PROCEEDINGS AND DEBATES OF THE 108th CONGRESS, SECOND SESSION

Vol. 150

WASHINGTON, MONDAY, MARCH 29, 2004

No. 41

House of Representatives

The House met at 12:30 p.m. and was called to order by the Speaker pro tempore (Ms. HARRIS).

DESIGNATION OF SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The SPEAKER pro tempore laid before the House the following communication from the Speaker:

WASHINGTON, DC,

March 29, 2004.

I hereby appoint the Honorable KATHERINE HARRIS to act as Speaker pro tempore on this day.

J. DENNIS HASTERT,
Speaker of the House of Representatives.

MORNING HOUR DEBATES

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the order of the House of January 20, 2004, the Chair will now recognize Members from lists submitted by the majority and minority leaders for morning hour debates. The Chair will alternate recognition between the parties, with each party limited to not to exceed 30 minutes, and each Member, except the majority leader, the minority leader, or the minority whip, limited to not to exceed 5 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Florida (Mr. STEARNS) for 5 minutes.

OTHER PEOPLE'S ELECTIONS

Mr. STEARNS. Madam Speaker, today I reflect on some of the recent elections held in other countries. While citizens of other countries may have different values about the level of government intervention in areas, let us say in economics or labor rights, overwhelmingly, most citizens of the world would prefer to live in a democracy than a totalitarian-run system. This was presented last summer by the Pew Research Center for the People in the Press. Pew Research Center interviewed over 66,000 people in 44 countries over 2 years. The majority demonstrated strong preferences in democratic governments, even in Muslim countries.

Over the past 3 weeks, other people have elected leaders, sometimes new, sometimes the incumbent. I wish for all, of course, to live under the same sunshine of freedom that we in the United States have here.

In Taiwan Saturday, March 20, incumbent President Chen, Taiwan's pro-independence leader, was declared to have won by a slim margin, just a hair over 50 percent. This election was preceded by threats from mainland China and Chen's international detractors, and jittery nerves by many who urged "don't rock the boat." On election eve, President Chen and his Vice President were shot in a craven attack.

The aftermath of the election is a little calmer: there are street protests and a recount is imminent. Also, in a win for China, though, election authorities nullified the results of a controversial referendum championed by the President because too few voters took part in it.

However, I still see some optimism. The apparent reelection of Chen is sending a message both to Beijing and Washington: while not outright declaring independence, China's people are standing up for their status as a sovereign body; they are not completely buying into Beijing's domineering "One China" policy. Further, I find it telling that while an insufficient number voted in the referendum, of those who did, 90 percent pulled the yes lever to the two questions: one, whether to try to set up a framework for direct talks with China; and, two, whether to buy more advanced weapons if China refuses to move missiles aimed at their island. I wish President Chen every success in my support of his leading his people to a democracy.

Now, let us look at Spain. I understand the emotional and political tumult in which Spain found themselves on March 11 and after. However, I am discouraged that circumstances influenced the election the way they did, for the singular reason that the Spaniards appear to think that the Socialist Party will bring them relief from the retributions of extreme Islamic fundamentalists. I sadly believe they are wrong. Gustavo de Aristegui wrote in The Washington Post on Sunday, March 21: "In 1984, I had a long talk with a high-ranking Sunni cleric in a mosque in Damascus. He was very friendly when he learned that I was a Spaniard. After 2 hours of conversation about politics and theology, which are very much intertwined in that part of the world, he said to me: 'Don't worry, we will liberate Spain from Western corruption.'"

The writer emphasized that this was a moderate, respected clergyman. Now, that is a chilling, foreshadowing, looking into the minds of those who would destroy that way of life in Spain.

Yet, what did Spaniards sacrifice in their election of the Socialist Party candidate? Since 1986, the Partido Popular turned from 21 percent unemployment down to 9 percent, foreign debt from 80 percent to less than 50 percent GDP, a deficit of 6.7 percent of GDP in 1996 to a 0.5 percent surplus in 2002, and a growing economy while much of the world experienced a downturn. This is the stuff that democracies are made of: living economically securely, planning futures, and thriving.

Like President Chen, I support our ally Spain and the new leadership that they have openly and fairly chosen. I only ponder that democracies also value economic prosperity, and capitulation to bullies may compromise that for which they have worked.

Heading east, President Putin won reelection in Russia this month. He has promised to translate his landslide reelection into concrete reforms: modernizing the economy, the bureaucracy, the banking system, utilities, health and social services. Last Monday President Bush called him to congratulate him and urge him to follow through on his reforms, to move forward towards his promises of market-based and democratic reform.

Madam Speaker, let us hope so. Like the leader of Taiwan, the leader of Spain, I wish the leader of Russia, President Putin, success; but I will define success as: how free are your people?

HOW FAST WILL THEY RUN?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the order of the House of January 20, 2004, the gentleman from Maryland (Mr. HOYER) is recognized during morning hour debates for 5 minutes.

Mr. HOYER. Madam Speaker, this week we are going to see just how committed our Republican friends are to the irresponsible budget that they passed 4 days ago.

Tomorrow, Democrats will offer a motion to instruct House conferees on the fiscal 2005 budget resolution to accept the Senate's bipartisan pay-as-you-go budget enforcement rules. Those rules would require us to find offsets for both new spending as well as tax cuts. As a matter of fact, one of the real authors of pay-as-you-go, the gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER), in the 1990s is here, which led to the most fiscally responsible administration's performance, frankly, in history, under Bill Clinton. And with a projected budget deficit of more than a half a trillion dollars this year, it is fair to ask, What could be more reasonable than that?

After all, our bipartisan agreement to pay-as-you-go rules in 1990 led to the steady decrease of our deficits throughout that decade and 4 consecutive years of budget surpluses between fiscal 1998 and 2001, the first time that has happened in 80 years.

But in their budget resolution, our Republican friends pretend that we can get our fiscal house back in order by applying so-called pay-as-you-go rules to spending only. Tax cuts, they believe, are a freebie, even though the Congressional Budget Office has estimated that 40 percent of our deficit is attributable to revenue reductions. Who is going to pay that bill? Our children will pay that bill. Our grandchildren will pay that bill.

And even the respected chairman of the Committee on Appropriations, my friend, the gentleman from Florida (Mr. YOUNG), said in February, "No one should expect significant deficit reduction as a result of austere, nondefense discretionary spending limits. The numbers simply do not add up." So said the gentleman from Florida (Mr. YOUNG), conservative Republican.

So I urge my Republican friends: join us. Join us in this effort to restore fiscal sanity to our Nation's budget. Vote for this important Democratic motion to instruct. That is not so hard. And remember, you have done it before.

Last year, a mere 96 hours after you passed your fist 2004 budget resolution, you turned right around, 180 degrees, and voted for the Democratic motion to instruct conferees to reject the deep cuts called for in your budget for education, for veterans, Medicare, Medicaid, and other areas. The chairman of the Committee on the Budget, the gentleman from Iowa (Mr. NUSSLE), even stood on this floor and railed against our motion for half an hour. For half an hour he railed against our motion, before he and most of the Republican leadership flip-flopped and helped pass it by a vote of, listen to this, Madam Speaker, 399 to 22. That was the Democratic motion passing. Why? Because Republicans wanted to pretend that they were actually for the motion to instruct's priorities when their budget clearly denied that, contradicted it, did not provide for those priorities.

So I urge my Republican friends to support the adoption of pay-as-you-go rules which helped Democrats produce a budget for fiscal year 2005 that was both fair and responsible.

Our Democratic substitute would balance the budget within 8 years. The Republican resolution would actually increase our deficits. Our Democratic budget would protect Social Security. Our democratic budget would match the Republican budget on defense spending to ensure our national security and provide nearly $6 billion more over 5 years for homeland security to ensure that our people here at home are safer. Our Democratic budget would provide tax relief for hard-working families; and our budget, the Democratic budget, even as it reins in deficits caused by the Republican Party's failed policies, would provide more resources than the Republican budget for education, veterans, job training, public health, and infrastructure, the last, of course, being extraordinarily effective jobs-producing.

Finally, Madam Speaker, we also will consider this week, as I have said, the transportation reauthorization bill, which will pass, I predict, with wide bipartisan support, but leave both Democrats and some Republicans shaking their heads.

This is not only a bill about infrastructure, critically important to our economy, critically important to the safety of this Nation, critically important to every American; it is also a jobs bill. Democrats and some Republicans, including the chairman of the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure, the gentleman from Alaska (Mr. YOUNG), himself supported a spending level of $375 billion, which would have created 1.7 million new jobs.

Why is that important? Because for the first time in 75 years since Herbert Hoover, the first time, this is the first administration in three-quarters of a century that will end its 4-year term having lost jobs net in this economy. That is why we have over 8 million people unemployed and 2.5 million jobs lost. Yet, the President, who has the worst record of job creation since Herbert Hoover threatened a veto of that jobs-creating bill, demanding a funding level that would create 1.1 million fewer new jobs.

I urge my Republican friends to stop ignoring the plight of the unemployed who have suffered under your failed policies.

Since December, more than 1 million jobless workers have exhausted their regular State unemployment benefits without receiving temporary Federal assistance. Why? Because Republicans allowed the Federal program to expire. Democrats have been asking for the last 6 months to extend that program, as we did under the Reagan administration, as we did under Bush 1. They have refused to do so.

Before we leave Washington this week for a 2-week recess, we should pass an immediate extension of temporary Federal jobless benefits. It is the right thing to do, it is the moral thing to do, and I would suggest to you it is the right thing to do for our economy as well. There is no excuse for failing to act.

Madam Speaker, I hope that when the motion to instruct on the budget resolution is made to have a responsible, effective, historically effective pay-as-you-go process, to discipline our budget so that America's children and America's grandchildren and America's economy will not be put deeper into debt and that we will have an effective enforcement process, which will, like America's families, make tough decisions so that we will have a better future for our country.

VOTE FOR THE MOTION TO INSTRUCT CONFEREES ON THE BUDGET RESOLUTION

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Ms. HARRIS). Pursuant to the order of the House of January 20, 2004, the gentleman from Texas (Mr. STENHOLM) is recognized during morning hour debates for 5 minutes.

Mr. STENHOLM. Madam Speaker, let me follow in the same footsteps of my colleague from Maryland.

Last week, the House passed a budget, a very bitterly debated and very close decision on the final outcome as to which budget we should pass. A lot of speeches were made, a lot of promises were made, but one of the things that was not a part of the budget resolution last week was pay-as-you-go.

Now, our friends on the other side of the Capitol, the other body, in passing their budget they suggested that pay-as-you-go would be a good policy; and they included everything. In my opinion, unless we have everything on the table, spending and revenue, pay-as-you-go will not work as well in 2004 as it did in the 1990s.

There are those that believe there should be a difference. They are the same ones that have succeeded in passing three budgets now in the last 3 years that have given this country the largest fiscal deficits in the history of our country. They are the same ones that are arguing now that pay-as-you-go should only include spending, not revenue. But they are the ones also that should accept the responsibility for their ideas, having, as I said, given this country the largest amount of fiscal deficits in the history of our country.

We borrowed $1 trillion in the last 2½ years. We are going to borrow another trillion dollars in the next year and a half. And yet they argue, and will argue this afternoon on the motion to recommit, that we should only include spending.

Well, the pay-as-you-go resolution that I supported, and it was in the Blue Dog budget, was in the Democratic party alternative, was put everything on the table. If you want to spend more for any purpose, then you have to cut spending somewhere else. If you want to cut taxes, then you have got to cut spending somewhere to make room for them or raise taxes in some other area that will be more proficient, more efficient, and accomplish what needs to be done for the job creation in this country but also for getting our fiscal house in order.

We are not going to wish deficits away. We can argue about this, and we did last week. We can argue about what trade policy we should have. But one thing we cannot argue about, and no one does argue about, is the baby boom generation reaching age 62 in 2008, 65 in 2011, 67 in 2013. That is when the greatest economic pressure that this country has ever known is going to hit us, and that is why it is so important for this Congress and this administration to get real about fiscal responsibility.

Philosophy alone will not cut it. To those that argue that cutting taxes was going to produce more revenue, it didn't. It did not. It came up over $100 billion short. Those of us that believe in pay-as-you-go say that when you advocate a policy, whether it be spending or revenue, and it does not do what you said it was going to do, then you should step up to the plate and pay for it. But, no, those who argue on the other side say we are not going to ask those fortunate to be alive today to pay for it, we are going to send the bill to our grandchildren. We are going to send the bill to them because they cannot vote in November.

Pay-as-you-go is a pretty simple philosophy. Every family in the United States has to adopt pay-as-you-go. Most families do not have the luxury, in fact, they would not even think about one of the solutions to the family problems is to reduce mom's or dad's paycheck and yet reduce that paycheck and live within that means. One would not think about doing that, but that is what the leadership of this House is suggesting. That is what they did even though a very large, I think plurality, maybe majority on the other side of the aisle agrees with those of us that says pay-as-you-go is something that should be part of the budget resolution, and it should be implemented, and it should be implemented with everything on the table.

That is what the motion to instruct conferees tomorrow will be about, and I would encourage my colleagues, both sides of the aisle, to vote for it and put some muscle into the speechifying on budgets in this body.

NATIONAL SECURITY ADVISOR CONDOLEEZZA RICE SHOULD TESTIFY BEFORE THE 9/11 COM- MISSION

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the order of the House of January 20, 2004, the gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER) is recognized during morning hour debates for 5 minutes.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Madam Speaker, National Security Advisor Condoleezza Rice should testify before the 9/11 Commission. She can no longer hide behind the right of executive privilege. Both she and the President should waive their rights to executive privilege in this case. The executive privilege can still be preserved for President Bush and for future presidents in other matters.

There are few matters in our Nation's experience as sobering as the tragic terrorist attack of 9/11. It was the worst homeland attack on our security since Pearl Harbor, and we need a full accounting from the administration about what happened prior to 9/11.

The National Security Advisor has tried to have it both ways. She has commented on the proceedings of the Commission to the press, she has questioned the evidence presented to the Commission, and challenged the integrity of the witnesses testifying under oath, but she refuses to testify in public under oath to the Commission and to the families about what she knew about the events leading up to 9/11, about our efforts to stop terrorism, about our efforts to protect our national security.

The families and the Nation need to know and want to know what exactly happened prior to 9/11. We need Mrs. Rice's testimony under oath to reach a full accounting, especially since she is now from the sidelines publicly contradicting evidence and testimony presented to the Commission.

If Condoleezza Rice has another version of the events and facts, she must come forward and present them to the Nation under oath. Congress, the families, and the public deserve no less.

RECESS

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 12(a) of rule I, the Chair declares the House in recess until 2 p.m.

Accordingly (at 12 o'clock and 55 minutes p.m.), the House stood in recess until 2 p.m.

□ 1400

AFTER RECESS

The recess having expired, the House was called to order by the Speaker pro tempore (Mr. BOOZMAN) at 2 p.m.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, the Reverend Daniel P. Coughlin, offered the following prayer:

Lord God, as soon as we call You "God with us," we realize Your covenant reenacted. You have committed Yourself to be in solidarity, "God with us." You wish to share our joys and pains, defend and protect us. You raise up from within us laments, shouts of praise, and hymns of constancy.

We will never truly know You, Lord God, as a compassionate God until we see You and know Your presence in the midst of our daily grind, at the bottom of our deepest longings, and as the sustaining strength in overwhelming trials.

You have chosen to be with us and love us with all our limitations as a people and as a Nation. So we rejoice in You now and forever. Amen.

THE JOURNAL

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair has examined the Journal of the last day's proceedings and announces to the House his approval thereof.

Pursuant to clause 1, rule I, the Journal stands approved.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Texas (Mr. CARTER) come forward and lead the House in the Pledge of Allegiance.

Mr. CARTER led the Pledge of Allegiance as follows:

I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE

A message from the Senate by Mr. Monahan, one of its clerks, announced that the Senate has passed a bill of the following title in which the concurrence of the House is requested:

S. 2241. An act to reauthorize certain school lunch and child nutrition programs through June 30, 2004.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE CLERK OF THE HOUSE

The SPEAKER pro tempore laid before the House the following communication from the Clerk of the House of Representatives:

OFFICE OF THE CLERK,
HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,
Washington, DC, March 26, 2004.

Hon. J. DENNIS HASTERT,
Speaker, House of Representatives,
Washington, DC.

DEAR MR. SPEAKER: Pursuant to the permission granted in Clause 2(h) of Rule II of the Rules of the U.S. House of Representatives, the Clerk received the following message from the Secretary of the Senate on March 26, 2004 at 9:10 a.m.:

That the Senate passed without amendment H.R. 3926.

With best wishes, I am

Sincerely,

COMMUNICATION FROM THE HON. NANCY PELOSI, DEMOCRATIC LEADER

The SPEAKER pro tempore laid before the House the following communication from the Honorable Nancy Pelosi, Democratic Leader:

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,
OFFICE OF THE DEMOCRATIC LEADER,
March 26, 2004.

Hon. J. DENNIS HASTERT,
Speaker of the House of Representatives,
Washington, DC.

DEAR MR. SPEAKER: Pursuant to (10 U.S.C. 111 note) I hereby appoint retired Army Lt. General H.G. (Pete) Taylor, to the Commission On The Review Of The Overseas Military Facility Structure Of The United States.

Best regards,

NANCY PELOSI.

LIBYA RESPECTS AMERICA'S INITIATIVES

(Mr. WILSON of South Carolina asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. WILSON of South Carolina. Mr. Speaker, in the global war on terrorism, it is reassuring that President George W. Bush is keeping focused on winning the war which was forced on America by the murderous attacks of September 11.

In the midst of Monday morning quarterbacking, we should see the facts of success: the Afghan and Iraqi dictatorships which supported terrorism have met regime change. An emboldened Pakistan has 70,000 troops uprooting terrorists on the border of Afghanistan, and Libya has abandoned its banned weapons programs.

Libya has seen the light. It is reassuring to learn from Thursday's Washington Post that the Libyan dictator's son Saif Islam Qaddafi has made the case for peace and freedom clear to other Arab countries: "Instead of shouting and criticizing the American initiative, you have to bring democracy to your countries, and then there will be no need to fear America or your people."

In conclusion, God bless our troops. We will never forget September 11.

MEDICARE PRESCRIPTION DRUGS

(Ms. SOLIS asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Ms. SOLIS. Mr. Speaker, last week I met with the Esperanza Senior Citizen Club in City Terrace in East Los Angeles to discuss the new Medicare prescription drug law enacted last year. The seniors there had many, many questions. They asked me how the law will affect them and will it provide affordable drugs. Unfortunately, I had to tell them that the law does nothing to lower the cost of prescription drugs. In fact, I told them that it prohibits the Secretary of Health and Human Services from negotiating lower prices. They were star struck. They could not believe that that is what we had passed here in the Congress.

In short, the law increases profits for big pharmaceutical companies and fails to protect seniors. The Esperanza Senior Club was shocked when they learned the truth about the new law because they felt that Congress had abandoned them. They told me to go back to Washington and they told me to renegotiate, to open up a discussion on that piece of legislation, because for them and the district that I represent, still they are not able to afford their drugs, their medications; and they want choices. They wanted to know if they were going to have the same physician caring for them in the HMOs.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 8 of rule XX, the Chair will postpone further proceedings today on motions to suspend the rules on which a recorded vote or the yeas and nays are ordered, or on which the vote is objected to under clause 6 of rule XX.

Record votes on postponed questions will be taken after 6:30 p.m. today.

UTROK ATOLL VESSEL CONVEYANCE

Mr. GILCHREST. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and concur in the Senate amendments to the bill (H.R. 2584) to provide for the conveyance to the Utrok Atoll local government of a decommissioned National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration ship, and for other purposes.

The Clerk read as follows:

Senate amendments:

(1) Page 2, after line 17, insert:

(c) Within 120 days after the date of enactment of this Act, the Utrok Atoll local government, in consultation with the Government of the Republic of the Marshall Islands, shall submit a plan for the use of the vessel to be conveyed under subsection (a) to the House of Representatives Committee on Resources, the House of Representatives Committee on Science, the Senate Committee on Energy and Natural Resources, and the Senate Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation.

(2) Page 4, after line 6, insert:

SEC. 305. REBUILDING FISH STOCKS.

Section 105 of division H of the Consolidated Appropriations Act, 2004, is repealed.

(3) Page 4, after line 6, insert:

TITLE IV—PACIFIC ALBACORE TUNA TREATY

SEC. 401. IMPLEMENTATION.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in section 201, 204, or 307(2) of the Magnuson-Stevens Fishery Conservation and Management Act (16 U.S.C. 1821, 1824, and 1857(2)), foreign fishing may be conducted pursuant to the Treaty between the Government of the United States of America and the Government of Canada on Pacific Coast Albacore Tuna Vessels and Port Privileges, signed at Washington May 26, 1981, including its Annexes and any amendments thereto.

(b) REGULATIONS.—The Secretary of Commerce, with the concurrence of the Secretary of State, may—

(1) promulgate regulations necessary to discharge the obligations of the United States under the Treaty and its Annexes; and

(2) provide for the application of any such regulation to any person or vessel subject to the jurisdiction of the United States, wherever that person or vessel may be located.

(c) ENFORCEMENT.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The Magnuson-Stevens Fishery Conservation and Management Act (16 U.S.C. 1801 et seq.) shall be enforced as if subsection (a) were a provision of that Act. Any reference in the Magnuson-Stevens Fishery Conservation and Management Act (16 U.S.C. 1801 et seq.) to "this Act" or to any provision of that Act, shall be considered to be a reference to that Act as it would be in effect if subsection (a) were a provision of that Act.

(2) REGULATIONS.—The regulations promulgated under subsection (b), shall be enforced as if—

(A) subsection (a) were a provision of the Magnuson-Stevens Fishery Conservation and Management Act (16 U.S.C. 1801 et seq.); and

(B) the regulations were promulgated under that Act.

SEC. 402. SOUTH PACIFIC TUNA TREATY ACT AMENDMENT.

Section 6 of the South Pacific Tuna Act of 1988 (16 U.S.C. 973d(a)) is amended by striking "outside of the 200 nautical mile fisheries zones of the Pacific Island Parties." and inserting "or to fishing by vessels using the longline method in the high seas areas of the Treaty area."

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from Maryland (Mr. GILCHREST) and the gentleman from New Mexico (Mr. UDALL) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Maryland (Mr. GILCHREST).

Mr. GILCHREST. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

H.R. 2584 passed the House on November 11, 2003, by voice vote. The bill, as passed by the House, included a number of important provisions including the transfer of a decommissioned NOAA vessel to the local government of the Utrok Atoll, the reauthorization of the Yukon River Salmon Act of 2000, the reauthorization of the Fishermen's Protective Act of 1967, and a provision to correct and ratify certain promotions within the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration Commissioned Corps.

The Senate has made several additions to the legislation which make it a stronger conservation measure. These additions include language to implement the Pacific Albacore Tuna Treaty, a measure which will help ensure the sustainable conservation and management of the albacore tuna fishery shared by the United States and Canada; and language to allow certain U.S. fishing vessels access to South Pacific tuna stocks consistent with revisions to the 1988 South Pacific Tuna Treaty. The bill was further amended to strike a provision of the Consolidated Appropriations Act of 2004, which would have delayed the implementation of important conservation and management measures in the Northeast multispecies fishery management plan. This provision is important to the continued rebuilding process for New England groundfish stocks and to meet court-ordered timetables.

Finally, the amendments include a requirement that a plan for the use of the decommissioned vessel be submitted to Congress by the local government of the Utrök Atoll in consultation with the government of the Republic of the Marshall Islands.

I urge Members to support these important provisions by voting "aye" on the legislation.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. UDALL of New Mexico. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

(Mr. UDALL of New Mexico asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. UDALL of New Mexico. Mr. Speaker, let me thank the gentleman from Maryland for his hard work and his leadership on this bill.

H.R. 2584 is a noncontroversial piece of legislation previously passed by the House on November 21, 2003, that would convey a decommissioned National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, or NOAA, research vessel, to the local government of Utrök Atoll located in the Republic of the Marshall Islands. The conveyance of this vessel will allow more convenient transportation for the residents of Utrök Atoll who have to make a 265-mile trip to the neighboring island of Majuro to receive testing and critical medical treatments as a result of the U.S. nuclear testing program we conducted in the Northern Marshall Islands between 1946 and 1958.

I commend the Delegate from American Samoa for introducing this legislation to help alleviate the burden shared by the residents of this very remote atoll in the Pacific Ocean.

H.R. 2584 also contains an important provision to address procedural lapses in promotions and appointments within NOAA's commissioned officer corps. It is important not to disrupt the NOAA corps chain of command while our Nation is at war against terrorism. This provision should prevent any future operational or command dysfunctions from arising, and we should act expeditiously to pass it.

This legislation as amended by the other body also contains provisions passed last year by the House in H.R. 2408 to reauthorize the Fishermen's Protective Act and the Yukon River Salmon Act, and two amendments to reauthorize and clarify fisheries management agreements concerning tuna in the Pacific Ocean. None of these are controversial.

I urge Members on both sides to support this legislation.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. GILCHREST. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I would like to thank the gentleman from American Samoa (Mr. FALEOMAVAEGA), the gentleman from New Mexico (Mr. UDALL), and the staff on both sides of the aisle for helping to bring this measure to the floor. I hope for a unanimous vote later on this afternoon.

Mr. Speaker, I include for the RECORD an exchange of letters between the chairman of the Committee on Science and the chairman of the Committee on Resources regarding this legislation.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,
COMMITTEE ON SCIENCE,
Washington, DC, March 26, 2004.

Hon. RICHARD W. POMBO,
Chairman, Committee on Resources, House of Representatives, Longworth House Office Building, Washington, DC.

DEAR MR. CHAIRMAN: I understand that the House plans to take up H.R. 2584 as amended by the Senate. Thank you for your support in having the Committee on Science added to the list of Committees to which the Utrök Atoll local government must report after receipt and use of the decommissioned National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration ship.

The Committee on Science supports passage of this bill as amended, but wishes to clarify the Committee's jurisdiction over the NOAA Corps. Based on conversations with the Office of the Parliamentarian, the Committee on Science understands it would receive a sequential referral of legislation involving the NOAA Corps.

Recognizing your wish that the House of Representatives consider this bill as soon as possible, I will not exercise the Committee's right to a sequential referral of H.R. 2584 based on the Committee's jurisdiction over the NOAA Corps. This decision to forgo a sequential referral does not waive the Committee's future jurisdiction over the NOAA Corps.

I ask that you include our exchange of letters on this matter in Congressional Record during floor consideration of H.R. 2584.

Thank you for your consideration regarding this matter.

Sincerely,
SHERWOOD L. BOEHLERT,
Chairman.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,
COMMITTEE ON RESOURCES,
Washington, DC, March 26, 2004.

Hon. SHERWOOD BOEHLERT,
Chairman, Committee on Science, Rayburn HOB, Washington, DC.

DEAR MR. CHAIRMAN: Thank you for your letter regarding H.R. 2584, a bill to provide for the conveyance to the Utrök Atoll local government of a decommissioned National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration ship, and for other purposes. The Senate has returned the bill to us with additional provisions and I appreciate your cooperation in allowing it to be considered expeditiously by the House of Representatives.

Based on discussions with the Office of the Parliamentarian, the Committee on Science would be entitled to a sequential referral of the portion of the bill containing the text of S. 886, which was added to H.R. 2584 during the original Floor consideration of the bill on November 21, 2003. Because the Committee on Resources plans to consider S. 886 only in the context of H.R. 2584, I appreciate your willingness not to seek a referral of the amended bill. By doing so, I agree that the Committee on Science does not waive jurisdiction over this provision, nor does it serve as precedent for any future referrals. In addition, I will be happy to include our exchange of letters on this issue in the Congressional Record at the appropriate time.

Thank you again for your cooperation on this and many other issues between our committees.

Sincerely,

RICHARD W. POMBO.

Mr. FALEOMAVAEGA. Mr. Speaker, again, I rise in support of H.R. 2584, a bill I introduced to assist our friends from Utrök Atoll as they continue efforts to resettle and rehabilitate their islands as a result of the effects of the United States nuclear testing in the Republic of the Marshall Islands (RMI).

At this time, I would like to thank Chairman RICHARD POMBO and Ranking Member NICK RAHALL of the Resources Committee for their continued support of Pacific Island issues. I would also like to thank my distinguished colleagues and co-sponsors—Congressmen ANIBAL ACEVEDO-VILA, DAN BURTON, JOHN DOOLITTLE, ELTON GALLEGLEY, JEFF FLAKE, and Congresswoman MADELEINE BORDALLO.

I would also like to thank members of the Senate for voting in favor of this legislation. The purpose of this legislation is to authorize the Secretary of Commerce to convey a decommissioned, operable NOAA vessel to the Government of Utrök. The vessel will be used to provide support for radiological monitoring, rehabilitation and resettlement of Utrök, an atoll that is part of the Republic of the Marshall Islands.

During the 1940s and 50s, many of the Marshall Island atolls were devastated by the effects of U.S. nuclear testing activities. From 1946 to 1958, the United States detonated 67 nuclear weapons in the Marshall Islands, representing nearly 80 percent of all atmospheric tests ever conducted by the United States. If one were to calculate the net yield of these tests, it would be equivalent to the detonation of 1.7 Hiroshima bombs every day for 12 years.

On March 1, 1954, at 6:45 a.m. at the Bikini Atoll in the Marshall Islands, the United States detonated the Bravo shot, a 15 megaton hydrogen bomb 1,000 times more powerful than the bomb dropped on Hiroshima. Acknowledged as the greatest nuclear explosion ever detonated, the Bravo test vaporized 6 islands and created a mushroom cloud 25 miles in diameter.

Residents of Utrök atoll were forced to evacuate 72 hours after the miscalculated Bravo shot. Two months later, the U.S. assured the people of Utrök that it was safe to return home. The U.S. now acknowledges that it was a grave mistake to return the people to Utrök only 2 months after the detonation of Bravo.

Utrök residents have since suffered severe health problems and genetic anomalies. Today, the people of Utrök are seeking to rehabilitate their home island so that it is a safe place to live. Last year, a comprehensive scientific report recommended a potassium fertilizer treatment to accompany the ongoing resettlement process on Utrök, a treatment which would suppress the remaining radioactive Cesium-137 in the soil and prevent its further uptake in the food supply.

In addition, the U.S. Department of Energy (DOE) concluded a Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) with Utrök that committed the DOE to build a Whole Body Counting (WBC) facility in order to monitor radioactivity levels in the people of Utrök. This new facility is located about 265 miles away in Majuro and will be used to ensure that the potassium fertilizer regime is effective and the administration of the fertilizer treatment is done properly.

However, Utrök residents are responsible for their own transportation to Majuro. Transportation by plane is expensive and available only once per week. Air service is also unreliable as the Utrök runway is in disrepair and the airline often declines to land. Travel by commercial ships, although less expensive, is infrequent.

One solution to help facilitate transport between Utrök and Majuro is to transfer a decommissioned NOAA vessel to the Utrök Atoll Local Government. In addition to transport of Utrök residents to the WBC facility, the vessel will be used for moving several tons of potassium fertilizer, transporting equipment and materials for radiological remediation, and transporting USDA food supplies. Because of the Cesium-137 contamination in locally grown food, at least 50 percent of the diet of Utrök residents must be imported to limit the risk of radiological poisoning.

The Utrök Atoll Local Government fully supports this measure and adopted a resolution (022-03) on July 4th 2003 stating that the NOAA vessel transfer would be "one of the crucial needs that will fully support our future goals to develop, rehabilitate and resettle the atoll after the aftermath of the Bravo fallout." The Utrök Government also expects the ship to be available for use by other atolls for their respective communities, who will help pay for the ongoing maintenance of the vessel.

As the Ranking Member of the House International Relations Subcommittee on Asia and the Pacific, I am hopeful that this bill will remind Congress of our ongoing responsibility to the people of RMI for the mistakes the United States made regarding its nuclear testing activities in the Asia Pacific region. Once again, I thank my colleagues in the House and Senate for their support and I urge final passage of this important legislation.

Mr. UDALL of New Mexico. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. GILCHREST. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Maryland (Mr. GILCHREST) that the House suspend the rules and concur in the Senate amendments to the bill, H.R. 2584.

The question was taken.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. In the opinion of the Chair, two-thirds of those present have voted in the affirmative.

Mr. GILCHREST. Mr. Speaker, on that I demand the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 8 of rule XX and the Chair's prior announcement, further proceedings on this motion will be postponed.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. GILCHREST. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days in which to revise and extend their remarks on H.R. 2584, the bill just considered.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Maryland?

There was no objection.

VAUGHN GROSS POST OFFICE BUILDING

Mr. CARTER. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the bill (H.R. 3723) to designate the facility of the United States Postal Service located at 8135 Forest Lane in Dallas, Texas, as the "Vaughn Gross Post Office Building".

The Clerk read as follows:

H.R. 3723

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. VAUGHN GROSS POST OFFICE BUILDING.

(a) DESIGNATION.—The facility of the United States Postal Service located at 8135 Forest Lane in Dallas, Texas, shall be known and designated as the "Vaughn Gross Post Office Building".

(b) REFERENCES.—Any reference in a law, map, regulation, document, paper, or other record of the United States to the facility referred to in subsection (a) shall be deemed to be a reference to the Vaughn Gross Post Office Building.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from Texas (Mr. CARTER) and the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. DAVIS) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Texas (Mr. CARTER).

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. CARTER. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on the bill under consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. BOOZMAN). Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Texas?

There was no objection.

Mr. CARTER. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

On behalf of the Committee on Government Reform, I am pleased to rise in support of H.R. 3723. This meaningful legislation designates the Dallas Postal Service facility as the "Vaughn Gross Post Office Building."

Vaughn Gross has spent 35 years educating children in Texas and more than 30 of those years working in the Richardson Independent School District outside of Dallas. She began her career in the district by teaching special education classes at Skyview and Canyon Creek Elementary Schools in the 1970s. She later taught second grade students for 5 years at Northlake Elementary.

Ultimately, Vaughn Gross worked her way up to become Assistant Principal at Aiken Elementary in 1989. In 1992, she held the same position at Brenfield Elementary School. A year later, she was elevated to Principal, a capacity in which she served for 6 years. In 1999, Vaughn Gross moved over to Hamilton Park Magnet School to act as principal there. Today, Ms. Gross is Assistant Superintendent For Curriculum and Instruction in the Richardson School District.

Mr. Speaker, Vaughn Gross is a respected, appreciated leader in the Dallas area. She earned a Teacher of the Year Award from the Richardson Association of Children with Learning Disabilities in 1977 and PTA life membership status in 1999. She is precisely the type of quality individual after whom the Congress ought to name post offices in our great Nation.

I commend the gentleman from Texas (Mr. SESSIONS) for introducing H.R. 3723. I know the gentleman from Texas genuinely wanted to be present, and I will be submitting a statement for the RECORD on behalf of the gentleman from Texas (Mr. SESSIONS).

Mr. Speaker, I strongly urge every Member of the House to support H.R. 3723.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. DAVIS of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, as a Member of the House Committee on Government Reform, I am pleased to join with my colleagues in consideration of H.R. 3723, legislation naming a postal facility in Dallas, Texas, after Vaughn Gross. This measure, which was introduced by the gentleman from Texas (Mr. SESSIONS) on January 21, 2004, and unanimously reported by our committee on March 4, 2004, enjoys the support and cosponsorship of the entire Texas delegation.

A graduate of the University of Texas with a degree in special education, Mrs. Gross has dedicated her life to teaching and working with children with learning disabilities. Her vast teaching experience has not gone unnoticed or unappreciated. Mrs. Gross has won the distinguished Teacher of the Year from the Richardson Association of Children with Learning Disabilities and has achieved the Parent Teacher Association life membership status.

Currently, Mrs. Gross is serving as the Assistant Superintendent in the Richardson Independent School District. She is involved in a number of community organizations such as the Psychoanalysis Professional Development and Appraisal System, the District Instructional Strategies Committee, the Central Math Textbook Committee, and the Richardson Independent School District Professional Development Strategic Action Team.

And, finally, Mrs. Gross has received her school district's Silver Cup Award for Community on Campus and has been nominated for the YMCA Women of Achievement Award.

Mr. Speaker, it is obvious that Mrs. Gross has a distinguished record of community service, and although it is oftentimes unusual while people are still available to achieve these kinds of recognitions to see that the people of her community and that the gentleman from Texas (Mr. SESSIONS), her representative in Congress, thinks enough of her dedication to name this postal facility in her honor, I am pleased to join with him and urge swift adoption of this measure.

Mr. SESSIONS. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to an exceptional educator in the 32nd Congressional District of Texas with this legislation H.R. 3723, "To designate the facility of the United States Postal Service located at 8135 Forest Lane in Dallas, Texas, as the 'Vaughn Gross Post Office Building.'"

I am pleased to honor Vaughn Gross with the naming of this post office. It is a fitting tribute to a career educator who has served children with special needs and disabilities with excellence and distinction.

As a father of a child with special needs, I know firsthand that it takes an extraordinary person to educate children with disabilities. It requires both love and passion to be able to accomplish this tough task, and I admire Mrs. Gross for her drive and determination to improve the lives of children with disabilities.

Vaughn Gross began her career in education 36 years ago as an innovative classroom teacher for children with special needs and disabilities at Wooten Elementary School in Austin, Texas. For the past 30 years, she has served with the Richardson Independent School District. From 1993 until 1999, Mrs. Gross held the position of Principal of Brentfield Elementary School. From 1999 until 2003, she was the Principal of Hamilton Park Pacesetter Magnet School. Mrs. Gross currently serves as the Assistant Superintendent for Curriculum and Instruction.

Few in school administrations come from special education backgrounds, so it is notable that Mrs. Gross has been able to continue her commitment to improving special education as she transitioned from the classroom into her current administrative position.

All too often, we as a society do not give the appropriate recognition to dedicated teachers who go above and beyond the call of duty to educate those children with disabilities and special needs. Mrs. Gross has dedicated her life to furthering the education of the countless children who have benefited from her years of experience.

I believe that this legislation not only honors Mrs. Gross, but also pays a fitting tribute to the scores of educators in Texas and throughout the country who specialize in teaching our children with disabilities and special needs.

In addition to teaching her students, Mrs. Gross has made tremendous efforts to share her successful techniques with other educators in Texas to help improve the teaching of students outside of her home school district. I have always been impressed with her abilities, and I sincerely wish her all the best as she continues her career with the Richardson Independent School District.

Mr. DAVIS of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. CARTER. Mr. Speaker, I urge all Members to support the passage of H.R. 3723. I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Texas (Mr. CARTER) that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 3723.

The question was taken.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. In the opinion of the Chair, two-thirds of those present have voted in the affirmative.

Mr. CARTER. Mr. Speaker, on that I demand the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 8 of rule XX and the Chair's prior announcement, further proceedings on this motion will be postponed.

MAXINE S. POSTAL UNITED STATES POST OFFICE

Mr. CARTER. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the bill (H.R. 3917) to designate the facility of the United States Postal Service located at 695 Marconi Boulevard in Copiague, New York, as the "Maxine S. Postal United States Post Office".

The Clerk read as follows:

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. MAXINE S. POSTAL UNITED STATES POST OFFICE.

(a) DESIGNATION.—The facility of the United States Postal Service located at 695 Marconi Boulevard in Copiague, New York, shall be known and designated as the "Maxine S. Postal United States Post Office".

(b) REFERENCES.—Any reference in a law, map, regulation, document, paper, or other record of the United States to the facility referred to in subsection (a) shall be deemed to be a reference to the Maxine S. Postal United States Post Office.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from Texas (Mr. CARTER) and the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. DAVIS) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Texas (Mr. CARTER).

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. CARTER. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on the bill under consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Texas?

There was no objection.

Mr. CARTER. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, H.R. 3917, introduced by the distinguished gentleman from New York (Mr. ISRAEL), designates the facility of the United States Postal Service located at 695 Marconi Boulevard in Copiague, New York, as the "Maxine S. Postal United States Post Office Building."

Since first being elected in 1987, Maxine Postal was an esteemed member of the Suffolk County Legislature in New York. There is little question that she was an effective public servant and respected across political party lines. Her hallmarks in the legislature included fighting for tax relief, promoting community recycling programs, and revitalizing area recreation centers for citizens of Suffolk County.

Outside of her work in the legislature, her community contributions included serving as treasurer of the Amityville Board of Education and founding a library and a local soccer league.

Mr. Speaker, one cannot capture the worth of a local leader like Maxine Postal in a mere list of accomplishments. That is why I am pleased that enactment of this legislation will immortalize her legacy by naming a post office after her in the town she represented in the county legislature.

Mr. Speaker, Maxine Postal sadly passed away on New Year's Day, 2004, succumbing to a rare brain disorder known as CJD. She had announced her resignation from the legislature just days before she died. Maxine Postal was a valued public servant who is most deserving of this post office commemoration.

I thank the gentleman from New York for advancing this legislation through the Committee on Government Reform to the House floor for consideration today. I urge all Members to support H.R. 3917 that honors Maxine Postal.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. DAVIS of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

As a member of the House Committee on Government Reform, I am pleased to join with my colleague in the consideration of H.R. 3917, legislation naming a postal facility in Copiague, New York, after Maxine Postal. This measure, which was introduced by the gentleman from New York (Mr. ISRAEL) on March 9, 2004, and unanimously reported by our committee on March 18, 2004, enjoys the support and cosponsorship of the entire New York delegation.

Maxine Postal was born in Brooklyn, New York, in 1942. She grew up in Brooklyn, was educated in Brooklyn, and taught school in Brooklyn. In 1968, she opened the Busy Bee Nursery School and Kindergarten in Brooklyn, New York. Mrs. Postal used her vast teaching experience and expertise to serve as president of the Hauppauge Library Board and later as president of the Amityville Board of Education.

In the late 1980s, Mrs. Postal was elected to the Suffolk County Legislature where she served for 15 years until her death of Creutzfeldt-Jakob, a rare brain disorder, on New Year's Day at a hospice on West Palm Beach, Florida.

While an active member of the county legislature, Mrs. Postal was a liberal Democrat, I like that, dedicated to improving the lives of those in her community. She was a tireless advocate for the homeless, the downtrodden, and the poor, using her position on the social services committee to better living conditions for those living on the streets. She was a woman of the people who fought for everyone and championed the rights of all to live free from discrimination and oppression.

Mr. Speaker, I am proud to join the sponsor in honoring the life of Maxine Postal and pleased that we are seeking to remember her good works, her good deeds, her advocacy for the poor, the downtrodden, those who are oftentimes forgotten. So it is my pleasure to urge swift passage of this resolution.

I know that the gentleman from New York (Mr. ISRAEL) had wanted to be present but could not make it, and I wanted to indicate that so that, as sponsor of this legislation, his name is listed in the RECORD as individuals pick up the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD and see or read the proceedings.

Mr. ISRAEL. Mr. Speaker, I would like to first begin by thanking the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. DAVIS), the Gentleman from California (Mr. WAXMAN) and all members of the Committee of Government Reform for reporting H.R. 3917 so promptly.

I also thank the gentleman from Texas (Mr. CARTER) and the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. DAVIS) for managing debate on this bill that honors former Suffolk County Presiding Officer Maxine S. Postal, who died so tragically this past January after a courageous battle with the rare brain disorder Creutzfeld-Jakob.

Mr. Speaker, I rise today to ask Members to support H.R. 3917, a bill I introduced that designates the Copiague, New York post office as the Maxine S. Postal United States Post Office.

The speed this legislation moved through the House is a tribute to the great respect and admiration held for Maxine Postal. She was a good friend and wonderful public servant.

Maxine was born in Brooklyn, New York on November 24, 1942. She graduated from Brooklyn College, achieving a master's degree in fine arts.

For the past three decades, Maxine served her Long Island community with distinction and tireless dedication.

I had the honor of first knowing Maxine and working with her in 1987, when she became the first woman to represent the 15th Legislative District in Suffolk County.

Maxine achieved many legislative accomplishments, including efforts to protect the environment through recycling and preserving open space, ease the tax burden, ensure access to better health care and treatment, and work to revitalize and beautify community centers.

She never stopped fighting for the best interests of the people she represented, the working families of Suffolk County.

Maxine died on New Year's Day, a few weeks after being diagnosed with Creutzfeld-Jakob Disease. CJD is an extremely rare brain disorder, affecting only one person in a million.

Maxine was diagnosed with the sporadic form, which is not associated with contaminated beef like the variant form. In most cases, CJD causes the rapid development of neurological and neuro-muscular symptoms and often proves fatal in less than a year after the disorder becomes apparent.

To those of us who knew Maxine, we will remember her bravery and courageous battle against this fatal disease.

We will continue to miss her, but will always be inspired by her leadership. She had an unparalleled ability to stand firmly on principle while bringing diverse views together in bipartisan coalitions that moved Suffolk County forward.

Franky, not just Suffolk County but New York and our country could use more elected officials like Maxine Postal. She is a model of what a public servant can and should be.

The Maxine S. Postal United States Post Office will serve as a lasting tribute to her many years of public service and her invaluable impact on Suffolk County. So that years from now, a new generation of Long Islanders will cherish her service and honor her memory.

She was an extraordinary New Yorker, a proud American and a vital member of our community.

I ask for my colleagues' unanimous support of H.R. 3917 in honor of Maxine S. Postal's bravery and outstanding accomplishments.

Mr. DAVIS of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. CARTER. Mr. Speaker, I urge all Members to support the passage of H.R. 3917. Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Texas (Mr. CARTER) that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 3917.

The question was taken.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. In the opinion of the Chair, two-thirds of those present have voted in the affirmative.

Mr. CARTER. Mr. Speaker, on that I demand the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 8 of rule XX and the Chair's prior announcement, further proceedings on this motion will be postponed.

RECESS

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 12(a) of rule I, the Chair declares the House in recess until approximately 6:30 p.m. today.

Accordingly (at 2 o'clock and 29 minutes p.m.), the House stood in recess until approximately 6:30 p.m. today.

AFTER RECESS

The recess having expired, the House was called to order by the Speaker pro tempore (Mr. CULBERSON) at 6 o'clock and 30 minutes p.m.

REPORT ON RESOLUTION PROVIDING FOR CONSIDERATION OF H.R. 3966, ROTC AND MILITARY RECRUITER EQUAL ACCESS TO CAMPUS ACT OF 2004

Mrs. MYRICK, from the Committee on Rules, submitted a privileged report (Rept. No. 108-451) on the resolution (H.

Res. 580) providing for consideration of the bill (H.R. 3966) to amend title 10, United States Code, and the Homeland Security Act of 2002 to improve the ability of the Department of Defense to establish and maintain Senior Reserve Officer Training Corps units at institutions of higher education, to improve the ability of students to participate in Senior ROTC programs, and to ensure that institutions of higher education provide military recruiters entry to campuses and access to students that is at least equal in quality and scope to that provided to any other employer, which was referred to the House Calendar and ordered to be printed.

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION ON THE BUDGET FOR FISCAL YEAR 2005

Mr. NUSSLE. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to take from the Speaker's table the Senate concurrent resolution (S. Con. Res. 95) setting forth the congressional budget for the United States Government for fiscal year 2005 and including the appropriate budgetary levels for fiscal years 2006 through 2009, and ask for its immediate consideration in the House.

TITLE II—RECONCILIATION

SEC. 201. RECONCILIATION IN THE SENATE.

(a) TAX RELIEF.—The Senate Committee on Finance shall report a reconciliation bill not later than September 30, 2004, that consists of changes in laws within its jurisdiction sufficient to reduce revenues by not more than $12,311,000,000 for fiscal year 2005 and $80,642,000,000 for the period of fiscal years 2005 through 2009, and to increase outlays by not more than $2,000,000,000 for the period of fiscal years 2005 through 2009.

(b) INCREASE IN STATUTORY DEBT LIMIT.—The Committee on Finance shall report a reconciliation bill not later than September 30, 2004, that consists solely of changes in laws within its jurisdiction to increase the statutory debt limit by $664,028,000,000.

TITLE III—RESERVE FUNDS AND ADJUSTMENTS

Subtitle A—Reserve Funds

SEC. 301. RESERVE FUND FOR HEALTH INSURANCE FOR THE UNINSURED.

If the Committee on Finance or the Committee on Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions of the Senate reports a bill or joint resolution, or an amendment thereto is offered or a conference report thereon is submitted, that provides health insurance or expands access to care for the uninsured (including a measure providing for tax deductions for the purchase of health insurance or other measures) and including legislation to reallocate and maintain expiring SCHIP funds rather than allowing such funds to revert to the Treasury, increases access to health insurance through lowering costs, and does not increase the costs of current health insurance coverage, the chairman of the Committee on the Budget may revise allocations of new budget authority and outlays, the revenue aggregates, and other appropriate aggregates to reflect such legislation, provided that such legislation would not increase the deficit for fiscal year 2005 and for the period of fiscal years 2005 through 2009.

SEC. 302. RESERVE FUND FOR HIGHER EDUCATION.

If the Committee on Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions of the Senate reports a bill or joint resolution, or if an amendment thereto is offered or a conference report thereon is submitted, that provides, funding for—

(1) the reauthorization of the Higher Education Act of 1965, the chairman of the Committee on the Budget may revise committee allocations for that committee and other appropriate budgetary aggregates and allocations of new budget authority and outlays by the amount provided by that measure for that purpose, but not to exceed $1,000,000,000 in new budget authority and $1,000,000,000 in outlays for fiscal year 2005, $5,000,000,000 in new budget authority and $5,000,000,000 in outlays for the period of fiscal years 2005 through 2009; and

(2) a measure that eliminates the accumulated shortfall of budget authority resulting from insufficient appropriations of discretionary new budget authority previously enacted for the Federal Pell Grant Program for awards made through award year 2004–2005, the chairman of the Committee on the Budget may revise the committee allocation and other appropriate budgetary aggregates by the amount provided by that measure for that purpose, but not to exceed $3,700,000,000 in new budget authority only for fiscal year 2005.

SEC. 303. RESERVE FOR ENERGY LEGISLATION.

If a measure, predominately within the jurisdiction of the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources of the Senate (including a bill or joint resolution, an amendment or a conference report), is considered in the Senate that provides for a national energy policy and does not reduce revenues by more than $1,785,000,000 in 2005 and $15,092,000,000 for the period of fiscal years 2005 through 2009, the chairman of the Committee on the Budget may revise committee allocations for that committee and other appropriate budgetary aggregates and allocation of new budget authority and outlays by the amount provided by that measure for that purpose, but not to exceed $261,000,000 in new budget authority and $221,000,000 in outlays for fiscal year 2005 and $1,465,000,000 in new budget authority and $1,465,000,000 in outlays for the period of fiscal years 2005 through 2009.

SEC. 304. RESERVE FUND FOR GUARD AND RESERVE HEALTH CARE.

If the Committee on Armed Services or the Committee on Appropriations reports a bill or joint resolution, or an amendment thereto is offered or a conference report thereon is submitted that expands access to health care for members of the reserve component, the Chairman of the Committee on the Budget may revise allocations of new budget authority and outlays, the revenue aggregates, other appropriate aggregates, and the discretionary spending limits to reflect such legislation, providing that such legislation—

(1) would not increase the deficit for fiscal year 2005 and for the period of fiscal years 2005 through 2009, or would offset such deficit increases through reduction of unobligated balances from Iraqi reconstruction; and

(2) does not exceed $5,600,000,000 for the period of fiscal years 2005 through 2009.

SEC. 305. RESERVE FUND FOR MONTGOMERY GI BILL BENEFITS.

If the Committee on Armed Services or the Committee on Appropriations reports a bill or joint resolution, or an amendment thereto is offered or a conference report thereon is submitted, that increases benefit levels under the Montgomery GI Bill for members of the Selected Reserves, the Chairman of the Committee on the Budget may revise allocations of new budget authority and outlays, the revenue aggregates, other appropriate aggregates, and the discretionary spending limits to reflect such legislation, providing that such legislation—

(1) would not increase the deficit for fiscal year 2005 and for the period of fiscal years 2005 through 2009; and

(2) does not exceed $1,200,000,000 for the period of fiscal years 2005 through 2009.

SEC. 306. RESERVE FOR FUNDING OF HOPE CREDIT.

If the Committee on Finance of the Senate reports a bill or joint resolution, or an amendment thereto is offered or a conference report thereon is submitted, that increases the Hope credit to $4,000, makes the credit available for 4 years, and makes the credit refundable, the chairman of the Committee on the Budget may revise committee allocations for the Committee on Finance and other appropriate budgetary aggregates and allocations of new budget authority and outlays by the amount provided by that measure for that purpose, if it would not increase the deficit for fiscal year 2005 or for the total of fiscal years 2005 through 2009.

SEC. 307. RESERVE FUND FOR EXPANSION OF PEDIATRIC VACCINE DISTRIBUTION PROGRAM.

If the Committee on Finance of the Senate reports a bill or joint resolution, or an amendment thereto is offered or a conference report thereon is submitted, that expands the pediatric vaccine distribution program established under section 1928 of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 1396s) to include coverage for children administered a vaccine at a public health clinic or Indian clinic and repeals the price cap for pre-1993 vaccines, the chairman of the Committee on the Budget may revise allocations of new budget authority and outlays, the revenue aggregates, and other appropriate aggregates to reflect such legislation, provided that such legislation would not increase the deficit for fiscal year 2005 and for the period of fiscal years 2005 through 2009.

SEC. 308. RESERVE FUND FOR ADDRESSING MINORITY HEALTH DISPARITIES.

If the Committee on Appropriations of the Senate reports a bill or joint resolution, or an amendment thereto is offered or a conference report thereon is submitted, that addresses minority health disparities through activities including those at the HHS Office of Minority Health, the Office of Civil Rights, the National Center on Minority Health and Health Disparities, the Minority HIV/AIDS initiative, health professions training, and through the Racial and Ethnic Approaches to Community Health at the Centers for Disease Control and provides not to exceed $400,000,000 in new budget authority for fiscal year 2005, the chairman of the Committee on the Budget may revise allocations of new budget authority and outlays and other appropriate aggregates to reflect such legislation, provided that such legislation would not increase the deficit for fiscal year 2005 and for the period of fiscal years 2005 through 2009.

SEC. 309. RESERVE FOR POSTAL SERVICE REFORM.

If the Committee on Governmental Affairs of the Senate reports a bill or joint resolution, or an amendment thereto is offered or a conference report thereon is submitted, that reforms the United States Postal Service to improve its economic viability, the Chairman of the Committee on the Budget may revise committee allocations for the Committee on Governmental Affairs and other appropriate budgetary aggregates and allocations of new budget authority and outlays by the amount provided by that measure for that purpose, if that measure would not increase the deficit for fiscal year 2005 and for the period of fiscal years 2005 through 2009.

Subtitle B—Adjustments With Respect to Discretionary Spending

SEC. 311. ADJUSTMENT FOR SURFACE TRANSPORTATION.

(a) IN GENERAL.—If the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure of the House or the Committee on Environment and Public Works, the Committee on Banking, Housing, and Urban Affairs, or the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation of the Senate reports a bill or joint resolution, or if an amendment thereto is offered or a conference report thereon is submitted, that provides new budget authority for the budget accounts or portions thereof in the highway and transit categories as defined in subparagraphs (B) and (C) of section 250(c)(4) of the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985 in excess of—

(1) for fiscal year 2005, $41,772,000,000; or the chairman of the Committee on the Budget may adjust the appropriate budget aggregates and increase the allocation of new budget authority to such committee for fiscal year 2005 and for the period of fiscal years 2005 through 2009 to the extent such excess is offset by an increase in net new user-fee receipts related to the purposes of the highway trust fund that are appropriated to such fund for the applicable fiscal year caused by such legislation. In the Senate, any increase in receipts shall be reported from the Committee on Finance.

(2) for fiscal years 2005 through 2009, $207,293,000,000;

(b) ADJUSTMENT FOR OUTLAYS.—(1) For fiscal year 2005, in the Senate, if a bill or joint resolution is reported, or if an amendment thereto is offered or a conference report thereon is submitted, that changes obligation limitations such that the total limitations are in excess of $40,600,000,000 for fiscal year 2005, for programs, projects, and activities within the highway and transit categories as defined in subparagraphs (B) and (C) of section 250(c)(4) of the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985 and if legislation has been enacted that satisfies the conditions set forth in subsection (a) for such fiscal year, the appropriate chairman of the Committee on the Budget may increase the allocation of outlays and appropriate aggregates for such fiscal year for the committee reporting such measure by the amount of outlays that corresponds to such excess obligation limitations, but not to exceed the amount of such excess that was offset in 2005 pursuant to subsection (a).

(2) For fiscal year 2006, in the Senate, if a bill or joint resolution is reported, or if an amendment thereto is offered or a conference report thereon is submitted, that changes obligation limitations such that the total limitations are in excess of $40,621,000,000 for fiscal year 2005, for programs, projects, and activities within the highway and transit categories as defined in subparagraphs (B) and (C) of section 250(c)(4) of the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985 and if legislation has been enacted that satisfies the conditions set forth in subsection (a) for such fiscal year, the chairman of the Committee on the Budget may increase the allocation of outlays and appropriate aggregates for such fiscal year for the committee reporting such measure by the amount of outlays that corresponds to such excess obligation limitations, but not to exceed the amount of such excess that was offset in 2006 pursuant to subsection (a).

SEC. 312. SUPPLEMENTAL APPROPRIATIONS FOR IRAQ AND RELATED ACTIVITIES FOR FISCAL YEAR 2005.

If the President transmits a budget request for additional resources for activities in Iraq and Afghanistan and if the Committee on Appropriations of the Senate reports legislation providing additional discretionary appropriations in excess of the levels assumed in this resolution for defense-related activities for fiscal year 2005, the chairman of the Committee on the Budget may revise the allocation (and all other appropriate levels and aggregates set out in this resolution) for that committee for such purpose but not to exceed: $30,000,000,000 in new budget authority for fiscal year 2005 and the outlays that flow therefrom.

SEC. 313. ADJUSTMENT FOR WILDLAND FIRE SUPPRESSION.

(a) FINDINGS.—The Senate makes the following findings:

(1) Due to the expansion of the wildland urban interface, severe drought conditions in many regions of the country, and the poor health of the Nation's forests and rangelands, the Forest Service and Department of the Interior regularly spend more than the amount appropriated for fire suppression, and then borrow from other accounts to pay for fire suppression.

(2) This borrowing has a negative effect on many Forest Service and Department of the Interior programs.

(3) This resolution provides an amount equal to the 10-year average for fire suppression in fiscal year 2005.

(4) The Senate recommends that the Forest Service and the Department of the Interior address cost containment within the fire suppression account, and report to Congress regarding how funds appropriated pursuant to this section are used.

(b) CAP ADJUSTMENT.—

(1) DEFINITION.—For this subsection, the term "base amount" refers to the average of the obligations of the preceding 10 years for wildfire suppression in the Forest Service and the Department of the Interior, calculated as of the date of the applicable year's budget request is submitted by the President to Congress.

(2) ADJUSTMENTS FOR FISCAL YEARS 2005 AND 2006.—If the amount appropriated for Wildland Fire Suppression in a fiscal year is not less than the base amount, then the chairman of the Committee on the Budget may adjust the appropriate allocations and other budgetary levels in the most recently agreed to concurrent resolution on the budget for any bill, joint resolution, amendment, motion, or conference report that provides additional funding for wildland fire suppression, but not to exceed—

(A) for the Forest Service—

(i) for fiscal year 2005, $400,000,000; and

(ii) for fiscal year 2006, $400,000,000; and

(B) for the Department of the Interior—

(i) for fiscal year 2005, $100,000,000; and

(ii) for fiscal year 2006, $100,000,000.

(3) SPECIAL RULE FOR FISCAL YEAR 2004.—If additional funding for wildland fire suppression for fiscal year 2004 is provided in a bill, joint resolution, amendment, motion, or conference report, then the chairman of the Committee on the Budget may determine that such amounts shall not be counted for the purposes of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974 and this resolution, provided that such amounts do not exceed—

(A) for the Forest Service, for fiscal year 2004, $400,000,000; and

(B) for the Department of the Interior, for fiscal year 2004, $100,000,000.

SEC. 314. RESERVE FUND FOR ELIMINATING SURVIVOR BENEFIT PLAN-SOCIAL SECURITY OFFSET.

If the Committee on Armed Services or the Committee on Appropriations reports a bill or joint resolution, or an amendment thereto is offered or a conference report thereon is submitted, that provides for an increase to the minimum Survivor Benefit Plan basic annuity for surviving spouses age 62 and older, the Chairman of the Committee on the Budget shall revise the aggregates, functional totals, allocations, discretionary caps, and other appropriate levels and limits in this resolution by up to $2,757,000,000 in budget authority and $2,757,000,000 in outlays over the total of fiscal years 2005 through 2009.

TITLE IV—BUDGET ENFORCEMENT

SEC. 401. RESTRICTIONS ON ADVANCE APPROPRIATIONS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in subsection (b), it shall not be in order in the Senate to consider any bill, joint resolution, motion, amendment, or conference report that would provide an advance appropriation.

(b) ACCOUNTS.—An advance appropriation may be provided for fiscal years 2006 and 2007 for programs, projects, activities, or accounts identified in the joint explanatory statement of managers accompanying this resolution under the heading "Accounts Identified for Advance Appropriations" in an aggregate amount not to exceed $23,158,000,000 in new budget authority in each year.

(c) POINT OF ORDER.—

(1) WAIVER.—In the Senate, subsection (a) may be waived or suspended only by an affirmative vote of three-fifths of the Members, duly chosen and sworn. An affirmative vote of three-fifths of the Members of the Senate, duly chosen and sworn, shall be required to sustain an appeal of the ruling of the Chair on a point of order raised under subsection (a).

(2) PROCEDURE.—A point of order under subsection (a) may be raised by a Senator as provided in section 313(e) of Congressional Budget Act of 1974.

(3) CONFERENCE REPORT.—If a point of order is sustained under subsection (a) against a conference report in the Senate, the report shall be disposed of as provided in section 313(d) of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974.

(d) ADVANCE APPROPRIATION.—In this section, the term "advance appropriation" means any discretionary new budget authority in a bill or joint resolution—

(1) making general appropriations or continuing appropriations for fiscal year 2005 that first becomes available for any fiscal year after 2005; or

(2) making general appropriations or continuing appropriations for fiscal year 2006 that first becomes available for any fiscal year after 2006.

SEC. 402. EXTENSION OF EMERGENCY RULE IN THE SENATE.

Section 502(c) of H. Con. Res. 95 (108th Cong., 1st Sess.) is amended to read as follows:

"(c) IN THE SENATE.—

"(1) AUTHORITY TO DESIGNATE.—In the Senate, with respect to a provision of direct spending or receipts legislation or appropriations for discretionary accounts that the President designates as an emergency requirement and that Congress so designates in such measure, the amounts of new budget authority, outlays, and receipts in all fiscal years resulting from that provision shall be treated as an emergency requirement for the purpose of this section.

"(2) EXEMPTION OF EMERGENCY PROVISIONS.—In the Senate, any new budget authority, outlays, and receipts resulting from any provision designated as an emergency requirement, pursuant to this section, in any bill, joint resolution, amendment, or conference report shall not count for purposes of sections 302, 303, 311, and 401 of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974 and any concurrent resolution on the budget.

"(3) DESIGNATIONS.—

"(A) GUIDANCE.—In the Senate, if a provision of legislation is designated as an emergency requirement under this section, the committee report and any statement of managers accompanying that legislation shall include an explanation of the manner in which the provision meets the criteria in subparagraph (B).

"(B) CRITERIA.—

"(i) IN GENERAL.—Any such provision is an emergency requirement if the situation addressed by such provision is—

"(I) necessary, essential, or vital (not merely useful or beneficial);

"(II) sudden, quickly coming into being, and not building up over time;

"(III) an urgent, pressing, and compelling need requiring immediate action;

"(IV) subject to clause (ii), unforeseen, unpredictable, and unanticipated; and

"(V) not permanent, temporary in nature.

"(ii) UNFORESEEN.—An emergency that is part of an aggregate level of anticipated emergencies, particularly when normally estimated in advance, is not unforeseen.

"(4) DEFINITIONS.—In this subsection, the terms 'direct spending', 'receipts', and 'appropriations for discretionary accounts' means any provision of a bill, joint resolution, amendment, motion, or conference report that affects direct spending, receipts, or appropriations as those terms have been defined and interpreted for purposes of the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985.

"(5) POINT OF ORDER.—When the Senate is considering a bill, resolution, amendment, motion, or conference report, if a point of order is made by a Senator against an emergency designation in that measure, that provision making such a designation shall be stricken from the measure and may not be offered as an amendment from the floor.

“(6) WAIVER AND APPEAL.—Paragraph (5) may be waived or suspended in the Senate only by an affirmative vote of three-fifths of the Members, duly chosen and sworn. An affirmative vote of three-fifths of the Members of the Senate, duly chosen and sworn, shall be required to sustain an appeal of the ruling of the Chair on a point of order raised under this section.

“(7) DEFINITION OF AN EMERGENCY DESIGNATION.—For purposes of paragraph (5), a provision shall be considered an emergency designation if it designates any item as an emergency requirement pursuant to this section.

“(8) FORM OF THE POINT OF ORDER.—A point of order under paragraph (5) may be raised by a Senator as provided in section 313(e) of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974.

“(9) CONFERENCE REPORTS.—If a point of order is sustained under paragraph (5) against a conference report, the report shall be disposed of as provided in section 313(d) of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974.

“(10) EXCEPTION FOR DEFENSE SPENDING.—Paragraph (5) shall not apply against an emergency designation for a provision making discretionary appropriations in the defense category.”.

SEC. 403. DISCRETIONARY SPENDING LIMITS IN THE SENATE.

(a) DISCRETIONARY SPENDING LIMITS.—In the Senate and as used in this section, the term “discretionary spending limit” means—

(1) for fiscal year 2005—

(A) $819,673,000,000 in new budget authority and $823,694,000,000 in outlays for the discretionary category;

(B) for the highway category, $33,393,000,000 in outlays; and

(C) for the mass transit category, $1,488,000,000 in new budget authority, and $6,726,000,000 in outlays; and

(2) for fiscal year 2006 $852,257,000,000 in new budget authority, and $885,860,000,000 in outlays for the discretionary category.

(b) DISCRETIONARY SPENDING POINT OF ORDER IN THE SENATE.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Except as otherwise provided in this subsection, it shall not be in order in the Senate to consider any bill or resolution (including a concurrent resolution on the budget) or amendment, motion, or conference report thereon that would exceed any of the discretionary spending limits in this section.

(2) WAIVER.—This subsection may be waived or suspended in the Senate only by the affirmative vote of three-fifths of the Members, duly chosen and sworn.

(3) APPEALS.—Appeals in the Senate from the decisions of the Chair relating to any provision of this subsection shall be limited to 1 hour, to be equally divided between, and controlled by, the appellant and the manager of the bill or joint resolution, as the case may be. An affirmative vote of three-fifths of the Members of the Senate, duly chosen and sworn, shall be required to sustain an appeal of the ruling of the Chair on a point of order raised under this subsection.

(c) ADJUSTMENTS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—

(A) CHAIRMAN.—After the reporting of a bill or joint resolution, or the offering of an amendment thereto or the submission of a conference report thereon, the chairman of the Committee on the Budget may make the adjustments set forth in subparagraph (B) for the amount of new budget authority in that measure (if that measure meets the requirements set forth in paragraph (2)) and the outlays flowing from that budget authority.

(B) MATTERS TO BE ADJUSTED.—The adjustments referred to in subparagraph (A) are to be made to—

(i) the discretionary spending limits, if any, set forth in the appropriate concurrent resolution on the budget;

(ii) the allocations made pursuant to the appropriate concurrent resolution on the budget pursuant to section 302(a) of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974; and

(iii) the budgetary aggregates as set forth in the appropriate concurrent resolution on the budget.

(2) AMOUNTS OF ADJUSTMENTS.—The adjustment referred to in paragraph (1) shall be—

(A) an amount provided for transportation under section 311;

(B) an amount provided for the fiscal year 2005 supplemental appropriation pursuant to section 312; and

(C) an amount provided for fire suppression pursuant to section 313.

(3) REPORTING REVISED SUBALLOCATIONS.—Following any adjustment made under paragraph (1), the Committee on Appropriations of the Senate shall report appropriately revised suballocations under section 302(b) to carry out this subsection.

SEC. 404. SCORING RULES.

(a) FUNDING FOR BIOSHIELD.—The chairman of the Committee on the Budget of the Senate shall revise the aggregates, functional totals, and allocations to the Committee on Appropriations of the Senate, discretionary spending limits, and other appropriate levels and limits in this resolution by $2,528,000,000 in budget authority for fiscal year 2005, and by the amount of outlays flowing therefrom in fiscal year 2005 and subsequent years for Project Bioshield, for a bill, joint resolution, amendment, or conference report that makes appropriations for the Department of Homeland Security for the fiscal year ending September 30, 2005.

(b) ENERGY SAVINGS PERFORMANCE CONTRACT PROGRAM.—In recognition that the energy savings performance contract program recoups its costs through guaranteed savings without increasing budgetary outlays, the Congressional Budget Office shall score the energy savings performance contract program under title VIII of the National Energy Conservation Policy Act (42 U.S.C. 801 et seq.) as zero. For the purposes of any point of order under any concurrent resolution on the budget and the Congressional Budget Act of 1974, the cost of the energy savings performance contract program under title VIII of the National Energy Conservation Policy Act (42 U.S.C. 801 et seq.) shall be zero.

SEC. 405. ADJUSTMENTS TO REFLECT CHANGES IN CONCEPTS AND DEFINITIONS.

(a) In the Senate, upon the enactment of a bill or joint resolution providing for a change in concepts or definitions, the chairman of the Committee on the Budget shall make adjustments to the levels and allocations in this resolution in accordance with section 251(b) of the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985 (as in effect prior to September 30, 2002).

(b) If the Committee on Appropriations reports a bill or resolution, or if an amendment thereto is offered or a conference report thereon is submitted, that changes the nature of offsetting receipts collected from the Power Marketing Administration from mandatory to discretionary, the chairman of the Committee on the Budget may revise the appropriate allocations for such committee and other appropriate levels in this resolution.

SEC. 406. APPLICATION AND EFFECT OF CHANGES IN ALLOCATIONS AND AGGREGATES.

(a) APPLICATION.—Any adjustments of allocations and aggregates made pursuant to this resolution shall—

(1) apply while that measure is under consideration;

(2) take effect upon the enactment of that measure; and

(3) be published in the Congressional Record as soon as practicable.

(b) EFFECT OF CHANGED ALLOCATIONS AND AGGREGATES.—Revised allocations and aggregates resulting from these adjustments shall be considered for the purposes of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974 as allocations and aggregates contained in this resolution.

(c) BUDGET COMMITTEE DETERMINATIONS.—For purposes of this resolution—

(1) the levels of new budget authority, outlays, direct spending, new entitlement authority, revenues, deficits, and surpluses for a fiscal year or period of fiscal years shall be determined on the basis of estimates made by the appropriate Committee on the Budget; and

(2) such chairman may make any other necessary adjustments to such levels to carry out this resolution.

SEC. 407. EXERCISE OF RULEMAKING POWERS.

Congress adopts the provisions of this title—

(1) as an exercise of the rulemaking power of the Senate and the House of Representatives, respectively, and as such they shall be considered as part of the rules of each House, or of that House to which they specifically apply, and such rules shall supersede other rules only to the extent that they are inconsistent therewith; and

(2) with full recognition of the constitutional right of either House to change those rules (so far as they relate to that House) at any time, in the same manner, and to the same extent as in the case of any other rule of that House.

SEC. 408. PAY-AS-YOU-GO POINT OF ORDER IN THE SENATE.

(a) POINT OF ORDER.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—It shall not be in order in the Senate to consider any direct spending or revenue legislation that would increase the on-budget deficit or cause an on-budget deficit for any one of the three applicable time periods as measured in paragraphs (5) and (6).

(2) APPLICABLE TIME PERIODS.—For purposes of this subsection, the term “applicable time period” means any 1 of the 3 following periods:

(A) The first year covered by the most recently adopted concurrent resolution on the budget.

(B) The period of the first 5 fiscal years covered by the most recently adopted concurrent resolution on the budget.

(C) The period of the 5 fiscal years following the first 5 fiscal years covered in the most recently adopted concurrent resolution on the budget.

(3) DIRECT-SPENDING LEGISLATION.—For purposes of this subsection and except as provided in paragraph (4), the term “direct-spending legislation” means any bill, joint resolution, amendment, motion, or conference report that affects direct spending as that term is defined by, and interpreted for purposes of, the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985.

(4) EXCLUSION.—For purposes of this subsection, the terms “direct-spending legislation” and “revenue legislation” do not include—

(A) any concurrent resolution on the budget; or

(B) any provision of legislation that affects the full funding of, and continuation of, the deposit insurance guarantee commitment in effect on the date of enactment of the Budget Enforcement Act of 1990.

(5) BASELINE.—Estimates prepared pursuant to this section shall—

(A) use the baseline surplus or deficit used for the most recently adopted concurrent resolution on the budget; and

(B) be calculated under the requirements of subsections (b) through (d) of section 257 of the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985 for fiscal years beyond those covered by that concurrent resolution on the budget.

(6) PRIOR SURPLUS.—If direct spending or revenue legislation increases the on-budget deficit or causes an on-budget deficit when taken individually, it must also increase the on-budget deficit or cause an on-budget deficit when taken together with all direct spending and revenue legislation enacted since the beginning of the calendar year not accounted for in the baseline under paragraph (5)(A), except that direct spending or revenue effects resulting in net deficit reduction enacted pursuant to reconciliation instructions since the beginning of that same calendar year shall not be available.

(b) WAIVER.—This section may be waived or suspended in the Senate only by the affirmative vote of three-fifths of the Members, duly chosen and sworn.

(c) APPEALS.—Appeals in the Senate from the decisions of the Chair relating to any provision of this section shall be limited to 1 hour, to be equally divided between, and controlled by, the appellant and the manager of the bill or joint resolution, as the case may be. An affirmative vote of three-fifths of the Members of the Senate, duly chosen and sworn, shall be required to sustain an appeal of the ruling of the Chair on a point of order raised under this section.

(d) DETERMINATION OF BUDGET LEVELS.—For purposes of this section, the levels of new budget authority, outlays, and revenues for a fiscal year shall be determined on the basis of estimates made by the Committee on the Budget of the Senate.

(e) SUNSET.—This section shall expire on September 30, 2009.

TITLE V—SENSE OF THE SENATE

SEC. 501. SENSE OF THE SENATE ON BUDGET PROCESS REFORM.

It is the sense of the Senate that Congress and the President should work together to enact budget process reform legislation that would include mechanisms to restrain Government spending. Such legislation may include—

(1) deficit targets that, when exceeded, would result in across-the-board reductions in Federal spending except Social Security, Medicare, and Veterans' benefits;

(2) revision of the content of budget resolutions to increase their focus on aggregate levels, and to include easily understood enforcement tools such as—

(A) discretionary spending limits;

(B) pay-as-you-go; and

(C) explicit committee allocations;

(3) emergency spending procedures which budget for emergency needs;

(4) pay-as-you-go limitations which apply to non-budget expenditures;

(5) limitations on unauthorized appropriations; and

(6) enhanced rescission or constitutional line-item veto authority for the President.

SEC. 502. SENSE OF THE SENATE ON BUDGET PROCESS REFORM WITH REGARD TO THE CREATION OF BIPARTISAN COMMISSIONS TO COMBAT WASTE, FRAUD, AND ABUSE AND TO PROMOTE SPENDING EFFICIENCY.

(a) WASTE, FRAUD, AND ABUSE.—It is the sense of the Senate that legislation should be enacted that would create a bipartisan commission for the purpose of—

(1) submitting recommendations on ways to eliminate waste, fraud, and abuse; and

(2) to provide recommendations on ways in which to achieve cost savings through enhancing program efficiencies in all discretionary and entitlement programs.

The findings of the commission should be made on an annual basis, and should be presented in conjunction with the submission of the President's budget request to Congress.

(b) EFFICIENCY.—It is the sense of the Senate that a bipartisan commission should be established to—

(1) audit Federal domestic agencies, and programs within such agencies, with the express purpose of providing Congress with recommendations, and legislation;

(2) implement those recommendations; and

(3) realign or eliminate government agencies and programs that are duplicative, inefficient, outdated, irrelevant, or have failed to accomplish their intended purpose.

The findings of the commission should be made on an annual basis, and should be presented in conjunction with the submission of the President's budget request to Congress.

SEC. 503. SENSE OF THE SENATE ON THE RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN ANNUAL DEFICIT SPENDING AND INCREASES IN DEBT SERVICE COSTS.

It is the sense of the Senate that the Congressional Budget Office shall consult with the Committee on the Budget of the Senate in order to prepare a report containing a discussion of—

(1) the relationship between annual deficit spending and increases in debt service costs;

(2) the relationship between incremental increases in discretionary spending and debt service costs; and

(3) the feasibility of providing estimates of debt service costs in the cost estimates prepared pursuant to section 308 of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974.

SEC. 504. SENSE OF THE SENATE REGARDING THE COSTS OF THE MEDICARE PRESCRIPTION DRUG PROGRAM.

It is the sense of the Senate that the Committee on Finance of the Senate should report a bill that consists of changes in laws within its jurisdiction sufficient to ensure that spending within part D of the Medicare Prescription Drug Benefit program in fiscal years 2005 through 2013 does not exceed the total of $409,000,000,000 as estimated by the Congressional Budget Office.

SEC. 505. SENSE OF THE SENATE REGARDING PAY PARITY.

It is the sense of the Senate that—

(1) compensation for civilian and military employees of the United States, without whom we cannot successfully serve and protect our citizens and taxpayers, must be sufficient to support our critical efforts to recruit, retain, and reward quality people effectively and responsibly; and

(2) to achieve this objective, the rate of increase in the compensation of civilian employees should be equal to that proposed for the military in the President's Fiscal Year 2005 Budget.

SEC. 506. SENSE OF THE SENATE ON RETURNING STABILITY TO PAYMENTS UNDER MEDICARE PHYSICIAN FEE SCHEDULE.

(a) FINDINGS.—The Senate finds that—

(1) the fees Medicare pays physicians and other health professionals were reduced by 5.4 percent across-the-board in 2002.

(2) action by Congress in early 2003 narrowly averted a 4.4-percent across-the-board reduction in such fees that year;

(3) in the fall of 2003, congressional action was once again needed to prevent an across-the-board reduction of 4.5 percent in such fees for 2004, as well as an anticipated further reduction in 2005;

(4) based on current projections, estimates suggest that, absent any action, fees will be significantly reduced across-the-board in 2006 and each year thereafter until at least 2010;

(5) the prospect of continued payment reductions under the Medicare physician fee schedule for the foreseeable future threatens to destabilize an important element of the program, namely physician participation and willingness to accept Medicare patients;

(6) there are major flaws in the formula Medicare uses to reimburse physicians which result in steep cuts that adversely impact Medicare beneficiaries' access to care; and

(7) CMS should use its authority to exclude Medicare-covered drugs and biologics from the physician formula and accurately reflect in the formula the direct and indirect cost of increases due to coverage decisions, administrative actions, and rules and regulations.

(b) SENSE OF THE SENATE.—It is the sense of the Senate that, while recent actions by Congress have helped address the immediate reductions in reimbursement, further action by Congress is urgently needed to put in place a new formula or mechanism for updating Medicare physician fees in 2006 and thereafter, in order to ensure—

(1) the long-term stability of the Medicare payment system for physicians and other health care professionals, such that payment rates keep pace with practice cost increases; and

(2) future access to physicians' services for Medicare beneficiaries.

SEC. 507. SENSE OF THE SENATE REGARDING THE USE OF FEDERAL FUNDS TO SUPPORT AMERICAN COMPANIES AND AMERICAN WORKERS.

(a) FINDINGS.—The Senate finds that—

(1) the United States has lost more than 2,200,000 manufacturing jobs since 2000;

(2) the Bureau of Labor Statistics reported that 239,454 workers in a variety of sectors of the United States economy lost their jobs as a result of mass layoffs in January 2004;

(3) there are millions of long-term unemployed Americans who have been unable to find work; and

(4) the Buy American Act requires the Federal Government to support American companies and American workers by buying American-made goods.

(b) SENSE OF THE SENATE.—It is the sense of the Senate that the functional totals in this resolution assume that—

(1) Federal departments and agencies will, to the maximum extent possible, purchase goods and services from American companies; and

(2) Federal departments and agencies will ensure that, to the maximum extent possible, the work required by Federal contracts for goods and services will be performed in the United States.

SEC. 508. SENSE OF THE SENATE REGARDING CLOSING THE "TAX GAP".

(a) FINDINGS.—The Senate finds that—

(1) the Internal Revenue Service estimates that the gross tax gap (the difference between the amount of taxes owed by taxpayers and the amount actually collected) is now estimated to be in excess of $300,000,000,000 annually;

(2) the Internal Revenue Service reports that the rate of voluntary and timely compliance from taxpayers in paying what they owe is approximately 85 percent;

(3) this overwhelming majority of honest and hardworking taxpayers are forced to make up the shortfall that results from taxpayers who fail to pay what they owe voluntarily;

(4) a former Commissioner of Internal Revenue has estimated that honest taxpayers are paying "15 percent more" than necessary if the tax gap were closed;

(5) the current Commissioner of Internal Revenue is concerned that increasing numbers of taxpayers believe that people are less likely to report their income taxes accurately and more inclined to take a chance that they will not be audited; and

(6) that an increase in enforcement efforts on taxes already due and owing can generate significant additional revenues without raising taxes.

(b) SENSE OF THE SENATE.—It is the sense of the Senate that the Internal Revenue Service should be provided the resources necessary to increase enforcement activities that would be concentrated on efforts to reduce the tax gap substantially by the end of fiscal year 2009.

SEC. 509. SENSE OF THE SENATE AMENDMENT ON DRUG COMPARATIVENESS STUDIES.

It is the sense of the Senate that the overall discretionary levels set in this resolution assume $75,000,000 in new budget authority in fiscal year 2005 and new outlays that flow from this budget authority in fiscal year 2005 and subsequent years, to fund new research and ongoing literature surveys in the Agency for Health Care Research and Quality. These activities will be designed to improve scientific evidence related to the comparative effectiveness and safety of prescription drugs and other treatments and to disseminate the findings and underlying data from such research to health care practitioners, consumers, and health care purchasers.

SEC. 510. SENSE OF THE SENATE REGARDING FUNDING FOR PORT SECURITY.

(a) FINDINGS.—The Senate makes the following findings:

(1) In the United States, the system of maritime commerce, including seaports and other ports, is a critical element of the United States economic, social, and environmental infrastructure.

(2) In 2001, ports in the United States handled approximately 5,400 ships, the majority of which were owned by foreign persons and crewed by nationals of foreign countries, that made a total of more than 60,000 calls at such ports.

(3) In a typical year, more than 17,000,000 cargo containers are handled at ports in the United States.

(4) Maritime commerce is the primary mode of transportation for international trade, with ships carrying more than 80 percent of such trade, by volume.

(5) Disruption of trade flowing through United States ports could have a catastrophic impact on both the United States and the world economies.

(6) In addition to the economic importance of United States ports, such ports form a critical link in the United States national security structure, and are necessary to ensure that United States military material can be effectively and quickly shipped to any location where such material is needed.

(7) Terrorist groups, including extremist groups such as al Qaeda, are likely to consider, formulate, and execute plans to conduct a terrorist strike against one or more of the ports in the United States.

(8) Terrorists have conducted attacks against maritime commerce in the past, including the October 2002 attack on the French oil tanker LIMBERG and the October 2000 attack on the USS COLE in Yemen.

(9) It is critical that port security be enhanced and improved through the adoption of better formulated security procedures, the adoption of new regulations and law, and investment in long-term capital improvements to the structure of the United States most critical ports.

(10) Effective funding to provide adequate security at United States ports requires a commitment to provide Federal funds over multiple years to fund long-term capital improvement projects.

(b) SENSE OF THE SENATE.—It is the sense of the Senate that—

(1) the budget of the United States should provide adequate funding for port security projects and not less than the amount of such funding that is adequate to implement an effective port security plan;

(2) the implementation of the budget of the United States should permit the provision of Federal funds over multiple years to fund long-term security improvement projects at ports in the United States; and

(3) the Secretary of Homeland Security should, as soon as practicable, develop a funding plan for port security that permits funding over multiple years for such projects.

SEC. 511. SENSE OF THE SENATE REGARDING TRIBAL COLLEGES AND UNIVERSITIES.

(a) FINDINGS.—The Senate finds the following:

(1) American Indians from 250 federally recognized tribes nationwide attend tribal colleges and universities, a majority of whom are first-generation college students.

(2) Tribal colleges and universities are located in some of the most isolated and impoverished areas in the Nation, yet they are the Nation's most poorly funded institutions of higher education. While the Tribally Controlled College or University Assistance Act, or "Tribal College Act," provides funding based solely on Indian students, the colleges have open enrollment policies providing access to postsecondary education opportunities to all interested students, about 20 percent of whom are non-Indian. With rare exception, tribal colleges and universities do not receive operating funds from the States for these non-Indian State resident students. Yet, if these same students attended any other public institutions in their States, the State would provide basic operating funds to the institution.

(3) While Congress has been increasing annual appropriations for tribal colleges in recent years, the President's fiscal year 2005 budget recommends a $5,500,000 decrease in institutional operating funds. This represents the third consecutive year that the President's budget proposed decreases that Congress must restore.

(4) Because of congressional budget restorations, the tribal colleges funded through titles I and II of the Tribally Controlled College or University Assistance Act are within $19,000,000 of full funding at their authorized level.

(b) SENSE OF THE SENATE.—It is the sense of the Senate that—

(1) this resolution recognizes the funding challenges faced by tribal colleges and universities and assumes that priority consideration will be provided to them through funding of the Tribally Controlled College or University Assistance Act, the Equity in Educational Land Grant Status Act, title III of the Higher Education Act, and the National Science Foundation Tribal College Program; and

(2) such priority consideration reflects the intent of Congress to continue to work toward statutory Federal funding authorization goals for tribal colleges and universities.

SEC. 512. FINDINGS AND SENSE OF THE SENATE.

(a) FINDINGS.—The Senate finds that—

(1) the United States is in the grip of pervasively higher home energy prices;

(2) high natural gas, heating oil, and propane prices are, in general, having an effect that is rippling through the United States economy and are, in particular, impacting home energy bills;

(3) while persons in many sectors can adapt to natural gas, heating oil, and propane price increases, persons in some sectors simply cannot;

(4) elderly and disabled citizens who are living on fixed incomes, the working poor, and other low-income individuals face hardships wrought by high home energy prices;

(5) the energy burden for persons among the working poor often exceeds 20 percent of those persons' incomes under normal conditions;

(6) under current circumstances, home energy prices are unnaturally high, and these are not normal circumstances;

(7) while critically important and encouraged, State energy assistance and charitable assistance funds have been overwhelmed by the crisis caused by the high home energy prices;

(8) the Federal Low-Income Home Energy Assistance Program (referred to in this section as "LIHEAP") and the companion weatherization assistance program (referred to in this section as "WAP"), are the Federal Government's primary means to assist eligible low-income individuals in the United States to shoulder the burdens caused by their home cooling and heating needs;

(9) in 2003, LIHEAP reached only 15 percent of the persons in the United States who were eligible for assistance under the program;

(10) since LIHEAP's inception, its inflation-adjusted buying power has eroded by 58 percent; and

(11) current Federal funding for LIHEAP is not sufficient to meet the cooling and heating needs of low-income families.

(b) SENSE OF THE SENATE.—It is the sense of the Senate that the levels in this concurrent resolution assume—

(1) an adequate increase in funding for each of fiscal years 2005 and 2006 to carry out the LIHEAP program;

(2) an adequate increase in funding for fiscal year 2005 and an adequate increase in funding for fiscal year 2006 to carry out the WAP program;

(3) appropriations, for these programs, of sufficient additional funds to realistically address the cooling and heating needs of low-income families; and

(4) advance appropriations of the necessary funds to ensure the smooth operation of the programs during times of peak demand.

SEC. 513. SENSE OF THE SENATE SUPPORTING FUNDING RESTORATION FOR AGRICULTURE RESEARCH AND EXTENSION.

(a) FINDINGS.—Congress finds that—

(1) funding for 33 programs administered by the Cooperative State Research, Education, and Extension Service of the Department of Agriculture were each reduced by 10 percent in the Agriculture, Rural Development, Food and Drug Administration, and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 2004 (118 Stat. 9);

(2) those cuts are already hurting a wide range of proven programs that help people, communities, and businesses;

(3) the cuts have put at risk important advances made in all 50 States and United States territories, including—

(A) combating obesity through programs such as the Expanded Food and Nutrition Education Program;

(B) expanding environmentally-minded pest management programs;

(C) ensuring food safety; and

(D) educating farmers and ranchers about new sustainable agricultural practices;

(4) the National Research Initiative is the flagship competitive grants program funded through the Cooperative State Research, Education, and Extension Service;

(5) because of limited funding the Service is able to fund only a small fraction of the meritorious research proposals that the Service receives under the National Research Initiative program; and

(6) base funding at the Service that supports the research infrastructure has fallen steadily over the past decade.

(b) SENSE OF THE SENATE.—It is the sense of the Senate that levels in this concurrent resolution assume that in making appropriations and revenue decisions, the Senate supports—

(1) the restoration of the 33 accounts of the Cooperative State Research, Education, and Extension Service;

(2) the fiscal year 2005 funding of the National Research Initiative; and

(3) the fiscal year 2005 funding of competitive research programs of the Cooperative State Research, Education, and Extension Service in an amount that is adequate to—

(A) fight obesity and stave off chronic diseases;

(B) combat insects and animal and plant diseases;

(C) establish new crops, improved livestock, and economic opportunities for producers; and

(D) keep pathogens and other dangers out of the air, water, soil, plants, and animals.

SEC. 514. RESERVE FUND FOR HOMELAND SECURITY GRANT PROGRAM, ASSISTANCE TO FIREFIGHTER GRANTS, AND PORT SECURITY GRANTS.

The Chairman of the Committee on the Budget of the Senate shall revise the aggregates, functional totals, allocations to the Committee on Appropriations of the Senate, discretionary spending limits, and other appropriate levels and limits in this resolution by up to $1,545,000,000 in budget authority for fiscal year 2005, and by the amount of outlays flowing therefrom in 2005 and subsequent years, for a bill, amendment, motion, or conference report that provides additional fiscal year 2005 discretionary appropriations, in excess of the levels provided in this resolution, for the programs at the Department of Homeland Security.

SEC. 515. STATE HOMELAND SECURITY GRANT PROGRAM.

It is the sense of the Senate that, of the funds for the Department of Homeland Security, $800,000,000 shall be allocated for the State Homeland Security Grant program; $250,000,000 for the Assistance to Firefighters Grant program; and $275,000,000 for Port Security Grants. It is further the sense of the Senate that the State Homeland Security Grant Program shall be increased by $220,000,000 in order to provide for a more equitable formula for distributing funds.

SEC. 516. STRATEGIC PETROLEUM RESERVE.

It is the sense of the Senate that the increased funding for the Homeland Security Department programs shall come from the cancellation of planned future deliveries of oil to the Strategic Petroleum Reserve.

SEC. 517. SENSE OF THE SENATE CONCERNING A NATIONAL ANIMAL IDENTIFICATION PROGRAM.

(a) FINDINGS.—The Senate finds that—

(1) animal identification is important for operational management, herd health, and increased trade opportunities;

(2) animal identification is a critical component of the animal health infrastructure of the United States;

(3) it is vital to the well-being of all people in the United States to protect animal agriculture in the United States by safeguarding animal health;

(4) the ability to collect information in a timely manner is critical to an effective response to an imminent threat to animal health or food safety.

(b) SENSE OF THE SENATE.—It is the sense of the Senate that the levels in this concurrent resolution assume that in making appropriations and revenue decisions, the Senate supports—

(1) the development and implementation of a national animal identification program recognizing the need for resources to carry out the implementation of the plan;

(2) the provision by the Secretary of Agriculture of a time-line for the development and implementation of the program as soon as practicable after the date of approval of this concurrent resolution;

(3) the provision by the Secretary of Agriculture to ensure the Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service, State animal health agencies, and agricultural producers are provided funds necessary to implement a national animal identification program; and

(4) the establishment of a program that is not overly burdensome to agricultural producers and ensures the privacy of information of agricultural producers.

SEC. 518. SENSE OF THE SENATE REGARDING CONTRIBUTIONS TO THE GLOBAL FUND TO FIGHT AIDS, TUBERCULOSIS, AND MALARIA.

(a) FINDINGS.—The Senate finds that—

(1) the United States—

(A) helped establish The Global Fund to Fight AIDS, Tuberculosis, and Malaria (referred to in this section as the "Fund");

(B) provided its first donation; and

(C) provides leadership to the Fund under Fund Board Chairman Tommy Thompson, Secretary of the Department of Health and Human Services;

(2) as a complement to the President's historic 15-country AIDS initiative, the Fund provides resources to fight AIDS, tuberculosis, malaria, and related diseases around the world;

(3) section 202 of the United States Leadership Against HIV/AIDS, Tuberculosis, and Malaria Act of 2004 (22 U.S.C. 7622) authorizes contributions to the Fund to the extent that United States contributions do not exceed 33 percent of all contributions to the Fund, allowing the United States to contribute $1 for every $2 contributed by other sources.

(4) during fiscal years 2001 through 2003, the United States provided $623,000,000 of the total contributions of $1,900,000,000 to the Fund, which represents approximately 1/3 of total contributions to the Fund;

(5) Congress has appropriated $547,000,000 to the Fund for fiscal year 2004, which has been matched by confirmed pledges of $994,000,000, and is slightly more than 1/3 of total pledges, with additional pledges expected;

(6) over the life of the Fund, Congress has appropriated sufficient amounts to match contributions from other sources to The Global Fund to Fight AIDS, Tuberculosis, and Malaria on a 1-to-2 basis; and

(7) transparency and accountability are critical to fund grant-making and the United States should work with foreign governments and international organizations to support the Fund's efforts to use its contributions most effectively.

(b) SENSE OF THE SENATE.—It is the sense of the Senate that this concurrent resolution and subsequent appropriations Acts should provide sufficient funds to continue matching contributions from other sources to The Global Fund to Fight AIDS, Tuberculosis, and Malaria on a 1-to-2 basis.

SEC. 519. SENSE OF THE SENATE CONCERNING CHILD NUTRITION FUNDING.

(a) FINDINGS.—The Senate finds that—

(1) Federal child nutrition programs have long played a critical role in providing children in the United States with quality nutrition from birth through secondary school;

(2) recognizing the value of these benefits to children in the United States, Congress has an enduring tradition of bipartisan support for these programs;

(3) children in the United States are increasingly at nutritional risk due to poor dietary habits, lack of access to nutritious foods, and obesity and diet-related diseases associated with poor dietary intake;

(4) many children in the United States who would benefit from Federal child nutrition programs do not receive benefits due to financial or administrative barriers; and

(5) Federal child nutrition programs are expected to be reauthorized in the One Hundred Eighth Congress.

(b) SENSE OF THE SENATE.—It is the sense of the Senate that the levels in this concurrent resolution assume that in making appropriations and revenue decisions, the Senate supports the retention in the conference report for this concurrent resolution of the additional funds provided in this concurrent resolution for the reauthorization of Federal child nutrition programs.

SEC. 520. SENSE OF THE SENATE REGARDING COMPENSATION FOR EXPOSURE TO TOXIC SUBSTANCES AT THE DEPARTMENT OF ENERGY.

(a) FINDINGS.—The Senate finds the following:

(1) The Energy Employees Occupational Illness Compensation Program Act of 2000 (42 U.S.C. 7384 et seq.) (referred to in this section as the "EEOICPA") is intended to ensure the timely payment of uniform and adequate compensation to covered employees suffering from occupational illnesses incurred during their work for the Department of Energy.

(2) The Department of Labor is responsible for implementing the provisions under subtitle B of the EEOICPA, relating to claims for radiation related cancers, beryllium disease, and silicosis. The Department of Labor has, within its area of responsibility, processed over 95 percent of the 52,000 claims it has received, and is processing these claims in an average of 73 days.

(3) As of the date of enactment of this resolution, the Department of Health and Human Services has not promulgated the regulations required under section 3626 of the EEOICPA for allowing claimants to petition to be members of the Special Exposure Cohort. Special Exposure Cohorts provide a presumption in favor of the claimant for radiation related cancers if—

(A) it is not feasible to estimate radiation dose with sufficient accuracy; and

(B) there is a reasonable likelihood that the health of the class of workers may have been endangered.

(4) The Department of Energy, which is responsible for implementing subtitle D of the EEOICPA, relating to occupational illness caused by exposure to toxic substances at Department of Energy facilities, finalized its regulations on August 14, 2002. The Department of Energy has processed 1 percent of the 22,000 claims received through the Department of Energy physicians panels since its regulations were made final.

(5) The Department of Energy has no willing payor for up to 50 percent of the claims that its physicians panels determine to be related to exposure to a toxic substance at the Department of Energy. As a consequence, many claimants with a positive determination from the physicians panel will be denied benefits. Many States, including Alaska, Colorado, Iowa, Kentucky, Missouri, Ohio, New Mexico, Idaho, and Nevada, may not have a willing payor.

(b) SENSE OF THE SENATE.—It is the sense of the Senate that—

(1) claims for occupational illness, which are determined to be caused by exposure to toxic substances at Department of Energy facilities under subtitle D of the EEOICPA, should be promptly, equitably, and efficiently compensated;

(2) administrative and technical changes should be made to the EEOICPA to—

(A) improve claims processing and review by physicians panels to ensure cost-effective and efficient consideration and determination of workers' claims;

(B) provide for membership in additional special exposure cohorts; and

(C) address eligibility issues at facilities with residual radiation; and

(3) the President and Congress should work together at the earliest opportunity to develop a plan that effectively resolves the issue of a lack of a willing payor for many claims that are determined under subtitle D of the EEOICPA to be related to exposure to a toxic substance at Department of Energy facilities.

SEC. 521. SENSE OF THE SENATE REGARDING TAX INCENTIVES FOR CERTAIN RURAL COMMUNITIES.

It is the sense of the Senate that if tax relief measures are passed in accordance with the assumptions in this resolution in this session of Congress, such legislation should include—

(1) tax and other financial incentives, similar to those included in the New Homestead Act (S. 602), to help rural communities fight the economic decimation caused by chronic out-migration by giving such communities the tools they need to attract individuals to live and work, or to start and grow a business, in such rural areas, and

(2) revenue provisions which fully offset the cost of such tax and other financial incentives.

SEC. 522. SENSE OF THE SENATE CONCERNING SUMMER FOOD PILOT PROJECTS.

It is the sense of the Senate that the levels in this concurrent resolution assume that in making appropriations and revenue decisions in Function 600 (Income Security), the Senate supports the provision, to the Food and Nutrition Service and other appropriate agencies within the Department of Agriculture, of $15,000,000 for fiscal year 2005, and $127,000,000 for the period of fiscal years 2005 through 2009, to enable those agencies to expand the summer food pilot projects established under section 18(f) of the Richard B. Russell National School Lunch Act (42 U.S.C. 1769(f)) to all States of the United States and to all service institutions (including service institutions described in section 13(a)(7) of that Act).

MOTION OFFERED BY MR. NUSSLE

Mr. NUSSLE. Mr. Speaker, I offer a motion.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Clerk will report the motion.

The Clerk read as follows:

Mr. NUSSLE moves to strike all after the resolving clause of S. Con. Res. 95 and insert in lieu thereof the text of House Concurrent Resolution 393 as adopted by the House.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Iowa (Mr. NUSSLE).

The motion was agreed to.

The Senate concurrent resolution was concurred in.

HOOR OF MEETING ON TOMORROW

Mr. NUSSLE. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that when the House adjourns today, it adjourn to meet at 9 a.m. tomorrow for morning hour debate as though after May 31, 2004, thereafter to resume its session at 10 a.m.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Iowa?

There was no objection.

MAXINE S. POSTAL UNITED STATES POST OFFICE

Mr. NUSSLE. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to vacate the ordering of the yeas and nays on the motion to suspend the rules and pass H.R. 3917 to the end that the Chair put the question on the motion de novo.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Iowa?

There was no objection.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Texas (Mr. CARTER) that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 3917.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the bill was passed.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 8 of rule XX, proceedings will resume on motions to suspend the rules previously postponed. These votes will be taken in the following order:

Motion to concur in Senate amendments to H.R. 2584, by the yeas and nays;

H.R. 3723, by the yeas and nays.

Both of these will be 15-minute votes.

UTROK ATOLL VESSEL CONVEYANCE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The pending business is the question of suspending the rules and concurring in the Senate amendments to the bill, H.R. 2584.

The Clerk read the title of the bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Maryland (Mr. GILCHREST) that the House suspend the rules and concur in the Senate amendments to the bill, H.R. 2584, on which the yeas and nays are ordered.

The vote was taken by electronic device, and there were—yeas 379, nays 1, not voting 53, as follows:

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. CULBERSON) (during the vote). Members are advised there are 2 minutes remaining in this vote.

So (two thirds having voted in favor therefore) the rules were suspended and the bill was passed.

The result of the was announced as above recorded.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

PERSONAL EXPLANATION

Mr. OXLEY. Mr. Speaker, I was in constituent meetings in my congressional district on Monday, March 29, 2004. As such, I was absent from the House floor during the rollcall votes on H.R. 2584, providing for the conveyance of a decommissioned National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration ship to the Utrok Atoll local government, and H.R. 3723, the Vaughn Gross Post Office Building Designation Act. Had I been present, I would have voted "yea" on each of these bills.

PERSONAL EXPLANATION

Ms. KILPATRICK. Mr. Speaker, due to personal business, I was unable to record my vote on the two votes ordered for today. If I had been present I would have voted "yea" on H.R. 2584 regarding the Conveyance of NOAA Ship to the Utrok Atoll (rollcall No. 94), and "yea" on H.R. 3723, the Vaughn Gross Post Office (rollcall No. 95).

CONGRATULATING BAPTIST HOSPITAL ON RECEIVING MALCOLM BALDRIGE NATIONAL QUALITY AWARD

(Mr. MILLER of Florida asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. MILLER of Florida. Mr. Speaker, it is my honor today to recognize and congratulate one of the finest acute care hospitals in the Nation, Baptist Hospital, located in Pensacola, Florida.

It is the third hospital in the Nation to receive the prestigious Malcolm Baldrige Quality Award. The Baldrige award, created in 1997 to honor the memory of the former Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige, is the Nation's highest honor for quality achievement by companies, agencies and organizations.

Every day the 2,252 employees at Baptist Hospital bring their unique skills to work with them to serve their patients. When walking into any Baptist Healthcare facility, you will be greeted with a smile and a "how may I help you?" The company should pride itself on its highly efficient and effective working environment, but, more importantly, it should take pleasure in knowing their employees have worked together to give the company a family-like atmosphere.

Mr. Speaker, Baptist Hospital is a world-class hospital striving for excellence every day and achieving extraordinary results in all areas of service. On behalf of the United States Congress, I would like to congratulate Baptist Hospital on their prestigious award and exemplary service to northwest Florida communities.

CELEBRATING GREEK INDEPENDENCE DAY

(Mr. DAVIS of Illinois asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. DAVIS of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, I rise to celebrate Greek Independence Day with the people of Greece and Greek Americans. March 25, 2004, marked the 183rd anniversary of the beginning of the revolution that freed the Greek people from the Ottoman Empire. It is important for us to not only recognize and celebrate this day with the people of Greece but also to reaffirm the democratic heritage from which the United States and the country of Greece were born.

I am proud to represent Greek Town in the city of Chicago, and I certainly want to extend congratulations to not only my Greek constituents but the people of Greece all over the world and especially those in Greece.

MEDICARE

(Ms. GINNY BROWN-WAITE of Florida asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. GINNY BROWN-WAITE of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I rise this evening because many of my elderly constituents in Florida have been misled about the new Medicare law. They have been misinformed because of the distortions spread by some of the liberal special interest groups and, quite honestly, some bitter Democrat politicians. These insincere groups have even tried to smear the AARP, an organization that seniors have trusted for over 45 years. They have tried to discredit AARP along with 300 other health care organizations. AARP supports the health care law that Democrats quite honestly wish that they could take credit for. Unlike what appears on TV, the biggest supporters of this bill are not the pharmaceutical companies. They are patients rights groups, senior advocacy groups, nurses and other health care professionals who have made quality health care and services their priority.

Mr. Speaker, I ask, are 300 non-partisan organizations interested only in health care all wrong, while a handful of politically motivated Democrat interest groups are right? The answer is absolutely not.

MEDICARE CREDIBILITY GAP

(Mr. BROWN of Ohio asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. BROWN of Ohio. Mr. Speaker, I hear my friends on the other side of the aisle talk about the Medicare bill. This was a bill that the President told us cost $400 billion. Yet people in the department who were not allowed to tell Congress had told the White House it would cost $550 billion. That is the first part of the credibility gap.

The second part of the credibility gap is that the President said this was a bill to help America's seniors, when in fact this bill will mean $139 billion more in drug company profits, $46 billion in direct subsidies from taxpayers, from all of us, directly to the insurance industry.

This bill was written in the Oval Office, this Medicare law, by the drug industry and by the insurance industry while the President and the Vice President stood by and tried to pretend that it was for American seniors. That is the credibility gap this President and this Vice President have.

We should have passed a prescription drug benefit for Medicare beneficiaries, not for the drug companies, not for the insurance companies.

RECOGNIZING FRANKLIN, TENNESSEE, ON ITS SELECTION AS A PRESERVE AMERICA COMMUNITY

(Mrs. BLACKBURN asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Mrs. BLACKBURN. Mr. Speaker, today I rise to recognize Franklin, Tennessee. Franklin and Williamson County, Tennessee, were recognized today and were given a great honor. They received the Preserve America Community distinction. This comes from the White House Advisory Council on Preservation. Franklin deserves this. We were so excited that the Preserve America distinction came to them today. They are one of only 28 towns in America to receive this award. This has come because of a tremendous commitment from the community over the past several decades. We have had thousands of volunteers. It has been a partnership effort between volunteers and also between the local, the State and the Federal elected officials, and the hard work and the dedication to preserve the history and the heritage of Franklin and Williamson County, to educate future generations and to let them see what makes this community unique and special. That was recognized today.

Mr. Speaker, we applaud them, we say congratulations to Franklin, Tennessee. We know the best is yet to come.

QUESTIONS REGARDING 9/11

(Mr. DEFAZIO asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. DEFAZIO. What does the President's national security adviser, Condoleezza Rice, have to hide? It might have been that she told the 9/11 Commission that she misspoke when she said that there was no intelligence that terrorists might use airplanes as weapons and that the administration had no knowledge of that. Of course, she did all that in private. In public she is spinning a very different story. She has appeared everywhere and anywhere on the press, with the press, in public; but she will not go before the 9/11 Commission and give sworn testimony to that commission and the American public. We deserve better. We deserve the truth about 9/11, what the administration knew and when they knew it.

SPECIAL ORDERS

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. BURGESS). Under the Speaker's announced policy of January 7, 2003, and under a previous order of the House, the following Members will be recognized for 5 minutes each.

INTRODUCTION OF RESOLUTION EXPRESSING SENSE OF CONGRESS THAT ALCOHOL ADVERTISING DURING BROADCASTS OF COLLEGIATE SPORTING EVENTS SHOULD BE TERMINATED

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Nebraska (Mr. OSBORNE) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. OSBORNE. Mr. Speaker, not long ago the National Academy of Science released a report on preventing underage drinking. This week, the Final Four NCAA basketball playoffs will occur. I believe there is a connection. The National Academy of Science report recommended that colleges and universities ban alcohol advertising and promotion on campus. Other important research points to the problem of alcohol consumption on college campuses. For example, the proportion of college students who say they drink to get drunk is rising. It is almost one-half. Underage drinking costs the United States $53 billion annually. There are roughly 3 million teenage alcoholics in our country. Despite these grim statistics concerning underage drinking, alcohol advertising accounts for more than one-half of college sports advertising revenue. The 2002 NCAA basketball tournament had more alcohol ads than the Super Bowl, World Series, college bowl games, and Monday Night Football combined. The basketball tournament has more than 16 times the rate of alcohol advertising as normal programming.

A spokesperson from the NCAA recently said such advertising is "not inconsistent with our mission." I guess I would beg to differ with that statement. The NCAA statement of purpose indicates that part of its mission is to prepare student athletes for lifetime leadership. The NCAA handbook states that NCAA policies should exclude advertisements that do not seem to be in the best interests of higher education.

In view of the fact that nearly one-half of college students are binge drinkers; 1,400 college students die annually from alcohol-related incidents, which is the leading cause of death on the college campus; more than 70,000 students are victims of alcohol-related sexual assaults; 500,000 students are injured each year while drunk; recent recruiting scandals at NCAA schools were often alcohol-related, I would have to say that there is great inconsistency in linking college athletics with the alcohol industry. The 12-, 13-, 14- and 15-year-olds watching the tournament this weekend will witness great athletes display their skills. These young people will identify with those athletes, and they want to be like them. Sandwiched into the telecasts will be many ads promoting alcohol; and most of the ads will contain attractive young people, celebrations and sometimes adolescent humor. The connection between players on the court and the alcohol advertising will be subtle, but it will be very real.

Dean Smith, my friend, the former North Carolina basketball coach, said this: "If aspirin were the leading cause of death on college campuses, do you think chancellors, presidents and trustees would allow aspirin commercials on basketball and football telecasts? They wouldn't, not for a minute."

I spoke today with John Wooden, in my time maybe the greatest coach of all time. He won 10 NCAA basketball championships in 12 years. John said that he wholeheartedly endorses taking alcohol advertising out of college sports. Andy Geiger, the Ohio State athletic director, opposes alcohol advertising. Eighty-four percent of Americans think advertising beer on college games is not in the best interest of higher education. Seventy-one percent of Americans support a total ban of alcohol ads on college games. Seventy-seven percent of parents say it is wrong for colleges to profit from alcohol advertising while trying to combat alcohol abuse on their campuses.

The alcohol industry will counter by indicating how much money they spend to curb underage drinking. However, in 2001 the alcohol industry spent a total of $811 million on product promotion and only 1 percent of the ads promoted responsibility. The placement of their ads and the content of their ads cater to a youthful market. Young people always represent future customers.

I do not advocate Congress legislating NCAA matters. The NCAA is a voluntary organization and such legislation should be left to the schools. And I do not believe that eliminating alcohol ads on college sports will end underage drinking. However, I do urge my colleagues to support House Resolution 575, expressing the sense of the House that the NCAA should affirm its commitment to a policy of discouraging alcohol use among underage students by ending all alcohol advertising during radio and television broadcasts of collegiate sporting events.

Hopefully, this resolution will help college administrators see the untenable position they now occupy and move to end current alcohol advertising.

ASSAULT WEAPONS BAN

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from New York (Mrs. MCCARTHY) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mrs. MCCARTHY of New York. Mr. Speaker, next week the House goes into recess. Yet the House has failed to address the expiration of the assault weapons ban. We in Congress should be looking at this again. September 13 is when it expires. We have 168 days to take care of this. The good news for terrorists, cop killers, and drug dealers is that they will be back on the streets with the assault weapons of their choice.

Since I took the floor last week, over 400 Americans have died from gun violence in this country. By the time the House comes back, we will have lost another 800 Americans in this country. But instead of doing the commonsense thing, instead of having a sense of urgency, the House has stood idly by.

Some seem content to let the assault weapons ban expire on September 13. I am not. The ban has kept us safer for the past 10 years. There is no reason why we should let assault weapons back on the streets. It has also respected the rights of gun owners, protecting the hunters, law-abiding citizens buying the guns that they want. But again do we need assault weapons back on the streets? Only criminals have been kept from their gun of choice. This explains why 66 percent of American gun owners support renewing the ban. The American people support it by even more overwhelming margins.

Once again, our Nation's law enforcement officers are leading the fight to keep the ban in place. The gun industry continues to evade the ban with copycat weapons like these. These are the ones that were banned. These are the ones that are out there on the streets now. They still do the same deadly thing. They take down as many people as possible in the shortest amount of time. This also has to stop.

I came to Congress to reduce gun violence in this country. I fought for commonsense, effective gun measures. That is why I have introduced H.R. 2038, which would renew the ban but also close the loopholes so that these guns cannot be back out on the streets either. We cannot let special interests control this Congress. We have 168 days left to renew it.

Let me say one other thing. Gun violence in this country costs the health care system over $1 billion a year, $1 billion. That is not counting the pain and the suffering that goes to the communities and to the families, those that might never walk again, those that end up never being able to go back to work. And, by the way, the American people pay half of those costs because insurance runs out for those that did have insurance, but, because rehab is so long, they run out of insurance.

Why do we tolerate this? Why are the American people not fighting? Here in Congress many a vote or many a rule, many a measure is won or lost by one vote. The American people have to understand they have a voice in this House. This is the people's House.

I am asking the American people to get involved in this issue. Do they actually want assault weapons back on the street? I think there is enough fear in this country now with the war on terrorism. Do they honestly want possibly the terrorists that are in this country in cells to be able to go to a gun show and pick up an assault weapon? Remember, in D.C., we had two people with a Bushmaster that paralyzed this whole area, cost millions of dollars. By the way, the Bushmaster was supposed to be a banned gun. The deaths that came from that incident can be multiplied throughout our cities and throughout our country. Is that what the American people want?

Common sense. Assault weapons, we see them on TV every single night in the war in Iraq and Afghanistan, Israel. Is that what we want in this country? Open warfare between our police officers, drug dealers, gangs? Wake up, America. We need America's help in the House. They have the right to call their Senators and their congressmen. We can do this, but we only have 168 days left. Please get involved.

VACCINATIONS CONTAINING MERCURY

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. BURGESS). Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. BURTON) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. BURTON of Indiana. Mr. Speaker, I would like to say to my colleagues, if they have children or grandchildren, pay attention to what I am going to say because this is very important.

Recently, there was an article put out by AP that was in the Indianapolis Star which was on the front page that I read, and it said that women and children should eat less fish, and the reason they should eat less fish is because there is a high mercury content in the fish and it can cause neurological problems in the children and in the parents if they eat too much fish.

What the article did not say is that many of the vaccinations that adults get and many of the vaccinations that the children get have mercury in them. So we are not supposed to eat the fish, but it is all right for the pharmaceutical industry to put a preservative called thimerosal into a vaccination and then inject their children with it and then the children get the mercury directly from a needle and it goes into the brain and causes neurological problems.

This is not baloney. My grandson got nine shots in 1 day, seven of which contained thimerosal, mercury; and within about 2 or 3 or 4 days, he became autistic. These are pictures of children from across the country who were normal children who received a number of shots containing mercury, and they became autistic. Many of their parents have testified before my committee as to how their children were before they got the shots and how they were after they got the shots.

We have been raising Cain with the Food and Drug Administration to get mercury out of children's vaccines and we got it out of almost all of them. But it is still in three: the HIB vaccine, the Hepatitis B, and the flu vaccine. I want to get it out of all of them because no child should be subjected to having mercury injected into their body. If it is bad for them to eat fish with mercury in it, then it is sure a heck of a lot worse for them to get a shot from a needle, a vaccination that puts mercury into their bodies.

Children used to get one or two shots. When I was a kid, we did not get many shots. We were kept out of school if we had mumps or measles or any of those things, but now they give them shots for all that. A child, before he starts in the first grade, gets as many as 30 shots. Can the Members imagine 30 shots with mercury in them, the cumulative effect of that on the brains of these children?

For those who are concerned about it as adults, and I see some gray hairs in the room, the flu vaccine, the tetanus vaccine, almost all the vaccines that we get, and our troops get in the field, get as many as 11 in 1 day in the Persian Gulf, most of those contain thimerosal, which is 50 percent mercury.

We need to collectively, as a body, tell the Food and Drug Administration and our health agencies to get mercury out of all vaccines. It is not necessary. If we go to single-shot vials, we do not need to have mercury in there as a preservative to make sure that they are not contaminated. All we have to do is use common sense.

The problem is it is going to cost just a few cents more per shot to make sure that it does not contain mercury. If we really care about the thousands of children who are becoming autistic and the people who are getting Alzheimer's, we need to get mercury out of the vaccines. There is an epidemic of Alzheimer's now. We used to have one out of 10,000 children who were autistic. Now it is one out of about 200.

Anybody who has a parent or grandchild ought to listen to what I am saying, because if their child gets numerous shots with mercury in them, they run the risk of being autistic. I have had hearings for 4 years now, and I am telling the Members that scientists from around the world agree with what I am telling them. Many countries in the world have taken mercury out of the vaccines. We need to do it here.

THE PRESIDENT'S ECONOMIC POLICIES

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. EMANUEL) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. EMANUEL. Mr. Speaker, this week the House is on the verge of passing a $2.3 trillion budget with a $521 billion deficit, showing that it is impossible to finance three wars with three tax cuts and expect a different result.

This budget repeats the same mistakes that have resulted in a jobless economy and a wage recession in America, the lowest wage growth in any period of time in a period of economic "growth." The Republican budget continues the status quo policies that have resulted in 2½ million Americans who have lost their jobs, 43 million Americans without health care, 4 more million Americans since the President took office, 2 more million Americans in poverty who walked out of the middle class into poverty, wages frozen, and $1 trillion in corporate and individual bankruptcies. Three years, $3 trillion dollars added to the Nation's debt, and 3 million Americans have lost their jobs. What a record.

During the 2000 presidential campaign, President Bush said he opposed nation-building. Who knew it was America he was talking about?

This budget, the President's economic policy, is really a tale of two budgets: one for America and one for Iraq. We have spent more than $100 billion on Iraq's occupation without promising the same future here at home.

In Iraq they get universal health care and free job training, while in America 44 million Americans go without health care, 10 million children without health care, and 8.2 million Americans without jobs.

In the area of health care, 2,200 Iraqi health professionals and 8,000 volunteers are receiving free training. In America under this budget that the Republicans and the President put together, health training funds are cut by 64 percent.

One hundred and fifty clinics and hospitals have been rebuilt, serving 3 million Iraqis, providing 100 percent prenatal and infant coverage. In America, community health care clinics are cutting funding by 91 percent; Maternal and Child Health Care, Healthy Start, and family planning, all frozen.

In the area of jobs, $60 million is being spent to retrain the Iraqi veterans. Yet we have cut the manufacturing job training program by 67 percent over 3 years.

In the area of education, we built 2,300 schools in Iraq and underfunded Leave No Child Behind in America by $8 billion.

Iraqi universities are getting $21 million for higher ed partnerships. In America, the Perkins loans are cut by $99 million and Pell grants are frozen.

The police in Iraq, $500 million for training. In America, the COPS program is cut by $659 million.

In the area of housing, $470 million is spent on Iraqi public housing, while in America $791 billion is cut from Section 8 housing vouchers.

In the area of environment, we are paying for $3.6 billion in water and sewers in Iraq; and in this budget, the Clean Water State Revolving Fund, which deals with drinking water here in America, is cut by $500 million.

The port of Umm Qasr was completely rebuilt in Iraq. The Army Corps of Engineers cannot afford U.S. port security upgrades since their budget has been cut by 63 percent.

Roads, we have spent $240 million on roads and bridges in Iraq, but mass transit, including highway funding, remains stalled under this administration.

As President Bush seeks reelection and we think about his pledge in 2000 to oppose nation-building, he has the dubious honor of saying he kept his pledge because he is opposed to nation-building here in America.

I am not opposed to what we are planning for Iraq. That is a good thing. But I oppose the notion that we will literally reconstruct Iraq while we deconstruct the United States.

In this budget this administration, this Congress, is telling the American people that they have two priorities, two sets of values, and two sets of books, one for Iraq and one for America. Compared to how Americans view their futures, we cannot deny Americans the same dreams of affordable housing, affordable health care, affordable education that we have promised Iraq and their children. America can no longer afford to be so generous if hope for a prosperous tomorrow and a better tomorrow is diminished here at home for the American people.

Mr. Speaker, the same values we hold for Iraq we must pledge for all Americans. So we cannot allow our economy and our prospects, which this budget will lay out an economic vision, that still results in 2½ million Americans in the last 3 years who have lost their jobs, 43 million Americans without health care, nearly $1 trillion worth of corporate and individual assets have been foreclosed on, and 2 more million Americans have walked out of the middle class into poverty. If we are going to do nation-building, we must do it here at home, not just overseas.

MEDICARE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentlewoman from Ohio (Ms. PRYCE) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Ms. PRYCE of Ohio. Mr. Speaker, I come to the floor today to speak on behalf of Ohio's seniors and America's seniors.

Mr. Speaker, about 14 million low-income seniors, 438,000 of them in Ohio alone, will now be receiving their medications for a mere $2 to $5. They understand that this new law, the new law about Medicare reform and prescription drugs, is a step in the right direction. The countless baby boomers who devote portions of their monthly paycheck to help buy grandma and grandpa's medicine, they understand that this expansion of Medicare is important. They know that when they are able to devote a little less money to prescription medicines for their parents, they might be able to devote a little more of that money to their kids' college tuition.

The many older Americans who have experienced a tragic illness that requires a litany of medications, they understand the peace of mind that this law provides to the catastrophic coverage. Because of this law, the cost of their many, many medicines is kept at a minimum, instead of spiraling off into infinity.

The millions of seniors who live in rural areas across America and doctors who serve them, they understand the benefits of this new law, especially the increased financial assistance to rural providers.

The hundreds of patient organizations who endorsed and support this new law, groups like AARP, the American Medical Association and the Alzheimer's Association, they understand that the law represents a good first step in improving the lives of millions and millions of patients.

I could go on and on, showing the countless benefits of this new law. Instead, I will boil it down into the simplest of terms: while this plan may not provide the entire solution for every senior's particular medical and financial problem, it does provide some solutions to the substantial number of seniors who formerly were choosing between food and medicine, gasoline and medicine, heating fuel and medicine. Those choices were untenable.

The law is not 100 percent perfect, but it is 100 percent more than what seniors had before, which was nothing. Unfortunately, there are some who do not share the same mind set. Indeed, there are small group of obstructionists who seek to mislead seniors about this new law, instead of informing them about how to use it to their advantage. Their goal is to scare, instead of to educate; and their tactics aim to thwart instead of to improve. It is really sad.

A prime example is the left-leaning Families USA, who have taken their MediScare campaign across the country. In fact, they are scheduled to be in my home State of Ohio during the coming weeks.

To the seniors in my home State and to the seniors across the country who will be subject to the half-truths that Families USA and their allies will be pushing, I will say, beware of those who peddle fear and distrust. The flashy videos and the shiny brochures that these groups will provide will do nothing but tell you what is wrong with this new law. They will tear it down and trash the very thing that seniors have been pleading Congress to do for years, add prescription drug coverage to Medicare. They will not bat an eyelash nor turn the slightest shade of red while they claim there is absolutely nothing good about this new law.

Mr. Speaker, I have too much faith in Ohio's seniors. I know that they will not be used as pawns in the politicization of a new law of the land. I know that our seniors will take the time to learn more about this law, and they will like what they see. They will understand that Congress acted to improve the quality of their lives. This is a good first step. They will understand that groups who scare them about what a law does not do are not helpful nor productive, and that the people who instruct them about what a law does are actually trying to make a difference in their lives.

Mr. Speaker, I want to be to Ohio seniors one of those who helps them, helps them understand what this law does do for them. I want to be part of that productive group, that group that knows that progress comes in incremental steps and understands that obstructing and thwarting accomplishes nothing, that group that looks for solutions, not partisan points.

Passing a Medicare drug plan and getting it signed into law with President Bush's cooperation is finally a step forward for this Nation's seniors. Let us not ever step back.

ADDRESSING UNEMPLOYMENT IN AMERICA

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. BURGESS). Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. BROWN) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. BROWN of Ohio. Mr. Speaker, I want to talk for a moment about Vice President CHENEY's trip to Dayton, Ohio. But before that, I just want to mention that the Medicare drug law that my friend from Ohio mentions just happened to be legislation written by the drug and the insurance industries. The drug industry will get $140 billion additional profits under this law. The insurance industry gets a $46 billion direct gift subsidy from taxpayers.

This bill was written for the drug industry, written for the insurance industry. In fact, the word in Washington is that President Bush will receive about $100 million in contributions from the drug industry. I think that is probably all you need to know. And that is why seniors simply do not like this drug bill, do not like the new Medicare law; and that is why the Republican Party, the President, is spending upwards of $80 million in taxpayer dollars to advertise to try to convince America's seniors that this is good legislation, that it is good law. It is clearly not.

As I said, Mr. Speaker, the Vice President came to Dayton, Ohio, last week to try to explain away what has happened to the Ohio economy. One out of six manufacturing jobs has disappeared since President Bush took office; 300,000 in Ohio have been lost. That is 2,000 jobs every single week of the Bush administration. That is 260 jobs have disappeared every single day in Ohio since George Bush took office.

In response to the bad economic news which cascades across my State, bad news almost every week on the economy, 600 people just laid off from a phone center in Trumbull County, near the district of the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. STRICKLAND) and the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. RYAN).

In response to the bad news, the President has got two solutions every time: more tax breaks for the most privileged in our society, with the hope that some of these benefits trickle down to the rest of the people in this country. That has not worked. And the second response, the second solution is more NAFTA-like trade agreements that continue to ship jobs overseas, that continue to hemorrhage jobs. We have lost hundreds of thousands of jobs in this country, manufacturing jobs, because of these trade agreements. They simply are not working.

The question always is, How out of touch can our government's leaders be? The answer to that is I do not know. Something seems to be new every day. The economic report of the President, which came out a couple or 3 or 4 weeks ago, signed by George Bush, signed by the President, the economic report of the President talks about outsourcing jobs, one of the biggest problems in our economy; and the President's Chief Economic Adviser, Gregory Mankiw, said outsourcing jobs is a good thing because it makes the economy more efficient.

eye of a clerk who has lost her job, let him look in the eye of a steel worker who has lost his job and tell him that outsourcing is a good thing because it makes us more efficient.

Then in the same report, Mr. Mankiw, the President's top economic guru, the top economic adviser, said that we will this year create 200,000 jobs a month. Well, after he said that, even the President's people, including the President, said we did not really mean 200,000 a month, because the first month they fell 199,000 jobs short, and every month they have fallen way, way short of this job creation they promised.

Then the President's economic adviser said, you know, maybe in response to this, and this really shows how out of touch they can get, maybe in response to this we need to reclassify what manufacturing is. Perhaps, because a bottling company is a manufacturing job, you take the syrup in a Pepsi or Coke bottling plant with 200 or 300 employees, and you take the carbonated water and put them together, that is a manufacturing process.

Maybe, they suggest, the President's top economic people, that we should reclassify fast food, I am not making this up, this is in this report, the fast-food restaurants, maybe they should be considered manufacturing. Because you have the hamburger and you chemically treat it, you cook it; you take the cheese and you chemically treat it, you melt it; then you put the bread on, and you create these manufacturing jobs. Then you take the syrup and you push the button so the syrup and the carbonated water mix. This administration actually is thinking about reclassifying those service jobs as manufacturing jobs.

Now, I am not making fun of people working in fast-food restaurants. In fact, if the Bush administration is going to reclassify those as manufacturing jobs, let them pay more than $7 an hour; and let them give these young men and women, or older men and women in these fast-food restaurants, decent wages and decent benefits, if they are going to call them manufacturing jobs.

Then the last point I wanted to make is in terms of how out of touch this government can get. One of the leading Republicans in this institution, the chairman of the Committee on Rules, recently was complaining that Democrats and others are saying that we have lost manufacturing jobs.

He said, the fact is that you Democrats, you critics, you media people, you economists, you workers who are complaining about lost jobs are simply not looking at the economy right.

Here is what he said. He said there are 430,000 Americans who make their full-time living selling on ebay. This is not reflected in the economy.

So are we going to count garage sales as economic growth? Are they going to pay them health benefits? Is that where my friends want to take the U.S. economy?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. SOUDER) is recognized for 5 minutes.

(Mr. SOUDER addressed the House. His remarks will appear hereafter in the Extensions of Remarks.)

FREEDOM OF IRAQ AND AFGHANISTAN IMPORTANT IN WAR ON TERRORISM

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Tennessee (Mrs. BLACKBURN) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mrs. BLACKBURN. Mr. Speaker, late last October I traveled to Iraq with several other Members of Congress, and what I saw was a country in tatters, a country that had experienced little or no infrastructure investment in decades.

But I also saw a people who, despite torture, government-sponsored slaughter and oppression on the scale of Lenin, a people who, despite all this, retained a glimmer of hope. And I thought, is it not amazing? Thirty years of torture, and Saddam and his henchmen could not break the spirit of the Iraqi people. They still had that thirst for freedom and that thirst for opportunity.

Today, watch the news that comes from Iraq. Occasionally look past the newscaster, actually take a look at the hustle and bustle behind the newscaster. You will see marketplaces, traffic jams, people on their way to and from work. That is the free market at work.

President Bush is the focus of an enormous amount of partisan political criticism. There are those, mostly on the other side of the aisle, who believe that simply getting bin Laden would end terrorism. They think we were wrong to go to Iraq, that Saddam could be contained. In short, those opposed to our work in Iraq believe Saddam's regime had no role in terrorism and that our effort will not bear any positive results for America and the world.

What a shortsighted, small view of the world and a basic misunderstanding of terrorism. Terrorism will not be stopped by removing a leader or a command structure. Terrorism is not going to be that easy to tackle.

What is going to make a difference could be this: Iraq has an interim Constitution on schedule and they are moving toward freedom. Iraq's electricity levels are exceeding pre-war capacity. They passed that benchmark last fall. The international community has pledged $32 billion to improve schools, health care, roads, water and sanitation. The nation now has a stable currency. A free press is growing. Iraqis have access to more diverse, independent sources of news. Hundreds of democratic meetings are taking place all across Iraq. America has captured 45 of the 55 most-wanted members of Hussein's regime. There are 900,000 telephone subscribers and 225,000 wireless subscribers. All of Iraq's 22 universities and 43 technical institutions and colleges are open. And, this may not sound important, but its value is immeasurable, the Iraqi children no longer have to recite "long live leader Saddam Hussein" each morning.

Some still believe all of this is irrelevant to the war on terrorism. Do you think terrorists are worried about what we are doing in Iraq and Afghanistan? Absolutely. Do you think terrorists fear this President? Do they fear America? You bet they do. The terrorists fear America. I do not mean that figuratively. Those who would destroy America, they literally fear this President and the resolve of the American people and our military, because we have not been afraid to take swift, decisive action.

President Bush said America would not tolerate al Qaeda, that we would not tolerate a Middle East that pumped out hatred and vitriol. Our engagements in Afghanistan and Iraq speak volumes to the terror network.

Does our work in Iraq make hostile nations think twice about supporting terrorism? Yes, indeed, it does. Will our effort to bring the Iraqi people into the modern world, into the free marketplace, the community of free nations, make a difference in the long struggle to destroy what breeds terrorism? Absolutely it will.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from the District of Columbia (Ms. NORTON) is recognized for 5 minutes.

(Ms. NORTON addressed the House. Her remarks will appear hereafter in the Extensions of Remarks.)

RECORD NUMBER OF AMERICANS EXHAUSTING UNEMPLOYMENT BENEFITS

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Oregon (Mr. DEFAZIO) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. DEFAZIO. Well, congratulations to the Bush administration. They have set yet another record. This complements their previous record of the largest job loss and the worst job record since Herbert Hoover was President of the United States in the 1920s. But their latest is notable also: 1.1 million jobless workers by the end of this month will have exhausted their regular unemployment benefits without receiving an extension or additional aid. If we go all the way back, we have been keeping data on extended unemployment since 1971, 33 years ago, there have never been so many people who have exhausted unemployment benefits without successfully finding work.

Now the Bush administration and the Republican leaders in Congress are refusing to extend unemployment benefits. Is that because we are in such a deep economic hole? After all, their tax cuts have dug us into a $650 billion deficit in the coming year, so maybe we just cannot afford unemployment benefits any more. No, actually there is $17 billion in the Unemployment Trust Fund, money paid in by workers and their employers, sitting on deposit, or actually not, they borrowed the money and spent it on something else.

But at least there is a credit for $17 billion; and, in fact, they are expecting that because of the taxes levied for unemployment benefits, that that fund will actually grow in the coming year, as 1.1 million people exhaust their benefits, do not find jobs, and cannot get an extension.

Now, the Republicans have a couple of arguments as to why they think this is a good thing. They think it is a good thing because the unemployment rate is low. Well, yes, actually, the way they keep the books, the unemployment rate is low. All of these workers, these 1.1 million who will have exhausted their benefits will no longer be considered to be in the workforce, and they will not be counted as unemployed. It is sort of a beautiful thing they have created here. If everybody in America lost their job today, a year from today, when they had all exhausted their unemployment benefits and no one had gotten a job back, if they had all been outsourced to India or somewhere else, we would have zero unemployment, according to the Bush administration, the way they keep the books. So that is a pretty phony argument, and you do not have to travel very far in America to find people who want work and cannot find it. Certainly in my State, that is not hard at all.

Then they say, now the Republicans have decided that unemployment benefits are welfare. Yes, that is true: an earned benefit for people who have lost their jobs through no fault of their own, most often through trade policies that exported their jobs or misplaced budget priorities on the part of this administration and tax policies and trickle down economics. Those people, they say, are just a bunch of welfare cheats, because they say that this would discourage people from going out and finding work if we extended unemployment benefits.

Mr. Speaker, that is the most outrageous thing. I mean, I guess a lot of these Republicans and the Bush administration do not know real people and they have not gone out and walked the streets and gone into the malls and talked to people who have lost their jobs through no fault of their own, cannot find work, and just wanted a little bit of help so that they can keep their household together, so they can make the bare minimum payments on their house, their utilities, and put food on their table for their kids. The Bush people think, well, that is welfare. It is an earned benefit. People paid these taxes. There is money sitting in the unemployment trust fund. They should just give us a straight up-or-down vote.

Well, that is sort of the third thing here, is the Republican leadership does not want a straight up-or-down vote on this issue. Why? Because if we had a straight up-or-down vote in the United States House of Representatives and in the United States Senate on an extension of unemployment benefits, to spend some of the money out of the trust fund to help these 1.1 million people who cannot find jobs and their benefits are exhausted, it would pass overwhelmingly. So they will not allow us a vote. We managed to attach an amendment to an unrelated bill and finally did trigger a vote on that, and it was amusing to watch all of the Republicans line up on the other side of the aisle after they had been beat to heck by their leadership to change their votes one after another after another after another, because they did not want to be on the wrong side of the issue.

But then their leader got up at the end of the day and said, do not worry, that will never come out of conference. Why will that not come out of conference? Why will not the will of the people of the elected House of Representatives, who voted 227 to 179 in a tangential way of extending unemployment benefits, and who voted more overwhelmingly to up front extend those unemployment benefits, why will he not let that come out of conference? The money is in the trust fund, the suffering is real, people need some help. Let us have an up-or-down vote and extend unemployment benefits for all Americans.

ALAN BABIN, A TRUE TEXAS WAR HERO

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. BURGESS). Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Texas (Mr. CARTER) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. CARTER. Mr. Speaker, tonight I stand here to recognize one of Texas's finest soldiers and a true Texas hero. On March 31, 2003, Alan Babin of the First Battalion, 325th Airborne Infantry Regiment started his second day of war. On that day, the third platoon, a platoon that he had recently joined, was working to secure a bridge on the Euphrates River near Samawah when enemy fire intensified and a soldier took a shot in the head. Alan, who was a paratrooper medic, gave up cover and sprinted the 20 meters to aid the soldier. In that sprint, Alan took a shot in the belly. That single action has warranted Alan the title of war hero; a purple heart, a bronze star medal with V for valor. However, neither Alan's brave action nor the rewards that followed came at a small price.

Alan is a fourth generation military man. Both his mother and father served in the military. Now he is fighting a second battle, and it is a long battle. He is fighting that battle from a hospital room.

Today he has undergone over 70 surgeries. He has battled severe infection, meningitis, and stroke. Alan lay on the battlefield for 3 hours in pain until he was evacuated to the USS Comfort where he received excellent medical treatment by the folks there and very loving people that took care of him; but in the process, he suffered a stroke, and this infection grew rampant in his entire abdominal cavity. Most people did not think Alan was going to make it. The doctors said, if you are people of faith, you need to begin to pray.

My colleagues need to understand Alan's family. His mother, Rosy, and his dad, Alan, and his sister Christy, they went to the task. Rosy started e-mailing her friends and relatives and neighbors in Round Rock, Texas, and in the rest of Texas; and this spread throughout the entire country until thousands of people began to pray for this young man and to send encouragement.

When we got Alan finally here at Walter Reed, he was still with an exposed abdominal cavity, which had to be washed every night to fight the infection, and this 23-year-old man was fighting that battle with his mother by his side, and she has vowed not to leave his side until he is well. His little sister came up here to visit him. His dad was here by his side. Now, these folks, along with the folks back in Round Rock, Texas, are helping Alan battle through this terrible tragedy.

Alan continues to persevere daily, and he is overcoming all of the odds and the doctors say, whatever you are doing, keep doing it. These obstacles are being overcome. Just the other day I ran into Rosy in church and she told me, Alan actually picked up his glasses and put them on his own nose. That shows his motor skills are coming back from the stroke. That little victory was a huge thing for his mother. They have closed his wounds; the infection is going away. He has come from months and months in bed to therapy sessions. In the doctors' eyes and in the generals' eyes, this young man has overcome the worst odds that anybody can overcome. Now, each day it is a blessing that he continues to recover.

His service and his sacrifice has not gone unnoticed. The folks back home, knowing that Alan would not be able to climb stairs, the folks in Round Rock, Texas, the builders and contractors went and built a room on their two-story house at ground level so that Alan will be able to negotiate to and from his bedroom when he gets to come home. The whole community is behind this family.

During his stay at Walter Reed Hospital, he was visited by many, many people, including President Bush, Vice President CHENEY, Secretary of State Colin Powell, Governor Arnold Schwarzenegger, Members of Congress, and numerous other military officials. I was there when he was awarded his medals, and one could see what was important in this young man's heart, because every time they called him paratrooper, his eyes sparkled and one could tell that he knew that they were talking about something of which he was proud.

Today is almost the anniversary of that tremendous wound that Alan suffered. He is recovering, through the grace of God and some wonderful medical people across this country. He is now back at least in Texas undergoing therapy, recovering every day, only because he and his family are true heroes who support the effort of this country and are proud of the service of their son. Alan, along with his family, serves as an inspiration for his fellow soldiers, as well as his fellow Texans. We in Texas are very proud of Alan and we say, God bless America and God bless Alan for his sacrifice. Alan Babin is a Texas hero.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. DAVIS) is recognized for 5 minutes.

(Mr. DAVIS of Illinois addressed the House. His remarks will appear hereafter in the Extensions of Remarks.)

CONNECTING THE DOTS

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from New York (Mr. MEEKS) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. MEEKS of New York. Mr. Speaker, I believe it was Abraham Lincoln who said, "You can fool some of the people all of the time and all of the people some of the time, but you can't fool all of the people all of the time." Until recently, the Bush administration has fooled some of the people all of the time and all of the people some of the time on Social Security, Medicare, tax cuts for the rich, economic recovery, the No Child Left Behind Act, nation-building, the war against terrorism, and, most especially, the war in Iraq. The President has been able to do this because most Americans simply do not believe that the President of the United States would distort and deceive on such basic issues as war and the well-being of children and the elderly.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair will remind the gentleman not to make personal references to the President.

Mr. MEEKS of New York. Mr. Speaker, during the 2 days of the hearings of the National Commission on Terrorist Attacks upon the United States, it was clear that the time for the fooling of the people may be running out. Of course, there are those Americans inside and outside of Congress who always question the veracity of the President's arguments for going to war. My hope is that the testimony at the hearings, along with a series of widely publicized books and articles published in the last year or so, the latest being Richard Clarke's "Against All Enemies," will enable the broader public to connect the dots to the truth. I believe they will see that the dots of deception lead straight to the Oval Office.

This response of administration officials to Mr. Clarke's charge that the President has done a terrible job on the war against terrorism is typical: throw sand into the public's eyes. Bait and switch. In other words, attack a person's motives while refusing to address the substance of the critique. Hide the facts. Concoct data. Delay. Blame everything on Clinton. Do the opposite of what you say. Claim not to remember a conversation or a meeting. Insist on redacting critical portions of critical congressional reports. Accuse critics of being disgruntled employees. All to cover up arrogant, reckless, and disgraceful conduct of foreign and domestic policy.

We should commend those public servants who, in the aftermath of 9/11-PATRIOT Act hysteria, have put loyalty to country above loyalty to the President, risking their careers to shed light on the dark underside of George W. Bush's Presidency. This lengthening list includes the Minneapolis and Phoenix-based FBI agent who revealed that FBI field operatives tried to get higher-ups to pay attention to individuals on the counterterrorism watch list, including several who later crashed airplanes into the World Trade Center and the Pentagon, were in the United States taking flying lessons; the joint inquiry of the House and Senate Intelligence Committees that revealed serious lapses on the part of the senior administration and intelligence officials during the lead-up to 9/11; John Wilson, a former ambassador, who disputed the claim that Saddam Hussein had sought uranium fuel in Niger, Africa. Wilson rejected the tales of the President and Vice President, Defense Secretary, Secretary of State, and National Security Adviser were telling about Saddam's alleged nuclear weapons program and, as we now know, the White House retaliated by telling a journalist that Wilson's wife was a covert CIA operative.

In a book by Ron Suskind, former Treasury Department Paul O'Neill insists that from the very beginning, the administration and the President were fixated on invading Iraq. Mr. O'Neill, who told the President that a second round of tax cuts would damage the economy, and also reveals that Vice President CHENEY contended that Ronald Reagan had proved that deficits do not matter.

David Kay head of the CIA's Iraq Survey Group, congressional testimony that no weapons of mass destruction had been found, that no weapons of mass destruction were likely to ever be found, and that frankly, the administration and the intelligence community had it all wrong. And now, Richard Clarke, a senior counterterrorism official in the Reagan, Clinton, and both Bush administrations, who says immediately after 9/11, the President and other senior officials were focused more on finding a pretext for attacking Iraq than on finding Osama bin Laden and al Qaeda.

Clarke quotes Defense Secretary Rumsfeld as saying there were not any good targets to bomb in Afghanistan but plenty in Iraq. Mr. Clarke also contends that invading Iraq was a priority even before the President took office.

If what Clarke, Kay, O'Neill and others have said is true, then it is fair to not only say weapons of mass destruction was a hype but also that every new explanation the administration has given since it declared an end to major operations is part of a cover-up of a war of choice, not necessity.

This is the context in which the public can connect the dots of the administration's attempts to obstruct the joint congressional Permanent Select Committee on Intelligence investigation of 9/11 and its belated cooperation and then only under the threat of subpoena with the independent commission investigating intelligence.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. BURGESS). Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Connecticut (Ms. DELAURO) is recognized for 5 minutes.

(Ms. DELAURO addressed the House. Her remarks will appear hereafter in the Extensions of Remarks.)

SENDING OUR TROOPS INTO BATTLE WITHOUT ADEQUATE PROTECTION

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. STRICKLAND) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. STRICKLAND. Mr. Speaker, I probably will not take my 5 minutes, but I was standing here, sitting here listening to my colleague from Texas talk about the young man who had been wounded and was recovering. And I am reminded that there are some nearly now 600 soldiers who have lost their lives in Iraq and we do not know for sure but somewhere between 3,500 and 4,000 have been seriously injured.

I think it is a sad and a tragic fact that the President, Secretary Rumsfeld, this administration, sent our troops into battle without providing them with adequate protection. As a result, there are those who probably have lost their lives simply because they did not have body armor; and there are those who have lost their limbs simply because this administration has not taken care of the problem of unarmored Humvees in Iraq.

Many, many months ago I wrote Secretary Rumsfeld a letter after I had received a letter from a young soldier in Baghdad, a young soldier who is a West Point graduate and a gung-ho Army guy. In his letter to me he said, "Congressman, I am so proud of the Army. We are doing everything that we can here to help these people." But later on in his letter he said, "My men are wondering why they do not have the protection of this interceptor vest, this high-tech vest that has the capacity because of its construction and the materials used to actually stop an AK-47 round."

I started exploring that problem, and what I found was that we sent soldiers in the initial assault into Iraq without this most basic protection.

Now these vests were used in Afghanistan, and we found out in the Afghanistan conflict that they were effective. It is thought that as many as 19 lives of our soldiers were saved during the Afghanistan conflict because they had this interceptor vest. And yet when we sent our soldiers into battle in Iraq many went into those fights without this body armor.

So I wrote Secretary Rumsfeld; and I got a letter back from Mr. Brownlee, his Chief of Staff, and in that letter I was told that we hoped that we would have all of our soldiers equipped with this body armor by November. That was November of 2003. The war in Iraq started in March.

Then a couple of weeks later I get a second letter from General Myers, the Chair of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. In his letter General Myers informed me that it probably would be December before our soldiers were fully equipped with this body armor. And I remind you that the war started in March.

I asked Mr. Rumsfeld how many soldiers perhaps had lost their lives on the battlefield who were not equipped with this body armor, and he indicated to me he could not answer that question because they do not collect that data.

Well, Secretary Rumsfeld said November. General Myers said December. Before we left this city for our holiday period, Christmas, the Pentagon held a briefing; and one of my staff members went to the briefing and the person holding the briefing said it was likely to be January before our soldiers were equipped with this vest. The war began in March. And, lo and behold, about 3 weeks ago I get a letter indicating that finally, finally, a year after the war began, this administration is willing to say that all of our troops have access to the body armor.

Now, Chris Matthews visited many of the troops at Walter Reed and he had that on his show this weekend. During that show, near the end of the show, he indicated that the body armor could protect the lives but not the limbs of our soldiers.

I end my remarks, Mr. Speaker, by pointing out that we have unarmored Humvees in Iraq tonight. The only company that produces these armored vehicles is in Ohio. They tell me that they can produce 500 a month, and the Pentagon is only asking for 220 a month. How many soldiers will have their arms and legs destroyed because this administration is not providing them with the equipment that could keep them safe?

NATIONAL SECURITY ADVISOR SHOULD TESTIFY BEFORE 9/11 COMMISSION

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. CONYERS) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. CONYERS. Mr. Speaker and Members of the House, I rise to review the debate that has been going on between the distinguished National Security Advisor of the President, Condoleezza Rice, and those who believe that she should be called back to testify under oath. The reason that has been put forward that this is not possible is that Ms. Rice claims that it is a matter of constitutional principle that the separation of powers prevents the President's close aides from testifying to Congress.

But, as many have noted, there have been senior aides that have testified before. As a matter of fact, they have held the same position that she holds. Mr. Sandy Berger has testified before Congress and Mr. Zbigniew Brzezinski has, in fact, testified before the Congress. So what we realize now is that there is no problem here. There is no separation of powers argument for her to present.

I happen to serve with the House Committee on the Judiciary, and I can recall when President Gerald Ford came before the committee to try to deal with a very extraordinary national issue in which he explained why he had granted some extraordinary relief or pardon to former President Nixon. It was a national issue. Well, in my view, I believe the death of more than 3,000 Americans is an extraordinarily important issue that should allow Ms. Rice to come before the 9/11 Commission.

But the traditions really do not mean anything and the separations of power argument fails completely because it turns out that Condoleezza Rice has for 4 hours or more already testified before the Commission on February 7. So there is no issue about separation of powers.

This would be the same as allowing a person to testify before the Committee on the Judiciary privately about conversations with their attorney, but then when they come before the Committee on the Judiciary they would certainly not be able to invoke the attorney-client privilege and refuse to testify on the same matters that they have at an earlier meeting.

So what we are concerned about is about whether we can separate from the American people the truth of what has been happening in our White House.

Now the concept of the separation of powers doctrine was conceived by James Madison to prevent any branch of this three-branch system of government from encroaching on the powers of the other two branches. This preserves the dispersal of power so that it is not concentrated in one branch, and it also preserves the constitutional system of checks and balances. But our friend has already testified to the Commission earlier. So that now that she has already given private testimony she cannot be heard to come back and claim that she is prevented from doing that.

The only problem that this raises is whether she wants to testify under oath. And I think that this makes it very important that she listen to one of the members of the panel, former Secretary of the Navy Lehman, appointee of the President, who said that this is very bad political strategy for you to claim that you are prevented from coming before the committee to give formal testimony.

It is not going to work. I think that it is very important that we realize that. The Congressional Research Service has done for me an analysis of the Presidential advisor's testimony before congressional committees.

Now this is made more curious by the fact that more recently, after the statements made by Richard Clarke, that Ms. Rice asked the Commission to again come before it to respond to the allegations of Mr. Clarke.

Mr. Speaker, I will insert into the RECORD the Report for Congress by the Congressional Research Service.

CRS REPORT FOR CONGRESS—PRESIDENTIAL ADVISERS' TESTIMONY BEFORE CONGRESSIONAL COMMITTEES: A BRIEF OVERVIEW, APRIL 5, 2002

(By Harold C. Relyea, Specialist in American National Government, Government and Finance Division, and Jay R. Shampansky, Legislative Attorney, American Law Division)

SUMMARY

Since the beginning of the federal government, Presidents have called upon executive branch officials to provide them with advice regarding matters of policy and administration. While Cabinet members were among the first to play such a role, the creation of the Executive Office of the President (EOP) in 1939 and the various agencies located within that structure resulted in a large increase in the number and variety of presidential advisers. All senior staff members of the White House Office and the leaders of the various EOP agencies and instrumentalities could be said to serve as advisers to the President.

Occasionally, these executive branch officials playing a presidential advisory role have been called upon to testify before congressional committees and subcommittees. Sometimes, such invited appearances have been prompted by allegations of personal misconduct on the part of the official, but they have also included instances when accountability for policymaking and administrative or managerial actions have instigated the request for testimony. Because such appearances before congressional committees or subcommittees seemingly could result in demands for advice proffered to the President, or the disclosure—inadvertent or otherwise—of such advice, there has been resistance, from time to time, by the Chief Executive to allowing such testimony.

Congress has a constitutionally rooted right of access to the information it needs to perform its Article I legislative and oversight functions. Generally, a congressional committee with jurisdiction over the subject matter, which is conducting an authorized investigation for legislative or oversight purposes, has a right to information held by the executive branch in the absence of either a valid claim of constitutional privilege by the executive or a statutory provision whereby Congress has limited its constitutional right to information.

A congressional committee may request (informally, or by a letter from the committee chair, perhaps co-signed by the ranking Member) or demand (pursuant to subpoena) the testimony of a presidential adviser. However, Congress may encounter legal and political problems in attempting to enforce a subpoena to a presidential adviser. Conflicts concerning congressional requests or demands for executive branch testimony or documents often involve extensive negotiations and may be resolved by some form of compromise as to, inter alia, the scope of the testimony or information to be provided to Congress.

Since the beginning of the federal government, Presidents have called upon executive branch officials to provide them with advice regarding matters of policy and administration. The Constitution recognized such relationships when it authorized the President, in Article II, section 2, to "require the Opinion, in writing, of the principal Officer in each of the executive Departments, upon any Subject relating to the Duties of their respective Offices." There were, as well, reasons to expect that such advice, whether offered orally or in writing, would be held in confidence. The advice was for the President's consideration and his decisionmaking. The matters involved were sensitive, perhaps bearing upon the foreign, military, economic, or law enforcement policy of the nation. Also, the provision, discussion, and use of such advice by the executive branch could affect its relationships with the other co-equal constitutional branches. President George Washington and his Cabinet had these considerations in mind, as Secretary of State Thomas Jefferson's notes on their deliberations reflect, when they decided upon a response to a 1792 congressional request for information:

"We had all considered, and were of one mind, first, that the House was an inquest, and therefore might institute inquiries. Second that it might call for papers generally. Third, that the Executive ought to communicate such papers as the public good would permit, and ought to refuse those, the disclosure of which would injure the public; consequently were to exercise a discretion. Fourth, that neither the committee nor House had a right to call on the Head of a Department, who and whose papers were under the President alone; but that the committee should instruct their chairman to move the House to address the President."

The Cabinet, composed of the principal officers in each of the executive departments, failed, for several reasons, to develop as an important source of presidential advice. The department heads constituting the Cabinet were often chosen to satisfy interests that contributed significantly to the President's election. Considerations of partisanship, ideology, geography, public image and stature, and aptitude, among others, figured prominently in their selection. Sometimes the President was not personally well acquainted with these individuals and had only minimal confidence and trust in them. In a few cases, a political rival was included in the Cabinet.

It is also very likely that some activist Presidents were ill suited to the group deliberation of the Cabinet. Similarly, many Cabinet members might have felt unqualified, or were unwilling, to offer counsel to the President on matters outside of their immediate portfolios; their advice was perhaps limited to, and protective of, departmental interests. Finally, personal hostilities between or among department heads could result in such tumult within the Cabinet that little useful advice could be gained.

Consequently, Presidents generally looked to other quarters for advisers. One development in this regard was the creation of circles of advisers composed of both public officials and private citizens. President Andrew Jackson, whose election and White House tenure occurred in an era marked by violent political controversy and party instability, utilized an informal group of advisers which came to be known as the Kitchen Cabinet. The members represented "rising social groups as yet denied the prestige to which they felt their power and energies entitled them"—newspapermen, the President's private secretary, campaign organizers and officials from prior administrations, and long-time personal friends.

When John Tyler succeeded to the presidency upon the death of William Henry Harrison, he revived Jackson's practice. Deserted by Whigs and Democrats alike, Tyler resorted to a select circle of advisers composed of personal and political friends from his native Virginia—a college president, a state supreme court judge, four members of the state's delegation in the House of Representatives, and a Senator. Following this practice, several succeeding Presidents had informal groups of advisers that were given colorful names by the press. For example, for Grover Cleveland, it was a Fishing Cabinet; for Theodore Roosevelt, a Tennis Cabinet; for Warren G. Harding, a Poker Cabinet; and for Herbert Hoover, a Medicine Ball Cabinet.

Jackson's inclusion of his personal secretary in his Kitchen Cabinet reflects another line of development regarding presidential advisers. Beginning with Washington, Presidents sought to meet the demands of their office with the assistance of a single personal secretary, usually a relative, compensated from their own private resources. In 1833, Congress authorized the President to appoint, with the advice and consent of the Senate, a secretary "whose duty it shall be, under the direction of the President, to sign in his name and for him, all patents for lands sold or granted under the authority of the United States." Jackson named Andrew Jackson Donelson, his wife's nephew and current personal secretary, to this position, relieving himself of continued personal compensation of the young man. Ultimately, Congress appropriated funds to the Chief Executive in 1857 for an official household—a personal secretary, a steward to supervise the Executive Mansion, and a messenger.

Many years later, in 1929, Congress was persuaded to authorize an increase in the President's top personnel, adding two more secretaries and an administrative assistant. Appointed to these senior staff positions were presidential lieutenants, if not presidential intimates and advisers. When Franklin D. Roosevelt came to the presidency in 1933, he brought with him, from his New York gubernatorial experience, a new kind of advisory circle, composed of intellectuals, or at least a core group of Columbia University professors who were joined by other ideas people to form the "Brains Trust." Because there were an insufficient number of staff positions at the White House to accommodate them, these advisers were placed elsewhere in the executive branch, but, for the most part, directly served the President.

This staffing situation, coordination problems, and the development of a new administrative management concept prompted Roosevelt to create, by announcement, a study panel—the President's Committee on Administrative Management, under the leadership of Louis Brownlow, a prominent public administration practitioner—in 1936 to examine and make recommendations regarding these matters. Reporting some 10 months later, the Brownlow committee addressed presidential staffing in dramatic and detailed terms:

"The President needs help. His immediate staff assistance is entirely inadequate. He should be given a small number of executive assistants who would be his direct aides in dealing with the managerial agencies and administrative departments of the government. These assistants, probably not exceeding six in number, would be in addition to the present secretaries, who deal with the public, with the Congress, and with the press and radio. These aides would have no power to make decisions or issue instructions in their own right. They would not be interposed between the President and the heads of his departments. They would not be assistant presidents in any sense. Their function would be, when any matter was presented to the President for action affecting any part of the administrative work of the Government, to assist him in obtaining quickly and without delay all pertinent information possessed by any of the executive departments so as to guide him in making his responsible decisions; and then when decisions have been made, to assist him in seeing to it that every administrative department and agency affected is promptly informed. Their effectiveness in assisting the President will, we think, be directly proportional to their ability to discharge their functions with restraint. They would remain in the background, issue no orders, make no decisions, emit no public statements. Men for these positions should be carefully chosen by the President from within and without the Government. They should be men in whom the President has personal confidence and whose character and attitude is [sic] such that they would not attempt to exercise power on their own account. They should be possessed of high competence, great physical vigor, and a passion for anonymity. They should be installed in the White House itself, directly accessible to the President. In the selection of these aides, the President should be free to call on departments from time to time for the assignment of persons who, after a tour of duty as his aides, might be restored to their old positions."

In addition to the proposed addition of six assistants to the President's staff, the committee's report also recommended vesting responsibility in the President for the continuous reorganization of the executive branch. Released to Congress on January 12, 1937, the report soon became lost in high politics. Three weeks after submitting the Brownlow committee's report to Congress, Roosevelt announced he wanted to enlarge the membership of the Supreme Court. His "court packing" plan not only fed congressional fears of a presidential power grab, but also so preoccupied Congress that the Brownlow committee's recommendations were ignored.

EXECUTIVE OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

Although efforts at gaining legislative approval of the Brownlow committee's recommendations lay in ruin in the spring of 1938, the President had not deserted the cause. By July, Roosevelt was meeting with Brownlow and the other committee members. The panel would not be officially reassembled, but he wanted each man's help with a reorganization authority proposal. The resulting measure empowered the President to propose reorganization plans, subject to a veto by a majority vote of disapproval in both houses of Congress, and to also appoint six administrative assistants.

After three days of discussion and debate, the House adopted the bill on March 8, 1939. Twelve days later, the Senate began considering the proposal. Following two days of sparring over amendments, the Senate adopted the bill. A quick conference cleared the measure for Roosevelt's signature on April 3. Earlier, the President had asked the Brownlow committee members to assist with the preparation of his initial reorganization plans.

Following consultations with Budget Bureau Director Harold D. Smith, the Brownlow group presented two reorganization proposals to Roosevelt on April 23. Plan 1, submitted to Congress on April 25, transferred certain agencies to the Executive Office of the President, but offered no explanation of that entity. In Plan 2, a presidential emergency council was abolished and most of its functions were transferred to the Executive Office. While both plans were acceptable to legislators, their effective dates were troublesome in terms of accommodating fiscal calendar necessities. By joint resolution, Congress provided that both plans would be effective on July 1, 1939. Following this action, the President, on September 8, issued E.O. 8248, formally organizing the Executive Office and, thereby, defining it in terms of its components. Brownlow, who drafted the initial reorganization plan, viewed the Executive Office as the institutional realization of administrative management and "the effective coordination of the tremendously wide-spread federal machinery." He called the initial version "a little thing" compared to its later size. It grew under Roosevelt and "it continued to expand and was further regularized by statute, by appropriation acts, and by more reorganization plans" during the succeeding years.

The Executive Office organized by E.O. 8248 consisted of the White House Office, the Bureau of the Budget, the National Resources Planning Board, the Office of Government Reports, and the Liaison Office for Personnel Management. It also provided that, "in the event of a national emergency," there could be established "such office for emergency management as the President shall determine." The Office for Emergency Management was created by an administrative order on May 25, 1940, and its functions were further specified in an administrative order of January 7, 1941. It subsequently served as a parent unit for a number of subordinate emergency management bodies.

PRESIDENTIAL ADVISER GROWTH

The creation of the Executive Office of the President contributed to an increase in the number of presidential advisers for several reasons. First, it provided an enclave for various agencies that immediately assisted the President. Primary among these was the White House Office, which was no longer merely the President's small office staff, but an agency with hierarchically organized staff positions whose personnel rapidly expanded during the next few decades.

Second, it counted agencies, such as the Liaison Office for Personnel Management and the Office for Emergency Management, that were headed by an administrative assistant—and adviser—to the President on the White House Office payroll. It also included agencies, such as the Bureau of the Budget (and its Office of Management and Budget successor), that were headed by leaders for whom advising the President was a primary responsibility.

Third, senior White House Office staff would come to supervise and direct the staff of other Executive Office entities: the Assistant to the President for National Security Affairs would direct the National Security Council staff and the Assistant to the President for Domestic Policy would direct the Domestic Council staff.

Fourth, in January 1973, President Richard M. Nixon vested his Secretary of the Treasury and his director of the Office of Management and Budget with dual White House Office positions, respectively, of Assistant to the President for Economic Affairs and Assistant to the President for Executive Management. He also vested his Secretary of Agriculture, Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, and Secretary of Housing and Urban Development with dual White House Office positions, respectively, of Counselor to the President for Natural Resources, Counselor to the President for Human Resources, and Counselor to the President for Community Development. Having such dual White House Office titles was viewed as giving added emphasis, if not authority, to the role of these officials as presidential advisers.

In the aftermath of World War II, Congress statutorily chartered most of the agencies within the Executive Office of the President. Furthermore, Congress routinely appropriated funds for the operating expenses of these entities. In 1944, Congress had adopted an amendment to an appropriation bill that was designed to restrain the creation of Executive Office agencies by executive order—a frequent occurrence during 1941-1944. The amendment stated:

"After January 1, 1945, no part of any appropriation or fund made available by this or any other Act shall be allotted or made available to, or used to pay the expenses of, any agency or instrumentality including those established by Executive order after such agency or instrumentality has been in existence for more than one year, if the Congress has not appropriated any money specifically for such agency or instrumentality or specifically authorized the expenditure of funds by it."

In 1982, when Title 31 of the United States Code was recodified, the amendment was repealed and replaced with new language at section 1347. The opening sentence of the new section, which remains as operative law, states: "An agency in existence for more than one year may not use amounts otherwise available for obligation to pay its expenses without a specific appropriation or specific authorization by law."

With their growing number and influence, senior staff members of the White House Office and certain other Executive Office agencies began to become of interest to congressional committees when accountability for policymaking and administrative or managerial actions prompted requests for their testimony. Some, like War Production Board chairman Donald M. Nelson, who was popularly known as the "arms czar," appeared before and cooperated with the Senate Special Committee to Investigate the National Defense Program ("Truman Committee") during World War II to report on and discuss war material production and related coordination matters. Others, like Office of War Mobilization director James F. Byrnes, who was sometimes referred to as the "assistant president," apparently avoided appearing before congressional committees during the World War II era, but were in communication with various individual Members of Congress in leadership positions and served as liaisons between the President and Congress on a number of war matters.

PRESIDENTIAL ADVISER TESTIMONY

Beginning with the closing years of World War II, examples are provided below of instances when a presidential adviser—a civilian executive branch official, other than a member of the traditional Cabinet, who, as part of that official's responsibilities and activities, consulted with the President—testified before a congressional committee or subcommittee. Because these consultations with the President by such an official may be considered by the President to be privileged and constitutionally protectable, examples are also provided of instances when invited congressional committee or subcommittee testimony by a presidential adviser was refused. None of the examples involves testimony or refusal to testify by a former presidential adviser:

Jonathan Daniels, Administrative Assistant to the President, White House Office, appeared before the Senate Committee on Agriculture and Forestry on February 28 and March 7 and 8, 1944, to discuss his involvement in the personnel policy of the Rural Electrification Administration.

Wallace H. Graham, Physician to the President, White House Office, appeared before the Senate Committee on Appropriations on January 13, 1948, to discuss information to which he might have been privy with regard to the commodity market.

Harry H. Vaughn, Military Aide to the President, White House Office, appeared before the Senate Committee on Expenditures in Executive Departments (now Governmental Affairs) on August 30 and 31, 1949, to discuss his personal involvement in certain government procurement contracts.

Donald S. Dawson, Administrative Assistant to the President, White House Office, appeared before the Senate Committee on Banking and Currency on May 10 and 11, 1951, to discuss allegations he had attempted to "dominate" the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and influence appointments to that body.

Sherman Adams, Assistant to the President, White House Office, appeared before the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee on June 17, 1958, to discuss his involvement with certain lobbyists.

Edward E. David, Jr., Science Adviser to the President, White House Office, and director, Office of Science and Technology, appeared before the Senate Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs on June 15, 1971, to discuss the Nixon Administration's position on energy policy matters; he appeared again before the House Committee on Science and Astronautics on June 14, 1972, to discuss science policy matters relating to Soviet-American cooperation agreements.

Virginia H. Knauer, Special Assistant to the President for Consumer Affairs, White House Office, and director, Office of Consumer Affairs, appeared before the House Select Committee on Small Business on June 25, 1971, to discuss consumer protection and advertising standards.

Jerome H. Jaffe, Special Consultant to the President, White House Office, and director, Special Action Office for Drug Abuse Prevention, appeared before the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce on June 28, August 2, October 27, and November 8, 1971, to discuss various aspects of the operations of the Special Action Office.

Peter Flanigan, Assistant to the President, White House Office, appeared before the Senate Committee on the Judiciary on April 20, 1972, during the course of hearings on the confirmation of Richard Kleindienst as Attorney General to discuss his involvement in apparent lobbying activities by the International Telephone and Telegraph Company.

Bruce A. Kehrl, Special Assistant to the President, White House Office, appeared before the Senate Select Committee on Presidential Campaign Activities on May 17, 1973, to discuss matters related to the Watergate incident.

Patrick J. Buchanan, Special Consultant to the President, White House Office, appeared before the Senate Select Committee on Presidential Campaign Activities on September 26, 1973, to discuss matters related to the Watergate incident.

Richard M. Harden, Special Assistant to the President, White House Office, appeared before the Senate Appropriations Subcommittee on Treasury, Postal Service, and General Government on March 9, 1977, to discuss funds for the White House Office; he appeared again before the House Appropriations Subcommittee on Treasury, Postal Service, and General Government on March 15, 1977, to discuss these same matters.

Rose Mary Woods, Personal Secretary to the President, White House Office, appeared before the Senate Select Committee on Presidential Campaign Activities on March 22, 1974, to discuss matters related to the Watergate incident.

J. Frederick Buzhardt, Special Counsel to the President, White House Office, appeared before the Senate Select Committee on Presidential Campaign Activities on April 10 and May 7, 1974, to discuss matters related to the Watergate incident.

Alexander M. Haig, Jr., Staff Coordinator to the President, White House Office, appeared before the Senate Select Committee on Presidential Campaign Activities on May 2, and 15, 1974, to discuss matters related to the Watergate incident.

Leonard Garment, Assistant to the President, White House Office, appeared before the Senate Select Committee on Presidential Campaign Activities on May 17, 1974, to discuss matters related to the Watergate incident.

Lloyd Cutler, Counsel to the President, White House Office, appeared before the Senate Judiciary Subcommittee to Investigate the Activities of Individuals Representing the Interests of Foreign Governments on September 10, 1980, to discuss efforts by the President's brother, Billy Carter, to influence the federal government on behalf of the government of Libya.

Zbigniew Brzezinski, Assistant to the President for National Security Affairs, White House Office, appeared before the Senate Judiciary Subcommittee to Investigate the Activities of Individuals Representing the Interests of Foreign Governments on September 17, 1980, to discuss efforts by the President's brother, Billy Carter, to influence the federal government on behalf of the government of Libya.

Samuel Berger, Deputy Assistant to the President for National Security Affairs, White House Office, appeared before the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations on May 3, 1994, to provide a briefing on United States policy toward Haiti.

Samuel Berger, Assistant to the President for National Security Affairs, White House Office, appeared before the Senate Committee on Governmental Affairs on September 11, 1997, concerning campaign fundraising practices in connection with the 1996 federal election campaign.

PRESIDENTIAL ADVISER TESTIMONY REFUSED

Beginning with the years immediately after the conclusion of World War II, examples are provided below of instances when invited congressional committee or subcommittee testimony by a presidential adviser was refused:

John R. Steelman, Assistant to the President, White House Office, declined in March 1948 to appear before a special subcommittee of the House Committee on Education and Labor.

Herbert G. Klein, Director of White House Communications, White House Office, declined on September 21, 1971, to appear before the Senate Judiciary Subcommittee on Constitutional Rights.

Frederick V. Malek, Special Assistant to the President, White House Office, and Charles W. Colson, Special Counsel to the President, White House Office, declined in December 1971 to appear before the Senate Judiciary Subcommittee on Constitutional Rights.

Henry A. Kissinger, Assistant to the President for National Security Affairs, declined on February 28, 1972, to appear before the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations.

David Young, Special Assistant to the National Security Council, declined on April 29, 1972, to appear before the House Government Operations Subcommittee on Foreign Operations and Government Information.

WHY PRESIDENTIAL ADVISERS DO NOT REGULARLY TESTIFY BEFORE COMMITTEES

"Although White House aides do not testify before congressional committees on a regular basis," it has been observed, "under certain conditions they do. First, intense and escalating political embarrassment may convince the White House that it is in the interest of the President to have these aides testify and ventilate the issue fully. Second, initial White House resistance may give way in the face of concerted congressional and public pressure."

Given the comity between the executive and legislative branches, Congress often elects not to request the appearance of presidential aides. When Congress has requested the appearance of such aides, Presidents and their aides have at times resisted, asserting the separation of powers doctrine and/or executive privilege. These two grounds for declining to comply with congressional requests for the appearance of presidential aides overlap, and it is sometimes difficult to determine which argument is being raised.

President Richard M. Nixon contended: "Under the doctrine of separation of powers, the manner in which the President personally exercises his assigned executive powers is not subject to questioning by another branch of Government. If the President is not subject to such questioning, it is equally appropriate that members of his staff not be so questioned, for their roles are in effect an extension of the Presidency."

The separation of powers doctrine was also cited in guidelines for White House staff issued during the Carter Administration as the basis for the "immunity" of the staff from appearing before committees. The guidelines "articulated the traditional arguments against compulsory testimony to Congress by White House advisers (i.e., need for 'frank and candid discussions,' personal advisers are agents of the President)."

Executive privilege was invoked during the Nixon Administration when congressional committees sought the testimony of a White House aide at a Senate confirmation hearing and the testimony of the White House Counsel at Senate committee hearings on the Watergate incident and related matters.

CONGRESS'S RIGHT TO EXECUTIVE BRANCH INFORMATION

Congress has a constitutionally rooted right of access to the information it needs to perform its Article I legislative and oversight functions. Generally, a congressional committee with jurisdiction over the subject matter, which is conducting an authorized investigation for legislative or oversight purposes, has a right to information held by the executive branch in the absence of either a valid claim of constitutional privilege by the executive or a statutory provision where Congress has limited its constitutional right to information.

Efforts by congressional committees to obtain information from the executive branch are sometimes met with assertions of executive privilege. No decision of the Supreme Court resolves the question of whether there are any circumstances in which the executive branch can refuse to provide information sought by Congress on the basis of executive privilege, but the caselaw offers some guidance for committees when the privilege is asserted. In upholding a judicial subpoena in United States v. Nixon, the Supreme Court found a constitutional basis for the doctrine of executive privilege, rejected the President's contention that the privilege was absolute, and balanced the President's need for confidentiality and the judiciary's need for the materials in a criminal proceeding.

A distinction has been recognized by the courts between two aspects of executive privilege—the presidential communications privilege and the deliberative process privilege. The former has a constitutional basis in the separation of powers doctrine, relates to "direct decisionmaking by the President," and concerns "quintessential and non-delegable powers," whereas the latter "is primarily a common law privilege" applicable "to decisionmaking of executive officials generally." The former applies to entire documents (including factual material) and "covers final and post-decisional materials as well as pre-deliberative ones." The latter covers predecisional and deliberative materials, not "purely factual [material], unless the material is so inextricably intertwined with the deliberative sections of documents that its disclosure would inevitably reveal the government's deliberations." Both privileges are qualified. When either privilege is asserted, the court will balance the public interests involved and assess the need of the party seeking the privileged information.

The range of executive branch officials who may appropriately assert executive privilege before congressional committees, and the circumstances under which they may do so, remains unresolved by the courts, and is a matter that may be determined by case-by-case accommodation between the political branches. Some guidance in this regard was offered by Chief Justice William Rehnquist, when he was Assistant Attorney General in the Nixon Administration. Rehnquist distinguished between "those few executive branch witnesses whose sole responsibility is that of advising the President," who "should not be required to appear [before Congress] at all, since all of their official responsibilities would be subject to a claim of privilege," and "the executive branch witness . . . whose responsibilities include the administration of departments or agencies established by Congress, and from whom Congress may quite properly require extensive testimony," subject to "appropriate" claims of privilege.

Following a review of Rehnquist's statement, precedents and practice concerning congressional access to executive branch information (particularly, the testimony of presidential advisers), and constitutional issues, it is possible to suggest some key legal factors that together may determine whether a congressional request for the testimony of one who advises the President will be honored. (1) In the view of the executive, the few individuals whose sole duty is to advise the President should never be required to testify because all of their duties are protected by executive privilege. (2) The executive has conceded that an official who has operational functions in a department or agency established by law may be required to testify, although at times such an official may invoke executive privilege. (3) Congress may increase its leverage if the position of the potential witness is subject to Senate confirmation.

PROCEDURE FOR OBTAINING EXECUTIVE BRANCH TESTIMONY

A congressional committee may request (informally, or by a letter from the committee chair, perhaps co-signed by the ranking Member) or demand (pursuant to subpoena) the testimony of a presidential adviser. However, Congress may encounter legal and political problems in attempting to enforce a subpoena to a presidential adviser.

Conflicts concerning congressional requests or demands for executive branch testimony or documents often involve extensive negotiations, and may be resolved by some form of compromise as to, inter alia, the scope of the testimony or information to be provided to Congress. If the executive branch fails to comply with a committee subpoena, and if negotiations do not resolve the matter, the committee may employ Congress's inherent contempt authority (involving a trial at the bar of the Senate or House) or statutory criminal contempt authority in an effort to obtain the needed information. Both of these procedures are somewhat cumbersome, and their use may not result in the production of the information that is sought.

When faced with a refusal by the executive branch to comply with a demand for information, Congress has several alternatives to inherent and statutory contempt, although these alternatives are not without their own limitations. One approach is to seek declaratory or other relief in the courts. Previous attempts to seek judicial resolution of inter-branch conflicts over information access issues have encountered procedural obstacles and have demonstrated the reluctance of the courts to resolve sensitive separation of powers issues. Other approaches may include, inter alia, appropriations riders, impeachment, and a delay in the confirmation of presidential appointees.

In addition to the options generally available in the event of a refusal by the executive to provide information sought by Congress, when a presidential adviser who is not serving in a department or agency declines to testify before a committee, Congress might wish to establish the entity in which he serves by law, and subject the head of the entity to Senate confirmation.

CONCLUSION

(1) Legal and policy factors may explain why presidential advisers do not regularly testify before committees. (2) Generally, a congressional committee with jurisdiction over the subject matter, which is conducting an authorized investigation for legislative or oversight purposes, has a right to information held by the executive branch in the absence of either a valid claim of constitutional privilege by the executive or a statutory provision whereby Congress has limited its constitutional right to information. (3) A committee may request or demand the testimony of a presidential adviser. ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair would once again remind all Members, even though other debate may have intervened, to refrain from personal references to the President.

THE COST OF PRESCRIPTION DRUGS IN THE UNITED STATES

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under the Speaker's announced policy of January 7, 2003, the gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. GUTKNECHT) is recognized for 60 minutes as the designee of the majority leader.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. GUTKNECHT. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend and include extraneous material on the subject of my special order.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Minnesota?

There was no objection.

Mr. GUTKNECHT. Mr. Speaker, I rise and I hope to be joined by some of my colleagues tonight to talk about an issue that I have been coming down to the floor of this House for more than 5 years to talk about.

That is the price that Americans pay for prescription drugs relative to the rest of the industrialized world, and I have often said that we as Americans are blessed and we should be prepared and willing to subsidize people in developing parts of the world, like sub-Saharan Africa. I do not believe, however, that we should be required to subsidize the starving Swiss, the Germans, the French and other industrialized powers.

In the last 5 years, I remember when we first started doing these Special Orders, and I would come down here, and it was basically just me and my charts and the chorus has been growing around the country and we have been joined by Republicans, by Democrats, by Independents and others.

Another point I always try to make is that this is not an issue of right versus left. It is not conservatives versus liberals. As I say, it is not right versus left. It is right versus wrong, and the issue really is that Americans are being held captive here in the United States; and the net result, very predictable result, is that whenever you have a captive market, particularly for a life-saving product like prescription drugs, it is inevitable that we, the world's best customers, would wind up paying the world's highest price.

I know there are some who believe that the answer is for the United States to have some kind of price controls. I am not one that shares that view.

About 4 years ago or 5 years ago now I guess, and one of the reasons I became very involved in this issue was something that happened that was totally unrelated to the price of prescription drugs. The price of live hogs in the United States dropped from about $37 per hundred weight to about $7, and these were the lowest prices for our hog farmers in 50 years. Many of my pork producers started calling me saying, Congressman, can you not do something about these incredibly low prices for these pigs? I said I do not know what I can do, and they said, well, could you at least stop all these Canadian hogs from coming across our borders, making our supply demand situation worse?

So, as their Congressman, I called the Secretary of Commerce, I called the Secretary of Agriculture, explained the situation that thousands of Canadian hogs were coming into our markets making the price of pigs in the United States even lower and can we not do something to at least stop all of these pigs from coming into American markets. The answer I got from both the Secretary of Agriculture and the Secretary of Commerce was essentially the same answer. They said that is called NAFTA. It is called free trade, and all of the sudden a light bulb went on over my head, and I said is it not ironic that we have open markets when it comes to pork bellies, not when it comes to Prilosec.

Literally, at that point, I moved from what Winston Churchill said the difference between a fan and a fanatic is, that a fanatic cannot change their mind and will not change the subject. I have become almost a fanatic on the issue of opening up markets to allow Americans to have world-class access to world-class drugs at world market prices.

I am joined by my friend from Illinois, and I would be happy to yield him some time; but I have a couple of charts.

Mr. EMANUEL. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman would yield, why do you not do the charts because I think it is always the most informative for our audience.

Mr. GUTKNECHT. Let me talk a little bit about this particular chart. A year ago right now I was in Munich, Germany, with one of my staffers. We were on our way home and stopped at the Munich airport pharmacy. As a matter of fact, the name of the pharmacy, if you want to check it out, is the Metropolitan Pharmacy at the Munich airport. Those of us that travel a lot know if you want to get a bargain, the last place you go to get that bargain is to buy at the airport, but we were on our way out of town. We bought then some of the most commonly prescribed drugs here in the United States, and these are the prices that we paid in April of 2003 in Munich, Germany.

When we returned, we went and asked here in Washington, D.C., what the price for those same drugs in the same dosages with the same number of tablets would be here in the United States, and let me show you some of the examples.

Coumadin is a drug that my father takes. Here in the United States, 100 tablets in the United States, about $92.66. In Germany, the price was $28.44.

Glucophage, a very effective drug, been around for a long time for diabetes. Over in Germany, 30 tablets, 850 milligrams, back in April, $15.50 American. Here in the United States, $45, three times more expensive?

Pravachol, I do not know much about that particular drug, but a commonly prescribed drug, $91 in Germany; $159 here in the United States, and the list goes on.

One of them we have talked a lot about, and these numbers have changed in part because of the change in the value of the dollar, but Tamoxifen, those numbers now have changed, and I see we have the updated price on the Tamoxifen as of today. Tamoxifen has come down a lot in the United States, but it is still more than twice as expensive in the United States as it is in Germany. Part of the reason the price has come down in the U.S. is because there is now a new drug that is taking the place of Tamoxifen.

Zestril, $39 in Germany; $75 in the United States. Zokor, $48 in Germany; $82 here, and I think is representative and we talk a lot about Canada, but what you will find is generally prices for prescription drugs in places like Germany are even cheaper, and hopefully we will talk about that as well because of parallel trading. And I would be happy to yield to my friend from Illinois.

Mr. EMANUEL. Mr. Speaker, I thank my colleague from Minnesota.

As that chart shows, basically the difference between the United States price for the same drugs, same name-brand products from Germany to Canada to England is in the United States our seniors and our citizens have to pay somewhere between 40 to 60 percent more for the same drugs they would get at their pharmacy than their G-8 or other members of the European Union; and you and I have done this many times, and the fact is we are not talking about some field somewhere in some mythological moment of some dream. There is parallel trading today in Europe.

If you go to a pharmacy in Germany, they will price out that product you need, whether it is Lipitor, for whatever you need Lipitor for, the cholesterol, whether you need another drug for blood pressure, for arthritis, or for your heart. Any of those medications they will look at Spain, look at England, they will find the best price for you, and all we are talking about is having the American consumers, our senior citizens, link into that free market, get the competition on price. So rather than paying 50 to 60 percent more than what people in England pay for Lipitor, we would pay the price that they pay in England or in Canada or in Italy or in the Netherlands or in Germany or in France.

It is ironic because all those folks from those countries come to the United States for our medical care. Yet Americans must go overseas for their medications, and what we are talking about is having a system where you bring real competition to the pricing of pharmaceutical products and allow that competition and that market to bring the prices down and allow that choice to exist, not so people would have to drive up to Canada, not so people would have to go on the Internet to get their pharmaceutical products; but that the prices that the people are now paying in Canada and in Germany and France for Tamoxifen, for Cipro, I am trying to look at the drugs, my eyes are not as good as they used to be, Zokor, those prices would come to their local pharmacy. They would go right down the street and get those prices, go to the pharmacist who would say, well, I think I can get something better in Toronto for you, or, we have the same price right here.

That competition would bring the prices down here; and that is all we are talking about, and every product, whether that is in steel, autos, electronic, software, food, America has the most open markets and the best prices in the world. There is only one product line where we have a closed market, and that is the pharmaceutical products; and it is the only product that Americans pay 30, 40, 50, depending on the product, sometimes 60 percent more than our European allies and Canada.

I would like to give you two other statistics. According to Families USA, of the 50 drugs most commonly used by seniors, the prices have increased 3½ times the rate of inflation over the past year; and between 2000 and 2003, seniors' expenditures on prescription drugs increased by 44 percent. So drug prices are going up.

We have now got a prescription drug bill that offers seniors no benefit as relates to price and affordability of those drugs, and now they are going to continue to go up; and unless we bring something that brings competition and choices to the system, the seniors are going to continue to pay somewhere north of 15 percent increases in prices, and our taxpayers are going to be funding not $400 billion, but close to $600 billion in a prescription drug benefit when we know we can get the prices of these drugs much cheaper.

I see you have the next chart. That is why I wanted to bring these statistics.

Mr. GUTKNECHT. Mr. Speaker, reclaiming my time for a few minutes, this is a chart which appeared last week in newspapers around the country with an Associated Press story talking about how various groups are trying to save money on prescription drugs, including a lot of the big insurance companies and health medical plans of differing kinds. I think this chart tells a rather shocking story; and I do say this and I am sincere when I say this, unfortunately I think as we looked at the problem of prescription drugs, particularly for the elderly, in my opinion, we misdefined the problem. I think if you misdefine the problem, the chances of getting the right solution are not very good.

The problem is affordability, and I think this chart illustrates part of the problem. Since 1997 we have seen drug prices for name-brand prescription drugs in the United States according to the Segal Company, in a report that was published, an article that was published by the Associated Press last week, here is what drug prices have done just in the last 8 years. In 1997, average drug prices went up 12.9 percent; in 1998, 16.8 percent. They slowed down a little in 1999 to only 14.2. Then back up to 16.3, 16.9, 18.4; and the estimates for 2003 are 19.5 percent, and for this year, we are projecting that drug prices will go up 18.1 percent.

If I could just finish this, that means that in the last 8 years, when the core rate of inflation has been less than 24 percent, prescription drugs in the United States have gone up 133 percent. I am not all that good in math, but that is about six times more than the inflation rate. I do not have an MBA. I am not the world's smartest guy, but I know this: this is unsustainable. No matter how you do this, if you have the taxpayers pay for it, if you have our grandchildren pay for it, this is unsustainable. It is eating the United States up and this is the problem.

When people talked about the prescription drug problem, unfortunately too many people here in Washington talked about it as if it was a problem of coverage. Well, if you went to town hall meetings, and you and I have done a lot of town hall meetings with seniors, they will tell you the problem. The problem is not coverage, because they know that right now in any one of these years I believe they could have bought prescription drug coverage from any number of insurance carriers, including the AARP. So they could get coverage. The problem is affordability, and we really only have a couple of choices.

One of them that we use with virtually every other product, including products that we normally think of as being intellectual-property-type products, we have open markets. I mean, it costs a whole lot of money to develop that first chip when Intel brings a chip off the line; but they cannot use this differential pricing for customers in Japan get one price; customers in Germany get another price; oh, and by the way, customers in the United States get stuck with prices that are 40 or 60 percent higher.

I yield back to my friend from Illinois.

Mr. EMANUEL. Mr. Speaker, I am glad you pointed that out. In each of those years pharmaceutical products ran higher in the sense of inflation by the average of 5 to 6 percent more than the core inflation rate.

Mr. GUTKNECHT. Five to six times.

Mr. EMANUEL. Thank you. Five to six times more than the core inflation rate, and it is what drives seniors. I have done town halls, but also I still do office hours at grocery stores and pharmacies where I just meet constituents; and seniors always tell you, I cannot afford the drugs I need. There is an issue of price.

The second issue they said, do not harm the plan I have. I have a good plan from where I work; please do not harm it.

Lastly, and in this order basically, they would then say can we not get a benefit under Medicare, and in the bill that was just passed here and the reason I opposed it is on the fundamental issue of price and affordability.

The legislation on prescription drugs was totally silent on dealing with price. And what we have proposed here, your legislation, deals with the issue of price and affordability and allowing pharmaceutical products and allowing Americans to get the products they need at world-class prices, that is, at 50 percent discount, 40 percent discount, and what people in Germany, France, England, Canada, Italy, the Netherlands, or Ireland is paying. That is what we are trying to do, is address the issue of price and affordability that all of our seniors have talked about.

Then it brings up the other issue. If we are going to have this benefit as part of Medicare, whether our taxpayers today or our children tomorrow pay for it, to me it is mind-boggling why, when you know that you could get prices cheaper for the same brand-name drug, Lipitor or Zocor, why you would get those drugs and pay 40 percent more when you know you can get them 40 percent cheaper. Any CEO who told their board, look, we have checked it out, our supplier, we can get a better price, 40 percent better, but we are going to take a pass on it, that CEO would be fired.

We as the stewards of the taxpayers as well as our senior citizens have an obligation if we know we can get that same drug, that same product for 40 percent less, we have an obligation to do that.

Eventually, we are going to turn our time to the issue of safety, but Health and Human Services is spending $80 million on a commercial to convince people the prescription drug bill they passed was a good bill. For about $80 million we could literally put in place, the Food and Drug Administration, a safety plan so that when people bought their drugs in Canada, Europe, et cetera, they could know for sure that they were safe.

Today, not a single drug, in the last 10 years, has anybody ever gotten sick from buying drugs from Canada. We know that for a fact. But for the same amount of money that they are using to try to persuade people that what we did was good, we could put a safety program in place and allow the free market to operate the way it is supposed to operate.

Mr. GUTKNECHT. Well, Mr. Speaker, one of the arguments we always get, and I want to follow up with something the gentleman just said, because I think it is important. Some people say, well, I do not want my mother-in-law buying her prescription drugs on line.

You know what? Neither do we. What we want is parallel trading. What we want is our local pharmacists to be able to buy these drugs at 30 to 300 percent less so that our seniors and others can buy them at their local pharmacy and get those kinds of prices.

The gentleman talked about this, and I do not think most people understand it, I know a lot of our colleagues, still, this is like alchemy or something, but it happens every day in Europe. I wonder if the gentleman would not just share the story of how many drugs we actually import, like Lipitor. Perhaps the gentleman would share that story.

Mr. EMANUEL. Right. First of all, 2 years ago is the last year for which we have data, and the data shows that the United States imports $15 billion, just shy of $15 billion a year of pharmaceutical products into the country. $15 billion. We already do it.

Lipitor used to be manufactured in western Michigan. Today, Lipitor, a drug that some of our colleagues use, we know the Vice President of the United States uses, we know the Secretary of Health and Human Services uses, is now manufactured in Ireland.

Mr. GUTKNECHT. Every tablet.

Mr. EMANUEL. Every tablet is manufactured in a facility not in the United States. It used to be here, but it is manufactured in Ireland. Then it is exported, same packaging, to the pharmacy shops in France, Germany, England, Ireland, United States, Canada, and around the world. Yet that drug, Lipitor, we pay 50 percent more in the United States than they do in Canada for Lipitor. It is the number one selling drug for senior citizens with high cholesterol.

Mr. GUTKNECHT. Reclaiming my time for a moment, Mr. Speaker, when people talk about safety, we need to understand, and I am confident they do everything they can to make certain as they ship these drugs around the countries, from one country to the next, they are as safety conscience as they can be, but do understand they are not shipped in armored cars. These are going in big containers, generally in big barrels with a plastic bag on the inside. And the idea that they cannot sit on a loading dock in New Jersey or in Illinois or Oregon or wherever and somehow that is completely safe, but if a consumer in the northern suburbs of Chicago or in southern Minnesota decides they want to order their drugs from a reputable pharmacy in Canada and the package is delivered by FedEx or UPS, that somehow that is not safe, is laughable.

We have talked about this enough, but it just boggles my mind. And I think the gentleman's point is a good one, that here we are spending lots of money encouraging people to believe that the pharmaceutical drug plan that was passed by the Congress and signed by the President, this is a democracy, it is the law of the land. And I am not here tonight to be overly critical, but the point is, for all the money we are spending promoting this, we could have put in place a system that would be safe for American consumers.

Frankly, if they could buy their Glucophage for 300 percent less or if their pharmacist could buy it for 300 percent less and pass some of the savings along to them, they may not need a benefit from the Federal Government. They may not need our grandchildren to pay for those drugs.

If the drug companies can figure out a way to safely import and export drugs around the countries, then we ought to be able to. More importantly, if we can have parallel trading between Germany and France and England and Ireland and Spain, in other words, if a pharmacist in Germany can order their Coumadin from a pharmaceutical supply house in Spain and save his consumers or her consumers 75 percent, they do that.

Here is the thing about the Europeans. They are not intrinsically smarter than we are. If they can figure out how to do this safely, I have every confidence our pharmacists and our FDA can do this safely. It is a bogus argument. It gets thrown in our face, but here is the interesting thing. No one believes it. Consumers do not believe it, and we have some evidence that there have not even been complaints filed.

There is another article, and I am sending this out to all my colleagues in the next couple of days, again from last week's paper. It says, "Pharmacy complaints slow none on Canadian imports." In fact, in the State of Minnesota over the last 5 years, there have been 473 complaints to State regulators about pharmacies and/or pharmacists. In the last 5 years. Not one alleged an error by a foreign pharmacy, according to a review conducted by the Associated Press.

In other words, if there is a huge problem, and literally in some areas of my home State half of the seniors are now getting their prescription drugs from Canada, so if this was a huge safety hazard, you would think that we would be getting lots of calls, lots of complaints, and yet the answer is zero.

Mr. Speaker, I yield to my colleague.

Mr. EMANUEL. I thank my colleague, Mr. Speaker.

The reason I brought up the $80 million being dedicated towards advertising the prescription drug legislation and that for that same amount of money we could put in place a system at the Food and Drug Administration to ensure that people could buy their drugs safely is because President Kennedy once said, "to govern is to choose;" and that is the choice we have made.

With that system in place, we would have, as the gentleman said, rather than having specifically a benefit that some do not think accomplishes that much, we would bring the discounted prices, the 40 percent retail discount price, right to our pharmacies in the United States and to our consumers, saving billions of dollars throughout the health care system that could be dedicated towards the uninsured, towards whatever we wanted to dedicate it to. It would literally wring out an inefficiency in the health care system by allowing the, irony of ironies, the free market to work.

Secondly, we know from the Wall Street Journal, I think about 3 months ago, that the pharmaceutical industry thought that the best way to defeat this legislation was to scare people by talking about people getting sick, the safety risk of the pharmaceutical drugs imported from Canada. Yet in sworn congressional testimony, the Food and Drug Administration acknowledged not one person they could find has ever gotten sick from buying drugs from Canada and Europe, and yet 2 million Americans do it every year. People have gotten sick from food that has been imported from around the world, but not one person who bought their drugs from Canada has ever gotten sick, according to the Food and Drug Administration, and close to 2 million Americans do it a year.

So that is number one.

Number two, in my State, my governor conducted a study looking at the likelihood if they were to import medications from Canada how much they could save Illinois. We spend close to $350 million a year for retirees and State employees. The State would save its taxpayers $91 million if they bought their drugs competitively. In addition to that, and the New York Times acknowledged this about the study, the study in Illinois found that Canada actually had a safer system than the United States because less people touch the drug from manufacturing to the shelf in the pharmacy.

So this whole notion of fear was literally an embellished story by the pharmaceutical industry as a way to defeat this legislation. And what I am proud of is that not only the American people have not bought it, but 243 Members of our colleagues here in this hall did not buy it, passed this legislation this year not once but twice, and, hopefully, the other body, the other Chamber will follow suit. This whole notion of safety was a red herring by the industry to intimidate people.

I will make one last comment about safety. Six years ago, when the generic industry was just being started, the name-brand pharmaceutical industry said the problem with generics was safety. What did we discover? We discovered that a lot of those generic pills were being manufactured at the same facilities that the brand-named drugs were being manufactured at. Then they walked away from the safety argument, and generics have grown as an industry, saving tens of billions of dollars for our consumers.

They left that argument on the shelf, but when it came to competitive pricing for pharmaceutical products, which allow the market to work, which the gentleman's legislation does, they brought up the safety issue. And, once again, we have shown in sworn testimony where the FDA says not a single person has ever been recorded getting sick, and the American consumers have not bought that argument that the industry has tried to scare them with. They know they can do. They do it every year.

My colleague and I run into seniors every year, I run into them at some of the public housing and some of the other senior housing in my district, where somebody on the haul will get everybody's prescription and will go up to Canada, fill everybody's prescription, and come back. They know it is normal. They do not think anything is wrong with this. They just cannot understand why we cannot do it here.

So on that issue I wanted to address those specific points on safety, and I yield back to my colleague.

Mr. GUTKNECHT. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman.

As my colleague knows, people are voting with their feet; and the gentleman alluded to how much we are really talking about, ultimately.

Now I am not saying this is a panacea. I do not think this is the silver bullet that will solve all of our problems with seniors being able to afford their medications. Clearly, there will still be seniors that fall through the cracks, and I think there legitimately is a role for government to play to help those people who cannot otherwise afford the health saving products they need. But the bottom line is, if we could at least guarantee them they had fairer prices, fewer and fewer of our seniors would need this.

Let me also say this is not just about seniors. There are a whole lot of working families in my colleague's district and my district that have children that have very serious medical conditions that are now paying thousands of dollars per month for some of these medications where these companies are willing to sell those same drugs for a lot less in some of these other countries.

Let me put a pencil on this, because an estimate done by Dr. Steve Schondelmeir, a professor of pharmacology at the University of Minnesota, his estimate is Americans will spend about $200 billion on prescription drugs this year. That is not just seniors, that is all Americans.

Now I am not saying we are going to be able to take advantage of all of the differences that we see on some of these charts. I think, as time goes forward, we will see if we do open the markets we will see prices come down in the United States, and we will see prices in other industrialized countries start to level off. At least we will not have to subsidize it.

But my estimate is that we will save at least 30 percent, and no one has challenged me on that number. I have had some of the pharmaceutical folks say, oh, no, no, no, it is not nearly that. I have said, okay, what is the number? Well, we do know, and some of it has to do with currency and some of it has to do with other problems. But, my colleagues, 30 percent of $200 billion is $60 billion.

Now that is $60 billion that American consumers could spend on a lot of other things. They could be buying things that might improve our manufacturing sector. They could be taking their kids to baseball games. They could be paying for violin lessons for their grandchildren. $60 billion would amount to the largest single tax cut in the history of the world.

I, as a supply-sider, think that is a good thing. That is money that could be spent on other things. They say, well, if we do that, there will be no more research. I do have to give the pharmaceutical industry credit. They are turning out new products, a lot of them we see advertised every day, and there is some health advantage to all of these that help some of the older men in the United States still enjoy a more vigorous life. Let us say it that way for prime time here. But at the end of the day, many of the things that the drug companies are spending their research dollars on are not necessarily on the miracle cures that they sometimes talk about. They are on new products that are slight improvements over existing products. For example, they changed a couple of molecules in Prilosec which was going off patent and they call it Nexium. Prilosec can now be bought over the counter for about $15, but they wanted to convert all the Prilosec users to Nexium because that sells for about $130 a month. It is not exactly about improving the quality of people's lives as much as it might be about making certain that they can guarantee a profit stream.

Let me just add one more point, because some people say, well, if this happens, it is going to really have a devastating impact on America and American industry and American companies. Let me just point out that some of the largest pharmaceutical companies in the world are not based in the United States. Bayer, the maker of Cipro, is a German company. Glaxo is actually a British company. AstraZeneca and Roche and Novartis, I believe, are all Swiss companies. So many of these pharmaceutical companies not only do business under the European model; they are based in Europe. And so the idea that somehow this is going to devastate America and American industry again is sort of a specious argument.

So we talk about safety. We talk about research. I am proud of the fact that we as Americans, and this is a number that I try to share with people, as the vice chairman of the Committee on Science, this is a number we should all be proud of. Americans represent less than 6 percent of the world's population; but between what the taxpayers pay for, what foundations and voluntary contributions pay for, and what we pay for in the high prices for our prescription drugs in the United States, Americans pay for over half of the basic research that is done in the world. We are 6 percent of the world's population, and over half of the basic research is done by and paid for by Americans.

Mr. EMANUEL. The gentleman and I have talked about this. What galls me a little about this whole subject is that not only are we paying the most expensive prices in the world but all the research that the pharmaceutical industry does is subsidized by the taxpayers. They write it off fully, 100 percent. The taxpayers are literally funding the research. Not only do we fund the research for this new medication, we have the dubious honor to pay the most expensive prices in the world. Second, is through the National Institute of Health, which is an annual budget here in the Federal Government of $27 billion, not all of it going to research for new medications, yet all the primary research that they do, I think it is about half of it, literally is subsidized by the taxpayers. One cannot think of a cancer drug or an AIDS drug, just to name two, that the taxpayers did not do the primary research. The pharmaceutical industry took that research, took it to market, took it through stages one and two, but the primary research was paid for by the taxpayers directly through the National Institutes of Health and then the follow-on research was subsidized through the tax credit research and development.

All the R&D that the companies do is tax free, the taxpayers subsidize it; and then we pay the highest prices at our pharmacies for those same drugs that a lot of these companies sell on the shelf in Canada, in England, in France, in Germany for 40 percent to 60 percent less.

So we paid for the research and then we pay the highest prices in the world. The gentleman noted that. That to me is what is most galling here. I do not fault really the pharmaceutical industry. I fault us here in the political system who have a job to represent our taxpayers, our middle-class families, our seniors, for allowing them to get away with a system that manipulates the patent laws, deals with tax subsidies through the NIH or through the tax credit R&D, and then passes legislation that literally gets away without dealing with the fundamental issue that all of us have constantly heard about at our town halls, at our grocery stores and at our pharmacies and, that is, we cannot afford the medication we need. It is not that they needed a benefit, not that a benefit was a bad thing to do, but they wanted the medications they needed at the prices they can afford.

I give the pharmaceutical industry credit for two things: one, they played the system perfectly, and I do not fault them; second is that they do good work. I was once in the hospital for 7½ weeks. I would not be here if it were not for some of the products that they had developed. I have no problem with that. But the prices I paid at the hospitals were a lot cheaper than what we pay at the pharmacies.

All we are asking for is that same competition to get those prices. We are prevented from doing it. This legislation that was recently passed specifically outlaws it; and I do believe, as I do in free markets, that if you allow that competition and you allow the consumer that freedom, you are going to get choice. Once that choice gets into the market, prices will come down here. Let me say, they will go up in Europe. But you will have an equilibrium, and you will not have a 50 percent disparity where we end up subsidizing those folks in Europe. When I say "we," hardworking middle-class families, taxpayers and the senior citizens.

I say pay for the research, I want us to own that research, but we need not have to pay the highest prices in the world. That is the mistake. The prices on the shelf at the pharmacies, that is the error here. We can do something about it. We have done it here in the House. Hopefully, our colleagues in the other body will also follow suit.

Mr. GUTKNECHT. I want to thank the gentleman for joining me tonight in this Special Order because I think this is an issue that is just simply not going to go away. I think a lot of folks here in Washington and some of the folks who represent the pharmaceutical industry thought, now that we have passed the prescription drug benefit, this issue about affordability and competition and open markets will just go away. We are here tonight to report that the issue is not going to go away and that Americans are still concerned.

As I say, it is not a matter of right versus left. It is right versus wrong. It is simply wrong to hold American consumers captive so that we pay the highest prices in the industrialized world. As the gentleman just said, we subsidize the pharmaceutical industry and the research in three separate ways. First of all in the Tax Code. Not only do they write off every dollar that they spend on research; in some cases they actually get a research and development tax credit. So the costs to the company are very negligible. In addition to that, we subsidize them through the NIH, the CDC, and even through the VA and the Defense Department. So I think the real number that we spend on basic research that ultimately benefits the pharmaceutical companies actually is closer to 27 billion taxpayer dollars per year.

Again, in some respects I am very proud of that. When we talk about some of these miracle drugs like Tamoxifen, that was developed by the NIH, the National Cancer Institute. It was taken through phase-2 trials. Then they licensed it to the pharmaceutical company and our reward, at least until just the last several months, is American consumers were paying six times more for that drug than consumers were paying in Germany and in England and in the industrialized West. And I agree with the gentleman. It is not so much shame on the pharmaceutical industry. Essentially they have been given a market opportunity here in the United States with a captive market, and they have taken advantage of it. I do not say shame on the pharmaceutical industry as much as I say shame on us. Because we create the rules, and the rules here are heavily stacked against American consumers.

We are not asking them to give away their drugs. I would not say to Intel, and they deal in intellectual property, we understand that first chip off an Intel line may cost them $500 million. The next chip may cost 5 cents. We do not tell them what they should sell their chips for, but we do not stand idly by if they want to take advantage of American consumers or American users of their products while they sell them for much lower prices in other parts of the world.

All we are really asking for is basic fairness. I think at the end of the day, the American people understand this. This is an issue the American people get. Part of the reason the gentleman and I have been traveling around the country and speaking to various groups and at least raising the attention and elevating the debate about this issue is because it is such an important issue to so many people. I was in Oklahoma City, and I had a lady come up to me at the end of the meeting there. I spoke at a senior expo down there. A lady came up, she was probably in her thirties. She said, I work for the local bank. I said, really. You could tell she had something more she wanted to tell me. She said, Congressman, what I do is reverse mortgages at the bank. You would not believe the number of seniors who come in and get a reverse mortgage on their house because they cannot afford their prescription drugs.

I say, shame on us. That kind of thing, we could do something about. In fact, I am proud of the fact that we in the House have done something about it. When people call me and say, well, what can we do? What can we do, Congressman, to make certain that something like this happens this year? I always say, the House has done its work. If people would like more information about what they can do to make this a reality, to allow Americans to have access to world-class drugs at world market prices, they can leave me an e-mail, just go to my Web site at gil.house.gov and I can give them more information, we can give them more charts, we can show them what we have learned.

We know, for example, in terms of the safety, and the gentleman alluded to it in his remarks, the CDC and others all keep records, we know that not a single American has died as a result of taking a drug from another country. We also know that, on average, 6,000 Americans die in hospitals in the United States from getting the wrong prescription drug, the wrong dosage, or they get a reaction to a prescription drug. That is happening now. We know, for example, you are much more likely to get sick and die from eating onions from Mexico. In Pittsburgh alone, we had 500 Americans who got seriously ill, three died, from onions from Mexico. Nobody has died from taking Coumadin from Germany.

Mr. EMANUEL. Before I leave, I wanted to add one other point. I think the gentleman explained this, and I had not even known this, but on Tuesday night, the pharmacies across America get the new prices coming in over their fax machines. Going to that other chart, this year we are expecting pharmaceutical products will go up 18 percent. Inflation will be at 2 percent. So if you go to your pharmacy, to all the people who may be watching, and you go to fill your prescription, then you wonder why the same prescription that 3 months ago if you get a 3-month supply or a month ago cost 21 bucks or 50 bucks and this month, the same drug, nothing changed, nothing, but it is up $12, it is all because of that chart.

You can go ask your pharmacist if you have time on your hands on Wednesday how much they priced up all the products. Unfortunately, what the pharmaceutical companies have done, we just talked about it, they game the tax laws. Again, no criticism, but they have gamed the patent laws in this country, they are gaming the legislation on prescription drugs, and what they decided to do was price up the pharmaceutical products right before this discount card is introduced. So what it is going to look like is a sale at Neiman Marcus around America, which is rather than paying and getting, quote-unquote, this 25 percent discount, which I am not really sure will ever materialize, what you are really going to see is a run-up in prices right before this summer, and you are seeing it today at your pharmacy. So if your prices are going up, you know what is going on, and when this big balloon, big announcement is going to happen, you are going to see a big sale at Neiman Marcus right here in America. You are not going to get a sale price. They are just plussing it up before the big discount card. Our American senior citizens are going to be running around in a cul-de-sac chasing themselves, and there is going to be no discount, the taxpayers are going to be saddled with a big bill, they are going to pay $35 a month for this card, and they are going to see no discount.

Yet we literally have in front of us the opportunity, and the gentleman noted a figure, I think it is an accurate figure, at a minimum, to save $60 billion this year if we had competition in the free market. That could go toward other things in our system, a college education, buying things for kids' education, other type of health care needs; but it just could be so much more productive than what we are doing with it.

I think it is so important that we pass this legislation so that the legislation we do pass finally deals with the central issue our constituents tell us about, price and affordability, and so we do not have to hear the story about a mortgage consultant doing reverse mortgages for our senior citizens so they can literally take the equity out of their homes so they can buy their medications that they need.

This is the greatest country in the world. We are all fortunate to live here. We can do better than what we have just seen in front of us. I thank the gentleman for taking this time to organize this.

Mr. GUTKNECHT. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for joining me tonight. I think it would be fair to say we do not agree on every issue, but we agree on this, and that is Americans should not be held captive. The House has done its work, and I was never prouder than when this bill passed the House Chambers here against a withering attack by the pharmaceutical industry and sometimes by our own FDA. But this is the people's House, and that night the people finally ruled.

I am not asking for the pharmaceutical companies to give away their companies. I am not asking them to change the way they do research. It may well be they have to adjust how much they spend on advertising and marketing, because there is growing evidence they are now spending more money on advertising than they are on research. I do not know if those numbers are true, but I think perhaps we can have some hearings here in the House and find out.

But, at the end of the day, all we are asking for is basic fairness. It is not right versus left. It is simply right versus wrong. It is wrong to hold Americans captive.

We are not going to go away. This issue is not going to go away. I believe that before this Congress adjourns the chances are very good that our friends on the other side of this Capitol will follow the lead of the U.S. House of Representatives. They will pass a bill that will allow Americans to have access to world-class drugs at world-market prices.

Ms. DELAURO. Mr. Speaker, I rise to discuss an issue that touches the lives of every senior in this country and want to thank my colleague from Minnesota, Mr. GUTKNECHT, for his leadership in the fight to lower the cost of prescription drugs.

The single greatest failure in the Medicare prescription drug bill that passed this Congress last fall—and there were many—was its refusal to do anything about the one issue that affects seniors most—price. With the cost of the 50 most frequently used medicines by seniors rising by nearly three-and-a-half times the rate of inflation, how any prescription drug bill could fail to address this concern is, frankly, beyond me. High health care prices are eroding the living standards of our middle-class families.

In the last few weeks, we have learned who the real losers were in this Medicare bill: the American people—current and future retirees. First, we learned that the true cost of the legislation was fully a third higher than Members of Congress and the public had been told—that it would cost the taxpayers $535 billion instead of the $395 billion previously reported.

I say "reported" because we also recently learned that the Medicare actuary Richard Foster, a 31-year career public servant, was threatened with dismissal by his superiors in the Administration last year when he discovered that the cost of the bill far exceeded what had been publicly acknowledged. And this was before the 3-hour vote held here on this floor.

And last week, we learned that the program will be bankrupt sooner than previously estimated. According to the Medicare trustees' report, Medicare's finances have, quote, "taken a major turn for the worse." The report predicted the program will be bankrupt by 2019, instead of 2026, as had been previously estimated. According to last Tuesday's Washington Post, since the program was created in the 1960s, never before has Medicare lurched seven years closer to insolvency in one year.

All this flies in the face of what the Republican leadership and President Bush himself said as the bill was being debated by Congress. The President said that any Medicare prescription drug legislation that came to his desk must, quote, "strengthen the program's long-term financial security." And the Speaker of this body said that the final bill, quote, "made Medicare more sustainable" and would "change the paradigm of health care in this country."

Well, Mr. Speaker, the Medicare law may have changed the paradigm of health care in this country, but it was decidedly not for the better. As a point of fact, the trustees report tells us that the law was the primary reason that Medicare—and the health care of our senior population—will be less secure.

Combined with an advertising campaign promoting the law that even the nonpartisan General Accounting Office found to have "notable weaknesses and other omissions," it is fair to say these recent developments have seriously undermined public trust in the Medicare program and its ability to provide care for our seniors.

This Congress has a moral responsibility to honor our contract with the seniors of this country—a contract that says after a lifetime of hard work, raising families, and doing the right thing, that seniors deserve the dignity of a secure retirement. That begins with restoring public confidence in the Medicare program—one of the twin pillars of our retirement security safety net and the embodiment of our country's shared values. That begins with improving the program's financial health for real.

The first step would be a simple one—giving ordinary Americans the opportunity to reimport drugs from some countries, a choice millions are already making on their own, out of desperation. Legalizing reimportation is something Congress ought to have included in the bill last fall. This one provision would save Americans $600 billion in the next decade—savings passed directly onto the consumer.

We know reimportation is a safe and feasible option. In 2001, U.S. drug companies themselves reimported $14.7 billion worth of brand-name medications from their overseas plants. In fact, according to incoming FDA

Commissioner Lester Crawford, for less money than the administration is spending on its advertisements to spin the truth about the recently passed Medicare bill, the FDA could set up a program to safely reimport drugs from Canada. With that knowledge, this body overwhelmingly passed legislation by a vote of 243 to 186 that would allow for the safe importation of drugs.

But instead of adopting our legislation, the final bill that passed the House and Senate contained no provisions to hold down the cost of drugs at all. And by tying the premium seniors will pay to cost, seniors' out of pocket costs will continue to rise.

Mr. Speaker, with the baby boom generation set to retire at the end of the decade, it is critical that Congress act now to protect the quality and the solvency of the Medicare system. That starts with bringing down costs, including giving the Secretary of HHS the power to negotiate lower prices with the pharmaceutical industry, just like they do at the VA. But legalizing reimportation and giving seniors access to international markets is something this body supports, and it should be the first step. It should be law.

Again, I want to thank my colleague from Minnesota for this opportunity. Let's do the right thing.

OUTSOURCING OF JOBS

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. CARTER). Under the Speaker's announced policy of January 7, 2003, the gentleman from Washington (Mr. SMITH) is recognized for 60 minutes as the designee of the minority leader.

Mr. SMITH of Washington. Mr. Speaker, I want to talk this evening a little bit about a subject that has been on everyone's mind and certainly being talked about throughout the country, and that is the issue that has come to be known as outsourcing or offshoring, the concern that many Americans have about the number of jobs that used to be done in the United States that are now being done overseas.

The best way to think about this issue is to think about our entire economy. It is not really just about outsourcing or offshoring of jobs. It is about the future of the U.S. economy and, most specifically, where the jobs are going to be. That is the fear that I hear expressed by my constituents and by people throughout the country. They are worried about what jobs are going to be here for them in the future and for their children and for their grandchildren. What should they prepare for? What type of economy are they going to have? Are we going to have enough good jobs across the board so that the people of our country can be employed and employed at a standard of living that we have all come to expect?

I think, when I look at the debate, we have to be very careful about how we approach this issue; and I am pleased in working with the new Democrats and also with other members of the House Democratic Caucus that we are working on a series of proposals and a series of issues to try to address this issue in a serious and intelligent manner that will help us create the type of economy that we all want.

Right now, there are sort of two directions that we see being taken by the majority of folks, and neither one of them is particularly helpful. On the one hand, I do not think it makes sense to take a full-scale protectionist approach, to basically say that we need to stop trading with other countries that do not have the same labor and environmental standards that we do, that we need to cut off immigration and, in essence, we need to adopt a policy that says we are going to do whatever we can to protect every job that currently exists, regardless of the consequences. History has shown us that sort of approach leads to less economic growth in the future, and that is what this is all about, is long-term, sustainable economic growth for the benefit of all of us.

I would point out that the most protectionist economy in the world right now is, arguably, Japan. They have done just about everything they can to protect all of their existing jobs, all of their existing businesses. They subsidize industry. They erect tariff barriers to outside countries coming in and competing with them. They protect bad loans even long after they are no longer obviously going to be paid. They do everything they can to protect that economy, and it has led to a decade-long recession in Japan.

One needs to be able to change. One needs to be able to grow. One needs to be able to not just protect the bulk of the jobs they have but, most importantly, to be prepared to take advantage of the future economic opportunities that are to come.

That is what we do better than any other country in the world. We have a higher capacity for change than any other country in the world. We have consistently seen the next trend, gotten there first, and benefited economically. Most recently, we have seen this in technology, in the Internet, in software and hardware before that. We prepare ourselves for the new trends in the economy, take advantage of it, and get out front and have a leadership role, and we need to do that again.

As much as protectionism is not the best way to go on this, I think it is an equal mistake to take the approach that far too often the current administration has taken, which is to say that there is not a problem, basically outsourcing, offshoring, it is just the natural economic dynamic at work, creative destruction, it will all work itself out, we do not need to do anything. That, I think, is an equally unwise approach. There are policies that we need to adopt in this country to be prepared to deal with globalization, to deal with the economic changes.

They will point to past times when it looked like our economy was challenged throughout the 1980s. People thought that Japan and other countries in Asia would take over and we would never be able to compete with them. That certainly did not happen as we came into the 1990s. With each economic change, there has been this concern that somehow we will not be able to compete, and we have risen above and competed. And that is true, but it is wrong to say that we did that effortlessly, that we did that without adopting policies to confront it.

In the 1950s and 1960s, we adopted policies to deal with the space race that we had going on with the Soviet Union. We set up the National Science Foundation. We did a lot of things to encourage people to study and get education in the areas where we thought the jobs and the economy would be in the future. We built the interstate highway system. We passed the GI Bill to make sure that all the people coming out of the service could have access to education.

We made policy decisions to deal with these changes. We did not just take a step back and say economics will take care of it. We adopted policies that made sense to move us forward. That is what we need to do today, and we have some specific ideas amongst the new Democrats and the Democratic Caucus to do that.

First and foremost, there is nothing more important than education and job skills in competing in the global economy. The more skills we have, the more education we have, the more we will be able to compete, particularly for those high-end jobs that are so important in keeping our economy strong and giving American families the opportunities that they deserve.

There is some despair out there about job training. We can see stories about people who were trained for jobs and then wound up being outsourced and they did not have access to them. But for every one of those stories, there are hundreds, if not thousands, of other stories of people who have used the advanced skills training and the advanced job training and education they have received to be employable, to be employed in many cases in better jobs than they had before.

That is why I and a number of other folks have introduced a bill on trade adjustment assistance to the number of people who are eligible for those benefits because we believe that trade adjustment assistance works. It would work a lot better if we fully funded it so everybody eligible for those benefits got all the benefits, but it works when it is used, and we need to use it more, not less. So our Trade Adjustment Assistance Bill would expand the number of people covered to include service sector workers who now increasingly face the same sort of competition that manufacturing sector workers have faced.

We also expand the bill to expand the number of countries to which, if they lose their job, they are eligible for these benefits. Currently, it is restricted to very few countries that we have specific trade agreements with.

We have lost many jobs to countries that do not fall into that category. We need to retrain those workers as well. We need to make that investment.

But when we look at the education and jobs skills issue, it is not just about retraining. It is also about basic education. We hear a lot of scary economic statistics out there, but for me the scariest statistic right now has to do with education and specifically with education in the area of math, science, and engineering. Those are the degrees and skills that are going to most create jobs in the future, that are going to most take advantage of the trends in everywhere from biomedical sciences to energy to the new ideas. It is math, science, and engineering that will grow our economy.

Right now, in China, 70 percent of all undergraduates get degrees in math, science, or engineering. That is what the Chinese are doing. What we are doing here in the U.S. is 5 percent of our undergraduates get degrees in math, science, and engineering; and, furthermore, the real number of degrees that U.S. students are receiving in those three key areas, math, science, and engineering, have gone down every year for the last decade. We are putting out fewer people with the skills that are desperately needed, and there are changes that we can make in our education system from the K-12 system forward that will help us deal with that and compete better. We need to set high standards. We need to place emphasis in the K through 12 level on math and science to get our students interested in it.

Too often right now, and I have visited just about every school district that I represent and many of the schools, when I talk to the students and the teachers there, they cite the same problem. By about the seventh or eighth grade, someplace between the seventh and eighth grade and 11th or 12th, students lose interest in math and science. It is happening to somewhere between 50 and 75 percent of our students. We lose them before they even have the chance to get into a university and get the advanced degrees that they need in these areas. We have to change that, and we have to increase the emphasis in those areas.

I am pleased to say that that is happening in a lot of States in the Union. Certainly in Washington State we have adopted higher standards. We have made math and science priorities. We have made those basic skills fundamental, and we are starting to see some changes. But we need to aggressively approach that. We need to do whatever we can to make sure that we get as many degrees in math, science, and engineering as is possible.

But it is not just about education. There are other issues that are important, and certainly trade is important. I mentioned that protectionism is not the way to go, and I believe that. We need to open overseas markets, get access to those markets so that we can sell our goods. But that does not mean that we need to lay back and do nothing in the trade area. We need to make sure that our trading partners live by the same rules that we do.

One of the biggest mistakes that this country has made certainly in the last 3 years is to not aggressively enforce the trade agreements to our advantage. Certainly other countries are coming after us. Europe sued us over our manufacturing tax credit. Now we have to totally change that, possibly to the detriment of U.S. companies. We have dealt with many different issues where other trading partners have come after us for what they perceive to be trade violations on us. We, on the other hand, stand idly by while other countries do not give us the same access to their markets that they have to ours.

Most specifically, we have a huge problem with other countries, primarily China, stealing our products. And it is not just software and intellectual property like movies and books and recordings. It is everything. It is the basic manufactured product that some small businesses made where the Chinese come over, copy it, take it back, sell it as their own. We should issue trade actions to stop that.

We should also aggressively go after nations that unfairly manipulate their currency to gain a trade advantage. That is against the WTO. We voted, I think correctly, to bring China into the WTO, to make them part of a rules-based economy. That is great. But to bring them into a rules-based economic system and then not make sure that they follow those rules is ridiculous. It is not taking advantage of what we put out there. We have numerous opportunities to make sure that our trading partners' markets are as open to our goods as ours are to theirs. We should be much more aggressive in enforcing that. We cannot afford to lay back and assume that somehow we are always going to win these competitions.

The final issue I want to talk about is investing in research and development, basically making sure that we have the investments made with our companies and with our university system so that we can develop the next best thing first. That is what economic growth is really about, is being at the cutting edge of new inventions, and that is all about investments in research.

One issue of particular concern, when we look at economic growth, a lot of people will tell us that health sciences, biotech, biomedical, that is where the future is. When we look at what is going on with the human genome, with DNA, with a variety of different issues, with the development of pharmaceuticals, there is massive potential for growth in these areas. We have several advantages in being the leader on that.

But one of the ones that we are giving away right now is in the area of stem cell research. It is a critical factor in developing in the area of health sciences. We have limited the funding for stem cell research in the United States, and a lot of those projects have gone to other countries. They are getting ahead of us in that technology.

In numerous other technology issues we have the ability to change our policy to make sure that we are making the investments in research and new technology to be the leaders. We need to make sure that we do that and move forward.

Overall, there is no question in my mind that the United States of America can figure out a way to create long-term economic growth so that we can compete in a global economy and create the kinds of jobs that we want. But we cannot sit idly by and pretend that that is just going to happen naturally. We have to make smart policy choices to help the workers, to help the people of our country in their efforts to compete in an increasingly challenging world. We can do it, no doubt about that whatsoever, but not if we are not smart as public policy makers about helping our workers in their ability to compete and create a strong, long-term, sustainable economic growth in this country.

I am pleased to be joined by one of my colleagues who has been working with me and others on this issue, very knowledgeable in economic policy issues. I yield to the gentleman from Florida (Mr. DAVIS).

Mr. DAVIS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding to me.

Let me elaborate on some of the points that the gentleman has raised about the outsourcing issue that we are experiencing throughout the country, in Washington State and my home State of Florida. Forrester Research, Inc., has predicted that American employers will move over 3.3 million white collar service jobs amounting to about $136 billion in wages overseas over the next 15 years.

There are clearly sectors of our economy that are among the most vulnerable. About 14 million jobs, or 11 percent of the U.S. total that have been identified at risk, are jobs that involve telephone call centers, computer operator, data entry operators, business and financial support, parallel and legal assistants, diagnostic support services, and finally, accounting, bookkeeping and payroll.

This is a phenomenon which we are experiencing right now throughout the country, Democrats, Republicans, Independents. There is no nobody who will escape this. The question is, how will we deal with it? We have to be honest. We cannot bring a lot of these jobs back. We can offer the Trade Adjustment Act, which the gentleman from Washington (Mr. SMITH) has introduced with a growing number of Members of Congress, Democrats and hopefully Republicans, that will provide support for people who are displaced by trade or outsourcing. But what we really need to do, as was mentioned earlier, is try to get to this problem at the source.

We cannot promise anybody that having the highest level of education will guarantee them that they will not be competing against somebody from another country, but what we can guarantee to them is the best fighting chance they have of protecting themselves and their family.

We will be debating, hopefully, in this Congress changes in the tax law that assure that the United States taxpayer is not subsidizing companies to go overseas and to compete against the domestic workforce. But at the end of the day, our best weapon is the American worker and his or her job skills and work ethic.

One of the areas that we should be emphasizing as a Congress to deal with the problem of encouraging more students to enter math and science and engineering, as was mentioned earlier, is to attract more teachers into those fields.

There are ideas that abound in congressional districts and communities around the country, and it is the job of Congress and Washington to provide the funds to the community colleges, to the school districts, to the private sector, the not-for-profit sector that will come together for the good of the communities and attract people into the teaching profession and create the kinds of programs that will work in individual communities.

In every community in this country, there is an enormous amount of graduate school education that is occurring in these fields, math, science and engineering; yet the painful fact is that the vast majority of students that are entering these programs now are students who are entering here from other countries and helping us build bridges with those countries that are important; but ultimately many of these students are choosing to return to their homes and to benefit their own economies. We need to be getting more of our students into these graduate courses to become professors, to become inventors, to become some of the best forward-thinking engineers for the next generation of this country.

Ultimately, what we also need to focus on is a way for Congress, Democrats and Republicans, to write a tax credit that will provide an incentive to employers to invest in their workers. Not just to meet the needs of the employer, but to provide a lifetime of learning, to provide trainability for a worker, so that as more competition is experienced from other countries, that worker is able to adapt through additional training, whether they are doing it on their own or going back to a college, university, community college or vocational training, so, again, our workers have a fighting chance, they have the tools they need and the ability they need to sharpen those tools, to broaden their job skills, to compete in this increasingly global economy.

This is a time where Democrats and Republicans in Congress should be coming together trying to find solutions in education and job training to help our workers face this onslaught of competition from overseas. The agenda from the President and from this Congress so far has been to simply provide tax cuts that have gone to the most affluent Americans in this country.

It is time for us to acknowledge as competition heats up in the global economy that is not a solution for most of the people in this country who want to work, who want to succeed, who are prepared to go back to school, who are prepared to do some additional job training, but want us to support them, to help them do that.

So I hope that there will be other Members that will come to the floor here in the days ahead and join us in trying to identify how we write a bill that provides a constructive, positive agenda with confidence in the work ethic and the skills of the American worker, to help us ultimately succeed, as we have done throughout the history of this country.

Mr. SMITH of Washington. I thank the gentleman.

I want to follow up with a couple of the tax policy points. As I mentioned, job training and worker skills, the best way to do that is obviously to have the companies train their workers, because companies know what specific skills they need. Increasingly, in having job skills, it is not just a matter of knowing a certain computer programming skill or a certain scientific skill. It is knowing what a specific company needs, and the only way to do that is to get training from the companies, or I should say the best way to do that.

So tax credits that encourage companies to give training to their workers so that they can improve those skills and stay employable in those companies is an excellent idea, and also just overall developing the Tax Code to make sure it encourages businesses to create jobs here domestically.

We have a situation now in the Tax Code where if you have a plan, let us take a call center as an example, that is one of the ones that has been offshored, and you are here domestically in the U.S. employing workers and making profits on that call center, you pay taxes on it.

Now, if you take those same workers and move them overseas, even if they are still servicing U.S. consumers, U.S. customers, all of a sudden they do not pay taxes anymore in the U.S. on that. There is a proposal by Senator JOHN KERRY to change that, to make sure that if you are performing services here in the U.S., you continue to perform them for U.S. customers in a different country, you still have to pay taxes on that. That would discourage or take away one of the incentives the companies have to move jobs overseas.

The second idea within that area that Senator KERRY has introduced, which is a positive incentive, would be to allow companies that have subsidiaries overseas and subsidiaries that serve overseas markets, not U.S. markets, whether it is in China, India, Vietnam or wherever, if they are doing that and making profits over there, right now if they want to bring those profits back to the U.S. from their subsidiaries, they have to pay taxes on them. If they leave them overseas, they do not.

It makes sense to reduce that tax rate to give them an incentive to bring the money back and invest here in the U.S., and that is another tax idea that Senator KERRY has supported. I think it is a pretty good contrast with the general approach of the Bush administration, which is just give tax cuts to the people who make a lot of money and hope that they invest that money here. We know there is no guarantee of that. They can invest that money any place they want to, and increasingly they are investing it overseas. So our tax policy needs to be smart to help grow jobs here domestically.

I want to now turn it over to the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. STUPAK), another of my colleagues who has worked extensively on this issue and understands the importance of job creation.

Mr. STUPAK. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding. I am pleased to join the gentleman from Washington (Mr. SMITH) and the gentleman from Florida (Mr. DAVIS) in just talking a little bit about jobs and what needs to be done.

Those of us who have worked in many different aspects within the Democratic Party, we like to see different things done. It is not just simply a free trade issue, or it is not just a tax issue. It is a combination of things that are hurting this economy and hurting our States and the people we represent.

I come from the State of Michigan. We have already lost many, many jobs in Michigan, about 128,900 manufacturing jobs. Michigan is known as a manufacturing State because of the auto industry. But we have a total job loss of about 336,000 jobs, 128,000 in manufacturing alone.

Michigan continues to struggle. We need some help from the Federal Government; and we have to take a look at our fair trade agreements, as we call them. We also have to take a look at the tax structure in this country and what incentives are there to keep jobs staying here in this country.

Michigan, in the last few years, we have offered close to $1 billion to try to retain corporations and jobs in my home State of Michigan. Nationwide, we have lost 2.8 million manufacturing jobs. Some analysts, as I believe the gentleman pointed out, believe we may lose as many as 14 million jobs in the U.S., or be at risk of going overseas.

To stop that hemorrhaging of job loss in this country, for whatever reason, the Committee on Ways and Means really should report out the Job Protection Act of 2004, also known as H.R.

Whether you are a Democrat or a Republican, we are seeing these manufacturing jobs leaving this country, so we have put together a bipartisan bill. There are 182 Members who have signed on to a discharge petition. If the chairman of the Committee on Ways and Means does not allow the bill to come before the House for a vote, the only way we can change that is to have 218 Members sign a discharge petition. We have 182 signatures right now.

We would like to see the Job Protection Act of 2004, a strong bipartisan bill, come before the floor. This bill would amend our tax laws to comply with the recent World Trade Organization rulings on the Foreign Sales Corporation benefit.

The Foreign Sales Corporation, that is a tax break for those corporations who sell their product overseas. When they come back to this country, it is not taxed. The World Trade Organization has said that is an unfair subsidy and should cease and desist. So we take care of that situation with the Foreign Sales Corporation, plus there are other tax benefits in there that do not encourage jobs to leave our shore, but actually keep them here in the United States.

It would revitalize our manufacturing base by lowering tax rates on all domestic producers, including small businesses and farms, by 3.5 percent. So as long as we keep it in the United States, keep them producing jobs here, we can lower some of that tax rate by 3.5 percent.

The proposal is fully paid for. We have enough deficits. We do not want to add to the deficit. We pay for this proposal, and it would not increase the deficit. We need to pass this bill, as millions and millions of Americans are relying upon it. Again, it is H.R. 3827, strong bipartisan support. We would like to see the bill moved.

The gentleman from Washington (Mr. SMITH) mentioned Senator KERRY. He has been on this issue. In fact this past weekend, Friday and Saturday, he was in my home State of Michigan. He has put forth a proposal to create jobs and stop the shipping of our jobs overseas.

He basically said, why do we continue to give tax rates to individuals and big multinational corporations in hopes they will create jobs? Why do we not give the tax break after you create the job? Produce and show results of a job, and we can then look at a tax break for your training, for your research, to put those people to work, give you back something for putting them back to work.

We spent a lot of time on manufacturing. Why is that so important? Recent studies have shown that a manufacturing job in this country pays on an average $44,000 a year. Now, service industry jobs, which we hear a lot about, it is a good profession, but, unfortunately, they are only paying about $24,000 a year for a job. Then, of course, you have the retail industry, that pays about $19,000.

So what happens to these people after they lose their manufacturing job at about $44,000 a year? Well, there is service industry at about $23,000, or $24,000, and then there is the retail industry at about $19,000. How do you ever make up for that lost income?

So Senator KERRY's plan addresses the problem in the tax system and makes sure we do not reward those companies that ship jobs overseas.

You take the Maytag Corporation. I was in Illinois about 2 years ago. Their profits were up 24 percent. Their profits for the year were $360 million. That is their profit after paying everything. But still Maytag, which made refrigeration units for refrigerators and freezers, still thought it was so important to go to Mexico, where you pay about $1.50 an hour; and our Tax Code, which Senator KERRY wants to change, would actually pay them $30 million in tax credits if they shipped or moved to Mexico.

So, first of all, their profits are $360 million; they were up 24 percent from the previous year. It is not that they were hurting. But still they felt it necessary to move out of Illinois, probably paying $15 or $18 an hour, to Mexico, where they are paying about $1.50, and then our government is going to give them another $30 million tax break on top of that. That is just plain wrong.

So Senator KERRY's plan would end these tax breaks that allow these companies to keep their earnings overseas and avoid paying U.S. taxes.

The indefinite deferral of paying taxes amounts to the U.S. taxpayer of about $8 billion a year to these companies investing abroad. That is according to the conservative American Enterprise Institute.

So think about it. We are using taxpayer money and giving them $8 billion to invest overseas, plus we are left with people who lost good-paying jobs with no recourse where to go with it. So the taxpayers are paying for them to go invest overseas, plus we have to take care of the unemployed workers.

The tax system has ability in incentive to ship jobs overseas. That has to change. We need to help out manufacturers and small business. Unfortunately, we have just seen the President's budget. We had debate on it last week.

The Manufacturing Extension Partnership Program, which has been used greatly in my district for Horner Flooring up in Dollar Bay, or Jacquart Fabric Products over at Ironwood, Michigan, that was cut by two-thirds. It went from $111 million to $39 million. That has helped our people to take care of jobs and try to ship their product overseas. Unfortunately, that program has been cut.

So I think the administration just has it backwards. We have to do something differently. It is not just the free trade agreements; it is the tax incentives built into our Tax Code.

It is also what we call HELP. The State of Michigan has been devastated, as we mentioned, about manufacturing, so we actually put together a program called HELP, which we sent to the Secretary of Commerce, Secretary Evans, and said, look at this proposal.

It is a lengthy proposal, but HELP really means, first, let us address health care needs. Every American should have the right to have health care. You take Ironwood Plastics, a small company up in my district. They were going to expand their plant, but they found their health care costs went up so much in the last 2 years, they cannot add on their plant. In fact, for every product they produce, 42 cents of it is just for fringe benefits; and they do not have lucrative fringe benefits. Health care is probably 60 to 70 percent of that 42 cents on every piece they make. It is just to pay for the health care in this country. We have to get a handle on health care prescription drug costs.

That is the first part of "H" in HELP.

Unemployment compensation. Why is it that past years when we have had these downturns in the economy, in my state of Michigan we are at 6.6 unemployment, some parts of my district fall over 12 percent unemployment. Federal Government works the area with the States. The States have a program. We do 26 weeks of unemployment, but we have always extended it another 13 weeks. Unfortunately, we have not done that.

While people are unemployed through no fault of their own, we should be there to help them out to see them through those rough spots and keep them working and keep their health care going.

Level playing field. The third letter in HELP. "L" for level playing field. On these trade barriers, I am always amazed that we see these trade agreements, take the CAFTA plan, which is the Central America Free Trade Agreement, which will devastate the sugar industry in my State of Michigan, which is a half billion dollar industry, if Central America is allowed to bring their sugar into this country. They all do now. But if one takes down all barriers and it can freely flow into this country, it will wipe out the sugar beet industry in Michigan.

The sad part about that is, while we immediately lower our barriers in this country, it takes about 15 years for other countries to lower their barriers. Plus they put up these artificial trade barriers depending on the value of their currency, the environmental standards, their employment standards of their workers. Why can't we have a level playing field?

If it is truly going to be a global economy, and I was here back in 1993 through the NAFTA debates, which I did not support NAFTA because I felt it would hurt this country overall. But when you take a look at it, in NAFTA and all the rest of it, if we are going to have a global economy, and that was the buzzword back in 1993, some 11, 12 years ago, then should not we really have global standards on workers' rights, on the environment, how we treat each other's currency so you do not have these artificial trade barriers for our products from the U.S. going to these other countries? So that is the third letter in our help program.

Last but not least, P for pensions. In this country we are funding pensions. Many people feel we are overfunding them. Some are underfunded. But we have to look at pension reform. There has been a bill that we tried to pass out of the House. It has been stuck in the Senate. We can do some work here and make this pension system fair to the workers, guarantee the benefit, but at the same time allow the companies to use it for research and development. That would free up some money so they can do their research, development, and investment in their countries. It just makes sense.

Training. We have to invest in this country. So there are so many needs, and one can just see what happens and in State after State, whether it is Washington, Florida, or Michigan.

Just one more: Electrolux, which was really a sort of French company that had been in Michigan for many, many years, besides making great vacuum cleaners, they also did refrigeration. They just announced it is closing its doors and going to Mexico also. It will cost Michigan 2,700 jobs.

We are losing about 2,000 jobs in Michigan just in the manufacturing section. Our governor, who is very concerned about it, has put together an aggressive manufacturing agenda to try to help companies. Our governor even offered Electrolux a new $30 million building, $182 million in tax credit, including a Renaissance Zone that would allow the company to operate virtually free of State and local taxes for up to 20 years.

There was even changes from the United Auto Workers that they said, look, we do not want to lose these jobs. It is good-paying jobs. We will change our labor agreement. We will give about $31 million in concessions. But still the company still saw it lucrative to go to Mexico with the tax breaks they would get from the U.S. taxpayers and the low-wage-paying jobs in Mexico.

Electrolux was a very profitable company. It pays $13 to $15 an hour plus benefits, and that included health care to its employees. So why are they moving? Because they can go down to Mexico and pay people $1.57 an hour.

Like I said, Michigan has lost about 128,900 manufacturing jobs since January of 2001. We have a total job loss in our State of 335,868 in Michigan, despite offering almost $1 billion in tax incentives for companies to stay.

So I am pleased to join with the gentleman from Washington (Mr. SMITH) tonight. I think my colleague said it best earlier when he said it is not just trade agreements, there are tax issues, there are employment issues, there are a number of issues we should tackle as a Congress.

I will go back and just repeat that. The Job Protection Act of 2004, H.R. 3827, a bipartisan bill. We have 182 Members who signed a discharge petition. I wish the majority in this Congress would allow to us bring that bill to the floor. If the majority party, the Republican party, want to vote against it, that is certainly their right. But at this critical time in our Nation's history, manufacturing jobs leaving, why cannot we have a good debate on the issue?

Maybe this tax break is not quite right. I am not saying we have all the answers, but let us at least get a debate going. Let us exchange ideas. Because we have to look at trade agreements, Tax Code, and other incentives we have out there that encourage people to leave offshore or go offshore with their corporations.

So I stand with Senator KERRY and my colleagues tonight and we look forward to a day when we invest in companies for keeping jobs here in the United States and not shipping them overseas, providing health care for all our workers so it is not such a burden on just strictly the employer, and reexamine these trade laws and make sure we all play by the same rules.

America can compete with anybody anywhere in this world. We are just looking for a level, fair, playing surface on trade agreements.

I thank the gentleman from Washington (Mr. SMITH) for once again yielding. I thank him again for stepping forth and organizing this special order tonight. It is always a pleasure to join with the gentleman and look forward to working with him on this and other issues in the future.

Mr. SMITH of Washington. Mr. Speaker, I want to thank the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. STUPAK) for his remarks, and I do agree, as I said, that we need to be more aggressive about enforcing our trade agreements.

I will point out I am actually fairly familiar with the CAFTA trade agreement, and it does not have the affect on sugar you describe. It raises the quotas for sugar from Central America by less than 5 percent over what they currently are and it is, in fact, spread out over 15 years.

So if my colleague looks at the details of CAFTA, sugar, corn, a variety of different issues, it is a pretty level playing field on both of those. It does not dramatically increase the quotas on sugar coming from Central America.

So I would urge my colleague to take a closer look at that and assure your folks in the Michigan sugar beet industry that they are going to be just fine with regard to that particular agreement.

Mr. STUPAK. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman would yield on that one.

Our sugar producers and the Michigan Farm Bureau have come out against it because we do not have that big of a sugar industry. It is only a $500 million industry. But they feel with it coming in, and my colleague is right, over 15 years, the barriers would fall down. That would just about do the end of our sugar in Michigan.

Mr. SMITH of Washington. Mr. Speaker, that cannot possibly be true. I would be happy to take a look at it, but it is not just over 15 years. At the end of 15 years the quotas are still there. They are just slightly larger than they are now. It does not even get rid of them.

So sugar was very important to me, and I was actually in conversations with Ambassador Zelik and others while they were negotiating that.

Mr. STUPAK. Mr. Speaker, I hope my colleague is right on that issue because we are concerned about it in Michigan. We look forward to my colleague's leadership on that issue to make sure we preserve our sugar industry in Michigan.

Mr. SMITH of Washington. Mr. Speaker, absolutely. We have a sugar industry throughout the U.S.

Mr. Speaker, I want to now yield to my colleague from my State, our State, I should say, the gentleman from the great State of Washington (Mr. INSLEE) from the first district who is the cosponsor with me on the TAA bill to expand trade adjustment assistance for service sector employees and expand it in other areas as well.

Mr. INSLEE. Mr. Speaker, I thank my colleague for yielding.

I want to make a couple points before I address the specifics of this trade adjustment which I really think is great, not a panacea but certainly one of the things we need to do that address this problem. But I want to make two points about why legislation like this is necessary right now, and that is that two I think interesting facts that demonstrate why Congress needs to act now and the administration needs to follow us in doing so.

That is the unemployment, the job loss that we have suffered in the last 3 years is actually understated. A lot of folks have heard now a familiar number that we have lost about 2.2 million jobs in the last 3 years which is a greater job loss than any other time since Herbert Hoover was President of the United States. But that number is really kind of a fake number, and the reason is that it fails to take into account the jobs that should have been created under any sort of normal rate of economic growth. The truth is we have lost specifically about 2.2 million jobs, but if we had just grown jobs to keep pace with the rate of population increase, we would have actually grown four and a half million jobs if we had only kept pace with the population increase in the United States in the last 3 years.

So it is not that we have lost 2.2 million jobs, sort of behind the curve by 2.2 million Americans that are out of work. It is actually closer to 7 million. So the job deficit, along with the largest Federal deficit in American history, we now have the largest job deficit in the last 50 years.

Mr. SMITH of Washington. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman would yield, because that is a point I found interesting. When the President has proposed his tax cuts, for 3 years he has talked about the number of jobs he is going to create. The figure that he used for the tax cut that was passed was 1.2 million. He has fallen way short of at this point, I think it is about 400,000. But in making that proposal it is interesting that he assumes that, absent that tax cut, no jobs would be created, which flies in the face of history. Obviously, some jobs were going to be created.

As the gentleman points out, after we did this supply side tax cut for people at the high end of the scale, we actually created less jobs than economists tell us we would have created if we had done nothing. So it is worse than just not doing what he said it was going to do. It seems to be having a negative impact.

Mr. INSLEE. Mr. Speaker, that is another way of basically saying we have had no meaningful job creation for the last 3 years. So we have a $7 million job deficit and we basically had an experiment and that experiment failed. The President basically said these very large tax cuts for the wealthiest among us, those who are over $200,000 a year, we are going to create millions of jobs. It failed even to keep pace with just population growth.

There is four and a half million jobs missing that should have been there just to keep pace with population growth, and then there are 2.2 million jobs lost on top of that. So we are in a deep, deep hole; and whatever we are going to say, if we add one job now, we are still at the bottom of the well. So maybe we are one inch off the bottom of a 7 million foot well, if you will. We have got a long ways to go.

Second point is the reason Congress needs to act now is that these figures belie the severity in the length of this unemployment. Because we have over 2 million people who are unemployed tonight who have been unemployed for more than 6 months. That is the longest period and the largest number of people who have been unemployed over 6 months for over 50 years in America.

So not only are people not even counted in the unemployment insurance statistics because they have given up looking for work, those who are still on there we have the longest period of long-term unemployment in the last 50 years.

So I just want to point out those two points that we need to take into consideration whether we are going to act or not boldly and aggressively. And we think we should.

So one of the ideas, and this is not the only idea that we need to pursue, but we need to bring our trade adjustment assistance for Members up to speed with what is going on in the U.S. economy. We, and I am sure the gentleman has talked about this, have had a program to help people who have lost jobs that are associated with the dynamics of trade in manufacturing now for some period of time.

We have seen in Seattle a great success with that program. We have seen hundreds of folks, if not thousands, in Boeing who several years ago during the downturn availed themselves of the benefit of this program to get retraining. I have talked to any number of those. It is not 100 percent, but any number of these folks have been successful in finding other careers with retraining.

But now we have this phenomenon in the service sector, computer programming, accounting, in radiological services, in call centers. Now the service sector employees are experiencing the dynamics of trade. We simply have to bring this up to speed to this century's challenges that exist.

Our bill will do that. It will simply say that people in the service sector who lose jobs associated with the dynamics of trade are going to have an assistance from Uncle Sam. It is a pretty simple commitment that Uncle Sam ought to fulfill. We hope that the administration will embrace this idea.

And I will share one piece of good news. I serve on the President's Export Council, which is a group appointed essentially to advise the executive branch on export policies and trade policies.

It is a group of a lot of high-level executives of major corporations at General Motors, Intel, Boeing, a couple of Members of Congress; and last week, we met and this group sort of unanimously concluded that this idea of the extension of trade adjustment authority to service personnel should be pursued, and that will go to the President as a formal recommendation of this group here in the near future.

So we are hopeful that the administration and our Republican colleagues will join us in this very commonsense measure to help Americans get back on their feet, and we do not want to hear that we cannot do this for fiscal reasons, for two reasons; and there is a fiscal impact for this obviously, and we should be totally responsible in addressing that fiscal impact, but we believe that in the long term this is fiscally responsible to do because these folks are going to get back to work, they are going to get off the unemployment rolls, and they are going to start creating wealth and profits and wages and taxes themselves. This is a fiscally responsible thing to do, is we get people back to work. Over the long term it does not create the deficit; it helps to ameliorate it.

In addition, we think there are some future tax cuts for those earning over $200,000, which on a scale is not as important as the fact as getting these thousands of people who may have lost these jobs to folks in other countries due to trade. They have a higher claim on America's assistance right now, and they will be much more productive for the U.S. economy as well, and so we think this is a fiscally responsible approach; and we hope our Republican colleagues will join us.

There is one other thing that this bill will do. You may have talked about this already, but I want to allude to it. There are some imperfections in the existing trade adjustment bill, one of which would not kick in assistance for Americans except that they lost their job, at least the presumption is a country that we already had free trade agreement with. That is an artifact of history that we had to cure because if you are out of work, frankly it does not make a difference to your creditors whether you are out of work, losing a job to someone Uncle Sam has a free trade agreement with or not. So we hope to fix that in the long term.

The bottom line is, as the trade world has changed, as the economy has changed, Congress needs to change our provision for Americans to get retrained; and this is a fundamentally sound, fair, fiscal way to do it, and we are hoping that ultimately this becomes a bipartisan effort.

Unfortunately, we have not had our colleagues across the aisle coming in droves to join this, and that frankly is disappointing because anyone ought to understand when you are out of work and your job's been shipped to another country, and your mortgage still needs paying and your child's college education tuition still needs paying, it should not be a Republican or Democrat position the fact that we ought to help you get retrained, and we ought to recognize for those of us who recognize the value of trade, and I count myself among those who come from a very trade-dependent part of the world. The State of Washington is one of the trade-dependent parts of the country. We recognize the value of trade, selling Boeing planes to India, selling Microsoft software to China. We understand the value of trade, but those who care about trade have to recognize that there are dynamics of trade and people are discomfited and there are job losses associated with trade, and we need to create a lifetime learning situation where, as trade creates dynamic changes in the job market, we need to guarantee Americans the ability to get back on their feet and become retrained, and that is one part of that support system that I hope that we will pass.

Mr. SMITH of Washington. I thank the gentleman for his help on this issue. You worked very closely on it, and I thank you for your leadership.

I want to close off the debate, and we do not have anymore speakers for our hour, which is almost up, by emphasizing the point the gentleman from Washington (Mr. INSLEE) made about the cost and some of the choices involved. It is interesting, business leaders throughout this country have come together and agreed with a lot of the items we have talked about tonight, agreed with the importance of education, the importance of job training, the importance of investment in research and development, the importance of another item we have not talked about, which is an investment in infrastructure, a building of roads and improving our energy system so that we can have a sustainable strong economy; and they know we need to do those things, and they consistently advocate for them and I appreciate that support.

But it is also tied into the issue of how do we pay for these things, and as the gentleman from Washington (Mr. INSLEE) pointed out, the tax cut choice. We have heard a lot already in this campaign about taxes and tax cuts; and the general approach of the President and his party is that, look, any tax cut there is has to be lower, anyone who is for higher taxes is by definition not worth being elected, but we have to take a step back and look at this in terms of choices, and take a look at those issues that I just talked about, the business leaders and many Republicans say they support, funding for education, funding for job training, funding for infrastructure.

There is the little problem of paying for these things, and we have to look at the choice that is being presented. The President wants to make his tax cut permanent, all of his tax cut, including the portion of that tax cut which is a pretty substantial portion of it that goes to people making over $200,000 a year, also the portions of the tax cut that go to people who are paid dividends; and, yes, I know average Americans earn some dividends, too. If you look at the percentage of where dividend income goes, it goes almost entirely, 75 to 80 to 90 percent, to people again making a great deal of money; and I understand the philosophy behind that, give these people money, they will invest and everything will be fine.

It has not quite worked over the course of the last 3 years at this point, but more importantly it is a matter of choices. If the business community, other folks out there, want us to make that investment in education, job training and research and infrastructure, there has got to be some money left somewhere to do that; and when we are sitting here with an over-$400 billion deficit due this year to pile on top of a $7 trillion debt, to say that we are going to make the tax cuts permanent at the cost of somewhere around 2 to $3 trillion, over the course of the 10-year period, and still make these investments in our workers, an investment in our economy, it does not add up.

It is a matter of choices, what is the best investment of that money. Is it really best to make sure that the top tax rate for people who make, it is about $250,000 before you hit that top tax rate, goes down from 39 to 35 percent? It goes down to 4, I guess, critical percentage points. Or is it best to take some of that money to get us back towards fiscal responsibility and to get us back towards making an investment in our workers that they can fairly compete? Looked at in that context, I think it is a pretty obvious choice; and I hope that we will make those choices.

We absolutely need tax cuts. Senator KERRY supports a number of tax cuts targeted to the middle class, the child tax credit, elimination of the marriage tax penalty, a number of different issues; but, absolutely, we have got to give those tax cuts to hardworking Americans.

When you look at the total package of tax cuts, these are some choices we can make to better invest in our workers and better invest in our country. We hope that we can make those choices so that we can deal with the challenges we face from outsourcing, from offshore, so that American workers can have that level playing field, can have that opportunity to grow our economy and to benefit from that growth.

I thank you very much for the time.

PAKISTAN NAMED MAJOR NON-NATO ALLY

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. CARTER). Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. PALLONE) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I rise on the House floor this evening to discuss Pakistan's recent designation as a major non-NATO ally.

Last week, Secretary of State Colin Powell visited India and Pakistan to support the efforts that have been made by both nations to seek peace. For the first time in decades, relations between India and Pakistan were easing; and as a result, confidence-building measures were being established, such as transportation across the border and cricket games between the two countries.

Although both countries are on a slow, yet steady, path for improved economic defense and political relations, unfortunately that balance has been damaged, in my opinion, by the Bush administration's favorable treatment of Pakistan in naming it a major non-NATO ally.

Mr. Speaker, although we have advocated for the U.S. to view India and Pakistan as two separate, distinct nations, at the same time we have advocated for fair treatment based on record of democracy, commitment to ending terrorism, and a variety of values important to the United States. India is a strong, vibrant democracy of over 50 years, and Pakistan is a rogue nation under military rule. India's nuclear program is civilian controlled, and Pakistan's nuclear program was sold to nations such as Libya, Iran, and North Korea to assist illegal, covert nuclear weapons programs. India is protecting its citizens from terrorism in Kashmir, and Pakistan has sponsored terrorist activity in its own backyard.

It seems clear that the U.S. and India are natural allies based on our shared values. The reason why the U.S. and Pakistan are now allies is a result of the shared effort to end global terrorism. However, based on all the reasons I just stated above, I am taken aback by the new designation that the U.S. has bestowed upon Pakistan as a major non-NATO ally. Not only was I surprised, but India as a nation was surprised as well. Secretary Powell had just met with India's leaders, but he did not mention the new status of Pakistan that was soon to be announced.

Naming Pakistan a major non-NATO ally is completely inconsistent with U.S. policies. Pakistan is not a democratic nation. Pakistan supports terrorism in Kashmir, and Pakistan has engaged in nuclear activity for which it has recently pardoned a key scientist who aided covert nuclear programs to rogue nations. The result of this new designation, I think, has the potential to be devastating.

Not only was India surprised and disappointed, but further, Pakistan's new role will lead to severe implications in the South Asia region. It is unclear what the title "major non-NATO ally" means and what it means in legal terms, but the most immediate concern is that a rapid and large-scale supply of American military equipment could flow from the United States to Pakistan, including the possibility of F-16s. In accordance with the Pressler amendment of 1990, Pakistan was not afforded major military supplies until post-9/11, in which case specific counterterrorism supplies had been provided.

But this is very concerning because U.S. military supplies given to Pakistan for use against Russia and China have been historically used against India. Given the current climate of the conflict between India and Pakistan over Kashmir, any additional weapons provided to Pakistan will likely be used to escalate this conflict between the two nations and has the potential to build up a full-scale arms war.

In addition, this new designation has the impetus for breaking down negotiations in peace talks between the two nations that have just gotten underway. Pakistan's newly established access to U.S. military supplies could serve as an impediment to any further Indo-Pakistani talks.

Mr. Speaker, I cannot understand why the U.S. has afforded Pakistan this major non-NATO ally status. Pakistan has a history of abusing military and nuclear equipment, and yet we are allowing them to have access to depleted uranium ammunition, special privilege in bidding for certain U.S. Government contracts, radar systems, attack helicopters, and airborne early warning systems.

In exchange for Pakistan's assistance to the U.S. in the war against terrorism, the U.S. has already allocated $3 billion worth of assistance, half of which is directed toward Pakistan to buy military equipment from the United States. The Bush administration must reevaluate their policies towards Pakistan. The new designation of major non-NATO ally is unfair, inappropriate and, most importantly, in my opinion, dangerous given the volatile nature of the South Asia region.

FOREIGN POLICY

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under the Speaker's announced policy of January 7, 2003, the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. WELDON) is recognized for 60 minutes.

Mr. WELDON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, in this country, in this city, sometimes the American media just does not get it. Tonight I rise to lay in the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD and for the American people two stories that have not gotten the attention they deserve regarding foreign policy and regarding the actions of two nations in two regions that are extremely important to the security of America and the world.

The first, Mr. Speaker, involves Serbia. Mr. Speaker, this nation went to war and for the first and only time convinced our NATO allies to use NATO as an offensive military entity to invade a non-NATO country in 1999 to remove a sitting head of state, Milosevic, from office for war crimes for which he is now being tried.

Mr. Speaker, I rise tonight not to question whether or not Milosevic committed war crimes. I am convinced that he did, that he committed ethnic cleansing and that he did unthinkable harm to individual people in the former Yugoslavia.

He is now being held accountable for his actions in a trial that has been going on for several years; but, Mr. Speaker, we cannot have a double standard, and this is what we have today, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WELDON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, when we invaded Serbia and we went in with our military and the NATO military, I did not support the President's actions, as did many of our colleagues in this body. Not because I felt support for Milosevic, but because I was convinced we had not allowed Russia to play the role that they could have and should have played in getting Milosevic to agree to the terms that the NATO and other nations wanted after the meetings at Rambouillet, and I said so publicly. It was not that those of us who opposed President Clinton supported Milosevic, but rather that we thought there was a better way that would have avoided the kind of atrocities that were committed by our own bombing in Belgrade and other cities in the former Yugoslavia. But the fact is that we did bomb that country, and we continued it for a matter of weeks.

In fact, Mr. Speaker, I was the one who assembled a delegation of 10 of our colleagues and myself, five Democrats, all supporters of President Clinton, and five Republicans to travel to Vienna after having discussed with Strobe Talbot, the number two person at the State Department, the offer of the Russians to me to help Russia play a role in resolving the crisis in Yugoslavia on the terms that the U.S. and NATO wanted. I also, Mr. Speaker, had access to a memo that had been prepared secretly by Strobe Talbot, which was briefed to both Sandy Berger and Vice President Gore. So I knew what the policy of the U.S. was with regard to Russia's involvement. And I also knew full well that we were not giving Russia the opportunity to play the kind of constructive role that it could have and should have.

Our meetings in Vienna with five Russian leaders and 11 American leaders resulted, over 2 days, in a framework that allowed the Russians and the Americans to come to an agreement and to agree concurrently that Milosevic had committed ethnic cleansing; that the armed Serbs should be withdrawn from Kosovo; that there should be a multinational force brought in. All of those conditions were what basically the Russians, when they were finally brought in several weeks later, were able to bring to the table to help us end that war.

Now, we were told, Mr. Speaker, that the ending of the war would end the ethnic cleansing. And, boy, were we wrong. The media blasted headlines all over the world with Milosevic's actions, and they still blast the actions of this war criminal and his ethnic cleansing. Where is the media today, Mr. Speaker? Where are the front-page stories in our major newspapers about the ethnic cleansing that took place aimed specifically at Serbs in the last week?

On the March 17, Mr. Speaker, a massive campaign of ethnic violence was carried out against Kosovo Serbs and other non-Albanians that continued for several days. These efforts were carefully planned, orchestrated, and coordinated by the leadership structures of the Kosovo Albanians, and they are unacceptable. Mr. Speaker, the estimates are that tens of thousands of Kosovo Albanians participated in the pogrom which resulted in the destruction of 90 percent of Kosovo's remaining predominantly Serb areas.

Mr. Speaker, 800-year-old churches and monasteries were destroyed. In total, 35 Christian holy sites were decimated. And even though they attempted to avoid personal atrocities against individuals, 31 Serbs were killed. Where is the outrage, Mr. Speaker? Where is the outrage that we saw from President Clinton in 1999 and Madeleine Albright? I have not seen former President Clinton or Madeleine Albright giving speeches today about the ethnic cleansing that was conducted against innocent Serbs, that were supposedly going to have their freedom and their own safety protected by the U.N. forces, including Americans working in Kosovo. In fact, Mr. Speaker, this entire incident needs the full attention of this Congress, this government and the United Nations, as well as NATO.

There have been suggestions, Mr. Speaker, that there are ties between what occurred beginning on March 17 with al Qaeda, Hamas, the Albanian National Army, and Abu Bakr Sadik, among others. These ties need to be investigated fully. The campaign of ethnic cleansing that just took place against Serbs was conducted in such a way as to result in a little loss of life, although 31 people is significant, but with maximum material and psychological damage.

Why would that take place, Mr. Speaker? Because at a time when America and the world's attention is focused on Iraq and Afghanistan and other parts of the world, there are those with the ties to the groups I just mentioned who saw an opportunity to ethnically cleanse Kosovo, so that at some point in time down the road the position could be made that this nation no longer really has a significant Serbian population.

Mr. Speaker, where is the outrage from America? Where is the story from the American media about what happened in Serbia or in Kosovo last week? Are not the deaths of 31 innocent civilians, is not the burning of major religious institutions a story that deserves national focus in this country? We went to war, Mr. Speaker, in 1999. We went to war, and in fact we used NATO for the first and only time ever in an offensive military mode to remove Milosevic because of ethnic cleansing. Where is our outrage today with the ethnic cleansing that occurred last week against innocent Serbs? The attacks continued unabated for several days. In fact, in some cases they got worse as the attackers went in to all the Serbian enclaves.

Where was the protection that these people were guaranteed when the war ended and President Clinton told us that we had been able to rid the world of a dictator who had committed ethnic cleansing? Where was the protection for the destruction not just of the churches but of the electrical grid system and the damage to the mobile phone relay stations? Where was the protection for the Serbs, the Kosovo Serbs who attempted to seek shelter in churches and monasteries, but were prevented from being able to do so because those very churches and monasteries were the explicit objects of attack?

The estimates are, Mr. Speaker, that as many as 50,000 Kosovo Albanians were involved in this action. Is the world going to sit by and allow this kind of atrocity to occur? Is America going to pass some modest resolution that calls ethnic cleansing wrong? We did not do that in 1999, Mr. Speaker, when we had evidence there was ethnic cleansing. All of us spoke out against it. When we went to Vienna and met with our Russian counterparts, 11 of us, we had in-depth discussions that resulted in the Russian delegates from the major political factions agreeing with us that ethnic cleansing had occurred.

Where is that same message today, Mr. Speaker? Why are our colleagues and why is the American media not demanding that the world do something about the ethnic cleansing that was perpetrated against innocent Serbs last week? And where are the investigations into the linkages of terrorist organizations that were allegedly involved in this activity?

Mr. Speaker, the reputation of America, the U.N. and NATO are all on the line right now. We talked a good game in 1999. We stood together. Even though we disagreed on the method of removing Milosevic and the ethnic cleansing, we stood together as a Nation, Democrats and Republicans, and we said ethnic cleansing was wrong. Does the silence in this body today mean that ethnic cleansing is okay because it is not being led by one person like Milosevic?

The Kosovo Albanians must be held accountable, Mr. Speaker. We must not let them off the hook. Ethnic cleansing is wrong, whether it is done by Serbs or whether it is done by Kosovo Albanians; and this Nation must stand up and shout out that message loud and clear. And if there was involvement by terrorist groups like Hamas and al Qaeda, then we need to know that.

Mr. Speaker, many people around the world have spoken out on this violence. I want to quote a few, just so that my colleagues will understand that those closest to the situation fully understand what happened. This is not Congressman CURT WELDON alone making this claim.

In fact, let me quote Admiral Gregory Johnson, CINSOUTH commander, United States Naval Forces, Europe. This was his quote: "This kind of activity actually almost amounts to ethnic cleansing, and it cannot go on. That's why we came here in the first place." That is from our own Admiral Johnson, referring again to the term "ethnic cleansing."

NATO Secretary-General Jaap de Hoo Scheffer: "What happened last week, orchestrated and organized by extremist factions in the Albanian community, is unacceptable."

Javier Solana, General Secretary of the EU Council and High Representative for the EU's Common Foreign and Security Policy: "It's sad to see schools destroyed and children evacuated, people killed, and homes burnt. This is something which can't be tolerated. I'm shocked at the brutality, the destruction of schools, preventing children from being educated, the destruction of churches in which people only want to pray. Serbs are brave and must stay here. They must try to rebuild their homes, and we will help them with that. I'm leaving with a lot less optimism than when I came. I regret that tomorrow I will tell the EU Council of Ministers what I saw and heard here and that a huge amount of time was wasted here."

Mr. Speaker, this was last week, not 1999, when we went to war. Where's the outrage in America today over the ethnic cleansing and the killing that just occurred in Kosovo?

Soloman Passy, OSCE Chairman-in-Office: "This isn't about a chance happening, about Albanian extremist elements stirred up the violence."

Derek Chappell, UNMIK spokesman: "There has been violence in Kosovo before, but this time it's coordinated action. The violence erupted in a number of places at the same time, which shows that it was planned in advance."

Vladimir Putin, President of the Russian Federation: "This is ethnic cleansing. Even our Western colleagues accept that this is nothing other than ethnic cleansing. It is essential that there be a responsibly strong reaction in order to protect the Kosovo Serbs."

Mr. Speaker, I led the delegation to Vienna to convince the leaders of the Russian factions that they should admit that Milosevic had been involved in ethnic cleansing. I will not stand by and allow now the Russians to see the hypocrisy in America when we will not call the same actions by the Kosovo Albanians ethnic cleansing. That is what it was. That is what it is, and it must be called; it must be called into play. There must be a full and complete investigation, and those individuals responsible and involved must be held accountable.

I understand there are those making the rounds on the Hill this week and last week to try to cover up what occurred, to try to explain it away. You cannot explain away, Mr. Speaker, 31 deaths. You cannot explain away all the churches that were burned. You cannot explain away what the ultimate agenda was: to remove any presence of ethnic Serbs in Kosovo.

Mr. Speaker, the world needs to be consistent. The U.N., NATO, the U.S. and all of our allies must stand with the people of both Kosovo and Serbia for a consistent stand against ethnic cleansing, whoever may be the perpetrator. In this case, we have not done that, and it is wrong. An orchestrated campaign of ethnic cleansing must not be rewarded politically, and I will use my voice and will speak to our colleagues this week in encouraging a full and complete investigation of what occurred last week.

I will also, Mr. Speaker, ask and demand that the commitments that we made in the former Yugoslavia be followed up. In my visits to Serbia, to Belgrade, we have not carried out the promises that we made as a Nation to the people once Milosevic was removed from office, and that is unacceptable.

Mr. Speaker, I would hope that the media and Members of this body would focus on the plight of the innocent Serbian people who last week were dealt a very severe blow. Those Kosovo Serbs who were simply attempting to live in their enclaves were attacked, their institutions were destroyed and ethnic cleansing was done by those very people who cried ethnic cleansing back in 1999. This cannot be allowed to stand.

Mr. Speaker, the second story that has not been fully covered by the American media except for perhaps one newspaper, the Washington Times, is what occurred in Libya less than 1 month ago. Mr. Speaker, the President of the United States deserves significant credit for a story that has largely gone unreported in the mainstream American media. I did not see headlines on our national newspapers about what happened in Libya. I did not see headlines about the 90-minute speech that Muammar Qaddafi gave to his people on March 2. And so tonight, Mr. Speaker, I also want to talk about the untold story of Libya.

Mr. Speaker, approximately 8 months ago, after having helped form the International Energy Advisory Council made up of private energy corporations around the world, I was told by the representative of Libya, Abdul Majid Al-Mansouri, who is today here in Washington, that Libya was about ready to complete a major turnaround. I was intrigued. I asked to learn more. He told me that Qaddafi's son, Saif Islam Al-Qaddafi, wanted to meet with me and that if I came to London in October for a meeting of the International Energy Advisory Council, I could listen to Saif Islam Al-Qaddafi tell me the story of the change that was about to occur in Libya.

I could not make that trip in October, Mr. Speaker, but I did meet with Saif Islam Al-Qaddafi in January. We met for 3 hours and this young, 31-year-old, London-educated Ph.D. candidate in economics told me that his father was in the midst of a massive turnaround of this nation. Libya, which we have not had contact with for 29 years and which has been a major source of terrorism around the world, was about ready to change in a very dramatic way.

I was intrigued when Saif Islam Al-Qaddafi told me the story in the meeting that we had, and I said I was interested in potentially taking a delegation of our colleagues to visit with Qaddafi himself. While meeting with Saif, he made a cellular phone call and came back and said, you're going to be invited into Tripoli within the next several days.

Two days later, Mr. Speaker, a letter arrived from the Libyan parliament, the People's Congress, of what they call the Jamahiriya, their form of government, they call it a democracy, and that letter invited me to bring a delegation into Tripoli to visit.

Working with the military and assembling a bipartisan delegation of our colleagues, as I always do, seven of us left Washington to visit Libya and then on to visit our troops in Iraq and Afghanistan and spending a night at our military medical hospital at the military Air Force base in Ramstein, Germany. In fact, we brought 12 of our injured military personnel back home to America.

We spent 2 days in Tripoli, Mr. Speaker, 14 meetings in two days. We visited all the top officials of the country: Prime Minister Ghanem, the foreign minister, the minister in charge of removing weapons of mass destruction from Libya. We met with the leadership of Al Fateh University, a university with 75,000 students. We met with the leadership of the Qaddafi Foundation, which is now settling the claims of the families of the victims of the Lockerbie downing, that terrible tragedy that occurred, killing over 100 American citizens; and we met with Qaddafi himself.

We also traveled through the marketplace unannounced to gauge what the response of the Libyans would be to our visit. We had been told by officials at the National Security Council here in America that we would not be welcomed, the American flag would not be welcomed. Nothing could have been further from the truth. The reception was warm, and the attitude of every Libyan citizen that we met was positive. When they found out we were Americans, they put their hands out to shake our hands, they hugged us, and they thanked us for coming.

Our meeting with Qaddafi was held in his tent, across the field filled with camels from his home that we had bombed in 1986. The home is still in the same shape that it was back then, with the furniture and the holes in the walls exactly as it was after the bombing, which, as we all know, killed his year-and-a-half-old daughter.

The meeting with Qaddafi in the tent was a difficult one for those of us on the delegation because no one had met with Qaddafi from America. No one had been in Libya from America for 29 years. We were the first.

When we met with Qaddafi, we told him that we were glad to be invited there. We were happy that his statements were such that he was renouncing terrorism and had pledged to give up his weapons of mass destruction and that we would judge him not by his words but by his actions.

We also told him, Mr. Speaker, that we would never forgive and never forget what Qaddafi and the Libyans had done in helping to support terrorism around the world, especially the bombing of Pan Am 103 and the bombing in a Berlin nightclub that killed two young American GIs. But we told him that if he did what he said he was going to do in removing weapons of mass destruction, then our government would move quickly to establish a new direction in our relationship.

Our trip was a successful trip, Mr. Speaker, so much so that as we left Libya that first trip back in early February I was invited to come back on March 2 and deliver a speech to the people of Libya at the 27th session of what they call the great Jamahiriya, the assemblage of the leadership of the governing bodies throughout the country. Again we assembled a bipartisan delegation, and this time I called Senator JOE BIDEN and asked him if he would join us to have both bodies and both parties involved. He agreed, Mr. Speaker, but could not be with us on our plane so was provided a separate plane by the White House and landed the day that we were leaving, although we waited to greet him at the airport terminal to give him a briefing on Qaddafi's speech.

On our trip to Libya the second time, Mr. Speaker, we spent a day in Tripoli. We went back to Al Fateh University. We met with the students. We were in classrooms. We met with the faculty, the deans. We met with the Libyan Foundation. They told us about their plans for a massive human rights campaign. They explained to us their efforts to move Libya back into the family of nations. They talked about their efforts to deal with health care issues like AIDS. They talked about the Red Crescent and their attempt to bring Libya into the fold of the International Red Cross. They talked about Libya's efforts to deal with the human rights concerns of all Libyan people.

We thanked them for their time and then moved on the next day to Sirte, the city where Qaddafi is from. In Sirte 2 days earlier, the leaders of the 53 African nations had assembled for meetings about the unity of Africa with Libya in a leadership role. When visiting Sirte, we were taken out to the site of one of the largest manmade construction projects in the world, the project that Libya has been undertaking for over 20 years, to build the largest manmade river on the face of the earth, some 7,000 kilometers. This manmade river, in concrete pipes that are 12 feet in diameter, is supplying water to areas of the desert to convert them into arable usage for agriculture and farming and for the people to live on.

While we were there meeting with officials from all over the world, from the African nations, Europe, the Far East, China, South America, Central America, the Middle East, we prepared for the evening event, the opening session of the great Jamahiriya. We were ushered into the auditorium that probably seated 1,000 people, Mr. Speaker, and in that auditorium were 600 members of the elected bodies of the government of Libya, representing small towns, large cities, trade groups, educators, and a diverse section of the Libyan population. Some were dressed in traditional attire. Others were dressed in western dress, all of them sitting waiting for the speakers to begin the opening session. Over 100 countries were there, Mr. Speaker, leaders of the foreign ministries, ambassadors, foreign ministers themselves and parliamentary heads.

They brought our delegation in, Mr. Speaker, and placed the American Members of Congress in the front row for all to see. The session began with speeches by the Speaker of the Libyan parliament. That was followed by a speech from a female leader of the Libyan parliament who talked about women's issues in Libya. And then we had a speaker from the European parliament, the Egyptian government, the French parliament and several other countries from around the world.

Within about 30 minutes, Mr. Speaker, I was introduced to speak on behalf of our delegation. I spoke for approximately 15 minutes, beginning and ending my comments with Arabic to show some sensitivity to these people who we had considered our enemy for 29 years.

When I finished my speech and sat down, another speaker spoke for 2 or 3 minutes, and then Colonel Qaddafi himself was introduced. Mr. Speaker, the fireside chat, because that is what it was, it was not really a speech, there were no notes, the fireside chat that Muammar Qaddafi gave on live TV throughout Libya that night carried by Al-Jazeera but by no western media source, not one TV station, not CNN, not Fox, not ABC, NBC, CBS, none of them, but carried live throughout the Arab world, especially in Libya, was a speech that I equated with, at the end, the tearing down of the Berlin Wall and the event that eventful day in Moscow back in 1992 when President Boris Yeltsin stood atop the tank outside the Moscow White House surrounded by 100,000 Russian people and he proclaimed that communism was dead, that the Soviet Union was no longer a nation.

This speech was of equal importance because, for 90 minutes, Muammar Qaddafi, the symbol of terrorism throughout the world, the individual who funded the IRA in Ireland, who funded the Sandinistas in Nicaragua, who funded the radical Palestinians and who openly admitted that to his people that night, this speaker told his people that he had been wrong for 25 years. He sat there and he said, we supported all of these terrorist groups. We supported them with our money and with our efforts. And what did it get us? It got us isolation. It got us constant rebuke by nations of the West, Europe, America, and other nations around the world. It brought us sanctions by the U.N. and by America. It isolated us and our economy.

He went on to say, we were a major supporter of Nelson Mandela in South Africa when he was imprisoned. But when Nelson Mandela came out of prison, he became a best friend of America.

He said, How can Nelson Mandela, the man we supported, be a best friend of America and we be America's enemy? He said, There is something wrong.

As we sat there listening along with our European and other friends from around the world, our mouths were open. We could not believe the words he was saying to his own people. He referred to our delegation in the room at least five times; and he said, We are happy to have the Americans here for the first time in 3 decades. But he said, My speech and my decision is not because of the Americans alone. It is because we have decided that what is best for Libya and its people is to destroy and get rid of all of our weapons of mass destruction.

And so to his people, after admitting that he had been wrong for 25 years in supporting terrorism, Moammar Kadafi said, We no longer want any weapons of mass destruction; and we are giving it all up to the British, to the Americans, to the U.N.

And, in fact, they have done that, Mr. Speaker. We brought back boatloads of materials, nuclear material down at Oakridge which Secretary Abraham showed off to the people of America just a week ago. Nuclear fuel rods back to Russia, chemical agents and precursors, mustard gas that we are now destroying. The material to build weapons of mass destruction were in the hands of Moammar Kadafi; and here he was telling his people, No longer do we need or do we want these kinds of materials.

And then he went on to say, Mr. Speaker, in this amazing speech that America was never an enemy of Libya. He said, If America was our enemy, they would have taken us over. When we kicked them out of their military base in Tripoli, they would have stopped us and would have kept their position there, their troops there, and they would have attempted or would have successfully dominated our people and our country; but America did not do that.

And so for 90 minutes, Mr. Speaker, in a speech that largely went unheard outside of Libya and the Middle East, which is a terrible tragedy, Moammar Kadafi did a 180 degree turnaround. Amazing, Mr. Speaker.

But what was so disappointing is there were no headlines in the paper the next day. In fact, the only Washington reporter in the room that night was a reporter that I was able to get into the country, Ken Timmerman who writes for UPI and the Washington Times. Ken Timmerman on his own, because he could not fly with us on our plane, flew 36 hours and arrived in Libya at 4:00 a.m. in the morning. He went to all of our meetings. Nothing was closed. And I was able to get him a meeting personally with Colonel Kadafi. He asked all the tough questions, and he laid it all out in the Washington Times. But it was not in The Washington Post. It was not in New York Times. It was not in the Philadelphia Enquirer. It was not in the major newspapers of America, Mr. Speaker, this major change put forth by Moammar Kadafi. I would hope it was not because of bias, and I have really criticized the White House for not coming out and taking credit for this dramatic turnaround of our former enemy.

The liberals left over from previous administrations are already starting to write their op-eds; it was not because of President Bush's policy. Let me tell the Members, Mr. Speaker, none of those who wrote those op-eds sat where I did for 2½ hours across the seat from Moammar Kadafi. So all of their rhetoric is just that, rhetoric. I sat across from Moammar Kadafi in his den, and I met with him for 45 minutes alone with his interpreter; and I, Mr. Speaker, as much as anyone else on this planet know what was in Moammar Kadafi's mind when he made the decision. And for those pundits who are today suggesting that it had nothing to do with our activities in Iraq and Afghanistan, I would say, Mr. Speaker, they are full of you know what. They are simply attempting to politicize a result that was, to a large extent, caused by the foreign policy of our President.

Mr. Speaker, I would grant to those colleagues assembled in our body here that that was not the only reason; but Moammar Kadafi himself told me that he realized that it was not worth the risk of having America come in and do to him what we did to Saddam Hussein. There were other issues. The influence of his 31-year-old son, Saif Islam Al Kadafi, had a major impact on his father. The need for a modernization of the Libyan economy had a major impact. But for someone to say, as various people have done in op-eds running around the country, that the foreign policy of this President had nothing to do with Moammar Kadafi's decision, they are just lying. They are naive. In fact, they are stupid. And I can say that, Mr. Speaker, because I am the only American that has sat across from Moammar Kadafi in the last 2 months, for 2 hours and 45 minutes in one sitting and another hour in a second sitting. I understand what caused the decision.

Mr. Speaker, after the speech there was a huge round of applause from the assembled Libyan citizens in the auditorium and again the speech was carried live on Libyan TV; then they ushered our delegation back to the auditorium where they wanted us to greet Colonel Kadafi. Representatives from over 100 nations were following us all over the world. The Chinese had a delegation headed by the leader of their Parliament, the European Parliament, the French Parliament, all the African countries, the Middle Eastern countries, South America, Europe, Russia. They were all there. Even North Korea was there, Mr. Speaker.

They put us up at the front of the line, the Americans. I walked up and put my hand out to shake Colonel Kadafi's hand; and I said, Your speech was extremely impressive. I think it will go down in history as a major event that will impact the world.

He said, Congressman, I sat in the back in my office in the back of the auditorium and listened to your speech, and I enjoyed it very much.

And I said, Would you do me the honor of signing my speech?

So, Mr. Speaker, on that night of March 2, after 29 years, Colonel Kadafi, in front of our delegation and those with us from other nations, signed the speech. After he signed the speech, Mr. Speaker, he admired a pin that I had on my lapel. When we travel on CODELs, as all of our colleagues know, we wear the pin of our country and the pin of the flag of the country we are visiting. Our military escorts had given us pins with the American-Libyan flag interconnected. Kadafi admired the one on my lapel. I took it off, and I handed it to him. I said, Here, this is for you.

He put it in his hand and thanked me. And his top assistant standing next to him, who is a personal friend of mine, looked at me and said, Congressman, put the pin on his lapel.

So, Mr. Speaker, after 29 years of hatred between America and Libya, after bombings and killings that have killed innocent people, Moammar Kadafi wore the pin with the American flag and told us that he would follow through on each and every commitment that he had made to our State Department and to our President. In fact, it was amazing as all the delegations behind us, including the French, had to shake Kadafi's hand while the flag of America emblazoned his lapel.

Our delegation, Mr. Speaker, was bipartisan; and our delegation consisted of Democrats and Republicans from throughout the country who were there for this historical evening and this historical speech.

It is just a national tragedy, Mr. Speaker, an international tragedy, that the media throughout the world did not cover this event, did not have the photographs, did not have the text of what Moammar Kadafi told his people. But we will tell the story, Mr. Speaker, and we will go around and continue to support this administration in removing the weapons of mass destruction material that Kadafi has been giving us through his government.

This week, Mr. Speaker, Majid Al-Mansouri is in America. He is visiting with our leaders. He is interacting with Members of Congress, and he is here as a private citizen but a close adviser to both Prime Minister Ghanem and Saif Islam Al Kadafi to establish contacts with Americans. So I will be calling upon our colleagues in this body to spend some time with Majid Al-Mansouri as he describes in detail the efforts now under way.

Secretary Burns visited Libya last week and has begun the formal process of moving toward establishing an embassy in Tripoli and an embassy here in Washington.

Mr. Speaker, this is an unbelievable story. I wish the White House would take more credit. Typically, politicians are always taking credit for things they had nothing to do with, and here is our President not even talking about the historical nature of Kadafi's turnaround. That is why I am here tonight, Mr. Speaker. I am here because the American media has not told the story except for the Washington Times and Ken Timmerman. And I am here to tell all those cynics that the turnaround is real. We must encourage this turnaround, continue to support the Lybians as the Kadafi Foundation fights for human rights, fights for the kind of health care needs, fights for the continuation of movement toward free and fair elections that we take for granted sometimes in this country.

Two stories, Serbia and Libya, that need to be told in every newspaper in America.

Congressional Record

PROCEEDINGS AND DEBATES OF THE 108th CONGRESS, SECOND SESSION

Vol. 150

WASHINGTON, MONDAY, MARCH 29, 2004

No. 41

Senate

The Senate met at 1 p.m. and was called to order by the Honorable PAT ROBERTS, a Senator from the State of Kansas.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Dr. Barry C. Black, offered the following prayer:

Let us pray.

Sovereign Lord, You are the shepherd of our souls. Because of You, blessings overtake us. Thank You for this Nation, a beacon of freedom dispelling the darkness of tyranny. Thank You also for inscribing each of us on the palms of Your hands.

Lord, guide our lawmakers today and those who labor with them. Give them strength to meet temptations and the peace of heaven for life's storms. Remind them that the way to find life is to lose it in service for others. Surround us all with Your favor and complete the work You have started in each of us. We pray this in Your holy Name. Amen.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE

The Honorable PAT ROBERTS led the Pledge of Allegiance, as follows:

I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

APPOINTMENT OF ACTING PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will please read a communication to the Senate from the President pro tempore (Mr. STEVENS).

The legislative clerk read the following letter:

U.S. SENATE,
PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE,
Washington, DC, March 29, 2004.

To the Senate:

Under the provisions of rule I, paragraph 3, of the Standing Rules of the Senate, I hereby appoint the Honorable PAT ROBERTS, a Senator from the State of Kansas, to perform the duties of the Chair.

TED STEVENS,
President pro tempore.

Mr. ROBERTS assumed the Chair as Acting President pro tempore.

RECOGNITION OF THE MAJORITY LEADER

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The distinguished majority leader is recognized.

SCHEDULE

Mr. FRIST. Mr. President, today we will be in consideration of H.R. 4, the welfare reauthorization bill. Chairman GRASSLEY will be here shortly and is prepared for Senators to come forward with their amendments to the bill. I previously announced there will be no rollcall votes today and any votes offered today will be delayed until tomorrow, Tuesday.

As we begin this important bill, once again I ask Members to refrain from offering unrelated issues to the underlying welfare reauthorization. There are a number of Senators who have welfare-related amendments they will want to have debated and discussed and disposed of. It is my hope we can work through those amendments and not allow extraneous items to delay us and postpone us from making progress on this bill.

I thank Members for their consideration as we begin this important bill, a bill that affects millions of Americans today and indeed in the future.

Mr. President, I yield the floor.

RESERVATION OF LEADER TIME

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Under the previous order, leader time is reserved.

PERSONAL RESPONSIBILITY AND INDIVIDUAL DEVELOPMENT FOR EVERYONE ACT

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Under the previous order, the Senate will proceed to consideration of H.R. 4, which the clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

A bill (H.R. 4) to reauthorize and improve the program of block grants to States for temporary assistance for needy families, improve access to quality child care, and for other purposes.

The Senate proceeded to consider the bill which had been reported from the Committee on Finance, with an amendment to strike all after the enacting clause and insert in lieu thereof the following:

[SEC. 4. FINDINGS.]

The Congress makes the following findings:

[(1) The Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF) Program established by the Personal Responsibility and Work Opportunity Reconciliation Act of 1996 (Public Law 104-193) has succeeded in moving families from welfare to work and reducing child poverty.

[(A) There has been a dramatic increase in the employment of current and former welfare recipients. The percentage of working recipients reached an all-time high in fiscal year 1999 and continued steady in fiscal years 2000 and 2001. In fiscal year 2001, 33 percent of adult recipients were working, compared to less than 7 percent in fiscal year 1992, and 11 percent in fiscal year 1996. All States met the overall participation rate standard in fiscal year 2001, as did the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico.

[(B) Earnings for welfare recipients remaining on the rolls have also increased significantly, as have earnings for female-headed households. The increases have been particularly large for the bottom 2 income quintiles, that is, those women who are most likely to be former or present welfare recipients.

[(C) Welfare dependency has plummeted. As of June 2002, 2,025,000 families and 5,008,000 individuals were receiving assistance. Accordingly, the number of families in the welfare caseload and the number of individuals receiving cash assistance declined 54 percent and 58 percent, respectively, since the enactment of TANF. These declines have persisted even as unemployment rates have increased: unemployment rates nationwide rose 50 percent, from 3.9 percent in September 2000 to 6 percent in November 2002, while welfare caseloads continued to decline.

[(D) The child poverty rate continued to decline between 1996 and 2001, falling 20 percent from 20.5 to 16.3 percent. The 2001 child poverty rate remains at the lowest level since 1979. Child poverty rates for African-American and Hispanic children have also fallen dramatically during the past 6 years. African-American child poverty is at the lowest rate on record and Hispanic child poverty is at the lowest level reported in over 20 years.

cipients in work activities. While all States have met the overall work participation rates required by law, in 2001, in an average month, only just over 1/3 of all families with an adult participated in work activities that were countable toward the State's participation rate. Five jurisdictions failed to meet the more rigorous 2-parent work requirements, and 19 jurisdictions (States and territories) are not subject to the 2-parent requirements, most because they moved their 2-parent cases to separate State programs where they are not subject to a penalty for failing the 2-parent rates.

[(2) As a Nation, we have made substantial progress in reducing teen pregnancies and births, slowing increases in nonmarital childbearing, and improving child support collections and paternity establishment.

[(A) The teen birth rate has fallen continuously since 1991, down a dramatic 22 percent by 2000. During the period of 1991-2000, teenage birth rates fell in all States and the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands. Declines also have spanned age, racial, and ethnic groups. There has been success in lowering the birth rate for both younger and older teens. The birth rate for those 15-17 years of age is down 29 percent since 1991, and the rate for those 18 and 19 is down 16 percent. Between 1991 and 2000, teen birth rates declined for all women ages 15-19—white, African American, American Indian, Asian or Pacific Islander, and Hispanic women ages 15-19. The rate for African American teens—until recently the highest—experienced the largest decline, down 31 percent from 1991 to 2000, to reach the lowest rate ever reported for this group. Most births to teens are nonmarital; in 2000, about 73 percent of the births to teens aged 15-19 occurred outside of marriage.

[(B) Nonmarital childbearing continued to increase slightly in 2001, however not at the sharp rates of increase seen in recent decades. The birth rate among unmarried women in 2001 was 4 percent lower than its peak reached in 1994, while the proportion of births occurring outside of marriage has remained at approximately 33 percent since 1998.

[(C) The negative consequences of out-of-wedlock birth on the mother, the child, the family, and society are well documented. These include increased likelihood of welfare dependency, increased risks of low birth weight, poor cognitive development, child abuse and neglect, and teen parenthood, and decreased likelihood of having an intact marriage during adulthood.

[(D) An estimated 24,500,000 children do not live with their biological fathers, and 7,100,000 children do not live with their biological mothers. These facts are attributable largely to declining marriage rates, increasing divorce rates, and increasing rates of nonmarital births during the latter part of the 20th century.

[(E) There has been a dramatic rise in cohabitation as marriages have declined. Only 40 percent of children of cohabiting couples will see their parents marry. Those who do marry experience a 50 percent higher divorce rate. Children in single-parent households and cohabiting households are at much higher risk of child abuse than children in intact married and stepparent families.

[(F) Children who live apart from their biological fathers, on average, are more likely to be poor, experience educational, health, emotional, and psychological problems, be victims of child abuse, engage in criminal behavior, and become involved with the juvenile justice system than their peers who live with their married, biological mother and father. A child living in a single-parent family is nearly 5 times as likely to be poor as a child living in a married-couple family. In 2001, in married-couple families, the child poverty rate was 8 percent, and in households headed by a single mother, the poverty rate was 39.3 percent.

[(G) Since the enactment of the Personal Responsibility and Work Opportunity Reconciliation Act of 1996, child support collections within the child support enforcement system have grown every year, increasing from $12,000,000,000 in fiscal year 1996 to nearly $19,000,000,000 in fiscal year 2001. The number of paternities established or acknowledged in fiscal year 2002 reached an historic high of over 1,500,000—which includes more than a 100 percent increase through in-hospital acknowledgement programs to 790,595 in 2001 from 324,652 in 1996. Child support collections were made in well over 7,000,000 cases in fiscal year 2000, significantly more than the almost 4,000,000 cases having a collection in 1996.

[(3) The Personal Responsibility and Work Opportunity Reconciliation Act of 1996 gave States great flexibility in the use of Federal funds to develop innovative programs to help families leave welfare and begin employment and to encourage the formation of 2-parent families.

[(A) Total Federal and State TANF expenditures in fiscal year 2001 were $25,500,000,000, up from $24,000,000,000 in fiscal year 2000 and $22,600,000,000 in fiscal year 1999. This increased spending is attributable to significant new investments in supportive services in the TANF program, such as child care and activities to support work.

[(B) Since the welfare reform effort began there has been a dramatic increase in work participation (including employment, community service, and work experience) among welfare recipients, as well as an unprecedented reduction in the caseload because recipients have left welfare for work.

[(C) States are making policy choices and investment decisions best suited to the needs of their citizens.

[(i) To expand aid to working families, all States disregard a portion of a family's earned income when determining benefit levels.

[(ii) Most States increased the limits on countable assets above the former Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) program. Every State has increased the vehicle asset level above the prior AFDC limit for a family's primary automobile.

[(iii) States are experimenting with programs to promote marriage and father involvement. Over half the States have eliminated restrictions on 2-parent families. Many States use TANF, child support, or State funds to support community-based activities to help fathers become more involved in their children's lives or strengthen relationships between mothers and fathers.

[(4) Therefore, it is the sense of the Congress that increasing success in moving families from welfare to work, as well as in promoting healthy marriage and other means of improving child well-being, are very important Government interests and the policy contained in part A of title IV of the Social Security Act (as amended by this Act) is intended to serve these ends.

[TITLE I—TANF]

[SEC. 103. PROMOTION OF FAMILY FORMATION AND HEALTHY MARRIAGE.]

[(a) STATE PLANS.—Section 402(a)(1)(A) (42 U.S.C. 602(a)(1)(A)) is amended by adding at the end the following:

[(vii) Encourage equitable treatment of married, 2-parent families under the program referred to in clause (i)."

[(b) HEALTHY MARRIAGE PROMOTION GRANTS; REPEAL OF BONUS FOR REDUCTION OF ILLEGITIMACY RATIO.—Section 403(a)(2) (42 U.S.C. 603(a)(2)) is amended to read as follows:

[(2) HEALTHY MARRIAGE PROMOTION GRANTS.—

[(A) AUTHORITY.—The Secretary shall award competitive grants to States, territories, and tribal organizations for not more than 50 percent of the cost of developing and implementing innovative programs to promote and support healthy, married, 2-parent families.

[(B) HEALTHY MARRIAGE PROMOTION ACTIVITIES.—Funds provided under subparagraph (A) shall be used to support any of the following programs or activities:

[(i) Public advertising campaigns on the value of marriage and the skills needed to increase marital stability and health.

[(iii) Marriage education, marriage skills, and relationship skills programs, that may include parenting skills, financial management, conflict resolution, and job and career advancement, for non-married pregnant women and non-married expectant fathers.

[(iv) Pre-marital education and marriage skills training for engaged couples and for couples or individuals interested in marriage.

[(vi) Divorce reduction programs that teach relationship skills.

[(vii) Marriage mentoring programs which use married couples as role models and mentors in at-risk communities.

[(viii) Programs to reduce the disincentives to marriage in means-tested aid programs, if offered in conjunction with any activity described in this subparagraph.

[(C) APPROPRIATION.—

[(i) IN GENERAL.—Out of any money in the Treasury of the United States not otherwise appropriated, there are appropriated for each of fiscal years 2003 through 2008 $100,000,000 for grants under this paragraph.

[(ii) EXTENDED AVAILABILITY OF FY2003 FUNDS.—Funds appropriated under clause (i) for fiscal year 2003 shall remain available to the Secretary through fiscal year 2004, for grants under this paragraph for fiscal year 2003."

[(c) COUNTING OF SPENDING ON NON-ELIGIBLE FAMILIES TO PREVENT AND REDUCE INCIDENCE OF OUT-OF-WEDLOCK BIRTHS, ENCOURAGE FORMATION AND MAINTENANCE OF HEALTHY, 2-PARENT MARRIED FAMILIES, OR ENCOURAGE RESPONSIBLE FATHERHOOD.—Section 409(a)(7)(B)(i) (42 U.S.C. 609(a)(7)(B)(i)) is amended by adding at the end the following:

[(V) COUNTING OF SPENDING ON NON-ELIGIBLE FAMILIES TO PREVENT AND REDUCE INCIDENCE OF OUT-OF-WEDLOCK BIRTHS, ENCOURAGE FORMATION AND MAINTENANCE OF HEALTHY, 2-PARENT MARRIED FAMILIES, OR ENCOURAGE RESPONSIBLE FATHERHOOD.—The term 'qualified State expenditures' includes the total expenditures by the State during the fiscal year under all State programs for a purpose described in paragraph (3) or (4) of section 401(a)."

[SEC. 104. SUPPLEMENTAL GRANT FOR POPULATION INCREASES IN CERTAIN STATES.]

[Section 403(a)(3)(H) (42 U.S.C. 603(a)(3)(H)) is amended—

[(1) in the subparagraph heading, by striking "OF GRANTS FOR FISCAL YEAR 2002";

[(2) in clause (i), by striking "fiscal year 2002" and inserting "each of fiscal years 2004 through 2007";

[(B) in subparagraph (D)(ii)—

[(i) in subclause (I), by striking "equals $200,000,000" and inserting "(other than 2003) equals $200,000,000, and for bonus year 2003 equals $100,000,000"; and

[(ii) in subclause (II), by striking "$1,000,000,000" and inserting "$900,000,000"; and

[(C) in subparagraph (F), by striking "$1,000,000,000" and inserting "$900,000,000".

[(2) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by paragraph (1) shall take effect on the date of the enactment of this Act, or September 30, 2003, whichever is earlier.

[(b) BONUS TO REWARD EMPLOYMENT ACHIEVEMENT.—

[(1) IN GENERAL.—Section 403(a)(4) (42 U.S.C. 603(a)(4)) is amended by striking subparagraphs (A) through (F) and inserting the following:

[(A) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall make a grant pursuant to this paragraph to each State for each bonus year for which the State is an employment achievement State.

[(B) AMOUNT OF GRANT.—

["(i) IN GENERAL.—Subject to clause (ii) of this subparagraph, the Secretary shall determine the amount of the grant payable under this paragraph to an employment achievement State for a bonus year, which shall be based on the performance of the State as determined under subparagraph (D)(i) for the fiscal year that immediately precedes the bonus year.

["(ii) LIMITATION.—The amount payable to a State under this paragraph for a bonus year shall not exceed 5 percent of the State family assistance grant.

["(C) FORMULA FOR MEASURING STATE PERFORMANCE.—

["(i) IN GENERAL.—Subject to clause (ii), not later than October 1, 2003, the Secretary, in consultation with the States, shall develop a formula for measuring State performance in operating the State program funded under this part so as to achieve the goals of employment entry, job retention, and increased earnings from employment for families receiving assistance under the program, as measured on an absolute basis and on the basis of improvement in State performance.

["(ii) SPECIAL RULE FOR BONUS YEAR 2004.—For the purposes of awarding a bonus under this paragraph for bonus year 2004, the Secretary may measure the performance of a State in fiscal year 2003 using the job entry rate, job retention rate, and earnings gain rate components of the formula developed under section 403(a)(4)(C) as in effect immediately before the effective date of this paragraph.

["(D) DETERMINATION OF STATE PERFORMANCE.—For each bonus year, the Secretary shall—

["(i) use the formula developed under subparagraph (C) to determine the performance of each eligible State for the fiscal year that precedes the bonus year; and

["(ii) prescribe performance standards in such a manner so as to ensure that—

["(I) the average annual total amount of grants to be made under this paragraph for each bonus year equals $100,000,000; and

["(II) the total amount of grants to be made under this paragraph for all bonus years equals $600,000,000.

["(E) DEFINITIONS.—In this paragraph:

["(ii) EMPLOYMENT ACHIEVEMENT STATE.—The term 'employment achievement State' means, with respect to a bonus year, an eligible State whose performance determined pursuant to subparagraph (D)(i) for the fiscal year preceding the bonus year equals or exceeds the performance standards prescribed under subparagraph (D)(ii) for such preceding fiscal year.

["(F) APPROPRIATION.—

["(i) IN GENERAL.—Out of any money in the Treasury of the United States not otherwise appropriated, there are appropriated for fiscal years 2004 through 2009 $600,000,000 for grants under this paragraph.

["(ii) EXTENDED AVAILABILITY OF PRIOR APPROPRIATION.—Amounts appropriated under section 403(a)(4)(F) of the Social Security Act (as in effect before the date of the enactment of this clause) that have not been expended as of such date of enactment shall remain available through fiscal year 2004 for grants under section 403(a)(4) of such Act (as in effect before such date of enactment) for bonus year 2003.

["(G) GRANTS FOR TRIBAL ORGANIZATIONS.—This paragraph shall apply with respect to tribal organizations in the same manner in which this paragraph applies with respect to States. In determining the criteria under which to make grants to tribal organizations under this paragraph, the Secretary shall consult with tribal organizations."

["(2) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendment made by paragraph (1), except for section 403(a)(4)(F)(ii) of the Social Security Act as inserted by the amendment, shall take effect on October 1, 2003.

["(1) by striking "1997, 1998, 1999, 2000, 2001, and 2002" and inserting "2004 through 2008"; and

["(b) GRANTS.—Section 403(b)(3)(C)(ii) (42 U.S.C. 603(b)(3)(C)(ii)) is amended by striking "fiscal years 1997 through 2002" and inserting "fiscal years 2004 through 2008".

["(c) DEFINITION OF NEEDY STATE.—Clauses (i) and (ii) of section 403(b)(5)(B) (42 U.S.C. 603(b)(5)(B)) are amended by inserting after "1996" the following: ", and the Food Stamp Act of 1977 as in effect during the corresponding 3-month period in the fiscal year preceding such most recently concluded 3-month period.".

["(d) ANNUAL RECONCILIATION: FEDERAL MATCHING OF STATE EXPENDITURES ABOVE "MAINTENANCE OF EFFORT" LEVEL.—Section 403(b)(6) (42 U.S.C. 603(b)(6)) is amended—

["(1) in subparagraph (A)(ii)—

["(A) by adding "and" at the end of subclause (I);

["(B) by striking "; and" at the end of subclause (II) and inserting a period; and

["(C) by striking subclause (III);

["(2) in subparagraph (B)(i)(II), by striking all that follows "section 409(a)(7)(B)(iii)" and inserting a period;

["(a) MODIFICATION OF STATE PLAN REQUIREMENTS.—Section 402(a)(1)(A) (42 U.S.C. 602(a)(1)(A)) is amended by striking clauses (ii) and (iii) and inserting the following:

["(ii) Require a parent or caretaker receiving assistance under the program to engage in work or alternative self-sufficiency activities (as defined by the State), consistent with section 407(e)(2).

["(iii) Require families receiving assistance under the program to engage in activities in accordance with family self-sufficiency plans developed pursuant to section 408(b)."

["(b) ESTABLISHMENT OF FAMILY SELF-SUFFICIENCY PLANS.—

["(1) IN GENERAL.—Section 408(b) (42 U.S.C. 608(b)) is amended to read as follows:

["(b) FAMILY SELF-SUFFICIENCY PLANS.—

["(1) IN GENERAL.—A State to which a grant is made under section 403 shall—

["(A) assess, in the manner deemed appropriate by the State, the skills, prior work experience, and employability of each work-eligible individual (as defined in section 407(b)(2)(C)) receiving assistance under the State program funded under this part;

["(B) establish for each family that includes such an individual, in consultation as the State deems appropriate with the individual, a self-sufficiency plan that specifies appropriate activities described in the State plan submitted pursuant to section 402, including direct work activities as appropriate designed to assist the family in achieving their maximum degree of self-sufficiency, and that provides for the ongoing participation of the individual in the activities;

["(C) require, at a minimum, each such individual to participate in activities in accordance with the self-sufficiency plan;

["(D) monitor the participation of each such individual in the activities specified in the self-sufficiency plan, and regularly review the progress of the family toward self-sufficiency;

["(E) upon such a review, revise the self-sufficiency plan and activities as the State deems appropriate.

["(2) TIMING.—The State shall comply with paragraph (1) with respect to a family—

["(A) in the case of a family that, as of October 1, 2003, is not receiving assistance from the State program funded under this part, not later than 60 days after the family first receives assistance on the basis of the most recent application for the assistance; or ["(B) in the case of a family that, as of such date, is receiving the assistance, not later than 12 months after the date of enactment of this subsection.

["(3) STATE DISCRETION.—A State shall have sole discretion, consistent with section 407, to define and design activities for families for purposes of this subsection, to develop methods for monitoring and reviewing progress pursuant to this subsection, and to make modifications to the plan as the State deems appropriate to assist the individual in increasing their degree of self-sufficiency.

["(4) RULE OF INTERPRETATION.—Nothing in this part shall preclude a State from requiring participation in work and any other activities the State deems appropriate for helping families achieve self-sufficiency and improving child well-being."

["(2) PENALTY FOR FAILURE TO ESTABLISH FAMILY SELF-SUFFICIENCY PLAN.—Section 409(a)(3) (42 U.S.C. 609(a)(3)) is amended—

["(a) PARTICIPATION RATE REQUIREMENTS.—A State to which a grant is made under section 403 for a fiscal year shall achieve a minimum participation rate equal to not less than—

- ["(1) 50 percent for fiscal year 2004;
- ["(2) 55 percent for fiscal year 2005;
- ["(3) 60 percent for fiscal year 2006;
- ["(4) 65 percent for fiscal year 2007; and
- ["(5) 70 percent for fiscal year 2008 and each succeeding fiscal year.

["(b) CALCULATION OF PARTICIPATION RATES.—

["(1) AVERAGE MONTHLY RATE.—For purposes of subsection (a), the participation rate of a State for a fiscal year is the average of the participation rates of the State for each month in the fiscal year.

["(2) MONTHLY PARTICIPATION RATES; INCORPORATION OF 40-HOUR WORK WEEK STANDARD.—

["(A) IN GENERAL.—For purposes of paragraph (1), the participation rate of a State for a month is—

["(i) the total number of countable hours (as defined in subsection (c)) with respect to the counted families for the State for the month; divided by

["(B) COUNTED FAMILIES DEFINED.—

["(i) IN GENERAL.—In subparagraph (A), the term 'counted family' means, with respect to a State and a month, a family that includes a work-eligible individual and that receives assistance in the month under the State program funded under this part, subject to clause (ii).

["(ii) STATE OPTION TO EXCLUDE CERTAIN FAMILIES.—At the option of a State, the term 'counted family' shall not include—

["(1) a family in the first month for which the family receives assistance from a State program funded under this part on the basis of the most recent application for such assistance; or

["(2) on a case-by-case basis, a family in which the youngest child has not attained 12 months of age.

["(iii) STATE OPTION TO INCLUDE INDIVIDUALS RECEIVING ASSISTANCE UNDER A TRIBAL FAMILY ASSISTANCE PLAN OR TRIBAL WORK PROGRAM.—At the option of a State, the term 'counted family' may include families in the State that are receiving assistance under a tribal family assistance plan approved under section 412 or under a tribal work program to which funds are provided under this part.

["(C) WORK-ELIGIBLE INDIVIDUAL DEFINED.—In this section, the term 'work-eligible individual' means an individual—

["(i) who is married or a single head of household; and

["(ii) whose needs are (or, but for sanctions under this part that have been in effect for more than 3 months (whether or not consecutive) in the preceding 12 months or under part D, would be) included in determining the amount of cash assistance to be provided to the family under the State program funded under this part."

["(c) RECALIBRATION OF CASELOAD REDUCTION CREDIT.—

["(1) IN GENERAL.—Section 407(b)(3)(A)(ii) (42 U.S.C. 607(b)(3)(A)(ii)) is amended to read as follows:

["(i) the average monthly number of families that received assistance under the State program funded under this part during the base year."

["(3) BASE YEAR DEFINED.—Section 407(b)(3) (42 U.S.C. 607(b)(3)) is amended by adding at the end the following:

["(C) BASE YEAR DEFINED.—In this paragraph, the term 'base year' means, with respect to a fiscal year—

["(I) if the fiscal year is fiscal year 2004, fiscal year 1996;

["(II) if the fiscal year is fiscal year 2005, fiscal year 1998;

["(III) if the fiscal year is fiscal year 2006, fiscal year 2001; or

["(IV) if the fiscal year is fiscal year 2007 or any succeeding fiscal year, the then 4th preceding fiscal year."

["(d) SUPERACHIEVER CREDIT.—Section 407(b) (42 U.S.C. 607(b)) is amended by striking paragraphs (4) and (5) and inserting the following:

["(4) SUPERACHIEVER CREDIT.—

["(A) IN GENERAL.—The participation rate, determined under paragraphs (1) and (2) of this subsection, of a superachiever State for a fiscal year shall be increased by the lesser of—

["(i) the amount (if any) of the superachiever credit applicable to the State; or ["(ii) the number of percentage points (if any) by which the minimum participation rate required by subsection (a) for the fiscal year exceeds 50 percent.

["(B) SUPERACHIEVER STATE.—For purposes of subparagraph (A), a State is a superachiever State if the State caseload for fiscal year 2001 has declined by at least 60 percent from the State caseload for fiscal year 1995.

["(C) AMOUNT OF CREDIT.—The superachiever credit applicable to a State is the number of percentage points (if any) by which the decline referred to in subparagraph (B) exceeds 60 percent.

["(D) DEFINITIONS.—In this paragraph:

["(i) STATE CASELOAD FOR FISCAL YEAR 2001.—The term 'State caseload for fiscal year 2001' means the average monthly number of families that received assistance during fiscal year 2001 under the State program funded under this part.

["(ii) STATE CASELOAD FOR FISCAL YEAR 1995.—The term 'State caseload for fiscal year 1995' means the average monthly number of families that received aid under the State plan approved under part A (as in effect on September 30, 1995) during fiscal year 1995."

["(e) COUNTABLE HOURS.—Section 407 of such Act (42 U.S.C. 607) is amended by striking subsections (c) and (d) and inserting the following:

["(c) COUNTABLE HOURS.—

["(1) DEFINITION.—In subsection (b)(2), the term 'countable hours' means, with respect to a family for a month, the total number of hours in the month in which any member of the family who is a work-eligible individual is engaged in a direct work activity or other activities specified by the State (excluding an activity that does not address a purpose specified in section 401(a)), subject to the other provisions of this subsection.

["(2) LIMITATIONS.—Subject to such regulations as the Secretary may prescribe:

["(A) MINIMUM WEEKLY AVERAGE OF 24 HOURS OF DIRECT WORK ACTIVITIES REQUIRED.—If the work-eligible individuals in a family are engaged in a direct work activity for an average total of fewer than 24 hours per week in a month, then the number of countable hours with respect to the family for the month shall be zero.

["(B) MAXIMUM WEEKLY AVERAGE OF 16 HOURS OF OTHER ACTIVITIES.—An average of not more than 16 hours per week of activities specified by the State (subject to the exclusion described in paragraph (1)) may be considered countable hours in a month with respect to a family.

["(3) SPECIAL RULES.—For purposes of paragraph (1):

["(A) PARTICIPATION IN QUALIFIED ACTIVITIES.—

["(i) IN GENERAL.—If, with the approval of the State, the work-eligible individuals in a family are engaged in 1 or more qualified activities for an average total of at least 24 hours per week in a month, then all such engagement in the month shall be considered engagement in a direct work activity, subject to clause (iii).

["(ii) QUALIFIED ACTIVITY DEFINED.—The term 'qualified activity' means an activity specified by the State (subject to the exclusion described in paragraph (1)) that meets such standards and criteria as the State may specify, including—

["(I) substance abuse counseling or treatment;

["(II) rehabilitation treatment and services;

["(III) work-related education or training directed at enabling the family member to work;

["(IV) job search or job readiness assistance; and

["(iii) LIMITATION.—

["(I) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in subclause (II), clause (i) shall not apply to a family for more than 3 months in any period of 24 consecutive months.

["(II) SPECIAL RULE APPLICABLE TO EDUCATION AND TRAINING.—A State may, on a case-by-case basis, apply clause (i) to a work-eligible individual so that participation by the individual in education or training, if needed to permit the individual to complete a certificate program or other work-related education or training directed at enabling the individual to fill a known job need in a local area, may be considered countable hours with respect to the family of the individual for not more than 4 months in any period of 24 consecutive months.

["(B) SCHOOL ATTENDANCE BY TEEN HEAD OF HOUSEHOLD.—The work-eligible members of a family shall be considered to be engaged in a direct work activity for an average of 40 hours per week in a month if the family includes an individual who is married, or is a single head of household, who has not attained 20 years of age, and the individual—

["(i) maintains satisfactory attendance at secondary school or the equivalent in the month; or

["(ii) participates in education directly related to employment for an average of at least 20 hours per week in the month.

["(d) DIRECT WORK ACTIVITY.—In this section, the term 'direct work activity' means—

["(1) unsubsidized employment;

["(2) subsidized private sector employment;

["(3) subsidized public sector employment;

["(4) on-the-job training;

["(5) supervised work experience; or

["(f) PENALTIES AGAINST INDIVIDUALS.—Section 407(e)(1) (42 U.S.C. 607(e)(1)) is amended to read as follows:

["(1) REDUCTION OR TERMINATION OF ASSISTANCE.—

["(A) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in paragraph (2), if an individual in a family receiving assistance under a State program funded under this part fails to engage in activities required in accordance with this section, or other activities required by the State under the program, and the family does not otherwise engage in activities in accordance with the self-sufficiency plan established for the family pursuant to section 408(b), the State shall—

["(i) if the failure is partial or persists for not more than 1 month—

["(I) reduce the amount of assistance otherwise payable to the family pro rata (or more, at the option of the State) with respect to any period during a month in which the failure occurs; or

["(II) terminate all assistance to the family, subject to such good cause exceptions as the State may establish; or ["(ii) if the failure is total and persists for at least 2 consecutive months, terminate all cash payments to the family including qualified State expenditures (as defined in section 409(a)(7)(B)(ii)) for at least 1 month and thereafter until the State determines that the individual has resumed full participation in the activities, subject to such good cause exceptions as the State may establish.

["(B) SPECIAL RULE.—

["(i) IN GENERAL.—In the event of a conflict between a requirement of clause (i)(II) or (ii) of subparagraph (A) and a requirement of a State constitution, or of a State statute that, before 1966, obligated local government to provide assistance to needy parents and children, the State constitutional or statutory requirement shall control.

["(ii) LIMITATION.—Clause (i) of this subparagraph shall not apply after the 1-year period that begins with the date of the enactment of this subparagraph.".

["(g) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—

["(1) Section 407(f) (42 U.S.C. 607(f)) is amended in each of paragraphs (1) and (2) by striking "work activity described in subsection (d)" and inserting "direct work activity".

["(2) The heading of section 409(a)(14) (42 U.S.C. 609(a)(14)) is amended by inserting "OR REFUSING TO ENGAGE IN ACTIVITIES UNDER A FAMILY SELF-SUFFICIENCY PLAN" after "WORK".

["(h) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section (other than subsection (a)) shall take effect on October 1, 2003.

[SEC. 111. MAINTENANCE OF EFFORT.]

["(1) in subparagraph (A) by striking "fiscal year 1998, 1999, 2000, 2001, 2002, or 2003" and inserting "fiscal year 2003, 2004, 2005, 2006, 2007, 2008, or 2009"; and

["(2) in subparagraph (B)(ii)—

["(A) by inserting "preceding" before "fiscal year"; and

["(b) STATE SPENDING ON PROMOTING HEALTHY MARRIAGE.—

["(1) IN GENERAL.—Section 404 (42 U.S.C. 604) is amended by adding at the end the following:

["(1) MARRIAGE PROMOTION.—A State, territory, or tribal organization to which a grant is made under section 403(a)(2) may use a grant made to the State, territory, or tribal organization under any other provision of section 403 for marriage promotion activities, and the amount of any such grant so used shall be considered State funds for purposes of section 403(a)(2).".

["(2) FEDERAL TANF FUNDS USED FOR MARRIAGE PROMOTION DISREGARDED FOR PURPOSES OF MAINTENANCE OF EFFORT REQUIREMENT.—

Section 409(a)(7)(B)(i) (42 U.S.C. 609(a)(7)(B)(i)), as amended by section 103(c) of this Act, is amended by adding at the end the following:

["(VI) EXCLUSION OF FEDERAL TANF FUNDS USED FOR MARRIAGE PROMOTION ACTIVITIES.—Such term does not include the amount of any grant made to the State under section 403 that is expended for a marriage promotion activity.".

[SEC. 112. PERFORMANCE IMPROVEMENT.]

[(a) SECRETARY’S FUND FOR RESEARCH, DEMONSTRATIONS, AND TECHNICAL ASSISTANCE.—Section 413 (42 U.S.C. 613), as amended by section 112(c) of this Act, is further amended by adding at the end the following:

[(1) APPROPRIATION.—

[(A) IN GENERAL.—Out of any money in the Treasury of the United States not otherwise appropriated, there are appropriated $102,000,000 for each of fiscal years 2003 through 2008, which shall be available to the Secretary for the purpose of conducting and supporting research and demonstration projects by public or private entities, and providing technical assistance to States, Indian tribal organizations, and such other entities as the Secretary may specify that are receiving a grant under this part, which shall be expended primarily on activities described in section 403(a)(2)(B), and which shall be in addition to any other funds made available under this part.

[(B) EXTENDED AVAILABILITY OF FY 2003 FUNDS.—Funds appropriated under this paragraph for fiscal year 2003 shall remain available to the Secretary through fiscal year 2004, for use in accordance with this paragraph for fiscal year 2003.

[(2) SET ASIDE FOR DEMONSTRATION PROJECTS FOR COORDINATION OF PROVISION OF CHILD WELFARE AND TANF SERVICES TO TRIBAL FAMILIES AT RISK OF CHILD ABUSE OR NEGLECT.—

[(A) IN GENERAL.—Of the amounts made available under paragraph (1) for a fiscal year, $2,000,000 shall be awarded on a competitive basis to fund demonstration projects designed to test the effectiveness of tribal governments or tribal consortia in coordinating the provision to tribal families at risk of child abuse or neglect of child welfare services and services under tribal programs funded under this part.

[(B) USE OF FUNDS.—A grant made to such a project shall be used—

[(i) to improve case management for families eligible for assistance from such a tribal program;

[(ii) for supportive services and assistance to tribal children in out-of-home placements and the tribal families caring for such children, including families who adopt such children; and

[(iii) for prevention services and assistance to tribal families at risk of child abuse and neglect.

[(C) REPORTS.—The Secretary may require a recipient of funds awarded under this paragraph to provide the Secretary with such information as the Secretary deems relevant to enable the Secretary to facilitate and oversee the administration of any project for which funds are provided under this paragraph.”.

[(b) FUNDING OF STUDIES AND DEMONSTRATIONS.—Section 413(h)(1) (42 U.S.C. 613(h)(1)) is amended in the matter preceding subparagraph (A) by striking “1997 through 2002” and inserting “2004 through 2008”.

[(c) REPORT ON ENFORCEMENT OF CERTAIN AFFIDAVITS OF SUPPORT AND SPONSOR DEEMING.—Not later than March 31, 2004, the Secretary of Health and Human Services, in consultation with the Attorney General, shall submit to the Congress a report on the enforcement of affidavits of support and sponsor deeming as required by section 421, 422, and 432 of the Personal Responsibility and Work Opportunity Reconciliation Act of 1996.

[(d) REPORT ON COORDINATION.—Not later than 6 months after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of Health and Human Services and the Secretary of Labor shall jointly submit a report to the Congress describing common or conflicting data elements, definitions, performance measures, and reporting requirements in the Workforce Investment Act of 1998 and part A of title IV of the Social Security Act, and, to the degree each Secretary deems appropriate, at the discretion of either Secretary, any other program administered by the respective Secretary, to allow greater coordination between the welfare and workforce development systems.

[SEC. 116. STUDIES BY THE CENSUS BUREAU AND THE GENERAL ACCOUNTING OFFICE.]

[(a) CENSUS BUREAU STUDY.—

[(1) IN GENERAL.—Section 414(a) (42 U.S.C. 614(a)) is amended to read as follows:

[(a) IN GENERAL.—The Bureau of the Census shall implement or enhance a longitudinal survey of program participation, developed in consultation with the Secretary and made available to interested parties, to allow for the assessment of the outcomes of continued welfare reform on the economic and child well-being of low-income families with children, including those who received assistance or services from a State program funded under this part, and, to the extent possible, shall provide State representative samples. The content of the survey should include such information as may be necessary to examine the issues of out-of-wedlock childbearing, marriage, welfare dependency and compliance with work requirements, the beginning and ending of spells of assistance, work, earnings and employment stability, and the well-being of children.”.

[(A) by striking “1996,” and all that follows through “2002” and inserting “2004 through 2008”; and

[(b) GAO STUDY.—

[(1) IN GENERAL.—The Comptroller General of the United States shall conduct a study to determine the combined effect of the phase-out rates for Federal programs and policies which provide support to low-income families and individuals as they move from welfare to work, at all earning levels up to $35,000 per year, for at least 5 States including Wisconsin and California, and any potential disincentives the combined phase-out rates create for families to achieve independence or to marry.

[(2) REPORT.—Not later than 1 year after the date of the enactment of this subsection, the Comptroller General shall submit a report to Congress containing the results of the study conducted under this section and, as appropriate, any recommendations consistent with the results.

[SEC. 117. DEFINITION OF ASSISTANCE.]

[(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 419 (42 U.S.C. 619) is amended by adding at the end the following:

[(b) ASSISTANCE.—

[(A) IN GENERAL.—The term ‘assistance’ means payment, by cash, voucher, or other means, to or for an individual or family for the purpose of meeting a subsistence need of the individual or family (including food, clothing, shelter, and related items, but not including costs of transportation or child care).

[(B) EXCEPTION.—The term ‘assistance’ does not include a payment described in sub-paragraph (A) to or for an individual or family on a short-term, nonrecurring basis (as defined by the State in accordance with regulations prescribed by the Secretary).”.

[(b) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—

[(2) Section 404(f) (42 U.S.C. 604(f)) is amended by striking “assistance” and inserting “benefits or services”.

[(3) Section 408(a)(5)(B)(i) (42 U.S.C. 608(a)(5)(B)(i)) is amended in the heading by striking “ASSISTANCE” and inserting “AID”.

[SEC. 118. TECHNICAL CORRECTIONS.]

[(b) Section 411(a)(1)(A)(ii)(III) (42 U.S.C. 611(a)(1)(A)(ii)(III)) is amended by striking the last close parenthesis.

[(c) Section 413(j)(2)(A) (42 U.S.C. 613(j)(2)(A)) is amended by striking “section” and inserting “sections”.

[(d)(1) Section 413 (42 U.S.C. 613) is amended by striking subsection (g) and redesignating subsections (h) through (j) and subsections (k) and (l) (as added by sections 112(c) and 115(a) of this Act, respectively) as subsections (g) through (k), respectively.

[(2) Each of the following provisions is amended by striking “413(j)” and inserting “413(i)”:

[SEC. 119. FATHERHOOD PROGRAM.]

[(a) SHORT TITLE.—This section may be cited as the “Promotion and Support of Responsible Fatherhood and Healthy Marriage Act of 2003”.

[(b) FATHERHOOD PROGRAM.—

[(1) IN GENERAL.—Title I of the Personal Responsibility and Work Opportunity Reconciliation Act of 1996 (Public Law 104-193) is amended by adding at the end the following:

[(a) IN GENERAL.—Title IV (42 U.S.C. 601-679b) is amended by inserting after part B the following:

“PART C—FATHERHOOD PROGRAM

[(a) FINDINGS.—The Congress finds that there is substantial evidence strongly indicating the urgent need to promote and support involved, committed, and responsible fatherhood, and to encourage and support healthy marriages between parents raising children, including data demonstrating the following:

[(1) In approximately 90 percent of cases where a parent is absent, that parent is the father.

[(2) By some estimates, 60 percent of children born in the 1990’s will spend a significant portion of their childhood in a home without a father.

[(3) Nearly 75 percent of children in single-parent homes will experience poverty before they are 11 years old, compared with only 20 percent of children in 2-parent families.

[(4) Low income is positively correlated with children’s difficulties with education, social adjustment, and delinquency, and single-parent households constitute a disproportionate share of low-income households.

[(5) Where families (whether intact or with a parent absent) are living in poverty, a significant factor is the father’s lack of job skills.

[(6) Children raised in 2-parent married families, on average, fare better as a group in key areas, including better school performance, reduced rates of substance abuse, crime, and delinquency, fewer health, emotional, and behavioral problems, lower rates of teenage sexual activity, less risk of abuse or neglect, and lower risk of teen suicide.

[(7) Committed and responsible fathering during infancy and early childhood contributes to the development of emotional security, curiosity, and math and verbal skills.

[(9) A recent national survey indicates that of children under age 18 not living with their biological father, 37 percent had not seen their father even once in the last 12 months.

[(b) PURPOSES.—The purposes of this part are:

[(1) To provide for projects and activities by public entities and by nonprofit community entities, including religious organizations, designed to test promising approaches to accomplishing the following objectives:

[(A) Promoting responsible, caring, and effective parenting through counseling, mentoring, and parenting education, dissemination of educational materials and information on parenting skills, encouragement of positive father involvement, including the positive involvement of nonresident fathers, and other methods.

[(B) Enhancing the abilities and commitment of unemployed or low-income fathers to provide material support for their families and to avoid or leave welfare programs by assisting them to take full advantage of education, job training, and job search programs, to improve work habits and work skills, to secure career advancement by activities such as outreach and information dissemination, coordination, as appropriate, with employment services and job training programs, including the One-Stop delivery system established under title I of the Workforce Investment Act of 1998, encouragement and support of timely payment of current child support and regular payment toward past due child support obligations in appropriate cases, and other methods.

[(C) Improving fathers’ ability to effectively manage family business affairs by means such as education, counseling, and mentoring in matters including household management, budgeting, banking, and handling of financial transactions, time management, and home maintenance.

[(D) Encouraging and supporting healthy marriages and married fatherhood through such activities as premarital education, including the use of premarital inventories, marriage preparation programs, skills-based marriage education programs, marital therapy, couples counseling, divorce education and reduction programs, divorce mediation and counseling, relationship skills enhancement programs, including those designed to reduce child abuse and domestic violence, and dissemination of information about the benefits of marriage for both parents and children.

[(2) Through the projects and activities described in paragraph (1), to improve outcomes for children with respect to measures such as increased family income and economic security, improved school performance, better health, improved emotional and behavioral stability and social adjustment, and reduced risk of delinquency, crime, substance abuse, child abuse and neglect, teen sexual activity, and teen suicide.

[(3) To evaluate the effectiveness of various approaches and to disseminate findings concerning outcomes and other information in order to encourage and facilitate the replication of effective approaches to accomplishing these objectives.

["In this part, the terms "Indian tribe" and "tribal organization" have the meanings given them in subsections (e) and (l), respectively, of section 4 of the Indian Self-Determination and Education Assistance Act.

["(a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary may make grants for fiscal years 2004 through 2008 to public and nonprofit community entities, including religious organizations, and to Indian tribes and tribal organizations, for demonstration service projects and activities designed to test the effectiveness of various approaches to accomplish the objectives specified in section 441(b)(1).

["(b) ELIGIBILITY CRITERIA FOR FULL SERVICE GRANTS.—In order to be eligible for a grant under this section, except as specified in subsection (c), an entity shall submit an application to the Secretary containing the following:

["(1) PROJECT DESCRIPTION.—A statement including—

["(A) a description of the project and how it will be carried out, including the geographical area to be covered and the number and characteristics of clients to be served, and how it will address each of the 4 objectives specified in section 441(b)(1); and

["(B) a description of the methods to be used by the entity or its contractor to assess the extent to which the project was successful in accomplishing its specific objectives and the general objectives specified in section 441(b)(1).

["(2) EXPERIENCE AND QUALIFICATIONS.—A demonstration of ability to carry out the project, by means such as demonstration of experience in successfully carrying out projects of similar design and scope, and such other information as the Secretary may find necessary to demonstrate the entity's capacity to carry out the project, including the entity's ability to provide the non-Federal share of project resources.

["(3) ADDRESSING CHILD ABUSE AND NEGLECT AND DOMESTIC VIOLENCE.—A description of how the entity will assess for the presence of, and intervene to resolve, domestic violence and child abuse and neglect, including how the entity will coordinate with State and local child protective service and domestic violence programs.

["(4) ADDRESSING CONCERNS RELATING TO SUBSTANCE ABUSE AND SEXUAL ACTIVITY.—A commitment to make available to each individual participating in the project education about alcohol, tobacco, and other drugs, and about the health risks associated with abusing such substances, and information about diseases and conditions transmitted through substance abuse and sexual contact, including HIV/AIDS, and to coordinate with providers of services addressing such problems, as appropriate.

["(5) COORDINATION WITH SPECIFIED PROGRAMS.—An undertaking to coordinate, as appropriate, with State and local entities responsible for the programs under parts A, B, and D of this title, including programs under title I of the Workforce Investment Act of 1998 (including the One-Stop delivery system), and such other programs as the Secretary may require.

["(6) RECORDS, REPORTS, AND AUDITS.—An agreement to maintain such records, make such reports, and cooperate with such reviews or audits as the Secretary may find necessary for purposes of oversight of project activities and expenditures.

["(7) SELF-INITIATED EVALUATION.—If the entity elects to contract for independent evaluation of the project (part or all of the cost of which may be paid for using grant funds), a commitment to submit to the Secretary a copy of the evaluation report within 30 days after completion of the report and not more than 1 year after completion of the project.

["(8) COOPERATION WITH SECRETARY'S OVERSIGHT AND EVALUATION.—An agreement to cooperate with the Secretary's evaluation of projects assisted under this section, by means including random assignment of clients to service recipient and control groups, if determined by the Secretary to be appropriate, and affording the Secretary access to the project and to project-related records and documents, staff, and clients.

["(c) ELIGIBILITY CRITERIA FOR LIMITED PURPOSE GRANTS.—In order to be eligible for a grant under this section in an amount under $25,000 per fiscal year, an entity shall submit an application to the Secretary containing the following:

["(1) PROJECT DESCRIPTION.—A description of the project and how it will be carried out, including the number and characteristics of clients to be served, the proposed duration of the project, and how it will address at least 1 of the 4 objectives specified in section 441(b)(1).

["(2) QUALIFICATIONS.—Such information as the Secretary may require as to the capacity of the entity to carry out the project, including any previous experience with similar activities.

["(3) COORDINATION WITH RELATED PROGRAMS.—As required by the Secretary in appropriate cases, an undertaking to coordinate and cooperate with State and local entities responsible for specific programs relating to the objectives of the project including, as appropriate, jobs programs and programs serving children and families.

["(4) RECORDS, REPORTS, AND AUDITS.—An agreement to maintain such records, make such reports, and cooperate with such reviews or audits as the Secretary may find necessary for purposes of oversight of project activities and expenditures.

["(5) COOPERATION WITH SECRETARY'S OVERSIGHT AND EVALUATION.—An agreement to cooperate with the Secretary's evaluation of projects assisted under this section, by means including affording the Secretary access to the project and to project-related records and documents, staff, and clients.

["(d) CONSIDERATIONS IN AWARING GRANTS.—

["(1) DIVERSITY OF PROJECTS.—In awarding grants under this section, the Secretary shall seek to achieve a balance among entities of differing sizes, entities in differing geographic areas, entities in urban and in rural areas, and entities employing differing methods of achieving the purposes of this section, including working with the State agency responsible for the administration of part D to help fathers satisfy child support arrearage obligations.

["(2) PREFERENCE FOR PROJECTS SERVING LOW-INCOME FATHERS.—In awarding grants under this section, the Secretary may give preference to applications for projects in which a majority of the clients to be served are low-income fathers.

["(e) FEDERAL SHARE.—

["(1) IN GENERAL.—Grants for a project under this section for a fiscal year shall be available for a share of the cost of such project in such fiscal year equal to—

["(A) up to 80 percent (or up to 90 percent, if the entity demonstrates to the Secretary's satisfaction circumstances limiting the entity's ability to secure non-Federal resources) in the case of a project under subsection (b); and

["(2) NON-FEDERAL SHARE.—The non-Federal share may be in cash or in kind. In determining the amount of the non-Federal share, the Secretary may attribute fair market value to goods, services, and facilities contributed from non-Federal sources.

["(a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary may make grants under this section for fiscal years 2004 through 2008 to eligible entities (as specified in subsection (b)) for 2 multicity, multistate projects demonstrating approaches to achieving the objectives specified in section 441(b)(1). One of the projects shall test the use of married couples to deliver program services.

["(b) ELIGIBLE ENTITIES.—An entity eligible for a grant under this section must be a national nonprofit fatherhood promotion organization that meets the following requirements:

["(1) EXPERIENCE WITH FATHERHOOD PROGRAMS.—The organization must have substantial experience in designing and successfully conducting programs that meet the purposes described in section 441.

["(2) EXPERIENCE WITH MULTICITY, MULTISTATE PROGRAMS AND GOVERNMENT COORDINATION.—The organization must have experience in simultaneously conducting such programs in more than 1 major metropolitan area in more than 1 State and in coordinating such programs, where appropriate, with State and local government agencies and private, nonprofit agencies (including community-based and religious organizations), including State or local agencies responsible for child support enforcement and workforce development.

["(c) APPLICATION REQUIREMENTS.—In order to be eligible for a grant under this section, an entity must submit to the Secretary an application that includes the following:

["(1) QUALIFICATIONS.—

["(B) OTHER.—Such other information as the Secretary may find necessary to demonstrate the entity's capacity to carry out the project, including the entity's ability to provide the non-Federal share of project resources.

["(2) PROJECT DESCRIPTION.—A description of and commitments concerning the project design, including the following:

["(A) IN GENERAL.—A detailed description of the proposed project design and how it will be carried out, which shall—

["(i) provide for the project to be conducted in at least 3 major metropolitan areas;

["(ii) state how it will address each of the 4 objectives specified in section 441(b)(1);

["(iii) demonstrate that there is a sufficient number of potential clients to allow for the random selection of individuals to participate in the project and for comparisons with appropriate control groups composed of individuals who have not participated in such projects; and

["(iv) demonstrate that the project is designed to direct a majority of project resources to activities serving low-income fathers (but the project need not make services available on a means-tested basis).

["(B) OVERSIGHT, EVALUATION, AND ADJUSTMENT COMPONENT.—An agreement that the entity—

["(i) in consultation with the evaluator selected pursuant to section 445, and as required by the Secretary, will modify the project design, initially and (if necessary) subsequently throughout the duration of the project, in order to facilitate ongoing and final oversight and evaluation of project operation and outcomes (by means including, to the maximum extent feasible, random assignment of clients to service recipient and control groups), and to provide for mid-course adjustments in project design indicated by interim evaluations;

["(ii) will submit to the Secretary revised descriptions of the project design as modified in accordance with clause (i); and

["(iii) will cooperate fully with the Secretary's ongoing oversight and ongoing and final evaluation of the project, by means including affording the Secretary access to the project and to project-related records and documents, staff, and clients.

["(3) ADDRESSING CHILD ABUSE AND NEGLECT AND DOMESTIC VIOLENCE.—A description of how the entity will assess for the presence of, and intervene to resolve, domestic violence and child abuse and neglect, including how the entity will coordinate with State and local child protective service and domestic violence programs.

["(4) ADDRESSING CONCERNS RELATING TO SUBSTANCE ABUSE AND SEXUAL ACTIVITY.—A commitment to make available to each individual participating in the project education about alcohol, tobacco, and other drugs, and about the health risks associated with abusing such substances, and information about diseases and conditions transmitted through substance abuse and sexual contact, including HIV/AIDS, and to coordinate with providers of services addressing such problems, as appropriate.

["(5) COORDINATION WITH SPECIFIED PROGRAMS.—An undertaking to coordinate, as appropriate, with State and local entities responsible for the programs funded under parts A, B, and D of this title, programs under title I of the Workforce Investment Act of 1998 (including the One-Stop delivery system), and such other programs as the Secretary may require.

["(6) RECORDS, REPORTS, AND AUDITS.—An agreement to maintain such records, make such reports, and cooperate with such reviews or audits (in addition to those required under the preceding provisions of paragraph (2)) as the Secretary may find necessary for purposes of oversight of project activities and expenditures.

["(d) FEDERAL SHARE.—

["(1) IN GENERAL.—Grants for a project under this section for a fiscal year shall be available for up to 80 percent of the cost of such project in such fiscal year.

["(2) NON-FEDERAL SHARE.—The non-Federal share may be in cash or in kind. In determining the amount of the non-Federal share, the Secretary may attribute fair market value to goods, services, and facilities contributed from non-Federal sources.

["(a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary, directly or by contract or cooperative agreement, shall evaluate the effectiveness of service projects funded under sections 443 and 444 from the standpoint of the purposes specified in section 441(b)(1).

["(b) EVALUATION METHODOLOGY.—Evaluations under this section shall—

["(1) include, to the maximum extent feasible, random assignment of clients to service delivery and control groups and other appropriate comparisons of groups of individuals receiving and not receiving services;

["(2) describe and measure the effectiveness of the projects in achieving their specific project goals; and

["(3) describe and assess, as appropriate, the impact of such projects on marriage, parenting, domestic violence, child abuse and neglect, money management, employment and earnings, payment of child support, and child well-being, health, and education.

["(c) EVALUATION REPORTS.—The Secretary shall publish the following reports on the results of the evaluation:

["(1) An implementation evaluation report covering the first 24 months of the activities under this part to be completed by 36 months after initiation of such activities.

["The Secretary is authorized, by grant, contract, or cooperative agreement, to carry out projects and activities of national significance relating to fatherhood promotion, including—

["(1) COLLECTION AND DISSEMINATION OF INFORMATION.—Assisting States, communities, and private entities, including religious organizations, in efforts to promote and support marriage and responsible fatherhood by collecting, evaluating, developing, and making available (through the Internet and by other means) to all interested parties information regarding approaches to accomplishing the objectives specified in section 441(b)(1).

["(2) MEDIA CAMPAIGN.—Developing, promoting, and distributing to interested States, local governments, public agencies, and private nonprofit organizations, including charitable and religious organizations, a media campaign that promotes and encourages involved, committed, and responsible fatherhood and married fatherhood.

["(3) TECHNICAL ASSISTANCE.—Providing technical assistance, including consultation and training, to public and private entities, including community organizations and faith-based organizations, in the implementation of local fatherhood promotion programs.

["The projects and activities assisted under this part shall be available on the same basis to all fathers and expectant fathers able to benefit from such projects and activities, including married and unmarried fathers and custodial and noncustodial fathers, with particular attention to low-income fathers, and to mothers and expectant mothers on the same basis as to fathers.

["(a) AUTHORIZATION.—There are authorized to be appropriated $20,000,000 for each of fiscal years 2004 through 2008 to carry out the provisions of this part.

["(b) RESERVATION.—Of the amount appropriated under this section for each fiscal year, not more than 15 percent shall be available for the costs of the multicounty, multicounty, multistate demonstration projects under section 444, evaluations under section 445, and projects of national significance under section 446.

["(b) INAPPLICABILITY OF EFFECTIVE DATE PROVISIONS.—Section 116 shall not apply to the amendment made by subsection (a) of this section."

["(2) CLERICAL AMENDMENT.—Section 2 of such Act is amended in the table of contents by inserting after the item relating to section 116 the following new item:

["Sec. 117. Fatherhood program."

["SEC. 120. STATE OPTION TO MAKE TANF PROGRAMS MANDATORY PARTNERS WITH ONE-STOP EMPLOYMENT TRAINING CENTERS.

["Section 408 of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 608) is amended by adding at the end the following:

["(h) STATE OPTION TO MAKE TANF PROGRAMS MANDATORY PARTNERS WITH ONE-STOP

EMPLOYMENT TRAINING CENTERS.—For purposes of section 121(b) of the Workforce Investment Act of 1998, a State program funded under part A of title IV of the Social Security Act shall be considered a program referred to in paragraph (1)(B) of such section, unless, after the date of the enactment of this subsection, the Governor of the State notifies the Secretaries of Health and Human Services and Labor in writing of the decision of the Governor not to make the State program a mandatory partner."

["(e)(1) The Commissioner of Social Security shall review determinations, made by

State agencies pursuant to subsection (a) in connection with applications for benefits under this title on the basis of blindness or disability, that individuals who have attained 18 years of age are blind or disabled as of a specified onset date. The Commissioner of Social Security shall review such a determination before any action is taken to implement the determination.

“(2)(A) In carrying out paragraph (1), the Commissioner of Social Security shall review—

“(i) at least 20 percent of all determinations referred to in paragraph (1) that are made in fiscal year 2004;

“(ii) at least 40 percent of all such determinations that are made in fiscal year 2005; and

“(iii) at least 50 percent of all such determinations that are made in fiscal year 2006 or thereafter.

“(B) In carrying out subparagraph (A), the Commissioner of Social Security shall, to the extent feasible, select for review the determinations which the Commissioner of Social Security identifies as being the most likely to be incorrect.”

[TITLE VI—STATE AND LOCAL FLEXIBILITY]

[SEC. 601. PROGRAM COORDINATION DEMONSTRATION PROJECTS.]

“(a) PURPOSE.—The purpose of this section is to establish a program of demonstration projects in a State or portion of a State to coordinate multiple public assistance, workforce development, and other programs, for the purpose of supporting working individuals and families, helping families escape welfare dependency, promoting child well-being, or helping build stronger families, using innovative approaches to strengthen service systems and provide more coordinated and effective service delivery.

“(b) DEFINITIONS.—In this section:

“(1) ADMINISTERING SECRETARY.—The term “administering Secretary” means, with respect to a qualified program, the head of the Federal agency responsible for administering the program.

“(2) QUALIFIED PROGRAM.—The term “qualified program” means—

“(A) a program under part A of title IV of the Social Security Act;

“(B) the program under title XX of such Act;

“(C) activities funded under title I of the Workforce Investment Act of 1998, except subtitle C of such title;

“(D) a demonstration project authorized under section 505 of the Family Support Act of 1988;

“(E) activities funded under the Wagner-Peyser Act;

“(F) activities funded under the Adult Education and Family Literacy Act;

“(G) activities funded under the Child Care and Development Block Grant Act of 1990;

“(H) activities funded under the United States Housing Act of 1937 (42 U.S.C. 1437 et seq.), except that such term shall not include—

“(i) any program for rental assistance under section 8 of such Act (42 U.S.C. 1437f); and

“(ii) the program under section 7 of such Act (42 U.S.C. 1437e) for designating public housing for occupancy by certain populations;

“(I) activities funded under title I, II, III, or IV of the McKinney-Vento Homeless Assistance Act (42 U.S.C. 11301 et seq.); or “(J) the food stamp program as defined in section 3(h) of the Food Stamp Act of 1977 (7 U.S.C. 2012(h)).

“(c) APPLICATION REQUIREMENTS.—The head of a State entity or of a sub-State entity administering 2 or more qualified programs proposed to be included in a demonstration project under this section shall (or, if the project is proposed to include qualified programs administered by 2 or more such entities, the heads of the administering entities (each of whom shall be considered an applicant for purposes of this section) shall jointly) submit to the administering Secretary of each such program an application that contains the following:

“(1) PROGRAMS INCLUDED.—A statement identifying each qualified program to be included in the project, and describing how the purposes of each such program will be achieved by the project.

“(2) POPULATION SERVED.—A statement identifying the population to be served by the project and specifying the eligibility criteria to be used.

“(3) DESCRIPTION AND JUSTIFICATION.—A detailed description of the project, including—

“(A) a description of how the project is expected to improve or enhance achievement of the purposes of the programs to be included in the project, from the standpoint of quality, of cost-effectiveness, or of both; and

“(B) a description of the performance objectives for the project, including any proposed modifications to the performance measures and reporting requirements used in the programs.

“(4) WAIVERS REQUESTED.—A description of the statutory and regulatory requirements with respect to which a waiver is requested in order to carry out the project, and a justification of the need for each such waiver.

“(5) COST NEUTRALITY.—Such information and assurances as necessary to establish to the satisfaction of the administering Secretary, in consultation with the Director of the Office of Management and Budget, that the proposed project is reasonably expected to meet the applicable cost neutrality requirements of subsection (d)(4).

“(6) EVALUATION AND REPORTS.—An assurance that the applicant will conduct ongoing and final evaluations of the project, and make interim and final reports to the administering Secretary, at such times and in such manner as the administering Secretary may require.

“(7) PUBLIC HOUSING AGENCY PLAN.—In the case of an application proposing a demonstration project that includes activities referred to in subsection (b)(2)(H) of this section—

“(A) a certification that the applicable annual public housing agency plan of any agency affected by the project that is approved under section 5A of the United States Housing Act of 1937 (42 U.S.C. 1437c-1) by the Secretary includes the information specified in paragraphs (1) through (4) of this subsection; and

“(B) any resident advisory board recommendations, and other information, relating to the project that, pursuant to section 5A(e)(2) of the United States Housing Act of 1937 (42 U.S.C. 1437c-1(e)(2)), is required to be included in the public housing agency plan of any public housing agency affected by the project.

“(8) OTHER INFORMATION AND ASSURANCES.—Such other information and assurances as the administering Secretary may require.

“(d) APPROVAL OF APPLICATIONS.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—The administering Secretary with respect to a qualified program that is identified in an application submitted pursuant to subsection (c) may approve the application and, except as provided in paragraph (2), waive any requirement applicable to the program, to the extent consistent with this section and necessary and appropriate for the conduct of the demonstration project proposed in the application, if the administering Secretary determines that the project—

“(A) has a reasonable likelihood of achieving the objectives of the programs to be included in the project;

“(B) may reasonably be expected to meet the applicable cost neutrality requirements of paragraph (4), as determined by the Director of the Office of Management and Budget; and “(C) includes the coordination of 2 or more qualified programs.

“(2) PROVISIONS EXCLUDED FROM WAIVER AUTHORITY.—A waiver shall not be granted under paragraph (1)—

“(A) with respect to any provision of law relating to—

“(i) civil rights or prohibition of discrimination;

“(ii) purposes or goals of any program;

“(iii) maintenance of effort requirements;

“(iv) health or safety;

“(v) labor standards under the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938; or

“(vi) environmental protection;

“(B) with respect to section 241(a) of the Adult Education and Family Literacy Act;

“(C) in the case of a program under the United States Housing Act of 1937 (42 U.S.C. 1437 et seq.), with respect to any requirement under section 5A of such Act (42 U.S.C. 1437c-1); relating to public housing agency plans and resident advisory boards);

“(D) in the case of a program under the Workforce Investment Act, with respect to any requirement the waiver of which would violate section 189(i)(4)(A)(i) of such Act;

“(E) in the case of the food stamp program (as defined in section 3(h) of the Food Stamp Act of 1977 (7 U.S.C. 2012(h))), with respect to any requirement under—

“(i) section 6 (if waiving a requirement under such section would have the effect of expanding eligibility for the program), 7(b) or 16(c) of the Food Stamp Act of 1977 (7 U.S.C. 2011 et seq.); or

“(ii) title IV of the Personal Responsibility and Work Opportunity Reconciliation Act of 1996 (8 U.S.C. 1601 et seq.);

“(F) with respect to any requirement that a State pass through to a sub-State entity part or all of an amount paid to the State;

“(G) if the waiver would waive any funding restriction or limitation provided in an appropriations Act, or would have the effect of transferring appropriated funds from 1 appropriations account to another; or

“(H) except as otherwise provided by statute, if the waiver would waive any funding restriction applicable to a program authorized under an Act which is not an appropriations Act (but not including program requirements such as application procedures, performance standards, reporting requirements, or eligibility standards), or would have the effect of transferring funds from a program for which there is direct spending (as defined in section 250(c)(8) of the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985) to another program.

“(3) AGREEMENT OF EACH ADMINISTERING SECRETARY REQUIRED.—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—An applicant may not conduct a demonstration project under this section unless each administering Secretary with respect to any program proposed to be included in the project has approved the application to conduct the project.

“(B) AGREEMENT WITH RESPECT TO FUNDING AND IMPLEMENTATION.—Before approving an application to conduct a demonstration project under this section, an administering Secretary shall have in place an agreement with the applicant with respect to the payment of funds and responsibilities required of the administering Secretary with respect to the project.

“(4) COST-NEUTRALITY REQUIREMENT.—

“(A) GENERAL RULE.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law (except subparagraph

(B)), the total of the amounts that may be paid by the Federal Government for a fiscal year with respect to the programs in the State in which an entity conducting a demonstration project under this section is located that are affected by the project shall not exceed the estimated total amount that the Federal Government would have paid for the fiscal year with respect to the programs if the project had not been conducted, as determined by the Director of the Office of Management and Budget.

[(B) SPECIAL RULE.—If an applicant submits to the Director of the Office of Management and Budget a request to apply the rules of this subparagraph to the programs in the State in which the applicant is located that are affected by a demonstration project proposed in an application submitted by the applicant pursuant to this section, during such period of not more than 5 consecutive fiscal years in which the project is in effect, and the Director determines, on the basis of supporting information provided by the applicant, to grant the request, then, notwithstanding any other provision of law, the total of the amounts that may be paid by the Federal Government for the period with respect to the programs shall not exceed the estimated total amount that the Federal Government would have paid for the period with respect to the programs if the project had not been conducted.

[(5) 90-DAY APPROVAL DEADLINE.—

[(A) IN GENERAL.—If an administering Secretary receives an application to conduct a demonstration project under this section and does not disapprove the application within 90 days after the receipt, then—

[(i) the administering Secretary is deemed to have approved the application for such period as is requested in the application, except to the extent inconsistent with subsection (e); and

[(ii) any waiver requested in the application which applies to a qualified program that is identified in the application and is administered by the administering Secretary is deemed to be granted, except to the extent inconsistent with paragraph (2) or (4) of this subsection.

[(B) DEADLINE EXTENDED IF ADDITIONAL INFORMATION IS SOUGHT.—The 90-day period referred to in subparagraph (A) shall not include any period that begins with the date the Secretary requests the applicant to provide additional information with respect to the application and ends with the date the additional information is provided.

[(e) DURATION OF PROJECTS.—A demonstration project under this section may be approved for a term of not more than 5 years.

[(f) REPORTS TO CONGRESS.—

[(1) REPORT ON DISPOSITION OF APPLICATIONS.—Within 90 days after an administering Secretary receives an application submitted pursuant to this section, the administering Secretary shall submit to each Committee of the Congress which has jurisdiction over a qualified program identified in the application notice of the receipt, a description of the decision of the administering Secretary with respect to the application, and the reasons for approving or disapproving the application.

[(2) REPORTS ON PROJECTS.—Each administering Secretary shall provide annually to the Congress a report concerning demonstration projects approved under this section, including—

[(A) the projects approved for each applicant;

[(B) the number of waivers granted under this section, and the specific statutory provisions waived;

[(C) how well each project for which a waiver is granted is improving or enhancing program achievement from the standpoint of quality, cost-effectiveness, or both;

[(D) how well each project for which a waiver is granted is meeting the performance objectives specified in subsection (c)(3)(B);

[(E) how each project for which a waiver is granted is conforming with the cost-neutrality requirements of subsection (d)(4); and

[(F) to the extent the administering Secretary deems appropriate, recommendations for modification of programs based on outcomes of the projects.

[(g) AMENDMENT TO UNITED STATES HOUSING ACT OF 1937.—Section 5A(d) of the United States Housing Act of 1937 (42 U.S.C. 1437c-1(d)) is amended—

[(1) by redesignating paragraph (18) as paragraph (19); and

[(2) by inserting after paragraph (17) the following new paragraph:

["(18) PROGRAM COORDINATION DEMONSTRATION PROJECTS.—In the case of an agency that administers an activity referred to in section 701(b)(2)(H) of the Personal Responsibility, Work, and Family Promotion Act of 2003 that, during such fiscal year, will be included in a demonstration project under section 701 of such Act, the information that is required to be included in the application for the project pursuant to paragraphs (1) through (4) of section 701(b) of such Act.".]

["(a) ESTABLISHMENT.—The Secretary shall establish a program to make grants to States in accordance with this section to provide—

["(1) food assistance to needy individuals and families residing in the State;

["(2) funds to operate an employment and training program under subsection (g) for needy individuals under the program; and

["(3) funds for administrative costs incurred in providing the assistance.

["(b) ELECTION.—

["(2) ELECTION REVOCABLE.—A State that elects to participate in the program established under subsection (a) may subsequently reverse the election of the State only once thereafter. Following the reversal, the State shall only be eligible to participate in the food stamp program in accordance with the other sections of this Act and shall not receive a block grant under this section.

["(3) PROGRAM EXCLUSIVE.—A State that is participating in the program established under subsection (a) shall not be subject to, or receive any benefit under, this Act except as provided in this section.

["(c) LEAD AGENCY.—

["(1) DESIGNATION.—A State desiring to participate in the program established under subsection (a) shall designate, in an application submitted to the Secretary under subsection (d)(1), an appropriate State agency that complies with paragraph (2) to act as the lead agency for the State.

["(2) DUTIES.—The lead agency shall—

["(A) administer, either directly, through other State agencies, or through local agencies, the assistance received under this section by the State;

["(B) develop the State plan to be submitted to the Secretary under subsection (d)(1); and ["(C) coordinate the provision of food assistance under this section with other Federal, State, and local programs.

["(d) APPLICATION AND PLAN.—

["(1) APPLICATION.—To be eligible to receive assistance under this section, a State shall prepare and submit to the Secretary an application at such time, in such manner, and containing such information as the Secretary shall by regulation require, including—

["(A) an assurance that the State will comply with the requirements of this section;

["(B) a State plan that meets the requirements of paragraph (2); and ["(C) an assurance that the State will comply with the requirements of the State plan under paragraph (2).

["(2) REQUIREMENTS OF PLAN.—

["(A) LEAD AGENCY.—The State plan shall identify the lead agency.

["(B) USE OF BLOCK GRANT FUNDS.—The State plan shall provide that the State shall use the amounts provided to the State for each fiscal year under this section—

["(i) to provide food assistance to needy individuals and families residing in the State, other than residents of institutions who are ineligible for food stamps under section 3(i);

["(ii) to administer an employment and training program under subsection (g) for needy individuals under the program and to provide reimbursements to needy individuals and families as would be allowed under section 16(h)(3); and

["(iii) to pay administrative costs incurred in providing the assistance.

["(C) ASSISTANCE FOR ENTIRE STATE.—The State plan shall provide that benefits under this section shall be available throughout the entire State.

["(D) NOTICE AND HEARINGS.—The State plan shall provide that an individual or family who applies for, or receives, assistance under this section shall be provided with notice of, and an opportunity for a hearing on, any action under this section that adversely affects the individual or family.

["(E) OTHER ASSISTANCE.—

["(i) COORDINATION.—The State plan may coordinate assistance received under this section with assistance provided under the State program funded under part A of title IV of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 601 et seq.).

["(ii) PENALTIES.—If an individual or family is penalized for violating part A of title IV of the Act, the State plan may reduce the amount of assistance provided under this section or otherwise penalize the individual or family.

["(F) ELIGIBILITY LIMITATIONS.—The State plan shall describe the income and resource eligibility limitations that are established for the receipt of assistance under this section.

["(G) RECEIVING BENEFITS IN MORE THAN 1 JURISDICTION.—The State plan shall establish a system to verify and otherwise ensure that no individual or family shall receive benefits under this section in more than 1 jurisdiction within the State.

["(H) PRIVACY.—The State plan shall provide for safeguarding and restricting the use and disclosure of information about any individual or family receiving assistance under this section.

["(I) OTHER INFORMATION.—The State plan shall contain such other information as may be required by the Secretary.

["(3) APPROVAL OF APPLICATION AND PLAN.—During fiscal years 2004 through 2008, the Secretary may approve the applications and State plans that satisfy the requirements of this section of not more than 5 States for a term of not more than 5 years.

["(e) CONSTRUCTION OF FACILITIES.—No funds made available under this section shall be expended for the purchase or improvement of land, or for the purchase, construction, or permanent improvement of any building or facility.

["(f) BENEFITS FOR ALIENS.—No individual shall be eligible to receive benefits under a State plan approved under subsection (d)(3) if the individual is not eligible to participate in the food stamp program under title IV of the Personal Responsibility and Work Opportunity Reconciliation Act of 1996 (8 U.S.C. 1601 et seq.).

["(g) EMPLOYMENT AND TRAINING.—Each State shall implement an employment and training program for needy individuals under the program.

["(h) ENFORCEMENT.—

["(i) REVIEW OF COMPLIANCE WITH STATE PLAN.—The Secretary shall review and monitor State compliance with this section and the State plan approved under subsection (d)(3).

["(2) NONCOMPLIANCE.—

["(A) IN GENERAL.—If the Secretary, after reasonable notice to a State and opportunity for a hearing, finds that—

["(i) there has been a failure by the State to comply substantially with any provision or requirement set forth in the State plan approved under subsection (d)(3); or ["(ii) in the operation of any program or activity for which assistance is provided under this section, there is a failure by the State to comply substantially with any provision of this section, the Secretary shall notify the State of the finding and that no further payments will be made to the State under this section (or, in the case of non-compliance in the operation of a program or activity, that no further payments to the State will be made with respect to the program or activity) until the Secretary is satisfied that there is no longer any failure to comply or that the noncompliance will be promptly corrected.

["(B) OTHER SANCTIONS.—In the case of a finding of noncompliance made pursuant to subparagraph (A), the Secretary may, in addition to, or in lieu of, imposing the sanctions described in subparagraph (A), impose other appropriate sanctions, including recoupment of money improperly expended for purposes prohibited or not authorized by this section and disqualification from the receipt of financial assistance under this section.

["(C) NOTICE.—The notice required under subparagraph (A) shall include a specific identification of any additional sanction being imposed under subparagraph (B).

["(3) ISSUANCE OF REGULATIONS.—The Secretary shall establish by regulation procedures for—

["(A) receiving, processing, and determining the validity of complaints concerning any failure of a State to comply with the State plan or any requirement of this section; and

["(i) PAYMENTS.—

["(1) IN GENERAL.—For each fiscal year, the Secretary shall pay to a State that has an application approved by the Secretary under subsection (d)(3) an amount that is equal to the allotment of the State under subsection (1)(2) for the fiscal year.

["(2) METHOD OF PAYMENT.—The Secretary shall make payments to a State for a fiscal year under this section by issuing 1 or more letters of credit for the fiscal year, with necessary adjustments on account of overpayments or underpayments, as determined by the Secretary.

["(3) SPENDING OF FUNDS BY STATE.—

["(A) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in subparagraph (B), payments to a State from an allotment under subsection (1)(2) for a fiscal year may be expended by the State only in the fiscal year.

["(B) CARRYOVER.—The State may reserve up to 10 percent of an allotment under subsection (1)(2) for a fiscal year to provide assistance under this section in subsequent fiscal years, except that the reserved funds may not exceed 30 percent of the total allotment received under this section for a fiscal year.

["(4) PROVISION OF FOOD ASSISTANCE.—A State may provide food assistance under this section in any manner determined appropriate by the State to provide food assistance to needy individuals and families in the State, such as electronic benefits transfer limited to food purchases, coupons limited to food purchases, or direct provision of commodities.

["(5) DEFINITION OF FOOD ASSISTANCE.—In this section, the term 'food assistance' means assistance that may be used only to obtain food, as defined in section 3(g).

["(j) AUDITS.—

["(1) REQUIREMENT.—After the close of each fiscal year, a State shall arrange for an audit of the expenditures of the State during the program period from amounts received under this section.

["(2) INDEPENDENT AUDITOR.—An audit under this section shall be conducted by an entity that is independent of any agency administering activities that receive assistance under this section and be in accordance with generally accepted auditing principles.

["(3) PAYMENT ACCURACY.—Each annual audit under this section shall include an audit of payment accuracy under this section that shall be based on a statistically valid sample of the caseload in the State.

["(4) SUBMISSION.—Not later than 30 days after the completion of an audit under this section, the State shall submit a copy of the audit to the legislature of the State and to the Secretary.

["(5) REPAYMENT OF AMOUNTS.—Each State shall repay to the United States any amounts determined through an audit under this section to have not been expended in accordance with this section or to have not been expended in accordance with the State plan, or the Secretary may offset the amounts against any other amount paid to the State under this section.

["(k) NONDISCRIMINATION.—

["(1) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall not provide financial assistance for any program, project, or activity under this section if any person with responsibilities for the operation of the program, project, or activity discriminates with respect to the program, project, or activity because of race, religion, color, national origin, sex, or disability.

["(2) ENFORCEMENT.—The powers, remedies, and procedures set forth in title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 (42 U.S.C. 2000d et seq.) may be used by the Secretary to enforce paragraph (1).

["(l) ALLOTMENTS.—

["(1) DEFINITION OF STATE.—In this section, the term 'State' means each of the 50 States, the District of Columbia, Guam, and the Virgin Islands of the United States.

["(2) STATE ALLOTMENT.—

["(A) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in subparagraph (B), from the amounts made available under section 18 of this Act for each fiscal year, the Secretary shall allot to each State participating in the program established under subsection (a) an amount that is equal to the sum of—

["(i) the greater of, as determined by the Secretary—

["(I) the total dollar value of all benefits issued under the food stamp program established under this Act by the State during fiscal year 2003; or

["(II) the average per fiscal year of the total dollar value of all benefits issued under the food stamp program by the State during each of fiscal years 2001 through 2003; and

["(ii) the greater of, as determined by the Secretary—

["(I) the total amount received by the State for administrative costs and the employment and training program under subsections (a) and (h), respectively, of section 16 of this Act for fiscal year 2003; or ["(II) the average per fiscal year of the total amount received by the State for administrative costs and the employment and training program under subsections (a) and (h), respectively, of section 16 of this Act for each of fiscal years 2001 through 2003.

["(B) INSUFFICIENT FUNDS.—If the Secretary finds that the total amount of allotments to which States would otherwise be entitled for a fiscal year under subparagraph (A) will exceed the amount of funds that will be made available to provide the allotments for the fiscal year, the Secretary shall reduce the allotments made to States under this subsection, on a pro rata basis, to the extent necessary to allot under this subsection a total amount that is equal to the funds that will be made available."

[TITLE VII—ABSTINENCE EDUCATION

["(a) EXTENSION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—Section 510(d) (42 U.S.C. 710(d)) is amended by striking "2002" and inserting "2008".

["(b) ALLOTMENT OF FUNDS.—Section 510(a) (42 U.S.C. 710(a)) is amended—

["(1) in the matter preceding paragraph (1), by striking "an application for the fiscal year under section 505(a)" and inserting "for the fiscal year, an application under section 505(a), and an application under this section (in such form and meeting such terms and conditions as determined appropriate by the Secretary)."; and

["(2) in paragraph (2), to read as follows:

["(2) the percentage that would be determined for the State under section 502(c)(1)(B)(ii) if the calculation under such section took into consideration only those States that transmitted both such applications for such fiscal year."

["(c) REALLOTMENT OF FUNDS.—Section 510 (42 U.S.C. 710(a)) is amended by adding at the end the following new subsection:

["(e)(1) With respect to allotments under subsection (a) for fiscal year 2004 and subsequent fiscal years, the amount of any allotment to a State for a fiscal year that the Secretary determines will not be required to carry out a program under this section during such fiscal year or the succeeding fiscal year shall be available for reallocation from time to time during such fiscal years on such dates as the Secretary may fix, to other States that the Secretary determines—

["(A) require amounts in excess of amounts previously allotted under subsection (a) to carry out a program under this section; and

["(2) Reallocation under paragraph (1) shall be made on the basis of such States' applications under this section, after taking into consideration the population of low-income children in each such State as compared with the population of low-income children in all such States with respect to which a determination under paragraph (1) has been made by the Secretary.

["(3) Any amount reallocated under paragraph (1) to a State is deemed to be part of its allotment under subsection (a)."

["(d) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall be effective with respect to the program under section 510 for fiscal years 2004 and succeeding fiscal years.

[TITLE VIII—TRANSITIONAL MEDICAL ASSISTANCE]

[SEC. 801. EXTENSION OF MEDICAID TRANSITIONAL MEDICAL ASSISTANCE PROGRAM THROUGH FISCAL YEAR 2004.]

[(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 1925(f) (42 U.S.C. 1396r-6(f)) is amended by striking “2002” and inserting “2004”.

[(b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—Section 1902(e)(1)(B) (42 U.S.C. 1396a(e)(1)(B)) is amended by striking “September 30, 2002” and inserting “the last date (if any) on which section 1925 applies under subsection (f) of that section”.

[(c) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall take effect October 1, 2003.

[SEC. 802. ADJUSTMENT TO PAYMENTS FOR MEDICAID ADMINISTRATIVE COSTS TO PREVENT DUPLICATIVE PAYMENTS AND TO FUND EXTENSION OF TRANSITIONAL MEDICAL ASSISTANCE.]

[Section 1903 (42 U.S.C. 1396b) is amended—

[(1) in subsection (a)(7), by striking “section 1919(g)(3)(B)” and inserting “subsection (x) and section 1919(g)(3)(C)”; and

[(2) by adding at the end the following:

[(x) ADJUSTMENTS TO PAYMENTS FOR ADMINISTRATIVE COSTS TO FUND EXTENSION OF TRANSITIONAL MEDICAL ASSISTANCE.—

[(1) REDUCTIONS IN PAYMENTS FOR ADMINISTRATIVE COSTS.—Effective for each calendar quarter in fiscal year 2004 and fiscal year 2005, the Secretary shall reduce the amount paid under subsection (a)(7) to each State by an amount equal to 45 percent for fiscal year 2004, and 80 percent for fiscal year 2005, of one-quarter of the annualized amount determined for the medicaid program under section 16(k)(2)(B) of the Food Stamp Act of 1977 (7 U.S.C. 2025(k)(2)(B)).

[(2) ALLOCATION OF ADMINISTRATIVE COSTS.—None of the funds or expenditures described in section 16(k)(5)(B) of the Food Stamp Act of 1977 (7 U.S.C. 2025(k)(5)(B)) may be used to pay for costs—

[(A) eligible for reimbursement under subsection (a)(7) (or costs that would have been eligible for reimbursement but for this subsection); and

[(B) allocated for reimbursement to the program under this title under a plan submitted by a State to the Secretary to allocate administrative costs for public assistance programs; except that, for purposes of subparagraph (A), the reference in clause (iii) of that section to ‘subsection (a)’ is deemed a reference to subsection (a)(7) and clause (iv)(II) of that section shall be applied as if ‘medicaid program’ were substituted for ‘food stamp program’.”.

[TITLE IX—EFFECTIVE DATE]

[SEC. 901. EFFECTIVE DATE.]

[(a) IN GENERAL.—Except as otherwise provided, the amendments made by this Act shall take effect on the date of the enactment of this Act.

[(b) EXCEPTION.—In the case of a State plan under part A or D of title IV of the Social Security Act which the Secretary determines requires State legislation in order for the plan to meet the additional requirements imposed by the amendments made by this Act, the effective date of the amendments imposing the additional requirements shall be 3 months after the first day of the first calendar quarter beginning after the close of the first regular session of the State legislature that begins after the date of the enactment of this Act. For purposes of the preceding sentence, in the case of a State that has a 2-year legislative session, each year of the session shall be considered to be a separate regular session of the State legislature.]

TITLE I—TANF

SEC. 101. STATE PLAN.

(a) PERFORMANCE IMPROVEMENT.—Section 402(a) (42 U.S.C. 602(a)) is amended—

(1) in paragraph (1)—

(A) in subparagraph (A)—

(i) by redesignating clause (vi) as clause (vii); and

(ii) by striking clause (v) and inserting the following:

“(v) Establish specific measurable performance objectives for pursuing the purposes of the program under this part as described in section 401(a), including by—

“(I) establishing objectives consistent (as determined by the State) with the criteria used by the Secretary in establishing performance targets under section 403(a)(4)(C) (including with respect to workplace attachment and advancement), and with such additional criteria related to other purposes of the program under this part as described in section 401(a) as the Secretary, in consultation with the National Governors’ Association and the American Public Human Services Association, shall establish; and “(II) describing the methodology that the State will use to measure State performance in relation to each such objective.

“(vi) Describe any strategies and programs the State plans to use to address—

“(I) employment retention and advancement for recipients of assistance under the program, including placement into high-demand jobs, and whether the jobs are identified using labor market information;

“(II) efforts to reduce teen pregnancy;

“(III) services for struggling and noncompliant families, and for clients with special problems; and

“(IV) program integration, including the extent to which employment and training services under the program are provided through the One-Stop delivery system created under the Workforce Investment Act of 1998, and the extent to which former recipients of such assistance have access to additional core, intensive, or training services funded through such Act.”; and

(B) in subparagraph (B)—

(i) by striking clauses (i) and (iv);

(ii) by redesignating clauses (ii) and (iii) as clauses (i) and (ii), respectively; and

(iii) by inserting after clause (ii) (as so redesignated by clause (ii)) the following:

“(iii) If the State is undertaking any strategies or programs to engage faith-based organizations in the provision of services funded under this part, or that otherwise relate to section 104 of the Personal Responsibility and Work Opportunity Reconciliation Act of 1996, the document shall describe such strategies and programs.

“(iv) The document shall describe strategies to improve program management and performance.

“(v) The document shall include a performance report which details State progress toward full engagement for all adult or minor child head of household recipients of assistance.”;

(2) in paragraph (4), by inserting “and tribal” after “that local”; and

(3) by adding at the end the following:

“(8) CERTIFICATION OF CONSULTATION ON PROVISION OF TRANSPORTATION AID.—In the case of a State that provides transportation aid under the State program, a certification by the chief executive officer of the State that State and local transportation agencies and planning bodies have been consulted in the development of the plan.”.

(b) PROCEDURES FOR SUBMITTING AND AMENDING STATE PLANS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Subsection (b) of section 402 (42 U.S.C. 602(b)) is amended to read as follows:

“(b) PROCEDURES FOR SUBMITTING AND AMENDING STATE PLANS.—

“(1) STANDARD STATE PLAN FORMAT.—The Secretary shall, after notice and public comment, develop a proposed Standard State Plan Form to be used by States under subsection (a). Such form shall be finalized by the Secretary for use by States not later than 9 months after the date of enactment of the Personal Responsibility and Individual Development for Everyone Act.

“(2) REQUIREMENT FOR COMPLETED PLAN USING STANDARD STATE PLAN FORMAT BY FISCAL YEAR 2005.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, each State shall submit a complete State plan, using the Standard State Plan Form developed under paragraph (1), not later than October 1, 2004.

“(3) PUBLIC NOTICE AND COMMENT.—Prior to submitting a State plan to the Secretary under this section, the State shall—

“(A) make the proposed State plan available to the public through an appropriate State maintained Internet website and through other means as the State determines appropriate;

“(B) allow for a reasonable public comment period of not less than 45 days; and

“(C) make comments received concerning such plan or, at the discretion of the State, a summary of the comments received available to the public through such website and through other means as the State determines appropriate.

“(4) PUBLIC AVAILABILITY OF STATE PLAN.—A State shall ensure that the State plan that is in effect for any fiscal year is available to the public through an appropriate State maintained Internet website and through other means as the State determines appropriate.

“(5) AMENDING THE STATE PLAN.—A State shall file an amendment to the State plan with the Secretary if the State determines that there has been a material change in any information required to be included in the State plan or any other information that the State has included in the plan, including substantial changes in the use of funding. Prior to submitting an amendment to the State plan to the Secretary, the State shall—

“(A) make the proposed amendment available to the public as provided for in paragraph (3)(A);

“(B) allow for a reasonable public comment period of not less than 45 days; and

“(C) make the comments available as provided for in paragraph (3)(C).”.

(a) STATE PLANS.—Section 402(a)(1)(A) (42 U.S.C. 602(a)(1)(A)), as amended by section 101(a), is amended by adding at the end the following:

“(viii) Encourage equitable treatment of healthy 2-parent married families under the program referred to in clause (i).”.

(b) HEALTHY MARRIAGE PROMOTION GRANTS; REPEAL OF BONUS FOR REDUCTION OF ILLEGITIMACY RATIO.—Section 403(a)(2) (42 U.S.C. 603(a)(2)) is amended to read as follows:

“(2) HEALTHY MARRIAGE PROMOTION GRANTS.—

“(A) AUTHORITY.—

“(i) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall award competitive grants to States, territories, and Indian tribes and tribal organizations for not more than 50 percent of the cost of developing and implementing innovative programs to promote and support healthy 2-parent married families.

“(ii) USE OF OTHER TANF FUNDS.—A State or Indian tribe with an approved tribal family assistance plan may use funds provided under other grants made under this part for all or part of the expenditures incurred for the remainder of the costs described in clause (i). In the case of a State, any such funds expended shall not be considered qualified State expenditures for purposes of section 409(a)(7).

“(B) HEALTHY MARRIAGE PROMOTION ACTIVITIES.—Funds provided under subparagraph (A) shall be used to support any of the following programs or activities:

“(i) Public advertising campaigns on the value of marriage and the skills needed to increase marital stability and health.

“(ii) Education in high schools on the value of marriage, relationship skills, and budgeting.

“(iii) Marriage education, marriage skills, and relationship skills programs, that may include parenting skills, financial management, conflict resolution, and job and career advancement, for non-married pregnant women, non-married expectant fathers, and non-married recent parents.

“(iv) Pre-marital education and marriage skills training for engaged couples and for couples or individuals interested in marriage.

“(vi) Divorce reduction programs that teach relationship skills.

“(vii) Marriage mentoring programs which use married couples as role models and mentors.

“(viii) Programs to reduce the disincentives to marriage in means-tested aid programs, if offered in conjunction with any activity described in this subparagraph.

“(C) VOLUNTARY PARTICIPATION.—Participation in programs or activities described in any of clauses (iii) through (vii) shall be voluntary.

“(D) GENERAL RULES GOVERNING USE OF FUNDS.—The rules of section 404, other than subsection (b) of that section, shall not apply to a grant made under this paragraph.

“(E) REQUIREMENTS FOR RECEIPT OF FUNDS.—A State, territory, or Indian tribe or tribal organization may not be awarded a grant under this paragraph unless the State, territory, Indian tribe or tribal organization, as a condition of receiving funds under such a grant—

“(i) consults with experts in domestic violence or with relevant community domestic violence coalitions in developing such programs or activities; and

“(ii) describes in the application for a grant under this paragraph—

“(I) how the programs or activities proposed to be conducted will address, as appropriate, issues of domestic violence; and “(II) what the State, territory, or Indian tribe or tribal organization, will do, to the extent relevant, to ensure that participation in such programs or activities is voluntary, and to inform potential participants that their involvement is voluntary.

“(F) APPROPRIATION.—

“(i) IN GENERAL.—Out of any money in the Treasury of the United States not otherwise appropriated, there are appropriated for each of fiscal years 2004 through 2008, $100,000,000 for grants under this paragraph.

“(ii) EXTENDED AVAILABILITY OF FUNDS.—

“(I) IN GENERAL.—Funds appropriated under clause (i) for each of fiscal years 2004 through 2008 shall remain available to the Secretary until expended.

“(II) AUTHORITY FOR GRANT RECIPIENTS.—A State, territory, or Indian tribe or tribal organization may use funds made available under a grant awarded under this paragraph without fiscal year limitation pursuant to the terms of the grant.”.

(c) COUNTING OF SPENDING ON NON-ELIGIBLE FAMILIES TO PREVENT AND REDUCE INCIDENCE OF OUT-OF-WEDLOCK BIRTHS, ENCOURAGE FORMATION AND MAINTENANCE OF HEALTHY 2-PARENT MARRIED FAMILIES, OR ENCOURAGE RESPONSIBLE FATHERHOOD.—Section 409(a)(7)(B)(i) (42 U.S.C. 609(a)(7)(B)(i)) is amended by adding at the end the following:

“(V) COUNTING OF SPENDING ON NON-ELIGIBLE FAMILIES TO PREVENT AND REDUCE INCIDENCE OF OUT-OF-WEDLOCK BIRTHS, ENCOURAGE FORMATION AND MAINTENANCE OF HEALTHY 2-PARENT MARRIED FAMILIES, OR ENCOURAGE RESPONSIBLE FATHERHOOD.—Subject to subclauses (II) and (III), the term ‘qualified State expenditures’ includes the total expenditures by the State during the fiscal year under all State programs for a purpose described in paragraph (3) or (4) of section 401(a).”.

(d) PURPOSES.—Section 401(a)(4) (42 U.S.C. 601(a)(4)) is amended by striking “two-parent families” and inserting “healthy 2-parent married families, and encourage responsible fatherhood”.

SEC. 104. SUPPLEMENTAL GRANT FOR POPULATION INCREASES IN CERTAIN STATES.

Section 403(a)(3)(H) (42 U.S.C. 603(a)(3)(H)), as amended by section 3(d) of the Welfare Reform Extension Act of 2003 (Public Law 108-040), 117 Stat. 837, is amended—

(1) in clause (i), by striking “2002 and 2003” and inserting “2004 through 2007”;

(2) in clause (ii), by striking “2003” and inserting “2007”; and

(3) in clause (iii), by striking “2002 and 2003” and inserting “2004 through 2007”.

SEC. 105. BONUS TO REWARD EMPLOYMENT ACHIEVEMENT.

(a) BONUS TO REWARD EMPLOYMENT ACHIEVEMENT.—Section 403(a)(4) (42 U.S.C. 603(a)(4)) is amended to read as follows:

“(4) BONUS TO REWARD EMPLOYMENT ACHIEVEMENT.—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall make a grant pursuant to this paragraph to each State for each bonus year for which the State is an employment achievement State.

“(B) AMOUNT OF GRANT.—

“(i) IN GENERAL.—Subject to clause (ii), the Secretary shall determine the amount of the grant payable under this paragraph to an employment achievement State for a bonus year, which shall be based on the performance of the State as determined under subparagraph (D)(i) for the fiscal year that immediately precedes the bonus year.

“(ii) LIMITATION.—The amount payable to a State under this paragraph for a bonus year shall not exceed 5 percent of the State family assistance grant.

“(C) FORMULA FOR MEASURING STATE PERFORMANCE.—

“(i) IN GENERAL.—Subject to clause (ii), not later than October 1, 2004, the Secretary, in consultation with the States, shall develop a formula for measuring State performance in operating the State program funded under this part so as to achieve the goals of employment entry, job retention, increased earnings from employment, and workplace attachment and advancement for families receiving assistance under the program, as measured on an absolute basis and on the basis of improvement in State performance.

“(ii) SPECIAL RULE FOR BONUS YEARS 2004 AND 2005.—For the purposes of awarding a bonus under this paragraph for bonus year 2004 or 2005, the Secretary may measure the performance of a State in fiscal year 2003 or 2004 (as the case may be) using the job entry rate, job retention rate, and earnings gain rate components of the formula developed under section 403(a)(4)(C) as in effect immediately before the effective date of this paragraph.

“(D) DETERMINATION OF STATE PERFORMANCE.—For each bonus year, the Secretary shall—

“(i) use the formula developed under subparagraph (C) to determine the performance of each eligible State for the fiscal year that precedes the bonus year; and

“(ii) prescribe performance standards in such a manner so as to ensure that—

“(I) the average annual total amount of grants to be made under this paragraph for each bonus year equals $100,000,000; and

“(II) the total amount of grants to be made under this paragraph for all bonus years equals $600,000,000.

“(E) DEFINITIONS.—In this paragraph:

“(i) BONUS YEAR.—The term ‘bonus year’ means each of fiscal years 2004 through 2009.

“(ii) EMPLOYMENT ACHIEVEMENT STATE.—The term ‘employment achievement State’ means, with respect to a bonus year, an eligible State whose performance determined pursuant to subparagraph (D)(i) for the fiscal year preceding the bonus year equals or exceeds the performance standards prescribed under subparagraph (D)(ii) for such preceding fiscal year.

“(F) APPROPRIATION.—Out of any money in the Treasury of the United States not otherwise appropriated, there are appropriated for the period of fiscal years 2004 through 2009, $600,000,000 for grants under this paragraph.

“(G) GRANTS FOR TRIBAL ORGANIZATIONS.—This paragraph shall apply with respect to tribal organizations in the same manner in which this paragraph applies with respect to States. In determining the criteria under which to make grants to tribal organizations under this paragraph, the Secretary shall consult with tribal organizations.”.

SEC. 106. CONTINGENCY FUND.

(a) CONTINGENCY FUNDING AVAILABLE TO NEEDY STATES.—Section 403(b) (42 U.S.C. 603(b)) is amended—

(1) by striking paragraphs (1) through (3) and inserting the following:

“(1) CONTINGENCY FUND GRANTS.—

“(A) PAYMENTS.—Subject to subparagraph (C), and out of funds appropriated under subparagraph (E), each State shall receive a contingency fund grant for each eligible month in which the State is a needy State under paragraph (3).

“(B) MONTHLY CONTINGENCY FUND GRANT AMOUNT.—For each eligible month in which a State is a needy State, the State shall receive a contingency fund grant equal to the product of—

“(i) the applicable percentage (as defined under subparagraph (D)(ii)) of the applicable benefit level (as defined in subparagraph (D)(ii)); and

“(ii) the amount by which the total number of families that received assistance under the State program funded under this part in the most recently concluded 3-month period for which data are available from the State exceeds a 5-percent increase in the number of such families in the corresponding 3-month period in either of the 2 most recent preceding fiscal years and that was due, in large measure, to economic conditions rather than State policy changes.

“(C) LIMITATION.—The total amount paid to a single State under subparagraph (A) during a fiscal year shall not exceed the amount equal to 10 percent of the State family assistance grant (as defined under subparagraph (B) of subsection (a)(1)).

“(D) DEFINITIONS.—In this paragraph:

“(i) APPLICABLE PERCENTAGE.—The term ‘applicable percentage’ means the Federal medical assistance percentage for the State (as defined in section 1905(b)).

“(ii) APPLICABLE BENEFIT LEVEL.—

“(I) IN GENERAL.—Subject to subclause (II), the term ‘applicable benefit level’ means the amount equal to the maximum cash assistance grant for a family consisting of 3 individuals under the State program funded under this part.

“(II) RULE FOR STATES WITH MORE THAN 1 MAXIMUM LEVEL.—In the case of a State that has more than 1 maximum cash assistance grant level for families consisting of 3 individuals, the basic assistance cost shall be the amount equal to the maximum cash assistance grant level applicable to the largest number of families consisting of 3 individuals receiving assistance under the State program funded under this part.

“(E) APPROPRIATION.—Out of any money in the Treasury of the United States not otherwise appropriated, there is appropriated for the period of fiscal years 2004 through 2008, such sums as are necessary for making contingency fund grants under this subsection in a total amount not to exceed $2,000,000,000.”;

(2) by redesignating paragraph (4) as paragraph (2); and

(3) in paragraph (2), as so redesignated—

(A) by striking “(3)(A)” and inserting “(1)”;

and

(B) by striking “2-month period that begins with any” and inserting “fiscal year quarter that includes a”.

(b) MODIFICATION OF DEFINITION OF NEEDY STATE.—Section 403(b), as amended by subsection (a), (42 U.S.C. 603(b)) is further amended—

(1) by striking paragraphs (5) and (6);

(2) by redesignating paragraphs (7) and (8) as paragraphs (5) and (6), respectively; and

(3) by inserting after paragraph (2) (as redesignated by subsection (a)(2)) the following:

“(3) INITIAL DETERMINATION OF WHETHER A STATE QUALIFIES AS A NEEDY STATE.—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—For purposes of paragraph (1), subject to paragraph (4), a State will be initially determined to be a needy State for a month if, as determined by the Secretary—

“(i) the monthly average of the unduplicated number of families that received assistance under the State program funded under this part in the most recently concluded 3-month period for which data are available from the State increased by at least 5 percent over the number of such families that received such benefits in the corresponding 3-month period in either of the 2 most recent preceding fiscal years;

“(ii) the increase in the number of such families for the State was due, in large measure, to economic conditions rather than State policy changes; and

“(iii) the State satisfies any of the following criteria:

“(I) The average rate of total unemployment in the State (seasonally adjusted) for the period consisting of the most recent 3 months for which data are available has increased by the lesser of 1.5 percentage points or by 50 percent over the corresponding 3-month period in either of the 2 most recent preceding fiscal years.

“(II) The average insured unemployment rate for the most recent 13 weeks for which data are available has increased by 1 percentage point over the corresponding 13-week period in either of the 2 most recent preceding fiscal years.

“(III) As determined by the Secretary of Agriculture, the monthly average number of households (as of the last day of each month) that participated in the food stamp program in the State in the then most recently concluded 3-month period for which data are available exceeds by at least 15 percent the monthly average number of households (as of the last day of each month) in the State that participated in the food stamp program in the corresponding 3-month period in either of the 2 most recent preceding fiscal years, but only if the Secretary and the Secretary of Agriculture concur in the determination that the State's increased caseload was due, in large measure, to economic conditions rather than changes in Federal or State policies related to the food stamp program.

“(B) DURATION.—A State that qualifies as a needy State—

“(i) under subclause (I) or (II) of subparagraph (A)(iii), shall be considered a needy State until the State's average rate of total unemployment or the State's insured unemployment rate, respectively, falls below the level attained in the applicable period that was first used to determine that the State qualified as a needy State under that subparagraph (and in the case of the insured unemployment rate, without regard to any declines in the rate that are the result of seasonal variation); and “(ii) under subclause (III) of subparagraph (A)(iii), shall be considered a needy State so long as the State meets the criteria for being considered a needy State under that subparagraph.

“(4) EXCEPTIONS.—

“(A) UNEXPENDED BALANCES.—

“(i) IN GENERAL.—Notwithstanding paragraph (3), a State that has unexpended TANF balances in an amount that exceeds 30 percent of the total amount of grants received by the State under subsection (a) for the most recently completed fiscal year (other than welfare-to-work grants made under paragraph (5) of that subsection prior to fiscal year 2000), shall not be a needy State under this subsection.

“(ii) DEFINITION OF UNEXPENDED TANF BALANCES.—In clause (i), the term ‘unexpended TANF balances’ means the lesser of—

“(I) the total amount of grants made to the State (regardless of the fiscal year in which such funds were awarded) under subsection (a) (other than welfare-to-work grants made under paragraph (5) of that subsection prior to fiscal year 2000) but not yet expended as of the end of the fiscal year preceding the fiscal year for which the State would, in the absence of this subparagraph, be considered a needy State under this subsection; and

“(II) the total amount of grants made to the State under subsection (a) (other than welfare-to-work grants made under paragraph (5) of that subsection prior to fiscal year 2000) but not yet expended as of the end of such preceding fiscal year, plus the difference between—

“(aa) the pro rata share of the current fiscal year grant to be made under subsection (a) to the State; and “(bb) current year expenditures of the total amount of grants made to the State under subsection (a) (regardless of the fiscal year in which such funds were awarded) (other than such welfare-to-work grants) through the end of the most recent calendar quarter.

“(B) FAILURE TO SATISFY MAINTENANCE OF EFFORT REQUIREMENT.—Notwithstanding paragraph (3), a State that fails to satisfy the requirement of section 409(a)(7) with respect to a fiscal year shall not be a needy State under this subsection for that fiscal year.”

(c) CLARIFICATION OF REPORTING REQUIREMENTS.—Paragraph (6) of section 403(b) (42 U.S.C. 603(b)), as redesignated by subsection (b)(2), is amended by striking “on the status of the Fund” and inserting “on the States that qualified for contingency funds and the amount of funding awarded under this subsection”.

(d) ELIMINATION OF PENALTY FOR FAILURE TO MAINTAIN 100 PERCENT MAINTENANCE OF EFFORT.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Section 409(a) (42 U.S.C. 609(a)) is amended—

(A) by striking paragraph (10); and

(B) by redesignating paragraphs (11) through (14) as paragraphs (10) through (13), respectively.

(2) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—Section 409 (42 U.S.C. 609) is amended—

(A) in subsection (a)(7)(B)(i)(III), by striking “(12)” and inserting “(11)”;

(B) in subsection (b)(2), by striking “(10), (12), or (13)” and inserting “(11), or (12)”;

(C) in subsection (c)(4), by striking “(10), (12), or (13)” and inserting “(11), or (12)”.

SEC. 107. USE OF FUNDS.

(a) TREATMENT OF INTERSTATE IMMIGRANTS.—Section 404 (42 U.S.C. 604) is amended by striking subsection (c).

(b) RESTORATION OF AUTHORITY TO TRANSFER UP TO 10 PERCENT OF TANF FUNDS TO THE SOCIAL SERVICES BLOCK GRANT.—Section 404(d)(2) (42 U.S.C. 604(d)(2)) is amended to read as follows:

“(2) LIMITATION ON AMOUNT TRANSFERABLE TO TITLE XX PROGRAMS.—A State may use not more than 10 percent of the amount of any grant made to the State under section 403(a) for a fiscal year to carry out State programs pursuant to title XX.”

(c) CLARIFICATION OF AUTHORITY OF STATES TO USE TANF FUNDS CARRIED OVER FROM PRIOR YEARS TO PROVIDE TANF BENEFITS AND SERVICES.—Section 404(e) (42 U.S.C. 604(e)) is amended to read as follows:

“(e) AUTHORITY TO CARRYOVER OR RESERVE CERTAIN AMOUNTS FOR BENEFITS OR SERVICES OR FOR FUTURE CONTINGENCIES.—

“(1) CARRYOVER.—A State or tribe may use a grant made to the State or tribe under this part for any fiscal year to provide, without fiscal year limitation, any benefit or service that may be provided under the State or tribal program funded under this part.

“(2) CONTINGENCY RESERVE.—A State or tribe may designate any portion of a grant made to the State or tribe under this part as a contingency reserve for future needs, and may use any amount so designated to provide, without fiscal year limitation, any benefit or service that may be provided under the State or tribal program funded under this part. If a State or tribe so designates a portion of such a grant, the State or tribe shall include in its report under section 411(a) the amount so designated.”

(d) STATE OPTION TO ESTABLISH UNDERGRADUATE POSTSECONDARY OR VOCATIONAL EDUCATIONAL PROGRAM.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Section 404 (42 U.S.C. 604) is amended by adding at the end the following:

“(1) AUTHORITY TO ESTABLISH UNDERGRADUATE POSTSECONDARY OR VOCATIONAL EDUCATIONAL PROGRAM.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—Subject to the succeeding paragraphs of this subsection, a State to which a grant is made under section 403 may use the grant to establish a program under which an eligible participant (as defined in paragraph (5)) may be provided support services described in paragraph (7) and, subject to paragraph (8), may have hours of participation in such program counted as being engaged in work for purposes of determining monthly participation rates under section 407(b)(1)(B)(i).

“(2) STATE PLAN REQUIREMENT.—In order to establish a program under this subsection, a State shall describe (in an addendum to the State plan submitted under section 402) the applicable eligibility criteria that is designed to limit participation in the program to only those individuals—

“(A) whose past earnings indicate that the individuals cannot qualify for employment that pays enough to allow them to obtain self-sufficiency (as determined by the State); and

“(B) for whom enrollment in the program will prepare the individuals for higher-paying occupations in demand in the State.

“(3) LIMITATION ON ENROLLMENT.—The number of eligible participants in a program established under this subsection may not exceed 10 percent of the total number of families receiving assistance under the State program funded under this part.

“(4) NO FEDERAL FUNDS FOR TUITION.—A State may not use Federal funds provided under a grant made under section 403 to pay tuition for an eligible participant.

“(5) DEFINITION OF ELIGIBLE PARTICIPANT.—In this subsection, the term ‘eligible participant’ means an individual who receives assistance under the State program funded under this part and satisfies the following requirements:

“(i) The individual is enrolled in a postsecondary 2- or 4-year degree program or in a vocational educational training program.

“(ii) During the period the individual participates in the program, the individual maintains satisfactory academic progress, as defined by the institution operating the undergraduate postsecondary or vocational educational program in which the individual is enrolled.

“(6) REQUIRED TIME PERIODS FOR COMPLETION OF DEGREE OR VOCATIONAL EDUCATIONAL TRAINING PROGRAM.—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—Subject to subparagraph (B), an eligible participant participating in a program established under this subsection shall be required to complete the requirements of a degree or vocational educational training program within the normal timeframe for full-time students seeking the particular degree or completing the vocational educational training program.

“(B) EXCEPTION.—For good cause, the State may allow an eligible participant to complete their degree requirements or vocational educational training program within a period not to exceed 1½ times the normal timeframe established under subparagraph (A) (unless further modification is required by the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 (42 U.S.C. 12101 et seq.), or section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 (29 U.S.C. 794)) and may modify the requirements applicable to an individual participating in the program. For purposes of the preceding sentence, good cause includes the case of an eligible participant with 1 or more significant barriers to normal participation, as determined by the State, such as the need to care for a family member with special needs.

“(7) SUPPORT SERVICES DESCRIBED.—For purposes of paragraph (1), the support services described in this paragraph include any or all of the following during the period the eligible participant is in the program established under this subsection:

“(C) Payment for books and supplies.

“(D) Other services provided under policies determined by the State to ensure coordination and lack of duplication with other programs available to provide support services.

“(8) RULES FOR INCLUSION IN MONTHLY WORK PARTICIPATION RATES.—

“(A) FAMILIES COUNTED AS PARTICIPATING IF THEY MEET THE REQUIREMENTS OF SUBPARAGRAPHS (B) OR (C).—For each eligible participant, a State may elect, for purposes of determining monthly participation rates under section 407(b)(1)(B)(i), to include such participant in the determination of such rates in accordance with subparagraph (B) or (C).

“(B) FULL OR PARTIAL CREDIT FOR HOURS OF PARTICIPATION IN EDUCATIONAL OR RELATED ACTIVITIES.—

“(i) IN GENERAL.—Subject to clause (iv), an eligible participant who participates in educational or related activities (as determined by the State) under a program established under this subsection shall be given credit for the number of hours of such participation to the extent that an adult recipient or minor child head of household would be given credit under section 407(c) for being engaged in the same number of hours of work activities described in paragraph (1), (2), (3), (4), (5), (6), (7), (8), or (12) of section 407(d).

“(ii) RELATED ACTIVITIES.—For purposes of clause (i), related activities shall include—

“(I) work activities described in paragraph (1), (2), (3), (4), (5), (6), (7), (8), or (12) of section 407(d);

“(II) work study, practicums, internships, clinical placements, laboratory or field work, or such other activities as will enhance the eligible participant’s employability in the participant’s field of study, as determined by the State; or “(III) subject to clause (iii), study time.

“(iii) LIMITATION ON INCLUSION OF STUDY TIME.—For purposes of determining hours per week of participation by an eligible participant under a program established under this subsection, a State may not count study time of less than 1 hour for every hour of class time or more than 2 hours for every hour of class time.

“(iv) TOTAL NUMBER OF HOURS LIMITED TO BEING COUNTED AS 1 FAMILY.—In no event may hours per week of participation by an eligible participant under a program established under this subsection be counted as more than 1 family for purposes of determining monthly participation rates under section 407(b)(1)(B)(i).

“(C) FULL CREDIT FOR BEING ENGAGED IN DIRECT WORK ACTIVITIES FOR CERTAIN HOURS PER WEEK.—

“(i) IN GENERAL.—A family that includes an eligible participant who, in addition to complying with the full-time educational participation requirements of the degree or vocational educational training program they are enrolled in, participates in an activity described in subclause (I), (II), or (III) of subparagraph (B)(ii) for not less than the number of hours required per week under clause (ii) shall be counted as 1 family.

“(ii) REQUIRED HOURS PER WEEK.—For purposes of clause (i), subject to clause (iii), the number of hours per week are—

“(I) 6 hours per week during the first 12-month period that an eligible participant participates in a program established under this subsection;

“(II) 8 hours per week during the second 12-month period of such participation;

“(III) 10 hours per week during the third 12-month period of such participation; and “(IV) 12 hours per week during the fourth or any other succeeding 12-month period of such participation.

“(iii) MODIFICATION OF REQUIREMENTS FOR GOOD CAUSE.—A State may modify the number of hours per week required under clause (ii) for good cause. For purposes of the preceding sentence, good cause includes the case of an eligible participant with 1 or more significant barriers to normal participation, as determined by the State, such as the need to care for a family member with special needs.”.

(2) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—Section 407(d)(8) (42 U.S.C. 607(d)(8)) is amended by inserting “other than an individual participating in a program established under section 404(l)” after “individual”.

SEC. 108. REPEAL OF FEDERAL LOAN FOR STATE WELFARE PROGRAMS.

(b) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—

(1) Section 409 (42 U.S.C. 609), as amended by section 106(d)(2), is amended—

(A) in subsection (a), by striking paragraph (6);

(B) in subsection (b)(2), by striking “(6),”; and

(C) in subsection (c)(4), by striking “(6),”.

(2) Section 412 (42 U.S.C. 612) is amended by striking subsection (f) and redesignating subsections (g) through (i) as subsections (f) through (h), respectively.

(3) Section 1108(a)(2) (42 U.S.C. 1308(a)(2)) is amended by striking “406,”.

SEC. 109. WORK PARTICIPATION REQUIREMENTS.

(a) ELIMINATION OF SEPARATE WORK PARTICIPATION RATE FOR 2-PARENT FAMILIES BEGINNING WITH FISCAL YEAR 2003.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Section 407 (42 U.S.C. 607) is amended—

(A) in subsection (a)—

(i) in the heading, by striking “PARTICIPATION RATE REQUIREMENTS” and all that follows through “A State” and inserting “PARTICIPATION RATE REQUIREMENTS.—A State”; and

(ii) by striking paragraph (2);

(B) in subsection (b)—

(i) by striking paragraph (2);

(ii) in paragraph (4), by striking “paragraphs (1)(B) and (2)(B)” and inserting “determining monthly participation rates under paragraph (1)(B);” and

(iii) in paragraph (5), by striking “rates” and inserting “rate”; and

(C) in subsection (c)—

(i) in paragraph (1)—

(I) by striking “GENERAL RULES.—” and all that follows through “For purposes” in subparagraph (A) and inserting “GENERAL RULE.—For purposes”; and

(II) by striking subparagraph (B); and

(ii) in paragraph (2)(D)—

(I) by striking “paragraphs (1)(B)(i) and (2)(B) of subsection (b)” and inserting “subsection (b)(1)(B)(i);” and

(II) by striking “and in 2-parent families, respectively,”.

(2) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by paragraph (1) shall take effect as if enacted on October 1, 2002.

(b) MINIMUM PARTICIPATION RATES.—Section 407(a) (42 U.S.C. 607(a)), as amended by subsection (a)(1)(A), is amended to read as follows:

“(a) PARTICIPATION RATE REQUIREMENTS.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—A State to which a grant is made under section 403 for a fiscal year shall achieve a minimum participation rate with respect to all families receiving assistance under the State program funded under this part that is equal to not less than—

“(A) 50 percent for fiscal year 2004;

“(B) 55 percent for fiscal year 2005;

“(C) 60 percent for fiscal year 2006;

“(D) 65 percent for fiscal year 2007; and

(c) LIMITATION ON REDUCTION OF PARTICIPATION RATE THROUGH APPLICATION OF CREDITS.—Section 407(a) (42 U.S.C. 607(b)), as amended by subsection (b), is amended by adding at the end the following:

“(2) LIMITATION ON REDUCTION OF PARTICIPATION RATE THROUGH APPLICATION OF CREDITS.—Notwithstanding any other provision of this part, the net effect of any percentage reduction in the minimum participation rate otherwise required under this section with respect to families receiving assistance under the State program funded under this part as a result of the application of any employment credit, caseload reduction credit, or other credit against such rate for a fiscal year, shall not exceed—

“(A) 40 percentage points, in the case of fiscal year 2004;

“(B) 35 percentage points, in the case of fiscal year 2005;

“(C) 30 percentage points, in the case of fiscal year 2006;

“(D) 25 percentage points, in the case of fiscal year 2007; or

(d) REPLACEMENT OF CASELOAD REDUCTION CREDIT WITH EMPLOYMENT CREDIT.—

(1) EMPLOYMENT CREDIT TO REWARD STATES IN WHICH FAMILIES LEAVE WELFARE FOR WORK; ADDITIONAL CREDIT FOR FAMILIES WITH HIGHER EARNINGS.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—Section 407(b) (42 U.S.C. 607(b)), as amended by subsection (a)(1)(B)(i), is amended by inserting after paragraph (1) the following:

“(2) EMPLOYMENT CREDIT.—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—Subject to subsection (a)(2), the Secretary shall, by regulation, reduce the minimum participation rate otherwise applicable to a State under this subsection for a fiscal year by the number of percentage points in the employment credit for the State for the fiscal year, as determined by the Secretary—

“(i) using information in the National Directory of New Hires;

“(ii) with respect to a recipient of assistance or former recipient of assistance under the State program funded under this part who is placed with an employer whose hiring information is not reported to the National Directory of New Hires, using quarterly wage information submitted by the State to the Secretary not later than such date as the Secretary shall prescribe in regulations; or “(iii) with respect to families described in subclause (II) or (III) of subparagraph (B)(ii), using such other data as the Secretary may require in order to determine the employment credit for a State under this paragraph.

“(B) CALCULATION OF CREDIT.—

“(i) IN GENERAL.—The employment credit for a State for a fiscal year is an amount equal to the sum of the amounts determined under clause (ii), divided by the amount determined under clause (iii).

“(ii) NUMERATOR.—For purposes of clause (i), the amounts determined under this clause are the following:

“(I) Twice the quarterly average unduplicated number of families that include an adult or minor child head of household recipient of assistance under the State program funded under this part, that ceased to receive such assistance for at least 2 consecutive months following the date of the case closure for the family during the applicable period (as defined in clause (v)), that did not receive assistance under a separate State-funded program during such 2-month period, and that were employed during the calendar quarter immediately succeeding the quarter in which the assistance under the State program funded under this part ceased.

“(II) At the option of the State, twice the quarterly average number of families that received a nonrecurring short-term benefit under the State program funded under this part during the applicable period (as so defined), that were employed during the calendar quarter immediately succeeding the quarter in which the nonrecurring short-term benefit was so received, and that earned at least $1,000 during the applicable period (as so defined).

“(III) At the option of the State, twice the quarterly average number of families that includes an adult who is receiving substantial child care or transportation assistance (as defined by the Secretary, in consultation with directors of State programs funded under this part, which definition shall specify for each type of assistance a threshold which is a dollar value or a length of time over which the assistance is received, and which takes account of large one-time transition payments)) during the applicable period (as so defined).

“(iii) DENOMINATOR.—For purposes of clause (i), the amount determined under this clause is the amount equal to the sum of the following:

“(I) The average monthly number of families that include an adult or minor child head of household who received assistance under the State program funded under this part during the applicable period (as defined under clause (v)).

“(II) If the State elected the option under clause (ii)(II), twice the quarterly average number of families that received a nonrecurring short-term benefit under the State program funded under this part during the applicable period (as so defined).

“(III) If the State elected the option under clause (ii)(III), twice the quarterly average number of families that includes an adult who is receiving substantial child care or transportation assistance during the applicable period (as so defined).

“(iv) SPECIAL RULE FOR FORMER RECIPIENTS WITH HIGHER EARNINGS.—In calculating the employment credit for a State for a fiscal year, in the case of a family that includes an adult or a minor child head of household that is to be included in the amount determined under clause (ii)(I) and that, with respect to the quarter in which the family's earnings were examined during the applicable period, earned at least 33 percent of the average quarterly earnings in the State (determined on the basis of State unemployment data), the family shall be considered to be 1.5 families.

"(v) DEFINITION OF APPLICABLE PERIOD.—For purposes of this paragraph, the term 'applicable period' means, with respect to a fiscal year, the most recent 4 quarters for which data are available to the Secretary providing information on the work status of—

"(I) individuals in the quarter after the individuals ceased receiving assistance under the State program funded under this part;

"(II) at State option, individuals in the quarter after the individuals received a short-term, nonrecurring benefit; and

"(III) at State option, individuals in the quarter after the individuals ceased receiving substantial child care or transportation assistance.

"(C) NOTIFICATION TO STATE.—Not later than August 30 of each fiscal year, the Secretary shall—

"(i) determine, on the basis of the applicable period, the amount of the employment credit that will be used in determining the minimum participation rate for a State under subsection (a) for the immediately succeeding fiscal year; and

"(ii) notify each State conducting a State program funded under this part of the amount of the employment credit for such program for the succeeding fiscal year."

(B) AUTHORITY OF SECRETARY TO USE INFORMATION IN NATIONAL DIRECTORY OF NEW HIRES.—Section 453(i) (42 U.S.C. 653(i)) is amended by adding at the end the following:

"(5) CALCULATION OF EMPLOYMENT CREDIT FOR PURPOSES OF DETERMINING STATE WORK PARTICIPATION RATES UNDER TANF.—The Secretary may use the information in the National Directory of New Hires for purposes of calculating State employment credits pursuant to section 407(b)(2)."

(2) ELIMINATION OF CASELOAD REDUCTION CREDIT.—Section 407(b) (42 U.S.C. 607(b)) is amended by striking paragraph (3) and redesignating paragraphs (4) and (5) as paragraphs (3) and (4), respectively.

(3) EFFECTIVE DATES.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in subparagraphs (B) and (C), the amendments made by this subsection shall take effect on October 1, 2005.

(B) STATE OPTION TO PHASE-IN REPLACEMENT OF CASELOAD REDUCTION CREDIT WITH EMPLOYMENT CREDIT AND DELAY APPLICABILITY OF OTHER PROVISIONS.—A State may elect to have the amendments made by this subsection not apply to the State program funded under part A of title IV of the Social Security Act until October 1, 2006, and if the State makes the election, then, in determining the participation rate of the State for purposes of section 407 of the Social Security Act for fiscal year 2006, the State shall be credited with ½ of the reduction in the rate that would otherwise result from applying section 407(b)(2) of the Social Security Act (as added by paragraph (1)(A)) to the State for fiscal year 2006 and ½ of the reduction in the rate that would otherwise result from applying section 407(b)(3) of the Social Security Act (as in effect with respect to fiscal year 2003) to the State for fiscal year 2006.

(C) AUTHORITY TO USE INFORMATION IN THE NATIONAL DIRECTORY OF NEW HIRES.—The amendment made by paragraph (1)(B) shall take effect on October 1, 2003.

(e) STATE OPTIONS FOR PARTICIPATION REQUIREMENT EXEMPTIONS.—Section 407(b)(4) (42 U.S.C. 607(b)(4)), as amended by subsection (a)(1)(B)(iii) and redesignated by subsection (d)(2), is amended to read as follows:

"(4) STATE OPTIONS FOR PARTICIPATION REQUIREMENT EXEMPTIONS.—At the option of a State, a State may, on a case-by-case basis—

"(A) not include a family in the determination of the monthly participation rate for the State in the first month for which the family receives assistance from the State program funded under this part on the basis of the most recent application for such assistance; or

"(B) not require a family in which the youngest child has not attained 12 months of age to engage in work, and may disregard that family in determining the minimum participation rate under subsection (a) for the State for not more than 12 months."

(f) DETERMINATION OF COUNTABLE HOURS ENGAGED IN WORK.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Section 407(c) (42 U.S.C. 607(c)) is amended to read as follows:

"(c) DETERMINATION OF COUNTABLE HOURS ENGAGED IN WORK.—

"(1) SINGLE PARENT OR RELATIVE WITH A CHILD OVER AGE 6.—

"(A) MINIMUM AVERAGE NUMBER OF HOURS PER WEEK.—Subject to the succeeding paragraphs of this subsection, a family in which an adult recipient or minor child head of household in the family is participating in work activities described in subsection (d) shall be treated as engaged in work for purposes of determining monthly participation rates under subsection (b)(1)(B)(i) as follows:

"(i) In the case of a family in which the total number of hours in which any adult recipient or minor child head of household in the family is participating in such work activities for an average of at least 20, but less than 24, hours per week in a month, as 0.675 of a family.

"(ii) In the case of a family in which the total number of hours in which any adult recipient or minor child head of household in the family is participating in such work activities for an average of at least 24, but less than 30, hours per week in a month, as 0.75 of a family.

"(iii) In the case of a family in which the total number of hours in which any adult recipient or minor child head of household in the family is participating in such work activities for an average of at least 30, but less than 34, hours per week in a month, as 0.875 of a family.

"(iv) In the case of a family in which the total number of hours in which any adult recipient or minor child head of household in the family is participating in such work activities for an average of at least 34, but less than 35, hours per week in a month, as 1 family.

"(v) In the case of a family in which the total number of hours in which any adult recipient or minor child head of household in the family is participating in such work activities for an average of at least 35, but less than 38, hours per week in a month, as 1.05 families.

"(vi) In the case of a family in which the total number of hours in which any adult recipient or minor child head of household in the family is participating in such work activities for an average of at least 38 hours per week in a month, as 1.08 families.

"(B) DIRECT WORK ACTIVITIES REQUIRED FOR AN AVERAGE OF 24 HOURS PER WEEK.—Except as provided in subparagraph (C)(i), a State may not count any hours of participation in work activities specified in paragraph (9), (10), or (11) of subsection (d) of any adult recipient or minor child head of household in a family before the total number of hours of participation by any adult recipient or minor child head of household in the family in work activities described in paragraph (1), (2), (3), (4), (5), (6), (7), (8), or (12) of subsection (d) for the family for the month averages at least 24 hours per week.

"(C) STATE FLEXIBILITY TO COUNT PARTICIPATION IN CERTAIN ACTIVITIES.—

"(i) QUALIFIED ACTIVITIES FOR 3-MONTHS IN ANY 24-MONTH PERIOD.—

"(1) 24-HOURS PER WEEK REQUIRED.—Subject to subclauses (III) and (IV), for purposes of determining hours under subparagraph (A), a

State may count the total number of hours any adult recipient or minor child head of household in a family engages in qualified activities described in subclause (II) as a work activity described in subsection (d), without regard to whether the recipient has satisfied the requirement of subparagraph (B), but only if—

"(aa) the total number of hours of participation in such qualified activities for the family for the month average at least 24 hours per week; and

"(bb) engaging in such qualified activities is a requirement of the family self-sufficiency plan.

"(II) QUALIFIED ACTIVITIES DESCRIBED.—For purposes of subclause (I), qualified activities described in this subclause are any of the following:

"(aa) Postsecondary education.

"(bb) Adult literacy programs or activities.

"(cc) Substance abuse counseling or treatment.

"(dd) Programs or activities designed to remove barriers to work, as defined by the State.

"(ee) Work activities authorized under any waiver for any State that was continued under section 415 before the date of enactment of the Personal Responsibility and Individual Development for Everyone Act.

"(III) LIMITATION.—Except as provided in clause (ii), subclause (I) shall not apply to a family for more than 3 months in any period of 24 consecutive months.

"(IV) CERTAIN ACTIVITIES.—The Secretary may allow a State to count the total hours of participation in qualified activities described in subclause (II) for an adult recipient or minor child head of household without regard to the minimum 24 hour average per week of participation requirement under subclause (I) if the State has demonstrated conclusively that such activity is part of a substantial and supervised program whose effectiveness in moving families to self-sufficiency is superior to any alternative activity and the effectiveness of the program in moving families to self-sufficiency would be substantially impaired if participating individuals participated in additional, concurrent qualified activities that enabled the individuals to achieve an average of at least 24 hours per week of participation.

"(ii) ADDITIONAL 3-MONTH PERIOD PERMITTED FOR CERTAIN ACTIVITIES.—

"(I) SELF-SUFFICIENCY PLAN REQUIREMENT COMBINED WITH MINIMUM NUMBER OF HOURS.—A State may extend the 3-month period under clause (i) for an additional 3 months in the same period of 24 consecutive months in the case of an adult recipient or minor child head of household who is receiving qualified rehabilitative services described in subclause (II) if—

"(aa) the total number of hours that the adult recipient or minor child head of household engages in such qualified rehabilitative services and, subject to subclause (III), a work activity described in paragraph (1), (2), (3), (4), (5), (6), (7), (8), or (12) of subsection (d) for the month average at least 24 hours per week; and

"(bb) engaging in such qualified rehabilitative services is a requirement of the family self-sufficiency plan.

"(II) QUALIFIED REHABILITATIVE SERVICES DESCRIBED.—For purposes of subclause (I), qualified rehabilitative services described in this subclause are any of the following:

"(aa) Adult literacy programs or activities.

"(bb) Participation in a program designed to increase proficiency in the English language.

"(cc) In the case of an adult recipient or minor child head of household who has been certified by a qualified medical, mental health, or social services professional (as defined by the State) as having a physical or mental disability, substance abuse problem, or other problem that requires a rehabilitative service, substance abuse treatment, or mental health treatment, the service or treatment determined necessary by the professional.

"(III) NONAPPLICATION OF LIMITATIONS ON JOB SEARCH AND VOCATIONAL EDUCATIONAL TRAINING.—An adult recipient or minor child head of household who is receiving qualified rehabilitative services described in subclause (II) may engage in a work activity described in paragraph (6) or (8) of subsection (d) for purposes of satisfying the minimum 24 hour average per week of participation requirement under subclause (I)(aa) without regard to any limit that otherwise applies to the activity (including the 30 percent limitation on participation in vocational educational training under paragraph (6)(C)).

“(iii) HOURS IN EXCESS OF AN AVERAGE OF 24 WORK ACTIVITY HOURS PER WEEK.—If the total number of hours that any adult recipient or minor child head of household in a family has participated in a work activity described in paragraph (1), (2), (3), (4), (5), (6), (7), (8), or (12) of subsection (d) averages at least 24 hours per week in a month, a State, for purposes of determining hours under subparagraph (A), may count any hours an adult recipient or minor child head of household in the family engages in—

“(I) any work activity described in subsection (d), without regard to any limit that otherwise applies to the activity (including the 30 percent limitation on participation in vocational educational training under paragraph (6)(C)); and “(II) any qualified activity described in clause (i)(II), as a work activity described in subsection (d).

“(2) SINGLE PARENT OR RELATIVE WITH A CHILD UNDER AGE 6.—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—A family in which an adult recipient or minor child head of household in the family is the only parent or caretaker relative in the family of a child who has not attained 6 years of age and who is participating in work activities described in subsection (d) shall be treated as engaged in work for purposes of determining monthly participation rates under subsection (b)(1)(B)(i) as follows:

“(i) In the case of such a family in which the total number of hours in which the adult recipient or minor child head of household in the family is participating in such work activities for an average of at least 20, but less than 24, hours per week in a month, as 0.675 of a family.

“(ii) In the case of such a family in which the total number of hours in which the adult recipient or minor child head of household in the family is participating in such work activities for an average of at least 24, but less than 35, hours per week in a month, as 1 family.

“(iii) In the case of such a family in which the total number of hours in which the adult recipient or minor child head of household in the family is participating in such work activities for an average of at least 35, but less than 38, hours per week in a month, as 1.05 families.

“(iv) In the case of such a family in which the total number of hours in which the adult recipient or minor child head of household in the family is participating in such work activities for an average of at least 38 hours per week in a month, as 1.08 families.

“(B) APPLICATION OF RULES REGARDING DIRECT WORK ACTIVITIES AND STATE FLEXIBILITY TO COUNT PARTICIPATION IN CERTAIN ACTIVITIES.—Subparagraphs (B) and (C) of paragraph (1) apply to a family described in subparagraph (A) in the same manner as such subparagraphs apply to a family described in paragraph (1)(A).

“(3) 2-PARENT FAMILIES.—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—Subject to paragraph (6)(A), a 2-parent family in which an adult recipient or minor child head of household in the family is participating in work activities described in subsection (d) shall be treated as engaged in work for purposes of determining monthly participation rates under subsection (b)(1)(B)(i) as follows:

“(i) In the case of such a family in which the total number of hours in which any adult recipient or minor child head of household in the family is participating in such work activities for an average of at least 26, but less than 30, hours per week in a month, as 0.675 of a family.

“(ii) In the case of such a family in which the total number of hours in which any adult recipient or minor child head of household in the family is participating in such work activities for an average of at least 30, but less than 35, hours per week in a month, as 0.75 of a family.

“(iii) In the case of such a family in which the total number of hours in which any adult recipient or minor child head of household in the family is participating in such work activities for an average of at least 35, but less than 39, hours per week in a month, as 0.875 of a family.

“(iv) In the case of such a family in which the total number of hours in which any adult recipient or minor child head of household in the family is participating in such work activities for an average of at least 39, but less than 40, hours per week in a month, as 1 family.

“(v) In the case of such a family in which the total number of hours in which any adult recipient or minor child head of household in the family is participating in such work activities for an average of at least 40, but less than 43, hours per week in a month, as 1.05 families.

“(vi) In the case of such a family in which the total number of hours in which any adult recipient or minor child head of household in the family is participating in such work activities for an average of at least 43 hours per week in a month, as 1.08 families.

“(B) APPLICATION OF RULES REGARDING DIRECT WORK ACTIVITIES AND STATE FLEXIBILITY TO COUNT PARTICIPATION IN CERTAIN ACTIVITIES.—Subparagraphs (B) and (C) of paragraph (1) apply to a 2-parent family described in subparagraph (A) in the same manner as such subparagraphs apply to a family described in paragraph (1)(A), except that subparagraph (B) of paragraph (1) shall be applied to a such a 2-parent family by substituting ‘34’ for ‘24’ each place it appears.

“(4) 2-PARENT FAMILIES THAT RECEIVE FEDERALLY FUNDED CHILD CARE.—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—Subject to paragraph (6)(A), if a 2-parent family receives federally funded child care assistance, an adult recipient or minor child head of household in the family participating in work activities described in subsection (d) shall be treated as engaged in work for purposes of determining monthly participation rates under subsection (b)(1)(B)(i) as follows:

“(i) In the case of such a family in which the total number of hours in which any adult recipient or minor child head of household in the family is participating in such work activities for an average of at least 40, but less than 45, hours per week in a month, as 0.675 of a family.

“(ii) In the case of such a family in which the total number of hours in which any adult recipient or minor child head of household in the family is participating in such work activities for an average of at least 45, but less than 51, hours per week in a month, as 0.75 of a family.

“(iii) In the case of such a family in which the total number of hours in which any adult recipient or minor child head of household in the family is participating in such work activities for an average of at least 51, but less than 55, hours per week in a month, as 0.875 of a family.

“(iv) In the case of such a family in which the total number of hours in which any adult recipient or minor child head of household in the family is participating in such work activities for an average of at least 55, but less than 56, hours per week in a month, as 1 family.

“(v) In the case of such a family in which the total number of hours in which any adult recipient or minor child head of household in the family is participating in such work activities for an average of at least 56, but less than 59, hours per week in a month, as 1.05 families.

“(vi) In the case of such a family in which the total number of hours in which any adult recipient or minor child head of household in the family is participating in such work activities for an average of at least 59 hours per week in a month, as 1.08 families.

“(B) APPLICATION OF RULES REGARDING DIRECT WORK ACTIVITIES AND STATE FLEXIBILITY TO COUNT PARTICIPATION IN CERTAIN ACTIVITIES.—Subparagraphs (B) and (C) of paragraph (1) apply to a 2-parent family described in subparagraph (A) in the same manner as such subparagraphs apply to a family described in paragraph (1)(A), except that subparagraph (B) of paragraph (1) shall be applied to a such a 2-parent family by substituting ‘50’ for ‘24’ each place it appears.

“(5) CALCULATION OF HOURS PER WEEK.—The number of hours per week that a family is engaged in work is the quotient of—

“(A) the total number of hours per month that the family is engaged in work; divided by

“(6) SPECIAL RULES.—

“(A) FAMILY WITH A DISABLED PARENT NOT TREATED AS A 2-PARENT FAMILY.—A family that includes a disabled parent shall not be considered a 2-parent family for purposes of paragraph (3) or (4).

“(B) NUMBER OF WEEKS FOR WHICH JOB SEARCH COUNTS AS WORK.—An individual shall not be considered to be engaged in work for a month by virtue of participation in an activity described in subsection (d)(6) of a State program funded under this part, after the individual has participated in such an activity for 6 weeks (or, if the unemployment rate of the State is at least 50 percent greater than the unemployment rate of the United States, or the State meets the criteria of subclause (I), (II), or (III) of section 403(b)(3)(A)(iii) or satisfies the applicable duration requirement of section 403(b)(3)(B)), 12 weeks).

“(C) SINGLE TEEN HEAD OF HOUSEHOLD OR MARRIED TEEN WHO MAINTAINS SATISFACTORY SCHOOL ATTENDANCE DEEMED TO COUNT AS 1 FAMILY.—For purposes of determining hours under the preceding paragraphs of this subsection, with respect to a month, a State shall count a recipient who is married or a head of household and who has not attained 20 years of age as 1 family if the recipient—

“(i) maintains satisfactory attendance at secondary school or the equivalent during the month; or

“(ii) participates in education directly related to employment for an average of at least 20 hours per week during the month.

“(D) LIMITATION ON NUMBER OF PERSONS WHO MAY BE TREATED AS ENGAGED IN WORK BY REASON OF PARTICIPATION IN EDUCATIONAL ACTIVITIES.—Except as provided in paragraph (1)(C)(ii)(I), for purposes of subsection (b)(1)(B)(i), not more than 30 percent of the number of individuals in all families in a State who are treated as engaged in work for a month may consist of individuals who are—

“(i) determined (without regard to individuals participating in a program established under section 404(l)) to be engaged in work for the month by reason of participation in vocational educational training (but only with respect to such training that does not exceed 12 months with respect to any individual); or

“(E) STATE OPTION TO DEEM SINGLE PARENT CARING FOR A CHILD OR ADULT DEPENDENT FOR CARE WITH A PHYSICAL OR MENTAL IMPAIRMENT TO BE MEETING ALL OR PART OF A FAMILY'S WORK PARTICIPATION REQUIREMENTS FOR A MONTH.—

“(i) IN GENERAL.—A State may count the number of hours per week that an adult recipient or minor child head of household who is the only parent or caretaker relative for a child or adult dependent for care with a physical or mental impairment engages in providing substantial ongoing care for such child or adult dependent for care if the State determines that—

“(I) the child or adult dependent for care has been verified through a medically acceptable clinical or diagnostic technique as having a significant physical or mental impairment or combination of impairments that require substantial ongoing care;

"(II) the adult recipient or minor child head of household providing such care is the most appropriate means, as determined by the State, by which such care can be provided to the child or adult dependent for care;

"(III) for each month in which this subparagraph applies to the adult recipient or minor child head of household, the adult recipient or minor child head of household is in compliance with the requirements of the family's self-sufficiency plan; and

"(IV) the recipient is unable to participate fully in work activities, after consideration of whether there are supports accessible and available to the family for the care of the child or adult dependent for care.

"(ii) TOTAL NUMBER OF HOURS LIMITED TO BEING COUNTED AS 1 FAMILY.—In no event may a family that includes a recipient to which clause (i) applies be counted as more than 1 family for purposes of determining monthly participation rates under subsection (b)(1)(B)(i).

"(iii) STATE REQUIREMENTS.—In the case of a recipient to which clause (i) applies, the State shall—

"(I) conduct regular, periodic evaluations of the family of the adult recipient or minor child head of household; and

"(II) include as part of the family's self-sufficiency plan, regular updates on what special needs of the child or the adult dependent for care, including substantial ongoing care, could be accommodated either by individuals other than the adult recipient or minor child head of household outside of the home.

"(iv) RULE OF CONSTRUCTION.—Nothing in this subparagraph shall be construed as prohibiting a State from including in a recipient's self-sufficiency plan a requirement to engage in work activities described in subsection (d).

"(F) OPTIONAL MODIFICATION OF WORK REQUIREMENTS FOR RECIPIENTS RESIDING IN AREAS OF INDIAN COUNTRY OR AN ALASKAN NATIVE VILLAGE WITH HIGH JOBLESSNESS.—If a State has included in the State plan a description of the State's policies in areas of Indian country or an Alaskan Native village described in section 408(a)(7)(D), the State may define the activities that the State will treat as being work activities described in subsection (d) that a recipient who resides in such an area and who is participating in such activities in accordance with a self-sufficiency plan under section 408(b) may engage in for purposes of satisfying work requirements under the State program and for purposes of determining monthly participation rates under subsection (b)(1)(B)(i)."

(2) CONFORMING AMENDMENT RELATING TO AUTHORITY TO DEEM SINGLE PARENT OF A CHILD OR ADULT DEPENDENT FOR CARE WITH A PHYSICAL OR MENTAL IMPAIRMENT DEEMED TO BE MEETING ALL OR PART OF A FAMILY'S WORK PARTICIPATION REQUIREMENTS FOR A MONTH.—Section 402(a)(1)(B) (42 U.S.C. 602(a)(1)(B)), as amended by section 101(a)(1)(B), is amended by adding at the end the following:

"(vi) The document shall set forth the criteria for applying section 407(c)(6)(E) to an adult recipient or minor child head of household who is the only parent or caretaker relative for a child or adult dependent for care."

SEC. 110. UNIVERSAL ENGAGEMENT AND FAMILY SELF-SUFFICIENCY PLAN REQUIREMENTS; OTHER PROHIBITIONS AND REQUIREMENTS.

(a) UNIVERSAL ENGAGEMENT AND FAMILY SELF-SUFFICIENCY PLAN REQUIREMENTS.—

(1) MODIFICATION OF STATE PLAN REQUIREMENTS.—Section 402(a)(1)(A) (42 U.S.C. 602(a)(1)(A)) is amended by striking clauses (ii) and (iii) and inserting the following:

"(ii) Require a parent or caretaker receiving assistance under the program to engage in work or alternative self-sufficiency activities (as defined by the State), consistent with section 407(e)(2).

"(iii) Require families receiving assistance under the program to engage in activities in accordance with family self-sufficiency plans developed pursuant to section 408(b)."

(2) ESTABLISHMENT OF FAMILY SELF-SUFFICIENCY PLANS.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—Section 408(b) (42 U.S.C. 608(b)) is amended to read as follows:

"(b) FAMILY SELF-SUFFICIENCY PLANS.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—A State to which a grant is made under section 403 shall—

"(A) make an initial screening and assessment, in the manner deemed appropriate by the State, of the skills, prior work experience, education obtained, work readiness, barriers to work, and employability of each adult or minor child head of household recipient of assistance in the family who—

"(i) has attained age 18; or

"(ii) has not completed high school or obtained a certificate of high school equivalency and is not attending secondary school;

"(B) assess, in the manner deemed appropriate by the State, the work support and other assistance and family support services for which each family receiving assistance is eligible; and

"(C) assess, in the manner deemed appropriate by the State, the well-being of the children in the family, and, where appropriate, activities or resources to improve the well-being of the children.

"(2) CONTENTS OF PLANS.—The State shall, in the manner deemed appropriate by the State—

"(A) establish for each family that includes an individual described in paragraph (1)(A) in consultation as the State deems appropriate with the individual, a self-sufficiency plan that—

"(i) specifies activities described in the State plan submitted pursuant to section 402, including work activities described in paragraph (1), (2), (3), (4), (5), (6), (7), (8), or (12) of section 407(d), as appropriate;

"(ii) is designed to assist the family in achieving their maximum degree of self-sufficiency, and

"(iii) provides for the ongoing participation of the individual in the activities specified in the plan;

"(B) requires, at a minimum, each such individual to participate in activities in accordance with the self-sufficiency plan;

"(C) sets forth the appropriate supportive services the State intends to provide for the family;

"(D) establishes for the family a plan that addresses the issue of child well-being and, when appropriate, adolescent well-being, and that may include services such as domestic violence counseling, mental health referrals, and parenting courses; and

"(E) includes a section designed to assist the family by informing the family, in such manner as deemed appropriate by the State, of the work support and other assistance for which the family may be eligible including (but not limited to)—

"(i) the food stamp program established under the Food Stamp Act of 1977 (7 U.S.C. 2011 et seq.);

"(ii) the medicaid program funded under title XIX;

"(iii) the State children's health insurance program funded under title XXI;

"(iv) Federal or State funded child care, including child care funded under the Child Care Development Block Grant Act of 1990 (42 U.S.C. 9858 et seq.) and funds made available under this title or title XX;

"(v) the earned income tax credit under section 32 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986;

"(vi) the low-income home energy assistance program established under the Low-Income Home Energy Assistance Act of 1981 (42 U.S.C. 8621 et seq.);

"(vii) the special supplemental nutrition program for women, infants, and children established under section 17 of the Child Nutrition Act of 1966 (42 U.S.C. 1786);

"(viii) programs conducted under the Workforce Investment Act of 1998 (29 U.S.C. 2801 et seq.); and

"(ix) low-income housing assistance programs.

"(3) REVIEW.—

"(A) REGULAR REVIEW.—A State to which a grant is made under section 403 shall—

"(i) monitor the participation of each adult recipient or minor child head of household in the activities specified in the self-sufficiency plan, and regularly review the progress of the family toward self-sufficiency; and

"(ii) upon such a review, revise the plan and activities required under the plan as the State deems appropriate in consultation with the family.

"(B) PRIOR TO THE IMPOSITION OF A SANCTION.—Prior to imposing a sanction against an adult recipient, minor child head of household, or a family for failure to comply with a requirement of the self-sufficiency plan or the State program funded under this part, the State shall, to the extent determined appropriate by the State—

"(i) review the self-sufficiency plan; and

"(ii) make a good faith effort (as defined by the State) to consult with the family.

"(4) STATE DISCRETION.—A State shall have sole discretion, consistent with section 407, to define and design activities for families for purposes of this subsection, to develop methods for monitoring and reviewing progress pursuant to this subsection, and to make modifications to the plan as the State deems appropriate to assist the individual in increasing their degree of self-sufficiency.

"(5) APPLICATION TO PARTIALLY-SANCTIONED FAMILIES.—The requirements of this subsection shall apply in the case of a family that includes an adult or minor child head of household recipient of assistance who is subject to a partial sanction.

"(6) TIMING.—The State shall initiate screening and assessment and the establishment of a family self-sufficiency plan in accordance with the requirements of this subsection—

"(A) in the case of a family that, as of the date of enactment of the Personal Responsibility and Individual Development for Everyone Act, is not receiving assistance from the State program funded under this part, not later than the later of—

"(i) 1 year after such date of enactment; or

"(ii) 60 days after the family first receives assistance on the basis of the most recent application for assistance; and

"(B) in the case of a family that, as of such date, is receiving assistance under the State program funded under this part, not later than 1 year after such date of enactment.

"(7) RULE OF INTERPRETATION.—Nothing in this subsection shall preclude a State from—

"(A) requiring participation in work and any other activities the State deems appropriate for helping families achieve self-sufficiency and improving child well-being; or

"(B) using job search or other appropriate job readiness or work activities to assess the employability of individuals and to determine appropriate future engagement activities."

(B) PENALTY FOR FAILURE TO COMPLY WITH FAMILY SELF-SUFFICIENCY PLAN REQUIREMENTS.—

(i) IN GENERAL.—Section 409(a)(3) (42 U.S.C. 609(a)(3)) is amended—

(I) in the paragraph heading, by inserting "OR COMPLY WITH FAMILY SELF-SUFFICIENCY PLAN REQUIREMENTS" after "RATES";

(II) in subparagraph (A), by inserting "or 408(b)" after "407(a)"; and

(III) by striking subparagraph (C) and inserting the following:

"(C) PENALTY BASED ON SEVERITY OF FAILURE.—

"(i) FAILURE TO SATISFY MINIMUM PARTICIPATION RATE.—If, with respect to fiscal year 2005 or any fiscal year thereafter, the Secretary finds that a State has failed or is failing to substantially comply with the requirements of section 407(a) for that fiscal year, the Secretary shall impose reductions under subparagraph (A) with respect to the immediately succeeding fiscal year based on the degree of substantial noncompliance. In assessing the degree of substantial noncompliance under section 407(a) for a fiscal year, the Secretary shall take into account factors such as—

“(I) the degree to which the State missed the minimum participation rate for that fiscal year;“(II) the change in the number of individuals who are engaged in work in the State since the prior fiscal year; and “(III) the number of consecutive fiscal years in which the State failed to reach the minimum participation rate.

“(ii) FAILURE TO COMPLY WITH SELF-SUFFICIENCY PLAN REQUIREMENTS.—If, with respect to fiscal year 2005 or any fiscal year thereafter, the Secretary finds that a State has failed or is failing to substantially comply with the requirements of section 408(b) for that fiscal year, the Secretary shall impose reductions under subparagraph (A) with respect to the immediately succeeding fiscal year based on the degree of substantial noncompliance. In assessing the degree of substantial noncompliance under section 408(b), the Secretary shall take into account factors such as—

“(I) the number or percentage of families for which a self-sufficiency plan is not established in a timely fashion for that fiscal year;

“(II) the duration of the delays in establishing a self-sufficiency plan during that fiscal year;

“(III) whether the failures are isolated and nonrecurring; and “(IV) the existence of systems designed to ensure that self-sufficiency plans are established for all families in a timely fashion and that families' progress under such plans is monitored.

“(iii) AUTHORITY TO REDUCE THE PENALTY.—The Secretary may reduce the penalty that would otherwise apply under this paragraph if the substantial noncompliance is due to circumstances that caused the State to meet the criteria of subclause (I), (II), or (III) of section 403(b)(3)(A)(iii) or to satisfy the applicable duration requirement of section 403(b)(3)(B) during the fiscal year, or if the noncompliance is due to extraordinary circumstances such as a natural disaster or regional recession. The Secretary shall provide a written report to Congress to justify any waiver or penalty reduction due to such extraordinary circumstances.”

(ii) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this subparagraph take effect on October 1, 2004.

(3) GAO EVALUATION AND REPORT.—Not later than September 30, 2005, the Comptroller General of the United States shall submit a report to the Committee on Ways and Means of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Finance of the Senate evaluating the implementation of the universal engagement provisions under the temporary assistance to needy families program under part A of title IV of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 601 et seq.), as added by the amendments made by this subsection.

(4) RULES OF CONSTRUCTION.—Nothing in this subsection or the amendments made by this subsection shall be construed—

(A) as establishing a private right or cause of action against a State for failure to comply with the requirements imposed under this subsection or the amendments made by this subsection; or

(B) as limiting claims that may be available under other Federal or State laws.

(b) TRANSITIONAL COMPLIANCE FOR TEEN PARENTS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Section 408(a)(5) (42 U.S.C. 608(a)(5)) is amended—

(A) in subparagraph (A)(i), by striking “subparagraph (B)” and inserting “subparagraphs (B) and (C)”; and

(B) by adding at the end the following:

“(C) AUTHORITY TO PROVIDE TEMPORARY ASSISTANCE.—A State may use any part of a grant made under section 403 to provide assistance to an individual described in clause (ii) of subparagraph (A) who would otherwise be prohibited from receiving such assistance under clause (i) of that subparagraph, subparagraph (B), or section 408(a)(4) for not more than a single 60-day period in order to assist the individual in meeting the requirement of clause (i) of subparagraph (A), subparagraph (B), or section 408(a)(4) for receipt of such assistance.”

(2) INCLUSION OF TRANSITIONAL LIVING YOUTH PROJECTS AS A FORM OF ADULT-SUPERVISED SETTING.—Clause (i) of section 408(a)(5)(A) (42 U.S.C. 608(a)(5)(A)(i)), as amended by paragraph (1), is amended—

(A) by striking “do not reside in a place of” and inserting “do not reside in a—

“(I) place of”;

(B) by striking the period and inserting “; or”; and

(C) by adding at the end the following:

"(4) TRIBAL TANF IMPROVEMENT FUND.—

"(A) ESTABLISHMENT.—The Secretary shall establish a fund for purposes of carrying out any of the following activities:

"(i) Providing technical assistance to Indian tribes considering applying to carry out, or that are carrying out, a tribal family assistance plan under this section in order to help such tribes establish and operate strong and effective tribal family assistance plans under this section that will allow families receiving assistance under such plans achieve the highest measure of self-sufficiency.

"(ii) Awarding competitive grants directly to Indian tribes carrying out a tribal family assistance plan under this section for purposes of conducting programs and activities that would substantially improve the operation and effectiveness of such plans and the ability of such tribes to achieve the purposes of the program under this part as described in section 401(a).

"(iii) Awarding competitive grants directly to Indian tribes carrying out a tribal family assistance plan under this section to support tribal economic development activities that would significantly assist families receiving assistance under the State program funded under this part or a tribal family assistance plan obtain employment and achieve self-sufficiency.

"(iv) Conducting, directly or through grants, contracts, or interagency agreements, research and development to improve knowledge about tribal family assistance programs conducted under this section and challenges faced by such programs in order to improve the effectiveness of such programs.

"(B) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—There are authorized to be appropriated to the Secretary to carry out this paragraph, $100,000,000 for each of fiscal years 2004 through 2008."

SEC. 114. RESEARCH, EVALUATIONS, AND NATIONAL STUDIES.

(a) SECRETARY'S FUND FOR RESEARCH, DEMONSTRATIONS, AND TECHNICAL ASSISTANCE.—Section 413 (42 U.S.C. 613), as amended by section 101(d), is further amended by adding at the end the following:

"(1) FUNDING FOR RESEARCH, DEMONSTRATIONS, AND TECHNICAL ASSISTANCE.—

"(1) APPROPRIATION.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—Out of any money in the Treasury of the United States not otherwise appropriated, there are appropriated $100,000,000 for each of fiscal years 2004 through 2008, which shall remain available to the Secretary until expended.

"(B) USE OF FUNDS.—

"(i) IN GENERAL.—Funds appropriated under subparagraph (A) shall be used for the purpose of—

"(I) conducting or supporting research and demonstration projects by public or private entities; or

"(II) providing technical assistance in connection with a purpose of the program funded under this part, as described in section 401(a), to States, Indian tribal organizations, sub-State entities, and such other entities as the Secretary may specify.

"(ii) REQUIREMENT.—Not less than 80 percent of the funds appropriated under subparagraph (A) for a fiscal year shall be expended for the purpose of conducting or supporting research and demonstration projects, or for providing technical assistance, in connection with activities described in section 403(a)(2)(B). Funds appropriated under subparagraph (A) and expended in accordance with this clause shall be in addition to any other funds made available under this part for activities described in section 403(a)(2)(B).

"(2) SECRETARY'S AUTHORITY.—The Secretary may conduct activities authorized by this subsection directly or through grants, contracts, or interagency agreements with public or private entities.

"(3) REQUIREMENT FOR USE OF FUNDS.—The Secretary shall not pay any funds appropriated under paragraph (1)(A) to an entity for the purpose of conducting or supporting research and demonstration projects involving activities described in section 403(a)(2)(B) unless the entity complies with the requirements of section 403(a)(2)(E)."

(b) FUNDING OF STUDIES AND DEMONSTRATIONS.—Section 413(h)(1) (42 U.S.C. 613(h)(1)) is amended in the matter preceding subparagraph (A) by striking "1997 through 2002" and inserting "2004 through 2008".

(c) PROGRAM COORDINATION DEMONSTRATION PROJECTS.—

(1) PURPOSE.—The purpose of this subsection is to establish a program of demonstration projects in a State or portion of a State to coordinate assistance provided under qualified programs for the purpose of supporting working individuals and families, helping families escape welfare dependency, promoting child well-being, or helping build stronger families, using innovative approaches to strengthen service systems and provide more coordinated and effective service delivery.

(2) DEFINITIONS.—In this subsection:

(A) QUALIFIED PROGRAM.—The term "qualified program" means—

(i) a program under part A of title IV of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 601 et seq.);

(ii) the program under title XX of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 1397 et seq.); and

(iii) child care assistance funded under section 418 of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 618).

(B) SECRETARY.—The term "Secretary" means the Secretary of Health and Human Services.

(3) APPLICATION REQUIREMENTS.—The head of a State entity or of a sub-State entity administering 2 or more qualified programs proposed to be included in a demonstration project under this subsection shall (or, if the project is proposed to include qualified programs administered by 2 or more such entities, the heads of the administering entities (each of whom shall be considered an applicant for purposes of this subsection) shall jointly) submit to the Secretary an application that contains the following:

(A) PROGRAMS INCLUDED.—A statement identifying each qualified program to be included in the project, and describing how the purposes of each such program will be achieved by the project.

(B) POPULATION SERVED.—A statement identifying the population to be served by the project and specifying the eligibility criteria to be used.

(C) DESCRIPTION AND JUSTIFICATION.—A detailed description of the project, including—

(i) a description of how the project is expected to improve or enhance achievement of the purposes of the programs to be included in the project, from the standpoint of quality, of cost-effectiveness, or of both; and

(ii) a description of the performance objectives for the project, including any proposed modifications to the performance measures and reporting requirements used in the programs.

(D) WAIVERS REQUESTED.—A description of the statutory and regulatory requirements with respect to which a waiver is requested in order to carry out the project, and a justification of the need for each such waiver.

(E) COST NEUTRALITY.—Such information and assurances as necessary to establish to the satisfaction of the Secretary, in consultation with the Director of the Office of Management and Budget, that the proposed project is reasonably expected to meet the applicable cost neutrality requirements of paragraph (4)(E).

(F) EVALUATION AND REPORTS.—An assurance that the applicant will—

(i) obtain an evaluation by an independent contractor of the effectiveness of the project using an evaluation design that, to the maximum extent feasible, includes random assignment of clients (or entities serving such clients) to service delivery and control groups; and

(ii) make interim and final reports to the Secretary, at such times and in such manner as the Secretary may require.

(G) OTHER INFORMATION AND ASSURANCES.—Such other information and assurances as the Secretary may require.

(4) APPROVAL OF APPLICATIONS.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary with respect to a qualified program that is identified in an application submitted pursuant to subsection (c) may approve the application and, except as provided in subparagraph (B), waive any requirement applicable to the program, to the extent consistent with this subsection and necessary and appropriate for the conduct of the demonstration project proposed in the application, if the Secretary determines that the project—

(i) has a reasonable likelihood of achieving the objectives of the programs to be included in the project;

(ii) may reasonably be expected to meet the applicable cost neutrality requirements of subparagraph (E), as determined by the Director of the Office of Management and Budget;

(iii) includes the coordination of 2 or more qualified programs; and

(iv) provides for an independent evaluation that includes random assignment to the maximum extent feasible, as described in paragraph (3)(F), and which the Secretary determines to be appropriate for assessing the effectiveness of the project.

(B) PROVISIONS EXCLUDED FROM WAIVER AUTHORITY.—A waiver shall not be granted under subparagraph (A)—

(i) with respect to any provision of law relating to—

(I) civil rights or prohibition of discrimination;

(II) purposes or goals of any program;

(III) maintenance of effort requirements;

(IV) health or safety;

(V) labor standards under the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938; or

(VI) environmental protection;

(ii) in the case of child care assistance funded under section 418 of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 618), with respect to the requirement under the first sentence of subsection (b)(1) of that section that funds received by a State under that section shall only be used to provide child care assistance;

(iii) with respect to any requirement that a State pass through to a sub-State entity part or all of an amount paid to the State;

(iv) if the waiver would waive any funding restriction or limitation provided in an appropriations Act, or would have the effect of transferring appropriated funds from 1 appropriations account to another; or

(v) except as otherwise provided by statute, if the waiver would waive any funding restriction applicable to a program authorized under an Act which is not an appropriations Act (but not including program requirements such as application procedures, performance standards, reporting requirements, or eligibility standards), or would have the effect of transferring funds from a program for which there is direct spending (as defined in section 250(c)(8) of the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985) to another program.

(C) 10 STATE LIMITATION.—The Director of the Office of Management and Budget shall establish a procedure for ensuring that not more than 10 States (including any portion of a State) conduct a demonstration project under this subsection.

(D) AGREEMENT OF SECRETARY REQUIRED.—

(i) IN GENERAL.—An applicant may not conduct a demonstration project under this subsection unless the Secretary, with respect to each qualified program proposed to be included in the project, has approved the application to conduct the project.

(ii) AGREEMENT WITH RESPECT TO FUNDING AND IMPLEMENTATION.—Before approving an application to conduct a demonstration project under this subsection, the Secretary shall have in place an agreement with the applicant with respect to the payment of funds and responsibilities required of the Secretary with respect to the project.

(E) COST-NEUTRALITY REQUIREMENT.—

(i) GENERAL RULE.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law (except as provided in clause (ii)), the total of the amounts that may be paid by the Federal Government for a fiscal year with respect to the programs in the State in which an entity conducting a demonstration project under this subsection is located that are affected by the project shall not exceed the estimated total amount that the Federal Government would have paid for the fiscal year with respect to the programs if the project had not been conducted, as determined by the Director of the Office of Management and Budget.

(ii) SPECIAL RULE.—If an applicant submits to the Director of the Office of Management and Budget a request to apply the rules of this clause to the programs in the State in which the applicant is located that are affected by a demonstration project proposed in an application submitted by the applicant pursuant to this section, during such period of not more than 5 consecutive fiscal years in which the project is in effect, and the Director determines, on the basis of supporting information provided by the applicant, to grant the request, then, notwithstanding any other provision of law, the total of the amounts that may be paid by the Federal Government for the period with respect to the programs shall not exceed the estimated total amount that the Federal Government would have paid for the period with respect to the programs if the project had not been conducted.

(F) 90-DAY APPROVAL DEADLINE.—

(i) IN GENERAL.—If the Secretary receives an application to conduct a demonstration project under this subsection and does not disapprove the application within 90 days after the receipt, then, subject to the 10 State limitation under paragraph (3)—

(I) the Secretary is deemed to have approved the application for such period as is requested in the application, except to the extent inconsistent with paragraph (5); and

(II) any waiver requested in the application which applies to a qualified program that is identified in the application and is administered by the Secretary is deemed to be granted, except to the extent inconsistent with subparagraph (B) or (E) of this paragraph.

(ii) DEADLINE EXTENDED IF ADDITIONAL INFORMATION IS SOUGHT.—The 90-day period referred to in clause (i) shall not include any period that begins with the date the Secretary requests the applicant to provide additional information with respect to the application and ends with the date the additional information is provided.

(5) DURATION OF PROJECTS.—A demonstration project under this subsection may be approved for a term of not more than 5 years.

(6) REPORTS TO CONGRESS.—

(A) REPORT ON DISPOSITION OF APPLICATIONS.—Within 90 days after the date the Secretary receives an application submitted pursuant to this subsection, the Secretary shall submit to the Committee on Finance of the Senate and the Committee on Ways and Means of the House of Representatives notice of the receipt, a description of the decision of the Secretary with respect to the application, and the reasons for approving or disapproving the application.

(B) REPORTS ON PROJECTS.—The Secretary shall provide annually to Congress a report concerning demonstration projects approved under this subsection, including—

(i) the projects approved for each applicant;

(ii) the number of waivers granted under this subsection, and the specific statutory provisions waived;

(iii) how well each project for which a waiver is granted is improving or enhancing program achievement from the standpoint of quality, cost-effectiveness, or both;

(iv) how well each project for which a waiver is granted is meeting the performance objectives specified in paragraph (3)(C)(ii);

(v) how each project for which a waiver is granted is conforming with the cost-neutrality requirements of paragraph (4)(E); and

(vi) to the extent the Secretary deems appropriate, recommendations for modification of programs based on outcomes of the projects.

SEC. 115. STUDY BY THE CENSUS BUREAU.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 414(a) (42 U.S.C. 614(a)) is amended to read as follows:

“(a) IN GENERAL.—The Bureau of the Census shall implement or enhance a longitudinal survey of program participation, developed in consultation with the Secretary and made available to interested parties, to allow for the assessment of the outcomes of continued welfare reform on the economic and child well-being of low-income families with children, including those who received assistance or services from a State program funded under this part, and, to the extent possible, shall provide State representative samples. The content of the survey should include such information as may be necessary to examine the issues of out-of-wedlock childbearing, marriage, welfare dependency and compliance with work requirements, the beginning and ending of spells of assistance, work, earnings and employment stability, and the well-being of children.”

(b) REPORTS ON THE WELL-BEING OF CHILDREN AND FAMILIES.—Section 414 (42 U.S.C. 614), as amended by subsection (a), is amended—

(1) by redesignating subsection (b) as subsection (c); and

(2) by inserting after subsection (a) the following:

“(b) REPORTS ON THE WELL-BEING OF CHILDREN AND FAMILIES.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—Not later than 24 months after the date of enactment of the Personal Responsibility and Individual Development for Everyone Act, the Secretary of Commerce shall prepare and submit to the Committee on Ways and Means of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Finance of the Senate a report on the well-being of children and families using data collected under subsection (a).

“(2) SECOND REPORT.—Not later than 60 months after such date of enactment, the Secretary of Commerce shall submit a second report to the Committee on Ways and Means of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Finance of the Senate on the well-being of children and families using data collected under subsection (a).

“(3) INCLUSION OF COMPARABLE MEASURES.—Where comparable measures for data collected under subsection (a) exist in surveys previously administered by the Bureau of the Census, appropriate comparisons shall be made and included in each report required under this subsection on the well-being of children and families to assess changes in such measures.”

(c) APPROPRIATION.—Section 414(c) (42 U.S.C. 614(c)), as redesignated by subsection (b)(1) and as amended by section 3(i) of the Welfare Reform Extension Act of 2003 (Public Law 108-040, 117 Stat. 837), is amended by striking “1996,” and all that follows through the period and inserting “2004 through 2008 for payment to the Bureau of the Census to carry out this section. Funds appropriated under this subsection for a fiscal year shall remain available through fiscal year 2008 to carry out this section.”

SEC. 116. FUNDING FOR CHILD CARE.

(a) INCREASE IN MANDATORY FUNDING.—Section 418(a)(3) (42 U.S.C. 618(a)(3)), as amended by section 4 of the Welfare Reform Extension Act of 2003 (Public Law 108-040, 117 Stat. 837), is amended—

(1) by striking “and” at the end of subparagraph (E);

(2) by striking the period at the end of subparagraph (F) and inserting “; and”; and

(3) by adding at the end the following: “(G) $2,917,000,000 for each of fiscal years 2004 through 2008.”

(b) INCLUSION OF COMMONWEALTH OF PUERTO RICO IN RESERVATION OF CHILD CARE FUNDS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Section 418(a)(4) (42 U.S.C. 618(a)(4)) is amended—

(A) in the paragraph heading, by striking “INDIAN TRIBES” and inserting “AMOUNTS RESERVED”; and

(B) by striking “The Secretary” and inserting the following:

“(A) INDIAN TRIBES.—The Secretary”; and

(C) by adding at the end the following:

“(B) PUERTO RICO.—The Secretary shall reserve $10,000,000 of the amount appropriated under paragraph (3) for each fiscal year for payments to the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico for each such fiscal year for the purpose of providing child care assistance.”

(2) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—Section 1108(a)(2) (42 U.S.C. 1308(a)(2)), as amended by section 108(b)(3), is amended by striking “or 413(f)” and inserting “413(f), or 418(a)(4)(B)”.

SEC. 117. DEFINITIONS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 419 (42 U.S.C. 619) is amended by adding at the end the following:

“(6) ASSISTANCE.—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—The term ‘assistance’ means payment, by cash, voucher, or other means, to or for an individual or family for the purpose of meeting a subsistence need of the individual or family (including food, clothing, shelter, and related items, but not including costs of transportation or child care).

“(B) EXCEPTION.—The term ‘assistance’ does not include a payment described in subparagraph (A) to or for an individual or family on a short-term, nonrecurring basis (as defined by the State in accordance with regulations prescribed by the Secretary).”

(b) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—

(2) Section 404(f) (42 U.S.C. 604(f)) is amended by striking “assistance” and inserting “benefits or services”.

(3) Section 408(a)(5)(B)(i) (42 U.S.C. 608(a)(5)(B)(i)) is amended in the heading by striking “ASSISTANCE” and inserting “AID”.

(4) Section 413(d)(2) (42 U.S.C. 613(d)(2)) is amended by striking “assistance” and inserting “aid”.

(5) Section 5(g)(2)(D) of the Food Stamp Act of 1977 (7 U.S.C. 2014(g)(2)(D)) is amended—

(A) by striking “If the vehicle allowance” and inserting the following:

“(i) IN GENERAL.—If the vehicle allowance”; and

(B) by adding at the end the following:

“(ii) DEFINITION OF ASSISTANCE.—In clause (i), the term ‘assistance’ shall have the meaning given such term in section 260.31 of title 45 of the Code of Federal Regulations, as in effect on June 1, 2002.”

SEC. 118. RESPONSIBLE FATHERHOOD PROGRAM.

(a) RESPONSIBLE FATHERHOOD PROGRAM.—

(1) FINDINGS.—Congress makes the following findings:

(A) Nearly 24,000,000 children in the United States, or 34 percent of all such children, live apart from their biological father.

(B) Sixty percent of couples who divorce have at least 1 child.

(C) The number of children living with only a mother increased from just over 5,000,000 in 1960 to 17,000,000 in 1999, and between 1981 and 1991 the percentage of children living with only 1 parent increased from 19 percent to 25 percent.

(D) Forty percent of children who live in households without a father have not seen their father in at least 1 year and 50 percent of such children have never visited their father's home.

(E) The most important factor in a child's upbringing is whether the child is brought up in a loving, healthy, supportive environment.

(F) Children who live without contact with their biological father are, in comparison to children who have such contact—

- (i) 5 times more likely to live in poverty;
- (ii) more likely to bring weapons and drugs into the classroom;
- (iii) twice as likely to commit crime;
- (iv) twice as likely to drop out of school;
- (v) more likely to commit suicide;
- (vi) more than twice as likely to abuse alcohol or drugs; and
- (vii) more likely to become pregnant as teenagers.

(G) Violent criminals are overwhelmingly males who grew up without fathers.

(H) Between 20 and 30 percent of families in poverty are headed by women who have suffered domestic violence during the past year, and between 40 and 60 percent of women with children receiving welfare were abused sometime during their life.

(I) Responsible fatherhood includes active participation in financial support and child care, as well as the formation and maintenance of a positive, healthy, and nonviolent relationship between father and child and a cooperative relationship between parents.

(J) States should be encouraged to implement programs that provide support for responsible fatherhood, promote marriage, and increase the incidence of marriage, and should not be restricted from implementing such programs.

(K) Fatherhood programs should promote and provide support services for—

- (i) loving and healthy relationships between parents and children; and
- (ii) cooperative parenting.

(L) There is a social need to reconnect children and fathers.

(M) The promotion of responsible fatherhood and encouragement of healthy 2-parent married families should not—

- (i) denigrate the standing or parenting efforts of single mothers or other caregivers;
 - (ii) lessen the protection of children from abusive parents; or
 - (iii) compromise the safety or health of the custodial parent;
- but should increase the chance that children will have 2 caring parents to help them grow up healthy and secure.

(N) The promotion of responsible fatherhood must always recognize and promote the values of nonviolence.

(O) For the future of the United States and the future of our children, Congress, States, and local communities should assist parents to become more actively involved in their children's lives.

(P) Child support is an important means by which a parent can take financial responsibility for a child and emotional support is an important means by which a parent can take social responsibility for a child.

(2) FATHERHOOD PROGRAM.—Title I of the Personal Responsibility and Work Opportunity Reconciliation Act of 1996 (Public Law 104-193) is amended by adding at the end the following:

“(a) IN GENERAL.—Title IV (42 U.S.C. 601-679b) is amended by inserting after part B the following:

“PART C—RESPONSIBLE FATHERHOOD PROGRAM

“(a) GRANTS TO STATES TO CONDUCT DEMONSTRATION PROGRAMS.—

“(1) AUTHORITY TO AWARD GRANTS.—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall award grants to up to 10 eligible States to conduct demonstration programs to carry out the purposes described in paragraph (2).

“(B) ELIGIBLE STATE.—For purposes of this subsection, an eligible State is a State that submits to the Secretary the following:

“(i) APPLICATION.—An application for a grant under this subsection, at such time, in such manner, and containing such information as the Secretary may require.

“(ii) STATE PLAN.—A State plan that includes the following:

“(I) PROJECT DESCRIPTION.—A description of the programs or activities the State will fund under the grant, including a good faith estimate of the number and characteristics of clients to be served under such projects and how the State intends to achieve at least 2 of the purposes described in paragraph (2).

“(II) COORDINATION EFFORTS.—A description of how the State will coordinate and cooperate with State and local entities responsible for carrying out other programs that relate to the purposes intended to be achieved under the demonstration program, including as appropriate, entities responsible for carrying out jobs programs and programs serving children and families.

“(III) RECORDS, REPORTS, AND AUDITS.—An agreement to maintain such records, submit such reports, and cooperate with such reviews and audits as the Secretary finds necessary for purposes of oversight of the demonstration program.

“(iii) CERTIFICATIONS.—The following certifications from the chief executive officer of the State:

“(I) A certification that the State will use funds provided under the grant to promote at least 2 of the purposes described in paragraph (2).

“(II) A certification that the State will return any unused funds to the Secretary in accordance with the reconciliation process under paragraph (5).

“(III) A certification that the funds provided under the grant will be used for programs and activities that target low-income participants and that not less than 50 percent of the participants in each program or activity funded under the grant shall be—

“(aa) parents of a child who is, or within the past 24 months has been, a recipient of assistance or services under a State program funded under part A, D, or E of this title, title XIX, or the Food Stamp Act of 1977; or

“(bb) parents, including an expectant parent or a married parent, whose income (after adjustment for court-ordered child support paid or received) does not exceed 150 percent of the poverty line.

“(IV) A certification that the State has or will comply with the requirements of paragraph (4).

“(V) A certification that funds provided to a State under this subsection shall not be used to supplement or supplant other Federal, State, or local funds that are used to support programs or activities that are related to the purposes described in paragraph (2).

“(C) PREFERENCES AND FACTORS OF CONSIDERATION.—In awarding grants under this subsection, the Secretary shall take into consideration the following:

“(i) DIVERSITY OF ENTITIES USED TO CONDUCT PROGRAMS AND ACTIVITIES.—The Secretary shall, to the extent practicable, achieve a balance among the eligible States awarded grants under this subsection with respect to the size, urban or rural location, and employment of differing or unique methods of the entities that the eligible States intend to use to conduct the programs and activities funded under the grants.

“(ii) PRIORITY FOR CERTAIN STATES.—The Secretary shall give priority to awarding grants to eligible States that have—

“(I) demonstrated progress in achieving at least 1 of the purposes described in paragraph (2) through previous State initiatives; or “(II) demonstrated need with respect to reducing the incidence of out-of-wedlock births or absent fathers in the State.

“(2) PURPOSES.—The purposes described in this paragraph are the following:

“(A) PROMOTING RESPONSIBLE FATHERHOOD THROUGH MARRIAGE PROMOTION.—To promote marriage or sustain marriage through activities such as counseling, mentoring, disseminating information about the benefits of marriage and 2-parent involvement for children, enhancing relationship skills, education regarding how to control aggressive behavior, disseminating information on the causes of domestic violence and child abuse, marriage preparation programs, premarital counseling, marital inventories, skills-based marriage education, financial planning seminars, including improving a family's ability to effectively manage family business affairs by means such as education, counseling, or mentoring on matters related to family finances, including household management, budgeting, banking, and handling of financial transactions and home maintenance, and divorce education and reduction programs, including mediation and counseling.

“(B) PROMOTING RESPONSIBLE FATHERHOOD THROUGH PARENTING PROMOTION.—To promote responsible parenting through activities such as counseling, mentoring, and mediation, disseminating information about good parenting practices, skills-based parenting education, encouraging child support payments, and other methods.

“(C) PROMOTING RESPONSIBLE FATHERHOOD THROUGH FOSTERING ECONOMIC STABILITY OF FATHERS.—To foster economic stability by helping fathers improve their economic status by providing activities such as work first services, job search, job training, subsidized employment, job retention, job enhancement, and encouraging education, including career-advancing education, dissemination of employment materials, coordination with existing employment services such as welfare-to-work programs, referrals to local employment training initiatives, and other methods.

“(3) RESTRICTION ON USE OF FUNDS.—No funds provided under this subsection may be used for costs attributable to court proceedings regarding matters of child visitation or custody, or for legislative advocacy.

“(4) REQUIREMENTS FOR RECEIPT OF FUNDS.—A State may not be awarded a grant under this section unless the State, as a condition of receiving funds under such a grant—

“(A) consults with experts in domestic violence or with relevant community domestic violence coalitions in developing such programs or activities; and

“(B) describes in the application for a grant under this section—

“(i) how the programs or activities proposed to be conducted will address, as appropriate, issues of domestic violence; and “(ii) what the State will do, to the extent relevant, to ensure that participation in such programs or activities is voluntary, and to inform potential participants that their involvement is voluntary.

“(5) RECONCILIATION PROCESS.—

“(A) 3-YEAR AVAILABILITY OF AMOUNTS ALLOTTED.—Each eligible State that receives a grant under this subsection for a fiscal year shall return to the Secretary any unused portion of the grant for such fiscal year not later than the last day of the second succeeding fiscal year, together with any earnings on such unused portion.

“(B) PROCEDURE FOR REDISTRIBUTION.—The Secretary shall establish an appropriate procedure for redistributing to eligible States that have expended the entire amount of a grant made under this subsection for a fiscal year any amount that is returned to the Secretary by eligible States under subparagraph (A).

“(6) AMOUNT OF GRANTS.—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—Subject to subparagraph (B), the amount of each grant awarded under this subsection shall be an amount sufficient to implement the State plan submitted under paragraph (1)(B)(ii).

“(B) MINIMUM AMOUNTS.—No eligible State shall—

“(i) in the case of the District of Columbia or a State other than the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, the United States Virgin Islands, Guam, American Samoa, and the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands, receive a grant for a fiscal year in an amount that is less than $1,000,000; and “(ii) in the case of the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, the United States Virgin Islands, Guam, American Samoa, and the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands, receive a grant for a fiscal year in an amount that is less than $500,000.

“(7) DEFINITION OF STATE.—In this subsection the term ‘State’ means each of the 50 States, the District of Columbia, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, the United States Virgin Islands, Guam, American Samoa, and the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands.

“(8) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—There is authorized to be appropriated $20,000,000 for each of fiscal years 2004 through 2008 for purposes of making grants to eligible States under this subsection.

“(b) GRANTS TO ELIGIBLE ENTITIES TO CONDUCT DEMONSTRATION PROGRAMS.—

“(1) AUTHORITY TO AWARD GRANTS.—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall award grants to eligible entities to conduct demonstration programs to carry out the purposes described in subsection (a)(2).

“(B) ELIGIBLE ENTITY.—For purposes of this subsection, an eligible entity is a local government, local public agency, community-based or nonprofit organization, or private entity, including any charitable or faith-based organization, or an Indian tribe (as defined in section 419(4)), that submits to the Secretary the following:

“(i) APPLICATION.—An application for a grant under this subsection, at such time, in such manner, and containing such information as the Secretary may require.

“(ii) PROJECT DESCRIPTION.—A description of the programs or activities the entity intends to carry out with funds provided under the grant, including a good faith estimate of the number and characteristics of clients to be served under such programs or activities and how the entity intends to achieve at least 2 of the purposes described in subsection (a)(2).

“(iii) COORDINATION EFFORTS.—A description of how the entity will coordinate and cooperate with State and local entities responsible for carrying out other programs that relate to the purposes intended to be achieved under the demonstration program, including as appropriate, entities responsible for carrying out jobs programs and programs serving children and families.

“(iv) RECORDS, REPORTS, AND AUDITS.—An agreement to maintain such records, submit such reports, and cooperate with such reviews and audits as the Secretary finds necessary for purposes of oversight of the demonstration program.

“(v) CERTIFICATIONS.—The following certifications:

“(I) A certification that the entity will use funds provided under the grant to promote at least 2 of the purposes described in subsection (a)(2).

“(II) A certification that the entity will return any unused funds to the Secretary in accordance with the reconciliation process under paragraph (3).

“(III) A certification that the funds provided under the grant will be used for programs and activities that target low-income participants and that not less than 50 percent of the participants in each program or activity funded under the grant shall be—

“(aa) parents of a child who is, or within the past 24 months has been, a recipient of assistance or services under a State program funded under part A, D, or E of this title, title XIX, or the Food Stamp Act of 1977; or

“(bb) parents, including an expectant parent or a married parent, whose income (after adjustment for court-ordered child support paid or received) does not exceed 150 percent of the poverty line.

“(IV) A certification that the entity has or will comply with the requirements of paragraph (3).

“(V) A certification that funds provided to an entity under this subsection shall not be used to supplement or supplant other Federal, State, or local funds provided to the entity that are used to support programs or activities that are related to the purposes described in subsection (a)(2).

“(C) PREFERENCES AND FACTORS OF CONSIDERATION.—In awarding grants under this subsection, the Secretary shall, to the extent practicable, achieve a balance among the eligible entities awarded grants under this subsection with respect to the size, urban or rural location, and employment of differing or unique methods of the entities.

“(2) RESTRICTION ON USE OF FUNDS.—No funds provided under this subsection may be used for costs attributable to court proceedings regarding matters of child visitation or custody, or for legislative advocacy.

“(3) REQUIREMENTS FOR USE OF FUNDS.—The Secretary may not award a grant under this subsection to an eligible entity unless the entity, as a condition of receiving funds under such a grant—

“(A) consults with experts in domestic violence or with relevant community domestic violence coalitions in developing the programs or activities to be conducted with such funds awarded under the grant; and

“(B) describes in the application for a grant under this section—

“(i) how the programs or activities proposed to be conducted will address, as appropriate, issues of domestic violence; and “(ii) what the entity will do, to the extent relevant, to ensure that participation in such programs or activities is voluntary, and to inform potential participants that their involvement is voluntary.

“(4) RECONCILIATION PROCESS.—

“(A) 3-YEAR AVAILABILITY OF AMOUNTS ALLOTTED.—Each eligible entity that receives a grant under this subsection for a fiscal year shall return to the Secretary any unused portion of the grant for such fiscal year not later than the last day of the second succeeding fiscal year, together with any earnings on such unused portion.

“(B) PROCEDURE FOR REDISTRIBUTION.—The Secretary shall establish an appropriate procedure for redistributing to eligible entities that have expended the entire amount of a grant made under this subsection for a fiscal year any amount that is returned to the Secretary by eligible entities under subparagraph (A).

“(5) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—There is authorized to be appropriated $30,000,000 for each of fiscal years 2004 through 2008 for purposes of making grants to eligible entities under this subsection.

“(a) MEDIA CAMPAIGN NATIONAL CLEARINGHOUSE FOR RESPONSIBLE FATHERHOOD.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—From any funds appropriated under subsection (c), the Secretary shall contract with a nationally recognized, nonprofit fatherhood promotion organization described in subsection (b) to—

“(A) develop, promote, and distribute to interested States, local governments, public agencies, and private entities a media campaign that encourages the appropriate involvement of parents in the life of any child, with a priority for programs that specifically address the issue of responsible fatherhood; and

“(B) develop a national clearinghouse to assist States and communities in efforts to promote and support marriage and responsible fatherhood by collecting, evaluating, and making available (through the Internet and by other means) to other States information regarding the media campaigns established under section 443.

“(2) COORDINATION WITH DOMESTIC VIOLENCE PROGRAMS.—The Secretary shall ensure that the nationally recognized nonprofit fatherhood promotion organization with a contract under paragraph (1) coordinates the media campaign developed under subparagraph (A) of such paragraph and the national clearinghouse developed under subparagraph (B) of such paragraph with national, State, or local domestic violence programs.

“(b) NATIONALLY RECOGNIZED, NONPROFIT FATHERHOOD PROMOTION ORGANIZATION DESCRIBED.—The nationally recognized, nonprofit fatherhood promotion organization described in this subsection is an organization that has at least 4 years of experience in—

“(1) designing and disseminating a national public education campaign, as evidenced by the production and successful placement of television, radio, and print public service announcements that promote the importance of responsible fatherhood, a track record of service to Spanish-speaking populations and historically underserved or minority populations, the capacity to fulfill requests for information and a proven history of fulfilling such requests, and a mechanism through which the public can request additional information about the campaign; and

“(2) providing consultation and training to community-based organizations interested in implementing fatherhood outreach, support, or skill development programs with an emphasis on promoting married fatherhood as the ideal.

“(c) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—There is authorized to be appropriated $5,000,000 for each of fiscal years 2004 through 2008 to carry out this section.

“(a) DEFINITIONS.—In this section:

“(1) BROADCAST ADVERTISEMENT.—The term ‘broadcast advertisement’ means a communication intended to be aired by a television or radio broadcast station, including a communication intended to be transmitted through a cable channel.

“(2) CHILD AT RISK.—The term ‘child at risk’ means each young child whose family income does not exceed the poverty line.

“(3) POVERTY LINE.—The term ‘poverty line’ has the meaning given such term in section

673(2) of the Community Services Block Grant Act (42 U.S.C. 9902(2)), including any revision required by such section, that is applicable to a family of the size involved.

“(4) PRINTED OR OTHER ADVERTISEMENT.—The term ‘printed or other advertisement’ includes any communication intended to be distributed through a newspaper, magazine, outdoor advertising facility, mailing, or any other type of general public advertising, but does not include any broadcast advertisement.

“(5) STATE.—The term ‘State’ means each of the 50 States, the District of Columbia, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, the United States Virgin Islands, Guam, American Samoa, and the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands.

“(6) YOUNG CHILD.—The term ‘young child’ means an individual under age 5.

“(b) STATE CERTIFICATIONS.—Not later than October 1 of each of fiscal year for which a State desires to receive an allotment under this section, the chief executive officer of the State shall submit to the Secretary a certification that the State shall—

“(1) use such funds to promote the formation and maintenance of healthy 2-parent married families, strengthen fragile families, and promote responsible fatherhood through media campaigns conducted in accordance with the requirements of subsection (d);

“(2) return any unused funds to the Secretary in accordance with the reconciliation process under subsection (e); and

“(3) comply with the reporting requirements under subsection (f).

“(c) PAYMENTS TO STATES.—For each of fiscal years 2004 through 2008, the Secretary shall pay to each State that submits a certification under subsection (b), from any funds appropriated under subsection (i), for the fiscal year an amount equal to the amount of the allotment determined for the fiscal year under subsection (g).

“(d) ESTABLISHMENT OF MEDIA CAMPAIGNS.—Each State receiving an allotment under this section for a fiscal year shall use the allotment to conduct media campaigns as follows:

“(1) CONDUCT OF MEDIA CAMPAIGNS.—

“(A) RADIO AND TELEVISION MEDIA CAMPAIGNS.—

“(i) PRODUCTION OF BROADCAST ADVERTISEMENTS.—At the option of the State, to produce broadcast advertisements that promote the formation and maintenance of healthy 2-parent married families, strengthen fragile families, and promote responsible fatherhood.

“(ii) AIRTIME CHALLENGE PROGRAM.—At the option of the State, to establish an airtime challenge program under which the State may spend amounts allotted under this section to purchase time from a broadcast station to air a broadcast advertisement produced under clause (i), but only if the State obtains an amount of time of the same class and during a comparable period to air the advertisement using non-Federal contributions.

“(B) OTHER MEDIA CAMPAIGNS.—At the option of the State, to conduct a media campaign that consists of the production and distribution of printed or other advertisements that promote the formation and maintenance of healthy 2-parent married families, strengthen fragile families, and promote responsible fatherhood.

“(2) ADMINISTRATION OF MEDIA CAMPAIGNS.—A State may administer media campaigns funded under this section directly or through grants, contracts, or cooperative agreements with public agencies, local governments, or private entities, including charitable and faith-based organizations.

“(3) CONSULTATION WITH DOMESTIC VIOLENCE ASSISTANCE CENTERS.—In developing broadcast and printed advertisements to be used in the media campaigns conducted under paragraph (1), the State or other entity administering the campaign shall consult with representatives of State and local domestic violence centers.

“(4) NON-FEDERAL CONTRIBUTIONS.—In this section, the term ‘non-Federal contributions’ includes contributions by the State and by public and private entities. Such contributions may be in cash or in kind. Such term does not include any amounts provided by the Federal Government, or services assisted or subsidized to any significant extent by the Federal Government, or any amount expended by a State before October 1, 2003.

“(e) RECONCILIATION PROCESS.—

“(1) 3-YEAR AVAILABILITY OF AMOUNTS ALLOTTED.—Each State that receives an allotment under this section shall return to the Secretary any unused portion of the amount allotted to a State for a fiscal year not later than the last day of the second succeeding fiscal year together with any earnings on such unused portion.

“(2) PROCEDURE FOR REDISTRIBUTION OF UNUSED ALLOTMENTS.—The Secretary shall establish an appropriate procedure for redistributing to States that have expended the entire amount allotted under this section any amount that is—

“(A) returned to the Secretary by States under paragraph (1); or “(B) not allotted to a State under this section because the State did not submit a certification under subsection (b) by October 1 of a fiscal year.

“(f) REPORTING REQUIREMENTS.—

“(1) MONITORING AND EVALUATION.—Each State receiving an allotment under this section for a fiscal year shall monitor and evaluate the media campaigns conducted using funds made available under this section in such manner as the Secretary, in consultation with the States, determines appropriate.

“(2) ANNUAL REPORTS.—Not less frequently than annually, each State receiving an allotment under this section for a fiscal year shall submit to the Secretary reports on the media campaigns conducted using funds made available under this section at such time, in such manner, and containing such information as the Secretary may require.

“(g) AMOUNT OF ALLOTMENTS.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in paragraph (2), of the amount appropriated for the purpose of making allotments under this section for a fiscal year, the Secretary shall allot to each State that submits a certification under subsection (b) for the fiscal year an amount equal to the sum of—

“(A) the amount that bears the same ratio to 50 percent of such funds as the number of young children in the State (as determined by the Secretary based on the most current reliable data available) bears to the number of such children in all States; and

“(B) the amount that bears the same ratio to 50 percent of such funds as the number of children at risk in the State (as determined by the Secretary based on the most current reliable data available) bears to the number of such children in all States.

“(2) MINIMUM ALLOTMENTS.—No allotment for a fiscal year under this section shall be less than—

“(A) in the case of the District of Columbia or a State other than the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, the United States Virgin Islands, Guam, American Samoa, and the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands, 1 percent of the amount appropriated for the fiscal year under subsection (i); and

“(B) in the case of the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, the United States Virgin Islands, Guam, American Samoa, and the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands, 0.5 percent of such amount.

“(3) PRO RATA REDUCTIONS.—The Secretary shall make such pro rata reductions to the allotments determined under this subsection as are necessary to comply with the requirements of paragraph (2).

“(h) EVALUATION.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall conduct an evaluation of the impact of the media campaigns funded under this section.

“(2) REPORT.—Not later than December 31, 2006, the Secretary shall report to Congress the results of the evaluation under paragraph (1).

“(3) FUNDING.—Of the amount appropriated under subsection (i) for fiscal year 2004, $1,000,000 of such amount shall be transferred and made available for purposes of conducting the evaluation required under this subsection, and shall remain available until expended.

“(i) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—There is authorized to be appropriated $20,000,000 for each of fiscal years 2004 through 2008 for purposes of making allotments to States under this section.”

“(b) INAPPLICABILITY OF EFFECTIVE DATE PROVISIONS.—Section 116 shall not apply to the amendment made by subsection (a) of this section.”

(b) CLERICAL AMENDMENT.—Section 2 of such Act is amended in the table of contents by inserting after the item relating to section 116 the following new item:

“Sec. 117. Responsible fatherhood program.”

SEC. 119. ADDITIONAL GRANTS.

(a) GRANTS TO CAPITALIZE AND DEVELOP SUSTAINABLE SOCIAL SERVICES.—Section 403(a) (42 U.S.C. 603(a)) is amended by adding at the end the following:

“(6) GRANTS TO CAPITALIZE AND DEVELOP SUSTAINABLE SOCIAL SERVICES.—

“(A) AUTHORITY TO AWARD GRANTS.—The Secretary may award grants to entities for the purpose of capitalizing and developing the role of sustainable social services that are critical to the success of moving recipients of assistance under a State program funded under this part to work.

“(B) APPLICATION.—

“(i) IN GENERAL.—An entity desiring a grant under this paragraph shall submit an application to the Secretary, at such time, in such manner, and, subject to clause (ii), containing such information as the Secretary may require.

“(ii) STRATEGY FOR GENERATION OF REVENUE.—An application for a grant under this paragraph shall include a description of the capitalization strategy that the entity intends to follow to develop a program that generates its own source of ongoing revenue while assisting recipients of assistance under a State program funded under this part.

“(C) USE OF FUNDS.—

“(i) IN GENERAL.—Funds made available under a grant made under this paragraph may be used for the acquisition, construction, or renovation of facilities or buildings.

“(ii) GENERAL RULES GOVERNING USE OF FUNDS.—The rules of section 404, other than subsection (b) of that section, shall not apply to a grant made under this paragraph.

“(D) EVALUATION AND REPORT.—The Secretary shall, by grant, contract, or interagency agreement, conduct an evaluation of the programs developed with grants awarded under this paragraph and shall submit a report to Congress on the results of such evaluation.

“(E) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—Out of any money in the Treasury of the United States not otherwise appropriated, there is appropriated to the Secretary for the purpose of carrying out this paragraph, $40,000,000 for each of fiscal years 2004 through 2008.”

(b) GRANTS FOR LOW-INCOME CAR OWNERSHIP PROGRAMS.—Section 403(a) (42 U.S.C. 603(a)), as amended by subsection (a), is further amended by adding at the end the following:

“(7) GRANTS FOR LOW-INCOME CAR OWNERSHIP PROGRAMS.—

“(A) PURPOSES.—The purposes of this paragraph are to—

“(i) assist low-income families with children obtain dependable, affordable automobiles to improve their employment opportunities and access to training; and “(ii) provide incentives to States, Indian tribes, localities, and nonprofit entities to develop and administer programs that provide assistance with automobile ownership for low-income families.

“(B) DEFINITIONS.—In this paragraph:

“(i) LOCALITY.—The term ‘locality’ means a municipality that does not administer a State program funded under this part.

“(ii) LOW-INCOME FAMILY WITH CHILDREN.—The term ‘low-income family with children’ means a household that is eligible for benefits or services funded under the State program funded under this part or under a program funded with qualified State expenditures (as defined in section 409(a)(7)(B)(ii)).

“(iii) NONPROFIT ENTITY.—The term ‘nonprofit entity’ means a school, local agency, organization, or institution owned and operated by 1 or more nonprofit corporations or associations, no part of the net earnings of which inures, or may lawfully inure, to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual.

“(C) AUTHORITY TO AWARD GRANTS.—The Secretary may award grants to States, counties, localities, Indian tribes, and nonprofit entities to promote improving access to dependable, affordable automobiles by low-income families with children.

“(D) GRANT APPROVAL CRITERIA.—The Secretary shall establish criteria for approval of an application for a grant under this paragraph that include consideration of—

“(i) the extent to which the proposal, if funded, is likely to improve access to training and employment opportunities and child care services by low-income families with children by means of car ownership;

“(ii) the level of innovation in the applicant’s grant proposal; and “(iii) any partnerships between the public and private sector in the applicant’s grant proposal.

“(E) USE OF FUNDS.—

“(i) IN GENERAL.—A grant awarded under this paragraph shall be used to administer programs that assist low-income families with children with dependable automobile ownership, and maintenance of, or insurance for, the purchased automobile.

“(2) Reallocation under paragraph (1) shall be made on the basis of such States’ applications under this section, after taking into consideration the population of low-income children in each such State as compared with the population of low-income children in all such States with respect to which a determination under paragraph (1) has been made by the Secretary.

“(3) Any amount reallocated under paragraph (1) to a State is deemed to be part of its allotment under subsection (a).”

(d) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall be effective with respect to the program under section 510 for fiscal years 2004 and succeeding fiscal years.

TITLE III—CHILD SUPPORT

SEC. 301. DISTRIBUTION OF CHILD SUPPORT COLLECTED BY STATES ON BEHALF OF CHILDREN RECEIVING CERTAIN WELFARE BENEFITS.

(a) MODIFICATION OF RULE REQUIRING ASSIGNMENT OF SUPPORT RIGHTS AS A CONDITION OF RECEIVING TANF.—Section 408(a)(3) (42 U.S.C. 608(a)(3)) is amended to read as follows:

“(3) NO ASSISTANCE FOR FAMILIES NOT ASSIGNING CERTAIN SUPPORT RIGHTS TO THE STATE.—A State to which a grant is made under section 403 shall require, as a condition of paying assistance to a family under the State program funded under this part, that a member of the family assign to the State any right the family member may have (on behalf of the family member or of any other person for whom the family member has applied for or is receiving such assistance) to support from any other person, not exceeding the total amount of assistance so paid to the family, which accrues during the period that the family receives assistance under the program.”.

(b) INCREASING CHILD SUPPORT PAYMENTS TO FAMILIES AND SIMPLIFYING CHILD SUPPORT DISTRIBUTION RULES.—

(1) DISTRIBUTION RULES.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—Section 457(a) (42 U.S.C. 657(a)) is amended to read as follows:

“(a) IN GENERAL.—Subject to subsections (d) and (e), the amounts collected on behalf of a family as support by a State pursuant to a plan approved under this part shall be distributed as follows:

“(1) FAMILIES RECEIVING ASSISTANCE.—In the case of a family receiving assistance from the State, the State shall—

“(A) pay to the Federal Government the Federal share of the amount collected, subject to paragraph (3)(A);

“(B) retain, or pay to the family, the State share of the amount collected, subject to paragraph (3)(B); and “(C) pay to the family any remaining amount.

“(2) FAMILIES THAT FORMERLY RECEIVED ASSISTANCE.—In the case of a family that formerly received assistance from the State:

“(A) CURRENT SUPPORT.—To the extent that the amount collected does not exceed the current support amount, the State shall pay the amount to the family.

“(B) ARREARAGES.—Except as otherwise provided in an election made under section 454(34), to the extent that the amount collected exceeds the current support amount, the State—

“(i) shall first pay to the family the excess amount, to the extent necessary to satisfy support arrearages not assigned pursuant to section 408(a)(3);

“(ii) if the amount collected exceeds the amount required to be paid to the family under clause (i), shall—

“(I) pay to the Federal Government the Federal share of the excess amount described in this clause, subject to paragraph (3)(A); and

“(II) retain, or pay to the family, the State share of the excess amount described in this clause, subject to paragraph (3)(B); and “(iii) shall pay to the family any remaining amount.

“(3) LIMITATIONS.—

“(A) FEDERAL REIMBURSEMENTS.—The total of the amounts paid by the State to the Federal Government under paragraphs (1) and (2) of this subsection with respect to a family shall not exceed the Federal share of the amount assigned with respect to the family pursuant to section 408(a)(3).

“(B) STATE REIMBURSEMENTS.—The total of the amounts retained by the State under paragraphs (1) and (2) of this subsection with respect to a family shall not exceed the State share of the amount assigned with respect to the family pursuant to section 408(a)(3).

“(4) FAMILIES THAT NEVER RECEIVED ASSISTANCE.—In the case of any other family, the State shall pay the amount collected to the family.

"(5) FAMILIES UNDER CERTAIN AGREEMENTS.—Notwithstanding paragraphs (1) through (3), in the case of an amount collected for a family in accordance with a cooperative agreement under section 454(33), the State shall distribute the amount collected pursuant to the terms of the agreement.

"(6) STATE FINANCING OPTIONS.—To the extent that the State's share of the amount payable to a family pursuant to paragraph (2)(B) of this subsection exceeds the amount that the State estimates (under procedures approved by the Secretary) would have been payable to the family pursuant to former section 457(a)(2)(B) (as in effect for the State immediately before the date this subsection first applies to the State) if such former section had remained in effect, the State may elect to have the payment considered a qualified State expenditure for purposes of section 409(a)(7).

"(7) STATE OPTION TO PASS THROUGH ADDITIONAL SUPPORT WITH FEDERAL FINANCIAL PARTICIPATION.—

"(A) FAMILIES THAT FORMERLY RECEIVED ASSISTANCE.—Notwithstanding paragraph (2), a State shall not be required to pay to the Federal Government the Federal share of an amount collected on behalf of a family that formerly received assistance from the State to the extent that the State pays the amount to the family.

"(B) FAMILIES THAT CURRENTLY RECEIVE ASSISTANCE.—

"(i) IN GENERAL.—Notwithstanding paragraph (1), in the case of a family that receives assistance from the State, a State shall not be required to pay to the Federal Government the Federal share of the excepted portion (as defined in clause (ii)) of any amount collected on behalf of such family during a month to the extent that—

"(I) the State pays the excepted portion to the family; and

"(II) the excepted portion is disregarded in determining the amount and type of assistance provided to the family under such program.

"(ii) EXCEPTED PORTION DEFINED.—For purposes of this subparagraph, the term 'excepted portion' means that portion of the amount collected on behalf of a family during a month that does not exceed $400 per month, or in the case of a family that includes 2 or more children, that does not exceed an amount established by the State that is not more than $600 per month.

"(8) STATES WITH DEMONSTRATION WAIVERS.—Notwithstanding the preceding paragraphs, in the case of a State that, on the date of enactment of this paragraph, has had in effect since October 1, 1997, a waiver under section 1115 permitting passthrough payments of child support collections—

"(A) the State may continue to distribute such payments to families without regard to the expiration date of such waiver; and

"(B) the requirement under paragraph (1) to pay to the Federal Government the Federal share of the amount collected on behalf of a family shall not apply to the extent that—

"(i) the State distributes such amount to the family; and

"(ii) such amount is disregarded in determining the amount and type of assistance paid to the family."

(B) STATE PLAN TO INCLUDE ELECTION AS TO WHICH RULES TO APPLY IN DISTRIBUTING CHILD SUPPORT ARREARAGES COLLECTED ON BEHALF OF FAMILIES FORMERLY RECEIVING ASSISTANCE.—Section 454 (42 U.S.C. 654) is amended—

(i) by striking "and" at the end of paragraph (32);

(ii) by striking the period at the end of paragraph (33) and inserting "; and"; and

(iii) by inserting after paragraph (33) the following:

"(34) include an election by the State to apply section 457(a)(2)(B) of this Act or former section 457(a)(2)(B) of this Act (as in effect for the State immediately before the date this paragraph first applies to the State) to the distribution of the amounts which are the subject of such sections and, for so long as the State elects to so apply such former section, the amendments made by section 301(d)(1) of the Personal Responsibility and Individual Development for Everyone Act shall not apply with respect to the State, notwithstanding section 301(e) of that Act."

(C) APPROVAL OF ESTIMATION PROCEDURES.—Not later than the date that is 6 months after the date of enactment of this Act, the Secretary of Health and Human Services, in consultation with the States (as defined for purposes of part D of title IV of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 651 et seq.)), shall establish the procedures to be used to make the estimate described in section 457(a)(6) of such Act (42 U.S.C. 657(a)(6)).

(2) CURRENT SUPPORT AMOUNT DEFINED.—Section 457(c) (42 U.S.C. 657(c)) is amended by adding at the end the following:

"(5) CURRENT SUPPORT AMOUNT.—The term 'current support amount' means, with respect to amounts collected as support on behalf of a family, the amount designated as the monthly support obligation of the noncustodial parent in the order requiring the support."

(c) STATE OPTION TO DISCONTINUE OLDER SUPPORT ASSIGNMENTS.—Section 457(b) (42 U.S.C. 657(b)) is amended to read as follows:

"(b) CONTINUATION OF ASSIGNMENTS.—

"(1) STATE OPTION TO DISCONTINUE PRE-1997 SUPPORT ASSIGNMENTS.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—Any rights to support obligations assigned to a State as a condition of receiving assistance from the State under part A and in effect on September 30, 1997 (or such earlier date on or after August 22, 1996, as the State may choose), may remain assigned after such date.

"(B) DISTRIBUTION OF AMOUNTS AFTER ASSIGNMENT DISCONTINUATION.—If a State chooses to discontinue the assignment of a support obligation described in subparagraph (A), the State may treat amounts collected pursuant to such assignment as if such amounts had never been assigned and may distribute such amounts to the family in accordance with subsection (a)(4).

"(2) STATE OPTION TO DISCONTINUE POST-1997 ASSIGNMENTS.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—Any rights to support obligations accruing before the date on which a family first receives assistance under part A that are assigned to a State under that part and in effect before the implementation date of this section may remain assigned after such date.

"(B) DISTRIBUTION OF AMOUNTS AFTER ASSIGNMENT DISCONTINUATION.—If a State chooses to discontinue the assignment of a support obligation described in subparagraph (A), the State may treat amounts collected pursuant to such assignment as if such amounts had never been assigned and may distribute such amounts to the family in accordance with subsection (a)(4)."

(d) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—

(1) Section 409(a)(7)(B)(i) (42 U.S.C. 609(a)(7)(B)(i)), as amended by section 103(c), is amended—

(A) in subclause (I)(aa), by striking "457(a)(1)(B)" and inserting "457(a)(1)"; and

(B) by adding at the end the following:

"(VI) PORTIONS OF CERTAIN CHILD SUPPORT PAYMENTS COLLECTED ON BEHALF OF AND DISTRIBUTED TO FAMILIES NO LONGER RECEIVING ASSISTANCE.—Any amount paid by a State pursuant to clause (i) or (ii) of section 457(a)(2)(B), but only to the extent that the State properly elects under section 457(a)(6) to have the payment considered a qualified State expenditure."

(2) Section 6402(c) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 (relating to offset of past-due support against overpayments) is amended—

(A) in the first sentence, by striking "the Social Security Act." and inserting "of such Act."; and

(B) by striking the third sentence and inserting the following: "The Secretary shall apply a reduction under this subsection first to an amount certified by the State as past due support under section 464 of the Social Security Act before any other reductions allowed by law."

(e) EFFECTIVE DATE.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The amendments made by this section shall take effect on October 1, 2007, and shall apply to payments under parts A and D of title IV of the Social Security Act for calendar quarters beginning on or after such date, and without regard to whether regulations to implement such amendments (in the case of State programs operated under such part D) are promulgated by such date.

(2) STATE OPTION TO ACCELERATE EFFECTIVE DATE.—In addition, a State may elect to have the amendments made by this section apply to the State and to amounts collected by the State (and such payments under parts A and D), on and after such date as the State may select that is after the date of enactment of this Act and before October 1, 2007.

(2) by striking "upon the request of the State agency under the State plan or of either parent,".

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by subsection (a) shall take effect on October 1, 2005.

SEC. 303. REPORT ON UNDISTRIBUTED CHILD SUPPORT PAYMENTS.

Not later than 6 months after the date of enactment of this Act, the Secretary of Health and Human Services shall submit to the Committee on Ways and Means of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Finance of the Senate a report on the procedures that the States use generally to locate custodial parents for whom child support has been collected but not yet distributed. The report shall include an estimate of the total amount of undistributed child support and the average length of time it takes undistributed child support to be distributed. To the extent the Secretary deems appropriate, the Secretary shall include in the report recommendations as to whether additional procedures should be established at the Federal or State level to expedite the payment of undistributed child support.

SEC. 304. USE OF NEW HIRE INFORMATION TO ASSIST IN ADMINISTRATION OF UNEMPLOYMENT COMPENSATION PROGRAMS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 453(j) (42 U.S.C. 653(j)) is amended by adding at the end the following:

"(7) INFORMATION COMPARISONS AND DISCLOSURE TO ASSIST IN ADMINISTRATION OF UNEMPLOYMENT COMPENSATION PROGRAMS.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—If, for purposes of administering an unemployment compensation program under Federal or State law, a State agency responsible for the administration of such program transmits to the Secretary the name and social security account number of an individual, the Secretary shall disclose to the State agency information on the individual and the individual's employer that is maintained in the National Directory of New Hires, subject to the succeeding provisions of this paragraph.

"(B) CONDITION ON DISCLOSURE BY THE SECRETARY.—The Secretary shall make a disclosure under subparagraph (A) only to the extent that the Secretary determines that the disclosure would not interfere with the effective operation of the program under this part.

"(C) USE AND DISCLOSURE OF INFORMATION BY STATE AGENCIES.—

"(i) IN GENERAL.—A State agency may not use or disclose information provided under this paragraph except for purposes of administering a program referred to in subparagraph (A).

"(ii) INFORMATION SECURITY.—A State agency to which information is provided under this paragraph shall have in effect data security and control policies that the Secretary finds adequate to ensure the security of information obtained under this paragraph and to ensure that access to such information is restricted to authorized persons for purposes of authorized uses and disclosures.

“(iii) PENALTY FOR MISUSE OF INFORMATION.—An officer or employee of a State agency who fails to comply with this subparagraph shall be subject to the sanctions under subsection (l)(2) to the same extent as if such officer or employee was an officer or employee of the United States.

“(D) PROCEDURAL REQUIREMENTS.—A State agency requesting information under this paragraph shall adhere to uniform procedures established by the Secretary governing information requests and data matching under this paragraph.

“(E) REIMBURSEMENT OF COSTS.—A State agency shall reimburse the Secretary, in accordance with subsection (k)(3), for the costs incurred by the Secretary in furnishing the information requested under this paragraph.”

“SEC. 17. (a) LIENS.—Where a trust fund which complies with section 302(c) of the Labor Management Relations Act, 1947 (29 U.S.C. 186(c)) established pursuant to a collective-bargaining agreement in effect between an employer and an employee covered under this Act has paid disability benefits to an employee which the employee is legally obligated to repay by reason of the employee's entitlement to compensation under this Act or under a settlement, the Secretary shall authorize a lien on such compensation in favor of the trust fund for the amount of such payments.

“(b) CHILD SUPPORT.—Compensation or benefits due or payable to an individual under this Act (other than medical benefits) shall be subject, in like manner and to the same extent as similar compensation or benefits under a workers' compensation program if established under State law—

“(1) to withholding in accordance with State law enacted pursuant to subsections (a)(1) and (b) of section 466 of the Social Security Act and regulations under such subsections; and

“(2) to any other legal process brought, by a State agency administering a program under a State plan approved under part D of title IV of the Social Security Act or by an individual obligee, to enforce the legal obligation of the individual to provide child support or alimony.”.

(b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—Section 16 of the Longshore and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act (33 U.S.C. 916) is amended—

(1) by striking “No” and inserting “Except as provided by this Act, no”; and

(2) by striking “, except as provided by this Act,” after “under this Act”.

SEC. 317. STATE OPTION TO USE STATEWIDE AUTOMATED DATA PROCESSING AND INFORMATION RETRIEVAL SYSTEM FOR INTERSTATE CASES.

Section 466(a)(14)(A)(iii) (42 U.S.C. 666(a)(14)(A)(iii)) is amended by inserting before the semicolon the following: “(but the assisting State may establish a corresponding case based on such other State's request for assistance)”.

SEC. 318. INTERCEPTION OF GAMBLING WINNINGS FOR CHILD SUPPORT.

(a) INTERCEPTION OF GAMBLING WINNINGS FOR CHILD SUPPORT.—Section 452 (42 U.S.C. 652), as amended by section 313, is amended by adding at the end the following:

“(n) INTERCEPTION OF GAMBLING WINNINGS FOR PAST-DUE SUPPORT.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary, through the Federal Parent Locator Service, is authorized, in accordance with this subsection, to intercept gambling winnings of an individual owing past-due support being enforced by a State agency with a plan approved under this part, and to transmit such winnings to the State agency for distribution pursuant to section 457.

“(2) REQUIREMENTS FOR GAMBLING ESTABLISHMENTS.—A gambling establishment subject to this subsection shall not pay to any individual gambling winnings (as defined in paragraph (6)) meeting the criteria for reporting to the Internal Revenue Service pursuant to section 6041 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 until the establishment—

“(A) has furnished to the Secretary—

“(i) the information required to be so reported with respect to such individual and such winnings; and

“(ii) the net amount of such gambling winnings (hereafter in this subsection referred to as the ‘net gambling winnings’) after withholding of amounts for Federal taxes as required pursuant to section 3402(q) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986; and

“(3) DATA MATCH AND WITHHOLDING.—The Secretary shall—

“(A) compare information furnished pursuant to paragraph (2)(A) with information on individuals who owe past-due support;

“(B) direct the gambling establishment to withhold from an individual's net gambling winnings all amounts not exceeding the total past-due support owed by the individual;

“(C) authorize the gambling establishment, in reimbursement of its costs of complying with this subsection, to withhold and retain from such net gambling winnings an amount equal to 2 percent of the amount to be withheld pursuant to subparagraph (B), which amount shall be taken first from any excess of such net winnings above the amount withheld pursuant to subparagraph (B), with any balance to be taken from the amount so withheld; and

“(D) require the gambling establishment to furnish written notice to the individual whose gambling winnings are withheld pursuant to this subsection, that includes—

“(i) the amounts withheld pursuant to subparagraphs (B) and (C);

“(ii) the reason and authority for the withholding; and

“(iii) an explanation of the individual's procedural due process rights, including the right to contest such withholding to the responsible State agency and information necessary to contact such State agency.

“(4) TRANSFER OF WITHHELD AMOUNTS.—Net amounts withheld for past-due support pursuant to subparagraphs (B) and (C) of paragraph (3) shall—

“(A) be transferred by the gambling establishment to the Secretary at the same time and in the same manner as amounts withheld under section 3402(q) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 would be transferred to the Internal Revenue Service, together with the information described in paragraph (2)(A)(i) with respect to the individuals whose winnings were withheld under this subsection; and

“(5) NONLIABILITY OF GAMBLING ESTABLISHMENTS.—A gambling establishment shall not be liable under any Federal or State law to any person—

“(A) for any disclosure of information to the Secretary under this subsection;

“(B) for withholding or surrendering gambling winnings in accordance with this subsection; or

“(C) for any other action taken in good faith to comply with this subsection.

“(6) DEFINITION OF GAMBLING WINNINGS.—In this subsection, the term ‘gambling winnings’ means the proceeds of a wager that are subject to reporting under section 6041 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986.”.

(b) REQUIREMENT FOR STATE LAWS.—Section 466(a) (42 U.S.C. 666(a)) is amended by inserting after paragraph (19) the following:

“(20) INTERCEPTION OF GAMBLING WINNINGS.—Procedures under which—

“(A) gambling establishments subject to the laws of the State are required to comply with the provisions of section 452(n), and are subject to sanctions for failure to comply, which shall include liability in an amount equal to the amount the establishment would have withheld if it so complied;

“(B) noncustodial parents owing past-due support are provided with written notice that gambling winnings may be subject to withholding for past-due support under section 452(n); and

“(C) cases where such noncustodial parents contest the State's determination with respect to past-due support are promptly resolved, and expedited refund is made of any amounts erroneously seized under such section 452(n).”.

(c) STATE REIMBURSEMENT OF FEDERAL COSTS.—Section 453(k)(3) (42 U.S.C. 653(k)(3)), as amended by section 313(b), is amended by striking “or (m)” and inserting “(m), or (n)”.

(d) REQUIREMENT FOR PARTICIPATING INDIAN TRIBES.—Section 455(f) (42 U.S.C. 655(f)) is amended in the first sentence by striking “and location of absent parents” and inserting “location of absent parents, and interception of gambling winnings consistent with the requirements of sections 452(n) and 466(a)(20)”.

SEC. 319. STATE LAW REQUIREMENT CONCERNING THE UNIFORM INTERSTATE FAMILY SUPPORT ACT (UIFSA).

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 466(f) (42 U.S.C. 666(f)) is amended—

(1) by striking “and as in effect on August 22, 1996,”; and

(2) by striking “adopted as of such date” and inserting “adopted as of August, 2001”.

(b) FULL FAITH AND CREDIT FOR CHILD SUPPORT ORDERS.—Section 1738B of title 28, United States Code, is amended—

(1) by striking subsection (d) and inserting the following:

“(d) CONTINUING EXCLUSIVE JURISDICTION.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—Subject to paragraph (2), a court of a State that has made a child support order consistent with this section has continuing, exclusive jurisdiction to modify its order if the order is the controlling order and—

“(A) the State is the child's State or the residence of any individual contestant; or “(B) if the State is not the residence of the child or an individual contestant, the contestants consent in a record or in open court that the court may continue to exercise jurisdiction to modify its order.

“(2) REQUIREMENT.—A court may not exercise its continuing, exclusive jurisdiction to modify the order if the court of another State, acting in accordance with subsections (e) and (f), has made a modification of the order.”;

(2) in subsection (e)(2)—

(A) in subparagraph (A), by striking "because" and all that follows through the semicolon and inserting "pursuant to paragraph (1) or (2) of subsection (d);" and

(B) in subparagraph (B), by inserting "with jurisdiction over at least 1 of the individual contestants or that is located in the child's State" after "another State";

(3) in subsection (f)—

(A) in the subsection heading, by striking "RECOGNITION OF" and inserting "DETERMINATION OF CONTROLLING";

(B) in the matter preceding paragraph (1), by striking "shall apply" and all that follows through the colon and inserting "having personal jurisdiction over both individual contestants shall apply the following rules and by order shall determine which order controls:"

(C) in paragraph (1), by striking "must be" and inserting "controls and must be so";

(D) in paragraph (2), by striking "must be recognized" and inserting "controls";

(E) in paragraph (3), by striking "must be recognized" each place it appears and inserting "controls";

(F) in paragraph (4)—

(i) by striking "may" and inserting "shall"; and

(ii) by striking "must be recognized" and inserting "controls"; and

(G) by striking paragraph (5);

(4) by striking subsection (g) and inserting the following:

"(g) ENFORCEMENT OF MODIFIED ORDERS.—If a child support order issued by a court of a State is modified by a court of another State which properly assumed jurisdiction, the issuing court—

"(1) may enforce its order that was modified only as to arrears and interest accruing before the modification;

"(2) may provide appropriate relief for violations of its order which occurred before the effective date of the modification; and

"(3) shall recognize the modifying order of the other State for the purpose of enforcement.";

(5) in subsection (h)—

(A) in paragraph (1), by striking "and (3)" and inserting ", (3), and (4)";

(B) in paragraph (2), by inserting "the computation and payment of arrearages, and the accrual of interest on the arrearages," after "obligations of support,"; and

(C) by adding at the end the following:

"(4) PROSPECTIVE APPLICATION.—After a court determines which is the controlling order and issues an order consolidating arrears, if any, a court shall prospectively apply the law of the State issuing the controlling order, including that State's law with respect to interest on arrears, current and future support, and consolidated arrears."; and

(6) in subsection (i), by inserting "and subsection (d)(2) does not apply" after "issuing State".

SEC. 320. GRANTS TO STATES FOR ACCESS AND VISITATION PROGRAMS.

(a) AUTHORITY TO MAKE GRANTS TO INDIAN TRIBES.—Section 469B (42 U.S.C. 669b) is amended—

(1) in the section heading, by inserting "AND INDIAN TRIBES" after "STATES"; and

(2) in subsection (a), by inserting "and Indian tribes or tribal organizations" after "to enable States";

(b) AMOUNT OF GRANTS.—Section 469B(b) (42 U.S.C. 669b(b)) is amended to read as follows:

"(b) AMOUNT OF GRANTS.—

"(1) GRANTS TO STATES.—The amount of the grant to be made to a State under this section for a fiscal year shall be an amount equal to the lesser of—

"(A) 90 percent of State expenditures during the fiscal year for activities described in subsection (a); or

"(B) the allotment of the State under subsection (c) for the fiscal year.

"(2) GRANTS TO INDIAN TRIBES.—An Indian tribe or tribal organization operating a program under section 455 that has operated such program throughout the preceding fiscal year and has an application under this section approved by the Secretary shall receive a grant under this section for a fiscal year in an amount equal to the allotment of such Indian tribe or tribal organization under subsection (c)(2) for the fiscal year.".

(c) ALLOTMENTS.—Section 469B(c) (42 U.S.C. 669b(c)) is amended to read as follows:

"(c) ALLOTMENTS.—

"(1) ALLOTMENTS TO STATES.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—Subject to the subparagraph (C), the allotment of a State for a fiscal year is the amount that bears the same ratio to the amount specified in subparagraph (B) for such fiscal year as the number of children in the State living with only 1 parent bears to the total number of such children in all States.

"(B) AMOUNT AVAILABLE FOR ALLOTMENT.—For purposes of subparagraph (A), the amount specified in this subparagraph is the following amount, reduced by the total allotments to Indian tribes or tribal organizations in accordance with paragraph (2):

"(i) $12,000,000 for fiscal year 2004.

"(ii) $14,000,000 for fiscal year 2005.

"(iii) $16,000,000 for fiscal year 2006.

"(iv) $20,000,000 for fiscal year 2007 and each succeeding fiscal year.

"(C) MINIMUM STATE ALLOTMENT.—The Secretary shall adjust allotments to States under subparagraph (A) as necessary to ensure that no State is allotted less than—

"(i) $120,000 for fiscal year 2004;

"(ii) $140,000 for fiscal year 2005;

"(iii) $160,000 for fiscal year 2006; and

"(iv) $180,000 for fiscal year 2007 and each succeeding fiscal year.

"(2) ALLOTMENTS TO INDIAN TRIBES.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—Subject to subparagraph (C), the allotment of an Indian tribe or tribal organization described in subsection (b)(2) for a fiscal year is an amount that bears the same ratio to the amount specified in subparagraph (B) for such fiscal year as the number of children in the Indian tribe or tribal organization living with only 1 parent bears to the total number of such children in all Indian tribes and tribal organizations eligible to receive grants under this section for such year.

"(B) AMOUNT AVAILABLE FOR ALLOTMENT.—

For purposes of subparagraph (A), the amount available under this subparagraph is an amount, deducted from the amount specified in paragraph (1)(B), not to exceed—

"(i) $250,000 for fiscal year 2004;

"(ii) $600,000 for fiscal year 2005;

"(iii) $800,000 for fiscal year 2006; and

"(iv) $1,670,000 for fiscal year 2007 and each succeeding year.

"(C) MINIMUM AND MAXIMUM TRIBAL ALLOTMENT.—The Secretary shall adjust allotments to Indian tribes and tribal organizations under subparagraph (A) as necessary to ensure that no Indian tribe or tribal organization is allotted, for a fiscal year, an amount which is less than $10,000 or more than the minimum State allotment for such fiscal year.".

(d) ADMINISTRATION.—Section 469B(e) (42 U.S.C. 669b(e)) is amended to read as follows:

"(e) ADMINISTRATION.—

"(1) GRANTS TO STATES.—Each State to which a grant is made under this section—

"(A) may administer State programs funded with the grant, directly or through grants to or contracts with courts, local public agencies, or nonprofit private entities; and

"(B) shall not be required to operate such programs on a statewide basis.

"(2) GRANTS TO STATES OR INDIAN TRIBES.—Each State or Indian tribe or tribal organization to which a grant is made under this section shall monitor, evaluate, and report on such programs in accordance with regulations prescribed by the Secretary.".

SEC. 321. TIMING OF CORRECTIVE ACTION YEAR FOR STATE NONCOMPLIANCE WITH CHILD SUPPORT ENFORCEMENT PROGRAM REQUIREMENTS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 409(a)(8) (42 U.S.C. 609(a)(8)) is amended—

(1) in subparagraph (A)—

(A) in the matter preceding clause (i)(I), by striking "in a fiscal year" and inserting "for a fiscal year"; and

(B) in clause (ii)—

(i) in the matter preceding subclause (I), by striking "that, with respect to the succeeding fiscal year—" and inserting "that, with respect to the period described in subparagraph (D)"; and

(ii) in the matter following subclause (II), by striking "the end of such succeeding fiscal year" and inserting "the end of the period described in subparagraph (D)"; and

(2) by adding at the end the following:

"(D) PERIOD DESCRIBED.—Subject to subparagraph (E), for purposes of this paragraph, the period described in this subparagraph is the period that begins with the date on which the Secretary makes a finding described in subparagraph (A)(i) with respect to State performance in a fiscal year and ends on September 30 of the fiscal year following the fiscal year in which the Secretary makes such a finding.

"(E) NO PENALTY IF STATE CORRECTS NONCOMPLIANCE IN FINDING YEAR.—The Secretary shall not take a reduction described in subparagraph (A) with respect to a noncompliance described in clause (i) of that subparagraph if the Secretary determines that the State has corrected the noncompliance in the fiscal year in which the Secretary makes the finding of the noncompliance.".

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by subsection (a) shall be effective with respect to determinations of State compliance for fiscal year 2002 and succeeding fiscal years.

(c) SPECIAL RULE FOR FISCAL YEAR 2001.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the Secretary shall not take against amounts otherwise payable to a State, a reduction described in section 409(a)(8)(A) of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 609(a)(8)(A)) with respect to a noncompliance described in such section occurring in fiscal year 2001 if the Secretary determines that the State has corrected such noncompliance in fiscal year 2002 or 2003.

TITLE IV—CHILD WELFARE

SEC. 401. EXTENSION OF AUTHORITY TO APPROVE DEMONSTRATION PROJECTS.

Section 1130(a)(2) (42 U.S.C. 1320a-9(a)(2)), as amended by section 5 of the Welfare Reform Extension Act of 2003 (Public Law 108-40, 117 Stat. 837) is amended by striking "2003" and inserting "2008".

Section 1108(a)(2) (42 U.S.C. 1308(a)(2)), as amended by section 116(b)(2), is amended—

(1) by striking "Paragraph (1)" and inserting the following:

"(A) IN GENERAL.—Paragraph (1)";

(2) in subparagraph (A) (as added by paragraph (1)), by striking "or 418(a)(4)(B)" and inserting "418(a)(4)(B), or, subject to clause (ii) of subparagraph (B), payments to Puerto Rico described in clause (i) of that subparagraph" before the period; and

(3) by adding at the end the following:

"(B) CERTAIN PAYMENTS TO PUERTO RICO.—

"(i) PAYMENTS DESCRIBED.—For purposes of subparagraph (A), payments described in this subparagraph are payments made to Puerto Rico under part E of title IV with respect to the portion of foster care payments made to Puerto Rico for fiscal year 2005 or any fiscal year thereafter that exceed the total amount of such payments for fiscal year 2002.

"(ii) LIMITATION.—The total amount of payments to Puerto Rico described in clause (i) that are disregarded under subparagraph (A) may not exceed $6,250,000 for each of fiscal years 2005 through 2008."

SEC. 403. TECHNICAL CORRECTION.

Section 1130(b)(1) (42 U.S.C. 1320a-9(b)(1)) is amended by striking "422(b)(9)" and inserting "422(b)(10)".

TITLE V—SUPPLEMENTAL SECURITY INCOME

SEC. 501. REVIEW OF STATE AGENCY BLINDNESS AND DISABILITY DETERMINATIONS.

Section 1633 (42 U.S.C. 1383b) is amended by adding at the end the following:

"(e)(1) The Commissioner of Social Security shall review determinations, made by State agencies pursuant to subsection (a) in connection with applications for benefits under this title on the basis of blindness or disability, that individuals who have attained 18 years of age are blind or disabled as of a specified onset date. The Commissioner of Social Security shall review such a determination before any action is taken to implement the determination.

"(2)(A) In carrying out paragraph (1), the Commissioner of Social Security shall review—

"(i) at least 20 percent of all determinations referred to in paragraph (1) that are made in fiscal year 2004;

"(ii) at least 40 percent of all such determinations that are made in fiscal year 2005; and

"(iii) at least 50 percent of all such determinations that are made in fiscal year 2006 or thereafter.

"(B) In carrying out subparagraph (A), the Commissioner of Social Security shall, to the extent feasible, select for review the determinations which the Commissioner of Social Security identifies as being the most likely to be incorrect."

TITLE VI—TRANSITIONAL MEDICAL ASSISTANCE

SEC. 601. EXTENSION AND SIMPLIFICATION OF THE TRANSITIONAL MEDICAL ASSISTANCE PROGRAM (TMA).

(a) OPTION OF CONTINUOUS ELIGIBILITY FOR 12 MONTHS; OPTION OF CONTINUING COVERAGE FOR UP TO AN ADDITIONAL YEAR.—

(1) OPTION OF CONTINUOUS ELIGIBILITY FOR 12 MONTHS BY MAKING REPORTING REQUIREMENTS OPTIONAL.—Section 1925(b) (42 U.S.C. 1396r-6(b)) is amended—

(A) in paragraph (1), by inserting ", at the option of a State," after "and which";

(B) in paragraph (2)(A), by inserting "Subject to subparagraph (C):" after "(A) NOTICES.—";

(C) in paragraph (2)(B), by inserting "Subject to subparagraph (C):" after "(B) REPORTING REQUIREMENTS.—";

(D) by adding at the end the following:

"(C) STATE OPTION TO WAIVE NOTICE AND REPORTING REQUIREMENTS.—A State may waive some or all of the reporting requirements under clauses (i) and (ii) of subparagraph (B). Insofar as it waives such a reporting requirement, the State need not provide for a notice under subparagraph (A) relating to such requirement."; and

(E) in paragraph (3)(A)(iii), by inserting "the State has not waived under paragraph (2)(C) the reporting requirement with respect to such month under paragraph (2)(B) and if" after "6-month period if".

(2) STATE OPTION TO EXTEND ELIGIBILITY FOR LOW-INCOME INDIVIDUALS FOR UP TO 12 ADDITIONAL MONTHS.—Section 1925 (42 U.S.C. 1396r-6) is further amended—

(A) by redesignating subsections (c) through (f) as subsections (d) through (g), respectively; and

(B) by inserting after subsection (b) the following:

"(c) STATE OPTION OF UP TO 12 MONTHS OF ADDITIONAL ELIGIBILITY.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—Notwithstanding any other provision of this title, each State plan approved under this title may provide, at the option of the State, that the State shall offer to each family which received assistance during the entire 6-month period under subsection (b) and which meets the applicable requirement of paragraph (2), in the last month of the period the option of extending coverage under this subsection for the succeeding period not to exceed 12 months.

"(2) INCOME RESTRICTION.—The option under paragraph (1) shall not be made available to a family for a succeeding period unless the State determines that the family's average gross monthly earnings (less such costs for such child care as is necessary for the employment of the caretaker relative) as of the end of the 6-month period under subsection (b) does not exceed 185 percent of the official poverty line (as defined by the Office of Management and Budget, and revised annually in accordance with section 673(2) of the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1981) applicable to a family of the size involved.

"(3) APPLICATION OF EXTENSION RULES.—The provisions of paragraphs (2), (3), (4), and (5) of subsection (b) shall apply to the extension provided under this subsection in the same manner as they apply to the extension provided under subsection (b)(1), except that for purposes of this subsection—

"(A) any reference to a 6-month period under subsection (b)(1) is deemed a reference to the extension period provided under paragraph (1) and any deadlines for any notices or reporting and the premium payment periods shall be modified to correspond to the appropriate calendar quarters of coverage provided under this subsection; and

"(B) any reference to a provision of subsection (a) or (b) is deemed a reference to the corresponding provision of subsection (b) or of this subsection, respectively."

(b) STATE OPTION TO WAIVE RECEIPT OF MEDICAID FOR 3 OF PREVIOUS 6 MONTHS TO QUALIFY FOR TMA.—Section 1925(a)(1) (42 U.S.C. 1396r-6(a)(1)) is amended by adding at the end the following: "A State may, at its option, also apply the previous sentence in the case of a family that was receiving such aid for fewer than 3 months, or that had applied for and was eligible for such aid for fewer than 3 months, during the 6 immediately preceding months described in such sentence."

(c) EXTENSION OF SUNSET FOR TMA.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Subsection (g) of section 1925 (42 U.S.C. 1396r-6), as so redesignated under subsection (a)(2)(A), and as amended by section 7 of the Welfare Reform Extension Act of 2003, is further redesignated as subsection (i) and is amended by striking "2003" and inserting "2008".

(2) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—Section 1902(e)(1)(B) (42 U.S.C. 1396a(e)(1)(B)), as so amended, is amended by striking "September 30, 2003" and inserting "the last date (if any) on which section 1925 applies under subsection (f) of that section".

(d) CMS REPORT ON ENROLLMENT AND PARTICIPATION RATES UNDER TMA.—Section 1925 (42 U.S.C. 1396r-6), as amended by subsections (a)(2)(A) and (c)(1), is amended by inserting after subsection (f) the following:

"(g) ADDITIONAL PROVISIONS.—

"(1) COLLECTION AND REPORTING OF PARTICIPATION INFORMATION.—Each State shall—

"(A) collect and submit to the Secretary, in a format specified by the Secretary, information on average monthly enrollment and average monthly participation rates for adults and children under this section; and

"(B) make such information publicly available.

Such information shall be submitted under subparagraph (A) at the same time and frequency in which other enrollment information under this title is submitted to the Secretary. Using such information, the Secretary shall submit to Congress annual reports concerning such rates."

(e) COORDINATION OF WORK.—Section 1925(g) (42 U.S.C. 1396r-6(g)), as added by subsection

(d), is amended by adding at the end the following:

"(2) COORDINATION WITH ADMINISTRATION FOR CHILDREN AND FAMILIES.—The Administrator of the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services, in carrying out this section, shall work with the Assistant Secretary for the Administration for Children and Families to develop guidance or other technical assistance for States regarding best practices in guaranteeing access to transitional medical assistance under this section."

(f) ELIMINATION OF TMA REQUIREMENT FOR STATES THAT EXTEND COVERAGE TO CHILDREN AND PARENTS THROUGH 185 PERCENT OF POVERTY.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Section 1925 (42 U.S.C. 1396r-6) is amended by inserting after subsection (g), as added by subsection (d), the following:

"(h) PROVISIONS OPTIONAL FOR STATES THAT EXTEND COVERAGE TO CHILDREN AND PARENTS THROUGH 185 PERCENT OF POVERTY.—A State may meet (but is not required to meet) the requirements of subsections (a) and (b) if it provides for medical assistance under section 1931 to families (including both children and caretaker relatives) the average gross monthly earnings of which (less such costs for such child care as is necessary for the employment of a caretaker relative) is at or below a level that is at least 185 percent of the official poverty line (as defined by the Office of Management and Budget, and revised annually in accordance with section 673(2) of the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1981) applicable to a family of the size involved."

(2) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—Section 1925 (42 U.S.C. 1396r-6) is amended, in subsections (a)(1) and (b)(1), by inserting ", but subject to subsection (h)," after "Notwithstanding any other provision of this title," each place it appears.

(g) REQUIREMENT OF NOTICE FOR ALL FAMILIES LOSING TANF.—Subsection (a)(2) of section 1925 (42 U.S.C. 1396r-6) is amended by adding at the end the following flush sentences:

"Each State shall provide, to families whose aid under part A or E of title IV has terminated but whose eligibility for medical assistance under this title continues, written notice of their ongoing eligibility for such medical assistance. If a State makes a determination that any member of a family whose aid under part A or E of title IV is being terminated is also no longer eligible for medical assistance under this title, the notice of such determination shall be supplemented by a 1-page notification form describing the different ways in which individuals and families may qualify for such medical assistance and explaining that individuals and families do not have to be receiving aid under part A or E of title IV in order to qualify for such medical assistance. Such notice shall further be supplemented by information on how to apply for child health assistance under the State children's health insurance program under title XXI and how to apply for medical assistance under this title."

(h) EXTENDING USE OF OUTSTATIONED WORKERS TO ACCEPT APPLICATIONS FOR TRANSITIONAL MEDICAL ASSISTANCE.—Section 1902(a)(55) (42 U.S.C. 1396a(a)(55)) is amended by inserting "and under section 1931" after "(a)(10)(A)(ii)(IX)".

(i) EFFECTIVE DATES.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in this subsection, the amendments made by this section shall apply to calendar quarters beginning on or after October 1, 2003, without regard to whether or not final regulations to carry out such amendments have been promulgated by such date.

(2) NOTICE.—The amendment made by subsection (g) shall take effect 6 months after the date of enactment of this Act.

(3) DELAY PERMITTED FOR STATE PLAN AMENDMENT.—In the case of a State plan for medical assistance under title XIX of the Social Security Act which the Secretary of Health and Human Services determines requires State legislation (other than legislation appropriating funds) in order for the plan to meet the additional requirements imposed by the amendments made by this section, the State plan shall not be regarded as failing to comply with the requirements of such title solely on the basis of its failure to meet these additional requirements before the first day of the first calendar quarter beginning after the close of the first regular session of the State legislature that begins after the date of enactment of this Act. For purposes of the preceding sentence, in the case of a State that has a 2-year legislative session, each year of such session shall be deemed to be a separate regular session of the State legislature.

SEC. 602. PROHIBITION AGAINST COVERING CHILDLESS ADULTS WITH SCHIP FUNDS.

(a) PROHIBITION ON USE OF SCHIP FUNDS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Section 2107 (42 U.S.C. 1397gg) is amended by adding at the end the following:

“(f) LIMITATION ON WAIVER AUTHORITY.—Notwithstanding subsection (e)(2)(A) and section 1115(a), the Secretary may not approve a waiver, experimental, pilot, or demonstration project, or an amendment to such a project that has been approved as of the date of enactment of this subsection, that would allow funds made available under this title to be used to provide child health assistance or other health benefits coverage to childless adults. For purposes of the preceding sentence, a caretaker relative (as such term is defined for purposes of carrying out section 1931) shall not be considered a childless adult.”

(2) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—Section 2105(c)(1) (42 U.S.C. 1397ee(c)(1)) is amended by inserting before the period the following: “and may not include coverage of childless adults. For purposes of the preceding sentence, a caretaker relative (as such term is defined for purposes of carrying out section 1931) shall not be considered a childless adult.”

(b) RULE OF CONSTRUCTION.—Nothing in this section or the amendments made by this section shall be construed to—

(1) authorize the waiver of any provision of title XIX or XXI of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 1396 et seq., 1397aa et seq.) that is not otherwise authorized to be waived under such titles or under title XI of such Act (42 U.S.C. 1301 et seq.) as of the date of enactment of this Act; or

(2) imply congressional approval of any waiver, experimental, pilot, or demonstration project affecting the medicaid program under title XIX of the Social Security Act or the State children's health insurance program under title XXI of such Act that has been approved as of such date of enactment.

(c) EFFECTIVE DATE.—This section and the amendments made by this section take effect on the date of enactment of this Act and apply to proposals to conduct a waiver, experimental, pilot, or demonstration project affecting the medicaid program under title XIX of the Social Security Act or the State children's health insurance program under title XXI of such Act, and to any proposals to amend such projects, that are approved or extended on or after such date of enactment.

TITLE VII—EFFECTIVE DATE

SEC. 701. EFFECTIVE DATE.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Subject to subsection (b) and except as otherwise provided, the amendments made by this Act take effect on the date of enactment of this Act.

(b) EXCEPTION.—In the case of a State plan under part A or D of title IV of the Social Security Act which the Secretary determines requires State legislation in order for the plan to meet the additional requirements imposed by the amendments made by this Act, the effective date of the amendments imposing the additional requirements shall be 3 months after the first day of the first calendar quarter beginning after the close of the first regular session of the State legislature that begins after the date of enactment of this Act. For purposes of the preceding sentence, in the case of a State that has a 2-year legislative session, each year of the session shall be considered to be a separate regular session of the State legislature.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The distinguished Senator from Nevada is recognized.

MORNING BUSINESS

Mr. REID. Mr. President, the chairman of the Finance Committee will not be here until about 1:30. We should not start the bill until he arrives. I have spoken to Senator BAUCUS. He agrees. I think until then perhaps we should be in a period of morning business until 1:30.

Mr. FRIST. Mr. President, why don't we have morning business. I ask unanimous consent that there be a period of morning business with the time divided accordingly until 1:30 today.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there objection? Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. WYDEN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

ORDER OF PROCEDURE

Mr. WYDEN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to speak for up to 10 minutes as in morning business.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. DORGAN. Will the Senator from Oregon yield for a question?

Mr. WYDEN. I am happy to.

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that I be recognized for 10 minutes following the Senator from Oregon.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

RIISING GAS PRICES

Mr. WYDEN. Mr. President, I rise to reiterate how important it is that Congress and the administration act to protect the American people from rising gas prices. I call on the Bush administration to stop its campaign of inaction on this critical consumer issue.

This week the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, OPEC, will vote on whether to cut their cartel's production by 1 million barrels a day. This vote comes at a time when the American Automobile Association tells us that the national average price of gasoline is the highest it has ever been. Of course, we know it is not yet the peak driving season. In California, consumers consistently pay over $2 a gallon. In my home State, it is $1.80, and in some towns, $1.85, such as Eugene and Medford. Consumers in Oregon are getting clobbered.

The vote OPEC will be making comes at a time when according to the Associated Press private gasoline inventories are already down by 2.5 million barrels. The vote comes at a time when, in spite of these very low supplies, the Bush administration stubbornly persists in filling the Strategic Petroleum Reserve instead of steps that I and others favor, which are to put more oil on the market.

In my view, it is imperative that the United States push OPEC in every possible way not to cause further harm to our already injured gasoline market and to vote against any further production cuts. The Lundberg Survey tells us that even if OPEC were to agree this week not to cut production, we would still face skyrocketing prices. Here is how I read that: If OPEC doesn't agree not to cut production, the problem will be that much worse.

When oil prices were high in September of 2000, then-candidate George W. Bush blasted former President Clinton for not pushing OPEC to increase production. Prices at that time were not as high as they are today. And at least the administration at that time was making some efforts to wring some relief out of OPEC. But still then Texas Governor Bush said:

We need to be mindful of the power of strong and consistent diplomacy. We need to start playing with chips we have earned in the past on behalf of American consumers.

If anybody has chips to play now in order to get a fair shake for the consumer, it is this President. Certainly he has chips to play with the domestic oil producers who enjoy the tax breaks he favors and environmental breaks and help when those companies are having difficulty supplying their refineries.

With regard to the OPEC vote, we ought to be clear. I hope the President of the United States will follow the advice he gave years ago. I hope he will do everything possible to push those OPEC countries now, telling them they should not allow the gas problem in this country to worsen with yet another production cut. Pushing OPEC to stop a planned production cut is the very least this administration could do for the gasoline consumer. It would be the least that could be done, but at least it would be something. At least it would end the weeks' long, months' long campaign of inaction that this administration has waged as gasoline prices have crept higher and higher and clobbered consumers in every part of the United States.

For several weeks now OPEC's per barrel price has been well above their target per barrel price range of $22 to $28. OPEC committed to keeping prices in this range. They long ago discarded that commitment, and yet nobody has heard anything from the administration until just in the last week or so, as I and others started calling for answers.

We sure heard from the White House last week when OPEC prices dropped to $35.51 per barrel. They said: Well, we are making progress. But the fact is, that amount is more than $7 higher than the top of OPEC's target price range. So any pressure this administration has put on OPEC is a day late and more than $7 short. Taking credit after the fact for a pittance of accommodation from OPEC is not going to solve this Nation's gasoline price problems, and it certainly is not going to provide the consumer any real relief.

I will tell you what else is not going to help American consumers. That is for the administration to continue to turn a blind eye to the rampant anticompetitive and anticonsumer practices that are plaguing our country's gasoline markets. Scores of communities, including those in my State, have few if any choices for the gasoline consumer. Nationwide the gas market in Oregon and at least 27 other States is considered tight oligopolies where four companies control more than 60 percent of the gasoline at the pump. In these tightly concentrated markets, numerous studies have found oil company practices have driven the independent wholesalers and detailers completely out of the market. They use red lining and zone pricing. The fact is, with these and other practices, the independent stations can't compete. They go out of business, and the oil companies can widen their net to grab even more cash from the consumers.

The Federal Trade Commission, when they have looked at these practices in the past, have admitted that they are anticompetitive and drive prices higher. They just say they don't have the power to do much about it. I don't think that is true. To be fair, the past administration didn't do a whole lot either when it came to going to bat for the consumer to stop these oil company anticompetitive practices. But this administration has proven that if they want to make something happen administratively, they certainly can do it. They have done that in area after area.

It seems to me that if the administration will end its campaign of inaction to stop the price-pumping shenanigans of private oil companies, they could certainly take steps now to help the American consumer.

In December of 2002, they stepped in to stop filling the Strategic Petroleum Reserve to keep more oil on the market, when the oil companies couldn't keep their refineries full. But now when American consumers are paying $2 a gallon at the pump, we don't see any effort to stop filling the Strategic Petroleum Reserve. So the fact is, what this administration is unwilling do for the driving public, they are willing to do for big oil.

What ought to be done in the face of this campaign of inaction? Certainly, you can make a start by having congressional action. I sponsored S. 1737, which would give the Federal Trade Commission additional tools to promote competition in these very tight markets. They would have the power to issue cease and desist orders to prevent companies from gouging consumers. That is a vehicle that can be used right now to help the American consumer. We are certainly going to have problems in the days ahead. And even the oil companies admit that the market won't solve the problems on its own.

Last August a report by the Rand Corporation revealed that even oil industry officials are predicting more price volatility in the future. Last November the Energy Information Administration also issued a report on the causes of last summer's record high gas prices.

They said—and this is the position of the Federal Government—"There is continuing vulnerability to future gasoline price spikes."

The Congress needs to act now before gasoline rises to $3 per gallon, and we are hearing that from some independent oil industry analysts.

The administration, however, has the power to act now. They need to be on the phone. They need to be pushing OPEC today. They need to get off the dime at the Federal Trade Commission, where action can be taken administratively. Rising gas prices don't just hit families in the pocket during the weekly fill-up; those rising gasoline prices are producing a disturbance and causing ripples throughout our economy. There are huge consequences of this price manipulation.

When gasoline costs more, businesses' transportation costs go up. Their profits go down. So either the price of the goods they sell to consumers has to go up, or the number of people they employ must plummet. So higher gas prices either mean bigger costs for consumer goods, or fewer jobs in an economy that certainly cannot afford to lose any more.

Let me close by saying that I hope my legislation, S. 1737, will pass in the days ahead. Right now, consumers are getting socked at the pumps in person. That is not acceptable to me and should not be acceptable to any Member of the Senate. It is time to stand up to the status quo.

It is time for the Bush administration to take the lead. They ought to do it with OPEC and with the Federal Trade Commission. If the administration doesn't support the proposals I offer today, they ought to end their campaign of inaction and offer their own. I hope we will have a chance to debate this on the floor of the Senate.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from North Dakota is recognized.

NATIONAL SEX OFFENDER REGISTRY ACT OF 2004

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President, last December, there were news reports around the country about the disappearance of a young student at the University of North Dakota whose name was Dru Sjodin.

I am sorry to tell you that Dru Sjodin has never been found. It is likely that she has been murdered. The person who allegedly committed that murder is now under lock and key in a North Dakota jail, awaiting a trial. And, as is too often the case, the man that apparently committed this crime had earlier been released from prison for committing similar offenses.

Let me talk for a moment about this case and about some legislation I have introduced in the Senate—bipartisan legislation—to respond to it.

Dru Sjodin was a student at the University of North Dakota. On a December afternoon, she was abducted in a parking lot at the shopping center in Grand Forks, ND.

The suspect who was arrested for that disappearance was a man named Alfonso Rodriguez, Jr. Law enforcement has released some details, saying that a knife with blood of the type of Dru Sjodin's blood was found in the automobile of Mr. Alfonso Rodriguez.

Mr. Rodriguez had only been released 6 months earlier from a 23-year sentence that he served in a prison for a previous rape and sexual assault in Minnesota. In fact, the Minnesota Department of Corrections had rated Mr. Rodriguez a "type 3" sexual offender, meaning that he was at the highest risk for reoffending.

In an evaluation conducted in January 2003, a little over a year ago, a prison psychiatrist wrote that Mr. Rodriguez had demonstrated "a willingness to use substantial force, including the use of a weapon, in order to gain compliance from his victims."

Yet Mr. Rodriguez was released in May of 2003—not yet a year ago—by the Minnesota Department of Corrections. He had served 23 years; he had served his full sentence, and the Department of Corrections released him and imposed no further supervision for his release.

The Minnesota Department of Corrections could have recommended that the State Attorney General seek what is known as a civil commitment. That means a State court would have required Rodriguez to be confined in prison as long as he posed a significant threat to the public, even if he had already served his original sentence. But the Attorney General was not notified of Mr. Rodriguez's release, and so no action was taken there.

Upon his release, Mr. Rodriguez went to live in Crookston, MN, unsupervised, just a short distance from the Grand Forks, ND, shopping mall where Dru Sjodin was abducted. Mr. Rodriguez was listed on a list of sexual predators in Minnesota. But each State has listings of sexual predators. If concerned citizens in Grand Forks, ND, wanted to know whether there was a sexual predator living nearby, they would have accessed the North Dakota sexual predator list and would not have found Mr. Rodriguez's name, despite the fact that he lived just a short distance from that Grand Forks shopping center, across the state line.

In my judgment, we have to do much, much better than that. A recent study found that 72 percent of the highest risk sexual offenders commit another sexual assault within 6 years of being released. And the Bureau of Justice statistics tell us that sex offenders released from prison are over 10 times more likely to be arrested for a sexual crime than individuals who have no record of sexual assault at all.

We just cannot continue to release sexual predators from prison with no supervision whatsoever and let them prey on an unsuspecting public. So I have offered legislation that I hope will deal with some of the breakdowns that have occurred in this case. The legislation I have offered is cosponsored by Senator COLEMAN and Senator DAYTON from Minnesota, and by my colleague, Senator CONRAD, from North Dakota.

I ask unanimous consent to add as a cosponsor Senator Johnston from South Dakota.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President, I will define what the bill does. First, it directs the Department of Justice to create a national registry of sex offenders, which would be accessible to the public. This isn't difficult. You just aggregate the State lists so you have a national list. All Americans who live near State borders will be able to access that list.

Second, this legislation will try to ensure that the highest risk sex offenders are not released at all. The bill requires that States provide automatic and timely notification to the States' attorneys of the planned release of any high-risk sex offender. Before the release, the State's attorney shall be formally notified. That will give them time to pursue civil commitment cases for those who are the most dangerous, in order to continue to keep them in prison. They are able to do that under current law. My bill doesn't change current State laws, but it requires notification of the States' attorneys when somebody who is a type 3 high-risk sexual predator is about to be released from prison.

Third, the bill provides that for those high-risk sexual predators who are released after serving their full sentences, there will be intensive State supervision for a period of not less than one year.

Mr. President, in developing this piece of legislation, we have worked with the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children, the Vanished Children's Alliance, the National Council of Cities, and many others. A companion bill to my legislation has been offered in the House by PAUL GILLMOR from Ohio and EARL POMEROY of North Dakota. That, too, is a bipartisan piece of legislation.

Dru Sjodin, was, by all accounts, a wonderful person. I visited with her family and with her roommate in college. It is a tragedy the likes of which we see very seldom in our part of the country. Dru Sjodin has been missing since December. They have had search parties, the National Guard has searched, and her family is still out searching even after the formal law enforcement search has discontinued.

This young woman walked out of a shopping center in the town of Grand Forks, ND, and was abducted by someone who had just been released after 23 years in prison as a sexual predator.

We have to do a lot better than that to protect the American people. This is a tragedy. It is heartbreaking just to talk about this, but in the name of Dru Sjodin and so many other victims of crime, this Congress needs to do better.

One way to do better is to create and require the creation of a national registry of sexual predators so that we know where they are and where they live, not just by State, but where they are across this country, so one can identify them by sorting ZIP Codes or any other definition one wants. That is important.

And when the highest risk sexual predators are about to be released from American prisons, I believe States' attorneys must be notified so they can properly take action for civil commitment in cases where they believe it is necessary. Mr. Rodriguez, in my judgment, should have been in prison, not walking the streets of Grand Forks, ND.

It is easy, perhaps, to suggest criticism of those who did not do their job. But that is not the point. The point is to try to protect others in the future. I hope in the future, whether it is in Grand Forks, ND, or along the streets of any other American city, that no one—no one—has to confront a sexual predator who was just released from prison, and who we knew was violent. We should anticipate such cases, and make use of civil commitment laws. I hope this legislation moves us in that direction.

Mr. President, I thank the bipartisan cosponsors of this legislation and hope we can take action on this legislation in the Congress soon.

I yield the floor and suggest the absence of a quorum.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

CONCLUSION OF MORNING BUSINESS

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Morning business is closed.

PERSONAL RESPONSIBILITY AND INDIVIDUAL DEVELOPMENT FOR EVERYONE ACT—Continued

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senate will continue consideration of H.R. 4.

The Senator from Iowa.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, today we begin debate on what the public at large would refer to as a welfare reform bill, a bill that would build upon very major changes that were made after 60 years of the previous welfare legislation that did not accomplish its goals to one now where we have had an opportunity since 1996 to move people from welfare to work.

The public at large and sometimes even I refer to this legislation as welfare reform, but our legislation is entitled "The Personal Responsibility and Individual Development for Everyone Act." If you hear us use the acronym P-R-I-D-E, PRIDE, this is the legislation that is before the Senate. I am very happy that we are finally able to consider this legislation.

Going back to 1996, after years of debate and even after two vetoes by President Clinton, we finally had a Republican Congress pass, and a Democratic President sign, the Personal Responsibility and Work Opportunity Reconciliation Act of 1996. I emphasize that because the issue of welfare is highly charged politically. When you are going to make major changes, as we did in 1996, it takes bipartisanship to accomplish those changes. That bipartisanship was between Democratic President Clinton and a Republican-controlled Congress.

The enactment of welfare reform ended the entitlement aspect of welfare, the cash assistance part of it. The impetus for welfare reform was generated by a number of factors, including public sentiment that the welfare system needed overhauling. When campaigning for President, President Clinton promised, in his words, "to end welfare as we know it." For the Republicans, during the campaign for Congress in 1994 when the Contract With America was the watch word of Republicans, welfare reform was a key part of that. So we had a President promising to end welfare as we know it, we had Republicans putting it in their Contract With America, and, finally, after 2 years, the legislation was passed at that time.

I would categorize the PRIDE legislation as moving on and fine-tuning that basic underlying legislation which has sunset. The sunset was in the 1996 legislation. When legislation sunsets, it must be reenacted by the Congress of the United States or that part of the code goes off the books.

Quite honestly, there are Americans who have needs. There is still need for assistance, but the goal of that assistance is still as it has always been: to move people from welfare to work.

In the years leading up to the enactment of welfare reform in 1996, the AFDC roles soared and costs increased. From 1988 through 1992, welfare spending increased by billions of dollars. The welfare system was attributed by many to contributing to a culture of isolation and dependence, persisting from one generation to another. Despite dire predictions to the contrary, the reforms in the 1996 act have produced very positive results.

The welfare caseload has dropped dramatically. Between fiscal year 1997 and fiscal year 2002, the average monthly number of welfare recipients fell by 5.8 million or 53 percent of the previous high. Child poverty has also been reduced. Between 1996 and 2001, the national child poverty rate fell by 20 percent. This decline is even more marked for certain groups. We see the African-American children poverty rate dropping from nearly 40 percent to 30 percent, the lowest rate on record.

The Hispanic child poverty rate dropped from just slightly over 40 percent to 28 percent, the largest 5-year drop on record.

Employment rates of adult recipients has increased. In fiscal year 2001, 27 percent of the adult recipients were employed, rising to about 2.4 times the 1996 employment rate of 11 percent.

These reforms all stemmed from a work-first approach that emphasized an adult's attachment to the workforce. I believe we should continue and this legislation does build upon a work-first approach, and yet the need for reform continues.

There are key provisions in the 1996 act which have not yielded the desired results. Additionally, there are further reforms which should be enacted, things that we have learned from the 1996 act, and we are fine-tuning the present legislation through this legislation before us. As an example, the 1996 bill envisions a contingency fund which would provide additional matching grants to needy States during economic downturns.

However, during the recent recession, the first real test of the contingency fund, no State was able to access the contingency fund. This is because States must raise their own spending considerably during a recession to meet the contingency fund State spending requirements.

I am sure it was not the intent of the authors of the 1996 bill to make the contingency fund inaccessible. The PRIDE bill before the Senate includes provisions which would liberalize the contingency fund to make it more accessible to needy States and to help more citizens of their States who have the need.

Another example would be the work participation rate. The 1996 welfare reform bill envisioned a participation rate of 50 percent by 2002. However, because of the way the caseload reduction credit has worked, many States have a marginal or even nonexistent work participation requirement, meaning they are meeting the requirements of existing Federal law without putting one more person from the welfare rolls into the payrolls. The fact that the caseload reduction credit has effectively neutralized the work participation rate requirement is then a fundamental flaw in this 1996 law that PRIDE corrects.

The PRIDE bill does, in fact, correct this by replacing the caseload reduction credit with an employment credit. To ensure that the credit does not undermine the work participation rate, the credit would have a phased-in cap. Many have advocated that there needs to be a stronger message sent to States on the value of education as a means of getting out of poverty. Some have also indicated the need for increased child care funding, as well as needed improvements to child support and enforcement policies.

The PRIDE legislation before the Senate increases opportunities for education, opportunities for training, as well as support for the families by increased funding for child care. Additionally, the PRIDE bill provides child support enhancements with more child support going to families. These reforms are a critical means that help families get off and stay off of welfare.

Two of the four purposes of the 1996 welfare act dealt with strengthening two-parent families. So far, very few States have taken the opportunity to develop and to implement innovative programs and policies to address the issues of healthy two-parent marriages, even though the 1996 law is very flexible on how that is to be done—obviously too flexible from the standpoint of it being a requirement that the State ought to meet.

I strongly support marriage promotion activities as a means of improving child well-being. Let nobody in this body or outside this body say there is anything in this language that has anything to do with forcing people into the institution of marriage. Well short of that, this legislation does and should do things to emphasize the importance of people who are in a married relationship, that they are less apt to be on welfare than families who are single parent.

This legislation provides funding for healthy marriage promotion activities, as well as research, demonstrations and technical assistance to States in developing effective programs. Thus, while the 1996 act made significant reforms, there remains more that should be done to strengthen the current welfare delivery system. Those reforms are included in the PRIDE bill now before the Senate.

Recognizing the improvements that the 1996 reforms made, our Senate Finance Committee began deliberations by working off of current law and improving it with priorities identified by Senators on and off the Finance Committee, as well as ideas that are coming from President Bush's administration.

The Senate Finance Committee deliberations in many ways continued the work done in the 107th Congress on the issues of welfare reform. As Members know, the bill that then-Chairman BAUCUS produced in the second half of the 107th Congress, which went by the acronym WORK bill, was based on the so-called tripartisan agreement at that time. This tripartisan agreement was a series of policy agreements reached by Senators BREAU, ROCKEFELLER, LINCOLN, and JEFFORDS from the Democratic caucus, and Senators HATCH and SNOWE from the Republican caucus. These Members, along with then-Chairman BAUCUS, continued to play strong and important leadership roles on the Finance Committee relative to welfare reform.

I had a chance to review the work of the last Congress, which was the tripartisan agreement, and I noted similarities between what the tripartisan group proposed, what the PRIDE Act before us has in it, and also the House-passed bill that passed early last year. That House-passed bill is largely based upon President Bush's proposal for welfare reform. I refer my colleagues to the various charts that I am going to put before them now, which highlight the many areas of common ground between last year's WORK bill and the House bill, and the PRIDE bill by which the present title is before the Senate. Admittedly, not all the details are exactly the same, but as my colleagues will see from these charts, there is a great deal of common ground between these three bills. I think it is important to emphasize the similarities because too often on the Senate floor we have emphasis upon disagreements.

This common ground is building upon the bipartisanship that took place in 1996 to move us to the present program.

There is common ground regarding keeping what works from the 1996 reform bill. Going down the chart from top to bottom, all three bills maintain the basic block grant, continue the policy of no individual entitlement to assistance, and retain the lifetime 5-year time limit.

Both the bill of Senator BAUCUS, of last session, and the legislation now before the Senate would maintain current sanction policy. The PRIDE bill continues to allow for 12 months of education and training, while the House bill scales that back to 4 months and the bill of Senator BAUCUS would have increased that to 24 months.

Additionally, both the WORK bill and the PRIDE bill would maintain the current list of core work and work readiness activities, although the WORK bill would allow 8 weeks to be spent in job research.

Now we have a chart that deals with improving State flexibility. Before I describe what is on this chart, we have had a great deal of emphasis upon letting States use this Federal legislation with some degree of flexibility. Frankly, it is very difficult for us to pour a mold in Washington called welfare reform and have it fit all 50 States exactly the same way. What it might take for the State of Iowa to meet the needs of a welfare family in Waterloo, IA, might be entirely different than in New York City. If you try to solve it in exactly the same way, you are probably going to waste money in New York or Waterloo or you might not accomplish as much in one city for that money as opposed to another. So let Albany, as the capital of New York, or let Des Moines, IA, as the capital of my State—let the legislators there and administrators there fit this to meet their various needs.

I want to point, though, to the common ground in terms of improving State flexibility. Again, I am referring to the three proposals: The Senate bill from the last Congress, the Senate bill from this Congress, and the House-passed bill that is now in the Senate for our consideration. All three proposals would allow for adults on assistance, with barriers to work, to engage in activities designed to address those barriers and allow those barrier removal activities to count toward a State work requirement for 3 months, provide for increased access to emergency or contingency funds during an economic downturn, and allow States to use their unobligated balances or carryover funds for any welfare-related purpose. That would include child care, whereas currently States can only use these funds for cash assistance. We give States much more flexibility to meet their needs because they know their needs better than we do.

Both the Senate bill of the 107th Congress as well as the Senate bill of the 108th Congress would allow for an additional 3 months of barrier removal activities if combined with work. Both the WORK bill and the PRIDE bill include a provision allowing States to count longer duration postsecondary education towards their work requirement. This is a provision patterned after the State of Maine's Parents as Scholars Program.

We also have common ground between these three pieces of legislation on strengthening work requirements and leading people into the world of work. For 60 years we put welfare recipients out of sight, out of mind, out to the edges of society, guaranteeing a life of poverty. What we started doing in 1996, and we intend to continue to do through this legislation, is move people from the world of welfare to the world of work. The motivation behind that is you have to be in the world of work to have a chance to move up the economic ladder. You cannot move up the economic ladder in the world of welfare. But where there are 138 million Americans in the world of work, that is where we need to have as many welfare recipients as we can so they can move out of poverty.

No child should be sentenced to a life of poverty, and I think we are showing in the 1996 legislation, which we are now refining, that this helps people move up the economic ladder. At least there is opportunity to move up the economic ladder where there is no opportunity to do that if you are relying on a welfare check.

I want to again emphasize there is common ground relative to strengthening the work requirement. All three bills would increase a State's required participation rate, raise the time spent in core or priority activities, as well as assign partial credit for hours below the standard. The PRIDE bill and the House bill would raise the standard hour. The PRIDE bill and the WORK bill would replace the caseload reduction credit with an employment credit based on legislation introduced by the Senator from Arkansas, Mrs. LINCOLN.

There is common ground on promoting healthy families. All three bills would provide for universal engagement of improved child support provisions, healthy marriage grants, as well as for responsible fatherhood grants. Both the WORK and the PRIDE bills would extend transitional medical assistance for 5 years, with program simplification that was authored by Senator BREAU of Louisiana.

It would allow for caregiving for a disabled child to count as work, and would require States to develop presanction review policies.

I have worked very hard to make sure that this is a bipartisan product. I have also been continually mindful of concerns raised by Democratic colleagues that they have about this provision. In areas where we differ, I am more than happy to let the Senate work its will, and there are outstanding issues. There are key differences between last year's Senate Finance Committee bill and this year's Senate Finance Committee bill. In my opinion, the most significant ones are the level of child care funding available for States, about which there is going to be an amendment that we are going to be dealing with shortly. Another one would be 24 months versus 12 months of allowable education and training. Another one would be eligibility for legal immigrants, for welfare, Medicaid, and the children's health insurance program. Another one would be continuation of the expired State aid to families of dependent children waiver; and, fifth, the standard hours for calculating a State's work participation rate.

I am also aware there are Members who may wish to consider provisions increasing the work requirement by broadening the family's account toward the participation rate as well as increasing the standard hour.

Additionally, I have had Members tell me they want to consider amendments requiring States to pose a full check sanction on adults who fail to comply with their self-sufficiency plans.

These are all things to which the Senate is entitled, guaranteed, to have a healthy debate on. These are things that will be settled on the floor of the Senate, if people want to pursue these differences of opinion.

However, at this point I want to spend some time discussing the issues surrounding the work requirement in PRIDE, specifically the issue of work hours for individuals receiving assistance. I want to clarify, first of all, something for the record. There is no Federal hour requirement on an adult receiving assistance.

I want to say that another way.

The Federal Government cannot make an individual welfare recipient work 40 hours or 30 hours or 1 hour. Just as there is no longer an individual entitlement to welfare, there is no individual requirement for work hours. As the great baseball leader Casey Stengel used to say, Look it up.

There is a Federal requirement on the States to engage welfare clients in a variety of meaningful activities in order to meet a Federal work participation rate, and there are severe penalties on States for failure to meet the Federal work participation rate.

Currently, in order for a State to count an adult recipient toward the calculation of that State's work requirement, that adult must be engaged in priority work or work-related activities for at least 30 hours.

As you know, the majority of families receiving welfare don't want to be on welfare. A recent study by the Mathematica Policy Research Institute of low-income families in my State revealed that many of those who ask for assistance "felt that it sacrifices their independence and pride to do so."

In hearings as well as in townhall meetings in my State of Iowa, adults receiving assistance told me they desire to work. I took at their word Iowans who spoke to me of their desire to work, and that is why I have worked so hard to bring a bill forward that would encourage States to redouble their efforts to engage adults receiving assistance in meaningful activities and better prepare them to enter the world of work.

Consider the hypothetical case of Sara, a mom with two kids, who finds herself in a crisis. A victim of domestic abuse, Sara is trying to make a better life for herself and her children. To that end, she moves out of her abuser's home and attempts to find a way to support her family. Lacking a number of basic skills as well as needing some counseling to deal with her history of abuse, Sara presents with a number of challenges and needs welfare to help support her family.

Under current law, States have a limited capacity to deal with Sara's issues and have those activities count toward a State work participation rate. Under current law, a State cannot count any domestic violence counseling that may be offered to Sara toward their work participation rate.

Sara knows she must work to support her family, so she begins immediately looking for work. She spends 6 weeks looking for a job and finally finds a part-time job as a waitress working 6 hours a day for 4 days a week. She continues to look for a better paying job for an hour a day as well as spending another hour a day in counseling provided to her by her own State.

I think many of us would agree that Sara is doing everything she can to try to move toward self-sufficiency and that her State by engaging her in counseling is doing its part as well. However, under current law, because she is only part time and because a State cannot count her job search after 6 weeks, and under current law domestic violence counseling can never count, Sara does not count toward that State's participation rate, regardless of how hard she or the State make the effort for her to be in the work force. In other words, you either meet the 30-hour standard and count or you don't.

Currently, the States report that the majority of adults—57 percent—receiving assistance engage in 0 hours of activity. Clearly, it is more difficult for States to work with adults who are not doing anything than to work with an adult working 29 hours and get her engaged in meaningful activities for another 5 hours.

It can be argued as well that it is more meaningful to help an adult move from 0 to 20 hours of activity than to move an adult from 29 hours to 34 hours of activity; but under current law, a State has no incentive to work with that particular individual. It doesn't give them credit, to the Federal Government, for doing the State's part under the welfare-to-work law requirements.

The administration's proposal for welfare reform reauthorization—last year's Senate bill called the WORK bill and this year's PRIDE bill—allows States to get partial credit for hours below that standard hour requirement.

As my colleagues know, the standard hour is when an eligible parent or parents count as "one family" for purposes of calculating a State's work participation rate. Partial credit for hours below the standard would give States a very strong incentive to work with adults who may not be ready for full-time employment. I think we can all agree it is better for these adults to be doing something rather than nothing, languishing on welfare rolls until the time limit kicks in and they have to go off assistance, having no skills to go get a job or skills to support their family.

I have another chart I would like to bring to your attention.

Our PRIDE bill is unique, however, inasmuch as the legislation would establish a series of "tiers" where partial credit is assigned along with a band of hours.

For work or work-readiness activities in the 20-23 hour range, a State may claim credit for an adult with a child age 6 or older counting as .675 of an entire family. For hours of 24-29 range, a State may claim credit for an adult counting as .75 of a family. And for hours in the 30-33 range, a State may claim credit for an adult counting as .875 of a family.

The PRIDE bill, consistent with last year's tripartisan proposal, establishes a separate lower standard hour for parents with a child under the age of 6 because of the greater need for attention of that child. However, PRIDE sets a standard hour at 24, whereas the tripartisan proposal would have continued to set the standard hour for a parent with a child under age 6 at 20 hours. States can also capture a modest amount of extra credit for hours above this standard.

As a result of these provisions in the PRIDE Act, the Congressional Research Service has calculated that overall, the nationwide work participation rate for States increases from a national average of 29 percent—without waivers—to 41 percent under our PRIDE legislation.

There are some States that have very low participation rates. I have included a number of provisions specifically intended to help those States. Additionally, I am willing to work with Members representing those States on measures we can take to assist those States in making improvements in the way services are delivered and clients being engaged in those States.

When we talk about the work hours as they relate to the PRIDE bill, I think it is important to bear in mind that the significant hour is not whether it is 34 or 40 or 37, but the significant number of hours is 20 because that is where the partial credit begins.

Additionally, when we talk about the hours in the work requirement, the important hour again is not 30 or 40, but the important hour is 24 because that is the threshold for core work activities.

Once a client meets the 24-hour threshold for core work activities, States can count unlimited education, counseling, job search, or other barrier-removal activities toward the State's participation rate.

So then, we go back to Sara, the young mother to whom I previously referred, who, under current law—even though she was working 24 hours, and in counseling, and even looking for another job—did not count at all toward a State's participation rate and, consequently, would not get much attention from that State—the attention that is needed to improve people's economic growth.

Under the legislation before the Senate this year, as opposed to what current law has been since 1996, Sara would have up to 6 months allowed in barrier-removal activities, including domestic violence counseling and substance abuse counseling, that counts toward this State's participation rate, meeting the requirements of Federal law.

Once the 6 months are up, she has an additional 12 months that she can spend in education and training.

Once those 12 months are up, if she works for 24 hours a week, spends an hour a day, 5 days a week, in domestic-abuse counseling, and looks for a better job for an hour a day, 5 days a week, she then has reached the point where she counts as one family, where the State recognizes her as a very significant individual, where the State, by paying attention to her, is going to get some credit. In other words, under the legislation now before the Senate, Sara does count; whereas, under current law, Sara does not count.

During the past 3 years of debate on the issue of welfare reform, I have heard a number of different perspectives on the best approach to take for the next phase of welfare reform.

Some have argued the way to go is to increase the time that adults receiving assistance spend engaged in meaningful work activity. The correlation between full-time work and increased earnings is compelling.

Some have suggested that increasing the amount of time allowed for education and training is more important than increasing the time spent working. The correlation between increased education and increased earnings, of course, is compelling as well.

Others believe that encouraging marriage and reducing out-of-wedlock births would net the best result.

Still others have suggested that increasing State flexibility should be an integral part of any reform effort.

I firmly believe that when it comes to welfare reform, there is, in fact, no such thing as "one size fits all." While education may be the best approach for some, it may not be for others. Encouraging healthy family formation may be just what one family needs, but perhaps that approach would not be in the best interest of another family under different circumstances.

The PRIDE bill takes a blended approach to welfare reform and strives to find balance among all these perspectives.

The legislation before the Senate increases the emphasis on work and work-readiness activities, as well as increasing the flexibility for States to engage adults in education and training activities. The PRIDE legislation also provides resources to encourage States to develop innovative family formation programs, while making it clear that participation in those programs must be voluntary, and the program must be developed with domestic violence professionals.

I have a chart speaking to the factors that influence poverty rates. This approach is consistent with the latest research; in other words, the approach of flexibility—"one size fits all" not working.

We have a recent policy brief that was released by the Brookings Institution, and it was drafted by Ron Haskins and Isabel Sawhill. It is entitled "Work and Marriage: The Way to End Poverty and Welfare." The authors, using Census data and simple modeling, simulate the effects of various factors on the poverty rate for families with children.

The poverty rate for families with children, in 2001, was 13 percent. Now, surely, everyone agrees that a central purpose of welfare reform is the reduction of poverty. As this chart clearly shows, the least effective factor in reducing poverty was to double a family's welfare benefit. The most effective single way to reduce poverty was to work full time. Indeed, according to these authors of the Brookings Institute policy brief:

[F]ull-time work eliminates almost half of the poverty experienced by families with children.

However, the most effective approach to reducing poverty was a combination of work, marriage, education, and family-size reduction.

As colleagues can see from this chart, when the blended approach is adopted, poverty is reduced a staggering 9.3 percent, going from 13 percent down to 3.7 percent.

I find these numbers to be quite compelling. I am pleased that they reinforce the approach taken in this legislation before the Senate.

I know there are colleagues who have many thoughts on these pieces of legislation, and we are going to have a very lively debate.

AMENDMENT NO. 2937

Mr. President, I send an amendment to the desk for the Senator from Maine, Ms. SNOWE, and ask for its consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. SUNUNU). The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Iowa [Mr. GRASSLEY], for Ms. SNOWE, for herself, Mr. DODD, Mr. HATCH, Mr. ALEXANDER, Mr. CARPER, Mr. BINGAMAN, Mr. ROCKEFELLER, Ms. COLLINS, Ms. LANDRIEU, Mrs. MURRAY, Mr. JEFFORDS, Mrs. BOXER, Mr. CHAFEE, Mrs. LINCOLN, Mrs. CLINTON, Ms. MIKULSKI, Mr. COLEMAN, and Mr. SCHUMER, proposes an amendment numbered 2937.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: To provide additional funding for child care)

Beginning on page 255, strike line 18 and all that follows through page 257, line 2, and insert the following:

SEC. 116. FUNDING FOR CHILD CARE.

(a) INCREASE IN MANDATORY FUNDING.—Section 418(a)(3) (42 U.S.C. 618(a)(3)), as amended by section 4 of the Welfare Reform Extension Act of 2003 (Public Law 108-040, 117 Stat. 837), is amended—

(1) by striking “and” at the end of subparagraph (E);

(2) by striking the period at the end of subparagraph (F) and inserting “; and”; and

(3) by adding at the end the following:

“(G) $2,917,000,000 for each of fiscal years 2005 through 2009.”.

(b) RESERVATION OF CHILD CARE FUNDS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Section 418(a)(4) (42 U.S.C. 618(a)(4)) is amended to read as follows:

“(4) AMOUNTS RESERVED.—

“(A) INDIAN TRIBES.—

“(i) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall reserve 2 percent of the aggregate amount appropriated to carry out this section for a fiscal year for payments to Indian tribes and tribal organizations for such fiscal year for the purpose of providing child care assistance.

“(ii) APPLICATION OF CCDBG REQUIREMENTS.—Payments made under this subparagraph shall be subject to the requirements that apply to payments made to Indian tribes and tribal organizations under the Child Care and Development Block Grant Act of 1990.

“(B) TERRITORIES.—

“(i) PUERTO RICO.—The Secretary shall reserve 1.5 percent of the amount appropriated under paragraph (5)(A)(i) for a fiscal year for payments to the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico for such fiscal year for the purpose of providing child care assistance.

“(ii) OTHER TERRITORIES.—The Secretary shall reserve 0.5 percent of the amount appropriated under paragraph (5)(A)(i) for a fiscal year for payments to Guam, American Samoa, the Virgin Islands of the United States, and the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands in amounts which bear the same ratio to such amount as the amounts allotted to such territories under section 6580 of the Child Care and Development Block Grant Act of 1990 for the fiscal year bear to the total amount reserved under such section for that fiscal year.

“(iii) APPLICATION OF CCDBG REQUIREMENTS.—Payments made under this subparagraph shall be subject to the requirements that apply to payments made to territories under the Child Care and Development Block Grant Act of 1990.”.

(2) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—Section 1108(a)(2) (42 U.S.C. 1308(a)(2)), as amended by section 108(b)(3), is amended by striking “or 413(f)” and inserting “413(f), or 418(a)(4)(B)”.

(c) SUPPLEMENTAL GRANTS.—Section 418(a) (42 U.S.C. 618(a)) is amended—

(1) by redesignating paragraph (5) as paragraph (7); and

(2) by inserting after paragraph (4), the following:

“(5) SUPPLEMENTAL GRANTS.—

“(A) APPROPRIATION.—

“(i) IN GENERAL.—For supplemental grants under this section, there are appropriated—

“(I) $700,000,000 for fiscal year 2005;

“(II) $1,000,000,000 for fiscal year 2006;

“(III) $1,200,000,000 for fiscal year 2007;

“(IV) $1,400,000,000 for fiscal year 2008; and

“(V) $1,700,000,000 for fiscal year 2009.

“(ii) AVAILABILITY.—Amounts appropriated under clause (i) for a fiscal year shall be in addition to amounts appropriated under paragraph (3) for such fiscal year and shall remain available without fiscal year limitation.

“(B) SUPPLEMENTAL GRANT.—In addition to the grants paid to a State under paragraphs (1) and (2) for each of fiscal years 2005 through 2009, the Secretary, after reserving the amounts described in subparagraphs (A) and (B) of paragraph (4) and subject to the requirements described in paragraph (6), shall pay each State an amount which bears the same ratio to the amount specified in subparagraph (A)(i) for the fiscal year (after such reservations), as the amount allotted to the State under paragraph (2)(B) for fiscal year 2003 bears to the amount allotted to all States under that paragraph for such fiscal year.

“(6) REQUIREMENTS.—

“(A) MAINTENANCE OF EFFORT.—A State may not be paid a supplemental grant under paragraph (5) for a fiscal year unless the State ensures that the level of State expenditures for child care for such fiscal year is not less than the sum of—

“(i) the level of State expenditures for child care that were matched under a grant made to the State under paragraph (2) for fiscal year 2003; and

“(ii) the level of State expenditures for child care that the State reported as maintenance of effort expenditures for purposes of paragraph (2) for fiscal year 2003.

“(B) MATCHING REQUIREMENT FOR FISCAL YEARS 2008 AND 2009.—With respect to the amount of the supplemental grant made to a State under paragraph (5) for each of fiscal years fiscal year 2008 and 2009 that is in excess of the amount of the grant made to the State under paragraph (5) for fiscal year 2007, subparagraph (C) of paragraph (2) shall apply to such excess amount in the same manner as such subparagraph applies to grants made under subparagraph (A) of paragraph (2) for each of fiscal years 2008 and 2009, respectively.

“(C) REDISTRIBUTION.—In the case of a State that fails to satisfy the requirement of subparagraph (A) for a fiscal year, the supplemental grant determined under paragraph (5) for the State for that fiscal year shall be redistributed in accordance with paragraph (2)(D).”.

(d) EXTENSION OF MERCHANDISE PROCESSING CUSTOMS USER FEES.—Section 13031(j)(3) of the Consolidated Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1985 (19 U.S.C. 58c(j)(3)), as amended by section 201 of the Military Family Tax Relief Act of 2003 (Public Law 108-121; 117 Stat. 1343), is amended—

(1) by striking “Fees” and inserting “(A) Except as provided in subparagraph (B), fees”; and

(2) by adding at the end the following:

“(B) Fees may not be charged under paragraphs (9) and (10) of subsection (a) after September 30, 2009.”.

Mr. GRASSLEY. I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Montana.

Mr. BAUCUS. Mr. President, I begin by thanking the chairman of our committee, Senator GRASSLEY. He has worked very long and hard on this issue, and it has been very good to work with him. He has thought a lot about these issues. He has worked hard to try to find a middle ground. He wants to get things done, and I deeply appreciate that.

We are here today to reauthorize the 1996 welfare reform law. The 1996 law has actually worked pretty well. I think all commentators would agree with that statement. In fact, it has worked much better than people thought it would work. It is not broken. It is not broken at all. And I think we need to guard against “fixing” something that is not broken. You know the old saying: “If it ain’t broke, don’t fix it.” I think that applies to the 1996 welfare statute.

As we go forward, we might ask ourselves whether we might do better simply extending the existing 1996 law. Yes, we could make some modifications. We would increase, for example, funding for child care to help parents get to work. But as the Senate considers proposed changes, we might ask whether it would be better to stick with the 1996 act.

I will spend a little time today talking about the House bill. The House bill does not stick with the 1996 bill. The House of Representatives has made, frankly, some pretty dramatic changes—"fixes" to a program that many of us believe is not broken.

The Senate bill that Chairman GRASSLEY has crafted tries to chart a middle course. Thus, the bill before us presents an opportunity to reflect on the lessons we have learned since 1996, and to incorporate those lessons in the new bill.

We accomplished what we set out to do in 1996, and I am proud to have played a role in passing that law.

The 1996 welfare reform law was a landmark. The old system had failed.

We were spending billions, but we had little to show for it. So we tried something new. We tried, in the words of the introduction to the 1996 act "to end the dependence of needy parents on government benefits by promoting job preparation, work, and marriage."

At the same time, the 1996 act was very controversial. In retrospect, it is clear that by and large we were headed in the right direction. I call attention to the chart next to me. This chart essentially tells the story. It is entitled "Welfare Recipients as a Percentage of Population." Hundreds of thousands of people have left welfare and left welfare for work. The number of folks on welfare, as you can tell, as a percentage of the American population, beginning in 1988, rose up to its peak in about 1994 and 1995. Then we passed the 1996 statute, and it has plummeted dramatically.

The next chart shows the changes in welfare recipient caseloads, from 1996 to 2001. It shows that all States have shared in the success. The caseload reduction has been highest for those States in red, that is greater than a 70-percent reduction. In States represented by orange, the reduction in welfare caseload has been between 50 and 70 percent. And States represented in yellow have a caseload reduction of less than 50 percent but very significant. My State of Montana is an orange State. Montana reduced its welfare caseload by 56 percent between 1996 and 2001.

The New York Times reported last week that even with the weak economy we have experienced lately, welfare rolls have declined in the past 3 years in most States. That is, caseloads have decreased even as unemployment, poverty, and the number of food stamp recipients have increased.

For example, in the State of Illinois, the number of families on welfare fell 45 percent since January 2001. In New York, the number of families on welfare declined about 40 percent since January of 2001. And in Texas, the number of families on welfare has declined 11 percent, again, in the last 3 years.

I would like now to show another chart. This is the child poverty rate. The child poverty rate has also declined since 1996, overall by about 23 percent. As you can see, the child poverty rate in 1988 was roughly 20 percent. It increased during the 1990s, through 1992, and peaked around 1993. It has declined very significantly since that peak in 1993. However, look at the end, 2000 to 2002. It looks as though it is starting to increase slightly.

But despite our success, there is still more to be done. We are not out of the woods. Too many troubled families remain on the rolls. Too many families struggle to raise children in poverty. In 2002, there were 34.6 million Americans below the official poverty level. For a family of two, poverty is $12,490. 34.6 million Americans below that level. Thirty-seven percent of families in poverty are working.

I have another chart. This is the poverty rate. As this chart shows, 1 in 10 Americans still live in poverty. That share has gone up in the last couple years with the recession, and close to 17 percent of our children live in poverty. In Montana, 19 percent of all children live in poverty. Nationwide, 1 in 10 Americans.

Those numbers are simply too high. We must provide better opportunities for poor families to move off welfare, into the workforce, and out of poverty for good. As successful as the 1996 bill has been, these figures show there is more we have to do.

In my view, doing more means focusing more attention on the hardest cases; that is, on families who face complicated and difficult challenges. For example, children with disabilities, adults with little or no education or work skills, people with mental health issues or substance abuse problems. Those are the hardest cases. We also need to focus on the single mother with an autistic son who cannot care for himself after school when she is at work.

We need to focus on families affected by mental health concerns that limit their ability to engage in continuous full-time employment, and families who have been hit by a health crisis and need help. Doing more means building on the partnership we established with the States back in 1996. It means letting States maintain the flexibility they have used to design their current successful welfare-to-work strategies. How does it best work for each State? All States are different, with different populations, different issues. It means giving States new options to address especially troubled families. And at the same time, it means maintaining and increasing help in building the work support system.

We learned, with the major reform in 1996, that getting a job is not always a ticket out of poverty. We helped to get people off the welfare rolls by a dramatic amount, an average of about 50 percent, but still people who leave are having a very tough time finding jobs. They are in very dire straits. People find that the jobs pay too little. In Montana, we have the highest number of people working more than one job just to make ends meet because we have low wages and a poor economy. Those families who are just off of welfare are struggling. They need access to education, to training. They need the opportunity to address many of the barriers that prevent them from getting a job and keeping a job, and they need access to benefits such as food stamps, health care, and child care.

Child care is a huge concern. If you want to make a lasting difference, we need to provide further help with child care, further help with health care, transportation, and other things that will help parents stay off welfare and thrive in the job market.

The success of the 1996 bill should have meant a quick and simple reauthorization, because we all, both sides, can agree that the law works. But some want to leave the successful 1996 law behind them and make dramatic changes. I call this a cut-and-run approach—leaving the States and, more importantly, low-income families behind. The House-passed welfare reauthorization bill embodies this cut-and-run attitude. The House bill would force States to use expensive workfare—or "make work"—models of welfare reform, where welfare recipients would participate in large-scale, unpaid, make-work programs such as cleaning up trash.

The House bill work requirements would force States to put welfare recipients into make-work jobs. I mentioned trash pickup. There are many other examples. Cleaning the streets is good for the streets, but where does it leave the welfare recipient after the cleanup is over? At the end of a make-work job, welfare recipients have learned no new skills, and they are no closer to having a real job.

The House bill would push recipients into make-work programs instead of real private sector jobs that provide the meaningful work experience necessary to survive in the job market. States mostly rejected this one-size-fits-all workfare model years ago. States don't like it. They know it doesn't work. State and local administrators have told us they need, more than anything else, a full menu of strategies for the different needs of individual parents, families, and communities.

The House bill, however, makes it harder to design services and strategies that meet local needs. And it also fails to provide adequate funding. As welfare rolls have fallen, States have used freed-up TANF funds to support low-income working families—often those who have left welfare to work in recent years. This is common sense and a proven strategy for success. It works.

For a single mother, providing child care assistance can be the single most important factor for workplace success. But the lack of funding in the House-passed bill means States would have little choice but to shift funds away from programs that help keep low-income parents working to much more expensive make-work programs for those still on welfare.

This would be a mistake, as it would force working families to return to the welfare rolls. It would mean cutting and running on those working families whose success we have been celebrating.

It doesn't make sense to abandon work supports to pay for make-work activities, but States report that the approach in the House bill would do just that: it would require States to cut funding for these successful work support services to pay for large, expensive, and unproven make-work programs for those remaining on the rolls.

Education and training clearly are critical factors in getting people into jobs that pay more. In a rural State such as Montana, access to education and training represents a clear path out of poverty. We need to ensure that America's needy families have access to such paths. And States need flexibility so they can provide these programs.

All States are different. In States such as mine, making welfare reform work means making it work for American Indians. More than a quarter of American Indians live in poverty—more than twice the national average. In Montana, American Indians make up a full one-half of our welfare caseload. We needed flexibility to address that.

I appreciate that the chairman has included provisions to help Native Americans. But to make a real difference for welfare reform in Indian country will require real resources.

Tribes need support to operate TANF for themselves and help with economic development. Our work is not done when there are still places in America where most adults don't have jobs. Flexibility must be maintained.

Back in 1996, we asked the States to design a welfare program to address their specific needs. Some States applied for waivers to do just that. Those waivers have been a vital aspect to welfare reform's success. It is important to allow States to continue with their waivers and to ensure States continue to have flexibility to make welfare reform work. Dictating prescriptive requirements and unfunded mandates to States is unnecessary, particularly when so many parents are already participating in work-related activities.

In sum, the House bill is sure to undermine the success of the 1996 law. It would effectively eliminate the ability of States to employ proven welfare-to-work strategies, and it would virtually wipe out the progress made in the last 6 years to use TANF and child care funds to "make work pay."

The House approach would force States to divert dollars to make-work programs. It would thus divert funds from child care, where funds are needed. Future funding for child care and other work supports would be harder than ever to secure.

It seems to me that the House program is designed to fail. The House approach is difficult for would-be recipients to access. And States will have a hard time making it work. In the prophetic words of one TANF administrator:

[The House approach] is part of a larger effort . . . to set unattainable goals for States, so that Washington can generate budget savings and say that social programs don't work.

That would be irresponsible. That would be breaking something that is fixed. Whatever we do here, we need to ensure that TANF continues to work.

I applaud Chairman GRASSLEY for trying to do better. Compared with the House-passed bill, chairman's bill has fewer mandates and less need for States to adopt workfare programs, which I find so reprehensible in the House-passed bill.

Yet I remain concerned that the bill before us doesn't provide States with enough new flexibility in areas such as training and education, or in determining welfare-to-work strategies, particularly in States with specific needs like rural States. I am also concerned that it doesn't provide enough child care funding.

During this debate, Senators will offer amendments to address these shortcomings. An amendment will be offered to increase child care funding so that parents can go to work. Senators SNOWE and DODD will offer that amendment today. I believe the chairman already has offered that amendment on behalf of Senators SNOWE and DODD.

An amendment will be offered on this bill that will allow recipients to continue their education to gain job skills. Senators LEVIN and JEFFORDS will offer that amendment.

Amendments will be offered making TANF work for immigrants. Senators GRAHAM and CLINTON will focus their efforts on these initiatives. Also, an amendment will seek to preserve the flexibility that States had under the 1996 law. Senators BINGAMAN and WYDEN will be offering that one.

Of course, we should also protect the civil rights of workers and of children in this law. We should make sure to get the balance right between State incentives and accountability.

Welfare reform is working. Let's build on that success and build on our partnership with States. By continuing to work together, we can achieve a successful bill.

We can strengthen existing programs to address the needs of America's struggling families. We can give further support to those who have successfully moved from welfare to work.

Let us not cut and run. Let us not "fix" what is not broken. Rather, let us build on the success of the 1996 law.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. BURNS). The Senator from Massachusetts is recognized.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, I see the prime sponsor of the amendment, the Senator from Maine. I ask unanimous consent to follow her when she completes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered. The Senator from Maine is recognized.

Ms. SNOWE. Mr. President, I rise today to talk about an amendment that I know has already been offered to the Senate on the pending legislation, the Personal Responsibility and Individual Development for Everyone Act, known as the PRIDE Act.

I am proud to have authored this amendment along with my friend and colleague, Senator DODD. Without question, Senator DODD has been a fearless and unyielding champion in increasing both the quality of and funding for child care in America. He has been a tremendous friend to families and children. I appreciate his dedication and advocacy to these causes.

It is regrettable that Senator DODD could not be here today in person to offer this amendment. As our colleagues know too well, disasters do occur from time to time in our States, and they understandably take precedent. He is in Connecticut today addressing issues related to a major highway accident that closed Interstate 95 last Thursday. This accident had an enormous impact on the people of Connecticut but also other States that rely on the interstate for travel or commerce. It is a loss of billions of dollars. Senator DODD is working with State and Federal officials to restore travel in this vital transportation artery, and today he is where he should be—working on behalf of the people in his State. I look forward to hearing from him tomorrow on this amendment.

I also want to recognize and thank Senators HATCH, ALEXANDER, and CARPER, who approached me sometime ago on this vital issue regarding child care in the welfare reauthorization and a strong desire to work together to ensure that this issue would be addressed and be given priority consideration in the Senate. I appreciate their efforts as well as the commitment and dedication of other cosponsors: Senators BINGAMAN, ROCKEFELLER, COLLINS, LANDRIEU, MURRAY, JEFFORDS, BOXER, CHAFEE, LINCOLN, CLINTON, and MIKULSKI. I appreciate the fact that they have made it a broad bipartisan amendment.

Before I explain the amendment before us and why it is such a critical component of this debate, I, too, want to recognize the work of the chairman of the Finance Committee, Senator GRASSLEY, who has been tireless in his perseverance, patience, and commitment to ensuring that the reauthorization of this legislation would be completed in this Congress. The fact that we have been able to report this legislation out of the Finance Committee is in no small part due to his efforts to make sure it became a reality. I thank the majority leader, as well, for his commitment to this issue so that we were able to bring up this bill, finally, for consideration.

Also, I want to recognize the Democratic leader, Senator DASCHLE, and the ranking member, Senator BAUCUS, for their work, along with the majority leader and Chairman GRASSLEY, who scheduled this debate so that, hopefully, we can complete the work on this reauthorization.

It goes without saying that this day is long overdue regarding our actions for this reauthorization. We have had six extensions in 18 months after the original expiration of this law.

As we well recall, in 2002, the Finance Committee did pass this legislation, but, regrettably, it was not brought up on the floor for Senate consideration. So we have had to repeatedly extend this legislation, and the States and the caseloads were left without any kind of specific blueprint for action in the future.

Today, hopefully, we begin the last leg of this journey toward giving the States their plan of action for the next 5 years with respect to welfare reform and build upon the successes of the past, as well as addressing some of the remaining issues that certainly have manifest itself in the last 5 years with respect to what my amendment will be addressing.

The bill before us today is predicated on the administration's proposal which not only strengthens work requirements, but also allows States to concentrate on removing barriers to employment, giving TANF recipients up to 6 months during which time they can focus, without interruption, on becoming more employable, to remove those barriers that prevent them from being able to seek employment. So that means they can have the opportunities for adult literacy, substance abuse treatment, or taking advantage of other educational opportunities, such as vocational education or technical training.

Moreover, the bill rightly recognizes that some families have longer term barriers that they must also face and overcome. For example, this legislation includes provisions which ensure that under certain circumstances, caretakers for disabled dependents meet the requirements for obtaining support as well. I thank Senator GRASSLEY for working with me to include these provisions.

Another example of how this bill will improve the employability and likelihood of successful transition from welfare to work, the bill before us today includes provisions based on a widely praised program that happens to be located in my State of Maine, known as the Parents as Scholars Program.

We should be able to agree that increased education is another critical factor in whether a person will transition off welfare, be able to not only maintain a job, but to secure one that provides a decent income. That is why I have championed these provisions repeatedly which will allow a number of qualified, motivated welfare parents to take part in longer duration and post-secondary education while on the caseload.

Parents as Scholars has been extraordinarily successful in my State, with graduates averaging a 50-percent increase in salaries, and with 90 percent of working graduates leaving welfare behind permanently. It is because of this record of success that I am very pleased that during the Finance Committee markup, my amendment giving all TANF parents across the Nation the benefit of accessing this education program was accepted.

This program, as I said, has been not only successful, but I think it also ultimately will be widely available across the country because access to education should not be a question of geography.

This legislation also reflects our desire to afford the States flexibility by providing partial credit toward a State's work participation rate when there is partial compliance with hourly requirements by recipients. I believe this is a commonsense addition to current law that will fuel this program's success for years to come, while laying the groundwork for States to help clients become employed and stay employed, which, after all, was the original goal of the landmark 1996 reform act.

I thank Senator LINCOLN for offering this provision because I do think it goes a long way to addressing some of the issues that were raised in the last welfare reform act.

I am very pleased this legislation before us also builds upon the tripartisan legislation on which many of us on the Finance Committee worked in 2002. Senator HATCH, Senator BREAUX, Senator JEFFORDS, Senator LINCOLN, Senator ROCKEFELLER, and I included provisions that now have also been incorporated in this legislation concerning child support distribution, the employment credit, education and training requirements, and much of our universal engagement provisions and adjustments to the contingency fund.

At the same time, this bill also reflects a considerable good-faith effort to close some of the political and policy gaps that existed within the committee at the time of the markup. I know many of my Republican colleagues would have preferred additional workups similar to what the President had proposed—40 hours instead of the 34—but we were willing to compromise in order to advance this benchmark legislation.

It was in the spirit of that compromise that I supported the legislation in the Finance Committee, recognizing that, yes, I would have preferred a significantly greater funding for child care, but at the same time I know there has been some disagreement on this side of the aisle as to how much we can even afford or should do with respect to child care funding in the welfare reauthorization. I refrained from offering that amendment in the committee so that we could have the opportunity to bridge these gaps on the floor of the Senate and to move this legislation forward.

The amendment I am offering today will provide $6 billion in new mandatory child care funding which I think represents an attempt to guarantee that there will be no structural weaknesses in the PRIDE Act that may undermine its ultimate effectiveness or success.

I am very pleased that Chairman GRASSLEY gave me the opportunity to have priority recognition to offer this amendment today that was part of the agreement we reached in the Finance Committee because I hope it will set a bipartisan tone for the debate to come.

This reauthorization is critical to almost 5 million people who are on welfare today. I am convinced it is our duty and our obligation to do all that we can to clear the political barriers, the policy barriers, overcome all the obstacles that we ultimately engage in on the floor of the Senate, but, in the final analysis, we ought to be in a position to vote on the welfare reauthorization and extend this law.

This $6 billion increase in new mandatory child care certainly should move us in that direction. I am adding this today because I think this amount is commensurate with the real and current needs. To understand how these needs developed and why this amount of funding is essential is important to understand because as we set out to reauthorize the 1996 law, we have to reexamine some of the decisions and some of the choices that were made at the time that now has led us to this point that I think compels us to offer more money in terms of child care.

One of the decisions that Congress made back in 1996 was to ensure that we would have the necessary support systems to allow welfare recipients, as they transition into the workplace and access full-time employment, to have all of the support that is going to be absolutely vital to make that employment a success, as well as accessible.

These types of assistance to working parents who generally are employed at minimum-wage jobs allow them to make ends meet and to make a permanent transition from welfare to work. One of the most critical types of work support we can offer these families is quality child care. Without good child care, a parent is left with only two choices: to leave a child in an unsafe and often unsupervised situation, or not to work, both of which are lose-lose situations.

If the aim of welfare reform is to move people off the welfare rolls and on to the payrolls, providing support in the form of quality affordable child care is a prerequisite to realizing that goal. Of course, as with anything else, child care comes with a price. In some States, it can cost as much as a year's tuition in a public college. Factor in additional costs of infant care or odd-hour care, such as nights or weekends or care for children with special needs, and the challenge increases significantly. So for a parent working toward financial independence, typically earning minimum wage, it is not hard to see how child care can be the budget buster that compels a family to retreat back into welfare.

This battle was also fought by families who are employed in full-time, lower wage jobs, families not receiving cash welfare assistance, but who only earn $15,000 to $20,000 per year.

Almost 2 years ago, a constituent of mine came to Washington to testify before Senator DODD's Subcommittee on Children and Families. Sheila Merkinson, a resident of Maine, testified her childcare costs absorbed almost 48 percent of her weekly income. Even though she is eligible for aid, she receives no childcare assistance because the need exceeds the income eligibility requirements in our State.

At that time, Sheila stated she had been on the waiting list for childcare subsidies 6 months, four of them while she was working, and sleeping on a couch during that entire time period because she could not afford to pay the rent on her $18,000 yearly income.

I also remember reading several years ago about a mother in Maine whose only choice for a steady job was working the night shift at the local mill. Because she lived in a rural area with no family nearby, she was forced to choose between losing her job or tucking her elementary schoolage children into bed at night, locking the doors behind her, and going to work. Affordable childcare was not a reality for her and so she did what she deemed was best, to go to work and earn the money she required to support her children. In the end, the courts made a third choice for this mother. They took her children away from her.

We have no rhyme or reason to put people who care about their own children in untenable situations where they are compelled to make these unpalatable choices. This amendment will help ensure we can prevent these types of circumstances so many families face in the real world today.

These are but two of the life stories that bring me to the point of offering this amendment and providing the mandatory childcare funds of more than $6 billion for the next 5 years. These are families who really are the essence of what this debate is all about.

Back in 1996, as this chart would illustrate, Congress recognized when we created the TANF program, the Temporary Assistance for Needy Families, formed the childcare and development block grant, because we had a myriad of programs that provided various funding streams for childcare, we had a commitment to serve the families on welfare. That is why we consolidated more than four programs into the childcare and development block grant, so that we had a commitment to serve not only those who are on welfare, those who are transitioning off welfare, those who were not on welfare but were at the risk of falling onto welfare case-loads.

Finally we decided we should coordinate and consolidate these programs to create this block grant with the intent of serving those low-income families that may be employed but still require some kind of assistance because of the high cost of childcare. We have this coordinated development block grant on childcare that is aimed at serving the needs of each of these populations.

While the Federal law sets the ceiling, the States are able to determine their own eligibility requirements. Yet according to most estimates, only one in seven eligible children receives this kind of assistance. It is not surprising when one considers that in 2003 alone, nearly every State reduced childcare spending and 16 States reduced eligibility levels so fewer children would qualify.

Even when our eligibility guidelines are high, most States are unable to attain them. In fact, according to the 2004-2005 State plans in at least five States, a family is not eligible for the childcare development block grant if the family earns more than $20,000 per year. So clearly there remains a pressing need.

While the focus of this debate is the TANF population, as well it should be, it cannot be to the exclusion of all of those lower income families who are not on welfare. I am convinced that access to this critical work support makes all the difference in a successful transition from welfare to work, and to help ensure these families do not retreat back into welfare, and at the same time that we allow them to achieve self-sufficiency. That is the goal of any welfare reform act and that is what it should be. According to a 2002 study, single mothers with young children who receive childcare assistance are 40 percent more likely to be employed after 2 years than mothers who did not receive such assistance.

The study goes on to say former welfare recipients who receive childcare are 82 percent more likely to be employed after 2 years than those who do not receive such support. These findings make sense, as far too often, for many single parents, unaffordable, unavailable, or unreliable childcare is the chief barrier to steady employment.

Over the past few years, States have been experiencing unprecedented fiscal crises which are resulting in cutbacks to crucial services for low-income families and children. Severely limited resources are driving States to make some difficult tradeoffs, when it comes to policies, among equally deserving groups of eligible families. It is not unreasonable for a State to conclude that TANF families subject to work requirements in a maximum 5-year time limit or families transitioning off TANF should get priority over families who have not received welfare.

However, as a result of these decisions many vulnerable low-income working families who require childcare assistance will not be able to support their families and remain off welfare. That is a reality.

The worst-case scenario would be one in which limits on childcare subsidies for lower income working families begin to act as a disincentive. Families transitioning off welfare or low-income families struggling to stay off welfare rolls could easily deduce the effort simply was not worth it.

In May of 2003, GAO issued a report that suggests this possibility may exist. It states that a change in priority status can result in families losing benefits.

For example, in two States, families who leave TANF lose all of their benefits. In seven States, when a family comes to the end of a State's transition period, this can result in their losing assistance altogether.

Considering that childcare for a single child can easily cost between $4,000 and $10,000 yearly, it is not difficult to understand why a family affected in this way might have no other choice but to remain on welfare.

Providing a firm foundation and the tools necessary to make a successful transition to independence was the promise we made and one we must honor. So the amendment we are offering to this pending legislation would fulfill our commitment to the States by increasing the amount of mandatory childcare funding that is authorized under this legislation. We can do that today by passing this bipartisan amendment.

I know some would say there is an abundance of funding and that the estimates of unmet needs are baseless. My response to those critics is this: Ask the more than 605,000 eligible children on waiting lists in 24 States and the District of Columbia if there is sufficient funding. Many have argued since there are waiting lists in only less than half the States, then the rest of the States do not have unmet needs. Well, this is patently untrue.

The truth of the matter is not every State keeps a waiting list. Again, they feel it is a fruitless endeavor, because they are elevating expectations knowing that those expectations simply cannot be fulfilled because they do not have the funding for childcare. Many States cap the number of names allowed to appear on the waiting list, again because they know they will not be able to fulfill their requirements. They do not want to create the kind of hope among people that they will get the support ultimately when they know it simply will not be possible.

Consider that if one is a mother residing in California and she went to the State's welfare office and they told her get in line, she is No. 280,001. How likely is it she will bother to put her name on the waiting list? If a counselor in New York City told a mother her child would be No. 46,001, would she take the time to sign up? And even if she did, would she ultimately get the childcare support she needed? Not likely.

Another question is: How many childcare slots would be generated by the $6 billion included in our amendment? We cannot say for certain, but if we do not provide this funding there will be hundreds of thousands of children without any support under this welfare reauthorization.

We currently have 2 million children receiving child care subsidies. The Congressional Budget Office has estimated it would cost $4.5 billion to ensure that all 2 million children currently—I emphasize currently—receiving subsidies will be able to continue receiving that level of support over the next 5 years, during the course of this reauthorization. The underlying legislation that is before the Senate includes $1 billion in mandatory childcare funding which, according to CBO, may well cover the estimated cost for the new work requirements and the State participation rates of somewhere between $1 billion to $1.5 billion of increased child care as they relate to these expanded requirements under this legislation.

Just to maintain exactly what is in current law for the 2 million children costs $4.5 billion, and the increase, the new increase under this legislation, would require another $1 billion to $1.5 billion.

What we are saying is, just given where we are today, we could have 400,000 children removed from the caseload without this kind of money—400,000 if we do not support the pending amendment.

It is imperative that we pass this amendment to ensure the States will be in a position to provide the level of support they are currently providing to these families—just to maintain the status quo.

The legislation of the chairman provides a strong start by adding the $1 billion to pay for these increased work requirements, but I believe, Senator DODD believes, and all the cosponsors of this amendment believe we should and must do more. The PRIDE Act seeks to build upon our very successful effort in 1996. We transformed the welfare system as we know it. It is landmark legislation that was an unprecedented success. We were able to convert an old entitlement system into a temporary program that helps our most fragile population take those critical first steps toward economic self-sufficiency. I believe our amendment strengthens this effort by ensuring that mothers struggling to move themselves off the welfare rolls will have the kind of assistance they need in order to succeed.

The good news is we will be able to do this with the kind of support that is essential. We have an offset in this amendment that includes the Customs user fees on merchandise that is processed through Customs. It is obviously important so we don't have a budget point of order. Some have said we have used this in the past and most specifically it is on the legislation that is also being currently considered by the Senate on the Foreign Sales Corporation Act for international tax relief for manufacturers. However, that legislation includes up to $130 billion in revenue offsets. We are using $6 billion of the $17 billion that has been incorporated in that legislation regarding Customs fees.

I believe there will be sufficient offsets to address both that legislation and this one as well. The amendment we are offering today builds on the work that has been incorporated in the underlying legislation that was reported out of the Finance Committee. Like many of my colleagues on that committee, Chairman GRASSLEY, Senator DODD, and all of those who support this effort here today, we are trying to build upon the major steps that were taken in the 1996 Act, which I think has made great strides toward helping lower-income families achieving the American dream and ultimately achieving self-determination and self-sufficiency.

There is an important difference between giving someone a handout and offering them a hand up. I believe this amendment to the PRIDE Act builds upon that distinction. That is why I am so pleased to have the kind of bipartisan support that has been given to this amendment. I do believe it is a strong step in the right direction. Granted, it is not going to address all the demands and needs across America, but certainly it will go a long way toward understanding and recognizing the reality that if we don't do this, we leave families and children in an untenable situation.

I happen to believe this amendment will strengthen our ability to pass this welfare reauthorization, that the States need to give guidance and direction for the future. We cannot allow States to live in statutory limbo and we can't allow families to live in limbo as well.

I hope this amendment will receive strong support here in the Senate, reflecting the strong bipartisan cosponsorship of this amendment. I urge my colleagues to support this amendment. I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time?

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, I know the pending amendment is the Snowe-Dodd amendment. I join with the Senator from Maine and the Senator from Connecticut in hoping that the Senate will welcome and support this amendment. I pay tribute to the Senator from Maine for her long-standing work in support of child care, and, of course, I commend my friend and colleague from Connecticut who unfortunately is not here today but wanted very much to be here today. He will be speaking in strong support of this amendment during its consideration tomorrow.

As we know, Senator DODD is the leader on children's issues. A number of those issues go through the Health, Education, Labor and Pensions Committee, and all of us on that committee welcome his leadership on this issue as well many others.

I commend our leaders, and I commend the floor managers.

This will be the first amendment that we will consider. And, hopefully, it will have strong support. I will take the time at another time to outline the extraordinary needs of child care in my own State. But I rise for a different purpose at this time.

I see my friend and colleague from Iowa on his feet. I intend to speak briefly about the minimum wage issue, and then to offer it not as a substitute but to get in the queue for consideration of amendments as we are considering this welfare reform program.

The Senator from North Dakota was here a moment ago and desired the opportunity to be able to speak. I don't know whether there is any reason to object. He wanted to have an opportunity to speak for up to 20 minutes, I believe, following my statement. Generally, I wanted to talk to the floor managers about that, but I didn't have the opportunity to do so. If there is a Republican who wants to speak after I speak, then he could be the one who might be recognized after that.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I don't think we have any objection to that. The only speaker I had on this side who wanted to speak was the Senator from Tennessee, Mr. ALEXANDER. He wanted to speak for a little while on the amendment of the Senator from Maine. Other than that, I don't have any requests on this side.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that he be able to follow for up to 20 minutes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, I listened with interest to my friend and colleague from Iowa talking about this legislation. And one of the phrases he expressed was that no one who works in this country ought to live in poverty. I agree with that. I think one of the best ways of doing it is to ensure that work pays.

One of the best ways to make sure work pays is to make sure that those who are on the bottom rung of the economic ladder—those who make the minimum wage—are going to have a livable wage.

What we know is that we have not increased the minimum wage for some 7 years. As a result of the failure of increasing the minimum wage in 7 years, the purchasing power of the minimum wage has decreased dramatically. If we are interested in making work pay, we have to make work pay, and that means an increase in the minimum wage.

At the appropriate time during the course of this debate, we will have the opportunity to vote on an increase in the minimum wage to make the minimum wage go up from $5.15 to $7 an hour for those families working 40 hours a week, 52 weeks of the year.

Let me share with the Members what has happened to the purchasing power of the minimum wage. If we go back to 1968, the minimum wage today would be $8.50 an hour. It is now $5.15. If we look at the consistency, the purchasing value, it will be $4.98 in the next few years if we don't act now.

Look at this chart. The minimum wage no longer lifts a family out of poverty. Look at this red line indicating what a family of three would need in order to be able to rise out of poverty. In 1968, we were able to—and, again, briefly around 1980—get the minimum wage up so families could live outside of poverty.

If you look at the flat line, you will see that the lines are going down. The poverty line is here. People are working longer and harder and have difficulty making ends meet.

Every day that we delay the minimum wage, workers fall farther and farther behind. All of the gains of 1996 in minimum wage increases have already been lost.

This welfare bill is about workers. It is about moving people from welfare into work. It is very interesting. Of those single mothers who moved off welfare into work before the recession began, one-half of those jobs have now been lost due to the recession. I don't know what percentage of those people used up all their benefits, but a good chunk have. I don't know what those individuals are doing, but we do know that the amount of poverty, child poverty and hunger in the families across this country, is continuing to go up.

We lose sight of the fact that over the history of the minimum wage, this has been a bipartisan effort. If you look back over the number of times this has been raised—10 or 11 times—go back to Franklin Roosevelt, Harry Truman, Dwight Eisenhower, President Kennedy, Lyndon Johnson, and President Ford, President Carter, and then it was President Bush, then it was President Clinton, this has been a bipartisan effort. Republicans and Democrats alike understand if people are going to work hard, we ought to be able to make sure they are treated fairly.

The increase in the minimum wage that we are talking about in this amendment would mean $3,800 in additional income once it's fully phased in over the period of the 2½ years. That would be more than 2 years of child care; it would be 2 years of health care. It would be full tuition to a community college for a child who is the son or daughter of a minimum-wage worker. It would be a year and a half of heat or electricity for a family. It would be more than a year of groceries, and more than 9 months of rent. That may not sound like much to many around here, but those are the facts. It would make an enormous difference to people who are working.

What we see is 3 million more Americans today are living in poverty. There were 31 million in the year 2000, and now it is 34.6 million, which means 3 million more people are living in poverty.

We can do something about that by increasing the minimum wage.

One of the saddest comments that I discovered as we looked through the various factual material in preparation for this debate is, according to the Families and Work Institute, three of the top four things children would like to change about their working parents is they wish their parents were less stressed out by work, less tired because of work, and could spend more time with them.

This is a family issue. We hear a great deal in this body about family issues and family values. Increasing the minimum wage is a family issue.

Who are these people? Who are these people who earn the minimum wage?

Well, first of all, they are the men and women who work in buildings all over this country at nighttime from which American commerce has their offices. In large buildings and small, they work in long, difficult, tough jobs, but they are men and women of pride. They are men and women of dignity. They take pride in doing a job well. They are not only cleaners, but they are also assistant teachers in many of the schools across this country.

They also work in nursing homes helping to take care of parents—parents who have served in the Armed Forces, fought in the Korean war, perhaps even in Vietnam, and maybe going back to even World War II—men and women who brought this country out of the Depression, men and women who have suffered and sacrificed to benefit their children. Many minimum-wage workers work in these nursing homes—men and women of dignity.

Sixty-one percent of those who receive the minimum wage are women. This is a women's issue because the great majority of recipients of the minimum wage are women. It is a children's issue because many of those women have children. They are single heads of households, and many of them have children. So it is a women's issue, it is a children's issue, and it is a civil rights issue because so many of those who work at the minimum wage are men and women of color.

And, most of all, it is a fairness issue. The issue that is going to be before the Senate is whether we believe someone who works 40 hours a week, 52 weeks of the year, ought to have a living wage. And if there is one issue Americans understand, it is the issue of fairness.

This is about fairness. This issue is about fairness. That is why we welcome the opportunity to offer this amendment. It should not be a partisan issue. We should not be denied the opportunity to have the vote, and we are going to stay after it until we have the vote.

So I wanted to take a few moments on this issue because it is a matter of such importance. I am going to go over the statistics in greater degree about what has been happening to women and to children in poverty in this country. I am going to do that at a time when I will have the chance to have the full debate for the consideration of this amendment.

I have the amendment. I indicated to the floor managers that I intended to offer it. I ask unanimous consent that after the consideration of the Snowe-Dodd amendment, that the amendment which I send to the desk now, on behalf of myself and Senator DASCHLE, be considered.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. GRASSLEY. I object.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Objection is heard.

Mr. KENNEDY. Well, Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that it be considered within the first four amendments that we have on this bill.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. GRASSLEY. I object.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Objection is heard.

Mr. KENNEDY. Well, Mr. President, we are beginning to see what we have seen at other times; that is, on the other side there is objection. We listened to them talk about how they wanted to have workers work in this country, and now, evidently, there is objection. And I do not consider this to be by my friend, the chairman of the Finance Committee, but there is clearly an objection by the Republican leadership to get a consideration.

I ask unanimous consent that before we have final passage, we have a vote, up and down, on this amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. GRASSLEY. Reserving the right to object, Mr. President—and I will object—I want to take advantage of this opportunity to say that there are a lot of very important pieces of legislation that we have before this body that are bipartisan that need to be passed.

Two weeks ago, we had a bill dealing with outsourcing and the efforts to create manufacturing jobs in America by giving a tax advantage to manufacturers that manufacture here. It is a bipartisan bill, voted out of the Senate Finance Committee with only two dissenting votes, and those were Republican votes. So, overwhelmingly, people on the other side of the aisle know that bill has to pass.

But time after time we deal with nongermane amendments that distract from the efforts of this Senate to do things that create jobs in America and, in this particular instance, move people from welfare to work.

So I do not think it is wrong for some of us to take exception to the efforts to stall important pieces of legislation getting through this body, and that is why I object.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Objection is heard.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, since the Senator from Iowa has talked about delaying the legislation, I ask unanimous consent that the debate on the minimum wage amendment be no more than 20 minutes, with 10 minutes to each side, and that we have consent that we vote on this amendment up and down before final passage—that we have 20 minutes on the amendment, since there has been the thought that we are trying to delay this legislation.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. GRASSLEY. I object.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Objection is heard.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, I remind my good friend—and he is my friend—about the report from the Finance Committee. If we go to page 4: "STRENGTHENS WORK"—"STRENGTHENS WORK." This bill is about work. And here we are asking for a minimum wage. To do what? To work.

What is possibly the reason or the justification to object to us even considering increasing the minimum wage? What we have here is objection to even considering an increase in the minimum wage, which is at its lowest level in history, for 7 million Americans.

They are talking about getting Americans out of welfare into work. We are trying to make work pay, and there is objection.

Look what it says on page 21:

The Committee bill recognizes that the success achieved by TANF and Work First programs are a result of a sustained emphasis on adult attachment to the workforce.

What more could be relevant to the workforce and strengthening work than an increase in the minimum wage?

I do not know what this objection is. Why does the majority even refuse us the opportunity to vote? That is what I am asking. Call the ace an ace. What is the objection to having accountability, to find out if you are for it or against it? We are giving a 20-minute time limit, 10 minutes on each side. I will take 5 minutes. I will take 2 minutes. I will take 1 minute, then call the roll.

What can possibly be the objection to calling the roll when we have increased it 11 times under Republican and Democratic administrations in the past?

Where is the delay tactic? Where is the objection? Where is the fact that this is not relevant to the substance at hand? This, of course, is the substance at hand. Of course it is. It is about making sure that people who work hard—men and women of dignity—are going to be able to receive a livable wage. And we are denied—at least at the outset—the opportunity to even have this amendment considered.

I say to the Senator, this amendment ought to be voice-voted this afternoon. That is what it should be: It should be voice-voted. Republicans, in the history of the minimum wage, have voted for increases in it, and now we have instructions—evidently, instructions—not to permit even a short time limit on increasing the minimum wage: No, you can't vote on that issue. We are not going to let you. We control the Senate.

We heard from the Senator from Iowa: We want no one who works to have to live in poverty. I remember listening to the Senator from Iowa just about an hour and a half ago: No one who works ought to live in poverty. He gave that speech. Now he will not even let us do something about getting people out of poverty. He objects to us having it within the next four amendments—to even consider it prior to the time of passage, with a 20-minute time limit—refuses.

Talk about arbitrariness and the abuse of power. This is it. This body ought to be able to vote on questions affecting working families. We ought to be able to vote on the minimum wage. We ought to be able to vote on overtime. We ought to be able to vote on unemployment compensation. What in the world is wrong with the other side to try and prohibit this institution from taking positions on these issues and to vote up or down? What were we sent here for?

I say to my friend—and he is my friend—this issue is just not going to go away. He has given his response that he is going to do everything that is parliamentarily possible to deny this institution considering an increase in the minimum wage. He just stated that. He made the point that it was not relevant, that it was somehow going to delay, that it was somehow not pertinent, even though we are talking about jobs and trying to get people to work. That is the thrust of the whole bill. And he would deny us the opportunity to consider this amendment for 15 minutes, 16 minutes, what we offered.

I think we are on notice now. Are we supposed to assume the majority is only going to permit amendments which they approve? Is that going to be the new rule of the U.S. Senate? After 230 years, we are only going to permit votes which we, the Republicans, approve? That is what we are saying. Is that the institution the American people thought they had in the U.S. Senate? Is that what they thought we were doing here? Come on. Come on. That is not the Senate I was elected to or that I believe in and that the American people do.

We can either do this nicely and try to work out some kind of agreement and accommodation or we are going to use all of the other kinds of parliamentary rules that we know how to use and do it in ways which will insist on a vote. But if the Republican leadership thinks that we are going to go on and on and on without an increase in the minimum wage, I want to clear them of that thought because this is coming at you. People have waited too long, worked too hard, and children are being disadvantaged.

I listen to the speeches about children. There are children out there, sons and daughters of minimum wage workers, whose lives would be significantly and dramatically advanced. Maybe that parent would be able to buy a birthday present, take the child to a movie.

But no, no, no, we are the Republicans, and we are not going to let you vote. We are not going to let you vote in the Senate. That is what you are saying. Well, we are going to come back to it.

I am going to speak to one other issue, and then I see others who want to address the Senate. I will then yield the floor.

WHITE HOUSE RESPONSIVENESS TO THE 9/11 COMMISSION

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, in my lifetime, there have been national catastrophes of such magnitude that they are seared in the collective American memory forever. In each case, the Nation was able to draw on the strength of its institutions and its leaders to carry on with the strong support of our citizens. The attack on Pearl Harbor, for example, plunged us into war, but unified us as a people, and brought out the best in our elected leaders.

In Watergate, on the other hand, the integrity of our most basic institutions was threatened by an executive run amok. But the legislative branch, acting on a bipartisan basis, and the judicial branch, led by a unanimous Supreme Court, vindicated the Framers' trust that a nation based on checks and balances and the separation of powers could survive one branch's abuse of power.

Two and a half years ago we suffered another tragedy of historic dimensions. In one brief morning nearly 3,000 of our people were killed by an enemy who had openly declared war against us, had already struck at us in a variety of forms and places at home and abroad, and had put our government, if not our people, on notice that they would strike again.

The families and friends of the dead and injured were not the only victims. We all suffered. Our peace of mind suffered; our trust in our surroundings suffered; our liberty to move freely around the Nation and the world suffered. And our confidence in the public institutions which protect and defend us suffered.

The quality and integrity of our response as a Nation and as individuals will determine how history views us as defenders of America's ideals. Can we restore security without sacrificing liberty? Can we identify and fill the gaps in our defense against known and unknown enemies, without reducing the essential quality of life and freedom in our Nation?

We in Congress have begun to answer those questions, and the 9/11 Commission is a key element of our answer. Over the initial objections of the executive branch, and with the help and support of the victims' families, we have delegated to that distinguished group of Commission members the continuation of the essential fact-finding process begun by our own Intelligence Committees. We have also asked the Commission to suggest solutions for the problems they identify. We have invested extraordinary powers in that Commission to meet the extraordinary demands of their assignment.

This Commission is as eminent and experienced a body as anyone could hope for. Some have complained that it is too "establishment."

It includes two former Republican governors, a former Republican Senator, a former Republican Secretary of the Navy, a former Reagan White House Counsel, a Navy veteran who was both a governor and Senator, a former General Counsel of the Department of Defense and Deputy Attorney General who sits on a CIA advisory Committee, a former chairman of the House Foreign Relations Committee, a former member of the House Intelligence committee, and a former Watergate investigator now at a distinguished law firm. Its executive director served on the National Security Council under former President Bush and on the transition team for the current President Bush.

The Commission is entitled to respect and cooperation from everyone it deals with in all parts of the Government, especially the White House.

The Commission has properly chosen to operate in public to the fullest extent possible. Secrecy will only sow seeds of suspicion and dilute the Nation's confidence in its independence and its conclusions. It has done nothing to suggest to anyone that it will not be fair and just and sensitive to the needs of the individuals and institutions it deals with. On the other hand it is operating on an extremely tight, Congressionally mandated, time schedule.

It does not have the time or the inclination, and should not have the need, to fight in the courts of law or in the court of public opinion to obtain the information it deserves and the public deserves.

Thus the current controversy over the testimony of National Security Adviser Condoleezza Rice can and should be resolved quickly. The public and the Congress should not stand for anything less than full and prompt cooperation from the White House. For a national tragedy of these proportions, the buck stops at the White House. Three thousand people died on our shores and on their watch. There should not be the slightest question that any White House staff member asked by the Commission to testify under oath and in public must do so.

As Colin Powell said yesterday, the presumption must be that everything be done in the open, so that sunshine can infuse the process.

It is not a question of law; the law fully permits members of the White House staff to testify.

It is not a question of precedent. As former Navy Secretary Lehman, a Commission member, said yesterday, many previous Presidents have permitted such testimony on important matters, and the importance of the issue here makes clear that this President should do the same. Surely, 9/11 is more important than Richard Kleindienst's confirmation, Billy Carter's activities, or who said what to whom about an Arkansas bank.

Yet in those cases, and many others, top White House officials testified in public and under oath.

It is not a question of principle. That line was crossed in this case when the National Security Adviser went before the Commission in secret. If the White House genuinely believes that the Commission is a creation of the legislature, she has already subjected herself to the legislature's inquiries.

As Secretary Lehman has said, it is "self-defeating" for the White House to refuse to allow Condoleezza Rice to testify fully in public. That course leads to suspicion that they have something to hide.

Mr. Lehman says there is no smoking gun in what she has said in secret, so unless the White House is afraid she may say something different in public under oath, why are they holding her back?

It is an insult to Ms. Rice to deny her the chance she says she wants, to testify in public. She has proven herself an articulate spokesperson for the President over the past 3 years. Unless the White House fears that she will disclose some dire secret, she should be free to respond in public to the Commission's questions, as she has responded on numerous occasions in press interviews in recent days. Television interviews are no substitute for answering the Commission's questions under oath.

There need be no compromise of executive privilege if she testifies. If she is asked a question that she thinks the President, rather than she, should answer, she can and will say so, and leave it to him to do. But otherwise, as Colin Powell also said yesterday, the presumption ought to be for sunshine, openness, light.

The Commission has also asked unanimously for an appearance by the President and Vice President in public under oath. They refused and offered in essence to meet in private for a brief conversation with the Chair and Vice Chair of the Commission. The public outcry at that minimal proposal led the White House to suggest some flexibility on the time, but not on anything else.

The President faces a difficult decision about whether to testify in public and under oath. He was our leader when 9/11 occurred. That may well turn out to be a benefit to him in the months to come, but with that benefit goes a heavy burden. It is his responsibility to answer questions that only he can answer, admit failings if there were failings, apologize if apology is called for, and reassure us all that whatever was broken has been fixed. It will take courage and leadership for him to step forward, face the Commission, and risk the consequences.

I urge President Bush, as the Nation focuses on the question of his own appearance, to remember the example of President Gerald Ford.

One of the most difficult decisions he made as President was to pardon President Nixon. President Ford had the courage to defend that decision under oath and in public before a congressional committee. His pardon was not popular at the time, and it may well have cost him the presidency in the 1976 election. But he felt strongly that the public needed to hear from him personally about why he thought the pardon was essential to the national interest. So he made the truly unprecedented decision to come to the Hill to testify under oath himself. As he later said, "The bigger the issue, the greater the need for political courage."

The current White House political staff has chosen a different approach. They have pressed the attack button on their quick-response machine in an attempt to destroy Richard Clarke and destroy his credibility about the events leading up to 9/11 under both the Clinton and Bush administrations, and the President's Republican allies in Congress are aiding and abetting this new and obscene example of the politics of personal destruction.

It is sheer hypocrisy for the White House to encourage Condoleezza Rice to appear on television to dispute Mr. Clarke's testimony to the Commission, and then prevent her from presenting her views to the Commission itself.

Many of us in the Senate will propose a resolution tomorrow urging that Dr. Rice be permitted to testify in public and under oath. There will be ample opportunity after that for the President to decide whether he himself is willing to testify in public and under oath as well.

I yield the floor.

THE PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Iowa is recognized.

Mr. GRASSLEY. The Senator from North Dakota wants to speak. First, I ask unanimous consent to speak for 5 minutes before the Senator from North Dakota speaks.

THE PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. CONRAD. Reserving the right to object, and I will not object, I would like as part of that request that I be given an additional 10 minutes. I think they reserved 20 minutes for me before. I may not take it all, but I would like to have that amount of time.

THE PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I want to respond somewhat to the Senator from Massachusetts.

First of all, I hope he understands this is a Monday—not that Monday is not just as important as any other day of the week. But it was announced last week there would be no votes today. His amendment doesn't have anything to do with votes today, but there are a lot of Members not here who ought to have some input when a nongermane amendment comes up. So I object for the reasons of myself as well as others.

Also, you can see from the debate of the Senator from Massachusetts that he feels very strongly about the importance of that amendment which he offers on the minimum wage. There is nothing wrong with the issue of the minimum wage coming up. But for this Senator from Iowa, who is chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, with issues I am trying to respond to in a bipartisan way, and to issues that are raised as much from the other side of the aisle as they are from this side of the aisle—I mentioned the FSC/ETI bill of 2 weeks ago. I mentioned the welfare reform bill this week. There is a bipartisan consensus—maybe I should not say consensus—there is an agreement we ought to have the legislation before the Senate and passed. In the face of FSC/ETI, it was responding as much from the other side as this side that that legislation to encourage manufacturing in the United States, to create jobs in the United States ought to pass. When it comes to a vote, it will probably pass 90-10. But the legislation was held up 2 weeks ago by people on the other side of the aisle with nongermane amendments.

Now we have welfare reform, sunset last October. We have extended it two or three times since then, so we have to continue the welfare reform programs. There is a consensus we ought to deal with this legislation and get some permanency to our welfare-to-work legislation. What happened? Right out of the box, people from the other side of the aisle—legitimate issues or not—are trying to stop legislation immediately in its tracks that will pass this body by a very wide margin. Have they ever thought maybe some of these pieces of legislation ought to stand on their own rather than hooking them onto bills unrelated to theirs?

I don't object to the issue of increasing the minimum wage. What I object to is the constant harassment on the part of people on the other side of the aisle to keeping legislation from moving along very quickly that everybody knows needs to pass. This is just not Republican pieces of legislation dealing with welfare reform. It is just not Republican legislation dealing with encouraging manufacturing and creating jobs in manufacturing in America. These pieces of legislation are doing what the Senate ought to be doing to get things done, working in a bipartisan way.

If you work in a bipartisan way to bring legislation to the floor of the Senate, why is the other side of the aisle always trying to slow down that legislation? It seems to me that is what we are dealing with. There are times to deal with pieces of legislation, but not in this way, harassing all the time.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. FITZGERALD). The Senator from Nevada.

Mr. REID. Will the Senator allow me to ask him a question on the Senator's time?

Mr. CONRAD. Yes.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, is the Senator from North Dakota aware that on the 2 amendments that have been offered on the last 2 pieces of legislation—overtime and now the Kennedy minimum wage amendment—on our side we would be willing to take 10 minutes on each amendment, 10 for us and 10 for the other side, 10 for us and 10 for the other side, for a total of 20 minutes on our side of the aisle for these 2 pieces of legislation. Would the Senator agree the slowdown is not coming from us, but from them? We are asking for an additional 20 minutes on 2 amendments and we can move on to the rest of the legislation. Will the Senator acknowledge that?

Mr. CONRAD. Yes. I will go further than that and say I served on the Finance Committee with our distinguished chairman. I strongly supported the FSC/ETI bill that was previously before the Senate. An amendment was offered on overtime. It is entirely reasonable to offer an amendment. Senators have a right to offer an amendment on any bill at any time, other than on those bills that are privileged. They offered to do it on a short time agreement. Now, today, on the welfare reform bill, the Senator from Massachusetts offered a very short time agreement on an amendment to increase the minimum wage. It is entirely reasonable and appropriate for Senators to offer amendments on pending legislation.

I don't think the Senator from Iowa, who is my friend, and whom I respect and work with closely on many issues, should feel harassed. It is not a matter of harassment. These are important issues that deserve to be voted on. There is no reason not to vote on them, either in the context of the welfare reform bill in the case of minimum wage, or in the context of the FSC/ETI bill, which some have called a jobs bill, with respect to the issue of overtime. Those issues are entirely in order and reasonable to discuss.

THE WAR IN IRAQ

Mr. President, I asked for time today not to speak on this issue, but on the war against terror and the war in Iraq. These issues have come much more to the public attention as a result of the events of the last several weeks. As I have watched those events unfold, I have felt more strongly the need to come to this floor to speak up and to talk about where I believe we have taken a wrong path in the war on terror, where I believe we have gotten the priorities wrong.

When we were attacked on September 11, 2001, we recognized we were at war with a terrorist organization that would stop at nothing, a terrorist organization that would turn civilian airliners into flying bombs that would kill nearly 3,000 innocent Americans. The President and the American people recognized al-Qaida posed an immediate threat to this country. We agreed that defeating al-Qaida was our top national security priority, and we vowed to bring Osama bin Laden and his al-Qaida terrorist organization to justice. As President Bush said in convening his cabinet at Camp David after the 9/11 attacks: "There is no question that this act will not stand. We will find those who did it. We will smoke them out of their holes, we will get them running, and we will bring them to justice."

We had an outpouring of sympathy, good will, and cooperation from all over the world, as we began the war on terrorism. Today, it has now been 930 days since the attacks of 9/11. And Osama bin Laden is still at large.

We have not found him. We have not smoked him out of his holes, and we have not brought this mass murderer of innocent Americans to justice after 930 days. In fact, Osama bin Laden and his al-Qaida organization continue to mount attacks. Just 3 weeks ago, al-Qaida claimed responsibility for the bombings in Madrid, Spain. Spanish authorities have arrested Islamic terrorists in connection with that tragic attack, and al-Qaida continues to threaten further attacks against this country.

When I saw the news footage of the bombings in Spain and when I heard al-Qaida threatening more attacks on America, it deeply angered me. I believe it raises several questions. Most fundamentally, why have we not, to use the President's words, smoked Osama bin Laden out, run him down and brought him to justice? Why is Osama bin Laden still able to threaten our country more than 2 years after we agreed that putting an end to his threats was our top priority? Why, if his organization has been disrupted and Osama bin Laden has been isolated, as some in the administration claim, are Islamic terrorists linked to al-Qaida able to organize and coordinate significant synchronized attacks such as the ones in Madrid? How is he still able to produce and distribute these tapes and messages exhorting others to kill more Americans?

As I asked these questions, it reminded that on April 30, 2001, less than 5 months before the 9/11 attacks, CNN reported that the Bush administration's release of the annual terrorism report contained a serious change from previous reports. Specifically, CNN reported that "there was no extensive mention of alleged terrorist mastermind Osama bin Laden," as there had been in previous years. When asked why the administration had reduced the focus, "a senior Bush Department official told CNN the U.S. Government made a mistake in focusing so much energy on Bin Laden." In retrospect, that was a shocking misjudgment of the priorities in fighting terrorism. But I fear that even after 9/11, the administration has continued its failure to focus on al-Qaida.

A Newsweek article from last fall reported:

... bin Laden appears to be not only alive, but thriving. And with America distracted in Iraq, and Pakistani President Pervez Musharraf leery of stirring up an Islamist backlash, there is no large-scale military force currently pursuing the chief culprit in the 9/11 attacks.

It is not just Newsweek. USA Today reported just this past weekend:

In 2002, troops from the 5th special forces group who specialize in the Middle East were pulled out of the hunt for Osama bin Laden in Afghanistan to prepare for their next assignment: Iraq. Their replacements were troops with expertise in Spanish cultures.

Mr. President, I want to repeat that because this to me does not add up. It does not make common sense.

In 2002, troops from the 5th special forces group who specialize in the Middle East were pulled out of the hunt for Osama bin Laden in Afghanistan to prepare for their next assignment: Iraq. Their replacements were troops with expertise in Spanish cultures.

The CIA, meanwhile, was stretched badly in its capacity to collect, translate and analyze information coming from Afghanistan. When the White House raised a new priority, it took specialists away from the Afghanistan effort to ensure Iraq was covered.

I find these reports deeply disturbing. We know who attacked us on 9/11. It was al-Qaida. It was not Iraq. Yet we have top Pentagon and intelligence officials saying that we shifted resources away from al-Qaida to focus on Iraq. We have 130,000 U.S. troops in Iraq, but only 11,000 in Afghanistan. What Earthly sense does this make? Al-Qaida attacked America, not Iraq.

Those 11,000 troops are doing important work in Afghanistan—keeping the peace and recently renewing efforts to mop up Taliban strongholds that have been gathering strength. And the administration now has plans for a spring offensive to go after bin Laden. But according to our own officials, for most of the past 2 years, we had no large-scale military force dedicated to pursuing Osama bin Laden and al-Qaida.

So I have to ask, why not? Why was there no large-scale military force pursuing bin Laden for most of the past 2 years? Why did we allow our post-9/11 focus on bin Laden to be distracted? Why have we let new al-Qaida organizations grow up all around the world to attack us and our allies?

It seems to me the administration's priorities were misplaced. We allowed our attention to be diverted by Saddam Hussein and Iraq.

Many of us did not believe there was sufficient evidence to justify a preemptive attack on Iraq in the first place. We believed it was not in the national security interests of the United States to attack Iraq; that instead, we ought to keep our eye on the ball and keep the pressure on al-Qaida and Osama bin Laden because it was they—al-Qaida and Osama bin Laden—who attacked America on September 11, not Iraq.

We feared attacking Iraq would leave us responsible for occupying and rebuilding a country in a profoundly dangerous and undemocratic region of the world, tying down resources we needed to meet other threats, including Iran, North Korea, and al-Qaida.

We feared that attacking and occupying Iraq would deepen and energize anti-American sentiment in the Islamic world, helping to fuel recruitment by al-Qaida and other radical Islamist terror organizations.

And we feared that a war with Iraq would inevitably slow down our efforts to capture Osama bin Laden.

In my statement on this Senate floor just minutes before the Senate voted to authorize the President to go to war in Iraq, I said:

I believe defeating the terrorists who launched the attacks on the United States on September 11 must be our first priority before we launch a new war on a new front. Yet today, the President asks us to take action against Iraq as a first priority. Mr. President, I believe that has the priority wrong.

That is what I said moments before the vote authorizing the President to go to Iraq. I believe it was right then. I believe it is even more clearly right now.

I also warned:

The backlash in the Arab nations could further energize and deepen anti-American sentiment. Al-Qaida and other terrorist groups could gain more willing suicide bombers.

I think we have seen, tragically, that this was true. Our troops in Iraq are constantly under attack. Our allies, including most recently the Spanish people, have been victimized by terrorists.

I warned that the cost of invasion and occupation of Iraq could be extremely high, diverting resources from other national priorities. And that, too, has turned out to be accurate. CBO now estimates that the cost of the war and occupation in Iraq will total more than $300 billion.

In just the last couple of days, the American people have learned that all of these concerns were shared at the very highest level of the White House. But the President ignored those warnings.

The top counter-terrorism adviser to President Bush, Richard Clarke, recently published a book detailing his experiences with the war on terrorism. In it, Clarke writes that President Bush and other top officials urged him to find a link between 9/11 and Iraq, even though he told them that there was no such link. He writes that the shift of focus from al-Qaida to Iraq "launched an unnecessary and costly war in Iraq that strengthened the fundamentalist, radical Islamic terrorist movement worldwide."

As Clarke put it on "60 Minutes" the weekend before last:

Osama bin Laden had been saying for years, "America wants to invade an Arab country and occupy it, an oil-rich Arab country." He had been saying this as part of his propaganda.

So what did we do after 9/11? We invaded an oil-rich and occupy an oil-rich Arab country which was doing nothing to threaten us. In other words, we stepped right into bin Laden's propaganda. And the result of it is that al-Qaida and organizations like it, offshoots of it, second generation al-Qaida have been greatly strengthened.

These are the words of Mr. Clarke, the former Bush counter-terror official who has just published a book on the subject. I spent part of this weekend reading the book by Mr. Clarke. It is entitled "Against all Enemies." I would urge my colleagues and those who might be listening or watching to get that book and read it. Whether one agrees with his conclusions or not, Mr. Clarke is warning and alerting us, based on a lifetime of experience in four different administrations over 30 years fighting terrorists, of where we may have gone wrong. These are lessons that are absolutely essential for us to learn.

Mr. Clarke was not only an official in this Bush White House. He was also an official, an anti-terror chief, in the Clinton administration. Before that, he was in the previous Bush administration at a high level of responsibility. Before that, he served in the Reagan administration. This is a man of credibility. This is a man of qualifications. This is a man of deep experience who is attempting to warn us of mistakes that are being made.

The charges he is making are serious charges. We know who attacked our country on 9/11. It was not Saddam Hussein or Iraq. It was Osama bin Laden and al-Qaida. But because the administration wanted to go to war in Iraq, Clarke suggests, we not only diverted resources from the hunt for Osama bin Laden and the al-Qaida leadership, we strengthened al-Qaida and gave it time and space to develop offshoots that will continue to threaten this country even if we do eventually capture bin Laden, which I pray we do.

It is not just Mr. Clarke who is making these assertions. Read the book by Secretary of the Treasury O'Neill. I have read that book, "The Price of Loyalty," as well. He makes clear the Bush administration, in its earliest weeks, were focused on attacking Iraq.

So I think we need to ask why we allowed ourselves to be distracted by Saddam Hussein. We need to ask why we took the focus off of finding Osama bin Laden and bringing him to justice? And we need to ask why the President decided that going after Iraq not al-Qaida and Osama bin Laden—was the priority, and see how that judgment has stood the test of time.

The President and his top officials made two main arguments for going to war in Iraq: Iraq was allied with al-Qaida, and Iraq had weapons of mass destruction that it could use to attack this country. That is what he told the American people when he was persuading the Congress and the American people that we should launch a war against Iraq.

In recent days and weeks, the evidence shows we have been pursuing the wrong priorities. Let us look at what we know now.

On the question of a link to al-Qaida, the polling shows that 70 percent of Americans believe Saddam Hussein was behind September 11. Over half believe that Iraqis were the hijackers of the planes. Let me repeat that. The polling shows 70 percent of Americans believe Saddam Hussein was behind September 11. Fifty percent believe it was Iraqis on the planes that attacked the World Trade Center and the Pentagon.

The fact is, of course, not a single Iraqi was among the hijackers of the airliners that were turned into flying bombs. The vast majority of the 19 hijackers were Saudi Arabians, as, of course, is Osama bin Laden. Fifteen of the 19 were Saudis. Two were from the United Arab Emirates, one from Egypt and the other from Lebanon.

Not a single Iraqi was involved in the attack. That is the fact.

However, the American people believe there is a link because again and again the President, the Vice President, the Secretary of Defense, and other top administration officials have done everything they could to link Saddam Hussein and al-Qaida in the minds of the American people.

They offered up two specific assertions to support this allegation: One, the Vice President and others in the administration said repeatedly that there was a link because one of the hijackers, Mohammed Atta, had met with an Iraqi agent in Prague. But what does the most recent evidence show?

The fact is, the CIA and the FBI have concluded this report was simply not true. It was not true because Mohammed Atta was not in Prague; he was in the United States, in Virginia Beach, VA, preparing for the 9/11 attacks.

As The Washington Post reported on September 29:

In making the case for war against Iraq, Vice President Cheney has continued to suggest that an Iraqi intelligence agent met with a September 11, 2001, hijacker 5 months before the attacks, even as the story was falling apart under scrutiny by the FBI, CIA and the foreign government that first made the allegation.

Second, the President and other top officials said al-Qaida maintained a training camp in Iraq, but what they did not tell the American people was that the training camp was in a part of Iraq controlled by the Kurds, not by Saddam Hussein. The Kurds, by the way, are our allies. Once again, this is a disturbing bit of information used in a way that I believe fundamentally misled people.

Yet Vice President CHENEY, as recently as last fall, said that Iraq was "the geographic base of the terrorists who have had us under assault for many years, but most especially on 9/11."

President Bush himself was forced to correct the record just a few days later, when a reporter asked him about the Vice President's statement. The President was very clear. He said there is no evidence that Saddam Hussein was involved in the 9/11 attacks on this country. Here it is in the New York Times, September 18, 2003, "Bush Reports No Evidence of Hussein Tie to 9/11."

But that did not stop the administration from making statements over and over again linking Iraq with al-Qaida, and with terrorists more generally, to create the impression the war in Iraq was part of our response to the 9/11 attacks and the war on terrorism. As Richard Clarke, the top counter-terrorism official in the White House during 2001 and 2002, puts it:

The White House carefully manipulated public opinion, never quite lied, but gave the very strong impression that Iraq did it.

They did know better. We told them. The CIA told them. The FBI told them. They did know better. And the tragedy here is that Americans went to their death in Iraq thinking that they were avenging September 11, when Iraq had nothing to do with September 11. I think for a commander in chief and vice president to allow that to happen is unconscionable.

These, again, are the remarks of the top counter-terrorism official in the Bush administration.

In fact, it is unlikely there would be any strong linkage between Iraq and al-Qaida because Saddam Hussein was secular, Osama bin Laden is a fundamentalist. In many ways, they are mortal enemies.

I graduated from an American Air Force base high school in Tripoli, Libya—in North Africa—in 1966. Anybody who has lived in that culture understands very well the deep divisions between those who are secular and those who are fundamentalists. It is a deep division. But it is as though our administration in Washington is unaware of it because, repeatedly, they have suggested the two were tightly linked. In fact, they were sworn enemies. Who do you think it is we are digging up in those graves in Iraq? They are, by and large, fundamentalists whom Saddam Hussein found profoundly threatening to his secular regime.

I think it is time for America to think very carefully about the path we are going down and to think very carefully about whether the strategy this administration has adopted is a strategy to secure our future, or whether there is a better strategy to be pursued.

What we do know is Osama bin Laden and al-Qaida organized the attack on the United States. That is who is responsible. That is who we should be going after. Instead, what we are hearing is that military and intelligence resources were shifted to Iraq, taking resources away from the search for Osama bin Laden. I have to ask again, Why? Why are we spending time and energy trying to prove a link with Saddam instead of spending the same time and energy trying to find Osama bin Laden and defeating al-Qaida?

The other thing that was asserted repeatedly in making the case that Iraq should be the priority, rather than al-Qaida, was that there were weapons of mass destruction in Iraq—nuclear weapons, chemical and biological weapons. The President and top officials repeatedly warned of Saddam's efforts to acquire weapons of mass destruction, and nuclear weapons in particular.

We had rhetoric about nuclear holy wars and mushroom clouds, and the statements were assertions. The administration did not say that Iraq might—or might not—have weapons of mass destruction. It asserted affirmatively that, without a doubt, Iraq had these weapons and that they posed an immediate threat to this country.

This chart lists a few of the many administration statements on Iraq's nuclear weapons. The first one is a quote of the Vice President in a speech to the VFW National Convention. He said:

Simply stated, there is no doubt that Saddam Hussein has weapons of mass destruction.

We have quote after quote from this administration. The President said:

The Iraqi regime is seeking nuclear weapons. The evidence indicates that Iraq is reconstituting its nuclear weapons program.

Ari Fleischer, the President's press spokesman said:

We know for a fact there are weapons there.

It goes on and on. Secretary Powell said:

He has so determined that he has made repeated covert attempts to acquire high specification aluminum tubes from 11 different countries, even after inspections resumed.

And, again, Vice President CHENEY:

We know he is out trying once again to produce nuclear weapons. We believe Saddam has in fact reconstituted nuclear weapons.

These were the statements made over and over by this administration. On chemical and biological weapons, the story was the same. The administration repeatedly asserted that Saddam had revived his chemical and biological weapons program and had stockpiles of weapons that posed a grave, immediate danger to the United States.

We all knew that Iraq had possessed and used chemical weapons in the 1980s. And we all knew that intelligence had not conclusively demonstrated that all these weapons had been destroyed. But the administration went well beyond that consensus, suggesting that there was new evidence of renewed chemical and biological weapon production.

This next chart I have lists a few of the many administration statements on Iraq's chemical and biological weapons. Again, the President's chief spokesman said:

The President of the United States and the Secretary of Defense would not assert as plainly and bluntly as they have that Iraq has weapons of mass destruction if it was not true and if they did not have a solid basis for saying it.

That was Ari Fleischer.

Again, later the next year:

We know for a fact that there are weapons there.

Secretary Powell:

We know that Saddam Hussein is determined to keep his weapons of mass destruction, is determined to make more.

President Bush:

The Iraqi regime has actively and secretly attempted to obtain equipment needed to produce chemical, biological, and nuclear weapons.

Again, President Bush:

Intelligence gathered by this and other governments leaves no doubt that the Iraqi regime continues to possess and conceal some of the most lethal weapons ever devised.

The President's chief spokesman Ari Fleischer:

Well, there is no question that we have evidence and information that Iraq has weapons of mass destruction, biological and chemical particularly . . . all this will be made clear in the course of the operation, for whatever duration it takes.

Mr. President, assertion after assertion. These statements, and dozens more like them, painted a frightening picture of the threat posed to this country by Iraq. They created a mood in this country that built support for attacking a country that had not first attacked us or our allies, and to do so for the first time in our history.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The time of the Senator has expired.

Mr. CONRAD. I ask for an additional 5 minutes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. CONRAD. Again, these statements did not suggest that "maybe" Saddam had weapons of mass destruction. They did not suggest that "probably" Saddam had weapons of mass destruction. They stated clearly and unequivocally that he had them. There was one only problem with these statements. All the evidence that has emerged since the war suggests that they were wrong. All the evidence we have now shows the administration knew at the time the statements were made that its own intelligence undercut the statements it was making.

What we know now is that we have occupied Iraq for 10 months. We have full, unrestricted access to the whole country, more than 1,000 investigators searching for illegal weapons, and they have found none. Saddam did not have nuclear weapons or any serious effort to acquire them in the near term. I think this quote from the January 28 Washington Post sums up the most recent finding:

"U.S. weapons inspectors in Iraq found new evidence that Saddam Hussein's regime quietly destroyed some stockpiles of biological and chemical weapons in the mid-1990s," former chief inspector David Kay said yesterday.

The discovery means that inspectors have not only failed to find weapons of mass destruction in Iraq but also have found exculpatory information . . . demonstrating that Saddam Hussein did make efforts to disarm well before President Bush began making the case for war . . .

"If weapons programs existed on the scale we anticipated," Kay said, "we would have found something that leads to that conclusion. Instead, we found other evidence that points to something else."

I think the attached graphic from the Washington Post sums up the gap between the statements and what we now know. On biological weapons, evidence since March of 2003? No. No weaponized agents found.

On chemical weapons?

No. No weapons found. Appears none were produced after 1991.

On nuclear weapons?

No. No evidence of any active program.

I do not fault the administration for thinking that there might be weapons of mass destruction in Iraq. I myself thought it probable that Saddam possessed these weapons. But for me the real question was whether these weapons posed such a serious, imminent threat that they justified a preemptive attack on Iraq. Did we have solid evidence of an immediate danger? For me, at the time, the answer was no. Today, with the benefit of hindsight, with the Bush administration's own top weapons inspector acknowledging that the pre-war statements were wrong and that Saddam, in fact, was disarming before the war, the answer is even clearer: No.

I am not the only one who has reached that conclusion. For example, former President Reagan's Secretary of the Navy, James Webb, recently wrote:

Bush arguably has committed the greatest strategic blunder in modern memory. To put it bluntly, he attacked the wrong target. While he boasts of removing Saddam Hussein from power, he did far more than that. He decapitated the government of a country that was not directly threatening the United States and, in so doing, bogged down a huge percentage of our military in a region that never has known peace. Our military is being forced to trade away its maneuverability in the wider war against terrorism while being placed on the defensive in a single country that never will fully accept its presence.

There is no historical precedent for taking such action when our country was not being directly threatened. The reckless course that Bush and his advisers have set will affect the economic and military energy of our Nation for decades. It is only the tactical competence of our military that, to this point, has protected him from the harsh judgment that he deserves.

In my view, it was a clear alternative to a preemptive attack that had worked for us for more than half a century—aggressive containment and isolation. The Soviet Union had biological and chemical weapons. We never attacked them. China had biological and chemical weapons. We didn't attack them. Cuba had missiles. We didn't attack them. In every one of those cases we used containment, and it worked. But we did not use containment in Iraq. We broke with our history and launched a preemptive attack on a country that had not first attacked us or our allies.

Now we have the responsibility for trying to occupy and rebuild Iraq. Now we have moved resources out of the hunt for Osama bin Laden to deal with the dangers of the occupation of Iraq, and we have not yet succeeded in capturing bin Laden or shutting down al-Qaida.

I again must ask why have we not brought Osama bin Laden to justice? Why do we allow ourselves to be distracted by a war with Iraq when we have other, better options that allow us to keep the focus on al-Qaida?

It has been more than 30 months. It has been 930 days since the 9/11 attacks on this country, but Osama bin Laden is still at large. We all hope he will soon be caught, but every day our attention is diverted is another day America is at risk. That makes me question our policy.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator's additional 5 minutes have expired.

Mr. CONRAD. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent for 5 minutes to conclude my remarks.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. CONRAD. Mr. President, I thank my colleagues for their patience.

That makes me question our policy. It makes me question why for most of the last two years we have had no large-scale force hunting for bin Laden. It makes me question why our military and intelligence assets that could be hunting down al-Qaida have instead been diverted to Iraq. It makes me concerned when intelligence experts tell us al-Qaida has used that breathing space to decentralize its operations so it will be harder to disrupt and destroy al-Qaida in the future, even if we do capture bin Laden.

In the past few weeks, the administration has announced it has stepped up the hunt for Osama bin Laden. Sending a few thousand troops now is certainly a positive step. But I must ask with all due respect, could we have captured Osama bin Laden months ago had we kept the focus on al-Qaida? Could we have prevented the Madrid attack had we kept the focus on dismantling al-Qaida rather than going to war in Iraq?

Where was the effort to find Osama bin Laden for the past two years? And why do we not have tens of thousands of troops rather than just a few thousand to hunt him down so he does not remain free to plot against this country and our allies?

As Flynt Leverett, former CIA analyst and National Security Council staffer for President Bush, observed in a Washington Post article this past Sunday:

We took the people out [of Afghanistan] who could have caught them. But even if we got bin Laden or [his top aide Ayman] Zawahiri now, it is two years too late. Al-Qaida is a very different organization now. It has had time to adapt. The administration should have finished this job.

I can only reach one conclusion. We have been distracted. We have been diverted. We have taken our eye off the ball. We have lost focus on the real war on terrorism—the war on al-Qaida and the terrorists who viciously attacked our country.

To put it bluntly, we have lost time and momentum and initiative in the war on the terrorists who actually attacked us while we went after a dictator—vicious and nasty as he was—who posed little immediate threat to this country.

If we look across the evidence, I believe in many ways the United States simply made a mistake of judgment on what was most important. The President and his advisers believed—and I believe they sincerely believed—the priority was to go after Iraq. But the evidence we now have suggests they were chasing red herrings rather than real evidence of a national security threat.

Don't get me wrong. The world is better off without Saddam Hussein in power in Iraq. But going to war with Iraq at the expense of our credibility and at the expense of our readiness to deal with other threats, at the expense of vigorously hunting down al-Qaida and bin Laden, has been the wrong priority.

That is exactly what concerned this Senator, that a preemptive war against Iraq—a country that had a low-level threat against this country, according to our own intelligence agencies—has distracted us from going after the man and the organization that attacked this country. It was not Iraqis who attacked this country. It was al-Qaida that attacked this country. Saddam Hussein was not the heart of that operation. Osama bin Laden was the leader of that operation.

It was Osama bin Laden and al-Qaida that engineered the vicious attacks on America on September 11. It is unacceptable that Osama bin Laden is still at large and broadcasting threats against this country 930 days after the attacks of September 11.

So I ask a final time: Why? Why has bin Laden eluded capture for 930 days? Why are we not focusing our efforts on bringing him to justice and defeating his network of terror?

I think the American people deserve an answer to that question. I think Members of this Chamber deserve an answer to that question. Holding Osama bin Laden and al-Qaida to account for this attack should be our top priority. It is time to refocus our priorities and to win the war against al-Qaida. Stopping bin Laden and al-Qaida before they can launch another attack that kills innocent Americans should be our highest national security priority.

I thank the Chair. I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Utah.

Mr. BENNETT. Mr. President, it is my understanding there is a unanimous consent agreement in place as to who might speak. I ask unanimous consent that I be recognized for 5 minutes ahead of those in queue.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There is no order. The Senator is recognized.

Mr. BENNETT. I thank the Chair.

Mr. President, I listened with interest to my friend Senator CONRAD. And he is my friend. We use that term around here loosely, but he is in fact a good friend. I differ with him very fundamentally.

I have learned in the superheated atmosphere of the Senate that I must make this disclaimer: I do not challenge his patriotism, but I challenge his accuracy and his conclusions.

I think we should also understand that as we differ on this, we are not attacking someone's patriotism. That canard has been thrown across the aisle at those of us who stand to defend the President and differ with our colleagues.

I will return to the floor at a later time for more extensive comments on Senator CONRAD's speech. But I want to make these points which I think get neglected over and over and were neglected in his presentation.

He quoted David Kay, the President's arms inspector, as saying they are admitting now there are no weapons of mass destruction in Iraq. What he failed to quote from David Kay was the statement that after concluding his inspection in Iraq, David Kay came to the conclusion that Saddam Hussein was in fact more dangerous than we thought he was when we launched the war. I think that is the point that keeps being ignored and must be emphasized again.

Senator CONRAD says we didn't invade Russia when they had weapons of mass destruction; that we didn't invade China when they had weapons of mass destruction; and, why, therefore, did we invade Iraq when it turns out they didn't have them? We did it because we thought he had the weapons of mass destruction, and we thought that made him dangerous. It is not the possession of the weapons that is the problem. It is the danger that is the problem.

Great Britain has weapons of mass destruction, but they are in no sense dangerous. We thought Saddam Hussein was.

It is unfair to quote David Kay as saying there were no weapons and then not finish the quotation with his statement that even without weapons Saddam Hussein was more dangerous than we thought when we entered the war.

If you are going to use David Kay as your authority, you must use David Kay's entire conclusion. Saddam Hussein was, according to David Kay, more dangerous than we thought. Yet somehow he is being cited as to the source to say we should not have gone ahead.

This next major thrust of his statement was: Well, because we got distracted with Iraq, we have not dealt with al-Qaida and terrorism. That is the subject which I will address at some length when the Senator from Tennessee is finished.

The fact is, you cannot single out al-Qaida as a terrorist group as if it operates in a vacuum. I remember my high school history teacher saying, over and over to us: You cannot cut a seamless web of history. You cannot divide the threat of terror into neat little sections and say, we can deal with the one and the others do not really matter.

I will be discussing and presenting on the floor here at a relatively close future time the statement that appeared this morning in the Wall Street Journal that is a summary of the Kissinger lecture, given at the Library of Congress, by George Shultz. I had the privilege and honor of hearing George Shultz present that lecture. In it he makes the clear point that the war on terror, the threat from terror, goes all the way back to his experience in the Reagan administration, when he was Secretary of State. And it manifests itself in a variety of places and in a variety of ways.

There is no distraction in the war on terror by virtue of what we are doing in Iraq. Saddam Hussein financed terror. Saddam Hussein countenanced terror. Saddam Hussein provided sanctuary for terrorists. If we were going to launch a war on terror, and said we were going to rule out Iraq as part of that war, we would have been irresponsible.

Yes, the first attack went against al-Qaida and al-Qaida's sanctuary in Afghanistan. But al-Qaida fled and sought sanctuary elsewhere. And one of the main places where terror found sanctuary and finance was in Iraq. And we thought Iraq was dangerous enough to invade, in fulfillment—as George Shultz points out—of the clear United Nations mandate that went back decades. We acted in accordance with that mandate. We enforced the United Nations resolutions in full compliance with United Nations procedure and the vote of both Chambers of this Congress.

It was not a distraction. It was part of the overall recognition on the part of the Bush administration that this was not a law enforcement problem where we needed to identify the criminal, arrest him, and prosecute him. This was, indeed, a true war, across a wide spectrum of challenge, where we had to deal with dangerous problems, the most dangerous of which, again, according to David Kay—who has been quoted by those who are attacking the administration—was Saddam Hussein: more dangerous than we thought when we launched the war.

I think we should keep that in mind as we go forward in this debate.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Montana.

AMENDMENT NO. 2937

Mr. BAUCUS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to be added as a cosponsor to the amendment offered by Senators DODD and SNOWE on childcare.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Tennessee.

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. President, is there any limit on time?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There is not.

Mr. ALEXANDER. Thank you, Mr. President.

Mr. President, I have come to the floor this afternoon to speak on the welfare reform legislation that the Finance Committee has worked on. I compliment Chairman GRASSLEY and the Senator from Montana for their hard work in bringing this important piece of legislation forward.

I am going to comment on two aspects of the bill.

IRAQ

Before I do that, Mr. President, I have been sitting here listening for a while. I think it is important to complete the story of what the Senator from North Dakota was saying.

Let me be specific about this. As I heard his remarks, he was basically saying the President of the United States made a mistake when he decided the United States should use force to change the regime in Iraq.

I suppose one could come to that conclusion. There were some in the Senate who did. But I think it is important, if we are going to begin to read quotations and comments from those who have come to that conclusion today, that we finish the story, as Paul Harvey said.

Here is the rest of the story. Here is what others were saying, others were thinking, at the time President Bush had to look at the whole world and look at this different world that we are in and make a decision.

It is true that it has been against the traditions of the United States to make a preemptive strike. That was a major discussion during the Cuban missile crisis. Bobby Kennedy brought that up in the councils. He was right to do that. And I am sure in President Bush's councils that was discussed.

But, suddenly, we were facing a different kind of enemy. We were facing terrorists. And we had just experienced an unexpected attack. There are some even today who say that someone should have imagined that a handful of men would hijack two airplanes and fly them into the World Trade Center. Maybe someone should have. But I can assure you that during the 1990s, there was no one running for President of the United States who expressed that thought or who had that thought in the remotest back of his mind that such a thing like that could happen. Terrorism, yes. But that kind of attack? No.

So, suddenly, we are in this new environment. And the President of the United States is doing what I would hope any President would do of either party when confronted with radically different circumstances. He asked some questions and he took some action.

Now, it is important for us to remember that at the same time the President was making decisions about whether we should invade Iraq to defend ourselves, to prevent a terrorist attack—because there was a threat there to American lives and American safety—there were others in our Government who also had a chance to consider that information, and to talk about it, and to vote on it.

We voted on it here. I was not here yet, but I remember the overwhelming majority—bipartisan majority—in this Senate that authorized the use of military force against Iraq. And I can remember very well what was said.

So if the issue is whether a prudent President—who is sworn to uphold the oath to defend the United States of America—made a wise judgment to challenge Saddam Hussein, whether he could have done that based upon the facts presented to him, let's take a look at what other people, other well-informed people were saying and thinking at the time.

The distinguished Senator from North Dakota read some quotations. Let me read some more. Here is a member of the Senate's own Intelligence Committee, the Senator from West Virginia, Mr. ROCKEFELLER, one of our most distinguished and wisest Senators, a man who has been a Governor, with whom I have served, a man who is also on the Foreign Relations Committee. Here is what the Senator from West Virginia, speaking on the Senate floor, said on October 10 of the year 2002, about the time the President of the United States was looking at this information. Senator ROCKEFELLER said:

There is unmistakable evidence that Saddam Hussein is working aggressively to develop nuclear weapons and will likely have nuclear weapons within the next 5 years. He could have it earlier if he is able to obtain fissile missile materials on the outside market, which is possible—difficult but possible.

We should also remember we have always underestimated the progress that Saddam Hussein has been able to make in the development of weapons of mass destruction.

Now, that was not the Vice President of the United States. That was not Secretary Rumsfeld. That was not President Bush. That was the Senator from West Virginia, a member of our Intelligence Committee, a member of the Foreign Relations Committee, who was coming up with his own conclusions.

Here is another quotation made on the Senate floor on October 9, 2002, about the same time. This came from the distinguished junior Senator from Massachusetts, Senator JOHN KERRY:

I believe the record of Saddam Hussein's ruthless, reckless breach of international values and standards of behavior, which is at the core of the cease-fire agreement, with no reach, no stretch, is cause enough for the world community to hold him accountable by the use of force if necessary.

That was Senator KERRY, at about the time that President Bush was having to make this terrible decision.

I want to move on to other issues. But I don't think it serves our purpose as a country to dredge up comments that show some second-guessing, some second thoughts on one side, but not look back at what other distinguished, fairminded reasonable men and women were saying.

Here is what Senator BIDEN said at about the same time on the Senate floor, October 9, 2002:

If the world decides it must use force for his failure to abide by the terms of surrender, then it is not preempting, it is enforcing. It is enforcing, it is finishing a war he reignited, because the only reason the war stopped is he sued for peace.

And finally, here is what the Senator from New York, Mrs. CLINTON, said on October 10, 2002:

In the 4 years since the inspectors left, intelligence reports show that Saddam Hussein has worked to rebuild his chemical and biological weapons stock, his missile delivery capability, and his nuclear program. It is clear, however, that if left unchecked, Saddam Hussein will continue to increase his capability to wage biological and chemical warfare and will keep trying to develop nuclear weapons.

Those are the conclusions of the distinguished Members of the other side who know a lot about this, the same conclusion President Bush had. We don't have to listen to what the administration tells us here. We have our committees. We travel the world. Some of us have been in other administrations. We read. We listen. We talk. We come to our own conclusions. The conclusions of most Senators was the same as the conclusion of the President, that as terrible as it was, this was a time we needed to act.

There is one other quotation I would like to mention before I turn to the Welfare Reform Act. This is a comment of a former President of the United States who has, to his great credit, not backed away insofar as I have heard from this remark. President Bill Clinton said, on February 17, 1998, in an address for the Joint Chiefs of Staff and Pentagon staff:

Now let us imagine the future. What if he fails to comply and we fail to act or we take some ambiguous third route which gives him yet more opportunities to develop this program of weapons of mass destruction and continue to press for the release of the sanctions and continue to ignore the solemn commitments that he made. Well, Saddam Hussein will conclude that the international community has lost its will. He will then conclude that he can go right on and do more to rebuild an arsenal of devastating destruction. And some day, some way, I guarantee you, he will use the arsenal. And I think every one of you who has really worked on this for any length of time believes that, too.

That was President Clinton in 1998 in an address to the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the Pentagon staff.

The No. 1 issue on all of our minds is the war in Iraq. But I would hope we could look forward and not look backward in recrimination. That is not too much to hope in a Presidential election year. I believe the people of this country want President Bush and Senator KERRY to say where do we go from here, how do we win the peace, how do we secure freedom, how do we get the men and women home from Iraq and Afghanistan, what can we do to help their families. That is what the focus ought to be rather than reading long, incomplete lists of second-guessing quotations to try to pin the blame on a decision that was broadly and widely shared based upon information that had been piled up over 10 or 12 years. That does not serve our process well.

I came to the floor today on another matter. I am glad I had a chance to mention former President Clinton in terms of doing it. I remember well. In my second term as Governor in the mid-1980s, I was privileged to serve as chairman of the National Governors Association and created the first welfare reform task force. I asked then-Governors Pete DuPont and Bill Clinton, who was vice chairman of that association, to be the co-chairs, working with me to figure out something better. And we did, and they did most of that work and that leadership.

The work that the Governors started that year continued. Ten years later, when Bill Clinton was President in 1996 and there was a Republican Congress, Congress passed the landmark welfare reform legislation which today we call TANF, Temporary Assistance for Needy Families.

That 1996 welfare-to-work legislation was very controversial at the time. It was controversial because it got us out of the rut that we had been in for 30 or 40 years of creating a permanent class of welfare and caused us to rethink that. It is possible that it only could have been done with the President of one party who had immersed himself in the subject and who talked about it and believed in it and a Congress of another party. It was that big a change.

It changed the way we think about welfare, from a program that fosters dependence to a program that serves as temporary assistance, a program that restores dignity and encourages people to stand on their own two feet. That welfare-to-work program that President Clinton and the Republican Congress created 10 years ago—many Members of the House who were there at the time are now in the Senate—has been a very successful program and one in which they can take pride.

From a high of 5 million in 1994, welfare caseloads have dropped by over 50 percent. But since 2000, the national caseload has leveled off at slightly above 2 million. In more than half the States, including my own of Tennessee, caseloads are growing. And in every State, the remaining 50 percent on the welfare rolls present a bigger challenge.

There are some other warning signs. The number of families is rising who have exhausted their 60-month or 5-year time limit for Federal aid under TANF. We have a 5-year limit. We don't want permanent welfare. And a number of families have exceeded that 5-year limit so they are off welfare.

Another warning sign is the remaining caseload holds a rising proportion of Black and Hispanic families. Another is that unemployment among single mothers, which declined sharply in the early years of our welfare-to-work program, went back up in 2001 and 2002.

Finally, another warning signal is in response to their own fiscal crises—we can remember we had to send a $20 billion welfare check of our own to the States last year—some States have recently had to restrict cash benefits and support services, spreading limited resources even thinner.

The President and the Congress recognized from the beginning that helping people go from dependence to independence would be expensive in the short run. It would take some money. If you are saying to somebody who is down and out and in the third generation of welfare dependence, we want you to change your lifestyle and we are going to offer in exchange for that childcare, education opportunities, job training, counseling, removal of barriers to work, offering all that, that takes people, that takes work, and that takes money.

We have provided money over a period of time. One of the most successful of those programs has been the childcare voucher. Not everyone likes to call it a voucher because some people don't like vouchers. The Pell grant is a voucher for college students, the Stafford student loans is a voucher for college students, and the childcare grant is a voucher. It is money that goes through the States—I think it is about $8 billion or so—to more than 2 million persons who are getting off welfare. As we say, largely to women who have children: We want you to go to work. They may say: What about our children? And we say: Here is a childcare grant that you may take to any accredited institution that you can. That is what we mean by voucher.

That has been a big success as well. That is the reason why even though the Senate committee, in my judgment, has done an excellent job of bringing to the Senate the reauthorization or renewal of this welfare reform bill and has increased the amount of money available for childcare, I agree with Senator SNOWE of Maine that we need to increase the money for childcare more.

Senator SNOWE spoke about that today at great length, so I don't feel the need to go into great length about it. Basically, the Snowe amendment, which I am glad to cosponsor, adds an additional $6 billion over 5 years for childcare. Both the House and the Senate versions of the welfare reform bills we are considering increase both the hours the parents are required to work each week and the number of welfare parents each week who are required to work.

If we are going to require that the only parent who is at home go to work, and if that person is poor, and if that person is still on welfare after we have been working for 10 years to try to get as many people as possible off, we certainly are going to have to say as part of our deal we will help with childcare if you will go to work. That is the whole idea.

Childcare is the linchpin between welfare and work. Studies show former welfare recipients who receive childcare assistance are 82 percent more likely to be employed after 2 years than those who don't; 65 percent of mothers with children under the age of 6 and 79 percent of mothers with children ages 6 to 13 are in the labor force in our country today. As I mentioned earlier, about 2.5 million children receive our Federal childcare vouchers through the State. Childcare is expensive. It costs as much as a 4-year college—between $4,000 and $10,000 per child annually sometimes.

I got a personal dose of learning about this in 1996 when I was under the mistaken impression the people of the United States wanted me to run for President of the United States. I got the message earlier that year that they preferred Bob Dole, the former majority leader. I went home to Tennessee. I received a call from Major Werthy of the Salvation Army. He said, "I have been hearing what you had to say." I had been saying a lot about personal responsibility. He said, "I am calling to draft you and put your feet where your mouth has been for the last few years." So I went to work for the Salvation Army in Nashville and helped create something called the Red Shield Family Initiative. This basically became Nashville's way of implementing the Federal law.

Congress and the President decided we are going to change things. If you will get off welfare, we will give you help, childcare, job training. We will knock barriers out of the way and counsel you about drugs and work with you. Then somebody has to actually do all that. In Nashville a whole group of people got together, led by the Salvation Army. It included the metropolitan government, the State of Tennessee, all sorts of social services, and it included childcare centers. Down in the area of town where we have the most difficult circumstances, we had almost a mall, such as a shopping mall that exists to create a one-stop place for a mom on welfare who wanted to get off, so they could then be helped. There have been some wonderful stories that have come out of that Red Shield Family Initiative, but I can tell you they came out slowly, one by one.

Tamika Payton was in the ninth grade. This is an example Major Werthy talked to me about. In the ninth grade, she was a ward of the State when she had her first child. She grew up with an abusive mother who was addicted to drugs. She was removed from the care of her mother and placed in the care of her aunt, who was also abusive, so she ran away. This is Tamika's story, but it is a story that occurs all over America. She had two more children before becoming connected to the Family First Program, which is what we call Tennessee's welfare-to-work program. Because of the childcare certificate, the vouchers she receives through the Tennessee Family First Program, the ones we pay for with Federal tax dollars, she now has a full-time job, she is working on her GED, her high school degree, and her children attend the McNealy Child Care Center, a nationally accredited childcare agency in the area where this Red Shield Family Initiative of the Salvation Army exists.

In Tennessee, the State pays $105 a week for Tamika's 1-year-old, $105 a week for her 2-year-old child, and $90 a week for her 4-year old child. In Nashville, the average cost of a quality childcare center ranges between $100 and $150 a week. These vouchers we are voting for come within that range. Tamika's dream is to get her high school degree and then to attend Tennessee State University.

In other words, what is happening with Tamika Payton is exactly what the Republican Congress and President Clinton hoped would happen in 1996 when this started. But as we consider the welfare reform legislation, I think it is very important that we remember in Washington, DC, while we may create large frameworks and set standards and provide money, it is people such as the Red Shield Family Initiative in Nashville, in Portland, in Austin, in New York City, who are doing the work—they have got to work one by one by one. So I will support and vote for Senator SNOWE's amendment to add an additional $6 billion over 5 years for child care, because if in this welfare reform authorization we are going to require the only parent in the house to work away from home—more work than we have required before—then we will have to pay more for more childcare. We cannot require more work without paying more for more childcare.

There is one other concern I have. It will be the subject of an amendment I intend to introduce along with Senators NELSON, CARPER, and VOINOVICH later this week. We are working with the chairman and his staff to try to make certain it is consistent with the objectives of the general legislation, which we believe it is. This amendment would create a 10-State demonstration project designed to test the premise that if States had greater flexibility, States could do a better job getting people off welfare and becoming truly self-sufficient. Senators NELSON, CARPER, VOINOVICH, and I are all former Governors. We know the importance of reducing welfare rolls. We all served as Governors of States in the AFDC days, when we had Aid to Families with Dependent Children. We all strongly support the welfare-to-work concept. But especially with this last group of men and women—mostly women—who are moving from welfare to work, we have the tougher cases. It will be harder for us to decide from here exactly how each of those persons we are trying to help can get from where they are to where we want them to go. We should not presume to have all of the answers.

Here is how our demonstration project would therefore work. The Secretary of Health and Human Services would approve plans for up to 10 States. These plans would include what we call measurable outcome goals. In other words, in plain English, are we helping this person move toward self-sufficiency, toward independence, to get on their own two feet and off welfare? We would, in those 10 demonstration States, enforce the 60-month time limit for TANF benefits and require, as in the Senate bill, the self-sufficiency employment plan for each recipient. In other words, each individual would have a plan for that person's progress.

We agree with the idea of no permanent welfare. While work continues to be at the heart of what we expect States to focus on, States will need to decide how best to meet each person's need, is taking into consideration individual circumstances. As wise as we may hope we are, each one of us is not going to be able to meet each Tamika Payton and make a judgment as to how Tamika can get on her two feet with her three children, succeed in life, and never receive a welfare check again. So in exchange for greater flexibility, we will ask the States to achieve better results and be measured against true outcome goals, a feature neither in the current law nor in the Senate and House bills.

These are the kinds of goals that our legislation will include: One, work, employment, growth in the percent of recipients employed in that State; two, removal of barriers to stable employment. By that I mean drug treatment success. That is a barrier to stable employment. Education level, that is a barrier to stable employment. Attainable marketable skills, that is a barrier to stable employment.

I remember visiting a welfare human services office in my State in 2002. I asked them what worked best. What they told me was: Get them into school. If we get them into school, we never see them again. What the welfare office hopes for from its clients is they do not see them again, at least they do not see them again in terms of assistance and checks. They want them to be on their own.

Job retention is a measurable outcome goal. Earnings is a measurable outcome goal. Child well-being—whether the children of that mom have prenatal care, and for the pregnant mother—immunization rates of the children, the percent of children in child care, overall improvement in the children's education, test results.

Within those specific measurable outcomes—employment, removing barriers to employment, job retention, earnings, and child well-being—a State's plan would say: We believe we know better how to get to the goal of sufficiency; give us a chance to do that. Each State would be required to enter into a performance agreement with the Department of Health and Human Services to meet certain targets to coordinate with other programs, to work with the Secretary to demonstrate that a reasonable workforce participation rate is being maintained, to have an evaluation plan that includes accountability for the benchmarks.

This will test the best way to help those on welfare today get off welfare for good.

It would help some of those we now see in Tennessee who we were able to help because our State has unusual flexibility, but without that flexibility, we believe we would not have been able to serve them as successfully.

Mr. President, there are many examples in my own experience, and I am sure in every State's experience, of how local ingenuity, local caring, working with persons who are in trouble, one by one, has helped them succeed.

I would like to see us take this next step with welfare reform. I believe since it had a bipartisan origin with a Democratic President of the United States who invested years in trying to understand it, and a new Republican Congress that made it a priority, that we owe this important legislation, this welfare reform bill, our full attention for a few days. We can surely put aside some of these other issues long enough to help men and women get on their own two feet in this great country of ours, particularly to continue a program that for 10 years has worked so well.

My goal will be to do what I can as one Senator to make sure we focus on welfare reform; No. 2, to support the Snowe amendment that makes sure that if we require more work, we provide for more child care; and, No. 3, to work with the committee to try to see if we can find a way so that a limited number of States during this 5-year period can have somewhat more flexibility in working with these difficult cases so when this comes back around again in 4, 5, or 6 years, we can see what we have learned.

Too often as programs go on, the restrictions from Washington pile up. I would like to see a countervailing effort, countervailing movement within this legislation that continues to increase flexibility because, after all, it is stated right at the beginning of the 1996 law, giving States more flexibility is key to the success of welfare reform.

I thank the Chair, and I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. CORNYN). The Senator from Idaho.

Mr. CRAIG. Mr. President, I will take a few moments at this time. Certainly the issue of welfare reform is critical. The Senator from Tennessee has outlined the phenomenal successes to date led by Republicans both in the House and the Senate and now, of course, the Finance Committee has come forward with a reauthorization that is critical to our country. But in talking about that issue, one of the things that all welfare reform runs subject to is the ability, as we ask people to leave welfare, to find a job.

Something that frustrates me at this moment is what is occurring while the Congress of the United States refuses to act that will have a very real impact on the economy of our country and the ability to create jobs.

Just this morning, as constituents across this country by all of the Senators pulled up in front of their gas pumps to fill their tanks, they paid the highest price for regular gas ever in the history of this country. Prices in California have skyrocketed out of sight, and it is true across the Nation.

That is a fact. That happened this morning, and gas people are telling us that it will happen morning after morning as gas prices ratchet up across this country.

There is another fact out there. Congress has searched for an agreement and debated what to do about this for well over 3 years. The House and the Senate passed energy bills in the past year and led the American people to believe that they could solve this problem. Those reports came back from the Senate and the House. The Senate passed theirs; the House passed theirs. The Senate could not get there for one reason or another and, as a result, a message was sent out to the American people that the Senate of the United States could not come to an agreement on an energy bill. That is a fact.

Here is another fact. The reason energy prices continue to rise is that the Senate, not the House, failed to get the 60 votes necessary to solve what is becoming a major national crisis in this country. Let me repeat that. The Senate of the United States failed to get cloture, a vote that is critical to moving beyond the 60-vote margin to allow a national energy policy to go forward.

So if you grew a little angry this morning when you paid the highest price you have ever paid for gas at the pump, call your Senator. No, not your State Senator, call your United States Senator and ask he or she how they voted on a national energy bill last year, and ask them if they supported developing a national energy policy for this country.

I do believe Americans are finally getting it. They are finally beginning to understand the crunch of high gas prices not only at the pump but natural gas prices and electricity prices. Americans, like I said, are paying more for all levels of energy ever in this country.

Does that have an impact on job creation and the viability of our economy? You bet it does. Does it have an impact on welfare, people losing their jobs instead of being able to get off welfare from a reform bill and get out into the economy and find jobs? You bet it does. Jobs, all kinds of opportunities in this country, recreational opportunities, all of these kinds of issues are impacted by the cost of energy in our country today.

What about the cost of growing food in our country? I just had an Idaho banker in my office in the last week.

He has called all of his bank branch managers together and said: Look at all your fine lines of credit to see whether we can afford to bump them up 25 or 30 percent because the average farmer is going to pay 25 or 30 percent more for input costs in production this year than they did last year, and it is all going to be as a result of the cost of energy, and it is all going to be because this Senate failed to act in a strong bipartisan way to solve this problem.

America's working men and women ought to be growing angry because their home heating bills this winter were the highest they ever paid in a pretty cold and drawn-out winter. They paid more for the gas to heat their home. They paid more for oil than they ever paid.

Why? Let me repeat that. Because the Senate of the United States failed to respond. Many on the other side are now saying we have a jobless recovery, that we are not creating all kinds of jobs we ought to create even though our economy is beginning to grow. Well, if the cost of production is forced to an alltime level and we have to compete with goods and services from all over the world that may be being produced in a climate where energy is half the cost than it is in this country as relates to natural gas, maybe there is a reason why the economy is sluggish and not moving as quickly as it should today.

My State, an agricultural State, a high-tech State, is also a tourism and recreation State. What is going to happen this summer when mom and dad and the four, three, or two kids get in the motor home and fill it up and it is going to cost another $10, $15 or $20 every time they stop to fill up their motor home? Well, they may not be traveling to my State of Idaho this year or other places in the Nation and spending their money and feeding the economy of the States that appreciate a recreational economy.

I mentioned a few moments ago, average working men and women paid historic gas prices to heat their homes this year. Here is a very fascinating and very frustrating figure: Residential, commercial, and industrial consumers have paid $130 billion more over the last 46 months, compared with 4 years before, than ever in the history of our country. That is an 86-percent increase in approximately 4 years in the price of natural gas. Why? The Congress of the United States, the Senate, did not pass a bill that would have allowed greater exploration, that would allow the necessary kind of pipeline development.

The bill we would like to bring to the floor today would allow a gas pipeline to be brought down out of Alaska where we are pumping billions of cubic feet of natural gas back into the ground that could be coming to the Lower 48. That would not have caused this figure.

The increased price of natural gas has cost industrial consumers $66 billion, residential consumers $39 billion, and commercial consumers $25 billion. Every penny of the $130 billion could have been prevented if the Congress of the United States had acted.

We knew this perfect storm was coming. We have looked at it for the last 5 years. We knew that with the Clean Air Act we were going to push people toward natural gas, and yet we closed our public lands, we made it much more difficult to certificate, and we slowly but surely walked away from production at a time when Federal policy was increasing the use of natural gas to all-time highs.

What is the impact on the farmer of my State? Let me give a few figures. Everything from diesel fuel to the cost of fertilizer has gone up. It is skyrocketing. Some fertilizer costs will go up nearly 100 percent this year. It might mean less fertilizer is used. It may mean food production could flatten out or even go down in this country.

What about the profitability of the farmer? If the farmer is not profitable, if he is not making money, my guess is he is going to turn to his Senator or his Congressman and say, I have had a bad year; can you help me a little bit? Maybe the reason he had a bad year is because the Senate of the United States has refused for 5 years to look at a comprehensive energy policy.

Loss of manufacturing jobs, plant shutdowns, corporate bankruptcies—some of these have been tied to the high cost of energy. Residential electric bills and certainly, as a result of that, higher food costs are all a part of it.

We like to get people off welfare. We want them to have self-dignity and worth. We want them to have a job on their own and we are willing to help them get there. But we flatten out our economy through Federal rule and regulation in part because we will not develop a national energy policy.

What is the solution? Well, some of my friends on the other side, an attorney general out in California, said it is time to investigate the big oil companies again; it is their fault. Now I would like to say: It ain't their fault anymore. We are not letting them explore. We are not letting them develop. We are saying, this land is off; this land is off; you cannot go offshore; you cannot do this; you cannot do that. Slowly but surely we have ratcheted up our dependence on foreign providers, now teetering at around 60 percent. The Middle East, oh, well, we can blame OPEC; Venezuela, we can blame the politics of Venezuela. We sure do not want to blame ourselves for having failed to come together in the development of a national energy policy.

The Governor of Rhode Island said this recently: The high cost of natural gas is taking a toll on our economy across New England and across the Nation. In today's competitive world, manufacturers cannot raise prices to compensate for higher energy costs.

The only long-term solution is to increase supply.

My guess is that when we talk about increasing supply, the land offshore Rhode Island is off limits to exploration and development.

The vice president of the Oklahoma Farm Bureau put it this way: One of the industry's highest dependence on natural gas as a feedstock and critical to American agriculture is the fertilizer industry. Natural gas is the primary feedstock in the production of virtually all commercial nitrogen fertilizers in the United States, accounting for nearly 90 percent of the farmers' total cost of anhydrous ammonia. Our domestic fertilizer production capacity has already experienced a permanent loss of 25 percent over the last 4 years, and an additional increase in costs, recommending the potential of another 20 percent shutdown of that industry.

Well, I could go on with quote after quote. I know I am not talking about reauthorization of the Welfare Reform Act at this time, but an economy that employs people is in direct relationship to getting people off welfare and getting them into a good-paying job. That is what an economy that grows is all about.

When this Senate refuses to pass a national energy policy and by that failure drives up energy costs, we drive jobs offshore, we drive jobs underground, and most assuredly those who are out looking for a job for the first time in this economy are not going to find that job; they are going to want to come back to their Government and ask for help and assistance.

I thought it was appropriate that we speak about a national energy policy, about a job-creating economy, when we are talking about welfare reform. I thank the chairman of the Finance Committee for the work he has done, the very bipartisan effort once again to do what is right and responsible in the area of welfare reform.

Let me challenge this Senate, Democrat and Republican alike, to do what is right when it comes to a national energy policy. Get this country back into the business of producing oil instead of using excuses that it is somebody else's fault that the price of gas at the pump is now at a national alltime high. I will tell my colleagues whose fault it is: Call your U.S. Senator. It is his fault that gas is now high today. Do not let them duck and hide and blame big oil or blame OPEC or blame someone else. Blame your Senator. Call him today. It is his or her fault we do not have a national energy policy.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Iowa is recognized.

Mr. GRASSLEY. I have two unanimous consent requests. The first one deals with tomorrow's business and a vote on the Snowe amendment. I ask unanimous consent that the vote in relation to Snowe amendment No. 2937 regarding childcare occur at 12:15 on Tuesday March 30, provided further that no second degrees be in order to the amendment prior to the vote, with Senator CARPER to be recognized for up to 10 minutes prior to the vote, and that the time be counted against any Democrat-controlled time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? Without objection, it is so ordered.

MORNING BUSINESS

Mr. GRASSLEY. I ask unanimous consent that the Senate now proceed to a period for morning business with Senators permitted to speak up to 10 minutes each.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

The Senator from Michigan.

Mr. LEVIN. Reserving the right to object, I wonder if as part of that agreement we could line up speakers as follows: That Senator DURBIN be recognized in morning business for 15 minutes; followed by Senator BENNETT for 20 minutes; followed by myself for 15 minutes; followed by the Senator from Minnesota, Mr. DAYTON, for 15 minutes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? Without objection, it is so ordered.

ENERGY POLICY

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, I thank my colleague from Michigan. He has waited patiently all day. I didn't realize he had left for his office to come back. I thank him. It is generous of him to give me an opportunity to share some moments with reference to this bill and the issues raised on the floor.

As I listened to the previous speaker, my colleague and friend from the State of Idaho, explain the energy problems of America, I certainly concur with his conclusion. The cost of energy is high. That is an input for business as well as for families. As those costs go up, it becomes more difficult for our businesses in America to be competitive. Frankly, families find themselves facing inflation and heightened expenses just to drive a car to work or to use the car in a small business. As energy costs, like the cost of gasoline, go up, this conclusion is inescapable.

But I have to question the premise of the Senator from Idaho; that is, the problem is we are not drilling for enough oil in America. That certainly is one of the problems. Having an adequate supply is essential. Those of us who believe we have to continue to look for environmentally responsible sources for oil and gas think that should be part of a national effort and a national energy policy.

What is missing in the speech from the Senator from Idaho was any reference at all to the conservation of energy. Over the weekend in Chicago I bought a copy of Consumer Reports, the April issue on the 2004 automobiles. I went through it out of curiosity to find how many miles per gallon the most popular cars in America are getting. You will find time and time again that you are lucky to find a fuel-efficient car anywhere in the range of 20 miles per gallon. Very few of them are getting more than 20 miles per gallon.

If you put this in historic context it means that in the last 60 years we have decided, as a nation, in our buying habits and in the production of automobiles, that we want heavier, less fuel-efficient cars, and that we are prepared to be more reliant on foreign sources for fuel.

We are paying the price for it. Now we are seeing shortages because we are not engaged in any discussion or commitment to conservation of energy or the fuel efficiency of our energy-using vehicles and machinery. We are paying the price for it.

We cannot drill enough oil and gas to take care of our profligate habits when it comes to energy. Let me add, as we burn this energy without any concern for conservation, we are undoubtedly adding to global warming, air pollution, and serious environmental problems that we visit on our children.

The Energy bill to which the Senator from Idaho referred must include, I would assume, some provision for greater fuel efficiency for cars and trucks. But, lo and behold, it does not. There is nothing in that bill to deal with fuel efficiency. The original bill wanted to propose drilling for oil in the ANWR. That was defeated on the Senate floor. But, sadly, the bill that finally came to us for a vote had little or nothing in it that would move us toward more fuel-efficient vehicles.

My friend from Utah, who is seeking recognition at this point, is the model for the Senate. If you look at my tall, lanky friend from Utah, he goes out of this building, down the steps, and folds himself into a Prius, if I am not mistaken?

Mr. BENNETT. It is an insight, and the question is whether or not the Senator wanted a ride in a car that throughout its history has a 53.1 miles-per-gallon history.

Mr. DURBIN. What a model Senator. I am happy to give him credit where it is due. I have watched him fold himself in and out of that car, and I have commended him in the past and I will continue to commend him. But isn't it ironic that you have to go to Japan to buy these hybrid vehicles? Finally, Detroit, in a year or so, may be producing them.

My response to the Senator from Idaho is, yes, let's have a policy debate about energy in America. But for goodness' sake, let's not believe the key to America's energy future is just finding more environmentally sensitive places to drill for oil—offshore, wilderness areas. Let's also commit ourselves to conservation of energy.

Let me address another issue. If we are talking about the competitiveness of American business, it is not just the input of energy costs. You will find many businesses resist hiring new employees because they don't want to pay for their health insurance. Health insurance has become a breaker for businesses large and small.

Those good American companies, patriotic companies, if you will, that provide health insurance for their employees, when they sell the product in competition around the world, have to bring into the cost of that product the cost of health insurance for their employees.

The obvious question is, What are you doing, Senator? What is the Senate or House or Congress or the President doing to deal with these skyrocketing health insurance costs? The answer is: Nothing. For at least 3 years and even longer we have been afraid to even discuss the issue, as this system has fallen apart in front of our eyes.

So if you are talking about businesses being more competitive and jobs being created and making certain that our products have a chance in world commerce, energy cost is important but so is the cost of health insurance. This Congress has done nothing.

I have introduced legislation with Senator BLANCHE LAMBERT LINCOLN of Arkansas and Senator TOM CARPER of Delaware that tries to create a system much like the Federal Employees Health Benefits Program so that small businesses have access to the same private insurance pool as Federal employees across America. It would give them at least an opportunity for enrollment in a competitive atmosphere where prices could come down as a result.

Let me address the bill before us, though, because it relates to this as well. Imagine the situation of the employees still working today—thank goodness many are and have not lost their jobs, or are in low-paying jobs—and they happen to have children. One of the concerns, of course, is what happens to the kids when these employees go to work. This bill before us is welfare reform. I voted for it when it first came out, but a lot of Democrats didn't.

My friend and mentor and one of my best influences in politics was the late Paul Simon of Illinois, and he thought it was a terrible bill. I disagreed with him. I didn't very often, but I did on this bill, and I voted for welfare reform. Thank goodness the Clinton boom occurred right after we voted for welfare reform, and a lot of people came off welfare to find work.

Now we are in the sad state of affairs under the Bush administration where we have lost more than 2.6 million manufacturing jobs since the President took office. We have lost manufacturing jobs for 43 consecutive months. Frankly, as a result of that, the jobs remaining are not paying as well. So now you have a person struggling to get by, they have a low-paying job, and children; they are worried about daycare.

This bill, thank goodness, has a provision that is going to be added by the Senator from Maine in a bipartisan amendment in which Senator SNOWE has suggested that we add $6 billion for daycare. It is long overdue. Some 16 million children under the age of 13 live in low-income families, and they need childcare. Only 1 in 7 are eligible to receive current Federal subsidies for childcare.

The funding in the original Senate bill wouldn't even serve the children served today. So the bill that comes before us is not adequate. In 15 States there are waiting lists of families that cannot afford to pay for childcare, and they are hoping to get a subsidy which is not there.

Let me also tell you it is an expensive proposition. Full-day childcare can cost between $4,000 and $10,000 a year. It is comparable to the cost of college tuition. These are low-income families struggling to deal with the reality of childcare. Twenty-five percent of America's families with young children earn less than $25,000 a year.

We have to make certain we not only take care of the childcare but also afterschool care. A lot of kids today get out of school at 2:30 or 3 in the afternoon and have nowhere to go. They are latchkey children who go home. What happens during that period before a responsible adult is on the scene? For some kids they watch television, they sit around and eat junk food; some do homework; some get in serious trouble—involvement with drugs and gangs and guns and pregnancy. Problems occur. Afterschool programs mean kids are in a healthy environment where they can learn instead of being exposed to the streets or left alone in a circumstance where they might not come out of it in a positive fashion.

Childcare works—not only childcare for smaller children but afterschool care as well. We need to make that commitment. If we are saying to a welfare mother we want her to step forward and change her life, let us accept the reality that if she is going to go, in good conscience, forward to get a job and acquire the skills and move forward, her first concern is her kid. Making sure her kids are taken care of in a safe way during the day and afterschool.

Senator SNOWE of Maine, my Republican colleague, has that bipartisan amendment which I hope is going to be adopted very quickly.

How much time do we have remaining under the unanimous consent?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Five minutes.

Mr. DURBIN. Thank you very much.

THE 9/11 COMMISSION

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, I would like to close on an unrelated topic. I am in the process of reading a book, "Against All Enemies," by Richard Clarke, and as I started reading the book I was struck by the first chapter. You may remember Mr. Clarke served as the terrorism adviser and coordinator under President Clinton and then again under this President Bush. He has been working for some 30 years as a professional in this field. He has made some statements over the last 10 days which have become a source of headlines across America.

The administration has spent more time since he first appeared on "60 Minutes" 7 or 8 days ago discrediting Richard Clarke than I have ever seen spent on any other individual. It is clear what he has said is painful to them. What he said is he believes this administration—the Bush administration, and the Clinton administration for that matter—could have done a better job in anticipating the threat of al-Qaida.

He says in his book, of course, that he thinks they were too focused on Iraq, even though there was no connection between Iraq, Saddam Hussein, and 9/11 and the al-Qaida terrorists responsible for it.

These statements have enraged the White House. They have sent everyone out—from the President on down—stating publicly that Richard Clarke is out to sell books.

If you read the first chapter of this book, you will get a much different impression of this Richard Clarke, who to many is just another faceless bureaucrat working in the White House. You will learn when you read this book—or others will tell you—that on 9/11 after the World Trade Center was struck in New York, it was Richard Clarke in his capacity as coordinator to deal with terrorism in the White House—who had I guess as much as any single person in the Government—who had a particular personal responsibility to deal with the safety of the President and the Vice President and the Cabinet, the continuity of Government, and the whole question of grounding aircraft around this country. He was the man who was at the controls at that point in time as everyone was trying to deal with what was going on.

I say that in a positive fashion because I do not know that I have ever heard many say what I have just said. But it tells me that a man who spent 30 years dealing with the intelligence and domestic security and terrorism who is now being discredited in a matter of 7 or 8 days as a person who can't be trusted to share his insights on what happened raises some important questions.

I honestly believe Richard Clarke has done us a service. He says in this book the Clinton administration could have done a better job. He says the Bush administration could have done a better job. And, frankly, we all could have done a better job, including Members of Congress, the Senate and the House. That is something we ought to face up to.

Let me also add he appeared last week before the 9/11 Commission. The September 11 Commission is a bipartisan commission cochaired by Governor Kean of New Jersey and former Congressman Lee Hamilton of Indiana—two good men, professionals who are trying to get at the bottom of why 9/11 occurred and what we could have done to avoid it.

They have had testimony from Mr. Tenet, who is Director of the CIA, from Secretary of Defense Don Rumsfeld, and his predecessor, Secretary Cohen. They are going to entertain testimony from President Clinton and President Bush. They certainly had Mr. Clarke before them, and I think that is all well and good. I think all of those leaders in Government who were involved in the decisionmaking should sit and meet with this commission to get to the bottom of how America can be safer, which brings us to the story of the day.

I can't understand why Condoleezza Rice, who has served this administration and this country so well, is resisting an invitation to appear before the 9/11 Commission. If the President can find time, if former President Clinton, Secretary of Defense Rumsfeld, and the head of the CIA can find time, certainly it is not a matter of scheduling.

Second, she has made a number of appearances, as you know, on television on "60 Minutes" last night, and many other shows. So she is prepared to entertain questions from reporters. Why is she resisting this opportunity to testify? To say it has never been done, that it is unprecedented, let me say thank goodness 9/11 had never occurred before and it was unprecedented.

Let us gather together in a bipartisan fashion. Ms. Rice should come before the bipartisan commission and answer as many questions as openly and honestly as she can without ever crossing the line in the area of national security. But as she resists this opportunity to share her feelings about the preparation of the defense of America, she shortchanges the process which is simply trying to make America a safer nation.

Let us keep this bipartisan. Let us entertain not only Mr. Clarke but also Ms. Rice in terms of her views and memories of what happened on that fateful day.

Mr. President, I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Utah.

IRAQ DEBATE

Mr. BENNETT. Mr. President, I have listened to the debate that has been swirling around the country with respect to Iraq. The debate comes up again with respect to the commission which is currently meeting.

I cannot respond to all of the specifics that come along. I am tempted to, but I will not because I want to spend the time that is allotted to me by setting the total record before those who might be listening so we can understand that many of the original statements or original positions with respect to Iraq that are being repeated over and over again are, in fact, false.

I remember our colleague across the aisle, the late Senator Moynihan from

New York, one of my dear friends and one of the Senators for whom I have the highest regard, quoted something. He probably didn't think of it himself, but it was more or less his mantra, as he said to me: "Everyone is entitled to his own opinion but not to his own facts."

We keep hearing things said over and over again with respect to the war in Iraq as if they were fact. It is time to set the overall record straight.

We heard one statement that there was absolutely no connection between 9/11 and Iraq. The other one we hear over and over again is the reason we went into Iraq is because we thought Saddam Hussein had weapons of mass destruction. Some make it a little more stark than that.

There was a group that marched on the Utah State Legislature wearing T-shirts that said, "Bush Lied To Us. There Were No WMDs," as if the President of the United States George W. Bush himself alone was the only authority for the notion that there were weapons of mass destruction; and, once again repeating the false position that the only reason we went into Iraq is because we believed they had weapons of mass destruction.

To quote another individual not nearly as well known as Pat Moynihan but my high school history teacher, she would always say to us, "You cannot cut the seamless web of history." I want to take this opportunity to lay out the whole seamless web of the history of terrorism and do our best to understand it so we can realize the first statement that there was no connection between Iraq and 9/11 and the second statement that the only reason we went in is because Bush lied to us about weapons there, are not true. And I hope we can get the dialog back to the facts.

I am distressed at what has happened to the dialog on this issue. I must comment. On television was the former Vice President of the United States with his hand with a clenched fist raised, the blood vessels standing out on his neck, screaming at the top of his voice, speaking of the President, "He has betrayed this country."

To say the President has betrayed his country is to accuse him of treason, which is one of the crimes specifically listed in the Constitution as an impeachable offense. We have not heard that kind of rhetoric from a politician as highly placed as Al Gore since the 1950s. And the politician who used to speak like that was a member of this Chamber. His name was Joe McCarthy, and the President whom he accused of treason was Harry Truman.

Let us step away from that kind of rhetoric in this debate and review the facts.

I had the opportunity of attending the Kissinger Lecture at the Library of Congress which was given by George Shultz, former Secretary of State. It was one of the most cogent and lucid statements of where we are with respect to the war on terror I have ever heard. An update of that appeared in today's Wall Street Journal. I would like to quote from that those points which address the issues I have talked about, and ask unanimous consent that the entire piece be printed in the RECORD following my remarks.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. BENNETT. Mr. President, former Secretary of State George Shultz begins with this comment:

We have struggled with terrorism for a long time. In the Reagan administration, I was a hawk on the subject. I said terrorism is a big problem, a different problem and we have to take forceful action against it. Fortunately, Ronald Reagan agreed with me but not many others did. [Don Rumsfeld was an outspoken exception.]

Twenty-five years ago, it was on the radar screen of an American administration—in this case one headed by Ronald Reagan—that terrorism was a problem.

Secretary Shultz goes on to discuss this and then makes this comment:

Today, looking back on the past quarter century of terrorism, we can see that it is the method of choice of an extensive, internationally connected ideological movement dedicated to the destruction of our international system of cooperation and progress. We can see that the 1981 assassination of President Anwar Sadat, the 1993 bombing of the World Trade Center, the 2001 destruction of the Twin Towers, the bombs on the trains in Madrid, and scores of other terrorist attacks in between and in many countries, were carried out by one part or another of this movement. And the movement is connected to states that develop awesome weaponry, with some of it, or with expertise, for sale.

Let me emphasize that last sentence again. Speaking of international terrorism that was involved in all of these things, going back to the assassination of Sadat in 1981, he says:

And the movement is connected to states that develop awesome weaponry, with some of it, or with expertise, for sale.

All right. Do we have an example of such a state that has developed awesome weaponry that may be for sale? Yes.

Quoting again from Secretary Shultz, he speaks directly of Saddam Hussein and Iraq. He adds to this Kim Jong Il of North Korea, and then says:

They seize control of state power and use that power to enhance their wealth, consolidate their rule and develop their weaponry. As they do this, and as they violate the laws and principles of the international system, they at the same time claim its privileges and immunities, such as the principle of non-intervention into the internal affairs of a legitimate sovereign state. For decades these thugs have gotten away with it. And the leading nations of the world have let them get away with it.

Yes, we have heard much on this floor about America must not invade another sovereign state. That is precisely what Secretary Shultz is talking about when he says, these states that develop awesome weaponry and cooperate with terrorism for the purpose of upsetting the international order, then claim the immunities of the international order for themselves—as he says: “such as the principle of non-intervention into the internal affairs of a legitimate sovereign state.”

He goes on to summarize all that happened in Iraq. And again, those who will read the entire piece as it appears following my statement can get all of those details. But after he recites the details of what Saddam Hussein has done, he turns to David Kay, the man who is quoted again and again as the authority for the statement on the T-shirt that says: “Bush Lied To Us.”

Well, let's see what David Kay really said. I said in my previous statement David Kay told this Congress, testifying before the Armed Services Committee, that Saddam Hussein was, in fact, more dangerous than we thought when we started the war. But these are the portions of David Kay's position Secretary Shultz chooses to highlight, and I think they are the right ones to bring out.

Quoting again:

As Dr. David Kay put it in a Feb. 1 interview with Chris Wallace, “We know there were terrorist groups in state still seeking WMD capability. Iraq, although I found no weapons, had tremendous capabilities in this area. A marketplace phenomena was about to occur, if it did not occur; sellers meeting buyers. And I think that would have been very dangerous if the war had not intervened.”

Sellers of what? Buyers of what? Who would the sellers be? Who would the buyers be? The sellers, obviously, would be the Iraqis. The buyers would be the terrorists. And what are we talking about?

Back to Secretary Shultz:

When asked by Mr. Wallace what the sellers could have sold if they didn't have actual weapons, Mr. Kay said: “The knowledge of how to make them, the knowledge of how to make small amounts, which is, after all, mostly what terrorists want. They don't want battlefield amounts of weapons. No, Iraq remained a very dangerous place in terms of WMD capabilities, even though we found no large stockpiles of weapons.”

Just think about that for a second: the knowledge to make them.

If I could give a very homely example, last week my wife and I were celebrity chefs at the March of Dimes gala, and we won a prize, and people all said: Is this an old family recipe? We had to admit, no, we called a chef in Salt Lake City at one of the finest restaurants there, who happens to work as a judge at these kinds of celebrity cook-ins, and he gave us a recipe he thought would win. We have been celebrity chefs four times. We have called him all four times. We have won three out of four.

The capacity to tell somebody how to make something will produce that something just as much as having that something yourself. This chef did not participate, but his recipes participated, and his recipes won. All we had to do was be the willing buyers in the case; and he was the willing seller. I will add, just for the record, no money changed hands with respect to the recipe. But the example is there, and that is what David Kay is talking about.

Going back to Secretary Shultz, he says:

... in the long run, the most important aspect of the Iraq war will be what it means for the integrity of the international system and for the effort to deal effectively with terrorism. The stakes are huge and the terrorists know that as well as we do. That is the reason for their tactic of violence in Iraq. And that is why, for us and for our allies, failure is not an option. The message is that the U.S. and others in the world who recognize the need to sustain our international system will no longer quietly acquiesce in the take-over of states by lawless dictators who then carry on their depredations—including the development of awesome weapons for threats, use, or sale—behind the shield of protection that statehood provides. If you are one of these criminals in charge of a state, you no longer should expect to be allowed to be inside the system at the same time that you are a deadly enemy of it.

Secretary Shultz concludes his piece with this comment:

If we put this in terms of World War II, we are now sometime around 1937. In the 1930s, the world failed to do what it needed to do to head off a world war. Appeasement never works. Today we are in action. We must not flinch. With a powerful interplay of strength and diplomacy, we can win this war.

Put it in context, put it in the historic pattern, and we realize this is all connected and that the action with respect to Iraq was a very proper, significant, indeed, essential part of the overall war on terrorism. If we had not moved ahead, we would have been irresponsible.

The summary is in the callout that is put in the paper that says:

The U.S. had no choice: We had to oust Saddam Hussein, or face the gravest threat.

Mr. President, may I ask how much time I have remaining?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator has 4½ minutes.

Mr. BENNETT. If I might use that 4½ minutes, then, to address the fundamental question of the future nobody talks about. We are spending all of this time rehashing the past. Here is the fundamental question of the future: What happened to Saddam Hussein's weapons of mass destruction? The assumption raised by the statement that “Bush lied to us about the weapons” is that the weapons never existed.

Well, the first person to convince me the weapons existed was Madeleine Albright. The first President to tell me the weapons existed was William Jefferson Clinton.

The first group that insisted weapons were there was working for the United Nations. This was not a partisan thing put together by George W. Bush. The weapons were clearly in Iraq, and the question is not why didn't Bush tell us the truth about them; the question is, what happened to them? That is the question we need to address. That is the question of the future we are ignoring in all of this debate about who said what at what point in the past.

As I see it, there are four possibilities of what happened to the weapons Saddam Hussein had. No. 1, we got them all in the bombing in 1998. We must remember, as we try to truncate the history, the war in Iraq began in 1991. The U.N. resolution that called for the war was never suspended. It was renewed with acts of war in 1998. A heavy 4-day period of solid bombing is an act of war. President Clinton carried that out with the approval of this Congress. So the first possibility is that bombing destroyed all of the weapons of mass destruction.

The second possibility, Saddam Hussein himself dismantled his stockpiles of weapons of mass destruction in an effort to convince the U.N. inspectors they were not there so the inspectors would leave him alone and he could go back to building them after the inspectors were gone. There is some suggestion that was in fact what happened, that he did not intend to disarm, as U.N. Resolution 1441 required he do. All he intended to do was deceive, and that is where the weapons went.

Possibility No. 3, they were trucked over the border. Some of them got into Syria or other places and into the hands of others who still have them.

And possibility No. 4, they are still in Iraq and we simply have not found them. When people ask me, which of these four possibilities do you think is the most likely, I say: All of the above. I believe we destroyed a good portion of his weapons in the 1998 bombing. I believe he himself dismantled others in a deliberate attempt to deceive the U.N. inspectors. I believe some of them did get out of the country and are in the hands of other bad actors somewhere. And I believe there are probably still some hidden away somewhere in the desert in Iraq.

Unless the first answer is the only one that is correct and they were all destroyed in the bombing, they are still around somewhere. The capacity to build them was still around, as David Kay pointed out, before we went in and removed that.

If there are some of them still around, why aren't we looking for them? Why aren't we paying attention to where they might be? I believe the American military is still on the alert for them. I believe the American intelligence community is still looking to where they might be. But in the debate we have here on the Senate floor, this question is never raised. It is never given any attention. Instead we spend all of our time looking backward and trying to assign blame instead of looking forward and trying to solve problems.

I commend Secretary Shultz's presentation to all. It is a clear historic perspective over a quarter century from one of our senior statesmen that makes it clear the rhetoric surrounding this issue has been inappropriate and focused on the wrong thing.

I yield the floor.

EXHIBIT 1

[From the Asian Wall Street Journal, Mar. 29, 2004]

AN ESSENTIAL WAR
(By George P. Shultz)

We have struggled with terrorism for a long time. In the Reagan administration, I was a hawk on the subject. I said terrorism is a big problem, a different problem, and we have to take forceful action against it. Fortunately, Ronald Reagan agreed with me, but not many others did. (Don Rumsfeld was an outspoken exception).

In those days we focused on how to defend against terrorism. We reinforced our embassies and increased out intelligence effort. We thought we made some progress. We established the legal basis for holding states responsible for using terrorists to attack Americans anywhere. Through intelligence, we did abort many potential terrorist acts. But we didn't really understand what motivated the terrorists or what they were out to do.

In the 1990s, the problem began to appear even more menacing. Osama bin Laden and al Qaeda were well known, but the nature of the terror threat was not yet comprehended and our efforts to combat it were ineffective. Diplomacy without much force was tried. Terrorism was regarded as a law enforcement problem and terrorists as criminals. Some were arrested and put on trial. Early last year, a judge finally allowed the verdict to stand for one of those convicted in the 1993 World Trade Center bombing. Ten years! Terrorism is not a matter that can be left to law enforcement, with its deliberative process, built-in delays, and safeguards that may let the prisoner go free on procedural grounds.

Today, looking back on the past quarter century of terrorism, we can see that it is the method of choice of an extensive, internationally connected ideological movement dedicated to the destruction of our international system of cooperation and progress. We can see that the 1981 assassination of President Anwar Sadat, the 1993 bombing of the World Trade Center, the 2001 destruction of the Twin Towers, the bombs on the trains in Madrid, and scores of other terrorist attacks in between and in many countries, were carried out by one part or another of this movement. And the movement is connected to states that develop awesome weaponry, with some of it, or with expertise, for sale.

What should we do? First and foremost, shore up the state system.

The world has worked for three centuries with the sovereign state as the basic operating entity, presumably accountable to its citizens and responsible for their well-being. In this system, states also interact with each other—bilaterally or multilaterally—to accomplish ends that transcend their borders. They create international organizations to serve their ends, not govern them.

Increasingly, the state system has been eroding. Terrorists have exploited this weakness by burrowing into the state system in order to attack it. While the state system weakens, no replacement is in sight that can perform the essential functions of establishing an orderly and lawful society, protecting essential freedoms, providing a framework for fruitful economic activity, contributing to effective international cooperation, and providing for the common defense.

I see our great task as restoring the vitality of the state system within the framework of a world of opportunity, and with aspirations for a world of states that recognize accountability for human freedom and dignity.

All established states should stand up to their responsibilities in the fight against our common enemy, terror; be a helpful partner in economic and political development; and take care that international organizations work for their member states, not the other way around. When they do, they deserve respect and help to make them work successfully.

The civilized world has a common stake in defeating the terrorists. We now call this what it is: a War on Terrorism. In war, you have to hit on both offense and defense. You have to hit the enemy before the enemy hits you. The diplomacy of incentives, containment, deterrence and prevention are all made more effective by the demonstrated possibility of forceful preemption. Strength and diplomacy go together. They are not alternatives; they are complements. You work diplomacy and strength together on a grand and strategic scale and on an operational and tactical level. But if you deny yourself the option of forceful preemption, you diminish the effectiveness of your diplomatic moves. And, with the consequences of a terrorist attack as hideous as they are—witness what just happened in Madrid—the U.S. must be ready to preempt identified threats. And not at the last moment, when an attack is imminent and more difficult to stop, but before the terrorist gets in position to do irreparable harm.

Over the last decade we have seen large areas of the world where there is no longer any state authority at all, an ideal environment for terrorists to plan and train. In the early 1990s we came to realize the significance of a "failed state." Earlier, people allowed themselves to think that, for example, an African colony could gain its independence, be admitted to the U.N. as a member state, and thereafter remain a sovereign state. Then came Somalia. All government disappeared. No more sovereignty, no more state. The same was true in Afghanistan. And who took over? Islamic extremists. They soon made it clear that they regarded the concept of the state as an abomination. To them, the very idea of "the state" was un-Islamic. They talked about reviving traditional forms of pan-Islamic rule with no place for the state. They were fundamentally, and violently, opposed to the way the world works, to the international state system.

The United States launched a military campaign to eliminate the Taliban and al Qaeda's rule over Afghanistan. Now we and our allies are trying to help Afghanistan become a real state again and a viable member of the international state system. Yet there are many other parts of the world where state authority has collapsed or, within some states, large areas where the state's authority does not run.

That's one area of danger: places where the state has vanished. A second area of danger is found in places where the state has been taken over by criminals or warlords. Saddam Hussein was one example. Kim Jong Il of North Korea is another.

They seize control of state power and use that power to enhance their wealth, consolidate their rule and develop their weaponry. As they do this, and as they violate the laws and principles of the international system, they at the same time claim its privileges and immunities, such as the principle of non-intervention into the internal affairs of a legitimate sovereign state. For decades these thugs have gotten away with it. And the leading nations of the world have let them get away with it.

This is why the case of Saddam Hussein and Iraq is so significant. After Saddam Hussein consolidated power, he started a war against one of his neighbors, Iran, and in the course of that war he committed war crimes including the use of chemical weapons, even against his own people.

About 10 years later he started another war against another one of his neighbors, Kuwait. In the course of doing so he committed war crimes. He took hostages. He launched missiles against a third and then a fourth country in the region.

That war was unique in modern times because Saddam totally eradicated another state, and turned it into "Province 19" of Iraq. The aggressors in wars might typically seize some territory, or occupy the defeated country, or install a puppet regime; but Saddam sought to wipe out the defeated state, to erase Kuwait from the map of the world.

That got the world's attention. That's why, at the U.N., the votes were wholly in favor of a U.S.-led military operation—Desert Storm—to throw Saddam out of Kuwait and to restore Kuwait to its place as a legitimate state in the international system. There was virtually universal recognition that those responsible for the international system of states could not let a state simply be rubbed out.

When Saddam was defeated, in 1991, a cease-fire was put in place. Then the U.N. Security Council decided that, in order to prevent him from continuing to start wars and commit crimes against his own people, he must give up his arsenal of "weapons of mass destruction."

Recall the way it was to work. If Saddam cooperated with U.N. inspectors and produced and facilitated their destruction, then the cease-fire would be transformed into a peace agreement ending the state of war between the international system and Iraq. But if Saddam did not cooperate, and materially breached his obligations regarding his weapons of mass destruction, then the original U.N. Security Council authorization for the use of "all necessary force" against Iraq—an authorization that at the end of Desert Storm had been suspended but not cancelled—would be reactivated and Saddam would face another round of the U.S.-led military action against him. Saddam agreed to this arrangement.

In the early 1990s, U.N. inspectors found plenty of materials in the category of weapons of mass destruction and they dismantled a lot of it. They kept on finding such weapons, but as the presence of force declined, Saddam's cooperation declined. He began to play games and to obstruct the inspection effort.

By 1998 the situation was untenable. Saddam had made inspections impossible. President Clinton, in February 1998, declared that Saddam would have to comply with the U.N. resolutions or face American military force. Kofi Annan flew to Baghdad and returned with a new promise of cooperation from Saddam. But Saddam did not cooperate. Congress then passed the Iraq Liberation Act by a vote of 360 to 38 in the House of Representatives; the Senate gave its unanimous consent. Signed into law on October 31, it supported the renewed use of force against Saddam with the objective of changing the regime. By this time, he had openly and utterly rejected the inspections and the U.N. resolutions.

In November 1998, the Security Council passed a resolution declaring Saddam to be in "flagrant violation" of all resolutions going back to 1991. That meant that the cease-fire was terminated and the original authorization for the use of force against Saddam was reactivated. President Clinton ordered American forces into action in December 1998.

But the U.S. military operation was called off after only four days—apparently because President Clinton did not feel able to lead the country in war at a time when he was facing impeachment.

So inspections stopped. The U.S. ceased to take the lead. But the inspectors reported that as of the end of 1998 Saddam possessed major quantities of WMDs across a range of categories, and particularly in chemical and biological weapons and the means of delivering them by missiles. All the intelligence services of the world agreed on this.

From that time until late last year, Saddam was left undisturbed to do what he wished with this arsenal of weapons. The international system had given up its ability to monitor and deal with this threat. All through the years between 1998 and 2002 Saddam continued to act and speak and to rule Iraq as a rogue state.

President Bush made it clear by 2002, and against the background of 9/11, that Saddam must be brought into compliance. It was obvious that the world could not leave this situation as it was. The U.S. made the decision to continue to work within the scope of the Security Council resolutions—a long line of them—to deal with Saddam. After an extended and excruciating diplomatic effort, the Security Council late in 2002 passed Resolution 1441, which gave Saddam one final chance to comply or face military force. When on December 8, 2002, Iraq produced its required report, it was clear that Saddam was continuing to play games and to reject his obligations under international law. His report, thousands of pages long, did not in any way account for the remaining weapons of mass destruction that the U.N. inspectors had reported to be in existence as of the end of 1998. That assessment was widely agreed upon.

That should have been that. But the debate at the U.N. went on—and on. And as it went on it deteriorated. Instead of the focus being kept on Iraq and Saddam, France induced others to regard the problem as one of restraining the U.S.—a position that seemed to emerge from France's aspirations for greater influence in Europe and elsewhere. By March of 2003 it was clear that French diplomacy had resulted in splitting NATO, the European Union, and the Security Council . . . and probably convincing Saddam that he would not face the use of force. The French position, in effect, was to say that Saddam had begun to show signs of cooperation with the U.N. resolutions because more than 200,000 American troops were poised on Iraq's borders ready to strike him; so the U.S. should just keep its troops poised there for an indeterminate time to come, until presumably France would instruct us that we could either withdraw or go into action. This of course was impossible militarily, politically, and financially.

Where do we stand now? These key points need to be understood:

There as never been a clearer case of a rogue state using its privileges of statehood to advance its dictator's interest in ways that defy and endanger the international state system.

The international legal case against Saddam—17 resolutions—was unprecedented.

The intelligence services of all involved nations and the U.N. inspectors over more than a decade all agreed that Saddam possessed weapons of mass destruction that posed a threat to international peace and security.

Saddam had four undisturbed years to augment, conceal, disperse, otherwise deal with his arsenal.

He used every means to avoid cooperating or explaining what he has done with them. This refusal in itself was, under the U.N. resolutions, adequate grounds for resuming the military operation against him that had been put in abeyance in 1991 pending his compliance.

President Bush, in ordering U.S. forces into action, stated that we were doing so under U.N. Security Council Resolutions 678 and 687, the original basis for military action against Saddam Hussein in 1991. Those who criticize the U.S. for unilateralism should recognize that no nation in the history of the United Nations has ever engaged in such a sustained and committed multilateral diplomatic effort to adhere to the principles of international law and international organization with the international system. In the end, it was the U.S. that upheld and acted in accordance with the U.N. resolutions on Iraq, not those on the Security Council who tried to stop us.

The question of weapons of mass destruction is just that: a question that remains to be answered, a mystery that must be solved. Just as we also must solve the mystery of how Libya and Iran developed menacing nuclear capability without detection, of how we were caught unaware of a large and flourishing black market in nuclear material, and of how we discovered these developments before they got completely out of hand and have put in place promising corrective processes. The question of Iraq's presumed stockpile of weapons will be answered, but that answer, however it comes out, will not affect the fully justifiable and necessary action that the coalition has undertaken to bring an end to Saddam Hussein's rule over Iraq. As David Kay put it in a February 1 interview with Chris Wallace, "We know there were terrorist groups in state still seeking WMD capability. Iraq, although I found no weapons, had tremendous capabilities in this area. A marketplace phenomena was about to occur, if it did not occur; sellers meeting buyers. And I think that would have been very dangerous if the war had not intervened."

When asked by Mr. Wallace what the sellers could have sold if they didn't have actual weapons, Mr. Kay said: "The knowledge of how to make them, the knowledge of how to make small accounts, which is, after all, mostly what terrorists want. They don't want battlefield amounts of weapons. No, Iraq remained a very dangerous place in terms of WMD capabilities, even though we found no large stockpiles of weapons."

Above all, and in the long run, the most important aspect of the Iraq war will be what it means for the integrity of the international system and for the effort to deal effectively with terrorism. The stakes are huge and the terrorists know that as well as we do. That is the reason for their tactic of violence in Iraq. And that is why, for us and for our allies, failure is not an option. The message is that the U.S. and others in the world who recognize the need to sustain our international system will no longer quietly acquiesce in the take-over of states by lawless dictators who then carry on their depredations—including the development of awesome weapons for threats, use, or sale—behind the shield of protection that statehood provides. If you are one of these criminals in charge of a state, you no longer should expect to be allowed to be inside the system at the same time that you are a deadly enemy of it.

September 11 forced us to comprehend the extent and danger of the challenge. We began to act before our enemy was able to extend and consolidate his network.

If we put this in terms of World War II, we are now sometime around 1937. In the 1930s, the world failed to do what it needed to do to head off a world war. Appeasement never works. Today we are in action. We must not flinch. With a powerful interplay of strength and diplomacy, we can win this war.

OIL SUPPLY

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, last Thursday a press release from the Department of Interior came across my desk that at first glance appeared to be the announcement of an April fool's joke. The press release stated beginning April 1, the Interior Department will deliver about 115,000 barrels of oil per day to the Department of Energy for the Strategic Petroleum Reserve. I thought this was an April fool's prank because this is about the worst possible time for the administration to be taking oil off the market for the Strategic Petroleum Reserve.

Crude oil and gasoline prices are historic highs and inventory levels are near historic lows. Consumers are paying record prices at the gas pumps. Manufacturers and farmers and a whole lot of other folks are paying high prices for diesel fuel. Our airlines face soaring fuel costs and so does the trucking industry. Our economy, which has major problems, will be weakened further by high energy prices.

To make the timing even worse, the Department of Interior plans to begin its oil deliveries to the DOE on April 1, the same date the OPEC cartel is scheduled to start cutting its oil production. The purpose and effect of OPEC's cuts are to raise oil prices further. The effect of the administration's stated plans to keep filling the Strategic Petroleum Reserve regardless of the price of oil, if implemented, will be the same, principally because tight supplies and private inventories will become even tighter due to the administration's additional demands for oil for the Strategic Petroleum Reserve.

Regrettably, the Interior Department's announcement is no April fool's joke. To the contrary, it is another misstep in the administration's illogical and counterproductive practice of putting oil into the Strategic Petroleum Reserve, regardless of the price of crude oil.

Over the past 2 years, this practice has pushed up oil prices with minimal improvement to our overall energy or national security and with great detriment to our economic security.

Let's just review what has happened with energy prices. Crude oil prices have been steadily increasing over the past 2½ years. Last week crude oil reached a 13-year high of over $38 per barrel. So far this year, crude oil is averaging about $35 per barrel. In 2003, a barrel of crude oil cost on average over $31. That was a record at that point. Climbing crude oil prices have led to higher prices for refined products, including gasoline, home heating oil, jet fuel, and diesel fuel.

Today, as well as four times in the last 10 days or so, the price of gasoline reached a record high. Nationally the average price of a gallon of gasoline is now $1.75. In Michigan, the average price of a gallon of unleaded is up to $1.78. There are fears prices could go over $2 if there is even a small interruption in supply.

The DOE's Energy Information Administration, the EIA, projects prices will rise on average to $1.83 per gallon this spring, and that prices will remain at high levels throughout the year, averaging nearly $1.70 per gallon over the course of the entire year. These high oil and gasoline prices are hurting consumers and businesses. The EIA recently stated the average consumer paid $200 more for gasoline in 2003 than the previous year. Prices this year are already a dime per gallon more than in 2003. Over the course of a year, each 1-cent increase in the price of a gallon of gasoline takes $1 billion out of the pockets of American consumers.

Following the laws of supply and demand, the principal reason oil prices are so high is the amount of crude oil in private sector inventories in the United States is so low.

In fact, our private sector inventories are hovering around record low levels. In January, crude oil inventories fell to levels lower than at any time in the 28 years the Department of Energy has been tracking those inventories.

Why are supplies so low? This administration's oil policies are partly responsible. Since late 2001, the Department of Energy has taken millions of barrels of oil off the market and put them into the Strategic Petroleum Reserve.

In late 2001, the reserve held about 560 million barrels of oil. Since then, day after day, for over 2 years, the Department of Energy has added an average of about 100,000 barrels of oil per day to the Strategic Petroleum Reserve without regard to the price of oil.

Today, the Strategic Petroleum Reserve holds nearly 650 million barrels, or 93 percent of its capacity of 700 million barrels.

DOE plans to keep on adding oil to the Strategic Petroleum Reserve, no matter what the price, no matter how dangerously low private sector inventories are. In April, the DOE plans to add about 200,000 barrels per day to the Strategic Petroleum Reserve, just as it has been doing this month.

By taking oil off the market and pushing up prices when supplies were tight and prices were high, filling the Strategic Petroleum Reserve has decreased the amount of oil in private inventories. That is because when current prices are high, companies with oil in inventory will draw from those inventories to supply oil to their customers—including the SPR—before they buy expensive new oil.

From April 2002 through the end of last year—a period in which the oil markets were extremely tight, reflecting high prices and low supplies—oil inventories in the private sector decreased by almost as much as the petroleum reserve inventory increased. From April 2002 to December 2003, the Department of Energy deposited about 78 million barrels of oil in the petroleum reserve. During this same period, the United States private sector inventories declined by about 61 million barrels. So the 78 million barrels of oil that were deposited into the petroleum reserve are shown by this red line in the last approximately year and a half, the decline in the private inventories is shown by this white line over the same period. So you can see from the chart that the amount deposited in the reserve is almost the same—slightly more—as the decline in private inventories. That means, despite filling the reserve for almost 2 years, the total oil in inventory, private and public reserve, in the United States during this period increased by only 17 million barrels—under 2 percent.

Several studies have demonstrated that the decrease in U.S. private inventories since April 2002 is directly related to filling of the Strategic Petroleum Reserve. While there are other factors as well, such as OPEC production limits and increased global demand for crude oil, especially in China, the filling of the Strategic Petroleum Reserve has been a major contributor to the decrease in private sector inventories.

Goldman Sachs, one of the largest and most successful crude oil traders in the world, reported the following on January 16th of this year:

Large speculative positions, builds in Strategic Petroleum Reserves, and low inventory coverage have contributed to current price levels.

Goldman Sachs also stated:

Past government storage builds [build-ups] will provide persistent support to the market and that current plans for the injection of 130,000 [barrels/day] of royalty-in-kind barrels into the petroleum U.S. Strategic Petroleum Reserve (SPR) between now and the end of September . . . will likely provide even further support.

Here, the word "support" means keeping prices high.

In early 2002, the Department of Energy's own staff warned that filling the Strategic Petroleum Reserve in a tight market would reduce private sector inventories and raise prices and tried to persuade the administration to postpone putting oil into the reserve so oil supplies would be more plentiful.

In the spring of 2002, as prices were rising and inventories falling, the Department of Energy's own petroleum reserve staff warned the following:

Commercial inventories are low, retail prices are high, and economic growth is slow. The Government should avoid acquiring oil for the Reserve under these circumstances.

The administration chose to ignore those warnings. The reserve deliveries proceeded. As the DOE staff predicted, oil supplies tightened and prices climbed.

Last week, the Secretary of Energy repeated the administration's position that it would not suspend shipments of oil into the Strategic Petroleum Reserve, despite the high prices and low private inventories of oil. The Secretary rejected criticism of the Energy Department's position by claiming that the amount of oil placed in the reserve is too small to make any difference in the price of oil.

But in 2002, the Department of Energy's own staff refuted that very claim.

The DOE Strategic Petroleum Reserve staff explained how taking these barrels off the market for an extended period of time would result in a large decrease to the overall supply of oil on the market. This is the DOE staff warning, which was ignored by the DOE and the administration:

If we look at the Strategic Petroleum Reserve in the perspective of daily supply and demand, the SPR fill rates are inconsequential. The fill rate is 100,000 to 170,000 barrels per day compared to world production and consumption of 75 million barrels per day. However, when OPEC countries are determined to maintain discipline in their export quotas, the cumulative impact of filling the SPR becomes more significant when compared to U.S. and Atlantic basin inventories. Essentially, if the SPR inventory grows, and OPEC does not accommodate that growth by exporting more oil, the increase comes at the expense of commercial inventories. Most analysts agree that oil prices are directly correlated with inventories, and a drop of 20 million barrels over a 6-month period can substantially increase prices.

In fact, commercial inventories did fall, on average, by 20 million barrels in each of the 3 successive 6-month periods. So what the DOE expert staff said is exactly what has come to pass.

"Most analysts agree," they said, "that oil prices are directly correlated with inventories, and a drop of 20 million barrels over a 6-month period can substantially increase prices."

The Strategic Petroleum Reserve holds by far the largest strategic oil reserves in the world. In contrast, U.S. private sector oil inventories have fallen well below normal levels. Private sector inventories of gasoline are also well below average.

In an article explaining why oil prices are so high, this week's edition of The Economist reports the following:

Another fact . . . propping up oil prices may be what [a] trader calls "supply-disruption risk."

And then The Economist goes on as follows:

These worries have, in part, been fueled by a most unexpected source: the American Government. Despite the high prices, American officials continue to buy oil on the open market to fill their country's Strategic Petroleum Reserve. When prices are high, why buy, you might ask, and thereby keep them up? The Senate has asked that question as well. It passed a non-binding resolution this month calling on the Bush administration to stop SPR purchases; but Spencer Abraham, the Energy Secretary, has refused.

Mr. President, I hope the Energy Secretary and this administration will reconsider that refusal because the day after the Senate adopted our amendment I cosponsored with Senator COLLINS to cancel the planned shipments of 53 million barrels to the SPR, oil prices in New York and London fell by $1 per barrel on the news that this oil might not be placed in the Strategic Petroleum Reserve. But after the Department of Energy and key Members of Congress announced opposition to our amendment, even though it was adopted in the Senate, oil prices went right back up.

This real-world price change shows that the cancellation of the currently planned shipments to the Strategic Petroleum Reserve would provide some immediate relief from high oil and gasoline prices and also provide long-term relief, as the additional oil supplies would enable inventories to be built back up to normal levels.

In his testimony before the Senate Armed Services Committee last week, the Secretary of Energy cited "national security" as the rationale for continuing to fill the SPR despite high oil prices and low supplies. This rationale is unpersuasive for two reasons.

First, the 50 million barrels of oil that the administration plans to put into the SPR over the next year could be more productively used to replenish private sector inventories. Putting this oil into the SPR will raise our governmental inventories from 650 to 700 million barrels, an increase of about 8 percent; whereas keeping it on the market could boost our private inventories from 290 million barrels to 340 million barrels, an increase of about 17 percent. We, therefore, can get more bang for our buck—or, in this instance, bang for our barrel—by keeping this oil on the market.

Typically, a variety of interruptions in oil supplies can occur in the commercial marketplace. These disruptions may be caused by bad weather, political unrest, or mechanical failure in the actual production of oil. Although any particular disruption may not be foreseeable, based on past history it can be predicted, in general, that some such disruption will occur sooner or later. Because our private inventories are so low, those inventories will not be available to cover any such disruptions.

Since the SPR was established over a quarter century ago, we have never needed to release more than 30 million barrels from the SPR at any one time. At the outbreak of the first gulf war, in early 1991, we released 30 million barrels. In the fall of 2000, the last time we released oil from the SPR, we released around 30 million barrels. Even after we lost all oil production in Iraq last year, this administration did not release any oil from the SPR. It, therefore, appears, for the time being, that holding the SPR at the current level of 650 million barrels, which is 93 percent of capacity, would be sufficient security to cover events that are reasonably foreseeable.

Because current inventory levels in the private sector may be inadequate to cover minor supply disruptions, in the event of such a disruption the price of oil would likely spike to well over $40 per barrel, gasoline prices would jump to well over $2 per gallon, and we might even have to tap into the SPR. The way to avoid this painful scenario is to raise private sector inventories by keeping millions of barrels of oil on the market rather than putting them into the SPR. It does not make sense to increase our ability to respond to the most unlikely events at the expense of our ability to respond to the more certain ones.

Adding more oil to the SPR will increase our energy security only slightly while decreasing our economic security significantly. We cannot measure our national security solely by the number of barrels of oil in the SPR. Our economic well-being is also critical to our national security. In deciding whether or not to put oil into the SPR, the administration should adopt a broader view of what is important to our national security.

Affordable gasoline for American consumers is important to our economic and national security. Affordable jet fuel and the health of our airline industry is important to our economic and national security. Affordable diesel fuel and the health of our manufacturing, trucking, chemical, and agricultural industries is important to our economic and national security. When oil, gasoline, jet fuel, and diesel fuel prices are at or near record high levels, we should consider the importance of increasing the supply of oil to these industries as well as to the SPR program.

This real-world price change shows that cancellation of the currently planned shipments to the SPR would provide immediate relief in the oil and gasoline markets, and also provide long-term relief as the additional oil supplies would enable inventories to be built back to normal levels.

It is bad enough that the Department of Energy has refused to suspend SPR deposits. To make matters worse, the Department of the Interior has now announced that it too will take even more barrels off the market starting April 1.

Currently, the administration plans to remove 5.6 million barrels from the market and put them in the SPR during the month of April—about 190,000 barrels per day. The latest announcement means that, beginning April 1, the administration will be taking even more barrels—for a total between 200,000 and 300,000 barrels per day—of oil off the market.

How much oil is 200,000–300,000 barrels per day? A lot. It is as much oil as we import from many countries, or as much as we get domestically from major oil-producing states. In December 2003, for example, we imported 211,000 barrels per day from Kuwait. In the same month, the State of Louisiana produced 244,000 barrels daily. Oklahoma produced about 180,000 barrels a day.

Moreover, by taking more oil off the market for the SPR when prices are high, the administration is needlessly increasing the cost of the SPR program for the taxpayers. In effect, the taxpayers will be paying over $35 per barrel for this oil for the SPR. By canceling these expensive deliveries, we could use the money obtained from the sale of this oil for our urgent homeland security needs. Indeed, this is just what the Levin-Collins amendment would do.

The administration sometimes claims that if we suspend SPR deliveries to increase supplies, OPEC might reduce production to counter our efforts. This is not a very good reason for not doing anything to improve our situation. To begin with, we shouldn't avoid doing something that makes sense for our national interests because we're afraid that OPEC might respond by taking action adverse to those interests. We must determine our own security, and not act in fear of OPEC. If they act negatively to us, we should have a response ready. Second, OPEC has not threatened to take any such action. The administration shouldn't project actions that OPEC hasn't even hinted at.

In fact, an article from last Friday's Oil Daily indicates that the effect of the Senate Budget Resolution amendment to postpone SPR deliveries is having a positive effect on OPEC—that in the wake of the passage of our amendment some OPEC members "are doubly keen to reassure major consumers that they are happy to meet any shortfall [in supply]."

Finally, the same argument could be made against any proposal to increase our domestic oil supplies. If we accepted this argument, there would be no point in us trying to increase supplies in any manner whatsoever. It is always possible that OPEC will counter our measures to increase our energy supplies, but we cannot be paralyzed into inaction by fear of what OPEC might do.

I support filling the SPR, but not at any price. It is time for the administration to consider the effect of filling the SPR on our economic security. It is time for the administration to protect American consumers and businesses rather than just the SPR program. It is time to count jobs and growth, not only barrels of oil. It's time to stop filling the SPR.

I ask unanimous consent that the Department of the Interior press release regarding the reservation of oil for the SPR program, a recent article from The Economist on high oil prices, an article from last Friday's Oil Daily, and a bipartisan letter to the President from 53 House members urging the suspension of shipments to the SPR be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

STRATEGIC PETROLEUM RESERVE EXCHANGE CONTRACTS AWARDED; MMS, WYOMING TEAM UP ON RIK SALE

Three major oil companies have been awarded contracts by the Minerals Management Service (MMS) for the exchange of an estimated 100,405 barrels per day of Gulf of Mexico Royalty-in-kind (RIK) crude oil to support the national Strategic Petroleum Reserve Fill Initiative unveiled by President George W. Bush in November 2001.

With these contracts, MMS will take its oil royalties in-kind (in the form of product), rather than in value (cash), from offshore federal lease operators and deliver it to onshore oil market centers where the Department of Energy (DOE) will take custody of the oil. The DOE, in turn, will exchange the RIK oil for oil of suitable quality that can be delivered to Strategic Petroleum Reserve storage sites located in Texas and Louisiana.

The RIK program provides a deliberate and cost-effective means to continue filling the nation's Strategic Petroleum Reserve in support of national objectives for energy security and to mitigate potential supply disruptions.

Contracts in the latest sale were awarded to ChevronTexaco, Shell Trading and ExxonMobil. Delivery on the six-month contracts is scheduled to begin April 1, 2004. The oil will be delivered from more than 100 facility metering points in the gulf of Mexico.

The MMS RIK Program Office will also ship an additional 12,135 barrels per day of royalty crude oil directly to DOE at onshore market centers, with one producer transporting an additional 2,700 barrels per day directly to the DOE. That translates to a total of approximately 115,000 barrels per day of wellhead oil being committed to the Strategic Petroleum Reserve Fill Initiative. To date, approximately 646 million barrels of oil have been added toward the approximate 700 million barrel capacity of the Strategic Petroleum Reserve.

JOINT WYOMING SALE

The Minerals Management Service also announced that it has again teamed with the State of Wyoming for the sale of royalty crude oil produced in Wyoming. The February sale was the 12th in a series of joint sales dating back to 1998 when the State of Wyoming and the MMS first entered into the Wyoming Oil Pilot Program.

Three firms were awarded contracts for approximately 1,300 barrels per day of both Federal and State sweet and general sour production. Winning bidders were Teppco, Nexen and Tesoro Refining. Delivery is scheduled to begin April 1, 2004, and continue through Sept. 30, 2004.

The Minerals Management Service is the federal bureau in the U.S. Department of the Interior that manages the nation's oil, natural gas and other mineral resources on the Outer Continental Shelf in federal offshore waters. The bureau also collects, accounts for, and disburses mineral revenues from Federal and American Indian lands. MMS disbursed more than $8 billion in 2003 and more than $135 billion since it was created in 1982. Nearly $1 billion from those revenues go into the Land and Water Conservation Fund annually for the acquisition and development of state and federal park and recreation lands.

A BURNING QUESTION; OIL

Why are oil prices so high?

Many people have been wondering why oil has become so costly. Its spot price has been close to $40 a barrel; one year forward, it fetches well over $30; and this week petrol prices hit record highs in the United States. Weekly, analysts have been tweaking their forecasts upwards.

The answer may come as a surprise. The usual culprit is the Organisation of Petroleum Exporting Countries, the cartel that tries to manipulate prices by adjusting agreed output quotas. In February OPEC shocked the markets by announcing that its members were to slash their "cheating" on official quotas by 1.5m barrels per day (bpd); the quotas themselves were to be trimmed by another 1m bpd at the beginning of April.

However, industry experts say that OPEC countries have hardly cut output at all in recent weeks. So freely are they still cheating that only Saudi Arabia, the kingpin of the cartel, has much spare capacity left. What is more, OPEC ministers might not cut their quotas after all. Some are wavering, and the oil might keep gushing. The ministers are due to meet in Vienna on March 31st.

If OPEC is not turning off the spigot, what explains the run-up in prices? One reason is surely demand: the strongly growing economies of America and China are guzzling more oil. If this goes on, OPEC's capacity constraints might bite. However, Algeria's oil minister, Chakib Khelil, thinks speculation is a more likely answer. He wants OPEC to cut output on April 1st for fear that the price might drop suddenly—by at least $7, he thinks.

Such talk is common from OPEC ministers. Usually it is self-serving nonsense, intended to deflect criticism of the cartel. This time there may be more to it. One reason to believe it comes from energy traders. The big trading firms typically deal with both "commercial" transactions—hedging ploys by firms such as airlines—and "non-commercial" ones by financial speculators such as hedge funds. Richard Schaeffer of ABN Amro, a Dutch bank with a big presence on the New York Mercantile Exchange (NYMEX), reports that the amount of speculation in oil is "more than I've seen in a very long time."

What is more, despite some sell-offs early this week, there have clearly been some big bets on high oil prices. Non-commercial net long positions in futures markets are at an unprecedented level (see chart). There is, says one trader, a lot of "paper froth" supporting oil prices. In its latest oil report, the International Energy Agency said that "the funds are having a field day".

But why exactly have speculators piled into the oil market now? One reason may be uncertainty or disappointment with returns on financial assets. John Shapiro of Morgan Stanley believes that hedge funds, endowments and other investors have been drawn to the oil market by the lack of alternatives. He points to low interest rates and, until recently, the relatively poor performance of the stockmarket.

Another factor attracting punters and propping up oil prices may be what Eric Bolling, an independent trader on the NYMEX, calls "supply-disruption risk." Political troubles in Venezuela, Nigeria and Iraq have long worried those who fear an interruption of exports. A bigger and newer aspect of this risk, however, is the fear of terrorism that might be targeted at oil infrastructure.

These worries have, in part, been fuelled by a most unexpected source: the American government. Despite the high prices, American officials continue to buy oil on the open market to fill their country's strategic petroleum reserves (SPRs). Why buy, you might ask, when prices are high, and thereby keep them up? The Senate has asked that question as well. It passed a non-binding resolution this month calling on the Bush administration to stop SPR purchases; but Spencer Abraham, the energy secretary, has refused.

The administration's persistence, coupled with increased strategic purchases by other governments, has fuelled suspicions that officials might have some intelligence about terrorist threats to oil infrastructure. The upshot is that concerns about disruptions to supply, by OPEC or by terrorists, now add up to what Mr. Schaeffer calls an "unprecedented premium" on the price of oil. He observes that in the past, prices have spiked on worries that supply might be interrupted, but have then fallen back quickly. This time the premium seems to be lingering.

Some experts worry that the longer prices stay high because of this speculative frenzy, the harder they will fall. Perhaps all that can be said is that reading the oil market is as difficult today as it has been for a long time: strong demand, political unrest and OPEC discipline could drive the price higher, and encourage still more speculative buying; a slowdown in America or indiscipline in the cartel could remove a lot of froth in a hurry. Even if the price does drop, however, it need not collapse, because thanks to OPEC the oil market is like no other.

If speculators head for the door, Saudi Arabia, which has been called the central bank of the oil world, has one card to play that even the Fed does not. Ali Naimi, the Saudi oil minister, can announce that he will slash his country's output at once. Speculators will surely take notice, for he has a proven record of propping up prices. That is the sort of influence over markets that even Alan Greenspan must envy.

PRICE SLIDE MAY HELP OPEC REACH CONSENSUS

(By Karen Matusic, Manimoli Dinesh, and Paul Merolli)

WASHINGTON.—The first signs that oil market bears may be emerging from a long hibernation might be a blessing in disguise for Opec ministers meeting Wednesday in Vienna.

After fretting for weeks about their inability to do anything to stem a runaway oil market and disagreeing publicly about whether to implement a lower production ceiling on Apr. 1, Opec ministers may find it a bit easier to reach consensus, ironically because of a sharp decline in prices. Prompt futures on the New York Mercantile Exchange (Nymex) fell from a high of $38.50 per barrel on Mar. 19 to a low of $34.75/bbl on Mar. 26 in reaction to the fifth crude stock build in the US during the past six weeks.

The confusion is evident in public statements from Opec ministers—not to mention oil analysts, who have repeatedly raised their price forecasts. Some ministers insist that Opec will cut the production ceiling to 23.5 million barrels per day on Apr. 1 as planned, even though insiders admit the group has yet to make good on earlier promises to mop up excess supply; others say they may consider a delay.

"The price fall will strengthen the hand of those [Opec] members who want to see a [23.5 million b/d] ceiling come into play," an Opec delegate tells Oil Daily. "Before that, there was some pressure from consumers for us to do something, but we really have been doing all we could. Those prices were really too high. Now it seems as they are falling and will soon be at reasonable levels."

Together, the 11 Opec members are now producing about 28 million b/d. That would leave the 10 quota-bound members, who exclude Iraq, having to remove more than 2 million b/d from markets in the next few days to comply with the new ceiling. Come Mar. 31, one possibility might be to announce that the 23.5 million b/d ceiling is coming into effect while knowing that no member is likely to adhere to the new limits. Already there are signs that Saudi Arabia is increasing supplies to the US based on higher than usual tanker fixtures for April and early May.

"Confusion means they will do nothing," says PFC Energy analyst Roger Diwan. "Prices are coming down, and it makes it easier for them to reinforce quota discipline. Now it is a matter of how long it takes them to trim down."

Oil traders are hedging their bets ahead of the Vienna talks, mainly because they have been caught off-guard twice since September, by surprise announcements that Opec was cutting its production ceiling just minutes after ministers entered their meeting room insisting that a rollover was a done deal.

Though some observers question Opec's credibility after failing to implement promised production cuts, the Saudi-led initiative to convince big market speculators that Opec would do all it could to maximize oil prices was successful in that it seems to have thwarted an expected second quarter price plunge. While prices may continue to fall, they will do so from a much higher base.

"Stocks are tight, and it will take time to build," PFC's Diwan says. "It looks like OPEC will bridge the second quarter. I do not think they mind looking as if they lack credibility at $35 [per barrel]."

The political heat on OPEC to open the taps has been rising, especially in the U.S. where motorists are paying record-high prices for gasoline, well ahead of peak summer driving season. Slammed by Democrats for record high prices and "failed" energy policies, the Bush administration is prodding OPEC to increase production.

President Bush, who in the 2000 election campaign mocked the Clinton administration for what Republicans called "tin-cup diplomacy" in its dealings with oil producers, now seems happy to admit he is prodding OPEC to increase production. Bush's Chief of Staff Andrew Card said in a television interview on Thursday that the administration wants OPEC to open the taps while Energy Secretary Spencer Abraham confesses he is in regular contact with OPEC, something he had downplayed in the past.

"There's been on going discussions with OPEC, but we prefer to keep them private," said a Department of Energy spokeswoman, declining to offer further details.

OPEC insiders retort privately that the sizzling prices are not being caused by shortages of OPEC oil—but by tight U.S. gasoline supplies, geopolitical concerns and big overbought positions built up by speculators. Nonetheless, more moderate OPEC members are doubly keen to reassure major consumers that they are happy to meet any shortfall after the Senate voted to divert some 53 million bbl of crude, originally destined for the Strategic Petroleum Reserve (SPR), to the spot market.

That set alarm bells ringing among some OPEC members, aware that the release of emergency reserves is the only real leverage that consumers have over producers. Bill Greehey, the outspoken chairman and chief executive of U.S. refiner Valero, said the U.S. government should use the SPR to counterbalance OPEC, releasing or buying crude to offset OPEC's moves.

"There is no need to release the SPR because there is no shortage of crude—and we will make sure of that," an OPEC official tells Oil Daily.

The measure requires support from the House of Representatives to become law, and the Bush administration has made it clear that America's emergency stockpile should only be used in emergencies—not to cool off prices. It underlined that point last week when it awarded new contracts to fill the SPR. In a dig at Abraham, Democrats also released congressional records from 2000 revealing that Abraham, then a senator, urged a release of SPR oil to moderate prices.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,
Washington, DC, March 22, 2004.

Hon. GEORGE W. BUSH,
The White House, Pennsylvania Avenue, N.W.,
Washington, D.C.

DEAR MR. PRESIDENT: We are writing to urge that you suspend shipments of oil to the Strategic Petroleum Reserve (SPR) and allow more oil to remain on the market and available to consumers when supplies are tight. We hear from our constituencies daily about the financial strain of increasing gasoline prices.

We are urging you to call upon the Department of Energy (DOE) to review and revert back to its previous policy of filling the SPR when crude oil prices are relatively low and deferring oil deliveries when prices are relatively high. Filling the SPR, without regard to crude oil prices and the availability of supplies, drives oil prices higher and ultimately hurts consumers.

In addition, we are concerned about missed opportunities for saving taxpayers' money. Filling the SPR regardless of oil prices increases taxpayer costs. Prior to 2002, DOE granted oil company requests to defer scheduled oil deliveries to the SPR when oil prices were high, in return for deposits of extra oil at a later date. These deferrals save taxpayers money and add extra barrels of oil to the SPR.

We urge the DOE to study the development of procedures to assure that the SPR is filled consistent with the objective of minimizing acquisition costs—or revenue foregone when the oil is acquired under the royalty-in-kind (RIK) program—and consistent with maximizing domestic supply. We urge the Administration to reevaluate the practice of diversion of RIK and other oil to the SPR so that it will be opportunely timed so as to not exacerbate crude oil price increases.

We recommend you restore market-based criteria for granting deferrals by urging the DOE to restore its SPR business procedures allowing deferrals of oil deliveries to the SPR when crude oil prices are high or commercial crude oil supplies are tight.

Again, we urge you to take these recommendations under consideration and to suspend shipments to the SPR until crude oil supplies increase and prices decrease.

Sincerely,

Robert W. Goodlatte; Walter B. Jones; Gil Gutknecht; Jo Ann Emerson; Jack Kingston; John Shadegg; Spencer Bachus; Mike Rogers; David R. Obey; James P. Moran.

Barbara Cubin; Phil English; C.A. "Dutch" Ruppelberger; Nancy L. Johnson; Bart Gordon; Eliot L. Engel; Kenneth R. "Ken" Lucas; Tom W. Osborne; James C. Greenwood; Eric I. Cantor.

Howard P. "Buck" McKeon; Steve King; Frederick "Rick" Boucher; Steve Chabot; Mike McIntyre; Roscoe G. Bartlett; Dennis "Denny" Rehberg; Jo Ann S. Davis; Virgil H. Goode, Jr.; Ellen O. Tauscher.

Fred Upton; Howard Coble; Timothy V. Johnson; J. Randy Forbes; Collin C. Peterson; Joe Wilson; Mark A. Foley; Ander Crenshaw; Roy Blunt; Cass Ballenger; Gerald C. "Jerry" Weller.

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, the Senate has spoken. The administration should listen to common sense and to what the market says, that when supply in the private sector goes down, prices go up, and the Strategic Petroleum Reserve fills have made a major contribution to high oil and gasoline prices in this country. It adds little to our energy or economic security for the administration to pursue the course it is on. I hope it will reconsider the SPR deposits.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Minnesota.

Mr. DAYTON. Mr. President, I certainly agree with my colleague, the Senator from Michigan, about the need to deal with our present situation which affects my State, as well as everyone else.

I also want to point out to my colleagues that the ultimate solution to our oil dependency needs is not going to come from more oil, more tax breaks for oil, more searching for oil, or extracting oil from environmentally sensitive areas. It is going to be in developing viable alternatives to oil, one of which is right in front of us, available to us now, and is barely being tapped by this Nation. And that is ethanol.

I have a Ford Explorer I drive all over Minnesota on a fuel called E-85—85-percent ethanol, 15-percent regular gasoline. The engine is produced by the manufacturer with a very slight modification. Last summer in southern Minnesota, E-85 fuel was 22 cents a gallon less than regular unleaded. I have not checked in the last couple of weeks, but given the price of gasoline, I suspect it is even less expensive now.

Just imagine if we were to take half or more of the $115 billion that we spend every year to import foreign oil—over half of all the oil we consume—and instead of spending it overseas, we were to put it in the pockets of American farmers, who then would spend their dollars in their local communities. Those dollars would multiply, and we would fuel an economic resurgence of rural America far greater than any Government program could possibly devise. It is a cleaner burning fuel, so we would improve the quality of our environment. We would reduce our dependency on foreign oil. We would raise the price of commodities such as corn and soybeans for soy diesel and some of the other agricultural products, so farmers could make a profit in the marketplace at those higher prices rather than have to be subsidized by the American taxpayer. It is basically a policy grand slam, and yet in this country right now less than 2 percent of the gasoline supply consumed is ethanol.

In Minnesota, my State, 7 or 8 years ago the legislature passed, with much controversy, a mandate that required that every gallon of gasoline sold in our State contain 10-percent ethanol. Prices have been slightly lower than those States nearby which do not have that requirement. The fuel supplies have been consistent.

As I said earlier, that only touches the surface of what is possible for ethanol as a substitute fuel for gasoline. Yet, Minnesota, despite all those gains and no difficulties, is still the only State in the Nation that has a 10-percent ethanol mandate.

We can fill up reserves, and we can try to bring in more. We can jawbone the Saudis, and we will keep paying through the nose regardless until—and only until—we shift our use of fuels from what we are depending on now to what we can use or must use for the future.

Here for the first time in my public career—and I was commissioner of energy and economic development for Minnesota 20 years ago and served in the Governor's office in Minnesota almost a decade before then and worked on energy policy. In the span of those 30 years, this is the first time I have seen a real opportunity that every American can in their vehicle be consuming a fraction of the gasoline they are using now, and we do not have any interest in pursuing it.

Senator DASCHLE and Senator GRASSLEY, through their efforts, have put and kept some energy measures in the Energy bill which is now stymied. Senator GRASSLEY has done a terrific service to the ethanol-production States wherein the current transportation bill passed by the Senate takes away that penalty for using ethanol that is in the formula for the highway trust fund.

Even with those measures, we are looking at barely doubling the increase of ethanol in consumption nationwide, so it would be less than 4 percent in a decade. Again, Minnesota has been at 10 percent for the last 8 years.

When those prices keep going up and staying up, I want my colleagues to keep in mind we have an alternative. We have an opportunity to make a significant and immediate transition. It will take a few years, but it is right there. But we have to get beyond where we are today.

JOBS ACT

Mr. DAYTON. Mr. President, I also wish to comment on what happened last week to the so-called JOBS Act which disappeared from the Senate floor. One minute last week we were voting on the JOBS bill, and the next minute it was gone—outsourced, I guess. It was replaced by other legislation which we acted upon last week. Today we are on to yet another measure before the Senate.

We have not been told when this JOBS Act might reappear or even if it is coming back at all, which means, I guess, the JOBS Act has suffered the same fate as some 2.25 million jobs during President Bush's term because they, too, have disappeared. No one knows when or even if they are coming back.

It is clear now that the President's previous proposals enacted by Congress—tax cuts for the rich and the super rich and for large, multilarge corporations—have not stopped the loss of American jobs, and they have not brought them back. One out of every six manufacturing jobs in the United States has disappeared in the last 3 years, and the number of manufacturing jobs in this country is now the lowest it has been in 53 years. Over 8 million Americans are unemployed.

The average length of unemployment is the longest it has been in 20 years in this country.

So the administration must have a plan, a policy, to stimulate job creation in this urgent situation; right? Wrong. The Secretary of the Treasury Snow testified before Congress just 2 weeks ago that the lack of job recovery is "a mystery" to him. The President has stated that his No. 1 priority is to make his tax changes permanent when they expire in the year 2011.

In the debate over the budget resolution on the Senate floor 2 weeks ago, our colleagues across the aisle said their No. 1 priority was to accelerate the date for eliminating the estate tax from 2010 to 2009. So the No. 1 economic problem facing the Nation today is the loss of jobs and the lack of their recovery, and Republican priorities are more tax treats for the rich and the super rich in the years 2009 and 2010. I guess the rich and the super rich do not really need more money anyway, so they can afford to wait 5 years or more to get it. But the 8 million Americans out of work cannot wait that long.

So there is this cloud of complete unreality surrounding Republican economic policies these days. It is as though all the country is on reality TV and they are still on Fantasy Island. Meanwhile, our Democratic caucus is being blocked from even voting on measures that would provide help and jobs to Americans who need them right now.

No. 1, we need to extend unemployment benefits because 786,000 Americans exhausted their unemployment benefits during January and February alone. In just those 2 months, over three-quarters of a million Americans exhausted their unemployment benefits, meaning they and their families have no source of income right now.

In the name of humanity, how can we do nothing to relieve that kind of human pain and suffering?

Secondly, the House of Representatives must pass the transportation funding bill, and the President must either sign it or veto it so that we can override that veto now. The Senate bill we passed almost a month ago would mean significantly more construction projects, and therefore thousands more jobs all over America, starting now, in this construction season, which does not last very long in northern States such as Minnesota, are just about to get underway.

The President and the House have been tossing that bill back and forth like it is a Sunday Frisbee game. Here is an immediate job-creating opportunity, and they are dawdling and dicker because I guess it is not their jobs, at least not yet.

The third measure we must undertake is to protect the jobs and incomes of those who are now working, especially the 8 million workers the Secretary of Labor has decided all by herself no longer have to be paid overtime. That number includes police officers, nurses, firefighters, and laborers. What do we tell them and their families? Sorry, you did not contribute enough to the necessary reelection committees, but the people who employ you do?

The Congress has already cut their personal taxes, their dividends tax, their capital gains tax, and now they are going to be eliminating their estate tax even earlier than before.

They are a greedy bunch and they want more. This is an election year and campaigns are expensive so, sorry, now in America you will not even be able to earn extra money by working harder. You cannot get ahead because those special friends want to get farther ahead without having to work at all.

Fourth, we need to bring back the JOBS Act, which reportedly was pulled from the Senate floor last week because it would have involved a vote of the Senate on this very protection of overtime measure. The truth is, as that evidences, the sponsors of the so-called JOBS Act do not want votes on that and other amendments because, in fact, the secret is that bill is not about jobs at all.

Only in Washington would something named the JOBS Act have nothing to do with creating jobs, and I mean absolutely nothing. The people who wrote that bill only want the American people to think this is a JOBS Act. They want the 8 million Americans who do not have jobs right now to think this is a JOBS Act so they will think: Oh, what a Congress. Our country needs jobs, so Congress passes a JOBS Act.

Well, as Abraham Lincoln said, you can fool all of the people some of the time, and what better time to try than right around election time.

The truth is, this bill is a tax cut for already profitable businesses, and the largest tax reductions take place, once again, in those years 2009 to 2012. So, obviously, it has nothing to do with providing jobs now.

That is the bill's best part. Other parts increase the tax avoidance schemes for foreign business operations. There are $36 billion in tax breaks for profits made producing goods and providing services in other countries, employing foreigners not Americans. Now that sure makes sense. We are losing American jobs in record numbers to foreign operations so the Senate is going to give more tax advantages to those foreign operations so they can take away more American jobs? Is the JOBS Act intended to add American jobs or eliminate them?

I hope my colleagues will take a look at some of the foreign business favors in this bill before we vote on them. It increases the kind of commodities hedging that is exempt from U.S. taxation. It eliminates rules that are meant to restrict the deferral of foreign income by foreign investment companies and foreign personal holding companies from U.S. taxation. It eliminates withholding taxes on dividends paid by certain foreign corporations.

There are many more of those foreign favors in the bill. As I said, $36 billion worth of tax avoidance or tax elimination schemes which benefit wealthy Americans who invest in them, or American companies who own and operate them, which reward foreign business production and sales, not American production; increase jobs outside of our country and decrease jobs or job opportunities for American workers.

The JOBS Act, as it is presently written, is a fraud. It is not an American JOBS Act. It is not even an American business act. It is a special-favors-for-special-friends act.

In the 3 years I have been in the Senate, Congress has tried fooling the American people with some mighty foolish legislation, such as No Child Left Behind, pretending to improve the quality of education for all schoolchildren. Additional testing was to be accompanied by additional Federal funding, especially for those students most in need. Well, Minnesotans will not be fooled anymore, not now that we have learned just this last few weeks that title I funds in Minnesota will be cut by as much as 40 percent in school districts that have an increased number of eligible students.

The prescription drug bill that was passed last year pretended to offer comprehensive coverage and substantial financial assistance to seniors and others on Medicare. That prescription drug bill will not fool the seniors, not in Minnesota for sure, and I do not think in America, when in a few more months the prescription drug discount cards come out and when the shamefully inadequate coverage finally begins in January of 2006. But do not try to fool unemployed Americans that the JOBS Act is a jobs creation bill, and do not try to fool working Americans that it is a jobs protection bill. As President Lincoln said: You cannot fool all the people all the time.

Congress is badly out of touch with the American people. So let's return to reality. Let's return to the reality that Americans need more jobs. Let's pass a JOBS Act that really is a JOBS Act, where every provision is designed to reward American companies for adding American jobs now—not in the year 2009, not in 2012, but now.

I strongly urge the majority leader to bring back the JOBS Act for Senate action now. I urge my colleagues to remove every section that does not add jobs in America right now and replace them with ones that do. We need jobs in America for Americans now. Let us stop trying to fool people and let us help put them back to work.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Florida.

Mr. NELSON of Florida. Mr. President, I could not help but think, as my colleague from Minnesota was delivering a wonderful and inspiring set of remarks, that is it not interesting, I would say to the Senator from Minnesota, that the old labels of liberal and conservative do not mean anything anymore. The American people are catching on because what they want is performance. They do not want people just pegged into these neat little categories, these labels, because as the Senator has so eloquently stated, the old labels do not perform because it is not business as usual. Whether it be the White House or the Congress or the State legislatures or the Governors, those labels do not mean anything. In fact, those labels are being turned absolutely upside down in this particular year, for we find ourselves voting on things that some critics would want to claim are liberal, but is it liberal to want to lower the annual deficit so the national debt does not increase by half a trillion dollars a year? To the contrary, that is conservative fiscal policy.

As the Senator has said so eloquently, is it liberal or conservative to want to provide jobs for Americans? It is neither. It is good, common sense—performance for our people.

Is it liberal or conservative to want to stop the flight of jobs to other countries, that overworked word of "outsourcing"? I say to the Senator from Minnesota, there is going to be another twist on the question of outsourcing when they start outsourcing the jobs to the point at which they are handling personally identifiable medical and personally identifiable financial information of which our laws in this country protect its privacy, but in India or in China there are no laws that protect that privacy. When our people suddenly find that their very sensitive personal medical records are suddenly made available on the worldwide Web because there is no protection of privacy because those jobs have been outsourced to India or to China, they are going to have another think coming, as we would say in the South.

So the old labels don't mean anything anymore. Is it liberal to support the environment? I would say that is conservative. I would say when you become a good steward of what the good Lord has endowed us with, which is this beautiful planet suspended in the middle of nothing with a thin little film enveloping the planet called an atmosphere, and when you despoil that air, when you despoil the water, and when you rape the land, it is conservative to want to protect that environment, but that is not the label, liberal or conservative.

I am glad the Senator has given his speech about jobs. I am going to continue to give my speeches about what it is not to be liberal or conservative, not to be partisan, but to try to perform for the American people and perform for the States we are privileged to represent.

Mr. DAYTON. If the Senator will yield, I thank him for his encouraging words. I also point out he is, I believe, the only Senator, maybe the only Member of Congress, who has been an astronaut. The Senator's perspective on those resources and the need to conserve is certainly unsurpassed. I thank the Senator for his remarks.

Mr. NELSON of Florida. The Senator is very kind. I must admit I became more of an environmentalist when I went into space because I got to see the entire ecosystem at once. I got to see how beautiful it is, yet how fragile it is. From that perspective, when I looked at the rim of the Earth and saw that thin little film which is the atmosphere, I came home from that space flight absolutely committed that I wanted to do my part to be a better steward of what the good Lord has given us. He has given us this beautiful planet in the middle of nothing. Space is nothing. Space is an airless vacuum that goes on and on for billions and billions of light-years, and there in the midst of it is our home, our planet.

One of the reasons I want to go to Mars—of course I myself won't have that opportunity. That ought to be over the course of the next 30 years. I would like to think that at my age, at that time, I would still be physically fit to go to Mars, but that is for the next generation. But one of the reasons I am so intrigued about going to Mars is what the two Rovers up there right now have been discovering in the last few days, that in fact there was water there. If there were water, then there was likely life. If there were life, how developed was it? And if it were developed, was it civilized? And if it were civilized, what happened? What can we learn from what happened there so that we can become better stewards of our planet?

Is that liberal or conservative? It is neither. It is good common sense. In fact, it is. It is conservative, coming from the word "conserve," the environment. Yet all these groups that come out here and rate you on how you vote and say because you are voting for clean water and clean air, that is somehow a liberal vote?

That is my point. The old labels don't mean anything anymore. I think that is beginning to penetrate in the American public. What they want is performance by their elected officials, all the way from the White House to the courthouse.

IRAQ

Mr. NELSON of Florida. Mr. President, I came here to talk about the future of Iraq. I am just going to make a few comments because we are in Iraq. We better be successful there. The stability of that country, politically and economically, is extremely important to the interests of the United States. If it is destabilized, or if we cut and run, a vacuum is going to be created. That vacuum is going to be filled. It is going to be filled by terrorists, somewhat akin to what happened after the Soviets got whipped in 1989 in Afghanistan. They left and we left also. We were in there clandestinely. Of course, that created a vacuum and that vacuum was eventually filled by the Taliban. And then, of course, the Taliban provided protection for al-Qaida, the beginning of that network. We see the result, the painful, painful result, not only with the beginning of the 1993 attempted destruction of the World Trade Center but the completion of that plan to destroy it in 2001 and then the many other bombings that have occurred around the world.

So we better be successful. We have young men and women—we have old men and women over there, too—doing a fantastic job for us. Not just service men and women wearing the uniform of this country; these are men and women who are not wearing the uniform of this country but are in equally as important positions such as the CIA, the State Department, AID, all of the American companies that are over there in the reconstruction effort—the nongovernment groups that are over there trying to help out the Iraqi people.

As we approach this 1-year anniversary of the fall of Saddam Hussein, it is appropriate to consider what lies ahead for the Iraqi people and what lies ahead for the American people who made some progress now in the reconstruction of Iraq. There is now an Iraqi transitional administrative law which outlines the basic principles upon which a free and Democratic Iraq will be governed. But trying to get democracy across to a community, to a society that has lived under repression for so long—

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The time of the Senator has expired in morning business.

Mr. NELSON of Florida. I ask unanimous consent I have an additional 7 minutes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. NELSON of Florida. The responsiveness we have had thus far, I must say, is nothing short of remarkable. But there are still many concerns that I have about the reconstruction of that country.

The first is that we have an administrative law that hands control over to the Iraqis, but it hasn't been spelled out. It seems as though the decisions and the actions in Iraq are being driven by an artificial deadline—June 30.

Why June 30? Are we ready to hand over to these institutions that have no experience in democracy in another 3 months? I don't think so. An expeditious transfer of power to Iraqis certainly may be desirable, but we shouldn't put the cart before the horse and give sovereignty to a governing body that may be less than fully able to handle the political, military, economic, religious, and ethnic strife that may arise from such a premature handover. That would put American lives further at risk and would jeopardize the entirety of our reconstruction efforts today.

I am also concerned about the nature of the United States presence in Iraq after the turnover. Will a government, a new Iraqi government within this short period of time 3 months from now, have sufficient legitimacy among the Shiite, Sunni, and Kurds—all of them—to maintain the presence of our troops who are so desperately needed to maintain the security and stability of that country?

The disagreements over the presence of the troops, not even to think of the disagreements over the number of our troops and other political issues involving a successor government which could give rise to civil, religious and/or ethnic strife—guess who would be right in the middle. It would be our U.S. troops.

The transitional administrative law does not include an agreement for the stationing of U.S. forces. That gives rise to the prospect of U.S. forces fighting well-armed militia groups in addition to the security threats they face every day. What are they facing every day? Improvised devices that are designed to lure our troops to them and then kill or maim our U.S. service men and women.

In addition, the Coalition Provisional Authority now has been working hard to stand up an indigenous Iraq security and defense force.

I went to one of those police training academies outside of Amman, Jordan. It was impressive. But within an 8- or 16-week course, they were only going to be able to train about 1,500 policemen.

I am concerned about whether this force is going to be adequately staffed, resourced, and ready for the tremendous task of law and order in Iraq after the turnover on June 30.

Moreover, if these indigenous security efforts fall short and significant disagreements lead to an unraveling of a unified and sovereign Iraq, guess who is going to be on the ground as Iraq dissolves into many religious and ethnic community conflicts. You got it. The United States service men and women are going to be in the middle of it.

The political dissolution of Iraq is something the United States must take every precaution to avoid. That is another reason not to let the artificial deadlines drive the Iraqi reconstruction.

I am concerned also about the role of religion in the future of Iraq. The transitional administrative law stipulates Islam will be considered a source of legislation. I don't have any problem with Islam. That is their faith. But it seems this provision has satisfied neither those who wish for a secular government nor those who wish for an Islamic state.

The United States must more clearly and urgently demand freedom for all religions and protect against the persecution of any particular religion. We cannot allow religious extremism to permeate Iraqi society in spirit and practice, deed, or law.

I am concerned about the economy of Iraq.

Think about it. We appropriated $18 billion for the reconstruction effort that is starting to enter Iraqi society. For the next 6 to 8 months, $18 billion will be infused to building roads and bridges and restoring wetlands, water systems, and electrical systems. This is going to be a country flush with U.S. dollars.

My worry is the Iraqi economy is going to become heavily dependent on U.S. dollars. This puts an enormous burden on the U.S. taxpayer. What happens after this appropriation dries up?

I urge the administration not only to call on the international community, as we did during the Afghan war and following the fall of the Taliban in Afghanistan, but that we call on other countries and make them follow through on their pledges for financial assistance.

Finally, I am concerned about the distinctly American nature of reconstruction efforts. The President promised Congress he would work closely to build international support for our efforts to disarm Saddam Hussein. While we are grateful for the few nations providing personnel, Operation Iraqi Freedom is predominantly an American program. Some may argue that it may not matter whether other nations participate or how other nations view our efforts in Iraq and the global war on terrorism. But this Senator, and I think a lot of Senators, would beg to differ. This is an important part. This is a very important part of keeping more allies involved. It would so much improve our chances of obtaining critical assistance from other Arab countries, especially the Arab countries in that region, as well as other nations of the world that now are reluctant to participate.

I wanted to get these thoughts off my chest about this looming deadline of June 30. I wanted to, as we say in some corners, look over the horizon at what may be coming and how America needs to prepare for what may be coming in that strife-torn country of Iraq.

I yield the floor.

THE 100TH ANNIVERSARY OF JACK DANIEL'S

Mr. FRIST. Mr. President, 2004 marks the 100th anniversary of the 1904 St. Louis World's Fair—the fair that has come to be recognized as ushering in what today is known as “The American Century.” At that fair an unknown gentleman from Lynchburg, TN, rose to world acclaim. That man was Jack Daniel. At the 1904 World's Fair his Old Number 7 Brand Tennessee Whiskey won the Gold Medal as “the world's best whiskey”.

Today, Jack Daniel's Tennessee Whiskey can be found in over 135 countries. In fact, no other Tennessee product is exported to more countries. Further, this year it will become the world's No. 1 selling whiskey, displacing products made by our friends in Scotland for the first time in history.

The Tennessee General Assembly recently passed a resolution commemorating Jack Daniel's 1904 Gold Medal. Senator LAMAR ALEXANDER and I would like to share the resolution with our colleagues by including it in today's CONGRESSIONAL RECORD.

I ask unanimous consent that the text of the resolution be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

Whereas, it is fitting that the members of the General Assembly should honor those Tennessee companies bringing Tennessee's heritage to people around the world; and

Whereas, Jack Daniel's is one such Tennessee company which has proudly and responsibly brought Tennessee's heritage to millions of adult consumers; and

Whereas, since 1863, in the spirit of President George Washington, the father of the American Distilling Industry, the Jack Daniel Distillery has produced the world's most popular Tennessee Whiskey; and

Whereas, 2004 is the 100th Anniversary of Jack Daniel's Old Number 7 Brand Tennessee Whiskey's receipt of the Gold Medal at the 1904 St. Louis World's Fair; and

Whereas, Jack Daniel's Tennessee Whiskey is enjoyed by adult consumers in over 135 countries—more countries than any other Tennessee export; and

Whereas, Jack Daniel's Tennessee Whiskey is the United States' number one exported distilled spirit; and

Whereas, to commemorate its popularity and its Tennessee heritage, Jack Daniel's will be honored in Washington, D.C. on April 1, 2004; and

Whereas, this General Assembly finds it appropriate to pause in its deliberations to acknowledge and applaud the staff of the Jack Daniel Distillery upon their great success; Now, therefore, be it further

Resolved by House of Representatives of the 103rd General Assembly of the State of Tennessee, the Senate concurring, that we congratulate the staff of the Jack Daniel Distillery upon the celebration of its 100th Anniversary of winning the 1904 Saint Louis World's Fair Gold Medal, and saluting their excellent service to this great state, extend to them our wishes for every future success.

Mr. FRIST. Senator ALEXANDER and I join in congratulating the people of Jack Daniel Distillery on this 100th anniversary and look forward to their continued success at bringing a part of Tennessee's heritage to consumers around the world.

On April 1, 2004, in celebration of the 100th anniversary of the 1904 World's Fair Gold Medal, the Tennessee State Society and the Jack Daniel Distillery will hold a celebration of Jack Daniel's Tennessee heritage here in Washington. It will be a very special occasion, so we encourage our colleagues to join us at the celebration.

HAITI

Mr. FEINGOLD. Mr. President, the Haitian people find themselves embroiled in yet another political crisis. Following Jean Bertrand Aristide's departure on February 29, 2004, the Haitian people once again are forced to pick up the pieces of their broken political system. Again, they must renew their search for democracy, a search that has lasted for two hundred years with little progress. Thirty coups after Haiti established its independence in 1804, Haitians continue to live in severe poverty, battling HIV/AIDS, malnutrition, poor sanitation, and a political culture of thuggery and violence.

The United States has played an important role in Haiti's history. From U.S. military intervention in 1915 and the 19-year occupation that followed to the restoration of President Aristide in 1994 by U.S. forces, politics in Haiti have been deeply influenced by its larger and more powerful neighbor. Now, the United States has an obligation to assist in rebuilding Haiti in collaboration with our international partners. However, our assistance must be shaped and implemented with an eye to our previous mistakes. For too long, our approach has been ad-hoc and short-term, and the Haitian people have suffered. It is no wonder that some are suspicious of democracy and the role of the United States today.

This is not to say that the United States must take most of the blame for the political turmoil in Haiti. Haiti's leaders, and especially President Aristide, must also acknowledge their responsibility in Haiti's current political crisis. However, our flawed nation-building attempt in the 1990s, allegations of international support for Haiti's rebels, and the departure of President Aristide suggest a need for introspection by U.S. policymakers, humanitarian and development organizations and others.

Policymakers knew that Haiti's democracy was in trouble for years. Why did the administration fail to take meaningful action until Haiti was on the verge of collapse? As the rebels gained control of Haitian territory from early to mid-February, the U.S. administration largely channeled its diplomatic efforts through the Organization of American States and the Caribbean Community, CARICOM. On February 21st, the United States backed a CARICOM proposal, which called for a power-sharing compromise between Aristide and the opposition. However, as soon as Haiti's political opposition rejected the proposal, rather than defending Haiti's democratic process and institutions, the administration quickly backed down. With rebel forces moving toward the capital of Port-au-Prince on February 28, 2004, the administration increased pressure on Aristide to resign, stating that "His failure to adhere to democratic principles has contributed to the deep polarization and violent unrest that we are witnessing in Haiti today." Aristide resigned the next day and flew into exile on a U.S. aircraft.

President Aristide was no paragon of democratic virtue. He encouraged his supporters in their violent campaign against the opposition, and his regime was a corrupt one. But a world in which legitimately elected officials, found wanting, can be run out of office by gangs of armed thugs is a world in which the thugs, in fact, are in charge. The people of Haiti, like people all over the world, deserve better. U.S. complicity in President Aristide's ouster sent the wrong message to violent rebel leaders, who have committed their own atrocities in Haiti's past. A transition guided by the rule of law, rather than the threat of violence, would surely have been preferable.

In the past weeks, a number of my constituents have raised important questions. What ties exist between rebel leaders and the government of the United States? Did the U.S. government impede efforts by the international community, particularly the Caribbean Community, CARICOM, to prevent President Aristide's resignation? I believe that the American and Haitian people deserve the answers, and a full accounting of the events surrounding Aristide's departure.

Equally important, we must help Haiti move forward and break out of this pattern of instability and underdevelopment. We should continue to assist in establishing security and disarming all parties to the conflict, and I commend the American troops who answered the call to service and are now on the ground in Haiti. However, I believe that the administration's decision to commit troops will require a full vetting by Congress. As long as American troops are in harm's way in Haiti, the Congress has a direct role and responsibility to either ratify or repudiate the use of U.S. military troops.

We must also ensure the timely delivery of humanitarian assistance to communities in need. Haitian Supreme Court Chief Justice Boniface Alexandre should have the full support of the United States in working to make Haiti's constitution the guide for the transition and succession process from this point on. And in the longer term, the United States should work with the rest of the international community to help bolster the institutions that are essential to consolidating Haiti's democracy and stability, and assist the Haitian people in holding people accountable for their flagrant violations of human rights.

The United States cannot ignore Haiti. Not only do we have a moral obligation to help the Haitian people, who are starving in our own backyard, but there are other national security interests at stake for the United States. A country in crisis so close to our borders creates a political vacuum in the region, where international crime and terrorism can flourish. As we saw in Afghanistan, a country in chaos allows for the emergence of dangerous forces, that directly threaten our security. In addition, the refugee flow created by instability and oppression will wash up on our shores, causing hardship for the Haitian people and overwhelming U.S. communities.

I urge Congress to look closely at recent events in Haiti, to ensure that lingering questions are answered forthrightly, and to lend the support that Haiti desperately needs as it moves forward in establishing peace and security.

LOCAL LAW ENFORCEMENT ACT OF 2001

Mr. SMITH. Mr. President, I rise today to speak about the need for hate crimes legislation. On May 1, 2003, Senator KENNEDY and I introduced the Local Law Enforcement Enhancement Act, a bill that would add new categories to current hate crimes law, sending a signal that violence of any kind is unacceptable in our society.

On March 1, 2004 Christopher James Barnhart and John Matthew Aravanis left a Morgantown, WV, bar around 3:30 a.m. when they heard, "Get out of the way, faggots." A fist subsequently landed on Barnhart's head and he was knocked to the ground. Barnhart, who sustained two facial fractures in the scuffle, said the men also struck Aravanis in the head as he came to Barnhart's aid. The men left the scene, but returned and kicked and punched them and continued to call them "faggots." City police have obtained arrest warrants for the three men charged with beating Barnhart, Aravanis, and their friend who was with them during the incident.

I believe that Government's first duty is to defend its citizens, to defend them against the harms that come out of hate. The Local Law Enforcement Enhancement Act is a symbol that can become substance. I believe that by passing this legislation and changing current law, we can change hearts and minds as well.

HONORING THE ARMY FISHER HOUSES

Mr. AKAKA. Mr. President, Zachary and Elizabeth M. Fisher established the Fisher House Foundation, Inc., a unique public-private partnership that supports America's military in their time of need. The program recognizes the special sacrifices of our men and women in uniform and the hardships of military service by meeting a humanitarian need beyond that provided by the Department of Defense. The Fisher Houses enable family members to be close to loved ones at the most stressful time—during hospitalization for an unexpected illness, disease, or injury.

The homes are built by the Fisher House Foundation, Inc., and given to the military services and the Veterans Administration. The Army is the recipient of 14 of the 32 Fisher Houses located at every major military medical center and at several VA medical centers. The homes are located within walking distance of the medical facility.

I recently had the pleasure of visiting with Fisher family members, friends, and staff of the Fisher House on board the USS Missouri to celebrate the opening of the second Fisher House at Tripler Army Medical Center, the largest military medical treatment facility in the Pacific located in Honolulu, HI. The first Tripler Fisher House opened in June 1994. Due to its location, families stay an average of 55 days, compared to an average of 15 days in other locations. Tripler Fisher Houses service families and patients not only from Hawaii but also the Pacific area of Korea, Guam, Japan, and Okinawa.

The Fisher Houses provide temporary lodging in a warm, compassionate, and caring home away from home environment to members of our armed services, veterans, and their families during a medical crisis. They enable families to stay together, cook meals, do laundry, relax, unwind, and provide emotional support to each other during a time of need, and to escape from the tensions of the hospital environment.

Today, when we ask so much of our military in support of freedom, it is important to recognize the generosity of foundations such as The Fisher House, that give back to those who have given so much in defending this great Nation.

TRIBUTE TO DANIELLE MILLER

• Mr. BUNNING. Mr. President, today I wish to pay tribute to Danielle Miller, of Louisville, KY. Recently, Ms. Miller has been named a State honoree for Prudential Spirit of Community Award program for Kentucky based on her outstanding volunteer services.

Prudential Spirit of Community Awards program names only one high school student and one middle-level student in each State and the District of Columbia. As a junior at Louisville's Sacred Heart Academy, Ms. Miller was selected from more than 20,000 students for this honor. Ms. Miller received this honor because she founded a service organization called the "National Awareness Committee" to provide clothing, books, and other needed items to members of the Lakota Sioux Nation living on reservations in South Dakota.

The citizens of Louisville, KY are fortunate to have Ms. Miller living and learning in their community. Her example of hard work and determination should be followed by all in the Commonwealth of Kentucky.

I congratulate Ms. Miller for her success. But also, I congratulate all her peers, coaches, teachers, administrators, and her parents for their support and sacrifices they've made to help Ms. Miller reach this goal and fulfill her dreams.●

HONORING THE LIFE OF SENATOR CHARLES MEEKS

• Mr. BAYH. Mr. President, I rise today to honor the life of my fellow

Hoosier, State Senator Charles "Bud" Meeks, who passed away on March 22. Senator Meeks dedicated his life to serving his country and our home State of Indiana, setting an example of personal conviction and political vigor throughout his 6 years as State senator.

Bud Meeks grew up in Fort Wayne, IN. He graduated from Central High School in 1954 and enlisted in the U.S. Navy. After serving 4 years in the Navy, Senator Meeks returned home to Fort Wayne where he began his career in public service as a deputy at the Allen County jail. Meeks retired from the Sheriff's Department after 28 years of dedicated service, including two terms as Allen County Sheriff. He then moved to Washington, DC, where he was the executive director of the National Sheriff's Association for 8 years. Upon his final return to Indiana, Meeks ran a successful campaign, demonstrating a work ethic on the campaign trail that is remembered by Hoosiers still today. In 1998, Senator Meeks was elected to the Indiana State Senate to represent Indiana's 14th Senate District.

While serving as Senator, Meeks most recently played a crucial role in championing the current proposal to consolidate Allen County government. But among his colleagues, Meeks was known above all else for his love of children. While in the Senate, Meeks would frequently devote a significant amount of time to young students, answering questions and discussing government. His focus on Indiana's youth is a testament to Meeks' kindness of heart and clear understanding of the importance of prioritizing the children who will one day be running our great Nation.

In everything he did, Senator Meeks brought with him an inspiring energy and passion, setting a positive example for his friends, colleagues, and constituents to follow. He was always ready to work diligently for the causes he cared for so deeply, and it was his steadfast belief in community involvement that earned him the unwavering admiration of Hoosiers across Indiana.

Meeks was a committed father and public servant. The sense of loss to all those who knew Senator Meeks is tremendous. He is survived by his wife, Marjorie; son, Brian, brothers Bob and Fred; and three grandchildren. He was preceded in death by his daughter, Brenda Sue and another son, David.

It is my honor to enter the name of Senator Charles "Bud" Meeks into the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD.●

TRIBUTE TO WHITTON MONTGOMERY

• Mr. BUNNING. Mr. President, today I wish to pay tribute to Whitton Montgomery, of Louisville, KY. Recently, Ms. Montgomery has been named a State honoree for Prudential Spirit of Community Award program for Kentucky based on her outstanding volunteer services.

Prudential Spirit of Community Awards program names only one high school student and one middle-level student in each State and the District of Columbia. As an eight grader at Louisville Collegiate School, Ms. Montgomery was selected from more than 20,000 students for this honor. Ms. Montgomery received this honor because she founded "Kids Acting Against Cancer," a performing arts group that has raised more than $40,000 for research and children with cancer.

The citizens of Louisville, KY are fortunate to have Ms. Montgomery living and learning in their community. Her example of hard work and determination should be followed by all in the Commonwealth of Kentucky.

I congratulate Ms. Montgomery for her success. But also, I congratulate all her peers, coaches, teachers, administrators, and her parents for their support and sacrifices they have made to help Ms. Montgomery reach this goal and fulfill her dreams.●

AMENDMENT NO. 2893

At the request of Mr. REID, the names of the Senator from North Dakota (Mr. DORGAN), the Senator from Minnesota (Mr. COLEMAN), the Senator from New Mexico (Mr. BINGAMAN), the Senator from Washington (Ms. CANTWELL) and the Senator from Hawaii (Mr. AKAKA) were added as cosponsors of amendment No. 2893 intended to be proposed to S. 1637, a bill to amend the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 to comply with the World Trade Organization rulings on the FSC/ETI benefit in a manner that preserves jobs and production activities in the United States, to reform and simplify the international taxation rules of the United States, and for other purposes.

STATEMENTS ON INTRODUCED BILLS AND JOINT RESOLUTIONS

By Ms. COLLINS (for herself and Mr. LIEBERMAN):

S. 2249. A bill to amend the Stewart B. McKinney Homeless Assistance Act to provide for emergency food and shelter; to the Committee on Governmental Affairs.

Ms. COLLINS. Mr. President, I rise today to introduce legislation to reauthorize the Department of Homeland Security's Emergency Food and Shelter Program. This vital program enables communities nationwide to provide services to help individuals who are at risk of becoming homeless or going hungry due to an emergency or economic disaster. As a 1999 General Accounting Office report concluded, "in most areas of the United States, the Emergency Food and Shelter Program is the only source of funding for the prevention of homelessness."

I am pleased to have the support of Senator LIEBERMAN, the ranking member of the Governmental Affairs Committee, which oversees this important program as well as the Department of Homeland Security generally. I commend Senator LIEBERMAN for his work on this important issue, including his efforts in the 107th Congress to pass legislation very similar to the bill that we are introducing together today.

Since its creation 21 years ago, the Emergency Food and Shelter Program has provided a helping hand to local social service organizations that assist thousands of people in need of food and shelter. This program is effective because of the way it is structured. A national board, chaired by the Federal Emergency Management Agency, governs the program. The board itself is composed of representatives from organizations who work every day to look out for those who are less fortunate—representatives of the American Red Cross, Catholic Charities, United Jewish Communities, the National Council of the Churches, the Salvation Army, and the United Way.

This program is a model for an effective public-private partnership. The volunteer participation by these charitable organizations has kept administrative costs to less than 3 percent of the total program, making even more funds directly available for communities.

Funds are distributed by the national board to local boards according to a formula that takes into account unemployment and poverty statistics in each community. Once local boards in counties and municipalities across America receive the funding, they decide how to best address the needs of their residents. These local boards are key to this process. That is because they are composed of individuals and organizations who live and work in the communities they serve. Therefore, they can best decide how to meet the needs of those who are at risk of becoming homeless.

In recent years, communities in Maine have put the funding to good use. Communities in Cumberland and Franklin Counties, for example, have used most of these funds to supplement the efforts of local soup kitchens, Meals-on Wheels programs, and food pantries. The Wayside Soup Kitchen in Portland, ME, uses this funding to enhance their efforts to provide three separate food assistance programs to those in need.

Demonstrating the flexibility of this program, communities in northern Maine's Aroostook County used more than 30 percent of their 2003 funding to address emergency shelter and housing needs. This diversity in how communities spent these funds highlights the importance of letting local organizations decide how best to spend these resources, tailored to local needs.

The Emergency Food and Shelter Program helps individuals maintain their dignity during difficult times. It also prevents dependency by providing emergency services to individuals and families on a limited basis so they can remain self-sufficient.

Although Congress has continued to provide funding, the program's authorization expired in 1994. My bill, the Emergency Food and Shelter Act of 2004, seeks to again authorize this program and provide modest increases to reflect an increasing need.

I urge my colleagues to join me in cosponsoring this legislation to help families across America who are at risk of losing their homes or going hungry because of circumstances beyond their control.

By Mr. KENNEDY (for himself, Ms. SNOWE, Mr. LEAHY, Mr. GREGG, Mr. JEFFORDS, Ms. MURKOWSKI, Mr. SARBANES, Ms. COLLINS, Mrs. MURRAY, Mr. STEVENS, Mr. EDWARDS, Mr. MCCAIN, Mr. DASCHLE, Mr. SUNUNU, and Mr. ENZI):

S. 2252. A bill to increase the number of aliens who may receive certain non-immigrant status during fiscal year 2004 and to require submissions of information by the Secretary of Homeland Security; to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. KENNEDY. It is a privilege to join my colleagues in introducing the Save Summer Act of 2004 to provide an immediate stop-gap solution to the H-2B visa cap problem in our immigration laws. Our colleagues, Representatives DELAHUNT and YOUNG, are introducing an identical bill in the House.

The H-2B program was established by Congress in 1990 to deal with labor shortages in non-agricultural seasonal employment. H-2B workers are employed by hotels, restaurants, resorts, the fishing and timber industries, amusement parks, and other sectors.

U.S. employers seeking to bring in foreign nationals on these visas must demonstrate that they have been unable to find enough U.S. workers to fill the jobs. Before visa applications are approved by the Department of Labor, the U.S. employers must certify that the temporary workers will not displace U.S. workers or adversely affect their wages or working conditions.

The annual statutory cap for H-2B visas is 66,000. Two weeks ago, the Department of Homeland Security suddenly announced that the cap for the current fiscal year had been reached and began rejecting new applications for the visas. The abrupt announcement left many summer employers stranded. This is the first time the Government has announced that the cap has been reached, and the Department of Homeland Security gave no one advance warning.

The H-2B program is vital for seasonal industries that need temporary workers. The lack of H-2B workers may well be devastating to these employers, many of which are small, family-run businesses. Without prompt passage of this bill, many summer employers in Massachusetts and around the country will have no choice but to shut their doors.

The Save the Summer Act offers a straightforward solution to this pressing problem. It will increase the H-2B visa cap by 40,000 for the current fiscal year. It requires the Department of Homeland Security to provide quarterly reports to Congress on the number of H-2B visas issued, and an annual report with a detailed analysis of the program.

Our immigration system is broken and many other reforms are obviously needed. Above all, it is essential to have immigration policies that reflect current economic realities, respect family unity and fundamental fairness, and uphold our proud tradition as a Nation of immigrants.

Enacting these other reforms will take time—time we don't have if we want to save the summer for countless seasonal employers around the country. This legislation will provide immediate and much-needed relief to employers counting on H-2B workers to keep their doors open this summer, and I urge my colleagues to pass it as soon as possible.

By Mrs. FEINSTEIN (for herself,
Mr. DOMENICI, Mrs. BOXER, and
Mr. DAYTON):

S. 2253. A bill to permit young adults to perform projects to prevent fire and suppress fires, and provide disaster relief, on public land through a Healthy Forest Youth Conservation Corps; to the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources.

Mrs. FEINSTEIN. Mr. President, I rise today to introduce a bill with Senators DOMENICI, BOXER, and DAYTON to allow youth service and conservation corps to partner with public land management agencies to restore and protect public lands threatened by severe fire. I have dubbed this public-private partnership the Healthy Forests Youth Conservation Corps.

Last year, I authored a similar provision that was included in the Senate version of the Healthy Forest legislation. Unfortunately, this provision was stripped out of the bill before it was signed into law.

First, this bill aims to help Federal, State, and local governments implement priority projects using the cost-saving resources of youth corps.

It is estimated that youth corps generate $1.60 in immediate benefits for every dollar in costs. This figure is important given the great need and cost associated with fighting fires.

Every year, land management agencies are charged with conserving, protecting, and maintaining millions of acres of public land. This is a daunting task that requires an incredible amount of human and material resources.

For instance, the Federal Government, alone, is responsible for overseeing 689 million acres of this land. Last year, five Federal agencies reported spending $1.6 billion in 2002 on fire fighting suppression efforts—a whopping $300 million more than the previous record. To fight those fires, 28,000 fire and support personnel were activated—the maximum civilian resources available in the Forest Service on top of the 600 Army troops, and 950 foreign firefighters who joined in the effort.

As an example of what can happen in one State, consider last year's catastrophic wildfires in southern California. Before they were contained, the deadly fires of last fall scorched a total of 738,158 acres, killed 23 people, and destroyed approximately 3,626 homes and thousands of other structures—amounting to the most costly and devastating fire ever to hit California. The insurance payouts alone will cost more than $3 billion, with public expenditures to fight the fires and recover from them running into the hundreds of millions of dollars.

And those statistics make no mention of the resources expended to fight fires in other States.

I want to prevent this type of catastrophe in the future. That is why I was an ardent supporter of the Healthy Forest Restoration Act that was signed into law last year.

I also believe that we must use every resource at our disposal to meet this challenge. In my opinion, youth service and conversation corps can play a significant role in reducing the physical and financial strain that public land management agencies bear and help protect our Nation's public lands from wildfires.

Secondly, this bill allows young people, particularly those youth who are people of color, low income, or are at high risk of dropping out of school, to integrate themselves into their communities and to learn skills that could lead to jobs or a greater interest in higher education in the future.

I have seen firsthand the benefits that youth corps bring to their communities and the difference that the work can make in the lives of at-risk youth.

In 1983, I founded the first urban youth corps as mayor of San Francisco, and during that time I saw a great improvement in the quality of life of the corps members and of the city itself.

When we first began the program, we ran it on a million-dollar budget employing 36 disadvantaged young people ranging in age between 18 and 23 years old who needed some direction, wanted a challenge, and wanted to make themselves socially useful.

That first year, we paid corps members $3.35 an hour to repair bathrooms in affordable housing for senior citizens and ex-offenders, build a park in Hunter's Point, clear scotch broom from the Twin Peaks hillside, and fix up Alcatraz Island. And in the 21 years since the program began, it has grown into a multisite, multifaceted agency that engages more than 500 young adults annually who have completed over 3.5 million hours of community service.

It has given thousands of corps members a sense of personal pride, helped to connect them with their community and see for themselves that hard work pays off.

I started the San Francisco Conservation Corps to help young people break out of the cycle of poverty and crime and improve their job skills by giving them guidance and support through labor-intensive activities.

For this same reason, I am introducing this bill with the hope that the success of the San Francisco Conservation Corps can be duplicated nationwide.

Specifically, this bill does the following: It authorizes the Agriculture and Interior Secretaries to enter into contracts or cooperative agreements with existing State, local, and non-profit youth conservation corps to carry out land management initiatives on public lands.

It directs the Secretaries to give priority for projects that will reduce hazardous fuels on public land, restore land located in near municipal watersheds and municipal waters supplies, rehabilitate land affected or altered by fire, assess lands afflicted or imminently threatened by disease or insect infestation, work to address windthrown land or at high risk of reburn, provide emergency assistance and disaster relief to communities.

It allows the Secretaries to grant, at their discretion, noncompetitive hiring status for corps alumni for future Federal hiring.

It authorizes $25 million for the alliance for fiscal year 2005–fiscal year 2009.

I know this program will not take all of the burden off public land management agencies as they work to protect and restore public lands, and I know this program will not reach every disadvantaged young person in need of guidance and support. But it is a start and I urge my colleagues to join me in my efforts.

By Mr. DASCHLE (for Mr. DODD (for himself and Mr. CHAFEE):

S. 2254. A bill to encourage and ensure the use of safe equestrian helmets, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation.

Mr. DODD. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the following legislation be introduced and printed in the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD.

There being no objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

S. 2254

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the "Christen O'Donnell Equestrian Helmet Safety Act of 2004".

SEC. 2. GRANTS REGARDING USE OF SAFE EQUESTRIAN HELMETS.

(a) AUTHORITY TO AWARD GRANTS.—The Secretary of Commerce may award grants to States, political subdivisions of States, Indian tribes, tribal organizations, public organizations, and private nonprofit organizations for activities that encourage individuals to wear approved equestrian helmets.

(b) APPLICATION.—A State, political subdivisions of States, Indian tribes, tribal organizations, public organizations, and private nonprofit organizations seeking a grant under this section shall submit to the Secretary an application for the grant, in such form and containing such information as the Secretary may require.

(c) REVIEW BEFORE AWARD.—

(1) REVIEW.—The Secretary shall review each application for a grant under this section in order to ensure that the applicant for the grant will use the grant for the purposes described in section 3.

(2) SCOPE OF PROGRAMS.—In reviewing applications for grants, the Secretary shall permit applicants wide discretion in designing programs that effectively promote increased use of approved equestrian helmets.

SEC. 3. PURPOSES OF GRANTS.

A grant under section 2 may be used by a grantee to—

(1) encourage individuals to wear approved equestrian helmets;

(2) provide assistance to individuals who may not be able to afford approved equestrian helmets to enable such individuals to acquire such helmets;

(3) educate individuals and their families on the importance of wearing approved equestrian helmets in a proper manner in order to improve equestrian safety; or

(4) carry out any combination of activities described in paragraphs (1), (2), and (3).

SEC. 4. REPORT TO CONGRESS.

(a) REQUIREMENT.—Not later than 1 year after the date of enactment of this Act, the Secretary of Commerce shall submit to the appropriate committees of Congress a report on the effectiveness of grants awarded under section 2.

(b) CONTENTS OF REPORT.—The report shall include a list of grant recipients, a summary of the types of programs implemented by the grant recipients, and any recommendations that the Secretary considers appropriate regarding modification or extension of the authority under section 2.

(c) APPROPRIATE COMMITTEES OF CONGRESS DEFINED.—In this section, the term "appropriate committees of Congress" means—

(1) the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation, and the Committee on Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions of the Senate; and

(2) the Committee on Energy and Commerce of the House of Representatives.

SEC. 5. STANDARDS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Every equestrian helmet manufactured on or after the date that is 9 months after the date of enactment of this Act shall meet—

(1) the interim standard specified in subsection (b), pending the establishment of a final standard pursuant to subsection (c); and

(2) the final standard, once that standard has been established under subsection (c).

(b) INTERIM STANDARD.—The interim standard for equestrian helmets is the American Society for Testing and Materials (ASTM) standard designated as F 1163.

(c) FINAL STANDARD.—

(1) REQUIREMENT.—Not later than 60 days after the date of enactment of this Act, the Consumer Product Safety Commission shall begin a proceeding under section 553 of title 5, United States Code, to—

(A) establish a final standard for equestrian helmets that incorporates all the requirements of the interim standard specified in subsection (b);

(B) provide in the final standard a mandate that all approved equestrian helmets be certified to the requirements promulgated under the final standard by an organization that is accredited to certify personal protection equipment in accordance with ISO Guide 65; and

(C) include in the final standard any additional provisions that the Commission considers appropriate.

(2) INAPPLICABILITY OF CERTAIN LAWS.—Sections 7, 9, and 30(d) of the Consumer Product Safety Act (15 U.S.C. 2056, 2058, and 2079(d)) shall not apply to the proceeding under this subsection, and section 11 of such Act (15 U.S.C. 2060) shall not apply with respect to any standard issued under such proceeding.

(3) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The final standard shall take effect not later than 1 year after the date it is issued.

(d) FAILURE TO MEET STANDARDS.—

(1) FAILURE TO MEET INTERIM STANDARD.—Until the final standard takes effect, an equestrian helmet that does not meet the interim standard, required under subsection (a)(1), shall be considered in violation of a consumer product safety standard promulgated under the Consumer Product Safety Act.

(2) STATUS OF FINAL STANDARD.—The final standard developed under subsection (c) shall be considered a consumer product safety standard promulgated under the Consumer Product Safety Act.

SEC. 6. AUTHORIZATIONS OF APPROPRIATIONS.

(a) DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE.—There is authorized to be appropriated to the Department of Commerce to carry out section 2, $100,000 for each of fiscal years 2005, 2006, and 2007.

(b) CONSUMER PRODUCT SAFETY COMMISSION.—There is authorized to be appropriated to the Consumer Product Safety Commission to carry out activities under section 5, $500,000 for fiscal year 2005, which amount shall remain available until expended.

SEC. 7. DEFINITIONS.

In this Act:

(1) APPROVED EQUESTRIAN HELMET.—The term "approved equestrian helmet" means an equestrian helmet that meets—

(A) the interim standard specified in section 5(b), pending establishment of a final standard under section 5(c); and

(B) the final standard, once it is effective under section 5(c).

(2) EQUESTRIAN HELMET.—The term "equestrian helmet" means a hard shell head covering intended to be worn while participating in an equestrian event or activity.

SUBMITTED RESOLUTIONS

SENATE RESOLUTION 325—EXPRESSING THE SENSE OF THE SENATE REGARDING THE CREATION OF REFUGEE POPULATIONS IN THE MIDDLE EAST, NORTH AFRICA, AND THE PERSIAN GULF REGION AS A RESULT OF HUMAN RIGHTS VIOLATIONS

Mr. SANTORUM submitted the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations:

S. RES. 325

Whereas Jews and other ethnic groups have lived mostly as minorities in the Middle East, North Africa, and the Persian Gulf region for more than 2,500 years, more than 1,000 years before the advent of Islam;

Whereas the United States has long voiced its concern about the mistreatment of minorities and the violation of human rights in the Middle East and elsewhere;

Whereas the United States continues to play a pivotal role in seeking an end to conflict in the Middle East and to promoting a peace that will benefit all the people of the region;

Whereas a comprehensive peace in the region will require the resolution of all outstanding issues through bilateral and multilateral negotiations involving all concerned parties;

Whereas the discussion of refugees in the Middle East generally centers on Palestinian refugees, even though estimates indicate that, as a result of the 1948 war in which numerous Arab armies attacked the newly-founded State of Israel, more Jews (approximately 850,000) were displaced from Arab countries than were Palestinians (approximately 726,000);

Whereas the United States has demonstrated interest and concern about the mistreatment, violation of rights, forced expulsion, and expropriation of assets of minority populations in general, and in particular, former Jewish refugees displaced from Arab countries, as evidenced, inter alia, by the following actions:

(1) A Memorandum of Understanding signed by President Jimmy Carter and Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan on October 4, 1977, states that "[a] solution of the problem of Arab refugees and Jewish refugees will be discussed in accordance with rules which should be agreed".

(2) After negotiating the Camp David Accords, the Framework for Peace in the Middle East, President Jimmy Carter stated in a press conference on October 27, 1977 that "Palestinians have rights . . . obviously there are Jewish refugees . . . they have the same rights as others do".

(3) In an interview with Israeli television immediately after the issue of the rights of Jews displaced from Arab lands was discussed at Camp David II in July 2000, President Clinton stated clearly that "[t]here will have to be some sort of international fund set up for the refugees. There is, I think, some interest, interestingly enough, on both sides, in also having a fund which compensates the Israelis who were made refugees by the war, which occurred after the birth of the State of Israel. Israel is full of people, Jewish people, who lived in predominantly Arab countries who came to Israel because they were made refugees in their own land."

(4) In Senate Resolution 76, 85th Congress, agreed to January 29, 1957, the Senate—

(A) notes that individuals in Egypt who are tied by race, religion, or national origin with Israel, France, or the United Kingdom have been subjected to arrest, forced exile, confiscation of property, and other punishments although not charged with any crime; and

(B) requests the President to instruct the chief delegate to the United Nations to urge the prompt dispatch of a United Nations observer team to Egypt with a view to obtain a full factual report concerning this violation of rights.

(5) In House Concurrent Resolution 158, 85th Congress, Congress notes that the Government of Egypt had initiated a series of measures against the Jewish community, that many Jews were arrested as a result of such measures, that, beginning in November 1956, many Jews were expelled from Egypt, and that the Jews of Egypt faced sequestration of their goods and assets and denial or revocation of Egyptian citizenship, and resolves that the treatment of Jews in Egypt constituted "persecution on account of race, religious beliefs, or political opinions", further resolving that these issues should be raised by the United States either in the United Nations or by other appropriate means.

(6) Section 620 of H.R. 3100, 100th Congress, states that Congress finds that "with the notable exceptions of Morocco and Tunisia, those Jews remaining in Arab countries continue to suffer deprivations, degradations, and hardships, and continue to live in peril" and that Congress calls upon the governments of those Arab countries where Jews still maintain a presence to guarantee their Jewish citizens full civil and human rights, including the right to lead full Jewish lives free of fear and to emigrate if they so choose;

Whereas, the seminal United Nations resolution on the Arab-Israeli conflict and other international initiatives refer generally to the plight of "refugees" and do not make any distinction between Palestinian and Jewish refugees, including the following:

(1) United Nations Security Council Resolution 242 of November 22, 1967, calls for a "just settlement of the refugee problem" without distinction between Palestinian and Jewish refugees. Justice Arthur Goldberg, the United States delegate to the United Nations at that time, has pointed out that "a notable omission in 242 is any reference to Palestinians, a Palestinian state on the West Bank or the PLO. The resolution addresses the objective of 'achieving a just settlement of the refugee problem.' This language presumably refers both to Arab and Jewish refugees, for about an equal number of each abandoned their homes as a result of the several wars".

(2) The Madrid Conference, which was first convened in October 1991 and was co-chaired by United States President George H.W. Bush and President of the U.S.S.R. Mikhail Gorbachev, included delegations from Spain, the European Community, the Netherlands, Egypt, Syria, and Lebanon, as well as a joint Jordanian-Palestinian delegation. In his opening remarks before the January 28, 1992, organizational meeting for multilateral negotiations on the Middle East in Moscow, United States Secretary of State James Baker made no distinction between Palestinian refugees and Jewish refugees in articulating the mission of the Refugee Working Group, stating that "[t]he refugee group will consider practical ways of improving the lot of people throughout the region who have been displaced from their homes".

(3) The Roadmap to a Permanent Two-State Solution to the Israeli-Palestinian Conflict, in referring to an "agreed, just fair, and realistic solution to the refugee issue," uses language that is equally applicable to all persons displaced as a result of the conflict in the Middle East;

Whereas Egypt, Jordan, and the Palestinians have affirmed that a comprehensive solution to the Middle East conflict will require a just solution to the plight of all "refugees" as evidenced by the following:

(1) The 1978 Camp David Accords, the Framework for Peace in the Middle East, includes a commitment by Egypt and Israel to "work with each other and with other interested parties to establish agreed procedures for a prompt, just and permanent resolution of the implementation of the refugee problem." The Treaty of Peace between Israel and Egypt, signed at Washington, D.C. March 26, 1979, in addition to general references to United Nations Security Council Resolution 242 as the basis for comprehensive peace in the region, provides in Article 8 that the "Parties agree to establish a claims commission for the mutual settlement of all financial claims," including those of former Christian and Jewish refugees displaced from Egypt.

(2) Article 8 of the Treaty of Peace Between the State of Israel and the Hashemite Kingdom of Jordan, done at Arava/Araba Crossing Point October 26, 1994, entitled "Refugees and Displaced Persons" recognizes "the massive human problems caused to both Parties by the conflict in the Middle East." The reference to massive human problems in a broad manner suggests that the plight of all refugees of "the conflict in the Middle East" includes Jewish refugees from Arab countries;

Whereas the United States is encouraged by recent statements by Libyan leader Muammar Qadhafi that he is ready to compensate Libyan Jews whose properties were confiscated and that he is prepared to allow Libyans to travel to Israel;

Whereas the Law of Administration for the State of Iraq for the Transitional Period, signed at Baghdad March 8, 2004, is a landmark document that enshrines the "right to freedom of thought, conscience, and religious belief and practice" that had long been denied to Iraqis and states that "the Transitional Government shall take steps to end the vestiges of the oppressive acts arising from," among other things, "forced displacement, deprivation of citizenship, [and] expropriation of financial assets and property"; and

Whereas, while progress is being made, continued emphasis needs to be placed on the rights and redress for Jewish refugees: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved,

SECTION 1. SENSE OF THE SENATE ON HUMAN RIGHTS AND REFUGEES.

It is the sense of the Senate that—

(1) the United States deplores the past and continuing violation of the human rights and religious freedoms of minority populations in Arab countries;

(2) with respect to Jews and Christians displaced from Arab countries, for any comprehensive Middle East peace agreement to be credible, durable, and enduring, constitute an end to conflict in the Middle East, and provide for finality of all claims, the agreement must address and resolve all outstanding issues, including the legitimate rights of all peoples displaced from Arab countries; and

(3) the United States will work to ensure that the provisions of both the Law of Administration for the State of Iraq for the Transitional Period, signed at Baghdad March 8, 2004, and the permanent constitution to be presented to the people of Iraq for approval in a general referendum no later than October 15, 2005—

(A) are universally applied to all groups forced to leave Iraq; and

(B) will rectify the historical injustices and discriminatory measures perpetrated by previous Iraqi regimes.

SEC. 2. UNITED STATES POLICY ON MIDDLE EAST REFUGEES.

The Senate urges the President to—

(1) instruct the United States Representative to the United Nations and all United States representatives in bilateral and multilateral fora that, when the United States considers or addresses resolutions that allude to the issue of Middle East refugees, the United States delegation should ensure that—

(A) the relevant text refers to the fact that multiple refugee populations have been caused by the Arab-Israeli conflict; and

(B) any explicit reference to the required resolution of the Palestinian refugee issue is matched by a similar explicit reference to the resolution of the issue of Jewish refugees from Arab countries; and

(2) make clear that the United States Government supports the position that, as an integral part of any comprehensive peace, the issue of refugees and the mass violations of human rights of minorities in Arab countries must be resolved in a manner that includes—

(A) redress for the legitimate rights of all refugees displaced from Arab countries; and

(B) recognition of the fact that Jewish and Christian property, schools, and community property was lost as a result of the Arab-Israeli conflict.

TEXT OF AMENDMENTS

SA 2937. Mr. GRASSLEY (for Ms. SNOWE (for herself, Mr. DODD, Mr. HATCH, Mr. ALEXANDER, Mr. CARPER, Mr. BINGAMAN, Mr. ROCKEFELLER, Ms. COLLINS, Ms. LANDRIEU, Mrs. MURRAY, Mr. JEFFORDS, Mrs. BOXER, Mr. CHAFEE, Mrs. LINCOLN, Mrs. CLINTON, Ms. MIKULSKI, Mr. COLEMAN, Mr. SCHUMER, and Mr. BAUCUS)) proposed an amendment to the bill H.R. 4, to reauthorize and improve the program of block grants to States for temporary assistance for needy families, improve access to quality child care, and for other purposes; as follows:

Beginning on page 255, strike line 18 and all that follows through page 257, line 2, and insert the following:

SEC. 116. FUNDING FOR CHILD CARE.

(a) INCREASE IN MANDATORY FUNDING.—Section 418(a)(3) (42 U.S.C. 618(a)(3)), as amended by section 4 of the Welfare Reform Extension Act of 2003 (Public Law 108-040, 117 Stat. 837), is amended—

(1) by striking “and” at the end of subparagraph (E);

(2) by striking the period at the end of subparagraph (F) and inserting “; and”; and

(3) by adding at the end the following:

“(G) $2,917,000,000 for each of fiscal years 2005 through 2009.”.

(b) RESERVATION OF CHILD CARE FUNDS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Section 418(a)(4) (42 U.S.C. 618(a)(4)) is amended to read as follows:

“(4) AMOUNTS RESERVED.—

“(A) INDIAN TRIBES.—

“(i) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall reserve 2 percent of the aggregate amount appropriated to carry out this section for a fiscal year for payments to Indian tribes and tribal organizations for such fiscal year for the purpose of providing child care assistance.

“(ii) APPLICATION OF CCDBG REQUIREMENTS.—Payments made under this subparagraph shall be subject to the requirements that apply to payments made to Indian tribes and tribal organizations under the Child Care and Development Block Grant Act of 1990.

“(B) TERRITORIES.—

“(i) PUERTO RICO.—The Secretary shall reserve 1.5 percent of the amount appropriated under paragraph (5)(A)(i) for a fiscal year for payments to the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico for such fiscal year for the purpose of providing child care assistance.

“(ii) OTHER TERRITORIES.—The Secretary shall reserve 0.5 percent of the amount appropriated under paragraph (5)(A)(i) for a fiscal year for payments to Guam, American Samoa, the Virgin Islands of the United States, and the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands in amounts which bear the same ratio to such amount as the amounts allotted to such territories under section 6580 of the Child Care and Development Block Grant Act of 1990 for the fiscal year bear to the total amount reserved under such section for that fiscal year.

“(iii) APPLICATION OF CCDBG REQUIREMENTS.—Payments made under this subpara-graph shall be subject to the requirements that apply to payments made to territories under the Child Care and Development Block Grant Act of 1990.”.

(2) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—Section 1108(a)(2) (42 U.S.C. 1308(a)(2)), as amended by section 108(b)(3), is amended by striking “or 413(f)” and inserting “413(f), or 418(a)(4)(B)”.

(c) SUPPLEMENTAL GRANTS.—Section 418(a) (42 U.S.C. 618(a)) is amended—

(1) by redesignating paragraph (5) as paragraph (7); and

(2) by inserting after paragraph (4), the following:

“(5) SUPPLEMENTAL GRANTS.—

“(A) APPROPRIATION.—

“(i) IN GENERAL.—For supplemental grants under this section, there are appropriated—

“(I) $700,000,000 for fiscal year 2005;

“(II) $1,000,000,000 for fiscal year 2006;

“(III) $1,200,000,000 for fiscal year 2007;

“(IV) $1,400,000,000 for fiscal year 2008; and

“(V) $1,700,000,000 for fiscal year 2009.

“(ii) AVAILABILITY.—Amounts appropriated under clause (i) for a fiscal year shall be in addition to amounts appropriated under paragraph (3) for such fiscal year and shall remain available without fiscal year limitation.

“(B) SUPPLEMENTAL GRANT.—In addition to the grants paid to a State under paragraphs (1) and (2) for each of fiscal years 2005 through 2009, the Secretary, after reserving the amounts described in subparagraphs (A) and (B) of paragraph (4) and subject to the requirements described in paragraph (6), shall pay each State an amount which bears the same ratio to the amount specified in subparagraph (A)(i) for the fiscal year (after such reservations), as the amount allotted to the State under paragraph (2)(B) for fiscal year 2003 bears to the amount allotted to all States under that paragraph for such fiscal year.

“(6) REQUIREMENTS.—

“(A) MAINTENANCE OF EFFORT.—A State may not be paid a supplemental grant under paragraph (5) for a fiscal year unless the State ensures that the level of State expenditures for child care for such fiscal year is not less than the sum of—

“(i) the level of State expenditures for child care that were matched under a grant made to the State under paragraph (2) for fiscal year 2003; and

“(ii) the level of State expenditures for child care that the State reported as maintenance of effort expenditures for purposes of paragraph (2) for fiscal year 2003.

“(B) MATCHING REQUIREMENT FOR FISCAL YEARS 2008 AND 2009.—With respect to the amount of the supplemental grant made to a State under paragraph (5) for each of fiscal years fiscal year 2008 and 2009 that is in excess of the amount of the grant made to the State under paragraph (5) for fiscal year 2007, subparagraph (C) of paragraph (2) shall apply to such excess amount in the same manner as such subparagraph applies to grants made under subparagraph (A) of paragraph (2) for each of fiscal years 2008 and 2009, respectively.

“(C) REDISTRIBUTION.—In the case of a State that fails to satisfy the requirement of subparagraph (A) for a fiscal year, the supplemental grant determined under paragraph (5) for the State for that fiscal year shall be redistributed in accordance with paragraph (2)(D).”.

(d) EXTENSION OF MERCHANDISE PROCESSING CUSTOMS USER FEES.—Section 13031(j)(3) of the Consolidated Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1985 (19 U.S.C. 58c(j)(3)), as amended by section 201 of the Military Family Tax Relief Act of 2003 (Public Law 108-121; 117 Stat. 1343), is amended—

(1) by striking “Fees” and inserting “(A) Except as provided in subparagraph (B), fees”; and

(2) by adding at the end the following:

“(B) Fees may not be charged under paragraphs (9) and (10) of subsection (a) after September 30, 2009.”.

SA 2938. Mr. BINGAMAN submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the bill S. 1637, to amend the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 to comply with the World Trade Organization rulings on the FSC/ETI benefit in a manner that preserves jobs and production activities in the United States, to reform and simplify the international taxation rules of the United States, and for other purposes; which was ordered to lie on the table; as follows:

At the end add the following:

TITLE VIII—ENERGY TAX INCENTIVES

Subtitle A—Conservation and Energy Efficiency Provisions

SEC. 801. CREDIT FOR CONSTRUCTION OF NEW ENERGY EFFICIENT HOME.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Subpart D of part IV of subchapter A of chapter 1 (relating to business related credits), as amended by this Act, is amended by adding at the end the following new section:

“(a) IN GENERAL.—For purposes of section 38, in the case of an eligible contractor, the credit determined under this section for the taxable year is an amount equal to the aggregate adjusted bases of all energy efficient property installed in a qualifying new home during construction of such home.

“(b) LIMITATIONS.—

“(1) MAXIMUM CREDIT.—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—The credit allowed by this section with respect to a qualifying new home shall not exceed—

“(i) in the case of a 30-percent home, $1,000, and “(ii) in the case of a 50-percent home, $2,000.

“(B) 30- OR 50-PERCENT HOME.—For purposes of subparagraph (A)—

“(i) 30-PERCENT HOME.—The term ‘30-percent home’ means—

“(I) a qualifying new home which is certified to have a projected level of annual heating and cooling energy consumption, measured in terms of average annual energy cost to the homeowner, which is at least 30 percent less than the annual level of heating and cooling energy consumption of a qualifying new home constructed in accordance with the latest standards of chapter 4 of the International Energy Conservation Code approved by the Department of Energy before the construction of such qualifying new home and any applicable Federal minimum efficiency standards for equipment; or

“(II) in the case of a qualifying new home which is a manufactured home, a home which meets the applicable standards required by the Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency under the Energy Star Labeled Homes program.

“(ii) 50-PERCENT HOME.—The term ‘50-percent home’ means a qualifying new home which would be described in clause (i)(I) if 50 percent were substituted for 30 percent.

“(C) PRIOR CREDIT AMOUNTS ON SAME HOME TAKEN INTO ACCOUNT.—The amount of the credit otherwise allowable for the taxable year with respect to a qualifying new home under clause (i) or (ii) of subparagraph (A) shall be reduced by the sum of the credits allowed under subsection (a) to any taxpayer with respect to the home for all preceding taxable years.

“(2) COORDINATION WITH CERTAIN CREDITS.—For purposes of this section—

“(A) the basis of any property referred to in subsection (a) shall be reduced by that portion of the basis of any property which is attributable to the rehabilitation credit (as determined under section 47(a)) or to the energy credit (as determined under section 48(a)), and

“(B) expenditures taken into account under section 25D, 47, or 48(a) shall not be taken into account under this section.

“(3) PROVIDER LIMITATION.—Any eligible contractor who directly or indirectly provides the guarantee of energy savings under a guarantee-based method of certification described in subsection (d)(1)(D) shall not be eligible to receive the credit allowed by this section.

“(c) DEFINITIONS.—For purposes of this section—

“(1) ELIGIBLE CONTRACTOR.—The term ‘eligible contractor’ means—

“(A) the person who constructed the qualifying new home, or

“(B) in the case of a qualifying new home which is a manufactured home, the manufacturer of such home. If more than 1 person is described in subparagraph (A) or (B) with respect to any qualifying new home, such term means the person designated as such by the owner of such home.

“(2) ENERGY EFFICIENT PROPERTY.—The term ‘energy efficient property’ means any energy efficient building envelope component, and any energy efficient heating or cooling equipment or system which can, individually or in combination with other components, meet the requirements of this section.

“(3) QUALIFYING NEW HOME.—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—The term ‘qualifying new home’ means a dwelling—

“(i) located in the United States,

“(ii) the construction of which is substantially completed after September 30, 2004, and “(iii) the first use of which after construction is as a principal residence (within the meaning of section 121).

“(B) MANUFACTURED HOME INCLUDED.—The term ‘qualifying new home’ includes a manufactured home conforming to Federal Manufactured Home Construction and Safety Standards (24 C.F.R. 3280).

“(4) CONSTRUCTION.—The term ‘construction’ includes reconstruction and rehabilitation.

“(5) BUILDING ENVELOPE COMPONENT.—The term ‘building envelope component’ means—

“(A) any insulation material or system which is specifically and primarily designed to reduce the heat loss or gain of a qualifying new home when installed in or on such home,

“(B) exterior windows (including skylights), and

“(C) exterior doors.

“(d) CERTIFICATION.—

“(1) METHOD OF CERTIFICATION.—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—A certification described in subsection (b)(1)(B) shall be determined either by a component-based method, a performance-based method, or a guarantee-based method, or, in the case of a qualifying new home which is a manufactured home, by a method prescribed by the Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency under the Energy Star Labeled Homes program.

“(B) COMPONENT-BASED METHOD.—A component-based method is a method which uses the applicable technical energy efficiency specifications or ratings (including product labeling requirements) for the energy efficient building envelope component or energy efficient heating or cooling equipment. The Secretary shall, in consultation with the Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency, develop prescriptive component-based packages which are equivalent in energy performance to properties which qualify under subparagraph (C).

“(C) PERFORMANCE-BASED METHOD.—

“(i) IN GENERAL.—A performance-based method is a method which calculates projected energy usage and cost reductions in the qualifying new home in relation to a new home—

“(I) heated by the same fuel type, and

“(II) constructed in accordance with the latest standards of chapter 4 of the International Energy Conservation Code approved by the Department of Energy before the construction of such qualifying new home and any applicable Federal minimum efficiency standards for equipment.

“(ii) COMPUTER SOFTWARE.—Computer software shall be used in support of a performance-based method certification under clause (i). Such software shall meet procedures and methods for calculating energy and cost savings in regulations promulgated by the Secretary of Energy.

“(D) GUARANTEE-BASED METHOD.—

“(i) IN GENERAL.—A guarantee-based method is a method which guarantees in writing to the homeowner energy savings of either 30 percent or 50 percent over the 2000 International Energy Conservation Code for heating and cooling costs. The guarantee shall be provided for a minimum of 2 years and shall fully reimburse the homeowner any heating and cooling costs in excess of the guaranteed amount.

“(ii) COMPUTER SOFTWARE.—Computer software shall be selected by the provider to support the guarantee-based method certification under clause (i). Such software shall meet procedures and methods for calculating energy and cost savings in regulations promulgated by the Secretary of Energy.

“(2) PROVIDER.—A certification described in subsection (b)(1)(B) shall be provided by—

“(A) in the case of a component-based method, a local building regulatory authority, a utility, or a home energy rating organization,

“(B) in the case of a performance-based method or a guarantee-based method, an individual recognized by an organization designated by the Secretary for such purposes, or

“(C) in the case of a qualifying new home which is a manufactured home, a manufactured home primary inspection agency.

“(3) FORM.—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—A certification described in subsection (b)(1)(B) shall be made in writing in a manner which specifies in readily verifiable fashion the energy efficient building envelope components and energy efficient heating or cooling equipment installed and their respective rated energy efficiency performance, and

“(i) in the case of a performance-based method, accompanied by a written analysis documenting the proper application of a permissible energy performance calculation method to the specific circumstances of such qualifying new home, and

“(ii) in the case of a qualifying new home which is a manufactured home, accompanied by such documentation as required by the Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency under the Energy Star Labeled Homes program.

“(B) FORM PROVIDED TO BUYER.—A form documenting the energy efficient building envelope components and energy efficient heating or cooling equipment installed and their rated energy efficiency performance shall be provided to the buyer of the qualifying new home. The form shall include labeled R-value for insulation products, NFRC-labeled U-factor and solar heat gain coefficient for windows, skylights, and doors, labeled annual fuel utilization efficiency (AFUE) ratings for furnaces and boilers, labeled heating seasonal performance factor (HSPF) ratings for electric heat pumps, and labeled seasonal energy efficiency ratio (SEER) ratings for air conditioners.

“(C) RATINGS LABEL AFFIXED IN DWELLING.—A permanent label documenting the ratings in subparagraph (B) shall be affixed to the front of the electrical distribution panel of the qualifying new home, or shall be otherwise permanently displayed in a readily inspectable location in such home.

“(4) REGULATIONS.—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—In prescribing regulations under this subsection for performance-based and guarantee-based certification methods, the Secretary shall prescribe procedures for calculating annual energy usage and cost reductions for heating and cooling and for the reporting of the results. Such regulations shall—

“(i) provide that any calculation procedures be fuel neutral such that the same energy efficiency measures allow a qualifying new home to be eligible for the credit under this section regardless of whether such home uses a gas or oil furnace or boiler or an electric heat pump, and

“(ii) require that any computer software allow for the printing of the Federal tax forms necessary for the credit under this section and for the printing of forms for disclosure to the homebuyer.

“(B) PROVIDERS.—For purposes of paragraph (2)(B), the Secretary shall establish requirements for the designation of individuals based on the requirements for energy consultants and home energy raters specified by the Mortgage Industry National Home Energy Rating Standards.

“(e) APPLICATION.—Subsection (a) shall apply to qualifying new homes the construction of which is substantially completed after September 30, 2004, and purchased during the period beginning on such date and ending on—

“(1) in the case of any 30-percent home, December 31, 2005, and

“(2) in the case of any 50-percent home, December 31, 2007.”

(b) CREDIT MADE PART OF GENERAL BUSINESS CREDIT.—Section 38(b) (relating to current year business credit), as amended by this Act, is amended by striking “plus” at the end of paragraph (20), by striking the period at the end of paragraph (21) and inserting “, plus”, and by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

(c) DENIAL OF DOUBLE BENEFIT.—Section 280C (relating to certain expenses for which credits are allowable) is amended by adding at the end the following new subsection:

“(d) NEW ENERGY EFFICIENT HOME EXPENSES.—No deduction shall be allowed for that portion of expenses for a qualifying new home otherwise allowable as a deduction for the taxable year which is equal to the amount of the credit determined for such taxable year under section 45K(a).”

(d) LIMITATION ON CARRYBACK.—Section 39(d) (relating to transition rules), as amended by this Act, is amended by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

“(16) NO CARRYBACK OF NEW ENERGY EFFICIENT HOME CREDIT BEFORE EFFECTIVE DATE.—No portion of the unused business credit for any taxable year which is attributable to the credit determined under section 45K may be carried back to any taxable year ending before October 1, 2004.”

(e) DEDUCTION FOR CERTAIN UNUSED BUSINESS CREDITS.—Section 196(c) (defining qualified business credits) is amended by striking “and” at the end of paragraph (9), by striking the period at the end of paragraph (10) and inserting “, and”, and by adding after paragraph (10) the following new paragraph:

(f) CLERICAL AMENDMENT.—The table of sections for subpart D of part IV of subchapter A of chapter 1, as amended by this Act, is amended by adding at the end the following new item:

(g) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to homes the construction of which is substantially completed after September 30, 2004.

SEC. 802. CREDIT FOR ENERGY EFFICIENT APPLIANCES.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Subpart D of part IV of subchapter A of chapter 1 (relating to business-related credits), as amended by this Act, is amended by adding at the end the following new section:

“SEC. 45L. ENERGY EFFICIENT APPLIANCE CREDIT.”

“(a) ALLOWANCE OF CREDIT.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—For purposes of section 38, the energy efficient appliance credit determined under this section for the taxable year is an amount equal to the sum of the amounts determined under paragraph (2) for qualified energy efficient appliances produced by the taxpayer during the calendar year ending with or within the taxable year.

“(2) AMOUNT.—The amount determined under this paragraph for any category described in subsection (b)(2)(B) shall be the product of the applicable amount for appliances in the category and the eligible production for the category.

“(b) APPLICABLE AMOUNT; ELIGIBLE PRODUCTION.—For purposes of subsection (a)—

“(1) APPLICABLE AMOUNT.—The applicable amount is—

“(A) $50, in the case of—

“(i) a clothes washer which is manufactured with at least a 1.42 MEF, or

“(ii) a refrigerator which consumes at least 10 percent less kilowatt hours per year than the energy conservation standards for refrigerators promulgated by the Department of Energy and effective on July 1, 2001,

“(B) $100, in the case of—

“(i) a clothes washer which is manufactured with at least a 1.50 MEF, or

“(ii) a refrigerator which consumes at least 15 percent (20 percent in the case of a refrigerator manufactured after 2006) less kilowatt hours per year than such energy conservation standards, and

“(C) $150, in the case of a refrigerator manufactured before 2007 which consumes at least 20 percent less kilowatt hours per year than such energy conservation standards.

“(2) ELIGIBLE PRODUCTION.—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—The eligible production of each category of qualified energy efficient appliances is the excess of—

“(i) the number of appliances in such category which are produced by the taxpayer during such calendar year, over

“(ii) the average number of appliances in such category which were produced by the taxpayer during calendar years 2000, 2001, and 2002.

“(B) CATEGORIES.—For purposes of subparagraph (A), the categories are—

“(i) clothes washers described in paragraph (1)(A)(i),

“(ii) clothes washers described in paragraph (1)(B)(i),

“(iii) refrigerators described in paragraph (1)(A)(ii),

“(iv) refrigerators described in paragraph (1)(B)(ii), and

“(c) LIMITATION ON MAXIMUM CREDIT.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—The amount of credit allowed under subsection (a) with respect to a taxpayer for all taxable years shall not exceed $60,000,000, of which not more than $30,000,000 may be allowed with respect to the credit determined by using the applicable amount under subsection (b)(1)(A).

“(2) LIMITATION BASED ON GROSS RECEIPTS.—The credit allowed under subsection (a) with respect to a taxpayer for the taxable year shall not exceed an amount equal to 2 percent of the average annual gross receipts of the taxpayer for the 3 taxable years preceding the taxable year in which the credit is determined.

“(3) GROSS RECEIPTS.—For purposes of this subsection, the rules of paragraphs (2) and (3) of section 448(c) shall apply.

“(d) DEFINITIONS.—For purposes of this section—

“(1) QUALIFIED ENERGY EFFICIENT APPLIANCE.—The term ‘qualified energy efficient appliance’ means—

“(A) a clothes washer described in subparagraph (A)(i) or (B)(i) of subsection (b)(1), or “(B) a refrigerator described in subparagraph (A)(ii), (B)(ii), or (C) of subsection (b)(1).

“(2) CLOTHES WASHER.—The term ‘clothes washer’ means a residential clothes washer, including a residential style coin operated washer.

“(3) REFRIGERATOR.—The term ‘refrigerator’ means an automatic defrost refrigerator-freezer which has an internal volume of at least 16.5 cubic feet.

“(e) SPECIAL RULES.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—Rules similar to the rules of subsections (c), (d), and (e) of section 52 shall apply for purposes of this section.

“(2) AGGREGATION RULES.—All persons treated as a single employer under subsection (a) or (b) of section 52 or subsection (m) or (o) of section 414 shall be treated as 1 person for purposes of subsection (a).

“(f) VERIFICATION.—The taxpayer shall submit such information or certification as the Secretary, in consultation with the Secretary of Energy, determines necessary to claim the credit amount under subsection (a).

“(g) TERMINATION.—This section shall not apply—

“(1) with respect to refrigerators described in subsection (b)(1)(A)(ii) produced after December 31, 2004, and

“(2) with respect to all other qualified energy efficient appliances produced after December 31, 2007.”.

(b) CREDIT MADE PART OF GENERAL BUSINESS CREDIT.—Section 38(b) (relating to current year business credit), as amended by this Act, is amended by striking “plus” at the end of paragraph (21), by striking the period at the end of paragraph (22) and inserting “, plus”, and by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

(c) LIMITATION ON CARRYBACK.—Section 39(d) (relating to transition rules), as amended by this Act, is amended by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

“(17) NO CARRYBACK OF ENERGY EFFICIENT APPLIANCE CREDIT BEFORE EFFECTIVE DATE.—No portion of the unused business credit for any taxable year which is attributable to the energy efficient appliance credit determined under section 45L may be carried to a taxable year ending before October 1, 2004.”.

(d) CLERICAL AMENDMENT.—The table of sections for subpart D of part IV of subchapter A of chapter 1, as amended by this Act, is amended by adding at the end the following new item:

(e) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to appliances produced after September 30, 2004, in taxable years ending after such date.

SEC. 803. CREDIT FOR RESIDENTIAL ENERGY EFFICIENT PROPERTY.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Subpart A of part IV of subchapter A of chapter 1 (relating to non-refundable personal credits) is amended by inserting after section 25B the following new section:

“SEC. 25C. RESIDENTIAL ENERGY EFFICIENT PROPERTY.”

“(a) ALLOWANCE OF CREDIT.—In the case of an individual, there shall be allowed as a credit against the tax imposed by this chapter for the taxable year an amount equal to the sum of—

“(1) 15 percent of the qualified photovoltaic property expenditures made by the taxpayer during such year,

“(2) 15 percent of the qualified solar water heating property expenditures made by the taxpayer during such year,

“(3) 30 percent of the qualified fuel cell property expenditures made by the taxpayer during such year,

“(4) 30 percent of the qualified wind energy property expenditures made by the taxpayer during such year, and

“(5) the sum of the qualified Tier 2 energy efficient building property expenditures made by the taxpayer during such year.

“(b) LIMITATIONS.—

“(1) MAXIMUM CREDIT.—The credit allowed under subsection (a) shall not exceed—

“(A) $2,000 for property described in paragraph (1), (2), or (5) of subsection (d),

“(B) $500 for each 0.5 kilowatt of capacity of property described in subsection (d)(4), and

“(C) for property described in subsection (d)(6)—

“(i) $150 for each electric heat pump water heater,

“(ii) $125 for each advanced natural gas, oil, propane furnace, or hot water boiler, “(iii) $150 for each advanced natural gas, oil, or propane water heater, “(iv) $50 for each natural gas, oil, or propane water heater,

“(v) $50 for an advanced main air circulating fan,

“(vi) $150 for each advanced combination space and water heating system, “(vii) $50 for each combination space and water heating system, and “(viii) $250 for each geothermal heat pump.

“(2) SAFETY CERTIFICATIONS.—No credit shall be allowed under this section for an item of property unless—

“(A) in the case of solar water heating property, such property is certified for performance and safety by the non-profit Solar Rating Certification Corporation or a comparable entity endorsed by the government of the State in which such property is installed,

“(B) in the case of a photovoltaic property, a fuel cell property, or a wind energy property, such property meets appropriate fire and electric code requirements, and

“(C) in the case of property described in subsection (d)(6), such property meets the performance and quality standards, and the certification requirements (if any), which—

“(i) have been prescribed by the Secretary by regulations (after consultation with the Secretary of Energy or the Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency, as appropriate),

“(ii) in the case of the energy efficiency ratio (EER) for property described in subsection (d)(6)(B)(viii)—

“(I) require measurements to be based on published data which is tested by manufacturers at 95 degrees Fahrenheit, and

“(II) do not require ratings to be based on certified data of the Air Conditioning and Refrigeration Institute, and “(iii) are in effect at the time of the acquisition of the property.

“(c) CARRYFORWARD OF UNUSED CREDIT.—If the credit allowable under subsection (a) exceeds the limitation imposed by section 26(a) for such taxable year reduced by the sum of the credits allowable under this subpart (other than this section and section 25D), such excess shall be carried to the succeeding taxable year and added to the credit allowable under subsection (a) for such succeeding taxable year.

“(d) DEFINITIONS.—For purposes of this section—

“(1) QUALIFIED SOLAR WATER HEATING PROPERTY EXPENDITURE.—The term ‘qualified solar water heating property expenditure’ means an expenditure for property to heat water for use in a dwelling unit located in the United States and used as a residence by the taxpayer if at least half of the energy used by such property for such purpose is derived from the sun.

“(2) QUALIFIED PHOTOVOLTAIC PROPERTY EXPENDITURE.—The term ‘qualified photovoltaic property expenditure’ means an expenditure for property which uses solar energy to generate electricity for use in a dwelling unit located in the United States and used as a residence by the taxpayer.

“(3) SOLAR PANELS.—No expenditure relating to a solar panel or other property installed as a roof (or portion thereof) shall fail to be treated as property described in paragraph (1) or (2) solely because it constitutes a structural component of the structure on which it is installed.

“(4) QUALIFIED FUEL CELL PROPERTY EXPENDITURE.—The term ‘qualified fuel cell property expenditure’ means an expenditure for qualified fuel cell property (as defined in section 48(a)(4)) installed on or in connection with a dwelling unit located in the United States and used as a principal residence (within the meaning of section 121) by the taxpayer.

“(5) QUALIFIED WIND ENERGY PROPERTY EXPENDITURE.—The term ‘qualified wind energy property expenditure’ means an expenditure for property which uses wind energy to generate electricity for use in a dwelling unit located in the United States and used as a residence by the taxpayer.

“(6) QUALIFIED TIER 2 ENERGY EFFICIENT BUILDING PROPERTY EXPENDITURE.—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—The term ‘qualified Tier 2 energy efficient building property expenditure’ means an expenditure for any Tier 2 energy efficient building property.

“(B) TIER 2 ENERGY EFFICIENT BUILDING PROPERTY.—The term ‘Tier 2 energy efficient building property’ means—

“(i) an electric heat pump water heater which yields an energy factor of at least 1.7 in the standard Department of Energy test procedure,

“(ii) an advanced natural gas, oil, propane furnace, or hot water boiler which achieves at least 95 percent annual fuel utilization efficiency (AFUE),

“(iii) an advanced natural gas, oil, or propane water heater which has an energy factor of at least 0.80 in the standard Department of Energy test procedure,

“(iv) a natural gas, oil, or propane water heater which has an energy factor of at least 0.65 but less than 0.80 in the standard Department of Energy test procedure,

“(v) an advanced main air circulating fan used in a new natural gas, propane, or oil-fired furnace, including main air circulating fans that use a brushless permanent magnet motor or another type of motor which achieves similar or higher efficiency at half and full speed, as determined by the Secretary,

“(vi) an advanced combination space and water heating system which has a combined energy factor of at least 0.80 and a combined annual fuel utilization efficiency (AFUE) of at least 78 percent in the standard Department of Energy test procedure,

“(vii) a combination space and water heating system which has a combined energy factor of at least 0.65 but less than 0.80 and a combined annual fuel utilization efficiency (AFUE) of at least 78 percent in the standard Department of Energy test procedure, and “(viii) a geothermal heat pump which has an energy efficiency ratio (EER) of at least 21.

“(7) LABOR COSTS.—Expenditures for labor costs properly allocable to the onsite preparation, assembly, or original installation of the property described in paragraph (1), (2), (4), (5), or (6) and for piping or wiring to interconnect such property to the dwelling unit shall be taken into account for purposes of this section.

“(8) SWIMMING POOLS, ETC., USED AS STORAGE MEDIUM.—Expenditures which are properly allocable to a swimming pool, hot tub, or any other energy storage medium which has a function other than the function of such storage shall not be taken into account for purposes of this section.

“(e) SPECIAL RULES.—For purposes of this section—

“(1) DOLLAR AMOUNTS IN CASE OF JOINT OCCUPANCY.—In the case of any dwelling unit which is jointly occupied and used during any calendar year as a residence by 2 or more individuals the following rules shall apply:

“(A) The amount of the credit allowable, under subsection (a) by reason of expenditures (as the case may be) made during such calendar year by any of such individuals with respect to such dwelling unit shall be determined by treating all of such individuals as 1 taxpayer whose taxable year is such calendar year.

“(B) There shall be allowable, with respect to such expenditures to each of such individuals, a credit under subsection (a) for the taxable year in which such calendar year ends in an amount which bears the same ratio to the amount determined under subparagraph (A) as the amount of such expenditures made by such individual during such calendar year bears to the aggregate of such expenditures made by all of such individuals during such calendar year.

“(2) TENANT-STOCKHOLDER IN COOPERATIVE HOUSING CORPORATION.—In the case of an individual who is a tenant-stockholder (as defined in section 216) in a cooperative housing corporation (as defined in such section), such individual shall be treated as having made his tenant-stockholder's proportionate share (as defined in section 216(b)(3)) of any expenditures of such corporation.

“(3) CONDOMINIUMS.—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—In the case of an individual who is a member of a condominium management association with respect to a condominium which the individual owns, such individual shall be treated as having made the individual's proportionate share of any expenditures of such association.

“(B) CONDOMINIUM MANAGEMENT ASSOCIATION.—For purposes of this paragraph, the term ‘condominium management association’ means an organization which meets the requirements of paragraph (1) of section 528(c) (other than subparagraph (E) thereof) with respect to a condominium project substantially all of the units of which are used as residences.

“(4) ALLOCATION IN CERTAIN CASES.—Except in the case of qualified wind energy property expenditures, if less than 80 percent of the use of an item is for nonbusiness purposes, only that portion of the expenditures for such item which is properly allocable to use for nonbusiness purposes shall be taken into account.

“(5) WHEN EXPENDITURE MADE; AMOUNT OF EXPENDITURE.—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in subparagraph (B), an expenditure with respect to an item shall be treated as made when the original installation of the item is completed.

“(B) EXPENDITURES PART OF BUILDING CONSTRUCTION.—In the case of an expenditure in connection with the construction or reconstruction of a structure, such expenditure shall be treated as made when the original use of the constructed or reconstructed structure by the taxpayer begins.

“(C) AMOUNT.—The amount of any expenditure shall be the cost thereof.

“(6) PROPERTY FINANCED BY SUBSIDIZED ENERGY FINANCING.—For purposes of determining the amount of expenditures made by any individual with respect to any dwelling unit, there shall not be taken into account expenditures which are made from subsidized energy financing (as defined in section 48(a)(5)(C)).

“(f) BASIS ADJUSTMENTS.—For purposes of this subtitle, if a credit is allowed under this section for any expenditure with respect to any property, the increase in the basis of such property which would (but for this subsection) result from such expenditure shall be reduced by the amount of the credit so allowed.

“(g) TERMINATION.—The credit allowed under this section shall not apply to expenditures after December 31, 2007.”

(b) CREDIT ALLOWED AGAINST REGULAR TAX AND ALTERNATIVE MINIMUM TAX.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Section 25C(b), as added by subsection (a), is amended by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

“(3) LIMITATION BASED ON AMOUNT OF TAX.—The credit allowed under subsection (a) for the taxable year shall not exceed the excess of—

“(A) the sum of the regular tax liability (as defined in section 26(b)) plus the tax imposed by section 55, over

“(B) the sum of the credits allowable under this subpart (other than this section and section 25D) and section 27 for the taxable year.”

(2) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—

(A) Section 25C(c), as added by subsection (a), is amended by striking “section 26(a) for such taxable year reduced by the sum of the credits allowable under this subpart (other than this section and section 25D)” and inserting “subsection (b)(3)”.

(B) Section 23(b)(4)(B) is amended by inserting “and section 25C” after “this section”.

(C) Section 24(b)(3)(B) is amended by striking “23 and 25B” and inserting “23, 25B, and 25C”.

(D) Section 25(e)(1)(C) is amended by inserting “25C,” after “25B.”

(E) Section 25B(g)(2) is amended by striking “section 23” and inserting “sections 23 and 25C”.

(F) Section 26(a)(1) is amended by striking “and 25B” and inserting “25B, and 25C”.

(G) Section 904(h) is amended by striking “and 25B” and inserting “25B, and 25C”.

(H) Section 1400C(d) is amended by striking “and 25B” and inserting “25B, and 25C”.

(c) ADDITIONAL CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—

(1) Section 1016(a), as amended by this Act, is amended by striking “and” at the end of paragraph (30), by striking the period at the end of paragraph (31) and inserting “, and”, and by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

“(32) to the extent provided in section 25C(f), in the case of amounts with respect to which a credit has been allowed under section 25C.”.

(2) The table of sections for subpart A of part IV of subchapter A of chapter 1 is amended by inserting after the item relating to section 25B the following new item:

(d) EFFECTIVE DATES.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided by paragraph (2), the amendments made by this section shall apply to expenditures after September 30, 2004, in taxable years ending after such date.

(2) SUBSECTION (b).—The amendments made by subsection (b) shall apply to taxable years beginning after September 30, 2004.

SEC. 804. CREDIT FOR BUSINESS INSTALLATION OF QUALIFIED FUEL CELLS AND STATIONARY MICROTURBINE POWER PLANTS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 48(a)(3)(A) (defining energy property) is amended by striking “or” at the end of clause (i), by adding “or” at the end of clause (ii), and by inserting after clause (ii) the following new clause:

“(iii) qualified fuel cell property or qualified microturbine property.”.

(b) QUALIFIED FUEL CELL PROPERTY; QUALIFIED MICROTURBINE PROPERTY.—Section 48(a) (relating to energy credit) is amended by redesignating paragraphs (4) and (5) as paragraphs (5) and (6), respectively, and by inserting after paragraph (3) the following new paragraph:

“(4) QUALIFIED FUEL CELL PROPERTY; QUALIFIED MICROTURBINE PROPERTY.—For purposes of this subsection—

“(A) QUALIFIED FUEL CELL PROPERTY.—

“(i) IN GENERAL.—The term ‘qualified fuel cell property’ means a fuel cell power plant which—

“(I) generates at least 0.5 kilowatt of electricity using an electrochemical process, and “(II) has an electricity-only generation efficiency greater than 30 percent.

“(ii) LIMITATION.—In the case of qualified fuel cell property placed in service during the taxable year, the credit otherwise determined under paragraph (1) for such year with respect to such property shall not exceed an amount equal to $500 for each 0.5 kilowatt of capacity of such property.

“(iii) FUEL CELL POWER PLANT.—The term ‘fuel cell power plant’ means an integrated system comprised of a fuel cell stack assembly and associated balance of plant components which converts a fuel into electricity using electrochemical means.

“(iv) TERMINATION.—The term ‘qualified fuel cell property’ shall not include any property placed in service after December 31, 2007.

“(B) QUALIFIED MICROTURBINE PROPERTY.—

“(i) IN GENERAL.—The term ‘qualified microturbine property’ means a stationary microturbine power plant which—

“(I) has a capacity of less than 2,000 kilowatts, and “(II) has an electricity-only generation efficiency of not less than 26 percent at International Standard Organization conditions.

“(ii) LIMITATION.—In the case of qualified microturbine property placed in service during the taxable year, the credit otherwise determined under paragraph (1) for such year with respect to such property shall not exceed an amount equal to $200 for each kilowatt of capacity of such property.

“(iii) STATIONARY MICROTURBINE POWER PLANT.—The term ‘stationary microturbine power plant’ means an integrated system comprised of a gas turbine engine, a combustor, a recuperator or regenerator, a generator or alternator, and associated balance of plant components which converts a fuel into electricity and thermal energy. Such term also includes all secondary components located between the existing infrastructure for fuel delivery and the existing infrastructure for power distribution, including equipment and controls for meeting relevant power standards, such as voltage, frequency, and power factors.

“(iv) TERMINATION.—The term ‘qualified microturbine property’ shall not include any property placed in service after December 31, 2006.”.

(c) ENERGY PERCENTAGE.—Section 48(a)(2)(A) (relating to energy percentage) is amended to read as follows:

“(A) IN GENERAL.—The energy percentage is—

“(i) in the case of qualified fuel cell property, 30 percent, and

“(ii) in the case of any other energy property, 10 percent.”.

(d) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—

(A) Section 29(b)(3)(A)(i)(III) is amended by striking “section 48(a)(4)(C)” and inserting “section 48(a)(5)(C)”.

(B) Section 48(a)(1) is amended by inserting “except as provided in subparagraph (A)(ii) or (B)(ii) of paragraph (4),” before “the energy”.

(e) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to property placed in service after September 30, 2004, in taxable years ending after such date, under rules similar to the rules of section 48(m) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 (as in effect on the day before the date of the enactment of the Revenue Reconciliation Act of 1990).

SEC. 805. ENERGY EFFICIENT COMMERCIAL BUILDINGS DEDUCTION.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Part VI of subchapter B of chapter 1 (relating to itemized deductions for individuals and corporations) is amended by inserting after section 179A the following new section:

“(a) IN GENERAL.—There shall be allowed as a deduction for the taxable year in which a building is placed in service by a taxpayer, an amount equal to the energy efficient commercial building property expenditures made by such taxpayer with respect to the construction or reconstruction of such building for the taxable year or any preceding taxable year.

“(b) MAXIMUM AMOUNT OF DEDUCTION.—The amount of energy efficient commercial building property expenditures taken into account under subsection (a) shall not exceed an amount equal to the product of—

“(1) $2.25, and

“(2) the square footage of the building with respect to which the expenditures are made.

“(c) ENERGY EFFICIENT COMMERCIAL BUILDING PROPERTY EXPENDITURES.—For purposes of this section—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—The term ‘energy efficient commercial building property expenditures’ means amounts paid or incurred for energy efficient property installed on or in connection with the construction or reconstruction of a building—

“(A) for which depreciation is allowable under section 167,

“(B) which is located in the United States, and

“(C) which is the type of structure to which the Standard 90.1-2001 of the American Society of Heating, Refrigerating, and Air Conditioning Engineers and the Illuminating Engineering Society of North America is applicable.

Such term includes expenditures for labor costs properly allocable to the onsite preparation, assembly, or original installation of the property.

“(2) ENERGY EFFICIENT PROPERTY.—For purposes of paragraph (1)—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—The term ‘energy efficient property’ means any property which reduces total annual energy and power costs with respect to the lighting, heating, cooling, ventilation, and hot water supply systems of the building by 50 percent or more in comparison to a building which meets the minimum requirements of Standard 90.1-2001 of the American Society of Heating, Refrigerating, and Air Conditioning Engineers and the Illuminating Engineering Society of North America, using methods of calculation described in subparagraph (B) and certified by qualified individuals as provided under paragraph (5).

“(B) METHODS OF CALCULATION.—The Secretary, in consultation with the Secretary of Energy, shall promulgate regulations which describe in detail methods for calculating and verifying energy and power costs.

“(C) COMPUTER SOFTWARE.—

“(i) IN GENERAL.—Any calculation described in subparagraph (B) shall be prepared by qualified computer software.

“(ii) QUALIFIED COMPUTER SOFTWARE.—For purposes of this subparagraph, the term ‘qualified computer software’ means software—

“(I) for which the software designer has certified that the software meets all procedures and detailed methods for calculating energy and power costs as required by the Secretary,

“(II) which provides such forms as required to be filed by the Secretary in connection with energy efficiency of property and the deduction allowed under this section, and “(III) which provides a notice form which summarizes the energy efficiency features of the building and its projected annual energy costs.

“(3) ALLOCATION OF DEDUCTION FOR PUBLIC PROPERTY.—In the case of energy efficient commercial building property expenditures made by a public entity with respect to the construction or reconstruction of a public building, the Secretary shall promulgate regulations under which the value of the deduction with respect to such expenditures which would be allowable to the public entity under this section (determined without regard to the tax-exempt status of such entity) may be allocated to the person primarily responsible for designing the energy efficient property. Such person shall be treated as the taxpayer for purposes of this section.

“(4) NOTICE TO OWNER.—Any qualified individual providing a certification under paragraph (5) shall provide an explanation to the owner of the building regarding the energy efficiency features of the building and its projected annual energy costs as provided in the notice under paragraph (2)(C)(ii)(III).

“(5) CERTIFICATION.—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall prescribe procedures for the inspection and testing for compliance of buildings by qualified individuals described in subparagraph (B). Such procedures shall be—

“(i) comparable, given the difference between commercial and residential buildings, to the requirements in the Mortgage Industry National Home Energy Rating Standards, and “(ii) fuel neutral such that the same energy efficiency measures allow a building to be eligible for the credit under this section regardless of whether such building uses a gas or oil furnace or boiler or an electric heat pump.

“(B) QUALIFIED INDIVIDUALS.—Individuals qualified to determine compliance shall be only those individuals who are recognized by an organization certified by the Secretary for such purposes. The Secretary may qualify a home energy ratings organization, a local building regulatory authority, a State or local energy office, a utility, or any other organization which meets the requirements prescribed under this paragraph.

“(C) PROFICIENCY OF QUALIFIED INDIVIDUALS.—The Secretary shall consult with non-profit organizations and State agencies with expertise in energy efficiency calculations and inspections to develop proficiency tests and training programs to qualify individuals to determine compliance.

“(d) BASIS REDUCTION.—For purposes of this subtitle, if a deduction is allowed under this section with respect to any energy efficient property, the basis of such property shall be reduced by the amount of the deduction so allowed.

“(e) REGULATIONS.—The Secretary shall promulgate such regulations as necessary to take into account new technologies regarding energy efficiency and renewable energy for purposes of determining energy efficiency and savings under this section.

“(f) TERMINATION.—This section shall not apply with respect to any energy efficient commercial building property expenditures in connection with a building the construction of which is not completed on or before December 31, 2009.”.

(b) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—

(1) Section 1016(a), as amended by this Act, is amended by striking “and” at the end of paragraph (31), by striking the period at the end of paragraph (32) and inserting “, and”, and by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

“(33) to the extent provided in section 179B(d).”.

(2) Section 1245(a) is amended by inserting “179B,” after “179A,” both places it appears in paragraphs (2)(C) and (3)(C).

(3) Section 1250(b)(3) is amended by inserting before the period at the end of the first sentence “or by section 179B”.

(4) Section 263(a)(1) is amended by striking “or” at the end of subparagraph (G), by striking the period at the end of subparagraph (H) and inserting “, or”, and by inserting after subparagraph (H) the following new subparagraph:

“(I) expenditures for which a deduction is allowed under section 179B.”.

(5) Section 312(k)(3)(B) is amended by striking “or 179A” each place it appears in the heading and text and inserting “, 179A, or 179B”.

(c) CLERICAL AMENDMENT.—The table of sections for part VI of subchapter B of chapter 1 is amended by inserting after section 179A the following new item:

(d) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to taxable years beginning after September 30, 2004.

SEC. 806. THREE-YEAR APPLICABLE RECOVERY PERIOD FOR DEPRECIATION OF QUALIFIED ENERGY MANAGEMENT DEVICES.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 168(e)(3)(A) (defining 3-year property) is amended by striking “and” at the end of clause (ii), by striking the period at the end of clause (iii) and inserting “, and”, and by adding at the end the following new clause:

“(iv) any qualified energy management device.”.

(b) DEFINITION OF QUALIFIED ENERGY MANAGEMENT DEVICE.—Section 168(i) (relating to definitions and special rules) is amended by inserting at the end the following new paragraph:

“(15) QUALIFIED ENERGY MANAGEMENT DEVICE.—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—The term ‘qualified energy management device’ means any energy management device which is placed in service before January 1, 2008, by a taxpayer who is a supplier of electric energy or a provider of electric energy services.

“(B) ENERGY MANAGEMENT DEVICE.—For purposes of subparagraph (A), the term ‘energy management device’ means any meter or metering device which is used by the taxpayer—

“(i) to measure and record electricity usage data on a time-differentiated basis in at least 4 separate time segments per day, and

“(ii) to provide such data on at least a monthly basis to both consumers and the taxpayer.”.

(c) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to property placed in service after September 30, 2004, in taxable years ending after such date.

SEC. 807. THREE-YEAR APPLICABLE RECOVERY PERIOD FOR DEPRECIATION OF QUALIFIED WATER SUBMETERING DEVICES.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 168(e)(3)(A) (defining 3-year property), as amended by this Act, is amended by striking “and” at the end of clause (iii), by striking the period at the end of clause (iv) and inserting “, and”, and by adding at the end the following new clause:

(b) DEFINITION OF QUALIFIED WATER SUBMETERING DEVICE.—Section 168(i) (relating to definitions and special rules), as amended by this Act, is amended by inserting at the end the following new paragraph:

“(16) QUALIFIED WATER SUBMETERING DEVICE.—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—The term ‘qualified water submetering device’ means any water submetering device which is placed in service before January 1, 2008, by a taxpayer who is an eligible resupplier with respect to the unit for which the device is placed in service.

“(B) WATER SUBMETERING DEVICE.—For purposes of this paragraph, the term ‘water submetering device’ means any submetering device which is used by the taxpayer—

“(i) to measure and record water usage data, and

“(ii) to provide such data on at least a monthly basis to both consumers and the taxpayer.”.

“(C) ELIGIBLE RESUPPLIER.—For purposes of subparagraph (A), the term ‘eligible resupplier’ means any taxpayer who purchases and installs qualified water submetering devices in every unit in any multi-unit property.”.

(c) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to property placed in service after September 30, 2004, in taxable years ending after such date.

SEC. 808. ENERGY CREDIT FOR COMBINED HEAT AND POWER SYSTEM PROPERTY.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 48(a)(3)(A) (defining energy property), as amended by this Act, is amended by striking “or” at the end of clause (ii), by adding “or” at the end of clause (iii), and by inserting after clause (iii) the following new clause:

“(iv) combined heat and power system property.”.

(b) COMBINED HEAT AND POWER SYSTEM PROPERTY.—Section 48(a) (relating to energy credit), as amended by this Act, is amended by redesignating paragraphs (5) and (6) as paragraphs (6) and (7), respectively, and by inserting after paragraph (4) the following new paragraph:

“(5) COMBINED HEAT AND POWER SYSTEM PROPERTY.—For purposes of this subsection—

“(A) COMBINED HEAT AND POWER SYSTEM PROPERTY.—The term ‘combined heat and power system property’ means property comprising a system—

“(i) which uses the same energy source for the simultaneous or sequential generation of electrical power, mechanical shaft power, or both, in combination with the generation of steam or other forms of useful thermal energy (including heating and cooling applications),

“(ii) which has an electrical capacity of more than 50 kilowatts or a mechanical energy capacity of more than 67 horsepower or an equivalent combination of electrical and mechanical energy capacities,

“(iii) which produces—

“(I) at least 20 percent of its total useful energy in the form of thermal energy which is not used to produce electrical or mechanical power (or combination thereof), and

“(II) at least 20 percent of its total useful energy in the form of electrical or mechanical power (or combination thereof),

“(iv) the energy efficiency percentage of which exceeds 60 percent (70 percent in the case of a system with an electrical capacity in excess of 50 megawatts or a mechanical energy capacity in excess of 67,000 horsepower, or an equivalent combination of electrical and mechanical energy capacities), and “(v) which is placed in service before January 1, 2007.

“(B) SPECIAL RULES.—

“(i) ENERGY EFFICIENCY PERCENTAGE.—For purposes of subparagraph (A)(iv), the energy efficiency percentage of a system is the fraction—

“(I) the numerator of which is the total useful electrical, thermal, and mechanical power produced by the system at normal operating rates, and expected to be consumed in its normal application, and

“(II) the denominator of which is the lower heating value of the primary fuel source for the system.

“(ii) DETERMINATIONS MADE ON BTU BASIS.—The energy efficiency percentage and the percentages under subparagraph (A)(iii) shall be determined on a Btu basis.

“(iii) INPUT AND OUTPUT PROPERTY NOT INCLUDED.—The term ‘combined heat and power system property’ does not include property used to transport the energy source to the facility or to distribute energy produced by the facility.

“(iv) PUBLIC UTILITY PROPERTY.—

“(I) ACCOUNTING RULE FOR PUBLIC UTILITY PROPERTY.—If the combined heat and power system property is public utility property (as defined in section 168(i)(10)), the taxpayer may only claim the credit under this subsection if, with respect to such property, the taxpayer uses a normalization method of accounting.

“(II) CERTAIN EXCEPTION NOT TO APPLY.—The matter following paragraph (3)(D) shall not apply to combined heat and power system property.

“(v) NONAPPLICATION OF CERTAIN RULES.—For purposes of determining if the term ‘combined heat and power system property’ includes technologies which generate electricity or mechanical power using back-pressure steam turbines in place of existing pressure-reducing valves or which make use of waste heat from industrial processes such as by using organic rankin, stirling, or kalina heat engine systems, subparagraph (A) shall be applied without regard to clauses (i), (iii), and (iv) thereof.

“(C) EXTENSION OF DEPRECIATION RECOVERY PERIOD.—If a taxpayer is allowed a credit under this section for a combined heat and power system property which has a class life of 15 years or less under section 168, such property shall be treated as having a 22-year class life for purposes of section 168.”.

(c) LIMITATION ON CARRYBACK.—Section 39(d) (relating to transition rules), as amended by this Act, is amended by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

“(18) NO CARRYBACK OF ENERGY CREDIT BEFORE EFFECTIVE DATE.—No portion of the unused business credit for any taxable year which is attributable to the energy credit with respect to property described in section 48(a)(5) may be carried back to a taxable year ending before October 1, 2004.”.

(d) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—

(A) Section 25C(e)(6), as added by this Act, is amended by striking “section 48(a)(5)(C)” and inserting “section 48(a)(6)(C)”.

(B) Section 29(b)(3)(A)(i)(III), as amended by this Act, is amended by striking “section 48(a)(5)(C)” and inserting “section 48(a)(6)(C)”.

(e) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this subsection shall apply to property placed in service after September 30, 2004, in taxable years ending after such date, under rules similar to the rules of section 48(m) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 (as in effect on the day before the date of the enactment of the Revenue Reconciliation Act of 1990).

SEC. 809. CREDIT FOR ENERGY EFFICIENCY IMPROVEMENTS TO EXISTING HOMES.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Subpart A of part IV of subchapter A of chapter 1 (relating to non-refundable personal credits), as amended by this Act, is amended by inserting after section 25C the following new section:

“SEC. 25D. ENERGY EFFICIENCY IMPROVEMENTS TO EXISTING HOMES.

“(a) ALLOWANCE OF CREDIT.—In the case of an individual, there shall be allowed as a credit against the tax imposed by this chapter for the taxable year an amount equal to 10 percent of the amount paid or incurred by the taxpayer for qualified energy efficiency improvements installed during such taxable year.

“(b) LIMITATION.—The credit allowed by this section with respect to a dwelling for any taxable year shall not exceed $300, reduced (but not below zero) by the sum of the credits allowed under subsection (a) to the taxpayer with respect to the dwelling for all preceding taxable years.

“(c) CARRYFORWARD OF UNUSED CREDIT.—If the credit allowable under subsection (a) exceeds the limitation imposed by section 26(a) for such taxable year reduced by the sum of the credits allowable under this subpart (other than this section) for such taxable year, such excess shall be carried to the succeeding taxable year and added to the credit allowable under subsection (a) for such succeeding taxable year.

“(d) QUALIFIED ENERGY EFFICIENCY IMPROVEMENTS.—For purposes of this section, the term ‘qualified energy efficiency improvements’ means any energy efficient building envelope component which is certified to meet or exceed the latest prescriptive criteria for such component in the International Energy Conservation Code approved by the Department of Energy before the installation of such component, or any combination of energy efficiency measures which are certified as achieving at least a 30 percent reduction in heating and cooling energy usage for the dwelling (as measured in terms of energy cost to the taxpayer), if—

“(1) such component or combination of measures is installed in or on a dwelling which—

“(A) is located in the United States,

“(B) has not been treated as a qualifying new home for purposes of any credit allowed under section 45K, and

“(C) is owned and used by the taxpayer as the taxpayer’s principal residence (within the meaning of section 121),

“(2) the original use of such component or combination of measures commences with the taxpayer, and

“(3) such component or combination of measures reasonably can be expected to remain in use for at least 5 years.

“(e) CERTIFICATION.—

“(1) METHODS OF CERTIFICATION.—

“(A) COMPONENT-BASED METHOD.—The certification described in subsection (d) for any component described in such subsection shall be determined on the basis of applicable energy efficiency ratings (including product labeling requirements) for affected building envelope components.

“(B) PERFORMANCE-BASED METHOD.—

“(i) IN GENERAL.—The certification described in subsection (d) for any combination of measures described in such subsection shall be—

“(I) determined by comparing the projected heating and cooling energy usage for the dwelling to such usage for such dwelling in its original condition, and “(II) accompanied by a written analysis documenting the proper application of a permissible energy performance calculation method to the specific circumstances of such dwelling.

“(ii) COMPUTER SOFTWARE.—Computer software shall be used in support of a performance-based method certification under clause (i). Such software shall meet procedures and methods for calculating energy and cost savings in regulations promulgated by the Secretary of Energy.

“(2) PROVIDER.—A certification described in subsection (d) shall be provided by—

“(A) in the case of the method described in paragraph (1)(A), a third party, such as a local building regulatory authority, a utility, a manufactured home primary inspection agency, or a home energy rating organization, or

“(B) in the case of the method described in paragraph (1)(B), an individual recognized by an organization designated by the Secretary for such purposes.

“(3) FORM.—A certification described in subsection (d) shall be made in writing on forms which specify in readily inspectable fashion the energy efficient components and other measures and their respective efficiency ratings, and which include a permanent label affixed to the electrical distribution panel of the dwelling.

“(4) REGULATIONS.—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—In prescribing regulations under this subsection for certification methods described in paragraph (1)(B), the Secretary, after examining the requirements for energy consultants and home energy ratings providers specified by the Mortgage Industry National Home Energy Rating Standards, shall prescribe procedures for calculating annual energy usage and cost reductions for heating and cooling and for the reporting of the results. Such regulations shall—

“(i) provide that any calculation procedures be fuel neutral such that the same energy efficiency measures allow a dwelling to be eligible for the credit under this section regardless of whether such dwelling uses a gas or oil furnace or boiler or an electric heat pump, and

“(ii) require that any computer software allow for the printing of the Federal tax forms necessary for the credit under this section and for the printing of forms for disclosure to the owner of the dwelling.

“(B) PROVIDERS.—For purposes of paragraph (2)(B), the Secretary shall establish requirements for the designation of individuals based on the requirements for energy consultants and home energy raters specified by the Mortgage Industry National Home Energy Rating Standards.

“(f) DEFINITIONS AND SPECIAL RULES.—For purposes of this section—

“(1) DOLLAR AMOUNTS IN CASE OF JOINT OCCUPANCY.—In the case of any dwelling unit which is jointly occupied and used during any calendar year as a residence by 2 or more individuals the following rules shall apply:

“(A) The amount of the credit allowable under subsection (a) by reason of expenditures for the qualified energy efficiency improvements made during such calendar year by any of such individuals with respect to such dwelling unit shall be determined by treating all of such individuals as 1 taxpayer whose taxable year is such calendar year.

“(B) There shall be allowable, with respect to such expenditures to each of such individuals, a credit under subsection (a) for the taxable year in which such calendar year ends in an amount which bears the same ratio to the amount determined under subparagraph (A) as the amount of such expenditures made by such individual during such calendar year bears to the aggregate of such expenditures made by all of such individuals during such calendar year.

“(2) TENANT-STOCKHOLDER IN COOPERATIVE HOUSING CORPORATION.—In the case of an individual who is a tenant-stockholder (as defined in section 216) in a cooperative housing corporation (as defined in such section), such individual shall be treated as having paid his tenant-stockholder’s proportionate share (as defined in section 216(b)(3)) of the cost of qualified energy efficiency improvements made by such corporation.

“(3) CONDOMINIUMS.—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—In the case of an individual who is a member of a condominium management association with respect to a condominium which the individual owns, such individual shall be treated as having paid the individual’s proportionate share of the cost of qualified energy efficiency improvements made by such association.

“(B) CONDOMINIUM MANAGEMENT ASSOCIATION.—For purposes of this paragraph, the term ‘condominium management association’ means an organization which meets the requirements of paragraph (1) of section 528(c) (other than subparagraph (E) thereof) with respect to a condominium project substantially all of the units of which are used as residences.

“(4) BUILDING ENVELOPE COMPONENT.—The term ‘building envelope component’ means—

“(A) any insulation material or system which is specifically and primarily designed to reduce the heat loss or gain or a dwelling when installed in or on such dwelling,

“(B) exterior windows (including skylights), and

“(C) exterior doors.

“(5) MANUFACTURED HOMES INCLUDED.—For purposes of this section, the term ‘dwelling’ includes a manufactured home which conforms to Federal Manufactured Home Construction and Safety Standards (24 C.F.R. 3280).

“(g) BASIS ADJUSTMENT.—For purposes of this subtitle, if a credit is allowed under this section for any expenditure with respect to any property, the increase in the basis of such property which would (but for this subsection) result from such expenditure shall be reduced by the amount of the credit so allowed.

“(h) TERMINATION.—Subsection (a) shall not apply to qualified energy efficiency improvements installed after December 31, 2006.”.

(b) CREDIT ALLOWED AGAINST REGULAR TAX AND ALTERNATIVE MINIMUM TAX.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Section 25D(b), as added by subsection (a), is amended—

(A) by striking “The credit” and inserting the following:

“(1) DOLLAR AMOUNT.—The credit”, and

(B) by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

“(2) LIMITATION BASED ON AMOUNT OF TAX.—The credit allowed under subsection (a) for the taxable year shall not exceed the excess of—

“(A) the sum of the regular tax liability (as defined in section 26(b)) plus the tax imposed by section 55, over

“(B) the sum of the credits allowable under this subpart (other than this section) and section 27 for the taxable year.”.

(2) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—

(A) Section 25D(c), as added by subsection (a), is amended by striking “section 26(a) for such taxable year reduced by the sum of the credits allowable under this subpart (other than this section)” and inserting “subsection (b)(2)”.

(B) Section 23(b)(4)(B), as amended by this Act, is amended by striking “section 25C” and inserting “sections 25C and 25D”.

(C) Section 24(b)(3)(B), as amended by this Act, is amended by striking “and 25C” and inserting “25C, and 25D”.

(E) Section 25B(g)(2), as amended by this Act, is amended by striking “23 and 25C” and inserting “23, 25C, and 25D”.

(F) Section 26(a)(1), as amended by this Act, is amended by striking “and 25C” and inserting “25C, and 25D”.

(G) Section 904(h), as amended by this Act, is amended by striking “and 25C” and inserting “25C, and 25D”.

(H) Section 1400C(d), as amended by this Act, is amended by striking “and 25C” and inserting “25C, and 25D”.

(c) ADDITIONAL CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—

(1) Section 1016(a), as amended by this Act, is amended by striking “and” at the end of paragraph (32), by striking the period at the end of paragraph (33) and inserting “; and”, and by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

“(34) to the extent provided in section 25D(g), in the case of amounts with respect to which a credit has been allowed under section 25D.”.

(2) The table of sections for subpart A of part IV of subchapter A of chapter 1, as amended by this Act, is amended by inserting after the item relating to section 25C the following new item:

(d) EFFECTIVE DATES.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided by paragraph (2), the amendments made by this section shall apply to property installed after September 30, 2004, in taxable years ending after such date.

(2) SUBSECTION (b).—The amendments made by subsection (b) shall apply to taxable years beginning after September 30, 2004.

Subtitle B—Oil and Gas Provisions

SEC. 811. OIL AND GAS FROM MARGINAL WELLS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Subpart D of part IV of subchapter A of chapter 1 (relating to business credits), as amended by this Act, is amended by adding at the end the following new section:

“(a) GENERAL RULE.—For purposes of section 38, the marginal well production credit for any taxable year is an amount equal to the product of—

“(1) the credit amount, and

“(2) the qualified crude oil production and the qualified natural gas production which is attributable to the taxpayer.

“(b) CREDIT AMOUNT.—For purposes of this section—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—The credit amount is—

“(A) $3 per barrel of qualified crude oil production, and “(B) 50 cents per 1,000 cubic feet of qualified natural gas production.

“(2) REDUCTION AS OIL AND GAS PRICES INCREASE.—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—The $3 and 50 cents amounts under paragraph (1) shall each be reduced (but not below zero) by an amount which bears the same ratio to such amount (determined without regard to this paragraph) as—

“(i) the excess (if any) of the applicable reference price over $15 ($1.67 for qualified natural gas production), bears to “(ii) $3 ($0.33 for qualified natural gas production).

The applicable reference price for a taxable year is the reference price of the calendar year preceding the calendar year in which the taxable year begins.

“(B) INFLATION ADJUSTMENT.—

“(i) IN GENERAL.—In the case of any taxable year beginning in a calendar year after 2004, each of the dollar amounts contained in subparagraph (A) shall be increased to an amount equal to such dollar amount multiplied by the inflation adjustment factor for such calendar year.

“(ii) INFLATION ADJUSTMENT FACTOR.—For purposes of clause (i)—

“(I) IN GENERAL.—The term ‘inflation adjustment factor’ means, with respect to a calendar year, a fraction the numerator of which is the GDP implicit price deflator for the preceding calendar year and the denominator of which is the GDP implicit price deflator for the calendar year 2003.

“(II) GDP IMPLICIT PRICE DEFLATOR.—The term ‘GDP implicit price deflator’ means, for any calendar year, the most recent revision of the implicit price deflator for the gross domestic product as of June 30 of such calendar year as computed by the Department of Commerce before October 1 of such calendar year.

“(C) REFERENCE PRICE.—For purposes of this paragraph, the term ‘reference price’ means, with respect to any calendar year—

“(i) in the case of qualified crude oil production, the reference price determined under section 29(d)(2)(C), and “(ii) in the case of qualified natural gas production, the Secretary’s estimate of the annual average wellhead price per 1,000 cubic feet for all domestic natural gas.

“(c) QUALIFIED CRUDE OIL AND NATURAL GAS PRODUCTION.—For purposes of this section—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—The terms ‘qualified crude oil production’ and ‘qualified natural gas production’ mean domestic crude oil or domestic natural gas which is produced from a qualified marginal well.

“(2) LIMITATION ON AMOUNT OF PRODUCTION WHICH MAY QUALIFY.—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—Crude oil or natural gas produced during any taxable year from any well shall not be treated as qualified crude oil production or qualified natural gas production to the extent production from the well during the taxable year exceeds 1,095 barrels or barrel equivalents.

“(B) PROPORTIONATE REDUCTIONS.—

“(i) SHORT TAXABLE YEARS.—In the case of a short taxable year, the limitations under this paragraph shall be proportionately reduced to reflect the ratio which the number of days in such taxable year bears to 365.

“(ii) WELLS NOT IN PRODUCTION ENTIRE YEAR.—In the case of a well which is not capable of production during each day of a taxable year, the limitations under this paragraph applicable to the well shall be proportionately reduced to reflect the ratio which the number of days of production bears to the total number of days in the taxable year.

“(3) NONCOMPLIANCE WITH POLLUTION LAWS.—Production from any well during any period in which such well is not in compliance with applicable Federal pollution prevention, control, and permit requirements shall not be treated as qualified crude oil production or qualified natural gas production.

“(4) DEFINITIONS.—

“(A) QUALIFIED MARGINAL WELL.—The term ‘qualified marginal well’ means a domestic well—

“(i) the production from which during the taxable year is treated as marginal production under section 613A(c)(6), or

“(ii) which, during the taxable year—

“(I) has average daily production of not more than 25 barrel equivalents, and “(II) produces water at a rate not less than 95 percent of total well effluent.

“(B) CRUDE OIL, ETC.—The terms ‘crude oil’, ‘natural gas’, ‘domestic’, and ‘barrel’ have the meanings given such terms by section 613A(e).

“(C) BARREL EQUIVALENT.—The term ‘barrel equivalent’ means, with respect to natural gas, a conversion ratio of 6,000 cubic feet of natural gas to 1 barrel of crude oil.

“(d) OTHER RULES.—

“(1) PRODUCTION ATTRIBUTABLE TO THE TAXPAYER.—In the case of a qualified marginal well in which there is more than 1 owner of operating interests in the well and the crude oil or natural gas production exceeds the limitation under subsection (c)(2), qualifying crude oil production or qualifying natural gas production attributable to the taxpayer shall be determined on the basis of the ratio which taxpayer’s revenue interest in the production bears to the aggregate of the revenue interests of all operating interest owners in the production.

“(2) OPERATING INTEREST REQUIRED.—Any credit under this section may be claimed only on production which is attributable to the holder of an operating interest.

“(3) PRODUCTION FROM NONCONVENTIONAL SOURCES EXCLUDED.—In the case of production from a qualified marginal well which is eligible for the credit allowed under section 29 for the taxable year, no credit shall be allowable under this section unless the taxpayer elects not to claim the credit under section 29 with respect to the well.”.

(b) CREDIT TREATED AS BUSINESS CREDIT.—Section 38(b) (relating to current year business credit), as amended by this Act, is amended by striking “plus” at the end of paragraph (22), by striking the period at the end of paragraph (23) and inserting “; plus”, and by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

(c) NO CARRYBACK OF MARGINAL OIL AND GAS WELL PRODUCTION CREDIT BEFORE EFFECTIVE DATE.—Section 39(d) (relating to transition rules), as amended by this Act, is amended by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

“(19) NO CARRYBACK OF MARGINAL OIL AND GAS WELL PRODUCTION CREDIT BEFORE EFFECTIVE DATE.—No portion of the unused business credit for any taxable year which is attributable to the marginal oil and gas well production credit determined under section 45M may be carried back to a taxable year ending before October 1, 2004.”.

(d) COORDINATION WITH SECTION 29.—Section 29(a) (relating to allowance of credit) is amended by striking “There” and inserting “At the election of the taxpayer, there”.

(e) CLERICAL AMENDMENT.—The table of sections for subpart D of part IV of subchapter A of chapter 1, as amended by this Act, is amended by adding at the end the following new item:

"Sec. 45M. Credit for producing oil and gas from marginal wells."

(f) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to production in taxable years beginning after September 30, 2004.

SEC. 812. NATURAL GAS GATHERING LINES TREATED AS 7-YEAR PROPERTY.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 168(e)(3)(C) (defining 7-year property) is amended by striking "and" at the end of clause (i), by redesignating clause (ii) as clause (iii), and by inserting after clause (i) the following new clause:

"(ii) any natural gas gathering line, and".

(b) NATURAL GAS GATHERING LINE.—Section 168(i) (relating to definitions and special rules), as amended by this Act, is amended by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

"(17) NATURAL GAS GATHERING LINE.—The term 'natural gas gathering line' means—

"(A) the pipe, equipment, and appurtenances used to deliver natural gas from the wellhead or a commonpoint to the point at which such gas first reaches—

"(i) a gas processing plant,

"(ii) an interconnection with a transmission pipeline certificated by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission as an interstate transmission pipeline,

"(iii) an interconnection with an intrastate transmission pipeline, or

"(iv) a direct interconnection with a local distribution company, a gas storage facility, or an industrial consumer, or

"(B) any other pipe, equipment, or appurtenances determined to be a gathering line by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission.

(c) ALTERNATIVE SYSTEM.—The table contained in section 168(g)(3)(B) (relating to special rule for certain property assigned to classes) is amended by inserting after the item relating to subparagraph (C)(i) the following new item:

"(C)(ii) 14".

(d) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to property placed in service after September 30, 2004, in taxable years ending after such date.

SEC. 813. EXPENSING OF CAPITAL COSTS INCURRED IN COMPLYING WITH ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION AGENCY SULFUR REGULATIONS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Part VI of subchapter B of chapter 1 (relating to itemized deductions for individuals and corporations), as amended by this Act, is amended by inserting after section 179B the following new section:

"SEC. 179C. DEDUCTION FOR CAPITAL COSTS INCURRED IN COMPLYING WITH ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION AGENCY SULFUR REGULATIONS.

"(a) TREATMENT AS EXPENSE.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—A small business refiner may elect to treat any qualified capital costs as an expense which is not chargeable to capital account. Any qualified cost which is so treated shall be allowed as a deduction for the taxable year in which the cost is paid or incurred.

"(2) LIMITATION.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—The aggregate costs which may be taken into account under this subsection for any taxable year with respect to any facility may not exceed the applicable percentage of the qualified capital costs paid or incurred for the taxable year with respect to such facility.

"(B) APPLICABLE PERCENTAGE.—For purposes of subparagraph (A)—

"(i) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in clause (ii), the applicable percentage is 75 percent.

"(ii) REDUCED PERCENTAGE.—In the case of any facility with average daily refinery runs or average retained production for the period described in subsection (b)(2) in excess of 155,000 barrels, the percentage described in clause (i) shall be reduced (but not below zero) by the product of—

"(I) such percentage (before the application of this clause), and

"(II) the ratio of such excess to 50,000 barrels.

"(b) DEFINITIONS.—For purposes of this section—

"(1) QUALIFIED CAPITAL COSTS.—The term 'qualified capital costs' means any costs which—

"(A) are otherwise chargeable to capital account, and

"(B) are paid or incurred for the purpose of complying with the Highway Diesel Fuel Sulfur Control Requirement of the Environmental Protection Agency, as in effect on the date of the enactment of this section, with respect to a facility placed in service by the taxpayer before such date.

"(2) SMALL BUSINESS REFINER.—The term 'small business refiner' means, with respect to any taxable year, a refiner of crude oil—

"(A) which, within the refinery operations of the business, employs not more than 1,500 employees on any day during such taxable year, and

"(B) the average daily refinery run or average retained production of which for all facilities of the taxpayer for the 1-year period ending on the date of the enactment of this section did not exceed 410,000 barrels.

"(c) COORDINATION WITH OTHER PROVISIONS.—Section 280B shall not apply to amounts which are treated as expenses under this section.

"(d) BASIS REDUCTION.—For purposes of this title, the basis of any property shall be reduced by the portion of the cost of such property taken into account under subsection (a).

"(e) CONTROLLED GROUPS.—For purposes of this section, all persons treated as a single employer under subsection (b), (c), (m), or (o) of section 414 shall be treated as a single employer."

(b) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—

(1) Section 263(a)(1), as amended by this Act, is amended by striking "or" at the end of subparagraph (H), by striking the period at the end of subparagraph (I) and inserting ", or", and by inserting after subparagraph (I) the following new subparagraph:

"(J) expenditures for which a deduction is allowed under section 179C."

(2) Section 263A(c)(3) is amended by inserting "179C," after "section".

(3) Section 312(k)(3)(B), as amended by this Act, is amended by striking "or 179B" each place it appears in the heading and text and inserting "179B, or 179C".

(4) Section 1016(a), as amended by this Act, is amended by striking "and" at the end of paragraph (33), by striking the period at the end of paragraph (34) and inserting ", and", and by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

"(35) to the extent provided in section 179C(d)."

(5) Section 1245(a), as amended by this Act, is amended by inserting "179C," after "179B," both places it appears in paragraphs (2)(C) and (3)(C).

(6) The table of sections for part VI of subchapter B of chapter 1, as amended by this Act, is amended by inserting after the item relating to section 179B the following new item:

"Sec. 179C. Deduction for capital costs incurred in complying with Environmental Protection Agency sulfur regulations."

(c) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendment made by this section shall apply to expenses paid or incurred after December 31, 2002, in taxable years ending after such date.

SEC. 814. ENVIRONMENTAL TAX CREDIT.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Subpart D of part IV of subchapter A of chapter 1 (relating to business-related credits), as amended by this Act, is amended by adding at the end the following new section:

"SEC. 45N. ENVIRONMENTAL TAX CREDIT.

"(a) IN GENERAL.—For purposes of section 38, the amount of the environmental tax credit determined under this section with respect to any small business refiner for any taxable year is an amount equal to 5 cents for every gallon of low-sulfur diesel fuel produced at a facility by such small business refiner during such taxable year.

"(b) MAXIMUM CREDIT.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—For any small business refiner, the aggregate amount determined under subsection (a) for any taxable year with respect to any facility shall not exceed the applicable percentage of the qualified capital costs paid or incurred by such small business refiner with respect to such facility during the applicable period, reduced by the credit allowed under subsection (a) with respect to such facility for any preceding year.

"(2) APPLICABLE PERCENTAGE.—For purposes of paragraph (1)—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in subparagraph (B), the applicable percentage is 25 percent.

"(B) REDUCED PERCENTAGE.—The percentage described in subparagraph (A) shall be reduced in the same manner as under section 179C(a)(2)(B)(ii).

"(c) DEFINITIONS.—For purposes of this section—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—The terms 'small business refiner' and 'qualified capital costs' have the same meaning as given in section 179C.

"(2) LOW-SULFUR DIESEL FUEL.—The term 'low-sulfur diesel fuel' means diesel fuel containing not more than 15 parts per million of sulfur.

"(3) APPLICABLE PERIOD.—The term 'applicable period' means, with respect to any facility, the period beginning on the day after the date of the enactment of this section and ending with the date which is 1 year after the date on which the taxpayer must comply with the applicable EPA regulations with respect to such facility.

"(4) APPLICABLE EPA REGULATIONS.—The term 'applicable EPA regulations' means the Highway Diesel Fuel Sulfur Control Requirements of the Environmental Protection Agency, as in effect on the date of the enactment of this section.

"(d) CERTIFICATION.—

"(1) REQUIRED.—Not later than the date which is 30 months after the first day of the first taxable year in which a credit is allowed under this section with respect to a facility, the small business refiner shall obtain a certification from the Secretary, in consultation with the Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency, that the taxpayer's qualified capital costs with respect to such facility will result in compliance with the applicable EPA regulations.

"(2) CONTENTS OF APPLICATION.—An application for certification shall include relevant information regarding unit capacities and operating characteristics sufficient for the Secretary, in consultation with the Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency, to determine that such qualified capital costs are necessary for compliance with the applicable EPA regulations.

"(3) REVIEW PERIOD.—Any application shall be reviewed and notice of certification, if applicable, shall be made within 60 days of receipt of such application. In the event the Secretary does not notify the taxpayer of the results of such certification within such period, the taxpayer may presume the certification to be issued until so notified.

“(4) STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS.—With respect to the credit allowed under this section—

“(A) the statutory period for the assessment of any deficiency attributable to such credit shall not expire before the end of the 3-year period ending on the date that the period described in paragraph (3) ends with respect to the taxpayer, and

“(B) such deficiency may be assessed before the expiration of such 3-year period notwithstanding the provisions of any other law or rule of law which would otherwise prevent such assessment.

“(e) CONTROLLED GROUPS.—For purposes of this section, all persons treated as a single employer under subsection (b), (c), (m), or (o) of section 414 shall be treated as a single employer.

“(f) COOPERATIVE ORGANIZATIONS.—

“(1) APPORTIONMENT OF CREDIT.—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—In the case of a cooperative organization described in section 1381(a), any portion of the credit determined under subsection (a) for the taxable year may, at the election of the organization, be apportioned among patrons eligible to share in patronage dividends on the basis of the quantity or value of business done with or for such patrons for the taxable year.

“(B) FORM AND EFFECT OF ELECTION.—An election under subparagraph (A) for any taxable year shall be made on a timely filed return for such year. Such election, once made, shall be irrevocable for such taxable year.

“(2) TREATMENT OF ORGANIZATIONS AND PATRONS.—

“(A) ORGANIZATIONS.—The amount of the credit not apportioned to patrons pursuant to paragraph (1) shall be included in the amount determined under subsection (a) for the taxable year of the organization.

“(B) PATRONS.—The amount of the credit apportioned to patrons pursuant to paragraph (1) shall be included in the amount determined under subsection (a) for the first taxable year of each patron ending on or after the last day of the payment period (as defined in section 1382(d)) for the taxable year of the organization or, if earlier, for the taxable year of each patron ending on or after the date on which the patron receives notice from the cooperative of the apportionment.

“(3) SPECIAL RULES FOR DECREASE IN CREDITS FOR TAXABLE YEAR.—If the amount of the credit of a cooperative organization determined under subsection (a) for a taxable year is less than the amount of such credit shown on the return of the cooperative organization for such year, an amount equal to the excess of—

“(A) such reduction, over

“(B) the amount not apportioned to such patrons under paragraph (1) for the taxable year, shall be treated as an increase in tax imposed by this chapter on the organization. Such increase shall not be treated as tax imposed by this chapter for purposes of determining the amount of any credit under this chapter or for purposes of section 55.”.

(b) CREDIT MADE PART OF GENERAL BUSINESS CREDIT.—Section 38(b) (relating to current year business credit), as amended by this Act, is amended by striking “plus” at the end of paragraph (23), by striking the period at the end of paragraph (24) and inserting “, plus”, and by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

“(25) in the case of a small business refiner, the environmental tax credit determined under section 45N(a).”.

(c) DENIAL OF DOUBLE BENEFIT.—Section 280C (relating to certain expenses for which credits are allowable), as amended by this Act, is amended by adding at the end the following new subsection:

“(e) ENVIRONMENTAL TAX CREDIT.—No deduction shall be allowed for that portion of the expenses otherwise allowable as a deduction for the taxable year which is equal to the amount of the credit determined for the taxable year under section 45N(a).”.

(d) CLERICAL AMENDMENT.—The table of sections for subpart D of part IV of subchapter A of chapter 1, as amended by this Act, is amended by adding at the end the following new item:

(e) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to expenses paid or incurred after December 31, 2002, in taxable years ending after such date.

SEC. 815. DETERMINATION OF SMALL REFINER EXCEPTION TO OIL DEPLETION DEDUCTION.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Paragraph (4) of section 613A(d) (relating to limitations on application of subsection (c)) is amended to read as follows:

“(4) CERTAIN REFINERS EXCLUDED.—If the taxpayer or 1 or more related persons engages in the refining of crude oil, subsection (c) shall not apply to the taxpayer for a taxable year if the average daily refinery runs of the taxpayer and such persons for the taxable year exceed 60,000 barrels. For purposes of this paragraph, the average daily refinery runs for any taxable year shall be determined by dividing the aggregate refinery runs for the taxable year by the number of days in the taxable year.”.

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendment made by this section shall apply to taxable years ending after September 30, 2004.

SEC. 816. MARGINAL PRODUCTION INCOME LIMIT EXTENSION.

Section 613A(c)(6)(H) (relating to temporary suspension of taxable income limit with respect to marginal production) is amended by striking “2005” and inserting “2007”.

SEC. 817. AMORTIZATION OF DELAY RENTAL PAYMENTS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 167 (relating to depreciation) is amended by redesignating subsection (h) as subsection (i) and by inserting after subsection (g) the following new subsection:

“(h) AMORTIZATION OF DELAY RENTAL PAYMENTS FOR DOMESTIC OIL AND GAS WELLS.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—Any delay rental payment paid or incurred in connection with the development of oil or gas wells within the United States (as defined in section 638) shall be allowed as a deduction ratably over the 24-month period beginning on the date that such payment was paid or incurred.

“(2) HALF-YEAR CONVENTION.—For purposes of paragraph (1), any payment paid or incurred during the taxable year shall be treated as paid or incurred on the mid-point of such taxable year.

“(3) EXCLUSIVE METHOD.—Except as provided in this subsection, no depreciation or amortization deduction shall be allowed with respect to such payments.

“(4) TREATMENT UPON ABANDONMENT.—If any property to which a delay rental payment relates is retired or abandoned during the 24-month period described in paragraph (1), no deduction shall be allowed on account of such retirement or abandonment and the amortization deduction under this subsection shall continue with respect to such payment.

“(5) DELAY RENTAL PAYMENTS.—For purposes of this subsection, the term ‘delay rental payment’ means an amount paid for the privilege of deferring development of an oil or gas well under an oil or gas lease.”.

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to amounts paid or incurred in taxable years beginning after September 30, 2004.

SEC. 818. AMORTIZATION OF GEOLOGICAL AND GEOPHYSICAL EXPENDITURES.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 167 (relating to depreciation), as amended by this Act, is amended by redesignating subsection (i) as subsection (j) and by inserting after subsection (h) the following new subsection:

“(i) AMORTIZATION OF GEOLOGICAL AND GEOPHYSICAL EXPENDITURES.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—Any geological and geophysical expenses paid or incurred in connection with the exploration for, or development of, oil or gas within the United States (as defined in section 638) shall be allowed as a deduction ratably over the 24-month period beginning on the date that such expense was paid or incurred.

“(2) SPECIAL RULES.—For purposes of this subsection, rules similar to the rules of paragraphs (2), (3), and (4) of subsection (h) shall apply.”.

(b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—Section 263A(c)(3) is amended by inserting “167(h), 167(i),” after “under section”.

(c) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to costs paid or incurred in taxable years beginning after September 30, 2004.

SEC. 819. EXTENSION AND MODIFICATION OF CREDIT FOR PRODUCING FUEL FROM A NONCONVENTIONAL SOURCE.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 29 (relating to credit for producing fuel from a nonconventional source) is amended by adding at the end the following new subsection:

“(h) EXTENSION FOR OTHER FACILITIES.—

“(1) OIL AND GAS.—In the case of a well or facility for producing qualified fuels described in subparagraph (A) or (B) of subsection (c)(1) which was drilled or placed in service after September 30, 2004, and before January 1, 2007, notwithstanding subsection (f), this section shall apply with respect to such fuels produced at such well or facility before the close of the 3-year period beginning on the date that such well is drilled or such facility is placed in service.

“(2) FACILITIES PRODUCING FUELS FROM AGRICULTURAL AND ANIMAL WASTE.—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—In the case of facility for producing liquid, gaseous, or solid fuels from qualified agricultural and animal wastes, including such fuels when used as feedstocks, which was placed in service after September 30, 2004, and before January 1, 2007, this section shall apply with respect to fuel produced at such facility before the close of the 3-year period beginning on the date such facility is placed in service.

“(B) QUALIFIED AGRICULTURAL AND ANIMAL WASTE.—For purposes of this paragraph, the term ‘qualified agricultural and animal waste’ means agriculture and animal waste, including by-products, packaging, and any materials associated with the processing, feeding, selling, transporting, or disposal of agricultural or animal products or wastes.

“(3) WELLS PRODUCING VISCOUS OIL.—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—In the case of a well for producing viscous oil which was placed in service after September 30, 2004, and before January 1, 2007, this section shall apply with respect to fuel produced at such well before the close of the 3-year period beginning on the date such well is placed in service.

“(B) VISCOUS OIL.—The term ‘viscous oil’ means heavy oil, as defined in section 613A(c)(6), except that—

“(i) ‘22 degrees’ shall be substituted for ‘20 degrees’ in applying subparagraph (F) thereof, and

"(ii) in all cases, the oil gravity shall be measured from the initial well-head samples, drill cuttings, or down hole samples.

"(C) WAIVER OF UNRELATED PERSON REQUIREMENT.—In the case of viscous oil, the requirement under subsection (a)(2)(A) of a sale to an unrelated person shall not apply to any sale to the extent that the viscous oil is not consumed in the immediate vicinity of the wellhead.

"(4) FACILITIES PRODUCING REFINED COAL.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—In the case of a facility described in subparagraph (C) for producing refined coal which was placed in service after September 30, 2004, and before January 1, 2007, this section shall apply with respect to fuel produced at such facility before the close of the 5-year period beginning on the date such facility is placed in service.

"(B) REFINED COAL.—For purposes of this paragraph, the term 'refined coal' means a fuel which is a liquid, gaseous, or solid synthetic fuel produced from coal (including lignite) or high carbon fly ash, including such fuel used as a feedstock.

"(C) COVERED FACILITIES.—

"(i) IN GENERAL.—A facility is described in this subparagraph if such facility produces refined coal using a technology which results in—

"(I) a qualified emission reduction, and

"(II) a qualified enhanced value.

"(ii) QUALIFIED EMISSION REDUCTION.—For purposes of this subparagraph, the term 'qualified emission reduction' means a reduction of at least 20 percent of the emissions of nitrogen oxide and either sulfur dioxide or mercury released when burning the refined coal (excluding any dilution caused by materials combined or added during the production process), as compared to the emissions released when burning the feedstock coal or comparable coal predominantly available in the marketplace as of January 1, 2003.

"(iii) QUALIFIED ENHANCED VALUE.—For purposes of this subparagraph, the term 'qualified enhanced value' means an increase of at least 50 percent in the market value of the refined coal (excluding any increase caused by materials combined or added during the production process), as compared to the value of the feedstock coal.

"(iv) QUALIFYING ADVANCED CLEAN COAL TECHNOLOGY UNITS EXCLUDED.—A facility described in this subparagraph shall not include a qualifying advanced clean coal technology unit (as defined in section 48A(b)).

"(5) COALMINE GAS.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—This section shall apply to coalmine gas—

"(i) captured or extracted by the taxpayer during the period beginning after September 30, 2004, and ending before January 1, 2007, and

"(ii) utilized as a fuel source or sold by or on behalf of the taxpayer to an unrelated person during such period.

"(B) COALMINE GAS.—For purposes of this paragraph, the term 'coalmine gas' means any methane gas which is—

"(i) liberated during or as a result of coal mining operations, or

"(ii) extracted up to 10 years in advance of coal mining operations as part of a specific plan to mine a coal deposit.

"(C) SPECIAL RULE FOR ADVANCED EXTRACTION.—In the case of coalmine gas which is captured in advance of coal mining operations, the credit under subsection (a) shall be allowed only after the date the coal extraction occurs in the immediate area where the coalmine gas was removed.

"(D) NONCOMPLIANCE WITH POLLUTION LAWS.—This paragraph shall not apply to the capture or extraction of coalmine gas from coal mining operations with respect to any period in which such coal mining operations are not in compliance with applicable State and Federal pollution prevention, control, and permit requirements.

"(6) SPECIAL RULES.—In determining the amount of credit allowable under this section solely by reason of this subsection—

"(A) FUELS TREATED AS QUALIFIED FUELS.—Any fuel described in paragraph (2), (3), (4), or (5) shall be treated as a qualified fuel for purposes of this section.

"(B) DAILY LIMIT.—The amount of qualified fuels sold during any taxable year which may be taken into account by reason of this subsection with respect to any project shall not exceed an average barrel-of-oil equivalent of 200,000 cubic feet of natural gas per day. Days before the date the project is placed in service shall not be taken into account in determining such average.

"(C) CREDIT AMOUNT.—The dollar amount applicable under subsection (a)(1) shall be $3 (and the inflation adjustment under subsection (b)(2) shall not apply to such amount)."

(b) CLARIFICATION OF PLACED IN SERVICE DATE FOR CERTAIN LANDFILL GAS FACILITIES.—Section 29(d) (relating to other definitions and special rules), as amended by this Act, is amended by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

"(10) CLARIFICATION OF PLACED IN SERVICE DATE FOR CERTAIN LANDFILL GAS FACILITIES.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—In the case of a landfill placed in service on or before the date of the enactment of this paragraph—

"(i) a facility for producing qualified fuel from such landfill shall include all wells, pipes, and related components used to collect landfill gas, and

"(ii) production of landfill gas from such landfill attributable to wells, pipes, and related components placed in service after such date of enactment shall be treated as produced from a facility placed in service on the date such wells, pipes, and related components were placed in service.

"(B) LANDFILL GAS.—The term 'landfill gas' means gas described in subsection (c)(1)(B)(ii) and derived from the biodegradation of municipal solid waste."

(c) EXTENSION FOR CERTAIN FUEL PRODUCED AT EXISTING FACILITIES.—Section 29(f)(2) (relating to application of section) is amended by inserting "(January 1, 2006, in the case of any coke, coke gas, or natural gas and by-products produced by coal gasification from lignite in a facility described in paragraph (1)(B))" after "January 1, 2003".

(d) STUDY OF COALBED METHANE.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary of the Treasury shall conduct a study regarding the effect of section 29 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 on the production of coalbed methane.

(2) CONTENTS OF STUDY.—The study under paragraph (1) shall estimate the total amount of credits under section 29 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 claimed annually and in the aggregate which are related to the production of coalbed methane since the date of the enactment of such section 29. Such study shall report the annual value of such credits allowable for coalbed methane compared to the average annual wellhead price of natural gas (per thousand cubic feet of natural gas). Such study shall also estimate the incremental increase in production of coalbed methane which has resulted from the enactment of such section 29, and the cost to the Federal Government, in terms of the net tax benefits claimed, per thousand cubic feet of incremental coalbed methane produced annually and in the aggregate since such enactment.

(e) EFFECTIVE DATES.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in paragraph (2), the amendments made by this section shall apply to fuel sold after September 30, 2004, in taxable years ending after such date.

(2) EXISTING FACILITIES.—The amendments made by subsection (c) shall apply to fuel sold after December 31, 2002, in taxable years ending after such date.

(3) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—

(A) SUNSET STAGED REDUCTION REQUIREMENT.—Paragraph (2) of section 501(a) of the Trade and Development Act of 2000 (Public Law 106-200; 114 Stat. 299) is amended by adding before the period “for goods entered, or withdrawn from warehouse for consumption, before January 1, 2005”.

(B) ALLOCATION OF TARIFF-RATE QUOTAS.—Subsection (e) of section 501 of the Trade and Development Act of 2000 (Public Law 106-200; 114 Stat. 200) is amended—

(i) by inserting “for manufacturers of men’s and boys’ suits” after “implementing the limitation”; and

(ii) by inserting at the end the following new sentence: “In implementing the limitation for manufacturers of worsted wool fabric on the quantity of worsted wool fabrics under heading 9902.51.12 of the Harmonized Tariff Schedule of the United States, as required by U.S. Note 16 of subchapter II of chapter 99 of such Schedule, for the entry, or withdrawal from warehouse for consumption, the Secretary of Commerce shall prescribe regulations to allocate fairly the quantity of worsted wool fabrics required under United States note 16 of such schedule to manufacturers who weave worsted wool fabric in the United States.”.

(C) SUNSET AUTHORITY TO MODIFY LIMITATION ON QUANTITY.—Subsection (b) of section 504 of the Trade and Development Act of 2000 (Public Law 106-200; 114 Stat. 301) is repealed effective January 1, 2005.

(c) EXTENSION OF DUTY REFUNDS AND WOOL RESEARCH TRUST FUND.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The United States Customs Service shall make 5 additional payments to each manufacturer that receives a payment under section 505 of the Trade and Development Act of 2000 (Public Law 106-200; 114 Stat. 303) during calendar year 2005, and that, not later than March 1 of each year of an additional payment, provides an affidavit that it remains a manufacturer in the United States as of January 1 of the year of that payment. Each payment shall be equal to the amount of the payment received for calendar year 2005 as follows:

(A) The first payment to be made after January 1, 2006, but on or before April 15, 2006.

(B) The second, third, fourth, and fifth payments to be made after January 1, but on or before April 15, of each of the following 4 calendar years.

(2) EXTENSION OF WOOL RESEARCH, DEVELOPMENT, AND PROMOTION TRUST FUND.—Section 506(f) of the Trade and Development Act of 2000 (Public Law 106-200; 114 Stat. 304) is amended by striking “2006” and inserting “2011”.

(3) COMMERCE AUTHORITY TO PROMOTE DOMESTIC EMPLOYMENT.—The Secretary of Commerce shall provide grants through December 31, 2010 to manufacturers of worsted wool fabric in the amount of $2,666,000 annually to manufacturers of worsted wool fabric of the kind described in heading 9902.51.12 of the Harmonized Tariff Schedule of the United States during calendar years 1999, 2000, and 2001, and $2,666,000 annually to manufacturers of worsted wool fabric of the kind described in heading 9902.51.11 of the Harmonized Tariff Schedule of the United States during such calendar years, allocated based on the percentage of each manufacturer’s production of the fabric described in such heading for such 3 years compared to the production of such fabric for all such applicants who qualify under this paragraph for such grant category. Any grant awarded by the Secretary under this section shall be final and not subject to appeal or protest.

(4) SPECIAL RULE FOR SUCCESSOR-IN-INTEREST.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—Any person that becomes a successor-in-interest to a manufacturer entitled to payment, under title V of the Trade and Development Act of 2000 (Public Law 106-200; 114 Stat. 299) or this title, shall be eligible to claim payments as if the successor-in-interest was the original claimant without regard to section 3727 of title 31, United States Code. The right to claim payment as a successor-in-interest under the preceding sentence shall be effective as if the right was included in section 505 of the Trade and Development Act of 2000.

(B) STATUS AS SUCCESSOR-IN-INTEREST.—A person may become a successor-in-interest for purposes of subparagraph (A) pursuant to—

(i) an assignment of the claim for payment under title V of the Trade and Development Act of 2002;

(ii) an assignment of the original claimant’s right to manufacture under the same trade name as the original claimant;

(iii) a reorganization; or

(iv) some other legally recognized manner.

(5) AUTHORIZATION.—There is authorized to be appropriated and is hereby appropriated out of amounts in the general fund of the Treasury not otherwise appropriated such sums as are necessary to carry out the provisions of this subsection.

(6) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The grants described in paragraph (3) shall commence on or after January 1, 2005, and before December 31, 2010.

(d) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendment made by subsection (a)(1)(B) shall apply to goods entered, or withdrawn from warehouse for consumption, on or after January 1, 2005.

SEC. 502. LABELING OF WOOL PRODUCTS TO FACILITATE COMPLIANCE AND PROTECT CONSUMERS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 4 of the Wool Products Labeling Act of 1939 (15 U.S.C. 68b(a)) is amended by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

“(5) In the case of a wool product stamped, tagged, labeled, or otherwise identified in any one of the following subparagraphs, the average fiber diameter may be subject to a variation of 0.25 microns, and may be subject to such other standards or deviations as prescribed by regulation by the Commission:

“(A) ‘Super 80’s’ or ‘80’s’ if the average fiber diameter thereof does not average 19.5 microns or finer.

“(B) ‘Super 90’s’ or ‘90’s’ if the average fiber diameter thereof does not average 19.0 microns or finer.

“(C) ‘Super 100’s’ or ‘100’s’ if the average fiber diameter thereof does not average 18.5 microns or finer.

“(D) ‘Super 110’s’ or ‘110’s’ if the average diameter of wool fiber thereof does not average 18.0 microns or finer.

“(E) ‘Super 120’s’ or ‘120’s’ if the average diameter of wool fiber thereof does not average 17.5 microns or finer.

“(F) ‘Super 130’s’ or ‘130’s’ if the average diameter of wool fiber thereof does not average 17.0 microns or finer.

“(G) ‘Super 140’s’ or ‘140’s’ if the average diameter of wool fiber thereof does not average 16.5 microns or finer.

“(H) ‘Super 150’s’ or ‘150’s’ if the average diameter of wool fiber thereof does not average 16.0 microns or finer.

“(I) ‘Super 160’s’ or ‘160’s’ if the average diameter of wool fiber thereof does not average 15.5 microns or finer.

“(J) ‘Super 170’s’ or ‘170’s’ if the average diameter of wool fiber thereof does not average 15.0 microns or finer.

“(K) ‘Super 180’s’ or ‘180’s’ if the average diameter of wool fiber thereof does not average 14.5 microns or finer.

“(L) ‘Super 190’s’ or ‘190’s’ if the average diameter of wool fiber thereof does not average 14.0 microns or finer.

“(M) ‘Super 200’s’ or ‘200’s’ if the average diameter of wool fiber thereof does not average 13.5 microns or finer.

“(N) ‘Super 210’s’ or ‘210’s’ if the average diameter of wool fiber thereof does not average 13.0 microns or finer.”

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendment made by this section shall apply to wool products manufactured on or after January 1, 2005.

SA 2942. Mr. CORNYN submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the bill H.R. 4, to reauthorize and improve the program of block grants to States for temporary assistance for needy families, improve access to quality child care, and for other purposes; which was ordered to lie on the table; as follows:

On page 341, between lines 8 and 9, insert the following:

SEC. —. ELECTRONIC DISBURSEMENT OF CHILD SUPPORT PAYMENTS TO FAMILIES.

Section 454A(g) (42 U.S.C. 654a(g)) is amended by inserting at the end the following:

“(3) ELECTRONIC DISBURSEMENT REQUIREMENT.—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—Not later than October 1, 2008, each State disbursement unit operated under section 454B shall implement a system to electronically disburse, through direct deposit or a widely accessible card-based system, all child support collections disbursed to families under that section.

“(B) STATE OPTION TO REQUIRE CARD-BASED PAYMENT.—A State may require a payment recipient to accept payment through a card-based system if the recipient has declined to accept payment by direct deposit or does not have an account to which payment may be made by direct deposit.

“(C) OPT-OUT.—Notwithstanding subparagraph (A), a State disbursement unit may maintain a nonelectronic system for disbursing child support collections to custodial parents under section 454B after October 1, 2008, if the State notifies the Secretary in writing by October 1, 2008, that the State intends to maintain such a system.”

SEC. —. OPTIONAL EXPANSION OF STATE DISBURSEMENT UNIT TO CREATE A CENTRALIZED PAYMENT LOCATION FOR ALL CHILD SUPPORT WAGE WITHHOLDING.

Section 454B(a)(1)(B) (42 U.S.C. 654b(a)(1)(B)) is amended by inserting “or, at State option, all support orders, regardless of date issued,” after “in which the support order is initially issued in the State on or after January 1, 1994.”

SA 2943. Mr. CORNYN (for himself and Mr. BINGAMAN) submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the bill H.R. 4, to reauthorize and improve the program of block grants to States for temporary assistance for needy families, improve access to quality child care, and for other purposes; which was ordered to lie on the table; as follows:

On page 355, between lines 3 and 4, insert the following:

SEC. 603. CLARIFICATION OF AUTHORITY OF STATES AND LOCAL AUTHORITIES TO PROVIDE HEALTH CARE TO IMMIGRANTS.

(1) in subsection (b)—
(A) by striking paragraphs (1) and (3); and
(B) by redesignating paragraphs (2) and (4) as paragraphs (1) and (2), respectively;

(2) in subsection (c)—
(A) in paragraph (1)—
(i) in the matter preceding subparagraph (A), by striking “(2) and (3)” and inserting “(2), (3), and (4)”; and
(ii) in subparagraph (B), by striking “health,”; and

(B) by adding at the end the following new paragraph
“(4) Such term does not include any health benefit for which payments or assistance are provided to an individual, household, or family eligibility unit by an agency of a State or local government or by appropriated funds of a State or local government.”; and

(3) in subsection (d), by inserting “or who otherwise is not a qualified alien (as defined in subsections (b) and (c) of section 431)” after “United States”.

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by subsection (a) shall apply to health care furnished before, on, or after the date of enactment of this Act.

NOTICE OF HEARING

COMMITTEE ON ENERGY AND NATURAL RESOURCES

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I would like to announce for the information of the Senate and the public that the following hearing has been scheduled before the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources.

The hearing will be held on May 11, 2004, at 10 a.m. in room SD-366.

The purpose of this hearing is to gain an understanding of the impacts and costs of last year's fires and then look forward to the potential 2004 fire season. The hearing will give all Committee members a solid understanding of the problems faced last year and what problems the agencies and the land they oversee may face this next season, including aerial fire fighting assets and crew, and overhead availability.

Because of the limited time available for the hearings, witnesses may testify by invitation only. However, those wishing to submit written testimony for the hearing record should send two copies of their testimony to the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources, United States Senate, SD-364, Washington, D.C. 20510-6150.

For further information, please contact Frank Gladies (202-224-2878) or Amy Millet (202-224-7556).

PRIVILEGES OF THE FLOOR

Mr. BAUCUS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the privilege of the floor be granted to the following Finance Committee fellows and interns during consideration of H.R. 4, the welfare bill: Shannon Augare, Steve Beasley, Jane Bergeson, Diana Birkett, Simon Chabel, Jodi George, Tyson Hill, Scott Landes, Pascal Niedermann, Jeremy Seidlitz, Matt Stokes, and Trace Thaxton.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. BAUCUS. Mr. President, in addition, I ask unanimous consent that the following staff members of Senator GRASSLEY be granted the privilege of the floor for the duration of the debate on H.R. 4: Trenton Norman, Jarret Heil, and Jill Gotts.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. BAUCUS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Abigail Kurland of Senator DODD's staff be granted floor privileges during the consideration of H.R. 4.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The Senator from Kentucky.

MEASURE READ THE FIRST TIME—S. 2250

Mr. MCCONNELL. Mr. President, I understand that S. 2250 is at the desk. I ask for its first reading.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will read the bill by title.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

A bill (S. 2250) to extend the Temporary Extended Unemployment Compensation Act of 2002, and for other purposes.

Mr. MCCONNELL. Mr. President, I ask for its second reading in order to place the bill on the calendar.

Under the provisions of rule XIV, I object to my own request.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Objection is heard. The bill will be read a second time on the next legislative day.

ORDERS FOR TUESDAY, MARCH 30,
2004

Mr. MCCONNELL. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that when the Senate completes its business today, it adjourn until 9:45 a.m. tomorrow, Tuesday, March 30.

I further ask unanimous consent that following the prayer and pledge, the morning hour be deemed expired, the Journal of proceedings be approved to date, the time for the two leaders be reserved for their use later in the day and the Senate then begin a period of morning business for up to 60 minutes, with the first 30 minutes under the control of the Democratic leader or his designee, and the final 30 minutes under the control of the majority leader or his designee; provided that following morning business the Senate resume consideration of H.R. 4, the welfare reform reauthorization bill, and that the time until 12:15 be equally divided between the two leaders or their designees; provided further that at 12:15 p.m. the Senate proceed to a vote in relation to the Snowe amendment as provided under the previous order. I further ask unanimous consent that the Senate recess tomorrow following the conclusion of the vote on the Snowe amendment for the weekly party luncheons.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Nevada.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, either I misheard or my distinguished colleague misspoke. I think he said 9:40, and I think it is 9:45 we come in tomorrow, just so that is clear in the RECORD.

Mr. MCCONNELL. I thought I had said 9:45.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Nine forty-five for the RECORD.

Is there objection?

Without objection, it is so ordered.

PROGRAM

Mr. MCCONNELL. Tomorrow, following morning business, the Senate will resume consideration of H.R. 4, the welfare reform reauthorization bill. Under a previous agreement, at 12:15 p.m., the Senate will vote on the pending Snowe amendment on childcare. The vote on the Snowe amendment will be the first vote of tomorrow's session. For the remainder of the day, the Senate will continue debate on the welfare reauthorization bill.

As the majority leader stated earlier today, we hope that Senators will offer relevant amendments to the bill so we can finish this important legislation this week.

Additional rollcall votes are expected tomorrow afternoon as we try to make progress on the underlying welfare reauthorization bill.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Nevada.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, before the Senator calls the Senate to conclusion, we have on our side a significant number of people who wish to speak in the morning. This is just to give notice to all the offices that we have no objection to anyone who wants to speak, but the time will be drastically limited from the time we have been told they want to speak because we will not be able to change the 12:15 time because of our party caucuses.

ADJOURNMENT UNTIL 9:45 A.M.
TOMORROW

Mr. MCCONNELL. Mr. President, if there is no further business to come before the Senate, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate stand in adjournment under the previous order.

There being no objection, the Senate, at 7:02 p.m., adjourned until Tuesday, March 30, 2004, at 9:45 a.m.

EXTENSIONS OF REMARKS

HONORING JAMES "JIM"
VANDERFORD

HON. JON C. PORTER

OF NEVADA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, March 29, 2004

Mr. PORTER. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor Mr. James "Jim" Vanderford for his many years of service to Lake Mead National Recreation Area (NRA). Mr. Vanderford is both an amazing ambassador for the National Park Service and Lake Mead NRA and a dedicated public servant. I have worked with Jim throughout my career and am also proud to call him one of my good friends.

After serving our Nation in the U.S. Marines from 1960–1963, Mr. Vanderford began his civilian Federal career with the Bureau of Land Management in 1971. In May of 1974, he accepted a position at Lake Mead NRA and began his long career of service at one of Nevada's most important natural resources. He has served as the Chief of Maintenance and Engineering since August of 1994.

During his 30 years of service at Lake Mead NRA, Mr. Vanderford designed and supervised the construction and upgrade of many of the park's facilities, including picnic areas, launch ramps, courtesy docks, restrooms, and water and wastewater treatment facilities. He also supervised millions of dollars in Federal Highway Administration road construction projects.

The work Jim Vanderford did during his time at Lake Mead NRA has impacted each one of the more than 9 million people that visit Lake Mead each year. His work ethic and institutional knowledge will be greatly missed.

I wish Jim the very best in his retirement and look forward to seeing him and his wife Jeri Lynn as they continue to reside in Boulder City, Nevada. I am proud of all that Jim has done for Southern Nevada and commend him for all his years of service.

CONGRATULATING 2004 CENTRAL VALLEY COMMON THREADS AWARD WINNERS

HON. GEORGE RADANOVICH

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, March 29, 2004

Mr. RADANOVICH. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to congratulate Lillian Draxler, Debbie Jacobsen, Margaret Jensen, Mary Wickstrom and Bernice Woolf, the recipients of the 2004 Central Valley Common Threads Award. This award is presented to women in agriculture who have made a remarkable contribution to their community through volunteer work and philanthropy.

Lillian Draxler has been dedicated to the dairy industry her entire life. She helped establish the JCJ Dairy 30 years ago. For 38 years, Lillian has been engaged in the 4-H program both in Fresno and Kings counties serving in every capacity and coordinating every major event on the 4-H calendar. She provides leadership and funding to the Make-A-Wish Foundation, helps the Kings County Dairywomen amass scholarship funds for needy agriculture students, and is involved with the Dairy Herd Improvement Association. Lillian also assists the Farm Bureau and its Education and Agriculture Together programs.

Debbie Jacobsen has been active in the grape and teaching industry for more than 20 years. She is one of several principles in the family-owned J&L Vineyards and is teaching at Washington Union High School. Debbie currently serves as president of the Fresno County Farm Bureau and is the first woman to hold the position. She is a leader in the Farm Bureau's Ag in the Classroom program, speaking in classrooms and inviting school tours to her farm. She serves as co-chairman of the Fresno Fair Ag Education Fabulous Food Machine. Debbie is also on the Board of Directors for the California Foundation for Agriculture in the Classroom and received the group's prestigious Volunteer Educator Award in 1995.

Margaret Jensen has been involved in agriculture throughout her life. She helped plant and develop the pistachio industry in Madera County and was involved in the first commercial citrus planting in Madera County in 1958. Margaret is involved with Fresno State's Ag One Foundation and has been a member of the Fresno County Farm Bureau since 1935. She has contributed to numerous projects that have helped to benefit Fresno and the entire San Joaquin Valley. Some of these include the Break the Barriers building fund and helping to fully fund the chapel at Children's Hospital of Central California, a place that provides comfort and quiet for all faiths. Mary Wickstrom has been a tireless advocate for agricultural advancement during her life. She established her own dairy in Chicago and, along with 11 other dairy families, formed the Hilmar Cheese Company. For several years, Mary shared the buying duties for items to be sold there. She is devoted to the preservation of productive farmland through good land use planning, and she puts those values to work. Mary participates as a member of the Merced County Planning Commission and as a charter member of the Merced County California Women for Agriculture. Mary has also been involved in the Hilmar FFA Booster Club and served as a leader in the 4-H program.

Bernice Woolf has been involved in numerous agricultural activities during the course of her life. She served three terms as a board member of the California Agricultural Education Advisory Board and currently serves on the board of the family businesses, Woolf Farming and Woolf Enterprises. These entities have her involved in the production, processing, and marketing of numerous agricultural products. Bernice is also a member of the Central Valley Chapter California Women for Agriculture, American Agri-Women, and served as director of Children's Hospital of Central California, the Fresno Arts Museum, and the Fresno City/County Historical Society.

She also contributed to West Hills Community College Farm of the Future.

Mr. Speaker, I want to recognize the 2004 Central Valley Common Threads Award winners. These women have shown outstanding involvement, not only in agriculture but also in strengthening their respective communities. I urge my colleagues to join me in wishing these honorees a bright future and continued success.

IN MEMORY OF SGT. 1ST CLASS
RICHARD STEVEN GOTTFRIED

HON. IKE SKELTON

OF MISSOURI

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, March 29, 2004

Mr. SKELTON. Mr. Speaker, it is with sadness that I inform the House of the death of Sgt. 1st Class Richard Steven Gottfried of Lake Ozark, Missouri. Sgt. Gottfried was killed when the Humvee he was riding in was hit by a bomb near Tikrit, Iraq.

In Sgt. Gottfried's family, military service was a tradition. His grandfather was a prisoner of war during World War II, his father was wounded in Vietnam, and his brother retired from the service. He was proud to serve his country, and he did so with courage and distinction.

Sgt. Gottfried was posthumously awarded the Bronze Star and the Purple Heart. But these medals were by no means the extent of the honor bestowed upon him. The more than 400 people who attended his funeral, the tears of pain and the sounds of laughter as friends and family remembered the good times they shared with Steven all commemorated a life of kindness and service to others.

Mr. Speaker, when Sgt. Gottfried was killed he was nearing 20 years of service to his country in the U.S. Army and was preparing to retire. I know the Members of the House will join me in extending heartfelt condolences to his wife, Mary Jo; his son, Eric; and his daughter, Ashley.

CONGRATULATIONS TO STEWART
E. SUTIN, PH.D.

HON. MELISSA A. HART

OF PENNSYLVANIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, March 29, 2004

Ms. HART. Mr. Speaker, I would like to take this opportunity to congratulate Stewart E. Sutin, Ph.D., upon his appointment as president of the Community College of Allegheny County (CCAC). I am confident that Dr. Sutin will be an excellent addition to CCAC, as well as to the community of southwestern Pennsylvania.

Dr. Sutin was previously employed by Mellon Financial Corp. as the senior vice president and head of the international department.

He is a member of the Research Advisory Committee for Carnegie Mellon University and a member of the Bosch Institute for Applied Studies in International Management, one of Germany's largest international corporations. Dr. Sutin also serves on the advisory boards for the Center for International Studies, the Center for International Business Studies, and the Center for Latin American Studies, all at Duquesne University. Currently, he is a part-time lecturer at the Katz School of Business at the University of Pittsburgh.

Dr. Sutin brings extraordinary management experience, including a history of working with CEOs and motivating large and diverse staffs. He has energized business, as well as developed strong ties to all levels of the Pittsburgh business community, including significant relationships with area business and community leaders. One of Dr. Sutin's main focuses will be to ensure that CCAC's educational programs and workforce development initiatives meet local, national, and international economic trends. This will help to ensure that the nearly 81,000 credit and noncredit students that annually attend CCAC will remain among the region's most prepared to meet the challenges of the business world.

I ask my colleagues to join with me in commemorating Stewart E. Sutin, Ph.D., for his recent appointment as the new president of Community College of Allegheny County. His success serves as an inspiration to all of western Pennsylvania, as well as CCAC.

HONORING CORPORAL ROBERT TOMCZAK FOR HIS ACTIONS
DURING OPERATION IRAQI FREE-DOM

HON. JON C. PORTER

OF NEVADA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, March 29, 2004

Mr. PORTER. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor the bravery and courage of Marine Reserve Corporal Robert Tomczak for serving our Nation during Operation Iraqi Freedom. For his actions in the face of heavy fire from the enemy, Corporal Tomczak was recently awarded the Bronze Star. I offer my thanks and the thanks of all Nevadans for Corporal Tomczak's dedication to his fellow Marines and for his willingness to serve our country in battle.

Corporal Tomczak served as the machine gun team leader for the Las Vegas-based Fox Company, 2nd Battalion, 23rd Marines. In the face of heavy enemy fire, Tomczak fought bravely and honorably to disrupt a flank assault and to silence incoming rocket-propelled grenade fire. While firing from behind sandbags, an armed gunman in a vehicle rammed his position, and falling sandbags from the vehicle's impact caused Corporal Tomczak to temporarily lose hold of his weapon. While still under enemy fire, he crossed into the open to retrieve his weapon and redeploy against the enemy.

Southern Nevada is proud to have men like Corporal Tomczak serving in our Nation's armed services. It is my distinct honor to commend Corporal Tomczak for all that he has done in his service to our country and for the State of Nevada.

TRIBUTE TO THE LIFE OF ROBERT N. BROWN

HON. MIKE PENCE

OF INDIANA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, March 29, 2004

Mr. PENCE. Mr. Speaker, Robert N. Brown's story began in Columbus 83 years ago on May 7, 1920, when he became the second baby born at the Bartholomew County Hospital. He was born the son of Raymond S. and Anna Newell Brown. He married Alice Elizabeth "Betty" Frantz on Aug. 9, 1947, in Columbus. He married Eloise Albert Sears on May 7, 1994, in Columbus. He was preceded in death by his parents; his first wife on August 19, 1991; and a sister, Elizabeth Marshall.

And Bob Brown was a family man who loved his family. He is survived by his second wife, of Columbus; a son, Jeffrey N. Brown of Columbus; daughters, Peggy A. Brown of Fountain Hills, Arizona, Rebecca E. Brown Thompson of Christchurch, New Zealand, and Susan A. Brown of Downers Grove, Illinois; stepchildren, Susan Sears of Briarcliff Manor, New York, and B.J. Sears of Los Angeles; a brother, Dr. Richard Brown of Phoenix; grandchildren, Zoran and Alex Gvojcic, both of Downers Grove, Sarah DeClue of Chandler, Arizona, Erin Boggs of Scottsdale, Arizona, Cameron Thompson of Christchurch, and Christi and Ian Brown, both of Columbus; and two step grandchildren, Kelsey and Sayre Sundberg, both of Briarcliff Manor.

Please know that each of you have our deepest sympathies and prayers in your loss.

His daughter Susan told me this week, "Dad always had time for us, and until I grew up, I never knew how unusual that was."

His professional accomplishments are equally extraordinary.

Mr. Brown was the former publisher of The Republic newspaper and chairman of Home News Enterprises.

A Purdue University graduate, he was a U.S. Army veteran serving in World War II and during the Korean War.

He was named to the Indiana Newspaper Hall of Fame and received the Community Service Award from the Chamber of Commerce and the Mayor's Arts Award.

Professionally, he served as president of Hoosier State Press Association and the Inland Daily Press Association and was deeply involved in the American Newspaper Publishers Association and the American Press Institute.

He was an inventor, obtaining patents for a copy-cutting device and a composing room system for classified advertising.

Among his community affiliations were Bartholomew County Hospital Board trustee, Hospital Foundation, North Christian Church, United Way, Rotary Club, Heritage Fund, Columbus School Foundation, Foundation for Youth, Columbus Jaycees and the Boys Club Council. He and his wife, Betty, established the Robert and Betty Brown Awards for Vocal Excellence. An instrumental scholarship also was added.

And we will enjoy the product of that philanthropy throughout this service.

His story ended Friday, March 19, 2004, at Shell Point Pavilion in Fort Myers, Florida.

But that hardly tells the story. There is so much more to tell because Bob Brown was also a hero and an inventor and that story needs to be told as well.

Bob Brown was a soldier. After graduating from Purdue in May of 1941 Bob Brown went to work but would write in the family history, "Overshadowing everything we did was an ominous cloud of war."

Duty called. He enlisted in Army in 1942. Enrolled in the army school of advanced electronics at Chicago University and 2nd Lt Bob Brown, US Army Signal Corp reported to Fort Monmouth, New Jersey on 3 Dec 1942. An engineer by training, Lt Brown was schooled to operate a dramatic new top-secret technology known as Radar.

On 22 January 1944, Lt Bob Brown shipped out for the European theatre aboard the Queen Mary. He arrived in England and helped assemble Starting Point, the first early warning radar system in the history of modern warfare.

And he was there on 6 June 1944: D-Day. He wrote of that experience in the family history and I quote generously from his account of that time:

One of the most dramatic days of my life was 6 June 1944. I awoke to a deafening roar and leaped out of my pup tent to find the sky filled with planes from horizon to horizon. There were bombers and fighters from the Allied countries of every size . . . All were either going or returning across the channel. 'My God! It's here'—the long awaited invasion had actually come. We knew we were part of it, but when and where?

On 10 June 1944, four days later, the word came down. "Board an assigned landing craft with all vehicles at dawn 11 June and be prepared to land at Omaha Beach." The tension and excitement were unbearable. Our time had really come . . . As the beach neared, we all became quiet with apprehension. What would it be like to face enemy fire?

When we arrived at the beach we were relieved to see the fighting had moved in land . . . For 100 miles around us, including the southern coast of England, the northern coast of France and the Channel between I could clearly see every ship in the water and many vehicles moving on the land.

. . . For that brief period the magnitude of the operation overwhelmed me. We had actually landed in France! This invasion had to be the greatest feat in history.

Lt. Brown would serve courageously from D-Day to the Battle of the Bulge. After WWII, he returned to the service during the Korean War to train new heroes in the use of radar in combat operations at bases around the country.

Years later, as the illness that would take his life clouded his mind, according to Peggy, it was the memories of his service in World War II that, "Were the last memories to go." Almost until the end, he spoke with affection of the men and the times when his generation won freedom for the people of Europe and every generation that would follow.

His son Jeff told me that even 50 years later, "He felt his military service in World War II was the greatest contribution of his life."

And he was right. Lt. Brown was a hero.

Accordingly, and in recognition of his service to the people of France, I have been authorized to posthumously present the Medal of the Jubilee of Liberty, minted on the 50th anniversary of the D-Day invasion to Robert N. Brown on behalf of the Regional Council of Normandy and the grateful people of France for his heroism in Normandy France during Operation Overlord in June of 1944.

And Bob Brown was an inventor. Having studied electrical engineering at Purdue University and serving as a radar technical officer during World War II, Brown was fascinated by new technologies and gadgets.

And while he held two patents on labor-saving newspaper-production devices, it went deeper than that.

As his son Jeff told me this week. "He was an inventor. He wanted to invent something. So he invented a newspaper."

Brown had succeeded his father Raymond Brown as publisher of the family-owned newspaper in Columbus, the Evening Republican (now called The Republic). Ambition and entrepreneurial spirit motivated Bob Brown in the early 1960s to start a newspaper from scratch, rather than buying an existing newspaper. It was, as Jeff would tell me this week, "His defining professional moment."

Foreseeing Johnson County's booming population growth in the decades ahead, Brown founded his newspaper, the Daily Journal, to cover the entire county.

Brown spearheaded construction of the Daily Journal's first ever glassed-in plant on US 31, the first newspaper in the nation to be built from the ground up with the then innovative offset-press technology.

The "Journal Hill" site north of Franklin took shape Sept. 14, 1962. The 11,000-square foot glass-enclosed building allowed passers-by on US 31 to see the new Goss Suburban offset press inside.

Offset printing was a technological leap forward. After a newspaper page was composited, it was photographed and the negative was rendered into a thin plate for the printing press. The innovation was less time-consuming and labor-intensive than the old "hot-type" printing method.

Publishers from all over the country came to Journal Hill to marvel at the new technology and this showman's glass wall display of the presses. Today virtually every major newspaper in America reflects both of these Brown innovations.

The first issue of the Daily Journal rolled off the press on July 22, 1963. Afternoon delivery was the norm at the time. From the start, his colleagues attest, Mr. Brown set the tone for the Daily Journal's news coverage: Fairness to all and special treatment for none.

Howard "Bud" Herron, former editor and later publisher of the Daily Journal and now publisher of The Republic in Columbus, noted Brown's push for employees to excel.

Herron recalled that Brown gave editors and publishers the freedom to make their own news judgments.

"He was a believer in the total integrity of the news operation," Herron said.

And Bob Brown was a gentle man. As Dorothy Hayes, one of the Daily Journal's original employees, recalled last week in a story that demonstrated the rare combination of kindness and high standards that characterized his life. "He was a perfectionist, and you tried so hard to do everything the way he wanted it done."

Hayes, now 70, remembered that Brown insisted on certain rules.

"He had this thing about Scotch tape. He didn't like it," she recalled.

Hayes, who had just turned 30, had whimsically Scotch-taped a clipping stating "Don't trust anyone over 30" to her cash register. The boss was not amused.

Brown wandered over and was talking to Hayes; and during the conversation, he nonchalantly scraped off the Scotch tape with his fingernail.

"He never said a word to me, but I got the message: 'Do not use Scotch tape,'" Hayes laughed. "He was very meticulous," she added compellingly. "He was the kindest man I've ever met, and the most fair."

And so he was. When I met Mr. Brown as a floppy haired junior highschooler, I was taken aback by his genuine interest in me and my future. He listened to my ideas and ambitions and always took time to gently challenge my plans and my thinking with a grandfatherly touch. I can still hear his voice during countless sessions in the Brown family living room, following one of my pronouncements about how I saw things, when he would gently say, "Mike, you might want to look at that a little differently."

Bob Brown was a gentle man, an inventor, a hero and a family man.

But make no mistake about it, Bob Brown was a leader too.

As Bud Herron said, "He didn't tiptoe through life. Everywhere he went he left broad, bold footprints."

And perhaps his peer and personal friend, Mr. J. Irwin Miller put it best when he said, "Today this community lost one of its great sons." The former Cummins Inc. Chairman went on to say, "The fact that The Republic is a thriving, fourth-generation family business is a testament to Bob's leadership, vision and hard work. He will be greatly missed by his family and by all of us who were honored to know him personally."

His devotion to his family, his service to America, his personal kindness; and his bold vision for his enterprise and our community are all the elements of a life of great quality.

It is written, "No greater love has a man than this that he should lay down his life for his friends."

Bob Brown put his life on the line for his nation, and laid down the balance of his life for his family, his community and the people of the enterprise to which he was born . . . namely . . . his friends.

And we, his friends, bid him this tender farewell with hearts overflowing with gratitude to God for the privilege of having known this man . . . Confident that just a few days ago, this good man—his mind and memory restored—his body young and strong again—as he did so many years ago, stepped onto the sands of another shore into the warm embrace of Raymond, Anna, Betty and Elizabeth and heard those deserved words, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant."

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION ON THE BUDGET FOR FISCAL YEAR 2005

SPEECH OF

HON. RANDY NEUGEBAUER

OF TEXAS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, March 25, 2004

The House in Committee of the Whole House on the State of the Union had under consideration the concurrent resolution (H.

Con. Res. 393) establishing the congressional budget for the United States Government for fiscal year 2005 and setting forth appropriate budgetary levels for fiscal years 2004 and 2006 through 2009:

Mr. NEUGEBAUER. Mr. Chairman, Congress does not have an income problem. What we have is a spending problem. We don't need to increase taxes, as the alternative budgets propose. What we need to do is hold down spending in order to start reducing this deficit.

My constituents are simply taxed-out. I can't go back to them and say that instead of allowing the tax relief approved in 2001 and 2003 to continue, we plan to let their taxes go back up so that Congress can spend more.

Which priorities come first? The priorities of families out there working hard and small businesses striving to expand and create jobs or the priorities of those who want more government spending? I believe the priorities of our families and small businesses come first, but others just don't seem to get it.

As a small business owner, I know how important tax relief is to the growth of small business, the economy and for job creation. We're on the right track with economic growth and job creation, and we need to continue down that path. Passing a budget alternative that increases taxes moves our country and the economy in the wrong direction. We need to continue to grow the American economy—not the American government.

The Republican budget gets our spending under control, cutting the deficit in half over four years without reducing our national defense, homeland security or veterans care. It acknowledges that out of the trillions of dollars in Federal spending, there is waste and abuse we can cut without diminishing effective and useful programs and benefits. Our budget sets sound priorities and gives us the means to follow through on them.

As we consider these budget alternatives today, the bottom line is that all of the Democratic alternatives raise taxes in order to grow spending. The Republican budget does not raise taxes and reduces spending. It's not hard to guess which alternative my constituents prefer.

ARIZONA'S VFW VOICE OF DEMOCRACY ESSAY

HON. RICK RENZI

OF ARIZONA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, March 29, 2004

Mr. RENZI. Mr. Speaker, it gives me great pleasure to announce that Arizona's winning essayist for VFW Voice of Democracy writing contest is Stephanie Hall, from Lakeside, Arizona in the First Congressional District.

In her essay, Stephanie recalls her grandfather's memories of his service to the Nation and the lessons of responsibility, patriotism and duty he taught her through his stories. Stephanie pledges to honor the memory of her grandfather and the legacy of those who served before him to safeguard the principles which they fought to defend.

I commend Stephanie for a thoughtful essay, and include it here in the RECORD for my colleague's attention.

MY COMMITMENT TO AMERICA'S FUTURE

As I helped my grandma pack my grandpa's belongings, I spotted an old, familiar shirt that Grandpa had loved to wear. I picked up the shirt, pressed my face into its folds, and breathed deeply. It smelled of mothballs, coffee beans, and Grandpa. Suddenly, all the emotions I had been fighting to contain all day welled up inside of me and threatened to seep out in the form of tears. I pressed the shirt tighter against my face. How I missed this wonderful man. I could hardly walk a step through my grandparent's house without being reminded of some memory. I remembered Grandpa cheering me on enthusiastically as I played baseball in the backyard. I remembered my excitement when Grandpa taught me how to build sand tunnels on the beach. But of all the memories, my fondest were those spent sitting next to Grandpa in his big chair, listening to his stories. For some reason, the stories that most captivated me were of my grandpa's escapades fighting in the Korean War. It astounded me that, not only had my grandpa wanted to fight, he even lied about his eye problem so that he could join the conflict. I asked him once why he didn't just stay home where it was safe. His answer was profound and has never left me. He stated simply, "Honey, I owe such a great debt to this country for the freedom and opportunities she has given me. My father was born in Norway and my mother was born in Ireland. They came here to provide a better life for me. I wanted to do my part to make sure that those same freedoms and opportunities I have been blessed with, were available for my children and grandchildren to enjoy."

My grandpa, as well as so many other dedicated men and women who fought for our country, completely embody to me the quote by Thomas Paine which states, "If there be trouble, let it be in my day, that my child may have peace." My generation would not have been able to enjoy so many of the opportunities, privileges, and peaceful times in our day had our forefathers not made a commitment to preserve them in theirs. Just as so many battles have been fought in the past to preserve America's future, today we are still fighting for the same reason. However, the battles we fight on a daily basis are of a different kind. Sometimes they've even so subtle that we don't even recognize our foes.

The youth of today are under constant bombardment from many such disguised enemies. From the many harmful images portrayed by the media, to the dangerous substances readily available from our peers, it is evident that daily life for the average teenager has become a battleground. Yet the youth of today are destined to become the leaders of tomorrow. If we are to successfully carry on the bright torch of freedom, then we must prepare ourselves today. We need to be an active member of our community by becoming involved in community service, activities, or programs. We need to be aware of the world around us, so that we will be able to make educated decisions when we enter the voting pool. It is also very important to pursue a quality education, so that we will be able to find success and have a stronger voice in the decisions we make. We must ready ourselves to step forth and overcome the challenges that will inevitably face us. For after all, as Wycleaf Jean stated, "We must be the change that we wish to see in the world."

I am like my grandpa in that I too owe such a great debt to my country. My grandpa was given opportunities that his parents never had, and he used every opportunity to its utmost and then gave back by serving his country and improving the lives of his fellowmen. I have even more privileges, freedoms, and opportunities because of the path previously paved by my grandpa. I enjoy luxuries he never did. I have time and resources he never had. By following my grandpa's example and by using my opportunities to be the best I can be, I will be prepared to serve my country in various capacities, to have a greater influence for good on those around me, and to show my commitment to America's future. I will not let the sacrifices of our forefathers be in vain.

I will show my gratitude for the sacrifices made by my grandpa, along with so many other great men and women, by taking advantage of the many privileges given to me. These privileges came at a very dear price, paid for with pain, blood, and even human lives. By taking advantage of the many opportunities I have been given, just as my Grandpa, I too will be able to preserve the many freedoms and opportunities that I have been blessed with for my children and all future generations to enjoy.

DR. DOROTHY I. HEIGHT—A SALUTE ON HER 92ND BIRTHDAY

HON. CHARLES B. RANGEL

OF NEW YORK

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, March 29, 2004

Mr. RANGEL. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to salute one of the major leaders of the Civil Rights Movement of the 1960's, Dr. Dorothy I. Height, as she celebrates her 92nd birthday. As an African-American teacher and social activist, Dr. Height has secured her place in American society as a true liberator of black America.

Born on March 24, 1912, in Richmond, Virginia, she was educated in the public school system in Rankin, Pennsylvania. Dr. Height established herself at a very early age as a student with exceptional oratorical skills. Those skills earned her a scholarship to New York University where she received her bachelor's and master's in 4 years.

Dr. Height began her career working as a caseworker with the New York City Welfare Department. At the age of 25 she became a volunteer with the National Council of Negro Women while working simultaneously with the National Young Women's Christian Association (YWCA). Dr. Height developed leadership-training activities for volunteers and staff, and developed programs to promote interracial education.

In 1957 Dr. Height was named President of the Council of Negro Women, a position she held until 1997. While serving as President she worked closely with Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., Roy Wilkins, Whitney Young, and A. Philip Randolph. She encouraged President Dwight D. Eisenhower to desegregate schools and President Lyndon B. Johnson to appoint African American women to positions in government.

As one of the major leaders of the Civil Rights Movement Dr. Height held many important positions such as being appointed as a consultant on African affairs to the secretary of state, and serving on the President's Committee on the Employment of the Handicapped.

Secretary of Health and Human Services Louis Sullivan recently appointed Dr. Height to the Advisory Council of the White House Initiative on Historically Black Colleges and Universities, and by President Bush to the National Advisory Council on Aging.

Dr. Height received a number of awards for her outstanding contributions, including: Woman of the Year from Ladies Home Journal (1974), induction into The National Women's Hall of Fame (1993), Springarn Medal from the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (1993), William L. Dawson Award for "decades of public service to people of color and particularly women" from the Congressional Black Caucus, Presidential Medal of Freedom by President Clinton, and holds honorary degrees from more than 20 universities, including Harvard, Howard, Princeton, and Tuskegee Institute.

At the height of nearly 70 years of service Dr. Height is the author of a new book: "Open Wide The Freedom Gates: A Memoir." She continues to promote the importance of unity in black family life by organizing the Black Family Reunion Celebration, which continues to preserve the traditional values of the African-American family. Dr. Height is still active socially and professionally and serves as President Emerita of the National Council of Negro Women (NCNW).

IN TRIBUTE OF GREEK INDEPENDENCE DAY

HON. MARTIN T. MEEHAN

OF MASSACHUSETTS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, March 29, 2004

Mr. MEEHAN. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to celebrate the 183rd anniversary of Greek Independence Day.

On March 25, 1821, the people of Greece rose up against the oppressive rule of the Ottoman Turks. For 8 years, the Greeks struggled for freedom and democratic self-government until their independence was secured in 1829. The success of this struggle—after almost 400 years of Turkish domination—demonstrates the remarkable ability of human beings to overcome enormous obstacles in the path to freedom.

The United States and Greece share a deep commitment to democracy and rule of law. American political thought was influenced just as much by Greek philosophy as the Greek revolution of 1821 was inspired by the American fight for freedom in 1776. In fact, Greek intellectuals used the U.S. Constitution as the basis for the constitution they drafted in the 1820s.

The common struggles of our countries have forged a bond that spans the generations. The friendship between the United States and Greece is based on a common heritage and shared values. Greece has stood by the United States as a steadfast ally during World War II, the Korean War, the Cold War, the Persian Gulf War, and now, the war on terrorism.

The citizens of Greece are preparing to host the 2004 Olympic Games, an honor that holds particular historical significance. Beginning in 776 B.C., the Olympic Games were held in the valley of Olympia in Greece every four years for almost 1200 years.

The modern Olympic Games were created by Baron Pierre de Coubertin and inspired by the ancient games. First staged in 1896 in Athens, the games attracted about 245 athletes to participate in 43 events. At the Sydney 2000 Games, more than 10,000 athletes took part in 300 events.

The Olympic Movement has survived wars, boycotts and terrorism to become a symbol of the ability of the people of all nations to come together in peace and friendship. And in 2004, the games return to their birthplace.

The Greek Government has made tremendous progress in recent months to improve the security infrastructure for the upcoming games and wish them the best as they prepare for the challenge of hosting the world's premiere athletic event.

I represent a large and active Greek-American community, and I have been proud to support U.S. participation in negotiations over Cyprus, the fight for freedom and human rights for all Cypriots, the inclusion of Greece in the Visa Waiver Pilot Program, and the presentation of the Congressional Gold Medal to His All Holiness Patriarch Bartholomew.

I congratulate the people of Greece on the anniversary of their independence, and I look forward to working together with Greek-Americans and the Greek Government on issues of mutual interest in the years ahead.

HONORING KASEY MILLISKI

HON. MICHAEL N. CASTLE

OF DELAWARE

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, March 29, 2004

Mr. CASTLE. Mr. Speaker, it is with great pleasure that I rise today to honor and pay tribute to Kasey Milliski upon her nomination as a Jefferson Award finalist. Ms. Milliski is a volunteer at the Ronald McDonald House Charities. The Ronald McDonald House provides a "home-away-from-home" for families of children being treated at nearby hospitals, and she has dedicated herself to helping many Delaware families in need.

Ms. Milliski's passion for volunteer work was born out of her own personal hardships. In turn, she continues to reach out to sick children and their families with kindness and compassion. Ms. Milliski's simple approach to helping others is genuine and has a profound impact on many.

Mr. Speaker, I commend and congratulate Ms. Milliski upon her nomination as a finalist for the Jefferson Award. She is truly worthy of this honor.

PERSONAL EXPLANATION

HON. NEIL ABERCROMBIE

OF HAWAII

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, March 29, 2004

Mr. ABERCROMBIE. Mr. Speaker, on March 25, 2004, because of my leave of absence, I was unable to vote on legislation. Had I been present, I would have voted as follows:

Rollcall 85, H.R. 3786, allowing the Treasury to print documents for foreign governments, "yes";

Rollcall 86, H.R. 2993, Extend the Commemorative Coin Act, "yes";

Rollcall 87, H.R. 254, North American Development Bank, "yes";

Rollcall 88, H. Con. Res. 393, Budget Resolution, Congressional Black Caucus Substitute, "no";

Rollcall 89, H. Con. Res. 393, Stenholm/Blue Dog Substitute, "yes";

Rollcall 90, H. Con. Res. 393, Spratt/Democratic Substitute, "yes";

Rollcall 91, H. Con. Res. 393, H. Con. Res. 393, Final Passage, "no";

Rollcall 92, H.R. 3095, Allowing Local Officials to Order the Lowering of the U.S. Flag to Honor Deaths of Current or Past Local Government Employees, "yes".

HONORING MRS. NANCY O'CONNOR OF BUENA VISTA, COLORADO

HON. BOB BEAUPREZ

OF COLORADO

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, March 29, 2004

Mr. BEAUPREZ. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor a woman of great spirit and integrity.

Mrs. Nancy O'Connor has been a friend of mine for many years. She has utilized her passion for our democratic system to assist many Republicans like myself by serving on various campaigns. Nancy is one of the most sincere and generous individuals I have had the pleasure of knowing.

In addition to her 20 years of hard work for the good of the Republican Party, Nancy is the wife of Mr. Richard O'Connor and a wonderful mother to Mrs. Roxanne Hansen and Ms. Amber O'Connor. Nancy and Richard moved to Chaffee County, Colorado in 1971 to establish Hummingbird Hill Ranch and have been active community members ever since.

Nancy has also been a respected real estate broker for over 30 years. She has been the recipient of many awards for her dedication, including the recognition as fifth in the nation for sales under United County Real Estate in 2003 and fourth in the nation for 2002. She is also a respected Rotarian, member of the Chaffee County Republican Women and has been the Chairwoman of the Chaffee County Republican Party for 16 years.

Nancy has been a leader for many community service efforts in her community. For 12 years she has given her time and her wonderful talents as a cook to raising money for the Buena Vista High School Presidential Classroom project. She has helped many young men and women in her community to participate in this extraordinary experience by sponsoring the annual lasagna dinner with the Chaffee County Republican Women, and making enough homemade lasagna every year to feed an average of 250 people.

During her two-year term as President of the Buena Vista Rotary Club, in addition to winning the Humanitarian Service to Mankind Award, Nancy also led an effort to restructure the playground at Columbine Park for the kids of Buena Vista. Her efforts raised enough money to buy new equipment and not only add fun for local youth, but improved the community atmosphere as well.

To say the least, Nancy is an extraordinary woman with a very kind heart. She brightens the day of anyone she encounters and is always willing to offer a helping hand to those in need. To this day, she continues to send homemade cookies to myself and the other Colorado Republican delegation to say thank you for what we do.

Mr. Speaker, I would just like to take this opportunity to say thank you to Nancy for all that she does.

HONORING JIM ELLISON

HON. MICHAEL N. CASTLE

OF DELAWARE

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, March 29, 2004

Mr. CASTLE. Mr. Speaker, it is with great pleasure that I rise today to honor and pay tribute to Jim Ellison upon his nomination as a Jefferson Award finalist. For over 25 years, Mr. Ellison has aided Delawareans who are confronting personal crises. As a volunteer for CONTACT, Delaware's crisis line, Mr. Ellison has logged a state record of 8,553 hours, many of which he accumulated during the 11 p.m. to 7 a.m. shift.

Mr. Ellison's lifetime of service has had no limit. Prior to becoming a volunteer, he worked 29 years as a revenue officer for the Internal Revenue Service. Mr. Ellison also served in the Army Air Corps and from January 1944 until August 1945, Mr. Ellison cleaned machine guns for B-24 bombers.

Jim Ellison's tireless dedication to the well-being of others should serve as an inspiration to us all. He is a most worthy candidate for the Jefferson Award and a truly outstanding Delawarean and American.

Mr. Speaker, I commend and congratulate Mr. Ellison upon his nomination as a finalist for the Jefferson Award. May we all learn from, and exemplify, his selflessness.

IN RECOGNITION OF RICHIE PEREZ

HON. NYDIA M. VELÁZQUEZ

OF NEW YORK

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, March 29, 2004

Ms. VELÁZQUEZ. Mr. Speaker, I rise today on the floor of the U.S. House of Representatives to pay tribute to the life of Richie Perez—a longtime community activist who lived in Brooklyn.

Richie Perez was a fighter. He fought for the rights of all people, and he fought against the devastating inequities that plague our society. He fought for the poor, the disenfranchised, the downtrodden—and gave them a voice.

His passion for activism began in the 1960s as a former member of the community-based organization for Puerto Rican empowerment called the Young Lords Party. He most recently founded the National Congress for Puerto Rican rights, acting as the co-chair of its Justice Committee, which works with families of victims of racial discrimination and police brutality.

He was a mentor to many and a hero to even more. He imparted his ideas and philosophies onto others by teaching classes on the Puerto Rican experience in New York, mass media and social policy at New York City's Hunter College. Not only was he an activist and a teacher, but he was an author as well, publishing several groundbreaking written works.

Richie Perez was a truth-seeker. Wherever he went, he spoke the truth, lived by the truth, and inspired the truth in others. He embodied the meaning of righteousness and what is good and real in our local communities. He believed in giving people a second chance, and in fighting back against the injustices that had imperiled them.

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor Richie Perez, and join with my colleagues in the House of Representatives to recognize his extraordinary life.

TRIBUTE TO THE NFA CONVENTION IN ORLANDO, FLORIDA

HON. RIC KELLER

OF FLORIDA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, March 29, 2004

Mr. KELLER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to take a moment to recognize the National Franchise Association (NFA), the association of Burger King franchisees. The NFA will be in Orlando May 3–6, 2004 for its 12th Annual Convention and Tradeshow. I am delighted the NFA has chosen once again to return to Orlando. In fact, this will be the third time the NFA has visited Orlando with nearly 3,500 Burger King franchisees, vendors, and other participants. With its theme parks and attractions, Orlando is one of our Nation's premier vacation and convention destinations—it's clear to see why groups like NFA want to return to Orlando over and over again. The theme of this year's NFA convention, "The Magic of the Fire," is quite apropos as it combines the "Magic" of Orlando and the entrepreneurial "Fire" of the Burger King franchisees.

Two Burger King franchisees, in particular, have been instrumental in bringing the Burger King family to Orlando. They are Julian Josephson and Dominick Vespoli.

Julian Josephson, the Chairman of the NFA, has a story very similar to many of our immigrant ancestors who brought their entrepreneurial spirit to this country seeking a brighter future. Julian moved to the United States from Johannesburg, South Africa in 1978. Since then, he and his business partner Stanley Smiedt, have built a successful business that includes nearly 40 Burger King Restaurants in Southern California, Texas, New Mexico, and Colorado. Julian has not only provided exceptional leadership to the NFA as chairman and vice president, he has served his community through numerous initiatives. Julian has been a dedicated husband and father to his wife Jenny and their children Heidi and Anthony. Julian and Jenny are the proud grandparents of Maya Silberstein.

Dominick Vespoli is the Convention Chairman. Dominick grew up in Jersey City, New Jersey and began working in Burger King restaurants in 1974. He worked in a variety of jobs learning the skills needed to run successful restaurants. In 1990, Dominick became a Burger King franchisee. He, and his business partner Nathan Blau, now own and operate 10 successful Burger King restaurants in New Jersey. Dominick has been a dedicated husband and father to his wife Celenia and their two sons, Jason and James.

The restaurant industry as a whole employs 12 million men and women, a significant driving force for our economy. I commend Julian and Dominick, and their fellow franchise owners, for their contributions to job creation and economic growth. These entrepreneurs are the backbone of our economy. I wish to thank them for their outstanding service to the NFA and their commitment to their communities. I look forward to seeing them both and the other Burger King franchisees when they visit Orlando in May.

HONORING JEFFREY BUSCH

HON. MICHAEL N. CASTLE

OF DELAWARE

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, March 29, 2004

Mr. CASTLE. Mr. Speaker, it is with great pleasure that I rise today to honor and pay tribute to Jeffrey Busch upon his selection as the Jefferson Award winner in Delaware. Mr. Busch is the founder and chairman of Safe Blood for Africa, an organization dedicated to stemming the tide of HIV and AIDS in sub-Saharan Africa. With true innovative spirit, he has brought a business approach to the logistical problems of getting safe blood to this region. Mr. Busch is not only a commendable American citizen, he is an exemplary citizen of the world.

With the utmost humility, Mr. Busch ensures safe blood for transfusions in 20 sub-Saharan African nations. His organization also protects Africans from the spread of such diseases as hepatitis B and C and syphilis. One would never know to speak to Mr. Busch that he has likely spared thousands of Africans from the dangers of HIV and AIDS.

Mr. Speaker, I commend and congratulate Jeffrey Busch upon his selection as the Jefferson Award winner in Delaware. His selflessness serves as an example to us all. Furthermore, it has been my sincere privilege to know Mr. Busch personally, and I am very proud to that he is a Delawarean.

RECOGNITION OF THE AMERICAN LEGION

HON. JOHN SHIMKUS

OF ILLINOIS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, March 29, 2004

Mr. SHIMKUS. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in honor of the American Legion, a noble organization, chartered by Congress in 1919. The American Legion turned 85 this week and its members across our Nation are celebrating this historic event.

I'm proud to report that my home district celebrated this occasion recently at an event hosted by Retired Air Force Colonel Ted Buck of Mt. Vernon. He served 22 years active duty including 30 months during the Vietnam War. He received two Distinguished Flying Crosses, The Vietnamese Gallantry Cross with a Silver Star and the Purple Heart. He was also awarded the Legion of Merit award for his duty as a pilot for Dr. Henry Kissinger on his historic shuttle diplomacy.

I mention Colonel Buck by name because he puts a face on an organization made up of many heroic men and women who, like Colonel Buck, have put their lives on the line for this Nation. While patriotism and support for our men and women in uniform comes in and out of favor here in Washington, D.C. our Nation is blessed to have an organization that exists to meet the needs of our veterans. I consider myself fortunate to be a member of the American Legion and I'm honored to have the opportunity to wish them a happy 85th birthday. I speak for all of my colleagues in wishing the American Legion many more years to continue their work to insure appropriate respect for the American veteran and their families.

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION ON THE BUDGET FOR FISCAL YEAR 2005

SPEECH OF

HON. BILL SHUSTER

OF PENNSYLVANIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, March 25, 2004

The House in Committee of the Whole House on the State of the Union had under consideration the concurrent resolution (H. Con. Res. 393) establishing the congressional budget for the United States Government for fiscal year 2005 and setting forth appropriate budgetary levels for fiscal years 2004 and 2006 through 2009:

Mr. SHUSTER. Mr. Chairman, a few days ago, I reluctantly voted for the budget resolution that was thoroughly debated on the House floor. My reluctance in voting for the budget was based on one main cause, my concern for our nation's veterans. Even though we increased funding in veterans' care once again, I believe there was further room for improvement.

The budget that we passed is a step forward in the areas of deficit reduction and spending control. I am heartened by our efforts to cap some areas of government spending but disappointed that we continue to debate the proper level of veterans' funding. In the past months, there has been great discussion in the funding that these brave individuals who have sacrificed so much for our country will receive from the VA. With that discussion, I believe that we should never lose sight of what these veterans have accomplished and what they have meant to our Nation's freedom.

As this process moves forward, I believe that there are additional areas of the budget that can be curtailed to further supplement our veterans' funding needs. For example, we should continue to scrutinize our massive foreign aid budget for savings that can be returned to the U.S. shores and to the veterans' needs.

In the end, I voted for this budget because we must continue the process and we will have opportunities to improve our veterans' funding. Additionally, to delay this budget means we delay our national defense and our homeland security priorities. To delay this budget risks not having a budget at all and that leaves no barriers to government spending. In a time of war, we can not allow that to happen.

We must all work hard to improve the budget before it comes to conference. I hope that at that point we will all be able to vote for the budget without reservation and with the confidence that our Nation's veterans have been properly cared for by the government.

HONORING JOANNE GLAUSER

HON. MICHAEL N. CASTLE

OF DELAWARE

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, March 29, 2004

Mr. CASTLE. Mr. Speaker, it is with great pleasure that I rise today to honor and pay tribute to Joanne Glauser upon her nomination as a Jefferson Award finalist. Mrs. Glauser is the co-founder of the Delaware chapter of Shoes That Fit and truly exemplifies the American spirit. After reading an article about children who were too poor to have clothes that fit properly, Joanne decided to take action. Five years later, she was named "top volunteer in the nation" by the executive director of Shoes That Fit.

In only the last 4 years, Mrs. Glauser's chapter has provided over 35,000 items to needy children in Delaware. Her selflessness and dedication have touched the lives of thousands who may otherwise have gone without.

Mr. Speaker, I commend and congratulate Mrs. Glauser upon her nomination as a finalist for the Jefferson Award. May she continue to serve as an example to us all.

CHILD NUTRITION IMPROVEMENT AND INTEGRITY ACT

SPEECH OF

HON. FRED UPTON

OF MICHIGAN

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, March 24, 2004

Mr. UPTON. Mr. Speaker, obesity and poor nutritional habits are growing problems in our Nation, particularly among our children and adolescents. Health costs alone will be stratospheric in the near future due to the poor eating habits of our youth.

The very foods children need for good nutrition are often grown in their own communities. Farm to Cafeteria projects across the country link farmers with local schools to serve students the freshest possible foods as part of the National School Lunch Program. When combined with nutrition education, farm visits, and school gardens, children learn to enjoy and even get excited about eating healthy—and at the same time family farmers strengthen their markets and community ties. While Farm to Cafeteria projects have proven cost-effective over time, schools often need assistance to cover the initial staff resources, training, and equipment required for a successful project.

To respond to this need, our colleague RON KIND and I have introduced the bipartisan Farm to Cafeteria Projects Act (H.R. 2626) that is now a part of this bill. The Farm-To-Cafeteria provision establishes a $10 million competitive grant program to provide schools with up to $100,000 to cover these costs and garner long-term benefits for children, farmers, and their communities during the term of the reauthorization.

I ask my colleagues to vote for this piece of legislation, to show the country that we care about what our children are eating.

TRIBUTE TO THE NORTHWEST BRONX COMMUNITY AND CLERGY COALITION ON THEIR 30TH ANNIVERSARY

HON. JOSÉ E. SERRANO

OF NEW YORK

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, March 29, 2004

Mr. SERRANO. Mr. Speaker, it is with great pleasure that I rise today to pay tribute to the Northwest Bronx Community and Clergy Coalition as they celebrate their 30th anniversary.

Formed in 1974, the NWBCCC is a 501(c)3 organization with the mission of uniting area residents to identify common problems and empowering them to work together to solve them. The NWBCCC unites nine neighborhood organizations and a youth organization, Sistas and Brothas United, in an effort to improve the neighborhoods of the Bronx. They seek to influence the most important decisions that are made within their community, such as private investment patterns, the delivery of government services and major land use considerations.

This important organization is engaged in several initiatives aimed at improving housing and education. The NWBCCC Housing Committee provides tenant organizing assistance to over 75 tenant associations, resulting in hundreds of repairs and reinvestments to buildings each year. NWBCCC has also worked extensively to reduce overcrowding in schools. In 1999 and 2000 the organization's efforts led to the construction of over six new schools and annexes.

Mr. Speaker, what impresses me the most about this organization is its commitment to youth. Sistas and Brothas United, the youth organization within NWBCCC, has made great strides to help develop the minds of the youth in my community. SBU organizes hundreds of neighborhood youth to build youth leadership in order to identify local problems and work to bring about solutions. SBU's work currently focuses on school reform, campaigns to renovate abandoned buildings to become schools and youth centers, and efforts to improve parks and traffic safety.

In an effort to raise the consciousness of people within their community, some of the members of SBU have begun to compose and perform thought provoking and insightful poetry. The following is a poem that was written by Jorman Nunez and Jacklyn Torres, active members of SBU.

JN: Jacky And I are going to tell ya something from our prospective so listen to our lyrics

JT: Jorman got something to tell yall now, so Jorman let em hear it

JN: Asthma rates have been going up and all I do is gasp and pant

What are they doing to fix this? They're building another filtration plant

And what amazes me is in the Bronx they want to do it

Using the excuse of in a couple of years our water's going to be polluted

Trying to take the Bronx down well we don't want to destroy her

Besides . . . the only reason it's going to get polluted is cause they're constantly letting development be done over our water so they're basically polluting our water and trying to fix it later as a solution

And build a plant to put smoke in there air and cause more pollution

There's something else I want to say ladies and gents

Check this out look at this environmental statement

Planning to build it in our low class area cause the statement say they should

And rejected putting it in another place just cause it was a white upper class neighborhood

We have to do whatever in our power to stop this by all means

Cause I'm tired of seeing all this atrocious disappointing scenes

JT: Attention every one, ladies and gentlemen gather round

The other night I'm writing a poem and my ceiling's fallin down

Now yall must be wondering if my landlord is a clown

Well his name's * * * * *, so how does that sound

Since the landlord don't wanna help with the infestation of rats

I guess the only solution is to buy 10,000 cats

And as the funds for us go up, the neighborhood's still in strife

Unfortunately, because of this, a small child lost his life

Even after this, we remain on the same path

How many more casualties will we have, you do the math

So until these the problems are solved, don't even think of us relaxin

Cuz I still can't understand why a slumlord lives in a mansion

So I've said what yall need to know until we see better days

But my turn is over so Jorman say what you gotta say

JN: This has been keeping me up and I can't even rest

I just need to get a couple of things off my chest the Governor is probably annoyed and thinks he's being mistreated

Shouldn't we be angry whenever he says education is vital and doesn't even mean it

Politicians get angry when we get so mad we shiver and shudder

But don't we have a right to be angry when we have books older than my grandmother

Governor I got something to tell you only once there won't be a sequel

We never are going to stop bothering you until all education is equal

Governor when I see you I'm going to be mean with my salutation

You're going to hear all of the angry voices of the minorities that you said only need an 8th grade education

I think you and the position of governor should start doing its separation

Cause the last time I checked governors aren't suppose to gamble with our education

They're suppose to help with problems that come along until they see no

But I guess he just rather be gambling with our future in one of his casinos

But listen I'm done I don't want to waste more of your time

Jacky it's your turn give them a piece of your mind

JT: Soldiers of society trying to keep their eyes on me

In their hands is my education

And I blindly search for academic salvation

Though I have no books to read, no chairs to sit in, no room to breathe

And yall say keep your head up

Well, to tell you the truth, I'm fed up

Even the Governor says we don't need college

All we need is an eight-grade education?

Yeah, that's enough knowledge

Though my sarcasm seems amusing, It's dripping with the truth

Why does the government fail to realize the importance of our youth?
 Governor, I have some things I'd like to say
 But they would be inappropriate
 So Jorman, it's your turn to play
 JN: Jacky ya kind of mad ya need to rest
 At least both of us got that stress off our chest
 So that's just a part of what we know I hope this wasn't a loss
 I just want to let ya see a couple of our points get across
 JT: Yo Jorman look at their faces, don't they look kind of stunned?
 JN: And that was just us two imagine all of us as one anniversary
 JT: Man, if they only knew the power they hold in their hearts and in their voices
 JN: Together they have the power to move mountains its all up to there choices
 JT: So Jorman don't you think it's about time they get involved?
 JN: Yeah cause if all of us unite all out problems would be solved
 JT: Yeah, we should follow the examples of Rosa Parks, Malcolm X, and Dr. King
 JN: Cause they all fought for what they believed in and now they're letting freedom ring
 JN & JT: You have power in a lot of things, don't listen to all their lies
 Cuz no one can ever take away your right to organize

This powerful poem demonstrates the level of awareness these youth possess and their strong commitment to empowering their community.

Mr. Speaker, through housing and education initiatives as well as youth empowerment programs the NWBCCC continues to provide invaluable service to the people of the Bronx. For their 30 years of service, I ask that my colleagues join me in honoring this remarkable organization.

HONORING MEGHAN PASRICHA

HON. MICHAEL N. CASTLE

OF DELAWARE

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, March 29, 2004

Mr. CASTLE. Mr. Speaker, it is with great pleasure that I rise today to honor and pay tribute to Meghan Pasricha upon her nomination as a Jefferson Award finalist. Ms. Pasricha is founder of the successful Anti-Tobacco Action Club at Sanford School in Hockessin, Delaware. As a 10th grader, Meghan started her organization with 12 members and a goal: raising teenage awareness of tobacco-related health hazards.

Her hard work has paid off and today Meghan is the State chairwoman of the Kick Butts Generation, an anti-tobacco organization with over 4,000 local members. Ms. Pasricha's dedication to educating people about the dangers of tobacco is limitless. She recently gave a presentation at the World Conference on Tobacco in Heis, Finland, and has reached out to groups of children in places as far away as Mahau, India.

Mr. Speaker, I commend and congratulate Ms. Pasricha upon her nomination as a finalist for the Jefferson Award. Her determination and drive to educate and empower others serves as an example to us all. She is truly worthy of this honor.

SENATE COMMITTEE MEETINGS

Title IV of Senate Resolution 4, agreed to by the Senate on February 4, 1977, calls for establishment of a system for a computerized schedule of all meetings and hearings of Senate committees, subcommittees, joint committees, and committees of conference.
