The House met at 10 a.m.

The Speaker, the Reverend Daniel P. Coughlin, offered the following prayer:

O God of light and understanding, fill your people with great expectations. With your guidance and creative presence, good people working together can accomplish almost any goal set before them. Heartfelt prayer must conform their intention to your holy will.

Be with the Members of Congress today as they accomplish the work of the people in this House of Representatives. Stir within them a wisdom that penetrates every problem. Send them sound knowledge to surround every issue important to this Nation, so that the consequences of their action, which will be felt around the world, may build true security and grant lasting peace both in our day and forever.

Amen.

THE JOURNAL

The Speaker. The Chair has examined the Journal of the last day’s proceedings and announces to the House his approval thereof.

Pursuant to clause 1, rule 1, the Journal stands approved.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE

The Speaker. Will the gentlewoman from Ohio (Mrs. Jones) come forward and lead the House in the Pledge of Allegiance.

Mrs. Jones of Ohio led the Pledge of Allegiance as follows:

I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER

The Speaker. The Chair will entertain up to 10 one-minutes on each side.

HONORING OUR TROOPS’ SACRIFICE

(Ms. Foxx asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Ms. Foxx. Mr. Speaker, following an historic election, the Iraqi people took another huge step towards democracy with nearly 79 percent approving a new constitution. However, this political milestone was not reached without a cost paid by our American soldiers.

As we sadly marked the 2,000th death in Iraq, we must take time to honor the sacrifice our soldiers have made for this country. Our men and women are fighting terrorists in Iraq, so that we do not have to fight them in this country. Now is the time to honor these soldiers and thank their families for the sacrifices they are making to keep our country safe.

Unfortunately, there are some out there who have chosen this solemn occasion to score political points. They are using this opportunity to call for withdrawal of our troops from Iraq. Nothing could be more wrong. Bailing out would hand a victory to the terrorists and a defeat to the United States.

One group is actually using this occasion to raise funds. Featured on their Web site is a television ad featuring a coffin in the sand. Click on this ad, and you are immediately taken to a contribution page asking for a donation.

Mr. Speaker, we need to continue to honor our troops by staying the course in Iraq. Using these sacrifices for political purposes, as many are doing, is wrong.

CLEAN DRINKING WATER

(Mr. Blumenauer asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. Blumenauer. Madam Speaker, our Chaplain reminded us that our actions on the floor of the House are felt around the world. Well, today, one half of the people who are ill around the world are sick needlessly from water-borne disease, and up to 5 million are going to die this year as a result.

We know how to solve this problem, and the solution is affordable. For less than what it costs our Europeans for perfume in a year, or less than what Americans spend on elective surgery, we could fulfill the United Nations commitment to cut in half the people without safe drinking water and sanitation by the year 2015.

Sadly, the United States, despite its leadership in the United Nations on this issue, still does not have a comprehensive program to address this crisis. Our International Relations Committee is sending to the floor bipartisan legislation to correct this policy deficiency. H.R. 1973, the Senator Paul Simon Water for the Poor Act, will establish safe drinking water and sanitation as a core foreign policy principle and create a plan. Today is the last day to add your name to the list of sponsors. I ask that you do so before it reaches the floor.

SHERIFF SIGI GONZALEZ, JR., TEXAS LAWMAN

(Mr. Poe asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. Poe. Madam Speaker, in the early morning hours of this past weekend, I accompanied Zapata County Sheriff Sigifredo “Sig” Gonzalez, Jr., his SWAT team and posse of deputies who were patrolling the U.S.-Mexico border in south Texas.

Every day Sig leads his small 24-member force into the daily battle to protect Zapata County from the invasion of drug lords and human smugglers. Lots of drug money, filthy lucre, as I call it, fund these dangerous drug organizations and human smugglers that lurk across the Rio Grande River. These outlaws have better guns, better vehicles, better electronic surveillance equipment than the good guys. They even track our peace officers with GPS when they use their cell phones. These drug demons who bring narcotics into the United States make $30,000 a week. Sheriff Gonzalez makes about $40,000 a year.

Sheriff Gonzalez is an unwavering patriot and an outstanding Texas lawman. He is defending America against illegal invaders and fighting the war against vicious, violent drug cartels that threaten our home and our country. He and his dedicated deputies need resources and funding to help fund the war for the border. Our homeland is worth protecting. That is just the way it is.

THREE GREAT WOMEN
(Mrs. JONES of Ohio asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Mrs. JONES of Ohio. Madam Speaker, I rise today to discuss the lives of three great women. The old people used to say that trouble comes in threes; and the threes I am thinking of are Constance Baker Motley, who was the first African-American woman elected to the New York State Senate in 1964, first woman to serve as Manhattan Borough president in 1965, and appointed the first African-American Federal judge in 1966.

The second is C. Delores Tucker, the first African-American woman to serve as Secretary of State of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and in any State in America. She went on to be an advocate for appointment of women in presidential administrations.

Third, we lost Rosa Parks this week. They are three significant, hard-working, dedicated African-American women who stood out in history in the work that they did. I stand today and ask all of you to join me in extending sympathies and condolences to the families of C. Delores Tucker, Constance Baker Motley, and Rosa Parks.

PRESIDENT ADDRESSES ECONOMIC CLUB OF WASHINGTON, DC
(Mr. PENCE asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. PENCE. When it comes to making tough choices in the wake of Hurricane Katrina, Madam Speaker, Presidential leadership will make the difference. Yesterday in remarks before the Economic Club of Washington, DC, the President of the United States called on Congress to “redouble our efforts to be wise about how we spend your money.” The President went on to say, “We can help the people of the gulf coast region recover and rebuild and we can help deal with the taxpayers’ dollars at the same time.” He called on Congress to reduce unnecessary spending, to identify offsets, and pledged again to offer spending rescissions to provide the emergency relief, in his words, in a fiscally responsible way.

President George W. Bush yesterday encouraged Congress to push the envelope when it comes to cutting spending, and his strong leadership will make Rep. Gonzalez and the others who should heed the call of President Bush to redouble with generosity and fiscal responsibility in the wake of Hurricane Katrina.

CLIMATE CHANGE
(Mr. KUCINICH asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. KUCINICH. Madam Speaker, I am urging all Members of the House to join in support of House Resolution 151, which is a resolution of inquiry that requests the President of the United States to provide to the House of Representatives documents in his possession relating to the anticipated effects of climate change on the coastal regions of the United States.

With the devastation of hurricanes Wilma, Rita and others, we are aware that there is a new phenomenon that is affecting this country with respect to climate change. Scientists may dispute whether or not the meteorological changes that we have witnessed are somehow related to changes in the global climate, but one thing for sure, it is important that Congress begin a dialogue with the administration.

It is important that we find out what connection there may be with climate change and effects on coastal regions. Hurricane Katrina certainly illustrated that we should be concerned about climate change. This resolution of inquiry, now sponsored by 151 Members of the House, aims to get the facts from the administration and begin a dialogue that would be important to our Nation’s economy and our national security.

CONCERN—NOT PANIC
(Mr. PRICE of Georgia asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. PRICE. Madam Speaker, have you seen the headlines: Bird Flu Anxiety Spreads Across Europe.

Bird Flu Could Kill 150 Million People.

WHO Warns of Dire Flu Pandemic. Media should report facts, not create panic. Unfortunately, today many of the stories we see and read are short on facts and long on panic. It is time we brought some sanity to all the sensationalism. No one should doubt the potential of the bird flu. However, responsible people are working diligently to be certain that we are prepared for any threat and are able to respond quickly.

Certain facts are important to keep in mind. This Avian flu virus has been around since at least 1997. It is not a new phenomenon. The CDC states that “the current risk to Americans is low.” So there is cause for concern, but not panic. Our real concern should be expanded. We need to address our ability to respond to any infectious disease. Providing incentives to U.S.-based vaccine manufacturers should be a priority. Building a routine adult immunization program are just two of the positive steps we should take. Importantly, these actions should move forward in an environment of concern, not panic.

IRAQ MILESTONES
(Mr. EMANUEL asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. EMANUEL. Madam Speaker, this week we passed two milestones in Iraq: The constitution was ratified, and tragically, the 2,000th American died. These milestones, one positive, one clearly negative, provide us with an opportunity to review our progress in Iraq. This is not a time to debate how we got into Iraq. What is important is resolving the mess.

Hear what the experts are saying: Retired Army Lieutenant General William Odom, former head of the National Security Agency, said that the invasion of Iraq “will turn out to be the greatest strategic disaster in U.S. history.”

Brent Scowcroft, National Security Advisor under the first President George Bush, said, “You have to know when to stop using force. You can encourage democracy over time, with assistance, and aid, the traditional way. Not how the neoconservatives” are trying to do it in Iraq.

And Lawrence Wilkerson, a retired lieutenant colonel and former Secretary of State Colin Powell’s former Chief of Staff at the State Department, said President Bush’s foreign policy was “razzle dazzle” and said that “we have courted disaster in Iraq, in North Korea, in Iran.”

These are not the words of partisans or the board members of MoveOn.org. As these experts and the American people know, it is time for a new direction and new priorities. We can do better. The current path is not a path to success. It is time for the President to level with the American people and produce a plan forward.

SUPPORTING THE NOMINATION OF DR. BEN BERNANKE
(Mr. WILSON of South Carolina asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. WILSON of South Carolina. Madam Speaker, I am thrilled that President Bush has nominated a son of South Carolina to serve as Chairman of the Federal Reserve Board. As a boy in Dillon, South Carolina, Ben Bernanke demonstrated his brilliance for economics at a young age. He... taught himself calculus, excelled at his SATs, and eventually received his doctorates from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, where he specialized in monetary policy.

Throughout the course of his career, he has taught our Nation's top schools and helped our economic institutions. As President Bush's economic adviser, he has played a pivotal role in sustaining economic growth in our country. Today Dr. Bernanke is respected as one of the world's most accomplished monetary economists.

As a successor to Chairman Alan Greenspan, Dr. Bernanke will certainly have big shoes to fill. With his background, I am confident that he has the knowledge, experience, and ability to serve as Chairman of the Federal Reserve Board.

In conclusion, God bless our troops, and we will never forget September 11.

HONORING THE LEGACY OF ROSA PARKS AND JUDGE CONSTANCE BAKER MOTLEY

(Mr. MEEKS of New York asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. MEEKS of New York. Madam Speaker, it is with great pain that I stand here today to mourn the recent passing of several phenomenal women and leaders in our Nation's struggle for equal justice under the law. The passing of Rosa Parks and Judge Constance Baker Motley is a sad reality, but I stand to commemorate their triumphant lives. Judge Motley and Rosa Parks faced racism head on and continued to work for a more just world until their last days.

Rosa Parks was 92 years old and almost made it to the 50th anniversary of the Montgomery bus boycott, which she set in motion by refusing to give her seat to a white man on Montgomery's segregated city bus system. Mrs. Parks was not alone, for her action was followed by others.

As a New Yorker, I hold dearly the legacy of Judge Constance Baker Motley. That is why I introduced legislation to honor her. Constance Baker Motley won nine out of 10 civil rights cases she argued before the Supreme Court, won on all of the major school segregation cases, including Brown v. Board of Education, and advised civil rights leaders including Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.

Judge Motley was the first African-American woman to serve in the New York State Senate. She was the first black woman to be appointed to a Federal judgeship.

Rosa Parks once said, “Memories of our lives, of our works, and our deeds will continue in others.” She was absolutely right. Not only will the memories of her legacy live on, but the legacy has forever stirred the resolve of many in our Nation to advocate for social justice, human dignity, and harmony.

CONTINUING THE FIGHT AGAINST BREAST CANCER

(Mrs. KELLY asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mrs. KELLY. Madam Speaker, I rise today, as we near the end of Breast Cancer Awareness Month, to emphasize that we must continue doing everything possible to help women across our country suffering from breast cancer.

This Congress must remain committed to increased breast cancer research and ensure that necessary laws are in place so that no woman is forced to fight breast cancer and red tape at the same time.

I urge my colleagues to support the bipartisan Breast Cancer Patient Protection Act that I sponsored together with the gentlewoman from Connecticut (Ms. DeLauro). One hundred and fifty-one cosponsors in the House have recognized the importance of passing this bill, but we need more support. Together we can improve treatment options and access to inpatient care for the more than 200,000 women diagnosed with breast cancer each year.

The widespread commitment to fighting breast cancer was seen in so many amazing community efforts this past month. I particularly want to recognize the outstanding efforts of Lilian Jones and our Hudson Valley chapter of the American Cancer Society. They organized our very successful Making Strides Against Breast Cancer walk in Central Valley, New York. Also deserving of tremendous praise are Willa Wright and the Putnam County chapter of ACS and so many other groups in New York's Hudson Valley who continue to unite to fight breast cancer.

Congress must unite and fight breast cancer right along with them.

SUPPORTING BREAST CANCER AWARENESS MONTH

(Mr. BISHOP of New York asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. BISHOP of New York. Madam Speaker, too many American families have experienced the loss of a loved one or know someone close who has suffered from some form of cancer. Breast cancer in particular is the leading cause of death among between 40 and 55, including my sister-in-law Abby Irwin, who died at 41 after an 11-year struggle.

Two hundred thousand new cases of breast cancer will be diagnosed this year alone, including 1,100 in my district. The good news is the 96 percent survival rate when breast cancer is detected early. In fact, a study being published today in the New England Journal of Medicine shows that this year's mammograms contributed to a 65 percent drop in breast cancer deaths in the last decade.

Back home on Long Island, I am proud to have an active breast cancer advisory board with leading researchers, advocates, and survivors. I found their insights and ideas to be invaluable assets.

We should continue to do all that we can every day, not just during Breast Cancer Awareness Month, to encourage the survivors, volunteers, and health care professionals to keep up the fight against breast cancer.

Madam Speaker, by raising awareness, we bring ourselves that much closer to the promise of a cure.

REFORMING OUT-OF-CONTROL FEDERAL SPENDING PROGRAMS

(Mr. HENSARLING asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. HENSARLING. Madam Speaker, this week the House will begin work on reconciliation, which is a way that we begin to reform out-of-control spending programs in order to help pay for the hurricane relief. There are only three ways that we can pay for this hurricane relief. Either, number one, we are going to raise taxes on American people yet again, we are going to pass debt on to our children, or we are going to find a way to moderate the growth of Federal programs.

The Democrats say that this is tantamount to massive cuts that will hurt the poor. Madam Speaker, next year's budget is going to be greater than this year's budget, which was greater than last year's budget.

What we call mandatory spending, which encompasses most of these welfare programs, mandatory spending is going to grow at a rate of 6.3 percent as opposed to 6.4. I believe only an accountant for Enron would call that a cut.

Also, Madam Speaker, the best way to help the poor is through paychecks, not welfare checks. And under the economic policies of this administration, 4 million new jobs have been created with a future. We have the highest rate of homeownership in the history of America and unparalleled economic growth.

DENOUNCING THE PRESIDENT OF IRAN'S STATEMENT THAT "ISRAEL MUST BE WIPED OFF THE MAP"

(Mr. LANTOS asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. LANTOS. Madam Speaker, three generation ago Adolf Hitler threatened to destroy the Jewish people, and the appeasers and the pseudoskeptics said it was merely oratory. A few months ago, the leadership of Syria threatened to destroy the Prime Minister of Lebanon, and the pseudoskeptics and the appeasers thought it was only oratory. Yesterday the President of Iran announced that it is his policy to destroy the State of Israel, and the pseudosophisticates and the appeasers again say this is only oratory. But of course, it is more than that. I call on the United Nations, and all civilized nations, to take appropriate action, in the U.N. and individually, denouncing this outrageous statement. There is no room for the President of a nation to call for the destruction of a mem boroughate of the United Nations, the sole democracy in the Middle East and a close ally of the United States.

CELEBRATING THE LIFE OF JUDGE CONSTANCE BAKER MOTLEY

(Ms. NORTON asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. NORTON. Madam Speaker, Sadly, I have had to commemorate the lives of two important black women who died earlier: C. Delores Tucker, Rosa Parks.

However, this morning I rise to celebrate the life of one of America’s great lawyers, Constance Baker Motley, the first black woman on the Federal bench. That, however, is surely not her greatest public service. What greater service to one’s country than to have been an architect of the legal strategy that brought equality under law to the United States. She argued 10 cases before the Supreme Court. Perhaps the most important of her cases, the James Meredith case that integrated the University of Mississippi. She made 22 trips into Mississippi for that case alone; then, the University of Alabama; also the University of Georgia, where she helped Charlene Hunter-Gault integrate that university. Charlene Hunter-Gault said that Ms. Motley “talked about the South in those days as if it were a war zone and she was fighting in a revolution. No one... was going to distract her from carrying her task to a successful conclusion.” Indeed, in the 1960s, the South was a war zone not only for activists, but for their lawyers.

In a car with Medgar Evers, Mr. Evers told her to put away her legal pad and not to look back. He, of course, was later assassinated.

She was so outstanding that every office wanted Mrs. Motley to be their first black Supreme Court justice. She was the first woman to serve in the New York Senate, the first to serve as Manhattan borough president. She was the first woman, and for me perhaps the most important of her firsts, to argue a case before the United States Supreme Court, because she inspired a whole generation of young lawyers.

It should astonish us that the first African-American woman was appointed to the bench only in 1966, only 40 years ago. It should remind us that the integration of the courts of our country is and remains part and parcel of establishing equality under the law.

H.R. 4011. MERCURY IN DENTAL AMALGAM PROHIBITION BILL

(Ms. WATSON asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Ms. WATSON. Madam Speaker, dentistry must stop hiding the large presence of mercury in dental fillings. The common name for dental fillings is “silver.” The term is deceptive because it contains more than 50 percent mercury.

Who can conclusively say dental mercury is safe when in our bodies? It is undisputed as a fact that mercury vapor is released during the entire life of a mercury filling.

Madam Speaker, mercury amalgam is considered dangerous when it is put in the mouth, and it is labeled a hazardous waste when it is coming out. Dental offices contribute approximately 54 tons of toxic mercury to the environment each year. Mercury hurts the body’s immune system. Mercury also causes neural development problems. My bill will protect children, pregnant women, and nursing mothers immediately.

We have abandoned other remnants of pre-Civil War medicine, and we have abandoned all other uses of mercury in the body. Now is the time to ban mercury in dental fillings.

CONGRATULATING THE 2005 WORLD SERIES CHAMPION CHICAGO WHITE SOX

(Mr. JACKSON of Illinois asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. JACKSON of Illinois. Madam Speaker, did you see the headlines? “Sox Win the World Series.”

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mrs. JACKSON of Illinois). The SPEAKER pro tempore announced this outrageous statement.

Mr. JACKSON of Illinois. I thank the Speaker. This House will never be out of decorum. I see that.

Madam Speaker, the headlines are clear: The Sox win the World Series, and I rise to congratulate the 2005 World Series Champions, the Chicago White Sox, on their first title in 88 years. Not only were the White Sox in first place in the Central Division every single day of the 2005 baseball season, but they also had the best record in the American League for the entire season as they amassed a total of 99 wins.

This team had no batters with an average above .300, they had no superstars, yet they came together as a team, led by manager Ozzie Guillen, characterized by their stellar pitching and tenacious defense. This team epitomized the work ethic of the city of Chicago.

I would like to congratulate the Houston Astros on a great season and a hard-fought World Series. Every game was close and could have gone the other way.

I would also like to congratulate the American League Championship Series MVP Paul Konerko and World Series MVP Jermaine Dye for their stellar play.

Congratulations are also in order for the entire front office of the White Sox, including Chairman Jerry Reinsdorf, Vice Chairman Eddie Einhorn and General Manager Ken Williams, who were the architects of this championship team.

Madam Speaker, last, but not least, I would like to congratulate the dedicated and long-suffering fans of the city of Chicago and the South Side who once again celebrate a champion.

And to my friends and colleagues from the other side, both Democrats and Republicans:

“Na na na na, Na na na na, Hey hey hey, Goodbye.”

Maybe next year, guys. Thanks, and God bless you.

Go Sox.

COMMUNICATION FROM DISTRICT DIRECTOR OF H.D. DENNIS MOORE, MEMBER OF CONGRESS

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mrs. MILLER of Michigan) laid before the House the following communication from Julie Merz, District Director of the Honorable Dennis Moore, Member of Congress:

CONGRESS OF THE UNITED STATES, HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,
October 20, 2005.

Hon. D. Dennis Hastert,
Speaker, House of Representatives,
Washington, DC.

DEAR MR. SPEAKER: This is to notify you formally, pursuant to Rule VIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives, that I have been served with a subpoena issued by the District Court of Johnson County, Kansas, for testimony in a criminal case.

After consultation with the Office of General Counsel, I have determined that compliance with the subpoena is consistent with the precedents and privileges of the House.

Sincerely,

JULIE MERZ,
District Director.

PROVIDING FOR CONSIDERATION OF H.R. 420, LAWSUIT ABUSE REDUCTION ACT OF 2005

Mr. GINGREY. Madam Speaker, by direction of the Committee on Rules, I call up H. Res. 508 and ask for its immediate consideration.

The Clerk read the resolution, as follows:

H. R. 508

Resolved, That at any time after the adoption of this resolution the Speaker may, pursuant to clause 2(b) of rule XVIII, declare the House resolved into the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union for consideration of the bill (H.R. 420) to amend Rule 11 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure to improve attorney accountability, and for other purposes. The first reading of the bill shall be dispensed with. All points of order against consideration of the bill are waived. General debate shall be confined to the bill and shall not exceed one hour equally divided and controlled by the chairman and ranking minority member of the Committee on the Judiciary. After general debate the bill shall be considered for amendment under the five-minute rule. It shall be in order to amend the bill for the purpose of amendment under the five-minute rule the amendment in the nature of a substitute recommended by the Committee on the Judiciary now printed in the bill. The committee amendment in the nature of a substitute shall be considered as read. Notwithstanding any rule of the House, the amendment to the committee amendment in the nature of a substitute shall be considered as read except those printed in the report of the Committee on Rules accompanying this resolution. Each such amendment may be offered only in the order printed in the report, may be offered only by a Member designated in the report equally divided and controlled by the proponent and an opponent, and shall not be subject to a demand for division of the question in the House or in the Committee of the Whole.

This resolution waives all points of order against the amendments printed in the report, and it provides one motion to recommit, with or without instructions.

Madam Speaker, I rise today in support of House Resolution 508 and the underlying legislation, H.R. 420, the Lawsuit Abuse Reduction Act of 2005.

First, I want to commend the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. SENSENBERGER), the distinguished chairman of the Committee on the Judiciary, not just for the underlying bill but for a number of recent bills aimed at strengthening our legal system by protecting people's rights under the law and shielding them from frivolous proceedings. Additionally, I want to thank the gentleman from Texas (Mr. SMITH), the chairman of the Subcommittee on the Courts, the Internet, and Intellectual Property, for sponsoring H.R. 420.

Madam Speaker, over the past couple of weeks, this House has taken several important steps to reform our legal system, to relieve our overburdened court dockets and drastically reduce the number of costly frivolous claims against innocent and legitimate businesses.

On October 24, we passed and sent to the President's desk S. 397, the Lawful Commerce in Arms Act of 2005, by a vote of 247 to 172. This bill would suspend an attorney from practicing in Federal court if a Federal judge determines the lawyer has violated Rule 11 on three or more occasions.

Additionally in this House, 226 Republicans, along with 80 Democrats, passed H.R. 554, the Personal Responsibility in Food Consumption Act of 2005. This bill would allow individuals to take responsibility for their own actions and not expect someone else to foot the bill for the adverse health consequences of their own glutony.

Today, Madam Speaker, we have another prime opportunity to pass meaningful legislation to strengthen our court system even further and to protect the falsely accused.

The Lawsuit Abuse Reduction Act of 2005 would amend Rule 11 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure by restoring the mandatory sanctions for the filing of frivolous lawsuits. This bill would require that courts impose an appropriate penalty on attorneys, law firms, or parties who continue to file frivolous lawsuits. Also this bill would eliminate the “free pass” provision that allows attorneys to avoid sanctions if they withdraw their frivolous claims before a motion for sanctions has been filed.

Madam Speaker, H.R. 420 also would prevent forum shopping by requiring that personal injury cases only be brought in those jurisdictions either where the injured party resides, or where the related business resides, or where the alleged injury or surrounding circumstances occurred.

This act would also institute a three-strikes-and-you're-out sanction that would suspend a lawyer from practicing in Federal court if a Federal judge determines the lawyer has violated Rule 11 on three or more occasions.

H.R. 420 clearly emphasizes that personal responsibility is not just some catch phrase that applies only to some people, such as a fast-food connoisseur, a firearms owner, a consumer or, indeed, a doctor. Personal responsibility and professional accountability should be the rule for those in the legal field, too, and that is why this House should pass this bill.

In closing, Madam Speaker, I would just emphasize that House Resolution 508 is a straightforward rule and H.R. 420 is a straightforward bill. Simply put, it just makes sense to stop and punish the willful abuse of our legal system by the slash-and-burn tactics of frivolous lawsuits.

As always, I look forward to the consideration of this rule, and I ask my colleagues to support it and the underlying bill.

Madam Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. McGOVERN. Madam Speaker, I want to thank the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. GINGREY) for yielding me the customary 30 minutes, and I yield myself such time as I may consume.

(Mr. McGOVERN asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. McGOVERN. Madam Speaker, here we go again. Whenever the Republican leadership appears to be floundering or simply needs some legislative filler, they turn to the Judiciary Committee for some kind of anti-lawyer, anti-lawsuit bill.

We recently considered a bill to ban lawsuits against people who want to sue fast food companies, even though these companies are once again considering another bill that will pass the Republican-controlled Congress. They will do their press releases, they will send it over to the Senate, and it will go nowhere.

Later today we will hear from members of the House Judiciary Committee who have particular subject expertise on the specifics of this legislation. I will leave it to these Members to explain the intricacies of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure and how Rule 11 fits in. I would like for a few minutes, however, to talk about the continued abuse of power that the Republican majority takes to a new level today.

Under this rule and under this bill, Republican fund-raisers are rewarded, while the majority party continues its unashamed assault on the judicial branch of this Nation. Do not just take my word for it, Madam Speaker. One of the broadest arrays of groups that I have ever seen has come together to oppose this misguided, short-sighted, mean-spirited legislation. These groups include, but are certainly not limited to, the NAACP, the Legal Defense Fund, the American Bar Association, the Federal Judicial Conference of the United States, the National Women’s Law Center, and the Consumers Union.

The one that stands out the most, however, is the opposition from the Judicial Conference of the United States. Now, what is this conference that opposes what my Republican friends will describe as a critically important piece of legislation?

The Judicial Conference was created by this very Congress in 1922. Their mission is to be the principal policymaking body concerned with the administration of the United States courts. The presiding officer of this organization is none other than the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court. You know what the Judicial Conference has to say about this legislation?

In a three-page letter to Chairman Sensenbrenner, in short, they say it is unnecessary and it is harmful. If they were less judicious in their choice of words, they would say what I say: It stinks.

But what they say, Madam Speaker, this group representing the Federal judges of this country, is that this legislation is fatally flawed. They say that Rule 11 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, what the underlying legislation aims to fix, is working better today than ever before. In fact, in their letter to the Judiciary Committee chairman, they say that Federal District judges are united in their opposition to any legislation which seeks to amend rule 11. They specifically urge Congress to reject this legislation.

Now, Madam Speaker, let us think this through for just a second, shall we? The organization representing President-appointed, Senate-confirmed judges thinks this legislation is unwise. Why do we think we know better than our Federal judges how to operate the Federal judiciary? Frankly, I would laugh if I did not think that the majority was so sincere in their attempts to undermine the constitutional rights of every single American. Shame on you.

Mr. MCGOVERN. Madam Speaker, if this time, so right now I am reserving the balance of my time for the purpose of closing, unless another speaker comes.
Mr. MCGOVERN. Madam Speaker, if I could inquired from the gentleman how many more speakers he has, because I am the last speaker on my side.
Mr. GINGRORY. To the gentleman from Massachusetts, we do not actually have any additional speakers at this time, so right now I am reserving the balance of my time for the purpose of closing, unless another speaker comes.
Mr. MCGOVERN. Madam Speaker, I would like to enter into the RECORD as well another letter signed by a number of groups urging a vote against H.R. 420.
I would also like to include a letter that was sent to every Member of Congress by Michael S. Greco, the President of the American Bar Association, opposing this legislation.
Mr. MCGOVERN. Madam Speaker, I would also like to insert in the RECORD the text of the letter that I mentioned in my opening speech from the Judicial Conference of the United States which very strongly opposes this legislation.
to protect civil rights claims provides insufficient protection for victims of discrimination because the more severe rules outlined in H.R. 420 can still be applied in civil rights. Had support for this bill wanted to effectively protect those who seek justice under our civil rights laws, they could have excluded those claims from the scope of the bill.

Moreover, H.R. 420 not only changes the rules for federal courts, it is unprecedented in that its reach extends to state court cases. Section 2 of H.R. 420 provides, upon motion of the court is required to assess the costs of the action “to the interstate economy.” If the court determines that the state court action “will increase litigation, costs, and delays.” This letter also notes there is “a remarkable consensus” among Federal Judges that court judges in opposition to changing the rule.

Court’s approval, and after Congressional review. The 1983 provision was eliminated because during the ten years it was in place, it did not provide meaningful relief from the litigation. That is why it was meant to address the excessive filings and generated wasteful satellite litigation that had little to do with the merits of a case.

In 1983, Rule 11 was amended to require judges to impose sanctions for violations that could include attorneys’ fees. The 1983 version was intended to address certain improper litigation tactics by providing some punishment and deterrence. The effect was almost the opposite. The 1983 rule presented attorneys with financial incentives to file a sanction motion. The rule was abused by resourceful lawyers. A “cottage industry” developed that churned tremendously wasteful satellite sanctions litigation that had everything to do with strategic gamesmanship and little to do with the underlying merit of the behavior the rule attempted to regulate. Rule 11 motions came to be met with counter motions that sought Rule 11 sanctions for making the original Rule 11 motion. The 1983 version of Rule 11 spawned thousands of court decisions unrelated to the merits of the cases, sowed discord in the bar, and generated widespread criticism.

The 1993 amendments to Rule 11 were designed to remedy major problems shown by experience with the 1983 rule, allow courts to focus on the merits of the underlying cases rather than on Rule 11 motions, but still provide a meaningful sanction for frivolous pleadings. The rule establishes a “safe harbor,” providing a party 21 days within which to withdraw a particular claim or defense before sanctions can be imposed. If the party fails to withdraw or file a bar, then the rule eliminates the rule’s safe harbor provisions. The Judicial Conference opposed the Lawsuit Abuse Reduction Act of 2004 (H.R. 4571), the predecessor of H.R. 420. The Committee also opposed the amendment to Rule 11 that the 1993 version of Rule 11 did not provide a mandatory form or the courts’ discretion to impose sanctions on a frivolous filing and by eliminating the rule’s safe harbor provisions. The Judicial Conference opposed the Lawsuit Abuse Reduction Act of 2004 (H.R. 4571), the predecessor of H.R. 420. The rule was not supported by the Judicial Conference.

Mr. MCGOVERN. Madam Speaker, I think the reason why we have no other speakers on this side is because everything that possibly could be said was said last year. So all we need to do is just replay the tape recorder and listen to all the arguments. We just seem to be repeating the same debates over and over and over again.

Again, I would urge my colleagues to vote against this legislation. This is unwise policy. I understand that the genesis of this legislation is to appeal to those who like to contribute lots of money to particular campaigns, but, quite frankly, I think that is not a sound reason to pass this legislation.

As I mentioned during the Committee on the Judiciary’s oversight hearing on this legislation during its first iteration in the 108th Congress and reiterated in my statement for the markup, one of the main functions of that body’s oversight is to analyze potentially negative impacts on the benefits that a legal process or piece of legislation will have on those affected. The base bill before the House today does not represent the product of careful analysis and

Mr. SCHIFF. I rise in opposition to it, H. R. 420. The opportunity before this House today is another example of how this Congress has improved our legal system and preventing frivolous lawsuits from closing the courts. When the American people stop respecting the decisions of the judiciary, the courts begin to lose their respect for the important and historic role of our judicial system in defending the rights and ensuring the constitutional application of the laws. Frivolous lawsuits have not only driven up costs and destroyed economic opportunity for the American people, but they have also damaged the image of the courts.

therefore, it is critical that Members be given the ability to offer amendments to improve its provisions.

In the case of H.R. 4571, the Lawsuit Abuse Reduction Act the oversight functions of the Judiciary Committee allowed us to craft a bill that would affect from negative impacts of the shield from liability that it proposes. This legislation requires an overhaul in order to make it less of a misnomer—to reduce abuse rather than encourage it.

The purpose of the tort reform legislation is to allow businesses to externalize, or shift, some of the cost of the injuries they cause to others. Tort law always assigns liability to the party in the best position to prevent an injury in the most reasonable and fair manner. In looking at the disparate impacts that the new tort reform laws will have on ethnic minority groups, it is unconscionable that the burden will be placed on these groups—that are in the worst position to bear the liability costs.

When Congress considers pre-empting state laws, it must consider the appropriate balance between two competing values—local control and national uniformity. Local control is extremely important because we all believe, as did the Founders two centuries ago, that State governments are closer to the people and better able to assess local needs and desires. National uniformity is also an important consideration in federalism—Congress’s exclusive jurisdiction over interstate commerce has allowed our economy to grow dramatically over the past 200 years.

This legislation would reverse the changes to Rule 11 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, FRCP, that were made by the Judicial Conference in 1993 such that (1) sanctions against an attorney whose litigation tactics are determined to harass or cause unnecessary delay or cost or who has been determined to have made frivolous legal arguments or unwarranted factual assertions would become mandatory rather than discretionary to the court, (2) discovery-related activity would be included in the scope of the Rule, and (3) the Rule would be extended to state cases affecting interstate commerce so that if a state judge decides that a case affects interstate commerce, he or she must apply Rule 11 if violations are found.

This legislation strips State and Federal judges of their discretion in the area of applying Rule 11 sanctions. Furthermore, it infringes States’ rights by forcing State courts to apply the rule if interstate commerce is affected. Why is the discretion of the judge not sufficient in discerning whether Rule 11 sanctions should be assessed?

If this legislation moves forward in this body, it will be important for us to find out its effect on indigent plaintiffs or those who must hire attorneys strictly on a contingent—fee basis. Because the application of Rule 11 would be mandatory, attorneys will pad their legal fees to account for the additional risk that they will have to incur in filing lawsuits and the fact that they will have no opportunity to withdraw the suit during the trial. Overall, this legislation will deter indigent plaintiffs from seeking counsel to file meritorious claims given the extremely high legal fees.

Furthermore, H.R. 4571, as drafted, would allow corporations that perform shamb and non-economic transactions in order to enjoy economic benefits in this country.

This is a bad rule that will have terrible implications on our legislative branch, and I ask that my colleagues to defeat the rule, defeat the bill, and support the Substitute offered by Mr. SCHIFF. We must carefully consider the long-term implications that this bill, as drafted, will have on indigent claimants, the trial attorney community, and facilitation of corporate fraud.

Mr. GINGREY. Madam Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time, and I move the previous question on the resolution.

The previous question was ordered.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

DISAPPROVING THE RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE DEFENSE BASE CLOSURE AND REALIGNMENT COMMISSION

Mr. HUNTER. Madam Speaker, pursuant to section 2908(d) of Public Law 101-510, I move that the House resolve itself into the Committee of the Whole House on the State of the Union for the consideration of the joint resolution (H.J. Res 65) disapproving the recommendations of the Defense Base Closure and Realignment Commission.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question on the resolution will be decided by the yea and nay. The Clerk read the title of the joint resolution.

By unanimous consent, the joint resolution was considered read the first time.

The CHAIRMAN. Pursuant to section 2908(d) of Public Law 101-510, debate shall not exceed 2 hours.

The gentleman from California (Mr. HUNTER) will be recognized for 1 hour in opposition to the joint resolution and a Member in favor of the joint resolution will be recognized for 1 hour.

Mr. LAHOOD. Mr. Chairman, I would like to claim the 1 hour in support of the resolution.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Illinois (Mr. LAHOOD) will be recognized for 1 hour.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from California (Mr. HUNTER).

Mr. HUNTER. Mr. Chairman, I yield 30 minutes to the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. SKELOC), and I ask unanimous consent that he be allowed to control that time. I also ask unanimous consent that I be allowed to designate the gentleman from Colorado (Mr. Hefley) as controlling our time.

The CHAIRMAN. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from California?
Mr. Chairman, I rise today to offer H.J. Res. 65, a resolution that I introduced which would disapprove the recommendations of the 2005 Defense Base Closure and Realignment Commission.

I have stated many times since this BRAC round began, it is absolutely wrong that we are considering closing and realigning bases while we are at war. We in Congress spend quite a bit of time proclaiming that we are doing all we can to care for our troops. Spending billions of dollars closing and realigning bases isn’t caring for our troops—it’s just plain wrong.

Congress created the BRAC process so that there would be a non-partisan, independent approach to making the tough decisions that saving this mission and the embassy there trying to show us that we can no longer ask our military to do more with less.

This BRAC Commission was asked to do a very difficult task in a very uncertain environment. Earlier this year the Defense Department will issue its latest Quadrennial Defense Review, a document that will outline the future structure of our military as they continue their fight against terror. We do not know what the QDR will contain, and what sort of infrastructure will be required. We are sitting here, waiting to hear the plan for bringing as many as 70,000 troops and their families home from Europe and Asia as the Department reduces its Cold War footprint overseas. We do not know what that report will say, we do not know what that report will say, but I think it is a law that makes an awful lot of sense. The Governors should have a say in what bases are closed. But it was a law that was ignored. So I say to those in the House that today is not the day to send the wrong message that we will be sending if we do not approve the resolution that was considered by the Armed Services Committee and being considered here today.

We need to pass this resolution.

If we pass the resolution, we do send a strong message to our citizen soldiers and to the military that the work that they are doing is important, that the Guard bases that they represent, that the air bases that they represent are important, that the citizen soldiers have done the good work.

There is going to be another report coming from the Defense Department about realigning and about the kind of defenses that our country wants. We do not know what that report will say, but I think it is another indication that the BRAC is premature. I know what the chairman said about those who served on the BRAC, but I am not sure that we were quite as well served by some of those members as we could have been in some of their deliberations.

These are people that were called upon to do very difficult work. They have completed their work, and now it is up to Congress to speak. The Defense Department has sent the kind of message that we will be sending if we do not approve the resolution that was considered by the Armed Services Committee and being considered here today.

Mr. Chairman, it is up to the House to speak today.

I urge the House to adopt this resolution in support that our men and women who do the hard work, in support of those who are citizen soldiers who come from the communities that we represent and say to them, we thank you for your hard work. We thank you for what you have done. We thank you for bringing down al Qaeda. We thank you for helping stand up a democracy in Iraq, and we are not going to eliminate the bases from which you come or realign them.

Mr. Chairman, I rise today to offer H.J. Res. 65, a resolution that I introduced which would disapprove the recommendations of the 2005 Defense Base Closure and Realignment Commission.

We have seen such great success in Afghanistan, and those men and women who we call our citizen soldiers, and a big debt of thanks for what they have been doing in the work that we have asked them to do.

I have been a very strong supporter of the President’s position when we went to Afghanistan because I thought we needed to bring down al Qaeda. And no politician can take credit for what has taken place in Afghanistan. It has been done by the hardworking men and women who brought down al Qaeda and those 25,000 troops that are still there.

And no politician can take credit for what has taken place in Afghanistan. It has been done by the hardworking men and women who brought down al Qaeda and those 25,000 troops that are still there.

If we go along with the BRAC Commission recommendations, what we say to those hardworking men and women who have done the work that we have asked them to do is that we are thinking about, not thinking about, the BRAC recommendations would close the bases, close some of the guard bases, say to the citizen soldiers who have done the work, thanks, but we don’t need you any longer.

This is the wrong message to be sending. These hardworking men and women have done the job that we asked them to do, and that is the reason that we have seen such great success in Afghanistan and in Iraq. So I ask Members today to support this resolution and send a message to those who have done the hard work that these BRAC recommendations are not the right approach.

When the establishment of the BRAC came about, it was prior to 9/11. It was prior to going into Afghanistan, prior to going into Iraq, and prior to us asking our men and women, the citizen soldiers and the full-time military, to do the hard work that they are doing. This sends the wrong message. This is not the message that we want to send to those that are there, that the Guard bases and the air bases and the military has recommended the right way for closure or realignment was not right.

When we are spending the kind of money that we are spending, we are not saving an awful lot through these BRAC recommendations. I would submit to the House that if 9/11 had happened prior to us passing this BRAC, that BRAC would not have passed, we would not have established a commission, because we would need a very strong military and we would need these Guard bases.

I also want to point out to the House that there is a Federal law that has been ignored by BRAC and ignored by the Defense Department. It is a Federal law that says civilian Air and Guard Reserve bases without the authority of the Governor of the State, and this has been ignored.

It was ignored by BRAC, and it was ignored by the Defense Department. I think it is a law that has standing, and I think it is a law that makes an awful lot of sense. The Governors should have a say in what bases are closed. But it was a law that was ignored. So I say to those in the House that today is not the day to send the wrong message that we will be sending if we do not approve the resolution that was considered by the Armed Services Committee and being considered here today. We need to pass this resolution.

If we pass the resolution, we do send a strong message to our citizen soldiers and to the military that the work that they are doing is important, that the Guard bases that they represent, that the air bases that they represent are important, that the citizen soldiers have done the good work.

There is going to be another report coming from the Defense Department about realigning and about the kind of defenses that our country wants. We do not know what that report will say, but I think it is another indication that the BRAC is premature. I know what the chairman said about those who served on the BRAC, but I am not sure that we were quite as well served by some of those members as we could have been in some of their deliberations.

These are people that were called upon to do very difficult work. They have completed their work, and now it is up to Congress to speak. The Defense Department has sent the kind of message that the Chairman has spoken. The President has spoken. Now, Mr. Chairman, it is up to the House to speak today.

I urge the House to adopt this resolution in support that our men and women who do the hard work, in support of those who are citizen soldiers who come from the communities that we represent and say to them, we thank you for your hard work. We thank you for what you have done. We thank you for bringing down al Qaeda. We thank you for helping stand up a democracy in Iraq, and we are not going to eliminate the bases from which you come or realign them.
secure in voting on these recommendations without knowing the full impact they will have on our homeland security? These bases are not simply staging areas before our military goes to fight overseas. Our military is vital to securing our homeland. We cannot make it more difficult for them to achieve their mission.

The one aspect of this year’s BRAC round that brought this issue home to many of my colleagues was the inclusion of Air National Guard bases. I am proud to say that I represent 2 flying units of the Illinois Air National Guard, and I have seen firsthand the vital roles they play in our nation’s defense. We ask our Guard to make extraordinary sacrifices and become masters of a wide range of issues, from fighting against terrorism in Iraq and Afghanistan to rescuing victims of natural disasters here at home. They do so willingly and heroically, leaving behind their families and their jobs as soon as they get the call. These Guard units, under the purview of the governors of the states, are now being closed or “enclaved” without the consent of the governor and without consultation of the State Adjutants General. This is how we support those who serve both their states and the federal government? These men and women are not going to uproot their entire lives to follow their units to other states and then lose them, their knowledge, and their expertise. This is a price we cannot afford to pay.

Title 10 of the United States Code prohibits the closure or relocation of Army and Air National Guard units without the consent of the governor and a directive relating to the movement of their National Guard units. Many states have filed lawsuits in federal court demanding that the Pentagon and the BRAC Commission follow federal law. The Speaker, Senator DURBIN and I brought this provision to the attention of the Secretary of Defense in a letter dated March 24. To date, the Pentagon still has not been able to answer that letter. On July 14, the BRAC Commission’s General Counsel issued a directive relating to the movement of Guard units in violation of federal law, may be unconstitutional. The Commission ignored its own lawyer! This BRAC round is going to leave us with flying units that no longer have planes, and for what reason? These Air Guard moves in violation of federal law, they no longer have planes, and for what reason? They did not inform its own lawyer! This BRAC round is going to leave us with flying units that no longer have planes, and for what reason?

Much has been said about the proposed “savings” if this round of BRAC is enacted. A figure of $35 billion in savings over 20 years seems to be popular in the media. However, this $35 billion figure includes assumed personnel and base savings in which both the BRAC Commission and the GAO have stated should not be included. Once those personnel savings are removed, the total savings falls to approximately $15.1 billion over the next 20 years. We cannot forget that this round of BRAC will cost $21 billion to enact. That kind of math simply does not make sense.

This round of BRAC has strayed far from Congress’ original intent. We aren’t reducing excess infrastructure to save money. This BRAC is the beginning of implementing major force structure changes without the consultation of Congress. Sweeping changes like this require more than just one up or down vote. I have heard a number of my colleagues state that they will support this round of BRAC even though they do not agree with it, simply because this is the process that Congress established. This is not something we can close our eyes and blindly support. We are a nation at war, the timing is wrong, the savings are not there, and Guard units are being moved without the consent of the states and in violation of federal law. The process did not work this time, and we need to stand up and say “Stop”.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. SKELTION. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, I have long supported the base closure process as a way to eliminate excess infrastructure in the Department of Defense. This is an important and very noble goal. We need all of Congress to work together towards supporting our fighting men and women. This includes having the best and most efficient facilities.

For this reason, Mr. Chairman, I will today vote to uphold the list recommended by the BRAC Commission and against the resolution of disapproval.

Even though I support the BRAC, I would like to take this opportunity to comment on the process that was used in the Department of Defense. In the last three BRAC rounds, the Defense Department demonstrated that it could successfully close bases and reduce infrastructure through a measured and deliberative process.

In this round, however, neither the Department of Defense nor the BRAC Commission, in my opinion, has lived up to the high standards that we set for them. The execution of the process and the final outcome has suffered. The end result is that I doubt we will see another round of base closures due to missteps along the way.

This is it, Mr. Chairman. This is it for BRAC. But even with the BRAC shortfalls, I feel that the Congress created a law that we are obligated to follow. While it missed some opportunities, the commission made some closures that will benefit the Nation. There are some outstanding prospects for jointness included on the list.

I sincerely hope that the Department of Defense will maximize their effect, while it works to assist communities that will be affected by closures with redevelopment.

Mr. Chairman, we must vote upon the product that is before us and the good that it can do. In this BRAC may not be perfect, but we must take the opportunity presented to us to streamline our military infrastructure.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. IBSELEY. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, I rise to join Chairman HUNTER and Ranking Member SKELTION in opposing House Joint Resolution 65.

I was not a fan of us doing this BRAC round. The gentleman from Illinois said that if 9/11 had happened before the approval of this round, we probably would not have had a BRAC round. But this is a testament to how we have reaffirmed this BRAC round time and time again since 9/11.

Each year I would offer an amendment in the Armed Services Committee to put off the BRAC for many of the reasons that the gentleman from Illinois has stated: to put off the BRAC for 2 years until we could see where we are about bringing troops home, to see where we are on our war against terror.

Each time it would pass overwhelmingly in committee, it would pass overwhelmingly in this House, and we would be shot down in the conference committee by the Senate and the White House. We lost that battle. That would have been my choice.

But once we have gone through this process, I think we should proceed with it at this point. Just 5 months ago, the House voted down an amendment that would have delayed BRAC, the 2005 BRAC, indefinitely. I argued then, as I do now, that we must forge the BRAC process at this point to run its course.

As it turned out, that course took several unexpected twists and turns along the way. On the positive side, the BRAC Commission removed several significant bases from the closure list. In doing so, they validated our belief that our military should not give up the ability to surge to meet future crises in times of war and peace, allowing this ability that is fundamental to our Nation’s security.

On the negative side, the commission’s actions on some issues like the commission’s directive relating to the Naval Air Station Oceana, for example, raise a number of questions about the credibility underlying the BRAC process.

Considering that credibility is the foundation upon which BRAC is built, such questions are troubling. While I do not believe the BRAC 2005 outcome to be sufficiently flawed to vote to disapprove it, I have reached the conclusion that any future use of the existing BRAC laws to close or realign bases would be a mistake.

In balance, Mr. Chairman, I feel that this may have been the smoothest BRAC process that we have had in all of the BRAC processes we have had. There are problems with it. It has never been perfect. It was not perfect this time. But I think it was perhaps the smoothest and best process that we have had.

To those that we still may be on the fence about today’s vote, I would point out that disapproval of the BRAC 2005 recommendations would guarantee yet another round of base closures in the very near future.

Bases on today’s closure list would likely appear again on the future list. And those bases that escaped closure this time would again be at risk of closure or realignment. Whether or not you support any given closure or realignment within BRAC 2005, I hope that all of my colleagues who recognize that the alternative, which is another round of BRAC in the near future, would be even worse.

My friends, I do not want to go through this again. Any of us who represent bases across this Nation do not want to continually go through this kind of agony. For all of these reasons, I will vote against H.J. Res. 65 and vote to allow the BRAC process to run its course.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. LAHOOD. Mr. Chairman, let me just speak for a minute or two. I thought there were going to be some other Members that wanted to speak in favor of the resolution; but until they arrive, let me just talk for a minute or two about some of the costs.

The commission estimated that $35 billion would be saved over a 20-year period, but the $35 billion figure includes assumed cost savings due to military personnel actions. Both the BRAC Commission and the GAO believe the military personnel savings should be excluded from the overall savings figure.

Once those personnel savings are removed, the overall savings fall to approximately $15 billion over 20 years. There is a one-time up-front cost of $2 billion to implement the BRAC round, and the DOD claimed that the savings from military personnel are not savings at all. These costs do not disappear; they simply shift from one base to another, and those folks are still in the military, and we still have to pay for them.

For some Air Force recommendations, the military personnel cost savings represents 90 percent of the total savings. And in the case of the Air National Guard, it is upward of 95 percent. Obviously, no savings come from simply moving positions around the country.

If we keep the same number of personnel, DOD spending levels will not actually be reduced. The BRAC Commission concludes that DOD savings estimates were vastly overstated and overestimated. And there is also a quote from the commission on page 30 of their report: "In fact, the commission is concerned that there is a likelihood that the 2005 BRAC round could produce only marginal net savings over the 20-year period."

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. SKELTON. Mr. Chairman, I yield 5 minutes to the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. MORAN).

Mr. MORAN of Virginia. Mr. Chairman, I thank my two very good friends, the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. SKELTON) and the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. LAHOOD) for yielding me time, and I thank the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. LAHOOD) for bringing forth this resolution, which I support because it is a resolution of disapproval.

Now, you should know where I am coming from, Mr. Speaker. In my congressional district there are almost 23,000 people being displaced because of BRAC. It is the equivalent of four major military bases. But we could accept that, and Senator WARNER, the chairman of the Senate Committee on Armed Services, has said as well we will accept that decision, but for the fact that it is inconsistent with the BRAC authorizing legislation which was designed to save money and to improve military effectiveness. It does neither.

Initially, it was supposed to save $48.8 billion over 20 years. The latest analysis tells us that it is actually going to save only $15.1 billion over 20 years, about $700 million per year, which, incidentally, is about as much as we spend now.

So the question is, why would we be disrupting the lives of so many thousands of people if we are going to save so little money. And, in fact, even this savings estimate is suspect because as the gentleman from Mississippi (Mr. LAHOOD) has explained, it is based upon personnel savings, and all we are doing is moving the personnel around the country. That does not save any money.

In fact, what is going to happen based upon the surveys we have taken of the personnel that are going to be displaced from northern Virginia, as many as 50-75 percent of the employees are going to decide not to move, to leave the government. And who are these people?

Well, it turns out they are the most experienced, they are the most skilled, they are the very people that we need the most to lead our defense agencies. In other words, this is going to cause a brain drain, and it is one that we can ill afford at the Federal level. As many of you may know, because it applies to most urban metropolitan areas, with the cost of housing, both spouses have to be in the workforce, and it is very disruptive to tell families that one of the wage-earners has to move hundreds of miles away.

In this case, the Missile Defense Agency is a good example. About 2,000 people moving down to Alabama. Now, I like Alabama, I like the gentleman who represents that district, but the reality is not all of them are going to move, because they like our schools, their children are in the school system, their spouses have jobs here, and most of them have security clearances, which means they are going to be picked up by the private sector in a New York minute.

Is this in the national interest? I do not think so. I do not think it is in the national interest. I could see if we were going to save the money. I could see if we were going to follow the intent of the BRAC process, which was to improve military preparedness, but I do not know how we achieve that. We were supposed to take people that were in facilities that were overcrowded and move them to surplus facilities in other parts of the country. That is not being achieved.

Now, Senator WARNER, the chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, did a very extensive analysis, of the BRAC legislation because he happened to be the architect of it, and he shows that these decisions are inconsistent with the intent of that authorizing legislation. That alone is reason to oppose the BRAC conclusions and support this resolution.

We are going to, in fact, have to spend billions of dollars on building new facilities, and the fact that that money is going to have to come out of the Military Construction, Quality of Life appropriations committee where we need to be conserving money to pay for veterans health care for the thousands of veterans that are coming back from the Iraq and Afghanistan war, defies common sense.

I do not think this is in the national interest, Mr. Speaker. I think that this body should support this resolution of disapproval until we get recommendations that show us how we are actually going to save money and improve military effectiveness.

Now, Secretary Rumsfeld has improved new building standards, and that was the justification that the BRAC Commission used to move these people. And the building standards necessitate that you cannot be within 100 feet of the sidewalk where the public is allowed. You cannot be near a public transit station. You cannot have public underground parking. You cannot do any of the things that we do in a metropolitan area like northern Virginia or the Washington metro area, even though we have buildings that are right on the sidewalk that are just as important in Florida and Texas that were not touched. But in northern Virginia, they made the decision to implement these building standards as they apply to any DOD agency no matter how unlikely a terrorist target that agency might be.

But there are very different building standards that apply to the Department of Homeland Security, the Department of Justice, the FBI, all of these other agencies that would be just as likely a terrorist target, so it does not seem to make sense. In fact, I question why we would have published the location of all of these defense agencies when terrorists did not know where they existed, could not even figure out the acronyms for the agencies.

But we have very different, inconsistent building security standards, one by the General Services Administration, which has the primary responsibility for building Federal buildings; and another by DOD, which is not supposed to be building its own buildings.
but are requiring enormous restrictions that preclude a location in a metropolitan area anywhere in the country, and that are going to cost such a premium to build, they are going to make them prohibitive for any other activity to be housed in.

Mr. Speaker, I could go on at greater length on why I do not think that these recommendations make sense from a cost standpoint, from a military effectiveness standpoint, from just a common-sense standpoint. I will not do that, but I would summarize by again pointing out that these recommendations are going to cost billions of dollars to build new buildings for DOD money that we do not have, that we are going to have to take from veterans health care. It is not going to improve our military preparedness. It is going to cause a brain drain in terms of many of the agencies that we rely so much on for technological superiority and intelligence. And when you have a recommendation that causes such additional cost and is going to make it so much more difficult to implement our military mission, I think the right thing to do is to reject it.

That is what this resolution does. That is what I urge my colleagues in this body to do. To vote for the resolution of disapproval that has been offered by the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. Lahood) so as to have the administration go back and tell us how they can, in fact, improve the efficiency and effectiveness of our military mission. That is what I would urge my colleagues in this body to do.

The Acting CHAIRMAN (Mr. Ronkus). The Committee will resume its sitting.

DISAPPROVING THE RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE DEFENSE BASE CLOSURE AND REALIGNMENT COMMISSION

The Committee resumed its sitting. Mr. Hefley. Mr. Chairman, I yield 7 minutes to the gentleman from New York (Mr. Boehlert), the distinguished chairman of the Committee on Science.

(Mr. Boehlert asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. Boehlert. Mr. Chairman, thank you for yielding me this time.

Mr. Chairman, many of us who have been privileged to serve in this great institution for some time have been through this process many times. This is not the first or second or third. We have had BRAC after BRAC. But I could not agree more with my distinguished colleague from Colorado (Mr. Hefley) who observed this was the best BRAC of all. We are finally getting it right. This was the least political, most professional BRAC we have ever had. And that is a tribute to Chairman Principi and all of the distinguished members of the panel: Admiral Gehman; General Newton; former Congressman and colleague Jim Bilbray; Phil Coyle; Sam Skinner; General Turner; Jim Hansen, another former colleague who served with great distinction; and General Hill. This reads like a Who's Who list of distinguished Americans who are providing a very important service for our Nation.

The fact is DOD had too much physical inventory. It is costing DOD to maintain that physical inventory. It is costing the taxpayers. So understandably they wanted some realignment, adjustments; and there had to be winners and losers. As someone who has been on both sides of that issue, let me say I know what it is like. I can feel the pain of the losers. But I would say to those who are on the short end of the table elsewhere in the country, you should have confidence that the recommendations were made once again by the least political, most professional BRAC we have ever had, a BRAC whose individual members, including the Chairman, were available not just to have a courtesy photo opportunity, but to hear out those of us who had presentations before that Commission.

They asked pertinent questions. They had on-site visits. They were very serious about their importance to do it right. This was the least political, the most dedicated and very competent professional staff of BRAC was even more accessible. You can understand when you get on the phone and you try to get a conversation with Chairman Principi or General So-and-So or Admiral So-and-So, a lot of people want to talk to them. I must say that I was fortunate to be able to talk to the staff on the Air Force and they had quality time. But the fact of the matter is the staff followed through once again with on-site visits, and that was so very important.

The dedication and determination demonstrated by the Commission, its accessibility for individual members, their willingness to listen produced a product that I think we can all be proud of.

Let me once again address those who represent communities who are not treated favorably by the BRAC recommendations. I have been through that before with a magnificent Air Force base that dissolved back as a result of the 1993 Commission report, and in 1996 it actually was with a couple of exceptions. And there were some people in the community at large who wanted to write the economic obituary for that community, Rome, New York, and the surrounding areas. There are others who just me, the mayor, the county executive, local officials, business communities, that were determined to make the best of a bad situation.

Today, that once-vibrant military installation, Griffiss Air Force Base, is now a very vibrant business and technology park with upwards of 4,000 people gainfully employed there; but part of that installation involves an Air Force research laboratory which was set off as a containment area as a result of the decision to close the base in 1993, and the people at DOD and everywhere were wondering would this work.

It has worked in spades, and now the Air Force research laboratory, incidentally operating out of a $25 million state-of-the-art facility, is the center of excellence for the entire Air Force in command, control, communications, and intelligence technology.

It is an information directorate, and it not only services the Air Force well but it services a whole wide range of other activities. It is serving so well.

So BRAC looked at that and made the decision that some operations that had been located there should be transferred to other areas in the country. Over-all scheme of the Air Force to consolidate like operations at a central facility. Some moved out; some moved in. The net result is maybe a gain of 15 to 25 jobs for Rome, New York. I am not supporting the BRAC because we have 25 or 25 jobs. I am supporting the process and what it did and what it produced.

Let me tell my colleagues another story. At that same business and technology park, we now have a defense firm that employs exactly 382 people. DOD said, well, we want to consolidate, restructure. We do not need 26 locations all... over the country. We want to go down to three locations. That did not really make a heck of a lot of sense; and when all was said and done, when the BRAC looked at that, they recognized that maybe the answer was somewhere in between. And, in fact, from 2001 to three, they went from 26 to about five or six, consolidating, saving money, improving efficiency.

Guess what. This facility at Rome, New York, which incidentally is operating and out of a new $19 million state-of-the-art facility, was examined very carefully. They did not just listen to me, and they did not make a decision that was posited with that because I had a scintillating personality or I had some influence down here. Influence down here did not make much difference in this process.

What they listened to were the facts, and the facts are that when they examined all of the DFAS operations, in 16 measurable categories where you could quantify, where you could measure, you could compare the output of one against the other, this installation was at or near the top.

A final BRAC decision, not only are those 362 jobs preserved, 600 additional are coming.

So I say it from the perspective of a proud Member of a district who is gaining, and I say it as a proud Member of this institution who identified with creating a process that is serving our Nation well; and therefore, I would strongly oppose the resolution to disapprove and urge that the movement go forward.

Mr. LAHOOD. Mr. Chairman, I yield 4 minutes to the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. HOLT).

Mr. HOLT asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. HOLT. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman from Illinois both for introducing the resolution and for yielding me some time to speak in support of the resolution.

The stakes could not be higher. Of course, we should take steps, even if politically difficult, to cut waste and improve efficiency in the military. Let us look where we are.

The Pentagon has recommended closures through the BRAC Commission. The BRAC Commission has approved them. Now the House is going to stamp them down. The Department of Defense has completed its force structure review. This is exactly the opposite of what was supposed to happen. The BRAC commissioners themselves pointed out when they began their hearings this summer that the entire process has the cart before the horse.

Also, the Overseas Basing Commission noted that the Pentagon had not factored in the impact of the return of tens of thousands of personnel from Europe to the United States in its BRAC recommendations; and even now, we are proceeding with the BRAC process before the Pentagon has even completed its periodic force review, which is supposed to be the blueprint for what we need for the 21st century.

So we will be closing bases, losing key personnel, diminishing critical capabilities, even before we have determined whether we need in order to meet current and future threats. The process, Mr. Chairman, has been backwards.

I certainly can find fault with some of the specifics here. I am familiar with the excellent work done by the people at Fort Monmouth in central New Jersey where they do electronics, command, control, communications, computers. They have taken the lead in developing measures to detect and disarm roadside bombs in Iraq. It is hard to think of anything that could be more important.

We know that a large number of these scientists, probably 70, 80 percent of these scientists and engineers and procurement experts will not make the move if Fort Monmouth is closed. That capability would be lost at a time that we cannot afford it.

The harm to the military, to the Army, and to the joint services effort, I can assure my colleagues, is much greater than the harm to New Jersey.

That is why I am highlighting this example of the problems.

Let me be clear: I have nothing but great respect for each of the commissioners and their staffs. They worked for months a grueling schedule, reams of data, listening attentively, openly. In the end, however, the commission produced a series of recommendations that could not be right because the whole thing was flawed from the beginning. They got the cart before the horse.

In the resolution before us today, we have the means to stop this flawed and dangerous process, and it is apparent that the commissioners knew that they were not getting it right.

In the case of Fort Monmouth, for example, the commission's recommendation to close charged Congress, not that they are able to charge Congress, but nevertheless they did, to review their results with respect to Fort Monmouth to say do not go ahead with them if it might hurt the capabilities that we need to fight terrorism around the world, to support our troops in the field and Iraq and Afghanistan. They actually said that in their recommendations. They were acknowledging that they were not getting it right, or at least they thought they might not be getting it right.

They have got the cart before the horse. It is a flawed process. To give us a chance, I will urge my colleagues to vote no on this resolution so that we can get it right. Our country's security depends on it.

Mr. SKELTON. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Ohio (Mrs. JONES).

Mr. SKELTON. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Ohio (Mrs. JONES). Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. SKELTON) for the opportunity to be heard.

After a series of hearings and debates today, the House will vote on H.J. Res. 65, disapproving recommendation of the Defense Base Closure and Realignment Commission. I stand here in opposition to that resolution and support the BRAC process.

Since the Department of Defense released those dreaded base closure recommendations on May 13, 2005, elected officials, community leaders, and employees have come together to make the case for keeping their respective facilities open.

I respect the BRAC process. I understand that it is necessary for the Department of Defense to reconfigure its infrastructure into one where operational and support capacity is optimized for both war-fighting capability and efficiency. I also understand that the BRAC process assists the Department in maximizing joint utilization of defense resources and reallocates military personnel from supporting and operating unnecessary underutilized infrastructure. However, I believe that the BRAC process should remain a fair process, allowing for every facility to be evaluated in a clear and consistent manner.

Let me state that I am extremely pleased that on August 26, 2005, the BRAC Commission decided not only to reverse its decision to close the Defense Finance Accounting Service in Cleveland, Ohio, but to expand and add to this facility. This facility has earned the right to remain open and continue to provide A-plus services to its executive clients and, most importantly, the men and women serving in Afghanistan, Iraq, and around the world.

DFAS Cleveland is an integral part of the nerve center that supports our troops on the ground in Iraq and worldwide. It is the homesite of the Reserve pay center of excellence which procures and pays for the reservists, the National Guard, Naval Reserves and National Guard. It has a track record of innovation and success that has been recognized on more than one occasion.

I thank the entire BRAC Commission, particularly Chairman Principi and General Lloyd Newton, for their service. In addition, I would like to thank the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. LATOURRETTE) who is seated on the floor and his staff for all the work they did in supporting DFAS, as well as the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. Kucinich) for his tireless efforts.

Through our collaboration, we were able to outline to the commission the various discrepancies in the initial recommendation and make a good case for reversing the recommendation for removing the Cleveland DFAS office.

I want to thank also the Cleveland Partnership and its membership. Thanks to Carol Caruso behind the scenes and thanks to attorney Fred Nance, the managing partner of Evers, Squires, Sanders and Dempsey, who argued our case before the commission. He was brilliant.
Finally, I would like to say that this process has been a grueling process. In the city of Cleveland, we have lost so many jobs over the past 4 years. The thought that we would lose another 1,200 jobs if DFAS moved was just grueling, and we are thankful for the commission’s recommendation. Again, I vehemently argue in opposition to H.J. Res. 65 and thank my colleagues for their support.

Mr. HEPLEY. Mr. Chairman, it is my pleasure to yield 5 minutes to the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. SOUDER).

(Mr. SOUDER asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. SOUDER. Mr. Chairman, I thank the distinguished gentleman from Colorado for the time.

First, let me thank the BRAC Commission head Anthony Principi and all of the panel members for their hard work for listening to all of us, both at the regional hearings and in person, and with the staff and the Department of Defense who worked with so many of us in these very difficult decisions.

I ran in opposition to my colleague from Illinois’s resolution, but I share some of his concerns. I would like to talk about a few of these.

In the State of Indiana, the previous round of BRAC, I was legislative director for the junior Senator from Indiana when we watched all of our active military bases get wiped out in the State of Indiana, one of the number one recruiting States in the United States.

My hometown in Fort Wayne, Indiana, is one of the major centers of defense electronics in the United States with ITT Aerospace, with Raytheon, Defense Electronics based there making many highly classified electronics, defense systems, with General Dynamics with a huge facility there, with BAE Systems with a huge facility there, with USIS with a huge facility there, with Northrop Grumman with a large and expanding facility there.

We have a very patriotic, one of the highest, if not the highest, congressional districts in America in military recruiting for Army, Navy, Air Force and all of the various Guard and Reserve groups.

We have an Air Guard base there in Fort Wayne, Indiana, that is gaining under this process. It was a very difficult process as to how we deal with the Guard and particularly the Air Guard, and it was a very stiff competition with the gentleman from Illinois’s air base and the air base in Terre Haute, and we can argue the relative merits.

What I heard at the hearing is, look, I am very proud of our Air Guard. They are very wonderful people, have a percent retention, actually overretention at 116 percent of their recruiting quota. They have won national outstanding unit award three times by the Air Force and recipient of the National Guard Association of the United States Air Guard unit in the United States.

But I also heard from the people in the capital region Air Guard unit and the people in the Terre Haute Guard unit. In fact, they were all high in recruitment, and they were all high in national awards.

The problem is the Air Force is cutting. The F-16s are aging and declining in quality and disappearing from our defense system, and the Air Force plans are to reduce the number of fighters planes by two-thirds. So from where is this going to leave the Air Guard and the Reserve, and how do we work this through when we head into a BRAC process? I am very concerned where we are headed long term with this, not just this BRAC process but the next BRAC process.

It is clear we are leaving heavily on Guard and Reserve. Are we going to the point where Guard and Reserve and the Air Force are only going to be at active bases, and where does that leave the heart and soul of our United States as we move everything to the coast? Where does it leave us in homeland security?

The gentleman from Illinois (Mr. LAHOOD) raised a very difficult and interesting question that worked through the BRAC process, that is, it is pretty clear that the Department of Defense cannot close an Air Guard base, but they can move the airplanes. So we had one court ruling in Pennsylvania that said they could not close the base, but other rulings that said they could move the airplanes. What exactly is the role of an Air Guard base if it does not have any airplanes, and how are we going to work this through?

I believe there will be other types of defense systems in homeland security that hopefully will be located in Terre Haute and will be located in Springfield, Illinois, very important cities to homeland security and our national defense. We have to work this through.

I believe the commission made the right decisions, but this does not necessarily give us much guidance as to where we are headed and how we are going to integrate and maintain the defense structure we have in the United States with our Air Guard, Army Guard, and all of our Reserve units around the country if we do not have an adequate base structure, if we do not have adequate training places and ways to do this.

I hope we can find, in addition to the fighter planes that are located in Fort Wayne, and the expansion of our base, for which I am very thankful, ways to work with Springfield, Illinois, with Terre Haute, Indiana, and other bases around the United States because we need all of those pilots. We need all of those Guard and Reserve people around the United States because we are strapped very thin. I hope this BRAC Commission report, while I strongly support it, will also be a launching point to work and build and keep this very diverse Armed Forces system in the United States.

Mr. LAHOOD. Mr. Chairman, I yield 4 minutes to the gentleman from Tennessee (Mr. COOPER).

(Mr. COOPER asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. COOPER. Mr. Chairman, I come here today to praise the men and women of the 118th Air Wing who fly out of Nashville, Tennessee. They have been mistreated by this BRAC process. I do not blame the BRAC Commission. I think the fault lies originally with the Pentagon recommendation because they simply did not take into account one of the best flying units in America. They are proven, they are ready, they have performed valiantly every time the Nation has called them to service.

They have volunteered for extra duty. They fly C-130s. We have, and we soon will miss, those eight C-130 airplanes.

The bottom line for the Pentagon decision addressed that we have to do with military judgment for value or cost savings? No. What did it have to do with? A political calculation on the part of the Pentagon that because Tennessee had a great air unit in Memphis with 135s and a great air unit in Knoxville with KC-135s, that therefore, Nashville had to lose one of the best Air Guard units in the country.

Now, they did not close down our base entirely; they did not have the temerity to do that, but they took all our aircraft. They took the “air” out of the Air National Guard in Nashville, Tennessee.

Now, Members might say, well, I am just protecting a local interest. Look at the facts. First they came at us with wrong data because the Air Guard unit there does not own the runways; we only lease them from a fine commercial airport. We got no credit for that, since we addressed that.

Then they did not take into account the fact that we had some of the newest and best facilities in all of our military, the number one best hangar in America, brand new, barely opened, and they did not take into account that they had an airplane. It won the top Air Force award for best hangar in the country, so why did American taxpayers pay $55 million for that hangar never to see it used?

Guess what, almost every other facility on that base is less than 2 years old, and we are taking away all of the aircraft. How does that make sense? It only makes sense if you look at the politics. Tennessee had three bases; they wanted to cut down to two and distribute it more evenly around the country. So they can take our airplanes, are they going to train the new air crews at these other bases? Are they going to build them brand new with C-5s and a great air unit in hangars? Will that save the American taxpayer money when we already had one of the top units in the country in Nashville performing perfectly?

If you ask Secretary Rumsfeld, he knows about the men and women from Nashville who have flown him wherever he needed to go, in the Middle East or other places in the world.
So I am in an ironic situation. I believe in the BRAC process. I do think Congress needs a restraint. We cannot just all protect our local bases, but the Pentagon’s recommendation has to be based on sound military judgment, and at least, these one small case, it was not. Unfortunately, the BRAC commission did not have the temerity to override in this case, at least, the Pentagon recommendation.

If members talk to top folks in the Pentagon, they will tell you that from the early savings from the BRAC round, they are virtually gone, because the BRAC Commission did interfere in a lot of other bases, and some services, so 70 to 80 percent of the expected savings are not there. I think history will chalk this up as a failed BRAC round, not because of Nashville but because of larger issues.

So I hope and pray that when the next BRAC round comes around, we will do a better job starting with the Pentagon and through the BRAC Commission.

Mr. Chairman, I rise today in favor of H.J. Res. 65, which would reject the recommendations of the Defense Base Closure and Realignment Commission.

As a member of the House Armed Services Committee, I initially supported the BRAC process. It is very important that the composition of our bases and infrastructure support the operational needs of the 21st century—a century that is emerging to be as dangerous and challenging as the 20th century. We must adapt to new threats and challenges. But our decisions concerning future base structure must be based on what best supports the national security of the United States. The BRAC decisions regarding the Air National Guard do not meet this test.

Consequently, I disagree with the Department of Defense’s recommendations concerning the Air National Guard. Our citizen soldiers of the Air National Guard are a critical part of our defense structure. They have done heroically. We simply should not have been able to sustain the current pace of our operations without the Air National Guard.

The Air Force BRAC recommendations failed to fully consider the unique capabilities and civilian-military partnerships of many of our Air Guard facilities and the legitimate recruiting, training and retention concerns of the state adjutants. Moreover, the BRAC analysis did not address the potential impact of realignments on State homeland security missions. These ill considered recommendations generated almost unanimous opposition from State and local representatives. In the defense of the commission, this entire process has done great harm to the vital relationships between the Air National Guard and the Air Force. This harms our national security.

Let me briefly discuss these flaws using the 118th Air Wing (AW) stationed in Nashville as an example. The decision regarding the realignment of the 118th AW, one of the premier C130H flying units in the United States, illustrates the nature of the flawed recommendations that grew out of a closed process.

First, considering the Air Force, the Air National Guard and the movement of aircraft to fewer sites will have negative impact of the re- 118th and many similar units across the country essentially takes the “air” out of Air National Guard. Attracting and retaining highly motivated young men and women for a place holder contract with no real mission will be difficult, if not impossible.

Third, rebidding the deep operational experience and cohesion of units like the 118th AW, forged through multiple deployments and demanding combat missions that have continued through the rescue and recovery efforts that Hurricane Katrina will require many, many years. The direct and indirect personnel costs of realigning units like the 118th AW do not appear to have been considered in the BRAC process. It takes time and money to move highly experienced pilots and co-pilots and highly skilled maintenance and support personnel. Indeed, duplicating the skill, experience and dedication of the 118th AW may be impossible.

Fourth, it appears that the Air Force failed to fully consider the operational value of the Air National Guard facilities under consideration. For example, in Nashville, we have spent over $55 million over the last five years on military construction to include a new state of the art hangar/ maintenance complex that won an Air Force design award. Yet, it appears clear that this new construction was not considered in the evaluation of the 118th AW’s “Military Value.” Consequently, these excellent facilities will remain in limbo—neither closed nor fully operational. Where is the efficiency, cost savings or operational advantage in this arrangement?

Finally, the overall BRAC savings are minimal. According to the Base Closure and Realignment Commission, the Department of Defense claimed that their recommendations would save $47.8 billion over twenty years. The Commission concluded that once one time up-front costs of $21 billion are subtracted and personnel costs are accurately calculated the total savings to the American taxpayer will only be $15 billion. This figure is likely high because costs for the retraining of pilots, air crews and mechanics are not factored into the up-front costs. This is extraordinary.

Consequently, I have concluded that the marginal fiscal benefits of these recommendations do not outweigh the costs to our Air National Guard flying formations and our national security. I will vote “yes” on H.J. Res. 65.

Mr. KUCINICH. Mr. Chairman, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. KUCINICH).

Mr. KUCINICH. Mr. Chairman, I rise in opposition to this resolution because I believe the BRAC Commission has performed its job admirably. It wisely chose to remove from the closure list the Defense Finance and Accounting Services in Cleveland which was scheduled to lose 1028 jobs. This came after a very strong community effort in Cleveland that was led by the Greater Cleveland Partnership and attorney Fred Nance, whose brilliant presentation at the BRAC Commission hearing was quite persuasive.

It also came as a result of work that was done by our colleague from Ohio (Mr. LATOURETTE). The gentleman from Ohio has demonstrated a bipartisan cooperation and partnership can be quite successful in helping to strengthen a community’s economic position.

We worked together, along with the gentlewoman from Ohio (Mrs. JONES), other Federal officials, and local officials to ensure that we made the best case possible as to why the people who do an admirable service at DFAS in Cleveland should be permitted to continue doing their work.

The 2005 Department of Defense recommendations put on the BRAC closure list inappropriately the Cleveland area, and they targeted Cleveland with over 1000 job cut case that those potential job losses were unjust and unfair and counterproductive to the interest of our Federal Government. The BRAC Commission reversal wound up adding 475 jobs, in addition to the current savings that means Cleveland will host 1,500 DFAS jobs and continue to be a major financial center for the Department of Defense.

The BRAC Commission showed independence from the Pentagon, which is a rare feat in Washington, D.C. and Cleveland is grateful for their independence. This shows all of us why independence in our government’s decision-making process is a crucial ingredient to ensure that the right decisions are made. This is another opportunity to move our great city off the list of cities with the highest poverty rate. The commission accepted the argument that the Pentagon should not cut 1,000 jobs Cleveland, do the case that those potential job losses were unjust and unfair and counterproductive to the interest of our Federal Government. I understand why the gentleman from Illinois has brought this resolution here today because I remember the shudder that can go through a community when 1,200 jobs are being dis- cussed, in some cases more, some cases less. In Cleveland's case, they lost jobs that amounted to an average of $54,000 a year. You are not just talking about the loss of the tax base. You are also talking about individuals who have made lives, whether it be in Cleveland, Indiana, Colorado, Missouri or other parts of the country.

I had one grandmother who came up to me in Lake County, Ohio, after the decision was made to keep the facility open in Cleveland, and she said I want to thank you because it means my grandchildren will not be going to some faraway place. I can understand the shudder, and as the gentleman from Colorado said, maybe we should reexamine how we engage in this. But I want to talk about the process.

Though it was nerve- racking, was also healthy. It was healthy because it gave me the oppor- tunity to work together with the gentlewoman from Ohio (Mrs. JONES) and the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. KUCINICH) and the other Democrats, and we all put our shoulders to the same wheel to get the same result. It was good to see the leadership of the city of Cleve- land come together, with Mayor Camp- bell and others all working towards achieving this result. From bad news, good news took place.

But as the gentleman from New York (Mr. BOEHNER) said, it was not be- cause the gentlewoman from Ohio (Mrs. JONES) and the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. KUCINICH) and I are so power- ful. There was good process done by Anthony Principi and the BRAC com- missioners and the professional staff, and hats off to Marilyn Wasleski in particular, they took the time to look at the numbers and figure out that when the Pentagon came up with its original proposal, they had the num- bers wrong. Just one small example: they overvalued the square footage that was being paid to the General Services Administration so Cleveland did more work. It would have been easy to say we are not going to pay attention to that, but the BRAC commissioners paid atten- tion. They paid attention to the argu- ments and observations; and at the end of the day, Cleveland did not win because Cleveland had more political muscle, Cleveland won on the facts and on objective standards.

Another thing that impressed me, the BRAC Commission not only looked at the numbers, they looked at the human impact. They considered the value of the 1,100 people that work in that building, the Celebreeze Federal build- ing in the city of Cleveland, and they said to those Federal employees, you have value, you have worth. They rec- ognized what they have accomplished in becoming centers of excellence, and they were rewarded for that. That is exactly what we would want to encour- age.

The last thing I want to say, we have some force protection issues, antiterrorism protection for Federal properties are coming up in 2009. I un- derstand that when it comes to the men and women who are serving in the active duty component, the Cleveland facility is made up primarily of account- ants. And I want to protect our men and women in uniform, but the folks in the Cleveland building are account- ants, by and large. And I try to read all of the chatter from al Qaeda and every- where else, and I do not hear a lot of chatter about taking out the account- ants. I would argue that our civilian Department of Defense employees are valuable, but they are no more valu- able than have been allowed for the Social Security Administration or the U.S. Marshal’s Office. Before we make sure that we fortify and penetrate all of these buildings for DOD civilian em- ployee’s work, we should look at force protection for everybody who works for the Federal Government.

Mr. LAHOOD. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from New Mexico (Mr. UDALL).

(Mr. UDALL of New Mexico asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. UDALL of New Mexico. Mr. Chairman, I would like to thank the gentleman from Illinois for introducing this resolution. I will be voting today in favor of H.J. Res. 65 because I be- lieve the BRAC Commission’s rec- ommendations should be overturned. I commend the commission for their thorough and diligent work. They cer- tainly had a very difficult job.

However, I believe that now is not the time to implement a BRAC round, considering the number of operations our armed services are currently en- gaged in around the world. I have great concern about the Pentagon’s ability to adequately assess our needs and as- sets while there are so many soldiers abroad and while the Pentagon waits for the results of the Quadrennial Review. I am also concerned about the Com- mission’s recommendation to place Cannon Air Force Base in enclave sta- tus. This decision places Cannon in en- clave status. The last thing I want to say, we have some force protection issues, antiterrorism protection for Federal properties are coming up in 2009. I un-

I urge passage of H.J. Res. 65.

Mr. SKELTON, Mr. Chairman, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Or- egon (Mr. BLUMENAUER).

Mr. BLUMENAUER. Mr. Chairman, I appreciate the gentleman’s courtesy in permitting me to speak against this resolution. I understand the frustra-

A key thing that has been brought up by some of our colleagues here on the floor about the BRAC safety valve. I under- stand their frustration. We were in the crosshairs in my community, and some of the issues that were raised earlier about the friction between the Pentagon, energy security in these decisions in the future. It was not as clear when the BRAC legislation was enacted almost 20 years ago. I think things have shift- ed. I think it is time to readjust it.

I would also hope that this would be an opportunity for us to focus on what we are leaving communities with after the bases are closed. I have come to the floor pleading for more support from Appropriations and more attention from the Armed Services Committee to unexplained ordnance and military tox- ins.

The problem we are facing right now, according to H.R. 1200, Cannon will still have a dozen communities where they have not finished cleaning up those bases. Indeed, the Mather Air Force Base in California, in Sacramento, closed in 1988. The cleanup is not going to be completed until 2072. That is not fair to communities where bases are closed.

While I support the BRAC process, I oppose the resolution. I think, in the main, the BRAC process has worked. I hope we are able to clarify the role of the Guard and the Ready Reserve as it relates to national security.

I do hope this is a wake-up call to what we are doing and the responsible with, and we can accelerate the cleanup process.

Mr. HEFLEY. Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. EVANS. Mr. Chairman, I yield 5 minutes to the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. EVANS) who represents one of the largest military installations in our State.

Mr. EVANS. Mr. Chairman, today I rise in support of H.J. Res. 65. I totally disagree with the Base Realignment and Closure Commission’s decision pertaining to Rock Island Arsenal and other key installations across the Nation, including Springfield Air Base as well.

The BRAC process is seriously flawed. Both the Department of Defense and the BRAC Commission failed to follow the criteria established by Congress to base its decisions on military values and cost savings. I expected the DOD and the Commission to follow the criteria outlined in the BRAC legislation. It failed to do so.

The Commission stated it will actually cost the American taxpayer with no further expectation of future savings. The government will never receive a financial payback from this move.

The BRAC Commission recommended realignment of installations in the 17th Congressional District of Illinois, but failed to base its decision on military value criteria. Rock Island DFAS was rated number one in military value, but the Commission recommended consolidation at facilities rated substantially below Rock Island: Columbus, 7; Indianapolis, 9; Cleveland, 12; Limestone; 7; Rome.

The BRAC decisions regarding not only bases in Illinois, but throughout the Nation, are extremely frustrating because the Commission recognized the military value and cost savings provided streamlining of bases already undertaken on a local level.

I am a former marine, and I will not surrender this fight to save jobs at the Rock Island Arsenal. I will continue to work with the Quad City Development Group and local officials to strengthen the arsenal and to bring more jobs to the island.

Mr. Chairman, I want to thank the gentleman from Pennsylvania who has done an outstanding job in fighting this battle. I look forward to working with him on the cleanup of this process and hope that we do not have to go through it again. I appreciate his leading the charge this bill today.

Mr. LAHOOD. Mr. Chairman, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Texas (Mr. DELAY).

Mr. DELAY. Mr. Chairman, there is no shortage of valid complaints to be made of this round of the Defense Base Realignment and Closure Commission’s work. I generally support the BRAC process. But what is important about the BRAC process is the process and how it is handled by the commission itself. I feel that insufficient attention was paid to the role each individual base played in the United States national security, and, more importantly, the homeland security.

The BRAC decisions seem to be based much more on bean counting than strategic value, nowhere more so than in the case of Ellington Field in Houston, Texas. Ellington Field is currently home to the Texas Air National Guard’s 147th Fighter Wing, which just got back from Iraq and showed themselves to be exemplary not just in their efforts before going to Iraq, but in Iraq itself. They were absolutely exemplary in their efforts and in their service. We appreciate them in everything that they do.

But Ellington is also home to several other branches and resources of our armed services, all of whom are responsible for the protection of the entire Gulf coast region and homeland security facilities should be open to anyone as in need of more personnel, greater maintenance and better military assets.

Yet the BRAC Commission has chosen to realign Ellington, removing its F-16 Fighter Wing and leaving the gulf coast, to my mind, in many ways more vulnerable than it is now. The Houston-Galveston region has all nine of the FBI targets. It is the only region in the entire United States that has all nine of those targets.

The Commission’s Ellington decision was a bad one. I join with the proponents of this resolution and, for that matter, the two BRAC Commissions, including Chairman Principi who voted to save Ellington during their frustration. The flawed methodology and dangerous implications of the Commission’s work, particularly with regard to the Ellington Field decision, leave me no choice but to oppose the BRAC recommendations and support the resolution before us.

We should all support the work of the BRAC Commission to consolidate and improve the alignment of our military assets to strengthen our national security. This round of recommendations, in my view, does not accomplish that goal. I will continue to work on behalf of Ellington Field and to ensure national and homeland security interests of the gulf coast region.

Mr. HEFLEY. Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. LAHOOD. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Texas (Mr. GENE GREEN).

Mr. GENE GREEN of Texas. Mr. Chairman, I am proud to follow my neighbor from Texas (Mr. DELAY). Ellington is in his district, but I am the next closest Member.

I rise to express my disapproval for the recommendations of the Defense Base Realignment and Closure and urge my colleagues to support the gentleman from Illinois’ resolution, of which I am a proud cosponsor. This is the most ill-advised, ill-timed round in the history of BRACs. We currently have men and women fighting in two countries, and we passed three large supplemental requests, and the fourth likely in the next few months. We are in the process of closing bases overseas and bringing them home. Given these uncertainties, we cannot know what our base needs or our threat needs will be for the next 5, 10 or 20 years.

Ellington is home to the 147th Air National Guard Wing, Texas Air National Guard’s 147th Fighter Wing. Houston is the fourth largest city in our Nation. It is our home and has a huge petrochemical complex that accounts for nearly half of the Nation’s base petrochemical production. The Houston ship channel in the Port of Houston for foreign tonnages is also larger than any other port. We have the Texas Medical Center and NASA’s Johnson Space Center. One of the most vulnerable targets in the area is the petrochemical complex, along with the other assets. Yet the base closure commission’s close vote decided to close Ellington.

Now, what they are doing is they are saying that we are going to provide service from San Antonio, Texas. The problem is that is 23 minutes away. As we know, an airborne attack on a refinery complex could seriously disrupt our Nation’s energy supply, causing major nationwide economic impacts. An attack on a chemical plant could result in a hazardous release and thousands of casualties.

Currentlyour 147th Air Wing provides air security in the area, and the solution from the Pentagon is rotating several planes to fly on alert out of Ellington, which provides a much smaller deterrent full squadron. What would happen if we had multiple planes that are attacking different facilities?

I urge a “yes” vote on the resolution. Mr. Chairman, I rise to express my disapproval with the recommendations made by the Defense Base Realignment and Closure Commission, and to urge my colleagues to support this resolution.

This is the most ill-advised and ill-timed round in the history of Base Realignments and Closures. We currently have men and women fighting in two countries, and we have passed three of the largest supplemental requests in our Nation’s history with a fourth likely in the next several months, and we are in the process of closing bases overseas and bringing troops home.

Given these uncertainties, we cannot begin to know what our basing needs will be 5, 10, or 20 years down the road. However, instead of postponing this round of closures for 2 or 3 years like many members of the House and Senate have done, one of the most contentious rounds of BRAC was pushed through.

Like many other communities across the country, the district I represent was affected by the flawed methodolo-by the Defense Department’s plan to consolidate Air National Guard units, leaving one of the largest metropolitan areas in the country less prepared to respond to a terrorist attack.

Houston is the fourth largest city in the Nation, and is home to a petrochemical complex that accounts for nearly half of the Nation’s chemical production capacity. The Houston shipping channel and the Port of Houston handle more foreign tonnage than any other U.S. port. Also, we have NASA’s Johnson Space Center, and the Texas Medical Center.

One of the most vulnerable targets in the area, and possibly the country, is the petrochemical complex; a tremendous complex that stretches the length of the Houston Ship Channel and continues along the coast through Beaumont, Texas. We have seen in the aftermath of Katrina and Rita the negative effects caused by disruptions in our oil supply and refining capacity, and leaving this area unprotected is leaving the door open to a terrorist attack on this critical infrastructure.

The Port of Houston is the second largest petrochemical complex in the world, and the largest in the Western Hemisphere, which produces over 35 percent of the Nation’s gasoline at a great many refineries.

Numerous chemical plants also line the channel, producing a number of volatile compounds, making the U.S. Coast Guard, 7,600 deep draft vessels arrive each year, and 60 percent of those ships carry sensitive oil/chemical cargos.

An airborne attack on the refinery chemical complex could seriously disrupt the Nation’s energy supply, causing major nation-wide economic impacts. An attack on a chemical plant could result in a hazardous release with thousands of casualties.

Currently the 147th Fighter Wing of the Texas Air National Guard provides air security in the area and could respond to a threat on the complex or at the port in minutes because of the close proximity.

Rotating several planes to fly on alert out of Ellington, provides a much smaller deterrent than having a full squadron permanently stationed there, even if they could not provide enough planes to respond to multiple attacks on multiple targets in the area.

Meanwhile the closest full squadron would be in San Antonio, and would take approximately 23 minutes longer to respond to a threat than the F-16s at Ellington can currently provide.

In addition to providing security for the Houston area, the 147th is capable of providing precision strikes, close air support, offensive counter air, defensive counter air, and support air defense.

The area around Ellington also provides the base petrochemical production capacity. The Port of Houston handle more foreign tonnage than any other U.S. port. Also, we have NASA’s Johnson Space Center, and the Texas Medical Center.

The area around Ellington also provides the 147th with excellent training airspace, including over-water air-to-air training on the Gulf of Mexico allowing them to perform supersonic flights and lights out training from the surface to 50,000 feet.

Terrorists have proven their intent and capability to attack ground targets with multiple aircraft and retiring the 147th Fighter Wing’s F-16s leaves Houston vulnerable to an attack.

The savings estimated in the DoD’s BRAC report are minimal and do not justify moving the F-16s away from Ellington; while it is estimated that retiring the F-16s will save DoD $36.6 million over 20 years, an attack on any of the possible targets listed above, especially the petrochemical facilities and Port of Houston, would cost our national economy billions of dollars.

Mr. Chairman, this round of BRAC is ill-advised and ill-timed and I urge my colleagues to join me in supporting this resolution.

Mr. LaHOLM. Mr. Chairman, I yield 5 minutes to the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. HOBSON).

(Mr. HOBSON asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. HOBSON. Mr. Chairman, I rise reluctantly in support of this motion. I have always supported the BRAC. I have been here three years, and I always thought they were well reasoned before, win, lose or draw; and by the standards of win, lose or draw, I probably came out okay in a lot of ways in this, because four out of five facilities in my area did well. The Army did well in this BRAC.

But I always thought the BRAC was based upon numbers and savings and mission, and suddenly I find out that is not true. I am going to read something here in a minute about that. That is what troubles me in this one, because the Air Force set out on a plan to arrive at a number, and they destroyed, in my opinion, much of what one of their components does best, and that is the Air National Guard.

Let me give you an example. At Mansfield, Ohio, they realigned the base. “Realignment” means you do not technically get BRAC’d, but you get no airplanes, so you have to find something else to do. Let me tell you, the soldiers that were in the Dome shortly after Katrina were Ohio Army Guardsmen. They were flown there in 130s out of Mansfield. The soldiers that were in Mississippi from Ohio were flown down by 130s from Mansfield. The soldiers that were in Texas from Ohio were flown down by 130s out of Mansfield.

When BRAC gets done, there are not any airplanes at Mansfield. So how many days are we going to wait to come in and pick those people up and bring them down? Because we have still got a large Army Guard that can perform, and they have shown they can perform; but 2 years from now, that is not going to happen. That does not look smart to me.

If you look at the chart that shows the support in the hurricane by the Air National Guard, it is far superior to what the Air Reserve did or especially the active duty in response to these hurricanes. That is not going to be there 2 years from now.

Now, closer to home, my Springfield Air National Guard Base. It is a training base. I did not ask to do this mission. The Air Guard and the Air Force came to me and said, We screwed up. We have closed much of our flight training. We need another place to do this. Would the state take this on? My State said it will.

They came to me, I was chairman of the MILCON, if you wonder how they came to me. They said, Will you take this on at your Springfield F-16 base? We saluted and said, Yes, sir, we will do it.

We put in over $85 million to make this a first-class flight school. We have never opened the $85.3 million tower yet. We just finished the fire station. We put in a $10 million pad. And what do we find out? We are being realigned. “Realigned” means you lose your airplanes; you lose your mission. What are we going to do now? Now, if there is out there is another mission available for flight school, but they want to take it and possibly put it in another place, someplace else, and spend the money again and take these airplanes.

Let me tell you what the Commission’s findings were regarding Springfield Air National Guard Base. I am upset because they always did this by the numbers in the past. This was not done by the numbers, and that is why I am so upset about what happened, because I do not mind a fair fight.

We thought we had this won, until the Air Force went to the commissioners at the last moment and said, Hey, you have got to change this, because they were going in the right direction the day before. The next day when they got up, I knew we were dead.

Let me read the commission findings: “The commission found that the Department of Defense recommendation to realign Springfield–Beckley Municipal Airport Air Guard Station should be supported even though the military value criteria were flawed, and the realignment will be a cost instead of a savings to the Department.”

I mean, give me a break. It is flawed and there is no savings; but, by the way, the mission is going away, and we are not going to train these pilots. This place is training pilots better than they were expected to do and more than they were expected to do, and yet it is being realigned. The airplanes are gone. If we are going to do this this way, this is wrong, and I have to stand up and say it is wrong.

I think this happened in more instances than just mine, and that is why I am so upset about the way this was done. It was not done by the numbers; it was done to drive a number that the Air Force had to get to to save some airplanes like the F-22 and some other things.

So I am just hoping the people will vote in support of the resolution.

Mr. Chairman, I rise today to support this resolution of disapproval on the Base Realignment and Closure Commission’s (BRAC) recommendations that are now before Congress. This resolution was made that I have come to light. During the latest BRAC round there were several recommendations made that will benefit the State of Ohio and the 7th Congressional District that I represent. However, I cannot in good conscience accept a process that was fundamentally flawed and very unfair in the decision-making that led to our country’s National Guard and Reserve.

I represent four military bases, including the Springfield Air National Guard Base (ANG), the Defense Supply Center Columbus (DSCC), Wright Patterson Air Force Base (AFB), and Rickenbacker International Airport. Each of these military installations has an exceptional workforce dedicated to the military missions assigned to them, whether it is logistical support for deployed troops, research and development, or pilot training.

Mr. Chairman, this is the third BRAC round that I have been through, so I understand the importance of community leaders and base officials doing the homework necessary to define the installation’s military value, and the potential impact this process will have on communities where bases are located. During this latest round, I would argue that Ohio had some of the most hardworking and competent individuals working on behalf of our State’s installations.

We testified at hearings in Buffalo and Washington, DC, and briefed BRAC Commissioners and staff during site visits to DSCC in Columbus and to Wright-Patterson. We also worked together in reviewing the numbers used by the Pentagon in making their BRAC recommendations.

Mr. Chairman, I think that I can speak for other delegations when stating that our efforts in getting information from the Air Force during this BRAC round did not start well. When we requested material on how they came to their recommendations, they didn’t respond for weeks. And when we did receive the data, it was inaccurate.

As I’ve already stated, I was very disappointed by the DOD and BRAC Commission’s final recommendations with regard to the Air National Guard. This was especially true regarding their recommendations to redistribute the 178th Fighter Wing F-16 aircraft from the Springfield Air National Guard Base.

I have said all along that if the BRAC process had been fair and done “by the numbers,” that I would accept the outcome, even if I didn’t like it. But unfortunately, this was not the case.

First of all, the BRAC analysis material stated there is only one F-16 Formal Training Unit in the Air National Guard. This is wrong! There is the Air National Guard F-16 Formal Training Units, and one of them is at the Springfield ANG Base.

Second, I was asked several years ago if I would support Springfield taking on this training mission that would require specialized infrastructure to support it. I was the Chairman of the Appropriations Subcommittee for Military Construction at the time, and I agreed to support the Air Force in this effort. More than $75 million in federal funding has been invested in the Springfield base to support its F-16 training mission. The year after the new base was put in a new ramp to accommodate the plane, a flight simulator, a dining hall, an operations building, and a new control tower that is still under construction. Some of these assets are only now becoming operational.

Third, everyone agrees there are no cost savings by relocating the Springfield ANG Base. In fact, the commission actually concluded in its report that DOD’s “recommendation to realign the Springfield base should be supported even though the military value criteria were flawed and the realignment will be a cost instead of savings to the Pentagon.”

Fourth, the Air Force lacks sufficient training capacity for F-16 pilots. If we further reduce this capacity through this proposed realignment, it even further diminishes this capability, especially since this unit is the highest F-16 pilot production unit in the Guard. The BRAC analysis on Springfield shows that operational personnel will begin to leave the base in 2007, while there are student pilots scheduled for training in 2009.

Mr. Chairman, there is also the issue of homeland security. Like some of my colleagues, I think it is fair for us to consider what these BRAC recommendations will mean for the Air National Guard in responding to emergencies. As we saw in the days following the recent hurricanes in the gulf coast region and on 9/11, the Air National Guard was a critical resource in transporting troops, supplies and protection. For example, the Mansfield, Ohio-based 179th Airlift Wing flew over 50 missions in support of Hurricane Katrina relief efforts. Yet, homeland security did not appear to be a major part of this BRAC process.

Overall, I was very disappointed in the process by which the Air National Guard decisions were made, even by the Air Force analysis. These flaws run throughout the entire BRAC process, from the consolidation of aircraft models, and the so-called right sizing of operations, to the poor or nonexistent analysis of the cost to replace the people from the locations that are being set aside. This doesn’t even consider the recruiting and retention issues that we already face. And, it doesn’t speak to the cost of personnel training to recreate this capability, and the loss of experience that will occur by the Air Force plans. Finally, I was disappointed that there was absolutely no discussion by the BRAC commissioners or staff regarding the National Guard recommendations during the final considerations on August 26th. Until then, there was much talk about the lack of consultation and the quality of the recommendations by the Air Force throughout this BRAC round. There was even the suggestion that the entire set should have been thrown out by the BRAC commission.

On the day the BRAC Commission upheld their recommendation to realign the Springfield Air National Guard Base, I wrote a letter to each BRAC Commissioner to express my disappointment with the way they handled decisions regarding the National Guard. I pointed out that there was no discussion when, by the numbers, we had demonstrated the flaws in the Pentagon’s proposal. I also asked for an explanation on how the commissioners arrived at their decision, and I received no answer.

Finally, in early September, I wrote to the President requesting the same information, which led to the very tough decisions. When the recommendations impacting the Air National Guard back to the BRAC Commission with instructions to use programmatic changes to restructure our state military forces. Unfortunately, for the men and women in the Guard and Reserve, I am awaiting a reply.

As I stated before, opposed to the BRAC recommendations was not an easy decision. Overall, Ohio fared well during the commission’s final proceedings. Wright-Patterson will keep over 2,000 information and technology jobs that were to be transferred to Hanscom, Massachusetts, and it will also keep a first-class post-graduate program known as the Air Force Institute of Technology (AFIT). In Columbus, the Defense Supply Center will maintain its 6,000 jobs, and is scheduled to receive many high-paying jobs.

But, Mr. Chairman, I think that in the years to come when the recommendations regarding the Guard and Reserve are set in motion, people will realize that this latest BRAC round was flawed, and consequently nothing to do. It is for these reasons that I will stand here today and support this resolution to overturn the 2005 BRAC recommendations.

Mr. LAHOOD. Mr. Chairman, I yield 7 minutes to the gentleman from Mississippi (Mr. TAYLOR).

Mr. TAYLOR of Mississippi. Mr. Chairman, I have come to the same conclusion as the great gentleman from Ohio (Mr. HOBSON). I have just probably been at it longer. Article I, section 8 of the Constitution gives Congress the responsibility to provide for the national defense. It does not make us generals; it does not make us admirals. We do not tell admirals how to sink ships; we do not tell generals how to take hills. We do, hopefully, provide the funding and the support and the guidance, but ultimately the decisions had to be made.

The whole concept of BRAC is taking that decision-making process away from the people who begged for the job and were given the job by the citizens and delegating it to some other people.

I have been through decision-making, to delegate my responsibilities. I take them very seriously.

The service Secretaries would come before our committee, for years they have come before our committee and said, ‘Well, we have to do it this way because we received the plan from the single service Secretary. The gentleman from Hawaii (Mr. ABERCROMBIE) and I would respond to the service Secretaries, Name one base that you want to close. Just one. The same service Secretaries who said they wanted to cancel the Crusader, who said they wanted to cancel the Arsenal ship, who wanted to cancel the Joint Strike Fighter, the same guys who have no hesitation on canceling things and making tough decisions, never named one base that they wanted to close.

We followed that up with a very simple question: In the three previous rounds of BRAC, can you name one weapons system that you have bought with those savings? Can you name one additional benefit that you have given to the troops? Can you name one good thing that came out of this? Never once could they answer that question.

You see, BRAC saves no money. What people need to understand is that when a base is closed, the local communities then come to Congress, as they should, and say, Look, you have just put all my folks out of work. We at least want the property back. And in every instance Congress has given that property back to the locals, so basically there is no savings of selling off the property.

As a matter of fact, it gets worse, because our Nation has to live by the same laws as everyone else. If an individual pollutes a piece of property, they have to clean it up before they can sell it. To date, our Nation has spent $15 billion cleaning up properties before we gave them away.
The gentleman from Ohio (Mr. HONSON) makes an excellent point: every time you lose a base, you lose a capability. The worst of Hurricane Katrina hit my congressional district. I was very fortunate to be friends with Admiral Mullen, the Chief of Naval Operations, very fortunate to be friends with General Steven Bloom, the head of the National Guard Bureau. In my frantastic call to them in the aftermath of the storm begging for their help, their first response was, Where can I find you? Name a base, name an airfield, name a place where I can put my people so they can help the people of Mississippi.

Every time you lose a base, you lose a place to put those people in the event weather, whether it is a tsunami in the Pacific, a hurricane in Mississippi, a flood or earthquake on the west coast, a flood in the Midwest, you lose a capability to help the American people.

We are at war. Goodness gracious, we have Americans fighting and dying in Iraq. We have another 20,000-plus in Afghanistan. Did anyone see these wars coming? The truth of the matter is, in my time in Congress we had a war in Panama that no one saw coming, we had two wars in Iraq that we really did not see coming, we had a war in Bosnia that no one saw coming. So when you close a base, you lose a place.

Above all, when some new weapons system comes along, you lose a place to deploy it. Right now our Nation is buying 30,000 acres in North Carolina, and some people in North Carolina think it is a great idea and some people in North Carolina think it is a terrible idea. We are spending a heck of a lot of your money buying land in North Carolina so we can build a base to land F-18s, the newest version of the F-18, when they come off the line.

Then we have to buy the land and build a runway. And everyone who has served knows it does not end with the runway. You have to have a fire station, barracks for the enlisted, barracks for the single guys, family housing for the married folks, you have to have commissaries, you have to have places where the troops are going to live when they are off duty, because we are trying to attract young people like you to come serve our country. All of these things cost money, and we are going to build all these things in North Carolina at great expense to the public.

With you we already had all those things. We had all those things that we are getting ready to buy and build in North Carolina in Jacksonville, Florida. It was called Cecil Field. It had a 10,000-foot runway and three 8,000-foot runways. It had an excellent quality of life, and it was all paid for by the American taxpayer, and a previous round of BRAC clearly fortunate that.

So, please, proponents of this, tell me how we are saving the taxpayers money, how we are making the Nation more secure, and, above all, if the service Secretaries cannot name a single base that they think is worthy of closing, why are we going to close so many bases in one fell swoop?

We were elected to follow the Constitution. This 1230 1230 recommendation clearly gives Congress the responsibility to provide for the Army and the Navy. Let us do our job and let us not hide behind some commission to do our work for us. I urge Members to vote against the recommendations of this commission.

Mr. LAHOOD, Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman from Mississippi for his very articulate statement.

Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. PALLONE).

Mr. PALLONE, Mr. Chairman, let me say initially I do not believe in the BRAC. I have opposed every BRAC initially from the very beginning, and I have been here 18 years. The reason I do not believe in BRAC was somewhat articulated by the previous speaker. I think it is a abrogation of Congress' responsibility. There is no reason why we cannot make these decisions, and to give these decisions to an independent commission, I think, is just a cop-out on our part. So I want to start out with that.

I also want to say in this particular round in 2005, I strongly disapproved of the BRAC even more so than in the previous round because of the war in Iraq. You do not shut down, in my opinion, military infrastructure at a time of war. I think this BRAC in particular is poorly timed and ill advised.

Now, the 2005 round of BRAC also was done hastily, in my opinion, with very little regard to the actual warfighter. A number of bases with great functional value are being shut down in the name of savings. I do not believe anyone at the Department of Defense or any member of the BRAC Commission actually believes that this round of BRAC will actually save us any money, and I listened to many of the BRAC hearings.

I am also truly disappointed because I believed that the BRAC ultimately would try to be an independent broker and that the commission would review each facility, analyze the data, and come to conclusions based on facts. I do not think that was the case. The opposite happened. The case of Port Monmouth, which is the installation near my district, a lot of the people employed there live in my district. We successfully proved, myself, the two Senators and several other Congressmen, including the gentleman from New Jersey, Mr. HULT, we successfully disproved to the BRAC Commission, in my opinion, that the Army substantially deviated from six of the eight BRAC criteria. The BRAC actually said that, that the Commission deviated from six of the eight BRAC criteria.

But, even so, even though the BRAC was supposedly an independent commission tasked with ensuring that the DOD's recommendations would not hurt the warfighter, even though they admitted there was a serious concern about the warfighter and how in the days of Fort Monmouth the communications and electronics functions crucial to Iraq might be seriously harmed if they were still decided to include it on the list.

Mr. LAHOOD, Mr. Chairman, I yield 4 minutes to my friend from Hawaii (Mr. ABERCROMBIE).

(Mr. ABERCROMBIE asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. ABERCROMBIE. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman for yielding me time.

Look, we are down here on the floor, it is empty. Maybe some folks are listening in their offices. I hope they are. I hope at least some of the staff, some folks may be paying attention.

Our problem here is very, very simple. Over and over again our colleagues will say to us, well, I got out of this okay, or we have resolved that issue. I am one of those folks. I can say that, I have not had people come to me, well, why are you bothering? Pearl Harbor got made it out of there.

Why was it taken up in the first place? I will tell you why. It is politics. This has nothing to do with whether or not there is some rational process that has been undertaken, and everybody in here knows it. For once, can we not come down on this floor and actually vote the way all of us really understand where our responsibilities are? Pearl Harbor got brought up for a very simple reason. They were going to close a facility up in Maine, and the people in Maine in their panic said, do not take us, take Pearl Harbor instead. They started comparing some naval appliance, some shipyard aprons with some round orange, and they came up with, well, go get Pearl Harbor. It had nothing to do with it. I did not come back and say, no, no, no, not us; go back to Maine, go get them. Whatever a process is that where we try to decide each other? I said, let us keep all of them open. We need every shipyard facility that we can get in this country.

We are going to be going back out to Guam soon because of what is taking place in the Pacific right now, and having to recapitulate everything that got put under the water out there in Guam, billions of dollars is going to have to be put back into Guam in order for us to be able to protect and project our strategetic interests in the Pacific.

We are under a review right now in the Armed Services Committee, and we do not even have the courage of our own convictions under our own jurisdictions in our committees.

It is not that I am right or Mr. LAHOOD is right or Mr. HONSON is wrong or right, or Mr. TAYLOR. That is not the issue. The issue is are we meeting our responsibilities here? We are... constantly admonished that no sacrifice is too great. We are constantly admonished that we have to honor the sacrifices that are being made by our fighting men and women all over the world right now. Yet we cringe from our own responsibilities as Members of Congress to those responsibilities and obligations with regard to bases.

Now, I have been told over and over again, well, that is all well and good, but people are going to come down here, and you are going to lose anyway. It hardly seems reasonable when you come down here and say, you know, I was going to vote the other way. Let us, for once, come down here, and I make this appeal out there to anybody who is thinking about coming to the floor. Vote for Mr. LAHOOD’s recommendation.

We are not down here just to hear ourselves. When you come over here, search your conscience, and, for once, let us live up to what people expect of us in this Congress. For once let us not fulfill some stereotype that we are just going to roll over because we managed to make it out the door. That is not what we are here for.

If this is just a job to you, then do not run again. This is a calling. This is a vocation. It is supposed to be. That is the way I feel about it, and I know that is the way most Members feel about it. They want to be able to look in the mirror at night and recognize somebody with a little bit of integrity and walk into their homes justified.

If we are going to justify our job, everybody knows in their heart that we should not be voting for this, regardless of our good friends being on it, like Mr. Hansen and Mr. Biliray, for example, who are colleagues and personal friends to many of us here. It is not a question of whether they did their job or did not do their job; it is whether we are doing our job, and we are meeting our obligations.

So I appeal to everybody on their way over here. Let us vote for RAY LAHOOD’s resolution, and let us do the right thing by ourselves and the Nation.

Mr. LAHOOD. Mr. Chairman, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. FITZPATRICK).

Mr. FITZPATRICK of Pennsylvania. Mr. Chairman, I rise today in strong support of the resolution and join the growing chorus of Members of Congress who are coming down to the floor today disappointed in the recommendations of the Base Realignment Closure Commission.

I cannot understand why, in a time that we are fighting a global war on terrorism where we are actively engaged on two fronts and obligated to also increase domestic defense against terrorism here at home, the Department of Defense has suggested, in fact recommended, that we close bases across the Nation.

More troubling is the fact that the Department of Defense has moved ahead in this BRAC round by applying a Cold War model to a post-Cold War security environment. Remember, the Department of Homeland Security has not been consulted, Mr. Chairman, on the impact these base closures pose to our domestic security.

Mr. Chairman, the world has changed enormously since the last BRAC round. Our threats are not static as they once were. Today we face an asymmetric threat from an enemy that knows no borders nor rules of warfare. The threat of international terrorism requires that we remain alert and able to respond to threats on our allies, our interests, and our homeland at a moment’s notice, and I am afraid that the current BRAC recommendations hamper our ability to do so.

Take, for instance, the recommendation that the largest joint reserve base on the east coast should be closed. The Willow Grove Joint Reserve Base directly borders my district in Pennsylvania. Hundreds of my constituents rely on that base for their National Guard training. Thousands of my constituents rely on the customer traffic the servicemen and women stationed at Willow Grove provide for their local businesses that surround the base. And, on a larger scale, both my constituents and Americans from New York to Baltimore benefit from the base’s protection. Willow Grove’s strategic position allows its air assets to protect the ports of Philadelphia, Wilmington, and Baltimore. It serves as a FEMA alternative site, providing a staging ground so Federal resources can be distributed in the event of a natural disaster or a terrorist attack.

Militarily the base has a great track record of achievement by training combined armed forces jointly for over a decade, practically setting the standard for interoperability between branches of the armed services.

I urge my colleagues to support this resolution.

Mr. LAHOOD. Mr. Chairman, I believe I have the right to close. I have no other speakers, and if these gentlemen are ready, when they finish, I will close.

The Acting CHAIRMAN (Mr. BISHOP of Utah). The Chair will recognize for closing speeches in reverse order of opening. It will be the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. SKELTON), the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. LAHOOD), and the gentleman from Colorado (Mr. HEPLEY).

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. SKELTON).

Mr. SKELTON. Mr. Chairman, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. LAHOOD. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself whatever time I have remaining.

Mr. Chairman, let me just pick up on a couple of the people that have spoken. I want to pick up on a point that Mr. DeLAY made. He has an Air Guard unit responsible for Ellington Air Force Base to a slap in the face, to essentially being told, you have done great work, thanks for what you did in Iraq; oh, by the way, we are closing your base. Now, what kind of a message is that? That was my point earlier on in my opening statement. We owe it to the people.

I ask Members to consider this: To the people who are doing hard work in Iraq, the people that did the hard work in Afghanistan, this is not the way to say to them, job well done. It is not the way to say to them, you did a great job in standing up for democracy in Afghanistan and doing the hard work in Iraq. It is not the way to say there is no base to come back to, because your unit is being eliminated. Is that the message we want to send to the people who do the hard work, to the 130,000, 140,000 people now serving in Iraq, the citizen soldiers that have left their jobs and their families and left their communities? I do not think so.

The point that Mr. TAYLOR made, why not give Congress the responsibil- ity for the final decision on how the BRAC Commission’s recommendations should not stand. That is our responsibility. That is why we are elected, to make these decisions.

This report is flawed. You can say all you want about the great work that was done. I know people that serve on the base closing commission, and I know they spend a lot of time, but this work is flawed. This is a flawed report. This is our opportunity in the House to speak up and speak out.

The Defense Department has had their say. The President has his say. The BRAC Commission had their say. Now it is the House’s turn to say to the hard-working citizen soldiers, we appreciate your work, we are going to stand with you, we are going to allow these bases to remain open, we are going to vote for the resolution that says that this BRAC should not stand, that these recommendations should not stand. That is what the House should be saying today. I hope the majority of Members will do that.

I mentioned earlier, there is a law on the books, passed by Congress, that says that you cannot close air and Guard bases unless you get the authority from the Governors. We even had a report from one of the people that was working for BRAC that this law has standing. The BRAC ignored this. The Members of the Department on this. We should not be doing this. This is the wrong message. This is the wrong idea to send to our country, to send to the people who are doing the hard work and continue to do the work.

As I said earlier, I have supported the President and this administration and the Secretary of Defense, who is a friend of mine from Illinois, in everything they have wanted to do in Afghanistan and Iraq. I know a lot of Members have. The majority of the members of this House has. Now we ought to say to them, we do not agree with your recommendations. We do not agree that we should be realigning bases, turning people away, turning out bases and shutting down bases where the good work has been done.

So based on that argument, based on the flawed BRAC report, based on a law that says you cannot close these air national guard bases without the authority of the Governor, I ask Members to speak up today, to be a voice for the people, to be a voice for the military, to be a voice that says, this BRAC is not right, and I urge Members to vote for the resolution.

Mr. Chairman, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. HEPFLY. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself the remaining time.

Several Members have spoken eloquently about the fact that this is our job. Mr. TAYLOR did an excellent job of that. Mr. ABERCOMBIE did an excellent job of that, that we ought to be making these decisions, that we should not turn it over to a commission. I would agree with that wholeheartedly, except this is a job that we simply cannot seem to do.

We did not close a major base in this country from the 1970s until the BRAC process began. I did not like supporting the BRAC process when the BRAC process was first introduced, but I saw it as the only way that we could ever deal with the question of excess inventory.

Mr. SKELTON. Mr. Chairman, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. HEPFLY. I yield to the gentleman from Mississippi.

Mr. SKELTON. Mr. Chairman, I might point out to the gentleman that we in Congress did pass the basic BRAC law which we are following today.

Mr. TAYLOR of Mississippi. Mr. Chairman, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. HEPFLY. I yield to the gentleman from Mississippi.

Mr. TAYLOR of Mississippi. Mr. Chairman, I would like to remind the gentleman that this Congress closed the naval station at Roosevelt Roads without a BRAC.

Mr. HEPFLY. Mr. Chairman, reclaiming my time, we did, following the introduction of the BRAC process, but we did close that. But we basically do not have the power to do that, because if I have the power to close Mr. SKELTON’s base, he might vote to close my base, and we keep going around the room like that, and we are unable to do it.

So the BRAC process has worked for better or for worse. I see both sides of it. I chaired a committee that oversees the BRAC process. I do not want any more BRAC processes like this. But I would argue that if we had the power and if we vote for this resolution, and this resolution passes today, and we turn down this BRAC process, we will be back here in this room a year from now or 2 years from now, probably more like a year from now, we will be back in this room dealing with another BRAC process, and we will have the same arguments as we are having here today.

Now, it may be different people. Maybe some of the people that are dissatisfied today will be satisfied at the next round, but we would all have to go through this again next year or the next. And we would, all of our community, the bases connected to them would have to go through this again. I am not sure we would get any better results, no matter what process we use, than we have today. Some would be happy, some would be unhappy, some would complain, some would want it as the only way that we could ever can out of this for the defense of this country.

Mr. MICHAUD. Mr. Chairman, as a member of the House Armed Services Committee, I reluctantly support the BRAC recommendations today, and oppose this motion of disapproval pending before the House.

I support these recommendations because I believe that the goals of BRAC are worthy—maximizing capabilities and efficiency for both traditional warfighting and counterterrorism efforts. An integrated military force able to communicate and coordinate effectively in response to conflict remains crucial to national security and the war on terrorism. And I am concerned by the commission’s overall recommendation that the BRAC process take place within the next 2 years.

I am concerned by flaws in the current model of the possible expansion of Hanscom, as well as the commission’s overall recommendations related to Otis Air Force Base at Cape Cod. While I support the 2005 BRAC recommendations, I am deeply concerned that these types of errors set a bad precedent for future BRAC rounds. The Pentagon must ensure that the Department of Homeland Security and other relevant stakeholders are appropriately included in their process, and that our Nation’s homeland security needs are fully evaluated.

Mr. SKELTON. Mr. Chairman, today, the House is likely to vote not to reject the recommendations of the Base Realignment and Closure Commission, moving the BRAC process one step closer to an end. This has been a very difficult BRAC round for the State of Maine. When the list came out 5 months ago, all of Maine’s three facilities were in great jeopardy, and few believed that we had a chance of saving any of them. But the entire delegation, the governor, and the communities came together and presented the best possible arguments in all three cases, and as a result, none did better than we thought we could. We saved Portsmouth Naval Shipyard and in a victory that would have been unthink able only a few months before, we actually grew DFAS Limestone, bringing jobs to an area that desperately needs them. These two actions represent tremendous victories for the people of Maine.

I strongly disagree with the recommendation to close Naval Air Station Brunswick. It was the wrong decision and I have fought it every step of the way together with the whole Maine delegation.

Today’s vote is difficult. I deeply believe that Naval Air Station Brunswick should not be closed. Yet, when this process began, Maine stood to lose everything, and now we have saved and expanded two of the three endangered facilities. The likely alternatives for the State were far worse. Indeed, if this resolution were to pass today and the BRAC process were to be reopened from scratch, there would be no guarantee of saving Brunswick, but Pennsylvania could be closed and Limestone with its planned increase in jobs could be lost. That is why I am going to vote against the resolution to disapprove the BRAC list.

As we approach the end of this very difficult BRAC round, it is important that we remain focused on promoting the best interests of the entire State and that we continue to work as one Main. I will do whatever I can to make sure that we build upon the successes of saving Portsmouth and growing DFS Limestone, and the work with the Department of Defense in the context of flawed methodology as represented by the BRAC Commission.

The BRAC process is designed to provide a more efficient and effective military structure. But, BRAC 2005 failed to meet these goals and that is why I will vote against implementing the recommendations of the Department of Defense and the Base Realignment Commission.

The base realignment recommendations fall short because they eliminate military resources and installations without producing meaningful cost-savings. And, the base realignment recommendations fall short because they eliminate military infrastructure in view of our national security.

Mr. Chairman, at a time when we are fighting a global war on terror and facing new and very real threats, the Nation must be fully prepared. This BRAC round does not live up to the original goals of the process and, therefore, it should be rejected.

Mr. OXLEY. Mr. Chairman, I stand in support of House Joint Resolution 65, disapproving the recommendations of the Base Realignment and Closure Commission. This will be my first vote against a BRAC list, and it is not a vote I take lightly. I support the BRAC process as a whole as a reasonable and apolitical method for evaluating our Nation’s defense infrastructure needs, and recognize the necessity of this first BRAC round in a decade. But while I salute the hard work of the BRAC Commission members in their deliberations and recognize the difficulty of their task, this BRAC round took place in the context of flawed methodology as regarded Air National Guard bases.

It was my expectation that the Department of Defense would solicit input from all relevant sources in evaluating our Air National Guard requirements—most importantly, the adjutant general of each State. But at no time in the Pentagon’s development of its Air Force BRAC recommendations did it ask the Adjutant General of Ohio or any of the other 53 adjutants general for input. I find this shocking, considering that the Army consulted the adjutants general when crafting its recommendations—considering that 37 of the 42 Air Force BRAC proposals involved Air National Guard units.

For the past 24 years, I have had the privilege of representing the guardsmen of one of those units: the 179th Airift Wing of the Ohio Air National Guard at Mansfield Lahm International Airport. The 179th has been a vital part of Mansfield and Richland County since 1948, with an annual economic impact of roughly $70 million. Members of the airift wing have served more than 195,000 days just since 9/11 in support of homeland defense and the global war on terror.

More recently, the guardsmen of the 179th have flown sorties to the gulf coast region, delivering much-needed supplies and transporting hundreds of troops to assist those affected by Hurricane Katrina. Relief missions such as this are nothing new for the men and women of the 179th, who have answered the call during past hurricane relief missions in Florida and other States, and have assisted with vital defense operations in Iraq, Saudi Arabia, Afghanistan, Kosovo, and elsewhere.

I was disappointed, therefore, at the inclusion of the 179th in the Governor’s proposed closure list in May. As I said in a letter to President Bush last month in support of the 179th, the unit has always stood ready to accept any flying assignment, and represents a wealth of expertise and professionalism that Ohio and the Nation can ill afford to lose.

Contrary to national trends, the 179th has consistently excelled in recruiting and retention, currently standing at 105 percent of assigned strength. Mansfield draws from a rich recruiting base due to significant strength figures of any Air National Guard C-130 unit. The men and women of the 179th are highly experienced, with an average of more than 12 years of service; Mansfield’s aircrews have an average of 16 years of military aviation experience. In just the last few years, all Mansfield aircrew members have flown combat sorties in the Middle East and Asia, and have received 116 air medals for their bravery, courage, and skill.

In its final deliberations, the BRAC Commission found that closing Mansfield was “not supportable” and recommended instead that a “contiguous enclave” be established at Mansfield Lahm. The commission further acknowledged that the Air Force did not adequately consult with governors and State adjutants general with respect to its Air Guard recommendations. Had there been consultation, better decisions could have been made about Air Guard infrastructure in view of our national defense and our homeland security.

In short, the Air Force would have done well to follow the Army’s BRAC model, which stood as an example of good consultation among parties. When the Joint Systems Manufacturing Command—located in the congressional district—was placed on the BRAC list with a recommendation to reduce manufacturing space by 27 percent, top Army officials working on the BRAC Staff made themselves available to meet with representatives of JSMC and the community. The JSMC delegation explained that such a reduction would impede operations at the plant, resulting in a higher cost to the government for the weapons systems the plant produces. As a result of these discussions, the BRAC staff recommended that the commission remove the JSMC proposal from its final list, which it did.

The Army’s deliberations on JSMC were an ideal example of how the BRAC process works well: when information is shared and all relevant parties involved. Even with the commission’s decision to reverse the JSMC proposal—and even with the partial reversal of the Mansfield decision and the encouraging possibilities for obtaining a new mission for the guardsmen of the 179th—I will vote for this resolution of disapproval. By statute, the purpose of BRAC is to reduce excess infrastructure. The current BRAC round, though, is being used to implement operational policies and transfer Mansfield’s C-130s from the Guard to the Active and Reserve Forces. Such complex issues should not be handled within the BRAC procedure.

Although I strongly oppose the transfer of Mansfield’s planes, I welcome the opportunity to work with the Department of Defense and State officials to obtain a new mission for Mansfield, should the BRAC recommendations be upheld. In just the last 8 years, more than $20 million has been invested in the 179th’s facilities at Mansfield Lahm. Thanks to the efforts of Mansfield Mayor Gary Lyda and other local officials, the city has made 163 acres adjacent to the airport available for Guard expansion or joint service activities. This significant investment and possibility for expansion should make Mansfield an even more attractive site for locating a new air-based mission.

Nonetheless, given Mansfield’s solid track record as a C-130 unit and its many contributions to our Nation and world, I oppose the transfer of its planes. At a time when our troops are already stretched by operational tempo, and when our national recruiting and retention rates are reaching record lows, I fear any disruption to our well-equipped and well-trained guard units. Only as good as the people who maintain and fly them, and our country cannot afford to lose their skills.

Mr. EVERETT. Mr. Chairman, I rise today in opposition to H.J. Res. 65, a resolution disapproving the recommendations of the Department of Defense Base Realignment and Closure Commission.

It is clear that we have too much military infrastructure in this country, whose operations and maintenance compete for scarce resources needed by our warfighter and modernization efforts. This BRAC process has become the most effective way to rid the military of installations that provide minimal military value.

I am pleased that the commission recognized the importance of keeping the Operations and Support Systems Group—OSSG—at Maxwell-Gunter AFB in Montgomery, Alabama. After an extensive review, the commission did not adopt the Department of Defense’s recommendation to realign the OSSG and its 1,251 civilian and military jobs from Maxwell-Gunter AFB to Hanscom AFB.

The BRAC decision was due in large part to the world-class combat operational support provided by the OSSG to Air Force bases and DOD agencies around Montgomery for more than 30 years. It did not need to be moved in order to continue to perform this critical national security mission. The OSSG is the only organization with experience fielding systems across the entire Air Force and DOD. Moreover, Gunter is home to one of four Air Force Defense, Information, and Intelligent Systems Agency—DISA—nodes, which provide the backbone on which Air Force Systems run. The DISA presence, along with the OSSG, enables testing of enterprise-wide combat support software applications in an operational environment. With its extensive background, experience, and expertise, this organization is truly a one of a kind national resource and belong in Montgomery.
While I intend to vote for the implementation of the commission's recommendations, I remain very troubled by some of the commission did not do. Specifically, I have trouble seeing the logic in overturning DOD's recommendation to move the Aviation Logistics School to Fort Rucker. I am disappointed that the commission failed to see the significance of co-locating the Aviation Logistics School with the aviation pilot training under one roof at Fort Rucker. This move would have consolidated Army Aviation training and doctrine development at Fort Rucker. I still hold the belief that consolidating aviation logistics training with the Aviation Center and School will foster consistency, standardization, and training proficiency. As the premier rotary wing aviation training center in the United States, this move would have completed the formation of the Army's decision to create an aviation branch in 1983. The benefit of being able to train the entire flight crew, from the maintainers to the pilots, is quite significant. A flight crew who must go to war as a team, should train as a team.

A second notable absence from the BRAC recommendations is consolidation of rotary wing pilot training at Fort Rucker. Although DOD did not make this recommendation, I believe a thorough review of the facts would have led to a decision to include this on the final list. Currently, both the Army and Air Force conduct their rotary wing pilot training at Fort Rucker, which has sufficient capability to support Navy initial rotary wing pilot training as well.

Numerous reviews conducted by DOD and the GAD dating back to 1974 have been made regarding the relocation of this Navy mission. In addition, when Colin Powell was chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, he testified before the House Armed Services Committee that he supported this consolidation at Fort Rucker. Similarly, the overwhelming majority of the reviews have called for the Navy to move their operation to Fort Rucker for a number of reasons. Past studies have indicated that tens of millions of dollars per year could be saved by going through with this consolidation. Unit costs will be lower for both aircraft maintenance and logistics. Additionally, both the Army and the Navy use the same training helicopter which would allow for further savings by using the Army's existing instructor pilots. This consolidation will also advance a key component of DoD's way ahead, jointness.

Finally, I was troubled to see that the commission supported the DOD recommendation to move the Aviation Technical Test Center—ATTCC to Redstone Arsenal. This issue is very close to me personally as I have been intimately involved with it for over 10 years. In the mid-90s, there was an effort made within the Pentagon to move the ATTCC out of Fort Rucker. As is the case now, I was very disturbed by this, and began to investigate in an effort to determine if this would be best for the Army, highlighted by a personal meeting with the then-Secretary of the Army, Togo West. This culminated when my amendment was included in the House version of Fiscal Year 1996 National Defense Authorization Act—H.R. 1530—which blocked the Army's proposal to relocate the ATTCC until an independent study of the proposal had been completed. After the Army reviewed this further, not only did the ATTCC stay at Fort Rucker, but the Airworthiness Qualification Test Directorate was moved from Edwards AFB to Fort Rucker as well. I believe the arguments presented then still have substantial merit today.

At Fort Rucker, the ATTC is able to have their fleet of approximately 40 test aircraft maintained and logistics operation that supports the training mission on post. A move to Redstone disregards these significant costs of keeping the test fleet flying. The vast pool of pilots and aircraft from the Aviation Center also facilitates the ATTC's ability to realize a greater return on the testing dollar invested.

Another problem with this recommendation revolves around airspace. As the home of Army Aviation, Fort Rucker is blessed with over 32,000 square miles of airspace to conduct its mission. This irreplaceable natural asset cannot be duplicated in Huntsville. A potential move also undermines the synergies that currently exist between the schoolhouse and the experimental pilots. Finally, with Fort Rucker being the Army proponent for unmanned aerial systems—UAVs, it is crucial that the ATTC be able to leverage the expertise associated with this proponent to conduct its tests on UAVs.

While I do not agree with all of the recommendations included in the commission's report, I do recognize that the BRAC process must be forward. At present, DOD has excess infrastructure which needs to be realigned or closed in order to achieve the billions of savings which will result from the implementation of these recommendations. As costs of weapons systems crucial to winning the war on terror continue to skyrocket, we must continue to explore all avenues in order to find the money necessary to give the warfighter everything he or she needs to complete their mission. In conclusion, I would like to thank all of the commissioners and their staffs for their tireless efforts on one of the most thankless jobs in government. I urge a no vote on the resolution and yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Chairman, I rise in support of H.J. Res. 65, to disapprove the recommendations of the Base Realignment and Closure Commission—BRAC.

Closing surplus military infrastructure makes sense, but only if it is done in a proper strategic context and through a rational, deliberative, and fair process. The 2005 base closure round does not meet these tests.

Secretary of Defense Rumsfeld proposed this BRAC in 2001, before September 11 and our occupation of Afghanistan and Iraq. The world changed, but the Defense Department's BRAC process did not.

I voted against this BRAC in 2001, on the grounds that it inadequately put infrastructure decisions before force structure decisions. At the time, I said that with "uncertainty about our future military needs in the new security environment, I believe this is not the right time to add a new layer of uncertainty to our military as it continues to rise, it is important that we maintain by approving a new base closure round."

My view has been validated by the statements of the Base Realignment and Closure Commission itself. In its final report, the commission faulted the Department of Defense—DOD—for making infrastructure decisions prior to force structure decisions. At the time of the commission, the underlying strategic issues that is to be set forth in the [2006] Quadrennial Defense Review [which] may have better informed and assisted the Commission in making its final recommendations."

The commission also criticized DOD for failing to provide necessary source data on its proposals for as long as a month after the DOD list was submitted. This delay hampered the ability of the commission to do proper analysis and hamstring communities trying to defend their bases.

My view has been validated by the Overseas Basing Commission, which found that the "massive realignment of forces requires that the pace of events be slowed and reordered."

It faulted the administration's plans to bring 70,000 troops home from overseas without a full analysis of the infrastructure to accommodate them.

My view has been validated by a recent revelation by BRAC Commissioner Phillip Coyle that information gathered to support some of DOD's BRAC recommendations were based largely on Google searches. The commission observed that several DOD plans to consolidate military operations were based not on in-depth analytic work but on Internet search engine queries used only to match facility names and functions.

Lastly, my view has been validated by the questions my constituents repeatedly asked me:

Why are we closing military installations when we are at war?

Why are we building new bases in Iraq while closing them in America?

Will our troops in Iraq and Afghanistan have the right facilities to come home to?

I don't have good answers to those questions, but neither does the Pentagon.

By pushing BRAC at the wrong time, our Nation risks losing key assets that can never be reconstituted. We jeopardize our security if we close infrastructure before we first come to consensus on an overall defense and homeland security strategy.

The BRAC Commission's decision to remove several major bases from DOD's list demonstrates that the Pentagon put the cart before the horse. For example, the commission voted to keep open the submarine base at Naval London, CT, and the Portsmouth Naval Shipyard, in my district. The commission expressed serious doubts about DOD's force structure plan and the submarine force's ability to confront uncertain future threats.

In addition, I object to this BRAC list due to the inexplicable and unwise closure of the Brunswick Naval Air Station—NASB. This facility is the last remaining fully operational military airfield in the northeast. Its loss will hamper our capability to perform homeland defense and maritime patrol missions in the region, leaving a vulnerable flank for the entire Nation.

NASB was the only major base closed by the commission that was not recommended for closure by DOD. I believe the commission failed to adequately justify its decision that the base was not needed. The commission completely ignored the combined military value judgment of combatant commanders that Brunswick is a vital strategic asset. It ignored the Marine Corps' argument that that the "value judgment of combatant commanders that the Marine Corps' role in the installation, mission cost, the military could perform essential maritime patrol missions in the northeast without Brunswick."

October 27, 2005 CONGRESSIONAL RECORD—HOUSE H9305
In closing NASB, the commission appeared to deviate from its own charter. It justified closing the base merely in order to “reduce excess capacity and result in significant savings,” despite its own directive to seek a balance between the goals of realizing savings and rationalizing our military infrastructure to meet the needs of future missions.

I was pleased that the commission listened to the arguments put forth to them and voted to reject the closure of two facilities in Maine: the Portsmouth Naval Shipyard and the Defense Finance and Accounting Service in Limestone. Where the commission also agreed to double the number of jobs. Despite these positive outcomes, however, the unjustified closure of Brunswick affirms my opposition to this BRAC list, as well as the underlying fact that this was the wrong time in our Nation’s history for this BRAC.

The fundamental purpose of BRAC is to save money. Let’s put its “savings” in perspective. The 20-year savings (approximately $800 million) from the closure of Brunswick Naval Air Station is the equivalent to half a week in Iraq. The entire projected 20-year savings from the BRAC list—$36 billion—are exhausted by just 6 months in Iraq. The entire savings is also merely half that of the President’s proposed tax cuts this year—$70 billion, and minuscule compared to the $1 trillion in revenue lost from upper-income tax breaks passed since 2001.

The BRAC process is also a huge unfunded mandate on communities. I commend my congressional colleagues from Maine and New Hampshire, Governors John Baldacci and John Rowland, Navy employees, unions, management, local government officials, task force members and volunteers for the long hours devoted to defending Maine’s defense facilities. While it was a worthy cause, I regret that we were forced to spend so much time on BRAC, rather than on new initiatives to improve our communities. The lost human productivity caused by BRAC, not only for communities but on DOD personnel as well, is something we must calculate if we ever debate a future BRAC round.

Again, I urge passage of H.J. Res. 65 to reject this BRAC list. In a time of uncertainty, we risk losing national assets we can never recover.

Mr. SIMMONS. Mr. Chairman, I stand in opposition today to H.J. Res. 65, a resolution to disapprove the recommendations of the Defense Base Closure and Realignment Commission. I oppose this resolution not because I support this BRAC round and the closure and realignment of these bases, but because the Department of Defense should not be authorized to execute another one anytime soon. A no vote on this resolution will spare the Armed Forces, our defense budget and our base communities the unnecessary stress of another BRAC round if the current recommendations are approved.

I opposed this BRAC round from the start for several reasons:

First and foremost, Mr. Chairman, were—and remain—a nation at war. We have troops abroad fighting in Iraq, Afghanistan and globally as part of a broader war on terrorism. I argued that we need to focus all of our energy on supporting those troops in the field. We should not be distracted with the complicated burden of realigning our whole military base structure.

In October of 2003, I went to Iraq and learned that the troops desperately needed armor on their vehicles. In November of 2003 the Secretary of the Army said that getting armor into the field was a “top priority.” And yet today there are still tens of thousands of vehicles that are unarmored.

Just last week the Armed Services Committee held a hearing on the issue. Chairman Hunter discovered that the Army was sitting on hundreds of armored humvees in Texas and Kuwait. Mr. Speaker, I wonder if Congress would have been so hobbled earlier had it not been faced with the time-consuming BRAC process.

I opposed BRAC because we need to recapitalize our aging defense platforms and our shrinking fleets. Our Armed Forces have been on a strict diet because of a procurement holyday that has been in effect since the end of the Cold War.

Mr. Chairman, the average age of an Air Force bombers is over 30 years old. The average age of a submarine is about 20 years old. Yet there are planned procurement cuts to the F-22 program. We have been living on the Reagan buildup of the 1980s, but those systems are all nearing retirement. That’s left from the 80s is old and undependable. This threatens our military readiness and the safety of our service members.

Mr. Chairman, this year the Navy planned on building only four ships—the same as Canada and less than most of our European allies. If we stay on this track, our fleet will shrink from a little under 300 to just 120. China is on no such diet. Its shipbuilding rates are so high that its fleet will overtake ours by about 2015. By that time, China will have twice as many submarines as the U.S.

I also oppose BRAC because our strategic environment remains in flux. The threats from North Korea, China and Iran are rising while we are still engaged in Iraq and Afghanistan. We benefitted from neither the Quadrennial Defense Review nor the report of the Over seas Base Report Commission. Yet those recommendations were not yet delivered. How could we know, what our Nation’s future basing requirements will be? We couldn’t.

I opposed BRAC because DOD still maintained dozens of bases that were slated for closure that remain open. How could we target another 100 bases when we had a hundred waiting on death row? Closing bases costs billions of dollars in environmental clean up costs. The Department of Defense cannot dispose of this property until it is clean. But the investment of these “clean-up” dollars takes dollars away from our troops in the field during war.

I opposed this BRAC round because we have hundreds of thousands of troops in the Middle East and Korea that will hopefully return home soon.

Congress authorized the BRAC round anyway. The Department of Defense relatively little time to develop a set of recommendations for the President. Not surprisingly, some mistakes were made. The biggest mistake was the recommendation to close Naval Submarine Base New London, the world’s greatest center of excellence for underwater warfare. My good friend, the Ranking Member of the Armed Services Committee, IKE SKELETON, noted that the BRAC round so suffered from secondary agendas designed to achieve policy outcomes under cover of base closure and realignment. I agree with him.

The BRAC Commission had even less time than the Pentagon, but was ultimately able to fix the largest mistakes. Chairman Anthony Principi’s commission took New London and other bases off of the list after looking at the big picture. They looked at the overall effects on Navy and the individual services. They listened to the advice of outside experts. They considered the advice of key defense industry partners, senior retired officers, Members of Congress, and even a former U.S. president. In the end the BRAC Commission gave the President and Congress a good product, given the constraints.

So, Mr. Chairman, I will vote no on the resolution because the BRAC solution before us is the best of a bad situation. It would have been better never to have attempted this round of base closures. Our military is no better for it, and our Nation is no safer. Nevertheless, a vote for yes is a vote for another, painful and counterproductive BRAC round that will drain resources and time from the critical tasks at hand.

Mr. Chairman, our Nation faces great national security challenges right now. For this reason, I will vote to put BRAC behind us today and for the foreseeable future.

Mrs. CAPPS. Mr. Chairman, I rise in reluctant support of the resolution to reject the recommendations of the Base Closure and Realignment Commission.

I support the BRAC process and believe that over the years it has led to the orderly reorganization of our Nation’s defense infrastructure.

I believe the Pentagon and the BRAC Commission made a good-faith effort to carefully examine every base.

Nonetheless, I continue to believe the Commission made a terribly shortsighted decision when it voted to uphold some of the Pentagon’s recommendations for Naval Base Ventura County.

I am particularly disappointed the Commission voted to move some of the RDT&E missions away from the base.

In my view, the Commission ignored a number of important factors:

First, the Commission’s vote went against the recommendation of its professional staff.

The staff correctly recognized that Naval Base Ventura County has significant military value, and its missions contribute to the readiness of our war fighter.

Second, relocating the vital functions performed by the personnel at the base will have lasting consequences for our national security.

The activities conducted at this site for the Navy, Air Force, Missile Defense Agency, and others cannot be replicated anywhere else in the Nation.

Moreover, the base’s sea range is linked with other inland ranges in California—providing an unmatched capability to the Defense Department.

The realignment will diminish these existing operational capabilities and efficiencies and negatively impact the ability of our fighting men and women to get their jobs done.

The effect of this would be immediately felt in Iraq and Afghanistan.

Finally, realigning the base’s missions will waste, not save, taxpayer dollars.

We cannot afford to spend a lot of money to move missions and personnel when there’s no long-term savings involved.

Especially now that we’re looking at spending more than $200 billion to help rebuild the

H9306  CONGRESSIONAL RECORD — HOUSE  October 27, 2005
Mr. ORTIZ. Mr. Chairman, I rise in support of H.J. Res. 65, a resolution of disapproval of the 2005 base closure and realignment recommendations. I am proud that my state delegation—commonly referred to back home as “Team Connecticut”—was successful in saving Sub Base New London from closure. Together, our congressional delegation, Governor Rell, members of the New London community and military experts put together an airtight case for the survival of the base. As a result, the commission realized what Connecticut knew all along that the process had serious flaws. With 150,000 of our men and women in uniform serving overseas in the Middle East, continued operations in Iraq and Afghanistan and failures to meet recruiting goals, now is not the time to close or realign major portions of the military infrastructure. We should not be closing and consolidating bases and infrastructure here in the States now, when in another two years we may be bringing a significant amount of troops and equipment back from Europe and other forward deployed locations and we would have to spend more money again to reopen or recreate space for them. We should not be closing or realigning before the completion of the Quadrennial Defense Review (QDR), which projects the threats our nation will face and guides our infrastructure for the next two decades. The Commission simply and rightly called conduct BRAC before the completion of the QDR “inversive” and “illogical.” This is simply the wrong time for BRAC.

The final report before us for consideration includes a wide-ranging realignment of the Air National Guard that was completed without the input or consultation of our State Governors and Adjutants General. Rather than conducting an inclusive process—as in the case of the Army National Guard recommendations—the Pentagon chose to create the Air Force version that the very people that both the law and common sense dictate need to be included in changes to State Guard units.

I urge defeat of the resolution.

Mr. Chairman, the BRAC process must be logical and fair. I do not believe this round of closures met those criteria. I continue to strongly believe the missions at Naval Base Ventura County are a critical element of our national security system and an important asset to our local community. I urge my colleagues to join me in supporting the resolution of disapproval.

Mr. Chairman, I rise in support of the bill before us to reject the BRAC recommendations; and I thank the gentleman from Illinois for his work on this bill.

While this process has proceeded during a global war, many of us in Congress from Illinois for his work on this bill.

In total, the BRAC Commission recommended, and the President endorsed, the closure of 22 major military bases and the realignment of 33 others.

While I am deeply concerned about the recommendation to close the Army’s Fort Monmouth, I note with pride the strong vote of confidence in the past, present, and future contributions to our warfighters at Picatinny Arsenal in Morris County, New Jersey.

With the support of the President, the Department of Defense and the BRAC Commission, Picatinny Arsenal will be the ‘joint center of excellence’ for guns and ammunition and the military’s unparalleled leader for producing the latest and most advanced weaponry for our warfighters in Iraq and Afghanistan.

I strongly support the recommendation. It is well-founded on the facts and advances the DoD’s “transformation.”

Picatinny Arsenal is already home to: the “Single Manager for Conventional Ammunition for DoD”—PEO Ammo; an armament engineering organization which provides fully integrated life cycle systems engineering for weapons and munitions; and 70 unique mission facilities with 16 state-of-the-art laboratories staffed by an adaptable, highly specialized workforce.

The DoD-IBAC analysis found Picatinny to be the “center-of-mass” for DoD’s guns and ammunition (research, development and acquisition). It has a workload in this area more than an order of magnitude greater than any other DoD facility. It has the greatest concentration of military value in guns and ammunition (research, development and acquisition.)

Mr. Chairman, this BRAC Commission recommendation is transformational. It builds on the joint single manager for conventional ammo to create a robust guns and ammunition “joint center.” It will provide for greater synergy and coordination, all to benefit the warfighter—the young men and women who are protecting us at home and overseas.

Mr. Chairman, I ask unanimous consent to enter into the RECORD important correspondence between the Chairman of the Base Realignment and Closure Commission, the Honorable Anthony Principi, and the Honorable Michael W. Wynne, Chairman of the Infrastructure Steering Committee of the U.S. Department of Defense.

I urge defeat of the resolution.

Hon. Michael W. Wynne,
Chairman, Infrastructure Steering Group, Defense Pentagon, Washington, DC.

The purpose of the amendments 186-4a and 186-4d was to leave existing energetics activities in place at Picatinny Arsenal, Naval Surface Weapons Center Indian Head and Naval Air Weapons Station China Lake. The language included in the Commission’s recommendation for Tech-19 does not intend to consolidate these activities in anyone location, nor is it the Commission’s intent to create a separate “Center of Excellence” for energetic materials research, development, production and testing. The Pentagon chose to create the Air Force version that the very people that both the law and common sense dictate need to be included in changes to State Guard units.

ANTHONY J. PRINCIPI, Chairman.

Mr. LARSON of Connecticut. Mr. Chairman, I rise today in support of H.J. Res. 65, a resolution of disapproval of the 2005 base closure and realignment recommendations.

Mr. Chairman, the BRAC process must be an extraordinary responsibility that performed their dual and responsible manner. However, they were given the job of examining a flawed proposal based more on achieving the bottom line then ensuring the security of our Nation. If passed, H.J. Res. 65 would put an end to the current BRAC process—one that I have long believed to be the wrong process at the wrong time for our Nation.

Since 2002, I have voted in the Armed Services Committee and on the floor to either repeal or delay BRAC 2005 because I have never all along that the process had serious flaws. With 150,000 of our men and women in uniform serving overseas in the Middle East, continued operations in Iraq and Afghanistan and failures to meet recruiting goals, now is not the time to close or realign major portions of the military infrastructure. We should not be closing and consolidating bases and infrastructure here in the States now, when in another two years we may be bringing a significant amount of troops and equipment back from Europe and other forward deployed locations and we would have to spend more money again to reopen or recreate space for them. We should not be closing or realigning before the completion of the Quadrennial Defense Review (QDR), which projects the threats our nation will face and guides our infrastructure for the next two decades. The Commission simply and rightly called conducting BRAC before the completion of the QDR “inversive” and “illogical.” This is simply the wrong time for BRAC.
As a result the final Air Force recommendations disproportionately impact the Air National Guard, with 37 of the final 42 Air Force recommendations making changes to Air Guard units in States across the Nation. Governors and Adjutants General widely opposed this plan, opposing recruiting and retention of Guard members, lack of consultation, and reduced availability of personnel for vital State emergency response and homeland security functions. Although the Commission ultimately approved a scaled down version of the Pentagon's Air National Guard plan and drafted in the final days of their work, the final BRAC report states that the lack of coordination between the Pentagon, Governors and Adjutants General “unnecessarily cost the Commission additional time and resources and damaged the previously exemplary relationship between the Air National Guard and the Air Force.”

This misguided recommendation hits home in my district and State, where the 103rd Fighter Wing at Bradley Air National Guard base is slated to lose their A-10 Warthogs—leaving Connecticut as the only State in the Nation without an air national guard flying mission. In presenting our case to the Commission, our message was simple: The Pentagon not only used flawed data that did not take into account many of the unique capabilities of Bradley, but failed to consult our Governor in major changes to our State’s military, which the Adjutant General Thaddeus Martin, the staff of the 103rd and the State delegation made a strong case for Bradley, the base was unfortunately included in the final realignment plan.

The men and women of the “Flying Yankees,” and indeed all the members of the Air National Guard, deserve better than an ad-hoc transformation plan that has the potential to seriously impact the future of these citizen soldiers and their mission.

In late August 2005, I joined Connecticut Governor J. M. Blumenthal and Senators Dodd and Lieberman in filing suit to prevent the realignment of the Bradley Air National Guard base. We were forced to take this action because the law is simple and clear: the Bradley A-10s cannot be removed without our Governor’s consent, and the law was violated by the failure of the Governor to review or object to the proposed realignment. The Governor has the law on its side and I am confident that we will secure the future of the “Flying Yankees.”

One of our most important duties is to provide for the defense of our Nation. We should not be closing and realigning our bases at a time when our nation is engaged in the Middle East and faces unprecedented threats from abroad. Rejecting BRAC 2005 is simply the right thing to do for our men and women in uniform, our security, our nation, and for the future of our Air National Guard. I urge my colleagues to support H.J. Res. 65.

Mr. SCOTT of Georgia. Mr. Chairman, I appreciate the opportunity to discuss this important legislation as I make a final push to keep Forts Gillem and McPherson open by voting in support of a joint House resolution to reject the president’s approval of the 2005 round of base realignments and closures. I cosponsored the measure, H.J. Res. 65, which disapproves the recommendations of the Defense Base Closure and Realignment Commission (BRAC Commission) as submitted by the President to Congress on September 15, 2005. I am disappointed that H.J. Res. 65 failed to pass the House today by a vote of 85–324. Congress had until October 30, 2005 to pass a joint resolution of disapproval of the list.

Unfortunately, this round of base closings and realignments has failed to accomplish the military goals of shedding excess operations and facilities without seriously weakening our national security and homeland defense. I strongly oppose the president’s recommendations to close Ft. Gillem and Fort McPherson, and I have tried to make a strong case in their defense that these facilities, including members of the BRAC Commission and urging President Bush to consider their unmatched military value and unique strategic readiness for homeland defense.

My efforts to remove Forts Gillem and McPherson from the BRAC list of closings proved partly successful since I secured the extension of six Federal functions at an enclave at Ft. Gillem, blocking a complete closing of the military base. These functions include the U.S. Army Criminal Investigation Laboratory, Georgia Army National Guard, 3rd MEDCOM, SE Army Reserve Intelligence Center, FEMA, and Red Cross. I am very disappointed by the outcome of today’s vote and that Ft. Gillem and Ft. McPherson remained on the BRAC list for closure despite the vital role they continue to play in coordinating the deployment of troops abroad and Federal response to national disasters like this year’s string of devastating hurricanes. Following today’s vote, the Defense Department is now charged with carrying out the recommended closures and realignments. Therefore, I will work with defense officials and the Local Redevelopment Authority during the upcoming transition period for Forts Gillem and McPherson.

Mr. HEFLEY. Mr. Chairman, I yield back the balance of my time.

The Acting CHAIRMAN. All time for debate has expired.

The text of the joint resolution is as follows:

H.J. RES. 65

MOTION TO INSTRUCT MITSRED BY MRS. LOWEY

Mr. Speaker, I offer a motion to instruct conferences.

The Clerk read as follows:

Mrs. LOWEY. Mr. Speaker, I move that the managers on the part of the House at the Conference on the Disagreements in the votes of the two Houses on the bill, H.R. 3057, making appropriations for Foreign Operations, Export, Financing, and Related Programs for the fiscal year 2006 be instructed to insist on the provisions of the Senate bill providing a total of $2.971,000,000 to combat HIV/AIDS, Tuberculosis and Malaria.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 7 of rule XXII, the gentleman from New York (Mrs. LOWEY) and the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. KOLBE) each will control 30 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from New York (Mrs. LOWEY).

Mrs. LOWEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself 4 minutes.

Mr. Speaker, this motion to instruct the conferees on the fiscal year 2006 foreign operations bill will ensure that the House is clearly on record to provide the highest possible funding level for HIV/AIDS, tuberculosis, and malaria in 2006.

The motion I offer today makes a simple point: Although other issues have overtaken the global AIDS pandemic as front-page news, the pandemic is still growing; and we still have a responsibility to face the challenges it presents head-on.

I was very pleased, as always, to work with the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. KOLBE) to provide robust funding to fight the AIDS pandemic, both for the Office of Global AIDS coordinator at the State Department and for the Global Fund to fight AIDS, TB, and malaria. With an allocation that was more than $2.5 billion below the President’s request, we were able to provide full funding, and even a little bit more, for this key priority.

Fortunately, the Senate had even a higher allocation with which to work, and I am pleased to say that the Senate-passed bill significantly increased funding over the President’s request for HIV/AIDS, including $500 million for the Global Fund, the premier multi-lateral mechanism for fighting AIDS and other infectious diseases.

As we enter into conference on the fiscal year 2006 foreign operations appropriations bill, we must maintain our resolve to fund the fight against the global AIDS pandemic at the highest possible levels.

When the fiscal year 2006 bill finally passes, Congress will have provided more than $10 billion to fight AIDS since 2003. Our assistance has saved millions of lives, offered hope for a better future to those already infected with HIV/AIDS, increased the institutional capacity of developing countries to deal with serious public health challenges, and offered comfort and safety to children orphaned by AIDS.

We have done so much. Still, the United Nations estimates indicate that $15 billion will be needed in the upcoming year to fight the pandemic, a need that dwarfs the approximately $6.1 billion available. While some have benefited from our largess and that of the international community, many millions more are being left behind.

Just yesterday, we saw reports of staggering statistics about the effect of the AIDS pandemic on children. Only one in 20 of the HIV-infected children worldwide who need life-prolonging drugs gets them. Only one out of 100 gets a cheap antibiotic that can save nearly half of the death rate from secondary infections like diarrhea and malaria. Fewer than one in 10 mothers infected with the HIV virus are given drugs that can stop transmission to their babies. And every minute of every day a child dies of an AIDS-related illness.

The facts speak for themselves. We can and must do better. I urge my colleagues to support this motion to instruct.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. KOLBE. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentlewoman from New York (Mrs. LOWEY) for her motion. It gives our subcommittee, and it gives me, as chairman of the subcommittee, an opportunity to highlight once again how critical this battle against HIV/AIDS is, and why it is critical not only to this Congress but to President Bush and his administration.

Funding from these accounts in this fight against HIV/AIDS and also tuberculosis and malaria, three of the greatest challenges the world faces, has increased significantly in the years that I have been chairman of this subcommittee.

In the first year we were appropriating about $615 million in the international fight. Today, in our bill, the level is $2.7 billion. That is four times greater in just 4 years of bills for the Foreign Operations Subcommittee.

The Senate level, at nearly $3 billion, is almost five times greater.

Our bill that we passed in the House would provide $400 million for the Global Fund. That is twice what the President requested. The Senate bill has another $100 million and puts that figure at $500 million. The emergency plan for AIDS in Africa – the funding to sustain the fight against HIV/AIDS. We have not turned the corner in this disease. We have certainly not reached the end nor maybe even the beginning of the end; but to paraphrase Winston Churchill, perhaps we are at the end of the beginning. We are clearly making great progress.

According to a number of public health experts, we are finally reaching the point where the focus countries in the President’s Emergency Plan for AIDS Relief are reducing the number of new infections significantly in the years that I have been chairman of this subcommittee.

When the fiscal year 2006 bill finally passes, Congress will have provided more than $10 billion to fight AIDS since 2003. Our assistance has saved millions of lives, offered hope for a better future to those already infected with HIV/AIDS, increased the institutional capacity of developing countries to deal with serious public health challenges, and offered comfort and safety to children orphaned by AIDS.

We have done so much. Still, the United Nations estimates indicate that $15 billion will be needed in the upcoming year to fight the pandemic, a need that dwarfs the approximately $6.1 billion available. While some have benefited from our largess and that of the international community, many millions more are being left behind.

Just yesterday, we saw reports of staggering statistics about the effect of the AIDS pandemic on children. Only one in 20 of the HIV-infected children worldwide who need life-prolonging drugs gets them. Only one out of 100 gets a cheap antibiotic that can save nearly half of the death rate from secondary infections like diarrhea and malaria. Fewer than one in 10 mothers infected with the HIV virus are given drugs that can stop transmission to their babies. And every minute of every day a child dies of an AIDS-related illness.

The facts speak for themselves. We can and must do better. I urge my colleagues to support this motion to instruct.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. LOWEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield 4 minutes to the gentleman from Texas (Ms. JACKSON-LEE).

(Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas asked and was given permission to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. JACKSON-LEE. Mr. Speaker, I applaud the gentleman from Arizona (Chairman KOLBE) and the ranking member of the subcommittee, the gentlewoman from New York (Mrs. LOWEY), for the bipartisan cooperation and collaboration that has been shown by this motion to instruct and the acceptance of it.

The bad news as it relates to foreign operations that seems to trickle into the American system is that we spend so much money for foreign operations and, therefore, are not addressing the domestic crises that we face. I think this bipartisan effort truly speaks to the fact that what we do and how we reach out in our collaborative work around the world, issues dealing with tuberculosis, malaria, and HIV–AIDS, issues of constructing and helping in ways of creating a world friendship, is crucial to the American tranquility of America.

As I have worked with Ambassador Holbrooke who has cited the vast growing, although we have made strides, devastation of HIV–AIDS, the impact on children, the number of orphans increasing because of the loss of one or two parents, there is, I think, no level of giving that would be too much to try and face up to this terrible devastation. This accepting of the motion to instruct relates to that.

But I rise today to raise an additional concern, and I know this bill is not addressing it as we speak, but because of the difficulties that we have had with Hurricane Katrina and now Wilma and certainly Rita, and the eyes of the world are watching and see the constant bombing and the loss of 2,000 soldiers, it sometimes steers our attention away from the earthquake in the South Asian region, impacting Afghanistan to some extent, India, and Pakistan.

I want there to be 79,000 dead from the earthquake. I would have hoped we would be able to provide a supplemental to this bill.

I want there to be appropriations for Pakistan and the South Asian region in this particular bill, but not enough due to the loss of life and the complete elimination of towns and villages. I have met with many from the Pakistani-American community, doctors who are attempting to be of help, the Indian embassy that is helping as well; but focused resources are going to be crucial. We know that the world family is looking at the kinds of resources that are needed, but we need the donor community joined with the United States to be absolutely united in our important effort. We know that the United States has given $500 million. It is not enough. I have asked that we raise this question with the donor community so these dollars can continue to mount. Here are the reasons why: certainly we know the medical crisis is going to be ongoing. But as I said earlier, major cities have been wiped out. People are living in tents, those who can get tents. There is a lack of food, lack of water, and a lack of how the government and the infrastructure are working. We realize it is in the Kashmir area, and that is a very difficult area. It is a difficult area politically and as it relates to the conflict, and so it is imperative that that area be rebuilt quickly and that the infrastructure be brought into that area. I ask my colleagues to support the motion to instruct, as I do. I want to again applaud the ranking member and the chairman of the subcommittee, I look forward to working with both of them on ways we can provide a more expedited and certainly a higher level of assistance; and, of course, I ask for the Secretary of State, Secretary Rice, and the President of the United States to consider requesting more dollars for the President of the United States and the President of the United States to consider requesting more dollars for assistance. I ask my colleagues to support the motion to instruct. Ms. PELOSI. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of the Democratic motion to support the Senate funding levels for our global AIDS initiatives. The funding level includes $500 million for the Global Fund to Fight AIDS, Tuberculosis, and Malaria. Appropriations Foreign Operations Subcommittee Ranking Member NITA LOWEY and Chairman JIM COLBE are to be commended for their leadership in the fight against the global AIDS pandemic. They are a model of bipartisan effectiveness and are leading the way in providing needed funding under tight budget constraints. In 2003, President Bush and Congress took a bold step in authorizing $15 billion over 5 years toward AIDS prevention and treatment. The Senate funding levels in the Foreign Operations and Labor Appropriations bills would put the U.S. on track to meet this commitment in future years. At this critical juncture in history, the U.S. has the opportunity and the responsibility to fully fund an ambitious global effort to combat AIDS. The statistics are staggering. Of the 40 million people currently living with HIV, 95 percent live in the developing world. This week, UNICEF released a report showing that 18 million children in Africa could be orphaned by AIDS by the end of 2010. We know how to treat this devastating disease. Success stories can be found in every part of the world. In Uganda and Senegal, HIV rates have been brought down through effective prevention campaigns. In the past year alone, an estimated 350,000 African AIDS patients have received access to anti-retroviral drugs that will keep them alive to work and care for their families. Unfortunately, only 500,000 of the 4.7 million people in need of anti-retroviral drugs have them. If we support what works, we can prevent nearly two-thirds of the 45 million new HIV infections projected by 2020. When we invest more resources, more people have access to life-saving drugs. We can learn how to protect themselves and their partners, more people have access to voluntary testing and counseling, and more pregnant women have services to prevent mother-to-child transmission. The longer we go without fully investing in stopping the AIDS pandemic, the further it will spread worldwide and the more expensive the bottom line will be. The moral case is reason alone to fully fund our global AIDS initiatives, but it is also in our national security interest. As we have seen in the case of Afghanistan and Sudan, impoverished states can become incubators for terrorism and conflict. We must address the root causes of instability so that the “fury of despair” does not provoke more violence. It is in this global context that I support the Senate funding levels for global AIDS. Let us all come together today to fully support our commitments to fight the global AIDS pandemic. Mrs. LOWEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time. Mr. KOLBE. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time. The SPEAKER pro tempore. Without objection, the previous question is ordered on the motion to instruct. There was no objection. The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion to instruct offered by the gentlewoman from New York (Ms. LOWEY). The question was taken; and the Speaker pro tempore announced that the ayes appeared to have it. Mrs. LOWEY. Mr. Speaker, on that I demand the yeas and nays. The yeas and nays were ordered. The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 8 of rule XX, further proceedings on this question will be postponed.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. SMITH of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on H.R. 420.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Texas? There was no objection.

LAWSUIT ABUSE REDUCTION ACT OF 2005

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion to instruct offered by the gentleman from Texas (Mr. PUTNAM). Pursuant to House Resolution 508 and rule XVIII, the Chair declares the House in Committee of the Whole on the State of the Union for the consideration of the bill, H.R. 420.

In the Committee of the Whole

Accordingly, the House resolved itself into the Committee of the Whole House on the State of the Union for the consideration of the bill (H.R. 420) to amend Rule XI of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure to improve attorney accountability, and for other purposes, with Mr. LATHAM in the chair.

The Clerk read the title of the bill.

Mr. SMITH of Texas. Pursuant to the rule, the bill is considered read the first time.

The gentleman from Texas (Mr. SMITH) and the gentleman from New York (Mr. NADLER) each will control 30 minutes.

Mr. Chairman, I support H.R. 420, the Lawsuit Abuse Reduction Act of 2005. Frivolous lawsuits bankrupt individuals, ruin reputations, drive up insurance premiums, increase health care costs, and put a drag on the economy. Frivolous lawsuits are brought, for example, when there is no evidence that shows negligence on the part of the defendant. These nuisance lawsuits make a mockery of our legal system.

In addition, of course, many Americans have legitimate legal grievances, from someone wrongly disfigured during an operation to a company responsible for contaminating a community’s water supply. No one who deserves justice should be denied justice; however, gaming of the system by a few lawyers drives up the cost of doing business and drives down the integrity of the judicial system.

Let me give some examples. The chief executive officer of San Antonio Methodist Children’s Hospital was sued after he stepped into a plaintiff’s hospital room and asked how the patient was doing. Of course, a jury cleared him of any wrongdoing.

A Pennsylvania man sued the Frito-Lay Company claiming that Doritos chips were “inherently dangerous” after one stuck in his throat. After 8 years of costly litigation, the Pennsylvania Supreme Court threw out the case, writing that there is “a commonsense notion that it is necessary to properly chew hard foodstuffs prior to swallowing.” But, of course, the defendants had to absorb hundreds of thousands of dollars in legal fees.

In a New Jersey Little League game, a player lost sight of a fly ball hit because of the sun. He was injured when the ball struck him in the eye. The coach, who was forced to hire a lawyer after the boy’s parents sued, had to settle the case for $25,000.

The point is clear, any party can bring any suit in almost any jurisdiction. That is because plaintiffs and their attorneys have nothing to lose. All they want is for the defendant to settle. This is legalized extortion. It is lawsuit lottery.

Defendants, on the other hand, can unfairly lose their lifetime savings, their careers, their businesses, and their reputations. This is simply not just.

There is a remedy: the Lawsuit Abuse Reduction Act. It passed the House last year by a margin of almost 60 votes. The bill applies to both plaintiffs’ frivolous lawsuits to export financial settlements and to defendants who unnecessarily prolong the legal process. If a judge determines that a claim is frivolous, they can order the plaintiff to pay the attorneys’ fees of the defendant who was victim of their frivolous claim. This will make a lawyer think twice before filing a frivolous lawsuit.

It is a problem that even the American Trial Lawyers Association has tried to address in its own code of conduct. As a member of the American Trial Lawyers Association member shall file or maintain a frivolous suit, issue, or position.” However, ATLA has not disciplined a single attorney for violation of this code of conduct in the last 2 years.

This legislation also prevents forum shopping. It requires that personal injury claims be filed only where the plaintiff resides, where the injury occurred, or the defendant’s principal place of business is located. This provision addresses the growing problem of attorneys who shop around the country for judges who routinely award excessive amounts.

One of the Nation’s wealthiest trial lawyers, Dickie Scruggs, has told us exactly how this abuse occurs. Here is what he says about forum shopping:

“What I call the magic jurisdiction... is where the judiciary is elected with verdict money. The trial lawyers have relationships with the judges that are elected; they’re State Court judges; they’re populists. They’ve got large populations of voters who are in on the deal. They’re getting their piece in many cases. And so it’s a political force in their jurisdiction, and it’s almost impossible to get a fair trial if you’re a defendant in one of these places. The plaintiff lawyer walks in there and writes the number on the blackboard, and the first juror meets the last one coming out the door with that amount of money. Any lawyer fresh out of law school can walk in there and win the case, so it doesn’t matter what the evidence or law is.”

Forum shopping is a part of lawsuit abuse, and we must pass legislation to stop it from occurring. Even several largley recognized Democrats have acknowledged the need to end frivolous lawsuits. For instance, the John Kerry for President campaign endorsed national legislation in which “lawyers who file frivolous cases would face tough mandatory sanctions.” And former Vice Presidential candidate Senator Edwards stated, “Lawyers who bring frivolous cases should face tough, mandatory sanctions.”

The Lawsuit Abuse Reduction Act is sensible reform that will help restore confidence to America’s justice system.

Mr. Chairman, the following organizations support H.R. 420: American Tort Reform Association, National Association of Home Builders, National Association of Manufacturers, National Restaurant Association, American Insurance Association, and the United States Chamber of Commerce. And this legislation is the top legislative priority of the National Federation of Independent Businesses.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. NADLER. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, I oppose this bill because it will not reduce frivolous lawsuits, but will instead increase the cost of litigation at the State and Federal level, set back the fairness of civil rights litigation, and favor foreign corporate defendants at the expense of a defendant’s due process rights. This legislation is unfair to both the citizen with no recourse and to all U.S. companies that must compete against the foreign firm. Consequently, American employers and employees would be put at an unfair disadvantage vis-a-vis their foreign counterparts, not exactly what we would want to be doing not only from a standpoint of fairness, but from a standpoint of our economy.

Mr. Chairman, this bill has another deleterious effect. Because it provides for reasonable attorneys’ fees in the case of a sanction, because many Rule 11 sanctions are minor, and in any complex case there are almost invariably circumstances this bill provides for attorneys who shop around the country for judges who routinely award excessive amounts.

Mr. Chairman, this bill has another deleterious effect. Because it provides for reasonable attorneys’ fees in the case of a sanction, because many Rule 11 sanctions are minor, and in any complex case there are almost invariably circumstances this bill provides for attorneys who shop around the country for judges who routinely award excessive amounts. Section 4, the provision which states that the provisions of this bill shall be applied to civil rights cases, is unfair. It makes it mandatory for even the most picayune infractions.

Second of all, the current law says that if it is pointed out to an attorney that he has done something that would fall under Rule 11, he has 21 days to correct it. If he does not correct it, he is subject to sanctions. This would say that they have no time to correct it. They get automatic sanctions. That is unfair.

Thirdly, because under those circumstances this bill provides for attorneys’ fees, they had better have their head examined if they want to sue a large corporation, because if they are the little guy, and they have one attorney, and he is paid a reasonable fee, and they can afford the litigation, they hope; but if they are suing the big company, the current Attorney-neys lined up over there, and they are all charging $800 an hour, then reasonable attorneys’ fees are going to be a lot of money, and they have to anticipate, if they file that suit, that because of the mandatory nature of Rule 11 sanctions that this bill would impose, because of the lack of an ability to correct it, because of the automatic sanctions and mandatory sanctions, they have to assume that they are going to have to pay the attorneys’ fees, and they are going to have to pay the mandatory attorneys’ fees, so they had better not sue the big boys.

Furthermore, this bill will operate to benefit foreign corporate defendants at the expense of their domestic counterparts. Section 4, the “forum shopping” provision, would operate to provide a litigation and financial windfall to foreign corporations at the expense of their domestic competitors. This is because instead of permitting claims to be filed wherever a corporation does business or has minimum contacts, as most State long-arm statutes provide, this bill permits the suit to be brought only where the defendant’s principal place of business is located. In the case of a foreign corporation, that does not exist in the United States. If a U.S. citizen is harmed by a product manufactured by a foreign corporation, under this bill the injured U.S. citizen would have no recourse against a foreign corporation, whereas he or she would have recourse against the comparable U.S. company. This is unfair to both the U.S. citizen with no recourse and to all U.S. companies that must compete against the foreign firm. Consequently, American employers and employees would be put at an unfair disadvantage vis-a-vis their foreign counterparts, not exactly what we would want to be doing not only from a standpoint of fairness, but from a standpoint of our economy.

Mr. Chairman, this bill has another deleterious effect. Because it provides for reasonable attorneys’ fees in the case of a sanction, because many Rule 11 sanctions are minor, and in any complex case there are almost invariably circumstances this bill provides for attorneys who shop around the country for judges who routinely award excessive amounts.
What this bill is really saying is big corporations shall be exempt from lawsuits by people who cannot afford to pay huge attorneys' fees of the big corporations, because we have to assume that will happen, and because this bill leaves it to the discretion of the judge to decide if the case is frivolous.

It is not a surprise that the United States Judicial Conference, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the Alliance for Justice, Public Citizen, People for the American Way, the American Association of People with Disabilities, the Lawyers Committee for Civil Rights in Law, the American Bar Association, the National Conference of State Legislatures, National Partnership for Women, National Women's Law Center, the Center for Justice and Democracy, Consumers Union, the National Association of Consumer Advocates, and the NAACP Legal Defense Fund all oppose the bill.

In other words, if Members care about civil rights, if they care about the ability of the consumer to have justice with a large corporation, if they care about civil liberties, if they care about people being able to use the Federal or State courts, they must vote against this bill.

I urge my colleagues to vote against this poorly drafted and unfair legislation.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE CHAIRMAN

The CHAIRMAN. Visitors in the gallery will refrain from showing approval or disapproval of proceedings.

Mr. SMITH of Texas. Mr. Chairman, I yield 5 minutes to the gentleman from Florida (Mr. KELLER), a member of the Judiciary Committee.

Mr. KELLER. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman for yielding me this time.

Mr. Chairman, I rise today as a co-sponsor and strong supporter of the Lawsuit Abuse Reduction Act. I am going to tell the Members why I support this legislation and what the key components of this legislation is.

First, why do we need this legislation? We need tough mandatory sanctions to crack down on frivolous suits. We need to care about each other more and sue each other less. We need to get back to the old-fashioned principles of personal responsibility and get away from the new culture where people play the victim and blame others for their problems. Most importantly, we need to protect those small business people who are out there creating 70 percent of all new jobs in America. These small business people work hard and play by the rules, but they cannot afford to defend themselves from meritless litigation.

For example, if they have a suit brought against them, to take it to trial, to successfully win the suit, they often have to pay over $100,000 to a defense attorney. So what do they do? They have to pay about 10 grand to settle the case to get rid of it for strictly business reasons even though they did nothing wrong.

This bill will help crack down on these frivolous suits by doing three key things. First, it provides tough mandatory sanctions, not discretionary sanctions. If a judge finds that we have a violation of Rule 11, which may include the payment of the other side's attorneys' fees. Second, this bill has teeth in it by having a three-strikes-and-you're-out penalty. Three strikes and you're out means if a judge finds that they have violated Rule 11 bringing a frivolous claim on three separate occasions, they will be suspended from practicing law in that particular Federal court for 1 year and will have to reapply for practice there. That is a tough sanction. I happen to be the author of it. But it is key for Members to know that there is a bipartisan idea, three strikes and you're out.

To my left here, you see a quote from Senator John Edwards, himself a lifelong well-known personal injury lawyer, a former Senator from North Carolina and former Vice Presidential candidate. He said in a law magazine, December 15, 2003, "Frivolous lawsuits waste good people's time and hurt the real victims. Lawyers who bring frivolous cases should face tough mandatory sanctions with a three-strikes penalty."

Senator Edwards is not the only one who holds that view. You will see that Senator Edwards' running mate, Senator John KERRY, told the Associated Press on October 10, 2004, "Lawyers who file frivolous cases would face tough mandatory sanctions, including a three-strikes-and-you're-out provision that forbids lawyers who file frivolous cases from bringing another suit for the next 10 years."

President George W. Bush, back when he was a candidate, on February 9, 2000 said, "As President, I will bring common sense to our courts and curb frivolous lawsuits. If a lawyer files three junk lawsuits, he will lose the right to appear in Federal Court for 3 years. Three strikes and you're out."

The Austin American Statesman summarized President Bush's plan as saying, "Bush's plan includes stiffer penalties for lawsuits determined by judges to be frivolous, including a three-strikes-and-you're-out rule for lawyers who repeatedly file such claims."

On the day before we marked up this bill in the Judiciary Committee, May 21, 2005, I visited with President Bush in his personal residence and asked him, Mr. President, do you still stand by this policy that we need three strikes and you're out to crack down on frivolous lawsuits? He said, I absolutely do. That is the policy of the White House. So we have the Democrat Presidential candidate, Mr. KERRY; the Democrat Vice Presidential candidate, Mr. Edwards; the President of the United States; and the Judiciary Committee on a voice vote adopted this three-strikes-and-you're-out provision.

The third key element of this Lawsuit Abuse Reduction Act is language to avoid forum shopping. It is the same language that we had in our class action legislation, which was approved on a bipartisan basis by both the House and the Senate and signed into law. Essentially, if there is an accident, the claim will be brought where the accident is or where you reside or where the defendant resides.

For example, if you lived in Orlando, Florida, like I do, and you went to your local McDonald's and you slipped on a puddle of water, you could bring your suit in Orlando, where it should be. What you could not do is say, well, I know that Madison County, Illinois is a judicial hellhole and there are lots of plaintiff-friendly judges, and McDonald's does business up in Madison County. So we're going to do our suit there and do a little forum shopping. That is the kind of thing that is not going to be allowed here.

In short, this is a commonsense bill that provides tough mandatory sanctions to crack down on frivolous suits and includes provisions that enjoy bipartisan support. This bill has already passed the House. I urge my colleagues to vote "yes" on this important legislation.

Mr. NADLER. Mr. Chairman, I observe the gentleman tells us that President Bush assures us of the problem of frivolous lawsuits. President Bush assured me there was mass destruction in Iraq and a lot of other nonsense. So I do not give that too much credence.

Mr. Chairman, I yield 5 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from Texas (Ms. JACKSON-LEE).

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Mr. Chairman, I thank the ranking member, and I thank my good friend and colleague from Texas (Mr. SMITH). There are many opportunities that we have to agree in his unending commitment to the integrity to the judicial system. That is why I rise to quote him when he says that there is a premise that we all deserve justice and that justice, in essence, should not be denied. He agrees with that, and I agree with that. Frankly, however, this legislation is not merely a denial of justice. It is an obliteration, a complete destruction of justice.

It is interesting in the backdrop of the United States promoting democratization in Iraq, challenging Iran, and now with the proceedings against Saddam Hussein and the very basis of our dependence upon a fair and impartial system that mandates lawyers to be able to petition for their client or defend their client, that we would stand here on the floor of the House today and in essence create the lawsuit elimination legislation rather than the situation that we are preventing abuse.

Let me tell you what this legislation intends to do. This legislation intends to ride roughshod over States’ rights, forcing State courts to enact burdensome procedures and even stripping their jurisdiction over certain cases. That means that, in essence, it forces State judges within 30 days of a case being filed to conduct an extensive and lengthened hearing to determine whether Federal Rule 11 must be imposed. We already know that Federal Rule 11 has given the court system an effective tool to ensure, if you will, that there is frivolous activity in the courtroom and that a frivolous case, that lawyer can be sanctioned.

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD—HOUSE

This now protects foreign corporations at the expense of consumers. Why? Because you may be able to sue in a State court, but the State court may not have jurisdiction over that foreign corporation, leaving the victim of products liability, the victim of a terrible heinous accident left without remedy in a State court.

It makes sanctions mandatory rather than discretionary. It undermines the Federal judiciary system and the court system. It says to our judges that although you have gone to the highest litmus test, confirmation on the Federal bench, elections and bar scrutiny, we are telling you that we are going to pierce your courtroom and we are going to take away the rights of Rule 11 where you have discretion and we are going to simply tell you to throw a lawless lawsuit into the courthouse, or a lawyer files a frivolous lawsuit due to a mistake. Overall, this legislation will deter indigent plaintiffs from seeking counsel to file meritorious claims given the extremely high legal fees.

Furthermore, H.R. 4571, as drafted, would allow corporations that perform sham and non-economic transactions in order to enjoy economic benefits in this country. Therefore, I planned to offer an amendment that would preclude these entities from benefiting from the legal remedies that H.R. 4571 purports to offer.

The “Benedict Arnold Corporation” refers to a company that, in bad faith, takes advantage of loopholes in our tax code to establish bank accounts or to ship jobs abroad for the main purpose of tax avoidance. A tax-exempt group that monitors corporate influence called “Citizen Works” has compiled a list of 25 Fortune 500 Corporations that have the most offshore tax havens.

This significant increase in the number of corporate tax havens is no coincidence when we look at the benefits that can be fund in doing sham business transactions. Some of these corporations are “Benedict Arnolds” because they have given up their American citizenship; however, they still conduct a substantial amount of their business in the United States and enjoy tax deductions of domestic corporations.

Such an amendment would preclude these corporations from enjoying the benefit of mandatory attorney sanctions for a Rule 11 violation. By forcing these corporate entities to fully litigate matters brought to help with their true corporate identity, they may be able to perform as many domestic transactions that may be actionable for a claimant.

In the context of the Judiciary’s consideration for the Terrorist Penalties Enforcement Act, H.R. 2934, my colleagues accepted an amendment that I offered that ensured that corporate felons were included in the list of individuals eligible for prosecution for committing Corporation and threatened to file lawsuits against several other rental car companies that used the phrase, “pick you up,” claiming that “We’ll pick you up” is Enterprise’s slogan. Then there was a whole bunch of other lawsuits around who will pick you up, and who is not picking you up and why you are being picked up.

We could label frivolous lawsuits across the board. It should be left to the judges in Rule 11. This legislation removes the safe harbor provision of the rule if it is determined that any period of 21 days to withdraw an objectionable pleading. That undermines justice. Maybe the lawyer made a mistake and therefore we do not have that opportunity.

Mr. Chairman, I would simply say this is a bill that has no basis in need, and we should unanimously defeat it.

Mr. Chairman, I rise in opposition to the base bill before the Committee of the Whole H.R. 4571, the Lawsuit Abuse Reduction Act of 2005. As I mentioned in the subcommittee offered by the Gentleman from as California, Mr. SCHIFF.

As I mentioned during the Committee on the Judiciary’s oversight hearing on this legislation during its iteration in the 108th Congress and reiterated in my statement for the markup, one of the main functions of the Congress before it passes legislation is to analyze potentially negative impact against the benefits that it might have on those affected. The base bill before the House today does not represent the product of that analysis.

In the case of H.R. 4571, the Lawsuit Abuse Reduction Act, the oversight functions of the Judiciary Committee allowed us to craft a bill that will protect those affected from negative impacts of the shield from liability that it proposes. This legislation required an overhaul in order to make it less of a misnomer—to reduce abuse rather than encourage it.

The goal of the tort reform legislation is to allow businesses to externalize, or shift, some of the cost of the injuries they cause to others. Taxpayers assign liability to the party in the best position to prevent an injury in the most reasonable and fair manner. In looking at the disparate impact that the new tort reform laws will have on ethnic minority groups, it is unconscionable that the burden will be placed upon these groups—that are in the worst position to bear the liability costs.

When Congress considers pre-empting State laws, it must strike the appropriate balance between two competing values—local control and national uniformity. Local control is extremely important because we all believe, as did the Founders two centuries ago, that state governments are closer to the people and better able to assess local needs and desires. National uniformity is also an important consideration in federalism—Congress’ exclusive jurisdiction over interstate commerce has allowed our country to grow dramatically over the past 200 years.

This legislation would reverse the changes to Rule 11 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, FRCP, that were made by the Judicial Conference in 1993 such that (1) sanctions against an attorney whose litigation tactics are determined to harass or cause unnecessary delay or cost or who has been determined to have made frivolous legal arguments or unwarranted factual assertions would become mandatory rather than discretionary to the court, (2) discovery-related activity would be included within the scope of the Rule, and (3) the Rule would be extended to state cases affecting interstate commerce so that if a state judge decides that a case affects interstate commerce, the judge must apply Rule 11 if violations are found.

This legislation strips State and Federal judges of their discretion in the area of applying Rule 11 sanctions. Furthermore, it infringes States’ rights by forcing state courts to apply a Federal rule if interstate commerce is affected. Why is the discretion of the judge not sufficient in discerning whether Rule 11 sanctions should be assessed?

If this legislation moves forward in this body, it will be important for us to find out its effect on indigent plaintiffs or those who must hire an attorney strictly on a contingent-fee basis. Because the application of Rule 11 would be mandatory, attorneys will pad their legal fees to account for the additional risk that they will have to incur in filing lawsuits and the fact that they have no opportunity to withdraw the result due to a mistake. Overall, this legislation will deter indigent plaintiffs from seeking counsel to file meritorious claims given the extremely high legal fees.

The text of the amendment defined the term “Benedict Arnold Corporation” and proposed to prevent such companies from benefiting from the legal remedies that H.R. 4571 purports to offer.

Under Brown v. Topeka might have been frivolous. I do not want to have a litigious case, a tiny rental company, and Hertz terrorist offenses. The amendment that I would have offered for this bill has the same intent—to increase corporate accountability and to encourage corporate activity with integrity.

I ask that my colleagues support the Substituted offer by Mr. Schiff and defeat the base and fully respect the unintended long-term implications that this bill, as drafted, will have on indigent claimants, the trial attorney community, and facilitation of corporate fraud.

Mr. SMITH of Texas. Mr. Chairman, I yield 4 minutes to the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. CHABOT), the chairman of the Constitutional Law Subcommittee of the Judiciary Committee.

Mr. CHABOT. Mr. Chairman, I want to first of all commend the gentleman from Texas for his leadership in this area. This is a very important piece of legislation. I think he does us all proud by pushing for this and ultimately, I believe, being successful in its passage.

I am pleased to be a cosponsor of H.R. 420, legislation that will help curtail frivolous lawsuits. It is reassuring to once again see that the Congress is taking measures to help rid our court system of lawsuits that are costly and hurt both consumers and businesses in our country. The legislation is aimed at enforcing the laws that govern attorneys to filing frivolous lawsuits. The actual standard of what constitutes a frivolous lawsuit will not change. But consequences for such actions will.

In 1993, the Civil Rules advisory committee, an unelected body, decided that sanctions against attorneys who file frivolous lawsuits should be optional. Justice David Brewer once wrote: “America is the paradise of lawyers.”

In my opinion, this “paradise” has resulted in increased prices for consumer goods and higher insurance premiums and a decrease in domestic manufacturing, which has been one of the things that we have heard more and more discussion about in this country, the loss of manufacturing jobs.

H.R. 420 seeks to rein in lawsuit-happy litigators by restoring mandatory sanctions for filing frivolous lawsuits, a violation of Rule 11 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. This bill also prevents forum shopping by requiring that personal injury cases be brought only where the plaintiff resides, where the plaintiff was allegedly injured, or where the defendant’s principal place of business is located.

Finally, the bill would apply a three-strikes-and-you-are-out rule, as we have heard, to attorneys who commit three or more Rule 11 violations in Federal district court. As a member of the House Judiciary Committee, as well as a member of the Small Business Committee, I have heard endless accounts of family-owned small businesses being led to financial ruin by the exorbitant cost of frivolous lawsuits.

According to the NFIB, the National Federation of Independent Businesses, small business owners ranked the cost and availability of liability insurance as the second most important problem facing small business owners today. Small business owners know that if they are sued, they are likely to have to choose between a long and costly trial or an expensive settlement. Either choice significantly impacts the operation and the livelihood of its employees. This hurts the little guy because of these lawsuits.

Most business decisions today are made with this new reality in mind. This bill will help make American businesses more competitive by lowering their unnecessary legal expenses, allowing business owners to focus on hiring new employees and expanding available products.

This bill will help make American businesses more competitive. It will allow business owners to focus on hiring new employees, which is really critical in this economy that we are faced with, and expanding the availability of products and services and improving the economy.

Mr. Chairman, I again want to thank the gentleman from Texas for his leadership in introducing this important piece of legislation. It is time that we put an end to these frivolous lawsuits that are impacting the economy, that are hurting, especially, small businesses and are resulting in the loss of jobs of many, many Americans in this country.

Mr. NADLER. Mr. Chairman, I yield 3 minutes to the gentlewoman from Ohio (Mrs. JONES).

Mrs. JONES of Ohio. Mr. Chairman, I thank my good friend from New York for yielding me the time.

Mr. Chairman, I rise in opposition to H.R. 420, legislation that would have a chilling effect on a plaintiff’s ability to seek recourse in court. As I have listened to my colleagues on the floor talk about three-strikes-and-you-are-out with regard to a counsel, you would think this was a criminal situation.

In reality, they talk to judges about mandatory sentencing. They said, Judge, no matter what the facts are of the case, if this is the penalty, then you impose such penalty.

What is very interesting is, even though my colleague cited John Kerry, John Edwards, President Bush, and the Judiciary Committee, not one of them have sat as a judge in a case, making decisions about Rule 11 cases.

I am proud to say that I served as a judge for 10 years in the trial court in the State of Ohio and have had the ability to review complaints, review pleadings, make decisions about Rule 11 sanctions. And judges should be vested with the same discretion they are vested with in other situations and not be subjected to this Rule 11 sanctions piece that is being proposed by this legislation.

It is unconscionable that the claim that businesses focus on with more business or they can hire more employees, to use that to play against the ability of a plaintiff to bring a lawsuit. What is going to make business do better in the United States of America is this country having a policy that encourages business. What is going to make people work better in the United States of America is having greater opportunity for business, and you cannot be business-minded in this bill. It is doing harm on lawsuits, just as you cannot blame doctors running all over creation because of medical malpractice.

I encourage all of my colleagues to take a close look at what this legislation will do, to take a close look and listen to the arguments that are being made by my colleagues with regard to this legislation, and vote in opposition to H.R. 420.

Mr. SMITH of Texas. Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. NADLER. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I will summarize in a few words what was just said. There are frivolous lawsuits. There are also novel legal claims which some may consider frivolous, but which, in the fullness of time, yield legal progress. The claims against Plessey v. Ferguson were considered frivolous first, but eventually the courts accepted them, and so with many other arguments.

The courts have Rule 11 sanctions available at their discretion. Any judge who thinks an attorney is being frivolous, is wasting the court’s time, is wasting his adversary’s time, can impose the sanctions today. The courts have not asked for further power. The courts have certainly not asked us to take their hands and to mandatorily that they impose sanctions whenever they are requested and a technicality may have been violated. That is not justice, to enforce technicalities against the discretion of the judge.

The Association of State Chief Justices are not in favor of this. The Judicial Council of the United States is not in favor of this.

To mandate that attorneys be sanctioned in any technicalities means he cannot practice anymore is to tell attorneys, do not try novel legal arguments, do not argue new claims. To say that attorneys’ fees, reasonable attorneys’ fees, will be assessed mandatorily, whatever the judge thinks, whether he thinks or she thinks it is reasonable or not, is to say that you better not hire boys, that you better not sue General Motors, and a small business, a supplier cannot sue Wal-Mart lest the attorney violate some technicality and the attorneys’ fees of Wal-Mart, with their 45 attorneys sitting, be assessed against the small supplier.

This is not justice. What this bill is, Mr. Chairman, is another attempt, another in a series of attempts, the class action bills, the various other bills we have heard, to push the courts, to close the courts to anyone who would try to hold giant corporations accountable. That is what this is. This is a bill... that says, do not try to use the courts for civil rights, do not try to use the courts to sue large corporations. We are going to make sure you do not. We are going to punish you if you do, and we are going to make sure you cannot find an attorney who will take the case because we need about draconian imposition of draconian attorneys’ fees.

So I urge my colleagues to reject this bill. It should be rejected, because the courts ought to be opened to all people who need to use them. Otherwise there is no justice.

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Mr. Chairman, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. NADLER. I yield to the gentlewoman from Texas.

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Mr. Chairman, I was listening to the gentleman framing the question and the gentleman framed the question I think in the way that we should ask our colleagues to give us an answer. I think what the gentleman has suggested in his very detailed and eloquent presentation, there is a judicial system in place that is functioning and functional. We should take the Boy Scouts’ oath, make your camp better than you found it. Therefore, if there are issues that we can improve in the judiciary, let us do it.

But I am just looking at some information here that tells me that Federal litigation is, in fact, decreasing. A 2005 report issued by the U.S. Department of Justice says that the U.S. district courts in some areas, of course, fell 79 percent, fell 79 percent, the cases, the tort cases, between 1985 and 2003. According to the Administrative Office of the U.S. Courts, tort actions in the U.S. district courts went down from 29 percent from 2002 to 2003, so it fell 28 percent. In addition, over the last 5 years, Federal civil filings have not only decreased 8 percent, but the prefiling that are personal injury cases has also declined. State litigation is decreasing. The numbers show they are decreasing. Lawsuit filings are decreasing. As I said, tort filings have declined 5 percent since 1993. Contract filings have declined.

I do not particularly consider that a good omen. I would like people to legitimately feel they can go into the courts for their remedies. But the question is, it is not broken, and here we are putting heavier burdens that the court system thereby literally shuts the door closed to a number of individuals, and I think that is completely unacceptable for the responsibility of this Congress.

Mr. NADLER. Mr. Chairman, reclaiming my time, I thank the gentlewoman.

I think the gentlewoman has established not only that the system is not broken, but that any claim of an avalanche of frivolous litigation is absurd. Look at the statistics of declining use of the courts, of declining case-loads, of declining filings. Again, the courts have not requested this, they have not said that there is any problem, there is any problem existing. This has been another round of court, to shut the courthouse doors to people who need access to the courts, and on the most fundamental grounds of justice, this bill ought to be soundly rejected.

Mr. Chairman, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. SMITH of Texas. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, the scourge of frivolous litigation mars the fabric of our legal system and undermines the vitality of our economy. As President Bush has stated, “We have a responsibility to confront frivolous litigation head on.” H.R. 420 would do exactly that.

Frivolous lawsuits have become a form of legalized extortion. Without the serious threat of certain punishment for filing frivolous claims, innocent people and small businesses will be at a disadvantage. The stagnant economic reality that simply paying off frivolous claims through monetary settlements is always cheaper than litigating the case until no fault is found. Frivolous lawsuits subvert the proper role of the tort system and afford fundamentally unfair advantages to the parties that are central to our system of justice.

The effects of frivolous litigation are both clear and widespread. Churches are discouraging counseling by ministers. Children have learned to threaten their parents with lawsuits. Socially or politically important goals are being achieved by shutting down the face of lawsuits for injuries and even hurt feelings. Common playground equipment is now an endangered species. The Girl Scouts in the metro Detroit area alone have to sell 36,000 boxes of cookies each year just to pay for their liability insurance. Good Samaritans are discouraged. When one man routinely cleared a trail after snowstorms, the county had to ask him to stop. The supervisor of district operations wrote, “If a person falls, you are more liable than if you had never plowed at all.”

Unfortunately, the times we are in for a much more litigious environment than common sense would dictate. A federal lawsuit has even been filed against U.S. weather forecasters after the South Asian tsunami disaster.

Today results of frivolous lawsuits are written on all manner of product protections under Federal and local laws. A warning label on a baby stroller cautions, “Remove child before folding.” A five-inch brass fishing lure with three hooks is labeled, “Harmful if swallowed.” And household iron warn, “Never iron clothes while they are being used.”

Small businesses and workers suffer the most. The Nation’s oldest ladder manufacturer, family-owned John S. Tilley Ladders Company near Albany, New York, recently filed for bankruptcy protection and sold off most of its assets due to litigation costs. Founded in 1855, the Tilley firm could not handle the cost of liability insurance, which had risen from 6 percent of sales a decade ago to 29 percent, while never losing an actual court judgment. The workers of John S. Tilley Ladders never faced a competitor they could not outbid in the marketplace, but they were no match for frivolous lawsuits.

Business Week published an extensive article on what the most effective legal reforms would be, it stated that what is needed are “Penalties That Sting.” As Business Week recommends, “Give judges stronger tools to punish renegade lawyers.” Before 1993, it was mandatory for judges to impose sanctions such as public censures, fines, or orders to pay for the other side’s legal expenses. Then the Civil Rules Advisory Committee, an obscure branch of the courts, made penalties optional. This needs to be reversed by Congress. Today, H.R. 420 would do exactly that.

Rule 11 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure presently requires sanctions against parties who bring frivolous lawsuits. Without certain punishment for those who bring these suits and the threat of serious monetary penalties to compensate the victims of frivolous lawsuits, there is little legal incentive for the lawsuit victims to spend time and money seeking sanctions for lawsuit abuse. In fact, as currently written, Rule 11 allows lawyers to entirely avoid sanctions for filing frivolous claims by withdrawing them within 3 weeks. In short, it encourages frivolous claims because personal injury attorneys can file harassing pleadings secure in the knowledge that they have nothing to lose. If someone objects, they can always retreat without penalty.

H.R. 420 would restore mandatory sanctions and monetary penalties under Federal Rule 11 for filing frivolous lawsuits and abusing the litigation process. It would also extend these same protections to cover State cases where that a State judge determines have interstate implications and close the loopholes of a tort system that often resembles a tort lottery.

The legislation applies to frivolous lawsuits brought by businesses as well as individuals, and it expressly precludes application of the bill to civil rights cases if applying the bill to such cases would bar or impede the assertion or development of new claims or defenses under Federal or local civil rights law. The Class Action Fairness Act, which was recently signed into law after receiving broad support in both Houses, prohibits the unfair practice of forum shopping for favorable courts when the case is styled as a nationwide class action. This should apply to individual lawsuits as well.

One of the Nation’s wealthiest personal injury attorneys, Richard “Dickie” Scruggs, and I quoted him a little bit shorter right now, described what he calls “magic jurisdictions” as “What I call the ‘magic jurisdictions’ is where it is almost impossible to get a fair trial if you are a defendant. Any lawyer fresh out of law school can walk in there and win the case, so it does not matter what the evidence or the law is.”

America’s system of justice deserves better. The Senate’s vote to pass H.R. 420 makes the unfair practice of forum shopping by requiring that personal injury cases be brought only where there is some reasonable connection to the case; namely, where the plaintiff lives or was allegedly injured, where the defendant’s principal place of business is located, or where the defendant resides.

The time for congressional action to close the loopholes that create incentives for frivolous lawsuits is now. Too many jobs have been lost and more will not be created if this legislation is not enacted into law.

I urge my colleagues to return a measure of fairness to America’s legal system by passing the Lawsuit Abuse Reduction Act.

Mr. TERRY. Mr. Chairman, I rise in opposition to H.R. 420, the Lawsuit Abuse Reduction Act of 2005. This legislation runs roughshod over States’ rights, forcing State courts to enact onerous procedures and stripping States’ jurisdiction in certain cases. This bill would require litigants to pursue their claims in the State court of the defendant’s principal place of business. This would basically restore that rule as it was in 1992. As a result, lawyers filing frivolous lawsuits in Federal courts would face mandatory sanctions in the form of payments to those who were victimized by those lawsuits. I think that could be an effective deterrent, and can support it.

I also can support strong provisions to deter—and, if necessary punish—repeated violations of the rules against misuse of the courts through frivolous lawsuits. However, I am not enthusiastic about the idea of Congress’s attempting to micro-manage the State courts or to take over the job of regulating the practice of law in State courts in the way that this bill would do.

And I am definitely opposed to changing the rules in ways that could make it impossible for people with valid claims to receive proper consideration of their cases.

For that reason, I must object to the provisions of the bill which, as the non-partisan Congressional Research Service explains, “would preclude litigation in United States courts that would be authorized under current law.” For instance, [under current law] . . . if a corporation has stores, factories, offices, or property anywhere in the United States . . . a Federal suit might be brought against it in one of the judicial districts where . . . [an objectionable] activity occurs or property [is located]. But . . . enactment of H.R. 420 apparently could result in a plaintiffs being left without a judicial forum in the United States for his or her tort claim.

Leaving some Americans with no recourse to the courts even for valid claims would be bad enough. But I find it even more unacceptable that prime beneficiaries of these provisions could be American companies who have chosen to fly a foreign flag in order to escape paying their Federal taxes.

I voted for the Schiff-Kenn amendment because I favor strong measures against frivolous lawsuits but oppose giving those fugitive corporations such an unfair advantage over truly American companies. Unfortunately, however, that amendment was not adopted—and as a result I must vote against this bill as it stands.

Mr. UDALL of Colorado. Mr. Chairman, I am not opposed to changing Federal court rules to try to make it less likely that small business owners or other Americans will be forced to defend themselves against frivolous lawsuits. So, I, too, am aware of the provisions of this bill. However, the bill has such serious flaws that I cannot support it in its current form.

Part of the bill would change Rule 11 of the Federal Rules of Procedure in ways that would basically restore that rule as it was in 1992. As a result, lawyers filing frivolous lawsuits in Federal courts would face mandatory sanctions in the form of payments to those who were victimized by those lawsuits. I think that could be an effective deterrent, and can support it.

I also can support strong provisions to deter—and, if necessary punish—repeated violations of the rules against misuse of the courts through frivolous lawsuits. However, I am not enthusiastic about the idea of Congress’s attempting to micro-manage the State courts or to take over the job of regulating the practice of law in State courts in the way that this bill would do.

And I am definitely opposed to changing the rules in ways that could make it impossible for people with valid claims to receive proper consideration of their cases.

For that reason, I must object to the provisions of the bill which, as the non-partisan Congressional Research Service explains, “would preclude litigation in United States courts that would be authorized under current law.” For instance, [under current law] . . . if a corporation has stores, factories, offices, or property anywhere in the United States . . . a Federal suit might be brought against it in one of the judicial districts where . . . [an objectionable] activity occurs or property [is located]. But . . . enactment of H.R. 420 apparently could result in a plaintiffs being left without a judicial forum in the United States for his or her tort claim.

Unfortunately, however, that amendment was not adopted—and as a result I must vote against this bill as it stands.
yield back the balance of my time.

The legislation also prevents forum shopping by requiring suits to be filed where a plaintiff resides, where an injury occurred, or where the defendant’s principal place of business is located.

Tort reform will make American businesses more competitive and lower costs to consumers while ensuring true victims’ rights to sue for damages. Frivolous lawsuits have discouraged product development, stifled innovative research and cost millions in insurance and legal fees that often get passed on to consumers. Making the system less costly will increase job creation, benefitting businesses and consumers alike.

I support this legislation and encourage my colleagues to do so as well.

Mr. SMITH of Texas. Mr. Chairman, I yield back the balance of my time.

The CHAIRMAN. All time for general debate has expired.

Pursuant to the rule, the amendment in the nature of a substitute printed in the bill shall be considered as an original bill for the purpose of amendment under the 5-minute rule and shall be considered read.

The text of the amendment in the nature of a substitute is as follows:

H.R. 420

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled:

SEC. 1. TITLE.

(2) in paragraph (1)(A)—

(A) by striking “Rule 5” and all that follows through “corrected.” and inserting “Rule 5.”;

and

(B) by striking “the court may award” and inserting “the court shall award”;

(i) is paragraphs (2), by striking “shall be limited to what is sufficient” and all that follows through the end of the paragraph (including subparagraphs (A) and (B)) and inserting “shall order repetition of such conduct or comparable conduct by others similarly situated, and to compensate the parties that were injured by such conduct. The sanction may consist of an order to pay to the party or parties the amount of the reasonable expenses incurred as a direct result of the filing of the pleading, motion, or other paper that is the subject of the violation, including a reasonable attorney’s fee.”;

(3) by amending the second sentence to read as follows: “In any civil action in State court, the court, upon motion, shall determine within 30 days after the filing whether the action substantially affects interstate commerce. Such court shall make such determination based on an assessment of the costs to the interstate economy, including the economic loss, were the relief requested granted. If the court determines that the action substantially affects interstate commerce, the proceedings of Rule 11 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure shall apply to such action.”

SEC. 3. APPLICABILITY OF RULE 11 TO STATE CASES AFFECTING INTERSTATE COMMERCE.

In any civil action in State court, the court, upon motion, shall determine within 30 days after the filing whether the action substantially affects interstate commerce. Such court shall make such determination based on an assessment of the costs to the interstate economy, including the economic loss, were the relief requested granted. If the court determines that the action substantially affects interstate commerce, the proceedings of Rule 11 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure shall apply to such action.

SEC. 4. PREVENTION OF FORUM SHOPPING.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Subject to subsection (b), a personal injury claim filed in State or Federal court may be filed only in the State and, within that State, in the county (or Federal district) in which—

(1) the person bringing the claim, including an estate in the case of a decedent and a parent or guardian in the case of a minor or incompetent—

(A) resides at the time of filing; or

(B) resided at the time of the alleged injury;

(2) the alleged injury or circumstances giving rise to the personal injury claim allegedly occurred;

(3) the defendant’s principal place of business is located, if the defendant is a corporation; or

(4) the defendant resides, if the defendant is an individual.

(b) DETERMINATION OF MOST APPROPRIATE FORUM.—If a person alleges that the injury or circumstances giving rise to the personal injury claim allegedly occurred in more than one county (or Federal district), the trial court shall determine which State and county (or Federal district) is the most appropriate forum for the claim. If the court determines that another forum would be the most appropriate forum for a claim, the court shall dismiss the claim. Any otherwise applicable statute of limitations shall be tolled beginning on the date the claim is dismissed under this subsection.

(c) DEFINITIONS.—In this section:

(1) the term “personal injury claim”—

(A) means a civil action brought under State law by any person to recover for a person’s personal injury, illness, disease, death, mental or emotional injury, risk of disease, or other injury, or the costs of medical monitoring or surveillance (to the extent such claims are recognized under State law), including any derivative action brought on behalf of any person whose injury or risk of injury the action is based by any representative party, including a spouse, parent, child, or other relative of such person, a guardian, or an estate; and

(B) does not include a claim brought as a class action;

(2) the term “person” means any individual, corporation, company, association, firm, partnership, society, joint stock company, or any other entity, but not any governmental entity.

(d) The term “State” includes the District of Columbia, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, the United States Virgin Islands, Guam, and any other territory or possession of the United States.

(e) APPLICABILITY.—This section applies to any action arising under Federal law and to any action brought in any Federal court that substantially affects interstate commerce.

The CHAIRMAN. No amendment to the committee amendment is in order except those printed in House Report 109-253. Each amendment may be offered only in the order printed in the report, by a Member designated in the report, shall be considered read, shall be debatable for the time specified in the report, equally divided and controlled by the proponent and an opponent, shall not be subject to amendment, and shall not be subject to a demand for division of the question.

AMENDMENT NO. 1 OFFERED BY MR. SMITH OF TEXAS

Mr. SMITH of Texas. Mr. Chairman, I offer an amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will designate the amendment.

The text of the amendment is as follows:

Amendment No. 1 printed in House Report 109-253 offered by Mr. SMITH of Texas:
Page 4, strike lines 8 through 11 and insert the following:

(a) In General.—Subject to subsection (b), a personal injury claim filed in State or Federal court may be filed only in the State and, within that State, in the county (or if there is no State court in the county, the nearest county where a court of general jurisdiction is located) where the injury occurred, unless the court determines that certain court records should be sealed, and an amendment providing for a presumption on a Rule 11 violation when the same issue is repeatedly litigated.

Mr. SMITH of Texas. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, the bipartisan manager’s amendment I am offering today reflects the important contributions of the gentleman from New York (Mr. NADLER). The amendment from Virginia (Mr. Scott). It incorporates into the base bill provisions imposing sanctions for the destruction of relevant documents in a pending Federal court proceeding, an amendment setting standards for the determination that certain court records should be sealed, and an amendment providing for a presumption on a Rule 11 violation when the same issue is repeatedly litigated.

Mr. Chairman, the bipartisan manager’s amendment also makes clear that in the antiforum-shopping provisions, if there is no State court in the county in which the injury occurred, the case can be brought in the nearest adjacent county where a court of general jurisdiction is located.

Finally, the manager’s amendment makes clear that the legislation does not affect personal injury claims that Federal bankruptcy law requires to be heard in a Federal bankruptcy court. This reasonable request was made by the National Bankruptcy Conference Committee on Legislation.

I urge my colleagues to join me in supporting this bipartisan manager’s amendment.

Mr. Chairman, I yield back the balance of my time.

The CHAIRMAN. Does any Member seek recognition in opposition?

Mr. NADLER. Mr. Chairman, I do not seek recognition in opposition to the amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. Without objection, the gentleman from New York is recognized for 5 minutes.

There was no objection.

Mr. NADLER. Mr. Chairman, I am pleased that Chairman SENSENBERGER has included in the manager’s amendment two provisions that I offered in the Judiciary Committee markup of the bill, and I thank the chairman for his support.

The first amendment included in the manager’s amendment provides for mandatory sanctions for destroying documents relating to a court proceeding. Delays during litigation provide ample opportunities for wrongdoers to destroy incriminating documents. Because this can result in the complete inability to hold these defendants accountable for their wrongful acts, parties who knowingly destroy relevant and incriminating documents should be severely sanctioned.

Secondly, the second amendment bans the concealment of unlawful conduct when the interests of public health and safety outweigh the interests of the public in knowledge of whatever it is.

Mr. Chairman, I yield back the balance of my time.

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Texas (Mr. Smith).

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. SMITH. The settlement will include a payment of a sum to the defendant, but will also often include an agreement that the records will be sealed and no one will ever talk about it. That is the condition that the defendant company puts on that settlement.

So the defendant pays the money, the plaintiff gets the settlement, everybody keeps quiet. But meanwhile, hundreds of thousands of people may continue to be injured by that product in the future. The defendant company forces the plaintiffs never to discuss the problems with anyone else, no one knows about it, and more people keep getting hurt because the product remains on the market.

When it comes to public health and safety, people must have access to information about an unsafe product, not only to protect themselves but also to serve as a deterrent against companies that may continue to place the public in harm’s way.

Secrecy agreements should not be enforced unless they meet stringent standards to protect the public interest and the public health. This amendment prevents this harmful practice. The amendment says that an agreement to keep a settlement secret, the terms and conditions of settlement secret, cannot be approved by the court unless the court determines that the interests of the parties in secrecy, perhaps legitimate interests outweigh the interests of the public in knowledge of whatever it is.

If the court so determines, the court can order the secrecy upheld. But if the court determines that the interest and the public knowledge outweigh the secrecy, then the court must say that and disapprove the concealment agreement.

I support the manager’s amendment because it includes these two amendments and other good ideas. But these changes are not enough for me to support final passage of what is still an egregious bill.

Again, I would like to thank Chairman SENSENBERGER for working together in addressing these issues. I believe the manager’s amendment provides some positive changes in what is otherwise an egregious bill.

I urge my colleagues to vote for the manager’s amendment, but against the final bill.

Mr. Chairman, I yield back the balance of my time.

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Texas (Mr. Smith).

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. SCHIFF. Mr. Chairman, I offer an amendment in the nature of a substitute.

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will designate the amendment in the nature of a substitute.

The text of the amendment in the nature of a substitute is as follows:
Amendment in the nature of a substitute No. 2 printed in House Report 109–253 offered by Mr. Schiff:

Strike all after the enacting clause and insert the following:

SECTION 1. "THREE STRIKES AND YOU'RE OUT" FOR ATTORNEYS WHO FILE FRIVOLOUS LAWSUITS

(a) SIGNATURE Required.—Every pleading, written motion, and other paper in any action shall be signed by at least 1 attorney of record if the attorney is an individual natural person, or if the party is not represented by an attorney, shall be signed by the party. Each paper shall state the signer’s address and telephone number and shall be signed paper that is stricken unless omission of the signature is corrected promptly after being called to the attention of the attorney or party.

(b) CERTIFICATE OF MERIT.—By presenting to the court (whether by signing, filing, submitting, or later advocating) a pleading, written motion, or other paper, an attorney or unrepresented party is certifying that to the best of the person’s knowledge, information and belief, formed after a reasonable inquiry reasonable under the circumstances—

(1) it is not being presented for any improper purpose, such as to harass or to cause unnecessary delay or needless increase in the cost of litigation;

(2) the claims, defenses, and other legal contentions therein are warranted by existing law or the establishment of new law; and

(3) the allegations and other factual contentions have evidentiary support or, if speculatively identified, are reasonable based on a lack of information or belief.

(c) MANDATORY SANCTIONS.—

(1) FIRST VIOLATION.—If, after notice and a reasonable opportunity to respond, a court, upon motion or upon its own initiative, determines that subsection (b) has been violated, the court shall find each attorney or party in contempt of court and shall require the payment of costs and attorney fees. The court may also impose additional sanctions, such as imposing sanctions plus interest or imposing a fine upon the person in violation, or upon such person and such person’s attorney or client (as the case may be).

(2) SECOND VIOLATION.—If without substantial justification a certification is made in violation of this section, the court, upon motion or upon its own initiative, shall find each attorney or party in contempt of court and shall require the payment of costs and attorney fees. The court may also impose additional sanctions, such as imposing sanctions plus interest or imposing a fine upon the person in violation, or upon such person and such person’s attorney or client (as the case may be).

(3) THIRD AND SUBSEQUENT VIOLATIONS.—If without substantial justification a certification is made in violation of this section, the court, upon motion or upon its own initiative, shall find each attorney or party in contempt of court and shall require the payment of costs and attorney fees. The court may also impose additional sanctions, such as imposing sanctions plus interest or imposing a fine upon the person in violation, or upon both such person and such person’s attorney or client (as the case may be).

(d) APPEAL; STAY.—An attorney has the right to appeal a sanction under this section. While such an appeal is pending, the sanction shall be stayed.

(e) MANDATORY SANCTIONS.—

(1) FIRST VIOLATION.—If without substantial justification a certification is made in violation of this section, the court, upon motion or upon its own initiative, shall find each attorney or party in contempt of court and shall require the payment of costs and attorney fees. The court may also impose additional sanctions, such as imposing sanctions plus interest or imposing a fine upon the person in violation, or upon both such person and such person’s attorney or client (as the case may be).

(2) SECOND VIOLATION.—If without substantial justification a certification is made in violation of this section, the court, upon motion or upon its own initiative, shall find each attorney or party in contempt of court and shall require the payment of costs and attorney fees. The court may also impose additional sanctions, such as imposing sanctions plus interest or imposing a fine upon the person in violation, or upon both such person and such person’s attorney or client (as the case may be).

(3) THIRD AND SUBSEQUENT VIOLATIONS.—If without substantial justification a certification is made in violation of this section, the court, upon motion or upon its own initiative, shall find each attorney or party in contempt of court and shall require the payment of costs and attorney fees. The court may also impose additional sanctions, such as imposing sanctions plus interest or imposing a fine upon the person in violation, or upon both such person and such person’s attorney or client (as the case may be).

(4) APPEAL; STAY.—An attorney has the right to appeal a sanction under this section. While such an appeal is pending, the sanction shall be stayed.

(5) NOT APPLICABLE TO CIVIL RIGHTS CLAIMS.—Notwithstanding subdivision (d), the court may not order that a court record not be disclosed unless the court makes a finding that the disclosure of the information would be served by disclosing the court record.

SEC. 2. "THREE STRIKES AND YOU'RE OUT" FOR ATTORNEYS WHO FILE FRIVOLOUS CONDUCT DURING DISCOVERY.

(a) SIGNATURES REQUIRED ON DISCLOSURES.—Every discovery made pursuant to subdivision (a)(1) or subdivision (a)(3) of Rule 26 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure or any comparable action by a party (as the case may be) shall be signed by at least one attorney of record in the attorney’s individual name, whose address shall be stated. An unrepresented party shall sign the discovery and state the party’s address. The signature of the attorney or party constitutes a certification that to the best of the signer’s knowledge, information, and belief, formed after a reasonable inquiry, the disclosure is complete and correct as of the time it is made.

(b) SIGNATURE REQUIRED ON DISCOVERY.

(1) IN GENERAL.—Every discovery request, response, or objection made by a party represented by an attorney shall be signed by at least one attorney of record in the attorney’s individual name, whose address shall be stated. An unrepresented party shall sign the request, response, or objection and state the party’s address. The signature of the attorney or party constitutes a certification that to the best of the signer’s knowledge, information, and belief, formed after a reasonable inquiry, the request, response, or objection is—

(A) consistent with the applicable rules of civil procedure and warranted by existing law or by a good faith argument for the extension, modification, or reversal of existing law;

(B) not interposed for any improper purpose, such as to harass or to cause unnecessary delay or needless increase in the cost of litigation; and

(C) not unreasonable or unduly burdensome or oppressive, given the needs of the case, the discovery already had in the case, the amount in controversy, and the importance of the issues at stake in the litigation.

(2) PROCEDURES.—If a request, response, or objection is not signed, it shall be stricken unless it is signed promptly after the omission is called to the attention of the party making the request, response, or objection. If a request, response, or objection is not signed, it shall be stricken unless it is signed promptly after the omission is called to the attention of the party making the request, response, or objection. If a party shall not be obligated to take any action with respect to it until it is signed.

(3) THIRD AND SUBSEQUENT VIOLATIONS.—If, after notice and a reasonable opportunity to respond, a court, upon motion or upon its own initiative, determines that subsection (b) has been violated and that the attorney or party (as the case may be) has failed to correct signed paper that is stricken unless omission of the signature is corrected promptly after being called to the attention of the attorney or party, the court shall find each attorney or party in contempt of court, refer each such attorney to one or more appropriate State bar associations for disciplinary proceedings (including suspension of that attorney from the practice of law for one year or disbarment), require the payment of costs and attorneys fees, require the attorney or party to pay reasonable costs plus interest, upon its own initiative, shall find each attorney or party in contempt of court and shall require the payment of costs and attorneys fees. The court may also impose additional sanctions, such as imposing sanctions plus interest or imposing a fine upon the person in violation, or upon such person and such person’s attorney or client (as the case may be).

(d) APPLICABILITY.—This section applies to any paper filed on or after the date of the enactment of this Act in—

(1) any action in Federal court; and

(2) any action in State court, if the court, upon motion or upon its own initiative, determines that the action affects interstate commerce.

SEC. 3. BAN ON CONCEALMENT OF UNLAWFUL CONDUCT.

(a) IN GENERAL.—In any Rule 11 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure proceeding, a court may not order that a court record not be disclosed unless the finding of fact that identifies the interest that justifies the order and determines that the interest outweighs any interest in the public health, safety, or welfare that would be served by disclosing the court record.

(b) APPLICABILITY.—This section applies to any record formally filed with the court, but shall not include any records subject to—

(1) the attorney-client privilege or any other privilege recognized as State law that grants the right to prevent disclosure of certain information unless the privilege has been waived; or

(2) the constitutional or federal laws that protect the confidentiality of crime victims, including victims of sexual abuse.
SEC. 4. ENHANCED SANCTIONS FOR DOCUMENT DESTRUCTION.
Whoever willfully and intentionally influences, obstructs, or impedes, or attempts to influence, obstruct, or impede, a pending Federal court proceeding through the willful and intentional destruction of documents sought pursuant to the rules of such Federal court proceeding and highly relevant to that proceeding—
(1) shall be punished with mandatory civil sanctions of a nature commensurate with the civil sanctions available under Rule 11 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, in addition to any other civil sanctions that otherwise apply and
(2) shall be held in contempt of court and, if an attorney, referred to one or more appropriate State bar associations for disciplinary proceedings.

SEC. 5. ABILITY TO SUE CORPORATE FINANCIAL TRAITORS AND FOREIGN CORPORATIONS.
(a) GENERAL RULE.—In any civil action for injury that was sustained in the United States and that relates to the acts of a foreign business, the Federal court or State court in which such action is brought shall have jurisdiction over the foreign business if—
(1) the business purposefully availed itself of the privilege of doing business in the United States or that State;
(2) the cause of action arises from the business’s activities in the United States or that State; and
(3) the exercise of jurisdiction would be fair and reasonable.
(b) EXCEPTION.—If in any civil action a foreign business invades the United States or such action fails to furnish any testimony, document, or other thing upon a duly issued discovery order by the court in such action, such failure shall be deemed a violation of any fact with respect to which the discovery order relates.

c) PROCESS.—Process in an action described in subsection (a) may be served wherever the foreign business is located, has an agent, or transacts business.
(d) DEFINITION.—In this section, the term “foreign business” means a business that has its principal place of business, and substantial business operations, outside the United States and its Territories.

SEC. 6. PREEMPTION OF RULE 11 VIOLATION FOR REPEATEDLY RELITIGATING SAME ISSUE.
(a) IN GENERAL.—Whenever a party presents a pleading, motion, or other paper, that includes a claim or defense that the party has already litigated and lost on the merits in any forum in final decisions not subject to appeal on three consecutive occasions, and the claim or defense involves the same plaintiff and the same defendant, there shall be a rebuttable presumption that the party’s presentation of such paper is in violation of Rule 11 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure.

(b) EXCEPTION.—Subsection (a) does not apply to the presentation of a pleading, motion, or other paper under the Constitution of the United States.

The CHAIRMAN. Pursuant to House Resolution 508, the gentleman from California (Mr. SCHIFF) and the gentleman from Texas (Mr. SMITH) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from California (Mr. SCHIFF).

Mr. SCHIFF. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I rise today to offer an amendment in the nature of a substitute to H.R. 420, the Lawsuit Abuse Reduction Act of 2005, with the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. KIND).

I thank the Rules Committee for affording us this opportunity to offer and debate our substitute amendment on the floor today.

Mr. Chairman, the base bill certainly has an important and worthy stated goal of the elimination of frivolous lawsuits. As a former Federal prosecutor and a member of the bar, I strongly support this meritorious goal, as any responsible attorney should.

However, I am forced to oppose the legislation in its current form as it contains a number ofurious deficiencies which I believe the substitute amendment will remedy. First, the legislation would revert to a failed regime that has been soundly criticized by those best equipped to comment on the proposed changes, the Federal judiciary.

Second, the legislation would appropriately involve the States in the application of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. And, third, the legislation’s forum-shopping provisions drastically change State venue laws to benefit foreign corporations over domestic corporations and victims, to say nothing of doing a great deal to damage States’ rights.

Finally, the legislation would harm those seeking relief from civil rights violations. Instead, I ask my colleagues to support the Schiff-Kind substitute amendment, a proposal that would crack down vigorously on frivolous lawsuits. Members on both sides of the aisle agree that our laws and rules of procedure must prohibit frivolous litigation.

Our substitute amendment has a strong three-strikes-and-you-are-out provision for attorneys who file frivolous lawsuits. Unlike the base bill, these frivolous proceedings and pleadings could have been filed in any court. The mandatory sanctions begin after the very first violation; but after the third, the attorney shall be found in contempt of court and referred to the appropriate State bar associations for disciplinary proceedings, including suspension.

Unlike the base bill, the third sanction can also include disbarment. Our substitute amendment also has strong three-strikes-and-you-are-out provisions for attorneys who engage in frivolous conduct during discovery, including causing unnecessary delay or needlessly multiplying the proceedings of litigation. Again, mandatory sanctions begin after the first violation, and a third violation in any Federal court can include suspension and even disbarment.

Our substitute also limits the ability of wrongdoers to conceal any conduct harmful to the public welfare by requiring that such court records not be sealed unless the court finds that a sealing is justified. This important provision will help ensure that information on dangerous products and actions is made available to the public.

The Schiff-Kind substitute also includes tough enhanced sanctions for document destruction by parties punishable by mandatory sanctions under Rule 11 and referral to the appropriate State bars for disciplinary proceedings, including disbarment. We also include strong language to provide a presumption of a Rule 11 violation for repeated relitigating that matter.

I am pleased that some of these important provisions have recently been added to the base bill. The venue provisions, however, in section 4 of the base bill would recast State and Federal long-arm jurisdiction and venue in personal injury cases.

This section would actually operate to provide a litigation and financial windfall to foreign corporations at the expense of their domestic competitors. Instead of permitting claims to be filed wherever a corporation does business or has minimum contacts, as most State long-arm jurisdiction statutes provide, section 4 only permits the suit to be brought where the defendant’s principal place of business is located.

This means that it would be far more difficult to pursue a personal injury or product liability action against a foreign corporation in the United States. In fact, this section could operate to make it impossible to sue a foreign corporation in this country, only further promoting the disturbing process of corporations in our country relocating their headquarters overseas to avoid U.S. taxes.

Mr. Chairman, this is bad policy. And our substitute amendment includes language to ensure that jurisdiction for such legal actions is not limited in this manner.

Finally, by requiring a mandatory sanctions regime that would apply to civil rights cases, the base bill will chill many legitimate and important civil rights actions. This is due to the fact that much, if not most, of the impetus for the 1993 changes stemmed from abuses by defendants in civil rights cases, not plaintiffs. However, defendants were choosing to harass civil rights plaintiffs by filing a series of Rule 11 motions intended to slow down and impede meritorious civil rights cases.

A 1991 Federal judicial study found that the incidence of Rule 11 sanctions or sua sponte orders is higher in civil rights cases than in some other types of cases. Another study found that there is ample evidence to suggest that plaintiffs in civil rights cases, plaintiff attorneys in particular, were far more likely than defendants to be the target of Rule 11 motions and the recipient of sanctions.

While the base bill purports to encourage that the provisions not be applied to civil rights cases, the fact of the matter is it does not explicitly exempt civil rights cases as our substitute does.

Mr. Chairman, this is a commonsense substitute. It cracks down on frivolous lawsuits in a tough fashion, but without jeopardizing civil rights claims or providing unnecessary shields to foreign corporations. It is a better bill, and I urge the House to adopt the substitute rather than the base proposal.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. SMITH of Texas. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, I rise in opposition to this substitute amendment. And I have to point out that this same substitute amendment was defeated in the last Congress. Mr. Chairman, where to begin. I will begin with the title of the first section of the substitute. It is entitled, “Three Strikes and You’re Out.” But the title of section 1 does not reflect the text it contains.

In fact, the substitute provides that following three violations of its provisions: “The court shall refer each such attorney to one or more appropriate State bar associations for disciplinary proceedings.”

The substitute does not say the attorney shall be suspended from the practice of law. However, the base bill explicitly provides for such a sanction. Specifically, the base bill states that after three strikes: “The Federal district court shall suspend that attorney from the practice of law in that Federal district court.”

The base bill contains a substantive three-strikes-and-you-are-out provision that will prevent attorneys who file frivolous lawsuits from getting into the courtroom. The substitute merely requires that repeat offenders be reported to State bar associations.

But it gets worse. Not only are filers of frivolous lawsuits not out after three strikes under the substitute, but the substitute even changes what constitutes a strike under existing law. Currently, Rule 11 contains four criteria that can lead to a Rule 11 violation.

The substitute references only three. Currently, Rule 11 allows sanctions against frivolous filers whose denials of fact or conclusions of law are not warranted by the evidence or are not reasonably based on a lack of information or belief.

The substitute removes this protection for victims of frivolous pleadings under existing law. In addition, the substitute for the first time without penalty allows defendants to file papers with the court that include factual denials of the allegations against them that are not warranted by the evidence and not reasonably based.

Instead, the substitute provides additional protection for defendants filing frivolous defenses that are not warranted by the evidence and not reasonably based.

Mr. SCHIFF. Mr. Chairman, I yield 4 minutes to the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. KIND).

Mr. KIND. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman from California for yielding me this time and for the leadership that he has shown on the issue. I also commend the gentleman from New York (Mr. NADLER) for the important issues that he has raised in regards to this important legislation.

Mr. Chairman, I think we can all concede that one is in favor of frivolous lawsuits in this country. As a former special prosecutor, State prosecutor in Wisconsin, and as a young lawyer who used to handle corporate litigation in a large law firm, I saw firsthand some of the abuses that take place in the judicial process. But I believe that there is a right and a wrong way of moving forward in dealing with the frivolous lawsuit situation in this country.

Unfortunately, the majority base bill today, I think, is the wrong approach, whereas the substitute that we are offering here cures a lot of defects that the majority is offering and would put some substance behind cracking down on the filing of frivolous lawsuits. But first let us correct some of the facts.

There has been a lot of rhetoric from some of our colleagues here claiming that the real bane of the judicial system today are a bunch of trial attorneys running around chasing ambulances, filing needless personal injury cases, clogging the court system, driving up litigation costs, increasing the expenses of corporations, and that is not the case. The substitute that we are offering will have an impact on the filing of frivolous lawsuits. But it gets worse. Not only are filers of frivolous lawsuits not out after three strikes under the substitute, but the substitute even changes what constitutes a strike under existing law.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

cures that by exempting the filing of civil rights under this legislation. This is significant, because as the gentleman from California pointed out that when there were attempts to stifle meritorious claims from going forward or interrupting the litigation process. It was usually in the civil rights actions that were taken during this period which led to the change and the reform of mandatory sanctions back to a discretionary system, allowing the judges to decide the application of the appropriate penalties based on the facts and circumstances of the case.

What is this debate about today? I would commend a recently released movie called ‘North Country’ to all of my colleagues before they consider the final passage of this legislation. It is about a young mother of two who took a job in the Taconite Mining Company in northern Minnesota and entered an atmosphere and environment of pervasive sexual harassment that not only applied to her, but all the women that were working in that company. She was the first to file a class action suit on behalf of herself and the other women in the country and the Nation. Because she was meritorious, she prevailed in that lawsuit that lead to incredible changes in regards to the treatment of women in the modern workplace.

That is what is at stake in allowing the civil process to at least go through. We allow that in the substitute, and I ask adoption of the substitute.

Mr. SMITH of Texas. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself 30 seconds.

Mr. Chairman, I want to point out to the gentleman from Wisconsin who just spoke that I could have saved him a lot of time. And I would like to remind him that he might want to take a look at the language of H.R. 420, that it applies to small businesses and does individuals, despite statements to the contrary.

Mr. Chairman, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Utah (Mr. CAN- NON), the chairman of the Administrative Law Subcommittee of the Judiciary Committee.

Mr. CANNON. Mr. Chairman, I rise in support of H.R. 420, the Lawsuit Abuse and Reduction Act, LARA, and I oppose the substitute amendment.

The underlying bill continues the commitment of the House Republicans to grow our economy, help small businesses, and put a stop to abusive lawsuits. This bill does that and will help millions of small businesses combat some of the worst abuses by frivolous lawsuits.

In particular, LARA would make mandatory the sanctions and monetary penalties under Federal Rule 11 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure for filing frivolous lawsuits and abusing the litigation process. It would also abolish the free pass provisions that allow parties and their attorneys to avoid sanctions by withdrawing a suit within 21 days after a motion for sanctions has been filed.

It would also permit monetary sanctions including reimbursement of reasonable attorneys’ fees and litigation costs in connection with frivolous lawsuits.

It would extends Rule 11’s provisions to include State cases in which the State judge finds the case substantially affects interstate commerce.

Frivolous lawsuits have discouraged and stifled American businesses long enough. The more we control lawsuit abuse, the stronger our businesses will be, and the more jobs will be created.

This legislation protects the integrity of the judicial system by penalizing the bad actors in litigation, both plaintiffs and defendants, I might say. Civil litigation was once a last-resort remedy to settle limited disputes and quarrels, but recent years have brought a litigation explosion. The number of civil lawsuits has increased since the 1960s and has gripped the American citizens and small businesses with a fear of costly and unwarranted lawsuits.

The threat of abusive litigation is forcing businesses to settle frivolous claims, rather than to go through the expensive and time-consuming process of defending lawsuits from the discovery process all the way to trial. This is, in essence, legal blackmail and needs to be stopped.

While it costs the plaintiff only a little more than a small filing fee to begin a lawsuit, it costs much more for a small business to defend against it, jeopardizing its ability to survive. LARA tells those attorneys who are intent on filing a lawsuit to take the responsibility to review the case and make sure it is legitimate before filing, or be ready for sanctions.

I would like to thank the gentleman from Texas, the chairman of the Subcommittee on Intellectual Property, for having prepared this legislation and moved it forward as he has. I urge my colleagues to support this legislation and oppose the substitute amendment.

Mr. SCHIFF. Mr. Chairman, before I recognize my colleague from Texas, I want to respond to a couple of points made by my other colleagues from Texas; that is, comparing the strength and applicability than the one that is proposed by the base bill. In fact, when you ask the judges who have operated under both systems, the one that is proposed by the substitute, the courts were quite clear that the earlier form of Rule 11, which we would go back to in the base bill, spawned a cottage industry where someone would file a Rule 11 motion, then in the opening count would file a Rule 11 motion on the Rule 11 motion, and then you would have litigation over whose Rule 11 motion should succeed.

In fact, in 1993, the Judicial Conference remarked that the amended rule since 1993, since we got away from what the base bill would take us back to has demonstrated a marked decline to Rule 11 satellite litigation without any noticeable increase in the number of frivolous filings.

Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Texas (Mr. GENE GREEN).

Mr. GENE GREEN of Texas. Mr. Chairman, I thank my colleague from California for yielding me time.

I rise in opposition of H.R. 420 and in support of the substitute.

This bill would not do anything to reduce frivolous lawsuits. In fact, my concern about it is it is unnecessary, and it will infringe on States being able to manage their own court systems.

Rule 11 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure was amended in 1993 to its current state because it was being abused by defendants in civil rights cases who filed a series of Rule 11 motions to harass the men and women who challenged discrimination.

Until now there has been no demonstrated problems with the current version of the rule. Usually this type of change in civil procedure goes through a process of the Rules Enabling Act. This is instantly expedited to circumvent the United States Judicial Conference and the United States Supreme Court. We have taken it upon ourselves to decide what is best for the judicial system.

The Lawsuit Abuse and Reduction Act would amend Rule 11 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure and revert back to that pre-1993 status. By doing this, again, we take away States’ discretion to impose sanctions on improper and frivolous filings.

This would eliminate the current safe harbor provision, permitting the attorney to withdraw improper frivolous motions within 21 days after they have been challenged by an opposing counsel. Additionally, this bill dictates where plaintiffs can file a personal injury lawsuit against a corporation in a State court. Do we really want to get into the jurisdictional battles in our State courts?

Reverting back to the previous Rule 11 would make people less likely to challenge unjust laws because they are putting themselves at risk for being harassed. At the time some people thought the RICO Act and the Board of Education v. Pico case was a frivolous lawsuit, but it did not look like it had a chance until the Supreme Court recognized that separate was not equal.

If we had this strict version of Rule 11 back then, maybe Brown v. Board of Education would have never made it to the Supreme Court.

This bill is another example of Congress intruding on States’ rights. Our system of government is designed to keep our judicial system separate, particularly our State judicial system.

We simply do not have the right to tell our judges and judges across the Nation how to enforce sanctions in their courtrooms or where the plaintiff may file a lawsuit in the State courts.

Mr. SCHIFF. Mr. Chairman, it gives me great pleasure to yield such time as she may consume to the gentlewoman from California (Ms. PELOSI), our minority leader.

Ms. PELOSI. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman for yielding me time, and I congratulate him and the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. KIND) for their leadership in proposing this good Democratic substitute.

Mr. Chairman, here we go again. The madness continues. Once again, the Republican leadership is putting together a really excellent substitute to get rid of loopholes in the Republican bill that favors big corporate interests and foreign corporations and to protect civil rights claims.

We all agree that if there are frivolous lawsuits, those who bring them should pay a price. That we will have three-strikes-you-are-out for doing that is a very important provision in the substitute and seeks to stop the madness that exists on the floor of this House when it is used as a venue to promote the special interests in our country.

We must stand up for the American people. No, not for the politically connected cronies who are getting a no-bid contract. Let us take a stand to end this culture of cronyism and corruption. Let us get back to the real issues that are affecting the American people.

We must vote for the substitute and send this bill back to ensure that no one who defrauds the American people during natural disasters is ever permitted to take undue advantage of our legal system.

We must, again, stop the madness by voting for the substitute that the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. KIND) and the gentleman from California (Mr. SCHIFF) have proposed. It has very excellent provisions and is worthy of the support of our colleagues.

Mr. SCHIFF. Mr. Chairman, I have no further speakers, and I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. SMITH of Texas. Mr. Chairman, I believe I have the right to close, and I am the remaining speaker on this side, so I will reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. SCHIFF. Mr. Chairman, I just have a parliamentary inquiry. Does my colleague have the opportunity to close or does the offerer of the amendment?

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Texas (Mr. SMITH) has the right to close the debate.

Mr. SCHIFF. Mr. Chairman, I know my colleague will close very well. How much time do I have remaining?

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from California (Mr. SCHIFF) has 3 minutes remaining, and the gentleman from Texas (Mr. SMITH) has 12 minutes remaining.

Mr. SCHIFF. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

In my concluding comments I want to reiterate some of the points that have been made with respect to the civil rights provisions and quote from the testimony of Professor Theodore Eisenberg, who testified before the House Committee on the Judiciary in the 108th Congress and said: ‘‘A Congress considering reinstating the fee-shifting aspect of Rule 11 in the name of addressing purported abuse in an area of law, personal injury tort, for which we have less abuse than other areas.’’

I would also like to cite the testimony of the Honorable Robert L. Carter, U.S. District Judge for the Southern District of New York when he stated: ‘‘I have no doubt that the Supreme Court’s opportunity to pronounce separate schools inherently unequal in Brown v. Board of Education would have been delayed for a decade had my colleagues and I been required, as a result of potential sanctions, to plead our legal theory explicitly from the start.’’

We do not want to put off a Brown v. Board of Education civil rights case like that for a decade because of a Rule 11 substitute that has been rejected by the Federal courts already.

The language in the substitute makes it clear that neither the sanctions approach we have taken in the substitute nor the sanctions approach taken in the base bill would apply in civil rights cases; and while there is some language of suggestion in the base bill, it is not definitive.

In fact, the NAACP wrote in respect to the language in the base bill: ‘‘While language nominally intended to mitigate the damage that this bill will cause to civil rights cases has been added, it is vague and simply insufficient in addressing our concerns.’’

So on the basis of a need not to chill civil rights litigation, which I think we have only seen the greater importance with, as Katrina ripped off the veneer of poverty and inequality in the country once again for all to see, as we consider that the base bill would implement a change that the courts themselves have rejected and found spawned a cottage industry in meritless Rule 11 litigation, and as the base bill has a stronger and I think more sensible three-strikes-and-you’re-out provision, I would urge my colleagues to support the Democratic substitute in preference to the flawed base bill.

Mr. Chairman, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. SMITH of Texas. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, the gentlewoman from California who spoke previously to the gentleman from California who just finished used a couple of words that I would like to reiterate. She used the word ‘‘madness,’’ but anyone listening to this debate or anyone having a firsthand knowledge of frivolous lawsuits knows that the real madness is the piling of thousands of frivolous lawsuits across this country that unfairly tarnish the reputations of innocent citizens, that unfairly destroy the businesses of small business owners across our country. That is the type of madness that this bill addresses.

She also used the phrase “special interests,” but again, I think anyone listening to this debate today and anyone knowing firsthand the agony and the losses and the destruction caused by frivolous lawsuits realizes that the special interests that this bill hopes to protect are really the special interests of the American people who have suffered and staggered and been burdened by frivolous lawsuits too many times and much too often in our history.

The special interests, if there are any, involved in this legislation again are obvious to those who listened to the debate, and the trial lawyers of America. Mr. Chairman, let me take a minute here just to dwell on that subject because I happen to believe the vast majority of trial lawyers or personal injury lawyers are honorable people and they are members of an honorable profession.

I think one of the aspects of the debate that most troubles me is, in fact, the lack of sanctioning lawyers who engage in frivolous lawsuits by the Trial Lawyers of America. Their own code of conduct reads as follows: “No ATLAC member shall fail or maintain a frivolous suit, issue or motion.” We checked and not a single member of the Trial Lawyers Association, not a single lawyer, had been sanctioned in the last 2 years; and, in fact, no one can even tell us when the last time any attorney was sanctioned for filing a frivolous lawsuit.

I think the trial lawyers would have a lot more credibility on this subject if, in fact, they had monitored their own ranks and, in fact, had sanctioned just a single trial lawyer for filing one of those tens of thousands of frivolous lawsuits that they have filed.

That, as I say, is discouraging; and I hope the Trial Lawyers of America will see fit in the future to sanction some attorney somewhere, somehow who has filed a frivolous lawsuit.

Mr. Chairman, anyone who is worried about what frivolous lawsuits will do to them, their family, their friends or their businesses ought to oppose this substitute amendment. It is an amendment that is very little to prevent frivolous lawsuits. The underlying bill, however, will deter lawyers from filing those frivolous lawsuits.

Let me give some examples of actual suits that are frivolous, but that would be allowed under the Democratic substitute amendment.

A New Jersey man filed suit against Gallaway Township School District claiming that assigned seating in a school lunchroom violated his 12-year-old daughter’s right to free speech.

An Arizona man filed suit against his hometown after he broke his leg sliding into third base during a softball tournament.

An Alabama person sued the school district after his daughter did not make the cheerleading squad, claiming that the coach incorrectly fired her, causing her humiliation and mental anguish.

The families of two North Haven, Connecticut, sophomores filed suit because of the school’s decision to drop the students from the drum majorette squad.

A Pennsylvania teenager sued her cell phone manufacturer, claiming that a hot pickle dropped from a hamburger burned her chin and caused her mental injury.

A Michigan man filed suit claiming that television ads that showed Bud Light as the source of fantasies involving tropical settings and beautiful women caused him physical and mental injury, emotional distress, and financial loss.

A woman sued Universal Studios trying to get damages because the theme park’s haunted house was too scary.

In every one of these instances and in thousands of others, the individuals sued were forced to spend considerable amounts of money, time and effort to defend themselves. This is a travesty of justice, and it is simply wrong.

H.R. 420 will end the filing of frivolous lawsuits. Unfortunately, the substitute amendment will still allow small businesses, churches, schools, hospitals, sports leagues, cities and others to be burdened with these meritless and frivolous claims.

This substitute amendment provides no disincentive to file a frivolous lawsuit. It would still subject small business owners to the cost of frivolous lawsuits and subject individuals to the cost of rising insurance premiums and health care costs that result from frivolous lawsuits.

In other words, Mr. Chairman, this substitute amendment does not provide any relief to those who would be unfairly targeted by frivolous lawsuits. The underlying bill would.

The substitute includes no real consequences for the attorney who repeatedly files frivolous lawsuits. The underlying bill does.

The substitute includes nothing to address the problem of forum shopping which is also a large part of the problem. The underlying bill does.

Mr. Chairman, I urge my colleagues to oppose the substitute amendment and vote “yes” on the underlying bill, which, in fact, would deter lawsuit abuse.

Mr. Chairman, I yield back the balance of my time.
The committee amendment in the nature of a substitute, as amended, was agreed to.

The CHAIRMAN. Under the rule, the Committee rises.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under the rule, the previous question is ordered.

Is a separate vote demanded on the amendment to the committee amendment in the nature of a substitute adopted by the Committee of the Whole? If not, the question is on the committee amendment in the nature of a substitute.

The committee amendment in the nature of a substitute was agreed to.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under the rule, the question is on the engrossment and third reading of the bill.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed and read a third time, and was read the third time.

MOTION TO RECOMMIT OFFERED BY MR. BARROW. Mr. Speaker, I offer a motion to recommit.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The motion to recommit the bill of Mr. BARROW to the Committee on the Judiciary was rejected.

Mr. Speaker, if bills in this Chamber required names that accurately describe their consequences, this bill would best be called the Frivolous Litigation Proliferation Act and not the Lawsuit Abuse Reduction Act.

Many of us who oppose the underlying bill do so because it will actually create, not decrease, the very litigation it seeks to fix this is to make it harder for everyone to sue anyone, and that this bill is the only way to do it, then vote for the bill.

But if there is one area where we do not have a problem with too many frivolous lawsuits, it is with lawsuits against price gougers. And if there is any area where we want to make it easier to get to the bottom of the underlying claim, not harder, it is an area of lawsuits against Federal contractors who are engaged in defrauding the public.

Right now the government is awash in government contracts awarded on a no-bid basis. Whether it is disaster relief or the war on terror, we have never done so much of the public’s business on a no-bid basis. There has never been more opportunity for waste, fraud, and abuse in the conduct of the public’s business than right now.

This motion to recommit gives us one opportunity to protect our constituents from price gougers. The motion to recommit is simple. It says that Federal contractors, engaged in price gouging in disaster relief work can still be sued anywhere where they can be sued now, in any State where both the laws of the State and the U.S. Constitution says it is okay to sue them.

The underlying bill gives price gougers extra protections, the same benefits that we are extending to honest corporations. One such protection, the only benefit that one can obtain from this motion to

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE CHAIRMAN

The CHAIRMAN (during the reading). Members are advised there are 2 minutes remaining in this vote.

Mr. SOUDER, Ms. ZOE LOFGREN of California, Ms. DeGETTE, and Mr. NUSSELLE changed their vote from "aye" to "no."

Mr. MURTHA changed his vote from "no" to "aye."

So the amendment in the nature of a substitute was rejected.

The result of the vote was announced as above recorded.

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the committee amendment in the nature of a substitute, as amended.
Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. Speaker, I just received a statement from the executive office of the President which I would like to read, because it provides a good summary of H.R. 420, the Lawsuit Abuse Reduction Act of 2005. This statement reads as follows:

The administration supports House passage of H.R. 420 in order to address the growing problem of frivolous litigation. H.R. 420 would rein in the negative impact of frivolous lawsuits on the Nation’s economy by establishing a strong disincentive to file such suits in Federal and State courts. Junk lawsuits are expensive to fight and often force innocent small businesses to pay exorbitant costs to make these claims go away. These costs hurt the economy, clog our courts, and are burdening the American businesses of America. The administration believes the bill is a step in the right direction toward the goal of ending lawsuit abuse.

Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues to oppose this absolutely irrelevant motion to recommit and support the underwriting bill.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. HASTINGS of Washington). Without objection, the previous question is ordered to be laid upon the table.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question under consideration is the passage of H.R. 420 in order to address the growing problem of frivolous lawsuits on the Nation.

The vote was taken by electronic device, and there were—aye 196, no 217, not voting 20, as follows:

Aye—196

ARGUED VOTE

Mr. BARROW. Mr. Speaker, I demand a recorded vote.

A recorded vote was ordered.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 8 and clause 9 of rule XX, H.R. 420 would rein in the negative impact of frivolous lawsuits on the Nation, the administration believes the bill is a step in the right direction toward the goal of ending lawsuit abuse. Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues to oppose this absolutely irrelevant motion to recommit and support the underwriting bill. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. HASTINGS of Washington). Without objection, the previous question is ordered to be laid upon the table.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question under consideration is the passage of H.R. 420, this 15-minute vote on the motion to reconvene. First, nothing in the motion to reconvene. Second, nothing in the motion to reconsider. Third, nothing in the motion to reconsider. And limited motion to reconsider.

For that reason I urge my colleagues to support this commonsense and limited motion to recommit. Mr. SMITH of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to the motion to recommit. The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Texas (Mr. SMITH) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. SMITH of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I oppose this completely irrelevant motion to reconsider. First, nothing in H.R. 420, the Lawsuit Abuse Reduction Act, prohibits anyone from being sued to fraud the full extent of Federal law. Second, the motion to reconsider relates to contract claims when the section of the bill that it modifies relates only to personal injury claims.

There is no flaw in the bill that needs to be corrected, but even if there were, the motion to recommit fails to correct it because it relates to contract claims rather than personal injury claims.

Mr. Speaker, I just received a statement: a legislative action policy from the executive office of the President which I would like to read, because it provides a good summary of H.R. 420, the Lawsuit Abuse Reduction Act of 2005. This statement reads as follows:

The administration supports House passage of H.R. 420 in order to address the growing problem of frivolous litigation. H.R. 420 would rein in the negative impact of frivolous lawsuits on the Nation’s economy by establishing a strong disincentive to file such suits in Federal and State courts. Junk lawsuits are expensive to fight and often force innocent small businesses to pay exorbitant costs to make these claims go away. These costs hurt the economy, clog our courts, and are burdening the American businesses of America. The administration believes the bill is a step in the right direction toward the goal of ending lawsuit abuse.

Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues to oppose this absolutely irrelevant motion to recommit and support the underwriting bill.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. HASTINGS of Washington). Without objection, the previous question is ordered to be laid upon the table.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question under consideration is the passage of H.R. 420, this 15-minute vote on the motion to reconvene. First, nothing in the motion to reconvene. Second, nothing in the motion to reconsider. Third, nothing in the motion to reconsider. And limited motion to reconsider.

For that reason I urge my colleagues to support this commonsense and limited motion to recommit. Mr. SMITH of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to the motion to recommit. The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Texas (Mr. SMITH) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. SMITH of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I oppose this completely irrelevant motion to reconsider. First, nothing in H.R. 420, the Lawsuit Abuse Reduction Act, prohibits anyone from being sued to fraud the full extent of Federal law. Second, the motion to reconsider relates to contract claims when the section of the bill that it modifies relates only to personal injury claims.

There is no flaw in the bill that needs to be corrected, but even if there were, the motion to recommit fails to correct it because it relates to contract claims rather than personal injury claims.

Mr. Speaker, I just received a statement: a legislative action policy from the executive office of the President which I would like to read, because it provides a good summary of H.R. 420, the Lawsuit Abuse Reduction Act of 2005. This statement reads as follows:

The administration supports House passage of H.R. 420 in order to address the growing problem of frivolous litigation. Motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

Stated for:

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.
The SPEAKER pro tempore announced the name of the Member who would be permitted to solicit votes on the request under consideration, and announced the result of the vote as recorded.

So the motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

EXTENDING SPECIAL POSTAGE STAMP FOR BREAST CANCER RESEARCH

Ms. FOXX. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that the Committee on Government Reform, the Committee on Energy and Commerce, and the Committee on Armed Services be discharged from further consideration of the Senate bill (S. 37) to extend the special postage stamp for breast cancer research for 2 years, and ask for its immediate consideration in the House.

The Clerk read the title of the Senate bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentlewoman from North Carolina?

There was no objection.

The Clerk read the Senate bill as follows:

"Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That section 3 of title 39, United States Code, is amended by striking "2005" and inserting "2007.""

Mr. TOM DAVIS of Virginia. Mr. Speaker, S. 37, authored by Senator Feinstein of California, extends the special postage stamp for breast cancer research for 2 years.

Eight years ago, the Breast Cancer Research Stamp Program was established. In 1995, Rep. Fazio, and in 1996, Rep. Fazio introduced the first postal bill, H.R. 3401, the Breast Cancer Research Stamp Act. He was subsequently joined in this effort by Senator Feinstein when she introduced identical legislation in the Senate the same year.

Finally Mr. Speaker, on behalf of the Committee on Government Reform, I would like to thank Chairman JOE BARTON of the Commerce Committee and Chairman DUNCAN HUNTER of the Armed Services Committee for their committee's share jurisdiction with the Government Reform Committee over this program for their support and for agreeing to expedite the consideration of this bill.

Mr. DAVIS of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, as a member of the House Government Reform Committee, I am pleased to join my colleagues in the consideration of S. 37, legislation extending the special postage stamp for breast cancer research for 2 years. This measure, which was sponsored by Representative DIANNE FEINSTEIN when she introduced identical legislation in the Senate the same year.

We owe our interest in semipostal stamps to Dr. Emie Bodhai, chief of surgery at the Kaiser Permanente Medical Center in Sacramento, California, and former Representative Vic Fazio. Dr. Bodhai took his idea for a special breast cancer research fundraising stamp to Representative Fazio, and in 1996, Rep. Fazio introduced the first postal bill, H.R. 3401, the Breast Cancer Research Stamp Act. He was subsequently joined in this effort by Senator Feinstein when she introduced identical legislation in the Senate the same year.

The following year, the Breast Cancer Research Act, (Public Law 105-41) authorized a special Semi-postal stamp for first-class mail. The price of this class stamp is 45 cents, 8 cents above the regular rate of 37 cents. The authority to issue this stamp expires on December 31, 2005. S. 37, which was cosponsored by 68 members of the U.S. Senate would extend the program until December 31, 2007.

Sale of the Breast Cancer Semi-Postal stamp, first issued in 1998, has raised more than $44 million for breast cancer research from more than 650 million stamps. By law, 70 percent of the net amount raised is given to the National Institutes of Health, and 30 percent to the Medical Research Program at the Department of Defense.

We owe our interest in semipostal stamps to Dr. Emie Bodhai, chief of surgery at the Kaiser Permanente Medical Center in Sacramento, California, and former Representative Vic Fazio. Dr. Bodhai took his idea for a special breast cancer research fundraising stamp to Representative Fazio, and in 1996, Rep. to reflect on what is being done in the way of raising funds. In 2000, GAO determined that the Postal Servicedid not have sufficient data and an effective and appropriate way to fundraise. The GAO also determined that the Postal Service do more to recover its costs associated with the breast cancer research stamp program.

...participate directly in raising money for needed research. Stamp. Through the sale of this stamp, we are raising awareness.

Mr. Speaker, every two minutes, a woman in the U.S. is diagnosed with breast cancer. And, excluding cancers of the skin, breast ...woman’s life every 13 minutes in the United States.

...that men get breast cancer too. According to the American Cancer Society, about 1200 new cases of breast cancer are diagnosed in American men each year.

Breast cancer is the leading cancer among white and African-American women. However, African-American women are more likely to die from this disease. And the incidence of breast cancer in women has increased from 1 in 20 in 1960 to 1 in 7 today.

Annually, nearly $7 billion is spent on the treatment of breast cancer. All the more reason to support the Breast Cancer Semipostal Stamp. Through the sale of this stamp, we are able to raise awareness of this disease and participate directly in raising money for needed research.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to thank Chairman Tom Davis and Ranking Member Henry Waxman, as well as the chairmen and ranking members of the House Energy and Commerce and Armed Services Committees for moving quickly to get S. 37 to the House floor. It is wonderful to be able to approve this bill now, given that October is designated as “Breast Cancer Awareness Month.”

I urge the swift passage of this bill.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of S. 37, Senator Feinstein’s companion bill to my H.R. 312. This bill authorizes the Breast Cancer Research Stamp through 2007. Without this legislation, this successful program would end this year.

October is Breast Cancer Awareness Month. As it comes to a close it is important to reflect on what is being done in the way of prevention and treatment of breast cancer.

Senator Feinstein and I have proposed to extend the deadline of the Breast Cancer Research Stamp, so that it will be available for purchase for two more years.

Senator Feinstein and I have been collaborating to bring awareness to this ever-present disease and to help doctors and scientists fighting against it. I want to thank her for her unwavering dedication.

I also want to thank Dr. Ernie Bodhai, who developed the idea of the Breast Cancer Research Stamp and who has brought national awareness to breast cancer.

Dr. Bodhai inspired me to help support the Breast Cancer Research Stamp back when I served in the California State Assembly.

Senator Feinstein and I introduced this bill for one reason: to save lives.

We have closed together to pass this important bill so researchers can gain more insight on the disease and in turn, prevent tragedies.

This year more than 200,000 women and men will be diagnosed with breast cancer. More than 40,000 Americans will die from this disease this year.

Breast cancer is the most commonly diagnosed cancer among women in every major ethnic group in the United States.

It does not discriminate. Whether you are white, black, Hispanic or whatever your race or ethnicity. Everyone is at risk.

More than two million women are living with breast cancer in America today, yet one million of them have not been diagnosed.

Breast cancer is a leading killer of American women. The disease claims another woman’s life every 13 minutes in the United States.

That is why it is so important to increase funding for breast cancer research—and why we must continue sales of the stamp.

The Breast Cancer Research Stamp is among the most successful commemorative stamps of all time with 637 million stamps sold.

The stamp program has generated over 47 million dollars for breast cancer research. It has been a critical ally in generating the resources necessary to wage war on this terrible disease.

The stamp is a “semi-postal” stamp that can be voluntarily purchased by the public for 45 cents.

For each stamp sold, 8 cents goes to the National Institutes of Health and the Department of Defense Breast Cancer Research Program.

Working with Dr. Bodhai, Senator Feinstein introduced the Breast Cancer Research Stamp bill in 1998 to help support the fight against breast cancer.

I am proud that Californians continue to lead the way in stamp purchases, providing roughly 21 percent of the money raised nationwide.

I ask my colleagues to support the Breast Cancer Research Stamp and all the women and men who will benefit from the money the stamp raises.

Senator Feinstein and I have the support of 153 Members of Congress and 69 Senators who cosponsored the bills and of countless organizations like the American Cancer Society, the American Medical Association, the Breast Cancer Fund, WIN Against Breast Cancer, and the Susan G. Komen Breast Cancer Foundation.

By supporting reauthorization of this stamp, you are not only helping research but you are also helping to raise awareness.

Think about it! A customer purchases the stamp, a carrier delivers it, and a person receives it. That is three people who have seen the message saying: “breast cancer needs to be stamped out!”

Each time we use the stamp we raise additional funds for research and we send a message of hope that we will find a cure.

The Senate bill was ordered to be read a third time, was read the third time, and passed, and a motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD

Ms. FOXX. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on S. 37.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentlewoman from North Carolina?

There was no objection.

PRAISING THE HOUSE LEADERSHIP

(Mrs. BLACKBURN asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Mrs. BLACKBURN. Mr. Speaker, I rise tonight to say thank you to our leadership, to Speaker HASTERT, to Mr. BLUNT, to Ms. PRICE, to commend them for working through fiscal responsibility, budget control, for making it a priority and for standing firm as we move forward to reconciliation on the budget for this next fiscal year.

I also want to commend our committee chairmen who are working hard to find the savings that are necessary to reduce what the Federal Government spends. They are holding markups, hearings, working through this process; and they are focused. Our membership is focused.

The committee chairmen are to be commended for that work, and through this process the winners are going to be the American people. We are doing what they want, reining in government spending, being better stewards of their tax dollars. We have got a long way to go in the process, and the winners are the American people. We are cutting back and terminating over 98 programs. These are first steps to economic stability and fiscal responsibility.

NATIONAL LEAGUE CHAMPION

Houston Astros

(Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, the Houston Astros gave the State of Texas and the city of Houston one heck of a good ride. I just want to hold a little red card in my hand for lack of anything red this afternoon to be able to thank the Astros family, Drayton McLane, all of the players, the management, all the staff at Minute Maid Park, to be able to say a big thank you for a long, tedious season, but a hard-fought season. My hat is off.
Congratulations to the Chicago White Sox. But our little team of 42 years for the first time in the history of the State of Texas took Texas to the World Series. Not only did we take Texas to the World Series, but being in my congressional district, the Minute Maid Park, are my constituents, among many others. We gave our community just a heck of a lot of joy, as you heard the buzz going around the children, the young people, the elderly, season ticket holders and others. I cannot speak enough of the Astros enough.

We still believe. We may not have made it this time around, but we still believe in the Houston Astros.

UNIFORM BUILDING CODES

(Mrs. SCHMIDT asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Mrs. SCHMIDT. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to address an issue that is of great concern to me, the prudent spending of our precious Federal tax dollars. In an ever-difficult budget environment, we need to be more vigilant in determining how these funds are spent.

So far Congress has provided $61 billion in Federal funds for the recovery of the gulf coast. As we turn our attention to helping rebuild this area, any Federal funds for rebuilding should be spent in a modern, uniform statewide building code. Did you know that Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama do not have statewide building codes?

Today I will introduce a sense of Congress resolution that Louisiana, Mississippi, and Alabama should adopt modern, uniform statewide building codes so that their rebuilding is, quite frankly, up to code. Every other State on the eastern seaboard already has similar codes. The Gulf Coast States should, too.

I urge my colleagues to support this resolution. Quite frankly, it is a must.

SPECIAL ORDERS

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. HASTINGS of Washington). Under the Speaker’s announced policy of January 4, 2005, and under a previous order of the House, the following Members will be recognized for 5 minutes each.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from North Carolina (Mr. JONES) is recognized for 5 minutes.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from North Carolina (Mr. JONES) is recognized for 5 minutes.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from North Carolina (Mr. JONES) is recognized for 5 minutes.

PROTECT THE AMERICAN PEOPLE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Oregon (Mr. DEFAZIO) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. DEFAZIO. Mr. Speaker, I have taken the floor previously to talk about the shortcomings of the administration’s efforts in the area of homeland security.

As an expert in aviation security, I have witnessed the fact that the Republican majority and the White House have seen fit to arbitrarily cut the number of screeners, which not only causes obvious inconvenience for passengers, but it creates the potential for security threats as the smaller number of screeners means the pressure to process a large number of people in a short period of time. And they are being asked to do it with 1980s equipment.

Now, you can do it one of two ways. You can have a lot of people with crummy equipment or a few people with state-of-the-art equipment. This administration is trying to do it on the cheap without enough people and with obsolete equipment that cannot detect plastic explosives at lower checkpoints and often in carry-on bags or checked baggage or cargo.

Our ports, I have talked about that, a tremendous vulnerability, not doing radiological detection. Nobody is going to stand up and acknowledge that. The failed Stars Wars system notwithstanding, but they may well try and smuggle in a nuclear device in a container. Our ports and our borders are wide open to such smuggling with just a very few deployed checkpoints.

But Katrina brought home another lesson, which is we need to be ready both for unnatural disasters, terrorist attacks and natural disasters. And there is a looming natural disaster that this administration has ignored, and that is the potential of H5N1 flu, the bird flu, so-called, should it become transmissible. It will be a massive loss of life. There is the potential of H5N1 flu, and it already infected and killed a number of humans at a rate of better than 50 percent in Asia last year, so last year in preparation for this they took some steps. They put more money in the budget for vaccines, antiviral drugs and basic research. Woo, yea for them.

But guess what? The total spending was $110 million, approximately half of what they spent on chastity education in America. That is how high this ideological administration put on the idea of protecting America against an influenza outbreak. They could spend almost as much money as they put together for abstinence-only education.

Now, that seems to be kind of a misplaced priority. Belatedly now they are talking about billions and accelerated research and stockpiling antiviral drugs. I gave a floor speech last summer calling upon the administration to begin to stockpile the drugs. Unfortunately, virtually every other country in the world is in line ahead of the United States of America, and the drugs are not manufactured here to buy those drugs, because those other countries have chosen to stockpile them to protect their people. Even though they do not work very well, they are the only thing we have now.

Now the administration is talking belatedly about a crash program to try to develop vaccines 2 or 3 or 4 years down the road in the hope that this crossover will not take place before then. This is yet another example of people planning by crisis administration; the fact that they created this huge new bureaucracy, the Department of Homeland Security, that failed so miserably when Katrina occurred.

And, oh, by the way, Brownie, you did a heck of a job. That hack who failed so miserably is still on the Federal payroll. Can you believe that? The guy is pulling down over $100,000 a year sitting over there having failed so miserably. The President cannot even get rid of him, let alone other political cronies in this administration.

And they are failing us in other areas of security that I referenced earlier, and they are failing the American people in this critical health care component.

Much more robust steps must be taken quickly. The clock is ticking. It is already perhaps very, very late. We can only hope that this virus does not evolve too quickly through nature, and I know this administration does not believe in evolution, but that is how viruses happen. They do evolve. All it needs is a couple of small changes, and it will be transmissible. It will be a pandemic. We need to do more to protect the American people.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. BURTON) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. BURTON of Indiana addressed the House. His remarks will appear hereafter in the Extensions of Remarks.

EXCHANGE OF SPECIAL ORDER TIME

Mr. DUNCAN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to claim the time of the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. BURTON). The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Tennessee?
EMINENT DOMAIN DISASTERS

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Tennessee (Mr. DUNCAN) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. DUNCAN. Mr. Speaker, you can never satisfy government’s appetite for land or money. They always want more.

Today the Federal Government has taken and controls over 30 percent of the land in this nation. States and local governments and quasi-governmental units have taken and control another 20 percent. Tremendous amounts of land in my home area of east Tennessee have been taken by numerous Federal agencies and departments. Not all of this is bad, but people in general have never been sensitive enough about taking other people’s property. They just do not seem to realize how much this can hurt a person or a family. In fact, very few people get concerned about this until it is their land or their home that is being taken.

Fortunately, this has not happened to me or my family, and I am not on some personal vendetta, but many people in east Tennessee have had this heartbreaking experience happen to them. These people were for the most part people like many of my ancestors, good, intelligent, hard-working people, often poor, often with not a lot of education, but people with common sense, and who often see in reality than the elitist do-gooders who came in and used the power of the Federal Government to take their homes.

To show how much this can hurt, I would like to: read a letter that was published in the Knoxville News this past Sunday from a man who no longer lives in my district, but whose family home was in my district. This is the letter from John Webb of Gainesville, Georgia, a man whom I have never met.

He wrote, “In the spring of 1964, there was a storm that hit Marion County, Tennessee, that resembled the recent storms of Katrina. It left behind people who were devastated and lives that were changed forever.” He says, “I was only 12 years old at the time and was on a camping trip with the Boy Scouts when I was told that I had to go to the hospital to see my father. There was a good possibility that he would not live through the night.

“The name of the storm was the Tennessee Valley Authority; my father had a stroke during a battle with the government agency which had condemned his farm of 110 acres on the Tennessee River.

“A panel of judges decided during the next 12 months of deliberation that the offer made by TVA to purchase my father’s farm for $250 per acre was indeed too low and that I should pay the outrageous sum of $400 per acre.”

“Court records show that the TVA experts stated under oath that this property had no present or future value as anything but farmland.”

Mr. Webb continues, “Even as my father lay in bed completely paralyzed on his left side from the stroke, unable to be present at proceedings, the court system granted TVA its wish, using the power of eminent domain.

“With the simple stroke of a pen, my father’s farm was gone, completely against his will.

“Left behind was a woman with two teenagers to raise, a husband who required 24-hour medical care at home, and a future that looked as bleak as those victims of the hurricanes.”

“For the next 3 years,” Mr. Webb writes, “we learned a lot about bed sores, bed pans, and what it was like for a once proud man to lose his health and his humility.

“My father finally succumbed to pneumonia, and my mother lived for another 20 years with the aid of family, friends and Social Security.

“I still wonder about how all of our lives would have been different if it had not been for the power of politics and money. John E. Webb of Gainesville, Georgia.”

Mr. Speaker, if we do not wake up and realize how important private property is both to our freedom and our prosperity, we are going to destroy our Nation. Politicians love to create parks, and this sounds so good, but when we continue to take more and more private property, we have to continually raise taxes on the property that remains in private hands, and we drive up prices on that remaining land. More and more young people cannot then afford homes, or they have to be jammed together in high-rises, condos or homes on postage-stamp-sized lots.

In addition, the government cannot and does not take as good care of land as private owners do.

We need to put more people in office who understand how hurtful it is when government takes property and takes people’s homes and farms, and we need to put more people in office who will pledge to take better care of the land government already has and stop government land grants and give poor and lower-income people a chance to own property and appreciate this very important part of the American dream.

To show how much this can hurt, I would like to: read a letter that was published in the Knoxville News this past Sunday from a man who no longer lives in my district, but whose family home was in my district. This is the letter from John Webb of Gainesville, Georgia, a man whom I have never met.

In Iraq, we have rehabilitated 2,700 schools, trained 36,000 secondary teachers. What do they do in America? They cut $806 million from our schools and education programs, $6 billion from our Pell grants and other higher education programs.

We funded 3,100 community development projects in Iraq; yet the community development project investment fund here in the United States, cut by $250 million.

We are investing in Iraq and trying to provide Iraq a future that we are denying the American people. I have no problem. We made a decision on Iraq. We have an obligation, but we do not have an obligation to cut back on America's future. There is no choice in the sense of American children and their future playing second fiddle to those who are in Iraq.

If you go through American history, every President in the middle of a war has thought about how do I make sure America is ready when we come back from that war and it ends? Abraham Lincoln, in the middle of the Civil War, thought of the land grant college systems. President Roosevelt during the middle of World War II thought of the GI bill. He signed it 11 months before the war came to an end. President Eisenhower, on the heels of Korea, funded the Interstate Highway System that built America and made it what it is today. President Kennedy, during the struggle of the Cold War and Vietnam, envisioned a man on the moon.

What does this President and what does this Congress offer America during the middle of the war on terrorism? Cuts in education, cuts in health care, cuts in our Corps of Engineers, cuts in the Coast Guard, $806 million from our education investments. It is time that public support for Ms. Miers has withdrawn her nomination to the United States Supreme Court. The stated reason had to do with executive privilege for legal advice she had given to the President that she did not want to reveal, but I do not think you need to be an expert tea leaf reader to see that public support for Ms. Miers' appointment, particularly among conservatives, was scarce, actually absent. As a result, Ms. Miers decided to step aside.

Perhaps there is a lesson here that we can apply to another initiative, an initiative of the White House that is rapidly losing public confidence. Two and-a-half years into the Iraq War, it could not be clearer that the President's policy is one with tragic consequences. It is time for the President to admit his mistake and change his course. Over 2,000 of our brave soldiers are dead. That is 2,000 too many.

HONORING THE MEMORY OF CINCINNATI, OHIO, NATIVE MARINE CAPTAIN TYLER SWISHER

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. Burgess) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. Burgess. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor the memory of a brave soldier who died in Iraq nobly defending our freedom and in the service of our country. Marine Captain Tyler Swisher was killed in a roadside bomb attack near Al Amariyah in Iraq on Friday, October 21.

Tyler is remembered as someone who overcame so many obstacles in his life. He was a small child, and as a child he struggled with a learning disability, but he would take on his school work with a gritty will of persistence, and he succeeded. He devoted himself to his work. Tyler's tough and determined style was something that he exhibited throughout his life.

In high school his small frame just wasn't cutting it. So he would train three times a week, an hour or two before school and an hour or two after school. He would run fast and far, and he would do more on the weekends. He would train his friend to do the same thing. Together they trained, and together they became a force.

Tyler's father, Captain John Swisher, is a Marine captain, and his fellow Marine, Captain Scott Widdicks.

Captain Widdicks is a Marine and a friend of Captain Swisher. What do they do in America? They cut $250 million.

We are investing in Iraq and trying to provide Iraq a future that we are denying the American people. I have no problem. We made a decision on Iraq. We have an obligation, but we do not have an obligation to cut back on America's future. There is no choice in the sense of American children and their future playing second fiddle to those who are in Iraq.

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD—HOUSE

The threat of terrorism has not diminished at all. We have lost respect and credibility with allies around the world. The insurgency remains as strong as ever and is further animated with every day that the American occupation continues.

We are pouring about $1 billion a week into this fiasco, and, by the way, the original rationale for fighting this war, weapons of mass destruction, turns out to be based on fabrications and distortions.

What is the President waiting for? How much worse does it need to get? How many more casualties must we endure?

Look, you do not have to take my word for it. The White House would like you to believe that opposition to the war exists on the fringes only, but the fact is that 66 percent of our people, two out of every three Americans, has a negative opinion of the way the President has handled Iraq. Apparently included in that two out of every three are former members of the administration and Bush family loyalists.

Colleen E. Wilkerson, who served as Colin Powell’s Chief of Staff at the State Department, recently went public with his misgivings. He talks about a dysfunctional national security policymaking process, with decisions made secretly by a Cheney-Rumsfeld cabal that was given free rein by a President who, as Wilkerson put it, “is not versed in international relations and not too much interested in them either.”

The latest issue of The New Yorker magazine features a profile of Brent Scowcroft, a close friend and advisor to the President’s father and mentor to Condoleezza Rice. Scowcroft was considered the hawk of the first President Bush security team but in this article he is frank about his disillusionment with the current Iraq policy. He notes that you cannot impose democracy by force, that the Iraq War is breeding terrorism, and that Saddam did not present a threat to the United States of America.

Mr. Speaker, it is time to bring the troops home, and I feel even more strongly on this point after traveling to Iraq a few weeks ago.

There is no shortage of ideas for possible exit strategies. For example, there are at least four good proposals right here on the floor of the House of Representatives, and on the other side of the Capitol, Senator Kerry and Senator Feinstein have offered specific plans.

I held a hearing just last month where a broad range of experts discussed ways we could end the occupation while keeping Iraq secure and helping its people rebuild their country.

There is an important conversation going on about these issues. It would be nice if the President joined in, but to immediately insist that we stay the course is at this point irresponsible, inhumane, and demeaning to the American people.

I know this President does not like to admit his mistakes, but maybe it is time to eat a little crow. I think a little bruised pride is a small price to pay if it means more Americans will not have to die.

Mr. Speaker, let us return Iraq to the Iraqi people and our soldiers home to their families.

LIMITING THE GULF REGION REDEVELOPMENT TAX BENEFITS

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. WOLF) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. WOLF. Mr. Speaker, every American was touched by stories of the people of the Gulf region who lost so much as a result of the recent hurricanes. The American people have responded with overwhelming compassion with record donations of cash, food and clothing, and Congress, too, has a role in helping the people and the region to rebuild.

However, as Congress begins its work on the hurricane tax incentive package to help the gulf region rebuild, it needs to recall its long history of limiting Federal tax breaks to certain businesses.

Regardless, what section of the Tax Code is used to spur reinvestment and revitalization in the Gulf region, Congress has limited the businesses that receive certain tax benefits. The history of targeting Federal tax breaks to certain businesses ought to continue.

This limitation makes sense, particularly in light of the tight budgets facing our Nation today. Congress’s history of limiting Federal redevelopment tax benefits goes back more than 20 years.

Federal law pertaining to tax exempt benefits of small bonds prohibits tax benefits from being extended to “any private or commercial golf course, country club, massage parlor, hot tub facility, suntan facility, racetrack or other facility used for gambling, or any other facility used for gambling, or any other facility used for gambling, or any other facility used for gambling, or any other facility used for gambling, or any other facility used for gambling.”

Just as Congress expressed concern about allowing Federal tax benefits to flow to less deserving businesses more than 20 years ago, Congress today should again be concerned about the same issue as it works to assemble the Gulf Opportunity Zone tax package.

As Congress considers cuts to Medicaid, food stamps, the student loan program, foster care, child support, and other programs to offset the cost of hurricane recovery, we must be sure that tax incentives only go to worthy businesses. Federal tax dollars should be focused on those who truly need the government’s help like the poor, vulnerable, and elderly.

I believe fair-minded Americans would support tax incentives to spur businesses to rebuild the hurricane-ravaged gulf coast to help victims there rebuild their lives; but I also believe the American people would draw the line, as Congress has historically done, in using taxpayer dollars to assist businesses such as massage parlors, casinos, golf courses, and liquor stores. Allowing gambling conglomerates, for example, which are reporting billion-dollar record profits to take advantage of tax breaks does not make sense. Gambling operators do not need any incentive to rebuild and according to press reports, have already vowed to come back “bigger and better” than before the hurricane.

Particularly when faced with tough budget choices, Congress ought not abandon its history of limiting tax benefits to more deserving businesses. Regardless of what section of the Tax Code is used to spur business investment in the region, bonds, Enterprise Zone tax credit zone, expensing and depreciation or any other tax incentive, Congress should target the limited Federal resources available to more deserving businesses.

Mr. Speaker, giving tax breaks to massage parlors, casinos, liquor stores and golf courses while we cut Federal programs for the less fortunate cannot be explained to the American people. Congress must be sure these tax benefits of the gulf rebuilding package do not go to massage parlors, casinos, liquor stores, and golf courses.

Every American was touched by stories of the people of the Gulf region who lost so much as a result of the recent hurricanes. The American people have responded with overwhelming compassion with record donations of cash, food and clothing. Congress, too, has a role in helping the people and region rebuild.

However, as Congress begins its work on the hurricane tax incentive package to help help the Gulf region rebuild, it needs to recall its long history of limiting the benefits of redevelopment tax breaks to certain businesses. Regardless what section of the tax code is used to spur reinvestment and revitalization in the Gulf region, Congress has limited the businesses that receive certain tax benefits. This history of targeting federal tax breaks to certain businesses ought to continue. This limitation makes sense, particularly in light of the tight budgets facing our nation today.

Congress’s history of limiting federal redevelopment tax breaks was back more than 20 years. Federal law pertaining to tax exempt benefits of small bonds prohibits tax benefits from being extended to any private or commercial golf course, country club, massage parlor, tennis club, skating facility (including roller skating, skateboard, and ice skating), racquet sports facility (including any handball or racquetball court), hot tub facility, suntan facility, or racetrack. (26 USC Sec. 144(a)(8)(B))

In the accompanying Senate committee report, the committee expressed concern with “the use of small issue industrial development bonds (IDBs) to finance a variety of types of facilities, from private recreational facilities to fast food restaurants, that generally may be less deserving of a federal credit subsidy than other types of facilities.” (Page 169 of Senate Report No. 97-494 for P.L. 97-248)

A few years later, in P.L. 99-514 Congress created qualified redevelopment bonds and expanded the list of businesses that would be prohibited from receiving tax benefits to include any private or commercial golf course, country club, massage parlor, hot tub facility, suntan facility, racetrack or other facility used for gambling, or any store the principal business of which is the sale of alcoholic beverages for consumption off premises. (26 USC Sec. 144(c)(6)(B)) When the Enterprise Zone tax structure was enacted, Congress once again prohibited the benefits from being extended to certain businesses following the limits laid out in 26 USC Sec. 144(c)(6)(B). (26 USC Sec. 1397c)

Just as Congress expressed concern about allowing federal tax benefits to flow to less deserving businesses more than 20 years ago, Congress today should again be concerned about the same issue as it works to assemble the Gulf Opportunity Zone tax package. As Congress considers cuts to Medicaid, food stamps, the student loan program, foster care, child support, and other social programs to offset the costs of hurricane recovery, we must be sure that tax incentives only go to worthy businesses. Federal tax dollars need to be focused on those who truly need the government’s help, like the poor, vulnerable and elderly.

I believe fair-minded Americans would support tax incentives to spur business reinvestment along the hurricane-ravaged Gulf coast to help victims there rebuild their lives. But I also believe they would draw the line—as Congress has historically done—in using taxpayer dollars to assist businesses such as massage parlors, casinos, golf courses and liquor stores. Allowing gambling conglomerates, for example—which are reporting billion dollar profits—to take advantage of tax breaks is senseless. Gambling operators don’t need any incentive to rebuild, and, according to press reports, have already vowed to come back “bigger and better” than before the hurricanes struck.

Particularly while faced with tough budget choices, Congress ought not abandon its history of limiting tax benefits to more deserving businesses. Regardless what section of the tax code is used to spur business investment in the region—bonds, enterprise zone tax credits, expensing and depreciation or any other incentive—Congress ought to keep its focus on the limited federal resources available to more deserving businesses. Giving tax breaks to massage parlors, casinos, liquor stores and golf courses while we cut federal programs for the less fortunate cannot be explained to the American people.

Congress must be sure these tax benefits of the Gulf rebuilding package do not go to the massage parlors, casinos, liquor stores and golf courses.

(Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California addressed the House. His remarks were addressed in the Extensions of Remarks.)

EXCHANGE OF SPECIAL ORDER TIME

Mr. DOGGETT. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to claim the time.

Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to claim the time. (Mr. DOGGETT is recognized for 5 minutes.)

Mr. DOGGETT. Mr. Speaker, it has been a long, long, long slog, whether measured by the milestones of life or the natural journey of life, cut short or completely sacrificed by this administration.

Over 2,000 FALLEN HEROES

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Texas (Mr. DOGGETT) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. DOGGETT. Mr. Speaker, it has been a long, long, long slog, whether measured in lives or limbs lost.

So many days with no real plan for peace, no real plan for security for our families, so many tears shed by too many families. Too little armor and too little equipment for those who were too quickly placed in harm’s way.

Over 2,000 fallen American heroes. Over 15,000 wounded Americans, and tens of thousands of Iraqi civilians who have died in this conflict. The administration is attempting to relieve itself from the duty to offer any strategy at all, even as it constantly recasts the purpose of its tragic go-it-alone invasion.

Like the President’s wishful, staged declaration of “Mission Accomplished” on that aircraft carrier 2% years ago, the Vice President blithely states that the insurgency is in its “final throes.” Well, each day’s news shows how out of touch he continues to be.

Beyond the power of any prosecutor, it is history that will indict this administration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Texas (Mr. PAUL) is recognized for 5 minutes.

(Mr. PAUL addressed the House. His remarks will appear hereafter in the Extensions of Remarks.)

EXCHANGE OF SPECIAL ORDER TIME

Ms. KAPTUR. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to claim the time. (Mr. PAUL addressed the House. His remarks will appear hereafter in the Extensions of Remarks.)

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Texas (Mr. PAUL) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Ms. KAPTUR. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to claim the time. (Mr. PAUL addressed the House. His remarks will appear hereafter in the Extensions of Remarks.)

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Ohio?

There was no objection.
EXXON'S EXTRAORDINARY PROFITS

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentlewoman from Ohio (Ms. KAPTUR) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Ms. KAPTUR. Mr. Speaker, tonight I would like to place on the RECORD the extraordinary profits of one corporation registered with the New York Stock Exchange by the name of Exxon.

Today, news reports indicate that Exxon, the world's largest publicly traded company, has posted the largest U.S. corporate profit in world history: nearly $10 billion. That is $10 billion in just 3 months.

We know where that money came from. It came from all of us. It came from the American people. Quarterly profits for Exxon are up 73 percent since last year. The revenue of this company alone will ring in at over $100 billion this year.

Now how big is $100 billion? Well, $100 billion is about one-quarter of what the U.S. Department of Defense spends in 1 year. But $100 billion is more than all of the following U.S. Departments spend in a year combined. The whole U.S. Department of Education, all of the student loans, all of the help for our schools and universities around the country, it is a drop in the bucket compared to the profits of Exxon.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, that is small potatoes compared to what Exxon earns.

The Department of Transportation, with all of those bridges across the United States that have to be fixed, some in rural areas, certainly in the big cities, crumbling infrastructure, well, Exxon's profits are a lot larger than the Department of Transportation spends in a year.

NASA, poor NASA, they only have about $10 billion a year to explore outer space and the heavens beyond us. If you add them all up: Department of Education, Environmental Protection Agency, Department of Transportation, and NASA, they do not equal the revenues of Exxon.

Now the interesting thing about Exxon, it is the world's largest publicly traded company, but it has a special deal. Guess where most of its oil comes from? Saudi Arabia. Have no doubt, with the special licensing agreement signed with that company, a lot of that money drawn off of this marketplace will go to the education of our children, it will not go to fix up our roads, it is not going to help clean up our environment, and it certainly will not take us as far as Saturn.

No, a lot of those dollars will be used to hire mercenaries to protect the Saudi oil interests, which is one of the major places this country imports petroleum from because we cannot figure out how to get it right here at home.

Mr. Speaker, $9.9 billion in one quarter. That is a lot of money, and where are those funds going to? If you did not put them in Exxon's pockets, think what they could do in your community. Take a program, a teeny program like the Senior Farmers' Market Nutrition Program, which spends not $9.9 billion, but $15 million a year. That is pocket change to Exxon. It gives little coupons to senior citizens across our country who cannot afford to pay the rising gas prices and cannot afford to pay their heating bills this winter. It gives them $20 a month in the summer to go to farmers' markets in their communities to purchase fresh fruits and vegetables. We cannot put it in all of the States. Only 28 States have this program, and not in every county.

But if you ever watch one of those senior citizens take one of those farmers' market coupons and stand in front of fresh fruits and vegetables and struggle with the decision of whether they are going to buy raspberries for the first time in 25 years, what is more important, Mr. Speaker, more profits for Exxon or a little bit to help the senior citizens of America who want to buy fresh fruits and vegetables?

So they literally buy it at the end of the day when the farmers reduce their price, and they turn it into soups and stews and put it in their freezers or their friends' freezers so they can have soups during the winter time made out of fresh vegetables that have been frozen.

Mr. Speaker, $9.9 billion. I am going to write a letter to the president of Exxon. I do not even know who the person is. I am going to ask if they would take $15 million out of the $9.9 billion in profits they just made to double the senior farmers' market nutrition program in our country. Would they even really miss it? How does Saudi Arabia use all of that money? And why do they need all of those mercenaries to protect their oil wells? Why is that country so unstable? Why do they have to take money out of our pockets through Exxon every single day?

It is really unbelievable that one corporation could make that much money off this marketplace in one quarter and Congress does nothing.

30-SOMETHING WORKING GROUP: CALLING FOR AN INDEPENDENT KATRINA COMMISSION

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under the Speaker's announced policy of January 4, 2005, the gentleman from Florida (Mr. MEEK) is recognized for 60 minutes as the designee of the minority leader.

Mr. MEEK. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Once again I am an honor to come before the House. As the Members know, the 30-Something Working Group, we come to the floor to bring about not only good change for the Congress, but also for the country. And we try to promote a democratic process on this side offering towards some of the issues that are facing the country, but at the same time talk about the responsibilities of the majority that are unmet.

Mr. Speaker, as the Members know, Hurricane Wilma hit not only my district, but many of the Florida delegation in southeast and southwest Florida. And we are struggling with trying to make sure that we can provide for our constituents. And we come to the floor week after week, especially the 30-Something Working Group, talking about what happened in Hurricane Katrina, the lack of response in any number of ways. And the Federal Emergency Management Agency, and also calling up House Resolution 3764, which has over 190 Democratic cosponsors. Unfortunately, last I checked, there are not any Republicans who have signed on to it, and that is very unfortunate because it is an identical commission to the 9/11 Commission that brought about great recommendations, some that have been met, others that we still have to make sure that we implement in our country. It was about not making the same mistake again, again, and again.

And that is the reason why we are calling for an independent Katrina Commission.

As that is a piece of legislation that is not a Democratic plan, but it is an American plan. Eighty-one percent of Americans support it, and I think it is very important that we do not allow partisan committees that have been established here in the House to dictate the response to natural disasters and a possible terrorist attack.

We have to make things better to protect Americans. It is almost like I feel like an insurance salesman saying that we have to have insurance not after the fact, but before the fact. And if we know we have shortcomings, then we need to deal with that in a very effective way.

Being an "evacuee" of Hurricane Wilma due to the fact that there is very little power in south Florida, there are gas lines, Mr. Speaker, I hold up here the front page of the Washington Post that has many people here in south Florida, as a matter of fact in West Palm Beach, standing for hours for gas because we could not get the generators running at Port Everglades to be able to pump the gas to allow many of the stations to have gas and power. These are things that we need to work on.

Governor Bush jumped in front of the train because folks were getting upset with the Federal response once again as it relates to getting the simple things like ice, water, and food down to the affected area. There was a lot of chest-beating prior to the storm, saying, we have 2,000 FEMA personnel in place; we have a set number of trucks to go in and provide ice water and food. And in many cases the Governor (Ms. WASSERMAN SCHULTZ) showed that either there were very few, trucks were extremely late like 8, 7 hours. People there just went through a major hurricane waiting 8, 7 hours just for 1 bag of ice and 3 jugs of water, and in some cases nothing showed up, and folks had to go back home.

That is why we need an independent commission. People on the other side do not know how to govern. They have been in charge in the White House, and they do not know how to govern. And we need to be prepared for not only natural disasters, but potential terrorist attacks to the United States of America.

And we need to do what we did with the 9/11 Commission, an independent commission, independent of all of the nonsense that happens in this body. And we need to know how to respond. And our kids and our grandkids are going to look back and say, when I was young, what did you do to look at this body and say, what have you done to prevent this? What have you done to improve the emergency management execution in the United States of America? And we are saying on record here five times a week something is wrong. If we are not going to have an independent commission, and the Republicans fail to have the proper oversight, then something is wrong. If we are not going to have an independent review of our capabilities, then something is wrong. If we are not going to have a commission hired by FEMA. And I think it is important that we look at it for what it is.

We do not have to have a commission for every natural disaster or event that takes place here in the United States, but we have a House resolution that, Mr. Speaker, will be part of a discharge petition here in the House, and I want to bring it up on the floor so that everyone understands what a discharge petition is.

Basically, we are using the rules of the House to call this resolution up to the floor to discharge it, and we need a said number of signatures to be able to pull it up on the floor so that the House can take a vote. And if we do not have some Members of the majority side to see fit to have an independent Katrina Commission that 81 percent of Americans are in approval of, then we are failing to meet our obligations.

We know that we have problems. The Department of Homeland Security telling people in my district to be patient 72 hours after the storm, saying, we will have the lights on. Well, that is the reason why we have it. We are supposed to be prepared for these events, but we are not, and we are not even willing to correct ourselves. So that is in place as it relates to the Democratic response.

Mr. RYAN of Ohio. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. MEEK of Florida. I yield to the gentleman from Ohio.

Mr. RYAN of Ohio. Mr. Speaker, I appreciate his yielding to me. Just so that those on the other side can become prepared for the potential terrorist attack that may very well happen in Wilma because of a lack of oversight. We have called for House bill H.R. 3383, a bill to create an antifraud commission to do exactly that and, obviously, do our job. And we have outlined why we have a need for this independent commission. I think it is important that we go back and explain what is actually happening here right now. We have been asking for this thing for how long now, months? Almost 2 months. We have been asking for an independent commission. We want to go back, Democrats and Republicans, and look at what happened with Katrina so that we can stop and prevent these things from happening again.

We are not doing a good job in this country of administering emergency services. And we have the Republicans in charge of the House and in charge of the Senate, in charge of the White House, in charge of FEMA, in charge of the whole executive branch, and we keep having these missteps and these failures, and no one is figuring out what is wrong. If we are not going to have an independent commission, because the committee down here that the Republicans have appointed only gives subpoena power to the Republicans. So we have the Republicans overseeing the Republicans. And I think we might as well pass an independent commission. We do not need officials to go back home.

We are by ourselves as it relates to calling for this independent commission. And the gentlewoman from Florida (Ms. Wasserman Schultz) and I were talking about an independent commission, and we have been going week after week here on this floor saying it is the responsible thing to do not only in natural disasters, but also in the aftermath of a terrorist attack. An independent commission will be able to look at the Federal response, the State response, and the local response, and they means that without having it, people will lose their lives possibly because of the lack of responsibility, because they definitely did in Katrina. We had people that were running out of medical supplies. We had people that needed insulin, could not get it because they were stranded and that we were not able to reach them. So I think that is very important.

There are a number of papers that have come out for an independent commission on Katrina: The USA Today; the Tennessean from Nashville, Tennessee; the News & Observer from Raleigh, North Carolina; also Capital Times, Madison, Wisconsin; the Atlanta Journal-Constitution in Georgia; the Courier-Journal in Louisville, Kentucky; the St. Petersburg Times in Florida; the Salt Lake Tribune in Utah; also the Denver Post in Colorado; and the San Antonio Express, obviously in Texas; and the Houston Chronicle of Texas.

There are a number of papers, and those are just the major ones, that have come out for an independent Katrina Commission.

We have talked about House Resolution H.R. 3764, but it relates to contracting fraud that may very well happen in Wilma because of a lack of oversight. We have called for House bill H.R. 3383, a bill to create an antifraud commission to prevent waste and fraud and abuse of Federal contractors as it relates to these emergency declarations or what have you. This is about saving money and making sure that we do not make the victims of a natural disaster or a potential terrorist attack victims all over again because we failed to have the proper oversight.

Mr. Speaker, I also want to add the fact that we have to continue to push. Once again I give the report. Every day
I go on the White House Website. I have the Website page here. No mention of an independent or any evaluation of what the failures were during Hurricane Katrina, and we also have the Website that has not changed on the partisan question. That is here in the House. I think it is important for us to identify that so that we do not have to continue to have Groundhog Day all over again.

One last point, Mr. Speaker, while we are on this issue here. The gentleman from California (Ms. Pelosi), we are trying to get this committee out of politics. Mr. Ryan of Ohio, Mr. Speaker. If the gentleman will yield, he is absolutely right. I think the gentleman makes a great point. This is important. This goes beyond Katrina. The independent commission that we want goes beyond Katrina.

We had a situation in Ohio a year or so ago where a potential terrorist was planning an attack in Columbus. You are in the middle of Ohio, it was something about a shopping mall. The gentleman was stopped and held, and I do not even know what the status is right now. But this was in Ohio. It is not just the Gulf States or Florida.

Katrina and the independent commission, these are all the editorials that have been written in support all over the country. I think a lot of the editorial boards understand what we are trying to say here, and they are being very supportive. We talked about an independent commission.

I want to read a little bit from the Houston Chronicle in Texas, a little bit of what they say about trying to fix the problem: "The most promising option is an independent commission to investigate the roots of the September 11 problem. This is great, because this puts a little meat on the bone. It should be headed by national figures of unassailable independence and credibility such as former President Jimmy Carter, former Secretary of State Colin Powell and retiring Supreme Court Justice Sandra Day O’Connor."

We are talking about Republicans, but just to be independent of the day-to-day politics that go on in this Chamber. I am saying that to see leadership needs to be compromised. This is an issue that has long-term ramifications, and we have an obligation.

We come here early in January every year and we put our hand on the Bible and we swear to do our best, but we have an obligation to make this government run effectively and efficiently. A lot of hard-working people pay a lot of tax dollars that come to us, and then we invest it to improve the quality of their lives.

Part of that is to make sure they are safe. So when we had all these problems with body armor, where their kids, their sons and daughters were going over, we wanted to make sure they have the proper body armor and the up-armedored Humvees; and we fought through the 30-something Group and the Democrats and put enough pressure on where we finally got that problem fixed. It is a whole other issue about why we went to war without the proper equipment.

But we have a responsibility here to make sure that this government runs efficiently. A component of that is emergency management services, which, as we found, became very apparent in the past few months. So we have this obligation; and we are trying the 30-something Group, the Democratic Party, the gentlewoman from California (Ms. Pelosi), we are trying to move this particular politics out of an independent commission, get Sandra Day O’Connor, get Colin Powell, get some good, solid Republicans who are going to be independent and do what is best for the country, because time and time again, unfortunately, my friend, the Republicans continue to prove their ineptness, their inability to govern; and we have a responsibility as the minority party, as the opposition party, to provide alternative views, and we want an opportunity to run the government.

We proved in 1993 with not one Republican vote that we could balance the budget and handle those difficult decisions, and that vote in particular led to the greatest economic expansion in the history of the United States of America.

Our friends on the other side are not only inept in trying to administer emergency services, they appoint all their cronies to the top positions in FEMA, all friends of friends of a college roommate who gives a lot to the Republican Party, which led to poor execution of emergency services. Their party, the Republican Party, took it to the other extreme and set a moral precedence for the people who govern this Chamber than the country, and they have proved that time and time again. Party over country. What the Democrats are trying to say is pick the country over the party. Mr. MEEK of Florida, Mr. Speaker, reclaiming my time, the gentleman is 110 percent right. I think every day Republicans want to see, and Democrats and Independents and even folks that are not voting in America, they want to see leaders. There is a leadership on behalf of the country. Veterans want to see the flag that they fought for and that some of their friends and comrades died for; that it is not caught up in what we call this tug-of-war of corruption and cronyism.

We want to talk about cronyism for a minute, Mr. Michael "Brownie," I am not one to say it is his fault as it relates to staying on with FEMA for 60 days, and then the Secretary of Homeland Security extends his contract at the salary he was making as director of FEMA for another 30 days.

The reason given for doing that is that we need to learn from Director Brown, or Brownie, the President calls him Brownie, we need to learn from him so that we can know more about what happened in Katrina. Now, if you could not get it in the first 60 days, he was only in charge for about maybe 5 or 7 days, thanks to the fact that we were using the Democratic Leader first called for his resignation because we saw that we had someone that did not have the experience.

The fact he is on for 60 days, the Secretary of the Department of Homeland Security, I am waiting to have a conversation with him on why he would extend it for 30 more days at taxpayers expense.

Now, folks went into their pockets and said, Well, we are going to help you to save another whole month. That is on them. I do not have a problem with that. I do have a problem with the fact that we are rewarding him in confidence and cronyism with the taxpayer dollar. Mr. MEEK of Florida. $148,000. Mr. Ryan of Ohio. $148,000. Talk about rewarding negative behavior. Do you do that with your kids? Your kids come home, they took a spelling test, got a D, do you throw them $20? Good job, Kendrick. Go out and get another one. That is what we are doing. We are reinforcing bad behavior.

Mr. MEEK of Florida. Mr. Speaker, reclaiming my time once again, well, I can tell you, the part that I am more concerned about is the fact that this is a high-profile individual within FEMA. What we have is one and only one basis with someone that really is not competent in Federal Government and is known to the managers? I guess it is okay, because when you think about the culture of corruption and cronyism, it comes from the top, then it must be okay. If it is all right with the Vice President, then it is okay. That means it is okay with the Department Secretaries and Under Secretaries and the regional directors. So that is the reason why we have to cut it off.

Mr. Speaker, do you know something? Not a mumbling word from the majority on this. Not a mumbling word. Better yet, we have folks coming to the floor, and we started talking about the needs to the needs of Americans saying we have to have offsets in Medicaid, we have got to have offsets in possible Medicare, that is not off the table.

What I mean by “offsets” is the fact we have got to take money from those programs to respond to the Katrina-Rita issue. We have to do that. But, better yet, we have an example of an individual that I think pretty much all Americans, and I am pretty sure that almost every Congresswoman, say this to the House, agree with the fact that he did not know exactly what he was doing.

I do not blame Mr. Brown. I do not blame him. I blame the individuals that placed him in that position. I blame the managers that saw that he was not up to par and endorsed lackluster, leave-alone performance, lack of competence in doing that particular job. He is probably good somewhere.

Mr. MEEK of Florida. Yes, “You are doing a good job, Brownie.” on national television, broad daylight. The world is watching.

Mr. RYAN of Ohio. The world is watching. You are not doing a good job. You are doing a bad job. In fact, you are fired. Get out. What do you mean, you are doing a good job.

Mr. MEEK of Florida. And we are going to give you a 60-day extension and have you on as a consultant, have you on so we can learn from your bad job. Maybe we can learn more. No, as a fat matter of fact, hey, you know, 60 days is not enough. Let us extend it 30 more.

Mr. RYAN of Ohio. Maybe their plan was this: they said we will keep Brownie on, pay him $148,000, and when there is a situation, we will go to Brownie and ask, what do you think we should do? He will tell you. Then do the common. Maybe that is precisely how they are using him, do you think?

Mr. MEEK of Florida. There are too many people around here paying taxes, folks running around here trying to put fiscal responsibility in the backdrop, saying we are conservatives. Meanwhile, the Secretary of the Department of Homeland Security is defending and extending contracts of a person that the front-page national publications and the public, and us, are not in any way knowing what to do in a natural disaster. So this is beyond comprehension. And not a mumbling word.

I would say this: I do not blame him. I am not running around here saying I am disappointed in Michael Brown for accepting a 30-day extension on a $140,000 salary. I am not blaming him. He could not do that on his own.

No one from the White House called and said, You know something? Over at the Department of Homeland Security, I think you all are probably not playing with a full deck if you think it is okay to do this. Not a mumbling word. So I am concerned, leave alone as a Congressman, as a taxpayer, that this is okay.

Now, this is just a high-profile case. We talk about corruption and cronyism, a culture. People think, well, wow, they are just saying that because they cannot see it. It is just an example, and we have been talking about this, and it has been in all of these publications, and they are still doing it, like it is okay.

The only people that can put this administration, set us on a new course and put this majority in check are the American people. But, unfortunately, they will not have an opportunity until late 2006, and on behalf of the country we cannot continue to sit idly by and watch this kind of activity take place.

I would feel a little uncomfortable saying that my colleagues on the majority side are not standing up to their responsibilities in oversight. The Secretary, the President, folks from down in south Florida from Wilma, should be called on the carpet in some committee room saying please let us know what we can learn from Mr. Brown. Please let us know what we can learn from the Director of FEMA. Why do we have to continue to pay him and use the taxpayers’ dollars? Someone needs to ask that question. It should be not only the Committee on Homeland Security; it should be congressional leaders calling and saying you need to reverse that.

So I do not feel uncomfortable about me being upset about this thing, because I can tell you right now, there are a number of people out there that are very upset; and it is time, it is time, that we cut out this culture of corruption and cronyism, especially in this culture of corruption and cronyism. I am concerned about taking people for face value when they say, well, this is what we have in place, and we find out later that it is really not.

I am concerned when we come to this floor and the clock opens up for 15-minute votes, and because the majority side is not prevailing or winning, they decide to hold the vote clock for 90 minutes. I am concerned about these events taking place under lights, cameras, and action.

Mr. MEEK of Florida. Mr. RYAN, I am concerned about those events that are taking place in the back halls of Congress, in the White House, and in other Federal agencies that are not under lights and cameras.

So this is the kind of boldness, cronyism, boldness and possible corruption in many places that takes place. And do not take it from me, just pick up your local paper or turn on the news. It is full of it. So if we do not hold ourselves in check, and if the majority is not willing to rise up and police this corruption and cronyism; be it the Speaker, the State trooper, and we had what they call a game warden, and I always used to say, the game warden cannot be the lead poacher. You cannot be leading off the poacher saying that I am in charge of the poachers. So I think it is important that we have folks that will lead up and say, you know something. I know I have been told to be quiet on this, but I have a constitutional responsibility to make sure that we have oversight.

These are not personal decisions, Mr. RYAN; these are decisions that are affecting the governance of this country. So when we allow this kind of stuff to go on, it is making the country weaker versus stronger, because the Federal tax dollars are being spent in ways that they should not be spent, and we are not saving any money by allowing this kind of corruption to continue.

Mr. RYAN of Ohio. Mr. Speaker, I think it really comes down to the fact that every decision that is made by this Congress, by the Republican-controlled Congress, by the Republican-controlled Senate, and by our Republican-controlled President is based on supporting this Congress, by the Republican-controlled Congress, by the Republican-controlled Senate, and by our Republican-controlled President is based on supporting the Republican Party before the country.

I am concerned about this, and it has been in all of our publications say is incompetent and fending and extending contracts of a poor performance lateness, and that is why we decided to cut off the budget.

Mr. MEEK of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I used to be a State trooper, and we had what they call a game warden, and I always used to say, the game warden cannot be the lead poacher. You cannot be leading off the poacher saying that I am in charge of the poachers. So I think it is important that we have folks that will lead up and say, you know something. I know I have been told to be quiet on this, but I have a constitutional responsibility to make sure that we have oversight.

So when we allow this kind of stuff to go on, it is making the country weaker versus stronger, because the Federal tax dollars are being spent in ways that they should not be spent, and we are not saving any money by allowing this kind of corruption to continue.

Mr. RYAN of Ohio. Mr. Speaker, I think it really comes down to the fact that every decision that is made by this Congress, by the Republican-controlled Congress, by the Republican-controlled Senate, and by our Republican-controlled President is based on supporting the Republican Party before the country.

I hate to break it to them, but this is not about the Republican Party; this is about America. This is about what is best for America.

You talk about violating basic House rules, and every time they have done that, every time they have kept the roll call open at 2:00 or 3:00 or 4:00 in the morning; I mean, last year, I cannot remember what vote it was, but we were here until 4:00 or 5:00 in the morning. It was on the prescription drug bill, because we had to kick over $700 billion to the pharmaceutical industry, one of the most profitable industries in the whole entire world, them and oil, and the reason is they put the Republican Party before the country.

Mr. MEEK of Florida. Mr. RYAN, I am sorry to cut in, sir, but I am going to tell you this: I know a lot of Republicans. A lot of Republicans are supporters of me. They vote for me, and some of them say, great job. I have some great friends on the other side of the aisle, I mean great friends. We do a lot together. We talk about things that are common interests. We are friends. My mother was here before me, and some of them were great friends of my mother, and, because of that relationship, we have a great bond.

But I can tell you this: I think this goes far beyond building up or doing something on behalf of the Republican Party, because some of these decisions that are made, it will turn the stomach of Republicans that I know. It would turn their stomachs. I know on the majority side, I know that there are some Republicans that go home, and they are sick. They are sick of what is going on here in this House. But you know something? If they were to stand up, unfortunately they would be knocked down politically. They will find themselves fighting the whole reason why we are here on this floor, fighting against their jobs.

So I kind of feel that there is a purpose for what we are doing here, because as far as I am concerned, we could sit back and just say, well, let them do it, or let them look the other way. I mean, the American people are going to see that they are not governing. But you know something? We are Americans, and we have an obligation to not only our constituents. When our constituents voted for us, they voted for us, that’s what that means. We have to take care of the American people. There are Americans who are going to see that they are not governing. But you know something? We are Americans, and we have an obligation to not only our constituents. When our constituents voted for us, they voted for us, that’s what that means. We have to take care of the American people. There is no health care plan. The average Republican is going to have to bear the burden, that they send their children into conflict and war, that they pay higher gas prices; not you, special interest. No, no, we are here for you.

But see, the problem here, and we talked about this here in the middle of a term, you have to be elected. You cannot be appointed to the House of Representatives. So that means that we are representatives of the people, not representatives of the special interests, not representatives of the lobbying agencies saying, listen, we need to have some level of oversight, this country is going down the drain, because they are dragging it down the drain, and we have to do this. Imagine if we had an accountability law that would call some of these things into question before they get to the level to where they are now. Mr. Ryan.

Mr. RYAN of Ohio. Yes, no doubt about it. We will have prevented, if we had been really on the stick and really open, we maybe could have prevented some of these things that are happening.

I think this really goes to the fact that the Republican majority believe that the government and the taxpayer dollars that we have here are just for them. It is for them to build their party up. It is for them to use it to build up the Republican Party. I am sorry, I am sorry, if you think that is not working, they say, no, no, do not worry about it, do not say anything, millionaire, we have you. We are trying to protect you, but we are going to make sure that the average Republican, the average Democrat, the average Independent, that they bear the burden, that they send their children into conflict and war, that they pay higher gas prices; not you, special interest. No, no, we are here for you.

us see. Let us look at the people that apply for the job. Oh, there is a Republican. No. I want you to hire my right-hand staffer. I want you to hire him or her, put them in the position, okay, and so I can deal directly with them so that we can have a line of communications. I do not want to have to confuse this person has my cell number, okay, and I want to make sure that that happens.
Now, we are not talking about something that the House Ethics Committee has not already dealt with, because of the fact that this issue was brought up and it was very public. It was not any kind of clandestine operation that was going on. You just pick up the paper.
Yes, that is what we are doing. What is the problem? If they are going to do business up here, they are going to hire the people that they want hired, period, dot, with a straight face, under the lights with the cameras on and the press running.
That is a problem, Mr. RYAN, and I believe that when you start looking at the whole culture of corruption and cronyism, you have to look at these activities that are taking place under lights, camera, and on the front pages of newspapers. And you know something? The American people. Mr.
Speaker, may feel, well, it is okay, because Congress is not calling any of these people in. Once again, you cannot be the game warden and the lead poacher at the same time. You just cannot do both. It is not physically possible. You cannot have a problem and be over the very thing that is the problem.
Once again, I said it last night, I will say it again. These are not personal decisions, Mr. RYAN. These are decisions that are affecting the policy of the country and the Treasury of the country. This is not someone that went off and made an individual bad decision and said, you know, I made a bad decision, you know, I made a bad decision, and I am sorry. It will not happen again. No, it is not that; it is a whole Medicare program. It is an entire industry: Energy, we are going to give you what you want.
And that is when it has got to stop.
You did not come to Congress to rubber-stamp this stuff. The people in my district did not send me here to rubberstamp this stuff. They sent us here to end it, because the average worker, the average small business person in every country understands that when energy, gas prices, natural gas, pharmaaceuticals, wages, on every single count they are forgotten.
They are forgotten because we spent so much, the Republicans spent so much time giving out public tax dol-ars, corporate welfare so that they can increase their campaign coffers and run 30-second ads. And they go out and shake down K Street. It is ridiculous.
Mr. MEEK of Florida. If you want to call it an energy bill, I will not, because it did nothing about true conservation. It did nothing about true price gouging. I mean, there was some language in there; but it was not there.
We had, on this side of the aisle, a Democratic alternative that stopped price gouging, that put us on a track of alternative fuel and also protected the environment at the same time. We offered that.
That is the reason why the board, the voting board was open for 90 minutes, because it did something. Now, it did not do what the special interests wanted us to do. And you know many of them, I see them. It is not personal; it is just business. I see them. Hey, how are you doing? Are you doing okay?
I am doing just fine. Nice day today. Okay.
But the bottom line is when it comes down to my constituents and it comes down to Exxon-Mobil coming out today saying, hey, guess what, wow, 75 percent up in profits, give me a high-five.
What is unfortunate, I think some of the folks in this Congress are actually giving these special interest groups a high-five, and it is unfortunate because it is on the backs of the American people.
We are running around here paying more for gas than we have ever paid before, and there are record profits for the industry. I think there is something wrong there, and I think it is something that is clear as day. And guess what? It is happening under the lights. It is happening in front of the cameras. It is on the front page of the paper in print for historical preservation to the next election.
And what is unfortunate is that we could stand by and allow this to happen and say nothing and say, you know, the American people will re-son after natural disaster/terrorist attacks.
Not only that, looking at House Resolution 3838, dealing with the issue on contractor fraud, why do we have to read it in the paper? Why do we have to give that television and radio time when we have not provided the kind of oversight so that contractors do not have cost overruns to millions of dollars, in some cases billions?
Then we turn around, you want to talk about rewarding a culture of corruption and cronyism? Over in Iraq we have contractors that are under investigation by our government, and the very same Departments of Defense and Homeland Security investigating them.
Katrina goes down, hey, guess what? Come on over here. We have a multimillion-dollar no-bid contract for you. Sign right here. We ask no questions. There is no ceiling. There is very little oversight. And we will get around to that thing of oversight. But we are talking about the games so we know that you messed up before.
It is almost like someone going in a convenience store, taking out a gun, taking a couple of hundred dollars out of the cash register, unfortunately it is in Iraq, not the Federal taxpayer dollar, they run out of the store, the police catch them, they say, well, you know, not only do you not have to give me the money, but you do not even have to turn over your guns. Go back out there and rob another store. That is what is happening right now.
Mr. RYAN of Ohio. Well, let us look.
My friend brings up Iraq, which is a perfect example. We just talked about corporate welfare to the oil companies; corporate welfare to pharmaceutical companies; tax cuts that go primarily to those people who make over a million dollars a year. And this President does not have the guts, the Republican Congress, they do not have the guts to ask the wealthiest people in the country to contribute. Two wars and major natural disasters, poverty is increasing, the tuition cost has doubled over the last 4 or 5 years, and this Republican Congress, they do not have the guts to ask the billionaires in the country to contribute.
But we are going to give them public tax dollars to support their corporations. But there is more welfare going out. Iraq has become a United States welfare state. Look what is going on here. 110 primary care centers built in Iraq with American tax dollars. Okay.
2,000 health educators trained with the American tax dollar.
3.2 million children vaccinated in Iraq with the American tax dollar.
Great. Super. We went in there, we broke Iraq, we buy it. That is our reponsibility. But back at the ranch, $10 billion-plus, as I have talked to a few of our friends on the Committee on Energy and Commerce, $10 billion-plus cuts in Medicare for American kids.
American citizens. $252 million cut for health care professionals; $94 million cut for community health centers in the United States of America.

Student loans. We are building 2,700 schools that have been rehabbed in Iraq; 36,000 teachers and administrators trained in Iraq. We are cutting student loans in the United States. We are cutting welfare state. So if you are sitting on the couch listening to the 30-something Group right now, and these are all third-party validators, this is not us making this stuff up.

Calibhan, the conservative Republican columnist, agrees with you. You see a Republican-controlled government, a one-party government spending your tax dollars, giving your tax dollars to the oil companies, to the pharmaceutical companies, to the billionaires in the world, and/or in the United States, and creating a welfare state in Iraq while you are cutting health care in education and research and development. Even the Centers for Disease Control, our conservative friends on the other side, want to cut the Centers for Disease Control at a time when we have this bird flu epidemic waiting in the wings.

We can do a better job. The Democratic Party has proposals. We want to create 200,000 renewable energy jobs in the next 10 years. We want to build magnetic levitation trains in the United States and connect the United States of America. We want to invest in the research and development and create alternative energy sources so we no longer have to worry about being dependent on foreign oil.

And that is part of the magnetic lev trains. We want arts and sports in all of our schools for all of our kids because we recognize in the 21st century that learning a musical instrument helps you with math. And when you are good at math, you become an engineer or a scientist, and you will go out and generate wealth. We make good investments. The Democratic Party makes good investments.

We balanced the budget in 1993 with not one Republican vote. And President Clinton made a lot of tough decisions, and the Democratic Congress made a lot of tough decisions. And, quite frankly, some Members lost their seat over it. But it led to the greatest economic expansion in the history of this country. And I do not think there is an American out there that would not say, well, I would love to go back to the late 1990s. But I would think that not be great. Portfolio was up. Everything was up that should have been up. Everything was down that should have been down.

But instead, our Republican friends keep this culture of corporate welfare and corruption and keep propping up the Republican Party, instead of propping up the United States of America, and being more concerned about shaking down the lobbyists on K Street instead of propping up the United States.

The Democrats want to take this country in a new direction. We want to provide new leadership. We want to change the direction of the country, and we want to get rid of this culture of corruption and cronyism, and we want to prop up the country, not any one political party, and use the government to enhance opportunity for people in the United States. Mr. MEEK of Florida. With that, there is nothing more that I can possibly say about where we stand, what we are trying to do in the minority right now, what we would like to do if we had the majority with that, sir, will you give the closing.

Mr. NYE of Ohio. Our Web site is www.house.gov/katrina. Become a citizen cosponsor to the independent commission so we can reform government the way it needs to be done.

And 30-somethingdemas@mail.house.gov. We have been getting a ton of e-mails lately and a lot of support, over 40,000 citizens and the Democratic commission for Katrina.

Help us change this government. Help us help the Democratic Party take this country in a new direction, a better direction, and help us get rid of this government, that does not serve corporate welfare and create a welfare state in Iraq at the expense of the American worker and the American taxpayer.

Mr. MEEK of Florida. With that, Mr. Speaker, we would like to thank the Democratic leadership for allowing us to come here in the first Democratic hour. And like I say, it was an honor to address the House.

FISCAL RESPONSIBILITY AND THE REPUBLICAN PARTY

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. KUHL of New York). Under the Speaker's announced policy of January 4, 2005, the gentleman from Tennessee, Mrs. BLACKBURN (Mrs. BLANKENSHIP) is recognized for 60 minutes as the designee of the majority leader.

Mrs. BLACKBURN. Mr. Speaker, I appreciate the opportunity to come before the body and also to talk with the American people a little bit this evening about what we as a House majority are doing.

You know, I have been sitting here for the last few minutes listening to their money, that you are going to hear talk of a cut. You are going to hear talk of a cut. My people know and understand that.

And we are talking about doing is slowing the rate of growth of Medicaid from 7.3 percent a year to 7 percent a year.

I think a lot of my constituents in Tennessee have, they have kind of wised up to a lot of this Washington talk, and they know that any time you talk about reining in growth, any time you talk about bureaucrats and having to learn to live with less so that families in houses in communities can keep their money, that you are going to hear talk of a cut. You are going to hear talk of a cut. My people know and understand that.

They also were saying a little bit about energy over there. I have got to make a comment there, too, and they were talking about how glorious the '90s were. We probably would not be talking so much about energy right now if President Clinton had not vetoed drilling in ANWR in 1985. He had the opportunity to do something bold and visionary. So why did he do it? Democrats chose not to. And I think we need to remember that as we talk about energy costs.
When we talk about economic policies and the economic expansion, I think that my young colleague over there might do well to realize Ronald Reagan and his economic policies led to that economic expansion, and we fondly remember that President.

As we are talking about the security agenda, we are focused tonight on the economic security agenda and some of the things that we have been able to accomplish. As I said, spending cuts. We are working on across-the-board cuts, tax relief and tax reform, it has been a big, big part of that. The death tax repeal, marriage penalty relief, reducing marginal rates, all of those things; the child tax credit, marriage penalty relief, our colleagues want to walk all of the time and just say, oh, corporations are not paying their fair share. We need to tax corporations more. And that is all Republicans talk about in tax reform and tax relief. And they are just so wrong.

They are wrong on that because thousands of families in my district appreciate having sales tax deductibility. They appreciate having the child tax credit. They appreciate having marriage penalty relief. And so many families are trying to save family farms and small businesses that they have started, they want to make the death tax repeal permanent.

We are going to continue talking about these as we move forward, and we are going to keep continuing to work on these spending issues, because when government is taxing too much and spending too much, you stifle economic activity, and that does affect economic security of this Nation. Republicans are not willing to let government stifle economic activities.

Jobs growth and jobs creation is something that needs to be happening. We have seen 3 million new jobs created. That has happened because of the correct economic steps. It has happened because of a push to reform government. We have 98 programs that are targeted for potential elimination, a good first step there.

Our leadership is to be commended by taking these steps, and this is going to yield $4.3 billion in savings, the budget that we passed. And I will remind my colleagues across the aisle did not get a single Democratic vote on this budget. It reduced $35 billion in saving in fiscal year 2007 and now we are working to expand that. Not a single Democrat wanted to vote for that, but they wanted to spend more. And when they spend more, that is more money coming out of our taxpayers’ pockets.

Mr. Speaker, our majority believes that we can do better, and I would certainly hope that our colleagues across the aisle will start to work with us on these spending reductions. We have got a great group of Members who are sick of having liberals in this body tell us that there is no room to cut, and not a single Democrat has agreed to support even a 1 percent reduction. And they do not believe there is 1 percent of waste, fraud and abuse in government.

In fact, they have opposed our effort to get to that $35 billion in savings. And I think that the people in my district know you can find 1 percent of waste, fraud and abuse, and they are encouraging us to move forward and go maybe even more, find even greater savings.

I have said many times that I think that the government needs to be streamlined, and that it could stop behaving and spending like the overgrown, unproductive behemoth that it has become over 40 years of Democrat control with growing program after program after program, and it could start functioning a lot more like some of our Tennessee companies, maybe FedEx or Comdata or the Tractor Supply Company or any of the hundreds and thousands of small businesses and small business manufacturers that are located across the wonderful Seventh Congressional District.

We have got agencies that spend without results and then do not want to tell us how they spend. We have got program after program that was created, it is not working, and those programs put very little stock in achieving results. The Republicans in this House are working to reshape that, and we are going to continue putting our focus on spending reduction, reducing a little bit more and a little bit more every single year. And we hope that our Democrat colleagues across the aisle are going to join us and assist us with this.

I am pleased to note also, Mr. Speaker, I will have to note this even though the Democrats do not want to join us with across-the-board spending and reducing even 1 percent out of spending. I am pleased to note that today the President expressed support for taking a look at across-the-board cuts. I was joined by two of my colleagues, the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. CANTOR) and the gentleman from Texas (Mr. HENSARLING), in filing three bills, a 1 percent, a 2 percent, and a 5 percent across-the-board cuts. And also I will have to note that in our work to reduce what the Federal Government spends, Citizens Against Government Waste has sent a letter encouraging Members of Congress to support our across-the-board cuts. And what that as we work toward fiscal responsibility, as we work to achieve and continue economic security in this Nation, a big important part of this is looking at what the Federal Government spends.

Mr. Speaker, I am joined by some of my colleagues tonight. And at this time I would like to recognize one of our colleagues from Texas who is our vice chairman of the Republican Study Committee and has been a leader in looking at the fiscal responsibility of this federal government. The gentleman from Texas (Mr. HENSARLING) has taken a lead on this. He helped with our freshman class as waste, fraud and abuse became our class project. He came forward and helped found the Washington Waste Watchers so that we could begin to get inside these programs to target and look at specifically what was going on in these federal programs, where the Federal Government wastes its money, how it achieves its results.

The gentleman from Texas (Mr. HENSARLING) has worked on this issue for 3 years. And at this time I would like to yield to him for his comment about spending control and operations offset, having the Federal Government be accountable to the constituents.

Mr. HENSARLING. Mr. Speaker, well, I certainly thank the gentleman for yielding, and I certainly appreciate her leadership in this body and truly being one of the great leaders in trying to reform government, bring about accountability, and to help protect the family budget from the Federal Government.

Obviously, many good points were made about fiscal responsibility and the fact that somehow the Democrats, those on the other side of the aisle that we tried to work with, tell us there is no room for reform in the Federal budget, no room whatsoever; that somehow we have to spend even more and more money. Mr. Speaker, it begs the question how much is enough?

Mrs. BLACKBURN. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman will yield, I mentioned that we were working on finding some appropriate levels of spending reduction in our Committee on Energy and Commerce, and I have been called back to this committee.

So at this point I am going to briefly yield the time to the Chair, who will yield it to the gentleman from Texas (Mr. HENSARLING) to control our hour of time.

FISCAL RESPONSIBILITY

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. KUHL of New York). Under the Speaker’s announced policy, the balance of the majority leader’s hour is reallocated to the gentleman from Texas (Mr. HENSARLING).

Mr. HENSARLING. Mr. Speaker, again it is obvious that those on the other side of the aisle, the Democrats that we are trying to work with, somehow believe that we do not have enough government, that somehow there is no room for reform in the Federal budget.

Again, this chart shows that beginning in 1985 up to the present, that Washington is now spending over $22,000 per household. This is for only the fourth time in the entire history of the United States of America that the Federal Government has spent this much money. It is the first time since World War II, yet this President, that somehow there is no room for reform in the Federal budget; that instead we need to increase taxes on hard-working American
Mr. Speaker, we can do better. And, Mr. Speaker, this simply amplifies the point, when you think about families, and I think about them in my district back in Dallas and in east Texas, who work hard for a living, some small businesspeople who have gone out to risk capital and start a new business and maybe employ three or four people. Look at what has happened in the last 10 years. You see the family budget, median family income for a family of four has risen from roughly $45,000 to $62,000. That is a trend that Mr. Speaker, that look at the same time what has happened to the Federal budget? We have gone from about $1.6 trillion in 10 years to almost $2.5 trillion.

In other words, the Federal budget is growing at least three times faster than the family budget in just the last 10 years. And yet our colleagues on the other side of the aisle, the Democrats, say, no, there is no place for reform. There is just no place for reform in the Federal budget, that somehow it is going to have to come out of the family budget instead.

But we reject this, Mr. Speaker, and I guess because it is getting close to Halloween, all of the sudden people are thinking about what costumes are they going to go wear for Halloween. I have got a 3½-year-old daughter who has decided to be Snow White. My 2-year-old son is going to become Superman. And I do tell my 4-year-old that is going to go wear for Halloween. I have thinking about what costumes are they going to wear for Halloween, all of the sudden people are seeing a pattern here. It is a pattern of increased spending.

Mr. Speaker, right now, as the Democrats have tried to fight every reform that we have brought forth, we know what is happening to our budget. We know that it is spiraling out of control, growing at a huge multiple over the family budget that one day is going to cause a crisis of concern.

This chart, for example, shows what is going to happen over the next generation when we look at Medicare growing at 9 percent a year, Medicaid at 7.8 percent a year, when we look at Social Security at five percent a year. We know when the economy grows at a pretty good pace, that might be 3.5 percent.

Look at this chart here. Right now, the amount of money that we are spending, roughly 20 percent of the economy on government, in just one generation, if we do not engage in this process of reform, using the Washington term "reconciliation," which is a process we started today, if we do not engage in this process this is the future that the Democrat Party wants to provide us. That is a doubling of the size of government in one generation, and that is if they do not come up with anything new. That is just on the programs that we have today, Mr. Speaker, I believe that is simply going to be unconscionable.

Now, again, the Democrats tell us that there is simply no place that we can reform and that somehow reforms lead to hardship for the poor. Well, we think there is another way that we can help poor people in America, and we believe it has a lot more to do with a paycheck than a welfare check. We want to ensure that the social safety net is there; but, Mr. Speaker, there is something better, and that is a paycheck.

Under the economic policies of this administration and this Republican Congress, all of the sudden we have created not just of late, but over four million new jobs have been created. People have hope. They have opportunity. They can put food on the table. They can put a roof over their head, and that had everything to do with the policies of this administration and this Republican Congress.

So in many respects, Mr. Speaker, it is not a debate about how much money we are going to spend on housing, how much money we are going to spend on education and on nutrition; but it is a debate about who is going to do the spending.

The Democrat Party can only measure compassion in the number of welfare checks. We measure compassion in the number of paychecks. We are helping empowers the American people to have their nutritional program, to have their educational program, to have their housing program.

Mr. Speaker, I am very honored that we have been joined by a couple of other colleagues here tonight who I know have a great insight into our programs for fiscal responsibility, into our programs to try to bring some account-ability to the Federal Government, to engage in reforms that could help the American people and actually deliver better health care at a cheaper cost, better housing at a cheaper cost.

One of these Members that we have been joined by, who is a great leader in the freshman class, who is no stranger to the floor of the House, is the gentleman from Georgia, Mr. Price, my colleague, and I would be very happy to yield to the gentleman from Georgia, Mr. Price of Georgia. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding, and I just want to say how honored I am to join you this evening for what is such a contrast to what is being offered on the other side of the aisle. The calm and reasoned and logical and thoughtful approach that you and others have taken I think is just so wonderful and heartwarming, frankly, to all Americans to know that there are individuals that are as thoughtful and logical in their approach to, truly, the challenges that we have.

Before I begin, I do want to make a comment about what has seemed to become a nightly ritual, which is a level of personal attacks from the other side that frankly does not add to the discussion and the debate, and it really is a shame to see.

We have really a once-proud party on the other side of the aisle that has degraded into what may be known as the ABC game, which is accuse and blame and criticize, really with no positive outlook and no positive proposals for the future.

When they do offer alternatives, as my colleague from Texas just mentioned, what their alternatives do is significantly increase the tax burden on Americans, significantly increase the size of government and the scope of government; and as was mentioned, they have offered some significant increases in the level of taxes to share with the Members, Mr. Speaker, a couple of graphics that will demonstrate that.

This demonstrates if the other side had their way, just so far this year in their proposals, for the next 5 years the amendments that they have offered would have added an increase in the amount of spending of over $67 billion. This is actually out of date a little bit because we have not got another bit to share with the Members, Mr. Speaker, that happened in committee, but $67 billion of increased spending.

What about the increase in taxes that they have proposed? As was mentioned, the only alternatives that they truly put on the table are an increase in the amount of spending and an increase in taxes, which certainly increases the size and scope of government. The amount of increased tax revenue that they have recommended to date, $392 billion. Even in Washington, there is a lot of money, and many of these taxes obviously come out of small business and other business, which means jobs.

Mr. Speaker, I am very honored that we have been joined by a couple of other colleagues here tonight who I know have a great insight into our programs for fiscal responsibility, into our programs to try to bring some account-ability to the Federal Government, to engage in reforms that could help the American people and actually deliver better health care at a cheaper cost, better housing at a cheaper cost.

Mr. Speaker, as we attempt to reform government, that we are engaging in massive budget cuts that will hurt those programs that offer the most benefit to the people of the nation.

The results of the policies that have been put in place by this Republican Party, this Republican Congress, and this Republican administration have demonstrated clearly there is greater success for greater numbers of people.

So I am proud to stand before my colleagues tonight and to participate in this discussion of what is truly fiscal responsibility in a thoughtful and a reasoned and calm manner, and I commend the gentleman from Texas for organizing this hour. I look forward to being back to talk about these issues and more.

Mr. HENSARLING. Mr. Speaker, I appreciate the gentleman’s leadership and sharing his insights with us. I would like to try to amplify a couple of his points.

Again, there is a big debate and all of a sudden the Democrats are claiming to be the party of fiscal responsibility. They are claiming something that they have claimed for 50 years, that somehow the Republicans when we try to reform government, that we are going to hurt those programs that offer the most benefit to the people of the nation.

Mr. Speaker, we are engaged in this process in Washington known as reconciliation, which is really a Washington term that means that we go back to our committees and say find a way to do it better. Let us be more accountable. Let us be more respectful of the family budget and figure out a way to do things better in the Federal budget.

So we need to be absolutely as responsible as we can be with that. And again, fiscal responsibility and true responsibility in a thoughtful and a reasoned and calm manner, and I commend the gentleman from Texas for organizing this hour. I look forward to being back to talk about these issues and more.
better housing at a lower cost, look at what we are trying to do. In the next 5 years, if we are successful in this plan, and so far our colleagues on the other side of the aisle, the Democrats, have said that none of them are going to help, and so of the day, the call mandatory spending is going to grow at 6.3 percent a year instead of 6.4 percent a year. That is the massive budget cut?

First, there is no cut. Only a liberal Democrat or an accountant for Enron would count increase in the growth of mandatory spending a cut. All we are trying to do is reform programs, make them more accountable to the American people, and slow the rate of growth. People are entitled to their own opinions, but they should not be entitled to their own facts. Even after we do this, we will end up spending more of the people’s money next year than we did last year.

When you think about the charges that are leveled on the other side of the aisle are lodging, we should also remember that these were the very same people who said that welfare reform would be horrible, that it would be the end of the world as we know it. We had such quotes like from the Democrat leader in the House at the time that a million children would be forced into poverty. One of the Democrat leaders in the Senate said that if we have welfare reform, we will have trauma that we have not known since the cholera epidemic, and the rhetoric went on and on and on.

Mr. Speaker, what happened? I can tell Members what happened. Case loads fell in half and millions and millions and millions of millions found jobs, hope, and opportunity. The poorest 20 percent of single-mother families had a 67 percent increase in their earnings once we had welfare reform. Millions were able to leave the rolls. Child poverty fell when we reformed the welfare programs, and 1.4 million have been lifted out of poverty due to welfare reform.

So we kind of have to check the source. Reforms can work, and they must work for the American people. There are so many different ways that we can improve health care and housing and do it in a way that saves American families money. Right now we could save $1.5 million a year in Medicaid if we just based drug payments on actual acquisition costs. We could save 2 to 3 billion a year if we would stop improper payments for States that do not qualify for the payments.

Mr. Speaker, if we would pass a simple, meaningful medical liability reform bill, we could save 5 to 10 percent on the cost of health care, a savings of billions of dollars a year. In 2003, the Federal Government can now not account for $24 billion that was spent, and yet the Democrats say we cannot reform government.

The Department of Housing and Urban Development in 2001 in the last year of the Clinton administration spent $3.3 billion paying out money to people who did not qualify for the program. That was 10 percent of their entire budget, yet the Democrats tell us there is no room for reform in the Federal budget.

The Advance Technology Program spends $150 million annually subsidizing private business, 40 percent of which goes to Fortune 500 companies. Yet the Democrats tell us there is no room for reform in the Federal budget.

There was a time quite recently when Medicare would spend five times as much on a wheelchair as the Veterans Administration. Same model and manufacturer. Why? Because one would competitively bid and the other would not, and so they just wasted that money. Yet the Democrats would tell us that somehow we are hurting Medicare recipients when we cease to pay five times as much for a wheelchair as we should have. Fortunately, we have caught that one, and we have remedied that; but we say that 10,000 Federal programs spread across 600 agencies. There is so much room for reform.

When families are working hard to make ends meet, we need to be leaders in finding federal budget. I am very happy that tonight we are joined by one of the great deficit hawks of the United States Congress, a real leader in our party, Mr. Price. I want to salute the gentleman from Texas (Mr. HENSARLING), the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. PRICE), and the gentlewoman from Tennessee (Mrs. BLACKBURN) for their being here tonight and focusing on the need to reduce spending.

I have heard from a number of citizens as we are discussing our budgetary situation facing this Congress, this Nation, and our country. Many have said, the numbers are too high; the deficit is too low; the problem is spending too high. The gentleman from Texas (Mr. HENSARLING) is vice chairman of the Republican Study Committee. The Chair is the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. PENCE). These gentlemen and others, the men and women that make up the RSC, were leaders in focusing on Operation Offset. Our Nation has faced expenditures this year that 6 months ago, months ago, months ago, were not expected. I believe that their focus on Operation Offset is a correct approach.

The first thing we need to do in looking at the aftermath of hurricanes Katrina, Rita, and Wilma and the other catastrophic storms that have hit the United States this year is do not spend unnecessarily in dealing with these tragedies.

After that, we need to focus on savings in any way we can to deal with those problems and to manage our fiscal affairs as best as possible.

One area that I think needs to be trimmed is foreign aid. Foreign aid for the last 3 fiscal years has hovered around $20 billion. In fiscal year 2005, it was between 19 and $20 billion. But that does not include the hundreds of millions that were in the supplemental that was passed in fiscal year 2005. We look at across-the-board cuts in that area of appropriations and I think we have very little negative impact on American citizens.

Another area that we need to focus on is stopping illegal immigration. This costs the United States taxpayers billions of dollars every year. Now, I have seen wide estimates on how much the cost is to the Federal Treasury each year because of illegal immigration. The Center for Immigration Studies has estimated $10 billion. The Federation of Americans for Immigration Reform estimates $45 billion. A few months ago, I heard Bill O’Reilly on Fox News state that the figure was $68 billion.

One way we can disagree as to the exact figure, but there can be no disagreement that the cost is billions upon billions of dollars to the American taxpayer.

This Congress and the Republican conference have been very supportive of community health centers. They have gotten significant increases in their budgets each of the last several fiscal years. But they have a situation that confronts many other health care providers. When persons come in the door, they have to treat those persons. I believe that some of the governments of those countries south of us have steered their citizens to those entities and our hospitals know the ropes. Emergency care cannot be denied anyone, whether they are legally or illegally in the United States, particularly emergency room service. A person has to be served.

One way we can disagree is the influx of those who are not supposed to be in this country to our health centers, to our emergency rooms, to other health care providers is to stop them before they get here. I and others are working on legislation. Some would focus on a fence, others would focus on a fence. I have a bill that would provide for a fence along the southern boundary. Other have suggested much tighter border enforcement, increased border patrol, while others say we need greater enforcement in the interior. We need to have the local sheriff and local chief of police, municipal officers, all have the authority to deal with this situation and have a partner with immigration services if they are detained at the local level, that they would be assured of cooperation and removal from the locality back to their home countries.

We also have an impact on social security and that is billions of dollars. So one area where we could save a lot of money would be to simply enforce our laws against illegal immigration, stop it at the border and in the interior, remove those that are not here legally with a proper visa or proper green card or other proper work permit.

Another area of concern to me is the overuse of government credit cards.
Another member of the RSC has proposed the Government Credit Card Sunshine Act. Following Hurricane Katrina, we had to raise the limit on credit cards maximums. Now, I understand the need for our FEMA officials to have credit cards, but in the Federal Government I believe we have overused credit cards. I know in my office, I do not use credit cards. Our congressional office is certainly not like FEMA, it is not like law enforcement, and it is not like the DEA. I know that in law enforcement situations, but I support the Government Credit Card Sunshine Act, which would require the posting, except in classified situations and certain law enforcement situations, of expenditures by government credit cards within 15 business days after the expenditure goes through.

A check of some of the credit card abuses involves payment for Ozzie Osborne concert tickets, tattoos, gambling, cruises, exotic dance clubs, car payments, and the like. This is an example of waste in the Federal Government, we need to stop it. And I think this act would go a long way to stop that.

This evening I have covered areas where we can focus on that will reduce the amount of Federal expenditures. But I also want to emphasize something that the gentleman from Texas (Mr. HENSARLING), the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. PRICE), and the gentlewoman from Tennessee (Mrs. BLACKBURN) emphasized. We are focusing on the savings by curtailing the rate of growth. We are not even saying there shall be no growth. We are saying we just do not want the rate of growth to continue at such a rapid and accelerated pace. By curtailing the rate of growth, we can do a tremendous benefit to all the taxpayers of the United States of America.

Mr. HENSARLING. Madam Speaker, reclaiming my time, I thank the gentleman for his comments, and I certainly thank him for his leadership.

Madam Speaker, we have now heard just example after example of waste that is in the Federal budget, fraud that is in the Federal budget, not to mention the duplication which is in the Federal budget.

We need to remember, Madam Speaker, that when it comes to paying for government, there are really only three different places where we can find money as we go forward and try to balance this budget. Number one, we are either going to increase taxes on the American people, or we are going to continue to pass even more debt on to our children because we care more about the next election as opposed to the next generation, or we will engage in this process that is now being exercised today to find reforms in the government. And we have heard example after example after example.

Madam Speaker, I now would like to talk about really the tax side of the equation, because so many of our friends and colleagues from the other side of the aisle say the root cause of all of America’s fiscal problems lie in tax. And, they tell us the root cause now has been caused and fueled these deficits. We hear it speaker after speaker after speaker.

Well, Madam Speaker, first let me say this: If tax relief is the source of all of our problems, as we can see by this chart, let us assume for a moment that tax relief does absolutely no good, that all we are doing is wasting money when we allow small businesses and the American family to keep more of their hard-earned money. Even if that was true, Madam Speaker, we can see by this chart here that out of the budget we have passed, tax relief is less than 1 percent. Less than 1 percent. So even if Members accept the fact that all we are doing is taking this tax relief out of the fiscal way, 99 percent of our challenges in fiscal responsibility actually sit on the spending side.

And this, Madam Speaker, is a very important chart because, again, we will hear from our friends on the other side of the aisle speak after speech about how tax relief is driving the deficit. Well, since we passed tax relief under President Bush and a Republican Congress, Madam Speaker, look at what has happened to our deficit. Revenue has gone from $1.7 trillion in 2003 to $1.8 trillion in 2004, to $2.1 trillion in 2005. And, Madam Speaker, if people do not want to believe me, they should go to the United States Treasury report. Look it up. Individual tax revenues are up 15 percent. Corporate tax revenues are up almost 50 percent.

How is this happening? How do we cut tax rates and somehow get more tax revenue? It is pretty obvious to me, Madam Speaker, every time I look at people in my district back in Texas, east Texas. I went to visit an industry called Jacksonville Industries. It is aluminum and dye cast business in Jacksonville, Texas. They employ 20 people. Prior to having the tax relief, due to competitive pressures they were on the verge of having to lay off two people, which in their case, a small business, was 10 percent of their workforce. But because of tax relief, Madam Speaker, they go out and buy a huge new machine, and I do not remember what it is called. I could not even tell the Members what it does. But it is big, it is noisy, and it made them more competitive. And instead of having to lay off two people, they hired three new people.

Think about it, Madam Speaker. Listening to our friends on the other side of the aisle, they would say, wait a second, that is five people who could have been on food stamps, and that is five people who could have been unemployed, five people who could have been on welfare, five people who could have been on food stamps, those five people who could have been on food stamps. Who could have been on welfare, and that is five people who could have been on food stamps, those five people who could have been on welfare, five people who could have been on food stamps. What is the consequence of their tax increase? Taxes are going to go up, on a family of four in just one generation, $10,000. We are going to have to double taxes on the American people just to balance the budget in 30 years, and it is going to go up and up and up.

And, Madam Speaker, that is why it is so critical that we come together, Democrat, Republican, Independent. This is the future we are looking at. It is like the Dickens of ‘Christmas Carol.’ This is the ghost of Christmas yet to come. There is still time to do something about this. Again, there are so many ways that we can get better health care, better housing, better nutrition at a lower cost. But we are going to have to come together as a Congress, as the American people, and find smarter, better ways to run a nation and these programs. We cannot simply measure compassion by the number of government checks that are written. True compassion is empowering people. True compassion is creating new jobs so that the American people can find their housing program, their nutritional program, their education program.

Madam Speaker, it is not a debate, again, about how much money we are going to spend on these worthy goals, but it is a debate about who is going to do the spending. Democrats clearly want the government and government bureaucrats to do the spending. We want American families to do the spending, and that is the difference. It is really the difference about the future of America. One wants more government and less freedom. Our vision is one of less government and more freedom and greater opportunity throughout this land, Madam Speaker. So I think it is going to be a very important debate that takes place in the weeks to come. But, again, in order to avoid the future of either passing debt on to our children or doubling taxes on the American people, there is only one alternative, and that is to come together and reform these out-of-control programs before we leave the next generation a lower standard of living than we enjoy. That is unconscionable, Madam Speaker, and there can be a better, better future for all of our children if we will work together and reform out-of-control spending.

THE POOR, THE MIDDLE CLASS, AND THE WEALTHY

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Miss McMorris). Under the Speaker’s announced policy of January 4, 2005, the gentleman from Vermont (Mr. SANDERS) is recognized for 60 minutes.

Mr. SANDERS. Madam Speaker, let me begin by suggesting that as the only Independent in the House of Representatives, my view of things is a little bit different than my Republican friend, in fact, some of my Democrat colleagues. When I look out in America today, what I see that is important are not just statistics, but what is going on in the real lives of real people, of what is going on in the middle class in America, of which our people, what is going on in our communities. And in a broad sense, when I look at America today, I see an economic reality which includes the shrinking of the middle class, the reality that ordinary people in my State of Vermont and across this country are working longer hours for lower wages. I look out at a time when in family after family it is absolutely necessary for two breadwinners to be working in order to pay the bills and often at the end of the week have less disposable income than a one-income family had 30 years ago. So I look out and I see that despite a huge increase in worker productivity, a huge explosion in technology, which makes our country so much more productive society, that at the end of the day, despite all of that, the middle class is shrinking.

And when I look out in my State and I look throughout this country, I see the one-income family, and that is that poverty is increasing: that in the last 5 years alone, since George W. Bush has been President, over 5 million more Americans have entered the ranks of the poor. And when I look at what is happening in America today with the middle class shrinking, with poverty increasing, I see another reality, a reality, in fact, that is not talked about terribly much on the floor of this House or, in fact, in the corporate-owned media, and that is that the wealthiest people in America today have never had it so good. Poverty is increasing, the middle class shrinking, and people on the top doing phenomenally well.

That is the economic reality of America today. Madam Speaker, since President Bush took office, the average annual household family income has declined by $2,500, approximately 4.8 percent. Furthermore, earnings also declined last year. This decrease in earnings was the largest 1-year decline in 14 years for men, but women also saw a decline in income. So what we are seeing in America, despite all of the rhetoric, all of the statistics being thrown around, is that people are not keeping up with inflation.

Madam Speaker, a recent income analysis by the IRS showed that in 2003, the last year that they studied, only those Americans in the top 1 percent saw an increase in their income above inflation; and amazingly enough, it was not just the top 1 percent that did well. It was the top one-tenth of 1 percent that really made the increased income. Meanwhile, while the top 1 percent in 2003 was the only group to earn more money above inflation, 99 percent of the American people were unable to earn enough income to keep up with inflation. In fact, the IRS data shows us that the wealthiest one-tenth of 1 percent earned more income than the bottom one-third of American taxpayers.

So what we are seeing in our country today is a decline of the middle class, an increase in poverty, and a growing gap between the rich and the poor. In fact, with the exception of Russia and Mexico, the United States today has the greatest gap between the rich and the poor of any major country on Earth, and that gap today is substantially wider than it was at any time since the 1920s in this country.

When we talk about the growing gap between the rich and the poor, when we talk about increase in wealth among the very wealthiest people in our country, it is rather incredible to understand that the richest 400 Americans, the wealthiest 400 families, now are worth $1 trillion. Madam Speaker, that incredible amount of money among 400 families equals the annual income of over 45 percent of the entire world’s population, or 2.5 billion people.

In 2004, when we talk about the growing gap between the rich and the poor, what we see is that in 2004 the President of the United States said, as we have a serious problem here. What is the answer?

Well, the answer is that in 2004, American families making more than $1 billion are getting tax cuts averaging $123,000 a year. So we have a situation where the gap between the rich and the poor is growing wider, where the wealth of the upper-income people, the wealthiest people in this country, is getting larger. So in this White House and Republican leadership responds by giving those particular people huge tax breaks.

Madam Speaker, when we talk about what is going on in America, it is important to recognize that in 1980, the average pay of the CEOs of the largest corporations in America was 41 times larger than that of what blue collar workers then earned. By 2004, the average pay of those CEOs increased to 401 times larger. So it is a situation where the CEOs of the largest corporations are now earning over 400 times what blue collar workers in this country are earning.

I want to ask, what America is supposed to be about? Are we supposed to be a country in which the wealthiest 1 percent own more wealth than the bottom 90 percent, where the richest 13,000 families earn more income than the bottom 90 million Americans? Are the people on top able to use their wealth to make enormous political contributions that shape policy that benefits them, that the wealthiest people are able to own the media which describes reality for ordinary people in a way that benefits them? Is that what America is supposed to be about? I think not.

Madam Speaker, I am delighted that I have been joined by a very good friend of mine, in my view, of the outstanding Members of the United States Congress, a leader, fighting for the middle class, fighting for our environment, the gentleman from Oregon (Mr. DeFazio).

Mr. DeFAZIO. Madam Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding and appreciate being here tonight to talk about this important topic.

It was interesting, I watched a little bit of the hour before with the gentleman from Texas and others, and they were prattling on about the reckless spending of the Democrats. What they forget is that the last time the budget was balanced, there was a Democrat sitting in the White House. The last time we began to tax the rich fairly, to bring about a balanced budget, there was a Democrat in the White House and a Democrat-controlled Congress. Yet they talk about the reckless spending of the Democrats.

The debt when George Bush took office was about $18,000 per American, the tiniest baby, oldest senior citizen, $5.6 trillion. In 5 short years, he has run the debt up to over $8 trillion, almost $27,000 per person on the President's watch. Yet they prattled on about the Democrats' reckless spending.

But what they are really trying to cover up here is their favoritism for a very small percentage of society, and the gentleman from Vermont was just talking about it. This is IRS data. Under the Bush administration, the IRS being steadily politicized by this President, data shows that one-tenth of 1 percent of the people in this country, those who earn over $1.3 million a year, got an average income increase last year of $130,000, a dream to most of my constituents, to earn $130,000 in one year. They get a lot of the tax cuts.

Here is what we are doing: collecting from working people, only people who earn salaries and wages who earn less than $94,000 a year paying Social Security taxes. They are paying over $90,000. Social Security will have a $180 billion surplus this year. The Republicans and the Republican President are borrowing every penny of that $180 billion surplus that is supposed to go to fund future retirement benefits for those Americans. They are borrowing it and they are spending it and they are replacing it with IOUs.

In part, and this is the ironic thing, in part, as the gentleman knows, that is going to finance the cuts that they are making to the wealthiest among us, people who do not pay Social Security taxes, or pay at a tiny fraction of the rate. A person who earns, let us say $94,000 a year, their Social Security tax rate is one-tenth of that of someone who earns $300,000 a year. And many of them, since this administration values wealth over work, many people do not pay any Social Security tax, because they just live off their investments. Yet this administration says they need relief from taxes.

When they talk about the working people, they are not talking about giving tax relief to working families or help to working families. They today, and for the last week, have been talking about cutting student loans by $15 billion, cutting Medicare for senior citizens, Medicare for senior citizens and the poorest of Americans, cutting food security, cutting foster care from the Federal Government, cutting all those things under the guise of new-found fiscal responsibility on the part of the Congress, which is spending us into bankruptcy. And what are they going to do with it? They are going to finance more tax cuts for the wealthy, because they think what America needs is more trickle-down economics: give the money to the wealthiest among us and they will spend it in ways that will put other Americans to work.

Well, what if they spend it overseas? What if they invest it overseas, as more and more companies fleece overseas? That does not put any Americans to work. The Delphi auto parts has an answer for that. People are just going to have to take a little pay cut. He says Americans who work in these industries who are earning now good family wages should work for $10 an hour, you know what Mr. CEO of Delphi earnings; I bet it is a little more. The average CEO earns in the first 12 hours of the year what working people under their tutelage and in their industries earn in 365 days of hard labor.

But this administration values wealth over work, trickle-down economics over investments in our future, in education, in our kids, in health care and in infrastructure. They are hollowing out America, and we should get to trade policy a little later to talk about that, they are hollowing out America, looting the Treasury, and they are getting ready to hand our kids and our grandkids the bill, a bill that they will have to pay on $10 an hour in wages. Now, this is not all going to hold together.

Mr. SANDERS. Madam Speaker, I thank my friend for his comments. My friend mentioned the Delphi Corporation, which is in Michigan, I believe, I want to say a word about that. It is not in my district. Why is it important, what is happening there?

In general, and we will get to the whole trade issue, the whole globalization that has been pushed on this country by corporate America in order to make the wealthiest people and the large corporations richer while working people see a decline in their standard of living, we will get to that in a moment. But what this attack on the workers, unionized workers, UAW workers at the Delphi Corporation is about is something of huge national significance.

As the middle class declines, it is absolutely not uncommon, from Maine to California, that workers see some decline in their wages; workers are forced to pay more for their health care; workers are losing some or all of their pensions. That is going on all over this country as we move in a race to the bottom.

But what this Delphi Corporation business is about is something more. That is not a slow decline in our standard of living; that is a precipitous collapse in the standard of living of working people. What I fear very much is that what happened at Delphi, that particular concept can spread all over this country.

What happened at Delphi, which recently filed for bankruptcy, is that the workers there had solid, middle-class incomes. They were doing well. They could send their kids to college; they had decent homes. They were making $25 or $30 an hour, solid, middle-class income. The company files for bankruptcy, and what the CEO there says is you are not going to make $25 an hour anymore; you are going to make $10. You are going to go from the middle class to poverty, like that.

Then a fellow named Jerry Jazwinski, who is the president of the Manufacturing Institute at the National Association of Manufacturers, which, by the way, has been one of the leading forces in this country in pushing unfettered free trade and unfeathered globalization on America, they push it on America, and then in responding to the attack on the workers at Delphi, this is what he says:

"From airline pilots to auto assembly workers, employees need to help reduce their costs. Why can't you, the U.S. taxpayer, because Delphi is going to finance tax cuts for the rich and the poor is growing wider, and what these people at the National Association of Manufacturers say is, hey, working people all over this country, tighten your belt.

Mr. DEFAZIO. Madam Speaker, the gentleman raises an excellent point. The other technique that Delphi and other major corporations are employing is they are also sticking it to the U.S. taxpayer, because Delphi also is going to walk away from its pension obligations.

Now, we have a pension insurance fund backed by the Federal Government called the PBGC. Under George Bush's watch, it has gone from having an $8 billion surplus to an estimated $200 billion deficit in 5 short years of George Bush's watch. That is the future obligations of pension plans they have assumed. United Airlines pension plan and now Delphi is going to try to dump theirs on you, and other airline pensions.

So these major U.S. corporations declare bankruptcy and dump the pension plans on the taxpayers. Workers see a major reduction in pension, because they will not give you your promised pension; depending upon your age and what you were promised, you might get 30, 40 percent of what your pension was going to be. Ultimately the taxpayers are going to pick up the bill for this little shenanago as they take this company through.

Now, there are no future claims. This company goes through bankruptcy, re-emerges and is sold for a huge profit, but the Federal taxpayers have no recourse. They cannot reclaim any of that money.

I asked a fellow from the PBGC about this, about the airlines. I said, so, you have taken an equity position in United Airlines as part of this deal of assuming their pensions. Could you not have a claim against future profitability of the airline or against future stock value to make the taxpayers and the PBGC whole? And he got really puzzled for a moment and he looked and said we could do that. Never thought of doing that.

So this has become the new technique: dump the obligations, dump the health care plans, dump the pension plans, the health care plans of people who work in the industry. If they are old enough, they can get into Medicare, which this administration is also driving toward bankruptcy. And I do not know if we will have a chance to get to that tonight, but that is another topic. But let us take the airline company. Then they become, you know, recovery champions when they turn Delphi around and when the company becomes worth a whole heck of a lot more money, and some turnover specialists capitalize it to come out of bankruptcy and make a fortune on the company. That is the way it works now. That is not the American way for this country.

I think now, if we could, we might move a little bit into trade now. Tax policies are a huge portion of this. We already talked about that to some extent. The other thing that is driving down wages and benefits and the working standards, the living standards in this country, is trade. As the gentleman said, it is a race to the bottom. We are paying about 700 billion dollars in corporate welfare from the American taxpayers. Oh, yes, we speak English well, and we are American corporations. Oh, yes, we are American corporations when we come to D.C. in order to get billions of dollars in corporate welfare from the American taxpayers. Oh, yes, we speak English well, and we are international corporations. We are off and running.

And that was clearly what they had in mind at the very beginning of this whole debate on free trade, and that is, in fact, what they have done, and that is, in fact, what they are doing.

From their perspective, what globalization is about is telling an American worker who works for me, fellow, because there are people over there who can work for 10 percent of what you are working for and if you are not prepared to take cutbacks in health care, cutbacks in wages, give up your pension, we are going to China, and guess what? Because of permanent normal trade relations, which Congress passed, my goodness, they could bring those products back into this country without any tariff whatsoever. We do not need you American workers in the auto industry, whether it is steel, whether it is furniture, whether it is textiles, whether it is footwear.

In fact, one of the interesting things, Christmas is coming soon, and during Christmastime people do an enormous amount of shopping, and they go to the stores and they look and they try to find products made in the United States of America, and they look and they look and they look. And as Mr. DeFazio mentioned, it is harder and harder to find products manufactured in America, because our corporations have essentially taken our manufacturing base and sent it to China.

As Mr. DeFazio indicated, this is really bad not just for the standard of living for American workers, it is very dangerous for the future of our country in a dozen different facts. How do you defend yourself as a nation in terms of national defense if you are not making products in this country anymore to be used by the military? How are you a great country when you are not engaged in making real products, but are now engaged only in service industry-type work?

I yield to the gentleman.

Mr. DeFazio. Madam Speaker, I guess this is a little confusing, but it is a case in point. I mean, there is this whole bizarre concept of free trade based on an economist who has been dead over 200 years that only the United States Government, under the tutelage of these multinational corporations is following, much to our detriment.

Our trade deficit this year is headed towards 700 billion. That means we are borrowing almost $2 billion a day from overseas. 40 percent of what the Chinese, to buy things made in China and other countries that used to be made here, is not a sustainable model. That ultimately undermines our standard of living. We are piling up huge海外 debts.

But even worse than that, and that is just all under these bizarre theories of free trade, the race to the bottom and all things are a result from that; we are not even real. What President Clinton and President Bush are so fond of calling rules-based trade. We are going to have rules. Well, there are rules. The rules say that the Chinese cannot pirate things. Guess what? The Chinese pirate millions of dollars a year worth of U.S. dollars.

The gentleman mentioned furniture. I have a little furniture manufacturer, a high-end furniture manufacturer, in my district. He called me up and said, I have a little problem. I thought, that is a little weird, but okay, and I went to visit. Well, it turns out the Chinese delegation came over to look at his plant, they liked his stuff, they offered him more money than he would ever have to buy his company. The only condition was he had to unbolts all the machines and all the production lines, send 3 managers to China for 6 months, and then they would send him a 20 percent cut for the future. Of course, he would not have workers or a company anymore. He agonized, and he said no.
Well, the Chinese said, okay, fine. They went to Seattle and, from a furniture store there, bought a copy of everything he made, and the next year a Chinese Communist Government-subsidized company produced a clone of everything this company in Oregon makes. The clone is sells for 40 percent less at the furniture store. That has also happened to a high-tech company in my district.

My staff was in an extraordinary phone call with the Bush administration, the Commerce Department, saying, will you not help these companies fight the piracy? And they said, no, we will not do that. We are not interested. These are the people who cloak themselves with small business, except if the Chinese want to steal the small businesses, that is okay with us. We are not going to do anything about it, because it might upset some of the big deals going on between GM to move all of their manufacturing to China, or Boeing to move all of their airplanes manufacturing to China, or IBM; you know, the big companies. So small business gets written off.

So not only are we losing the big manufacturing firms; our small firms, our world being piracyed by the Chinese. The administration will do nothing about it. We are borrowing almost $2 billion a day. This is a crazy thing we are doing to the future of our Nation, and they want to tell us how great it is.

Remember, it was the President’s own economic advisor who, in the President’s economic report a year ago January, said that outsourcing, that is, exporting U.S. jobs overseas like Delphi or GM or others, is yet just the latest and greatest new manifestation of the advantages of free trade.

Mr. SANDERS. I believe, roughly speaking, although I do not have the exact words in front of me, but what he said is that if a product can be made less expensively abroad than in the United States, it makes sense to do that. So essentially what he is telling us, and this is the President of the United States’ economic adviser, what he is saying to every corporation in America is, hey, dummy, they pay 50 cents an hour there, $15 an hour here, where are you going to go? Go. So what you have is the Bush administration essentially telling corporate America that they should throw American workers out on the street and move abroad.

I remember a couple of years ago, one of the largest corporations in America is, of course, General Electric. The fellow who is head of that corporation is a guy named Jeff Immelt. Mr. Immelt spoke to some GE investors and he said, and I roughly quote here, not the exact quote, he said, when I look at the future of General Electric, I see China, China, China, China, and China. Why not? Workers, are being piracyed by American worker a decent wage? Why would you want to reinvest in Oregon or in the State of Vermont when you can hire people abroad for 50 cents an hour or $1 an hour, and they go to jail if they stand up for their political rights? It sounds like a great place to do business to me.

Mr. DEFAZIO. Remember how they have sold this, how they sold NAFTA, NAPTA? Up opening up markets for U.S. workers and U.S. products. We want to put Americans to work. We want to create wealth in this country. NAFTA, Bill Clinton said, was going to bring 400,000 jobs to America. He was just totally ex'

'Sorry, I do not have the exact words in front of me, but what he said is

So that whole race to the bottom.

Mr. DEFAZIO. Yes, Machiadora.

Mr. SANDERS. I have been on several occasions to Machiadora, and what a sad sight it is. When you go there you see these modern factories, and then a mile away from these modern factories, not only by American interests, but European interests, Japanese interests, a mile away from these modern factories you see people literally living in cardboard shacks because their income is so low, their wages are so low that they cannot afford decent housing, even by Mexican standards, being exploited terribly.

But that is what we are seeing, a huge shift in manufacturing from the United States to Mexico. And do you want to hear one of the ironies is that many of these corporations who have gone to Mexico are now leaving Mexico in order to go to China, because they do not want to pay Mexican workers. You can pay people there 50 cents an hour. It is a very serious problem currently existing in Mexico, and it is part of that whole race to the bottom.

American workers, that is where our competition is. That is what this President, this Congress has said. Your competition are desperate people earning poverty wages. If you don’t pay your standard of living, they are going there.

Is that a sensible policy for the middle class of this country? Obviously it is not. Nobody here is not concerned about the poor people in the world. We would say, you know, you can’t feed your kids, have decent jobs, have health care, have education. But you don’t have to destroy the middle class of this country in order to improve the standard of living of poor people around the world. We can do both. We can raise the standard of living of American workers and improve the lives of poor people around the world rather than engage in this race to the bottom.

I would like to mention to my friend, we can stay on the trade issue, but I know he has been very involved and we have worked together on this issue of the greed and the profits being perceived literally today by ExxonMobil and the other large oil companies. I think just today, if my memory is correct, ExxonMobil announced that in the last quarter, the last 3 months, they earned $10 billion in profits which as I understand it is more than any corporation in the history of the United States of America; $10 billion. They are not the only large oil company to be earning record-breaking profits. In my State of Vermont, which oil company will not make a profit? No matter what price of oil goes up or down, we are seeing a lot of senior citizens, lower income people, middle-income people, who are going to be having a very, very difficult time heating their homes this winter because the profits are being held in.

What I see in my State, a very rural State, where it is not uncommon for workers to travel 100 miles to and from their jobs, paying now $2.60, $2.70 for a gallon of gas, that is what I see. Meanwhile, ExxonMobil has just earned profits that is more than oil in the corporation in the history of the United States and every other major oil company is also earning record-breaking profits.

I wonder why the President of the United States has not said to the CEOs of the major oil companies: Come on into my office. Let’s go into the Oval Office and let’s talk about how you’re going to lower gas prices, lower home heating oil prices so the American people don’t have to take their paycheck out of their limited incomes and give it to the large corporations.

I know my friend has done a lot of work on this issue.

Mr. DEFAZIO. I have got to correct the gentleman. He exaggerated. Their profit was only $9.8 billion for the quarter because they had some mark downs.

That is the largest corporate quarterly profit in the history of the world, not just the United States of America. So I would say, when you know it has to do with supply and demand and all that. The biggest increase in profits for ExxonMobil, whose profits are up 75 percent on the quarter, BP’s profits up 34 percent on the quarter. I think their stockholders should be talking to them. How come they only went up 34 percent on the quarter? ConocoPhillips 89 percent on the quarter—that CEO is going to get a nice little bonus—is in their refining areas.

The Republican chairman, from Texas, got up on the floor of the House and said, “We have closed 300 refineries in America in the last 10 years.” If he is talking about “we,” that is, if he identifies himself as an oil company executive, that is true. If he is talking about the government of the United States of America, the laws of the United States of America, environmental laws, tax laws, other things, no. There were closed-bid sales. We have closed because of hundreds of oil company acquisitions and mergers and a deliberate policy.

There has been uncovered a memo from Conoco to other major oil companies back in the mid nineties that said: We have a great idea. We’re all only getting 27, 22 cents a gallon on refining. If we close down a bunch of refineries, we can drive up those margins. They have succeeded beyond their wildest dreams. Oregonians were paying three bucks a gallon on Labor Day weekend. We are not in the east coast supply train so it is a little hard to say it had something to do with Katrina. But we were paying three bucks, $3.05 a gallon. Remember what that was because the refiners cut went from 22.7 cents a gallon to $1.11 a gallon, a 500 percent increase in profits for the refiners. In fact, there is a new company, a new kid on the block, the largest refiner in America now called Valero whose CEO when George Bush offered to let him build new refineries on closed military bases with no environmental restrictions, he basically said, why would I want to do that? It’s working just great the way it is. They are making more profits. That is the same thing that Enron did in California. Enron in California got ahold of a bunch of generating plants and then they would shut them down and they would say, oh, my god, we’ve got to charge you 10 times as much for your electricity today because there’s a shortage. They are doing the same thing with refineries. They shut them down and they say, oh, there’s a refinery shortage. Americans are just going to have to say, Oh, there’s my god, we shut them down and they would say, oh, operating plants and then they would see California got ahold of a bunch of generation that Enron did in California. Enron in California was gouging. It is exactly the same thing that with closing down that we are making unbelievable profits price gouging. It is now fixed on your people. They have turned it from price gouging my people on gasoline to price gouging your people on home heating oil. But next spring they will turn their sights back to gasoline. They cannot extract as high, economists call it rent or price for their excess products in gasoline in the wintertime because people don’t drive as much. In the summer they can do that.

Mr. SANDERS. Just so that everyone remembers, one of the points that the President made during his campaign, he comes from an oil background. The Vice President comes from an oil background. They know these things. So for all folks in America who are paying outrageously high prices for gas at the pump, outrageously high prices for home heating oil, well, we have a President and a Vice President who are making profits in a very dirty industry which maybe helps explain why the oil industry is enjoying the highest profits they have ever seen while people all over this country are absolutely getting ripped off. While we talk about oil, I want to divert just a little bit and go back to the trade issue because I know you and I have worked on this one together as well. I always find it so amusing for folks who say, We’re great free traders, We’re great free traders, We believe that competition is good.

As everybody in Congress and everybody in America knows, there is an organization called OPEC, Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries. OPEC’s very reason for existence, the reason they came together, was to be a cartel which could limit production and raise profits. That is what they are. They acknowledge it. This is a self-acknowledged cartel. So I find it just so curious that for an administration, for leaders here in Congress who tell us how much they believe in competition and the free market, I find it quite amazing that I have not heard one word from the White House about the need to take action at the World Trade Organization to break up OPEC so that we can see honest competition from different countries and companies in terms of the oil they are producing.

Have you heard the President, the great exponent of free enterprise and competition, raise that issue? No. It is pick up the Trade Representative’s book and they can read page after page after page of documentation of the Chinese stealing American products and goods and jobs. But they have only filed one complaint. This administration, 5 years in office, has filed one trade complaint against China to be totally fair, on behalf of a pharmaceutical company. That is the only one they have filed. The thousands of small businesses and big businesses are being ripped off. OPEC who is ripping off everybody and driving businesses out of the United States of America, they won’t take them on, but they did file a complaint on behalf of the pharmaceutical industry in China.

Mr. SANDERS. The reason for all of that is obviously very clear: Virtually every piece of legislation that comes to this floor of the House is frankly bought and paid for. Why would you stand up to our China policy, which has now a $100 billion trade deficit, the loss of millions of jobs, the low wages of wages throughout this country, why would you stand up and try to fight that when you have corporate America investing tens of billions in China, donating huge amounts of money to the President and other political people, the corporate American workers in the middle class when you could defend China and the large corporations that go to China?
When we speak about our trade policy, I don’t want anybody to think that we are just talking about blue collar jobs. One of the major economic crises facing our country today is not just the loss of manufacturing jobs in the auto industry, but the steel industry, textiles, furniture, the entire sector of the economy that is called the steel-ere. That is hugely important. But what is happening now, in addition to the loss of manufacturing jobs, we are beginning to see the hemorrhaging of white collar information technology jobs. For many years, this rhetoric here in Washington, D.C., and the world was, well, don’t worry too much if you’re going to lose the blue collar jobs in your community because that’s kind of old-fashioned economies. We’re not into that anymore. The real trick is to make sure your kids get a college education and they can go out and get white collar, computer, information technology jobs, make 50, 60, 70,000 a year, good, clean, solid income. That’s the future of America.

But what is happening there? What is happening now is corporations are beginning to understand the same thing. Information technology companies are understanding what manufacturing companies are understanding. And, that is, why do you want to hire American or $50,000 a year when there are people in India, China, Russia and elsewhere who can do information technology jobs very, very well for 10 percent of the wages paid in the United States? So what you are beginning to see is the hemorrhaging of white collar information technology jobs which are impacting people who have college degrees, people who have graduate degrees. We are seeing this taking place at an increasing level. The answer is if we lose blue collar jobs that paid middle-class wages, if we lose white collar jobs that paid middle-class wages, what is left?

Well, I guess it is Wal-Mart time. We have a situation now, in a company like Wal-Mart, which is far and away the largest employer in America today, a company which pays low wages, minimal benefits, virtually no pension plan, that is the future of America, lose good-paying blue-collar jobs, lose good-paying white-collar jobs and move towards the Wal-Mart-type job in which our standard of living becomes less and less.

Mr. DEFAZIO. Just to make a link there, remember, during the discussions here on this floor, and during the formulation of the China trade policy here, there were the special Wal-Mart provisions that were added to that legislation, China being the largest producer of products for Wal-Mart. Wal-Mart has been driving manufacturers out of America. There was a fan company driven out of Ohio. Finally, they did not want to go. They kept making them here, but Wal-Mart said we can get them cheaper. You make them cheaper. The guy said, I can’t make them any cheaper. This is really efficient. We are making great products here in the United States of America, I am paying these people a decent wage. They said, no, we know you can do it better. No more contract unless you go cheaper. We had one candid executive.

They are doing that to business after business after business, driving them out of America, driving them to China. Yes, you can say short run, that is good. The products are cheaper. Well, the profit margins are a lot cheaper. The products may be a little cheaper, but people do not have jobs any more. People are buying things on credit.

Not only are we borrowing $675 billion this year, projected, to buy products made overseas, Americans are borrowing money to buy the products that we borrowed money to import from overseas that we used to make here, because they have lost their jobs, and they are living off the equity in their homes or the homeowner levels of debt in this country. So there are a host of cascading problems that are falling out of this unsustainable rush toward the bottom.

Mr. SANDERS. My friend mentioned the argument of the permanent normal trade relations agreement was this. China is a huge country, with enormous numbers of consumers. Think about the potential market that we are going to have by selling product to China, all the jobs that we are going to be creating. That was the argument.

Well, it turns out I was in China a couple of years ago. We actually met with, I believe the gentleman was the head of Wal-Mart China. We went to Wal-Marts, and we talked to a number of their executives including, I think, the head of Wal-Mart China. Somebody asked a question of them. They said, will you please tell us, we are in your store here, it is a huge store, and in many respects it looks like an American Wal-Mart store.

Somebody asked them, tell me, I am looking around, and I see all of these American products from soaps to basketballs to whatever it is. What percentage of the products here in Wal-Mart China are made in the United States of America and brought to China?

The guy was a little bit sheepish. He really did not want to hear that question. He said, 1 percent. Now obviously why would anybody, any large corporation, make a product in the United States and send it to China when you can produce it in China with wages substantially less than they are here.

Mr. DEFAZIO. Let me tell you, I had a container board company in my district, major corporation. They closed it down. They had one candid executive who told the truth. He said, why would anybody make container board in the United States of America any more? The cost of paper packaging products. The products are all made in China. The container board industry is moving to China so they can make the container board in China for the products made in China to ship back to the United States of America, even basic industries like that.

I mean, it is extraordinary the breadth and the depth of the under- mining that is going on. If you ask them what is your long-term vision, Alan Greenspan, the chief economist of the country, likes to say, oh, this shows how much people have faith in us. They will lend us all this money. But then they say it is unsustainable to borrow $600 or $700 billion a year forever.

Well, no, no, no. This is a temporary situation that will be corrected. How is it going to be corrected? If the dollar went to Arrupe, how would it be corrected? It is not going to be corrected through the typical currencies. We are buying everything overseas. The Chinese have basically pegged their currency. Not only in the dollar goes down the products cost the same. Oil costs more because we are paying for it, and they are raising the price.

The old models of trade do not work any more. But this administration, because it is working well for a very few, for the corporate CEOs and for a few investors, are perpetuating the model to the point where they push America over the final edge. You talked about the CEO of General Electric. The former CEO of Boeing gave a speech where he said he could not wait until Boeing was not referred to as an American company anymore.

I think about it. I think Republican colleagues do not care about the middle class and small business, which they pretty clearly do not by perpetuating these policies, they at least ought to care about their number one thing they are supposedly tough on, national security. So, in 30 years, when we are in confrontation with China, we have no manufacturing base at all left in this country, we do not make airplanes any more. Like the year before, we probably would have a potential conflict with China, say, over Taiwan. We will call them up and ask them to sell us weapons so we can defend ourselves against them.

How is this going to work? They won’t need weapons. They have so many of our assets in their bank as of now. When George Bush took the presidency they had $60 billion in U.S. assets. As of the end of last year they had $242 billion of Treasury bonds. They are hedging from being number 1 toward being number 1. They will eclipse Japan in a few years as the largest holder of our debt.

All they have to do is threaten to dump our debt on the market and crash the dollar, and they can control the United States of America.

They are putting us so much at jeopardy. If they do not care so much about the middle class, if they do not care about small business, they have to care about the national security implications of this, and the economic security implications of this. But they do not seem to. A few people are doing really well, and they consider themselves sort of stateless people, like the guy who owns a cruise line, who gave up his U.S. citizenship, lives in the U.S. but he took Bahamian citizenship so he would not have to pay taxes any more. He just lived here, and as far as we are here, I mean, that is great. What a great model for the American people.

Mr. SANDERS. I think we are running out of time. Maybe we can just kind of pick up by saying this. This is a great, great country, and the concern that many of us have is that despite people working harder and harder, despite new technology being there that makes us more productive, for some of the reasons that we have discussed tonight, and many of the others that we have not discussed, what we are seeing in America is that the middle class is becoming poorer. Millions of American families today desperately want to be able to send their kids to college, so that their kids will have a better income and standard of living than they do. They cannot afford to do that. What we are seeing is families being stressed out, because both husbands and wives are working incredible hours in my State in Vermont. It is not uncommon for people to be working two or three jobs trying to cobble together an income.

We did not touch on health care, and the disintegration of our health care system. Americans who do not have health insurance whatsoever, tens of millions more who are underinsured, people who are dying because they cannot afford to go to a doctor, and their illnesses become so severe that they are incurable by the time they walk into the doctor's office.

We did not touch on the greed of the pharmaceutical industry, which makes huge contributions to the political profession, mostly to the Republicans, and the result is that we end up paying by far the highest prices in the world for prescription drugs; and the passage of a Medicare prescription drug bill, which does not allow Medicare and 43 million recipients to negotiate with the drug company, so drug prices will go up and up.

The bottom line here is, in my view, that unless ordinary Americans, middle-class, working people, begin to stand up and fight back to reclaim this country from a handful of wealthy and powerful people who are using their power to make themselves wealthier at the expense of almost everybody else, unless we turn that around, the future of this country is not great for our kids and our grandchildren, everything being equal. Our kids will have a lower standard of living than we will. I would like to let my friend from Oregon conclude.

Mr. DEFAZIO. The new CEO of Delphi said they were going to be out of business by the end of the year. He said 10 buses an hour. That is the future for manufacturing workers in America. As you mentioned, it will not be very long until they try to put the same squeeze on knowledge-based workers. They have done it to other skilled workers. Just yesterday Northwest Airlines announced, or was it Continental, whichever one of those is currently in bankruptcy, they are both in bankruptcy. Anyway, they are those two airlines announced that they are going to outsource their flight attendant jobs because they can get cheaper jobs overseas. They want to do the same thing with pilots.

We are outsourcing the maintenance of our airplanes. More than half the heavy maintenance on our airplanes is now done overseas with very little supervision from the FAA. We are losing those jobs, too, because they can get a mechanic for $2 an hour in El Salvador, where they would have to pay a skilled mechanic in the United States of America maybe $25, $30 an hour. They do not want to pay those wages. The race to the bottom is going to end very poorly for most Americans.

We have got to stop it. Mr. SANDERS. We have got to stop it.

Mr. DEFAZIO. We have got to stop the trade policies, tax policies, the fiscal bankruptcy policies that are driving us from bankruptcy, from bankruptcy bill, that was bad enough, written by the credit card companies, but the bankrupting, the looting of America that is going on with this administration.

It is just laughable when the Republicans parade down here and talk about the spending of the Democrats when they control everything and they have increased the debt by 62 percent in 5 years. How do you blame the Democrats for that when they are in charge of every branch of government? Mr. SANDERS. The House and the Senate and the White House. They have it all.

Let me just conclude by thanking my friend from Oregon for being with me today.

THE PRICE OF ENERGY

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. CONAWAY). Under the Speaker's announced policy of January 4, 2005, the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. PETERSON) is recognized for 60 minutes.

Mr. PETERSON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, I rise tonight to talk about an issue that is the most important and pressing issue facing the country today. That is number 1, the price of energy, and, number 2, in particular, natural gas.

I was not going to talk about what we just heard, because in a little bit I am compelled to talk from the last two previous speakers. They talked a lot about energy company profits, which are unfortunate, I think. But how can energy companies benefit from us in such a great way when things are so difficult for the users of energy in this country?

When you allow the marketplace to be short of gas or natural gas or oil, then you allow the traders in New York to bid up the price. When there is a shortage, the price goes up. The big companies that own millions of acres, great reserves and own it in the ground, when they produce it at $35 a barrel, they are going to make a lot more money than when they produce it at $35 a barrel. So if you want to beat them, you want to make sure that we have ample supply, that there is lots of gas, natural gas, that there is lots of oil to produce, that there is lots of coal. There is lots of all the energy portfolios.

Then they cannot make excessive profits because the oil they own, or the natural gas they own in the ground, is not two or three times the riches than it really ought to be. Those are basic economics.

The one comment that I found interesting is this current administration has not worked to break up OPEC. I cannot understand why. OPEC is a group of countries who have for years played a big influence in oil prices, because they sort of combine their resources, and decided how much oil they were going to put on the marketplace. At one time, they did have the ability to lower it by dumping millions more per day on the market or raising it by taking 1 million or 2 million a day off the market.

When the shortage started to show, the Wall Street traders could run the price up. They could get the high price for a while. When there was resistance from America, then they would bring it back down. In the meantime, they made a lot of money. The riches did not go to American companies, they went overseas.

Now, how government can break up organizations of governments that are sovereign countries, I mean, I do not understand how we have any role to play. Now, today, they do not have the same monopoly they did. With China and India becoming huge energy consumers, along with us, the marketplace is being affected. All the oil that can be pumped is being utilized. So there is no slack. I am told that they do not really have the ability to dump an extra 1 or 2 million barrels on the marketplace today that they used to have.

So they can take oil away and force the price up, but they cannot add extra barrels, because the price will go down. I wish I knew how we could beat OPEC. I do know how we can beat OPEC.

So they can take oil away and force the price up, but they cannot add extra barrels, because the price will go down. I wished I knew how we could beat OPEC. I do know how we can beat OPEC. But it is interesting, one of the Members that was here just speaking to us was in a committee meeting markup that I was in the other day. I will not mention any names but we had a debate on opening up Tar Sands in the West. My memory is he was opposed to it. We had an argument opening up ANWR. My memory was he voted against it. We had a discussion about opening up the OCS, that is, the Outer Continental Shelf. He was opposed to it.
Well, if those are the three ways that you bring energy to the marketplace, then we do not have to import as much energy, and we hopefully can get the price down. It is interesting the lack of understanding in this country who sets the oil prices, who sets the natural gas prices.

The issue I really wanted to talk about tonight is natural gas, and that is the clean fuel, the almost perfect fuel. There is almost no contaminants. When you burn it, it is a clean, blue flame. There is very little pollution. I think a fourth of the CO2 flame. There is almost no pollution, I think. When it is a clean flame. There is very little pollution. I think a fourth of the CO2 is the clean fuel, the almost perfect fuel. There is almost no contaminants.

I was at a company in my district last week who makes the basic products for skin softeners, face creams and hand creams, and you know what one of the basic products is? A derivative of natural gas. There has been made the mucilage for labels, largest company in the world making labels. What was the base product for making the glue that goes on labels? Natural gas.

I do not think a lot of Americans realize that, but from face creams to fertilizers to all kinds of chemicals and polymers and plastics, natural gas is the major ingredient, and the price of that natural gas has made us uncompetitive.

While we are at $14, Europe has been at $6 or $6.50. China, Taiwan, South Korea and Japan have been between $4.50 and $5. Those are our economic competitors making products, competing against us, and some of those countries have cheap labor. Now they have an energy that is used so extensively in the manufacturing process where they have almost a three-to-one advantage.

Then you go to the rest of the world, and most of the world’s less than $2. So, if you are going to make petrochemicals and make a profit, you are going to make polymers and plastics, if you are going to melt steel and iron ore or make fertilizer, where are you going to do it? You are going to do it in a country where it is $14 or are you going to do it where it is $6 and are you going to go to South America where it is $1.60? At the same time, 120 chemical plants are being built in the world. One of them is in the States. 119 of them, many of that 119 are being built to displace American jobs because they can produce their products far more competitively in foreign countries.

How do we change this? We have to open up supply. It is interesting, about 10 years ago, this country, this Congress, made a decision that we would remove the prohibition of using natural gas to generate electricity. We used to only allow natural gas to be used as electric generation early in the morning when we had peak power needs and in the early evening when we went home and were eating our meals and the factories were still running and the lights were coming on and we used more power right then than at any other time of the day. At that time of the day, the electric companies have to produce more power than they do during the middle of the night when we are all sleeping.

So peak plants were allowed to use natural gas because it is cheaper to build them, and you can turn them off and on. It is hard to turn a nuclear plant off and on. You have to burn a coal plant off and on, but you can turn a natural gas plant off and on and you can use it for peak power needs.

When we changed that law and allowed natural gas to be used, 98 percent of all power generation in this country that is new and was built in the last decade is all natural gas. We now consume one-fourth of the natural gas that this country has to consume to make power, to make electricity. So that energy made the marketplace very, very short.

The other problem is we have not opened up supply. I remember a number of years ago when I was attending breakfast as a new Member of Congress then the Edison Electric Institute was putting on, they showed this 12 or 15 years of time that we would use a lot of natural gas to make electricity, and then other sources would come back in line and take up the slack.

The same time, we went over to a breakfast in the Senate with Daniel Yergin, who wrote the book on oil, a Pulitzer Prize book, and he talked about the oil industry. He stated that if we go down this road, as was being proposed, and we did not open up supply, it would cause severe economic problems in this country because natural gas prices would become unaffordable.

That is exactly what has happened. In my view, it is Congress and the last three administrations who are all equally at fault. Twenty-some years ago, a prohibition was placed in law by Congress and a moratorium was placed by the President at that time that you could not produce oil and gas on 85 percent of the Outer Continental Shelf, and the Outer Continental Shelf is the land offshore for the first 200 miles. The first three miles are controlled by the States. The next 197 miles are controlled by the Federal Government, the Federal waters. Then you go into international waters.

Why would we do that? I am not quite sure why they did it at that time. I was told it was done temporarily by the President, that were going to have an inventory, and find out where our best reserves were, and then we would know where to produce. That never happened.

The next President came in and he made it last to 2012, and the current administration has not dealt with it. So we have a presidential moratorium from producing there and we have a legislative moratorium.

Going on down the list, petrochemicals, every chemical we buy at the hardware store and grocery store that we use to clean products with, they are all made from a natural gas base. Often half the cost of making petrochemicals is natural gas because it is an ingredient, and a fuel used to heat it and make the product.

Polymers and plastics, what do we have that does not have polymers and plastics in it? Almost nothing. Everything has polymers and plastics. Most of the things in a country, plastics or make fertilizer, where are you going to make polymers and plastics, when they are produced, they have both oil and a lot of natural gas in the production process and as an ingredient. So 40 to 45 percent of the cost of polymers and plastics come back to natural gas.

When this country buys $65 oil and we bend steel and aluminum by heating it. We heat our homes and cook our meals. When we are at $14, 71 percent of that cost is natural gas. We use natural gas. Another company there produces it into products, the whole world does, but when we pay $14 per 1,000 for natural gas, we are all by ourselves.

How do we change this? We have to open up supply. It is interesting, about 10 years ago, this country, this Congress, made a decision that we would remove the prohibition of using natural gas to generate electricity. We used to only allow natural gas to be used as electric generation early in the morning when we had peak power needs and in the early evening when we went home and were eating our meals and the factories were still running and the lights were coming on and we used more power right then than at any other time of the day. We now consume one-fourth of the natural gas that this country has to consume to make power, to make electricity. So that energy made the marketplace very, very short.

The other problem is we have not opened up supply. I remember a number of years ago when I was attending breakfast as a new Member of Congress then the Edison Electric Institute was putting on, they showed this 12 or 15 years of time that we would use a lot of natural gas to make electricity, and then other sources would come back in line and take up the slack.

The same time, we went over to a breakfast in the Senate with Daniel Yergin, who wrote the book on oil, a Pulitzer Prize book, and he talked about the oil industry. He stated that if we go down this road, as was being proposed, and we did not open up supply, it would cause severe economic problems in this country because natural gas prices would become unaffordable.

That is exactly what has happened. In my view, it is Congress and the last three administrations who are all equally at fault. Twenty-some years ago, a prohibition was placed in law by Congress and a moratorium was placed by the President at that time that you could not produce oil and gas on 85 percent of the Outer Continental Shelf, and the Outer Continental Shelf is the land offshore for the first 200 miles. The first three miles are controlled by the States. The next 197 miles are controlled by the Federal Government, the Federal waters. Then you go into international waters.

Why would we do that? I am not quite sure why they did it at that time. I was told it was done temporarily by the President, that were going to have an inventory, and find out where our best reserves were, and then we would know where to produce. That never happened.

The next President came in and he made it last to 2012, and the current administration has not dealt with it. So we have a presidential moratorium from producing there and we have a legislative moratorium.
I was here a number of years ago and voting on Interior appropriations bills un- aware that every one of those bills I passed said you cannot spend a dime to lease land on the Outer Continental Shelf so it can be produced. Why do they do that? The argument is that you cannot do it and have clean beaches, that you cannot do it and have nice shorelines. Let me see what the rest of the world does.

We can go north to a country that is considered one of the most environmentally sensitive, Canada. They produce oil both oil and gas right off of the main coastline in Canada and right above Washington, off that coastline, and they drill in our Great Lakes every day, and produce gas only, not oil, and sell it to us. In fact, we get 14 percent of our natural gas from Canada. We produce 84 percent of our own, and we get 2 percent from LNG, that is liquefied natural gas, and I will talk about that later. That is another issue.

So, where do they produce there? The United Kingdom, are they not a pretty environmentally sensitive country? I think so. How about Denmark, Sweden, Norway, New Zealand, Australia? They all produce on their Outer Continental Shelf. Canada has 12 miles, you cannot see it, you do not know it is there. It is interesting, in the gulf, when the storms hit so hard there this year, the fishermen were saying to the oil companies now, if you are not going to produce here any longer, we want you to leave the rigs and the platforms because that is where the good fishing is.

Every study has shown where we are producing oil and gas in the Outer Continental Shelf, there is a lot more aquatic life because they like the shade, they like the cover, and that is just where the good fishing is.

I want to read you an interesting article to prove that I think with today’s technology oil and gas production both are much more environmentally friendly.

It says here: “The most cited reason is to protect ‘the State’s tourism de- pendent economy and environmentally sensitive shoreline.’” That is what States like Florida and California have been telling us.

“Objections which are based more on fear than fact. Of the hundreds of thousands of gas wells drilled in the U.S., not one has ever been declared or caused an environmental hazard.” not one.

“A natural gas well is a 6-inch hole in the ground. You put a steel casing down it, you cement the bottom and cement the top, and you let gas out.”

“As for oil, the last environmental hazard was spill in California over 36 years ago.” Technology has really improved since then. “Light years away when you could consider the advances made in advanced drilling technology.”

“To demonstrate how safe offshore energy production is today: there were 113 platforms destroyed, 52 damaged, 8 drilling platforms de- stroyed and 19 damaged by Katrina and Rita. Yet there were no significant spills and no spills of any kind which resulted in contact with sensitive habi- tat.”

We just know that this storm was one of the hardest to hit the gulf.

“Simply put, there is no basis in science or recent history to the claim that offshore energy production presents a real or potential environmental hazard to any State’s shoreline. A fact accepted by countries such as Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Australia, United Kingdom and Canada noted ‘green countries’ vow willingly drill off their coastlines.”

“As for the problem of aesthetics, all production platforms can easily be placed away out of sight of even the tallest tourist by placing them no clos- er than 20 miles off shore.”

In my view, this argument just does not cut water. Anyway, I have been one who has been proposing that we open up the Outer Continental Shelf. I have been involved in this natural gas issue for the last number of years, I stood right back here in this aisle and argued with Members of Congress who are no longer here but who were in powerful positions, trying to convince them that all the charts and graphs put out by the Energy Depart- ment showed me that we were ap- proaching a very big shortfall on nat- ural gas in the future, and because it is so involved in our whole economic basis, it is so involved in heating our homes and running our businesses and making so many different products, that we could not afford to let natural gas prices excel to the point of where it would make this country noncompeti- tive.

Today it is at $14. Earlier I was talk- ing on the phone to a gentleman who is the head of the Christian Youth Center in a community in my district. He said he just signed a contract. Last year they bought their gas for $7. He just signed a contract for $14. That means that organization is paying twice as much for heat this year. I have talked to all kinds of companies, and most are signing contracts for $14 and $15. They never dreamed they would pay that much. A couple short years ago, they were at $3 and $4.

When you are a company that bakes things, a company that heat treats metal, a company that uses huge amounts of natural gas, you are sud- denly placed in a noncompetitive posi- tion with the rest of the world. That is where this country is at.

This is a government-caused short- age. We have decided to expand use of clean natural gas, but at the same time we have refused to produce it, and you cannot import it like you can oil, thank God. There are those who think importation is the answer. I do not think so. I think it can be helpful, but I hope it does not become our long- term policy.

Liquefied natural gas, you liquefy it at very low temperatures. You place it in the most expensive ships known to man, and then bring it into ports. Then you have to warm it up, turn it back to a gas and have it injected into our system. The part I have not been able to get an answer on, we have four ports that can liquefy natural gas and regassify it and put it into the system. The one I know about is Baltimore, and I was told they are at 63 percent capacity. When you can buy natural gas in foreign countries for $2, I do not understand why our ships are not lined up. There is something flat about this system because it is not being utilized to the capacity this country has.

Big oil would like us to go down that road. They would like to build the ships. They would like to build the ports and they have the money to do that. I think that is a flawed philos- ophy because who do we buy it from? We see it, it is from Libya, Algeria, Norway, New Zealand, Australia, not exactly our friends, and unstable countries that do not always treat us very fairly. For the short term, I think we should take advantage of, but I think we should build our long-term natural gas supply system that way. The chart that I saw recently showed by the year 2020, 38 percent of our natural gas would come from LNG. I do not think that we can make that happen, I hope we do not make that happen because we have trillions of cubic feet off our shores, all up and down our coastlines.

I have a map, and it shows 85 percent of our coastline. California coastline, and from Maine to Florida all locked up. The outer continental shelf is from 2 miles to 3 miles loaded with natural gas. My proposal is we open it up for natural gas. We give the shorelines 20 miles of protection so you would never lose heat in a hospital. They would have an excellent, I hope we do not make that happen because we have trillions of cubic feet off our shores, all up and down our coastlines. I have a map, and it shows 85 percent of our coastline. California coastline, and from Maine to Florida all locked up. The outer continental shelf is from 2 miles to 3 miles loaded with natural gas. They would have an excellent, I think that is a flawed philos- ophy because who do we buy it from?
scheduling so fast they cannot produce enough to have in storage. It will hit the fan on that issue in January and February. When cold weather is here and has a grip on us and there is a short supply, we will see prices for home heating oil that will make natural gas look like a bargain, if you can even buy it.

Mr. Speaker, this country is facing, I believe, the greatest pressure on our economy because of the price of energy and specifically natural gas. It is one we would want to have. This has been a by choice, and then by willingness of no one to face up to where we are at today and change it.

I propose to this Congress, and I have been promised we will have a discussion, I have a proposal that would open up the outer continental shelf all of the way around this country. We would open it up for natural gas. We would give the 20-mile cushion so it is set out of sight, and we would allow the States the rights, and we would reward the States for those who produce and provide the energy this country needs.

I have asked our leadership, and I have been told it will happen, that we will have a debate in the Committee on Resources. We can get my proposal out of there, and I am hopeful because we passed an amendment similar to that a few weeks ago, and that bill got stalled because of great opposition from the Florida State government and the Florida delegation. We did not deal with the issue on the floor. But I have asked that we have a clean up or down vote, that we have lengthy debate, that we tell the American people about how natural gas, and I believe natural gas, if we had ample supply, the use of it could be expanded.

We passed a bill last week to incentivize the expansion of refineries. Natural gas could be utilized in all of our school buses because a gasoline engine with a slight adjustment can burn natural gas. Our construction vehicles, city transit vehicles, we could have a large number of vehicles in this country that do not have to travel long distances and can be refueled every night use natural gas. Swan Delivery Company that sells ice cream and frozen products, they have advertised for years that they are the company that is green, they burn natural gas and not gasoline. Now they are paying a huge premium for that. That shows us it can be done.

I have a bus system at State College in my district, they are all natural gas. Today they are paying a premium for being good stewards of the environment by using that fuel.

And the West is full of natural gas, but that is not as obtainable because we have inadequate pipeline systems to get it out to the States. The outer continental where we have, I am told, over 400 trillion cubic feet, and many think it may be double that, that is a 50- to 70-year supply. We would not need to import any from Canada. We could use it for transportation. The first hydrogen cars would really be run on natural gas because that is how we can make hydrogen today most efficiently. So it can be the bridge to the future as we bring on renewables.

Mr. Speaker, $60 oil is going to make a lot of things work for our country, not on making fuel out of coal. We are making fuels out of grain. I have a company in my district that just bought a landfill, and they are going to make ethanol out of garbage. All kinds of things are going to work, but it is not quite as easy as we used to do things.

So an ample supply of the clean fuel that has no contaminants, that we can use in so many ways and is so much a part of our economy already, natural gas can be our bridge, but $14 natural gas has been the wall that this country is going to hit at a high rate of speed. I was a retailer for 26 years. I vividly remember the late 1970s and early 1980s when we had very high natural gas prices, and we had cold winters. I remember as a retailer it was always difficult to make a profit in January and February. You were lucky if you did not lose money, and then you started making profit in the spring and summer. But during those years, people were spending, they had spent so much money to heat their homes, and petroleum prices were up, too. Sometimes it was clear into May before business became normal again because people were spending money.

This winter people are going to spend twice as much to drive their car, and almost twice as much to heat their homes. They are going to have a whole lot less money for spending, and 70 percent of Americans spend all of the money they earn every paycheck, so the marketplace is going to be very soft for retail business and commerce, in my view. It is all going to be caused because this country has been unwilling to realize that energy prices are a direct correlation of supply. And we are much more dependent on foreign oil. ANWR could be helpful, and other drilling would be helpful, but on natural gas, there is no valid reason that we have the highest natural gas prices in the world that makes our petrochemical companies uncompetitive, that makes our plastic companies and polymer companies uncompetitive.

Several weeks ago Alcoa Aluminum Company came in a release, and the headline did not say this, I had to read the whole article to pick it up, and I read it twice to make sure I was correct. It said in the article if energy prices persist to be consistently high as they are today in America, Alcoa Aluminum has expanded it said especially natural gas, we will have to reconsider whether we can produce here.

Now, I thought that was a message that should have been the headline. I thought it should have read, "Alcoa said current natural gas prices may prevent us from doing business here."

That was not the headline. I forgot what the headline was, but it was sort of an innocuous headline. Nobody read that and seemed to understand what it said. It said we have to reconsider whether we can produce here.

Mr. Speaker, I have had chemical companies and fertilizer companies tell me how it is almost impossible for them to continue because they have told that to the leaders of Congress and I am sure they have told it to the administration. But for some reason we are here tonight and today and yesterday, and we have no real plan of action to bring on natural gas supplies, that can allow Americans to heat their homes cost effectively or small businesses to operate efficiently. Or for the major companies, which are the best blue collar jobs that we have left in this country, to stay here and prosper here and be competitive in a global marketplace.

This is an issue that I do not think is complicated. I think it is quite simple. I have been concerned about it for 5 years. I have been promised it, I think all of my predictions have come true, and it is even worse than I expected. Tonight I urge my colleagues, I urge the people in this country, we have to open up the supply of energy in general but natural gas in particular. It is the fuel that can give us a strong economy, that can help us affordably live in our homes, small businesses stay profitable, and allow the large production companies that make all of the products that I have mentioned, whether it is bending, melting, smelting, cooking, all of it, if it uses natural gas, today they cannot do it competitively.

If we do what we should do and open up supply, America will continue to be the land of opportunity and we can compete with anybody because we have the best workforce.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Today's prayer will be offered by our guest Chaplain, Dr. Alan Keiran, chief of staff of the Senate Chaplain's Office.

PRAYER

The guest Chaplain offered the following prayer:

Let us pray.

O God of might and power, give our Senators today Your passion. Give them a passion for people that will bring liberty and hope. Give them a passion for justice that will empower them to become our Nation's conscience. Give them a passion for unity that will break down the barriers that divide us. Give them a passion for action that they may not shrink from the new or be satisfied with the comfortable inertia.

Give us all a passion for progress that will enable us to see what is not and dream what can be.

We pray in Your precious Name. Amen.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE

The PRESIDENT pro tempore led the Pledge of Allegiance, as follows:

I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

RECOGNITION OF THE MAJORITY LEADER

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The majority leader is recognized.

Mr. FRIST. Mr. President, this morning the time until 10 a.m. will be equally divided for debate prior to the cloture vote. That cloture vote is scheduled to begin at 10 a.m. promptly. We will be on the Labor-HHS appropriations bill. We started that bill now 6 days ago, last Friday. Senators have had ample opportunity to debate and offer amendments. Therefore, I expect that we will invoke cloture this morning. Once invoked, the chainman can begin the process of bringing that bill to a close. If we work together and Members are reasonable with their requests for amendments, we will be able to finish the bill tonight. If we are unable to get passage of the bill tonight, then we would return to session tomorrow and stay on the bill with votes until completion. That gives added incentive for people to finish it today, but we will be here tomorrow to vote if we do not finish it tonight.

Today we may also receive the Agriculture appropriations conference report from the House, and I will be talking to the Democratic leader about the scheduling for consideration.

Finally, we have some Executive Calendar nominations ready for Senate action, including a couple of judges. We need to dispose of those nominations as soon as possible.

Withdrawal of Nomination of Harriet Miers

Mr. Frist. Mr. President, over the last several weeks, Harriet Miers has formally requested to withdraw as a nominee to serve as Associate Justice of the Supreme Court. I had a conversation with Ms. Miers early this morning, and she told me that it was last evening that she spoke to the President and formally requested her nomination to be withdrawn. She stated clearly to me this morning and in a letter, which I will refer to shortly, that she felt that withdrawal was in the best interest of the United States. She came to this decision on her own, based on what she has experienced and witnessed and with the requests that are currently being made and as she projects herself forward to the hearings again, in the best interests of the country. This morning she was gracious and forthcoming, confident, expressed appreciation for all of the work that has been done to date in the Senate and asked me to tell each of the Senators, asking me to say thank you and the support of many others. Howtever, I am concerned that the confirmation process presents a burden for the White House and our staff that is not in the best interest of the country.

As you know, members of the Senate have indicated their intention to seek documents. In order to avoid the necessity to judge whether to support me. I have been informed repeatedly that in lieu of records, I would be expected to testify about my service in the White House to demonstrate my experience and judicial philosophy. While I believe that my lengthy career provides sufficient evidence for consideration of my nomination, I am convinced the efforts to obtain Executive Branch materials and information will continue.

As I stated in my acceptance remarks in the Oval Office, the strength and independence of our three branches of government are critical to the continued success of this great Nation. Repeatedly in the course of the process of confirmation for nominees for other positions, I have steadfastly maintained that the Executive Branch be reserved and its confidential materials and information not be released to further a confirmation process. I feel compelled to adhere to this position related to my own nomination. Protection of the prerogatives of the Executive Branch and continued pursuit of my confirmation are in tension. I continue to believe that seeking my confirmation should yield.

I share your commitment to appointing judges with a conservative judicial philosophy, and I look forward to continuing to support your efforts to provide the American people judges who will interpret the law, not make the law, and who are enthusiastic about the opportunity to have served your Administration and this country.

Most respectfully,

HARRIET ELLAN Miers.

Those are her words, and I think they are very direct. I did have a chance to talk to the President moments ago. He says that he accepted this withdrawal. Harriet Miers will continue as White House counsel, of course. And I believe that we can expect another nomination in the very near future. I will be talking to Chairman Specter a little bit later this morning.

I yield the recognition of the minority leader.

The President pro tempore. The Democratic leader is recognized.

HARRIET MIEERS

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I have heard, since I have been in Washington these many years, about what a tough town it is. I rarely have felt that in my work here. But today I feel what some have said. For Harriet Miers, this is a tough town.

Here is a fine woman, gentle and kind, has a lengthy career. Her record: First woman to become a member of a large law firm in Texas; first woman to be president of the Dallas Bar Association. The Dallas Bar Association is larger than most State bar associations. She followed that with being the president of the Texas Bar Association, one of the three or four largest bar associations in the United States. She has served in the Senate for a short period. She has had extensive experience in the courts.

I was in Texas this past weekend with a bunch of Democratic lawyers, members of the Democratic Party. They all said the nicest things about Harriet Miers. She was a fine litigator.

It is no secret I thought she would be an appropriate nomination for the President. I suggested that to the distinguished majority leader. I believe the 35 to 40 percent of the people who have served on the Supreme Court with no judicial experience before getting there have been successfully as good as those people who have come to the Court with judicial experience. I believe those Justices with whom I had lunch a few months ago, who said, we would like to have a nominee who has come to the Supreme Court—that is what they said—were right. I believe they are still right.

I have talked a little bit about Harriet Miers. She called me this morning. I agree with the distinguished Republican leader that she was upbeat, but she wasn't happy. She was very disappointed. It was obvious she was very disappointed. Who wouldn't be? In her experience as a large law firm partner, in her whole career she has shown that she was a strong supporter for law firm diversity policies, a leader in promoting legal services for the poor. She made statements, written and otherwise, where she spoke her beliefs on basic fairness. I believe, without any question, that when the history books are written about all this, it will show that the radical rightwing of the Republican Party drove this woman's nomination right out of town. Apparently, Ms. Miers didn't satisfy those who want to pack the Supreme Court with rigid ideologues. The only voices heard in this process were the far right. She wasn't even given a chance to speak for herself before the Senate Judiciary Committee. Her credentials, which are excellent, weren't good enough for the rightwing. They wanted a nominee with a proven record of supporting their skewed goals.

I hope our President, in choosing a replacement for his lawyer—and that is what she is—will not reward the bad behavior of his rightwing base. President Bush should reject the demands of these extremists and choose a Justice who will protect the constitutional rights of all Americans. The President should listen to all Americans, not just extreme elements of his own party.

I repeat what the distinguished Senator from Maryland said, Ms. Mikulski, that she sensed a whiff—I think that is a direct quote—of sexism in all of the attacks on the nominee.

Mr. President, it is over with. She has given her withdrawal to the President. I don't think it is a good day for our country.

The President pro tempore. Who yields time?

Mr. REID. I yield to the distinguished Senator from New York.

How much time do we have, Mr. President?
The President pro tempore. Eight minutes 11 seconds.

Mr. Reid. And that is equally divided; is that right?

The President pro tempore. The majority has 7 minutes 42 seconds.

Mr. Reid. While the distinguished majority leader is here, Mr. President, through you to the distinguished Republican leader, we had a half hour set aside and I took more than my share. You didn't take much time. I ask unanimous consent that there be 30 minutes for morning business and the vote at 10 o'clock be scheduled at 10:15.

I understand the Senator from New York is not talking in morning business. I withdraw my request. I yield to her whatever time she may consume.

The President pro tempore. The Senator from New York is recognized.

Amendment No. 2313

Mrs. Clinton. I thank the Chair. I ask unanimous consent that at the conclusion of my brief remarks my colleague, Senator Schumer, be recognized.

The President pro tempore. The President pro tempore. Subject to the control of the time, yes.

Mrs. Clinton. I thank the Chair. Mr. President, I believe amendment 2313 is pending before the Senate; is that correct?

The President pro tempore. Pending before the Senate is H.R. 3010.

Mrs. Clinton. Is amendment 2313 at the desk?

The President pro tempore. The amendment is pending amendment 2313 at the desk.

The President pro tempore. The amendment is the pending amendment, the one we go on in regular business.

Mrs. Clinton. Mr. President, parliamentary inquiry: Will we be going to regular business before the cloture vote?

The President pro tempore. We are on the bill at this time.

Mrs. Clinton. Then if we are on the bill at this time, I wish to speak briefly about amendment 2313 and ask that it be placed on the Senate.

The President pro tempore. The President pro tempore. The Senator has the right to make that amendment the regular order if she desires.

Mrs. Clinton. I do desire, Mr. President, to make amendment 2313 the regular order.

The President pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mrs. Clinton. I thank the Chair. Mr. President, this amendment addresses a problem that is quite unprecedented with respect to the funds that were appropriated originally from this body following the attacks of September 11. The funds were part of the original emergency appropriation passed by the Congress and signed by the President. The money addressed in this amendment is intended for use for medical services and related matters on behalf of first responders, construction workers, and others who worked at Ground Zero, who were in a variety of ways physically impacted, often leading to employment-ending disabilities. The people who gave so much in the immediate aftermath of those attacks include, of course, those who lost their lives and also those who as part of the rescue and recovery operations suffered long-lasting physical and mental damage.

A number of those people have not been compensated. They are suffering from ailments ranging from physical disability, loss of limbs, loss of the use of limbs. They have suffered an incredible range of lung-related and breathing diseases—asthma, respiratory disease. And others have suffered greatly from the stresses they confronted, particularly working on what was called "the pile" day after day after day; some who worked out at Freshkills, the formerly very large Freshkills, the former Freshkills on Staten Island, where the remains of so many who lost their lives, including the debris from the cleanup, were taken and deposited. Detectives worked there hour after hour after hour recovering evidence, and often suffering from PTSD, traumatic body parts. Many of these people who were directly impacted continued to work as long as they could. They tried to return to some semblance of normalcy. Unfortunately, they often could not continue.

The money that was directed to be used for their medical and employment-related needs was caught up in some of the efforts to deal with the budgetary constraints, and an unprecedented rescission of these funds previously appropriated was called for.

On both sides of the aisle, in the Senate as well as the House, we have a number of our colleagues who understand completely the need for these funds to be reinstated and available for the purposes they were intended. Certainly, the Governor of our State, the Mayor of our city, along with representatives of many of the workers, the police, the firefighters, the construction workers, and others who were adversely impacted because they responded to the need for their services and their heroic efforts, are all united in our effort on both sides of the aisle to put the money back so the Government can make sure that what was promised is fulfilled.

I greatly appreciate the chairman of the committee and the ranking member working with us over the last weeks to make sure we correct this unprecedented rescission. I believe the amendment has been agreed to by the chairman and ranking member. I hope we are able to move forward with that expeditiously.

This is a righting of an inadvertent wrong. I don't think the full intent and understanding of what these funds were for was perhaps appreciated, but there seems to be a great willingness, which I greatly appreciate, on behalf of the majority—

The President pro tempore. The Senator's time has expired.

Mrs. Clinton. And so, Mr. President, let me if I could—

The President pro tempore. The President pro tempore. There is no further time for the minority to yield.

Mrs. Clinton. Mr. President, may we have unanimous consent to use the leader time?

The President pro tempore. The leadership time is reserved. The leadership is to use that time.

Mr. Schumer. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that I be given 2 minutes. It can be deducted from the Republican time.

The President pro tempore. Without objection, that request can be agreed to.

Mr. Schumer. I thank the Chair. I want to add my voice in support of this amendment on behalf of Senator Clinton and myself.

We all know the help this country has generously offered those who put their lives on the line—some survived, some did not—after 9/11. Many emerged wounded. I want to add one other element here. When we negotiated with the President for the $20 billion, there was a great moment of unity. When this Congress stood up, it was a great moment of unity. I have to say the President has not wavered in his commitment of the $20 billion. In fact, the White House has been generous in granting us flexibility seeking to take $2 billion of the tax dollars and move them to transportation.

This one rescission is the only mark where there has been a waver in the commitment made to New York in those bleak weeks right after 9/11. We don't know how it came about. I doubt it came from the President—maybe somebody in OMB. But removing this rescission rights that wrong and keeps the ledger unblemished about this Nation's commitment to $20 billion to New York.

I thank Senator Specter and Senator Cochran for understanding that nothing—none of the Senate Senator Clinton and I look forward to the fact that this amendment, which will now be in the Senate bill, will prevail in the House and that the White House will help us make that happen.

The President pro tempore. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that letters from Governor Bloomberg be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:
It is impossible to predict exactly the needs of the governments, businesses and individuals hurt by such a crisis. Jurisdictions affected by major disasters, be they mandated by Congress or chosen by the benefit of hindsight to make full and proper use of allocated funds. Thus it is important that the Congress allow these jurisdictions to come back and request revisions in the federal assistance provided.

In New York, there is still a need for New York State to pay for the remainder of the aforementioned $125 million, but we are writing you about the remaining $75 million. New York has significant, ongoing needs for continued medical treatment as a result of the September 11th attacks. It is our understanding that Senators Clinton and Harkin have been working on an amendment to restore this $75 million so it can be used to administer baseline and follow-up screening and clinical examinations and long-term medical health monitoring, analysis, and treatment for emergency services personnel and rescue and recovery personnel through the FDNY Bureau of Health Services and the WTC Registry. The FDNY, Project Cope, the Police Organization Providing Peer Assistance (POPPA), the World Trade Center Medical Monitoring and the Mount Sinai Center for Occupational and Environmental Medicine working with the State and City of New York. The New York Fire Department (FDNY) estimates that this funding would enable the World Trade Center (WTC) Medical Monitoring Program, that the Department’s Bureau of Health Services runs in partnership with Mt. Sinai Medical Center, and the FDNY Medical Treatment Program to continue for several more years, although additional funds would be needed beyond that time period. The WTC Medical Monitoring Program monitors and treats the WTC rescue and recovery workers and volunteers affected by environmental contaminants and other exposures at the WTC site. It is the only long-term, national program that provides periodic medical monitoring examinations, as well as short- and long-term medical treatment, for the approximately 12,000 FDNY rescue workers and 12,000 other responders who could be at risk for WTC-related illnesses. It assesses ability and long-term survival of this crucial workforce. The FDNY’s workforce was the most severely affected by September 11, 2001. On that day alone, the Department suffered 343 fatalities and 2,000+ injuries of the need for medical treatment—some for life-threatening injuries. In all, more than 12,000 FDNY rescue workers performed rescue and recovery efforts through the summer of 2002. The Registry receives funding for several more years. It is also essential that the federal government keep faith with the 71,000 WTC responders and volunteers who ensured the stability and long-term survival of this crucial project.

Thank you for all you have done to help us on behalf of those affected by September 11.

Sincerely,

MICHAEL R. BLOOMBERG

FIRE DEPARTMENT OF NEW YORK—MT. SINAI PARTNERSHIP

To continue the existing medical monitoring and treatment program, the FDNY needs federal assistance for a 30-year medical monitoring program that to date has been funded by the Centers of Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) and the National Institute of Occupational Safety and Health (NIOSH). The FDNY needs federal assistance to enable the World Trade Center Medical Monitoring Program to continue to provide comprehensive periodic follow-up monitoring exams to FDNY WTC rescue workers (active and retired) at periodic (e.g., 18-month) intervals, thereby maintaining needed services and medical continuity for this group.

Based on current patient enrollment and the anticipated health-economic needs of this population, the FDNY needs federal assistance to support the medical treatment for the FDNY WTC rescue workers (active and retired) at periodic (e.g., 18-month) intervals, thereby maintaining needed services and medical continuity for this group.

The Registry has enrolled 71,000 persons, including those who were contacted from known employer and building lists. It also enrolled eligible individuals who voluntarily enrolled. The Registry is designed to maintain contact with and systematically document potential health effects related to periodic monitoring of mental and physical health conditions over the course of the next 20 years. To benefit participants and other affected by the disaster, the Registry provides immediate information on health and mental health outcomes, as well as available resources and treatment options. It is a unique resource open to health experts around the country conducting more in-depth health investigations. Special studies by a number of academic institutions have already begun, with the Registry providing a means to contact interested participants. The findings of these studies will benefit individuals affected by 9/11 and physicians concerned with their care.

The Registry provides one of the few opportunities to conduct future population-based assessments of WTC health effects on disaster-affected populations. It was established with funding provided through the federal Agency for Toxic Substances and Disease Registry (ATSDR). The cost of this program is modest and provides a platform to monitor the public health consequences of the WTC attacks and develops essential health and emergency preparedness information. The amendment that the FDNY works to include in the Department’s Bureau of Health Services continues to provide comprehensive periodic follow-up monitoring exams to FDNY WTC rescue workers (active and retired) at periodic (e.g., 18-month) intervals, thereby maintaining needed services and medical continuity for this group.

our WTC rescue workers the same level and number of medical and mental health services as Mount Sinai plans for the non-FDNY WTC responders.

The FDNY treatment program, treating an estimated 3,000 patients, has a current budget of $15 million annually. The Mt. Sinai portion of the program has a similar budget. Funding for these programs is uncertain after 2007. The FDNY monitoring and evaluation program, treating an estimated 12,000 patients, has a current budget of $5 million per year. Funding for this program is uncertain after 2009.

WORLD TRADE CENTER REGISTRY (WTCHR)

The World Trade Center Health Registry is designed to monitor the physical and mental health of the 71,000 enrollees for 20 years. The Registry is the only systematic way to document and verify the possible long-term consequences of the WTC disaster in groups directly affected by the attacks, such as residents, children, building survivors, visitors, and rescue/recovery workers and volunteers. Without this information, even the U.S. to systemically monitor the health of persons exposed to a large-scale disaster.

The Registry developed a comprehensive resource guide, which is updated regularly, to help WTC-affected persons find physical or mental health services and other 9/11-related assistance. It is the only comprehensive and updated resource directory for people affected by the attack. To accomplish this, the Department is collaborating with the National Coalition for Cancer Survivors (NCCS) to develop an extensive set of clinical guidelines for physicians treating patients affected by 9/11.

An average cost of $45 per enrollee per year is required to support the registry for its 20 year life span—a modest cost to monitor the health consequences of this major disaster and to develop essential health and emergency preparedness information. Annual and recurring support of $3.31 million is needed to support the registry. A cooperative agreement between NCCS and the New York City Department of Health and Mental Hygiene (DOHMH) provides partial and declining support only through 2007, leaving a shortfall averaging $1.2 million through that date. After 2007, no funding has been committed to support the $3.31 million need.

New York City is working with our federal partners and representatives to secure long-term funding for WTCHR.

Mrs. CLINTON. This money has been counted on to meet the needs of so many of these workers, through the workers comp system, through the health care system. We fought very hard to make sure there was a sufficient amount of money for the diagnosis of the various physical and mental ills that people suffered after 9/11. I was very grateful we were able to do that. People are being diagnosed. They are being helped. Unfortunately, without this money, that help cannot continue. After 9/11, we learned that many of the people who were involved in the horrible bombing in Oklahoma City years before were finally coming to ask for help, that they had been suffering in silence. Often there had been terrible memories that interfered with their ability to continue working. This is something that we know from experts is, unfortunately, a very long-term, slow-moving problem, that we can only move forward the way immediately. There are those for whom it takes longer to come to grips with what has happened. We are seeing that. We are seeing still people who for the first time go to a physician, for the first time ask for help. I have worked closely with the fire department over the last 4 years and they have been absolutely superb in trying to make sure that help was available, people knew about the assistance. It is first to tell you not every one of the firefighters was ready to ask for it. They had to be convinced it was OK to do.

So having this money reinstated will fulfill the promise we have made to all of these men and women that we are not going to forget them, we are going to take care of them; that when they are ready to ask for help, they will get help, and that the resources will be available for them to get that help.

It is very heartening, and I obviously understand we are going to have a challenge in the conference committee, but all of our colleagues on both sides of the aisle in the House, particularly those who serve on the Appropriations Committee, part of this team and are working hard to make sure their leadership understands what our leadership does, which is that this is keeping faith with the people who kept faith with America, a lot of brave and heroics, extremely hard working human beings who ran toward danger instead of away from it. I am very grateful that this will be in the Senate bill and we will be able to go with a united front on behalf of the Senate joining with those in the majority and minority in the House to make sure we provide this funding as soon as possible.

I appreciate all the hard work we have seen from the chairman and the chairman’s staff, from the ranking member and the ranking member’s staff. This was a challenge they undertook because they supported what we were trying to do and understood how significant it was to correct this situation.

I also appreciate the chairman of the full committee and the ranking member of the full committee who have similarly been very supportive in helping us work out a solution to this issue.

I can only hope that when we get to conference the House will understand and accept how we have worked this out and give us a chance to make our case. I believe it is a worthy case. It has bipartisan support. I think the House will see that and understand it.

I am grateful to everyone who has helped us get to this point.

Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

THE PRESIDENT OFFICER (Mr. VITTER). The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. STEVENS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDENT OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. STEVENS. Mr. President, on behalf of the chairman of the subcommittee, Senator SPECTER, I want to state that this amendment restores $125 million previously appropriated to New York as part of the emergency supplemental bill under chapter 11, relief and recovery, passed by the Congress and signed into law by President Bush on January 10, 2002. (The funds would be used for such purposes as mental health treatment and long-term health monitoring of rescue and recovery personnel.

The amendment is fully offset.

for a prohibition for the use of funds for abstinence education information that has proved medically inaccurate. Again, it has been cleared on both sides of the aisle. The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report. The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senate from Pennsylvania [Mr. SPECTER], for Mr. LUTENBERG, proposes an amendment numbered 2269. The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: To prohibit the use of funds to provide abstinence education that includes information that is medically inaccurate) At the appropriate place, insert the following:

SEC. 223. None of the funds made available in this Act may be used to provide abstinence education that includes information that is medically inaccurate. For purposes of this section, the term ‘‘medically inaccurate’’ means information that is unsupported or contradicted by peer-reviewed research by leading medical, psychological, psychiatric, and public health publications, organizations, and agencies.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent it be in order to make a germaneness point of order against the following amendments en bloc: Senator MURRAY, 2220; Senator SANTORUM, 2241; Senator SANTORUM, 2237; Senator LANDRIEU, 2249. I now raise a point of order that the amendments are nongermane.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, the Senate may make a point of order, en bloc.

Mr. SPECTER. Technically, I raise a point of order that the amendments are nongermane.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The point of order is sustained. The amendments fail.

Mr. HARKIN. Mr. President, what is the pending amendment or business before the Senate?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The pending amendment is the Ensign amendment 2309.

AMENDMENT NO. 2309

Mr. HARKIN. I ask unanimous consent to set the pending amendment aside and return to amendment No. 2239.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, the matter before the Senate is amendment 2239.

The Senator from Iowa is recognized. Mr. HARKIN. Mr. President, before I talk about this amendment that has to do with avian flu, I add my congratulations to the Chicago White Sox for a sterling performance—four straight games in the World Series—to congratulate the team, and to congratulate their owner, Jerry Reinsdorf. The last time the Chicago White Sox won the World Series was 1917. Of course, they were the Black Sox at that time. And the outstanding performer during that 1917 classic was a guy by the name of Joseph Jefferson Jackson from Greenville, SC. Baseball fans and aficionados perhaps may not recognize his name, but they will recognize the name Shoeless Joe Jackson.

In 1999, along with Senator Thurmond and Senator Hollings, we introduced a sense-of-the-Senate resolution. It was defeated by the Senate. Commissioner Selig agreed to review the Shoeless Joe Jackson case to reinstate him to baseball. However, 6 years have passed and Mr. Selig has done nothing. With the winning of the World Series by the Chicago White Sox, it is time to revisit this issue. In that regard, Senator DEMINT from South Carolina and I have submitted a resolution. We will be talking about it later today at an appropriate time when Senator DEMINT and I can both be on the Senate floor. I want Senators to know we have a sense-of-the-Senate resolution that Senator DEMINT and I will be submitting similar to the one we offered in 1999 once again trying to honor one of baseball’s all-time great players who suffered injustice at the hands of the then Commissioner Landis, Kenesaw Mountain Landis, who was a commissioner of baseball for almost 40 years. It was Commissioner Landis who banned Shoeless Joe Jackson from baseball, and robbed him of his rightful place in the Baseball Hall of Fame. We will have more to say about that later today.

I congratulate the Chicago White Sox on a great victory and thank my colleague and my friend from South Carolina for working to get this new resolution. Hopefully, we will take it up in the Senate this afternoon and pass it sometime this afternoon.

Mr. President, we have an amendment before the Senate that is crucial for our country and for the future. It is the one that I am proud to have submitted earlier this week, which I believe to be an appropriate place for it since this ap- propriations subcommittee under the leadership of Senator SPECTER has jurisdiction over both the Department of Health and Human Services and also the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, and also the National Institutes of Health.

Between last month when this amendment was adopted on the Defense appropriations bill and now, I have gone back to NIH, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, and a number of drug companies involved in either vaccine production or the production of antivirals to get a better handle on what it is we need to do. Just what is it? I will admit that in the first amendment, which I offered on the Defense appropriations bill, we were missing some information. But now we have that information. So the amendment we have before us today is a more robust version of that earlier amendment we had on the Defense appropriations bill which was adopted by the Senate. This version is based on more and better information.

There is a broad consensus in the scientific community as to the steps we need to take to get ready for a potential pandemic. Reflecting that scientific consensus, this amendment will do four broad things.

One, as our first line of defense, it will dramatically step up international surveillance of avian flu outbreaks overseas.

Two, it will ramp up our vaccine production infrastructure here in the United States.

Three, it will give us resources to build up both stockpiles of vaccines currently believed to be effective against avian flu as well as stockpiling antiviral medications that you take if, in fact, you get infected.

Fourth, this amendment will strengthen our public health infrastructure at the Federal, State, and local levels, which today is simply not equipped to cope with a major pandemic.

Some have suggested that we be patient and we wait for the administration to put forward a plan to fight avian flu. We have already waited too long. I am not saying we don’t need a plan. We do need an action plan. But we have been warned for years. The first warning came in 1997 that an avian flu pandemic was not just possible but likely, just as we were warned for years that the levees in New Orleans would fail in the case of a major hurricane. Yet the Federal Government did not come forward with any plan of action. I am not saying this Government under President Bush. It was previous Federal Governments. We did not have a plan. And even if we had one, we might say, we were warned in 1997 about a coming avian flu pandemic. Well, nothing was done then either. There is a lot of blame to go around. I am not blaming anyone. I am saying, look, we have always tried to be careful we do not un- paralyzes our country, but alarm bells are ringing at full volume, and we in the Senate this afternoon and pass it. Hopefully, we will take it up in the Senate this afternoon and pass it. Obviously, this is the appropriate place for it since this amendment provides $3.9 billion to prepare for such a pandemic. At that time, we did not know when or if the Labor-HHS bill would ever come to the Senate floor. It is the appropriate place for it since this appropriations subcommittee under the leadership of Senator SPECTER has jurisdiction over both the Department of Health and Human Services and also the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, and also the National Institutes of Health.

There is no question the United States is woefully unprepared for a major outbreak of human-to-human transmitted avian flu. We have clear warnings, as we did prior to 9/11, prior to Katrina, but, again, the Federal Government did not do anything. Now we have been warned in no uncertain terms about avian flu, but, again, under two administrations, nothing has happened.

As many of my colleagues know, avian flu—or H5N1, as it is called in the scientific community—has passed from stockpiling... bird to bird and from birds to humans. We know of one specific case—we know of one specific case—where it went from human to human. Now, there may be others, but we do know of them. And we do know that 50 percent of the humans who have been infected with avian flu have died—50 percent. It has a 50-percent mortality rate. We also know something else: Every chicken, every member of the poultry family that has been infected with avian flu dies—100 percent. This is a very virulent strain.

Experts in virology at the Department of Health and Human Services say it is only a matter of time before the virus mutates and human-to-human transmission becomes widespread and sustained. That has not happened yet. We have had some cases of the avian flu jumping from a bird to a human. As I said, we have had one known case of it going from one human to another; and, I might add, both died. We have many places where the transmission is both sustained and pervasive, widespread, but the virologists say it is only a matter of time before that happens.

An outbreak in China, Vietnam, Cambodia, or anywhere such as the United States, so far, has the potential to trigger within weeks a worldwide outbreak, facilitated by air travel, the mass movement of people across borders. As I said, 50 percent of the individuals who have been infected have died. You can envision a nightmare scenario, a kind of 21st-century "Black Death" that is not difficult to picture. Indeed, most experts say it is not a matter of if but when.

Let me quote from an article that was in the recent Newsweek magazine of October 31, an article by Fareed Zakaria, entitled "A Threat Worse Than Terror":

"A flu pandemic is the most dangerous threat the United States faces today," says Richard Falkenrath, who until recently served in the Bush administration as deputy Homeland Security adviser. "It’s a bigger threat than terrorism. In fact, it’s bigger than anything I dealt with when I was in government." One makes a threat assessment on the basis of two factors: the probability of the event, and the loss of life if it happened. On both counts, a pandemic ranks higher than anything I dealt with when I was in government. The total funding request for influenza-related research this year is about $119 million. To put this in perspective, we are spending well over $10 billion to research and develop ballistic-missile defenses, which protect us only against a very small fraction of the threats we face. We are spending $4.5 billion a year on R&D—drawings!—for the Pentagon's new missile defense system that began in Guangdong, China, and now possibly Iran. It may move next to Indonesia, Russia, Turkey, Romania and now possibly Iran. It may move next to Africa. Some of these governments are competent; others are not. Some hide information from everyone; others simply refuse to share it with the United States. We need a system that everyone will follow. The World Health Organization has become the global body that analyzes samples, monitors viruses, evaluates cures and keeps track of the best practices. Yet the WHO has no power to enforce compliance, to require the U.N. and the WHO to use their misspent billions to protect children around the world. This makes it clear that government is not enough. It is bigger than anything I dealt with when I was in government.

The final sense in which we are unprepared is that we have weak global organizations to deal with pandemics. I understand it, the manufacturing plant I mentioned is in the process of enlarging its capacity for egg-based vaccines. That is all well and good, but that still will not be enough to protect us in the future. It will not be sufficient to take a strain of the virus and develop a vaccine specifically for that virus in a short period of time. Some say it would take 2 to 3 years to produce a nonegg-based production capacity. I don’t accept that. This is a problem we have now. We have already given one grant to a company—it is public, I can mention it—Sanofi Pasteur, which is the company based in Pennsylvania that already has a cell-based vaccine manufacturing plant which they are increasing. The Government has already given them a grant— it was under a competitive bid situation—to build a cell-based plant. That is all well and good. But we have that capacity now. We need two or three on line being built now, not just one.

Our goal should be to have the research and production capacity to isolate a virus, to produce enough vaccine for the American populace, all within a timeframe of 3 to 6, maybe 9 months at the most. We can do that. That can be done. We don’t have the capacity to do it right now, and we are a long way from reaching that goal.

Again, keep in mind that H5N1, the strain of the virus that is there now, we have a vaccine for that. The National Institutes of Health, under the great leadership of Dr. Zerhouni and Dr. Fauci get a strain of the virus earlier this year. They then began a crash program to develop a vaccine. They have. That vaccine is now in clinical trials. It looks as though it is going to be pretty good against H5NI. But we have been warned by experts that H5NI may not be the strain that comes here. It could be H5N2, N3, N4, N5, something else just as nasty. As experts believe the vaccine being developed will have some effect, perhaps, on different strains, but they can’t be sure.

What we need is a vaccine manufacturing capacity, cell-based, so you can manufacture a vaccine in a hurry, so if a different strain were to hit here, we could again isolate the virus, develop the vaccine, and have a vaccine within 6 to 9 months, not just developed but also manufactured in sufficient capacity to vaccinate our people. That is also in our amendment.

I hasten to add that in our amendment, we don’t specify exactly how this is to be done. We will leave that up to the contract negotiations that we want to pursue and the cooperating companies. That is the only way we are going to be able to produce enough vaccine rapidly enough to deal with a major outbreak. Right now it is all egg-based. As wrong way to go. Our amendment doesn’t just restore that: it goes a lot further. It is not enough just to restore the funding. That funding would basically take care of “normal” illnesses people get around the country. It wouldn’t even come close if we had an outbreak of avian flu. We need more public health professionals, epidemiologists, physicians, lab technicians, others. We need people who are trained and educated to recognize, to know how to isolate, to know how to put patients in a building that had central air-conditioning that could have taken the virus spread it around? Who works there? Get them the antivirals and the vaccines immediately. This takes expertise. This takes people. This takes a knowledge base and education.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention know how to do it. They can do it for minor outbreaks now. But something this big, we need to do more to build up that public health infrastructure. In consonance with the public health infrastructure, we need to dramatize the surge capacity of hospitals all across the country. Most hospitals right now have trouble coping if we have a bad flu season with what we call ordinary flu. They would be overwhelmed by an avian flu pandemic.

Dr. Rick Blum, president of the American College of Emergency Room Physicians, recently said: We have pumped billions of dollars into preparedness and the $11.1 billion that was offered a month ago on the defense appropriations bill almost a month ago. And the reason we have poured that money into meeting with Government officials, with drug companies, and others, it has become clear that the big gap in the amendment we offered earlier was the $3.3 billion in stockpiling that was taken up earlier. And, again, this is emergency funding—emergency funding. It ought to be emergency funding. It is something we have to do. We just cannot wait any longer.

So I will yield the floor and ask any Senators who want to speak on this amendment to come over and speak.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, I commend my distinguished colleague from Iowa for his leadership on this very important issue. I spoke briefly yesterday about the matter and expressed my agreement with the basic thrust of what the Senator from Iowa is seeking to accomplish. There is no doubt that we face a tremendous potential problem with the impact, which could be devastating, as Senator HARKIN has outlined.

We have been awaiting a plan from the administration because in the normal course of events, with the exception of the Department of Health and Human Services and the Centers for Disease Control, we would look to the administration to give us an appraisal as to what their plans are, what their evaluation has been, and how much money they think they need. Senator HARKIN has over a number of facts and factors, but the executive branch has more at its disposal than does the Congress, at least at this stage. Our subcommittee has scheduled a hearing on this issue. It is fair to say that we have been under a heavy workload in preparing this bill, and we have had other very heavy commitments, most notably in the confirmation proceedings which were recently concluded for Chief Justice Roberts, and the confirmation hearings have been intense for Ms. Harriet Miers until her withdrawal this morning.

We have been in touch with the executive branch and have been getting information from them as to what they would like to have done. And I have a call in to Secretary Leavitt at the moment, the Secretary of Health and Human Services, to get as much information as we can from the executive branch.

We have been exploring an alternative and are in the process of modifying the amendment from the Senator from Iowa to call for the disbursement of these funds at the discretion of the President after consultation with certain designated Members of the Congress. We are now talking about the... breath of what we have in mind: The chairmen and ranking members of the Appropriations committees of both Houses, perhaps adding the chairmen and ranking members of the Appropriations subcommittees on labor, health and human services and education. Also, the Appropriations committees about having the chairmen and ranking members of the committees on health, education, labor, and pensions. We are trying to sort through that now to have a workable consultation but, leaving this discussion to the President.

We are well aware of the very substantial sum of money which is in this amendment, in the range of $8 billion. We are also well aware of the scope and magnitude of the problem. It would have to receive 60 votes to have an emergency designation but, again, with the expenditures in the hands of the President, there is about as good an assurance as you can have it would be wisely disbursed. At any rate, we are in the midst of trying to work this through. If the Congress does not act—we are not too far away from adjournment—the funding will not be present. The President can’t spend money without the appropriation coming from the Congress. If there is to be an emergency supplemental, all of that takes time. And once you go through a supplemental, then there is the risk of it becoming a Christmas tree with many other items being included.

So we think we have the appropriations for the Department of Health and Human Services and this subcommittee working with that Department and with the Centers for Disease Control, we are the logical subcommittee to take up the issue and grapple with it. We, obviously, are very concerned about the responsibility for appropriating this kind of funding.

So that is where we stand. I note the senior senator from Illinois has come to the floor, and Senator HARKIN and I should urge anyone else who wants to speak to come to the floor now because we are going to be moving for a vote on this subject in the immediate short timspan.

Mr. HARKIN. Will the Senator just yield for a minute?

Mr. SPECTER. I do.

Mr. HARKIN. I want to respond by thanking the chairman and my good friend from Pennsylvania for his great leadership on this issue. You said it about me, but you have been the chairman. You have led this subcommittee. You know what is needed. You have been first and foremost in insisting that we get the funds necessary for both CDC and for NIH for this research.

I might just say again for public knowledge, obviously our chairman, the Senator from Pennsylvania, has to wear other hats. As chairman of the Judiciary Committee he has been tied up a lot in Juvenile Court matters and I recognize he has had to deal with that on his side, in chairing that committee. It is an awesome responsibility, and I commend him for the work he has done, by the way. I thought the hearings on Judge Roberts were superb, and I commend my friend for his leadership in chairing that committee.

So we find ourselves in the situation now where we have asked for information about how this happens all around here and we move on and our focus gets diverted a little bit on this and that. That is human nature. I understand that. I hope we can hear back from the administration.

I say to my friend from Pennsylvania that I have no problem in modifying the amendment or whatever it might be that would say that the money is there. In fact, the amendment does not say how they would spend it. It would be there for them. If there is any way we can modify that, if they have some other ways on what to do, that is fine with me. I do not mind that at all. I am just concerned that we have it there so that we don’t have to come back at some point and they can’t say, well, we would do it, but Congress didn’t appropriate the money.

I sure do not want to have that sitting on our plate, I say to chairman. The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senate from Illinois.

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, I rise in support of the amendment being offered by the Senator from Iowa. It might not be this winter, it might not be next winter, but it is going to happen. The virtual certainty of a pandemic flu is a public health challenge. The health leaders are telling us we as a country need to be prepared. So are we prepared? The obvious answer is no.

Last week, HCD Research polled 846 doctors from across the country about their sense of how well prepared America is to face a pandemic flu. Four out of five of the doctors surveyed said America is not prepared for a public health crisis that we have been told is virtually certain to occur.

When it comes to public health challenges, America is falling behind. What is our national leadership on this issue? We still do not have a national pandemic preparedness plan. The administration has been working on a plan, literally, for years. As we head into this flu season, still there is no plan coming from this administration. Communities need Federal guidance. This is not an issue that the Centers for Disease Control.

When it comes to public health challenges, America is falling behind. What is our national leadership on this issue? We still do not have a national pandemic preparedness plan. The administration has been working on a plan, literally, for years. As we head into this flu season, still there is no plan coming from this administration. Communities need Federal guidance. This is not an issue that the Centers for Disease Control.

In the meantime, I am joining Senators HARKIN, OBAMA, and KENNEDY to offer this pandemic flu amendment. Senator HARKIN has been our voice and our leader on this issue. Senator KENNEDY has made a lifetime of public service devoted to public health issues. Senator OBAMA, whose community from the State of Illinois, was one of the first to speak out in our State and bring this to my attention and the attention of so many Members. I salute all three of them for their extraordinary leadership.

This proposal would make $8 billion available to immediately ramp up preparation for the flu pandemic, whether it is the H5N1 strain now rampant in birds or another virulent strain that might threaten us. We know this pandemic is virtually inevitable, in the words of Dr. Gerberding of the Centers for Disease Control.

What does this amendment do? It gives the Federal government the flexibility they need to move immediately and aggressively to get this country ready for a global pandemic flu.

Let’s start with hospitals. That is an important line of defense for people sick with flu. Communities and hospitals need to develop surge capacity to figure out how to take care of people when the beds are filled and the emergency room is overwhelmed and the neighboring counties face similar situations. The Trust for America’s Health anticipates U.S. hospitals will swell by more than 2 million people if we face this flu pandemic. But Health and Human Services Secretary Leavitt has warned that hospitals and communities haven’t even prepared for this surge in hospital admissions.

The American College of Emergency Physicians President Rick Blum says:

‘We’ve pumped billions of dollars into pandemic care since 9/11, but virtually none of that has gone to the one place where we know that 80 percent of the patients go first.’

Whether it is a terrorist attack, a natural disaster, or a public health disaster, hospitals are challenged. How are we going to have staff to handle the daily flow of patients. They are already operating with a real shortage of nurses and other health professionals.

Realistically, aren’t a significant percentage of those health care workers going to get sick themselves if we have a new pandemic or stay away from the clinical setting once the pandemic hits? These are serious and important questions we need to ask, answer, and be prepared to face.

The Harkin amendment provides $750 million for communities to prepare for additional hospital beds and working with local hospitals in order to get nurses, and other health professionals.

The amendment also provides $3 billion so the Federal Government can get in line to buy antiviral medicines to have on hand for an outbreak of flu. Until there is cash in hand to purchase the drugs, the Government cannot contractually commit to buy them; they cannot even get in line to buy them.
The United States has about 2.3 million courses of antiviral medications stockpiled—2.3 million for a nation of our size. We expect another 2 million by the end of next month. That is enough to treat about 2 percent of the U.S. population, far short of the international standard of 20 to 25 percent.

Senator Frist has asked the Secretary to try to increase that stockpile to ensure treatment so that we could treat 50 percent of America. Our amendment would provide Secretary Leavitt the resources he will need to make it happen. We go beyond political rhetoric to political reality.

Our amendment also provides $3.3 billion so we can intensify our search for a vaccine that could protect Americans from contracting flu in the first case. If we can develop and manufacture a vaccine that is effective against the pandemic flu, we might be able to stop this flu epidemic in its tracks. Testing drugs is expensive. It is time consuming. We have to invest in it and invest it now.

The amendment also adds $60 million for global surveillance. I heard one public health official describe this as “situational awareness.” Margaret Chan, who leads the pandemic flu planning efforts for the World Health Organization, estimates there is a window of only “20 to 21 days” in which a local outbreak could be controlled before it is turned loose on the world.

Fareed Zakaria, in the recent issue of Newsweek, discussed the particular issue of the flu pandemic, wrote as follows:

Many people believed that globalization meant that government would become less important. But as we see, today’s world has actually made government more crucial. Only government can tackle a problem like this one, not by being big but by being smart and effective. And we need good governance not just at home but beyond. Without effective international coordination, we are doomed to failure.

If we hope to contain this flu, we have to know where and when the first outbreak occurs, and we can only do that if we step up the work we are doing with other countries to monitor contagious diseases.

Karen Hughes, a confidante of President Bush, now with the State Department, recently spoke about the $5.5 million the United States has spent on technical assistance to other countries—$5.5 million. That is not enough, and we know it.

Secretary Leavitt concluded his trip to seven Asian countries with this observation:

Right now, the world’s surveillance is not adequate to protect us.

Many people in the Bush administration are acknowledging the problem. What we want them to do is acknowledge the solution, the Harkin-Kennedy-Obama amendment. We need this money. We need leadership that prepares us for a disaster, not just telling us it is coming but doing something. America can do better to make our individuals and families safe from these public health threats.

A few weeks ago, President Bush praised John Barry’s book, “The Great Influenza,” a historical account of the 1918 pandemic flu. If you read the book, you would understand just how critical the role of Government in that influenza outbreak. He blamed lack of preparation in this country on Congress. Here is what he said:

They cut every budget request in half.

Are we facing the same thing today? Are we making a fatal mistake when it comes to this avian influenza? We will not be if we take the leadership initiative of Senator Harkin. We are not seeing the leadership from the White House at this moment that the country needs. It is time for Congress to move decisively, to enact this amendment, to provide direction in funding and progress to prepare the United States for the virtual certainty of a pandemic flu outbreak.

Senator Frist has made it clear he wants the Senate to finish its business and go home by Thanksgiving, but unless and until we address the avian flu pandemic, we should not go home. We should go home to an America that gives thanks that its leaders in Congress—in the House and the Senate—had the vision and determination to deal with this public health challenge. Our work will not be completed until we do.

Mr. President, I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Massachusetts.

WITHDRAWAL OF THE NOMINATIONS OF HARRIET MIERs

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, the Harriet Miers confirmation process has been one of the most unusual and troubling Supreme Court nominations in our modern history.

The loudest voices heard in this process were the voices of the extreme factions of the President’s own political party.

They had a litmus test, and they decided Harriet Miers didn’t meet that test even before giving her a fair chance to have her own voice heard. That is not what the confirmation process is about, and their litmus test is not what the Supreme Court is about.

The more Ms. Miers’s record indicated that she might in fact be personally committed to the basic constitutional rights that make our country what it is for all Americans, the more committed those extreme groups and their partisan voices in the media became to prevent her nomination from being confirmed by the Senate.

Most of us in the Senate were ready to give Harriet Miers a fair chance and a fair hearing. We wanted to have a dignified process in which the evidence would come first, and then the decisions on, and Harriet Miers deserved that chance.

It is disingenuous for the President to suggest that Senators’ insistence on White House records was somehow responsible for the withdrawal of the Miers’ nomination. If the President were willing to stand up to the extremists in his party, a realistic compromise could easily have been found on this issue. Much of what the White House and Senate Republicans were not willing to stand up for principle and fairness against the extremists in their midst should be disturbing to all Americans.

But now we have all seen that fringe of society at its worst. We know that their agenda is not the Nation’s agenda.

President Bush has an opportunity now to unite the country. In choosing the next nominee, he should listen to all Americans, not just the far right.

If he does, we can have a smooth and dignified confirmation process and avoid the kind of harsh battle that the extremists on the right seem bent on provoking.

President Bush should take whatever time is necessary to find a consensus nominee to fill Justice O’Connor’s seat on the Court.

Justice O’Connor is willing to serve the Court and the Nation for as long as it takes, so there is no need to rush to send a new nominee to the Senate. Hopefully, the next selection will share Justice O’Connor’s values and her commitment to the Nation’s progress in achieving equal rights for all.

We are reminded that the nomination of Justice O’Connor was sent to the Senate by President Reagan and had a unanimous vote in the Senate. She has served with great distinction and eloquence and is a beloved figure in the United States.

That kind of nomination brought the country together. It certainly is an opportunity now for the President to follow what President Ronald Reagan did in bringing the country together. If the President wants the Senate to confirm a Supreme Court nominee. It seems to me that would best serve the country, best serve the Constitution, and best serve the Supreme Court.

AMENDMENT NO. 2283, AS MODIFIED

Mr. President, I thank my friend from Iowa, Senator Harkin, for his extraordinary leadership on the issue of avian flu. I thank my other colleagues in the Senate—Senator Reid, Senator Barack Obama, Senator Durbin, and others—who have been important voices in helping us focus the attention of this body on the issue of avian flu.

I also acknowledge the support that has been given to the Harkin proposal by the chairman of the appropriations subcommittee dealing with health, Senator Specter. I also acknowledge and commend the work of my colleagues and friends, the chairman of our Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions Committee, Senator Enzi, and Senator Burr, the chairman of the Subcommittee on Bioterrorism and Public Health Preparedness. He has spent a great portion of his time in the Senate, working on biodefense and related public health threats, and the challenges in developing countermeasures, vaccines and antivirals to deal with new public health challenges.

We are at a very important step. We are on an issue which is of such central importance to health care that we have seen a lot of progress in this area. There are a lot of issues that are divisive, but it seems that we are making remarkable progress in this area.

Our legislation is timely. I remind the Senate that this issue, pandemic flu, has been on the horizon of the world community for some time. This chart says, "The U.S. Missed the Warning Signs of the Flu Pandemic." The Institute of Medicine warned us about this in 1992; then we had the General Accounting Office warning us in November of 2000. This is what the General Accounting Office had stated:

Despite these warnings, we still do not have a plan.

The progress continues: In the year 2001, we had the warning of the European Commission, and in 2002 the World Health Organization. And then we had recent outbreaks take place in South Korea and Vietnam. Another aspect of the flu strain poses a deadly threat. If you have this virus, this chart displays the chances of survival. One can see from this chart that there is only a 50-percent chance of survival. Granted, there have only been several thousand cases in each of these countries, but nonetheless, this figure, of 50 percent, does show that we are in great danger if there is a pandemic.

We have seen other countries move ahead: Japan released its pandemic plan in October 1997; Canada, February 2004; the Czech Republic, April 2004; Hong Kong, February 2005; Britain, March 2005; and the United States, we're still waiting.

What is important here is the fact that there are three major approaches to preparing for a pandemic.

One, we are going to have an important commitment to stockpiling antivirals and vaccines. That is going to be enormously important, particularly given the fact that we have such an inadequate stockpile today. We've stockpiled antivirals for only 1 percent of the population. This is incredibly low in comparison to other countries. With this amendment, we will have the opportunity to stockpile what is needed.

Secondly, we will be supporting efforts to detect the potential spread of the virus globally and in the United States, and we provide resources to contain it and improve our surge capability, which is enormous and urgent. I know there are some differences with our friends and colleagues on the other side about the public health aspects of this. And I know Senator BURR is strongly committed to doing a review of the entire public health system and making a series of recommendations—which I think are going to be enormously important, and I look forward to joining him—but this is a small downpayment to ensure we begin making progress in the area of pandemic preparedness and public health.

A review of any other country's pandemic preparedness plan will show that this is the heart of this issue: what are we going to do with the antivirals and vaccines that's needed, but also the public health component. So this has that dimension, which is very important: improving the public health system, and stockpiling antivirals and vaccines.

The third aspect, which will be included in the proposal by Senator ENZI and Senator BURR and others, will deal with the incentives that will be made available to industry to develop countermeasures and vaccines, and also, hopefully, some compensation, for example, for first responders who might take a particular vaccine or antiviral that might not have gone through the complete safety process at the FDA and still, as a first responder, be committed to protecting the public, suffer from an adverse reaction to the vaccine or antiviral, they won't be left high and dry. They should be compensated for themselves and for their families.

This is a complex issue, but I think the Senate has come together and will come together with the succeeding legislation in a very important way.

The third piece of what the administration, HHS, will be in terms of their plan. We eagerly await its release. We understand it will be forthcoming in a very short period of time, but we don't have it yet.

We have seen examples of national pandemic plans, for example, the Canadian plan which was issued in 2004, that talks about what does this plan address? Who is responsible for pandemic planning? It goes into the roles and responsibilities of the different governmental agencies.

Why is this an important health issue? It goes into great detail about what is going to be communicated to the public, the legal considerations, the ethical considerations, and then it goes into what preparations are being made. It addresses specific components of the preparation: surveillance, vaccine, antivirals, health service, emergency planning, emergency service, public health interests, communications. I think it is going to be enormously important and historic action by the Senate when it is completed.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. GRAHAM). The Senator from Wyoming.

Mr. ENZI. Mr. President, I express my appreciation for the comments of Senator KENNEDY, Senator HARKIN, and others on the floor, discussing the importance of the legislation in the overall response to bird flu and other potential infectious diseases. I express special thanks to Senator BURR and Senator KENNEDY for their help on the subcommittee that has been charged with the extensive hearings that have had, which have included a number of meetings many of us attended with experts from around the world who deal with these problems, and for coming up with a comprehensive solution that will address whatever happens to come up, whether it is avian flu, SARS, or some other pandemic we have not envisioned yet.

We have a bill that was reported out of the committee a little over a week ago that deals with that comprehensive solution. I hope we will take a look at the work we did on that. Again, I want to express my thanks to Senator BURR for his work and the leadership he has provided.

One of the key principles of that legislation is that our response activities must be more broadly focused, not focused solely on the latest, newly emerging disease. So that, even if bird flu never becomes a pandemic, we will be prepared for the next infectious disease. I mentioned, perhaps even a new SARS outbreak. The money spent will not be wasted because the process that will be set up will be able to handle a wide range of things.

Given that, I believe the additional funding for a potential flu pandemic should be focused on broader response activities. In examining the initial amendment proposed by Senator HARKIN, and as Senator KENNEDY discussed on the floor yesterday, the overall legislation was focused on stockpiling antivirals, strengthening public health responses, increasing global health surveillance, dramatically increasing the vaccine infrastructure, improving hospital preparedness, including surge capacity and health information technology systems, and other key elements.

These elements are broader than bird flu. If targeted appropriately and implemented properly, it will mean that we, as Americans will be prepared for whatever new infectious disease comes our way, not just bird flu. That is why I have worked with Senator HARKIN to come up with an amendment that clarifies we are going for the broader picture that all of us worked on in committee.

I was pleased with the unanimous response we had for getting it out of committee. So rather than the funding provided in the Labor, HHS bill being for a very limited thing, we want to focus on the broader contexts we have all worked on and agreed on, for the most part. We will be bringing a bill to the floor, I hope, to cover this in great detail and then a second bill that will deal with public health.

I appreciate the work Senator Harkin has done on this and the way he has brought it to the attention of the American public. I appreciate the work of Senator Burr to have a bill that actually does this comprehensively. I also appreciate the way people are working together to come up with a safe, secure United States.

I particularly thank the Senator from Texas for her indulgence, and I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Sen- ator from Texas.

Mrs. HUTCHISON. Mr. President, I do thank the Senator from Wyoming for the great leadership he is providing for our Nation to start preparing us for the different types of flu viruses that might come our way. I know he has worked very hard on this in his chair- manship of the Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions Committee. I certainly was pleased to hear his comments on this very important issue. It is one that is important for all of us to assure that our country is ready if we have the kind of pandemic that could happen. I am of the belief many were concerned that computers would crash all over America when we turned into the next century, and be- cause we were prepared, there was no crisis. That is what I hope is the result of our addressing the potential flu strains that may be making their way across the world and could affect Americans in the future.

HARRIET MIERS

Mr. President, I particularly will talk today about my friend Harriet Miers. All of us were stunned this morning—I certainly was—when I heard she had submitted her resigna- tion as a nominee to the Supreme Court because I have total confidence in her. I have total confidence she would have been a superb Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States. I have that confidence because I know her. Many people were making judgments before they knew her. They were not giving her the benefit of the opportu- nity to come into an open forum and talk about her views.

She wrote today to the President: As you know, Members of the Senate have indicated their intention to seek document service in the White House in order to judge whether to sup- port me. I have been informed repeat- edly that in lieu of records I would be expected to testify about my service in the White House to demonstrate my experience and judicial philosophy. While I believe that my lengthy career provides sufficient evidence for consider- ation of my nomination, I am con- vinced the efforts to obtain executive branch materials and information will continue.

This is a letter that was written by a woman who cares more about our coun- try, more about our President and his role and the respect for his role under the separation of powers in the Consti- tution, than she cares about a won- derful cap for a wonderful career, and that is her career. I admire her even more, if that is possible, for the deci- sion she has made. I have to say I am disappointed in that decision because I know she would have been a superb Justice. She would have been a strict constructionist. She would have been a judge who knew the place of a judge, not to make law, which is a require- ment of those elected for that purpose. She would have been a Justice who looked at and inter- preted the law.

I will tell my colleagues what else Harriet Miers would have done that I think is very important. She would have known what it was she could do on the Supreme Court to give guidance to legislatures, to Members of Con- gress, to clients who are being rep- resented members of the third. I think she would have been a judge who knew the place of the country, about how the law should be interpreted. She would have given the guidance to legislatures about what the constitutional requirement would be.

When one is giving tests for discrimi- nation, for instance, the Supreme Court has said there are varying tests for discrimination. There are rigid tests in some circumstances, there are more moderate tests in other cir- cumstances. I would like to have had someone on the Court with real-world experience to more clearly define those tests so that Congress, so that legisla- tures, would know when they pass a law more clearly what they are doing. I think that law in light of a more clear path to the right result.

I would have liked someone who has had the experience of living in a part of the country that is different from where I have lived. I think we need diversity of geography. I think there are different issues in eminent domain, in business and commerce, in regard for private property rights, in States that have a lot of Federal lands versus States that have a lot of Federal lands. There are different ap- proaches to these issues by people who live in different parts of the country and I think that kind of diversity is important.

This is a woman who has been a leader in the legal field. She worked her way through SMU Law School. She was also case notes editor of the South- western Law Journal, which is now the University of Texas. She was one of the first women to be hired by a major Dallas law firm as an associate. She then rose to lead that law firm, to be the managing partner, the first woman to do so in the State of Texas. She has had a very wide and depth of associ- ation, which is the legal organiza- tion that sets the standards of ethics, propriety, and practice for our lawyers in this country. She rose to be the first woman president of the Dallas Bar As- sociation and later the first woman president of the State Bar Association.

I graduated from law school about the same time she did. I graduated from the University of Texas. She graduated from SMU. I know how hard it was to get a job. I know the obstacles she faced. I know she did not have the door opened for her with her out- standing record at SMU that many of her peers and male colleagues had. Yet, she attacked those barriers with a positive attitude and spirit. She knew if she proved herself, she would be rewarded as anyone else. She never gave up.

She caught the eye of a Governor of Texas and she had been a Democrat. I think everyone knows she was a Demo- crat in the early years. Most people in Texas were. In 1988, she made a decision that she wanted to support a Re- publican, George W. Bush. That changed her views in many things. I think some of the things that were being brought up from before she changed her views and her support had President Bush in mind, that she is not firm in her views. Well, I think she is firm in her views. I think she is firmly a strict constructionist, a person who has proven herself intellectually in business, in experience, and in leader- ship. I think she would have been a terrific Justice. I do not think she was given her due.

I am disappointed, but I do not ques- tion her decision because I know she made the decision on the right points and for the right reasons. She wanted to protect the Presidency from inva- sion of the rights of the President. Can you imagine if a President had to stop and think—before asking advice from his legal counsel staff as he is trying to make an important decision for our country: If I ask this question in writing, is that going to be recoverable in the public arena? Do I then have to temper what I say?

I want to reaffirm my view that she was, because it is the pinnacle of a legal career to be a Justice on the Supreme Court. She stepped up because she believes that right of the President would either be invaded or it would be made a cause celebre, and that would not be healthy for our coun- try or for the President. So she gave up what she had known what she could do and what she would be, because it is the pinnacle of a legal career to be a Justice on the Supreme Court. She gave up, I think he should have to worry that it is going to, all of a sudden, be mis- construed in the public arena when it was part of his decision making proc- ess.

That is what Harriet Miers is also trying to protect. She is giving up probably something she never dreamed she would be, because it is the pinnacle of a legal career to be a Justice on the Supreme Court. She stepped up because she believes that right of the President would either be invaded or it would be made a cause celebre, and that would not be healthy for our coun- try or for the President. So she gave up what she had known what she could do and what she would be, because it is the pinnacle of a legal career to be a Justice on the Supreme Court. She gave up, I think he should have to worry that it is going to, all of a sudden, be mis- construed in the public arena when it was part of his decision making proc- ess.

I want to reaffirm my view that she would have been an excellent Supreme Court Justice, that she had the right background and experience, that she would have brought to the Court a very important viewpoint to the Court. You know, if we did not want di- versity of experience in making these important decisions, we would have one Justice of the Supreme Court; we wouldn't have to have nine. Our Founding Fathers decided to have nine. I think they were right, as they are in so many parts of the Constitution that they thought it would be important for the Constitution to last over two years. I think diversity of experience and background is very helpful for a Court of nine Justices.

I am disappointed today, but I am very supportive of her decision because it was her decision and because she made it for the right reasons. I wish her well and I am very pleased she is going to stay as White House Counsel. In the United States I am very pleased she is going to stay as White House Counsel and to the President she serves. I commend her today, and I am not going to say how she made it for the right reasons. I yield the floor.

Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. SPECTER. I understand there are other speakers who wish to be heard on the pandemic amendment. I urge them to come to the floor now. We still have quite a list of amendments to deal with. It is Thursday afternoon. I know that is a signal of Members' special interest.

To those who have amendments they want to see heard and disposed of before we go to third reading and final passage, I urge them to come to the floor at this time.

In the absence of any Senator seeking recognition, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. GREGG. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. GREGG. Mr. President, I rise to address the issue which is being debated here relative to the amendment by Senator HARKIN regarding the avian flu and how we are going to address this very serious potential pandemic. We all recognize this is a threat of dramatic proportions, not only to our society but to the world generally. As a Congress we have tried to begin to address this matter relative to other issues that could have an equal impact, involving biologics that could be used against our society in a terrorist attack.

Three years ago I authored a bill called the BioShield bill. Along with a number of Members of this Senate, including Senator KENNEDY, who was the chair of the HELP Committee I chaired at that time, the HELP Committee, we put together a package which basically created a structure which we hoped would lead to development of vaccines to address the threat which was posed by the use of biological weapons against our country, specifically things such as smallpox, anthrax, botulism, and plague.

That proposal, the BioShield bill, was funded at $5.6 billion, which is a lot of money. The reason we put that much money in the pipeline was because we wanted to create an incentive for the pharmaceutical industry and for startup biological companies to begin to develop vaccines.

Our country, regrettably, has seen basically a devastation of the vaccine industry. We used to have 30 to 40 companies that were involved in the production of vaccines. Regrettably, that number is down to three or four. The reason we have seen this dramatic reduction is the unwillingness of the pharmaceutical industry to invest in research and then develop vaccines is pretty simple. The return on investing in a vaccine is significantly less than the cost of investing in that vaccine as looked at through the eyes of a pharmaceutical company or those of a biological company, because of the threat of lawsuits.

The fact is, the potential liabilities created by doing a vaccine are so huge that no amount of projected return on investment, from an investment standpoint, ever justifies creating a vaccine. So the vaccine companies have essentially contracted in this country and the assets which were being used to develop vaccines historically are now being used to develop other types of pharmaceuticals.

The second reason there has been a contraction, at least in these areas, is there is no use for these vaccines unless an event occurs because there is no smallpox in this world, right now. We, thank goodness, and vaccines against smallpox would not be necessary unless there were a smallpox outbreak. And there could not be a smallpox outbreak unless there were a terrorist event that uses that weapon. If that is a fact that you cannot have a smallpox outbreak in this world today unless there were an intentional decision to spread the smallpox by somebody who had a terrorist intent. So for a company to go in and develop a vaccine for that you would have to deal with your manufacturing process for which had already existed. So we have learned a fairly significant lesson here which needs to be applied to the avian flu issue, and that is why it is important. The lesson is this: Even though you put a lot of money in the pipeline, you are not going to resolve the problem—the problem being resolved, of course, by having scientists being willing to develop ways to address these types of disease threats—unless you also put in place the mechanisms to create the atmosphere for the production of the vaccine.

So last week or 2 weeks ago the HELP Committee passed a creative and strong bill, which was authored primarily by the Senator from North Carolina, Mr. BURR, which attempted to address the entire issue in a packaged way of how you energize the American creative spirit to produce responses and vaccines which will protect us from not only terrorist threats but things such as avian flu.

One of the key elements of that is money. But another key element of that is the liability protection. So I came to the floor today to make it clear that even though it is correct that we need a significant amount of money in place, and put it in place soon—the amendment offered by the Senator from Iowa relative to the Defense bill, I think is the right approach. This amendment as an emergency supplemental, if it is put in place with the defense money being considered and in the context of what the administration is going to send up here as a proposal, probably within the next week, also may well be the right approach. But all this money that is going to be put on the table is not going to solve the problem unless we are also sensitive to the fact that there are other forces out there that are limiting the willingness of the research community and the vaccine development community to which we have addressed our attention. We have to take all those hurdles out of the way, not just one of them out of the way.

It is critical that we do a comprehensive approach to this. I understand within a week or so the White House is going to send us a comprehensive approach. It is critical that we get that type of leadership on this. But we, as a Senate, at least, have already proposed a comprehensive approach through the proposal of Senator BURR, and we should make sure any movement in this area be tied to the proposal of Senator BURR and the HELP Committee, which was adopted out, and the much more comprehensive amendment of Senator ENZI.

This is a much more complex problem than putting money into it. We already know from our personal experience that although the BioShield that putting money into it is not going to get the type of response we need. It has to be more than dollars; it has to be policy.

Some of the specific things we need to do, beyond reforming the liability structure so we have people willing to participate in the vaccines, is to purchase a vaccine where it is available. Some obviously are available now, but the vaccine for avian flu is limited. That is the evidence of our seriousness in the administration—dollars are only part of it.

We also have to have research capacity to deal not only with this but with things like this in basic things such as surgical masks and hypodermic needles and bed capacity. All this has to be put together in a comprehensive structure, and there has to be a clear sense of how we would execute were we to be hit with a pandemic, with the responsibility being allocated and people knowing who they would be reporting to and how we would get action taken.

There are a lot of things in play here to effectively address the avian flu issue, much of which is being addressed as a Congress, but much of which has to be addressed also by the administration and which we expect to see in the next few weeks from the administration—and dollars are only part of it.

I wanted to put that caveat on the table. If we were to simply vote for the proposal from Senator HARKIN and say we have done our job, we need to pass the proposal of Senator BURR, and we should make sure any movement in this area be tied to the proposal of Senator BURR and the HELP Committee, which was adopted out, and the much more comprehensive amendment of Senator ENZI.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, this is a quote:

A flu pandemic is the most dangerous threat the United States of America faces. It’s a bigger threat than terrorism. In fact, it’s bigger than anything I dealt with when I was in government.

This is not a quote from me or from the Presiding Officer. These are the words of Richard Falkenrath, who recently served as President Bush’s Deputy Homeland Security Adviser. He is not alone in this assessment. Administration officials and public health experts have warned the next flu pandemic is not a question if but a matter of when. If we don’t act now, the consequences of a global flu pandemic could be devastasting. And perhaps that is an understatement.

A respected U.S. health expert has concluded that 1.7 million Americans could die in the first year alone of an outbreak. Remember, in 1918, the last flu pandemic, as many as 60 million people died in the world. The world’s population was one-third of what it is now.

In addition to the 1.7 million Americans who could die during the first year, according to health experts, the economic costs would be enormous.

Every week, the possibility of this threat grows closer. It is now in Croatia. Anyone who watches the news knows that the bird flu is sweeping much of the globe.

When we started debating a possible flu pandemic here in the Senate, the bird flu was contained in parts of Asia. Now it has moved into Turkey, and even as far west as Great Britain. Anyone who watches the news knows scientists recently determined that the last flu pandemic outbreak in 1918 started in birds, and it made its way into humans.

It has not been shown without any fault, any degree of being wrong, because the birds are dying from avian flu doesn’t mean it will get to us, but it did in 1918. Will the virus jump to humans? That is the question. Shouldn’t we be prepared if in fact that is the case?

I read one news account of a friend in Congress who said we don’t want to spend a lot of money for something that might not happen. We have to be prepared. We have to be prepared. We should do everything we can to make sure Americans are prepared and protected—and we are not prepared.

Despite repeated promises, this administration has yet to release the President’s Pandemic Influenza Response and Preparedness Plan. We have written letters; no response. I don’t know why.

The World Health Organization deems such a plan essential to proper pandemic response. Draft of this plan was ready months ago, but no final plan has been released. At least we were told it wasn’t.

As a result, preparations for a pandemic have been needlessly delayed and the Federal Government is ill prepared to handle such a pandemic. We don’t have the capacity to rapidly manufacture vaccines in mass quantities. We lack an extensive stockpile in antiviral medications, and our health care infrastructure is woefully unprepared.

We are already behind nations such as Canada, Britain, and Australia, and if we fail further our nations each day we fail to act. Some nations finalized their avian flu plans months ago. They are implementing the protections, and we are still waiting for this administration to give us something as simple as a plan. America can do better. In fact, America must do better.

Senate Democrats have provided leadership on this issue. We have added much needed resources for pandemic preparedness in the Appropriations bill we passed nearly a month ago. We have offered legislation, the Pandemic Preparedness and Response Act. That would build on our commitment to preparing our Nation for the possibility of a pandemic. Unfortunately, the funding remains tied up in a conference with the House and the Senate, and we haven’t acted on this comprehensive legislation.

The recent spread of bird flu to Europe proves we can’t afford to drag our feet. The Senate must act immediately so we can limit the human and economic costs of a potential avian flu pandemic. That is why I am cosponsoring Senator HARKIN’s amendment to provide $7.9 billion for a comprehensive national effort to prepare for an avian flu pandemic. The amendment will allow us to take the following steps to prepare our Nation for a potential pandemic:

No. 1, quadruple our funding for global surveillance relating to avian flu so we may rapidly detect the emergence of a new strain of flu; dedicate more than $3 billion to vaccine research and manufacturing of a new strain; spend $1.7 billion for the domestic medical supplies and infrastructure; and spend $1.7 billion to prepare state and local health agencies so the American people can be assured there will be an adequate supply of health care providers and institutions to care for them in the event of a pandemic.

This legislation does not address conducting an outreach program to health care providers and to the American public.

With this legislation, we must stockpile effective antivirals adequate to treat at least 50 percent of the population and for medical supplies. Finally, it calls for improving research and lab capacity related to an avian flu pandemic. This, to me, is the most important.

I congratulate the ranking member of this subcommittee, Senator HARKIN of Iowa, for this legislation. It is badly needed. I hope there will be a bipartisan vote to support this amendment.
I understand there are efforts being made to weaken this so-called second-degree amendment to give the President the authority to do all of this, and he would be obligated to do it only if he saw it was necessary. We are looking at a second amendment now to see if there is any way we can work with the majority, who are offering this amendment. The avian flu pandemic may be inevitable, and devastating sequences are not. We need to heed warnings and take action now. I hope my colleagues will join in supporting us by making the investments necessary to make sure this Nation does everything possible to protect Americans from the threat of the global flu pandemic.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

HARRIET MIERS

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, I respect Ms. Harriet Miers’ decision to withdraw her nomination to the Supreme Court. At the same time, I do regret our constitutional process was not complete. Instead of a hearing before the Judiciary Committee and a debate on the Senate floor, Ms. Miers’ qualifications were subject to a one-sided debate in news releases, press conferences, radio and TV talk shows, and the editorial pages.

I acknowledge the rights of everyone to express themselves as they see fit, but that should not have precluded Ms. Miers from getting basic due process. There was a decisive imbalance in the public forum, with the case for Ms. Miers not heard because of the heavy decibel level against her.

I have repeatedly noted her excellent work in handling complex civil cases. Had the constitutional process been followed with a hearing, she would have had an opportunity to establish that her intellect and capabilities demonstrated in her 35-year professional career could be carried over in the field of constitutional law and the work of the Court. Whether she would have been confirmed remains an open question, but at least she would have had the major voice in determining her own fate.

Ms. Miers did deliver late yesterday evening, on time, her responses to the committee request for supplemental information on her questionnaire. Eight large boxes are in the committee’s possession, but now there is no reason to read or analyze those responses.

The Judiciary Committee carefully did not intrude on the President’s executive privilege. The committee studiously avoided asking what advice Ms. Miers gave to the President, and that limitation would have been continued in any hearing, were it an adequate range of questions available to enable the committee to decide on her qualifications for the Court.

We must guard against having the Miers proceedings become a precedent for the future.

I ask unanimous consent that the text of an op-ed piece which I had submitted to the Washington Post yesterday, which I agreed to publish be printed in the RECORD at the conclusion of these remarks.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

(See exhibit.)

Mr. SPECTER. I thank the Chair.

I note Senator BYRD is here.

WASHINGTON POST-ACCEPTED OP-ED

REFERRED ON THE FLOOR

Just over three weeks ago, President Bush nominated White House Counsel Harriet Miers to fill retiring Justice Sandra Day O’Connor’s seat on the Supreme Court. Since then, political pundits and outside groups have loudly expressed their opinions, one way or the other, on the nomination. There has been a great eagerness in some quarters, outside the Senate, to prejudge the nomination.

Fortunately, the Constitution does not leave the disposal of Presidential nominations to pundits or outside groups. The question whether to confirm a President’s nominee is left to the careful consideration of the Senate, where we have an established process for examining a nominee for the bench. That process will begin on November 7, when the Judiciary Committee begins its hearings on Ms. Miers.

Confirmation hearings offer a nominee the opportunity to introduce herself to the Senate and the American people. The hearings allow Committee members to ask questions, the nominee to offer a record, and to present an informed recommendation to the full Senate. In order to receive a favorable vote in the Committee, Ms. Miers will have to demonstrate her qualifications to serve on the bench. A crucial qualification to serve on the Supreme Court is the aptitude to decide difficult legal issues, including important Constitutional questions, and to explain those decisions in opinions.

It is true that Ms. Miers has not had deep experience in the law, but that is far from a disqualification for the bench. Few lawyers, aside from sitting federal judges or a few Constitutional law practitioners, have had that experience.

Thus, while Ms. Miers needs a crash course in constitutional law to prepare for the hearings, the same could be said for virtually any nominee to come before the Senate Judiciary as a Supreme Court nominee. In the past century, we have had many justices without constitutional law experience, who never learned the legal system and intellectual abilities to tackle the vital and challenging work of the Supreme Court. These include, for example, Sandra Day O’Connor, who never practiced constitutional law. Similarly, Justice Hugo Black, before his election to the Senate, specialized in labor and personal injury law, yet was one of the greatest justices of the 20th century.

Moreover, the Supreme Court’s docket is not limited exclusively to Constitutional law issues. Roughly 40% of the Court’s docket tends to involve constitutional issues. Business and commercial law issues, with which Ms. Miers is well acquainted, make up another 20% of the Court’s docket.

As Chairman of the Judiciary Committee, I have known and worked with Ms. Miers closely. As White House Counsel, she plays an important role in advising the President on complicated legal and policy issues.

Consequently, I work with Ms. Miers on nearly all the matters that come through our committee, from nominations to legislation, from the USA PATRIOT Act to asbestos liability reform.

Based on my personal experience, there is much to recommend her.

We must guard against having the Miers proceedings become a precedent for the future. She has a logical, disciplined, and sharp mind. She will bring to the bench, if confirmed, the knowledge of a practicing trial attorney—a perspective sorely lacking among the current Justices. As the President has observed, Ms. Miers had a wealth of practical experience in private practice. I have reviewed her record and found that she has handled a wide range of complex cases.

There is also a woman who fought up through the ranks. She went to law school at a time when women were discouraged from joining the field, yet, some rose to manage a 450-person firm and became head of the Texas Bar Association. Ms. Miers comes to the Committee with many strengths and an accomplished record.

This is not to say that it is all easy sailing for Ms. Miers. I have not made up my mind. Nor have most of my colleagues. Like every Supreme Court nominee, Ms. Miers still has the burden of demonstrating the depth of her substantive knowledge on constitutional issues, issues such as the invocation of the First Amendment guarantees of free speech and freedom of religion, the scope of Congress’s powers to legislate under the Commerce Clause and Section 5 of the Fourteenth Amendment, or the scope of executive power, and the criminal defendant’s protections found in the Bill of Rights.

Like every Supreme Court nominee in recent times, Ms. Miers bears burden of proving she has the aptitude to address the complex issues that will come before the Court. She desires, and she will receive, a full and fair hearing at which she will have the opportunity to demonstrate her fitness for the bench.

Until then, I hope that the American people and my colleagues will keep an open mind.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from West Virginia.

SENSE OF FOREBODING

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, for the American people enter this fall season with apprehension, trepidation, and a somber sense of foreboding. Gasoline prices, which peaked above $3 per gallon in September, now seem stuck at levels once thought absurd. Gas prices in West Virginia hover around $2.57 per gallon and can vary significantly in some areas, rising precipitously at times.

Heating costs are projected to soar this winter, with many Methodists expected to pay an additional $350 to heat their homes with natural gas and heating oil. It makes one shiver, thinking of winter in those mountains of Appalachia.

People are already struggling with inadequate wages, are being forced to curtail everyday expenses simply to buy gasoline, to fill up their tanks. Senior citizens on fixed incomes are already forced to choose between prescription drugs and food. That is a tough choice. They must now confront life-threatening heating costs. This winter is coming. I can feel it in the air.
This winter, with energy costs rising, the Federal safety net will be needed to provide essential support for countless Americans. Many are watching with incredulity the fraying of that safety net.

On the farms and in the cities, in rural and urban neighborhoods, Americans have been shaken by the Government’s inability to respond effectively to Hurricane Katrina while the Government focused on tax cuts for the wealthy and massive spending requests to rebuild Iraq. Our Nation’s infrastructure was weakening from neglect at home while all this was happening. Katrina highlighted that erosion, focused our attention on that erosion and the high cost of forgoing critical infrastructure repairs.

Just a few days ago, that erosion was further highlighted as Americans watched the wooden 173-year-old Whittenton Dam threaten to give way in Taunton, MA, forcing the evacuation of yet another American city.

This winter, the country must confront the threat of an avian flu pandemic as public health officials warn that our Nation’s health infrastructure remains woefully inadequate. Remember the influenza? Remember the flu of 1917 and 1918? I don’t remember it exactly, but I do remember my mother. My mother died of that pandemic. I was less than a year old. She said to my father: Give “the baby” to the Byrds. One of my father’s sisters had married a Byrd, Titus Dalton Byrd. They did not have any children. They had a child prior to my birth, but their child had died—his name was Robert Madison—so they had no children left. My mother’s wish that my father give me, the “baby,” to Mr. and Mrs. Titus Dalton Byrd, the “Mrs.,” being my father’s sister. Yes, that is why I am here today. I imagine that my father gave me, the baby—there were three older brothers and a sister—give them all to somebody, but give the baby to the Byrds. They took me in, changed my name, and brought me to West Virginia, away from North Carolina. And here I am.

Earlier this week, Hurricane Wilma pummeled southern Florida, causing heavy flooding and power outages. The cleanup costs could be enormous.

Rather than address these weaknesses and providing the American people with some reassurance, the Congress incredibly and inceivably is looking for ways to further siphon funds away from our safety net and domestic investments. It is as if we have learned nothing—absolutely nothing—from Hurricane Katrina.

A hope and belief seem to exist, and fingers are crossed all across this town, that no one will connect how the budget cuts being considered will affect those hurting from high energy prices.

Eight Senate committees—eight Senate committees—have drafted reconciliation legislation to cut domestic investments in order to prefund $70 billion in additional tax cuts, many of which will not take effect for several years. They are backloaded. Now, get that: tax cuts. Oh, it is so easy. Ah, the rate of a dollar per second. That is easy. It does not take any courage to do that. Tax cuts. I have been in politics now 60 years next year, in various and sundry legislative branches, and the easiest vote I ever cast was for tax cuts.

Some of these spending cuts are coming from the very same programs that are providing essential disaster relief to the victims of Hurricanes Katrina and Rita, such as those used to provide temporary health services. They comprise much of the safety net for our Nation’s most vulnerable, as well as for Americans afflicted by disaster.

The reconciliation process has been touted as a means to contain the budgetary savings but that is a specious, spurious argument. The reconciliation process would worsen—worsen now; not improve—our fiscal position. With $70 billion in new tax cuts and an estimated $39 billion in spending cuts, the result is a deficit that increases $123 billion every minute since Jesus Christ was born; $31 for every minute—oh, the clock is ticking; that clock is ticking—$31 for every minute since Our Lord Jesus Christ was born. Under the procedures, it would not matter if the clock would continue to mount, without offsets, while the safety net is further worn away.

The argument for reconciliation makes even less sense when you consider that Katrina costs are one-time, unforeseen emergency expenditures. Meanwhile, no action, none, no action has been taken to pay for trillions of dollars—trillions. How long would it take to count a trillion dollars at the rate of one second? How long would it take to count a trillion dollars at the rate of $1 per second? Man, can you imagine that? How long would it take? Thirty-two thousand years! These young pages who have quick minds can figure that out. Thirty-two thousand. I am not sure about that figure. If it is not 32,000, it is 34,000 or 36,000. Thirty-two thousand years—I will stick with that figure for now—at a minimum, at the rate of a dollar per second. Can you believe it?

There are trillions of dollars of tax cuts. No action has been taken to pay for those trillions of dollars of tax cuts or the hundreds of billions of dollars of costs for Iraq—a war that we should have never been in. We should never have gone. And they are still struggling to find a reason why we went. Too late now. I said then I don’t believe there are weapons of mass destruction. I think there have been in some years gone by but not now. And I believe a lot of this. And I and 22 others—yes, 22 others; one Republican among the 23; one Senator who is now dead and gone; he died in a plane crash—23 souls, including my own, said: No. No, we won’t go. We are not going to vote to give this power to declare war to this President or any President. We are not going to do it. Twenty-three of us. But there we are. We are there.

So with the hundreds of billions of dollars of costs for Iraq, no action has been taken to pay for that, even though these costs are as plain and obvious as any in the Federal budget. I simply cannot fathom why the administration and the President isprotesting Baghdad does not have to be paid for, while reconstructing Mississippi and Louisiana and Alabama requires offsets.

Can you imagine that? Reconstructing Baghdad does not have to be paid for, while reconstructing Mississippi and Louisiana and Alabama requires offsets. It does not make sense. It does not make good sense. It does not make common sense. No action has been taken to find savings elsewhere in the bloated—bloating—Federal budget. The Defense Department’s budget comprises one-sixth of the Federal budget and surpasses the total discretionary budgets of all other Federal Government combined. The Pentagon is not even able to pass a standard audit. How about that. The Pentagon is not even able to pass a standard audit, and it has not been able to pass a standard audit for some years. I will say that again. The Pentagon is not even able to pass a standard audit or to conduct effective oversight of military expenditures in Iraq. May God help us.

Government auditors have found substantial sums of defense contractor waste and fraud. Astonishingly, the Department of Defense pulled its inspector general out of Iraq last fall. Yet the Defense Department has not been asked to examine its $450 billion annual budget.

All of the savings, all of the deficit reduction is supposed to come from the safety net for working families—people who work with their hands or at their desks—and from essential domestic investments that have been dangerously—dangerously, dangerously—foolishly neglected for too long. The sacrifice, too often, is being asked of working families, while others remain blissfully exempt.

The budget reconciliation process at this point in the year and under these circumstances is ill-conceived. We are missing an opportunity to ferret out real waste in the Federal budget and to reform programs that could yield real budgetary savings. And worse, we are opening the door to a dangerous process.

Yesterday, the House Ways and Means Committee—I believe it was yesterday—included in its reconciliation package language that would repeal the Continued Dumping and Subsidy Offset Act. This is a critically important law. It allows Customs to distribute to American companies and their workers the duties that it collects on unfairly traded, meaning "dumped," imports. Yes. I am the daddy of that. Yes. I am the daddy of that child. It is called the Byrd Rule. There are several things that are called the Byrd Rule, but that is the one we are talking about.

It allows Customs to distribute to American companies and their workers the duties that it collects on unfairly traded, meaning "dumped," imports. The funds go only to those—now listen: the funds—I say the fines for these violations go only to those who have been injured by foreign producers who violate our trade laws.

The funds go to crawfish producers in Louisiana. Hear me now. They go to shrimp producers throughout the Gulf States. Hear me now. They go to our lumber industry. That is a big industry. They go to raspberry growers. They go to honey producers and beekeepers. They go to garlic growers in California, to makers of pasta, to makers of steel, to makers of steel bearings and other products manufactured all across our Nation.

Companies in nearly every State of the Union receive funds under this law, and these funds enable our industries to invest in their facilities and in their workers, to upgrade their equipment and technology. What could be wrong with that? That is a good law. The World Trade Organization—the WTO—doesn't like this law, but the WTO is wrong. The WTO doesn't like this law, but the WTO is wrong. WTO doesn't like this law, but the WTO is wrong, wrong, wrong. I say to the four corners, the four winds of the Earth—wrong. The WTO ruling in this case was created out of whole cloth. Nothing in the WTO organization prohibits us from reimbursing U.S. industry with duties collected—how and from what—on unfairly traded imports. If the trading partners didn't violate the law, they wouldn't have to pay these fines. They violate the law, yes.

The administration was directed by Congress in both the fiscal year 2004 and 2005 Omnibus Appropriations Acts to negotiate a solution to this WTO dispute in ongoing trade talks. The Appropriations Acts explicitly—plainly, clearly—state that U.S. negotiations shall be conducted within the World Trade Organization to recognize the right of WTO members to distribute money from antidumping and countervailing duties as they deem appropriate. The WTO cannot infringe on the sovereign right of the Congress to legislate. They can't do that. The United States needs to keep this important trade law on the books. Keep it on the books.

I have talked to the President. I have talked with the administration about that. I have talked with our Trade Representative. Keep it on the books. They first said they would fight for it. After Katrina, we sent a terrible message by continuing with this flawed reconciliation process. You watch how it works. I helped to write that law. The reconciliation process was never intended by those of us on both sides of the aisle—we are about all gone now, who created that process—to be used as it is being used. We send a terrible message when the American people call for deficit reduction and instead we lead them astray.

I hope the Congress will take the time to reconsider the flawed assumptions underlying this reconciliation process. It needs to do so before the process gets even further out of hand. I thank all Senators who yield the floor and suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. Martine). The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded. The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, as the administration searches for a new nominee for the Supreme Court, I hope the White House will not retreat to a political corner and choose a nominee who will only serve to divide the Nation and deepen the partisan divide. Let me urge the President—hear me now—to select a nominee cut from the same cloth as the new Chief Justice of the United States—moderate in approach, steeped in thought and experience, and committed to the protection of the U.S. Constitution, which I hold in my hand. In partnership, the President and the Senate must do all they can to avoid rancor and extreme partisanship. That begins with real consultation and a nominee who can bridge the gap between political philosophies.

I found it noteworthy—I did—that questions about Harriet Miers' nomination came from Senators, organizations, and individuals from diverse political philosophies. It does not matter who is asking the questions about a nomination; these questions serve the long-term interest of the Nation, those people out there, the American people who are watching us through those lenses.

Unfortunately, in this age of partisan politics dominating all else, questions too often are labeled as obstructionism. You remember that? Obstructionism. If you ask questions, you are accused of trying to shut down the Senate. Judge Roberts' name up here. Yes, for once I called him and asked what I thought. I complimented him on calling Senators, seeking their advice. The phrase is advice and consent, not just the word "consent." It also has the word "advice." So I said, and the 14 said, we want to be in on the takeoff as well as on the landing. So seek our advice.

Yes. Mr. President, seek our advice. Say to the American people that you want to hear what we have to say. I will lend you mine. He did that. The President did that. I complimented him on it. I hope he will do that now. I hope he will not send up a lightning rod, somebody who will just polarize the country and attract bows and arrows.

Mr. President, listen to the advice and consent clause in this hallowed document, the Constitution of the United States. Read it. It says "advice." Hear me. Mr. President. Call Senator Spector again. Don't send up someone who will divide the Senate, who will cause a filibuster, and then some would seek to cut off the freedom of Senators to speak. Be careful. Mr. President, please call. Please call me. If you don’t call me, call somebody else. Call Senators. Ask them what they think. You can disregard our viewpoint if you wish. You don’t have to accept our advice. I don’t have anybody particularly in mind, but—oh, my! Will you do it, Mr. President? I hope you will.

Mr. President, I yield the floor and suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. FEINGOLD. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

DEFENSE AUTHORIZATION

Mr. FEINGOLD. Mr. President, I certainly appreciate the words of the Senator from West Virginia. In that light, let me point out that last night the Senate adopted a unanimous consent agreement to resume consideration of the Department of Defense authorization bill. Under the agreement, each side would be allowed to offer 12 amendments to the bill, all of which must relate to the bill or the jurisdiction of the Services Committee.

Let me start by congratulating the Democratic leader for working tirelessly to bring this bill back before the Senate. Senator REID recognizes that Congress has a responsibility to the American people and to our brave men and women in uniform to debate and pass a responsible Department of Defense authorization bill. I thank him for his efforts.

Congress has an additional responsibility, and that is to put our Iraq policy right and return the focus of our country to our top national security goals. That policy, and particularly the failure of the administration to offer a reasonable, flexible timetable for bringing our troops home, is making us weaker. It is making us less safe, and it is making our enemies stronger. The perception of a massive, indefinite American troop presence in Iraq is feeding the very insurgency that we are trying to defeat. That is why I now call upon the majority and minority leaders to agree that they will allow the Senate to debate and vote upon an amendment calling for a flexible timetable for returning our troops home. This chamber’s position on the Iraq war, on the twilight of the Bush era, must be exactly the resolution I introduced in June, or it doesn’t have to include the December 31, 2006, target date for completion of the primary military mission that I proposed back in August.

There are plenty of Members deeply concerned about Iraq whose leadership has been and will continue to be crucial, people such as Senators LEVIN, KERRY, and Dodd. Senators BYRD and KENNEDY have also been vocal about their concerns. There are plenty of Members across the aisle, across whom I have spoken and shared some of my concerns about our Iraq policy. I welcome the opportunity to work with my colleagues on both sides of the aisle to come up with a reasonable amendment that will finally start the process of getting our Iraq policy and our broader national security strategy on track.

Obviously, I do not have to remind anyone here that the United States suffered its 2,000th casualty in Iraq this week, and there have been more since then. Every one of our servicemembers in Iraq and their families deserve clarity about the mission they are serving legions that fight that mission.

And the American people and the Iraqi people, too, need to know that we have a plan to complete our military mission and draw down our troops in Iraq.

Mr. President, the Senate needs to do its job. When the Senate finally resumes consideration of the Defense authorization bill, and I hope that will be very soon, we need to finally address and put our Iraq policy right. The Senate will consider up to 24 amendments at that time. I hope this should be one of them. I hope my colleagues agree with me and that we can work together to ensure that we live up to our responsibilities.

Mr. President, I yield the floor. I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. FEINGOLD. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

AMENDMENT NO. 2279, AS MODIFIED

Mr. FEINGOLD. Mr. President, I rise today with my colleague from Maine, Senator COLLINS, to offer an amendment to fund the Automatic Defibrillation in Adam’s Memory, the ADAM Act. But first I would like to thank the Senator from Pennsylvania and my colleague Senator HARKIN for adopting an amendment into the managers’ bill relating to scholarships for low-income and minority students and for expansion of positive behavioral interventions and support within schools to encourage better discipline. I thank them and their staffs for working with us on this amendment.

In addition, it is my understanding that there has been a meeting of the minds between the two sides of the aisle about what may end up being the most significant aspect of the Labor H appropriations bill.

Yesterday, I joined Senators HARKIN, KENNEDY, and a number of my colleagues in introducing an avian flu amendment. I know we had been able to get an amendment into the DOD appropriations bill that made significant headway in funding the work that needs to be done to prepare this nation for pandemic flu. Obviously, this Labor H bill was the more appropriate vehicle to fund preparedness activities. The fact that Senator Specter and Senator Harkin have agreed to work something out on this issue is extremely important.
I will mention a couple of things that I believe make this avian flu amendment so significant. A number of Senators have talked on the Senate floor very eloquently about the threat of avian flu and the lack of preparedness and do not treat the United States or communities seek to keep infection out. Such efforts for the parts to make the masks. Because the companies depend on increased demand during a pandemic, in part because the companies depend on increased demand during a pandemic, in part because the companies depend on the parts to make the masks. But we would have shutdowns in the production of microchips that fuel so much of our technology.

To use just one example, currently, two U.S.-based companies supply most of the protective face masks for health care workers around the world. Neither company would be able to meet increased demand during a pandemic, in part because the companies depend on multiple suppliers in multiple countries for the parts to make the masks. Businesses today rely on the world's real-time economy, and have not established alternative supply chains nor emergency plans for production and distribution. In a time of pandemic, the labor source could be severely affected as well, compounding the supply chain problem.

Our Government officials also have not yet addressed the social implications of a pandemic. We had a taste of that in what tragically happened with Hurricane Katrina. We witnessed desperation and confusion as people scrambled to survive and to find their loved ones. We are going to have to develop protocols and plans now so we can prepare for whatever public health measures may be needed, including possible quarantine or isolation.

The closest the world has come to this scenario in modern times was the SARS epidemic in 2003. Over a period of 5 months, about 8,000 people were infected and about 10 percent of those infected died. Once SARS emerged in China, it spiraled within 24 hours, and to 30 countries on 6 continents within several months. The economic consequences of SARS were staggering. The 6-month epidemic costs to the Asian-Pacific region alone were estimated at $40 billion.

As avian flu is significantly more contagious and more deadly, you can only imagine the potential scope of economic devastation that we might face. Senator HARKIN has mentioned that the warning bell is ringing, and we need to heed its urgent call to action. Time is running out and this administration must act now if it is to prevent the severe economic, security, and health consequences from pandemic flu.

Let me close with one last comment. I heard some colleagues in discussions, both in the media and on the floor of the Senate, suggest that we should not succumb to panic. I know at one point there was an analogy we heard about how we are calling for with respect to investments in pandemic flu preparedness and Y2K.

Let me just make two points. No. 1, we are absolutely certain that some form of pandemic will occur in our lifetime. We do not know if it will be caused by a H5N1 virus that mutates and spreads by human-to-human contact, similar to the 1918 pandemic. But unless history has completely taught us something, we can expect some form of pandemic that has severe consequences, and right now, we do not have the infrastructure to deal with it.

What that means is whatever investment we make now—for example, in developing a cell-based technology rather than an egg-based technology to develop vaccines—that is a sound investment even if we are lucky and this H5N1 virus does not end up mutating in such a way that it can cause a pandemic, because we will now be prepared for whatever pandemic occurs. We will have the infrastructure to rapidly produce the sort of vaccines that are necessary. This is a smart investment for us to make on the front end. The second point is one that, again, I think has been highlighted by what happened in New Orleans and the Gulf coast. Sometimes the costs of doing nothing are so high that in the same way that you or I buy catastrophic health insurance to cover the possibility that we have to use it, this is one of those situations where we have to devote the dollars to prepare and develop a plan, hoping that we never have to use it.

I am extraordinarily grateful that Senator HARKIN, Senator SPECTER, and other leaders on this committee have been able to come to an agreement that should allow us to finally fund the preparedness and readiness activities that are going to be necessary for us to meet the challenge of avian flu.

Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. BINGAMAN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment (No. 2218), as modified, is as follows:

AMENDMENT NO. 2218, AS MODIFIED

(Purpose: To increase funding for advanced placement programs)

At the end of title III (before the short title), insert the following:

SEC. (a) In addition to amounts otherwise appropriated under this Act, there is appropriated, out of any appropriation in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, an additional $7,000,000 to carry out part G of title I of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 (20 U.S.C. 725).

(b) On page 183, line 15, strike "$1,057,385,000" and insert "$1,057,385,000" and on page 213, strike "$417,929,000" and insert "$417,929,000".

Mr. BINGAMAN. Mr. President, this is an amendment that the Senator from Texas, Mrs. HUTCHISON, and myself are offering to add an additional $7 million to the funding for advanced placement instruction in our schools. This is an issue she and I have pursued for many years.

It is my strong belief one of the clearest ways we can improve the quality of education in our school system is to encourage more students to take advanced placement courses, to encourage more teachers to get the training necessary to teach those advanced placement courses. Those are courses the college board has identified as specified standards nationwide.

It is clear that any student who is involved in secondary education in this country that a student is advantaged in their later education and in their career if... they have the opportunity and take ad-advantage of the opportunity to take these advanced placement courses in high school. There are many high schools in my State of New Mexico that do not offer advanced placement courses to their students. I think that is a shame in this day and time. I think it is very unfortunate we do not make this opportunity available nationwide to more students and encourage it.

A recent report which the Presiding Officer and I have requested from the National Academy of Sciences talks very extensively about the importance of developing the scientific and technical building blocks we need for this country to strengthen our economy.
They recommend in that National Academy of Sciences report that we can do a variety of things to improve the quality of education from kindergarten through the 12th grade, in adin to doing various things at the university level and, of course, doing a variety of things with research and development as well.

One of their recommendations is directly applicable to this amendment which we sent to the desk. The recommendation is that we set out to quadruple the number of students in advanced placement math and science courses by the year 2010. There are approximately 1.2 million students who take those courses today. The suggestion is that in the next 4 or 5 years we would increase that to 4.5 million students. That is a very enormous out-taking. That is an easy thing to say but a very hard thing to do.

The recommendation in the appendix attached to the National Academy of Sciences report indicates that the estimate they have would cost something in the range of an additional $350 million per year for us to be able to achieve this kind of improvement. We are not asking for that $350 million in this amendment. We are asking for $7 million per year to get close to what the President requested in the budget he sent to the Congress earlier this year. We are asking to go up to $40 million for advanced placement instruction.

That is a very modest request, but we are informed it is all that is possible, given the budgetary constraints under which this bill is operating.

I think it is an extremely good amendment. It is a very important focus for us to have as we try to begin to focus on an agenda that will make this country more competitive in world markets. I know the Presiding Officer feels this needs to be a very high priority for this country. I certainly do, as well as the Senator from Texas.

I hope our colleagues will support this amendment.

I yield the floor so Senator
HUTCHISON can explain her views on the issue.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Texas.

Mrs. HUTCHISON. Mr. President, I thank my colleague, Senator BINGA-MAN. We have been working on increasing the amount put in the advanced placement program for years. Together, we actually started the Federal funding for this program. It has been a phenomenal success.

In fact, in recent study on the lack of emphasis in science in our country in high schools and colleges, one of the recommendations made by the commission, which I think the Presiding Officer of the Senate sitting in the chair today is familiar with, is one of these recommendations is increasing the Advanced Placement Program. That is exactly what we are doing with this amendment.

The Advanced Placement Program allows students to pursue college-level studies while still in high school. It is celebrating its 50th anniversary and it is now in 15,000 schools around the world, including 60 percent of high schools in America. Through these programs, students experience a rigorous college-level curriculum and have the chance to earn college credit, advanced placement, or both.

According to a U.S. Department of Education study, participation in advanced placement courses is a stronger predictor of success in college than test scores or grade point averages. A 2002 study by the University of Texas at Austin showed that among students with the same SAT scores and class rank, advanced placement students scoring well on the exams would be performed better in advanced college courses than students who participated in concurrent enrollment or who did not skip any college courses at all.

Research has also shown that 61 percent of students who take two or the more advanced placement exams graduate from college on time. By contrast, only 29 percent of other college students earn a degree within 4 years.

When you consider the average total charges at a 4-year public institution in the 2005 school year were more than $12,000 per year and $29,000 per year for private colleges, graduating within 4 years becomes a very important objective.

While much growth has occurred in advanced placement participation, a vast gap still exists between the 57 percent of the class of 2004 who embarked on higher education last fall and the 13 percent of the class of 2004 who were enrolled in AP classes in high school.
Currently, 40 percent of students entering 4-year colleges and universities are requiring some remedial education while 63 percent of students at 2-year institutions do. This is a significant concern. One or more remedial courses, particularly in math or reading, negatively influence the likelihood that a student will obtain that bachelor's degree.

Last year, a fellow Texan and current Assistant Secretary of Education, Tom Luce, wrote a book entitled "Do What Works: How Proven Practices Can Improve America's Public Schools."
He was very generous in giving of his time to brief me and my staff on progress that has been made in the State of Texas in expanding advanced placement through the private foundation he has established there. It is a very impressive model the whole country can relate to. This modest amendment will be a step toward helping more to happen around the country.

I ask unanimous consent Senator Reid of Nevada, Senator Boxer, and Senator Feinstein be added as original cosponsors.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. BINGAMAN. As I understand it, we are ready for a vote on this amendment at this time unless the managers would like to postpone it.

Mrs. HUTCHISON. A voice vote would be fine with us.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. If there is no debate, the question is on agreeing to the amendment.

The amendment (No. 2218) was agreed to.

Mr. HARKIN. I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. BINGAMAN. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

UNANIMOUS-CONSENT AGREEMENT—EXECUTIVE CALENDAR

Mrs. HUTCHISON. I ask unanimous consent at 3 o'clock today the Senate proceed to executive session and to consecutively vote on the following nominations: No. 386, John Smoak, to be United States District Judge for the Northern District of Florida; and No. 384, Susan Neilson, to be United States Circuit Judge for the Sixth Circuit.

I further ask unanimous consent there be 2 minutes of debate equally divided prior to each vote; further, that following those votes the President be immediately notified of the Senate's action and the Senate then return to legislative session.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The Senator from Iowa.

AMENDMENT NO. 2214 WITHDRAWN

Mr. HARKIN. Mr. President, I ask consent to withdraw amendment number 2214.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

AMENDMENT NO. 2262

Mr. BINGAMAN. Mr. President, last evening I called up for consideration amendment 2262 and then had it laid aside. I call it up again.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. BINGAMAN. Mr. President, this is an amendment that is very important. I hope we can get a vote before the afternoon is over. The amendment would invest an additional $60 million in our nation's future by strengthening the following 8 programs: the Migrant Education Program, the English Language Acquisition Program, the High School Equivalency Program, the College Assistance Migrant Program, the Dropout Prevention Program, the English as a Second Language Program, the local family information centers, and also the Hispanic-serving institutions. The funding additions this amendment would add up to the total $60 million. This is an amendment that is strongly supported by the Congressional Hispanic Caucus, by the National PTA, and by the Hispanic Education Coalition, which is an ad hoc coalition of lifts dedicated to improving educational opportunities for the more than 40 million Hispanics who live in this country today.

The Migrant Education Program is the first item. The title I Migrant Education Program was established to provide a compensatory education program designed to deal with the difficulties encountered by children of migrant families. Some of the children attend three or four schools in a single school year.

They have a great need for coordination of educational services among the States and local districts where they live, often for short periods of time. They lack the same opportunities that other students have for migrant students so that they can achieve high levels of success both in and outside of school.

The U.S. Department of Education reports that more than 759,000 students fall into this category for program in Fiscal Year 2001. Additional funds are necessary to ensure that children are able to meet the challenges mandated by the No Child Left Behind Act. This amendment will provide an additional $9.6 million in needed funding.

This amendment would also increase funding to States and local districts in order to ensure that as many of the 5.5 million children with limited English skills as possible learn English, develop high levels of academic attainment, and meet the same challenging State academic standards as all children.

Title III is a formula grant Program that distributes funding to all 50 States based on the number of limited English proficient LEp and recent immigrant students. The funds are used for developing effective language acquisition programs; training for bilingual/ESL teachers and regular teachers and educational personnel; parent involvement; and providing services for recently arrived immigrant students. This amendment requests an additional $10.3 million for Language Acquisition Grants, which represents the program's funding to its Fiscal Year 2003 level.

This amendment would provide modest increases for the High School Equivalency Program HEP and the College Assistance Migrant Program CAMP. The HEP helps migrant students complete high school so that they can earn a GED. The CAMP assists migrant students in their first year of college with both counseling and stipends. These programs provide农民工 migrant students with education opportunities and support that will help them to become productive members of society.

Migrant students are among the most disadvantaged in our Nation. Current estimates place the dropout rate for migrant youth at between 50 and 60 percent. Before CAMP, there was no record of a child of migrant farm workers ever having attended college. Both programs have been very successful in helping students become productive members of society.

According to the Department of Education, in 2003–2004, almost 10,000 students were served by HEP CAMP, and 63 percent of the HEP participants received a GED, and 84 percent of CAMP students completed their first year of college in good standing. This amendment provides an additional $5.7 million for these programs.

The Dropout Prevention Program helps States and school districts to implement research-based, sustainable, and coordinated school dropout prevention and re-entry programs in order to raise student achievement. At a time when schools are focused on narrowing gaps among subgroups of students, it seems that Congress would want to retain Dropout Prevention, a program specifically aimed at providing schools with the tools to help students achieve a high school diploma.

Support for dropout prevention is even more significant when considering that the primary source of Federal funding for public schools, authorized through the No Child Left Behind Act of 2001, focuses mainly on elementary schools. More than 90 percent of Federal funds—the principal NCLB programs—are directed to elementary schools. Such an emphasis on elementary education is necessary and appropriate, but also important is continuing an investment of resources throughout the education continuum in order to meet the needs of middle level and high school students.

The Dropout Prevention Program is the only Federal program actively working to reduce the Nation's dropout rates, and, as recent headlines tell us, it is a problem that is far more severe than previous data indicated.

A report by the Urban Institute finds that nearly 50 percent of all students in the public high school class of 2001 graduated. Furthermore, it states that only 5 of all black students and 50 percent of all Hispanic students graduate. Nearly half of all black and Hispanic students do not graduate from high school. This is a problem that has reached enormous proportions. The Dropout Prevention Program was eliminated in this legislation. This amendment restores $5 million to this program.

The Local Family Information Centers Program was authorized under the No Child Left Behind Act to provide parents of title I students, including English language learners, with information about their children’s schools so they can help their children to meet the high standards we have set under NCLB.

The Local Family Information Centers help parents to hold their local and State school officials accountable and become more involved in their children’s education. This amendment would increase funding for these centers by $3 million.

The need for increased funding for English as a Second Language ESL is evident by the growing demand for services and the lack of resources to meet that demand.

Enrollment in Adult ESL has increased 105 percent over the past 10 years, yet there is a lack of programs and funding to ensure that all who desire to learn English have access to appropriate services.

Currently, community-based organizations must piece programs together with volunteer labor and facilities. The need for more targeted services is overwhelming for English-language instruction far outweighs supply, waiting lists for classes typically range from several months to years, and many States do not have the capacity to meet the demand.

The current $30 million in funding is insufficient to meet the enormous demand for ESL services. As the labor market continues to require English-proficient labor, investing in ESL programs will strengthen the labor pool and return a more versatile productive workforce. This amendment provides an additional $6.5 million for ESL programs.

Currently, 35 percent of Hispanics are under the age of 18. The Educational Testing Service has projected the U.S. higher education system will grow by 3.5 million additional students by 2015 and that nearly 40 percent of these new students are Hispanic. Hispanics serve the largest concentrations of the Nation’s youngest and largest ethnic population.

The impending emergence of more than 100 new HSIs mostly in CA, TX, FL, NM, IL, in the next few years and the rapid growth of the Hispanic college-age population underscores urgency for immediate, major, and sustained increases in title V funding.

At some point when the current labor force is reaching retirement age in substantial numbers, Hispanics already represent one of every three new workers joining the U.S. labor force, according to the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics. By 2025, the Bureau projects that one of two new workers joining the U.S. labor force will be Hispanic. This amendment would provide an additional $9.9 million in assistance to these mission.

We must do everything possible to provide every child with the best education we can. This amendment would provide small but much-needed increases in programs that can make a difference in the lives of millions of children. I urge my fellow Senators to support these greatly needed programs by providing them with the proper resources.

This is a very worthwhile amendment. It puts resources to use where they are most needed—not just in my State but throughout this country.

The fastest growing minority population in our country is the Hispanic community. We need to ensure these young people growing up are well educated, are prepared for the challenges of the 21st century. This legislation helps greatly with that effort.

AMENDMENT NO. 2259

Mr. BINGAMAN. Mr. President, let me briefly explain this amendment at this point. I called this amendment up yesterday, as well, amendment 2259, dealing with the Drug Assistance Program, an amendment Senator Smith and I have worked together on to add additional funding for the AIDS Drug Assistance Program, or ADAP.

We had an amendment voted on last night by Senator Biden to shift funding to this function by taking funding from the Centers for Disease Control. Our amendment does not do that. Our amendment provides $74 million in much-needed funding. It would be emergency funding for the AIDS Drug Assistance Program.

This is a very meritorious amendment. It is an amendment I hope all colleagues will support. Some Members of this body voted against the amendment of the Senator from Oklahoma in anticipation of supporting this very important amendment I am talking about now.

The AIDS Drug Assistance Program provide life-saving assistance to over 136,000 uninsured or underinsured HIV-infected individuals each year. As the number of people living with HIV/AIDS has increased, largely due to advances in HIV treatment, the importance of and demand for ADAP has grown so that, as of September 2005, a total of 2,187 individuals were on ADAP waiting lists in nine States.

As the National ADAP Monitoring Project says:

When an individual is on a waiting list, they may not have access to HIV-related medications. We are talking about life-extending and life-saving medications. In fact, it has been reported that patients on ADAP waiting lists in West Virginia and Kentucky have passed away.

Furthermore, as of March 2005, due to funding shortfalls, 21 States have some sort of cost containment measures in place, including waiting lists, that often impede access to care. This includes increased cost-sharing, reductions in eligibility income limits, and limitations on covered treatments.

We as a Nation, are rightfully committed to providing billions of dollars of support for HIV/AIDS care and treatment services to those living with HIV in nations across the world and we should be. However, here at home, it is unforgivable that there are Americans who are dying because they are on waiting lists for life-saving drugs or having life-saving medications rationed to them in various forms.

A story entitled “Dying for AIDS Drugs” documents some of the stories of those who have lost ADAP coverage or are on waiting lists. As the story reads:

Margaret Nicholson, a Springfield, Oregon, home care attendant who survives with her mother and husband on less than $20,000 a year, lost her ADAP coverage because she couldn’t afford the new co-pays; she has now gone 4 months without seeing a doctor and is scraping by on pill samples. In North Carolina, HIV doctor Aimee Wilkin says some of her waiting list patients, forced to seek medicines through drug company charity programs, have faced multiple treatment interruptions, the result of bureaucratic delays in exposing them to HIV drug resistance. In Kentucky, caseworkers are so desperate they’re asking churches to pass the hat to sponsor someone’s pills for a few weeks at a time.

In our great Nation, this is unacceptable and should end. This amendment, sponsored by Senator Smith and myself, would go a long way to address the ADAP shortfalls and I urge its passage.

I hope we can actually have a rollcall vote on this amendment.

I ask for the yeas and nays on Senate amendment 2262 at this time.

DEPARTMENTS OF LABOR, HEALTH AND HUMAN SERVICES, AND EDUCATION, AND RELATED AGENCIES APPROPRIATIONS ACT, 2006—Continued

AMENDMENT NO. 2283, AS FURTHER MODIFIED

Mr. HARKIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to call up amendment No. 2283.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. HARKIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to send to the desk a modification of that amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. HARKIN. I ask that the amendment be so modified.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, the amendment is modified.

The amendment (No. 2283), as further modified, is as follows:

On page 169, line 18, strike ‘$183,589,000: Provided, That $120,000,000 of amounts available for influenza preparedness’ and replace with ‘$161,589,000: Provided, That these funds shall be distributed at the discretion of the President, after consultation with the Chairman and Ranking Members of the House and Senate Committees on Appropriations, the Chairmen and Ranking Members of the House and Senate Subcommittees on Labor, Health and Human Services, and Education Appropriations, the Chairmen and Ranking Member of the Senate Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions Committee, and the Senate Majority and Minority Leaders. Provided further, That $8,095,000,000 of amounts available for influenza and other potential pandemics preparedness is designated as an emergency requirement pursuant to section 402 of H. Con. Res. 95 (109th Congress), the concurrent resolution on the budget for fiscal year 2006 and’.

Mr. HARKIN. Mr. President, I also would ask that Senator SPECTER be made a cosponsor of this amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. HARKIN. Mr. President, this is the amendment that a lot of us talked about earlier that provides funding for a possible avian flu pandemic. We have worked a lot on both sides of the aisle. I especially thank our chairman, Senator SPECTER, for his guidance and leadership on this amendment, for working this out and, again, ensuring that we can move ahead to make sure this country is ready with the funds we need to provide for better global surveillance, to provide for stockpiling of antivirals and vaccines, for money that is going to be needed for building flu vaccine manufacturing plants, and making sure our public health infrastructure is adequate and that we have the surge capacity in hospitals. That is all in this amendment.

Again, I thank Senator SPECTER for his leadership on this amendment, and in working it out so that we can move to a voice vote on this amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Pennsylvania.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, very briefly, Senator HARKIN is due great credit for this very important amendment, having taken the lead in establishing the fund. We have structured it, after consultation with a number of our colleagues, so that funds will be expended at the discretion of the President, after consultation with certain named Members of both the House and the Senate. This is in anticipation of the administration sending over a proposal in which they have ample time to give due consideration before the conference.

This is a very significant step forward so that we do not face a crisis where the administration wants something, and one of its agencies, under the Constitution, has the authority to appropriate the funds.

I salute my colleague, Senator HARKIN, and all those who worked on the amendment.

We jointly urge its adoption.

AMENDMENT NO. 2283, AS FURTHER MODIFIED

Mr. LIEBERMAN. Mr. President, I would like to take this opportunity to congratulate Senator SPECTER and Senator HARKIN and their staffs on moving the avian influenza amendment forward in a bipartisan manner. They have done a tremendous job on coming to an agreement.

Senator HARKIN and Senator SPECTER’s amendment includes my proposal for federal funding of the viral surveillance which I would like to take a moment to outline more thoroughly.

As we all know, the potential for an influenza pandemic is increasing as the H5N1 virus has now moved swiftly across Asia, Europe, and now the EU, killing millions of domesticated poultry and over 60 humans to date. History and science tell us that wild birds are the ones that spread deadly avian influenza viruses. It happened before during the 1918 influenza epidemic that killed an estimated 40 million people worldwide. We must act now to ensure that this does not happen again. We have the tools. We just need to increase and strengthen them.

My proposal seeks to provide funds supporting an early warning system for global influenza that starts with wild birds. This is a major gap in our flu tracking system. The proposed warning system would track and monitor avian influenza and their mutations carried by wild birds by expanding the Centers of Disease Control’s wild bird surveillance efforts which are currently not extensive. The CDC’s efforts must be tied to other governmental and nongovernmental organizations with expertise in avian surveillance; accredited colleges of veterinary medicine; and other national and international partners, as necessary.

The contracting nongovernmental organizations in coordination with the influenza branch of the CDC, shall manage the nongovernmental international surveillance program in which all partners named above are encouraged: to monitor and test for the presence or arrival of avian influenza and other significant avian pathogens in important bird areas around the world; to better guide preparedness in one or more nongovernmental organizations, including free-ranging, captive, and wild bird species, with a proven ability in identifying avian influenza in birds, with and with accredited zoological facilities in the U.S.

The influenza branch and the contracting nongovernmental organizations will collaborate with appropriate Federal and State agency partners, including the Department of Agriculture acting through the Agricultural Research Service and the Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service, the U.S. Geological Survey, and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service; various U.S. State wildlife agencies, multilateral agency partners, including the Food and Agriculture Organization, the World Health Organization, the Office International des Epizooties, and the World Conservation Union; conservation organizations with expertise in international and domestic bird monitoring surveillance; accredited colleges of veterinary medicine; and other national and international partners, as necessary.

Just as we track hurricanes as they begin as a tropical storm, we must track wild birds and the viral storms they carry over oceans and continents and share that data with the world.

The purposes of my proposal are to support efforts: to more rapidly and efficiently detect, verify, and report on the presence of H5N1 and other highly pathogenic avian influenzae and infectious diseases in migratory wild birds and waterfowl; to use information on viral strains found in wild birds to better delineate any mutations in the virus; to use information on when and where highly pathogenic avian influenzae viruses and other infectious diseases are identified in migratory birds to guide protection efforts in the U.S. and around the world, to carry out a comprehensive migratory bird surveillance program that will provide early warning to specific areas to enhance poultry biosecurity and surveillance, and other protective measures as necessary; to create an open access database where information on highly pathogenic avian influenzae viruses and other infectious diseases identified in migratory birds are shared in as close to real time as possible; to protect the health and safety of U.S. citizens and officials traveling and living abroad; and to protect the economic interests of the U.S. and its partners from threats to key, ag, agriculture, and natural resources.

It is the intent of my proposal that within 90 days of the appropriation, the Centers for Disease Control’s influenza branch center into one or more nongovernmental organizations chartered in the U.S. with extensive global wildlife health experience in tracking disease in wild birds, including free-ranging, captive, and wild bird species, with a proven ability in identifying avian influenza in birds, and with accredited zoological facilities in the U.S.

The influenza branch and the contracting nongovernmental organizations will collaborate with appropriate Federal and State agency partners, including the Department of Agriculture acting through the Agricultural Research Service and the Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service, the U.S. Geological Survey, and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service; various U.S. State wildlife agencies, multilateral agency partners, including the Food and Agriculture Organization, the World Health Organization, the Office International des Epizooties, and the World Conservation Union; conservation organizations with expertise in international and domestic bird monitoring surveillance; accredited colleges of veterinary medicine; and other national and international partners, as necessary.

The contracting nongovernmental organization, in coordination with the influenza branch of the CDC, shall manage the nongovernmental international surveillance program in which all partners named above are encouraged: to monitor and test for the presence or arrival of avian influenza and other significant avian pathogens at important bird areas around the world; and the world, and other key areas with intense trade in wild birds; to use trained professionals to collect samples and other data and send samples to appropriate diagnostic centers; to use the international surveillance network to locate high disease activity on migratory birds worldwide, domestic and international field investigations on migratory birds, training and Capacity-building activities related to the relationships between human health, domestic and animal health, and wildlife health, and research on methods and approaches for the detection and enhanced surveillance of highly pathogenic avian influenza and other infections disseminated in migratory birds; and to send samples for avian influenza testing to certified laboratories that meet internationally established methods standards. These certified laboratories located at the international branch of the CDC, the Office International des Epizooties, the Food and Agriculture Organization, the National Veterinary Services Laboratory of the Department of Agriculture, and the Agricultural Research Service. These findings should be reported back to the contracting nongovernmental organization and the international surveillance network partners.

The CDC's influenza branch and the eligible organization, in coordination with the partners of the international surveillance network, will use surveillance reports and other formal and informal sources of information to identify and investigate local disease outbreaks of avian influenza; will develop a longitudinal dataset of regional data related to highly pathogenic avian influenza and pathogens in migratory birds for analysis between and across sites to create a system to identify when and where outbreaks might occur and pathogens are spreading; and will provide technical assistance for disease prevention and control programs based on a scientific understanding of the relationships between wildlife health, animal health, and human health; will provide analytic disease findings regularly to the influenza branch of the CDC and other international network surveillance partners to prevent and combat diseases; and will conduct other activities as necessary to support the international network and the eligible organization. The surveillance network will be coordinated from the headquarters of the contracting nongovernmental organization.

The CDC's influenza branch and the contracting nongovernmental organization, manage, map, and make available an online database containing all the results and information gathered through the international surveillance network. The database shall provide geolocation of migratory wild bird populations and the movements of the populations. The laboratory test results will be available for viewing by any Federal agency, foreign country, multilateral institution, organization, or individual.

The CDC's influenza branch and the contracting nongovernmental organization, will request accredited colleges of veterinary medicine and other partners of the international surveillance network to monitor important areas and locations around the world and to post for the presence or absence of avian influenza and other significant avian pathogens of zoonotic concern.

Expanding the CDC's efforts by supporting an international surveillance network, allows us to focus limited resources and prepare communities in the infected wild birds' flight path. If we have this information, our menu of interventions can include: providing early warning to those-at-risk, protecting poultry farms, preparing hospitals to take on thousands of patients, and even keeping people indoors. By tracking wild birds we may even be able to produce an avian vaccine before understanding which influenza virus is the killer. The current H5N1 virus is not the one that could cause widespread devastation to humans because it hasn't led to sustained human to human transfer, yet.

This amendment provides $10,000,000 in 2006 to the CDC to work with U.S. and international partners to strengthen a global wild bird surveillance system. Ten million dollars is a small sum in comparison to billions of dollars for vaccine research and antiviral stockpiling. Vaccines and stockpiling are our current focus and we should be thinking about them, but it is equally important to think about being prepared for outbreaks and trying to keep a pandemic from ever hitting. This funding would enable the CDC's influenza branch to contract with one or more expert organizations with the capacity to quickly put into place the tracking and analytical systems we need.

As we speak, some countries and organizations have started to collect information in the U.S. and the world. But while we are collecting data, they are not being stored in any kind of organized manner to make it available for easy study and response.

To summarize, we have a major gap now in avian flu preparedness. We are not adequately tracking the wild birds that will transfer agents. We need to have a stronger and much better tracking system right now. Second, we have to do a much better job collecting and analyzing the information we have and will get so we can prepare our communities.

I thank Senators HARKIN and SPEC TER and their staff for their work preparing our Nation for a possible pandemic. My proposal, which they have been a part of, will provide funding for avian influenza research and enhanced surveillance around pandemic and seasonal outbreaks.

To summarize, we have a major gap now in avian flu preparedness. We are not adequately tracking the wild birds that will transfer agents. We need to have a stronger and much better tracking system right now. Second, we have to do a much better job collecting and analyzing the information we have and will get so we can prepare our communities.

Mrs. CLINTON. Mr. President, today I rise to discuss an important flu amendment that Senator HARKIN and I and several of our colleagues are offering to increase the amount of funding for the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention and their efforts to help our Nation prepare for both pandemic and seasonal influenza.

Since December 2004, 77 cases of avian influenza have been confirmed in Indonesia, Vietnam, Thailand and Cambodia, and 30 of these cases have been fatal. In countries across Asia and Europe, farmers have been culling their poultry stocks because of fears of infection.

We need to prepare for the moment when—not if, but when—avian influenza hits our shores.

What is particularly worrisome to me, when thinking about our Nation's ability to face the threat posed by pandemic or avian influenza, is the fact that we aren't even prepared to deal with the seasonal influenza that we face every year. Our efforts to prepare for pandemic influenza should be linked to efforts to reform and rebuild our Nation's seasonal flu vaccine infrastructure.

Approximately 36,000 Americans die of the flu each year, with another 200,000 people requiring hospitalization because of the flu. These deaths are largely preventable. We could stop them if we had a secure vaccine market, if we could create a window for interspecies transmission through this year's vaccine, CDC directed international vaccine development. Since 2000, our Nation has had three shortages of flu vaccine, which resulted in senior citizens lining up for hours to obtain flu vaccine, unscrupulous distributors attempting to sell scarce vaccine to the highest bidder, and millions of Americans delaying or deferring necessary flu shots.

In order to address these issues, we need to increase the resources that we are committing to our public health infrastructure.

The amendment Senator HARKIN is proposing will provide nearly $3 billion to the CDC, allowing us to respond to the threat posed by avian influenza and our seasonal flu vaccine infrastructure.

It will increase funding for stockpiling of vaccine and antivirals, and improve our domestic production capacity to produce these items.

It will allow us to strengthen our public health infrastructure with additional funding for hospital surge capacity and grants enabling State and local health departments to prepare for public health emergencies like vaccine shortages and pandemic outbreaks.

And it will provide funding so that we can increase our global and domestic surveillance around pandemic and seasonal flu, including improvements to our health information technology infrastructure.

Yet while this amendment provides the CDC with much needed resources for our public health infrastructure, it does not diminish the need for legislation to reform our Nation's vaccine production and distribution infrastructure. In response to the delays in distribution of this year's vaccine, CDC director Julie Gerberding has indicated that the agency is unable to obtain real-time data on vaccine shipments and delivery, citing concerns over disclosure of proprietary information.

Having an adequate supply of vaccine does us no good if it can't get to the people who need it. In last season’s epidemic, we had problems matching existing stocks of vaccine to the high priority populations, like senior citizens, who were in need of vaccine. It took weeks before we could determine how much vaccine was actually in communities, and what it was going to. We wasted lots of time and resources, valuable public health resources, in trying to track this vaccine.

Earlier this month, Senator Roberts and I introduced the Influenza Vaccine Security Act based on many of the provisions that would be funded through the Harkin amendment.

Complementing this amendment, the Influenza Vaccine Security Act would further give the Department of Health and Human Services the authority to track vaccine distribution in a manner that addresses concerns about the protection of proprietary information, allowing providers to vaccinate patients without the current uncertainties over supply.

While there is no vaccine shortage expected this year, delays in production have resulted in diminished supplies for many providers, who are unable to fulfill vaccination needs of their high priority populations, and only other patients who are in the habit of seeking an annual flu shot.

Because we have no tracking system, we can’t tell the providers and patients who order enough for flu shots when vaccines might be available in their local area.

It is clear that we need not only increased funding, provided through this amendment, for our public health infrastructure, but increased authority for our public health officials to ensure that our system of vaccine outreach, delivery and distribution for both pandemics and seasonal flu can operate as smoothly as possible.

The nation also needs to implement legislation like the Influenza Vaccine Security Act that will allow our Government to plan for flu outbreaks, instead of scrambling to address shortages and epidemics once they have already occurred. We have done too much of that already, in the three shortages we have faced since 2000.

I urge my colleagues to not only pass the Harkin amendment today, but to work to bring legislation on seasonal and pandemic flu to the floor as quickly as possible, so that we can make needed reforms before our next vaccine shortage.

Ms. Mikulski. Mr. President, I rise today in support of the pandemic flu preparedness amendment that my colleagues from Iowa, Mr. Harkin, has offered to the fiscal year 2006 Labor/Health and Human Services/Education appropriation bill.

I thank Senator Harkin for taking the lead in addressing the important issue of pandemic flu on the floor of the Senate. Over the past few months, we have heard from leading public health experts such as Dr. Anthony Fauci, Director of the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases, at the National Institutes of Health, and Dr. Julie Gerberding, Director of the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention that it is no longer a question if a pandemic flu will occur, but instead when it will be the United States we are prepared to face.

Health experts have warned that an avian influenza outbreak could ignite a worldwide pandemic that would threaten the lives of millions of Americans. The potential could be far reaching, impacting every sector of our society and our economy.

Past influenza pandemics have led to high levels of illness, death, disruption, and devastating economic losses; the 1918 “Spanish Flu,” took the lives of more than 500,000 Americans, the 1957 “Asian Flu” caused more than 70,000 American deaths and the 1968 “Hong Kong Flu” is attributed to more than 34,000 American deaths.

Our Nation faces a major health threat. Experts have told us that the next pandemic has the potential to be every bit as devastating as what the world witnessed over 100 years ago. With the rapid travel around the globe compared to 1918, and the interdependence of our economic markets compared to 1918, the potential human and economic costs of the next pandemic are unimaginable.

We must take the necessary steps to adequately prepare for a potential pandemic. We must heed the warning we have been given. That is why I support Senator Harkin’s pandemic flu amendment. Senator Harkin’s amendment provides necessary funding that would be used to expand and strengthen efforts at the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, as well as at the State and local level related to pandemic flu and public health preparedness. The amendment would provide additional funding to improve our global disease surveillance capabilities, provide additional support for State and local public health facilities, increase hospital surge capacity and scale up vaccine manufacturing to ensure the American people are protected against pandemic threats.

First, the amendment provides additional funding to expand and support the strategic national stockpile to ensure antivirals, as well as necessary drugs, vaccines and other supplies are secured to respond to a pandemic flu and/or other pandemic threats.

Second, this amendment provides additional funding to build up and support one of the most important components to public health and threat assessments, which is global disease surveillance. One of the best first defenses to limiting the scope and consequences of any outbreak within a short turn around is to rapidly detect and contain the spread of a new influenza strain.

Third, this amendment funds research efforts to discover new vaccine treatments to deal with pandemic flu infections. Currently, there is no vaccine available to protect humans against a pandemic influenza. There is some vaccine development underway, but these efforts need to be strengthened, sustained, and tested to protect our Nation against pandemic flu.

Lastly, this amendment provides additional funding for State and local public health preparedness initiatives. If a pandemic were to spread in the United States, State and local health departments would be on the front lines. However, States and communities are woefully unaugmented. Additional funds are needed for terrorism response planning, training, strengthening epidemiology, and surveillance, upgrading labor capacity and communications systems and other related activities. They must be given adequate resources.

I urge my colleagues to not only pass the Harkin amendment, for our public health experts have done their jobs—they have told us what needs to be done. We must heed their warning. Again, I thank Senator Harkin for his work on this important issue, and I support the amendment as a cosponsor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Senator Harkin, is there any further debate, the question is on agreement to amendment No. 2283, as further modified.

The amendment (No. 2283), as further modified, was agreed to.

Mr. SPECTER. I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. HARKIN. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, we are now in a position to move to a number of amendments on which there is agreement. As we review the bill today, there are prospects for several more roll call votes. It is, as usual, impossible to tell whether we will need the roll call votes. We are calling the Senators rather than identifying them on the floor—identifying them on the floor is the next step—but Senators know who they are, where they are on the prospect of roll call votes, and they ought to come to the Chamber because we have had many inquiries as to when we are going to conclude this bill. We are getting very close.

AMENDMENT NO. 234

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, I call up amendment No. 234 on behalf of Senators Warner and Allen. This amendment expresses the sense of the Senate that the Administrator of the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services work with the Commonwealth of Virginia to resolve their Medicaid issues.

On page 137, line 9, both of the amounts are further reduced by $10,000,000.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Iowa.

Mr. HARKIN. Mr. President, if my colleagues will withhold for just a second, I do not seem to have that amendment in front of me.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. HARKIN. I do not have any objection to this amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the amendment No. 2276, as modified.

The amendment (No. 2276), as modified, was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 2262, AS MODIFIED

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, I now call up amendment No. 2262, as modified, proposed by Senator BINGAMAN.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment is pending.

The yeas and nays have been ordered on this amendment, so it cannot be adopted by a voice vote.

Mr. HARKIN. Parliamentary inquiry.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Iowa.

Mr. HARKIN. Is that on amendment No. 2262?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Yes.

Mr. HARKIN. I believe in my conversations with both Senator BINGAMAN and Senator HUTCHISON that they and their staffs agree to this amendment, so I ask unanimous consent to vitiate the yeas and nays on this amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. SALAZAR. Mr. President, I rise to lend my support to amendment No. 2262 to the Labor, Health and Human Services and Education Appropriations Act for fiscal year 2006. I am proud to be a cosponsor of this amendment, which was introduced by Senator BINGAMAN.

The amendment adds $60 million to key education programs that are critical to improving Hispanic educational opportunities. If approved, the money will be put to good use by State and local entities to invest in our country’s most precious resource: Our youth.

The Hispanic community is an integral component of our American workforce. By ensuring that the 8.7 million Hispanic youth enrolled in our Nation’s schools succeed in education, we make a down payment on our Nation’s future economic security.

I note that the Hispanic Education Coalition, a group of diverse national education, civil rights, and Hispanic organizations, supports amendment No. 2262.

The amendment will restore $5 million in funding to the School Dropout Prevention Program that was authorized by the No Child Left Behind Act, and long championed by my colleague Senator BINGAMAN. It increases funding for civics and English as a Second Language, ESL programs by $6.5 million for parents, workers and citizens who want to learn more about our country’s history and to improve their language skills in English, the language of opportunity in America and throughout the world.

In addition, funding for two small but incredibly effective programs, the High School Equivalency Program, HEP, and the College Assistance Migrant Program, CAMP, would be reinstated to their Fiscal Year 2004 levels. As a product of rural New Mexico, I have known and met many migrant worker families. They work hard to provide the wonderful grains, vegetables, and fruits we eat at our dinner table. In Colorado and other parts of the country, HEP–CAMP support students in high school through graduation, with the ultimate goal of sending them off to college.

This amendment also provides an additional $13 million in funding for Parent Assistance and Local Family Information Centers. The Colorado Parent Information and Resource Center in Denver uses this funding to help low income parents understand and navigate the school system and encourages their involvement in their community. Parental involvement is critical to children’s success and I strongly support efforts that engage parents in their children’s education.

Finally, there are modest increases for our Nation’s Hispanic-Serving Institutions and for bilingual and migrant education.

I urge the Senate’s support of amendment No. 2262 because I believe we will all reap the benefits of increasing Hispanic educational achievement.

Mr. OBAMA. Mr. President, I rise today to support an amendment introduced by Senator BINGAMAN to increase funding for education of Hispanic students. This important group of Americans has long been underserved by our public schools, and the actions proposed in this amendment are an important remedy.

In America, the promise of a good education for all makes it possible for any child to rise above the barriers of race or class or background and achieve his or her potential. We live in a world where the most valuable skill you can sell is knowledge. Yet we are denying this skill to too many of our children.

This denial has grave consequences, with those consequences falling inequitably on children of color. Of every 100 white kindergartners, 93 graduate from high school, and 33 earn at least a bachelor’s degree. But for every 100 Hispanic kindergartners, only 63 graduate from high school, and only 11 obtain a bachelor’s degree. This is not easy to address. There is no single, simple solution. This amendment recognizes this fact by proposing a variety of programs to help Hispanic students. Among these programs, Support for Hispanic Serving Institutions will help those colleges that now grant diplomas to over 50 percent of all Hispanic graduates. Language Acquisition Grants address those students who struggle to learn because they do not yet have full fluency in English, a number who constitutes nearly half of the Hispanic students in our public schools. The School Dropout Prevention Program addresses one of the most significant problems for children of color. In Illinois, only 53 percent of Hispanic students graduate from high school, compared with 83 percent of whites.

We must do better. We must not lower our standards. Instead, we must increase our support for those students who are eager to succeed. In many situations, it is clear that children of color, when provided appropriate support and effective teachers, can rise to meet our expectations and fulfill their hopes and the dreams of their families. I am proud to support Senator BINGAMAN in this effort.

The question is on agreeing to amendment No. 2262, as modified. The amendment (No. 2262), as modified, was agreed to, as follows:

(Purpose: To increase funding for education programs serving Hispanic students)

At the end of title III (before the short title), insert the following—SEC. 347. INCREASED FUNDING FOR EDUCATION PROGRAMS SERVING HISPANIC STUDENTS.

(a) MIGRANT EDUCATION.—In addition to amounts otherwise appropriated under this Act, there are appropriated, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, an additional $14,900,000 for the education of migratory children under part C of title I of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 (20 U.S.C. 6811 et seq.).

(b) ENGLISH LANGUAGE ACQUISITION.—In addition to amounts otherwise appropriated under this Act, there are appropriated, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, an additional $7,650,000 for English language acquisition programs under part A of title III of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 (20 U.S.C. 6811 et seq.).

(c) HEP/CAMP.—In addition to amounts otherwise appropriated under this Act, there are appropriated, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, an additional $3,250,000 for English as a second language programs and bilingual education programs under the Adult Education Act of 1965 (20 U.S.C. 9201 et seq.).

(d) ESL/CIVICS PROGRAMS.—In addition to amounts otherwise appropriated under this Act, there are appropriated, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, an additional $50 million for the School Dropout Prevention Program, which helps States and school districts implement research-based, sustainable dropout prevention programs and re-entry programs to help students who fall behind academically. At a time when we are working to narrow achievement gaps, this important program is more essential than ever, and is geared to ensure that all children graduate with a high school diploma. By contrast, the underlying bill eliminates this program entirely and is an insult to every Hispanic child in America.

The amendment also invests an additional $10 million to restore title III and expand its services to an additional 16,000 English-language-learners throughout the Nation. This year, we are adequately serving only 1 in every 5 of these students under title III. All English language-learners deserve access to good bilingual programs, with well-qualified teachers to help them learn English and meet high academic standards.

The Bingaman amendment also provides funds for another provision in the No Child Left Behind Act, the Parent Information Resource Centers and Local Family Information Centers programs. The amendment adds $13 million for Parent Information Resource Centers, bringing total funding to $55 million. Because Local Family Information Centers can be funded only if funds for the parent centers are over $50 million, the Bingaman amendment enables the local centers to receive funding for the first time ever. The $5 million that the amendment provides for the Local Family Information Centers is an important step in involving parents in their children’s education, and is especially important for parents of English-language-learners who may need more assistance in navigating the school system.

The amendment also benefits the 750,000 children of migrant farmworkers, by providing an additional $9 million for the Migrant Education Program. These children face many obstacles to their education, including dire poverty, geographic and cultural isolation, and outright bigotry. The Migrant Education Program was created in 1966 to reduce these obstacles, coordinate the services provided to migrant children, and lay the foundation for them to succeed in school and in life. This amendment will provide a range of supplemental support services to migrant students, including the assurance that their school records will follow them from school to school as their families relocate to new areas of the region of the Nation.

The Bingaman amendment will also help migrant students go to college and complete college, by investing an additional $5 million in the High School Equivalency Program and the College Assistance Migrant Program. These two programs are lifelines of college opportunity for migrant students. They use proven strategies to help migrant students complete high school and graduate from college. They provide instruction and counseling for those who have dropped out of school to get back on track, and they provide valuable guidance to migrant high school graduates in their first year of college.

By contrast, the bill before us freezes funding for these two programs at this year’s levels of $18.7 million for the high school program and $31.5 million for the freshman college program. It carries forward a cut of $4.4 million from last year, which resulted in the elimination of five parts of the high school program. We need to do more, not less, to help migrant students succeed in school and college. Reductions in these valuable programs should be unacceptable to us all.

Finally, the Bingaman amendment provides an additional $9.9 million to support the 250 colleges and universities across the country designated as Hispanic Serving Institutions. Over half of all Hispanic students enrolled in higher education are served by these colleges and universities. They enable tens of thousands of Hispanic students every year to continue their education and obtain a college degree.

Investing in the education of Hispanic children is a vital part of assuring the future strength and well-being of our Nation. I strongly urge the Senate to support the Bingaman amendment.

Mr. KOHL. Mr. President, I rise today in strong support of the Bingaman amendment. This amendment provides $74 million in much needed additional support for the AIDS Drug Assistance Program.

Yesterday, the Senate overwhelmingly defeated an amendment by Senator Coburn that would have increased ADAP funding at the expense of the Centers for Disease Control construction and renovations account. CDC buildings and labs haven’t been updated in years, and in some cases decades. Today, we are asking CDC to do more to protect public health than ever before, especially in light of important priorities like avian flu preparedness and combating bioterrorism. It doesn’t make sense to cut the funds that would help them build the facilities to do it, which is why I would not support the Coburn amendment.

The Bingaman amendment will help provide additional funding for life-saving medications to nearly 150,000 low-income, uninsured and underinsured people in the United States. And it does not cut other important public health programs to do it. The CDC estimates that over 212,000 people in the U.S. who have been diagnosed with HIV are not receiving treatment, making this additional ADAP funding a critical priority. I urge my colleagues to help those not receiving treatment by supporting this important amendment.

Mr. SMITH. Mr. President, I would like to talk briefly about the importance of the AIDS Drug Assistance Program, or ADAP. ADAP is a vital resource for low-income individuals who are living with HIV/AIDS. It helps get medications to those who most need them so that they can stay healthy and avoid more costly health care treatments that are required if their condition worsens. To date, ADAP has been a successful partnership between Federal and State governments, but it is rapidly buckling under the strain of budget shortfalls and rising demand for services.

Currently, there are over one million individuals living with HIV in the United States, many of whom rely upon expensive medications to stay alive. While we have made significant strides in stabilizing the spread of HIV in recent years, it is the most vulnerable individuals who are unable to afford medications to treat their condition. These are the people that ADAP seeks to help: low-income individuals with Medicaid—as most State programs only cover those individuals who have been disabled by full-blown AIDS. They are individuals who simply cannot afford to purchase all the medications required to keep them healthy and active members of the community and the workforce.

Each year, ADAP caseloads increase by 7,000 to 8,000 people. Yet funding has not kept pace with that growth. It has been lowered, a change which means individuals need to save an additional $100 million each year to keep pace with increased demand. While increases in drug rebates or State funding could contribute to part of that need, they will by no means cover the entire amount. The Federal Government must also step up its financial commitment to ensure that all individuals, including those new to the program, get the care they need.

Unfortunately, we have not met the new demand. In the budget we are debating today, ADAP has only received a $10 million increase over amounts appropriated in 2005, the same amount recommended by the House. In 2004, funding for ADAP only increased by $34 million. Year after year, ADAP goes underfunded, which means more and more low-income individuals are unable to access medications that may keep them alive. In my opinion, that is simply wrong.

Submissions to funding shortfalls, many states, struggling with their own budgetary difficulties, have been forced to create waiting lists, implement additional cost sharing requirements or create restrictive guidelines that create barriers for many individuals to access treatment. Other states with lower than average eligibility guidelines have been unable to extend coverage to individuals who live in poverty because they do not meet restrictive income and asset tests.

The State of Oregon has done its best to keep ADAP service levels constant, with the support of organizations like Cascade AIDS. But it is becoming increasingly more difficult to meet the needs for Oregon’s ADAP has been forced to implement priority service ran kings and may have to consider additional cost-sharing requirements next year. Our income eligibility guidelines have also been lowered, a change which means more individuals are going to go without the medications they need. Oregon is not alone.

Currently, 2,185 low-income individuals are on waiting lists for ADAP nationwide. Some of these individuals have been fortunate enough to receive temporary assistance through an emergency initiative launched last year by the President. However, that program expired in September and will be entirely phased out by the end of the year. Individuals on waiting lists are sick and in most cases they only get sicker while they wait for treatment.

Sadly, individuals on waiting lists in Kentucky and West Virginia died while awaiting treatment for their ADAP. Oregon, one of those States drug assistance programs. In a nation with wealth such as ours, it is unacceptable that individuals face the threat of dying from AIDS because we do not adequately fund the programs such as ADAP. Now is the time for Congress to act so further tragedies like these do not occur again.

Apart from these unfortunate examples, others who are on waiting lists are only likely to see their conditions worsen, which means they may one day require more costly health care treatment. It is not good fiscal policy to continually fail to invest in medical treatments that could prevent HIV cases from progressing to full-blown AIDS. It is a fact that treating AIDS is much more expensive than treating HIV. The more we can do to help individuals healthier, longer, the better, not only in terms of cost savings for the government, but in extending the chance that those living with HIV/AIDS can live to see a cure for their illness.

As a matter of fiscal and moral responsibility, Senator Bingaman and I

The PRESIDING OFFICER. On this vote, the yeas are 46, the nays are 50. Three-fifths of the Senators duly chosen and sworn not having voted in the affirmative, the motion is rejected. The point of order is sustained and the amendment fails.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. HARKIN. I move to lay that motion on the table.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, the Senator from Massachusetts has an amendment which Senator Harkin and I have discussed with him. I believe it is acceptable. I yield now to Senator KERRY so he can state his amendment.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Massachusetts.

Mr. KERRY. Mr. President, I ask the amendment be set aside and amendment No. 2216 be called up.

The PRESIDENT. The amendment (No. 2216) was agreed to.

Mr. HARKIN. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote, and I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

Mr. HARKIN. Mr. President, again we are very close to finishing up this appropriations bill. There may be one or two more amendments. Please come. I have been deceived by people saying they have a plane to catch, they have this or that. But those who have any amendments, if they haven't been over here—otherwise, I defer to my distinguished chairman.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, will the Senator yield for a question?

Mr. HARKIN. I will.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, there is an amendment by the Senator from California, Mrs. BOXER, who is on the floor and ready to go with her amendment. My suggestion would be—we have culled the list, we have called everyone, we know of no other rollcall votes—that we move to third reading when we conclude the Boxer amendment.

We have had continuous requests, multiple requests. Senators want to know when we are going to conclude. We are very close. Let us, if it is agreeable to my ranking member, take up the Boxer amendment, and then have an interlude for anybody else who has an amendment. Then we will go to third reading and final passage.

As previously announced, Senator BOXER is next. Then we have the amendment of the Senator from Nevada, Mr. ENIGN. We have two back-to-back rollcall votes on Senator BOXER's amendment and Senator ENIGN's amendment. Then we are in a position to have some additional voice votes on about half a dozen amendments. Then we are in a position to go. to final passage. Our colleagues can be informed that we are moving right along. That should conclude the bill. The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from California.

Mrs. BOXER. Mr. President, I thank my friend from Pennsylvania and my friend from Iowa for being courteous as we tried to work something out. It appears we are going to have to vote on this amendment. I urge my colleagues to support afterschool programs.

I seek a modification to amendment No. 2267 to the desk and ask for immediate consideration of the modified amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? Without objection, the amendment is so modified.

The amendment (No. 2267), as modified, is as follows:

AMENDMENT NO. 2267, AS MODIFIED

(Purpose: To increase appropriations for after-school programs through 21st century community learning centers)

At the appropriate place, insert the following:

SEC. 3. 21ST CENTURY COMMUNITY LEARNING CENTERS.

(a) FUNDING INCREASE.—In addition to amounts appropriated under this Act, there is appropriated $51,900,000 for 21st century community learning centers under part B of title IV of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 (20 U.S.C. 7171 et seq.).

Mrs. BOXER. Mr. President, I will use a very short amount of time, knowing colleagues are anxious to get moving on this bill.

I feel heavy in my heart because this Senate is such a wonderful institution when we authorize afterschool programs in the United States of America. We did that, and we have had a very sad response in terms of the funding that does to match the authorization.

I think my colleagues know full well the FBI says there is no program that does more to keep our kids out of trouble than afterschool programs. That is why Senator Enson and I teamed up originally to get the first of afterschool programs authorized by this Congress. But it has been very sad.

I know the Senator from Pennsylvania supports this program, I know the Senator from Iowa, who heads this important subcommittee, supports these programs. Most Senators support these programs. But right now is a moment when we have to stand up for our kids.

Look at what has happened. Despite the fact we are supposed to be going toward $2.25 billion, we are actually now funding afterschool at less than $1 billion—less than we were in 2002 because the afterschool programs have not been exempted from across-the-board cuts.

What we will do today with this amendment is add back—this is very important—$51.9 million, which will get it back to the $1 billion area. At least we will take it back to where it was in 2002.

This is a very sad day.

I want to say something to my friend from Pennsylvania, the chairman of the subcommittee and someone with whom I admire greatly, Senator Specter. What we have here is a real sadness for our children. We have a situation where we are actually cutting the funding of afterschool programs year after year while our children cry out for attention after school. The FBI tells us this is the best.

The Bush administration’s Drug Enforcement Agency takes taxpayer money and places ads all over America’s televisions that say, It is 4 o’clock in the afternoon. Do you know where your children are? It is 3 o’clock, 5 o’clock. Make sure you know where your children are. They spend taxpayer dollars with one hand warning our families to take care of their kids after school and with the other hand telling them to be complicit in cutting the after-school programs.

We are covering 1.3 million children. There is another couple million to 3 million who need afterschool care. The least we can do now is add roughly $51 million to protect this program from inflationary costs and at least get it back to where it was in 2002.

For the sake of our children, for the sake of our families—I am talking here about our working poor families, our middle-class families, and our upper middle-class families, and, yes, frankly, even our wealthier families who also support these programs, I urge you to please vote aye on this.

I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The yeas and nays were ordered.

There is a sufficient second.

SEC. 3. I urge my colleagues to support afterschool programs.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, I commend the Senator from California for offering this amendment on afterschool funding. I agree with her about the importance of the program. It is a line of community support which I have recognized for years since I was district attorney for Philadelphia, since I saw firsthand the high incidence of crime committed during the hours between the time students leave school and the time they see their parents. Senator Harkin and I have been very solicitous about this program and have made very substantial increases going back to 1998 when we added $39 million; in 1999, we added $160 million; in 2000, we added $333 million; in 2001, we added $392 million; in 2002, we added $392 million; in 2003, we added $392 million; in 2004, we added $392 million; in 2005, we added $392 million.

We took a program which was funded at $40 million in 1998 and we brought it right up to the billion dollar mark. It is a tremendous program.

One of the grave difficulties of managing this bill is to oppose so many amendments which are good. We had to oppose Senator Byrd’s $5 billion for title II, Senator Kennedy’s addition to Pell grants, Senator Dodd on daycare, Senator Clinton on special education, and so it goes. If you want to amass a tremendous amount of support, call the Appropriations Subcommittee on Labor, Health and Human Services and Education. It is a great place to do it.

I wish we had more of an allocation. I know how sincere the Senator from California is about this program. I very much regret being constrained to oppose it.

Mrs. BOXER. Mr. President, will the Senator yield briefly?

Mr. SPECTER. I do.

Mrs. BOXER. I know the Senator is a big supporter of the afterschool program because I remember when the President was looking over half. He and I were looking at this together, and we spoke. I think it was teaming up with Members on both sides of the aisle to help. I want to point out to my dear friend that when Senator Enson and I got together and wrote the authorization part which you have been so wonderful to fund, we were very clear in our authorization—and everyone supported it—that, my God, to actually reduce the funding of this program by big cuts from across-the-board cuts.

I say to my friend, getting this program to $1 billion occurred because we all worked together on the authorization, and we were fortunate to have appropriators who agreed with us.

But in 2002, even with the best efforts of my friend, we haven’t even protected this program from inflation from 2002 to today and to 2006. We actually have a cut in real dollars to the program below inflation. It is tragic that we will lose children from this program which the FBI says is so important.

I want to make one more plea to my friend. I am not asking for $1 billion, which in fact we should have if we followed the authorization, but asking for is enough funding—such a small sum that it is an asterisk in this budget—to please add $51.9 million. That is all. We will at least bring it back up to $1 billion, because we haven’t been protected from across-the-board cuts.

I make a plea to my friend. I know everything around here is precedent setting, to do this or that or the other. These are real kids. There is real stuff going on out there, and they need these afterschool programs.

I yield the floor and thank my friend very much for yielding to me.

Mr. SPECTER. We will keep a sharp eye on this program in conference. If there is any way to increase the funding to any extent, Senator Harkin and I will be very sympathetic.

Mr. HARKIN. Mr. President, I thank the Senator from California for offering this amendment, if she doesn’t mind my term, the watchdog. We all get wrapped up in a lot of things here. But I can’t think of anything more important than what Senator Boxer is talking about right now. We know what is happening in this country. We know there are people who are being squeezed by the lack of adequate housing. They are being squeezed by entry-level jobs that they can’t get. There are all kinds of pressures on families.

We passed a law 10 years ago, Welfare to Work, to get people off of welfare to go to work. We always knew that the one big component we never answered was, what do you do with the kids? It is both daycare and after-school funding because these parents get home right away—usually single parents. We need the funding for the after-school programs. If you cut down on teen crime and teen drugs, teen pregnancies, this is the way to do it. Senator Boxer is absolutely right. It is a shame we do not have the money for it. We should have.

I thank the Senator for offering this amendment. I hope, with the concurrence of our chairman, we can somehow find the money for this. I don’t know where. It is tight. I know we have a tight situation. I cannot think of anything more worthy than this program.

I thank the Senator from California.

Mr. Specter. Mr. President, with reluctance, I have to raise a point of order. This will push us over the brink. Under section 302(b) of the Budget Act, this amendment would create a situation where the authority and outlays would be in excess of the subcommittee 302(b) allocation for the fiscal year 2006. I expect the Senator from California to waive.

Mrs. Boxer. Mr. President, I appreciate that my friend is reluctant to raise this. I look forward to the conference, where perhaps we can find enough money to protect some of these kids.

Pursuant to section 904 of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974, I move to waive the applicable sections of the act for purposes of the pending amendment.

I ask again for the yeas and nays. The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There is a sufficient second.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

Mr. Specter. Mr. President, we will now proceed to the amendment of the Senator from Nevada. It is the anticipation of the managers following that amendment that we will have two rollover votes.

I ask unanimous consent that after the yeas and nays have been ordered, the first rollover vote be 15 minutes plus 5 and the second a 10-minute rollover vote, 10 minutes plus 5.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. Corrigan). Without objection, it is so ordered.

The Senator from Nevada.

AMENDMENT NO. 2300

Mr. ENSIGN. Mr. President, I call up amendment No. 2300.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment is pending.

Mr. ENSIGN. Mr. President, before I speak on my amendment, briefly I will comment about Senator Boxer’s amendment.

Senator Boxer and I have worked long and hard on after-school programs, something in which I passionately believe. We worked to try to have this program increased without adding to the deficit, so we had an offset. It was unfortunate the offset was not accepted. I will continue to work with Senator Boxer because it is a program in which I believe. However, I also believe in staying within the budget. So reluctantly, I will have to vote against Senator Boxer’s amendment. I say reluctantly, I have to do so. To be consistent with my voting record this year, I have voted consistently to stay within the budget. I will reluctantly oppose that amendment.

Getting to my amendment, this is a very simple one. I know I will not speak long because I know everyone needs to get home. I will keep it as simple as possible.

My amendment will stop the Department of Education from competing against private companies in the United States that are developing software to teach Chinese students to speak the English language.

Normally, one would think that would be a good thing, for the Department of Education to help the Chinese students learn English—English is an international language—that would be a good thing, and we all applaud those efforts. The problem is, there are at least five companies in the United States and probably many more that already have invested their research dollars and created jobs in the United States to produce this very same software. This software exists today and these companies in the United States would like to sell to the Chinese market.

I don’t think our Government should be in the business of competing with the private sector. We are all worried about jobs in the United States, and here we have the Department of Education contracting to develop software that they can give to the Chinese so they can teach their kids English.

There are very effective programs out there that have been developed. We have letters, I have letters from these companies opposing what the Department of Education is doing. They have asked for help.

What this amendment is about is protecting jobs in the United States, protecting those software engineers, those high-value, high-quality jobs in the United States, and to help them be able to sell to other countries—in this case, especially to the Chinese.

The Council for Citizens Against Government Waste is supporting my amendment and is going to consider this vote in their ratings. If you believe in fiscally conservative principles, we hope you vote for the ENSIGN amendment.

I don’t want to take up more time other than to reemphasize this point: Protect jobs in America. We have all voted on trade issues here. With trade issues, the premise behind those is we open markets in both places. We all know that the Chinese and low-cost labor and development brought a lot of products into the United States. Here we have products that have been developed in the United States that could be sold in China. That is how trade is supposed to work. While we are doing free-trade agreements, we should not cut off the very jobs created in America to sell to the people in China.

I urge passage of our amendment and encourage all of my colleagues to support it in America and vote for this valuable amendment.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Tennessee.

Mr. Alexander. Mr. President, I appreciate what the Senator from Nevada is seeking to do, but let me see if I can put his amendment in a broader perspective.

I agree, as a general rule, we ought to prevent the Government from directly competing with the private sector for a variety of reasons, but the E-Language Learning System is a unique case, and we ought to treat it as such. There are three reasons.

This is not just some program somebody cooked up and put in the budget; this is a program that was initiated directly by President Bush as a result of a summit meeting with President Jiang Zemin in China in October of 2001. This was a President Bush and Jiang Zemin summit proposal from 2001.

The President announced the intent of our Government to implement this program at the APEC summit in Shanghai after meeting with President Jiang. Secretary Powell reiterated the importance of the program at the APEC summit 1 year later.

We do a lot of talking around here about the importance of public diplomacy, how do we do a better job getting the American voice, the American culture and values seen around the world. This is an important part of our public diplomacy since it will help Chinese children learn English and learn more about our country, the United States of America.

Of all of the foreign “aid” we have ever promoted since World War II, the most effective has been in education where our students study here or our students study there. This can be utilized to help American children learn Chinese and other critical foreign languages in the future, something that is important to our national security, according to the Hart-Rudman Report and the 9/11 Commission Report.

This is the first and most important point, this agreement between the President of the United States, George W. Bush, and the President of China. It is in our national interests.

The other two points, quickly. There has been some argument that the contract awarded to implement this program that was agreed upon by the Presidents of our two nations is somehow unfair. It is important for my colleagues to know that this contract was openly competed and conforms to the requirements of the STAR schools legislation following the same rules followed on similar programs for the last 17 years. It was awarded in open competition to Northrop Grumman and subcontracted to a company called Little Planet, a company in Nashville, TN. That is how I happened to know about it.

Some of the unhappy companies, I am told, are trying to prevent unfair competition through the details of what the Department of Education has asked for the software to develop. There are at least five software companies that already meet those specifications. They already have developed the features the Department of Education is attempting to develop.

Once again, I urge agreement of the amendment.

Mr. ALEXANDER. China is a pretty big country. There are several hundred million children there who might have an opportunity to learn English. If our President, George W. Bush, in a meeting with the leader of China, thinks it is a good idea to bid out a $9 million contract to improve the ways we help Chinese children learn English, if he believes that is in our national security, then I don't think it is the wrong approach. It is wrong because it stops a commitment that already meet those specifications. Looking through the details of what the Department of Education has asked for the software to develop, there are at least five software companies that already meet those specifications. They already have developed the features the Department of Education is attempting to develop.

Once again, I urge agreement of the amendment.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, at the request of Senator ENSIGN, I ask unanimous consent that his name be taken

On the second point the Senator from Tennessee raised, he said the Department of Education is willing to share the results of its research on some of the innovations that are trying to develop. Looking through the details of what the Department of Education has asked for the software to develop, there are at least five software companies that already meet those specifications. They already have developed the features the Department of Education is attempting to develop.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, I urge adoption of the Coburn amendment No. 2230, as modified.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, the amendment, as modified, is agreed to.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Pennsylvania [Mr. SPECTER], for Mr. Levin, proposes an amendment numbered 2292.

The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: To create a national family reunification initiative)

On Page 165, before the period on line 5, insert the following:

: Provided, That the Secretary shall undertake family reunification effort in concert with national non-profit organizations engaged in similar efforts.

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, the Promoting Safe and Stable Families program has successfully carried out activities and services it support family reunification, family preservation, community-based family support, and other services for children in need.

My amendment builds upon the success of this program, through an enhanced, coordinated system that would support family reunification, family preservation, community-based family support, and other services for children in need.

I yield the floor.

The amendment (No. 2300) was rejected.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Pennsylvania.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, I thank my colleagues. That last 15-minute vote was 14 minutes. We now have a very brief period for colloquies and some agreed-to amendments. Senator HARKIN and I wanted to be sure that we hadn’t missed anybody, so we did not do this in advance of the last two votes, but we will take only a few minutes and I anticipate that we will start this vote before 6 o’clock, which is not too bad for Labor-HHS on a Thursday afternoon.

The amendment (No. 2300) was withdrawn.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the Senator send the modification to the desk?

Without objection, the amendment is modified.

The amendment, as modified, is as follows:

At the appropriate place insert the following:

SEC. 3. LIMITATION ON TRAVEL AND CONFERENCES.

The appropriations for travel, conference programs and related expenses for the Department of Health and Human Services are reduced by $15,000,000.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, the amendment, as modified, is agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 2292

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, Senator LEVIN’s amendment No. 2292 provides for the Secretary to undertake a family reunification effort. No funding is involved. It is language only. It has been cleared by Senator HARKIN.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The amendment is as follows:

[Rollcall Vote No. 280 Leg.]
matters. The strength of the family is greater than its parts. The stress of losing your home, your job, your community, does not compare to losing your family.

I am pleased that the managers of the bill have agreed to support this amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there further debate?

Mr. HARKIN. Parliamentary inquiry.

The amendment is No. 2282 or No. 2280?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Amendment No. 2282.

Is there further debate? If not, the question is on agreeing to amendment No. 2282.

The amendment (No. 2282) was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 2289, AS MODIFIED

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, I call up amendment No. 2289, as modified, proposed by Senator DAYTON.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment is pending.

Without objection, the amendment is as modified.

The amendment, as modified, is as follows:

On page 178, after line 25, insert the following:

Sec. 11990. (a) In addition to amounts otherwise appropriated under this Act, there are appropriated, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, $15,121,000 for activities authorized by the Help America Vote Act of 2002, of which $13,500,000 shall be for payments to States to promote access for voters with disabilities, and of which $8,621,000 shall be for payments to States for protection and advocacy systems for voters with disabilities.

On page 137, line 9, both amounts should be further reduced by $7,000,000.

Mr. DODD. Mr. President, I Support Senator DAYTON's amendment to increase the funding for disability access grants mandated under the Help America Vote Act of 2002 (HAVA).

Senators amendment to H.R. 3010, the fiscal year 06 Labor-HHS Appropriation bill, provides a $7 million dollar increase to the HHS provisions. Specifically, Senator DAYTON's amendment would increase the HHS appropriations by $7 million for disability access grants and protection and advocacy services for voting purposes and ensuring full participation in the elections process by individuals with disabilities.

I support the outstanding work of Senator DAYTON. Congress has failed to fully fund HAVA disability grants. To date, with respect to the disability access grants, Congress authorized a total of $100 million but has appropriated only $33 million, roughly a third of the funding required to ensure our Americans with disabilities have equal access to the franchise for voting purposes in the upcoming Federal elections in 2006, a few months away. With respect to the protection and Advocacy grants, Congress authorized a total of $40 million but has appropriated only $12 million, roughly a fourth of the funding required to ensure our Americans with disability have equal access to voter registration and polling places in the 2006 Federal elections. As a result, the disability grant programs have a combined total HAVA funding shortfall of $95 million in Federal funds for election administration requirements.

Senator DAYTON's amendment for $7 million is offset by administrative expenses under "other services" which received a $599 million increase over the fiscal year 05 level.

January 1, 2006 is the effective date for two of the most important Federal requirements mandated by HAVA: The voluntary voting system standards and the state-wide computerized voter registration list. Both requirements are designed to ensure that individuals with disabilities can exercise their right to an accessible ballot.

In light of the above, it is essential that Congress does not fail to honor our commitment to the disability communities. If we fail to provide adequate funds to encourage the opportunity of States to implement the most historic election reforms in America and the opportunity to voters, including the disability communities, to fully exercise their franchise in the upcoming elections. It is time to fulfill our promise to the disabilities communities.

I thank Senator DAYTON for his leadership on this HAVA issue and I commend the Chairman, Senator SPECTER, and the ranking member, Senator HARKIN, for accommodating this increase.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there further debate on the amendment? If not, the question is on agreeing to amendment No. 2289, as modified.

The amendment (No. 2289), as modified, was agreed to.

"(2) the criteria applied by the Internal Revenue Service in awarding contracts to private-sector tax collection companies under such program should incorporate a preference for companies hiring disabled veterans and other disabled persons.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there further debate on the amendment? If not, the question is on agreeing to amendment No. 2272, as modified.

The amendment (No. 2272), as modified, was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 2272

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, I call up amendment No. 2272, proposed by Senator NELSON of Nebraska.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment (No. 2272), as modified, was agreed to.

The Senator from Pennsylvania [Mr. SPECTER].

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the following Senators be added as cosponsors to amendment No. 2272: Senator REED, Senator SUNDERLAND, Senator CONRAD.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, if no other Senator has any amendment to offer, we are now ready for final passage.

I yield to Senator FRIST.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The majority leader.

Mr. FRIST. Mr. President, I congratulate both the chairman and ranking member for a tremendous job. This next vote is on passage of the Labor-HHS appropriations bill, the very last of our series of appropriations bills that have come before the Senate. Again, congratulations to Chairman COCHRAN and Senator BYRD and again the chairman and ranking member on this bill.

We will be in session tomorrow. However, we will have no rollcall votes. On Monday, we will begin consideration of the deficit reduction bill, and we are working on a schedule of debate for that measure. I do not expect to have votes on Monday. We will not have votes on Monday. However, I will be available to Prudhomme before the Senate. Again, congratulations to Chairman COCHRAN and Senator BYRD and again the chairman and ranking member on this bill.

Mr. President, I am aware of these examples and I share his concern.

We must invest in our children and enable them to fully develop their God-given talents in order to compete in a knowledge-based, global economy. This means we have to place more emphasis on careers in science, engineering and math. Right now, we are not getting the job done.

Globally, the United States ranks 17th in the proportion of the college-age population earning science and engineering degrees, down from 3rd place several decades ago.

While China graduated 600,000 engineers and India graduated 350,000 last year, only 70,000 students earned degrees in engineering here in the United States.

In fact, the percentage of 24-year-olds with science or math degrees is now higher in many industrialized nations. Countries including England, South Korea, Germany, Australia, Singapore, Japan and Canada all produce a higher percentage of science and engineering graduates than the United States.

Is the chairman aware of these startling statistics?

Mr. SPECTER. I say to my colleague that I am aware of these examples and 1 share his concern.

Mr. VOINOVICH. I thank the chairman for his attention to the issue and the opportunity to briefly discuss the importance of science and math education today. I know there are other Senators, especially Senators ALEXANDER and BINGAMAN, who care a great deal about this issue. In fact, as many of my colleagues know, Senator ALEXANDER and BINGAMAN asked the National Academy of Science to compile a report on the top 10 actions the Federal Government can take to enhance our ability to compete in our global economy. And while the academy provided...
Mr. ISAKSON. Mr. President, I want to thank the chairman and Senator HARKIN for all of their work on this bill. Mr. President, as you know, arthritis is the nation’s leading cause of disability, and it impacts the lives of 44 million Americans including 300,000 children. Very few people know, however, that people with rheumatoid arthritis are 2.5 times more likely to be unemployed than those without arthritis. In 2003, arthritis claimed the lives of 9,500 Americans.

In response to this national epidemic, the CDC, and over 90 national organizations, have put together the first-ever public health blueprint to fight arthritis—the National Arthritis Action Plan. Following release of the plan in 1998, the committee, under your leadership, established an arthritis program at the CDC and supported a cooperative relationship between the agency and its partners. This partnership has supported several significant elements of the NAAP and continues to play an instrumental part in reducing the pain and disability of arthritis for millions of Americans. It is my understanding that the committee has included sufficient funds in the fiscal year 2006 appropriation for the CDC to sustain this collaboration with its partners at the same level.

Mr. SPECTER. I thank my good friend from Georgia for his remarks. I am very proud of the role the committee has played in establishing and expanding the arthritis program at CDC. I believe deeply in the vital role the CDC and its partners play in this important battle and, yes, the committee has provided funds to sustain this cooperative relationship.

Mr. HARKIN. I want to thank my friends, the distinguished Senator from Georgia and the chairman, for their words and just take a moment to add my endorsement for this important program I am very proud of the role this subcommittee has played in the reduction of the arthritic pain and suffering experienced by so many Americans.

Mr. ISAAXON. Mr. President, I want to thank the chairman and Senator HARKIN for their diligent work on the Labor-HHS Appropriations bill. Budgets are very tight these days and I appreciate how well the chairman and the ranking member were able to address so many of the important issues in this program. With this in mind, I want to enter into a colloquy to clarify a key issue concerning this measure.

Our Nation’s community colleges are critical to our economy. So many men and women across our country have lost their jobs, and our traditional manufacturing industries have been hit especially hard. In the midst of this economic transition, community colleges have been a real beacon of hope. In North Carolina, for example, workforces from Piedmont Tech and Forsyth Community College, are training former tobacco and textile workers for new, well-paying jobs in health care and biotechnology. Community colleges are leading the way training workers for the high growth, high demand jobs of the 21st century.

I am so grateful, as I know the community colleges across the Nation are, as well, for Chairman SPECTER’s efforts to fully fund the President’s request for Community-Based Job Training Grants in last year’s appropriations process. Unfortunately, having reviewed the bills, our colleagues in the House-passed Labor-HHS Appropriations bill, the Department of Labor and I are very concerned about the future of this program.

The House bill designates $125 million in funding for fiscal year 2006 while at the same time rescinding $125 million of fiscal year 2005 funding for the program. This cuts the program in half for both fiscal years and dramatically reduces the number of dislocated workers our community colleges can train. Achieving the possible funding amount for this program must be a top priority. I know that Senator CORNYN is strongly supporting increased funding for this program and I thank him for his efforts to help community colleges.

The Community-Based Job Training Grant Program is providing much-needed funding for community colleges across our country and in my home State of North Carolina. Just last year, the committee announced grants for 70 community colleges in 40 States, exhausting the $125 million pot of available money allocated for this program. Nationwide, 388 colleges applied for this funding, and in North Carolina, just one of the 16 applicants, Haywood Community College, was selected to receive this funding. We all know that grant programs are very competitive; still, this funding is clearly not coming close to meeting the needs of our community colleges. They are on the front lines, training workers and helping grow our economy, and we can and should do better to assist them in this endeavor.

Can the chairman assure me of his commitment to the funding of this program for fiscal year 2006?

Mr. SPECTER. I thank the senior Senator from North Carolina for her continued interest in this critical program. I want to assure her that the Appropriations Committee strongly opposes the House rescission to the Community-Based Job Training Grants, and we are committed to funding the program at the highest level possible within the existing budgetary constraints. I thank the senior Senator from North Carolina.

Mrs. DOLE. I thank the chairman for his work on this critical issue.

OFFICE OF MEN’S HEALTH

Mr. CRAPO. I want to express my appreciation for the chairman’s efforts, the chairman of the Appropriations Committee, ranking member, Senator HARKIN, in working to ensure the health and well-being of Americans everywhere. As you know, a silent health crisis is currently affecting America’s men. On average, American men live shorter and less healthy lives than American women. Men lead in each of the 15 major causes of death in American except Alzheimer’s and have a life span 4.5 years shorter than their female counterparts. While this health crisis is of particular concern to men, it is also a concern for women whose fathers, husbands, sons and brothers feel the physical, financial and emotional ramifications of poor health. Men’s health is also a concern for employers who pay the costs of medical care, and lose productive employees. In addition, Federal, State and local governments must often absorb the enormous costs of premature death and disability, including the costs of caring for dependents left behind.

There are a number of ailments of particular concern to men. Prostate cancer is the most frequently diagnosed cancer in the United States among men, accounting for 23 percent of all cancer cases. An estimated 230,000 men will be newly diagnosed with prostate cancer this year alone, and approximately 30,000 will die. Prostate cancer, unfortunately, is not the only health threat facing men. Over 8,000 men, ages 15 to 40, will be diagnosed this year with testicular cancer, and 390 of these men will die of this disease in 2005.

Fortunately, many of these conditions are treatable if detected early enough. I was diagnosed with prostate cancer in 2001 and thanks to early detection and treatment was able to beat the disease. I had prostate specific antigen, PSA, tests and other recommended tests every 3 to 6 months after my surgery. Last year, my doctors detected a slight rise in PSA, and I underwent successful radiation treatment. Because I caught and treated the onset of this disease early on, I was able to beat it again. Appropriate use of tests such as PSA exams and blood pressure, blood sugar, and cholesterol screens, in conjunction with clinical exams and self-testing, can result in the early detection of many problems and in increased survival rates.

Unfortunately, many men are not taking the steps necessary to protect themselves and their families from these devastating conditions. Statistically, women visit the doctor far more often than men. Too often, men fall to get routine checkups or health counseling, and they often ignore symptoms or delay seeking medical attention when sick or in pain. In addition, when men do seek care, embarrassment can often prevent them from openly discussing health concerns with their physicians.

To increase men’s health awareness I have introduced legislation to establish an Office of Men’s Health under the Department of Health and Human Services. This office would be based on the Office of Women’s Health, currently operating within HHS, which has done a fantastic job of assisting women in identifying and battling many conditions common to women. Educating men, their families, and health care providers about the importance of early detection of male health problems can result in reducing rates of many deadly diseases, as well as improve the health of America’s men and its overall economic well-being. While an Office of Men’s Health is not a cure-all, it will assist men to focus on many health problems that can be treated successfully if diagnosed early. Prevention and early detection can only happen with increased public awareness, something the proposed office hopes to provide. I yield to the distinguished chairman to elaborate on this point.

Mr. SPECTER. I, too, recognize the importance of correct information, prevention, and early detection in health care. Clearly, efforts must be made to encourage men to address their health problems in a confident, timely, and meaningful manner. I encourage the administration to work with my distinguished colleague to establish an Office of Men’s Health within the Department of Health and Human Services.

Mr. CRAPO. I thank the Senator.

Mr. INHOFE. I have filed an amendment at the desk which I had hoped the Senate would vote on prior to passage of this bill. Unfortunately given the current parliamentary situation, the only way for a vote to occur on the important issue of fiscal responsibility is by suspending the rules. My amendment would at this time and therefore my option is to move to suspend rules XVI and XXII. Although clearly that motion is within my rights as an individual Senator, I do not believe that is the best way for this body to proceed. Our rules and precedents govern how we operate on these appropriations, bills and I think that we should work within that framework. Therefore, I am not going to make that motion because it is not an appropriate way for the body of the Senate to address this amendment. I say, however, that the Senate will vote on this issue. I will be back on this floor at the first opportunity available to this Senator and the Senate will work its will on this language.

Mr. FRIST. I greatly appreciate the Senator’s commitment to this issue. It is imperative that this Congress exercise fiscal discipline and I concur that an important step must be to control spending within our Nation’s defense. Next week, the Senate will do just that as we act on the first deficit reduction package in a decade. I am certain that the Senator from Oklahoma will continue to pursue his effective and thoughtful ideas and opportunities, including the deficit reduction bill, for him to exercise his rights to do so, in a manner that does not violate the spirit of the Senate rules. I look forward to bringing this important issue before the Senate for consideration.

Radiation Exposure Compensation Act

Mr. CRAPO. Mr. President, I rise today to discuss with the distinguished subcommittee chairman the need to amend the Radiation Exposure Compensation Act, RECA.

Mr. SPECTER. I yield to the Senator.

Mr. CRAPO. As my colleagues are aware, the National Academy of Sciences, NAS, released a report on April 28 of this year calling on Congress to establish new scientific criteria for decisions about awarding Federal compensation to people who have developed specific diseases, including certain cancers, as a result of exposure to radioactive fallout from U.S. nuclear weapons tests. I wholeheartedly agree with them.

When Congress passed RECA 15 years ago, an important first step was taken to provide compassionate assistance to those directly affected by nuclear testing conducted by the United States. However, it soon became clear that a legal mechanism, the NAS process by geographic restrictions, and not scientific evidence, was not sufficient to fully rectify the problem at hand. This was confirmed in 1999, when Senator HATCH introduced his amendments to expand RECA and include affected counties in Arizona.

Today, the NAS has determined that residents in counties and States far from the original Nevada Test Site were not only exposed, but may even have been exposed to much higher levels than those in currently eligible areas. In fact, there are areas in my native Idaho that have demonstrably higher incidence of thyroid disease and radiation than any other county currently covered by RECA. It seems unconscionable to me that people living in these areas are not currently eligible for compensation.

Those affected are not asking for special treatment, they are simply asking for fairness. As R. Julian Preston, director of the Environmental Protection Agency’s Environmental Carcinogenesis Division, stated, “To be equitable, any compensation program needs to be based on science and similar cases must be treated alike. The current geographic limitations are not based on the latest science.”

To rectify this inequity, I think it is of utmost importance that Congress take up my legislation, S. 998 to include the State of Idaho as an affected area under the Radiation Exposure Compensation Act.

Additionally, it is incumbent upon Congress to address the long-term challenges faced by the RECA program. The NAS report makes several specific recommendations, chief among them that Congress should establish a new process for reviewing individual cases based on medical causation, or “assigned share,” a method which is used in the courts and other radiation compensation programs. It also recommends that the RECA program be expanded to include workers involved in uranium milling and ore transportation. I urge you to join me in implementing these suggestions of the NAS into legislation.
Mr. SPECTER. I appreciate the Senator's interest in this issue and recognize that he has legislation pending in Congress to address the needs of affected Idahoans. I say to my friend and colleague that I will work with him to identify necessary improvements and to respond to findings contained in the NAS report. I also urge the administration to work diligently to help those still in need.

Mr. CRAPO. I thank the distinguished chairman.

Mr. LIEBERMAN. Addressing my distinguished colleagues from Pennsylvania and Iowa, the subcommittee Chairman and ranking member, I wanted to talk with you about the need to study further the issue of thimerosal in vaccines and whether there is any association with autism and other autism spectrum disorders. As you know, autism is a neuro-developmental disorder characterized by severe impairments in language, interaction, and socialization. The American Academy of Pediatrics, AAP, says that currently 1 in 166 children has autism or an autism spectrum disorder. Some in the autism community attribute this rise to changes in the vaccine schedule which began in 1990. Three of the four vaccines between 1990 and 2000 given to American children at the 2,4, and 6 month doctor visit contained thimerosal which is a vaccine preservative that is 50 percent mercury by weight. Mercury of course is a known neurotoxin.

Mr. HARKIN. I am aware of this issue.

Mr. SPECTER. I am aware of this issue too. I note that thimerosal has been out of childhood vaccines since 2001. I understand that the AAP doesn’t think there is a link between thimerosal and autism, and that an Institute of Medicine, IOM, report indicated that the committee didn’t believe thimerosal caused autism. Of course, this does not mean there isn’t an association. We should recognize that few diseases have direct causes attributed to them.

Mr. LIEBERMAN. I believe that we must at least consider an association between thimerosal exposure and autism. I understand the rate of autism has risen perhaps 800 percent since 1990 and although there could be a number of reasons including better diagnostics, this coincided with an increased exposure. In vaccines, which again is 50 percent mercury by weight. I have talked to Director Gerberding at the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, CDC, which is our Nation’s premier public health organization. She said that there is room for further study. I note that thimerosal is still in our influenza vaccine. And we want people to get that vaccine.

Mr. HARKIN. What does the Senator propose?

Mr. LIEBERMAN. Under the Senator’s distinguished leadership, the committee has increased the NIH budget to $29.4 billion dollars, an increase of over $1 billion from last year. I applaud those efforts. Accordingly, under his leadership the budget of the National Institute of Environmental Health Sciences. NIEHS, has increased from $444 to $657 million.

Mr. SPECTER. I would ask that the NIEHS lend its expertise in heavy metal toxicity and to work in cooperation with the CDC to study, using respected expert independent researchers, whether there is any association between thimerosal and autism. I note that we now have a Vaccine Safety Datalink, VSD, a computerized CDC database that has followed 7 million vaccinated children in 7 managed care organizations throughout the United States from 1990 on to see if they develop diseases of any type, including neuro-developmental disorders. Some experts suggest this database could provide answers regarding the thimerosal-autism link. The Institute of Medicine, IOM, regards the VSD as a valuable surveillance tool that can have a unique database with which the public health advocates involved the affected community.

Mr. SPECTER. I agree we should make an additional effort to resolve this issue.

Mr. HARKIN. Yes, I also agree we need to make progress through a study on this issue. It certainly is not going away.

Mr. LIEBERMAN. If this issue is resolved it will be because all sides are comfortable with the science and epidemiology of thimerosal and autism. The science and epidemiology of thimerosal and autism is not clear up to this point.

Can I have assurance that the chairman and ranking member will work to insert report language in conference that urges NIEHS to fund collaborative studies on the VSD between outside researchers and the CDC?

Mr. SPECTER. I will work hard to make this happen.

Mr. HARKIN. I too will work hard to make this happen since this is an issue important to the Senator and the Nation.

Mr. LIEBERMAN. I thank the Senators.

Mr. FEINGOLD. Mr. President, I will vote in favor of final passage of the Senate version of the fiscal year 2006 Labor, Health and Human Services, and Education appropriations bill. This legislation is an improvement over the House-passed bill and over the President’s request in many areas. However, it is still vastly underfunds a number of crucial programs in the subcommittee and the ranking member of the House for their work to produce this bill under tight fiscal constraints. However, we can and should do better for the many Americans who depend on the programs that are funded by this important appropriations bill.

I am pleased that the Senate adopted two amendments I worked on. One was an amendment I cosponsored that the Senator from Maine, Ms. Collins, offered, to provide much-needed funding to improve access to dental health in rural and underserved areas, and the other was an amendment I offered to increase public access to automatic external defibrillators, defibs, to the tune of $30 million. I worked with my colleague from Maine, Ms. Collins, for a number of years to secure funding for these important programs, and I hope to see these provisions carry through to the conference report.

I regret that the Senate missed a number of opportunities to improve this bill, including by rejecting amendments that would have increased funding for a number of elementary and secondary education programs, including title I, after-school programs, and special education. Year after year, Congress and the President fail to provide the promised funding for these and other education programs as local school districts continue to struggle to make ends meet under shrinking State and local education budgets. The President’s budget requests for each of the fiscal years since the No Child Left Behind Act was enacted have fallen far short of what was promised by this law. And while Congress has improved upon these budget requests and provided funding for a number of the programs that the President proposed to cut, NCLB programs are still funded at far less than their authorized levels.

Yet despite our broken promises to these school districts, we still require them to comply with a variety of Federal mandates. And during this school year, the stakes have been raised even further because this school year is the first under which schools are required to implement the NCLB mandate to test students in grades three through eight in reading and math. It is past time that we hold up our end of the equation and give States and school districts the resources they need to ensure that every child has the opportunity to succeed.

With regard to higher education, I was proud to support the amendment offered by Senator Kennedy from Massachusetts that would have increased the Pell Grant maximum by $200 to $4,250 per year. This would have been a good down payment on the ultimate goal of increasing the maximum to $9,000 by the 2010-2011 school year, as I proposed with Senator COLLINS earlier this year. While Senator KENNEDY’s amendment was not successful, I will continue to work toward this goal of increased and reduced the burden of debt to keep the doors of higher education open to as many Americans as possible.

While funding for other higher education programs were not as generous as I had proposed, I was encouraged that the Appropriations Committee rejected the harmful cuts proposed in the President’s budget. The President had proposed eliminating or cutting important programs that prepare disadvantaged students for college, support their successful completion of college, and provide financial assistance to help them afford higher education, such as the Leveraging Education Assistance Partnership, LEAP program, TRIO programs, the Gaining Early Awareness and Readiness for Undergraduate Programs, GEAR UP; the Carl D. Perkins Career and Technical Education program; and Perkins loans. I consistently opposed these proposals both in budget negotiations and in appropriations processes, and I am pleased that this bill preserves funding for all of these programs.

Another reservation I have about this bill is its failure to adequately provide a much needed increase in funding for the Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program, LIHEAP—an increase that would simply bring the funding level up to the fully authorized amount. Despite my objections, the energy costs this winter will increase between 30 and almost 70 percent, for the third time in a month, the Senate failed to help working families and seniors afford skyrocketing home energy costs. Despite Senator REED’s efforts to increase LIHEAP funding, the lack of higher LIHEAP funding is greatly troubling and I will continue pursuing opportunities to help people in Wisconsin and across the country receive the assistance they need to stay safe and warm this winter.

While this bill is far from perfect, I will support it, and I very much hope that the final version of this bill will provide adequate funding for the many important programs contained in it.

Mr. COBURN. Mr. President, today the Senate accepted two modified amendments that I authored.

Amendment 2238, as modified, will reduce the amount appropriated for travel, conference programs and related expenses at the Department of Health and Human Services, HHS, by $15 million. Currently $68 million is available for these activities.

The $15 million saved by this revised amendment would ensure sufficient funding for travel and conference expenses that may be necessary while recognizing that the current amount spent on these activities by HHS is excessive and can be reduced.

In 2005 alone, HHS spent $68.5 million on conferences. This is a 50 percent increase in conference spending during a 5-year period. At a time when our Nation is fighting a global war against terrorism, recovering from the most expensive natural disaster in our history, and facing an ever growing debt that now surpasses $6 trillion, we must be more prudent with taxpayer dollars. We have been entrusted and prioritize how they are spent.

This amendment ensures that a greater amount of Federal health dollars will actually be spent on health care, which should be the goal of HHS.

In the context of the $2.5 trillion Federal budget, $15 million may not seem like much until you put it into a real world perspective.

According to the American Institute of Preventative Medicine, the average doctor visit costs $55. The $15 million saved by this amendment could have been made available to pay for nearly 273,000 doctors visits in the next year.

The 2004 Census Bureau report on Income, Poverty, and Health Insurance in the United States shows that 45 million Americans are without health insurance.

The annual premium that a health insurer charges an employer for a health plan covering a family of four averaged $9,950 in 2004. For single coverage it is $3,695 annual average premium.

The $15 million saved by this amendment would help American families of four or 4,060 single Americans with health insurance for a year.

HHS spends significantly more on conferences than any other Federal department. In fact, the total spent on conferences by HHS in 2005 is comparable to the amount spent by the Energy Department, Education Department, Environmental Protection Agency, Department of Housing and Urban Development, Labor Department and Transportation Department combined.

In 2003 HHS spent $3.6 million on a single conference, the International AIDS Conference, held in Barcelona, Spain, to which 236 HHS employees traveled to attend. Then-Secretary Tommy Thompson was among the HHS employees who traveled across the globe for this conference and was scheduled to speak. Yet he was prevented from doing so by activists that turned what was intended to be a scientific gathering into a political statement.

Members of Congress rightfully were outraged that the Secretary was treated so rudely at a conference that cost the U.S. taxpayer millions of dollars.

In a May, 2003, letter to members of Congress, Secretary Thompson reassured that HHS “will work to further reduce our costs associated with that event, while continuing to assure essential scientific personnel can attend this meeting.” He went on to note that “the Department is currently revising the Travel Regulations in order to formalize international and domestic travel policies to ensure frugal use of taxpayer money. My staff is taking unprecedented steps to ensure American taxpayers will no longer be asked to foot the bill for wasteful HHS spending, including in the area of travel. . . . Every trip proposal is . . . evaluated on an individual basis by a member of my staff to guarantee that taxpayer money is not wasted.”

Despite this pledge, HHS has continued to spend more and more on conferences and to send hundreds of employees to participate in the same conferences.

In 2004, HHS sent 100 or more employees to at least 59 conferences, including 1,036 to a conference in Orlando, Florida.

Just this past August, HHS was listed as a primary sponsor of the 2005 conference of the Harm Reduction Project, an organization that supports tacit legalization of drugs. Among the sessions at this federally supported conference was “We Don’t Need a ‘War on Methamphetamine’” and the discussion groups include “Tweaking Tips for Party Boys.” “Tweaking” is the most dangerous stage of meth abuse. A tweaker is a meth addict who probably has not slept in 3 or more days, and is irritable and paranoid.

HHS officials later denied “sponsoring” the conference, although the Department provided taxpayer dollars for it and sent six employees to participate.

As a practicing physician, I believe that Federal funds expended to support this conference would have been far better spent providing treatment to those suffering from addiction.

This is just one example of a dozen dollars that have been misspent on conferences.

The bottom line remains that at a time when important health care programs are faced with financial difficulties, we do not have the luxury for excessive spending on conferences. While Congress is trying to control the growth of spending on important health programs like Medicaid and Medicare, we should first impose restraints on nonessential spending at HHS including conferences.

Conferences may provide interesting opportunities for bureaucrats and others to network and exchange information in person, but they do not make people well or provide life saving health care.

Furthermore, in the modern telecommunications era it is unnecessary to spend time and resources to finance so many conferences. Teleconferences and video conferencing, for example, can save money while allowing the same type of interaction and information sharing at a mere fraction of the cost.

The second amendment, No. 2336 as modified, directs the Secretary of HHS and the Secretary of Education to estimate improper payments as required by the Improper Payments Information Act of 2002 and requires us to report on specific actions taken to estimate improper payments within 60 days of this bill being signed into law.
The Improper Payment Information Act was enacted in November 2002 for the purpose of finding and eliminating payments that should not have been made, or were made for incorrect amounts, by government agencies.

This law requires that all agencies, at the very least, perform a risk assessment of all programs and activities to determine whether or not a program is at risk of making “significant” improper payments.

“Significant” as defined by the Office of Management and Budget means at least 2.5 percent of all payments made are improper, and the absolute dollar figure associated with that 2.5 percent or more, totals at least $10 million.

Federal programs and activities deemed to be at “significant” risk of making improper payments their respective agencies are required under the Improper Payments Information Act to first, develop a statistically valid estimate of improper payments; and second, develop a corrective action plan for all programs where the improper payment estimate exceeds $10 million annually. This corrective action plan must also contain annual targets for reducing improper payment levels.

At the end of each fiscal year, agencies are to report the results of the Improper Payments Information Act activities in their Performance and Accountability Report. And submit them to Congress. The Improper Payments Information Act exempts no agency from compliance.

Improper payments—which include inadvertent, fraudulent, and irresponsible payments—are costing the taxpayers at the very least, over $45 billion each year. Even worse, this $45 billion represents only 17 of 70 agencies that are currently reporting improper payment information as required under law.

The Medicare program, which is already reporting, makes up nearly half—$21.7 billion—of the government’s $45.4 billion reported improper payments for fiscal year 2004.

The magnitude of the Government’s improper payment problem is not yet known because some of the largest programs are not reporting, as required by law.

Medicaid, with outlays that exceed $177 billion annually, is one of the programs not reporting. The Medicaid program has been required to report improper payments under the Office of Management and Budget, OMB, A-11 Circular requirements since 2001; and under the Improper Payments Information Act since 2002, yet it still has made no estimate of its improper payments.

In its November 2002 Performance and Accountability Report, Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services reported that they were able to report improper payments for the Medicaid program by 2006; however, they have pushed that date back to 2008—six years after the date by which they were to have begun reporting improper payments.

Similarly, the Temporary Assistance for Needy Families, TANF, program has not even been able to estimate when it will be able to report improper payments for a law that has existed since 2002.

TANF spent over $17 billion in fiscal year 2005 ($18.6 in outlays).

Foster Care spent $6.4 billion in fiscal year 2005.

Child Development Fund spent $4.9 billion in fiscal year 2005.

This amendment does not debate the merits of any of these programs, it simply demands compliance with transparency and accountability measurements for expenditures already in existing law.

After all, eliminating improper payments ensures more funds actually reach those who are intended to benefit from these programs while protecting the taxpayer. However, we must first determine the magnitude and source of the problem to correct it. We can only do this if all agencies are monitoring and reporting their improper payment information.

Together these amendments make small, but important steps, towards making federal agencies more fiscally responsible and accountable.

I thank Chairman SPECTER for accepting these amendments and his commitment to fight for inclusion of these provisions in conference with the House of Representatives.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I rise today to express my extreme disappointment at the acceptance of amendment 2315 to the Labor and HHS Appropriations bill. My disappointment stems from the fact that I objected to considering amendment 2315 both verbally and by letter. And my objection was ignored.

Senator SPECTER, the manager of the bill, acknowledged the mistake and promised to respect the Finance Committee’s jurisdiction. However, a Member on the other side refused to allow the mistake to be rectified, an unfortunate and unfair action.

For more than 20 years in Congress, I attempted to work with the appropriators and other Senators to ensure that they do not encroach upon the jurisdiction of the Finance committee.

Unfortunately, the practice continues as it did yesterday. These provisions are not without consequence. They are often written without clear knowledge of all the relevant facts. As a result, problems often occur as they are implemented.

I really appreciate the fact that Senator Specter is willing to work with me on this issue and I fully expect that the provision will be taken out during conference.

Ms. SNOWE. Mr. President, yesterday, a majority of Senators, 54 in fact, voted for an increase in funding for the Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program, or LIHEAP, to bring the funding to the authorized level of $5.1 billion we approved in the 2005 Energy bill because a simple procedural vote requiring 60 votes, this very important amendment failed.

I want to thank my colleagues who voted with me as the days are relentlessly marching toward winter . . . the clock is ticking as the thermometer edges ever downward . . . snow and cold have already come to my State or Maine, raising the stakes for those who may have to choose between heating their homes and the other necessities of life. It would be unconscionable for Congress to adjourn for the year without providing critical, additional assistance for LIHEAP at a time of skyrocketing fuel because of the disruption of a vast amount of our energy infrastructure caused by disastrous hurricanes in the Gulf. I will continue to work with the White House to secure funding in the next supplemental appropriations bill.

There should be no mistake—this is an emergency and a crisis we know is coming, and it would be an abrogation of our responsibility to stand by and allow it to occur. It does not take a crystal ball to predict the dire consequences when home heating oil in New England is $2.52 per gallon higher than the same time last year . . . and kerosene prices average $2.95 a gallon, 75 cents higher than this time last year. Some projections have a gallon of heating oil reaching $3.00! And we are now informed that even rolling blackouts on very cold days this winter may be a possibility because of high demand for electricity.

So, understandably, we are already hearing the mounting concern—“how can we pay for heat when it’s 30 percent more than last year, and I struggled to make ends meet then?”—“How will I afford to pay half again as much for natural gas?” People need to know now that they can count on us for assistance.

This is a necessity of life—so much so that 73 percent of households in a recent survey reported they would cut back on, and even go without, other necessities such as food, prescription medicines, and mortgage payments. Churches, food pantries, local service organizations—they are all hearing the cry, and the leaves have barely fallen from the trees. The fact is, countless Americans, many on fixed incomes, don’t have room in their budget for this sudden surge in home heating oil and natural gas prices but, surely, in looking at our national priorities, we can find room in our budget to help Americans stay warm this winter.

Because of the supply disruptions caused by the hurricanes at a time when prices were already spiraling up, prices have been driven even higher.
and are directly affecting low income Mainers and how they will be able to pay for their home heating oil, natural gas, propane and kerosene this winter. A recent Wall Street Journal quoted Jo-Ann Chaoite, who heads up Maine’s LIHEAP program. Ms. Chaoite said, “This year was a very good chance of running out.”

Mr. President, 84 percent of the applicants for the LIHEAP program in my State use oil heat. Over 46,000 applied for a State LIHEAP fund last winter. Each household received $480, which covered the cost of 275 gallons of heating oil. The problem this winter is that the same $480 will buy only 172 gallons, which a household will use up in the first 3 to 4 weeks. What will these people do to stay warm for the 4 or 5 months left of winter? The water pipes will freeze and then break, damaging homes. People will start using their stoves to get heat.

The Mortgage Bankers Association estimates the steep rise in energy costs could increase the number of missed payments and lost homes beginning later this winter. My State is expecting at least 48,000 applicants this winter season, so there will be less money distributed to each household unless we can obtain higher funding for the LIHEAP program.

Ms. Chaoite says that Maine plans to focus on the elderly, disabled, and families with small children, and is studying how best to help low income Mainers and those on fixed income. This is why our efforts are so very important. And it’s not just Maine, it is going to happen in all of the Nation’s cold weather States. Quite simply, without increased funding, we are forcing the managers of State LIHEAP programs to make a Solomon’s choice.

The Federal Department of Energy has predicted that homeowners who use oil for heat and propane will spend 30 percent more this year than last, and natural gas users will spend 15 percent more. According to the National Energy Assistance Directors Association, heating costs for the average family using heating oil are projected to hit $1,666 for the upcoming winter. This represents an increase of $403 over last winter’s prices and $714 over the winter heating season of 2003-2004.

For families using natural gas, prices are projected to hit $1,508, which is an increase of $611 over last year’s price and $643 over 2003-2004. This is the largest increase in heating price costs over 30 years. This is why passing our amendment was so very important.

Congress recently passed an Energy bill which is now law. In that bill, we authorized $5.1 billion for the LIHEAP program. This year, approximately $2 billion is totally funded. We simply have to show that we meant what we asked for—and totally fund the LIHEAP program.

The facts are that LIHEAP is projected to help 5 million households nationwide this winter, but that’s only about one-sixth of households across the country that qualify for the assistance. So this is a perennial fight we wage even when prices aren’t as high as today. And now, that battle becomes all the more pivotal. The cold weather won’t wait—and neither should we when it comes to helping citizens survive through the winter.

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, the Labor, Health and Human Services, and Education Appropriations bill is the last of the regular fiscal year 2006 appropriations bills to come before the Senate for consideration.

Last year, seven of the regular appropriations bills, including the Labor, Health and Human Services bill, were not debated individually by this body but rather they were inserted into one large, unamendable omnibus package. As I have said on many occasions, the processing of regular appropriations bills in such a manner is not the way the Senate is supposed to operate. I am always very disappointed when the managers of the Appropriations Committee rubberstamp their request. This is the Senate. A deliberative body it is supposed to be.

Last year, the Labor, HHS, and Education Appropriations bill was included in the omnibus package. This is a different year now. This year, the Labor, Health and Human Services, and Education Appropriations bill was fully debated here on the floor and amended as a stand-alone bill. What a difference. This bill has been on the floor all week, and Senators have enjoyed their right to debate and amend such important language.

I thank the distinguished manager of the bill, and the distinguished Senator who acts on this side of the aisle to help manage this bill, Senator SPECTER and the distinguished Senator from Iowa, Senator HARKIN.

This is such a comprehensive bill. It covers a lot of programs and activities of the Government—three Department, and the Social Security Administration. When you include mandatory spending, this bill funds nearly 25 percent of the Federal budget. This bill impacts every citizen in this country in one way or another. Just think about it: labor issues, health issues, human services issues that provides basic humanitarian services for the neediest of our citizens, as well as education issues.

As we complete our debate on the Labor, HHS, and Education Appropriations bill, I want to extend my appreciation to the subcommittee chairman, Senator SPECTER, and the ranking member, Senator HARKIN. They are a good team on this bill. They have been working together on this subcommittee for so long that they seem to sometimes complete each other’s sentences. They hold numerous hearings throughout the year. They gather knowledge from a wide array of experts across the country. This is what they do. This subcommittee pours over the testimony, over the reports, the studies, and other related data throughout the year, and its recommendations are reflective of that careful and thorough review.

I have never seen a chairman of a committee more fair than Senator SPECTER has been. Every Senator who was able to call up a amendment had an opportunity to do so. Senator SPECTER did not seek to cut off any amendments. No. He was very fair, very considerate, very courteous. And look what a wonderful job he and Senator SPECTER have done on this committee. My thanks, my congratulations to both of them.

I also extend my thanks to their fine staff. Those staffers worked hard. I appreciate their dedicated service to the Appropriations Committee and to the Senate.

I will take 1 minute, or maybe a little longer, to comment briefly about the upcoming supplemental request which I understand the White House will be transmitting to the Congress tomorrow. This will be the third disaster relief supplemental related to Hurricanes Katrina and Rita. This request is expected to include $17 billion for various programs and agencies on top of the $62 billion Congress has already approved.

In the immediate aftermath of Hurricane Katrina, the Congress approved both of the President’s supplemental requests. In each case, Congress approved the bill within 1 day of receiving the request, without debate and no amendment. Of course, disastrous emergency situations such as that which occurred in the gulf coast region require immediate action by the Congress. However, the White House has waited 7 weeks to send up its third request. The White House should not assume that the Congress will simply rubberstamp their request. I hope the Senate leadership will commit to the Senate that we will have an opportunity to debate and amend the third disaster relief supplemental bill. A $17 billion supplemental should not simply be shoved into an unamendable conference report. There should be an opportunity to debate such issues as whether low-income energy assistance should be provided to all States impacted by increased fuel prices, prices that continue to grow as a result of Hurricane Katrina. The Senate should also have an opportunity to debate whether the cost of the supplemental will be paid for. I hope Senators will be afforded this opportunity.

I thank the chairman of the Appropriations Committee, my very good friend from the State of Mississippi, THAD COCHRAN. What a decent man, what a decent chairman he is. What a good job he has done this year processing these appropriations bills. All 11 of the fiscal year 2006 appropriations bills have been debated individually here in this Senate and separately by the Senate. Why is this? This is due to the steadfast determination of the chairman, Senator COCHRAN. He is a very determined man. He did not give up.
The PRESIDING OFFICER. The bill having been read the third time, the question is, Shall the bill, as amended, pass?

Mr. CHAMBLISS. Mr. President, I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There appears to be a sufficient second.

The bill (H.R. 3010), as amended, was passed.

The bill will be printed in a future edition of the RECORD.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Iowa.

Mr. HARKIN. Mr. President, I know the distinguished Senator BYRD wants to speak for a while. I want to take a couple of minutes again to thank the staff, both Senator SPECTER's staff and my staff. They have worked together. I know Senator SPECTER mentioned them earlier, but I will mention them by name again because they should be mentioned: Bettilou Taylor, Jim Sourwine, Sudip Parikh, Mark Lairsh, Lisa Bernhardt, Candice Rogers, and Rachel Jones on the minority side. On the majority side, Ellen Murray, Erik Fatemi, and Adrienne Hallett.

They do a wonderful job, and they have done so this year, putting this bill together. I know staying up long nights and weekends, working this out.

Someone once remarked that Senators were a constitutional impediment to the smooth functioning of staff. Our staff function very smoothly. They do a great job, and I hope we have not impeded them too much.

Last, I want, again, to pay my respects to our chairman, Senator SPECTER, who has done a magnificent job of putting a lot of competing interests together. This is a long bill covering the Department of Labor, the Department of Health and Human Services, Department of Education, and a lot of independent agencies—the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, the National Institutes of Health.

By the way, I especially want to thank Senator SPECTER for bringing us up on the National Institutes of Health $1 billion more than what was in the President's budget. I think we met our obligations there.

I say to my friend and my chairman, it has been an honor and privilege to work with him all these years. We go back, I think, about 15 years now, working together. I could not ask for a better chairman of this committee. I could not ask for a better working relationship. Senator SPECTER has always been open and aboveboard to make sure we all know what is going on. It has been a real pleasure, a real joy to work with Senator SPECTER. I thank him for his leadership to make many more fruitful years of working together on issues that really matter.

Someone once said the Defense Appropriations Committee is the committee that defends America. The committee that funds Health and Human Services and Education and Labor is the committee that defines America. I happen to believe that this committee does define America, defines who we are, and what we are about as a people. Mr. BYRD, Yes. The Senator is right about that.

Mr. HARKIN. Under the able chairmanship of the Senator from Pennsylvania, we have defined, once again, that we are going to meet our obligations in those areas that make us a caring and compassionate and decent people. That is what is in this bill. Again, I thank Senator SPECTER for his great leadership.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Pennsylvania.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, I very much appreciate those very generous remarks by Senator HARKIN, and I appreciate even more his cooperation and leadership on this important subcommittee working with health and education, the two major capital assets of Americans, and labor and related agencies. It is an important bill, and I think we have crafted it about as well as you can, given the limitations of the rules.

There is a lot more I could say, but Senator BYRD is waiting to speak, so I will just reference the appointment of conference.
I ask unanimous consent that the Senate insist on its amendments to H.R. 3010, request a conference with the House of Representatives on the disagreeing votes thereon, and that the Chair be authorized to appoint conference on the part of the Senate.

There being no objection, the Presiding Officer appointed Mr. Specter, Mr. Cochrain, Mr. Gregg, Mr. Craig, Mrs. Hutchison, Mr. Stevens, Mr. DeWine, Mr. Shelby, Mr. Domenici, Mr. Breaux, Mr. Lieb, Mr. Kohl, Mrs. Murray, Ms. Landrieu, Mr. Duren, and Mr. Byrd conferees on the part of the Senate.

Mr. Specter. I thank my distinguished colleague, and I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from West Virginia.

Mr. Byrd. Does the distinguished Senator from Michigan wish to speak?

Ms. Stabenow. Mr. President, if I might ask, before my very distinguished colleague and friend from West Virginia speaks, I wonder if I might simply make a statement for just a moment about a unanimous consent request I had intended to offer. I understand there will be an objection to it, but with my colleague's consent, I appreciate having 2 minutes to be able to make a comment.

Mr. Byrd. Mr. President, I yield to the distinguished Senator if I may, for up to 5 minutes, if she so desires, with my colleague's consent, I understand that the Senator from Michigan wants to speak.

Ms. Stabenow. Mr. President, if I might just respond to my distinguished Senator, notice was given. That is fact, I might just refer to him to raise the quorum and raise the objection. In fact, I might just refer to him to raise the objection.

However, having said what I said, I do object, and it is my hope the Senator from Michigan, and the gentleman he is wishing to accomplish, but the proposition being able to bring up under unanimous consent a version of the bill that would name a Federal office building in Detroit for Rosa Parks. This had originally been offered by my colleague, Congresswoman Carolyn C. Kilpatrick of Detroit, a longtime friend and colleague of Rosa Parks.

Originally, last evening, we passed my version of the bill along with an amendment that was able to bring up under unanimous consent a version of the bill that would name a Federal office building in Detroit for Rosa Parks. This had originally been offered by my colleague, Congresswoman Carolyn C. Kilpatrick of Detroit, a longtime friend and colleague of Rosa Parks.

This evening it is my desire to pass the House version of that with Senator Warner's amendment, the very same amendment that we have already passed last evening, but to place it into the House bill so we could then send it back to the House. It would be like the Senate bill that we passed.

To my understanding, there is an objection on the other side of the aisle to doing that. If not, I would proceed to do that, the very same thing we did last evening, but it would put it into the House bill.

My House colleague, who is the originator of the proposal on the Federal office building, would like very much to have the House bill not being able to accomplish what my understanding is the original amendment that was passed last evening.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Pennsylvania.

Mr. Specter. Mr. President, I am not fully conversant with all of the details on the issues raised by the Senator from Michigan. I have been asked by staff to lodge an objection.

I was present yesterday when we took up that issue. I have not seen the level of confusion in this Chamber in the 30 years I have been here that was present last night when the Senator from Michigan asked unanimous consent, the Senator from Virginia asked to add on, and then the Senator from New Mexico ultimately spoke about holds. It was utter confusion in the midst of rolcall votes, things going on, trying to catch the screen when I walked back to my office.

Would you kindly advise the Senator from Virginia what took place in the 10-minute interval since we left here?

Ms. Stabenow. I will be happy to.

This has been a confusing situation. I say through the Chair to the distinguished Senator from Virginia, After speaking with you, I spoke with the Congresswoman who was concerned and asked what bill would be going to the President's desk. So I was simply rising, not to offer a motion but just to express my concern about the dilemma that we are in at the moment.

Mr. Warner. Mr. President, but we seem to be basically stuck in the same place. What troubles me is that the Senate took considerable time last night to resolve this issue—in favor of the Senator from Michigan and in favor of the Senator from Virginia.

Ms. Stabenow. That is correct.

Mr. Warner. There is a perfectly adequate bill sitting on the desk at the House of Representatives. It can be passed in 5 minutes if not less.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The time that the Senator from West Virginia has allotted has expired.

Mr. Warner. If my distinguished colleague will kindly grant me a few more minutes?

Mr. Byrd. I yield, without losing my right to the floor.

Mr. Warner. I repeat, there is a bill that has been acted upon unanimously by the Senate. It is at the House desk.

This morning was the first time I ever heard that the Congresswoman, in whose district this courthouse is, desires to have her bill—not your bill. Is that my understanding?

Ms. Stabenow. That is correct.

Mr. Warner. Why can't the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD of the debate, the technical report language that accompanies the bill, explain, give her full credit or whatever she desires? But to continually come back and forth and raise the specter that people are trying to interfere with this important legislation in this Chamber, it seems to me, is not fair to the people who are trying to interfere with this important legislation in this Chamber.

Ms. Stabenow. Mr. President, if I might, in no way was this meant to show disrespect for the Senator from Virginia. We have worked very properly together. I was simply rising this morning to indicate my disappointment that we are in at the moment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from West Virginia.

Mr. Warner. Mr. President, I am somewhat troubled. Not more than 10 minutes ago, I say to my colleague, you sat right here and I sat right there. We struck an understanding that tomorrow we would rejoin on the floor to explain the situation. I said, by that time, as it was my understanding that the House would likely have acted upon the measure which was passed by the Senate last night, not to be otherwise by the distinguished Senator from Michigan, who accepted my amendment. I am not sure why we are here at this time discussing this matter. My understanding was very clearly we would take it up tomorrow. Just before I caught the screen when I walked back to my office.

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD — SENATE

other colleagues. That was the desire of the Congresswoman whose idea it was to name the building in her district. She feels very strongly about this, and I was indicating that for the RECORD. I don’t wish to have more confusion.

I very much appreciate the Senator from West Virginia allowing me a moment. But in no way was this meant to show disrespect for my colleague. We have worked very well together.

Mr. LEAHY. This is a matter that is being followed with great interest because of the magnificent Rosa Parks, and the outpouring of empathy and sympathy, and so forth. I don’t wish to have the institution of the Senate appear that it has not acted promptly. It did so last night. There is a perfectly legitimate bill at the House desk which could pass in a matter of 5 minutes and be sent to the President for signature to honor both Mrs. Parks and Judge Bryant. In report language the Senate would explain that the Appropriations Congresswoman can solve it in any way they wish as to allocate the credit.

I think to keep coming back to the Senate implying that we can’t use the bill as a vehicle for yesterday’s thing is, in a way, diminishing the previous action of this institution. It is my understanding that tomorrow the House of Representatives will take up and pass the Senator from Michigan’s bill, as passed by the Senate, to name a federal building in Michigan for Rosa Parks and name the new courthouse annex here in Washington for Judge William Bryant.

I must tell you, I have been very patient about this matter. But I hope that we understand the agreement between the two bodies to proceed in this manner. It has been cleared by both the House and the Senate and, as such, is the appropriate course of action.

For many years I have been working with my colleagues, Congresswoman ELEANOR HOLMES NORTON and Senator LEAHY to name the new annex to the Prettyman Courthouse here in Washington, DC for Judge William Bryant. As I have stated numerous times before, there are rules in the Senate Environment and Public Works Committee that prohibit moving through that Committee naming bills for individuals that are still living. Prior to the current Chairman of the Committee, I worked in instances and I certainly feel that the case of Judge Bryant warrants such discretion. The Senate spoke yesterday that both Rosa Parks and William Bryant are deserving of this great honor.

I wish to share with the Senate again the story of this distinguished jurist, Judge William Bryant.

A product of Washington, DC public schools, William B. Bryant graduated from Howard University in 1936, a classmate of Thurgood Marshall and Appellate Judge Spotswood Robinson. He graduated from Howard Law School first in his class and then, with no real opportunities for African-American attorneys in the District of Columbia, served as chief research assistant to Ralph Bunche, who later won the Nobel Prize. From 1943 to 1947, he was in the Army and rose to the rank of lieutenant colonel during World War II. He was a criminal defense attorney. Assistant U.S. Attorney, the first African American ever to be an Assistant U.S. Attorney in the Nation’s Capital. I was privileged to be in the U.S. Attorney’s Office during some of his tenure there and worked with him. He was a teacher to me and many others. He was appointed to the U.S. District Court in 1965. In 1977, he was appointed the first African American to be chief judge of the U.S. District Court in Washington, DC.

Now at the age of 94, Judge Bryant is serving as a Senior Judge on the United States District Court for the District of Columbia. This man, like Rosa Parks, suffered from discriminatory practices and persevered, therefore breaking new ground for African Americans to come. When he first began trying cases as an Assistant U.S. Attorney in 1951, the Bar Association of D.C. did not allow African-American members. When he was trying cases in District Court was unable to access the law library at the Courthouse like his white colleagues. Despite the obstacles, William Bryant succeeded.

Over the years this man has been a fixture at that courthouse, first trying cases, and for the past 40 years, hearing them as a judge. The D.C. Bar and his colleagues have unanimously endorsed the legislation I offer today as a tribute to this man’s truly extraordinary life, legendary career, and service to this nation’s judicial system. I wish at this point to print into the RECORD a September 2004 article from the Washington Post about Judge Bryant and his efforts to name this new annex in his honor:

A Lifetime of Faith in the Law; At 93, Senior Judge Bryant Still Wins Praise for Dedication to Justice, Carol Leonnig, Washington Post Staff Writer—September 16, 2004

A few days after the new U.S. District Courthouse opened on Constitution Avenue in the fall of 1982, Bill Bryant walked in to start work as a recently hired federal prosecutor.

More than a half-century has passed, and Bryant’s life remains centered on that state-of-the-art granite building in the shadow of the U.S. Capitol. It’s in those halls that he became a noted trial lawyer, a federal court judge, and then the court’s chief judge—the first African American in that position.

Today, at the age of 93, U.S. District Court Senior Judge William Bryant still drives himself to work at the courthouse four days a week and pushes his walker to his courtroom.

At a recent birthday party for Bryant hosted by Vernon Jordan, fellow Senior U.S. District Court Judge Louis Oberdorfer remarked that there were “only two people in the world who really understood the Constitution” and how it touched the lives of real people. “That’s Hugo Black and Bill Bryant,” said Oberdorfer. He had clerked for Justice Hugo L. Black, who retired as an associate justice in 1971 after serving on the Supreme Court for 34 years.

To honor Bryant’s life’s work, his fellow judges this past spring recommended that a nearly completed courthouse annex be named for him. The $110 million, 351,000-square-foot addition will add new courtroom and office space to judges’ offices to the courthouse and is designed to meet the court’s expansion needs for the next 30 years. It is slated to open next spring.

In urging that the building be named for Bryant, his supporters cite his devotion to the Constitution and his belief that the law will produce a just result.

During a rare interview in his sixth-floor office in the federal courthouse, Bryant reflected out for a panel. Constitution covered in torn green plastic lying on the top of his desk. Holding it aloft in his right hand, he told stories of his struggling former clients and made legal phrases—“due process” and “equal protection”—seem like life-saving staples.

Though he needs his law clerk’s arm to get up from the couch to the bench, he is a fairly busy senior jurist. He handled more criminal trials than any other senior judge last year and still surprises new lawyers with his sharp retorts.

“I feel like I’m part of the woodwork,” Bryant said. “I have to think hard to think of a time when I wasn’t in this courthouse.”

He nodded down inquired by a Howard University law professor who believed that lawyers could make a difference in that time of racial segregation and discrimination. Bryant said he remains convinced today that lawyers can stop injustice whenever it arises.

“Lawyers are just a piece of paper,” Judge Bryant said, gesturing with the well-worn Constitution. “If it weren’t for lawyers, I’d still be three-fifths of a man. If it weren’t for lawyers, we’d still have signs directing people this way and that, based on the color of their skin. If it weren’t for lawyers, you still wouldn’t be able to vote.”

The most important professions are lawyer and teacher, in my opinion,” he said.

Some lawyers complain that Bryant is so rooted in his criminal defense training that he ignores some distributions. And his practice of presiding over trials, but asking other judges to sentence the people convicted, has spurred some curiosity. He was elaborate that his friends say he found the new federal sentencing guidelines inflexible and harsh.

A 1993 study found Bryant was reversed 17 percent of the time by appellate judges—the average reversal rate for the trial court.

Chief Judge Thomas F. Hogan presented the proposal to name the annex after Bryant to Eleanor Holmes Norton, Patrick Leahy (D-Vt.) earlier this year, and they are now trying to get Congress to approve the naming this fall. One member, Sen. James M. Inhofe (R-Okla.), has tried to block it, with his staff pointing to a D.C. policy that buildings not be named after living people.

Norton said numerous courts around the country have been named in honor of living judges, and she said she looks forward to meeting with Inhofe in person to convince him of the wisdom of naming this building, designed by renowned architect Michael Graves, after a barrier-breaking judge.

“This is no ordinary naming,” she said. “This is a truly great African American judge whose accomplishments are singular. First African American assistant U.S. attorney, first African American judge.”

E. Barrett Prettyman Jr., the son of the jurist for whom the federal courthouse in Washington is named, also applauds the prose of annex naming. He said his father “admired Judge Bryant tremendously” and would have endorsed it, too.

“William Bryant was kind, bright, right up and think it’s a great idea,” said Prettyman, himself a former president of the D.C. Bar Association. “I’m sorry it’s hit this snag. I can’t say you have to have much skill, I can’t say the jurors had spared the man’s life.”

“I was so relieved,” he said. “When you’re young, you don’t know anything. I never think, murder is murder, no matter who is doing it.”

He left the prosecutor’s office in 1946 and returned to private practice with fellow classmate William Gardner in an F Street law office later bulldozed for the MCI Center. They were partners in Houston, Bryant and Gardner from 1946 to 1965. After the American firm. Ten judges would eventually come from its ranks.

In those days, Bryant chuckled, he didn’t feel so powerful. Judges who remembered his cases would sometimes come to see lawyers struggle to make their arguments when they have the law and the facts on their side. "A judge has a stationary gun, and he’s looking through the sights," he said. "Unless the lawyer brings the case into the bull’s-eye, the judge can’t pull the trigger. Good lawyers bring the case into the sights.”

Bryant said he was preceded by many great lawyers, which is why the new plan to put his name on a piece of the courthouse gives him conflicting feelings. "I was flattered, but I thought they shouldn’t have done it," Bryant said. "There are so many people who are really giants. I stand on their shoulders.”

I hope that henceforth there is senatorial courtesy—when we decide to proceed in a specific manner as we discussed, we would do it in the morning, I relied on that, and was about to go home. Another member noticed that the Senator was on the floor. I am somewhat concerned about that.

I wish to thank the Senator from Michigan for her courtesy in combining these two tributes and look forward to the action of the House tomorrow. It is truly a wonderful opportunity for the Congress to honor two American pioneers. Rosa Parks and Judge William Bryant both deserve to be recognized for their lives and contributions our civil rights movement brought. I look forward to this bill moving forward as amended and look forward with great pride to both buildings being named shortly for these two pillars of the civil rights movement that brought so much to our country.”

Bryant oversaw some famous cases, and he freely shared his thoughts when he thought something was wrong.

After presiding over the 1981 trial of Richard Allen, a Maryland Republican, convicted on videotape taking money from federal agents in a sting operation, Bryant complained that the FBI had set an “outrageous” trap for the Floridian representative by stuffing cash in his pocket after he refused the bribe several times. He set aside Kelly’s conviction.

“The investigation . . . has an odor to it that is absolutely repulsive,” Bryant said then. “It stinks.

As the longest-running case in the court’s history, a 25-year-old case about inhumane and filthy conditions in the D.C. jail, the judge chastised city leaders in 1995. He said he had been listening to their broken promises to fix the problems “since the Big Dipper was a thimble.”

In weighing the case of a group of black farmers with similar discrimination complaints against the U.S. Department of Agriculture in 2000, Bryant warned a government lawyer that his argument against a class-action discrimination suit wasn’t working: “Either you’re dense or I’m dense,” he said.

Schultz said the judge simply trusted the combination of facts and the law. "He always said, 'I always say the facts, the facts, the facts,'” Schultz said. "He thought most of the time the law would end up in the right place."

BREAST CANCER AND ENVIRONMENTAL RESEARCH ACT OF 2005

Mr. HATCH. Mr. President, I rise today in support of S. 757, the Breast Cancer and Environmental Research Act of 2005.

This month marks the 21st year of National Breast Cancer Awareness Month, a campaign that provides a special opportunity to offer education about the important association between early detection and survival. National Breast Cancer Awareness month also salutes the more than 2,000,000 breast cancer survivors in the United States and the efforts of victims, volunteers, and professionals who combat breast cancer each day.

According to the American Cancer Society, breast cancer is the leading cause of death among women between the ages of 40 and 55; and one out of every eight women who live to the age of 85 will develop breast cancer in her lifetime. But the disease is not limited by gender. In 2005, approximately 1,700 new cases of invasive breast cancer will be diagnosed among men in the United States. In my home State of Utah, as indicated by the Utah Cancer Registry, breast cancer has the highest incidence rate of the ten leading cancer types. This disease has an impact on nearly every American’s life.

Breast cancer death rates have been dropping steadily since 1991; however, challenges still remain. The bottom line is that we still do not know what causes this disease, or how to prevent it. Less than 30 percent of breast cancers are explained by known risk factors. There is general belief within the scientific community that the environment plays a role in the development of breast cancer, but the extent of that role has been less-examined.

Research has investigated the effect of isolated environmental factors such as diet, pesticides, and electromagnetic fields; but, in most cases, there has been no conclusive evidence. In-depth study of these potential risks could provide invaluable information in understanding the causes of breast cancer, and could lead to new prevention strategies. Clearly, more research needs to be done to determine the impact of environmental factors on breast cancer.

Along with Senators CHAFFEE, REID, CLINTON, and TALENT, I have introduced S. 757, the Breast Cancer and Environmental Research Act of 2005, to address this palpitable need for research. Specifically, the bill would authorize the National Institute of Environmental Health Sciences at NIH, to award grants for the development and operation of up to eight centers for the purpose of conducting research on environmental factors that may be related to breast cancer. This legislation is modeled after the highly successful and promising Department of Defense Breast Cancer Research Program, DOD BCRP, which operates under a competitive, peer-reviewed grant-making process that involves consumers.

Isolated studies have been conducted to look at suspected environmental links to breast cancer; but these studies are only a small step toward the broad strategic research that is required. What is needed is a collaborative, focused strategy to address this oversight, a strategy like the one outlined in S. 757.

As this year’s National Breast Cancer Awareness Month comes to a close, I urge my colleagues to support this important bill. This Federal commitment is critical for the overall, national strategy and the long-term investments required to discover the environmental causes of breast cancer so that we can prevent it, treat it more effectively, and, ultimately, cure it.

DOMESTIC VIOLENCE AWARENESS MONTH

Mr. BIDEN. Mr. President, yesterday the Senate passed S. Res. 282, which recognizes October as Domestic Violence Awareness Month and establishes a sense of the Senate that the Congress should raise awareness of domestic violence in the United States and its impact on our Nation’s families. I am thankful to the 32 co-sponsors of this resolution and to my colleagues for its unanimous passage.

We have made substantial progress in combating domestic violence since 1994 when we passed the Violence Against Women Act. Since the Act’s passage, domestic violence has dropped by almost 50 percent. Incidents of rape are down by 60 percent. The number of women killed by an abusive husband or boyfriend is down by 22 percent and more than half of all rape victims are stepping forward to report the crime.

Despite this record of success, we still have so much more to do. According to the Department of Justice, more than three women are murdered by their husbands or boyfriends every day. More than 2.5 million women are victims of violence each year and nearly one in three women experiences at least one physical assault by a partner or former partner, which has been widely reported. One in four women are victims of violence in their homes each year, and nearly 8,800,000 children in the United States witness domestic violence each year.

This is unacceptable. The impact this has on our Nation’s families and on the fabric of our society as a whole is clear. What is lesser known is the impact this domestic violence has on our Nation’s pocketbook. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention recently found that violence against women costs our country in excess of $5.8 billion each year; $4.1 billion of this is spent on direct medical and mental health care services. Since 1994, we have invested $15.50 per woman to implement the Violence Against Women Act, but it is estimated that this investment has saved $159 per woman, with a net overall savings of $14.6 billion. I bring this up to remind my colleagues that even in this time of budget deficits, investing in programs to halt domestic violence is not only the right thing to do, but it ultimately saves money.

It is comforting that this year’s National Domestic Violence Awareness Month is the month that the Senate passed the Violence Against Women Act of 2005. This bill will reauthorize critical components of the original act, and it will establish further protections for battered immigrants and victims of human trafficking in order to additionally combat domestic violence and sexual assault. The legislation takes the critical next steps to helping victims become safer, secure, and self-sufficient. I would like to point out that this bill had 57 co-sponsors and passed unanimously. This is in stark contrast to the original Act, which took many, many years to get passed. We have changed the paradigm on this issue and we have come a long way. But, we need to do more. The Violence Against Women Act of 2005 will help do this, and I look forward to the House-Senate conference on this bill and getting the bill passed into law.

In addition to the work that we are doing in the Senate, National Domestic Violence Awareness Month gives us a chance to acknowledge the hard work of so many individuals and groups that have tackled this issue head-on. These advocates talk the talk and they walk the walk. They help ensure a better life for so many battered women and children, and they remind Congress what is at stake and what remains to be done. We all owe a debt of gratitude to the advocates, lawyers, service providers, police, police, nurses, shelter directors, and the many others who have dedicated their lives to this cause.

Again, I thank my colleagues for acting on this important resolution, and I look forward to working with them in the coming months and years to address the problem of domestic violence in our Nation.

LOCAL LAW ENFORCEMENT ENHANCEMENT ACT OF 2005

Mr. SMITH. Mr. President, I rise today to speak about the need for hate crimes legislation. Each Congress, Senator KENNEDY and I introduce hate crimes legislation that would add new categories to current hate crimes law, sending a signal that violence of any kind is unacceptable in our society. Likewise, each Congress have come to the floor to highlight a separate hate crime that has occurred in our country.

On July 17, 2004, a 32-year-old gay man left a local Austin, TX, bar with two men, and walked home. The two men, Ronald Dean and Darren Givy, returned to the victim’s home later that evening where they proceeded to beat him and sexually assault him. Police say the two men drugged, tied-up, beat, cut, then sexually assaulted the victim. According to police, this attack was motivated by the victim’s sexual orientation.

I believe that our Government’s first duty is to defend its citizens, in all circumstances, from threats to them at home. The Local Law Enforcement Enhancement Act is a major step forward in achieving that goal. I believe that by passing this legislation and changing current law, we can change hearts and minds as well.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND GUN VIOLENCE

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, last Thursday, in the midst of National Safe Schools Week, a student was nearly shot to death inside a Michigan high school. This tragic incident further underscores the need to do more to combat youth violence, especially gun violence.

According to published newspaper reports of the shooting, around noon last Thursday, a tenth grade student fired shots at another student, who was hit once. The 15-year-old victim was struck once in the leg and by as many as three shots at another student, which missed his heart by less than an inch. Fortunately, he is expected to live.

The suspect, who is also 15 years old, allegedly used a stolen .380 caliber pistol in the shooting and now faces life in prison after being charged as an adult. Reportedly, the suspect also has a previous conviction involving a firearm violation. The shooting last Thursday came less than a month after two other students were injured in a drive-by shooting outside the same high school. Unfortunately, youth gun violence continues to threaten communities, destroy families, and change the lives of too many young people forever.

Only a day before last Thursday’s shooting, thousands of young people across the country observed a Day of National Concern About Young People and Gun Violence, which was designed to empower children and teenagers to do what they can to eliminate gun violence in their communities. In many communities, students were given the opportunity to sign a voluntary pledge against gun violence. Since the first Day of National Concern About Young People and Gun Violence in 1996, more than 7 million students have signed the pledge. Here is what the pledge says:

I will never bring a gun to school; I will never use a gun to settle a dispute; I will use my influence with my friends to keep them from using guns to settle disputes. My individual choices and actions, when multiplied by those of young people throughout the country, will make a difference. Together, by honoring this pledge, we can reverse the violence and grow up in safety.

I applaud the organizers and students who participated in this year’s Day of National Concern About Young People and Gun Violence for their efforts to reduce gun violence. The thousands of students who signed the pledge this year, and the millions before them, have promised to do what they can to prevent tragedies like last week’s school shooting in Michigan. Congress should do its part by adequately funding important law enforcement programs and by passing commonsense gun safety legislation.

BREAST CANCER ENVIRONMENTAL RESEARCH ACT

Mr. WYDEN. Mr. President, October is National Breast Cancer Awareness Month and 2005 marks more than 20 years that National Breast Cancer Awareness Month has educated women about early breast cancer detection, diagnosis, and treatment.

Yet, more than three million women currently live with breast cancer and the causes of this disease are still mostly unknown. While we have made significant advances in treatment, so much more needs to be done when it comes to prevention of this often fatal disease.

The Breast Cancer Environmental Research Act, S. 757, would enhance breast cancer environmental research across the country. This bill which is modeled after the Department of Defense Breast Cancer Research Program, would over 5 years, invest $30 million through a peer-reviewed grant process to establish a multi-disciplinary approach.

At this time, four research centers study prenatal-adult environmental exposures that may cause breast cancer. And while this is a good start, we need a nationally focused, collaborative and comprehensive strategy to approach this and the Breast Cancer Environmental Research Act would do just that.

This country has great resources when it comes to medical and scientific research. I believe this bill would provide an efficient and effective strategy for developing research in the environmental causes of this tragic disease.

ADDITIONAL STATEMENTS

RECOGNIZING SIXTY-FIVE YEARS OF FACTS ON FILE

Mr. ENZI. Mr. President, it doesn’t seem all that long ago that one of our most popular television shows featured a detective with a catch phrase that soon became part of our national vocabulary. When questioning someone who was offering more opinions than observations he would often interrupt and say, “Just the facts.” Those few words were the impetus for a publication that has grown from an in-depth look at World War II to an incredible collection of all forms of data that covers just about everything from the beginnings of recorded history to the explosions of the furthest ranges of our universe.

Sixty-five years ago, Facts on File World News Digest was founded in 1940 by three emigrants from Hitler’s Europe who knew there would be a need for a publication devoted to the issues of World War II. They had witnessed the rise of Nazism in the 1930s and recognized the need for a U.S.-based publication that focused on both world and domestic news events in the years leading up to World War II. Their first issue dealt with the presidential race between Roosevelt and Willie and their first bound volume of the events of the day was written, as described in the forward, as an effort to provide a clear and concise guide to help the reader navigate through a “hopeless maze of thousands of facts.”

Nowadays, by comparison, we are deluged by tens of millions of facts and other pieces of data from around the world on most every topic. At all. Facts on File has continued to sift the trivial from the significant and put together volume after volume of written information placing the facts about a myriad of subjects online and at our fingertips.

Facts on File World News Digest was originally conceived as a source of information for radio and news journalists. Today, it serves an ever widening group of people who need quick and reliable access to the basic facts about an endless list of items. Teachers rely on the publications for their lesson plans. Students rely on the easy access their database provides them for help with their homework, background for their papers, or just to encourage a genuine curiosity about the history of the world around them and how things work.

Weekly Reader, which is now a part of the Facts on File family, took a poll of high school students recently and discovered that almost 70 percent of today’s students reported that they look for and find most of the facts they need for their homework on the Internet. Their use of the latest technology was the good news. The bad news was they often do not question the material they find or use another source to double check it. They just assume what they have found is correct.

That is why it is so vitally important that we make sure our children, students and researchers have access to online materials on the web that put a premium on facts—not opinions. For that reason and so many more, Facts on File World News Digest will continue to be a priceless treasure trove of information, providing access to its databases and the wealth of knowledge they store with students, teachers, and government entities across the country.

As the old adage says so well, we’re entitled to our own opinions, we’re just not entitled to our own facts. Facts on File has been working for 65 years to make sure the record is clear so that those who use their publications as a source get it right the first time.

As the Chairman of the Senate Committee on Health, Education, Labor and Pensions, I like to say that education is our middle name. Facts on File, and the family of publications it includes, has been a very valuable component of our education system for some time. I appreciate and congratulate them on a remarkable record of success. It’s good to know that a resource exists that can provide our children with the data they need to supplement their studies, a resource that does its best, like the detective I referred to earlier, to provide “just the facts.”

(At the request of Mr. SARBANES, the following statement was ordered to be printed in the RECORD.)

Mr. CORZINE. Mr. President, in Greek communities around the world, Oxi Day celebrates the fateful day, October 28, 1940, when Greece said “No!” to Mussolini’s demand for immediate free passage of Italian army troops through Greece, and thereby changed the course of World War II. When Greece refused, Mussolini invaded, expecting no serious resistance to his much larger and better-equipped army. In fact, the outnumbered Greek forces offered such stiff resistance that Mussolini was soon thrown on the defensive. He was defeated by the enduring light of freedom.

The Greeks held the Axis forces at bay and the Italians retreated into Albania. Solsoni was soon thrown on the defensive expecting no serious resistance to his much larger and better-equipped army. The outnumbered Greek forces offered such stiff resistance that Mussolini was soon thrown on the defensive. He was defeated by the enduring light of freedom.

STATEMENTS ON INTRODUCED BILLS AND JOINT RESOLUTIONS

By Mr. WYDEN:

S. 1927. A bill to amend the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 to make the Federal income tax system simpler, fairer, and more fiscally responsible, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. WYDEN. Mr. President, today I am proposing a Fair Flat Tax Act that will finally provide real tax relief to America’s hurting middle class. It will do so by making the tax system simpler, flatter and fairer. And at the same time, it will begin to reduce the deficit that is destabilizing our economy, our security and our future. This tax plan is fairer because it’s easier to understand and use. My legislation will include a new, simplified 1040 form that is one page, 30 lines, for every individual taxpayer.

This plan is flatter because it collapses the current system of six individual tax brackets down to three—15, 25 and 35 percent—and creates a flat corporate rate of 35 percent. Ultimately, this plan is fairer because it changes the laws that disproportionately favor the most affluent Americans and corporations at the expense of the middle class. Instead, it provides a major middle-class tax cut—paid for by the elimination of scores of tax breaks in the individual and corporate income tax, and by repealing the Bush tax cuts that favored the most fortunate few at the expense of the many.

This plan is fairer for American taxpayers because it treats work and wealth equally. This is a radical statement about tax law: America can do better than a two-tier system which forces a policeman to pay a higher effective tax rate than an investor who makes his income on capital gains and dividends. Under the current Federal Tax Code, all income is not created equal in this country. Americans who work for wages, in effect, subsidize the tax cuts and credits and deferrals of those who make money through unearned income—the dividends from investments. It’s time to treat all taxpayers the same.

Let me be clear: I am not interested in soaking investors. I am a Democrat who believes in markets, and creating wealth. But what our country is all about is equality, and our Tax Code should treat everyone’s income more equally too.

My legislation, The Fair Flat Tax Act of 2005, adapts the flat tax idea to help reduce the deficit instead, through fewer exclusions, exemptions, deductable deferrals, and special rates for certain businesses and activities, and through the setting of a single, flat corporate rate of 35 percent. On the individual side, it ends favoritism for Itemizers while improving deductions generally. Simplified and lower taxes in the individual income tax Act of 2005, which would save as many as 21 million American taxpayers in 2006.

This proposal would eliminate an estimated $20 billion each year in special breaks for corporations, and direct the Treasury Secretary to identify and report to Congress an additional $10 billion in savings from tax expenditures that subsidize inefficiencies in the health care system. Eliminating these breaks would sustain current benefits for our men and women in our military, our veterans and the elderly and disabled—as well as breaks that promote savings and help families pay for health care and education.

What makes the Fair Flat Tax Act truly unique is that it corrects one of the most glaring inequities in the current tax system: regressive State and local taxes. Under current law, low and middle income taxpayers get hit with a double whammy: compared to wealthy Americans, they pay more of their income in State and local taxes. Poor families pay more than 11 percent and middle income families pay about 10 percent of their income in State and local taxes, while taxpayers at the other ends pay five percent. And because many low and middle income taxpayers don’t itemize, they get no credit on their Federal form for paying State and local taxes. In fact, two-thirds of the Federal deductions and credits and the credits for children, education and earned income are retained. No one would have to calculate their taxes twice: this proposal eliminates the individual Alternative Minimum Tax (AMT), which would save as many as 21 million American taxpayers in 2006.

S12010
CONGRESSIONAL RECORD — SENATE
October 27, 2005

Repealing some individual tax credits, deductions and exclusions from income—along with some serious changes to the corporate Tax Code—enables larger standard deductions and broader middle-class tax relief.

The deductions most important to most Americans remain in place: the home mortgage deduction stays, as do child credits and charitable contributions, higher education and health savings.

What all this means for American taxpayers is—the vast majority of taxpayers will see a cut, particularly the middle class. Congressional Research Service experts tell us that middle class families and families with wage and salary incomes up to $50,000 will see tax relief.

On the corporate side—this plan does something that may not be popular, but it’s right.

Each of us, including America’s corporations, need to pay our fair share. Corporations that have used tax loopholes to avoid paying their fair share of taxes are going to see those loopholes close and they’re going to contribute.

This legislation makes concrete progress toward a flat, simple, fair tax system. There’s a long way to go to stop the hemorrhaging in the Federal budget, but this legislation makes a real start by whittling the deficit down approximately $100 billion over five years.

Some may wonder what I am proposing today is a response to the President’s Tax Reform Advisory Panel. To date, the Panel hasn’t officially released its recommendations. I can’t respond to something that hasn’t been introduced yet. But I am troubled by the fact that the recommendations trickling out from the Panel would continue to twist the Tax Code away from equal treatment of all income, widening the chasm between people who get wages and people who collect dividends.

I am introducing The Fair Flat Tax Act of 2005 today to provide Americans a plan based on common-sense principles that can make the Tax Code work better.

Making the Tax Code simpler and flatter is going to make it fairer. My legislation is going to provide real relief to the middle class. It will treat work and wealth equally. It will make a start at reducing the deficit. I am ready to work with my colleagues and move it forward.

I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

By Mr. REID (for himself and Mr. COCHRAN):

S. 1930. A bill to expand the research, prevention, and awareness activities of the National Institute of Diabetes and Digestive and Kidney Diseases and the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention with respect to inflammatory bowel disease; to the Committee on Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I rise today to introduce legislation focused on a devastating condition known as inflammatory bowel disease (IBD). I am pleased that Senator COCHRAN has once again joined me in the fight against this painful and debilitating disease.

Crohn's disease and ulcerative colitis, collectively known as inflammatory bowel disease, are chronic disorders of the gastrointestinal tract which afflict approximately 1.4 million Americans, 30 percent whom are diagnosed in their childhood years. IBD can cause severe abdominal pain, fever, and intestinal bleeding. Complications related to the disease include: arthritis, osteoporosis, anemia, liver disease, growth and developmental challenges, and colorectal cancer. Inflammatory bowel disease represents a major cause of morbidity from digestive illness and has a devastating impact on patients and families.

In the 108th Congress I was proud to sponsor bipartisan legislation focused on IBD that attracted 36 co-sponsors. Several important provisions of that bill were incorporated into legislation known as the "Research Review Act" which was signed into law by the President last November. Specifically, the "Research Review Act" called on the Government Accountability Office and the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention to submit reports to Congress on three issues of critical importance to the IBD community: 1. Social Security Disability, 2. Medicare and Medicaid coverage, and 3. the epidemiology of the disease in the United States.

The legislation I am introducing today builds upon the progress made last year by calling for an increased Federal investment in biomedical research on IBD. The hope for a better quality of life patients and families depends on basic and clinical research sponsored by the National Institute of Diabetes and Digestive and Kidney Diseases at the National Institutes of Health. The law calls for the National Inflammatory Bowel Disease Research Act" for a expansion of NIDDK's research portfolio on Crohn's disease and ulcerative colitis in order to capitalize on several exciting discoveries that have broadened our understanding of IBD in recent years. By increasing our investment in this area, we will maximize the possibility that we will be able to offer hope to millions of Americans who suffer from this debilitating disease. At the same time, progress in this area could also mean we would save millions of dollars in net health care expenditures through reduced hospitalizations and surgeries.

In addition to biomedical research, this legislation also calls on the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention to develop a National Inflammatory Bowel Disease Action Plan.” This plan will provide a comprehensive approach to addressing the burden of IBD in the United States, including strategies for raising awareness of the disease among the general health care community, expanding epidemiological research focused on the prevalence of IBD, and preventing the progression of the disease and its complications.

The Crohn's and Colitis Foundation of America, an organization that has been a leader in the battle against IBD, has strongly endorsed this legislation. In addition to CCFA, the following organizations have endorsed this bill: The North American Society for Pediatric Gastroenterology, Hepatology and Nutrition, the American Gastroenterological Association, the American Society for Gastrointestinal Endoscopy, the Digestive Disease National Coalition, the Society of Gastroenterology Nurses and Associates, and the Pennsylvania Society of Gastroenterology.

I urge all Senators to join Senator COCHRAN and me in this important cause by co-sponsoring the "Inflammatory Bowel Disease Research Act."
Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, I have introduced today the Second Chance Act of 2005. This legislation is designed to reduce recidivism among adult and juvenile ex-offenders. Never before in our history have so many individuals been released from prison and never before in our history have so many ex-offenders been prepared to reenter their communities. Each year, more than 650,000 individuals are released, which roughly equates to about 1,700 individuals returning communities each day. This number is expected to grow in the years to come as more inmates complete their prison terms. For most offenders, the transition back into their communities is difficult because many lack the necessary skill to ensure a successful reentry. Many suffer from serious substance abuse addictions and mental health issues. Many have difficulty securing a job or adequate housing and often find themselves lured back to a life of crime. A study conducted by the Bureau of Justice Statistics reported that over two-thirds of released prisoners were rearrested within three years and one-half of those rearrested were convicted and re-incarcerated. This high rate of recidivism devastates our towns and communities and puts an enormous strain on state and local budgets.

The Second Chance Act reauthorizes the Adult and Juvenile Offender Re-entry Demonstration projects, authorizing the Attorney General to make grants to establish entry Demonstration projects, with an enhanced focus on job training, housing, substance abuse and mental health treatment, and working with children and families. It also creates a new grant program available to nonprofit organizations for the purpose of providing mentoring and other transition services essential to reintegrating ex-offenders. The Second Chance Act encourages new community partnerships to help educate, train, and employ these individuals who might otherwise return to a life of crime.

Many ex-offenders are often stigmatized by their incarceration, and must face the reality that many employers are reluctant to hire them. A National Adult Literacy Study determined that a majority of prisoners are either illiterate or have marginal reading, writing, and math skills. Following the repeal of Pell Grant eligibility for all inmates, I worked to create the Grants to States for Workplace and Community Transition Training for Incarcerated Youth Offenders program. This program is aimed at providing post-secondary education, employment counseling, and workplace and community transition training for incarcerated youth offenders while in prison, which continue for up to one year after the individual is released. The current program limits expenses and per youth offender to $1,500 for tuition and assessment, and only allows an additional $300 for other related services. The Second Chance Act builds upon my earlier efforts by increasing State's flexibility and accountability within the grant program. It removes the cap and raises the allowable expenditure permitted for each youth offender to the maximum level of Pell Grants. One of the keys to preventing recidivism is access to education. This program recognizes the impact that education and training can have on incarcerated offenders. It is my sincere hope that this legislation will encourage incarcerated individuals to achieve their life's goals and gain the necessary skills to become productive members of society.

Another crisis that will face is the growing populations of prisoners who are parents. More than half of those currently incarcerated are parents of minor children. Female incarceration rates are increasing faster than those men, totaling 7 percent of the prison population. Of those incarcerated, 80 percent are mothers with, on average, two dependent children. What is most troubling is that when their children are younger the the age of 10. The incarceration of a parent can have a tremendous impact on childhood development. Prison presents a unique opportunity to improve a prisoner's likelihood to become productive once they are released. Unfortunately, many of our prisons do not employ such programs, due to fiscal constraints as well as a shift in priorities. The Second Chance Act of 2005 encourages the creation of program to address the incarceration of a parent. It also directs the Secretary of Health and Human Services to establish services to help preserve family units, with special attention paid to the impact on the child of an incarcerated parent.

There is ample evidence that well-designed reentry programs reduce recidivism. Programs such as aftercare for substance abusers and adult vocational training, due to increased recidivism up to 15 percent. These programs pay for themselves by reducing future correction costs associated with re-housing these individuals upon their return back into the institution. The revolving door of prisons not only hurts those who are caught up in the process, but hurts their families and our communities. If we fail to address this problem, are burdening our communities not only with greater expenditures, but in the risk of increased crime. The Second Chance Act of 2006. The more we can do to prepare these individuals when they return home, the better off we will all be. I urge my colleagues to join me in cosponsoring this legislation, and urge its swift adoption.
term solutions for long-term problems. We need to have a change in thinking and approach. It’s time we face the dire situation of prisoners reentering our communities with insufficient monitoring, little or no job skills, inadequate drug treatment, insufficient housing, and inadequate financial help for a city of basic physical and mental health services, and deficient basic life skills.

The bill we introduce today is about providing a second chance for these ex-offenders, for the children of these offenders, and for a huge drain on society at large. One particularly vulnerable group is the children of these offenders.

Since my 1994 Crime Bill passed, we’ve had great success in cutting down on crime rates in this country. Under the Community Oriented Policing Services, COPS, program, we’ve funded over $100,000 officers all across the country. And our crime rate has plummeted.

But there is a record number of people currently serving time in our country—over 2 million in our federal and state prisons; with millions more in local jails. And 95 percent of all prisoners we lock up today will eventually get out someday. It’s a safety and security issue. Prisoners being released from federal or state prisons to communities each year.

If we are going to continue the downward trend of crime rates, we simply have to make strong, concerted, and continued efforts now to help ex-prisoners successfully reenter and reintegrate to their communities.

And right now, we’re not doing a good enough job. A staggering two-thirds of released State prisoners are expected to be rearrested for a felony or serious misdemeanor within 3 years of release. Two out of every three. You’re talking about hundreds of thousands of reoffending, ex-offenders each year and hundreds of thousands of serious crimes committed by people who have already served time in jail.

And, unfortunately, it’s too difficult to see why such a huge portion of our released prisoners recommit serious crimes. Up to 60 percent of former inmates are not employed; 15-27 percent of prisoners expect to go to homeless shelters upon release; and 57 percent of federal and 70 percent of state inmates used drugs regularly before prison, with some estimates of involvement with drugs or alcohol around the time of the offense as high as 84 percent.

These huge numbers or released prisoners each year and the out-of-control recidivism rates are a recipe for disaster—leading to untold damage, hardship, and death for victims; ruined futures and lost potential for these offenders; and a huge drain on society at large. One particularly vulnerable group is the children of these offenders. We simply cannot be resigned to allowing generation after generation entering and reentering our prisons. This pernicious cycle must come to an end.

My 1994 Crime Bill recognized these extraordinarily high rates of recidivism as a real problem. My bill, for example, created innovative drug treatment programs for State and Federal inmates to help them kick their habit.

But this is only one piece of the puzzle. I introduced a bill in 2000 that would have been the 1994 Crime Bill—the “Offender Reentry and Community Safety Act of 2000” (S. 2008). This bill would have created demonstration reentry programs for Federal, State, and local prisoners. These programs were designed to assist high-risk prisoners who served the majority of their prison sentences, but who posed the greatest risk of reoffending upon release because they lacked the education, job skills, stable family or living arrangements, and the health services they needed to successfully reenter society.

While we have made some progress on offender reentry efforts since 1994, much more needs to be done. In the current session of Congress, I am pleased to say—meanwhile—from both sides of Capitol Hill and from both sides of the aisle—are also focusing their attention and this vital issue.

Senators SPECTER and BROWNBACK have been dedicated and tireless leaders in crime and public safety issues throughout their careers, and I am proud to join efforts with them today. Other Senators have also taken a leadership role on these issues, including Senators LEAHY, KENNEDY, BROWNBACK, SANTORUM, LANDREI, BINGA, COBURN, DURBIN, and OBAMA.

The Second Chance Act of 2005 provides a competitive grant program to promote innovative programs to this out a variety of methods aimed at reducing recidivism rates. Efforts would focus on post-release housing, education and job training, substance abuse and mental health services, and mentoring programs, just to name a few.

Because the scope of the problem is so large—with 650,000 prisoners being released from state and federal prisons each year—our bill provides $100 million per year in competitive grant funding. This isn’t being wasteful with our scarce federal resources, it’s just an acknowledgement of the scope of the problem we’re faced with.

A relatively modest investment in offender reentry efforts compares very well to the billions of dollars spent on incarcerating more and more prisons for these ex-offenders to return to if they are unable to successfully reenter their communities and instead are rearrested and reconvicted of more crimes. We must remember that the average cost of incarcerating each prisoner exceeds 20,000 per year, with expenditures on corrections alone having increased from $9 billion in 1982 to $60 billion in 2002. We simply can’t be penny-wise but pound-foolish.

The Second Chance Act of 2005 also requires that federal departments with a role in offender reentry efforts coordinate and work together; to make sure there aren’t duplicative efforts or funding gaps; and to coordinate reentry research. Our bill would raise the profile of this issue within the executive branch and secure the sustained and coordinated federal attention reoffender reentry efforts deserve.

We also need to examine existing Federal and State reentry barriers—laws, regulations, rules, and practices that make it more difficult for former inmates to successfully reintegrate back into their communities; laws that confine ex-offenders to society’s margins, making it even more likely that they will recommit serious crimes and return to prison.

Turning over a new leaf and going from a life of crime to becoming a productive member of society is tough enough. We shouldn’t have Federal and State laws on the books that make this even more challenging. That’s not say don’t work to get former drug addicts from working in pharmacies, for example, or to bar sex offenders from working at day care centers. But many communities across the country currently exclude ex-prisoners from virtually every endeavor—gaining a state license, like chiropractic care, engineering, and real estate. Lifting these senselessly punitive bans would make it easier for ex-offenders to stay out of prison.

Our bill provides for a robust analysis of these federal and state barriers with recommendations on what next steps we need to take. And these reviews are mandated to take place in the open under public scrutiny.

The Second Chance Act also spurs state-of-the-art research and study on offender reentry issues. We need to know who is most likely to recommit crimes when they are released, to better target our limited resources where they can do the most good. We need to study why some ex-offenders who seem to have the entire deck stacked against them are able to become successful and productive members of our society. We need to know what, works and how we can replicate what works for others.

Our bill also provides a whole slew of common-sense proposals in the areas of job training, employment, education, post-release housing, substance abuse, and prisoner mentoring—efforts and changes in law that we can do now.

Our Second Chance Act is a next, natural step in our campaign against crime. Making a dent in recidivism rates is an enormous undertaking; one that requires action now and continued focus in the future. I commit to vigorously pushing this legislation as well as keeping an eye on what steps we need to take in the future. We need to continue to move the problems facing ex-offenders are enormous and will need sustained focus. The safety of our neighbors, our children, and our communities depends on it.

I am proud to join with Senator SPECTER and Senator BROWNBACK in introducing the Second Chance Act and ask our colleagues to join with us in this vital effort.
Mr. BROWNBACK. Mr. President, I am pleased to join with Chairman SPECTER and Senator BIDEN today as we introduce a bill that will have a dramatic and positive effect in the lives of individuals re-entering society after incarceration. The Second Chance Act: Community Safety Through Recidivism Prevention is a bill that will not only protect our Nation’s citizens but will more importantly help to reduce recidivism in our Nation.

A hallmark of our best society lies in its ability to protect the interest of all its citizens and I am proud that the United States is a leader in this regard. Yet, while we continue to strive toward this lofty goal, we must realize that there are areas in which we, as a society and as government, must do more to improve. No where is that more apparent than in our Nation’s pension system.

Today, we have challenges within the prison system that range from high recidivism rates to the financial burdens that hinder many of our state penitentiaries. With this bill, we will be able to address this pressing problem within our society. Already we have seen innovative and model programs within the states and the faith community, and I am proud to say that Kansas is a leader in this regard, as well as a faith organizations as Prison Fellowship Ministries, Catholic Charities U.S.A., and the Salvation Army. However, we must stimulate innovation in this area on a national level and that is what this bill will accomplish. It is paramount that we ensure the safety of our communities and ensure that those incarcerated have the tools necessary to succeed after they rejoin society.

With this bill, we will be able to combat the extremely high recidivism rates plaguing the prison system, currently as high as 70 percent, as well as address the financial burdens that hinder many of our state penitentiaries. Operating costs of state prisons totaled $28.4 billion in fiscal year 2001, or a nationwide average annual operating cost of $22,650 per inmate. Today, it is more likely than ever that a person released from prison will be rearrested—two-thirds of state prisoners are rearrested within 3 years of release. Depending of the expert consulted, between one-third and two-thirds of all prison re-admissions are related to probation or parole violations and at least half of those violations are technical and are not crimes—just parole rules.

We must stop subsidizing programs that do not work and that lead, in turn, to negative behavior.

I am confident that the bill we are putting forward today will indeed take the much needed steps to reduce the recidivism rate in this Nation, which will in turn help those incarcerated make positive changes within their lives so that when they do rejoin society, they will do so with the confidence of knowing that they can contribute to society in a positive manner. As an added incentive to recidivism reduction, each grant application submitted under this program must have as its strategic plan a goal to reduce recidivism by 50 percent in 5 years and in order to receive continued funding under this program, each grant must show a reduction in the recidivism rate of participants by 10 percent over 2 years.

Specifically, this bill facilitates change within our current correctional system and promotes coordination with the Federal Government to better assist those returning to our communities after incarceration their children. The bill reauthorizes the Re-Entry Demonstration Project with an enhanced focus on jobs, housing, substance abuse treatment, mental health, and the children and families of those incarcerated. The bill authorizes $200 million over a period of two years to fund these demonstration programs and creates performance outcome standards and deliverables. It will also encourage states to enhance their re-entry services with grants to fund the creation or enhancement of state re-entry councils for strategic planning and review the state barriers and resources that exit.

Additionally, the bill creates a Federal interagency taskforce to facilitate collaboration and identify innovative programs initiatives. The taskforce will review and report to Congress on state re-entry councils that exist to successfully re-entry.

Furthermore, the bill create a $50 million 2 year mentoring program geared toward reducing recidivism and the societal costs of recidivism. This mentoring program will help ex-offenders re-integrate into their communities. This initiative will specifically harness the resources and experience of community-based organizations in helping returning ex-offender.

Finally, the bill amends the Workplace and Community Transition Training for Incarcerated Youth Offenders Act by improving the existing grants to States under this program and provides $60 million for the administration of the program. This youth program calls for expanding the eligibility age from 25 to 35 years, increases accountability by requiring State correctional agencies to track specific and quantified student outcomes referenced to non-program participants, and increases the allowable expenditure per youth offender up to the level of the maximum Federal Pell Grant award for tuition, books and essential materials; and related services, such as career development.

We have an incredible opportunity to re-shape the way in which this nation’s prison systems operate. Much like welfare reform in the mid 1990s, we have a chance to make real and effective change in an area where change is sorely needed. I look forward to pushing this legislation forward.

Whereas Major League Baseball Commissioner Bud Selig took an important first step toward restoring the reputation of “Shoeless Joe” Jackson by agreeing to investigate whether he was involved in a conspiracy to alter the outcome of the 1919 World Series and whether he should be eligible for inclusion in the Major League Baseball Hall of Fame;

Whereas it has been 6 years since Commissioner Selig initiated his investigation of “Shoeless Joe”, but there has been no resolution;

Whereas the Chicago White Sox are the 2005 American League Champions, and will compete in the World Series for the first time since 1917;

Whereas “Shoeless Joe” Jackson helped lead the Chicago White Sox to their last World Series victory in 1917; and

Whereas the outrageous statements of Mr. Ahmadinejad are not in accord with the expressions of the Palestinian leadership in the peace process: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Senate—

(1) thoroughly repudiates the anti-Israel sentiments expressed by the President of Iran, Mahmoud Ahmadinejad, on October 26, 2005; and

(2) calls on the President, on behalf of the United States, to thoroughly repudiate, in the strongest terms possible, the statement by Mr. Ahmadinejad.

SENATE RESOLUTION 293—CALLING FOR A FREE AND FAIR PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION IN THE REPUBLIC OF KAZAKHSTAN

Mr. MCCAIN (for himself, Mr. BIDEN, Mr. SUNUNU, Mr. BAYH, Mr. LEAHY, Mr. SMITH, Mr. GRAHAM, and Mr. LIEBERMAN) submitted the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations:

Whereas the Republic of Kazakhstan is scheduled to hold a presidential election on December 4, 2005;

Whereas Kazakhstan freely accepted commitments on democracy, human rights, the rule of law, and other fundamental freedoms and rights when it joined the Organization for Security and Cooperation in Europe (OSCE) as a participating state in 1992;

Whereas the United States supports the promotion of democracy and transparent, free, and fair elections in Kazakhstan, consistent with that country’s OSCE commitments;

Whereas the OSCE declared that, while the 2004 parliamentary elections in Kazakhstan reflected improvement over past parliamentary elections, the election process “fell short of OSCE commitments and other international standards for democratic elections in many respects”;

Whereas the OSCE election monitoring mission documented a number of shortcomings in the parliamentary elections in Kazakhstan, including the government’s barring of 2 opposition leaders from running, a lack of transparency in the work of the Central Election Commission, discrepancies in voter lists, and an unfair political balance in the composition of election commissions, a strong media bias in favor of pro-presidential parties, pressure placed on voters to support pro-presidential parties by local government officials and workplace supervisors, and other shortcomings;

Whereas in April 2005, Kazakhstan amended its election law to ban political demonstrations in the period between the end of election campaigns and the announcement of official election results;

Whereas on September 9, 2005, President Nursultan Nazarbaev issued a decree directing state authorities to undertake actions, which, if fully implemented, could improve on many of the shortcomings found in previous elections;

Whereas other elements of Kazakhstan’s stated commitments to OSCE principles and to fulfilling the goals of democracy remain unfulfilled;

Whereas there is currently no representation of the opposition in either the Majilis or the Senate of Kazakhstan, the lower and upper houses of the Kazakh Parliament, respectively;

Whereas some independent media exists in Kazakhstan, but self-censorship is common due to fears of official reprimand;

Whereas the Department of State concluded in its Country Reports on Human Rights Practices for 2004 that “the [Kazakhstan] Government’s human rights record remained poor, and it continued to commit numerous abuses”;

Whereas a transparent, free, and fair presidential election process in Kazakhstan would mark an important step in that country’s progress toward its integration into the democratic community of nations;

Whereas a genuinely free and fair election requires that citizens be guaranteed the right and opportunity to exercise their civil and political rights without undue influence, threats of political retribution, or other forms of coercion by national or local authorities or others; and

Whereas a genuinely free and fair election requires guarantees by the authorities to ensure that candidates and political parties enjoy equal treatment before the law and that government resources are not employed to the advantage of individual candidates or political parties: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Senate—

(1) calls on the Government of Kazakhstan to hold an orderly, peaceful, free, and fair presidential election in December 2005, in accordance with all Organization for Security and Cooperation in Europe (OSCE) guidelines;

(2) calls upon the Government of Kazakhstan to guarantee the full participation of opposition figures and parties in the upcoming election, and to permit the return of political exiles;

(3) believes it is vital that the December election be viewed by the people of Kazakhstan as freely and fair, and that all sides refrain from violence or intimidation before, during, or after election day;

(4) calls upon the Government of Kazakhstan to guarantee unimpeded access to all aspects of the election process for election monitors from the Office for Democratic Institutions and Human Rights of the OSCE, Kazakh political parties, representatives of candidates, nongovernmental organizations, and other private and domestic institutions and human rights of the OSCE, and domestic nongovernmental organizations to provide a sufficient number of election observers to ensure credible monitoring and reporting of the December presidential election;

(5) calls upon the Government of Kazakhstan to guarantee freedom of speech and assembly; and

(6) calls upon the Government of Kazakhstan to meet all of its freely accepted OSCE commitments on democracy, human rights, and the rule of law.

REMOVAL OF INJUNCTION OF SECRECY—TREATY DOCUMENTS

NOS. 109-5 AND 109-6

Mr. McCONNELL. Mr. President, as in executive session, I ask unanimous consent that the injunction of secrecy be removed from the following treaties transmitted to the Senate on October 27, 2005, by the President of the United States: the Tax Convention with Bangladesh, Treaty Document No. 109-5; and the U.N. Convention Against Corruption, Treaty Document No. 109-6. I further ask unanimous consent that the treaties be considered as having been the act of this brave woman. By her solitary action, Rosa Parks proved that one person can make a difference. And she did.

Rosa Parks is not just a national hero, she is the embodiment of our social and human conscience and the spark that lit the flame of liberty and equality for African Americans and minority groups in this country and around the globe. Nelson Mandela, the former President of South Africa, once called her “the Davina who challenged Goliath” and his inspiration during his long imprisonment prior to taking office.

It is altogether fitting and proper that this Nation honor the memory and spirit of the American and her legacy by providing an opportunity for the ordinary citizens of this Nation to pay their last respects to Mrs. Rosa Parks.

Therefore, I proposed to the Senate leadership that we adopt a resolution authorizing such, and I am grateful to them for sponsoring the resolution that I authored to authorize the use of the Capitol Rotunda for the remains of Mrs. Rosa Parks to lie in honor beginning on Sunday, October 30.

It has been the longstanding tradition of the Congress to authorize this honor for not just Members of Congress and Presidents, but ordinary citizens whose extraordinary efforts and service distinguished them in the history of this Nation. Other great Americans who have been similarly honored date back to 1909 when Pierre Charles L’Enfant, planner of the Capital City of Washington, lay in state in the Rotunda. Others include Admiral George Dewey in 1917; General John Joseph Pershing in 1948; General Douglas MacArthur in 1964; Director of the FBI, J. Edgar Hoover in 1972; and most recently, Capitol Police Officer Jacob Joseph Chestnut and John Michael Gibson in 1998.

Congress recognized the need for the Nation to pay its respects to these honorable men and Congress should permit the Nation to pay its last respects to this honorable woman, Mrs. Rosa Louise Parks, as well.

I thank my colleagues for their assistance and support and urge the House to adopt this measure expeditiously so that America may properly honor this courageous lady and great American against corruption.

Mr. McCONNELL. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the concurrent resolution be agreed to, the motion to reconsider be laid upon the table, and that any statements relating thereto be printed in the RECORD, without intervening action or debate. The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The concurrent resolution (S. Con. Res. 61) was agreed to, as follows:

S. Con. Res. 61

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring), That, in recognition of the historic contributions of Rosa Parks, her relentless activism, and her historic role in the rotunda of the Capitol from October 30 to October 31, 2005, so that the citizens of the United States may pay their last respects to this great American. The Architect of the Capitol, under the direction and supervision of the President pro tempore of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives, shall take all necessary steps for the accomplishment of that purpose.

HONORING JOSEPH JEFFERSON “SHOELESS JOE” JACKSON FOR HIS OUTSTANDING BASEBALL ACCOMPLISHMENTS

Mr. MCCONNELL. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate now proceed to the consideration of S. Res. 289, which was submitted early today.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report the resolution by title.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

A resolution (S. Res. 289) expressing the sense of the Senate that Joseph Jefferson “Shoeless Joe” Jackson should be appropriately honored for his outstanding baseball accomplishments.

There being no objection, the Senate proceeded to consider the resolution.

Mr. MCCONNELL. Mr. President, I ask that the Senate now proceed to a voice vote on adoption of the resolution.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there further debate?

The question is on agreeing to the resolution.

The resolution (S. Res. 289) was agreed to.

Mr. MCCONNELL. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the preamble be agreed to and the motions to reconsider be laid upon the table.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The preamble was agreed to.

The resolution, with its preamble, reads as follows:

S. Res. 289

Whereas Joseph Jefferson “Shoeless Joe” Jackson, a native of Greenville, South Carolina, and a local legend, began his professional career and received his nickname while playing baseball for the Greenville Spinners in 1908;

Whereas “Shoeless Joe” Jackson moved to the Philadelphia Athletics for his major league debut in 1908, to the Cleveland Naps in 1911, and on to the Chicago White Sox in 1919;

Whereas “Shoeless Joe” Jackson’s accomplishments throughout his 13-year career in professional baseball were outstanding—he was a leadoff hitter with the Cincinnati Reds, was the outstanding player for 7 Major League Baseball players to ever top the coveted mark of a .400 batting average for a season, and he earned a lifetime batting average of .356, the third highest of all time;

Whereas “Shoeless Joe” Jackson’s career record makes him one of our Nation’s top baseball players of all time;

Whereas in 1919, the infamous “Black Sox” scandal erupted when an employee of a New York gambler allegedly bribed 8 players of the Chicago White Sox, including Joseph Jefferson “Shoeless Joe” Jackson, to lose the first and second games of the 1919 World Series to the Cincinnati Reds;

Whereas in September of 1920, a criminal court acquitted “Shoeless Joe” Jackson of the charge that he conspired to lose the 1919 World Series;

Whereas despite the acquittal, Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, baseball’s first commissioner, banned “Shoeless Joe” Jackson from playing Major League Baseball for life without conducting any investigation of Jackson’s alleged activities, issuing a summary punishment that fell far short of due process standards;

Whereas the evidence shows that Jackson did not deliberately misplay during the 1919 World Series in an attempt to make his team lose the World Series;

Whereas during the 1919 World Series, Jackson’s play was outstanding—his batting average was .375 (the highest of any player from either team in the World Series) and he hit 127 hits, with 62 runs scored, 25 home runs, and 107 runs batted in; and

Whereas because of his lifetime ban from Major League Baseball, “Shoeless Joe” Jackson has been excluded from consideration for admission to the Major League Baseball Hall of Fame;

Whereas “Shoeless Joe” Jackson died in 1951, after fully serving his lifetime ban from baseball, and 85 years have elapsed since the 1919 World Series, and

Whereas the evidence shows that Jackson did not deliberately misplay during the 1919 World Series in an attempt to make his team lose the World Series;

Resolved, That it is the sense of the Senate that Joseph Jefferson “Shoeless Joe” Jackson should be appropriately honored for his outstanding baseball accomplishments.

HONORING THE LIFE OF EDWARD ROYBAL

Mr. MCCONNELL. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate proceed to the immediate consideration of S. Res. 290, submitted earlier today.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report the resolution by title.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

A resolution (S. Res. 290) honoring the life and expressing the deepest condolences of Congress on the passing of Edward Roybal, former United States Congressman.

There being no objection, the Senate proceeded to consider the resolution.

Mr. SALAZAR. Mr. President, I rise today to pay tribute to a trailblazing American and former Mayor of Congress, the Honorable Edward R. Roybal. It is an honor to speak about this incredible man, who on Monday passed away at the age of 89 and was an inspiration to me and to millions of Hispanics across our Nation.

First, I must offer my heartfelt condolences to the Honorable Roybal’s wife, Lucile; his daughter, Congresswoman LUCILLE ROYBAL-ALLARD, who is in her seventh term representing California’s 34th District; his other daughter, Lillian Roybal-Rose; and his son, Edward R. Roybal, Jr.

When elected to the House of Representatives in 1962, Congressman Roybal became the first Hispanic to serve in Congress in nearly 100 years.

He represented the people of California’s 39th Congressional District and served on behalf of the public interest during a very difficult and tumultuous time in our Nation’s history.

As a 5th generation product of rural Colorado, I grew up at Los Rincones, my family’s ranch in the San Luis Valley, was a far cry from Congressman Roybal’s on the streets of East Los Angeles.

Our family’s house was small—in fact, my five of the eight siblings shared a small room and two beds. We did not have running water or electricity until 1981.

However, even though we did not have electricity, I, like many other Latinos across this Nation, knew who the Honorable Ed Roybal was.

It was people like Congressman Roybal, and Cesar Chavez who inspired me to dream of serving our country as Colorado’s Attorney General and later held in the United States Senate.

As a Hispanic American, he provided a shining example of just what I could accomplish if I heeded my parent’s advice to get my education and work hard in all my endeavors. Today, as I speak as one of 100 in the Senate, I firmly believe that I am standing on the shoulders of many giants, in particular, Congressman Roybal.

Congressman Roybal lived by the fundamental values that make this country great. He lived and worked in the world and the place I am privileged to call home. He fought social injustice on the streets, in our classrooms, and in the halls of Congress.

Like my parents, he was a part of the American generation who grew up during the Great Depression and came of age during World War II. He served our country in the U.S. Army and defended our rights and privileges afforded under the Constitution in battle. I am certain that this experience served him well when he served on the House’s Veteran Affairs Committee.

Throughout his life, he gave voice to the disenfranchised and offered hope to the sick. When the tragic HIV/AIDS epidemic began to sweep our Nation, Congressman Roybal answered the call to duty and worked to provide funding for research and health services.

During a time when many of our Nation’s laws and several in our Nation’s leaders had enabled political disenfranchisement and unequal educational and employment opportunities, the Honorable Ed Roybal organized and inspired his community to insist on equality and to embrace their ganas or power and strength.

Mr. President, “ganas” means “to have a will to achieve.” The Honorable Roybal had the ganas to right injustices in America because he believed that he had the obligation to make this country a better place for his children and my children when he left it.

I believe that he did accomplish his great goal. He did this by the work he did in Congress as well as the work he did when he was away from Washington, DC.

In 1976, Congressman Roybal joined with his colleagues Congressman “Kika” de la Garza and Congressman Baltasar Corrada, in establishing the Congressional Hispanic Caucus. The purpose of the CHC was and is to advocate on behalf of and represent the interests of Hispanic across the nation and in Puerto Rico. Representative Roybal was the Caucus’s first chairman, and his the continued work of the Caucus, the first forum in the United States for Latino elected Members to formulate a common collective legislative agenda, is a part of his legacy.

In addition to the Caucus, Congressman Roybal was instrumental in the founding of non-profit organizations like the Congressional Hispanic Caucus Institute and the National Association of Latino Elected and Appointed Officials. Through these organizations, the fruits of his efforts can still be felt throughout the country today.

As the life and work of the late Representative Roybal, I am reminded of a prayer written by another civil and human rights leader, Cesar Chavez:

Show me the suffering of the most miserable; So I will know my people’s plight. Free me to pray for others; For you are present in every person. Help me take responsibility for my own life; So that I will not be afraid to fall. Grant me courage to serve others; For in service there is true life. Give me honesty and patience; So that the Spirit will be alive among us. Let the Spirit flourish and grow; So that we will never tire of the struggle. Let us remember those who have died for our people; For you are present in every person. So I will know my people’s plight.

I join with the thousands of Americans in mourning the loss of this trail-blazing leader.

Mr. MCCONNELL. I ask unanimous consent that the resolution and preamble be agreed to en bloc, the motion to reconsider be laid upon the table, and that any statements relating thereto be printed in the RECORD, without intervening action or debate.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The resolution (S. Res. 290) was agreed to.

The preamble was agreed to.

The resolution, with its preamble, reads as follows:

CONGRATULATING THE CHICAGO WHITE SOX

Mr. MCCONNELL. Mr. President, I rise today as a Senator, as an Illinoisan, and as a proud resident of the South Side of Chicago to congratulate the Chicago White Sox for winning the 2005 World Series Championship.

There being no objection, the Senate proceeded to consider the resolution.

Mr. OBAMA. Mr. President, I rise today to congratulate the Chicago White Sox on winning the 2005 World Series. As my fellow South Siders know, it has been a long time coming.

A little bit of history: Founded in 1900 as the Chicago White Stockings, this year’s team reached the World Series for the first time since 1908, and this is a ’58-style cap that I have here with me. Over a century of White Sox fans have cheered for superstars such as Luke Appling, Nellie Fox, Carlton Fisk, Luis Aparicio, Harold Baines, and, of course, Big Frank Thomas. But we haven’t savored the sweet taste of a World Series championship since 1917—until now.

Back in 1917, Woodrow Wilson was President, and the Great War was raging in Europe. The White Sox were a bright spot in tough times.

The Sox won last night the way they have won all season—by playing aggressively, scrapping for every base and every run. When Juan Uribe threw to Paul Konerko for the final out, it was fitting that the ball beat the runner by only half a step. The four games against the Astros were decided by a total of six runs. Winning by the skin of your teeth has been our style. Win or die trying, that is our motto this year.

I congratulate my colleague from Texas. The Houston Astros were an outstanding team. But it just so happened that this year they ran into the buzz saw of the Chicago White Sox.

I commend Dye, who is the World Series MVP. But I am sure he will be the first to say that everyone on this year’s team deserves a part of that award. This is a team with so many great players but no undisputed leader on the field. I don’t claim to be a baseball expert or particularly unbiased on this matter, but this is one of the most balanced and selfless teams any of us have seen. A team of unlikely heroes.

Scott Podsednik, who hadn’t hit a home run all season, stepped up and hit two in the playoffs, including the walk-off winner in game two on Sunday. Willie Harris, who barely played in the playoffs, got a pinch hit to get on base and bring home the only run last night. Geoff Blum, a former Astro, who got a pinch hit homer in the 14th inning to give us the margin of victory in game three. And the pitching—four complete games to close out the American League Championship Series. An 11 and 1 record in the playoffs, 15 scoreless innings to finish the World Series.

Before the season started, the Sox were a consensus .500 team. Even as we built and maintained the best record in the American League all season, there were many doubters. Towards the end of the season, we hit a rough patch, and the doubters grew louder. They said Cleveland had more playoff experience. They said even if we held on to make the playoffs, we would get embarrassed in the playoffs.

But during this stretch run, manager Ozzie Guillen and his “kids,” as he called them, were calm and relaxed. Even as Cleveland came on strong and our lead in the Central Division dwindled, Ozzie’s kids continued to play pranks on each other in the clubhouse, and continued to run hard on the bases.

Once the playoffs started, there was no looking back. That difficult September was gone in an instant. We silenced our doubters by sweeping the World Champion Boston Red Sox. We silenced the Angels during the ALCS in five games. And we swept the Astros in four games.

I had the privilege of attending game one of the World Series on Saturday, and the fans in and around the park were a cross-section of the city. There were plenty of folks old enough to remember the ’59 team. Almost everyone remembered the 2000 team that made the playoffs. A few were even alive in 1917.

I don’t want to belabor this issue. I know those of you who had to listen to Red Sox fans last year may have gotten a little weary of those of us who have all this pent-up energy when we finally win the championship.

But I do want to say that the entire city of Chicago and the entire State of Illinois are extraordinarily proud. I congratulate the entire White Sox organization, in particular Jerry Reinsdorf, Kenny Williams, and Ozzie Guillen. We will be celebrating this victory for a long time on the South Side, around the city of Chicago, and around the entire State of Illinois.

Let me give a shout out. While we were watching the game the other night, in the drenching rain Sunday evening there was a sign held up by an elderly woman 92 years old. She said: I’ve been waiting for this for 88 years.

I think it gave you some sense of how much this means to the city of Chicago and to those blue-collar neighborhoods made up of Black, White, and Hispanic who were represented so ably by their team. It spoke to the diversity of this community to work together in ways that make us all proud.

Senator DURBIN and myself will be introducing a resolution later today.

I want to turn it over to my senior colleague from the great State of Illinois to add some words regarding this outstanding team.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Illinois is recognized.

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, I thank my colleague from the State of Illinois who is truly a White Sox fan from the South Side of Chicago. We have town meetings every Thursday morning, and from the beginning of this baseball season, he has been rooting for his White Sox. As his fellow Senator from Illinois, I want to congratulate him and the White Sox organization.

Say it is so, Joe.

Eighty-six years after the 1919 Black Sox scandal, and 88 years after they beat the New York Giants in the 1917 World Series, the Chicago White Sox are bringing the World Series crown home to Chicago. It is amazing. The ghost of Shoeless Joe Jackson can finally rest in peace.

Last night, the White Sox completed their magical World Series quest with a 1–0 win to complete a four-game sweep over the Houston Astros. But as Senator OBAMA has said, they were close games. Some of them broke records for their length and the hard battles that brought to the mound and to the field.

White Sox fans from my home State of Illinois and all around the world are rejoicing as the White Sox nation will cherish this victory for decades to come.

The South Side of Chicago is the gladiest part of town. If you go down there, you better be aware that the White Sox won the World Series crown.

I congratulate the White Sox players, their manager, the valiant Vern Molan, Ozzie Guillen, pitching coach Don Cooper. What an amazing performance by the pitching staff, and so many White Sox stars turned coaches such as Tim Raines, Greg Walker, Harold Baines, and Joey Cora; general manager Kenny Williams for putting together this magical team, himself a former Sox player who made key moves not only in the off season but during the season, such as adding closer Bobby Jenks, just 24 years old, pitching in double A’s just a few months ago. And there he stood on the mound last night pitching those 99- and 100-mile-an-hour fast balls. But during the season, general manager Kenny Williams also added game 3 hero Scott Podsednik, who barely played in the playoffs, got a pinch hit to get on base and bring home the Striker to win even the darkest days.

So, I say rejoice. The Chicago White Sox are world champions.

I yield the floor.

Mr. MCCONNEILL. I ask unanimous consent that the resolution be agreed to, that the motion to reconsider be laid upon the table, and that any statements relating thereto be printed in the RECORD without intervening action or debate.

Mr. MCCONNELL. Today, the Senate completed action on the Labor-HHS-Education appropriations bill, a splendid job by Senator SPECTER and Senator HARKIN in moving the bill along. That is the fastest I can recall that measure clearing the Senate, certainly in recent years.

As the majority leader announced earlier today, we will be in session tomorrow, but there will not be any votes. We will not have any votes during Monday’s session. So Senators should expect a busy week as we consider the deficit reduction omnibus reconciliation bill.

In that regard, I ask unanimous consent that at 4 p.m. on Monday, October 31, the Senate proceed to S. 1932, the 2005 deficit reduction bill, and it be considered under the following statutory time agreement, with time divided as follows: The first hour on Monday under the control of the chairman of the Budget Committee; provided further that the Senate then resume the bill on Tuesday, November 1, at 9 a.m., with the time until 8 divided between the chairman and ranking member, with 4½ hours under the control of the chairman and 5½ hours under the control of the ranking member; provided further that the Senate recess from 12:30 to 2 for the weekly policy luncheons; provided that any votes ordered on Tuesday be postponed to occur at a time determined by the leader after consultation with the Democratic leader.

I further ask consent that the Senate then resume the bill on Wednesday, November 2, with the time from 8:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. equally divided between the chairman and ranking member; provided further that at 6 p.m. on Wednesday all time be considered expired.

Before the Chair rules, it is my understanding that Senators GREGG and CONRAD have agreed that we will have 1 hour of debate on Monday. We will then resume the deficit reduction measure on Tuesday, with debate until 8. Any votes ordered on Tuesday would be stacked to occur at a later time. We would then resume the bill on Wednesday, with all time expired at 6 p.m.

The Budget Act allows for amendments to be offered and voted on beyond the statutory time limit, the so-called vote-arama that we look forward to every year. I would hope that we would not have a vote-arama, but understanding that Members will offer amendments after the expiration of time, we would begin those sequenced votes on Thursday.

We will proceed until complete, and we all hope that will be a short time thereafter.

In any event, we would stop in the late afternoon on Thursday and resume on Friday if, and only if, that becomes necessary.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

ADJOURNMENT UNTIL 10 A.M. TOMORROW

Mr. McCONNELL. I believe that completes the business of the Senate. If there is no further business to come before the Senate, I ask unanimous consent that it stand in adjournment under the previous order.

SALUTE TO HURRICANE VOLUNTEER MARC OBERLIN OF SAVE-A-LOT

HON. MICHAEL C. BURGESS
OF TEXAS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Wednesday, October 26, 2005

Mr. BURGESS. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to salute those individuals and organizations that opened their hearts and dedicated both financial and emotional support to the evacuees of Hurricane Katrina and Hurricane Rita. All of the States along the gulf coast have endured terrible hardships during this hurricane season, and I know that the generosity of North Texans played a vital role in bringing some peace into their lives.

Today, I want to specifically thank one man, his store and his donation. Marc Oberlin, from Save-A-Lot donated $5,572 worth of various food and supplies for volunteers during hurricane Katrina.

Save-A-Lot is one of the Nation’s leading extreme value limited assortment grocery chains, operating value-oriented stores in all types of neighborhoods—urban, rural and suburban. Today the company’s annual system-wide retail sales exceed $4 billion and are expected to grow as the company expands its store network.

I stand here today to sincerely thank Marc Oberlin for his donation. It is people like him that I am proud to call a fellow Texan. Through his contribution, he not only stands as a devoted and giving American citizen, but he serves as an inspiration to others.

Leon is a member of the executive committee of the Democratic National Committee, Chairman of the A. Philip Randolph Institute, President of the Workers Defense League, a board member of the National Endowment for Democracy, and a member of the Labor Roundtable of the National Black Caucus of State Legislators.

Leon has served six terms as the USWA’s International Vice President for Human Affairs. He was appointed to that post when it was created by the USWA’s 18th Constitutional Convention in 1976. ESSAY ON THE PLEDGE

HON. MARK R. KENNEDY OF MINNESOTA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, October 26, 2005

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to submit for the RECORD, the text of an essay by Katelin Richter of Watertown, Minnesota, as published in the Minneapolis Star-Tribune on October 3, 2005.

Of course the pledge is still relevant. How does a trait such as loyalty cease to be relevant? How do liberty and justice for all cease to be relevant? How does God cease to be relevant? Just because our America is a nation of immigrants does not mean that the values that our nation was founded on have changed. Each generation is now us, and we must live up to the pledge. Americans will constantly work to see this goal.

We have to remember, when pledging, that our great Nation is not totally infallible, and will never be. We can only try our hardest, with the powers we have, to make our Nation live up to the pledge. Americans will constantly work to see this goal.

As a result, our soldiers have a resting place that is a result, our soldiers have a resting place that we will always remember.

The actions taken by Mr. Layer and the New Mexico Hometown Heroes Committee will allow generations of New Mexicans to remember the courage these soldiers showed on the battlefield.

Mr. Speaker, I ask my colleagues to join me in recognizing Mr. Layer and the other members of the New Mexico Hometown Heroes Committee for their efforts.

RECOGNIZING THE 25TH ANNIVERSARY OF AKAL SECURITY

HON. JOE WILSON

OF SOUTH CAROLINA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, October 26, 2005

Mr. WILSON of South Carolina. Mr. Speaker, I am proud today to congratulate Akal Security, the second largest U.S.-based security guard company, on its twenty-fifth anniversary. Since 1980, Akal Security has grown from just a handful of earnest entrepreneurs to almost 15,000 employees in 48 States and around the world.

Today, the company provides 80 percent of guards for the Department of Justice's Marshals Service and, through a subsidiary, 80 percent of cleared American guards for embassy construction. Akal's employees work in several Bureau of Immigration and Customs Enforcement detention centers, airports and military installations; Federal Protective Service operations; and local government and commercial properties.

Although the tremendous growth of this company is important, I am also impressed by the unique inspiration of its founders and their continued record of hiring disabled veterans.

Gurutej Khalsa and Daya Khalsa, the founders of Akal Security, incorporate the practices of Sikh Dharma into their day-to-day business lives. They describe Sikh Dharma as a peaceful, monotheistic religion brought to the West from India by Yogi Bhajan, who was only the fourth religious leader to receive a joint resolution of recognition from Congress.

Akal Security also has a distinguished history of hiring veterans of law enforcement and the military, including many decorated heroes and even a few U.S. Marshals. These veterans are patriotic, experienced, and committed to their jobs. This year, Akal Security received the Large Employer of the Year Award from the Disabled American Veterans organization for the company's continued commitment to serving disabled Veterans.

Today, I am pleased to congratulate Akal Security on its remarkable record of accomplishment over the past 25 years.

INTRODUCTION OF THE FEDERAL DISASTER PROFITEERING PREVENTION ACT OF 2005

HON. JOHN CONYERS, JR.

OF MICHIGAN

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, October 26, 2005

Mr. CONYERS. Mr. Speaker, today I am introducing the “Federal Disaster Profiteering Prevention Act of 2005,” legislation that imposes tough new criminal and civil penalties on those who intentionally overcharge the Federal Government for the provision of goods or services tendered in response to a presidentially declared major disaster or emergency. I am joined by Representatives EMANUEL, DEFAZIO, HINOCHY, KELPATRICK, SERRANO, MCDERMOTT, MALONEY and SANDERS.

One need not look beyond the ongoing reconstruction efforts in Iraq and the current controversy surrounding Halliburton to understand the need for such legislation. To date, Halliburton has been accused of overcharging the Federal Government by more than $1.4 billion in “questionable” and “unsupported” reconstruction costs. Nearly two-thirds of these costs have been characterized as “questionable” because, according to government auditors, they are “unreasonable in amount” and “exceed that which would be incurred by a prudent person.” Such costs include, but are in no way limited to, $617,000 in overpriced and double-billed soft drinks; $152,000 in movie rental charges; $1.5 million in excessive tailoring and seamstress charges; and over $560,000 in unnecessary heavy equipment charges.

The “Federal Disaster Profiteering Prevention Act of 2005” is designed to prevent such acts from occurring in the future. It achieves this objective by cracking down on anyone who, in a matter involving a contract with the Federal Government, develops a “scheme or artifice to defraud the United States.” The civil penalties associated with a violation of this prohibition are the greater of $1 million dollars or triple the gross profits or realized proceeds. The potential for additional future abuse of the Federal contracting and procurement process is quite clear. According to recent press reports, FEMA and the Army Corps of Engineers already have awarded at least seven no-bid contracts to several politically well-connected firms, including Halliburton. For example, Kellogg, Brown & Root, a subsidiary of Halliburton, is currently repairing damaged naval facilities under a $500 million Defense Department contract. Additionally, no-bid housing contracts have been awarded to the Fluor Corp, a major Republican Party donor, and to the Shaw Group, a client of the lobbying and consulting firm run by friend of the president and former FEMA chief Joe Allbaugh. With such large sums being spent in this manner, it’s more important than ever that we send a clear message that we will not tolerate the overcharging of our government during times of federal emergencies.

I am hopeful that Congress can move quickly to enact this worthwhile and timely legislation.

CONGRATULATING LUCAS FLEMMING

HON. MICHAEL C. BURGESS

OF TEXAS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, October 26, 2005

Mr. BURGESS. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to congratulate Mr. Lucas Flemming for receiving the Gold Medal of Achievement in Royal Rangers.

Royal Rangers is an achievement program of the Assemblies of God which utilizes an outdoor theme to teach positive character, responsibility, leadership, citizenship and service to God, men and country. The Gold Medal of Achievement is the highest achievement that can be earned in the Royal Ranger Program. Mr. Flemming is a senior at Flower Mound High School in Flower Mound, Texas. His achievement represents many years of diligent work completing merits, camping and nature skills, leadership training camps, memorization, essays and service projects. A special service honoring Mr. Hunt’s accomplishment is planned for November 27, 2005 at Grace Community Assembly of God in Flower Mound, Texas.

I extend my sincere congratulations to Mr. Lucas Flemming on receiving the Gold Medal of Achievement. His hard work and dedication to excellence warrants the highest achievement given by the Royal Rangers Program.

TRIBUTE TO MS. AMALIA V. BETANZOS
HON. JOSÉ E. SERRANO OF NEW YORK
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Wednesday, October 26, 2005

Mr. SERRANO. Mr. Speaker, it is with great pleasure that I rise today to pay tribute to a woman of great integrity and character. Ms. Amalia V. Betanzos has decided to retire from the Wildcat Service Corporation after 27 years of dedicated service as an administrator with an unerring capacity to meet new challenges. As Executive Secretary to Mayor John Lindsay she was in charge of programs for the poor and the physically and mentally handicapped. As Commissioner of Relocation and Management services in the Housing and Development Administration, Amalia was directly in charge of coordinating relocation services to families in conjunction with the City’s Urban Renewal programs and emergency housing.

Amalia’s extensive experience in city government provided her with the breadth of knowledge necessary to lead an organization such as Wildcat Service Corporation. Founded in 1972, Wildcat’s mission is to bring the chronically unemployed, for example, ex-offenders, public assistance recipients, former alcohol and substance abusers, high school dropouts, youth involved with the criminal justice system and persons with limited English language proficiency, into the regular labor force, thus breaking their cycle of poverty, addiction and crime. Under Amalia’s strong leadership Wildcat changed the lives of countless New Yorkers, providing them and their families with a new lease on life.

Mr. Speaker, it is rare to find individuals who are willing to dedicate their entire lives to uplifting others. Amalia V. Betanzos is indeed one of these special people. She has literally improved the lives of thousands of individuals. Her efforts to empower society’s most vulnerable citizens will not only change their destinies but also the destinies of generations to come. Surely that is the mark of a great career.

For her unyielding service and untiring spirit, I ask my colleagues to join me in paying tribute to a dear friend, Ms. Amalia V. Betanzos.

IN HONOR AND REMEMBRANCE OF ALVA “TED” BONDA
HON. DENNIS J. KUCINICH OF OHIO
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Wednesday, October 26, 2005

Mr. KUCINICH. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in honor and remembrance of Alva “Ted” Bonda, beloved husband, father, grandfather, great-grandfather, brother, WWII Veteran, and dear friend and mentor to many, including me. Mr. Bonda’s life was framed by tenacity, integrity and heart, and although he will be greatly missed, he deeply touched the lives of everyone he knew.

Mr. Bonda will forever be remembered as a true Renaissance man possessing a high intellect, love for education and keen business savvy. He was born and raised in Cleveland and graduated from Glenville High School. He worked as a shoe store clerk and parking lot attendant before serving in the U.S. Army during WWII. Following the war, Bonda teamed up with childhood friend, Senator Howard Metzenbaum, to form their joint venture, APCOA Inc., which evolved into the world’s largest parking lot company.

Though an extremely successful businessman, Mr. Bonda’s unwavering dedication remained focused on his family and the Cleveland community. Together, Mr. Bonda and the late Marie C. Bonda raised their three children, Penny, Joel and Tom. Mr. Bonda’s faith in the City of Cleveland and love for its people was just as steadfast. When it was largely feared that the Cleveland Indians could be whisked away to another town, Mr. Bonda stepped up to the plate and convinced more than 50 Cleveland business owners to purchase the team. As the Team President, he consistently dismissed out-of-towners looking to buy the team because they would not promise to keep the club in Cleveland. Most significantly, Mr. Bonda contributed to sports history and civil rights history by hiring Frank Robinson as the first African American Manager in the Major Leagues.

After retiring from business, Mr. Bonda renewed his commitment as a proton of education. As a member of the Cleveland School Board during the 1980s, Mr. Bonda led the successful effort in persuading voters to support the first operating levy in many years. In 1984, he was appointed by then Governor Richard Celeste to the Ohio Board of Regents, where he served as Chair from 1988 to 1991. Mr. Bonda was also a trustee with Brandeis University in Waltham, Mass. In 1995, Cleveland State University’s College of Urban Affairs awarded Mr. Bonda an honorary Doctorate degree.

A staunch and active Democrat, Mr. Bonda’s wisdom and advice was consistently sought after by political hopefuls. His leadership infused significant energy and results into the momentum of numerous local and national campaigns, including those of President Jimmy Carter, presidential candidate George McGovern, Senator Howard Metzenbaum, Ohio Governor Richard Celeste, and my own congressional campaigns.

Mr. Speaker and colleagues, please join me in honor and remembrance of Alva “Ted” Bonda. I offer my deepest condolences to his daughter Penny, sons Joel and Tom, daughter-in-law, Jodi; his grandchildren; great grandchildren; extended family and many friends.

Mr. Bonda left this world with a legacy that will forever shine hope and light upon his family, friends and upon our entire Cleveland community. His joy for life, caring heart and concern for the people of Cleveland defined his life and resonated with the first at bat; and will live on in the hearts of all he who knew and loved well, today, and for all time.
HON. MICHAEL C. BURGESS
OF TEXAS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Wednesday, October 26, 2005

Mr. BURGESS. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to salute those individuals and organizations that opened their hearts and dedicated both financial and emotional support to the evacuees of Hurricane Katrina and Hurricane Rita. All of the States along the gulf coast have endured terrible hardships during this hurricane season, and I know that the generosity of North Texans played a vital role in bringing some peace into their lives.

Today, I want to specifically thank the DFW Airport and their donation during Hurricane Katrina. Jeffrey Fegan, the CEO of DFW, and Ken Kapps, the Vice President of Public Affairs, sent six DFW firefighters to relieve others at the New Orleans Airport. These firefighters were Adrian Garcia, Darren Himes, Jacob Evans, Terry Cole, Dan White and Sullivan McNulty.

I stand here today to sincerely thank the DFW Airport for their hard work and help during the devastation of Hurricane Katrina. It is people like them that I am proud to call fellow Texans. Through their contribution, they not only stand as devoted and giving American citizens, but they serve as an inspiration to others.

PROTECTION OF LAWFUL COMMERCE IN ARMS ACT

SPRECH OF
HON. BOB ETHERIDGE OF NORTH CAROLINA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, October 20, 2005

Mr. ETHERIDGE. Mr. Speaker, I voted against S. 397, the Protection of Lawful Commerce in Arms Act. After careful consideration off the bill and its impact on the citizens of North Carolina and the United States, I determined that it would unacceptably infringe on their constitutional right to legal redress in our Nation’s courts, as well as subvert North Carolina law, which already prohibits frivolous lawsuits against firearms dealers and manufacturers.

Although I voted in favor of similar legislation in the 108th Congress, S. 397 is a much different bill. This bill extends unprecedented immunity to many groups beyond federally licensed firearms dealers and manufacturers, and it sets the bar of proof so high as to prohibit meritorious suits against unscrupulous firearms dealers and manufacturers. This bill allows the firearms industry to put profits ahead of safety; under this bill manufacturers do not have to ensure that the dealers and wholesalers to whom they sell weapons are acting in good faith and within the parameters of the law. Law-abiding gun owners do not want more gun control laws. What we need is more vigorous enforcement of the gun laws that are already on the books.

As a lifelong gun owner, I take seriously my commitment to upholding the Second Amendment right to bear arms. I am also committed to the right of individuals to freedom and safety, as well as their day in court, and this bill would subvert those rights.

HON. WM. LACY CLAY OF MISSOURI
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Wednesday, October 26, 2005

Mr. CLAY. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to the life of Mr. Brother Deloch, a constituent of mine and well-beloved and respected husband of 75 years, father, grandfather, great-grandfather, and uncle. I was saddened by his passing on Friday evening, October 14, at the age of 97.

Mr. Deloch was born January 20, 1908 in Macon, Mississippi to the late Mr. Israel and Mrs. Cora (Grey) Deloch. After the death of his father, Brother Deloch, along with his mother and siblings, moved to Kinloch, Missouri. During the late 1920’s Brother Deloch met Emma Lou Dailey and on January 22, 1930 they were joined in holy matrimony. He remained faithfully married his whole life; Brother and Emma Lou had nine children together; Brother and Emma Lou were together for 75 years. Mr. Speaker.

Soon after getting married and making it through the great depression, Brother Deloch worked for several years installing and repairing motors as an employee of the French, Gerleman Electric Company. From there, he became a clerk for the Missouri Kansas Texas (MKT, Katy) Railroad Company and later for the Missouri Pacific Railroad Company. He retired in 1973 and moved to Mulberry Grove, Illinois where he played a vital role in developing the infrastructure of the Royal Lakes Sub-Division. A little over a decade and a half later he returned to St. Louis where he served the pastor and the church family of Bostick Temple Church of God in Christ. He also worked in the Church Pantry and kept up his active and faithful service to the church and his community until his health began to fail earlier this year.

Brother Deloch leaves behind Emma Lou, his lovely wife of 75 years, four sons and three daughters: Marvell Aaron; Mozell Jr; Frederick Douglas; Elman James; Anetta Bernice Carter; and Annabelle Ireland of Flint, Michigan, and Anita Louise Hyshaw of St. Louis. He also leaves behind fourteen marvelous grandchildren, and twenty-four wonderful great grandchildren.

Mr. Speaker, I ask those assembled here today to pay tribute to Brother Deloch and celebrate his long life, his faithful and loving marriage of seven and half decades, and the family and friends who remember him with great affection.

IN HONOR OF MRS. JORDAN FOR HUMANITY OF NEW JERSEY

HON. RODNEY P. FRELINGHUYSEN
OF NEW JERSEY
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Wednesday, October 26, 2005

Mr. FRELINGHUYSEN. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor Morris Habitat for Humanity of New Jersey, a vibrant organization I am proud to represent. On October 29, 2005 the Board of Directors celebrates its Twentieth Anniversary.

Through both volunteer labor and donations of money and materials, Morris Habitat for Humanity builds and rehabilitates houses in partnership with families in need. Hundreds of volunteers and partner families have allowed Morris Habitat for Humanity to provide affordable homeownership opportunities to low income families. There is no profit added to the sale price of the home and mortgage payments are returned to a revolving fund that is used to build more houses.

Morris Habitat for Humanity was formed in 1985 when a group of local residents traveled to York City to hear former President Jimmy Carter and Millard Fuller, the founder of Habitat for Humanity International, speak at the first Jimmy Carter Work Project. The group returned and incorporated Morris Habitat for Humanity as a charitable nonprofit that same year, attaining affiliate status in 1986.

Since its formation, Morris Habitat for Humanity has completed 26 homes in seven municipalities throughout the 11th Congressional District. The hard work and efforts donated by private corporations, non-profit organizations, local government officials and citizens with whom Morris Habitat has built partnerships have contributed to the benefit of more than 110 individuals of which 70 are children.

Mr. Speaker, I urge you and my colleagues to join me in congratulating the members of Morris Habitat for Humanity on the celebration of its 20 years of service to the Morris County area. Special praise is due to their dedicated staff and active volunteers who work cooperatively to provide affordable housing to families in need.

IN HONOR OF DR. I. KING JORDAN
ON HIS RETIREMENT

HON. LYNN C. WOOLSEY
OF CALIFORNIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Wednesday, October 26, 2005

Ms. WOOLSEY. Mr. Speaker, I rise to honor Dr. I. King Jordan upon his retirement as president of Gallaudet University on December 31, 2006. Dr. Jordan is an accomplished, respected leader and someone I consider a personal friend.

Dr. Jordan became the Nation’s first deaf university president when appointed in 1988 and the first deaf president to preside over Gallaudet University. During his tenure there he has proven to be an able, caring leader propelling the university forward as well as becoming a strong advocate for deaf students on the Federal level.

Among his accomplishments, he led the university’s first ever capital campaign, raising nearly $40 million, which supported the construction of the state-of-the-art Student Academic Center and contributed to the extraordinary increase in the university’s endowment, which paved the way for an increase in scholarships and more academic programs. He also established a fellows program to provide support for deaf college graduates to complete their terminal degrees and become faculty members.

Dr. Jordan was not only a strong advocate for the Gallaudet community, but for individuals with disabilities across this Nation. Another proud accomplishment of Dr. Jordan’s is the work he did to assist with the passage of the Americans with Disabilities Act, ADA, in 1990. He was a lead witness in support of the ADA during a joint session of Congress and delivered significant testimony in Congress and across the country during the deliberations of this bill.

Before receiving his doctorate, Dr. Jordan joined the faculty of Gallaudet’s Department of Psychology. Before his appointment as President, Dr. Jordan served as Chair of Gallaudet’s Psychology and as Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences. He has been a research fellow at Donaldson’s School for the Deaf in Edinburgh, Scotland, and an exchange scholar at Jagiellonian University in Krakow, Poland.

Dr. Jordan holds 11 honorary degrees and is the recipient of numerous awards, among them; the Presidential Citizen’s Medal, presented by Bill Clinton in 2001; the Washingtonian of the Year Award; the James L. Fisher Award from the Council for Advancement and Support of Education, CASE; the Larry Stewart Award from the American Psychological Association and the Distinguished Leadership Award from the National Association for Community Leadership. President George H.W. Bush appointed Dr. Jordan vice chair of the President’s Committee on Employment of People with Disabilities, PCEPD, in 1990, and President Clinton reappointed Dr. Jordan to that role in 1993. In the summer of 2005, Dr. Jordan was presented the George Bush Medal for the Empowerment of People with Disabilities from President George H.W. Bush.

Mr. Speaker, I wish Dr. Jordan much happiness in his retirement as he looks forward to traveling with his wife Lynda and spending more time with his family. His compassion and service will be greatly missed. I am proud to have had a chance to work with him these past years.

SALUTE TO HURRICANE VOLUNTEERS

HON. MICHAEL C. BURGESS
OF TEXAS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Wednesday, October 26, 2005

Mr. BURGESS. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to salute those individuals and organizations that opened their hearts and dedicated both financial and emotional support to the evacuees of Hurricane Katrina and Hurricane Rita. All of the States along the gulf coast have endured terrible hardships during this hurricane season, and I know that the generosity of North Texans played a vital role in bringing some peace into their lives.

Today, I want to specifically thank one woman, her organization and her donation. Bonnie Gardner, from Friends of the Library in Fort Worth, donated various books for all ages to Hurricane Katrina victims.

Friends of the Fort Worth Library is a non-profit membership organization which exists to improve the quality of life in the community by providing advocacy, funding, and volunteer services to the Library. The organization also serves as a conduit for organizations and corporations which are restricted from making donations directly to government entities. I stand here today to sincerely thank Bonnie Gardner for her donation. It is people like her that I am proud, as well as fellow Texan. Through her contribution, she not only stands as a devoted and giving American citizen, but she serves as an inspiration to others.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, JEANETTE CANTRELL RUDY

HON. MARSHA BLACKBURN
OF TENNESSEE
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Wednesday, October 26, 2005

Mrs. BLACKBURN. Mr. Speaker, Tennesseans have long been known for giving back more to their community than they take. Jeannette Cantrell Rudy exemplifies our State’s proud tradition of contributing to the betterment of both community and country.

This year as Jeannette celebrates her 78th birthday, we should take a moment to recognize her good works and thank her for enriching our lives.

In 1985, Jeannette helped create and fund the Dan Rudy Cancer Center at Saint Thomas Hospital in honor of her husband. With her sister’s help, she honored her parents by founding the Felix A. and Edna L. Cantrell Endowment Fund. The fund has given nurses the opportunity to continue their education at Saint Thomas Hospital. Jeannette knows just how important nurses are to our quality of life.

It’s clear that Jeannette’s work has had a tremendous impact on the lives of people across our State. Her life is a testament to the power each of us have to help others.

The list of Jeannette’s achievements and interests is a long one. She’s a sportswoman, a member of several boards including those serving the Nashville Zoo and Cumberland University. She’s even written a book, A Bend in the Cumberland, chronicling the story of her longtime home community in the Pinnacle Bend area.

It’s impossible to capture the many friendships and contributions Jeannette has been responsible for over the years, but we owe her a debt of gratitude for choosing to live in and serve our community. All our best to Jeannette and her family on her 78th birthday.

REGARDING THE INTRODUCTION OF LEAD LABELING ACT LEGISLATION

HON. TOM UDALL OF NEW MEXICO
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Wednesday, October 26, 2005

Mr. UDALL of New Mexico. I rise today to introduce an important piece of legislation designed to strengthen our existing laws regarding lead in consumer products.

Currently, we have laws that require lead-containing paint and other products to be labeled. The laws are explicit and focus mainly on the paint used in public housing around the United States. In the last three decades we have seen the rate of lead poisoning plummet and than plateau. These laws, though effective, are specific only to paint. We must do more to protect our consumers.

That is why I am introducing the Lead Labeling Act of 2005 today, to direct the Consumer Product Safety Commission to establish regulations to require the labeling of products sold in the United States that may contain hazardous amount of lead within them. Labeling these products will help consumers identify products that are potentially hazardous to their children through a simple labeling process.

Mr. Speaker, there are many products imported every year and these imports are a vital part of our economy, but because they are manufactured outside the United States, they are not subject to the same stringent regulations that our products must meet. This is a concern, because many of the products that we eat out of, drink out of, and cook with are made of materials that contain levels of lead that we do not normally ingest. These products can release these leads into our foods and our water and the affects can be very damaging, especially to the development of our children.

According to the National Institute of Health, lead, even in very low levels, has been damaging effects on our children. The Center for Disease Control states that approximately 310,000 U.S. children aged 1–5 years have blood lead levels greater than the CDC recommended level of 10 micrograms of lead per deciliter of blood. Also, lead can affect every system in our bodies. It has been linked to learning disabilities, behavioral problems, and, when our bodies are exposed to very high levels, lead causes seizures, coma, and even death.

Lead in our products is a concern in our households. Labeling products containing lead will help ease these concerns and allow consumers to make more informed decisions. I urge my colleagues in the House to support this legislation for the health of American consumers.

TRIBUTE TO VETERANS

HON. BEN CHANDLER OF KENTUCKY
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Wednesday, October 26, 2005

Mr. CHANDLER. Mr. Speaker, it is with great honor that I rise today to pay tribute to the veterans of this country. November 11, 2005 is Veteran’s Day. On this day, there will be ceremonies across our Nation honoring the service and sacrifice of the men and women who have served in our armed forces. In honor of these heroes, there will be a ceremony at the VA Medical Center on Leestown Road in Lexington, KY.

Kentuckians have always been willing to make the ultimate sacrifice for their country. Currently, there are more than 370,000 veterans who call Kentucky home. These and women have inspired our citizens for generations. As our men and women continue to return home from battle in Iraq and Afghanistan, we must honor their service and pay tribute to those who served before them.

Armistice Day, the original name of Veteran’s Day, was established on the anniversary of the signing of the Armistice, which... ended the first World War. The men and women who sacrificed and served during WWI were honored and remembered, in hopes that their service would be the last time American soldiers were called upon for such duties. Regrettably, our men and women continue to answer the call. Simply, our VA Medical Centers continue to provide the care that our veterans so desperately need.

It is the spirit of those who work at these centers, the spirit of the American people and the will of the American armed forces that keep this country strong. Veteran’s Day should serve as a reminder to every American that our armed forces, both of past and present, are made up of individuals of great courage, character and honor.

It is our duty to ensure that our children and grandchildren never forget our country’s finest heroes and always know their sacrifice. We must take the time to pay tribute to our fallen heroes, not just on Veteran’s Day, but everyday. Their sacrifices and those of our military families are freedom’s foundation. Without the brave efforts of all the soldiers, sailors, airmen, and marines and their families, our country would not stand so boldly, shine so brightly and live so freely.

The United States has attained its position of strength and prosperity thanks to the dedication of our veterans and our armed forces. No other group of Americans has stood stronger and braver for our democracy than our troops and veterans. We must always celebrate, honor and remember these courageous and faithful men and women.

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, October 26, 2005

Mr. HONDA. Mr. Speaker, on Tuesday, October 25, 2005, I was unavoidably detained and missed rollcall votes on that day.

Had I been present I would have voted the following: “yea” on rollcall vote number 536, the American Spirit Fraud Prevention Act, and “yea” on rollcall vote number 537, Recognizing the 40th anniversary of the White House Fellows Program.

HONORING SAINT JOHN OF THE CROSS PARISH OF WESTERN SPRINGS, ILLINOIS, AS THEY CELEBRATE THE 45TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE PARISH

HON. DANIEL LIPINSKI

OF ILLINOIS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, October 26, 2005

Mr. LIPINSKI. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor the Catholic Community of Saint John of the Cross of Western Springs, Illinois on celebrating their 45th Anniversary of the parish.

St. John of the Cross was created in May 1960 with the appointment of Rev. William J. Bennett. In September of 1961 the one million dollar building was completed, which included the living quarters for the parish priests, the worship space, and the classroom space for 600 students. The parish was built on 5.5 acres of land but over the years through fundraising, the parish doubled to the present size of 11 acres.

In 1980, Father Bennett retired, and Rev. Joseph McDonnell became the second pastor of the parish. The parish began to expand through various programs such as religious education, liturgical ministries, and other social organizations. Additional space was then needed to accommodate for the growing number of organizations within the parish, so in 1988, Father McDonnell and the Parish Council agreed to construct a Parish Center. This Parish Center included space for daily worship, private prayer, the day school, religious education, parish meetings, staff offices, choir rehearsal and many more activities.

After 16 years as pastor, Father McDonnell retired in August of 1996 from the parish. Rev. Richard Hynes, the current pastor, was appointed by Cardinal Bernardin to succeed Father McDonnell. Father Hynes has been committed to spreading the awareness of the Catholic tradition to the parish community.

It is quite obvious that over the 45 years of Saint John of the Cross, the parish community has grown stronger through their worship, formation, and charity.

It is my honor to recognize Saint John of the Cross of Western Springs, Illinois on celebrating 45 years of service to spreading the Catholic faith throughout the community.

H.R. 3834, THE THREATENED AND ENDANGERED SPECIES RECOVERY ACT

HON. HOWARD P. “BUCK” McKEON

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, October 26, 2005

Mr. McKEON. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support for Threatened and Endangered Species Recovery Act, TESRA. This legislation is needed to make important changes to the Endangered Species Act, ESA, which, after 30 years of implementation, has been unable to return endangered species to healthy and sustainable populations and has caused turmoil for landowners and local communities across the country, especially in my district in California.

As you know, recent U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service, FWS, studies indicate that ESA has successfully recovered less than 1 percent of species listed in the original law. Frankly, this is far from being an exemplary model of effective legislation.

TESRA offers a new emphasis on recovery, which will require the identification of lands important to the conservation and resurgence of species. The bill provides numerous tools to promote preservation on private lands without further increasing the size of the federal estate.

TESRA also lists specific difference to distinguishing between endangered and threatened species. TESRA requires rules, which will regulate that threatened species be disseminated on a case by case basis rather than by some kind of general rule for all threatened species. By these requirements, TESRA provides a flexibility that can be central to effectively promoting conservation.

I would like to commend Chairman Pombo for his efforts in this legislation and would like to express my full support for the underlying bill.
Lobbyists Representing Repressive Regimes

HON. FRANK R. WOLF OF VIRGINIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, October 26, 2005

Mr. WOLF. Mr. Speaker, I submit for the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD an article from Harper’s Magazine titled “Spin Doctors without borders: how one Washington lobbyist administers to dictatorships.”

Robert Cabelly, managing director of C/R International, was recently hired to represent the Equatorial Guinea, governed by President Teodoro Obiang Nguema Mbasogo, in the African nation of Equatorial Guinea. Cabelly, a marked increase from $0 in the previous three years and a total of $200,000 between 1997 and 2002, has an interest in trade with Equatorial Guinea: oil was discovered offshore there in 1995, making it the third largest petroleum producer in Africa.

Because of its sudden oil wealth, Equatorial Guinea has the world’s fastest-growing economy, but the nation qualifies as “stable” only in that President Obiang has ruled since 1962, and executed his even more despotic uncle. While most of its citizens earn about $1 a day, President Obiang neglects infrastructure and misappropriates oil revenue in favor of lavish personal expenditures. (He recently paid $2.6 million in cash for a mansion near Washington, D.C.) As the United States tries to reduce its dependence on the Middle East, African oil has taken on greater geopolitical significance. Because of work by C/R and others, Washington will likely continue to refrain from imposing sanctions against the dictatorship in Equatorial Guinea finds lobbyists to take its oil money, it has every reason to expect preferential trade policies, if not, one day, U.S. troops to defend it.

Equatorial Guinea did little to improve its human-rights record in 2003, during which a journalist was detained for reporting rumors of a coup, an outspoken pastor was arrested for preventing a party to protest, and one of his members was moved to solitary confinement, chained to a wall, and denied badly needed medical care. But Washington, as well as the Bush Administration, now has an interest in trade with Equatorial Guinea: oil was discovered offshore there in 1995, making it the third largest petroleum producer in Africa.

Cabelly's firm, C/R International, may have won its contract with Equatorial Guinea because Americans are ruled by dictatorships that continually violate human rights.

For Cabelly's contact with U.S. officials includes talking to old colleagues from his years at the State Department, where he helped to negotiate the 1994 peace agreement between Angola and its UNITA rebels. As a Mexican-American man in 1930s and 40s in Los Angeles, he personally experienced brutality because of his color. He fought against that racism with political activism. As a city council member, activist, and 30 year Congressman in this great House, he broke barrier after barrier.

But it wasn't enough for him to break barriers simply by his presence in American political life, which was remarkable in its own right. He worked to actively pave the way for those behind him, never losing passion for giving voice to the voiceless.

He co-founded the Congressional Hispanic Caucus, dedicated to voicing and advancing, issues affecting Hispanics in the United States.

He founded the National Association of Latino Elected Officials, which empowers Latinos nationwide to participate in the democratic process.

He remained active in California politics, mentoring the next generation of young leaders.

Congressman Roybal was more than an asset to the Hispanic Community. He was an asset to the American community. In these chambers, he was a role model to us all. He voted his conscience and stuck to his principles. And America is better off because of him.

I offer heartfelt condolences to my colleague and friend, the Honorable Lucille Roybal-Alard, and I join the Nation in mourning this great man.

Honoring America’s Fallen Heroes

HON. MADELEINE Z. BORDALLO
OF GUAM
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, October 26, 2005

Ms. BORDALLO. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to somberly note the 2,000th death of an American servicemember in Iraq. Having reached this unwelcome milestone, I realize that the important number, however, is and remains, one. Each loss of a servicemember in Iraq is a loss to one unit, to one family, to one mother and one father and it is a loss we all suffer together as one Nation. Each loss represents the sacrifice of a unique American hero, a hero that now stands forever alongside the American heroes who gave their lives in forging this great Nation in the war of independence, that preserved our Union in the Civil War, that defeated the fascists and the Nazis in World War II and that fought communism in Korea and Vietnam. Among these men and women we honor today are four from our community in Guam. These four fallen heroes are a reflection of our island’s patriotism, valor and sacrifice. I mark this new milestone with great sadness but take comfort in knowing that another generation of Americans, included among them another generation of Guam’s sons and daughters, has answered the call of duty to protect freedom and the American way of life. We owe a deep gratitude to these fallen men and women and to their families. May God bless them and may God bless our country.

THE INTRODUCTION OF A RESOLUTION RECOGNIZING THE LIFE AND WORKS OF WELLINGTON MARA

HON. BILL PASCRELL, JR.
OF NEW JERSEY
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, October 26, 2005

Mr. PASCRELL. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor the life of fellow Fordham University alumnus Wellington Timothy Mara, who succumbed to cancer yesterday at the age of 89. To football fans in the New York/New Jersey Metropolitan Area, Mara is synonymous with the dominant Giants teams of 1958 and 1963 and traded for quarterback Y.A. Tittle, all fueling back Frank Gifford and Roosevelt Brown, winning 25 straight games. It was here Mara befriended many of the university’s football players. He in-turn befriended legendary player, coach and fellow owner for his invaluable service to the league. As the owners of the most valuable team in the league at the time, their decision to put the good of the entire league above their self-interest set the league on a path to the enormous prosperity it is enjoying today.

When the Giants hit lean times during the 1970’s, Mara placed most of the blame on himself. To respond he hired George Young as General Manager, who then was the architect of the dominant Giants’ teams of the late 1980’s. These teams won Super Bowl XXI (1987) and Super Bowl XXV (1991). Young won five NFL Executive of the Year awards in his 19 seasons with the Giants.

All told, in Mara’s 81 years with the Giants, they appeared in 26 postseasons, won 16 division championships and six NFL titles. Those six championships represent the third most of any franchise, behind only the Green Bay Packers and the Chicago Bears.

In addition to his service to the Giants, Mara also worked hard for the league as a whole to ensure collective prosperity. He served on the league’s Competition Committee, the Hall of Fame Committee, and the Executive Committee, including a term as chairman from 1971–1977. He has been widely lauded by his fellow owners for his invaluable service to the league.

In 1971–72, Fordham University inducted Mara into their Athletic Hall of Fame. Mara has continued his close ties to the university throughout his life, and in 2002 he was honored at the Fordham Founder’s dinner, the university’s highest honor.

In 1997 Mara was inducted into the National Football League Hall of Fame, an honor he reluctantly accepted. He was a strong advocate of leaving the Hall of Fame for just players and coaches, insisting it was they, and not owners, who made the game great. Wellington Mara served his community as a member of the board of the Giants Foundation, a charitable organization founded by the New York Giants involved with providing financial and social support for disadvantaged youth in the New York/New Jersey Metropolitan Area.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to offer my deepest condolences to his wife of 61 years Ann, his 11 children and 40 grandchildren.

Today I am proud to have introduced a House Resolution recognizing the life and work of Wellington Timothy Mara. I respectfully urge that all my colleagues join me in paying our respects, and offer their support for this resolution.

EULOGY FOR KENNY SWYGERT

HON. CHARLES B. RANGEL
OF NEW YORK
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, October 26, 2005

Mr. RANGEL. Mr. Speaker, tomorrow I will be attending the funeral of Kenny Swygert, beloved husband of my long-time staff assistant and friend, Brenda. I submit to the record the remarks I will be making at the service. At times such as this we find that words can never adequately provide a true expression of the sympathy we feel, and words seem so unlikely to provide comfort, but we gathered here this morning to show Brenda and her family that we are grieving with you over the loss of your beloved Kenny.

Having known Kenny from the time Brenda met him, and remembering that it was in my first Congressional office that they met due to the matchmaking efforts of brother Pat, I have always felt partly responsible for the success of their marriage, and, Brenda, you two found such happiness together that I came to believe that your marriage was one of the best things I have ever been a part of.

Over the years Brenda and Kenny have defined a good marriage for me and for all who know them, so we know how difficult this loss will be for you. Brenda, you and Kenny will be for you to be without your life partner. Please know that your many friends, and all of those whose lives you and Kenny have touched over the years, are with you in spirit at this time of sorrow and that you and your family are in our thoughts and prayers.

I believe that it is often the case that those who work with someone on a daily basis have a very good opportunity to know of the quality of a marriage. It is on a daily basis that one has, particularly in a small Congressional office, to see what the people with whom you work are experiencing in their lives away from the office. With Brenda, I could tell that she was married to a man who supported her and enabled her to devote herself to the demands of a Congressional career as well as give of herself to friends and family as generously as she has over the years.

And give of herself Brenda has, so much so that I knew Kenny must be a wonderfully supportive husband to tolerate her missing so many evenings at home while she was working late with me. I have benefited so much over the years from Brenda’s professionalism and dedication that I haven’t thought enough of thanking Kenny for allowing her to be as devoted as she is.

When Brenda was sick a couple of years we were able to see the kind of love and support that Kenny provided and how his prayers and his strength and determination that she survived was a force that encouraged and sustained Brenda in her fight to breathe and restore her health. We all worried about the illness that threatened her life and the capacity of her doctors and medicine to overcome it, but we had absolutely no worry about Brenda’s will to live and her fighting spirit and that she was not alone because Kenny was there fighting with her.

Brenda, I hope that you and your family will be comforted at this time by the memories of the many good times you shared and by the knowledge that you were able to care for and comfort him at the end of his life, at his side.
as he was with you. By being with him as he passed you truly fulfilled your wedding vow "until death do us part."

I once heard a Pastor of a younger congregregation, who counseled many couples before marriage and continue in touch with them through a Men's Couples club in the church, tell the story of the death of an elderly member of cancer and saw at his bedside at the moment of his death his wife beside him holding his hands, mopping his brow, and giving him comfort. He said to the young people that evening that he knew there were many good ways for a marriage to begin, but there was no better way for a marriage to end.

I know, however, that what is important to you and your family at this time is that Kenny has been taken from you. May God give you the strength and courage at this time of sorrow to help you bear your burden of grief, and may He strengthen your faith in the resurrection promised by Jesus to provide hope of reunion in Heaven.

Mr. CLEAVER. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in recognition of Breast Cancer Awareness Month and the brave survivors of this disease. The statistics for breast cancer are staggering. One out of every eight women in the United States will be diagnosed with breast cancer in their lifetime, and 1 out of every 229 women under 35 with breast cancer. The general sentiment is that women in their 20s and 30s are too young to contract the illness, but the re-test is that women in their 30s will be affected by the disease at some point in their lives. The unfortunate truth behind these numbers is that there is a limited amount of information available on women under 35 with breast cancer. The general sentiment is that women in their 20s and 30s are too young to contract the illness, but the re-test is that women of this age are not im-

While five months pregnant with her first child, Jennifer Johnson was diagnosed with breast cancer at the age of 27. Her treatment involved chemotherapy and a mastectomy during her pregnancy. Jennifer completed her final chemotherapy treatment in 2000, and the next day delivered a healthy baby boy, Parker Matthew. Three years later, Jennifer had a daughter, Emma Grace, and she has been cancer-free for six years. Jennifer is active in several breast cancer advocacy groups including the American Cancer Society, the Susan G. Komen Association, the Ribbons of Pink Foundation, and the Pregnant with Cancer organization.

Jana Peters was 27 and engaged to be married when she received her breast cancer diagnosis. She has undergone several treatments since then including a mastectomy and chemotherapy. In 1999 Jana founded the Ribbons of Pink Foundation, a non-profit organization with the goal of promoting breast health and serving as a support for young breast cancer survivors. She is a member of the United Methodist Church of the Resurrection, and she is a volunteer for several breast cancer organizations and events. Jana continues her career in the clinical research industry in San Francisco, where she resides with her husband Chris.

We celebrate these courageous women who have battled breast cancer and those who continue their fight against this illness. Breast cancer survivors and supporters gather to raise awareness and encourage the access of information for breast cancer in young women.

Opening Remarks
Rep. CYNTHIA MCKINNEY: Last year, we got the final report, an extensive, prosaically impressive report, but as some of us sat down to read it, the errors and omissions immediately jumped out at us. How was it that it took over an hour after the first trans-pounder went off before planes were scrambled to meet the threat, all of them too late? What happened to those reports that surfaced within months of September 11th stating that seven or more of the alleged hijackers had come forward and claimed they were victims of stolen identities and were alive and well, living in Saudi Arabia, Morocco, Behind the 9/11 Commission: Flaws in the Process

Mr. JOHN JUDGE: This Commission’s report is not a rush to judgment. It’s rather a careful, complete, andghiely lighthed examination of the facts. We hold people accountable. By approaching the whole matter as an intelligence failure in the report, it obscured the evidence that officials in the government had not been providing answers to critical questions that it should have been asking. The government in the years before 9/11 fell apart, apparently, in the same manner and on that day. It led to it a pursuing leads and suspiciously documented. We report without doing further follow up, blaming others, and people come forward saying that their identity was stolen, basically, by computer. We left with a story that the one that comes from the people that we can’t get to, and we are left with a story that perhaps is giving us the wrong direction in terms of how we are looking. Until we open up the report and until we can look at the actual evidence and compare it, and begin to actually investigate further on many of the areas that the Commission has done, a report that doesn’t even serve the mandate to take care of, looking at the truth of terrorist acts upon the United States.

Mr. MELVIN GOODMAN: The most important individual to me, other than a commission member, you might consider the author, Philip Zelikow. His conflicts of interests were so great that you do have to wonder why this individual was appointed to head this important staff of over 80 people. He had very strong ties to the George Herbert Walker Bush Administration. Very strong personal and political and policy ties to Condeleeza Rice. Many of us have heard Philip Zelikow was running the case study program at Harvard which took millions of dollars from the Central Intelligence Agency over a ten year period to write case studies on the CIA, to establish a record that was essentially untraceable with the facts about the work of the CIA. Of course, the classic case study that Philip Zelikow chaired, along with Ernest May, who was his patron at the Harvard Kennedy School, was the case on the Soviet Union, how the CIA got it right. You know, the political generals are revered in the United States, one of the greatest disasters of politicization of intelligence that occurred before the Iraq war was over the politicization of intelligence on the Soviet Union. Who did Philip Zelikow bring into the staff structure as a team leader on his staff? None other than Douglas MacEachin, who was serving a tour up at the Harvard Kennedy School. Who was Douglas MacEachin? Douglas MacEachin was the head of the Soviet analytic team. He was responsible for most of the politicization of intelligence. Here you have Philip Zelikow from Harvard and the case study program, Douglas MacEachin, then the chief intelligence leader on Zelikow’s staff, making serious decisions about the need for change within the intelligence community.

Omissions and Errors in the Commission’s Final Report

Mr. PAUL THOMPSON: The 9/11 Commission claimed it was not until 9:20 when Indian- apolis communicated with the FAA com- mand center and notified them that Flight 77 was missing, and then the information started to get out to other command centers, but still, even today, we are talking about over half an hour later, the plane has been missing, still no one notifies NORAD, until finally 9:34, three minutes before the plane crashed into the Pentagon. This is in- advertently in passing when talking about with something else.

In order for this to be true, the 9/11 Com- mission is making the claim essentially that the Indianapolis flight control center and the local FAA center that they contacted, they contacted an FAA center that was outside of the United States, that they were unaware, unlike the tens of millions of people who had been watching CNN, that there was an ongoing crisis, that planes had crashed into the World Trade Center, two planes. They are saying that all the way until 9:20, there has been over half an hour now where this has been the breaking news, that there is not a single person in this entire Indian flight control center or the FAA center had any idea that any of this had been happening.

We know that just isn’t true. In fact, there was one new report saying that other cen- ters did turn over. Of course, they had not been notified of the crisis long before the first plane even crashed into the World Trade Center. What we see is an account coming from the 9/11 Commission that in my opinion is just frankly impossible.

Mr. JOHN NEWMAN: An FBI team work- ing with cell phone numbers provided by In- dian intelligence uncovered a new smoking gun. They learned that the chief of the ISI, Musharraf, Ahmed bin al-Shibh, sent Saeed Sheikh to send $100,000 of the kidnapping ransom to Mohamed Atta a month before the 9/11 at- tacks. This ugly detail emerged when the FBI ran traces on Saeed Sheikh’s cell phone number beginning in July; the ISI chief’s number was among the regular people that Saeed Sheikh communicated with. On October 7th, President Musharraf, Ahmed for this notorious act. This story was widely covered in the press around the world, not covered here in the United States . . . It is far more damaging than the fact that Pakistan’s intel- ligence service and most powerful Army commanders were behind the 9/11 attacks and the paymaster, a known terrorist who had been able to carry out his mission be- cause the U.S. and U.K. had set aside justice for his crimes . . . that a sovereign govern- ment and supposed ally was so directly in- volved in the 9/11 attrition must have stunned and deeply embarrassed the American Ad- ministration . . . Ms. LORETTA NAPOLIONE: . . . we need to implement a forward looking anti-terrorist policy, one which predicts the enemy’s next move. We need a forward looking anti-terrorist financing policy should look at the situation in Congo, isolated as a potential area where terrorist financing could take place. In order to prevent it, it should be dismantled this business of smuggling gold . . . . Of course, a forward looking approach in the fight against terrorism will require the full participation of the international community and the international community should need to commit to a comprehensive, multilateral policy. One country alone, not even if it is the United States, can actually fight this war on terror alone. Among other things, an important part of this policy is to cut the link between crime and terror. Terror will not any longer be a very profitable partner for crime. Breaking the link between crime and terror would already be a step forward, which you have not yet made.

Ms. ANNE NORTON: Neoconservative foreign policy centers on a fear of world government and the international institutions that might lead to it, most notably, the United Nations, a rejection of multilateralism, and as they say, above all, the ability to distinguish neoconservatives from radicals with regard neoconservatism with special skepticism, and they do so, as you might have already noticed, because they know that geniuses all too well, the desire for the combination of traditional values, the desire for an expansion of executive power, the ambition to create a new world order, and the identification of a providential enemy are all parts of a very familiar past, the shadows of German nationalism and 19th Century European empires fall very heavily on the neoconservative project. As the Administration responded to 9/11, this influence became increasingly evident.

Mr. PETER DALE SCOTT: The 9/11 report describes Ali Mohamed as “a former Egyptian Army officer who had moved to the United States in the mid 1980s, enlisted in the U.S. Army, and became an instructor at Ft. Bragg, as well as helping to plan the bombing of the U.S. Embassy in Kenya.” In fact, Ali Mohamed was a very important al Qaeda figure. The 9/11 Commission Report states that he was “close to” Bin Laden, and that he “enjoyed U.S. soldiers.” In 1993, he was detained by the United States in the course of a secret agreement between the U.S. and Saudi Arabia. Under this deal, al Qaeda was clearly close to. . . . The amazing thing, although he was not a significant brains in al Qaeda was al Zawahiri, who independently say the main figure and the chief genitor all too well, the desire for the combination of traditional values, the desire for an expansion of executive power, the ambition to create a new world order, and the identification of a providential enemy are all parts of a very familiar past, the shadows of German nationalism and 19th Century European empires fall very heavily on the neoconservative project. As the Administration responded to 9/11, this influence became increasingly evident.

Mr. WAYNE SMITH: The 9/11 Commission report says that the United States should engage its friends to develop a common coalition approach toward terrorism and humane treatment of captured terrorists. New principles might draw upon Article 3 of the Geneva Conventions, or perhaps even the laws of war. In other words, these are in which our Government tells us the Geneva Conventions do not apply. The minimum standards are generally accepted throughout the world as customary international law. What does Article 3 call for? Well, among other things, it prohibits outrages . . . upon personal dignity, in particular, humiliating and degrading treatment. All these practices of stripping the prisoners of their underwear or perhaps even men’s underwear on their heads, is degrading treatment. It is prohibited by international law! . . . I’m not ageless, but I have lived a long time, and I don’t remember ever having been ashamed of what we were doing to foreign prisoners. In World War II, we didn’t. War who say we say soldiers. Even German spies arrested in the United States were not treated in a degrading manner . . . This is not an intelligent end . . . . . We ought to get back to full respect for international law, and fully humane treatment of all prisoners, without any exception.

Mr. ROBERT MCLIVAIN: I have an unbeatable opportunity to go to Bogota. I haven’t flown since 9/11. Not that I’m not afraid, but I just won’t fly. I’ve learned too much about the shoe bomber. I’m just not going to leave the country. Bogota, they have an international conference on violence and terrorism, and they called me to speak down there. I decided to do it. There were probably about 2,000 people in the auditorium, the first two rows were all victims of the war who you and I know. Victims of terrorism. I had dinner with one burn victim, 75 percent of her body, an African/Colombian. She lost her three children and her husband, I said, I can’t imagine how it felt to be a burn victim, she could sit there and laugh with me, because you have a bond with people who have suffered. That is what we have to think about. It’s the civilians, the 25,000 civilians in Iraq that have died, and 500,000 people in Iraq that have died in the 1990s. What is this foreign policy that we have, that FAX from Pax Americana. In Latin, does that not mean American peace? Have we perpetrated peace in this world? Have we, since 1945? I think not.

Domestic Policy: Immediate Response and Recommendations

Ms. ELAINE CASSEL: Four years since September 11th, almost four years, and one of the recommendations of the 9/11 Commission reports is that critical infrastructures and resources are unprotected, and protections are unplanned, as far as I know. Co-Chair of the panel, Lee Hamilton, mentioned that this morning in a press briefing. He was very frustrated by that, and he mentioned these are difficult tasks to take on. Yes . . . it’s hard to try to assess the risk to our critical infrastructure and to intervene and prevention . . . . It’s easy to open a file on demonstrators against the Administration’s policies and conduct surveillance on the ACLU and Greenpeace, as the Washington Post reported last week. I seriously doubt that the ACLU and Greenpeace are terrorist organizations. In fact, if they were, there would be these varied parallel developments, including, of course, the conflicts in Iraq and Afghanistan, the situation in military commissions in Camp Delta, Guantanamo Bay, which continue to unfold as we dispense with the legal preliminaries, and U.S. citizens held as enemy combatants, come to a single point, which should be considered as we consider policies with this nation, what might be on the horizon at that point. Here they are, 12 common characteristics of a national security state:

1. Increase in uniformed security personnel.
2. Lack of civil accountability for the actions of law enforcement and security personnel.
3. Reduced role of the judiciary and executive treatment of suspects.
4. Secrecy of ruling authority and moment of the threat.
5. Media in the service of the state.
6. Public and national resources called to service against security threat.
7. Patriotism moving to nationalism.
8. Lack of critical response by religious denominations.
9. War time mentality and permanent war economy.
10. Armed individuals or groups.
11. Direct attack against dissent.
12. Increased surveillance of citizens.

Intelligence Reform: Immediate Response and Recommendations

Mr. DAVID MACMICHAEL: The quote I want to give you is from a book written by a very interesting man, now deceased, ARThUR MOORE. He was the principal assistant when George Kennan, post World War II, was head of the State Department’s Planning Office . . . His book is called The Myth of the Peril of Secret Government . . . published by Beacon Press in 1975:

Terrorism is a disease that must be treated. You can’t usually treat a disease by trying to destroy the cause. You usually treat a disease by trying to treat what it is that is causing the disease. Therefore, we should attempt to destroy the cause of terrorism, but we should also attempt to treat the disease of terrorism.
Mr. JOHN NUTTER: As I listened to David, I was struck by the various documents that I’ve read in my scholarship, documents like the Tower Commission report on Iran Contra, the Church Committee, the Plie Committee, and its recommendations, the Taylor Committee, which some of you may recognize as the committee in the aftermath of the Bay of Pigs... One could very easily take the recommendations from any of those reports, cut and paste them into the 9/11 Commission, and you wouldn’t be able to tell the difference.

Closing Remarks

Rep. CYNTHIA MCKINNEY: I would just like to say after we have heard all of the testimony that has been presented to us today, there is one thing that is very clear, and that is that we must know what our Government is doing in our name. The American people have to inform themselves, despite the failure of the corporate press, to investigate the information in the public domain that provides answers to our questions. Today is a very special day because we have brought truth to Capitol Hill.

INCREASING THE AUTHORIZED PERIOD OF STAY FOR THE GUAM VISA WAIVER PROGRAM

HON. MADELEINE Z. BORDALLO
OF GUAM
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, October 26, 2005

Ms. BORDALLO. Mr. Speaker, today I have introduced legislation to increase the period of authorized stay for the Guam Visa Waiver Program to mirror the period of authorized stay established in law for the nationwide Visa Waiver Program. I have introduced this bill at the request of both the Governor and the Lieutenant Governor of Guam.

The Guam Visa Waiver Program was authorized by the Omnibus Territories Act of 1986 (Public Law 99-396). This program was established to largely complement the nationwide Visa Waiver Program, which was permanently authorized by Congress in 2000 (Public Law 106-398), and to strengthen economic and cultural ties with nations in East Asia and the Pacific Rim.

Today there are currently 27 countries participating in the nationwide Visa Waiver Program, while an additional ten countries are authorized to participate in the Guam Visa Waiver Program. These ten countries, which were added to the program as participants through the State Department rulemaking process, are as follows: Brunei, Indonesia, the Republic of Korea, Malaysia, Nauru, Papua New Guinea, the Solomon Islands, Taiwan, the possessions of the United Kingdom, Vanuatu and Western Samoa.

Under current law, nonimmigrant visitors arriving in the United States, including Guam, through the national Visa Waiver Program are permitted entry for pleasure for a period not to exceed 90 days. However, nonimmigrant visitors arriving in Guam from any of the ten countries currently participating in the Guam Visa Waiver Program are permitted entry for business or pleasure for a period not to exceed 90 days. However, nonimmigrant visitors arriving in Guam from any of the ten countries currently participating in the Guam Visa Waiver Program are permitted entry for business or pleasure for a period not to exceed 90 days.

I believe that establishing consistency in the authorized periods of stay under both programs will improve the administration of the Guam Visa Waiver Program. Additionally, extending the period of authorized stay for the Guam Visa Waiver Program could potentially boost tourism for Guam.

Tourism is a key sector of Guam’s economy, and the Guam Visa Waiver Program has been central to increased international travel to Guam since its implementation in 1998. I believe this program can be strengthened with an increased authorized period of stay.

This bill has been co-sponsored by the Chairman and the Ranking Member of the House Small Business Committee, Mr. MANZullo and Ms. VELAZQUEZ, respectively. Their support is especially appreciated given the fact that this bill will support many small businesses in Guam which are a part of the visitor industry. Additionally, Mr. ABERCROMBIE, Mr. BURTON, Mrs. CHRISTENSEN, Mr. FALEOMAVAEGA, and Mr. FARR are original co-sponsors of this bill. I look forward to building more support for this bill in the 109th Congress and to working with the leadership of the House Judiciary Committee on this issue.

HONORING MAJOR GENERAL WILLIAM E. POTTS
OF TENNESSEE
FOR FAITHFUL SERVICE TO STATE AND NATION

HON. LINCOLN DAVIS
OF TENNESSEE
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, October 27, 2005

Mr. DAVIS of Tennessee. Mr. Speaker, during a ceremony on November 11, 2005 in Columbia, Tennessee, the late Major General William E. Potts will be recognized for his service to his state and nation. The Veteran’s Plaza on the grounds of the Maury County Courthouse will be named the Major General William E. Potts Veterans Memorial Plaza, with a plaque placed as a permanent memorial to his memory.

Major General Potts was born December 9, 1935 in Nashville. He later moved to Columbia with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Madden Potts. He graduated from Columbia Central High School and Vanderbilt University. Having played football in high school and college he helped his Commodores defeat Auburn in the 1955 Gator Bowl.

Upon graduation from Vanderbilt in 1958, General Potts was commissioned a second lieutenant in the U.S. Army. He studied Turkish at the Army’s language school and graduated from both the Command and General Staff College and the Industrial College of the Armed Forces. He also earned a master’s degree in public administration from Middle Tennessee State University.

General Potts was company commander of the 801st Maintenance Battalion, 101st Airborne Division, served as an adviser in Vietnam and Army Attaché in Ankara, Turkey, and battalion commander of the 702nd Maintenance Battalion, Second Infantry Division in Korea. After being assigned to the Pentagon he was made Deputy Commanding General for research and development, Army Missile Command, Redstone Arsenal in Huntsville before assuming command of the Army’s Ordnance Center and School at Aberdeen Proving Ground, Maryland.

General Potts passed away February 29, 2004 at Walter Reed Army Hospital, and was... in pursuing this path, were unable to do so due to their fragile health. From the very beginning, the Monastery of the Holy Cross formed on the Rule of Saint Benedictine which emphasizes a listening heart, obedience, silence, and humility. In 1930, during a Mass celebrated in the crypt of Montmartre, Mother Marie des Douleurs and the first sisters were consecrated and their journey began.

The Monastery of the Glorious Cross in Branford, Connecticut was established just fifty years ago and is the only order of the Benedictines of Jesus Crucified in the United States. Houses of worship play a critical role in all of our communities. It is to these walls that so many turn in times of their greatest need. The Congregation at the Monastery of the Glorious Cross has always opened its doors to those in need of spiritual guidance and comfort. The public is welcomed to celebrate their daily Mass, the community sponsors a monthly day of recollection, and they also provide Mass cards and spiritual bouquets. It has been through their generosity and compassion that the Monastery of the Glorious Cross has become a local treasure. Every community should be so fortunate.

Today, as they celebrate their Golden Jubilee, the Sisters of the Monastery of the Glorious Cross will reflect on their own history as well as all that they have given to our community. It is my great pleasure to join Sister Mary Agatha, the Superior of the community, and all of the sisters of the Monastery of the Glorious Cross as they celebrate this very special occasion. I am honored to extend my deepest thanks and appreciation to them for all of their good work.

HONORING MR. FRANK D. LINN, SR ON HIS 50TH ANNIVERSARY AS SANTA CLAUS

HON. TIM HOLDEN
OF PENNSYLVANIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, October 27, 2005

Mr. HOLDEN. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor Mr. Frank D. Linn, Sr. of Lower Swatara Township, Middletown, Pennsylvania as he celebrates fifty years of selfless and heartfelt service to the children and families of Dauphin County, Pennsylvania as Santa Claus. Mr. Linn has given of his time and effort making thousands of children happy as “The Jolly Old Man with the Beard” since 1955. Acting as Santa in a shopping center and at private home parties, he also spreads the spirit of the holidays making visits and toy deliveries to around seventy-five homes at Christmastime.

A graduate of Central Dauphin High School, Mr. Linn has been employed with the House of Representatives, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for the past forty-three years serving as Specialist in Intergovernmental Affairs to the Speaker of the House for Speaker Matthew J. Ryan and currently Speaker John M. Carter for his many years of dedicated service.
When you look at everything Jeanette has accomplished in a mere 78 years, it is clear she is a woman of fierce commitment, incommensurable energy and true generosity. As someone fortunate to have worked with Jeanette on various community initiatives, I can tell you there is no better person to have on your team when you launch a new project.

Born October 27th, 1927 in Sheffield, Alabama, Jeanette enrolled in the Saint Thomas Hospital School of Nursing in Nashville following high school graduation. She received her nursing degree in 1948. That occasion changed her life—along with the fact that she also met her future husband, Mr. Daniel Clees Rudy, about this time.

Daniel Clees Rudy, cofounder of the Rudy's Farm Sausage Company, and Jeanette married on February 20th, 1949. The Rudys made their home in the Pennington Bend area on the Cumberland River until Mr. Rudy's death in 1984.

Jeanette served her community as a public health nurse for seven years. But that was just the beginning to her commitment to better health care for all of Nashville. In memory of her late husband, Jeanette helped to establish and fund the Dan Rudy Cancer Center at Saint Thomas in 1985. Also in 1985, Jeanette and her sisters, founded the Felix A. and Edna L. Cantrell Endowment Fund in honor of their parents. This special endowment has helped a host of nurses reach their educational goals and advance in the nursing field. A long-time supporter of the nursing program at Cumberland University in Lebanon, Tennessee, Jeanette was recognized for her efforts with an honorary doctorate of humanities from Cumberland University in 1990.

In her commitment to public service, Jeanette is a passionate lobbyist. She has assembled the finest privately held collection of State and Federal duck stamps, including the very first stamp issued in 1934. Jeanette served as a judge of the Federal duck stamp competition in Washington, D.C. in 1992. In 1996, the Smithsonian Institution established, in her honor, the Jeanette Cantrell Rudy Duck Stamp Gallery at the National Postal Museum.

Jeanette's energy and zest for life do not stop there. An avid outdoorswoman, she held the title of Ladies State Trappshooting Champion for nine years, was named to the women's all-American trap team twice, and has been an ardent hunter and angler since 1949 over much of North America. Jeanette has also spent endless hours helping many organizations and educational institutions in Middle Tennessee. She served on the boards of Cumberland University, the Saint Thomas Hospital Auxiliary, the Saint Thomas Foundation and the Nashville Zoo, and she is a major supporter of the Nashville Police and Fire Department and the National Police Memorial in Washington, DC.

She is the recipient of the 1992 Seton Medal for her service to patients of Saint Thomas Hospital. She authored a book, "A Bend in the Cumberland," which traces the history of the Pennington Bend area, where, for many years, her husband and his brother operated the Rudy’s Farm Sausage Company. And, now, as a Commissioner of the Tennessee Resources Agency since 2001, Jeanette is dedicated to raising funds for projects that will help preserve, conserve and enhance Tennessee’s population of fish and wildlife.

Jeanette’s devotion to public service and her long-standing advocacy for nursing are truly remarkable. I thank this spirited American for her unwavering compassion and desire to make life more positive for others in her community.

Today, I join my distinguished colleagues—Representatives BART GORDON and JOHN TANNER—and all Tennesseans in congratulating and extending our warmest and best wishes to Jeanette Cantrell Rudy for a happy 78th birthday. Jeanette, may you have many more rewarding and life-enriching experiences ahead.

On H. Con. Res. 269, a resolution recognizing the 40th anniversary of the White House Fellows Program, I would have voted “yea.” On H.R. 3256, a bill to designate the facility of the United States Postal Service located at 1038 West Liberty, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, as the “Congressman James Grove Fulton Memorial Post Office Building,” I would have voted “yea.”

OF PENNSYLVANIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, October 27, 2005

Mr. SCHWARTZ of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, as the proud congressional representative of Abington Township, a township that was recently named one of the 100 best communities for young people by America’s Promise—the Alliance for Youth.

The Alliance for Youth and its Founding Chairman, General Colin Powell, launched this first-ever national competition to pay tribute to the communities working hard to advance our nation’s youth. And, there is no doubt that Abington Township worked hard to earn this honorable distinction.

I have had the privilege of representing Abington; first from my seat in the Pennsylvania State Senate and now as a member of Congress. Over the years, I have seen first-hand the community’s unity, especially when it comes to advancing the lives of its young people.

Together, Abington’s school district, police department, community organizations, businesses, and residents have worked hand-in-hand to create an environment that embraces its young residents. They’ve established the Abington Community Taskforce, which is comprised of parents, caregivers, religious and civic leaders and has launched programs to teach effective parenting skills, create tolerance and respect, and promote community safety. They’ve successfully established cooperative agreements between the school district and police department, including an anti-drug program and joint fundraising challenges. And, they’ve created the Community Partnership of Youth and Adults to mobilize community spirit and participation.

Abington was included on the America’s Promise list because it has demonstrated true public leadership with regard to the needs of children.

Mr. Speaker, I couldn’t be prouder of Abington for the outstanding work it has done on behalf of young people, and I look forward to working too with area officials to make sure our neighborhood remains a safe and caring environment.

So again, congratulations to Abington on their selection as one of the 100 Best Communities for Young People. Keep up the good work!
THREE TRIBUTES

HON. STENY H. HOYER
OF MARYLAND
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, October 26, 2005

Mr. HOYER. Mr. Speaker, in February of 1913, an extraordinary lady was born and 42 years later she refused to give her seat up on a bus in Montgomery, Alabama. Her actions had an extraordinarily positive impact on America, and on focusing Americans’ attention on the fact that they were, as Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., said, not fulfilling our Nation’s promise of equality and justice. And so we note the passing of Rosa Parks at the age of 92. She made an extraordinary contribution, not just to our country, but to the concept of equality and dignity of human beings around the world.

Rosa Parks was a civil rights icon and a national treasure. Her simple, dignified act nearly half a century ago—defiance of a racist law that denied her humanity—helped galvanize the civil rights movement and delivered a moral body blow to segregationist laws that stain our Nation’s history.

Ms. Parks’ life is a testament to the truth that one person with courage and an unshakable will can change a Nation and begin to right wrongs. Her legacy will endure, not only through her personal acts of courage and strength, but also through the thousands of activists who were inspired by her.

Ms. Parks risked everything, including her life, for a cause that she knew in her heart was right. We are a better Nation today as the result of her courage and vision. And, we should honor her memory by continuing the fight for equality, decency and basic human rights.

HIAWTHI WILLIAMS—SALUTE TO HURRICANE VOLUNTEERS

HON. MICHAEL C. BURGESS
OF TEXAS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, October 27, 2005

Mr. BURGESS. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to salute those individuals and organizations that opened their hearts and dedicated both financial and emotional support to evacuees of Hurricane Katrina and Hurricane Rita. All of the States along the gulf coast have endured terrible hardships during this hurricane season, and I know that the generosity of North Texans played a vital role in bringing some peace into their lives.

Today, I want to specifically thank one man, his company and his donation, Hiawthi Williams, the owner of Williams Chicken donated 200 pieces of chicken for volunteers during hurricane Katrina.

Williams Chicken was first opened in 1987 and has rapidly grown since. Today, with over 50 stores in operation, the company continues to grow. Notwithstanding the market research, the chain admits the real secret to the company’s success is staying true to their philosophy, “To Save, Grow and Give Back to the Community.”

I stand here today to sincerely thank Hiawthi Williams for his donation. It is people like him that I am proud to call a fellow Texan. Through his contribution, he not only stands as a devoted and giving American citizen, but he serves as an inspiration to others.

HONORING HERMAN WOLF FOR HIS LIFETIME OF PUBLIC SERVICE

HON. ROSA L. DELAURO OF CONNECTICUT
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, October 27, 2005

Ms. DELAURO. Mr. Speaker, it is with a heavy heart that I rise today to pay tribute to the remarkable life and legacy of a dear friend, Herman Wolf. In a career that spanned eight decades, his influence on State and national politics garnered him a respected reputation with Democrats and Republicans alike. At the age of 93, Herman passed away this past week, marking the end of an era in Connecticut politics.

A gifted public relations guru and a talented political strategist, Herman spent a lifetime working to improve the quality of life for all people. His dedication and commitment to social justice never wavered—in fact he never stopped, working up until the time of his passing. Herman was an activist, advocate and leader who provided a strong voice to those most in need.

In his earliest years in Connecticut, Herman was best known as a top advisor to Governors Abe Ribicoff, John Dempsey, and Ella T. Grasso. He served as executive aide to then Governor Ribicoff and was an integral part of his successful election to the United States Senate. In addition to his involvement with local campaigns, Herman was also an advisor to State and National Democratic Party Chairman John Bailey. Working with some of our State’s most powerful modern political leaders, Herman helped to shape decades of public policy.

In addition to his role as a political strategist, Herman also ran a successful public relations firm, Herman Wolf Associates. He represented over 100 clients including prominent labor unions like the AFL-CIO, businesses such as United Technologies and Guiness Stout, and non-profit organizations such as the Ford Foundation, the NAACP, and the American Shakespeare Festival. Herman would later become executive vice-president of the Design Science Institute of Washington, DC, a group dedicated to furthering the work of inventor and philosopher R. Buckminster Fuller. Working with some of our State’s most powerful modern political leaders, Herman helped to shape decades of public policy.

For Herman, his work was about more than promoting an agenda. He had deep convictions, and indomitable spirit. His work reflected his strong belief in leveling the playing field for all Americans. He firmly believed that the government had a responsibility to provide for our most vulnerable citizens and ensure that their needs received the same attention as those more fortunate. Herman’s energy, enthusiasm and commitment not only made him a success but inspired others to greatness as well. He left an indelible mark on our communities, the State of Connecticut, and our Nation—a legacy that will undoubtedly be remembered by history.

I extend my deepest sympathy to his wife, Monica; his children, David, Bill, Fay, and Louise; and their families. Herman Wolf was an extraordinary individual with a unique dedication to public service that touched the lives of many. Though he will be missed, his legacy will continue to inspire generations to come.

IN RECOGNITION OF DR. N. RAO CHAVA

HON. MIKE ROGERS OF ALABAMA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, October 27, 2005

Mr. ROGERS of Alabama. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to Dr. N. Rao Chava of Montgomery, Alabama. Dr. Chava is a highly accomplished medical doctor and administrator, and will soon be retiring as Director of the Central Alabama Veterans Health Care System hospital in Macon County.

In 1974, Dr. Chava began his career with the Department of Veterans Affairs as an internal medicine resident. As a naturalized United States citizen, he has devoted himself to VA Medical Centers in both West Virginia and Alabama. Dr. Chava was certified by the American Board of Internal Medicine and received a Certificate for Added Qualifications in Geriatric Medicine. He is also a Fellow for the American College of Physicians and a member of the American Geriatrics Society, the American College of Physicians Executives, and the American College of Healthcare Executives.

Our nation’s veterans deserve the highest quality care available, and I know Dr. Chava has spent much of his career caring for their needs. He will be missed. I congratulate Dr. Chava for his many accomplishments over the years, and wish him all the best in his retirement.

IN RECOGNITION OF HISPANIC LEADERS AND IN COMMEMORATION OF HISPANIC HERITAGE MONTH

HON. NYDIA M. VELÁZQUEZ
OF NEW YORK
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, October 27, 2005

Ms. VELÁZQUEZ. Mr. Speaker, I rise today on the floor of the U.S. House of Representatives in commemoration of Hispanic Heritage Month to recognize and celebrate the outstanding achievements of remarkable leaders of the Hispanic community. I am honored to acknowledge the wonderful contributions of Margaretta Rosa Esq., Frances Lucerna, Dr. Maria Montes, Elizabeth C. Yeampierre and Rev. Jorge L. Roa, Jr. These individuals have been a true inspiration, working tirelessly to better the lives of New Yorkers and the Hispanic community by making a positive impact in our community.

Through devotion and commitment, these extraordinary role models have excelled in their strong community service and diligent work to improve the quality of life in many disenfranchised neighborhoods, encouraging the next generation of Latino leaders. A living example of this arduous dedication is Ms. Margarita Rosa who is the Executive Director of Grand Street Settlement, a New York based community organization whose primary vision is to improve the lives of those less fortunate or disadvantaged by encouraging self-determination through learning advocacy, support and community building.

Margarita has been a steadfast, passionate advocate of human rights, as the first Hispanic woman to serve on the New York Commission on Human Rights in the early 1990’s. Working at the local government level gave her the unique perspective of understanding how public policy affects diverse communities. Margarita’s accomplishments have been impressive — being honored for her eager public service dedication, she received a prestigious teaching fellowship award, and is currently an active member of several Boards of Directors for organizations such as the Public Interest Law Foundation at New York University, the National Lawyers Guild, the Lower East Side Gay & Lesbian Services Center, the Brooklyn Community Foundation, and the Lower East Side Family Union. These endeavors are a mere representation of Margarita’s achievements and willingness to continue empowering those in need.

Another notable and distinguished leader has been an energetic force and true pioneer in the world of cultural and performing arts. Ms. Frances Lucerna founded the Williamsburg Arts and Cultural Council for Youth, a community performing visual arts program for young people. She later became the founder and Executive Director of El Puente Academy for Peace and Justice, a Brooklyn youth-based community development organization nurturing leadership for peace and social justice. Her leadership and activism in her mission motivated her to develop one of the most comprehensive Latino arts and cultural center, which provide young students with the opportunity to express themselves artistically.

As a strong advocate for education and a loving artist, Frances has broken barriers by channeling the talent and skill of thousands of youngsters into a bright path and a hopeful future for many within the community. As a visionary with an artistic soul, Frances has achieved many high recognitions highlighting her efforts in 1998 Heinz Award for the Human Condition, and being appointed to the Advisory Committee to the President’s Committee on the Arts and Humanities, and the Community School Task Force for the White House Conference on Character Building for a Democratic Civil Society. She has also served on the Boards of Directors of the Arts Center of the Brooklyn Academy of Music and the Community Youth Development Guide Team of the National Network for Youth.

Amidst the remarkable and impacting higher education is Dr. Maria Montes Morales, Vice-President and Dean of Academic Affairs at Boricua College. Dr. Montes Morales understood the critical value of education and how peoples’ lives could be transformed if individuals realized the opportunity to address injustices faced by Latinos, which allowed her to make a difference and change the traditional college learning environment. Her vision and commitment to educate and empower Latinos in New York City motivated her to help establish the first Boricua College campus in Williamsburg, Brooklyn which opened in 1974.

This was a tremendous achievement for the community, especially since many of the Williamsburg residents were Spanish speaking and interested in furthering their education at an institution that was culturally sensitive, community based, competitive and accessible. Since its creation, thousands of students have graduated from this Boricua College campus, with many remaining in the community and providing professional services. Maria’s contribution to higher education for all students, especially Latinos, is highly commendable. Her leadership at Boricua College successfully promotes student learning through planned participation in meaningful and planned service experiences in the community that are directly related to course content. With a humanitarian approach, such as a sense of civic responsibility, self-awareness, and commitment to the community, Dr. Montes Morales makes Boricua College an outstanding and unique higher learning institution in New York City.

Mr. Speaker, I am also proud to celebrate Hispanic Heritage Month by recognizing the great efforts of Mrs. Elizabeth C. Yeampierre, Executive Director of the United Puerto Rican Organization of Sunset Park (UPROSE), Brooklyn’s oldest Latino community-based organization. Under Elizabeth’s leadership, UPROSE has become the frontier organization on multifaceted environmental justice issues impacting the community. Its “Youth Justice” program has set a path to several victories advocating on behalf of low-income and minority communities that are environmentally overburdened.

Elizabeth’s dedication and endeavors at UPROSE have included promoting youth, family, and community, and creating awareness for environmental issues impacting the living conditions of residents in Sunset Park. Her accomplishments range from successfully leading UPROSE in opposition to the Sunset Energy Fleet 520—a power plant proposed to place two power plants in the area—to campaigning against the placement of a sewage sludge treatment plant in Sunset Park, and advocating the prevention of child lead paint poisoning.

Elizabeth has also created an effective “Youth Justice” program that provides young environmental activists across the country with opportunities to promote environmental issues. As a result, these young leaders were able to organize the first environmental justice conference in Sunset Park. The outstanding work and contributions of UPROSE under Elizabeth’s leadership has had a valuable impact on the residents of Sunset Park.

Mr. Speaker, I would also like to commend and acknowledge the highly regarded work of Reverend Dr. Henry McGill, Jr. As a native of Brooklyn and a devoted pastor who committed his life to God, and assisting those most in need, including youngsters and the Hispanic community. Rev. Roa has been a true inspiration who has excelled in promoting youth programs within his church, “the Missionary Christian Church,” in Manhattan where he preaches and is very pro-active on social and justice issues.

Rev. Roa has touched many lives by helping his community seek spiritual guidance and a path, collaborating in missionary projects such as rebuilding churches, and collecting and donations for relief efforts for the victims of Hurricane Katrina. He has been a humanitarian champion in this country and abroad, taking part in missions providing food, water, medicine and other resources to impoverished communities throughout different countries, including Latin America and Africa.

Rev. Roa, is also the program director of a radio and TV show known as “En sus Pasos” which is transmitted in New York. He is also the author of a renowned book, “Una Luz de Dios, La Historia de la Iglesia Cristiana Misionera,” “A light of God, the History of the Christian Missionary Church.” Rev. Roa’s true vocation has enlightened the community and changed the lives of many youngsters throughout his 24 years of ministry. His excellence in leadership and service is laudable for Latinos and residents of the Manhattan community and beyond.

Mr. Speaker, it is truly an honor for me to rise today and recognize these wonderful Hispanic leaders who I firmly believe possess key elements that strengthen our culture, community and nation. In commemoration of Hispanic Heritage Month, it is truly and especially important to emphasize that these individuals and these exemplary individuals and their commitment have demonstrated in breaking down stereotypes about Latinos, and empowering the Hispanic American community.

TRIBUTE TO REV. DR. HENRY MCGILL, JR.

HON. JAMES E. CLYBURN
OF SOUTH CAROLINA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, October 27, 2005

Mr. CLYBURN. Mr. Speaker, it is my honor to pay tribute today to the extraordinary pastor of Mt. Pisgah Baptist Church of Marion, South Carolina. For more than 40 years of dedicated service and compassionate leadership, Reverend Dr. Henry McGill, Jr. has served his parishioners and community with great respect and dignity. He has spent decades reaching out to those in need of strengthened faith and fellowship.

Reverend McGill grew up the son of a deacon and quickly incorporated strong values and understanding of others in his everyday life. His education started in a one-room schoolhouse in Lake City, South Carolina. He went on from that meager beginning to achieve degrees in social studies and divinity at Morris College in Sumter, South Carolina. He heard and heeded the call to enter the ministry at an early age and focused his life on the teachings of peace and cooperation among all people. Reverend McGill’s expertise on theology has also earned him positions among some of the most prestigious public service boards, as well as university and ministerial committees. He continues to be a devoted advocate of the church in sharing his thoughts on fairness and finding the good in every person. Because of his widely-honored achievements in academia and religious education the Manhattan School of Theology in New York awarded him an honorary degree.

A successful businessman, Reverend McGill owned the funeral home founded by his father-in-law, Henry L. Jackson, for many years. He has since passed the family business, Jackson & McGill Funeral Home Service, to the third generation of owners.

I am pleased to join the parishioners of Mt. Pisgah Baptist Church and so many other grateful members of the community in thanking Reverend McGill for always searching to find what is best for his church, his community and his state. He continues to respond to the needs of the less fortunate and putting education at the forefront of his message. His saying, “Everyone is someone special,” embodies his considerate and personal nature.

Mr. Speaker, I ask that you and my colleagues join me in paying tribute to Reverend Dr. Henry McGill, Jr. He is special to the people of his church and community, and I wish him good luck and Godspeed.

RECOGNIZING FORMER STATE REPRESENTATIVE JOE BATTISTO AS HE RECEIVES THE FIRST LIFETIME ACHIEVEMENT AWARD FROM THE MONROE COUNTY, PENNSYLVANIA, DEMOCRATS

HON. PAUL E. KANJORSKI
OF PENNSYLVANIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, October 27, 2005

Mr. KANJORSKI. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to ask you and my esteemed colleagues in the House of Representatives to pay tribute to former Pennsylvania State Representative Joe Battisto, of Monroe County, on the occasion of receiving the first annual Lifetime Achievement Award from the Monroe County Democrats.

Joe Battisto distinguished himself during 18 years of public service in the Pennsylvania House of Representatives following a career as public school teacher and chairman of the language arts department of the Pocono Mountain School District.

Despite moving to the realm of public service, Joe was well known for maintaining his connection with the youth in his community and frequently served as mentor for young people who were behaviorally troubled.

Prior to being elected to the State House of Representatives, Joe served in the public arena first as a borough councilman in the Borough of Mount Pocono, rising to become the council president. He also served as mayor of Mount Pocono Borough.

Joe Battisto subsequently was a driving force in the formation of the Pocono Mountain Library and in the construction of a municipal sewage system.

He founded the Monroe County Litter Control and Beautification Task Force.

During his nearly 2 decades of service in the State House of Representatives, he served on the Education and Appropriations Committees and rose to become chairman of the Transportation Committee.

While serving as a State Representative, Joe launched the reconstruction of the Pocono Mountains Welcome Center, led the efforts to build the badly needed Marshalls Creek By-pass, and ensured the environmental cleanup of major industrial and disposal sites in Monroe County.

He also obtained funding for an open space trail system and for highway safety and signalization projects. He fought to preserve rights of way for possible future rail service to major metropolitan areas and highways.

In addition, he obtained funding for street lights in downtown Stroudsburg and streetscaping work in the Delaware Water Gap.

Joe Battisto was the first lawmaker to receive the prestigious East Stroudsburg University’s “Legislative Fellow” award created to establish a stronger bond between the university and elected state officials. The award was especially meaningful to Joe because he graduated from ESU in 1956.

Mr. Speaker, please join me in congratulating Joe Battisto on this auspicious occasion. The quality of life in Monroe County, Pennsylvania, has been made far better due to the achievements of Joe Battisto and others like him. His integrity and commitment to his community serve as wonderful examples of what it means to be a true public servant.

OXI DAY SPEECH

HON. CAROLYN B. MALONEY
OF NEW YORK
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, October 27, 2005

Mrs. MALONEY. Mr. Speaker, I rise to join the Hellenic-Americans and Philhellenes in my district and throughout the country in celebrating “OXI Day (No Day),” which falls on the 28th of October. This year marks the 65th anniversary of a very important day in Hellenic history, the day on which brave Greek patriots said “NO” to fascism, “NO” to injustice, and “NO” to slavery.

For those individuals who lived through that momentous period and their descendants, many of whom live in the 14th Congressional District of New York, “OXI Day” is more than a memory: it is the embodiment of Hellenism and its highest ideals.

On October 28, 1940, a terrifying sound went up throughout all Greek cities and towns, the sound of sirens and aixons announcing the invasion of Greece by the Nazis. Walls that before had echoed only with the tolling of church bells now reverberated with the din of alarms.

At a time when Europe was descending into the inferno of another world war, the people of Greece did not panic. Men went calmly to their closets and retrieved their military uniforms and weapons. Women went about their necessary tasks, and the children assisted as they were able. With level-headed determination and steadfast resolve, the citizenry of Greece mobilized against the coming invaders and delivered their resounding “NO!” to the Axis aggressors.

On OXI Day, the people of Greece chose the harder path, the path of resistance. If they had opened their gates to the invaders, much bloodshed and many depriations might have been avoided. That brave generation of Hellenes, refused to submit to oppression, even at the cost of their homes, their land, and their lives. They chose to fight and even to die so that their children and the children of other nations might live in liberty. Theirs was an act of self-sacrifice that clearly proclaimed the humanitarian ideals of their Orthodox Christian faith and their ethnic heritage.

Demonstrating poise under pressure, the heroes of that period fought against tyranny and delayed the Axis onslaught in the Balkan Peninsula. The Greek nation which said “OXI” contributed to the eventual downfall of the Fascist powers in Europe.

This year the Hellenic community is celebrating another great moment in their history, having successfully hosted a magnificent and peaceful Olympics at a time when terrorism imperils every public gathering. The smallest nation to ever host the Olympics, Greeks once again showed that they always rise to the occasion.

Mr. Speaker, I ask my colleagues to join me in saluting the heroes of OXI Day. In their brave words and deeds we see all of the highest virtues of Hellenic heritage: passion for justice, courage at a time of trial, unity in the midst of conflict, and willingness to sacrifice one’s life for the good of others. On this day, we thank Greece for saying “OXI!”

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD — Extensions of Remarks

E2197

Eve, have for years been generous enough to provide juice beverage products to the nation’s less fortunate through Rock and Wrap It Up! Inc., a nonprofit, nonpartisan hunger relief organization Bill helped to found.

Mr. Crane has been a true public servant in supplying nutritious food to those in need. He is the Co-Founder and Executive Vice President of Apple & Eve, LLC a manufacturer of premium fruit juices, which donates heavily to Rock and Wrap It Up! to further their cause. This is just one area of service and philanthropy in Mr. Crane’s life. He is also involved with many other charitable organizations, such as the Education Assistance Corporation, the American Diabetes Association, and Big Brothers/Big Sisters.

Through his efforts, Mr. Crane is helping to advance the vision of my husband, Bill Emerson, for domestic food aid programs when he worked to pass the Good Samaritan Food Act, a law protecting these donations from liability. Bill’s hopes for hunger relief in America were very high when he worked to make Rock and Wrap It Up! possible in 1990. Following in his dream was an ideal recipient of the Bill Emerson Good Samaritan Award.

Rock and Wrap It Up! is a volunteer hunger relief charity, which has fed over 20 million since its inception. With over 4,000 volunteers in 500 cities across America, its dedicated supporters recover food in schools, colleges, music concerts, sporting events, and political and corporate functions. Rock and Wrap It Up! was adopted by resolution in 2003 by the United States Conference of Mayors to teach its successful strategies to cities to fill America’s food pipeline to feed the indigent.

Caring and volunteering with Apple & Eve are a major reason the program continues to gain notoriety and grow. They are proof that our commitment to feed America’s hungry can always use new initiative and better ideas. As long as there are men, women, and children who need the helping hand of other Americans, we are glad that there are gentlemen like Mr. Crane.

Thank you for your kind service to our nation, Mr. Crane. Congratulations on earning the 2005 Bill Emerson Good Samaritan Award. Best of luck to you as you continue your work to help to improve the lives of the less fortunate in our great nation.

IN MEMORY OF DONALD STATIOS

HON. EARL BLUMENAUER
OF OREGON
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, October 27, 2005

Mr. BLUMENAUER. Mr. Speaker, this week we mark the passing of a unique and important figure in Oregon politics and civic life. Donald Statios was a small-business man, state legislator, and a creative and vibrant force in our community. He was best-known as the sponsor of Oregon’s Bike Bill in 1971 which created an allocation for cycling, long before the cycling craze hit this country. The bill was a typical act of foresight on behalf of an extraordinary man which led to our state’s leadership in promoting cycling for all ages.

Mr. Statios was a creative legislator not bound by narrow ideology or partisan interests. When there was a rash of campus and other violence and bombings during his career he had the courage to sponsor legislation dealing with the control of explosives and as a result had his office firebombed. Either a right-wing extremist or a printing error left his information out of the voting pamphlet in the state’s most populous county. Had this not of happened he might well have gone on to a statewide elected office; however, the man was not interested in the offices he held but rather by his beliefs.

Donald Statios’ zest for life and his friendship will be sorely missed.

Mr. DIAZ-BALART. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to salute those individuals and organizations that opened their hearts and dedicated both financial and emotional support to the evacuees of Hurricane Katrina and Hurricane Rita. All of the states along the Gulf Coast have endured terrible hardships during this hurricane season, and I know that the generosity of North Texans played a vital role in bringing some peace into their lives.

Today, I want to specifically thank one woman, her company and her donation. Kristi Christianson, from Town Place Suites by Marriott donated a case of shampoo for victims during hurricane Katrina.

Town Place Suites by Marriott is an extended stay hotel that takes pride in their friendly staff and neighborhood feel. Helping hurricane victims is certainly a good demonstration of the friendly staff.

I stand here today to sincerely thank Kristi Christianson for her donation. It is people like her that I am proud to call a fellow Texan.

Through her contribution, she not only stands as a devoted and giving American citizen, but she serves as an inspiration to others.

FEDERAL HOUSING FINANCE REFORM ACT OF 2005

SPEECH OF
HON. CAROLYN C. KILPATRICK
OF MICHIGAN
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Wednesday, October 26, 2005

The House in Committee of the Whole House on the State of the Union had under consideration the bill (H.R. 1461) to reform the regulation of certain housing-related Government-sponsored enterprises, and for other purposes:

Ms. KILPATRICK of Michigan. Mr. Chairman, it is with some reluctance I rise now in opposition to H.R. 1461, the Federal Housing Finance Reform Act. In its amended form, the legislation no longer puts the best interest of our Nation at heart, but instead holds a precarious resource hostage for the sake of par-isan politics.

The legislation restricting non-profit organizations, and their affiliates, from using their own funds to engage in non-partisan voter registration or get-out-the-vote activities if they want to apply for the much-needed affordable housing funds is entirely inappropriate. The inaptness is compounded by the fact that the language still allows for-profit institutions to engage in voter advocacy, even conducted in a partisan, biased manner. If the threat of misuse of these funds is so apparent as to warrant this amendment, why would we only restrict charitable organizations and not those whose fundamental goal is to swell business profits?

It is extremely apparent that the leadership’s priorities are backwards. Congress should be encouraging election activities promoting good citizenship conducted by unbiased, non-profit organizations, rather than restricting the types of aid these groups are allowed to provide. To add insult to injury, the new provision imposes a new burden of requiring these groups to list housing assistance as their “primary purpose” if they want to apply for funds. The effect of this constraint will be to reduce the diversity of assistance that will be available.

With such a growing need for affordable housing, and for competent groups capable of connecting people with the already scarce re-sources, I cannot imagine why my colleagues would want to handicap these organizations from providing assistance to our Nation’s most vulnerable populations. It is for these reasons I cannot support this otherwise sound and reasonable measure to improve the regulation of our Nation’s largest source of mortgages. I urge my colleagues to vote no on H.R. 1461.

IN HONOR OF OFFICER DAVID PERRY
HON. SAM FARR
OF CALIFORNIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, October 27, 2005

Mr. FARR. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor Police Officer David Perry for his service to our community. Mr. Perry has dedicated his life to protecting his country as well as his community, and for that I am grateful.

David Perry heroically served in the United States Marine Corps from 1983 to 1989. His service included a meritorious promotion to the Marine Security Guard Detachment in Calcutta, India. While serving in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, he was promoted to Sergeant and honorably discharged from active duty on January 6, 1989. He has maintained Reserve status while serving as a Patrol Officer in the City of Santa Cruz. Furthermore, Mr. Perry had dedicated his time to serving the city as a Field Training Officer and is a member of the Santa Cruz Police Department Honor Guard.

Mr. Perry is known for his allegiance to the enforcement of law, the prevention of crime, and his deep sense of community. Respectfully, David Perry has volunteered to return to active duty with the United States Marine Corps. He will be deployed to Iraq in January of 2006. Mr. Perry’s voluntary service is truly appreciated and highly valued.

Mr. Speaker, the service of local members of the community is an asset to this Nation, and I applaud Mr. Perry’s contributions. We all look forward to the safe return of Officer Perry, and wish him well in his service to our Nation.

Mr. Perry is an outstanding member of the community, and his dedication is appreciated.

FEDERAL HOUSING FINANCE REFORM ACT OF 2005
SPEECH OF
HON. MARK GREEN OF WISCONSIN
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Wednesday, October 26, 2005

The House in Committee of the Whole House on the State of the Union had under consideration the bill. (H.R. 1461) to reform the regulation of certain housing-related Government-sponsored enterprises, and for other purposes:

Mr. GREEN of Wisconsin. Mr. Chairman, I supported Chairman OXLEY’s Manager’s Amendment to H.R. 1461, the Federal Housing Finance Reform Act of 2005, because it maintains progress on several key issues Congress has been working on this session. I was pleased to see that the manager’s amendment gave the victims of Hurricane Katrina priority in receiving grants from the Affordable Housing Fund. I urge my colleagues to look for ways to ease the burden of recovery that currently rests on the taxpayers. I also support the sunset provision of this amendment so that a future Congress can revisit this issue and again evaluate the needs of affordable housing recipients. Finally, I would like to express my full support for the ability of non-profit organizations to compete for the funds created by H.R. 1461. I agree that there must be full oversight of the groups receiving grants from the Affordable Trust Fund, and that no dollars from this fund may be used for lobbying, travel, or election activities. However, I do have concerns that some of the language included in the manager’s amendment was overly broad. Some have argued that the amendment may prohibit groups like Catholic Charities, Lutheran Services in America, and Habitat for Humanity from receiving Affordable Trust Fund grants. I would strongly urge House conferees to revisit and narrow the language included in this amendment so that these organizations, along with other well-meaning non-profit groups, can apply for the funds and grow their affordable housing programs.

IN HONOR OF FIRE CHIEF KERRY SHERIDAN
HON. JERRY WELLER
OF ILLINOIS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, October 27, 2005

Mr. WELLER. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor Fire Chief Kerry Sheridan of the Troy Fire Protection District in Shorewood, Illinois. On Saturday, Sheridan will celebrate 45 years of service as the Fire Chief with the local vol-unteer fire protection district.

Since first being elected in 1960 to the Fire Chief position, Sheridan has seen major changes from not only the size and scope of the fire protection district, but also advances in technology and equipment. In 1960, his equip-ment consisted of a used 1929 REO Speedwagon and a dispatch that was a phone call to the Chief to sound the siren. Now, the department consists of multiple engines, an enhanced 911 dispatch, and the fire protec-tion district has grown to over 18,000 resi-dents compared to the 800 residents in 1960. Within Sheridan’s impressive 45 years of services, the Chief has provided a classroom in the Joliet Junior College to teach fire serv-ices and started one of the first cadet programs in Illinois and organized an Ambulance service that recruits and trains new EMT’s every year.

Chief Sheridan is still actively serving on the Joliet Junior College Fire Science Advisory Board which he has served on since 1974 and is very involved with the local government. The most impressive part of his service as a volunteer for the fire department is that he achieved all of these great accomplishments while being a full time employee with Illinois Bell Telephone and now AT&T.

With 45 years of dedication to his township and the safety of its residents, Kerry Sheridan provides an example to all of what they can do to better their community. When we hear stories of young children having aspirations of becoming firemen when they grow up, we should all point to the example Kerry Sheridan has set.

A TRIBUTE TO ROGER MILLIKEN
HON. DUNCAN HUNTER
OF CALIFORNIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, October 27, 2005

Mr. HUNTER. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor and pay tribute to a true American patri-tot who has maintained a reputation as a proctor of American manufacturing—Mr. Roger Milliken. Roger recently celebrated his 90th birthday and, not to the surprise of many, continues to faithfully sit at the helm of Milliken & Company, one of the largest and most successful textile and chemical manufacturing companies in the world.

On the special occasion of his 90th birthday, I feel it prudent to ensure that my colleagues in the House are made aware of Roger’s im-measurable commitment to the protection and development of our domestic manufacturing base. Roger has long deflected the entice-ments of outsourcing and importation, believ-ing the divestment of American industry in for-eign markets is not conducive to economic growth and detrimental to our nation’s produc-tivity and ingenuity.

Roger’s personal success can be credited to his entrepreneurial spirit and his strong work ethic, both professionally and academically. He received a Bachelor of Arts degree from Yale University in 1937 and was named President of Deering Milliken in less than ten years. Under Roger’s leadership, Deering Milliken of-ficially became known as Milliken & Company and gained its status as a nationally recog-nized textile and chemical manufacturing company.

Mr. Speaker, President Ronald Reagan once said, “My goal is to keep America the premier job-creating nation on Earth and we must unleash the full power of entrepreneurship. We can make our land that of the future, offering unlimited opportunity to all Americans who dare to dream.” We are fortunate to have individuals like Roger Milliken, who never relent in their quest to foster and protect American industry, and believe the industrial climate envisioned by President Reagan is achievable.

Roger is recognized as someone who takes pride in the craftsmanship of the American workforce and fights for the preservation of those jobs. In an interview with the Wall Street Journal in 1995, Roger said, “I’m going to keep on doing what I’m doing. I’m going to die in the saddle, fighting for American manufacturing supremacy.” While this statement is certainly indicative of Roger’s tenacity and entrepreneurial ambition, it more importantly demonstrates the elements of selflessness and confidence that need to be revived within our industrial community. Roger’s desire for American manufacturing supremacy is not unrealistic and one in which I believe we can achieve.

Mr. Speaker, I ask that my colleagues join me in honoring Roger Milliken’s contribution and commitment to American industry and manufacturing. In celebration of his 90th birthday, I wish him many more years of good health and happiness.

JERRY AND SHIRLEY MCCORMICK—SALUTE TO HURRICANE VOLUNTEERS

HON. MICHAEL C. BURGESS
OF TEXAS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, October 27, 2005

Mr. BURGESS. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to salute those individuals and organizations that opened their hearts and dedicated both financial and emotional support to the victims of Hurricane Katrina and Hurricane Rita. All of the states along the Gulf Coast have endured terrible hardships during this hurricane season, and I know that the generosity of North Texas played a vital role in bringing some peace into their lives.

Today, I want to specifically thank one family, their company and their donation. Jerry and Shirley McCormick, from Texas Manhole Company donated a refrigerator and dinner for 100 volunteers during hurricane Katrina.

I stand here today to sincerely thank Jerry and Shirley McCormick for their donation. It is people like them that I am proud to call fellow Texans. Their contribution, they not only stand as a devoted and giving American citizens, but they serve as an inspiration to others.

TRIBUTE TO LANCE CORPORAL BRIAN PARELLO

HON. SCOTT GARRETT
OF NEW JERSEY
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, October 27, 2005

Mr. GARRETT of New Jersey. Mr. Speaker, today I honor Lance Corporal Brian Parrello, a heroic young man from my district who died while bravely serving his country in Iraq. I am proud that this week we will name the United States Post Office in his hometown of West Milford, New Jersey, as the very post office where his father has spent many years working for the Postal Service.

On January 1 of this year, Lance Cpl. Brian P. Parrello, 19, of West Milford, N.J. was killed in Al Anbar Province, Iraq as a result of hostile fire. Lance Cpl. Parrello was assigned to Small Craft Company, Headquarters Battalion, 2nd Marine Division, II Marine Expeditionary Force, Camp Lejeune, N.C. Parrello was attached to a Marine Swift Boat unit that patrolled the Tigris and Euphrates rivers.

A resident of West Milford, New Jersey, Parrello attended West Milford High School where he was a member of both the football and hockey teams. Following high school, he was so deeply affected by the attack on the World Trade Center and Pentagon that he proudly enlisted in the U.S. Marine Corps. His teachers, coaches and peers have called him a real leader and a role model, someone who always gave 150 percent, and a person who led by example with a big heart.

This loss causes us to reflect on the bravery demonstrated by our men and women in uniform as they carry out their obligations in the face of danger. When their Nation called them to duty to preserve freedom and the security of our neighbors, they answered without hesitation.

Mr. Speaker, it is my sincere privilege to recognize the life of a proud soldier and heroic representative of the State of New Jersey. Lance Cpl. Brian P. Parrello was an honorable defender of liberty and he deserves our gratitude and respect.

I am pleased that we could recognize Brian’s sacrifice in this manner and I hope that years from now the citizens of West Milford can remember the courage and sacrifice of this brave young man. We will continue to keep Brian’s family and the families of all our men and women serving around the world in our thoughts and prayers.

PERSONAL EXPLANATION

HON. DEBORAH PRYCE OF OHIO
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, October 27, 2005

Ms. PRYCE of Ohio. Mr. Speaker, on vote No. 535 regarding a Motion to Instruct Conferrees on H.R. 2744—the Department of Agriculture, Rural Development, Food and Drug Administration, and Related Agencies Appropriations Act for Fiscal Year 2006—my vote was recorded in a manner inconsistent with my intent. Let the RECORD show that my vote should have been recorded as “nay” not “yea.” to the sites of many of the civil rights struggles of the 1950s and 1960s. It was an unforgettable experience. All of the Members of Congress felt as I did, how lucky we were to visit these sites: the Edmund Pettus Bridge, the Dexter Avenue King Memorial Church, the 16th Street Baptist Church, the Civil Rights Institute, and the Rosa Parks Museum, with some of the activists who led the movement. To see these places through their eyes, to hear them describe what it was like when the very church we were sitting in was under siege by an angry mob of segregationists, to witness their tears as they wiped them from their cheeks as they thought of where they had been and where we were standing.

As we reflected on the moving events of the pilgrimage, the Members of Congress—many like me, too young to remember well the civil rights movement—kept asking ourselves two questions: What would I have done? Would I have been an activist, or, like so many Americans, simply indifferent? And what about today? What is the contemporary relevance of the civil rights movement? The more we pondered what we would have done, the best insight into what might have been, can be gleaned from what we do in the future. While America today provides all of its citizens with more opportunities and better protects those most vulnerable, too many still face vestiges of bigotry. We can look to the Civil Rights Movement to inspire us to build a greater and more just society, but we must learn from the example set by Rosa Parks that each of us must take an affirmative step to advance the civil rights movement today, the more I began to realize that the two questions were really interconnected.

The best window into what we would have done, the best insight into what might have been, can be gleaned from what we do in the future. While America today provides all of its citizens with more opportunities and better protects those most vulnerable, too many still face vestiges of bigotry. Mr. ISRAEL. Mr. Speaker, all too seldom we see a leader in the fight to negotiate an end to a war, to lead the fight against racial quotas; an inter- nationalist who was not afraid to confront and challenge what he perceived to be dangerous in his country’s policies. Through the dif- ficult decades of the 1970s and 1980s, some chose to cut and run when they did not have their way. Penn Kemble chose to stay and fight. No one fought harder and with more conviction.

And nothing exemplified his commitment to values, to ideas and to the strength of the American experience more than his work as Deputy Director and Acting Director of the United States Information Agency, where he was one of the first to introduce technology to support democracy by replacing it with an innovative participatory network to develop civil society and civic education around the world. Like so many things that Penn developed, he created CIVITAS to break out of the worn mold of traditional democracy building by replacing it with an innovative participatory network to develop civil society and free markets in emerging democra- ries through civic education and grass roots civic participation. CIVITAS was thinking “outside the box.” It was, in the words of one of its Russian participants, “a unique possibility to see the full context of what we can do to support democracy, in concrete terms, now and in the future.”

CIVITAS is an international dialogue, not a monologue by the U.S. Government. Penn’s vision can best be summarized in his own words. In Prague, in 1995, Penn Kemble said that “today there is an emerging recognition that what we usually think of as the civic realm and the economic realm are interlinked, and that when one is strong the other is generally strong, and that when one is weak or broken the other is in danger, too.”

One thing we surely have neglected is education. Education is the principal means for transmitting and strengthening the values and understandings—the subjective element, the culture—of the institutions of all societies. Democratic society rests on the subjective element, and democracy could take an issue and give it life, a truly international movement for civic education. The institutions of all societies need to be engaged by the concepts and values of democracy today there is an emerging right to the ideas and great enterprises of American Society.”

That future—the future of the universal dream of social justice that should be the dream of all people everywhere—belongs to Penn Kemble. The very definition of CIVITAS is Penn’s legacy: “the concepts and values of citizenship that impart shared responsibility, common purpose and a sense of community among citizens.” We will be missed, but the power of his ideas makes him immortal. Time, justice and the forces of history are on Penn’s side.

HON. FORTNEY PETE STARK

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, October 27, 2005

Mr. STARK. Mr. Speaker, I rise with my col- leagues Representative Ben CARDIN of the Third Congressional District of Maryland and Representative STENY HOYER of the Fifth Con- gressional District of Maryland today to bring to our colleagues’ attention an excellent article that appeared in the Inside Annapolis Magazine this month about a family business in Galesville, MD. The business, Smith Brothers, is one of the most outstanding examples of American in- genuity and entrepreneurship. We are proud to know Kenneth Smith and his son Jeff Smith and would like to congratulate them on the re- cent acknowledgement of their value to the community. America needs more people like the Smiths, who have a can-do attitude and are willing to work hard to excel. We have at- tached a copy of the article, which explains some of the history of the company and family and how their attitude has helped them in business and life.

SMITH BROTHERS: BUILDING ON A FIRM

FOUNDATION

(By Kathy Bergren Smith)

When the makers of the upcoming roman- tic comedy starring Matthew MacConaughey and Sarah Jessica Parker came to Maryland scouting locations and re- sources, one of their first stops was in the quiet village of Galesville; just south of An- napolis. The film includes multiple scenes of frolicking dolphins and the marine coordina- tors needed a way to transport the radio-con- trolled “stand-ins” as well as $10,000 dollars worth of camera and sound equipment around the Bay. They found what they were looking for at Smith Brothers, an eighty- seven-year-old family business that provides tugboat and barge services for customers as diverse as Paramount Pictures, the Lincoln Tunnel and the Calvert Cliffs Nuclear Power Plant. The company’s extensive fleet of char- ter equipment is the largest between Balti- more and Norfolk. Marine contractors rent Smith Brothers equipment to build piers and breakwaters, dredge channels, and light off fireworks. The story of how Smith Brothers became the “one stop shop” for tugs, barges, cranes, anchors and chains goes back . . . .
Our family had been here in Galesville for several generations when my older brothers began the business in 1918," says Smith. Indeed, an occupancy notice dated 1918 is tacked to a board in the office of Tenthouse Creek, notes that the premises has been legal since 1862. Back then, the Smiths, like most of their neighbors in southern County, were Protestant men. But they were also entrepreneurs, operating a lime kiln which reduced the oyster shells into fertilizer for other major industry of the day. In 1916, the eldest of the seven Smith Brothers, J. Edward “Eddy” and Nelson began to freighting oysters by truck to Washington, D.C.

“Eddy and Nelson made a great team,” recalls the much younger Kenneth, who is now ninety. He and his older sister Agnes, are the only siblings of the original nine that remain. Agnes, a former post-mistress in Galesville, at 101 still serves as a social and historical center for the community. Kenneth comes to work each day and remains active in the business.

“After World War I, when Eddy came home, he and Nelson and Captain Oscar Hartge played cards on the docks along the river, that is how they got started,” says Kenneth Smith. As the city dwellers from Washington began to take drives in their new automobiles, the face of bay country began to change. Boarding houses and marinas were built to accommodate the new tourist trade and summer homes with docks sprang up along the River. The harbor was overtaken by oystering as the Smiths’ primary occupation. Captain Oscar Hartge, a member of a family whose name is synonymous with yacht building on the Potomac, sold his portion of the business to his friends, the Smiths, for $1 to take a position as captain aboard a private yacht. Ultimately, six of the seven brothers and one close friend, Robert Leatherbury, became Smith Brothers, Inc. The brothers were very hard-working and quickly built a reputation as high quality contractors.

Throughout the 20s and 30s, taking meager salaries and putting every spare cent into the business, the brothers grew the company. World War II took Kenneth and many of the workers overseas, but when they returned, the business began to thrive. Crews worked on the land as well as the water, building bridges throughout the area. Before the Great Depression, Kenneth bought out the brothers one by one and today he and his son, Jeff, have moved the company in a new direction.

“Competition for the type of bridge building and pile driving we always did got very stiff in the late 80s,” says Jeff Smith. He and his father made the tough decision to stop bidding and let the crews go. “We had no alternative at the time,” he says. There were also creative ways of dealing with owners who would not pay. Nelson looked for a new place to live and eventually moved to Galesville. Nelson confronted the owner about payment. When the owner refused to pay, Nelson gave the signal to the crane operator to crank up the pile driver. He then positioned the crane to begin tearing out the pier. Kenneth cannot control his laughter as he recalls the man “running down the pier waving a check!” Instead of doing the contracting themselves, Kenneth and Jeff began to rent equipment to other contractors. Their six-acre construction yard in Galesville has gradually become a “rent-it” center for those engaged in heavy construction. Jeff and his father have built an inventory of barges and tugboats and cranes, plus the intangible asset of Kenneth’s vast experience.

The tug and barge fleet has grown in size and scope and the Smith Brothers’ red and white colors can be seen from New York to Florida. Around the Bay, the newest addition to the fleet is the Megalodon, a 50’ tugboat named for the prehistoric shark that roamed the earth millions of years ago. The Megalodon was the product of the latest Galesville collaboration between the Smiths and Hartges. Capt. Oscar Hartge’s grandson, Preston, is the operations manager at Smith Brothers. When the company decided it was time to build a new tug, Preston took the project on with vigor.

“It has come full circle here, our families have had been part of this history of this county and Jeff and I are both committed to continuing our legacy,” says Hartge.

Kenneth is moving into a supporting role at the yard, and he too is pleased to see the company continuing to thrive.

“You know, very few family businesses survive, all too often the hard work of one generation is squandered on young people, but the Smith Brothers philosophy has always been to work hard and not to ask anyone to do something you would not be willing to do yourself. I see that same quality today here at the yard.” Jeff and Preston are out there every day and this reminds me of the old days when the brothers would cuss and fuss and then go out and have dinner together.”

REMEMBERING ROSA PARKS

SPEECH OF
HON. ELIJAH E. CUMMINGS
OF MARYLAND

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, October 26, 2005

Mr. CUMMINGS. Mr. Speaker, when Mrs. Rosa Parks, “mother of the civil rights movement” died last Monday at the age of 92, she left America an inspiring legacy—a vision that we can transform this country so that we have the wisdom and courage to grasp it as our own. December 1 will mark the 50th anniversary of that bus ride in Montgomery when Rosa Parks refused to give up her seat to a white man, as then required by the laws of segregation.

“I felt that I had a right to be treated as any other passenger,” Mrs. Parks recalled in 1992. “We had endured that kind of treatment too long.” Rosa Parks was jailed and fined for defying the Jim Crow laws—a principle act of human dignity and determination that sounded an alarm that carried far beyond her home of Montgomery, Alabama.

Rosa Parks’ action was the genesis of the Civil Rights Movement. In the face of the smallest protest, Rosa Parks’ heroic act of principle, there would have been no Montgomery bus boycott in 1955. A minister named the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., may not have been thrust upon the national stage.

Mr. Speaker, Mrs. Parks, one woman—one determination, diminutive and determined woman altered American history. It is important that we all remember that one person can make a difference during the difficult and dangerous times that we now must face and overcome.

President Clinton affirmed the truth of this proposition when he presented Rosa Parks with the Presidential Medal of Freedom in 1996. The Congress concurred in 1999, when I was proud to join my colleagues in awarding her the Congressional Gold Medal—America’s highest civilian honor.

Mrs. Parks’ posthumous honors were well-deserved. Yet, a desire for public acclaim was not the foremost objective in Rosa Parks’ mind.

“I am leaving this legacy to all of you,” she declared during a 1988 celebration in her honor, “...to bring peace, justice, equality, and love and a fulfillment of what our lives should be.”

“Without vision, the people will perish,” she continued, quoting Scripture, “and without courage and inspiration, dreams will die—the dreams of freedom and peace.”

Rosa Parks was pleading with us to stand up for what is right when we are faced with the challenges to our shared humanity that, all too often, confront us in our daily lives.

To win these struggles, it is readily apparent that we first must address the issue of the continuing disparities that plague our national progress. Consider the findings of the National Urban League’s “State of Black America for 2005,” the annual report that so graphically contrasts the wealth creation of African Americans in relationship to the majority Caucasian population of this country.

Fifty years after Rosa Parks boarded that Montgomery bus, African Americans still are twice as likely to die before our time—reflecting the unequal treatment that African Americans receive from this nation’s disparate system of health care.

African American unemployment rates remain twice those of White Americans. Our average net worth is ten times less, and our rate of home ownership (a critical component of wealth creation in this country) still lags far behind.

Experienced teachers are twice as likely to be teaching our children in minority schools. We need not labor the connection between these harsh facts of everyday life for Americans of color and the reality that our voting rights continue to be disproportionately attacked and denied.

For any nation that proclaims “liberty and justice for all,” there is something fundamentally wrong with these facts.

Mr. Speaker, if we are to advance Rosa Parks’ vision of justice, equality and opportunity, we must remain vigilant in creating a color-blind level playing field for all Americans.
That would be America's way of keeping alive the legacy of the great Rosa Lee Parks. I thank my friend and Mrs. Parks' friend, Rep. JOHN CONYERS, for leading this effort to honor this exceptional American heroine. I extend my sincerest condolences to her family and loved ones.

REGISTERING OPPOSITION TO H.R. 1461

HON. GEORGE MILLER OF CALIFORNIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, October 27, 2005

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Speaker, I would like to register my opposition to H.R. 1461. Yesterday, while rushing between two Committee markups I inadvertently voted in favor of H.R. 1461. I intended to vote against it.

While I supported the underlying premise of the bill, its aim of helping new homebuyers who were hijacked by right-wing extremists who inserted language into the bill that will restrict non-profit organizations that apply for Federal housing grants from engaging in nonpartisan voter registration. That provision is undemocratic and completely misplaced.

I would like to associate myself with the remarks of Rep. BARNEY FRANK of Massachusetts. As the senior Democrat on the House Financial Services Committee, he was originally a supporter of the bill. But, like me, he could not look the other way and support one aspect of the bill while ignoring other noxious provisions that are unjustified.

Rep. FRANK said yesterday that, "The restrictive language being put forward, which would say no faith-based group could participate, has never been debated in this committee. . . . It was brought up in a private session between the Republican Study Committee and the then-majority leader [DELAY]. That is not an appropriate forum to be the only place where we discuss things."

I regret the error that has occurred but wish the Record to clearly reflect my views on this bill. If given the opportunity again, I would vote to defeat H.R. 1461 in its present form.

CONDEMNING THE INTOLERANT AND INAPPROPRIATE STATEMENT BY IRANIAN PRESIDENT MAHMOUD AHMADINEJAD

HON. SCOTT GARRETT OF NEW JERSEY
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, October 27, 2005

Mr. GARRETT of New Jersey. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to condemn the venomous words spewed by Iranian President Mahmoud Ahmadinejad towards one of America's closest allies and a true companion in the War on Terrorism, Israel.

Yesterday's statement by President Ahmadinejad confirms his country's station among the most radical and dangerous in the world. It is the sort of hate espoused by Mr. Ahmadinejad, cheered unwittingly by a crowd of impressionable children, that breeds new terrorists among Islamic youth. Israel has been an unwavering companion of the United States. America must stand behind them as they face such invasive, and we must remain as steadfastly committed to Israel's defense and independence.

As the process moves forward to promote peace between Israel and their Arab neighbors, this declaration by the Iranian leader potently takes us two steps backwards.

I call on any citizen of Iran who is peaceful and freedom loving, to reject the sentiments of their close-minded and hateful leader.

I urge the State of Israel to trust that when the rhetorical smoke of their enemies clears, the United States will, as always, be standing strong as a proud ally.

IN RECOGNITION OF DR. WAYNE GILES

HON. EMANUEL CLEAVER OF MISSOURI
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, October 27, 2005

Mr. CLEAVER. Mr. Speaker, I proudly rise today in recognition of the achievements of Dr. Wayne Giles, Chancellor Emeritus of the Metropolitan Community Colleges (MCC) in the Greater Kansas City area. Dr. Giles retired as Chancellor on June 30, 2005 after 22 years of distinguished service to MCC and our community. He served as Vice-Chancellor for Educational Services for the first ten years and the past twelve as Chancellor. He has been a tireless advocate for urban education and has implemented programs that have brought national recognition to the Community College system. For this reason and many more, I rise today to honor and celebrate his achievements.

Wayne Giles' tenure with the Metropolitan Community Colleges has been fruitful for the bi-state area, the State of Missouri, and our entire Nation. Dr. Giles has overseen the establishment of two new campuses during his tenure, bringing the total to five community colleges in a system that serves approximately 43,000 students each year. The Longview campus was the first community college in the United States to be recognized as a College of the Year by Time Magazine and the Princeton Review. The Business and Technology College is the first community college in the country to earn ISO 9002 certification, which places it within a select group of companies and organizations worldwide that have achieved this quality standard.

Dr. Giles has brought many innovative enhancements to MCC, most recently with the development of writing intensive and diversity courses as part of the general education learning requirements. To best serve MCC's increasingly diverse population, he initiated a faculty internship program, which will be featured at this year's American Association of Community Colleges national conference. This program has significantly increased the number of MCC faculty of color in the last two years.

Wayne Giles has served on numerous committees, including: Member of the Presidents Advisory Council, NCATC from 2000 to present—a national network of resources that advocates and promotes the use of technology that enhances economic and workforce development programs and services; Member from 1993 to present, and President in 1994 of RC-2000—a national organization of presidents and chancellors of urban community colleges; Member of the Missouri Training and Employment Council from 2001 to present; Member from 2001 to present of the Coordinating Board for Higher Education Resource Group for Postsecondary Technical Education; and as a Member of the Metropolitan Community College Board for Higher Education Advisory Committee from 1990 to present, serving as Chair in 1998.

TRIBUTE TO AMBASSADOR TERRENCE R. TODMAN

HON. DONNA M. CHRISTENSEN OF THE VIRGIN ISLANDS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, October 27, 2005

Mrs. CHRISTENSEN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to pay tribute to a distinguished Virgin Islander and American, Ambassador Terrence R. Todman, on the occasion of his being honored by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee today. Ambassador Todman, one of the U.S. Virgin Island's best-known international figures was chosen for two years by the Organization of American States to represent the OAS their efforts to promote dialogue among political and social elements in Haiti as a prelude to the holding of elections there later this year.

Ambassador Todman was born on St. Thomas on March 13, 1926. He was raised, along with his thirteen brothers and sisters, by his mother Rachel Callwood. He retired from the U.S. Senior Foreign Service in 1993 with the title of Career Ambassador. In 41 years of diplomatic service, his postings included service as Assistant Secretary of State for Inter-American Affairs and as U.S. Ambassador to Argentina, Denmark, Spain, Costa Rica, Guinea and the Republic of Chad.

He serves on the board of directors of several organizations including the National Endowment for Democracy, a private, not-for-profit entity created in 1983 to strengthen democratic institutions around the world through non-governmental efforts. He is a former trustee of the University of the Virgin Islands.

He is the recipient of numerous awards, including the Presidential Distinguished Service and Meritorious Service Awards, the National Public Service Award and the State Department's Superior Service Honor Award. He has also been decorated by the governments of Denmark, Spain, Chad, and the Virgin Islands.

Ambassador Todman is a graduate of Inter-American University in Puerto Rico and of Syracuse University. He was awarded several honorary doctoral degrees. Before joining.
ON THE PASSING OF DR. JOHN LONG

HON. MICHAEL BILIRAKIS OF FLORIDA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, October 27, 2005

Mr. BILIRAKIS. Mr. Speaker, I rise today with great sorrow to mourn the loss of one of Pasco County’s finest citizens and public servants, Dr. John Long. While on a hunting trip with his wife Marsha in Montana, John unexpectedly passed away from an apparent heart attack on October 26. He was 59 years old.

Born in Wauchula, Florida, John dedicated his life to serving residents of Pasco County and improving the quality of education that its students received. His passion and reputation would lead him to serve as a state representative and eventually to be appointed as the County’s Superintendent of Schools, a position he held until his retirement last year.

John’s career in public service began shortly after he completed his masters degree and doctorate in education at the University of South Florida. John seized the opportunity to work for the Pasco County School District and during heightened tension in the District in 1976, he was hired as the County’s Director of Personnel. Known as a problem-solver, John quickly garnered respect and trust from the teacher’s union and ironed out their labor grievances. His ability to compromise and find the middle ground would follow him throughout his career.

In 1986, John ran successfully for a seat in the Florida House of Representatives. He quickly rose to prominence within the Democratic Party and was poised to become the Speaker of the Florida House. However, another institution took precedence: his family. John retired from state politics to spend more time at home with Marsha and his two daughters, Jennifer and Jessica. Soon after stepping down, the late Governor Lawton Chiles appointed John as Pasco County Schools Superintendent in 1995.

After winning a second term in 2000, John was named Florida’s Superintendent of the Year by the Florida Association of District School Superintendents, a distinction he greatly cherished. John also facilitated the enactment of the Penny for Pasco program in March 2004, which he considered one of his proudest accomplishments.

Mr. Speaker, too often in this extremely partisan business, we lose sight of the things that really matter. John looked past party politics. He placed his family ahead of his promising political career. He was a breath of fresh air in an occupation that can suffocate integrity. I am truly saddened by the loss of John, and my thoughts and prayers are with the Long family. May God bless them as they remember this great man.
the same means as other victims who suddenly lost their homes and livelihood through no fault of their own. Therefore, we are introducing this bill today and urge our colleagues to quickly enact it into law to assist families who are otherwise hopelessly destitute because of the disasters and the impact of a drug conviction.

HONORING DOROTHY MARION PETE
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, October 27, 2005

Ms. LEE. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor the extraordinary life of Dorothy Marion Pete of Oakland, California. Dorothy was a beloved mother, wife, grandmother, great-grandmother, sister, friend, and leader in our community.
She passed away on October 10, 2005 at her home in Oakland at the age of 91.

A longtime East Bay Area resident, Dorothy was known throughout her life for her devotion to her family, her church, and her community.
She was born in Berkeley, California on February 28, 1914 as the ninth of thirteen children to Virginia (Jennie) Parker and Thomas Reid, Sr. After graduating from Berkeley High School, she worked as the office secretary at the then segregated West Oakland Linden Street Branch of the YWCA. She later integrated the downtown Oakland YWCA, serving first as a stenographer before becoming the administrative assistant to Executive Director Helen Grant.

In addition to the changes she affected at the local YWCA, Dorothy had an immense impact on the local faith community by integrating the staff of the Lakeshore Avenue Baptist Church in Oakland. An active member, Dorothy also taught Sunday school and served as president of the American Baptist Women’s Group.

Dorothy’s bright and giving spirit shaped her actions not only in the context of these institutions, but in every aspect of her life. She was known by all for her boundless generosity toward those who were close to her and also toward those she was meeting for the first time.
Dorothy was especially committed to providing aid and comfort to those in need, initiating many food drives at her church and giving away blankets, quilts and dolls that she created by hand or with her sewing machine.

A bright light to many, Dorothy’s role was especially profound in the lives of her loved ones. She was happily married to her husband, Herman Rideau Pete, who

United States have moved too slowly to resolve the conflict in Sudan. And now, despite a negotiated ceasefire, we have received numerous reports of renewed killings and abduc-tions, including attacks on aid workers and African Union peacekeepers.
The escalating violence is threatening humanitarian support for millions of people as international aid workers, increasingly find themselves the target of violence. Last month, a squad supported by Sudanese government helicopters attacked a camp for displaced civilians in Darfur, killing 35. Days later, in West Darfur, an Arab rebel group abducted 18 African peacekeepers. Last week, two African Union peacekeeping soldiers were killed in an ambush along with two civilian contractors.
Three other African peacekeepers were wounded during the same raid.
The Bush Administration’s slow response offers little hope for success and sets no deadline for resolution. We must adopt a new approach that recognizes the urgency of the situation on the ground.

The United States must be able to protect its people and fulfill its promises to the Sudanese peacekeepers. We owe it to our brave men and women overseas to take a firm stance against the Khartoum regime. We must support the intense, unfettered peace efforts of the African Union, which is coordinating a multicountry peacekeeping force.

I am proud to add my voice to the Senate’s condemnation of the comments by President
Hugo Chavez. The Bush Administration should impose economic sanctions against Venezuela for these remarks. We should also seek to isolate Iran politically, as we have in the past, when the two regimes were opposing each other.

As long as Iran remains a threat to the peace and security of the region and the world, the United States must remain vigilant in its efforts to stop the spread of nuclear technol-
gy. We must continue to impose sanctions on Iran’s nuclear program, and we must take strong action against Iran’s support for terrorism. We must also work to isolate Iran politically and economically.

The American people have a stake in the future of the Middle East, and we must work together to achieve a lasting peace in the region.

CONDEMNING COMMENTS BY IRAN’S PRESIDENT

HON. RUSH D. HOLT
OF NEW JERSEY
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Mr. HOLT. Mr. Speaker, yesterday, the new president of Iran, Mahmoud Ahmadinejad, told 4,000 hardline students in Tehran that “Israel must be wiped off the map.” Mr. Ahmadinejad’s address was the highlight, if you want to call it that, of a forum called “The World Without Zionism,” which also saw chants of “Death to America” and “Death to Israel.”

The Iranian president flatly attacked the Muslim nations for making peace with Israel and claimed that terrorist attacks by Palestinians could destroy the Jewish state.

I completely and utterly condemn the comments by Iran’s president. Peace will only come to the Middle East when all parties recognize Israel’s right to exist and completely renounce support for terrorism. Unfortunately, Iran’s new government is turning its back on peaceful coexistence and appears bent on confrontation with Israel, the United States, and the world community. Iran also continues to bankroll terrorists, like those who killed five innocent Israelis on Wednesday. Mr. Speaker, the world must unite to denounce the hate speech of Iran’s president in the strongest terms possible.

Tomorrow, Catholics, Jews, Muslims, and people of other faiths will come together to commemorate the 40th anniversary of Nostra Aetate, the Catholic Church’s landmark document that called from respect for other faiths, particularly Islam and Judaism. And four months ago, the three great Abrahamic reli-genations came together to mourn the death of the great spiritual leader, Pope John Paul II. Because of their nations’ alphabetical proximity, the then-presidents of Israel and Iran sat next to each other and even shook hands. But it seems the spirit of interfaith harmony, sadly, lasted little longer than the services for the Pope.

Mr. Speaker, as long as Iran’s president continues to rage hatefully against Israel and the West, there will be no peace in the Middle East. The world community will not tolerate these comments by Iran’s president, and I condemn them as strongly as I can.

NEW URGENCY REQUIRED TO

HON. CHRIS VAN HOLLEN

Regarding Dr. C. Delores Tucker
OF PENNSYLVANIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Mr. TUCKER. Mr. Speaker, I stand today to honour the memory of Dr. C. Delores Tucker, avaliant warrior in the fight for freedom and equality, she selfishly committed herself to the work of serving others.

Dr. C. Delores Tucker was the first African American woman in the nation to serve as the Common Wealth of Pennsylvania Secretary of State. During this time, she instituted the first Commission on the Status of Women in Pennsylvania, its first Women’s Political Caucus and Redbook Magazine. She also led the effort to make Pennsylvania one of the first states to pass the Equal Rights Amendment. As Chief of Elections of Pennsylvania, she was a leader in instituting a voter registration by mail and reducing the voting age from 21 to 18 years of age.

Dr. Tucker was founder and president of the Bethune-DuBois Institute, Inc., which she established in 1991 to aid African American youth through scholarships and educational programs. Dr. Tucker launched and served as the publisher of the renowned publication, Vital Issues; The Journal of African American Speeches. This endeavor caught the attention of then Congressman William H. Gray and was submitted into the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD.

Dr. Tucker has received awards from numerous organizations and institutions including the NAACP, the Philadelphia Urban League, the Salvation Army, Lincoln University, the National Association for Equal Opportunity, Higher Education, Women for Good Government, the Alliance of Black Women Attorneys, the National Black Caucus of State Legislators, the Opportunities Industrialization Center, B’hai Ruth, the National Newspaper Publishers Association, the Feminist Majority Foundation, Berean Institute, and the National Association for Sickle Cell Disease. Dr. Tucker was also selected as a People magazine 1996 Yearbook Honoree and was featured in the inaugural issue of John F. Kennedy, Jr.’s George magazine for her crusade against gangster/porn rap. In addition, she has been acknowledged for her deep concern for children by First Lady Hillary Rodham Clinton in the book “It Takes a Village.” The National Women’s Political Caucus and Redbook Magazine also named Dr. Tucker as the woman best qualified to be ambassador to the United Nations.

Her tireless and passionate pursuits have generated many discussions over the concerns of equality and justice. Her efforts will never be lost in the hearts of those she touched and the world she labored to change. Our hearts are bowed in reverence of her memory. Please join me in honoring the legacy that is C. Delores Tucker.

NATIONAL DOMESTIC VIOLENCE AWARENESS MONTH

HON. MICHAEL M. HONDA
OF CALIFORNIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, October 27, 2005

Mr. HONDA. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in strong support of the millions of Americans whose equal rights have been entrenched by domestic violence. October is Domestic Violence Awareness Month, and we must continue to raise awareness and address the problem of violence that still affects so many American families. One out of every four American women will experience violence by an intimate partner at some point in her life, and one out of every six women will be raped during her lifetime. Domestic violence crosses ethnic, racial, age, national origin, sexual orientation, and socioeconomic lines. Although great strides have been made toward breaking the cycle of violence, much work remains to be done.

During the past decade, the Violence Against Women Act (VAWA) of 1994 and 2000 have provided tremendous protections and support for victims of domestic violence and sexual assault. VAWA funding has provided law enforcement agencies, the judicial system, rape crisis centers, and domestic violence shelters with the expertise and services they need to do the work of prevention and protection of those affected by violence. Both the House and the Senate have passed bills reauthorizing VAWA, which will provide important prevention initiatives that have the potential to keep millions of women and children safe.

As both chambers meet to work out differences in the respective pieces of legislation, I encourage the Committee to retain the Senate provision that addresses the needs of girls in the juvenile justice system and correct flaws in the bills such as improving the immigration provisions and restoring the funding stream for communities of color, including key health, housing, and economic security provisions.

I am particularly concerned about violence against women of color. In Santa Clara County, CA, the rate of violence-related homicides between 1993 and 1997, 7 percent were African Americans, 31 percent were Asian Americans/Pacific Islanders, 22 percent were Hispanic/Latino, and 35 percent were White. Asian American and Pacific Islander women had the highest rates of domestic violence-related homicides when compared to their proportion of the population. The Congressional Hispanic, Black and Asian Pacific American Caucuses (“Congressional Tri-Caucus”) continue to work together to address this issue that disproportionately affects African American women.

The needs of immigrant women are also important during Domestic Violence Awareness Month. In 1998, President Clinton signed the Violence Against Women Act of 1994. The 381 day boycott eventually lead to a Supreme Court ruling that struck down the Montgomery ordinance and outlawed racial segregation on public transportation.

Rosa Parks was a humble woman who never wanted recognition, only equality. She continued to fight for equality through her local NAACP chapter. Her mother always told her to take advantage of opportunities no matter how few they are. She heeded that advice and seized opportunities and also provided a multitude of opportunities for others. Mrs. Parks will be remembered not only for her actions but for her courage. She did what so many others yearned to do. Her story catapulted the civil rights movement to the national stage and inspired many others to join the fight to end segregation.

Later in her life, Rosa Parks co-founded an organization for young people, the Rosa and Raymond Parks Institute, which enables youth to pursue educational opportunities, registers them to vote, and works toward racial peace. Mrs. Parks also hosted special programs organized through the Rosa and Raymond Parks Institute called Pathways to Freedom. This student program gives tours across the country that follows the Underground Railroad and highlights the events that spearheaded the civil rights movement. President Clinton honored Rosa Parks with the presidential Medal of Freedom and in 1999, she received the Congressional Gold Medal.

Although parts of our history are marred with inequality, discrimination, and hate, it is also filled with individual courage, perseverance, and hope. We must do so that we can continue to progress as a nation. We must never forget our history and we must never forget Rosa Parks.

Tribute to Rosa Parks
SPEECH OF
HON. DAVID SCOTT OF GEORGIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Wednesday, October 26, 2005

Mr. SCOTT of Georgia. Mr. Speaker, I rise to address this chamber in honor of a civil rights hero, Rosa Parks. Mrs. Parks passed away on Monday evening but her legacy will continue to inspire us all. Her story is not just a civil rights story it is an American story. I am pleased to honor her here today and as a co-sponsor of legislation that recognizes her courageous contributions to our nation.

On December 1, 1955 in Montgomery, Alabama, Mrs. Parks was riding the bus home from work. On that December evening Rosa Parks was asked, along with other African-Americans, to give up her seat to a white passenger. Mrs. Parks was the only one that refused to do so and she was subsequently arrested and fined. Her actions that day put the civil rights movement into motion and changed the direction of our nation. Her arrest inspired a young minister named Martin Luther King, Jr. to organize a boycott of the city’s buses. The 381 day boycott eventually lead to a Supreme Court ruling that struck down the Montgomery ordinance and outlawed racial segregation on public transportation.

Rosa Parks was a humble woman who never wanted recognition, only equality. She continued to fight for equality through her local NAACP chapter. Her mother always told her to take advantage of opportunities no matter how few they are. She heeded that advice and seized opportunities and also provided a multitude of opportunities for others. Agreed to:

Smith of Texas Manager’s amendment (no. 1 printed in H. Rept. 109–253) which includes provisions imposing sanctions for the destruction of relevant documents in a pending Federal court proceeding; provisions for setting standards for a court’s determination that certain court records should be sealed; and provisions providing for a presumption of a Rule 11 violation when the same issue is repeatedly relitigated. It also includes a clarification that makes clear that, in the anti-forum shopping provisions, if there is no State court in the county in which the injury occurred, the case can be brought in the nearest county where a court of general jurisdiction is located. The manager’s amendment also makes clear that it does not affect personal injury claims that Federal bankruptcy law requires be heard in a Federal bankruptcy court.

Rejected:

Schiff amendment in the nature of a substitute (no. 2 printed in H. Rept. 109–253) which sought to provide strong “three strikes and you’re out” mandatory sanctions for attorneys who file frivolous lawsuits or engage in frivolous conduct during discovery. It enhances sanctions for document destruction, ensures that corporations can be sued in the U.S., cracks down on parties attempting to relitigate the same issue on consecutive occasions, bans the concealment of unlawful conduct, and protects civil rights claims, (by a recorded vote of 184 ayes to 226 noes, Roll No. 551).
