9 Section 101 of the Juvenile Justice and Delinquency
 10 Prevention Act of 1974 (42 U.S.C. 5601) is amended to read
 11 as follows:

12 “FINDINGS

13 “SEC. 101. (a) The Congress finds the following:

14 “(1) Although the juvenile violent crime arrest
 15 rate in 1999 was the lowest in the decade, there re-

1        mains a consensus that the number of crimes and the
2        rate of offending by juveniles nationwide is still too
3        high.

4            “(2) According to the Office of Juvenile Justice
5        and Delinquency Prevention, allowing 1 youth to 6        leave school for a life of crime and of drug abuse costs
7        society $1,700,000 to $2,300,000 annually.

8            “(3) One in every 6 individuals (16.2 percent)
9        arrested for committing violent crime in 1999 was 10       less than 18 years of age. In 1999, juveniles accounted 11       for 9 percent of murder arrests, 17 percent of forcible
12       rape arrests, 25 percent of robbery arrests, 14 percent
13       of aggravated assault arrests, and 24 percent of weap-
14       ons arrests.

15           “(4) More than 1/2 of juvenile murder victims are 16       killed with firearms. Of the nearly 1,800 murder vic-
17       tims less than 18 years of age, 17 percent of the vic-
18       tims less than 13 years of age were murdered with a
19       firearm, and 81 percent of the victims 13 years of age
20       or older were killed with a firearm.

21           “(5) Juveniles accounted for 13 percent of all
22       drug abuse violation arrests in 1999. Between 1990
23       and 1999, juvenile arrests for drug abuse violations
24       rose 132 percent.

1           “(6) Over the last 3 decades, youth gang prob-
2           lems have increased nationwide. In the 1970’s, 19
3           States reported youth gang problems. By the late
4           1990’s, all 50 States and the District of Columbia re-
5           ported gang problems. For the same period, the num-
6           ber of cities reporting youth gang problems grew 843
7           percent, and the number of counties reporting gang
8           problems increased more than 1,000 percent.

9           “(7) According to a national crime survey of in-10          dividuals 12 years of age or older during 1999, those 11          12 to 19 years old are victims of violent crime at 12          higher rates than individuals in all other age groups.
13          Only 30.8 percent of these violent victimizations were 14          reported by youth to police in 1999.

15          “(8) One-fifth of juveniles 16 years of age who 16          had been arrested were first arrested before attaining
17          12 years of age. Juveniles who are known to the juve-
18          nile justice system before attaining 13 years of age
19          are responsible for a disproportionate share of serious
20          crimes and violence.

21          “(9) The increase in the arrest rates for girls and 22          young juvenile offenders has changed the composition
23          of violent offenders entering the juvenile justice sys-24          tem.

1           “(10) These problems should be addressed
2           through a 2-track common sense approach that ad-
3           resses the needs of individual juveniles and society at 4           large by promoting—

5                   “(A) quality prevention programs that—

6                           “(i) work with juveniles, their families,
7                           local public agencies, and community-based 8                           organizations, and take into consideration
9                           such factors as whether or not juveniles have 10                           been the victims of family violence (includ- 11                           ing child abuse and neglect); and

12                           “(ii) are designed to reduce risks and 13                           develop competencies in at-risk juveniles 14                           that will prevent, and reduce the rate of,
15                           violent delinquent behavior; and

16                           “(B) programs that assist in holding juve-
17                           niles accountable for their actions and in devel-
18                           oping the competencies necessary to become re-
19                           sponsible and productive members of their com-
20                           munities, including a system of graduated sanc- 21                           tions to respond to each delinquent act, requiring 22                           juveniles to make restitution, or perform commu-
23                           nity service, for the damage caused by their de-
24                           linquent acts, and methods for increasing victim

1           “(2) to assist State and local governments in 2           promoting public safety by encouraging account-
3           ability for acts of juvenile delinquency; and

4           “(3) to assist State and local governments in ad-
5           dressing juvenile crime through the provision of tech-
6           nical assistance, research, training, evaluation, and 7           the dissemination of information on effective pro-
8           grams for combating juvenile delinquency.”.
