PRAYER

The Reverend Dr. Barry C. Black, Chaplain, United States Senate, offered the following prayer:

O God, who redeems our lives and snatches us from the power of death, help us to see that in spite of our best plans for today, Your purposes will prevail. Teach us to submit to Your unstoppable providence, knowing that You desire to prosper us and give us success. Remind us that when we help those on life's margins, we lend to You.

Accompany the Members of the House of Representatives today in their challenging work. Give them the security of Your spirit as You protect them from harm. Shine the warmth of Your presence upon them during their moments of uncertainty. Lord, answer them from Your holy heaven and rescue them by Your great might.

We pray this in Your powerful name. Amen.

WASHINGTON, MONDAY, MAY 9, 2005

No. 59

Senate

The Senate met at 2 p.m. and was called to order by the Honorable RICHARD BURR, a Senator from the State of North Carolina.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Dr. Barry C. Black, offered the following prayer:

Let us pray.

Our God, Creator of all life, we come in thankfulness because You have loved us through all the days of our lives. We find peace in the knowledge that You know us and accept us as we are. Thank You for enabling us to run and not be weary, to walk and not faint. Keep us always in Your care.

Bless our Senators. Forgive them when they make mistakes and give them comfort when they feel downhearted. Keep them from selfishness. Give them wisdom and courage to live each day as Your children and as brothers and sisters to each other.

God, bless our Nation, drive back the forces of evil and release the powers of goodness throughout our land.

We pray in Your strong Name, Amen.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE

The Honorable RICHARD BURR led the Pledge of Allegiance, as follows:

I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

APPOINTMENT OF ACTING PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will please read a communication to the Senate from the President pro tempore (Mr. STEVENS).

U.S. SENATE,
PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE,
Washington, DC, May 9, 2005.

To the Senate:

RECOGNITION OF THE MAJORITY LEADER

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The majority leader is recognized.

SCHEDULE

Mr. FRIST. Mr. President, today we will shortly resume consideration of the highway bill. There are a couple of Members desiring to speak on other subjects prior to going back to the highway legislation, and we will accommodate those statements. I will have a brief statement. The Democrat leader has a statement, as well.

Chairman INHOFE will be managing the highway bill today. As we announced prior to the recess, we expect a vote this evening at approximately 5:30 p.m. That vote will be in relation to an amendment on the highway bill. Several Senators have indicated they would be available today to offer amendments. We hope to schedule one of those for a vote this evening.

We are now beginning our second week of work on the highway bill. The managers have patiently waited for Members to come to the Senate to offer their amendments. I am concerned about the pace of the bill. We need to finish the bill this week. I put our colleagues on notice that we will use cloture if necessary to bring this bill to conclusion.

Having said that, be prepared for full sessions to consider and dispose of highway amendments over the next few days. As I think about it, I want to make it clear to our Members, we will be voting throughout this week, including Friday.

With respect to the emergency supplemental appropriations bill, that should now be at the desk. Our expectation is to begin debate on that conference report this evening. I hope any Member who wants to speak will stay this evening for debate in order to schedule a vote on the emergency supplemental appropriations conference report sometime tomorrow, hopefully early tomorrow. I will be consulting further with the Democrat leader on the exact timing but, again, we want to vote as early as possible on Tuesday so we can get back to the highway bill.

I thank our colleagues in advance for their help on these two important measures.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, if I could make a brief comment on the highway bill: I agree with the distinguished leader that we need to move forward on this bill. I have been advised over the last several days, and had a couple calls this morning, that they are having problems with the transit section of the bill. Senators SHELBY and SARBANES want a little different formula than is in the bill. They are working on that now as we speak. I hope they can get that worked out. A significant amount of work has gone into the bill not only by members of the Environment and Public Works Committee and the Banking Committee, which has jurisdiction over transit, but also by the Finance Committee. It is a very complicated bill.

I underscore what the distinguished Republican leader said. It is my understanding that Senators BAUCUS and GRASSLEY are going to lay down an amendment today. I hope everyone would offer their amendments on this bill. I have had a lot of comments from Members saying they have concerns about what is in the bill. This is an opportunity to lay down the amendments. We have been told by the distinguished Republican leader today that if there is no progress on this bill he is going to file cloture. This is the highway bill. This is not a bill where cloture will not be invoked. There is wide-ranging support for this bill.

I hope everyone follows the admonition the Republican leader just gave and be ready with amendments because, if we wind up waiting much longer, we will not have an opportunity to do that.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The majority leader.

JUDICIAL NOMINATIONS

Mr. FRIST. Mr. President, 4 years ago today President Bush nominated Miguel Estrada to the District of Columbia Circuit Court of Appeals. His nomination should have gone smoothly. The American Bar Association pronounced him highly qualified, a rating my colleagues on the other side of the aisle once called the gold standard. He clerked for a Supreme Court Justice and worked in both the Bush and Clinton administrations.

The Honduran immigrant then won top honors at Columbia University and Harvard Law School. Miguel Estrada epitomized the American dream. But Miguel Estrada's nomination never received an up-or-down vote. A minority of Senators used the filibuster to stop the Senate from exercising its constitutional duty to advise and consent.

Senators supporting his nomination made seven attempts to bring his nomination to a vote. Each time the effort failed. Finally, after enduring 2 years of obstruction, Miguel Estrada withdrew his name from consideration.

Unfortunately, today marks the fourth anniversary of another candidate whose nomination is, likewise, being blocked. Priscilla Owen, who has served on the Texas Supreme Court for 10 years, has earned the praise of both Republicans and Democrats. Judge Owen won reelection to the Texas bench with 84 percent of the vote and the endorsement of every major newspaper in the State.

Former justice Raul Gonzalez, a Democrat, says:

I found her to be apolitical, extremely bright, diligent in her work, and of the highest integrity. I recommend her for confirmation without reservation.

Still, a minority of Senators is using the filibuster to stop this Senate from exercising its constitutional duty to advise and consent, to vote up or down, to vote yes or no, to vote, confirm or reject.

This campaign of obstruction is unprecedented. Before Miguel Estrada, the Senate had never denied a judicial nominee with majority support an up-or-down vote. In the last Congress, the President submitted 34 appeals court nominees to the Senate. Ten of those nominees continue to be blocked. Each has been rated "qualified" or "well-qualified" by the American Bar Association, each has the majority support of the Senate, and each would be confirmed if brought to the Senate floor to a vote.

Meanwhile, the other side threatens to shut down the Senate and obstruct government itself if it does not get its way. Instead of thoughtful deliberation and debate, a small minority is attempting to change 225 years of constitutional history. Former Senate majority leader Bob Dole is correct when he says:

By creating a new threshold for the confirmation of judicial nominees, the Democratic minority has abandoned the tradition of mutual self-restraint that has long allowed the Senate to function.

Precedent has been replaced with partisanship, and respect for the separation of powers tossed aside.

Now, 12 of the 16 court of appeals vacancies have been officially declared judicial emergencies. The Department of Justice tells us that the delay caused by these vacancies is complicating their ability to prosecute criminals. The Department also reports that due to the delay in deciding immigration appeals, it cannot quickly deport illegal aliens who are convicted murderers, rapists, and child molesters. Additionally, there are notoriously long delays in deciding habeas petitions, meaning that both victims' families and prisoners often wait years before getting final resolution on murder convictions.

All of this obstruction must stop. It is hurting the nominees. It is hurting the Senate. It is hurting the American people.

For most of the 20th century the same party controlled the White House and the Senate. Yet until the last Congress, no minority ever denied a judicial nominee with majority support an up-or-down vote. They treated judicial nominees fairly. They respected the Senate's role in the appointments process designed by the Framers.

Before the recess, I came to the Senate to offer a compromise. That proposal was simple: Appeals court judicial nominees should get a fair, open, and exhaustive debate, and then they should get an up-or-down vote. Whether on the floor or in committee, it is time for judicial obstruction to end no matter which party controls the White House or the Senate.

Senate tradition is comprised of shared values based on civility and respect for the Constitution. I sincerely hope that Senate tradition can be restored. It is a matter of fairness. It is a matter of honor. It is our constitutional duty to give these nominees a vote.

I yield the floor.

RECOGNITION OF THE MINORITY LEADER

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senate minority leader is recognized.

JUDICIAL NOMINATIONS

Mr. REID. Mr. President, of the initial Bush nominees, the 10 or 11 we are talking about today, 8 have been confirmed; only 3 were not. Of course, one of those, Miguel Estrada, has not been renominated. Another, Terrence Boyle, has never been reported by the Judiciary Committee, even after 4 years of Republican control. So only one of the initial nominees, Priscilla Owen, is currently on the calendar.

I think the Democrats have been responsible and reasonable in exercising advice and consent regarding this initial nominee.

Regarding Priscilla Owen, she served on the Texas Supreme Court with the President's lawyer, Alberto Gonzales, who is now the Attorney General. Judge Gonzales wrote that several of Judge Owen's opinions were acts of unconscionable activism.

I am concerned the Senate is heading toward an unnecessary showdown over judicial nominations. One of the Hill newspapers recently reported that my distinguished friend, the majority leader, is under enormous pressure from right-wing groups to trigger the so-called nuclear option. So many of our colleagues, Democrats and Republicans, have contacted me and, I am sure, the majority leader, saying: Let's try to work something out. They want to avert this damaging confrontation because it would be bad for the Senate and bad for the country. So we need to take every step we can to avoid this confrontation.

We are prepared to be reasonable even with respect to these controversial nominations that are now before the Senate. But it seems that the White House, and maybe the Senate leadership, will not give the Senate a chance to put this issue behind us.

It is important to understand that this manufactured crisis has been forced upon the Senate by the White House. During President Bush's first term, the Senate confirmed 205 of his judicial nominations and turned back only 10. This is a significant, strong percentage—more than 95 percent.

The President could have accepted that success and avoided confrontation by choosing not to resubmit the names of those who were rejected. Instead, the President sent back 7 of the 10 nominees the Senate declined to confirm, including: the very controversial nominations of Priscilla Owen, whom I briefly commented about; William Myers, who, by the way, is the first nominee to the Federal bench that American Indians have ever opposed; William Pryor; Janice Rogers Brown; and Henry Saad.

In fact, this whole crisis is really about five people. I have mentioned the five. Of the 10 previously rejected nominees, 3 were not renominated, and 2 are tied up in a separate controversy over the Sixth Circuit involving procedural matters. So we are talking only, I repeat, about 5 judges, 5 out of the 218. But this historically high percentage the President has obtained, creating one of the lowest vacancy rates in the entire history of the Federal judiciary, is not good enough for some. They have to have it all.

Meanwhile, the President has failed to send us new nominations. In the more than 4 months since he was sworn in to a second term, the President has sent the Senate only one new judicial nomination. Other than that one nominee to the District Court of Nevada, Brian Sandoval, every single one of the President's judicial nominees has been here before. I have said to everyone who will listen that Senate Democrats will be careful and judicious in the use of our procedural rights. I have said that judicial filibusters will continue to be rare. So why doesn't the White House test our willingness to be reasonable by sending new nominees who we can consider anew and fresh, instead of old nominees who have run into trouble before?

It is clear that the White House would rather pick fights than pick judges. One reason the White House will not send new judges to the Senate is that they do not want to give Senate Democrats a chance to show we are reasonable. They do not want the confirmation rate to increase from 95 percent to 96 or 98 percent. They want to paint us as obstructionists. But the facts are that the judicial confirmation rate this year is 100 percent and that there has not been a single filibuster of the four nominees the majority leader has brought before the Senate this year. But the radicals on the far right do not want to give us an opportunity to continue that cooperation because it would undercut their argument justifying the nuclear option. Maybe the White House wants to force the nuclear option on the Senate because it wants to clear the way for a Supreme Court nominee, because they are afraid the person they will submit is not going to be reasonable.

There are lots of reasonable people around. There are Members sitting in this Senate today who could be a Supreme Court nominee of President Bush. They do not want a David Souter, a Republican, or an Anthony Kennedy, a Republican, or a Sandra Day O'Connor, a Republican, or a Ruth Bader Ginsberg, or a Stephen Breyer.

So, Mr. President, I want a chance to prove that Senate Democrats are reasonable. There is a nominee on the Executive Calendar named Thomas Griffith. Mr. Griffith is a controversial nominee to an important appellate court. But if he is brought before the Senate, I believe he will be confirmed. He is the former Senate legal counsel. He was here during the impeachment proceedings. His nomination to the DC Circuit was reported from the Judiciary Committee by a 14-to-4 vote. Ranking Member LEAHY and other Senators who opposed Griffith were concerned, among other things, that he had failed to obtain a license to practice law in either the District of Columbia or Utah during the time he was working as a lawyer in those jurisdictions.

A number of Democrats will vote against confirmation on the floor, for these reasons and other reasons. But we on this side know the difference between opposing nominees and blocking nominees. We will oppose bad nominees, but we will only block unacceptable nominees. Democrats will use extended debate responsibly, and there is no cause for the majority to break the rules and 217 years of Senate traditions to take that right away. Mr. Smith should still be able to come to Washington, with either a Democratic or Republican Senate.

I emphasize that Mr. Griffith is nominated to the DC Circuit Court of Appeals. This is the most important appellate court, separate and apart from the Supreme Court. Republicans say that our 95-percent confirmation rate is not relevant because many of the 208 judges we have confirmed are district court nominees—trial court judges, not appellate court judges. Well, here is a nominee to the most important Federal appellate court in the country, with the exception of the Supreme Court, and we are prepared to move forward. So I ask, do we get extra credit that this nominee is to the DC Court of Appeals?

Let me note that this same courtesy was not extended to President Clinton's nominees to the DC Circuit. Republicans held up the nomination of Justice Department official Merrick Garland for years before finally confirming him.

President Clinton then nominated two distinguished lawyers to the court: Elena Kagan, now dean of the Harvard Law School, and Allen Snyder, a partner in the law firm of Hogan & Hartson and a former clerk to Chief Justice Rehnquist. Both of these nominations were buried in the Judiciary Committee and were never given an up-or-down vote in committee or on the Senate floor.

I have heard my Republican friends say so many times this year that nominees are entitled to an up-or-down vote. I would defy them to explain why Kagan and Snyder were denied votes on the Senate floor and why 69 Clinton nominees were buried and lost in the judiciary committee. But we want to move forward. To demonstrate our good will, we want to move forward on a controversial nominee to the DC Circuit. I want the majority leader to know that Democrats are prepared to enter into a unanimous consent agreement to move to the Griffith nomination. Under this unanimous consent agreement, we would proceed to the Griffith nomination immediately upon disposition of the supplemental appropriations bill. We would then have up to 10 hours of debate on that nomination, equally divided. Following that debate, we would be willing to have an up-or-down vote on this controversial nominee to the DC Circuit.

Let's take a step away from the precipice. Let's arrive at this step and have a decision made on Griffith and then move on. Let's try cooperation rather than confrontation, which seems to be the hallmark of what we have been doing here lately.

I just remind everyone: This has been a pretty good year for work being done in the Senate. My friend, the distinguished Presiding Officer, served in the House of Representatives where you can ram things through the House. If you are in the majority there, things go very quickly. But that is not how it works in the Senate. So we have been very fortunate this year to move legislation—important, landmark legislation, legislation that many of my colleagues on my side of the aisle did not especially like: class action legislation, bankruptcy legislation.

We have done a lot of work here. We are going to do the supplemental appropriations bill. We have finished the budget. We have done a lot of work. We are on the highway bill. So I would think we should move forward. I say to those people who are interested in moving forward and who are interested in cooperation rather than confrontation, let us move forward on a unanimous consent request—which I would be happy to propound at a subsequent time, or the majority leader could do it—to move forward on Griffith. We want 5 hours on our side to talk about this man. They could have whatever time they want on their side. And we would move forward on an up-or-down vote on a DC Circuit Court of Appeals judge. I would think that would get us down the road to doing work that needs to be done in the Senate.

Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, will the Senator yield on that point?

Mr. REID. I would be happy to yield to the distinguished ranking member of the Judiciary Committee.

Mr. LEAHY. Is it my understanding, Mr. President, the distinguished Democratic leader is saying he is prepared to ask consent to move forward on the nomination of Tom Griffith to the DC Circuit?

Mr. REID. I answer my friend: the answer is yes, even though this man is a controversial nominee. I know my distinguished friend, the senior Senator from Vermont, has on a number of occasions criticized this nomination. I have mentioned already a number of the reasons, including his practice of law without a license in a couple of different jurisdictions. But I have stated that I would be willing to move forward on this nomination. We would have adequate time on our side—up to 5 hours—to talk about the merits or demerits of this gentleman, and the majority could have whatever time they wanted. We would move to an up-or-down vote on this man. I think this would be an appropriate way to move forward and—again, I repeat for the third time—have in this body cooperation rather than confrontation.

Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, if the Senator will yield further for a question, the Senator has stated he realizes Mr. Griffith practiced law illegally, first in one jurisdiction for 3 or 4 years, then in a second jurisdiction for 3 or 4 years, but that he is the President's choice for going on the DC Circuit.

I am sure the Senator is aware that during the last administration, several nominees for that same seat were blocked by pocket filibusters by the Republicans—one was Elana Kagan, who is now the dean of the Harvard Law School. Another was Allen Snyder, a former Supreme Court law clerk to Chief Justice Rehnquist.

I voted against Mr. Griffith because I felt on the second highest court of the land it is not a good example to have a person, whatever his other qualifications might be, who was so cavalier as to practice law illegally in two different jurisdictions.

I ask the Senator, is the Senator aware I did work with the distinguished Chairman of the committee, Senator SPECTER, to allow the hearing to go forward with Mr. Griffith and to allow a vote to go forward without delay in the committee? While I voted against Mr. Griffith because of the practice of law, primarily, and while, I felt concern that Chief Justice Rehnquist's former law clerk and Dean Kagan were blocked by the Republican pocket filibuster, I ask the leader if he understands that I will certainly have no objection nor do I know of any Democrat who would object to moving forward and having a real debate and the up-or-down vote that was denied to a Democratic President's nominees? Does the Senator understand that not withstanding the fact that I would vote against that nominee, I would support him bringing this nomination forward? I suspect he would get a majority of the votes in the Senate.

Mr. REID. Let me say to my friend through the Chair, there is no question that Elana Kagan is qualified—she is the dean of the No. 1 rated law school in the country, No. 1. Yale and Stanford come close, but Harvard is the No. 1 law school in the country. She is the dean of that school. But the Republicans controlled the Judiciary Committee, and they would not allow this woman to come to this floor.

I would love to have had her on the floor so somebody could have filed a cloture motion. I would have loved to vote on that, but they would not even bring that nomination to the floor for a vote. They would not let it come to a vote in the committee, because this woman was eminently qualified, not only by her legal experience and her education, but by her demeanor and personal attitude toward the law. So she would have been really good for the second highest court in the land.

And I say about the other person—

Mr. LEAHY. Allen Snyder.

Mr. REID. Allen Snyder, this man clerked for Chief Justice Rehnquist. Again, there was not even the courtesy of having a vote in the committee. They come to the floor and cry crocodile tears about up-or-down votes. We would have taken a cloture vote on either one of these people. But they were unwilling to bring this person before the committee or the floor.

So I say to my friend, you are absolutely right, there is a different standard now than there was. We are bringing people to the court. They say there has not been an up-or-down vote. There has been a vote. Every one of President Bush's nominees has come before the Senate for a vote. And I think it is on 69 different occasions that President Clinton had a nominee turned down on even a hearing in the Judiciary Committee, even a vote in the Judiciary Committee, let alone coming to the floor.

So my distinguished friend is absolutely right.

Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, I ask the distinguished leader through the Chair—

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. If the Senator from Vermont would suspend for a second. The Chair would remind both the Senators that Senators may yield time for the purposes of a question only.

Mr. LEAHY. I am posing a question.

Mr. REID. I am happy to yield to my friend for a question.

Mr. LEAHY. I would ask if the Senator would yield for the purpose of a question. When we talk about votes, 40 is the threshold on filibusters. Of course, the Senate sets the rules. The Senate could say: You require 95 votes. Or it could say: You require 2 votes. There is nothing magic about 50, 40, 60, or anything else. But be that as it may, I would ask, through the Chair, whether the Senator from Nevada is aware of numerous instances in which Democrats have proceeded to debate and vote on the President's nominees against which there were more than 40 negative votes—I can think of three significant judicial nominations where there were 41 Democratic votes against allowing them to go forward: Timothy Tymkovich was confirmed to the Eighth Circuit although 41 Senators voted against him; Jeffrey Sutton was confirmed to the Sixth Circuit although 41 Senators voted against him; J. Leon Holmes was confirmed to the district court in Arkansas although 46 Senators from both parties voted against him. In addition, Senate Democrats proceeded to debate and vote on the controversial nomination of former Attorney General Ashcroft, who was confirmed although 42 Senators voted against his confirmation; Ted Olson, who was confirmed to be Solicitor General although 47 Senators voted against his confirmation; Victor Wolski, who was confirmed to the Court of Claims although 43 Senators voted against his confirmation.

Most recently, a number of us voted for cloture on the nomination of Stephen Johnson to head the EPA. He was confirmed with only 61 votes in support. I was one of those who voted for cloture so we could go forward with the President's nomination.

Was the Senator from Nevada aware of all those?

Mr. REID. Mr. President, the answer is yes. As I said earlier, we know the difference between opposing nominees and blocking nominees. I believe this is the time to put all of this behind us. Eight years of President Clinton, four years of President Bush, let's move forward. That is what this proposal is all about. Let's move forward. After we finish that, let's see where we are and see what else we can do. I think it is time to move forward. Again, I have no problem distinguishing between what happened to the 69 Clinton would-be judges who never showed up, never saw the light of day, and all those we have dealt with in the normal process in the 4 years President Bush has been President.

We have been very selective in those we have opposed. We think we are right on every one of them. Hindsight will tell.

This whole dispute is over 5 judges, 5 out of 218. It seems that people of goodwill can agree, as my distinguished friend from Nebraska Senator HAGEL indicated this weekend on television, when he said: We should be able to work this out. We should. The world is watching us. We should not be changing the rules by breaking the rules. We should not do that. I hope the distinguished Senator from Tennessee, the majority leader, my friend, will accept the gesture of goodwill we have made. It is a step in the right direction. I hope we can let bygones be bygones and move forward.

TRANSPORTATION EQUITY ACT: A LEGACY FOR USERS

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Under the previous order, the Senate will resume consideration of H.R. 3, which the clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

A bill (H.R. 3) to authorize funds for Federal-aid highways, highway safety programs, and transit programs, and for other purposes.

Pending:

Inhofe amendment No. 567, to provide a complete substitute.

Salazar amendment No. 581 (to amendment No. 567), to modify the percentage of apportioned funds that may be used to address needs relating to off-system bridges.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Texas.

Mr. CORNYN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to speak as in morning business.

Mr. LEAHY. Reserving the right to object—I will not object—I ask unanimous consent to follow the Senator from Texas as in morning business.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there objection?

Mr. REID. Reserving the right to object, would the distinguished Senator from Texas give us a general outline of how long he is going to speak.

Mr. CORNYN. Mr. President, I think maybe 15 minutes.

Mr. REID. Just so we have a general idea. I ask unanimous consent then that the normal 10-minute rule be waived for the distinguished Senator from Texas and that he have up to 15 minutes to speak as in morning business.

Mr. LEAHY. And that I then be recognized for the same amount of time.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The minority leader is reminded there is no 10-minute rule.

Mr. REID. There is no 10-minute rule unless it is ordered.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. That is correct.

Mr. REID. We have no morning business today?

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. That is correct.

Mr. REID. I amend my request to ask unanimous consent that the Senator from Texas be recognized for 15 minutes and the Senator from Vermont be recognized for 15 minutes.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The Senator from Texas.

NOMINATION OF PRISCILLA OWEN

Mr. CORNYN. Mr. President, 4 years ago, the President nominated Texas Supreme Court Justice Priscilla Owen to serve on the United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit. Justice Owen is an exceptional jurist, a devoted public servant, and an extraordinary Texan. Yet after 4 years, she still awaits an up-or-down vote on the floor of the Senate. Four years today and we are still waiting for a vote.

Although a bipartisan majority of the Senate stands ready to confirm this outstanding nominee, a partisan minority obstructs the process and refuses to allow that vote on her nomination. What is more, the partisan minority now insists, for the first time in history, that she must be supported by a supermajority of 60 Senators rather than the constitutional standard and the Senate tradition of majority vote.

I know Justice Owen personally, having served with her on the Texas Supreme Court for 3 years. She is a distinguished jurist and public servant who has excelled at virtually everything she has set out to do. She was a top graduate of Baylor Law School at the remarkable age of 23 and scored the top score on the Texas bar exam. She entered the legal profession at a time when relatively few women did. After a distinguished record in private practice, she reached the pinnacle of the Texas bar, the Texas Supreme Court. In doing so, she was supported by a larger percentage of Texans than any of her colleagues during her last election, receiving around 84 percent of the vote, after enjoying the endorsement of virtually every newspaper in Texas. She has been honored as the Baylor Young Lawyer of the Year and the Baylor University Outstanding Alumna.

Priscilla Owen enjoys significant bipartisan support. Three Democratic judges on the Texas Supreme Court and a bipartisan group of 15 presidents of the State Bar of Texas support her nomination.

The Houston Chronicle, in September of 2000, called Owen "[c]learly academically gifted," stating that she "has the proper balance of judicial experience, solid legal scholarship and real-world know-how to continue to be an asset on the high court."

The Dallas Morning News wrote in support of Owen on September 24, 2002:

She has the brainpower, the experience and temperament to serve ably on an appellate court.

The Washington Post wrote on July 24, 2002:

She should be confirmed. Justice Owen is indisputably well qualified.

Lori Ploeger, Justice Owen's former law clerk, wrote in a letter to Senator LEAHY on June 27, 2002:

During my time with her, I developed a deep and abiding respect for her abilities, her work ethic, and, most importantly, her character. Justice Owen is a woman of integrity who has profound respect for the rule of law and our legal system. She takes her responsibilities seriously and carries them out diligently and earnestly.

Ms. Ploeger continued:

Justice Owen is a role model for me and for other women attorneys in Texas.

Mary O'Reilly, a lifetime member of the NAACP and a Democrat, in a letter to Senator DIANNE FEINSTEIN, dated August 14, 2002, wrote:

I met Justice Owen in January of 1995, while working with her on the Texas Supreme Court Gender Neutral Task Force . . . I worked with Justice Owen on Family Law 2000, an important state-wide effort initiated in part by Justice Owen . . . In the almost eight years I have known Justice Owen, she has always been refined, approachable, even-tempered and intellectually honest.

Priscilla Owen is not just intellectually capable and legally talented; she is also a fine human being with a big heart. The depth of her humanity and compassion is revealed through her significant free legal work and community activity.

Priscilla has spent much of her life devoting time and energy in service of her community. She has worked to ensure that all citizens are provided access to justice as the court's representative on the Texas Supreme Court Mediation Task Force and to statewide committees, as well as in her successful efforts to prompt the Texas legislature to provide millions of dollars per year in legal services for the poor. She was instrumental in organizing a group Ms. O'Reilly spoke of known as Family Law 2000 which seeks to find ways to educate parents about the effect divorce can have on children and seeks to lessen the negative impacts it has on them. She also teaches Sunday school at St. Barnabas Episcopal Mission in Austin, TX, where she is an active member.

It is plain from these and so many other examples that Justice Owen is a fine person and a distinguished leader in the legal community. One would think that after 4 long years, she would be afforded the simple justice of an up-or-down vote. I remain optimistic. While I know the Democratic leader has offered a UC to consider the nomination of one of the justices currently being filibustered, I don't see why that same principle would not apply to all of the justices, and we would just say that any nominee of any President, whether they be Republican or Democrat, where a bipartisan majority stands ready to confirm them, should receive that up-or-down vote on the Senate floor. I remain hopeful the current 4-year violation of long-term Senate tradition, the imposition of this new supermajority requirement, will be laid aside in the interest of proceeding with the people's business, a job my colleagues and I were elected to faithfully execute.

For more than 200 years, it was a job that we did indeed execute. Senators from both sides exercised mutual restraint and did not abuse the privilege of debate out of respect for two coequal branches of government—the executive that has the constitutional right to choose his or her nominees and an independent judiciary. Indeed, until 4 years ago, colleagues on both sides of the aisle have consistently opposed the use of the filibuster to prevent nominees from receiving an up-or-down vote where they clearly had bipartisan majority support.

Senator KENNEDY, the distinguished senior Senator from Massachusetts, said in 1998:

Nominees deserve a vote. If our . . . colleagues don't like them, vote against them. But don't just sit on them—that is obstruction of justice.

And Senator LEAHY, the distinguished ranking member of the Judiciary Committee, who was just on the floor, said in 1998:

I have stated over and over again on the floor that I would refuse to put an anonymous hold on any judge; that I would object and fight against any filibuster on a judge, whether it is somebody I opposed or supported; that I felt the Senate should just do its duty.

I could not agree more with these comments made by Senator LEAHY and Senator KENNEDY. But today we are doing a disservice to this fine nominee in our failure to afford her that up-or-down vote that they advocated a few short years ago. The new requirement this partisan minority is now imposing, that nominees won't be confirmed without support of 60 Senators, is, by their own admission, wholly unprecedented in Senate history.

The reason for this is simple: The case for opposing this fine nominee is so weak that using a double standard and changing the rules is the only way they can defeat her nomination. What is more, they know it, too.

Before her nomination got caught up in this partisan fight, the ranking Democrat on the Judiciary Committee predicted that Justice Owen would be swiftly confirmed. On the day of the announcement of the first group of nominees, 4 years ago, including Owen, he said he was "encouraged" and that "I know them well enough that I would assume they would all go right through."

Notwithstanding the change of attitude by the partisan minority, this gridlock is not really about Priscilla Owen, certainly not about Priscilla Owen the person. Indeed, just a few weeks ago, the Democratic leader announced that Senate Democrats would give Justice Owen an up-or-down vote, albeit only if other nominees were defeated or withdrawn or simply thrown overboard.

Obviously, this debate is not about principle. It is all about politics. It is shameful. Any fair examination of Justice Owen's record demonstrates how unconvincing the critics' arguments are.

For example, Justice Owen is accused of ruling against injured workers, against those seeking relief from employment discrimination, and other sympathetic parties on some occasions. Never mind, however, that good judges such as Judge Owen do their best to follow the law regardless of which party will win and which party will lose. Never mind that many of her criticized rulings were unanimous or near unanimous decisions of a nine-member Texas Supreme Court. Never mind that many of these rulings simply followed Federal precedent authored and agreed to by appointees of Presidents Carter and Clinton or by other Federal judges unanimously confirmed by the Senate. Never mind that judges often disagree, especially when the law is ambiguous and requires careful and difficult interpretation.

The Democratic leader raised the frequent objection and that is criticized Justice Owen for attempting to interpret and enforce a popular Texas law requiring parental notification before a minor can obtain an abortion. Her opponents allege that in one parental notification case, then-Justice Alberto Gonzales accused her of judicial activism. That charge is untrue. I read myself the opinions again this weekend and the charge is simply untrue. Gonzales did not accuse Owen of judicial activism. Not once did he say Justice Owen was guilty of judicial activism. To the contrary, he never mentioned her name or her opinion in the opinion the critics cite.

Furthermore, our current Attorney General has since testified under oath that he never accused Owen of any such thing. What is more, the author of the parental notification law in question supports Justice Owen, as does the pro-choice Democratic law professor who was appointed to the Texas Supreme Court's advisory committee to implement that law. In other words, Owen simply did "what good appellate judges do every day. If this is activism, then any judicial interpretation of a statute's terms is judicial activism."

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent this letter be printed in the RECORD at the close of my remarks.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

(See exhibit 1).

Mr. CORNYN. The American people know a controversial ruling when they see one, be it the redefinition of a traditional institution such as marriage, the expulsion of the Pledge of Allegiance, and other expressions of faith from the public square, the elimination of the "three strikes and you're out" law, and other penalties for convicted criminals, or the forced removal of military recruiters from college campuses. Justice Owen's rulings fall nowhere near this standard or category. There is a whole world of difference between struggling to interpret the ambiguous expressions of a legislature and refusing to obey a legislature's directives altogether.

It is clear Justice Owen deserves the broad bipartisan and enthusiastic support she obviously enjoys across the political spectrum. It is equally clear her opposition comes only from a narrow band on the far left fringes of that political spectrum. If the Senate were merely to observe 200 years of consistent Senate and constitutional tradition dating back to our Founders, there would be no question about her ability to be confirmed. She would be sitting on the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals.

Legal scholars across the political spectrum have long concluded what we in this body know instinctively, and that is to change the rules of confirmation as a partisan minority has done badly politicizes the judiciary and hands over control of the judiciary to special interest groups. One Professor Michael Gerhardt, who advises Senate Democrats on judicial confirmation, has written that a supermajority requirement for confirming judges would be "problematic, because it creates a presumption against confirmation, shifts the balance of power to the Senate, and enhances the power of special interests."

DC Circuit Judge Harry Edwards, a respected Carter appointee, has written that the Constitution forbids the Senate from imposing a supermajority rule for confirmation. After all, otherwise, "the Senate, acting unilaterally, could thereby increase its own power at the expense of the President" and "essentially take over the appointment process from the President." Judge Edwards thus concluded that "the framers never intended for the Congress to have such unchecked authority to impose supermajority voting requirements that fundamentally change the nature of our democratic process."

Mr. President, I think I have about 5 more minutes of my remarks. I ask unanimous consent that I be given an additional 5 minutes and the Senator from Vermont be given the same.

Mr. LEAHY. I have no objection.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. CORNYN. I thank the Chair. I thank the Senator from Vermont.

Georgetown Law Professor Mark Tushnet has written that "the Democrats' filibuster is a repudiation of a settled preconstitutional understanding." He has also written, "There's a difference between the use of the filibuster to derail a nomination and the use of other Senate rules—on scheduling, on not having a floor vote without prior committee action, etc.—to do so. All those other rules can be overridden by a majority of the Senate whereas the filibuster cannot be overridden in that way. A majority of the Senate could ride herd on a rogue Judiciary Committee chair who refused to hold a hearing on some nominee; it can't do that with respect to a filibuster."

Georgetown Law Professor Susan Bloch has condemned supermajority voting requirements for confirmation, arguing that they would allow the Senate to "upset the carefully crafted rules concerning appointment of both executive officials and judges and to unilaterally limit the power the Constitution gives the President in the appointment process. This, I believe, would allow the Senate to aggrandize its own rules and would unconstitutionally distort the balance of powers established by the Constitution."

In summary, the record is clear. The Senate tradition has always been majority vote, at least up until the last 4 years. The desire by some to alter that Senate tradition has been roundly condemned by legal experts across the political spectrum. And now the 100 Members of this body have a decision to make. Do we accept this dramatic and dangerous departure from 200 years of Senate precedent or do we work to restore the tried and true Senate tradition and practice?

I know the majority leader and, indeed, the Democratic leader have been working trying to find a way. I prefer, though, a way that would allow our nominees, all nominees, whether they be Republican or Democrat, to receive an up-or-down vote where a majority of the Senate stands ready to confirm them. I believe we should choose collaboration over contention any day of the week, if possible. But bipartisanship is a two-way street. Both sides must agree to certain fundamental principles and the most fundamental principle is fairness. Fairness means the same rules apply, the same standards, whether the President is a Republican or Democrat. But bipartisanship is difficult when long-held understandings and the willingness to abide by basic agreements and principles have unraveled so badly. When fairness falters, bipartisanship, too, will fail.

So I ask my colleagues what are we to do when these basic principles, commitments, and understandings have been so badly trampled upon? What are we to do when nominees are attacked for doing their jobs, when they are attacked for following precedents adopted and agreed to by Presidents Carter and Clinton, and when they are singled out for rulings agreed to by a unanimous, or near unanimous court? What are we to do when these nominees are demonized and caricatured beyond recognition, when they are condemned as unqualified while at the same time they are deemed unanimously well qualified by organizations Democrats used to revere? What are we to do when Senate and constitutional traditions are abandoned for the first time in more than two centuries, when both sides once agreed nominees should never be blocked by filibuster and then one side denies the existence of that very agreement, when their interpretation of Senate tradition changes based on who is in the Oval Office?

It is time to fix the broken judicial confirmation process. It is time to end the blame game and fix the problem and move on. And it is time to end the wasteful and unnecessary delay in the process of selecting judges that hurts our justice system and harms all Americans.

Mr. President, I thank the Chair. I thank my colleague from Vermont and yield the floor.

SOUTHERN METHODIST UNIVERSITY,
Dallas, TX, May 3, 2005.

Re Priscilla Owen

Senator JOHN CORNYN,
Hart Senate Office Building,
Washington, DC.

DEAR SENATOR CORNYN: I write in support of the nomination of Priscilla Owen to the United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit. I write as a law professor who specializes in constitutional law. I write as a pro-choice Texan, who is a political independent and has supported many Democratic candidates. And I write as a citizen who does not want the abortion issue to so dominate the political debate that good and worthy judicial candidates are caught in its cross hairs, no matter where they stand on the issue.

Justice Owen deserves to be appointed to the Fifth Circuit. She is a very able jurist in every way that should matter. She is intelligent, measured, and approaches her work with integrity and energy. She is not a judicial activist. She does not legislate from the bench. She does not invent the law. Nothing in her opinions while on the Texas Supreme Court could possibly lead to a contrary conclusion, including her parental notification opinions. I suspect that Priscilla Owen's nomination is being blocked because she is perceived as being anti-choice on the abortion issue.

This perception stems, I believe, from a series of opinions issued by the Texas Supreme Court in the summer of 2000 interpreting the Texas statute that requires parental notification prior to a minor having an abortion. The statute also provides for what is called a "judicial bypass" to parental notification. Justice Owen wrote several concurring and dissenting opinions during this time. She has been criticized for displaying judicial activism and pursuing an anti-choice agenda in these opinions. This criticism is unfair for two reasons.

First, the Texas statute at issue in these cases contains many undefined terms. Further, the statutory text is not artfully drafted. I was a member of the Texas Supreme Court's Advisory Committee that drafted rules in order to help judges when issuing decisions under this parental notification statute. My involvement in this process made it clear to me that in drafting the parental notification statute, the Texas Legislature ducked the hard work of defining essential terms and placed on the Texas courts a real burden to explicate these terms through case law.

Moreover, the statute's legislative history is not useful because it provides help to all sides of the debate on parental notification. Several members of the Texas Legislature wanted a very strict parental notification law that would permit only infrequent judicial bypass of this notification requirement. But several members of the Texas Legislature were on the other side of the political debate. These members wanted no parental notification requirement, and if one were imposed, they wanted courts to have the power to bypass the notification requirement easily. The resulting legislation was a product of compromise with a confusing legislative history.

In her decisions in these cases, Justice Owen asserts that the Texas Legislature wanted to make a strong statement supporting parental rights. She is not wrong in making these assertions. There is legislative history to support her. Personally, I agree with the majority in these cases. But I understand Justice Owen's position and legal reasoning. It is based on sound and clear principles of statutory construction. Her decisions do not demonstrate judicial activism. She did what good appellate judges do every day. She looked at the language of the statute, the legislative history, and then decided how to interpret the statute to obtain what she believed to be the legislative intent.

If this is activism, then any judicial interpretation of a statute's terms is judicial activism. Justice Owen did not invent the legislative history she used to reach her conclusion, just as the majority did not invent their legislative history. We ask our judges to make hard decisions when we give them statutes to interpret that are not well drafted. We cannot fault any of these judges who take on this task so long as they do this work with rigor and integrity. Justice Owen did exactly this.

Second, we must be mindful that the decisions for which she is being criticized had to do with abortion law. I do not know if Justice Owen is pro-choice or not, but it does not matter to me. I am pro-choice as I stated before, but I would not want anyone placed on the bench who would look at abortion law decisions only through the lens of being pro-choice. Few categories of judicial decisions are more difficult than those dealing with abortion. A judge has to consider the fact that the fetus is a potential human, and this potential will be ended by an abortion. All judges, including those who are pro-choice, must honor the spiritual beauty that is potential human life and should grieve its loss. But a judge has other important human values to consider in abortion cases. A judge also has to consider whether a woman's independence and rights may well be unconstitutionally compromised by the arbitrary application of the law. All this is further compounded when a minor is involved who is contemplating an abortion. I want judges who will make decisions in the abortion area with a heavy heart and who, therefore, will make sure of the legal reasoning that supports such decisions.

I think the members—all the members—of the Texas Supreme Court did exactly this when they reached their decisions in the parental notification cases. I was particularly struck by the eloquence of Justice Owen when she discussed the harm that may come to a minor from having an abortion. She recognized that the abortion decision may haunt a minor for all her life, and her parents should be her primary guides in making this decision. Surely, those of us who are pro-choice have not come to a point where we would punish a judge who considers such harm as an important part of making a decision on parental notification, especially when legislative history supports the fact that members of the Texas Legislature wanted to protect the minor from this harm. As a pro-choice woman, I applaud the seriousness with which Justice Owen looked at this issue.

If I thought Justice Owen was an agenda-driven jurist I would not support her nomination. Our founders gave us a great gift in our system of checks and balances. The judicial branch is part of that system, and it is imperative that it be respected and seen as acting without bias or predilection, especially since it is not elected. Any agenda-driven jurist—no matter the issue—threatens the honor accorded the courts by the American people. This is not Priscilla Owen. So even though I suspect Justice Owen is more conservative than I am and even though I disagree with some of her rulings, this does not change the reality that she is an extremely well-qualified nominee who should be confirmed.

It would be unfair to place Priscilla Owen in the same category with other nominees who, in my opinion, are judicial activists and who I do not support. Some of these other nominees appear to want to dismantle programs and policies based on a political or economic agenda not supported by legal analysis or constitutional history. They appear to want to push their views on the country while sitting on the bench. Priscilla Owen should not be grouped with them. Justice Owen possesses exceptional qualities that have made and will make her a great judge. I strongly urge her confirmation.

Sincerely,

LINDA S. EADS,
Associate Professor of Law.

Mr. WYDEN addressed the Chair.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Vermont is recognized under unanimous consent.

Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, I understand the Senator from Oregon wishes to make a unanimous consent request.

Mr. WYDEN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to speak in morning business after the distinguished Senator from Vermont has completed his remarks.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there objection?

Mr. CORNYN. Reserving the right to object, I would ask the Senator through the Chair whether he would agree Senator LOTT be recognized to speak after the Senator from Oregon on the same basis. He also apparently wishes to come to the floor and speak.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Would the Senator so modify his request.

Mr. WYDEN. I would modify my request, Mr. President, that after the distinguished Senator from Vermont has completed his remarks, I would be next for 20 minutes, and the Senator from Mississippi, Mr. LOTT, would come after me.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered. The Senator from Vermont.

Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, could the Senate always be so agreeable in moving things along, we in the country would be better off.

I listened to this discussion of nuclear option and judges and all that. It may seem arcane. There is nothing in the Constitution that says 50 votes or 40 votes or 60 votes or 80 votes. It is up to the rules of the Senate. It is when the rules are either reviewed or ignored that you have a problem. As I mentioned earlier today, when President Clinton was in office, the Republicans used the rules to say if one Republican, one objected, then you would not have a vote on the nominee. 61 of President Clinton's nominees for judgeships were not allowed to move because one Republican objected. Actually a couple hundred of his executive nominations, by the same token, because one Republican objected. So there they are requiring 100 votes to confirm somebody.

So you wonder when you are talking about a tiny handful of judges—and no President in history, from George Washington on, has ever gotten all judges through the Senate—why there is so much attention on this. I was thinking about it and I thought, you know, this all began about 4 years ago when we started talking about this. Four years ago things were a lot different in this country. Let's look at the differences.

In the last 4 years—and maybe this is why they would rather talk about judges instead of talking about what's going on—in the last 4 years under President Bush, unemployment has gone up 26 percent. During this same time, this last 4 years, the price of gas has gone up 57 percent. You can hold hands with all the Saudi princes you want, but it has still gone up. The number of uninsured in this country has gone up 10 percent. The budget deficit has gone up $50 billion. Actually, President Bush inherited the largest budget surplus of any President in the history of the United States. President Clinton had followed the Reagan and Bush administrations, which tripled the national debt and created huge deficits. President Clinton's administration not only balanced the budget, but created a surplus, and started paying down the debt. President Bush inherited the largest surplus of any President in our whole history and he has turned it into the largest deficit.

Then there is the trade deficit. That has gone up 69 percent. I mention these things that have gone up under the Bush Presidency. Obviously they don't want to talk about it. It means the Saudis and the Chinese, Japanese, Koreans, and others who are holding our debt thus influence our foreign policy.

We will not just be holding hands with Saudi princes, we will probably be holding hands with everybody from all these other countries, too, so they do not call our IOUs.

During those 4 years, unemployment has gone up by 26 percent, the price of gas has gone up by 57 percent, the number of uninsured Americans has gone up by 10 percent, the budget deficit has increased by $350 billion, and the trade deficit has gone up by 69 percent. But there is one indicator that has shown improvement: the number of judicial vacancies has dropped 48 percent.

So why are they complaining they are not getting enough judges? During those 4 years of President Bush's Presidency, the number of judicial vacancies has gone way down because we confirmed so many judges. In fact, 4 years ago, the vacancy rate in our Federal courts was nearly 10 percent, and now it is around 5 percent. Mr. President, 95 percent of the Federal judiciary is filled. Most people would consider 95 percent a pretty good record.

I remember talking with President Bush 4 years ago. I said: You might get 90, 95 percent of your judges through. He thought that was pretty good. He wished he had a record like that when he owned a baseball team.

Four years ago today, I went to the White House in a gesture of cooperation to hear the President announce his first judicial nominations. Some criticized me for going, but I said I wanted to help. The President, during his campaign, said he wanted to be a uniter, not a divider, and now was the time to do so, and I said I would help.

Unfortunately, that is not what President Bush had in mind. The nominations he announced that spring day 4 years ago were largely controversial, confrontational choices. Typically, when a President—Republican or Democrat—selects nominations to the circuit courts, he consults at length with home State Senators and the Senate leadership to be sure those selected will be considered favorably by the Senate. This President has not done that. In fact, President Clinton, his predecessor, and his White House Counsel and staff were in regular contact with the Republican leadership. Senator HATCH talked in his book about how much President Clinton consulted with the Republicans.

Instead, here my Republican colleagues say: No, we do not want the checks and balances of the Senate; we do not want an independent, non-partisan judiciary; we are going to put a Republican stamp on the judiciary.

Remember, the Federal judiciary should not be Democratic or Republican, it should be independent and free of political pressure.

They say: No, we cannot do that. We will break all the rules possible and make sure that we get rid of checks and balances.

This effort by the Republicans also, of course, belies what has happened. Back 4 years ago in June, with the change in the Senate, I became chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee. Even though it was already June and the Republicans had been in charge since the beginning of the year, there had not been a single judicial nomination hearing held on President Bush's nominations. I inherited what seemed to be an impossibly large number of 110 vacancies. There were so many because, of course, there had been pocket filibusters of over 60 of President Clinton's nominations. But we worked hard, and in 17 months we were able to whittle that number down to 60 vacancies.

Incidentally, it is interesting that with the Republican majority, look how the vacancies skyrocketed in the judiciary. The Democrats came in and they shot down. Now, of course, they are heading back up under Republican leadership.

It takes a lot of work to lower the number of vacancies. I held hearings during recess periods and confirmed President Bush's nominees. Senator Daschle and I received a deadly anthrax attack, so deadly that people who touched the outside of the envelopes of letters addressed to us that we were supposed to open were killed. They were murdered, and we still held the hearings. We held hearings in the aftermath of the 9/11 attacks when the airlines were shut down. We had a nominee volunteer to drive from Mississippi to Washington to be included in a hearing I was holding. We had the anthrax attacks, the PATRIOT Act, and all the rest, and we kept on going, and in 17 months we confirmed 100 of President Bush's judges.

The Republicans took nearly twice as long when they were in control to confirm the same number of judges for President Bush. They say we are the ones holding things up? They ought to be ashamed of themselves. Maybe they ought to work as hard as we did to get them through. In fact, when Congress adjourned last December, there were only 27 vacancies out of 875 Federal judgeships, the lowest number in over a generation. In President Bush's first term, 204 judges were confirmed—more than confirmed in either of President Clinton's two terms, more than during the term of the President's father, more than in Ronald Reagan's first term when he had a Republican Senate. We confirmed a couple more nominees before we broke a week ago, and the distinguished Democratic leader has suggested we bring up another one of President Bush's nominees for a vote.

We have seen the talking points that have come out from the Republicans. They say we are holding up Thomas Griffith. The record is clear that I have—we have objected to him. After all, he did practice law illegally for 4 years in one jurisdiction and practiced law illegally in another jurisdiction, and the President wants to put him on the second highest court in the land. We said that should be an impediment. In any other administration, it would be an impediment. They want to go forward with him. The record is equally clear that I do not intend to support a filibuster of this nomination.

The distinguished Democratic leader said: Fine, bring him up. We will give you a time agreement and vote on it. He will either be confirmed or will not be confirmed. If he is confirmed, it shows what the standards are of this administration.

We can look at all the people turned down on the other side, but we never heard this complaint. We are prepared to move forward on Mr. Griffith's nomination despite the fact that the Republicans pocket filibustered 61 of President Clinton's nominees, even though those nominees included the current dean of Harvard Law School, a former attorney general from Iowa, a former clerk to Chief Justice Rehnquist, women, men, Hispanics, African Americans, and many others.

We heard talks about Judge Owen this afternoon. One of her opinions was criticized by Alberto Gonzales when he served on the Texas Supreme Court. However, we held a hearing for her, a very fair hearing. The Senator from California, Mrs. FEINSTEIN, conducted it. It was acknowledged by both Republicans and Democrats as being totally fair. She was voted down in the committee, and for the first time in history, a nominee voted down in committee was resubmitted by the President.

This is not a time to be breaking the rules of the Senate. The rules are there because we want a check and balance. That is all we are saying. For example, a home State newspaper of one of the nominees referred to a speech she gave recently that sounded as if it came from an Islamic jihadist, a very activist judge, who believes that child labor laws, minimum wage laws, even Social Security represent something wrong in this country. I am not really sure that is the sort of person we want on the bench making decisions about child labor laws, Social Security, and minimum wage.

Let's forget this end justifies the means. Let the Senate be what it always has been: A check and balance, whether it is a Democratic President or Republican President, a real check and balance but an honest one.

Do away with anonymous holds. I said that before. Do away with the secret one-person filibuster. I know the distinguished Senator from Oregon has spoken consistently that way, I believe from the very first day he entered this great body. Do away with the anonymous holds. Do away with those things, but follow the Senate rules. Do not violate the rules. Do not let us, those who are supposed to judge the judges, break our own laws and our own rules.

As I have noted, 4 years ago today, on May 9, 2001, I went to the White House in a gesture of cooperation to hear the President announce his first judicial nominations. Some criticized me for going, but I wanted to indicate my willingness to work with the new President. After all, during the campaign he had told the American people he wanted to be a uniter, not a divider. He had lost the popular vote in a much-disputed 2000 election, and the country was deeply divided. I hoped that he would be a President who would understand the need to work across the aisle and to bring people together and to consult with both Democratic and Republican Senators. I thought that judicial nominations, particularly those to the important circuit courts where Republicans had prevented almost two dozen of President Clinton's qualified and moderate nominees from being considered, would be a good place to start.

Unfortunately, that was not what President Bush had in mind. The nominations that President Bush announced that spring day, years ago, were largely controversial, confrontational choices. Although I was then the Ranking Democratic Member of the Senate Judiciary Committee, and was soon to become the Committee's Chair, the White House had not reached out to discuss any of these controversial nominees beforehand. By and large, home-state Senators had not been consulted about the nominees, nor had any sort of bipartisan, independent group of attorneys or legal scholars. That was the President's choice and has, unfortunately, remained his way of identifying and selecting nominees to be lifetime judicial appointments to the federal bench. This White House appears to rely on a tight circle of Federalist Society members, Republican Party activists and law professors steeped in ideology. This President has nominated what may be the most ideological-driven group of nominees ever presented to the Senate at one time.

Typically, when a President selects nominations to the circuit courts, he consults at length with home-state Senators and the Senate leadership to ensure that those selected will be considered favorably by the Senate and confirmed. That has not been the true with this Administration. By way of example, I cannot recall a single occasion during which this President picked up the phone to discuss these judicial nominations during the entire four and a half years that he has been President—not at the beginning of his Administration, not during the 17 months that I chaired the Senate Judiciary Committee, and not since.

That stands in sharp contrast to traditional practice dating back to George Washington and, in particular, to the manner in which President Clinton had worked with Senator HATCH when he was the Ranking Minority Member of the Senate Judiciary Committee or its Chair. Not only were President Clinton, his White House Counsel and his staff in regular contact with Senator HATCH and his staff; with respect to the most important nominations, the President and he had direct, meaningful consultation. In his book, "Square Peg," for example, Senator HATCH wrote that he "had several opportunities to talk privately with President Clinton about a variety of issues, especially judicial nominations."

He described how, when the first Supreme Court vacancy arose during the Clinton presidency in 1993, "it was not a surprise when the President called to talk about the appointment and what he was thinking of doing." Senator HATCH went on to describe that the President was thinking of nominating someone who would require a "tough, political battle" but that he advised President Clinton to consider other candidates.

According to his book, Senator HATCH suggested then-D.C. Circuit Judge Ruth Bader Ginsburg, as well as then-First Circuit Judge Stephen Breyer. They were nominated to fill the vacancies that arose on the Supreme Court in 1993 and 1994. Both were approved by the Senate with strong, bipartisan support. Justice Ginsburg was confirmed by a vote on 96-3. Justice Breyer was confirmed by a vote of 87-9.

That sort of consultation did not occur before this President's initial nominations were made 4 years ago, and I am sorry it did not.

Sadly, this lack of consultation was not just the situation for these first nominations, it has continued to this day. Senate Democrats have not stopped trying to offer the advice called for by the Constitution and have never stopped being available to help in the selection process. Just a few weeks ago, on April 11, the Democratic Leader and I wrote to the President offering to help with the more than two dozen current judicial vacancies for which the President has not yet sent a nomination to the Senate. We urged him to disavow the "nuclear option" in favor of working with us to identify consensus judicial candidates who could be confirmed easily and who would be fair, impartial judges that would preserve the independence of the judiciary. The number of current judicial vacancies without a nominee has since risen to 29. It is now May, we are more than a third of the way through the year, and the President has still sent only one new judicial nomination to the Senate all year. Meanwhile almost a month has passed and Senator REID and I have yet to receive the courtesy of a reply to our offer to help and to work together. Unilateralism has become their standard operating practice, and abuse of power has become increasingly common. Indeed, to this day I have yet to meet, talk to or even receive a telephone call from the President's new White House Counsel. The go-it-alone conduct of this Administration makes clear that this President has little use of the Senate's role in the constitutional process of selecting federal judges.

Under pressure from the White House, over the last 2 years, the former Republican chairman of the Judiciary Committee led Senate Republicans in breaking with longstanding precedent and Senate tradition. With the Senate and the White House under control of the same political party we have witnessed Committee rule after Committee rule broken or misinterpreted away. The Framers of the Constitution warned against the dangers of such factionalism, undermining the structural separation of powers. Republicans in the Senate have utterly failed to defend this institution's role as a check on the President in the area of nominations. It surely weakens our constitutional design of checks and balances.

As I have detailed elsewhere, the list of broken rules and precedents is long—from the way that home-state Senators were treated, to the way hearings were scheduled, to the way the Committee questionnaire was unilaterally altered, to the way the Judiciary Committee's historic protection of the minority by Committee Rule IV was repeatedly violated. In the last Congress, the Republican majority of the Judiciary Committee destroyed virtually every custom and courtesy that had been used throughout Senate history to help create and enforce cooperation and civility in the confirmation process.

We suffered through 3 years during which Republican staff stole Democratic files off the Judiciary computers during what has been a "by any means necessary" approach. Their approach to our rules and precedents follows their own partisan version of the Golden Rule, which is that "he with the gold, rules." That has not been helpful to the process, the Senate or the country. It is as if those currently in power believe that that they are above our constitutional checks and balances and that they can reinterpret any treaty, law, rule, custom or practice they do not like or they find inconvenient.

Some of these interpretations are so contrary to well-established understandings that it is like we have fallen down the rabbit hole in "Alice in Wonderland." I am reminded that the imperious Queen of Hearts rebuked Alice for having insufficient imagination to believe contradictory things, saying that some days she had believed six impossible things before breakfast. I have seen things I thought impossible on the Judiciary Committee during the last few years, things impossible to square with the past practices of Committee and the history of the Senate. Our Committee is entrusted by the Senate to help determine whether judicial nominees will follow the law. It is unfortunate that the Committee that judges the judges has not followed its own rules but has bent or broken them to achieve a predetermined result.

Under our Constitution, the Senate has an important role in the selection of our judiciary. The brilliant design of our Founders established that the first two branches of government would work together to equip the third branch to serve as an independent arbiter of justice. As columnist George Will once wrote:

A proper constitution distributes power among legislative, executive and judicial institutions so that the will of the majority can be measured, expressed in policy and, for the protection of minorities, somewhat limited.

The structure of our Constitution and our own Senate rules of self-governance are designed to protect minority rights and to encourage consensus. Despite the razor-thin margin of recent elections, the majority party is not acting in a measured way but in complete disregard for the traditions of bipartisanship that are the hallmark of the Senate. It has acted to ignore precedents and reinterpret longstanding rules to its advantage. This practice of might makes right is wrong.

Now the White House's hand-picked majority leader seems intent on removing the one Senate protection left for the minority, the protection of debate in accordance with the longstanding tradition of the Senate and its Standing Rules. In order to remove the last remaining vestige of protection for the minority, the Republican majority is poised to break the Senate Rules and end the filibuster with the votes of the barest of majorities. They seem intent on doing this to force through the Senate this President's most controversial and divisive judicial nominees.

As the Reverend Martin Luther King wrote in his famous Letter from a Birmingham Jail: "Let us consider a more concrete example of just and unjust laws. An unjust law is a code that a numerical or power majority group compels a minority group to obey but does not make binding on itself. This is difference made legal. By the same token, a just law is a code that a majority compels a minority to follow and that it is willing to follow itself. This is sameness made legal." Fair process is a fundamental component of the American system of law. If we cannot have a fair process in these halls or in our courts, how will the resulting decisions be viewed? If the rule of law is to mean anything it must mean that it applies to all equally.

In the last Congress, I am sorry to report that the rule of law was broken, spindled and mutilated to serve the interests of President George W. Bush and his party. No man and no party should be above the law. That has been one of the strengths of our democracy. Our country was born in reaction to the autocracy and corruption of King George, and we must not forget our roots as a nation of both law and liberty. The best guarantee of liberty is the rule of law, meaning that the decisions of government are not arbitrary and that rules are not discretionary or enforced to help one side and then ignored to aid another. James Madison, one of the Framers of our Constitution, warned in Federalist Number 47 of the very danger that is threatening our great nation, a threat to our freedoms from within:

[The] accumulation of all powers legislative, executive and judiciary in the same hands . . . may justly be pronounced the very definition of tyranny.

Our freedoms as Americans are the fruit of too much sacrifice to have the rules broken in the United States Senate by a party colluding with the White House to try to appoint loyalists to courts who have been chosen with the hope that they will re-interpret precedents and overturn the very laws that have protected our most fundamental rights as Americans. The American people deserve better than we have seen with the destruction of rule after rule by a majority willing to sacrifice the role of the Senate as a check and balance in order to aid a President determined to pack the federal courts.

How does the record of judicial confirmations for President George W. Bush compare to administrations before his? Very well. In President Bush's first term, the 204 judges confirmed were more than were confirmed in either of President Clinton two terms, more than during the term of this President's father, and more than in Ronald Reagan's first term when he was being assisted by a Republican majority in the Senate. With the four judges confirmed so far this year, the total number of confirmations of this President's judicial nominees has risen to 208. It would rise further and faster yet, if the White House would only work with us to identify qualified, consensus nominees for the 29 current vacancies without a nominee. The President has sent only one new nominee to the Senate so far this year, and it is already May. If the President wanted to pick judges instead of fights, he could work with us rather than divide us.

And what happened to those 11 nominees the President started us off with 4 years ago? Considering the strong ideological bent of this group, the President has been quite successful. One has been withdrawn from consideration and 8 of the remaining 10 have been confirmed, 80 percent. The confirmations of Clinton circuit court nominees during his second term, from 1997–2000, while a Republican Senate majority was in control, were nowhere near as successful. Over those 4 years 35 of 51 Circuit Court nominees were confirmed, 69 percent.

If we looked at 1999 and 2000, the 106th Congress, the numbers are even worse. Fewer than half of the President's circuit court nominees were confirmed, 15 of 34. Outstanding and qualified nominees were never allowed a hearing, a committee vote or Senate consideration of any kind. These nominees include the current dean of the Harvard Law School, a former attorney general from Iowa, a former clerk to Chief Justice Rehnquist and many others—women, men, Hispanics, African Americans, a wide variety of qualified nominees.

So on this anniversary, let us understand that 8 of the 10 nominees we will hear complaints about have been confirmed.

With respect to the remaining two, I should note that in the years that Republicans held the Senate majority and Senator HATCH was the committee chair, Judge Terry Boyle was one of the very few nominees he chose not to consider. Thus, Judge Boyle is still before the Judiciary Committee. Senator SPECTER held a hearing on that controversial nomination and the committee is still receiving copies of Judge Boyle's unpublished opinions for its review.

The remaining nominee is one whose opinions were criticized by Alberto Gonzales when he served on the Texas Supreme Court with her. Indeed, many of her positions were too conservative and activist for her conservative Republican colleagues on the Texas Supreme Court. When I chaired the committee in 2002, in another gesture of good will, I proceeded on a number of controversial nominations in spite of the recent mistreatment of President Clinton's nominees. One of those hearings was for Priscilla Owen.

I was not required to schedule that hearing. I could have followed the example of my immediate predecessor and denied her consideration before the committee. It would have been a much easier path than the alternative I chose. Instead, I proceeded. Senator FEINSTEIN conducted the hearing in a fair manner. After the hearing, I then did something else that my predecessor as Chair so often did not: I proceeded to have the committee consider the nomination on its merits even though I knew I would not support it. The committee debated the nomination fairly and openly. Objections to her confirmation, based on her record as a Justice on the Texas Supreme Court, were aired and honestly debated. A vote was taken and instead of hiding behind anonymous holds or hidden blue slips, Senators put themselves on the record. The result was that the Owen nomination was rejected by a majority of the committee and not recommended to the Senate.

Since that time much of what has happened has been unprecedented. Despite the rejection of the nomination by the committee, the President resubmitted the nomination the next year. I do not believe that had ever been done before in our history. Then, on a party-line vote, Republicans forced the nomination to the floor. It was debated extensively and the Senate withheld its consent. After a series of cloture votes, cloture was not agreed upon in accordance with the rules of the Senate. Nonetheless, the President took further unprecedented action in, again, resubmitting the nomination to the Senate. That nomination is now pending, again, on the Senate Executive Calendar.

By any measure the President's first nominees were treated fairly. Judge Parker, Judge Shedd, Judge Clement, Judge Cook, Judge Sutton, Judge McConnell, Judge Gregory and Judge Roberts are each serving lifetime appointments on important circuit courts. The first slate of nominees has now all been accorded hearings. All but Judge Boyle have been considered by the Judiciary Committee. All but one of those has been confirmed.

This is no basis on which to break the rules of the Senate. This is not justification to end the Senate's role as a check and balance on the Executive. This is not reason for the majority to take the drastic and irreversible step of ending protection of the minority through the tradition of extended debate in the Senate.

The White House and the Senate Republican leadership's campaign for "nuclear option" seeks to end the role of the Senate serving as a check on the Executive. But that is precisely what the Constitution intends the Senate to provide. Supporters of an all-powerful Executive have gone so far as to seek to inject an unconstitutional religious test into the debate and to characterize those who oppose the most extreme of the President's nominees as "against people of faith" and to call for mass impeachments of judges and other measures to intimidate the judiciary. Our independent judiciary is an essential check on the political branches.

Pat Robertson says that he believes that federal judges are "a more serious threat to America than Al Qaeda and the September 11 terrorists" and "more serious than a few bearded terrorists who fly into buildings" and "the worst threat America has faced in 400 years—worse than Nazi Germany, Japan and the Civil War." This is the sort of incendiary rhetoric that is paving the way to the "nuclear option." It is wrong, it is destructive and it is short-sighted.

Chief Justice Rehnquist is right to refer to the federal judiciary as the crown jewel of our system of government. It is an essential check and balance, a critical source of protection of the rights of all Americans, including our religious freedoms. In "A Man For All Seasons" Sir Thomas More speaks about the rule of law and the need for its protections. When his family confronts him and demands that he break the law to get at the Devil, he replies:

What would you do? Cut a great road through the law to get after the Devil? . . . And when the last law was down, and the Devil turned 'round on you, where would you hide, Roper, the laws all being flat?

This country is planted thick with laws, from coast to coast, Man's laws, not God's! And if you cut them down . . . do you really think you could stand upright in the winds that would blow then?

Yes, I'd give the Devil benefit of law, for my own safety's sake!

Our Federal judges are not the Devil and are not in the service of the Devil. Democratic Senators are not the Devil and are seeking to uphold the Senate as a check on the most extreme actions of the Executive. I pray that Republican Senators will think about that and reflect on the protections that our constitutional checks and balances provide. I trust that they will honor the protections of the minority that make this institution what it is. I hope that they will show the courage to protect the Senate and the minority that the senior Senator from Pennsylvania spoke about in his important statement a few weeks ago.

Mr. President, I yield the floor.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Oregon.

Mr. WYDEN. Mr. President, as the Senate resumes debating the nuclear option for resolving the debate about judges, I would like to ask that the Senate pursue a conventional option, the disappearing art of bipartisanship. Rather than calling for breaking out the nuclear weapons, I believe the Senate should call for breaking out some bipartisanship, and I want to give an example this afternoon of what the possibilities could be for real bipartisanship in this area of judicial nominations.

When President Clinton was elected, even though I was a Member of the House, I was the senior Democrat in my State. So I was faced with the challenge then as a Member of the other body of working with two Senators with close to 60 years of experience in the Senate—Mark Hatfield and Bob Packwood. Both of them were extremely gracious in their efforts to work with me.

I created a formal judicial selection committee. I gave Senators Hatfield and Packwood representation on that committee. We worked together in a bipartisan way and my first selection was confirmed without controversy.

I continued that bipartisan selection committee when I was elected to serve in the Senate. Three of my recommendations are now serving on the Federal bench thanks, in great measure, to the bipartisan cooperation of my friend and colleague Senator GORDON SMITH.

After President Bush was elected in 2000, Senator SMITH retained a similar bipartisan judicial selection process, and I was pleased to be able to assist him and the Bush administration in moving their nominee through the process.

Now our bipartisanship has been put to the test. In fact, twice, both with respect to myself and with respect to Senator SMITH, we had nominees who proved to be controversial to some Senators. In each case, the Senator in the minority party upheld his commitments and shepherded these individuals through the Senate. Doing tough bipartisan work at the front end of the judicial selection process, neither Senator SMITH nor I were pulled into a partisan squabble later on as the process went forward.

This is precisely the sort of bipartisan cooperation that is now missing between the White House and the Senate, and what is needed is more bipartisan conventional options for resolving this judicial debate and fewer nuclear threats.

It seems to me, going nuclear will change the Senate in a very dramatic way. I think it will make it harder, for example, to have breakthroughs in health care such as Senator HATCH helped me achieve when we passed the Health Care That Works for All Americans law. I think it is going to make it harder to have a bipartisan breakthrough to producing a new energy policy. If ever there was a red, white and blue issue for our country, it is getting a new bipartisan energy policy that would shake us free of our dependence on foreign oil.

As I held open community meetings last week at home in Pendleton, Irrigon, Monroe, Fossil, Tillamook, and throughout my home State, there were no rallies and citizens calling for the use of a nuclear option. There were an awful lot of people asking: What are you going to do about health care costs that are going through the stratosphere? And I talked to them about the efforts that I and Senator HATCH have put in place.

They wanted to know about what is going to be done to deal with crumbling roads. I see our friend from Oklahoma who would like to pull together a bipartisan bill to deal with our country's infrastructure.

So folks were talking about health care, creating jobs and a fresh energy policy. They know the only way the Senate is going to achieve any of that is through bipartisanship.

I also see the distinguished chairman of the Judiciary Committee, my friend Senator SPECTER. Today the Senate has a choice. Tomorrow or the next day there may not be a choice. I hope my colleagues will choose the conventional option we have been using in Oregon that Senator Hatfield and Senator Packwood assisted me with and that Senator GORDON SMITH has assisted me with. I hope we will choose what I call the Oregon conventional option and seek a renewed bipartisan commitment to resolving this matter.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Under the previous order, the Senator from Mississippi is to be recognized.

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, parliamentary inquiry.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator will state his inquiry.

Mr. LOTT. I have been in the cloakroom waiting for the opportunity to speak on the highway bill and to speak on behalf of the commerce safety portion of that highway bill. Are we now going to turn to the highway legislation?

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. We are on the highway legislation. We were under a unanimous consent request, with the Senator recognized to speak next.

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, I am pleased this afternoon to talk about title VII of this very important Surface Transportation Improvement Act of 2005. I remind my colleagues that the highway and transportation legislation, TEA-21, that we passed back in 1998, effectively expired September of 2003—not 2004 but 2003. We are now on the sixth extension of this very important legislation. This week we need to complete action on this very important bill.

It is about building decent highways and bridges and transit authorities, but it is about more than that. If we do not have decent infrastructure, if we do not have decent highways and bridges, if we do not have transit capability, if we do not have border roads, we are not going to have economic development. Most importantly, and that is why I am here as the chairman of the Surface Transportation and Merchant Maritime Subcommittee, safety provisions are not improved and extended. We should care an awful lot about this.

The safety portion of the legislation was reported out of the Commerce Committee, with the support of Chairman TED STEVENS and the ranking Democrat, who is referred to in our committee as cochairman, Senator INOUE. It is bipartisan, and I believe it is very strong legislation.

I care about the safety portion of it, and maybe I care about the safety provisions more than some people because I have had a family tragedy myself that has affected my thinking on this. My father was killed in an automobile accident, without a seatbelt, involving alcohol, on a narrow, two-lane, hilly road. This section of this legislation would affect all of that. It would give additional incentives for States to do more to stop driving while under the influence of alcohol. It would give incentives for people to use seatbelts. It would improve our roads and bridges and widen our roads. So this is personal with me, and I care an awful lot about it.

Before I get to that section of the legislation, I want to talk about the broader perspective. When we look at history and at infrastructure and the ancient Roman Empire, many would say it was their advanced infrastructure and efficient highways that allowed them to build the empire that they had. That highway system was critical to the expansion and protection of their empire. It allowed rapid troop movement. It facilitated trade. It enabled ease of movement for diplomats and couriers. It provided rapid expansion of the Roman sphere of influence. It afforded military protection from invaders and facilitated communication between distant parts of the empire.

We do not want to replicate everything we saw in the Roman Empire, but it also is interesting to note that that empire eventually went away, and some people say it was partially attributable to the fact that they quit building the infrastructure; they let the country start decaying and the infrastructure go into disrepair. I think that is what we are beginning to experience in America.

One of the reasons why we have been able to continue to grow, do well, and move around this country is because of our infrastructure: highways, bridges, railroads and ports and harbors. The whole package is critical. It is what enables America to have our great system. Whether people are from Maine, Mississippi, California, Virginia, Florida or Washington, we have access to virtually all the same products, and it is because of our infrastructure.

On September 11 and in the days immediately following, we saw that our highways were absolutely critical to movement of goods and our people and that we need to have a balanced and complete infrastructure package. So it is time that we act. Our interstate system in America is 50 years old. States have been doing their part, but a lot of the States are struggling with their budgets and a lot of the highway departments have been living on these extensions. So we have lost an opportunity. We have lost ground.

Thirty-two percent of our major roads are in poor or mediocre condition, almost a third. Almost 30 percent of our Nation's bridges are structurally deficient and obsolete. Quite frankly, I am afraid where we are headed. If we do not do something about this, there will be a loss of the jobs that would have been generated, and it would contribute to the slowing down of our economy.

TEA-21 did an awful lot for our country, but it is time that we move to the next step. The U.S. Department of Transportation has said that for every $1 billion in Federal transportation infrastructure investment, 47,500 jobs would be created. So just think about that when looking at what is involved in this bill. We are talking about many thousands of jobs being created. We need to have this 5-year extension. In the general sense, I urge my colleagues to work together in a bipartisan way and work with the administration to get this legislation completed before this next extension expires.

The portion of the bill that I am directly responsible for is from the Commerce Committee, and it is the safety provisions that would be in the reauthorization. I will describe what is in this Safety Improvement Act of 2005. It is a comprehensive reauthorization of many of the Department of Transportation safety programs that we passed in 1998. It includes trucking and bus safety, highway and vehicle safety and hazardous material safety. The bill also includes provisions to protect consumers from fraud in the moving industry and to reauthorize the boat safety and sport fishing programs. It is designed to improve the safety of all of our constituents and its enactment will save lives and reduce injuries.

Just last month, the Department of Transportation released preliminary traffic fatality data for 2004. The good news is the fatality rate on our highways is down slightly, but that data still shows there is much to be done. The programs authorized in this bill are authorized to do that.

Through the leadership of Chairman STEVENS, we have met with all of the interested parties in business, labor, safety advocates, as well as State representatives. We made sure everybody had some input in the drafting of this legislation.

We still have to make note of the almost 18,000, or 56 percent, of the people who died last year in highway accidents were not wearing a seatbelt. The quickest and most effective way of increasing safety is to get people to wear their seatbelts. So we have included a program to give States incentive grants to pass primary seatbelt enforcement laws. Some people would like to turn this around and say if States do not pass the seatbelt acts, we are going to take money away from them. That sort of approach has been tried in the past. It did not work, and it will not work now.

I believe in States such as mine, with an incentive to pass these primary seatbelt laws, there is a good chance we would comply. But if we are told we are going to be punished if we do not, the odds are we will not. So we have drafted this in a way that I believe every State will strive to have significant increases in their safety numbers and a decline in the fatalities on their highways. So we will be supporting this provision in our part of the highway bill.

The data also shows that alcohol is a factor in almost 40 percent of all crashes. Funds are included for States to enforce drunk driving laws and include incentives to toughen their laws. These safety programs should have been authorized almost 2 years ago, but due to disputes we have not been able to improve our safety provisions, improve our safety incentives, and therefore some of the culpability for the amount and severity of accidents and the deaths should be placed at our doorsteps. We need to work with the States to ensure these programs make sense and they are carried out effectively. We should have funding levels that reflect the commitment that we are making to highways and to safety on our highways.

I hope the Senate will pass this legislation this week and that Congress will pass the final conference report this month so the States do not miss the summer's construction season.

I again thank my colleagues on both sides of the aisle for working with us to develop the safety provisions that will be included in the substitute package I believe the chairman will offer.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Oklahoma.

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, we are overdue getting on the highway bill. We are preparing right now to offer a substitute amendment. We are prepared to do that, but Senator SPECTER had said he wanted to speak for a period of time as in morning business. He has been planning to do that, and I will yield 15 minutes to him for that purpose.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. BOND. Mr. President, will the chairman yield? Mr. Chairman, we are ready. We are open to do business. There have been a great many discussions about the highway title. We have people ready to take those amendments who are ready to discuss those with our colleagues on the other side of the aisle to see which ones we can accept. Is it my understanding that we only have 3½ days to complete work on this very complex bill that covers not only the EPW section but commerce, finance, and the other sections? Is that correct?

Mr. INHOFE. That is my understanding. You remained here with me all last week inviting Members to bring their amendments down. We said we would be getting close. Who knows, we may even get a cloture vote, and then at the last minute hysteria will set in. Now is the time to bring them down and consider them.

Let me comment on the great work the chairman of the transportation subcommittee, Senator BOND, has done. We need to get to it now. This is probably very likely the most important single bill of this session.

Mr. BOND. I thank the chairman. I hope we can get on with it while our colleague is speaking. I hope other Members and staff will come to the floor and share their amendments and begin the discussion that is going to have to move very quickly if we are to finish this bill this week and stay on schedule to try to avoid another extension.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Under the previous order, the Senator from Pennsylvania is recognized for 15 minutes.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, I thank the Chair for the recognition, but 15 minutes—if I could have the attention of the chairman of the committee, my colleague, Senator INHOFE? Fifteen minutes is insufficient. I had been seeking time since last week and had been assured by the floor staff that I could have 45 minutes starting at 3:10.

I understand the importance of the highway bill. I am here to talk about the constitutional or nuclear option in my capacity as chairman of the Judiciary Committee. I know the highway bill is important, and I have been pressing to bring it up, but the matter I wanted to speak on is perhaps of greater importance.

I had asked for 45 minutes and thought I might do it in 25, but it was reduced in a negotiating session with Senator INHOFE to 15, and I cannot do it in 15. So I will be back another time.

I yield the floor.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Oklahoma.

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, in a few minutes it is our intention to bring up the substitute amendment, to have the pending amendment withdrawn and bring up the substitute amendment. We are not quite ready for that. We are waiting for a few things to be done in a few minutes. I think it will be worked out, but the managers' amendment is going to do a lot of things to offset some of the problems people had with the bill. When that time comes, we want a chance to go over it in detail and make this a reality.

The amendment is going to bring the total size of the bill up to $251 billion. This includes $199 billion for highways, $5.8 billion for highway safety, and $46.6 billion for mass transit. This amendment would add $6.8 billion in additional receipts to the highway account of the highway trust fund, all of which are offset in the amendment—also, thanks to the good work of Senator GRASSLEY and Senator BAUCUS of the Finance Committee. They have made a yeoman effort and have been able to have us increase this highway funding and have it paid for.

Highway funding would increase by $8.9 billion over the EPW-reported bill. That is the bill that came out of our committee. It includes a 5.1-percent increase in both apportioned and allocated programs. It also increases the minimum rate of return to donor States to 91 percent immediately. Right now, as you know, it is 90.5 percent. It would raise it to 91 percent in 2006 through 2008. This increases the growth ceilings so more States get to 92 percent more quickly.

In other words, we are to go to 91 percent immediately, and in 2006, and then eventually all States will be at 92 percent in this period of time.

The donee States, the ones that are actually getting back an amount that is in excess of the amount that is paid in, they would have a guaranteed minimum growth rate being increased from 10 percent to 15 percent every year. The average growth rate increases from just under 25 percent to almost 31 percent.

The amendment also includes firewalls to ensure the highway trust fund dollars are spent on this Nation's transportation needs. There has been a problem over a long period of time. People have been very offended by the fact that these trust funds have been raided and somehow these moneys are diverted to other causes. Senator BOND and I, and I think the vast majority, and certainly 76 percent of this Senate, agree that we should have firewalls; we should protect that money and make sure it goes to highway spending.

Finally, the mass transit funding increased by $2.3 billion to $46.6 billion. This represents a dramatic increase in the transit share of the bill from 18.18 percent under TEA-21—that is what it was when we passed it 7 years ago—to 18.48 percent. The safety programs have increased, which Senator LOTT has talked about in the purview of his committee. They have increased their funding over levels in S. 1072, last year's bill, which was funded at $318 billion.

Last year, during consideration of the $318 billion Transportation bill, the Senate voted 76 to 21 in favor of funding the highway bill at $255 billion, in mass transit at $56 billion. This vote should be even more of a resounding victory for adequate funding levels for transportation, especially considering this bill is funded at a lower level.

I remind my colleagues of the vote on the Talent amendment to this budget resolution which received over 80 votes from Senators who voted to support it.

This amendment gave flexibility to increase the funding for the bill as long as it was offset, which is exactly what Senators GRASSLEY and BAUCUS have done in their portion of this amendment.

This is the amendment we do want to bring up. We are not quite ready to seek unanimous consent to bring it up.

I ask Senator BOND, the subcommittee chairman, if he seeks recognition now. Let me have him recognized. If he wants to yield to Senator INOUE, he can do that.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Missouri.

Mr. BOND. Mr. President, I was going to do what the chairman of the full committee said, but I see our friend from Hawaii is here. We have already had a discussion of the commerce title. I am happy to defer to my colleague from Hawaii.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Hawaii.

Mr. INOUE. Mr. President, let me begin by thanking Surface Transportation and Merchant Marine Subcommittee Chairman TRENT LOTT and Commerce Committee Chairman TED STEVENS for their efforts to develop a consensus, bipartisan bill to reauthorize highway safety and boating safety programs under the Commerce Committee's jurisdiction.

Together, with the help of other members of our committee, including Senators MARK PRYOR, JAY ROCKEFELLER, CONRAD BURNS, BYRON DORGAN, FRANK LAUTENBERG, and BARBARA BOXER, we have crafted legislation that advances the safety of all motorists on our Nation's highways.

Our committee considered the Surface Transportation Safety Improvement Act of 2005 on April 14 and reported this measure without amendment.

Our national highway transportation network is a tremendous national asset and a first-class system. It allows us the freedom to travel and fosters economic growth. The benefits of mobility that our highways provide, however, come with a staggering cost of injury, property destruction, and death.

Recent safety trends indicate that the dangers of operating a vehicle on this network are still disturbingly high. According to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, highway fatalities and injuries increased from 42,643 in 2003 to 42,800 in 2004. Large truck crash fatalities increased by 3.7 percent from 4,986 in 2003 to 5,169 in 2004.

To put these numbers in context, the United States suffered more than 58,000 casualties during the entire Vietnam War. We are now losing nearly 43,000 Americans on our highways every year.

As we consider ways to improve the infrastructure and operation of our highways, we must do more to increase the safety of cars and trucks, and their drivers.

The Commerce Committee's section of H.R. 3 incorporates many of the administration's recommendations, and those of safety advocates, regarding auto and truck safety, as well as the safety of hazardous materials transportation. The bill also strengthens consumer protections for those who entrust their belongings to a moving company, and provides more robust, predictable funding for boating safety and sport fish restoration programs.

We have been at loggerheads with the administration over the funding levels needed to improve our transportation system for more than a year. I am hopeful that these disagreements can be resolved so that we may finalize this important safety bill this session. I support more resources for all of our surface transportation programs and believe that we should seek funding closer to the levels that a majority of this chamber supported last year.

If we do provide additional funding, a pro-rata share should be allocated to our Nation's transportation safety programs.

The Commerce Committee's titles of the highway bill have received broad support by incorporating many initiatives proposed by the administration, industry, and safety advocates. However, we are always searching for ways to improve the bill and to reduce the risk of death and injuries on our Nation's highways.

I encourage those who might have amendments to offer to the Commerce Committee's titles to come forward so that we may work to incorporate these requests, to the extent possible.

I urge my fellow Senators to support the significant safety provisions contained within our section. The safety of the traveling public depends on it.

Mr. President, I request unanimous consent to have printed in the RECORD a document which summarizes each of the bill's key provisions.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

SUMMARY OF COMMERCE COMMITTEE TITLES

TITLE I—MOTOR CARRIER SAFETY

Title I of our bill focuses on truck and bus safety. The Federal Motor Carrier Safety Administration (FMCSA) is the federal agency responsible for truck safety through strong enforcement of safety regulations, targeting high-risk motor carriers and commercial motor vehicle drivers. While much progress has been made in motor carrier safety, accidents involving large trucks remain a significant safety and economic concern. To improve truck safety, our bill:

Reauthorizes the Motor Carrier Safety Assistance Program (MCSAP) for the years 2006 through 2009 at an average annual funding level of $200 million, more than double the Transportation Equity Act (TEA 21) level, and consistent with the Administration's proposal. Grants from this program are distributed via formula to states to enforce motor carrier safety rules and regulations.

Provides $20 million to modernize the Commercial Driver's License Information System (CDLIS). This system is the primary method for tracking the safety and qualification of truck and bus drivers. The funding will be used to modernize an outdated computer system and will help efforts to prevent truckers from holding multiple driver's licenses.

Updates the medical program for commercial drivers in the wake of several high-profile truck accidents that raised concerns about the current process. The bill establishes a Medical Review Board to recommend standards for the physical examinations of commercial drivers and a registry for qualified medical examiners. Medical examiners who perform the exams are required to receive training to be listed on the registry.

Replaces the current Single State Registration System (SSRS) with a new system that requires truckers to register in only one state, while preserving state revenues collected through the current system.

Improves the maintenance and safety of intermodal chassis. For many years, there has been a dispute about who should be responsible for the safety of truck trailers, known as intermodal chassis, that are owned by railroad and steamship companies, but are hauled by truckers. The bill contains provisions, agreed to by the trucking, railroad, and steamship companies, that delineates responsibility for safety among the various parties.

Requires the FMCSA to provide outreach and training to ensure that states are properly enforcing operating authority requirements for foreign commercial vehicles. It also requires a study of whether current or future Canadian and Mexican truck fleets that operate or are expected to operate in the United States meet U.S. truck safety standards.

TITLE II—HIGHWAY AND VEHICULAR SAFETY

This title reauthorizes highway safety programs designed to reduce deaths and injuries resulting from motor vehicle crashes. These programs are administered by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA), which was established by the Highway Safety Act of 1970. To improve highway safety, our bill:

Provides $700 million a year in grants to states to increase seat belt use and reduce drunk driving. Grants are awarded to states that enact primary seat belt laws and enact specific strategies to combat drunk driving.

Provides $24 million a year for national advertising campaigns to increase seat belt use known as the "Click-It-Or-Ticket" campaign, and to reduce drunk driving. These advertising campaigns purchased at the national level are complimented by states coordinating police enforcement at the local level.

Provides substantial funding for NHTSA to conduct research on reducing traffic deaths and injuries. States rely on this research to target safety strategies in the most cost-effective way.

Requires NHTSA to issue a rule by 2009 that requires automobiles sold in the United States to have new stability control technologies that reduce the likelihood of rollover crashes, better door locks to reduce the likelihood of passenger ejection in a rollover crash, and stronger roofs to protect occupants in a rollover crash.

Requires NHTSA to issue a rule by 2008 that sets new safety standards for automobiles sold in the United States to better protect occupants in a side-impact crash.

Requires window stickers on new cars to display safety "star" ratings in a similar manner that gas mileage is displayed on window stickers.

TITLE III—HAZARDOUS MATERIALS TRANSPORTATION SAFETY

Title III of our bill is designed to improve the safety and security of the transportation of hazardous materials. The hazardous materials (HAZMAT) transportation safety programs, now administered by the Pipeline and Hazardous Materials Safety Administration (PHMSA), have gone unauthorized since 1998. In 2004, there were 14,515 HAZMAT incidents, resulting in 8 deaths and 206 injuries and in the aftermath of recent HAZMAT accidents in South Carolina and heightened security concerns in this new era of global terrorism, reauthorization of these programs is a Committee priority. Title III:

Reauthorizes the Department of Transportation's (DOT) HAZMAT safety programs at $25 million in FY 2005, $29 million in FY 2006, and $30 million for each fiscal year from FY 2007–2009.

Provides $21,800,000 annually for community HAZMAT planning and training grants and allows states flexibility to use some of their planning money for training programs as needed. Additionally, the bill provides $4 million annually for HAZMAT “train the trainer” grants, and allows these funds to be used to train HAZMAT employees directly.

Requires Mexican and Canadian commercial motor vehicle operators transporting HAZMAT in the U.S. to undergo a background check similar to those for U.S. HAZMAT drivers. Additionally, the bill improves current HAZMAT background check procedures and requires a study on background check capacity.

Increases civil penalties to up to $100,000 for HAZMAT violations that result in severe injury or death and raises the minimum penalties for violations related to training.

Authorizes $5 million for FY 2005–2009 for the Operation Respond Emergency Information System to improve the real time delivery of information about HAZMAT in transportation to first responders.

Authorizes the Secretary of Transportation to establish a program of random inspections to determine the extent to which undeclared HAZMAT is transported in commerce through U.S. points of entry. It also creates a HAZMAT research cooperative through the National Academy of Sciences' Transportation Research Board.

Streamlines federal responsibilities for ensuring the safety of food shipments. Primary responsibility is transferred from DOT to the Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) which would set practices to be followed by shippers, carriers, and others engaged in food transport. Highway and railroad safety inspectors would be trained to spot threats to food safety and to report possible contamination.

TITLE IV—HOUSEHOLD GOODS

The purpose of Title IV is to provide greater protection to consumers entrusting their belongings to a moving company. While most of movers operate reputable businesses, a small number of “rogue” movers continue to defraud thousands of consumers annually. The oversight of the interstate household goods moving industry is the responsibility of the Federal Motor Carrier Safety Administration (FMCSA). FMCSA is tasked with issuing regulations, conducting oversight activities, and taking enforcement actions on consumer complaints that have averaged about 3,000 per year since 2001. Title IV:

Allows a state authority that enforces state consumer protection laws and State Attorneys General to enforce federal laws and regulations governing the transportation of household goods in interstate commerce.

Authorizes a penalty, of not less than $10,000, for a broker who provides an estimate to a shipper before entering into an agreement with a carrier to move the shipper's goods. A $10,000 penalty and up to a 24-month suspension of registration are authorized also for failure to give up possession of a shipper's household goods, and if convicted, that person shall be fined or imprisoned for up to five years.

Authorizes the Secretary of Transportation to register a person to provide transportation of household goods only after that person meets certain requirements. In addition, the bill authorizes a penalty, of not less than $25,000, for carriers and brokers who transport household goods but do not register with DOT.

Codifies existing regulations that require a carrier to give up possession of the household goods provided the shipper pays the mover 100% of a binding estimate of the charges or 110% of a non-binding estimate of the charges. The bill permits a carrier to charge only a prorated amount for the partial delivery of a shipment in the case of a lost or damaged shipment, and limits the amount of impracticable charges that must be paid upon delivery.

Establishes that a carrier is liable for the pre-determined total value of goods shipped unless otherwise authorized by the shipper. The current standard liability is at a rate of 60 cents per pound of a consumer's goods.

Directs the Secretary of Transportation to modify existing regulations to require a carrier's or broker's website to provide certain information. In addition, the Secretary would be required to establish a system and database for complaints and solicitation of State information regarding the number and type of complaints about a carrier. The bill directs the carrier to provide the shipper information about their rights.

TITLE V—AQUATIC RESOURCES TRUST FUND REAUTHORIZATION

Title V reauthorizes activities funded by two of the Nation's most effective “user-pay, user-benefit” programs—the Sport Fish Restoration Fund, administered by the Fish and Wildlife Service, and the Recreational Boating Safety Fund, administered by the U.S. Coast Guard. These programs constitute the “Wallop-Breaux” program, which is funded through the Aquatic Resources Trust Fund. This reauthorization will allow continued funding of programs that benefit boating safety, coastal wetland protection and restoration and sportfish restoration, as well as Clean Vessel Act grants that help to keep our waterways clean. The title is supported by a large coalition of recreational and boating groups, who are members of the American League of Anglers and Boaters.

As our nation's coastal population and tourism industry grows, these coastal programs are more popular than ever. But boating safety is also vitally important. State programs are nearly 100% funded through the Boating Safety fund, which allows state law enforcement to perform boating safety patrols, as well as train recreational boaters. The presence of these law enforcement boats on the water not only benefits recreational boaters, but also helps meet Coast Guard needs and enforce port security. Title V:

Renames the Trust Fund the Sport Fish Restoration and Boating Trust Fund, and eliminates the separate Boating Safety Account.

Reauthorizes the Marine Sanitary Devices pump-out program, the Boating Infrastructure Grant Program, and Outreach programs.

Increases the Boating Safety Grants to a three-to-one match, the same match as the Sport Fish Restoration grants.

Funds most of the programs on a percentage basis, which provides both simplicity and fairness. Conforming changes to the Internal Revenue Code will be included in the sections offered by the Finance Committee.

Annual revenues to the Fund total approximately $500 million, but the amounts vary from year to year. Under the new agreement, all programs will share in the rise and fall of these revenues, less the $9 million set aside for administration, and the $3 million set aside for multi-state grants. Title V establishes the following funding shares for the Trust Fund programs:

Sport Fish Restoration, 57% (including 15% for Boating Access); Boating Safety Grants, 18.5%; Coastal Wetlands Act, 18.5%; Boating Infrastructure, 2.0%; Outreach, 2.0%; Clean Vessel Act, 2.0%.

The growing popularity of recreational boating and fishing has created safety, environmental, and access needs that have been addressed successfully by the Recreational Boating Safety and Sport Fish Restoration programs. The Trust Fund program reauthorizations and funding adjustments contained in Title V are important for the safety of boaters, the continued enjoyment of fishermen, and improvement of our coastal areas and waterways.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Missouri.

Mr. BOND. Mr. President, I thank my colleague from Hawaii. I am hoping we can get started on this bill as quickly as possible because this time during this week has been set aside for the bill with all of the titles—EPW, commerce, finance—and we have a very complex bill. We need to work on these amendments right away.

There is discussion about holds on both sides. I hope if anybody has a problem with the bill they will come down and work with us and not hold up the bill because we cannot do our job and get this measure passed if we are blocked from bringing it up by people phoning in their holds.

I would like to have any Member who has a problem to talk to our staffs, realize there are lots of things that many people want to change, but that is what this whole process is about. We are trying to craft a bill that has been reported out of several different committees. Our highway title has been out there for 10 days, and everyone has had a chance to work on it. We have cleared numerous amendments on both sides of the aisle to take care of needs that various Members have. We cannot get this bill completed if people phone in holds and say: No, we are not going to let you go to the floor. It is very important that Members come down. This is going to be a very difficult bill.

Mr. LOTT. Will the Senator yield?

Mr. BOND. I am happy to yield.

Mr. LOTT. What is the present situation that would block the Senate from moving forward with this legislation and amendments being offered? Can't you just ask consent to go to the legislation?

Mr. BOND. My understanding from the cloakrooms is there are Members who have phoned in their concerns about moving to it.

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, if the Senator will further yield, who is the cloakroom—is he a Senator? This is highway legislation that has been held up for 2½ years that is causing people to get killed, that is keeping us from creating jobs.

The Senator from Missouri and the Senator from Oklahoma and all other Senators trying to manage this legislation have been very effective, very helpful of everyone, very considerate, but it is time we get this legislation going. The very idea that a Senator on Monday afternoon is calling in here or hiding out in his office or calling from some airport saying they object to us going to this legislation—I would like for them to explain that to their constituents. The Senate has been playing around long enough this year delaying everything, slow-walking everything.

By the way, this is not partisan; it is on both sides. This legislation is critical. It is time the Senate starts acting as a Senate instead of a kindergarten. I hope the Senators will give the consent this Senator from Missouri needs to get on this legislation and get it out of here. If we do not, our constituents are going to know who is the problem and why we are not getting this job done. It is time we get some Senators by the nape of the neck and tell them to put up or shut up because this legislation is critical. It is time to get it done. We ought to be having votes on amendments this afternoon. The very idea of Senators hiding in their offices saying, I am not ready, or I don't want to come, or I object—get over here and legislate and start acting like adults.

I thank the Senator from Missouri for yielding to me for that calm expression of concern.

Mr. BOND. I certainly hope the Senator from Mississippi feels better. I feel better because he has expressed my sentiments very clearly. We have been waiting 2½ years to have this bill in the Senate, and we have plenty to work on. I hope we are ready to move forward.

I will add to what the chairman of the EPW committee, my colleague from Oklahoma, has said. Recognize that last year during the consideration of the Transportation bill, the Senate voted 76 to 21 in favor of funding the highway bill at $255 billion, mass transit at $56 billion. This vote was a strong signal that the Members of the Senate believe we need to spend more dollars for safety, for our economy, for jobs, for our long-term growth and future on highways.

We did adopt in this budget resolution the provision presented by my colleague, Senator TALENT, and the Senator from Michigan, to give the Finance Committee the opportunity to increase funding for the bill as long as it was properly offset, and 80 Senators voted in support of it. That is exactly what the chairman and the ranking member, Senators GRASSLEY and BAUCUS, have done in their amendment.

I urge we support this amendment because we are still going to be short of where we were last time. No one is going to be able to get, for their particular areas of interest, their particular priorities, the same amount of money that would have been available under $318 billion. This measure does increase the funding somewhat over the figure written into the budget, but it is in pursuant to the provision included in the transportation section of the highway bill that there could be an add-on.

I hope people will see this is a critical time to move forward on this measure. If there are people who have amendments, I hope they will be ready to come forward.

I yield the floor.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Oklahoma.

Mr. DURBIN. Will the Senator yield?

Mr. INHOFE. Yes, I yield for a question.

Mr. DURBIN. Just for a question.

I came to the Senate and heard Senator LOTT. He was exasperated and frustrated. He said Members were not offering amendments, so I came to the Senate quickly to find out the extent of it.

Would the Senator from Oklahoma clarify, is it not true that we now have, in effect, a new bill—about 1,000 pages, the substitute—that is being copied now and being shared for the first time? Members who seek to amend the bill should at least be given a chance to review this new version of the bill so their amendments are in order.

Mr. INHOFE. I respond to the Senator from Illinois. I am not sure what was shared with all the Democrats. I do know that Senator JEFFORDS and Senator BAUCUS—we have been working together. They are the ranking members of the subcommittee and whole committee. We have done this jointly. This has been done all together. Whether that was shared with all the Members, I have no way of knowing.

Mr. DURBIN. If the Senator will yield, I share the sentiment and understand his frustration 3 years into this process still trying to come up with a bill. I want to see this done as quickly as possible. I will urge the staff that is now reviewing this new substitute amendment—some are just seeing it for the first time—to move quickly and to urge all colleagues on both sides, Democrats and Republicans, to bring their amendments to the floor and let's get on with it.

I say to the Senator, I understand his feelings, and if it is in the form of a question, does the Senator believe he is deserving of my empathy?

Mr. INHOFE. I thank the Senator from Illinois.

I remind the Senator, as chairman of this committee I went first to Illinois before going anywhere else to have a field hearing, which we had in Chicago and went over some of the needs. They made it very clear to me that there are needs in Illinois, and the Senators from Illinois are very anxious to get this bill under consideration.

Again, the only frustration I have on amendments is that for 4 days last week we talked about this, begging people to bring down amendments.

The Senator from Illinois knows as well as I know what could very well happen: we could get into a cloture situation where then we would be out of time.

It seems as if it is the nature of the Senate that you just do not do anything until you have to do it. Now you have to do it. So we want them to come down. It is our hope now to get to the managers' substitute. We are not in a position to quite do that yet; however, we can certainly entertain amendments and have amendments discussed and lined up. Then we can talk about the necessity of having this bill. That is essentially what we are doing right now.

I can assure the Senator from Mississippi, his frustration is no greater than mine because I will have people stop and talk to me about amendments—fine, bring them down; let's discuss them—and they do not show up. That is what we want to make sure happens.

I think the Senator from Illinois is right. We are on our sixth extension now. We worked on this bill for 2 years prior to the time we brought it to the floor last year. So this has been a 3-year process. My concern is if we end up just getting another extension, we are not going to get anything done that really needs to be done. If we are concerned about doing something for donor States, we are not going to do it with an extension because it is going to be the same thing as we have been having under TEA-21 as of 7 years ago.

If our concern is about the Safety Corps, the Senator from Mississippi is right. It is his committee that deals with the Safety Corps programs. Certainly the State of Oklahoma is high on the list of deaths on the highways. We have to get this done.

I suggest it is a matter of life and death that we get a bill because if we operate off of extensions, we are not going to do anything to improve safety on the highways. The Senator from Mississippi made that very clear. We are not going to have any real streamlining of environmental reviews. We have some good elements in this bill that are going to be able to help us build roads faster with less money than we could on an extension. If we are operating on an extension and do not have a bill, we are not going to have any increase in our ability to have innovative financing thereby giving the States more tools.

What we have tried to do in this bill is to give a lot more of the power back to the States. It has been my belief, and I think shared by most members of my committee, that the closer you get to home, the more people are aware of their specific needs. There are a lot of people who have some excellent ideas on innovative financing that the States are going to be able to do. This is in the bill.

The Safe Routes to School Program—the Senator from Vermont is very much interested in that. It is one that is handled in this bill. However, if we go on an extension, extension No. 7, we are not going to have the Safe Routes to School Program.

The States are considered to have uncertainty. We have come back from about a 7-day recess. I talked to our people, our highway people, our department of transportation in Oklahoma, and they cannot have any kind of planning for any kind of certainty as to knowing what is going to happen in the next year and the year after that and for the next five years unless we pass this bill. They are begging, pleading: Why can't you get this done because it has to be done in order for us to plan for the future.

I am particularly concerned about this because as to bridges, for example, in my State of Oklahoma, we are dead last in the Nation in terms of the condition of our bridges. And we cannot get anything done and plan for the future unless we get a bill.

There are a lot of people in a lot of States who are concerned about the borders program. It is critical to the border States that are dealing with the NAFTA traffic. This bill deals with that. With an extension, it is not going to happen. If we do not do this bill, we will have a delay in the establishment of this national commission to explain new ways to fund transportation.

I can tell you we have not done it any differently than when Dwight D. Eisenhower was President of the United States. He came along and recognized a problem in our transportation system as a result of the problem he had during World War II in moving troops and equipment around. Looking at our transportation system, the first thing he did when he became President of United States was to set up a National Highway Program and get it started. We have been funding our roads and our highways and our improvements and our bridges and infrastructure the same as we did during the Eisenhower administration. The bill sets up a national commission to go over some creative types of changes in funding where we can do a better job.

Right now, we are looking at the consideration, shortly, of the managers' amendment. If we do, it has been reported that even that amount, which is higher than the amount that was reported out of my committee, is going to do nothing more than just maintain what we have today. It is not really going to provide anything new. So we need to recognize that.

I have to say this, too. There are a lot of different philosophies that are represented in this Chamber. I am one of the most conservative Members. Yet there are some areas where conservatives do spend more money, and one is in infrastructure, which is what we are supposed to be doing here. We do not want to delay this national commission we set up in this legislation. I believe it is time to make a change for the better.

With the bill, we have increased the opportunity to address the chokepoints for intermodal transportation. This is kind of interesting. People do not realize this is not just a roads bill. This is an intermodal bill that considers chokepoints between channels and railroads and roads. We deal with that. It is an intermodal bill. A lot of people are not aware of the fact that in my State of Oklahoma, we are actually navigable. We have a navigation channel. This bill deals with the chokepoints between rail, road, water, and other air transportation.

And there is the firewall. If there is one thing that has bothered me over the years I have been on this committee—I have been on this committee for 11 years; and before that, in the other body, I was on the Transportation Committee for 8 years, so that is 19 years. During that time, when I have gone back to my State, the thing people are offended by is that there are always raids on the highway trust fund.

People have their own programs, they may be good programs, but they try to go in and get money out of the highway trust fund to support those programs. We have seen this happen over and over again in establishing policies in the Senate, that they highway fund it. How should we fund it? Let's fund it with transportation funds.

I believe that is a moral issue.

When the American people go to the pump, they do not mind paying a tax, but when they find out that tax is not going to highway construction and highway improvements and highway maintenance and intermodal transportation, they are understandably very nervous and very offended.

We have the firewall protection of the highway trust fund to make sure that these trust funds are not going to be vulnerable to raids in order to pay for other programs. I know there are a lot of people who feel they are not as excited about the way the formula was put together. I would like to say something about that. This is significant.

There are two ways to do a highway bill. I know one of the ways that was a little more prevalent in the other body was to come up with projects. You have 435 Members who have projects of significance. Instead, we believe that decisions on the priority of expenditure of transportation dollars should be made at the local level. In other words, it is easy to come up here and pass something and go home and say: Look what I got for you; I am bringing this home.

What we prefer is to have an equitable distribution of moneys that come into the highway trust fund to go back to the States and then let the States make these decisions. If there are States that don't want to do this, that is fine. But in the State of Oklahoma, I can assure you the closer to the people at home, the better the decisions. The people in the eight transportation districts in my State of Oklahoma are far better informed on the needs and priorities of where money should be spent on transportation than they are here in Washington. There are a lot of people who think that no decision is a good decision that is made in Washington. I don't agree with that.

We have a different way of doing it than the other body. We have a formula. Our formula takes everything into consideration. We are talking about interstate lane miles; vehicle miles traveled on the interstate; the contributions to the highway trust fund; the lane miles and principal arteries, excluding the interstate VMT on principal arteries; surface transportation programs; total lane miles—all these things are considered—the Bridge Replacement and Rehabilitation Program; we have rankings to see what is really nationwide that should be attributed to this. Certainly, I am a little bit prejudiced, being from Oklahoma where our bridges are in the worst shape of any of the 50 States. We are going to correct that, and we can correct that with this bill.

We have congestion mitigation, air quality improvement programs, and these are very significant. These are the things that come in under the formula that goes out to the States. We have the Recreational Trails Program. We know all about that. We take into consideration low-income States. There are some States that are lower income States, and the people are not really able to pay for quite as much as some other States. We have low-population States, but they still have to have roads. Consequently, that has to be a part of the formula. We have low population density States. Some States have much higher fatalities than other States. That tells you they need to do something. The SAFETEA core program is in this base bill and will be continued. If we get around to the managers' amendment, then we will have something in there. Guaranteed minimum growth, you have to have some consideration in there because there are States that are growing very rapidly. Some States are on the other side.

We have donor States, donee States. These are things that are considered. A lot of people realize we have many States, including my State of Oklahoma, that are donor States. In other words, we don't get back as much money as we send to Washington to go into the highway trust fund. In TEA-21, we put in a minimum figure of 90.5 percent. In the bill we had last year, it would bring all these donee States all the way up to 95. That was good, but it took $318 billion over 6 years to do that. We were not able to get it out of conference.

By the way, as the Senator from Missouri said, that bill passed the Senate by 76 to 21. That gives you an idea. If we get the bill up here, all we have to do is get by all these procedures, and we will pass a bill. It will take into consideration all the things I mentioned. This is not just a political table. In fact, politics didn't enter into it. We don't have projects in this Senate bill. The House bill does. When we go to conference, we are going to iron those things out, and we are going to come out with a good bill. But you can't do that until you get all the amendments in and get a vote.

I encourage Members to offer their amendments and to discuss the highway bill. I know there are some Members who were requesting time for that purpose.

I yield the floor and suggest the absence of a quorum.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The clerk will call the roll.

The bill clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, I see the floor manager of the highway bill.

Mr. INHOFE. Will the Senator yield for a question?

Mr. KENNEDY. I will.

Mr. INHOFE. It is my understanding you want to speak as in morning business.

Mr. KENNEDY. Yes.

Mr. INHOFE. Can you hold it to, say, 25 minutes?

Mr. KENNEDY. Yes.

Mr. INHOFE. I further ask unanimous consent that the time you take be the time, following you, given to Senator SPECTER, who is wanting to have about that amount of time.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. INHOFE. It is my understanding then that the Senator from Massachusetts will go for 25 minutes. Then the Senator from Pennsylvania will go for 25 minutes.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. That was the Chair's understanding.

The Senator from Massachusetts.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, I thank the floor manager. This is very important legislation, enormously important to my State as other States. We need the kinds of investments in our roads and bridges to ensure their safety and security and that they will continue to be the vital avenues for an expanding and growing economy. I look forward to working with the committee.

IRAQ SUPPLEMENTAL

I appreciate having the opportunity to address the Senate on what I anticipate will be the matter that will be before the Senate later this evening and through tomorrow, and that is the Iraq supplemental conference report. As I mentioned, I expect that it will be laid down in the next few hours, and I expect there will be a final resolution of this sometime tomorrow.

I welcome the opportunity to address some of the important provisions that are included in the conference report and bring them to the attention of our colleagues and to the American people.

I intend to support the Iraq spending bill. Although I disagree strongly with some of the bill's provisions, these funds are clearly needed for our troops. All of us support our troops. We obviously want to do all we can to see that they have proper equipment, vehicles, and everything else they need to protect their lives as they carry out their missions. It is scandalous that the administration has kept sending them into battle in Iraq without proper equipment. No soldier should be sent into battle unprotected. No parent should have to go in desperation to the local Wal-Mart to buy armor plates and mail them to their sons and daughters serving in Iraq.

Our military is performing brilliantly under enormously difficult circumstances, and we need to give them our support—not just from our words but from our pockets, too. One aspect of this bill that I am particularly proud of is the increased funding for humvees for our troops on patrol in Iraq. The Bayh-Kennedy amendment adds additional funds to keep production at increased levels. Some opponents claim that the Army already had enough armed humvees and objected to any further increase. But a front-page article in the New York Times, on April 25, told us the troop side of the real need for more armor and the difference it can make.

Company E, a Marine Corps unit based at Camp Pendleton, returned from 6 months in Ramadi last year, and its members were so frustrated with this problem that they decided to tell their story. They did not have enough armored vehicles. Thirteen of the twenty-one marines from Company E who were killed in Iraq had been riding in humvees that failed to protect them from bullets or bombs. They saw problems up close.

A year ago, eight of them were killed when their humvees were ambushed on the way to aid another unit under fire. The cargo section of the humvee where the troops were riding did not even have hillbilly armor to protect them from the blast. They were totally unprotected. As one marine described the attack: All I saw was sandbags, blood, and dead bodies. There was no protection in the back.

Captain Kelly Royer, Company E's unit commander, asked his superiors when he would be getting more armored humvees. He was told that additional armor had not been requested and that there were production constraints.

Another marine says they complained about the shortages every day to anybody we could. They told us they were listening, but we did not see it.

These marines on the front line knew the armor meant the difference between life and death, the difference between an essential mission and a suicide mission. They were desperate to get more armor. Day after day they saw the brutal consequences of the Pentagon's incompetence and delay.

The lessons learned from the war in Iraq are said to help us in future conflicts, but for all forces facing death every day, the future was yesterday. In fact, the Marines are requesting funds for the coming fiscal year to develop and produce new armored vehicles to avoid these deadly threats.

The need is so clear that the request was submitted under the Marine Corps Urgent Universal Needs Statement which was created to streamline the acquisition process and get equipment to the field faster. They have a plan to meet the future need, but what about the urgent need today?

We do not have the luxury of time to wait for these new vehicles to roll off a future assembly line. The need for armored humvees is now. The hillbilly armor they scavenge for and add to their unprotected humvees does not provide adequate protection.

The Army says of the new requirement approved this month, none of it is designated for the Marine Corps. The Pentagon refuses to make this a top priority. They continue to drag their feet.

In a report to Congress this month, the Government Accounting Office describes month after month of mismanagement by the Pentagon in supplying the armored humvees our troops urgently need to carry out their missions and stay alive.

The GAO report found the Army still had no long-term plan to increase the number of armored humvees. The war in Iraq has been going on for 2 full years. Our troops are under fire every day, and the Pentagon still does not have a plan to protect them.

I have in my hand an April 2005 GAO report, "Defense Logistics Agency, Actions Needed to Improve Availability of Critical Items during Current and Future Operations." On page 123, it states that there two primary causes for the shortages of uparmored vehicles and add-on armor kits. First, a decision was made to pace production rather than use the maximum available capacity.

This is the General Accounting Office in their report of April of this year.

Second, the funding allocations did not keep up with rapidly increasing requirements.

That is the General Accounting Office about whether we need to have more uparmored humvees and whether we have to give it a higher priority and whether there is a need in Iraq today. Our troops are under fire every day, and the Pentagon still does not have a plan to protect them.

In a briefing prepared by marines for Congress, they specifically state, in their vehicle hardening strategy, that "funding assistance is required to achieve optimum levels of armor protection."

The GAO report clearly points out that the Pentagon's bureaucratic mentality infected its decisions. They tried to solve the problem in a slow and gradual manner instead of solving it quickly. As the GAO report states, there were two primary causes for the shortages: "First, a decision was made to pace production." Translated into layman's language, that means there was not a sense of urgency by the Pentagon. That is what "pace production" means. And then "rather than use the maximum available capacity" means they didn't get off their tail and increase production. And "Second, funding allocations did not keep up with rapidly increasing requirements."

I am going to come to the statements by the responsible DOD officials before the Armed Services Committee on which I serve.

It is equally obvious that in addition to the bureaucratic mentality of the Pentagon, their cakewalk mentality is also a major part of the problem. Week after week, month after month they refuse to believe that the insurgency will continue. They want to believe it will soon be over. They do not feel they need to waste dollars on armored humvees that soon will not be needed in Iraq. So month after month, our troops keep paying with their lives. The light the Pentagon sees at the end of the tunnel turns out to be the blinding flash of another roadside bomb exploding under another unprotected humvee in Iraq.

They cannot even get their story right. Armor Holdings, the company that makes the armored humvee, told my office recently that its current contract with the Army will actually mean sharp cutbacks in production. Right now, they produce 550 armored humvees a month. Their contract reduces that number to 239 in June, zero in July and then back to 40 in August and 71 in September. The company is now negotiating for slightly higher levels of production in June, July, and August, but it still expects to decrease production to 71 by September.

What possible justification can there be for the Pentagon to slow down current production so drastically in the months ahead when armored humvees are so urgently needed? The Pentagon keeps saying: We will work it out. On nine different occasions, we have asked the Pentagon for their requirements for humvees, and nine times they have been wrong. Nine times they have made their presentation before the Armed Services Committee, and nine times they have been wrong in underestimating the importance of needs, and American service men and women have been paying with their lives.

This bill tells the Department of Defense that we will not let them get it wrong for a tenth time. For the sake of our troops, Congress acted and the Pentagon should not ignore it. The contract should be amended immediately to obtain the maximum possible production of armored humvees for the months ahead. Our troops are waiting for an answer, and their lives depend on it.

Another important part of this bill will be the periodic report it requires on the progress our forces are making in Iraq. Our military is performing brilliantly under enormously difficult circumstances, but they do not want, and the American people do not want, an open-ended commitment. After all the blunders that took us into war, we need to be certain that the President has a strategy for success.

The $5.7 billion in this bill for training Iraqi security forces is a key element of a successful strategy to stabilize Iraq and withdraw American forces. The report will provide the straight answer that we have not had before about how many Iraqi security forces are adequately trained and equipped.

We are obviously making progress, but it is far from clear how much. The American people deserve an honest assessment that provides the basic facts, but that is not what we have been given so far.

According to a GAO report in March, U.S. Government agencies do not report reliable data on the extent to which Iraqi security forces are trained and equipped. There it is, March: The General Accounting Office says U.S. Government agencies do not report reliable data on the extent to which the Iraqi security forces are trained and equipped.

The American people do not know the answer. When they do not know, it means pretty clearly that they are not getting the kind of training and priority they should, and the longer it takes to train them the longer American servicemen are going to be over there risking their lives.

The report goes on to say that the Departments of State and Defense no longer report on the extent to which Iraqi security forces are equipped with their required weapons, vehicles, communications, equipment, and body armor. Imagine that. According to the General Accounting Office, the Departments of State and Defense no longer report on the extent to which the Iraqi security forces are equipped with their required weapons, vehicles, communications, equipment, and body armor.

It is clear from the administration's own statements that they are using the notorious fuzzy math tactic to avoid an honest appraisal.

On February 4, 2004, Secretary Rumsfeld said:

We have accelerated the training of Iraqi security forces, now more than 200,000 strong.

A year later, on January 19, 2005, Secretary of State Condoleezza Rice said:

We think the number right now is somewhere over 120,000.

On February 3, 2005, in response to questions from Senator LEVIN at a Senate Armed Services Committee hearing, GEN Richard Myers, Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, conceded that only 40,000 Iraqi security forces are actually capable. He said:

48 deployable (battalions) around the country, equals about 40,000, which is a number that can go anywhere and do anything.

Obviously, we need a better accounting of how much progress is being made to train and equip effective Iraqi security forces.

The President's commitment to keep American troops in Iraq as long as it takes and not a day longer is not enough for our soldiers and their loved ones. They deserve a clearer indication of what lies ahead, and so do the American people. I am encouraged that the administration is finally being required by this bill to tell Congress how many U.S. troops will be necessary in Iraq through the end of 2006. The American people, and especially our men and women in uniform, and their families, deserve to know how much real progress is being made in training Iraqi troops and how long our forces will be in Iraq. Hopefully, the administration will submit these reports in good faith and not attempt to classify this vital information.

Those are two of the major provisions that I think require support for this legislation. There was an additional provision that I support that I will mention briefly, and then I will conclude in mentioning a provision which I find very unacceptable, troublesome, and unworkable.

The provision that was added by Senator MIKULSKI, the H-2B visas for seasonal workers, which I had the opportunity to join with her, remains in this legislation, and it will make a great deal of difference. It will be a lifeline for small family businesses in my State on Cape Cod and many other firms that rely overwhelmingly on seasonal workers to meet their heavy summer needs. Many use the programs year after year because it is the only way to legally fill temporary and seasonal positions when no American workers are available. Without this amendment, they would be out of luck this summer, and many will be out of business.

This is a short-term solution to the current visa crisis. The bill is a 2-year fix, and without it many businesses will be forced to shut their doors. I appreciate the support of our colleagues on this issue. It will help many hard-working small businesses and industries across the country.

Unfortunately, not all the immigration provisions included in the bill have this kind of broad support. Included in the conference agreement are the so-called REAL ID immigration provisions that are highly controversial, harmful, and unnecessary. The Intelligence Reform Act we approved overwhelmingly last year provides real border security solutions. The so-called REAL ID bill added by the House to this spending bill contains controversial provisions we rejected last year and likely would have rejected again if we had had a chance to debate them on the Senate floor. They are a false solution on border security, and they serve no purpose except to push an anti-immigrant agenda. More than ever we need to take the time to get border security reform right as opposed to pushing through legislation to meet the demands of anti-immigrant extremists. The stakes are simply too great.

In addition to the numerous substantive problems with the REAL ID, the process through which they have been forced into this conference report is flawed and unacceptable. The Republican leadership in the House and Senate shut Democrats out of the conference negotiations. Why? Because the House bill has controversial provisions that have questionable support in the Senate and with the American people. Strongarm tactics are offensive and do a great deal of disservice to the important issues of our time. The White House too, once rejected these provisions, yet, they now support them. What important issues will the White House flip-flop on next?

Those who pushed through these REAL ID provisions continue to say that loopholes exist in our immigration and asylum laws that are being exploited by terrorists. They claim these provisions will close them. In fact, they do nothing to improve national security and leave other big issues unresolved.

They want us to believe that its changes will keep terrorists from being granted asylum. But current immigration laws already bar persons engaged in terrorist activity from asylum. Before they receive asylum, all applicants must also undergo extensive security checks, covering all terrorist and criminal databases at the Department of Homeland Security, the FBI, and the CIA.

Asylum seekers will find no refuge. Battered women and victims of stalking will be forced to divulge their addresses in order to get driver's licenses, potentially endangering their lives. Many Americans will have other problems with their driver's license. All legal requirements, including labor laws, can now be waived to build a wall. For the first time since the Civil War, habeas corpus will be prohibited. The REAL ID provisions contain other broad and sweeping changes to laws that go to the core of our national identity.

Each year, countless refugees are forced to leave their countries, fleeing persecution. America has always been a haven for those desperate for such protection. At the very beginning of our history, the refugee Pilgrims seeking religious freedom landed on Plymouth Rock. Ever since, we have welcomed refugees, and it has made us a better Nation. Refugees represent the best of American values. They have stood alone, at great personal cost, against hostile governments for fundamental principles like freedom of speech and religion. We have a responsibility to examine our asylum policies carefully, to see that they are fair and just.

But, the REAL ID bill tramples this noble tradition and will be devastating for legitimate asylum-seekers fleeing persecution. It will make it more difficult for victims fleeing serious human rights abuses to obtain asylum and safety, and could easily lead to their return to their persecutors.

Another section of conference report contains a provision that would complete the U.S.-Mexico border fence in San Diego. But it goes much farther than that. It gives the Department of Homeland security unprecedented and unchecked authority to waive all legal requirements necessary to build such fences, not only in San Diego, but anywhere else along our 2,000 mile border with Mexico and our 4,000 mile border with Canada. Building such fences will cost hundreds of millions of dollars, and they still will not stop illegal immigration. What we need are safe and legal avenues for immigrants to come here and work, not more walls.

A major additional problem in the REAL ID provisions is that it could result in the deportation even of long-time legal permanent residents, for lawful speech or associations that occurred 20 years ago or more. It raises the burden of proof to nearly impossible levels in numerous cases.

A person who made a donation to a humanitarian organization involved in tsunami relief could be deported if the organization or any of its affiliates was ever involved in violence. The burden would be on the donor to prove by clear and convincing evidence that he knew nothing about any of these activities. The spouse and children of a legal permanent resident could also be deported too based on such an accusation, because of their relationship to the donor.

The provision could be applied retroactively, so that a permanent resident who had once supported the lawful, nonviolent work of the African National Congress in South Africa, Sinn Fein in Northern Ireland, the Northern Alliance in Afghanistan, or the Contras in Nicaragua would be deportable. It would be no defense to show that the only support was for lawful nonviolent activity. It would be no defense to show that the United States itself supported some of these groups.

The driver's license provisions do not make us safer either. Let me explain what these provisions really do. They repeal a section of the Intelligence Reform Act which sets up a process for States and the Federal Government to work together to establish Federal standards for driver's licenses and identification cards. Progress is already being made to implement these important measures, but this bill replaces them with highly problematic and burdensome requirements. The National Conference of State Legislatures says that these provisions are "unworkable, unproven, costly mandates that compel States to enforce Federal immigration policy rather than advance the paramount objective of making State-issued identity documents more secure and verifiable."

Indeed, it is a costly unfunded mandate on the States. The CBO estimate on the implementation of the driver's license provisions is $20 million over a 5-year period to reimburse States for complying with the legislation. But, that is not all; the provisions require States to participate in an interstate database that would share information at a cost of $80 million over 3 years.

The driver's license provisions do nothing to address the threat of terrorists or to address legitimate security concerns. It would not have prevented a single 9/11 hijacker from obtaining a driver's license, or a single terrorist from boarding a plane. All 13 hijackers could have obtained licenses or IDs under this proposal, and foreign terrorists can always use their passports to travel.

The result of these restrictive driver's license provisions will be raised insurance rates, higher numbers of fatalities on America's roadways, and an increased black market for false and fraudulent documents. The REAL ID actually undercuts the original purpose of traffic safety. It is better to have licensed, insured, and trained drivers on our roads.

Preventing immigrants from obtaining driver's licenses undermines national security by pushing people into the shadows and fueling the black market for fraudulent identification documents.

The REAL ID provisions do nothing to combat the threat of terrorists or to deal with legitimate security concerns. They have taken away precious time that could have been used to address genuine pressing issues.

Hundreds of organizations across the political spectrum continue to oppose this legislation. A broad coalition of religious, immigrant, human rights, civil liberties and state groups have expressed their own strong opposition.

In these difficult times for our country, we know that the threat of terrorism has not ended, and we must do all we can to enact genuine measures to stop terrorists before they act, and to see that law enforcement officials have the full support they need. The provisions of the REAL ID bill in the conference report today will not improve these efforts. They will not make us safer or prevent terrorism. They are an invitation to gross abuses, and a false solution to national and border security.

The REAL ID bill with its controversial provisions should have been considered by the Senate through debate and discussion, not attached to a critical piece of legislation needed by our troops.

I urge the Senate to get serious about immigration reform that will make genuine improvements where they are needed, and not in the piecemeal fashion that is contained in this report.

This bill also provides nearly $12 million to remedy a crisis in off-site judicial security for our Federal judges. With this bill, we have taken a small, but necessary step toward increasing security for the distinguished men and women of our country who have been appointed to the courts. In the wake of the recent murders of the husband and mother of Federal Judge Joan Lefkow at her home in Chicago, and the courtroom killings in Atlanta, it is clear we must do more to enhance judicial security. This is a matter of the highest urgency.

The tragic deaths of Judge Lefkow's family demonstrate that judges may be safe inside the walls of our wellguarded courthouses, but they are vulnerable to disgruntled litigants in other places, even in their own homes. In, fact, security in the homes of judges has long been a concern for the Judicial Conference, the principal decision-making group for the Federal courts. Sadly, three judges had previously been killed in their homes: Judge John Wood of Texas, in 1979; Judge Richard Daronco of New York, in 1988; and Judge Robert Vance, of Alabama, in 1989.

The vast majority of threats are received from people who are angry with the outcome of a case in court. In the 10 years since the first world trade center bombing, the Federal judiciary has handled an increasing number of "high threat" matters.

Judge Lefkow was the victim of an act of domestic terrorism stemming from what should have been a routine civil matter. Matthew Hale, the leader of a White Supremacist group known as the World Church of the Creator, was convicted in April 2004 of soliciting an undercover FBI informant to murder Judge Lefkow in retaliation for her ruling against him in a trademark dispute. This example highlights the environment in which our Federal judges toil every day.

The Marshals Service, underfunded and understaffed as it is, struggles to keep up with security needs in the new high-risk age, but there is no reason why our judges should continue to remain so vulnerable 16 years after Judge Vance was killed in his home. We need to stand up for an independent judiciary. We can do so by providing the funds to make their homes safe.

There were provisions in this legislation to do that. It says something about the nature of our dialog here when we have to provide the kind of extraordinary additional security to judges because of the nature of the political dialog. Words have consequences. Words have results. Words have meanings. The idea that individuals in responsible positions continue to threaten members of the judiciary too often can result in serious consequences to those judicial members. We have attempted to provide some additional security to protect those individuals. The best protection would be for more restraint on the part of those who talk about an independent judiciary.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that an article dated April 25, 2005, from the New York Times be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, it was so ordered.

BLOODIED MARINES SOUND OFF ABOUT WANT OF ARMOR AND MEN
(By Michael Moss)

On May 29, 2004, a station wagon that Iraqi insurgents had packed with C-4 explosives blew up on a highway in Ramadi, killing four American marines who died for lack of a few inches of steel.

The four were returning to camp in an unarmored Humvee that their unit had rigged with scrap metal, but the makeshift shields rose only as high as their shoulders, photographs of the Humvee show, and the shrapnel from the bomb shot over the top. "The steel was not high enough," said Staff Sgt. Jose S. Valerio, their motor transport chief, who along with the unit's commanding officers said the men would have lived had their vehicle been properly armored. "Most of the shrapnel wounds were to their heads."

Among those killed were Rafael Reynosa, a 28-year-old lance corporal from Santa Ana, Calif., whose wife was expecting twins, and Cody S. Calavan, a 19-year-old private first class from Lake Stevens, Wash., who had the Marine Corps motto, Semper Fidelis, tattooed across his back.

They were not the only losses for Company E during its six-month stint last year in Ramadi. In all, more than one-third of the unit's 185 troops were killed or wounded, the highest casualty rate of any company in the war, Marine Corps officials say.

In returning home, the leaders and Marine infantrymen have chosen to break an institutional code of silence and tell their story, one they say was punctuated not only by a lack of armor, but also by a shortage of men and planning that further hampered their efforts in battle, destroyed morale and ruined the careers of some of their fiercest warriors.

The saga of Company E, part of a lionized battalion nicknamed the Magnificent Bastards, is also one of fortitude and ingenuity. The marines, based at Camp Pendleton in southern California, had been asked to rid the provincial capital of one of the most persistent insurgencies, and in enduring 26 firefights, 90 mortar attacks and more than 90 homemade bombs, they shipped their dead home and powered on. Their tour has become legendary among other Marine units now serving in Iraq and facing some of the same problems.

"As marines, we are always taught that we do more with less," said Sgt. James S. King, a platoon sergeant who lost his left leg when he was blown out of the Humvee that Saturday afternoon last May. "And get the job done no matter what it takes." The experiences of Company E's marines, pieced together through interviews at Camp Pendleton and by phone, company records and dozens of photographs taken by the marines, show they often did just that. The unit had less than half the troops who are now doing its job in Ramadi, and resorted to making dummy marines from cardboard cutouts and camouflage shirts to place in observation posts on the highway when it ran out of men. During one of its deadliest firefights, it came up short on both vehicles and troops. Marines who were stranded at their camp tried in vain to hot-wire a dump truck to help rescue their falling brothers. That day, 10 men in the unit died. Sergeant Valerio and others had to scrounge for metal scraps to strengthen the Humvees they inherited from the National Guard, which occupied Ramadi before the marines arrived. Among other problems, the armor the marines slapped together included heavier doors that could not be latched, so they "chicken winged it" by holding them shut with their arms as they traveled.

"We were sitting out in the open, an easy target for everybody," Cpl. Toby G. Winn of Centerville, Tex., said of the shortages. "We complained about it every day, to anybody we could. They told us they were listening, but we didn't see it." The company leaders say it is impossible to know how many lives may have been saved through better protection, since the insurgents became adept at overcoming improved defenses with more powerful weapons. Likewise, Pentagon officials say they do not know how many of the more than 1,500 American troops who have died in the war had insufficient protective gear. But while most of Company E's work in fighting insurgents was on foot, the biggest danger the men faced came in traveling to and from camp: 13 of the 21 men who were killed had been riding in Humvees that failed to deflect bullets or bombs. Toward the end of their tour when half of their fleet had become factory-armored, the armor's worth became starkly clear. A car bomb that the unit's commander, Capt. Kelly D. Royer, said was at least as powerful as the one on May 29 showered a fully armored Humvee with shrapnel, photographs show. The marines inside were left nearly unscathed.

Captain Royer, from Orangevale, Calif., would not accompany his troops home. He was removed from his post six days before they began leaving Ramadi, accused by his superiors of being dictatorial, records show. His defenders counter that his commanding style was a necessary response to the extreme circumstances of his unit's deployment.

Company E's experiences still resonate today both in Iraq, where two more marines were killed last week in Ramadi by the continuing insurgency, and in Washington, where Congress is still struggling to solve the Humvee problem. Just on Thursday, the Senate voted to spend an extra $213 million to buy more fully armored Humvees. The Army's procurement system, which also supplies the Marines, has come under fierce criticism for underperforming in the war, and to this day it has only one small contractor in Ohio armoring new Humvees.

Marine Corps officials disclosed last month in Congressional hearings that they were now going their own way and had undertaken a crash program to equip all of their more than 2,800 Humvees in Iraq with stronger armor. The effort went into production in November and is to be completed at the end of this year.

Defense Department officials acknowledged that Company E lacked enough equipment and men, but said that those were problems experienced by many troops when the insurgency intensified last year, and that vigorous efforts had been made to improve their circumstances.

Lt. Gen. James N. Mattis of Richland, Wash., who commanded the First Marine Division to which Company E belongs, said he had taken every possible step to support Company E. He added that they had received more factory-armored Humvees than any other unit in Iraq.

"We could not encase men in sufficiently strong armor to deny any enemy success," General Mattis said. "The tragic loss of our men does not necessarily indicate failure—it is war."

TROUBLE FROM THE START

Company E's troubles began at Camp Pendleton when, just seven days before the unit left for Iraq, it lost its first commander. The captain who led them through training was relieved for reasons his supervisor declined to discuss. "That was like losing your quarterback on game day," said First Sgt. Curtis E. Winfree.

In Kuwait, where the unit stopped over, an 18-year-old private committed suicide in a chapel. Then en route to Ramadi, they lost the few armored plates they had earmarked for their vehicles when the steel was borrowed by another unit that failed to return it. Company E tracked the steel down and took it back.

Even at that, the armor was mostly just scrap and thin, and they needed more for the unarmored Humvees they inherited from the Florida National Guard.

"It was pitiful," said Capt. Chae J. Han, a member of a Pentagon team that surveyed the Marine camps in Iraq last year to document their condition. "Everything was just slapped on armor, just homemade, not armor that was given to us through the normal logistical system."

The report they produced was classified, but Captain Royer, who took over command of the unit, and other Company E marines say they had to build barriers at the camp—a former junkyard—to block suicide drivers, improve the fencing and move the toilets under a thick roof to avoid the insurgent shelling. Even some maps they were given to plan raids were several years old, showing farmland where in fact there were homes, said a company intelligence expert, Cpl. Charles V. Lauersdorf, who later went to work for the Defense Intelligence Agency. There, he discovered up-to-date imagery that had not found its way to the front lines.

Ramadi had been quiet under the National Guard, but the Marines had orders to root out an insurgency that was using the provincial capital as a way station to Falluja and Baghdad, said Lt. Col. Paul J. Kennedy, who oversaw Company E as the commander of its Second Battalion, Fourth Marine Regiment. Before the company's first month was up, Lance Cpl. William J. Wiscowiche of Victorville, Calif., lay dead on the main highway as its first casualty. The Marine Corps issued a statement saying only that he had died in action. But for Company E, it was the first reality check on the constraints that would mark their tour.

SWEEPING FOR BOMBS

A British officer had taught them to sweep the roads for bombs by boxing off sections and fanning out troops into adjoining neighborhoods in hopes of scaring away insurgents poised to set off the bombs. "We didn't have the time to do that," said Sgt. Charles R. Sheldon of Solana Beach, Calif. "We had to clear this long section of highway, and it usually took us all day." Now and then a Humvee would speed through equipped with an electronic device intended to block detonation of makeshift bombs. The battalion, which had five companies in its fold, had only a handful of the devices, Colonel Kennedy said. Company E had none, even though sweeping roads for bombs was one of its main duties. So many of the marines, like Corporal Wiscowiche, had to rely on their eyes. On duty on March 30, 2004, the 20-year-old lance corporal did not spot the telltale three-inch wires sticking out of the dust until he was a few feet away, the company's leaders say. He died when the bomb was set off.

"We had just left the base," Corporal Winn said. "He was walking in the middle of the road, and all I remember is hearing a big explosion and seeing a big cloud of smoke."

The endless task of walking the highways for newly hidden I.E.D.'s, or improvised explosive devices, "was nerve wracking," Corporal Winn said, and the company began using binoculars and the scopes on their rifles to spot the bombs after Corporal Wiscowiche was killed.

"Halfway through the deployment marines began getting good at spotting little things," Sergeant Sheldon added. "We had marines riding down the road at 60 miles an hour, and they would spot a copper filament sticking out of a block of cement." General Mattis said troops in the area now have hundreds of the electronic devices to foil the I.E.D.'s.

In parceling out Ramadi, the Marine Corps leadership gave Company E more than 10 square miles to control, far more than the battalion's other companies. Captain Royer said he had informally asked for an extra platoon, or 44 marines, and had been told the battalion was seeking an extra company. The battalion's operations officer, Maj. John D. Harrill, said the battalion had received sporadic assistance from the Army and had given Company E extra help. General Mattis says he could not pull marines from another part of Iraq because "there were tough fights going on everywhere."

Colonel Kennedy said Company E's area was less dense, but the pressure it put on the marines came to a boil on April 6, 2004, when the company had to empty its camp—leaving the cooks to guard the gates—to deal with three firefights.

Ten of its troops were killed that day, including eight who died when the Humvee they were riding in was ambushed en route to assist other marines under fire. That Humvee lacked even the improvised steel on the back where most of the marines sat, Company E leaders say.

"All I saw was sandbags, blood and dead bodies," Sergeant Valerio said. "There was no protection in the back." Captain Royer said more armor would not have even helped. The insurgents had a .50-caliber machine gun that punched huge holes through its windshield. Only a heavier combat vehicle could have withstood the barrage, he said, but the unit had none. Defense Department officials have said they favored Humvees over tanks in Iraq because they were less imposing to civilians. The Humvee that trailed behind that day, which did have improvised armor, was hit with less powerful munitions, and the marines riding in it survived by hunkering down. "The rounds were ping-pong," Sergeant Sheldon said. "Then in a lull they returned fire and got out."

Captain Royer said that he photographed the Humvees in which his men died to show to any official who asked about the condition of their armor, but that no one ever did. Sergeant Valerio redoubled his effort to fortify the Humvees by begging other branches of the military for scraps. "How am I going to leave those kids out there in those Humvees," he recalled asking himself.

The company of 185 marines had only two Humvees and three trucks when it arrived, so just getting them into his shop was a logistical chore, Sergeant Valerio said. He also worried that the steel could come loose in a blast and become deadly shrapnel. For the gunners who rode atop, Sergeant Valerio stitched together bulletproof shoulder pads into chaps to protect their legs.

"That guy was amazing," First Sgt. Bernard Coleman said. "He was under a vehicle when a mortar landed, and he caught some in the leg. When the mortar fire stopped, he went right back to work."

A CAPTAIN'S FATE

Lt. Sean J. Schickel remembers Captain Royer asking a high-ranking Marine Corps visitor whether the company would be getting more factory-armored Humvees. The official said they had not been requested and that there were production constraints, Lieutenant Schickel said.

Recalls Captain Royer: "I'm thinking we have our most precious resource engaged in combat, and certainly the wealth of our nation can provide young, selfless men with what they need to accomplish their mission. That's an erudite way of putting it. I have a much more guttural response that I won't give you." Captain Royer was later relieved of command. General Mattis and Colonel

Kennedy declined to discuss the matter. His first fitness report, issued on May 31, 2004, after the company's deadliest firefights, concluded, "He has single-handedly reshaped a company in sore need of a leader; succeeded in forming a cohesive fighting force that is battle-tested and worthy." The second, on Sept. 1, 2004, gave him opposite marks for leadership. "He has been described on numerous occasions as 'dictatorial,'" it said. "There is no morale or motivation in his marines." His defenders say he drove his troops as hard as he drove himself, but was wrongly blamed for problems like armor. "Captain Royer was a decent man that was used for a dirty job and thrown away by his chain of command," Sergeant Sheldon said.

Today, Captain Royer is at Camp Pendleton contesting his fitness report, which could force him to retire. Company E is awaiting deployment to Okinawa, Japan. Some members have moved to other units, or are leaving the Marines altogether. "I'm checking out," Corporal Winn said. "When I started, I wanted to make it my career. I've had enough."

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, I yield the remainder of my time.

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The clerk will call the roll.

The bill clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The Senator from Pennsylvania is recognized.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that I may proceed as in morning business for as much time as I may consume.

Mr. INHOFE. Reserving the right to object.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Oklahoma.

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, a few minutes ago we had an agreement that we would allow the Senator from Massachusetts to speak up to 25 minutes as in morning business and that the Senator would follow him with the same amount of time. That is what we would intend to do. We thought that would be satisfactory to the Senator from Pennsylvania.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, may I proceed then?

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there objection?

Mr. INHOFE. I object, yes.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Objection is heard. The Senator is recognized under the previous order to speak for 25 minutes.

Mr. INHOFE. That is correct.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. As in morning business.

JUDICIAL NOMINATIONS

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, I have sought recognition to urge my colleagues to explore ways to avoid a Senate vote on the nuclear, or constitutional, option. It is anticipated that we may vote this week or this month to reduce from 60 to 51 the number of votes to invoke cloture or cut off debate on judicial nominations. If the Senate roll is called on that vote, it will be one of the most important in the history of this institution.

The fact is that all or almost all Senators want to avoid the crisis. I have repeatedly heard colleagues on both sides of the aisle say it is a matter of saving face. But as yet we have not found the formula to do so.

I suggest the way to work through the current impasse is to proceed to bring to the floor circuit nominees, one by one, for up-or-down votes. There are at least five and perhaps as many as seven pending circuit nominees who could be confirmed or at least voted up or down. If the straitjacket of party loyalty were removed by the Democrats, even more might be confirmed.

As a starting point, it is important to acknowledge that both sides, Democrats and Republicans, have been at fault. Both sides claim they are victims and that their party's nominees have been treated worse than the other's. Both sides cite endless statistics. I have heard so many numbers spun in so many different ways that even my head is spinning. I think even Benjamin Disraeli, the man who coined the phrase, "there are lies, damned lies, and statistics," would be amazed at the creativity employed by both sides in contriving the numbers in this debate.

The history of Senate practices has demonstrated that in the last 2 years of President Reagan's administration and through 4 years of the administration of President George Herbert Walker Bush, the Democrats slowed down the nomination process. When we Republicans won the 1994 elections and gained the Senate majority, we exacerbated the pattern of delay and blocking nominees. Over the course of President Clinton's presidency, the average number of days for the Senate to confirm judicial nominees increased for district nominees as well as for circuit nominees. That was followed by the filibuster of many qualified judicial nominees by the Democrats following the 2002 elections. In an unprecedented move, President Bush responded by making, for the first time in the Nation's history, two recess appointments of nominees who had been successfully filibustered by the Democrats. That impasse was then broken when President Bush agreed to refrain from further recess appointments.

Against this background of bitter and angry recriminations, with each party serially trumping the other to get even, or to dominate, the Senate now faces dual threats—one called the filibuster and the other the constitutional or nuclear option, which rivals the United States-Union of Soviet Socialist Republic confrontation of mutually assured destruction. Both situations are accurately described by the acronym MAD.

We Republicans are threatening to employ the option to require only a majority vote to end filibusters. The Democrats are threatening to retaliate by stopping the Senate agenda on all matters except national security and homeland defense. Each ascribes to the other the responsibility for blowing the place up. This gridlock occurs at a time when we expect a U.S. Supreme Court vacancy within the next few months. If the filibuster would leave an eight-person Court, we could expect many 4-to-4 votes, since the Court now often decides cases with a 5-to-4 vote. A Supreme Court tie vote would render the Court dysfunctional, leaving in effect circuit court decisions with many splits among the circuits. So the rule of law would be suspended on many major issues.

In moving in the Judiciary Committee to select nominees for floor action, in my capacity as Chairman I have first selected William Myers because two Democrats had voted in the 108th Congress not to filibuster him, and one candidate for the Senate in 2004, since elected, made a campaign statement that he would vote to end the Myers filibuster and to confirm him. Adding those three votes to 55 Republicans, we were within striking distance to reach 60 or more.

I carefully examined Myers' record. Noting that he had opposition from some groups such as the Friends of the Earth and the Sierra Club, it was nonetheless my conclusion that his environmental record was satisfactory, or at least not a disqualifier, as detailed in my statement at the Judiciary Committee executive session on March 17 of this year. To be sure, critics could pick at the Myers record as they could at any Senator's record, but overall Myers was, in my opinion, worthy of confirmation.

I then set out to solicit others' views on Myers, including ranchers, loggers, miners, and farmers. In those quarters I found a significant enthusiasm for Myers' confirmation, so I urged those groups to have their members contact Senators who might be swing votes. I then followed up with personal talks to many of those Senators and found several prospects to vote for cloture. Then the screws of party loyalty were applied and tightened and the prospects for obtaining the additional few votes to secure cloture vanished.

I am confident if the party pressure had not been applied, the Myers filibuster would have ended and he would have been confirmed. That result could still be obtained if the straitjacket of party loyalty were removed on the Myers nomination.

Informally, but authoritatively, I have been told the Democrats will not filibuster Thomas Griffith or Judge Terrence Boyle. Griffith is on the calendar now awaiting floor action, and Boyle is on the next agenda for committee action. Both could be confirmed by the end of this month.

There are no objections to three nominees from the State of Michigan for the Sixth Circuit—Richard Griffin, David McKeague, and Susan Bakke

Neilson—but their confirmations are being held up because of objections to a fourth nominee. I urge my Democratic colleagues to confirm the three uncontested Michigan Sixth Circuit nominees and fight out the remaining fourth vacancy and Michigan District Court vacancies on another day. The Michigan Senators do make a valid point on the need for consultation on the other Michigan vacancies, and that can be accommodated.

In the exchange of offers and counteroffers between Senator FRIST, the majority leader, and Senator HARRY REID, the Democratic leader, Democrats have made an offer to avoid a vote on the nuclear or constitutional option by confirming one of the four filibustered judges—Priscilla Owen, Janice Rogers Brown, William Pryor, or William Myers—with a choice to be selected by Republicans. An offer to confirm any one of those four nominees is in reality an explicit concession that each is qualified for the court, and they are being held hostage as pawns in a convoluted chess game which has spiraled out of control.

If the Democrats believe each is qualified, a deal for confirmation for any one of them is repugnant to the basic democratic principle of individual fair and equitable treatment and further violates Senators' oath on the constitutional confirmation process. Such dealmaking would further confirm public cynicism about what goes on in Washington behind closed doors.

Instead, let the Senators consider each of the four without the constraints of party line voting. Let us revert to the tried and tested method of evaluating each nominee individually.

By memorandum dated April 7, I circulated an analysis of Texas Supreme Court Justice Priscilla Owen's records demonstrating she was not hostile to Roe v. Wade and that her decisions were based on solid judicial precedence. No one has challenged that legal analysis.

Similarly, I distributed a memorandum containing an analysis of Judge William Pryor's record since he has been sitting on the Eleventh Circuit. It shows a pattern by Judge Pryor of concern to protect the rights of those often overlooked in the legal system. Similarly, no one has refuted that analysis.

California Supreme Court Justice Janice Rogers Brown has been pilloried for her speeches. If political or judicial officials were rejected for provocative or extreme ideas and speeches, none of us would hold public office. The fact is, the harm to the Republic, at worst, by confirmation of all pending circuit court nominees, is infinitesimal compared to the harm to the Senate, whichever way the vote would turn out, on the nuclear or constitutional option.

None of these circuit judges could make new law because all are bound and each one has agreed on the record to follow U.S. Supreme Court decisions. While it is frequently argued that Supreme Court decisions are in many cases final because the Supreme Court grants certiorari in so few cases, the circuit courts sit in panels of three so that no one of these nominees could unilaterally render an unjust decision since at least one other circuit judge on the panel must concur.

While it would be naive to deny that "quid pro quo" and "logrolling" are not frequent congressional practices, those approaches are not the best way to formulate public policy or make governmental decisions. The Senate has a roadmap to avoid "nuclear winter" in a principled way. Five of the controversial judges can be brought up for up-or-down votes on this state of the record. The others are entitled to individualized treatment on the filibuster issue. It may be that the opponents of one or more of these judges may persuade a majority of Senators that confirmation should be rejected. A group of Republican moderates has, with some frequency, joined Democrats to defeat a party-line vote. The President has been explicit in seeking up-or-down votes as opposed to commitments on confirmations.

The Senate has arrived at this confrontation by exacerbation as each side has ratcheted up the ante in delaying and denying confirmation to the other party's Presidential nominees. A policy of consultation/conciliation could diffuse the situation.

This has already been offered by the Democrats informally, signaling their intentions not to filibuster Griffith or Boyle, and by offering no objections to the three Michigan nominees. Likewise, it has been reported that Senator REID has privately told Republicans he does not intend to block votes on any Supreme Court nominee except in extreme cases. A public statement of confirmation with an amplification on what constitutes "extreme case" could go a long way to diffusing the situation.

Senator SCHUMER praised White House Counsel Gonzales during his confirmation hearings for times in which now-Attorney General Gonzales consulted with Senator SCHUMER on President Bush's judicial nominees affecting the State of New York. On April 11 of this year, a nominee pushed by Senator SCHUMER, Paul Crotty, was confirmed for the federal court in New York. Both New Jersey Senators, Senators TORRICELLI and CORZINE, approved all five district court nominations for their State in the 107th Congress. And in that Congress, Florida's Democratic Senators, BOB GRAHAM and BILL NELSON, appointed representatives to a commission which recommended federal judges to President Bush. President Bush recently nominated Minority Leader HARRY REID's pick for the District Court for the District of Nevada.

So there have been some significant signs of consultation and conciliation by the Republicans on choices by Democratic Senators.

I have reason to believe the President is considering consultation with the Michigan Senators on some federal judicial vacancies in their state and perhaps beyond.

One good turn deserves another. If one side realistically and sincerely takes the high ground, there will be tremendous pressure on the other side to follow suit. So far, the offers by both sides have been public relations maneuvers to appear reasonable to avoid blame and place it elsewhere. Meanwhile, the far left and far right are urging each side to shun compromise. "Pull the trigger," one side says. "Filibuster forever," the other side retorts. Their approaches would lead to extreme judges at each end of the political spectrum as control of the Senate inevitably shifts from one party to another.

The Senate today stands on the edge of an abyss. Institutions such as our Senate are immortal but not invulnerable. If we fail to step back from the abyss, we will descend into a dark protracted era of divided partisanship. But if we cease this aimless and endless game of political chicken, we could restore the Senate to its rightful place as the world's greatest deliberative body. That will require courage, courage from each Senator, courage to think and act with independence.

Our immortal Senate is depending on that courage. Now the question remains as to whether we have it.

Since the United States and the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics avoided the nuclear confrontation in the Cold War by concessions and confidence-building measures, why couldn't Senators do the same by crossing the aisle in the spirit of compromise?

As a result of the time constraints, I have abbreviated the oral presentation of this statement. I ask unanimous consent the full text be printed at the conclusion of this statement, including my statement which I now make that the text is necessarily repeated to a substantial extent of what I have delivered orally, but it is included so that a full text may be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, I seek recognition to urge my colleagues to explore ways to avoid a Senate vote on the nuclear or constitutional option. It is anticipated that we may vote this week or this month to reduce from 60 to 51 the number of votes required to invoke cloture or cut off debate on judicial nominations. If the Senate roll is called on that vote, it will be one of the most important in the history of this institution.

The fact is that all, or almost all, Senators want to avoid the crisis. I have had many conversations with my Democratic colleagues about the filibuster of judicial nominees. Many of them have told me that they do not personally believe it is a good idea to filibuster President Bush's judicial nominees. They believe that this unprecedented use of the filibuster does damage to this institution and to the prerogatives of the President. Yet despite their concerns, they gave in to party loyalty and voted repeatedly to filibuster Federal judges in the last Congress.

Likewise, there are many Republicans in this body who question the wisdom of the constitutional or nuclear option. They recognize that such a step would be a serious blow to the rights of the minority that have always distinguished this body from the House of Representatives. Knowing that the Senate is a body that depends upon collegiality and compromise to pass even the smallest resolution, they worry that the rule change will impair the ability of the institution to function.

I have repeatedly heard colleagues on both sides of the aisle say it is really a matter of saving "face"; but, as yet, we have not found the formula to do so. I suggest the way to work through the current impasse is to proceed to bring to the floor circuit nominees one by one for up or down votes. There are at least five and perhaps as many as seven pending circuit nominees who could be confirmed; or, at least voted up or down. If the straightjacket of party loyalty were removed, even more might be confirmed.

For the past 4 months since becoming Chairman of the Judiciary Committee, my first priority has been to process the nominees through committee to bring them to the floor. As a starting point, it is important to acknowledge that both sides, Democrats and Republicans, have been at fault. Both sides claim that they are the victims and that their party's nominees have been treated worse than the other's. Both sides cite endless statistics. I have heard so many numbers spun so many different ways that my head is spinning. I think even Benjamin Disraeli, the man who coined the phrase, "there are lies, damned lies and statistics," would be amazed at the creativity employed by both sides in contriving numbers in this debate.

In 1987, upon gaining control of the Senate and the Judiciary Committee, the Democrats denied hearings to seven of President Reagan's circuit court nominees and denied floor votes to two additional circuit court nominees. As a result, the confirmation rate for Reagan's circuit nominees fell from 89 percent prior to the Democratic takeover to 65 percent afterwards. While the confirmation rate decreased, the length of time it took to confirm judges increased. From the Carter administration through the first 6 years of the Reagan administration, the length of the confirmation process for both district and circuit court seats consistently hovered at approximately 50 days. For Reagan's final Congress, however, the number doubled to an average of 120 days for these nominees to be confirmed.

The pattern of delay and denial continued through 4 years of President George H.W. Bush's administration. President Bush's lower court nominees waited, on average, 100 days to be confirmed, which was about twice as long as had historically been the case. The Democrats also denied committee hearings for more nominees. President Carter had 10 nominees who did not receive hearings. For President Reagan, the number was 30. In the Bush Sr. administration the number jumped to 58.

When we Republicans won the 1994 election and gained the Senate majority, we exacerbated the pattern of delaying and blocking nominees. Over the course of President Clinton's presidency, the average number of days for the Senate to confirm judicial nominees increased even further to 192 days for district court nominees and 262 days for circuit court nominees. Through blue slips and holds, 60 of President Clinton's nominees were blocked. When it became clear that the Republican-controlled Senate would not allow the nominations to move forward, President Clinton withdrew 12 of those nominations and chose not to re-nominate 16.

After the 2002 elections, with control of the Senate returning to Republicans, the Democrats resorted to the filibuster on ten circuit court nominations, which was the most extensive use of the tactic in the Nation's history. The filibuster started with Miguel Estrada, one of the most talented and competent appellate lawyers in the country. The Democrats followed with filibusters against nine other circuit court nominees. During the 108th Congress, there were 20 cloture motions on 10 nominations. All 20 failed.

To this unprecedented move, President Bush responded by making, for the first time in the Nation's history, two recess appointments of nominees who had been successfully filibustered by the Democrats. That impasse was broken when President Bush agreed to refrain from further recess appointments.

Against this background of bitter and angry recriminations, with each party serially trumping the other party to "get even" or, really, to dominate, the Senate now faces dual threats, one called the filibuster and the other the constitutional or nuclear option, which rival the US/USSR confrontation of mutually assured destruction. Both situations are accurately described by the acronym "MAD."

We Republicans are threatening to employ the constitutional or nuclear option to require only a majority vote to end filibusters. The Democrats are threatening to retaliate by obstructing the Senate on a host of matters. Each ascribes to the other the responsibility for "blowing the place up."

The gridlock occurs at a time when we expect a United States Supreme Court vacancy within the next few months. If a filibuster would leave an 8 person court, we could expect many 4 to 4 votes since the Court now often decides cases with 5 to 4 votes. A Supreme Court tie vote would render the Court dysfunctional, leaving in effect the circuit court decision with many splits among the circuits, so the rule of law would be suspended on many major issues.

In moving in the Judiciary Committee to select nominees for floor action, I first selected William Myers because two Democrats had voted in the 108th Congress not to filibuster him, and one candidate for the Senate in 2004, since elected, made a campaign statement that he would vote to end the Myers filibuster and to confirm him. Adding those three votes to 55 Republicans, we were within striking distance to reach 60 or more. I carefully examined Myers' record. Noting that he had opposition from some groups such as Friends of the Earth and the Sierra Club, it was my conclusion that his environmental record was satisfactory, or at least not a disqualifier, as detailed in my statement at the Judiciary Committee Executive Session on March 17, 2005. To be sure, critics could pick at his record as they could at any Senator's record; but overall Mr. Myers was worthy of confirmation.

I then set out to solicit others' views on Myers, including the ranchers, loggers, miners, and farmers. In those quarters, where I found significant enthusiasm for the Myers confirmation, I urged them to have their members contact Senators who might be swing votes. I then followed up with personal talks to many of those Senators and found several prospects to vote for cloture. Then the screws of party loyalty were applied and tightened, and the prospects for obtaining the additional few votes to secure cloture vanished. I am confident that if party pressure had not been applied, the Myers filibuster would have ended and he would have been confirmed. That result could still be obtained if the straitjacket of party loyalty were removed on the Myers nomination.

Informally, but authoritatively, I have been told that the Democrats will not filibuster Thomas Griffith or Judge Terrence Boyle. Griffith is on the Senate calendar awaiting floor action, and Boyle is on the next agenda for committee action. Both could be confirmed by mid-May.

There are no objections to three nominees from the State of Michigan for the Sixth Circuit: Richard Griffin, David McKeague and Susan Bakke Neilson; but their confirmations are held up because of objections to a fourth nominee. I urge my Democratic colleagues to confirm the three uncontested Michigan Sixth Circuit nominees and fight out the Fourth Circuit vacancy and Michigan district court vacancies on another day. The Michigan Senators make a valid point on the need for consultation on the other Michigan vacancies and that can be accommodated.

In the exchange of offers and counteroffers between Sen. FRIST, majority leader and Sen. HARRY REID, the Democrat leader, Democrats have made an offer to avoid a vote on the nuclear or constitutional option by confirming one of the four filibustered judges: Priscilla Owen, Janice Rogers Brown, William Pryor, or William Myers with the choice to be selected by Republicans.

An offer to confirm any one of the those four nominees is an explicit concession that each is qualified for the court and that they are being held hostage as pawns in a convoluted chess game which has spiraled out of control. If the Democrats really believe each is unqualified, a "deal" for confirmation for anyone of them is repugnant to the basic democratic principle of individual, fair, and equitable treatment and violates Senators' oaths on the constitutional confirmation process. Such "deal-making" confirms public cynicism about what goes on behind Washington's closed doors.

Instead, let the Senate consider each of the four without the constraints of party line voting. Let us revert to the tried and tested method of evaluating each nominee individually. By memorandum dated April 7, 2005, I circulated an analysis of Texas Supreme Court Justice Priscilla Owen's record demonstrating she was not hostile to Roe vs. Wade and that her decisions were based on solid judicial precedent. No one has challenged that legal analysis.

By memorandum dated January 12, 2005, I distributed an analysis of decisions by Judge William Pryor that shows his concern to protect the rights of those often overlooked in the legal system. Similarly, no one has refuted that analysis. California Supreme Court Justice Janice Rogers Brown has been pilloried for her speeches. If political or judicial officials were rejected by provocative/extreme ideas in speeches, none of us would hold public office.

The fact is that the harm to the Republic, at worst, by the confirmation of all pending circuit court nominees is infinitesimal compared to the harm to the Senate, whichever way the vote would turn out, on the nuclear or constitutional option. None of these circuit judges could make new law because all are bound, and each one agreed on the record, to follow U.S. Supreme Court decisions. While it is frequently argued that circuit court opinions are in many cases final because the Supreme Court grants certiorari in so few cases, circuit courts sit in panels of three so that no one of these nominees can unilaterally render an unjust decision since at least one other circuit judge on the panel must concur.

While it would be naïve to deny that the "quid pro quo" and "logrolling" are not frequent congressional practices, those approaches are not the best way to formulate public policy or make governmental decisions. The Senate has a roadmap to avoid "nuclear winter" in a principled way. Five of the controversial judges can be brought up for up-or-down votes on this state of the record. The others are entitled to individualized treatment on the filibuster issue.

It may be that the opponents of one or more of these judges may persuade a majority of Senators that confirmation should be rejected. A group of Republican moderates has, with some frequency, joined Democrats to defeat a party line vote. The President has been explicit in seeking up-or-down votes as opposed to commitments on confirmations.

The Senate has arrived at this "confrontation by exacerbation" as each side ratcheted up the ante in delaying and denying confirmation to the other party's Presidential nominees. A policy of conciliation/consultation could diffuse the situation. This has already been offered by the Democrats, informally signaling their intentions not to filibuster Griffith or Boyle. Likewise, it has been reported that Senator REID has privately told Republicans that he doesn't intend to block votes on any Supreme Court nominees, except in extreme cases. A public statement with an amplification of what constitutes an "extreme case" could go a long way.

Sen. SCHUMER praised White House Counsel Gonzales's consultation with him on President Bush's judicial nominees. On April 11, 2005, the President's nominee for the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of New York, Paul Crotty, supported by Senator SCHUMER, was confirmed. Both New Jersey Senators, Bob Torricelli and Jon Corzine, approved all five district court nominations for their state in the 107th Congress. In the 107th Congress, Florida's Democratic Senators, BOB GRAHAM and BILL NELSON, appointed representatives to a commission which recommended Federal judges to President Bush.

President Bush recently nominated Minority Leader HARRY REID's pick for the U.S. District Court for the District of Nevada. I have reason to believe the President is considering consultation with the Michigan Senators on some Federal judicial vacancies in their State and perhaps beyond.

One good turn deserves another. If one side realistically and sincerely takes the high ground, there will be tremendous pressure on the other side to follow suit. So far, the offers by both sides have been public relations maneuvers to appear reasonable to avoid blame and place it elsewhere.

Meanwhile, the far left and the far right are urging each side to shun compromise: pull the trigger; filibuster forever. Their approaches would lead to extreme judges at each end of the political spectrum as control of the Senate inevitably shifts from one party to the other.

The Senate today stands on the edge of the abyss. Institutions like the Senate are immortal but not invulnerable. If we fail to step back from the abyss, we will descend into a dark, protracted era of divisive partisanship. But if we cease this aimless game of political chicken, we can restore the Senate to its rightful place as the world's greatest deliberative body. That will require courage. Courage from each senator. Courage to think and act with independence. Our immortal Senate is depending on our courage. Do we have it?

Since the U.S. and USSR avoided a nuclear confrontation in the Cold War by concessions and confidence-building measures, why couldn't Senators do the same by crossing the aisle in the spirit of compromise.

Mr. SPECTER. I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The clerk will call the roll.

The bill clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. NELSON of Florida. I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

AMENDMENT NO. 518, WITHDRAWN

Mr. NELSON of Florida. Mr. President, on behalf of Senator SALAZAR, I ask unanimous consent that amendment No. 581 be withdrawn.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The Senator from Florida is recognized.

(The remarks of Mr. NELSON of Florida pertaining to the introduction of S. 980 are located in today's RECORD under "Statements on Introduced Bills and Joint Resolutions.")

Mr. NELSON of Florida. I yield the floor.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Missouri.

AMENDMENT NO. 600 TO AMENDMENT NO. 567

Mr. TALENT. Mr. President, I have an amendment at the desk.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Missouri [Mr. TALENT], for himself, and Mr. DODD, proposes an amendment numbered 600 to amendment No. 567.

Mr. TALENT. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: To require notice regarding the criteria for small business concerns to participate in Federally funded projects)

At the end of subtitle H of title I, add the following:

SEC. 18 ____ . NOTICE REGARDING PARTICIPATION OF SMALL BUSINESS CONCERNS.

The Secretary of Transportation shall notify each State or political subdivision of a State to which the Secretary of Transportation awards a grant or other Federal funds of the criteria for participation by a small business concern in any program or project that is funded, in whole or in part, by the Federal Government under section 155 of the Small Business Reauthorization and Manufacturing Assistance Act of 2004 (15 U.S.C. 567g).

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Missouri is recognized.

Mr. TALENT. Mr. President, I wish to take a few minutes to discuss this amendment which I am offering with Senator DODD. It has been accepted by the managers on both sides, and I am grateful for that.

The amendment is the next step in lifting a very significant burden off minority contractors around the country who want to do business with the Government. Very simply, it would direct the Secretary of Transportation to inform State and local governments that receive Federal dollars through the highway bill of a new law, a law that provides that minority contractors who have already been certified as 8(a) contractors under Federal law are automatically certified under State law as minority contractors on any contract that is funded in whole or in part by Federal dollars. Let me explain the background.

As Senators know, the 8(a) Program is one of the programs that small businesses use to get certified as a minority contractor in doing business with the Federal Government. State and local governments have similar certifications for doing business as a minority contractor with their governments. This has presented a serious obstacle for minority small businesses that want to do business or take advantage of goals or setaside programs because they have in the past been required to get additional certifications at both the State and local levels after already having been certified under the Federal Government's 8(a) Program. As a result, countless small minority-owned businesses have spent thousands and thousands of dollars and countless hours getting certified at the State and local levels just to learn that the contracting opportunity they originally sought was, by the time they were certified, no longer open.

In short, getting multiple certifications at the State and local levels after you have already done it at the Federal level is a time-consuming, expensive, and unnecessary process that in the past has left many highly qualified minority small business contractors shut out from the competition of Government contracts. So last year, I added an amendment on the JOBS bill that provides that section 8(a) contractors, those who have already been certified on the Federal level, are automatically certified as minority contractors in any State or local program funded in whole or in part by Federal dollars.

I have already heard from small businesses from Missouri and around the country. I am pleased to report this provision is saving minority small business people thousands of dollars and many hours and a lot of headaches. In many cases, it is making it possible for them to participate in programs and projects that they would not have been able to participate in in the past without maneuvering through the obstacles of getting additional State or local certifications. Now we need to get the word out about the new law.

So today, the amendment of Senator DODD and myself directs the Secretary of Transportation to inform State and local governments of the new law that prohibits them from requiring federally certified 8(a) minority firms from obtaining State and local certifications on any State or local project that receives Federal funding.

This amendment is the natural followup to last year's law. It should not cost money. It has the support of minority small business associations around the country. I am pleased that it has majority and minority support on the Senate floor, and I am very pleased that the handlers on both sides of the aisle have accepted the amendment.

I thank the National Black Chamber of Commerce, the United States Hispanic Chamber of Commerce, as well as the Hispanic Chamber of Greater Kansas City, the Minority Business Council of St. Louis, and the Hispanic Chamber of Metropolitan St. Louis for their continued support in providing 8(a) contractors equal access to all projects receiving Federal funding.

I also want to thank the Senator from Connecticut for his work and effort on behalf of the amendment and his continued leadership on behalf of small business issues. I urge the Senate to adopt the amendment. I understand that the handlers are desirous of a roll-call vote so I ask for the yeas and nays on the amendment.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there a sufficient second?

There appears to be a sufficient second.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The minority leader.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, what was the request?

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Ordering the yeas and nays.

Mr. TALENT. My understanding was that the handlers wanted the yeas and nays on the amendment. I will withdraw the request if that is not the case.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Oklahoma.

Mr. INHOFE. I ask unanimous consent that at 5:30 this evening the Senate proceed to a vote in relation to the Talent amendment, with the time equally divided until the vote and no second-degree amendments in order to the amendment prior to the vote.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there an objection?

Mr. REID. Reserving the right to object.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The minority leader.

Mr. REID. I have no problem voting on this Talent amendment. I am disappointed that we have not been able to clear a resolution expressing support for the withdrawal of troops from Georgia. The President is there today. I am so glad he is visiting Georgia. I was there with a bipartisan congressional delegation a few weeks ago, and I repeat I am disappointed we could not do this while he is in country.

The leaders of Georgia would be so ecstatic if we could do this. In Georgia, there are leftovers from the Soviet Union military bases that are controlled by Russians, that are staffed by Russians. They will not leave that little country of Georgia. We have to do what we can in exerting influence to get Russia to pull their troops out of this little country. I hope the majority will look this resolution over and that it can be approved in the immediate future. It would have tremendous significance with our President being there at this present time.

So I have no objection to the request by my friend from Oklahoma.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The minority leader withdraws his reservation.

Without objection, the unanimous consent request is agreed to.

The Senator from Missouri.

Mr. BOND. Mr. President, I rise to express my support for the effort that my colleague from Missouri is making. When the Senator from Missouri was in the House, he was chairman of the House Small Business Committee when I was chairman of the Senate Small Business Committee. We took great pride in the tremendous contribution that small business made to our State, both in terms of the jobs they produced as well as the tremendous boost that the small businesses were able to provide to our productive sector.

Again, I commend the Senator from Missouri for the action he took last year to make sure that these minority small business contractors could be qualified. This will go a long way toward easing the procedure to make sure that minority small business operations have a chance to get in on the work of the highway bill. It is very important that we move forward with our highway construction, and having the minority small businesses providing jobs in their community and representing the communities that will be served is a very worthy goal.

This small measure would have a big impact. So I urge the adoption of this amendment.

I thank the Chair and yield the floor.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Who yields time?

Mr. INHOFE. I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

All time has expired. The question is on agreeing to the amendment. The yeas and nays have been ordered and the clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk called the roll.

Mr. MCCONNELL. The following Senators were necessarily absent: the Senator from Tennessee (Mr. ALEXANDER), the Senator from Mississippi (Mr. COCHRAN), the Senator from Wyoming (Mr. ENZI), the Senator from Arizona (Mr. KYL), the Senator from Arizona (Mr. MCCAIN), and the Senator from Alaska (Ms. MURKOWSKI).

Mr. DURBIN. I announce that the Senator from Delaware (Mr. BIDEN), the Senator from Minnesota (Mr. DAYTON), the Senator from North Dakota (Mr. DORGAN), the Senator from Iowa

(Mr. HARKIN), and the Senator from Maryland (Mr. SARBANES) are necessarily absent.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. CORNYN). Are there any other Senators in the Chamber desiring to vote?

60TH ANNIVERSARY OF END OF WWII IN EUROPE

Mr. DEWINE. Mr. President, yesterday was the 60th anniversary of the end of World War II in Europe. It was also, of course, Mother's Day. My speechwriter Ann O'Donnell shared a letter with me her grandfather wrote that is a fitting remembrance of both occasions. It is a letter from a young Army private, 12th Armored Division, named Glenn H. Waltner. Stationed in Germany at the time, he wrote to his mother, Mrs. J. J. Waltner in Freeman, SD.

The letter is postmarked 60 years ago today, May 9, 1945, though it was written, actually, on May 3, 1945. It reads as follows:

Dearest Mother,
Mother's Day is only a short time away again. Since we cannot be together, I'm taking this opportunity to thank you for being my mother. You've always been all that any son could ever ask a mother to be—kind, patient, loving, considerate, and forgiving. Though Mother's Day comes but once yearly, don't think you're not appreciated the other [days of the year]. I thank God daily for the privilege of having been your son.

[I] am well—have been moving so swiftly and far that mail still hasn't reached us, nor can we mail letters often. Shaved today for the first time in a long while and haven't had my hair cut for months, I guess. Hear peace rumors daily, but apparently, the Germans don't know a thing about it.

Happy Mother's Day—Love from your son, Glenn.

Mr. President, I imagine that many hundreds of letters just like this went out 60 years ago to mothers all across our country. Letters went out as they waited patiently, praying for the safe return of their dear, beloved sons serving overseas during the war. Fortunately, just a few short days after this particular letter was written, the rumors about peace did become a reality as Hitler's Germany surrendered to Allied forces, bringing to an end almost 6 years of brutal, bloody battle and an unparalleled threat to mankind in the Nazi's attempt to destroy the Jewish race.

When I think about all those who served during World War II, I am reminded of a famous speech in William Shakespeare's play "Henry V." The title character attempts to rally his men with a St. Crispin Day speech, a moving appeal to soldiers facing a vastly superior French force. Shakespeare's Henry assures his men of their place in history, creating the bond that links them all. An excerpt from that speech reads as follows:

And Crispin Crispian shall ne'er go by,
From this day to the ending of the world,
But we in it shall be remember'd;
We few, we happy few, we band of brothers.

Stephen Ambrose, of course, in his book, "Band of Brothers," also wrote about this fraternal bond that connects all warriors to one another. Ambrose documented the journey of the men of Easy Company, E Company, 506th Regiment, 101st Airborne Division, through their journey through World War II. While the men of the 506th seem at times lost in the confusion and tragedy of war, Ambrose ends his book with a poignant reflection on what they encountered during the war. He wrote as follows:

They found combat to be ugliness, destruction, and death, and hated it. Anything was better than the blood and carnage, the grime and filth, the impossible demands made on the body—anything, that is, except letting down their buddies. They also found in combat the closest brotherhood they ever knew. They found selflessness. They found they could love the other guy in their foxhole more than themselves. They found that in war, men who love life would give their lives for them.

Over the last couple of years, my staff and I have had the great privilege of getting to know a group of World War II veterans who, like the men of Easy Company, are, indeed, a band of brothers. They are a band of selfless, patriotic, quiet heroes who to this day, 60 years after the end of the war, remain in close contact, staying in touch with one another and their families through e-mails, newsletters, and reunions. They also, to this day, continue to remember and honor those in their company who never made it home, those who were killed during the fighting, those who will remain as they were at the time frozen in their youth.

I am speaking about the men of Company K, the most decorated company in the 409th Regiment of the 103rd Infantry Division, 6th Corps of the 7th Army. The men of K Company, however, are not unique. The bonds they share and the sacrifices they made are no different than the bonds and the sacrifices of all those who served in World War II together.

Two years ago at this time, I spoke about the 58th anniversary of V-E Day and specifically about K Company. Since that time, my staff and I have heard from many of the surviving members of K Company and their families. We have learned a great deal about what so many men and women went through both during and after the war.

I must say the connection my office and I have established with the members of K Company, soldiers who saw battle in Germany, France, and Austria, has been one of the most rewarding experiences I have had during my entire time in Congress.

One of the members of K Company is my dad, Richard DeWine. In talking to both my mother and my father this past weekend about the end of the fighting in Europe 60 years ago, they remember vividly what happened, where they were 60 years ago yesterday. My mother remembers riding on a firetruck during an impromptu celebration in my parents' hometown of Yellow Springs, OH. She remembers that celebration after the announcement was made of the German surrender.

My dad, half a world away at the time, remembers spending the night before in a foxhole near Innsbruck, Austria, the night before the surrender. And he, like PVT Glenn Waltner who wrote in his letter to his mother, my dad also heard rumors that the war was nearing an end. My dad says the rumors were all over the place. But nevertheless, my dad stayed awake that night in that foxhole fearing that the enemy would attack. He remembers thinking he saw German soldiers coming towards them.

The next morning, and later when he talked to his comrades, his buddies, when he compared notes with them, they thought the same thing, that the Germans were coming after them, coming towards them. Yet they never attacked that night, thank Heavens.

My dad says when the war did end the next day, he can still remember groups of German troops surrendering, and then when he and his K Company buddies went into Innsbruck, quite shortly thereafter he remembers the people of Innsbruck throwing flowers at them as they rode into Innsbruck.

My parents' recollections and the letter I read on the Senate floor from Glenn Waltner are just a couple of examples of the many stories we all have heard about those who fought during World War II. It is through the stories of those who served over half a century ago that we continue to learn about history, about humanity, and about the sacrifices that were made by our parents, grandparents, those who made the sacrifices. Sixty years later, we continue to learn from all those who served in World War II. We continue to learn about honor, respect, loyalty, humility, and sacrifice.

I thank each of them for what they did, what they did for each one of us, and what they did for our country and what they did for the world, what they did over 60 years ago.

They fought so that we could know peace, so that we could remain free. They will never be forgotten.

I thank the Chair, and I yield the floor.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The bill clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. BAUCUS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

PROTECTING THE INDEPENDENCE OF THE COURTS

Mr. BAUCUS. Mr. President, inscribed on the Justice Department building are the words: "No free government can survive that is not based on the supremacy of law."

Aristotle said: "Where the laws are not supreme, there demagogues spring up."

And Balzac wrote: "The soul of liberty is love of law."

It is a free and independent judiciary that ensures the supremacy of law. It is a free and independent judiciary that guards against the demagogue. It is a free and independent judiciary that protects the soul of liberty.

As Montesquieu wrote in The Spirit of the Laws: "There is no liberty if the judiciary power be not separated from the legislative and the executive."

And as George Washington wrote to John Jay in 1789, when Washington invited Jay to be Chief Justice: "The Supreme Court must be recognized as the keystone of our political fabric."

The effort by some to abridge the Senate's role in the confirmation of judges is nothing less than an effort to diminish the independence of the judiciary. That is the bottom line.

The Senate's rules and its paramount value of unlimited debate are central to preserving that independence of the judiciary. The Senate's involvement in the confirmation of judges helps to ensure that nominees have the support of a broad political consensus. The Senate's involvement helps to ensure that the President cannot appoint extreme nominees. The Senate's involvement helps to ensure that judges are more independent.

The Framers wanted the courts to be an independent branch of government, helping to exercise the Constitution's intricate system of checks and balances. The Senate's involvement in the confirmation of judges helps to ensure that the judiciary can be that more independent branch. And that independence of the judiciary, in turn, helps to ensure the protection of personal rights and liberties.

Just witness the Bill of Rights and the Constitution and the degree to which the court protects the Bill of Rights against improper encroachment by the legislative branch and in some cases by the executive branch.

The current fight over allowing the President to more easily gain confirmation of Supreme Court Justices and Appellate Court judges recalls another such effort by a President to affect the independence of the judiciary. It was in 1937, when President Franklin Roosevelt tried to pack the Supreme Court.

Roosevelt's effort to pack the Court failed in 1937 because enough Senators from his own party stood up to their President. They stood up for the Constitution that they loved.

One of those Senators was Montana's Burton K. Wheeler.

Until then, Burt Wheeler, a Democrat, had been an ardent champion of New Deal causes. But that changed with Roosevelt's effort to pack the Court.

In his book about Lyndon Johnson, Master of the Senate, the historian Robert Caro recounts what happened:

Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, long a leader in Senate fights for liberal causes, was coming to see that the Court plan implied an alteration in the whole balance of governmental power in favor of the White House. What, he wondered, would come next? He refused to fight for this cause. Wheeler was a senator other senators followed. Roosevelt sent his aide Thomas G. Corcoran to him with an offer. Its details would be a matter of dispute; at a very minimum, Wheeler would be allowed to give 'advice' on the nominations of two of the six justices. Wheeler had accepted other offers from Corcoran before, but he refused to do so on the Court-packing plan. 'I'm going to fight it with everything I've got,' he told Corcoran. The President hurriedly invited his old friend Burt to dine at the White House that evening; the Senator replied that the President had better 'save the plate for someone who persuaded more easily'.

And on the Senate floor, Senator Wheeler said:

I am saying to the Senator now that those connected with the administration have said that they wanted six men upon the Supreme Court whom they could trust, that they wanted men on the Court who would decide cases as they wanted them to be decided. That is the issue. It can be camouflaged as much as one wants to attempt to camouflage it, but the truth is that it is impossible to get away from the fact that this is a proposal to make the Supreme Court of the United States subservient to the executive branch of government.

Similar words could be said about the current effort to abridge the Senate's involvement in securing the independence of the Court. There are those connected with the current effort who want people "on the Court who would decide cases as they want them to be decided." And it is impossible to deny that the effect of the current proposal would be "to make the Supreme Court of the United States [more] subservient to the executive branch of government."

There is no doubt about it. That is the intent. That is the result.

On the Senate floor, Senator Wheeler also said:

I say the step proposed is one of the most dangerous ever suggested, and it will set the most dangerous precedent of which I can conceive. You can bring political pressure to bear on me, you can say, 'You have to go along because of the fact that the administration wants it.' You can say that the privilege of appointing postmasters will not be accorded me; you can say that I will get no more projects for my State, worthy or unworthy; you can say what you please; but I say to Mr. Farley [the Postmaster General and Chairman of the Democratic National Committee] and to everyone else that, so far as I am concerned, I will vote against this proposal because it is morally wrong, morally unsound. It is a dangerous precedent. . . . it gets us nowhere, it is an expedient, it is a stopgap and dictatorial, and so far as I am concerned, if I am the only man in the Senate to do so, I shall vote against it.

Once again, similar words could be said about the current effort to abridge the Senate's involvement in securing the independence of the Court. "[T]he step proposed is one of the most dangerous ever suggested." "[I]t will set the most dangerous precedent" "[I]t is morally wrong, morally unsound." "[I]t gets us nowhere" "[A]nd so far as I am concerned, if I am the only man in the Senate to do so, I shall vote against it."

I only hope that enough Senators from the majority will have the courage that Burt Wheeler had, to stand up to their President, and stop this effort to undermine our Nation's cherished checks and balances.

In the latter half of the 19th Century, James Bryce was the Ambassador of the United Kingdom to the United States. In 1888, he wrote of America's independent judiciary:

The Supreme Court is the living voice of the Constitution It is the guarantee of the minority who, when threatened by the impatient vehemence of the majority, can appeal to this permanent law, finding the interpreter and enforcer thereof in a Court set high above the assaults of faction.

For two centuries, the Senate's rules have protected the rights of the minority party, Democrats and Republicans alike, and thereby protected the independence of the judiciary. After two centuries, it would be a mistake to change those rules.

As the Senior Senator from Tennessee, the Majority Leader, wrote in a forward to a book published last year entitled Senate Procedure and Practice, and I quote:

[A]bove all, together the Senate's rules and practices form a whole. It is a whole that faithfully reflects the Framers' design and ambition for the body. It is a whole that remains true to the Senate's two paramount values: unlimited debate and minority rights.

[U]nlimited debate and minority rights.

That is what the leader wrote just a year ago: unlimited debate is one of the paramount values in the Senate's rules. Minority rights is the other one.

"[U]nlimited debate" allows Senators to protect "minority rights." The Senate's rules help to protect the independent judiciary. The Senate's rules help to ensure that no one party has absolute power. The Senate's rules help to give effect to the Framers' conception of checks and balances to protect the rule of law.

John Locke wrote in The Second Treatise on Government:

Wherever law ends, tyranny begins.

John F. Kennedy said:

Law is the strongest link between man and freedom.

And the Greek philosopher Heraclitus of Ephesus wrote:

The people should fight for their law as for their city wall.

I urge my Colleagues on the other side of the aisle to fight for this city wall. I urge them to defend the independence of the judiciary. One hallmark that sets the United States apart from most countries in the world is a strong, independent judiciary: not bullied by the legislative branch, not bullied by the executive branch; an independent judiciary.

I urge my colleagues to defend that independence and I urge them to reject this effort to overturn the Senate's rules.

Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The bill clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

TRANSPORTATION EQUITY ACT: A LEGACY FOR USERS—Continued

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that we resume the highway bill.

AMENDMENT NO. 567 WITHDRAWN

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the pending substitute amendment be withdrawn.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

AMENDMENT NO. 605

(Purpose: To provide a complete substitute)

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, I now send a substitute amendment to the desk.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The bill clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Oklahoma [Mr. INHOFE] proposes an amendment numbered 605.

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

(The amendment is printed in today's RECORD under "Text of Amendments.")

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Missouri.

Mr. BOND. Mr. President, finally, after much laboring, this massive new substitute, or managers' amendment, is before us.

This reflects the tremendous amount of work our staffs have done over the recess as well as the many long weeks and months our committees worked on it. It is not what anybody would say is a perfect bill. Everybody would like more money, and many would like more money in different places. But given the constraints under which we operated, this is the best we have been able to produce. Obviously, we hope that after the Senate may complete action on the supplemental, which I understand may be coming up, we would like to move as quickly as we can on this bill.

The leadership on both sides has told us they want to finish the bill by this week. That is an ambitious schedule but, frankly, the current extension of the highway transportation bill runs out at the end of this month. The only hope we have of meeting that deadline and getting a bill to the President is to get it to conference this week. The conference is going to be difficult because of the different approach taken by the House than the approach we have taken.

The approach we have taken, and the EPW Committee, on highway funds is one of bipartisan cooperation, to use formulas to assure that the highway money goes to States on the various indicators of need built into the formulas. I happen to think the formulas undercut the crossroads of the United States. I will be showing, when people talk about needs in other areas, a map by the U.S. Department of Transportation showing the level of heavy traffic on the roads in America. It is no surprise that that heavy traffic goes right through the middle of America, through Oklahoma, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana. We are the crossroads States. We are not doing as well in our States as many of the other States that are asking for more money.

When people say they want more money, my response is: I do, too. But we have attempted to follow the pattern established in previous formulas. And if people want to change it, I have some changes I would like to make as well and include the crossroads where the traffic is the heaviest and where, in my State and in Oklahoma, we now recognize the fact that deaths caused by inadequate highways is a legitimate concern for a bill called SAFETEA.

I am delighted, through the leadership of Senator INHOFE and the co-operation and leadership of our colleagues on the other side of the aisle, Senator JEFFORDS, Senator BAUCUS, Senator REID, who worked very closely with me on the last highway bill, we brought our section to the floor as well as the sections from the other committees. We look forward as soon as we can to going back to work on it. We would ask any of our colleagues who have amendments, particularly to our section, you have had a chance to look at it, we have had a chance to work on it. I hope we can move quickly because the time will be short and the bill is important.

With that, I thank the chairman of our committee and yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. VITTER). The Senator from Oklahoma.

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, I thank the senior Senator from Missouri. He has worked tirelessly, as chairman of the Subcommittee on Transportation of the Environment and Public Works Committee. You always hear that working with Senators is like herding cats. I think we have learned that on this bill. It is very difficult. Of course, by the very nature of the Senate, one person can hold things up. But I don't think there is anything this year we are going to be dealing with that is more important than our highway reauthorization bill.

Last year we passed a good bill out of committee. We were unable to get it out of conference last year. This year I am sure that situation will change.

As we work on it this week, I agree it is an ambitious schedule to get it done, but I am anticipating we are going to have to at some point file cloture. I would certainly tell any of the staff and Members who might be listening that we are open for business. We now have the substitute amendment on the floor so we know what we are working with. We would ask them to bring their amendments down. We can't do anything with an amendment unless we see it, unless we have it before us.

I know what is going to happen if we don't do that. When we come up against some deadlines, trying to get this passed out of here at the end of the week, people are going to be saying they didn't have time. You have time now. We are waiting for you. We want you to bring them down.

The substitute amendment we adopted has some changes in it. We did increase some highway funding by $8.9 billion. That would be the highway funding portion. That was over the EPW bill that we passed out of the committee that we chair. And it includes a 5.1-percent increase in both the apportioned and allocated programs. It also includes the minimum rate of return for donor States to 91 percent and working up to 92 percent. This is not as ambitious as it was last year, but last year we were dealing with a bill that was $318 billion over a 6-year period. This is going to be about 251 over the remaining 5 years of the 6-year reauthorization.

Last year's bill, the donee status was improved more dramatically so that for States such as my State of Oklahoma and the State of the Presiding Officer, we would have that up to a minimum of 95 percent. That means we would get back at least 95 percent of that which is collected in our respective States. We can't quite do that with the smaller amount, but certainly it is enhanced a little bit with the amendment we just agreed to consider.

So we have a lot in here, and they are going to be a part of this bill. Again, the only thing that needs to be done right now is for amendments to be brought to the floor. By the way, Senator BOND is right when he says there are a lot of Members who are not happy, and they won't have enough money in their States. I am not happy about the amount of money in Oklahoma. There was a lot of compromising over a 3-year period to get us where we are today. However, if you are not happy, offer an amendment. We will consider it and we will vote on it. That is what the process is all about.

We have a lot to be done in the next 4 days. We expect that we are going to be doing it. We are encouraging people to come down with their amendments.

I chair the EPW committee, but we also have some titles in here by the Banking Committee, the Commerce Committee, and the Finance Committee. We have been talking to those chairmen. I believe they are ready. So we could entertain amendments on any of these sections or any of the titles of the bill.

MORNING BUSINESS

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that we go into a period of morning business with each Senator permitted to speak for up to 10 minutes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

HONORING OUR ARMED FORCES

SERGEANT ROBERT J. "JASON" GORE

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I rise today to recognize a fellow Iowan who has fallen in service to his country. SGT. Robert J. "Jason" Gore of Nevada, IA, was killed on April 21, when insurgents shot down his helicopter. Jason had already completed one tour in Iraq before he began his tour as a security guard for Blackwater USA. He was only 23 years old and is survived by a mother, father, brother, and grandparents.

Jason grew in Nevada, IA, and chose to attend St. John's Northwestern Military Academy for his last 2 years of high school. Sergeant Gore excelled there in academics, athletics, and leadership, and he was described as a kind young man with a purpose-driven life and a great enthusiasm for the opportunity to serve in the military.

Sergeant Gore's patriotism for his country and zeal for life must be recognized and appreciated today and in days to come. In his honor, I urge all Americans to contemplate their love for this great country and to think about the patriotic ideals which Jason held in such high esteem. In memory of his life and his great sacrifice so willingly made, we are called to rekindle in ourselves the fiery devotion and enthusiasm of SGT. Robert J. Gore. I offer my condolences to the family and friends of Jason who have felt this loss most deeply. Today, their son, brother, grandson, and friend stands as a beacon of enduring patriotism, deserving of emulation by all Americans.

CARE COORDINATION

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, I welcome this opportunity to call the attention of my colleagues to the important issue of improving the coordination of health care for the Nation's senior citizens. As we all know, large numbers of senior citizens receive health care and treatment from several different physicians. In fact, more than half the patients with serious chronic conditions have three or more different physicians.

Too often, a physician seen by a patient is not aware of the tests and prescriptions that other physicians have ordered for the same patient. The result is that the patient receives care that is often duplicative, and may actually be harmful.

We need new ideas on improving care coordination for patients—particularly for senior citizens.

The Boston Globe recently published a thoughtful article by Lois Quam, CEO of the Ovations division of UnitedHealth Group, describing new initiatives to improve the quality of health services provided to senior citizens. It includes a number of worthwhile recommendations, and I urge my colleagues to take the time to read it carefully. We can clearly do better, much better, in this important area of health care.

I ask unanimous consent that the article "Rx For Medicare" be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

RX FOR MEDICARE

(By Lois Quam)

Social Security reform will dominate politics and be the subject of much debate for months to come. However, failure to address rising healthcare costs, by changing the way Medicaid and Medicare-funded care is delivered, could undermine efforts to ensure financial security for many retirees.

Over the next 75 years, the government is expected to pay more than $27 trillion in healthcare benefits promised to seniors seven times its Social Security obligations for that period. Further, a recent analysis by Urban Institute researchers suggests that by 2040, typical seniors might have to spend approximately one-fifth of their Social Security benefits on Medicare premiums.

Simply cutting funds for federal healthcare programs would be shortsighted and potentially devastating to millions of older Americans, including more than 960,000 in Massachusetts. A better way to control costs while improving the quality of healthcare is to rethink the traditional models for delivering care.

Chronically ill patients with five or more medical conditions made up only 20 percent of all Medicare beneficiaries in 2004 but accounted for more than two-thirds of the program's $302 billion in costs. In any single year, such patients are likely to fill up to 20 separate prescriptions, visit emergency rooms a dozen times or more, and require hospitalization at least five times. Too often these patients must make sense of an array of confusing, even conflicting, information. This fragmentation of care can lead to poor health outcomes that are unnecessarily costly and draining for patients and physicians alike. We can reduce this burden by organizing our resources more efficiently and effectively.

The traditional Medicare and Medicaid fee-for-service systems are structured primarily to provide acute care, not to meet the needs of the chronically ill. These latter patients require comprehensive management of their health, emphasizing coordination of multiple treatments, health maintenance, and prevention of disease. While there has not been any effort to implement a care model of this kind on a national scale, many smaller programs have already demonstrated this approach's value in reducing costs and improving care.

For example, On Lok SeniorHealth, a community-based organization in San Francisco, provides seniors with a complete program of health services preventive, acute, and rehabilitative care along with home healthcare, social services, and such personal assistance as meal delivery, transportation, and help with prescriptions. On Lok's patients report better overall health and fewer acute-care needs and hospitalizations than comparable groups of Medicare beneficiaries.

I have also seen the impact of this care model at my own company. Our Evercare plans identify the most costly, at-risk patients and deliver care within a system of careful monitoring and management. At the heart of this system are practitioners who coordinate multiple services, facilitate communication between providers and patients, and ensure integration of treatments.

Evercare is also working with Massachusetts to ensure this kind of care is brought to seniors living in nursing homes, as well as to home-based elderly and disabled. The Massachusetts Senior Care Options program provides enrollees with hands-on medical care coordination as well as home care support services, such as outfitting the home for special needs, housekeeping, transportation to physicians' offices, and meals.

Again, there is evidence that the model can reduce costly, redundant services while improving patient care. Federally commissioned studies of Evercare programs in several states showed that they slashed hospitalizations in half while gaining a 97 percent satisfaction rating from participating families. The Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services point to Evercare as the model for the Special Needs Plans included in the Medicare Modernization Act of 2003. In Texas, another program using this model saved more than $100 million in two years and improved seniors' access to services.

The long-term survival of Medicaid and Medicare may depend on the wide adoption of this approach, whether it is offered by private companies such as Ovations or not-for-profit programs like On Lok. We have an opportunity to do so for the chronically ill within the framework of the Medicare Modernization Act's Special Needs plans. However, both the public and private sectors need to do a much better job of analyzing the effectiveness of alternative-care models and applying evidence-based lessons on a nationwide basis.

By working together, public and private leaders have the opportunity to improve the quality of life for more than 41 million older Americans and conserve Medicare resources. This issue also affects younger generations, who must have the security of knowing that their parents, and then they themselves, will be well cared for as they age. But we need to move quickly, beginning this year. If we wait until Washington deals with Social Security and other issues on its agenda, we may simply run out of time.

NOMINATION OF JOHN BOLTON

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, I rise today in support of the nomination of John Bolton, the President's nominee for U.S. representative to the United Nations with the rank of Ambassador.

The President, together with his principal Cabinet officers, has put together an extraordinary national security team. John Bolton will be a valuable addition to this team.

The President and his Secretary of State, Condoleezza Rice, have expressed their confidence that John Bolton has the experience and skills to represent the United States at the United Nations and to carry out the President's priorities to strengthen and reform the U.N. I concur in the confidence they placed in the nominee.

John Bolton has had a long and distinguished career in public service and in the private sector. Most recently, he has served for the past 4 years as the Under Secretary of State for Arms Control and International Security Affairs. In that capacity, Secretary Bolton worked to build a coalition of over 60 countries to help combat the spread of weapons of mass destruction through the Proliferation Security Initiative, PSI. He was a leader in creating the G8 Global Partnership to, in effect, "multilateralize" the Nunn-Lugar nuclear threat reduction concept by inviting other nations to join the United States in helping to eliminate and safeguard dangerous weapons and technologies which remain in the countries of the former Soviet Union.

Previously, John Bolton has served as Assistant Secretary of State for International Organization Affairs, as an Assistant Attorney General in the Department of Justice, and many years ago he held several senior positions in the Agency for International Development. He has also had a distinguished legal career in the private sector.

Mr. Bolton has at times advocated or represented controversial positions which have sparked controversy. But he has done so with a frankness and assertiveness that demonstrate his strongly held beliefs. As this committee, and later the full Senate, considers this nomination, we should keep in mind the words of Secretary Rice: "The President and I have asked John Bolton to do this work because he knows how to get things done. He is a tough-minded diplomat, he has a strong record of success and he has a proven track record of effective multilateralism . . . John, you have my confidence and that of the President."

Given the enormity of problems facing the U.N. today, we have an obligation to send a strong-minded individual to help constructively to solve these problems and to regain the confidence of the American people in the continuing need for the U.N.

I share the President's and the Secretary's expectation that John Bolton will faithfully represent the United States' interests and enthusiastically advance the President's goal of making the United Nations a stronger, more effective international organization.

PRAYER AT SCHOOL BOARD MEETINGS

Mr. VITTER. Mr. President, last Thursday was designated as a National Day of Prayer. I began the day at a prayer breakfast with the people of Tangipahoa, LA, whose school board was recently the subject of a Federal court ruling against prayer at board meetings.

This February 24 ruling, by U.S. District Court Judge Ginger Berrigan of New Orleans, was filed by an unnamed individual with the backing of the American Civil Liberties Union. The purpose of the lawsuit was to stop prayers at Tangipahoa Parish School Board meetings.

In her ruling against the school board, Judge Berrigan said:

[i]n officially promoting a religious practice at its governmental meetings, the board is doing what its schools and teachers cannot do, favor religion over non-religion and endorse particular religious faiths.

If this ruling stands, school boards in other parts of Louisiana as well as school boards across the country could be subjected to similar lawsuits.

Many have joined me in criticizing this February 24 ruling, including the Democratic Governor of Louisiana, Kathleen Blanco, who called for the school board to appeal the decision to the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals. As stated by Governor Blanco:

I believe that such prayers are entirely appropriate, constitutional, and in keeping with a practice in our nation that dates back to the Continental Congress.

I could not agree more with that statement, and I am delighted that the school board on May 1, 2005 voted unanimously to appeal the district court's ruling.

To me, this February 24 ruling seems like another attempt by Federal courts to legislate from the bench—especially when you consider that other law-making bodies are allowed to hold prayer. Here in the Senate, we routinely open with a prayer, as does the U.S. House of Representatives and as do State legislatures across the Nation.

In 1983, the U.S. Supreme Court held, in the case of Marsh v. Chambers, that the practice of opening legislative sessions with prayer has become part of the fabric of our society. To invoke divine guidance on a public body entrusted with making the laws is not a violation of the Establishment Clause, but rather is simply an acknowledgment of beliefs widely held among the American people, said the Court.

Voluntary prayer in elected bodies should not be limited to prayer in State legislatures and Congress. School boards are deliberative bodies of adults. They are similar to a legislature in that they are elected by the people, act in the public interest, and are open to the public for voluntary attendance.

And let's not forget that this Nation was founded on the principle of freedom of religion. Not freedom from religion but freedom of religion. The Framers intended that the U.S. Constitution would bar the Government from enacting any law that favors one religious denomination over another, not prevent any mention of religion or reference to God in civic dialogue. The Framers recognized that freedom to practice religion and to express religious thought is a fundamental and alienable right belonging to all Americans.

The ACLU, which backed this lawsuit against the school board, has criticized those of us who have called for the school board to appeal the district court ruling. I do not share the ACLU's opinion, and more importantly, the people of Louisiana do not share the ACLU's opinion.

It is a fact that Americans often turn to their elected officials for relief, especially after being rebuffed by courts. As stated by the nonpartisan Congressional Research Service:

With regard to religious liberty, the origin and growth of an individual's right to believe or not believe, and the safeguarding of that right, have occurred almost entirely outside the courtroom. The regular political process has protected the religious freedom of minorities as well as and often better than the courts.

In short, it is not unusual for Congress to advance religious liberty beyond what is available from the judiciary.

On April 29 I introduced a resolution, S. Res. 132, expressing the United States Senate's support for the practice of prayer at the beginning of school board meetings. U.S. Congressman BOBBY JINDAL has introduced a similar measure in the U.S. House of Representatives.

I want to take this opportunity to thank Mr. COBURN, Mr. GRASSLEY, and Mr. DEMINT for their cosponsorship of S. Res. 132. I urge my other colleagues to support this resolution, which recognizes that prayer before school board meetings is a protected act in accordance with fundamental principles upon which this Nation was founded.

SUPPORTING RESPONSIBLE GUN STORAGE LEGISLATION

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, two separate accidental shootings in Detroit on April 22 of this year left one 13-year-old boy dead and a 9-year-old boy critically wounded. These tragedies should remind us again that much more must be done to prevent access to guns by children.

According to published reports, both of these shootings involved children playing with guns inside their own homes. In both cases, the guns accidentally discharged and shot the victim in the head. In reference to the accidental shooting of the 9-year-old boy, Lieutenant James Tolbert of the Detroit Police Department commented, "This is an unfortunate and needless incident that would have been prevented if people would make sure that a weapon in the home is secure and out of reach." In addition, Lieutenant Tolbert suggested that similar shootings could be prevented through the use of trigger locks or the storage of ammunition separate from the gun.

Recent research supports Lieutenant Tolbert's suggestions. A study published in the Journal of the American Medical Association found that the application of responsible gun storage measures can significantly reduce the risk of unintentional shooting or suicide by minors using a gun. According to the study, when ammunition in the home is locked up, the risk of such injuries is reduced by 61 percent. Simply storing ammunition separately from the gun reduces such occurrences by more than 50 percent.

According to the Brady Campaign to Prevent Gun Violence, teenagers and children are involved in more than 10,000 accidental shootings in which close to 800 people die each year. Reducing the number of accidental shootings involving children and teenagers requires that commonsense gun storage measures be adopted.

During the 108th Congress, I joined with 69 of my colleagues in voting for Senator BOXER's trigger lock amendment. Senator BOXER's amendment would have required that all handguns sold by a dealer come with a child safety device, such as a lock, a lock box, or technology built into the gun itself that would increase the security of the weapon while in storage. Although the underlying gun industry immunity bill to which this amendment was attached was later defeated, the support for Senator BOXER's proposal is clear.

Requiring that guns be stored in a responsible manner could have prevented many of the accidental shootings we have seen in Detroit and around the country. I am hopeful that Congress will work to limit children's access to guns so that fewer families will have to endure the loss of their child because of a preventable accident.

HONORING IOWA FINALISTS WE THE PEOPLE: THE CITIZEN AND THE CONSTITUTION NATIONAL COMPETITION

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I rise to congratulate the students from Central Academy in Des Moines, IA who recently participated in the We the People: The Citizen and the Constitution national finals in Washington, DC. The annual competition is the culmination of the students' extensive study of the American system of constitutional democracy. The team from Central Academy won the State competition, earning the honor of representing Iowa in the national finals from April 30 through May 2, 2005. I am also proud to say that they won a unit award for their impressive performance on unit 3.

Unfortunately, I was in Iowa during the national finals this year so I was unable to meet with the students from Iowa as I customarily do. However, I am always impressed by how knowledgeable and politically astute the students are who have been through this program and I understand this year's group of students was no exception. I know Iowans can be very proud to have had them representing Iowa.

The We the People: The Citizen and the Constitution program is run by the Center for Civic Education with the help of federal funding. The program provides an excellent curriculum and valuable professional development opportunities for teachers, giving students a solid grounding in the history, philosophy, and practice of our American system of constitutional democracy. The result is young people who are more politically aware, more engaged, and more equipped to be good citizens.

In closing, I would like to recognize the Central Academy students who participated in this program, Emily Burney, Julia Busiek, Kate Conlow, Tim Di Iulio, Jon Hill, Lisa Jefferson, Alix Liftka-Reselman, Phillip Miller, Ben Miller-Todd, David Nolan, Caroline Rendon, Andrew Tatge, Erin Turner, Emily Varn, and their teacher, Michael Schaffer. They can all be very proud of their knowledge and accomplishments. I would also like to recognize the We the People district coordinator, Ivette Bender, and the state coordinator for Iowa, Linda Martin, for their hard work and dedication to the We the People program.

NOMINATION OF STEVEN JOHNSON TO BE ADMINISTRATOR OF THE ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION AGENCY

Mr. FEINGOLD. Mr. President, I would like to briefly discuss my vote in favor of cloture on the nomination of Stephen Johnson to be the Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency EPA. I have always believed that the President should be granted significant deference in selecting his Cabinet and close advisers. Unlike judicial nominees, the EPA Administrator will serve for 4 years at the President's discretion.

Furthermore, the President made a good choice. Stephen Johnson, who has served the country for 24 years as a career EPA employee, is a well-qualified nominee who enjoys broad public support. When his nomination was considered by the Senate Environment and Public Works Committee this spring, the committee approved his nomination by a vote of 17-1. He will serve the country well as Administrator of the EPA.

I share my colleagues' concerns about the administration's refusal to provide the Senate Environment and Public Works Committee with EPA's analysis of the clean air bills pending before the Senate. I am proud to co-sponsor Senator JEFFORDS' Clean Power Act, and I believe that the administration's Clear Skies proposal is woefully inadequate. I agree that the information Senator CARPER has requested from EPA is vitally important to evaluate the differing clean air regulation proposals. EPA's refusal to turn over its analysis indicates that its own data do not lend support to the Clear Skies initiative. Disclosure of Government data to the public is a cornerstone of our democracy, and this administration has continually attempted to avoid congressional oversight. I implore Mr. Johnson, on his first day as EPA Administrator, to turn over these documents to the Senator CARPER and Senator JEFFORDS. To restore credibility to the agency that is supposed to safeguard human health and the environment, Administrator Johnson should release this information immediately.

Nonetheless, I do not believe that the administration's refusal to provide this information should stand in the way of this qualified nominee leading the Nation's Environmental Protection Agency.

SOUTH MOUNTAIN PEACE ACTION

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Mr. President, I rise today to praise a group of my constituents working toward the noble goal of peace. This group is called South Mountain Peace Action, and its members are active in Maplewood and South Orange, NJ. Peace Action members have circulated a petition in their community about the war in Iraq. The petition was signed by more than 1,200 concerned New Jerseyans, so I think it is important for Congress to take note of their actions.

The Peace Action petition discusses the staggering costs of the Iraq War, both in terms of American lives and taxpayer dollars. As of today, more than 1,600 American troops have died and nearly 12,000 have been wounded in action. We have now lost over 50 people with ties to New Jersey. I have attended several funerals for New Jersey's fallen soldiers, and each funeral is a difficult, emotional experience. I have also been to Walter Reed Army Hospital and I have seen firsthand the debilitating injuries suffered by our troops.

The taxpayer costs of the war are also staggering. So far, the war and reconstruction of Iraq have cost more than $200 billion, and the spigot of taxpayer funds continues to run. Originally, Secretary of Defense Donald Rumsfeld told us that war in Iraq would cost "under $50 billion," but due to a lack of planning and terrible decisions by the Bush administration, the costs are skyrocketing.

This war is tainted by the faulty information that the President provided the Nation and the world about Saddam Hussein's supposed stockpile of weapons of mass destruction. But our troops are there and we must support them. And, in my view, we must work to stabilize Iraq and bring our troops home as soon as possible.

Thanks to groups such as Peace Action, our communities are speaking up about the costs of this war. I hope that their activism will bring positive results for our Nation and for our troops in Iraq and their families.

ADDITIONAL STATEMENTS

(At the request of Mr. REID, the following statement was ordered to be printed in the RECORD.)

TRIBUTE TO KIP JANVRIN

• Mr. HARKIN. Mr. President, I rise today to honor a native Iowan and a remarkable athletic champion, Kip Janvrin. Late last month, just 3 months shy of his 40th birthday, he accomplished the amazing feat of winning the decathlon at the Drake Relays for the 15th time. Overall, Kip has finished 85 of the 88 decathlons he has entered since 1983. He has won 38 of them, which is a world record.

The Drake Relays are one of the Nation's most prestigious track and field events, held each spring at Drake Stadium in Des Moines. This year, the 96th annual Drake Relays, Kip took the field for the last time in an event, the decathlon, that he has dominated at Drake for 22 years.

Over the years, the words Drake Relays and Kip Janvrin have become virtually synonymous. From Jesse Owens to Wilma Rudolph, Gwen Torrance, Carl Lewis and Michael Johnson, the Drake Relays have seen almost all of the great Olympians in track and field. But one Olympian, Kip Janvrin, has been a dominant presence for more than two decades, competing in what is arguably the most grueling and demanding event in all of sports.

If the cheers at Drake are especially loud for Kip, it is because he is a native son of Iowa, raised in Panorama and a graduate of Simpson College in Indianola. It is fitting that the last year for the original Drake Stadium will also be the last year that this American original competes in the Relays.

Kip is one of the top-ranked decathletes in the world, and he is the oldest active U.S. competitor in this extraordinarily demanding event. The decathlon is a 10-event competition which takes place over 2 days. It includes the 100-meter dash, long jump, shot put, high jump, 400 meter dash, 110 meter hurdles, discus, pole vault, javelin and 1,500 meter run. Kip began competing in the decathlon in 1983, and quickly excelled in all 10 events.

While attending Simpson College, Kip competed many times in the Drake Relays. His first victory came in 1987. His 15 championships at the Drake Relays are the most by any athlete in the history of that event. In 1998, he was inducted into the Drake Relays Hall of Fame. During his years at Simpson, he earned three NCAA titles in the decathlon, and two more NCAA titles in individual events. He was inducted into the Simpson Hall of Fame in 1998, and the NCAA Division III Track and Field Hall of Fame in 2004.

Kip's accomplishments are nothing short of amazing. He holds the world records in career victories, in scores over 7,000 points, and in consecutive finishes. He also holds the world record for the double decathlon, a demanding event involving every event in track and field, except for the marathon and walks.

Kip won the decathlon at the 1995 Pan American Games. As a member of the U.S. Olympic team at the 2000 Games in Sydney, Australia, he was the oldest decathlete ever to compete for the United States. In 2001, he won the decathlon at the USA Outdoor Championships. Last year, Kip came in second at the Drake Relays, the first time in 9 years that he did not come in first. However, Kip took the loss in stride, because the victor was his protégé, Travis Goepfert, also a native of Panorama, IA.

Kip is currently in his 15th year as co-head coach at Central Missouri State University in Warrensburg. He and his wife, Teresa, have two sons, Jaxon, age 9, and Mason, age 7.

So as Kip Janvrin savors a victory in his final Drake Relays, I extend my congratulations and best wishes. With his self discipline, his commitment to excellence, and his enormous human decency, he represents Iowa at its very best. Win or lose, he has always been a true champion.●

CELEBRATION OF SEX DIFFERENCES IN HEALTH AWARENESS DAY

• Mr. HARKIN. Mr. President, May 8 to 14 is National Women's Health Week and a time that we should take a careful look at the state of women's health in this country and in particular look at the lack of equality that still exist for women in access to health care. I have long been concerned about the status of women's health care policies in the United States. That is why I have supported several bills and policy changes to improve women's health status.

For too long, the Federal Government failed to recognize the health differences between men and women. For example, for many years clinical trials run by the Food and Drug Administration, FDA, often excluded women. As a result, safety and efficacy standards failed to take into account the physiological differences between men and women. That is why I have worked with the FDA to increase the number of women included in these important clinical trials.

One way to ensure that we continue to make steady improvements on women's health issues is to ensure that our public health agencies work in a coordinated manner to consider the public health impact on women of a range of health issues. We can accomplish this goal by passing the Women's Health Offices Act, which statutorily establishes Offices of Women's Health at all of our public health agencies.

While we have made progress we need to continue efforts to focus on the fact that women's health research is key to the future of improving and saving more lives. As a result of such research, death rates have decreased for women with tumors of the cervix, breast, uterus, and ovary. Quality of life has also improved for cancer patients through the development of less invasive surgical techniques, organ-sparing treatments, and better control of pain and nausea related to chemotherapy.

Women's health is an issue I take very seriously. My two sisters both had breast cancer and died of the disease, in a time before regular mammograms and improved treatment methods were widely used or available.

I believe that we must work together in a bipartisan manner to refashion our health care system so that all Americans, especially women, have access to the high quality care they deserve at an affordable price.●

TRIBUTE TO INTERNS

● Mr. HARKIN. Mr. President, today I extend my appreciation to my spring 2005 class of interns: Sarah Krantz, Matt Hill, Lauryn Douglas, Matt Drake, Stephanie Strasko, John Anderson, Ben Taylor, Stacey Shin and Kathryn Anderson. Each of them has been of tremendous assistance to me and to the people of Iowa over the past several months.

Since I was first elected to the Senate in 1984, my office has offered internships to young Iowans and other interested students. Through their work in the Senate, our interns have not only seen the legislative process, but also personally contributed to our Nation's democracy.

It is with much appreciation that I recognize Sarah, Matt, Lauryn, Matt, Stephanie, John, Ben, Stacey and Kathryn for their hard work this spring. It has been a delight to watch them take on their assignments with enthusiasm and hard work. I am very proud to have worked with each of them. I hope they take from their spring a sense of pride in what they have been able to accomplish, as well as an increased interest in public service and our democratic system and process.●

STATEMENTS ON INTRODUCED BILLS AND JOINT RESOLUTIONS

By Mr. BURNS:

S. 977. A bill to include claims for injuries and death due to exposure during certain time periods from fallout emitted during the Government's above-ground nuclear tests in Nevada that exposed individuals who lived in the downwind affected area in the State of Montana; to the Committee on Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions.

Mr. BURNS. Mr. President, in Montana, when someone does something to hurt someone else, they make it right. Not just because it is the right thing to do, but because in this State we shoot straight and take responsibility for our actions that's why I'm working to bring some of that Montana ethic to Washington to get the Federal Government to make amends for actions that have caused too many Montanans great pain and suffering.

Nuclear testing in Nevada during the 1950's threw blooms of radioactive Iodine-131, I-131, high into the atmosphere. Those who were affected are sometimes referred to as "Down Winders" because the wind carried the poisonous iodine north to Montana where gravity finally kicked in and the radioactive material settled to the ground. It eventually got into the milk supply—one of the primary sources of Iodine 131—and disproportionately affected milk drinkers. And who drinks milk? Children and babies, who are the most vulnerable in society.

Iodine-131 is absorbed by the thyroid—the organ of the body that uses iodine to produce important hormones. It can take between 20 and 40 years, but eventually the damage caused by Iodine-131 manifests itself as thyroid cancer. I've had cancer, and I understand the physical, mental and emotional pain that follows this terrible disease. I know the pain, and it is time that the government made right the harm it has caused to people in my State of Montana.

In 1990, the Radiation Exposure Compensation Act or RECA was signed into law. This measure provided financial compensation for victims living downwind of the Nevada Test Site to the tune of $50,000 per person. The law covered select counties in Nevada, Utah and Arizona. Later, this Act was amended to include compensation for uranium miners in Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Wyoming, North Dakota, South Dakota, Utah, Colorado, Arizona, New Mexico and Texas.

However, Montana, with 15 of the 25 counties with the highest dosage, Meagher, Broadwater, Beaverhead, Jefferson, Powell, Judith Basin, Madison, Fergus, Gallatin, Petroleum, Lewis and Clark, Blaine, Silver Bow, Chouteau and Deer Lodge, single most affected county in the United States, Meagher, is the only State in the affected region to receive no RECA compensation at all. If that doesn't sound right, it's because it's not.

Montanans have experienced unbelievably high rates of thyroid cancer. Between 1989 and 2003, the national rate of thyroid cancer increased by 38 percent. In that same timeframe, Montana's rate increased by a whopping 127 percent. And yet, Montana is the only State in the region that is excluded from RECA. In 2000, the rate of reported thyroid cancer in Montana was 17.5 times greater than the national rate. And yet, Montana is the only State in the region that is excluded from RECA.

On April 28, 2005, at the request of Congress, a report was released by the National Academy of Sciences. The 500-page report confirms the inadequacy of current RECA compensation. Most importantly, it supports the fact that Montana was one of the worst affected States. The fact is that folks in Montana were involuntarily subjected to increased risk of injury and disease in order to serve the national security interests of the United States. Moreover, they deserve our compassion and support. I strongly encourage my colleagues to support the expansion of RECA to my State of Montana.

By Mr. AKAKA:

S. 979. A bill to strengthen United States capabilities to secure sealed sources of nuclear materials from terrorists; to the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources.

Mr. AKAKA. Mr. President, I rise today to introduce the Safe Storage of Radiological Materials Act of 2005 to prevent sealed radioactive sources, which can be used to create "dirty bombs," from getting into the hands of terrorists. This bill is similar to S. 1045, the Low-Level Radioactive Waste Act, which I introduced in 2003.

Since September 11, 2001, the Congress has faced the challenge of anticipating where the next attack on the United States will come from and in what form it will come. It is important to weigh where to invest precious security resources, knowing everything can't be protected. Many vulnerabilities deserve serious attention. Some can be addressed with relative ease.

Thousands of unwanted sealed radioactive sources are currently held by the private sector, research institutions, and medical laboratories where these sources are generally unprotected and accessible. An April 2003 report I requested from the Government Accountability Office, GAO, entitled "Nuclear Proliferation: DOE Action Needed to Ensure Continued Recovery of Unwanted Sealed Radioactive Sources," stated that "if these sealed sources fell into the hands of terrorists, they could be used as simple and crude but potentially dangerous radiological weapons, commonly called dirty bombs." Most experts agree that it would not require much scientific expertise or funding to cobble together a dirty bomb from radioactive material. In other words, the required materials are accessible and the assembly is relatively rudimentary.

The GAO report focused on greater-than-class-C, GTCC, sealed sources. GTCC radiological sources are the "high end" of the continuum of low-level radioactive waste. Class A, B, and C wastes can generally be disposed of at existing commercial disposal facilities. But wastes that exceed the Nuclear Regulatory Commission's criteria for Class C, known as greater-than-class-C wastes, are potent enough that they cannot be disposed of at existing facilities. While GTCC wastes are not as dangerous as high-level radioactive waste and therefore are not considered the highest security priority, they are the most potent of low level waste and necessitate progressively more stringent disposal requirements.

The Low-Level Radioactive Waste Policy Amendments of 1985, P.L. 99-240, required the Department of Energy, DOE, to provide a facility for disposing of all GTCC radioactive waste, including GTCC sealed sources that are no longer utilized by their owners. GAO found that little to no work had been done to designate a permanent disposal site. Although DOE has said that the facility will be up and running by 2007, it seems unlikely as they have only just begun the necessary environmental impact statement process.

In 1999, DOE created the Off-Site Source Recovery Project, OSRP, to recover unwanted GTCC sealed sources and temporarily house them at the Department of Energy's Los Alamos National Laboratory. According to GAO testimony before the Senate Energy Committee in September 2004, approximately 10,000 GTCC sealed sources from about 160 sites across the U.S. had been recovered to date. However, approximately 8,000 sources still remained in insecure facilities at the time of the hearing.

The job is not done, but the National Nuclear Security Administration (NNSA), the division within DOE responsible for the U.S. Radiological Threat Reduction, USRTR, previously the OSRP, has made great strides. Since I first introduced S. 1045, the Low Level Radioactive Waste Act, in May 2003, the prioritization of off-site recovery of GTCC sources has heightened. DOE received a $10 million supplemental for the program in 2003 and the President's fiscal year 06 budget proposes funding the USRTR at $12.75 million, up 69 percent from the fiscal year 05 enacted level of $7.54 million.

Earlier this month, NNSA called to let me know it intended to remove 100 sources of cobalt-60, which is GTCC, from the University of Hawaii.

The University had been trying to get DOE, the owners of the material, to dispose of the sources for years. The radioactive material was used in an irradiator and loaned to the University back in the 1960s for agricultural research. I am grateful that NNSA stepped up its recovery of unneeded radiological sources and helped to relieve the burden of guarding potentially dangerous material from the University administration.

The progress made by NNSA, while appreciated and laudable, is nonetheless a first step. Without the designation of a permanent disposal facility for GTCC waste, DOE will run out of temporary storage space. The Department already encountered problems finding a place to store strontium-90, cesium-137, and plutonium-239, all GTCC sources that have unique storage requirements. A permanent disposal facility that can accommodate all GTCC waste must be identified.

The Safe Storage of Radiological Materials Act of 2005 would require DOE to report to Congress on the current situation and future plans for disposal alternatives for GTCC radioactive waste and the cost and schedule to complete an environmental impact statement and record of decision on a permanent disposal facility for GTCC radioactive wastes. My bill would also require DOE to provide Congress with a plan for the short-term recovery of GTCC radioactive waste until a permanent facility is available. This legislation parallels the recommendations of the April 2003 GAO report, and I believe enactment of this bill is critical to securing sealed sources of nuclear material.

Twenty years is too long to wait for an agency to do its job. I urge my colleagues to support this important piece of legislation.

I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

S. 979

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the "Safe Storage of Radiological Materials Act of 2005".

SEC. 2. DISPOSAL OF CERTAIN LOW-LEVEL RADIOACTIVE WASTE.

(a) FINDINGS.—Congress finds that—

(1) according to the report of the National Commission on Terrorist Attacks Upon the United States, more than 2 dozen terrorist groups, including al Qaeda, are pursuing chemical, biological, radiological, and nuclear materials;

(2) according to the report of the National Commission on Terrorist Attacks Upon the United States, the United States is a prime target for weapons made with chemical, biological, radiological, and nuclear materials;

(3) the Department of Energy estimates that about 10,000 sealed sources of greater-than-Class C low-level radioactive waste (as defined in section 61.55 of title 10, Code of Federal Regulations) will become unwanted and will have to be disposed of through the Department of Energy by 2010;

(4) the Department of Energy—

(A) does not have adequate resources or storage facilities to recover and store all unwanted sources of greater-than-Class C low-level radioactive waste; and

(B) has not identified a permanent disposal facility;

(5) a report by the Government Accountability Office entitled "Nuclear Proliferation: DOE Action Needed to Ensure Continued Recovery of Unwanted Sealed Radioactive Sources" states that "[t]he small size and portability of the sealed sources make them susceptible to misuse, improper disposal, and theft. If these sealed sources fell into the hands of terrorists, they could be used as simple and crude but potentially dangerous radiological weapons, commonly called dirty bombs."; and

(6) the Government Accountability Office report further states that "[c]ertain sealed sources are considered particularly attractive for potential use in producing dirty bombs because, among other things, they contain more concentrated amounts of nuclear material known as 'greater-than-Class-C material.'"

(b) RESPONSIBILITY FOR ACTIVITIES TO PROVIDE STORAGE FACILITY.—The Secretary of Energy shall provide to Congress official notification of the final designation of an entity within the Department of Energy to have the responsibility of completing activities needed to provide a facility for safely disposing of all greater-than-Class C low-level radioactive waste.

(c) REPORTS AND PLANS.—

(1) REPORT ON PERMANENT DISPOSAL FACILITY.—

(A) PLAN REGARDING COST AND SCHEDULE FOR COMPLETION OF EIS AND ROD.—Not later than 1 year after the date of enactment of this Act, the Secretary of Energy, in consultation with Congress, shall submit to Congress a report containing an estimate of the cost and a proposed schedule to complete an environmental impact statement and record of decision for a permanent disposal for greater-than-Class C radioactive waste.

(B) ANALYSIS OF ALTERNATIVES.—Before the Secretary of Energy makes a final decision on the disposal alternative or alternatives to be implemented, the Secretary of Energy shall—

(i) submit to Congress a report that describes all alternatives under consideration, including all information required in the comprehensive report making recommendations for ensuring the safe disposal of all greater-than-Class C low-level radioactive waste that was submitted by the Secretary to Congress in February 1987; and

(ii) await action by Congress.

(2) SHORT-TERM PLAN FOR RECOVERY AND STORAGE.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—Not later than 180 days after the date of enactment of this Act, the Secretary of Energy shall submit to Congress a plan to ensure the continued recovery and storage of greater-than-Class C low-level radioactive sealed sources that pose a security threat until a permanent disposal facility is available.

(B) CONTENTS.—The plan shall address estimated cost, resource, and facility needs.

By Mr. NELSON of Florida:

S. 980. A bill to provide state and local governments with financial assistance that will increase their ability and effectiveness in monitoring convicted sex offenders by developing and implementing a program using global positioning systems to monitor convicted sexual offenders or sexual predators released from confinement; to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. NELSON of Florida. Mr. President, I commend the leadership.

I rise to address the Senate on the subject of sexual predators. We have certainly had our fill of these people who prey on children in the State of Florida. The Nation has recently joined Florida in mourning the deaths of two young girls murdered by registered sex offenders. In March, an attacker walked in to—

Mr. INHOFE. Will the Senator yield for a question?

Mr. NELSON of Florida. Certainly.

Mr. INHOFE. Could I inquire as to how long you would like to address the Senate in morning business.

Mr. NELSON of Florida. About 5 minutes.

I thank the distinguished Senator from Oklahoma. I know this is a subject that he is quite concerned with. The Nation was gripped with the news of this sexual predator who walked into the unlocked home of a 9-year-old, Jessica Lunsford, in Homosassa, FL, took her from her bed—I want the Senator from Oklahoma to listen to the emotion in my voice. He walked into her unlocked home, took her from her bed, raped her, and then buried her alive. The man who is charged is a registered sex offender, previously convicted of molesting a minor, but law enforcement had lost track of him. In fact, he was living within 150 feet of Jessica Lunsford.

To add insult to injury, he was working at an elementary school.

Unfortunately, it did not stop there. About a month later, 13-year-old Sarah Lunde was abducted from her home in Rushkin, FL, and she was murdered. Her confessed killer is her mother's ex-boyfriend, who is also a convicted sex offender.

In our State alone, we have over 30,000 registered sex offenders, and there are more than 300,000 nationwide. The Bureau of Justice Statistics has provided data showing that 70 percent of all the men in prison for a sex crime were men whose victim was a child.

In 2003, the Justice Department published a report on recidivism rates of sex offenders, and it has produced some disturbing statistics. The Department of Justice tracked 9,691 male sex offenders released from 15 State prisons, including Florida. They tracked them for a 3-year period and found that 40 percent of the sex offenders who re-offended did so within the first year, and within 3 years of their release from prison, 5.3 percent of those sex offenders were rearrested for another sex crime. Is this beginning to tell us a story? Half of the sex offenders tracked in this study included men who molested children, and within the first 3 years of their release from prison, 3.3 percent of these convicts were rearrested for another sex crime against a child.

In the wake of the two recent tragedies in Florida, of Jessica Lunsford and Sarah Lunde, the State legislature passed a law that will provide tougher sentences for child sex offenders, and aid law enforcement in effectively monitoring those sex offenders. This law will require sex offenders, released back into our communities, to wear a bracelet that will have a global positioning system track them.

I applaud the initiative by our State, and I believe now there ought to be an appropriate Federal response to be supportive of the States and local governments that want to address this problem. The technology is there, but it is expensive. To be effective, tough laws on these sexual predators of children must be properly funded, and I believe it is worth properly funding them to protect our children.

Today I am introducing this bill, the Sexual Predator Effective Monitoring Act, which will provide $30 million in grants to States that establish programs under their State law to get tougher on child sex offenders released back into a community and to get tougher on them with more effective monitoring and tracking. This bill directs the Attorney General to award grants to those States to assist them in carrying out programs to outfit sexual offenders with an ankle bracelet that will track them using global positioning systems.

In the first year, I am suggesting that this bill offer $10 million in grants. In the second year, $20 million, and then we would have to come back and readdress the issue. The Attorney General then would be directed to issue a report so we could go on with future extension of the bill. There are no silver bullets to stop these sexual predators from preying on our children, but I believe tough laws, such as the new Florida statute, are going to go a long way in preventing these sexual offenders from reoffending.

Nine-year-old Jessica Lunsford's confessed rapist and murderer was living only within 150 feet of her home, but law enforcement officers did not know where he was because he failed to notify them of his changed address. Law enforcement also did not know he was working in a nearby elementary school, nor did the school know they had a registered sex offender on school property.

GPS monitoring systems, when properly used, will assist law enforcement in knowing where these child sex offenders are and preventing them from going into restricted areas like elementary schools. We owe it to our children to do all we can to make sure that we keep them safe. That is why I am introducing this bill today.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

S. 980

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the "Sexual Predator Effective Monitoring Act of 2005".

SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

Congress finds that—

(1) in recent years we have seen multiple cases of convicted sexual offenders serving probation abducting and murdering young children;

(2) several states have begun the development and implementation of outfitting convicted sexual offenders with Global Positioning Systems to track their movements while on probation;

(3) the employment of these devices will assist law enforcement in tracking the movements and location of probationers in real time to within 10 ft. of their location;

(4) Global Positioning System tracking will permit law enforcement to ensure that convicted sex offenders do not go to areas restricted according to the terms of their probation;

(5) Global Positioning Systems will serve to deter sexual predators from re-offending as they will know that their movements are monitored and tracked by law enforcement; and

(6) in the event that a convicted sexual offender commits an additional sex offense while on probation and monitored with a Global Positioning System, the Global Positioning System technology will aid law enforcement in the investigation of these crimes by quickly determining the location of sexual offenders within the area of the suspected crime.

SEC. 3. SEXUAL PREDATOR MONITORING PROGRAM.

(a) GRANTS AUTHORIZED.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The Attorney General is authorized to award grants and contracts to State and local governments to assist such States and local governments in—

(A) carrying out programs to outfit sexual offenders with electronic monitoring units; and

(B) the employment of law enforcement officials necessary to carry out such programs.

(2) DURATION.—The Secretary shall award grants under this Act for a period not to exceed 3 years.

(b) APPLICATION.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Each State or local government desiring a grant under this Act shall submit an application to the Attorney General at such time, in such manner, and accompanied by such information as the Attorney General may reasonably require.

(2) CONTENTS.—Each application submitted pursuant to paragraph (1) shall—

(A) describe the activities for which assistance under this Act is sought; and

(B) provide such additional assurances as the Attorney General determines to be essential to ensure compliance with the requirements of this Act.

SEC. 4. PROPORTIONAL SHARE.

The Attorney General shall ensure that each State with eligible programs receives a proportional share of funding under this Act based on the total number of eligible States and the population of sex offenders to be monitored with global positioning systems in those States.

SEC. 5. DEFINITION.

In this Act, the term "sexual offender" means an offender 18 years of age or older who commits a sexual offense against a minor.

SEC. 6. AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—There are authorized to be appropriated $10,000,000 for fiscal year 2006 and $20,000,000 for fiscal year 2007 to carry out this Act.

(b) REPORT.—Not later than April 1, 2007, the Attorney General shall report to Congress—

(1) assessing the effectiveness and value of this Act; and

(2) making recommendations for continuing funding and the appropriate levels for such funding.

Mr. DEMINT. Mr. President, I rise today to introduce the Truth in Employment Act, a bill I previously introduced in the House of Representatives to stem the harm done to companies by salting, a union tactic that is causing material economic damage to small businesses everyday in this country.

There is a basic disagreement over the definition of salting. While union supporters and the NLRB have defined the term as the "placing of union members on non-union job sites for the purpose of organizing," it has been widely documented that the true motivation of many salts is simply to increase the cost of doing business for non-union contractors, regardless of the wishes of the employer's bona fide employees.

Salting is much more than someone seeking employment for the purpose of union organizing. It is an attempt to interfere with business operations, harass employees, and cause economic harm through illegal activities and frivolous legal complaints against employers. Union organizers who fail to convince employees to organize will use salting to shut down non-union companies, often going to extreme lengths, including preventing deliveries to job sites and destroying building supplies.

In my own State of South Carolina, salting has resulted in the loss of hundreds of jobs. In Sumter, South Carolina, the Yuasa Exide battery plant was targeted by a union.

Union salts infiltrated the plant, and when employees there did not unionize, the union retaliated by sabotaging product, causing work slow downs, making verbal threats and threatening phone calls, and putting nails in people's tires. Union leaders threatened to shut down the plant and they did just that. Six hundred and fifty people were laid off because the Yuasa Exide plant could not afford the increased cost to the business of defending itself and its employees from the union salting campaign. Yuasa Exide, which was the first tenant in Sumter's industrial park, had been there since 1965 and provided high-tech, good-paying jobs in a rural area, was forced to close its doors because of salting.

The impacts of salting are felt by many. Companies see increased costs from having to defend themselves against labor relations complaints as well as lost hours of productivity from having to fight these charges. Consumers are impacted by salting when they experience increased costs and higher prices. Moreover, Federal agencies spend untold sums to investigate claims that are later found to be without merit, forcing taxpayers to effectively subsidize union activity.

To put it bluntly, salting is a job killer. At a time when we are working in Congress to enact policies which will spur job growth and ensure future economic prosperity, salting abuses stand directly in the way of these goals. We can no longer allow American jobs to suffer at the hands of Washington labor bosses.

To prevent salting abuses from causing more harm to employers, I am introducing the Truth in Employment Act which amends section 8(a) of the National Labor Relations Act (NLRA) to make clear that an employer is not required to hire any person who seeks a job in order to promote interests unrelated to those of the employer. This bill in no way infringes upon any rights or protections otherwise accorded employees under the NLRA. Employees will continue to enjoy their right to organize. The bill merely seeks to alleviate the legal pressures imposed upon employers to hire individuals whose overriding purpose for seeking the job is to disrupt the employer's workplace or otherwise inflict economic harm designed to put the employer out of business. This bill in no way infringes upon any rights or protections otherwise accorded employees under the NLRA, or any other employment statute.

I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

S. 983

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the "Truth in Employment Act of 2005".

SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

Congress finds that:

(1) An atmosphere of trust and civility in labor-management relationships is essential to a productive workplace and a healthy economy.

(2) The tactic of using professional union organizers and agents to infiltrate a targeted employer's workplace, a practice commonly referred to as "salting" has evolved into an aggressive form of harassment not contemplated when the National Labor Relations Act was enacted and threatens the balance of rights which is fundamental to our system of collective bargaining.

(3) Increasingly, union organizers are seeking employment with nonunion employers not because of a desire to work for such employers but primarily to organize the employees of such employers or to inflict economic harm specifically designed to put nonunion competitors out of business, or to do both.

(4) While no employer may discriminate against employees based upon the views of employees concerning collective bargaining, an employer should have the right to expect job applicants to be primarily interested in utilizing the skills of the applicants to further the goals of the business of the employer.

SEC. 3. PURPOSES.

The purposes of this Act are—

(1) to preserve the balance of rights between employers, employees, and labor organizations which is fundamental to our system of collective bargaining;

(2) to preserve the rights of workers to organize, or otherwise engage in concerted activities protected under the National Labor Relations Act; and

(3) to alleviate pressure on employers to hire individuals who seek or gain employment in order to disrupt the workplace of the employer or otherwise inflict economic harm designed to put the employer out of business.

SEC. 4. PROTECTION OF EMPLOYER RIGHTS.

Section 8(a) of the National Labor Relations Act (29 U.S.C. 158(a)) is amended by adding after and below paragraph (5) the following:

"Nothing in this subsection shall be construed as requiring an employer to employ any person who seeks or has sought employment with the employer in furtherance of other employment or agency status."

SUBMITTED RESOLUTIONS

Whereas in 2003, 3,900,000 men, women, and children went hungry every day, a troubling statistic that has steadily increased in recent years;

Whereas 23,000,000 men and women and more than 9,000,000 children rely on food banks to survive every year;

Whereas in 1992, the National Association of Letter Carriers recognized this crisis and began the "Stamping Out Hunger" national food drive;

Whereas 1,400 National Association of Letter Carriers branches in more than 10,000 cities in all 50 States have collected millions of pounds of food every year since 1992;

Whereas in 2004, the National Association of Letter Carriers collected a record-breaking 70,900,000 pounds of food;

Whereas the National Association of Letter Carriers provides desperately needed resources to food banks in the spring and summer months, the time when donations levels are at their lowest;

Whereas the National Association of Letter Carriers has created much needed bridges between its hard working members, residents in their communities, and those in need;

Whereas the National Association of Letter Carriers Food Drive will take place on May 14, 2005;

Whereas the National Association of Letter Carriers will send nearly 150,000,000 postcards to postal customers to urge donations for the Food Drive; and

Whereas letter carriers will be collecting food, as well as mail, at mailboxes across the country, performing their daily job, and collecting food for the hungry, come rain or shine: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Senate—

(1) congratulates the members of the National Association of Letter Carriers for their hard work on behalf of the millions of people who go hungry each day; and

(2) encourages the people of the United States to follow the example of the members of the National Association of Letter Carriers by donating food to local food banks and participating in the National Association of Letter Carriers Food Drive on May 14, 2005, by placing nonperishable food by their mailboxes.

SENATE RESOLUTION 134—EXPRESSING THE SENSE OF THE SENATE REGARDING THE MASSACRE AT SREBRENICA IN JULY 1995

Mr. SMITH (for himself and Mr. BIDEN) submitted the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations:

S. RES. 134

Whereas, in July 1995, thousands of men and boys who had sought safety in the United Nations-designated "safe area" of Srebrenica in Bosnia and Herzegovina under the protection of the United Nations Protection Force (UNPROFOR) were massacred by Serb forces operating in that country;

Whereas, beginning in April 1992, aggression and ethnic cleansing perpetrated by Bosnian Serb forces, while taking control of the surrounding territory, resulted in a massive influx of Bosniaks seeking protection in Srebrenica and its environs, which the United Nations Security Council designated a "safe area" in Security Council Resolution 819 on April 16, 1993;

Whereas the UNPROFOR presence in Srebrenica consisted of a Dutch peace-keeping battalion, with representatives of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees, the International Committee of the Red Cross, and the humanitarian medical aid agency Medecins Sans Frontieres (Doctors Without Borders) helping to provide humanitarian relief to the displaced population living in conditions of massive overcrowding, destitution, and disease;

Whereas Bosnian Serb forces blockaded the enclave early in 1995, depriving the entire population of humanitarian aid and outside communication and contact, and effectively reducing the ability of the Dutch peace-keeping battalion to deter aggression or otherwise respond effectively to a deteriorating situation;

Whereas, beginning on July 6, 1995, Bosnian Serb forces attacked UNPROFOR outposts, seized control of the isolated enclave, held captured Dutch soldiers hostage and, after skirmishes with local defenders, ultimately took control of the town of Srebrenica on July 11, 1995;

Whereas an estimated one-third of the population of Srebrenica, including a relatively small number of soldiers, made a desperate attempt to pass through the lines of Bosnian Serb forces to the relative safety of Bosnian-held territory, but many were killed by patrols and ambushes;

Whereas the remaining population sought protection with the Dutch peacekeeping battalion at its headquarters in the village of Potocari north of Srebrenica but many of these individuals were randomly seized by Bosnian Serb forces to be beaten, raped, or murdered;

Whereas Bosnian Serb forces deported women, children, and the elderly in buses, held Bosniak males over 16 years of age at collection points and sites in northeastern Bosnia and Herzegovina under their control, and then summarily murdered and buried the captives in mass graves;

Whereas approximately 20 percent of Srebrenica's total population at the time—at least 7,000 and perhaps thousands more—was murdered;

Whereas the United Nations and its member states have largely acknowledged their failure to take actions and decisions that could have deterred the assault on Srebrenica and prevented the subsequent massacre, including the lengthy report issued by the Government of the Netherlands on April 10, 2002, entitled "Srebrenica, a 'safe' area—Reconstruction, background, consequences and analyses of the fall of a safe area";

Whereas Bosnian Serb forces, hoping to conceal evidence of the massacre at Srebrenica, subsequently moved corpses from initial mass grave sites to many secondary sites scattered throughout parts of northeastern Bosnia and Herzegovina under their control;

Whereas the massacre at Srebrenica was among the worst of many horrible atrocities to occur in the conflict in Bosnia and Herzegovina from April 1992 to November 1995, during which the policies of aggression and ethnic cleansing pursued by Bosnian Serb forces with the direct support of authorities in the Federal Republic of Yugoslavia (Serbia and Montenegro) ultimately led to the displacement of more than 2,000,000 people, an estimated 200,000 killed, tens of thousands raped or otherwise tortured and abused, and the innocent civilians of Sarajevo and other urban centers repeatedly subjected to shelling and sniper attacks;

Whereas Article 2 of the Convention on the Prevention and Punishment of the Crime of Genocide, done at Paris December 9, 1948, and entered into force January 12, 1951, defines genocide as "any of the following acts committed with intent to destroy, in whole or in part, a national, ethnical, racial or religious group, as such: (a) killing members of the group; (b) causing serious bodily or mental harm to members of the group; (c) deliberately inflicting on the group conditions of life calculated to bring about its physical destruction in whole or in part; (d) imposing measures intended to prevent births within the group; (e) forcibly transferring children of the group to another group";

Whereas, on May 25, 1993, the United Nations Security Council adopted Security Council Resolution 827, establishing the world's first international war crimes tribunal, the International Criminal Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia (ICTY), based in The Hague, the Netherlands, and charging the ICTY with responsibility for investigating and prosecuting individuals suspected of committing war crimes, genocide, crimes against humanity, and grave breaches of the 1949 Geneva Conventions on the territory of the former Yugoslavia since 1991;

Whereas numerous members of the Bosnian Serb forces and political leaders at various levels of responsibility have been indicted for grave breaches of the 1949 Geneva Conventions, violations of the laws or customs of war, crimes against humanity, genocide, and complicity in genocide associated with the massacre at Srebrenica, some of whom have been tried and sentenced while others, including Radovan Karadzic and Ratko Mladic, remain at large; and

Whereas the international community, including the United States, has continued to provide personnel and resources, including through direct military intervention, to prevent further aggression and ethnic cleansing, to negotiate and help ensure the full implementation of the General Framework Agreement for Peace in Bosnia and Herzegovina, initialled at Dayton, Ohio, November 21, 1995, and done at Paris December 14, 1995, including cooperation with the International Criminal Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That it is the sense of the Senate that—

(1) the thousands of innocent people murdered at Srebrenica in Bosnia and Herzegovina in July 1995, along with all individuals who were victimized during the conflict and genocide in Bosnia and Herzegovina from 1992 to 1995, should be solemnly remembered and honored;

(2) the policies of aggression and ethnic cleansing as implemented by Serb forces in Bosnia and Herzegovina from 1992 to 1995 meet the terms defining the crime of genocide in Article 2 of the Convention on the Prevention and Punishment of the Crime of Genocide, done at Paris December 9, 1948, and entered into force January 12, 1951;

(3) foreign nationals, including United States citizens, who have risked, and in some cases lost, their lives in Bosnia and Herzegovina while working toward peace should be solemnly remembered and honored;

(4) the United Nations and its member states should accept their share of responsibility for allowing the Srebrenica massacre and genocide to occur in Bosnia and Herzegovina from 1992 to 1995 by failing to take sufficient, decisive, and timely action, and the United Nations and its member states should constantly seek to ensure that this failure is not repeated in future crises and conflicts;

(5) it is in the national interest of the United States that those individuals who are responsible for war crimes, genocide, crimes against humanity, and grave breaches of the 1949 Geneva Conventions committed in Bosnia and Herzegovina should be held accountable for their actions;

(6) all persons indicted by the International Criminal Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia (ICTY) should be apprehended and transferred to The Hague without further delay, and all countries should meet their obligations to cooperate fully with the ICTY at all times; and

(7) the United States should continue to support—

(A) the independence and territorial integrity of Bosnia and Herzegovina;

(B) peace and stability in southeastern Europe as a whole; and

(C) the right of all people living in southeastern Europe, regardless of national, racial, ethnic or religious background—

(i) to return to their homes and enjoy the benefits of democratic institutions, the rule of law, and economic opportunity; and

(ii) to know the fate of missing relatives and friends.

MR. SMITH: Mr. President, I rise today to mark a solemn anniversary. Ten years ago this July, thousands of Bosnian Muslims sought safety from the brutal ethnic cleansing campaign conducted by Bosnian Serb forces in the small town of Srebrenica. This was supposed to be a "Safe Area," a space designated and protected by the United Nations as a place of refuge. Instead, it became the site of the worst case of genocide in Europe since World War II.

I am pleased to submit a resolution today, along with my colleague Senator BIDEN, which recognizes this somber anniversary. The resolution also reiterates our support for the need to bring to justice those who perpetrated this crime against humanity.

In June 1995, after three years of war, the Bosnian Serbs launched a brutal attack against the Muslim enclave of Srebrenica. In what was an incomprehensible and fatal error, United Nations Protection Force (UNPROFOR) had collected weapons from the Bosnian Muslims in return for its designation of Srebrenica as a safe area. This rendered the population even more vulnerable to the Bosnian Serb assault.

The presence of the U.N. soldiers and the confiscation of the Muslims' arms was supposed to deter a Bosnian Serb attack by removing any semblance of provocation. But the Bosnian Serbs struck anyway and the UNPROFOR troops were unable to assist the Muslim population they had placed at such disadvantage.

The Bosnian Serbs easily overtook the city, deporting women, children, and the elderly in buses. Bosniak men older than 16 were rounded up and held at collection points in northeastern Bosnia. Here they were summarily murdered and buried in mass graves.

At least 7,000 Bosnian Muslims, 20 percent of Srebrenica's total population at the time, were murdered. A similar enclave at Zepa, allegedly protected by the United Nations force, fell to the Serb onslaught two weeks later.

After learning of the genocide committed by the Nazis during the second World War, the world made a promise: We said "never again." Yet 50 years later on the European continent, men and boys were murdered solely because they were Muslim.

So as we look back and remember a decade later, we must learn from the mistakes that were made at Srebrenica. We should ensure that those responsible are held accountable for their actions. We should continue to support the independence and territorial integrity of Bosnia and Herzegovina and peace and stability in southeastern Europe as a whole. We should support the right of all people living in the region, regardless of national, racial, ethnic or religious background, to return to their homes and enjoy the benefits of democratic institutions, the rule of law, and economic opportunity. We should encourage all efforts to determine the fate of all those still missing.

And finally, we should solemnly remember and honor all those that were victims of the massacre at Srebrenica.

“(A) IN GENERAL.—The amount which, but for this paragraph, would be includible in the gross income of any individual by reason of this section shall be reduced (but not below zero) by $600,000. For purposes of this paragraph, allocable expatriation gain taken into account under subsection (f)(2) shall be treated in the same manner as an amount required to be includible in gross income.

“(B) COST-OF-LIVING ADJUSTMENT.—

“(i) IN GENERAL.—In the case of an expatriation date occurring in any calendar year after 2005, the $600,000 amount under subparagraph (A) shall be increased by an amount equal to—

“(B) REQUIREMENTS.—Subparagraph (A) shall not apply to an individual unless the individual—

“(i) provides security for payment of tax in such form and manner, and in such amount, as the Secretary may require,

“(ii) consents to the waiver of any right of the individual under any treaty of the United States which would preclude assessment or collection of any tax which may be imposed by reason of this paragraph, and

“(2) DETERMINATION OF TAX WITH RESPECT TO PROPERTY.—For purposes of paragraph (1), the additional tax attributable to any property is an amount which bears the same ratio to the additional tax imposed by this chapter for the taxable year solely by reason of subsection (a) as the gain taken into account under subsection (a) with respect to such property bears to the total gain taken into account under subsection (a) with respect to all property to which subsection (a) applies.

“(3) TERMINATION OF POSTPONEMENT.—No tax may be postponed under this subsection later than the due date for the return of tax imposed by this chapter for the taxable year which includes the date of death of the expatriate (or, if earlier, the time that the security provided with respect to the property fails to meet the requirements of paragraph (4), unless the taxpayer corrects such failure within the time specified by the Secretary).

“(ii) an amount equal to the present value of the expatriate’s nonforfeitable accrued benefit shall be treated as having been received by such individual on such date as a distribution under the plan.

“(B) TREATMENT OF SUBSEQUENT DISTRIBUTIONS.—In the case of any distribution on or after the expatriation date to or on behalf of the covered expatriate from a plan from which the expatriate was treated as receiving a distribution under subparagraph (A), the amount otherwise includible in gross income by reason of the subsequent distribution shall be reduced by the excess of the amount includible in gross income under subparagraph (A) over any portion of such amount to which this subparagraph previously applied.

“(C) TREATMENT OF SUBSEQUENT DISTRIBUTIONS BY PLAN.—For purposes of this title, a retirement plan to which this paragraph applies, and any person acting on the plan’s behalf, shall treat any subsequent distribution described in subparagraph (B) in the same manner as such distribution would be treated without regard to this paragraph.

“(iii) the individual shall be treated as having recontributed the assets to the separate trust.

Subsection (a)(2) shall apply to any income, gain, or loss of the individual arising from a distribution described in subparagraph (C)(ii). In determining the amount of such distribution, proper adjustments shall be made for liabilities of the trust allocable to an individual’s share in the trust.

“(D) ALLOCABLE EXPATRIATION GAIN.—For purposes of this paragraph, the allocable expatriation gain with respect to any beneficiary’s interest in a trust is the amount of gain which would be allocable to such beneficiary’s vested and nonvested interests in the trust if the beneficiary held directly all assets allocable to such interests.

“(i) the tax determined under paragraph (1) as if the day before the expatriation date were the date of such cessation, disposition, or death, whichever is applicable, or

Such tax shall be imposed on the trust and each trustee shall be personally liable for the amount of such tax and any other beneficiary of the trust shall be entitled to recover from the covered expatriate or the estate the amount of such tax imposed on the other beneficiary.

“(B) DEFINITION OF ECONOMIC SUBSTANCE.—For purposes of subparagraph (A)—

“(i) IN GENERAL.—A transaction has economic substance only if—

“(B) ARTIFICIAL INCOME SHIFTING AND BASIS ADJUSTMENTS.—The form of a transaction with a tax-indifferent party shall not be respected if—

MEASURE PLACED ON THE CALENDAR—S. 975

Mr. McCONNELL. Mr. President, I understand there is a bill at the desk that is due for a second reading.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator is correct. The clerk will read the title of the bill for the second time.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

A bill (S. 975) to provide incentives to increase research by private sector entities to develop medical countermeasures to prevent, detect, identify, contain, and treat illnesses, including those associated with a biological, chemical, nuclear, or radiological weapons attack or an infectious disease outbreak, and for other purposes.

Mr. McCONNELL. In order to place the bill on the calendar under the provisions of rule XIV, I object to proceeding further.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Objection is heard, and the bill will be placed on the calendar.

MEASURE READ THE FIRST TIME—S. 981

Mr. McCONNELL. Mr. President, I understand there is a bill at the desk, and I ask for its first reading.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will read the title of the bill for the first time.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

A bill (S. 981) to ensure that a Federal employee who takes leave without pay in order to perform service as a member of the uniformed services or member of the National Guard shall continue to receive pay in an amount which, when taken together with the pay and allowances such individual is receiving for such service, will be no less than the basic pay such individual would then be receiving if no interruption in employment had occurred.

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, it is with some measure of frustration that I rise to again introduce the Reservist Pay Security Act. This bill allows members of the National Guard and Reserve who are Federal employees to maintain their normal salary when called to active duty by having Federal agencies make up the difference between their military pay and what they would have earned at their Federal civilian job.

This is not a radical concept. Many of the major employers in America offer a similar benefit for their employees in the Guard and Reserve who are mobilized and, due to lower military pay, suffer a loss of income. Companies such as Ford, General Motors, IBM, 3M and, in my own State of Illinois, Sears, as well as the Illinois State government and that of 23 other States provide this same exact security for their workers.

Why do they do this? For two reasons: First, These employers are patriotic members of American society who want to step up and do their part for the country while it is engaged in a war. Second, they want to send a clear message to their employees that they are valued where they work and that the organization is looking forward to their return. The Department of Defense operates a highly respected program known as Employer Support for the Guard and Reserve, or ESGR, which pays tribute to more than 900 such patriotic employers.

It is nothing less than shameful that the largest employer in America, the United States Federal Government, is not on that list because we do not provide a similar benefit for our employees in the Guard and Reserve.

I must note, however, that my colleagues in the Senate have generally recognized this and have joined me to correct this situation by passing the Reservist Pay Security Act. In October 2003, the Senate approved, by a vote of 96 to 3, my amendment to S. 1689, the supplemental appropriations for 2004. In June of 2004, it was agreed to by a voice vote as an amendment to S. 2400, the National Defense Authorization Act for 2005. Most recently, on April 13, the Senate passed this needed measure as an amendment to the supplemental appropriations bill for 2005. That was the third time this measure has passed the Senate. In each of those instances, this measure has been dropped in conference with our colleagues in the House of Representatives. It is unfortunate that some of our colleagues fail to appreciate the need to pass this bill.

The Senate knows this is important. The Reserve Officers Association knows that it is important. The National Guard Association of the United States knows that it is important. The Enlisted Association of the National Guard of the United States knows that it is important. And I can assure you that we in the Senate will not give up on this matter.

Today I introduce this measure with my colleagues, Senators MIKULSKI, ALLEN, LANDRIEU, LEAHY, LAUTENBERG, KERRY, SARBANES, and BINGAMAN. This bill is identical to the Reservist pay amendment to the supplemental with the exception that this measure provides a mechanism for possible retroactive payments for those who have served since October 11, 2002.

Of the nearly 1.2 million members of the National Guard and Reserves, some 120,000—approximately 10 percent—are also Federal employees. As of January 2005, more than 43,000 Federal employees had been activated since September 11, 2001. More than 17,000 are currently on active duty.

Income loss hurts Reserve component retention. Of the top 10 reasons cited for leaving the National Guard/Reserve, income loss was No. 4, trailing only family burden, deployment frequency and deployment length.

This measure has not been scored by CBO. Funds would likely come from existing appropriations. In addition to my own State of Illinois, 23 other State governments have similar salary continuation laws for State employees: Alabama, Alaska, California, Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Kansas, Maryland, Massachusetts, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Oklahoma, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Vermont, Virginia, Washington, and Wyoming. Most of these States report that this has required no additional appropriations. The differential was paid from funds already appropriated for government employee pay. With the exception of any retroactive payments, that would be true of our measure as well.

Reservists bring to military service their civilian professional skills and provide their civilian employers with the expertise and experience they have gained in the Armed Forces. This adds value to America.

Last year, the Senate Governmental Affairs Committee saw the value of supporting our citizen soldiers and reported this measure to the floor, but it did not see action as a free-standing bill before the Congress adjourned. I hope we can make it as a freestanding bill or as an amendment on some other legislation this year.

Our bottom line is simply this: Federal employees should not lose income when mobilized for extended duty in the National Guard and Reserve. Major American employers already protect their workers from such loss. It is time for the Federal Government to support our troops by doing the same.

Mr. MCCONNELL. Mr. President, I now ask for its second reading, and in order to place the bill on the calendar under the provisions of rule XIV, I object to my own request.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Objection is heard, and the bill will be read for the second time on the next legislative day.

S. RES. 115

Whereas cystic fibrosis, characterized by chronic lung infections and digestive disorders, is a fatal lung disease;

Whereas cystic fibrosis is 1 of the most common genetic diseases in the United States and 1 for which there is no known cure;

Whereas more than 10,000,000 Americans are unknowing carriers of the cystic fibrosis gene and individuals must have 2 copies to have the disease;

Whereas 1 of every 3,500 babies born in the United States is born with cystic fibrosis;

Whereas newborn screening for cystic fibrosis has been implemented by 12 States and facilitates early diagnosis and treatment which improves health and longevity;

Whereas the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention and the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation recommend that all States consider newborn screening for cystic fibrosis;

Whereas approximately 30,000 people in the United States have cystic fibrosis, many of them children;

Whereas the average life expectancy of an individual with cystic fibrosis is in the mid-thirties, an improvement from a life expectancy of 10 years in the 1960s, but still unacceptably short;

Whereas prompt, aggressive treatment of the symptoms of cystic fibrosis can extend the lives of people who have the disease;

Whereas recent advances in cystic fibrosis research have produced promising leads in gene, protein, and drug therapies beneficial to people who have the disease;

Whereas this innovative research is progressing faster and is being conducted more aggressively than ever before, due in part to the establishment of a model clinical trials network by the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation;

Whereas the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation marks its 50th year in 2005, continues to fund a research pipeline for more than 2 dozen potential therapies, and funds a nationwide network of care centers that extend the length and the quality of life for people with cystic fibrosis, but lives continue to be lost to this disease every day; and

Whereas education of the public on cystic fibrosis, including the symptoms of the disease, increases knowledge and understanding of cystic fibrosis and promotes early diagnosis: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Senate—

(1) designates May 2005 as "National Cystic Fibrosis Awareness Month";

(2) calls on the people of the United States to promote awareness of cystic fibrosis and actively participate in support of research to control or cure cystic fibrosis, by observing the month with appropriate ceremonies and activities; and

EXTENSIONS OF REMARKS

IN HONOR OF THE DEDICATION OF
THE GERALD SCHOENFELD AND
BERNARD B. JACOBS THEATRES
ON BROADWAY

HON. JERROLD NADLER

OF NEW YORK

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, May 9, 2005

Mr. NADLER. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to congratulate Gerald Schoenfeld and, posthumously, Bernard B. Jacobs on the occasion of the dedication of the Schoenfeld and Jacobs Theatres on Broadway. For over 20 successful years, Schoenfeld and Jacobs ran the Shubert Organization, America's oldest professional theatre company, as Chairman and President. With today's dedication, they are being honored with one of Broadway's most cherished and esteemed accolades.

Over the last 103 years, the Shubert Organization has owned hundreds of theatres and produced hundreds of plays and musical. Since the 1980s, the company's ticketing service has grown to become the leading ticket provider in New York City's thriving theatre industry. Founded at the end of the 19th century, three brothers, Sam, Lee and Jacob J. Shubert, from Syracuse, New York, founded the organization. Today, the Shubert Organization owns and/or operates 16 Broadway theatres and one Off-Broadway theatre in New York City, as well as theatres in Boston, Philadelphia, and Washington, DC.

Bernard B. Jacobs was born in New York City in 1916. In his long career on Broadway, he produced hundreds of plays, and was nominated for and won numerous Tony Awards. In 1996, the Shubert Organization lost its beloved and much admired President, and he was posthumously honored with the Special Tony Award for Lifetime Achievement in 1997.

Today, the Shubert Organization continues to thrive under the chairmanship of Gerald Schoenfeld. Schoenfeld was born in New York in 1924, and in his career has enjoyed tremendous success on Broadway. He is also deeply committed to the betterment of the City of New York, and is an active participant in civic affairs. Schoenfeld, with his former colleague, has produced hundreds of successful plays, and has been nominated for and won dozens of Tony Awards.

Under the leadership of Schoenfeld and Jacobs, the Shubert Organization was reorganized into the powerhouse it is today. Over the past three decades, the organization has dedicated its energies and resources to a long-term campaign for the revitalization of the American theatre. Its many projects have included the refurbishment of all Shubert playhouses, devoted participation in civic and community affairs, and a continuing effort to rehabilitate the Times Square Theatre District.

Today, May 9, 2005, I am pleased to join the Schoenfeld and Jacobs families, along with Hugh Jackman, Dame Edna Everage, and the cast of the Broadway hit "Avenue Q" as the Shubert Organization dedicates the Gerald Schoenfeld and Bernard B. Jacobs Theatres.

For their commitment to the theatre, their passion for the arts, and their efforts to better the lives of all New Yorkers, I congratulate and honor the Shubert Organization, and specifically Gerald Schoenfeld, and Bernard B. Jacobs, here today.

HONORING LESLIE BURGER

HON. RUSH D. HOLT

OF NEW JERSEY

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, May 9, 2005

Mr. HOLT. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to congratulate Leslie Burger, who was recently elected president of the American Library Association. Ms. Burger will serve for two years, as president-elect from July 2005 through June 2006, and then will take over as president of the ALA until 2007.

The American Library Association is a Chicago-based organization with more than 64,000 members. Established in 1876, the ALA offers leadership for the development, promotion, and improvement of libraries and librarians, to advance learning and guarantee access to information for everyone.

Leslie Burger is well prepared to serve as president of the ALA. She received a master's degree in organizational behavior from the University of Hartford, and a master's in library science from the University of Maryland—College Park, following graduation from Southern Connecticut State College. During her already accomplished career, she has continually fought to enhance and modernize libraries. Through her work at the Library Development Solutions, a firm which she founded over 10 years ago she has been a leader in integrating technology and developing new programs to keep libraries around the country up to date.

Leslie has been the director of the Princeton Public Library since 1999 in my district in New Jersey. Leslie was instrumental in securing funding for a new library in Princeton which opened over a year ago. She is a tireless worker in raising support (and funds) for the new building and services for the library. She has spent time working the "front line" of the library, where she works with patrons of all ages. She has reached out to underserved individuals by implementing new programs such as computer instruction in multiple languages and diverse cultural programming. Leslie also served as president of the New Jersey Library Association from 2001–2002.

Leslie has great plans for the future of the ALA. She hopes to improve salaries for librarians and other library workers, as well as modernize libraries so they are well equipped for the new technologies of the 21st century. She plans to fight against proposed library closings and cutbacks and extend the Campaign for America's Libraries. As president of ALA, she will ensure equal access for all individuals to library services and continue to develop diverse educational programming for patrons.

Leslie Berger has worked hard providing important services to residents of Central New Jersey. I am sure all my colleagues join me in congratulating Leslie Berger on her election as president of the American Library Association. I have no doubt that she will continue to be a great advocate for libraries and library workers nationwide.

HOLOCAUST REMEMBRANCE DAY

SPEECH OF

HON. HENRY A. WAXMAN

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, May 5, 2005

Mr. WAXMAN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to commemorate Yom HaShoah, Holocaust Martyrs' and Heroes' Remembrance Day, which is being observed today in the United States, Israel, and in Jewish communities around the world.

Each year this day is one of grief and hope. We memorialize the 6,000,000 Jews, including more than 1,000,000 children, who were murdered in the Holocaust. We observe the anniversary of the Warsaw ghetto uprising and remember the heroism of those who fought back. We honor the survivors and the tremendous strength it took for them to rebuild their lives.

I would like to take this opportunity to acknowledge two special commemorative ceremonies that took place in my district.

First, let me pay tribute to Café Europa, an association of Los Angeles area Holocaust survivors sponsored by Jewish Family Services. This week, Café Europa sponsored a special Yom HaShoah ceremony at Mount Sinai Memorial Park alongside Holocaust survivors from Café Europa of Tel Aviv and students from area schools. I want to particularly thank the survivors who courageously and poignantly shared their painful experiences through stories, poems, songs and photographs.

I would also like to recognize a community-wide ceremony in Pan Pacific Park sponsored by the Los Angeles Museum of the Holocaust, The Jewish Federation, Second Generation, and the Los Angeles Holocaust Monument Fund. This year, the program's theme, "From Liberation to the Pursuit of Justice," marks the 60th anniversary of the liberation of the concentration camps and the Nuremberg Trials to prosecute Nazi war criminals.

On this day we bear witness to the atrocities of the Nazi regime so that they are not forgotten and are never again repeated. We renew our commitment to Holocaust education to ensure that the lessons of the Holocaust do not fade away as the generation that lived through these events passes on. And perhaps most importantly, we pledge to fight future genocide by taking action against the slaughter of innocents going on today in places like Darfur, Sudan.

Matter set in this typeface indicates words inserted or appended, rather than spoken, by a Member of the House on the floor.

We cannot forget that the bloodshed could have been averted had the leaders of the world not been silent while Jews were being killed at Auschwitz. When we say "Never Again," let us learn from their mistakes.

HONORING THE CONTRIBUTIONS OF MRS. WILLIE STEPHENITCH

HON. JON C. PORTER

OF NEVADA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, May 9, 2005

Mr. PORTER. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor the contributions of Mrs. Willie Stephenitch to the State of Nevada. Mrs. Stephenitch has been recently named one of eight national recipients of the "Making a Difference" award by the Bureau of Land Management. Mrs. Stephenitch has volunteered for Friends of Red Rock Canyon for many years and has been instrumental in preserving the Red Rock Canyon National Conservation Area for future generations.

Some examples of the hands-on approach Mrs. Stephenitch has taken include extensive educational outreach regarding Red Rock Canyon; the design and development of "Trash Bash Day," a semi-annual clean-up event; and aiding in the coordination of Red Rock Canyon's annual "Tortoise Trot" trail run.

Red Rock Canyon is one of Nevada's crown jewels, and I thank Mrs. Stephenitch for her hard work and dedication in helping to increase community awareness and involvement for the protection of this area. Her enthusiasm and love for public lands has been felt by thousands of area residents and visitors and should serve as an example for Americans to live by.

Thank you for your hard work, Mrs. Stephenitch.

CHRISTY REID

HON. C.L. "BUTCH" OTTER

OF IDAHO

Monday, May 9, 2005

Mr. OTTER. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to draw the attention of the House of Representatives to an individual from my district whose creativity and vision have brought due accolades to both herself and the great State of Idaho.

Christy Reid was chosen out of the Nation of fifth graders as the winner of the National Arbor Day Poster Contest. Her beautiful artwork will now represent the National Arbor Day Foundation all year long. She has been honored in our home state of Idaho, in Nebraska City—the home of Arbor Day—as well as in Washington, DC.

Not only is Christy's artistic talent on display in the posters, but she also had the honor of planting a tree in the National Botanical Gardens. As this tree grows, surely so will Christy's talent and her excellent representation of the many things that Idaho has to offer. I hope the House will join me in acknowledging Christy's achievement.

MOURNING THE PASSING OF REPRESENTATIVE JOE. E. MORENO, TEXAS STATE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES—DISTRICT 143

HON. AL GREEN

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, May 9, 2005

Mr. AL GREEN of Texas. Mr. Speaker, my heart is heavy as I pause today to pay tribute to my colleague and an outstanding public servant, Joe Moreno who died tragically this past Friday, May 6, 2005.

A native of Houston, Texas, Mr. Moreno represented District 143 in the Texas State House for more than seven years after being elected with overwhelming grassroots support in November, 1998. A graduate of St. Thomas High School, he attended St. Thomas University and Texas Southern University. His unexpected death leaves a huge void in the lives of all of us who knew and respected him. As a dedicated community activist, Representative Moreno will be remembered as a champion who never wavered in his commitment to improving the lives of his constituents. An active member of the Resurrection Catholic Church, the Harris County Tejano Democrats and the League of United Latin American Citizens Council, Joe was awarded the prestigious title of "Legislator of the Year" in 2003 in recognition of his skills as a Member of the State House of Representatives.

Mr. Speaker, throughout his career, Representative Moreno has been honored by the Coalition of Texans with Disabilities, the East Harris County Manufacturing Association, the Houston Gulf Coast Chapter of the Labor Council for Latin American Advancement and the Hispanic Contractor's Association of the Greater Houston Area, Inc. During the 79th Legislative Session, he served on the Juvenile Justice and Family Issues Committee as well as the Borders and International Affairs Committee.

Finally, Mr. Speaker, this is a sad day, and I hope my colleagues will join me in saluting Joe Moreno, a pillar of the community whose contributions will not be forgotten.

THE INTERWOVEN VALUES OF FREEDOM AND MARKETS

HON. DONALD A. MANZULLO

OF ILLINOIS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, May 9, 2005

Mr. MANZULLO. Mr. Speaker, in today's times, we often find that the principle values and activities of the United States are under attack. Too few defenses are offered against such attacks, even if they question the very fundamentals of how we live and work. It is therefore helpful and encouraging to see when someone takes this responsibility seriously. Here are some thoughts of Professor Michael R. Czinkota of Georgetown University who professes his belief on how to advance the cause of freedom.

ON FREEDOM AND INTERNATIONAL MARKETING
(By Michael R. Czinkota)

THE ISSUE OF FREEDOM

You may ask what freedom has to do with international marketing. Freedom is about options. If there is no alternative, there is no freedom. A true alternative provides the opportunity to make a decision, to exercise virtue. In the blaze of the klieg lights, it is easy to make the "right" decision. That's not an exercise in virtue, because real alternatives are effectively removed. The true selection among alternatives takes place in the darkness of night when nobody is looking.

The focus and aim of international marketing is on crossing borders. The goal is to provide more than one choice for customers, letting them pick from a selection of options in order to maximize their satisfaction. International marketing does so in all corners of the globe, the glamorous ones as well as in the small and remote ones where the efforts are not seen by others. By operating both in the limelight and also well outside of it, international marketing offers the freedom to exercise virtue both to the seller and the buyer—be it in decisions of supplying or purchasing, pricing or selecting.

Another key dimension of freedom is not to confine, allowing people to go outside of the box. As a concept, freedom knows no international boundaries. But national borders usually are the box where business and government find their limits. Such borders are a mere point of transition for international marketing. The discipline thrives on understanding of how to successfully cross national borders, on coping with the differences once the crossing is done, and on profitably reconciling any conflicts.

International marketing contains the freedom of almost unlimited growth potential. Activities confined to domestic borders may well run into limits of expansion. International market opportunities relax these limits quickly. Instead of restrictions, the international marketing paradigm encourages the stripping away of restraints; instead of limitations, there is the encounter of opportunity.

Freedom also means not being forced to do something one does not want to do (Hayek, 1971). There are economic migration pressures that force people to move from their rural homes into urban areas or from their developing countries into industrialized ones. Industrialized nations, in turn, speak about immigration pressure. For both sides, little if any freedom is involved here. Most individuals who do the moving would much rather stay home but cannot afford to do so due to economic exigencies. The recipient countries might not want to welcome the migrants but do so in response to political and humanitarian pressures. International marketing may have been part of what triggered some of these migrations, but it also can be instrumental in stemming the tide. It can provide the economic opportunity for individuals at home so that they need not migrate. Thus, it lets individuals become productive contributors to the global economy free from pressures to shift locations.

When the long-standing rivalry between socialism and market orientation was resolved, market forces and the recognition of demand and supply directly affected human rights and the extent of freedom. With all humility and gratefulness we can conclude: Markets were right! In country after country, market forces have demonstrated typically greater efficiency and effectiveness in their ability to satisfy the needs of people.

International marketing has been instrumental in stimulating these newly emerging market forces. In spite of complaints about the slowness of change, the insufficiency of wealth redistribution, and the inequities inherent in societal upheavals, a large majority of participants in market-oriented changes are now better off than they were before. Without the transition provided by international marketing, these changes would not have come about that swiftly.

THE COST OF FREEDOM

One keeps hearing about the large segment of the world population that is poor and therefore supposedly excluded from any international marketing efforts; the World Bank's former president called them the 3 billion $2-a-day poor (Wolfensohn, 2001). By contrast, international marketers see them as an attractive $6 billion-a-day opportunity for valuable exchanges!

What's more is that international marketing provides the opportunity to acquire resources without the deployment of force. Why fight if you can trade? Countries that have been historic enemies such as France, England and Germany are now all united in their close collaboration through international marketing. (Farmer, 1987) The field is, therefore, at the very least contributing to freedom from war while providing additional choices for consumption.

But the cost of freedom is rising. Terms like free trade or free choice are misleading since they all come with a price, which international marketers pay in terms of preparing their shipments, scrutinizing their customers, and conforming to government regulations.

We all are paying a higher price due to global terrorism. As freedom suffers, so does international marketing. In most instances, terrorism is not an outgrowth of choice but rather the lack of it. Terrorists may succeed in reducing the freedom of others but not in increasing their own. Who is typically most affected by terrorist acts? Attacks aimed at businesses, such as the infamous bombings of U.S. franchises abroad, do not bring big corporations to their knees. The local participants, the local employees, the local investors, and the local customers are affected most. Who can protect themselves against such attacks and who can afford to protect targets? Only the more wealthy countries and companies can. They have the choice of where to place their funds, with whom to trade, and whether to hold the enemy at bay through a security bubble created by changing business formulas via exporting or franchising. The poor players do not have choices. The local firms, the nations with economies in development, and the poor customers continue to be exposed to further acts of terrorism with very limited indigenous ability to influence events.

But international marketing can enable the disenfranchised to develop alternatives. Multinational firms can invest in the world's poorest markets and increase their own revenue while reducing poverty. With support from shareholders and the benefit of good governance, international marketers can, and should, continue in their role as social change agents. The discipline has value maximization at its heart. If it is worthwhile to fulfill the needs of large segments of people, even at low margins, then it will be done. International marketers after all have as their key desire the creation of new customers and suppliers and they are delighted when, in fulfillment of their aims, they can bring about freedom from extremes of hunger, sickness, and intolerance.

VALUE AND FREEDOM

In a global setting, freedom can take on many dimensions. Privileges and obligations that are near and dear to some may well be cheap and easily disposed of by others. The views of one society may differ from views held in other regions of the world. Such differences then account for misunderstandings, surprises, and long-term conflicts.

There are two value dimensions at work here, both of them highly relevant to international marketing. One may be circumscribed as the freedom and values of a market economy. To make them work governmental, managerial, and corporate virtue, vision, and veracity are required. Unless the world can believe in what institutions and their leaders say and do, it will be difficult to forge a global commitment between those doing the marketing and the ones being marketed to. It is therefore of vital interest to the proponents of freedom and international marketing to ensure that corruption, bribery, lack of transparency, and poor governance are exposed for their negative effects in any setting or society. The main remedy will be the collaboration of the global policy community in agreeing on what constitutes transgressions and swift punishment of the culprits involved, so that market forces can work free from distortion.

A second and even more crucial issue is the value system we use in making choices. Some years ago, the Mars Climate Orbiter mission failed spectacularly as a result of the use of different values by the mission navigation teams. One team was using metric units and the other used the English system of measurement. This mistake caused the orbiter to get too close to the atmosphere, where it was destroyed ("NASA's Metric Confusion," 1999).

There are major differences among what people value around the world. Contrasts include togetherness next to individuality, cooperation next to competition, modesty next to assertiveness, and self-effacement next to self-actualization. Often, global differences in value systems keep us apart and result in spectacularly destructive differences. How we value a life, for example, can be crucial in terms of how we treat individuals. What value we place on family, work, leisure time, or progress has a substantial effect on how we see and evaluate each other.

Cultural studies tell us that there are major differences between and even within nations. International marketing, through its linkages via goods, services, ideas, and communications, can achieve important assimilations of value systems. On the consumer side, new products offer international appeal and encourage similar activities around the world: many of us wear denim, dance the same dances, and eat pizza and sushi (Marquardt & Reynolds, 1994). It has been claimed that local product offerings help define people and provide identity and that it is the local idiosyncrasies that make people beautiful (Johansson, 2004). Some even offer the persistence of the specific breakfast habits of the English and the French as evidence of local immutability in the face of globalization (de Mooij, 1998). Yet, we should remember that values are learned, not genetically implanted. As life's experiences grow more international and more similar, so do values. Therefore, every time international marketing forges a new linkage in thinking, new progress is made in shaping a greater global commonality in values. It may well be that international marketing's ability to align global values which makes it easier for countries, companies, and individuals to build bridges between them, may eventually become the field's greatest gift to the world.

A JOINED OCCURRENCE

How do freedom and international marketing match with today's discontent so forcefully expressed by the disgruntlement of the anti-globalists? Many claim that never before in history has there been so much evidence about such strong opposition to globalization and to Americans as harbingers of international marketing.

Perhaps those making such claims are sadly mistaken. In looking at other "globalizers" in world history, such as the Vikings, the Mongols, the Tatars, and the Romans, there probably was both intellectual and physical opposition (or do we really believe that everybody enjoyed Genghis Khan?). But protest was never allowed to become very vocal, or to engage in repeated, large demonstrations or widespread pamphleteering. Due to rather harsh policies of dealing with the opposition, very few records of such resistance are available today. Consequently, comparisons with past events are difficult to make and are likely to be highly inaccurate.

Today's news is good. The nations, institutions and individuals around the world are increasingly accepting freedom as the key foundation of the good life. We are discovering that international marketing, both as a discipline and as an activity is very closely interwoven with freedom—some even call it essential. It is the freedom Thomas Aquinas saw as the means to human excellence and happiness (Weigel, 2001) which international marketing helps us reach. In reciprocal causality, freedom causes and facilitates international marketing, while international marketing is a key support of the cause of freedom. A productive symbiosis at work!

IN RECOGNITION OF HOLOCAUST REMEMBRANCE DAY

SPEECH OF

HON. E. CLAY SHAW, JR.

OF FLORIDA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, May 5, 2005

Mr. SHAW. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in recognition of Yom Hoshuah, Holocaust Remembrance Day. We recognize now not only the more than six million Jews who lost their lives, but the human potential that was also extinguished during the dark days of World War II. We remember not just the mothers and fathers, the sons and daughters, the brothers and sisters, but also their descendants who never got to make their contributions to mankind. And we remember the heroes who gave their lives in the greatest fight for freedom and democracy the modern world has ever known.

By reflecting on this most solemn day, we join in a special bond with the victims of the Holocaust to ensure that the world will never suffer such a horrific tragedy again. It is through our reflection that we acknowledge the human loss and through our actions that we build a world free of such hatred and despair. Our greatest tribute to the millions who suffered at the hands of the Nazi regime will be to ensure that their memory will never be extinguished. By recognizing Holocaust Remembrance Day, we carry on the legacy of those who bore the greatest burden of one of the world's saddest times.

Now 60 years later, the fires of hate, which burned so brightly in Europe from 1939 through 1945, never really burned out. They were smoldering in the hearts of the terrorists on September 11th. Those same fires are ablaze today, in actions of homicide bombers in Tel Aviv, the West Bank, and in Gaza; and in genocidal practices in the Sudan. Mr. Speaker, as we recognize the 60th anniversary of the liberation of the Auschwitz concentration camp, we pray for an end to evils of hate throughout the world.

With these examples fresh in our minds, we marvel at the strength and character of the Jewish people. Their steadfast determination to rebuild their lives following the Holocaust has given the world a remarkable model of resolve. Through their example, we can glimpse the extraordinary human spirit that rises above the fruitlessness of anger and resentment. With this day and with our deeds we honor that spirit.

Mr. Speaker, I am proud to recognize Yom Hoshuah, May 5, 2005, and I urge my colleagues, and all Americans, to do the same.

CONFERENCE REPORT ON H.R. 1268,
EMERGENCY SUPPLEMENTAL APPROPRIATIONS ACT FOR DE-FENSE, THE GLOBAL WAR ON TERROR, AND TSUNAMI RELIEF
ACT, 2005

SPEECH OF

HON. DARRELL E. ISSA

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, May 5, 2005

Mr. ISSA. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in support of the inclusion of the REAL ID Act within the supplemental appropriations conference report. The REAL ID Act is an important step towards addressing a significant national security concern.

The inclusion of the REAL ID Act in this legislation will protect Americans from terrorists who seek to exploit weaknesses in our homeland security. By allowing homeland security officials to more closely scrutinize asylum claims and by expanding the grounds for deportation to include additional terrorist related activities, this act makes America more secure. The creation of minimal standards for drivers' licenses will help reduce the use of fraudulently obtained state IDs to access sensitive areas and board aircraft.

Last year, I voted against intelligence reform legislation because of the removal at the last minute of the REAL ID Act. I know Judiciary Chairman Jim Sensenbrenner strongly opposed the removal of the REAL ID Act from that legislation. When many had lost hope, he continued the fight to move the REAL ID Act through the legislative process. I thank Chairman Sensenbrenner for sticking by his convictions, providing leadership on this issue, and ensuring the inclusion of the REAL ID Act within this conference report.

IN RECOGNITION OF JOSEPH STEFANI

HON. DENNIS A. CARDOZA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, May 9, 2005

Mr. CARDOZA. Mr. Speaker, it is with the greatest respect and sincerity that I rise today to honor the late Mr. Joseph Stefani. Known to many as simply "Papa Joe," he was an endearing friend, a successful businessman and beloved member of our community in Merced, California. At the age of 92, Joseph Stefani passed away on Saturday, April 16, 2005.

Joseph Stefani, a life-long resident of Merced, was the son of Italian immigrants Carlo and Annunziata Stefani. He was born October 28, 1912 on his parents' 20-acre farm on Franklin Road. He attended and graduated from Franklin Grammar School, and then continued on to Merced High School. However, before he was able to graduate, the Great Depression forced Joe to leave school in order to earn money to help pay property taxes on the family's farm.

Soon after leaving school to work as a grocery clerk, Joe was hired at the Workingmen's Clothing Store in downtown Merced. After only four years of learning the business, and at the young age of only 24, Joe opened his own store—Stefani's Sport Shop on June 1, 1936. With a lifetime of success and happiness ahead of them, Joe married his first love, Mary Gonella Stefani on February 5, 1938. In the years following, the Stefani's business expanded and prospered. They eventually opened an additional store in the Merced Mall, and in the neighboring communities of Atwater and Los Banos. After 51 years as a downtown merchant, Joe reluctantly retired in 1987. In addition to creating and maintaining a successful business, Joe and Mary created a beautiful family of three children, Bob, Larry and Kathleen.

Throughout his life, Joe Stefani remained committed to the growth of Merced and dedicated his time to countless civic and business committees including the Merced Downtown Improvement Association, and the Merced Chamber of Commerce. He was a member of the Downtown Rotary Club for more than fifty years and was a Paul Harris Fellow. His service to the community continued up to the time of his passing, as he was currently a member of many organizations including the Merced Elks Lodge, and the Italian Catholic Federation. Throughout his entire life, Joe was a devout Catholic and an active member of Our Lady of Mercy/St. Patrick's Parish. He was instrumental in the building of a new Our Lady of Mercy School which opened in 1956, and in the building of St. Patrick's Catholic Church in the 1990's. During his life he had the distinct honor of a personal audience with Pope John Paul II which serves as further evidence of his lifelong commitment to his church.

Joe was preceded in death by his beloved wife Mary, his son Bob, and his brother Angelo Stefani. He is survived by his son Larry and daughter Kathleen, both of Merced, his sister Mary Lucich of Merced, his sister Caroline Cugia of Concord, 11 grandchildren, 11 great-grandchildren, and numerous nieces and nephews.

Mr. Speaker, it is my honor and privilege to join the community of Merced in recognizing Joseph "Papa Joe" Stefani. Our community benefits greatly from the example he set throughout his lifetime of service as a successful businessman who dedicated his life to his community, his family, and his faith.

COMMENDING SUPERINTENDENT

HON. BETTY McCOLLUM

Monday, May 9, 2005

Ms. McCOLLUM of Minnesota. Mr. Speaker, I rise to commend Barbara West, the superintendent of Voyageurs National Park, as she prepares to leave Minnesota for America's southwest. I thank her for her hard work and know that she will be missed, not only as one who has dedicated her life to preserving our nation's natural treasures, but as a friend.

Voyageurs National Park is one of the crown jewels in our national park system. It contains four large lakes covering forty percent of the park with a series of beautiful islands for one to explore. Voyageurs was named for the French-Canadian canoemen who traveled these waters in their birch-bark canoes. The park's waterways were an important stretch of the "voyageurs' highway" from the Great Lakes into the interior of the western United States and Canada.

With grace and confidence, Superintendent West has done an outstanding job of overseeing and protecting this area so future generations can enjoy its history and beauty. Minnesotans and visitors to our state have benefited from her stewardship of the park and her dedication to community and our natural resources.

Superintendent West, thank you for your years of service. I, along with many who treasure and love our national parks, wish you the very best in your new assignment at the Chaco Culture National Historic Park in New Mexico.
