8 SEC. 905. CENTER FOR THE STUDY OF CHINESE MILITARY
9 AFFAIRS.

10 (a) FINDINGS.—The Congress finds the following:

11 (1) The strategic relationship between the United 12 States and the People’s Republic of China will be very 13 important for future peace and security, not only in 14 the Asia-Pacific region but around the world.

15 (2) The United States does not view China as an 16 enemy, nor consider that the coming century nec-
17 essarily will see a new great power competition be-
18 tween the two nations.

19 (3) The end of the cold war has eliminated what 20 had been the one fundamental common strategic in-
21 terest of the United States and China, that of con-
22 taining the Soviet Union.

23 (4) The sustained economic rise, stated geo-
24 political ambitions, and increasingly confrontational
25 actions of China cast doubt on whether the United

1       States will be able to form a satisfactory strategic 2       partnership with the People's Republic of China and
3       will pose challenges that will require careful manage-
4       ment in order to preserve peace and protect the na-
5       tional security interests of the United States.

6               (5) The ability of the Department of Defense,
7       and the United States Government more generally, to 8       develop sound security and military strategies is 9       hampered by a limited understanding of Chinese stra-
10       tegic goals and military capabilities. The low priority
11       accorded the study of Chinese strategic and military
12       affairs within the Government and within the aca-
13       demie community has contributed to this limited un-
14       derstanding.

15               (6) There is a need for a United States national 16       institute for research and assessment of political, stra-
17       tegic, and military affairs in the People's Republic of 18       China. Such an institute should be capable of pro-
19       viding analysis for the purpose of shaping United 20       States military strategy and policy with regard to 21       China and should be readily accessible to senior lead-
22       ers within the Department of Defense, but should 23       maintain academic and intellectual independence so
24       that that analysis is not first shaped by policy.

1           (b) ESTABLISHMENT OF CENTER FOR THE STUDY OF
2 CHINESE MILITARY AFFAIRS.—(1) Chapter 108 of title 10,
3 United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the 4 following new section:

17 with a superior record of achievement and publication re-
18 garding Chinese political, strategic, and military affairs.

19           “(b) MISSION.—The mission of the Center is to study
20 the national goals and strategic posture of the People’s Re-
21 public of China and the ability of that nation to develop,
22 field, and deploy an effective military instrument in sup-

24           “(c) AREAS OF STUDY.—The Center shall conduct re-
25 search relating to the People’s Republic of China as follows:

1           “(1) To assess the potential of that nation to act
2           as a global great power, the Center shall conduct re-
3           search that considers the policies and capabilities of 4           that nation in a regional and world-wide context, in-
5           cluding Central Asia, Southwest Asia, Europe, and 6           Latin America, as well as the Asia-Pacific region.

7           “(2) To provide a fuller assessment of the areas
8           of study referred to in paragraph (1), the Center shall 9           conduct research on—

10                   “(A) economic trends relative to strategic 11                   goals and military capabilities;

14                   “(C) relevant demographic and human re-
15                   source factors on progress in the military sphere.

16           “(3) The Center shall conduct research on the 17           armed forces of the People’s Republic of China, taking 18           into account the character of those armed forces and 19           their role in Chinese society and economy, the degree
20           of their technological sophistication, and their organi-
21           zational and doctrinal concepts. That research shall 22           include inquiry into the following matters:

23                   “(A) Concepts concerning national interests,
24                   objectives, and strategic culture.

1           “(B) Grand strategy, military strategy,

6           force structure choices.

7           “(E) The interaction of doctrine and force
8           structure at each level to create an integrated 9           system of military capabilities through procure-
10          ment, officer education, training, and practice
11          and other similar factors.

12          “(d) FACULTY OF THE CENTER.—(1) The core faculty
13          of the Center should comprise scholars capable of providing 14          diverse perspectives on Chinese political, strategic, and 15          military thought. Center scholars shall demonstrate the fol-
16          lowing competencies and capabilities:

17                 “(A) Analysis of national strategy, military

2           and grand strategy, science and technology, the 3           sociology of human resources and demography,
