RECOGNIZING THE 25TH
ANNIVERSARY OF AKAL SECURITY

HON. JOE WILSON

OF SOUTH CAROLINA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, October 26, 2005

Mr. WILSON of South Carolina. Mr. Speaker, I am proud today to congratulate Akal Security, the second largest U.S.-based security guard company, on its twenty-fifth anniversary. Since 1980, Akal Security has grown from just a handful of earnest entrepreneurs to almost 15,000 employees in 48 States and around the world.

Today, the company provides 80 percent of guards for the Department of Justice's Marshals Service and, through a subsidiary, 80 percent of cleared American guards for embassy construction. Akal's employees work in several Bureau of Immigration and Customs Enforcement detention centers, airports and military installations; Federal Protective Service operations; and local government and commercial properties.

Although the tremendous growth of this company is important, I am also impressed by the unique inspiration of its founders and their continued record of hiring disabled veterans.

Gurutej Khalsa and Daya Khalsa, the founders of Akal Security, incorporate the practices of Sikh Dharma into their day-to-day business lives. They describe Sikh Dharma as a peaceful, monotheistic religion brought to the West from India by Yogi Bhajan, who was only the fourth religious leader to receive a joint resolution of recognition from Congress.

Akal Security also has a distinguished history of hiring veterans of law enforcement and the military, including many decorated heroes and even a few U.S. Marshals. These veterans are patriotic, experienced, and committed to their jobs. This year, Akal Security received the Large Employer of the Year Award from the Disabled American Veterans organization for the company's continued commitment to serving disabled Veterans.

Today, I am pleased to congratulate Akal Security on its remarkable record of accomplishment over the past 25 years.

ANNOUNCING PASSING OF
FORMER CONGRESSMEN ED ROYBAL
AND BOB BADHAM

SPEECH OF

HON. DAVID DREIER

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, October 25, 2005

Mr. DREIER. Mr. Speaker, yesterday, a dear friend, a great man and the father of one of our colleagues, former Congressman Ed Roybal, passed away.

Ed was a man of tremendous passion and compassion. He saw no limits, only possibilities. He was a trailblazer for the Hispanic community who aimed high without fear of failure.

Ed moved to Los Angeles when he was a child, and he became as much a part of the city as it became part of him. Upon returning from service in World War Two, Ed became director of health education for the Los Angeles County Tuberculosis and Health Association. Healthcare and the well-being of his fellow citizens would be a hallmark of Ed's long career of public service.

When Ed was elected to the first of his nearly 30 years in Congress in 1962, he was only the second Hispanic-American to represent California. While Ed was at the center of issues facing Los Angeles, he was a strong advocate for the region and all of California.

Ed's sincerity and heartfelt speeches on the floor of this body are legendary, and so was his decency. The attention and care he devoted to his constituents, he also paid to his colleagues.

Through Ed's example, we learned patience, kindness and generosity. He was unfailingly gracious, determined and effective, all at once.

His legacy is found in the successes of his constituents who were inspired by his example. His legacy is found in community programs in Los Angeles. And his legacy is found right here in the Capitol.

Our thoughts and prayers are with Ed's daughter, Congresswoman LUCILLE ROYBAL-ALLARD, as she carries on his example of public service, and also with the entire Roybal family.

INTRODUCTION OF THE FEDERAL DISASTER PROFITEERING PREVENTION
ACT OF 2005

HON. JOHN CONYERS, JR.

OF MICHIGAN

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, October 26, 2005

Mr. CONYERS. Mr. Speaker, today I am introducing the "Federal Disaster Profiteering Prevention Act of 2005," legislation that imposes tough new criminal and civil penalties on would-be profiteers who intentionally overcharge the Federal Government for the provision of goods or services tendered in response to a presidentially declared major disaster or emergency. I am joined by Representatives EMANUEL, DEFazio, GRIJALVA, HINCHEY, KILPATRICK, SERRANO, MCDERMOTT, MALONEY and SANDERS.

One need not look beyond the ongoing reconstruction efforts in Iraq and the current controversy surrounding Halliburton to understand the need for such legislation. To date, Halliburton has been accused of overcharging the Federal Government by more than $1.4 billion in "questionable" and "unsupported" reconstruction costs. Nearly two-thirds of these costs have been characterized as "questionable" because, according to government auditors, they are "unreasonable in amount" and "exceed that which would be incurred by a prudent person." Such costs include, but are in no way limited to, $617,000 in overpriced and double-billed soft drinks; $152,000 in movie rental charges; $1.5 million in excessive tailoring and seamstress charges; and over $560,000 in unnecessary heavy equipment charges.

The "Federal Disaster Profiteering Prevention Act of 2005" is designed to prevent such acts from occurring in the future. It achieves this objective by cracking down on anyone who, in a matter involving a contract with the Federal Government, develops a "scheme or artifice to defraud the United States." The civil penalties associated with a violation of this prohibition are the greater of $1 million dollars or triple the gross profits or received proceeds.

The potential for additional future abuse of the Federal contracting and procurement process is quite clear. According to recent press reports, FEMA and the Army Corps of Engineers already have awarded at least seven no-bid contracts to several politically well connected firms, including Halliburton. For example, Kellogg, Brown & Root, a subsidiary of Halliburton, is currently repairing damaged naval facilities under a $500 million Defense Department contract. Additionally, no-bid housing contracts have been awarded to the Fluor Corp, a major Republican Party donor, and to the Shaw Group, a client of the lobbying and consulting firm run by friend of the president and former FEMA chief Joe Allbaugh. With such large sums being spent in this manner, it's more important than ever that we send a clear message that we will not tolerate the overcharging of our government during times of federal emergencies.

I am hopeful that Congress can move quickly to enact this worthwhile and timely legislation.
