

and diesel, petroleum products, accounted for over 98 percent of transportation motor fuels sold in the year 2004. Only 2 percent are from alternatives to petroleum. We need to increase that 2 percent, and it can come from many different sources of alternatives to petroleum, such as ethanol.

As the Senator from Illinois and I discussed, corn is clearly a basis for ethanol. But with the advance of technology, there are many other sources as well. Cellulose and glucose are two. Glucose, sugar, we raise a lot of sugarcane in Florida. They do in Louisiana. We raise a lot of sugar beets throughout the Midwest and the West. That is a source of ethanol. It was one of the things that I pushed for, at the time of the discussion of CAFTA, to get the administration, through the Department of Agriculture, to start the study on making ethanol from sugarcane. I will pick up in the future with a discussion of ethanol made from sources other than corn, as I bring to the attention of the Senate how much this is getting to be an emergency situation that we are depending on oil. And of that oil, almost 60 percent of it comes from foreign shores. That is not good for this country. We have to change that.

I yield the floor.
