

defeat attempts to criminalize some stem cell research in 1997–1998.

We know Chuck to be a passionate and tenacious advocate, a dedicated mentor to the talented legislative fellows who have worked for him, an adventurer who continues to trek over some of the most forbidding and fascinating parts of the planet, a loyal friend to many in our office, someone who is always searching for the “big idea-big picture” as a visionary policy developer, and a generous human being with a sense of humor. As a Congressional Staffer, he has always kept his focus on the public interest, undistracted by partisan concerns, and I found I could always count on hearing his frank and perceptive perspective on what would be the right policy for the country.

Chuck is completing an oral history of his unusual and remarkable Senate career, based on interviews with the Office of the Senate Historian, which has been transcribed and will be available on line. This history describes the challenges, skills and tactics of a Capitol Hill staffer who has fought in the political trenches over forty years.

Chuck hopes that this history will encourage young people to consider careers in public service. He’s served as the principal advisor and mentor for 25 years to the “Stanford in Government” program. He was one of 100 alumni awarded medallions to honor their service to Stanford University during centennial celebrations of the University’s founding in 1991; the headquarters for “Stanford in Government” at the Haas Center for Public Service is named after him.

We wish Chuck and Paula well in their venture in Africa. We will miss Chuck in the office but we know that he’s following one of his great dreams, and starting on a remarkable and courageous new round of public service. My office and I are grateful for his dedicated service to our office, to the Senate, and to our Nation, as well as for his friendship.

Somewhere right now Jefferson and our Founding Fathers are looking down and smiling proud that our Nation still produces men and women like Chuck and Paula.

Congratulations Chuck. Keep in touch and keep teaching us. We eagerly await your reports from Africa.

NEW MEXICO JUNIOR COLLEGE BASEBALL TEAM

• Mr. BINGAMAN. Mr. President, I rise today to congratulate the New Mexico Junior College baseball team from Hobbs, NM on winning the 2005 National Junior College World Series. This is a tournament that involves baseball teams from junior colleges across the United States. The Thunderbirds swept to the national title with a perfect record of 5-0 in tournament play. Their hard work and dedication is a perfect example of what it takes to win a national championship. This is the first national championship in New Mexico Junior College history.

I would also like to recognize Coach Ray Birmingham for winning the Coach of the Year award, his seventh in 15 years. The loyalty that Coach Birmingham engenders in his players is both heart-warming and inspiring. Several of Coach Birmingham’s players won awards as well. Among the outstanding honors were Renny Osuna, who was chosen for the Preston Walker MVP Award; Brian Flores, who was selected as Outstanding Pitcher; and Corey Zimmerman, who was named as Best Defensive Player.

Mr. President, fans lined the streets in Lovington and Tatum as the bus carrying the team passed through. A large group of proud supporters met the team when the bus rolled onto the campus in Hobbs on Monday. It was that kind of community support, along with the determination, skill and work ethic of the team, that swept the Thunderbirds to victory. I congratulate New Mexico Junior College on its great accomplishment.●

HONORING MARY BARDEN

• Mr. CHAFEE. Mr. President, I rise today to pay special tribute to Mary Barden, as she is recognized for her scholastic achievements on National History Day.

Mary, a student at Coventry High School in Coventry, RI, was one of 17 students chosen out of a half million across America, to display and present her history project at the Smithsonian’s National Museum of American History. Mary’s project is titled “Cesar Chavez: Understanding the Chicano Farmworkers Need for Justice.” The National History Day program allows students to create exhibits, documentaries, and performances, by using their critical thinking and research skills in the subject of history.

I strongly support the National History Day program. A basic knowledge of history is essential for our Nation’s children to become informed participants in our democracy, and this national observance promotes history education in Rhode Island and throughout the Nation. This year, National History Day celebrates its 25th anniversary as a national organization.

I congratulate Mary as she is honored for her presentation, and commend her for her dedication and commitment. I join with the citizens of Rhode Island in wishing Mary well in all her future endeavors.●

100TH ANNIVERSARY OF TOLLEY, NORTH DAKOTA

• Mr. CONRAD. Mr. President, today I honor a community in North Dakota that is celebrating its 100th anniversary. On June 26, the residents of Tolley, ND, will celebrate a proud history.

Tolley is a small town in the northwest part of the State, with a population of 41. Despite its size, Tolley holds an important place in North Dakota’s history. It was founded in 1905 by Eli C. Tolley, a prominent developer and official with the Soo Line Railroad Company. As one report from the period indicates, people were so excited to start the town that they moved in 15 buildings without even having purchased lots on which to place them. Soon after, rail lines were laid through Tolley, and the town began to prosper. Within a year and a half, the residents of Tolley had built general stores, blacksmiths, restaurants, hotels, churches, and hardware stores.

Through the years, Tolley has exemplified true North Dakota perseverance. Despite suffering from a scarcity of water, countless fires, and outbreaks of smallpox and the Spanish flu, the people of Tolley have always remained loyal to this great community. During World War I, many of the men left their families and farms to fight for our country. Sadly, many did not return, yet the community remained strong. In 1920, the boys high school basketball team held its first practice, and in 1921 the homes and businesses in Tolley were lit by electricity for the first time. In 1951, through the generous efforts of local residents, the first organized fire department began serving the community. These stories from the history of Tolley serve as a remarkable example of ingenuity and perseverance for all of us.

I ask the U.S. Senate to join me in congratulating Tolley, ND, and its residents on their first 100 years and in wishing them well through the next century. By honoring Tolley and all the other historic small towns of North Dakota, we keep the pioneering frontier spirit alive for future generations. It is places such as Tolley that have helped to shape this country into what it is today, which is why this fine community is deserving of our recognition.

Tolley has had a proud past and a bright future.●

125TH ANNIVERSARY OF AMENIA, NORTH DAKOTA

• Mr. CONRAD. Mr. President, today I honor a community in North Dakota that is celebrating its 125th anniversary. On June 10 and 11, the residents of Amenia, ND, celebrated their community’s founding.

Amenia is a small town in the eastern part of North Dakota, with a population just under 100. Despite its size, Amenia holds an important place in the State’s history. Amenia in 1880 when the Northern Pacific Railroad established a station and a settlement grew around it. Eban Chaffee of the Amenia Sharon Land Co., on whose home the station was actually built, called the new settlement Amenia.

The post office was established on January 20, 1880, and Edwin McNeil became the first postmaster of the newly formed community. At a special election held December 27, 1927, the village of Amenia was incorporated by a vote of 14 to 1. The Amenia Sharon Land Co. rigidly controlled Amenia until it disbanded in 1928 and as a result the townsite was not platted until late in 1928. In 1967, Amenia officially became a city.

The word Amenia comes from the Latin word meaning pleasant and today that is more appropriate than ever. Amenia now has a city park, a bar and grill, a city beauty shop and an elevator. Under the leadership of Mayor Donna Myers, Amenia remains a delightful community in which to live and work.

I ask the U.S. Senate to join me in congratulating Amenia, ND, and its residents on their first 125 years and in wishing them well in the future. By honoring Amenia and all the other historic small towns of North Dakota, we keep the great tradition of the pioneering frontier spirit alive for future generations. It is places such as Amenia that have helped to shape this country into what it is today, which is why Amenia is deserving of our recognition.

Amenia has a proud past and a bright future.●

125TH ANNIVERSARY OF LISBON, NORTH DAKOTA

● Mr. CONRAD. Mr President, today I honor a community in North Dakota that is celebrating its 125th anniversary. On June 16-19, 2005, the residents of Lisbon, ND will celebrate its history and founding.

Lisbon is a small town in the southeast part of North Dakota, with a population of about 2,500. Lisbon's history began in 1880 when Joseph L. Colton founded the town-site. Colton selected land here in 1878 and built a flourmill. The new town-site was platted on both sides of the beautiful Sheyenne River at the foot of its bordering hills. In September 1880, he laid out the official town-site and appointed the first postmaster, George Murray on January 23, 1880. His wife, Diana Robinson was from Lisbon Center, NY, and the city was named for that.

Lisbon became the county seat in 1881, and the Northern Pacific Railroad reached the site in 1882. It was incorporated as a city in 1883, and G.B. Green was appointed the first mayor of the new budding community. Less than a decade later, in 1891, the North Dakota Soldiers Home was built in Lisbon. Throughout the following years, Lisbon maintained steady growth developing into the delightful community that it is today.

Today, Mayor Morris Saxerud leads this enthusiastic community. The citizens of Lisbon enjoy fine recreation including an exceptional nine-hole golf course, a beautiful park with tennis courts, a ball park, an RV park, a gazebo, swings for youngsters and even a swimming pool. The Lisbon elementary, middle and high school system maintain a high academic program with outstanding teachers, administrators and support staff for approximately 750 students. The city has clearly flourished throughout the past 125 years!

I ask the U.S. Senate to join me in congratulating Lisbon, ND, and its residents on their first 125 years and in wishing them well through the next century. By honoring Lisbon and all the other historic small towns of North Dakota, we keep the great tradition of the pioneering frontier spirit alive for future generations. It is places such as Lisbon that have helped to shape this country into what it is today, which is why the community of Lisbon is deserving of our recognition.

Lisbon has a proud past and a bright future.●

TRIBUTE TO MAJOR GENERAL BARBARA C. BRANNON, UNITED STATES AIR FORCE NURSE CORPS, ON THE OCCASION OF HER RETIREMENT

● Mr. INOUE. Mr. President, today I wish to recognize a great American and a true military heroine who has honorably served our country for over 30 years in the U.S. Air Force Nurse Corps: MG Barbara C. Brannon. Major General Brannon began her career as a staff nurse in the Intensive and Coronary Care Unit at Malcolm Grow Medical Center, Andrews Air Force Base, MD, and subsequently served throughout the world in Nebraska, California, Texas, Florida, Alabama, England, Wyoming, Oklahoma, Italy, and the District of Columbia.

In each assignment, General Brannon excelled and overcame every challenge, accompanied by reward with greater responsibilities and opportunities. An expert educator and clinician, she assumed instructor and coordinator positions at the School of Health Care Sciences and in aeromedical evacuation, and served as assistant chief nurse, quality assurance coordinator, and director of ambulatory services at Tyndall AFB, FL. Serving as a nurse executive management fellow at Air University Regional Hospital, Maxwell AFB, AL, prepared her to lead the 7520th Air Base Squadron Medical Aid Station in Wycombe, England. Another unmatched performance led to her competitive selection as the nursing executive management fellow for the Office of the Surgeon, Strategic Air Command, Offutt AFB, NE, and was followed by her selection as the chief nurse executive, 90th Medical Group, Francis E. Warren AFB, WY.

Below-the-zone promotions to both lieutenant colonel and colonel illuminated her path to command the 382nd Technical Training Squadron, Sheppard AFB, TX, the 71st Medical Group, Vance AFB, OK and the 31st Medical Group, Aviano Air Base, Italy. She was later appointed as the director, Air Force Medical Readiness and Nursing Services, Office of the Surgeon General, Bolling AFB, DC. Serving briefly in this capacity, she returned to Andrews AFB where she became the first Nurse Corps officer to command the 89th Medical Group, concurrently served as the Assistant Air Force Surgeon General for Nursing, and became the first Air Force nurse promoted to major general in 2003.

Her career culminates in a dual role as Assistant Air Force Surgeon General, Medical Force Development and Assistant Air Force Surgeon General for Nursing, through which she established and appraised personnel policy and force development actions for over 40,000 active duty officer, enlisted, and civilian medical personnel. I extend my deepest appreciation to Major General Brannon for her 30-plus years of dedicated military service and offer her my congratulations on a phenomenal and inspirational career.●

HONORING THE COMMUNITY OF BRIDGEWATER, SOUTH DAKOTA

● Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. President, I rise today to honor and publicly recognize the 125th anniversary of the founding of the city of Bridgewater, SD. In addition to celebrating our nation's independence, we are called today to commemorate 125 years of Bridgewater's proud history.

Like many towns in South Dakota, the railroad played an influential role in the founding of Bridgewater. In early 1880, Bridgewater received its original name, Nation City, from the first settlers and townsite owners, Robert and John B. Nation. In late November of that year, however, the town's first train depot was built to accommodate the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad, and the town's name changed from Nation City to Bridgewater. In fact, it was the rail workers who ultimately renamed the city, having been forced to carry their drinking water across a bridge near town.

One of early Bridgewater's unique traditions was the chatauqua, a summer festival under a tent loaded with singers, bands, orchestras, lectures, and plays. Adults paid $2 and children $1.10 for an entire week of star-studded, cultural entertainment. While this yearly ritual was a town favorite, it quickly lost popularity once roads and cars were improved and movies became more accessible. Unfortunately, Bridgewater's last chatauqua ended prematurely, as a cyclone hit and interrupted the festivities.

Bridgewater's first newspaper, the Times, was established in 1880 by Adin F. Terrill. The publication lasted for about 10 years, until it merged with the Bridgewater Brieflet in 1890 and was renamed the Bridgewater Tribune, which still exists to this day.

One of Bridgewater's notable landmarks is the city park. Created in 1960 with the help of the Green Thumb organization, the park came to fruition following the purchase of four acres of
