House of Representatives

The House met at 10 a.m. The Chaplain, the Reverend Daniel P. Coughlin, offered the following prayer:

Eternal Father and Lord of the living, enable us to approach You with humility of heart and poverty of spirit.

The Members of Congress are powerful people. Their words bear weight and their positions before the people deserve respect. Therefore, they need to be steeled from arrogance on one side and casual routine on the other.

Lord, only the two-edged sword of Your Word and Your purity of Spirit can bring freshness to their spirits and confirming hope to their constituents. Strengthen their pledge to uphold the Constitution against blatant and subtle attacks and to serve the people with all their hearts.

Then may their speech, their decisions, and their working together with the pluralism of this democracy give You the glory, honor, and power now and forever.

Amen.

THE JOURNAL

The SPEAKER. The Chair has examined the Journal of the last day's proceedings and announces to the House his approval thereof. Pursuant to clause 1, rule 1, the Journal stands approved.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. KUCINICH) come forward and lead the House in the Pledge of Allegiance?

Mr. KUCINICH led the Pledge of Allegiance as follows:

I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE

A message from the Senate by Mr. Monahan, one of its clerks, announced that the Senate has passed with an amendment in which the concurrence of the House is requested, a bill of the House of the following title:

H.R. 1134. An act to amend the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 to provide for the proper tax treatment of certain disaster mitigation payments.

The message also announced that pursuant to Public Law 101-509, the Chair, on behalf of the Democratic Leader, announces the appointment of the following individual to the Advisory Committee on the Records of Congress: Mr. Guy Rocha of Nevada, vice Stephen Van Buren of South Dakota.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER

The SPEAKER. The Chair will entertain ten 1-minute speeches on each side.

QUESTIONING THE LEADERSHIP ACROSS THE AISLE

(Mrs. BLACKBURN asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Mrs. BLACKBURN. Mr. Speaker, yesterday the minority leader of this body slammed the good work we did in repealing the death tax. She called it "reverse Robin Hood."

Well, Mr. Speaker, in my opinion, the minority leader owes an apology to all those families that will get to keep the family farm and to all of those small businesses that will survive a second generation because of this tax relief, and she owes an apology to the 42 Democrats who voted with the Republican majority for this very important tax relief.

One has to question the choice of leadership across the aisle. The liberal leadership has opposed repealing the death tax, which is a triple tax on America's working families. They have opposed an energy bill for years now, and they have not supported strengthening our immigration laws. Now they are fighting tooth and nail to prevent Social Security reform.

Mr. Speaker, my constituents are asking what, if anything, do they stand for? In my opinion, they stand for more tax and more spend, everything costs more. I want the American people to know the Republican majority in this House is going to fight to be certain they do not get their way.

SUPPORT RESOLUTION OF INQUIRY REGARDING SOCIAL SECURITY TRUST FUND

(Mr. KUCINICH asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. KUCINICH. Mr. Speaker, I am going to be in Columbus, Ohio, tomorrow speaking on education when the President is visiting the Cleveland area to speak on Social Security. Now, the President has alternately asserted there is no Social Security trust fund or it is just IOUs. Here is a copy of the trust fund report from the Social Security Administration. There is a $1.68 trillion surplus in the trust fund. It will grow to $6.5 trillion by 2028. The IOUs the President speaks about are loans that are backed by the full faith and credit of the United States.

Question: Is the President reneging on repaying the more than $637 billion his administration borrowed from the trust fund?

Question: Is this a scheme for the administration to transfer Social Security wealth from tens of millions of American workers to pay for the tax cuts for the rich?

A few weeks ago, I introduced a Resolution of Inquiry asking the President to produce documents to back up his claim there is no trust fund. If anyone in this House has those documents, they do not get their way.

make them public. Otherwise, support H. Res. 170, which requires the President to prove his assertion about the trust fund.

This Congress was misled about Iraq. Let us not be misled about Social Security. We do not need a select committee, a Presidential commission, or a Senate investigation. We just need the House to support H. Res. 170.

HONORING THE PASSING OF BILL LEHMAN

(Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Mr. Speaker, another major security breach involving the personal ID theft of 180,000 GM and MasterCard credit card holders should wake up Congress to deliver tough national standards for protecting Americans against ID theft. But this recent outbreak of 180,000 GM and MasterCard credit card holders ID is on the heels of Choice Point, Bank of America and Lexius-Nexus and shows there are too many fraud artists posing as individual businesses and too many individual consumers whose identity is now being stolen and used against them. According to the Privacy Rights Center, we now as Americans are victims of ID theft each year. They have a right to be notified when their most sensitive health data is stolen.

In response to this problem, there have been bipartisan solutions offered to address it. The gentlewoman from Illinois (Ms. BEAN), the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. GUTIERREZ), the gentlewoman from New York (Ms. SLAUGHTER), and I introduced the Notification of Risk to Personal Data Act as one piece of legislation. Our legislation requires consumers to be immediately notified when their personal data has been stolen or acquired by an unauthorized person and imposes tough new penalties on violators.

Mr. Speaker, Americans want, need, and rightfully expect Congress to protect them from the prying eyes of identity thieves and give them back control of their Social Security numbers and personal health information.

SUPPORTING LEADERSHIP OF PRESIDENT ON SOCIAL SECURITY

(Mr. CHOCOLA asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. Speaker, this morning I rise in support of the leadership of our President as it relates to Social Security. Just a couple of weeks ago the President was in my district, and he shared with the people of north central Indiana that we have an undeniable challenge with Social Security. The President believes that leadership solves problems and that leaders do not pass the problem. He also said that all ideas are on the table.

So, Mr. Speaker, I encourage all of my colleagues, especially those on other side of the aisle, to become part of the solution, rather than just part of the problem. If we say what we are against and we only say what we are against, we only add to the problem; but if we say what we are for and we offer constructive solutions, even if we do not agree with all the solutions offered, let us say that we have a better idea.

Mr. Speaker, I think it is imperative for the American people that we all become part of the solution, we all offer good ideas to make sure that we address one of the most serious problems we face as a Nation, because that is exactly what we are elected for. So I encourage all of my colleagues to be part of the solution.

CLARIFICATION ON COMMENTS ON JUDICIARY NEEDED

(Ms. BEAN asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Mr. Speaker, some time ago the majority leader of the House, Mr. WILSON of South Carolina, Mr. Speaker, yesterday’s passage of the Death Tax Reprieve Permanency Act was a victory for American families, farmers, and small business owners. Since reducing the death tax in 2001, over 3 million new jobs have been created in our country. Unfortunately, Congress provided the American people with a temporary solution to a serious problem. The death tax is scheduled to go back into effect in 2010. The leadership on this issue of the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. HULSHOF) and the majority leader, the gentleman from Texas (Mr. DELAY), has been essential in protecting the American Dream.

PROTECTING THE AMERICAN DREAM

(Mr. WILSON of South Carolina asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. Speaker, Americans want, need, and rightfully expect Congress to protect them from the prying eyes of identity thieves and giving them back control of their Social Security numbers and personal health information.

ACCOUNTABILITY IN THE VALERIE PLAME MATTER

(Mr. HOLT asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. Speaker, nearly 2 years after a columnist disclosed the identity of a CIA employee, the White House and the Department of Justice have yet to find and hold accountable the person or persons who leaked her name to the press.

We know that at least one, and possibly more, executive branch officials violated their oaths to protect classified information and, in doing so, they squandered an important intelligence asset and may have jeopardized the lives of people with whom she has been in contact. American security was harmed.

Some have offered weak excuses for the disclosure, saying the person’s identity was already known or her work was not really important. Those are outrageous excuses. More troubling still is the fact that this was leaked in the context of a political vendetta. According to published reports, the leaker was trying to discredit former ambassador Joe Wilson, who was disputing the administration’s assertions that Saddam was trying to unleash weapons of mass destruction on the United States. Of course, we now know Wilson was correct.

As President George Herbert Walker Bush stated in a speech to CIA employees a few years ago, “Those who leak the identity of intelligence operatives are the most insidious of traders. What does it say about the ethics and responsibilities of this body and the administration that attempts to find this person have been so anemic?

URGENT NEED TO STRENGTHEN SOCIAL SECURITY

(Mr. Gingrey asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. GINGREY. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to speak about the urgent need to strengthen Social Security. It is often said the first step to recovery is admitting you have a problem. Well, we have a problem. We have a serious problem.

Analysts predict that Social Security will be bankrupt by 2042. That may seem a far way off but, in reality, it means Social Security will not be around when today’s 20-year-olds retire.

Since the 1930s, we have seen medical advances, technological advances, transportation advances, but we have not seen Social Security advances. We have to make this program sustainable for current and future demographics. We cannot do that if we are stuck using a 1935 model.

Let me be clear. When we talk about reforming the system, we are talking about strengthening Social Security for future generations, not weakening today’s retirees or near retirees, who will get every single benefit they have been promised. While Social Security will not change for today’s seniors, we have to fix the system for tomorrow’s seniors.

My colleagues on the other side of the aisle may be content to make Social Security a political issue, but I am not. Our children’s future is too important for political posturing. My concern is more about the next generation than the next election.

SOCIAL SECURITY AND AFRICAN AMERICANS

(Ms. LEE asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Ms. LEE. Mr. Speaker, the President’s very cynical attempt to sell his Social Security privatization scheme to African Americans, quite frankly, is very painful. Thank goodness African Americans are not buying it.

President Bush said that his privatization plan would benefit African Americans because we have a shorter life expectancy. It is truly remarkable that the President would rather exploit African Americans’ shorter life expectancy to sell his privatization plan than actually do something to help African Americans live longer.

If the President is truly concerned about African Americans, he should support legislation and funding to address the health disparities that contribute to shorter life expectancy. Sadly, this is just the sort of cynical, divisive move we have come to expect from an administration that is bent on cutting the guaranteed benefit of Social Security and entrusting our seniors’ retirement security to Wall Street and a roll of the dice.

Mr. Speaker, Julian Bond, President of the NAACP, and the gentleman from Maryland (Mr. Cummings) were correct to call the President on this earlier this week.

HONORING MARYLAND VETERAN OF THE YEAR ORVILLE HUGHES

(Mr. Bartlett of Maryland asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. BARTLETT of Maryland. Mr. Speaker, we cannot live in the land of the free without thanking the brave veterans who secure our liberty. It is my privilege to honor Colonel Orville Hughes from Monkton, Maryland, selected Veteran of the Year by the Joint Veterans’ Committee of Maryland.

Colonel Orville Hughes served our country for 27 years in the Army during World War II, Korea, and Vietnam. He was a POW in Germany, earned a Silver Star in Korea, and served as the military attache at the embassy in Vienna, Austria. He earned many other commendations, including the Legion of Merit and the Purple Heart.

After his retirement from the Army, Colonel Orville Hughes continued to serve our country through the DAY, VFW, Military Order of the Purple Heart, American ex-POWs, and the American Legion.

I hope that by honoring the contributions of Colonel Orville Hughes to the country we love, we will appreciate and be inspired by his great example of achievement and service to others.

DEFENDING THE CONSTITUTION AND THE JUDICIARY’S RIGHT TO MAKE DECISIONS

(Ms. Jackson-Lee of Texas asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, it is interesting, as I listened to a colleague at the beginning of our messages to the House who seemingly wanted to shut the lights off in this place and extinguish the Constitution, which reflects that we are not only a republic but we are a democracy. Democrats have a right to disagree with Social Security, medicaid, medicare, and educational policies, because this is a democracy.

Proudly so, we represent half of the United States of America, and we will continue to fight for our issues. One of those issues has to be to support this Constitution, the belief that we are a country governed by laws.

The Constitution designates under article 3 that we have a separate, independent judiciary, one that should be safely secured. Therefore, when Members of the opposite side of the aisle begin to attack court systems simply because they do not agree, they have violated the constitutional provisions that we adhere to.

It is a shame that judges are cowardly in the corners because Members have decided to speak ugly against their right to make a decision. When conferences are held in Washington, D.C., and ultraconservatives begin to attack the judiciary, it is time for this congressional body to stand up and defend the Constitution.

END THE TYRANNY OF APRIL 15 ANXIETY

(Mr. Pence asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. PENCE. Mr. Speaker, my late father used to say, you only have to do two things in life: die and pay taxes. Just about 40 minutes ago, I did one of those things, and I will let my colleagues guess which one it was.

Like millions of Americans, before midnight tomorrow night, I managed to fill out all of the forms which, for me, as a man of no significant means, a public servant married to a schoolteacher, there were only forms that I had to fill in three States and with one national government. The full total of the pages that I had to fill out and file near and dear to 100.

My speaker, the People’s House is supposed to resonate with the hearts of the American people. As we approach this tax day and go through our usual spring ritual of arguments in Washington, D.C., I hope the Congress will rise with the heart of the American people and seize upon the opportunity to simplify this tax system and end the tyranny of anxiety that reigns throughout the land every April 15.
THE WASHINGTON LOBBYISTS

(Mr. BROWN of Ohio asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. BROWN of Ohio. Mr. Speaker, today is an important day. It is opening day for the Washington Nationals. Baseball is back in Washington. But we ought to come up with a better name than the Washington Nationals, a name that really fits this city.

The new baseball team should be called the Washington Lobbyists. After all, who runs this town? The energy lobbyists that wrote the energy bill last year in the Senate; the Enron lobbyists who wrote the bankruptcy bill today, the pharmaceutical lobbyists who write the Medicare legislation, the Wall Street lobbyists who write the Social Security privacy legislation, and they and their Republican allies in Congress play under different rules. "It ain't over 'til it's over," unless we are losing.

At home games, the Washington Lobbyists could hold the game open, adding their inning if they are losing at the end of the arbitrary nine. Instead of the oh-so-boring ball day and bat day, we could have Halliburton Gasoline Night: a tank of gas for the first thousand fans at the Halliburton patriotic price of $3.95 a gallon. Or, we could have the Enron Double Header: fans get to watch the game. Somebody then the team kicks you out and takes the Enron Double Header: fans get to watch the game.

Anybody looking for a plan to address the Social Security problem can begin with two basic steps. First, take private accounts off the table; and, second, worry about the real crisis, which is the current budget deficit outside Social Security.

CELEBRATING THE WASHINGTON NATIONALS

(Mr. DREIER asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. DREIER. Mr. Speaker, as I listened to my colleague talk about baseball, I have to say that when I first came to this town, I was told that there were two things that mattered: number one, the government; number two, the Redskins. I am so gratified that tonight we will have the opportunity to experience the opening game of the Nationals.

Now, I am a loyal Dodger fan. Tommy Lasorda has repeatedly told me that if I want to go to heaven, I must be a Dodger fan. But I want to congratulate the District of Columbia and all who have been involved in putting together this team. It has been 34 years since a baseball game has been played, a National League baseball game played in the District of Columbia, and we are very, very fortunate as a community to be able to focus on something other than the government and something other than the Redskins.

REAL SOLUTIONS FOR SOCIAL SECURITY AND THE DEFICIT

(Mrs. MALONEY asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mrs. MALONEY. Mr. Speaker, irresponsible budget and tax policies have squandered the budget surpluses that President Bush inherited and turned them into a legacy of deficit and debts. Now he is trying to do the same thing to Social Security with a private accounts plan that would add trillions to our national debt.

The "GEORGE W. BUSH BUREAU OF PUBLIC DEBT"

(Mr. OBEY asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. OBEY. Mr. Speaker, I am getting increasingly worried because we have named many a building after Ronald Reagan, but we have not yet named anything significant after our existing President, George W. Bush.

In light of the fact that the estate tax bill that passed yesterday will add $290 billion to the national debt, I am getting increasingly worried because we have named many a building after Ronald Reagan, but we have not yet named anything significant after our existing President, George W. Bush.

PROVIDING FOR CONSIDERATION OF S. 256, BANKRUPTCY ABUSE PREVENTION AND CONSUMER PROTECTION ACT OF 2005

(Mr. GINGREY asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. GINGREY. Mr. Speaker, bankruptcy reform is overdue for passage. Despite its critics, S. 256, the Bankruptcy Abuse Prevention and Consumer Protection Act of 2005, does not exclude anyone from filing for bankruptcy. Instead, it implements a simple means test to shield debtors who make below their State's median income and to determine if a higher income debtor has the ability to partially pay back his or her creditors.

To phrase it simply, bankruptcy reform is financial accountability. It protects our system against fraud and abuse. And it asks those who have the means to repay as much of their debts as they can.

For at least four previous Congresses, members have been trying to reform our "when in doubt, bail out society" in favor of personal responsibility. Bankruptcy should not be a financial planning tool, and it should be available for legitimate emergency situations only. Our bankruptcy system should fit the needs of the individual, no more, no less. With this rule, and passage of the underlying legislation. S. 256 we will finally see some movement in the right direction.

Bankruptcy reform is important to help speed up court hearings, because it only takes a few fraudulent or misdirected cases to stall a court for hundreds of other legitimate bankruptcy filings. Federal bankruptcy filings perjudgishave increased by 73 percent from 2,996 in 1992 to 5,130 in 2003; and it represents the largest case load in our Federal court system. This creates a backlog that slows down the process for those really in need of bankruptcy protection.

Bankruptcy reform provisions found in S. 256 include, but are not limited to: abuse prevention so debtors who have committed crimes of violence or engaged in drug trafficking are no longer able to use bankruptcy to hide their finances;

New business privacy protections, where if a debtor has the ability to partially repay debts, he or she must either be channeled into a form of bankruptcy relief that requires repayment or risk having the bankruptcy case dismissed as an abuse of process;

Spousal and child support protections to help single parents and their children by closing a loophole used by some spouses currently avoiding their child support responsibilities. This would put child support and alimony payments as a first priority, ahead of credit card debt and attorney’s fees. Child support and alimony payments are currently seventh in the priority list of payments;

Closing the mansion loophole requires a debtor to live in a State for at least 2 years before he or she can claim that State’s homestead exemption. The current requirement is 91 days, allowing some debtors to shield themselves from creditors by putting all of their equity into their homes;

Debtor protections requiring potential debtors to receive credit counseling before they can be eligible for bankruptcy relief; and allowing bankruptcy courts to make an informed choice about bankruptcy considering all alternatives and consequences;

Further, small business protections to defend against needless bankruptcy lawsuits. Under current law, a business can be sued by a bankruptcy trustee and forced to pay back monies previously paid by a firm that later files for bankruptcy protection;

Additionally, family farm relief by doubling debt eligibility for chapter 12 filing, allowing periodic inflation adjustment of this debt, and lowering the required percentage of a farmer’s income that must be derived from farming operations sabes.

There are business privacy protections to prohibit the disclosure of names of a debtor’s minor children with privileged information kept in a nonpublic record. Current law allows nearly every item of information supplied by a debtor in connection with his or her bankruptcy case to be made available to the public.

S. 256 passed the Senate with a clear 74 to 25 majority. The House judiciary markup on March 16 included rollcall votes on 11 amendments. The reforms included in this legislation will be very beneficial to our society without ignoring the need of those suffering financial uncertainty. This legislation deserves a clean up-or-down vote. Mr. Speaker, I ask my colleagues to support this rule and pass S. 256 bankruptcy reform.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. GINGREY) for yielding me the time.

Before yielding myself such time as I may consume, I yield to the distinguishing gentleman from California (Mr. STARK) for a unanimous consent request.

(Mr. STARK asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. STARK. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strenuous opposition to this unfair bill. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong opposition to S. 256. This bankruptcy bill is touted as reform, but it is actually a wolf in sheep’s clothing intended to allow lenders to get away with loans they would not have been able to make in the first place.

Bankruptcy reform provisions found in S. 256 include, but are not limited to: abuse prevention so debtors who have committed crimes of violence or engaged in drug trafficking are no longer able to use bankruptcy to hide their finances;

New business privacy protections, where if a debtor has the ability to partially repay debts, he or she must either be channeled into a form of bankruptcy relief that requires repayment or risk having the bankruptcy case dismissed as an abuse of process;

Spousal and child support protections to help single parents and their children by closing a loophole used by some spouses currently avoiding their child support responsibilities. This would put child support and alimony payments as a first priority, ahead of credit card debt and attorney’s fees. Child support and alimony payments are currently seventh in the priority list of payments;

Closing the mansion loophole requires a debtor to live in a State for at least 2 years before he or she can claim that State’s homestead exemption. The current requirement is 91 days, allowing some debtors to shield themselves from creditors by putting all of their equity into their homes;

Debtor protections requiring potential debtors to receive credit counseling before they can be eligible for bankruptcy relief; and allowing bankruptcy courts to make an informed choice about bankruptcy considering all alternatives and consequences;

Further, small business protections to defend against needless bankruptcy lawsuits. Under current law, a business can be sued by a bankruptcy trustee and forced to pay back monies previously paid by a firm that later files for bankruptcy protection;

Additionally, family farm relief by doubling debt eligibility for chapter 12 filing, allowing periodic inflation adjustment of this debt, and lowering the required percentage of a farmer’s income that must be derived from farming operations sabes.

There are business privacy protections to prohibit the disclosure of names of a debtor’s minor children with privileged information kept in a nonpublic record. Current law allows nearly every item of information supplied by a debtor in connection with his or her bankruptcy case to be made available to the public.

Mr. Speaker, I rise today to oppose this closed rule and S. 256. Once again, the majority has squelched debate on a controversial piece of legislation for no legitimate reason.

More than 35 Democratic amendments were offered in the Rules Committee yesterday. None have been made in order. Why? There is no reason for limiting the debate in this manner.

The House came into session on Tuesday and Members will leave town later this afternoon after just 2 days of work. Even more, there was only one other bill of substance before the House this week. The time to debate this bill and its offered amendments is available. The willingness to conduct meaningful business, however, is the missing ingredient. A 1-hour debate on legislation containing such sweeping reforms is not the way to conduct the people’s business.

The argument will be made that this has been 9 years in the making. But a lot of this measure has been overcome by time, and that will be discussed by others later.

I am particularly disappointed that an amendment I offered is not being allowed to come before this body for consideration. My amendment seeks to prevent the very bankruptcies that are causing this Congress so much consternation and is germane to the discussion. It requires credit card companies to preserve a customer’s interest rate prior to incurring medical expenses if the customer is unable to pay off the full medical expenses on time. It also fails from hospitals treating delinquent patients for 5 years, provided that the patient is paying 20 percent of his or her monthly mandated medical expenses.

All the information we have available indicates that medical bills are the second leading cause of personal bankruptcy in the United States. It is, in my opinion, hypocritical to prevent debate on an amendment that could ameliorate some of the issues facing this bankruptcy reform legislation. Is not the whole point of this bill to make bankruptcy less frequent? If Members of Congress have ideas about how to accomplish that, should they not be heard?

Many other Members sought to introduce amendments, but have also been denied their opportunity to be heard. These amendments could have improved this legislation.

For example, the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. Scott) offered an amendment to exempt from the means test provision of debtors who have business losses incurred by a spouse who has died or deserted the debtor. The gentleman from California (Mr. Filner) offered an amendment to exempt from the means test provision of debtors who have business losses incurred by a spouse who has died or deserted the debtor. Mr. Speaker, I will insert a list of all 35 amendments which would exempt victims of identity theft.

And the ranking member of the Rules Committee, the gentlewoman from New York (Ms. Slaughter), offered an amendment that imposes restrictions on issuing credit cards to college students. But none of those amendments, or the 31 others, will be debated today because the rule on this bill is closed.

At this point, Mr. Speaker, I will insert a list of all 35 amendments which the Republican majority has blocked from being considered in the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD.

AMENDMENTS SUBMITTED TO THE RULES COMMITTEE FOR S. 256 AND DENIED CONSIDERATION BY THE RULES (H. Res. 211)

1) Emanuel/Delanah-Dingell—prevents debtors from shielding their funds from bankruptcy liquidation through so-called “asset protection trusts;”
2) Reed—exempts disabled veterans from the bill’s means test;
3) Pliner—exempts from the bill’s means test consumers who are victimized by identity theft;
4) Inase—exempts from the bill’s means test consumers whose debts are the result of serious medical problems;
5) Delahunt—exempts debtor corporations to file for bankruptcy where their principal place of business is located;
6) Sherman—establishes a “nuisance rate” for credit card companies above which credit card companies cannot charge consumers;
7) Sanders—caps fees credit card companies can charge consumers at 15;
8) Sanders—prohibits credit card companies from changing interest rates based on changes in consumers’ credit information;
9) Sanders—prohibits credit card companies from raising interest rates based on consumer credit reports;
10) Ruppersberger—requires credit card solicitation to be accompanied by a brochure explaining the consequences of the irresponsible use of credit;
11) Schiff—prohibits the bill’s means test consumers who are victimized by identity theft, if at least 51% of the creditor claims against them are due to identity theft;
12) LoFGren—exempts from the bill’s means test families facing bankruptcy due to a serious medical hardship that drains at least 50% of their yearly income, and 2) families who lose at least one month of needed pay or alimony due to illness;
13) LoFGren—exempts from the bill’s means test a single parent who failed to receive child or spousal support totaling more than 50% of his or her household income;
14) Scott (FL)—from the bill’s means test provisions: 1) debtors who have business losses incurred by a spouse who has died or deserted the debtor 2) debtors who have had serious illness in their family and 3) debtors who have been laid off;
15) Scott (VA)—exempts from the bill’s means test provisions debtors who have business losses incurred by a spouse who has died or deserted the debtor;
16) Scott (VA)—exempts from the bill’s means test provisions debtors who have had serious illness in their family; and 17) Scott (VA)—exempts from the bill’s means test provisions debtors who have been laid off from their jobs through no fault of their own;
18) Nadler—sunset the bill after 2 years;
19) Watt—prohibits annual credit card rates higher than 75%;
20) Watt—increases the costs of college in the calculation of debtor’s monthly expense;
21) Ruppersberger—exempts from the bill’s means test veterans who have declared bankruptcy due to high medical expenses;
22) Hastings (FL)—prevents credit card companies from increasing rates on consumers who use their credit cards to pay for extraordinary medical expenses; also prevents hospitals from generating negative credit information on consumers who are paying their bills in good faith;
23) Meehan—Exempts from the means test disabled veterans whose indebtedness occurred primarily as a result of an injury or illness suffered as a result of active duty or prior active duty on behalf of the United States; and 24) Scott (VA)—exempts from the means test veterans of the military who served in combat zones;
25) Jackson Lee—exempts from the bill’s means test provisions debtors who have had serious illness in their family and 3) debtors who have been laid off;
26) Jackson Lee—makes debtors arising out of state sex offenses non-dischargeable in bankruptcy proceedings;
27) Jackson Lee—clarifies Congress’ intent that nuclear liabilities be covered by the Price-Anderson Act, and not by bankruptcy laws;
28) Jackson Lee—makes debts arising out of penalties imposed on businesses for false tobacco claims non-dischargeable in bankruptcy proceedings;
29) Jackson Lee—strikes the bill’s means test provision;
30) Woolsey—requires credit counseling agencies to provide free services to recent veterans of the military who served in combat zones;
31) Jackson Lee—requires credit card companies to determine, before they approve a credit card, whether a student applicant has the financial means to pay off a credit card balance within the credit limit to minimum balances if the student has no independent income; and it requires parental approval for credit card limit increases in the event that a parent cosigns the account; and 32) Maloney—enables schools that conform to their deeply held religious beliefs.

Mr. Speaker, the House has adopted a new modus operandi. We saw it earlier this year with the class action bill, and we are seeing it again today. It seems that if the Republican leadership deems legislation important, and that is their prerogative, it is willing to push through the other body’s version without the opportunity for serious debate. This new method does a great disservice to the people of this Nation. Even more, it stops Members, Democrats and Republicans, from serving as thoughtful, effective legislators.

The House of Representatives is the people’s House. The Founding Fathers envisioned a forum for lively debate on the issues of the day, not the controlled steering of selected legislation with no opportunity for meaningful change.

What also concerns me is the unworkable means test contained in this legislation. I am greatly disturbed, as I know all the residents of south Florida are, that this means test includes disaster assistance as a source of revenue. People forced into dire financial circumstances through natural disasters should find bankruptcy a source of relief. Considering disaster assistance as a source of revenue adds insult to injury and contradicts the government’s efforts to help people get back on their feet.

This legislation, masquerading as protection against bankruptcy abuse, is really a protection for credit card companies and their predatory lending practices. This legislation does not protect the American people. This legislation protects the credit industry at the expense of the American people. Increasingly, credit card companies market their product to riskier consumers, and now they want the Congress to protect them from the losses that are the foreseeable result of this ill-advised business strategy. Why are we wholeheartedly debating legislation that would address those practices, instead of elucidating a crucial safety net that Americans rely on when all else fails?
Mr. Speaker, should it pass, this bill will severely curtail the ability of Americans to obtain relief from bankruptcy without solving any of its underlying causes. Medical bills, unemployment, and predatory lending practices are at the root of this problem. In the long run, the net effect of this legislation will drive more Americans deeper into financial crisis and weaken our social structure and the Nation’s economy. I will not, and cannot, support such an attack on American consumers. I urge my colleagues to vote “no” on this closed rule and “no” on S. 256.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. GINGREY. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I want to point out, Mr. Speaker, to the gentleman from Florida that medical expenses are specifically covered in the bill, and all other extenuating circumstances are covered in section 102 of the bill allowing judicial latitude.

At this point, I would like to yield 4 minutes to the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. SENSENBRENNER), the distinguished chairman of the Judiciary Committee.

Mr. SENSENBRENNER. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from Georgia for yielding me time. I rise in support of the rule for consideration of S. 256, the Bankruptcy Abuse Prevention and Consumer Protection Act of 2005. This bill consists of a comprehensive package of reform measures that will improve bankruptcy law and practice by restoring personal responsibility and integrity to the bankruptcy system. It will also ensure that the system is fair for both debtors and creditors.

As we now consider this rule, and the legislation later today, I believe it is particularly important to keep in mind that bankruptcy reform’s extensive deliberative history before the Committee on Rules, the Committee on the Judiciary, and both bodies of Congress, which I would like to briefly summarize.

First, the bill represents the culmination of nearly 8 years of intense and detailed congressional consideration. The House, for example, has passed versions of bankruptcy reform legislation on eight separate occasions. Likewise, the other body has repeatedly registered its strong support for bankruptcy reform. Just last month, they passed S. 256 by a vote of 74 to 25, marking the fifth time that body has overwhelmingly adopted bankruptcy reform legislation since 1998.

Second, S. 256 has benefited immensely from an exhaustive hearing and amendment process as well as meaningful bipartisan, bicameral negotiations. Over the past four Congresses, the Judiciary Committee held 18 hearings on the need for bankruptcy reform, including a hearing held earlier this year.

In the 106th Congress alone, the Committee on the Judiciary entertained 59 amendments over the course of a 5-day markup on bankruptcy reform legislation, which included 29 recorded votes. On the floor, 11 more amendments were considered.

In the 107th Congress, the Committee on the Judiciary considered 18 amendments during the course of its markup of bankruptcy reform legislation, and the House, thereafter, considered five amendments.

In the last Congress, the Committee on the Judiciary entertained nine amendments to the bill, and five amendments were considered on the House floor. Also in the last Congress, the Committee on Rules made two amendments in order in connection with a similar bill, addressing bankruptcy reform, which was considered on the floor.

Last month, the Committee on the Judiciary entertained 23 more amendments, each of which has been soundly defeated.

Mr. Speaker, I have over here the paper record of the House consideration of bankruptcy reform legislation over the last four Congresses. Here’s the committee report on this bill, over 500 pages long. We have a copy of the House version of the bill, which is over 500 pages long. We have the committee report from 2003. We have a conference report from the 107th Congress. We have a committee report from the 107th Congress. We have a committee report from the 106th Congress. We have a committee report earlier in the 106th Congress, and then we have a committee report from the 105th Congress on the House side. All of these are debates in the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD when this bill has come up, and we have had conference reports filed, amendments filed, original bills. We have the conference report. There has been plenty of process on this legislation. The time to pass it is now, and that is why this rule is coming up in the way it is structured the way it is.

Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding again for the time.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of this rule for consideration of S. 256, the “Bankruptcy Abuse Prevention and Consumer Protection Act of 2005.” S. 256 consists of a comprehensive package of reform measures that will improve bankruptcy law and practice by restoring personal responsibility and integrity to the bankruptcy system. It will also ensure that the system is fair for both debtors and creditors.

As we now consider this rule, and the legislation later today, I believe it is particularly important to keep in mind that bankruptcy reform’s extensive deliberative history before the Committee on Rules, the Judiciary Committee, and both bodies of Congress, which I would like to briefly summarize for you.

First, S. 256 represents the culmination of nearly 8 years of intense and detailed congressional consideration. The House, for example, has passed versions of bankruptcy reform legislation on eight separate occasions. Likewise, the other body has repeatedly registered its strong support for bankruptcy reform. Just last month, they passed S. 256 by a vote of 74 to 25, making the fifth time that body has overwhelmingly adopted bankruptcy reform legislation since 1998.

Second, S. 256 has benefited immensely from an exhaustive hearing and amendment process as well as meaningful bipartisan, bicameral negotiations. Over the past four Congresses, the Judiciary Committee held 18 hearings on the need for bankruptcy reform, including a hearing held earlier this year.

In the 105th Congress, 4 days were devoted to the Committee’s mark up of bankruptcy reform legislation. In the 106th Congress alone, the Judiciary Committee entertained 59 amendments over the course of a 5-day markup of bankruptcy reform legislation, which included 29 recorded votes. On the floor, 11 more amendments were considered.

In the 107th Congress, the Committee on the Judiciary considered 18 amendments during the course of its markup of bankruptcy reform legislation, and the House, thereafter, considered five amendments.

In the last Congress, the Committee on the Judiciary entertained nine amendments to the bill, and five amendments were considered on the House floor. Also in the last Congress, the Committee on Rules made two amendments in order in connection with a similar bill, addressing bankruptcy reform, which was considered on the floor.

Last month, the Committee on the Judiciary entertained 23 more amendments, each of which has been soundly defeated.

Third, it must be remembered that S. 256 is a result of extensive bipartisan and bicameral negotiation and compromise. For example, conferees during the 106th Congress spent nearly 7 months engaged in an informal conference to reconcile differences between the House and Senate passed versions of bankruptcy reform legislation. In the 107th Congress, conferees formally met on three occasions and ultimately agreed—after an 11-month period of negotiations—to a bipartisan conference report. The legislation before us today represents a delicate balance and various compromises that have been struck over the past 7 years.

Fourth, and perhaps most importantly, the need for bankruptcy reform is long-overdue and should not be further delayed. Every day that passes by without these reforms, more abuse and fraud goes undetected.

Mr. Speaker, there simply is no reason to further amend this legislation given its uniquely extensive deliberative record. Those who come to the floor today and complain about lack of...
Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume before yielding to the distinguished ranking member to respond to my colleague from Georgia by indicating the last time I looked at the rules, it allowed that individual Members have a right to make amendments, and we are not required to offer a substitute.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentlewoman from New York (Ms. SLAUGHTER), my good friend.

Ms. SLAUGHTER. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for the time.

The rule we are debating, that we have made today is a closed rule which means that the Members of Congress who brought 35 amendments to the Committee on Rules will not have a chance to bring them up.

This closed rule means that the elected representatives of the people who have the opportunity to consider the amendments and decide for themselves whether or not they would make the bankruptcy bill a better piece of legislation.

I personally think that amendments protecting our men and women returning from military service in Iraq and Afghanistan would be a good idea, and I feel very strongly that the amendment protecting the victims of identity theft from bankruptcy is an important measure that should be debated on the House floor. After all, Americans are and should be very concerned about identity theft.

Just to give my colleagues an idea of how concerned our fellow Americans should be about this, Lexis-Nexis and GM MasterCard are both recovering from wide-scale security breaches which may have placed millions of Americans at risk for having their identity stolen. In fact, just 2 days ago, Lexis-Nexis identified more than 300,000 Americans that their personal information may have been stolen. In some cases, it will take those people 6 years to get back their identity. It is a very real problem for our country.

But if my colleagues in the majority do not agree that protecting Americans from identity theft is an important issue, why will they not let the body debate it? If they want to, they can always vote against it. That is the way things are supposed to happen here in a democracy, or so they have instituted another closed rule and will not allow us to debate the issues.

This is the fifth Congress that we have debated bankruptcy reform, and we have heard that this morning. To be fair, we have not debated this bill under open rules in the past, but we have certainly debated them under rules that allowed amendments.

This chart shows the number of amendments that the Committee on Rules made in order on this bill in every Congress since the 105th, and I insert in the RECORD at this point a list of the rules.

The chart shows a disturbing pattern, Mr. Speaker, a pattern that has become common practice here in the House.

In every Congress, Republican leaders have allowed fewer and fewer amendments to be debated. We started at 125 in the 105th Congress, and in the 109th Congress, we have a completely closed rule. Zero amendments are in order. There is less and less democracy in this House, and every time a speaker’s voices are being heard on the floor.

The Democrats on the Committee on Rules last month issued a report studying the disturbing trend toward less democracy and deliberation in this House. During this last Congress and this closed rule today convinces me we are only getting worse.

So again, I say again we have disallowed the amendments that would have let us make this a better bill, a bill that would protect more vulnerable people in this country, including our soldiers who have returned from Iraq, most of those in the National Guard and Reserves, many of whom are losing their houses because they were called back time and again and were to able to maintain their houses. It is a dis-

Mr. GINGREY. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. SENSENBERGER). Mr. Spea-er, I would like to lay to rest the fact that we have not had a full and complete debate on this.

This year, on March 16, the Commmittee on the Judiciary had a full markup on this bill. Anybody who wished to offer an amendment was al-allowed to do so. Our committee publishes the complete transcript of markups as a part of the committee report. This transcript goes on for 350 pages in the committee report, which shows that everybody had an opportunity to speak their peace. There were 23 amendments that were offered, and all of them were voted down by overwhelming margins.

Now, amending this bill is what the people who wish no bankruptcy reform have in mind because they know the other body has had difficulty in finding time to debate this bill and vote clo-ture. The gentlewoman from New York (Ms. SLAUGHTER), whom I greatly regoing to hear: "I am broke. I am

People who feel they have nothing to lose can become dangerous to society. Denying bankruptcy protection to people who need a fresh start will only increase the number of people in our community who feel they have nothing to lose.

This legislation does not differentiate between those who abuse the system and those who deserve a fresh start. This rule does not allow amendments to fix the bill; and, therefore, the rule should be defeated.

Mr. GINGREY. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

In the 105th Congress, H.R. 3150, bankruptcy reform, passed 306–118.

In the 108th Congress, H.R. 975 passed the House.

The gentleman from Virginia (Mr. SCOTT) was not one of those voting in the affirmative on any of those occasions, but I want to point out to the gentleman in regard to his concern over medical and health-related expenses for a debtor, spouse, and dependents, on line 23, page 8, continuing through line 10 page 9, this covers the treatment of medical expenses for the debtor, spouse of the debtor, and dependents of the debtor. It expressly includes not just actual medical expenses but expenses for health insurance, disability insurance, and health savings accounts.

Mr. Speaker, put another way, contrary to misrepresentations by oppo-ents, the needs-based test not only takes into account the full range of medical expenses by the debtors, but it also covers the spouse and dependents. This is just one of three provisions for a member of the household or immediate family. The provision includes for the monthly expense of the debtor, expenses incurred for the care and support of an elderly or disabled member of the debtor’s immediate family. This includes parents, grandparents, siblings, children and grandchildren of the debtor, among others.

So medical in any situation, Mr. Speaker, medical or otherwise, no debtor is denied access to bankruptcy relief. All S. 256 says is that, in a limited range of cases, a debtor with limited income and limited capacity to have a fresh start if the business goes under. They will be stripped down to essentials like food and rent for 5 years, and that is average rent for the area, not what they may have been living in.

Finally, we ought to consider the impact on society of increasing the number of people who conclude that they have nothing to lose. It is ironic that just last night we debated bankruptcy reform on the floor of the House, a farmer had driven his tractor into the pond near the Washington Monument, tying up traffic for a long time. He was reported to have said, "I am bORG. Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Massachusetts (Mr. DELAHUNT).

Mr. DELAHUNT. Mr. Speaker, the chairman of the Committee on the Judiciary is correct when he says 8 years. I do not say we want another 8 years, but given the quality of this bill, given the reality that it imposes no responsibility whatsoever on the credit card industry, naturally we will be opposed. Responsibility. We hear personal responsibility. What about corporate responsibility? Responsibility is a two-way street.

To get a fair and balanced bill, we need to guard the bill. We need to guard the bill. The gentleman from North Carolina and myself filed which would have limited the interest on credit cards to 75 percent.

Sure, that might have shifted, if you will. We need to guard the bill. But, no, the credit card industry bought and paid for this legislation. Somewhere north of $40 million was part of that effort. Let us not kid ourselves. This bill was written for and by the credit card industry. It has nothing to do with the consumer. But that is why we needed amendments, to make it fair and to make it balanced. Let us not just use those words.

Mr. GINGREY. Mr. Speaker, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from California (Mr. DREIER).

(Mr. DREIER asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. DREIER. Mr. Speaker, this is a great day. Not only are we going to be able to see the Nationals play the first great day. Not only are we going to be paying our taxes. We have constituents who are complaining justifiably about the high cost of gasoline.

On average, passage of this legislation will help a family of four $40 a year, and $400 a year is a very important amount of money for an awful lot of people in this country, and that is the price that they are paying because of the abuse that we have seen of our bankruptcy law that has been going on for years and years and years. I happen to believe that it is essential that we provide that $400 in relief to the American people just as quickly as we can. We know, as the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. SENSENBERGER) has said, and I congratulate the gentleman for all of the effort that he has put into this, that we for years and years and years have been going through the amendment process. We have had a wide range of concerns brought to the forefront, and we have been able to address them. I believe that we are doing the right thing by moving ahead with this measure.

Mr. Speaker, any Member who votes no on this rule is voting against bankruptcy reform. They are voting against bankruptcy reform. Why? Because it is true 35 amendments were submitted to us in the Committee on Rules. We made it very clear that one of the things that we offered when we came to majority status was the chance to give the people an opportunity to offer a substitute. The gentleman from Wisconsin (Chairman SENSENBERGER) came before the Committee on Rules and made it very clear to us. He requested a closed or a modified closed rule.

Let me say, a modified closed rule means that the minority is offered a chance at providing a substitute, cobbled together a package that in fact is an alternative, a measure that we have brought forward. The minority had an opportunity to do that. What did they choose to do? Members of the minority did not come forward with a substitute. They chose to offer what I call cut-and-dried amendments, going through these issues and amending and amending and amending.

Mr. Speaker, we would have made in order a substitute had they given it to us.

Mr. SENSENBERGER. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. DREIER. I yield to the gentleman from Wisconsin.

Mr. SENSENBERGER. Mr. Speaker, I recognize the gentleman from North Dakota (Mr. POMROY) an opportunity to not only offer his substitute, but he could have offered a motion to recommit. So the rule under which we considered the death tax repeal yesterday is the same type of rule that we are considering today, except that the minority on this bill decided not to offer a constructive alternative substitute.

Mr. DREIER. Mr. Speaker, reclaiming my time, the chairman of the Committee on the Judiciary is absolutely right. We reported out a modified closed rule that provided the gentleman from North Dakota (Mr. POMROY) an opportunity to not only offer his substitute, but he could have offered a motion to recommit. So two bites at the apple. The exact same opportunity existed on this bill which has come to the House, Mr. Speaker, with an excess of 300 votes in the past.

We said a substitute would have been made in order if it had been submitted to us in the Committee on Rules.

Mr. DELAHUNT. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. DREIER. I yield to the gentleman from Massachusetts.

Mr. DELAHUNT. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman made a statement, if I understand correctly, that passage of this proposal before us today would translate into savings of $40 for each family in America.

Mr. DREIER. Mr. Speaker, that is absolutely right. If you look at the cost that exists today because of abuse of bankruptcy law, the abusive filings of bankruptcy, there is, on average, for a family of four of $400 per year.

Mr. DELAHUNT. If the gentleman will yield further, the $400 would actually go back to the American family? Is that what the chairman is suggesting?

Mr. DREIER. If I could reclaim my time, what I am suggesting is that because of abuse of bankruptcy filings that take place today, that is a cost that is imposed on American consumers to the average family of four of in excess of $400.

That is the reason it is absolutely essential, Mr. Speaker, that we pass this legislation.

Mr. DELAHUNT. Will the gentleman yield further?

Mr. DREIER. I have yielded three times. If I could finish my statement, I would like to. We have other people who would like to participate. I know that my dear friend from Florida (Mr. HASTINGS) will be more than happy to yield further time to the gentleman from Massachusetts.

Mr. Speaker, we have been waiting for years and years and years to get to the point where we could get a measure to the desk of the President of the United States so that he can sign it, so that we can deal with this issue and finally bring about responsible reform of our bankruptcy law.

It happen to believe very passionately that people should be accountable for their actions. We do not want anyone to be deprived of access to file for bankruptcy, but we know full well that this has been abused for such a long period of time. That is why we are here today and that is why I am convinced, Mr. Speaker, that even though we will see opposition to this rule, at the end of the day, we will see very strong bipartisan support to reform our bankruptcy law.

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to yield 2 minutes to my good friend, the gentlewoman from Texas (Ms. JACKSON-LEE).

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I thank the distinguished gentleman from Virginia (Mr. SCOTT). Mr. SCOTT of Virginia. I would like to respond very quickly. If medical expenses wipe you out, you cannot pay them. Under this bill you cannot get into chapter 7 if you can pay $166 a month on your bills, however much they are. There could be hundreds of thousands of dollars that you could never pay.

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. I thank the distinguished gentleman.

Mr. Speaker, I rise today to answer my good friend, the chairman of the Committee on Rules. In the reason why a substitute was not offered is because the bankruptcy code as it now stands addresses the needs of the American people. It is interesting that the Republicans want to tell us what kind of amendment to offer when we had 35 amendments that would have protected the American people.

Mr. Speaker, I am outraged because the bankruptcy bill stabs the American people in the back. The reason why I say this is because we have a bankruptcy code that allows the discretion of the judiciary in the bankruptcy courts to be able to determine whether your case is frivolous.
But now we have put in place what we call a means test which indicates that hardworking American families, middle-class families who have faced catastrophic illnesses, divorce, loss of job in this horrible economy, these individual[s] will be barred from entering the bankruptcy court because they do not meet the IRS guidelines. Who wants to meet the IRS guidelines? We already know what the Internal Revenue Service will do to you. All we wanted to do is to give more leeway.

If I might yield to the gentlewoman from Texas, Texas Warren of Harvard University, she will tell you that the time for the bankruptcy bill has long passed. It is an 8-year-old bill that was written more than 8 years ago. Now we find that more consumer bankruptcies have declined. There are less consumer bankruptcies. But if you look at what the President is going to do with Social Security and take so much money out of our economy and break the American people who are beginning to see an upsurge. But what you are going to see is the American people, because of this bankruptcy bill, losing their house, pulling their children out of school, not being able to make ends meet. It is an outrage. This rule should be defeated because the American people are being being stabbed in the back. It is a disgrace.

I ask for a “no” vote on the rule.

Mr. GINGREY. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

In the case of the gentlewoman from Texas, Mr. Speaker, a substitute amendment was offered in every other Congress that bankruptcy reform was considered. Every other Congress in which bankruptcy reform was considered, the minority submitted a substitute amendment. Why not now? I have asked that question several times, and I still have no answer.

In regard to health care expenses, and I am reading from a March 29, 2005, CRS report that titled “The Treatment of Health Care Expenses under the Bankruptcy Abuse Prevention and Consumer Protection Act”: “Conclusion. Health care expenses will generally be considered in one of two contexts in a bankruptcy filing. Significant expenses incurred prior to the bankruptcy filing may be calculated as unsecured claims; if the debtor cannot afford to pay 25 percent of unsecured claims or $500 a month, the debtor may be eligible to file under chapter 7.

Ongoing health care expenses and health insurance premiums may be deducted from the debtor’s monthly income. Factoring in these expenses may also reduce the debtor’s disposable income under the means test.”

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to my good friend, the gentlewoman from California (Ms. MALONEY).

Ms. MALONEY. Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to this rule and to this morally bankrupt bill that puts corporate greed over fairness for ordinary folks. This bill takes the phrase “kick them when they are down” to a whole new level. What about the fact that half of the people who file for bankruptcy protection are forced to do so because of high medical costs, loss of a job, or scam loan sharks? This bill would say to these people, the answer is, of course, too bad.

Make no mistake, Mr. Speaker, this bill is a big-time corporate payoff that was drafted with one overriding goal in mind, that is, profits, profits, profits. Where are we supposed to curb bankruptcy and would suggest that we start by closing bankruptcy loopholes for millionaires and taking steps to address predatory lending and payday loans rather than one-sided, harsh industry payoff. This bill should include reforms that actually address the really hard problems fueling the financial difficulties so many in this Nation are facing. We should focus on the true abusers and not the working families that have played by the rules.

Mr. Speaker, we need to have a bankruptcy bill that addresses the real abusers. This is a morally bankrupt bill.

Mr. GINGREY. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself 1 minute.

The gentlewoman from California brought up the issue about bankruptcy reform harming veterans. In speaking to that, Senate 256 needs-based test includes several safeguards and exceptions for special circumstances, including some of veterans. There is reference to a debtor who is subject to a call or ordered to active duty in the Armed Forces to the extent that such occurrences substantiate special circumstances.

The means test has a special exception just for debtors who are disabled veterans if the indebtedness occurred primarily during a period when the debtor was on active duty or performing a homeland security activity. The bill excuses a debtor if he or she is on active military duty in a military combat zone from the mandatory credit counseling and financial management training requirements.

I could go on and on. Mr. Speaker; but I think we have always have on this side of the aisle, the special needs of our great veterans of this country.

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to yield 2 minutes to my good friend, the gentlewoman from New York (Mrs. MALONEY).

Mrs. MALONEY. Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to this rule. There is much that should be law in this bill; but as written, it should not pass. If this bill becomes law, children will have to compete for the first time with credit card companies in State court for the limited assets of debtors emerging from the bankruptcy process.

I believe that there are many good parts of this bill; but as a mother I came to Congress to protect the rights of children, not to make their interests secondary to those of credit card companies. Congress has always insisted that debtors should take care of their children before their credit cards, and we should not undermine this important family value.

I am a strong supporter of the netting provisions of the bill. These provisions provide for the orderly unwinding of complex financial transactions when one participant becomes insolvent. Alan Greenspan has said these provisions reduce uncertainty for market participants and reduce risk by making it less likely that the default of one financial institution would have a domino effect on others. I support this; and as a New Yorker, I am really concerned that these provisions go into effect to protect the financial sector in the event of another terrorist attack. And I agree we need to build savings.

But these positive aspects of the bill are outweighed by an unacceptable feature that the majority has refused to address, the fact that the bill pits child support claimants against credit card companies in State court for the assets that the debtor has when she or he goes into bankruptcy. In other words, kids will lose.

I offered an amendment to address this, but the Committee on Rules did not make it in order. They did not make other important amendments that would protect victims of medical catastrophes, of identity theft and many others. This is very, very important. The sponsors say that they take care of some of these issues; the amendment would address the new threat created by the bill to protect children from having to fight credit card companies in State court. We have never done this before. We should not leave this as a legacy of this Congress to enact this important piece of legislation with its long overdue bankruptcy reforms.

Mr. GINGREY. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself 1 minute.

In response to the gentlewoman, I have got a letter from the National Child Support Enforcement Association, February 8, 2005, that I will insert for printing in the RECORD.

Let me just read one paragraph, the first and most important:

“The National Child Support Enforcement Association is a membership organization representing the child support community—a workforce of over 63,000 child support professionals. For the past 5 years, it has strongly supported the enactment of bankruptcy reform because the treatment of child support and alimony under present bankruptcy law so desperately needs reform. We applaud your continuing efforts since the mid-1990s to reform the bankruptcy system and welcome your introduction of S. 256. The bankruptcy bill, S. 256, like the reform bills the Committee on Rules and the signed conference report of 2002, includes provisions crucial to the collection of child support during bankruptcy.”

Mr. GINGREY. Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I yield 5 seconds to the gentlewoman from New York (Mrs. MALONEY).

Mrs. MALONEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield 5 seconds to the gentlewoman from New York (Mrs. MALONEY) for purposes of making a unanimous consent request.

Mrs. MALONEY. Mr. Speaker, I request permission to place in the RECORD, in response to this statement, statements by Bar Associations across this country, women’s organizations, women’s legal defense, asserting what I have said that children are put second to credit card companies.

The material referred to is as follows:

NATIONAL WOMEN’S LAW CENTER,
Washington, DC.

Re: Oppose H.R. 685, The Bankruptcy Act of 2005

WASHINGTON, DC.

DEAR CONGRESSMEN CONBERS: The National Women’s Law Center is writing to urge you to oppose H.R. 685, a bankruptcy bill that is harsh on economically vulnerable women and families. It fails to address serious abuses of the bankruptcy system by perpetrators of violence against patients and health care professionals at women’s health care clinics.

This bill would inflict additional hardship on one million economically vulnerable women and families who are affected by the bankruptcy system each year: those forced into bankruptcy because of job loss, medical emergency, or family breakdown—factors that account for most of our court filings—and women who are owed child or spousal support by men who file for bankruptcy. Contrary to the claims of some proponents of the bill, low- and moderate-income women—who are disproportionately women—are not protected from most of its harsh provisions, and mothers owed child or spousal support are not protected from increased competition from credit card companies and other commercial creditors during and after bankruptcy that will make it harder for them to collect support.

The bill would make it more difficult for women facing financial crises to regain their economic stability through the bankruptcy process. H.R. 685 would make it harder for women to access the bankruptcy system, because the means test requires additional paperwork of even the poorest filers; harder for women to save their homes, cars, and essential household items through the bankruptcy process; and harder for women to meet their children’s needs after bankruptcy because many more debts would survive.

The bill also would put women owed child or spousal support who are bankruptcy creditors at a disadvantage. By increasing the risks and costs of many other creditors, including credit card companies, finance companies, auto lenders and others, the bill would set up an intensified competition for scarce resources between mothers and children owed support and these commercial creditors during and after bankruptcy. The domestic support provisions in the bill may have been intended to protect the interests of mothers and children; unfortunately, they fail to do so.

Moving child support to first priority among unsecured creditors in Chapter 7 sounds good, but is virtually meaningless; even today, with no means test limiting access to Chapter 7, fewer than four percent of Chapter 7 debtors have anything to distribute to unsecured creditors. In Chapter 13, the bill would require that larger payments be made to many commercial creditors; as a result, payments of past-due child support would have to be made in smaller amounts and over a longer period of time, increasing the likelihood that child support will not be paid in full. And, when the bankruptcy process is over, women and children owed support would face increased competition from commercial creditors. Unpaid child and spousal support are among the few debts that survive bankruptcy; under this bill, many additional debts would survive. But once the bankruptcy process is over, the priorities that apply during bankruptcy have no meaning or effect. Women and children owed support would have to compete with other creditors for the sophisticated collection departments of commercial creditors whose surviving claims would be

At the same time, the bill fails to address real abuses of the bankruptcy system. Perpetrators of violence against patients and health care professionals at women’s health clinics have engaged in concerted efforts to use the bankruptcy system to evade responsibility for their illegal actions. This bill does not alter this abuse.

The bill is profoundly unfair and unbalanced. Unless there are major changes to H.R. 685, we urge you to oppose it.

Very truly yours,

LEGAL MOMENTUM,
Washinont City, DC, February 28, 2005.

DEAR SENATOR: Legal Momentum is writ-ting to you today to urge you to oppose S. 256, the Bankruptcy Abuse Prevention and Consumer Protection Act of 2005. Legal Momentum is a leading national not-for-profit civil rights organization with a long history of advocacy for women’s rights and gender equality. Among our major goals is securing economic justice for all. In this regards we have worked to end poverty; improve health care for women and families; protect survivors of domestic violence.

The bankruptcy system is another crucial safety net for women and families. The bill

Legislative Leadership Conference on Civil Rights,

OPPOSE UNFAIR BANKRUPTCY “REFORM”

DEAR REPRESENTATIVE: On behalf of the Leadership Conference on Civil Rights (LCCR), the nation’s most diverse civil rights coalition, we write to express our strong opposition to the “Bankruptcy Abuse Prevention and Consumer Protection Act of 2005” (H.R. 685). We urge you to oppose H.R. 685 because it poses significant concerns for the economic self-sufficiency of all working people in the United States because substantial financial inequities in the process.

The issue of bankruptcy reform is of profound concern to LCCR because, as a general matter, disadvantaged groups in our society disproportionately find themselves in bankruptcy courts as a result of economic discrimination in its many forms. For example:

Divorced women are 300 percent more like-ely than single or married women to find themselves in bankruptcy court following the cumulative effects of lower wages, reduced access to health insurance, the devastating consequences of divorce, and the disproportionate financial strain of rearing children alone.

Since 1991, the number of older Americans filing for bankruptcy has grown by more than 120 percent. This age group tends to file after being pushed in and encountering discrimination in hiring, which could result in loss of health insurance, or victimization by credit scams or home improvement frauds that put their homes and security at risk, again.

African American and Hispanic American homeowners are 500 percent more likely than white homeowners to find themselves in bankruptcy court largely due to discrimination in home mortgage lending and housing purchases, and to inequalities in hiring opportunities, wages, and health insurance cov-

H.R. 685 proposes a number of changes in current bankruptcy law, and supporters claim that enactment is thereby necessary to stop abuse of bankruptcy laws. Yet a majority of those who file are working families who are not abusing the system; instead, they have experienced financial catastrophe.

H.R. 685 would make starting over virtually impossible.

In addition, hundreds of thousands of workers who are owed support or alimony would be harmed under H.R. 685, as it forces them to compete with credit card issuers and therefore would make it less likely that support payments will be made to those in need. H.R. 685 will also make it much more difficult for businesses to reorganize, thereby forcing many new bankruptcy and eliminating much needed jobs.

H.R. 685 also fails to address one of the key reasons that bankruptcy have incrased in recent years—a reason that is the willful doing of many of the financial institutions that are lobbying in support of the legislation. As Marshall Wolf and Kathleen Day, Tighter Bankruptcy Law Favored, Washington Post, February 11, 2005 at A-65. Yet these same companies have steadfastly resisted even the most modest reforms to help consumers avoid placing themselves in financial jeopardy in the first place, such as requiring clearer disclosure about late payment fees, interest rates, and minimum pay-

LCCR has opposed bankruptcy reform proposals similar to H.R. 685 since 1998. Sadly, bankruptcy reform proponents are now pushing legislation that is every bit as flawed as previous legislation and, given slow economic recovery and even more inequitable results. We strongly urge you to reject H.R. 685 because it would radially alter the bankruptcy system in a way that makes hard work, particularly on the most vulnerable among us.

Thank you for your consideration. If you have any questions, please feel free to con-act Rob Randhawa, LCCR Counsel, at (202) 466-6058.

Sincerely,

WADE HENDERSON, Executive Director.
NANCY ZIRKIN, Deputy Director.

WRITTEN STATEMENT OF MARSHALL WOLF,

* * * earlier version of this legislation concluded that “child support and credit card obligations could be ‘pitted against’ one another.” Both the S. 256 bill and the commercial credit card creditor could pursue the debtor and attempt to collect from personal assets, but not in the bankruptcy court.”

Outside of the bankruptcy court is precisely the arena where sophisticated credit card companies have the greatest advanages. While federal bankruptcy court enforces a strict set of priority and payment rules generally seeking to provide equal treatment of creditors with similar legal rights, state law collection is far more akin to “survival of the fittest.” Whichever creditor engages in the most aggressive tactic—whether it through harassment, threat, or pressure to accept settlements and letters, cutting off access to future credit, garnishment of wages or foreclosure on assets—is most likely to be repaid. As Marshall

Wolf has written on behalf of the Governing

Counsel of the Family Law Section of the American Bar Association, “If credit card debtors are forced to pay only from items that are not now dischargeable after a bankruptcy of a support payer, the alimony and child support recipient will be forced to compete with the well organized, well financed, and obscenely profitable credit card companies to receive payments from the limited income of the poor guy who just went bankruptcy. The fight is not fair—and it is one that women and children who rely on support will lose.”

April 14, 2005 CONGRESSIONAL RECORD—HOUSE H1983
It is for these reasons that groups concerned with the payment of alimony and child support have expressed their strong opposition to the bill and its predecessors. Proponents of sharp-elbowed New York Law professor Karen Gross of New York Law School, stated succinctly that “the proposed legislation does not live up to its billing; it fails to protect women and children adequately.” Joan Entmout, a New York Law professor who has written extensively on women’s issues, noted appropriately that “the child support provisions of the bill fail to ensure that the increased rights the bill would give to the women and children of child support do not come at the expense of families owed support.”

Arguments by the legislation’s supporters that any disadvantages to women and children are not real or offset by supposedly pro-child support provisions are not persuasive. It is useful to recall the context in which these provisions were added. In the 105th Congress, the bill’s proponents adamantly denied that the bill created any problems with regard to alimony and child support. Although the proponents have now changed their tune, the support for these provisions included do not respond to the provisions in the bill causing the problem—namely the provisions limiting the ability of a single mother to file for bankruptcy; enhancing the bankruptcy and post-bankruptcy status of credit card debt; and making it more difficult for debtors to file for bankruptcy. The bill’s sponsor says, has become a system used to preserve a well-to-do lifestyle, and a large, very profitable, market has emerged.

Third, the provisions of the bill would significantly increase the ability of creditors to raise the cash payments that must be made to creditors on the face of Chapter 13 plans. This would result in a significant net loss in the value of the collateral. As it is, many Chapter 13 debtors are able to gain access to bankruptcy. The main effect of the means-test, along with the other provisions discussed below, will be to deny them access to a bankruptcy discharge.

Second, the new means-test is over-inclusive. Because it is based on income and expense standards devised by the Internal Revenue Service, the bill’s sponsors are describing the principal effect of the “means-test” would be to reduce a judiciously supervised, flexible process for ferreting out abusive filings with the result in bankruptcies, that can be used by creditors to impose costs on overburdened families, and deprive them of access to a bankruptcy discharge. Any time middle-income debtors have $1000 more income than the IRS would allow a delinquent taxpayer to keep, they must submit themselves to a 60 month repayment plan. Such a plan would yield a mere $6000 for creditors over five years, less costs of government-sponsored administration. Third, the cost of the new flexibility, the means-test limits private or parochial school tuition expenses to $1500 per year. According to a study by the National Center for Education Statistics, even in 1993, $1500 would not have covered the average tuition for any category of parochial school (except Seventh Day Adventists and Witness for the Lord). It would have covered the costs of only the most expensive schools, not come close for any denomination. In order to yield a few dollars for credit card issuers, this bill would subject the personal finance of children to scrutiny, and fundamentally alter the application of the bankruptcy system.

Fourth, the power of creditors to raise the “abuse” issue will significantly increase the number of means-test hearings. Again, the expense of the hearings will be passed along to the already strapped debtor. This will add to the cost of filing for bankruptcy, whether or not the debtor is abusive, and also increase bankruptcy courts with lengthy and unnecessary hearings, driving up costs for the taxpayers.

The fourth takes direct aim at attorneys who handle consumer bankruptcy cases by making them liable for errors in the debt counseling.

Our problem is not with means-testing per se. Our problem is with the collateral costs that this particular means-test would impose. This is not a system that acts as a gatekeeper to the system. It would instead burden the system with needless hearings, deprive debtors of access to counsel, and significantly impair families’ need-related relief. The human cost of this delay, expense, and exclusion from bankruptcy relief is considerable. As a recent study of medical bankruptcies shows, during the two years before bankruptcy, 45% of the debtors studied had to skip a needed doctor visit. Over 25% had utilities shut off, and nearly 30% went without food. If the costs of bankruptcy are higher, the privatizations will increase. The vast majority of individuals and families that file for bankruptcy are honest, but unfortunate. The main effect of the means-test, along with the other provisions discussed below, will be to deny them access to a bankruptcy discharge.

Finally, the bill seeks to shoot a mosquito with a shotgun. By focusing on the opportunism aimed at the bankruptcy filing rate is a stark fact that the bankruptcy filing rate is... with the means-test will be to deprive of the victims of disease, job loss, and divorce of much needed relief.

3. The Elusive Bankruptcy Tax?: The bill’s proponents argue that it is good for consumers by reducing the so-called “bankruptcy tax.” In their view, the cost of credit card defaults is passed along to the rest of those who use credit cards, in the form of higher interest rates. As the supporter dramatically puts it: “honest Americans who pay by the rules have to foot the bill.” This argument seems logical. However, it is not supported by the facts. The so-called interest rate charged on consumer credit cards has declined considerably over the last dozen years. More importantly, between 1992 and 1995, the foreclosure rate and the credit card interest rate and the risk free six-month t-bill rate declined significantly, and remained basically constant through 2001. At the same time, the profitability of credit card issuing banks remains at near record levels.

Thus, it would appear that hard evidence of the so-called “bankruptcy tax” is difficult to discover. To the unsupported assertions of that phenomenon should drive Congress to restrict access to the bankruptcy system, which effectuates Congress’s policies about the welfare of both creditors and debtors, is simply wrong.

4. Who Will Bear the Burden of the Means-test? The bankruptcy filing rate is not uniform throughout the country. In Alaska, one in 175 families filed for bankruptcy. In Utah the filing rate is one in 36.5. The states with the ten highest bankruptcy filing rates are (in descending order): Utah, Tennessee, Georgia, Nevada, Indiana, Alabama, Arkansas, Ohio, Mississippi, and Idaho. The deepest hardship will be felt in the heartland, where the filing rate is highest. The pain will not only be felt by the debtors themselves, but also by the local merchants, whose customers will not have the benefit of the fresh start.

The fastest growing group of bankruptcy filers is older Americans. While individuals over 55 make up only about 15% of the people filing for bankruptcy, they are the fastest growing group of people. More than 50% of those 65 and older are driven to bankruptcy by medical debts they cannot pay. Eighty-five percent of those over 60 cite either medical problems or lack of funds for bankruptcy. Here again, abuse is not the issue. The bankruptcy filing rate reveals holes in the Medicare and Social Security systems, and the aging members of the baby-boom generation declare bankruptcy to deal with prescription drug bills, co-pays, medical supplies, long-term care, and job loss.

Finally, it is crucial to recognize that the filers themselves are not the only ones to suffer from financial distress. They often have children. As it turns out, families with children feel the news of a home’s parents, as well as intact families—are more likely to file for bankruptcy than families without them. The bill and amendments filed for bankruptcy. That same year, 1 in 5 in 51 children was a dependent in a family that had filed for bankruptcy. The presence of children in a household increases the likelihood that the head of household will file for bankruptcy by 392%. Limiting access to Chapter 7 will deprive these children as well as their families of a fresh start.

Conclusion: The bill contains a number of salutary provisions, such as the proposed provisions that protect consumers from predatorial lending. Our concern is with the provisions that would result in an increase in bankruptcy abuse. The provisions are so wrongheaded and flawed that they make the bill as a whole unsurportable. We urge you to either remove these provisions or vote against the bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. SWEENEY). Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from New York?

Mrs. MALONEY. And this is wrong. Where are the family values in this Congress?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman is not under recognition.

Mrs. MALONEY. Is it just rhetoric or do you really care about children?

Mr. SAM JOHNSON of Texas. I object, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Objection is heard. Mr. GINGREY, Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRIES

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Parliamentary inquiry, Mr. Speaker. What was that objection about?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The objection was regarding the placement of extraneous material in the RECORD. Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, further parliamentary inquiry, what is the ruling of the Chair?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair hear objection.

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Further parliamentary inquiry, so the gentleman from New York requested to put in the RECORD the material?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The material will not be placed in the RECORD. Objection was heard.

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, there is objection to a Member’s placing in the RECORD, a Member who had made a statement supporting the things that she asked to be submitted, that is being denied?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. That is correct.

Mr. NADLER. Parliamentary inquiry, Mr. Speaker. What is the basis for the objection to a request for insertion into the RECORD of material?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. It takes unanimous consent to place extraneous material in the RECORD. An objection was heard to such a request; therefore, unanimous consent was not obtained.

Mr. NADLER. Mr. Speaker, is it not customary as a normal matter of comity in this House to allow all material requested to be placed in the RECORD?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Unanimous consent was sought. It was not obtained because the gentleman from Texas rose first and objected; therefore, the material does not get inserted in the RECORD.

Mr. SENSENBRENNER. Parliamentary inquiry, Mr. Speaker. Is the material asked to be inserted covered under the General Leave that was requested at the beginning of the debate by the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. GINGREY)?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The general leave was for extension of remarks and not for insertion of extraneous material.

Mr. NADLER. Mr. Speaker, I appeal the ruling of the Chair.
The Speaker pro tempore. Does the gentleman from California withdraw her appeal?

Ms. WATERS. Yes, Mr. Speaker, I withdraw; and I thank the gentleman on the opposite side of the aisle.

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, with the Speaker’s permission, I ask unanimous consent that the extraneous material offered by the gentlewoman from New York (Mrs. MALONEY) be made a part of the Record following her remarks.

The Speaker pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentlewoman from Florida?

There was no objection.

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentlewoman from Illinois (Mr. EMANUEL).

Mr. EMANUEL. Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of the testimony of the gentlewoman from California. I do not support this legislation. As the gentlewoman from California noted, the Bankruptcy Code allows individuals to shield certain assets from creditors. Interestingly, the legislation that the gentlewoman from California was speaking to allows the wealthiest Americans to shield more assets than the middle class.

In 2005, the House voted 371 to 49 on H.R. 309, the Oregon Bankruptcy Reform Bill, which would allow Oregonians to shield more assets from creditors than their counterparts in any other state in the Union.

Case in point: The bill preserves the so-called homestead exemption, which allows individuals to shield up to $1 million in assets from creditors. The bill also repeals the so-called “Millionaires Loophole,” which required a 3-year residency before a debtor could take advantage of the exemption.

The legislation also allows individuals to shield $1 million in assets from creditors in bankruptcy court. The legislation should be repealed.

The speaker pro tempore. The motion is to adjourn. The question is on the motion to adjourn.

The Speaker pro tempore. Evidently a quorum is not present.

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. EMANUEL).

Mr. EMANUEL. Mr. Speaker, I rise myself 1 minute.

In response to the gentleman from Illinois, I rise to speak to the gentleman from California, who has also joined in speaking to this legislation.

The Speaker pro tempore. The motion is not debatable. The question is on the motion to adjourn. The motion is not debatable.

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I object to the vote on the ground that a quorum is not present and make the point of order that a quorum is not present.

The Speaker pro tempore. Evidently a quorum is not present. The Sergeant at Arms will notify absent Members.

The vote was taken by electronic device, and there were 371 Yeas and 49 Nays, not voting 14, as follows:

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from New Mexico (Mr. UDALL) for a unanimous consent request.

(Mr. UDALL of New Mexico asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. UDALL of New Mexico. Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to S.256, because this bill severely hurts a middle-class citizen's ability to get a second chance.

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I yield to my good friend, the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. PAYNE), for a unanimous consent request.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to S.256 because the bill does nothing to address the problem of identity theft or protect its victims.

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from California (Ms. CARSON), for a unanimous consent request.

(Ms. CARSON asked and was given permission to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. CARSON. Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to S. 256. Because this bill does not protect disabled veterans from creditors.

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I yield for a unanimous consent request to my good friend, the gentlewoman from Washington (Mr. McDermott) for a unanimous consent request.
Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I rise to my good friend, the gentleman from Massachusetts (Mr. OLVER), for a unanimous consent request.

Ms. OLVER asked and was given permission to revise and extend her remarks.

Mr. OLVER. Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to S. 256 because this bill puts credit card companies ahead of children in the priorities.

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I yield to my good friend, the gentleman from Vermont (Mr. SANDERS) for a unanimous consent request.

(Mr. SANDERS asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. SANDERS. Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to S. 256 because this bill puts credit card companies ahead of children.

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I yield for a unanimous consent request to my good friend, the gentlewoman from Illinois (Ms. ROYBAL-ALLARD), for a unanimous consent request.

(Ms. ROYBAL-ALLARD asked and was given permission to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. ROYBAL-ALLARD. Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to S. 256 because this bill puts credit card companies ahead of children and does not protect disabled veterans from creditors.

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I yield for a unanimous consent request to my good friend, the gentlewoman from California (Ms. SCHAKOWSKY), for a unanimous consent request.

(Ms. SCHAKOWSKY asked and was given permission to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. SCHAKOWSKY. Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to S. 256 because this bill puts credit card companies ahead of children.

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I yield for a unanimous consent request to my good friend, the gentlewoman from Texas (Ms. JACKSON-LEE).

(Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas asked and was given permission to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. JACKSON-LEE. Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to S. 256 because this bill puts credit card companies ahead of children and does not protect disabled veterans from creditors.

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I yield to my good friend, the gentlewoman from California (Ms. WATERS), for a unanimous consent request.

(Ms. WATERS asked and was given permission to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. WATERS. Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to S. 256 because this bill puts credit card companies ahead of children and does not protect disabled veterans from creditors.

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I yield for a unanimous consent request to my good friend, the gentlewoman from California (Ms. ROYBAL-ALLARD).

(Ms. ROYBAL-ALLARD asked and was given permission to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. ROYBAL-ALLARD. Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to S. 256 because this bill does nothing to protect disabled veterans or to address the epidemic of identity theft.

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I yield for a unanimous consent request to my good friend, the gentlewoman from Connecticut (Ms. DELAUR), for a unanimous consent request.

(Ms. DELAUR asked and was given permission to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. DELAUR. Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to S. 256 because this bill turns its back on middle-class America, continuing an administration that proceeds to reward the wealthy and tax wages.

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I yield for a unanimous consent request to my good friend, the gentlewoman from Florida (Ms. CORRINE BROWN).

(Ms. CORRINE BROWN of Florida asked and was given permission to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. CORRINE BROWN of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to S. 256 because this bill does nothing to protect our heroic Reservists and Guard who are fighting for us every day in war.

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I yield for a unanimous consent request to my good friend, the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. DAVIS).

(Mr. DAVIS of Illinois asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. DAVIS of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to S. 256. It abuses the people.

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I yield for a unanimous consent request to my good friend, the gentlewoman from California (Ms. WA-TERS).

(Ms. WATERS asked and was given permission to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. WATERS. Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to S. 256 because the Republicans have sold out to the credit card companies and they are hurting American families.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The Speaker Pro Tempore (Mr. SWEENEY). The Chair would remind Members that their statements should be confined to their unanimous consent requests.

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I am privileged to yield for a unanimous consent request to my good friend, the gentleman from Massachusetts (Mr. MEEHAN).

(Mr. MEEHAN asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. MEEHAN. Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to S. 256, which clearly is a payback and payout to the credit card companies.

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to yield for a unanimous consent request to my good friend, the gentleman from North Carolina (Mr. WATT) from the Judiciary Committee, who had the opportunity to participate in some of those hearings, and is the chairman of the Congressional Black Caucus.

(Mr. WATT asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. WATT. Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to the rule and in opposition to the bill; the rule because the rule shuts out all amendments to this bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Florida has 3½ minutes remaining. The gentleman from Georgia has 2½ minutes remaining.

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, just previous to the unanimous consent request, I was told by way of the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. GINGREY) that we had 4½ minutes.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair advises the gentleman from Florida that, during the series of unanimous consent requests, some Members embellished with oratory beyond the proper form. One minute was taken from the time for that.

PARLIMENTARY INQUIRIES

Mr. CONYERS. Mr. Speaker, parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman may inquire.

Mr. CONYERS. Mr. Speaker, did I understand you to tell the leader of the Rules Committee managing the bill today that time would be taken from him because of the unanimous consent request?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair advised on that earlier, and will amplify the earlier statement. As indicated by previous occupants of the Chair on March 24, 2004; November 21, 2003; July 24, 2003; June 22, 2003; June 24, 2003; and March 24, 1995, although a unanimous consent request to insert remarks in debate may embody a simple declarative statement of the Member’s attitude toward the pending measure, it is improper for a Member to embellish such a request with other oratory, and it can become an imposition on the time of the Member who has yielded for that purpose.

Mr. CONYERS. Mr. Speaker, may I point out that the floor manager in no way encouraged anyone to speak contrary to the rule that you have just enunciated.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Members are yielded to for that purpose. They must confine their remarks to the proper form, or time can be subtracted from the individual yielding.

Mr. CONYERS. And in the judgment of the distinguished Speaker, how much time are you proposing to take from the floor manager?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. One minute was charged.

Mr. CONYERS. Is there some precedent for that, sir?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Yes, as just cited.

Mr. CONYERS. There is?

Mr. GINGREY. Mr. Speaker, in the interest of comity, I ask unanimous consent that the gentleman from Florida be yielded an additional 1 minute.
The SPEAKER pro tempore. From the gentleman from Georgia’s time?
Mr. GINGREY. Not from my time, no, Mr. Speaker. That he be allowed an additional 1 minute.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Beyond the hour available for debate on the rule?
Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Parliamentary Inquiry, Mr. Speaker.
Mr. GINGREY. Mr. Speaker, I request that we be given unanimous consent 30 seconds of my time to the gentleman from Florida.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Georgia?
There was no objection.

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I thank my colleague, but I am confused by the Chair’s ruling. Parliamentary Inquiry.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman may inquire.

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, even though there is only 1 hour debate, a unanimous consent request by a Member that is not objected to is not permitted for extension of time?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Georgia like to modify his request?
Mr. GINGREY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to modify that request to extend time by one minute on both sides.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Georgia?
Mr. MURTHA. Objection, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman objection is heard.

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, moving right along, I am pleased at this time to yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from California (Mr. SCHIFF), my good friend.

Mr. SCHIFF. Mr. Speaker, on Tuesday night I took an amendment to the Rules Committee asking the committee to permit this body to consider allowing each Member the opportunity to approve that amendment or reject it. The Republican majority on the Rules Committee, however, rejected giving Members that opportunity.

My amendment would have simply provided that if more than one half of the creditor claims against you in bankruptcy are the result of identity theft, you should not be forced out of bankruptcy are the result of identity theft. This amendment goes to an individual amendment offered by Senator Nelson of Florida, but was even narrower than that amendment.

Mr. Speaker, a few years ago, the manager of the identity theft at the FTC commented on how identity theft was becoming rampant in this country, that it wreaks havoc on the credit of the victim and can even force them into bankruptcy. Since then, the problem has grown even worse, and an estimated 27.3 million Americans have fallen victim to identity theft in the last 5 years.

We have all heard of recent breaches of massive databases holding personal information. On Monday, the parent company of the Lexis-Nexis reported that 310,000 people, nearly 10 times more than the original estimate reported last month, may have had their personal information stolen, including names, addresses, Social Security numbers, and driver’s license numbers.

And this is not an isolated incident. Identity thieves have gained access to Choicepoint’s database and personal information has been stolen and compromised on 20 million vehicles, and a number of universities. Added together, these recent incidents in the last several weeks alone have exposed more than 2 million people to possible ID theft.

During the Judiciary Committee's consideration of my amendment, I cited two recent examples of identity theft victims who were forced to declare bankruptcy, one young woman defrauded out of $300,000 and another when her identity was stolen, forcing her to file for bankruptcy right before Christmas.

When I offered the amendment in the Judiciary Committee it provoked quite a debate as well as a disagreement between the Chair of the full committee and the Chair of the subcommittee. The Chair of the subcommittee argued that my amendment would somehow do harm while the Chair of the full committee argued that the problem with my amendment was that it did nothing at all. The chairman of the subcommittee then argued that the problem was that this issue had never been explored. When I offered the amendment in the Judiciary Committee it provoked quite a debate as well as a disagreement between the Chair of the full committee and the Chair of the subcommittee. The Chair of the subcommittee argued that my amendment would somehow do harm while the Chair of the full committee argued that the problem with my amendment was that it did nothing at all. The chairman of the subcommittee then argued that the problem was that this issue had never been explored.

Well, Mr. Speaker, and Members, it cannot be both. The chairman of the subcommittee even pondered what would happen if a person had their identity stolen, but then later became wealthy and had the ability to pay off their debt. While admitting that he had misgivings about the amendment he asked his colleagues to reject the amendment because it would “clearly disrupt the whole process of moving forward the bill.” This prompting a question: When is a markup not really a markup? And the answer is, whenever the bankruptcy bill is in committee.

This is now the third session in a row where essentially no amendments have been entertained in committee and no amendments have been allowed here on the floor.

Mr. Speaker, just to conclude, last year the House supported identity theft legislation cracking down on identity thieves. This amendment gives us the chance to protect some of those who have been victimized by identity theft, and I urge an “aye” vote.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Florida (Mr. HASTINGS) has 1 minute remaining. The gentleman from Georgia (Mr. GINGREY) has 2 minutes remaining.

Mr. GINGREY. Mr. Speaker, I have the right to close, and I wanted to re-serve the balance of my time for that purpose.

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself the remainder of my time. Mr. Speaker, I will be asking Members to vote “no” on the previous question. If the previous question is defeated, I will amend this rule so we can vote on the Schiff amendment to help victims of identity theft. It will exempt from the bill’s means test those consumers who are victimized by identity theft.

Mr. GINGREY. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself the remainder of my time. As we come to the end of the debate on the rule for S. 256, I urge my colleagues to support the passage and the underlying bill.

Mr. Speaker, it is time to pass bankruptcy reform. Today we must fix our bankrupt law, making it more reasonable and necessary bankruptcies. Bankruptcy affects all American families. It is estimated that the annual cost is $400 to every family in America, and it is time to reform an outdated and broken system.

Despite the objections of a few Members, I know we have followed a fair process to get to this point. The Rules Committee offered to provide the minority with the ability to submit a substitute amendment. Their substitute amendment could have included any provisions they felt necessary. The Democrats rejected this offer, and they have failed to provide any alternative plan.

It is important to note many of the individual amendments they have discussed here today were considered over the past few years. Regardless of the rhetoric, this legislation has been under consideration and amended a number of times. We are now on the final product.

This year alone, S. 256 passed the House Judiciary Committee where 18 amendments were considered. To the substance of the bill, contrary to the claims of some, this legislation is not lining the pockets of wealthy creditors with the savings of the financially challenged.

Mr. Speaker, when casting their vote, I ask my colleagues to consider those constituents the current law harms. This bill gives support to small businesses and financially responsible families. I ask my colleagues to pass this rule and finally end the 8-year debate on bankruptcy reform.

The material previously referred to by Mr. HASTINGS of Florida is as follows:

PREVIOUS QUESTION FOR H. RES. 211, THE BANKRUPTCY ABUSE PREVENTION AND CONSUMER PROTECTION ACT OF 2005

In the resolution strike (and shall be separately debatable for 60 minutes; and there were objection, the previous question is ordered, and make the point of order that a quorum is not present.

Speaker, I object to the vote on the ayes appeared to have it. Speaker pro tempore announced that there was no objection. Speaker pro tempore. Without objection, the previous question is ordered.

There was no objection.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on ordering the previous question.

The question was taken; and the Speaker pro tempore announced that the ayes appeared to have it. Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I object to the vote on the ground that a quorum is not present and make the point of order that a quorum is not present.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question was taken; and the Speaker pro tempore announced that the ayes appeared to have it. Mr. BASS and Mr. HOEKSTRA changed their vote from "yea" to "nay".

Mr. Speaker, during rollcall vote No. 104 on H. Res. 211, ordering the previous question, I was unavoidably detained. Had I been present, I would have voted, "nay".

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the resolution. The question was taken; and the Speaker pro tempore announced that the ayes appeared to have it.
PRIVILEGES OF THE HOUSE—RE-STORING PUBLIC CONFIDENCE IN ETHICS PROCESS

Ms. PELOSI. Mr. Speaker, pursuant to rule IX, I rise in regard to a question of the privileges of the House, and I offer a privileged resolution that would create a bipartisan task force to return to ethical rules of the House.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Clerk will read the resolution, as follows:

H. RES. 213

Resolved, that the Speaker shall appoint a bipartisan task force, with equal representation, to create a bipartisan task force to return to ethical rules of the House, and I offer a privileged resolution that would create a bipartisan task force to return to ethical rules of the House.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question was taken; and the yeas and nays appeared to have it.

The vote was taken by electronic device, and there were—yeas 218, nays 11, not voting 91, as follows:

Mr. SENSENBRENNER. Mr. Speaker, I move to table the resolution.

The Speaker pro tempore. The resolution does present a question of privilege.

MOTION TO TABLE OFFERED BY MR. SENSENBRENNER

Mr. SENSENBRENNER. Mr. Speaker, I move to table the resolution.

The Speaker pro tempore. The question is on the motion to table offered by the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. SENSENBRENNER).

The question was taken; and the Speaker pro tempore announced that the noes appeared to have it.

Mr. SENSENBRENNER. Mr. Speaker, on that I demand the yeas and nays.

The vote was taken by electronic device, and there were—yeas 218, nays 11, not voting 91, as follows:

TITLE I—NEEDS-BASED BANKRUPTCY

SEC. 101. CONVERSION.

Section 706(c) of title 11, United States Code, is amended by inserting "or consents to after "requests".

SEC. 102. DISCLOSURE OR CONVERSION.

(a) In General.—Section 707 of title 11, United States Code, is amended—

(1) by striking the section heading and inserting the following:

"707. Dismissal of a case or conversion to a case under chapter 11 or 13;"

(2) in subsection (b)—

(A) by inserting "(1)" after "(b);"

(B) in paragraph (1), as so redesignated by subparagraph (A) of this paragraph—

(i) in the first sentence—

(I) by striking "but not at the request or suggestion of" and inserting "trustee (or bankruptcy administrator, if any), or;";

(II) by inserting "., or, with the debtor's consent, convert such a case to a case under chapter 11 or 13 of this title," after "consumer debts;" and

(III) by striking "a substantial abuse" and inserting "an abuse of the bankruptcy process";

(ii) by striking the next to last sentence; and

(iii) by adding at the end the following:

"(2) (A) In any proceeding brought under paragraph (1) whether the granting of relief would be an abuse of the provisions of this chapter, the court shall presume that it exists if the debtor's or the debtor's current monthly income reduced by the amounts determined under clauses (ii), (iii), and (iv), and multiplied by 60 is not less than the lesser of—

(I) 25 percent of the debtor's nonpriority unsecured claims in the case, or $6,000, whichever is greater; or

(II) $10,000.

(B) In determining whether an abuse exists under subparagraph (A), the court may make such judicial findings as are necessary to determine whether the debtor has engaged in actual, habitual, and flagrant misconduct or has engaged in any other form of abuse.

(c) Section 707(d)(2) of such title is amended—

(1) by striking "or consents to after "requests".

(d) In any proceeding under this section, the court may take judicial notice of any relevant fact, including the following:

(I) the debtor's monthly income, and

(II) the debtor's current monthly income.

(e) In any proceeding brought under paragraph (1) whether the granting of relief would be an abuse of the provisions of this chapter, the court shall presume that it exists if the debtor's or the debtor's current monthly income reduced by the amounts determined under clauses (ii), (iii), and (iv), and multiplied by 60 is not less than the lesser of—

(I) 25 percent of the debtor's nonpriority unsecured claims in the case, or $6,000, whichever is greater; or

(II) $10,000.

(f) In any proceeding brought under paragraph (1) whether the granting of relief would be an abuse of the provisions of this chapter, the court shall presume that it exists if the debtor's or the debtor's current monthly income reduced by the amounts determined under clauses (ii), (iii), and (iv), and multiplied by 60 is not less than the lesser of—

(I) 25 percent of the debtor's nonpriority unsecured claims in the case, or $6,000, whichever is greater; or

(II) $10,000.
convert a case based on any form of means testing, if the debtor is a disabled veteran (as defined in section 347(a)(1) of title 38), and the indebtedness occurred primarily during a period of active duty, or

(ii) performing a homeland defense activity (as defined in section 901(1) of title 32).

(3) In considering under paragraph (1) whether the granting of relief would be an abuse of the process of this chapter in the case in which the presumption in subparagraph (A)(1) of such paragraph does not arise or is rebutted, the court shall consider

(A) whether the debtor filed the petition in bad faith; or

(B) the totality of the circumstances (including whether the debtor seeks to reject a personal services contract and the financial need for such rejection as sought by the debtor of the debtor’s financial situation demonstrates abuse).

(4)(A) The court, on its own initiative or on the motion of a party in interest, in accordance with the procedures described in rule 901 of the Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure, may order the attorney for the debtor to reimburse the trustee for all reasonable costs in prosecuting a motion filed under section 707(b), including reasonable attorneys’ fees, if—

(i) a trustee files a motion for dismissal or conversion under this subsection; and

(ii) the court

(I) grants such motion; and

(II) finds that the action of the attorney for the debtor in filing a case under this chapter violated rule 901 of the Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure.

(B) If the court finds that the attorney for the debtor failed to comply with the procedures described in section 1970(d) of the Bankruptcy Code, the court, on its own initiative or on the motion of a party in interest, in accordance with such procedures, may order such attorney to pay the costs incurred in such a motion, including reasonable attorneys’ fees, if—

(i) the assessment of an appropriate civil penalty against the attorney for the debtor; and

(ii) the payment of such civil penalty to the trustee, the United States trustee (or the bankruptcy administrator, if any).

(C) In the case of a motion to dismiss or convert a case under this chapter, the United States trustee (or bankruptcy administrator, if any), trustee, or any other party in interest may file a motion under paragraph (2) if the court determines by clear and convincing evidence that—

(i) performed a reasonable investigation into the circumstances that gave rise to the petition, pleading, or written motion; and

(ii) determined that the petition, pleading, or written motion

(I) is well grounded in fact; and

(II) is warranted by existing law or a good faith argument for the extension, modification, or reversal of existing law and does not constitute an abuse under paragraph (1).

(2) The court, in determining whether to grant a motion under paragraph (1), shall consider the following:

(i) the signature of an attorney on the pleading, petition, or other document; and

(ii) the identity of the attorney as shown on the record.

(3) Except as provided in subparagraph (B) and subject to paragraph (6), the court, on its own initiative or on the motion of a party in interest, in accordance with the procedures described in rule 901 of the Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure, may award a debtor all reasonable costs (including reasonable attorneys’ fees) in contesting a motion filed by a party in interest (other than a trustee or United States trustee (or bankruptcy administrator, if any)) under this subsection.

(4)(A) The court, on its own initiative or on the motion of a party that filed the motion violated rule 901 of the Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure; or

(B) the debtor or the debtor’s spouse (as defined in section 101(d)(1) of title 10); or

(C) the debtor or the debtor’s spouse (as defined in section 101(d)(1) of title 10); or

(i) the debtor or the debtor’s spouse (as defined in section 101(d)(1) of title 10); or

(ii) a party that filed the motion violated rule 901 of the Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure; or

(5) In a case under chapter 11, the court shall consider

(i) the attorney fees (as defined in section 1103(c)(1) of title 11) in contesting a motion under section 1111; and

(ii) in the case of a debtor in a household of 2, 3, or 4 individuals, the highest median family income of the applicable State for a family of the same number or fewer individuals; or

(iii) in the case of a debtor in a household exceeding 4 individuals, the highest median family income of the applicable State for a family of 4 or fewer individuals, plus $255 per month for each individual in excess of 4.

(6) In a case under title 11, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following:

(b) DEFINITION.—Section 101 of title 11, United States Code, is amended by inserting after paragraph (10) the following:

(10A) ‘‘current monthly income’’ means the income from all sources that the debtor receives (or in a joint case the debtor and the debtor’s spouse receive) without regard to whether such income is taxable, determined during the 6-month period ending on—

(i) the last day of the calendar month immediately preceding the date of the commencement of the case if the debtor files the schedule of current income required by section 521(a)(1)(B)(ii) or the date on which current income is determined by the court for purposes of this title if the debtor does not file the schedule of current income required by section 521(a)(1)(B)(ii); and

(ii) includes any amount paid by any entity other than the debtor (or in a joint case the debtor and the debtor’s spouse), on a regular basis for the housing of the debtor or the debtor’s dependents (and in a joint case the debtor’s spouse if not otherwise a dependent), but excludes benefits received under the Social Security Act, payments to victims of war crimes or crimes against humanity on account of their status as victims of such crimes, and payments to victims of international terrorism as defined in section 2331 of title 18 or domestic terrorism (as defined in section 2331 of title 18) on account of their status as victims of such terrorism;

(7) UNITED STATES TRUSTEE AND BANKRUPTCY ADMINISTRATOR DUTIES.—Section 704 of title 11, United States Code, is amended by inserting—

(1) by inserting ‘‘(a)’’ before ‘‘The trustee shall’’; and

(2) by adding at the end the following:

(1) With respect to a party who is an individual in a case under this chapter—

(A) the United States trustee (or the bankruptcy administrator, if any) shall review all materials filed by the debtor and, not later than 10 days after the date of the first meeting of creditors, file with the court a statement as to whether the debtor’s case shall be presumed to be an abuse under section 707(b); and

(B) not later than 5 days after receiving a statement under subparagraph (A), the court shall provide a copy of the statement to all creditors.

(2) The United States trustee (or bankruptcy administrator, if any) shall, not later than 30 days after the date of filing a statement under subsection (1), either file a motion to dismiss or conversion under section 707(b) or file a statement setting forth the reasons the United States trustee (or the bankruptcy administrator, if any) does not consider such a motion to be appropriate, if the United States trustee (or the bankruptcy administrator, if any) determines that the debtor’s case should be presumed to be an abuse under section 707(b) and the product of the debtor’s current monthly income, multiplied by 12 is not less than—

(i) in the case of a debtor in a household of 1 person, the median family income of the applicable State for 1 earner; or

(ii) in the case of a debtor in a household of more individuals, the median family income of the applicable State for a family of the same number or fewer individuals; or

(8) NOTICE.—Section 342 of title 11, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following:

(7) In a case under chapter 7 of this title in which the debtor is an individual and in which the presumption of abuse arises under section 707(b), the clerk shall give written notice of the filing of any motion under section 707(b) immediately after the date of the filing of the petition that the presumption of abuse has arisen.”. H1996 CONGRESSIONAL RECORD — HOUSE April 14, 2005
(e) NONLIMITATION OF INFORMATION.—Nothing in this title shall limit the ability of a creditor to provide information to a judge (except for information communicated ex parte, if made with the permission of applicable law), United States trustee (or bankruptcy administrator, if any), or trustee.

(1) DEBTORS WHO OBTAIN CERTAIN CRIMES.—Section 706 of title 11, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following:

"(c) In this subsection—

(A) the term ‘crime of violence’ has the meaning given such term in section 16 of title 18; and

(B) the term ‘drug trafficking crime’ has the meaning given such term in section 924(c)(2) of title 18.

(2) Except as provided in paragraph (3), after notice and a hearing, the court, on a motion by the victim of a crime of violence or a drug trafficking crime, may when it is in the best interest of the victim dismiss a voluntary case filed under this chapter by a debtor who is an individual if such individual was convicted of such crime.

(3) The court may not dismiss a case under paragraph (2) if the debtor establishes by a preponderance of the evidence that the filing of a case under this chapter is necessary to satisfy a claim for a domestic support obligation.

(g) CONFIRMATION OF PLAN.—Section 1325(b) of title 11, United States Code, is amended—

(1) in paragraph (3), by striking “and” and inserting “or” at the end;

SEC. 203. DISCOURAGING ABUSE OF REAFFIRMATION AGREEMENT PRACTICES.

(a) In General.—Section 524 of title 11, United States Code, as amended section 202, is amended—

(1) in subsection (c), by striking paragraph (2) and inserting the following:

(2) the debtor received the disclosures described in subsection (k) at or before the time at which the debtor signed the agreement; and

(2) by adding at the end the following:

(k)(1) The disclosures required under subsection (c)(2) shall consist of the disclosure statement described in paragraph (3), completed as required in that paragraph, together with the agreement specified in subsection (c), statement, declaration, motion or other document described, respectively, in paragraphs (4) through (8), and shall be the only disclosures required in connection with entering into such agreement.

(k)(2) The disclosures described in subparagraph (A) shall be made clearly and conspicuously and in writing. The terms ‘Amount Reaffirmed’ and ‘Annual Percentage Rate’ shall be disclosed more conspicuously than other terms, data or information provided in connection with this disclosure, except that the phrases ‘Before agreeing to reaffirm a debt, review these important disclosures’ and ‘Summary of Reaffirmation Agreement’ may be equally conspicuous. These disclosures may be made in a different order and may use terminology different from that set forth in paragraphs (2) through (8), except that the terms ‘Amount Reaffirmed’ and ‘Annual Percentage Rate’ must be used where indicated.

(3) The disclosure statement required under this paragraph shall consist of the following:

(A) The statement: ‘Part A: Before agreeing to reaffirm a debt, review these important disclosures’;

(B) Under the heading ‘Summary of Reaffirmation Agreement’, the statement: ‘This Summary is made pursuant to the requirements of the Bankruptcy Code’;

(C) The ‘Amount Reaffirmed’, using that term, which shall be

(i) the total amount of debt that the debtor agrees to reaffirm by entering into an agreement of the kind specified in subsection (c), and

(ii) the total of any fees and costs accrued as of the date the disclosure statement, related to such total amount.

(D) In conjunction with the disclosure of the ‘Amount Reaffirmed’, the statement:

(i) the amount of debt you have agreed to reaffirm;

(ii) ‘Your credit agreement may obligate you to pay additional amounts which may come due after the date of this disclosure. Consult your credit agreement.’;

(E) The ‘Annual Percentage Rate’, using that term, which shall be disclosed as

(i) if, at the time the petition is filed, the debt is an extension of credit under an open end credit plan, as the terms ‘credit’ and ‘open end credit’ are defined in section 103 of the Truth in Lending Act, then—

(1) the annual percentage rate determined under paragraphs (5) and (6) of section 127(b) of the Truth in Lending Act, as applicable, as disclosed to the debtor in the most recent periodic statement prior to entering into an agreement of the kind specified in subsection (c) or in no such periodic statement has been given to the debtor during the prior 6 months, the annual percentage rate as it would have been so disclosed at the time the disclosure statement is given to the debtor, or to the extent this annual percentage rate is not readily available or not applicable, then

(II) the simple interest rate applicable to each such balance, identifying the amount of each such balance included in the amount reaffirmed, or

(III) by describing the debtor or creditor as applicable. This determination shall be made by the creditor or the debtor, as applicable, and may be different. Consult your reaffirmation agreement or credit agreement, as applicable,’ and stating the amount of the first payment and the due date of that payment in the places provided;

(ii) by making the statement: ‘Your payment schedule will be’, and describing the repayment schedule with the number, amount, and due dates or period of payments scheduled to repay the debts reaffirmed to the extent then known by the disclosing party; or

(iii) by describing the debtor’s repayment obligations with reasonable specificity to the extent then known by the disclosing party.

(I) The following statement: ‘Note: When this disclosure refers to what a creditor “may” do, it does not use the word “may” to give the creditor specific permission. The word “may” is used to tell you what might occur if the law permits the creditor to take the action. If you have questions about your reaffirmation agreement, the law requires, consult with the attorney who helped you negotiate your reaffirmation agreement. You may rescind (cancel) your reaffirmation agreement at any time before the bankruptcy court enters a discharge order, or before the expiration of the 60-day period that begins on the date your reaffirmation agreement is filed with the court, whichever occurs later. To rescind (cancel) your reaffirmation agreement, you must notify the creditor that your reaffirmation agreement is rescinded (canceled).’

(2) Complete and sign Part D and be sure you can afford to make the payments you are agreeing to make and have received a copy of the disclosure statement and a complete, signed reaffirmation agreement.

(3) A reaffirmed debt remains your personal legal obligation. It is not discharged in your bankruptcy case. That means if you reaffirm a debt after your bankruptcy case is over, your creditor may be able to take your property or your wages. Otherwise, your obligations will be determined by the reaffirmation agreement which may have changed the terms of the original agreement. For example, if you are reaffirming an open end credit agreement, the creditor may be permitted by that agreement or applicable law to change the terms of that agreement in the future under certain conditions. You may rescind (cancel) your reaffirmation agreement by any law and you are not required to reaffirm a debt by any agreement or applicable law to change the terms of that agreement in the future under certain conditions. You may rescind (cancel) your reaffirmation agreement by any law and you are not required to reaffirm a debt by any agreement or applicable law to change the terms of that agreement in the future under certain conditions.

(4) If you were not represented by an attorney during the negotiation of your reaffirmation agreement, the attorney must have signed the reaffirmation agreement. If a separate reaffirmation agreement (other than the one in Part B) has been signed, it must be attached.

(5) If you were represented by an attorney during the negotiation of your reaffirmation agreement, your reaffirmation agreement becomes effective upon filing with the court unless the reaffirmation is presumed to be an undue hardship as explained in Part D.

(6) You have a right to rescind (cancel) your reaffirmation agreement and must notify the creditor that your reaffirmation agreement is rescinded (canceled).
equal to the current value of the security property, as agreed by the parties or determined by the court.'

"(ii) In the case of a reaffirmation under subsection (b), the paragraph in the disclosures required by clause (i) of this subparagraph shall read as follows:

"6. If you were represented by an attorney during the negotiation of your reaffirmation agreement, your reaffirmation agreement becomes effective upon filing with the court.

"(4) The form of such agreement required under this paragraph shall consist of the following:

"Part B: Reaffirmation Agreement. I (we)

agreement of the kind specified in subsection
(b) shall be satisfied if disclosures required in order for it to be effective, shall be signed and dated by the movant and shall consist of the following:

"Part E: Motion for Court Approval ('To
be completed only if the debtor is not represented by an attorney.). I (we), the debtors, affirm the following to be true and correct:

"I am not represented by an attorney in connection with this reaffirmation agreement.

"I believe this reaffirmation agreement is in my best interest based on the income and expenses I have disclosed in my Statement in Support of this reaffirmation agreement, and because (provide any additional relevant rea-sions the court should consider):

"Therefore, I ask the court for an order approving this reaffirmation agreement.'

"(8) The court order, which may be used to approve such agreement, shall consist of the following:

"Court Order: The court grants the debtor's motion and approves the reaffirmation agreement described above.

"(1) Notwithstanding any other provision of this title the following shall apply:

"(1) A creditor may accept payments from a debtor before and after the filing of an agreement of the kind specified in subsection
(o) with the court.

"(2) A creditor may accept payments from a debtor under such agreement that the creditor believes in good faith to be effective.

"(3) The requirements of subsections (c)(2)
and (k) shall be satisfied if disclosures required under those subsections are given in good faith.

"(d) Until 60 days after an agreement of the kind specified in subsection (c) is filed with the court (or such additional period as the court, after notice and a hearing and for cause, orders before the expiration of such period), it shall be presumed that such agreement is an undue hardship on the debtor if the debtor's monthly income less the debtor's monthly expenses as shown on the debtor's completed and signed statement in support of such agreement required under subsection (b)(1)(A)(iv) of the Federal Reserve Act).

"(e) If a presumption of undue hardship exists, the court shall consider the following:

"(i) The statement in support of such agreement, which the debtor shall sign and date prior to filing with the court, shall consist of the following:

"Part D: Debtor's Statement in Support of Reaffirmation Agreement.

"1. I believe this reaffirmation agreement will not impose an undue hardship on my dependents if I afford to the debtor the payments on the reaffirmed debt because my monthly income (take home pay plus any other income received) is $ , and my actual current monthly expenses including monthly payments on post-bankruptcy debt and other reaffirmation agreements total $ , leaving $ to make the required payments on this reaffirmed debt. I understand that if my income less my monthly expen-des does not leave enough to make the payments, this reaffirmation agreement is presumed to be an undue hardship on me and must be reviewed by the court. However, this presumption may be overcome if I explain to the satisfaction of the court how I can afford to make the payments here:

"2. I received a copy of the Reaffirmation Disclosure Statement in Part A and a completed and signed reaffirmation agreement.'

"(B) Whether the debtor is represented by an attorney and is reaffirming a debt owed to a creditor defined in section 19(b)(1)(A)(i)(IV) of the Part D, the statement of support of the reaffirmation agreement, which the debtor shall sign and date prior to filing with the court, shall consist of the following:

"I believe this reaffirmation agreement is in my financial interest. I can afford to make the payments on the reaffirmed debt. I received a copy of the Reaffirmation Disclosure Statement in Part A and a completed and signed reaffirmation agreement.'

"(7) The presumption shall be disapproved if approval of such agreement by the court is required in order for it to be effective, shall be signed and dated by the movant and shall consist of the following:

"Part E: Motion for Court Approval ('To
be completed only if the debtor is not rep-

"(2) A creditor may accept payments from a debtor under such agreement that the creditor believes in good faith to be effective.

"(3) The requirements of subsections (c)(2)
and (k) shall be satisfied if disclosures required under those subsections are given in good faith.

"(d) Until 60 days after an agreement of the kind specified in subsection (c) is filed with the court (or such additional period as the court, after notice and a hearing and for cause, orders before the expiration of such period), it shall be presumed that such agreement is an undue hardship on the debtor if the debtor's monthly income less the debt-
or's monthly expenses as shown on the debt-
or's completed and signed statement in support of such agreement required under subsection (b)(1)(A)(iv) of the Federal Reserve
Act).

"(e) If a presumption of undue hardship exists, the court shall consider the following:

"(i) The statement in support of such agreement, which the debtor shall sign and date prior to filing with the court, shall consist of the following:

"Part D: Debtor's Statement in Support
of Reaffirmation Agreement.

"1. I believe this reaffirmation agreement

(B) redesignating paragraph (3) as paragraph (4); and

(C) by inserting after paragraph (2) the following:

"(5) The court, as part of its contempt power, may enjoin a bankruptcy petition preparer that has failed to comply with a previous order issued under this section. The injunction may be issued on the motion of the court, the trustee, or the United States trustee (or the bankruptcy administrator, if any).

(11) by adding at the end the following:

"(11)(1) A bankruptcy petition preparer who fails to comply with any provision of subsection (b), (c), (d), (e), (f), (g), or (h) may be fined not more than $500 for each such failure.

(2) The court shall triple the amount of a fine assessed under paragraph (1) in any case in which the court finds that a bankruptcy petition preparer—

(A) advised the debtor to exclude assets or income that should have been included on applicable schedules;

(B) advised the debtor to use a false Social Security account number;

(C) failed to inform the debtor that the debtor was filing for relief under this title; or

(D) prepared a document for filing in a manner that failed to disclose the identity of the bankruptcy petition preparer.

(3) A debtor, trustee, creditor, or United States trustee (or the bankruptcy administrator) may file a motion for an order imposing a fine on the bankruptcy petition preparer for any violation of this section.

(4)(A) Fines imposed under this subsection in judicial districts served by United States trustees shall be paid to the United States trustee, who shall deposit an amount equal to such fines in a special account of the United States Trustee System Fund referred to in section 586(e)(2) of title 28. Amounts deposited under this subparagraph shall be available for the enforcement of this section on a national basis.

(B) Fines imposed under this subsection in judicial districts served by bankruptcy administrators shall be deposited as offsetting receipts to the fund established under section 1931 of title 28, and shall remain available until expended for the enforcement of this section on a national basis.

(C) Fines imposed under this subsection shall be available for the operation and maintenance of the courts of the United States.

section 401, 403, 408, 408A, 414, 457, or 501(c) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, under—

“(A) a loan permitted under section 529(b)(1) of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 (as defined in section 72(p) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986; or

“(B) a loan from a thrift savings plan permitted under subchapter III of chapter 4 of title 5, that is subject to the requirements of section 8343(g) of such title; but nothing in this paragraph may be construed to provide that any loan made under a governmental plan under section 414(d), or a corporate plan under section 403(b), of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 constitutes a claim or a debt under this title; or

“(c) For purposes of this section, any contributions required to be reported under section 4980B of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 shall be considered debt for purposes of this title.

“(d) Adjustment of dollar amounts.

“(1) For purposes of this section—

“(A) in subsection (b), by striking ‘or’ at the end;

“(B) by redesigning paragraph (4) as paragraph (9); and

“(C) by inserting after paragraph (4) the following:

“(5) funds placed in an education individual retirement account (as defined in section 530(b)(1) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986) not later than 365 days before the date of the filing of the petition in a case under this title, but—

“(A) only if the designated beneficiary of such account was a child, stepchild, grandchild, or stepgrandchild of the debtor for the taxable year for which funds were placed in such account;

“(B) only to the extent that such funds—

“(i) are not pledged or promised to any entity in connection with any extension of credit; and

“(ii) are not excess contributions (as described in section 597(e) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986); and

“(C) in the case of funds placed in all such accounts having the same designated beneficiary, 720 days or later than 365 days before such date, only so much of such funds as does not exceed $5,000; and

“(6) funds used for tuition credit or tuition assistance under the plan of the stock or bond of the corporation, in accordance with section 529(b)(1)(A) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 under a qualified State tuition program (as defined in section 529(b)(1) of such Code) not later than 365 days before the date of the filing of the petition in a case under this title, but—

“(A) only if the designated beneficiary of such program was a child, stepchild, grandchild, or stepgrandchild of the debtor for the taxable year for which such funds were paid or contributed;

“(B) with respect to the aggregate amount paid or contributed to such tuition program being the same designated beneficiary, only so much of such amount as does not exceed the total contributions permitted under section 529(b)(7) of such Code with respect to such designated beneficiary; and

“(C) in the case of funds paid or contributed to such program having the same designated beneficiary not earlier than 720 days nor later than 365 days before such date, only so much of such funds as does not exceed $5,000; and

“(1) In general—

“(A) The plan shall include a statement that the plan will provide to such person, and the information contained in the statement shall be—

“(i) the amount in the education expenditure category of the Consumer Price Index prepared by the Department of Labor; and “(ii) the method of calculating the increase or decrease (rounded to the nearest tenth of 1 percent) in the education expenditure category of the Consumer Price Index prepared by the Department of Labor.

“(B) The plan shall provide to such person, and the information contained in the plan shall include, the information described in subparagraph (A)—

“(i) for each of the years beginning in the taxable year for which funds were placed in such account;

“(ii) for each of the years during the previous 10 years (other than the year in which funds were placed in such account or for which funds were contributed); and

“(iii) for any other taxable year for which funds were placed in such account or for which funds were contributed; and

“(2) by inserting before the period at the end—

“(C) a statement that a debtor has in an education individual retirement account (as defined in section 530(b)(1) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986) not later than 365 days before the date of the filing of the petition in a case under this title.

“SEC. 227. RESTRICTIONS ON DEBT RELIEF AGENCIES.

“SEC. 229. REQUIREMENTS FOR DEBT RELIEF AGENCIES.

“(a) ENFORCEMENT.—Subchapter II of chapter 5 of title 11, United States Code, as amended by sections 227 and 228, is amended by adding at the end the following:

“528. Requirements for debt relief agencies.

“(1) the written notice required under section 392(b)(1); and

“(2) to the extent not covered in the written notice described in paragraph (1), and not later than 5 business days after the first date on which a debt relief agency first offers to provide any bankruptcy assistance services to an assisted person, a clear and conspicuous written notice advising assisted persons that—

“(A) all information that the assisted person is required to provide with a petition and thereafter during a case under this title is required to be complete, accurate, and truthful;

“(B) all assets and all liabilities are required to be completely and accurately disclosed in the documents filed to commence the case, and the replacement value of each asset as stated in such documents is required to be reasonably accurately for inclusion in such documents where requested after reasonable inquiry to establish such value;

“(C) current monthly income, the amounts specified in section 707(b)(2), and the extent applicable, or one substantially similar. The statement shall be clear and conspicuous and shall be in a single document separate from other advertisements or notices provided to the assisted person:

“‘IMPORTANT INFORMATION ABOUT BANKRUPTCY PETITION PREPARED

‘BY AN ATTORNEY OR BANKRUPTCY PETITION PREPARE.

‘If you decide to seek bankruptcy relief, you can represent yourself, or you can hire an attorney to represent you, or you can get help in some localities from a bankruptcy petition preparer who is not an attorney. THE LAW REQUIRES AN ATTORNEY OR BANKRUPTCY PETITION PREPARED TO GIVE YOU A WRITTEN CONTRACT SPECIFYING WHAT THE ATTORNEY OR BANKRUPTCY PETITION PREPARE WILL DO FOR YOU AND HOW MUCH IT WILL COST. Ask to see the contract before you hire anyone.

‘The following information helps you understand what must be done in a routine bankruptcy case to evaluate how much service you need. Although bankruptcy can be complex, many cases are routine.

‘Before filing a bankruptcy case, either you or your attorney should analyze your eligibility for different forms of debt relief available under the Bankruptcy Code and which form of relief is most likely to be beneficial for you. Be sure you understand the relief you can obtain and its limitations. To do so, you must file documents; a form called a Petition, Schedules and Statement of Financial Affairs, as well as in some cases a Statement of Intention need to be prepared correctly and filed with the bankruptcy court. You will have to pay a filing fee to the bankruptcy court. Once your case starts, you will have to attend the required first meeting of creditors where you may be questioned by a court official called a ‘trustee’ and by creditors.

‘If you choose to file a chapter 7 case, you may be asked by a creditor to reaffirm a debt. You may want help deciding whether to do so. A creditor is not permitted to coerced you into reaffirming your debts.

‘If you choose to file a chapter 13 case in which you repay your creditors what you can afford over 3 to 5 years, you may also want help from a bankruptcy petition preparer to file a plan and with the confirmation hearing on your plan which will be before a bankruptcy judge.

‘If you select another type of relief under the Bankruptcy Code other than chapter 7 or chapter 13, you will want to find out what should be done from someone familiar with the type of relief.

‘Your bankruptcy case may also involve litigation. You are generally permitted to represent yourself in litigation in bankruptcy court, but only attorneys, not bankruptcy petition preparers, can give you legal advice.

‘Except to the extent the debt relief agency provides the required information itself after reasonably diligent inquiry of the assisted person or others so as to obtain such information reasonably accurately for inclusion on the petition, schedules or statement of financial affairs, a debt relief agency providing bankruptcy assistance to an assisted person, to the extent permitted by nonbankruptcy law, shall provide each assisted person at the time required for the notice required under subsection (a)(1) reasonably sufficient information (which shall be provided in a clear and conspicuous writing) to the assisted person on how to provide all the information the assisted person is required to provide under this chapter pursuant to section 521, including—

“(1) how to value assets at replacement value, determine current monthly income, the amounts specified in section 707(b)(2) and related calculations; and

“(2) how to determine disposable income in accordance with section 707(b)(2) and related calculations;

“(b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—The table of sections for chapter 5 of title 11, United States Code, as amended by section 227, is amended by inserting after the item relating to section 526 the following:

“527. Disclosures.

“SEC. 228. REQUIREMENTS FOR DEBT RELIEF AGENCIES.

“(a) ENFORCEMENT.—Subchapter II of chapter 5 of title 11, United States Code, as amended by sections 227 and 228, is amended by adding at the end the following:

“528. Requirements for debt relief agencies.

“(a) A debt relief agency providing bankruptcy assistance to an assisted person shall provide—

“(1) not later than 5 business days after the first date on which such agency provides any bankruptcy assistance services to an assisted person, but prior to such assisted person’s petition under this title being filed, execute a written contract with such assisted person that explains clearly and conspicuously—

“(A) the services such agency will provide to such assisted person; and “(B) the fees or charges for such services, and the terms of payment;

“(2) provide the assisted person with a copy of the fully executed and completed contract;

“(3) clearly and conspicuously disclose in an advertisement of bankruptcy assistance services or of the benefits of bankruptcy directed to the general public (whether in general media, seminars or specific mailings, telephone calls or electronic messages, or otherwise) that the services or benefits are with respect to bankruptcy relief under this title; and

“(4) clearly and conspicuously use the following statement in such advertisement: ‘We are a debt relief agency. We help people file for bankruptcy relief under the Bankruptcy Code, or a substantially similar statement.

"(b)(1) An advertisement of bankruptcy assistance services or of the benefits of bankruptcy services directed to the general public includes—

"(A) descriptions of bankruptcy assistance in connection with a chapter 13 plan whether or not chapter 13 is specifically mentioned in such advertisement; and

"(B) statements such as ‘federally supervised repayment plan’ or ‘Federal debt restructuring’ or similar statements that could lead a reasonable consumer to believe that debt counseling was being offered when in fact the services were directed to providing bankruptcy assistance with a chapter 13 plan or other form of bankruptcy relief under this title.

"(2) A advertisement, directed to the general public, indicating that the debt relief agency provides assistance with respect to credit defaults, mortgage foreclosures, eviction proceedings, excessive debt, debt collection pressure, or inability to pay any consumer debt shall—

"(A) disclose clearly and conspicuously in such advertisement that the assistance provided involves bankruptcy relief under this title; and

"(B) include the following statement: ‘We are a debt relief agency. We help people file for bankruptcy relief under the Bankruptcy Code, or a substantially similar statement.’

(b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—The table of sections for chapter 5 of title 11, United States Code, as amended by section 227 and 228, is amended by inserting after the item relating to section 527, the following:

‘528. Requirements for debt relief agencies.’

SEC. 210. GAO STUDY.

(a) STUDY.—Not later than 270 days after the date of enactment of this Act, the Comptroller General of the United States shall conduct a study of the feasibility, effectiveness, and cost of requiring trustees appointed under title 11, United States Code, or the bankruptcy courts, to provide to the Office of Child Support Enforcement promptly after the commencement of cases by debtors who are individuals under such title, the names and social security account numbers of such debtors for the purposes of allowing such individuals to determine whether such debtors have outstanding obligations for child support (as determined on the basis of information in the Federal Case Registry or other national registry).

(b) REPORT.—Not later than 300 days after the date of enactment of this Act, the Comptroller General shall submit to the President pro tempore of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives a report containing the results of the study required by subsection (a).

SEC. 211. PROTECTION OF PERSONALLY IDENTIFIABLE INFORMATION.

(a) LIMITATION.—Section 363(b)(1) of title 11, United States Code, is amended by inserting after the item relating to the period at the end and inserting the following:

‘(i) giving due consideration to the facts, circumstances, and conditions of such sale or such lease; and

(ii) finding that no showing was made that such sale or such lease would violate applicable nonbankruptcy law.’

(b) DEFINITION.—Section 101 of title 11, United States Code, is amended by inserting after paragraph (4) the following:

‘(4A) ‘personally identifiable information’ means—

(A) if provided by an individual to the debtor in connection with obtaining a product or a service from the debtor primarily for personal, family, or household purposes—

(1) the first name (or initial) and last name of an individual, at least one of which is given by the individual; the address of such individual; the date of birth or age of such individual; and the place of birth or place of residence of such individual;

(2) any other information concerning an identified individual that, if disclosed, will result in contact with or identification by a person (other than the United States trustee) to serve as the consumer privacy ombudsman in the case and shall require that notice of such hearing be timely given to the consumer privacy ombudsman;

(3) the potential losses or gains of privacy information would create undue risk of identity theft or other unlawful injury to the individual or the individual’s property;

(B) Any means of identification (as defined in section 323(b)(1)) contained in any paper filed or submitted in a case under this title.

(c) SECURITY OF SOCIAL SECURITY ACCOUNT NUMBER OF DEBTOR IN NOTICE TO CREDITOR.—Section 507(a) of title 11, United States Code, as amended by section 106, is amended by adding at the end the following:

‘(b) SECURITY OF SOCIAL SECURITY ACCOUNT NUMBER OF DEBTOR IN NOTICE TO CREDITOR—

"(3) Subject to section 363, the court may, upon notice and a hearing, modify, increase, or reduce the payments required under this subsection pending confirmation of a plan.
(C) The standard forms (electronic and otherwise) used in a bankruptcy proceeding shall be amended to reflect the requirements of this subsection.

(b) D EFINITION. Section 522(f) of title 11, United States Code, is amended by striking paragraphs (1) through (9) of section 522(f) and inserting the following:

(1) in subsection (c)–
(A) by inserting "(1)" after "(c)";
(B) by striking ", but the failure of such notice to contain such information shall not invalidate the legal effect of such notice;" and

(C) by adding at the end the following:

(2) A creditor supplies the debtor in at least 2 communications sent to the debtor with the current account number of the debtor and the address of the creditor to which such notice is to be sent, then any notice required by this title to be sent by the debtor to such creditor shall be addressed and shall include such account number.

(B) If a creditor would be in violation of applicable nonbankruptcy law by sending such communications within such 90-day period and if such creditor supplies the debtor or in the last 2 communications with the current account number of the debtor and any such communications is sent the debtor is entitled to receive correspondence at the address of such creditor to which such notice is to be sent, then any notice required by this title to be sent by the debtor to such creditor shall be addressed and shall include such account number.

(2) Any notice in such case required to be provided to such creditor by the debtor or the court later than 30 days after the filing of such notice under subsection (1) shall be deemed to be provided in such case to such creditor.

(2) In any case filed under chapter 7 or 13, any notice required to be provided by a court with respect to which such notice is filed under paragraph (1), to such entity later than 30 days after the filing of such notice under subsection (1) shall be deemed to be provided in such case to such creditor. In a case in which the address of the debtor is specified in a notice filed and served in accordance with subsection (e), a notice filed under paragraph (1) may be withdrawn by such entity.

"(g)(1) Notice provided to a creditor by the debtor or the court other than in accordance with this section (excluding this subsection) shall not be effective notice until such notice is brought to the attention of such creditor.

"(g)(2) If such credit designates a person or an organizational subdivision of such creditor to be responsible for receiving notices under this title and establishes reasonable procedures as to the timely delivery of such notice by such creditor are to be delivered to such person or such subdivision, then a notice provided to such creditor other than in accordance with this section (excluding this subsection) shall not be considered to have been brought to the attention of such creditor until such notice is received by such person or such subdivision.

"(2) A monetary penalty may not be imposed on a creditor for a violation of a stay under section 362(k) or for failure to comply with section 542(k) or for failure to comply with section 543 unless the conduct that is the basis for such violation occurs after such creditor receives notice effective under this section of the order for relief.

SEC. 315. GIVING CREDITORS FAIR NOTICE IN CHAPTERS 7 AND 13 CASES.

(a) Notice provided to a creditor under section 542 or 543 unless the conduct that is the basis for such violation occurs after such creditor receives notice effective under this section of the order for relief.
A statement of the debtor’s financial affairs and, if section 342(b) applies, a certificate—

(i) of an attorney whose name is indicated on the petition as the attorney for the debtor, or a bankruptcy petition preparer signing the petition under section 110(b)(1), indicating that such petition preparer delivered to the debtor the notice required by section 342(b); or

(ii) if no attorney is so indicated, and no bankruptcy petition preparer signed the petition, a copy of the plan; and

(iii) a statement of the debtor’s financial affairs and, if section 342(b) applies, a certificate—

(A) a list of creditors; and

(B) the identity of any person responsible for preparing such plan.

(v) a statement of the amount of monthly net income, itemized to show how the amount is calculated; and

(vi) a statement disclosing any reasonably anticipated increase in income or expenditures over the 12-month period following the date of the filing of the petition; and

(2) by adding at the end the following:

(A) if the debtor in a case under chapter 7 or 13 is an individual and if a creditor files with the court a request to receive a copy of the petition, schedules, and statement of financial affairs filed by the debtor, then the court shall make such petition, such schedules, and such statement available to such creditor.

(B) The debtor shall provide—

(i) not later than 7 days before the petition is filed by any person of the tax information required by subsection (a)(1)(B)(iv) and that is due to circumstances beyond the control of the debtor.

(ii) at the same time the debtor complies with clause (i), a copy of such return (or if elected under clause (i), such transcript) to any other person that is entitled to receive a copy of such return or such transcript to such creditor at the time that the debtor files such return or such transcript to the trustee, then the court shall dismiss the case unless the debtor demonstrates that the failure to provide the return or such transcript is due to circumstances beyond the control of the debtor.

(C) If a creditor requests a copy of such return or such transcript and if the debtor fails or fails to provide a copy of such tax return or such transcript to such creditor at the time the debtor files such return or such transcript to the trustee, then the court shall dismiss the case unless the debtor demonstrates that the failure to provide a copy of such tax return or such transcript is due to circumstances beyond the control of the debtor.

(D) If a creditor in a case under chapter 13 files with the court at any time a request to receive a copy of the plan filed by the debtor, then the court shall make available to such creditor a copy of the plan.

(E) A statement of the best interests of creditors would be served by administration of the case.

(1) in section 1322(d), by amending subsection (d)(2) to read as follows:

“(2) the amount of any income contributed by a debtor in a household of 2, 3, or 4 individuals, the highest median family income of the applicable State for 1 year ending in the applicable period of time specified in paragraph (1), the court may decline to dismiss the case if the court finds justification for extending the period for filing; and

(3) Notwithstanding any other provision of this subsection, on the motion of the trustee filed before the expiration of the applicable period of time specified in paragraph (1), (2), (3), and (4), after hearing, the court may decline to dismiss the case if the court finds that the debtor attempted in good faith to file all the information required by subsection (a)(1)(B) (iv) and that the best interests of creditors would be served by administration of the case.

(2) by amending section 332(b) to read as follows:

“(b) The hearing on confirmation of the plan may be held not earlier than 20 days and not later than 45 days after the date of the meeting of creditors under section 341(a), unless the court determines that it would be in the best interests of the creditors and the estate to hold such hearing at an earlier date and there is no objection to such earlier date.

(1) in section 1322(d), by amending section 1322(d)(2) to read as follows:

“(2) the amount of any income contributed by a debtor in a household of 2, 3, or 4 individuals, the highest median family income of the applicable State for 1 year ending in the applicable period of time specified in paragraph (1), the court may decline to dismiss the case if the court finds justification for extending the period for filing; and

(3) Notwithstanding any other provision of this subsection, on the motion of the trustee filed before the expiration of the applicable period of time specified in paragraph (1), (2), (3), and (4), after hearing, the court may decline to dismiss the case if the court finds that the debtor attempted in good faith to file all the information required by subsection (a)(1)(B) (iv) and that the best interests of creditors would be served by administration of the case.

(b) DEBTOR’S DUTIES.—Section 521 of title 11, United States Code, as amended by sections 106, 225, 305, and 315, is amended—

(1) in subsection (a), by amending paragraph (1) to read as follows:

“(1) the amount of any income contributed by a debtor in a household of 2, 3, or 4 individuals, the highest median family income of the applicable State for 1 year ending in the applicable period of time specified in paragraph (1), the court may decline to dismiss the case if the court finds justification for extending the period for filing; and

(2) by amending section 332(b) to read as follows:

“(b) The hearing on confirmation of the plan may be held not earlier than 20 days and not later than 45 days after the date of the meeting of creditors under section 341(a), unless the court determines that it would be in the best interests of the creditors and the estate to hold such hearing at an earlier date and there is no objection to such earlier date.

(1) in section 1322(d), by amending section 1322(d)(2) to read as follows:

“(2) the amount of any income contributed by a debtor in a household of 2, 3, or 4 individuals, the highest median family income of the applicable State for 1 year ending in the applicable period of time specified in paragraph (1), the court may decline to dismiss the case if the court finds justification for extending the period for filing; and

(3) Notwithstanding any other provision of this subsection, on the motion of the trustee filed before the expiration of the applicable period of time specified in paragraph (1), (2), (3), and (4), after hearing, the court may decline to dismiss the case if the court finds that the debtor attempted in good faith to file all the information required by subsection (a)(1)(B) (iv) and that the best interests of creditors would be served by administration of the case.

(3) Notwithstanding any other provision of this subsection, on the motion of the trustee filed after the expiration of the applicable period of time specified in paragraph (1), after hearing, the court may decline to dismiss the case if the court finds that the debtor attempted in good faith to file all the information required by subsection (a)(1)(B) (iv) and that the best interests of creditors would be served by administration of the case.

(4) Notwithstanding any provision of this subsection, on the motion of the trustee filed before the expiration of the applicable period of time specified in paragraph (1), (2), (3), and (4), after hearing, the court may decline to dismiss the case if the court finds that the debtor attempted in good faith to file all the information required by subsection (a)(1)(B) (iv) and that the best interests of creditors would be served by administration of the case.

(5) The court shall prepare and submit to the President, the Speaker of the House of Representa... family income of the applicable State for a family of 4 or fewer individuals, plus $25 per month for each individual in excess of 4, the plan may not provide for payments over a period longer than 5 years.

(2) If the current monthly income of the debtor and the debtor’s spouse combined, when multiplied by 12, is less than—

(A) a debtor in a household of 1 person, the median family income of the applicable State for 1 earner;

(B) in the case of a debtor in a household of 2 or 3 individuals, the highest median family income of the applicable State for a family of the same number or fewer individuals;

(C) in the case of a debtor in a household exceeding 4 individuals, the highest median family income of the applicable State for a family of 4 or fewer individuals, plus $252 per month for each individual in excess of 4, the plan may not provide for payments over a period that is longer than 3 years, unless the court, for cause, approves a longer period, but the court may not approve a period that is longer than 5 years.

(3) in section 1325(b)(1)(B), by striking “three-year period” and inserting “applicable commitment period”;

(4) in section 1325(b), as amended by section 102, by adding at the end the following:

“(4) Subject to subparagraph (B), this subsection, the applicable commitment period—

(A) subject to subparagraph (B), shall be—

(i) 3 years; or

(ii) a shorter period.

(B) in the case of a debtor in a household exceeding 4 individuals, the highest median family income of the applicable State for a family of the same number or fewer individuals; or

(C) in the case of a debtor in a household exceeding 4 individuals, the highest median family income of the applicable State for a family of 4 or fewer individuals, plus $252 per month for each individual in excess of 4, which is applicable under subparagraph (A), but only if the plan provides for payment in full of all allowed secured claims over a shorter period; and

(D) in section 132(c), by striking “three years” and inserting “the applicable commitment period”;

SEC. 319. SENSE OF CONGRESS REGARDING EXPANSION OF RULE 9011 OF THE FEDERAL RULES OF BANKRUPTCY PROCEDURE.

It is the sense of Congress that rule 9011 of the Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure (11 U.S.C. app.) should be modified to include a requirement that all documents (including schedules), signed and uninsured, submitted to the court or to a trustee by debtors who represent themselves and debtors who are represented by attorneys be submitted only after the debtors or the debtors’ attorneys have made reasonable inquiry to verify that the information contained in such documents is—

(1) well grounded in fact; and

(2) warranted by existing law or a good faith argument for the extension, modification, or reversal of existing law.

SEC. 320. PROMPT RELIEF FROM STAY IN INDIVIDUAL CASE.

Section 362(e) of title 11, United States Code, is amended—

(1) by inserting “(i)” after “(e);” and

(2) by adding the following:

“(2) Notwithstanding paragraph (1), in a case under chapter 7, 11, or 13 in which the debtor is an individual, the stay under subsection (a) shall terminate on the date that is 60 days after a request is made by a party in interest under subsection (d), unless—

(A) a stay may be extended by the court during the 60-day period beginning on the date of the request; or

(B) such 60-day period is extended—

(i) by agreement of all parties in interest; or

(ii) by the court for such specific period of time as the court finds is required for good cause, as described in findings made by the court.”.

SEC. 321. CHAPTER 11 CASES FILED BY INDIVIDUALS.

(a) PROPERTY OF THE ESTATE.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Subchapter I of chapter 11 of title 11, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following:

“§ 1115. Property of the estate

(1) In a case in which the debtor is an individual, property of the estate includes, in addition to the property specified in section 541—

(1) all property of the kind specified in section 541 that the debtor acquires after the commencement of the case but before the case is closed, dismissed, or converted to a case under chapter 7, 12, or 13, whichever occurs first; and

(2) earnings from services performed by the debtor after the commencement of the case but before the case is closed, dismissed, or converted to a case under chapter 7, 12, or 13, whichever occurs first.

(b) CONTENTS OF PLAN.—Section 1123(a) of title 11, United States Code, is amended—

(1) in paragraph (6), by striking “and” at the end; and

(2) in paragraph (7), by striking the period and inserting “;” and

(3) by adding at the end the following:

“(8) in a case in which the debtor is an individual, and in which the holder of an allowed unsecured claim is not less than the amount that would have been paid on such claim if the estate of the debtor had been liquidated under chapter 7 on such date; and

“(ii) any modification of the plan under section 1127 that is not practicable, and

(c) MODIFICATION OF PLAN.—Section 1122 of title 11, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following:

“(4) Except as provided in section 1104 or a confirmed plan or order confirming a plan, the debtor shall remain in possession of all property of the estate.

“1115. Property of the estate...”

SEC. 322. LIMITATIONS ON HOMESTEAD EXEMPTION.

(a) EXEMPTIONS.—Section 522 of title 11, United States Code, as amended by sections 234 and 308, is amended by adding at the end the following:

“§ 522. Exemptions

(1) Except as provided in paragraph (2) of this subsection and sections 544 and 548, as to a debtor under section 109 of title 11, United States Code, to exempt property under State or local law, a debtor may not exempt any amount of intangible property that was acquired after the commencement of the case but before the filling of the petition that exceeds in the aggregate $250,000 in value in—

(A) personal property that the debtor and the debtor’s spouse combined, when multiplied by 12, is less than the amount of such claim; or

(B) the value of the property to be distributed under the plan is not less than the projected disposable income of the debtor (as defined in section 1325(b)(2)) to be received during the 5-year period beginning on the date that the first payment is due under the plan, or during the period for which the plan provides payments in any longer.

(2) REQUIREMENT RELATING TO INTERESTS IN PROPERTY.—Section 1129(b)(2)(B) of title 11, United States Code, is amended by inserting “; except that in a case in which the debtor is an individual, the debtor may retain property included in the estate under subsection (a)(4) of this section;”.

(b) EFFECT OF CONFIRMATION.—Section 1141(d) of title 11, United States Code, is amended—

(1) in paragraph (2), by striking “The confirmation of a plan does not discharge an individual debtor” and inserting “A discharge under this chapter does not discharge a debtor who is an individual; and

(2) by adding at the end the following:

“(2) Except as provided in paragraph (1), after notice and a hearing, the court may grant a discharge to the debtor who has not completed payments under the plan if—

“(i) the value, as of the effective date of the plan, of property actually distributed under the plan on account of each allowed unsecured claim is not less than the amount that would have been paid on such claim if the estate of the debtor had been liquidated under chapter 7 on such date; and

“(ii) the debtor is an individual, the plan may be modified at any time after confirmation of the plan but before the completion of payments under the plan, whether or not the plan has been substantially consummated, upon request of the debtor, the trustee, the United States trustee, or the holder of an allowed unsecured claim, to the extent necessary to provide for the amount of payments on claims of a particular class provided for by the plan; or

“(2) extend or reduce the time period for such payments; or

“(3) alter the amount of the distribution to a creditor whose claim is provided for by the plan to the extent necessary to take account of any payment on such claim made other than under the plan.

“(c) EXEMPTIONS OF DEBTOR WHO IS AN INDIVIDUAL.—Sections 1121 through 1128 and the requirements of section 1129 apply to any modification under subsection (a).

“(2) The plan, as modified, shall become the plan only after there has been disclosure under subsection 1125 as the court may direct, notice and a hearing, and such modification is approved.”.
“(2) A person described in subparagraph (A) or (B) shall not be eligible for a disqualification under paragraph (1) unless such person, during any 12-month period beginning on the date of enactment of this Act, shall have been convicted of a felony (as defined in section 3156 of title 18), which under the circumstances, demonstrates that the filing of the case was an abuse of the provisions of this title; or

“(3) if any amount of an interest in property described in subparagraphs (A), (B), (C), and (D) of subsection (p)(1) which exceeds the aggregate $125,000—

“(A) the court determines, after notice and a hearing, that the debtor has been convicted of a felony (as defined in section 3156 of title 18), which under the circumstances, demonstrates that the filing of the case was an abuse of the provisions of this title; or

“(B) the debtor owes a debt arising from—

“(i) any violation of the Federal securities laws (as defined in section 3a(a)(17) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934); any Federal securities laws, or any regulation or order issued under Federal securities laws or State securities laws;

“(ii) fraud, deceit, or manipulation in a fiduciary capacity or in connection with the purchase or sale of any security registered under section 12(b) or 15(d) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 or under section 6 of the Securities Act of 1933;

“(iii) any civil remedy under section 1964 of title 11, United States Code, is amended—

“(A) by striking paragraph (1) and inserting—

“Except as provided in subsection (e)(2), and notwithstanding—

“(B) by striking subsection (e) and inserting the following:

“(i) the district court in which a case under title 11 is commenced or is pending shall have exclusive jurisdiction—

“(1) of all property, wherever located, of the debtor as of the commencement of such case, and of property of the estate; and

“(2) over all claims or causes of action that involve construction of section 323 of title 11, United States Code, or rules relating to disclosure requirements under section 327."

“(B) APPLICABILITY.—This section shall only apply to cases filed after the date of enactment of this Act.

‘‘(2) Before the date of the enactment of this Act, the Director shall, in consultation with the Attorney General, develop and make available a standardized format for the collection of data and a uniform form for submitting data, and shall submit to Congress a report concerning the information collected under subsection (a) that contains an analysis of the information.

‘‘(3) Beginning on the date of the enactment of this Act, the Director shall, in consultation with the Attorney General, develop and make available a standardized format for the collection of data and a uniform form for submitting data, and shall submit to Congress a report concerning the information collected under subsection (a) that contains an analysis of the information.

‘‘(4) Each report referred to in subsection (a) shall be designed (and the requirements as to place and manner of filing shall be established) so as to facilitate compliance by debtors and trustees with the requirements as to place and manner of filing which in the public interest in reasonable and adequate information to evaluate the efficacy and practicality of the Federal bankruptcy system.

‘‘(5) If the Director determines, after consultation with the Attorney General and other appropriate agencies, that a uniform form for filing reports required under section 159 of this title is not necessary to ensure the accuracy, completeness, and expediency of the information required under this section, the Director may make available a standardized format for the collection of data and a uniform form for submitting data, and shall submit to Congress a report concerning the information collected under subsection (a) that contains an analysis of the information.

‘‘(6) The Director shall—

‘‘(A) conduct periodic evaluations of the standardized format prescribed under section 159 of this title, and shall submit to Congress a report concerning the results of such evaluations that contains an analysis of the information collected under subsection (a) that contains an analysis of the information;

‘‘(B) periodically, and under such rules as the Director may prescribe, make the statistics available to the public and to debtors, creditors, and in the public interest in reasthat the debtor is required to provide under sections 521 and 1302 of title 11, United States Code, and, if applicable, section 111 of such title, in cases filed under chapter 7 or 13 of such title in which the debtor is an individual. Such audits shall be in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and performed by independent, certified public accountants, provided that the Attorney General and the Judicial Conference, as appropriate, may develop alternative auditing standards not later than 2 years after the date of enactment of this Act.

(2) PROCEDURES.—Those procedures required by paragraph (1) shall—
(A) describe a method of selecting appropriate qualified persons to contract to perform those audits; and
(B) establish a method of randomly selecting cases to be audited, except that not less than 1 out of every 250 cases in each Federal judicial district shall be selected for audit;
(C) require audits of schedules of income and expenses that reflect greater than average variances from the statistical norm of the district in which the schedules were filed if those variances occur by reason of higher income or expenses than the statistical norm of the district in which the schedules were filed; and
(D) establish procedures for providing, not less frequently than annually, public information concerning the aggregate results of such audits including the percentage of cases, by district, in which a material misstatement of income or expenditures is reported.

(b) AMENDMENTS.—Section 506 of title 28, United States Code, is amended—
(1) in subsection (a), by striking paragraph (6) and inserting the following:
"(6) and inserting the following:
"(6) make such reports as the Attorney General directs, including the results of audits performed under section 603(a) of the Bankruptcy Abuse Prevention and Consumer Protection Act of 2005;"; and
(2) by adding at the end the following:

(a) Filing of Prepetition Tax Returns Required for Plan Confirmation.—Section 1325(a) of title 11, United States Code, as amended by sections 162, 213, and 306, is amended as follows:

(1) ADDITIONAL TIME PERMITTED FOR FILING TAX RETURNS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Subchapter I of chapter 13 of title 11, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following:

“(a) Not later than the date before the date on which the meeting of the creditors is first scheduled to be held under section 341(a), if the debtor was required to file a tax return under applicable nonbankruptcy law, the debtor shall file with appropriate tax authorities all tax returns for all taxable periods ending during the 4-year period ending on the date of the filing of the petition.
‘(b)(1) Subject to paragraph (2), if the tax returns required by subsection (a) have not been filed by the date on which the meeting of creditors is first scheduled to be held under this chapter, the trustee may make an open that meeting for a reasonable period of time to allow the debtor an additional period of time to file any unfiled returns, but such additional period of time shall not extend beyond—

‘(A) for any return that is past due as of the date of the filing of the petition, the date that is 120 days after the date of that meeting; or ‘(B) for any return that is not past due as of the date of the filing of the petition, the later of—

‘(i) the date that is 120 days after the date of that meeting; or ‘(ii) the date on which the return is due under the last automatic extension of time for filing that return to which the debtor is entitled, and for which request is timely made, in accordance with applicable nonbankruptcy law.

‘(2) After notice and a hearing, and order entered before the tolling of any applicable filing period determined under this subsection, the court may extend the filing period established by the trustee under this subsection for—

‘(A) a period of not more than 30 days for returns described in paragraph (1); and ‘(B) a period not to extend after the applicable extended due date for a return described in paragraph (1).

‘(c) For purposes of this section, the term ‘return’ includes a return prepared pursuant to subsection (a) or (b) of section 6020 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, or a similar State or local law, or a written stipulation to a judgment or a final order entered by a nonbankruptcy tribunal.

CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—The table of sections for subchapter I of chapter 13 of title 11, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following:

SEC. 718. SETOFF OF TAX REFUNDS.

Section 362(b) of title 11, United States Code, as amended by sections 224, 303, 311, and 401, is amended by inserting after paragraph (25) the following:

‘(26) under subsection (a), of the setoff under applicable nonbankruptcy law of an income tax refund, by a governmental unit, with respect to a taxable period that ended before the date of the order for relief against an income tax liability for a taxable period that also ended before the date of the order for relief, for purposes of any case in which the setoff of an income tax refund is not permitted under applicable nonbankruptcy law because of a pending action to determine the amount or legality of such liability, the governmental unit may hold the refund pending the resolution of the action, unless the court, on the motion of the trustee and after notice and a hearing, grants the taxing authority adequate protection (within the meaning of section 3621) for the secured claim of such authority in the setoff under section 506(a).

SEC. 719. SPECIAL PROVISIONS RELATED TO THE TREATMENT OF STATE AND LOCAL TAXES.

(a) In general.—

(1) SPECIAL PROVISIONS.—Section 366 of title 11, United States Code, is amended to read as follows:

‘§346. Special provisions related to the treatment of State and local taxes

‘(a) Whenever the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 provides that a separate taxable estate is created in a case concerning a debtor under this title, and the income, gain, loss, deductions, and credits of such estate shall be taxed to or claimed by the estate or entity that ended before the date of the order for relief under this title, any gain or loss resulting from a distribution of property from such partnership, or any distributive share of any income, gain, loss, deduction, or credit of a partner or member that is distributed, or considered distributed, from such partnership, after the commencement of the case, is treated as a distribution of the proceeds of any payment or for purposes of any State or local law imposing a tax on or measured by income, the taxable period of a case under title 11, United States Code, that also ended before the date of the order for relief under this title shall terminate only if and to the extent that the taxable period of such debtor terminates under the Internal Revenue Code of 1986.

‘(b) For purposes of any State or local law imposing a tax on or measured by income, the taxable period of a case under title 11, United States Code, that also ended before the date of the order for relief under this title shall be subject to tax in accordance with subsection (a).

‘(c) Whenever a tax is imposed pursuant to a State or local law imposing a tax on or measured by income pursuant to subsection (a) or (b), such tax shall be imposed at rates generally applicable to the same types of entities under such State or local law.

‘(d) The trustee shall treat any payment from any payment of claims for wages, salaries, commissions, dividends, interest, or other payments, or collect, any amount required to be withheld or collected under any State or local tax law, and shall pay such withheld or collected amount to the appropriate governmental unit at the time and in the manner required by such tax law, and with the same priority as the claim from which such amount was withheld or collected was paid.

‘(1) The extent that any State or local tax law imposing a tax on or measured by income provides for the carryover of any tax attribute from one taxable period to a subsequent taxable period, such tax attribute shall be treated as a property of the estate for purposes of any State and local law imposing a tax on or measured by income and may not be taxed to or claimed by the debtor and may not be taxable to or claimed by the debtor.

‘(2) The proceeding shall not apply if the case is dismissed. The trustee shall make tax returns of income required under any such State or local law.

‘(b) Whenever the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 provides that no separate taxable estate is created in a case concerning a debtor under this title, and the income, gain, loss, deductions, and credits of an estate shall be taxed to or claimed by the debtor, such income, gain, loss, deductions, and credits shall be taxed to or claimed by the debtor under a State or local law imposing a tax on or measured by income and may not be taxed to or claimed by the estate.

‘(c) With respect to a partnership or any entity treated as a partnership under title 11, United States Code, is amended by inserting before the period at the end the following:

‘‘(A) applicable State or local tax law provides for a carryback in the case of the debtor, ‘‘(B) the same or a similar tax attribute may be carried back by the estate to such a taxable period of the debtor under the Internal Revenue Code of 1986.

(2) Whenever the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 provides that the amount excluded from gross income in respect of the discharge of indebtedness in a case under this title shall be applied to reduce the tax attributes of the debtor or the estate, a similar reduction shall be made under any State or local law imposing a tax on or measured by income to the extent such State or local law recognizes such attributes. Such State or local law may also provide for the reduction of other attributes to the extent that the full amount of income from the discharge of indebtedness has not been applied.

As used in this section and section 505, the time and manner of filing tax returns and the items of income, gain, loss, deduction, and credit of any taxpayer shall be determined under applicable nonbankruptcy law.

(2) For Federal tax purposes, the provisions of section 728 shall be subject to the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 and other applicable Federal nonbankruptcy law.

(2) Clerical Amendment.—The table of sections at the beginning of chapter 15 of title 11, United States Code, is amended by striking the item relating to section 346 and inserting the following:

"346. Special provisions related to the treatment of tax returns and tax liabilities of a debtor in a case under this chapter.

(b) Conforming Amendments.—Title 11 of the United States Code is amended—

(1) by striking section 728;

(2) in the table of sections for chapter 7 by striking the item relating to section 728;

(3) in section 1146—

(A) by striking subsections (a) and (b); and

(B) by redesignating subsections (c) and (d) as subsections (b) and (c), respectively;

and

(4) in section 1231—

(A) by striking subsections (a) and (b); and

(B) by redesignating subsections (c) and (d) as subsections (b) and (c), respectively.

SEC. 720. DISMISSAL FOR FAILURE TO TIMELY FILE TAX RETURNS.

Section 521 of title 11, United States Code, as amended by sections 109(b), 222, 305, 315, and 316, is amended by adding at the end the following:

"(j) Notwithstanding any other provision of this title, if the debtor fails to file a tax return that becomes due after the commencement of the case or to properly obtain an extension of the due date for filing such return, the bankruptcy authority may request that the court enter an order converting or dismissing the case.

(2) If the debtor does not file the required return or obtain the extension referred to in paragraph (1) within 90 days after a request is filed by the taxing authority under that paragraph, the court shall convert or dismiss the case, whichever is in the best interests of creditors and the estate."

TITLE VIII—ANCILLARY AND OTHER CROSS-BORDER CASES

SEC. 801. AMENDMENT TO ADD CHAPTER 15 TO TITLE 11, UNITED STATES CODE.

(a) In General.—Title 11, United States Code, is amended by inserting after chapter 13 the following:

'1523. Actions to avoid acts detrimental to the debtor.

'1524. Intervention by a foreign representative or permitted under any applicable State insurance law or regulation for the benefit of claim holders in the United States.

'SUBCHAPTER I—GENERAL PROVISIONS

'1502. Definitions

'For the purposes of this chapter, the term—

' (1) "debtor" means an entity that is the subject of a foreign proceeding;

' (2) "establishment" means any place where the debtor carries on a transitory economic activity;

' (3) "foreign court" means a judicial or other authority competent to control or supervise a foreign proceeding;

' (4) "foreign main proceeding" means a foreign proceeding pending in the country where the debtor has its center of its main interests;

' (5) "foreign nonmain proceeding" means a foreign proceeding other than a foreign main proceeding, pending in a country where the debtor has an establishment or a transitory economic activity;

' (6) "trustee" includes a trustee, a debtor in possession in a case under any chapter of title 11, or a debtor under chapter 9 of title 11;

' (7) "recognition" means the entry of an order granting recognition of a foreign main proceeding or foreign nonmain proceeding under this chapter; and

' (8) "within the territorial jurisdiction of the United States" means the territorial jurisdiction of the United States, when used with reference to property of a debtor, refers to tangible property located within the territory of the United States and intangible property enjoyed under applicable bankruptcy law to be located within that territory, including any property subject to attachment or garnishment that may be levied or garnished by an action in a Federal or State court in the United States.
§ 1503. International obligations of the United States

"To the extent that this chapter conflicts with an obligation of the United States arising out of any treaty or other form of agreement between the United States and another country, or with any treaty or other form of agreement between two or more other countries, the requirements of the treaty or agreement prevail.

§ 1504. Commencement of ancillary case

A case under this chapter is commenced by the filing of a petition for recognition of a foreign proceeding under section 1515.

§ 1505. Authorization to act in a foreign country

A person or another entity (including an examiner) may be authorized by the court to act in a foreign country on behalf of an estate created under section 541. An entity authorized to act under this section may act in any way permitted by the applicable foreign law.

§ 1506. Public policy exception

"Nothing in this chapter prevents the court from refusing to take an action governed by this chapter if the action would be manifestly contrary to the public policy of the United States.

§ 1507. Additional assistance

(a) A foreign representative may request additional assistance under this title or under other laws of the United States.

(b) In determining whether to provide additional assistance under this title or under other laws of the United States, the court shall consider whether such additional assistance, consistent with the principles of comity, will reasonably assure—

(1) the advancement of all holders of claims against or interests in the debtor's property;

(2) protection of claim holders in the United States against prejudice and inconvenience in the processing of claims in such foreign proceeding;

(3) prevention of preferential or fraudulent dispossession of property of the debtor;

(4) distribution of proceeds of the debtor's property substantially in accordance with the order prescribed by this title; and

(5) if appropriate, the provision of an opportunity for the individual that such foreign proceeding concerns.

§ 1508. Interpretation

"In interpreting this chapter, the court shall consider its international origin, and the necessity for application of similar statutes adopted by foreign jurisdictions.

SUBCHAPTER II—ACCESS OF FOREIGN REPRESENTATIVES AND CREDITORS TO THE COURT

§ 1509. Right of direct access

(a) A foreign representative may commence a case under section 1505 by filing directly a petition for recognition of a foreign proceeding under section 1515.

(b) If the court grants recognition under section 1515, and subject to any limitations that the court may impose consistent with the policy of this chapter—

(1) the foreign representative has the capacity to sue and be sued in a court in the United States;

(2) the foreign representative may apply directly to a court in the United States for appropriate relief in that court; and

(3) a court in the United States shall grant comity or cooperation to the foreign representative.

(c) A request for comity or cooperation by a foreign representative in a case in the United States other than the court which granted recognition shall be accompanied by a certified copy of an order granting recognition under section 1517.

(d) If the court denies recognition under this chapter, the court may issue any appropriate order necessary to prevent the foreign representative from obtaining comity or cooperation in the United States.

(1) Whether or not the court grants recognition, and subject to sections 306 and 1510, a foreign representative is subject to applicable bankruptcy indicia.

(2) Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, the failure of a foreign representative to commence a case or to obtain recognition of this chapter does not affect any right the foreign representative may have to sue in a court in the United States to collect or recover a claim which is the property of the debtor.

§ 1510. Limited jurisdiction

"The sole fact that a foreign representative files a petition under section 1515 does not subject the foreign representative to the jurisdiction of any court in the United States for any other purpose.

§ 1511. Commencement of case under section 301 or 303

(a) Upon recognition, a foreign representative may commence

(1) an involuntary case under section 303; or

(2) a voluntary case under section 301 or 302, if the foreign proceeding is a foreign main proceeding.

(b) The petition commencing a case under subsection (a) must be accompanied by a certified copy of the order granting recognition.

(c) The court may consider that, under the circumstances, the failure of a foreign representative to commence a case under subsection (a) prior to such commencement is manifestly contrary to the public policy of the United States.

§ 1512. Participation of a foreign representative in a case under this title "Upon recognition of a foreign proceeding, the foreign representative in the recognized proceeding is entitled to participate as a party in interest in a case regarding the debtor under this title.

§ 1513. Access of foreign creditors to a case under this title

(a) Foreign creditors have the same rights regarding the commencement of, and participation in, a case under this title as domestic creditors.

(b) Subsection (a) does not change or codify present law as to the priority of claims under section 507 or 726, except that the claim of a foreign creditor under those sections shall not be given a lower priority than that of general unsecured claims without priority solely because the holder of such claim is a foreign creditor.

§ 1514. Notification to foreign creditors concerning a case under this title

(a) Whenever in a case under this title notice is to be given creditors generally or to any class or category of creditors, such notice shall also be given to the known creditors generally or, to creditors in the notification, the court shall not have addressed in the United States. The court may order that appropriate steps be taken with a view to notifying any creditor whose address is not yet known.

(b) Such notification to creditors with foreign addresses described in subsection (a) shall be given individually unless the court considers that, under the circumstances, some other form of notification would be more appropriate. No letter or other formality is required.

(c) When a notification of commencement of a case is to be given to foreign creditors, such notification shall include the time period for filing proofs of claim and specify the place for filing such proofs of claim.

(d) In determining whether to provide additional assistance under this title or under other laws of the United States, the court shall consider whether such additional assistance under this title or under other laws of the United States.

(e) In determining whether to provide additional assistance under this title or under other laws of the United States, the court shall consider whether such additional assistance under this title or under other laws of the United States.

(f) In determining whether to provide additional assistance under this title or under other laws of the United States, the court shall consider whether such additional assistance under this title or under other laws of the United States.

§ 1516. Presumptions concerning recognition

(a) If the decision or certificate referred to in section 1515(b) indicates that the foreign proceeding is a foreign proceeding and that the person or body is a foreign representative, the court is entitled to so presume.

(b) The court is entitled to presume that documents submitted in support of the petition for recognition are authentic, whether or not they have been legalized.

(c) In the absence of evidence to the contrary, the debtor's registered office or habitual residence in the case of an individual, is presumed to be the center of the debtor's main interests.

§ 1517. Order granting recognition

(a) Subject to section 1506, after notice and a hearing, an order recognizing a foreign proceeding shall be entered if—

(1) such foreign proceeding for which recognition is sought is a foreign main proceeding or foreign nonmain proceeding within the meaning of section 1502;

(2) the foreign representative applying for recognition is a person or body; and

(3) the petition meets the requirements of section 1515.

“(b) Such foreign proceeding shall be recognized—
“(1) as a foreign main proceeding if it is pending in the country where the debtor has the center of its main interests or the property of the debtor is located; and
“(2) as a foreign nonmain proceeding if the debtor has an establishment within the meaning of section 1562 in the foreign country where it is pending.

“(c) A petition for recognition of a foreign proceeding shall be decided upon at the earliest possible time. Entry of an order recognizing or rejecting a proceeding constitutes recognition under this chapter.

“(d) The provisions of this subchapter do not prejudice the modification or termination of recognition if it is shown that the grounds for granting it were fully or partially lacking or have ceased to exist, but in considering the court shall give due weight to possible prejudice to parties that have relied upon the order granting recognition. A case under this chapter may be closed in the manner prescribed under section 350.

§ 1518. Subsequent information

“From the time of filing the petition for recognition of a foreign proceeding, the foreign representative shall file with the court promptly a notice of change of status concerning—

“(1) any substantial change in the status of such foreign proceeding or of the status of the foreign representative’s appointment; and

“(2) any other foreign proceeding regarding the debtor that becomes known to the foreign representative.

§ 1519. Relief that may be granted upon filing petition for recognition

“(a) From the time of filing a petition for recognition until the court rules on the petition, the court may, at the request of the foreign representative, where relief is urgently needed to protect the assets of the debtor or the interests of the creditors, grant relief of a provisional nature, including—

“(1) staying execution against the debtor’s assets;

“(2) enjoining any other person, including an examiner, authorized by the court; and

“(3) suspending the right to transfer, encumber, or otherwise dispose of any assets of the debtor to the extent this right has not been stayed under section 1520(a); and

“(4) providing for the examination of witnesses, the taking of evidence or the delivery of information concerning the debtor’s assets, rights, obligations or liabilities to the extent they have not been stayed under section 1520(a); and

“(5) enjoining the administration or realization of all or part of the debtor’s assets located in the United States to the foreign representative or another person authorized by the court, including an examiner, in order to protect the value of assets that by their nature or because of other circumstances, are perishable, susceptible to devaluation or otherwise in jeopardy; and

“(b) Unless extended under section 1525(a)(6), the section terminates when the petition for recognition is granted.

“(c) It is a ground for denial of relief under this section that such relief would interfere with the administration of a foreign main proceeding.

“(d) The court may not enjoin a police or regulatory act of a governmental unit, in-cluding a criminal action or proceeding, under this section.

“(e) The standards, procedures, and limitations applicable to an injunction shall apply to relief under this section.

“(f) The exercise of rights not subject to the stay set out in section 1520(a) pursuant to paragraph (6), (7), (17), or (27) of section 362(b) or pursuant to section 362(n) shall not be stayed by any order of a court or administrative agency in any proceeding under this chapter.

§ 1520. Effects of recognition of a foreign main proceeding

“(a) Upon recognition of a foreign proceeding as a foreign main proceeding, sections 361 and 362 apply with respect to the debtor and the property of the debtor that is within the territorial jurisdiction of the United States;

“(b) sections 363, 549, and 552 apply to a transfer of an interest of the debtor in property within the territorial jurisdiction of the United States to the same extent that the sections would apply to property of an estate;

“(c) unless the court orders otherwise, the foreign representative may operate the debtor’s business and may exercise the rights and powers of a trustee under and to the extent provided by sections 363 and 552 and

“(d) section 552 applies to property of the debtor that is within the territorial jurisdiction of the United States.

“(b) Subsections (a) through (d) do not affect the right to commence an individual action or proceeding in a foreign country to the extent necessary to preserve a claim against the debtor or the property of the debtor.

“(c) Subsection (a) does not affect the right of a foreign representative or an entity to file a petition commencing a case under this subchapter to file claims or take other proper actions in such a case.

§ 1521. Relief that may be granted upon recognition

“(a) Upon recognition of a foreign proceeding, whether main or nonmain, where necessary to effectuate the purpose of this chapter and to protect the assets of the debtor or the interests of creditors, the court may, at the request of the foreign representative, grant any appropriate relief, including—

“(1) staying the commencement or continuation of an individual action or proceeding concerning the debtor’s assets, rights, obligations or liabilities to the extent they have not been stayed under section 1520(a); and

“(2) staying execution against the debtor’s assets to the extent it has not been stayed under section 1520(a);

“(3) suspending the right to transfer, encumber or otherwise dispose of any assets of the debtor to the extent this right has not been suspended under section 1520(a);

“(4) providing for the examination of witnesses, the taking of evidence or the delivery of information concerning the debtor’s assets, rights, obligations or liabilities to the extent they have not been stayed under section 1520(a); and

“(5) enjoining the administration or realization of all or part of the debtor’s assets located in the United States to the foreign representative or another person, including an examiner, authorized by the court;

“(6) extending relief granted under section 1519(a) and

“(7) granting any additional relief that may be available to a trustee, except for relief available under sections 522, 544, 545, 546, 548, 550, and 724(a).

“(b) Upon recognition of a foreign proceeding, whether main or nonmain, the court may, at the request of the foreign representative, entrust the distribution of all or part of the debtor’s assets located in the United States to the foreign representative or another person, including an examiner, authorized by the court, provided that the court is satisfied that the interests of creditors in the United States are sufficiently protected.

“(c) If in granting relief under this section to a representative of a foreign nonmain proceeding, the court must be satisfied that the relief relates to assets that, under the law of the United States, should be administered in the foreign nonmain proceeding or concerns information required in that proceeding.

“(d) The court may not enjoin a police or regulatory act of a governmental unit, including a criminal action or proceeding, under this section.

“(e) The standards, procedures, and limitations applicable to an injunction shall apply to relief under paragraphs (1), (2), (3), and (6) of subsection (a).

“(f) The exercise of rights not subject to the stay arising under section 362(a) pursuant to paragraph (6), (7), (17), or (27) of section 362(b) or pursuant to section 362(n) shall not be stayed by any order of a court or administrative agency in any proceeding under this chapter.

“§ 1522. Protection of creditors and other interested persons

“(a) The court may grant relief under section 1519 or 1521, or may modify or terminate relief under subsection (c), only if the interests of the creditors and other interested entities, including the debtor, are sufficiently protected.

“(b) The court may subject relief granted under section 1519 or 1521, or the operation of a court’s business under section 1520(a), to conditions it considers appropriate, including the giving of security or the filing of a bond.

“(c) The court may, at the request of the foreign representative or an entity affected by relief granted under section 1519 or 1521, or at its own motion, modify or terminate such relief.

“(d) Section 1104(d) shall apply to the appointment of an examiner under this chapter. Any examiner shall comply with the qualification requirements imposed on a trustee by section 322.

“§ 1523. Actions to avoid acts detrimental to creditors

“(a) Upon recognition of a foreign proceeding, the foreign representative may intervene in any proceedings in a State or Federal court in the United States in which the debtor has a present or future interest.

“SUBCHAPTER IV—COOPERATION WITH FOREIGN COURTS AND FOREIGN REPRESENTATIVES

“§ 1525. Cooperation and direct communication between the court and foreign courts or foreign representatives

“(a) Consistent with section 1501, the court shall cooperate to the maximum extent possible with a foreign court or a foreign representative, either directly or through the trustee.

“(b) The court is entitled to communicate directly with, or to request information or assistance directly from, a foreign court or a foreign representative, subject to the rights of a party in interest to notice and participation.

“§ 1526. Cooperation and direct communication between the trustee and foreign courts or foreign representatives to communicate directly with a foreign court or a foreign representative.

“(a) Consistent with section 1501, the trustee or other person, including an examiner, authorized by the court, the United States, should be administered in the foreign nonmain proceeding.

“CONGRESSIONAL RECORD—HOUSE H2027

§ 1527. Forms of cooperation

“Cooperation referred to in sections 1525 and 1526 may be implemented by any appropriate means, including—

(1) appointment of a person or body, including an examiner, to act at the direction of the court;

(2) communication of information by any means considered appropriate by the court;

(3) coordination of the administration and supervision of the debtor’s assets and affairs;

(4) adoption or implementation of agreements concerning the coordination of proceedings; and

(5) coordination of concurrent proceedings regarding the same debtor.

§ 1526. Commencement of a case under this title and recognition of a foreign main proceeding

“After recognition of a foreign main proceeding, a case under another chapter of this title may be commenced only if the debtor has assets within the United States. The effects of such case shall be restricted to the assets of the debtor that are within the territorial jurisdiction of the United States and, to the extent consistent with the relief granted, to the administration and supervision of the debtor’s assets and affairs.

(3) coordination of the administration and supervision of the debtor’s assets and affairs;

(4) adoption or implementation of agreements concerning the coordination of proceedings; and

(5) coordination of concurrent proceedings regarding the same debtor.

SUBCHAPTER V—CONCURRENT PROCEEDINGS

§ 1528. Commencement of a case under this title and recognition of a foreign main proceeding

“After recognition of a foreign main proceeding, a case under another chapter of this title may be commenced only if the debtor has assets within the United States. The effects of such case shall be restricted to the assets of the debtor that are within the territorial jurisdiction of the United States and, to the extent consistent with the relief granted, to the administration and supervision of the debtor’s assets and affairs.

(3) coordination of the administration and supervision of the debtor’s assets and affairs;

(4) adoption or implementation of agreements concerning the coordination of proceedings; and

(5) coordination of concurrent proceedings regarding the same debtor.

SUBCHAPTER V—CONCURRENT PROCEEDINGS

§ 1528. Commencement of a case under this title and recognition of a foreign main proceeding

“After recognition of a foreign main proceeding, a case under another chapter of this title may be commenced only if the debtor has assets within the United States. The effects of such case shall be restricted to the assets of the debtor that are within the territorial jurisdiction of the United States and, to the extent consistent with the relief granted, to the administration and supervision of the debtor’s assets and affairs.

(3) coordination of the administration and supervision of the debtor’s assets and affairs;

(4) adoption or implementation of agreements concerning the coordination of proceedings; and

(5) coordination of concurrent proceedings regarding the same debtor.

§ 1529. Coordination of a case under this title and a foreign proceeding

“If a foreign proceeding and a case under another chapter of this title are pending concurrently regarding the same debtor, the court shall coordinate cooperation and coordination under sections 1525, 1526, and 1527, and the following shall apply:

(1) If the case in the United States pending at the time the petition for recognition of such foreign proceeding is filed—

(A) any relief granted under section 1519 or 1521 must be consistent with the relief granted in the case in the United States; and

(B) section 1520 does not apply even if such foreign proceeding is recognized as a foreign main proceeding.

(2) If a case in the United States under this title commences after recognition, or after the liquidation of the petition for recognition of such foreign proceeding—

(A) any relief in effect under section 1519 or 1521 shall be reviewed by the court and shall be modified or terminated if inconsistent with the case in the United States; and

(B) if such foreign proceeding is a foreign main proceeding, the stay and suspension referred to in section 1520(a) shall be modified or terminated if inconsistent with the relief granted in the case in the United States.

(3) In granting, extending, or modifying relief granted to a representative of a foreign nonmain proceeding, the court must be satisfied that the relief relates to assets that, under the laws of the United States, should be administered in the foreign nonmain proceeding or concerns information required in that proceeding.

(4) If the court determines that cooperation and coordination under sections 1528 and 1529, the court may grant any of the relief authorized under section 365.

§ 1530. Coordination of more than 1 foreign proceeding

“In matters referred to in section 1501, with respect to more than 1 foreign proceeding regarding the debtor, the court shall seek cooperation and coordination under sections 1525, 1526, and 1527, and the following shall apply:

(1) Any relief granted under section 1519 or 1521 to a representative of a foreign nonmain proceeding after recognition of a foreign main proceeding must be consistent with the foreign nonmain proceeding.

(2) If a foreign main proceeding is recognized after recognition, or after the filing of a petition for recognition, of a foreign nonmain proceeding, any relief in effect under section 1519 or 1521 shall be reviewed by the court and shall be modified or terminated if inconsistent with the foreign main proceeding.

(3) If, after recognition of a foreign nonmain proceeding, another foreign nonmain proceeding is recognized, the court shall grant, modify, or terminate relief for the purpose of facilitating coordination of the proceedings.

§ 1531. Presumption of insolvency based on recognition of a foreign main proceeding

“In the absence of evidence to the contrary, recognition of a foreign main proceeding is, for the purpose of commencing a proceeding under section 303, proof that the debtor is generally not paying its debts as such debts become due.

§ 1532. Rule of payment in concurrent proceedings

“Without prejudice to secured claims or rights in rem, a creditor who has received payment with respect to its claim in a foreign proceeding pursuant to a law relating to insolvency may not receive a payment for the same claim in a case under any other chapter of this title regarding the debtor, so long as the payment to other creditors of the same class is proportionately less than the payment the creditor has already received.

(2) does not include any repurchase obligation under a participation in a commercial mortgage loan unless the Board determines by regulation, resolution, or order to include any such participation in the meaning of such term;

(2) means any combination of agreements or transactions referred to in subclauses (I) and (IV);

(2) means any agreement, including related terms, which provides for the transfer of one or more certificates of deposit, mortgage-related securities or securities that are direct obligations of, or that are fully guaranteed by, the United States or any agency of the United States against the transfer of funds, or any other similar agreement;

(2) means a master agreement that provides for an agreement or transaction referred to in subclause (I), (III), or (IV), together with all supplements to any such master agreement, without regard to whether the master agreement provides for an agreement or transaction that is not a repurchase agreement under this clause, except that the master agreement shall be considered to be a repurchase agreement under this subclause only with respect to each agreement or transaction under the master agreement that is referred to in subclause (I), (III), or (IV); and

(2) means any security agreement or arrangement or other credit enhancement related to any agreement or transaction referred to in subclause (I), (II), (III), or (IV), including any guarantee or reimbursement obligation in connection with any agreement or transaction referred to in any such subclause.

For purposes of this clause, the term ‘qualified foreign government security’ means a security that is a direct obligation of, or that is fully guaranteed by, the central government of a member of the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (as determined by regulation or order adopted by the appropriate Federal banking authority)."

(3) DEFINITION OF SWAP AGREEMENT.—(1) FDIC-INSURED DEPOSITORY INSTITUTIONS.—Section 11(e)(8)(D)(v) of the Federal Deposit Insurance Act (12 U.S.C. 1821(e)(8)(D)(v)) is amended to read as follows:

The term ‘qualified foreign government security’ means a security that is a direct obligation of, or that is fully guaranteed by, the central government of a member of the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (as determined by regulation or order adopted by the appropriate Federal banking authority)."
(vi) Swap agreement.—The term ‘swap agreement’ means—

(I) any agreement, including the terms and conditions incorporated by reference in any such agreement, which is an interest rate swap, option, future, or forward agreement, including a rate floor, rate cap, rate collar, cross-currency rate swap, and basis swap; a forward agreement or agreement tomorrow, next, forward, or other foreign exchange or precious metals agreement; a currency swap, option, future, or forward agreement; an equity index or equity swap, option, future, or forward agreement; a debt index or debt swap, option, future, or forward agreement; a total return, credit spread or credit swap, option, future, or forward agreement; a commodity index or commodity swap, option, future, or forward agreement; or a weather swap, weather derivative, or weather option;

(II) any agreement or transaction that is similar to any other agreement or transaction referred to in this clause and that is of a type that has been, is presently, or in the future becomes, the subject of recurrent dealings in the swap markets (including terms and conditions incorporated by reference in such agreement) and that is a forward, swap, futures, or option on one or more rates, currencies, commodities, equity securities or other equity instruments, debt securities or other debt instruments, quantitative or qualitative measures associated with an occurrence, extent of an occurrence, or contingency associated with a financial, commercial, or economic consequence, or economic or financial risk or value;

(III) any combination of agreements or transactions referred to in this clause;

(V) a master agreement that provides for an agreement or transaction referred to in subclause (I), (II), (III), or (IV), together with all supplements to any such master agreement, without regard to whether the master agreement contains an agreement or transaction that is not a swap agreement under this clause, except that the master agreement shall be considered to be a swap agreement only with respect to each agreement or transaction under the master agreement that is referred to in subclauses (I), (II) and (III).

(VI) any security agreement or arrangement or other credit enhancement related to any agreements or transactions referred to in subclause (I), (II), (III), (IV) or (V), including a guarantee or reimbursement obligation in connection with any agreement or transaction referred to in any such subclause.

Such term is applicable for purposes of this subsection only and shall not be construed or applied so as to challenge or affect the characterization, definition, or treatment of any swap agreement, other agreement, regulation, or rule, including the Securities Act of 1933, the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935, the Trust Indenture Act of 1939, the Investment Company Act of 1940, the Investment Advisers Act of 1940, the Securities Investor Protection Act of 1970, the Commodity Exchange Act, the Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act, and the Legal Certainty for Bank Products Act of 2000.

Sec. 903. Amendments relating to transfers of qualified financial contracts.

(a) FDIC-insured depository institutions.—

(1) Transfers of qualified financial contracts to financial institutions.—Section 11(e)(12)(A) of the Federal Deposit Insurance Act (12 U.S.C. 1821(e)(12)(A)) is amended to read as follows:

“(A) in general.—In making any transfer of assets or liabilities of a depository institution in default which includes any qualified financial contract, the conservator or receiver for such depository institution shall either—

(i) transfer to one financial institution, other than a financial institution for which a conservator, receiver, trustee in bankruptcy, or other legal custodian has been appointed or which is otherwise the subject of a bankruptcy or insolvency proceeding—

(1) all qualified financial contracts between any person or any affiliate of such person and the conservator or receiver for such depository institution; or

(2) all other credit enhancements for any contract described in subclause (I) or any claim described in subclause (II) or (III) under any such contract; or

(ii) transfer none of the qualified financial contracts, claims, property or other credit enhancement referred to in clause (i) (with respect to such person and any affiliate of such person).

(B) Transfer to foreign bank, foreign financial institution, or agency of an agency of an agency of the United States Government—In transferring any qualified financial contracts and related claims and property under subparagraph (A)(i), the conservator or receiver for the depository institution or the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation shall make such transfer only if the depository institution or the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation has taken steps reasonably calculated to accept the transferee as a member by virtue of the transfer.

(C) Transfer of contracts subject to the rules of a clearing organization.—In transferring any qualified financial contract and related claims, property, and credit enhancements pursuant to subparagraph (A)(i) and subject to the rules of a clearing organization, the clearing organization shall not be required to accept the transferee as a member by virtue of the transfer.

(D) Definitions.—For purposes of this paragraph, the term ‘financial institution’ means a broker or dealer, a depository institution, a futures commission merchant, or any other institution, as determined by the Corporation by regulation to be a financial institution, and the term ‘conservator, receiver, trustee in bankruptcy, or other legal custodian’ has the same meaning as in section 402 of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation Improvement Act of 1991.

(b) Notice to qualified financial contract counterparties.—Section 11(e)(10)(A) of the Federal Deposit Insurance Act (12 U.S.C. 1821(e)(10)(A)) is amended by inserting “or the exercise of rights or powers by” after “the appointment of”.

(c) Rights against receiver and conservator and treatment of bridge banks.—Section 11(e)(10) of the Federal Deposit Insurance Act (12 U.S.C. 1821(e)(10)) is amended—

(A) by redesignating subparagraph (B) as subparagraph (D); and

(B) by inserting after subparagraph (A) the following new subparagraphs:

“(B) certain rights not enforceable.—

(i) Receivership.—A person who is a party to a qualified financial contract with an insured depository institution may not exercise any right that such person has to terminate, liquidate, or net such contract under paragraph (8)(A) of this subsection or section 403 or 404 of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation Improvement Act of 1991, solely by reason of or incidental to the appointment of a receiver for the depository institution (or the insolvency or financial condition of the depository institution for which the receiver has been appointed)

(ii) After the person has received notice that the contract has been transferred pursuant to paragraph (9)(A).

(iii) Conservatorship.—A person who is a party to a qualified financial contract with an insured depository institution may not exercise any right that such person has to terminate, liquidate, or net such contract under paragraph (8)(E) of this subsection or section 403 or 404 of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation Improvement Act of 1991, solely by reason of or incidental to the appointment of a conservator for the depository institution (or the insolvency or financial condition of the depository institution for which the conservator has been appointed).

(iv) Notice.—For purposes of this paragraph, the Corporation as receiver or conservator of an insured depository institution shall be deemed to have notified a person who is a party to a qualified financial contract with such depository institution if the Corporation has taken steps reasonably calculated to provide notice to such person by the time specified in subparagraph (A).

(C) Treatment of bridge banks.—The following institutions shall not be considered to be financial institutions for purposes of this section:

(i) A bridge bank.
"(i) A depository institution organized by the Corporation, for which a conservator is appointed either—

"(I) immediately upon the organization of the institution; or

"(II) at the time of a purchase and assumption transaction between the depository institution and the Corporation as receiver for a depository institution in default.

(b) INSURED CREDIT UNIONS.—

(1) TRANSFERS OF QUALIFIED FINANCIAL CONTRACTS.—Section 207(c)(9) of the Federal Credit Union Act (12 U.S.C. 1787(c)(9)) is amended to read as follows:

"(9) TRANSFER OF QUALIFIED FINANCIAL CONTRACTS.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—In making any transfer of assets or liabilities of a credit union in default or in process of liquidation, includes any qualified financial contract, the conservator or liquidating agent for such credit union shall either—

(i) transfer to 1 financial institution, other than a financial institution for which a conservator, receiver, trustee in bankruptcy, or other legal custodian has been appointed or which is otherwise the subject of a bankruptcy or receivership proceeding;

(ii) all qualified financial contracts between any person or any affiliate of such person and any affiliate of such person.

(ii) TRANSFER OF CONTRACTS SUBJECT TO NETTING.—In transferring any qualified financial contracts and related claims and property under subparagraph (A)(i), the conservator or liquidating agent for the credit union institution shall—

(A) by redesigning subparagraph (B) as subparagraph (D); and

(B) inserting after subparagraph (A) the following new subparagraph:

"(B) CERTAIN RIGHTS NOT ENFORCEABLE.—

"(1) LIQUIDATION.—A person who is a party to a qualified financial contract with an insured credit union may not exercise any right that such person has to terminate, liquidate, or net such contract under paragraph (4)(A)(i) of this subsection or section 403 or 404 of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation Improvement Act of 1991, solely by reason of or incidental to the appointment of a liquidating agent for the credit union institution (or the insolvency or financial condition of the credit union for which the liquidating agent has been appointed) or, if the liquidating agent is a financial institution, the liquidating agent shall notify any person who is a party to such contract of such transfer by 5:00 p.m. (eastern time) on the business day following the date of the appointment of the liquidating agent; or

(ii) after the person has received notice that the contract has been transferred pursuant to paragraph (9)(A).

"(ii) CONSERVATORSHIP.—A person who is a party to a qualified financial contract with an insured financial institution shall not be deemed to have notified a person who is a party to such contract of such transfer by 5:00 p.m. (eastern time) on the business day following the date of the appointment of the conservator for the credit union institution (or the insolvency or financial condition of the credit union for which the conservator has been appointed).

"(D) DEFINITIONS.—For purposes of this paragraph—

"(i) the term ‘financial institution’ means a broker or dealer, a depository institution, a futures commission merchant, a credit union, any other institution, or any affiliate of such institution, as determined by the Board by regulation to be a financial institution; and

"(ii) the term ‘clearing organization’ has the same meaning as in section 402 of the Federal Reserve Act.

"(iii) the term ‘clearing organization’ has the same meaning of section 402 of the Federal Reserve Act.

(1) in subsection (a)(2)(B)(i), by inserting before the term "financial institution," the phrase "financial participant, securities clearing agency,

(2) in section 562(b)(7) and 562(b)(27), by inserting in subsection (a) after the term "financial institution," the term "financial participant, swap participant, repo participant, financial participant, master netting agreement participant, or swap participant liquidiates, terminates, or accelerates such contract or agreement, damages shall be measured as of the earlier of—

(1) the date of such rejection; or

(2) the date or dates of such liquidation, termination, or acceleration;"

(b) INSURED CREDIT UNIONS.—Section 207(c)(8) of the Federal Credit Union Act (12 U.S.C. 1787(c)(8)) is amended by adding at the end the following new subparagraph:

"(b) The Board, in consultation with the appropriate Federal banking agencies, may prescribe regulations requiring more detailed record-keeping by any insured depository institution with respect to qualified financial contracts (including market valuations) only if such insured credit union is in a troubled condition (as defined by the Board pursuant to section 212)."

SEC. 909. EXEMPTIONS FROM CONTUMORNEOUS EXECUTION REQUIREMENT. Section 13e(e)(2) of the Federal Deposit Insurance Act (12 U.S.C. 1823(e)(2)) is amended to read as follows:

"(e) EXEMPTIONS FROM CONTEMPORANEOUS EXECUTION REQUIREMENT.—An agreement to provide for the lawful collateralization of—

(A) deposits of, or other credit extension by, a Federal, State, or local governmental entity, or of any depository referred to in section 11(a)(1), including an agreement to provide collateral in lieu of a surety bond; or

(B) one or more qualified financial contracts, as defined in section 11(e)(6)(D), shall not be deemed invalid pursuant to paragraph (1)(B) solely because such agreement was not executed contemporaneously with the acquisition of the collateral or because pledges, deliveries, or acceptance of the collateral made in accordance with such agreement."

SEC. 910. DAMAGE MEASURE.—(a) IN GENERAL.—Title 11, United States Code, is amended—

(1) by inserting after section 561, as added by section 907, the following:

"§ 562. Timing of damage measurement in connection with swap agreements, securities contracts, forward contracts, commodity contracts, repurchase agreements, and master netting agreements

"If the trustee is a swap agreement participant, securities contract (as defined in section 741), forward contract, commodity contract (as defined in section 761), repurchase agreement, or master agreement participant pursuant to section 365(a), or if a forward contract merchant, stockbroker, financial institution, securities clearing agency, swap participant, repo participant, financial participant, master netting agreement participant, or swap participant liquidiates, terminates, or accelerates such contract or agreement, damages shall be measured as of the earlier of—

1. the date of such rejection; or

2. the date of such liquidation, termination, or acceleration;"

(b) If there are any commercially reasonable determinants of value as of any date referred to in paragraph (1) or (2) of subsection (a), damages shall be measured as of the latest subsequent date or dates on which there are commercially reasonable determinants of value.

"(c) For the purposes of subsection (b), if damages are not measured as of the date or dates of rejection, liquidation, termination, or acceleration, of the forward contract merchant, stockbroker, financial institution, securities clearing agency, repo participant, financial participant, master netting agreement participant, or swap participant or the trustee objects to the timing of the measurement of damages.

(d) If in the case of an objection by a forward contract merchant, stockbroker, financial institution, securities clearing agency, repo participant, financial participant, master netting agreement participant, or swap participant; or
(2) the forward contract merchant, stockbroker, financial institution securities clearing agency, repo participant, financial participant, master netting agreement participant, or swap participant, in the case of an objection by the trustee, has the burden of proving that there were no commercially reasonable determinants of value as of such date or dates.

(c) AMENDMENTS—Chapter 12 of title 11, United States Code, as reenacted by subsection (a), is amended by adding at the end the following:

(1) A plan may not be modified under this section—
"(i) to increase the amount of any payment due before the plan as modified becomes the plan;"
"(ii) by anyone except the debtor, based on an increase in the debtor's disposable income, to increase the amount of payments to unsecured creditors required for a particular month that the aggregate of such payments exceeds the debtor's disposable income for such month; or"
"(iii) in the case of a family plan by anyone except the debtor, to require payments that would leave the debtor with insufficient funds to carry on the farming operation after the plan is completed.

(b) MODIFYING PLAN.—Section 1229(b) of title 11, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following:

"(1) the plan's treatment of the spouse must be consistent with the treatment of the individual in the plan;"
of a commercial fishing operation (including a fishing vessel)."

(b) COMMERCIAL FISHERMAN.—Section 308(f) of title 11, United States Code, is amended by inserting "or commercial fishing operation (including a fishing vessel)".

SEC. 1102. DISPOSAL OF PATIENT RECORDS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Subchapter III of chapter 12 of title 11, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following:

"§ 351. Disposal of patient records

If a health care business commences a case under chapter 7, 9, or 11, and the trustee does not have a sufficient amount of funds to pay for the storage of patient records in the manner required under applicable Federal or State law, the following requirements shall apply:

(1) The trustee shall—

(A) promptly publish notice, in 1 or more appropriate newspapers, that if patient records are not claimed by the patient or an insurance provider (if applicable law permits the insurance provider to make that claim) by the date that is 365 days after the date of that notification, the trustee will destroy those records by the date that is 365 days after the date of that notification.

(B) if, during the first 180 days of the 365-day period described in subparagraph (A), promptly attempt to notify directly each patient the record of whose patient records and appropriate insurance carrier concerning the patient records by mailing to the most recent known address of that patient, or a family member or contact person for that patient, and to the appropriate insurance carrier an appropriate notice regarding the claiming or disposing of patient records.

(2) If, after providing the notification under paragraph (1), patient records are not claimed during the 365-day period described under that paragraph, the trustee shall mail, by certified mail, at the end of such 365-day period a written request to each appropriate Federal agency to request permission from that agency to deposit the patient records with that agency, except that no Federal agency is required to accept patient records under this paragraph if—

(A) if the records are written, shredded or burning the records; or

(B) if the records are magnetic, optical, or other electronic record, the trustee reasonably destroys those records so that those records cannot be retrieved.

(b) CLERICAL AMENDMENT.—The table of sections for subchapter III of chapter 12 of title 11, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following:

"351. Disposal of patient records; ."

"(B) the costs and expenses of closing a health care business incurred by a trustee or by a Federal agency (as defined in section 551(1) of this title) or a debtor in possession or any partner or an agent of the debtor in possession, if the costs and expenses are incurred in the process of being closed to another health care business; and"

SEC. 1104. APPOINTMENT OF OMBUDSMAN TO ACT AS PATIENT ADVOCATE.

(a) OMBUDSMAN TO ACT AS PATIENT ADVOCATE.—

(1) APPOINTMENT OF OMBUDSMAN.—Title 11, United States Code, as amended by section 222, is amended by inserting after section 222 the following:

"§ 333. Appointment of patient care ombudsman

(F) If the debtor in a case under chapter 7, 9, or 11 is a health care business, the court shall order, not later than 30 days after the commencement of the case, the appointment of one of the persons described in paragraph (1) and the appointment of such ombudsman is not necessary for the protection of patients under the specific facts of the case.

(2) If the court orders the appointment of an ombudsman under paragraph (1), the United States trustee shall appoint 1 disinterested person (other than the United States trustee) to serve as such ombudsman.

(B) If the debtor is a health care business that provides long-term care, then the United States trustee may appoint the State Long-Term Care Ombudsman appointed under the Older Americans Act of 1965 for the State in which the case is pending to serve as the ombudsman required by paragraph (1).

(2) If the United States trustee does not appoint a State Long-Term Care Ombudsman under subparagraph (B), the court shall notify the State Long-Term Care Ombudsman appointed under the Older Americans Act of 1965 for the State in which the case is pending of the need for the services of such ombudsman.

(B) An ombudsman appointed under subsection (a) shall—

(1) monitor the quality of patient care provided to patients of the debtor, to the extent necessary under the circumstances, including interviewing patients and physically observing the debtor’s operations and policies,

(2) not later than 60 days after the date of appointment, and not less frequently than at 60-day intervals thereafter, report to the court in writing, regarding the quality of patient care provided to patients of the debtor, and

(3) if such ombudsman determines that the quality of patient care provided to patients of the debtor is declining significantly or is otherwise being materially compromised, file with the court a motion or a written report, with notice to the parties in interest immediately upon making such determination.

An ombudsman appointed under subsection (a) shall maintain any information obtained by such ombudsman under this section that relates to patients (including information relating to patient records) as confidential information. Such ombudsman may not review confidential patient records unless the court approves such review in advance and imposes restrictions on such ombudsman to protect the confidentiality of such records.

(2) In the case of an ombudsman appointed under subsection (a)(2) (B) shall have access to patient records consistent with authority of such ombudsman under the Older Americans Act of 1965 for the State in which the case is pending, as provided by applicable Federal or State laws governing the State Long-Term Care Ombudsman program."
(2) Clerical Amendment.—The table of sections for subchapter II of chapter 3 of title 11, United States Code, as amended by section 252, is amended by adding at the end the following:

"333. Appointment of ombudsman.

(b) Compensation of Ombudsman.—Section 330(a)(1) of title 11, United States Code, is amended—

(1) in the matter preceding subparagraph (A), by inserting "an ombudsman appointed under section 333, or" before "a professional person"; and

(2) in subparagraph (A), by inserting "ombudsman," before "professional person".

SEC. 1105. Debtor in Possession; Duty of Trustee to Transfer Patients.

(a) In General.—Section 704(a) of title 11, United States Code, as amended by sections 102, 219, and 446, is amended by adding at the end the following:

"(12) use all reasonable and best efforts to transfer patients from a health care business that is in the process of being closed to an appropriate health care business that—

(A) is in the vicinity of the health care business that is closing; and

(B) provides the patient with services that are substantially similar to those provided by the health care business that is in the process of being closed; and

"(c) maintains a reasonable quality of care."

(b) Conforming Amendment.—Section 1106(a)(1) of title 11, United States Code, as amended by section 446, is amended by striking "and" and inserting "(11), and (12)."

SEC. 1106. Exclusion from Program Participation Not Subject to Automatic Stay.

Section 362(b) of title 11, United States Code, is amended by inserting after paragraph (2) the following:

"(3) a transfer made by a trustee under section 363(b) that is in the process of being closed to an entity that—

(A) is in the vicinity of the entity that is closing; and

(B) provides the patient with services that are substantially similar to those provided by the entity that is in the process of being closed; and

"(c) maintains a reasonable quality of care."
property by a corporation or trust that is not a moneyed, business, or commercial corporation or trust; and

(2) to the extent not inconsistent with any provision of section 203, 204, 362, or 363, as amended by adding at the end the following:

(3) "(f) Notwithstanding any other provision of this title, property that is held by a debtor or a corporation, or trust that is not a moneyed, business, or commercial corporation or trust; and"

(b) CONFIRMATION OF PLAN OF REORGANIZATION.—Section 1123(a) of title 11, United States Code, as amended by sections 1123 and 362, is amended by adding at the end the following:

"(3) All transfers of property of the plan shall be made in accordance with any applicable provisions of nonbankruptcy law that govern the transfer of property by a corporation, or trust, that is not a moneyed, business, or commercial corporation or trust.".

(c) TRANSFER OF PROPERTY.—Section 541 of title 11, United States Code, as amended by section 1123, is amended by adding at the end the following:

"(f) Notwithstanding any other provision of this title, property that is held by a debtor or a corporation is transferred to an entity that is not such a corporation, or trust, that is not such a corporation, or trust, only if the transfer is made in accordance with any applicable provisions of nonbankruptcy law that govern the transfer of property by a corporation, or trust, that is not a moneyed, business, or commercial corporation or trust; and"

(d) APPLICABILITY.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to a case pending under title 11, United States Code, on the date of enactment of this Act, or filed under that title on or after that date of enactment, except that the court shall not confirm a plan under chapter 11 of title 11, United States Code, without considering whether this section would substantially affect the rights of a party in interest who first acquired rights with respect to the debtor after the date of confirmation of the plan. The parties who may appear and be heard in a proceeding under this section include the attorney general of the State in which the debtor is incorporated, was formed, or does business.

(e) RULE OF CONSTRUCTION.—Nothing in this section shall be construed to require the court in any case where a corporation or trust that is not such a corporation, or trust, is held by a debtor or a corporation, or trust, to order the transfer of property by a corporation, or trust, that is not such a corporation, or trust, only if the transfer is made in accordance with any applicable provisions of nonbankruptcy law that govern the transfer of property by a corporation, or trust, that is not a moneyed, business, or commercial corporation or trust; and

OPEN END CREDIT DISCLOSURE
SEC. 1301. ENHANCED DISCLOSURES UNDER AN OPEN END CREDIT PLAN.
(a) MINIMUM PAYMENT DISCLOSURES.—Section 1222(b) of the Truth in Lending Act (15 U.S.C. 1607(b)) is amended by adding at the end the following:

‘‘(1A) In the case of an open end credit plan that requires a minimum monthly payment of not more than 4 percent of the balance on which finance charges are accruing, the following statement, located on the front of the billing statement, disclosed clearly and conspicuously: ‘Minimum Payment Warning: Making only the minimum payment for a balance of $500 at an interest rate of 17% would take 60 months to repay the balance in full. For an estimate of the time it would take to repay your balance if you only make minimum payments, call this toll-free number: .’ (the blank space to be filled in by the creditor).

(B) In the case of an open end credit plan that requires a minimum monthly payment of more than 4 percent of the balance on which finance charges are accruing, the following statement, located on the front of the billing statement, disclosed clearly and conspicuously: ‘Minimum Payment Warning: Making only the required minimum payment will increase the interest you pay and the time it takes to repay your balance. Making a typical 3% minimum monthly payment on a balance of $500 at an interest rate of 17% would take 88 months to repay the balance in full. For an estimate of the time it would take to repay your balance if you only make minimum payments, call this toll-free number: .’ (the blank space to be filled in by the creditor).

(C) Notwithstanding subparagraphs (A) and (B), in the case of a creditor with respect to which compliance with this title is enforced by the Federal Trade Commission, the following statement shall be located on the front of the billing statement, disclosed clearly and conspicuously: ‘Minimum Payment Warning: Making only the required minimum payment will increase the interest you pay and the time it takes to repay your balance. For example, making only the typical 3% minimum monthly payment on a balance of $500 at an interest rate of 17% would take 24 months to repay the balance in full. For an estimate of the time it would take to repay your balance if you only make minimum payments, call this toll-free number: .’ (the blank space to be filled in by the creditor).

(D) Notwithstanding subparagraphs (A), (B), or (C), in complying with any such sub-paragraph, the creditor shall only disclose an estimate based on an interest rate that is greater than 17 percent. Any creditor that is subject to subparagraph (B) may elect to provide the information described in subparagraph (A) in lieu of the disclosure required under subparagraph (B).

(E) The Board shall, by rule, periodically recalculate, as necessary, the interest rate and repayment period under subparagraphs (A), (B), and (C).”
if a consumer pays only the required minimum monthly payments and if no other advances are made, which table shall clearly present standardized information to be used to determine the information required to be disclosed under subparagraph (A), (B), or (C), as applicable;
(ii) establish the table required under clause (A), (B), or (C), as applicable;

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. SIMPSON). Pursuant to House Resolution 211, the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. SENSENBRENNER) and the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. CONVERS) each will control 30 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. SENSENBRENNER).

Mr. SENSENBRENNER. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on S. 256.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the gentleman from Wisconsin from the Floor?

There was no objection.

Mr. SENSENBRENNER. Mr. Speaker, I yield by myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of S. 256, the Bankruptcy Abuse Prevention and Consumer Protection Act of 2005. This legislation consists of a comprehensive package of reform measures pertaining to corporate and business bankruptcy cases. The current system has created a set of incentives that encourage opportunistic personal filings and the abuse of a bankruptcy system originally intended to strike a delicate balance between debtor and creditor rights. These abuses ultimately hurt debtors as well as creditors, consumers as well as businesses, suppliers as well as purchasers. The only winners in the current bankruptcy system are those who game the system for personal gain.

S. 256 restores personal responsibility and integrity to the bankruptcy system and ensures that the system is fair.
to both debtors and creditors. This legislation represents the most comprehensive reform of the bankruptcy system in more than 25 years.

As many of us know, bankruptcy reform has been subject to exhaustive congressional consideration for more than a decade, beginning with the establishment of a National Bankruptcy Review Commission in 1994. It is important to note that over the course of the last four Congresses, the House has passed bankruptcy reform on eight separate occasions, and the overwhelming and bipartisan margins.

This bill will help stop fraudulent, abusive, and opportunistic bankruptcy claims by closing various loopholes and incentives that have produced steadily cascading claims.

Central to these reforms is a merit-based test that reflects the commonsense proposition that those who are capable of repaying their debts after seeking bankruptcy relief must actually do so. S. 256 will also give the courts greater powers to dismiss abusive bankruptcy cases and to punish attorneys who encourage their clients to file such claims. In addition, the bill prevents violent criminals or drug traffickers from using bankruptcy relief to evade their creditors.

The bill closes the “millionaire’s mansion” loophole in the current bankruptcy code that permits corporate criminals to shield their multi-million dollar homesteads from deserving creditors. Of critical importance, the legislation prevents deadbeat parents from abusing the bankruptcy system to shirk their child support obligations. With respect to these reforms, the National Child Support Enforcement Association stated that S. 256 is “crucial to the collection of child support during bankruptcy.”

Some might ask why Congress has been so concerned about abuse in the bankruptcy system. The answer to this question should be obvious. It is estimated that every American household bears an annual $400 hidden tax for profligate and abusive bankruptcy filings. That is a $400 tax on every household that no politician has to vote for, but gets paid anyhow.

As a result, every abusive bankruptcy filing impacts hard-working Americans in the form of higher interest rates and increased costs of goods and services by forcing most energy and the deserving creditors. Of critical importance, the legislation prevents deadbeat parents from abusing the bankruptcy system to shirk their child support obligations. With respect to these reforms, the National Child Support Enforcement Association stated that S. 256 is "crucial to the collection of child support during bankruptcy." I would like to mention the many contributions of the Chairman of the Subcommittee on Commercial and Administrative Law (Mr. Canon) for his hard work on behalf of this legislation. The Chairman of the Financial Services Committee (Mr. Oxley) has also been a great resource. I also appreciate the contributions of my colleagues on the other side of the aisle, the Ranking Member of the Judiciary Committee (Mr. Conyers) and the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. Boucher). Former Members should also be recognized for their contributions. Bill McCollum is to be commended for being the first to introduce comprehensive bankruptcy reform and George Gekas deserves credit for his efforts.

In addition, I would like to mention the following staff on the Judiciary Committee for their contributions: Phil Kiko, Majority Committee General Counsel and Chief of Staff; Rob Tracci, Chief Legislative Counsel and Parliamentarian; Raymond Smietanka, Chief Counsel, Subcommittee on Commercial and Administrative Law; Perry Apelbaum; David Lachmann; Matt Iandoli, Legislative Director for Senator Grassley; Bruce Rumbos, Chief of Staff for Representative Cannon; Laura Vaught, Deputy Chief of Staff for Representative Boucher; Jean Harmann, House Legislative Counsel and Dina Ellis, Counsel for the House Financial Services Committee. Several staffers who should also be recognized, include Will Moschella, Joe Rubin, Alan Cagnoli, and Liz Trainer.

The vital and indispensable efforts of one staff member have uniquely contributed to the bankruptcy reform legislation we consider today. From her service as general counsel on the congressionally-created National Bankruptcy Review Commission to her oftentimes behind the scenes work on bankruptcy reform legislation extending to the 105th Congress, Susan Jensen, counsel to the Judiciary Subcommittee on Commercial and Administrative Law, deserves special recognition. Her technical expertise in a complex area of law has resulted in dramatic improvements in successive drafts of bankruptcy reform legislation and helped establish a record of legislative history that elucidates the legislation we consider today.

I would also like to acknowledge the countless contributions of my colleagues in the other body. These include Senators Grassley, Hatch, Sessions, Specter, Biden and Leahy.

This legislation has also benefited from the hard work and devoted assistance of numerous Senate staff members. These include, Rita Lari, counsel for Senator Grassley, who has been a wonderful resource for our staff. In addition, the following individuals must also be acknowledged: Harold Kim and Tim Strachan, counsels for Senator Specter; Perry Barber, Ron Rustione, and Makan Delrahim, counsels for Senator Hatch; and Ed Pagano, Chief of Staff for Senator Leahy.

SUMMARY OF PRINCIPAL PROVISIONS OF S. 256, "THE BANKRUPTCY ABUSE PREVENTION AND CONSUMER PROTECTION ACT OF 2005"

CONSUMER BANKRUPTCY REFORMS

Abuse prevention: S. 256 instills a greater level of personal responsibility by closing various loopholes and eliminating incentives in the current bankruptcy code. The legislation encourages opportunistic consumer bankruptcy filings and abuse. The bill’s needs-based provisions target, for example, those debtors who have a demonstrated ability to repay their debts and channels them into a form of bankruptcy relief that requires debt repayment. Courts, under S. 256, are given greater powers to dismiss abusive cases and to punish attorneys who encourage their clients to file such cases. Debtors who have committed crimes of violence or engaged in drug trafficking will no longer be able to use bankruptcy to hide from their creditors. Likewise, deadbeat parents will be prevented from using bankruptcy to shirk their child support obligations. The legislation prevents debtors from avoiding their responsibilities to pay for luxury goods and services purchased on the eve of filing for bankruptcy.

Needs-based reforms: S. 256 implements an income and expense analysis to determine whether a debtor has a demonstrated ability to repay a significant portion of his or her debts. If a debtor has the ability to repay debts, he or she must either be channeled into a bankruptcy reorganization or discharge process. Reorganization requires repayment or risk having the bankruptcy case dismissed as an abusive filing. This needs-based test specifies certain expenses that are exempt from IRS income standards and other specified expenses—that are deducted from the debtor’s income. These include expenses for food, clothing, housing, utilities, medical expenses, and transportation to and from work. If the debtor refuses to negotiate a pre-bankruptcy debt repayment plan with a debtor, the bill strengthens the disclosure requirements for reaffirmation agreements so that debtors will be better informed about their rights and responsibilities. In addition, S. 256 requires certain monthly credit card billing statements to include specified disclosures regarding the increased interest and repayment amounts for minimum payments. The bill also requires certain home equity loan and credit card solicitation to include enhanced consumer disclosure. For instance, S. 256 authorizes the Federal Reserve Board to promulgate an open end consumer credit plan simply because the consumer has not incurred finance charges on the account. Furthermore, the bankruptcy petition mills and imposes heightened standards of professional responsibility for attorneys who represent debtors.

BUSINESS BANKRUPTCY AND OTHER REFORMS

Protections for small business owners: Under current bankruptcy law, a business can be sued by a bankruptcy trustee and forced to pay back monies previously paid to it by a firm that later files for bankruptcy protection. S. 256 contains provisions making it easier—particularly for small businesses—to successfully defend against such suits.

Promotes greater certainty in the financial market place: S. 256 reduces systemic risk in the banking system and financial markets by minimizing the risk of disruption when parties to certain financial transactions become bankrupt or insolvent. Federal Reserve Board Chairman Alan Greenspan says these reforms are “extremely important.”

Family farmers: S. 256 helps small family farmers facing financial distress. While current law offers a special form of bankruptcy relief—Chapter 12—that is specifically designed for family farmers, its protections for farmers are limited because of its restrictive eligibility requirements. The bill responds to this problem in several key respects: It more than doubles the debt eligibility limit and requires it to be periodically adjusted for inflation; it lowers the requisite percentage of a farmer’s income that must be derived from farming operations; and it gives farmers more flexibility with respect to how certain creditors can be repaid. As a result, many more deserving family farmers facing financial hard times will be able to avail themselves of Chapter 12. In addition, S. 256 streamlines the appointment of an authorized expert on the bankruptcy laws and extends the benefits of this form of bankruptcy relief to family fishermen.

Small business debtors: S. 256 addresses the special problems presented by small business debtors by instituting firm deadlines and enforcement mechanisms to weed out those debtors who are not likely to reorganize. It also requires the court and other designated entities to monitor these cases more actively.

Transnational insolvencies: In response to the increasing globalization of business dealings and operations, S. 256 establishes a separate chapter under the Bankruptcy Code devoted to transnational insolvencies. These provisions are intended to provide greater legal certainty for trade and investment as well as the efficient and effective administration of these cases.

Privacy protections: Under current law, nearly every item of information supplied by a debtor concerning his or her bankruptcy case is made available to the public. S. 256 prohibits the disclosure of the names of the debtor’s minor children and requires S. 256 by creating a such public record, which can be made available for inspection only by the court and certain other designated entities. In addition, if a business debtor had a policy prohibiting it from selling “personally identifiable information” about its customers and the policy was in effect at the time of the bankruptcy filing, then S. 256 prohibits the sale of such information unless certain conditions are satisfied.

Protections for employees: S. 256 requires certain back pay awards granted as a result of the debtor’s violation of Federal or State law to receive one of four priority positions in a bankruptcy case. In addition, S. 256 streamlines the appointment of an ERISA administrator for an employee benefit plan in certain circumstances, to minimize the disruption that results when an employee files for bankruptcy relief. In light of the disastorous impact that bankruptcy can have on those who have had on their employees, reforms that more than double current the monetary cap on wage and employee benefit claims entitled to priority under the Bankruptcy Code. Other provisions would protect retirees in cases where Chapter 11 debtors unilaterally modify their benefits, such as health insurance. These reforms would also make it easier to recover excessive pre-petition compensation, such as bonuses, paid to insiders of a debtor who then are used to pay unpaid employee wage claims.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. CONYERS. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, this is the most special interest-vested bill that I have ever dealt with in my career in Congress. It massively tilts the playing field in favor of banks and credit card companies and against working people and their families. I have faced such a piece of legislation. That explains to me why it took 8 years to get this thing up here, because they kept fixing it up, making it wrong.

Mr. Speaker, all I want to say as we open this debate is that to those who assert that this bill cracks down on creditor abuse, I would ask them to realize that this bill does absolutely nothing to discourage abusive, under-age lending; nothing to discourage sub-prime lending; nothing to address the mentally disabled; nothing to regulate the practice of sub-prime lending to persons with no means or little ability to repay their debts; nothing to crack down on the sharks, the lenders, that charge members of the Armed Forces up to 500 percent interest per year or more. They hang around the bases and lure them in.

What this is is something that we should all be truly embarrassed about. This is the opposition of employer group, by all the bankruptcy judges, the trustees, law professors, by all of organized labor, by the military groups, by the civil rights organizations, and by every major group concerned about seniors, women, and children.

Please, if we do not do anything else in the 109th Congress, let us not let this bill get out of the House of Representatives.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. SENSENIBRENNER. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman. from Virginia (Mr. BOUCHER) to show his knowledge and for his good work here today, and I urge its approval.

The reform measure sets a threshold for the use of chapter 7. Debtors who can make little or no repayment can use its provisions and discharge all of their debts. Debtors whose annual income is below the national mean of about $50,000 per year are untouched by this reform. They can make full use of chapter 13 and discharge all of their debts, whether or not they can afford to make repayments.

This reform imposes a modest measure of personal responsibility that is well justified, and I urge its approval by the House.

Mr. CONYERS, Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to yield 2½ minutes to the gentleman from Massachusetts (Mr. DELAHUNT), a distinguished member of the committee.

Mr. DELAHUNT. Mr. Speaker, let me just suggest the following, with all due respect to my friend from Wisconsin and my friend from Virginia.

The figure of $400 is a mythical figure. It is inaccurate. In addition to that, at best assured, if you are a consumer, you will not benefit one penny from this bill. Do my colleagues know who is going to benefit? The credit card industry. Anyone familiar with the history of this bill knows that it was written by and for the credit card industry, and they spent north of $40 million to make sure that they got what they wanted.

The American people are the losers here, unless you happen to be a senior executive of a credit card company or an investor in credit card companies, because they are going to make a good score here today, but the American taxpayer is going to pay for it.

As chairman of the Subcommittee on Commercial and Administrative Law, I take considerable satisfaction that, through collective effort, we would be able to change a bankruptcy Act that would never happen. We have crafted fair and balanced legislation dealing in a straightforward manner with a problem that has vexed the Nation for the past decade and threatens economic growth and stability. By the way, the Bankruptcy Act has not been amended for 25 years in a serious way.

The American people will truly be well served by this effort. This bill is a rare achievement of reducing disparity in the bankruptcy system. It establishes more uniform and predictable standards. It strengthens the integrity of the bankruptcy process. It deals with the continuing wave of bankruptcy filings and abuse of State homestead exemptions. It will reinforce the widely held perception that the system is fair for all participants. It improves the administration of the bankruptcy process. And, finally, it restores a measure of personal responsibility to the bankruptcy system that is spiraling out of control.

Mr. Speaker, my constituents need this legislation, and America needs this legislation, and I urge support today for S. 256.

I would also note that the need for additional bankruptcy judgeships may need to be considered to reflect the numbers submitted by the Judicial Conference’s most recent report. Additional judgeships are sorely needed in a number of districts across the country, including my State of Utah. I was heartened by the assurance of the chairman of the Committee on the Judiciary during the markup of Senate 256 that this matter will be considered later this year. In that regard, I would like to thank the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. KINGSTON) who has worked tirelessly on the issue of expanding the number of bankruptcy judges we have to meet this need.

Mr. Speaker, at this point I will place additional information on the bill in the Record.

During the course of the Senate Judiciary Committee’s consideration of S. 256, a provision was added to deal with excessive retention bonuses, severance payments and other forms of indemnities paid by a debtor to retain key personnel or otherwise induce a debtor’s management to remain with the debtor. This provision addresses serious concerns, and I support the intent of its drafters. Nevertheless, this provision should not be construed to invalidate any key employee retention programs for companies that may someday wind up in Chapter 11. It is very important that a Chapter 11 debtor be able to retain management that is dedicated to maintaining the company’s value for the benefit of its creditors, investors, employees, and other stakeholders. All plans that reorganize successfully are converted to Chapter 7 for liquidation, where creditors receive pennies on the dollar and employees face job dislocation.
Where appropriate, key employee retention programs may be necessary to bring a company in financial distress successfully through the Chapter 11 process. Accordingly, section 331 of S. 256 should not be applied to invalidated such programs where there is no evidence of fraud, negligence, mismanagement, or fraudulent conduct contributed to a company’s insolvency—in whole or in part.

Given the possibility that the intent of the Congress with respect to this provision and the interpretation of Section 331’s text may not be correctly perceived, clarifying legislation may be necessary. If so, I will work with my colleagues in the House and Senate to address any such inconsistencies.

I ask that a letter from the Association of Insolvency and Restructuring Advisors be printed at this point in the RECORD.

ASSOCIATION OF INSOLVENCY, AND RESTRUCTURING ADVISORS, Medford, OR, March 1, 2005.

Senator ARLEN SPECTOR, Chairman, Committee on the Judiciary, U.S. Senate, Washington, DC.

DEAR Mr. CHAIRMAN: The undersigned are financial professionals and, as such, are the Board of Directors of the Association of Insolvency and Restructuring Advisors (AIRA). As board members we work to further the Board’s goal of raising industry awareness of the organization as an important educational and technical resource for professionals in business turnaround, restructuring, bankruptcy practice, and the Certified Insolvency and Restructuring Advisor (CIRA) designation as an assurance of expertise in this area.

We write to make you aware of serious concerns we have regarding a provision contained in S. 256, the “Bankruptcy Abuse Prevention and Protection Act of 2005.” The provision in question effectively prohibits the use of key employee retention plans in Chapter 11 reorganizations. It was added during the Judiciary Committee mark-up of the bill and elicited little attention at the time. However, we believe this provision will cause considerable harm to a number of companies that will become subject to bankruptcy proceedings, and, most importantly, to their employees, customers, and creditors.

When a company is operating in Chapter 11, a primary responsibility of management is to maintain and grow the company’s value for the benefit of all of its stakeholders. A company that is well-managed through its restructuring benefits its creditors, employees, retirees, unions and the local communities of which the company is a part. Companies that fail to successfully reorganize in Chapter 11 are liquidated. Creditors receive pennies on the dollar and employees see their jobs and retirement savings destroyed.

When companies enter Chapter 11, it is critical that they attract and retain top management. But Chapter 11 is often the most difficult time to attract and retain such talent. Managers of Chapter 11 companies are faced with intense scrutiny, stress, insecurity and financial hardship. Compensation and incentive tools used by non-bankrupt companies such as equity compensation programs are not available to assist with retaining and retaining the key management talent necessary to bring the company successfully through the Chapter 11 process—this is because the pre-petition equity is effectively extinguished without value. Key employee retention plans (“KERPs”) have become common practice since the early 1990s and have been viewed by courts, debtors, and creditors as an important and useful way to help reorganization by retaining key employees.

Bankruptcy courts have agreed with this reasoning, and many judges have used their judicial discretion to approve KERPs. For a court to approve a KERP under existing law, the court must find that the employee is not the result of fraud, negligence, mismanagement, or fraudulent conduct contributed to a company’s insolvency. In doing so, many judges have determined under a ‘test’ that is essentially a blanket prohibition on all forms of management incentive compensation in bankruptcies. In many cases, the KERP is the only thing that will allow the company to survive and the employees to continue to work. The proper use of KERPs requires an analysis of all facts and circumstances of the case, and not what is essentially a blanket prescription of these tools.

Senator Kennedy has advanced an important public policy discussion with his amendment to S. 256, and it is apparent that the Senate has agreed with this amendment in the wake of numerous high profile bankruptcy cases and management’s misconduct or mismanagement has led to the Chapter 11 filing. Judges have discretion to deny KERPs in these circumstances, and they do so when the facts and circumstances warrant.

Unfortunately, S. 256 as reported by the Senate Judiciary Committee includes an amendment authored by Senator Edward M. Kennedy (the Kennedy amendment) that places significant limits on retention bonuses and severance payments to employees of companies in Chapter 11. It would prohibit a bankruptcy judge from approving retention bonuses in every Chapter 11 case unless he or she finds that it is in the best interest of the creditors, the debtors, and the company. The amendment also places significant caps on the amount of such bonus and payments. The Kennedy amendment appears to be motivated by a desire to combat KERPs in Chapter 11 cases where employee-related fraud substantially contributed to the bankruptcy of the company. Yet, by painting with such a broad brush, the Kennedy amendment will, if enacted, effectively eliminate all companies’ ability to ever receive court approval for a KERP. Federal bankruptcy judges would have little or no discretion to approve KERPs. In turn, bankrupt companies would have less flexibility in trying to retain or attract necessary employees.

This result will cause considerable harm to companies in bankruptcy, their employees, and their creditors.

It is apparent that the Kennedy amendment is designed to prevent abuses of the system, where creditors’, employees’ and retirees’ monies are unnecessarily expended for the enrichment of management. Whether there currently is or is not sufficient judicial scrutiny of KERPs is a valid question, insofar as the overall bankruptcy system allows debtors a fair amount of flexibility in exercising reasonable judgment—but there must be an approach better than handcuffing the judiciary to make judgments in all bankruptcy cases by essentially precluding all use KERPs. The proper use of KERPs requires an analysis of all facts and circumstances of the case, and not what is essentially a blanket prescription of these tools.

Senator Kennedy has advanced an important public policy discussion with his amendment. However, managers who have had responsibility for driving a company into bankruptcy should not be paid a bonus to remain. Similarly, if the retention of an employee would not enhance a company’s value for its stakeholders, they should not be paid a bonus to stay. Current law provides bankruptcy judges with the discretion necessary to deny a KERP in situations where bankrupt employees are not essential to the success of the plan. In a Chapter 11, a primary responsibility of management is to maintain and grow the company’s value for the benefit of all of its stakeholders. A company that is well-managed through its restructuring benefits its creditors, employees, retirees, unions and the local communities of which the company is a part. Companies that fail to successfully reorganize in Chapter 11 are liquidated. Creditors receive pennies on the dollar and employees see their jobs and retirement savings destroyed.

Mr. Chairman, we thank you for considering our views on this important matter. We would be pleased to address any questions you or other members of the Committee on the Judiciary may have.

Sincerely,

The members of the board and management of the Association of Insolvency and Restructuring Advisors.

Mr. Speaker, those of us who started this process 6 years or so ago in the good faith belief that there were problems with the bankruptcy system, in the sense that people were gaming the system, and felt that there needed to be genuine reform cannot help but be disappointed in today's process, because in this process, we have lost sight of the objective of reforming to do away with the sinister influences and the advantageous corruption that is going on in the system.

I have never seen a bill that has violated more principles throughout this process. The first one was that the consumers and the lenders got together and decided that, because the lenders were not sure that they could do bankruptcy reform without reaching a compromise and the consumer groups realized that they might not be able to stop bankruptcy reform, they set up this system called the means test, which effectively exempted from the whole reform system those who fall below the means test threshold. The result is that individuals who fall below the means test threshold can continue with impunity to game the system without any kind of responsibility, and those who fall above the threshold get subjected to a set of arbitrary rules that, even if they are not gaming the system, they are taken advantage of. So we have lost sight of that.

The second thing is we have built in a set of perverse incentives for easy credit now. For people who fall below the means test, there is really no disincentive for them to go out and get as much credit as they can. And for people above the means test there is no incentive for lenders to be responsible in their lending practices, because they know now they have this system that is going to protect them from people that they have made irresponsible loans to.

The third problem is that, as we have gone through this process, the more we have bought into this means test philosophy and debated this, we now get to a point at the end of the process where it has corrupted even our democratic process. Because we are here on the floor with 30 minutes of debate on our side to tell the public the problems with this bill.

This is irresponsible legislating at its worst, and I encourage my colleagues to read this bill and vote no.

Mr. SENSENBRENNER. Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. CONYERS. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from New York (Mr. NADLER), the former ranking member of the Subcommittee on Commercial and Administrative Law. This is an 8-year-old bill, and the gentleman has been foremost in this process for all of those years.

Mr. NADLER. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding me this time.

Mr. Speaker, this bill is the worst giveaway to special interests, the worst rip-off of the public, of the middle class than I have ever seen in my public life. The people who understand how bankruptcy law functions in the real world, the scholars, judges, trustees, and lawyers, whether they represent debtors, creditors, businesses or individuals, have told us this bill won't work. This bill will not work, that it will be costly, and that it will produce unfair and irrational results. But we are ignoring them, trusting instead lobbyists, credit card companies, banks, and anyone else who wants special favors; and, boy, are there special favors galore.

The credit card companies are the big winners, but so are shopping centers, car lenders, crooked debt collectors, investment bankers, credit unions, and assorted sub-prime lenders.

Those credit counseling operations that we have investigated for dishonest activity, they now get a monopoly on granting access to bankruptcy. Credit card companies that want their debts to survive the bankruptcy and compete with child support claims, they get their wish. Landlords who want to boot tenants out of their apartments, it is easier.

Did you buy a trailer home or a car on credit? Now you will have to pay the lender more than the home or car is worth to keep it. Are you a tax collector? There is an entire title in the bill just to squeeze more money out of debtors.

Are you a broker? Section 1230 is for you. You get to keep the pawned property, and it cannot be sold to pay other debts like child support or medical expenses. That is right. Congress is more worried about the rights of children.

So what is going on here? Why are bankers and bureaucrats telling us this bill is great for single parents with children while children and family advocates tell us it is not? Why does Congress believe studies paid for by the credit card industry that label millions of Americans crooks, while ignoring our own Congressional Budget Office, the independent and nonpartisan American Bankruptcy Institute, and the Government Accountability Office, all say these studies are bunk?

The supporters say if we help the banks collect more money from bankrupt folks, they have to pay that $400 bankruptcy tax. Our interest rates will go down because the banks will be able to collect more money. But the Republican leadership would not allow us to consider an amendment that would sunset the bill in several years if no savings are passed on to consumers, and they will not be. Interest rates have come down over the last 10 years on mortgages, on cars, on everything, but not on credit cards.

Does anyone here trust VISA and MasterCard? Because we are writing them a blank check paid for with taxpayer money and trusting them to share the benefits with American consumers. Trust the banks. Trust the lobbyists. Do not trust the people who do these cases for a living. Do not trust the advocates for women and kids. Do not trust the civil rights community. Do not trust the laboring community. Do not trust the disabled veterans, and military family advocates. Do not trust crime victims organizations.

Trust the banks. Trust the credit card companies. Trust VISA card. Trust MasterCard. They are the beneficiaries. The public will be the victims, and we will rue the day in a few years when the 60 or 70 different ways in which this bill enables the credit card companies to stick their hands in the pockets of low-and-middle-income people and extremists going bankrupt because of a medical emergency, and take more money out of that. Then the voters will know who really owns this place.

Mr. Speaker, this bill is the worst giveaway to special interests, the worst rip-off of the public, of the middle class, I have ever seen in my public life.

Mr. Speaker, bankruptcy is notoriously complicated, but the members of this House have certainly never let the complexity of a problem get in the way of a good deal. The people who understand how bankruptcy law functions in the real world, the scholars, judges, trustees, and lawyers—whether they represent debtors, creditors, businesses or individuals—have all told us this bill won't work, that it will be costly, that it will produce unfair and irrational results. So what’s going on here? Why are bankers and bureaucrats telling us that this bill is great for single parents with children while children and family advocates are telling us that it is not? More to the point—why are so many members of Congress so willing to believe bankers over the people who we work with day in and day out to protect the rights of children?

Why does Congress believe studies paid for by the credit card industry that label millions of Americans crooks, while ignoring our own Congressional Budget Office, the independent and nonpartisan Bankruptcy个 tute, and the Government Accountability Office, all of whom tell us these studies are bunk?

Why are we willing to spend so much public money to collect private debts for banks? According to the Congressional Budget Office, this bill will cost the government $392 million over the first 5 years, increasing the deficit by $280 million. It will impose new costs on the private sector of more than $123 million per year, in violation of the Unfunded Mandate Reform Act. That number does not include increased costs to debtors.

What are we spending this money on?

Means testing alone will cost the government $150 million over the first 5 years.

The government will be a private collection agency for credit card companies. Government-funded audits will cost $66 million. The government will collect and store debtors’ tax returns for another $10 million.

Just to administer this whole mess, we will spend another $26 million on extra judges—and not that will be enough.

So why should taxpayers spend all these millions to collect private debts for MasterCard and Visa? I asked George Wallace, the representative of the creditor coalition, that question. I asked whether he was aware that current laws give creditors the right to challenge the discharge of debts, examine debtors under oath, demand any documents from the debtors, seek dismissal of a case, and many other legal remedies.

He said “I have done these things and they do take a lot of time and I bill my clients for them. They are expensive.” So I asked him why the government should pay to collect these debts if the banks think it’s too expensive to collect their debts themselves.

His response explains this whole bill. “Because it’s a governmental program, sir. Because it is not the job of the creditor.”

A governmental program? We need to spend millions of taxpayer dollars to help the nation’s biggest banks collect money from bankrupt families? Is this the new welfare?

I want to thank Mr. Wallace for his honesty. He may be the only honest lobbyist left in Washington.

Some will say that if we help the banks collect more money from bankrupt families, then we won’t have to pay that $400 “bankruptcy tax.” Our interest rates will go down because the banks will be able to collect more money.

The distinguished chairman of the Judiciary Committee has made this the cornerstone of the legislation. He recently told the Financial Times of London. “The responsible thing for the credit card issuers to do would be to reduce interest rates because there is less risk. If they don’t they will play into the hands of the opponents of the bill—it would reduce their credibility.”

I agree, but the Republican leadership wouldn’t allow us to consider an amendment that would sunset the bill in 2 years if no savings are passed on to consumers. So I guess we’re being asked to trust the biggest banks in America not to pocket the extra money. And they won’t be. Interest rates have come down. Mortgage rates, car loans, but not credit card rates.

Ask yourself: Where’s my $400? Does any one here trust Visa and MasterCard? Because you are writing them a blank check, paid for with taxpayer money, and trusting them to share that money with consumers. Anyone who really trusts the banks to do this, raise your hand. Anyone?

Go ahead and vote for this. Why not? It’s a done deal. Trust the banks. Trust the lobbyists. Don’t trust the people who do these cases for a living. Don’t trust the advocates for women and kids. Don’t trust the civil rights community. Don’t trust labor. Don’t trust disabled veterans’ and military family advocates. Don’t trust crime victims organizations. Trust the banks. Trust Visa. Trust MasterCard.

At least the voters will know who really runs this place.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. PUTNAM). The Chair reminds Members that they should heed the gavel.

Mr. DAN G. GREGG. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. GOODLATTE).

(Mr. GOODLATTE asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. GOODLATTE. Mr. Speaker, bankruptcy filings are at an all-time high. When bankruptcy filings increase, every American must pay more for credit, goods, and services through higher rates and charges. It is time that we relieve consumers from the burden of paying for the debts of others.

Since the 105th Congress, the House has passed bankruptcy reform legislation eight times. S. 256, the “Bankruptcy Abuse Prevention and Consumer Protection Act of 2005,” is the culmination of years of work and bicameral, as well as bi-partisan negotiations.

One key aspect of S. 256 is the income-based means test. The means test applies clear and well-defined standards to determine whether a debtor has the financial capability to pay his or her debts. The application of such objective standards will help ensure that the fresh start provisions of Chapter 7 will be granted to those who need them, while debtors that can afford to repay some of their debts are steered toward filing Chapter 13 bankruptcies.

S. 256 also helps consumers. For example, this legislation helps children by strengthening the protections for children in the law that prioritize child support and alimony payments. In addition, it protects consumers from “bankruptcy mills” that encourage people to file for bankruptcy without fully informing them of their rights and the potential harms that bankruptcy can cause.

S. 256 also ensures the fair treatment of those that administer our bankruptcy laws. Specifically, this legislation restores fairness and equity to the relationship between the U.S. trustee and private standing bankruptcy... trustees by providing that in certain circumstances, after an administrative hearing on the record, private trustees may seek judicial review of U.S. trustee actions related to trustee removal. This compromise, worked out between the U.S. trustee's office and representatives of the private bankruptcy trustee, will ensure that private trustees deal with themselves as private trustees while ensuring that the U.S. trustee is subject to the same checks and balances as other government agencies.

Bankruptcy courts should remain available to people who truly need it, but those who can afford to repay their debts should repay their debts. S. 256 provides bankruptcy relief for those who truly cannot pay their debts, but also clearly demonstrates to those who would abuse our system that the free ride is over. I believe that S. 256 strikes the appropriate balance between these two important goals. I want to commend Chairmen SENSENBERG and CANNON for their tremendous work on this legislation, and I urge each of my colleagues to support this fair and reasonable overhaul of the U.S. bankruptcy system.

Mr. CONYERS. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentlewoman from Houston, Texas (Ms. JACKSON-LEE), a member of the committee. (Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas asked and was given permission to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I think it is important as we debate this question that the opponents of this bill not be defined or classified as opposing responsibility and opposing the responsibility of being a good citizen and adhering to the debt that you accrue. I think that is a wrong-headed definition of the opponents.

We have been described as non-patriot in other debates; in war and peace, scoundrels and socialists. But I think it is important for the American people to understand that we are engaging in a democratic process to be able to allow a voice of opposition to be heard for a tainted, stale and stagnant piece of legislation that has been bought and paid for by special interests.

Our desire is to possibly encourage our colleagues in the House to take a serious and deliberative review of S. 256.

Now, we have heard already that we were refused and denied amendments and one would ask the question why. If we are a deliberative body, why not make a bill that deals with the military, the military who is being wounded or killed, the military who is paying their malpractice insurance and putting all their assets in their homes—where they can't be touched by bankruptcy.

Unlike eight years ago, we need not have a theoretical debate about the homestead exemption. Because we have the example of abuse tied directly to the failure of American companies. Millions of jobs have been lost but not the Florida and Texas fortunes of their corporate executives. Others are welcome to use the unlimited homestead exemption as well.

After he lost a $33 million lawsuit in California, Simpson Browning, a Florida ex-governor, explaining to a reporter that the unlimited exemption would permit him to protect a multimillion-dollar house.

Some physicians are reportedly dropping their malpractice insurance and putting all their assets in their homes—where they can't be touched by bankruptcy.

Under S. 256, they would still be welcome to file for bankruptcy and to keep their fortunes and properties intact while leaving the creditors with nothing. Unlike eight years ago, we need not have a theoretical debate about the effects of the proposed legislation on small businesses. The time lines in S. 256 would have denied reorganization, even for a small company. The time lines in S. 256 would have denied reorganization to more than a third of the small businesses that eventually saved themselves—destroying value for the companies, their creditors, their employees and their communities.

This bill would be the first in American history to discriminate affirmatively against small businesses. For the first time ever, Congress would pass a law that says companies like Enron and Worldcom don't have to meet fixed deadlines that a judge cannot waive for any reason—but every troubled small business in the Chapter 11 system would have to meet those deadlines or be liquidated. No exceptions allowed for small companies.

Unlike eight years ago, we need not have a theoretical debate about the economic impact of bankruptcies on credit card company profits.

In the eight years since this bill was introduced, credit has not been curtailed. Minors—under 18 years of age—with no incomes and no credit history are now described as an "emerging market" for the credit industry. Credit card solicitations have doubled to 5 billion a year. Bankruptcy filings have increased 17 percent, while credit card profits have increased 43 percent, from $11.5 billion to $30.2 billion.

Some courts have demanded that credit card companies disclose how much of their charge is interest and how much are fees, penalties and interest. Companies have admitted that for every dollar they claim the customer borrowed, they are demanding two more dollars in fees and interest.

With increased fees and universal default clauses that drive up interest rates even for customers paying on time, a growing number of people have no option but to declare bankruptcy to surface their needs. McCarthy, in which a woman borrowed $2200, paid back $2100 in the two years before bankruptcy, and was told by her credit card company she owed $2300 for a credit card. McCarthy had two choices: She could either declare bankruptcy or she could pay $2000 every year for life—and die owing as much as she owed today.

The means test in this bill, Section 102, has been one of its most controversial provisions. Proponents like to say that the means test won’t apply only on the families that can afford to repay. And yet, the bill has 217 sections that run for 239 pages. The means test aside, virtually every consumer provision aims in the same direction. The bill increases the cost of bankruptcy protection for every family, regardless of income or the cause of financial crisis, and it decreases by the imposition of bankruptcy for every family, regardless of income or the cause of financial crisis.

These provisions that will make Chapter 13 impossible for many of the debtors who would file today, provisions that make it easier than ever to abuse the unlimited homesteads in some states but at the same time hurt people with more modest homesteads in those same states. Other provisions will compromise the privacy of millions of families by putting their entire tax returns in the court files and potentially on the Internet, making them easy prey for identity thieves. Women trying to collect alimony or child support will more often be forced to compete with credit card companies that can have more of their debts declared non-dischargeable. All these provisions apply whether a person earns $20,000 a year or $200,000 a year.

But the means test as written has another, more basic problem: It treats all families alike. It assumes that everyone is in bankruptcy for the same reason—too much unnecessary spending. A family driven to bankruptcy by the increased costs of caring for an elderly parent or Alzheimer’s disease is treated the same as someone who maxed out his credit cards at a casino. A person who had a heart attack is treated the same as someone who was spending sprees at the shopping mall. A mother who works two jobs and who cannot manage the prescription drugs needed for a child with diabetes is treated the same as someone who charged a bunch of credit cards with only a vague intent to repay. A person cheated by a subsidiary mortgage lender and lied to by a credit counselor is treated the same as a person who gamed the system in every possible way.

If Congress is determined to sort the good debtors from the bad, then it is both morally and economically imperative that they distinguish those who have worked hard and played by the rules from those who have shirked their responsibilities. If Congress is determined to sort the good from the bad, then begin by sorting those who have been laid low by medical debts, those who lost their jobs, those whose breadwinners have been called to active duty and sent to Iraq, those who are caring for elderly parents and sick children and those few who overspend on frivolous purchases.

This Congress wants to set a new moral tone. Do it with the bankruptcy bill. Don’t press the button—don’t pull the trigger—on frivolous judgments on the very good and the very bad. Spend the time to make the hard decisions.

Leaves discretion with the bankruptcy judges to evaluate these families. Based on the Harvard medical study and other research, I think you will find that most debtors are not because they had too many Rolex watches and Gameboys, but because they had no choice.

You have a choice. It’s a choice that you’re making for your fellow human beings. Adopt not a bankruptcy legislation. Establish a means test that targets abuse. But do not enact a proposal written to address myth and mirror reality. Do not enact a proposal written for 1997 when the problems of the American corporate economy in 1997 deserve far more attention and the problems of the American middle class can no longer be ignored.

Overwhelmingly, American families file for bankruptcy because they have been driven there—largely by medical and economic catastrophe—not because they want to go there. Your legislation should respect that harsh reality and the families who face it.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. PUTNAM). The gentlewoman is out of order in defying the gavel.

Mr. Speaker, it is about great pleasure that I rise today to express my strong support for the Bankruptcy Abuse Prevention and Consumer Protection Act.

A Chinese proverb says, Give a man a fish and you feed him for a day. Teach a man to fish and you feed him for a lifetime. And that is exactly what this bill before us does today.

There are many reasons to support this bankruptcy reform bill, but I want to focus on one that is important to many of my colleagues, to me, and to the American people.

We should support the bill because it confronts the crisis of financial literacy. Financial literacy goes hand in hand with helping our citizens of all ages and walks of life to negotiate the complex world of personal finance. Financial literacy can help Americans avoid or survive bankruptcy.

We pass many laws that require the disclosure of the terms and conditions of the rich mix of financial products and services that are available to consumers. Unfortunately for too many of them, if they fail their test, the consequences are dire. The conditions of financial products and services is challenging enough. However, understanding those terms and conditions is often an even greater challenge.

Recognizing this fact, Congress included provisions in the Fair and Accurate Credit Transactions Act to address the issue of financial literacy. The Bankruptcy Abuse Prevention and Consumer Protection Act also contains important provisions addressing economic education. These provisions are designed to ensure that those who enter the bankruptcy system will learn the skills to more effectively manage their money in an increasingly complicated marketplace.

Last week we passed House Resolution 148, a bill that supports the goals and ideals of Financial Literacy Month, which is this month. April 2006. H. Res. 148 was co-sponsored by 82 Members of this body, and 409 Members of this body voted for it.

Mr. Speaker, the number of bankruptcies remain at a historic high, over 1.6 million. The Harvard medical study and other recent research estimates that 1.6 million bankruptcy cases were filed in Federal courts in 2004. With this in mind, I urge my colleagues to support this bill.

Mr. CONYERS. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentlewoman from California (Ms. Biggert), a distinguished member of the committee.

Ms. ZOE LOFGREN of California. Mr. Speaker, this bill hurts Americans. One group who will be especially hurt are families forced into bankruptcy because of a medical crisis.

A recent study conducted by professors at Harvard Medical and Law School showed that about half of all personal bankruptcies can be attributed to medical costs.

Among those who cited illnesses as a cause of bankruptcy, the average unreimbursed medical costs totaled nearly $12,000 even though more than three-quarters had health insurance.

How does the bill hurt the families? Under the bill for the first time there will be a presumption that many of these families abuse the bankruptcy system. Under current law, people facing medical bankruptcy have several forms of relief. Chapter 7 is by far the most common. Under 7 debtors are required to forfeit all of their property other than the exempt assets in exchange for having their debts extinguished.

Current law already gives bankruptcy courts discretion to deny chapter 7 relieve where the filing is found to be a substantial abuse. But unlike this bill, current law provides a presumption in favor of granting relief to the debtor.

The other option is chapter 13 where a debtor is required to continue paying creditors. This makes it more difficult for debtors to get back on their feet.

This bill will hurt families facing medical bankruptcy because it will force many of them into chapter 13. That is because it presumes that these families are abusing the bankruptcy system and if they fail the means test, the means test starts with a family’s income and then subtracts monthly expenses permitted by IRS guidelines. But instead of using a debtor’s actual projected income, the means tests uses the debtor’s average income over the past 6 years. If a family’s bankruptcy was triggered by a loss of income resulting from a serious illness, the means test would still attribute the lost income for the purpose of determining whether the family is abusing the bankruptcy system.

Further, the means test uses the median income for a State. My constituents in Santa Clara County live in a high-cost area. Almost nobody will be able to discharge their debts in bankruptcy from Santa Clara County because of that high cost, no matter how meritorious for their claim for relief.

Similarly, instead of using the debtor’s actual expenses, the inflexible guidelines set by the IRS most often are used. As a result, more families facing medical bankruptcy will be presumed to be abusing the system, will be forced into chapter 13 and will never be able to stand on their feet again. That is not right.

The Harvard study found that these struggling families did everything they could to pay their medical bills to avoid bankruptcy. One in five skipped meals. One-third had their electricity cut off. Almost half lost their phone service. One in five was forced to move. Incredibly, they also cut back on needed medications to try to avoid bankruptcy. In fact, half went without needed medications to try to avoid service. One in five was forced to move. Almost half lost their phone cut off. Almost half went without a needed doctor appointment. Several million Americans (filers plus dependents) experienced medical bankruptcy. Among those whose illnesses led to bankruptcy, out-of-pocket costs averaged $11,854 since the start of illness; 75.7 percent had insurance at the onset of illness. Medical debtors were 42 percent more likely than other debtors to experience financial dualism. Even middle-class insured families often fall prey to financial catastrophe when sick.

“If the debtor be insolvent to serve creditors, let his body be cut in pieces on the third market day. It may be cut into more or fewer pieces with impunity. Or, if his creditors consent to it, let him be sold to foreigners beyond the Tiber.”

—Twelve Tables, Table III, 6 (ca. 450 B.C.)

Our bankruptcy system works differently from that of ancient Rome; creditors carve up the debtor’s assets, not the debtor. Even so, bankruptcy leaves painful imprints in its wake. Credit reports in the 21st century, making everything from car insurance to house payments more expensive. Debtor’s names are often published in the newspaper, and the debtor is forced to show up whenever someone tries to find them via the Internet. Potential employers who run routine credit checks (a common screening practice) will discover the bankruptcy, which can lead to embarrassment or, worse, the lost chance for a much-needed job.

Personal bankruptcy is common. Nearly 1.5 million couples or individuals filed bankruptcy petitions in 2001, a 360 percent increase since 1980. Fragmentary data from the legal literature suggest that illness and medical bills push people towards bankruptcy. In previous studies of medical bankruptcy, however, there have relied on court records—where medical debts may be subsumed under credit card or mortgage debt—or on responses to a single survey question. None has collected detailed information on medical expenses, diagnosis, access to care, or insurance coverage. Research has been impeded both by the absence of a national repository for bankruptcy filings and by debtors’ reticence to participate. For example, in one pop-survey that used the credit-based surveys, only half of those who have undergone bankruptcy admit to it. The health policy literature is virtually silent on access to care; a few studies that have looked at impoverishment attributable to illness. In his 1972 book, Sen. Edward Kennedy (D-MA) gave an impressionistic account of bankruptcy. The likelihood of incurring high out-of-pocket costs was incorporated into older estimates of the number of underinsured Americans: twenty-nine million in 1987. About 16 percent of families now spend more than one-twentieth of their income on health care. Among the lowest 11 percent of families in terms of their income, 39 percent reported that health care costs caused moderate or severe financial problems. Medical debt is common among the poor, even those with insurance, and interest rates are huge. At least 9 percent, and perhaps as many as 21 percent of American families are contacted by collection agencies each year.

Our study provides the first extensive data on the medical concomitants of bankruptcy, based on a survey of debtors in bankruptcy courts. We address the following questions: (1) Who files for bankruptcy? (2) How frequently do illness and medical bills contribute to bankruptcy? (3) What medical information do debtors need and for what services? (4) Does inadequate health insurance play a role in bankruptcy? (5) Does bankruptcy compromise access to care?

A BRIEF PRIMER ON BANKRUPTCY

“Bankruptcy” is synonymous with “broke.” “Bankrupt” means filing a petition in a federal court asking for protection from creditors via the bankruptcy laws. A single petition may cover an individual (or married couple). The instant a debtor files for bankruptcy, the court assumes legal control of the debtor’s assets and halts all collection efforts.

Shortly after the filing, a court-appointed trustee convenes a meeting to inventory the debtor’s assets and debts and to determine which assets are exempting. States may regulate these exemptions, which often include work tools, clothes, Bibles, and some equity in a home. About 70 percent of all consumer debtors file under Chapter 7 of the Bankruptcy Code; most others file under Chapter 13. In Chapter 7 the trustee liquidates all nonexempt assets—although 96 percent of debtors have so little unencumbered property that there is nothing left to liquidate. At the conclusion of the bankruptcy, the debtor is freed from many debts. In Chapter 13 the debtor proposes a repayment plan, which extends for up to five years. Chapter 13 debtors may retain their property long as they stay current with their repayments.

Under both chapters, taxes, student loans, alimony, and child support remain payable in full, and debtors must make payments on all secured loans (such as home mortgages and car loans) or forfeit the collateral.

STUDY DATA AND METHODS

This study is based on a cohort of 1,771 bankruptcy filers in 2001. A “bankrupt” is a debtor completed a written questionnaire at the mandatory meeting with the trustee, and we abstracted financial data from public records. We collected follow-up telephone interviews with about half (931) of these debtors.

Sampling strategy. We used cluster sampling to assemble a cohort to households filing for personal bankruptcy in five of the seventy-seven total federal judicial districts. The collected cases in each district, representative of the proportion of Chapters 7 and 13 filings in that district. These 1,250 cases constitute our “core sample.” We collected identical data from an additional 521 homeowners filing for bankruptcy. We based our analyses on all 1,771 bankruptcy cases. The responses weighted to maintain the representativeness of the sample.

Data collection. With the cooperation of the judges in each district, we contacted the trustees who officiate at meetings with debtors. The trustees agreed to distribute, or to allow a research assistant to distribute, a self-administered questionnaire to debtors appearing at the bankruptcy meeting. Questionnaires (which were available in English and Spanish) included a cover letter explaining the research project and human subjects protections and encouraging debtors to consult their attorneys (who were almost always present) before participating. The questionnaire included specific questions on demographics, employment, housing, and specific reasons for filing for bankruptcy, it also asked whether the debtor had medical debts exceeding $1,000, had been without adequate health care for one month or more in that coverage during the past two years. In joint filings, we collected demographic information for each spouse.

We conducted all interviews from February 2001 to collected questionnaires from consecutive debtors in each district until the target number was reached.

Follow-up telephone interviews. The written questionnaire distributed at the time of bankruptcy filing invited debtors to participate in future telephone interviews, for which they would receive $50; 70 percent agreed to such interviews. We ultimately completed follow-up telephone interviews with 931 of the 1,771 debtor families, a response rate of 53 percent. The telephone interviews, conducted between June 2001 and February 2002 using a structured, computer-assisted protocol, explored financial, housing, medical issues.

Those debtors also provided a narrative description of their bankruptcy experience. We abstracted medical questions. Each of the 931 interviewees was asked if any of the following had been a significant cause of their bankruptcy: an illness or injury; the death of a family member; or the addition of a family member through birth, adoption, custody, or fostering. Those who answered yes to this screening question were asked about diagnoses, treatment, health insurance, and medical care use and spending. Interviewers collected information about each household member with medical problems. Interviewers also collected information on 391 people with health problems in 332 debtor households.

Data analysis. We used data from the self-administered questionnaires (and court records) obtained from all 1,771 filters to analyze demographics, health coverage at the time of filing, and gaps in coverage in the two years before filing. We also used the questionnaire to estimate how frequently illness and medical bills contributed to bankruptcy. We developed two summary measures of medical bankruptcy. Under the rubric “Major Medical Bankruptcy” we included debtors who either (1) sought medical care or injury or insurance after filing for bankruptcy, or (2) reported uncovered medical bills exceeding $1,000 in the past years.

STUDY FINDINGS

Who files for bankruptcy? Exhibit 1 displays the demographic characteristics of our weighted sample of 1,771 bankruptcy filers.
The average filer was 47 years old, a married woman with children and at least some college education. Most debtors owned homes; their occupational prestige scores place them predominantly in the middle or working classes.

On average, each bankruptcy involved 1.32 debtors (reflecting some joint filings by married couples) and 1.33 dependents. Extrap-cating from our data, the 1.5 million personal bankruptcy filings nationally in 2001 involved 3.9 million people: 1.9 million debtors, 1.3 million children under age eighteen, and 0.7 million other dependents.

Medical causes of bankruptcy. Exhibit 2 shows the proportion of debtors (N = 1,771) health coverage. Many had coverage at the onset of their illness but lost it. In other cases, even continuous coverage left families with ruinous medical bills.

Second, even brief lapses in insurance coverage most surely continues to increase. Although our sample may be fully representative of all personal bankruptcies, the Chapter 7 files we studied resemble only nationally a group for whom demographic data has been compiled nationally from court records. Several indicators suggest that response bias did not affect our findings. As in all surveys, we relied on respondents’ truthfulness. Might some debtors blame their predicament on socially acceptable medical costs rather than admit to irresponsible spending? Several factors suggest that our respondents were candid. First, just prior to answering our questionnaire, debtors had filled extensive information with the court under penalty of perjury—information that was available to use in the court records and that virtually never contradicted the wire data. They were about to be sworn in by a trustee (who often administered our questionnaire) and examined under oath. At few other points in life are few dishonest and honest so aggravatingly emphasized.

Second, the details called for in our telephone interviews about out-of-pocket medical expenses, who was ill, diagnoses, and so forth—would make a generic claim that “we had medical problems” difficult to sustain. Third, one of us (Thorne) interviewed (for other studies) many debtors in their homes. Almost all specifically denied spend-thrift habits, and observation of their homes reflected the lifestyle of people under economic constraint, with modest furnishings and few luxuries. Finally, our findings reflect the indirect corroboration from recent surveys of the general public that have found high levels of medical debt, which often result in calls from collection agencies.

Even when data are reliable, making causal inferences from a cross-sectional study such as ours is perilous. Many debtors described a complex web of problems involving illness, work, and family. Dissecting medical costs. Additionally, improved programs are needed to replace breadwinners and protect business misfortunes.

Our bankruptcy laws have shifted away from what was their original purpose. In 1915 the Supreme Court wrote that our bankruptcy laws were intended to give honest debtors a chance to “start afresh, free from obligations and responsibilities consequent upon business misfortunes.” This view was later reaffirmed in the 1934 case, Local Loan Company v. Hunt, in which the court wrote that “the purpose of the act has been again and again emphasized by the courts in that it gives to the honest but unfortunate debtor a new opportunity in life and a clear field for future effort, unhampered by the pressure and discouragement of existing debts.”

Over the last several decades, bankruptcy protections have expanded to cover basically anyone and everyone, not just those who truly need it. Statistics reveal that in 2004 approximately 1.5 million individuals sought bankruptcy protection. Increasingly, this protection is being sought for the consumer debt that has skyrocketed out of control as a result of the misuse of credit cards and other credit options. This expansive coverage comes at a price.

Personal bankruptcy filing cost businesses and our economy tens of billions of dollars every year. It is essentially a $300 per family annual tax on each and every American family. H.R. 685 the Bankruptcy Abuse Prevention and Protection Act of 2005, the bill that is here before us today, strikes a balance. It is a long overdue, much necessary first step; and I urge my colleagues to support this legislation.
Mr. CONYERS. Mr. Speaker, I yield 20 seconds to my friend, the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. SCOTT).

Mr. SCOTT of Virginia. Mr. Speaker, what the gentleman suggested was, if someone has overwhelming medical bills, hundreds of thousands in medical bills, that they can file under Chapter 7. That is not true. If they have a job and they have $100 a month left over after essential expenses, they are going to have to go under a wage earner plan for the next 5 years. Every dime they have got after food and rent will go to all of their bills. They cannot file under Chapter 7.

Mr. CONYERS. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. KUCINICH) for a unanimous consent request.

(Mr. KUCINICH asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. KUCINICH. Mr. Speaker, almost half of the bankruptcies in the United States are connected to an illness in the family, whether people have health insurance or not. Middle-class Americans, who had the misfortune of either experiencing a medical emergency themselves or watching a family member suffer, were then forced to face the daunting task of pulling themselves out of debt. Bankruptcy law has allowed them to start over. It has given hope. Now this new law will put people on their own. Middle-class families who fall on hard times or the credit card companies are telling the people that they themselves are to blame. At the same time, we are removing protections that would stay an eviction, that would keep a roof over the head of a working family. We allow the credit industry to trick consumers into using subprime cards, with exorbitant interest rate hikes and fees. Then we hand those same consumers over to an outrageous interest rate hikes and fees. Then we are protected by the credit card industry instead of protecting the economic future of the American people. Americans are left on their own. That’s what this Administration’s “Ownership Society” is all about—you’re on your own—and your ship is sinking.

Mr. CONYERS. Mr. Speaker, I am now pleased to break the line of members of the committee. I yield 1 minute and 15 seconds to a distinguished friend of mine, the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. PASCRELL).

Mr. PASCRELL. Mr. Speaker, you would not even exempt our brothers and sisters coming back from war, and you want me to believe that this is reasonable legislation?

Rising debt levels in turn reflect a shift in our economy away from a time when families could afford to save and into a time when their wages are stagnant. The costs of their health premiums increased 163 percent since 1988. Their tuitions have increased 170 percent. Their mortgages, their child care. This is not a stable economy.

They are not crooks. They are not evil people. The American Bankruptcy Institute says that 96.3 percent of the people filing Chapter 7 just do not have the money. Now we are not saying forget about all of this, but we are saying let us be reasonable.

Who should we help? Who should be first on the list of congressional priorities? The families who are in financial straits or the credit card companies who made a record $30 billion in profits last year and whose profits have soared almost triple in the last decade?

This legislation does nothing to put caps on interest rates or late fees or the overtime limits and other penalties, even those among reasonable people.

Mr. SENSENBRENNER. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1½ minutes to the gentleman from Delaware (Mr. CASTLE).

Mr. CASTLE. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in strong support of S. 256, the Bankruptcy Abuse and Consumer Protection Act.

Mr. Speaker, we have seen a sharp increase in bankruptcies in the past 25 years. In 2003, consumer filings peaked at over 1.6 million filings, a 465 percent increase from 1980. Those who believe credit card companies, mortgage lenders and other financial institutions are bearing the cost of consumers filing for bankruptcy do not understand how business works. These costs will be shifted to American families who are paying the price for this debt, some studies reflect $400 per year in every household, by higher interest rates on their credit cards, auto loans, school loans and mortgages. When the legislation passes today it will be the American families who are the real winners.

This legislation balances the consumer’s challenge of debt repayment with the needs of businesses that collect money rightfully owed to them. In an effort to better educate consumers and improve financial literacy, the legislation requires many filers of bankruptcy to attend financial counseling. This change coupled with congressional encouragement for schools to incorporate personal finance curricula in elementary and secondary education programs are both useful methods of curbing future debt. As chairman of the Subcommittee on Education Reform, which has jurisdiction over K through 12, I feel strongly that educating future spenders can prevent debts incurred as adults.

Again, Mr. Speaker, I want to thank Chairman SENSENBERGREN for his years of strong and tenacious support for this legislation and thank him for not giving up on these important, commonsense changes to our bankruptcy system. I urge my colleagues to support this bipartisan legislation.

Mr. CONYERS. Mr. Speaker, before I recognize the gentleman from Massachusetts, I want to go back and yield 10 seconds to the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. PASCRELL).

Mr. PASCRELL. Mr. Speaker, I want to make sure that everybody quite understands that I will no longer support this legislation. I am changing my vote this year to a no vote. This is terrible legislation, and we have only made it worse.

Mr. CONYERS. Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to yield 2 minutes to my friend, the gentleman from Massachusetts (Mr. MEEHAN), an excellent member of the committee.

Mr. MEEHAN. Mr. Speaker, this bankruptcy bill is but the latest attempt by the Republican Congress to undermine the economic security of the middle class. Health care costs, not spending sprees, are the single largest cause of bankruptcies in America. Health care costs. Medical bankruptcies have gone up by more than 2,000 percent in the last 25 years. Why are we here trying to increase the profits of credit card companies while doing nothing to lower the cost of health care for middle-class American families?

It is disgraceful that this bill is being considered under a closed rule, with just an hour of debate, with no opportunity for amendment.

Supporters of this bill claim to have exempted service members who become disabled on active duty, but to be exempted you have to go into debt while on active duty.

A veteran who returns home from Iraq or Afghanistan and then goes into debt because of the injuries sustained on active duty is still subject to the punitive means test. What a way to treat the men and women in uniform fighting on behalf of the United States. It is an unfair loophole that we should have had the opportunity to close here on the House floor.

Another blatant unfairness is that this bill allows millionaires to shield their assets in estates in Florida and Texas, but no such homestead exemption exists for middle-class families who suffer serious medical expenses. We tried to offer an amendment allowing a limited homestead exemption for families with crushing medical debts. Unfortunately, no amendments were allowed.

It is an outrage that we cannot debate these issues here on the House floor. This bill is simply an attempt to reward credit card companies by removing a last resort available to middle-class families who fall on hard times.

I urge Members to oppose this terrible bill.

Mr. SENSENBRENNER. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself a minute and a half.

Mr. Speaker, once again the opponents of this legislation are not correct. My friend, the gentleman from Massachusetts, says that someone who is injured in Iraq and comes home is not going to be protected from medical expenses. The United States Government has stood behind everybody who has a service-connected injury or disability and pays for the medical treatment out of taxpayers' money because that is the right thing to do.

Secondly, he says that this bill continues the millionaires' exemption in the eight States that have unlimited exemption. Wrong. It plugs that exemption.

And if this bill goes down, a corporate crook can build a multimillion dollar house in the Intercostal waterway in Florida and be able to shield that asset from bankruptcy. What this bill does is it does plug that unlimited exemption and it plugs it in a way that was negotiated out in a bipartisan manner in the conference committee two Congresses ago with a motion that was made in that conference committee by my senior Senator, HERB KOHL, who is a Democrat.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. CONYERS. Mr. Speaker, I yield 10 seconds to the gentleman from Massachusetts (Mr. MEEHAN).

Mr. MEEHAN. Mr. Speaker, I did not say the bill did not pay for service members' medical expenses who are injured in Iraq or Afghanistan. I said if they incur debt after they come back from the country and are forced to bankruptcy, they get the punitive means test. That is wrong. We should not do it to people serving in Iraq and Afghanistan.

Mr. CONYERS. Mr. Speaker, how much time remains on either side?

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. PUTNAM). The gentleman from Michigan (Mr. CONYERS) has 9 minutes and 20 seconds. The gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. SENSENBERNRENNER) has 8 minutes remaining.

Mr. CONYERS. Mr. Speaker, I am now pleased to yield 2 minutes to the gentlewoman from California (Ms. LINDA T. Sánchez), who is an able member of the committee.

Ms. LINDA T. SANCHEZ of California. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong opposition to the so-called Bankruptcy Abuse Prevention and Consumer Protection Act of 2005.

Contrary to its name, this bill does not protect consumers and it certainly does not help honest, hard-working families with financial problems. The only thing that this bill does is distort our bankruptcy laws so that working families are treated more like criminals than people in need of relief.

Our bankruptcy laws must strike a fair and practical balance between debtors and creditors. This means that honest people with financial troubles can find a fresh start by getting creditors off their backs.

But this bill does the exact opposite of that. Instead of helping struggling families in debt, this bill erects harsh legal and monetary roadblocks for people who are trying to file bankruptcy.

The vast majority of people who file for bankruptcy, 9 out of 10, do so because they have either lost their job, suffered a medical emergency, or there has been a divorce or separation in their family, or they are abusing the bankruptcy system.

We are talking about recently divorced, single working mothers trying to support their children who may not be getting their child support. We are talking about men and women in our Armed Forces returning home after serving their country in Iraq. We are talking about some of the 1.6 million families who have lost their private-sector jobs since 2001 when a Republican administration took over the White House. These are honest, hard-working families who have resorted to bankruptcy to find some relief for their debts and a chance to start their lives anew.

This is a terrible bill. It is harmful to struggling families and goes against the basic policy of our bankruptcy laws, helping families in financial trouble get a fresh start.

I urge every Member of the House to stand by America's working families by voting no for passage of S. 256.

Mr. SENSENBERNRENNER. Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. CONYERS. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentlewoman from Los Angeles, California (Ms. WATERS), a member of the committee.

Ms. WATERS. Mr. Speaker, the passing of this bill would be a complete detriment to the American people. For many Americans find themselves, usually through no fault of their own, facing bankruptcy. This scenario could happen to almost anyone.

Mr. Speaker, the reason Americans file for bankruptcy is not to abuse the system and avoid paying their bills. Americans file for bankruptcy usually due to catastrophic medical expenses, divorce, or the loss of a job.

Many important, common-sense amendments on subjects such as alimony, child support, exemptions for medical emergencies, and job loss, under-age credit card lending, predatory lending and protection for disabled veterans, just to name a few, were all rejected by the Judiciary Committee.

Mr. Speaker, amendments should have been made to this bill to carve out exemptions for certain basic needs so Americans can still have some equity or resources should they be forced into bankruptcy.

More specifically, one loophole in the bankruptcy bill leaves the victims of domestic violence and their children left with no resources should they file for bankruptcy. This is so unfair. The bill should have been allowed to be modified to secure better protection for domestic abuse victims by granting them relief from summary eviction from their homes.

Please note, this relief would have only been available if a domestic violence debtor is certified, under penalty of perjury, that the debtor was in fact a victim of domestic abuse and that their physical well-being or the physical well-being of the debtor's child would be threatened if this debtor were evicted.

Mr. Speaker, this amendment would have provided a safe harbor for those victims who faced the great threat of more violence and extreme danger if their homes are taken as a result of bankruptcy.

We also tried to do something about this underhanded credit card lending. It is a travesty. These credit card companies set up on the college campuses. They have vendors from the day these kids walk into college. They send them all of this unsolicited mail, and they telephone them unremittingly to get them involved in taking these credit cards.

They do it. They run up the debt. Some of them are now 30, 35 years old, out of college for years, still paying on these credit cards because they allowed their minimum payments that do not even take into account all of the interest on the debt.

It is outright unreasonable that we did not have an amendment allowed by my friends on the opposite side of the aisle to try and protect families and future young families from this kind of exploitation.

Also, I want to point out that the means test includes disaster assistance and veterans benefits. This is a rip-off.

Mr. SENSENBERNRENNER. Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. CONYERS. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself 5 seconds to let the gentlewoman from California know that the credit card companies solicit five billion mailings every year to college kids and others.

Mr. Speaker, may I ask the chairman how many speakers he may have remaining.

Mr. SENSENBERNRENNER. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman will yield, just me at the present time.

Mr. CONYERS. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the dynamic gentlewoman from California (Ms. WOOLSEY).

(Ms. WOOLSEY asked and was given permission to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. WOOLSEY. Mr. Speaker, over the last 18 months the House leadership has passed bills that are windfalls for the pharmaceutical industry, big oil, and they have given massive tax breaks to corporations while the deficit in this country continues to grow by records.
Now lining up for their share and licking their lips is the credit card industry who stands to make billions of dollars at the expense of American consumers.

With the hope of helping to protect veterans from these regulations, I offered an amendment to this bill to simply waive any fee charged for credit counseling for any servicemember returning from a combat area for a period of 2 years. Do my colleagues think that was allowed to come down here on the House floor for a vote? Absolutely not.

Many of these men and women have been away from their families, from their homes, their jobs for long periods of time because of unethical procedures that keep them overseas. Many of these individuals have lost their businesses, they have lost their homes and they have bills and are going to suffer. Our veterans, they will suffer because of this bankruptcy bill.

Mr. Speaker, over the last eighteen months, the House leadership has passed bills that are windfalls to the pharmaceutical industry and big oil and, have given massive tax breaks to corporations, while the deficit continues to break records.

Now lining up for their share and licking their lips is the credit card industry, that stand to make billions of dollars at the expense of the American consumer.

With the hope of helping to protect Veterans from these new regulations, I offered an Amendment to this bill to simply waive any fees charged for credit counseling for any service member returning from a combat area, for a period of two years. Unfortunately, the majority didn’t allow any.

Many of these men and women have been away from their families, homes and jobs for long periods of time because of unethical procedures that keep them overseas. This is resulting in severe economic hardships, business closures, homes foreclosures and bills unpaid.

We must not penalize our troops for serving our country. It is appalling that any Veteran would face bankruptcy because of their sacrifice.

Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues to vote against this bill to protect American families and maintain a core American value to allow people a fresh start.

Mr. CONYERS. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself 1 minute.

We should all be embarrassed that instead of repealing the biggest loophole in the law, instead of doing something for them to avoid their debts. Instead of helping individuals who have lost their job or faced a health care emergency, we deny them the chance for a fresh start.

By passing this measure in this form, the majority is telling the American people. Republicans are telling the American people, it is more important to help credit card companies than innocent spouses and children; that it is more important to protect corporate scam artists than workers losing their pension; that it is more important to protect unscrupulous lenders than disabled veterans.

Mr. Speaker, I yield the remainder of my time to the gentleman from California (Ms. PELOSI), the distinguished minority leader.

(Ms. PELOSI asked and was given permission to revise and extend her remarks, and include extraneous material.)

Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding me time and thank him for his distinguished leadership as the ranking member on the Committee on the Judiciary and his important statements on this bankruptcy bill today.

Mr. Speaker, we all agree that every person in our country must be financially responsible, that we take responsibility for our action, for our debts and we do so in a way that is honorable.

In the course of our country’s history, our economy, our government has always provided for people to get a fresh start under the bankruptcy law to enable them to go forward to make a contribution to our economy and our society. Recognizing that tradition and recognizing the appreciation that we have for personal responsibility, I regretfully rise in opposition to this bill because this bankruptcy bill seeks to squeeze even more money for credit card companies from the most hard-pressed Americans.

It would hard work, hardworking and honest Americans to credit card companies and other lenders as modern day indentured servants. I think it is our duty to speak up for those who would be hurt by this bill.

This duty is paramount because we have been shut out of the process here, the legislative process to bring any amendments to the floor. That would have been an amendment on identity theft, which this week’s news accounts demonstrate there are real problems of identity theft, and an amendment was rejected.

We tried to take a legislative course of action in our previous question, which is a technicality, is a procedure here on the floor; but we were not able to get any Republican support to add to the request by Congress to fix the loopholes and how individuals can be protected from identity theft under the bankruptcy bill.

According to the sponsors of this bill, 1.6 million Americans who filed for bankruptcy last year are deadbeats who are avoiding their debts. That is really the essence of what they are saying with this bill. Proponents claim that there is a bankruptcy tax in which honest Americans are footing the bill for abusive users of credit cards.

We should be vigilant for any abuse of any legal process. There is no evidence, however, of widespread bankruptcy abuse. In fact, a recent study indicated that 45 percent of those filing for bankruptcy had skipped a needed doctor’s visit, 25 percent had utilities shut off, 20 percent went without food. They are not using this money that they should be paying in for luxuries. They simply just do not have money to spend.

As a distinguished group of law professors wrote: “Some people do abuse the bankruptcy system, but the overwhelming majority of people in bankruptcy are in financial distress as a result of job loss, medical expenses, divorce, or a combination of those causes. This bill attempts to kill a mosquito with a shotgun.”

I have a problem with the bill on several counts as to what is contained in the bill. The bankruptcy bill fails miserably, I believe, on its merits. It employs, for the first time, a stringent and unworkable means test that limits access to chapter 7 and forces individuals into payment plans that will fail. It creates a keyhole of the bankruptcy code, to give individuals who suffer economic misfortunes through no fault of their own a fresh start. That is an American tradition.

The bill neglects the real causes of bankruptcies, as the mentions, medical concerns, divorce, in some cases death, while rewarding irresponsible corporate behavior.

It lets those who truly abuse and game the bankruptcy system, the credit card companies, and other lenders as modern day indentured servants, escape from asset trusts and homestead exemptions, keep their loopholes and get off, in some cases, scot-free.

It is wholly unnecessary. Current law already allows a bankruptcy judge to deny a discharge in chapter 7 to prevent abuses. That is why bankruptcy judges are uniformly opposed to the bill.

I just would like to quote Keith Lundin, a Federal bankruptcy judge in Chicago and authoritative on bankruptcy repayment plans. Judge Lundin says, “The folks who brought you those who can pay, should pay are pulling the stuffing out of the very part of the bankruptcy law where debtors do pay.” He says, “The advocates aren’t trying to fix the bankruptcy law; they’re trying to mess it up so much that nobody can use it.”

They interviewed dozens of bankrupt judges, whose names have been mentioned by proponents and opponents of this legislation, for their standing on this issue, to speak out; and the reasons why these judges are opposed are several reasons.

One is the judges now have broad discretion to determine how much a debtor must pay to creditors and on what schedule, and the schedule is very important, after declaring bankruptcy under what is known as chapter 13; but under the legislation, that discretion would be substantially curtailed.

The new legislation would bar courts from reducing the amount that many debtors would have to repay on their cars and other big-ticket items. It would also extend the length of time people would have to make repayments and impose repayment schedules that critics describe as so onerous that debtors would fall behind. It just pre-scribes that they would.

The bankruptcy judges say the result would be a collapse of more repayment plans, forcing debtors out of bankruptcy court protection. Creditors could then force debtors to pay the full amount owed, not the reduced amount, and by moving to repossess their be-longings debtors would thus be unable to pay creditors far into the future and thus be unable to restart their economic lives, a long-held aim of bankruptcy.

I will submit this article from the Los Angeles Times for the RECORD at this point.

[From the Los Angeles Times, Mar. 29, 2005]
JUDGES SAY OVERHAUL WOULD WEAKEN BANKRUPTCY SYSTEM.
(By Peter G. Gosselin)

For nearly a decade, proponents of over-hauling the bankruptcy system have described their aim as ensuring that Ameri-cans who enter bankruptcy court do not es-cape bills that they can truly afford to pay. But the Congress is likely to approve the long-sought overhaul, bank-ruptcy judges across the country warn that the measure would undermine the very sec-tion of the law under which debtors are now repaying more than $3 billion annually to their creditors. These judges say the effect of the overhaul would be to undermine most forms of per-sonal bankruptcy, which—for nearly two centuries has served as a safety net for peo-ple in economic trouble.

"The folks who brought you ‘those who can pay, should pay’ are pulling the stuffing out of the very part of the bankruptcy law where debtors do pay," said Keith Lundin, a federal bankruptcy judge in the eastern district of Tennessee in Nashville and an authority on bankruptcy repayment plans.

"The advocates aren’t trying to fix the bankruptcy system, they are trying to mess it up so much that nobody can use it," Lundin charged.

In interviews, a dozen current or former bankruptcy judges, whose names were sug-gested by proponents as well as opponents of the overhaul legislation, described what they saw as a problem that could result from key provisions of the new measure. Judges now have broad discretion to deter-mine how much a debtor must pay to credi-tors and on what schedule after declaring bankruptcy under what is known as Chapter 13. It would also extend the length of time people would have to make repayments and impose repayment schedules that critics describe as so onerous that many debtors would fall behind.

The result, the judges said, would be the collapse of more repayment plans, forcing debtors out of bankruptcy court protection. Creditors then could try to force debtors to pay the full amount owed—not the reduced amount a judge had ordered—by moving to repossess their belongings or bringing legal actions. Many people would have to pay creditors more than they could afford to pay, the critics said, and thus be unable to restart their economic lives, a long-held aim of bankruptcy.

Repayment plans "are pretty fragile docu-ments to begin with, but they’re going to get a lot more fragile under these conditions," said Ronald Barlant, a former bankruptcy judge from the northern district of Illinois in Chicago.

"It’s going to take away a lot of the incen-tives for people to enter repayment plans," said David Skilton, a bankruptcy judge from the northern district of Mis-issippi in Aberdeen.

Overhaul proponents respond to such criti-cisms by contending that the current bank-ruptcy system is rife with fraud and abuse and is stacked against creditors. Many pro-ponents are deeply scornful of bankruptcy judges, who they charge have let the system spin out of control.

"They’re part of the . . . problem," de-clared Terry Moley, a Washington lobbyist who heads the coalition of credit card com-panies, banks and others that has spear-headed the overhaul drive.

"They’re not real judges, not Article 3 judges," Tassie said. He was referring to Ar-ticle 3 of the U.S. Constitution, under which judges in the regular federal court system are appointed. Bankruptcy judges are appointed under Article 1 to 14-year renew-able terms.

As matters now stand, financially dis-tressed Americans generally have two op-tions in bankruptcy. They can file a Chapter 7 case, in which they forfeit most of their as-sets in return for cancellation of most debts and a discharge. Or they can file a Chapter 13 case, in which they get to keep most of their property but must agree to repay a portion of their debts over a pe-riod of time.

Some advocates for changing the system have contended that these provisions should be rewritten to address a kind of moral laxi-ness in bankruptcy practices.

"When you have seen a system that has gone from a few hundred thousand cases to 1.5 million last year—most of that increase during the fall years of the Clinton administra-tion—you must conclude something is not right," said Edith H. Jones, a federal appel-late court judge in Houston who served on a blue-ribbon panel to review bankruptcy law in the 1990s and is widely believed to be seen as a candidate for the credit card and banking industries es-timate that 10 percent or more would be able to pay. The opposed to the changes contend that most people who file for bankruptcy are truly distressed financially—and say the supposed savings courts have in collecting as much as they do under Chapter 13 show the system is working.

According to figures from the U.S. Trustee Program, a Justice Department agency, Chapter 13 debtors repaid almost $3.6 billion in 2003, the latest year for which figures are available. But critics say the courts’ success with Chapter 13 is threatened by several little-notice-ted elements of the proposed legislation:

Under current law, those who file under Chapter 13 must repay the full amount a judge had ordered—the amount the car is worth at the time they enter court, or they risk losing the vehicle. A debtor who bought a $24,000 sport utility vehicle and filed for bankruptcy five years later, for example, might have to pay far less because the vehicle had depreciated.

By reducing what debtors owe auto lenders in Chapter 13, the legislation would pay repaid up to the amount a judge had ordered—the amount the car is worth at the time they enter court, or they risk losing the vehicle. A debtor who bought a $24,000 sport utility vehicle and filed for bankruptcy five years later, for example, might have to pay far less because the vehicle had depreciated.

A debtor who bought a $24,000 sport utility vehicle and filed for bankruptcy five years later, for example, might have to pay far less because the vehicle had depreciated.

Under the legislation, many debtors would have to pay the full amount on any vehicle purchased within 2½ years of bankruptcy, or risk losing the vehicle. The change may seem minor to an outsider, but to Chap-ter 13 debtors or bankruptcy judges. "That’s going to be a big deal," predicted A. Thomas Small, a bankruptcy judge for the eastern district of North Carolina in Raleigh. It would mean that many repayment plans that work now would fail under the new measure, he said.

Since the current law, the debtor and his law-yer work out a repayment plan that they think represents the most the debtor can pay and still cover basic living expenses. A bank-ruptcy judge must approve the plan, which usually has reduced or stretched-out payments to creditors. In the meantime, the debtor immediately begins making pay-ments to a court-appointed trustee.

Under the legislation, many debtors would have to make full payments on such big-ticket items as houses, furniture and appli-ances—whether they are able to make pay-ments directly to the lenders. And at the same time, they would have to start paying the court-appointed trustee for debts to doc-tors, credit card companies and other un-seured creditors.

Many bankruptcy judges say debtors who come to court do not have enough income to make both sets of payments.

The result, they warned, would be that many debtors’ plans would quickly fail.

Under current bankruptcy law, two guid-ing principles are that debtors should not be required to repay indefinitely, or they effec-tively become indentured servants to their creditors. And that there would eventually be given a debt-free “fresh start” on their eco-nomic lives.

The legislation would require debtors to agree to minimum repayment plans—the five-year minimum repayment schedule, up from the current three-year minimum. It would also boost the chances that debtors would be required to continue paying some debts even after a plan’s successful completion.

Critics, including bankruptcy judges in California, North Carolina, Massachusetts, and Florida say there is nowhere near the fraud in the system that advocates claim.

Todd Zywicki, a law professor at George Mason University in Virginia, said the shift away from the “fresh start” philosophy is justified because another bedrock American value—that people who incur debts should pay them—is being eroded under the current system.

But many bankruptcy judges and independent experts warn that equally compelling values would be lost if the proposed measure becomes law.

Practically, they warn, debtors who would no longer be able to complete Chapter 13 repayment plans would either have to keep paying creditors indefinitely or drop out.

“If you’re confronted with a mountain of debt and have no hope of getting out from under it, you’re either going to go underground or turn to crime,” said Kenneth N. Klee, a former Hilltop Bankruptcy Judge who was one of the chief authors of the last major bankruptcy law change in 1978 and now teaches law at UCLA.

More broadly, say judges and others, the ability to start over after running into financial problems should not be discounted.

“Loads of people have filed bankruptcy—Mark, Buster Keaton, Walt Disney,” said Lundin, the Nashville-based bankruptcy judge. “Bankruptcy is a very American safety net.”

“If it’s part and parcel of the American dream.”

Mr. Speaker, while this bill fails to improve the bankruptcy system, the bill succeeds in being harsh, punitive and mean-spirited.

The bill is particularly harsh on women who are often the primary care givers for their children or their parents and are the largest single group in bankruptcy; on older Americans who are the fastest growing group in bankruptcy; and on children. Parents seeking child support will compete with credit card companies and other lenders in State courts, but will have little protection and fewer resources than the large credit card companies are up against.

Finally, the bill does a disservice to those who serve our Nation, especially our National Guard troops and Reservists who are not protected by an amendment passed by the other body.

National Guard and Reservists make up nearly 40 percent of those serving in the Iraqi theater. They often leave behind small businesses and jobs and incur debt, but they do not have the benefits and services offered to active duty Army and Marine forces.

This bill would not stop abusive creditors who are stalking down military families while their loved ones are serving our Nation bravely and heroically.

I would hope that our Republican colleagues would join us in a bipartisan way to support our motion to recommit that would give some opportunities for the National Guard not to be treated this way under the bankruptcy bill.

As for the bill, instead of addressing real causes of bankruptcy, this bill rewards irresponsible corporate behavior and fattens the already large profits of the credit card industry.

While bankruptcy filings have increased 17 percent in the last 8 years, credit card profits have increased more than 160 percent, from $11 billion to more than $30 billion. There are now 5 billion credit card solicitations a year, many of which are targeted at teenagers with no jobs, no income, no visible means of support to pay these credit card bills.

It is an industry with little oversight and a lot of pressure that charges enormous fees and unfair interest payments. The legislation does nothing to address these failings. In fact, the other body rejected an amendment to tell customers how much it would cost to address these failings.

Mr. Speaker, I yield myself the balance of my time.

Mr. Speaker, one does not need to get a good grade in Economics 101 to realize that those who pay their bills as agreed end up having to pay for the cost of debts that are ripped off in bankruptcy. It is a fact that bankruptcy filings have exploded. The number of proven instances of people gaming the system and using bankruptcy as a financial planning tool has gone up, and this bill stops some of those abuses.

I would like to quote from page 4 of the committee report from testimony that was given by Professor Todd Zywicki, and he said, “Like all other business expenses, when creditors are unable to collect debts because of bankruptcy, some of those losses are inevitably passed on to responsible Americans who live up to their financial obligations. Every phone bill, electric bill, mortgage, furniture purchase, medical bill and car loan contains an implicit promise that the rest of us pay to subsidize those who do not pay their bills. Exactly how much of these bankruptcy losses is passed on from lenders to consumer borrowers is unclear, but economics teach us that at least some of it is. We all pay for bankruptcy abuse in higher down payments, higher interest rates and higher costs for goods and services.”

The Credit Union National Association, which is a national organization of nonprofit credit unions that are owned by their members, said that, as of 2002, they lost over $3 billion from bankruptcies since Congress started its consideration of inform bankruptcy legislation in 1998; and CUNA estimates that over 40 percent of all credit union losses in 2004 will be bankruptcy related, and those losses will total approximately $900 million.

Now the credit unions are not the big issuers of credit cards. They are owned by members, and those members have to pay additional costs of the services of their own credit unions because of the huge write-offs that have been described in this report.

Now if my friends on the other side of the aisle were so concerned about bankruptcy abuse and the fact that this bill does not deal with the problem, they could have spent the time drafting an amendment in the nature of a substitute. They were offered by the Committee on Rules and I requested the Committee on Rules to make such a substitute in order, but, no, not they want to do is criticize, attack and come up with no positive alternatives.

If that is their position, then the bankruptcy tax that everybody realizes is passed on to people who pay their bills as agreed to is on their shoulders, because we are trying to stop the abuse.

I have heard an awful lot about the homestead exemption. If this bill goes down, eight States in the District of Columbia will continue to have an unlimited homestead exemption where corporate crooks can hide their assets from bankruptcy in a homestead and, once they get their discharge, sell that mansion and go off on the merry way. They want to keep that. Our bill closes it.

We have heard an awful lot about asset protection trusts that become the law in a number of States. Page 506 of this bill contains a provision on fraudulent transfers and obligations that says that anybody who creates one of these trusts within 10 years of the date of filing can have that transfer voided if such a transfer was made to a self-settled trust or similar device, such transfer was made by the debtor, the debtor is the beneficiary of the trust or similar device, and the debtor made the transfer with actual intent to hinder, delay, or defraud any entity to which the debtor was or became, on or after the date such transfer was made, indebted. Our bill closes those asset protection trusts. If the other side votes this bill down, they continue on and the blame for that is on their shoulders.

We have heard an awful lot about medical bills. Well, the people who are complaining about medical bills put a tin ear on to the testimony that has been submitted in this extensive hearing record.

The United States trustees program, independent people who administer the Bankruptcy Code, collected data and made findings on medical debt. They drew a random sample and, of 5,203 debtors, 54 percent listed no medical debt. Those that did, medical debt accounted for 5.5 percent of the total unsecured debt; 90.1 percent reported medical debts of less than $5,000; 1 percent of the cases accounted for 36.5 percent of all reported medical debt; and less than 10 percent of all cases represented 80 percent of all reported medical debt. This is not the big problem that the people on the minority side have said it is. The data from the United States trustees proves this.

Finally, we have heard about debt that has been run up by service people who are on active duty, whether it is the permanent active duty military service or Guard and Reserve members who have been called up to active duty.

In the last Congress, the Congress enacted the Servicemembers Civil Relief Act, Public Law 108-189, which gives protection to people on active duty from collection of these debts by those that they have become indebted to, and this law puts a cap on interest at an annual rate of 6 percent on debts incurred prior to a person’s entry into active military duty service.

Mr. Speaker, this is a good bill. It is not a perfect bill. It is a good bill, but it plugs a lot of loopholes that abuse has been generated under, and it does provide protection for medical debts and our service people.

Let us not listen to the inaccurate statements that have been made by people who have been opposed to bankruptcy reform beginning 8 years ago, long before the military actions in Iraq and Afghanistan. Let us give some protection to the people who pay their bills that they have agreed to from the hidden bankruptcy tax, and the way we do that is by passing this legislation.

Ms. DELAURA. Mr. Speaker, to listen to this majority, we are facing a crisis—and I do not imagine a more unfair piece of legislation—less concerned with promoting the comprehensive scheme to compensate victims of nuclear accidents, which Congress enacted long ago in the Price-Anderson Act (PAA); (2) increasing the amount of tuition expenses allowed under the Chapter 7 means test; and (3) precluding the discharge of debt arising out of suits against sex offenses; (4) striking the means test; and (5) supporting an amendment by my colleague Mr. SCHIFF to offer relief to those who are victims of identity theft.

Chairman MEL WATT offered substantive amendments including one that would protect consumers from predatory lenders and another that would seek to protect the credit of college students. Similarly, Representative BOBBY SCOTT offered amendments that included proposals to allow debt to be discharged when bankruptcy is caused by unforeseen medical expenses or by the death of a spouse.

However, the Republican Majority did not accept the amendments, and therefore ignored the issues advocated by my constituents and those of my seventeen Democratic colleagues.

The Republican leadership of the Judiciary Committee passed this measure without consideration of a single amendment that was offered by my Democratic colleagues and me. They effectively shut Democrats out of the markup process and thereby ignored the voices of the people’s representatives on this very serious policy matter. When the bill was considered in the Senate, the Majority rejected over 25 Democratic amendments, including one that would have helped debtors to keep their homes if they have been driven into bankruptcy by medical necessity, the Majority has priorities that do not protect Americans who are victims of circumstances that have nothing to do with creditworthiness.
Of the amendments that my Democratic colleagues and I plan to offer (for our upcoming consideration) before the House is one that would remove the Chapter 7 ‘means test’. This would sift out debtors who can afford to repay at least a portion of their debts from those who cannot. Debtors who have income above a ‘state mean’ should have to plead before a bankruptcy judge.

The egregious provisions of this bankruptcy bill and its name are not unlike many recent bills that have slipped through committee and onto the House Floor. Banks, credit card companies, and other financial institutions have accounted for more than $24.8 billion of campaign and partisan contributions since 1999. Commercial banks have given some $76.2 million, according to a study of campaign finance and lobbying disclosure reports and the Center for Responsive Politics. The banking industry has spent $22 million on federal lobbying in the past five years. In fact, according to the New York Times, “The main lobbying forces for the bill—a coalition that included Visa, MasterCard, the American Bankers Association, MBNA America, Capital One, Citicorp, the Ford Motor Credit Company and the General Motors Acceptance Corporation—spent more than $40 million in political fund-raising efforts and millions more on lobbying efforts since 1989.”

Closedly, the Republican Majority has shut Democrats out of the process in order to appease these special interest groups—to the detriment of middle-class and elderly Americans.

As an African American, I am troubled by the fact that both African American and Hispanic families, both of whom are over-represented in bankruptcy, would suffer disproportionately if this bill becomes law.

Proponents of this bankruptcy bill suggest that it will put pressure only on the families that have the ability to repay. In fact, the weight of the evidence demonstrates that this legislation will increase the cost of bankruptcy for every family, and decrease the protection of bankruptcy for every family, regardless of income or the cause of financial crisis. The bill contains provisions that will force many debtors unnecessarily out of Chapter 7, make Chapter 13 impossible for many of the debtors who file today, protect significant loopholes for wealthy and well-advised debtors, as well as raise the cost of the system for all parties. It will turn the government into a private collection agency for large creditors, and force women trying to collect child support or alimony to compete with credit card companies that will have more of their debts declared non-dischargeable.

The bill is intended to force for bankruptcy relief and to receive a fresh start a source of hope for a number of American families that suffer the burden of financial problems. What this Administration proposes with this bankruptcy reform bill is an attack upon minorities. It will make it virtually impossible for many families to extricate themselves from a web of high interest debt—and kill the dream of these families to become homeowners.

Mr. Speaker, I reject this legislation not only because it is flawed in and of itself but also because the process by which it is being considered is severely flawed. Americans deserve and have a right to a better process.

Mr. BLUMENAUER. Mr. Speaker, for as long as I’ve been in Congress I have supported bankruptcy reform on two simple principles: I believe people should pay their debts, if they are able, and that we should end abuses in the system, whether by people who deliberately run up their bills or by businesses who exploit the gullible and the unfortunate.

My first bankruptcy reform bill was cast with reservations because some of the provisions of the bill seemed unduly harsh, but I had hoped that the legislative process would ultimately improve the product. Unfortunately, for 8 years we have been unable to pass the bill, because of the legislative process and improve; it appears as though the bill, if anything, is actually less adequate due to increasing predatory lending by credit card companies and skyrocketing medical costs.

One of my deep concerns has been credit card bills, which send out millions of credit cards to people who are not creditworthy. In 2001 there were 5 billion solicitations by credit card companies. Meanwhile, skyrocketing fees have been coupled with reduced minimum payments. Bail-and-switch techniques have been employed that change the terms and raise the rates that the cardholders who have never missed a payment.

While S. 256 contains overly harsh punishments for middle class Americans who have been preyed upon by the credit card industry, it preserves loopholes for the very rich. S. 256 contains provisions that allow people with lots of money to shield their assets by purchasing multimillion dollar homes in certain states. O.J. Simpson was able to shield many of his assets by doing this in Florida. There are even sophisticated trust arrangements that enable people with substantial sums of money to be protected from the provisions of the bankruptcy bill.

There are some simple, common sense changes that could be made to this bill that would make it more fair to all parties involved. The Senate, however, was unwilling to compromise and approve any of these provisions and the House leadership has prevented any of these proposals from even being debated on the floor. Perhaps the most glaring example of the majority’s unwillingness to compromise is the rejection of an amendment that would protect soldiers injured in Iraq and Afghanistan from the unfair “means test” within this bill.

I have had meetings over the years with individuals who represent all sides of this issue: the bankruptcy trustees, judges, and lawyers who represent the debtors, and the people who extend credit to businesses large and small and to individuals rich and poor. As a result of these meetings, it is clear that the loopholes do remain and that the abuses of lend-ers in the rejection of an amendment that would protect soldiers injured in Iraq and Afghanistan from the unfair “means test” within this bill.

The sad fact is that most bankruptcies are due to large medical bills, family breakup, and job loss. This legislation is going to put an unnecessary burden on the vast majority of unfortunate people and still allow too many of the unscrupulous to avoid their responsibilities. It does not have to be this way. I continue to hope that the political process will respond to these problems with sympathy and concern for the unfortunate. Until that point, I cannot support S. 256 in good conscience.

Mr. KIRK. Mr. Speaker, I am proud to vote in favor of S. 256, The Bankruptcy Abuse Prevention and Consumer Protection Act of 2005. This important bill brings needed reforms to our nation’s bankruptcy system. The legislation reduces the unfair disparity of treatment in the bankruptcy system by establishing more uniform and predictable standards.

I am particularly pleased to note the compromise reached on healthcare and employee benefits. This legislation takes great strides to protect patients’ rights, and it encourages debtors and trustees to consider patients’ interests when administering healthcare bankruptcy cases. Patients are given a voice through the appointment of an ombudsman, who advocates for the confidentiality of patients’ records and ensures patients are transferred to appropriate facilities. These are critical provisions to protect the rights of those with failing health.

I would like to commend a constituent from my district for his contributions to this legislation, Keith J. Shapiro, Esq., of Northbrook, Illinois, and his colleague, Nancy L. Peterman, Esq. Mr. Shapiro testified in support of these patient health provisions before the U.S. Senate Committee on the Judiciary Subcommittee on Administrative Oversight and the Courts on June 1, 1998. The passing of this legislation marks the culmination of Mr. Shapiro and Ms. Peterman’s tireless efforts to secure patients’ interests in bankruptcy cases. On behalf of my colleagues in Congress, I offer my sincere gratitude for their dedication to fair bankruptcy policy.

Mr. HOLT. Mr. Speaker, thank you for allowing me the opportunity to offer my remarks today regarding S. 256, the so-called “Bankruptcy Abuse Prevention and Consumer Protection Act.” The issue of bankruptcy reform is extremely important and it is critical that we pass a measure that will both ensure greater personal responsibility of debtors, as well as ensure that credit card companies and other creditors take responsibility for their reckless lending. Unfortunately, this bill does neither. In fact, the bill before us today takes no action against reckless and predatory lending. This bill will do nothing to reduce the number of bankruptcy filings or address the problem of record-high consumer debt, which now stands at $2 trillion.

As to the substance of the legislation, it is not clear that the number of bankruptcies has risen dramatically over the past few years. In 2001, 1,398,864 people filed for bankruptcy in the United States. According to the Center for American Progress, in 2003 there were a record number of 5.5 personal bankruptcy filings for every 1,000 people living in the United States. In 2003, my own state of New Jersey ranked slightly below the national average at 4.8 filings per every 1,000 residents. This past year, the number of personal bankruptcies had risen to 1,584,170, an increase of over 13 percent. In my own state of New Jersey, citizens were filing for Chapter 7 bankruptcy filings over the past three years. With those facts in mind, I strongly support the principle of increased personal responsibility of debt.
While there are many problems with S. 256, I'll name just a few of the more egregious provisions to which I strongly object. While the bill purports to elevate the priority of child support payments, in reality credit card companies would receive repayment of debt at the same rate as child support obligations. Children and families - not credit card companies - for payment. The bill's homestead-exemption cap does little to address the problem of wealthy debtors shielding their assets from creditors by purchasing million-dollar homes. Sophisticated, wealthy debtors can easily plan ahead and evade the cap. The provision in the bill dealing with "asset protection trusts" also does not adequately address the problem of wealthy individuals stashing millions away in trusts that are protected in bankruptcy proceedings. The bill puts the onus on creditors and the court to prove that the debtor was actively trying to avoid creditors by transferring money into the trust. The bill does nothing to protect people who have medical liabilities.

The bill also imposes artificial deadlines and cumbersome new paperwork requirements on small businesses trying to reorganize, and it unnecessarily limits the discretion of bankruptcy judges in crafting the best possible result for small-business debtors and creditors. The rigid and unrealistic requirements will force many viable small businesses to permanently close their doors.

Mr. Speaker, I recognize that there have been, and likely continue to be, abuses of the bankruptcy law, which was designed to be a safety net. As I've said before, I strongly support reform to make sure that those who abuse the system are punished. However, this would coincide with greater responsibility on the part of the creditors. It is the creditors who often shamelessly target college students and low-income individuals with their credit card applications. It is the creditors who subsequently grant these individuals higher levels of credit at high interest rates. It is the creditors who saddle these individuals with insurmountable levels of debt. In fact, it is estimated that the credit card industry mails out five billion unsolicited credit card offers a year. We believe we would be better served if we could fully debate the merits of this legislation, as well as substantive amendments that were disallowed from consideration by the full House. Sadly, once again, we cannot, and I urge my colleagues to oppose this legislation.

Mr. MORAN of Virginia. Mr. Speaker, the "Bankruptcy Abuse Prevention and Consumer Protection Act" is long overdue and with House passage later today, it stands a very real prospect of becoming law. It's been an extremely long road to this point.

I originally supported bankruptcy reform in 1998 with former Representative George Gekas. Ironically, the legislation was drawn from the recommendations of the bipartisan National Bankruptcy Review Commission that was established through legislation passed in 1994 by the previous Republican Congress. It enjoyed the same level of bipartisan support as when it passed the Senate last month.

The main component of the commission's recommendations and the legislation we have here today is to establish a means test to determine who would be required to creditors on a plan to repay their debts and those who cannot afford to do so. Sometimes a market-based capitalist economy can be unforgiving, but Americans are fair and decent people. We want a system that allows a fresh start to those in financial trouble, but also one that promotes personal responsibility and is not susceptible to fraud and abuse.

The means test in this bill carves out a series of exemptions for individuals who can afford to repay at least part of their debt toward a Chapter 13 repayment plan. This test takes into account exemptions for living expenses, health and disability insurance, expenses to care for an elderly or disabled family member, secured debts, and home energy costs among others. As members of this body well know, where individuals face overwhelming medical costs or other debilitating situations. Under the bill, if an individual can demonstrate "special circumstances" that create an overwhelming financial burden, those individuals would not be required to file for Chapter 13. As a final safeguard, those people earning less than their state's median income would automatically be ineligible for Chapter 13.

It is estimated that only a small minority of those already filing for bankruptcy would be affected, perhaps as little as 7 percent. Contrary to some reports, families and individuals facing difficult economic circumstances, people who may have lost their job or family breadwinner or have been devastated by a severe medical condition, will be given a chance to clear their debts and receive a fresh start under this bankruptcy reform legislation.

Back in 1998, I encouraged supporters of the bill to improve its consumer protection provisions. They responded by making child support a priority in a repayment plan, requiring credit counseling prior to filing for bankruptcy, and limiting abuses caused by a few unscrupulous individuals who hide their wealth behind a state's homestead provisions.

At the onset of the 107th Session, I sought and won the House's approval of my pro-consumer amendments that remain a part of today's bill. These provisions:

- Require credit card companies to include a disclosure statement highlighting the number of months necessary to repay a balance if the card holder were to pay only the minimum amount due.
- Require credit card companies to inform cardholders on when their low introductory rates expire and new higher rates take effect; and
- Prevent deceptive and fraudulent advertising practices by debt relief agencies by making certain that creditors are informed of their rights as debtors.

Could these provisions be perfected? I suspect so. There were several other consumer protections we were unsuccessful in getting included. But perfection should not be an enemy of the good.

Increasingly, bankruptcy has become a tool of first impulse rather than a last option after all other avenues have been exhausted. Last year, 1.6 million consumers filed for bankruptcy, a figure just short of the number of filings in 2003, which represented the most in our nation's history. How is it that during periods of sustained economic growth and prosperity, such as during the Clinton presidency, when all incomes rose, bankruptcies also continued to climb?

S. 256 has been criticized for advancing the interests of the credit card industry on the backs of the poor and the middle class, many of whom are in debt because of circumstances beyond their control. I am sympathetic to this argument, but the flaw is not with this legislation. Those deserving of a fresh start will still be able to do so under this legislation.

The real flaw is with an agenda that the majority continues to advance.

Mr. Speaker, bankruptcy reform has merit and should become law. It is the majority's overall agenda that is bankrupt and in need of reform. Mr. CUMMINGS. Mr. Speaker, after eight years of consideration, we are now poised to enact bankruptcy legislation that is deeply flawed so much so that the policy priorities pursued by this Congress and the Administration, this bill hurts the most vulnerable among our citizens.

Many of my colleagues have already discussed the terrible provisions that the legislation now before the House would implement. For example, this bill would institute a means test for eligibility to file Chapter 7 bankruptcy that two national commissions have concluded would be counter-productive, difficult to administer, and would yield little revenue to creditors. It would remove critical automatic stay provisions that currently prevent the eviction of those who are seeking to clear arrearages in their rent. S. 256 also would reduce the amount of personal property that those filing for bankruptcy can retain.

The Republican-crafted and credit-industry driven bankruptcy reform bill is inapposite to the goals for which bankruptcy was conceived. Bankruptcy is intended to provide a 'fresh start' to those who file—not leave them sinking in financial quicksand. However, rather than highlight the numerous other misguided provisions of S. 256, I want to look for a moment at the economic policies of which this legislation is just one more disappointing part.

The sponsors of S. 256 claim that the rising number of people filing bankruptcies in our nation is due to the fact that there is widespread abuse of our current bankruptcy protections. Actually, the rise in bankruptcy filings is a powerful and tragic reminder that our Administration's economic policies are not raising living standards but are instead contributing to the increases in bankruptcy filings. I note that bankruptcy filings actually decreased in 2004.

In the Economic Report of the President delivered to Congress in February of this year, the Administration wrote that the “President’s policies are designed to foster rising living standards at home, while encouraging other nations to follow our lead.” The President’s policies are not worthy of emulation in other nations—and they are not worthy of continuance in our nation.

Job loss in our nation is failing to keep pace with the growth in the labor force. The Brookings Institution has noted that since the year 2000, there has been a 2 percent decrease in workforce participation among young people aged 25–34, which is unprecedented since the 1940s.

Slow job creation has also put little pressure on businesses to raise wages. As a result, wages for many low- and middle-income workers are now not keeping pace with consumer prices. Perhaps not surprisingly, the Congressional Research Service found that in 2001, 27 percent of families in the lowest one-fifth of household income distributions had debt obligations that exceeded 40 percent of their incomes.

What workers are not seeing increases in their purchasing power, they are also being left without health insurance to cover their medical expenses. A recent Harvard Study published earlier this year found that nearly half of all bankruptcy filings involve some major medical expense. As recently as 1981, medical expenses accounted for less than 10 percent of bankruptcy filings.

Forty-five million Americans are now uninsured—and countless millions more regularly experience lapses in coverage. More than 38 percent of those who filed bankruptcy for medical reasons accounted for these lapses in insurance coverage due to the two years preceding their filing.

In fact, 90 percent of the bankruptcies filed are by those who have been injured, are sick, have been laid off, and/or are going through divorce. Laid-off workers are the fastest growing group of people filing bankruptcy.

All the while, credit card company abuses are mounting in the form of deceptive marketing practices, irresponsible accounting practices, and predatory lending practices. Negative amortization by credit card companies require minimum payments so low as to allow debt to increase rather than be reduced. These practices are designed to give the debtor a false sense of financial health while incurring more debt. The result is often inevitable. The minute a tragedy strikes and a debtor falls behind in one payment, debtors are often swarmed upon by all of their credit card companies—who want to collect immediately. This is an unfair result for these debtors and a boon for creditors.

And now, Congress is poised to add insult to uninsured injury by destroying the basic protections that our bankruptcy laws have offered to those most in need.

Mr. Speaker, the increase in personal bankruptcy filings in our nation is not proof that our bankruptcy laws need reform. It is, instead, proof that our economic policies need reform—and need reform urgently.

This bill only serves to disadvantage those honest Americans struggling to make ends meet. I urge my colleagues to oppose S. 256.

Ms. SOUDER. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong opposition to S. 256, legislation that will make it harder for individuals to eliminate their debts after liquidating most of their assets by filing bankruptcy. Thousands of women and their children are affected by the bankruptcy system each year. This bill will only inflict additional hardship on over a million economically vulnerable women and their families. In fact, women are the fastest growing group to file for bankruptcy. More than 1 million women will file this year, outnumbering men by about 150,000. Women who lose a job, have a medical emergency, or go through divorce make up more than 90 percent of the women who file for bankruptcy. This legislation’s means test provision would require even the poorest filers—struggling single mothers, elderly women who are victims of scam artists—to meet complicated filing requirements to access the bankruptcy system. In addition, the bill would make it much harder for women to collect child support payments from men who file for bankruptcy because the bill gives credit card companies, finance companies, auto lenders and other commercial creditors rights to a greater share of the debtor’s income during and after bankruptcy. This bill pulls the rug out from under economically vulnerable people used to support the rights of creditors while making it harder for single parents and others facing financial crises.

This harsh bankruptcy reform legislation will not help those families that are struggling to cover their basic needs. This bill will not do anything to reduce the number of bankruptcy filings or address the problem of record-high consumer debt. It is a gift to the credit card and banking industries; but that one will be paid for by those least able to afford it. Instead of giving a handout to creditors and credit card companies, we should ensure that Americans losing their jobs or struggling with medical debt have a second chance for economic security. That is what our bankruptcy laws are intended to provide. This bill is terrible for consumers, working families and women, and I urge my colleagues to vote against it.

Mr. CARDIN. Mr. Speaker, I support equitable reform of our nation’s bankruptcy laws. I recognize that there has been abuse of our bankruptcy system, and that reform is absolutely necessary. According to the Baltimore City Department of Aging, bankruptcies among elderly city residents have increased by nearly 50 percent over the past year.

Their costs of living are increasing steadily, including their rent, food, and heating costs. Many of them routinely use credit cards to cover their daily expenses. They are not spending frivolously—they are just getting by.

During previous Congresses when this bill was considered, employers were less likely to file for bankruptcy to shed health care and pension obligations to their retirees. More than one million Americans have had their pension plans taken over by the Pension Benefit Guaranty Corporation from 2003 to 2004 alone, 192 plans were taken over by the PBGC. These retirees have seen their benefits reduced and so they must pay more for health care. But they have not had their debts reduced accordingly. An amendment in the other body that would have required companies that dropped retiree health benefits to reimburse each affected retiree for 18 months of COBRA coverage upon reemerging from bankruptcy was defeated.

Many seniors who do not yet qualify for Medicare or who have prohibitively high copays also pay medical bills and prescription drug costs with credit cards. Often they skip dosages or forgo care entirely because they cannot afford it. We know the result, which is that many end up with much more severe conditions and many wind up in nursing homes. That translates into greater burdens on our federal and state budgets, and higher costs for us all.

I am disappointed that the victims of identity theft cannot seek relief under this bill. We have just learned that between ChoicePoint and Lexis-Nexis, thousands of individuals have been the victims of identity theft. In the last few months, and Members of Congress have held fifteen hearings on a bill to reduce Social Security Number theft, and last year, we reported out a responsible bipartisan bill, but it was not brought to the floor. This year, I am again an original cosponsor of this bill, but it is not yet law, and so virtually every American remains at great risk for identity theft. Unfortunately, our vote on the previous question—to allow bankruptcy judges to take into consideration the fact that persons are forced into bankruptcy because of identity theft—was defeated.

Mr. Speaker, I want to vote for an equitable bankruptcy reform bill. So many Americans have been driven into bankruptcy not from a desire to game the system, but because of circumstances beyond their control. This legislation fails to adequately protect their legitimate needs. It is because of them that I must vote against this bill.

Mr. CANTOR. Mr. Speaker, we have before us today a bill that provides a safety net for people who have lost a job, had health problems, served in the military and can neither afford it. When people file for bankruptcy and cancel out their debts, small businesses suffer major financial setbacks. Bankruptcy to a small business means triggers a change in its bottom line. A financial setback can cause a business to go out of business, small businesses suffer major financial setbacks, and Consumer Protection Act, purports to introduce a greater level of personal responsibility into the bankruptcy system by eliminating various loopholes and incentives that encourage consumer bankruptcy filings and abuse. I urge my colleagues to join me in voting against it.

S. 256, The Bankruptcy Abuse Prevention and Consumer Protection Act, purports to introduce a greater level of personal responsibility into the bankruptcy system by eliminating various loopholes and incentives that encourage consumer bankruptcy filings and abuse. The bill’s proponents argue that this kind of abuse is rampant, but expert analyses suggest another story. According to a Harvard study, about 50 percent of all bankruptcies are forced to do so as a result of medical expenses, and three-quarters of those individuals actually have health insurance. An other 40 percent have been driven into bankruptcy, at least in part, after suffering a job loss, divorce, or death in the family. The American Bankruptcy Institute estimates that no more than three percent of filers avoid repayment of some debt by gaming the system. The simple truth is that almost all individuals declaring bankruptcy do so as necessity and a last resort!

Sadly, the mechanisms employed by this bill to crack down on bankruptcy abuse will have a disproportionate impact on women, minority communities, the elderly and the unemployed. It will impose a rigid means test that will make it more difficult for debtors to get a “fresh start.” The bill will also endanger child support payments, permit landlords to evict tenants, and expand bankruptcy protection for debtors to save homes and cars. It betrays veterans who accumulate debt following an injury or disability sustained on active duty. In a final insult, the Republican leadership denied the opportunity for Democrats to offer amendments that would have protected veterans and other vulnerable communities.

While the Republican majority wishes to adjust the current bankruptcy laws, and in fact I think some of the bill’s provisions would make reasonable adjustments in those laws. But this legislation was first developed years ago and neither its supporters nor the leadership have been willing to give any real consideration to adjusting it to better reflect current conditions. In particular, I think that the bill should have been amended to more appropriately address the financial problems being encountered by some members of the regular Armed Services as well as by members of the National Guard who have been called to active duty in Iraq or elsewhere. If the motion to recommit had prevailed, the bill would have been amended to exempt from the means test at least those National Guard and Reservists whose debt resulted from active duty service or was incurred 2 years of returning home from their service. Unfortunately, the motion was not adopted.

For me, this is a very serious matter and the lack of such an amendment is one of the main reasons I cannot support the bill. Under these circumstances, I am not persuaded that the bill now before us is the right

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD—HOUSE

Mr. UDALL of New Mexico. Mr. Speaker, thank you for allowing me the opportunity to offer my remarks today regarding S. 256, the so-called “Bankruptcy Abuse Prevention and Consumer Protection Act of 2005.” The issue of bankruptcy reform is extremely important and it is critical that we pass a measure that will ensure greater personal responsibility of debtors, as well as ensure that credit card companies and other creditors take responsibility for their irresponsible lending. Unfortunately, this bill does neither. In fact, this bill overly penalizes working families and takes no action against reckless and predatory lending.

Mr. Speaker, in addition to my reservations about the legislation, I also strongly object to the rule under which S. 256 is being debated. The Speaker has, once again, passed a rule that stifles debate and blocks serious and substantive amendments. There were more than 30 thoughtful amendments brought before the
There are many reasons to support this Bankruptcy Reform Bill, but I want to focus on one that is important to many of my colleagues, to me and to the American people. We should support the bill because it contains important financial literacy provisions. Financial literacy goes hand-in-hand with helping our nation’s consumers avoid bankruptcy. It also allows us to negotiate the complex world of personal finance. Financial literacy can help Americans avoid or survive bankruptcy.

We have passed many laws that require the disclosure of the terms and conditions of the rights and responsibilities associated with financial products and services that are available to consumers.

Unfortunately, for too many Americans, knowing the terms and conditions of financial products and services is challenging enough. However, understanding those terms and conditions is often an even greater challenge. Recognizing this fact, Congress included provisions in the Fair and Accurate Credit Transactions Act to address the issue of financial literacy.

The Bankruptcy Abuse Prevention and Consumer Protection Act, S. 256, also contains important provisions related to economic education and financial literacy. These provisions are designed to ensure that those who enter the bankruptcy system will learn the skills to more effectively manage their money in an increasingly complicated marketplace.

Before the House considers S. 256, I want to highlight, for my colleagues, some of the bill’s important financial literacy provisions:

First: the bill will facilitate educating future generations. It expresses the “Sense of the Congress” that personal financial curricula be developed for elementary and secondary education programs. If we teach our children, early-on, how to manage money, credit, and debt, they can become responsible workers, and heads of households and keep their parents out of bankruptcy court.

Second: the bill will provide for pre-filing credit counseling. It requires debtors, prior to filing for bankruptcy, to receive credit counseling from a nonprofit counseling agency. The counseling must include a budget analysis and disclosures regarding the possible impact of bankruptcy on a debtor’s credit report.

Next: the bill will provide for pre-discharge financial education, requiring debtors to complete an approved instructional course on personal financial management prior to receiving a discharge under Chapter 7 or 13.

The bill will also include important exceptions. It authorizes phone and Internet counseling for both the pre-filing and pre-discharge education requirements to assist debtors in rural and remote areas. In addition, either or both requirements may be waived if services are not available or in exigent circumstances.

Finally, the bill requires the Director of the Executive Office for U.S. Trustees to: (1) develop a financial management training curriculum and materials to educate individual debtors on how to better manage their finances; and (2) evaluate and report to the Congress on the curriculum’s efficacy. This will ensure that Congress can evaluate the effectiveness of these financial literacy provisions in the long-term.

Last week, we passed House Resolution 148, a bill that supports the goals and ideals of Financial Literacy Month, which is this
Mr. Speaker, the number of bankruptcies remains at a historic high—over 1.6 million bankruptcy cases were filed in federal courts in 2005. In both Arizona and in the spirit of Financial Literacy Month, I urge my colleagues to pass S. 256, the Bankruptcy Abuse Prevention and Consumer Protection Act, which contains important financial literacy provisions that will provide Americans with the skills needed to successfully navigate the world of personal finance.

Mr. Speaker, let’s help our fellow citizens avoid bankruptcy altogether. “Give a man a fish and you feed him for a day. Teach a man to fish and you feed him for a lifetime.” Vote for S. 256.

Mr. CASTLE. Mr. Speaker, I am submitting for the RECORD the following remarks from Mr. Arkadi Kuhlmann, CEO of ING DIRECT, in opposition to the bankruptcy reform legislation under consideration. I remain a strong supporter of S. 256; however, I believe Mr. Kuhlmann’s statement should be made part of the RECORD.

STATEMENT OF ARKADI KUHLMANN, CEO, ING DIRECT

Mr. Speaker, I am Arkadi Kuhlmann, CEO of ING DIRECT, which is headquartered in Wilmington, Delaware. ING DIRECT launched in the U.S. in September 2000 to challenge traditional banking by touting the high interest, no fee and no minimum Orange Savings Account as its signature product, with a brand vision to lead Americans back to saving.

ING DIRECT has since expanded its product line to include the Orange Mortgage, the Orange Home Equity Line of Credit, Orange CDs and the Orange Investment Account. With over 2.5 million customers and more than $43 billion in assets, ING DIRECT is the fourth largest thrift in the U.S.

The House is now considering consumer bankruptcy legislation that would make major changes to how consumers’ debts and obligations are treated in the bankruptcy process. Thank you for this opportunity to submit testimony for the record on this legislation.

Despite the many important and positive changes this bill would make to our bankruptcy laws, this proposal remains seriously flawed. One significant oversight is the bill’s failure to consider one of the biggest problems we face in business today: identity theft.

The Washington Post ran a story recently about a woman whose identity was stolen, yet her credit card company forced the fraudster’s debt on her by using the arbitration clause in her card agreement.

The Bankruptcy Bill must address the possibility that theft could lead to financial devastation through no fault of the person’s own. In addition to overlooking the problem of identity theft, this proposal had additional shortcomings. It actually encourages further bad lending decisions by removing an important market discipline—the possibility of a clean bankruptcy.

Without important changes, millions of consumers, who might otherwise be savers, will be encouraged into debt by aggressive credit card and other lending. We believe it is crucial for the House to examine the interaction between credit card marketing and personal bankruptcy to be completed. The bill as drafted requires such a study. We challenge the Congress to take a very hard look at the results of the study and consider further legislation, if necessary.

Another important issue is the Bill’s creation of a “means test.” By giving disparate treatment to secured versus unsecured debt, the law would treat secured creditors more favorably than unsecured creditors. We believe the means test should be applied across the board or not at all.

We at ING DIRECT believe this country is still willing to believe in America—the engine of our economy—a second chance when debt overwhelms them. This Bill seriously limits that second chance.

Thank you for the opportunity to present our views.

Mr. FARR. Mr. Speaker I rise in strong opposition to the misnamed “Bankruptcy Abuse Prevention and Consumer Protection Act.” (S. 256). Current bankruptcy law needs some adjustment, but this bill is not the solution. It hurts middle-class consumers in a variety of ways: the bill would allow landlords to evict battered women without bankruptcy court approval, even if the eviction poses a threat to the women’s physical well-being; and, it permits credit card companies to reclaim common household goods which are of little value to them, but very important to the debtor’s family.

It is very important to note that the bill does absolutely nothing to discourage abusive under-age lending, nothing to discourage reckless lending to the developmentally disabled and nothing to crack down on unsavory payday lenders that prey on members of the armed forces.

Last year nearly one and a half million middle-class individuals filed for bankruptcy. Their average income was less than $25,000 and their principal problem was layoffs, health problems and divorce. In my judgment, it is a grave mistake to punish these individuals while rewarding credit card companies and business lobbyists at a time when corporate greed has already destroyed the lives of millions of American workers. I will support a balanced bankruptcy reform bill, but S. 256 is in no way balanced and I believe does more harm than good, therefore I strongly oppose this bill.

Mr. GENE GREEN of Texas. Mr Speaker, I rise today in opposition to this bill. This Bill’s homestead protections currently in place under state laws, hurting my constituents, the citizens of Texas, and the citizens of any other states that have laws protecting individuals’ homes valued over $125,000, which is the limit this bill sets.

Texas, which has the longest and oldest history of homestead protection laws in our country, has no cap on homestead protection, along with Kansas, Iowa, Florida, and South Dakota.

Minnesota, Rhode Island, and Nevada’s laws protect home equity of $200,000.

Property values across the nation vary widely. The median resale price of a home in California is $215,000. In Nebraska it’s $70,200.

While I understand there must be a sensible cap on exemptible home equity to ensure the law is not producing million dollar mansions, $125,000 is unreasonable given the skyrocketing price of real estate in Texas and many other parts of the country.

This bill will make bankruptcy even more expensive and burdensome than it already is, on hardworking Americans who have fallen on hard times andblended incomes, while doing nothing to address the out of control lending practices by credit card companies.

Mr. Speaker, I cannot support a bill that will hurt hard-working Texans, and I oppose this bill.

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to the bankruptcy bill before the House. This legislation has two fundamental flaws. The first problem is that the bill does not distinguish between those individuals who abuse their credit and then seek to wipe the slate clean through Chapter 7, and those who enter bankruptcy as the result of a costly medical emergency or after one of the breadwinners in a family loses their job. We need to make a distinction between a family who is struggling to pay for a medical operation for a child and a person who maxes out their credit cards on a shopping spree at the mall. This bill does not do so.

A recent Harvard University study under scores the fact that the bankruptcy bill’s impact will extend well beyond cracking down on people who abuse credit. The study looked at 1771 bankruptcy filers in five states. The results were striking: Half of the people in the study said that illness or medical bills drove them into bankruptcy. Most of these people actually had some health insurance; but high co-payments, deductibles, exclusions from coverages left them liable for thousands of dollars in out-of-pocket costs when serious illness struck. Other people study suddenly lost their jobs and therefore their health insurance. In many cases, people were let go from their jobs soon after the onset of a debilitating illness, so the medical bills begin to arrive just as the insurance and paychecks disappear.

The second fundamental problem left unaddressed by the bill is the credit card industry’s role in the surge of bankruptcy filings in recent years. The industry hands out credit cards like popcorn, and then loads on extraordinary penalty fees and higher interest rates after a payment is late. The result is that even if someone wants to pay off their credit debts, they are unable to do so because of thousands of dollars of punitive fees and penalty interest rates that can run as high as 40 percent. The lending policies of the credit card companies themselves is a major factor in driving consumers into bankruptcy, yet the legislation before the House does nothing to end these abuses.

CREDIT CARD PENALTIES, FEES BURY DEBTORS; SENATE NEARS ACTION ON BANKRUPTCY CURB

By Kathleen Day and Caroline E. Mayer

For more than two years, special-education teacher Fatemeh Hosseini worked a second job to keep her $2,000 in monthly payments she collectively sent to five banks to pay $25,000 in credit card debt.

Even though she had not used the cards to buy anything more, her debt had nearly doubled to $91,579 by the time the Sunnyvale, Calif., resident filed for bankruptcy last January. Much of that debt was because of late fees sometimes were tardy, targeting late fees ranging from $25 to $50 and doubling interest rates to nearly 30 percent. When the additional $40,000 she had saved for a down payment on an Orange County house was exhausted, the 44-year-old woman declared bankruptcy, in part to wipe the slate clean.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to the bankruptcy bill before the House. This legislation has two fundamental flaws. The first problem is that the bill does not distinguish between those individuals who abuse their credit and then seek to wipe the slate clean through Chapter 7, and those who enter bankruptcy as the result of a costly medical emergency or after one of the breadwinners in a family loses their job. [From the Washington Post, Mar. 6, 2005]
"I was really trying hard to make minimum payments," said Hosseini, whose financial problems began in the late 1990s when her husband left her and their three children. "I was going to the credit card companies, but there was no change in the balances because of that interest and those penalties.

Penalty fees. High penalty fees and sharply higher interest rates after a payment is late—compound the problems of many financially strapped consumers, sometimes making it impossible for them to dig their way out of debt and pushing them into bankruptcy.

The Senate is to vote as soon as this week on a bill that would make it harder for individuals to wipe out debt through bankruptcy. The Senate last week voted down several amendments intended to curb excessive fees and other practices that critics of the industry say are abusive. House leaders say they will act soon after that, and President Bush has said he supports the bill.

Bankruptcy experts say that too often, by the time an individual has filed for bankruptcy, it is too late. Even if they increase their payments, he or she has repaid an amount equal to their original credit card debt plus double-digit interest, but still owes hundreds or thousands of dollars because of penalties.

"Is it the person who wants to do right ends up so worse off?" Cleveland Municipal Judge Rosemary Trizioz asked last year when she ruled against Discover in the company's breach-of-contract suit against another struggling cardholder, Ruth M. Owens.

Owens tried for six years to pay off a $1,900 balance on her Discover card, sending the credit company a total of $3,492 in monthly payments. Yet her balance grew to $5,561.28, even though, like Hosseini, she never used the card to buy anything more. Of that total, over-limit penalty fees alone amounted to $1,351.45.

Trizioz denied Discover's claim, calling its attempt to collect more money from Owens "unconscionable.

The bankruptcy measure now being debated in Congress has been sought for nearly eight years by the credit card industry. Twice in the last two years, versions of the bill have passed both the Senate and House. Once, President Bill Clinton refused to sign it, saying it was unfair, and once the House reversed itself after Democrats attached an amendment that would prevent individuals such as anti-abortion protesters from using bankruptcy as a shield against court-imposed fines.

Credit card companies and most congressional Republicans say current law needs to be changed to prevent abuse and make more people repay at least part of their debt. Consumer-advocacy groups and many Democrats say people who seek bankruptcy protection do so mostly because they have fallen on hard times through illness, divorce or job loss. They also argue that current law has strong provisions that judges can use to weed out the system where a consumer's entire payment is going to fees, interest or principal being negligible. The fees and interest and other charges are so high, they may never be able to pay it off.

Judges say there is little they can do by the time cases get to bankruptcy court. Under the law, "the credit card company is legally entitled to collect every dollar without a distinction" whether the balance is from fees, interest or principal, said retired U.S. bankruptcy judge Ronald Barlanti, who presided over hearings for the courts whether the debt is accurate, judges and lawyers say.

Opponents also argue that the legislation is unfair because it ignores loopholes that would allow multi-billion dollars of dollars during bankruptcy through expensive homes and complex trusts, while ignoring the need for more disclosure to cardholders about fees and other charges on their bills. "Card companies sometimes say is irresponsible behavior by the credit card industry. The Republican majority, along with a few Democrats, has voted down dozens of amendments intended to curb excessive fees and other practices that critics of the industry say are abusive.

The court, which is what regulators call it when a consumer makes new charges and makes monthly minimum payments, his or her balance will begin to decline. Banks agreed to the new rules after, in the words of one Senate Democrat, "some arm-twisting." But bank executives persuaded regulators to allow the higher minimum payments to be phased in over several years, through 2006, arguing that many customers are so much in debt that even slight increases too soon could push many into financial disaster.

Credit card companies declined to comment on specific cases or customers for this article, but banking industry officials, speaking generally, said it is a good reason for the banks to continue to be used. "It's to encourage people to pay their bills the way they said they would in their contract, to encourage good financial management," said Robert Feddis, former federal counsel for the American Bankers Association. "There has to be some onus on the cardholder, some responsibility to manage their finances.

High fees "may be extreme cases, but they are not the trend, not the norm," Feddis said.

"Banks are pretty flexible," she said. "If you are a good customer and have an occasional mishap, they'll waive the fees, because there's so much competition and it's too easy to go someplace else." Banks are also willing to work out settlements with people in financial difficulty, she said, because "there are still a lot of options even for people who've been in trouble."

Many bankruptcy lawyers disagree. James S.K. "Ike" Shulman, Hosseini's lawyer, said the credit card companies he represents and even bankruptcy Judge Stephen S. Mitchell in Alexandria, all went to "pay finance charges (at a whopping 29.99%), late charges, over-limit fees, bad check fees and phone payment fees."

Mitchell allowed the claim totaling $3,058. Those payments, noted U.S. Consumer Financial Protection Bureau once the debtor admitted owing it." McCarthy, through her lawyer, declined to be interviewed.

Alan Elias, a Providian Financial Corp. spokesman, said: "When consumers sign up for a credit card, they should understand that it's a loan, no different than their mortgage payment or their car payment, and it needs to be repaid. And just like a mortgage payment and a car payment, if you are late you are assessed a fee." The 29.99 percent interest rate, he said, is the default rate charged to consumers "who don't meet their obligation to pay their bills on time" and is clearly disclosed on account opening forms.

Feddis, of the banker's association, said the nature of debt means that interest will often end up being more than the original principal. "Anybody who have a loan that's going to extend for any period of time, the interest is going to accumulate. Look at a 30-year-mortgage. The interest is much, much more than the interest rate."

Samuel J. Gerardo, executive director of the American Bankruptcy Institute, a non-partisan research group, said that focusing on late fees is "realistic." "If you are sitting in the elephant in the room, and that's the massive levels of consumer debt which is not being paid. People are living right up to the edge, rather than have so much in debt and job or overtime, face medical expense or their family breaks up, they have no money to save.

"Late fees aren't the cause of debt," he said.

Credit card use continues to grow, with an average of 6.8 bank credit cards and 6.3 store credit cards for every household, according to Cardweb.com Inc., which monitors the industry. Fifteen years ago, the averages were 2.3 bank credit cards and 4.1 retail credit cards per household.

Despite, or perhaps because of, the large increase in cards, there is a "fee feeding frenzy," Cardweb president and chief executive, "The whole mentality has really changed over the last several years," with the industry imposing fees and increasing interest rates if a single payment is late.

Penalty interest rates usually are about 30 percent, with some as high as 40 percent, with late fees $3 to $10 per month, and over-limit fees, about $35, McKinley said.

"If you drag that out for a year, it could be very damaging," he said. "Late and over-limit fees can add $1,000 in fees, and a 30 percent interest rate on a $3,000 balance can add another $1,000, so you could end up paying $2,000. And you just one year if you fail to make payments.

"According to R.K. Hammer Investment Bankers, a California credit card consulting firm, banks collected $14.8 billion in penalty fees last year, or 10.9 percent of revenue, up from $10.7 billion, or 9 percent of revenue, in 2002, the first year the firm began to track penalty fees.

The way the fees are now imposed, "people would be better off if they stopped paying" once they get in over their heads, said T. Johnson Leonard, a consumer bankruptcy attorney. Once you stop paying, creditors write off the debt and sell it to a
Mr. LANGEVIN. Today I rise in support of the Pomeroy substitute to H. R. 8, the Estate Tax Repeal Permanency Act, and in opposition to the underlying bill. As the son of a small business owner, I know firsthand the tax burden placed on entrepreneurs and working families, and I support efforts to responsibly protect small business owners.

The Pomeroy substitute provides needed relief by eliminating estate taxes for assets totaling $3.5 billion per individual or $7 million per married couple. Increasing the exemption to this level would mean that 99.7 percent of all estates will not pay a single penny of the estate tax. Small businesses and farm owners should not be penalized for their success, nor should they need to worry about their ability to pass the family business on to future generations, and the substitute addresses these concerns.

H. R. 8 goes far beyond providing fair tax relief to small businesses and family farms. While the benefits overwhelmingly go to the wealthiest 0.3 percent of estates, Republican leaders fail to mention that their proposal actually raises taxes on thousands of estates, including those not previously affected by the estate tax. This is because their legislation increases capital gains taxes owed on inherited property. The Department of Agriculture estimates that this change will raise taxes on more farms than would benefit from repealing the tax.

The Republicans’ call for repealing the estate tax comes at a time when our government is already in fiscal crisis. Ending the estate tax will reduce revenues by $290 billion over ten years, and by 2021, this legislation will have added a total of more than $1 trillion to our existing obligations rather than cutting taxes to help honest taxpayers by closing the loopholes in the current bankruptcy system.

For far too long, Americans who work hard and pay their bills have been held accountable for the debts incurred by those who irresponsibly file for bankruptcy.

This long-overdue legislation will reform the critically-flawed bankruptcy process, and prevent affluentfilers from gaming the system and passing on their bad debt to hard working families while preserving the ability of people who truly need to discharge their debts to do so.

Bankruptcy should be preserved as a last resort for those who truly need the protections that the bankruptcy system has to offer—not a tool for those who could pay their debts but choose to discharge them instead.

By agreeing to this legislation, Congress will make the existing bankruptcy system a needs-based one, and thus in current and any future bankruptcy system that encourages people to file for bankruptcy and walk away from debts, regardless of whether they are able to repay any portion of what they owe; and it does this while protecting those who truly need protection.

I commend my colleagues for their hard work on this legislation, and I strongly urge my colleagues to vote in favor of this report and help honest taxpayers by closing the loopholes in the current bankruptcy system.

Mr. ROYCE. Mr. Speaker, today, Congress has the opportunity to finish the task of preventing corporate malfeasance by agreeing to pass this bill.

Included in this bill is a sensible provision that sharply limits to $125,000 the homestead exemption that many CEOs and corporate officers have used to shield their assets from creditors after they plunder their shareholders’ wealth.

By empowering the government to go after the ill-gotten gains that crooked corporate officers tie up in offshore mansions, shareholders and pensioners who have been swindled can have their hard-earned savings returned to them.

In addition, this bill prohibits people convicted of felonies like securities fraud from claiming an unlimited exemption when filing for bankruptcy, preventing those formerly having to bear the cost of corporate malfeasance.

It also guards against fraud and abuse by requiring that high-income debtors who have the ability repay a significant portion of their debts do so, preventing them from sticking responsible borrowers with their tab. It accomplishes all of this while preserving the ability of people who truly need to discharge their debts to do so.

Mr. Speaker, as a supporter of the Bankruptcy Abuse Prevention and Consumer Protection Act, I encourage my colleagues to vote for this well-balanced measure that will protect those individuals who need a fresh start while cracking down on abuse of the system. must be repaid. Importantly, disabled veterans would be exempt from the means test if their debts occurred primarily as a result of being called to active duty or for homeland defense operations.

Lastly, Mr. Speaker, this legislation also includes a provision for Delaware's bankruptcy court. This increase is long overdue, as the bankruptcy caseloads in Delaware continue to exceed other districts' caseloads for Chapter 11 business cases. Last year alone, weighted filings for Delaware judges were 1,763 in the national average, compared to 1,763—in other words, the Delaware caseload was 10 times the national average. The Delaware District tends to have the largest Chapter 11 business cases, often referred to as the "mega" Chapter 11 cases which are "those involving extremely large assets, unusual public interest, a high level of creditor involvement, complex debt, a significant amount of related litigation, or a combination of such factors." These are complex cases in which the judicial system in Delaware has built a high level of expertise as well as a sound reputation for fair practice. The legislation we are considering today takes a solid step toward alleviating Delaware's heavily burdened bankruptcy court system.

Again, Mr. Speaker, I want to thank Chair- man SENSENIBRENNER for his years of strong and tenacious leadership for this legislation and thank him for not giving up on these important, common-sense changes to our bankruptcy system. I urge my colleagues to support this bipartisan legislation.

Mr. Speaker, in pertinent part, section 202 of S. 256, the "Bankruptcy Abuse Prevention and Consumer Protection Act of 2005," amends section 524 of the Bankruptcy Code by making the discharge injunction inapplicable to certain acts by a creditor having a claim secured by a lien on real property that is the debtor's principal residence, so long as the creditor satisfies certain criteria. First, the creditor's act must be in the ordinary course of business between the creditor and debtor. Second, such act is limited to seeking periodic payments associated with a valid security interest. Lastly, if the act is pursuant of in rem relief to enforce the lien.

Section 202 was included because Congress recognized that there are many consumer debtors who, despite filing bankruptcy, desire to repay secured obligations in order to retain their principal residences. Under current law, however, some secured creditors stop sending monthly billing statements or payment coupons for fear of violating the discharge injunction. Section 202 is intended to reassure these secured creditors that if consumer debtors want to continue making voluntary payments so they can keep their principal residences, then secured creditors may take appropriate steps to facilitate such payment arrangements, such as continuing to send monthly billing statements or payment coupons.

Moreover, despite the express reference in this provision to liens on real property, section 202 should not, by negative inference or implication, be construed as limiting any rights that may have developed through existing case law, or otherwise, that protect secured creditors to send, or consumer debtors to request and receive, monthly billing statements or payment coupons for claims secured by real or personal property. See, e.g., Ramirez v. GMC (In re Ramirez, 280 B.R. 253 (C.D. Cal. 2002); Henry v. Associates Home Equity Services, Inc (In re Henry), 266 B.R. 457 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2002).

Mr. KOLBE. Mr. Speaker, after eight years of intense Congressional scrutiny and debate, this bankruptcy reform legislation is now close to becoming law. It is an honor to vote in favor of this legislation, just as I have supported similar bills in the past, and I encourage my colleagues to pass S. 256 without amendments so it can go directly to the President for his signature.

Without a doubt, bankruptcy reform is needed. Under current law, it is far too easy for debtors with significant cash resources to declare bankruptcy and walk away from their debts, even when they have the ability to pay a substantial portion of those debts. Bankruptcies cost the rest of us American taxpayers billions of dollars each year. Why? Because commercial institutions have to pass their losses on to everyone else in the form of higher prices and higher interest rates. The Bankruptcy Abuse Prevention and Consumer Protection Act is a well-balanced measure that will protect our American financial system from a fresh start, but lessen the burden placed on working Americans who now must support people who are taking advantage of the system.

most difficult, and we owe it to them to provide a safe harbor from the means test.

Since 9/11, approximately 470,000 Guard and Reservists have been called to active duty, tens of thousands more than had been mobilized in previous years. Many of these patriotic Americans are facing financial crises not because they are exploiting loopholes in the bankruptcy law, they are not scheming to avoid paying their debts, they are in financial hole their country dug for them.

Some will argue we do not need this motion because our soldiers are already covered by the Servicemembers' Civil Relief Act, but that is not true. Even with that minimal help, many are forced to file for bankruptcy and the relief act provides no assistance once they file. It is hard enough under current law for them to pick up the pieces. The special circumstances and sacrifices of Guard and Reserve forces require that we not make recovery even harder for them. Soldiering is not their livelihood, but they take it on. They leave their day-to-day lives and jobs behind so that their country can ask them to do so. Exemption from the means test is the least we can do to tell our citizen soldiers and their families not only do we appreciate the physical and emotional risks they have taken, we recognize their financial risk.

To do any less than this simple, narrow protection would be morally bankrupt.

Disabled American Veterans

The Disabled American Veterans (DAV) is a non-profit organization of more than one million veterans disabled during time of war or armed conflict. The DAV is the official voice of our nation's service-connected disabled veterans, their families, and survivors.

On behalf of the DAV, I ask you please keep in mind the sacrifices of the brave men and women of our Armed Forces as you consider this motion because our soldiers are already covered by the Servicemembers Civil Relief Act currently. This motion is not an attempt to kill the bill. It is simply a reaction to a real problem that has been highlighted in countless news stories, by the National Military Families Association, Disabled Veterans of America, and individual servicemembers. These are people experiencing real and difficult financial situations. I support this motion to provide this narrow protection for those men and women who have served our country, and I urge my colleagues to do the same.

I thank my dear colleague for her efforts in this behalf.

Mr. SENSENBRENNER. Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to the motion to recommit.

Mr. SENSENBRENNER. Mr. Speaker, the motion to recommit creates a blanket exemption from the bill's needs-based test, and I do not think that is necessary because it would exempt a wealthy debtor from the needs-based test solely based on the debtor's military service. People who fall behind the lines of the needs-based test will continue to have bankruptcy protection under chapter 7 as is provided in the current law. The bill also contains an exception from the needs-based test for disabled veterans who incurred indebtedness while on active duty.

CRS and even the New York Times recognized that the Servicemembers Civil Relief Act of 2003 provides a broad spectrum of protection to servicemembers and their dependents; and the revised statute, according to the New York Times, is clearer and more protective than the old one. The Times also recognized that the news was apparently slow in reaching those who would have to interpret and enforce the law, which apparently includes the people who are offering this motion to recommit.

Let me summarize. Already there is in law, signed by President Bush in 2003, we have responded to the special financial burdens that members of the military may encounter. CRS has said the Servicemembers Civil Relief Act provides protection for servicemembers in an event their military service impedes their ability to meet financial obligations incurred before their entry into active military service, as well as during that service. There is a cap on the interest rates of 6 percent. It clarifies that the balance of interest for the period of the servicemember's military service is to be forgiven by the lender. There are protections against evictions from rental property or foreclosures on mortgaged property. There are restrictions on cancellation of life insurance and more flexible options to allow servicemembers on active duty to terminate residential and automobile leases.

We do not need this motion to recommit. Congress has already passed a law that provides those types of protections. The motion to recommit should be defeated, and the bill should be passed.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.
Messrs. TURNER, TANCREDO, CRENSHAW, and BRADLEY of New Hampshire changed their vote from "yea" to "nay." Ms. EDDIE BERNICE JOHNSON of Texas and Messrs. RUSH, BOREN, and JOHNSON of Illinois changed their vote from "nay" to "yea."

So the motion to recommit was rejected.

The result of the vote was announced as above recorded.

Stated for:
Ms. SOLIS. Mr. Speaker, during rollcall vote No. 107 on motion to recommit with instructions (S. 256) I was unavoidably detained. Had I been present, I would have voted in favor of the motion to recommit.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. PUTNAM). The question is on the passage of the bill.

The question was taken, and the Speaker pro tempore announced that the yeas and nays had been ordered printed, in accordance with the provisions of the Rules of the House.

Mr. SENSENIBRENNER. Mr. Speaker, on that I demand the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered. The SPEAKER pro tempore. This will be a 5-minute vote.

The vote was taken by electronic device, and there were—yes 302, nays 126, not voting 7, as follows:

[Roll No. 108]
From Maryland (Mr. HOYER) and the gentleman from Texas (Mr. DELAY), we appoint conferees, given the fact you well know. However, the House is not yet decided who he wants to appoint conferees, given the fact that we are already behind schedule? Mr. DELAY. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman will yield, I believe the House is yet to appoint conferees. When might we appoint conferees, given the fact that we are already behind schedule? Mr. DELAY. Mr. Speaker, we are already behind schedule. Mr. Speaker, I would like to say, Go Nationals.
I very much appreciate the gentleman yielding.

Mr. HOYER. Mr. Speaker, reclaiming my time, I appreciate the gentleman's observation.

My presumption is then, Mr. Chairman, that I leave the floor, my presumption would be, for the Members of the House and also for the members of the Committee on Appropriations that the Committee on Appropriations will proceed as if the House numbers were the numbers. Am I correct on that? I yield to the gentleman.

Mr. LEWIS of California. Mr. Speaker, we have come to the conclusion, by looking at some recent history, that we can, within pretty close margins, measure what our likely allocations will be. The subcommittees are proceeding as though there are numbers, recognizing full well that we will have to respond to the final budget package as they have given it to us and as we have talked between subcommittee chairmen but we can pretty well guesstimate.

In the past, I believe that we have tended to delay our process because we decided we had to wait until the budget process was already complete, and we let subcommittees interfere with that process, et cetera. So, in the past, we found ourselves sending our product to the other body just as we go past the end of the fiscal year, hardly giving them the time to do the kind of work that they would like to do, thus the omnibus, et cetera.

The cooperation between the two bodies, I must say to my colleague, is better than I could ever have imagined. It is a fabulous, growing relationship, and I think it will benefit both of the bodies.

Mr. DELAY. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. HOYER. I yield to the gentleman from Texas.

Mr. DELAY. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding.

The gentleman's original question was when will we see a conference report for the budget come to the floor. I am hoping as soon as possible, obviously. I have no idea when the negotiations with the House and the Senate will start in earnest, when we will appoint the conference committee. There is very little difference, quite frankly, from the House bill and the Senate bill, and I think that the major issues will be taken care of in a matter of days, if not a couple of weeks.

So I would assume that we could have a conference report on a budget hopefully by the first of May. At least that is what we would like to see happen.

Mr. HOYER. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman.

Reclaiming my time, the business that the gentleman from Texas has just announced, would the gentleman expect the bill to be on the floor both Wednesday and Thursday?

Mr. DELAY. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman will yield, that is correct, both Wednesday and Thursday. This is a major, major piece of legislation, as the gentleman from Maryland knows. This bill has passed this House before. It required a lot of time, also required the reorganization of the temporary process, and we anticipate it taking all of Wednesday and most of Thursday to complete.

Mr. HOYER. Mr. Speaker, I appreciate the time I yield to the gentleman. Given the time that is allocated to this bill, I presume, as the Leader has apparently indicated, that it is the expectation of the Committee on Rules to have a full open rule. My expectation is you are not going to have a fully open rule but that you would have some modified open rule. Am I correct on that?

I yield to the gentleman from Texas.

Mr. DELAY. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding. Obviously, I cannot anticipate what the Committee on Rules may do on this bill.

Mr. HOYER. Mr. Speaker, reclaiming my time, I believe that is quite as obvious as the gentleman does.

I yield back to the gentleman.

Mr. DELAY. I appreciate the gentleman yielding.

I do recall that in the last Congress when we approached the energy bill there was I think at least 20, if not more, amendments allowed on the bill. I would anticipate that the same approach, because the bill is very similar to the bill we passed in the last Congress, would be taken.

Mr. HOYER. Mr. Speaker, reclaiming my time, I appreciate the Leader's observation. I know that, on our side, we had a discussion on that bill this morning. All of us believe the energy bill is a very, very important piece of legislation. All of us are concerned about the gas prices that are confronting all of our constituents. I have a number of employees who commute significant distances. Although they live relatively close by, it is a 45-minute commute in traffic and a lot of gas, and they spend a lot of money on gasoline. In addition to that, energy independence, of course, is part of our national security. So we are hopeful that we will fashion a bill in a bipartisan way that we can see passed and signed by the President.

Mr. Speaker, the last item I would ask the Majority Leader about is, as the gentleman knows, the ethics process in the House is essentially at a standstill. The gentleman has made that observation, obviously; and we have made that observation as well. Efforts to move the ethics process forward have failed so far, both in committee and on the floor, when virtually all of the Members on the gentleman's side of the aisle, now twice, have voted to table motions that would have proposed the bipartisan ethics task force to make recommendations to restore public confidence in the ethics process.

As the gentleman knows, the gentleman from Maryland (Mr. CARDIN), he was sitting to my left here, although he is now to my right; maybe he is running for office and wants to position himself; but the gentleman from Maryland (Mr. CARDIN) and Mr. Livingston did, put an offer for this House in coming together and adopting and presenting, proposing a bipartisan ethics process. We had that in place, as the gentleman knows, and it was changed, we believe, in a partisan fashion.

We oppose that change, as the gentleman knows, as does the former chairman of the Committee on Standards of Official Conduct, the gentleman from Colorado (Mr. HEFLEY). He and the gentleman from West Virginia (Mr. MOLLOHAN) have a bill, and that bipartisan resolution has now 207 cosponsors, and that would simply return the ethics rules to where they were, adopted bipartisanly, proposed bipartisanly by the Livingston-Cardin committee, and it would return to a place where we believe the Committee on Standards of Official Conduct would not be at impasse.

We are also concerned about, as the gentleman knows, the gentleman's proposition that we have a partisan division now of the ethics staff, which heretofore has been a bipartisan, I might even say nonpartisan, staff.

I would respectfully inquire, given that background, which the gentleman knows, of course, if and when we might see House Joint Resolution 131 on the floor. As I say, it has 207 cosponsors. It reflects the bipartisan agreement of the Livingston-Cardin committee and the bipartisan vote of this House some years ago in adopting the Livingston-Cardin option.

In the alternative, of course, when we might find an opportunity to support a bipartisan commission that could again work at this and try to get us off the dime.

I know I have mentioned a number of points, Mr. Leader, but I know that the gentleman believes it is important personally and institutionally. I have worked with the gentleman institutionally. We want to see this institution not mired in ethical questions of our side or of the gentleman's side. I think that either direction might get us there.

Mr. Speaker, I ask the Leader respectfully if he thinks that we might proceed in either direction, or perhaps both, and I yield to my friend.

Mr. DELAY. Mr. Speaker, I appreciate the gentleman yielding.

For me, there is a very, very important issue that upholds the integrity of the House, that has to do with the image of the House in making sure that the House can enforce its own rules in a bipartisan way. I would just remind the gentleman, with all the work that the gentleman from Maryland (Mr. CARDIN) and Mr. Livingston did, which is excellent work, unfortunately, we cannot anticipate unintended consequences; and once we start implementing that wonderful work, we find out that there are some flaws that need to be corrected.

The Speaker of the House looked at the last few years and decided that the rules of the Committee on Standards of Official Conduct for partisan purposes, and its ability to act in a bipartisan way was seriously hindered. Most importantly, there were some due-process issues to protect Members of their due-process rights.

I will give my colleagues one example. The committee, on its own, decided to change the way they operated from the past. In the past, when the committee wanted to warn a Member about certain actions that were not in violation of the rules, they used to send a private letter to that Member. This committee and the last committee had decided on their own that, without consulting with the affected Member, to send a public letter and release the underlying documents to support their position, without the opportunity for a Member to face the committee and discuss those letters of warning, the Speaker felt very strongly that that undermines the rights of every Member, both Democrat and Republican, to due process.

The Speaker, in his office, looked at the standing rules of the 108th Congress in this regard and felt that some minor changes needed to be made, one to protect the committee from being politicized; and, two, to protect Members' rights of due process. That suggestion by the Speaker, as the gentleman knows, was brought to this House and debated extensively on this House floor, and those amendments to the rules were passed by the entire House, with some nay votes, I understand.

I think it is unfortunate that we have found ourselves in this position, particularly when the Speaker was trying to protect the rights of the Members and certainly, more importantly, protect the integrity of the institution that we have reached this point. I am advised through the Speaker that the chairman of the Committee on Standards of Official Conduct is working with his Ranking Member, and I would hope that they would come to some sort of agreement in how we get past this impasse. Otherwise, the rights of Members, including, certainly, the rights of Members, something that is so different than the rules of procedures in courts of law. If a grand jury is deadlocked in an indictment, there is no process that goes forward. If there is a full jury in a trial that is deadlocked, there is no process that goes forward. It has to be clear, without a reasonable doubt, that the offense is right and needs to proceed. And that is why the Speaker created a bipartisan process for that to proceed. And it can work for both sides politically. It can work for Democrats as well as Republicans. And that is why I say the Speaker was trying and worked very hard to protect the rights of the accused, and more important than that, the rights of each and every Member as well.

Mr. HOYER. Mr. Speaker, reclaiming my time, I thank again the gentleman for his thoughtful remarks. We see it differently, Mr. Leader. What we have created is the ability of both sides to stop investigations in their tracks. Both sides. Our side, if we block up, and our five say you are not going to investigate STENY HOYER, they can do it. Formerly they could not do that. And I believe your analogy is not apt, I want to tell you why I think so, Mr. Leader.

The investigation is the gathering of facts, not the charging, not the finding of involvement. We do not use the term ‘guilt,’ but the finding of involvement. It is an investigation to gather the facts from which the decision-makers, whether it be a grand jury or a petit jury, whether it be a judge or whether it be a prosecutor who determines whether to bring an indictment. Once those decision-makers have the facts, they can then make a rational decision, we hope.

What we have done, however, in changing the rules, which were adopted in a bipartisan fashion, is to allow either side to preclude the investigator from gathering the facts. That is as if we could preclude the police or the FBI or others from gathering facts that they would then, in turn, submit to a decision-maker, whether a grand jury to bring an indictment, a prosecutor to bring a charge or a petit jury to bring a conviction. I think that is inaccurate.

Mr. DELAY. Will the gentleman yield?
Mr. HOYER. I certainly will yield to the leader, but before I do, do you see my point, Mr. Leader? Either one of us could protect ourselves. Either one of us, your side could protect yourselves by your five holding firm. Our side could protect ourselves by our five holding firm. That might protect us individually, but our position is it does not protect the institution, and that is what our concern is. I yield to my friend.

Mr. DELAY. If the gentleman will yield, the gentleman has made my point. The old rules, both sides could protect themselves.

Mr. HOYER. No, sir. Reclaiming my time, Mr. Leader.

Mr. DELAY. If the gentleman is not going to let me respond and interrupt me, then this colloquy can end.

Mr. HOYER. I want to apologize to the gentleman.

Mr. DELAY. Thank you. I appreciate that.

Mr. HOYER. I will yield back to him.

Mr. DELAY. As I was saying before I was interrupted, and I appreciate the gentleman yielding, the point is that both sides, in the old rules, both sides could shut the process down. The difference, a huge difference, the Members would be hanging out there and with no resolution.

And the gentleman is incorrect and misrepresents the process. The process starts with the ranking member and the chairman looking at the facts as presented to them by the person charging the Member. And then they decide whether to submit a recommendation to the full committee to proceed further and what action should be taken. So the facts the gentleman is talking about start with the ranking member and the chairman. Then a recommendation is submitted, just like a DA would submit a recommendation to a grand jury. And this is the grand jury process, to the committee, and the committee makes a decision whether they go forward.

Now, what happens in practice is, if that Member that has been charged receives from the committee that they are moving towards an investigative subcommittee, that is a huge hit on that Member, whether he is guilty or not. The press run with it and all kinds of things happen, as the gentleman perfectly knows. So that step to go to an investigative subcommittee is a very, very important step. And that is why the Speaker thought it was really important that a bipartisan vote be made in order to get to that step. It starts with his own ranking member making a decision, in concert, one vote to one vote, whether the chairman, whether to submit the recommendation to the committee to proceed. And that is where the gentleman’s concerns can be taken care of as to whether it is going to be blocked one way or another.

Then once they have made that recommendation, if they make a strong recommendation to proceed to an investigative subcommittee, I guarantee you, because you have a Republican chairman and a Democrat ranking member, the committee is going to follow their recommendation more times than not, and you will have a bipartisan, and in many cases, a unanimous vote to proceed to the next step.

The problem is, and it is a real problem that when a case comes to a deadlock, then there is no resolution for the Member that has been charged. And the Speaker felt very strongly that that undermines the rights of every Member of this House.

Mr. HOYER. Mr. Speaker, reclaiming my time.

Mr. CARDIN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. HOYER. I will be glad to yield to the gentleman from Maryland.

Mr. CARDIN. Mr. Speaker, let me thank the distinguished whip for yielding. And I have listened to this colloquy. And let me try to add a little bit to it, if I might.

First, I appreciate the leader’s acknowledgment on process because the process is very important. I think the debate that we are having on the floor should have been had prior to the rule being brought under a very partisan environment when the first day of session. I think if we would have had a chance, Democrats and Republicans, to review the rules changes, some of the problems that are now being brought out by these rules changes, it would have helped.

So let me get to the policy issue that the leader brings up. And that is, yes, the chair and the ranking member can proceed to bring a matter before the full committee. But they do not have the investigative power in order to understand what is involved in the particular matter.

I served on the Ethics Committee for over 6 years, during some very difficult times, including the bank issues, including a charge against the Speaker of the House. And I can tell you this, that if we would have had a 45-day deadline considering an investigation of this matter, there would have been no way that we could have gotten the necessary votes to proceed.

In my entire time on the Ethics Committee we never had a partisan division. We always were able to work out our issues. It was not easy. It took time. We had to sit down and listen to each other, get the facts.

In reality when you look at the rules that we are bound by and the facts, generally you will reach consensus and agreement within the Ethics Committee, and that is exactly what happens. But if the clock is running and there are only 45 days, and after that time there is an automatic dismissal, and that is what is in these rules now, it encourages a partisan division. It works counterintuitive to trying to work out what a consensus would bring out which is in the best interest of the institution. And I think we did not have the opportunity to debate that during the process of the adoption of the rules.

It is interesting to point out that the investigation and the charges that were held against Speaker Gingrich brought about a lot of controversy on this floor. And the majority leader and the minority leader at that time recognized that we could resolve rules changes when we set up a bipartisan task force, and that is when Mr. Livingston and myself were the co-chairs. And we listened to the debate. And due process for the Member was very important for everyone. And we did change the rules in order to provide for that, but we did it in a bipartisan deliberation, and that was missing this time. And I regret that.

Mr. DELAY. Will the gentleman yield?

Mr. HOYER. Mr. Speaker, I would reclaim my time and certainly yield to the leader.

Mr. DELAY. Mr. Speaker, I appreciate the comments by the gentleman who worked so hard on that bipartisan ethics reform taskforce that made recommendations to the House. And I appreciate that the gentleman is trying to protect those rules that he worked on.

But I remind the gentleman that when those rules were voted on, both gentlemen from Maryland voted against the rules they are trying to protect today. And then I might say your comments are well taken. The length of time is a problem. We have recognized that is a problem and I am told. I have not talked to the ethics chairman, but I am told through the Speaker that the ethics chairman has offered to negotiate the time problem with the ranking member. I do not know what the result of that has been, but I know that the Speaker has been informed by the chairman that he is more than willing to work on those issues, and I know the Speaker told me that he is open to fixing that time problem that the gentleman brings up and is concerned about.

Mr. CARDIN. Would the gentleman yield?

Mr. HOYER. Mr. Speaker, reclaiming my time, just for 1 minute.

Mr. CARDIN. Very briefly?

Mr. HOYER. Very briefly.

Mr. CARDIN. Let me just put out that when that issue was before the House, the former rules changes, we added a 180-day automatic dismissal that was rejected in a bipartisan vote by this body, just to point out to the distinguished leader.

Mr. DELAY. If the gentleman would yield, I appreciate that.

Mr. HOYER. I would be glad to yield to the leader.

Mr. DELAY. I yield back.

Mr. HOYER. Mr. Leader, we obviously have a disagreement in the perceptions as to what the rules does and does not do. I think both you and I are very concerned about the reputation and integrity of this House. I think you share my view and I share that view. It is my suggestion that resolving this in a way that is bipartisan will be productive for the House.
Mr. HEFLEY, the former chairman, I do not agree with Mr. HEFLEY on a lot of things, but I do agree with his perception of how we protect the integrity of the House. There may be people on my side of the aisle who agree with your perception and not mine. I understand that is, thought that it would be in the best interest of this House and this country for us to resolve these matters in a bipartisan way either through, as our leader has proposed, a commission to be a joint commission equally divided, as was the Livingston-Cardin commission, or, in the alternative, to consider H.R. 131.

The leader is absolutely right, and I made that aside, as you recall. We did vote against the rules package, but we had agreed to the components, and there was no controversy about the ethics component in the rules package. There were other things with which we disagreed, obviously, but that was an agreement, and it was reached in a bipartisan fashion.

This was not reached in a bipartisan fashion. And, yes, as both parties usually did, I can remember, it is getting more difficult to remember, but I can remember when we were in charge and your side used to vote unanimously against our rules package and we pretty much do the same because we have some disagreements. But there was agreement on the rules package as it related to the Committee on Standards of Official Conduct, and the reason for that is because both sides felt it to be very important.

Mr. DELAY. If the gentleman would yield,

I have to remind the gentleman, and I know going back to 1997 is very difficult, but this was not part of the rules package. This was voted on September 18, 1997, and it was on the recommendations for reforming the Committee on Standards of Official Conduct, and the gentleman that worked on the recommendation and the gentleman speaking voted against the recommendations, not on the House rules package.

My point, and I do not want to belabor that for the gentleman, I think it is very important that if the gentleman is protecting a package and a rules ethics reform that he voted against, I think that is one thing. But the other thing is we are working in a bipartisan way, I hope. The chairman and ranking member are dealing with this. A commission would just open up the whole recommendations that the gentleman from Maryland worked on and the gentleman from Louisiana worked on.

I do not think we need a complete overhaul of the ethics process, but there are certain problems that were found in practice that the Speaker felt needed to be done in order to protect the Members. And I have got to tell you, the Members on your side of the aisle as well as my side of the aisle better think about this very seriously because we do want to protect the integrity of the institution. But, as important as that is, we also want to protect the rights of the Members.

Mr. HOYER. Reclaiming my time, I think we both agree on that.

The gentleman from Maryland (Mr. CARDIN) wanted to say something, but I wanted to say you were right on the process. I was incorrect on the process.

It was a separate vote on a separate package, and you are right that I and the gentleman from Maryland (Mr. CARDIN) voted against it. It was not on these provisions as you know because a change was made, not in a partisan sense, according to the gentleman from Maryland (Mr. CARDIN).

Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Maryland (Mr. CARDIN) to explain his perception and recollection of the process.

Mr. CARDIN. Just to correct the record, and the leader is correct. We did vote against the package. The package was developed in a very bipartisan manner through the task force. There were some votes that took place on the floor of the House that were recommended against by the task force that changed some of the recommendations, and we had a motion to recommit to try to clarify that.

The gentleman is correct on the final vote, but the package itself was very much developed in a bipartisan manner through the task force in a way that it should have been done, contrary to the process that was used on this rules package.

Mr. HOYER. Reclaiming my time, Mr. Leader, I thank you for taking the time, I know you did not have to, and you have been considerate of this discussion because you and I know it is an important discussion. Because it is an important discussion, I would hope that we could move forward to try to get us off this impasse that we have for whatever reason. And whatever is right or wrong, it needs to be resolved.

There are two suggestions here of how to resolve it. There may be other ways to resolve it. But I would hope that in the coming days we could move towards, in a bipartisan fashion, move towards resolving this issue.

PROPER TAX TREATMENT OF CERTAIN DISASTER MITIGATION PAYMENTS

Mr. FOLEY. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to take from the Speaker's table the bill (H.R. 1134) to amend the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 to provide for the proper tax treatment of certain disaster mitigation payments, with a Senate amendment thereto, and concur in the Senate amendment.

The Clerk read the title of the bill. The Clerk read the Senate amendment, as follows:

Senate Amendment:

Stikes out all after the enacting clause and insert:

SEC. 1. PROPER TAX TREATMENT OF CERTAIN DISASTER MITIGATION PAYMENTS.

(a) QUALIFIED DISASTER MITIGATION PAYMENTS EXCLUDED FROM GROSS INCOME.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Section 139 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 (relating to disaster relief payments) is amended by adding at the end the following new subsections:

"(g) QUALIFIED DISASTER MITIGATION PAYMENTS.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—Gross income shall not include any amount received as a qualified disaster mitigation payment.

"(2) QUALIFIED DISASTER MITIGATION PAYMENT DEFINED.—For purposes of this section, the term ‘qualified disaster mitigation payment’ means any amount which is paid pursuant to the Robert T. Stafford Disaster Relief and Emergency Assistance Act (as in effect on the date of the enactment of this subsection) or the National Flood Insurance Act (as in effect on such date) to or for the benefit of the owner of any property for hazard mitigation with respect to such property. Such term shall not include any amount received for the sale or disposition of any property.

"(3) NO INCREASE IN BASIS.—Notwithstanding any other provision of this subtitle, no increase in the basis of the property shall result from any amount excluded under this subsection with respect to such property.

"(h) DENIAL OF DOUBLE BENEFIT.—Notwithstanding any other provision of this subtitle, no deduction shall be allowed as a loss or for property damage or related expenses for which benefit a qualified disaster relief payment or qualified disaster mitigation payment is made for, or by reason of, any expenditure to the extent of the amount excluded under this section with respect to such expenditure.

(b) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Section 139 of such Code is amended—

(a) by striking "(a) QUALIFIED DISASTER RELIEF PAYMENT" and inserting "(a) QUALIFIED DISASTER MITIGATION PAYMENTS"; and

(b) by inserting at the end of such section the following new subsection:

"(k) DISPOSITIONS OF PROPERTY UNDER CERTAIN HAZARD MITIGATION PROGRAMS.—For purposes of this section, property transferred by the Federal Government, a State or local government, or an Indian tribal government to implement hazard mitigation under the Robert T. Stafford Disaster Relief and Emergency Assistance Act (as in effect on the date of the enactment of this subsection) or the National Flood Insurance Act (as in effect on such date), shall be treated as an involuntary conversion to which this section applies.

(c) EFFECTIVE DATE.—

(1) QUALIFIED DISASTER MITIGATION PAYMENTS.—The amendments made by subsection (a) shall apply to amounts received before, on, or after the date of enactment of this Act.

(2) DISPOSITIONS OF PROPERTY UNDER HAZARD MITIGATION PROGRAMS.—The amendments made by subsection (b) shall apply to sales or other dispositions before, on, or after the date of the enactment of this Act.

Mr. FOLEY (during the reading). Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate amendment be considered as read and printed in the RECORD.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Florida?

There was no objection.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Mr. FOLEY pro tempore. Is there objection to the original request of the gentleman from Florida?

Mr. CARDIN. I yield to the gentleman from Florida.

Mr. FOLEY. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. CARDIN. I yield to the gentleman from Florida.

Mr. FOLEY. Mr. Speaker, I appreciate the gentleman for yielding and certainly for his help in supporting this important measure.

Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to call up H.R. 1134, as amended by the other body, and with the bill's many supporters urge its adoption.

I remind my colleagues that the House passed this bill by voice vote 1 month ago. It was a bipartisan effort. We worked with the administration to develop a bill that makes disaster mitigation grants tax free. The bill also extended tax-free treatment to outstanding grants, as the administration's budget clearly provided for.

The amendment was quickly adopted by making the relief in outstanding grants more explicit. During the past month, there has been some discussion in the other body of raising taxes and of adding unrelated tax breaks. I am pleased and thrilled that neither of those ideas was added to the bill and that this amendment is acceptable.

As I said when the bill was considered on this floor on March 14, H.R. 1134 will make disaster mitigation grants available to the people we want to help avoid loss of life and property. These grants have saved Americans $2.9 billion in property losses during the past 15 years. Passing this bill today will clarify a difficult tax issue just in time, and I must underline just in time, for our April 15 filing and help those Americans who are even now struggling with their tax returns. And I hope all here will join me in passing the bill.

Of course, I thank the chairman of the Committee on Ways and Means, the gentleman from California (Mr. THOMAS), and the ranking member, the gentleman from New York (Mr. RANGELEY), for their quick consideration of this important bill and, of course, the gentleman from Maryland (Mr. CARDIN), for his excellent work on this as well.

Mr. COLE of Oklahoma. Mr. Speaker, with the gentleman from Florida?

Mr. CARDIN. Further reserving the right to object, I yield to the gentleman from Oklahoma.

Mr. COLE of Oklahoma. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding. It is very gracious of the gentleman from Florida.

Mr. Speaker, I come from a part of the country, Oklahoma, where disasters are not uncommon. Sometimes they are the awful man-made disasters of the Oklahoma City Bombing, something we will talk about next week, but more frequently they are the disasters associated with tornados.

In my home community in 1999 we had an F-5 tornado that destroyed in my community and the adjacent community the home of 4,000 homes and killed 40 people. Four years later, another tornado, traveling almost in the identical path, destroyed another 500 homes and injured many people.

Each time we got superb help from the Federal Emergency Management Agency, as well as FEMA, both in the immediate disaster and in the aftermath, to mitigate the consequences of future events of this type; and we were very, very grateful for that help as Americans.

It came then as an enormous surprise to my constituents that I represent years later that this help turned into potentially a taxable event. That is, there was talk at the Internal Revenue Service of going back, taking the grant and actually levying a tax on them years after they have been given.

I want to commend the gentleman from Florida (Mr. FOLEY), who has had similar circumstances dealing with hurricanes in his home State, for working with our delegation in Oklahoma on this bipartisan basis, the gentleman from Oklahoma (Mr. ISTOOK), the gentleman from Oklahoma (Mr. LUCAS), the gentleman from Oklahoma (Mr. SULLIVAN), the gentleman from Oklahoma (Mr. BOREN) and myself and for working across the aisle with our good friends who have this problem in common.

On this floor we sometimes do have partisan disagreements, but when the good of the country is at stake, it is maddening how often we come together. And certainly we come together regardless of party to help people that have been hurt through no fault of their own in the course of disaster and to help them prepare so that those disasters never threaten their well-being again.

So I want to thank again my friend, the gentleman from Florida (Mr. FOLEY), for his outstanding work. I commend our colleagues in the Senate for working with him in getting this bill done just in time. Literally, I had a couple of town meetings last week when we were on break where I had constituents come and ask who had benefited from these mitigation grants, would the taxation problem be taken care of? And at that time I could not actually assure that it would be.

A number of them filed extensions rather than turn their taxes in. They were not sure what their liability was going to be. If it were not for the action of the people on both sides of the aisle, if it were not for the action of the other body, they would potentially be facing a tax bill that they never anticipated.

Again, I want to thank the gentleman from Florida (Mr. FOLEY) for his extraordinary work in this regard. I want to tell him if he wants to run for office next time, come to Oklahoma. We remember our friends. And we appreciate very much his remarkable efforts.

I thank so much my good friend, the gentleman from Maryland (Mr. CARDIN).

Mr. FOLEY. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. CARDIN. Further reserving the right to object, I yield to the gentleman from Florida.

Mr. FOLEY. Mr. Speaker, I certainly appreciate that invitation, but I am quite proud of serving Florida.

I think it is important to thank the gentleman from Louisiana (Mr. JINDAL) who has been a prime sponsor, as have been Democrats and Republicans. That is one of the few processes when we actually get something done with bipartisan support.

I want to thank the staff on the Committee on Ways and Means but specifically Elizabeth Nicholson from my staff, my deputy chief of staff who has labored very long, hard hours on trying to get this to fruition. We are here on the floor and I am very excited and pleased that we will be able to provide this relief for our taxpayers. And, of course, the gentleman from Oklahoma (Mr. COLE) clearly stated without their help and the entire delegation that that effort would have been for naught.

So we appreciate all involvement and all support.

Mr. CARDIN. Mr. Speaker, further reserving the right to object, I want to just conclude by acknowledging the work of the gentleman from Florida (Mr. FOLEY). He really does deserve the credit for being persistent to get this legislation passed prior to April 15.

I also want to thank the gentleman from California (Mr. SCHIFF), our chairman, the gentleman from New York (Mr. RANGEL), our ranking member, for arranging this process.

It has been a pleasure to work with the gentleman. As the gentleman knows the problems we have had in Maryland with Hurricane Isabel and the bipartisan work I did in connection with that caused, I go firsthand the damage and devastation to families in my own State. This bill will help. It has been my pleasure to join my colleague from Florida in sponsoring and supporting this legislation.

Mr. Speaker, I withdraw my reservation of objection.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. FORTEY). Is there objection to the original request of the gentleman from Florida?

There was no objection. A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. FOLEY. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on H.R. 1134, the bill just passed.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Florida?

There was no objection.

SPECIAL ORDERS

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under the Speaker's announced policy of January 4, 2005, and under a previous order of the House, the following Members will be recognized for 5 minutes each.

CONGRESS AND THE JUDICIARY: RESTORING COMITY

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from California (Mr. SCHIFF) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. SCHIFF. Mr. Speaker, 174 years ago, Supreme Court Justice John Marshall warned: "The greatest scourge in angry heaven ever inflicted upon an ungrateful and a sinning people, was an ignorant, a corrupt, or a dependent judiciary." Despite Marshall's warning, quite remarkably, nearly 200 years later the very independence of the judiciary, a matter so fundamental to our separation of powers, is still a matter of contention for some, particularly in this Congress.

For 2 years in a row now, Chief Justice Rehnquist has used his year-end report to highlight the deteriorating relationship between the judicial branch and the legislative branch, the result of a recent systematic congressional attack on the independence of the judiciary. Since I arrived in Congress, I have been quite surprised by the dreadful state of relations between our branches and the absence of the comity that historically existed between the two.

The Federal caseload continues to rise at a record pace, reaching new levels. Courthouse funding is woefully inadequate, failing to meet the needs of our Federal courts in order to carry out their mission and to make necessary improvements in priority areas such as court security. Judicial confirmations continue to be mired in political brinksmanship. Judicial compensation has not kept pace with inflation and congressional inaction on an annual basis has led to delays in important adjustments, despite the President's admonition for Congress to act.

The House Committee on the Judiciary, which I sit, has issued drug investigations of judges charged with judicial misconduct, matters that were previously left to circuit judicial councils, and the word "impeachment" has been used quite loosely and frequently as a threat.

A few weeks ago, these threats reached a fever pitch with talk, from the highest leadership levels of this body, of intentions to "look at an unaccountable, arrogant, out-of-control judiciary that thumbed their nose at Congress and the President" and a warning that "the time will come for the men responsible for this to answer for their behavior, but not today."

The Congress has also renewed its appeal for legislation that would strip the Federal courts of jurisdiction on a piecemeal basis from areas in which some are not pleased with the results that have been reached from the courts, or in areas where some are worried about potential outcomes down the road.

We have considered one bill which would remove Federal court jurisdiction over issues concerning the free exercise or the establishment of religion in marriage, another which would allow a Federal judge take up any issue involving that, the free exercise or the establishment of religion, he is subject to impeachment under the bill.

We had another proposal to remove jurisdiction of the courts over the Ten Commandments, another over the Pledge of Allegiance, and yet another to remove jurisdiction over any issue affecting the acknowledgement of God as the sovereign source of law. Again, the penalty for a judge who inquires or exercises jurisdiction is impeachment, removal from office.

Perhaps we should simply remove the jurisdiction of the Federal courts over the entire first amendment and be done with it.

After moving to strip jurisdiction, we recently moved to provide jurisdiction, where the Federal courts should not have it, in the Schiavo matter; and the only common denominator seems to be the desire to obtain the preferred result from the bench, regardless of the constitutionally enshrined principles of the separation of powers and of federalism itself.

Congress has not stopped here, but has pursued proposals to split appellate court jurisdiction, shed any Federal legislation that would decide for the judiciary what they may look at or include in their judicial opinions.

Does anyone in Congress believe that we can undermine the courts without belittling the Congress itself?

Some Supreme Court rulings, such as the decision with regard to the sentencing guidelines, remind us that... sometimes there will be judicial decisions that we believe are poorly reasoned and others we just do not like. However, efforts by the Congress to force the courts to look at our transient wishes, rather than the Constitution, would only serve to undermine the very institution in which we believe.

As a Member of Congress with a strong interest in improving the relationship between the legislative and judicial branches, I have formed, with the gentlewoman from Illinois (Mrs. Brad Schneider) and other colleagues, a caucus dedicated to this goal. Let us not forget his wise admonition.

Mr. Speaker, what is happening to this young man is an injustice. Lieutenant Pantano has served this Nation with great honor. My personal experiences with him and his family convince me that he is a dedicated family man and a man who loves his corps and his country. But I am not the only one who believes he is innocent. Yesterday, I read excerpts of pieces from the Washington Times and respected journalist Mona Charen defending Lieutenant Pantano. I have received letters and e-mails from Vietnam veterans who sympathize with him and ask that I do something to help him. They know what it is like to be in battle with an unconventional enemy. One second can make the difference between life and death.

I have read excerpts from his combat fitness report in which his superiors praised his leadership and talent, even recommended him for promotion.

Mr. Speaker, Lieutenant Pantano was, by all accounts, an exceptional Marine. Yesterday, Lieutenant Pantano and his attorneys waived his right to have an article 32 hearing and had decided that they want to go straight to trial. They believe, and I believe, that he will be proven innocent that they want to speed the process along.

In a letter yesterday, Lieutenant Pantano's mother wrote: “My son, our family, and millions of concerned citizens, Marines and soldiers were assured that the article 32 pretrial hearing would bring everything out in the wash, and we have been patient with a process that has been grueling for my son's family. The problem is that if the government is the machine and my son is the laundry, they are not adding any water.”

Thus far, the prosecution has not presented the witnesses and the evidence that they claim to have, and Lieutenant Pantano had no reason to believe that they were lying. Now no such evidence appears to exist.

Mr. Speaker, I have put in a resolution, House Resolution 167, to support Lieutenant Pantano as he faces trial. I hope that my colleagues in the House will take some time to read my resolution, look into this situation for themselves. Lieutenant Pantano's mother also has a Web site that I encourage people to visit. The address is www.defendthedefenders.org.

Mr. Speaker, as I close, I ask the good Lord in heaven to please bless our men and women in uniform whether in Iraq or Afghanistan, to bless them and their families across this country, and also I ask the good Lord to please be with the family of Lieutenant Pantano and that I believe he will be exonerated, and he is a great man, a great Marine; and God bless America.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from North Carolina (Mr. Jones) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. Jones of North Carolina. Mr. Speaker, I have spoken several times about Lieutenant Hario Pantano, a Marine who served our Nation bravely in both Gulf Wars and who now stands accused of murder for defending himself and this country.

During his service in Iraq last year, Lieutenant Pantano was faced with a very difficult situation that caused him to make a split-second decision to defend his life. He felt threatened by him to make a split-second decision to defend his life. He felt threatened by him to make a split-second decision to defend his life. He felt threatened by him to make a split-second decision to defend his life. He felt threatened by him to make a split-second decision to defend his life. Banca rotta, the bench is corrupt, the bench is broken.

We are a Nation of laws, but we are also a Nation that legislates on a foundation of religious and spiritual values.

Nothing in Christianity or Judaism or Islam supports the concept of usury against the defenseless, but that is exactly what this corrupt, broken bench does: It pits women and children against credit card companies. Corporate lawyers will get their money regardless of whether women and children get their dinner. Shame on the credit card companies for demanding this, and shame on the Republican majority for caving in. Republicans are enslaving the American people to credit card companies.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. FORTENBERRY), for himself, announces: The Chair will remind all persons in the gallery that they are here as guests of the House and that any manifestation of approval or disapproval of proceedings or other audible conversation is in violation of the rules of the House.

ORDER OF BUSINESS

Mr. PRICE of Georgia. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to take my Special Order at this time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Georgia?

There was no objection.

AMERICA NEEDS COMPREHENSIVE ENERGY POLICY

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. PRICE) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. PRICE of Georgia. Mr. Speaker, I rise to honor the memory of Josie Gray Bain, a brilliant woman who was a dedicated wife, mother, and pioneer educator, who I had the distinct honor to work with closely and who served on the Los Angeles School Board.

Josie Gray Bain was born in Atlanta, Georgia, where she attended elementary and high school. Shortly after graduation from high school, she met and married Reverend John C. Bain of Los Angeles. In the fall of 1930, Josie Bain relocated to Spring Hill, Tennessee, where she and her husband began their first ministerial appointment. Their son, John David, was born there. After Josie and her husband enrolled at Drake University, where Josie received her B.S. degree with honors and continued to do graduate work there.

In 1942, Josie Bain moved with her husband to Los Angeles, California. She completed her graduate studies at California State College in Los Angeles, Immaculate Heart College, and the University of Southern California.

In 1948, she began her career in education with the Los Angeles Unified School District as an elementary schoolteacher at Marianna Avenue Elementary School. After teaching several years, she was promoted to positions of ever-increasing responsibility. Josie ended her brilliant career as Associate Superintendent of Instruction, the first African American in the history of the Los Angeles Unified School District to be appointed to the position.

Josie Bain was an active member of several professional and civic organizations, including Delta Kappa Gamma, Education Sorority; Delta Sigma Theta, Education Sorority; National Council of Negro Women; the Urban League; United Methodist Women; and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. She founded and served as president of the Interchange For Community Action, which provided scholarships for many disadvantaged minorities for more than two decades.

Josie Bain devoted her life to her family, God, community, and her church. She lived her life with style, grace, integrity, and vitality. Her dedication to helping children was recognized by all those whom she touched, and her accomplishments were evidenced by numerous awards and honors bestowed upon her throughout her life.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. GUTKNECHT) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. GUTKNECHT addressed the House. His remarks will appear hereafter in the Extensions of Remarks.

REAUTHORIZE AMTRAK

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Florida (Ms. CORRINE BROWN) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Ms. CORRINE BROWN of Florida. Mr. Speaker, today we introduced a bipartisan Amtrak authorization bill that will truly serve America's traveling public. I want to thank the gentleman from Alaska (Chairman POSTLETHWAITE), the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. LATOUGHER), and the gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. OBSERTAR), for joining me in this effort. This is truly a bipartisan effort and shows the strong support Amtrak has within the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure and the Congress.

The current funding issues concerning Amtrak brings up a fundamental question of where this Nation stands on public transportation. We have an opportunity to improve a system that serves our need for passenger rail service, or we can just let it fall apart and leave this country's travelers and businesses with absolutely no alternative form of public transportation.

Without the funding Amtrak needs to keep operational, we will soon see people that rely on Amtrak to get to work each day waiting for a train that is not coming. We continue to subsidize highways and aviation, but when it comes to passenger rail service we refuse to provide the money Amtrak needs to survive.

This issue is bigger than just transportation. This is about safety and national security. Not only should we be giving Amtrak the money it needs to continue to provide service, we should be providing security money to upgrade their tracks and improve safety and security measures in the entire rail system.

Once again, we see the Bush administration paying for its failed policy by cutting funds to public service and jeopardizing more American jobs. This administration sees nothing wrong with taking money from the hard-working Amtrak employees who work day and night to provide top-quality service to their passengers. These folks are trying to make a living for their families, and they do not deserve such shabby treatment from this administration.

We spend $1 billion a week in Iraq, $4 billion a month, but this administration zeros out funding for Amtrak. Just one week’s investment in Iraq would significantly improve passenger rail for the entire country for an entire year.

I just want someone to explain to the American public why investing in transportation in Iraq is so much more important than investing in passenger rail service right here in the U.S.

Mr. Speaker, it is time for this administration to step up to the plate and make a decision about Amtrak based on what is in the best interest for the traveling public, not what is best for the right ring or the Republican Party or the European counters over at OMB.

Today in America, we have 50 million people without health care. We have the highest trade deficit in the history of the United States, a $375 billion Federal deficit. We have a $375 billion shortfall in transportation funding, and we still do not know what happened to the weapons of mass destruction or who at the White House outed one of the CIA agents. Yet this President’s top priority is Bankrupting Amtrak. I do not understand that.

I represent central Florida, which depends on tourists for its economic development; and we need people to be able to get to our State to enjoy it. Over $43 million, and purchased over $13 million in goods and services last year alone, and they are doing the same thing in every State they run in.

Some people think the solution to the problem is to privatize the system. If we privatize, we will see the same thing in every State they run in.

This is just one example of Amtrak’s impact on my State. Amtrak runs four long-distance trains from Florida, employs 990 residents with wages totaling over $43 million, and purchased over $13 million in goods and services last year alone, and they are doing the same thing in every State they run in.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to put before this body a challenge that I think is enormously important. What do you say to Americans who are filing their taxes and who are facing $2 plus and growing price per gallon on gas? This is an indistinguishable amount, meaning you can be a multi-billionaire or a person who is simply trying to make ends meet, keeping the doors open, paying the rent, providing for four or five members of their family, working in a blue collar or hourly job, and in order to get to a job across town, across county, or into the next State, we are asking Americans to pay $2 plus per gallon for gas.

Internationally, gas is quite high. The United States has always had the opportunity to experience a better quality of life. This is a hardship on Americans. And as the committee of jurisdiction has marked up energy legislation, I frankly believe it is not soon enough and it will not move soon enough. I think it is important for the President of the United States to announce an energy relief policy that deals specifically with the high price of gas for those who are now suffering under that burden.

I do not want to leave industry out. As I have traveled through the airports, I am delighted to see that the numbers have gone up after 9/11. But, frankly, representing Houston’s International Airport and the fourth largest city in the Nation, realizing the first class public has many needs to travel by airplane, the cost of jet fuel is killing our airline industry. In fact, my hometown airline, their employees have taken an actual cut in salary so that the airline can survive. But as they have done that, the jet fuel prices continue to go up and up and up.

Any legislation that we pass next week or at any time will not address that crisis, so I call upon the administration to acknowledge this as an economic crisis and establish some immediate relief, whether or not it is going into those petroleum reserves on a temporary basis, a 60-day basis, to bring some relief because there is going to be a point when those airplanes that equate to a sizable proportion of our GNP are going to collapse under the burden of jet fuel cost and will be a time when whole communities, urban areas and rural areas, will have a population of employees who on an hourly basis are working and cannot afford to get to work.

That is why, Mr. Speaker, I rise today to talk about and to add to the discussion what I think was an unfortunate legislative initiative that was passed today. We all would hope to run away from bankruptcy. That is not the direction that the American people desire to go. I find the American people innovative, hardworking, desirous of a better quality of life, desirous of giving their children a better quality of life.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. Price of Georgia). The Chair reminds Members to address their remarks to the Chair.

APPOINTMENT OF HON. TOM PRICE OF GEORGIA TO ACT AS SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE TO SIGN ENROLLED BILLS AND JOINT RESOLUTIONS THROUGH APRIL 19, 2005

The SPEAKER pro tempore laid before the House the following communication from the Speaker:

I hereby appoint the Honorable Tom Price to act as Speaker pro tempore to sign enrolled bills and joint resolutions through April 19, 2005.
J. DENNIS HASTERT,
Speaker of the House of Representatives.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Without objection, the appointment is approved.

There was no objection.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from California (Mr. Dreier) is recognized for 5 minutes.

(Mr. Dreier addressed the House. His remarks will appear hereafter in the Extensions of Remarks.)

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from California (Mr. Rohrabacher) is recognized for 5 minutes.

(Mr. Rohrabacher addressed the House. His remarks will appear hereafter in the Extensions of Remarks.)

30-SOMETHING WORKING GROUP

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under the Speaker's announced policy of January 4, 2005, the gentleman from Florida (Mr. Mee) is recognized for 60 minutes as the designee of the minority leader.

Mr. Mee. Of Florida, Mr. Speaker, it is once again a pleasure to address the House of Representatives and also to talk about a very important issue to all Americans, which is Social Security. I would also like to thank the Democratic leader for allowing the 30-something Working Group to come to the floor once again to talk about issues that are facing not only young Americans but Americans in general.

Through her leadership and through others that are in the Democratic Caucus, the Democratic whip, the gentleman from Maryland (Mr. Hoyer); the chairman, the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. Menendez) and also the vice chairman, the gentleman from South Carolina (Mr. Clyburn), we have been able to come to the floor to share facts, not fiction, to bring accuracy to the Social Security debate as it stands now.

First of all, Mr. Speaker, I would like to just share a few things as relates to Social Security. We encourage the Members to continue to keep an open mind. First of all, I want to commend Members on the Democratic side of the aisle for having so many town hall meetings, a number of town hall meetings, hundreds of town hall meetings in their own districts and those districts that have traveled outside of their districts to share with Americans the truth about Social Security and how we protect Social Security and how we continue to have the benefit structure that so many, 48 million Americans, are celebrating now today.

I must also add that I would like to commend some of my Republican colleagues that have the courage to stand up to the forces of leadership, to say that they are willing to make sure that their constituents are able to celebrate and to be able to survive in a program that they have been promised that will be there for them in their time of retirement.

I would also like to thank those Members on both sides of the aisle who see the benefit of protecting Social Security, not only in a privatization scheme, not because someone said it is a way that we can be innovative, not subscribing to saying that there is some sort of Federal emergency as it relates to the protection of Social Security, not the fact that the President is flying around the country some 60 days burning Federal jet fuel at taxpayers' expense, higher than any other time in the history of this country since President Bush was flying, to persuade Americans that there is some Federal emergency. We will try to address that a little later. We are going to celebrate not only within the moment but within the future.

I want to just share a few things, Mr. Speaker, as it relates to how many Americans that are not only beneficiaries of Social Security but also Americans who look forward to benefitting from Social Security. Social Security is the foundation of all retirement for the American worker. Like I mentioned earlier, 48 million Americans celebrate and take part in the benefit structure that has to be there for them in their time of retirement. Retirees receiving Social Security benefits are 33 million. That is a great number of Americans that have served our country well. Seniors who live within the poverty line, 48 percent of the present benefit structure as it stands now, provide. Retirees receiving Social Security benefits are 33 million. That is a great number of Americans that have served our country well. Seniors who live within the poverty line, 48 percent of them, they have to be there for them in their time of retirement. The average monthly benefit is $955. That is making ends meet for so many Americans, some 48 million Americans.

The size of the average benefit, like I mentioned, is $955; but the real issue is the fact that the benefits will be there for almost 50 years. Some may say 48, some may say 49, but for almost 50 years, the present benefit structure as it stands now, for Social Security recipients, including those individuals that are receiving survivor benefits that I must add, Mr. Speaker, those survivor benefits are the legacy of the commitment our leaders have made that have passed on, that have gone on to glory. The only thing that they were able to leave for their child are survivor benefits. And the benefits will be here until 2052; 2052, Mr. Speaker. That is not tomorrow. That is not next week. That is not even 2 years, 2052.

And so many of the individuals that are running around here saying that we need to call the fire department because Social Security is on fire are not really telling the truth. One may say that the administration has a plan or the majority side leadership has a plan for Social Security. That is also not true. One may say that the President, like I said, the administration, has a plan. That is not true. Is there posturing on the majority side about the fact that they are going to come up with a plan? Yes, there is some conversation going on, but Washington is known for conversation. There is nothing wrong with conversation as long as it is bipartisan. And that is not happening. Americans have a bipartisan dialogue to improve Social Security. So if it is going to be addressed in this Congress, for us to move in a productive way, we are going to have to work together. And there is no leadership from the majority side for us to work together.

Some may say, well, where is the Democratic plan? Well, I think the Democratic plan is celebrated by 48 million Americans today, not fiction, not something that may happen in the future; and in the 1980s it was a Democratic Congress that was together with Speaker O'Neill and Ronald Reagan to save Social Security. A supermajority of Democrats voted for it, and even the creation of it.

So when one starts to argue about, well, where is the Democratic plan, the Democratic plan is in the wallets of 48 million Americans—Americans that are walking around working now with a Social Security card can say, wow, I am glad we have Social Security in the way we have it. And for those retirees that take their card out with those digits on them, they can thank the leadership of the Democratic Congress when it was created and also the Democratic Congress that saved Social Security to make sure that every American can have the maximum amount of benefits possible to them to help that 48 percent of the 48 million Americans that without Social Security would be living in poverty, to help 33 million of those retirees that are now, this is fact, not fiction, able to receive Social Security because, let us say, for instance, in that 33 million Americans, I am sure, Mr. Speaker, a number of their companies have gone back on their commitment on retirement. But Social Security is there for them. For those individuals that have passed on and gone on to glory, they were able to leave legacy benefits for their children.

Let us talk a little bit about the private accounts, because I think it is important that we talk about the privatization scheme that some people in this town have in store or would like to put forth to the American people. Before I get into that, I would also like to add, since we are talking about the positive points of Social Security, that Social Security is important to stabilize the American way of life. If we start talking about other things, especially in this era of no health care, I must add, one may want to talk about health care accounts or special savings accounts and all of those things that are talked about from time to time.

Fifteen million Americans are working without health care. These are not individuals that are sitting at home cracking their toes, saying the job situation looks sad. These are individuals that go to work every day. So if we start getting along with our friends in Wall Street and saying we are going to have private accounts and we are going to shore up some more money for Wall Street, then that is a gamble that I am not willing to take.

On the other side, they are talking about, we need to privatize these accounts. Let me tell you, it is going to make it harder for everyone to achieve financial security, and I do mean everyone. Not just Democrats, not just Republicans, not just independents, not just people of color, not just Asian Americans. Every American will suffer under it. The size of the benefit cuts proposed in the philosophy that the majority side has is 46 percent. The average reduction of benefits, a retirement over their lifetime would be $152,000. The amount that Wall Street would profit from the private accounts would be $940 billion. That is the only real bright spot here for some. The issue as it relates to our risk as it relates to this risky plan for private accounts, $2 trillion. The amount of government tax on private accounts would be 80 percent.

If the Republican proposal to cut Social Security benefits were in place today, the average senior monthly benefit would be $516. This is very real, ladies and gentlemen. Remember, I said right now, as in the present, today. If we look at the clock right now, if we look at today’s date right now, the average benefit is $955.

Under the proposed philosophy that the majority side has, it would be $516. That is not something to be proud of, it is not something to be proud of. That is not something to be proud of.

There are a lot of other things that were mentioned recently in the media, and we will talk a little bit about that. But as we start, as we continue to talk about the issue as it relates to the price of a gallon of gas, the price of a gallon of gas, it is surging. It is a lose-lose proposition, as presently presented, the philosophy that the President has. More than a 40 percent cut in benefits, adds nearly $5 trillion in additional debt over a 20-year period; 70 percent privatization tax, 60 cents on every dollar in private accounts. Some argue 80 percent. I mentioned this a minute ago: $152,000 in benefit cuts for young people is based on the price index.

So I think it is important that we look at this, especially as Americans are forced to start thinking about this, something that is 50 years away of living a problem. And then, after 50 years, Mr. Speaker, 80 percent of the benefits that are now offered in Social Security will still be intact. In 2052, 2053, people will still be able to receive 80 percent of the benefits. So I am wondering, where is the fire?

I can tell you, what is the fire right now, if we can use that as a metaphor, or the emergency. The emergency now is the fact that we have Americans working without health care. Emergency is the fact that we are all now paying more for health care that they were promised would be free. Emergency is the fact that we have a Department of Homeland Security, that we are rated in the top 20 for our information technology. Those are true emergencies.

Emergency is the fact that we cannot protect our borders. Those are true emergencies. Emergency is the fact that we really do not have any social capital cities, counties and state governments that are suffering through the acts of this Congress in what we call devolution of taxation. We will cut taxes, but we are going to make them raise them on the local level. Those are emergencies. Those are right now pocketbook, wallet issues that are facing Americans right now.

I am glad the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. Ryan) joined me. I am starting to think that some people in this town may want us to say that something is an emergency, and it is actually not, while we are not looking at the overgrowing federal debt, the highest in the history of the republic; the fact that we are not talking about the fact that Americans do not have health care; the fact that we really do not have anything going on as it relates to making the dollar stronger; the fact that we do not want to address gas prices. Maybe this is the reason why we are spending all of this Federal jet fuel that the President is using flying around the country to try to persuade people to believe in a philosophy of privatization of Social Security when he himself has said privatization of Social Security alone will not save Social Security.

Mr. Ryan of Ohio. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. MEEK of Florida. I yield to the gentleman from Ohio, my good friend.

Mr. Ryan of Ohio. Mr. Speaker, I think the gentleman for yielding to me.

I think he makes a great point, and I think the phrase that he has used in the past that is applicable to the Social Security debate, the conclusion of the American way of life. They want us looking at Social Security over here and having this debate and flying around the country and talking about what needs fixing and a crisis that really does not exist, and we have numbers that say it does not exist, but we still want to have this debate over here.

Meanwhile, on this end, we are cutting Medicaid. Health care costs have gone up 50 percent over the last 5 years; education costs of college tuition up 36 percent. No one wants to talk about these issues. No one wants to talk about the fact that Youngstown city schools, the district that I represent, 85 percent of the kids who go to their school quality for free and reduced lunch.

We do not want to have that debate. We want to have a manufactured debate. And I think the gentleman is exactly right. That is exactly what is happening here, and I think it becomes more and more important on us to fight this on a couple of different fronts. One is to make the argument that Social Security is solid up until 2041 and that we need to make some corrections. We may want us to say that something is a bipartisan way but make sure that the benefits are guaranteed, make sure that no American is going to get a reduction in their benefits, especially the 50 percent of the people who qualify for Social Security lifts them out of poverty. So I think it is very important for us to broaden this debate over here and not just talk about Social Security but to talk about all these other issues.

One of the issues that I have been working on with Members of the other side, trying to somehow get the attention of the administration, is the issue of China, manipulating their currency up to 40 percent. We had a hearing today in the Committee on Armed Services.

Mr. MEEK of Florida. A joint hearing, I must add, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Ryan of Ohio. A joint hearing with the Committee on International Relations and the Committee on Armed Services. I appreciate the gentleman’s correcting me.

Mr. MEEK of Florida. I just want to make sure that we are factual, sir.

Mr. Ryan of Ohio. Constructive criticism. I appreciate that.

We had a discussion about the Europeans wanting to lift the arms embargo on China, which has been the Europeans cannot sell all these different types of military arms to the Chinese. There has been a discussion and the Committee on Armed Services.

Mr. MEEK of Florida. A joint hearing, I must add, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Ryan of Ohio. A joint hearing with the Committee on International Relations and the Committee on Armed Services. I appreciate the gentleman’s correcting me.

Mr. MEEK of Florida. I just want to make sure that we are factual, sir.

Mr. Ryan of Ohio. Constructive criticism. I appreciate that.

Mr. MEEK of Florida. I just want to make sure that we are factual, sir.

Mr. Ryan of Ohio. Constructive criticism. I appreciate that.
Forty-eight million Americans celebrate Social Security right now. Thirty-three million of those Americans would be living in poverty if it was not for it. We have a number of young people that are going to school solely on survivor benefits because their family member passed on.

And I can tell the Members what is even further appalling is the President saying to the African American that I am pushing private accounts because African American males do not live as long as Anglo males.

Mr. RYAN of Ohio. Unbelievable.

Mr. MEEK of Florida. In my opinion, Mr. Speaker, that is very wrong. But I go to show us the desperation that some majority leaders on the majority side have to try to do this because they can.

But I can tell the gentleman the reason why we do not have a bill on this floor yet is not because we have staff or Members are lazy or do not want to write a bill. The reason why it is not here is that Americans are not with the administration and some Members of the majority side on messing with Social Security, especially as it comes down to private accounts and a risky scheme, because this is not the number one, it is one of the main reasons why so many Americans appreciate this Federal Government, that we will keep our word, that we will stand by what we said we will do.

So when looking at these issues, the American people are not necessarily with the administration and some Members on the majority side as it relates to trying to change Social Security on a scheme of private accounts. That is why there is not a bill here. That is the reason why we hear some posturing here and there and an article saying we are going to start marking some up pretty soon.

I am going to tell the gentleman right now that discussion has been going on since 1978, and the reason why that discussion has been going on as it relates to private accounts since 1978 is the fact that the American people are not marching up and down the street saying, “We want a reduction in our benefits; we want to gamble on our retirement.” They are not saying that. What they are saying is that “I have a Social Security card and guess what. When I reach the age I should be able to receive Social Security, I look forward to it. I want you to stand next to your word.”

So earlier I commended not only all of my Democratic colleagues but even some of the Members on the majority side that have the courage to stand up and say, I am here on behalf of my constituents, I am not here on behalf of myself, on being accepted by those who are trying to persuade them to do otherwise.

So when we start looking at it in a nutshell, Mr. Speaker, I am starting to believe more and more it is one of these things, look over here and think Social Security is Social Security.

Meanwhile, we have the highest deficit in the history of the Republic. In Florida, that is a real issue; and I guarantee the reason why there are a number of Members of the Florida delegation that are not necessarily with the administration and the majority side some Members on the majority side are not with the majority side on the issue of privatization of Social Security, because eventually many of the gentleman from Ohio’s constituents will be my constituents in the end.

Mr. RYAN of Ohio. If the gentleman would further yield, Mr. Speaker, the gentleman is absolutely right. Maybe one day I will even be his constituent, that one day I will move to Florida.

But I think the point that the gentleman from Florida brought up is the issue of the perennial budget deficits that we are having it seems every year in this Chamber, $400 to $500 billion a year, and I think when we talk in the 30-something numbers that we have established here, the reason we like to talk about and highlight the deficit is because long term that is going to have the most detrimental effect on members of the 30-something generation, 20-something generation.

We have huge numbers. Our debt is rising. Our deficit is going up and up and up every single year. And now to implement the Social Security plan, $5 trillion to implement the President’s version of his privatization, $5 trillion over the next 20 years. We already have almost an $8 trillion national debt. Let me move this over.

Mr. MEEK of Florida. And those are as-of-today numbers.

Mr. RYAN of Ohio. These are today’s numbers. And this clock is ticking by the second. But $7.7 trillion is the national debt today and ticking. Maybe we will be able to get the technology here where this will keep moving, $7.79 trillion national debt today.

And I think this is the most staggering number. Someone sitting at home watching this or sitting up in the gallery, their individual share of the national debt is $26,300. So if one is born today, welcome to being born in the United States of America, they have a $26,000 tag on their head.

Mr. MEEK of Florida. Mr. Speaker, reclaiming my time, I think it is important for the Members to understand the kind of help the insurance carriers provide. The President is a Republican. We have an obligation to do what we said we will do.

So I want some of the Members are in their offices, and I think it is important that they know that national debt number as of today, and Americans and Members can go to the official Website of the U.S. Treasury. They have to go to the couple of clicks, but I am going to show the Members how they can get directly to that number and that ticker. Because if I am in the Treasury Department, I am going to have people go into two or three different clicks once they go to my home page and maybe, just maybe, they will get to the ticker because it is nothing that we can be proud of.

Also, as it relates, we need to talk a little bit about those countries that have bought our debt and we are beleaguered to foreign countries. The gentleman does that better. But the Web site is www.ustreas.gov. That is the Department of Treasury Web site, www.ustreas.gov. Or you can go directly to when you go on the page, because we are trying to share with the Members and educate the Members and make sure the American people understand exactly what is happening here, because it is not a badge of honor to be a Member of the 109th Congress and for a history to reflect that we made decisions to have the highest deficit in the history of the Republic. That is just not something that one can be proud of. But you can go if you want directly to www.house.gov/budget/budgetdemocrats. That is www.house.gov/budgetdemocrats.

It is important, because our Democratic budget committee has really worked hard in making sure that we can pull this information out, that not only it should be useful to the Members on both sides of the aisle, but also to the American people.

Mr. RYAN of Ohio. If the gentleman will yield, I appreciate the gentle know that informing the next generation, and for many, many, many years our colleagues were standing in the well on that side talking about a balanced budget amendment, talking about fiscal discipline, talking about tax and spend. Now we are borrowing and spending.

This is worse. It is bad to tax and spend, and I do not think any of us advocate that. But to borrow and spend, because you are borrowing, you are spending and then you are paying interest on the money that you borrow, primarily from the Japanese and the Chinese banks. That is reckless. It is not the right policy. And the domestic policy, it is not conducive to providing opportunity for the next generation, your kids and the young kids that are coming up.

When you talk about funding health care and Medicare, Medicaid, education, tuition costs, Pell grants, No Child Left Behind, how are we going to compete with 1.3 billion Chinese, how are we going to compete with over 1 billion Indians in the next couple of decades, when we have kids, students, that are not wealthy and not getting the proper education that they need, at the same time we are leaving this kind of burden on their backs?
Now, I have to excuse myself. I have a meeting I have to be at 3 minutes ago. But I want the gentleman to carry on here because this is important. I think the best thing we can do in our 30-something Caucus and our 30-something Working Group that our leader, the gentleman from California (Ms. Pelosi), has helped us establish, is talk about this, because if there is one thing I hope that I can say in my tenure in Congress and the gentleman’s is that somehow we were able to fix this and make the investments that young students need and that they deserve and that will lead to the kind of opportunity that the gentleman and I have had.

Mr. MEEK of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for his question. We are going to talk about some changes that we have made in the past. We are going to talk about the future. We are going to talk about the way we are going to do it.

Well, the future generation has $30,000 in debt right now and climbing. So I do not know. I do not feel good about my daughter and my son having to worry about college and all these other things, and then worry about the Federal debt at the same time.

Mr. RYAN of Ohio. If the gentleman will yield further, exactly. When you add on it the $20,000 that you are born with, and the interest that keeps going up and up and up, and maybe next week we will have the math and figure out what it will be based on inflation. And then add on to that college costs rising at the rate they have been over the past 4 years. I know they have doubled, and I think average college students graduates with a $20,000-some debt, and that is not even if they go after a masters or Ph.D. or law degree. It is about $22,000 for the average college student’s debt.

So you take the 26, you add on the 22, now you are talking close to $50,000, and then project that out 22 years. So your baby born today, if you want them to go to college or get a masters degree or law degree or Ph.D., you are talking $100,000, if not hundreds of thousands of dollars in debt. That is not providing opportunity. At the same time, they are competing with billions, over 1 billion Chinese workers and over 1 billion Indians. So this is becoming very dangerous for the long-term prospects of our country.

If you want to e-mail us, 30something democrats @mail.house.gov.

I have enjoyed this. I look forward to us coming back next week. I hope this in some way has broadened the discussion and deepened the discussion on the issues facing the country.

I yield back to my very good friend from Florida.

Mr. MEEK of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman. I want to thank the gentleman for co-chairing this 30-something Working Group that consists of 16 or 18 Members on the Democratic side of Members of the House. We, like I said earlier, try to come together and share this information, not only with Members of the Congress on what is important to the American people. We want to help young people that are trying to raise their families and have a good future for their children.

I think that it is important once again to know that on the Democratic side of the aisle that we have a Social Security or we start talking about Social Security reform, I think it is important that the American people understand that we want to strengthen Social Security without slashing the benefits that Americans have earned. I think that is important.

I think that when you start talking about what Americans have earned, I believe that is paramount in this debate. And I think when they earn something, I think we need to make sure that we stand by our promise.

Now, when we have a forecast for the present benefit structure that will for almost 50 years be in place, and then beyond those 50 years 80 percent of those benefits will be provided, I think that is standing next to our promise.

I think there are some things that we need to do to make sure that the Social Security trust fund is solvent for years to come. One is to stop deficit spending in such a large amount of money every Congress; every budget that is passed, deficit spending. The whole philosophy of pay-as-you-go is no longer a philosophy as it relates to the majorit. It is putting it on the credit cards. It is saying, we are going to borrow from other countries to buy our debt. It is saying that we will foretell it off to future generations.

I do not believe that that is something that we should subscribe to. I think we should work hard in bringing down the debt down and paying back into the Social Security trust fund. That will have us continue to provide a kind of benefits that we look forward to, that many Americans look forward to.

When the President starts off in saying it is going to be $5 trillion to put forth that is problematic at the beginning, saying we are going to save you money, but we are going to borrow money to help you save money. It sounds like the Potomac Two-Step once again. And so it is important that we realize the gravity of this situation, knowing that there are issues that are greater than an emerging problem in 50-some-odd years.

It is important that we do as we always do as Americans, come together to save great programs and to be able to help our elderly and frail, to be able to help those individuals that have worked all their lives, the 48 million Americans I speak of that are already receiving Social Security benefits and that are counting on them.

So, Mr. Speaker, I look on the bright end of things as I start heading towards a close here. The 48 million Americans that are celebrating Social Security right now, that are receiving on average $550 a month right now, which we know as of today if the majority side and the President’s philosophy was in force, there is no way those benefits beyond those benefit $516. That is easy math. That makes a world of difference to someone that is on a fixed income.

We know that 33 million of those 48 million are retirees. So when the 30-something Working Group in order to look at priorities, we want to watch out for our parents, we want to watch out for our future and for our children’s future.

So when we were here in the state of the Union, and the President started talking about, well, people over 55 do not worry about it, my proposal will not affect your benefits, are we promoting two Americas, or are we promoting unity? I am glad my mom did not call me up and say, Kendrick, guess what? I am okay. You are not. Good luck. That is not what Social Security is about. It is not the “Kendrick Meek Report.” This is what took place here in this Chamber, in the state of the Union, with both Houses coming together at that time.

So it is important that we realize what is being said and what is being done. Forty-eight percent of those individuals, of the 48 million, would be living in poverty if it was not for Social Security. That is important to the 30-something Working Group, especially for those young professionals that the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. Ryen) talked about when they leave their high union, with both Houses coming together at that time.

That is easy math. That makes a world of difference to someone that is on a fixed income.

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD—HOUSE

So if we start messing around with the benefit structure under the privatization scheme, guess what? We are going to have to take care of our parents and our grandparents. We are going to have to subsidize their income. We do now, but it will be greater. So that is the reason why this is important, that the facts are put forth. Forty-seven years of solvency, the way Social Security is right now will continue.

So, Mr. Speaker. I look forward, as long as there are those that are in this Chamber and outside of this Chamber that are sharing with the Americans inaccurate information and saying that privatization is good and it is going to be a really nice thing for all Americans and we all should do it, the 30-something Working Group will continue to work not only with the Democratic leader, the gentlewoman from California (Ms. PELOSI), and the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. MENENDEZ), who is our chairman of the Democratic Caucus, and the gentleman from South Carolina (Mr. CLYBURN), who is our vice chair of the Democratic Caucus, and sharing accurate information with the American people,Statements as introduced or as amended in the floor of informing them on the truth about what is happening right now: not what might happen, what is happening right now and what is going to happen for years to come.

Because, remember, I say to my colleagues, Social Security in the 1980s was saved by a Democratic House, working along with Ronald Reagan in the White House, doing what we had to do on behalf of individuals who were carrying Social Security cards to keep our promise to them. We did the right thing, and we will continue to do the right thing, right thing: not increasing the Federal debt, and it is not taking a gamble on private accounts.

So we will continue to share this information. I want to thank the Democratic leader for allowing the 30-something Working Group to have this hour. We look forward to being back next week, sharing good and accurate information, and the topic will be Social Security, with the Members of the House.

SOCIAL SECURITY AND U.S. ENERGY POLICY

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. Price of Georgia). Under the Speaker's announced policy of January 4, 2005, the gentlewoman from Tennessee (Mrs. BLACKBURN) is recognized for 60 minutes as the designee of the majority leader.

Mrs. BLACKBURN. Mr. Speaker. I appreciate the opportunity to be here on behalf of the Republican leadership in the House. It has been so interesting listening over the past hour as my colleagues from across the aisle have talked about various and sundry issues, as they have gotten around to talking about Social Security.

I am here to talk about energy tonight, but before I do that, I want to spend just a moment and dispel some of the myths that have been listening to for the last hour.

I think that possibly my colleagues do not intentionally mean to misrepresent the facts. I think, though, that they are just sadly misinformed many times, and I hope we can understand of some of the facts. I would like to, if I can, clarify a few of these, dispel a couple of myths.

We have heard that Social Security is fine until 2032. Then we have turned around and heard that benefits are going to be cut immediately, and that is of concern to me.

I think we all know that there is a date, 2018, and 2018 is the date when the Social Security system will stop running a surplus. Now, this is important to us, because it is at that point in time when those IOUs that the government has been writing, the Social Security system, the Social Security fund, those are going to come due in 2018. Now, this is important to us, because the IOUs run out. The question for us to answer is this: what are we going to do? How are we going to pay it from 2018 until 2042.

My colleagues have come against the President for raising this issue. I would like to commend the President for having this discussion with the American people, for encouraging us to talk about how we go about addressing Social Security. It is important for those of us, the Members of the House elected from 435 districts around this great Nation, to decide what is going to be the best way to address Social Security.

With my constituents, we look at it as two tracks. One, the stabilization and solvency, how are we going to address this? The other we look at is the enhancements. That is where we begin talking about the personal accounts.

Mr. Speaker, one of my colleagues today has called it a privatization scheme, and I find that very sad. Because the money that men and women, each and every one of us, pay into Social Security is money we have earned, and that is something that we deserve to have, that our children deserve to have as a nest egg to build from as they get ready to retire. It is not a scheme. It is called working and earning a living and setting aside, and that is money that you have earned and you deserve to have, to be able to pass on to your heirs.

Personal accounts is your own personal lockbox to be certain that that money is going to be there at the time that you get ready to retire.

I have also heard them talk about we need to reduce deficit spending. Well, Mr. Speaker, I would just love it if they would join us as we as the majority try to work on deficit spending. But do my colleagues know what happens? Every single time we talk about reducing a program, every single time we talk about eliminating a program that has outlived its usefulness, every single time we talk about government efficiencies, what do they want to do? They want to grow the program. They don't want to cut it.

Mr. Speaker, Ronald Reagan said the closest thing to eternal life on earth is a Federal Government program, and he was right. Because once you got it, it is so incredibly difficult to get rid of it.

We passed a budget this year. We have done some great things this year, and I commend our Republican leadership for some of the steps that we have made, such as the budget. Our budget chair, the gentleman from Iowa (Mr. NUSSELE), did a great job working with the committee bringing forward a budget that has a reduction in nondiscretionary, nonhomeland security deficit spending. My colleagues wanted to vote against that and did vote against that, because it was not spending enough.

Mr. Speaker, you cannot have it both ways. You cannot have it both ways. You cannot work on deficit spending, working with our colleagues from across the aisle to join us.

We also want to be certain that we take a look at some of the things that need to be addressed as we talk about Social Security, as we talk about the future. We talk about education for our children, as we talk about opportunity. One of my colleagues said they went to college on a scholarship and talked about scholarship and loans and ways to get through college. A lot of us did like me, worked, worked hard, worked hard selling books door to door to get through college. And for many, many American men and women and young people today, they are working and they are striving to get that education so that they can build a nest egg and have a great retirement and a solid future, not only for them but for their children and for their grandchildren.

So we invite our colleagues from across the aisle to join with us to reduce this spending and to address the solvency of the Social Security system, to join with us as we talk about passing a budget that is going to reduce spending, cut the deficit in half in 5 years.

One of the reasons we are here talking about this deficit, and Mr. Speaker, I just cannot let this go by, they say you have to cut it, you have to stop spending. We have this national debt.

Do my colleagues know how we got here? We got here because of 40 years, 40 years of Democrat control, Democrat spending, programs that were growing and growing and growing and we have always called into account: 40 years just taking that credit card and running those numbers off, swiping them away, run it up, run it up, run it up. Pass that debt on. Let future generations worry about it. Live for today. Enjoy it. It is the Federal Government’s money. Spend it all before you get to the end of the year.

I commend our Republican leadership here in the House: our Speaker, the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. HASTETT); our Majority Leader, the gentleman from Texas (Mr. DELAY); our whip, the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. BLUNT); our conference chair, the gentlewoman from North Carolina (Ms. PRYCE); and I commend the President and our administration with us today. Let us begin to turn this ship around. We did not get here overnight. We did not. And we are working diligently every single day to turn this around. I think we are seeing great success.

As I mentioned a moment earlier, we have had a busy agenda. Despite what my colleagues from across the aisle would like to say, we have had a busy agenda this year. We have gotten a few good things done. We have passed class action reform, which has been a long time in coming. Greedy lawyers, greedy trial lawyers have just had their way too often for too many years with the American court system.

As I said, we have passed a budget that puts us on the path to fiscal responsibility. It is not going to be done overnight. It is not going to be done today or tomorrow. It is going to take us some time.

We are having a national discussion on the Social Security. Yesterday, we passed a permanent repeal of the death tax, which is a triple tax on many farmers, on many small businesses in my district in Tennessee. Today, we passed bankruptcy reform.

All of these are steps in the right direction. They are good things. At the same time, we have been talking about reducing taxes and cutting spending. We have to have that discussion one with the other. You cannot leave it unattended.

At my town halls over the past couple of weeks, we have heard a lot about Social Security. We have heard a lot about immigration, also; and, Mr. Speaker, I hope that at some point we will be able to come back to the floor and address that. But we are also hearing about energy and about the price.

One of my colleagues earlier this afternoon said, we need immediate relief from $2 a gallon plus gas, and we need it. And that right now is something that we can do, and it is called passing an energy bill, because it is a step in the right direction; and there are few issues that are more central to our economy and to our national security than energy and having a good, solid energy policy. There truly is no single American whose livelihood, whose standard of living, whose security as a citizen of this great Nation does not depend on our access to a stable and abundant energy supply.

Now, I would think, given the absolute critical nature of this issue, that we would have been able to easily pass a national energy policy bill several years ago, but, Mr. Speaker, that has not been the case. I commend our chairman, the gentleman from Texas (Chairman BARTON), for the great work he has done on this issue this year.

We are going to hear over the next week.As I explained this to the floor that, oh, my goodness, it was working in haste. Well, let me tell my colleagues what. We started a hearing on April 6 with opening statements. We finished in committee last night, which was April 13. And we are reminded my colleagues that during the 107th Congress, from 2001 to 2002, the Republican-led Committee on Energy and Commerce held 28 hearings related to the comprehensive national energy bill. Mr. Speaker, in 2002, the Committee on Energy and Commerce spent 21 hours marking up an energy bill and considering 79 amendments. In 2003, they spent 22 total hours and 80 amendments. In 3 years, House Republicans have held 80 public hearings, with 12 energy markups and 275 amendments. Senate Republicans have held 37 public hearings and 8 markups.

What is the common theme here? The common theme is that conservatives keep pushing for reform, and they are constantly saying that we need a national energy policy. We get it. Republicans in Congress have dedicated hundreds, if not thousands, of hours over the past several years making energy policy for this Nation a priority. During the 107th Congress, I proposed the Securing America’s Future Energy Act. In the 108th Congress, it was called the Energy Policy Act of 2003. And while many across the aisle opposed this effort, we are not giving up. This week at the Committee on Energy and Commerce we met for nearly 28 hours and considered almost 70 amendments.

Thanks to the leadership of the gentleman from Texas (Chairman BARTON), we were able to pass this important bill. It is a tremendous step toward a goal of national energy policy. It is a big step toward having a national energy bill, and I do commend all of my colleagues on the Committee on Energy and Commerce and our chairman for their diligent work and tremendous efforts.

Time and again, we face Democrats in the House and the Senate who put their pet projects over this matter of national security and economic security, instead, they put their interest and the interests of a few special interest groups. Here, part of the hold-up on this issue has been a group of extremely liberal ideologues who think we should require half the Nation to give up their cars and bike to work. They have made every attempt to halt progress on this bill because the bill will help open new domestic sources of oil, domestic oil that will ease some of our reliance on foreign sources.

I want to say that one more time, to be certain that everyone gets that. They have opposed it because this bill will help open new domestic sources of oil, domestic oil that will help ease our reliance on foreign sources.

And that must be a priority. And I agree there has to be a balance between efforts to develop alternative energy sources, but that cannot come at the expense of our current need for access to oil and gas supplies. And I believe that our President, my colleague from Texas (Chairman BARTON) has put together meets all these needs, and it should have the support of every single Member of this body.

I would like to spend a few moments with this point right now and go through some of the things that we have covered in our Energy Committee this week and things that the American people and the Members of this House are going to become very familiar with over the next week as we look at energy policy.

At the top we have got a quote from our chairman, the gentleman from Texas (Mr. BARTON), who said, I agree with our President, long enough for an energy bill. That is how long we have been working on this. And for individuals who will say we have not spent enough time on it, I do not think there is ever going to be enough time spent on it. And the reason for that is this, because they are just not getting everything they want; and so therefore, they are going try to keep the bill from moving forward.

The Energy Policy Act of 2005, this is what you are going to find in that bill. It improves our Nation’s electricity transmission capability and reliability. Mr. Speaker, this Nation has suffered a series of blackouts over the past decade. All of us remember the August 2003 blackout that affected the Northeast. And that is what we are trying to prevent with this legislation.

We are providing incentives for transmission grid improvement and for strengthening reliability standards. It is important to do that. It is important to be proactive, to provide those incentives for the grid improvements. This is critical in providing our economy needs so that it can grow and about protecting ourselves from future blackouts.

We have heard some discussion today about needing jobs, needing to grow the economy. One of the ways we can do that is having a stable, safe, secure, dependable energy supply. One way we can do that is by reducing our reliance on foreign oil sources.

And, the bill will also encourage development of new fuels, of hydrogen fuel cell cars, and give State and local governments access to grants that will support acquisition of alternative-fueled vehicles. And that program to get these alternative fueled vehicles is the Clean Cities program. This is something that will provide those communities that are dealing with transportation the opportunity to look at alternative-fueled vehicles. We are going to see those alternative fuels come about. It is important to Tennessee, my State. It is important to others.
We are hearing a lot about biodiesel, about ethanol, about the hybrids that some of the auto manufacturers are producing. And of course in Tennessee, we have a Nissan plant. We have a Saturn plant, and we know that research and development and new design for hydroelectric plants are there. And so, as we develop our drawing board, we need to do what we can do to encourage that. This bill will do that.

Number three, we have also made sure this effort does not ignore clean coal technology, clean coal technology that can burn like biomass, wind and solar hydroelectricity.

Number four, the Federal Government is going to help lead the effort in energy conservation through this legislation by requiring Federal buildings to comply with efficiency standards. We can help set the example, and we should be setting the example, and we are going to do that with this piece of legislation.

We are targeting those high utility bills. When it comes to liquefied natural gas, we are clarifying the government's role in the process of choosing sites for natural gas facilities. By streamlining the approval process for this sector, the energy sector's facility construction, we can provide some stability to those large segments of our country that depend on natural gas for fuel.

Mr. Speaker, every American knows our country is dependent on oil. It is essential to our economy. By increasing oil and gas exploration and development on nonfederal lands, and by authorizing the expansion of the strategic petroleum reserves capacity to a billion barrels, we are doing everything we can to meet our domestic demand and to protect ourselves from future shortages.

Both nuclear and hydropower have a significant role in providing energy for millions of acres, and our legislation will allow the Department of Energy to accelerate programs for the production and supply of electricity and set the stage for construction of new nuclear plants and improving current procedures for hydroelectric project licensing, looking to the future, and looking to the nuclear and the hydropower and the role that they will supply.

Mr. Speaker, all of this is good for our economy, and it is good for our national security. We know that. We know it is important that we continue to have a ready energy supply for manufacturing.

One of my colleagues earlier today was talking about, my goodness, you know, China, and dealing with China and the currency there, it concerns us. It concerns everyone. And one of the ways that we make sure manufacturing continues to grow as it has done over the past 20 years, and I will remind my colleagues this past quarter we had the best manufacturing numbers we have had in this country in about 2 decades.

We give this Republican leadership in the House and the Senate and the Republican leadership and the administration a little bit of credit for working to create the environment that the private sector needed to do what, go create jobs, two million new jobs, and it has happened, and there is a trend there, and the output in manufacturing and also, as that has happened, to increase the capital investment. It will become a little bit better, a little bit more affordable for the private sector to create those new jobs, those manufacturing output when we have a stable, a dependable, an affordable energy supply. And that is one of the things that the Energy Policy Act of 2005 will help to do.

Now, I heard one of our colleagues earlier talking about the gas shortages of the 1970s. And I think that many of us can remember those. And everyone who does agrees that economic security and national security, when it comes to energy, cannot go hand in hand. And for those across the aisle, many, like the minority leader across the aisle, who have worked against our effort to secure America's energy sources, I hope that now, after the Republican leadership has made the case for energy and national security, when it comes to energy, certainly go hand in hand. And for those across the aisle, who do agree that economic security and national security, I hope that now, after the Republican leadership has made the case for energy and national security, when it comes to energy, certainly go hand in hand.

And if the liberal leadership in Congress does not really see the light on this issue, let me help to clarify this. I would like to show our second chart.

Mr. Speaker, this is where we have been over the past two Congresses, the 107th, the 108th, and the 109th Congress. On the left, you will see that you have the Congress and the energy legislation that the Republicans tried to pass, but were unable to get through because of Democrat opposition.

And on the right you have the national average prices of a gallon of regular unleaded gasoline for the second week of April each year that this legislation was going through the floor, and each time the Democrat leadership was fighting passage of an energy bill. And I hope that the individuals that are watching are going to see a trend here, because we have had a lot of inaction since the 107th Congress. And with that inaction, guess what has happened? Higher prices. Democrat obstructionism costs you at the pump. And for my colleagues that earlier today were saying you have got to do something, gas is over $2 a gallon, well here is the something to do. It is called vote “yes” on the energy bill. Let us move this process along. There are Members that have been obstructionists for too, too long. Let us vote “yes” and let us move the process along.

Now, during the 107th Congress, in 2001 and 2002, pushed a comprehensive energy bill. And at that time the gas prices averaged $1.46 a gallon. During the 108th Congress, in 2003 and 2004, Republicans in the House were again supporting a national energy policy. Gas prices had increased by an average of 20 cents, and they were at $1.69 a gallon.

Mr. Speaker, now the 109th Congress, we are facing $2.28 a gallon. My question is, how can the Democrat congressionals, how can they predicate on us to join them and show some support for the energy bill?

This bill is a bill about options. It is a bill about options for today, more affordable oil and gas. It is about options for the future that we found at research and development, as we look at new technologies. And it is important for our Nation's economy and for our Nation's security that we move this along.

So I hope that next week, as we take up the national energy policy act on the floor of the House, that Democrats will enthusiastically and finally join Republicans in passing this legislation. Time for inaction has long passed.

Mr. Speaker, I think it is time we passed this bill next week and that we answer that question that some of our constituents are asking: What are you going to do about it? We are going to do what we have been trying to do for the last two years. We are going to pass an energy bill.

We hope that the Democrats across the aisle will join us in passing this bill, helping to secure our Nation's energy supply and helping us plan for the future.

VICTIMS OF CRIME ACT

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. PRICE of Georgia). Under the Speaker's announced policy of January 4, 2005, the gentleman from Texas (Mr. Poe) is recognized for 60 minutes.

Mr. Poe. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to speak for a group that live in the silent storm of stressful sadness. They live with the vicious wounds of being a victim of crime in America. To be a victim, to be chosen to be the prey by a predator, to have a life stolen or broken by criminal conduct, Mr. Speaker, it is a terrible and tragic travesty. But to have your own government desert you, abandon you, too, is an injustice. It is an injustice to the injured, to the innocent, to the victims.

Mr. Speaker, the Victims of Crime Act, VOCA, the VOCA fund was created in 1984 by President Ronald Reagan to provide the most consistent stable source of funding for services to crime victims. It included counseling, victim advocacy programs, safety planning, State victim compensation funds that would help crime victims recover the costs associated with being a victim. Yet the current budget proposes to rescind the over $1.2 billion presently in this fund and redirect its resources to the Department of the Treasury, where it will be treated in the general revenue. It would go to the greater business of the general fund.

Mr. Speaker, VOCA funds, these funds that we are talking about, are
Mr. Speaker, in my career I have witnessed in the justice system in the United States the victims rights movement, how victims have been treated in the system. And sometimes we have forgotten as a people in 2005 how victims have been treated over the past.

Things have not always been as good for victims after the crime as it is now; and I think a history lesson is due, Mr. Speaker.

I tried numerous cases as a prosecutor, numerous defendants, death penalty cases, but I would like to talk about one person who really showed me the way of how victims continue to be victims after the crime was committed. And Mr. Speaker, I have changed my name because her family still lives in Houston, Texas.

She left the school one evening. Her name was Lisa. And she was driving down one of our freeways and she had car trouble so she exited the freeway. Mr. Speaker, came into a gas station that she thought was open. It was not open. It was closed, but she did not know that. And she got out of the vehicle and she started talking to an individual that she thought was a service station attendant.

Luke Johnson was not the service station attendant. He was just hanging around. One thing led to another, and Luke Johnson pulled out a pistol. He kidnapped Lisa, took her and her vehicle to a remote area of East Texas that we call the Piney Woods. He sexually assaulted her and pistol-whipped her. In fact, he beat her so bad that he thought he had killed her. Later, when he was arrested, he was mad that he had not killed her.

Lisa was a remarkable woman. She survived that brutal attack. She was found about 2 days after she was abandoned in the woods by a hunter that found about 2 days after she was abandoned. And I have changed her name because her family still lives in Houston, Texas.

Back in the late seventies, there was a young lady who was married and had a couple of sons that lived in Houston, Texas. She worked in the daytime. At night, she went to school working on a masters degree at one of our universities.

She left the school one evening. Her name was Lisa. And she was driving down one of our freeways and she had car trouble so she exited the freeway. Mr. Speaker, came into a gas station that she thought was open. It was not open. It was closed, but she did not know that. And she got out of the vehicle and she started talking to an individual that she thought was a service station attendant.

Luke Johnson was not the service station attendant. He was just hanging around. One thing led to another, and Luke Johnson pulled out a pistol. He kidnapped Lisa, took her and her vehicle to a remote area of East Texas that we call the Piney Woods. He sexually assaulted her and pistol-whipped her. In fact, he beat her so bad that he thought he had killed her. Later, when he was arrested, he was mad that he had not killed her.

Lisa was a remarkable woman. She survived that brutal attack. She was found about 2 days after she was abandoned in the woods by a hunter that went through that area. He stopped, rescued her and made sure that her medical needs were met.

After she recovered from this vicious attack, Luke Johnson was arrested and charged with aggravated rape. I prosecuted him in that case. A jury of 12 citizens in Houston, Texas, heard the case, heard Lisa testify in this case. Luke Johnson was convicted and received the maximum sentence of 99 years in the Texas State penitentiary as he earned and as he deserved.

Now we would have hoped as a people, as a culture that justice would have been done, that we would go on, and we would have been able to move forward. Mr. Speaker, the world that we live in. Because we live in a world far different from that.

As Luke Johnson is shipped off to the penitentiary where he belonged, Lisa could not quite cope with that crime. The first thing that happened was she never went back to school, never wanted to go on that campus again. The next thing that occurred was she lost her job. In fact, she was fired. She could not focus, and she bounded around from job to job. She started abusing drugs, first alcohol and then everything else.

Her husband, the sort that he was, decided he no longer wanted her. He sued her for divorce, convinced a judge in that that she was capable of raising those children that she had, and he got custody of both of them. He moved out of the State of Texas where he is somewhere else in this country today.

You see, Lisa faced this entire crime alone. There was no VOCA. There were no funds for victim advocates that could sit and be with Lisa through the trial. There were no funds for therapy and counseling after this crime and after the trial. Lisa was on her own when she testified, and she was on her own after the crime was over, and she received the death penalty for being a victim of crime. Luke Johnson, he just stood there in a few years in the Texas penitentiary for that crime, and he is running loose somewhere in Texas.

Times did change from this type of conduct where victims were abandoned by the process, and we have progressed. When I was a judge, to show you the example of how people through VOCA make a difference, I will tell you about a second case.

This case involved a little girl named Susie. A first grader in Houston, Texas, she attended to school by herself every day and walked home. You know, in the big city we do not normally like our kids walking to school or walking home. It is not safe. Susie’s case proves the point.

One afternoon, she is walking home from school, a 7-year-old first grader in Houston. This individual, who had been stalking her for some time, pulled up beside her, rolled down the window of his pickup truck, yelled out the window, Hey, little girl, I lost my dog. Can you help me find my dog?

She stopped long enough for this perpetrator, this predator to jump out of his vehicle, grab Susie, kidnap her and... take off. He left Houston, Texas, and went down to the Gulf Coast down to the beach area of Galveston, Texas, about 50 miles from Houston. He took her to a secluded portion of that beach area, and he did that little girl, that 7-year-old, exactly what he wanted to do for as long as he wanted to do it. After he was through having his way with Susie, he abandoned her in the darkness of the night and fled. Before he left, however, he took all of her clothes away from her.

About the time the sun was coming up, Susie, in shock, walking up and down the beach, was rescued by a sheriff’s deputy that was patrolling the area. She received medical aid and the attention that she needed.

The person that committed this crime was arrested out of State, extradited back to Texas to stand trial for this crime of aggravated sexual assault of a child, a 7-year-old girl.

The case was tried in my courtroom. It was not a high publicity case because of who the defendant was. But when Susie took the witness stand, the prosecutor started asking her questions and she turned and saw the perpetrator in the courtroom, she could not say anything. She did not say anything. All she did was stare at the officer in the courtroom, she could not testify.

Well, what do you do? Well, this was the main witness. Without this witness, the State did not have a case. The prosecutor asked for a postponement of the trial. I quickly granted that. We re-cessed. We came back a day or two later, and we started up the trial again.

Susie testified, sat next to me and testified. And that day she was able to testify in detail, graphic detail what happened to her when she left school one afternoon and what this perpetrator did to her.

The difference, the difference was there was another person in the courtroom, seated on the back row looking at her, telling her in her own way, you can testify. You can do this. I believe in you.

Who was it? It was the victim advocate that worked with the District Attorney’s Office that walked that little girl to the State. And because that woman was in the courtroom and because she had worked with this victim before and Susie saw her, it gave her the courage to testify. And that predator, that child predator was convicted of that case because one person, a victim advocate, was present in the courtroom.

See, there was a time there were no victim advocates in the courtroom, and that time has passed, and part of the reason is that VOCA funds are used to fund advocates of victims in our courtrooms.

One of cases that I tried where I met my first victim advocate was a case that was called the choker rapist. What this individual did, he assaulted co-eds from the University of Texas, choked them and sexually assaulted them. He did this numerous times. He was sent to the Texas penitentiary. By some error or mistake, having been sentenced to about 700 years in the penitentiary, he was released after a short period of time. He came to Houston, and he continued these ways of assaulting co-eds from the University of Houston. He was arrested, and this case was tried. The victim in that case was similar to Susie in that it was difficult for her to testify. She was older. She was a college student.

The first victim advocate that I ever had, and I’m sorry, I did not have this advocate on that particular case. The one that I did have, the victim advocate said with her work with victims on a daily basis, and part of the way they are able to take care of victims is by funding that they get from VOCA each year.

Mr. Speaker, many people do not realize that when the Oklahoma City bombing occurred, now 10 years ago, that travesty, that assault on American citizens, VOCA funds were available and used to help those victims cope with that emergency. And those funds were available immediately so that victims and their families could be helped.

I would like to read a letter from Marsha Kite. Marsha Kite’s daughter was killed in the Oklahoma City bombing. She says: We are only days away from the 10th anniversary of the Oklahoma City bombing and I hear that there is consideration for emptying out our Federal crime victims fund. Number 1 of all that is paid for by criminals and not taxpayers.

Two, the fund helped thousands of families and survivors of the Oklahoma City bombing, including my own family. The administration needs to take a hard look at what they are contemplating and realize the devastating impact it will have on programs that provide direct services to crime victims, including crisis intervention, emergency shelter, transportation, counseling and the criminal justice advocacy programs, all of which were provided to Oklahoma City families.

Number 3, no person, regardless of life choices or situations, should be met with the harmful or inadequate services. Each victim should be provided with the opportunity to access services based on their needs and not be further traumatized by a system that is neither prepared nor underfunded.

So, Mr. Speaker, these funds have helped numerous victims and their families, and it would be a total injustice to cut these funds and put them in the abyss of the general revenue.

Other examples of VOCA funding go to domestic violence shelters. Domestic violence shelters are a necessary requirement in our culture, and good people throughout this United States organize and establish these shelters to protect victims of domestic violence.

We have such a one in my hometown of Humble, Texas. It is called Family Time, and Family Time is available on a 24-hour basis for victims of domestic violence where they can go and find safety when they have to flee their own homes. If they do not go to these domestic violence shelters, where will they go?

If it was not for these shelters, many of these abused women would go directly back to that house and be victimized and abused again. These shelters are saving their lives. Many of these shelters rely on VOCA funding, and they would close down without the help of these funds, and these women and these children would be sent back to an environment of violence, domestic violence.

These are just a few examples, Mr. Speaker, of how these funds are spent. It is interesting how we, as a Nation, are very concerned about the victims in lands far, far away across the seas, the recent tsunami crisis, where we have President Bush and President Clinton raising money in the United States to help these victims. While it is very important that we show that we are compassionate to peoples all over the world, Mr. Speaker, charity begins at home, and we need to take care of our American families first and then the world families, if necessary.

So we must do both, but we must never neglect our own, our victims for some other Nation.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to just continue this history lesson talking about children, children in the criminal justice system, especially those who are the victims of sexual assault.

There was a time, Mr. Speaker, when a child that was sexually assaulted would have to go through a long process in the criminal justice system. It in itself was a crime. The victim would be interviewed, usually by a police officer, a stranger. Another police officer would instruct the victim to go to the county hospital. They would wait in the emergency room along with everyone else that goes to the emergency room. They would be seen by a doctor that may or may not know anything about sexual assault cases, a doctor that sometimes was not even available to testify at the trial because they had to be sent to some other hospital in the Nation.

After being seen by this doctor, then the child would have to go to the police station to be interviewed again, and there were occasions in my home city of Houston that these victim would sometimes get on the elevator to go to be interviewed by the homicide detective and the perpetrator would be on the elevator as well going to be interrogated by another detective.

Then, after this was over with, they would have to go to the district attorney’s office and be interviewed for the trial by a prosecutor, sometimes a prosecutor who had never tried a sexual assault case, and eventually the trial would come and those traumas would continue.

Mr. Speaker, we are fortunate to say that those days are over. Those are no longer the days of children that are sexually assaulted in the United States because of groups like the National Children’s Alliance here in Washington, D.C., where I am a board member. That alliance has over 400 children advocacy centers throughout the United States, and what those centers do is this.

When a child is sexually assaulted, rather than be bounced from place to place, agency to agency, they are taken to, on a child friendly location, and probably the best example of this center is in Houston, Texas, Children’s Assessment Center, that is a privately funded, publicly funded establishment, and here is what happens. When a child has been sexually assaulted, they go to this center. It is a very friendly, child friendly center, and they are interviewed only by child experts. They are interviewed about the crime and what took place. Their medical needs are met there by qualified doctors and nurses who deal with child sexual assault victims. The child, after this occurs, is allowed to talk to a prosecutor that deals only with child assault cases. The child then, before and after they testify, are provided therapy and counseling by child psychiatrists and experts, and they do all of this at the center. Every time they need to be involved in the case, they go to this one place, very child friendly, and because of centers like the Children’s Assessment Center in Houston, Texas, and 59 others in Texas, 400 or more in the United States, child victims are able to cope and recover from the tragedy of sexual assault against them.

Children’s Assessment Center in Houston sees 350 children a month that have been sexually abused and assaulted. They receive VOCA funds, as well as funds from the community, from private foundations and the county government. The funds at the Children’s Assessment Center go for a therapist, a bilingual therapist, that is able to talk to children that do not speak just English. That therapist, along with other therapists, will disappear if VOCA funds are cut.

Just to show an impact on these centers, they constantly help kids cope with the crime. It is more important to help the child recover than even to have the perpetrator convicted, but they do many things with these kids to help the parents that have occurred in their own lives and how they can vent by even writing a letter to the perpetrator.

I have one such letter that was written by a little girl to the person who sexually assaulted her that I have received from the Children’s Assessment Center in Houston today, and she starts out her letter this way.

These are some of the things that I have been wanting to say to you. I used to think that you were a nice person and that you would never hurt me. Then things changed. After you began touching me, I thought that you were not a nice person, and I wondered if you were hurting Mommy, too. When I think of you touching me, I get very mad, and I sometimes am sad. You are a jerk and a child molester. Sometimes when I think of you, I am mad at you for hurting me. I want to tell you that I am glad you are in jail and you cannot hurt me anymore. If I ever, or when I see you again I will tell Mommy and call the cops, and I will make a mad face at you. Ha, ha, you thought I would never tell but now everyone knows. I also know to tell this to my sister, too. It is signed by a little girl.

Letters such as this help victims, children cope with the crime that has been committed against them. These Children’s Assessment Centers all over the country, Children’s Assessment Centers doing a work to save America’s greatest resource, our children. VOCA funds go to these centers, and without this funding, many of these centers would not be able to operate.

So, Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues in the House on both sides of the aisle to join me and the other 50 Members and counting who have signed a letter to the Committee on Appropriations chairman to save the VOCA funds.

Grassroots victims organizations across the Nation have been flooding congressional offices with phone calls and pleading for their representatives to save VOCA. I am asking this letter that 50 have already signed. Fourteen national victim advocacy organizations have partnered in support of saving the crime victims fund. And they are, Mr. Speaker, these organizations that work victims: Justice Solutions, Incorporated; Mothers Against Drunk Driving; the National Alliance to End Sexual Violence; the National Association of Crime Victim Compensation Boards; the National Association of VOCA Assistance Administrators; the Children’s National Center for Victims of Crime; the National Children’s Alliance; the National Coalition Against Domestic Violence; the National Crime Victim Research and Treatment Center; the National Network to End Domestic Violence; the National Organization for Victim Assistance; National Organization of Parents of Murdered Children; the Pennsylvania Coalition Against Rape; the Victim Assistance Legal Organization; and even way down in Midland, Texas, Midland County Sheriff’s Office. They’ve been to his favorite Teddy bear, clothed in blueerry cloth pajamas, dreaming about whatever those babies dream about, he... was murdered. He was shot in the head. He was sacrificed on the altar of greed. □ 1845

Because of the work of a couple of Houston police officers, all those killers were brought to justice. Two of them received the death penalty and were later executed, and two received long prison terms.

Over the years, I have kept a photograph of Kevin Wanstra on my desk, as a prosecutor, as a judge for 22 years, and now as a fortunate Member of Congress representing the Second Congressional District of Texas. You see, Kevin Wanstra never made it to his second birthday. He was denied the right to live. He was a victim of criminal conduct.

Our Nation, Mr. Speaker, needs to be concerned about the Kevin Wanstras in our culture because they have the right to live as well. Kevin Wanstra will never grow up, will never be in the backyard playing catch with his father, will never play football, never have a date, never get married, all because he was chosen to be the victim of a crime.

So our Nation, Mr. Speaker, during this Victims’ Rights Week, needs to be determined. It needs to be reinforced as a culture that we will not stand idly by while people are maimed and hurt in our culture, that we will support them, that we will be compassionate toward them, and make sure that criminals who commit crimes against them will pay, and they will financially pay in the funding of VOCA.

Mr. Speaker, as we a people will never be judged the way we treat the rich, the famous, the important, the wealthy, the special folks. We will be judged by the way we treat the innocent, the weak, the elderly, the children. I hope when we are judged, Mr. Speaker, we as a people will never be judged the way we treat the wealthy, the special folks. We will be judged favorably by the way we treat the innocent, the weak, the elderly, the children. I hope when we are judged, Mr. Speaker, we are judged favorably.

Under clause 3 of rule XII,
17. The SPEAKER presented a petition of the Office of the Mayor and City of Lauderdale Lakes Commission, Florida, relative to Resolution No. 05–47 petitioning the Congress of the United States to preserve the Community Development Block Grant Program, to restore funds lost by virtue of the Administration’s FY06 budget and to enhance levels of funding previously provided in order to assist local communities in their continued efforts to develop their communities; which was referred to the Committee on Financial Services.
The Senate met at 9:30 a.m. and was called to order by the Honorable JOHN E. SUNUNU, a Senator from the State of New Hampshire.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE

The Honorable JOHN E. SUNUNU led the Pledge of Allegiance, as follows:

I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

APPOINTMENT OF ACTING PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will please read a communication to the Senate from the President pro tempore (Mr. STEVENS).

The legislative clerk read the following letter:

Mr. SUNUNU thereupon assumed the Chair as Acting President pro tempore.

RECOGNITION OF THE MAJORITY LEADER

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The majority leader is recognized.

SCHEDULE

Mr. FRIST. Mr. President, once again today, the Senate will be in a period for morning business for 60 minutes. Following that time, the Senate will resume debate on the emergency supplemental appropriations bill. We have several amendments pending from yesterday that are currently under review, and Members may want to speak to those amendments.

Much of the day yesterday we spent—both on the floor and off the floor—discussing the immigration issue. The issues surrounding immigration are critically important to our economy, to equity, and to security and fairness. They are all vital to this country. The leadership has encouraged those who want to participate in a comprehensive debate on immigration to postpone consideration of their amendments from this standpoint because this is an emergency supplemental spending bill to support our troops in Iraq and Afghanistan and to have appropriate funding for tsunami relief.

There will be a time later, before the end of the year, when we will address immigration in a comprehensive way. In spite of that, we have respected the rights of individual Senators who feel they absolutely must address specific issues, but I continue to encourage those who want to address immigration in a comprehensive way to do so at a more appropriate time.

I know we can work out a process to keep moving forward on the emergency supplemental bill, but we have to address specifically the range of immigration issues that have been brought forth to the managers.

The managers will continue to consider the amendments that are brought forward. Amendments that are brought forward, I encourage they relate to the supplemental emergency spending bill as much as possible. We expect votes over the course of today, and we will have, I expect, a very busy schedule over the course of the day.

Mr. President, I have a few other remarks to make, but I will be happy to turn to the Democratic leader.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I thank the leader. I say through the Chair to the majority leader, we have worked—even started working last week—on the immigration amendments. We have a finite list now. We have 12 amendments. I think that can be whittled down, for lack of a better word, to even less than that, considerably less than that.

What we should do is lock in these amendments as a finite list. Within a very short period of time, we can find out how many really have to be of interest, considerably less than that.

I hope we do not have to file cloture on this bill. I acknowledge this is important legislation. The money for the funding of the troops is absolutely necessary. All one has to do is read the paper every morning to understand how badly our troops need it. I was just there, and they need all the resources they can get. We want to make sure they do not have to wait a second for what they need.
I will work with the leader through the morning and early afternoon, and see if we can get this number whittled down. Also, the majority leader has a few on his side.

I hope we can limit the immigration amendments to no more than one—I would say, at the most, three on each side, or four at most, and have the others set aside until a time the majority leader has indicated he will give, sometime before we finish work this year, so there can be a full debate on those immigration matters.

As the leader knows, the problem—and he had nothing to do with it—is in this bill. There is immigration material in this bill. They have so-called REAL ID which came about as a result of our trying to get other legislation done last year. An arrangement was made by the House leadership that they would allow, on the first moving vehicle to come along, the chairman of the Judiciary Committee to put his legislation in the bill. It is in this bill. That is the problem we have.

The Republican leader did not want it in this bill, I did not want it in this bill, but it is in the bill. As a result, we do not have the normal objection that is available when we legislate on an appropriate bill.

I will work with the leader. We will get staff working on this, as they have, to see if we can narrow this considerably. The amendments that deal with the subject matter at hand, the handling of this bill, are just a few in number. We dealt with some of the most important ones yesterday.

I hope we can finish this bill in a reasonably good period of time, and maybe, if we are fortunate, we can get something such as the highway bill or something such as that before we finish our work period—maybe the TANF bill, whatever is out there for us to do.

I understand the problems the leader has, and I will be happy to work with him to alleviate his load as much as possible.

Mr. FRIST. Mr. President, I have a few other comments.

H2N2 FLU VIRUS

Mr. FRIST. Mr. President, there is one issue I talked about initially Monday and want to bring forth once again.

Nothing is more important than the safety of the American people, and we have a lot of work to do in a particular area. Yesterday we learned that samples of the deadly H2N2 flu virus were accidently shipped to 5,000 laboratories all over the world. Thankfully, nearly all of the samples have been destroyed.

The H2N2 virus is lethal. It is fatal. Back in 1957, it killed over 70,000 people just here in the United States and as many as 1 million to 4 million people around the world.

This latest news underscores, once again, just how vulnerable we are as an American people, as a world people, because viruses know no borders, they know no geography. There are no barriers.

On Monday, 3 days ago, I spoke of the need to bolster State preparedness and Federal preparedness in this arena. I mentioned that exotic and deadly viruses, such as the Marburg virus that at this very moment is racking all of northern Angola—the Marburg virus being a virus which is an Ebola-like virus, a hemorrhagic-fever-type virus—those viruses that are racking that country which we do not understand, for which we have no cure, for which we do not have a vaccine, not even just a plane ride away from this room or from whoever is listening to me now through the media around the country. It is just a plane ride away.

Avian flu has already killed 50 people. Some say, 50 people, that is not thousands of people. But it is 50 people from a virus that not too long ago we did not know anything about, that began to be harbored in birds, and now is being harbored in other animals and now has killed and jumped to kill 50 people; with just a tiny drift and ultimately a slight mutation, it becomes transmissible.

Once again, we have no vaccine for avian flu. It is something for which we have no cure. We only have to look back to 1917, another type of avian flu, but very similar, which killed a half a million Americans. Now 90 percent of the world is infected.

Meanwhile, as all this goes on, there are only five major vaccine manufacturers worldwide that have production facilities in the United States. That is for all vaccines. Only two of those are actually United States companies. Our manufacturing base for vaccines is woefully inadequate for any of the threats I have just mentioned.

Over the past 2 decades, the number of manufacturers who make vaccines for children has dwindled from 12 down to now just 4, and only 1 of the 4 manufacturers that make lifesaving vaccines for children are here in the United States.

I spoke, as I mentioned, on this topic on Monday. I spoke on Monday because it was the 50th anniversary of the polio vaccine. Yesterday’s news about the H2N2 virus is just one more reason why we need to take action. It is imperative we strengthen our domestic vaccine supply, we offer appropriate legal protections, and we encourage and incentivize collaboration between public and private sectors. We need to advance research and development. We need to put all these initiatives together to protect us from a deadly viral outbreak that scientific experts warn could come to our shores any day.

America has been the engine of countless recoveries and global health efforts. Once again, we are called upon to lead for the safety of our fellow citizens and, indeed, citizens around the world.

Mr. President, I yield the floor.

RESERVATION OF LEADER TIME

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Under the previous order, leadership time is reserved.

MORNING BUSINESS

Mr. FRIST. Mr. President, under the previous order, there will now be a period for the transaction of morning business for up to 60 minutes, with the first half of the time under the control of the Democratic leader or his designee and the second half of the time under the control of the majority leader or his designee.

The Senator from North Dakota.

IMPORTANT ISSUES TO BE FACED

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President, I wish to make a couple of comments today on some very important issues we will face in the days ahead.

We have the supplemental appropriations bill on the floor of the Senate asking for just over $80 billion for the cost of the war in Iraq and Afghanistan.

Most of it is to replenish military accounts. A number of amendments have been offered. Immigration amendments are now pending. I intend to offer a couple of amendments as well.

I will describe one of those amendments this morning. It deals with the establishment of a special committee of the Senate, modeled after the Truman Commission, to investigate the waste, fraud, and abuse that is happening with respect to contracting in Iraq.

I also wish to address another amendment I will offer, that would shut down the investigation that has been going on now 10 years by Mr. Barrett, an independent counsel. He started in 1995 to investigate allegations against Secretary, allegations that he had given payments to a former mistress and then lied about it.

That independent counsel investigation started in 1995 and has been going on ever since. But Mr. Cisneros pled guilty in 1999. And he was pardoned in 2001 by a Presidential pardon. Yet here it is 2005 and the independent counsel is still spending money, $1.3 million, I believe, for the previous 6 months. I believe it is time for this Congress to say stop, enough is enough. Stop wasting the taxpayers money. What on Earth could you be thinking about? Four years after the person was pardoned and 7 years after the person pled guilty, the independent counsel is still spending money? If ever there were an example of Government waste and lack of common sense, this is it.

I also wish to mention briefly this country’s trade deficit. I wanted to comment on the floor the day before yesterday, but I was not able to do that.

There was a small announcement the day before yesterday that in February our trade deficit was $61 billion in 1 month. This is an example of what is happening to this country’s trade deficits: We are chocking on red ink. This is serious. It is a crisis, and nobody seems to care. The White House is ignoring its way through this issue. The Congress is sleeping through it. Nobody gives a rip about whether we are spending nearly $2 billion a day. The day is the amount we purchase from abroad from other countries in goods and services in excess of the amount we sell to them. That means every single day foreign countries and foreign investors are making more of our country, claims against our country, stocks, bonds, assets, or real estate.

This is a crisis that will have a profound impact on future economic growth in this country. It will have a profound impact, and does, on the wholesale export of American jobs all across the world.

Yesterday, I read a piece that General Motors called in its subcontractors and said: You need to start moving your jobs to China to be more competitive.

Evidence is all around us that this trade strategy we have is unsound. It does not work. It injures our country. It is hollowing out our manufacturing sector, hurting American workers overseas. This country had better take notice. This Congress had better sit up and start caring about this, and this President had better start parking Air Force One and providing some leadership on this because it is a crisis.

No, Social Security is not in crisis. Social Security will be fully solvent until George Bush is 106 years old. That is hardly a crisis. But the announcement that in February of this year we had a $61 billion 1-month trade deficit is the case in many circumstances where a lot of money is being poured out to prosecute a war. If one does not watch carefully, people are going to fleece the taxpayers, and that is what is happening. Nobody seems to care about that, either.

We cannot get aggressive hearings in the Congress about oversight. Why is that? I do not know. So as chairman of the Democratic Policy Committee, I have held four hearings on these abuses.

In a moment, I will read a few newspaper headlines about this waste, and yes, these headlines mention the word Halliburton, and I know that when the word Halliburton is mentioned people think, okay, now this is political, it is partisan, now we are going after Vice President Cheney because he used to head that corporation. This has nothing to do with Vice President Cheney. He has been long gone from Halliburton. This has nothing to do with the Vice President, nothing to do with partisan politics. It has everything to do with the American taxpayers being cheated.

So to the extent that Halliburton is in these headlines, it is because they were given very large sole-source contracts without any competitive bidding. Billions of dollars have gone into the pockets of Halliburton and here is the result, with a substantial lack of oversight.

First, let me describe this picture. This does not deal with Halliburton, by the way. This deals with a company called Custer Battles, two guys named Custer and Battles. This picture shows $2 million in cash wrapped in Saran wrap. This fellow, incidentally, was the driver in Iraq who worked for Halliburton and here is how it went. He said that overcharging for oil was what Halliburton was charging in Iraq. He has been long gone from Halliburton got reimbursed for it. He was, in fact, a Defense Department official. He said that overcharging for oil was what Halliburton was charging in Iraq. He has been long gone from Halliburton. He has been long gone from Halliburton, and he said, "I have never heard of Custer Battles. This is from the fellow who used to run the portion of the Defense Department that would purchase oil, yes, even in areas where we were at war, and he said: During my tenure at the Defense Department, we were accused of overcharging, of sole-source prices in some locations, but not even in remote central Asia did we pay close to a gallon for jet fuel of what Halliburton was charging in Iraq.

This is a former Defense Department official. By the way, Halliburton ordered 25 tons of nails—that is 50,000 pounds of nails. Do my colleagues know where they are today? They are laying in the sands of Iraq because they came in the wrong size. Somebody made a mistake on the order. If someone wants 50,000 pounds of nails, they are laying in the sands of Iraq someplace. The American taxpayer paid for them, and Halliburton got reimbursed for it.

We had testimony of people driving $85,000 trucks in Iraq, and those trucks were abandoned just because they had a flat tire or because they had a clogged fuel pump. They were abandoned because they came in the wrong size. Somebody made a mistake on the order. If someone wants 50,000 pounds of nails, they are laying in the sands of Iraq someplace. The American taxpayer paid for them, and Halliburton got reimbursed for it.

charged for air-conditioning and they put in a ceiling fan that does not work. Does anybody care? Can we get anybody in this Congress, any committee, to hold oversight hearings to care about the massive fraud, waste, and abuse of a time in the life, not at the end? God forbid that we should be critical of anything that is going on around here, despite the fact that the American taxpayer is getting fleeced wholesale.

I offered an amendment in the Appropriations Committee that would have set up a Truman-style investigatory committee. Senator Harry Truman from Missouri, at a time when there was a Democrat in the White House, decided there was substantial abuse by contractors at the start of World War II, and he persuaded a Democratic Congress to set up an investigative committee. Yes, a Democratic Congress and a Democrat in the White House set up an investigative committee, and they saved a massive amount of money by uncovering a dramatic amount of fraud and waste.

Now we have one party control, and nobody wants to embarrass anyone else, so they do not look at anything. It is see no evil, hear no evil, speak no evil. The American taxpayers are completely getting fleeced wholesale.

We have done four hearings. I mentioned Halliburton, but I also can mention Custer Battles. I can mention other companies. Obviously, Halliburton is the poster child because they received giant contracts without bidding, and then we see that they are charging the American taxpayer to feed 42,000 soldiers a day when, in fact, they are only feeding 14,000 soldiers a day. So they are charging us for 28,000 meals that are not served. Fraud? I think so. But what happens these days? First, it does not even get investigated. If it does get investigated, they get a slap on the wrist and put on the back with another contract.

This Congress needs to start facing up to these issues and getting tough. No, this is not partisan. If we are going to shoo $28 billion out the door in a supplemental defense funding bill, should we not, along with it, provide the appropriate approach to investigate these? That is what my amendment will do.

I offered my amendment in the Appropriations Committee. It was turned down on a partisan vote, regrettably. This is not a partisan amendment. My hope is that perhaps I will see a different result on the Senate floor.

How much time remains on our 30 minutes?

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. COLEMAN). There is 15½ minutes remaining.

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President, I believe a Senator from Connecticut is going to be coming over to claim part of our 30 minutes, but the time is running. I see the Senator from Kentucky is on the floor. I know that by previous consent we have established 30 minutes on our side followed by 30 minutes on the other side. At this point, I will relinquish the floor if I could ask that we would reserve the remaining time for Senator LIEBERMAN from Connecticut because he is not here. If the other side would like to start, I am prepared to take a share of their time and then provided that when Senator LIEBERMAN comes, he would have reserved the additional 15½ minutes? I will make that a unanimous consent request and see if the Senator from Kentucky would agree to that.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Without objection, it is so ordered. The majority whip.

FILIBUSTERING OF JUDICIAL NOMINEES

Mr. McCONNEL. Mr. President, we as senators have an enormous amount of work to do for the American people. For example, while our economy is strong, unfortunately gas prices are way too high. People are feeling those costs every time they fill up at the pump. This Senate needs to seriously address a long-term energy policy for this country to reduce our dependence on foreign oil.

We have serious work to do to reform America's tax code, so it is fairer for all Americans, and leads to a more robust economy.

We have undertaken a debate on how to reform Social Security so it is stronger and more secure for future generations, as it has served millions so well already over the last 70 years.

Our road system needs improving. Millions of Americans take to the roads everyday to get to work and keep this country moving. It's critical the Senate pass a highway bill. In short, we have a formidable agenda before us.

We welcome that challenge. I think the constitution's sent us here to get things done, not just to sit in these fancy chairs. But the Nation's business may soon come to an abrupt halt.

In the face of so much important work to be done, sadly, my Democratic friends on the other side of the aisle are promising to pull the plug on this chamber, and thus shut down the Government. Just because a majority of Senators want to restore the 200-year-old norms and traditions of the Senate, by blocking President Bush’s judicial nominees who have majority support the simple courtesy of an up-or-down vote, my colleagues on the other side of the aisle are threatening to stop this Senate dead in its tracks.

An energy bill to begin to address the high cost of gasoline and reduce our dependence on foreign oil? They would say: Forget it.

A highway bill, to begin desperately needed repairs on bridges and roads across the country? They would say: Not a chance.

These and other priorities will not happen if the Democrats shut down the Government. Because they cannot have what no Senate minority has ever had in 200 years—the requirement of a supermajority for confirmation—they threaten to shut the Government down.

The American people by now must rightly be asking, "How did we get in such a mess?" It was not by accident. The Democrats did not stumble into this position. It was carefully conceived.

Four years ago, in May of 2001, the New York Times reported that 42 of the Senate’s then-50 Democrats attended a private weekend retreat in Farmington, New York, to discuss plans of attack against the President’s judicial nominees.

According to this article, the unprecedented obstruction by the other side is not based on checks and balances, or the rights of the minority. It is about ideology. The Democrats invited speakers to their retreat who warned them that President Bush was planning to, "pack the courts with staunch conservatives."

Now, here’s the clincher. According to the New York Times, one participant said:

"It was important for the Senate to change the ground rules, and there was no obligation to confirm someone just because they are scholarly or erudite."

Let me make sure that last part came through loud and clear. The Democrats are accusing the Republicans, who merely want to restore the 200-year-tradition of giving judicial nominees with majority support an up-or-down vote, of some kind of power grab. Yet here is a 4-year-old admission that it is the Democrats who are clearly out to “change the ground rules.” They knew what they were doing. This was thoroughly premeditated.

That quote says it all. If a minority of the Senate does not get its way in obstructing judges from serving on our Nation’s Federal courts, they will change the ground rules. They will shut down the Government. I say to my friends, I wouldn’t take the extreme step of shutting the government down. If we’re trying to do is set the stage and make sure that both the White House and the Senate Republicans know that we.... expect to have significant input in the process," Senator Charles E. Schumer, New York's senior Democrat, said in an interview. "We're simply not going to roll over.

President's 500 Judges

The senators said the White House appeared to be such an ominous prospect as Jeffrey S. Sutton, Peter D. Keisler, Representative Christopher Cox of California and Miguel Estrada.

The process of confirming nominees, which number more than two dozen, is part of an effort to fill the 94 vacancies on the Federal bench while the Republicans still control the Senate.

But it remains unclear if there will be a Supreme Court vacancy at the end of the court's term in July. Speculation on possible successors to Chief Justice William H. Rehnquist and Justices Sandra Day O'Connor and John Paul Stevens. But in recent days, associates of Justice O'Connor have signaled that she wants it known that she will not retire after this term.

Mr. MCCONNELL. the record about who is out to change what is not merely confined to the statements from this article. No, we have 4 years of behavior to corroborate these statements.

Soon after that Democrat retreat, and continuing to this day, we have seen our Democratic friends make major changes in the Senate's ground rules for confirming qualified judicial nominees.

For example, almost immediately the Democrats began to litmus-test judges in order to strain out the ones they considered too conservative. When they controlled the Judiciary Committee, they even held hearings on using ideology in the confirmation process in an effort to legitimize their practice of litmus-testing judges.

The Democrats have widely-applied the litmus tests. They have filibustered almost 1 circuit court nominee for every 3 they have confirmed. As a result, in his first term, President George W. Bush had only 69 percent of his circuit-courts nominees confirmed.

That is the lowest confirmation percentage of any President since World War II.

In addition, the Democrats began to demand that they in effect get to co-nominate judges along with the President. The Constitution clearly provides in Article II, Section 2, that the President, and the President alone, nominates judges. The Senate is empowered to give "advice" and "consent." The Democrats, however, have sought to redefine "advice and consent" to mean "co-nomination."

President Bush, rightly so, has not acceded to this attempt to upset our Constitution's separation of powers. Unfortunately, the administration of justice is suffering. In the case of the Sixth Circuit, for example, Democratic Senators are willing to let one-fourth of the circuit seats sit empty in order to enforce their demands.

As a result, the Sixth Circuit—which includes Tennessee, Kentucky, Ohio and Michigan— is far and away the slowest circuit in the federal system and the victims of this delay are the people of the other residents of the Sixth Circuit are the victims. Thanks to the other side's obstruction, Kentuckians know too well that justice delayed means justice denied.

The Democrats have changed other ground rules in the confirmation process. But all these changes were just precursors to what happened in the last Congress. In 2005, Democrats voted to change the ground rules: they began to obstruct, via the filibuster, on a systematic and partisan basis, well-qualified nominees whom the Democratic leadership would be able to resolve this issue by reaching an agreement that would be acceptable to both sides. However, that does not now appear likely.

Therefore, I have advised the distinguished majority leader, Mr. FRIST, that I will support him in his effort to bring this confrontation over judicial filibusters to an end.

There should be no question in any one's mind about my intentions. I will work in concert with our leader, and with the distinguished majority whip, Mr. McCollum, and end filibusters of judicial nominations in the Senate.

The PRESIDENT PRO Tempore (Mr. COLEMAN), the Senator from North Dakota.

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President, how much time remains?

The PRESIDENT PRO Tempore. There remains 14 minutes 20 seconds.

Mr. DORGAN. My colleague from Connecticut is here. Let me take a couple of minutes and then yield to my colleague for the remaining time.

I must confess, it is hard sometimes to listen on the floor of the Senate without a big broad smile at the irony of this debate. Restoring the normal traditions of how we do things? There is a debate going on in the Senate, but that is not what it is about. This is about changing the rules in the middle of a game because one party in control doesn't get everything they want on every issue all the time.

We have confirmed 205 judges for this President and opposed the confirmation of only 10 of them. Because of that, the other side has an apoplectic seizure and decides they want to turn this Senate into the House, where one party can treat the other party like a piece of furniture they can sit on.

The Framers of this Constitution did not consider the Senate should be a compliant body during one-party rule. The minority has rights. One of those rights is unlimited debate. I think it is very interesting to hear on the floor of the Senate how generously the Republicans treated nominees under the Presidency of President Clinton, when they—in 50 cases of people who were notified by the President they were nominated for a lifetime appointment on the Federal court—did not even have the courtesy of giving them 1 day of hearings. Not even a day of hearings. They didn't get to see the light of day in this Congress, let alone a filibuster.

What a shameful thing to do to someone to whom the President says, I am going to nominate you for a lifetime appointment on the court... Did they give them 1 day of hearings?

Now they complain because we approved 204 and didn't approve 10. Now they complain the President didn't get every single judgeship he wanted. Have they ever heard of the words “checks and balances”? Did they take a course at least in high school to understand what it means?

No. If this nuclear option, as it is called in this town, is employed by the majority party, with an arrogance that has been heard in the years I have served in the Congress—if they do that, they will rue the day because they, one day, will be in the minority and they, one day, will wonder what on Earth did we do to eliminate the unlimited debate provision in the United States Senate that George Washington and Thomas Jefferson said represents the cooling of the passions in this country, represents the one location of reasoned debate in this institution if they employ a tactic to change the rules at this point and turn this Senate into another House of Representatives. They will have done damage for the long term and damage I believe they themselves will regret because one day they, too, will be in the minority. Then they will again understand what this Constitution provides with respect to minority rights.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDENT PRO Tempore. The Senator from Connecticut.

DEATH BENEFITS IN THE SUPPLEMENTAL APPROPRIATIONS BILL

Mr. LIEBERMAN. Mr. President, I rise to speak in morning business about the provision of this supplemental appropriations bill before us that right a wrong done with regard to death benefits of those who served the United States in uniform. I begin my remarks by thanking my friend and colleague from Alabama, Senator SESSIONS, and acknowledge his leadership on this very important humanitarian reform. I also thank the Senate Appropriations Committee, under the leadership of Senator COCHRAN and Senator BYRD, for bringing forward this emergency supplemental in a way that included the reform we needed to improve the financial benefits for families of our fallen soldiers.

I am grateful that this supplemental uses the so-called HEROES bill, S. 77, which Senator SESSIONS and I cosponsored and introduced in January as the basis for the reforms to enhance the death benefit and the level of coverage under the Servicemen's Group Life Insurance Program.

Yesterday, the Senate amended this provision to increase eligibility for the expanded death benefit to $100,000, which was in our HEROES bill, to include all active-duty service men and women.

These reforms honor the brave men and women wearing America's uniform who have made the ultimate sacrifice to defend our liberty by giving them and their families what we the American people owe them. Obviously, nothing can replace the loss of life. But a decent death benefit and adequate life insurance can provide our service members and their loved ones with a sense of security about their future which they deserve. For too long, they have not gotten that peace of mind, and indeed not the respect they deserve.

Senator SESSIONS and I have worked together for some time as members of the Senate Armed Services Committee to investigate and then to rectify this wrong. We began looking at the question of what survivor benefits were in place for our men and women in uniform as we were concerned that the benefits being provided to those who lose their lives in the service of this country lagged behind benefits provided for public service employees in high-risk occupations, namely policemen and firefighters. The families of fallen police and firefighters deserve those higher benefits. But so, too, of course, do the families of fallen military personnel.

When Senator SESSIONS and I began this review, the death benefit paid to the families of service men and women who were killed in action was $6,000, an embarrassing sum. A small step forward was taken last year when the death benefit was increased to $12,000, but obviously that was still woefully inadequate.

Two studies, one done by the Department of Defense and the other done by the Government Accountability Office, documented that survivor benefits provided to some of the public employee groups I have mentioned in high-risk positions were greater than those provided for our soldiers killed in combat. That was evidently unfair, and that is why our legislation, the HEROES bill, was worked on for the Pentagon's service member group and veterans groups which resulted in a bill to correct that imbalance by adjusting military survivor benefits to more equitably reflect today's world.

I am very gratified that this idea has taken hold, and it is reflected in the emergency supplemental before the Congress today.

With the changes adopted, if soldiers buy the servicemen's group life insurance, their families will receive $250,000, for which the soldier pays, and then an additional $150,000 of insurance the U.S. Government will pay for. In addition to that bill, the $100,000 death benefit. That is half a million dollars, which in these times is not a lot when we consider families left behind, a parent or a spouse and children who will need to go to college and all the expenses related to it. These families have lost a family member, and have a terrible void. All of us who have visited with them in our respective States or elsewhere have felt that void and have tried to the extent we could to let them know what we share it with them.

But, of course, it is uniquely and singularly theirs as they go through their life. Nothing can fill that void. But the least we can do is what we do in this bill—give them some sense of financial security as they go forward, and in some more fundamental sense that their loved one's service has given each and every American.
Theodore Roosevelt once said: A man who was good enough to shed blood for his country is good enough to be given a square deal afterward.

Of course, in our time we say a man and a woman. That is right, and the men and women who are shedding blood for our Nation today in the cause of liberty and doing so in a way that has fundamentally improved the security of the American people here at home should know their families will be taken care of no matter what happens to them.

I can't think of a piece of legislation which I have been involved in my over 17 years in the Senate that I have felt better about. This is one of those occasions that doesn't get celebrated quite enough where we forget the party labels, Republican and Democrat, and act in a higher calling, which is our status as Americans which unites us all. I am glad to see we are about to put these reforms in place.

We all recognize we have to keep faith with our service men and women. They are doing their duty to protect our family. That is one thing you don't have to worry about. If something happens to you, we are going to try to take care of your family. That is one thing you don't need to worry about.

I believe the HEROES bill, as we named it, honoring every requirement of exemplary service, is the legislation that moved us a long way in that regard. I couldn't be more excited. I thank the Appropriations Committee Chairman, Senator COCHRAN, and the ranking member, Senator BYRD, for their support of making this a part of the supplemental.

We can put it in language to require service men and women as they serve, and then we amended the bill to include those who serve on active duty who lose their lives. It also allows, as I have proposed, for every member of the military to raise the level of coverage under the men's group life insurance which is capped at $250,000 to $400,000. I believe that is a more legitimate sum for a family suffering this kind of loss.

Additionally, for those serving in the combat zone or a designated contingency, the Department of Defense will pay the member's premium for the first $150,000 of insurance to guarantee they are participants in that program.

Finally, the report will place language in the law to require service members to inform their spouses of the level of coverage that may be enacted.

As I conclude my remarks, let me be clear on this issue. There is no amount of compensation that can replace the loss of a loved one. Not for a soldier, not for a police officer, not for a teacher, or a fireman. However, our military service members volunteer to leave their families and engage in a very difficult and dangerous campaign to defeat terrorists and secure peace and prosperity not only for America but for countless millions around the world.

The training and operations conducted to remove combat are also dangerous and will also be included in the death gratuity section of the report. The enhancements of the death gratuity and SGLI outlined in this bill reflect the risks and dangers faced by our service men and women as they serve us around the world.

We can put language to require service the President requested in the supplemental and what Senator LIEBERMAN and I put in S. 77, the HEROES bill. This report and the death benefits enhancements offered are based on a sound analysis of this highly important and emotional issue. We can never do enough for those who died for our nation and every one of them who serves us in our military today is a national treasure.

I am thankful and grateful that the Senate has included the HEROES provision in this report, and I look forward to voting on this bill and seeing it enacted into law.

I note that not too many months ago I flew from Baghdad to Kuwait in a C-130 late at night, and there were two flag-draped coffins of soldiers who had given their lives in service to our country. Yesterday, I talked with the daughter, 25 years old, of Sergeant Major Banks. Her mother, a sergeant major in the Army, was one of the soldiers who died in the tragic helicopter crash in Afghanistan recently. I talked to her about her mother, and how much she admired her mother, and to think of the proud family of Sergeant Banks. Her mother, a sergeant major, growing up in a poor area of Alabama, African American, who inspired her daughter, Shante Banks, as she described her mother's influence on her life. She gave her life serving our country, as many have.

I believe we have done the right thing here. I think it is going to be a good step forward. I have enjoyed the opportunity to work with Senator LIEBERMAN as we have moved this legislation forward.

I thank the President and yield the floor.

Mr. THUNE. I thank the Senator from South Dakota is recognized.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. VITTER). The Senator from Alabama is recognized.

Mr. THUNE. I thank the Senator from Alabama and the Senator from Connecticut for the great work they have done in recognizing the sacrifice of men and women fighting for freedom's cause in Iraq and Afghanistan and other places around the world. This is important legislation. I am pleased to be able to support their efforts and to see it becomes a matter of law.

The remarks of Mr. THUNE pertaining to the introduction of S.J. Res. 12 are located in today's RECORD under "Statements on Introduced Bills and Joint Resolutions.")

I yield the floor and suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

Mr. CORZINE, Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. ENSIGN). Without objection, it is so ordered.
CONCLUSION OF MORNING BUSINESS
The PRESIDING OFFICER. Morning business is closed.

EMERGENCY SUPPLEMENTAL APPROPRIATIONS ACT, 2005

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, the Senate will reconsider some consideration of H.R. 1268, which the clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

A bill (H.R. 1268) making emergency supplemental appropriations for the fiscal year ending September 30, 2005, to establish and rapidly implement regulations for State driver's license and identification document security standards, to prevent terrorists from abusing the asylum laws of the United States, to unify terrorism-related grounds for inadmissibility and removal, to ensure expeditious construction of the San Diego border fence, and for other purposes.

PENDING:

Mikulski Amendment No. 387, to revise certain requirements for H-2B employers and require submission of information regarding H-2B alien visas.

Feinstein Amendment No. 395, to express the sense of the Senate that the text of the REAL ID Act of 2005 should not be included in the amendments.

Bayh Amendment No. 406, to protect the financial condition of members of the reserve components of the Armed Forces who are ordered to long-term active duty in support of a contingency operation.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New Jersey.

Mr. CORZINE. Mr. President, I was about to call up amendment No. 366, which I am going to pull back from at this point. We are working with a number of subcommittees to get exact language, but I would like to go ahead and frame the debate. Senator BROWNBACK will be joining me.

This amendment we will be offering is one that parallels the importance which is now being placed on moving this supplemental, which is absolutely essential to support our men and women in uniform. They deserve our support. We all know that, and most certain that I will be voting positively with regard to making sure that our deeds and words match in our support of the troops and that we allocate our resources accordingly. That is what the debate on the supplemental is about. I look forward to working on that.

But so, too, there are those the Congress and the administration have already acknowledged are being subjected to acts of genocide, the Black Muslim villagers of Darfur, Sudan. This genocide committed by their own countrymen with the support of their Government. It is time for action. Here, too, we need to put our words and deeds into a match. They need to be congruent. This amendment is intended to deal with the emergency, the urgently needed response to this ongoing genocide taking place in Darfur as I stand here, a place where there have been killings of up to 10,000 people every month, 300 to 350 human beings almost every day.

Never have we been so aware of mankind's horrible history, and yet so reluctant to act on its lessons as it applies to this situation in Darfur. This month marks the 11th anniversary of the Rwandan genocide. "Hotel Rwanda," the movie, is showing on thousands of screens in homes across the country, and we continue to recall our shameful failure to prevent the slaughter of 800,000 people. Do we need to have a play 5 years from now or 10 years from now called "Hotel Darfur"?

April 17 marks the 30th anniversary of the Khmer Rouge takeover in Cambodia, a genocide of a genocide that killed between 1 and 2 million people. Do we need to revisit the killing fields?

In January, the liberation of Auschwitz was commemorated by the Congress and by a special session of the United Nations General Assembly. Throughout all of these commemorations and remembrances, we hear the same words: Never again. Never again will we accept the slaughter of our fellow human beings. Never again will we stand by and let this happen.

As Vice President CHENNY said eloquently at the Holocaust commemorations in Poland:

[We] look to the future with hope—that He may grant us the wisdom to recognize evil in all its forms, and give us courage to prevent it from ever rising again.

There is perhaps no more powerful moral voice over the last half century than author and Holocaust survivor Elie Wiesel. Last year he spoke to the Darfur issue.

He said:

How can a citizen of a free country not pay attention? How can anyone, anywhere not feel outraged? How can a person, whether religious or secular, not be moved by compassion? And above all, how can anyone who remembers remain silent?

As a Jew who does not come anywhere near to a Jew, I feel challenged by the Sudanese tragedy. We must be involved. How can we reproach the indifference of non-Jews to Jewish suffering if we remain indifferent to another people's plight?

It happened in Cambodia, then in former Yugoslavia, and in Rwanda, now in Sudan, Asia, Europe, Africa. Three continents have become prisons, killing fields and cemeteries for countless innocent, defenseless populations. Will the plague be allowed to spread?

"Lo taamod adem räkha" is a Biblical commandment, "Thou shalt not shed the blood of thy fellow man." The word is not "akhikha," thy Jewish brother, but "räkha," thy fellow human being, be he or she Jewish or not. All are entitled to live with dignity and hope. All are entitled to live without fear and pain.

Not to assist Sudan's victims today is truly a commandment for me to be unworthy of what I have learned from my teachers, my ancestors and my friends, namely that God alone is alone: His commandments, His words, His laws, His people are the only ones entitled to live without fear and pain.

I ask unanimous consent that the full remarks by Mr. Wiesel on Darfur be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

[Remarks delivered at the Darfur Emergency Summit, New York, July 14, 2004] ON THE ATROCITIES IN SUDAN

(By Elie Wiesel)

Sudan has become today's world, capital of human pain, suffering and agony. There, one part of the population has been—and still is—subjected by another part, the dominating part, to humiliation, hunger and death, while the whole civilized world knew about it and preferred to look away. Now people know. And so they have no excuse for their passivity bordering on indifference. Those who, like you my friends, try to break the walls of their apathy deserve everyone's support and everyone's solidarity.

This gathering was organized by several important bodies. The U.S. Holocaust Memorial Museum's Committee on Conscience (Jerry Fowler), the Graduate Center of the City University of New York, the American Jewish World Service (Ruth Messinger) and several other humanitarian organizations.

As for myself, I have been involved in the efforts to help Sudanese victims for some years. It was a direct or indirect consequence of a millennium lecture I had given in the White House, "The Milennium of Indifference". After I concluded, a woman in the audience rose and said: "I am from Rwanda." She asked me how I could explain the international community's indifference to the Rwandan massacres. I turned to the President who sat at my right and said: "Mr. President, you better answer this question. You know as well as we do that the Rwanda tragedy, which cost from 600,000 to 800,000 victims, innocent men, women and children, could have been averted. Why wasn't it?" His answer was honest and sincere: It is true, that tragedy could have been averted. That's why I went there to apologize in my personal name and in the name of the American people. But I promise you: it will not happen again.

The next day I received a delegation from Sudan and friends of Sudan, headed by a Sudanese refugee bishop and me. They told me that two million Sudanese had already died. They said, "You are now the custodian of the President's pledge. Let him keep it by helping to stop the genocide and preventing it from ever rising again."

That brutal tragedy is still continuing, now in Sudan's Darfur region. Now its horrors are shown on television screens and on countless pages of indignant Congressional delegations, special envoys and humanitarian agencies send back or bring back horror-filled reports from the scene. A million human beings, young and old, have been uprooted, deported. Scores of women are being raped every day, children are dying of disease and hunger and violence.

How can a citizen of a free country not pay attention? How can anyone, anywhere not feel outraged? How can a person, whether religious or secular, not be moved by compassion? And above all, how can anyone who remembers remain silent?

As a Jew who does not come anywhere near to a Jew, I feel challenged by the Sudanese tragedy. We must be involved. How can we reproach the indifference of non-Jews to Jewish suffering if we remain indifferent to another people's plight?

I am from New York, a city of hope and dreams and diversity. In our past, we have learned the lesson of the Holocaust. We, the Jewish people, have learned from my teachers, my ancestors and my friends, namely that God alone is alone: His commandments, His words, His laws, His people are the only ones entitled to live without fear and pain.

Not to assist Sudan's victims today is truly a commandment for me to be unworthy of what I have learned from my teachers, my ancestors and my friends, namely that God alone is alone: His commandments, His words, His laws, His people are the only ones entitled to live without fear and pain.

Congressional Record — Senate

S3617

Should the Sudanese victims feel abandoned and neglected, it would be our fault—and perhaps our guilt. That’s why we must intervene.

If we do, they and their children will be grateful for us. As will be, through them, our own.

Mr. CORZINE. Tragically, since that speech by Mr. Wiesel, we have seen precious little actionable courage in preventing the horrific events that raged in Darfur. Last July, the Congress recognized that genocide is taking place and voted on it here on the floor of the Senate.

In September, the Bush administration did the same. Yet, since then, the situation has only deteriorated.

Estimates of the death toll in Darfur now range from between 250,000 to over 300,000 human beings. Killings, torture, destruction of villages, rape and other forms of sexual violence all continue. More than 1.8 million people have been forced from their homes, and unless the attacks subside and access by humanitarian organizations improves, as many as 3 million Sudanese people could be displaced by the end of the year.

Let me say that these displaced individuals are going into camps strategically. We need to understand that this is not breeding a community of good will to the rest of the world. These are people who are disenfranchised, dislocated, and will pose a strategic threat, potentially as a breeding ground of terrorism for the future.

This tragedy is that the Government of Sudan remains deeply complicit in this genocide, supporting jingaweit militias and participating in attacks on civilians. Helicopter gunships strafe villages, spraying nail-like flechettes unsuitable for anything other than killing.

International monitors of all kinds have been attacked, including members of the African Union force deployed to Darfur to try to bring about a monitoring of the peace agreements that have been set forth. Government-backed militias have threatened foreigners and U.N. convoys.

In recent weeks, an American aid official was shot and wounded, and the U.N. was forced to withdraw its international staff in west Darfur to the provincial capital. Other NGOs are uneasy about their people and are talking about withdrawal.

Every day we get reports of a new rampage—an attack on a village in Darfur by 350 armed militia. The report by the UN and the AU called it a “senseless and premeditated savage attack.” The militia “rampaged through the village, killing, burning and destroying everything in their paths and leaving in their wake total destruction, with only the mosque and the school spared.”

I have a U.N. report, and I ask unanimous consent that it be printed in the Record.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

[From UN News Service, Apr. 8, 2005]

UN, AFRICAN UNION CONDEM “SAVAGE ATTACK” ON DARFUR VILLAGE BY ARMED MILITIA

United Nations and African Union representatives today condemned a “senseless and pre-meditated savage attack” Thursday on a town in the western Darfur area of Sudan by more than 300 armed militia while the Government of Sudan was supposedly going to sign documents on an allocation of land for the AU monitoring force meant to deter such incidents.

Hearing learnt “with utter shock and disbelief” the relentless daylong attack on Khor Abeche by armed militia of the Misriyya tribe of Niteaga, “we condemn this senseless, and pre-meditated savage attack,” said Pauline Mwenza, representative of UN Secretary-General Kofi Annan, and AU Ambassador Baba Gana Kingibe said in a joint statement.

Nasir Al Tijani, then AU representative, said as having commanded the initial force of over 200 on horses and camels and they were later reinforced by a further 150, also from Niteaga, they said in a statement.

His name and those of his collaborators would be sent to the UN Security Council sanctions committee to be brought to justice and they expected the Sudanese Government to take appropriate action, the two said.

The attackers “rampaged through the village, realising everything in their paths and leaving in their wake total destruction with only the mosque and the school spared,” their statement said.

This attack, of which we have never been seen since the sacking of Hamada in January 2005, was apparently in retaliation for the alleged theft of 150 cattle whose tracks were supposedly traced to Khor Abeche village.”

Nasir Al Tijani, then AU representative, said.

They noted that since 3 April the AU had prepared to deploy troops in Niteaga and Khor Abeche to deter precisely this kind of attack, “but was prevented from acting by what can only be inferred as deliberate official procrastination over the allocation of land for the troops’ accommodation.”

Mr. CORZINE. Mr. President, how has the international community responded to these issues? In recent weeks, the U.N. Security Council passed three resolutions to give them credit, there has been some progress. One resolution referred the situation in Darfur to the International Criminal Court. Another established a U.N. committee to recommend targeted sanctions against those responsible for human rights abuses.

But much has not been done. There have been no efforts to impose, or even seriously threaten, sanctions against the responsible.

In fact, the Security Council promised significant assistance as a reward for the welcomed implementation of the January peace agreement, the north-south agreement between Khatroutum and the south, without any conditions related to Darfur.

The point that Senator BROWNBACK and I will be proposing, supports the peace agreement and allows assistance to implement that agreement. But we should not be rewarding the Government of Khatroutum which 3 million civilians in Darfur are dying.

Mr. President, the people of Darfur will not be saved unless stopping genocide becomes a priority. Words and deeds need to match. This amendment will call on the administration to raise Darfur in all relevant bilateral and multilateral meetings. I hope we can get it raised.

I am pleased that Deputy Secretary of State Zoellick is going to Sudan this week. But unless we mobilize an international effort, this engagement will be insufficient. We have already seen a lot of lost opportunities. I will leave that for the record where President Bush, Secretary of Defense Rumsfeld, and the Secretary of State have been in international areas where we can mobilize that kind of support. We simply cannot just keep calling it genocide and labeling it and talking about it; we need to do something about it. Stopping this evil is an urgent and highly moral issue for all of us to take on.

This is why there is so much bipartisan focus on this issue.

We want to evoke the culture of life. We ought to be protecting those 10,000 people a month who are dying. How can we claim to be learning the lessons of history when we fail to act? How can we do that? We cannot continue to talk about moral responsibilities and then not act on them.

In his remarks in the piece that I put in the Record, Elie Wiesel put this clearly:

What pains and hurts most now is the simultaneity of events. While we sit here and
Mr. President, we must act. The United States must lead a coalition of conscience to stop the genocide. That is what this amendment calls for. I urge my colleagues to support it. We will be back with the exact details. I am very appreciative of the leadership of Senator BROWNBACK, Senator DeWINE, and a number of individuals on both sides of the aisle. We need to make that coalition of conscience real. It is time to act. I believe this is an appropriate amendment on the supplemental.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Kansas is recognized.

Mr. BROWNBACK. Mr. President, I am delighted to join my colleague from New Jersey on this amendment. I think by definition a supplemental is about emergency needs and emergency spending. I don’t know of a bigger one taking place right now in the world than in Darfur. So it is my hope that within this supplemental we will be able to deal with this issue of Darfur, both in funding and in some language to be able to stop this. This is a completely manmade disaster. It is one that can be stopped with a reasonable number of troops on the ground, with a reasonable engagement strategy.

This can stop. Instead of the 300,000 deaths going on up, this can and will stop. They need food aid, and they need allocation of funds for African Union forces. We will have Assistant Secretary Zoellick on the ground in Khartoum. He is going to go to the south, and then to the western part of Sudan after that, to look and to press the situation. The administration is engaged and is pushing. We need to do this in the supplemental. It is important for it to take place.

Last year was the 10th-year anniversary of that conflict, when the U.N. and we declared and the world declared “never again.” We are now seeing it take place yet again. Can we learn from that? This is stoppable, and it is not by a huge commitment. We are not asking for 100,000 U.S. troops to go there. We are not asking for any U.S. troops. We are asking for financial support for the African Union and food aid to be able to maintain the villagers who have been run out of their village. With that, I believe firmly that this can stop, and will stop, and people will be able to return to their villages.

Time is of the essence. Every day in this harsh climate in this region is a day that more people die. There simply are not the resources in the area to be able to support the individuals who are involved.

My colleague covered most of the points. I plead with my colleagues to please stop it and support this amendment.

I do believe we will get this passed. We need to pass it. I hope it is kept in the bill through the entire process. I yield the floor, and I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. BROWNBACK. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. BROWNBACK. Mr. President, I add one postscript on this Darfur Accountability Act. The House has language dealing with Darfur. We did not have as much of it in here. It is two parts: food and military assistance. We are working closely with the committee to try to get this worked through. It will not go over the amount that is in it. It will be offset in other places within the budget. I want to make sure that is clear to my colleagues who are interested in this. They have supported it, but they do not want to bust the supplemental caps. This will be taken from other places we are working on right now.

Senator MCCONNELL, Senator COCHRAN, and other of our colleagues are working diligently with us. It is in two places as far as food aid and its assistance to peacekeepers. These will be African Union peacekeepers. So I want to get the practicalities of it out.

I also admonish my colleagues that when we sit as the magnificent Nation on the face of the Earth, we are called on to remember those who are in bondage as if we were in bondage ourselves. That may seem a strange concept, but when others are free, we are free. If there were no bondage, we are going to feel the chains and it will constantly rub against our souls. This is something that is important and it is also historic for us.

When we fought against slavery in this country, the issue was that the bondage of others was our bondage and people felt it, they fought against it. It is in the great heritage of this country to fight for freedom for other people, so that when they are in bondage we feel that, but when we can help break that, we will also break bondages on ourselves and make us use the greatness of America for the goodness of the world. It is that goodness that keeps us moving forward.

This is a real large sum of money we are talking about, but it is critically important.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Illinois.

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, I salute the Senator from Kansas. I know he and the Senator from New Jersey have demonstrated extraordinary leadership on many issues that have come before this Senate, but certainly on the Darfur Accountability Act. I am an original cosponsor of that bipartisan measure and a strong supporter.

The latest estimates tell us more than 300,000 people have died in Darfur. The world has not seen this happen in the lifetime of all of our anguished promises after Rwanda that this would never happen again, it is happening again. Reports from aid workers back from Sudan state that attacks on the ground are still taking place. Villages are still being burned. Much of Darfur is still in a climate of terror. People are still afraid to go out for basics, to venture out for water, for wood, or the necessities of life.

Each week this week, Human Rights Watch released a new report that Sudanese security forces, including police deployed to protect displaced persons, and allied jingaweit militias continue to commit rape and sexual violence on a daily basis. Refugee camps are no refuge. Women who fled Darfur to refugee camps in Chad have been imprisoned by Chadian authorities for trying to collect firewood outside their camps. Many of them were raped while in jail.

This has become a charnel house. This is a disaster. This is one of the rings of hell, and it is happening on our watch.

In some areas of Sudan, women who are raped by the jingaweit militia are now being threatened with prosecution. In short, Darfur still cries out for action. If these conditions do not constitute an emergency, I do not know what does.

Do we want to return to the Senate 6 months from now and lament the fact that we did not let this victims be added to the death tolls in this area? The amendment which will be offered later seeks a new U.N. Security Council resolution with sanctions, concerted United States diplomacy, an extension of the current arms embargo to cover the Government of Sudan, the freezing of assets and denial of visas to those responsible for genocide, crimes against humanity and war crimes, accelerated assistance of the African Union Mission, and a military no-fly zone in Darfur.

One of the other components of this amendment is the appointment of a new special envoy to seek peace in Sudan to fill the role Ambassador Danforth played so well. As in many things, Pope John Paul II was ahead of this. He sent a special envoy last year so that voices of the people of Darfur might be heard.

The Big Five tells us: Blessed be the peacemaker. We need to be peacemakers today. Let us hold the Government of Sudan accountable for its crimes and for these atrocities. Let us help the people of Darfur, and in doing so let us help to end this genocide.

I yield the floor. I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The bill clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. COCHRAN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. THUNE). Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. COCHRAN. Mr. President, I have requests to make on behalf of the managers of the bill with respect to amendments that have been cleared on both sides of the aisle.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator is recognized.

AMENDMENT NO. 422

Mr. COCHRAN. I send an amendment to the desk, on behalf of Mr. LEAHY and Mr. OBAMA, and ask for its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, the pending amendments are set aside. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Mississippi [Mr. COCHRAN], for Mr. LEAHY and Mr. OBAMA, proposes an amendment numbered 422.

Mr. COCHRAN. I ask unanimous consent the reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

On page 194, line 16, delete “‘Avian flu’” and insert “avian influenza virus.”

The PRESIDING OFFICER. If there is no further debate, the question is on agreeing to the amendment.

The amendment (No. 422) was agreed to.

Mr. COCHRAN. I move to reconsider the vote by which the amendment was agreed to, and move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 423

Mr. COCHRAN. Mr. President, I now send an amendment to the desk, on behalf of Mr. LEAHY, providing reprogramming authority for certain State Department accounts. I ask for its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Mississippi [Mr. COCHRAN], for Mr. LEAHY, proposes an amendment numbered 423.

Mr. COCHRAN. I ask unanimous consent the reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: To provide assistance to promote democracy in Lebanon.)

On page 175, after line 24, insert “$30,500,000,” and after line 26, insert “$25,500,000.”

The PRESIDING OFFICER. If there is no further debate, the question is on agreeing to the amendment.

The amendment (No. 370), as modified, was agreed to.

Mr. COCHRAN. I move to reconsider the vote by which the amendment was agreed to, and I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 370, AS MODIFIED

Mr. COCHRAN. Mr. President. I call up amendment No. 370, as modified, on behalf of Mr. SALAZAR, concerning democracy assistance for Lebanon.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Mississippi [Mr. COCHRAN], for Mr. SALAZAR, proposes an amendment numbered 370, as modified.

Mr. COCHRAN. I ask unanimous consent the reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: To provide assistance to promote democracy in Lebanon.)

On page 176, line 12 after the colon insert the following: “Provided further. That of the amounts appropriated under this heading, not less than $5,000,000 shall be made available for programs and activities to promote democracy, including political party development, in Lebanon and such amount shall be managed by the Bureau of Democracy, Human Rights, and Labor of the Department of State.”

On page 176, line 24, strike “$30,500,000,” and insert “$25,500,000.”

The PRESIDING OFFICER. If there is no further debate, the question is on agreeing to the amendment.

The amendment (No. 370), as modified, was agreed to.

Mr. COCHRAN. I move to reconsider the vote by which the amendment was agreed to, and I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

The Senator from Mississippi [Mr. COCHRAN], for Mr. LEAHY, proposes an amendment numbered 423.

Mr. COCHRAN. I ask unanimous consent the reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: To provide reprogramming authority for certain accounts in the Departments of Commerce, Justice, State, the Judiciary, and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 2005.)

On page 183, after line 23, insert the following new general provision:

SEC. —. The amounts set forth in the eighth proviso in the Diplomatic and Consular Programs appropriation in the FY 2005 Department of Commerce, Justice, State, the Judiciary, and Related Agencies Appropriations Act (P.L. 108–199, Div. B) be subject to reprogramming pursuant to section 665 of that Act.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. If there is no further debate, the question is on agreeing to the amendment.

The amendment (No. 423) was agreed to.

Mr. COCHRAN. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote by which the amendment was agreed to and move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.
Mr. COCHRAN. Mr. President, I now send an amendment to the desk, on behalf of Mr. Reid and Mr. Levin, regarding retired pay and veterans disability compensation, and ask for its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Mississippi [Mr. Cochran], for Mr. Reid, for himself, and Mr. Levin, proposes an amendment numbered 361.

Mr. COCHRAN. I ask unanimous consent of the Senate that I request permission from the Office of Management and Budget, Washington, DC, to dispense with further debate on the amendment numbered 361.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

(See exhibit 1.)

The amendment (No. 361) was agreed to.

Mr. COCHRAN. I ask unanimous consent of the Senate that I request permission from OMB to send an amendment to the desk, on behalf of Mr. Reid and Mr. Levin, regarding retired pay and veterans disability compensation, and ask for its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

(See exhibit 1.)

The amendment (No. 424) was agreed to.

Mr. COCHRAN. Mr. President, I now send an amendment to the desk, on behalf of Mr. Reid, regarding retired pay and veterans disability compensation, and ask for its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Mississippi [Mr. Cochran] proposes an amendment numbered 424.

The amendment is as follows:

(See exhibit 1.)
The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:
On page 219 of the bill, line 16, strike "or" and insert "and";
On page 219 of the bill, line 17, after "and" insert "seismic-related."

The PRESIDING OFFICER. If there is no further debate, the question is on agreeing to the amendment.

The amendment (No. 434) was agreed to.

Mr. COCHRAN. I move to reconsider the vote by which the amendment was agreed to, and I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

Mr. COCHRAN. Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

AMENDMENT NO. 47

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, those following the debate on the floor understand we are considering the supplemental appropriations bill that deals with the war in Iraq and Afghanistan, the tsunami relief, and some other very important elements. I understand there are pending amendments that are an effort to reach an agreement about how future amendments will be offered. So even though I will not be offering an amendment at this time, I would like to say a few words about an amendment which I plan to offer as soon as an agreement is reached and to alert my colleagues and those following the debate what we are seeking to achieve.

This amendment, which I am proud to cosponsor with Senator KENNEDY and Senator LIEBERMAN, would ensure our troops and military training in Iraq. I thank the chairman and ranking member for their hard work on the bill. I believe it is imperative we continue to support our troops and address other emergencies in the world, including the devastating tsunami that swept across the Pacific right after Christmas.

We fully support our troops. We also want to see them come home. Training Iraqi troops to take the lead in Iraq is critical to our success in that country and getting our men and women back where they belong—with their families at home. Therefore, we are offering an amendment today to measure our progress toward that goal. In this bill, the Senate is appropriating $5.7 billion for the Iraqi Security Forces Fund. The accompanying committee report states:

The funds shall be available to train, equip, and deploy Iraqi security forces as and to provide increased counterinsurgency capabilities.

That is certainly very good. Our troops cannot come home until Iraqi forces can hold their own.

When I was in Iraq just a few weeks ago, General Petraeus took us from the Baghdad airport to a training field nearby, where we saw about 12 Iraqi soldiers who were masked to hide their identity for fear of retribution from their fellow Iraqis as they went through training drills. I have not been in the military. I can't grade these troops as to their progress. It certainly appeared that they were learning important skills. How many troops in Iraq are reaching that level of competence, I can't say. That is the purpose of the amendment.

Iraqi forces and police must be able to take the lead in conducting counterinsurgency operations. They must also be able to protect their own borders, safeguard civilian populations, uphold and enforce the rule of law. When I met with General Petraeus, he said he believed he was making progress toward that goal, but I think we need to have a better metric to evaluate. We have received mixed messages and mixed information and statistics from the administration about how many Iraqis are trained and what their training really means.

Recent figures we received from the Department of Defense tell us that 136,000 Iraqis have been officially trained and equipped, but it is still not clear what that means. Does it mean that 136,000 Iraqi police, military, and border personnel are ready to defend their country? Protect its citizens and borders? Are they ready to take on and defeat the serious insurgent threat against American troops and Iraqis?

A March GAO study was very skeptical about the numbers. Joseph Christoff, Director of the GAO, testified before the House Government Reform Committee that:

Data on the status of Iraqi security forces is unreliable and provides limited information on their capabilities.

That was a result of a GAO report of the progress being made by our Department of Defense. We need answers to basic questions. That is why we are offering the amendment—Senator Kennedy, Senator Levin, and I—requiring the Department of Defense to assess unit readiness of Iraqi forces and evaluate the effectiveness and status of training of police forces.

Our amendment is straightforward. It is a reporting requirement asking for regular assessments of both the military forces and the police who are being trained with our tax dollars. This is simply accountability. As American tax dollars go into Iraq for the training of forces, American taxpayers have the right to know whether we are making progress. Are we meeting our goals? The GAO report indicated, for example, substantial desertions from the ranks of police, the number of which is perhaps the tens of thousands. That is something we need to know if it continues. We need to know how many battalions of soldiers are trained, how effectively they can operate. They face a fierce insurgency. Are they ready for battle? We want to give them the tools to successfully confront it.

Finally, we also ask for an assessment of how many American forces will be needed in 6, 12, and 18 months. We are not imposing a deadline. What we are doing is saying to the administration: Tell us on the one hand the level of success which you are experiencing in training Iraqis to defend their own country and tell us what it means in terms of American forces. When can we expect troops to start returning if this Iraqi training is successful?

As Iraqi troop training expands and improves, we certainly hope American troops will come home. We all want to see progress in Iraq. I want to be able to make it clear to the American public that we are making meaningful progress.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, will the Senator from Illinois yield for a question?

Mr. DURBIN. Yes, I am happy to.

Mr. KENNEDY. The Senator points out the part of the amendment which is asking for the number of troops. I am a member of the Armed Services Committee. This issue has come up in a number of different contexts. We are talking about an estimate. We are looking for an estimate in 6 months, 12 months, and 18 months. I am just wondering whether the Senator from Illinois saw the New York Times on April 11 where General Casey, top commander in Iraq, told CNN a week ago that if all went well, "we should be able to take some fairly substantial reductions in the size of our forces." And another senior military official said American forces in Iraq could drop to around 105,000 by early next year from 142,000 now.

Clearly, there are estimates that are being considered. It seems that the American people would like to know what these numbers are rather than reading them in the paper. I believe that is what the purpose of the amendment is—to try to communicate to the American people what the best judgment is in terms of the troops. Estimates can vary. As authors of the amendment, we understand that. But I do thank the Senator for referring to the GAO report, the fact that the GAO report of March 14 said that U.S. Government agencies do not report reliable data on the extent to which the security forces are trained and equipped. The number of Iraqi police is unreliable, and the data does not exclude police absent from duty.

All we are trying to do is get estimates for the American people. Am I correct?

Mr. DURBIN. The Senator from Massachusetts is correct. He makes a valuable point. Congress asks the Department of Defense how are we doing in terms of training troops for the Iraqi side, what are your guesses and best estimates in terms of when American troops can come home, many times they tell us, we can't share that information. They give us widely different numbers.

The Senator from Massachusetts makes the point that spokesmen for the U.S. military apparently speak to the White House frequently, volunteering information about how quickly troops can come home to the United States. If it is good enough for CNN, should it not be good enough for the USA? Should not American taxpayers be given this information? I think we want to know that.

I understand that we have to stay the course and finish our job. I am committed to that, even though I shared Senator KENNEDY’s sentiments about the initiation of the invasion. One of the problems with the insurgency is the question of whether we are a permanent occupying force. I hope we make it clear to the Iraqis that we are there to finish the job, to stabilize their country, and come home. As we start moving down the line on this amendment, which the Senator from Massachusetts and Senator LEVIN have cosponsored, we are going to be moving toward that goal and delivering the right message.

Mr. KENNEDY. I thank the Senator. I agree with his conclusions. Many of us believe this will be enormously helpful in trying to establish the idea that the Senator from Illinois would like to see. But I thank the Senator for bringing up this matter.

This follows other evidence that we have had at other times in Defense appropriations legislation, basically to provide this kind of information to the parents, to the military. We are looking for a best judgment, best estimate. Clearly, today the military is thinking in those terms. I believe we ought to have some opportunity to share that information.

I thank the Senator from Illinois for offering this amendment.

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, I send the amendment to the desk.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. MARZEN). Is there objection to setting the amendment to the desk?

Mr. DURBIN. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The clerk will report.

The bill clerk reads as follows:

The Senator from Illinois (Mr. DURBIN), for himself, Mr. LEVIN, Mr. KENNEDY, Mr. BYRD, and Mr. LEAHY, proposes an amendment numbered 427.

Mr. DURBIN. I ask unanimous consent that reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

Amendment No. 427

Page 169, between lines 8 and 9, insert the following:

REPORTS ON IRAQI SECURITY FORCES

SEC. 1122. Not later than 60 days after the date of enactment of this Act, and every 90 days thereafter, the President shall submit an unclassified report to Congress, which may include a classified annex, that includes a description of the following:

(1) The extent to which funding appropriated by this Act will be used to train and equip capable and effectively led Iraqi security forces and services and promote stability and security in Iraq.

(2) The estimated strength of the Iraqi security forces and the extent to which it is consistent with the deployment of American forces and the requirements of any changes over the previous 90-day period.

(3) A description of all military operating in Iraq, including their number, size, strength, military effectiveness, leadership, sources of external support, sources of internal support, estimated types and numbers of equipment and armaments in their possession, legal status, and the status of efforts to disarm, demobilize, and reintegrate each militia.

(4) The extent to which recruiting, training, and equipping goals and standards for Iraqi security forces are being met, including the number of Iraqis recruited and trained for the army, air force, navy, and other military services and the extent of efforts to disarm, demobilize, and reintegrate each militia. and unit equipment requirements have been met.

(5) A description of the criteria for assessing the capabilities and readiness of Iraqi security forces.

(6) An evaluation of the operational readiness status of Iraqi military forces and special police, including the type, number, size, unit, and organization structure of Iraqi battalions that are—

(A) capable of conducting counterinsurgency operations independently;

(B) capable of conducting counterinsurgency operations with United States or Coalition mentors and enablers; or

(C) not ready to conduct counterinsurgency operations.

(7) The extent to which funding appropriated by this Act will be used to train capable, well-equipped, and effectively led Iraqi police forces, and an evaluation of Iraqi police forces, including:

(A) the number of police recruits that have received classroom instruction and the duration of such instruction;

(B) the number of veteran police officers who have received classroom instruction and the duration of such instruction;

(C) the number of Iraqi police forces that have been training by international police trainers and the duration of such instruction;

(D) the description of the field training program, including the number, the planned number, and nationality of international field trainers;

(E) the number of police present for duty;

(F) data related to attrition rates; and

(G) a description of the training that Iraqi police have received regarding human rights and the rule of law.

(8) The estimated total number of Iraqi battalions needed for the Iraqi security forces to perform duties now being undertaken by the Coalition Forces, including defending Iraq’s borders, defeating the insurgency, and providing law and order.

(9) The extent to which funding appropriated by this Act will be used to train Iraqi security forces in counterinsurgency operations and the estimated total number of Iraqi security force personnel expected to be trained and capable of participating in counterinsurgency operations by the end of 2005 and of 2006.

(10) The estimated total number of adequate and capable battalions and the number of battalions expected to be capable of conducting counterinsurgency operations independently and the estimated total number expected to be capable of participating in counterinsurgency operations with United States or Coalition mentors and enablers by the end of 2005 and of 2006.

(12) The number and nationality of Coalition mentors and advisers working with Iraqi security forces as of the date of the report, plans for decreasing or increasing the number of such mentors and advisers, and a description of their activities.

(13) A list of foreign countries of the North Atlantic Treaty Organisation (‘‘NATO’’) participating in the NATO mission for training of Iraqi security forces and the number of troops from each country dedicated to the mission.

(14) A list of countries participating in training Iraqi security forces outside the NATO mission and the number of troops from each country dedicated to the mission.

(15) For any country, which made an offer to provide forces for training that has not been accepted, an explanation of the reasons why the offer was not accepted.

(16) A list of foreign countries that have withdrawn troops from the Multinational Security Coalition in Iraq during the previous 90 days and the number of troops withdrawn.

(17) A list of foreign countries that has added troops to the Coalition in Iraq during the previous 90 days and the number of troops added.

(18) For countries to provide forces for training that have been accepted by the Iraqi government, a report on the status of such training efforts, including the number of troops involved by country and the number of Iraqi security forces trained.

(19) An assessment of the progress of the National Assembly of Iraq in drafting and ratifying the permanent constitution of Iraq, and the performance of the new Iraqi Government in its protection of the rights of minorities and individual human rights, and its adherence to common democratic practices.

(20) The estimated number of United States military forces who will be needed in Iraq 6, 12, and 18 months from the date of the report.

Mr. DURBIN. I thank the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Massachusetts.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, I thank Senator DURBIN for bringing up this matter on the supplemental. I welcome the opportunity to join with him and our colleague from Michigan, Senator LEVIN, and others who support the amendment. As we have outlined, this amendment basically requires periodic reports on the progress we are making in training Iraqi security forces.

The Senate is currently debating an appropriations bill that would provide $81 billion, primarily for our ongoing war effort. This funding will bring the total U.S. bill for the war in Iraq to $192 billion—and still counting.

All of us support our troops. We obviously want to do all that we can to see that they have proper equipment, vehicles, and everything else they need to protect their lives as they carry out their mission. It is scandalous that the administration has kept sending them into battle in Iraq without proper equipment. No soldier should be sent into battle with inadequate equipment. No parents should have to go in desperation to the local Wal-Mart to buy armored plates and mail them to their sons and daughters serving in Iraq.

Our military is performing brilliantly under enormously difficult circumstances. But they don’t want—and the American people don’t want—an open-ended commitment. After all the blunders that took us into war, we need to be certain that the President has a strategy for success.

The $5.7 billion in this bill for training Iraqi security forces is a key element of a successful strategy to stabilize Iraq and withdraw American military forces.

The administration has spoken frequently about the need for these funds. But there has been no accountability. It is time to put some facts behind our policy, and that is what this amendment does.

The administration has never really given us a straight answer about how many Iraqi security forces are adequately trained and equipped. We’re obviously making progress, but it is far from clear how much. The American people deserve an honest assessment that provides the basic facts.

But that is not what we’re being given. According to a GAO report in March:

U.S. government agencies do not report reliable data on the extent to which Iraqi security forces are trained and equipped.

It goes on to say:

The Departments of State and Defense no longer report the extent to which Iraqi security forces are equipped with their required weapons, vehicles, communications, equipment, and body armor.

It is clear from the administration’s own statements that they are using the notorious “fuzzy math” tactic to avoid an honest appraisal.

On February 4, 2004, Secretary Donald Rumsfeld said:

We have accelerated the training of Iraqi security forces, now more than 200,000 strong.

Then, a year later, on January 19, 2005, Secretary Condoleezza Rice said that:

We think the number right now is somewhere over 120,000.

On February 3, 2005, in response to questions from Senator LEVIN at a Senate Armed Services Hearing, General Richard Myers, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, conceded that only 40,000 Iraqi security forces are really capable. He said:

48 (capable battalions) around the country, equals about 40,000, which is the number that can go anywhere and do anything.

Obviously, we need a better accounting of how much progress is being made to train and equip effective and capable Iraqi Security forces.

I am encouraged by reports from our commanders in Iraq that we are making enough progress in fighting the insurgents and training the Iraqi security forces to enable the Pentagon to plan for significant troop reductions by early next year.

On March 27, General Casey, our top commander in Iraq, said, if things go well in Iraq, “by this time next year . . . we should be able to take some fairly substantial reductions in the size of our forces.”

According to the New York Times, on Monday, senior military officials are saying American troop levels in Iraq could “drop to around 105,000” by early in the next year.

These reports are welcome news after 2 years of war in Iraq.

April 9 marked the second anniversary of the fall of Baghdad, and in these last 2 years we have paid a high price for the invasion of Iraq. America went to war in Iraq because President Bush insisted that Iraq had strong ties to al-Qaida. It did not. We went to war because President Bush insisted that Saddam Hussein was on the verge of acquiring a nuclear capability. He was not. Lony after the invasion of Iraq began, our teams were scouring possible sites for weapons of mass destruction. Finally, last January, 21 months after the invasion, the search was called off all together.

As Hans Blix, the former chief U.N. weapons inspector, said in a lecture last month, the United States preferred “to believe in faith based intelligence.”

Today, American forces continue to serve bravely and with great honor in Iraq. But the war in Iraq has made it more likely—not less likely—that we will face terrorist attacks in American cities, and not just on the streets of Baghdad. The war has clearly made the U.S. government less safe and less secure. It has made the war against al-Qaida harder to win.

As CIA Director Porter Goss told the Senate Intelligence Committee on February 16, we have created a breeding ground for terrorists in Iraq and a worldwide cause for the continuing recruitment of anti-American extremists.

He said:

The Iraq conflict, while not a cause of extremism, is a cause for extremists . . . Islamic extremists are exploiting the Iraqi conflict to recruit new anti-U.S. jihadists . . . These jihadists who survive will leave Iraq, experience in and focused on acts of urban terrorism. They represent a potential pool of contacts to build transnational terrorist cells, groups, and networks throughout the world.

Three and a half years after the 9/11 attacks, al-Qaida is still the gravest threat to our national security, and the war in Iraq has ominously given al-Qaida new recruits, new targets, and new opportunities to attack us.

According to CIA Director Goss, “al-Qaida is intent on finding ways to circumvent U.S. security enhancements to strike Americans and the homeland.”

Admiral James Loy, Deputy Secretary of Homeland Security, also warned the Intelligence Committee about the threat from al-Qaida. He said, “We believe that attacking the homeland is at the top of al-Qaida’s operational priority list . . . We believe that their intent remains strong for attempting another major operation here.”

The danger was also emphasized by Robert Mueller, the FBI Director, who told the Intelligence Committee, “The threat posed by international terrorism, and in particular from al-Qaida and related groups, continues to be the gravest we face.” He said, “al-Qaida continues to adapt and move forward with the capability to attack the United States using any means at its disposal. Their intent to attack us at home remains—and their resolve to destroy America has never faltered.”

In addition to taking the focus off the real war on terror—the war against al-Qaida—the war in Iraq has cost us greatly in human terms.

Since the invasion began, we have lost more than 1500 servicemen and women. More than 11,500 have been wounded. That’s the equivalent of a full Army division, and we only have 10 active divisions in the entire army. Despite recent progress, since the Iraqi elections in January we have still lost more than one soldier a day.

We need to train the Iraqis for the stability of Iraq. But we also need to train them because our current level of deployment is not sustainable. Our military has been stretched to the breaking point, with threats in other parts of the world ever-present.

As the Defense Science Board told Secretary Rumsfeld last September, “Current and projected force structure will not sustain our current and projected global stabilization commitments.”

LTG John Riggs said it clearly: “I have been in the Army 39 years, and I’ve never seen the Army as stretched in that 39 years as I have today.” A full 32 percent of our military has already served two or more tours of duty in Iraq or Afghanistan. That fact makes it harder for us to respond to threats elsewhere in the world.

The war has also undermined the Guard and Reserve. Forty percent of the troops in Iraq are Guard or Reservists, and we are running out of available soldiers who can be deployed.

The average tour for reservists recalled to active duty is now 320 days, close to a year. In the first Gulf War, it was 156 days; in Bosnia and Kosovo, 200 days. In December, General James Helmley, the head of the Army Reserves warned that the Reserve “is rapidly degenerating into a ‘broken’ force” and “is in grave danger of being unable to meet other operational requirements.”

The families of our military, Guard and Reserves are also suffering. Troops in Iraq are under an order that prevents them ever from leaving active duty when their term of service is over. A survey by the Defense Department of the families of our military, Guard and Reserves warned that the Reserve “is rapidly degenerating into a ‘broken’ force” and “is in grave danger of being unable to meet other operational requirements.”

The families of our military, Guard and Reserves are also suffering. Troops in Iraq are under an order that prevents them ever from leaving active duty when their term of service is over.

A survey by the Defense Department last May found that reservists, their spouses, their families, and their employers are less supportive now of their remaining in the military than they were a year ago.

The war has clearly undermined the Pentagon’s ability to attract new recruits and retain those already serving. In March, the Army fell short of its recruiting goal by a full 32 percent. Every month this year, the Marines have missed their recruiting goal. The last time that happened was July 1985.

The Army Reserves are being hit especially hard. In March, it missed a recruiting goal by almost half, falling short by 46 percent.

To deal with its recruiting problems, the Army National Guard has increased retention bonuses from $5,000 to $15,000 and first-time signing bonuses from $6000 to $10,000. The Pentagon has raised the maximum age for Army National Guard recruits from 34 to 39. Without these changes, according to General Steven Blum, Chief of the Army National Guard, “The Guard will be broken and not ready the next time it’s needed, either here at home or for war.”

We all hope for the best in Iraq. We all want democracy to take root firmly and irrevocably.

Our men and women in uniform, and the American people deserve to know that the President has a strategy for success. They want to know how long it will take to train the Iraqi security forces to ably defend their own country so American men and women will no longer have to do it. They want to know when they will have achieved our mission, and when our soldiers will be able to come home with dignity and honor.

At a March 1 hearing in the Senate Armed Services Committee, General Abizaid, the leader of the Central Command, gave the clearest indication so far about when our mission might end. General Abizaid said, “I believe that in 2005, the most important statement that we should be able to make is that in the majority of the country, Iraqi security forces will take the lead in fighting the counterinsurgency. That is our goal.”

Speaking about the capabilities of the Iraqi security forces, General Abizaid said, “I think in 2005 they’ll take on the majority of the tasks necessary to be done.” That’s this year.

On March 27, General Casey, commanding General of the Multi-National Forces in Iraq, said that this time next year . . . assuming that the political process continues to go positively . . . and the Iraqi army continues to progress and develop as we think it will, we should be able to take some further substantial reductions in the size of our forces.”

Our troops are clearly still needed to deal with the insurgency. Just as clearly, we need an effective training program to enable the Iraqis to be self-reliant.

But there is wide agreement that the presence of American troops fuels the insurgency. If the Iraqis make significant progress this year, it is perfectly logical to expect that more American troops will be able to come home.

Shortly after the elections in Iraq in January, the administration announced that 15,000 American troops that were added to provide security for the elections would return.

Additional reductions in our military presence, as Iraqis are trained to take over those functions, would clearly help take the American face off the occupation and send a clearer signal to the Iraqi people that we have no long-term designs on our designs on their country.

In US News and World Report in February, General Abizaid emphasized this basic point. He said “An overbearing presence, or a larger than acceptable footprint in the region, works against you . . . The first thing you say to yourself is that you have to have the local people help themselves.”

Deputy Secretary Wolfowitz stated in a hearing at the Senate Armed Services Committee on February 3, “I have talked to some of our commanders in the area. They believe that over the course of the next six months you will see whole areas of Iraq successfully handed over to the Iraqi army and Iraqi police.’ Today 2 of those 6 months have passed, and all of us hope that we are on track to meet his goal.

Before the election in Iraq in January, the administration repeatedly stated that 14 of the 18 provinces in Iraq are safe. We heard a similar view in a briefing from Ambassador Negroponte earlier this year.

If some areas can soon be turned over to the Iraqis, as Secretary Wolfowitz indicated, it should be done. It would be a powerful signal to the Iraqi people that the United States is not planning a permanent occupation of their country. If entire areas are being turned over to the Iraqis, we should be able to bring more American troops home.

We know the road ahead will be difficult, because the violence is far from ended.

The President’s commitment to keeping American troops in Iraq as long as it takes and not a day longer is not enough for our soldiers and their loved ones. We deserve a clearer indication of what lies ahead, and so do the American people.

President Bush should be able to tell us how much progress—how much real progress—we are making in training the Iraqi forces. Our amendment asks for specific information on that progress, if it’s happening.

President Bush should be able to tell us how many American soldiers he expects will still be in Iraq 6 months from now, 12 months from now.

General Abizaid and other military officials have begun to provide clarification of that very important issue, and I hope the President will as well.

Our amendment contributes significantly to that goal, and I urge my colleagues to support it.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Michigan is recognized.

Mr. President, I rise to support the amendment Senator Kennedy has addressed, which was introduced by Senator Durbin. It represents an effort to obtain information that is critically important to the American people in reaching a judgment, critically important to the Congress in reaching a judgment, critically important, I believe, to our military leaders, first and foremost, in reaching a judgment as to how quickly we can remove forces from Iraq.

It is everybody’s interest that we succeed in Iraq. Some of us who were highly critical of the way we went into Iraq—more unilaterally than we should have, without the support of any Muslim nation, making our presence a Western occupation of a Muslim nation, with all of the problems that unleashes, and many of us who have been critical of the way in which the Iraqi army was disbanded unilaterally, without much thought, and the way in which we did not have a plan for a Multinational Force. We want the way in which we didn’t listen to our military leaders in terms of the need to prepare for the possibility of the violent aftermath. All of us, those of us who were critics and those of us who were supporters, now have a common interest in Iraq and have had, once the decision was made to go into Iraq, and that is that we succeed in Iraq.

Success in Iraq requires that the Iraqis take over their own defense and their own security. This amendment will help give us a roadmap toward understanding how long it will take, what is necessary, what the cost will be for the Iraqis to take over their own security, their own defense, their own forces. It asks for information on the reduction in our American forces, and then to our ultimate departure from Iraq, and the key to it is how quickly we can turn over to Iraq their own security.

This amendment sets forth a number of reporting requirements, which will help us to make a judgment as to how quickly that can be done, which will help the American people to understand there is a strategy here, there are markers along the road we are on that give us a sense of how many we are achieving that essential security and, more importantly, whether the Iraqis are achieving that essential security for themselves.

Two things are going to be necessary here for that to be achieved. One is to secure the area and the other is a political accommodation between the people in Iraq—people who have different religious beliefs, different ethnic backgrounds, people who are now going to have to put themselves together to form a nation.

In terms of the training of Iraqi troops, we have very different estimates over the months, and it is very difficult for us in Congress and for the American people to make a judgment as to how quickly we are going to be able to reduce our presence in Iraq—a presence which has fueled the insurgency against us, which is used as a propaganda tool against us, because we are an occupying force in a Muslim nation. The longer we stay there, the more troops we have there, the more we play into the hands of those who want to destroy us and destroy the hopes of Iraqis for a nation.

I want to give a few examples of the discrepancies in the characterization of the ability of the Iraqis to protect and defend themselves. Back in September of last year, President Bush said the following:

"Nearly 100,000 fully trained—I emphasize fully trained—equipped Iraq soldiers, police officers, and other security personnel are working today."

But then George Casey, our commander of the multinational force in Iraq, in January said the following: "When Prime Minister Allawi took office in June of 2004, he had one deployable battalion. Today, he has 40. When you multiply 40 battalions that are deployable with the number of just one, that comes out to approximately 30,000 personnel."

So when General Casey spoke in January, months after President Bush told us there were 100,000 fully trained and equipped Iraqi soldiers, there were still but 30,000 personnel in Iraq who were deployable.

This is what General Myers said in February: "There are about 40,000 Iraqis in the police and military battalions of the Iraqis, 40,000 that can ‘go anywhere in the country and take on almost any threat.’"

That is a very different impression than is given by the weekly status reports we get from the administration. This is the State Department’s most recent weekly status report as to what they call trained-and-equipped Iraqi forces—152,000 this week.

There are not 152,000 Iraqi forces capable of taking on insurgents. If we are lucky, the number is about one-third of that. But we have to know two numbers, not just one, not just the weekly State Department number as to how many people are trained and equipped, but how many of those people are sufficiently trained and equipped so they can take on the insurgency. That is the critical number—how many are capable militarily of taking on insurgents.

I will give one other example of the discrepancy of the characterization of the capability of Iraqi forces.

When this supplemental in front of us was provided to us in February, this is what the supplemental represented to us: That 89 of the 90 battalions of Iraqi security forces that have been fielded—89 of 90—are ‘lightly equipped and armed and have very limited mobility and sustainment capabilities.’ That is about 95 percent plus of the Iraqi security forces today, according to the supplemental request; 95 percent are lightly equipped and armed and have limited mobility and sustainment. How different that is from the most recent weekly report we just received of 152,000 troops.

It is essential, it is critically important, no matter what one’s views of the way we went into Iraq, no matter how well it has been since we went in—no matter how pessimistic or optimistic one is, no matter how critical or positive one is, in terms of the operations and the way they were planned or not planned and the decision to go in as we did, we must have numbers, we must have estimates, which this amendment would require in regular reports, as to what the capabilities are of the Iraqi forces.

We need two numbers. We need that total number; 152,000, but we need the number of Iraqi forces that are capable of taking on the insurgents: How many are deployable? How many have real mobility and sustainment capabilities? How many are well trained and equipped so they can take on the insurgents?

That number is critical to Iraq. It is critical to Americans. Americans have the right to know the information this amendment requires be provided in regular reports.

I have one other comment before I yield the floor. In addition to the security requirements that must be met so we can say that our involvement in Iraq has been a success, there must be a political accommodation. That political accommodation in many ways is more complicated than the military situation. We need people who now distrust each other, people who have defended the other side these decades, to now come together politically and to work out a new constitution which will protect the rights of minorities in Iraq. We have a major group in Iraq, the Shi’a, who is different as the dictatorship of the minor part of the Shi’a, the people who were around Saddam Hussein. So the Shi’a community needs to accommodate themselves to a significant protection for a Sunni minority, and that Sunni minority must get used to the fact, the reality, the Shi’as are the majority of Iraqis, and they have elected a majority of members who are going to be present in the Iraqi Assembly. Of course, there is the yearning of the Kurds for significant autonomy. All that needs to be put together.

It is a very complicated equation for that to happen. As we hopefully achieve some success on the security side, we must keep a very wary eye open as to what is happening or not happening on the political side of the challenge in Iraq.

The constitution will be written by a commission which will be selected by an assembly which is now in place. That assembly will have its Prime Minister within the next few days and will then be able to select a constitutional commission which will write a constitution. That commission needs to reflect the Iraqi people, not the makeup of the assembly which has much too small a majority of Sunni’s, and the fact they did not vote. But the Shi’a majority needs to be wise enough, in selecting the commission that will write the constitution, to have a broadly representative commission that will write a constitution that is protective of the minorities in Iraq, that will guarantee majority rights, of course, but that in any decent nation will protect the minority as well.

That is the challenge they face. They are suppose to meet this challenge by August. They will not do that, obviously. They have a 6-month extension beyond that where they must write a constitution. Getting that constitution written is a major challenge, and anything we can do to facilitate that, it seems to me, would be very wise, indeed.

We have two challenges, one of which is addressed in the amendment before us relative to Iraqi security and the progress they are hopefully making, to give us the information that is important for a judgment to which the American people, the Congress, and our uniformed military are entitled from this administration. I hope this has broad support and the Senate adopts the Durbin amendment.

I thank the Chair, and I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Virginia.

AMENDMENT NO. 387

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. President, I rise today to speak in support of an amendment that my good friend from Maryland, Senator MIKULSKI, and I and a number of other Senators have offered, and which does have bipartisan support. It has to do with the H-2B visa program.

Small businesses all over our Nation count on the H-2B visa program to keep their businesses operating. Many use this program year after year because it is the only way they can legally hire temporary or seasonal positions when no American workers are available. These companies hire all the Americans they can find, and they do look for American workers. But if they cannot find them, they need to get additional seasonal help, they need to find workers to meet the demands of their businesses and, indeed, to stay in business. These businesses are in construction, seafood, yard services, tourism and other season enterprises.

Congress has capped the H-2B visa program at 66,000 visas per year. That makes no sense since this visa category was initially capped in 1990. So since 1990 the visa cap has been 66,000. However, during those years, and here we are 15 years later, there are a variety of factors that have hampered U.S. employers from having the ability to find and hire more willing American workers for short-term positions. The shortages occur for a variety of reasons. It is actually getting much worse because Americans are unwilling to engage in low-skilled, semi-skilled physical jobs. In most instances, Americans are unwilling to relocate to a new location for several months out of the year, a move that many of these short-term jobs require. That is logical. People aren’t going to want to move for 3 or 4 months and then move back to another place.

According to the Department of Homeland Security, the H-2B cap of 66,000 was reached a few months into the fiscal year. This is the second year in a row that the cap has been reached this early. You may wonder why we are reaching the cap at such an early stage. What is the problem? Under current law employers cannot file an H-2B application until 120 days before they need the employee. Therefore, the H-2B program puts businesses whose peaks are in the summer and in the autumn at a disadvantage because the Citizenship and Immigration Services cannot process their applications until at least January or February, since these jobs start around Memorial Day. Therefore, if the cap is reached in January and February, as it was in the last several years, these employers who rely on seasonal workers are clearly put at a disadvantage.

I have heard from these employers. One of our most important jobs that I have as a Senator is to listen to people out there in the real world, to see what are the effects of certain policies and see these are ways to allow them in the free enterprise system, particularly small businesses, to continue to operate. I do listen to my constituents. My constituents have clearly voiced their concerns about the H-2B program and have asked for help. I think it is important that we respond.

I will give some examples of what is going on. There is a company called WEMOW. WEMOW is a landscaping design and lawn maintenance company in Blacksburg, VA. This company relies heavily on the H-2B program, and sadly they have had to cut back on services they can provide because of the lack of a workforce to meet that demand. Christopher Via, who is the owner of that company, has written to me. I will quote from his letter. He said:

While my company spends considerable time and money to recruit U.S. workers, the positions we need to fill are hot, labor intensive and physically exhausting, the semi-skilled jobs that many Americans do not want to fill. Therefore, our ability to meet seasonal demand and stay in business relies on finding temporary workers. H-2B workers have proven critical in filling this need.

Of course, they are late in the season, so therefore they do not get the workers they could to meet those needs.

Another letter I received is from a company in Yorktown. Yorktown is a very famous tourism area. Stephen C. Barrs, the president of C.A. Barrs Contractor, Inc., wrote:

While our company recruits U.S. workers, our company and our industry as a whole have been unable to find American workers. We have presented evidence to the Department of Labor that there are no U.S. workers available to fill our vacant positions. Our company employs approximately 100 people, and we specialize in road construction. The H-2B program provides foreign employees who have proven tremendous employees. We have relied on the H-2B program for 15 years and find this program invaluable. Once our season ends, our H-2B workers return home. This is more a small business issue than an immigration issue. We fear this program is in jeopardy, and if it is cut in any way, our small businesses will sustain a very damaging loss.

These are two of hundreds of letters I have received from small businesses all across Virginia, asking for our immediate help. Our amendment does that. It provides an immediate legislative remedy that helps these businesses get part-time seasonal workers.

Before I get into the details of what this amendment does, I want to clearly outline what this amendment does not do. I first want to stress that this amendment in no way changes the existing requirements for applying for an H-2B visa. U.S. employers must demonstrate to the Department of Labor that there are no available U.S. workers to fill vacant seasonal positions. Subsequently, they must obtain an approved labor certification from the U.S. Department of Labor, file a visa petition application with the Citizenship and Immigration Service for H-2B workers, and obtain approved H-2B visas for workers in their home countries.

With that understanding, I would like to outline what this amendment does effectuate. Specifically, our amendment would exempt temporary seasonal workers who have participated in the H-2B visa program, and have not violated the law during the past 3 fiscal years from counting toward the statutory cap of 66,000.

Second, this amendment has a number of new antifraud provisions. One such provision requires employers to pay an additional fee of $150 on each H-2B petition, and those fees are placed into the fraud and prevention detection account of the U.S. Treasury.

Third, this amendment creates new sanctions for those who misrepresent facts for an H-2B visa. This provision is designed to further strengthen the Department of Homeland Security’s enforcement power to sanction those who violate our Nation’s immigration laws. If an employer violates this section, the Department of Homeland Security will have the power to fine the individual employer and/or not approve, of course, their H-2B petitions.

Fourth, moreover, the amendment divides the temporary equitably, giving half of the visas to fall and winter businesses and half to spring and summer businesses. So you do not get into this whole gaming situation of when do the applications get in, and end up with a frustrating disruption at the end of the year.

Finally, this amendment adds some simple, commonsense reporting requirements that will allow Congress to get more information on the H-2B program. Congress move to a more comprehensive, long-term solution to this problem.

Our amendment provides the needed temporary addressing and the fix that is needed to a problem that, if left unresolved, will ultimately harm our economy. Jobs will be lost, whether they are in landscaping, whether they are in seafood, whether they are in contracting, whether they are in tourism. These are all small businesses. They are good, law-abiding citizens. They are tried and true. They followed the law during the past 3 fiscal years from counting toward the statutory cap of 66,000.

Second, this amendment has a number of new antifraud provisions. One such provision requires employers to pay an additional fee of $150 on each H-2B petition, and those fees are placed into the fraud and prevention detection account of the U.S. Treasury.

Mr. SALAZAR. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the pending amendments be set aside.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

I thank the Chair. I yield the floor.

Mr. SALAZAR. Mr. President, before commenting on this amendment, I wish to take a minute to thank the chairmanship and ranking member, Senators COCHRAN and BYRD, for all their hard work on this important bill. I am especially appreciative of the help and support they have offered this Senator on two amendments.

They and their staffs have been helpful as we try to ensure that the brave Lebanese people who stood up to their Syrian occupiers know we are here to support them. Everyone would make a down payment on a commitment to help ensure they have the free and fair elections and strong and vibrant democracy they have earned. I want especially to thank the staffs of Senators MCCONNELL and LEAHY for the help on the Lebanon amendment.

I am also hopeful that we will be able to fix something that I have considered an injustice since I came to the Senate earlier this year. The assistance we provide to military families in the event of a loss of their family member is referred to as the “death gratuity.” That is a misnomer, and I am hopeful that we will be able to correct that by renaming this assistance as something more fitting, namely, “Fallen Hero Compensation.”

Regarding the amendment I have just sent to the desk, it is quite simple. It clearly states our support for the earned income tax credit, especially because this program benefits working families and a large amount of our active duty military personnel.

Given that we are considering a bill that provides critical support to our troops and their families and that later this week many millions of Americans will be filing their taxes, I believe this amendment needed to be heard on this bill this week.

The EITC was first enacted in 1975 to aid the working poor. According to an analysis released just this week by a highly respected, non-partisan institute in Denver, the Bell Policy Center, in the past year, more than 150,000 active duty military personnel nationwide qualified for the EITC. In my State of Colorado alone, over 3,000 members of the military qualified for the EITC.

The EITC has long enjoyed bipartisan support because the credit is extended only to families that have work income. Most recently, under the leadership of Senator MARK PRYOR, this body overwhelmingly approved the expansion of the EITC to more military families.

That is as it should be . . . given all that these families give for our country, it is the least the country can do for them.

Now, however, it appears that this effective program that has lifted over 2.7 million children above the poverty level they are coming under attack.

Recently the House of Representatives indicated that it is considering cutting the EITC in its budget reconciliation. Such cuts, if enacted by the full Congress, could lead to higher taxes for many of our military families. This is not fair and this is not right. At a time when many of our military personnel are overseas and when our nation needs them have been called up at historic rates, we should be providing for our men and women in uniform. We should not be taking away from them and placing them at a greater financial disadvantage.

I hope this will be heard loudly and clearly that this is not the right thing to do. Our troops and their families deserve no less.

I urge my Senate colleagues to reject any cuts to the EITC.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Tennessee.

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. President, I thank the Senator from Colorado. In fact, I rise to discuss an individual who the Senator from Colorado referred to when we were part of a bipartisan delegation led by the Democratic leader, HARRY REID, a couple of weeks ago. On that trip, we visited a number of countries—Kuwait, Iraq, Israel, France, Germany and the Palestinian territory. We saw a number of emerging democracies. It made me think of what our own country might have been like more than 200 years ago. We visited with two men who were named Prime Minister and Speaker of the Iraqi Parliament, a Westernizing gia, we saw the young government. Many of them were educated here in the United States as students. When we went to Ukraine, we met Mr. Yuschenko and some of the students who had been part of this revolution. What we saw was very impressive, as were those people we were introduced to.

But from my way of thinking, there was no one more impressive than the Finance Minister of the Palestinian Authority, Salam Fayyad, who instituted a number of reforms to fight corruption and bring transparency to the finances of that Authority.

This remarkable individual was born Palestinian, and his family fled the West Bank for Jordan in 1968. He studied at the American University in Beirut. He later received a Ph.D. in economics from the University of Texas at Austin. He worked for the Federal Reserve in St. Louis and the International Monetary Fund in Washington, DC. He became the IMF representative to the Palestinian Authority and moved to Jerusalem in 1995. Then, in 2002, he was named Finance Minister of the Palestinian Authority. What is remarkable is that all of us either know or suspect that when Arafat was in power, there was gross corruption with the moneys that came into Palestine. Mr. Fayyad has done the following things: He centralized control over the Palestinian Authority’s finances. Previously, agencies had collected the money and kept it. That meant, for example, that education was poorly funded since it collected little money. Mr. Fayyad forced all the incoming funds to be put into the general treasury and disbursed by the Finance Minister.

The next thing he did was direct deposits for the soldiers because they get their pay on time, and the government is sure the money is going where it should. The soldiers and the government both know the money is not going to somebody who didn’t earn it.

Public budgeting: He issued the first publicly detailed budget for the Authority, which totaled about $1.28 billion. The Ministry now issues public monthly reports of the government’s financial status.

Eliminate graft: Due to his efforts, revenue of the Palestinian Authority is up from $45 million to $75 million, largely because money that was skimmed off the top in the past is going into the treasury where it belongs. I am not just saying this today because I was given the opportunity to talk to Mr. Fayyad, who, in taking these steps, has shown a great deal of courage. I am sure there are a good number of people in the Palestinian territory who were skimming money off the top and are not going to be happy with him now. I am bringing this up today because it has to do with a vote we are about to take here in the Senate.

The bill before us, the supplemental appropriations bill, provides $200 million of the President’s request for aid to the Palestinian territories. There is another $150 million in the normal budgeting process. Unlike the House version of this supplemental appropriation bill, our version—the Senate version as it is coming to us—preserves the President’s waiver authority that would allow him to designate a portion of those funds as he sees fit by the use of the Palestinian Authority. I believe that policy—the Senate policy—is the right policy. In other words, our policy would permit our President, President Bush, to decide that Mr. Fayyad and the government of the Palestinian Authority could properly spend this money. Some people are saying they stole money over there before. Yes they did. Yasser Arafat is dead and buried. It is time to make a new start.

The Finance Minister has made great strides to ensure that funds are publicly accountable. We will be able to keep track of where our taxpayer money goes. The Palestinian Authority needs some money. There is no poorer part of the world than the Gaza Strip. Someone has to provide security in the Gaza Strip. We look to the Palestinian Authority to do that, and I am sure they will pull it out. Someone has to provide a social services safety net for these poor people so they are not tempted to join with the terrorists. We look to the Palestinian Authority to do that.

Why in the world would we keep our President from making the decision that would give the money to the Palestinian Authority, which is the group we are counting on to provide security and to provide the social safety net?

Nongovernment agriculture organizations can provide valuable help in support of what the Palestinian Authority is doing. If we are going to work closely with the Palestinian Authority, and are going to expect them to be accountable for keeping things safe and providing a basic level of social services so people are able to eat, we should deal directly with them. At the very least we should give the President of the United States the authority, as the Senate bill does, to deal directly with the Palestinian Authority.

I am happy with what our Committee on Appropriations has done. I disagree with what the House of Representatives has done, and I suppose the matter will go to conference. I hope in the conference the Senators will insist on the Senate provision, and I hope our House Members will keep in mind about giving our President the discretion to give the money to the Government that we are going to hold accountable.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. ALEXANDER). The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mrs. CLINTON. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mrs. CLINTON. Mr. President, my colleague from South Carolina, Senator LINDSEY GRAHAM, and I came to the floor this afternoon to speak about the necessity of expanding TRICARE for National Guard members and reservists. I especially thank Senator GRAHAM for his hard work and advocacy on behalf of this legislation.

Almost 2 years ago exactly, in the spring of 2003, Senator GRAHAM and I joined at the Reserve Officers Association building to announce the first version of this legislation. In the intervening years, we have made a great deal of progress in expanding access to TRICARE, the military health program. But we agree there is still a long way to go.

We recently discovered our proposed legislation to ensure that National Guard and Reserve members have access to the military health program known as TRICARE does not have a cost this year, so it was not appropriated. This is the same as to this to the supplemental appropriations bill that is currently on the floor. But we are extremely hopeful we will be able to include legislation in this year’s Defense authorization bill. Because Senator GRAHAM and I serve on the Armed Services Committee, we have heard firsthand, as have many of my colleagues, about the extraordinary strain being placed on our Guard and Reserve Forces. We are well aware that a major part of our military success in Iraq and Afghanistan has been because of the role played by reservists and Guard members who heeded the call to serve when not called for, not once, not twice, but three times in Iraq and/or Afghanistan.

Since September 11, our reservists and National Guard members have been called upon with increasing frequency. From homeland security missions where they were absolutely essential in New York after 9/11, National Guard men and women patrolled and guarded our subways, the Amtrak lines in Penn Station, other places of importance. We have seen in so many other instances where they were called to duty here in our own homeland. We also know they have paid the ultimate sacrifice, losing their lives in serving the missions they were called to fulfill in Iraq and Afghanistan or being grievously wounded and returning home, having given their all to our country.

In New York we have over 30,000 members of the Guard and Reserves, and over 4,000 are currently deployed in support of the Iraq mission. When I have visited with our activated reservists and National Guard in New York, I have been greatly impressed by their willingness and even eagerness, in some cases, to serve. But I have also heard them say they fear for their families who have borne, that their businesses have endured. It is abundantly clear we are having some difficulty in recruitment and retention of the Guard and Reserve because of the extraordinary stresses being placed on these very dedicated individuals. More than ever, we need to address the needs of our Guard and Reserve members. The general of the Army Reserves, General Helmy, has expressed concern about whether we are going to be able to meet our needs for the Reserve component.

The legislation Senator Graham and I have been working on for 2 years is bipartisan. It is not a party issue. It is a core American issue. Our TRICARE legislation allows Guard and Reserve members the option of enrolling full time in TRICARE, getting the family health insurance coverage that is offered to active-duty military personnel. The change would offer health care coverage that is of considerable benefit. In fact, one of the most shocking statistics was that about 15 percent of our active-duty Guard and Reserve members had the health care problem, but the numbers were particularly high for the Guard and Reserve because so many of these—primarily but not exclusively—young people either had jobs which didn’t offer health insurance or worked for themselves and could not afford health insurance. So when they were activated and reported, they were not medically ready to be deployed. This is not simply the right thing to do; this is part of our military readiness necessity.

The legislation addresses these critical issues. I am very grateful for Senator Graham’s leadership and the support of so many in this body. He and I serve on the Armed Services Committee and have had the privilege of working with Senator Warner and Ranking Member Levin and the rest of the Armed Services Committee to get our TRICARE legislation authorized in this year’s Department of Defense authorization bill.

My bill would address the main questions of cost that obviously have to be addressed. I don’t think you can put a price on the military service these men and women have given our country. When I was in Iraq a couple of weeks ago, I was struck by how many men I saw with white hair. I think I was surprised there were so many people in their fifties, late fifties, who had been called back to active duty, members of the Individual Readiness Reserve. The men I spoke with had flown combat missions in Iraq twice they were again, having left their families, left their employment, their homes, and doing their duty in Baghdad or Fallujah or Kirkuk and so many other places of danger.

We have an all-volunteer military. That all-volunteer military has to be given not only the respect it so deserves but the support and the resources it has earned.

I am hopeful we will have unanimous support in both the Armed Services Committee to add this legislation, that we will have support from the administration and, in an overwhelming vote in both Houses of Congress, not give lip-service and rhetorical pats on the back to our Guard and Reserve members but show them in a tangible way that we appreciate and respect their service and we understand the strains they are living under and often their families are suffering under. One small way to show that appreciation is to make sure once and for all that they and their families have access to health care.

It is a great pleasure to be working with Senator Graham, and I look forward to successfully ensuring that this legislation is once and for all enacted, first in the Armed Services Committee and then on the floor of the Senate.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from South Carolina.

Mr. GRAHAM. Mr. President, I will take up where my colleague left off. Before she leaves the floor, I acknowledge what a pleasure it has been to work with her and other members of the Democratic Party and the Republican Party to do something for our Guard and Reserve Forces. She has outlined very well what we are trying to do. It shows what can happen when the body will come together on an issue that should move us all. Whether you are Republican or Democrat or independent, this war affects us all. No one asked the young men and women fighting the war their party identification or affiliation or their political background when they went off to serve our Nation.

The least we can do as a body is stand behind them and their families to provide a benefit they need. This is the biggest utilization of the Guard and Reserve since World War II. The skill set they bring to the fight is indispensable. There are civil affairs people helping Afghan and Iraqi officials build and run a democracy. We have 175,000 people today who have experienced duty in this war from the Guard and Reserve. Forty percent of the people in Iraq and Afghanistan are guardsmen and reservists. We could not fight without them.

The men I spoke with had flown combat missions in Iraq twice they were again, having left their families, left their employment, their homes, and doing their duty in Baghdad or Fallujah or Kirkuk and so many other places of danger.

We have an all-volunteer military. That all-volunteer military has to be given not only the respect it so deserves but the support and the resources it has earned.

I am hopeful we will have unanimous support in both the Armed Services Committee to add this legislation, that we will have support from the administration and, in an overwhelming vote in both Houses of Congress, not give lip-service and rhetorical pats on the back to our Guard and Reserve members but show them in a tangible way that we appreciate and respect their service and we understand the strains they are living under and often their families are suffering under. One small way to show that appreciation is to make sure once and for all that they and their families have access to health care.

It is a great pleasure to be working with Senator Graham, and I look forward to successfully ensuring that this legislation is once and for all enacted, first in the Armed Services Committee and then on the floor of the Senate.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from South Carolina.

Mr. GRAHAM. Mr. President, I will take up where my colleague left off. Before she leaves the floor, I acknowledge what a pleasure it has been to work with her and other members of the Democratic Party and the Republican Party to do something for our Guard and Reserve Forces. She has outlined very well what we are trying to do. It shows what can happen when the body will come together on an issue that should move us all. Whether you are Republican or Democrat or independent, this war affects us all. No one asked the young men and women fighting the war their party identification or affiliation or their political background when they went off to serve our Nation.

The least we can do as a body is stand behind them and their families to provide a benefit they need. This is the biggest utilization of the Guard and Reserve since World War II. The skill set they bring to the fight is indispensable. There are civil affairs people helping Afghan and Iraqi officials build and run a democracy. We have 175,000 people today who have experienced duty in this war from the Guard and Reserve. Forty percent of the people in Iraq and Afghanistan are guardsmen and reservists. We could not fight without them.

This is the biggest utilization of the Guard and Reserve since World War II. The skill set they bring to the fight is indispensable. There are civil affairs people helping Afghan and Iraqi officials build and run a democracy. We have 175,000 people today who have experienced duty in this war from the Guard and Reserve. Forty percent of the people in Iraq and Afghanistan are guardsmen and reservists. We could not fight without them.
How long you will be gone and when you are coming home matters in terms of recruiting and retention. Sixty-eight percent of the Army Reserve’s goal is being met in recruiting. The Guard and Active Forces are suffering in recruiting because there has taken a significant toll because this war has taken a toll. The more attractive the benefit package is, the more we can appreciate the service, the more likely we are to get the good people and recruit patriotic Americans.

What this legislation is designed to do is fill in that gap and solve the problem that faces the Guard and Reserve families, and that is lack of health care. Every Reserve component chief says that when they talk to the troops, the one thing that means the most to them, on top of every other request, is continuity of health care. So we are proposing a benefit for the Guard and Reserve that they will have to pay for, but we will allow, for the first time, Guard and Reserve members to sign up for TRICARE, the military health care system, like their Active-Duty counterparts have, with one major difference: they will have to pay a premium, unless they are called to active duty, similar to what we pay as Federal employees.

I believe that is a fair compromise. It will allow uninsured guardsmen and reservists to have health care at an affordable price. It will allow people who have uneven health care in the private sector to get constant health care. We will have a system where people, when they are called to active duty, will have the same set of doctors and hospitals that service the family as when they are in the Guard and Reserve status. We think it desperately will help recruiting and retention and readiness, and it will make people ready for the fight.

We have worked on the costs. We are looking at cutting the cost of the program in half by requiring a slightly higher premium from the force and offering TRICARE standard versus TRICARE prime. I believe it fiscally makes sense but still achieves the goal of the original legislation of providing continuity of health care.

The reason we are not offering the amendment on the supplemental is that because of the cost saving we have achieved in redesigning the program, there is no cost to be incurred in 2005. We are working with the chairman of the Armed Services Committee to go ahead and offer a full-time military health care benefit to guardsmen and reservists that they can sign up for, to give them continuity of care at a fair premium. It is a good deal for all concerned. The reason we are doing this is obvious: We are utilizing the Guard and Reserve in a historic fashion. If we don’t change the benefit structure, we are going to drive historic fashion. If we don’t change the benefit structure, we are going to drive historic fashion. If we don’t change the benefit structure, we are going to drive historic fashion. If we don’t change the benefit structure, we are going to drive historic fashion.

The last fact I will leave with you is this: We talked to the Reserve commander yesterday about the utilization of the Air Reserves. Fifty percent of the people flying airplanes in terms of transport into the theater of operation and servicing the theater of operation are either a Guard or a Reserve crew. I have been to Iraq 3 times now, and I have flown about 16 or 17 flights on a C-130 from Kuwait into Iraq and Afghanistan. Every crew except one have been a Reserve or Guard crew.

There is a rule in the Air Force that a Guard or Reserve member cannot be deployed involuntarily for more than 24 months. That rule has served the force well because it takes stress off the force, it keeps people gainfully employed because if you are gone all the time, it is hard to keep a civilian job. So we put a cap of 24 months of involuntary service into the theater of operations, into the war zone.

What astonished me was that two-thirds of the pilots and the aircrews in the Guard and Reserve have already reached that mark. Two-thirds of those who serve in the Guard and Reserve have already met their 2-year involuntary commitment.

The fact that keeps this war afloat is that they are volunteering to go back. Legally we cannot make them go back, but they are volunteering to keep flying. And God bless them because two-thirds of 50 percent statutorily do not have to go to this fight. They choose to go to this fight. This benefit package is a recognition of that commitment.

I am very optimistic—to all those Guard and Reserve families who may be listening today—that help is on the way, that this body is going to rise to the occasion, and we are going to improve your health care benefits because you earned it.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from West Virginia.

AMENDMENT NO. 430

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, in every year since 1951, Congress has included a provision in the General Government Appropriations Act which states the following:

No part of any appropriation contained in this or in any other act shall be used for publicity or propaganda purposes within the United States nor heretofore authorized by Congress.

I am quoting from section 624 of Public Law 108–447.

This is the law of the land, and yet despite the law, the Congress and the American people continue to hear about propaganda efforts by executive branch agencies. On more than one occasion, this administration has provided tax dollars to well-known conservative talk show hosts to promote its agenda. One was paid a hefty fee to promote the No Child Left Behind Act. Another talk show host was paid to promote the administration’s welfare and family policies.

If those examples are not bad enough, in an effort to blur the line between... independent media and administration propaganda, some agencies have produced prepackaged news stories designed to be indistinguishable from news stories produced by free market news outlets.

According to the Government Accountability Office, the GAO, which is an arm of the Congress, in an opinion dated February 17, 2005, the administration has violated the prohibition on publicity and propaganda. In a memorandum sent to executive branch agencies, the GAO specifically cited the Office of National Drug Control Policy and the Department of Health and Human Services for violating the antipropaganda law. But these are not the only agencies pretending to be a credible news outlet.

During the past year, we found that several prepackaged news stories produced and distributed by certain Government agencies violated this provision.

So very simply, according to the GAO, the administration broke the law. The GAO specifically cited the Office of National Drug Control Policy and the Department of Health and Human Services for violating the antipropaganda law. But these are not the only agencies pretending to be a credible news outlet.

On March 13, 2005, the New York Times wrote about the administration’s approach in an article entitled “Under Bush, a New Age of Prepackaged TV News.”

I ask unanimous consent that the entire article be printed in the RECORD following my remarks.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. BYRD. The Times article spotlighted three news segments that each looked the same as any other 90-second segment on the local news. But these are not new. The Federal Government produced all three of these. The Times told of a news segment produced by the State Department featuring a jubilant Iraqi American telling a news crew in Kansas City: “Thank you, Bush. Thank you, USA.”

The Department of Homeland Security apparently produced a so-called news report on the creation of the Transportation Security Administration. The reporter called the establishment of TSA “one of the most remarkable campaigns in aviation history.” But what the American people, the viewers, did not know was that the so-called reporter was actually a public relations professional working under a false name for the Transportation Security Administration. How about that?

A third segment broadcast in January was based on a news report produced by the Department of Agriculture. The Agriculture Department apparently employs two full-time people to act—listen now—to act as reporters. They travel the country and create their own so-called news, distributing their work via satellite and mail, always pushing the White House line.

What are things coming to?

In the January report, these U.S. Department of Agriculture employees, claiming to be independent journalists, called President Bush “the best envoy in the world.”

I am not here to argue whether George W. Bush is America’s best envoy to the world, but I would rather leave that discussion to independent analysts, not to administration employees. The administration is being accused of hiring actors to pretend to be journalists pushing the White House line.

Yes, the administration should explain its ideas and positions to the American people. No one argues that fact. Educating the public about issues has an essential role of the Government. But the administration should not engage in a blatant manipulation of the news media. Leave the work of manipulation to the Rush Limbaughs of the world. The job of Government focused on the people. Manufacturing propaganda is a blatant misuse of taxpayer dollars, and it is your money, your money, Mr. and Mrs. Taxpayer.

The administration has disputed GAO’s views. The administration takes the view that it is OK to mask the source as long as the ads are “purely informational.”

The White House Office of Management and Budget, with the support of the Justice Department, went so far as to issue a memorandum to agency heads dated March 11, 2005, specifically contradicting the conclusions of the Government Accountability Office. The Justice Department concluded that the Government Accountability Office’s:... conclusion fails to recognize the distinction between covert propaganda and purely informational Video News Reports, which do not constitute propaganda within the common meaning of the term and therefore are not subject to the appropriations restriction.

If paying national columnists and talk show hosts, faking news segments, hiring actors to pretend to be reporters “do not constitute propaganda,” what does? What does constitute propaganda? It is time for the administration to back off.

We, the American people, trust the media to provide us with independent sources of information, not biased news stories produced by the administration at the taxpayers’ expense. It is time for the White House to be upfront with the American people: no propaganda, no manipulation of the press. The administration should tell the people its position on this issue: fail to recognize it as clear as the noonday Sun in a cloudless sky, what their rules are. They made clear to the broadcasters what their rules are.

Now Congress should make clear what the rules are for Federal agencies. Just yesterday, the Federal Communications Commission, on a unanimous vote, 4 to 0, approved this public notice, I am saying it again, that directs television broadcasters to disclose to viewers the origin of video news releases produced by the Government or corporations—I will say this a third time—when the material runs on the public airwaves.

So this is a warning. We, in Congress, ought to do our best in support of the ruling and to enforce it.

Let me say now that my amendment prevents any agency from using taxpayer dollars to produce or distribute prepackaged news stories intended to be viewed, intended to be heard, intended to be read, in order to identify the so-called news was created by a Federal agency or funded with taxpayer dollars. That is plain common sense.

I urge Senators to back the law that we, Congress, have passed each year since 1951:

No part of any appropriation contained in this or any other Act shall be used for publicity or propaganda purposes within the United States not heretofore authorized by Congress.

Back it up. My amendment simply makes it clear, I say again, that Congress does mean what Congress says. I urge adoption of the amendment. I will yield the floor, but I want to send my amendment to the desk.

“We look at them and determine whether we want them to be on the feed,” David M. Winstrom, director of Fox News Edge, said of the releases. “If not one that said tobacco cures cancer or something like that, I would kill it.”
In essence, video news releases seek to exploit a growing vulnerability of television news: Even as news staffs at the major networks are shrinking, many local stations are expanding their hours of news coverage without adding reporters.

"No TV news organization has the resources in labor, time or funds to cover every worthy story," said the executive director of Video Monitoring Services, a company that tracks news programs in major cities. "That's why we have to rely on video news releases distributed by the Office of National Drug Control Policy, including one narrated by Ms. Ryan, the director of the Office of National Drug Control Policy, and another produced by a major broadcast network and did not know that it had originally come from the government.

Ms. Ryan said she was surprised by the number of stations willing to run government-made segments. "We realized that there was a tremendous audience for government-produced material, especially now that it had been acknowledged as a valuable resource," she said. "It amounts to propaganda, doesn't it?" Mr. Stutz said, adding that they intend to take more precautions.

Complied with such evidence, most news directors were at a loss to explain how the segments made it on the air. Some said they were unable to find archive tapes that would help answer the question. Others promised to look into it, then stopped returning telephone messages. A few removed the segments from their Web sites, promised greater vigilance in the future or pleaded ignorance.

AFGHANISTAN TO MEMPHIS: AN AGENCY’S REPORT ENDS UP ON THE AIR

On Sept. 11, 2002, WHBQ, the Fox affiliate in Memphis, marked the anniversary of the 9/11 attacks with an uplifting report on how assistance from the United States was helping to liberate the women of Afghanistan.

Tish Clark, a reporter for WHBQ, described how Afghan women, once barred from schools and jobs, were at last emerging from their burkas, taking up jobs as seamstresses and reporters. She reported on new schools, receiving decent medical care for the first time and even participating in a fledgling democracy. Her segment included footage of a television news program, which she recounted as the Taliban only allowed boys to attend school. An Afghan doctor described how the Taliban refused to let male physicians treat women.

In short, Ms. Clark's report seemed to corroborate, however modestly, a central argument of the Bush foreign policy, that forceful American intervention abroad was spreading freedom, improving lives and winning friends.

What the people of Memphis were not told, though, was that the interviews used by WHBQ were actually conducted by State Department contractors. The contractors also selected the quotes used from those interviews and shot the video that went with the narration. They also wrote the narration, much of which Ms. Clark repeated with only minor changes.

As it happens, the viewers of WHBQ were not the only ones in the dark. Ms. Clark, now Tish Clark Dunning, said in an interview that she was unaware that the report originated at the State Department.

"If that's true, I'm very shocked that anyone would false report on anything like that," she said.

How a television reporter in Memphis unwittingly came to narrate a segment by the State Department reveals much about the extent to which government-produced news accounts have seeped into the broader news media landscape.

The movement begins inside the White House, where the president's communications advisers devised a strategy after Sept. 11, 2001, to use the media to enhance its independent coverage of the fight against terrorism. The idea, they explained to reporters at the time, was to counter charges of American imperialist aggression. Thus, funded by centralized American efforts to liberate and rebuild Afghanistan and Iraq.

An example that points to this strategy was the Office of Broadcasting Services, a State Department unit of 30 or so editors and technicians. Typical duties include distributing video from news conferences and briefings that in early 2002, with close editorial direction from the White House, the unit began producing narrated feature reports, many of them promoting American achievements in Afghanistan and Iraq and reinforcing the administration's rationales for the invasions. These reports were then widely distributed in the United States and around the world for use by local television stations. In all, the State Department has produced 95 such segments.

United States law contains provisions intended to prevent the domestic dissemination of propaganda. The Smith-Mundt Act, for example, allows Voice of America to broadcast progovernment news to foreign audiences, but not at home. Yet State Department officials said the officials said the law does not apply to the Office of Broadcasting Services. In any event, said Richard A. Bouche, a State Department spokesman: "Our goal is to put out facts and the truth. We're not a propaganda agency."

Even as second department official, Patricia Harrison, told Congress last year, the Bush administration has come to regard such "good news" segments as "powerful straining.ball" influencing public opinion. And a review of the department's segments reveals a body of work in sync with the political objectives set forth by the White House communications team after 9/11.

In June 2003, for example, the unit produced a segment that depicted American efforts to distribute food and water to the people of southern Iraq. "After living for decades in fear, they are now receiving assistance--food, water,--with the aid of coalition liberators," the unidentified narrator concluded.

Several segments focused on the liberation of Afghan women, which a White House memo from January 2003 singled out as a "prime example" of how "White House-led efforts could facilitate strategic, proactive communications in the war on terror."

Trucking precisely how a "good news" report on Afghanistan could have migrated to Memphis from the State Department is far from easy. The State Department typically distributes its segments via satellite to international networks like Reuters and Associated Press Television News, which in turn distribute them to the major United States networks, which then transmit them to local affiliates.

"Once these products leave our hands, we have no control," said Robert A. Tappan, the State Department's deputy assistant secretary for public affairs, said in an interview. The department, he said, never intended its segments, unedited and without attribution by local news programs. "We do our utmost to identify them as State Department-produced products," he said.

Reporters say the networks insist that government-produced reports are clearly labeled when they are distributed to affiliates. But satellites, by their nature, transmit direct satellite to satellite, passing from one news organization to another, it is easy to see the potential for confusion. Indeed, in response to questions from The Times, Associated Press Television News acknowledged that they might have distributed at least one segment to at least three other United States networks without identifying it as the product of the State Department. A spokesperson described "slip-ups through our net because of a sourcing error."

Kenneth W. Jobe, vice president for news at WHQ in Memphis, said he could not explain how his station's version of one done first by network correspondent for CNN, showed a local state station to take network reports and give them a hometown look.

"I didn't actually go to Afghanistan," she said. "I took that story and reworked it. I had to do some research on my own. I researched and figured out how it all started as far as women covering their faces and everything.

At the State Department, Tappan said the broadcasting office is moving away from producing narrated feature segments. Instead, the department is increasingly supplying raw video and interviews to reporters, sound bites and raw video. Since the shift, he said, even more State Department material is making its way into news broadcasts.

"It's very clear to me," she said. "The 'good news' people: a Mena of Reports from Military Hot Spots"

The Defense Department is working hard to produce and distribute its own news segments for television audiences in the United States. The Pentagon Channel, available only insides the Department of Defense, is now being offered to every cable and satellite operator in the United States. Army public affairs specialists, equipped with portable satellite transmitters, are roaming war zones in Afghanistan and Iraq, beaming news reports, raw video and interviews to TV stations in the United States. All a local news director has to do is log on to a military-financed Web site, www.dvidshub.net, browse a menu of segments and request a few for his feed.

Then there is the Army and Air Force Homecoming News Service, a unit of 40 reporters and producers set up to send local stations news segments highlighting the accomplishments of military personnel.

"We're the 'good news' people," said Larry W. Gilliam, the unit's deputy director.

Each year, the unit films thousands of soldiers sending holiday greetings to their hometowns. Increasingly, the unit also produces news reports that reach large audiences. The 50 stories it filed last year were broadcast 236 times in all, reaching 41 million households in the United States.

The service makes it easy for local stations to run its segments unedited. Reporters, for example, are never identified by their military titles. "We know if we put a rank on there they're not going to put it on their air," Mr. Gilliam said.

Each account is also specially tailored for local broadcast. A segment shot in Topeka, Kan., would include an interview with a service member from there. If the report is sent to New York, the soldier is switched out for one from Oklahoma City. "We try to make the individual soldier a star in their hometown," Mr. Gilliam said. And the segments are distributed only to towns and cities selected by the service members interviewed.
Few stations acknowledge the military's role in the segments. “Just tune in and you’ll see a minute-and-a-half newscast and it looks just like they went out and did the story,” said Mr. Gilliam. This, though, makes no attempt to advance any particular political or policy agenda, he said. “We don’t editorialize at all,” he said. Yet, the “good news” approach carries political meaning, intended or not. Such was the case after the Abu Ghraib prison scandal surfaced last spring. Although White House officials depicted the abuse of Iraqi detainees as the work of a few rogue soldiers, the case raised serious questions about the training of military police officers. A short while later, Mr. Gilliam’s unit distributed a news segment, sent to 34 stations, that examined the training of prison guards at Fort Leonard Wood in Missouri, where some of the military police officers implicated at Abu Ghraib had been trained. “One of the most important lessons they learn is to treat prisoners strictly but fairly,” the reporter said in the segment, which depicted a regimen emphasizing respect for detainees. A trainer told the reporter that military police officers were taught to “treat others as they would want to be treated.” The account made no mention of Abu Ghraib or how the scandal had prompted changes in training at Fort Leonard Wood.

According to Mr. Gilliam, the report was prepared or funded by a federal agency. The story was unrelated to any effort by the Defense Department to rebut suggestions of a broad pattern of abuse. “And I said saying that the Pentagon called down and said, ‘We need some good publicity?’” he asked. “No, no at all.”

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, the pending amendment is laid aside. The clerk will report the amendment.

The bill clerk reads as follows:
The Senator from West Virginia [Mr. BYRD] for himself, Mrs. CLINTON, Mr. LUTENBERG, Mr. KERRY, Mr. WYDEN, Mr. DORGAN, Mr. HARKIN, and Mr. KENNEDY, proposes an amendment numbered 430.

Mr. COCHRAN. I ask unanimous consent the reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

Mr. BYRD. I have no objection to that.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:
(Purpose: To prohibit the use of funds by any Federal agency to produce a prepackaged news story without including in such story a clear notification for the audience that the story was prepared or funded by a Federal agency)

At an appropriate place, insert the following:
SEC. 1. None of the funds provided in this Act or any other Act may be used by a Federal agency to produce a prepackaged news story unless the story includes a clear notification to the audience that the story was prepared or funded by that Federal agency.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, I applaud the Senator from West Virginia for his amendment. We have to put a stop to all of the taxpayer-financed propaganda put out by our government to influence the American people.

Over the last year, we have found out that the Bush administration has used taxpayer funds to finance “fake news reports” by actors posing as reporters, not actual journalists, who read the administration’s script on prescription drugs and the No Child Left Behind education program. Even more recently, we have found out that a number of actual real-life journalists have been secretly paid by the Bush administration to promote its political agenda. This is dangerous to our democracy. It’s an unethical misuse of taxpayer funds.

Senator LUTENBERG and I have generated a series of investigations by the Government Accountability Office critical of the Bush administration’s propaganda efforts. We have introduced legislation, the Stop Government Propaganda Act, that the Byrd amendment complements. Our legislation, like the Bush administration’s script on prescription drugs and the No Child Left Behind education program, is being secretly paid by the administration—any administration, Democratic or Republican—from paying actors to pose as legitimate journalists in order to push for a political agenda.

I urge my colleagues to support the Byrd amendment. Congress cannot sit still while the administration corrupts the first amendment and freedom of the press.

Mr. GREGG. Mr. President, I am intrigued by the amendment of the Senator from West Virginia. I do not believe taxpayers should be funding propaganda. I think it is totally inappropriate, other than in an attempt to promote our policy overseas, for example, where we should be funding communication with other people around the Earth, as we do through Radio Free America, Radio Liberty, and other radio stations that have been developed over the years for the purposes of presenting the American position in regions of the world where our access is limited.

But here in the United States, clearly, if the Government wishes to make a point, that should be disclosed. If taxpayers’ dollars are being used to make a point, that should be disclosed. I agree with the basic concept of the theme of the Senator’s amendment. So the amendment must apply to National Public Radio. Byrd amendment, specifically prevents the Department of Defense from distributing a news segment, sent to 34 stations, that examined the training of prison guards at Fort Leonard Wood in Missouri, where some of the military police officers implicated at Abu Ghraib had been trained. I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Missouri.

Mr. BOND. Mr. President, I see my colleague from Maryland is also seeking the floor. We both have important meetings at 3 o’clock. I wondered how long the Senator from Maryland will take?

Ms. MIKULSKI. Less than a minute.

Mr. BOND. I am happy to yield to my colleague from Maryland.
If the Senator's amendment better defined appropriate communications by Federal agencies from publicity or propaganda, I would join with the Senator in support. The Senator's amendment, however, does not add any clarity to the murky waters of advocacy and does not distinguish between education and advocacy any brighter, and in fact may have some untoward consequences that I feel are sufficient to kill the amendment.

The uniform practice of the Federal Government in the early 1919s, as well as the highly decorated Senator from West Virginia offers an amendment that is filled with common sense. Let me describe a fake news program. A report narrated by a woman who speaks in glowing terms about an administration's plan and concludes by saying: "In Washington, this is Karen Ryan reporting."

The Department of Health and Human Services spent $240,000 in taxpayer dollars on this type of propaganda. Is this what we want to pass for news?

I have talked often in the Senate on a subject very important to me, the concentration of broadcasting in this country. Fewer and fewer people owning more and more broadcast properties, controlling what people see, hear, and think is presented to them. As more and more companies are bought, they hollow out the newsrooms, getting rid of the newsroom staff, and just have a shell left. Then they are interested in filling that shell with cheap media feeds.

If you read the discussion about what has prompted these television stations to run these prepackaged fake news items, they are looking for fillers for a news script because they got rid of their news people. So this, now, passes as news when, in fact, it is fake news. In my judgment, it ought to be labeled exactly what it is. That is what the Senator is offering with respect to this amendment. This is not an amendment that is in any way radical. It is an amendment that is filled with common sense.

A few minutes ago my colleague who talked about Public Broadcasting or National Public Radio was clever and funny—and good for him—but this has nothing to do with the issue at hand. Winning debates that we are not having is hardly a blue ribbon activity in this Chamber. This debate is not about National Public Radio or anything of that sort. It is about the specific subject that my colleague from West Virginia brings to the Senate.

The subject, incidentally, has more tentacles attached to it. We learned in January a syndicated columnist, Armstrong Williams, had been paid a quarter of a million dollars, actually $240,000, to promote the No Child Left Behind Program on his television show and to urge other African-American journalists to do the same. That contract was not disclosed to the public. It was taxpayers' dollars offered to a journalist, commentator, television personality, and we only learned about it because USA Today obtained the document through a Freedom of Information request.

That, incidentally, was part of a $1 million deal with the Ketchum public relations firm which was contracted to produce video news releases designed to appeal to the White House.

So there is more to do on this issue than just the Byrd amendment. That is why I say this amendment is modest in itself. It is not, as some would suggest, a big deal. It is a modest amendment that addresses a problem in a very specific way. We really do have more to do dealing with some of the other tentacles—the hiring of public relations firms to the tune of tens of millions of dollars.

We found out in late January the Department of Health and Human Services paid $21,500 to another syndicated columnist to advocate a $300 million Presidential proposal encouraging marriage. That contract was not disclosed either.

The list goes on. Fake news. We discovered a while back the White House had allowed a fake journalist, using a fake name, to get a daily clearance to come into the President's news conference and daily news briefings and ask questions. The other part of fake news, I guess, a different tentacle and a different description.

The Byrd amendment is simple on its face. The question is, Do we want fake news being produced with taxpayers' dollars with no disclosure at all; that it is, in fact, propaganda, not news?

I support the Byrd amendment. I hope we will address other parts of this issue at some future time. This amendment is modest enough, and my hope is to engage a majority of the Senate to be supportive of it.

While I have the floor, I might indicate a second time that I intend to offer an amendment that would cease or discontinue funding for the independent counsel who is still active, an independent counsel who was impaneled to investigate the payment of money to a mistress by a former Cabinet official, Mr. Cisneros. That independent counsel has spent now $21 million over 10 years. The particular Cabinet official admitted the indiscretion. He pled guilty in Federal court and he since left office and has since been pardoned by a President in 2001.

Yet the independent counsel investigating this still investigating it, still spending money.

The most recent report showed this independent counsel spent $1.26 million in Federal funds over the previous 6 months, which brings it to $21 million by an independent counsel's office that was launched nearly 10 years ago to investigate a Cabinet official who left the Government very soon thereafter, who then pled guilty, who then was pardoned. In 1995, the independent counsel was named. That was 10 years ago.

In 1999, the Cabinet official pled guilty. In 2001, 4 years ago, the Cabinet official was given a Presidential pardon. Yet we have an independent counsel's office that is still spending money.

We ought to shut off that money. I will offer an amendment to do that, telling that independent counsel the money dries up on June 1. Finish your report,payment of money to a mistress by a former Cabinet official who left the Government very soon thereafter, who then pled guilty, who then was pardoned. In 1995, the independent counsel was named. That was 10 years ago.

Yet we have an independent counsel's office that is still investigating it. That was 10 years ago. It creates clarity.

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Mr. BYRD is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. COCHRAN. Mr. President, I notice that the distinguished Senator from New Jersey. Mr. Byrd amendment is an important step toward preventing the Government from delivering messages that are, if I can call them, kind of incognito. They are hidden from identifying as to what they really are. It is a step toward accomplishing a goal that is not clearly defined as being presented as a neutral observer.

The Byrd amendment is simple and clear. Here is what it says:

Mr. President, it does not create confusion, as a Senator said a moment ago. It creates clarity.

The Byrd amendment is simple and clear. Here is what it says:

None of the funds provided in this Act or any other Act may be used by a Federal agency to produce any prepackaged news story unless the story includes a clear notification to the audience that the story was prepared or funded by that Federal agency.

Mr. President, I yield the floor.

Mr. COCHRAN. Mr. President, I notice that the distinguished Senator from New Jersey is on the floor. He is a cosponsor of this amendment. I assume he is here to talk on the amendment. I was going to try to bring the discussion to a close so we could vote on the amendment or vote in relation to the amendment, but I am happy to withhold because I do not want to cut off anyone who wants to talk on this subject.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Mr. President, I am not sure I heard precisely what the manager was asking. I would help bring this to a close by giving my remarks very quickly. I appreciate the opportunity and thank the Senator from New Jersey.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Mr. President, I salute this Senator and friend, the Senator from West Virginia. Senator Byrd is someone I greatly respect and admire. I have now been here a long time, even though, according to the rules, I am a freshman or just above a freshman, maybe a sophomore—I don’t think so—but whenever Senator Robert C. Byrd speaks, it is always worth listening. And I find more often than not, it is very much worth following the idea that the Senator from West Virginia puts forward.

So I am pleased to support the Byrd amendment on propaganda. It is an issue that has disturbed me over time and something I have worked on. The Byrd amendment is an important step toward preventing the Government from delivering messages that are, if I can call them, kind of incognito. They are hidden from identifying as to what they really are. It is a step toward accomplishing a goal that is not clearly defined as being presented as a neutral observer.

They are hidden from identifying as to what they really are. It is a step toward accomplishing a goal that is not clearly defined as being presented as a neutral observer.

As a result of a request I made with Senator Kennedy, the Government Accountability Office ruled that fake television news stories, produced by the administration, or produced, period, were illegal propaganda. The Government accounts that were produced, known as “prepackaged news stories,” featured a report by Karen Ryan. The news story extolled the benefits of the new Medicare law and ended with a statement:

This is Karen Ryan, reporting from Washington.

But Karen Ryan is not a reporter. She is a public relations consultant working for a firm hired by the Government. So it is designed to fool people into believing that this news reporter had come on to something really great and wanted to add her view of the efficacy of the program.

Now, that fake news story made its way onto local news shows on 40 television stations across the country. Once again, people thought they were watching news. Americans watched Karen Ryan’s report and thought they were hearing the real deal, but what they were watching was Government-produced propaganda.

Think about that for a second. Our Government is sending out news reports to television stations across the country by satellite. Many of these news stations had no way of knowing that the reports were Government-produced. News stations across the country had Government news stories without realizing what they had. This is not aimed at the broadcasters; it is aimed at clarifying the fact that we do not think the Government should be doing this. The stations that had this story and did not realize it was not fresh news included a station in Memphis, TN, WHBQ; KGTV in San Diego; WDRB in Louisville, KY. The list goes on and on about dozens who were fooled by the fact that they were getting a propaganda piece and did not recognize that it was not news.

If the news stations did not know the story was produced by the Government, how would the viewer ever know that? How would a family, let's say, in Covington, TN, watching WHBQ, know that Karen Ryan, the person in this case, is not a reporter? How would they know the story they just watched was concocted to sell something, actually Government propaganda? The reality is, they would not know.

We had a situation of similar character with a reporter named Armstrong Williams. Mr. Williams had a program, a new show, but he was paid millions of dollars, as I remember the number, to take this story and talk about it as news when, in fact, it was a paid-for story designed to deceive, very frankly. So we have seen it. The Government is not only wrong but illegal. The GAO said the fake news stories were illegal because they did not disclose the fact that the Government was behind it. GAO is right. We cannot allow covert propaganda by the Government, continued by a practice that has been condemned by GAO.

The Byrd amendment will give Federal agencies clear direction on this issue. It is a simple proposition: The Government needs to disclose its role. I do not think that is a lot to ask: otherwise, every ad that goes on the air has a disclosure on it. It identifies the product, uses a trademark, all kinds of things. But they make sure people know it's a paid advertisement. It is the news. If you are running a paid advertisement, you must make it. It isn't a paid advertisement; it's the news.

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, I thank the distinguished Senator from New Jersey for his comments and support. I thank him profoundly.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Vermont.

Mr. JEFFORDS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to speak on the pending Mikulski amendment.

Mr. COCHRAN. Reserving the right to object—I, of course, will not object—it is my hope that we can continue to deal with the Byrd amendment and dispose of the Byrd amendment. Then the Senator can talk about the Mikulski amendment or any other amendment he wants to talk about.

I do not have an objection.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

AMENDMENT NO. 357

Mr. JEFFORDS. Mr. President, I would like to take a moment to talk about the amendment by the distinguished Senator from Maryland. As a cosponsor of that amendment, I rise in support of this amendment to the supplemental appropriations bill.

The Save Our Small and Seasonal Businesses Act, of which this amendment is based, is very important to my State of Vermont. This amendment will ensure the seasonal businesses in our country have the workers they need to support their company, our local economics, and to help the U.S. economy flourish. Action on this critical issue is long overdue.

In March of last year, the United States Citizenship and Immigration Services announced they had received enough petitions to meet the cap on the H–2B visas. As a result, they stopped accepting petitions for these temporary work visas halfway through the Federal fiscal year. This announcement was a shock to many businesses throughout the country that depend on foreign workers to fill their temporary and seasonal positions.

Tourism is the largest sector of Vermont's economy and, as a result, many Vermont businesses hire seasonal workers to staff their campsites, winter or fall seasons. Last year, I heard from many Vermont businesses that were unable to employ foreign workers for their summer and fall seasons because the cap had been reached. Not only was this unexpected, but many of the individuals were seasonal workers who had been returning to the same employer year after year. These employers lost essential staff and, in many cases, well-trained, experienced employees.

While I am proud to say that Vermont businesses have risen to this challenge with hard work and creativity in the past, the need for these workers has not, and will not, diminish. Congress must act and must act now. The companies I have heard from are proud of the work their staffs have done under these circumstances. Yet they believe their businesses and their personnel will suffer if they are not able to employ seasonal foreign workers during this year. Many have a devastating effect on their businesses if they are not able to bring in foreign workers soon.

I have also heard from Vermont businesses that they do not hire American workers because they could not find enough employees to round out their crews. Without having the sufficient number of workers to complete projects, they could not hire or maintain their year-round staff. They also could not bid on projects and many had to scale back their operations. In these instances, the lack of seasonal workers had a detrimental effect on our economy and on the employment of American workers.

I urge my colleagues to support this amendment by Senator MUKULSKI.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Assistant Democratic leader.

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, I rise in support of the Byrd-Lautenberg amendment. I would like to say a few words. I know we may be moving close to a vote, year-round recruiting of the committee has been patiently awaiting that possibility.

Tonight you are going to turn on your nightly news and try to get some information. People do it all the time. You expect when you turn on your television and turn on a newscast, the information being given to you is objective, at least as objective as people can make it. It isn’t a paid advertisement; it is the news. If you are running a paid advertisement, you would know it. It would have a disclaimer saying it or some new pharmaceutical drug or a political ad with a disclaimer at the bottom.
When you turn on your newscast, you don’t expect to get hit by an ad that doesn’t look like an ad. That is what the Byrd amendment is all about. The General Accounting Office took a look at some of the ads that were being sent out by the Bush administration for their policy and programs, and they went too far. They didn’t identify the videos they were sending to these television stations were actually produced by the Bush administration, by these agencies, to promote a particular point. They identified these ads as if they were news, or the way you write a story, and they went too far. They didn’t identify that that official news release came from an agency of the Bush administration. They were propaganda from the Government.

We decided a long time ago you couldn’t do that. If you were going to put that kind of information up to try to convince the American people, one way or the other, you have an obligation to tell them so. The basic rule in this country is people want to hear both sides of the story, then make up their minds. Propaganda is a deception. It is a deception to promote a point of view and to get people to believe something is true. But what if it wasn’t disclosed? What if it was prepared by a Federal agency to produce any prepackaged news story or statement or video release to the audience that the story was prepared or funded by that Federal agency.

That is what the administration is doing. They are using these videotapes. According to the Bush administration, by these agencies, to promote a particular point. They identified these ads as if they were news, or the way you write a story, and they went too far.

None of the funds provided in this Act or any other Act may be used by a Federal agency to produce any prepackaged news story or statement or video release to the audience that the story was prepared or funded by that Federal agency. That is what the Byrd amendment is all about. The Byrd amendment is so brief and to the point, it is worth repeating:

None of the funds provided in this Act or any other Act may be used by a Federal agency to produce any prepackaged news story or statement or video release to the audience that the story was prepared or funded by that Federal agency.

That is that deception that Senator BYRD is addressing. The Byrd amendment is so brief and to the point, it is worth repeating:

this, spoke against the amendment. That is why the Senate should not adopt the amendment.

We all agree you need to include a disclaimer. We have to do that and we do that. Federal agencies do that. We cannot, my news editor, the producer of the news show include the disclaimer in the broadcast though. Nor should we be held responsible personally or criticized if that news agency didn’t disclaim or print or announce where they got the news story. That is an entirely different obligation suitable that the FCC will enforce now and that we all support.

So what I am suggesting is that these are great speeches. This is a good political issue—to accuse the administration of trying to fool the American people by creating the impression that some of their news stories are produced for the news media are produced by them and not the radio station or the television station or the newspaper that published it or broadcast it. That is nothing new. But it is not up to the agency or the person who writes the story to communicate it to the audience.

That is the problem. We cannot support it. So it would be my intention to move to table the amendment because of that—not because it is not motivated by the right reasons or doesn’t carry with it the sentiment that is appropriate. Of course, it does. But the wording of the amendment itself—not just the purpose of the amendment—is defective in that it imposes an obligation that should not be imposed on Federal agencies, the Government, or individual Members of Congress.

I am hopeful that—and I am sure the Senator from West Virginia will, if he can—the Senate will modify his amendment so it can be accepted. But if that cannot be done, I am prepared to move to table the amendment. I will not do that and cut off the right of any other person to talk about the subject.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from West Virginia is recognized.

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, I thank the distinguished Senator for his willingness to not move to table at this point. I hope we can take a little time and see if we might reach a meeting of the minds on language that might accomplish the purposes that we hoped to accomplish.

For that reason, I suggest the absence of the quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President, I wonder if I might ask my colleague, the chairman of the committee, my understanding is the pending amendment is the Byrd amendment. But I heard my colleague Senator BYRD indicate he was trying to see whether there was some language that could be changed so this amendment would be acceptable. I have an amendment I had previously announced I would like to offer. It is an amendment dealing with the independent counsel expenditure of $21 million. I twice before mentioned this.

I ask the Senator from Mississippi whether it would be appropriate at this point to offer an amendment. My understanding is we would have to set a time limit to do so. I ask the chairman and also Senator BYRD whether that is possible at this moment.

Mr. COCHRAN. Mr. President, I have no objection.

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, I have no objection. We can reach an understanding if I am unable to come up with language that is capable of being a workable and effective compromise that we might go ahead and have a vote on the Byrd amendment. Might we have a time limit on the Senator’s proposal?

Mr. DORGAN. I will be mercifully brief. This is not an amendment that will take a long time to explain, and I do not intend to delay the proceedings of the Senate at all.

AMENDMENT NO. 399

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President, with that in mind and with the cooperation of the Senator from Mississippi, the chairman of the committee, and my colleague Senator BYRD, as well, I offer an amendment on behalf of myself and Senator DURBIN has asked to be a co-sponsor as well. I send the amendment to the desk and ask for its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, the pending amendment is set aside.

The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from North Dakota [Mr. DORGAN] for a time.

The clerk will report.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: To prohibit the continuation of the independent counsel investigation of Henry Cisneros past June 1, 2005 and request an accounting of costs from GAO) At the end of the bill, add the following: Scc. . . (a) None of the funds appropriated or made available in this Act or any other Act may be used to fund the independent counsel investigation of Henry Cisneros after June 1, 2005.

(b) Not later than July 1, 2005, the Government Accountability Office shall provide the Committee on Appropriations of each House with a detailed accounting of the costs associated with the independent counsel investigation of Henry Cisneros.

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President, this matter dealt with something I was quite surprised to read about, frankly, in the newspaper, and I have since done some research about it. It was a rather lengthy newspaper article disclosing that an independent counsel who had been appointed 10 years ago in 1995, a Mr. David Barrett, was still in business and was involved in an investigation that has now cost the American taxpayer $1.26 million.

That was an investigation dealing with a Cabinet Secretary who was alleged to have lied, I believe, to the FBI, to authorities, about a payment he gave to a mistress. So an independent counsel was impaneled and began investigating that charge.

That independent counsel has been working for some 10 years, in fact. But the Cabinet official who was the subject of the investigation pled guilty in 1999. That was 6 years ago. That Cabinet officer was also subsequently pardoned in the year 2001.

In the most recent 6-month report, the independent counsel who was appointed for investigating this transgression is still in business, and had spent $1.26 million in just that period. And the costs are trending upward, 10 years after he started, 6 years after the subject pled guilty, and 4 years after the subject was pardoned. It is unbelievable.

I do not know anything about the case. I do not really know the Cabinet official in question. I guess I met him some years ago. But this is not about that official any longer. He has pled guilty, been pardoned, and here we are years later with an independent counsel’s office still spending money.

I quote Judge Stanley Sporkin, the presiding judge over Mr. Cisneros’ trial:

The problem with this case is that it took too long to develop and much too long to bring to judgment day . . . [the matter] should have been resolved a long time ago, perhaps even before. That was a quote from 1999. It is now 2005. The independent counsel is still spending money.

David Barrett, the independent counsel, said in 1999:

We are just glad to have this over and done with. That was following the plea agreement of Mr. Cisneros. Here it is 6 years later and the independent counsel is still in business.

Mr. Barrett said in July 2001:

I want to conclude this investigation as soon as possible.

It is now 4 years later, with the counsel spending $1.26 million in the last 6 months.

The three-judge panel that is providing oversight to the independent counsel said:

Whether a cost-benefit analysis at this point would support Mr. Barrett’s effort is a question to which I have no answer.

Judge Cudahy, a member of the three-judge panel said:

Mr. Barrett can go on forever. A great deal of time has elapsed and a lot of money spent in pursuing charges that on their face do not seem of overwhelming complexity.

Again, this is an official who is accused of lying to the FBI about paying money to a mistress. In the year 1995, the investigation began with Mr. Barrett and the independent counsel. In 1999, the individual pled guilty. In the year 2001, the individual was pardoned. And the independent counsel is still in business spending money. What on Earth is going on?

A former Federal prosecutor following the plea agreement, Lawrence Barcella, said this:

This is a classic example of why this independent counsel statute was a problem. You give this person all the resources to go after one person, and the first thing that is lost is perspective.

Joseph DiGenova, a Republican lawyer and former independent counsel himself, said in the April 1, 2005, Washington Post:

If this does not prove [the independent counsel’s] worthlessness as a governmental entity, I don’t know what does.

I do not come here as a partisan, a member of a political party. I come here as someone outraged to wake up in the morning and read a report about an independent counsel impaneled 10 years ago to investigate a subject who pled guilty 6 years ago and was pardoned 4 years ago, and the independent counsel is still spending the taxpayers’ money, $1.26 million over the last 6 months.

My amendment is painfully simple. I propose we stop the spending on June 1 and tell this independent counsel: Finish your report, finish up, move on, and give the taxpayers a break.

That is what the amendment is. It is very simple. I hope it might be considered and supported by my colleagues.

Mr. President, I yield the floor, and I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant bill clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. CRAFAR). Without objection, it is so ordered.

AMENDMENT NO. 430, AS MODIFIED

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, I have a proposed modification to the amendment which I have discussed with the distinguished manager of the bill, the chairman of the committee, Mr. COCHRAN.

I send the modification to the desk and ask that it be stated by the clerk.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from West Virginia [Mr. BYRD] proposes an amendment numbered 430, as modified.

At the appropriate place, insert the following:

SEC. 1. Unless otherwise authorized by existing law, none of the funds provided in this Act or any other Act may be used by a Federal agency to produce any prepackaged news story unless the story includes a clear notification within the text or audio of the prepackaged news that the prepackaged news story was prepared or funded by that Federal agency.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection to the modification of the amendment at this time?

Without objection, the amendment is so modified.

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, I am prepared now to go to a vote, if the distinguished chairman is also prepared. And I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There appears to be a sufficient second.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, may I just be sure that we are clear on this language.

I understand that the language as read by the clerk is agreed to on both sides.

Mr. COCHRAN. Mr. President, we have no objection to the modification.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment has been so modified. The question is on agreeing to the amendment, as modified. The yeas and nays have been ordered. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk called the roll.

Mr. MCCONNELL. The following Senators in the Chamber desiring to vote?

The result was announced—yeas 98, nays 0, as follows:

NOT VOTING—2

Inhofe Sarbanes

The amendment (No. 430), as modified, was agreed to.

Mr. COCHRAN. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote, and I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair wishes to clarify for the record that Senator Murray did not sign the cloture motion on amendment No. 387, and Senator Leahy did sign that motion.

Mr. COCHRAN. Mr. President, what is the regular order?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The pending amendment is amendment No. 399 by Senator DORGAN. There are other amendments which are, however, the regular order with respect to that amendment.

Mr. COCHRAN. The Dorgan amendment is the pending amendment. The PRESIDING OFFICER. That is correct.

Mr. COCHRAN. I thank the Chair.

Mr. President, for the information of Senators, I have been asked and others have been asking the leadership about the intention of the Senate to proceed to votes on other amendments tonight. That is certainly up to the Senate. We are here open for business. We have an emergency supplemental appropriations bill pending before the Senate, and we need to move with dispatch to complete action on this bill to get the money to the Departments of Defense and State for accounts that have been delayed, and that we need on terror, that we need for our troops in Iraq and Afghanistan. So I hope we can proceed to further consideration of amendments that are pending. There are amendments pending. I hope Senators can cooperate with the managers and the leadership in moving this bill ahead.

I thank all Senators. I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. OBAMA. Mr. President, I ask that the quorum call be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

AMENDMENT NO. 390

Mr. OBAMA. Mr. President, I call up amendment No. 390 and ask for its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection to setting aside the pending amendments? Without objection, it is so ordered. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senate from Illinois [Mr. OBAMA], for himself, Mr. GRAHAM, Mr. BINGAMAN and Mr. CORZINE, proposes an amendment numbered 390.

The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: To provide meal and telephone benefits for members of the Armed Forces who are recovering from injuries incurred on active duty in Operation Iraqi Freedom or Operation Enduring Freedom.)

At the appropriate place, insert the following:

SEC. 2. BENEFITS FOR MEMBERS OF THE ARMED FORCES RECOVERING FROM INJURIES INCURRED IN OPERATIONS IRAQI FREEDOM OR OPERATION ENDURING FREEDOM.

(a) Prohibition on Charges for Meals.—

(1) Prohibition.—A member of the Armed Forces entitled to a basic allowance for subsistence under section 402 of title 37, United
The other day I had the opportunity to visit some of our wounded heroes at Walter Reed Army Medical Center. I know many of you have made the same trip. I heard about their visits, but there is nothing that can fully prepare you for what you see when you take that first step into the physical therapy room.

These are kids in there, our kids, the ones we watched grow up, the ones we hoped would live lives that were happy, healthy, and safe. These kids left their homes and families for a dangerous place halfway around the world. After years of being protected by their parents, these kids risk their lives to protect us. Now some of them have come home from that war with scars that may change their lives forever, scars that may never heal. Yet they sit there in the hospital so full of hope and still so proud of their country. They are the best that America has to offer, and they deserve our highest respect, and they deserve our help.

Recently, I learned that some of our most severely wounded soldiers are being forced to pay for their own meals and their own phone calls while being treated in medical hospitals. Up until last month, they were entitled to free meals through a law that prohibited soldiers from receiving both their basic subsistence allowance and free meals from the military. Basically, this law allowed the Government to charge our wounded heroes for food from the very day they came home from their war injuries. Thankfully, this body acted to change this law in 2003 so that wounded soldiers would not have to pay for their meals. But we are dealing with a bureaucracy here and, as we know, nothing is ever simple in a bureaucracy. So now, because the Department of Defense does not consider getting physical rehabilitation or therapy services in a medical hospital as being hospitalized, there are wounded veterans who still have to pay for the free meals that others receive. After 90 days, even those classified as hospitalized on an outpatient status lose their free meals as well.

Also, while our soldiers in the field quality for free phone service, injured service men and women who may be hospitalized hundreds or thousands of miles from home do not receive this same benefit. For soldiers whose families are not able to take off work and travel to a hospital, hearing the familiar voice of mom or dad on the phone can make all the difference in the world. Yet right now our Government will not help pay for these calls, and it will not help pay for these meals.

Now, think about the sacrifices these young people have made for their country, many of them literally sacrificing life and in some cases limbs. Now, at $5.95 a meal, they could end up with a $299 bill from the Government that sent them to war, and they could get that bill every single month. This is wrong, and we have a moral obligation to fix it. The amendment I am offering today will do this.

The amendment will expand the group of hospitalized soldiers who cannot be charged for their meals to include those service members undergoing medical recuperation or otherwise on medical hold. The number of people affected by this amendment will be small. Only about 4,000 service members are estimated to fall under the category of non-hospitalized wounded service members who hired service members who may have already received bills for their meals with some relief from these costs.

The amendment will also extend free phone service to those injured service members who are hospitalized or otherwise undergoing medical recuperation or therapy. I am very proud this amendment is supported by the American Legion, and I hope my colleagues will join them in that support. I ask all of my colleagues to join me in supporting this amendment. It should be something that is very simple for us to do, because it is only fair that they risked their lives for us. When they come home with injuries, we should be expected to provide them the best possible service and the best possible support. This is a small price to pay for those who have sacrificed so much for their country.

I want to mention and extend my thanks to the senior Senator from Alabama for his leadership on this issue. I am hoping that we can reach an agreement on this bill.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Mississippi.

Mr. OBAMA. Yes, I do. DOD currently charges soldiers $8.30 per day for meals at the nondiscounted rate. So if all the eligible soldiers ate all of their meals at military facilities through the end of this fiscal year, the amendment would cost $10.2 million. Now, that is probably a high estimate because my expectation would be these wounded soldiers would not be eating all of their meals at the hospital. So it would probably end up being lower, but the upper threshold would be $10.2 million.

them. We are sorry that any of them have to be in the hospital or have to have access to services that are provided under the terms of this amendment. I would be happy to take the suggestion that is embodied in this amendment into the conference committee and try to work out an acceptable provision to be included in the final conference report and bring it back to the Senate.

So I recommend the Senate accept the amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there further debate?

The Senator from Illinois.

Mr. OBAMA. I thank my colleague, the Senator from Mississippi, for that offer, and I believe all of us feel the same way. These are the soldiers that are most severely wounded. We want to take the very best care of them, and I very much appreciate the consideration of the Senator from Mississippi.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. If there is no further debate, the question is on agreeing to the amendment.

The amendment (No. 390) was agreed to.

Mr. COCHRAN. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote, and I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

Mr. COCHRAN. I thank the Senator and thank the Chair.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. COCHRAN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. COCHRAN. Mr. President, I have requests to make, on behalf of the managers of the bill, with respect to amendments that have been cleared on both sides of the aisle.

AMENDMENT NO. 392

I now call up amendment No. 352, on behalf of Mr. SALAZAR, regarding the renaming of the death gratuity.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senate from Mississippi [Mr. COCHRAN], for Mr. SALAZAR, for himself and Mr. ALLARD, proposes an amendment numbered 352.

Mr. COCHRAN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: To rename the death gratuity payable for deaths of members of the Armed Forces as fallen hero compensation.

(6) In section 1482—

(A) in subsection (a), by striking “a gratuity” in the matter preceding paragraph (1) and inserting “fallen hero compensation”; and

(B) in subsection (b)(2), by inserting ‘‘or other assistance’’ after ‘‘lesser death gratuity’’.

(b) Clerical Amendments.—(1) Such subchapter is further amended by striking ‘‘Death gratuity:’’ each place it appears in the heading of sections 1475 through 1480 and 1489 and inserting ‘‘Fallen hero compensation:’’;

(2) The table of sections at the beginning of such subchapter is amended by striking ‘‘Death gratuity:’’ in the items relating to sections 1474 through 1480 and 1489 and inserting ‘‘Fallen hero compensation:’’;

(c) General References.—Any reference to a death gratuity payable under subchapter II of chapter 75 of title 10, United States Code, in any law, regulation, document, paper, or other record of the United States shall be deemed to be a reference to fallen hero compensation payable under such subchapter.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the amendment.

The amendment (No. 352) was agreed to.

Mr. COCHRAN. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote, and I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 438

Mr. COCHRAN. I send to the desk an amendment on behalf of Mr. SPECTER that is technical in nature and ask for its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Mississippi [Mr. COCHRAN], for Mr. SPECTER, proposes an amendment numbered 438.

Mr. COCHRAN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: To make a technical correction to cite the proper section intended to repeal the Department of Labor’s transfer authority)

On page 220, line 12, strike “Section 101” and insert “Section 102” in lieu thereof.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the amendment.

The amendment (No. 438) was agreed to.

Mr. COCHRAN. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote, and I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 354

Mr. COCHRAN. Mr. President, I call up amendment No. 354 on behalf of Mr. GRAHAM regarding functions of the general counsel and judge advocate general of the Air Force.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Mississippi [Mr. COCHRAN], for Mr. GRAHAM, proposes an amendment numbered 354.

Mr. COCHRAN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: To prohibit the implementation of certain orders and guidance on the functions and duties of the General Counsel and Judge Advocate General of the Air Force)

On page 169, between lines 8 and 9, insert the following:

PROHIBITION ON IMPLEMENTATION OF CERTAIN ORDERS AND GUIDANCE ON FUNCTIONS AND DUTIES OF GENERAL COUNSEL AND JUDGE ADVOCATE GENERAL OF THE AIR FORCE

SEC. 1122. No funds appropriated or otherwise made available by this Act, or any other Act, may be obligated or expended to implement or enforce either of the following:

(1) The order of the Secretary of the Air Force dated May 15, 2003, and entitled ‘‘Functions and Duties of the General Counsel and the Judge Advocate General’’.

(2) Any internal operating instruction or memorandum issued by the General Counsel of the Air Force in reliance upon the order referred to in paragraph (1).

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the amendment.

The amendment (No. 354) was agreed to.

Mr. COCHRAN. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote, and I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 393

Mr. COCHRAN. Mr. President, I now call up amendment No. 393, on behalf of Mr. KENNEDY, regarding the Veterans Health Administration facilities.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Mississippi [Mr. COCHRAN], for Mr. KENNEDY, proposes an amendment numbered 393.

Mr. COCHRAN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.
The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: To clarify the limitation on the implementation of mission changes for specified Veterans Health Administration Facilities)

At the appropriate place, insert the following:

SEC. 2. IMPLEMENTATION OF MISSION CHANGES AT SPECIFIC VETERANS HEALTH ADMINISTRATION FACILITIES.

(a) In general.—Section 414 of the Veterans Health Programs Improvement Act of 2004, as amended by adding at the end the following:

(b) Definition.—In this section, the term "government center" includes any outpatient clinic.

(c) Effective date.—The amendment made by subsection (a) shall take effect as if included in the Veterans Health Programs Improvement Act of 2004 (Public Law 108–222).

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the amendment.

The amendment (No. 393) was agreed to.

Mr. COCHRAN. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote, and I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 394

Mr. COCHRAN. Mr. President, I now call up amendment No. 394, on a motion of Mr. WARNER, regarding a reporting requirement.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, I propose an amendment numbered 394.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: To require a report on the re-use and redevelopment of military installations closed or realigned as part of the 2005 round of base closure and realignment)

On page 169, between lines 8 and 9, insert the following:

(report on the re-use and redevelopment of closed or realigned military installations)

SEC. 1122. (a) In order to assist communities with preparations for the results of the 2005 round of defense base closure and realignment, and consistent with assistance provided to communities by the Department of Defense in previous rounds of base closure and realignment, the Secretary of Defense shall, not later than July 15, 2005, submit to the congressional defense committees a report on the processes and policies of the Federal Government for disposal of property at military installations proposed to be closed or realigned.

(b) The report under subsection (a) shall include—

(1) a description of the processes of the Federal Government for disposal of property at military installations proposed to be closed or realigned;

(2) a description of Federal Government policies for providing re-use and redevelopment assistance;

(3) a catalogue of community assistance programs that are provided by the Federal Government related to the re-use and redevelopment of closed or realigned military installations;

(4) a description of the services, policies, and resources of the Department of Defense that are available to assist communities affected by the closing or realignment of military installations as a result of the 2005 round of base closure and realignment;

(5) guidance to local communities on the establishment of local redevelopment authorities and the implementation of a base redevelopment plan; and

(6) a description of the policies and responsibilities of the Department of Defense related to environmental clean-up and restoration of property disposed by the Federal Government.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the amendment.

The amendment (No. 394) was agreed to.

Mr. COCHRAN. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote, and I move to lay that motion on the table.

Mr. REID. I ask unanimous consent that the legistative clerk proceed to call the roll.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There are amendments pending.

Mr. REID. I ask unanimous consent that the amendments be set aside and I be allowed to offer an amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: To require a report on the re-use and redevelopment of closed or realigned military installations)

On page 169, after line 9, add the following new section:

INTERNATIONAL EFFORTS FOR RECONSTRUCTION IN IRAQ

SEC. 2105. (a) Congress makes the following findings:

(1) The United States Armed Forces have borne the largest share of the burden for securing and stabilizing Iraq. Since the war’s start, more than 500,000 United States military personnel have served in Iraq and, as of the date of the enactment of this Act, more than 130,000 such personnel are stationed in Iraq. Though the Department of Defense has kept statistics related to troop contributions classified, it is estimated that all of the coalition partners combined have maintained a total force level in Iraq of only 200,000 troops since early 2003.

(2) United States taxpayers have borne the vast majority of the financial costs of securing and reconstructing Iraq. Prior to the enactment of this Act, the United States appropriated more than $175,000,000,000 for military and reconstruction efforts in Iraq and, including the funds appropriated in this Act, the amount appropriated for such purposes increases to a total of more than $250,000,000,000.

(3) Of such total, Congress appropriated $2,475,000,000 in the Emergency Wartime Supplemental Appropriations Act, 2003 (Public Law 108–11; 117 Stat. 559) (referred to in this section as “Public Law 108–11”) and $1,209,000,000 in the supplemental Appropriations Act for Defense and for the Reconstruction of Afghanistan and Iraq, 2004 (Public Law 108–106; 117 Stat. 1209) (referred to in this section as “Public Law 108–106”) under the heading “IRAQ RELIEF AND RECONSTRUCTION FUND” for humanitarian assistance and to carry out reconstruction and rehabilitation in Iraq.

(4) The Sixth Quarterly Report required by section 2207 of Public Law 108–106 (22 U.S.C. 2151 note), submitted by the Secretary of State in April 2005, stated that $2,439,000,000 of the $18,439,000,000 appropriated by Public Law 108–106 under the heading “IRAQ RELIEF AND RECONSTRUCTION FUND” had been obligated and that only $4,209,000,000, less than 25 percent of the total amount appropriated, had actually been spent.

(5) According to such report, the international community pledged more than $13,500,000,000 in foreign assistance to Iraq in the form of grants, loans, credits, and other assistance. While the report did not specify how much of the assistance that was to be provided as loans, it is estimated that loans constitute as much as 80 percent of contributions pledged by other nations. The report further notes that, as of the date of the enactment of this Act, the international community has contributed only $2,700,000,000 out of the total pledged amount, falling far short of its commitment.

(6) Iraq has the second largest endowment of oil in the world and experts believe Iraq has the capacity to generate $30,000,000,000 to $40,000,000,000 per year in revenues from its oil industry. Prior to the launch of United States operations in Iraq, members of the Administration stated that profits from Iraq’s oil industry would provide a substantial portion of the funds needed for the reconstruction and relief of Iraq and United Nations Security Council Resolution 1483 (2003) permitted the coalition to use oil revenues to finance long-term reconstruction projects in Iraq.

(7) Securing and rebuilding Iraq benefits the people of Iraq, the United States, and the world and all nations should do their fair share to achieve that outcome.

(8) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, not more than 50 percent of the previously appropriated Iraqi reconstruction funds that have not been obligated or expended prior to the date of the enactment of this Act may be obligated or expended, as the case may be, for Iraq reconstruction programs unless—
(1) the President certifies to Congress that all countries that pledged financial assistance at the Madrid International Conference on Reconstruction in Iraq or in other fora since March 2003, for the relief and reconstruction of Iraq, including grant aid, credits, and in-kind contributions, have fulfilled their commitments; or
(2) the President—
(A) certifies to Congress that the President or his representatives have made credible and good faith efforts to persuade other countries to make pledges of financial assistance at the Madrid International Conference on Reconstruction in Iraq or in other fora to fulfill their commitments; and
(B) notwithstanding the efforts by United States troops and tax-payers on behalf of the people of Iraq and the failure of other countries to fulfill their commitments, revenues generated from the sale of Iraqi oil or other sources of revenue under the control of the Government of Iraq may not be used to reimburse the Government of the United States for the obligation and expenditure of a significant portion of the remaining previously appropriated Iraqi reconstruction funds;
(c) notwithstanding the failure of other countries to fulfill their commitments as described in subparagraph (A) and that revenues generated from the sale of Iraqi oil or other sources of revenue under the control of the government of Iraq shall not be used to reimburse the United States government as described in subparagraph (B), the obligation and expenditure of the remaining previously appropriated Iraqi reconstruction funds is in the national security interests of the United States; and
(D) submits to Congress a written notification of the determinations made under this paragraph, including a detailed justification for such determinations, and a description of the actions taken by the President or other official of the United States to convince other countries to fulfill their commitments described in subparagraph (A).
This section may not be superseded, modified, or repealed except pursuant to a provision of law that makes specific reference to this section.
(d) In this section:
(1) The term “previously appropriated Iraq reconstruction funds” means the aggregate amount allocated or otherwise made available in chapter 2 of title II of Public Law 108–106 under the heading “IRAQ RELIEF AND RECONSTRUCTION FUND” or under title I of Public Law 108–141 under the heading “IRAQ RELIEF AND RECONSTRUCTION FUND”;
(2)(A) The term “Iraq reconstruction programs” means programs to address the infrastructural needs of Iraq, including infrastructural relation to electricity, oil production, public works, water resources, transportation and telecommunications, housing and construction, health care, and private sector development.
(B) The term does not include programs to fund military activities (including the establishment of national security forces and the Commanders’ Emergency Response Programs), public safety (including border enforcement, police, fire, and customs), and justice and legal development.
Amendment No. 395
Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, I rise in support of amendment 395. There are many Members on both sides of the aisle with strong objections to the REAL ID Act. Those of us who value our country’s historic commitment to asylum do not want to see severe restrictions placed on the ability of asylum seekers to obtain refuge here. Those of us who value states rights with the National Governors Association, the National Conference of State Legislatures, and the Council of State Governments in opposing the imposition of unworkable Federal mandates on State drivers license policies. Therefore, I urge my colleagues to vote for this amendment.
I am dismayed that both China and India reportedly objected to an “unbalanced approach” in the Commission’s action against Burma.
In my view, India can—and should—play a catalytic role in fostering change in Burma. I would remind India that such objections serve only to tarnish its image as the world’s largest democracy, and send the wrong message to Daw Aung San Suu Kyi, Nobel Peace Laureate and recipient of India’s Jauharal Nehru Award for International Understanding. India should, as it did in the past, stand firmly with Burma’s democrats and work to foster reconciliation between the National League for Democracy, ethnic nationalities and the illegal military junta.
On a separate matter, I want to recognize Ms. Cindy Chang in the State Department’s Bureau of Legislative Affairs. Cindy works closely with the Senate, and she [i.e., a colon] is a true inspiration to all who seek to follow the call of service.

NATIONAL ASSOCIATED ALUMNAE AND ALUMNI OF THE SACRED HEART

Mr. DURBIN. Madam President, I rise today to recognize the National Associated Alumnae and Alumni of the Sacred Heart during their 35th biennial conference.

The theme of the conference is “St. Madeleine Sophie’s vision of service—living our legacy,” and a panel discussion will be hosted by Barat College. St. Madeleine Sophie Barat was the foudness of the Society of the Sacred Heart. I know that my fellow Senators will welcome the alcumnae and alumni of the Sacred Heart tradition.

The Associated Alumnae and Alumni of the Sacred Heart includes over 51,000 women and men educated in the Sacred Heart schools. Recently, Sacred Heart alumni have led efforts to provide relief for people in Indonesia effected by the devastating earthquake. Funds raised by Sacred Heart alumni have allowed for much-needed health and education programs in the region, including interfaith projects to house and lead programs for orphaned children.

I urge my colleagues to vote in favor of this resolution, which I am proud to cosponsor with Senators Feinstein, Brownback, Alexander, and many others.

Mr. REID. I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. FRIST. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the roll be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

MORNING BUSINESS

Mr. FRIST. I ask unanimous consent that there now be an hour of morning business with Senators permitted to speak for up to 10 minutes each.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

BURMA

Mr. MCCONNELL. Madam President, the United Nations Human Rights Commission adopted a resolution expressing concern with the “ongoing systematic violation of human rights” of the Burmese people. These violations include: extrajudicial killings, rape and other forms of violence persistently carried out by members of the armed forces, the continued use of torture, political arrests, forced child labor, and systematic use of child soldiers.

While the Commission’s action is welcomed, it is not enough. The United Nations Security Council must discuss and debate the immediate regional humanitarian situation and the plight of people, such as child soldiers. That is the real test of our commitment. The United Nations must act to force the regime to its knees—whether from illicit narcotics, HIV/AIDS, trafficked and internally displaced persons, or refugees.

I urge my colleagues to vote for this amendment, which I am proud to cosponsor with Senators Feinstein, Brownback, Alexander, and many others.

Mr. LEVIN. Madam President, it has been reported that the Senate may consider the Protection of Lawful Commerce in Arms Act in the near future. I was pleased that this legislation was defeated during the 108th Congress, and I continue to oppose its passage.

This bill would rewrite well accepted principles of liability law, providing the gun industry legal protections not enjoyed by other industries. It would grant broad immunity from liability even in cases where gross negligence or recklessness is found. Now they are poised to shield firearms makers and sellers from nearly all damage claims when their products kill or maim.

It would be all the more irresponsible for the Senate to pass the gun industry immunity legislation while also continuing to ignore many gun safety issues that are critically important to the law enforcement community. Recent editorials in major newspapers around the country have highlighted Congress’ inability to enact commonsense gun safety legislation. An editorial from Monday’s edition of the Los Angeles Times stated: Over the last four years, the president and his congressional allies have repudiated or quietly eviscerated key gun laws and regulations. Now they are poised to shield firearms makers and sellers from nearly all damage claims when their products kill or maim.

Thus far, Congress has failed to act to reauthorize the assault weapons ban that expired on September 13, 2004. This inaction allowed criminals and terrorists potential easy access to many of the most powerful and deadly firearms manufactured. In addition, Congress has failed to close a loophole that allows individuals on terrorist watch lists to buy these weapons and has failed to pass legislation that would, at the very least, require a background check for individuals attempting to buy the previously banned assault weapons at gun shows.

Rather than considering a bill to protect members of the gun industry from liability, we should help protect our families and communities by addressing the loopholes that potentially allow known and suspected terrorists to legally purchase military-style firearms within our own borders. I again urge my colleagues to take up and pass common sense gun safety legislation that will address these loopholes and the threats they pose.

I ask unanimous consent that the April 11, 2005 Los Angeles Times editorial titled “Remember Gun Control?” be printed in the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

[From the Los Angeles Times, Apr. 11, 2005]

REMEMBER GUN CONTROL?

After four years of George W. Bush, the notions that some be too thin, too gerous or unstable to trust with a firearm or that assault weapons do not belong in civil- socity are deader than a wild turkey in hunting season.

During Bush’s first campaign, a National Rifle Assn. leader quipped, “If we win, we’ll have a president where we work out of their office.” How’s he doing?

Over the last four years, the president and his congressional allies have repudiated or quietly eviscerated key gun laws and regulations. Now they are poised to shield firearms makers and sellers from nearly all damage claims when their products kill or maim. Not only is this a gift no other industry enjoys, it’s a truly bad idea that even gun owners have reason to oppose.

Last year, Republican congressional leaders simply drove a stake in the 19-year- old federal assault gun ban, refusing to even call a vote on renewing it despite steady popu- lar support for the law. Bush, who once claimed that he supported the ban, refused to make it a priority to his House or Senate allies to keep it alive. With it died the ban on domestically made ammu- nition clips with more than 10 rounds, a boon for any disgruntled employee, terrorist or high school student who wants to mow down a crowd. The president also signed a bill that removed the ban on importation of high capacity magazines, which the president and his allies claim would not make guns any safer.

Meanwhile, a Government Accountability Office study examining FBI and state back- ground-check records found that 35 people whose names appeared on terrorism watch lists were able to buy a gun. Incredibly, a would-be buyer’s presence on a watch list does not even prevent him from buying a firearm. Because background-check data now must be promptly destroyed, it is impos- sible to know how many more terrorism sus- pects might be on those lists.

The immunity bill, introduced by Sen. Larry E. Craig (R-Idaho) and Rep. Cliff Stearns (R-Fla.), would protect gun manufac- turers and sellers from damage suits by victims of gun violence. It would even block injury suits from gun owners. That means gun owners can’t sue if poorly made hand- guns explode or their children play with the wrong gun.

Congress required the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives to keep secret the data that tracks weapons used in crimes.

Dr. Maurice R. Hilleman dedicated his life to developing vaccines for mumps, measles, chickenpox, pneumonia, meningitis and other diseases, saving tens of millions of lives. He died on Monday at a hospital in Philadel- phia at the age of 85.

Raised on a farm in Montana, Dr. Hilleman credited much of his success to his boyhood work with chickens, whose eggs form the foundation of so many vaccines. Much of modern preven- tive medicine is based on Dr. Hilleman’s work, though he never re- ceived the public recognition of Salk, Sabin or Pasteur. He is credited with having developed more human and ani- mal vaccines than any other scientist, helping to extend human life expectancy and improving the economies of many countries.

According to two medical leaders, Dr. Anthony S. Fauci, director of the Na- tional Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases, and Dr. Paul A. Offit, chief of infectious diseases at Children’s Hospital in Philadelphia, Dr. Hilleman probably saved more lives than any other scientist in the 20th century. “The scientific quality and quantity of what he did was amazing,” Dr. Fauci is quoted as saying. “Just one of his accomplishments would be enough to have made for a great sci- entific career. One can say without hyperbole that Maurice changed the world with his extraordinary contribu- tions in so many disciplines: virology, epidemiology, immunology, cancer re- search and vaccinology.”

Dr. Hilleman developed 8 of the 14 vaccines routinely recommended: mea- sles, mumps, hepatitis A, hepatitis B, chickenpox, meningitis, pneumonia and pneumococcal meningitis. He also developed the first generation of a vaccine against rubella, also known as German measles. The vacci- nes have virtually vanquished many of the once common childhood diseases in developed countries.

In addition, Dr. Hilleman overcame immunological obstacles to combine vaccines so that one shot could protect against several diseases, like the MMR vaccine for measles, mumps and rubella. He developed about 40 experimental and licensed animal and human vac- cines, mostly with his team from Merck of Whitehouse Station, NJ. His role in their development included lab work as well as scientific and adminis- trative leadership.

And as a sign of his humility, Dr. Hilleman routinely credited others for their roles in advances, according to his colleagues.

Vaccine development is complex, re- quiring an artistry to safely produce large amounts of weakened live or dead microorganisms. Dr. Offit once said, “He did what was that had the green thumb of mass production that he had.” The hepatitis B vaccine, licensed in 1981, is credited as the first
One of Dr. Hilleman's goals was to develop the first licensed vaccine against a viral cancer. He achieved it in the early 1970s, developing a vaccine to prevent Marek's disease, a lymphoma cancer of chickens caused by a member of the herpes virus family. Preventing the disease helped revolutionize the economics of the poultry industry. Dr. Hilleman's vaccines have also prevented deafness, blindness and other permanent disabilities among millions of people, a point made in 1988 when President Ronald Reagan presented him with the National Medal of Science, the Nation's highest scientific honor.

Because scientific knowledge about viruses was so limited when he began his career, Dr. Hilleman said that trial and error, sound judgment and luck drove much of his research. Luck played a major role in the discovery of adenoviruses. Dr. Hilleman flew a team to Missouri to collect specimens from troops suffering from influenza. But by the time his team arrived, influenza had discharged that summer around the country fired for an expensive useless exercise. Dr. Hilleman seized on his observation of the occurrence of a fresh outbreak of a different disease. His team discovered three new types of adenoviruses among the troops.

In the early 1950s, he made a discovery that helps prevent influenza. He detected a pattern of genetic changes that the influenza virus undergoes as it mutates. The phenomenon is known as drift—minor changes—and shift—major changes. Vaccine manufacturers take account of drift in choosing the strains of influenza virus included in the vaccines that are freshly made each influenza season. Shifts can herald a large outbreak or pandemic of influenza, and Dr. Hilleman was the first to detect the shift that caused the 1957 Asian influenza pandemic. He read an article in the New York Times on April 17, 1957, about influenza among infants in Hong Kong—cases that had escaped detection from the worldwide influenza surveillance systems. At the time, he directed the central laboratory for worldwide military influenza surveillance and was sure that the cases represented the onset of an influenza pandemic. So he immediately sent for specimens from Hong Kong and helped isolate a new strain of influenza virus. He also demanded that breeders keep roosters that would otherwise have been slaughtered so they could cultivate enough eggs to prepare 40 million doses of influenza to protect Americans against the 1957 influenza strain.

Standing tall at six-foot-one and wearing reading glasses that rested on the tip of his nose, Dr. Hilleman described himself as a renegade. He often participated in scientific meetings, where he could be irascible while amusing his colleagues with profane asides.

At one of many meetings with this physician-reporter, a Thanksgiving Day dinner during a conference at the World Health Organization in Geneva in the 1980s, Dr. Hilleman said he was driven by a goal to get rid of disease and by a belief that scientists had to serve society.

Maurice Ralph Hilleman was born on Aug. 30, 1919, in Miles City, MT. His mother and twin sister died during his birth. In 1937, he went to work in the local J. C. Penney's store where he helped downstreamed his customers, pick out chenille bathrobes for their girlfriends, and he was well on the way to a career in retailing until his oldest brother suggested that he go to college. After graduating from Montana State University in 1941, he received his Ph.D. in microbiology from the University of Chicago and then joined E. R. Squibb & Sons. There, he developed a vaccine against Japanese B encephalitis to protect American troops in the World War II Pacific offensive. In 1948, he moved to the Walter Reed Army Medical Center and stayed until 1957, when Vannevar Bush, then chairman of Merck and a former director of the Federal Office of Scientific Research and Development in World War II, persuaded him to direct a virus research program for the drug company.

After retiring as senior vice president for Merck research laboratories in 1984, Dr. Hilleman continued to work on vaccines, since he was needed for at least 20 diseases, including AIDS. Dr. Hilleman is survived by his wife, Lorraine, a retired nurse; two daughters, Jeryl Lynn of Palo Alto, CA., and Kirsten J. of New York City; two brothers, Victor, of Fontana, CA., and Norman, of Santa Barbara, CA.; and five grandchildren. His daughter Jeryl Lynn is at least in part responsible for the mumps vaccine. In 1963, when her salivary glands started to swell with the disease, Dr. Hilleman gave her a common cold vaccine that swelled her throat and went on to isolate the virus. He then weakened it and within 4 years had produced the now-standard mumps vaccine. The weakened strain bears her name.

Mr. President, it is an honor for me to pay my respects to such a great and accomplished man as Dr. Maurice Hilleman. And it is an honor for me to call him a fellow Montanan.

ADDITIONAL STATEMENTS

100 YEARS OF EXEMPLARY SERVICE

Mr. INOUYE. Mr. President, on April 15, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, Honolulu Engineer District, HED, will celebrate 100 years of exemplary service to Hawaii, the Pacific region, the U.S. military and the Nation.

For the past 100 years, the District has served with pride and distinction. I have personally witnessed their hard work and dedication to improve the lives of our fellow citizens in many ways. They have never failed to answer the call.

The District has had a significant impact on the ability of our servicemen and women to fight the global war on terror; it has advised our region's civil leaders and worked to enhance the safety of communities in and about waterways and the functionality of the many major harbors in my home State of Hawaii. In everything they do they safeguard the environment.

The Corps' projects navigation, flood control and shore protection to building and maintaining the infrastructure for our military personnel, the Honolulu District is proud of its service.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers' missions in the Pacific region have expanded exponentially since the unit's conception in 1905 when Lt. John Slattery was designated as Honolulu District Engineer on the Island of Oahu. The mission of the "Twin Lights" Honolulu District is to design and construct lighthouses for navigation, acquire land for military fortifications, improve the harbors and expand the Corps' services to other Pacific islands.

The first Honolulu District project was the creation of the Kaneohe Light. The Honolulu District has supported the military in peace and in war, helped protect the island from enemies and forces of nature, protected the environment and wetlands, and added to Hawaii's economic growth.

HED's legacy includes: the creation of Sand Island; the acquisition of Fort DeRussy area in Waikiki; the expansion of Honolulu Harbor; the repair of Hickam, Wheeler and Pearl Harbor airfields after the December 1941 attack; the construction of the National Memorial Cemetery of the Pacific at Punchbowl, the Tripler Army Medical Center, the Hale Koa Hotel and numerous military and federal construction projects; and the creation of the Kaneohe-Kalua Dam, as well as a host of disaster mitigation and assistance measures.

At the beginning of the 20th century, HED constructed six deep-draft harbors on the five major Hawaiian Islands and three crucial lighthouses for navigation.

Under Slattery's command, the District began transforming the swampy coral reef used as a quarantine station in Honolulu Harbor into what is now known as Sand Island. Lt. Slattery's contributions are honored today with the Lt. John R. Slattery Bridge which connects Sand Island with the City of Honolulu.

He later purchased the 74-acre Fort DeRussy area in Waikiki for just $2,700 an acre for use as a military fortification. At the time, the land was little more than a swampy parcel. Today the area provides a valuable green oasis in the heart of Waikiki.

Throughout the 20th century, HED supported Oahu's defense by building a multitude of coastal fortifications including Pearl Harbor, Forts Ruger, Armstrong, Weaver, Barrette and Kamehameha as well as Batteries Randolph, Williston, Hatch, and Harlow.

Changes in technology and the approach of World War II changed HED’s missions. Batteries and forts were supplemented with artillery fire control and submarine mine defense systems. As cars began replacing horse-drawn wagons, HED built new roads and tunnels to transport equipment and troops. The District enlarged Honolulu Harbor to 1,000 feet long and 800 feet wide—a critical project because the newly-created Panama Canal had transformed Honolulu into a major port-of-call for ships needing coal and supplies.

The District’s role in the Pacific increased dramatically during World War II. At the height of the war, HED employed more than 26,000 people. Not only was the District creating the new airfield ferry routes and repairing the damaged airfields at Hickam, Wheeler and Ford Island, but the District was also tasked with additional responsibilities beyond its normal realm.

The District was suddenly responsible for determining shipping priorities in the harbor; converting sugarcane fields to vegetable plantations to support farms; organizing a rationing program for oil and other consumer goods; camouflage equipment and landmarks; building trenches and air raid shelters; erecting radar stations and excavating extensive underground rooms and tunnels for ammunition storage.

Before war was declared, the District had been creating a new Airfield Ferry Route System. The original route from the Philippines, Marianas, Wake Island, Midway, Hawaii to California was considered vulnerable to Japanese attack. New air ferry routes to the east and south were necessary to the war effort and the military buildup in Australia and south were necessary to the war effort and the military buildup in Australia.

Building seven runways and support facilities on small, remote islands presented a number of challenges involving materials, manpower and water shortages, communication, transportation and geographic topography. The southern route, from California, Hawaii, Christmas, Canton, Fiji, New Caledonia to Australia and the eastern route, from Christmas, Kennewick, Tongatapu, Norfolk to Sydney, were finished by the 1-year anniversary of the attack on Pearl Harbor—an impressive accomplishment by any standard.

When the war ended, HED had constructed 69 miles of runways and taxiways, and 2,700,000 square yards of aircraft parking area.

Although the District’s workload diminished after the war, the post-war years were anything but quiet as HED continued to supply engineering troops overseas and to dispose of real estate on the islands.

The Corps was also busy with major endeavors including construction of Tripler Army Medical Center, the National Memorial Cemetery of the Pacific at Punchbowl, and flood control and shore protection projects critical to the safety and future enjoyment of many communities.

Tripler Army Medical Center, commonly known as the “Pink Lady,” was completed in 1948 at a cost of $40 million. The 14-story, 1,500-bed hospital was an extensive project featuring 12 separate buildings—each constructed separately to make the Medical Center earthquake resistant. Today, Tripler continues serving military members and their families from around the Pacific, as well as Hawaii’s veterans and military retirees.

During the 1960s and 1970s, new Federal policies further expanded HED’s duties. The National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 required the Corps to prepare environmental impact statements, EIS, on all proposed federal actions affecting the environment. The Clean Water Act of 1977 brought changes to the Corps’ regulatory mission and required the Corps to issue permits for all dredged or fill material. The Corps was now responsible for all “nation” wetlands—a scope that now stretches far beyond navigable waters. This began the Corps’ mission as “Stewards of the Environment.”

The 1970s were also a time of internal change for the District. In 1973, the functions of the Pacific Ocean Division and the Honolulu Engineer District were merged to form a single operating division. The Division moved from Fort Armstrong to its present location at Fort Shafter on Oahu.

Civil works and capital improvement programs expanded to Guam, American Samoa, Kwajalein and the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands. Main projects on Oahu included building military housing and improving facilities at Hickam AFB, Wheeler, Schofield, Alamanu and Fort Shafter.

In 1973, HED began construction of the Hale Koa Military Rest and Recreation Center in Waikiki. The original highrise hotel tower has 416 rooms, 15 floors and was built for $15.7 million. Nearby Battery Randolph was transformed into the U.S. Army Museum. The second floor of the museum today houses the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers Pacific Regional Visitors Center. The Corps’ responsibilities were further expanded in 1980 with the addition of a National Emergency Management Division. In July 2002, HED disaster recovery specialists provided support in the wake of Typhoon Chataan. Just 6 months later, HED responded swiftly in December 2002 when Pacific Ocean Division five time zones, the equator and the international dateline. This they have done with the utmost of professionalism, integrity and an unwavering commitment to service.

I am truly honored to have the Honolulu Engineer District in my home State. They serve as “America’s Engineers in the Pacific.” I have no doubt that they will continue their service and legacy with pride and aloha for the next hundred years and beyond. Happy Birthday. Congratulations on a job well done. On behalf of a grateful Nation, thank you for your service.

MR. RALPH DREES

• MR. BUNNING. Mr. President, I pay tribute and congratulate Mr. Ralph Drees of Northern KY, who was recently honored with one of the “Movers and Shakers” awards for the Greater Cincinnati area. Mr. Drees’ life accomplishments and dedication to Commonwealth of Kentucky have given me reason to be proud.

Mr. Drees was born in 1934 and grew up in Wilder, KY. After graduating from Newport Catholic High School in 1952, he was drafted and went on to serve in the Army Corps of Engineers. At the age of 23 he returned home to Kentucky to join his father and brother in the family business. This business, the Drees Company, has grown to become the largest privately held company within the greater Cincinnati area.

Throughout his life, Mr. Drees has always been active in civic affairs in Northern Kentucky. He’s served as an Erlanger councilman, president of the Home Builders Association of Northern Kentucky and member of the Northern Kentucky Area Planning Commission. In 1990, he was named the Northern Kentucky Chamber of Commerce’s Business Person of the year.

The “Movers and Shakers” award of Northern Kentucky is an annual award presented to honor those within the Greater Cincinnati region who stand as an example for all. It is presented by the Kentucky Enquirer, the Sales and Marketing Council of Northern Kentucky, The Home Builders Association of Northern Kentucky and The Kentucky Post.

As a U.S. Senator from Kentucky, I appreciate the devotion Mr. Drees has shown over the years to the citizens of Kentucky. I commend his efforts and hope his example of dedication and hard work will serve as an inspiration to the entire State.
HONORING DR. PATRICK J. SCHLOSS

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. President, I rise today to publicly recognize the inauguration of Dr. Patrick J. Schloss as the 15th President of Northern State University in Aberdeen, SD.

A dedicated scholar, diligent educator and attentive family man, Dr. Schloss certainly deserves this great honor and responsibility. After obtaining both his bachelors degree in special education and his masters degree in counseling from Illinois State University, Patrick went on to earn his doctorate in special education methods relating to vocational education and community integration are studied in colleges and universities throughout the Nation.

Prior to joining the faculty of Bloomsburg University in Pennsylvania, Patrick held numerous administrative and academic positions at the University of Missouri and Pennsylvania State University. While at Bloomsburg, he served as assistant vice president and dean of graduate studies from 1994 until 2000, when he was appointed provost and vice president for academic affairs. Under Patrick's direction, Bloomsburg's enrollment not only increased 12 percent, but the university launched its undergraduate engineering and doctoral programs, as well.

In addition to his passion for education, Dr. Schloss served as president of the Pennsylvania Association of Graduate Schools, and also held board, committee, and task force appointments on behalf of the Council for Exceptional Children and the Association for Retarded Citizens.

It is an honor for me to share Dr. Schloss's accomplishments with my colleagues and to publicly commend him for his extraordinary academic career. As President of Northern State University is an honor he richly deserves, and I am certain he will prove to be a tremendous asset to the university and the entire Aberdeen community. On behalf of all South Dakotans, I would like to congratulate Dr. Schloss and wish him all the best.

HONORING THE SPEARFISH HIGH SCHOOL PARTICIPANTS IN THE "WE THE PEOPLE" COMPETITION

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. President, on April 30–May 2, 2005, more than 1,200 students from across the United States will visit Washington, DC, to compete in the national finals of We the People: The Citizen and the Constitution. The competition is currently preparing for their participation in the national, competition in Washington, DC. It is inspiring to see these young people advocate for their communities and the institutions of American constitutional democracy, it also helps them identify the contemporary relevance of the Constitution and Bill of Rights. Critical thinking exercises, problem-solving activities, and learning techniques help develop participatory skills necessary for students to become active, responsible citizens.

RECOGNIZING THE 50TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE DENVER REGIONAL COUNCIL OF GOVERNMENTS (DRCOG)

Mr. SALAZAR. Mr. President, I rise today to recognize a model of intergovernmental cooperation from my home State of Colorado: the Denver Regional Council of Governments, known as DRCOG.

DRCOG is a nonprofit, cooperative effort of the 51 county and municipal governments in the Denver metropolitan area, representing two and a half million residents, with another million expected by 2030, across eight counties: Adams, Arapahoe, Boulder, Broomfield, Clear Creek, Denver, Douglas, Gilpin and Jefferson. It was founded 50 years ago as the Inter-County Regional Planning Association, conceived as a place where local officials could work cooperatively to solve the region's problems. And it is a voluntary organization—the members are choosing to work together for mutual benefit.

DRCOG champions efforts in a number of areas, including services for seniors, transportation and commuter solutions, public safety training and testing, where it has repeatedly benefited from the highly exposure Program, as well as regional growth and water quality plans. It has focused on long-term plans to solve these issues, including developing understandable, fair and objective project selection processes for regional projects eligible for Federal, State and local funds and a long-term regional growth plan.

Last night was DRCOG's Annual Awards Dinner, where it will hand out a number of awards, including the John V. Christensen Award. Named after one of DRCOG's co-founders, the late John Christensen was a county commissioner for Arapahoe County and one of the Denver area's biggest proponents of cooperative problem solving for the metro area. The Christensen award will go tonight to a regionalist who has displayed outstanding commitment to working for the region's common good. Past award recipients have included Colorado State legislators, mayors, county commissioners, county planners, regional leaders, and others during the award's 32-year history.

DRCOG has strived to speak, as its motto says, "With One Voice." Its members have eschewed partisanship and bickering to focus on a single goal: Cooperative problem solving that benefits all of the people of the Denver metro area. By coming to the table with the commitment to work towards a common solution, DRCOG has exemplified what we seek in our leaders: Thoughtful consideration and deliberate action.

DRCOG is exactly the kind of effort to which we all aspire, a place for ideas and insight, for working in a non-partisan fashion across jurisdictional lines. I applaud the accomplishments and efforts of the Denver Regional Council of Governments and look forward to its continued success.

MESSAGES FROM THE PRESIDENT

Messages from the President of the United States were communicated to... the Senate by Ms. Evans, one of his secretaries.

EXECUTIVE MESSAGES REFERRED

As in executive session the Presiding Officer laid before the Senate messages from the President of the United States submitting sundry nominations which were referred to the appropriate committees.

(The nominations received today are printed at the end of the Senate proceedings.)

MESSAGES FROM THE HOUSE

At 2:10 p.m., a message from the House of Representatives, delivered by Ms. Niland, one of its reading clerks, announced that the House has passed the following bills, in which it requests the concurrence of the Senate:

H.R. 8. An act to make the repeal of the estate tax permanent.

H.R. 483. An act to designate a United States courthouse in Brownsville, Texas, as the `Reynaldo G. Garza and Filemon B. Vela United States Courthouse'.

H.R. 797. An act to designate the United States courthouse located at 501 I Street in Sacramento, California, as the `Robert T. Matsui United States Courthouse'.

H.R. 2006. `Establish a portion of the Federal building located at 2100 Jamieson Avenue, in Alexandria, Virginia, as the `Justin W. Williams United States Attorney's Building'.

At 3:41 p.m., a message from the House of Representatives, delivered by Mr. Hays, one of its reading clerks, announced that the Speaker of the House of Representatives has signed the following bill, without amendment:

S. 256. An act to amend title 11 of the United States Code, and for other purposes.

ENROLLED BILLS SIGNED

At 4:27 p.m., a message from the House of Representatives, delivered by Mr. Hays, one of its reading clerks, announced that the Speaker of the House of Representatives has signed the following enrolled bill:

S. 256. An act to amend title 11 of the United States Code, and for other purposes.

The enrolled bill was signed subsequently by the President pro tempore (Mr. STEVENS).

At 5:25 p.m., a message from the House of Representatives, delivered by one of its clerks, announced that the Speaker has signed the following enrolled bill:

H.R. 1134. An act to amend the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 to provide for the proper tax treatment of certain disaster mitigation payments.

The enrolled bill was signed subsequently by the President pro tempore (Mr. STEVENS).

MEASURES REFERRED

The following bills were read the first and the second times by unanimous consent, and referred as indicated:

H.R. 483. An act to designate a United States courthouse in Brownsville, Texas, as the `Reynaldo G. Garza and Filemon B. Vela United States Courthouse'; to the Committee on Environment and Public Works.

H.R. 1463. An act to designate a portion of the Federal building located at 2100 Jamieson Avenue, in Alexandria, Virginia, as the `Justice John E. Bates United States Courthouse'; to the Committee on Environment and Public Works.

At the request of Mr. Brown, the name of the Senator from South Dakota (Mr. Johnson) and the Senator from Arkansas (Mrs. Lincoln) were added as cosponsors of S. 642, a bill to amend title XXXII of the Public Health Service Act to fund care of caregivers and increasing public education about Preventing Caring for elderly veterans.

S. 666
At the request of Mr. DeWine, the name of the Senator from California (Mrs. Feinstein) was added as a cosponsor of S. 666, a bill to protect the public health by providing the Food and Drug Administration with certain authority to regulate tobacco products.

S. 772
At the request of Mr. Cornyn, the name of the Senator from Illinois (Mr. Durbin) was added as a cosponsor of S.
772, a bill to amend the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 to expand workplace health incentives by equalizing the tax consequences of employee athletic facility use.

S. CON. RES. 4

At the request of Mr. NELSON of Florida, the name of the Senator from North Carolina (Mrs. DOLE) was added as a co-sponsor of S. Con. Res. 4, a concurrent resolution expressing the sense of the Congress that the Department of Defense should continue to exercise its statutory authority to support the activities of the Boy Scouts of America, in particular the periodic national and world Boy Scout Jamborees.

AMENDMENT NO. 326

At the request of Mr. NELSON of Florida, the name of the Senator from Colorado (Mr. SALAZAR) was added as a co-sponsor of amendment No. 316 intended to be proposed to H.R. 1268, making emergency supplemental appropriations for the fiscal year ending September 30, 2005, to establish and rapidly implement regulations for State driver’s license and identification document security standards, to prevent terrorists from abusing the asylum laws of the United States, to unify terrorism-related grounds for inadmissibility and removal, to ensure expeditious construction of the San Diego border fence, and for other purposes.

AMENDMENT NO. 328

At the request of Ms. SNOWE, the names of the Senator from Wyoming (Mr. ENZI), the Senator from Maine (Ms. COLLINS) and the Senator from Missouri (Mr. TALENT) were added as co-sponsors of amendment No. 338 intended to be proposed to H.R. 1268, making emergency supplemental appropriations for the fiscal year ending September 30, 2005, to establish and rapidly implement regulations for State driver’s license and identification document security standards, to prevent terrorists from abusing the asylum laws of the United States, to unify terrorism-related grounds for inadmissibility and removal, to ensure expeditious construction of the San Diego border fence, and for other purposes.

AMENDMENT NO. 329

At the request of Mr. DORGAN, the name of the Senator from Illinois (Mr. DURBIN) was added as a co-sponsor of amendment No. 399 proposed to H.R. 1268, making emergency supplemental appropriations for the fiscal year ending September 30, 2005, to establish and rapidly implement regulations for State driver’s license and identification document security standards, to prevent terrorists from abusing the asylum laws of the United States, to unify terrorism-related grounds for inadmissibility and removal, to ensure expeditious construction of the San Diego border fence, and for other purposes.

AMENDMENT NO. 332

At the request of Mr. DEWINE, the names of the Senator from Illinois (Mr. ONISCH and Mr. NEUMANN) and the Senator from Connecticut (Mr. LIEDERMAN) were added as co-sponsors of amendment No. 342 intended to be proposed to H.R. 1268, making emergency supplemental appropriations for the fiscal year ending September 30, 2005, to establish and rapidly implement regulations for State driver’s license and identification document security standards, to prevent terrorists from abusing the asylum laws of the United States, to unify terrorism-related grounds for inadmissibility and removal, to ensure expeditious construction of the San Diego border fence, and for other purposes.

AMENDMENT NO. 393

At the request of Mr. KENNEDY, the name of the Senator from Massachusetts (Mr. KERRY) was added as a co-sponsor of amendment No. 400 intended to be proposed to H.R. 1268, making emergency supplemental appropriations for the fiscal year ending September 30, 2005, to establish and rapidly implement regulations for State driver’s license and identification document security standards, to prevent terrorists from abusing the asylum laws of the United States, to unify terrorism-related grounds for inadmissibility and removal, to ensure expeditious construction of the San Diego border fence, and for other purposes.

AMENDMENT NO. 399

At the request of Mr. KYL, the name of the Senator from Vermont (Mr. LEAHY) was added as a co-sponsor of amendment No. 409 intended to be proposed to H.R. 1268, making emergency supplemental appropriations for the fiscal year ending September 30, 2005, to establish and rapidly implement regulations for State driver’s license and identification document security standards, to prevent terrorists from abusing the asylum laws of the United States, to unify terrorism-related grounds for inadmissibility and removal, to ensure expeditious construction of the San Diego border fence, and for other purposes.

AMENDMENT NO. 400

At the request of Mr. JEFFORDS, the name of the Senator from Vermont (Mr. LEAHY) was added as a co-sponsor of amendment No. 409 intended to be proposed to H.R. 1268, making emergency supplemental appropriations for the fiscal year ending September 30, 2005, to establish and rapidly implement regulations for State driver’s license and identification document security standards, to prevent terrorists from abusing the asylum laws of the United States, to unify terrorism-related grounds for inadmissibility and removal, to ensure expeditious construction of the San Diego border fence, and for other purposes.

AMENDMENT NO. 409

At the request of Mr. JEFFORDS, the name of the Senator from Vermont (Mr. LEAHY) was added as a co-sponsor of amendment No. 409 intended to be proposed to H.R. 1268, making emergency supplemental appropriations for the fiscal year ending September 30, 2005, to establish and rapidly implement regulations for State driver’s license and identification document security standards, to prevent terrorists from abusing the asylum laws of the United States, to unify terrorism-related grounds for inadmissibility and removal, to ensure expeditious construction of the San Diego border fence, and for other purposes.

AMENDMENT NO. 415

S. 783. A bill to repeal the sunset on the 2004 material-support enhancements, to increase penalties for providing material support to terrorist groups, to bar from the United States aliens who have received terrorist training, and for other purposes; to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. KYL. Mr. President, I rise today to introduce the Material Support to Terrorism Prohibition Improvements Act of 2005.

Mr. Barry Sabin, the Chief of the Counterterrorism Section of the Justice Department’s Criminal Division, testified as to the importance of the material support statutes to prosecute aggressively those individuals who supply terrorists with the support and resources they need to survive. The Department seeks to identify and apprehend terrorists before they can carry out their plans, and the material support statutes are a valuable tool for prosecutors seeking to bring charges against and incapacitate terrorists before they are able to cause death and destruction.

The bill that I introduce today expands current law’s exclusion from the United States of persons who give material support to terrorism by training at a terrorist camp. The bill makes such persons inadmissible to the United States, they now only are deportable, and applies these exclusions to pre-enactment terrorist training. Mr. Sabin described at last year’s hearing the threat posed by persons who have receive training at a terrorist camp:

A danger is posed to the vital foreign policy interests and national security of the United States whenever a person knowingly receives military-type training from a designated terrorist organization or persons acting on its behalf. Such an individual stands ready to further the malicious intent of the terrorist organization through terrorist activity that threatens the security of United States nationals or the national security of the United States.

My bill would ensure that such persons not only are removed from the United States once they are found here, but also are prevented from entering this country in the first place.

Today’s bill also repeals a 2006 sunset on several recent clarifications that were made to the material-support statute in order to address vagueness concerns expressed by some courts. At the September 13 Terrorism Subcommittees hearing, George Washington University law professor Jonathan Turley said of the original legislative proposal to clarify the statute: “[h]is proposal would actually improve the current federal law by correcting gaps and ambiguities that have led to recent judicial reversals. In that sense, the proposal can be viewed as a slight benefit to civil liberties by removing a dangerous level of ambiguity in the law.”

There is no reason why this important provision, and other improvements to the material-support statute made in last year’s 9/11 Commission bill, should be allowed to expire at the end of this Congress. This bill would make these improvements permanent.

I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill and a section by section analysis appear in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

S. 783

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled:

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.
This Act may be cited as the “Material Support to Terrorism Prohibition Improvements Act of 2005.”

SEC. 2. REPEAL OF SUNSET ON 2004 MATERIAL-SUPPORT ENHANCEMENTS.
Section 6603(g) of the Intelligence Reform and Terrorism Prevention Act of 2004 (18 U.S.C. 2332b note) is repealed.

SEC. 3. BARRING ENTRY TO THE UNITED STATES FOR REPRESENTATIVES AND MEMBERS OF TERRORIST GROUPS AND ALIENS WHO HAVE RECEIVED MILITARY-TYPE TRAINING FROM TERRORIST GROUPS.
Section 212(a)(3)(B) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (8 U.S.C. 1182(a)(3)(B)) is amended—

(1) in clause (i)—

(A) by striking “(a) terrorist organization as defined in clause (vi),”.
(B) by striking subclause (V) and inserting the following:

“(V) a member of a terrorist organization—

“(aa) described in clause (I) or (II) of clause (vi); or

“(bb) described in clause (vi)(III), unless the alien can demonstrate by clear and convincing evidence that the alien did not know, and should not reasonably have known, that the organization was a terrorist organization.”;

(C) in subclause (VI), by striking “or” at the end;

(D) in subclause (VII), by inserting “or” at the end; and

(E) by inserting after subclause (VII) the following:

“(VIII) has received military-type training (as defined in section 2339D(c)(1) of title 18, United States Code) from, or on behalf of, any organization that, at the time the training was received, was a terrorist organization;”;

and

(2) in clause (vi), by striking “clause (I)(V)” and inserting “subclauses (VI) and (VIII) of clause (i)”.

SEC. 4. EXPANDED REMOVAL FROM THE UNITED STATES OF ALIENS WHO HAVE RECEIVED MILITARY-TYPE TRAINING FROM TERRORIST GROUPS.
Section 223(a)(4)(E) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (8 U.S.C. 1225(a)(4)(E)) is amended to read as follows:

“(E) Recipient of Military-Type Training.—Any alien who has received military-type training (as defined in section 2339D(c)(1) of title 18, United States Code) from or on behalf of a terrorist organization, at the time the training was received, was a terrorist organization (as defined in section 212(a)(3)(B)(vi)), is deportable.

SEC. 5. BARRING ENTRY TO AND REMOVING TERRORISTS FROM THE UNITED STATES BASED ON PRE-ENACTMENT TERRORIST CONDUCT.
The amendments made by sections 3 and 4 of this Act shall apply to—

(1) all aliens subject to removal, deportation, or exclusion at any time; and

(2) acts as constituting a ground for inadmissibility, inadmissibility, deportation, or removal occurring or existing before, on, or after the date of enactment of this Act.

SEC. 6. INCREASED PENALTIES FOR PROVIDING MATERIAL SUPPORT TO TERRORIST GROUPS.

(a) Providing Material Support to Terrorists.—Section 2339A(a) of title 18, United States Code, is amended by striking “, imprisoned not more than 15 years,” and all that follows through “life,” and inserting “and imprisonment for not less than 15 years and for life.”.

(b) Providing Material Support or Resources to Designated Foreign Terrorist Organizations.—Section 2339B(a) of title 18, United States Code, is amended by striking “or imprisoned not more than 15 years,” and all that follows through “life,” and inserting “and imprisoned for not less than 5 years and not more than 25 years, and, if the death of any person results, shall be imprisoned for not less than 15 years or for life.”.

(c) Receiving Military-Type Training From a Foreign Terrorist Organization.—Section 2339D of title 18, United States Code, is amended by striking “or imprisoned for ten years, or both,” and inserting “and imprisoned for not less than 3 years and not more than 15 years.”.

Section 3. Increased Penalties for Providing Material Support to Terrorist Groups. Under current law, providing material support to a terrorist group is a criminal offense that is punishable by zero to 15 years’ imprisonment. Under current law, providing material support to a terrorist group is thus not sufficient to bar an alien from entering the United States—Congress indisputably signed this bill into law in 2004, before the enactment of this Act. Congress indisputably intended that this material-support statute would correct a deficiency in current law, which makes aliens who receive military-type training deportable but does not make them inadmissible. The material support provision in this section would correct a deficiency in current law, which makes aliens who receive military-type training deportable but does not make them inadmissible. The material support provision in this section would correct a deficiency in current law, which makes aliens who receive military-type training deportable but does not make them inadmissible. years in prison. Under the Supreme Court’s recent decision in United States v. Booker, 125 S.Ct. 738 (January 12, 2005), the federal sentencing guidelines’ prescriptions for no longer constrain district judges’ discretion, and judges now have discretion to impose little or no jail time for material-support offenses. Booker/Fanfan also limits the appellate courts’ ability to correct district judges’ failure to impose jail time for a material-support offense. This section increases the penalties for material-support offenses to 5–25 years’ imprisonment, with 15 years to life if death results, and raises the military-type-training penalty to 3–15 years’ imprisonment. These enhanced penalties reflect the gravity of the offense of providing material support to a terrorist group, and the heightened importance, since the terrorist attacks of September 11, 2001, of individuals from providing aid and comfort to terrorist organizations.

By Mr. THOMAS (for himself and Mr. LINCOLN): S. 784. A bill to amend title XVIII of the Social Security Act to provide for the coverage of marriage and family therapist services and mental health counselor services under part B of the Medicare program, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. THOMAS. Mr. President, I am pleased to rise today to introduce the “Seniors Mental Health Access Improvement Act of 2005” with my distinguished colleague from Arkansas, Mrs. LINCOLN. Specifically, the “Seniors Mental Health Access Improvement Act of 2005” permits mental health counselors and marriage and family therapists to bill Medicare for mental health services provided to seniors. This will result in an increased choice of mental health providers for seniors and enhance their ability to access mental health services in their communities.

This legislation is especially crucial to rural seniors who are often forced to travel long distances to utilize the services of mental health providers currently recognized by the Medicare program. Rural communities have difficulty recruiting and retaining providers, especially mental health providers. In many small towns, a mental health counselor or a marriage and family therapist is the only mental health care provider in the area. Medicare— as it exists today—compounds the situation because only psychiatrists, clinical psychologists, clinical social workers and clinical nurse specialists are able to bill Medicare for their services.

In 2001, of deterring individuals from providing aid and comfort to terrorist organizations.

(6) INCLUSION OF MARRIAGE AND FAMILY THERAPISTS AND MENTAL HEALTH COUNSELORS AS PRACTITIONERS FOR ASSIGNMENT OF CLAIMS.—Section 1842(b)(18)(C) of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 1395x(aa)(1)(B)) is amended by adding at the end the following new clauses:

"(vii) A marriage and family therapist (as defined in subsection (bbb)(2))," after "social worker,".

"(viii) A mental health counselor (as defined in section 1861(bbb)(4)).".

(b) COVERAGE OF CERTAIN MENTAL HEALTH SERVICES PROVIDED IN CERTAIN SETTINGS.—

(1) RURAL HEALTH CLINICS AND FEDERALLY QUALIFIED HEALTH CENTERS.—Section 1861(aa)(1)(B) of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 1395x(aa)(1)(B)) is amended by striking "or a clinical social worker (as defined in subsection (hh)(1))," and inserting ", or by a clinical social worker (as defined in subsection (hh)(1)), by a marriage and family therapist (as defined in subsection (bbb)(2)), or by a mental health counselor (as defined in subsection (bbb)(4)).",.

(d) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall apply with respect to services furnished on or after January 1, 2006.

By Mr. SANTORUM:

S. 786. A bill to clarify the duties and responsibilities of the National Weather Service, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation.

Mr. SANTORUM. Mr. President, I rise to introduce the National Weather Services Duties Act of 2005 to clarify the responsibilities of the National Weather Service (NWS) within the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, NOAA. This legislation modernizes the statutory description of NWS roles in the national weather enterprise so that it reflects today's reality in which the NWS and the commercial weather industry both play important parts in providing weather products and services to the Nation.

Back in 1890 when the current NWS organic statute was enacted, and all the way through World War II, the public received its weather forecasts and warnings almost exclusively from the Weather Bureau, the NWS's predecessor. In the late 1940s, a fledging weather service industry began to develop. From then until December 2004, the NWS has had policies sensitive to the importance of fostering the industry's expansion, and since 1948 has had formal policies discouraging its competition with industry. Fourteen years ago the NWS took the extra step of carefully delineating the respective roles and responsibilities of the weather industry, in addition to pledging its intention not to provide products or services that were or could be provided by the commercial weather industry. This longstanding non-competition and non-duplication policy has had the effect of facilitating the growth of the industry into a billion dollar sector of and strengthening and extending the national weather enterprise, now the best in the world.

Regrettably, the parent agency of the NWS, NOAA, repealed the 1991 non-competition and non-duplication policy in December 2004. Its new policy only promises to "give due consideration" to the abilities of private sector entities. The new policy appears to signal the intention of NOAA and the NWS to expand their activities into areas that are already well served by the commercial weather industry. This detracts from NWS's core missions of maintaining a modern and effective meteorological infrastructure, collecting comprehensive observational data, and issuing warnings and forecasts of severe weather that imperils life and property.

Additionally, NOAA's action threatens the continued success of the commercial weather industry. It is not an easy prospect for a business to attract investors, or by investors when the government is providing similar products and services for free.

This bill restores the NWS non-competition policy. However, the legislation leaves NWS with complete and unfettered freedom to carry out its critical role of preparing and issuing severe weather warnings and forecasts designed for the protection of life and property of the general public. I believe it is in the best interest of both the government and NWS to concentrate on this critical role and its other core missions.

The beauty of a highly competent private sector is that services that are not inherently involved in public safety and security can be carried out with little or no expenditure of taxpayer monies. At a time of tight agency budgets, the commercial weather industry's increasing capabilities offer the Federal Government the opportunity to focus its resources on the governmental functions of collecting and distributing weather data, research and development of atmospheric models and core forecasts, and on ensuring that NWS meteorologists provide the most timely and accurate warnings and forecasts of life-threatening weather.

The National Weather Service Duties Act also addresses the potential misuse of insider information. Currently, NOAA and the NWS are doing little to safeguard the NWS information that could be used by opportunistic investors to gain unfair profits in the weather futures markets, in the agriculture and energy markets, and in other business segments influenced by government weather outlooks, forecasts, and warnings. No one knows who may be taking advantage of this information. In recent years there have been various examples of NWS personnel providing such information to specific TV stations and others that enable those businesses to secure an advantage over their competitors. The best way to address this problem is to require that NWS data, information, guidance, forecasts and warnings be issued in real time and simultaneously to all members of the public, the media and the commercial weather industry. This bill imposes just such a requirement, which is common to other Federal agencies.

The responsibilities of the commercial weather industry as the only private sector producer of weather information and services and systems deserve this definition to ensure continued growth and investment in the private sector and to properly focus the government's activities.

We have every right to expect these agencies to minimize unnecessary, competitive, and commercial-type activities, and to do the best possible job of warning the public about impending flash floods, hurricanes, tornadoes, tsunamis, and other potentially catastrophic events. I encourage my colleagues to support this important piece of legislation.

By Mr. DURBIN:

S. 793. A bill to establish national standards for discharges from cruise vessels into the waters of the United States, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation.

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

S. 793

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE; TABLE OF CONTENTS.

(a) SHORT TITLE.—This Act may be cited as the "Clean Cruise Ship Act of 2005".

(b) TABLE OF CONTENTS.—The table of contents of this Act is as follows:

Sec. 1. SHORT title; table of contents.
Sec. 2. Findings and purposes.
Sec. 3. Definitions.
Sec. 4. Prohibitions and conditions regarding the discharge of sewage, graywater, or bilge water.
Sec. 5. Efluent limits for discharges of sewage and graywater.
Sec. 6. Inspection and sampling.
Sec. 7. Employee protection.
Sec. 8. Judicial review.
Sec. 9. Enforcement.
Sec. 10. Citizen suits.
Sec. 11. Alaskan cruise vessels.
Sec. 12. Ballast water.
Sec. 13. Funding.
Sec. 14. Effect on other law.

SEC. 2. FINDINGS AND PURPOSES.

(a) FINDINGS.—Congress finds that—

(1) cruise vessels carry millions of passengers each year, and in 2001, carried 8,400,000 passengers in North America;

(2) cruise vessels carry passengers to and through the most beautiful ocean areas in the United States and provide many people in the United States ample opportunities to relax and learn about oceans and marine ecosystems;

(3) ocean pollution threatens the beautiful and inspiring oceans and marine wildlife that many cruise vessels intend to present to travelers; (4) cruise vessels generate tremendous quantities of pollution, including—

(A) emissions of air pollutants;

(B) graywater from showers, sinks, laundries, baths, and galleys;

(C) oily water;

(D) toxic chemicals from photo processing, dry cleaning, and paints;

(E) ballast water;

(F) solid waste; and

(G) effluent of air pollutants;

(3) some of the pollution generated by cruise ships, particularly sewage discharge, can lead to high levels of nutrients that are known to harm and kill coral reefs and which can increase the quantity of pathogens in the water and heighten the susceptibility of many coral species to scarring and disease;

(6) laws in effect as of the date of enactment of this Act do not provide adequate controls, monitoring, or enforcement of certain discharges from cruise vessels into the waters of the United States; and

(7) to protect coastal and ocean areas of the United States from pollution generated by cruise vessels, federal legislation is needed to reduce and better regulate discharges from cruise vessels, and to improve monitoring, reporting, and enforcement of discharges.

(b) PURPOSES.—The purposes of this Act are—

(1) to prevent the discharge of any untreated sewage or graywater from a cruise vessel entering ports of the United States into the waters of the United States;

(2) to prevent the discharge of any treated sewage or graywater discharge sewage, graywater, or bilge water from cruise vessels entering ports of the United States into the territorial sea;

(3) to establish new national effluent limits and management standards for the discharge of treated sewage or graywater from cruise vessels entering ports of the United States into the exclusive economic zone of the United States in any case in which the discharge is not within an area in which discharges are prohibited; and

(4) to ensure that cruise vessels entering ports of the United States comply with all applicable environmental laws.

SEC. 3. DEFINITIONS.

In this Act:

(1) COMMANDANT.—The term “Commandant” means the Commandant of the Coast Guard.

(2) ADMINISTRATOR.—The term “Administrator” means the Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency.

(3) TERRITORIAL SEA.—The term “territorial sea”—

(A) means the belt of the sea measured from the baseline of the United States determined in accordance with international law, as set forth in Presidential Proclamation number 3824, dated December 27, 1968; and

(B) includes the waters lying seaward of the line of ordinary low water and extending to the baseline of the United States, as determined under subparagraph (A).

(4) EXCLUSIVE ECONOMIC ZONE.—The term “exclusive economic zone” means the Exclusive Economic Zone of the United States established by Presidential Proclamation number 5030, dated March 10, 1983.

(5) WATERS OF THE UNITED STATES.—The term “waters of the United States” means the waters of the territorial sea, the exclusive economic zone, and the Great Lakes.

(6) GREAT LAKE.—The term “Great Lake” means—

(A) Lake Erie;

(B) Lake Huron (including Lake Saint Clair);

(C) Lake Michigan; and

(D) Lake Ontario; and

(E) Lake Superior.

(7) CRUISE VESSEL.—The term “cruise vessel” means—

(A) a passenger vessel (as defined in section 2101(22) of title 46, United States Code), that—

(i) is authorized to carry at least 250 passengers; and

(ii) has onboard sleeping facilities for each passenger; and

(B) does not include—

(i) a vessel of the United States operated by the Federal Government or a vessel of the government of a State.

(8) PASSENGER.—The term “passenger” means—

(A) any person on board a cruise vessel for the purpose of travel; and

(B) includes—

(i) a paying passenger; and

(ii) a staff person, such as a crew member, captain, or officer.

(9) PERSON.—The term “person” means—

(A) an individual;

(B) a corporation;

(C) a partnership;

(D) a limited liability company;

(E) an association;

(F) a State;

(G) a municipality;

(H) a commission or political subdivision of a State; and

(I) an Indian tribe.

(10) CITIZEN.—The term “citizen” means a person that has an interest that is or may be adversely affected by any provision of this Act.

(11) DISCHARGE.—The term “discharge”—

(A) means a release of any substance, however caused, from a cruise vessel; and

(B) includes spilling, leaking, pumping, emitting or emptying of any substance.

(12) SEWAGE.—The term “sewage” means—

(A) human body wastes;

(B) the wastes from toilets and other receptacles intended to receive or retain human body wastes; and

(C) sewage sludge.

(13) GRAYWATER.—The term “graywater” means galley, dishwasher, bath, and laundry wastewater.

(14) BILGE WATER.—The term “bilge water” means wastewater that includes lubrication oils, transmission oils, oil sludge or slops, fuel or oil sludge, used oil, fuel or fuel filters, or oily waste.

(15) SEWAGE SLUDGE.—The term “sewage sludge” means—

(A) any solid, semi-solid, or liquid residue removed during the treatment of municipal waste water or domestic sewage;

(B) includes—

(i) solids removed during primary, secondary, or advanced waste water treatment;

(ii) scum;

(iii) septage;

(iv) portable toilet pumpings;

(v) type III marine sanitation device pumpings (as defined in part 159 of title 33, Code of Federal Regulations); and

(vi) sewage sludge products; and

(C) does not include—

(i) grit or screenings; or

(ii) ash generated during the incineration of sewage sludge.

Section 6. Inspection and Sampling

(a) Development and Implementation of Inspection Programs—

(1) General.—The Commandant, in consultation with the Administrator, shall develop and implement, at no cost to the cruise industry, an inspection and sampling program for cruise vessels, including the cruise vessels calling on a port or territorial sea of the United States, that meets or exceeds the requirements of the Act.

(2) Inspections.—The program shall require that—

(A) the Commandant shall have the ability to record—

(i) all instances of noncompliance with the Act or any other applicable Federal law or international agreement; and

(ii) all other relevant Federal laws and regulations applicable to the discharge of sewage, graywater, or bilge water; and

(B) all other relevant Federal laws and regulations applicable to the discharge of sewage, graywater, or bilge water.

(b) Regulations.—The Commandant, in consultation with the Administrator, shall promulgate regulations that, at a minimum—

(1) require the owner, operator, or master, or other individual in charge, of a cruise vessel to maintain and produce a logbook detailing the times, types, volumes, and flow rates, origins, and locations of any discharge from the cruise vessel;

(2) provide for routine announced and unannounced inspections of—

(A) every cruise vessel;

(B) the functionality and proper operation of installed equipment for abatement and control of any cruise vessel discharge (which equipment shall include equipment intended to treat sewage, graywater, or bilge water);

(3) require the sampling and testing of cruise vessel discharges that require the owner, operator, or master, or other individual in charge, of a cruise vessel to maintain and produce a logbook detailing the times, types, volumes, and flow rates, origins, and locations of any discharge from the cruise vessel;

(4) require any owner, operator, or master, or other individual in charge, of a cruise vessel who has knowledge of a discharge from the cruise vessel in violation of this Act (including regulations promulgated under this Act) to immediately report that discharge to the Commandant (who shall provide notification of the discharge to the Administrator); and

(c) Evidence of Compliance.—

(1) Vessel of the United States.—

(A) In General.—A cruise vessel registered in the United States to which this Act applies shall have had a blueprint of inspection issued by the Commandant.

(B) Issuance of Certificate.—The Commandant may issue a certificate described in subparagraph (A) to a cruise vessel only if the Commandant determines that the cruise vessel for which the certificate was issued is in compliance with the conditions under which the certificate was issued.

(d) Special Certificates.—The Commandant may issue special certificates to certain vessels that exhibit compliance with this Act and other best practices, as determined by the Commandant.

(e) Onboard Monitoring System Pilot Program.—

(1) General.—Not later than 1 year after the date of enactment of this Act, the Commandant shall establish, and for each of fiscal years 2006 through 2011, shall carry out, with industry partners as necessary, a pilot program to develop and promote commercialization of technologies to provide real-time data to Federal agencies regarding—

(A) graywater and sewage discharges from cruise vessels; and

(B) functioning of cruise vessel components relating to pollution control.

B. TECHNOLOGY REQUIREMENTS—

1. Competitive Selection Process.—Industry partners willing to participate in the program may do so through a competitive selection process conducted by the Administrator of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration.

2. Contribution.—A selected industry partner shall contribute not less than 20 percent of the cost of the project in which the industry partner participates.

C. Participation of Industry.—Industry partners willing to participate in the program may do so through a competitive selection process conducted by the Administrator of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration.

D. Contribution.—A selected industry partner shall contribute not less than 20 percent of the cost of the project in which the industry partner participates.

E. Annual Report.—Not later than January 31, 2008, the Administrator of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration shall submit to Congress a report describing the results, and recommendations for continuance, of the program under this subsection.
IN PROCEEDINGS UNDER THIS ACT.—No person shall terminate the employment of, or in any other way discriminate against (or cause the termination of the employment of or discrimination against) an authorized representative of employees by reason of the fact that the employee or representative—
(1) has filed, instituted, or caused to be filed or instituted any proceeding under this Act; or
(2) has testified or is about to testify in any proceeding resulting from the administration or enforcement of the provisions of this Act.

APPLICATION FOR REVIEW; INVESTIGATION; HEARINGS; REVIEW.—
(1) IN GENERAL.—An employee or a representative of employees who believes that the termination of the employment of the employee has occurred, or that the employee has been discriminated against, as a result of the actions of any person in violation of subsection (a) may, not later than 30 days after the date on which the alleged violation occurred, apply to the Secretary of Labor for a review of the alleged termination of employment or discrimination.

APPLICATION.—A copy of an application for review filed under paragraph (1) shall be sent to the respondent.

INVESTIGATION.—(A) IN GENERAL.—On receipt of an application for review under paragraph (1), the Secretary of Labor shall carry out an investigation of the complaint.

(B) REQUIREMENTS.—In carrying out this subsection, the Secretary of Labor shall—
(1) provide an opportunity for a public hearing on the request of any party to the review to enable the parties to present information relating to the alleged violation;
(2) ensure that, at least 5 days before the date of the hearing, each party to the hearing is provided written notice of the time and place of the hearing; and
(3) ensure that the hearing is on the record and subject to section 554 of title 5, United States Code.

FINDINGS OF COMMANDANT.—On completion of an investigation under this paragraph, the Secretary of Labor shall—
(1) make findings of fact;
(2) if the Secretary of Labor determines that a violation did occur, issue a decision, incorporating the findings and the findings, requiring the person that committed the violation to take such action as is necessary to abate the violation, including the reinstituting or reinstatement of the employment of the employee or representative of employees to the former position of the employee or representative; and
(3) if the Secretary of Labor determines that there was no violation, issue an order denying the application.

ORDER.—An order issued by the Secretary of Labor under subparagraph (C) shall be subject to judicial review in the same manner as orders and decisions of the Administrator are subject to judicial review under this Act.

COSTS AND EXPENSES.—In any case in which an order is issued under this section to abate a violation, and to the extent that a judgment is obtained in favor of the Secretary of Labor, the prevailing or substantially prevailing party shall be entitled to reasonable attorney fees and other costs and expenses (including attorney fees and other expenses) incurred by the prevailing or substantially prevailing party in connection with the cause of action that gave rise to the judgment, including reasonable witness fees and reasonable travel expenses incurred in connection with the cause of action that gave rise to the judgment.

APPLICATION FOR REVIEW; INVESTIGATION; HEARINGS; REVIEW.—
(1) IN GENERAL.—Any interested person may petition the Attorney General to review in the United States circuit court for the circuit in which the person resides or transacts business directly affected by the action of which review is requested.

(a) REVIEW OF ACTIONS BY ADMINISTRATOR OR COMMANDANT; SELECTION OF COURT; FEES.

(1) REVIEW OF ACTIONS.—
(A) IN GENERAL.—Any interested person may petition the Attorney General to review in the United States circuit court for the circuit in which the person resides or transacts business directly affected by the action of which review is requested—
(i) of an action of the Commandant in promulgating any effluent limit under section 5;
(ii) of an action of the Commandant in carrying out an inspection, sampling, or testing under section 6.
(B) DEADLINE FOR REVIEW.—A petition for review under subparagraph (A) shall be made—
(i) not later than 120 days after the date of promulgation of the limit or standard relating to the review sought; or
(ii) if the petition for review is based solely on grounds that arose after the date described in clause (i), as soon as practicable after that date.

(2) CIVIL AND CRIMINAL ENFORCEMENT PROCEEDINGS.—An action of the Commandant or Administrator with respect to which review could have been obtained under paragraph (1) shall not be subject to judicial review in any civil or criminal proceeding for enforcement.

(3) AWARD OF FEES.—In any judicial proceeding under this subsection, a court may award costs of litigation (including reasonable attorney and expert witness fees) to any prevailing or substantially prevailing party in any case in which the court determines such an award to be appropriate.

(4) MODIFICATION OF FINDINGS.—On an admission of additional evidence under paragraph (1), the Commandant or Administrator may modify findings of fact of the Commandant or Administrator, as the case may be, relating to a judicial proceeding, or make new findings of fact, by reason of the additional evidence so admitted; and

(B) any economic benefit resulting from the violation; and
(4) such other matters as justice may require.

PROCEDURE FOR CLASS I PENALTY.—
(1) IN GENERAL.—Before assessing a civil penalty under this Act, the Commandant shall provide to the person to be assessed the penalty—
(1) a list of the other provisions of the Act under which the Commandant shall assess the penalty; and
(2) the opportunity to request, not later than 30 days after the date on which the notice is received, a hearing on the proposed penalty.

(2) HEARING.—A hearing described in subparagraph (A)(i)—
(1) shall not be subject to section 554 or 556 of title 5, United States Code; but
(2) shall provide a reasonable opportunity to be heard and to present evidence.

(3) RIGHTS OF INTERESTED PERSONS.—(A) PUBLIC NOTICE.—Before issuing an order that assesses a class II civil penalty under this section, the Commandant shall provide public notice of and reasonable opportunity to comment on the proposed issuance of each order.

(B) PRESENTATION OF EVIDENCE.—(1) IN GENERAL.—Any person that comments on a proposed assessment of a class II civil penalty under this subsection shall be given notice of—
(i) any hearing held under this subsection; and
(ii) any order assessing the penalty.

(2) RIGHTS OF INTERESTED PERSONS TO A HEARING.—(1) IN GENERAL.—If no hearing is held under paragraph (B)(1) before the date of issuance of the order assessing a class II civil penalty under this subsection, any person that commented on the proposed assessment may, not later than 30 days after the date of issuance of the order, petition the Commandant—
(i) to set aside the order; and
(ii) to provide a hearing on the penalty.
(ii) NEW EVIDENCE.—If any evidence presented by a petitioner in support of the petition under clause (i) is material and was not considered in the issuance of the order, as determined by the Commandant, the Commandant shall immediately—

(i) set aside the order; and

(ii) provide a hearing in accordance with subparagraph (C).

(11) DENIAL OF HEARING.—If the Commandant denies a hearing under this subparagraph, the Commandant shall provide to the person who transacts business, or the tribe who furnish information, or renders service in the performance of the official duties of the officer or employee shall provide a hearing in accordance with this section.

(12) DISPOSITION.—The Commandant may issue subpoenas for the attendance and testimony of any witnesses and the production of any papers, books, or documents in connection with the hearing described in this subsection.

(13) FILING OF RECORD.—On receipt of notice of the hearing ordered under this subsection, the Commandant shall request the United States district court for the district in which the violation occurred, to provide a hearing in accordance with this section.

(14) FILING OF NOTICE.—If any person fails to pay the amount assessed, as calculated at currently prevailing rates beginning on the date of the final judgment, the amount assessed shall be divided equally among the individuals.

(15) LIABILITY IN REM.—A cruise vessel operated in violation of this Act or any regulation promulgated under this Act—

(1) shall be liable in rem for any civil penalty or criminal fine imposed under this section; and

(2) may be subject to a proceeding instituted in the United States district court for the district in which the cruise vessel may be found.

(16) COMPLIANCE ORDERS.—In a case in which a State or Indian tribe or an individual under paragraph (1) is eligible for a reward payment under this subsection, the Commandant or the court shall invoke the order to recover—

(i) the amount available for the reward payment, if any, and

(ii) all other costs and expenses reasonably incurred in the investigation, to the extent available for the reward payment, and

(iii) in the case of a violation of an interim compliance requirement; and

(iv) any failure to obey such an order of the court, in the case of a violation of an interim compliance requirement.

(17) RESPONSIBILITY FOR REWARDS.—In a case in which a State or Indian tribe or an individual under paragraph (1) are eligible to receive a reward payment under this subsection, the United States district court for the district in which the violation occurred, or the court for the district in which the defendant is located, resides, or transacts business, shall have jurisdiction to issue an order requiring the person to appear and give testimony before the Commandant or to appear and produce documents before the Commandant; and

(ii) any failure to obey such an order of the court may be punished by the court as a contempt of court.

(2) CIVIL ACTION.—The Commandant may commence, in the United States district court for the district in which the defendant is located, resides, or transacts business, a civil action to impose a civil penalty under this subsection in an amount not to exceed $25,000 for each day of violation.

(3) CRIMINAL PENALTIES.—

(i) NEGLIGENCE VIOLATIONS.—A person that negligently violates section 4 or any regulation promulgated under this Act commits a Class A misdemeanor.

(ii) KNOWING VIOLATIONS.—Any person that knowingly violates section 4 or any regulation promulgated under this Act commits a Class D felony.

(iii) FALSE STATEMENTS.—Any person that knowingly makes any false statement, representation, or certification in any record, report, or other document filed or required to be maintained under this Act or any regulation promulgated under this Act, or that falsifies, tampers with, or knowingly renders inaccurate any testing or monitoring device or method required to be maintained under this Act, commits a Class D felony.

(b) EVIDENCE.—

(1) PAYMENTS TO INDIVIDUALS.—In general.—If any person fails to pay an assessment of a civil penalty after the assessment has become final, or after a court in a proceeding under paragraph (10) has enjoined, with or without the consent of the Commandant, the Commandant shall request the Attorney General to bring a civil action in an appropriate district court to recover—

(i) the amount assessed; and

(ii) interest that has accrued on the amount assessed, as calculated at currently prevailing rates beginning on the date of the final judgment, the amount assessed shall be divided equally among the individuals.

(2) MULTIPLE INDIVIDUALS.—If 2 or more individuals provide information described in subparagraph (A), the amount available for a reward payment, from a civil penalty or criminal fine collected under this section, to any individual who furnishes information or investigative assistance that leads to payment of the penalty or fine, of an amount that reflects the level of information or investigative assistance provided.

(3) PAYMENTS DIVIDED AMONG STATES, INDIAN TRIBES, AND INDIVIDUALS.—In a case in which a State or Indian tribe or an individual under paragraph (1) are eligible for a reward payment under this subsection, the Commandant or the court shall divide the amount available for the reward equally among those persons.

(4) LIABILITY IN REM.—A cruise vessel operated in violation of this Act or any regulation promulgated under this Act—

(i) shall be liable in rem for any civil penalty or criminal fine imposed under this section; and

(ii) may be subject to a proceeding instituted in the United States district court for the district in which the violation occurred, or the court for the district in which the defendant is located, resides, or transacts business.

(5) METHOD OF SERVICE; SPECIFICATIONS.—An order issued under this subsection shall—

(i) be served personally by any person that is not disqualified by law;

(ii) specify a deadline for compliance that is reasonable, in the case of a violation of an interim compliance requirement; and

(iii) specify a deadline for compliance that is not later than—

(I) 30 days after the date of issuance of the order; or

(ii) in the case of an interim compliance schedule or operation and maintenance requirement; and

(iii) such date as the Commandant, taking into account the seriousness of the violation and any good faith efforts to comply with applicable requirements, determines to be reasonable, in the case of a violation of a final deadline.

(6) CIVIL ACTIONS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The Commandant may commence a civil action for appropriate relief, including a permanent injunction, for any violation for which the Commandant is authorized to issue a compliance order under this subsection.

(2) COURT OF JURISDICTION.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—A civil action under this subsection may be brought in the United States district court for the district in which the violation occurred or the court for the district in which the defendant is located, resides, or transacts business.
States district court for the district in which the defendant is located, resides, or is doing dbusiness.

(B) JURISDICTION.—A court described in subsection (A) of this section shall have jurisdiction to grant injunctive relief to address a violation, and require compliance, by the defendant.

SEC. 10. CITIZEN SUITS.

(a) AUTHORIZATION.—Except as provided in subsection (b) of this section, any claim may commence a civil action on his or her own behalf—

(1) against any person (including the United States and any other governmental instrumentality or agency to the extent permitted by the eleventh amendment of the Constitution) that is alleged to be in violation of—

(A) the conditions imposed by section 4;

(B) an effluent limit or management standard
under this Act; or

(C) an order issued by the Administrator or Commandant with respect to such a condition of—

(i) the United States and any other governmental agencies of the United States district court for the district in which such action is brought;

(ii) the Administrator; and

(iii) the Commandant.

(b) C RUISE VESSEL POLLUTION CONTROL

(1) in general.—A court of appeals for the circuit in which is installed, not later than the date that is 15 years after the date of enactment of this Act; and

(2) in which is installed, not later than the date that is 15 years after the date of enactment of this Act.

(c) NOTICE.—No action may be commenced under this section—

(1) before the date that is 60 days after the date on which the plaintiff gives notice of

(A) the action under subsection (a) of this section;

(B) to any appropriate civil penalties under section 9(b); or

(C) a failure by the Administrator or Commandant with respect to such a condition of—

(i) the United States and any other governmental agencies of the United States; or

(ii) the Administrator; and

(iii) the Commandant.

(d) VENUE.—A suit under this section shall be brought in—

(A) the United States District Court for the District of Columbia; or

(B) any other United States district court for any judicial district in which a cruise vessel or the owner or operator of a cruise vessel are located.

SEC. 11. ALASKAN CRUISE VESSELS.

(a) DEFINITION OF ALASKAN CRUISE VESSELS.—In this section, the term "Alaskan cruise vessel" means a cruise vessel—

(1) that seasonally operates in the waters of the State of Alaska;

(2) that is engaged in a commercial enterprise in Alaska or any political subdivision of a State; or

(3) that is engaged in a commercial enterprise in any other jurisdiction in which the operation of a vessel is subject to the Federal law (including regulations), an advanced treatment system for the treatment and discharge of graywater and sewage; and

(3) that enters a port of the United States.

(b) APPLICABILITY.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in paragraph (2), an Alaskan cruise vessel shall not be subject to this Act (including regulations promulgated under this Act) until the date that is 15 years after the date of enactment of this Act.

(2) EXCEPTIONS.—An Alaskan cruise vesse-

(A) shall not be subject to the minimum ef-

(1) an adverse effect on the public health or welfare in the State; or

(2) a violation of any water quality re-

SEC. 12. BALLAST WATER.

It is the sense of Congress that action should be taken to enact legislation requiring States and political subdivisions (at least in effect under Federal law, a State (including a political subdivision of a State)) or interstate agency to adopt or enforce—

(A) any standard or limit relating to the discharge of pollutants by cruise ships; or

(B) any requirement relating to the control or abatement of pollution.

(b) EXCEPTION.—If an effluent limit, perfor-ance standard, water quality standard, or other prohibition or limitation under this Act; or

(1) in general.—A court of appeals for the circuit in which is installed, not later than the date that is 15 years after the date of enactment of this Act; and

(2) in which is installed, not later than the date that is 15 years after the date of enactment of this Act.

(c) FUNDING.

There are authorized to be appropriated to the Fund such amounts as are deposited in the Fund under subsection (b).

SEC. 13. FUNDING.

(1) Establishment.—There is established in the general fund of the Treasury a separate account to be known as the "Cruise Vessel Pollution Control Fund" (referred to in this section as the "Fund").

(1) APPROPRIATION OF AMOUNTS.—There are appropriated to the Fund such amounts as are deposited in the Fund under subsection (b).

(2) USE OF AMOUNTS IN FUND.—The Administrator and the Commandant may use amounts in the fund, without further appropriation, for the following purposes:

(a) FEES ON CRUISE VESSELS.—

(1) in general.—The Administrator shall establish and collect from each cruise vessel a reasonable and appropriate fee, in an amount not to exceed $10 for each paying passenger on a cruise vessel voyage, for use in carrying out this Act.

(b) ADJUSTMENT OF FEE.—

(1) in general.—The Administrator shall biennially adjust the amount of the fee established under paragraph (1) to reflect changes in the Consumer Price Index for All Urban Consumers published by the Department of Labor during each 2-year period.

(c) FACTORS IN ESTABLISHING FEES.—

(1) in general.—In establishing fees under paragraph (1), the Administrator may establish and collect from each cruise vessel a

(1) to enforce a condition, effluent limit, management standard, or other prohibition or limitation under section 9(b).

(2) to circumscribe the rights of any person (or class of persons) under any statute or common law to seek enforcement or other relief (including

(1) to establish and collect from each cruise vessel a reasonable and appropriate fee, in an amount not to exceed $10 for each paying passenger on a cruise vessel voyage, for use in carrying out this Act.

(b) ADJUSTMENT OF FEE.—

(1) in general.—The Administrator shall establish and collect from each cruise vessel a reasonable and appropriate fee, in an amount not to exceed $10 for each paying passenger on a cruise vessel voyage, for use in carrying out this Act.

(2) ADJUSTMENT OF FEE.—

(1) in general.—The Administrator shall biennially adjust the amount of the fee established under paragraph (1) to reflect changes in the Consumer Price Index for All Urban Consumers published by the Department of Labor during each 2-year period.

(3) FACTORS IN ESTABLISHING FEES.—

(1) in general.—In establishing fees under paragraph (1), the Administrator may establish and collect from each cruise vessel a reasonable and appropriate fee, in an amount not to exceed $10 for each paying passenger on a cruise vessel voyage, for use in carrying out this Act.

(b) ADJUSTMENT OF FEE.—

(1) in general.—The Administrator shall biennially adjust the amount of the fee established under paragraph (1) to reflect changes in the Consumer Price Index for All Urban Consumers published by the Department of Labor during each 2-year period.

(2) ADJUSTMENT OF FEE.—

(1) in general.—The Administrator shall biennially adjust the amount of the fee established under paragraph (1) to reflect changes in the Consumer Price Index for All Urban Consumers published by the Department of Labor during each 2-year period.

lish and collect from each cruise vessel a reasonable and appropriate fee, in an amount not to exceed $10 for each paying passenger on a cruise vessel voyage, for use in carrying out this Act.

By Mr. HARKIN:

S. 794. A bill to amend title 23, United States Code, to improve the safety of nonmotorized transportation, including bicycle and pedestrian safety; to create a Surface Transportation Policy Project; to reauthorize the Safe Routes to School initiative; to extend the Nonmotorized Transportation Promotion Program; to improve the safety of school children; to amend title 23, United States Code, to provide for the purposes of a Safe and Complete Streets Act; and for other purposes.

This legislation helps put this Nation on the path to a safer and, importantly, healthier America, by making some very modest adjustments in how State transportation departments and regional and local transportation agencies address the safety needs of pedestrians and bicyclists.

This proposal is being introduced today to ensure greater attention to the “SAFETEA” elements of the surface transportation renewal bill that will come before the Senate in the coming weeks. With some selected, but modest, adjustments to this surface transportation legislation, we can improve the safety of pedestrians and bicyclists and with that improved safety, we make it easier for Americans to walk and use bicycles to meet their transportation needs, whether to work, for errands or for simple exercise and enjoyment.

Currently, safety concerns reduce the comfort of many people to move by foot and bicycle. Many roadways simply do not have sidewalks. And it is a particular problem for our growing elderly population. In many cases, the timing of lights makes it difficult for the elderly and those with a disability to simply get from one side of a busy intersection to another.

There is clearly a need for further progress in this area. Consider that nearly 52,000 pedestrians and more than 7,400 bicyclists were killed in the most recent 10-year period, ending 2003. And, we know that many of these deaths, and thousands of more injuries are avoidable, if we commit ourselves to doing those things that make a difference.

This bill proposes three important changes to current law. First, it insists that Federal, State and local agencies receiving billions of dollars in federal transportation funds modernize their processes—how they plan, what they study and how they lead—so that the safety needs of pedestrians and bicyclists are more fully considered. Second, it ensures that investments we make today don’t add to the problems we already have, which is the burden of retrofitting and reengineering existing transportation networks because we forgot about pedestrians and bicyclists. Finally, it commits additional resources to a national priority need—getting our children to schools safely on foot and bicycles through a stronger funding commitment to Safe Routes to School.

The Senate will soon take up a surface transportation renewal plan that already includes key provisions to help us make further progress on the safety needs of nonmotorized travelers. The “Safe and Complete Streets Act of 2005” is specifically designed and developed to complement the efforts in the committee passed measure. Only in this area, as in the Safe Routes to School initiative and a small nonmotorized pilot program, does this legislation propose any additional funding commitments. All other aspects of the legislation before you today build upon existing commitments and existing features of current law.

Let me speak briefly to the issues of the Safe Routes to School program specifically. This legislation proposes to raise the Senate’s commitment to increased safety for our school age kids by slightly more than $100 million annually over the level in the surface transportation bill that the Senate will soon consider.

Let me speak briefly to the issues of the Safe Routes to School program specifically. This legislation proposes to raise the Senate’s commitment to increased safety for our school age kids by slightly more than $100 million annually over the level in the surface transportation bill that the Senate will soon consider.

I am proposing this modest increase in spending because there is a critical need for us to accelerate what we are doing to protect our most exposed citizens, our school age children. This Nation has spent the last two generations getting kids into cars and buses, rather than on foot or bicycles.

Now, we are reaping the harvest. Billions more in added transportation costs for our schools districts to bus our kids to schools. Added congestion on our roadways as families transport their kids to drive the automobile, clogging traffic at the worst possible time, during the morning commute. In Marin County, CA, a pilot program has demonstrated substantial success in reducing congestion by shifting children to walking and riding their bikes to school.

In addition, we see rising obesity in our children and looming public health challenges over the next several generations, and even shortened life expectancy. We need walking to promote healthy behavior and a time for gaining independence — a time for discovery, a time for growth, identity. The teenage years encompass a time for discovery, a time for growth, and away from negative risk-taking that has an adverse effect on their well-being and the well-being of others. Unfortunately, we see all too often this negative risk-taking in teenagers when they are behind the wheel of a motor vehicle. We see all too often how this risk-taking needlessly endangers the life of a teenage driver, his or her passengers, and other drivers on the road. And we see all too often the tragic results of this risk-taking when irresponsible and reckless behavior behind the wheel of a motor vehicle causes severe harm and death.

According to the National Transportation Safety Board, motor vehicle crashes are the leading cause of death for Americans between 15 and 20 years of age. In 2002, teenage drivers, who constituted only 6.4 percent of all drivers, were involved in 14.3 percent of all fatal motor vehicle crashes. In 2003, 5,691 teenage drivers were killed in motor vehicle crashes, 300 more than in 2002. In 2003, teen-age drivers suffered injuries in motor vehicle crashes.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration reports that teenage drivers have a fatality rate that is four times higher than the average fatality rate for drivers between 25 and 70 years of age. Furthermore, teenage drivers who are 16 years of age have a motor vehicle crash rate that is almost ten times the crash rate for drivers between the ages of 61 and 60.

Finally, the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety concludes that the chance of a crash by a driver either 16 or 17 years of age is doubled if there are two peers in the motor vehicle and quadrupled with three or more peers in the vehicle.

Crashes involving teenage injuries or fatalities are often highprofile tragedies for the family and communities who lose them. These are also tragedies for the drivers involved, their passengers, and literally everyone else who operates or rides in a motor vehicle. Clearly, more work must be done to design and implement innovative methods that educate our young drivers on the awesome responsibilities that are associated with operating a motor vehicle safely.

One such method involves implementing and enforcing a graduated driver's license system, or a GDL system. Under a typical GDL system, a teenager is allowed to drive during several sequential learning stages before earning the full privileges associated with an unrestricted driver's license. Each learning stage is designed to teach a teenage driver fundamental lessons on driver operations, responsibilities, and safety. Significant limitations may be imposed in restrictions, such as curfews on nighttime driving and limitations on passengers, that further ensure the safety of the teenage driver, his or her passengers, and other motorists on the road.

First implemented over ten years ago, three-stage GDL systems now exist in 38 States. Furthermore, every State in the country has adopted at least one driving restriction for new teenage drivers. Several studies have concluded that GDL systems and other license restriction measures have been linked to an overall reduction on the number of teenage driver crashes and fatalities. In 1997, in the first full year that its GDL system was in effect, Florida experienced a 9 percent reduction in fatal and injurious motor vehicle crashes among teenage drivers between 15 and 18 years of age. After GDL systems were implemented in Michigan and North Carolina in 1997, the number of motor vehicle crashes involving teenage drivers 16 years in age decreased in each State by 25 percent and 27 percent, respectively. And in California, the numbers of teenage passenger deaths and injuries in crashes involving drivers 16 years of age decreased by 40 percent between 1998 and 2000, the first three years that California's GDL system was in effect.

The number of ‘at-fault’ crashes involving teenage drivers decreased by 24 percent during the same period.

These statistics are promising and clearly show that many States are taking an important first step towards addressing this enormous problem concerning teenage driver safety. However, there is currently no uniformity between States with regards to GDL system requirements and other novice driver license restrictions. Some States have very strong initiatives in place that promote safe teenage driving while others have very weak initiatives in place. Given how many teenagers are killed or injured in motor vehicle crashes each year, Senator Warner and I believe that the time has come for an initiative that sets a national minimum safety standard for teen driving laws and requirements. We propose imposing certain requirements to set additional standards that meet the more specific needs of its teenage driver population. The bill that Senator Warner and I are introducing today—the STANDUP Act—is such an initiative. There are four principal components of this legislation about which I would like to discuss.

First, the STANDUP Act mandates that all States implement a national minimum safety standard for teenage drivers that contains three core requirements recommended by the National Transportation Safety Board. These requirements include implementing a three-stage GDL system, implementing at least some prohibition on nighttime driving, and placing a restriction on the number of passengers without adult supervision.

Second, the STANDUP Act directs the Secretary of Transportation to issue voluntary guidelines beyond the three core requirements that encourage States to implement additional standards that improve the safety of teenage driving. These additional standards may include requiring that the learner's permit and intermediate stages be six months each, requiring at least 30 hours of behind-the-wheel driving for a novice driver in the learner’s permit stage in the company of a licensed driver who is over 21 years of age, requiring a novice driver in the learner’s permit stage to be accompanied and supervised by another adult driver 21 years of age or older at all times when the novice driver is operating a motor vehicle, and requiring that the granting of an unrestricted driver's license be delayed automatically to any novice driver in the learner’s permit or intermediate stages who commits a motor vehicle offense, such as driving while intoxicated, misrepresenting his or her true age, reckless driving, speeding, or driving without a fastened seatbelt.

Third, the bill provides incentive grants to States that come into compliance within three fiscal years. Calculated on a State's annual share of the Highway Trust Fund, these incentive grants could be used for activities such as training law enforcement and relevant State agency personnel in the GDL law or publishing relevant educational materials on the GDL.

Finally, the STANDUP Act calls for sanctions to be imposed on States that do not come into compliance after three fiscal years. The bill withholds 1.5 percent of a State's Federal highway share after the first fiscal year of non-compliance, three percent after the second fiscal year, and six percent after the third fiscal year. The bill does allow a State to reclaim any withheld funds if that State comes into compliance within two fiscal years after the first fiscal year of non-compliance.

There are those who will say that the STANDUP Act infringes on States' rights. I respectfully disagree. I believe that working to protect and ensure the lives and safety of the millions of teenage drivers, their passengers, and other motorists in this country is national in scope and a job that is rightly suited for Congress. I also believe that the number of motor vehicle deaths and injuries associated with teenage drivers each year compels us to address this important national issue today and not tomorrow.

The teenage driving provisions within the STANDUP Act are both well-known and popular with the American public. Harris Poll conducted in 2001 found that 95 percent of Americans support a requirement of 30 to 50 hours of practice driving within an adult, 92 percent of Americans support a six-month learner’s permit stage, 74 percent of Americans support the number of teen passengers in a motor vehicle with a teen driver, and 74 percent of Americans also support supervised or restricted driving during high-risk periods such as nighttime. Clearly, these numbers show that teen driving safety is an issue that transcends party politics and is strongly embraced by a solid majority of Americans. Therefore, I ask my colleagues today to join Senator Warner and myself in protecting the lives of our teenagers and in supporting this important legislation.

I ask unanimous consent that the text of this legislation be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

S. 795

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the “Safe Teen and Novice Driver Uniform Protection Act of 2005” or the “STANDUP Act”.

SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

Congress finds the following:

(1) The National Transportation Safety Board has reported that:

(A) in 2002, teen drivers, which constituted only 6.4 percent of all drivers, were involved in 14.3 percent of all fatal motor vehicle crashes;

(B) motor vehicle crashes are the leading cause of death for Americans between 15 and 20 years of age;

(C) in 1994 and 2003, almost 64,000 Americans between 15 and 20 years of age died in motor vehicle crashes, an average of 122 per week; and

(D) in 2003—

(i) 3,657 American drivers between 15 and 20 years of age were killed in motor vehicle crashes;

(ii) 300,000 Americans between 15 and 20 years of age were injured in motor vehicle crashes; and
(1) 7,884 American drivers between 15 and 20 years of age were involved in fatal crashes, resulting in 9,088 total fatalities, a 5 percent increase since 1993.

(2) Though only 20 percent of driving by young drivers occurs at night, over 50 percent of the motor vehicle crash fatalities involving young drivers occur at night.

(3) The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration has reported that—
(A) 6,300,000 motor vehicle crashes claimed the lives of nearly 45,000 Americans in 2003 and involved over 11,000,000 more Americans.

(B) Teen drivers between 16 and 20 years of age have a fatality rate that is 4 times the rate for drivers between 25 and 70 years of age; and

(C) Drivers who are 16 years of age have a motor vehicle crash rate that is almost ten times the crash rate for drivers aged between 30 and 60 years of age.

(4) According to the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety, the chance of a crash by a 16- or 17-year-old driver is doubled if there are 2 or more passengers in the vehicle.

(5) In 1997, the first full year of its graduated driver licensing system, Florida experienced a 9 percent reduction in fatal and injurious crashes among young drivers between the ages of 15 and 18, compared with 1995, according to the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety.

(6) The Journal of the American Medical Association reports that crashes involving 16-year-old drivers decreased by 25 percent in Michigan and 27 percent in North Carolina.

(7) In California, according to the Automobile Club of Southern California, teenage passengers or guests remain at higher risk for crashes involving 16-year-old drivers declined 33 percent from 1998 to 2000, the first 3 years of California’s graduated driver licensing program. The number of at-fault collisions involving 16-year-old drivers decreased by 24 percent during the same period.

(8) The National Transportation Safety Board reports that 39 States and the District of Columbia have implemented 3-stage graduated driver licensing systems. Many States have yet to implement these and other basic requirements of the graduated driver licensing laws to protect the lives of teenagers and novice drivers.

(9) A 2001 Harris Poll indicates that—
(A) 93 percent of Americans support a requirement of 30 to 50 hours of practice driving with an adult;

(B) 92 percent of Americans support a 6-month learner’s permit period; and

(C) 74 percent of Americans support limiting the number of teen passengers in a car with a teen driver and supervised driving during high-risk driving periods, such as night.

SEC. 3. STATE GRADUATED DRIVER LICENSING

(a) Minimum Requirements.—A State is in compliance with this section if the State has a graduated driver licensing law that includes, for novice drivers under the age of 21—

(1) a 3-stage licensing process, including a learner's permit stage and an intermediate stage before granting an unrestricted driver's license;

(2) a prohibition on nighttime driving during the learner's permit and intermediate stages;

(3) a provision by which, during the learner’s permit intermediate stages, from operating a motor vehicle with more than 1 non-familial passenger under 21 if there is no licensed driver 21 years of age or older present in the motor vehicle; and

(4) any other requirement that the Secretary of Transportation (referred to in this Act as the “Secretary”) may require, including—

(A) a learner’s permit stage of at least 6 months;

(B) an intermediate stage of at least 6 months;

(C) for novice drivers in the learner’s permit stage—

(i) a requirement of at least 30 hours of behind-the-wheel training with a licensed driver who is over 21 years of age;

(ii) a requirement that any such driver be accompanied and supervised by a licensed driver 21 years of age or older at all times when such driver is operating a motor vehicle;

and

(D) a requirement that the grant of full licensure be automatically delayed, in addition to any other penalties imposed by State law for any individual who, while holding a provisional license, convicted of an offense, such as driving while intoxicated, misrepresentation of their true age, reckless driving, unlicensed driving, speeding, or other violations, as determined by the Secretary.

(b) Application.—Any State desiring a grant under this section shall submit an application to the Secretary at such time, in such manner, and containing such information as the Secretary may require, including a certification by the governor of the State that the State is in compliance with section 3(a).

(c) Grants.—For each fiscal year described in subsection (a), amounts appropriated to carry out this section shall be apportioned to each State in compliance with section 3(a) on or before the first day of that fiscal year that submits an application under subsection (b).

(d) Application.—Any State desiring a grant under this section shall submit an application to the Secretary at such time, in such manner, and containing such information as the Secretary may require, including a certification by the governor of the State that the State is in compliance with section 3(a).

(e) Grants.—For each fiscal year described in subsection (a), amounts appropriated to carry out this section shall be apportioned to each State in compliance with section 3(a) in an amount determined by multiplying—

(1) the amount appropriated to carry out this section for such fiscal year; by

(2) the ratio that the amount of funds apportioned to each such State for such fiscal year under paragraph (1) bears to the total amount of funds apportioned to all such States for such fiscal year under such section.

(f) Use of Funds.—Amounts received under a grant under this section shall be used for—

(1) enforcement and providing training regarding the State graduated driver licensing law to law enforcement personnel and other relevant State agency personnel; one

(2) publishing relevant educational materials that are pertinent directly or indirectly to the State graduated driver licensing law; and

(3) other administrative activities that the Secretary considers relevant to the State graduated driver licensing law.

(g) Authorization of Appropriations.—There are authorized to be appropriated out of the Highway Trust Fund (other than the Mass Transit Account) to carry out this section $25,000,000 for each of the fiscal years 2005 through 2009.

SEC. 5. WITHHOLDING OF FUNDS FOR NON-COMPLIANCE

(a) In General.—

(1) Fiscal Year 2001.—The Secretary shall withhold 1.5 percent of the amount otherwise required to be apportioned to any State for fiscal year 2001 under each of the paragraphs (1), (3), and (4) of section 104(b) of title 23, United States Code, if that State is not in compliance with section 3(a) of this Act on October 1, 2001.

(2) Fiscal Year 2011.—The Secretary shall withhold 6 percent of the amount otherwise required to be apportioned to any State for fiscal year 2011 under each of the paragraphs (1), (3), and (4) of section 104(b) of title 23, United States Code, if that State is not in compliance with section 3(a) of this Act on October 1, 2010.

(3) Fiscal Year 2012 and Thereafter.—The Secretary shall withhold 6 percent of the amount otherwise required to be apportioned to any State for fiscal year beginning with fiscal year 2012 under each of the paragraphs (1), (3), and (4) of section 104(b) of title 23, United States Code, if that State is not in compliance with section 3(a) of this Act on the first day of such fiscal year.

(b) Period of Availability of Withheld Funds.—

(1) Funds Withheld on or Before September 30, 2011.—Any amount withheld from any State under subsection (a) on or before September 30, 2011, shall remain available for distribution to the State under subsection (c) until the end of the fiscal year following the fiscal year for which such amount is appropriated.

(2) Funds Withheld after September 30, 2011.—Any amount withheld under subsection (a) from any State after September 30, 2011, may not be distributed to the State.

(c) Apportionment of Withheld Funds After Compliance.—In General.—If, before the last day of the period for which funds withheld under subsection (a) are to remain available to a State under subsection (b), the State comes into compliance with section 3(a), the Secretary shall, on the first day on which the State comes into compliance, distribute to the State any amounts withheld under subsection (a) that remains available for apportionment to the State.

(d) Period of Availability of Subsequently Apportioned Funds.—Any amount distributed under paragraph (1) shall remain available for expenditure by the State until the end of the fiscal year for which the funds are so apportioned. Any amount not expended by the State by the end of such period shall revert back to the Treasury of the United States.

(e) Effect of Non-Compliance.—If a State is determined not to be in compliance with section 3(a) at the end of the period for which any amount withheld under subsection (a) remains available for distribution to the State under subsection (b), such amount shall revert back to the Treasury of the United States.

By Ms. MURKOWSKI:
S. 796. A bill to amend the National Aquaculture Act of 1980 to prohibit the issuance of permits for marine aquaculture facilities until requirements for such permits are enacted into law; to the Committee on Agriculture, Nutrition, and Forestry.

Ms. MURKOWSKI. Mr. President. I am today reintroducing a very important amendment on a subject that was not resolved last year, and which continues to be an outstanding issue for those of us who are dependent on healthy and productive natural populations of ocean fish and shellfish.

Simply put, this bill prohibits further movement toward the development of aquaculture facilities in federal waters until Congress has had an opportunity to review all of the very serious implications, and make decisions on how such development should proceed.

Some people are calling for a moratorium on offshore aquaculture. Frankly, Mr. President, we need more than a delay. We need a very comprehensive discussion of this issue and a serious debate on what the ground-rules should be.

For years, some members of the federal bureaucracy have advocated going forward with offshore aquaculture development without that debate. Doing so, would be an extraordinarily bad idea.

We are now being told that the Administration is in the final stages of preparing a draft bill to allow offshore aquaculture development to occur, and that it plans to send a draft to the Hill in the very near future. The problem is, that draft has been prepared in deep secrecy. We have only rumors about what may be in that draft bill. The administration is not even getting it right.

Scientists, the media and the public are awakening to the serious disadvantages of fish raised in fish farming operations compared to naturally healthy wild fish species such as Alaska salmon, halibut, sablefish, crab and many other species.

It has become common to see news reports that cite not only the general health advantages of eating fish at least once or twice a week, but the specific advantages of fish such as wild salmon, which contains essential Omega-3 fatty acids that may help reduce the risk of heart disease and possibly have similar beneficial effects on other diseases.

There are simply too many factors that should be evaluated—from hydraulic engineering, to environmental impacts, to fish biology in the management of disease, to the nutritional character of farmed fish, and so on—for any existing agency.

We cannot afford a rush to judgment on this issue—it is far too dangerous if we make a mistake. In my view, such a serious matter deserves the same level of scrutiny by Congress as the recommendations of the U.S. Commission on Ocean Policy for other sweeping changes in ocean governance.

Mr. President, we need more than a procedure on offshore aquaculture. Frankly, I sincerely hope that this issue is not parochial, but a very real threat to the literal viability of natural fish and shellfish stocks as well as the economic viability of many coastal communities.

I strongly urge my colleagues to understand that this is not a parochial issue, but a very real threat to the literal viability of natural fish and shellfish stocks as well as the economic viability of many coastal communities.

There are also new stories indicating that farmed salmon fed vegetable-based food does not have the same beneficial impact on cardio-vascular health, but also that the demand for other fish to grind up and use as feed in those fish farms may lead to the decimation of those stocks.

Those same alert consumers may also have seen stories indicating that fish farms may create serious pollution problems from the concentration of fish feces and uneaten food, that fish farms may harbor diseases that can be transmitted to previously healthy wild fish stocks, and that fish farming has had a devastating effect on communities that depend on traditional fisheries.

It is by no means certain that all those problems would be duplicated if we begin to develop fish farms that are farther offshore, but neither is there any evidence that they would not be.

Yet despite the uncertainties, proponents have continued to push hard for legislation that would encourage the development of huge new fish farms off our coasts.

Not only do the proponents want to encourage such development, but reports indicate they may also want to change the way decisions are made so that all the authority rests in the hands of just one federal agency. I believe that would be a serious mistake.

I strongly urge my colleagues to understand that this is not a parochial issue, but a very real threat to the literal viability of natural fish and shellfish stocks as well as the economic viability of many coastal communities.

The "Natural Stock Conservation Act" I am introducing today lays down a marker for where the debate on offshore aquaculture needs to go. It would prohibit the development of new offshore aquaculture operations until Congress ensures that every federal agency involved does the necessary analyses in areas such as disease control, engineering, pollution prevention, biological and genetic impacts, economic and social effects, and other critical issues, none of which are specifically required under existing law.

I sincerely hope that this issue is taken up seriously in the context of reauthorizing the Magnuson-Stevens Act, and responding to the recommendations of the U.S. Oceans Commission and the Pew Oceans Commission.

We all want to make sure we enjoy abundant supplies of healthy foods in the future, but not if it means unnecessary and avoidable damage to wild species, to the environment generally, and to the economies of America's coastal fishing communities.

S. 796

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE. This Act may be cited as the "Natural Stock Conservation Act or license by the regional fishery management council established under section 302(a) of the Magnuson-Stevens Fishery Conservation and Management Act (16 U.S.C. 1852(a))."

By Ms. MURKOWSKI (for herself and Mr. STEVENS):

S. 797. A bill to amend the Magnuson-Stevens Fishery Conservation and Management Act to clarify the status of certain communities in the western Alaska community development program; to the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation.

Ms. MURKOWSKI. Mr. President, I am today reintroducing legislation to clarify the status of villages participating in the partially funded Community Development Quota (CDQ) program created to assist economically disadvantaged communities around the edge of the Bering Sea.

The CDQ program is one of the youngest but most successful of a variety of programs intended to improve economic opportunities in some of my State’s most challenged communities.
The CDQ Community Preservation Act is intended to maintain the participation of all currently eligible communities along the shore of the Bering Sea in Alaska’s Community Development Quota program. It is necessary because inconsistencies in statutory and regulations require a reassessment of eligibility and the exclusion of some communities from the program. This was not the intent of the original program, nor of any subsequent changes to it. In order to clarify that fact, a legislative remedy is needed.

Senator STEVENS joined me in introducing just such a remedy last year, but work on it was not completed and we were forced to settle for only temporary relief. It is time we dealt with this matter more appropriately.

Alaska has been generously blessed with natural resources, but due to its location and limited transportation infrastructure it continues to have pockets of poverty. Nowhere is this more evident than in the villages around the rim of the Bering Sea.

The Community Development Quota Program began in 1992, at the recommendation of the North Pacific Fishery Management Council. Congress assembled, the regional councils formed under the Magnuson-Stevens Fishery Conservation and Management Act. Congress gave the program permanent status in the 1996 reauthorization of the Act. The program presently includes 65 communities within a 50 nautical-mile radius of the Bering Sea, which have formed six regional non-profit associations to participate in the program. The regional associations range in size from one to 20 communities. Under the program, a portion of the regulated annual harvests of pollock, halibut, sablefish, Atka mackerel, Pacific cod, and crab is assigned to each of the associations, which operate under combined Federal and local oversight. Almost all of an association’s earnings must be invested in fishing-related projects in order to encourage a sustainable economic base for the region.

Typically, each association sells its share of the annual harvest quotas to established fishing companies in return for cash and agreements to provide job training and employment opportunities for residents of the region. The program has been remarkably successful.

Since 1992, approximately 9,000 jobs have been created for western Alaska residents with wages totaling more than $60 million. The CDQ program has also contributed to fisheries infrastructure development in western Alaska, as well as providing vessel loan programs; education, training, and other CDQ-related benefits.

The CDQ program has its roots in the amazing success story of how our offshore fishery resources were Americanized after the passage of the original Magnuson Act in 1976. At that time, vast foreign fishing fleets were almost the only ones operating in the U.S. 200-mile Exclusive Economic Zone. American fishermen simply did not have either the vessels or the expertise to participate.

The Magnuson-Stevens Act changed all that. It led to the adoption of what we called a “fish and chips” policy that provided for an exchange of fish allocations for fishing vessels and technical expertise. Within the next few years, harvesting fell almost exclusively to American vessels. Within a few years after that, processing also became Americanized. Today, there are no foreign fishing or processing vessels operating in the 200-mile zone off Alaska, and the industry is worth billions of dollars each year.

The CDQ program helps bring some of the benefits of that great industry to local residents in one of the most impoverished areas of the entire country. It is a vital element in the effort to create and maintain a lasting economic base for the region’s many poor communities, and truly deserves the support of this body.

I ask unanimous consent that the text of my bill be printed in the RECORD.

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.
This Act may be cited as the “CDQ Community Preservation Act.”

SEC. 2. WESTERN ALASKA COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT QUOTA PROGRAM.

(a) ELIGIBLE COMMUNITIES.—Section 305(i)(1) of the Magnuson-Stevens Fishery Conservation and Management Act (16 U.S.C. 1855(i)) is amended adding at the end the following:

"(E) A community shall be eligible to participate in the western Alaska community development quota program under subparagraph (A) if the community was:"

"(i) listed in part 679 of title 50, Code of Federal Regulations, as in effect on January 1, 2004; or"

"(ii) approved by the National Marine Fisheries Service.

(b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—Such section is further amended, in paragraph (B), by striking “To” and inserting, “Except as provided in subparagraph (E), to.”

By Mr. FEINGOLD (for himself, Mr. CORZINE, Mr. DAYTON, Mr. DURBIN, Mr. LAUTENBERG, Ms. MIKULSKI, and Mrs. MURRAY):

S. 798. A bill to amend the Family and Medical Leave Act of 1993 and title 5, United States Code, to provide entitlement to leave to eligible employees whose spouse, son, daughter, or parent is a member of the Armed Forces who is serving on active duty in support of a contingency operation or who is notified of an impending call or order to active duty in support of a contingency operation, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions.

Mr. FEINGOLD. Mr. President, today I introduce legislation on behalf of myself and Senators CORZINE, DAYTON, DURBIN, LAUTENBERG, MIKULSKI, and MURRAY, that would bring a small measure of relief to the families of our brave military personnel who are being deployed for the ongoing fight against terrorism, the war in Iraq, and other missions in this country and around the world. The Senate adopted unanimously when I offered it as an amendment to the fiscal year 2004 Iraq supplemental spending bill and I think it would be very fitting for my colleagues to join me in supporting this measure. It is the National Month of the Military Child.

The men and women of our Armed Forces undertake enormous sacrifices in their service to our country. They spend time away from home and from their families in different parts of the country and different parts of the world and are placed into harm’s way in order to protect the American people and our way of life. We owe them a great debt of gratitude for their dedicated service.

The ongoing deployments for the fight against terrorism and for the campaign in Iraq are turning upside down the lives of thousands of active duty National Guard and Reserve personnel and their families as they seek to do their duty to their country and honor their commitments to their families, and, in the case of the reserve components, to their employers as well. Today, they are more than 180,000 National Guard and Reserve personnel on active duty.

Some of my constituents are facing the latest in a series of activations and deployments for family members who serve our country in the military. Others are seeing their loved ones off on their first deployment. All of these families share in the worry and concern about what awaits their relatives and hope, as we do, for their swift and safe return.

Many of those deployed in Iraq have had their tours extended beyond the time they had expected to stay. This extension has played havoc with the lives of those deployed and their families. Worried mothers, fathers, spouses, and children expecting their loved ones home after more than a year of service have been forced to wait another three or four months before their loved ones’ much-anticipated homecoming. The emotional toll is huge. So is the impact on children. Nelly’s daily functioning still need to be paid, children need to get to school events, and sick family members must still be cared for.

Our men and women in uniform face these challenges without complaint. But we should do more to help them and their families with the many things that preparing to be deployed requires.

During the first round of mobilizations for operations in Afghanistan and the military personnel and their families were given only a couple of days’ notice that their units would be deployed. As a result, these dedicated ment and women had only a very limited amount of time to get their lives in order. For members of the National Guard and Reserve, this included informing their employers of the deployment. I want to commend the many employers of this country for their understanding and support when their employees were called to active duty.

In preparation for a deployment, military families often have to scramble to find child care, to pay bills, to contact their landlords or mortgage companies, and to take care of other things that we deal with on a daily basis. The legislation I introduce today would allow eligible employees whose spouses, parents, sons, or daughters are military personnel who are serving on or called to active duty in support of a contingency operation to use their Family and Medical Leave Act (FMLA) benefits for issues directly relating to or resulting from that deployment. These instances could include preparation for deployment or additional responsibilities that family members take on as a result of a loved one’s deployment, such as child care.

But don’t just take my word for it. Here is what the National Military Family Association has to say in a letter of support:

(The National Military Family Association) has heard from many families about the difficulty of balancing family obligations with job requirements when a close family member is deployed. Suddenly, there are single parents or, in the case of grandparents, assuming the new responsibility of caring for grandchildren. The days leading up to a deployment can be filled with pre-deployment briefings and putting legal affairs in order.

In that same letter, the National Military Family Association states that, “Military families, especially those of deployed service members, are called upon to make extraordinary sacrifices. (The Military Families Leave Act) offers families some breathing room as they adjust to this time of separation.”

On July 21, 2004, then-Governor Joseph Kernan of Indiana testified before a joint hearing of the Senate Health, Labor, Education, and Pensions and Armed Services committees that Congress should revise FMLA to include activated National Guard families, as recommended by the National Governors’ Association. The legislation I introduce today would give many military families some of the assistance Governor Kernan spoke of.

Let me make sure there is no confusion about what this legislation does and does not do. This legislation does not expand eligibility for FMLA to employees not already covered by FMLA. It does not make FMLA eligibility for active duty military personnel. It simply allows those already covered by FMLA to use those benefits in one additional set of circumstances—to deal with issues directly related to or resulting from the deployment of a family member. I was proud to cosponsor and vote for the legislation that created the landmark Family and Medical Leave Act (FMLA) during the early days of my service to the people of Wisconsin as a member of this body. This important legislation allows eligible workers to take up to 12 weeks of unpaid leave per year for the birth or adoption of child, the placement of a child to care for a newborn or newly adopted child or newly placed foster child, or to care for their own serious health condition or that of a spouse, a parent, or a child. Some employers offer a portion of this time as paid leave to other accrued leave, while others allow workers to use accrued vacation or sick leave for this purpose prior to going on unpaid leave.

Since its enactment in 1993, the FMLA has helped more than $55 million American workers to balance responsibilities to their families and their jobs. According to the Congressional Research Service, between 2.2 million and 6.1 million people took advantage of these benefits in 1999-2006. Our military families sacrifice a great deal. Active duty families often move every couple of years due to transfers and new assignments. The twelve years since FMLA’s enactment has also been a time where we as a country have relied more heavily on National Guard and Reserve personnel for more and more deployments of longer and longer duration. The growing burden on these service members’ families must be addressed, and this legislation is one way to do so. This legislation has the support of a number of organizations, including the Wisconsin National Guard, the Military Officers Association of America, the Enlisted Association of the National Guard of the United States, the Reserve Enlisted Association, the Reserve Officers Association, the National Military Family Association, the National Council on Family Relations, and the National Partnership for Women and Families. The Military Coalition, an umbrella organization of 91 organizations, specified this legislation as one of five meriting special consideration during the fiscal year 2004 Iraq supplemental debate.

We owe it to our military personnel and their families to do all we can to support them in this difficult time. I hope that this legislation will bring a small measure of relief to our military families and I urge my colleagues to support it.

I ask unanimous consent that the text of my bill be printed in the RECORD. Without objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

S. 798

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

(a) ENTITLEMENT TO LEAVE.—Section 102(a)(1) of the Family and Medical Leave Act of 1993 (29 U.S.C. 2612(a)(1)) is amended by adding at the end the following new subparagraph: "(E) Because of any qualifying exigency (as the Secretary may by regulation determine) arising out of the fact that the spouse, son, daughter, or parent of the employee is on active duty (or has been notified of an impending call or order to active duty) in the Armed Forces in support of a contingency operation.

(b) INTERMITTENT OR REDUCED LEAVE SCHEDULE.—Section 102(b)(1) of such Act (29 U.S.C. 2612(b)(1)) is amended by inserting after the second sentence the following new sentence: "Subject to subsection (e)(3) and section 103(i), leave under subsection (a)(1) may be taken intermittently or on a reduced leave schedule.

(c) SUBSTITUTION OF PAID LEAVE.—Section 102(a)(2)(A) of such Act (29 U.S.C. 2612(a)(2)(A)) is amended by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

"(6) In any case in which the necessity for leave under section 102(a)(1)(E) is foreseeable based on notification of an impending call or order to active duty in support of a contingency operation, the Secretary shall provide such notice to the employer as is reasonable and practicable.

(d) CERTIFICATION.—Section 103 of such Act (29 U.S.C. 2613) shall be amended by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

"(3) Subject to subsection (a)(3) and section 103(i), leave under section 102(a)(1)(E) may be taken intermittently or on a reduced leave schedule.

By Mr. KENNEDY:

S. 799. A bill to amend the Public Health Service Act to provide for the coordination of Federal Government policies and activities to prevent obesity in childhood, to provide for State childhood obesity prevention and control, and to establish grant programs to prevent childhood obesity within homes, schools, and communities; to the Committee on Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions:

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, America is facing a major public health problem because of the epidemic of obesity in the nation’s children. Nine million new cases of obesity are diagnosed each year. Over the past three decades, the rate of obesity has more than doubled in preschool children and adolescents, and tripled among all school-age children. The health risks are immense. If the current rates do not decrease, 30 percent of boys and 40 percent of girls born in 2000 will develop diabetes, which can lead to kidney failure, blindness, heart disease and stroke.

Obese children are 80 percent likely to become adults, with significantly greater risk for not only diabetics, but heart disease, arthritis and certain types of cancer. The economic impact of obesity-related health expenditures in 2004 reached $128 billion, a clear sign of the lower quality of life likely to be faced by the growing number of the nation’s youth.

Childhood obesity is the obvious result of too much food and too little exercise. Childhood obesity is faced by a growing number of children and adolescents, and tripled among all school age children.

Childhood obesity is the obvious result of too much food and too little exercise. Children are especially susceptible because of the dramatic social changes that have been taking place for many years. Children are exposed to 40,000 food advertisements a year, one food commercial every minute—urging them to eat candy, snacks, and fast food. Vending machines are now in 43 percent of elementary schools and 97 percent of high schools, offering young students easy access to soft drinks and snacks that can double their risk of obesity. Many schools have eliminated physical education classes, leaving children inactive throughout the school day. More communities are built without sidewalks, safe parks, or bike trails. Parents, who worry about the safety of their children in outside play, encourage them to sit and watch television. Fast food stores are nearby, grocery stores and farmers markets with fresh fruits and vegetables are not.

According to the Institute of Medicine, prevention of obesity in children and youth requires public health action at its broadest and most inclusive level, with coordination between federal and state governments, within schools and communities, and involving all Americans, so that children can make food and activity choices that lead to healthy weights.

The Prevention of Childhood Obesity Act makes the current epidemic a national public health priority. It appoints a federal commission on food policies to promote good nutrition. Guidelines for food and physical activity advertisements will be established by a summit conference of representatives from education, industry, and government to help states implement anti-obesity plans, including curricula and training for educators, for obesity prevention activities in preschool, school, and after-school programs, and for sidewalks, playgrounds, and parks where children can play and be both healthy and safe.

Prevention is the cornerstone of good health and long, productive lives for all Americans. Childhood obesity is preventable, but we have to work together to stop this worsening epidemic and protect our children’s future. Congress must do its part and I urge my colleagues to support this legislation.

I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

S. 799

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.
This Act may be cited as the "Prevention of Childhood Obesity Act".

SEC. 2. FINDINGS.
Congress makes the following findings:

(1) Childhood overweight and obesity is a major public health threat to the United States.

(2) Overweight and obesity is more prevalent in Mexican American and African American youth. Among Mexican Americans, 24 percent of children (6 to 11 years) and adolescents (12 to 19 years) and another 40 percent of children and 44 percent of adolescents are overweight. Among African Americans, 20 percent of children and 24 percent of adolescents are obese and another 36 percent of children and 41 percent of adolescents are overweight.

(3) Childhood overweight and obesity is related to the development of preventable chronic diseases in childhood and adulthood, such as type 2 diabetes and hypertension.

(4) Overweight adolescents have up to an 80 percent chance of becoming obese adults. In 2003, obesity-related health conditions in adults resulted in approximately $11,000,000,000 in medical expenditures.

(5) Childhood overweight and obesity is preventable but will require changes across the multiple environments in which our children are exposed. This includes homes, schools, communities, and society at large.

(6) Overweight and obesity in children are caused by unhealthy eating habits and insufficient physical activity.

(7) Only 2 percent of school children meet all of the recommendations of the Food Guide Pyramid. Sixty percent of young people eat too much fat and less than 20 percent eat the recommended 5 or more servings of fruits and vegetables each day.

More than one third of young people do not meet recommended guidelines for physical activity. Daily participation in high school physical education classes dropped from 42 percent in 1963 to 28 percent in 2003.

(9) Children spend an average of 5 1/2 hours per day using media, more than time they spend doing anything besides sleeping.

(10) Children are exposed to an average of 40,000 television advertisements each year for candy, high sugar cereals, and fast food. Fast food outlets alone spend $3,000,000,000 in advertising every year. Children are exposed to 1 food commercial every 5 minutes.

(11) A coordinated effort involving evidence-based approaches is needed to ensure children develop in a society in which healthy lifestyle choices are available and encourages.

TITLE III—FEDERAL PROGRAMS TO PREVENT CHILDHOOD OBESITY

Subtitle A—Preventing Obesity at Home

SEC. 301. DEVELOPMENT OF OBESEY PREVENTION BEHAVIOR CHANGE CURRICULUM FOR EARLY CHILDHOOD HOME VISITATION PROGRAMS.

Title III of the Public Health Service Act (42 U.S.C. 241 et seq.), as amended by section 201, is amended by adding at the end the following:

"PART S—PREVENTING CHILDHOOD OBESITY

"SEC. 398BB. DEVELOPMENT OF OBESITY PREVENTION BEHAVIOR CHANGE CURRICULUM FOR EARLY CHILDHOOD HOME VISITATION PROGRAMS.

"(a) In General.—The Secretary, in collaboration with the Director of the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention and the Secretary of Education, shall award grants for the development of obesity prevention behavior change curricula to be incorporated into early childhood home visitation programs.

"(b) Eligibility.—To be eligible to receive a grant under this section, an entity shall—

"(1) be an academic center collaborating with a public or private nonprofit organization that has the capability of testing behavior change curricula in service delivery settings and disseminating results to home visiting programs; and

"(2) demonstrate a history of service to children who are prenatal through 5 years of age;

"(c) Priority.—In awarding grants under this section, the Secretary shall give priority to applications targeting childhood obesity prevention activities in underserved populations.

"(d) Use of Funds.—An eligible entity shall use amounts received under a grant under this section to develop, implement, and evaluate the impact of behavior change curricula for early childhood home visitation programs that—

"(1) encourage breast-feeding of infants;

"(2) promote age-appropriate portion sizes for a variety of nutritious foods;

"(3) promote fruits and vegetables and low-energy dense foods; and

"(4) encourage education around parental modeling of physical activity and reduction in television viewing and other sedentary activities by toddlers and young children.

"(e) Evaluation.—Not later than 3 years after the date on which a grant is awarded under this section, the grantee shall submit to the Secretary a report that describes the activities carried out with funds received under the grant and the effectiveness of such activities in reducing childhood obesity and reducing disparities in under-served populations.

"(f) Incorporation into Evidence-Based Programs.—The Secretary, in consultation with the heads of other Federal departments and agencies, shall ensure that policies that prevent childhood obesity are incorporated into evidence-based early childhood home visitation programs in a manner that provides for measurable outcomes.

"(g) Authorization of Appropriations.—There is authorized to be appropriated to carry out this section, $25,000,000 for each of fiscal years 2006 through 2010.

Subtitle B—Preventing Childhood Obesity in Schools

SEC. 311. PREVENTING CHILDHOOD OBESITY IN SCHOOLS.

"(a) In General.—Part S of title III of the Public Health Service Act (as added by section 201) is amended by adding at the end the following:

"SEC. 398BB-1. PREVENTING CHILDHOOD OBESITY IN SCHOOLS.

"(a) In General.—The Secretary, in collaboration with the Director of the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention and the Secretary of Education, shall establish and implement activities to prevent obesity by encouraging healthy nutrition choices and physical activity in schools.

"(b) Schools.—The Secretary, in consultation with the Secretary of Education, shall ensure that each local educational agency that receives Federal funds establishes policies to ban vending machines that sell foods of poor or minimal nutritional value in schools.

"(c) School Districts.—The Secretary shall award grants to local educational agencies to enable elementary and secondary schools to promote good nutrition and physical activity among children.

"(2) Carol M. White Physical Education Program.—The Secretary of Education, in collaboration with the Secretary, may give priority to awarding grants under the Carol M. White Physical Education Program under subpart 10 of part D of title V of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 to local educational agencies and other eligible entities that have a plan to—

"(A) implement behavior change curricula that promote the concepts of energy balance, good nutrition, and physical activity;

"(B) develop policies that encourage the appropriate portion sizes and limit access to soft drinks or other foods of poor or minimal nutritional value such as fast foods, soft drinks, and candy; and

"(C) develop and implement policies to conduct an annual assessment of each student's body mass index and provide such assessment to the student and the parents of that student with appropriate referral mechanisms to address concerns with respect to the results of such assessments.

"(3) Grants for Additional Activities.—The Secretary may award grants to school districts and local educational agencies that propose to develop and implement programs to reduce childhood obesity, reduce disparities in under-served populations, and reduce health disparities in underserved populations.

"(4) Authorization of Appropriations.—There is authorized to be appropriated to carry out this section, $25,000,000 for each of fiscal years 2006 through 2010.
“(H) promote walking or bicycling to and from school using such programs as Walking School Bus and Bike Train;
“(I) train school personnel in a manner that provides them with the knowledge and skills needed to effectively teach lifelong healthy eating and physical activity; and “(J) evaluate the impact of school nutrition and physical education programs and facilities on body mass index and related fitness criteria at annual intervals to determine the extent to which national guidelines are met.

“(e) EVALUATION.—Not later than 3 years after the date on which a grant is awarded under this section, the grantee shall submit to the Secretary a report that describes the activities carried out with funds received under the grant and the effectiveness of such activities in improving nutrition and increasing physical activity.

“(f) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—There is authorized to be appropriated to carry out this section, $50,000,000 for each of fiscal years 2006 through 2010.’’.

(b) CAROL M. WHITE PHYSICAL EDUCATION PROGRAMS.—Paragraph (3) of section 321 of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 (20 U.S.C. 7261 et seq.) is amended by adding at the end the following:

‘‘SEC. 5508. AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.

‘‘There are authorized to be appropriated to carry out this subpart, $150,000,000 for each of fiscal years 2006 through 2010.’’.

SEC. 321. CHILDHOOD OBESITY PREVENTION GRANTS TO AFTERSCHOOL PROGRAMS.

Part 8 of title III of the Public Health Service Act (as amended by section 311) is further amended by adding at the end the following:

‘‘SEC. 399BB–2. CHILDHOOD OBESITY PREVENTION GRANTS TO AFTERSCHOOL PROGRAMS.

‘‘(a) In General.—The Secretary, in collaboration with the Director of the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention and the Secretary of Transportation, shall award grants for the development of obesity prevention behavior change curricula for afterschool programs for children.

‘‘(b) Eligibility.—To be eligible to receive a grant under this section, an entity shall—

‘‘(1) be an academic center collaborating with a public or private nonprofit organization that has the capability of testing behavior change curricula in service delivery settings and disseminating results to afterschool programs on a nationwide basis, except that an organization testing the behavior change curricula developed under the grant shall implement a model of afterschool programming that shall—

‘‘(A) have one or more afterschool programs for children up to the age of 13 years;

‘‘(B) promote the overall health and well-being of children and youth; and

‘‘(C) adhere to established quality standards; and

‘‘(2) submit to the Secretary an application at such time, in such manner, and containing such agreements, assurances, and information as the Secretary may require.

‘‘(c) PRIORITY.—In awarding grants under this section, the Secretary shall give priority to eligible entities submitting applications proposing to develop, implement, and evaluate programs for preventing and controlling childhood obesity or reducing health disparities among historically underserved populations.

‘‘(d) Use of Funds.—An eligible entity shall use amounts received under a grant under this section to develop, implement, and evaluate, and disseminate the results of such evaluations, the impact of curricula for afterschool programs that promote—

‘‘(1) age-appropriate curricula—

‘‘(A) to educate children and adolescents about the importance of—

‘‘(i) maintaining a healthy weight;

‘‘(ii) consuming foods that are rich in low-fat dairy, whole grains, fruits, and vegetables; and

‘‘(iii) being physically active; and

‘‘(B) to promote the overall health and well-being of children;

‘‘(2) consumption of fruits and vegetables and low-energy dense foods;

‘‘(3) physical activity; and

‘‘(4) reduction of screen time and physical activity for children by assessing, modifying, and improving community planning and design.

‘‘(e) EVALUATION.—Not later than 3 years after the date on which a grant is awarded under this section, the grantee shall submit to the Secretary a report that describes the activities carried out with funds received under the grant and the effectiveness of such activities in improving nutrition and increasing physical activity.

‘‘(f) INCORPORATION OF POLICIES INTO FEDERAL PROGRAMS.—The Secretary, in consultation with the heads of other Federal departments and agencies, shall ensure that policies that prevent childhood obesity are incorporated into evidence-based afterschool programs in a manner that provides for measurable outcomes.

‘‘(g) DEFINITION.—In this section, the term ‘afterschool programs’ means programs providing structured recreational opportunities, academic opportunities, arts and cultural opportunities, or social services to children, during out-of-school time, including before school, after school, and during the summer months.

‘‘(h) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—There is authorized to be appropriated to carry out this section, $25,000,000 for each of fiscal years 2006 through 2010.

Subtitle D—Training Early Childhood and Afterschool Professionals to Prevent Childhood Obesity

SEC. 331. TRAINING EARLY CHILDHOOD AND AFTERSCHOOL PROFESSIONALS TO PREVENT CHILDHOOD OBESITY.

Part 8 of title III of the Public Health Service Act (as amended by section 321) is further amended by adding at the end the following:

‘‘SEC. 399BB–3. TRAINING EARLY CHILDHOOD AND AFTERSCHOOL PROFESSIONALS TO PREVENT CHILDHOOD OBESITY.

‘‘(a) In General.—The Secretary, acting through the Administrator of the Health Resources and Services Administration, shall award grants to support the training of early childhood professionals (such as parent educators and child care providers) about obesity prevention with emphasis on nationally accepted standards.

‘‘(b) Eligibility.—To be eligible to receive a grant under this section, an entity shall—

‘‘(1) be a public or private nonprofit organization that conducts or supports early childhood and afterschool programs, home visitation, or other initiatives that—

‘‘(A) focus on parent education and care of children;

‘‘(B) promote the overall health and well-being of children;

‘‘(C) adhere to established quality standards; and

‘‘(2) have the capability to provide training on a nationwide basis; and

‘‘(2) submit to the Secretary an application at such time, in such manner, and containing such agreements, assurances, and information as the Secretary may require.

‘‘(c) COMMUNITIES.—

‘‘(1) IN GENERAL.—The Director of the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, in collaboration with the Secretary, the Secretary of Transportation, and Secretary of the Interior, shall award grants to eligible entities to develop new partnerships between private and public and nonprofit entities to promote healthy nutrition and physical activity for children by assessing, modifying, and improving community planning and design.

‘‘(2) ACTIVITIES.—Amounts awarded under a grant under paragraph (1) shall be used for the implementation and evaluation of activities—

‘‘(A) to create neighborhoods that encourage healthy nutrition and physical activity;

‘‘(B) to promote safe walking and biking routes to schools;

‘‘(C) to design pedestrian zones and connect safe walkways, cycling paths, and playgrounds;

‘‘(D) to implement campaigns, in communities at risk for sedentary activity, designed to increase levels of physical activity, which should be evidence-based, and may incorporate informational, behavioral, and social, or environmental and policy change interventions;

‘‘(E) to implement campaigns, in communities at risk for poor nutrition, that are designed to promote intake of foods by children consistent with established dietary guidelines through the use of different types of media including television, radio, newspapers, movie theaters, billboards, and mailings; and

‘‘(F) to implement campaigns, in communities at risk for poor nutrition, that promote water as the main daily drink of choice for children;

‘‘(g) EVALUATION.—Not later than 3 years after the date on which a grant is awarded under this section, the grantee shall submit—

‘‘(1) a report to the Secretary that describes the activities carried out with funds received under the grant and the effectiveness of such activities in improving nutrition and increasing physical activity for children; and

‘‘(2) a report that describes the activities carried out with funds received under the grant and the effectiveness of such activities in improving nutrition and increasing physical activity for children; and

‘‘(3) a report that describes the activities carried out with funds received under the grant and the effectiveness of such activities in improving nutrition and increasing physical activity for children; and to the Director of the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention a report that describes the activities carried out with funds received under the grant and the effectiveness of the grant in increasing physical activity and improving dietary intake.

‘‘(4) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—There is authorized to be appropriated to carry out this section, $10,000,000 for each of fiscal years 2006 through 2010.’’.

‘‘(e) Authorization of Appropriations.—There is authorized to be appropriated to carry out this section $50,000,000 for each of fiscal years 2006 through 2010.’’.

SEC. 342. GRANTS AND CONTRACTS FOR A NATIONAL CAMPAIGN TO CHANGE CHILDREN’S HEALTH BEHAVIORS.

‘‘(1) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall make available for carrying out activities described in paragraph (1) in changing children’s health behaviors amounts available for carrying out activities of the type described in this section.

SEC. 344. RESEARCH ON THE RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN THE PHYSICAL ACTIVITY OF CHILDREN AND THE BUILT ENVIRONMENT.

Part S of title III of the Public Health Service Act (as amended by section 341) is further amended by adding at the end the following:

‘‘SEC. 399BB-5. RESEARCH ON THE RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN THE PHYSICAL ACTIVITY OF CHILDREN AND THE BUILT ENVIRONMENT.

‘‘(a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall support research efforts to promote physical activity in children through enhancement of the built environment.

‘‘(b) ELIGIBILITY.—In this section, the term ‘eligible institution’ means a public or private nonprofit institution that submits to the Secretary an application at such time, in such manner, and containing such agreements, assurances, and information as the Secretary may require.

‘‘(c) GRANT PROGRAMS.—

‘‘(1) RESEARCH.—The Secretary, in collaboration with the Transportation Research Board of the National Research Council and with appropriate Federal agencies, shall award grants to eligible institutions to expand, intensify, and coordinate research that will—

‘‘(A) investigate and define causal links between the built environment and levels of physical activity in children;

‘‘(B) include focus on a variety of geographic scales, with particular focus given to smaller geographic units of analysis such as neighborhoods and areas around elementary schools and secondary schools;

‘‘(C) identify and develop effective intervention strategies to promote physical activity among children with focus on behavioral interventions and enhancements of the built environment that promote increased use by children; and

‘‘(D) assure the generalizability of intervention strategies to high-risk populations and high-risk communities, including low-income urban and rural communities.

‘‘(2) INTERVENTION PILOT PROGRAMS.—The Secretary, in collaboration with the Transportation Research Board of the National Research Council and with appropriate Federal agencies, shall award grants to pilot test the intervention strategies identified or developed under paragraph (1).

‘‘(d) Authorization of Appropriations.—There are authorized to be appropriated to carry out this section such sums as may be necessary for each of fiscal years 2006 through 2010.

SEC. 399BB-6. DEFINITIONS.

For purposes of this part, the definitions contained in section 401 of the Prevention of Childhood Obesity Act shall apply.

TITLE IV—MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

SEC. 401. DEFINITIONS.

In this Act:

1. Childhood.—The term ‘‘childhood’’ means children and youth from birth to 18 years of age.

2. Child.—The term ‘‘child’’ means children and youth from birth through 18 years of age.

3. Food of Poor or Minimal Nutritional Value.—The term ‘‘food of poor or minimal nutritional value’’ has the meaning given the term ‘‘food of minimal nutritional value’’ for purposes of the Richard B. Russell National School Lunch Act (42 U.S.C. 1751 et seq.) and part 211 of title 7, Code of Federal Regulations.

4. Obesity and Overweight.—The terms ‘‘obesity’’ and ‘‘overweight’’ mean the meanings given such terms by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

5. Obesity Control.—The term ‘‘obesity control’’ means programs or activities for the prevention of excessive weight gain.

6. Obesity Prevention.—The term ‘‘obesity prevention’’ means prevention of obesity or overweight.

By Ms. COLLINS (for herself, Mr. LIEBERMAN, Ms. AKAKA, Ms. LANDRIEU, and Mr. DURBIN):

S. 800. A bill to amend the District of Columbia Home Rule Act to provide the District of Columbia with autonomy over its local budget and make permanent the authority of the D.C. Chief Financial Officer.

Providing the District of Columbia with more autonomy over its local budget will help the Mayor and the Council of the District of Columbia better manage and run the city. Currently, the District of Columbia must submit its budget through the normal Federal appropriations process. Unfortunately, this process is often riddled with delays. For example, the average delay for enactment of an appropriations bill for the District of Columbia has been 3 months. The result of this delay is clear. For a local community these delays affect programs, planning and management initiatives important to the everyday lives of the residents of the city.

The ability of D.C., like any other city in the Nation, to operate efficiently and address the needs of its citizens is of utmost importance. Unlike other budgets that are approved by Congress, the local D.C. budget has a direct effect on local services and programs and affects the quality of life for the residents of D.C. Congress has recognized the practical issues associated with running a city. As a result, in the 1970s, Congress passed the D.C. Home Rule Act which established the current federal procedures for local budget purposes. Congress also empowered D.C. to enact local laws that affect the everyday lives of District residents. And, now, I believe it is time for Congress to do the same with regard to the local budget.

The District of Columbia Budget Autonomy Act of 2005 would address these problems by authorizing the local government to pass its own budget each year. This bill would only affect that portion of the D.C. budget that includes the use of local funds, not Federal funds. In addition, this bill still provides for congressional oversight. Prior to a local budget becoming effective, Congress will have a 30-day period in which to review the local budget. In addition, the local authority to pass a budget would be suspended during any periods of poor financial condition that would trigger a control year.

Having the locally elected officials of those providing the funds that are the subject of the budget process decide on how those funds should be spent is a matter of simple fairness. There are also the practical difficulties that the current system causes when the local budget is not approved until well into the fiscal year. By enacting this bill, Congress would be appropriately carrying out its constitutional duties with respect to the fiscal responsibility by improving the city's ability to better plan, manage and run its local programs and services. This is what the taxpayers of the District of Columbia have elected their local officials to do.

The legislation also includes the District of Columbia Independence of the Chief Financial Officer Act of 2005 which would make permanent the authority derived from the D.C. Control Board, which is currently dormant due to the lack of a permanent financial situation. That authority was set to sunset when the D.C. Control Board was phased out; however, the CFO's authority continues to be extended through the appropriations process, until such time as permanent legislation is enacted.

Ensuring continued financial accountability of the D.C. government is crucial for the fiscal stability of the city. The CFO has played a significant role in maintaining this stability. While providing the District with more autonomy over its budgets, it is also important that the CFO's authority is made permanent and that its role is clear.

I urge my colleagues to support this important piece of legislation.

By Mr. NELSON of Florida:

S. 802. A bill to designate the United States courthouse located at 500 North Hogan Street, Jacksonville, Florida, as the "John Milton Bryan Simpson United States Courthouse"; to the Committee on Environment and Public Works.

Mr. NELSON. Mr. President, today I rise to introduce a bill designating a Jacksonville courthouse as the John Milton Bryan Simpson United States Courthouse.

John Milton Bryan Simpson was born in Kissimmee, FL, in 1903. He was nominated to the Southern District Court of Florida by President Truman in 1950 and to the Federal court of appeals by President Johnson in 1966.

Designating this courthouse after the late Judge Simpson is a fitting tribute to a man whose judicial decisions were instrumental in desegregating public facilities in Jacksonville, Orlando, and Daytona Beach.

It is important that we remember not only his name but also his legacy of courage during that period of our history.

I hope that other members of the Senate will join me in honoring Judge Simpson, a man who was not only a hero to the state of Florida, but a national hero.

By Mr. DOMENICI (for himself, Mr. BAUCUS, Mr. BURNS, Mr. JOHNSON, Mr. ROBERTS, Mr. BINGAMAN, Mr. ALLARD, Mr. WYDEN, Mr. SMITH, MR. HAGEL, and Mr. BROWNBACK):

S. 802. A bill to establish a National Drought Preparedness Council within the Department of Agriculture, to improve national drought preparedness, mitigation, and response efforts, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Agriculture, Nutrition, and Forestry.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I rise today to introduce The National Drought Preparedness Act of 2005. First off, I would like to thank Senator BAUCUS. As the lead cosponsor, his strong leadership and hard work on this bill has been a tremendous help.

Drought is a unique emergency situation; it creeps in unlike other abrupt weather disasters. Without a national drought preparedness plan, we do not know what the next year will bring. Unfortunately, when we find ourselves facing a drought, towns often scramble to drill new water wells, fires often sweep across bone dry forests and farmers and ranchers are forced to watch as their way of life blow away with the dust.

We must be vigilant and prepare ourselves for quick action when the next drought cycle begins. Better planning on our part could limit some of the damage felt by drought. I submit that this bill is the exact tool needed for facilitating better planning.

This Act establishes a National Drought Council within the Department of Agriculture to improve national drought preparedness, mitigation and response efforts. The National Drought Council will formulate strategies to alleviate the effects of drought by fostering a greater understanding of what triggers wide-spread drought conditions. By educating the public in water conservation and proper land stewardship, we can ensure a better preparedness when future drought plagues our country.

The impacts of drought are also very costly. According to NOAA, there have been 12 different drought events since 1980 that resulted in damages and costs exceeding $1 billion each. In 2000, severe drought in the South-Central and Southeastern states caused losses to agriculture and related industries of over $4 billion. Western wildfires that year totaled over $2 billion in damages. The Eastern drought in 1999 led to $1 billion in losses. These are just a few of the statistics.

While drought affects the economic and environmental well being of the entire nation, the United States has lacked a cohesive strategy for dealing with serious drought emergencies. As many of you know, the impact of drought emerges gradually rather than suddenly as is the case with other natural disasters.

I am pleased to be following through on what I started in 1997. The bill that we are introducing today is the next step in implementing a national, cohesive drought policy. The bill recognizes that drought is a recurring phenomenon that causes serious economic and environmental loss and that a national drought policy is needed to ensure an integrated, coordinated strategy.

The National Drought Preparedness Act of 2005 does the following: It creates national policy for drought. This will hopefully move the country away from the costly, ad hoc, response-oriented approach to drought, and move us toward a pro-active, preparedness approach. The new national policy would provide the tools and focus, similar to the Stafford Act, for federal, state, tribal and local governments to address the diverse impacts and costs caused by drought.

The Bill would improve delivery of federal drought programs. This would improve program delivery, integration and leadership. To achieve this intended purpose, the bill establishes the National Drought Council, designating USDA as the lead federal agency. The Council and USDA would provide the coordinating and integrating function for federal drought programs, much like FEMA provides that function for other natural disasters under the Stafford Act.

The Act will provide new tools for drought preparedness planning. Building on existing policy and planning processes, the bill would assist states, local governments, tribes, and other entities in the development and implementation of sound plans. The bill does not mandate state and local planning, but is intended to facilitate plan development and implementation through establishment of the Drought Assistance Fund.

The bill would improve forecasting & monitoring by facilitating the development of the National Drought Monitoring Network in order to improve the characterization of current drought conditions and the forecasting of future droughts. Ultimately, this would provide a better basis to "trigger" federal drought assistance.

Finally, the bill would authorize the USDA to provide reimbursement to states for reasonable staging and pre-positioning costs when there is a threat of a wildfire.

I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

S. 802 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,
SEC. 101. MEMBERSHIP AND VOTING.

(a) In General.—There is established in the National Drought Council a short- or long-term action, program, or policy that is implemented in advance of or during a drought to minimize any risks and impacts of drought.

(b) Establishment.—The National Drought Council established by section 101(a).

(c) Term; Vacancies.—(1) COUNCIL.—The term “Council” means the National Drought Council established by section 101(a).

(ii) who shall collectively represent the geographic diversity of the United States; and

(i) any State water rights established as of the date of enactment of this Act.

(2) Critical Service Provider.—The term “critical service provider” means an entity that provides water (including water provided by an irrigation organization or facility), sewer services, or wastewater treatment.

(3) Director.—The term “Director” means the Director of the Office appointed under section 112(a).

(4) Drought.—The term “drought” means a natural disaster that is caused by a deficiency in precipitation—

(a) that may lead to a deficiency in surface and subsurface water supplies (including rivers, streams, wetlands, ground water, soil moisture, reservoir supplies, lake levels, and snow pack); and

(b) that causes or may cause—

(i) substantial economic or social impacts; or

(ii) physical damage or injury to individuals, property, or the environment.

(5) Fund.—The term “Fund” means the Drought Assistance Fund established by section 121(a).

(6) Indian Tribe.—The term “Indian tribe” has the meaning given in the section in section 4 of the Indian Self-Determination and Education Assistance Act (25 U.S.C. 450b).

(7) Intergovernmental Drought Information System.—The term “National Integrated Drought Information System” means a comprehensive system that collects and integrates information on the key indicators of drought, including stream flow, ground water levels, reservoir levels, soil moisture, snow pack, and climate (including precipitation and temperature), in order to make usable, reliable, and timely assessments of drought, including the severity of drought and drought forecasts.

(8) Secretary.—The term “Secretary” means the Secretary of Agriculture.

(9) Watershed.—The term “watershed” means a natural basin.

(10) United States.—The term “United States” shall include—

(A) the United States, when used in a geographical sense, means all of the States.

(B) OFFICE.—The term “Office” means the Office of the Director established by section 112(a).

(3) The term “Secretary” means the Secretary of Agriculture for Natural Resources and Environment.

SEC. 4. EFFECT OF ACT.

This Act does not affect—

(1) the authority of a State to allocate quantities of water under the jurisdiction of the State; or

(2) any State water rights established as of the date of enactment of this Act.

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE; TABLE OF CONTENTS.

(a) Short Title.—This Act may be cited as the “National Drought Preparedness Act of 2005”.

(b) Table of Contents.—The table of contents of this Act is as follows:

1. FINDINGS
2. DROUGHT PREPAREDNESS
   A. NATIONAL DROUGHT COUNCIL
   B. NATIONAL OFFICE OF DROUGHT PREPAREDNESS
3. REGIONAL AND LOCAL PLANS
   A. STATE PLANS
   B. TRIBAL PLANS
4. FEDERAL PLANS
5. DROUGHT ASSISTANCE FUND
6. GRANTS FOR PREPOSITIONING WILDFIRE SUPPRESSION RESOURCES
7. EFFECT OF ACT

SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

(a) Drought.—(1) Drought is a natural disaster;

(b) Regional Drought Councils.—Regional Drought Councils shall consist of representatives of States in which the watershed lies.

(c) Term.—The term of office of a member of the Council shall be staggered so that not more than 1 member shall be appointed in any one year.
(K) of subsection (b)(1) shall be appointed for a term of 2 years.

(2) VACANCIES.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—A vacancy on the Council shall—

(i) not affect the powers of the Council; and

(ii) be filled in the same manner as the original appointment was made.

(B) DURATION OF APPOINTMENT.—A member appointed to fill a vacancy occurring before the expiration of the term for which the predecessor of the member appointed shall be appointed only for the remainder of the term.

(d) MEETINGS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The Council shall meet at the call of its members appointed under subparagraphs (A) through (K) of subsection (b)(1) shall select a non-Federal co-chair from among the members appointed under those subparagraphs.

(g) DIRECTOR.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The Director shall serve as Director of the Council.

(2) DUTIES.—The Director shall serve the Council as—

(A) FEDERAL CO-CHAIR.—The Secretary of the Army shall be the Federal co-chair.

(B) NON-FEDERAL CO-CHAIR.—Every 2 years, the Council shall appoint a non-Federal co-chair from among the members appointed under subparagraphs (A) through (K) of subsection (b)(1) of this section.

(3) VACANCIES.—

(A) the establishment of common interagency triggers for authorizing Federal drought mitigation programs; and

(B) improving the consistency and fairness of assistance among Federal drought relief programs;

(4) in conjunction with the Secretary of the Army and the Secretary of the Interior—

(A) encourage and facilitate the development of drought preparedness plans under section 122; and

(B) provide for the development of an effective drought early warning system that—

(i) communicates drought conditions and impacts to—

(I) the private sector; and

(II) the public; and

(ii) includes near-real-time data, information, and products developed at the Federal, regional, State, tribal, and local levels of government;

(2) AGENCY ROLES AND RESPONSIBILITIES.—

(a) IN GENERAL.—The Council shall consult with—

(B) reports to Congress.—

(a) ANNUAL REPORT.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—Not later than 1 year after the date of the first meeting of the Council, and annually thereafter, the Council shall submit to Congress a report on the activities carried out under this title.

(B) INCLUSIONS.—

(i) I N GENERAL.—The annual report shall include a summary of drought preparedness plans completed under sections 123 through 125.

(ii) INITIAL REPORT.—The initial report submitted under subparagraph (A) shall include any recommendations of the Council under paragraph (1) or (2) of subsection (a).

(ii) FINAL REPORT.—Not later than 7 years after the date of enactment of this Act, the Council shall submit to Congress a report that recommends—

(A) amendments to this Act; and

(B) whether the Council should continue.

SEC. 103. POWERS OF THE COUNCIL.

(a) HEARINGS.—The Council may hold hearings, meet and act at any time and place, take any testimony and receive any evidence that the Council considers advisable to carry out this title.

(b) INFORMATION FROM FEDERAL AGENCIES.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The Council may request from any Federal agency any information that the Council considers necessary to carry out this title.

(2) PROVISION OF INFORMATION.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in subparagraph (B), on request of the Secretary or the non-Federal co-chair, the head of a Federal agency may provide information to the Council.

(B) LIMITATION.—The head of a Federal agency shall not provide any information to the Council that the Federal agency head determines the disclosure of which may cause harm to national security interests.

(c) POSTAL SERVICES.—The Council may use the United States mail in the same manner and under the same conditions as other agencies of the Federal Government.

(d) GIFTS.—The Council may accept, use, and dispose of gifts or donations of services or property.

(e) FEDERAL FACILITIES.—If the Council proposes the use of a Federal facility for the purposes of carrying out this title, the Council shall solicit and consider the input of the Federal agency with jurisdiction over the facility.

SEC. 104. COUNCIL PERSONNEL MATTERS.

(a) COMPENSATION OF MEMBERS.—

(1) NON-FEDERAL EMPLOYEES.—A member of the Council who is not an officer or employee of the Federal Government shall serve without compensation.

(2) FEDERAL EMPLOYEES.—A member of the Council who is an officer or employee of the United States shall serve without compensation in addition to the compensation received for services of the member as an officer or employee of the Federal Government.

(b) TRAVEL EXPENSES.—A member of the Council shall be allowed travel expenses at rates authorized for an employee of an agency under subchapter I of chapter 57 of title 5, and...
United States Code, while away from the home or regular place of business of the member in the performance of the duties of the Council.

SEC. 106. TERMINATION OF COUNCIL.

The Council shall terminate 8 years after the date of enactment of this Act.

Subtitle B—National Office of Drought Preparedness

SEC. 111. ESTABLISHMENT.

The Secretary shall establish an office to be known as the “National Office of Drought Preparedness”, which shall be under the jurisdiction of the Under Secretary, to provide assistance to the Council in carrying out this title.

SEC. 112. DIRECTOR OF THE OFFICE.

(a) APPOINTMENT.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The Under Secretary shall appoint a Director of the Office under sections 3371 through 3375 of title 5, United States Code.

(2) QUALIFICATIONS.—The Director shall be a person with knowledge of:

(A) public administration; and

(B) drought mitigation or drought management.

(b) POWERS.—The Director may hire such other personnel as necessary to carry out the duties of the Office.

SEC. 113. OFFICE STAFF.

(a) IN GENERAL.—The Office shall have at least 5 full-time staff, including the detailers detailed under subsection (b)(1).

(b) Details.

(1) REQUIRED DETAILERS.—There shall be detailed to the Office, on a nonreimbursable basis—

(A) by the Director of the Federal Emergency Management Agency, 1 employee of the Federal Emergency Management Agency with expertise in emergency planning;

(B) by the Secretary of Commerce, 1 employee of the Department of Commerce with experience in water planning; and

(C) by the Secretary of the Interior, 1 employee of the Army Corps of Engineers with experience in water planning.

(2) ADDITIONAL DETAILERS.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—In addition to any employees detailed under paragraph (1), any other employees of the Federal Government may be detailed to the Office.

(B) REIMBURSEMENT.—An employee detailed under subparagraph (A) shall be detailed without reimbursement, unless the Secretary, on the recommendation of the Director, determines that reimbursement is appropriate.

(c) CIVIL SERVICE STATUS.—The detail of an employee under paragraph (1) or (2) shall be without interruption or loss of civil service status or privilege.

Subtitle C—Drought Preparedness Plans

SEC. 121. DROUGHT ASSISTANCE FUND.

(a) TREATY FUNDS.—There is authorized to be appropriated to the Disaster Assistance Fund established in the Treasury of the United States a fund to be known as the “Drought Assistance Fund”.

(b) PURPOSE.—The Fund shall be used to pay the costs of—

(1) providing technical and financial assistance (including grants and cooperative agreements) to Indian tribes, local governments, watershed groups, and critical service providers for the development and implementation of drought preparedness plans under sections 123 through 125;

(2) providing to States, Indian tribes, local governments, watershed groups, and critical service providers for the development and implementation of drought preparedness plans under sections 123 through 125; and

(3) providing to States, Indian tribes, local governments, watershed groups, and critical service providers for the development and implementation of drought preparedness plans.

(c) GUIDELINES.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary, in consultation with the other members of the Council, shall promulgate guidelines to implement this section.

(2) GENERAL REQUIREMENTS.—The guidelines shall—

(A) ensure the distribution of amounts from the Fund within a reasonable period of time;

(B) take into consideration regional differences; and

(C) take into consideration all impacts of drought in a balanced manner.

(d) PROHIBITIONS.—

(1) PROHIBIT THE USE OF FUNDS FROM THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT TO PROVIDE FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE TO INDIAN TRIBES, STATES, LOCAL GOVERNMENTS, OR WATERSHED GROUPS.

(e) REIMBURSEMENT.—An employee detailed under subsection (b)(1) shall—

(i) provide that the distribution of funds to any State or Indian tribe is not required; and

(ii) consider the level of impact within the watershed of the affected States or Indian tribes and the affected States or Indian tribes and the affected States or Indian tribes.

(f) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—There are authorized to be appropriated to the Fund such sums as are necessary to carry out subsection (b).

SEC. 122. DROUGHT PREPAREDNESS PLANS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary of the Interior and the Secretary of the Army shall, with the concurrence of the Council, jointly promulgate guidelines for administering a national program to provide technical and financial assistance to States, Indian tribes, local governments, watershed groups, and critical service providers for the development, maintenance, and implementation of drought preparedness plans.

(b) REQUIREMENTS.—To build on the experience and avoid duplication of efforts of Federal, State, local, tribal, and regional drought plans in existence on the date of enactment of this Act, the guidelines may recognize and incorporate those plans.

SEC. 123. FEDERAL PLANS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary, the Secretary of the Army, and other appropriate Federal agency heads shall develop and implement Federal drought preparedness plans for agencies under the jurisdiction of the appropriate Federal agency head.

(b) REQUIREMENTS.—The Federal plans—

(1) shall be integrated with each other;

(2) may be integrated with other Federal planning requirements;

(3) shall be integrated with drought preparedness plans of State, tribal, and local governments that are affected by Federal projects and programs; and

(4) shall be completed not later than 2 years after the date of enactment of this Act.

SEC. 124. STATE AND TRIBAL PLANS.

States and Indian tribes may develop and implement State and tribal drought preparedness plans that—

(a) address monitoring of resource conditions that are related to drought;

(b) identify areas that are at a high risk for drought;

(c) describe mitigation strategies to address and reduce the vulnerability of an area to drought; and

(d) are integrated with State, tribal, and local water plans in existence on the date of enactment of this Act.
SEC. 125. REGIONAL AND LOCAL PLANS.

Local governments, watershed groups, and regional water providers may develop and implement drought preparedness plans that—

(1) address monitoring of resource conditions that are related to drought;
(2) identify areas that are at a high risk for drought;
(3) describe mitigation strategies to address and reduce the vulnerability of an area to drought; and
(4) are integrated with corresponding State plans.

SEC. 126. PLAN ELEMENTS.

The drought preparedness plans developed under sections 123 through 125—

(1) shall be consistent with Federal and State laws, contracts, and policies;
(2) shall ensure the State to continue to manage water and wildlife in the State;
(3) shall address the health, safety, and economic interests of those persons directly affected by drought;
(4) shall address the economic impact on resource-dependent businesses and industries, including regional tourism;
(5) may include—

(A) provisions for water management strategies to be used during various drought or water shortage thresholds, consistent with State water law;
(B) provisions to address key issues relating to drought (including public health, safety, emergency preparedness, and environmental issues such as water quality, water quantity, protection of threatened and endangered species, and fire management);
(C) provisions that allow for public participation in the development, adoption, and implementation of drought plans;
(D) provisions for periodic drought exercises, revisions, and updates;
(E) a hydrologic characterization study to determine how water is being used during times of normal water supply availability to anticipate the types of drought mitigation actions that would most effectively improve water management during a drought;
(F) drought triggers;
(G) specific implementation actions for droughts;
(H) a water shortage allocation plan, consistent with State law; and
(I) comprehensive insurance and financial strategies to manage the risks and financial impacts of droughts; and
(6) for transitional consideration—

(A) the financial impact of the plan on the ability of the utilities to ensure rate stability and revenue stream; and
(B) economic impacts from water shortages.

TITLE II—WILDFIRE SUPPRESSION

SEC. 201. GRANTS FOR PREPOSITIONING WILDFIRE SUPPRESSION RESOURCES.

Title II of the Robert T. Stafford Disaster Relief and Emergency Assistance Act (42 U.S.C. 5313 et seq.) is amended by adding at the end the following:

"SEC. 205. GRANTS FOR PREPOSITIONING WILDFIRE SUPPRESSION RESOURCES.

"(a) FINDINGS AND PURPOSE.—The Congress finds that—

"(1) wildfires increase the risk of catastrophic wildfires that—"(i) drastically alter and otherwise adversely affect the landscape for communities and the environment;

"(ii) because of the potential of such wildfires to overwhelm State wildfire suppression resources, require a coordinated response among States, Federal agencies, and neighboring countries; and

"(iii) result in billions of dollars in losses each year;

"(B) the Federal Government must, to the maximum extent practicable, prevent and suppress such catastrophic wildfires to protect human life and property;

"(C) not taking into account State, local, and private wildfire suppression costs, during the period of 2000 through 2003, by the Federal Government exceeded more than $580,000,000 for wildfire suppression costs, at an average annual cost of almost $190,000,000 each year;

"(D) since 1980, 2.8 percent of Federal wildfires have been responsible for an average annual cost to the Forest Service of more than $500,000,000;

"(E) the Forest Service estimates that annual national mobilization costs are between $40,000,000 and $50,000,000;

"(F) saving 10 percent of annual national mobilization costs through more effective use of local resources would reduce costs by $4,000,000 to $5,000,000 each year;

"(G) it is more cost-effective to prevent wildfires by prepositioning wildfire fighting resources to catch flare-ups than to commit millions of dollars to respond to uncontrollable fires; and

"(H) it is in the best interest of the United States to invest in catastrophic wildfire prevention and mitigation by easing the financial burden of positioning wildfire suppression resources.

"(2) PURPOSE.—The purpose of this section is to encourage the mitigation and prevention of wildfires and to provide financial assistance to States for prepositioning of wildfire suppression resources.

"(b) Authorization.—

"(1) The Federal Government may reimburse a State for the cost of prepositioning wildfire suppression resources on potential multiple and large fire complexes when the Director determines, in accordance with the national severity indices contained in the Forest Service handbook entitled 'Interagency Standards for Fire and Fire Aviation Operations', that a wildfire event poses a threat to life and property in the area.

"(2) ELIGIBILITY.—Wildfire suppression resources of the Federal Government, neighboring countries, and any State other than the State requesting assistance are eligible for reimbursement under this section.

"(d) REIMBURSEMENT.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—The Director may reimburse a State for the costs of prepositioning of wildfire suppression resources of the entities specified in paragraph (3) including mobilization to, and demobilization from, the staging or prepositioning area.

"(2) REQUIREMENTS.—For a State to receive reimbursement under paragraph (1)—

"(A) any resource provided by an entity specified in subsection (c) shall have been specifically requested by the State seeking reimbursement;

"(B) staging or prepositioning costs—

"(i) shall be expended during the approved prepositioning period; and

"(ii) shall be based on the following:

"(3) LIMITATION.—The amount of all reimbursements made under this subsection during any year shall not exceed $50,000,000.

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. President, I rise today in support of bipartisan National Drought Preparedness Act of 2005. For the last 5 years a devastating drought has forced many families across South Dakota and the United States to make difficult life-changing decisions about their future in agriculture. Many of our Nation’s produce producers have had to abandon their farms, and the family farm life has been threatened for too many people.

I was hopeful that the drought measures I have helped pass in the last 5 years would assist producers in weathering the current drought. With my support, the Senate, and ultimately Congress, agreed to legislation providing either or agriculture disaster assistance package (DFA) or the 2003–2004. While this assistance is greatly appreciated by those suffering from this natural disaster, I am concerned for our future prospects for drought aid. Given the President’s resistance to fund crucial USDA farm bill programs in his proposed fiscal year 2006 budget, his insistence on cannibalizing $3 billion from the Conservation Security Program, CSP to fund the 2003–2004 package, which should in fact be recognized as an uncapped entitlement provision, and a historically high budgetary deficit, I am concerned at our prospects of securing substantive monies for future disasters. I will continue to work with my Senate colleagues to ensure adequate dollars for South Dakota, but we must examine more comprehensive measures for addressing drought.

That National Drought Preparedness Act will help us better prepare for future droughts and reduce the need for large ad hoc disaster programs that may cannibalize funds from other agricultural programs. I am fully prepared to support special disaster assistance when it is necessary, but with this act made law, producers, tribes, States, and our federal government must examine more comprehensive measures for addressing drought.

That act will do several things that will significantly increase our ability to deal with drought conditions. The bill establishes, in the office of the Secretary of Agriculture, a National Drought Council to oversee the development of a national drought policy action plan. This plan will be the blueprint for dealing with and preparing for drought. The Federal government has put its dealing with drought and hurricanes, and we need the same kind of plan for the slow, dry disaster that is drought. This bill recognizes drought as the natural disaster it is.

The act also creates the National Office of Drought Preparedness. This would be the permanent body that assists the National Drought Council in the formulation and carrying out of the national drought policy action plans.

A drought assistance fund will be established by this act, to assist State and local governments in their development and implementation of drought preparedness plans. The act will also provide assistance for the rapid response to wildfires, which is critical to mitigating the effects of a prolonged drought in forested areas, like we have in western South Dakota.

Lastly, the act provides for the development of a national drought forecasting and reporting system. That will help forecast the onset of droughts better and improve reporting on current droughts.
I am encouraged by what the National Drought Preparedness Act of 2005 has to offer to the farmers and ranchers of our great country. We must treat drought like all other disasters are treated, and take an aggressive stance toward minimizing its effect on communities across America. That is why I am pleased to be an original co-sponsor of this important bipartisan piece of legislation.

By Mr. COLEMAN (for himself and Mrs. CLINTON):

S. 803. A bill to amend the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, the Public Health Service Act, and the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 to provide parity with respect to substance abuse treatment benefits under group health plans and health insurance coverage; to the Committee on Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I am pleased to introduce the Help Expand Access to Recovery and Treatment (HEART) Act of 2005 with my friend and colleague, Senator CLINTON of New York.

By passing this life-saving legislation, Congress would provide equitable access to substance abuse treatment services for 23 million adults and children who need treatment for the disease of alcoholism and other drug dependencies.

HEART would put the decision of whether or not consumers are granted substance abuse treatment services in the hands of doctors and trained addiction professionals, and patients. At least 75 percent of individuals who suffer from alcoholism have access to private health insurance. However, fewer than 70 percent of employer-provided health plans cover alcoholism and drug treatment at the same level as other medical conditions.

Our bill eliminates this inequitable coverage of medical conditions so those who need treatment receive it.

I look forward to working with my colleagues to pass this legislation that is not just important to our nation's economy and the health of our workforce but to the quality of life for millions of Americans and their families.

I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the Record.

There being no objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the Record, as follows:

SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

Congress finds the following:
(1) Substance abuse, if left untreated, is a medical emergency and a private and public health crisis.
(2) Nothing in this Act should be construed as prohibiting application of the concept of parity to substance abuse treatment provided by faith-based treatment providers.
insurance coverage from negotiating the level and type of reimbursement with a provider for care provided in accordance with this section.

(c) Exemptions.—

(1) SMALL EMPLOYER EXEMPTION.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—This section shall not apply to any group health plan (and group health insurance coverage offered in connection with a group health plan) for any plan year of a small employer.

(B) SMALL EMPLOYER.—For purposes of subparagraph (A), the term ‘small employer’ means, in connection with a group health plan with respect to a calendar year and a plan year, an employer who employed an average of at least 2 but not more than 50 employees on business days during the preceding calendar year and who employs at least 2 employees on the first day of the plan year.

(C) APPLICATION OF CERTAIN RULES IN DETERMINATION OF EMPLOYER SIZE.—For purposes of this paragraph:

(i) APPLICABLE AGGREGATION RULE FOR EMPLOYERS.—Rules similar to the rules under subsections (b), (c), (m), and (o) of section 141 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 shall apply to plans for purposes of treating persons as a single employer.

(ii) EMPLOYERS NOT IN EXISTENCE IN PRECEDING YEAR.—In the case of an employer which was not in existence throughout the preceding calendar year, the determination of whether such employer is a small employer shall be based on the average number of employees that it is reasonably expected such employer will employ on business days in the current calendar year.

(iii) PREDECESSORS.—Any reference in this paragraph to an employer shall include a reference to any predecessor of such employer.

(2) INCREASED COST EXEMPTION.—This section shall not apply with respect to any group health plan (or health insurance coverage of an individual) that was not in existence throughout the preceding calendar year, the determination of which was not in existence throughout the preceding calendar year, the determination of whether such employer is a small employer shall be based on the average number of employees that it is reasonably expected such employer will employ on business days in the current calendar year.

(iii) PREDECESSORS.—Any reference in this paragraph to an employer shall include a reference to any predecessor of such employer.

(2) INCREASED COST EXEMPTION.—This section shall not apply with respect to any group health plan (or health insurance coverage of an individual) that was not in existence throughout the preceding calendar year, the determination of whether such employer is a small employer shall be based on the average number of employees that it is reasonably expected such employer will employ on business days in the current calendar year.

(3) INTERNAL REVENUE CODE AMENDMENTS.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—Subchapter B of chapter 100 of the Revenue Code of 1986 (relating to other requirements) is amended by adding at the end the following new section:

SEC. 9813. PARITY IN THE APPLICATION OF TREATMENT LIMITATIONS AND FINANCIAL REQUIREMENTS TO SUBSTANCE ABUSE TREATMENT BENEFITS.

(4) SUBSTANCE ABUSE TREATMENT BENEFITS.—The term ‘substance abuse treatment benefits’ means benefits with respect to medical and surgical benefits and financial requirements imposed with respect to substance abuse treatment benefits.

(B) INDIVIDUAL HEALTH INSURANCE.—

(i) APPLICATION OF AGGREGATION RULE FOR EMPLOYERS.—Rules similar to the rules under subsections (b), (c), (m), and (o) of section 414 shall apply for purposes of treating persons as a single employer.

(ii) EMPLOYERS NOT IN EXISTENCE IN PRECEDING YEAR.—In the case of an employer which was not in existence throughout the preceding calendar year, the determination of whether such employer is a small employer shall be based on the average number of employees that it is reasonably expected such employer will employ on business days in the current calendar year.

(iii) PREDECESSORS.—Any reference in this paragraph to an employer shall include a reference to any predecessor of such employer.

(2) INCREASED COST EXEMPTION.—This section shall not apply with respect to a group health plan if the application of this section to such plan results in an increase in the cost under the plan of at least 1 percent.

(4) SEPARATE APPLICATION TO EACH OPTION OFFERED.—In the case of a group health plan that offers a participant or beneficiary 2 or more benefit package options under the plan, the requirements of this section shall apply separately with respect to each such option.

(b) DEFINITIONS.—For purposes of this section:

(1) TREATMENT LIMITATION.—The term ‘treatment limitation’ means, with respect to benefits under a group health plan (or health insurance coverage offered in connection with a group health plan) if the application of this section to such plan (or to such coverage) results in an increase in the cost under the plan (or for such coverage) of at least 1 percent.

(2) FINANCIAL REQUIREMENT.—The term ‘financial requirement’ means, with respect to benefits under a group health plan (or health insurance coverage, any deductible, coinsurance, or cost-sharing or an annual or lifetime dollar limit imposed with respect to the benefits under the plan.

(3) MEDICAL OR SURGICAL BENEFITS.—The term ‘medical or surgical benefits’ means benefits with respect to medical or surgical services, as defined under the terms of the plan.

(4) SUBSTANCE ABUSE TREATMENT BENEFITS.—The term ‘substance abuse treatment benefits’ means benefits with respect to substance abuse treatment services.

(b) INDIVIDUAL HEALTH INSURANCE.—

(1) AMENDMENT TO THE PUBLIC HEALTH SERVICE ACT.—Part B of title XXVII of the Public Health Service Act (42 U.S.C. 300gg-41 et seq.) is amended by inserting after section 2752 the following new section:

SEC. 2753. PARITY IN THE APPLICATION OF TREATMENT LIMITATIONS AND FINANCIAL REQUIREMENTS TO SUBSTANCE ABUSE BENEFITS.

"(a) In general—The provisions of section 2707 (other than subsection (e)) shall apply to health insurance coverage offered by a health insurance issuer in the individual market in the same manner that it applies to health insurance coverage offered by a health insurance issuer in connection with a group health plan in the small or large group market.

"(b) Notice.—A health insurance issuer under this part shall comply with the notice requirement under section 116(f) of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 with respect to the requirements referred to in subsection (a) as if such section applied to such issuer and such issuer were a group health plan.

(2) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—Section 2762(b)(2) of such Act (42 U.S.C. 300gg-62(b)(2)) is amended by striking "section 2751" and inserting "section 2751 and 2753".

(c) EFFECTIVE DATES.—

(1) GROUP HEALTH PLANS.—Subject to paragraph (3), the amendments made by subsection (a) apply with respect to group health plans for plan years beginning on or after January 1, 2006.

(2) INDIVIDUAL HEALTH INSURANCE.—The amendments made by subsection (a) apply with respect to health insurance coverage offered, sold, issued, renewed, in effect, or offered to in the individual market on or after January 1, 2006.

(3) SPECIAL RULE.—In the case of a group health plan maintained pursuant to 1 or more collective bargaining agreements between employee representatives and 1 or more employers ratified before the date of enactment of this Act, the amendments made by subsection (a) shall not apply to plan years beginning before the later of—

(A) the date on which the last collective bargaining agreement relating to the plan terminates (determined without regard to any extension thereof agreed to after the date of enactment of this Act), or

(B) January 1, 2006.

For purposes of subparagraph (A), any plan amendment made pursuant to a collective bargaining agreement relating to the plan which amends the plan solely to conform to the requirements added by subsection (a) shall not be treated as a termination of such collective bargaining agreement.

(d) COORDINATED REGULATIONS.—Section 1961(1) of the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act of 1996 is amended by striking "this subtitle (and the amendments made by this subtitle and section 401)" and inserting "this subtitle (other than section 1961(1)) and amendments included in part 7 of subchapter B of title I of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, and the provisions of parts A and C of title XXVII of the Public Health Service Act (chapter 100 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986)."

(e) PREEMPTION.—Nothing in the amendments made by this section shall be construed to supersede any provision of State law that provides protections to individuals that are greater than the protections provided under such amendments.

By Mr. CRAIG (for himself and Mr. AKAKA):

S. 806. A bill to amend title 38, United States Code, to provide a traumatic injury protection rider to servicemembers insured under section 1967(a)(1) of such title; to the Committee on Veterans' Affairs.

Mr. CRAIG. Mr. President, I rise on behalf of myself and the distinguished ranking member of the Veterans Committee, Senator AKAKA, to introduce legislation providing a traumatic injury protection rider for our servicemembers. I urge all my colleagues to review this important legislation and support its enactment, and I ask unanimous consent that the text of this legislation be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

S. 806

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. TRAUMATIC INJURY PROTECTION.

(a) In General.—Subchapter III of chapter 19 of title 38, United States Code, is amended—

(1) in section 1965, by adding at the end the following:

"(II) The term ‘daily living’ means the inability to independently perform 2 of the following functions:

(A) Bathing.

(B) Continence.

(C) Dressing.

(D) Eating.

(E) Toileting.

(F) Transferring.; and

(2) by adding at the end the following:

"§19802. Traumatic injury protection

(a) A member who is insured under subchapter II of chapter 19 of title 38, United States Code, shall be entitled to a traumatic injury protection rider that will provide for a payment not to exceed $100,000 if a member suffers more than 1 such loss as a result of traumatic injury, payment will be made in accordance with the schedule in subsection (b) for the single loss providing the highest payment.

(b)(1) A member who is insured a traumatic injury protection rider under subsection (a) is insured against—

(A) total and permanent loss of sight;

(B) loss of a hand or foot by severance at or above the wrist or ankle;

(C) total and permanent loss of speech;

(D) loss of thumb and index finger of the same hand by severance at or above the metacarpophalangeal joints;

(E) loss of thumb and index finger of the same hand by amputation at or above the distal interphalangeal joints;

(F) loss of hand and foot;

(G) burn greater than second degree, covering 30 percent of the body or 30 percent of the face; and

(H) coma or the inability to carry out the activities of daily living resulting from traumatic injury to the brain.

(2) For purposes of this subsection—

(A) the term ‘quadriplegia’ means the complete and irreversible paralysis of all 4 limbs;

(B) the term ‘paraplegia’ means the complete and irreversible paralysis of both lower limbs; and

(C) the term ‘hemiplegia’ means the complete and irreversible paralysis of the upper and lower limbs of 1 side.

(3) A payment under this section may be made only if—

(1) the member is insured under Servicemembers’ Group Life Insurance when the traumatic injury is sustained;

(2) the loss results directly from that traumatic injury and from no other cause; and

(3) the member suffers the loss not later than 90 days after sustaining the traumatic injury, except, if the loss is quadriplegia, paraplegia, or hemiplegia, the member suffers the loss not later than 365 days after sustaining the traumatic injury.

(4) Payments under this section for losses described in subsection (b)(1) will be made in accordance with the following schedule:

(1) Loss of both hands, $100,000.

(2) Loss of both feet, $100,000.

(3) Inability to carry out activities of daily living resulting from traumatic brain injury, $100,000.

(4) Burns greater than second degree, covering 30 percent of the body or 30 percent of the face, $100,000.

(5) Loss of sight in both eyes, $100,000.

(6) Loss of 1 hand and 1 foot, $100,000.

(7) Loss of 1 hand and sight of 1 eye, $100,000.

(8) Loss of 1 foot and sight of 1 eye, $100,000.

(9) Loss of speech and hearing in 1 ear, $100,000.

(10) Total and permanent loss of hearing in both ears, $100,000.

(11) Quadriplegia, $100,000.

(12) Paraplegia, $75,000.

(13) Loss of 1 hand, $50,000.

(14) Loss of 1 foot, $50,000.

(15) Loss of sight of 1 eye, $50,000.

(16) Total and permanent loss of speech, $50,000.

(17) Loss of hearing in 1 ear, $50,000.

(18) Hemiplegia, $50,000.

(19) Loss of thumb and index finger of the same hand, $25,000.

(20) Coma resulting from traumatic brain injury, $50,000 at time of claim and $50,000 at end of 6-month period.

(1) During any period in which a member is insured under this section and the member is on active duty, there shall be deducted each month from the member’s basic pay or other pay until separation or release from active duty an amount determined by the Secretary of Veterans Affairs as the premium allocable to the pay period for providing traumatic injury protection under this section (which shall be the same for all members) as the share of the cost attributable to provided coverage under this section, less any costs traceable to the extra services of such duty in the uniformed services.

(2) During any month in which a member is assigned to the Ready Reserve of a uniformed service under conditions which meet the qualifications set forth in section 1965(b)(5) of this title and is insured under a policy of insurance purchased by the Secretary of Veterans Affairs under section 166 of this title, there shall be contributed from the appropriation made for active duty pay of the service concerned as the amount determined by the Secretary of Veterans Affairs (which shall be the same for all such members) as the share of the cost attributable to such service. The amount of any costs traceable to the extra hazards of such duty in the uniformed services. Any amounts so contributed on behalf of any member shall be collected by the Secretary of the concerned service from such member (by deduction from pay or otherwise) and shall be credited to the appropriation for that service. The contribution was made in advance on a monthly basis.

"(3) The Secretary of Veterans Affairs shall determine the premium amounts to be charged for traumatic injury protection coverage provided under this section.

"(4) The premium amounts shall be determined on the basis of sound actuarial principles and shall include an amount necessary to cover the administrative costs to the insurer or insurers providing such insurance.

"(5) The rate for the first policy year shall be continued for subsequent policy years, except that the rate may be adjusted for any such subsequent policy year on the basis of actuarial soundness under the policies as determined by the Secretary of Veterans Affairs in advance of that policy year.

"(6) The cost attributable to insuring such members is the premium rate for the first policy year, as determined according to sound actuarial principles by the Secretary of Veterans Affairs.

"(7) The Secretary of Defense shall provide the amount of appropriations required to pay the premiums deducted from the pay of the member's uniformed service, shall be paid by the Secretary of Defense to the Secretary of Veterans Affairs, and such amount shall be paid on a monthly basis, and shall be due within 10 days of the notice provided by the Secretary of Veterans Affairs to the Secretary of the concerned uniformed service.

"(8) The Secretary of Defense shall forward an amount to the Secretary of Veterans Affairs that is equivalent to half the anticipated cost of claims for the current fiscal year, upon the effective date of this legislation.

"(9) The Secretary of the Army shall certify whether any member claiming the benefit under section 1319E is eligible.

"(g) Payment for a loss resulting from traumatic injury will not be made if the member dies no more than 7 days after the date on which the member dies before payment to the member can be made, the payment will be made according to the member's most current beneficiary designation under the Servicemembers' Group Life Insurance, or by a law designation, if applicable.

"(h) Coverage for loss resulting from traumatic injury provided under this section shall begin on the date of the member's separation from the uniformed service. Payment will not be made for any loss resulting from injury incurred after the date a member is separated from the uniformed services.

"(i) Insurance coverage provided under this section is not convertible to Servicemembers' Group Life Insurance.

(b) CLERICAL AMENDMENT.—The table of sections for chapter 19 of title 38, United States Code, is amended by adding after the item relating to section 1980 the following:

"1980A. Traumatic injury protection."

SEC. 2. EFFECTIVE DATE.

The amendments made by section 1 shall take effect on the first day of the first month beginning more than 180 days after the date of enactment of this Act.

By Mr. CRAIG (for himself, Mr. CRAPO, and Mr. SMITH):

S. 807. A bill to amend the Federal Land Policy and Management Act of 1976 to provide owners of non-Federal lands with a reliable method of receiving compensation resulting from the spread of wildfire from nearby forested National Forest System lands or Bureau of Land Management lands, when those forested Federal lands are not maintained in the forest health status known as condition class 1.

Mr. CRAIG. Mr. President, I rise today to introduce the Enhanced Safety from Wildfire Act of 2005. I am joined by my colleagues Mr. CRAPO and Mr. SMITH.

The legislation we are introducing would amend the Federal Land Policy and Management Act of 1976 to make it possible for non-Federal land owners to receive compensation for a loss of property arising from wildfires spreading from Federal land that has not been managed as Condition Class 1.

As we all know, in recent years, there has been a significant amount of injury and loss of property resulting from wildfires originating from forested Federal lands spreading to non-Federal lands. Recent wildfires on federal forested lands have shown that lands managed under approved forest health management practices are less susceptible to the effects of wildfire, than similarly forested lands that are not actively managed.

There is a continuing and growing threat to the safety of communities, individuals, homes, and other property, and timber on non-Federal lands that adjoin Federal forested lands because of the unnatural accumulation of forest fuels on these Federal lands and the lack of active Federal management of these lands.

The use of approved forest health management practices make forest fire "buffer zones" between forested Federal lands and adjacent non-Federal lands that adjoin Federal forested lands and adjacent non-Federal lands reduce the occurrence of wildfires on forested federal lands or, at least, limit their spread to non-Federal lands and the severity of the resulting damage.

This legislation requires the agencies to manage a "buffer zone" on Federal lands that is adjacent to non-Federal land. When forested Federal lands adjacent to non-Federal lands are not adequately managed with a "buffer zone" and wildfire occurs, the legislation states the owners of the non-Federal lands are eligible for compensation for damages resulting from the spread of wildfire to their lands. The legislation sets minimum criteria for non-Federal land to be eligible for compensation.

Our federal land management agencies need to take responsibility for the impacts that occur on non-Federal land as a result of a lack of management on federal land. As a society, we have come to expect that our neighbors take responsibility for their actions and I feel the federal land management agencies should not escape this responsibility either.

In the next few weeks, the weather will heat up, more than 727 million acres will burn. I fear we will once again hear reports regarding the loss of property.

I know this legislation may not be the answer to solving our Federal land management problems and I am willing to discuss other options, but I know that until we address the heart of this issue, homes, private land, and communities will continue to be at risk because of poor Federal land management. Being a good neighbor means being responsible for your actions.

By Mr. DURBIN (for himself and Ms. COLLINS):

S. 808. A bill to encourage energy conservation through bicycling; to the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation.

Mr. DURBIN. Madam President, I rise today to introduce the Bike Act to promote energy conservation and improve public health. I am pleased to be joined by my colleagues from Maine, Senator SUSAN COLLINS, in introducing this legislation. This legislation addresses one part of our Nation's energy challenges. Although there is no single solution to solve our energy problems, I believe that every possible approach must be considered.

Our Nation would realize several benefits from the increased use of bicycle transportation, including lessened dependence on foreign oil and prevention of harmful air emissions. Currently, less than one trip in one hundred, 0.8 percent, is by bicycle. If we can increase cycling use to one and a half trips per hundred, which is less than one bike trip every two weeks for the average person, we will save more than 426 million gallons of gasoline in a year. That is the equivalent of one full day in which the U.S. will not need to import any foreign oil.

In addition to fostering greater energy security, this bill will help mitigate air quality challenges, which can be harmful to public health and the environment. Unlike automotive transportation, bicycling is emission-free.

The Conserves by Bike Act encourages bicycling through two key components: a pilot program and a research project. The Conserves by Bike Pilot Program established by this legislation would be implemented by the U.S. Department of Transportation. The Department would fund up to ten pilot projects throughout the country that would utilize education and marketing tools to encourage people to convert some of their car trips to bike trips. Each of these pilot projects must: (1) document project results and energy conserved; and (2) evaluate the project among stakeholders in two or more of the following fields: transportation, law enforcement, education, public health, and the environment; (3) maximize current bicycle facility investments; (4) demonstrate methods that can be replicated in other locations; and (5) produce ongoing programs that are sustained by local resources.

The legislation also directs the Transportation Research Board of the National Academy of Sciences to conduct a research project on converting car trips to bike trips. The study will consider how many trips Americans can reasonably be expected to make by bike, given such factors as weather, land use, and traffic patterns, carrying capacity of bicycles, and bicycle infrastructure; (2) what energy savings would result, or how much energy could be conserved, if these trips were converted from car to bike; (3) the cost-benefit analysis of bicycle infrastructure investments; and (4) what factors could encourage more car trips to be replaced with bike trips. The study also will identify lessons we can learn from the documented results of the pilot programs.

The Conserve by Bike Program is a small investment that has the potential to produce significant returns: greater independence from foreign oil and a healthier environment and population. The Conserve by Bike Act authorizes a total of $5.2 million to carry out the pilot programs and research. A total of $5,150,000 will be used to implement the pilot projects; $300,000 will be used by the Department of Transportation to coordinate, publicize, and disseminate the results of the program; and $750,000 will be utilized for the research study.

The provisions in this bill enjoy strong, bipartisan support and have passed by unanimous consent as an amendment to a previous Senate energy package. The measure is endorsed by the League of American Bicyclists, which has over 300,000 affiliates, as well as the Association of Pediatrician and Bicycle Professionals, Rails to Trails Conservancy, Alliance of Bikes and People, and the League of Illinois Bicyclists.

I ask that the text of the legislation be printed in the RECORD. There being no objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

SEC. 1. CONSERVE BY BICYCLING PROGRAM.

(a) DEFINITIONS.—In this section:

(1) PROGRAM.—The term ‘‘program’’ means the Conserve by Bicycle Program established by subsection (b).

(2) ESTABLISHMENT.—There is established within the Department of Transportation a program to be known as the ‘‘Conserve by Bicycle Program’’. (c) PROJECTS.—

(1) GENERAL.—In carrying out the program, the Secretary shall establish not more than 10 pilot projects that are—

(A) dispersed geographically throughout the United States; and

(B) designed to conserve energy resources by encouraging the use of bicycles in place of motor vehicles.

(2) REQUIREMENTS.—A pilot project described in paragraph (1) shall—

(A) use education and marketing to convert motor vehicle trips to bicycle trips;

(B) document project results and energy savings (in estimated units of energy conserved); (C) facilitate partnerships among interested parties in at least 2 of the fields of—

(i) transportation;

(ii) law enforcement;

(iii) education;

(iv) public health;

and

(v) energy;

(B) maximize bicycle facility investments;

(E) demonstrate methods that may be used in other regions of the United States; and

(F) facilitate the continuation of ongoing programs that are sustained by local resources.

(3) COST SHARING.—At least 20 percent of the cost of each pilot project described in paragraph (1) shall be provided from State or local sources.

(d) ENERGY AND BICYCLING RESEARCH STUDY.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Not later than 2 years after the date of enactment of this Act, the Secretary shall enter into a contract with the National Academy of Sciences to conduct and submit to Congress a report on a study of the feasibility of converting motor vehicle trips to bicycle trips.

(2) COMPONENTS.—The study shall—

(A) document the results or progress of the pilot projects under subsection (b); (B) determine the type and duration of motor vehicle trips that people in the United States may feasibly make by bicycle, taking into consideration factors such as—

(i) weather;

(ii) land use and traffic patterns; (iii) the carrying capacity of bicycles; and

(iv) bicycle infrastructure;

(C) determine any energy savings that would result from the conversion of motor vehicle trips to bicycle trips;

(D) include a cost-benefit analysis of bicycle infrastructure investments; and

(E) include a description of any factors that would encourage more motor vehicle trips to be replaced by bike trips.

(e) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—

There is authorized to be appropriated to carry out this section $6,200,000, to remain available until expended, of which—

(1) $5,150,000 shall be used to carry out pilot projects described in subsection (c);

(2) $300,000 shall be used by the Secretary to coordinate, publicize, and disseminate the results of the program; and

(3) $750,000 shall be used to carry out subsection (d).

Ms. COLLINS. Mr. President, I am pleased to join with my colleagues from Illinois in reintroducing the Conserve by Bike Act to recognize and promote bicycling’s important impact on energy savings and public health.

With America’s dependence on foreign oil, it is vital that we look to the contribution that bike travel can make toward solving our Nation’s energy challenges. The legislation we are reintroducing today would establish a Conservation by Bike Program that would oversee pilot projects throughout the country designed to conserve energy resources by providing education and marketing tools to convert car trips into bike trips. Right now, fewer than 1 trip in 10 nationwide is by bicycle. If we could increase this statistic to 1 1/2 trips per 100, we could save over 462 million gallons of gasolene every year, worth $13 billion.

While more bike trips would benefit our energy conservation efforts, additional bicycling activity would also help improve the Nation’s public health. According to the U.S. Surgeon General, fewer than one-third of Americans meet Federal recommendations to engage in at least 30 minutes of moderate physical activity 5 days a week. Even more disturbing is the fact that approximately 300,000 American deaths a year are associated with obesity. By promoting biking, we are working to ensure that Americans, young and old, will increase their physical activity.

In my home State of Maine, citizen activists have led the way in encouraging their fellow Mainers to bicycling as an alternative mode of transportation. Founded in 1992, the Bicycle Coalition of Maine, BCM, has grown substantially in its first decade plus of operation. In 1996, when BCM hired its current executive director, Eric Miller, the organization had 200 individual and family memberships. Today, it has over 1,700. For a State of less than 1.3 million residents—many of them elderly—BCM’s broad membership is especially impressive.

Over the years, this group has advocated increased bicycle access to Maine’s roads and bridges, organized the first “Bike to Work Day” in our State, initiated bicycle safety education in our classrooms—teaching more than 60,000 schoolchildren in over 500 Maine schools—and produced “Share the Road” public service announcements for television stations statewide, among numerous other accomplishments.

No matter how energetic, committed, and organized BCM and other bicycle activists are, however, these groups cannot accomplish their mission alone. There is an important role for Government to play in encouraging more individuals to make bicycling their alternative mode of transportation. In Maine, BCM has built strong, active partnerships with local governments and the State’s Department of Transportation. These partnerships have benefitted bicyclists throughout Maine and, in doing so, have encouraged more Mainers to ride their bikes on a regular basis. Indeed, more than 4 percent of Maine’s commuters currently bike or walk, ranking the State 14th in that category nationwide. I believe the Federal Government needs to become more engaged in encouraging bicycling as a means of alternative transportation, and the Conserve by Bike Act would contribute to the worthy goal of convincing more Americans to travel by bicycle.
Congress, during consideration of the Energy bill, identical legislation was accepted by voice vote as an amendment. I urge my colleagues to maintain their support for the Conserve by Bike Act.

By Mr. LAUTENBERG (for himself, Mr. CORZINE, and Mrs. BOXER):
S. 809. A bill to establish certain duties for pharmacies when pharmacists employed by the pharmacies refuse to fill valid prescriptions for drugs or devices on the basis of personal beliefs, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Mr. President, today I am introducing the Access to Legal Pharmaceuticals Act (ALPhA). I want to thank Senators CORZINE and BOXER for cosponsoring this important piece of legislation.

This bill is simple. It ensures timely access to contraception and is crucial to protecting a woman’s health and autonomy, and to keeping pharmacists and politicians out of personal, private matters.

This bill would protect an individual’s access to legal contraception by requiring that if a pharmacist has a personal objection to filling a legal prescription for a drug or device, the pharmacy would be required to ensure that the prescription is filled by another pharmacist employed by the pharmacy who does not have a personal objection.

I came to the Senate 22 years ago. We’ve made a lot of progress, in women’s health and women’s rights since then. But today it seems like we’re fighting to keep from sliding backward in some areas.

An individual’s fundamental right of access to birth control is being attacked. Reports of some pharmacists refusing to fill prescriptions have been documented in twelve states.

The women that were denied were young and old; married and single; with children and without. Even women who were using birth control for other medical reasons aside from preventing conception have been denied access to the birth control pill.

If you told me 10 years ago that a woman’s right to use contraception would be in jeopardy, I probably wouldn’t have believed it. Today I have to believe it—because it’s happening.

In Texas last year, a pharmacist refused to fill a legal prescription for the “morning after” contraceptive for a woman who had been raped. First she was assaulted and violated—their rights were violated by a self-righteous pharmacist who didn’t want to do his job.

In Milwaukee, a married woman in her mid-40s with four children got a prescription from her doctor for a morning-after pill. A pharmacist refused to do his job. He wouldn’t fill the prescription.

A handful of pharmacists are saying they have a “right” to ignore prescriptions written by medical doctors.

Well, they do have a right. They have a right to get a new job if they don’t want to fill legal prescriptions.

But nobody has a right to come between any person and their doctor. Not the government... not an insurance company... and not a pharmacist.

The American Pharmaceutical Association has adopted an “Oath of Pharmacists.” The last part of the oath states: I take these vows voluntarily with the full realization of the responsibility with which I am entrusted by the public.

People trust pharmacists to fill the prescriptions that are written by their doctors. If pharmacists are allowed to pick and choose which prescriptions get filled, everyone’s health will be at risk. Today they might not fill prescriptions for birth control pills. Tomorrow it could be painkillers for a cancer patient. Next year it could be medicine that prolongs the life of a person with AIDS or some other terminal disease.

I’m going to fight to protect all Americans against this radical assault on our rights.

I’m proud to introduce a bill that will require pharmacists to do one simple thing: fill their job.

I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

S. 809

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.
This Act may be cited as the “Access to Legal Pharmaceuticals Act.”

SEC. 2. FINDINGS.
The Congress finds as follows:
(1) An individual’s right to religious belief and worship cannot impede an individual’s access to legal contraception by and for other medical reasons aside from preventing conception have been denied access to the birth control pill.

S.J. Res. 12. A joint resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States authorizing Congress to prohibit the physical desecration of the flag of the United States; to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. HATCH. Mr. President, it is with a sense of honor that my friend and colleague Senator Thune and Senator Tackett, I rise to introduce a bipartisan constitutional amendment that would allow Congress to prohibit the physical desecration of the American flag.

I am proud and privileged to be working again with my California colleague on this important proposal. Among our principal cosponsors are our colleagues Senators Thune and Senator Talent. It is heartening to us to see some of the Senate’s newest Members come to this issue with the same passion that its original supporters still feel.

This amendment is truly bipartisan. Today, we count 51 original cosponsors of this resolution. And, nearly two-thirds of the Members of this body have indicated their support. Those numbers seem to grow with each passing year.

No doubt, some will still argue that this amendment is unnecessary. Fortunately, that refrain is gradually losing its punch.

When this amendment eventually passes the Senate, as I believe that it will, immediately, there will be some who insist that it is unnecessary. And, it will be due to the tireless efforts of citizens committed to convincing their elected representatives that this amendment matters.

I have heard from some Utahans who love our country’s flag but are opposed to amending the Constitution. To them I would say, amending the Constitution should never be taken lightly. Yet after serious study of the issue, I have come to realize that we have a duty to guarantee that our flag is protected, as I will discuss in a few minutes.

And, indeed, guaranteeing the physical integrity of the flag is a cause worth fighting for. The American people seem to understand what the opponents of this amendment fail to grasp. This amendment is a necessary statement that citizens still have control over the destiny of this Nation and in maintaining the traditions and symbols that have helped to bind us together in all our diversity for over 200 years.

Those who oppose protecting the flag through a constitutional amendment are probably unaware of our constitutional history. Indeed, for most of America’s history, our Nation’s laws guaranteed the physical integrity of the American flag.

These were laws no one questioned. No one every questioned that the simple act of providing legal protection for the flag, a unique symbol of our ties as a Nation, could somehow violate the Constitution.

We should take a moment and recall what we were taught about the flag as schoolchildren. Our flag’s 13 stripes show our origins. We started as 13 separate colonies that first became separate States and then one Nation through the Declaration of Independence and the American Revolution. The 50 stars on the field of blue represent what we have become: a Nation unified. And over the past 230 years, we have become ever more united in our commitment to the extension of liberty and equality.

Among all of our differences, differences frequently reflected in this body, we do remain one Nation undivided and indivisible, and our flag is a simple, common symbol of that union. That is why we open the Senate each day by pledging our allegiance to the flag. It is a reminder of all that we have in common.

Supreme Court Justice John Paul Stevens understood the significance of the flag’s status when he wrote:

A country’s flag is a symbol of more than nationhood and national unity. It also signifies the ideas that characterize the society that has chosen that emblem as well as the special history that has animated the growth and power of those ideas . . . So it is with our American flag. It is a proud symbol of the courage, the determination, and the gifts of a nation that transformed 13 fledgling colonies into a world power. It is a symbol of freedom, of opportuniy, of religious tolerance, and of goodwill for other peoples who share our aspirations.

There is a certain wisdom to Justice Stevens’ statement that our Constitution is a living document. We have always held the right to amend our Constitution when the interests of our people demand it. In 1988 the Supreme Court intervened and overrode every State law barring desecration of the American flag.

None of these States has restricted first amendment political speech in any way. Their laws did not lead us down some slippery slope that would result in restrictions on political opinions.

These States drew reasonable distinctions between political speech and inflammatory and frequently violent acts.

In 1989 the Supreme Court held that a Texas statute, and others like it, that barred desecration of the American flag, violated core first amendment principles. That certainly would have been news to those who wrote the Constitution and our Bill of Rights.

It was news, bad news, to the American people as well.

So in response to this imprudent decision, the Senate quickly and passed The Flag Protection Act. It became law on October 28, 1989.

Then, in 1990, the Court struck down even this legislation in United States v. Eichman.

And that is why a constitutional amendment has become necessary.

With due respect to our courts, and to my colleagues who continue to support these decisions, these legal arguments against flag protection just do not hold water.

Detractors of our amendment contend that the first amendment guarantees the right to burn the American flag. It does no such thing.

They contend it would carve out an exception to the first amendment as some say. It would not. Rather, it would reaffirm what was understood not only by those who ratified the Constitution but also by citizens of today: that the first amendment never guarantees such expressive conduct. Whether one is an originalist or whether one believes in a living Constitution, this argument falls short.
The American people have long distinguished between the first amendment’s guarantee of an individual’s right to speak his or her mind and the repulsive expression of desecrating the flag. For many years, the people’s elected representatives in Congress and 49 State legislatures passed statutes prohibiting physical desecration of the flag, and our political speech thrived. It was just as robust as it is today.

Yet in 1989, the Supreme Court’s novel interpretation of the first amendment opened the door to the idea that the people, their elected legislators, and the courts are no longer capable of making these reasonable distinctions, distinctions that we frequently make in this body such as when we prohibit speeches or demonstrations of any kind, even in the silent display of signs or banners, in the public galleries.

The American people created the Constitution, and they reserved to themselves the right to amend the Constitution whenever they saw fit. Is it wrong to give the American people the opportunity to review whether the Supreme Court got it right in this case? I think not.

The fact is, a Senator does not take an oath to support and defend the holdings of the Supreme Court. We take an oath to support the Constitution. And, it is entirely appropriate that when we think the Court gets it wrong, we correct it through proper constitutional devices set out in the Constitution itself. Though it has been forgotten over the years, this is hardly a radical idea. It was one supported by the founders of both the Republican and Democratic parties, Thomas Jefferson and Abraham Lincoln.

As some in this body have noted, our courts are now frequently attempting to identify a national consensus to justify contemporary interpretations of our constitutional guarantees. The problem with this approach is that it wrongly assumes the flag demonstrates to me at least just how such a consensus is supposed to develop. Through argument, through give and take, through debate—over time the American people, as reflected in the actions of their representatives, have become more sure than ever that they should have the opportunity to protect their flag through moderate and reasonable legislation.

After September 11, citizens proudly raised the flag, defying the likelihood of terrorist challenges to our core values of liberty and equality, and confirming its unique status as a symbol of our nation’s strength and purpose. In the struggle that has followed, our flag stands as a reminder of the many personal sacrifices we have made to protect and strengthen our nation.

And so, to protect this symbol, I am today introducing this amendment.

I thank my colleagues, Senators Feinstein, Thune, and Talent for their work on this. I urge those who are not cosponsors of this amendment to keep an open mind as we debate this resolution. It is my hope that the Judiciary Committee will move the resolution to the floor.

And, in turn, I ask that our leadership ensure this resolution gets a vote on the floor.

Mr. President, today, it is my distinct honor and privilege to rise and speak on behalf of Senator HATCH, Senator FeinSTEIN, Senator Talent, myself, and 47 other senators, as we introduce bipartisan legislation to make clear the majority of this great body, I might add—believe is worth special status and worthy of protection. It is about the American flag. Our American flag is more than mere cloth and ink. It is a symbol of the liberty and freedom that we enjoy today thanks to the immeasurable sacrifices of generations of Americans who came before us.

It represents the fiber and strength of our values and it has been sanctified by the blood of those who died defending it.

I rise today to call upon all members of this body to support a constitutional amendment that would give Congress the power to prohibit the physical desecration of the American flag. It would simply authorize, but not require, Congress to pass a law protecting the American flag.

This amendment does not affect anyone’s right to express their political beliefs. It would only allow Congress to prevent our flag from being used as a prop to be desecrated in some ways simply not appropriate to even mention in these halls.

This resolution and similar legislation have been the subject of debate before this body before. There is, in fact, a quite lengthy legislative history regarding efforts to protect the American flag from desecration. In 1989, the Supreme Court declared essentially that the American flag is “free speech.” That is a decision the American people should make, particularly when this country finds itself fighting for democracy and expending American lives for that cause, on battlefields overseas.

South Dakota veterans and members of the armed forces from my State know exactly what I’m talking about, as I’m sure they do from every state represented in this Senate. In recent months, units of the 417th Field Artillery and 153rd engineer battalions of the South Dakota National Guard returned home after spending a difficult year in Iraq. Likewise, the 452nd ordnance company of the United States Army Reserve is preparing to depart for Iraq in September.

My father, like many other veterans of World War II, understands the importance of taking the folks from across South Dakota have asked me to step up and defend the flag of this great Nation and today I am answering that call.

Today, members of both political parties will introduce a proposed constitutional amendment that would give back to the American people the power to prevent the desecration of the American flag. We know the gravity of this legislation. There is nothing complex about this amendment, nor are there any hidden consequences. This amendment provides Congress with the power to outlaw desecration of the American flag, a right that is widely recognized by Madison, Jefferson, and Supreme Court Justice Hugo Black, one of the foremost advocates of first amendment freedoms.

Most states officially advocate Congress passing legislation to protect the flag. Frankly, I do not see this as a first amendment issue. I think it is my distinct honor and privilege to step up and defend the flag of the United States of America.

The flag of the United States of America is a symbol of freedom. The flag of the United States of America... has been sanctified by the blood of thousands of U.S. soldiers who have fought across the world, and it must be protected from desecration. This proposed constitutional amendment would overturn the 1989 U.S. Supreme Court’s 5–4 ruling which held that laws banning desecration of the U.S. flag were and constitutional infringements on free speech and therefore a violation of the first amendment.

I am proud of the first amendment right to free speech and will always ensure this right is maintained and protected. I am also proud of the American flag and the values behind it. The American flag flies over this great country as a symbol of liberty and patriotism. Desecration of the flag would be a destruction of the core principles on which this great Nation was founded. I will continue to be an advocate on behalf of the American flag and the values the flag represents.

I encourage my colleagues to support this measure and join me in ensuring the everlasting integrity of the American flag.

SUBMITTED RESOLUTIONS

SENATE RESOLUTION 107—COMMEMDING ANNICE M. WAGNER, CHIEF JUDGE OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA COURT OF APPEALS, FOR HER PUBLIC SERVICE

Ms. COLLINS (for herself, Mr. DURBIN, Mr. LIEBERMAN, Mr. STEVENS, Mr. VOINOVICH, Mr. AKAKA, Mr. COLEMAN, Mr. LEVINE, Mr. CONDIT, Mr. DEWINE, Ms. LANDRIEU, and Mr. LAUTENBERG) submitted the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee on Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs:

Whereas Annice M. Wagner served as Chairperson of the Board of Directors of the National Center for State Courts:

Whereas the Honorable Annice M. Wagner commands wide respect within the legal profession nationally, having been selected to serve as one of 11 members of the American Bar Association’s Section on Dispute Resolution’s Drafting Committee on the Uniform Mediation Act, which collaborated with the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws in promulgating the Uniform Mediation Act, which, in 2001, was approved and recommended for enactment in all of the States, to foster prompt, economical, and amicable resolution of disputes through mediation processes which promote public confidence and uniformity across state lines:

Whereas, since 1979, Annice M. Wagner has been involved with the United Planning Organization of the District of Columbia in the development of community programs to provide human services in the District of Columbia and she has served as Interim President of the Organization’s Board of Trustees:

Whereas, since 1986, Annice M. Wagner has participated as a member of a teaching team for the National Advocacy Workshop at Harvard Law School:

Whereas Annice M. Wagner, Chief Judge of the District of Columbia Court of Appeals, served in the District and attended District of Columbia Public Schools and received her Bacher’s and law degrees from Wayne State University in Detroit, Michigan:

Whereas Annice M. Wagner’s dedication to public service and the citizens of the District of Columbia has contributed to the improvement of the judicial system, increased equal access to justice, and advanced public confidence in the court system: Now, therefore, be it Resolved, That the Senate commends the Honorable Annice M. Wagner for her commitment and dedication to public service, the judicial system, equal access to justice, and the community.

Ms. COLLINS. Mr. President, today I am submitting a Senate resolution to commend Chief Judge Annice M. Wagner of the District of Columbia Court of Appeals for more than 32 years of public service. As the Chairman of the Committee on Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs, which has oversight jurisdiction of the District of Columbia courts, I believe that it is important to recognize the contributions of Chief Judge Wagner who will be retiring this year. As chief judge of the D.C. Court of Appeals, she has worked closely with the Committee on Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs on various issues related to the D.C. courts and the justice system in the District.

Chief Judge Wagner entered Federal Government service in 1973 as the first woman to be appointed General Counsel of the National Capital Housing Authority, then a Federal agency. Subsequently, she served as People’s Counsel for the District of Columbia, an office created by Congress to represent the interests of utility consumers before the District of Columbia Public Service Commission and the District of Columbia Court of Appeals.

Chief Judge Wagner was twice confirmed by the Senate. First, in 1977, when she was nominated by President Jimmy Carter to serve as an Associate Judge of the Superior Court for the District of Columbia and again when she was nominated by President George H.W. Bush, in 1990, to serve as Chief Judge of the D.C. Court of Appeals. She was later appointed, in 1991, to serve as chief judge. During her 28 years of service in the D.C. courts, she served in every division of the D.C. Superior Court, and served for two years as presiding judge of the Probate and Tax divisions. She also served on various commissions and committees, including serving as chairperson of the Committee on Selection and Tenure of Hearing Commissioners, Chair of the Joint Committee on Judicial Administration in the District of Columbia, and as a member of the Superior Court Rules Committee and the Sentencing Guidelines Commission.
Chief Judge Wagner has also demonstrated a commitment to improving access to justice. To this end, she served as chairperson of the Court’s Advisory Committee on Probate and Fiduciary Rules and was largely responsible for the implementation of new rules intended to streamline and clarify procedures regarding the affairs of missing, protected, and incapacitated individuals. She also served as chairperson of the Task Force on Gender Bias in the Courts, which conducted a comprehensive study of bias in the courts and, under her leadership, the District of Columbia courts established the Standing Committee on Fairness and Access to the Courts to ensure racial, gender, and ethnic fairness.

More recently, under her leadership, the Court of Appeals, along with the District of Columbia Bar, the District of Columbia Bar Foundation, and the District of Columbia Consortium of Legal Service Providers, established the D.C. Access to Justice Commission, a commission that will propose ways to make lawyers and access to justice more available for poor individuals in the District of Columbia.

Chief Judge Wagner’s work at the D.C. courts also extends beyond legal issues. As the space needs of the District of Columbia courts continued to grow beyond their current building, Chief Judge Wagner led the effort to examine solutions to resolve the courts continued space problems. Her efforts led the D.C. courts to plan and initiate the renovation of the Old Courthouse/City Hall in Judiciary Square, a National Historic Landmark, for the future use by the D.C. Court of Appeals.

In addition, as Congress enacted new legislative mandates on the courts which further increased their space needs, under her leadership, the District of Columbia courts initiated the master planning process for the renovation and use of all court properties in Judiciary Square. This effort will result not only in the improvement of court operations, but is expected to lead to the revitalization of the Judiciary Square area in the Nation’s Capital.

Chief Judge Wagner’s service also extends beyond the boundaries of the District. She has served as President of the Conference of Chief Justices, an organization of the chief justices of the fifty states, the District of Columbia and the territories, as chairperson of the Board of Directors of the National Center for State Courts, and as one of eleven members of the American Bar Association’s Section on Dispute Resolution’s Drafting Committee on the Uniform Mediation Act which collaborated with the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws in promulgating the Uniform Mediation Act in 2001. It has been approved and recommended for enactment in all the States, to foster prompt, economical, and amicable resolution of disputes through mediation processes which promote public confidence and uniformity across state lines.

Chief Judge Wagner’s dedication and service to the District of Columbia and to the legal profession are commendable and warrant our recognition. I urge my colleagues to support this resolution.

SENATE RESOLUTION 108—EX-PRESSING THE SENSE OF THE SENATE THAT PUBLIC SERVANTS SHOULD BE COMMENDED FOR THEIR DEDICATION AND CONTINUED SERVICE TO THE NATION DURING PUBLIC SERVICE RECOGNITION WEEK, MAY 2 THROUGH 8, 2005

Mr. AKAKA (for himself, Mr. VOINOVICH, Ms. COLLINS, Mr. LIEBERMAN, Mr. COLEMAN, Mr. LEVIN, Mr. COBURN, and Mr. CARPER) submitted the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee on Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs.

WHEREAS public service Recognition Week provides an opportunity to honor and celebrate the commitment of men and women who meet the needs of the Nation through work at all levels of government;

WHEREAS public servants at every level of government are hard-working men and women, committed to doing their jobs regardless of the circumstances;

WHEREAS members of the uniformed services and civilian employees at all levels of government make significant contributions to the general welfare of the United States, and are on the front lines in the fight against terrorism and in maintaining homeland security;

WHEREAS public servants work in a professional manner to build relationships with other countries and cultures in order to better represent America’s interests and promote American ideals;

WHEREAS Federal, State, and local government employees have risen to the occasion and demonstrated professionalism, dedication, and courage while fighting the war against terrorism;

WHEREAS public servants alert Congress and the public to government waste, fraud, abuse, and dangers to public health;

WHEREAS the men and women serving in the Armed Forces of the United States, as well as those skilled trade and craft Federal employees who provide support to their efforts, contribute greatly to the security of the Nation and the world;

WHEREAS government workers have much to offer, as demonstrated by their expertise and innovative ideas, and can exemplify by passing on institutional knowledge to train the next generation of public servants;

WHEREAS May 2 through 8, 2005, has been designated Public Service Recognition Week to honor America’s Federal, State, and local government employees;

WHEREAS the theme for Public Service Recognition Week 2005 is Celebrating Government Workers Nationwide to highlight the important work civil servants perform throughout the Nation; and

WHEREAS Public Service Recognition Week is celebrating its 21st anniversary through job fairs, student activities, and agency exhibits; Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Senate—

(1) commends public servants for their outstanding contributions to this great Nation;

(2) salutes their unyielding dedication and spirit for public service;

(3) honors those government employees who have given their lives in service to their country;

(4) calls upon a new generation of workers to consider a career in public service as an honorable profession; and

(5) encourages efforts to promote public service careers at all levels of government.

Mr. AKAKA. Mr. President, today I rise to pay tribute to America’s public servants. Whether it is at the Federal, State, or local level, the men and women who choose public service provide essential services that we rely on every day. As the ranking member of the Senate Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs Subcommittee on Oversight of Government Management, the Federal Workforce, and the District of Columbia, I am pleased to submit a resolution honoring these employees and celebrating Public Service Recognition Week. I am delighted to be joined by the leadership of the Senate Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs Committee, Senators VOINOVICH, COLLINS, LIEBERMAN, COLEMAN, LEVIN, COBURN, and CARPER.

The 21st anniversary of Public Service Recognition Week, which takes place the week of May 2, 2005, showcases the talented individuals who serve their country as Federal, State and local government employees, both civilian and military. From Hawaii to Maine, throughout the Nation and around the world, public employees use the week to educate their fellow citizens on Government services make life better for all of us and the exciting changes in the world of public service.

Public servants are teachers, members of the Armed Forces, civilian defense workers, postal employees, food inspectors, law enforcement officers, firemen, social workers, crossing guards, and road engineers. They deliver essential Government services; defend our freedom; go above and beyond the call of duty to notify the public of Government waste, fraud, abuse; and respond with professionalism and honor during emergencies. They deserve our respect and gratitude for their dedication and service to this country.

As the conflict in Iraq continues, as well as the global war on terrorism, I would like to take this opportunity to thank the brave men and women who have given their lives for their country. Over 1,500 Americans have lost their lives in defense of freedom since the beginning of Operation Iraqi Freedom. Members of the Federal civilian workforce work side-by-side with members of the Armed Services and are crucial to our Nation’s defense, security, and general welfare. Like those who came before and those who are yet to come, our military and civilian support staff show courage in the face of adversity and deserve our admiration and respect.

Public Sector Recognition Week provides an opportunity to honor and celebrate the commitment of individuals who serve the needs of the Nation as Government and municipal employees. It is also a time to call on a new generation of Americans to consider public service. Through job fairs, special exhibits, and agency sponsored education programs, Public Service Recognition Week provides an opportunity for individuals to gain a deeper understanding of the exciting and challenging work in the Federal Government.

I encourage my colleagues to recognize Federal employees in their States, as well as State and local government employees, and to let them know how much their work is appreciated. I invite my colleagues to join in the annual celebration.

SENATE RESOLUTION 109—COMMENDING THE UNIVERSITY OF OKLAHOMA SOONERS MEN’S GYMNASTICS TEAM FOR WINNING THE NATIONAL COLLEGIATE ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION DIVISION I MEN’S GYMNASTICS CHAMPIONSHIP

Whereas the Cowboys’ 2005 championship season contributed to an already rich and proud tradition of wrestling excellence at Oklahoma State University; and campaigns have been established in the private sector to honor, support, and thank military children by fostering awareness and appreciation for the sacrifices and the challenges they face.

Whereas a month-long salute to military children will encourage support for those or- ganizations and campaigns established to provide direct support for military children and families.

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representa- tives concurring), That the Senate
(1) designates the Secretary of Defense in hon- oring the children of members of the Armed Forces and recognizes that they too share in the burden of protecting the Nation;
(2) urges Americans to join with the mili- tary community in observing the “National Month of the Military Child” with appropriate ceremonies and activities that honor, support, and thank military children; and
(3) recognizes with great appreciation the contributions made by private-sector organi- zations and military families and the communities that support them.

TEXT OF AMENDMENTS

SA 412. Ms. LANDRIEU submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by her to the bill H.R. 1268, making emerg- ency supplemental appropriations for the fiscal year ending September 30, 2005, to establish and rapidly imple- ment regulations for State driver’s li- cense and identification document se- curity standards, to prevent terrorists from abusing the asylum laws of the United States, to unify terrorism-related grounds for inadmissibility and removal, to ensure expeditious con- struction of the San Diego border fence, and for other purposes; which was ordered to lie on the table; as fol- lows:

On page 231, between lines 3 and 4, and in- set the following:

SENSE OF CONGRESS ON A STUDY OF THE ROLE OF NATURAL BARRIERS

(a) Congress makes the following findings:

(1) The tsunami that struck in the Indian Ocean on December 26, 2004 not only killed approximately 250,000 people, it also obliterated the natural coastal barriers in the region affected by the tsunami.

(2) More than 3,000 miles of coastline were affected by the tsunami, a distance that is equal to the distance of the United States shoreline from Galveston, Texas to Bangor, Maine.

(3) The United Nations Environmental Pro- gram estimates that the damage to the envi- ronment could total $675,000,000 in loss of natural habitats and important ecosystem function.

(4) Without the barriers that act as na- ture’s own line of defense against flooding, hurricanes, and tsunamis, human lives are at greater risk.

(5) Restoring the reefs, barrier islands, and shorelines of these areas will help in long- term disaster risk reduction.

(6) While the Atlantic and Gulf of Mexico coasts are at some risk for a tsunami, the major threat each year comes from hurri- canes. In 2004, multiple hurricanes in rapid succession decimated the people and natural barriers of Florida, the southeast Atlantic seaboard, and the Gulf of Mexico. These annual extremes of mother nature make critical the need to reinvest in the natural barriers of the United States.

(b) The sense of Congress that the head- ers of the United States Geological Survey should study the role of natural barriers in the coastal areas of the United States to as- sess the vulnerabilities of such areas to ex- treme conditions, the possible effects such conditions could have on coastal popu- lations, and the means, mechanisms, and fea- sibility of restoring already deteriorated natural barriers along the coast lines of the United States.

SA 413. Ms. LANDRIEU submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by her to the bill H.R. 1268, making emerg- ency supplemental appropriations for the fiscal year ending September 30, 2005, to establish and rapidly implement regulations for State driver’s license and identification document security standards, to prevent terrorists from abusing the asylum laws of the United States, to unify terrorism-related grounds for inadmissibility and removal, to ensure expeditious construction of the San Diego border fence, and for other purposes; which was ordered to lie on the table; as follows:

On page 251, between lines 3 and 4, and insert the following:

SENSE OF CONGRESS ON A COMPREHENSIVE EVACUATION PLAN

(a) Congress makes the following findings:

(1) In the United States, 122,000,000 people, approximately 33 percent of the population, live in coastal countries or parishes.

(2) In the annual occurrence of massive and deadly hurricanes that affect coastal areas in the United States, the lack of adequate highways, planning, and communication sends many people scrambling into gridlocked traffic jams where they are vulnerable to the task of evacuating to safe areas in a reasonable amount of time.

(3) Federal interstate and other highways may be used in an efficient and safe manner to quickly evacuate large populations to safer areas in the event of natural disasters that occur and affect low-lying coastal communities.

(b) It is the sense of Congress that the head of the Federal Highway Administration should develop a comprehensive plan for evacuation of the coastal areas of the United States during any of the variety of natural disasters that occur and affect low-lying coastal communities.

SA 416. Mr. FEINGOLD submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the bill H.R. 1268, making emergency supplemental appropriations for the fiscal year ending September 30, 2005, to establish and rapidly implement regulations for State driver’s license and identification document security standards, to prevent terrorists from abusing the asylum laws of the United States, to unify terrorism-related grounds for inadmissibility and removal, to ensure expeditious construction of the San Diego border fence, and for other purposes; which was ordered to lie on the table; as follows:

On page 174, line 2, after “programs” insert “Provided further. That of the funds appropriated under this heading, not less than $5,000,000 should be made available to support initiatives that focus on the immediate and long-term needs of children, including the registration of unaccompanied children, the reunification of children with their immediate or extended families, the promotion of domestic and international adoption for orphaned children, the protection of women and children from violence and exploitation, and activities designed to prevent the capture of children in areas of the reintegration of war affected youth.”

SA 414. Ms. LANDRIEU submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by her to the bill H.R. 1268, making emergency supplemental appropriations for the fiscal year ending September 30, 2005, to establish and rapidly implement regulations for State driver’s license and identification document security standards, to prevent terrorists from abusing the asylum laws of the United States, to unify terrorism-related grounds for inadmissibility and removal, to ensure expeditious construction of the San Diego border fence, and for other purposes; which was ordered to lie on the table; as follows:

On page 169, between lines 8 and 9, insert the following:

SNC. 1047. (a) Congress makes the following findings:

(1) Since the founding of the United States, Poland has proven its steadfast dedication to the causes of freedom and friendship with the United States, exemplified by the brave actions of Polish patriots such as Casimir Pulaski and Tadeusz Kosciuszko during the American Revolution.

(2) Polish history provides pioneering examples of constitutional democracy and religious tolerance.

(3) The United States is home to nearly 9,000,000 people of Polish ancestry.

(4) Polish immigrants have contributed greatly to the success of industry and agriculture in the United States.

(5) Since the demise of communism, Poland has become a stable, democratic nation.

(6) Poland has adopted economic policies that promote free markets and rapid economic growth.

(7) On March 12, 1999, Poland demonstrated its commitment to global security by becoming a member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

(8) On May 1, 2004, Poland became a member state of the European Union.

(9) Poland was a staunch ally to the United States during Operation Iraqi Freedom.

(10) Poland has committed 2,300 soldiers to help with ongoing peacekeeping efforts in Iraq.

(11) The Secretary of Homeland Security and Secretary of State administer the visa waiver program, which waives visa requirements for United States citizens traveling to Poland for 90 days or less.

(12) More than 100,000 Polish citizens visit the United States each year.

(13) Effective on the date of the enactment of this Act, and notwithstanding section 217(c) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (8 U.S.C. 1187(c)), Poland shall be deemed a designated program country for purposes of the visa waiver program established under section 217 of such Act.

TITLE VII—REAL ID ACT OF 2005

SEC. 701. SHORT TITLE.

This title may be cited as the ‘‘REAL ID Act of 2005.’’

Subtitle A—Amendments to Federal Laws to Protect Against Terrorist Entry

SEC. 711. PREVENTING TERRORISTS FROM OBTAINING RELIEF FROM REMOVAL.

(a) CONCURRENT RESOLUTION.— Section 208(b)(1) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (8 U.S.C. 1158(b)(1)) is amended—

(1) by striking ‘‘The Attorney General’’ the first place such term appears and inserting the following:

‘‘(A) Eligibility.—The Secretary of Homeland Security or the Attorney General’’;

(2) by striking ‘‘the Attorney General’’ the second and third places such term appears and inserting ‘‘the Secretary of Homeland Security or the Attorney General’’; and

(3) by adding at the end the following:

‘‘(B) BURDEN OF PROOF.—

(ii) In General.—The burden of proof is on the applicant to establish that the applicant is a refugee, within the meaning of section 101(a)(42)(A). To establish that the applicant is a refugee within the meaning of such section, the applicant must establish that race, religion, nationality, membership in a particular social group, or political opinion was or will be a central reason for persecuting the applicant.

(iii) SUSTAINING BURDEN.—The testimony of the applicant may be sufficient to sustain the applicant’s burden without corroboration. In order to meet the burden of proof, the applicant must provide evidence which is credible, is persuasive, and refers to specific facts sufficient to demonstrate that the applicant is a refugee. In determining whether the applicant has met the applicant’s burden, the trier of fact may weigh the credible testimony along with other evidence of record. Where the trier of fact determines, in the exercise of fact’s discretion, that the applicant should provide evidence which corroborates otherwise credible testimony, such evidence must be provided unless the applicant does not have the evidence and cannot reasonably obtain the evidence without departing from the United States. The inability to obtain corroborating evidence does not excuse the applicant from meeting the applicant’s burden of proof.''

(b) Of the amount appropriated in chapter 12 of title II of the Emergency Supplemental Appropriations Act for Defense and for the Reconstruction of Iraq and Afghanistan, 2004 (Public Law 108-106; 117 Stat. 1234) (not to exceed $50,000,000, as is hereby rescinded.
(iii) Credibility Determination.—The trier of fact shall consider all relevant factors and, in the trier of fact’s discretion, may, in the trier of fact’s discretion, base the trier of fact’s credibility determination on any such factor, including the demeanor, candor, or responsiveness of the applicant or witness, the inherent plausibility of the applicant’s or witness’s account, the consistency between the applicant’s or witness’s written and oral statements (whenver made and whether or not made under oath), the internal consistency of each such statement, the consistency of such statements with other evidence of record (including the reports of the Department of State on country conditions), and any inaccuracies or falsehoods in such statements, without regard to whether an inconsistency, inaccuracy, or falsehood goes to the heart of the applicant’s claim. There is no presumption of credibility.

(b) Withholding of Removal.—Section 241(b)(3) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (8 U.S.C. 1252(b)(3)) is amended by adding at the end the following:

“(C) CREDIBILITY DETERMINATION.—In determining whether an alien has sustained the alien’s burden of proof, and shall make credibility determinations, in the manner described in clauses (ii) and (iii) of subsection (a)(4).”

(c) Other Requests for Relief from Removal.—Section 212(c) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (8 U.S.C. 1182(c)) is amended—

(1) by redesignating paragraphs (4), (5), and (6) as paragraphs (5), (6), and (7), respectively; and

(2) by inserting after paragraph (3) the following:

“(4) APPLICATIONS FOR RELIEF FROM REMOVAL.—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—An alien applying for relief or protection from removal has the burden of proof to establish the alien’s eligibility to be granted relief or protection.

“(B) CREDIBILITY DETERMINATION.—In determining whether and to what extent the alien has sustained the alien’s burden of proof, the trier of fact shall determine whether and to what extent the alien has sustained the alien’s burden of proof, and shall make credibility determinations, in the manner described in clauses (ii) and (iii) of subsection (a)(4).”

(d) Standard of Review for Orders of Removal.—Section 242(b)(4) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (8 U.S.C. 1252(b)(4)) is amended by adding at the end, after subsection (d), the following: “No court shall reverse a determination made by a trier of fact with respect to the availability of corroborating evidence, as described in section 208(b)(1)(B), 240(c)(4)(B), or 241(b)(3)(C), unless the court finds that a reasonable trier of fact is compelled to conclude that such corroborating evidence is unavailable.”

(e) Clarification of Discretion.—Section 242(a)(2)(B) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (8 U.S.C. 1252(a)(2)(B)) is amended—

(1) by inserting “the Secretary of Homeland Security” after “Attorney General” each place such term appears; and

(2) in the matter following clause (1), by inserting “and regardless of whether the judgment, decision, or action is made in removal proceedings, after “other provision of law.”

(f) Removal of Caps.—Section 209 of the Immigration and Nationality Act (8 U.S.C. 1159) is amended—

(1) in subsection (a)(1)—

(A) by striking “Service” and inserting “Department of Homeland Security”; and

(B) by striking “Attorney General” each place such term appears and inserting “Secretary of Homeland Security or the Attorney General.”

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendment made by subsection (a) shall take effect on the date of the enactment of this title.

SEC. 724. Detention of Aliens Delivered by Bondsmen.

(a) In General.—Section 241(a) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (8 U.S.C. 1225(a)) is amended by adding at the end the following:

SEC. 725. Minimum Standards for State Use.

(a) Minimum Standards for State Use.
(vi) has a pending application for asylum in the United States;
(vii) has a pending or approved application for temporary protected status in the United States;
(viii) has approved deferred action status; or
(ix) has a pending application for adjustment of status to that of an alien lawfully admitted for permanent residence in the United States or conditional permanent resident status in the United States.

(2) TEMPORARY DRIVER'S LICENSES AND IDENTIFICATION CARDS.—

(i) IN GENERAL.—If a person presents evidence under clause (v) through (ix) of subparagraph (B), the State may only issue a temporary driver's license or temporary identification card to the person.

(ii) Temporary driver's license or temporary identification card issued pursuant to this subparagraph shall be valid only during the period of time of the applicant's authorized stay in the United States or, if there is no definite end to the period of authorized stay, a period of one year.

(iii) DISPLAY OF EXPIRATION DATE.—A temporary driver's license or temporary identification card issued pursuant to this subparagraph shall clearly indicate that it is temporary and shall state the date on which it expires.

(iv) RENEWAL.—A temporary driver's license or temporary identification card issued pursuant to this subparagraph may be renewed only upon presentation of valid documentary evidence that the status by which the applicant qualified for the temporary driver's license or temporary identification card has been extended by the Secretary of Homeland Security.

(3) VERIFICATION OF DOCUMENTS.—To meet the requirements of this section, a State shall implement the following procedures:

(A) Before issuing a driver's license or identification card to a person, the State shall verify, with the issuing agency, the issuance, validity, and completeness of each document required to be presented by the person under paragraph (1) or (2).

(B) The State shall not accept any foreign document, other than an official passport, to satisfy a requirement of paragraph (1) or (2).

(C) The Secretary, not later than September 11, 2005, shall enter into a memorandum of understanding with the Secretary of Homeland Security to routinely utilize the automated system vehicle database for verification of entitlements, as provided for by section 401 of the Illegal Immigration Reform and Immigrant Responsibility Act of 1996 (110 Stat. 3009-861), to verify the legal presence status of a person, other than a United States citizen, applying for a driver's license or identification card.

(D) The Secretary shall—

(1) employ technology to capture digital images of identity source documents so that the images can be retained in electronic storage in a transferrable format;

(2) retain paper copies of source documents for a minimum of 7 years or images of source documents presented for a minimum of 10 years;

(3) subject each person applying for a driver's license or identification card to mandatory facial image capture;

(4) The Secretary shall utilize a procedure to confirm or verify a renewing applicant's information;

(5) confirm with the Social Security Administration that the social security account number presented by a person using the full social security account number. In the event that a social security account number is already registered to or associated with another person to which any State has issued a driver's license or identification card, the State shall resolve the discrepancy and take appropriate action.

(6) Refuse to issue a driver's license or identification card to a person holding a driver's license or identification card issued by another State without confirmation that the person is terminating or has terminated the driver's license.

(7) Ensure the physical security of locations where the issuance and identification of documents and materials and papers from which drivers' licenses and identification cards are produced.

(8) Subject all persons authorized to manufacture or produce drivers' licenses and identification cards to appropriate security clearance requirements.

(9) Establish fraudulent document recognition training programs for appropriate employees engaged in the issuance of drivers' licenses and identification cards.

(10) Limit the period of validity of all driver's licenses and identification cards that are not temporary to a period that does not exceed 8 years.

SEC. 723. LINKING OF DATABASES.

(a) IN GENERAL.—To be eligible to receive any grant or other type of financial assistance under this subtitle, a State shall participate in the interstate compact regarding sharing of driver license data, known as the “Driver License Agreement”, in order to provide electronic access by a State to information contained in the motor vehicle databases of all other States.

(b) REQUIREMENTS FOR INFORMATION.—A State motor vehicle database shall contain, at a minimum, the following information:

(1) All data fields printed on drivers’ licenses and identification cards issued by the State.

(2) Motor vehicle drivers’ histories, including motor vehicle violations, suspensions, and points on licenses.

SEC. 724. TRAFFICKING IN AUTHENTICATION FEATURES FOR USE IN FALSE IDENTIFICATION DOCUMENTS.

(a) CRIMINAL PENALTY.—Section 1028(a)(8) of title 18, United States Code, is amended by inserting “false or actual authentication features” and inserting “false or actual authentication features.”

(b) USE OF FALSE DRIVER’S LICENSE AT AIRPORTS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall enter into the appropriate security screening database, appropriate information regarding any person convicted of using a false driver’s license at an airport (as such term is defined in section 40102 of title 49, United States Code).

(2) FALSE DEFINED.—In this subsection, the term “false” has the same meaning such term has under section 1028(a)(8) of title 18, United States Code.

SEC. 725. GRANTS TO STATES.

(a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary may make grants to a State to assist the State in conformation to the minimum standards set forth in this subtitle.

(b) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—There are authorized to be appropriated to the Secretary, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, such sums as may be necessary for this program.

SEC. 726. COLLABORATION WITH OTHER AGENCIES.

(a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall—

(1) assist the Secretary of Transportation in the development and implementation of a strategy to enhance the border security of the United States;

(b) compliance with standards.—All authority to certify compliance with standards under this subtitle shall be carried out by the Secretary of Transportation, in consultation with the Secretary of Homeland Security and the States.

(c) EXTENSIONS OF DEADLINES.—The Secretary may grant to a State an extension of the requirements within the requirements of section 722(a)(1) if the State provides adequate justification for noncompliance.

SEC. 727. REPEAL.

The term “false or actual authorization features” as defined in section 724(b)(2) of the Intelligence Reform and Terrorism Prevention Act of 2004 (Public Law 108-458) is repealed.

SEC. 728. LIMITATION ON STATUTORY CONSTRUCTION.

Nothing in this subtitle shall be construed to affect the authority or responsibilities of the Secretary of Transportation or the Secretary of Homeland Security to execute and enforce the United States Code.

Subtitle C—Border Infrastructure and Technology Integration

SEC. 731. VULNERABILITY AND THREAT ASSESSMENT.

(a) STUDY.—The Secretary of Homeland Security shall conduct a study of the United States that could be addressed by ground surveillance technologies that could be utilized to enhance the border security of the United States.

(b) REPORT TO CONGRESS.—The Secretary shall submit a report to Congress that contains a description of the ground surveillance technologies that could be utilized to enhance the border security of the United States for fiscal years 2006 through 2011 to carry out any such recommendations from each study conducted under subsection (a) together with legislative recommendations, as appropriate, for addressing any security vulnerabilities found by the study.

(c) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—There are authorized to be appropriated to the Department of Homeland Security for Border and Transportation Security, in consultation with the Under Secretary of Homeland Security for Science and Technology and the Under Secretary of Homeland Security for Information Analysis and Infrastructure Protection, to study, develop, and implement technologies considered best suited to address such threats.

SEC. 732. USE OF GROUND SURVEILLANCE TECHNOLOGIES FOR BORDER SECURITY.

(a) PILOT PROGRAM.—Not later than 180 days after the date of the enactment of this title, the Secretary of Homeland Security shall carry out a pilot project in the United States to test technologies that could be utilized to enhance the border security of the United States.

(b) COMPLIANCE WITH STANDARDS.—All authority to certify compliance with standards under this subtitle shall be carried out by the Secretary of Transportation, in consultation with the Secretary of Homeland Security and the States.

(c) EXTENSIONS OF DEADLINES.—The Secretary may grant to a State an extension of the requirements within the requirements of section 722(a)(1) if the State provides adequate justification for noncompliance.

SEC. 733. USE OF GROUND SURVEILLANCE TECHNOLOGIES FOR BORDER SECURITY.

(a) STUDY.—The Under Secretary of Homeland Security for Border and Transportation Security, in consultation with the Under Secretary of Homeland Security for Science and Technology and the Under Secretary of Homeland Security for Information Analysis and Infrastructure Protection, shall study the feasibility and advisability of utilizing such technologies considered best suited to address such threats.

(b) REPORT.—Not later than 1 year after implementing the plan under subsection (a), the Secretary shall submit a copy of the plan and a report on the plan, including any recommendations the Secretary finds appropriate, to the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation, the House of Representatives Committee on Science, the House of Representatives Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation, and the House of Representatives Committee on the Judiciary. and opportunity for a hearing.

Minister of Labor after notice and opportunity for a hearing.

The Secretary of Homeland Security may issue notice for purposes of section 274A.

The employer has offered or will offer the job to the nonimmigrant worker employed by the employer during the period of employment on which the violation is based.

The Secretary of Homeland Security finds, after notice and opportunity for a hearing, a willful failure to meet a material condition of subsection (a), or a material misrepresentation of a material fact in a petition under subsection (a).—

The Secretary of Labor shall notify the Secretary of Homeland Security of such finding and may, in addition, impose such other administrative remedies (including civil money penalties in an amount not to exceed $1,000 per violation) as the Secretary of Labor determines to be appropriate; and

The Secretary of Homeland Security may disqualify the employer from the employment of H–2A workers for a period of 1 year.

8) WILLFUL FAILURES AND WILLFUL MISREPRESENTATIONS.—If the Secretary of Labor finds, after notice and opportunity for a hearing, a willful failure to meet a material condition of subsection (a) or a willful misrepresentation of a material fact in a petition under subsection (a).—

(1) the Secretary of Labor shall notify the Secretary of Homeland Security of such finding and may, in addition, impose such other administrative remedies (including civil money penalties in an amount not to exceed $1,000 per violation) as the Secretary of Labor determines to be appropriate; and

(2) the Secretary of Homeland Security may disqualify the employer from the employment of H–2A workers for a period of 5 years; and

(3) for a third violation, the Secretary of Homeland Security may permanently disqualify the employer from the employment of H–2A workers.

(9) DISPLACEMENT OF UNITED STATES WORKERS.—If the Secretary of Labor finds, after notice and opportunity for a hearing, a willful failure to meet a material condition of subsection (a) or a willful misrepresentation of a material fact in a petition under subsection (a), in the course of which failure or misrepresentation the employer displaced a United States worker employed by the employer during the period of employment on which the violation is based, the aggregate fees for all employers of H–2A workers under the petition may be increased by an amount equal to—

(1) such dollar amount; multiplied by

(ii) the percentage (if any) by which the average of the Consumer Price Index for all urban consumers (United States city average) for the 12-month period ending with August of the preceding calendar year exceeds such average for the 12-month period ending with August 2001.

In the case of any calendar year beginning after 2005, each dollar amount in subparagraph (B) may be increased by an amount equal to—

The Secretary of Labor shall notify the Secretary of Homeland Security of such finding and may, in addition, impose such other administrative remedies (including civil money penalties in an amount not to exceed $1,000 per violation) as the Secretary of Labor finds, after notice and opportunity for a hearing, a willful failure to meet a material condition of subsection (a), or a material misrepresentation of a material fact in a petition under subsection (a).—

The Secretary of Labor may disqualify the employer from the employment of H–2A workers for a period of 1 year.

(1) the Secretary of Labor shall notify the Secretary of Homeland Security of such finding and may, in addition, impose such other administrative remedies (including civil money penalties in an amount not to exceed $1,000 per violation) as the Secretary of Labor determines to be appropriate; and

(2) the Secretary of Homeland Security may disqualify the employer from the employment of H–2A workers for a period of 5 years; and

(3) for a third violation, the Secretary of Homeland Security may permanently disqualify the employer from the employment of H–2A workers.

(9) DISPLACEMENT OF UNITED STATES WORKERS.—If the Secretary of Labor finds, after notice and opportunity for a hearing, a willful failure to meet a material condition of subsection (a) or a willful misrepresentation of a material fact in a petition under subsection (a), in the course of which failure or misrepresentation the employer displaced a United States worker employed by the employer during the period of employment on which the violation is based, the aggregate fees for all employers of H–2A workers under the petition may be increased by an amount equal to—

(1) such dollar amount; multiplied by

(ii) the percentage (if any) by which the average of the Consumer Price Index for all urban consumers (United States city average) for the 12-month period ending with August of the preceding calendar year exceeds such average for the 12-month period ending with August 2001.

In the case of any calendar year beginning after 2005, each dollar amount in subparagraph (B) may be increased by an amount equal to—

The Secretary of Labor shall notify the Secretary of Homeland Security of such finding and may, in addition, impose such other administrative remedies (including civil money penalties in an amount not to exceed $15,000 per violation) as the Secretary of Labor determines to be appropriate;

"(2) Of Homeland Security may disqualify the employer from the employment of H-2A workers for a period of 5 years; and

"(3) The second violation, the Secretary of Homeland Security may permanently disqualify the employer from the employment of H-2A workers.

14. LANDMARKS ON CIVIL MONEY PENALTIES.—The Secretary of Labor shall not impose total civil money penalties with respect to a violation under subsection (a) in excess of $90,000.

"(i) FAILURES TO PAY WAGES OR REQUIRED BENEFITS.—If the Secretary of Labor finds, after notice and opportunity for a hearing, that the employer has failed to pay the wages, or provide the housing allowance, transportation, subsistence reimbursement, or guarantee of employment required under subsection (a)(2), the Secretary of Labor shall assess payment of back wages, or other required benefits, due any United States worker or H-2A worker employed by the employer in the specific employment in question. The back wages or other required benefits under subsection (a)(2) shall be the difference between the amount that should have been paid and the amount that actually was paid to such worker.

"(ii) Minimum Benefits, Wages, and Working Conditions.—

"(1) Preferential treatment of aliens prohibited.

"(A) IN GENERAL.—Employers seeking to hire United States workers shall offer the United States workers not less than the same wages, conditions of work, and working conditions that the employer is offering to H-2A workers to offer, or will provide to H-2A workers. Conversely, no job offer may impose on United States workers any restrictions or obligations which will not be imposed on the employer’s H-2A workers.

"(B) Interpretations and determinations made under this subsection shall be reviewed by the Secretary of Labor in computing the amount of any civil money penalties.

"(2) H-2A workers are not entitled to the protections and terms and conditions of employment specified in this subsection until the employer at the place of employment is determined to have hired United States workers or H-2A workers.

"(3) REQUIREMENT TO PROVIDE HOUSING OR A HOUSING ALLOWANCE.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—An employer applying for workers under subsection (a) shall offer to provide housing at no cost to all workers in job opportunity for which the employer has applied under this section and to all other workers in the same occupation at the place of employment, whose place of residence is beyond normal commuting distance.

"(B) Type of housing.—In complying with subparagraph (A), an employer may, at the employer’s election, provide housing that meets applicable local standards for temporary labor camps or secure housing that meets applicable local standards for rental or public accommodation housing, or otherwise substantially similar standards. In the absence of applicable local standards, Federal temporary labor camp standards shall apply.

"(C) Certificate of inspection.—Prior to any occupation by a worker in housing described in subparagraph (A), the employer shall submit a certificate of inspection by an approved Federal or State agency to the Secretary of Labor.

"(D) Workers engaged in the range production of livestock.—The Secretary of Labor shall issue regulations that address the specific requirements for the provision of housing to workers engaged in the production of livestock.

"(4) Reimbursement of transportation.—

"(A) To Place of Employment.—

"(i) In general.—A worker who completes 50 percent of the period of employment of the job opportunity for which the worker was hired, measured from the worker’s first day of work in such employment, shall be reimbursed by the employer for the cost of the worker’s transportation and subsistence from the place from which the worker was approved to enter the United States to work for the employer (or place of last employment, if the worker traveled from such place) to the place of employment by the employer.

"(ii) Other Fees.—The employer shall not be required to reimburse visa, passport, consular, or international border-crossing fees or other fees associated with the worker’s lawful admission into the United States to perform employment that may be incurred by the worker.

"(iii) Timely Reimbursement.—Reimbursement to the worker of expenses for the cost of the worker’s transportation and subsistence to the place of employment shall be considered timely if such reimbursement is made not later than the regular payday after the worker completes 50 percent of the period of employment of the job opportunity as provided under this paragraph.

"(B) From Place of Employment.—A worker who completes the period of employment for the job opportunity involved shall be reimbursed by the employer for the cost of the worker’s transportation and subsistence from the place from which the worker was approved to enter the United States to work for the employer (or place of last employment, if the worker traveled from such place) to the place of employment by the employer.

"(C) Limitation.—

"(i) Amount of Reimbursement.—Except as provided in clause (ii), the amount of reimbursement provided under subparagraph (A) or (B) to a worker or alien shall not exceed the lesser of—

"(ii) the wages and other remuneration paid to the worker during the period of employment; or $15,000 per violation) as the Secretary of Labor determined to be appropriate;

“(1) the actual cost to the worker or alien of the transportation and subsistence involved; or “(ii) the most economical and reasonable common carrier transportation charge and subsistence costs for the distance involved.

“(ii) DISTANCE TRAVELED.—No reimbursement under subparagraph (A) or (B) shall be required for travel of more than 250 miles or less or if the worker is not residing in employer-provided housing or housing secured through an allowance as provided in paragraph (3).

“(D) EARLY TERMINATION.—If the worker is laid off or employment is terminated for contract impossibility (as described in subparagraph (5)(D)) before the anticipated ending date of employment, the employer shall provide the transportation and subsistence required by subparagraph (B) and, notwithstanding whether the worker has completed 50 percent of the period of employment, shall provide the transportation reimbursement required by subparagraph (A).

“(E) TRANSPORTATION BETWEEN LIVING QUARTERS AND WORKSITE.—The employer shall provide transportation between the worksite and the place of living quarters provided by the employer pursuant to paragraph (3), including housing provided through a housing allowance and the employee's personal cost to the worker, and such transportation will be in accordance with applicable laws and regulations.

“(5) EMPLOYMENT.

“(A) OFFER TO WORKER.—The employer shall guarantee to offer the worker employment for the hourly equivalent of at least 75 percent of the work days of the total period of employment, beginning with the first work day after the arrival of the worker at the place of employment and ending on the expiration date or the termination of employment.

“(B) WAIVERS.—(A) APPLICABLE.—An alien who has, at any time during the past 5 years, violated a term or condition of admittance into the United States as a nonimmigrant, including overstaying the period of authorized admission.

“(C) ABANDONMENT OF EMPLOYMENT; TERMINATION FOR CAUSE.—If the worker voluntarily abandons employment before the end of the contract period, or is terminated for cause, the employer shall pay such worker the amount which the worker would have earned had the worker, in fact, worked for the guaranteed number of hours of employment as set forth.

“(D) CONTRACT IMPOSSIBILITY.—If, before the expiration of the period of employment specified in the job offer, the services of the worker are not entitled to the 75 percent guarantee described in subparagraph (A), the employer is not entitled to the 75 percent guarantee described in subparagraph (A).

“(T) PENDING FOR AMENDMENT.—An employer, or an association acting as an agent for the employer, which seeks the admission into the United States of an H–2A worker must file a petition with the Secretary of Homeland Security. The petition shall include the certifications for the certification described in section 101(a)(15)(H)(ii)(a).

“EXPEDITED ADJUDICATION BY THE SECRETARY.—The Secretary of Homeland Security—

“(1) shall establish a procedure for expedited adjudication of petitions filed under subsection (A); and

“(2) not later than 7 working days after such filing shall, by fax, cable, or other means, transmit the processed petition to the Homeland Security to the termination of employment. In such cases, the employer may make efforts to transfer the United States worker to other comparable employment acceptable to the worker.

“PENDING FOR AMENDMENT FOR CONSTRUCTION.—Nothing in this subsection shall limit an employer's having prematurely abandoned employment.

“(i) IN GENERAL.—The Department of Homeland Security shall provide each alien authorized to be admitted under section 101(a)(15)(H)(ii)(a) with a machine-readable, tamper-resistant, and counterfeit-resistant document that—

“(A) authorizes the alien's entry into the United States; and

“(D) EARLY TERMINATION.—If the worker is laid off or employment is terminated for contract impossibility (as described in subparagraph (D)) before the anticipated ending date of employment, the employer shall provide the transportation and subsistence required by subparagraph (B) and, notwithstanding whether the worker has completed 50 percent of the period of employment, shall provide the transportation reimbursement required by subparagraph (A).

“(E) TRANSPORTATION BETWEEN LIVING QUARTERS AND WORKSITE.—The employer shall provide transportation between the worksite and the place of living quarters provided by the employer pursuant to paragraph (3), including housing provided through a housing allowance and the employee's personal cost to the worker, and such transportation will be in accordance with applicable laws and regulations.

“(5) EMPLOYMENT.

“(A) OFFER TO WORKER.—The employer shall guarantee to offer the worker employment for the hourly equivalent of at least 75 percent of the work days of the total period of employment, beginning with the first work day after the arrival of the worker at the place of employment and ending on the expiration date or the termination of employment.

“(B) WAIVERS.—(A) APPLICABLE.—An alien outside the United States, and seeking admission under section 101(a)(15)(H)(ii)(a) if the alien has, at any time during the past 5 years, violated a term or condition of admission into the United States as a nonimmigrant, including overstaying the period of authorized admission.

“(2) WAIVERS.—(A) APPLICABLE.—An alien outside the United States, and seeking admission under section 101(a)(15)(H)(ii)(a) if the alien has, at any time during the past 5 years, violated a term or condition of admission into the United States as a nonimmigrant, including overstaying the period of authorized admission.

“(B) LIMITATION.—In any case in which an alien is admitted to the United States upon having a ground of inadmissibility waived under subparagraph (A), such waiver shall be considered to remain in effect unless the alien again violates the condition of this section or otherwise violates a term or condition of admission into the United States as a nonimmigrant, in which case such waiver shall not be considered to remain in effect.

“(Q) ABANDONMENT OF EMPLOYMENT.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—An alien admitted or promised to be admitted under section 101(a)(15)(H)(ii)(a) who abandons the employment which was the basis for such admission or status shall be considered to have failed to maintain nonimmigrant status as an H–2A worker and shall depart the United States or be subject to removal under section 237(a)(1)(C)(i).

“(2) REMOVAL BY THE SECRETARY.—The Secretary of Homeland Security shall promptly remove from the United States any H–2A worker who violates any term or condition of the worker's nonimmigrant status.

“(4) VOLUNTARY TERMINATION.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, an alien may voluntarily terminate his or her employment if the alien promptly departs the United States upon termination of such employment.

“(1) IN GENERAL.—Upon presentation of the notice to the Secretary of Homeland Secushall provide a copy of the employer’s petition to the alien, who shall keep the petition with the alien’s identification and employment eligibility document, as evidence that the petition has been filed and that the alien is authorized to work in the United States.

“(B) APPROVAL.—Upon approval of a petition for an extension of stay or change in the alien’s authorized employment, the Secretary of Homeland Security shall provide a new or updated employment eligibility document to the alien indicating the new validity date.

“(C) DEFINITION.—In this paragraph, the term ‘employee’ means a nonimmigrant described in section 101(a)(15)(H)(ii)(a), and the term ‘employer’ means any person who employs 500 or fewer employees, or an association that with respect to 1 or more H–2A workers by an employer, the employer is considered to have laid off the worker from a job that is essentially equivalent of another job that is essentially the equivalent of the job the alien was held by a United States worker from a job that an employer, the employer is considered to have laid off the worker from a job that is essentially equivalent of another job that is essentially the equivalent of the job the alien was held by a United States worker from a job that

“(B) CONSTRUCTION.—Nothing in this paragraph is intended to limit an employee's rights under a collective bargaining agreement or other employment contract.

“(b) Paying Prevailing Wage.—The term ‘prevailing wage’ means, with respect to an agricultural occupation in an area of intended employment, the rate of wages that includes the expected earning and expenses of employees with similar experience and qualifications in the agricultural occupation in the area of intended employment, expressed in terms of the prevailing method of payment in the area of intended employment.

“(7) UNITED STATES WORKER.—The term ‘United States worker’ means any worker, whether a United States citizen or national, a lawfully admitted permanent resident alien, or any other alien authorized to work in the relevant job opportunity within the United States, except—

“(A) an alien admitted or otherwise provided status under section 101(a)(15)(H)(ii)(a); and

“(B) an alien provided status under section 226.

“SEC. 712. LEGAL ASSISTANCE PROVIDED BY THE LEGAL SERVICES CORPORATION.

“Section 305 of the Immigration and Nationality Act of 1952 (8 U.S.C. 1101 note) is amended—

“(1) by striking ‘A nonimmigrant’ and inserting the following:

“(a) In General.—A nonimmigrant; and

“(b) by adding at the end the following:

“(2) LEGAL ASSISTANCE.—The Legal Services Corporation may not provide legal assistance for or on behalf of any alien, except—

“(A) a nonimmigrant described in section 101(a)(15)(H)(ii)(a); and

“(B) an alien admitted or otherwise provided status under section 101(a)(15)(H)(ii)(a); and “(C) an alien provided status under section 226.

“(b) BLUE CARD PROGRAM.—

“(1) BLUE CARD PROGRAM.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the Secretary shall confer blue card status upon an alien who qualifies under this subsection if the Secretary determines that the alien—

“(A) has been in the United States continuously as of April 1, 2005;

“(B) has performed more than 50 percent of total annual weeks worked in agricultural employment in the United States (except in the case of a child provided derivative status as of April 1, 2005);

“(C) is otherwise admissible to the United States under section 212, except as otherwise provided under paragraph (2); and “(D) is the beneficiary of a petition filed by an employer, as described in paragraph (3).

“(2) DEFINITIONS.—In determining an alien’s eligibility for blue card status under paragraph (1), (A) the provisions of paragraphs (5), (6)(A), (7)(A), and (9)(B) of section 212(a) shall not apply; and

“(B) the provisions of section 212a(6)(C) shall not apply with respect to the employer’s period in which the employer employed H–2A workers; and “(C) the term ‘Secretary’ means the Secretary of Homeland Security.

“SEC. 721. BLUE CARD PROGRAM.

“(a) IN GENERAL.—Chapter 2 of title II of the Immigration and Nationality Act (8 U.S.C. 1181 et seq.) is amended by adding at the end the following:

“BLUE CARD PROGRAM

“SEC. 220. (a) DEFINITIONS.—As used in this subchapter:

“(1) the term ‘agricultural employment’—

“(A) means any service or activity that is considered to be agricultural employment under section 212(f) of the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938 (29 U.S.C. 203(f)) or agricultural labor under section 3(f) of the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938 (29 U.S.C. 203(f));

“(B) includes any service or activity described in—

“(i) title 37, 33-3011, or 37-3012 (relating to landscaping) of the Department of Labor; and

“(ii) title 45 (relating to farming, fishing, and forestry) of such handbook; or “(iii) title 36 (relating to meat, poultry, fish processors and packers) of such handbook.

“(2) the term ‘blue card status’ means the status of an alien who has been—

“(A) lawfully admitted for a temporary period during which the alien is authorized to work in the United States; and “(B) approved for blue card status under section 226.

“(3) the term ‘employee’ means any person or entity, including any farm labor contractor and any agricultural association, that employs workers in agricultural employment;

“(4) the term ‘Secretary’ means the Secretary of Homeland Security;

“(5) the term ‘small employer’ means an employer employing fewer than 500 employees based upon the average number of employees for each of the pay periods for the preceding 10 calendar months, including the period in which the employer employed H–2A workers; and

“(6) the term ‘United States worker’ means any worker, whether a United States citizen or national, a lawfully admitted permanent resident alien, or any other alien authorized to work in the relevant job opportunity within the United States, except—

“(A) an alien admitted or otherwise provided status under section 101(a)(15)(H)(ii)(a); and

“(B) an alien provided status under section 226.

“(b) EMPLOYER PETITION.—An employer filing a petition under subsection (a) shall—

“(1) by striking ‘A nonimmigrant’ and inserting the following:

“(a) in General.—A nonimmigrant; and

“(b) by adding at the end the following:

“(C) the Secretary may not waive paragraph (1), (2), or (3) of section 212(a) unless such waiver is permitted under another provision of law.

“(D) EMPLOYER PETITION.—An employer filing a petition under subsection (a) shall—

“(1) pay a registration fee of—

“(i) $1,000, if the employer employs more than 500 employees; or

“(ii) $500, if the employer is a small employer employing 500 or fewer employees;

“(2) provide a copy of the employer’s petition to the alien, who shall keep the petition with the alien’s identification and employment eligibility document, as evidence that the petition has been filed and that the alien is authorized to work in the United States; and

“(D) attest that the employer conducted adequate recruitment in the metropolitan statistical area of intended employment before the attestation was disapproved.

“(E) the employer conducted adequate recruitment in the metropolitan statistical area of intended employment before the attestation was disapproved.

“(F) attest that the employer conducted adequate recruitment in the metropolitan statistical area of intended employment before the attestation was disapproved.
the certification is sought, which attestation shall be valid for a period of 60 days.

"(C) RECRUITMENT.—

"(i) The adequate recruitment requirement under paragraph (B)(ii) is satisfied if the employer—

"(I) places a job order with America’s Job Bank Program of the Department of Labor; and

"(II) places a Sunday advertisement in a newspaper of general circulation or an advertisement in an appropriate trade journal or ethnic publication that is likely to be patronized by a potential worker in the metropolitan statistical area of intended employment;

"(ii) An advertisement under clause (i)(II) shall—

"(I) name the employer; and

"(II) direct applicants to report or send resumes, as appropriate for the occupation, to the employer;

"(III) provide a description of the vacancy that is specific enough to apprise United States workers of the job opportunity for which certification is sought;

"(IV) describe the geographic area with enough specificity to apprise applicants of any travel requirements and where applicants will likely have to reside to perform the job;

"(V) state the rate of pay, which must equal or exceed the wage paid for the occupation in the area of intended employment; and

"(VI) offer wages, terms, and conditions of employment, which are at least as favorable as those offered to the alien.

"(D) NOTIFICATION OF DENIAL.—The Secretary shall provide notification of a denial of a petition filed for an alien to the alien and the employer who filed such petition.

"(E) EFFECT OF DENIAL.—If the Secretary denies a petition filed for an alien, such alien shall return to the country of the alien’s national or last residence outside the United States.

"(F) BLUE CARD STATUS.—

"(A) BLUE CARD.—

"(i) ALL-IN-ONE CARD.—The Secretary, in conjunction with the Secretary of State, shall develop a single machine-readable, tamper-resistant document that—"(I) authorizes the alien’s entry into the United States;

"(II) serves, during the period an alien is in blue card status, as an employment authorization card and may serve as employment authorization under the Secretary’s receipt of a petition filed by an employer on behalf of the alien. Employment authorization shall continue for such alien until such petition is denied;

"(III) if a petition filed under clause (i) is denied and the alien has ceased employment with the previous employer, the authorization under clause (ii) and the alien shall be required to return to the country of the alien’s nationality or last residence;

"(B) DOCUMENT REQUIREMENTS.—The Secretary, at the time of initial or renewal certification, shall—

"(I) confirm the alien’s continued employment status by providing written notification to the Secretary of the alien’s employer; employment confirmation will not be required if the alien presents the alien’s blue card document. Such periods of time spent outside the United States shall not cause the period of blue card status in the United States to be extended;

"(D) PORTABILITY.—

"(i) During the period in which an alien is in blue card status, the alien issued a blue card card shall be not more than 3 years.

"(B) IN GENERAL.—The initial period of authorized admission and entry documentation using biometric identifiers, as required by the Secretary, that the alien is deportable or inadmissible under any section 212(a)(6)(C)(i));

"(II) law enforcement databases to determine if the alien has been convicted of criminal offenses.

"(C) AUTHORIZED TRAVEL.—During the period an alien is in blue card status granted to an alien if—

"(I) the Secretary determines that, without the appropriate waiver, the granting of blue card status would cause the alien to be subject to civil detention who has managerial or supervisory responsibilities, who shall not apply to a nonimmigrant in a position of full-time, non-temporary employment who is required by the Secretary to provide electronic means for making such notification.

"(D) LOSS OF ELIGIBILITY.—

"(I) An alien’s blue card status shall terminate if the alien is unemployed for 60 or more consecutive days; and

"(II) An alien whose period of authorized admission terminates under clause (i) shall be required to return to the country of the alien’s nationality or last residence for not less than 1 year after leaving the United States and the removal or expiration of blue card status.

"(E) ANNUAL CHECK-IN.—The employer of an alien in blue card status who has been employed for 1 year in blue card status shall verify the alien’s continued employment status with the Secretary electronically or in writing. Such confirmation will not be required a second time.

"(F) TERMINATION OF BLUE CARD STATUS.—

"(I) During the period of blue card status granted to an alien, the Secretary shall—

"(ii) An alien whose period of authorized admission granted to an alien in blue card status by providing written notification to the Secretary of Homeland Security or the Secretary of State; or

"(ii) the alien’s blue card status otherwise expires; and

"(II) the alien has resided and been physically present in the United States for 1 year;

"(B) LOSS OF ELIGIBILITY.—An alien having blue card status shall lose eligibility for such status if the alien—

"(i) files a petition to adjust status to legal permanent residence in the United States; or

"(ii) requests a consular processing for an immigrant visa outside the United States.

"(C) EXCEPTION.—An alien having blue card status may not adjust status to legal permanent resident status or obtain another nonimmigrant or immigrant visa unless the alien—

"(i) files a petition to adjust status to legal permanent resident status or obtain another nonimmigrant or immigrant status under section 214;

"(II) The Secretary makes a determination that the alien is deportable or has become inadmissible.

"(G) Grounds for ineligibility.

"(A) IN GENERAL.—An alien having blue card status shall not be subject to civil or criminal tax liability relating directly to the employment of an alien who has blue card status.

"(B) EXCEPTION.—An employer who provides unauthorized aliens with copies of employment records or other evidence of employment pursuant to the petition shall not be subject to civil and criminal liability pursuant to section 274A for employing such unauthorized aliens.

(d) "TREATMENT OF SPOUSES AND CHILDREN.—

"(1) SPOUSES.—A spouse of an alien having blue card status shall not be eligible for derivative status by accompanying or following to join the alien. Such a spouse may obtain status based only on an independent petition filed by an employer petitioning under the correct and identifying the spouse with respect to the employment of the spouse.

"(2) CHILDREN.—A child of an alien having blue card status shall not be eligible for the same temporary status unless—

"(A) the child is accompanying or following to join the alien; and

"(B) the alien is the sole custodial parent of the child or both custodial parents of the child have obtained such status.

(b) CLERICAL AMENDMENT.—The table of contents of the Immigration and Nationality Act is amended—

At the appropriate place, insert the following:

SEC. 1180A. Traumatic injury protection

(a) A member who is insured under subparagraph (A)(i), (B), or (C)(i) of section 1980A(1) shall automatically be issued a traumatic injury protection rider that will provide for a payment not to exceed $100,000 if the member, while so insured, sustains a traumatic injury that results in a loss described in subsection (b)(1). The maximum amount payable for all injuries resulting from the same traumatic event shall be limited to $100,000. If a person suffers more than one such loss as a result of a traumatic injury, payment will be made in accordance with the schedule in subsection (d) for the single loss providing the highest payment.

(b)(1) A member who is issued a traumatic injury protection rider under subsection (a) insured against—

(A) total and permanent loss of sight;

(B) loss of a hand or foot by severance at or above the wrist or ankle;

(C) total and permanent loss of speech; and

(D) total and permanent loss of hearing in both ears;

(ii) a bacterial infection resulting from a cut or wound; or

(E) loss of thumb and index finger of the same hand by severance at or above the metacarpophalangeal joints;

(F) quadriplegia, paraplegia, or hemiplegia;

(G) burns greater than second degree, covering 30 percent of the body or 30 percent of the face; and

(H) coma or the inability to carry out the activities of daily living resulting from traumatic injury to the brain.

(2) For purposes of this subsection—

(A) the term 'quadriplegia' means the complete and irreversible paralysis of all 4 limbs;

(B) the term 'paraplegia' means the complete and irreversible paralysis of any 2 lower limbs; and

(C) the term 'hemiplegia' means the complete and irreversible paralysis of the upper and lower limbs on 1 side of the body.

(3) In no case will a member be covered against loss resulting from—

(a) attempted suicide, while sane or insane;

(b) an intentionally self-inflicted injury or any attempt to inflict such an injury;

(c) illness, whether the loss results directly or indirectly;

(d) medical or surgical treatment of illness, whether the loss results directly or indirectly;

(e) any infection other than—

(1) a pyogenic infection resulting from a cut or wound; or

(2) a bacterial infection resulting from ingestion of a contaminated substance;

(f) the commission of or attempt to commit a felony;

(g) acting legally intoxicated or under the influence of any narcotic unless administered or consumed on the advice of a physician; or

(h) willful misconduct as determined by a military court, civil court, or administrative body.
shall determine the premium amounts to be charged for traumatic injury protection coverage provided under this section.

(4) The premium amounts shall be determined on the basis of sound actuarial principles and shall be such to cover the anticipated cost of claims for the current fiscal year, upon the effective date of this legislation.

(5) The Secretary of Defense shall certify whether any member claiming the benefit under this section is entitled to the benefit, and shall make such payment as is appropriate in accordance with the member's classification under section 1980A of title 38, United States Code.

(g) Payment for a loss resulting from traumatic injury will be made according to the member's uniformed service, less any costs traceable to the extra hazards of such duty in the uniformed services.

(1) Insurance coverage provided under this section is not convertible to Veterans' Group Life Insurance.

(b) Clerical Amendment.—The table of sections for chapter 19 of title 38, United States Code, is amended by adding after the item relating to section 1980 the following:

"1980A. Traumatic injury protection."

(c) Effective Date.—The amendments made by this section shall take effect on the first day of the first month beginning more than 120 days after the date of enactment of this Act.

(2) the term “cruel, inhuman, or degrading treatment or punishment” means the cruel, unusual, and inhumane treatment or punishment prohibited by the fifth amendment, eighth amendment, or fourteenth amendment to the Constitution of the United States.

SA 444. Mrs. BOXER (for herself and Mr. BINGAMAN) submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the bill H.R. 1268, making emergency supplemental appropriations for the fiscal year ending September 30, 2005, to establish and rapidly implement regulations for State driver’s license and identification document security standards, to prevent terrorists from abusing the asylum laws of the United States, to unify terrorism-related grounds for inadmissibility and removal, to ensure expeditious construction of the San Diego border fence, and for other purposes; which was ordered to lie on the table; as follows:

At the appropriate place, insert the following:

DEPLOYMENT OF WARLOCK SYSTEMS AND OTHER FIELD JAMMING SYSTEMS

SEC. 122. (a) ADDITIONAL AMOUNT FOR OTHER PROCUREMENT, ARMY.—The amount appropriated by this chapter under the heading “OTHER PROCUREMENT, ARMY” is hereby increased by $35,000,000, with the amount so increased designated as an emergency requirement pursuant to section 402 of the conference report to accompany S. Con. Res. 95 (108th Congress).

SA 445. Mr. REID proposed an amendment to the bill H.R. 1268, making emergency supplemental appropriations for the fiscal year ending September 30, 2005, to establish and rapidly implement regulations for State driver’s license and identification document security standards, to prevent terrorists from abusing the asylum laws of the United States, to unify terrorism-related grounds for inadmissibility and removal, to ensure expeditious construction of the San Diego border fence, and for other purposes; as follows:

INTERNATIONAL EFFORTS FOR RECONSTRUCTION IN IRAQ

SEC. 2105. (a) Congress makes the following findings:

(1) The United States Armed Forces have borne the largest share of the burden for securing and stabilizing Iraq. Since the war’s start, more than 500,000 United States military personnel have served in Iraq and, as of the date of the enactment of this Act, more than 130,000 such personnel are stationed in Iraq. Though the Department of Defense has kept statistics related to international troop contributions, it is estimated that all of the coalition partners combined have maintained a total force level in Iraq of only 25,000 troops since early 2003.

(2) United States taxpayers have borne the vast majority of the financial costs of securing and reconstructing Iraq. Prior to the date of the enactment of this Act, the United States appropriated more than $175,000,000,000 for military and reconstruction efforts in Iraq and, including the funds appropriated in this Act, the amount appropriated for such purposes increases to a total of more than $250,000,000,000.

(4) The Fourth Quarterly Report required by section 2207 of Public Law 108–106 (22 U.S.C. 2151 note), submitted by the Secretary of State in April 2005, stated that $12,038,000,000 of the $18,439,000,000 appropriated by Public Law 108–106 under the heading “IRAQ RELIEF AND RECONSTRUCTION FUND” had been obligated and that only $4,209,000,000, less than 25 percent of the total amount appropriated, had actually been spent.

(5) According to such report, the international community pledged more than $10,500,000,000 of aid to Iraq in the form of grants, loans, credits, and other assistance. While the report did not specify how much of the assistance is intended to be provided as loans, it is estimated that loans constitute as much as 80 percent of contributions pledged by other nations. The report states that, as of the date of the enactment of this Act, the international community has contributed only $2,700,000,000 out of the total pledged amount, falling far short of its commitments.

(6) Iraq has the second largest endowment of oil in the world and experts believe Iraq has the capacity to generate $30,000,000,000 to $40,000,000,000 per year from its oil industry. Prior to the launch of United States operations in Iraq, members of the international community stated from the outset that Iraq’s oil industry would provide a substantial portion of the funds needed for the reconstruction and relief of Iraq and United Nations Security Council Resolution 1483 (2003) permitted the coalition to use oil reserves to finance long-term reconstruction projects in Iraq.

(7) Securing and rebuilding Iraq benefits the people of Iraq, the United States, and the world and all nations should do their fair share to achieve that outcome.

(b) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, not more than 50 percent of the previously appropriated Iraqi reconstruction funds that have not been obligated or expended prior to the date of the enactment of this Act may be obligated or expended, as the case may be, for Iraq reconstruction programs unless:

(1) the President certifies to Congress that all countries that pledged financial assistance at the Madrid International Conference on Reconstruction in Iraq or in other fora to fulfill their commitments; or

(2) the President—

(A) certifies to Congress that the President or his representatives have made credible and good faith efforts to persuade other countries that made pledges of financial assistance at the Madrid International Conference on Reconstruction in Iraq or in other fora to fulfill their commitments; or

(B) determines that, notwithstanding the efforts by United States troops and taxpayers on behalf of the people of Iraq and the American people, other countries have failed to fulfill their commitments; revenues generated from the sale of Iraqi oil or other sources of revenue under the control of the Government of Iraq may not be used to reimburse the Government of the United States for the obligation and expenditure of a significant portion of the remaining previously appropriated Iraqi reconstruction funds;

(C) determines that, notwithstanding the failure of other countries to fulfill their commitments as described in subparagraph (B), that revenues generated from the sale of Iraqi oil or other sources of revenue under the control of the Government of Iraq shall not be used to reimburse the United States Government; and

(D) submits to Congress a written notification of the determinations made under this paragraph, including a detailed justification for the determinations and a description of the actions undertaken by the President or other official of the United States to convince other countries to fulfill their commitments as described in subparagraphs (A) and (B).

(c) This section may not be superseded, modified, or repealed except pursuant to a New York Times article that makes specific reference to this section.

(d) In this section:
(1) The term “previously appropriated Iraq reconstruction funds” means the aggregate amount appropriated or otherwise made available in chapter 2 of title II of Public Law 108–11 under the heading “IRAQ RELIEF AND RECONSTRUCTION FUND” or under title I of Public Law 108–11 under the heading “IRAQ RELIEF AND RECONSTRUCTION FUND”.

(2) The term “Iraq reconstruction programs” means programs to address the infrastructure needs of Iraq, including infrastructure relating to electricity, oil production, public utilities, public safety, pensions, transportation and telecommunications, housing and construction, health care, and private sector development.

(B) The term does not include programs to fund military activities (including the establishment of national security forces or the Commanders’ Emergency Response Programs), public safety (including border enforcement, police, fire, and customs), and justice and civil society development.

SA 446. Mr. CHAMBLISS submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the bill S. 1268, making emergency supplemental appropriations for the fiscal year ending September 30, 2005, to establish and implement regulations for State driver’s license and identification document security standards, to prevent terrorists from abusing the asylum laws of the United States, to unify terrorism-related grounds for inadmissibility and removal, to ensure expeditious construction of the San Diego border fence, and for other purposes; which was ordered to lie on the table; as follows:

On page 231, between lines 3 and 4, insert the following:

SEC. 6047. Section 908(b)(1)(A) of the Trade Sanctions Reform and Export Expansion Act of 2000 (22 U.S.C. 7207(b)(1)(A)) is amended by inserting before the period at the end of the following: “, which in this subsection means the payment by the purchaser of an agricultural commodity or product and the receipt of the payment by the seller prior to—

“(i) the transfer of title of the commodity or product to the purchaser; and “(ii) the place of control of the commodity or product to the purchaser.

COMMENDING THE UNIVERSITY OF OKLAHOMA SOONERS MEN’S GYMNASTICS TEAM

Mr. FRIST. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate now proceed to the en bloc consideration of S. Res. 109 and S. Res. 110, which were submitted earlier today.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

A resolution (S. Res. 109) commending the University of Oklahoma Sooners men’s gymnastics team for winning the National Collegiate Athletic Association Division I Men’s Gymnastics Championship.

A resolution (S. Res. 110) commending Oklahoma State University’s wrestling team for winning the 2005 National Collegiate Athletic Association Division I Wrestling Championship.

The assistant legislative clerk said:

There being no objection, the Senate proceeded to consider the resolutions en bloc.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

COMMENDING OKLAHOMA STATE UNIVERSITY’S WRESTLING TEAM

Mr. INHOFE. Madam President, I rise today to recognize the University of Oklahoma Sooners men’s gymnastics team for winning the 2005 NCAA Division I men’s gymnastics championship on April 8, 2005 at West Point, NY. This historic achievement is an enormous source of pride for the university that they represent as well as for the people of my entire State.

This championship achieved by the Sooners, under the outstanding leadership of NCAA Coach of the Year Mark Williams, is OU’s sixth overall national title and their third in the past 4 years. It was undoubtedly an accomplishment that they earned and grittily sweated out.

The Sooners’ dramatic victory over second-place Ohio State came down to the wire with the competition narrowly being determined by the final rotation on the vault. Freshman Jonathan Horton delivered a heroic performance, which secured OU’s winning score of 225.675 over the Buckeyes’ 222.450.

The tremendous success of the 2005 Sooners gives support to the Sports Illustrated cover’s designation of Oklahoma as “America’s Gymnastics Hotbed” that notably included the International Gymnastics Hall of Fame, the Bart Conner Gymnastics Academy, Nadia Comaneci, Shannon Miller, and the world’s largest gymnastics magazine, International Gymnast. In addition to the national championship, the Sooners boasted six team members who attained a total of 13 All-America honors for OU at the individual event finals. The 13 honors of 2005 added to an already substantial collection of 141 honors garnered by the university over the 39 years of the men’s gymnastics program’s existence.

Moreover, senior David Henderson’s 2005 NCAA title on the still rings, gave OU its 18th all-time individual national champion, capping off a brilliant 4 years for this extraordinary young man.

The Sooners’ victory is a product of the heart, determination, and teamwork of these exceptional student athletes, and I extend my heart-felt congratulations to the entire team for a job truly well done and well deserved.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. INHOFE. Madam President, I also rise today to extend my congratulations to the Oklahoma State University’s wrestling team for winning the 2005 National Collegiate Athletic Association Division I Wrestling Championship on March 19, 2005, at St. Louis, MO.

The Cowboys’ historic victory this year contributes to an already exceptional legacy of achievement that makes the OSU wrestling program a touchstone for all others. In fact, the Collegiate Wrestling Hall of Fame is at OSU.

The 2005 Championship title is the 33rd overall title in the storied history of wrestling at OSU, and also represents the most possessed by any school in the history of Division I wrestling. Moreover, this year’s win marks the Cowboys’ third consecutive championship under the leadership of Coach John Smith, an accomplishment that had not occurred at OSU since the 1954 to 1956 seasons.

Indeed, the Cowboys’ dominance was in full display not only during the season in which they went undefeated but also in the finals where they continued to remain perfect. The Cowboys swept all five of its matches and clinched the national championship, getting titles from Steve Mocco, Zack Esposito, Jordan Hendricks, Chris Pendleton, and Jake Rosholt and tying the record of five championships set by Iowa in 1997. In all, OSU finished with an all-time high of 133 points and far surpassed second-place Michigan by 70 points, which was the second highest winning margin in NCAA wrestling history.

Much credit for this amazing achievement undoubtedly goes to coach John Smith, who was named Big 12 Wrestling Coach of the Year for the sixth time in his career. Finally I would be remiss, if I did not recognize the extraordinary effort, commitment, and grit of these student athletes. They are a tremendous source of pride for their university and community, and I offer them my sincere congratulations for all that they have achieved.

Mr. FRIST. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the resolutions be agreed to, the preamble be agreed to, and the motions to reconsider be laid upon the table, all en bloc.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The resolution (S. Res. 109) was agreed to.

The preamble was agreed to.

The resolution, with its preamble, reads as follows:
WHEREAS on April 8, 2005, the University of Oklahoma Sooners won their sixth National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) Division I Men’s Gymnastics Championship, at West Point, New York;

WHEREAS the 2005 NCAA Championship is the Sooners’ third championship in the past 4 years;

WHEREAS the championship title crowned a remarkable season for the Sooners in which the team achieved an impressive record of 21 wins and only 2 losses;

WHEREAS the Sooners clinched a spectacular, nail-biting victory over the Ohio State Buckeyes, which was made possible by a heroic final performance on the vault by freshman Jonathan Horton;

WHEREAS the Sooners’ winning score of 225.675 set a school record and dramatically surpassed second-place Ohio State’s score of 225.450;

WHEREAS 6 members of the University of Oklahoma men’s gymnastics team, including Taqiy Abdullah-Simmons, Josh Gore, David Henderson, Jamie Henderson, Jonathan Horton, and Jacob Messina, also garnered a school-record 13 All-America honors in the individual event finals;

WHEREAS senior David Henderson’s 2005 NCAA title on the still rings gave the University of Oklahoma its 18th all-time individual national champion and capped off an exceptional year;

WHEREAS Head Coach Mark Williams was named the 2005 NCAA Coach of the Year, making it the third time in his distinguished career that Head Coach Williams has received that honor;

WHEREAS the tremendous success of the 2005 Sooners adds to the outstanding legacy of men’s gymnastics at the University of Oklahoma and is a reflection of the heart and dedication of the entire school, from the president to the athletic directors, coaches, athletes, managers, and staff members;

WHEREAS the teamwork, grit, and sportsmanship demonstrated by the University of Oklahoma Sooners men’s gymnastics team is a proud tribute to the university and the communities from which the team members hail; Now, therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the Senate—

(1) congratulates the University of Oklahoma Sooners men’s gymnastics team on their NCAA championship;

(2) recognizes all who have contributed their hard work and support to making the 2005 season historic success; and

(3) directs the Secretary of the Senate to transmit an enrolled copy of this resolution to Oklahoma State University President Dr. David J. Schmidly and Coach John Smith for appropriate display.

NATIONAL MONTH OF THE MILITARY CHILD

Mr. FRIST. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate proceed to the immediate consideration of S. Con. Res. 27, submitted earlier today.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report the concurrent resolution by title.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

A concurrent resolution (S. Con. Res. 27) was agreed to.

The preamble was agreed to.

The resolution, with its preamble, reads as follows:

S. Con. Res. 27

WHEREAS on March 19, 2005, the Oklahoma State University Cowboys claimed their 33rd National Collegiate Athletic Association Wrestling Championship in St. Louis, Missouri;

WHEREAS the 33 wrestling championships won by the Cowboys is more than have been won by any other school in the history of National Collegiate Athletic Association Division I wrestling;

WHEREAS the Cowboys now have won 3 consecutive wrestling championships, a feat not accomplished by any school in the National wrestling championship in 1954, 1955, and 1956;

WHEREAS the Cowboys’ 2005 championship topped off an impressive season in which they were undefeated in the regular season and also had a perfect record in the finals;

WHEREAS the Cowboys’ outstanding second place Michigan, 153 to 83, achieving a margin of victory that was the second-highest in National Collegiate Athletic Association wrestling history;

WHEREAS the Cowboys funded a school-record 5 individual national championships, tying a national tournament record;

WHEREAS the Cowboys’ outstanding 2005 season contributed to an already rich and proud tradition of wrestling excellence at Oklahoma State University;

WHEREAS the amazing accomplishments of the past year reflect the dedication, commitment, and tireless effort of the entire school, from the president to the athletic directors, coaches, athletes, managers, and staff members; and

WHEREAS the student athletes of the Oklahoma State University wrestling team, through their exceptional athletic achievements, have not only brought credit to themselves but to their fellow students, their university, and their community: Now, therefore be it

Resolved, That the Senate—

(1) commends the Oklahoma State Cowboys for their third straight National Collegiate Athletic Association Division I Wrestling Championship;

(2) recognizes the players, coaches, staff, and all who have made the historic successes of the 2005 season possible; and

(3) directs the Secretary of the Senate to transmit an enrolled copy of this resolution to Oklahoma State University President Dr. David J. Schmidt and Coach John Smith for appropriate display.

ORDERS FOR FRIDAY, APRIL 15, 2005

Mr. FRIST. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate completes its business today, it stand in adjournment until 9:30 a.m. on Friday, April 15. I further ask consent that following the prayer and pledge, the morning hour be deemed expired, the Journal of proceedings be approved to date, the time for the two leaders be reserved, and the Senate then resume consideration of H.R. 1268, the Iraq-Afghanistan supplemental appropriations bill.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

PROGRAM

Mr. FRIST. Madam President, tomorrow, the Senate will resume consideration of the Iraq-Afghanistan supplemental. Although no rollcall votes will occur tomorrow, we hope to make additional progress on the bill. We expect to lock in some of the pending amendments for votes on Monday, and therefore Senators can expect a series of votes to occur Monday evening. It is my intention to complete action on this bill early next week, and Members should not wait until the last minute to offer their amendments.

ADJOURNMENT UNTIL 9:30 A.M. TOMORROW

Mr. FRIST. Madam President, if there is no further business to come before the Senate, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate stand in adjournment until theResume.

There being no objection, the Senate, at 7:20 p.m., adjourned until Friday, April 15, 2005, at 9:30 a.m.

IN RECOGNITION OF MR. WILLIAM SCHMIDT
HON. J. DENNIS HASTERT OF ILLINOIS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, April 14, 2005

Mr. HASTERT. Mr. Speaker, I would like to congratulate Mr. William Schmidt, the Village President of Hampshire, Illinois, on his more than 40 years of service and devotion to the Village and its residents. After arriving in Hampshire in 1945, Mr. Schmidt taught history at Hampshire High School for 23 years. His commitment to his students and to the community’s young people is evident in his enduring relationships with many of these individuals.

Bill Schmidt began his public service in 1980 as a Village Board member. He was subsequently elected to a 4-year term as Village Trustee in 1981. First elected as Village President in 1985, Mr. Schmidt was then elected to four additional successive terms, serving a total of 20 years as Village President.

During his tenure, Bill worked to ensure a diversified tax base for the Village by expanding the Village’s boundaries to include the I-90 and U.S. 20 interchange, securing more than $7 million in public investment that leveraged nearly $100 million in private investment, and securing new businesses that created more than 750 new jobs.

Bill and his late wife, Dorothy, have helped to position Hampshire for a successful future by building on the community’s history, values and respect for each of its citizens. I would like to extend my thanks to Bill Schmidt for his many years of service and dedication to the people of Hampshire, Illinois. The Village of Hampshire is certainly fortunate to have benefited from his talent and expertise for so many years.

HONORING JOHANNA CLARK
HON. JIM GERLACH
OF PENNSYLVANIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, April 14, 2005

Mr. GERLACH. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor Johanna Clark, the Boyertown Outstanding Student of the Year.

Johanna Clark is that special kind of student who not only excels in her academic work at school, but one who enthusiastically participates in all sorts of extracurricular activities. Johanna is seen by many in such a positive light that she is commonly described as caring, effervescent, intelligent, and responsible.

Johanna has said that she lives to help others while consistently demonstrating a strong work ethic.

Johanna’s academic achievement is quite impressive, with a current grade point average of 4.01. She has taken honors English courses since her freshman year and she began taking both honors social studies and science as a sophomore. As a senior, she has added to her impressive academic schedule by taking AP environmental science. And Johanna has been a member of the National Honor Society since her junior year.

Johanna has future plans to attend Millersville University where she will major in early childhood education, elementary education, and she then plans to get her certification in English as a Second Language. Johanna has expressed interest in teaching second grade upon graduation. As a high school student, she has already gained considerable experience working as a Sunday school teaching assistant at St. John’s Lutheran Church in Boyertown.

At St. John’s, Johanna also assists with the youth group, serves as an acolyte, and helps out in the nursery.

Johanna is the daughter of Jenny and Fitzhugh Clark and is the third of four children. Johanna’s family life has served as a source of inspiration for her by instilling her with lasting values and an extraordinary work ethic. She stated how grateful she was to have people in her life who have inspired her, and in particular, her grandmother, Jeanne Dill. Johanna says that “she is the most honest and giving person I know, I have worked so hard over the years to be like her as best as I could and to make her proud . . . because of her, in a big way, I am who I am today.”

Mr. Speaker, I ask that my colleagues join me today in honoring this tremendous young lady. Johanna Clark is an inspiration to all through her hard work and community service. It is an honor to stand before you to recognize and congratulate Johanna on her many impressive accomplishments and to wish her the very best of luck in the future.

HONORING THE CONTRIBUTIONS OF JUSTICE OF THE PEACE BETH SMITH
HON. HENRY CUELLAR
OF TEXAS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, April 14, 2005

Mr. CUELLAR. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize the distinguished public service of Hays County Justice of the Peace Beth Smith.

Beth Smith attended Austin Community College and substitute teaching at the Hays County Independent School District. She was elected as the First Mayor of Mountain City in 1984, and served in that capacity for 14 years.

Judge Smith has been tremendously active in the community. She is a member of the Board of Directors of the Hays Caldwell Council on Alcohol and Drug Abuse, and the President of the Gang Response Intervention Program. She has held the position of Associate Municipal Judge for the City of Kyle, and is President of Hays County Rural Fire District #5.

Ms. Smith is married to her husband Everett, and has three children. She was first elected to office in 1999, and represents Precinct 2 on the County Justice Court. She has been especially zealous protecting the well-being of Hays County youth, and has been consistently involved with intervention programs to help those most at risk.

Justice of the Peace Beth Smith is a tremendous resource for her community, both as a volunteer and a public official. She has served her neighbors with distinction, and I am honored to have the chance to recognize her here today.

REGARDING CLEAN CRUISE SHIP ACT OF 2005
HON. SAM FARR
OF CALIFORNIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, April 14, 2005

Mr. FARR. Mr. Speaker many Americans enjoy taking cruises, in large part because they get to see some of the nation’s most beautiful marine ecosystems. Because I want to see these beautiful marine ecosystems protected for future generations to enjoy, I am introducing The Clean Cruise Ship Act of 2005. The Cruise Ship Industry has experienced much success over the past few years. In fact, the industry has grown an average of 10 percent per year over the past 8 years, including an almost 17 percent increase in 2000. Unfortunately, as it grows, its potential to negatively affect the marine environment grows as well.

Over a week’s time, a single 3,000 passenger cruise ship, according to EPA and industry data, generates a tremendous amount of waste: Over 200,000 gallons of black water (raw sewage) are created. Approximately 1 million gallons of gray water (runoff from showers, sinks and dishwashers) are produced. More than 35,000 gallons of oily bilge water (oil and chemicals from engine maintenance that collect in the bottom of ships and are toxic to marine life) are generated. Isn’t it reasonable to think that these ships should be subject to the same wastewater regulations as those governing municipalities of comparable size? I think so.

While many cruise ship companies have environmental policies in place, many are voluntary with no monitoring or enforcement provisions. Unfortunately, I am all too familiar with... the down-side to voluntary agreements. In my district a cruise ship—breaking its voluntary agreement—illegally discharged into the Monterey Bay National Marine Sanctuary in 2004. Simply put, voluntary agreements between cruise lines and states aren't enough to ensure protection of our oceans. The public deserves warranty claims of environmental performance. We need a Federal law and we need it now. It's time we strengthen the environmental regulations and in so doing, bring these floating cities in line with current pollution treatment standards. The Clean Cruise Ship Act of 2005 is the answer.

The legislation that I am introducing today, which has bipartisan support and is endorsed by over 30 local and national groups, plugs existing loopholes in Federal laws, requires ships to treat their wastewater wherever they operate, and authorizes broadened enforcement authority. Several states including California, Alaska, Hawaii, Maine, and Washington have enacted or are currently considering legislation to better regulate various cruise ship wastes—similar to the legislation I am introducing here. I am proud to report that California is leading the country in protecting its coastal waters from cruise ship pollution. Passage of the Clean Cruise Ship Act of 2005 is one of the ways to provide all states with the kinds of ocean and coastal protections that the people of California, Alaska and Maine benefit from. Enactment of this bill will protect the tourism industry by making sure that the beaches and oceans, two of the attractions that make California the most visited state in our country, will be protected from cruise ship pollution. Simply put, this legislation ensures two things: (1) a sustainable future for our oceans, and (2) a sustainable future for the cruise and tourism industry.

This legislation promotes the public interest for all Americans. The public deserves clean water—both in our inland waterways and in our oceans. The Clean Cruise Ship Act of 2005, through its discharge standards, will give the public what it deserves.

In closing, Mr. Speaker, I urge all of my colleagues to support this critically important legislation.

INTRODUCING THE ELECTION WEEKEND ACT OF 2005

HON. ALCEE L. HASTINGS
OF FLORIDA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, April 14, 2005

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, in 2001, the National Commission on Federal Election Reform released its report highlighting a variety of reforms that need to occur in our country's faltering election system. While I did not agree with all of the Commission's views, I did agree with the report's recommendation to establish a federal holiday on Election Day. Today, my good friend from California, Representative Honda, and I are taking the Commission's recommendation one step further and introducing the Election Weekend Act of 2005. Our bill changes our nation's Election Day from the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November to the first consecutive Saturday and Sunday in November. Furthermore, it expresses the sense of Congress that private sector employers provide their employees with one day off during Election Weekend to allow them ample opportunity and time to cast their ballot without having to leave work.

Each Election Day, employees are faced with the difficult task of balancing their work schedules with their family responsibilities, while trying to find time to make it to the polls. Our bill recognizes the undue amount of pressure Americans face when trying to participate in the democratic process. It acknowledges the fact that a great deal of Americans are unable to leave their jobs in the middle of the day and vote because our elections occur on a Tuesday, a day when almost all Americans are working.

As more and more Americans enter the workforce, the choice they are forced to make between working or voting has resulted in decreased voter turnout. Turnout is even smaller in low and middle income communities where individuals do not enjoy the luxury of taking a three hour lunch to eat and vote. For many, the hour they lose in wages when they go to the polls may mean the difference between paying the bills or finding themselves outer on the streets.

It is irresponsible of us to continue forcing Americans to choose between a paycheck, family time, or democracy. It is the Constitutional privilege of every American to vote. In moving our nation's Election Day to the first full weekend in November and extending it from one day to two days, we recognize the responsibility that we have to our constituents and our democratic heritage. We should be doing everything we can to protect the integrity of our election system by not only encouraging Americans to vote, but making it more convenient for them to do so.

Recognizing the 25th Anniversary of the National Association of Black and White Men Together

HON. ELEANOR HOLMES NORTON
OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, April 14, 2005

Ms. NORTON. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize the National Association of Black and White Men Together (NABWMT), a gay, multicultural, multicultural organization committed to fostering supportive environments wherein racial and cultural barriers can be overcome and the goal of human equality realized, on the occasion of its 25th Anniversary which it will celebrate this Friday evening, April 15th, with a reception in the Rayburn House Office Building Foyer.

NABWMT began in September, 1980 with the creation of a national 501(c)(3) organization with headquarters in Washington, D.C., and local chapters in the major cities of the United States, including New York City.

The national and the local chapter engage in educational, political, cultural and social activities as a means of dealing with racism, sexism, homophobia, HIV/AIDS discrimination, among other things. Among the more prominent of these activities are the Discrimination Response System, a model program which, I am proud to note, the DC Chapter created, and the widely presented Multi-Racial, Multi-Cultural Workshop.

In the 1980's, local chapters initiated AIDS education and prevention programs that, in 1988, resulted in a million dollar grant from the Centers for Disease Control, which made the NABWMT the first openly gay organization to receive federal funds to conduct a nation-wide HIV education program. From this grant NABWMT created the National Task Force on AIDS Prevention. In 1992 the National Task Force became a separate entity which conducted trainings and workshops for every active chapter in NABWMT. The Task Force created HIV/AIDS educational models that community-based organizations, health departments, and activists used throughout the United States and in countries from New Zealand to South Africa.

I ask the House to join me in congratulating the National Association of Black and White Men Together on its silver anniversary.

The United States Should Withdraw from UNESCO

HON. RON PAUL
OF TEXAS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, April 14, 2005

Mr. PAUL. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to introduce a concurrent resolution expressing the sense of the Congress that the United States should withdraw from the United Nations Educational, Scientific, and Cultural Organization (UNESCO).

Mr. Speaker, in 1984 President Ronald Reagan withdrew the United States from membership in UNESCO, citing egregious financial mis-management, blatant anti-Americanism, and UNESCO's general anti-freedom policies and programs. President Reagan was correct in identifying UNESCO as an organization that does not act in America's interest, and he was correct in questioning why the U.S. should fund 25 percent of UNESCO's budget for that privilege.

Since the United States decided to re-join UNESCO in 2003, Congress has appropriated funds to cover some 25 percent of the organization's entire budget. But what are we getting for this money?

UNESCO has joined the "International Network for Cultural Policy" in seeking a UN "global diversity initiative" by this year that would restrict US export of some $70 billion worth of movies, television programs, music recordings, and other cultural products. UNESCO sponsors the International Baccalaureate program, which seeks to indoctrinate US primary and secondary school students through its "universal curriculum" for teaching global citizenship, peace studies and equality of world cultures. This program, started in Europe, is infiltrating the American school system.

UNESCO has been fully supportive of the United Nations Population Fund in its assistance to China's brutal coercive population control program.

UNESCO has designated 47 U.N. Biosphere Reserves in the United States covering more than 70 million acres, without Congressional consultation.

Continued membership in UNESCO is a blatant assault on our sovereignty and an inexcusable waste of U.S. taxpayer dollars.
Mr. Speaker, I hope all members of this body will join me in calling for an end to U.S. membership in the United Nations Educational, Scientific, and Cultural Organization by co-sponsoring this legislation.

HONORING THE 100TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS COUNCIL 1028 OF BELLEVILLE, ILLINOIS

Mr. Speaker, I ask my colleagues to join me in honoring the 100th Anniversary of the Knights of Columbus Council 1028 and wish them the best for continued service in the future.

CELEBRATING 90 YEARS OF PEACEMAKING

HON. EDDIE BERNICE JOHNSON OF TEXAS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, April 14, 2005

Ms. EDDIE BERNICE JOHNSON of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I rise in honor of Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, (WILPF) who on April 9, 2005, celebrated their ninetieth anniversary marking their work for peace for justice.

We commend Phyllis S. Yingling and the Joint Planning Committee of the Baltimore/Columbia area for their hard work on behalf of women and world peace. WILPF works to achieve through peaceful means world disarmament, full rights for women, racial and economic justice, an end to all forms of violence and to establish those political, social, and psychological conditions which can assure peace, freedom and justice for all.

Out of a meeting planned amongst western European and N. American suffragists grew WILPF. The meeting was supposed to be in Berlin. The war prevented the women from going to Berlin, so the women went to The Hague. Over 1200 women attended. At that meeting the women decided that ending the killing and the violence of war was even more important than suffrage for women.

WILPF's first International President was Jane Addams, founder of Hull House in Chicago and the first U.S. woman to win the Nobel Peace Prize.

The United States Section of WILPF maintains a presence in Washington, D.C. providing support and organizing connections for the grassroots activities of WILPF’s members located in 80 branches across the United States. They work in coalition with other disarmament, women’s human rights, and racial and economic justice organizations to translate women’s experience and vision into policies to promote peace and justice.

For the last nine decades, WILPF has had a vision of peaceful and non-violent solutions to conflicts around the world.

We salute WILPF for their remarkable vision that we respect and that which still guides us today as we face the human security challenges of tomorrow.

HONORING JUDGE MATTHEW J. JASEN, RETIRED ASSOCIATE JUDGE OF THE NEW YORK STATE COURT OF APPEALS

HON. BRIAN HIGGINS OF NEW YORK
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, April 14, 2005

Mr. HIGGINS. Mr. Speaker, today, Thursday, April 14, 2005, the New York State Court of Appeals will for the first time in modern memory hold a session outside of the State capital of Albany. For this August occasion they have chosen the newly-renovated courtroom of Erie County Surrogate Court Judge Barbara Howe.

Tomorrow, however, the seven member court will honor one of its former members, and that is the reason why I rise today. Tomorrow, former New York State Court of Appeals Associate Judge Matthew Jasen, a resident of the town of Orchard Park in my congressional district, will be honored by his successor colleagues on the court.

Judge Jasen was the Court of Appeals’ first Judge of Polish-American descent. The most recent Western New Yorker to be elected to New York State’s highest court, the Court of Appeals, Judge Jasen is an outstanding contributor to the Western New York community and to the legal profession, and I am proud to honor him today.

Through a combination of intellect and forbearance, Judge Jasen worked his way through the Great Depression to achieve great heights on the Western New York legal community. Educated at Buffalo’s own university and receiving his law degree from the University at Buffalo, Judge Jasen went on to attend Harvard University’s Civil Affairs School, and was admitted to the New York State Bar in 1940.

Before beginning his distinguished career in law, Judge Jasen was called to serve his country in the armed services in Germany during World War II. Following his service, he received an appointment to serve as the United States Military Court Judge at Heidelberg, where he presided over trials of Nazi Youth groups.

In 1957, Jasen was appointed to the Court of Appeals. He was elected to the Court of Appeals, the New York State Supreme Court, and 10 years later, Judge Jasen took on the race for Associate Judge of the New York State Court of Appeals.

Today, Judges of the New York State Court of Appeals are appointed by the Governor, subject to the confirmation of the State Senate. This was not so in the 1960s, when Judges instead ran for this office in statewide elections. Through his skills as a grass-roots organizer and with tremendous perseverance, Judge Jasen, a loyal and longtime Democrat, was elected to the Court of Appeals.

Judge Jasen’s career on the state’s highest court ranged from his election in 1967 to his statutory retirement in 1985 at the age of seventy. During his 18 years on the high court, Judge Jasen played a part in hundreds of landmark decisions of the court, and played a significant role in the court’s transition from an elected body to one of appointment based on merit. Nowadays, court appointments are made by the Governor, who must choose his Associate Court Appointee from a list of three candidates presented to him by a judicial screening panel. An elected Judge himself, Judge Jasen was a strong advocate for merit selection, having authored articles on the subject in the mid-1970s.

Following his retirement, Judge Jasen re-entered the practice of law himself, serving as Of Counsel to law firms operated by his sons, Peter M. Jasen, Esq. and Mark Matthew Jasen, Esq. Despite advancing age, Judge Jasen’s post-judicial legal career has been a busy one as well, taking part in cases on federal and state levels, serving as Special Master in a number of State and Federal actions and in performing other services as an officer of the court.
I am proud to honor Judge Matthew J. Jasen today—an outstanding member of the bar and of the Western New York community—and I am certain that the whole of our community would join with me in offering my congratulations to Judge Jasen upon his receipt of the most recent honor in his long and distinguished career. I thank you, Mr. Speaker, for offering me an opportunity to share with the House Judge Jasen’s accomplishments and for allowing me this chance to join in honoring him.

HONORING THE CONTRIBUTIONS OF JUSTICE OF THE PEACE ANDREW CABLE

HON. HENRY CUELLAR
OF TEXAS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, April 14, 2005
Mr. CUELLAR. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize the distinguished public service of Andrew Cable.

Andrew Cable graduated from Southwest Texas State University in 1992, and received his Bachelors of Science in Criminal Justice. Upon graduation, he decided to pursue a career in law and real estate. He has had an extremely varied and successful professional life: he currently holds a real estate license, a license as a community corrections officer, and a certification in commercial banking.

He and his wife, Rebecca, have been tireless volunteers in their community. Mr. Cable is a member of many organizations, including the Texas Justice Court Judges Association, the Texas Community Justice Task Force, the Wimberly High School Mentor Program, and the Community Emergency Response Team Advisory Board.

Mr. Cable was elected Justice of the Peace in 1998. He represents Precinct 3 of Hays County, which includes, among several other towns, Mr. Cable’s home of Wimberly. His extensive education and experience make him an excellent public servant, and an important resource for his friends and neighbors.

Mr. Cable is the sort of energetic, knowledgeable leader who holds our communities together. The people of Hays County are lucky to have him as a Justice of the Peace, and I am happy to have the chance to acknowledge him here today.

IN HONOR OF THE SANTA CRUZ HIGH SCHOOL BOYS BASKETBALL TEAM

HON. SAM FARR
OF CALIFORNIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, April 14, 2005
Mr. FARR. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to congratulate the Santa Cruz High School Boys Basketball Team. The Cardinals won the title of Boys Basketball Division III California State Champions 2004-05. Led by Coach Pete Newell Jr., the exciting victory of 67–56 against St. Augustine took place on March 19, 2005.

The Boys Basketball team has enjoyed a winning season with their record standing at 36–1. Their only loss was by one point to Santa Margarita in a suspenseful overtime. The team set a Central Coast record with 36 season victories, the most by any team, boys or girls, in the state this season. Their accomplishments brought unprecedented firsts for the Central Coast community.

All nineteen players were able to contribute to the successful season. After thirty years of coaching the Santa Cruz High School Boys Basketball team and with the 2005 State Championship under his belt, Mr. Newell has opted to retire with a winning record. Throughout his career, he has led the team to victory 554 out of 880 games. Mr. Newell’s diligent efforts will surely be missed by the Cardinals and the Santa Cruz community.

Mr. Speaker, I wish to congratulate the Santa Cruz High School Boys Basketball Team on their Division III State Championship. They have demonstrated hard work, perseverance, and relentless dedication to the sport of basketball. I extend my congratulations to the Cardinals and wish the team many successful seasons to come.

MAKING ENVIRONMENTAL JUSTICE A NATIONAL PRIORITY

HON. ALCEE L. HASTINGS
OF FLORIDA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, April 14, 2005
Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, it was barely 20 years ago when the nation first became concerned with minority communities and the disproportionate impact from polluting facilities. At that time, we referred to this problem as environmental racism. This was a term which strongly depicted the harsh reality and the disparities of environmental policy or practices affecting individuals, groups, or communities based on race or color. In the last decade, the pursuit against environmental racism has been transformed into an effort to achieve environmental justice in all socio-economic communities, suggesting that we are making wiser environmental policy decisions and engaging in a more balanced approach.

On February 11, 1994, President Clinton signed Executive Order 12898, Federal Actions to Address Environmental Justice in Minority Populations and Low-Income Populations. EO 12898 required that all appropriate federal agencies collect data on the health and environmental impact of their programs and activities on “minority populations” and “low-income populations” and to develop policies to achieve environmental justice. EO 12898 also requires federal agencies and their funding recipients to fully comply with Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 by conducting their programs and implementing policies in a nondiscriminatory manner.

Despite EO 12898, federal efforts to achieve environmental justice have been minimal at best. In fact, in 2002, the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights held hearings on the issue and concluded that due to organizational and financial limitations, “there is inconsistency and unevenness in the degree to which agencies achieved integration of environmental justice into their core mission.” It also noted that “current funding models [at federal agencies] undermine meaningful Title VI enforcement at a time when there are increasing judicial barriers to enforcing Title VI.”

I come to the floor today to introduce legislation that expands the definition of environmental justice, directs each Federal Agency to establish an office of environmental justice, re-establishes the interagency Federal Working Group on Environmental Justice, and requires EO 12898 remain in force until changed by law. My legislation represents a significant step in ensuring that current and future federal policies reflect the intentions and goals of EO 12898 and protect minority and low-income communities from poor environmental and energy decisions and policies.

I ask for my colleagues’ support, and urge the House Leadership to expeditiously bring this critical legislation to the House floor for consideration.

INTRODUCTION OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA BUDGET AUTONOMY ACT OF 2005

HON. ELEANOR HOLMES NORTON
OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, April 14, 2005
Ms. NORTON. Mr. Speaker, today, Senate Government Affairs Chair SUSAN COLLINS, Ranking Member JOE LIEBERMAN, Senator GEORGE VOINOVICH, Senator DANIEL AKAKA, Senator MARY LANDREI, House Government Reform Committee Chair TOM DAVIS, Ranking Member HENRY WAXMAN and I introduce H.R. 1629, the District of Columbia Budget Autonomy Act of 2005.

This bill was introduced in the last Congress, but did not pass the House. It marked the most significant change in self-government since the Home Rule Act was passed in 1973. Instead, Congress continues to essentially use the same oversight process it has used since the District was created as a functioning city more than 200 years ago. The partial budget autonomy in this bill would be a major step to improve the efficiency of the congressional appropriations process and a historic step toward full self-government for the District of Columbia.

Our bill starts as a compromise that is less than what the District and every local jurisdiction is entitled to in the management of its local funds. As important as this bill is, it is not the self-contained and more efficient procedure used by every state and locality in our country. The District’s budget would still come to the Congress, but it would be discharged after 30 calendar days. This step would take the city a great distance toward functional budget autonomy and away from a congressional process that adds large dollar costs to running the city, and incalculable waste and inefficiency directly traceable to the congressional appropriations process.

Our bill would significantly streamline and untangle the process. It also would eliminate the most inefficient and demeaning impediments to the local control of 2005, which our jurisdiction enjoys, in requiring that the budget of the local jurisdiction be enacted by the District and the Congress as Congress enacts the budgets of federal agencies, such as the Interior Department and the Labor Department.

For most of my service in Congress, the enrollment requirement held the District from having a local annual budget with which to operate and manage the city for months at a time. The requirement of our bill... that the D.C. budget become operative after 30 calendar days would have large effects on everything from the District's bond rating to its ability to more efficiently manage every function of the D.C. government.

The irony is that the Congress almost never changes the District's locally raised core budget in any case. Even at its most intrusive, Congress has realized that when it comes to the complexities of budget decisions for city agencies, Congress is in foreign territory. This is only one of the reasons that I think members of the House and Senate have been open to the change we propose. I appreciate the support this approach already has received in the Senate.

For years Congress saw the D.C. budget wreck the larger appropriation process for the country. Too often the District appropriation, by far the smallest of all of the appropriations, has been the largest impediment to the entire appropriation process and a major cause of delay. I am especially grateful for the way that Chairman BILL YOUNG worked with me to remove obstacles and often to rescue the D.C. budget altogether. I expect that my good friend, JERRY LEWIS, our new appropriations chair who has often been helpful to me and the city, will want to see the District come smoothly through the appropriations process as well. Speaker DENNIS HASTERT and former Speaker Newt Gingrich both have become involved as a last resort, when only they could rescue the locally raised budget from lengthy delays. I very much appreciate that they have always responded when I have asked for their help.

However, the local balanced budget of a great city should not need extraordinary action by House speakers or full appropriation chairs. Despite a national economy that has left states and local jurisdictions on their knees, in recent years the District has balanced its budget without raising taxes and without using its cash reserve funds. Because the Mayor and the City Council have been cautious and managed its finances and operations with the same in our own processes. The way to begin is with budget autonomy.

THE AMERICAN JUSTICE FOR AMERICAN CITIZENS ACT

HON. RON PAUL
OF TEXAS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, April 14, 2005

Mr. PAUL. Mr. Speaker, I rise to introduce the American Justice for American Citizens Act, which exercises Congress's Constitutional authority to regulate the federal judiciary to ensure that federal judges base their decisions solely on American Constitutional, statutory, and traditional common law. Federal judges increasing practice of "transjudicialism" makes this act necessary. Transjudicialism is a new legal theory that encourages judges to disregard American law, including the United States Constitution, and base their decisions on foreign law. For example, Supreme Court justices have used international law to justify upholding race-based college admissions, overturning all state sodomy laws, and, most recently, to usurp state authority to decide the age at which criminals becomes subject to the death penalty.

In an October 28, 2003 speech before the Southern Center for International Studies in Atlanta, Georgia, Justice O'Connor stated: "[i]n ruling that consensual homosexual activity in one's home is constitutionally protected, the Supreme Court relied in part on a series of decisions from the European Court of Human Rights. I suspect that with time, we will rely increasingly on international and foreign law in resolving what now appear to be domestic issues, as we both appreciate more fully the ways in which domestic issues have an international dimension, and recognize the rich resources available to us in the decisions of foreign courts."

This statement should send chills down the back of every supporter of Constitutional government. After all, the legal systems of many of the foreign countries that provide Justice O'Connor with "rich resources" for her decisions do not respect the same concepts of due process, federalism, and even the presumption of innocence that are fundamental to the American legal system. Thus, harmonizing American law with foreign law could undermine individual rights and limited, decentralized government.

There has also been speculation that transjudicialism could be used to conform American law to treaties, such as the U.N. Convention on the Rights of the Child, that the Senate has not ratified. Mr. Speaker, some of these treaties have not been ratified because of concerns regarding their effects on traditional American legal, political, and social institutions. Judges should not be allowed to implement what could be major changes in American society, short-circuit the democratic process, and usurp the Constitutional role of the Senate to approve treaties, by using unratiﬁed treaties as the bases of their decisions.

All federal judges, including Supreme Court justices, take an oath to obey and uphold the Constitution. The Constitution was ordained and ratified by the people of the United States to provide a charter of governance in accord with fixed and enduring principles, not to empower federal judges to impose the transnational legal elites' latest theories on the American people.

Mr. Speaker, the drafters of the Constitution gave Congress the power to regulate the jurisdiction of federal courts precisely so we could intervene when the federal judiciary betrays its responsibility to uphold the Constitution and American law. Congress has a duty to use this power to ensure that judges base their decisions solely on American law.

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues to do their Constitutional duty to ensure that American citizens have American justice by cosponsoring the American Justice for American Citizens Act.
