107TH CONGRESS 1ST SESSION

S. RES. 140

Designating the week beginning September 15, 2002, as "National Civic Participation Week".

IN THE SENATE OF THE UNITED STATES

July 27, 2001

Mr. Roberts (for himself, Mrs. Feinstein, Mr. Reid, Mr. Warner, and Mr. Sessions) submitted the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary

DECEMBER 10, 2001 Considered and agreed to

RESOLUTION

Designating the week beginning September 15, 2002, as "National Civic Participation Week".

- Whereas the United States embarks on this new millennium as the world's model of democratic ideals, economic enterprise, and technological innovation and discovery;
- Whereas our Nation's preeminence is a tribute to our great 2-century-old experiment in representative government that nurtures those ideals, fosters economic vitality, and encourages innovation and discovery;
- Whereas representative government is dependent on the exercise of the privileges and responsibilities of its citizens, and that has been in decline in recent years in both civic and political participation;

- Whereas Alexis de Tocqueville, the 19th century French chronicler of our Nation's political behavior, observed that the people of the United States had successfully resisted democratic apathy and mild despotism by using what he called "schools of freedom"—local institutions and associations where citizens learn to listen and trust each other;
- Whereas civic and political participation remains the school in which citizens engage in the free, diverse, and positive political dialogue that guides our Nation toward common interests, consensus, and good governance;
- Whereas it is in the public interest for our Nation's leaders to foster civic discourse, education, and participation in Federal, State, and local affairs;
- Whereas the advent of revolutionary Internet technology offers new mechanisms for empowering our citizens and fostering greater civic engagement than at any time in our peacetime history; and
- Whereas the use of new technologies can bring people together in civic forums, educate citizens on their roles and responsibilities, and promote citizen participation in the political process through volunteerism, voting, and the elevation of voices in public discourse: Now, therefore, be it
 - 1 Resolved,
 - 2 SECTION 1. DESIGNATION OF NATIONAL CIVIC PARTICIPA-
 - 3 TION WEEK.
 - 4 The Senate—

- (1) designates the week beginning September
 2 15, 2002, as "National Civic Participation Week";
 - (2) proclaims National Civic Participation Week as a week of inauguration of programs and activities that will lead to greater participation in elections and the political process; and
 - (3) requests that the President issue a proclamation calling upon interested organizations and the people of the United States to promote programs and activities that take full advantage of the technological resources available in fostering civic participation through the dissemination of information.
