURES.—Establishment of each such legal and institutional structures as are necessary to assure the effective long-term operation of the project by the non-Federal interest.

(3) COST SHARING.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—Total project costs under each local cooperation agreement entered into under this subsection shall be shared at 75 percent Federal and 25 percent non-Federal. The non-Federal interest shall receive credit for the reasonable costs of design work completed by such interest prior to entering into a local cooperation agreement with the Secretary for a project. The credit for such design work shall not exceed 6 percent of the total construction costs of the project. The Federal share may be in the form of grants or reimbursements of project costs.

(B) INTEREST.—In the event of delays in the funding of the non-Federal share of a project that is the subject of an agreement under this section, the non-Federal interest shall receive credit for reasonable interest incurred in providing the non-Federal share of a project's cost.

(C) LANDS, EASEMENTS, AND RIGHTS-OF-WAY CREDIT.—The non-Federal interest shall receive credit for lands, easements, rights-of-way, and relocations toward its share of project costs, including all reasonable costs associated with obtaining permits necessary for the construction, operation, and maintenance of such project on publicly owned or controlled lands, but not to exceed 25 percent of total project costs.

(D) OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE.—Operation and maintenance costs for projects constructed with assistance provided under this section shall be 100 percent non-Federal.

(e) APPLICABILITY OF OTHER FEDERAL AND STATE LAWS.—Nothing in this section shall be construed as waiving, limiting, or otherwise affecting the applicability of any provision of Federal or State law which would otherwise apply to a project to be carried out with assistance provided under this section.

(f) REPORT.—Not later than December 31, 1998, the Secretary shall transmit to Congress a report on the results of the pilot program carried out under this section, together with recommendations concerning whether or not such program should be implemented on a national basis.

(g) SOUTHEASTERN PENNSYLVANIA DEFINED.—For purposes of this section, the term "Southeastern Pennsylvania" means Philadelphia, Bucks, Chester, Delaware, and Montgomery Counties, Pennsylvania.

(h) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—There is authorized to be appropriated to carry out this section $25,000,000 for fiscal years beginning after September 30, 1996. Such sums shall remain available until expended.

SEC. 569. WILLS CREEK, HYNDMAN, PENNSYLVANIA.

The Secretary shall carry out a project for flood control, Wills Creek, Borough of Hyndman, Pennsylvania, at an estimated total cost of $5,000,000. For purposes of section 209 of the Flood Control Act of 1970 (84 Stat. 1829), benefits attributable to the national economic development objectives set forth in such section shall include all primary, secondary, and tertiary benefits attributable to the flood control project authorized by this section regardless of to whom such benefits may accrue.

SEC. 570. BLACKSTONE RIVER VALLEY, RHODE ISLAND AND MASSACHUSETTS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary, in coordination with Federal, State, and local interests, shall provide technical, planning, and design assistance in the development and restoration of the Blackstone River Valley National Heritage Corridor, Rhode Island, and Massachusetts.

(b) FEDERAL SHARE.—Funds made available under this section for planning and design of a project may not exceed 75 percent of the total cost of such planning and design.

SEC. 571. EAST RIDGE, TENNESSEE.

The Secretary shall review the flood management study for the East Ridge and Hamilton County area undertaken by the Tennessee Valley Authority and shall carry out the project at an estimated total cost of $25,000,000.

SEC. 572. MURFREESBORO, TENNESSEE.

The Secretary shall carry out a project for environmental enhancement, Murfreesboro, Tennessee, in accordance with the Report and Environmental Assessment, Black Fox, Murfree and Oaklands Spring Wetlands, Murfreesboro, Ruthersford County, Tennessee, dated August 1994.

SEC. 573. BUFFALO BAYOU, TEXAS.

The non-Federal interest for the projects for flood control, Buffalo Bayou Basin, Texas, authorized by section 203 of the Flood Control Act of 1954 (68 Stat. 1258), and Buffalo Bayou and tributaries, Texas, authorized by section 101 of the Water Resources Development Act of 1990 (104 Stat. 4610), may be reimbursed by up to $5,000,000 or may receive a credit of up to $5,000,000 against required non-Federal project cost-sharing contributions for work performed by the non-Federal interest at each of the following locations if such work is compatible with the following authorized projects: White Oak Bayou, Brays Bayou, Hunting Bayou, Garners Bayou, and the Upper Reach on Greens Bayou.

SEC. 574. SAN ANTONIO RIVER, TEXAS.

Notwithstanding the last sentence of section 215(a) of the Flood Control Act of 1968 (42 U.S.C. 1962d-5(a)) and the agreement executed on November 7, 1992, by the Secretary and the San Antonio River Authority, Texas, the Secretary shall reimburse the San Antonio River Authority an amount not to exceed $5,000,000 for the work carried out by the Authority under the agreement, including any amounts paid to the Authority under the terms of the agreement before the date of the enactment of this Act.

SEC. 575. NEABSCO CREEK, VIRGINIA.

The Secretary shall carry out a project for flood control, Neabasco Creek Watershed, Prince William County, Virginia, at an estimated total cost of $1,500,000.

SEC. 576. TANGIER ISLAND, VIRGINIA.

The Secretary is directed to design and construct a breakwater at the North Channel on Tangier Island, Virginia, at a total cost of $1,200,000, with an estimated Federal cost of $900,000 and an estimated non-Federal cost of $300,000. Congress finds that in view of the historic preservation benefits resulting from the project authorized by this section, the overall benefits of the project exceed the costs of the project.

SEC. 577. HARRIS COUNTY, TEXAS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—During any evaluation of economic benefits and costs for projects set forth in subsection (b) that occurs after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary shall not consider flood control works constructed by non-Federal interests within the drainage area of such projects prior to the date of such evaluation in the determination of conditions existing prior to construction of the project.

(b) SPECIFIC PROJECTS.—The projects to which subsection (a) apply are—

(1) the project for flood control, Buffalo Bayou and Tributaries, Texas, authorized by section 101(a) of the Water Resources Development Act of 1990 (104 Stat. 4610);

(2) the project for flood control, Cypress Creek, Texas, authorized by section 3(a)(13) of the Water Resources Development Act of 1988 (102 Stat. 4014); and

(3) the project for flood control, Buffalo Bayou Basin, authorized by section 203 of the Flood Control Act of 1954 (68 Stat. 1258).

SEC. 578. PIERCE COUNTY, WASHINGTON.

(a) TECHNICAL ASSISTANCE.—The Secretary shall provide technical assistance to Pierce County, Washington, to address measures that are necessary to assure that non-Federal levees are adequately maintained and satisfy eligibility criteria for rehabilitation assistance under section 5 of the Act entitled "An Act authorizing the construction of certain public works on rivers and harbors for flood control, and for other purposes", approved August 18, 1941 (33 U.S.C. 701n; 55 Stat. 650). Such assistance shall include a review of the requirements of the Puyallup Tribe of Indians Settlement Act of 1989 (Public Law 101-41) and standards for project maintenance and vegetation management used by the Secretary to determine eligibility for levee rehabilitation assistance with a view toward amending such standards as needed to make non-Federal levees eligible for assistance that may be necessary as a result of future flooding.

(b) LEVEE REHABILITATION.—The Secretary shall expedite a review to determine the extent to which requirements of the Puyallup Tribe of Indians Settlement Act of 1989 limited the ability of non-Federal interests to adequately maintain existing non-Federal levees that were damaged by flooding in 1995 and 1996 and, to the extent that such ability was limited by such Act, the Secretary shall carry out the rehabilitation of such levees.

SEC. 579. WASHINGTON AQUEDUCT.

(a) REGIONAL ENTITY.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Congress encourages the non-Federal public water supply customers of the Washington Aqueduct to establish a non-Federal public or private entity, or to enter into an agreement with an existing non-Federal public or private entity, to receive title to the Washington Aqueduct and to operate, maintain, and manage the Washington Aqueduct in a manner that adequately represents all interests of such customers.

(2) CONSENT OF CONGRESS.—Congress grants consent to the jurisdictions which are customers of the Washington Aqueduct to establish a non-Federal entity to receive title to the Washington Aqueduct and to operate, maintain, and manage the Washington Aqueduct.

(3) LIMITATION ON STATUTORY CONSTRUCTION.—Nothing in this subsection shall preclude the jurisdictions referred to in this subsection from pursuing alternative options regarding ownership, operation, maintenance, and management of the Washington Aqueduct.

(b) PROGRESS REPORT AND PLAN.—Not later than 1 year after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary shall transmit to the Committee on Environment and Public Works of the Senate and the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure of the House of Representatives a report on the progress in achieving the objectives of subsection (a) and a plan for the transfer of ownership, operation, maintenance, and management of the Washington Aqueduct to a non-Federal public or private entity. Such plan shall include a transfer of ownership, operation, maintenance, and management of the Washington Aqueduct that is consistent with the provisions of this section and a detailed consideration of any proposal to transfer such ownership or operation, maintenance, or management to a private entity.

(c) TRANSFER.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Not later than 2 years after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary shall transfer, without consideration but subject to such terms and conditions as the Secretary considers appropriate to protect the interests of the United States and the non-Federal public water supply customers, all right, title, and interest of the United States in the Washington Aqueduct, its real property, facilities, equipment, supplies, and personality—

(A) to a non-Federal public or private entity established pursuant to subsection (a); or

(B) in the event no entity is established pursuant to subsection (a), a non-Federal public or private entity selected by the Secretary which reflects, to the extent possible, a consensus among the non-Federal public water supply customers.

(2) TRANSFEREE SELECTION CRITERIA.—The selection of a non-Federal public or private entity under paragraph (1)(B) shall be based on technical, managerial, and financial capabilities and on consultation with the non-Federal public water supply customers and after opportunity for public input.

(3) ASSUMPTION OF RESPONSIBILITIES.—The entity to whom transfer under paragraph (1) is made shall assume full responsibility for performing and financing the operation, maintenance, repair, replacement, rehabilitation, and necessary capital improvements of the Washington Aqueduct so as to ensure the continued operation of the Washington Aqueduct consistent with its intended purpose of providing an uninterrupted supply of potable water sufficient to meet the current and future needs of the Washington Aqueduct service area.

(4) EXTENSION.—Notwithstanding the 2-year deadline established in paragraph (1), the Secretary may provide a 1-time 6-month extension of such deadline if the Secretary determines that the non-Federal public water supply customers are making progress in establishing an entity pursuant to subsection (a) and that such an extension would likely result in the establishment of such an entity.

(d) INTERIM BORROWING AUTHORITY.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Subject to paragraph (2), there is authorized to be appropriated to the Secretary for fiscal years 1997 and 1998 borrowing authority in amounts sufficient to cover those obligations which the Army Corps of Engineers is required to incur in carrying out capital improvements during such fiscal years for the Washington Aqueduct to assure its continued operation until such time as the transfer under subsection (c) has taken place, provided that such amounts do not exceed $16,000,000 for fiscal year 1997 and $54,000,000 for fiscal year 1998.

(2) TERMS AND CONDITIONS.—The borrowing authority under paragraph (1) shall be provided to the Secretary by the Secretary of the Treasury under such terms and conditions as the Secretary of the Treasury determines to be necessary in the public interest and may be provided only after each of the non-Federal public water supply customers of the Washington Aqueduct has entered into a contractual agreement with the Secretary to pay its pro rata share of the costs associated with such borrowing.

(3) IMPACT ON IMPROVEMENT PROGRAM.—Not later than 6 months after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary, in consultation with other Federal agencies, shall transmit to the Committee on Environment and Public Works of the Senate and the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure of the House of Representatives a report that assesses the impact of the borrowing authority provided under this subsection on near-term improvement projects under the Washington Aqueduct Improvement Program, work scheduled during fiscal years 1997 and 1998, and the financial liability to be incurred.

(e) DEFINITIONS.—For purposes of this section, the following definitions apply:

(1) WASHINGTON AQUEDUCT.—The term "Washington Aqueduct" means the Washington Aqueduct facilities and related facilities owned by the Federal Government as of the date of the enactment of this Act, including the dams, intake works, conduits, and pump stations that capture and transport raw water from the Potomac River to the Dalecarlia Reservoir, the infrastructure and appurtenances used to treat water taken from the Potomac River by such facilities to potable standards, and related water distribution facilities.

(2) NON-FEDERAL PUBLIC WATER SUPPLY CUSTOMERS.—The term "non-Federal public water supply customers" means the District of Columbia, Arlington County, Virginia, and the city of Falls Church, Virginia.

SEC. 580. GREENBRIER RIVER BASIN, WEST VIRGINIA, FLOOD PROTECTION.

(a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary is directed to design and implement a flood damage reduction program for the Greenbrier River Basin, West Virginia, in the vicinity of Durbin, Cass, Marlinton, Renick, Ronceverte, and Alderson as generally presented in the District Engineer's draft Greenbrier River Basin Study Evaluation Report, dated July 1994, to the extent provided under subsection (b) to afford those communities a level of protection against flooding sufficient to reduce future losses to these communities from the likelihood of flooding such as occurred in November 1985, January 1996, and May 1996.

(b) FLOOD PROTECTION MEASURES.—The flood damage reduction program referred to in subsection (a) may include the following as the Chief of Engineers determines necessary and ad-visible in consultation with the communities referred to in subsection (a)—

(1) local protection projects such as levees, floodwalls, channelization, small tributary stream impoundments, and nonstructural measures such as individual flood proofing; and

(2) floodplain relocations and resettlement site developments, floodplain evacuations, and a comprehensive river corridor and watershed management plan generally in accordance with the District Engineer's draft Greenbrier River Corridor Management Plan, Concept Study, dated April 1996.

(c) CONSIDERATIONS.—For purposes of section 209 of the Flood Control Act of 1970 (84 Stat. 1829), benefits attributable to the national economic development objectives set forth therein shall include all primary, secondary, and tertiary benefits attributable to the flood damage reduction program authorized by this section regardless to whom they might accrue.

(d) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—There is authorized to be appropriated to carry out this section $20,000,000 for fiscal years beginning after September 30, 1996.

SEC. 581. HUNTINGTON, WEST VIRGINIA.

The Secretary may enter into a cooperative agreement with Marshall University, Huntington, West Virginia, to provide technical assistance to the Center for Environmental, Geotechnical and Applied Sciences.

SEC. 582. LOWER MUD RIVER, MILTON, WEST VIRGINIA.

The Secretary shall review the watershed plan and the environmental impact statement prepared for the Lower Mud River, Milton, West Virginia by the Natural Resources Conservation Service pursuant to the Watershed Protection and Flood Prevention Act (16 U.S.C. 1001 et seq.) and shall carry out the project.

SEC. 583. WEST VIRGINIA AND PENNSYLVANIA FLOOD CONTROL.

(a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall design and construct flood control measures in the Cheat and Tygart River Basins, West Virginia, and the Lower Allegheny, Lower Monongahela, West Branch Susquehanna, and Juanita River Basins, Pennsylvania, at a level of protection sufficient to prevent any future losses to these communities from flooding such as occurred in January 1996, but no less than 100 year level of protection.

(b) PRIORITY COMMUNITIES.—In implementing this section, the Secretary shall give priority to the communities of Parsons and Rowlesburg, West Virginia, in the Cheat River Basin and Bellington and Phillipi, West Virginia, in the Tygart River Basin, and Connellsville, Pennsylvania, in the Lower Monongahela River Basin, and Benson, Hooversville, Clymer, and New Bethlehem, Pennsylvania, in the Lower Allegheny River Basin, and Patton, Barnesboro, Coalport and Spangler, Pennsylvania, in the West Branch Susquehanna River Basin, and Bedford, Linds Crossings, and Logan Township in the Juniata River Basin.

(c) CONSIDERATIONS.—For purposes of section 209 of the Flood Control Act of 1970, benefits attributable to the national economic development objectives set forth in such section shall include all primary, secondary, and tertiary benefits attributable to the flood control measures authorized by this section regardless of to whom such benefits may accrue.

(d) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—There is authorized to be appropriated to carry out this section $20,000,000 for fiscal years beginning after September 30, 1996.

SEC. 584. EVALUATION OF BEACH MATERIAL.

(a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary and the Secretary of the Interior shall evaluate procedures and requirements used in the selection and approval of materials to be used in the restoration and nourishment of beaches. Such evaluation shall address the potential effects of changing existing procedures and requirements on the implementation of beach restoration and nourishment projects and on the aquatic environment.

(b) CONSULTATION.—In conducting the evaluation under this section, the Secretaries shall consult with appropriate State agencies.

(c) REPORT.—Not later than 6 months after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretaries shall transmit a report to Congress on their findings under this section.

SEC. 585. NATIONAL CENTER FOR NANOFABRICATION AND MOLECULAR SELF-ASSEMBLY.

(a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary is authorized to provide financial assistance for not to exceed 50 percent of the costs of the necessary fixed and movable equipment for a National Center for Nanofabrication and Molecular Self-Assembly to be located in Evanston, Illinois.

(b) TERMS AND CONDITIONS.—No financial assistance may be provided under this section unless an application is made to the Secretary at such time, in such manner, and containing or accompanied by such information as the Secretary may require.

(c) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—There is authorized to be appropriated to carry out this section $7,000,000 for fiscal years beginning after September 30, 1996.

SEC. 586. SENSE OF CONGRESS REGARDING ST. LAWRENCE SEAWAY TOLLS.

It is the sense of Congress that the President should engage in negotiations with the Government of Canada for the purposes of—

(1) eliminating tolls along the St. Lawrence Seaway system; and

(2) identifying ways to maximize the movement of goods and commerce through the St. Lawrence Seaway.

SEC. 587. PRADO DAM, CALIFORNIA.

(a) SEPARABLE ELEMENT REVIEW.—

(1) REVIEW.—Not later than 6 months after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary shall review, in cooperation with the non-Federal interest, the Prado Dam feature of the project for flood control, Santa Ana River Mainstem, California, authorized by section 401(a) of the Water Resources Development Act of 1986 (100 Stat. 4113), with a view toward determining whether the feature may be considered a separable element, as that term is defined in section 103(f) of such Act.

(2) MODIFICATION OF COST-SHARING REQUIREMENT.—If the Prado Dam feature is determined to be a separable element under paragraph (1), the Secretary shall reduce the non-Federal cost-sharing requirement for such feature in accordance with section 103(a)(3) of the Water Resources Development Act of 1986 (33 U.S.C. 2213(a)(3)) and shall enter into a project cooperation agreement with the non-Federal interest to reflect the modified cost-sharing requirement and to carry out construction.

(b) DAM SAFETY ADJUSTMENT.—Not later than 6 months after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary shall determine the estimated costs associated with dam safety improvements that would have been required in the absence of flood control improvements authorized for the Santa Ana River Mainstem project referred to in subsection (a) and shall reduce the non-Federal share for the Prado Dam feature of such project by an amount equal to the Federal share of such dam safety improvements, updated to current price levels.

SEC. 588. MORGANZA, LOUISIANA TO THE GULF OF MEXICO.

(1) STUDY.—The Secretary shall conduct a study of the environmental, flood control and navigational impacts associated with the construction of a lock structure in the Houma Navigation Canal as an independent feature of the overall flood damage prevention study currently being conducted under the Morganza, Louisiana to the Gulf of Mexico feasibility study. In preparing such study, the Secretary shall consult the South Terrebonne Tidewater Management and Conservation District and consider the District's Preliminary Design Document, dated February, 1994. Further, the Secretary shall evaluate the findings of the Coastal Wetlands Planning, Protection and Restoration Federal Task Force, as authorized by Public Law 101-646, relating to the lock structure.

(2) REPORT.—The Secretary shall transmit to Congress a report on the results of the study conducted under paragraph (1), together with recommendations on immediate implementation not later than 6 months after the enactment of this Act.

TITLE VI—EXTENSION OF EXPENDITURE AUTHORITY UNDER HARBOR MAINTENANCE TRUST FUND

SEC. 601. EXTENSION OF EXPENDITURE AUTHORITY UNDER HARBOR MAINTENANCE TRUST FUND.

Paragraph (1) of section 9505(c) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 (relating to expenditures from Harbor Maintenance Trust Fund) is amended to read as follows:

“(1) to carry out section 210 of the Water Resources Development Act of 1986 (as in effect on the date of the enactment of the Water Resources Development Act of 1996).”

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate disagree to the amendment of the House and request a conference with the House on the disagreeing vote and the Chair be authorized to appoint conferees on the part of the Senate.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. SMITH) appointed Mr. CHAFEE, Mr. WARNER, Mr. SMITH, Mr. BAUCUS, and Mr. MOYNIHAN conferees on the part of the Senate.

CLARIFYING THE DESIGNATION OF NORMAL TRADE RELATIONS

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent the Finance Committee be discharged from further consideration of S. 1918, and further that the Senate proceed to its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

A bill (S. 1918) to amend trade laws and related provisions to clarify the designation of normal trade relations.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection to the immediate consideration of the bill?

There being no objection, the Senate proceeded to consider the bill.

Mr. MOYNIHAN. Mr. President, I rise in strong support of S. 1918, legislation aimed at bringing a modicum of clarity to our trade laws. This bill, cosponsored by all 20 members of the Senate Committee on Finance, would replace the term “most-favored-nation” with a more direct, more accurate, less muddled phrase to describe the basis of our trade policy.

Since the 18th century, American trade policy has been one of non-discrimination: the vast majority of our trading partners receive treatment equal to all others. Not most-favored treatment, but normal treatment. And hence, we propose the term “normal trade relations” in the hopes that it will lessen the confusion when we discuss trade matters.

At the root of the problem is that we continue to use a term that first appeared at the end of the 17th century—“most-favored-nation”—in our treaties and agreements, in our trade laws and executive orders, a term that, even then, was a misnomer.

There is, Mr. President, no single most favored nation. As noted in a 1919 report to the Congress by the United States Tariff Commission (known today as the U.S. International Trade Commission):

It is neither the purpose nor the effect of the most-favored-nation clause to establish a “most favored nation;” on the contrary its use implies the intention that the maximum of advantages which either of the parties to a treaty has extended or shall extend to any third State—for the moment the “most-favored”—shall be given or be made accessible to the other party.”

That is, the most favored nation is not the nation with which we are negotiating, but rather a third nation altogether that happens to benefit from the lowest tariffs or smallest trade barriers with respect to some particular product. The most-favored-nation principle means merely that we will grant to the country with which we are negotiating the same terms that we give to that third country, for the moment the most favored.

Little wonder, then, that the term, though used for more than two centuries, has increasingly caused public confusion. And yet we must have a term to describe our normal trade relations for the simple reason that there is still in law a very unfavorable tariff—that is, the Smoot-Hawley Tariff Act of 1930, the last tariff schedule enacted line-by-line by the Congress, producing the highest tariff rates, overall, in our history.

In response to the disaster that followed, the Roosevelt administration negotiated a series of trade agreements—agreements with individual countries as well as multilateral agreements negotiated under the auspices of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade. These agreements brought down our tariffs, as they brought down tariffs worldwide.

These are the tariffs that we call our most-favored-nation tariff rates, which, in fact, apply to the vast majority of our trading partners. They are thus the norm, and not in any way more favorable than the tariffs that apply to nearly all other countries.

Nor are they, in fact, the lowest tariff rates the United States applies. We have free trade arrangements with Canada, Israel, and Mexico. We grant other tariff preferences to developing countries under the Generalized System of Preferences, to Caribbean nations under the Caribbean Basin Initiative and to Andean countries under the Andean Trade Preferences Act. The tariff rates under all of these regimes are lower than the most-favored-nation rates referred to in our laws and treaties. Hence the confusion, and hence the need to change the terminology to clarify that our most-favored-nation tariff rates represent, in fact, our normal trade relations.

Mr. President, this legislation in no way intends to alter our fundamental international obligations. The term "most-favored-nation" has a long history of application and interpretation, and that will stand. This legislation is not intended as a substantive change in our trade policy. Rather, it is intended only as a change in nomenclature with the sole purpose of making our trade policy more comprehensible.

Mr. President, it is rare that legislation before the Senate has the cosponsorship of the entire membership of the committee of jurisdiction. That is the case with S. 1918, which strikes a bipartisan blow for clarity in our trade laws.

Mr. SHELBY. I ask unanimous consent the bill be deemed read a third time, passed, the motion to reconsider be laid upon the table, and that any statements relating to the bill be placed at the appropriate place in the RECORD.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The bill (S. 1918) was deemed read for a third time and passed, as follows:

S. 1918

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. FINDINGS AND POLICY.

(a) FINDINGS.—The Congress makes the following findings:

(1) Since the 18th century, the principle of nondiscrimination among countries with which the United States has trade relations, commonly referred to as "most-favored-nation" treatment, has been a cornerstone of United States trade policy.

(2) Although the principle remains firmly in place as a fundamental concept in United States trade relations, the term "most-favored-nation" is a misnomer which has led to public misunderstanding.

(3) It is neither the purpose nor the effect of the most-favored-nation principle to treat any country as "most favored". To the contrary, the principle reflects the intention to confer on a country the same trade benefits that are conferred on any other country, that is, the intention not to discriminate among trading partners.

(4) The term "normal trade relations" is a more accurate description of the principle of nondiscrimination as it applies to the tariffs applicable generally to imports from United States trading partners, that is, the general rates of duty set forth in column 1 of the Harmonized Tariff Schedule of the United States.

(b) POLICY.—It is the sense of the Congress that—

(1) the language used in the United States laws, treaties, agreements, executive orders, directives, and regulations should more clearly and accurately reflect the underlying principles of United States trade policy; and

(2) accordingly, the term "normal trade relations" should, where appropriate, be substituted for the term "most-favored-nation".

SEC 2. CHANGE IN TERMINOLOGY.

(a) TRADE EXPANSION ACT OF 1962.—The heading for section 251 of the Trade Expansion Act of 1962 (19 U.S.C. 1881) is amended to read as follows: "NORMAL TRADE RELATIONS".

(b) TRADE ACT OF 1974.—(1) Section 402 of the Trade Act of 1974 (19 U.S.C. 2432) is amended by striking "(most-favored-nation treatment)" each place it appears and inserting "(normal trade relations)".

(2) Section 601(9) of the Trade Act of 1974 (19 U.S.C. 2481(9)) is amended by striking "most-favored-nation treatment" and inserting "trade treatment based on normal trade relations (known under international law as most-favored-nation treatment)".

(c) CFTA.—Section 302(a)(3)(C) of the United States Canada Free-Trade Agreement Implementation Act of 1988 (19 U.S.C. 2112 note) is amended by striking "the most-favored-nation rate of duty" each place it appears and inserting "the general subcolumn of the column 1 rate of duty set forth in the Harmonized Tariff Schedule of the United States".

(d) NAFTA.—Section 202(n) of the North American Free Trade Agreement Implementation Act (19 U.S.C. 3332(n)) is amended by striking "most-favored-nation".

(e) SEED ACT.—Section 2(c)(11) of the Support for East European Democracy (SEED) Act of 1989 (22 U.S.C. 5401 (c)(11)) is amended—

(1) by striking "(commonly referred to as 'most favored nation status')", and

(2) by striking "MOST FAVORED NATION TRADE STATUS" in the heading and inserting "NORMAL TRADE RELATIONS".

(f) UNITED STATES-HONG KONG POLICY ACT OF 1992.—Section 103(4) of the United States-Hong Kong Policy Act of 1992 (22 U.S.C. 5713(4)) is amended by striking "(commonly referred to as most-favored-nation status)".

SEC. 3. SAVINGS PROVISIONS

Nothing in this Act shall affect the meaning of any provision of law, Executive order, Presidential proclamation, rule, regulation, delegation of authority, other document, or treaty or other international agreement of the United States relating to the principle of "most-favored-nation" (or "most favored nation") treatment. Any Executive order, Presidential proclamation, rule, regulation, delegation of authority, other document, or treaty or other international agreement of the United States that has been issued, made, granted, or allowed to become effective and that is in effect on the effective date of this Act, or was to become effective on or after the effective date of this Act, shall continue in effect according to its terms until modified, terminated, superseded, set aside, or revoked in accordance with law.

G.V. (SONNY) MONTGOMERY DEPARTMENT OF VETERANS AFFAIRS MEDICAL CENTER

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Veterans' Affairs Committee be discharged from further consideration of S. 1669, and the Senate proceed to its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

A bill (S. 1669) to name the Department of Veterans Affairs medical center in Jackson, Mississippi, as the "G. V. (Sonny) Montgomery Department of Veterans Affairs Medical Center."

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection to the immediate consideration of the bill?

There being no objection, the Senate proceeded to consider the bill.

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, I am privileged to have introduced S. 1669, along with Senator THAD COCHRAN, to name the VA medical center in Jackson, MS, in honor of our friend and colleague, Representative SONNY MONTGOMERY. A companion bill, H.R. 3253, was introduced by Representative MIKE PARKER, and it has already passed the House.

As many of you know, Congressman MONTGOMERY is retiring at the end of his current term after 30 illustrious years in the House. He has had a distinguished career and served under seven Presidents. "Mr. Veteran," as many of us have affectionately called SONNY, led efforts to obtain Cabinet-level status for the Department of Veterans Affairs. He introduced and guided to passage a peacetime GI education bill which provides incentives for both recruitment and retention of qualified young men and women for the Armed Forces. This landmark legislation bears his name as the Montgomery GI bill.

Congressman MONTGOMERY has strongly championed the State Veterans Affairs nursing homes. He has done yeoman's service for veterans as chairman of the Veterans' Affairs Committee and as a distinguished member of the House National Security Committee. Veterans throughout the Nation have benefited greatly from the outstanding resources provided by VA facilities established and improved under SONNY's watch. In particular, veterans from Mississippi, and neighboring States, are well served by the Veterans Benefits Administration Southern Area Office, the VA Regional Office, and two VA medical centers made possible by the chairman's able hand.

The VA medical center in Jackson definitely needs an official name. Others have distinguished names such as the Sam Rayburn VA, the Jerry Pettis VA, and the James Haley Veterans Hospital. Unquestionably, Representative SONNY MONTGOMERY, Congress' "Mr. Veteran," truly is well-deserving of having the Jackson VA Medical Center named in his honor.

It is very appropriate that this legislation comes before us now because of several events that are occurring to pay tribute to SONNY. Representative MONTGOMERY is being honored this week by his colleagues on the House Veterans' Affairs Committee for his dedicated service. Also, Mississippi State University, the chairman's alma mater, is hosting a benefit dinner for him. Proceeds from this benefit will establish the Sonny Montgomery Scholars Program at MSU. Furthermore, House colleagues have made arrangements to plant a magnolia tree on the southeast corner of the Capitol Grounds as a living testimony of SONNY's many years of service and outstanding achievements.

Mr. President, SONNY is one of the most outstanding, revered, and beloved Members of Congress. Veterans' Affairs Committee Chairman ALAN SIMPSON is a cosponsor of S. 1669, and strongly supports this measure. I urge my colleagues to join with me in this fitting tribute to our friend and colleague, Representative G.V. (SONNY) MONTGOMERY.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to have printed in the RECORD a "Dear Colleague" letter dated May 9, 1996.

There being no objection, the letter was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

U.S. SENATE,
RUSSELL SENATE OFFICE BUILDING,
Washington, DC, May 9, 1996.

DEAR COLLEAGUE: I am privileged to have recently introduced S. 1669, along with Sen. Thad Cochran, to name the Department of Veterans Affairs Medical Center in Jackson, MS, in honor of our friend and colleague, Rep. G. V. (Sonny) Montgomery. A companion bill has been introduced in the House.

As many of you know, Congressman Montgomery is retiring at the end of his current term after 30 illustrious years in the House. He has had a distinguished career and served under seven presidents. "Mr. Veteran", as many of us have affectionately called Sonny, lead efforts to obtain cabinet level status for the VA. He introduced and guided to passage a peacetime G.I. education bill which provides incentives for both recruitment and retention of qualified young men and women for the armed forces. This landmark legislation bears his name as the Montgomery G.I. Bill.

Additionally, Congressman Montgomery has strongly supported veterans programs such as the State Veterans Affairs Nursing Homes. He has done yeoman's service for veterans as chairman of the Veterans Affairs Committee and as a distinguished member of the House National Security Committee. Veterans throughout the Nation have benefited greatly from the outstanding resources provided by VA facilities established and improved under Sonny's watch. In particular, veterans from Mississippi, and neighboring states, are well served by the Veterans Benefits Administration Southern Area Office, the VA Regional Office, and two VA Medical Centers made possible by the chairman's able hand.

The VA Medical Center in Jackson needs an official name. Others have distinguished names such as the Sam Rayburn VA, the Jerry Pettis VA, and the James Haley Veterans Hospital. Rep. Sonny Montgomery, Congress' "Mr. Veteran" truly is well-deserving of having the Jackson VA Medical Center named in his honor.

I would appreciate your joining me in support of S. 1669. Please call Ney Williams of my staff at 224-4553 to cosponsor. Thank you for your consideration, and with kind regards, I am

Sincerely yours,

TRENT LOTT.

Mr. COCHRAN. Mr. President, I am pleased to join my colleague in honoring our friend, the gentleman from Mississippi, SONNY MONTGOMERY, who is retiring from the House of Representatives at the end of this Congress. We have joined in sponsoring this bill to name the VA medical center in Jackson, MS, the G.V. (Sonny) Montgomery Department of Veterans Affairs Medical Center. Throughout his career, as a senior member of the House National Security Committee and as chairman of the Veterans' Affairs Committee, SONNY has demonstrated genuine concern for the health, education, and well-being of our Nation's veterans. He firmly believes that we should treat veterans with dignity and compassion, and he has worked hard as chairman of the Veterans' Affairs Committee to enact programs and provide facilities to meet that obligation.

SONNY's concern for and attention to the men and women of our Armed Forces is firmly rooted in his own experiences, having served in the Army and Army National Guard for a total of 38 years. SONNY served in World War II and during the Korean War. As a dedicated member of the Mississippi Army National Guard, he was promoted to the rank of major general before his retirement in 1981.

SONNY's political career began as a member of the Mississippi State Senate from Lauderdale County. He served with distinction for 10 years, from 1956-1966. In 1966, he ran for and won the seat in Congress from the Third District of Mississippi. SONNY has proven to be a very capable, productive, and popular Representative. He was overwhelmingly reelected each term since the 90th Congress.

During that 30-year period of service he has earned the reputation of a champion of national defense and veterans' issues, and he often is referred to by his colleagues as "Mr. Veteran" or "Mr. National Guard."

When SONNY was elected to Congress in 1966, American soldiers were fighting in the war in Vietnam. He demonstrated his concern for those who were involved in that dangerous and deadly region by spending Christmas each year in Vietnam with the soldiers.

On these trips, SONNY would carry blank cards with him and when he ran into young soldiers from Mississippi, he would ask them to write the names and addresses of their families on these cards. When SONNY returned home he would take the time to call each soldier's family to let them know that he had seen their son or daughter and relay any stories or news that might interest them. Today, people still thank SONNY for these phone calls.

In 1975 he was appointed chairman of the House Select Committee on Missing Persons in Southeast Asia. In 1977, President Carter named him to the Woodstock Commission, which traveled to Hanoi to investigate further, those Americans missing in action. More recently, SONNY was a member of the delegation that brought back the first returned remains of United States personnel missing in North Korea during the Korean war.

SONNY MONTGOMERY stands as an example of a true patriot, and for this he has been recognized by his colleagues many times. In 1984, the Speaker of the House asked that he lead the House contingent to the commemoration of the 40th Anniversary of the D-day Invasion at Normandy, a particularly appropriate designation because SONNY fought in the European theater during this war. In 1988, when the reciting of the Pledge of Allegiance was instituted as daily practice by the House of Representatives, SONNY was asked by the Speaker to be the first Member to lead this body in the Pledge.

Throughout our time together as members of our State's congressional delegation, I have had the opportunity to observe SONNY in many situations. A most recent instance was during the last round of base closure and realignment. Two of the bases in his district were considered for closure, one of which had been on the closure list in two previous rounds. SONNY was most persuasive and successful in convincing the Base Closure Commission that Naval Air Station Meridian and Columbus Air Force Base are essential to the pilot training in both of those services. SONNY was willing to do everything he could to keep these bases open. Today, these bases remain open, largely due to the efforts of SONNY MONTGOMERY.

As a senior member of the House Armed Services Committee, now named the National Security Committee, SONNY MONTGOMERY has been a tremendous influence on our national defense policy. He has consistently supported the maintenance of a strong force.

SONNY was one of seven Democrats who in early 1994 paid a visit to President Clinton to insist on increased defense spending by his administration, particularly in the area of military pay, and to urge him to reduce non-defense spending by the Department of Defense. SONNY has always considered the protection of our freedom to be the highest priority of our Government, and he has done his best to ensure our national security.

Because of SONNY MONTGOMERY, the National Guard and Reserves are different services than they were 25 years ago. As a member of the Mississippi Army National Guard SONNY saw untapped potential in the Guard and Reserve forces, and as a senior member of the National Security Committee, he has strengthened our reserve component forces in significant ways. Over and over again, SONNY insisted that in order for the Guard and Reserves to be truly ready reserve forces, they must have first-line equipment, top facilities, and more serious training. As we saw in the gulf war, our Guard and Reserves have now been transformed into an essential component of our total forces. In addition, SONNY has always emphasized the need to keep the missions of each Guard unit relevant.

Recently, SONNY negotiated with officials at the Pentagon in order to reassign the duties of a National Guard battalion in east Mississippi, which might have been considered for closure. Instead, this battalion will be the first Guard unit in the Nation to be equipped with and train on the high-technology Avenger air defense system, a key weapon in Operations Desert Shield and Desert Storm. Our active forces will be better supported by contributions from National Guard units in the future because of SONNY MONTGOMERY.

Another high priority for him has been the recruitment and retention of soldiers; and out of this concern came the GI bill which bears his name. SONNY considers this legislation to be his greatest accomplishment. Under the Montgomery GI bill, active duty, National Guard, and Reserve personnel are entitled to educational assistance benefits which would enable them to pursue their educational goals while serving our country. Since being passed into law in 1985, approximately 2 million military personnel have participated in the program, and over 550,000 have already attended schools with its assistance. The Montgomery GI bill has significantly improved recruiting efforts for all of the services, and it has provided much-needed training to veterans and retirees preparing to enter the work force.

In addition to protecting our national security, SONNY has consistently sought proper recognition and benefits for veterans. In the 100th Congress, SONNY fought to have the Secretary of Veterans Affairs elevated to a Cabinet-level position. When SONNY saw a need to improve the review of veterans' claims, he sponsored a bill to establish the Court of Veterans' Appeals in order to ensure the complete judicial review of each claim. Within a month, this bill was signed into law, and right away veterans saw needed changes in the claims process. Also, he has worked to streamline the services offered at regional service centers and hospitals, aiming toward providing, in effect, one-stop shopping for our veterans.

During the last Congress, SONNY authored legislation to extend compensation to our most recent veterans, those who fought in the Persian Gulf war. The Veterans' Persian Gulf War Benefits Act, now law, requires the VA to give priority to veterans suffering from undiagnosed illnesses after their service in the Persian Gulf region. The bill also established new research and outreach programs to further the identification of this disease. This legislation is just another demonstration of his belief that we have a moral obligation to care for and compensate those who have suffered disabling injuries during their service to our country.

While in the Army and for his efforts in service to military personnel and veterans of our country, SONNY has received many awards, including the Legion of Merit, Meritorious Service Medal, Combat Infantry Badge, Army Commendation Medal, a Bronze Star for Valor, and Mississippi Magnolia Cross Award, and the Harry S. Truman Award, which is the highest award given by the National Guard Association of the United States. In addition, he has been recognized by the American Red Cross, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Reserve Officers Association of the United States, and AMVETS of World War II. He is past president of the Mississippi National Guard Association, and he remains an active member of the American Legion and VFW Post 79 in Meridian, MS. Veterans' organizations across the country are saddened to see SONNY retire.

Above all of SONNY's legislative accomplishments, he must be recognized and appreciated for his patience, congeniality, and compassion. Having maintained so many friendships in both parties, SONNY has often been called to be a mediator. He has been on good terms with Republican and Democrat leaders in Congress and Presidents of both parties throughout four decades, and his friendship with former President Bush goes back to their days as freshmen in the House. His peers regard him as a respected friend, who is wholly dedicated to his purpose in office. A small example of his loyalty is evidenced by the number of hours he has logged in the Speaker's chair, a duty many consider drudgery, but something that SONNY has viewed as an opportunity to serve his fellow Members.

I will miss his good counsel and true friendship. Mississippi's Third District and the entire Nation will miss his strong leadership and clear vision. Members like SONNY are rare, and his leaving signals the end of an era for southern Democrats, and the House of Representatives as well.

I am pleased to join my colleague, Senator LOTT, in offering S. 1669, a bill to name the Department of Veterans Affairs Medical Center in Jackson, MS, for SONNY MONTGOMERY, and I urge all of my colleagues to support the renaming of this facility.

Mr. SIMPSON. Mr. President, in reflecting on my own lifetime of public service, I can think of no one whose sincere dedication to veterans, combined with the ability to transform that dedication into a concrete reality, exceeds that of my old and dear friend G.V. "SONNY" MONTGOMERY.

We all know why the Montgomery GI bill carries SONNY MONTGOMERY's name. It's not just an honor, it is a clear depiction of reality. What some Members of this body may not realize is that SONNY MONTGOMERY's interests and everlasting impact extend far beyond the veterans' education benefit that carries his name.

There is no path down which a veteran may travel that hasn't been scouted first and smoothed and improved by the Congressman from Mississippi, SONNY MONTGOMERY.

There is no benefit provided to our veterans by a grateful nation that does not bear the imprint of the longtime chairman, and now ranking minority member, of the House Committee on Veterans' Affairs, SONNY MONTGOMERY.

The rules of the Senate Committee on Veterans' Affairs limit proposals to name VA facilities to the names of individuals who are deceased. As we consider the measure before us today, some may wonder what has occurred to amend that standard.

If such a person were to exist, I could assume that they do not know the stirring 30-year record of service and legislation written by SONNY MONTGOMERY. If such a question is raised, I will only say to the inquirer that exceptional service calls for exceptional action and that such an action also calls for an exception to the rule. This is such a time. A rule that would prohibit application of the name G.V. SONNY MONTGOMERY to the VA Medical Center in Jackson, MS, is a rule begging to be temporarily laid aside—in sheer gratitude from us all.

In fact, SONNY MONTGOMERY is the dominant presence in the world of veterans' affairs and the genial and generous shadow he casts extends far beyond the boundaries of the State of Mississippi. An honor limited only to his native State of Mississippi is an honor quite inadequate to describe his full legacy.

In reflecting on the full and honest career and commitment of the senior Congressman from Mississippi, I conclude that if honors truly reflected accomplishment, we would likely have to name the whole shooting match of the Department of Veterans Affairs after SONNY MONTGOMERY.

When SONNY MONTGOMERY leaves us in the Congress and returns to his beloved home as a private citizen he will leave behind an unmatched legacy of unselfish commitment and service. He will leave behind shoes that it would take a giant to fill. The only way that veterans may not benefit in the future from the career of SONNY MONTGOMERY will be if the height of the bar he set is up there so high that those who follow him may be discouraged by the fact that it will be so difficult to equal, much less exceed, his remarkable record. SONNY MONTGOMERY will serve as an example to generations of all legislators to come. I am so very proud to join in supporting legislation to recognize an example, and a career, and a wonderful, never tiring, ever focused, lovely, kind, incomparable man, by ensuring that the VA Medical Center in Jackson, MS, will forever carry the name that his actions have made synonymous with love of veterans: G.V. SONNY MONTGOMERY.

I love him. He has saved my skin a time or two. He is my true friend. God bless him.

I thank the Chair.

Mr. SHELBY. I ask unanimous consent the bill be deemed read a third time and passed, the motion to reconsider be laid upon the table, and that any statements relating to the bill appear at this point in the RECORD.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The bill (S. 1669) was deemed read for a third time and passed, as follows:

S. 1669

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. NAME OF DEPARTMENT OF VETERANS AFFAIRS MEDICAL CENTER, JACKSON, MISSISSIPPI.

(a) NAME.—The Department of Veterans Affairs medical center in Jackson, Mississippi, shall be known and designated as the "G.V. (Sonny) Montgomery Department of Veterans Affairs Medical Center". Any reference to such medical center in any law, regulation, map, document, record, or other paper of the United States shall be considered to be a reference to the G.V. (Sonny) Montgomery Department of Veterans Affairs Medical Center.

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—Subsection (a) shall take effect at noon on January 3, 1997.

ORDERS FOR WEDNESDAY,
SEPTEMBER 11, 1996

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that when the Senate completes its business today, it stand in adjournment until the hour of 11 a.m. on Wednesday, September 11; further, that immediately following the prayer, the Journal of proceedings be deemed approved to date, the morning hour be deemed to have expired, and the time for the two leaders be reserved for their use later in the day, and the Senate immediately resume H.R. 3756, the Treasury-Postal appropriations bill.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

SCHEDULE

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, tomorrow morning the Senate will be resuming the Treasury-Postal appropriations bill. We hope to complete action on that bill during tomorrow's session. Therefore, Senators can anticipate votes throughout the day and a possible late-night session may be necessary.

Also, as a reminder to all Senators, tomorrow at 10 a.m. there will be a joint meeting of Congress to hear an address by Prime Minister Bruton, of Ireland. Members are asked to be in the Senate Chamber at 9:40 a.m., so they may proceed to the House of Representatives for the address.

ADJOURNMENT UNTIL 11 A.M.
TOMORROW

Mr. SHELBY. If there is no further business to come before the Senate, I ask unanimous consent the Senate now stand in adjournment under the previous order.

There being no objection, the Senate, at 7:21 p.m., adjourned until Wednesday, September 11, 1996, at 11 a.m.

EXTENSIONS OF REMARKS

THE 1-YEAR ANNIVERSARY OF THE KIDNAPING OF JASWANT SINGH KHALRA

HON. RANDY "DUKE" CUNNINGHAM

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, September 10, 1996

Mr. CUNNINGHAM. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to draw attention to the 1-year anniversary of the kidnaping of Jaswant Singh Khalra. As we observe the anniversary of that event, which occurred at 9:15 a.m. on September 6, 1995, we must draw attention that Mr. Khalra remains in custody and his whereabouts unknown.

As Secretary of Human Rights Wing (Shiromani Akali Dal), Mr. Khalra had published a report showing that the Punjab police have arrested more than 25,000 young Sikh men, tortured and murdered them, and declared their cremated bodies unidentified. After this report was made published, Mr. Khalra was told by the Armitisar district police chief, "We have made 25,000 disappear. It would be easy to make one more disappear."

More recently, an article in the August 14-20 issue of World Sikh News quotes Ajit Sandhu, the district police chief implicated in the kidnaping of Mr. Khalra, as saying that "I am proud of what I did. I did it for the nation. I did no wrong." Mr. Sandhu has labeled the charges of mass cremations a bundle of lies despite the Central Bureau of Investigations admission to the Indian Supreme Court that its preliminary investigation had turned up evidence that nearly 1,000 young Sikhs had been cremated as Mr. Khalra's report described. This preliminary investigation is ongoing, and human rights activists in Punjab, Khalistan, say that the number may be as high as 30,000 or more.

Mr. Khalra was exercising his fundamental right to speak out and expose atrocities committed by this government. As long as Mr. Khalra remains in detention, how can anyone in India feel secure exercising his or her democratic liberties? I ask my colleagues to recognize the continued human rights abuses by India and work to reduce aid to India until it protects the democratic rights of its people.

IT'S NOT OUR FAULT IF WE ASK DOCTORS TO KILL PEOPLE

HON. FORTNEY PETE STARK

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, September 10, 1996

Mr. STARK. Mr. Speaker, the Association of Managed Healthcare Organizations has sent Members of Congress a letter opposing the anti-gag rule legislation proposed by our colleagues GANSKE and MARKEY. They say, in short, "it's not managed care companies' fault if they ask doctors to kill people." To be precise, the lobby group says:

AMHO suggests that, if a physician believes that the terms of a contract force him to practice medicine in a manner he finds less than responsible or ethical, he should not sign such a contract.

It is exactly such thoughts that are fueling the national anger and backlash against managed care. Their letter could be nominated for the Marie Antoinette "let them eat cake" memorial quote.

As managed care grows to become the dominant form of care in more and more communities, doctors cannot survive financially without signing up with a number of plans. Some doctors will have the courage and independence not to sign bad contracts, but doctors are human and to feed their families, most of them will sign. The Congress, as representatives of the public interest, has the duty to protect the public against Godfather plans presenting doctors with offers they can't refuse.

A TRIBUTE TO STICKNEY TOWNSHIP ON ITS 95TH ANNIVERSARY

HON. WILLIAM O. LIPINSKI

OF ILLINOIS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, September 10, 1996

Mr. LIPINSKI. Mr. Speaker, I would like to congratulate Stickney Township, located in the Third Congressional District, on its 95th anniversary this year.

The township was formed in 1901 when railroad pioneer Alpheus Stickney and a group of residents met at what is now the southwest corner of Midway Airport in Chicago and decided to break away from Lyons Township. Mr. Stickney envisioned the area as great freight transfer and rail clearing yard. The new township drained swamps, built roads, bridges, sewers, and provided schools to attract new residents and business and industry.

During the 1930's, the township assumed care for the poor and homeless and inaugurated a health care program that has brought the township national recognition. Stickney Township was among the first municipalities to offer free cholesterol screening for residents and mammograms for women as well as mental health counseling, dental care for children and the elderly, immunizations, home care for the aged, and a host of other vital health care services.

These programs and others earned Stickney Township the Governor's Hometown Award for Senior Achievement in 1990 and Illinois township of the Year honors in 1992.

As Township Supervisor Louis Viverito said in observing the 95th anniversary, "Stickney Township has a proud heritage, and I think the record will show that we are doing out part to continue and embellish that tradition. At a time when some people are questioning the worth of township government, we are proving that by changing with the times and meeting today's needs, we can provide grassroots services at a very low cost to the taxpayers."

Mr. Speaker, I congratulate Supervisor Viverito, his predecessors, and all those who have made Stickney Township a great place to live and work on its 95th anniversary.

TRIBUTE TO JEANNE O. BUSSE

HON. DAVID E. BONIOR

OF MICHIGAN

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, September 10, 1996

Mr. BONIOR. Mr. Speaker, the March of Dimes is an organization with a noble mission: to fight birth defects and childhood diseases. We all share the March of Dimes dream which is that every child should have the opportunity to live a healthy life.

For the past 13 years, the Southeast Michigan Chapter of the March of Dimes Birth Defects Foundation has honored several Macomb County residents who are outstanding members of our community and have helped in the campaign for healthier babies. On the evening of Wednesday, September 25, 1996, the chapter will be hosting the 13th annual Alexander Macomb Citizen of the Year Award dinner. The award, instituted in 1984, is named after my home county's namesake, Gen. Alexander Macomb, a hero of the War of 1812.

This year, the March of Dimes has chosen Jeanne O. Busse as a recipient of the award. Jeanne is a model for volunteerism and has dedicated time and effort to people in her community in diverse ways. Over the years she has been involved with the Girl Scouts and the Boy Scouts serving as a den mother and on the board of directors. She has been active as a school board member and served as the president of the Macomb County School Board Association. She has never been afraid to take on more civic responsibility and, beyond that, Jeanne has always found time to participate in her church and religious functions. Throughout all of her work, she has kept in mind the value of children to society.

Dr. Jonas Salk's polio vaccine is just one of the more famous breakthroughs that would not have been possible without March of Dimes research funding. Without people like Jeanne Busse the job of protecting babies would be that much more difficult.

I applaud the Southeast Michigan Chapter of the March of Dimes and Jeanne Busse for their leadership, advocacy, and community service. I know that Jeanne Busse is honored by the recognition and I urge my colleagues to join me in saluting her as a 1996 recipient of the Alexander Macomb Citizen of the Year Award.

THE NATIONAL WOMEN'S POLITICAL CAUCUS SILVER ANNIVERSARY

HON. CONSTANCE A. MORELLA

OF MARYLAND

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, September 10, 1996

Mrs. MORELLA. Mr. Speaker, I rise in honor of the National Women's Political Caucus [NWPC] on the occasion of its 25th anniversary.

The National Women's Political Caucus is a grassroots organization committed to increasing the number of women holding elected and appointed office in the U.S. Government. Since its founding in 1971, NWPC has supported the efforts of women seeking political office, regardless of party affiliation.

Thanks in part to NWPC's multifaceted agenda of support for women seeking political office, our Nation has benefited from a continued increase in women's political participation. Over the past 25 years, America has seen the number of women in State legislatures jump from 362 to 1,536 and the number of women in Congress grow from 15 to 58.

NWPC is instrumental to women seeking political office and to women facing the challenges of holding office once elected. Many women get their start in politics through their involvement in local chapters of the caucus across the country. NWPC's educational programs, campaign training, and grassroots opportunities are invaluable for women candidates as they rise up through the ranks of the political world.

The NWPC helps women gain elected and appointed office by holding campaign workshops, providing campaign support, and encouraging the appointment of women to policy-making posts. The caucus also conducts research on women as candidates, using the results of these studies to increase the number of winning women candidates. For women in office, the caucus provides networking opportunities and forums for discussion, including newsletters for and about women in politics.

As the cochair of the Congressional Caucus for Women's Issues, I know how important it is to elect women to Congress. Although we come from many different backgrounds and have different areas of expertise, we share a common commitment and perspective that has already improved the political landscape for American women. From issues ranging from women's health to women's economic equity, Congresswomen are making a difference. The National Women's Political Caucus has been a driving force in opening up political office to women, and I sincerely thank NWPC for its outstanding work. Mr. Speaker, please join me in recognizing the National Women's Political Caucus for its commitment to the support and advancement of women in politics.

THANK YOU, MARLENE MOULDER, FOR YOUR LOYAL SERVICE

HON. JACK FIELDS

OF TEXAS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, September 10, 1996

Mr. FIELDS of Texas. Mr. Speaker, it was with mixed emotions that I announced last Deember 11 my decision to retire from the House at the conclusion of my current term. As I explained at the time, the decision to retire was made more difficult because of the loyalty and dedication of my staff and because of the genuine friendship I feel for them. Each one of them has served the men and women of Texas' Eighth Congressional District in an extraordinary way.

Today, I want to thank one member of my staff, Marlene Moulder, a staff assistant in my Humble office, for everything she's done for me and my constituents in the 11 years that she has worked in my office.

A native of Houston, Marlene has overseen my service academy nominations board, which recommends outstanding young men and women for appointments to the Nation's four service academies, since she joined my staff. The nominating process in my office is highly competitive, strictly merit based, and scrupulously fair. As a result, it is considered one of the most successful such programs in the Nation; 161 young men and women living in the Eighth Congressional District have received appointments to the service academies since Marlene began managing the program in early 1986. Much of the credit for the program's success can be directly attributed to the dedication and hard work that Marlene devotes to it.

Indeed, Marlene's work with the board and the Nation's service academies led to her receiving the Air Force Association's Civilian of the Year award in 1988, and the U.S. Air Force Academy recognition award from the San Jacinto Association of Air Force Academy graduates in 1992. Marlene has been asked to address educators, other congressional staffers, parents, students, and service academy liaison officials regarding how the academy nominating process works.

In addition to her service academy responsibilities, Marlene has handled tour and flag requests, as well as receptionist and secretarial duties during her years on my staff. Perhaps Marlene's greatest strength is her ability to work well with people, constituents and co-workers alike, to resolve problems or answer questions from constituents, and to help ensure that whatever needs to get done in my office actually gets done.

Marlene has been an active member of several civic groups during her tenure in my office, serving as treasurer and then president of the Channelview Channelette Booster Club. She also has volunteered her time and talents to the Sterling Forest Civic Association, the Sterling Shadows Neighborhood Watch program, and the Channelview ISD advisory board for fundraising guidelines.

Marlene is deeply devoted to her wonderful daughter, Carrie, who is currently a senior at Loyola University in New Orleans.

Marlene Moulder is one of those hard-working men and women who make all of us in this institution look better than we deserve. I know she has done that for me, and I appreciate this opportunity to publicly thank her for the dedication, loyalty and professionalism she has exhibited throughout the years it has been my privilege to know and work with her.

Marlene has yet to make a definite decision about what she wants to do in the years ahead. But I am confident that the skills and the personal qualities she has demonstrated in my office will lead to continued success in the future.

Mr. Speaker, I know you join with me in saying thank you to Marlene Moulder for her years of loyal service to me, to the men and women of Texas' Eighth Congressional District, and to this great institution. And I know you join with me in wishing Marlene, and her daughter Carrie, and the best in the years ahead.

TRIBUTE TO MAJ. GEN. WILLIAM E. EICHER, U.S. ARMY, RET.

HON. FLOYD SPENCE

OF SOUTH CAROLINA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, September 10, 1996

Mr. SPENCE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to recognize the illustrious career of Maj. Gen. William E. Eicher, U.S. (Ret.), who officially retired as vice president of technical services of the American Defense Preparedness Association on August 31 of this year. General Eicher will be honored officially on September 16 with the William R. Moseley Award for excellence in munitions management. This award was established in 1982 and named after a long time executive and chairman of the board of Day and Zimmermann, Inc., a Pennsylvania based munitions producer. The William R. Moseley Award panel has selected General Eicher because he has made the greatest overall contribution to the munitions program this year.

I had the pleasure of meeting General Eicher and recognized in him an earnest commitment to the security of this great Nation. His career is one threaded with remarkable accomplishments, and so I wish to share with my colleagues some of the highlights of General Eicher's 44 years of distinguished service to our Nation.

General Eicher was a commander, logistician, staff officer, and systems manager during 32 years of active military service. He commanded logistical activities both at retail and wholesale levels. Similarly, he was also involved in the acquisition, production, and distribution of material. He was on the staff of the Army Material Command as director of maintenance. His responsibilities included directing that Command's worldwide maintenance management program. As Assistant Deputy Chief of Staff for Logistics on the Army staff, he assisted in the worldwide management of all aspects of the Army's complex logistic structure.

For over 5 years he was commander of the Army's Armament Material Readiness Command and was responsible for dispensing operable/quality munitions and armament material worldwide to the Department of Defense and Allied Forces. He controlled multifaceted operations in such disciplines as procurement, industrial operations, material and maintenance management, personnel, management information systems, engineering quality assurance, and financial management. Inherent in General Eicher's role as commander were the responsibilities to plan, organize, review, and manage people and things.

He exercised extensive responsibilities in the management of weapon systems and conventional munitions, and he was deeply involved in the acquisition and production of both weapons/ammunition. His working knowledge of armaments supply and maintenance activities of fielded systems gave him unique insight into the logistics requirements of systems support. He has a broad background in integrated logistics support management and the application of this process to both developmental and fielded material.

General Eicher joined the American Defense Preparedness Association in 1984 as vice president, technical services. He was responsible for the overall operations of the technical services, which consists of 26 technical divisions, and for the conduct of over 50 meetings a year. His additional responsibilities included conducting studies and roundtable type meetings, publication of white papers, and a wide range of support activities for the Department of Defense and other U.S. Government agencies.

As vice president, technical services, General Eicher was in the forefront of the efforts to define and maintain a viable industrial base consistent with national security interests. His skillful leadership was especially crucial during the ongoing adjustments in post-cold-war defense policies. His insights were regularly sought by the Department of Defense, thereby enhancing ADPA's contribution to the formulation of industrial base policies. ADPA's enviable reputation as a forum for ethical dialog between Government and industry is largely attributable to General Eicher's vision and his keen appreciation of industrial base issues. Working with industry and Government volunteers, he consistently designed and directed programs of exceptional technical conferences that are the hallmark of ADPA's service to the Nation and defense community.

Mr. Speaker, General Eicher's distinguished career is a model of hard work, loyalty, and patriotism. I ask my colleagues to join me in thanking him for his contributions to our Nation. Furthermore, I want to extend my congratulations to General Eicher for being honored as this year's recipient of the William R. Moseley Award. I wish General Eicher and his family success and happiness in the coming years.

GUESS WHAT CLUNKY BUREAUCRATIC MACHINE COMES IN NO. 1

HON. FORTNEY PETE STARK

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, September 10, 1996

Mr. STARK. Mr. Speaker, you, Mr. Speaker, like to talk about the withering away of Medicare. When questioned about your statement, you say you didn't really, really mean for Medicare to whither away, just the agency that administers it, the Health Care Financing Administration [HCFA]. You like to make fun of HCFA as a clunky, bureaucratic machine.

I'm not sure what the difference is between destroying a program and destroying its administration, but I hope you will take the time to read the enclosed opening paragraphs from the American Medical Association's newspaper American Medical News of August 26, 1996.

MEDICARE SHAPES UP CLAIMS

Q: What well-known health insurer has the highest proportion of claims filed electronically, the lowest average cost per claim processed, and has cut the real cost per claim processed by 85% since 1975?

A: It's not some hotshot entrepreneur or Wall Street wonder company.

It's Medicare.

You know, that federal program run by the Health Care Financing Administration and the gang of 34 (carriers).

Medicare is the undisputed leader in electronic claims. The program now electronically processes 79% of all claims and nearly 71% of Part B claims. That compares with 66% of claims for the runner-up, the nation's Blue Cross and Blue Shield plans, and a paltry 20% for commercial carriers.

Increasing electronic claims processing has been the major factor in driving down Medicare's processing cost per Part B claim from $8.03 (in today's dollars) in 1975 to 94 cents in 1995.

But HCFA isn't resting on its laurels. Over the next six to 12 months, the agency will begin implementing several measures designed to increase claims processing efficiency and lower costs even further.

A first step will be taken toward standardizing electronic claims formats. New universal provider identification numbers will be issued, and a uniform payer identification system will be developed. National uniform claims review standards will be expanded, and steps will be taken to shift routine claims processing from the local carriers to two giant processing centers.

All of these initiatives could help physicians by streamlining medical review, coordination of benefits with non-Medicare payers and speeding payments.

TRIBUTE TO THE EMPLOYEES OF THE MIDAS INTERNATIONAL CORP.

HON. WILLIAM O. LIPINSKI

OF ILLINOIS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, September 10, 1996

Mr. LIPINSKI. Mr. Speaker, today I pay tribute to an outstanding group of workers in my district who were recently recognized for their commitment to quality and safety in the workplace—the 231 employees at the Midas International Corp. facility in Bedford Park, IL.

The facility was recently selected by the Occupational Safety and Health Administration [OSHA] for participation in the Voluntary Protections Programs [VPP] as a Merit site. The VPP program recognizes worksites for achieving excellence in their safety and health programs through cooperation among labor, management, and the Government. The Merit is often a stepping stone to the Star Program, the highest level of participation in the VPP.

The Midas Bedford Park, which manufactures motor vehicle parts and accessories, is the second site in my district to achieve the honor of VPP approval. The OSHA review team commended Midas for its strong commitment to safety and health at the facility. The Midas workers are represented by the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Local 781.

Mr. Speaker, I congratulate the workers and management of the Midas Bedford Park facility on this great achievement and wish them continued success in maintaining health and safety at their workplace.

TRIBUTE TO DR. RAYMOND CONTESTI

HON. DAVID E. BONIOR

OF MICHIGAN

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, September 10, 1996

Mr. BONIOR. Mr. Speaker, the March of Dimes is an organization with a noble mission: to fight birth defects and childhood diseases. We all share the March of Dimes dream which is that every child should have the opportunity to live a healthy life.

For the past 13 years, the Southeast Michigan Chapter of the March of Dimes Birth Defects Foundation has honored several Macomb County residents who are outstanding members of our community and have helped in the campaign for healthier babies. On the evening of Wednesday, September 25, 1996, the chapter will be hosting the 13th annual "Alexander Macomb Citizen of the Year" award dinner. The award, instituted in 1984, is named after my home county's namesake, Gen. Alexander Macomb, a hero of the War of 1812.

This year, the March of Dimes has chosen Dr. Raymond Contesti as a recipient of the award. Dr. Contesti, the youngest of 10 children, learned at an early age that service to one's community is the way to a good life. Throughout his distinguished career as an educator and superintendent of schools, he has been recognized for outstanding commitment to his community. In 1995 he was named "Citizen of the Year" by the Mount Clemens General Hospital Foundation and "Distinguished Citizen of the Year" by the Boy Scouts organization in 1994 as a champion of youth involvement. They could not have chosen a more deserving human being.

Dr. Jonas Salk's polio vaccine is just one of the more famous breakthroughs that would not have been possible without March of Dimes research funding. Without people like Dr. Raymond Contesti the job of protecting babies would be that much more difficult.

I applaud the Southeast Michigan Chapter of the March of Dimes and Dr. Raymond Contesti for their leadership, advocacy, and community service. I am sure that Dr. Contesti is honored by the recognition and I urge my colleagues to join me in saluting him as a 1996 recipient of the "Alexander Macomb Citizen of the Year Award."

TRIBUTE TO SOLID ROCK BAPTIST CHURCH OF PATERSON, NJ

HON. WILLIAM J. MARTINI

OF NEW JERSEY

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, September 10, 1996

Mr. MARTINI. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to the Solid Rock Baptist Church of Paterson in the Eight Congressional District in New Jersey.

Next year, Mr. Speaker, the Solid Rock Baptist Church will celebrate its 50th anniversary as a spiritual leader in the Northern New Jersey area. The church was founded in September 1947 when a group of four deeply religious souls, Deacon Miledge Primus, Minister James Shropshire, Sister Lucille Scott, and Sister Catherine Primus, sought to create a place of sanctuary.

The church struggles with the initial growing pains felt by many new establishments during their formative years. Finally, in August 1954, Rev. Timothy Fennel became pastor to the nearly 100 members and rapidly strengthened the organization's membership and infrastructure.

Under the leadership and guidance of Reverend Fennel, the Solid Rock Baptist Church ordained five deacons and initiated a number of auxiliary functions, including the creation of the missionary circle, deaconess board senior choir, gospel chorus, junior choir, usher board busy bees, and M club. The church also provided assistance to area hospitals and the surrounding community through its pastor's aides, nurses aides, youth guild, Sunday school Bible class, and prayer meetings.

After a life of dedication to the Solid Rock Baptist Church, Reverend Fennel passed away on September, 23, 1976. However, Mr. Speaker, he left the church with a meaningful legacy and vivacious future. In the 1980's, under the leadership of Reverend Shearin, the church initiated a number of remodeling projects. He also established the stewardship and Bible study programs.

Finally, Mr. Speaker, the Solid Rock Baptist Church built such a strong presence in the community that they no longer had to look outside the organization for guidance. The church elected a favorite son as pastor in 1996.

Rev. Jack Lotts has been a member of the Solid Rock Baptist Church since his return from military duty in 1961. He graduated in 1987 with a certificate in christian ministry from the New York Theological Seminary in New York City and was ordained on October 29, 1989. Throughout his tenure with the church, Reverend Lotts has exhibited the commitment to the spiritual growth and development demonstrated by Reverend Fennel and the original founders of the church. He is certainly the right man to led the Solid Rock Baptist church into its next 50 years.

Mr. Speaker, I ask you to help me salute the Solid Rock Baptist Church for its historic achievements, and pray for its continued success in the future.

TRIBUTE TO THE HONORABLE
GREG LASHUTKA

HON. DEBORAH PRYCE

OF OHIO

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, September 10, 1996

Ms. PRYCE. Mr. Speaker, today I rise to pay tribute to the Honorable Greg Lashutka, the mayor of Columbus, OH, on the occasion of his earning the Distinguished Eagle Scout Award [DESA]. Through the course of my 18 years of public service, I have had the privilege of working closely with Mayor Lashutka and can thus attest firsthand to his unparalleled devotion to the betterment of the city of Columbus, his tireless involvement in civic activities, and his remarkable commitment to God and family. Mayor Lashutka truly embodies the spirit of this extraordinary award.

The highest award administered by the National Eagle Scout Association, the Distinguished Eagle Scout Award honors an elite few who have achieved a state of eminence through their chosen careers and lifeworks. Recipients are determined by the Distinguished Eagle Scout Award Committee, which is comprised entirely of previous DESA winners. The selection process is rigorous and deliberate, and a substantial percentage of nominations is declined. Among those honored by the DESA include former President Gerald R. Ford, several governors, CEO's of Fortune 500 companies, nationally known doctors, lawyers, and educators, and some of my colleagues in this body. Mayor Greg Lashutka will be only the second Distinguished Eagle Scout Award winner in central Ohio.

In 1958, a 14-year-old Greg Lashutka was awarded the Eagle Scout Award at the Bethany English Lutheran Church in Cleveland, OH. Thirty-seven years later, Mayor Lashutka has rightfully earned the admiration and respect of all those with whom he has come in contact. His resume reflects his all-American experience: Co-Captain of the 1965 Ohio State University football team; a decorated naval officer in Vietnam; city attorney for the city of Columbus; a successful private attorney with a prestigious Columbus firm; and finally mayor of the 16th largest city in the United States. Under his adept leadership, Columbus has grown profoundly, becoming nationally renowned for its crime prevention, cultural activities, international trade, and business-friendly environment. His innovative and thoughtful leadership has earned Columbus a designation as an All-American City in 1992, and himself the honors of 1996 president of the National League of Cities as well as 1993 Municipal Leader of the Year Award from American City and County Magazine.

Equally important, however, is Mayor Lashutka's social and civic involvement. His active participation in countless organizations and groups—often as a board member or as chairman—is truly remarkable. The mayor devotes much of his already scarce time to the Boy Scouts of America; the boys and girls clubs of Columbus; the Columbus Civic Center Committee; the Columbus Urban League; the Heart Fund; the Big Brother Association of Columbus; the German Village Society; the Central Ohio Chapter of the March of Dimes; and other outstanding, philanthropic organizations. Mayor Lashutka is happily married to Catherine Adams and is a loving father of four.

Mr. Speaker, it is with great pleasure that I ask my colleagues to join me in congratulating my good friend, Mayor Greg Lashutka, for being awarded the Distinguished Eagle Scout Award, and in recognition of his astonishing lifelong service to the city of Columbus.

HONORING CHIEF JUDGE NORMAN
W. BLACK

HON. KEN BENTSEN

OF TEXAS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, September 10, 1996

Mr. BENTSEN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to honor the Honorable Norman W. Black, Chief Judge for the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of Texas, as he prepares to assume senior status later this year.

Judge Black's 16 years as a U.S. district judge cap a career of service to his country, to his community, to education, and to the practice of law. His career has been marked by a deep commitment to integrity, hard work, fairness, honesty, and justice.

Judge Black obtained both his undergraduate and legal education at the University of Texas. He served in the U.S. Army Military Police from 1955 to 1957 before beginning his legal career as an assistant U.S. attorney. Later, he participated in the formation of the law firm of Black, Hebinck, Hargorve & Clark. He engaged in private practice from 1959 to 1976.

In 1976, he was appointed U.S. Magistrate for the Southern District of Texas. In 1979, President Carter appointed him U.S. District Judge for the Southern District of Texas at the recommendation of Senator Lloyd Bentsen, and he has served as chief judge since October 1992.

Each year, the Houston Bar Association evaluates all sitting judges in Harris County, including U.S. district court judges. Judge Black routinely rates as one of the top judges in every category evaluated by members of the trial bar who practice in the various courts.

The best testimonials to Judge Black's achievements come from his colleagues and those who have practiced before him. I want to quote from some of their statements nominating Judge Black in 1995 for the Samuel Pessarra Outstanding Jurist Award.

Attorney David Beck, who has appeared before Judge Black, stated, "I have always found Judge Black to be objective and even-handed in his rulings and courteous to all litigants and their counsel. He rules decisively and timely, works extremely hard, and is knowledgeable of the law, which is no easy task given the numerous substantive areas to which our judges are consistently exposed."

Chief Judge Henry A. Politz of the U.S. Court of Appeals, Fifth Judicial Circuit, had this to say about Judge Black: "On the administrative level, he is nothing short of a marvel. * * * I wish all of our judges had his keen instinct for what is right in just about every situation."

Attorney James B. Sales stated, "A universal comment is that he possesses impeccable integrity, fairness, and honesty. Indeed, he is the epitome of the kind of judge that we all admire and hold as the standard by which to measure others who aspire to the Bench."

In addition to his commitment to law, Judge Black has contributed tremendously to education and to our community. He has taught at the University of Houston School of Law, the University of Cincinnati, and the South Texas College of Law, where he currently is adjunct professor. He is much-loved by his students, and his seminar is always the first one closed because of over-subscription.

Judge Black's contributions to his community include membership in the Houston Philosophical Society, as well as the Federal, Texas, Houston, and American Bar Associations. He has been instrumental in developing mentoring and fellowship programs to encourage interest in and knowledge of the law. Judge Black also has been active in many of our community's religious and cultural institutions. Despite these many commitments, Judge Black has always found time to be a loving husband, father, and grandfather.

Judge Black will be sorely missed by all who have worked with him, all who value the law, and all who appreciate his fairness and integrity. We wish him well.

THE RAIDERS ARE COMING—AND I DON'T MEAN THE FOOTBALL TEAM

HON. FORTNEY PETE STARK

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, September 10, 1996

Mr. STARK. Mr. Speaker, the raiders I am referring to do not wear football helmets and they do not throw a ball. They are profiteering health care entrepreneurs, and they are quickly moving into our community.

The move toward investor-owned health care, particularly where doctors are sharing in the financial risk and have incentives to deny care, means that patients could be denied access to critical medical resources. Significant health care dollars are being siphoned off to pay shareholders, soaring executives salaries and exorbitant marketing costs. Meanwhile, the number of Americans who are uninsured and underinsured is growing.

The explosion of profit-sharing health care companies is leading the current transformation of the U.S. health care market, and they have arrived in our district. Watch out. The move toward monopolistic, for-profit health care requires a legislative response to protect patients and consumers.

THE MOVE TO FOR-PROFIT HEALTH CARE: COLUMBIA-HCA

The largest, most aggressive for-profit health care company is Columbia-HCA Healthcare Corporation [Columbia]. Columbia has aggressively pursued the acquisition of nonprofit hospitals. As a result, Columbia now owns 355 hospitals making it the wealthiest for-profit chain with $18 billion in annual revenue.

Columbia owns the San Leandro Hospital; the San Leandro Surgery and Outpatient Center; Estudillo Surgery Center; and the San Jose Hospital as well as Diablo Valley Surgery Center in Concord. Elsewhere in the bay area, Columbia owns Healdsburg General Hospital and Palm Drive Hospital in Sebastopol; Columbia Los Gatos Surgical Center; Mammography Plus Medical Group; and Sereno Surgicenter in Los Gatos in addition to the four facilities in the south bay that comprise the Good Samaritan chain. They have reportedly offered to negotiate deals with almost every hospital in the bay area including Sequoia, Eden, and St. Rose.

I have asked Medicare to investigate whether Columbia's merger mania is bad for the patients and for our community.

Will quality patient care be provided?

As a for-profit hospital, Columbia's primary obligation is to its out-of-town shareholders. Their focus is on the bottom line, not quality care.

We will see a reduction in care provided to the poor in our community!

Columbia offers physicians up to 20 percent ownership interest to encourage physicians to direct paying patients to their hospital, and charity cases away from the Columbia hospital. Study after study shows that for-profit hospitals provide a lower level of charity care than do nonprofit hospitals.

Will services be eliminated that are vital to our community?

It is likely that programs such as trauma centers and neonatal intensive care units will be eliminated.

Will Columbia close local hospitals?

It has a history of buying many local hospitals and closing them to increase bed occupancy and profits in other units.

Will existing labor contracts be ignored?

Columbia is reportedly renegeing on labor contracts at Good Samaritan Hospital and has an antilabor record.

Capitalism is great but should patients be put at risk?

I do not believe health care is a commodity. Joseph Cardinal Bernadin said it best:

Health care is fundamentally different from most other goods and services. It is about the most human and intimate needs of people, their families, and communities. It is because of this crucial difference that each of us should work to preserve the predominantly non-profit character of our health care delivery system.

The goal is not health care anymore—it is care of the stockholder interest. I am preparing legislation to make sure: First, for-profit do not skim off the healthiest patients and dump the sickest, money-losing patients in public hospitals; and second, the public's investment in nonprofit hospitals is not lost through phony sales prices. You can count on me to fight the takeover of our community's hospital system and keep the "care" in health care.

TRIBUTE TO THE SOUTHWEST SUBURBAN CENTER ON AGING ON ITS 25TH ANNIVERSARY

HON. WILLIAM O. LIPINSKI

OF ILLINOIS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, September 10, 1996

Mr. LIPINSKI. Mr. Speaker, today I rise to pay tribute to an outstanding organization in my district that for 25 years has addressed the needs of older residents—the Southwest Suburban Center on Aging in La Grange, IL.

The center is enjoying its silver anniversary of providing a variety of important services for senior citizens. The agency drew out a study commissioned by the La Grange Kiwanis Club in 1970 that determined that not only was the senior population growing in the area, but that the vast majority of this group did not know where to turn for assistance.

The senior center was initially established as an arm of a local mental health agency, but because of the great demand for its services, it soon became a separate entity. In 1974, it leased its first facility, a building in La Grange, which it still occupies 22 years later.

Beginning with a staff of three on 1971, the center grew to employ a staff of 26 and over 300 volunteers. Today, the center now serves more than 10,000 seniors in 22 communities. The services provided range from arts and crafts classes to delivering meals to the home-bound to investigating suspected cases of abuse of the elderly.

However, the varied offerings of the Southwest Suburban Center on Aging all contribute to one goal: to promote independent living for seniors and support their efforts to maintain healthy active lifestyles within their communities.

Mr. Speaker, I congratulate the Southwest Suburban Center on Aging for 25 years of service to the senior citizens of its community, and wish the organization many more years of service.

TRIBUTE TO LOUIS ELIAS, WILLIAM MORGAN, AND GABRIEL KASSAB

HON. DAVID E. BONIOR

OF MICHIGAN

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, September 10, 1996

Mr. BONIOR. Mr. Speaker, the March of Dimes is an organization with a noble mission: to fight birth defects and childhood disease. We all share the March of Dimes dream which is that every child should have the opportunity to live a health life.

For the past 12 years, the Southeast Michigan Chapter of the March of Dimes Birth Defects Foundation has honored several Macomb County residents who are outstanding members of our community and have helped in the campaign for healthier babies. On the evening of Wednesday, September 25, 1996, the chapter will be hosting the 13th annual Alexander Macomb Citizen of the Year award dinner. The award, instituted in 1984, is named after my home country's namesake, Gen. Alexander Macomb, a hero of the War of 1812.

This year, the March of Dimes has chosen Louis Elias, William Morgan, and Gabriel Kassab as recipients of the Family of the Year Award. The Elias family executives can be counted on to devote time and money to numerous charitable and civic groups. Mr. Elias is known as a quiet philanthropist. His generous donations over the years have benefited many charitable organizations. Mr. Kassab has been active in several civic and social groups. He has also served on the executive board of the Boys Scouts of America. Mr. Morgan was instrumental in instituting the service club system of operations which annually returns over $2 million to the community. The Elias family members have been ardent backers of the March of Dimes' dream of erasing birth defects.

I applaud the Southeast Michigan Chapter of the March of Dimes and the Elias Family for their leadership, advocacy, and community service. The Elias Brothers are living proof that the business community meets their civic responsibility. I am sure that the Elias families are honored by the recognition and I urge my colleagues to join me in saluting them as the 1996 recipients of the Alexander Macomb Family of the Year Award.

TURKEY: NEW GOVERNMENT, SAME OLD REPRESSION

HON. CHRISTOPHER H. SMITH

OF NEW JERSEY

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, September 10, 1996

Mr. SMITH of New Jersey. Mr. Speaker, in the last few weeks, the new Government of Turkey has demonstrated a familiar disregard for international human rights commitments and earlier promises made to secure entry into a European Union customs agreement. On August 26, 41 members of the Peoples Democracy Party [HADEP], including its leadership, were charged for alleged ties with the outlawed Kurdistan Workers Party [PKK]. The same day, two editors of the Turkish Daily News were charged with "damaging the prestige of the armed forces" by publishing an opinion poll. And, on September 3, Akin Birdal, president of the Human Rights Association of Turkey, was detained for participating on a delegation negotiating the release of Turkish soldiers captured by the PKK.

Mr. Speaker, the HADEP case follows an all too familiar pattern. The Turkish Government is stepping up efforts to delegitimize and dismantle HADEP, Turkey's only Kurdish-based political party. Supported by more than 1.2 million votes in last December's elections, HADEP was increasingly viewed as a possible interlocutor in the bloody conflict between government forces and Kurdish militants. Yet, like its director predecessor, the Democracy Party [DEP], whose 13 parliamentarians were imprisoned or exiled for speech crimes, HADEP has now become the government's target. In June, following a party convention at which a Turkish flag was torn down, 28 HADEP leaders were detained and have been held ever since, without being charged—despite their disavowal of any connection to the flag incident. Following the convention three HADEP members were murdered and party offices in Izmir were bombed. Two men accused of tearing down the flag have been charged with treason and could face the death penalty.

Mr. Speaker, nationalist hysteria over the flag incident also had negative consequences for a former DEP Member of Parliament, Sirri Sakik, who has been charged for saying, "People who desire that a certain respect be paid to their own flags should also be respectful of others' flags". Prosecutors deemed this statement to be advocating separatism and charged Sakik under article 8 of the Anti-Terror law. Mr. Speaker, you may recall that article 8 was amended with great fanfare last fall to mollify European concerns about Turkey's human rights record in advance of the vote on Turkey's customs union entry. Dozens of people have since been jailed under the new and improved article 8, and hundreds of others under similarly restrictive statutes.

Mr. Speaker, the Turkish Daily News case demonstrates how mainstream journalists also face continued repression. Ilnur Cevik, who participated in a Helsinki Commission briefing on Turkish elections, and Hayri Birlir face up to 6 years in prison for publishing results of a poll on preferences for government alternatives following last year's elections. The polls were published in February and some speculate that the belated decision to prosecute was based on growing displeasure in military circles with Cevik's perceived support of Refah, the Muslim-based party.

Mr. Speaker, another troubling case involves Human Rights Association [HRA] President Akin Birdal, who participated in a 1995 Helsinki Commission briefing. A valuable source of information on human rights abuses in Turkey, the Association and its president, Akin Birdal, have received numerous awards in the United States and Europe. Since its inception, HRA activists have faced severe repression. Fifteen branches have been closed in southeast Turkey, activists and leaders have been murdered by government-supported death squads, and hundreds of HRA members have been arrested and imprisoned. The absurd justification for the latest detention, however, made the authorities look even more capricious than usual.

Akin Birdal participated in a delegation seeking the release of Turkish soldiers captured by the PKK. The delegation, led by a Member of Parliament from the ruling Refah Party and including other well-known human rights activists, was discussed in the press and government circles for weeks. Although unsuccessful, the delegation's mission fueled speculation that the government might be re-considering its purely military approach to the Kurdish insurgency. Such speculation caused sufficient consternation in ruling circles to order detention of delegation members. Although the government released the delegation members on September 6, it remains unclear whether they will be charged under Penal Code Article 169 for aiding an illegal organization, for which they could face up to 5 years in prison.

These recent incidents, Mr. Speaker, punctuate the routine repression occurring daily in Turkey. None accused in these incidents committed acts of violence, but are being silenced rather for speaking against government-sponsored violence and policies that have prolonged a bloody internal war. And, if the pattern of past convictions of former parliamentarians and others repeats itself, the only evidence that will emerge to suggest support for terrorism will be clumsy fabrications and testimony coerced under torture.

Our important ally Turkey, Mr. Speaker, is facing a serious multidimensional crisis. If we are to help Turkey address this crisis, we must be firm in our support for a political solution to the conflict which has claimed more than 21,000 lives and created more than three million internal refugees. Recent events in northern Iraq have underscored regional instability complicated in no small part by Kurdish unrest in Turkey. Clearly, Turkey's leaders will pay little more than lip service to human rights commitments when it becomes necessary to secure cooperation with Western governments. They will continue such policies as long as Western governments remain willing to overlook abuses in order to advance security or economic objectives. Turkey's allies should undertake every effort to support the victims of this peculiar form of democracy. Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues to speak out against recurring restrictions imposed on free speech in Turkey and call upon the Turkish Government, once again, to release all those imprisoned for nonviolent expression, including the HADEP members and former DEP parliamentarians.

ETHICS COMMITTEE HANDLING OF GINGRICH CASE A TRAVESTY

HON. PATRICIA SCHROEDER

OF COLORADO

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, September 10, 1996

Mrs. SCHROEDER. Mr. Speaker 7 years ago, we had an Ethics Committee investigation against Speaker Jim Wright. The committee had requested an outside counsel, Richard Phelan, to prepare a report on the Wright case.

Here is what Congressman NEWT GINGRICH said on "Meet the Press" about releasing Mr. Phelan's report to the public:

Now, that report is secret; I don't know of anybody other than the committee members and Mr. Phelan who know what's in it—except Mr. Wright's lawyer. And I think that report and the back-up documents have to be published.

I cannot imagine going to the country * * * tell them we've got a $1.6 million report—and, by the way, there's nothing in it, but you can't see it.

Clearly, that report is going to have to be published.

Well, I think the first key test is whether or not the Phelan report is published, and the background documents and the appropriate interviews of 65 witnesses under oath are published.

I think it's vital that we establish as a Congress our commitment to publish that report and to release those documents so the country can judge whether or not the man second in line to be president—the speaker of the House—should be in that position.

Congressman GINGRICH also demanded that Mr. Phelan be given the independence necessary to do a thorough and complete job. He wrote to the Ethics Committee chairman insisting that Mr. Phelan have full authority to investigate the Wright case; that he be allowed to make public statements and reports; and that a copy of his contract with the committee be made public.

Today, the tables are turned. Speaker GINGRICH is under investigation, but it is an investigation cloaked in secrecy. It is an investigation undermined by the committee's own members.

In this Monday's rollcall, several former special and committee counsels expressed grave reservations about how the current Ethics Committee is handling the Gingrich case.

Worse, in yesterday's Manchester, CT, Journal Inquirer, the chairman of the very Ethics Committee subcommittee charged with conducting the investigation trashes the very process he is heading up. Congressman PORTER GOSS is quoted as saying:

It's a foolish process that needs to be changed. I'm not going to defend the process.

Congressman GOSS goes on to trivialize the report prepared by special counsel James Cole and criticize the press for running stories about the report.

Congressman GOSS should resign from the Ethics Committee. He is sabotaging the very process he is supposed to be leading. If he wants to be Speaker GINGRICH's defense counsel fine—it's a free country—but get off the Ethics Committee.

Worse, he is discussing a report he claims can't be discussed. Members of Congress can't read the report. The taxpayers—who paid the half million dollars it cost to prepare it—can't read the report. We have no way of knowing what's in it.

Yet Congressman GOSS feels free to discuss, characterize, and minimize the report while at the same time saying that under committee rules it is secret and can't be talked about.

This reminds me of the old TV quiz show, "I've Got a Secret." The Ethics Committee has a secret—a half-million-dollar investigation of Speaker NEWT GINGRICH that it doesn't want the public to see.

My advice to the committee is to trust the good judgment of the American public. Release the report and let the chips fall where they may.

GINGRICH ON MEDICARE

HON. J. DENNIS HASTERT

OF ILLINOIS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, September 10, 1996

Mr. HASTERT. Mr. Speaker, I commend the following article to your attention. It ran on July 25, 1996, on page A-18 of the Washington Times. I think that the American people will benefit from the truth about the Medicare debate which is printed in this respected newspaper.

[From the Washington Times, July 25, 1996]

GINGRICH ON MEDICARE

Besides the customary $40 million in political action committee (PAC) contributions organized labor gives to Democratic candidates for Congress each election cycle, it pours millions of additional dollars of unregulated "soft money" into the Democratic Party and untold millions more in "in-kind" (telephone work, election-day duties, etc.) contributions.

For the 1995-96 election cycle, the AFL-CIO will supplement these normal contributions to the Democratic Party, all of which come directly from compulsory union dues, with a special assessment that will extract another $35 million from the paychecks of union workers irrespective of their political allegiance.

The bulk of these new funds has been used to finance "issue advocacy" ads for radio and television, so far mostly about Medicare. In the latest version, which splashes the label "Newt Gingrich on Medicare" across the television screen, the ad selectively and completely out of context quotes from an October speech by the Republican Speaker: "Now, we don't get rid of it in round one because we don't think that that's politically smart and we don't think that's the right way to go through a transition. But we believe it's going to wither on the vine." Clearly, any viewer would infer—erroneously, as is easily demonstrated—that the antecedent of "it" is Medicare. In fact, the antecedent is the Health Care Financing Administration (HCFA), the bureaucratic behemoth administering Medicare, which presidential candidate Bill Clinton promised to "scrap" in his 1992 campaign manifesto, "Putting People First."

The ad further asserts that Republicans sought to "cut Medicare and give new tax breaks to the wealthy." So inaccurate is the ad—the CNN ad-watch team has called it "dishonest"—that the viewer would never know that, under the GOP seven-year balanced-budget plan vetoed by President Clinton, Medicare expenditures per beneficiary would have increased by 50 percent, rising from less than $4,800 in 1995 to nearly $7,100 in 2002. Aware of this indisputable fact, the typical viewer might have a difficult time understanding how Republicans sought to have Medicare "wither on the vine." Concerning the "tax breaks to the wealthy," in fact, more than 60 percent of the 7-year $245 billion tax cut would have financed a $500 per child (under 18) tax credit for families with adjusted gross incomes no higher than $110,000. Considering that production and non-supervisory employees were working on average more hours per week and earning a higher inflation-adjusted wage in January 1993, when Mr. Clinton was inaugurated, than they worked and earned in May 1996, union members might view the $500 per child tax credit vetoed by President Clinton differently than their labor bosses, who clearly have their own agenda in mind.

To conclusively demonstrate the AFL-CIO's campaign of intentional distortion and lies, it is worth repeating exactly what Mr. Gingrich said about the HCFA last October. "We tell Boris Yeltsin, 'Get rid of centralized command bureaucracies. Go to the marketplace.' OK, what do you think the Health Care Financing Administration is? It's a centralized command bureaucracy. It's everything we're telling Boris Yeltsin to get rid of. Now, we don't get rid of it in round one, because we don't think that that's politically smart and we don't think that's the right way to go through a transition. But we believe it's going to wither on the vine."

In the context of the entire quote and considering Medicare spending per beneficiary was scheduled to increase under the GOP budget plan by $2,300 per year by 2002, who could possibly believe that Mr. Gingrich was referring to Medicare when speaking of "wither[ing] on the vine"? Only liars. The sooner union workers learn the truth about Medicare and tax cuts their bosses seem so afraid to share with them, the sooner they can choose leaders who pursue an agenda more compatible with their needs.

NATIONAL MENTAL HEALTH IMPROVEMENT ACT OF 1996

HON. FORTNEY PETE STARK

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, September 10, 1996

Mr. STARK. Mr. Speaker, today, I am introducing the National Mental Health Improvement Act of 1996. This bill will provide parity in insurance coverage of mental illness and improve mental health services available to Medicare beneficiaries. It represents an urgently needed change in coverage to end discrimination against those with mental illness and to reflect the contemporary methods of providing mental health care and preventing unnecessary hospitalizations.

The bill prohibits health plans from imposing treatment limitations or financial requirements on coverage of mental illness if similar limitations or requirements are not imposed on coverage of services for other conditions. The bill also expands Medicare part A and part B mental health and substance abuse benefits to include a wider array of settings in which services may be delivered. It eliminates the current bias in the law toward delivering services in general hospitals. It permits services to be delivered in a variety of residential and community-based settings. Through use of residential and community-based services, costly inpatient hospitalization can be avoided. Services can be delivered in the setting most appropriate to the individual's needs.

In 1991, as a nation we spent approximately $58 billion for the treatment of mental illness and another $17 billion for substance abuse disorders. Medicare expenditures in these areas for 1993 were estimated at $3.6 billion of 2.7 percent of Medicare's total spending. Over 80 percent of that cost was for inpatient hospitalization.

In addition to these direct medical costs there are also enormous social costs resulting from these disorders. It has been estimated that severe mental illness and substance abuse disorders cost $78 billion per year in lost productivity, lost earnings due to illness or premature death, and costs for criminal justice, welfare, and family care giving.

Two to three percent of the population experience severe mental illness or substance abuse disorders. This population is very diverse. When given the appropriate treatment, some people's mental health problems never recur. Others have chronic problems that can persist for decades. And mental illness and substance abuse disorders include many different diagnoses, levels of disability, and duration of disability.

This bill addresses two fundamental problems in both public, as well as private, health care coverage of mental illness today. First, despite the prevalence and cost of untreated mental illness, many health insurance plans do not cover the expense of mental illness treatment as they do other illnesses. Insurance companies set different, lower limits on the scope and duration of care for mental illness as compared to other illnesses. This means that people suffering from depression get less care and less coverage than those suffering a heart attack. Yet, both illnesses are real.

Access problems to mental health benefits are mainly the result of these restrictions. About half of all health care plans limit coverage for hospitalization cost from 30 to 60 days. Outpatient benefits are restricted by the number of visits or dollar limits in 70 percent of the plans. Plan participants with mental health disorders are subject to arbitrary limits that are unrelated to treatment needs. Patients rarely have the choice of alternative plans with greater coverage since more than 80 percent of all plans limit inpatient care and more than 98 percent of plans limit outpatient care.

Access to equitable mental health treatment is essential. And it can be done at a reasonable price. By enacting this bill, we can reduce public sector spending by $16.6 billion, while only slightly increasing insurance premiums—just 4 percent or around $2.50 per person a month. The out-of-pocket expenses for individuals receiving care would be lowered by about $3.2 billion. Two dollars and fifty cents is a small price to pay for ending health care discrimination.

Second, diagnosis and treatment of mental illness and substance abuse have changed dramatically since the Medicare benefit was designed. No longer are treatment options limited to large public psychiatric hospitals. The great majority of people can be treated on an outpatient basis, recover quickly and return to productive lives. Even those who once would have been banished to the back wards of large institutions can now live successfully in the community. But today's Medicare benefits do not reflect this change in mental health care.

This bill would permit Medicare to pay for a number of intensive community-based services. In addition to outpatient psychotherapy and partial hospitalization that are already covered, beneficiaries would also have access to psychiatric rehabilitation, ambulatory detoxification, in-home services, day treatment for substance abuse and day treatment for children under age 19. In these programs, people can remain in their own homes while receiving services. These programs provide the structure and assistance that people need to function on a daily basis and return to productive lives.

They do so at a cost that is much less than inpatient hospitalization. For example, the National Institute of Mental Health in 1993 estimated that the cost of inpatient treatment for schizophrenia can run as high as $700 per day, including medication. The average daily cost of partial hospitalization in a community mental health center is only about $90 per day. When community-based services are provided, inpatient hospitalizations will be less frequent and stays will be shorter. In many cases hospitalizations will be prevented altogether.

This bill will also make case management available for those with severe mental illness or substance abuse disorders. People with severe disorders often need help managing many aspects of their lives. Case management assists people with severe disorders by making referrals to appropriate providers and monitoring the services received to make sure they are coordinated and meeting the beneficiaries' needs. Case managers can also help beneficiaries in areas such as obtaining a job, housing, or legal assistance. When services are coordinated through a case manager, the chances of successful treatment are improved.

For those who cannot be treated while living in their own homes, this bill will make several residential treatment alternatives available. These alternatives include residential detoxification centers, crisis residential programs, therapeutic family or group treatment homes and residential centers for substance abuse. Clinicians will no longer be limited to sending their patients to inpatient hospitals. Treatment can be provided in the specialized setting best suited to addressing the person's specific problem.

Right now in psychiatric hospitals, benefits may be paid for 190 days in a person's lifetime. This limit was originally established primarily in order to contain Federal costs. In fact, CBO estimates that under modern treatment methods only about 1.6 percent of Medicare enrollees hospitalized for mental disorders or substance abuse used more than 190 days of service over a 5-year period.

Under the provisions of this bill, beneficiaries who need inpatient hospitalization can be admitted to the type of hospital that can best provide treatment for his or her needs. Inpatient hospitalization would be covered for up to 60 days per year. The average length of hospital stay for mental illness in 1992 for an adult was 16 days and for an adolescent was 24 days. The 60-day limit, therefore, would adequately cover inpatient hospitalization for the vast majority of Medicare beneficiaries, while still providing some modest cost containment. Restructuring the benefit in this manner will level the playing field for psychiatric and general hospitals.

The bill I am introducing today is an important step toward providing comprehensive coverage for mental health. Leveling the health care coverage playing field to include mental illness and timely treatment in appropriate settings will lessen health care costs in the long run. These provisions will also lessen the social costs of crime, welfare, and lost productivity to society. This bill will assure that the mental health needs of all Americans are no longer ignored. I urge my colleagues to join me in support of this bill.

A summary of the bill follows:

IN GENERAL

The bill revises the current tax code to deter health plans from imposing treatment limitations or financial requirements on coverage of mental illness if similar limitations or requirements are not imposed on coverage of services for other conditions. The bill also revises the current mental health benefits available under Medicare to deemphasize inpatient hospitalization and to include an array of intensive residential and intensive community-based services.

TITLE I PROVISIONS

The bill prohibits health plans for imposing treatment limitations or financial requirements on coverage of mental illness if similar limitations or requirements are not imposed on coverage of services for other conditions.

The bill amends the Tax Code to impose a tax equal to 25 percent of the health plan's premiums if health plans do not comply. The tax applies only to those plans who are willfully negligent.

TITLE II PROVISIONS

The bill permits benefits to be paid for 60 days per year for inpatient hospital services furnished primarily for the diagnosis or treatment of mental illness or substance abuse. The benefit is the same in both psychiatric and general hospitals.

The following intensive residential services are covered for up to 120 days per year: Residential detoxification centers; crisis residential or mental illness treatment programs; therapeutic family or group treatment home; and residential centers for substance abuse.

Additional days to complete treatment in an intensive residential setting may be used from inpatient hospital days, as long as 15 days are retained for inpatient hospitalization. The cost of providing the additional days of service, however, could not exceed the actuarial value of days of inpatient services.

A facility must be legally authorized under State law to provide intensive residential services or be accredited by an accreditation organization approved by the Secretary in consultation with the State.

A facility must meet other requirements the Secretary may impose to assure quality of services.

Services must be furnished in accordance with standards established by the Secretary for management of the services.

Inpatient hospitalization and intensive residential services would be subject to the same deductibles and copayment as inpatient hospital services for physical disorders.

PART B PROVISIONS

Outpatient psychotherapy for children and the initial 5 outpatient visits for treatment of mental illness or substance abuse of an individual over age 18 have a 20-percent copayment. Subsequent therapy for adults would remain subject to the 50-percent copayment.

The following intensive community-based services are available for 90 days per year with a 20-percent copayment—except as noted below: Partial hospitalization; psychiatric rehabilitation; day treatment for substance abuse; day treatment under age 19; in-home services; case management; and ambulatory detoxification.

Case management would be available with no copayment and for unlimited duration for "an adult with serious mental illness, a child with a serious emotional disturbance, or an adult or child with a serious substance abuse disorder—as determined in accordance with criteria established by the Secretary."

Day treatment for children under age 19 would be available for up to 180 days per year.

Additional days of service to complete treatment can be used from intensive residential days. The cost of providing the additional days of service, however, could not exceed the actuarial value of days of intensive residential services.

A nonphysician mental health or substance abuse professional is permitted to supervise the individualized plan of treatment to the extent permitted under State law. A physician remains responsible for the establishment and periodic review of the plan of treatment.

Any program furnishing these services—whether facility-based or freestanding—must be legally authorized under State law or accredited by an accreditation organization approved by the Secretary in consultation with the State. They must meet standards established by the Secretary for the management of such services.

ONE-YEAR ANNIVERSARY OF ABDUCTION OF HUMAN RIGHTS ACTIVIST

HON. DAN BURTON

OF INDIANA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, September 10, 1996

Mr. BURTON of Indiana, Mr. Speaker, September 6 marks the 1-year anniversary of the Indian Government's abduction of human rights advocate Jaswant Singh Khalra. As I have said in previous statements on the floor about this tragic case, Mr. Khalra was kidnapped after he exposed the widespread use of cremations by Indian authorities in Punjab to dispose of victims of extrajudicial killings.

Recently, India's Central Bureau of Investigation was forced to admit in court that at least 1,000 such cremations had occurred in Punjab. The actual number is certainly many times higher than that. The United States State Department reported that between 1991–93, the Indian Government paid over 41,000 cash bounties to police in Punjab for the killings of Sikhs.

Before Mr. Khalra was abducted, he stated publicly, and with a great deal of courage, that the number of cremations of innocent Sikhs was probably as high as 25,000. He was picked up by authorities a short time after that statement and has not been seen since. That was 1 year ago.

In the video, "Disappearances in Punjab," a policewoman testifies that she saw prisoners in custody whose legs had been broken. These prisoners were reported to have been killed later in staged "encounters."

Mr. Speaker, it is time for the Indian Government to release Jaswant Singh Khalra and own up to the crimes committed in Punjab. With the Indian Government's atrocious human rights record, it is no wonder that there is such a strong movement among the Sikh people for an independent nation of Khalistan.

Mr. Speaker, I hope that the pro-India lobby, and my friends in Congress who have opposed legislation to punish India for its brutal treatment of the Sikhs, the Kashmiris, and other minorities, will pay attention to what is happening over there, and will also call for the immediate release of Mr. Khalra.

THANK YOU, CHUCK MILHEM

HON. JAMES A. BARCIA

OF MICHIGAN

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, September 10, 1996

Mr. BARCIA. Mr. Speaker, the most important and valuable resource we have in this country is our children. Providing a safe environment for them to grow and mature has always been this country's No. 1 priority. People who dedicate their time and energy to making this possible are most deserving of our praise and thanks. Mr. Chuck Milhem is one of those people. He is being honored on September 11, 1996, by the Boys and Girls Clubs of Bay County Inc., with its Eighth Annual Helping Hand Award for his more than 10 years of support and dedication to this outstanding organization.

Chuck Milhem was born in 1929, the year the stock market crashed. He grew up in a tough, lower east side neighborhood in Detroit, and learned early the importance of community centers for children. His time there not only provided an alternative to gang activities but convinced him that higher education was the road to a better future. Chuck attended Wayne State University in Detroit and after leaving to join the Navy during the Korean war, returned to complete his degree. While working at a bank to help defer college costs, Chuck was introduced to the world of coin-operated vending machines. This interest eventually led him to accept a job with Brunswick.

At Brunswick, Chuck was instrumental in the introduction and widespread popularity of the coin-operated air hockey table. Chuck's talent and success did not go unnoticed and eventually led him to the presidency of Valley Recreation Products from 1979 to 1994. Always a leader, Chuck helped found the VNEA, Valley National Eight Ball Association. Today the VNEA has 200 operators and almost 50,000 sanctioned players. The VNEA's concentration on youth leagues reflects Chuck's concern and commitment to American children. As Mr. Milhem knows so well, "Giving youngsters a place to excel at something, no matter what the circumstances at home, is not to be taken lightly."

The caring and concern Chuck Milhem has shown to both his career and his community serve as an example to all of us. Many of us talk about making the world a safer place for our children but few do anything about it. Chuck Milhem has not only made it happen but has made a lasting commitment of over 10 years to make it happen. How many of us can say that?

Mr. Speaker, I invite you and all of our colleagues to join me in congratulating Chuck Milhem, his wife Florence, and his children Laurel and Janice, for his well-deserved honor from the Boys and Girls Clubs of Bay County.

HONORING NORRIS JAMES QUINN IN THE DEDICATION OF THE FIRE TRAINING CENTER IN HIS NAME

HON. RICHARD E. NEAL

OF MASSACHUSETTS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, September 10, 1996

Mr. NEAL of Massachusetts. Mr. Speaker, today it brings me great pleasure to recognize fire drillmaster Norris James Quinn who devoted 40 years of public service to the people of Springfield, MA. In his first 20 years of commitment to the city, Quinn was promoted through the ranks first to lieutenant, and then to captain, culminating with his appointment as permanent drillmaster (chief of training). In this capacity, Chief Quinn greatly contributed to the establishment of a new fire training center.

In 1968, Chief Quinn began the search throughout the city for a site for land to construct the new facility. After weeks of planning and preparation by Quinn, his dream of a state-of-the-art fire training center was realized. Since its completion, the training center has instructed countless firefighters. His commitment to the safety of his fellow firefighters has in turn greatly aided the community as a whole.

I served as the mayor of Springfield when Chief Quinn retired in 1987 and was proud to have such an outstanding citizen serving the city. His legacy shall carry on as future generations of firefighters benefit from Quinn's achievement. On Tuesday, September 17, 1996 this facility will be renamed the "Norris J. Quinn Fire Training Center". It is fitting that this institution be named after a man that devoted much of his profession in the training of Springfield's firefighters. I salute Chief Quinn for his distinguished career and offer my heartfelt congratulations for this great honor of which he is so deserving.

REMARKS ON THE 80TH BIRTHDAY OF STANLEY A. DASHEW

HON. JANE HARMAN

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, September 10, 1996

Ms. HARMAN. Mr. Speaker, few at 80 can sail a large boat, take professional-caliber photographs, work out at the gym for 2-hour stints several times a week, help to build new entrepreneurial ventures, and new buildings for UCLA's International Student Center.

Stan Dashew can.

In the close to 40 years I've known him—half his life and most of mine—he has never disappointed. Always creative. Always caring. Always ready to make the most of his day.

He brought enormous happiness to his late wife, Rita, an extraordinary woman whom I called my godmother. When Rita died suddenly, Stan's obituary in the Los Angeles Times describing their last evening together was as moving a testament about a marriage as could ever be written.

Since Rita's death, Stan has moved on with life—as creative and caring as ever. He remains a devoted father, stepfather, and grandfather, and now a happy partner to Elizabeth.

No past-tense is necessary. Stan is living the American dream. The son of immigrants who grew up during the Depression, he built Dashew Business Machines into a major producer of magnetic entry cards, bank credit cards, transmit systems, offshore mooring buoys, and more recently, unique bow thrusters for ships.

Many years ago he sailed to California from Michigan with his young family. No doubt he will set out on new voyages in the future.

Happy Birthday Stan.

SALUTE TO LT. GEN. EDWARD J.
BRONARS

HON. ROBERT K. DORNAN

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, September 10, 1996

Mr. DORNAN. Mr. Speaker, in today's Washington Times, my good friend Lt. Col. Ollie North provides a fitting tribute to Lt. Gen. Edward J. Bronars, a true American war hero. [From the Washington Times, Sept. 10, 1996]

FAREWELL SALUTE TO A HERO FOR ALL SEASONS

(By Ollie North)

America has lost one of its true heroes and I have lost a great friend. Last Friday, Lt. Gen. Edward J. Bronars, U.S. Marine Corps (Ret.), war hero, husband, father, mentor and steadfast ally in the face of adversity, died at Walter Reed Army Medical Center.

First and last, Ed Bronars was a patriot. He spent his entire adult life in selfless service to our country. Born on April 12, 1927, in Chicago, he was graduated from the U.S. Naval Academy in 1950 and was commissioned in the United States Marine Corps. During his 32-year career with the Corps, Gen. Bronars served in two wars—Korean and Vietnam—and the chest of his forest green uniform carried the Silver Star, the Bronze Star, the Distinguished Service Medal, and the Legion of Merit with Combat "V" for valor.

And while he was respected and admired by fellow Marines for his intelligence, courage and professionalism, few outside of his family and close friends knew of the risks he had taken for our country "behind the lines" in Eastern Europe during the now long-forgotten Cold War. But the selection boards knew—and so in 1979 Ed Bronars was promoted to lieutenant general—the second highest designation in the USMC. When he retired from the Marines in 1982 he was the deputy chief of staff for manpower at Headquarters Marine Corps.

But retirement for Ed Bronars didn't really mean "retirement." From 1982 to 1985, he served as the president of the Navy Relief Society, a private, non-profit, volunteer supported organization dedicated to helping young military personnel and their families. From 1986 to 1987, Gen. Bronars served as executive director of the Association of Military Schools and Colleges and, then in 1987 he volunteered to become the administrator of the Legal Defense Fund established by my Naval Academy Classmates.

Why did a retired general jump from a nice, soft job as the executive director of one of Washington's many Associations—to heading up the legal defense fund of a fellow who was having the book thrown at him by the entire Washington establishment—and the mainstream media to-boot? For Ed Bronars it was easy—one of his own was in trouble—a whole lot of trouble! And Ed Bronars knew what the words of the Marine Corps motto—Semper Fidelis—meant.

When we were both on active duty, Gen. Bronars had been my division commander, and in 1981, he had selected me to serve on Ronald Reagan's National Security Council Staff. He knew of my reservations about the assignment—and he knew how hard I had tried to get out of it to go back to the Marines. Now—the guy he'd ordered to the White House needed help—and Ed Bronars was there.

It was Ed Bronars' careful steady hand, his unquestioned integrity and his perseverance that made it possible for us to pay the millions in legal bills we accrued in the great

Iran-Contra controversy. Without his steadfast help, unwavering encouragement and good counsel, the long ordeal of 1986-1989 could well have been an unbearable burden for my family and me.

And later it was Gen. Bronars who encouraged me to start Freedom Alliance; the 5091(c)(3) non-profit, charitable and educational organization I founded in 1990. In March 1991, Gen. Bronars became the chairman of the board of Freedom Alliance and served in that capacity until his death.

At Freedom Alliance, Gen. Bronars led Operation Homefront, a campaign which supplied over 125,000 care packages to the men and women serving in the Persian Gulf War. He also originated the HEROes Scholarship Program (Honoring, Educating, and Remembering Our Survivors) which provided up to $10,000 in educational grants to the surviving family members of Gulf war casualties, and the CAST Program (Casualty Assistance Support Team), a $50,000 grant from Freedom Alliance, administered by military chaplains to assist family members in visiting their loved ones in military hospitals as a result of wounds in the Persian Gulf War.

Gen. Bronars also became a public advocate for the readiness and integrity of the U.S. Armed Forces. He testified before the Bush administration's Presidential Commission on the Assignment of Women in the Armed Forces, and with the voice of experience, warned of the dangers in placing women directly into the horror of combat. He did the same in opposing the Clinton administration's proposals regarding homosexuals in our armed forces.

And with all of this, he still devoted time to the Marine Corps Scholarship Fund and the Young Marines program for at-risk youth. In all he did, Ed Bronars sought no recognition, no honor, no praise for countless hours of toil and trouble. In every event his good humor would prevail over the naysayers, his perseverance inspired the weary and his friendship offset the adversaries.

Many knew Ed Bronars as a great leader. A good number knew he was a steadfast patriot. A handful knew him as a war hero. The beautiful Dot Bronars knew him as her husband. Bruce and Bobbi knew him as their Dad. I was blessed to have him as a faithful friend. Semper Fidelis, we'll miss you, Ed!

INTRODUCTION OF SENATE-PASSED MENTAL HEALTH PARITY ACT

HON. FORTNEY PETE STARK

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, September 10, 1996

Mr. STARK. Mr. Speaker, I am introducing today the identical bill the Senate passed on September 5 by 82-15, offered by Senator DOMENICI, WELLSTONE, and many others, to provide mental health lifetime and annual cap parity.

I would like to see much more extensive mental health legislation passed. I would like to see an elimination of all caps, in both physical and mental health, but this bill is a step forward, has widespread support, and is the least we can and should do in this Congress.

If the House can pass identical legislation this month, this incremental health reform could become law this year and begin to help innumerable families who face the crisis of paying for mental health needs.

H.R. —

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the "National Mental Health Parity Act of 1996".

SEC. 2. PLAN PROTECTIONS FOR INDIVIDUALS WITH A MENTAL ILLNESS.

(a) PERMISSIBLE COVERAGE LIMITS UNDER A GROUP HEALTH PLAN.—

(1) AGGREGATE LIFETIME LIMITS.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—With respect to a group health plan offered by a health insurance issuer, that applies an aggregate lifetime limit to plan payments for medical or surgical services covered under the plan, if such plan also provides a mental health benefit such plan shall—

(i) include plan payments made for mental health services under the plan in such aggregate lifetime limit; or

(ii) establish a separate aggregate lifetime limit applicable to plan payments for mental health services under which the dollar amount of such limit (with respect to mental health services) is equal to or greater than the dollar amount of the aggregate lifetime limit on plan payments for medical or surgical services.

(B) NO LIFETIME LIMIT.—With respect to a group health plan offered by a health insurance issuer, that does not apply an aggregate lifetime limit to plan payments for medical or surgical services covered under the plan, such plan may not apply an aggregate lifetime limit to plan payments for mental health services covered under the plan.

(2) ANNUAL LIMITS.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—With respect to a group health plan offered by a health insurance issuer, that applies an annual limit to plan payments for medical or surgical services covered under the plan, if such plan also provides a mental health benefit such plan shall—

(i) include plan payments made for mental health services under the plan in such annual limit; or

(ii) establish a separate annual limit applicable to plan payments for mental health services under which the dollar amount of such limit (with respect to mental health services) is equal to or greater than the dollar amount of the annual limit on plan payments for medical or surgical services.

(B) NO ANNUAL LIMIT.—With respect to a group health plan offered by a health insurance issuer, that does not apply an annual limit to plan payments for medical or surgical services covered under the plan, such plan may not apply an annual limit to plan payments for mental health services covered under the plan.

(b) RULE OF CONSTRUCTION.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Nothing in this section shall be construed as prohibiting a group health plan offered by a health insurance issuer, from—

(A) utilizing other forms of cost containment not prohibited under subsection (a); or

(B) applying requirements that make distinctions between acute care and chronic care.

(2) NONAPPLICABILITY.—This section shall not apply to—

(A) substance abuse or chemical dependency benefits; or

(B) health benefits or health plans paid for under title XVIII or XIX of the Social Security Act.

(3) STATE LAW.—Nothing in this section shall be construed to preempt any State law that provides for greater parity with respect to mental health benefits than that required under this section.

(c) SMALL EMPLOYER EXEMPTION.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—This section shall not apply to plans maintained by employers that employ less than 26 employees.

(2) APPLICATION OF CERTAIN RULES IN DETERMINATION OF EMPLOYER SIZE.—For purposes of this subsection—

(A) APPLICATION OF AGGREGATION RULE FOR EMPLOYERS.—All persons treated as a single employer under subsection (b), (c), (m), or (o) of section 414 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 shall be treated as 1 employer.

(B) EMPLOYERS NOT IN EXISTENCE IN PRECEDING YEAR.—In the case of an employer which was not in existence throughout the preceding calendar year, the determination of whether such employer is a small employer shall be based on the average number of employees that it is reasonably expected such employer will employ on business days in the current calendar year.

(C) PREDECESSORS.—Any reference in this subsection to an employer shall include a reference to any predecessor of such employer.

SEC. 3. DEFINITIONS.

For purposes of this title:

(1) GROUP HEALTH PLAN.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—The term "group health plan" means an employee welfare benefit plan (as defined in section 3(1) of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974) to the extent that the plan provides medical care (as defined in paragraph (2)) and including items and services paid for as medical care) to employees or their dependents (as defined under the terms of the plan) directly or through insurance, reimbursement, or otherwise.

(B) MEDICAL CARE.—The term "medical care" means amounts paid for—

(i) the diagnosis, cure, mitigation, treatment, or prevention of disease, or amounts paid for the purpose of affecting any structure or function of the body.

SEC. 5. FEDERAL EMPLOYEE HEALTH BENEFIT PROGRAM.

For the Federal Employee Health Benefit Program, sections 1 through 3 will take effect on October 1, 1997.

LORET RUPPE: AN UNSELFISH CIVIL SERVANT WITH A VISION

HON. DOUG BEREUTER

OF NEBRASKA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, September 10, 1996

Mr. BEREUTER. Mr. Speaker, as the attached excerpts from an Economist obituary indicate, Loret Ruppe was an extraordinarily effective, dedicated, and public-service oriented leader for one of America's most optimistic programs, the Peace Corps. Her leadership of that Agency helped instill in it her own dedication and desire to help those most in need of America's can-do spirit.

As Director of the Peace Corps, Loret Ruppe worked with this Member to facilitate cooperation between that important program and the highly successful, Farmer-to-Farmer Program. The marriage of these two American technical assistance programs insures that Loret Ruppe's outstanding legacy continues in all those villages and out-of-the-way places where her Peace Corps and Farmer-to-Farmer soldiers spread the positive results of her optimism and determination.

[From the Economist, Aug. 24, 1996]

LORET RUPPE

When Loret Ruppe was made director of America's Peace Corps in 1981, it was probably the least attractive of political appointments in the gift of the president. "We called it the peace corpse," recalls a diplomat embarrassed by young Americans dumped in, say, an African village and expected to promote western ideas. Ronald Reagan, the new broom who in 1980 had swept away the Democrats, was prepared formally to bury the corpse. But Mrs. Ruppe, a prominent Republican who had been leader of the Reagan-Bush campaign in Michigan, wanted the job, and Mr. Reagan was happy, though surprised, to repay a political debt cheaply. If she finished it off, no one would be too bothered.

To some, Mrs. Ruppe seemed as naive as her new charges. She was approaching middle age, a mother hen with five daughters, adept at Republican money-raising, but with no foreign experience. But delve deeper. Mrs. Ruppe's mother was an anti-nuclear campaigner who alarmed her family by camping out on the bomb-testing grounds in Nevada. And she had been an admirer of President Kennedy, like her (and Mrs. Ruppe) a Roman Catholic, who had created the Peace Corps in 1961.

So there was a seed, and it germinated. Mrs. Ruppe decided that the Peace Corps was a good idea that had been discredited by its Kennedy-minded sloppiness. The Peace Corps had been the one fresh project that Kennedy had brought to the presidency. He called it his "winning number". He visualized the many thousands of students who had supported him during his election campaign as "soldiers of peace". He contrasted them with "ugly American" ambassadors who "lacked compassion." In his inaugural address in 1961 Kennedy said that the Peace Corps would help those "in the huts and villages of half the globe struggling to break the bonds of mass misery." For poor countries this was a hurtfully condescending message from a fat cat. They wanted money and investment, not what a critic of Kennedy called "some Harvard boy or Vassar girl" who "lives in a mud hut and speaks Swahili".

KENNEDY'S CHILDREN

In fact, few in the early days of the Peace Corps had equipped themselves even with fluency in a second language before setting forth. Many were innocents abroad. Wise minds in the Kennedy circle did advise caution in the selection of recruits. Notwithstanding, they said, the admirable enthusiasm of the thousands of Americans who applied by every post to be allowed to help the miserable Africans and Asians, they should have appropriate skills and a degree of maturity. But the average age of Kennedy's Peace Corps "children", as they came to be called, was an unmaturing 21.

The corps that Mrs. Ruppe took over in 1981 had shrunk from 15,000 in the 1960s to about 5,000. In the previous decade seven directors had come and gone. The corps budget had been cut, and cut again. The Soviet Union said, perhaps correctly, that the corps was a weapon in the cold war; in those days nearly everything was. The corps, Mrs. Ruppe recalled later, was in "the least liked, least supported, least respected" part of the United States budget.

At first Mrs. Ruppe took no salary. This was no hardship for her—she came from a wealthy family of brewers—but the gesture was well received. The many liberals in the corps, initially hostile to a Reagan appointee, were won over by her clear belief in the movement and her sensible management. She ensured that anyone sent to the 90 or so countries served by the corps had a skill to offer, most commonly in agriculture as the majority of the world's poor are peasants, but there was, too, a wide range of expertise available, from nursing to computers. These days the average age of members is 29. Some are over 50, bringing to their tasks years of experience. Under Mrs. Ruppe the corps gained flexibility: sometimes a farmer, or a doctor or an engineer, will take a sabbatical from his regular job to spend some useful time overseas. The present director, Mark Gearan, said that Mrs. Ruppe was "the driving force" in its revitalization.

Kennedy's "winning number" has spread far beyond the bounds of his New Frontier. These days all the rich countries have dozens of organisations that send volunteers abroad to poor and not-so-poor countries. Some of them are government-supported, although many are private, relying on charity. In France, voluntary work abroad has been acceptable as an alternative to military service. Such schemes are generally regarded as a Good Thing, perhaps suspiciously so. This year, keeping 6,529 Peace Corps people in the field will cost America $219m, about $33,500 a person, a good deal less than the expense of running the most junior diplomat. Neither is Peace Corps work solely altruistic. For a Peace Corps scientist specialising in, say, pest control, Africa is a laboratory not available at home. As a result, the rich world becomes subtly richer. In 1989, after eight years as director of the corps, Mrs. Ruppe became ambassador to Norway, Washington's reward to one of its least-ugly Americans.

TRIBUTE TO SENIOR M.SGT.
FREDRICK D. HAM

HON. VIC FAZIO

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, September 10, 1996

Mr. FAZIO of California. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor Senior M. Sgt. Fredrick D. Ham who is retiring from the U.S. Air Force at McClellan AFB, CA.

Senior Master Sergeant Ham has completed 26 years of dedicated service to our country. As a senior master sergeant, leader, and finally as a respected first sergeant assigned to the 77th Communications Squadron at McClellan Air Force Base, CA, he has provided dedicated and distinguished service.

Today as we honor his retirement, we reflect on the outstanding career which Fred started in October 1970 when he enlisted in the U.S. Air Force. Upon completion of basic training at Lackland AFB, TX, Lackland became his first permanent duty assignment. While there, he performed duties as an interior electrician until cross-training into the work control career field in 1972.

In December 1972, he was assigned to Torrejon AFB, Spain, where he worked as an in-service work programmer, controller, scheduler, quality control technician, service call NCOIC, and NCOIC of customer service. In 1982, he traveled stateside to Kirtland AFB, NM. Selected for promotion to master sergeant in 1983, he attended the First Sergeant Academy. He was selected honor graduate of his class.

In 1986, Fred again went overseas to Bitburgh AB, Germany, where he was first sergeant of the 36th Aircraft Generation Squadron and 36th Equipment Maintenance Squadron. While there, in February 1988, he attended the NCO Academy at Kapau AS, Germany (class honor graduate) and was the winner of the John L. Levitow award. That same year, he was selected as Bitburgh's First Sergeant of the Year.

In 1990, he was assigned to McClellan AFB, where he served as the first sergeant of the 77th Communications Squadron until his retirement. In April 1992, he graduated from the Senior NCO Academy as a distinguished graduate while earning honors as the Military Studies Award Winner.

In 1994, Fred was selected as the McClellan AFB First Sergeant of the Year.

Senior Master Sergeant Ham is married to the former Diane Huse of Chicago, IL. They have a daughter Rebecca, who resides in Othello, WA, and two grandsons, Matthew, 6 and Dustin, 2.

Fred D. Ham's career reflects a commitment to our Nation, characterized by dedicated selfless service, love for the Air Force and commitment to excellence. Senior Master Sergeant Ham's performance, over a quarter of a century of service, personifies the traits of courage, competency, and integrity that our Nation has come to expect from its first sergeants. On behalf of the Congress of the United States and the people of this great Nation, I offer our heartfelt appreciation and best wishes for a first sergeant who served his country so admirably.

Congressional Record

The public proceedings of each House of Congress, as reported by the Official Reporters thereof, are printed pursuant to directions of the Joint Committee on Printing as authorized by appropriate provisions of Title 44, United States Code, and published for each day that one or both Houses are in session, excepting very infrequent instances when two or more unusually small consecutive issues are printed at one time. ¶Public access to the Congressional Record is available online through GPO Access, a service of the Government Printing Office, free of charge to the user. The online database is updated each day the Congressional Record is published. The database includes both text and graphics from the beginning of the 103d Congress, 2d session (January 1994) forward. It is available on the Wide Area Information Server (WAIS) through the Internet and via asynchronous dial-in. Internet users can access the database by using the World Wide Web; the Superintendent of Documents home page address is http://www.access.gpo.gov/su_docs, by using local WAIS client software or by telnet to swais.access.gpo.gov, then login as guest (no password required). Dial-in users should use communications software and modem to call (202) 512-1661; type swais, then login as guest (no password required). For general information about GPO Access, contact the GPO Access User Support Team by sending Internet e-mail to help@eids05.eids.gpo.gov, or a fax to (202) 512-1262; or by calling (202) 512-1530 between 7 a.m. and 5 p.m. Eastern time, Monday through Friday, except for Federal holidays. ¶The Congressional Record paper and 24x microfiche will be furnished by mail to subscribers, free of postage, at the following prices: paper edition, $112.50 for six months, $225 per year, or purchased for $1.50 per issue, payable in advance; microfiche edition, $118 per year, or purchased for $1.50 per issue payable in advance. The semimonthly Congressional Record Index may be purchased for the same per issue prices. Remit check or money order, made payable to the Superintendent of Documents, directly to the Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402. ¶Following each session of Congress, the daily Congressional Record is revised, printed, permanently bound and sold by the Superintendent of Documents in individual parts or by sets. ¶With the exception of copyrighted articles, there are no restrictions on the republication of material from the Congressional Record.
