PURPOSE

S. 1807, as ordered reported, would transfer administrative jurisdiction over certain parcels of public domain land in Lake County, Oregon, to facilitate management of the land.

BACKGROUND AND NEED

In 1932, a group of Oregon ranchers, businessmen, journalists, and sportsmen came together in Eastern Oregon to talk about what could be done to address the decline in the local antelope herds. These individuals came together under the leadership of the Lakeview Chamber of Commerce, and their work led to the creation of the Hart Mountain National Antelope Refuge.

Three years ago, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service moved to reduce grazing on refuge lands. Isolated parcels of refuge lands are currently surrounded by Bureau of Land Management (BLM) grazing allotments, and enacting differing range practices on lands not separated by fences is difficult.

The Fish and Wildlife Service and BLM worked with local ranchers, the state, and the environmental community to develop a plan that would improve habitat protections for antelope and improve the workability of grazing allotments for the local permittees.

Under S. 1807, all of the outlying refuge parcels would be transferred to the BLM and become part of the Beaty Butte grazing allotment, including the highly productive Shirk Ranch property. In exchange, approximately 10,000 acres of BLM land on the refuge's south boundary would become part of the Refuge. In addition, grazing would be excluded from all but a very small portion of the 10,000 acre Guano Creek BLM Wilderness Study Area.

Ten miles of Guano Creek riparian habitat would be restored as a wildlife corridor, critical pronghorn fawning grounds would no longer be bisected by jurisdictional boundaries, and the management of water and vegetation at the Shirk Ranch will make it more conducive for migratory waterfowl.

The cattle grazing that was displaced by the transfer is being relocated. The MC Beaty Butte Grazing Association will now be able to graze the irrigated meadows of the Shirk Ranch. John O'Keeffe's small allotment on Guano Creek was replaced by an allotment made available by the Nature Conservancy.

LEGISLATIVE HISTORY

S. 1807 was introduced on March 20, 1998 by Senators Wyden and Smith. The Subcommittee on Forests and Public Land Management held a hearing on S. 1807 on March 25, 1998. COMMITTEE AMENDMENT

During consideration of S. 1807, the Committee adopted an amendment in the nature of a substitute offered by Senators Wyden and Smith. The amendment clarifies that the Guano Creek Wilderness Study Area is to be managed so as not to impair the suitability of the area for wilderness designation. The amendment also added a provision that modifies the refuge boundary to reflect the removal of the identified parcels of land. Finally, the amendment Additionally, changes the name of the refuge from “Klamath Forest National Wildlife Refuge” to “Klamath Marsh National Wildlife Refuge.”

COST AND BUDGETARY CONSIDERATIONS

The following estimate of the cost of this measure has been provided by the Congressional Budget Office:

U.S. CONGRESS,
CONGRESSIONAL BUDGET OFFICE,
Washington, DC, May 28, 1998.

Hon. FRANK H. MURKOWSKI,
Chairman, Committee on Energy and Natural Resources,
U.S. Senate, Washington, DC.

DEAR MR. CHAIRMAN: The Congressional Budget Office has prepared the enclosed cost estimate for S. 1807, the Hart Mountain Transfer Act of 1998.

If you wish further details on this estimate, we will be pleased to provide them. The CBO staff contact is Deborah Reis.

Enclosure.

CONGRESSIONAL BUDGET OFFICE COST ESTIMATE

S. 1807—Hart Mountain Transfer Act of 1998

CBO estimates that enacting S. 1807 would have no impact on the federal budget. The bill would not affect direct spending or receipts; therefore, pay-as-you-go procedures would not apply. S. 1807 contains no intergovernmental or private-sector mandates as defined in the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act and would have no significant impact on the budgets of state, local, or tribal governments.

S. 1807 would provide for an exchange between the Bureau of Land Management (BLM) and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service (FWS) of land adjacent to or within the Hart Mountain National Antelope Refuge in Oregon. Specifically, the bill would transfer administrative jurisdiction of about 12,100 acres of BLM land to the FWS in exchange for about 7,700 acres of refuge property. Property transferred to the refuge would no longer be available for disposal or commercial use under public land laws. Land transferred to the BLM would be released from such restrictions. Finally, the bill would modify the boundaries of the Hart Mountain refuge to reflect the transfers.

Based on information provided by the BLM, CBO expects that the agency would use the acreage obtained from the FWS to satisfy requirements under existing grazing permits. Currently, this grazing takes place primarily on the acreage that the BLM would transfer to the FWS, but the irregular boundaries of the Hart Mountain refuge make it difficult to determine which agency's land is used for grazing at any given time. The exchange of property would make it easier to enforce the existing permits. The bill would not affect the number or identity of permittees, the amount of grazing that occurs on federal lands, or the amount of offsetting receipts collected from grazing fees. We further estimate that neither agency would incur any additional operating costs as a result of this legislation.

The CBO staff contact is Deborah Reis. This estimate was approved by Robert A. Sunshine, Deputy Assistant Director for Budget Analysis.

REGULATORY IMPACT EVALUATION

In compliance with paragraph 11(b) of rule XXVI of the Standings Rules of the Senate, the Committee makes the following evaluation of the regulatory impact which would be incurred in carrying out S. 1807.

The bill is not a regulatory measure in the sense of imposing Government established standards or significant economic responsibilities on private individuals and businesses.

No personal information would be collected in administering the program. Therefore, there would be no impact on personal privacy.

Little if any additional paperwork would result from the enactment of S. 1807.

EXECUTIVE COMMUNICATIONS

The legislative report received by the Committee from the Department of the Interior setting forth Executive agency recommendations relating to S. 1807 is set forth below:

OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY,
U.S. DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, DC, April 27, 1998.

Hon. FRANK H. MURKOWSKI,
Chairman, Senate Committee on Energy and Natural Resources,
Washington, DC.

DEAR MR. CHAIRMAN: This letter presents the Department's position with regard to S. 1807, Hart Mountain Transfer Act of 1998. The Department strongly supports this legislation.

Under the land transfer proposed in S. 1807, the Bureau of Land Management and the Fish and Wildlife Service would exchange approximately 22,000 acres of land within and around the Hart Mountain National Antelope Refuge. The FWS and the BLM have worked together and with numerous public interests for more than three years to develop consensus on the jurisdictional transfer provided in this legislation. The proposed changes to the Refuge boundary resulting from enactment of S. 1807 would benefit wildlife, facilitate ecosystem restoration and management, and reduce administrative costs. Specifically, the bill would alter the administrative jurisdiction and grazing practices within or adjacent to the Refuge as follows:

1. Approximately 12,100 acres of BLM-managed land adjacent to the Refuge would be transferred to the FWS for inclusion in the Refuge; as such, they would be withdrawn from surface entry under the public land laws, mineral leasing, and location under the mining laws. Grazing would no longer be permitted on this land.

2. The BLM would continue to manage the approximately 10,900 acres of the Guano Creek Wilderness Study Area (WSA) under current and future management plans (including the "Shirk Ranch Agreement"¹ and any amendments to that agreement, which the bill incorporates by reference). Under the terms of the Shirk Ranch Agreement, grazing would be excluded from all but a very small portion of the WSA, thus protecting key wildlife habitat. The displaced grazing use would be relocated to the Shirk Ranch.

3. Approximately 7,700 acres now managed by the FWS would be removed from the Rehige and transferred to the BLM. Grazing would be permitted on this land. Sec. 2(c)(3) of the bill revokes the withdrawal of these parcels for the Refuge. Therefore, these lands would be designated public lands open to surface entry under the public land laws, mineral leasing, and location and entry under the mining laws.

Under the terms of the Shirk Ranch Agreement, the permittees are guaranteed 1,500 animal unit months of forage each year and more can be used if needed to meet the habitat management objectives. This area is particularly desirable because late summer/early fall livestock forage is extremely limited in this area. This land will provide not only a source of green forage but also a place to gather the cattle before moving them back to the Warner Valley. In return, the permittees are responsible for the irrigation of the property and maintenance of the ditches. Livestock grazing will be used as a tool to accomplish habitat management objectives for migratory waterfowl. These objectives (which are outlined in the Beaty Butte Allotment Management Plan) call for leaving a mixture of short, medium, and tall vegetation throughout the area after the cattle leave to provide optimum habitat for migrating waterfowl in the fall and spring.

¹The Shirk Ranch Agreement is a land transfer proposal between the BLM, FWS and MC Grazing Association which became effective September 30, 1997. This agreement was developed in cooperation with numerous interested environmental groups, grazing permittees, and government agencies. It took more than three years to reach consensus on this issue.

In conclusion, S. 1807 would accomplish a fine-tuning of boundaries to make management more efficient and make it easier for the public to identify what land they are using. It would adjust the boundaries of the Hart Mountain Antelope Refuge and the BLM lands to follow roads or natural barriers instead of straight lines on a map. The bill represents a "win-win" situation in public land management. In addition to having strong local support, the proposed transfer would benefit wildlife, facilitate ecosystem restoration and management, and reduce administrative expenses. Meeting these objectives is consistent with the agencies' mission and with the purposes for which the Refuge was established and is currently managed.

The Department strongly supports S. 1807, however, enclosed are our suggested amendments to clarify this legislation.

The Office of Management and Budget advises that there is no objection to the presentation of this report from the standpoint of the Administration's program.

Sincerely,

DONALD BERRY,

Acting Assistant Secretary for Fish and Wildlife and Parks.
