1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representa-

3 SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

4 This Act may be cited as the “Urban and Rural Dis-
5 ease Prevention and Health Promotion Act of 2003”.

6 SEC. 2. CONGRESSIONAL FINDINGS.

7 The Congress finds that—

1           (1) in 1999, 61 percent of adults in the United 2 States were overweight or obese;

3           (2) all age, racial, and ethnic groups, and both 4 genders, have experienced increases in the percent-
5 age of persons who are overweight or obese;

6           (3) each year in the United States, approxi-
7 mately 300,000 deaths are associated with obesity;

8           (4) overweight and obesity are associated with 9 heart disease, certain types of cancer, type 2 diabe-
10 tes, stroke, arthritis, breathing problems, and psy-
11 chological disorders, such as depression;

12           (5) in 2000, the economic cost of obesity in the 13 United States was approximately $117,000,000,000;

14           (6) it is recommended that American adults ac-
15 cumulate at least 30 minutes, and American chil-
16 dren accumulate at least 60 minutes, of moderate
17 physical activity most days of the week, though more
18 may be needed to prevent weight gain, to lose
19 weight, or to maintain weight loss;

20           (7) less than one-third of American adults en-
21 gage in these recommended amounts of physical ac-
22 tivity;

23           (8) 40 percent of adults in the United States do
24 not participate in any leisure-time physical activity;

1           (9) physical activity is important in preventing 2           and treating overweight and obesity and is extremely 3           helpful in maintaining weight loss, especially when 4           combined with healthy eating;

5           (10) there is a direct positive relationship be-6           tween the level of individual and community use of 7           public recreational facilities and services, access to 8           and condition of such facilities, and the diversity and 9           quality of services relative to current and potential 10          uses; and

11          (11) medical and other research document a di-
12          rect positive relationship between active recreation
13          and disease prevention and general wellness.
