Expressing the sense of Congress regarding the establishment of a National Day of Remembrance.

Whereas on September 11, 2001, evil acts of terrorism were perpetrated against the people of the United States and all humanity;

Whereas hundreds of fire fighters, police officers, and rescue workers gave their lives in a valiant effort to save the lives of other victims of these horrific terrorist attacks;

Whereas neither the Government nor the people of the United States will be deterred by acts of terrorism;

Whereas the Government and people of the United States are united in the effort to stand against any future acts of terrorism; and

Whereas the establishment of September 11 as a National Day of Remembrance would provide an opportunity to remember the victims who lost their lives as a result of these vicious terrorist attacks, and to honor the people of the United States who displayed heroism and courage during and after the attacks: Now, therefore, be it
