The Senate met at 9:30 a.m. and was called to order by the Honorable Lisa Murkowski, a Senator from the State of Alaska.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Dr. Barry C. Black, offered the following prayer:

Let us pray.

O God who has comprehended our lives and is the author and finisher of our faith, teach us to live our days with the heights above us and on level plains. We thank You for Your grace that strengthens us for the tasks of each day and for the unfolding of Your wonderful Providence. Keep us from becoming intoxicated by the desire for success and protect us from the fear of failure that paralyzes noble striving. Lead us through the abysses of pride and across the gorges of pretension to the richness of Your transforming spirit of love.

Guide the Members of our Nation’s legislative branch today with Your wisdom. Show them solutions to the problems that beset our land. Empower them with a compassion that seeks first Your glory and deliver them from coldness of heart and wanderings of mind.

Help us all to praise You with our words and deeds.

We pray in the name of the captain of our salvation.

Amen.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE

The Honorable Lisa Murkowski led the Pledge of Allegiance, as follows:

I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

RECOGNITION OF THE ACTING MAJORITY LEADER

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The majority whip is recognized.

SCHEDULE

Mr. McConnell, Madam President, this morning we will resume debate on the House-passed tax reconciliation bill. I would like to observe that yesterday and today, up until the time we pass the tax reconciliation bill, we are actually engaging in an utterly futile activity that should have been avoided by the simple act of granting consent. In effect, the minority, in apparently a display of pique, wants to make the Senate, in effect, do again a bill it already did in December.

I am not opposed to dilatory tactics when they are not pointless. I have been in the minority in this body and have been a proud guardian of gridlock from time to time when there was a point to it, when we were actually trying to defeat a measure. But it seems to me to some extent it demeans the institution and grates on the nerves of everyone when common courtesy of granting consent is not offered.

Nevertheless, yesterday and today, we will plod through a bill that we did about 5 weeks ago one more time; at the end, with the same result.

Let me report that at this point there are 7 hours remaining for that debate, although we do not believe all of that time will be necessary. At some point early this afternoon, we expect on this side to yield back time, and we would begin voting. The so-called vote-a-rama will be a series of consecutive votes on amendments to the bill which will eventually lead to passage. We hope it is not a lengthy voting series because that will simply inconvenience all Members on both sides of the aisle. However, that is up to the Members of this body as to how many amendments they choose to offer.

In any event, the majority leader has stated that we will stay on the bill until we complete it this week. I encourage Senators to stay close to the Chamber once the voting sequence begins again because, for all recall, there is not much time between those votes. I yield the floor.

RECOGNITION OF THE MINORITY LEADER

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The minority leader is recognized.

DEFICIT REDUCTION

Mr. REID. Madam President, through the Chair to the distinguished Senator from Kentucky, and to anyone within the sound of my voice, if there were ever a grating of nerves, it is the nerves of the American people by what this piece of legislation does to them. This legislation was named by the majority in conjunction with the President. It is called the Deficit Reduction Act of 2005. If there were ever Orwellian doublespeak, it is that.

Using the numbers the majority placed in this bill, the budget Deficit Reduction Act of 2005—we are in 2006, but it was named and completed in 2005—increases the deficit by $50 billion. The Deficit Reduction Act of 2005 increases the deficit by $50 billion using their numbers. So let's not talk about grating the nerves. If there were ever a grating of nerves, it should be the American people who are so concerned about what has happened to the economy of this country.

In just a few days we are going to be asked to increase the debt ceiling from $8.2 trillion to whatever figure they pick, $9 trillion; $8.2 trillion to whatever figure they asked to increase the debt ceiling from economy of this country. I certainly don't intend to engage in a prolonged debate this morning. Let me repeat that we passed this bill about 5 weeks ago. A number of Democrats voted for it on final passage. The reason they voted for it is they know it is the only way to prevent a tax increase on many middle-class people who are counting on the tax relief that was passed several years back and hope that it will continue. My only point is, I say to my good friend from Nevada—and he is my good friend—we have been there and done that on this bill. To simply say and be told that is arguable a waste of the Senate's time. Nevertheless, that is where we are. At some point this week we will complete, once again, the passage of this Tax Increase Prevention Act which will be to the substantial benefit of the American people.

I yield the floor.

TAX RELIEF EXTENSION RECONCILIATION ACT OF 2005

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Under the previous order, the Senate will resume consideration of H.R. 4297, which the clerk will report.

The legislative clerk reads as follows:

A bill to provide for reconciliation pursuant to section 201(b) of the concurrent resolution on the budget for fiscal year 2006.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Montana.

Mr. BAUCUS. Madam President, we have a few hours left on this side. I believe the Senator from California, Mrs. Boxer, is on her way to the Chamber and will be here momentarily. Until that moment arrives, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. BYRD. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. BYRD. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that I may yield to the distinguished Senator from Michigan such time as she may require and that I may be recognized at the close of her remarks.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The Senator from Michigan.

Ms. STABENOW. Madam President, I thank the distinguished Senator from West Virginia for his kindness this morning.

I rise in support of Senator BAUCUS's amendment. At a time when middle-class families are struggling to pay their bills, the House tax bill would actually increase taxes by more than $30 billion on those families—$30 billion. This is a very difficult time for Michigan families. Every day we hear news about another plant closing or a company entering into bankruptcy.

Michigan has lost 111,000 manufacturing jobs, and that doesn't include the recent announcement by Ford to cut another 30,000 jobs.

Michigan families are worried about their jobs. They are also worried about losing the pensions that they have worked hard for and paid into for the 30 years that they have worked. They see their health care premiums continue to skyrocket, and they are struggling to fill gas tanks and pay home heating bills. The average price of gasoline in Michigan last month was $2.35 a gallon. Now middle-class families are facing home heating bills that are as much as 35 percent more expensive than last year. And their salaries and their pay stubs don't show a 35-percent increase. If anything, they are going down in terms of income.

What does the House bill propose to do to help middle-class families? Raise their taxes. This was quite stunning to me when I reviewed the bill that came from the House of Representatives. We are talking about a bill that actually raises taxes on middle-income families. That is not acceptable. We can do better than that. Our middle-class way of life is in danger. I believe very strongly that Michigan and places across this country we are fighting for a way of life. Will we have the standard of living that we have had? Will we have the ability to send our kids to college and be able to buy a house and be able to have the American dream and be successful? At every turn, we are seeing action taken here that takes our way of life and our opportunities away. Before Christmas, it was a bill that is part of this whole package, cutting over $12 billion in opportunities for people to go to college, by cutting student loans. So this is another one of those cases where people are working hard, expecting us to do the right thing and, in fact, the House bill would increase taxes on middle-income people, while lowering taxes for those who are already very blessed, earning millions of dollars a year. We need to be passing legislation that lowers health care costs, which is hurting American manufacturers. We need legislation that will protect people's pensions. This ought to be a basic premise and principle that we abide by in this country. When you work hard all your life and you pay into a pension, you should know that that will be there for you and your family.

We must also enforce our trade laws and insist that countries such as China and Japan play by the rules and stop manipulating their currency and that we come to see countries coming into this country illegally, or other countries stealing our ideas and patents. That is the debate we should be having here. These are the things that we should be talking. I was deeply concerned the other night to hear the President talk about those of us who want to enforce trade laws, essentially saying we are protectionists if we don’t stand back and say that in a global economy, whatever happens happens, that those of us who care about the rules and want trade to be fair are somehow protectionists. I profoundly disagree with that.

It is our job to fight for American businesses and American workers. That is what I do every day, and I know that many colleagues feel the same way. The debate we need to be having on the floor is how to save our middle class, save our way of life. But at a minimum, we should not be passing a tax increase on middle-class families.

Michigan is the heart and soul of the middle class. There are 52,000 families in jeopardy of facing a tax increase if we do not address the alternative minimum tax. The alternative minimum tax ceiling needs to be raised, as we know. Fundamentally, while there has been agreement in this Chamber to do that, if we don’t come out of conference committee between the House and the Senate, we will see 19 million families getting a tax increase as a result of actions of the Congress.

For instance, a family with five children will be in this ceiling if their income exceeds $54,000. They would, under the current system, pay more taxes. But without children, their income could exceed $76,000 before they pay more taxes. Think about that. Why is that fair? If you have five children, five mouths to feed, five children to buy clothes for, five children whom you are worried about going to college, you are going to pay higher taxes than somebody without children. That makes no sense. That is a $20,000 difference, a $20,000 penalty for having children. That makes absolutely no sense. What is American about that?

Sadly, under the current system on taxes with the AMT, the larger your family, the larger the tax you pay. To add insult to injury, the House bill extends the capital gains and dividend tax rates to provide $50 billion in tax breaks to our wealthiest Americans—$50 billion in tax breaks to our wealthy Americans—while a family with five children, earning $54,000 a year, will pay more taxes.

The majority of Americans are looking at this and asking, what is going on here? Where are our priorities, our values? This is backward. Even more egregious is the fact that these tax breaks that are given under the House bill are not set to expire until 2008. So the current tax cuts being given to the wealthiest Americans don’t even expire until 2008, but the current problem for middle-income families happens right away; the current tax increase happens right away.

This bill is money to ensure that the wealthiest 3 percent of Americans are given a break that will last until 2010. Meanwhile, right now, middle and lower income families are facing lower wages, mounting health care costs, trying to pay the gas bill, trying to pay the home heating bill, trying to send the kids to college, while we cut student loans. I did not support that. And now we are going to say, potentially, if the House bill were to become reality, by the way, you are going to pay more in taxes. This makes absolutely no sense.

I commend my colleague, Senator BAUCUS, and I commend the chairman of the Finance Committee, as well, for working together to fix this, getting the Senate to work together to fix this. We need to not only fix this in the Senate because we have agreed that this is not right—but this needs to be fixed when the bill ends up going to the President’s desk. That is when we will know whether 19 million American families will have a tax increase. My vote is “no” on that one, and it is “yes” on making sure we fight for that, which will keep our way of life in this country.

Madam President, I yield the floor, and I thank the Senator from West Virginia again for allowing me to use this time.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore, The Senator from Montana is recognized.

Mr. BAUCUS. Madam President, several on our side wish to make statements before we get to offer amendments and vote. It is my understanding that it will begin at about 2:15. There will be a series of amendments then offered, obviously, we will vote on. There are a good number on this side and a few on the other side of the aisle. I encourage Senators to quickly find those amendments so we can line up those amendments as we go, as we find things up as expeditiously as we possibly can.

In the meantime, I remind the Senate where we are. We are on the House deficit reduction bill. Later today, I expect that the majority leader will offer a substitute amendment. That will be the Senate amendment; that is a Senate-passed bill to the House bill. The Senate-passed bill will include a perfecting amendment. The perfecting amendment will modify the Senate-passed bill that previously passed in the Senate by extending the so-called tax extenders. R&D tax credit, the WOTC tax credit, tuition reduction, and savers’ credit, for an additional year. Those provisions expired at the end of 2005. The Senate bill extended all those provisions, so-called extenders, for 1 more year, until the end of 2006. The perfecting amendment that will be offered will then add another year to all those, so that those provisions, if that amendment passes, will not expire; this will have 2 more years of life. That is the major change that will be in the perfecting amendment to the Senate substitute, which the majority leader, I assume fairly quickly, will offer.

To remind Senators, the main difference between the House and Senate bill is this: The House bill includes the extension of the lower taxes—the dividend tax and capital gains taxes—for 2 more years. Currently, taxation on dividends and income taxation on capital gains enjoys a lower rate that was put into effect several years ago. That provision or lower rate is in current law and will extend under current law for 2 more years, until the end of 2008, December 31. The House-passed bill extends that provision 2 more years, so it would be in effect for not only 2006, 2007, and 2008, but the House bill would be in 2009 and 2010, the full calendar years.

The House-passed bill doesn’t, however, include any relief for alternative minimum taxes, which about 17 million Americans will have to pay this year, 2006. Actually, it is about 20 million because 3 million taxpayers had to pay for 2005, and 17 million more taxpayers will have to pay an additional tax under the so-called stealth tax, the alternative minimum tax in 2006. So the House bill extends provisions that need not be extended because the law doesn’t change, but it does not reduce taxes for people who are going to pay more for taxes in 2006. Contrast that with the Senate-passed bill, which would be the substitute for the House bill. If it passes, it will wind up back over to the House. They, presumably, will disagree with the Senate and ask for a conference. We will appoint conferees and begin a conference on the two separate bills. That will happen next week probably.

Again, the Senate bill doesn’t extend dividend reduction, capital gains tax reduction, for 2 more years. It maintains current law, which provides the current low rate in existence for not only this year but also next year and also the following year, through December 31, 2008. We did, however, in the Senate bill, say, OK, those 17 million people—Americans who are going to have to pay AMT—that is additional tax in 2006—should not have to pay that additional tax. We, in the Senate bill, said we are going to extend the provisions, the so-called AMT patch, so those Americans will not have to pay additional tax under the alternative minimum tax.

That is a major difference between the House and Senate bill. I hope that we in Senate can do what I think most Americans want. Most Americans would say, OK, 17 million Americans—okay, raise their taxes, if that makes sure those taxes are not raised. And then we will worry about 2009 and 2010, when we may or may not want to extend more favorable tax treatment on capital gains income and on dividend income. We can cross that bridge when we get there. Because the budget resolution says we cannot lower taxes by more than $7 billion over 5 years, we just can’t do it all. We have to make choices. If you add up all the provisions that people extend—that extenders—it is forcing us in the Congress to begin to make a choice as to what is more important: prevent the additional taxes people have to pay next year under the AMT, or is it more important that they pay those taxes but, more for the sake of principle than anything else, extend that dividend and capital gains preferential treatment for years 2009 and 2010.

Again, the House bill only addresses 2009 and 2010. Why? Because under current law, capital gains income and dividend income enjoy favorable tax treatment.

That is the basic posture we are in here. It should not take too long. After various amendments are brought up and Senators vote on them, we will send the bill over to the House. The House will probably disagree and request a conference. We will have a conference when we come back next week and finally work out passage of this bill.

I see the Senator from West Virginia is on the floor. I turn to the Senator from West Virginia and yield to him whatever he desires.

Mr. BYRD. Madam President, I thank my distinguished friend. He can go ahead with whatever remarks he has. I would love to wait 2 or 3 more minutes.

Mr. BAUCUS. Madam President, if I may ask the Senator from California, how much time does she desire?

Mrs. BOXER. If I can have 20 minutes following Senator BYRD, which we think will be used by other Senators on the same topic.

Mr. BAUCUS. I will do this. Why don’t I yield to the Senator from Michigan 5 minutes and then the Senator from West Virginia. Is that all right with the Senator from California?

Mrs. BOXER. If I can be in that line.

Mr. BAUCUS. Yes. I think the Senator from West Virginia would like to defer to the Senator from Michigan at this point.

Mr. BYRD. I thank the Senator.

Mr. BAUCUS. I appreciate the Senator speaking on short notice. Madam President, I yield 5 minutes to the Senator from Michigan.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Michigan.

DETROIT AND SUPER BOWL XL

Ms. STABENOW. Madam President, after speaking in support of the Boxer amendment, which I think is extremely important, I wanted to take a moment in the middle of this very important debate on this important bill, and rise to speak to another important event that is occurring this weekend.

I rise today to cheer not for the Pittsburgh Steelers or the Seattle Seahawks but for the city of Detroit and the State of Michigan, which is the host of the Super Bowl XL this weekend. We are very excited about this important event. It is a spotlight shining on Detroit, MI, and I am confident the city and my home State are ready for their closeup this weekend. The State of Michigan and the city of Detroit are honored to play host to the most watched sporting event in our country. I am sure Detroit will shine, as it has before when it has hosted the Stanley Cup finals, the World Series, and the Major League Baseball All-Star Game, which was just held this last summer.

Ford Field is a beautiful stadium which will be an ideal setting for the Seahawks and Steelerers, and Cobo Hall will play host to the NFL Experience, a football “theme park” where children and their parents can enjoy over 50 interactive football theme games and displays.

We are expecting over 100,000 visitors to downtown Detroit. I was there last week and saw that a lot of people have gotten there early to enjoy what our city offers. We are so very proud of the city and are pleased to welcome them. Not only will visitors have a chance to experience Detroit’s restaurants and nightlife, but they can go to the Henry Ford Museum and see the bus on which Rosa Parks made her historic stand and visit the African-American Museum. This weekend’s visitors will see all the wonderful things Detroit and the State of Michigan have to offer.

I must say that we have over 10,000 volunteers who are ready and are working to make sure everyone enjoys every minute of their stay, and I thank those volunteers for their hard work in being a part of helping Detroit shine.

Detroit is the Motor City, and I am thrilled that Stevie Wonder will perform before the game and that Aretha Franklin will sing the National Anthem. On Saturday, Motown’s music heritage will be on display when the Four Tops, the Temptations, the Supremes, the Four Tops, the Contours, the Dramatics, the former ladies of the Supremes, Freda Payne, Brenda Holloway, Martha Reeves and the Vandellas, the Velvettes, and Paul Hill play at the Masonic Temple. That will be an amazing event to participate in and listen to.

On Friday and Saturday night, Kid Rock plays at the Joe Lewis Arena before a sold-out house, proving that Detroit is the Rock City.

This weekend, Detroit will welcome home two of its native sons—Jerome Bettis and Larry Foote, both members of the Pittsburgh Steelers. Larry Foote, a graduate of Pershing High, is at the beginning of a promising NFL career, while Jerome Bettis is near the end of a Hall of Fame career where he has displayed the character and toughness of a Detroit native. Bettis graduated from MacKenzie High in the late eighties, entered the NFL in 1993, and has since been mowing down defenses on his way to ranking fifth on the NFL’s all-time rushing list.

The Super Bowl will give Detroit and the State of Michigan and the region an economic boost, but it will also provide a more important opportunity for the people I represent to shine, as I know they will. I am proud of Michigan’s history and excited about our future. I am sure that on Sunday night, those who have visited Detroit, those who have watched the game will be excited as well. We say welcome to all of them.

I yield the floor.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from West Virginia.

Mr. BYRD. I thank the very distinguished occupant of the chair, who presides over this august Chamber with a dignity that is so rare as a day in June and a loveliness that permeates the Chamber. I thank the Chair.

MINE SAFETY

Madam President, yesterday, two more coal miners died in West Virginia—two more, two more coal miners that yesterday in West Virginia—one at Long Branch Energy’s No. 18 tunnel mine in Boone County and the other at the Black Castle Surface Mine, which is also in Boone County, WV. That is a total of 16 coal miner deaths this year, and the year is only 33 days old. This situation is deplorable—ghastly deplorable.

The Governor of West Virginia, the Honorable Joseph Manchin, announced last night that he has asked the coal operators of West Virginia to cease production immediately and to go into a mine safety standby. He has asked that miners be removed from mines in order to review safety procedures and asked that each new shift also review safety procedures before entering the mine.

The Governor has called for expedited inspections of the State’s mines, and he has asked that the U.S. Labor Department send additional Federal inspectors and personnel to the State.

The Mine Safety and Health Administration of the U.S. Department of Labor announced last night that it would expand the mine safety standby to mines across the Nation on Monday, February 6.

This is a very noble action on the part of our Governor, Joe Manchin. I have talked with Governor Manchin, and I compliment him.

I have to say that shutting down the mines for 1 hour is not a serious solution. It may be a timeout for safety, but it is not time enough for meaningful safety. Mine safety officials are displaying increasing concern about this rash of mining fatalities.

Those who consider the tragedies at the Sago and Alma mines to be random occurrences are now taking a second look. They are asking this morning: When will these mine tragedies stop? When? The answer to that question is unsettling, isn’t it? It is possible that these accidents are not going to stop. God only knows. Life and death are in God’s hands.

It is possible that mine safety protections have eroded so much in recent years that these actions are going to continue. Who would have thought that these mine deaths would occur as they have and in one State? It is possible that these accidents are going to continue to happen again and again unless new action—dramatic action—is taken by the Federal Government to curb these mining hazards.

The danger to our coal miners is real—very real. Yes, very, very real.
The dangers to our miners is very real. There are too many needs, from emergency communications and breathing equipment to a rapid notification and response system to penalizing the reckless disregard of Federal safety standards. Real, I say, are not being addressed by the Labor Department and the Mine Safety and Health Administration and require swift action by the Congress.

The longer we wait to act in Congress, the more likely another fatality and then another fatality and then another may occur. The longer we wait to act, the greater the threat to our energy infrastructure. If these tragedies continue, mines could be closed and coal and energy production could falter, and then another fatality and then another may occur. The consequences could ripple throughout the national economy. We cannot delay. We cannot delay in responding.

I spoke with the distinguished majority leader yesterday. Of course, I have already spoken with our distinguished minority leader, who has joined in supporting the need for action on the bill that I have introduced, along with Senators Rockefeller and along with the delegation. I spoke with the majority leader yesterday, and I have asked mine safety legislation be considered quickly, and I publicly renew that request.

I have come to the Senate floor hoping to see the majority leader again this morning, but he is needed elsewhere, and for good reason, at the moment. But I publicly renew that request, and upon his arrival I shall discuss this matter with him. I have discussed it already with the assistant leader, Mr. McConnell. I urge that this legislation be scheduled as soon as possible, that there be scheduled time as soon as possible on mine safety legislation.

The bill the West Virginia delegation introduced yesterday will help to protect the lives of our miners. It will help to keep the Virginia mines open. It will help to keep the coal companies to help keep the coal fueling the energy demands of our national economy. But we must act quickly. We must ensure the safety of our coal miners.

Hear me. Listen. We must ensure the safety of our coal miners in order to ensure the safety of the Nation. The security of the Nation depends on the safety of our coal miners. We have delayed too long already, and every additional day we wait puts another miner's life at risk.

O Death, where is thy sting? O grave, where is thy victory?

Senators, listen: For whom does the bell toll? Who knows who will be next? I yield the floor.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Montana.

Mr. Baucus. Madam President, I yield 20 minutes to the Senator from California.

Mrs. Boxer. I ask my colleagues to make sure Senator Lautenberg knows my colleagues are willing to yield him 10 minutes upon my completion; is that correct?

Mr. Baucus. I will then subsequently yield to the Senator from New Jersey.

Mr. Byrd. Madam President, will the distinguished Senator from California yield?

Mrs. Boxer. Yes.

Mr. Byrd. I ask so that I might thank her again for delaying her speech until I could make these few remarks. I thank her from the bottom of my heart. She is so considerate always, so courteous: "And what is so rare as a day in June?" The beauty of the Senator from California.

Mrs. Boxer. Oh, that is so nice.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from California.

Mrs. Boxer. I thank my friend and colleague, and really, in so many ways, our leader in the Senate, and say to him before he leaves the floor how much we stand with him on these mine safety questions.

We Americans are just facing so many tragedies. My colleague reports on yet more deaths in the mines, deaths that are preventable if we do the right thing by our workers. We are mourning together today five more American soldiers killed in Iraq. We had an incident, a workplace killing in Santa Barbara where five or six people lay dead. It is tough times. But I want my good friends here that we will stand with him on this mine safety question.

Mr. Byrd. Madam President, if I might just take 1 minute, I deeply thank—as they say in the other body—the gentility from California, for her noble comments and for her support. The West Virginia delegation in the House and the Senate is pleased at her expressions of support. We are glad to have that support. West Virginia is proud of the Virginia delegation, the delegation that stands with us in this hour of sorrow.

I thank the Senator from California for yielding and for her support.

Mrs. Boxer. Madam President, I rise now to discuss an amendment on behalf of myself and Senators Kerry and Lautenberg, which expresses the sense of the Senate that the White House should provide the public with a thorough account of the meetings that the President, his staff, and senior executive branch officials held with Jack Abramoff. The public's confidence in the Government has been eroded, rocked by the widespread reports of public corruption involving Jack Abramoff.

On January 3, Mr. Abramoff pleaded guilty to conspiracy, fraud, tax evasion charges, charges that carry up to a 30-year sentence. He agreed to cooperate with prosecutors in their investigation of a number of public officials, and we don't know where all this will lead. I urge the Justice Department to continue its investigation into any bribery and corruption.

The damage to the public trust from the Abramoff scandal, combined with the recent prosecution of Congressman Randy Cunningham, and the indictment of Congressman Tom Delay is massive. The investigation by the Department of Justice has just begun. But right now, sadly, there is a very low opinion of politicians, and trust must be restored with the American people. We cannot govern effectively without the support and confidence of the people. We are supposed to be their representatives. We owe them everything, and we must start with honesty, with ethics, so we can regain their trust.

If the people have lost confidence, we have to win it back. Every Senator I know has searched his or her records for contributions from Jack Abramoff, from his associates and the tribes he represented. Each of us has responded in our own way. But to my knowledge, only one Senator has publicly said: We have told our constituents what the situation is and whether we plan to do something about it.

In the State of the Union Address the President said:

Each of us has made a pledge to be worthy of public responsibility—and that is a pledge we must never forget, never dismiss, and never betray.

Those are noble sentiments, very noble sentiments, and I challenge the President to live up to them. Where there is an appearance of impropriety, it is the responsibility of public officials to be open with the public and to clear up any questions that might exist. I know in my long career in elected life, and it is now more than 30 years of elected life, I have had to return contributions from time to time. I have tried to avoid the appearance of a conflict of interest. I have even recused myself on three occasions because I believed that was the right thing to do. But no matter what each of us does there will still be those who doubt us. It is the system. It is a system that is based on private financing, so it is very difficult, with that system, to gain the trust of the people.

But it starts with openness. It starts with transparency. We should each try to be as open as we can and make sure that, whatever we decide to do, the public is informed. It doesn't help to be secretive. It doesn't help to say: I don't have to do this; it is my right not to tell the public anything. It may be your right, but it does not make it right.

According to the press secretary of the President, Scott McClellan, the President does not know and doesn't remember ever meeting Jack Abramoff, and despite repeated requests the White House has failed to provide details of meetings between Jack Abramoff and the President and his staff. The problem is, more and more details keep coming out about the relationship between Mr. Abramoff and the President.

Starting in 1997, Mr. Abramoff claimed credit for procuring a letter from then-Governor Bush that praised the then-Northern Marianas Island Education Plan. In 2000, Jack Abramoff joined the Bush-Cheney transition team. Several colleagues of Mr. Abramoff ended up being appointed to key positions in the Department of Interior, that regulates Indian gaming issues, central to Mr. Abramoff’s lobbying business.

According to the Associated Press, Jack Abramoff and his lobbying team had nearly 200 contacts with the Bush administration in the first 10 months they were in office—200 contacts in less than a year, and nobody remembers anything? I mean it doesn’t pass the smell test, to be crude about it.

By 2001, Mr. Abramoff appears to have been selling his clients access to the President. On May 9, 2001, the White House arranged an event on behalf of the group Americans for Tax Reform. That group is a very strong ally of President Bush. The event was attended by the President and a number of legislators. There is a trail of documents that shows that Mr. Abramoff asked some of his clients for $25,000 to go to that event, with the funds going to this Americans for Tax Reform.

I want to show you some e-mails because I think that tells the story better than anything. So here is what Mr. Abramoff asked in an e-mail to a representative of one of his tribal clients.

> Americans for Tax Reform is bringing together the speakers of all Republican-led legislatures for a meeting with Bush and the congressional leadership. They have requested sponsorship ($25 K) from only four groups. Two of them will be major corporations and one will be Choctaw. Chief Martin will be coming to the event I expect. I told them that I would ask you guys to participate. The exposure would be incredible and would be very helpful. One of the things we need to do is get the leaders of the tribes (ideally the chief) in front of the President as much as possible. Please let me know as soon as you can. Thanks.

That is Mr. Abramoff to the representative of one of the tribes.

Let us see what that particular individual wrote to her tribe after she received Mr. Abramoff’s e-mail. She wrote:

> Attached is an e-mail from Jack Abramoff with the subject line: "Tax Reform - Jack Abramoff & Treasury." The chairman has agreed for the tribe to be one of the four sponsors of and participate in a White House event on behalf of the Americans for Tax Reform which is being held on May 9, 2001 in D.C. Please immediately prepare a check made payable to Americans for Tax Reform in the amount of $25,000 and forward it to my office by Federal Express. Then FedEx the check to Mr. Abramoff.

> Just to finish this story, here we have a copy of the check Mr. Abramoff received from the Coushatta Tribe of Louisiana in the amount of $25,000—selling the President of the United States and using Federal property.

The meeting was held in the Old Executive Office Building. In all, it appears that four or more of Abramoff’s clients attended the event, and at least two claimed they paid the $25,000 requested. They paid that to get close to the President on Federal property. Jack Abramoff, as I said, delivered the President of the United States in exchange for his clients’ contribution to the Republican Party. How many more Abramoff clients attended is not clear, and who paid money to attend the White House event is not clear. The White House claims it has no record of Mr. Abramoff attending, but Time magazine claimed then-President standing with Abramoff and one of Abramoff’s clients.

This event alone warrants the President providing full disclosure of meetings with White House officials and Jack Abramoff.

By 2001, Mr. Abramoff appears to have a copy of the check Mr. Abramoff requested sponsorship ($25K) from only four of his clients for another White House event in behalf of Americans for Tax Reform.

The public has a right to know whom Mr. Abramoff met with, what they discussed, and whether improprieties existed. According to a Washington Post/ABC News poll, 76 percent said Bush should disclose his contacts with his aides and Mr. Abramoff. Two of three Republicans favored disclosure. Let me say that again. In the poll, two of three Republicans favored disclosure.

> The public has a right to know whom Mr. Abramoff met with, what they discussed, and whether improprieties existed.

> The public has a right to know whom Mr. Abramoff met with, what they discussed, and whether improprieties existed.
great country, one that says the President, under the guise of an act of patriotism, can spy on people, innocent people, invade their privacy totally, and yet withhold records that are vital to the public’s confidence in government, withhold data that is required in this scandal, wiretapping which hangs over Washington.

This deep-seated corruption was exposed as part of an investigation into the activities of the lobbyist Jack Abramoff. I want to make sure that we don’t get away from the fact that Mr. Abramoff was not the only one involved in these schemes. Maybe Mr. Abramoff should be ashamed of it or not, he ought to release it to clear the air. The public wants these contacts disclosed. The President would surely do it in the interests of the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth. And he should be assisting us in this investigation.

White House Press Secretary Scott McClellan says President Bush does not know Mr. Abramoff. But there is stark evidence to the contrary. According to Washingtonian magazine, Abramoff said that not only did he know the names of Abramoff’s children and asked about them during their meetings.

There appears to be a long trail of contacts between Mr. Abramoff and the Bush White House. For starters, President Bush put Mr. Abramoff on his 2000 presidential transition team—a pretty important job, Mr. Abramoff was then able to get his allies appointed to key positions at the Department of the Interior. Why the Department of the Interior? Because it regulates Indian gaming issues that were central to Mr. Abramoff’s lobbying business.

He was also one of President Bush’s top campaign fundraisers, a so-called Pioneer. He raised over $100,000 for President Bush’s 2004 reelection campaign. That was the definition of “Pioneer”—big-time money.

According to Time and Newsweek magazines, Mr. Abramoff also sold access to the White House through payoffs to Norquist’s front organization, Americans for Tax Reform. Senator Boxer displayed a check which was made out to Indian tribes which paid upwards of $25,000 to Norquist for access to President Bush and his top adviser, Karl Rove. Mr. Abramoff’s clients, Tyco, that he talked to Karl Rove about their issues. And David Safavian, a White House official now under indictment, funneled confidential information to Abramoff to help Tyco.

Mr. Abramoff’s own billing records show that his office had almost 200 contacts with the Bush administration in only its first 10 months. The officials listed as contacts included the then-Attorney General John Ashcroft and Vice President’s top advisers.

As far back as 1997, there is evidence of contacts between then-Governor Bush and Mr. Abramoff. Abramoff charged his client at the time, the Northern Mariana Islands, to get Governor Bush to write a letter praising the island’s education plan. Governor Bush did write such a letter to the island government on July 18, 1997, with a “cc” to one of Mr. Abramoff’s deputies.

The bottom line is that this amendment—once again, I salute my colleague from California for bringing this up, and I intend to support it vigorously—the bottom line is that this amendment urges the President to clear the air. The American people want to know whether the Bush White House was complicit with Mr. Abramoff’s schemes. Maybe Mr. Abramoff was exaggerating his contacts with the White House. That is possible. But the way to find out—release the records. We are seeing withholding of information by the White House. I sit on the Committee on Government Accountability. The Republican chairman, Susan Collins, has asked the White House for information related to the Federal Government’s response to Hurricane Katrina. We cannot get that. There has been a public display of the requests for that information.

Does this suggest this White House is committed to keeping the information—information that belongs to the public—private, within their confines so they can do anything they want and not be challenged with their conduct related to this issue? It looks like a constant pattern. I urge my colleagues to support honest and open government and to vote for the Boxer amendment.

I yield the floor and suggest the absence of a quorum.

The Acting President pro tempore. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. BAUCUS. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. DeMINT). Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. BAUCUS. Mr. President, I am pleased that later today I will be offering a modification to the Senate amendment to provide a 2-year extension and enhancement to the research and development tax credit. Of course, I have filed legislation with my friend, Senator Harkin, to make a permanent commitment to research-intensive businesses in the United States.

This legislation is bipartisan and bicameral. But 2-years is certainly much better than the usual yearly extender. I am already starting to hear from business taxpayers how important a commitment to longer term research projects are, and I agree with them.

I am hopeful that we can prevail upon our House conferees to retain this 2-year incentive.

You know, just the other night, the President spoke of the importance of the R&D credit to maintaining America’s competitive edge. He is right, and that is why I have been a strong supporter of legislation to make the credit permanent for the last few Congresses.

Every morning we hear news of some new product or discovery that promises to make our jobs easier or our lives better. Many of these innovations started with a business decision to hire needed researchers and finance the expensive and long process of research and experimentation.

Since 1981, when the R&D tax credit was first enacted, the Federal Government was a partner in that business endeavor because of the potential spill-over benefits to society overall from additional research spending.

But the credit has been hobbled over the years because of its temporary nature. As stated in an analysis last year by the Joint Committee on Taxation, “Perhaps the greatest criticism of the R&D credit among taxpayers regards its temporary nature.”

Joint Tax went on to say, “A credit of longer duration may more successfully induce additional research than would a temporary credit, even if the temporary credit is periodically renewed.”

I think we should heed the advice of the experts at Joint Tax and renew this credit for as long as we can. That is why I will support a modified Senate proposal later today for a 2-year extension.

Research has shown that a tax credit is a cost-effective way to promote R&D. The General Accounting Office, the Bureau of Labor Statistics, the National Bureau of Economic Research, and others have all found significant evidence that a tax credit stimulates additional domestic R&D spending by U.S. companies.

A report by the Congressional Research Service, CRS, indicates that... economists generally agree that, without Government support, firm investment in R&D would fall short of the socially optimal amount, and thus CRS advocates Government policies to boost private sector R&D.

R&D may provide broader economic and labor benefits. R&D lays the foundation for technological innovation, which, in turn, is an important driving force in long-term economic growth—mainly through its impact on the productivity growth and labor. We have many times heard testimony from economists, including Federal Reserve Board Chairman Alan Greenspan, that the reason our economy grew at such breakneck speed during the 1990s stemmed from the productivity growth we realized thanks to technological innovations.

There has been a belief that companies would continue to increase their research spending and that the benefits of those investments on the economy and labor markets would continue without end. Unfortunately, that is not the case.

According to Battelle’s 2005 funding forecast, industrial R&D spending will increase only 1.9 percent above last year, to an estimated $191 billion, which is less than the expected rate of inflation of 2.5 percent. For the fifth year in a row, industrial R&D spending growth has been essentially flat.

It is also important to recognize that many of our foreign competitors are offering permanent and generous incentives to firms that attract research dollars to those countries.

A 2001 study by the Organization of Economic Cooperation and Development, OECD, ranked the United States ninth behind other nations in terms of its incentives for business R&D spending. Countries that provide more generous R&D incentives include Spain, Canada, Portugal, Austria, Australia, Netherlands, France, and Korea.

The United Kingdom was added to this list in 2004, and it further expanded its existing R&D incentives program. The continued absence of a long-term U.S. Government R&D policy that encourages U.S.-based R&D will undermine the ability of American companies to remain competitive in U.S. and foreign markets. This disparity could limit U.S. competitiveness relative to its trading partners in the long run.

Also, U.S. workers who are engaged in R&D activities currently benefit from some of the most intellectually stimulating, high-paying, high-skilled jobs in the economy.

My own State of Montana is an excellent example of this economic activity. During the year just ended, 400 establishments provided high-technology services, at an average wage of about $35,000 per year. These jobs paid nearly 80 percent more than the average private sector wage of less than $20,000 per year during the same year.

Many of these jobs would never have been created without the assistance of the R&D credit.

While there may not be an immediate rush to move all projects and jobs offshore, there has been movement at the margins on those projects that are most cost-sensitive. Once those projects and jobs are gone, it will be many years before companies will have the incentive and incentives bringing them back to the United States.

We continue to grapple with the need to stimulate economic growth and advance policies that represent solid investments that will result in strong benefits for many years to come. I repeatedly have pointed to the R&D tax credit as a measure that gives us a good “bang for our buck.” I hope my colleagues will join me in supporting a 2-year extension. It is good for American businesses and workers, and we need it to maintain our global competitive edge.

Mr. President, I take a few moments to talk about the schedule for the rest of the day. The majority leader will be coming to the floor in a moment. Obviously, he will give a better idea of the schedule.

I expect sometime before 11 o’clock this morning the majority leader will come to the floor to offer the Senate substitute in a Grassley-Baucus perfecting amendment. I understand the majority then will fill the amendment tree—that is, offer amendments to fill up the tree—preventing the offering of amendments this morning. However, Senators on this side of the aisle will be able to offer their amendments. It is just a question of when they can offer amendments.

Later in the day Members can offer amendments. It is the managers’ expectation Senators will have used or yielded all time back on the bill at 2:15 and we will begin a series of votes that regularly follow debate time on the reconciliation bill; that is, the so-called vote-a-rama. Roughly at 2:15 we begin the charade. As Senators offer the amendments, at that point we will vote on the amendments. I am hopeful we will have a couple minutes’ time for an explanation as to what the amendments actually are. That is the procedure.

I discussed the order of amendments to be offered with the Democrat leader, and I have discussed the order with the chairman of the Committee on Finance. Shortly, I will announce the plans for the amendments the Democrat Senators will offer.

Those first 10 amendments in this order are as follows: an amendment by Senator Bingaman on prescription drug implementation; next is an amendment by Senator Menendez, AMT dividends and capital gains, which is germane; third, a Rockefeller amendment on mine safety; fourth, an amendment by Senator Conrad, he will offer the substitute amendment which is fully offset; fifth, an amendment by Senator Kennedy which essentially is the R&D extension for 3 years, and that will be germane; sixth, an amendment by Senator Obama with respect to Katrina child tax credit; next, seventh, an amendment by Senator Cantwell dealing with energy taxes; and No. 8, an amendment by Senator Schumer which is a sense of the Senate on AMT; ninth, an amendment by Senator Harkin with respect to so-called PEP and Pease provisions and dependent care credit; and tenth is an amendment by Senator Landrieu for expansion of the low-income housing tax credit. She wants to expand the tax credit.

There will be other amendments later. I am hopeful the additional Democrat amendments can be 10, 12, 14, but I am not sure. I don’t want to prejudge that. These are the first 10. We will indicate what the others will be.

This is our intention of how to proceed. My expectation is the other side of the aisle will offer amendments. We will work with the chairman of the committee and go back and forth at the appropriate time.

That is the general procedure we have adopted. It is not locked in, but that is the general procedure in consultation with the chairman of the committee that we would like to work out. Senators from the other side of the aisle will want to offer their amendments. It will be the managers’ intention to alternate between both sides of the aisle. We will seek to obtain copies of amendments and announce information on them as soon as possible.

Obviously, if Senators get information on the amendments to us quickly, the more likely we get the amendments up earlier rather than later.

With those caveats, those are the first 10 amendments we expect to be offered. Pending that, the majority leader is in the Senate. I am sure he wants to make a statement.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Tennessee [Mr. Frist], Mr. President, I send a substitute amendment.

Mr. President, I send a substitute amendment to the floor, and I ask for its consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from South Carolina [Mr. Kennedy], Mr. President, I send a substitute amendment.

Mr. President, I send a substitute amendment to the floor, and I ask for its consideration.

The Assistant Clerk reported as follows:

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There is a sufficient second. The yeas and nays were ordered.

Mr. FRIST. I send an amendment to the desk.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The amendment is as follows:

AT THE END OF THE AMENDMENT THE FOLLOWING:

SEC. 1. PERMANENT EXTENSION OF EGTRRA PROVISIONS RELATING TO CHILD TAX CREDIT.

Section 901 of the Economic Growth and Tax Relief Reconciliation Act of 2001 (relating to sunset provisions) shall not apply to the amendments made by section 201 of such Act.

Mr. FRIST. Mr. President, as a continuation of the explanation, it has not been my preference to file these amendments but we have tried to bring over the last couple of days to bring a semblance of order so we can better complete the activity that is in the Senate. It was November when we first passed this bill. The House passed a bill. Under the usual circumstances, with unanimous consent, we marry the two bills. Then there are the second-degree amendments to the desk.

Mr. FRIST. I now believe we can finish it tonight. The only hesitation is how much cooperation we get from our side of the aisle and your side of the aisle. If we do not finish tonight, we will conclude tomorrow until we complete the legislation.

Mr. FRIST. Mr. President, if it is helpful to all Senators, especially the Senator from Tennessee and the Senator from Montana, we have a total of about 20 amendments on this side. I don’t know how many are on the other side, but I guess we may finish by about 7 o’clock or 8 o’clock tonight. That is a rough estimate. Maybe earlier.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I appreciate the positive tone of voice of my distinguished friend from Montana, but if we have 20 votes—and that is on our side—and there are second-degree amendments to those, and amendments that don’t belong on the other side, we are talking about a long night. The best we can do, no matter how hard we try, is three, three and a half amendments an hour. So we are talking about, if we start at 2 o’clock, a lot of hours.

I appreciate everyone being confident we will do this. And we will certainly cooperate any way we can. And, as happens, there may be Members who decide not to offer their amendments. That is always a possibility. We will do our best to work with them. The distinguished majority leader is in the Senate, but it is very likely we may not be able to finish all these votes—well, maybe not “very likely”—but it is certainly possible we may not be able to finish the votes tonight.

Mr. FRIST. Mr. President, I have made it clear from the outset we need to finish this legislation this week. Friday is a working day, as we all know. If we have to be here, we will do that. On the other hand, once people understand where we are and that we do not actually have to be doing this, people will step back and be reasonable in terms of the number of amendments, making sure they are amendments relative to the underlying bill. The managers will do this later, but Members need to be clear these are 10-minute votes, as well. I yield the floor.

Mr. BAUCUS. Mr. President, I don’t see any Member wishing to speak at this moment.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

Mr. FRIST. Mr. President, through the Chair, in response, I certainly hope so. I believe we are in a position to do so, but it depends on how many amendments we have. Once we start voting, we will keep the amendments very tight. Both the Democrat leader and I said we hoped it would not come to this point to have a vote-arama, but that is what it will be. I believe we can finish it tonight. The only hesitation is how much cooperation we get from our side of the aisle and your side of the aisle.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Nevada, we have a total of about 20 amendments on this side. I don’t know how many are on the other side, but I guess we may finish by about 7 o’clock or 8 o’clock tonight. That is a rough estimate. Maybe earlier.

Mr. FRIST. Mr. President, through the Chair, in response, I certainly hope...
Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I rise to make a point of view and critical comments on a statement that was made yesterday by the Senator from North Dakota, Mr. DORGAN. Once again, he made a very impassioned case, and everybody who hears him knows he knows his case very well. He made an impassioned case for American workers whose jobs have been lost when plants move overseas.

We have all witnessed this heart-wrenching event. I know even in my home State of Iowa we have had plant closings for that reason. Some of those operations have been moved out of the United States. But as far as Iowans are concerned, let me remind you this has been a phenomenon of plants moving from one place to another place for a long time, before we ever heard the word "outsourcing." I remind my colleagues I was a member of the International Association of Machinists at a sheet metal factory, the Westward Copper Company, in the City of Cedar Falls, IA. We made furnace registers. I started working there in 1961, when I was a young member of the Iowa Legislature, to supplement the income of a citizen legislator, and also to supplement the income of a young farmer who was trying to raise a family at that time because I was only farming 80 acres at that time. Even in 1961, you could not make a living farming 80 areas. You could not make a living getting $3,000 every other year being an Iowa legislator. So I became a factory worker.

At about 1971, the people who owned our company decided people in Texas would work for less money than people in Waterloo, IA, so they moved the plant to Texas. Our job was shut down. Our job was lost. The outsourcing was not to China, it was to Texas. I presume that 25 years later there were jobs that moved from Iowa to Texas that eventually moved to Mexico, and then it was not long Mexico was losing jobs from Mexico to China. Now we hear about jobs moving from China to someplace else, where somebody is going to work someplace else for a lower wage. I guess when you have a planet of 6.5 billion people, and people want to work and want to make proper wages, somebody is going to seek that work and do it. So I believe I have been a victim of outsourcing not only to China but to Texas. But it is still a problem today, and it is one for which we have to have sympathy.

Senator DORGAN, obviously, presents a great case for those people. But I want people to know I have lived through that and know what it is like when I am commenting because I do not want people to think I am unsympathetic to outsourcing. But I think we have to recognize the economic facts of life, whether it is my job at the Waterloo Register in Cedar Falls, IA, or whether it was 250 years ago when manufacturing jobs left Great Britain to come to the Colonies in the United States of America.

Now, I want to say, unfortunately, Senator DORGAN's amendment—if it is an amendment—will hit those companies very well. He can tell from the debate that we just had that we do not have the language on these amendments, and we are begging for them. Anybody who believes in transparency of Government ought to get these amendments out here. There is no reason why we ought to keep people's business because everybody is watching us right here on television. We are not trying to hide anything. So we need to see those amendments.

But the point is, if it is like the amendment in 2004, that amendment will not do one thing to bring jobs back to America. In fact, it could very well cost even more U.S. jobs. I would like to explain, then, why I come to this conclusion.

This amendment, if it is similar, repeals deferral for property imported into the United States by a foreign subsidiary of a U.S. company, without regard to whether that property was ever previously produced, manufactured, or grown in the United States.

This means the amendment by Senator DORGAN fails to focus on their primary complaint that U.S. companies are shutting their plants, moving production offshore, and selling back into the United States. The bill does not focus on this scenario. Instead, it over-shoots the mark by hitting all goods sold into America by U.S. companies, even if it is impossible for those goods to be produced in America.

For example, if a produce company sets up a banana farm in Costa Rica to import bananas into the United States and around the world, the income from sales to the United States is not eligible for deferral. I may be mistaken on this point. As I said in 2004, and you can tell from the debate that we just had that time, we do not have the language on these amendments. I may be mistaken on the point. But I do not think it is impossible for those goods to be produced in America.

Similarly, if a U.S. company wanted to start a mining operation in some faraway land to extract a new and exotic mineral that is not found at home, they could see that anywhere in the world, but they cannot import that back into the United States without triggering the impact of this amendment.

Or let's look at coffee. We have a lot of coffee shops on our streets these days. If they set up their own coffee plantation in Brazil, they would be hit by the Dorgan amendment. I think we only raise coffee in one state in the United States, and maybe they do not do that in Hawaii anymore. But there is not much coffee raised in the United States. We sure do not raise it in my State of Iowa.

Our friends from New York and New Jersey ought to consider the effects of this amendment on Puerto Rican residents who work in plants owned by subsidiaries of U.S. companies. Many of the U.S. multinationals have manufacturing subsidiaries in Puerto Rico that import products into the U.S. market. Since our Tax Code treats Puerto Rican corporations like foreign corporations, this amendment will hit those companies very hard. But it would not hit their foreign-owned competitors who sell into the United States.

It seems Senator DORGAN's amendment would allow a U.S. company to sell a foreign-produced good to anyone in the world except Americans, but it would allow a foreign-based company to sell those same goods to Americans. When you stop to think about looking out for the benefit of Americans, this does not make any sense.

I have described how the bill would operate, but I do not think this is the intent of the legislation. What I believe is intended is that deferral should be allowed in the case where a company in the United States produces the goods offshore, and then imports the goods back into the United States.

This does not actually happen very often. We have had this debate before. The last time I spoke on this issue was when we were debating the JOBS bill back in 2004. I do not think much has changed since then.

At that time, the latest Department of Commerce data on U.S. multinationals showed that only 7 percent of foreign subsidiary sales were into the United States—only 7 percent.

Nevertheless, this amendment insists that the rule of origin is "American." In our tax law is somehow a "tax benefit" that moves jobs offshore and allows you to not pay taxes on foreign income. This is not true, of course. Deferral has nothing to do with moving jobs, and it never forgives taxes that are owed on foreign profits of U.S. companies.

Many U.S. companies, however, choose to reinvest their foreign earnings in foreign markets, and so the U.S. tax on those earnings is, then, indefinitely deferred.

As Senator DORGAN noted, the JOBS bill, that calls the American Jobs Creation Act of 2004, did contain a provision that provided U.S. multinationals a temporary ability to receive dividends from their foreign subsidiaries at a reduced tax rate. Now, it is important to note that companies could only avail themselves of this reduced rate on an amount of earnings that was "deferrable" in the first place. The provision was "permanently reinvested." That is a legal term, which means they had no intention of bringing that money back to the United States.

Senator DORGAN's characterization of the provision is misleading, and I would say in two ways. First, Senator DORGAN calls the repatriation provision a tax cut of over $100 billion. To arrive at that huge number, the Senator's calculation would add the companies' earnings home in the absence of the repatriation provision of the JOBS bill.
Now, the fact is—and I get this from scoring by the nonpartisan Joint Committee on Taxation—this provision has a cost to the Treasury of not $100 billion but $1.9 billion over 5 years and $3.3 billion over 10 years; and it actually produced a double-dip raise in the first year of $2.8 billion.

Now, I plan on looking at the actual results of this repatriation provision when all the facts are in, after the fact. You are kind of guessing before you pass it. You pass it and it has operated for a couple years, then you get a chance to get a real look at it. So we are going to look at this repatriation provision. But the Joint Committee on Taxation must have scored this provision as a raiser in year 1, and a relatively small cost over 5 and 10 years, because 5.25 percent of a large amount that was repatriated is a lot more than 35 percent of a much smaller amount that would have been repatriated otherwise.

In other words, it is not as much money as it looks. I am not here to defend the repatriation provision or those companies that laid off workers or took advantage of the repatriation provision. I am just as troubled by those announcements as the Joint Committee on Taxation was troubled by those announcements as Senator DORGAN. I am simply pointing out that Senator DORGAN’s characterization of that provision as a $100 billion tax cut is extremely misleading.

Second, Senator DORGAN talks as if the repatriation provision was the cornerstone of the American Jobs Creation Act, and it was kind of an appendage. In fact, the repatriation provision was a very small part of the bill. One of the key pieces of the JOBS bill was the manufacturing deduction which does actually give a tax break for companies that manufacture, leaving jobs here or creating jobs here. The Joint Committee on Taxation scored this provision as a cost to the Treasury of $76 billion over a 10-year period. That is, in fact, a tax cut, and it is a tax cut that will maintain jobs in America and will create jobs because one of the problems for American corporations compared to international competition is the high tax rate that we have on corporations compared to a lot of other countries. Those other countries are waking up. Just look at Ireland, look at Europe, what we are talking about doing now—sometimes through our own Union—sometimes through individual countries. They are seeing great advantage by reducing the corporate tax rate in their respective countries.

Two years ago, we thought we had moved ahead of them. Now they are following suit. We may have to go back and look at our corporate tax to find out if we are going to continue to be noncompetitive.

I would like to go back to the deferment issue. The rule of deferral exists to keep U.S. companies competitive in the global marketplace. Deferral is not something new. It has been in our tax laws since 1918. We have debated the rule of deferral on several occasions, and we will no doubt continue to do so when we debate tax reform proposals.

Opponents of deferral too often make wild accusations about how this rule, which has been in place since 1918, spells doom for the American worker. Of course, none of this is true. In fact, just the opposite is true because we must always be vigilant about enhancing international competitiveness for our U.S. companies. Hence, deferral ensures that we have some leverage for our companies and, more importantly, their employees at home and abroad.

U.S. multinationals are a critical component of our economy. These companies operate in virtually every industry and, the last time I checked, have investments of more than $13 trillion in facilities located within the United States. As employers, they provided 23.5 million jobs for Americans in the year 2001, 18 percent of the payroll jobs in the United States. They had a payroll of $1.1 trillion. When you go back to this debate we had in the year 2004, I noted at that time that the U.S. multinationals created more jobs abroad than the manufacturing jobs in America and employed more than two U.S. employees for every foreign worker. Those were the latest years for which I had figures, but I have no reason to believe it is different today.

During the 10 years from 1991 to 2001, U.S. multinationals increased domestic employment at a faster rate than the overall economy. A recent study confirms that U.S. multinationals are significant job creators, and those jobs are not created through “exporting” jobs to foreign nations with low-labor and low-tax costs, as Senator DORGAN contends. The Department of Commerce data shows that the bulk of the investment abroad occurs in high-income, high-wage countries.

Again, referring to the year 2001, 79 percent of foreign assets and 67 percent of foreign employment of U.S. multinationals were located in high-income, developed nations such as Australia, Canada, Hong Kong, Japan, New Zealand, Singapore, South Africa, and the countries of the European Union. We have to remember a very simple maxim for why companies go into foreign markets; they are going to have a very limited market. Whether you are in agriculture, like I and my son and grandson are, selling corn and soybeans overseas, or whether you are manufacturing John Deere tractors, whatever you are manufacturing, if you want prosperity, you go where the market is. That is the 96 percent of the people who don’t live in the United States.

Again, referring to that debate on the JOBS bill in 2004, fully 95 percent of the world’s population and 80 percent of its purchasing power—so the only new thing I am giving is not that 96 percent of the people live outside of the United States, but 80 percent of its purchasing power—is located outside the United States. Foreign sales are not just an outward measure of economic growth. So our companies are taking advantage of selling to the rest of the world. This increased growth requires increased employment wherever you can find it. The good news is that foreign growth also results in U.S. jobs.

A recent study confirmed that during the 10 years from 1991 through 2001, for every one job that U.S. multinationals created abroad, they created nearly two U.S. jobs in their parent corporations. That is why it is critical to our economy that U.S. companies remain competitive in the international marketplace.

I would like to review a more rational explanation of deferral and how it works to keep our U.S. companies competitive. The United States taxes all of the worldwide income of its citizens and corporations. The U.S. income tax applies to all domestic and foreign earnings of U.S. companies. The United States allows a foreign tax credit to offset any foreign taxes paid by foreign subsidiaries of U.S. companies. However, many foreign countries tax their companies on a territorial basis, meaning that they only tax income earned within their countries. Foreign firms operating abroad are not taxed on the earnings of foreign subsidiaries.

Major countries using this territorial system of corporate taxation are Australia, Belgium, Canada, Denmark, Finland, France, Germany, Italy, Luxembourg, Netherlands, Sweden, and Switzerland. A company from one of these countries that uses the territorial tax system has great advantage over U.S. companies.

For example, a U.S. company with a Singapore subsidiary will pay U.S. tax and Singapore tax on the subsidiary’s income. A French company with a Singapore subsidiary will pay Singapore tax but no French tax. This means that a U.S. company in Singapore has a higher tax burden than a French company in Singapore. Two basic tax rules answer this problem and seek to put U.S. companies on a level playing field with foreign competitors from territorial countries. The first rule is that when some foreign income is brought home, the U.S. allows a reduction against U.S. tax for any foreign taxes paid on that income. The foreign tax credit prevents the U.S. from double-taxing foreign earnings which would make our companies non-competitive in the international marketplace. And like deferral, this has been in the tax law since 1918.

The foreign tax credit, however, is limited. It may only offset the U.S. tax on that income which is currently imposed at a 35 percent rate. If the foreign tax rate is higher, the credit stops at 35 percent. If the credit is lower, say 10 percent, then additional U.S. taxes
The second basic tax rule is that U.S. companies are allowed to defer U.S. tax on income from the active business operation of a foreign subsidiary until that income is brought back into this country, usually in the form of dividends paid to the U.S. parent. This is referred to as the rule of deferral, meaning that the U.S. tax is deferred until the earnings are brought back. This is the rule the Dorgan amendment attacks.

It is important to note that deferral is not the forgiveness of tax. It simply means that we impose the full U.S. tax when foreign earnings are repatriated to the United States instead of doing it the very day of earning. The reason that we defer tax on active business operations is that U.S. companies can remain competitive with foreign companies that have a different system of taxation than what we have. I am referring to what I called the territorial tax. We don’t defer tax on passive activities like setting up an offshore bank account or other passive investments. We tax passive activities year-round. But active operations are subject to competitive disadvantage.

For example, if we impose U.S. tax today on the entire $1 billion of Singapore subsidiary, then the U.S. company will pay a 35-percent tax in the United States, net of any Singapore taxes, but that French competitor located right next door in Singapore will pay only the Singapore tax. If the Singapore tax rate is less than 35 percent, which is the U.S. tax rate, then the French competitor will have a tax advantage. Who wants to give any advantage to a French competitor? This is because the United States allows a foreign tax credit to offset the U.S. income tax imposed on those foreign earnings but only up to the 35 percent U.S. corporate rate.

If the foreign rate is less than the U.S. 35 percent rate, then residual U.S. taxes are owed on the difference between the U.S. tax rate and the foreign rate. For example, if a Singapore tax is 15 percent and the U.S. tax is 35 percent, then the United States will impose a 20 percent on those Singapore earnings. The French company, however, would only pay the 15 percent Singapore tax. If we did not allow deferral on that additional 20 percent of tax, then the U.S. company would have to pay a 20-percent tax disadvantage compared to the French company.

The question on repealing deferral is whether we want to hand over the world market to companies from France and Germany and other countries that have a different system of taxation than we have, called the territorial system. Repealing deferral means that we export our high U.S. tax rates to U.S. corporations around the globe. The United States has one of the highest corporate tax rates in the world. There are few countries with rates higher than the United States. This means that without deferral, U.S. companies will be at a continual worldwide disadvantage compared to their foreign competitors.

That is why we defer U.S. tax on active business operations, so that U.S. companies can be competitive in the global marketplace.

Some Senators have proposed repealing deferral or cutting back on it, as Senator DORGAN’s amendment would do. These proposals would export the high U.S. tax rate to U.S. operations around the world. That would be fine if all companies around the world were paying the high U.S. tax rate, but, as I have said so many times, they are not. We have one of the highest corporate tax rates in the world. Companies of foreign countries are not subject to our tax unless they file a tax return. This all brings us back to the implications of Senator DORGAN’s proposal. It would enhance the competitive advantage of foreign-owned multinationals over U.S. multinationals.

Our amendment must be on the ability of American companies to compete within the United States as well as in foreign markets if we want to maintain and create jobs in America. The issue is not whether we have earnings currently but whether we cede the U.S. market to foreign competition.

The Dorgan amendment will increase taxes on U.S. companies, but their foreign competitors in the U.S. will not face a similar tax increase. This can lead to a loss of domestic market share, or even if market share is maintained, losses may be incurred on domestic sales because of pricing pressures and competitive margins created by the additional tax burden.

No one is happy when companies move abroad to a tax haven to avoid U.S. tax. But let me tell you another side effect of the proposal to eliminate and cut back on deferrals. In the American Jobs Creation Act of 2004—that bill I always referred to as the JOBS bill—we enacted a provision that prevents corporate inversion, where a company would pretend to move its corporate headquarters to Bermuda, to avoid the tax and do it not because they are going to do anything productive there but for the sole purpose of avoiding U.S. taxes. Many U.S. multinationals complained that inversions were necessitated by an inability to compete with foreign-owned multinationals that aren’t subject to the higher U.S. tax rate.

We should be proud, then, that we shut down those inversions, those shell corporations, those postal box corporations which do nothing except there export there earnings and then make the situation even worse for honest corporate taxpayers in America that are paying the tax into the Federal Treasury. But in the process of doing that, we didn’t do it at the expense of repealing deferral. Now that we have shut down inversions, if we repeal deferrals, or significantly cut back on them, the only other alternative that would be available to U.S. multinationals would be to avoid U.S. corporate taxes by foreign companies or to be taken over by a foreign company in a possible hostile takeover. If we prevent U.S. companies from deferring their foreign profits, we will see more and more U.S. multinationals being outbid by foreign-owned multinationals. Tax changes have consequences.

Increasing taxes on U.S. multinationals will not bring jobs back to America. You only pay taxes if the company is profitable, and you only stay profitable as long as you remain competitive. But in the United States, taxes are 35 percent cost-to-profit, and that is where a competitiveness disadvantage can occur when a U.S. company is competing against foreign companies that will not incur this tax increase.

Senator BAUCUS and I held hearings a couple years ago regarding the effects of the international competition within the United States, and we as leaders of the Finance Committee are very familiar with the effects of these kinds of rate differentials.

I think a quote by Joseph Gutten tag, international tax counsel of the Clinton administration, during testimony before the Finance Committee, in July of 1995 is a very good place to end this debate. So I end with this quote:

Current U.S. tax policy generally strikes a reasonable balance between deferral and current taxation in order to ensure that our tax laws do not interfere with the ability of our companies to be competitive with their foreign-based counterparts.

Now, if that position just expressed by Joseph Gutten tag, international tax counsel in the last Democratic administration, testifying before a Republican Congress, isn’t good enough evidence that the route Senator DORGAN wants to go is the wrong route and a route contrary to previous leaders of his own party, then I don’t know what will be evidence that this position is going to make American companies uncompetitive, not go to the marketplace of the other 96 percent of the consumers in the world, the United States, and consequently creating jobs in the United States, and I don’t know what it takes to convince him that position is a wrong position for the United States and is so different than what we have traditionally had for the Tax Code since 1818. When I say 1818, that goes back almost to the beginning of the income tax in the United States. I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yield the floor?

The Senator from Pennsylvania is recognized.

Mr. SANTORUM. Mr. President, it is sort of with mixed emotions that I am here on the floor to talk about this tax bill. In one sense, I am very happy we are moving forward with the Tax Increase Protection Act. At the same time, I am at somewhat of a loss as to why we are spending 2, 3, and maybe more. The Senate is doing something we do routinely here, almost daily. We have disagreements with the House, and we simply go through the procedure of moving to conference and having those differences worked out.

Unfortunately, we are at a time here where even routine things become weeklong labors to accomplish them. That does not reflect well on the Senate. I don’t believe it accomplishes anything other than to delay other matters that are to come before the Senate.

We have a very important bill dealing with an issue that is of vital importance to my State—many manufacturing jobs in my State—and that is the asbestos debacle going on throughout this country. Over half of the money paid out by corporations in asbestos claims has gone to lawyers. There are many people in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania who are literally getting pennies—people who are sick and some are dying and some have died, and they have received literally pennies for their exposure to asbestos and their subsequent disease because of the horrific environment of litigation on asbestos, where lawyers are profiting and patients—those who are sick or are survivors of those who have gotten ill and died—get virtually nothing. This is something we have to address.

Instead of addressing that, which is what we are doing right now, we are holding up the Senate on a procedural matter. It is truly sad that we can no longer just cooperate on the normal business. Everything is obstruction and slowdown and political potshots and pointing fingers. I think that is unfortunate for this body. It sets a very dangerous precedent that we are going to conduct business like this in the future. Whether it is in the next election or elections in the future, at some point, the tables will turn. I believe what we are establishing today is not something that will be beneficial for the long term in our ability to get things done in the Senate.

While the chairman is still on the Senate floor, I thank him again. I am repeating this because we are doing the same bill. I thank him for all the hard work he has put into this bill. The fact that he was able to get a bipartisan bill through the Senate is a testament to him, and I know it is very difficult and trying for him. By going to conference as well as negotiating with Members on the other side of the aisle, he was able to, as he has done on many occasions, cut through all of the difficulty and partisanship and the angst some Members have about various provisions and find a good middle ground, and well over 60 Members of the Senate supported the Senate bill that passed in November. I thank him for his good work and focus on one of the things we care about, in particular, the issue of helping the nonprofit sector in our society meet the needs of those.

We were at the prayer breakfast this morning. The House was already there. We heard Bono and the President talk about taking care of the least of our brothers and sisters. The President says it so well. I have been advocating so long that nobody really does it better than our faith-based communities and our community nonprofits. They are the ones on the front line. We talked about it at the prayer breakfast—whether it is responding to a natural disaster or, more often and less prominently, responding to a person in need in our communities across America, rich as well as poor, people in need who are suffering.

It is important that we recognize that portion of this bill has to be a net plus for our charitable community. There is one more thing that I have expressed concerns about which would do damage to those nonprofits’ ability to be able to provide the needed services and to do the good works in our communities that make America stronger.

We have some good charitable-giving incentives, which are a big plus, but we also have charitable reforms on which I worked with the chairman. I think that maybe we are 90 percent of the way there, making sure we weed out some bad practices and making sure there isn’t abuse within the charitable field, but at the same time not saddling our charities with a Sarbanes-Oxley type of oversight and regulations that would drive a lot of our small volunteer-oriented nonprofits out of existence and leave a big hole in our communities across America.

I am hopeful that when we get to the House and into conference, Chairman Thomas will work with us and we will be able to get a bill that will be not only a net plus but a big plus for the armies of compassion, the foot soldiers across America who are helping men and women in need and children in need in our society.

A big part of this bill, obviously, is the tax relief. It is not exactly what I had hoped for. It is one of those compromises we had to make along the way. I thought the House bill actually had some better provisions when it comes to some of the tax provisions. It continues on a policy that has resulted in a lot of positive economic news over the past several years since 2003. We have seen that by these changes in the Tax Code and reducing marginal rates, not just in tax law but in our society as well as incentivizing business investment; it has created an explosion of growth in this country, which has also resulted in millions of people getting jobs—net new jobs across America.

I have a chart that shows, since the Jobs and Growth Act of May of 2003, and looking at the real GDP growth in America, there is a dramatic tilting upward since these provisions were passed. That has resulted in a dramatic increase, as we have seen on some other charts, in Federal revenues. There is a concern, a drumbeat on the other side of the aisle, and from a few on this side of the aisle, that somehow we cannot afford these tax reductions.

It is interesting; if you think of tax reductions, that leaves the question, What is a tax reduction? What is a tax reduction? Is a tax reduction a reduction in the taxes paid; or is it a reduction in the rate of the tax paid? What is a tax reduction?

Did we reduce taxes on you? Did we reduce taxes on you?—and the answer is different based on what we did—if you look at. Did we reduce taxes, the answer is, with respect to rates, yes, we reduced taxes; we reduced the capital gains dividend rates, the marginal rates. We reduced the rates on the taxation of married couples and in several other areas. So, yes, we reduced the rate of tax.

The question is, Did we reduce the collection of taxes? What should Congress be more concerned about? Should we be more concerned about the rates of taxes or should we be more concerned about the collection of tax revenues?

I would think most people, when we have cut taxes, would say we reduced the collection of taxes in America. That is not what happened. When we reduced the rate of taxes, when we cut taxes, we actually didn’t cut taxes. We actually increased the flow of revenue to the Federal Government.

So if we are looking at it from the standpoint of the budgeteers, the folks who are responsible for the receipts and distributions of Government, then the actions taken by the Congress in 2001 and 2003 resulted in increased taxes paid to the Federal Government through a policy that believes in the innovation and the energy of the people, that if you unshackle them from higher tax rates, they will produce more, they will create more jobs—and job growth has been terrific, over 2 million jobs, and the unemployment rate has been under 5 percent, and we end up with a better quality of life, more revenue to the Federal Government, and higher growth rates overall in our economy.

That is a pretty good picture. So why the complaints? Why are people so upset that we actually put a program in place that has resulted in more revenues coming to the Federal Government? Why the complaints? Why the gnashing of teeth that somehow this is policy that is harmful to the budget deficit? Revenues were up 14 percent last year. How is that harmful to the budget deficit?
They say: That would have happened; in fact, we would have gotten more money had we not reduced taxes. Is that true? Let’s look at the capital gains issue.

The Congressional Budget Office estimated that we would collect roughly $125 billion in the year 2004 and 2005 in capital gains taxes. We went ahead and reduced the capital gains tax rate. Many of us stood on the floor and said, by reducing that rate, we will actually get more revenues. The Congressional Budget Office said “no,” everybody on the other side said “no,” and, in fact, everybody on the other side still said “no” and still says we shouldn’t keep those rates low, we have to increase those rates because we need the money.

How did it work out? What happened when we reduced those rates? Did we get, as the Congressional Budget Office suggested, $26 billion less money? And that is what they projected. They projected $26 billion that the amount of money coming into the Treasury in capital gains taxes paid would go down by $26 billion. What happened? Now we know. The amount of revenue collected in capital gains taxes went up $27 billion.

I was talking to a reporter the other day. I said: Lo and behold, I voted for a provision that actually increased taxes to the Federal Government. I voted for a provision that actually increased taxes to the Federal Government.

What does the other side want to do? They want to have that rate go back to what we did on the floor of the Senate, and they were very happy to have paid those taxes. And we got more Federal revenues.

What does the other side want to do? They want to have that rate go back up. One might suggest that if the rate goes back up, revenues could do down. What could be their motivation? What is the motivation of trying to increase a tax to get less revenue? Think about it. What could be the possible motivation of coming to the floor of the Senate and saying we need to increase taxes, even though by doing so we are going to get less money. Why would you do that? From a public policy perspective, why would you want to do that?

I can tell you that the argument is given that we need it to balance the budget. Wait a minute. We are going to get less money, so why would you do it? Could it be something of the whole politics of envy, the politics of pointing the finger at those who are successful, get a paycheck, and invest in America and say we need to tax them more; that is the fairness issue. We hear it all the time. One of the issues we hear the most about is the idea of fairness. It is about fairness. That is what it is about? Stick it to those who succeed, invested, purchased real estate, purchased stocks and bonds; we are going to take a bigger chunk of their money because that is fair. We may get less revenue, we may get slower economic growth, fewer jobs will be created, but we will feel better.

That is the motivation of the other side. That is not in the best interest of the American people. We did not get in the Senate a bill a reduction of capital gains tax rate extension for 2 more years, but I will tell you that we will work very hard in the conference to make sure that happens. It is important for the economic growth of our country, for the job creation in our country, and for Federal revenues that we get that extension in law.

There are a lot of games being played on the floor of the Senate when it comes to tax policy and the politics of envy. What should we be focused on is how does this Senate, how does this Government create the best environment for growth opportunity and job creation? I do not think we can make a policy or a law that is fiscally responsible. Those are the two things on which we should be focusing.

I would make the argument that the bill before us, which prevents an increase in capital gains tax rates that are in place right now; there is no new policy or, I should say, very minor, little new policy changes, such as the charitable giving incentives, but very small policy changes, a very small percentage of the money. The overall bill deals with provisions such as the alternative minimum tax, which is vitally important and the small saver’s credit, which is important. About a quarter of a million people in my State strongly support that provision, in fact, would strongly support increased incentives for low-income individuals to save and, in fact, put forth a bill with former Senator Corzine to do that. So I am looking for another new cosponsor if anybody could help to finance a kid’s account to give every child in America a nest egg to begin to save at their birth.

I am big on giving people the opportunity to save, invest, build wealth, and feel connected to the economy of this country. We need to do more of that. But we have a little piece of that here, which is important to the people in my State. Mr. President, 150,000 families and students in my State will lose their deduction for college tuition if we don’t extend it. With regard to the teacher tax credit provision Senator Collins championed, 142,000 teachers in Pennsylvania will not be able to deduct that. We can go on and on.

These are preventions of tax increases, a tax reduction that caused the kind of economic growth we have seen. It is important for us to have these provisions stay in law.

Finally, I want to talk about an issue that has been brought up—and it is an important issue—and that is the issue of mine safety. I know Senator Rockefeller has put forth an idea that I think deserves some consideration because it has merit. It provides mining companies with incentives to make available newer technology that will enhance safety.

We have seen over the last month in West Virginia and, yes, 3 years ago in Pennsylvania, mine disasters occur where human life was lost, in the cases of West Virginia, and certainly a major disaster was diverted in Quecreek in Pennsylvania. It was a serious situation, one I care deeply about. My grandfather was a coal miner in a deep mine for 30 years, so this is very close to home for me. This is one issue we need to do something about, to improve the safety for those who literally risk their lives every day to provide for their families, to build strong communities, and to provide energy for all of us so these lights will work in the Chamber. We need to do all we can to improve enforcement as well as to create incentives, so we can work on something in the small mining operations, family-run operations, that this provision would not benefit them at all.

As we know, a large percentage—at least in my State—a large percentage of the smaller operations are not big corporate mining operations. They are small, in some cases small corporations, family-run operations. So while I certainly strongly support the first provision and support the concept behind the second provision, I have serious concerns about the way that provision will tilt to the benefit of the larger mining operations.

While I support it and will support this amendment, I hope it is included. We can work on something in the conference to include improvement of mine safety. I am putting my marker down here that we will do so not to discriminate against small mines versus larger mining operations. If anything—if anything—we should be concerned about, as we do on a lot of issues in the Senate, helping the little guy, as opposed to helping the big guy because the big guys already have the resources to spend to provide for a safer workplace.

What we should be doing is focusing on how we can make smaller mining operations safer. That is not what this amendment that Senator Rockefeller puts forward does. As a result of that, while I support it and will support the provision to be included in this conference, I put the marker down that we are going to work diligently to make sure it uniformly impacts across the industry and, if anything, it benefits the smaller mine operator as opposed to the big guy. This is not the way it is currently drafted.

I completely understand. I don’t think Senator Rockefeller—at least I hope he didn’t go in there with the idea that we are going to favor one segment of the mining industry over the other. I hope that is not his intention. Whether it is his intention, I will certainly work with him to make sure it is a much more balanced provision when it comes out of conference.

With that, Mr. President, I thank the chairman for yielding the time to speak about this important bill. I yield the floor, and I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. DORGAN. My friend from Iowa came to the floor to speak a bit this morning on a couple of subjects I spoke about yesterday. Let me again say I have very high regard for Senator GRASSLEY. We worked together on a good number of issues. I enjoy working with him. But there are times when you have disagreements on policy, and we certainly have that on an issue I am going to talk about. It is an issue he talked about this morning as well. Actually, there are a couple of tax issues. Before I do, however, I want to just make a slight correction to the remarks that were made by the Senator from Pennsylvania a few minutes ago. I heard him say that I was holding up this bill on, I guess—I think he said a technicality. I think he said it was a technicality. I think that was the impression he intended to leave, obstruct or holding this up on a technicality.

I guess the technicality is our interest in offering amendments. I know to some that is a pleasant term that is going around here, to have people offer amendments and actually debate them and vote on them, but that is the way the system works. The reason there are not amendments and compromises is because one side will try to offer one right now, but I would be unable to offer one—is because the majority party has done something that is called filling the tree. It is a parliamentary procedure to make sure every branch of this legislative tree is filled so that no one is allowed to offer an amendment.

For example, while this bill is on the floor right now, no one in this chamber should be able to offer an amendment. The majority party decided to fill the tree, as it is called, so no one on this side may offer an amendment. So when my colleague from Pennsylvania said the Democratic side of the aisle is using a technicality—whatever, I forget his term exactly—to hold this up, I am sorry that is not what is happening at all. It is a majority's embrace, saying let's get this done, and they are going to give that super special deal that no other American taxpayer has: 5.25 income tax rate.

He made a point that I share. I think it would be great to work together. I think there ought to be less rancid partisanship and we ought to find ways to work together to do the Nation's business. We, after all, represent the same interests. We represent the interests of this country. I hope we represent the interests of the American people. I would like to find areas where we can work together.

In this case, however, let me just say there is no obstruction going on here. The only obstruction is we are obstructed from being able to offer an amendment which in ordinary circumstances the rules of the Senate would permit. I regret that, I wish the Senate could do something differently. I would have offered the amendment yesterday, in fact, and I would offer it right now. I have an amendment to offer. It is on the Order. If it later on is put off later because you will have to have a circumstance where we can offer the amendment, I suppose the purpose is to allow amendments to be offered when the time is right. It is what it is. It is called deferral. I know most of these things sound like foreign language around here. Deferral of income tax obligations is a deal that no company does business overseas, an American company does business overseas and earns income overseas, at some point in time. They will have earned income tax on the income they have earned. They will get a credit, actually, against taxes they paid to a foreign country so they will not be double taxed. But unlike everything else that is called income, as it is called, they have to pay a tax.

My colleagues in the Congress, a sufficient number of colleagues who represent the majority, decided that they wanted to have a kind of little sweetheart deal for companies that would repatriate their earnings because many of those companies park their earnings for a long while overseas and don't bring them back. When they bring them back they have to pay the full tax rate. My colleagues said: Let's create a new jobs in America by allowing these companies to bring their income back, and we will give them a special superdeal.

You have heard of blue light specials; this is the blue light special of all specials. You get to pay not 35 percent, not 30 percent, not 25 percent, not 15 percent or 10 percent—which is the lowest income tax rate that is paid by the lowest income earners—who has to pay income taxes—you get to pay a 5.25-income-tax rate. Who is the "you"? The biggest companies in our country: Ford Motor, for one thing. I mention that because when they announced they are going to lay off 30,000, they also said: By the way, we picked up a quarter of a billion dollars of tax refunds under the Jobs Creation Act. Isn't that interesting? Ford Motor said in the press release: We are going to lay off 30,000 workers in this country and, by the way, we were able to get a quarter of a billion dollars, a $250 million benefit from the jobs creation tax rate special benefit of 5.25 percent.

The whole purpose was to create jobs in our country and, at least in the most recent job announcement of 30,000 jobs lost, the very company that announces 30,000 jobs gone points out they got a quarter of billion dollars under this provision.

My colleagues seem to suggest the provision really does work. It is helpful. No, it doesn't work. It didn't work. By my calculation, the income that was parked overseas and at some point would have had to have been repatriated to this country, that income that is about $104 billion more than what was paid under the 5.25 percent.

Is anybody going to have to answer to that? I don't know. Maybe not. Maybe nobody cares—$104 billion. You could reduce the Federal debt, reduce the annual budget deficit. You could probably provide some health care to people who do not have it, perhaps help some kids who are hungry, perhaps provide health care for those who are sick, improve some classrooms in schools that need improvement—maybe there is a lot of things you could do. But $104 billion, that is a tax break given to the biggest corporations in this country who brought income back to our country and would have had to pay normal income tax rates but were told by this Congress that we are going to give you $104 billion, a super special deal that no other American taxpayer has: 5.25 income tax rate.

Wouldn't every American love to pay a 5.25 income tax rate? But they can't. That deal is just reserved by the Congress for some biggersome bigger interests.

I didn't vote for that. I didn't support it. I strongly opposed it. My colleague who sat in this chair right here, Senator Fritz Hollings, who is now retired, offered the amendment to strip that out. We were going to get it done and, as I calculate it, was saved by those who otherwise would have had to pay regular income tax rates.

I wanted to respond to that because I still think that was one of the goofiest things I've seen in this Congress in the last few years. It is hard to embrace, saying let's provide a 5.25 tax rate because we think it will create jobs. The evidence is all around us. It didn't create jobs. In fact, I have charts saying the largest companies that got some of the biggest benefits—one company got a $14.5 million benefit and laid off 14,500 people—almost complete and perfect symmetry, wasn’t it? Except they were supposed to have hired people if they got this kind of special tax rate. They just forgot and laid them off, I guess.

Let me go to the other point which is what I am going to any colleague to come to the floor and engage on this issue, and that was the point I made yesterday. We have a provision in our Tax Code that says to someone in Iowa or North Dakota or Colorado or Pennsylvania, if you have a manufacturing plant and you are across the street from your competitor and your competitor has a manufacturing plant and you produce exactly the same products but you do something different, you move your jobs to China and manufacture your widgets in China, your competitor across the street stays home and manufactures them here in this country—one thing has happened as a result of that move. We have embedded in this Tax Code a perverse incentive that says: By the way, we will give you a break. You move those jobs to China, close your plant door, get rid of your workers, produce in China, and we will give you a tax break. You are not going to pay as much in income taxes as your competitor across the street who stayed in this country.

I think that is wrong. Going all the way back to 1961 with John F. Kennedy, proposals have existed to change it. Going back to 1987, the House actuarily proposed to repeal deferral. Anybody who was watching that will know what that is. We can’t change it any longer because now, of course, the big economic interests that benefit a lot from that—and we have a lot of companies getting rid of American workers, padlocking their doors and shipping the jobs to China. I have spoken about many of them on the floor of the Senate. We have a lot of companies that like this tax break. Why? They like to hire people for 33 cents an hour, produce the product in China, sell it in Cincinnati or Toledo or Pittsburgh, and then run their income through the Grand Cayman Islands, through the Ugland House on Church Street which is a five-story white building that was dug out by David Evans, who has done some reportage to the floor. The Ugland House is a house on Church Street in the Cayman Islands. It was, according to news reports, dug out by David Evans, who has done the research. This is a five-story white building that houses 12,748 companies. It doesn’t really house 12,748 companies—it is an address. This is a five-story white house address on Church Street in the Cayman Islands. Why 12,000 companies congregate to have an address in this five-story building? There is only one reason. And, by the way, every one of them are represented by the same law firm. Why? So they don’t have to pay taxes, that is why.

They want to access cheap labor in Asia, sell in America, and run it through those jobs overseas to the Cayman Islands, which is a slightly different approach than the Tax Code I have been describing.

I wanted to mention that there is a man from Bloomberg News named David Evans who has done some reportage to the floor. The Ugland House is a house on Church Street in the Cayman Islands. Why would 12,000 companies congregate to have an address in this five-story building? There is only one reason. And, by the way, every one of them are represented by the same law firm. Why? So they don’t have to pay taxes, that is why.

They want to access cheap labor in Asia, sell in America, and run it through those jobs overseas to the Cayman Islands, which is a slightly different approach than the Tax Code I have been describing.

I respect everybody’s ability and interest to vote however they choose in this Chamber. I don’t demean their representation of our country. I only say that I feel very strongly that if they support this provision, they are wrong. They are wrong for this country. The right public policy position is at least to have some basic neutrality on the question of whether we want to export jobs and whether we want to have the financial incentives for exporting jobs in our Tax Code.

I regret that we don’t have a back and forth. I would love to have a real debate about because I know there are those benefits from this provision that some people want to keep it. I am a person that believes in the American workers. I believe we have to compete with the rest of the world, and I believe that we have to have laws and incentives that will make us compete in the American market. But I feel strongly that this provision that is known as deferral—and, incidentally, my repeal of deferral does not go to the John F. Kennedy proposal on repealing deferral. My repeal on deferral is rather narrow. It is those companies that leave this country and ship back into this country.

I think it is a perfectly appropriate thing, especially now given the crisis we face with jobs and opportunities in this country, for us to do that.

I have a right, under the procedures of the Senate, to offer this amendment. I should have the right to offer it at the moment but I am not because there is—I guess the word “obstruction” is to be used—obstruction at the moment is the tree is filled so that no one can offer an amendment. So we are going into some process that is a vote-a-rama, and I will offer the amendment, and we will have a vote.

Let me finally say it again. There is not one Member of the Senate that puts on a dark suit every morning and comes to work here that has ever been threatened to have their job outsourced—not one. There is not a person here that is ever going to have their job outsourced. Maybe they do not think much about it. I don’t know. What we have been talking about here is blue suits who come here every day and we talk and we talk, and mostly we talk. We are good at talking.

But the question for most Americans who worry about their jobs and who see their neighbors’ jobs moved overseas is: Will their jobs be moved? The question for them is: Will Congress do something about it?

I mentioned a few moments ago the Ugland House in the Grand Cayman Islands, which is a five-story white building that houses 12,748 companies. It doesn’t really house 12,748 companies—it is an address. This is a five-story white house address on Church Street in the Cayman Islands. Why would 12,000 companies congregate to have an address in this five-story building? There is only one reason. And, by the way, every one of them are represented by the same law firm. Why? So they don’t have to pay taxes, that is why.

They want to access cheap labor in Asia, sell in America, and run it through those jobs overseas to the Cayman Islands, which is a slightly different approach than the Tax Code I have been describing.

I respect everybody’s ability and interest to vote however they choose in this Chamber. I don’t demean their representation of our country. I only say that I feel very strongly that if they support this provision, they are wrong. They are wrong for this country. The right public policy position is at least to have some basic neutrality on the question of whether we want to export jobs and whether we want to have the financial incentives for exporting jobs in our Tax Code.

I regret that we don’t have a back and forth. I would love to have a real debate about because I know there are those benefits from this provision that some people want to continue it and want it to remain in the Tax Code. But I feel strongly that this provision that is known as deferral—and, incidentally, my repeal of deferral does not go to the John F. Kennedy proposal on repealing deferral. My repeal on deferral is rather narrow. It is those companies that leave this country and ship back into this country.

I think it is a perfectly appropriate thing, especially now given the crisis we face with jobs and opportunities in this country, for us to do that.
have a tax haven and avoid taxes, you shall be treated for tax purposes as if you have never left our country. You don’t get to claim that you now have an address in the Ugland House, and, therefore, you are running your income through that house.” I regret that legislation would not allow you going to be treated as if you never left for business purposes.

We can shut that down like that, if Members of Congress have the interest and the will.

Does anybody believe this is anything other than a huge scam, by having a little five-story house with 12,000 businesses congregate there under the umbrella of a law firm that runs their mail through that place in order to avoid paying U.S. taxes?

Thanks to David Evans for the work he has done. But in many ways, I think this is the tip of the iceberg. There is substantial tax avoidance going on. Some of it is legal. The first description I recall today was the description of the avoidance of what I think is about $104 billion in taxes under the 5.25-percent special tax deal.

The other one I mentioned, referral for those who move their jobs overseas, that is in law. I am not criticizing companies for following the law. I am criticizing the Congress for not changing the law and doing what we should do—stand up for American jobs.

I was thinking I had actually done plenty of work or even did aid or injure my cause, however one views these issues. But when I heard my colleague from Iowa come to the floor today, I at least wanted to respond to that. As I was coming over, I heard my colleague from Pennsylvania say someone else was obstructing. I guess, the work of the Congress over what I think is a technicality, and the technicality was we wanted to offer amendments.

I say to my colleague, there is never a technicality when someone wants to offer an amendment. If the rules allow us to offer amendments, just have the amendments, have a little debate, vote regular order, and let it go. When it is done and the dust is settled, we decide what we decide, and everybody is responsible for the vote they cast.

My colleague from Pennsylvania said he wished we would be a little less partisan. So do I. I think we need to find ways to make this a little less partisan. But if one person would be, for example, for somebody to right now come out and say: We have a bill on the floor, let us have regular order. If amendments are, by the way, allowed, let us go ahead and offer them. Will you give us a time agreement vote, and the way legislators should act, and at the end of the day, we will all feel better about that.

That is what the Senate ought to be about when we call this the greatest deliberative body in the world. It has slipped a bit. We can regain that status if we only decide amendments are good and not bad things. Debate is good—not bad. The noise of democracy coming from the Senate is welcome noise for the American people, if we are engaged in constructive debate about issues that matter.

I yield the floor. I suggest the absence of a quorum.

Mr. SCHUMER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. SCHUMER. Mr. President, I rise today, in recognition of the beginning of Black History Month, in support of a bill to posthumously award a congressional gold medal to Constance Baker Motley, an American hero who, sadly, passed away on September 28, 2005, after having lived an extraordinary and exemplary life. I am pleased to introduce this bill by my colleague from New York, Senator CLINTON.

Constance Baker Motley was the first African-American woman, and only the fifth woman, to serve on the Federal judiciary. Before becoming a judge, she was a renowned civil rights lawyer, public interest lawyer, and a trailblizer. Her remarkable career reads like a civil rights history book.

After earning her bachelor of arts degree in Economics from New York University and her law degree from Columbia University, Judge Motley joined Thurgood Marshall at the NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund.

For two decades, Judge Motley worked closely with Marshall and other leading civil rights lawyers to dismantle desegregation throughout the country. As a Black woman practicing law in the South, Judge Motley endured gawking and physical threats. But she was not deterred.

She won cases that ended segregation in Memphis restaurants and at Whites-only lunch counters in Birmingham, AL. She fought for Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.’s right to march in Albany, GA, and visited him in jail whenever he was arrested.

Judge Motley was the only woman on the legal team that won the landmark desegregation case, Brown v. Board of Education. She went on to argue 10 major civil rights cases before the Supreme Court, winning all but one of them. Thanks to Judge James Meredith’s fight to gain admission to the University of Mississippi.

Before she died, Judge Motley would grin when she told people that she actually won 20 years later the only Supreme Court case that she lost, when the Court eventually agreed with her position and adopted her reasoning in holding that it was a violation of equal protection for prosecutors to use their peremptory challenges to strike Blacks from a jury because of their race.

In 1964, Judge Motley became the first African-American woman elected to the New York State Senate, and in 1965, she became the first African-American woman, and first woman, to serve as a city borough president. During this time, Judge Motley worked tirelessly to revitalize the inner city and improve urban housing and public schools.

She was appointed Judge Motley to the Southern District of New York. She was confirmed 9 months later, over the strong opposition of Southern Senators. As a judge, Motley continued her commitment to social justice.

She rose to the position of Chief Judge in 1982, and assumed senior status 4 years later. Judge Motley served with distinction for nearly four decades until she passed away last fall at the age of 84. At that time, I was pleased to introduce a Senate resolution, which passed by unanimous consent with 27 Democrat and Republican cosponsors, to honor her life and achievements.

Since then, our country has lost two other great civil rights heroes, Rosa Parks and Coretta Scott King. Both of these remarkable women were awarded congressional gold medals for their leadership and contributions to American society while they were alive. I deeply regret that Judge Motley was not. But it is not too late for us to show our national appreciation to her friends and family. Congressional gold medals are reserved expressly for that purpose, and Judge Motley’s lifelong commitment to the advancement of civil rights and social justice, and her lengthy career in public service, is worthy of just that.

The Senate Banking Committee requires 67 cosponsors before it will consider legislation to award a congressional gold medal. I am pleased to introduce this bill with 16 other original cosponsors from both sides of the aisle.

I now call on all of my Senate colleagues to join us this Black History Month to give thanks on behalf of the American people to one of our greatest civil rights leaders and public servants, Judge Constance Baker Motley.

I yield the floor and suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I yield myself such time as I might consume.

I will make some additional points on the Dorgan tax haven included in the Conrad substitute. I share Senator CONRAD’s concerns about the ability of large corporations to manipulate the Tax Code, to shift large amounts of profit offshore, but this provision is not the right way to address those concerns. It is very overbroad and inadvisable because it harms the competitiveness of United States multinationals, repealing deferthat allow them to efficiently allocate active foreign generated resources among their foreign operations without incurring U.S. tax on entirely foreign transactions.

It is inadequate because it applies only to transactions in black-listed countries. Companies that use tax savings for abusive purposes could easily avoid this rule by locating in a low-tax country that is not on the list.

Ireland would be a perfect example of that. As press reports that companies such as Microsoft are shifting huge profits. Treasury would have authority to add countries to the list, but does anyone think Ireland, with whom we already have a tax treaty, would be added to that black list? The way to deal with those cases is through effective transfer pricing policy and enforcement, not by curtailing deferrals.

Another issue that is going to be soon before us is the Democratic substitute of revenue raisers that are in our bill. I am disturbed by the tax side of Senator CONRAD’s substitute amendment since it includes extension of the same widely applicable tax relief provisions in the underlying bill.

I should also be flattered, and I am, by some of the pay-fors in that amendment—in particular, the provisions regarding the so-called SILO transactions. It is a fact that we shut down the abusive tax shelters that involve U.S. corporations claiming tax benefits on foreign subways and sewer systems in 2004. So these deals can no longer be done. The underlying bill would repeal a generous grandfather provision for certain domestic deals and would deny benefits for foreign deals entered into before the effective date of the Jobs Creation Act of 2004.

We have introduced a fully offset tax relief bill in the past. Most recently, that act of 2004 produced $82 billion of tax relief that was completely offset. The same is true in the bill in fact, contains almost $20 billion of offsets while providing $90 billion in broad-based tax relief. We do not need any more offsets to pay for the lost AMT revenue that we never intended to collect and for other provisions, such as the R&D credit, for example, that are broadly supported as good for the economy.

We all know tax receipts are on the rise. In 2005, we had $274 billion more coming in over the taxes that came in in 2004 under the same tax policy, and we could do the baseline by—can you believe it—$97 billion. It is a very vibrant economy which produces that kind of revenue. That amount, whether it is the $274 billion in 2005 over 2004 or the $97 billion above the CBO baseline, that amount exceeds the $70 billion of reconciled tax relief over 5 years provided in the budget resolution.

So I hope we will be able to take these points I have just made about the inadequacies of the amendments we are going to be dealing with when we vote on these amendments.

I would now, Mr. President, speak on the issue of an amendment I am going to place before the Senate this afternoon. In fact, I will submit this amendment at this point.

I wish to take just a few minutes, in offering this amendment, to speak about amendments that are also offered by my colleague, Senator NELSON regarding the Medicare prescription drug program. I thank the Senators for their amendments. I know their intentions are good and their hearts are in the right place. But having said that, I am forced to oppose the amendments, and my reasons follow.

Opponents of the benefit are trying to make it look as if Republicans are indifferent to the problems of the implementing part of the Medicare program. Such is not the case because everyone has to be concerned about the issues faced by some beneficiaries in getting their prescription drugs, even if that might be a very small percentage of the people who are involved. Whoever needs those prescriptions, we have to do everything we can to get them to them.

Like everybody else, I am concerned about the drug benefit implementation issues. It is not acceptable that some of the most vulnerable and frail seniors are experiencing problems. But my opposition to the amendments is rooted in the goal of not just taking some action, but that we need to take the right action when we act. There is no question that Congress meddling could just make things worse.

With that in mind, I want to share with you the following quote as to another new program that was getting underway:

As the program gets underway, the danger is that the strains on it will generate pressures for unequal changes. They will come from those who will be disappointed because they have been led to expect too much as well as from those who see failure in every shortcoming. That is a danger to the program. When we act, there is no question that Congress meddling could just make things worse.

With that in mind, I want to share with you the following quote as to another new program that was getting underway:

As the program gets underway, the danger is that the strains on it will generate pressures for unequal changes. They will come from those who will be disappointed because they have been led to expect too much as well as from those who see failure in every shortcoming. That is a danger to the program. When we act, there is no question that Congress meddling could just make things worse.

Now, that is not about the prescription drug bill that is just now going into effect. That is a quote from the July 1, 1966, edition of the New York Times, and it is about the implementation of the original underlying Medicare Program passed by Congress a year before this July 1 edition of the New York Times.

Now, when I read that quote of 1966 just now, I said “the program” instead of Medicare because I did not want to give it away. The point of this editorial is that those words are extremely relevant today.

I am not trying to make excuses or minimize the difficulties some are having, but if we are going to fix it, and fix it fast. By all accounts, everyone is working hard to get them resolved. But in my opinion—echoed by the New York Times nearly 40 years ago—rushing to “fix” things through legislation could do more harm than good.

Just last week, the Finance Committee, in a bipartisan setting—with almost every member of the Finance Committee there—had a meeting with Secretary Leavitt and CMS Administrator Mark McClellan. We had a candid discussion about the unfortunate glitches, and we heard about steps taken by the agency to address them. We had a very productive dialog. That dialog covered a range of issues the Agency had identified and the administration’s actions already taken to address them.

It is clear to me legislation is not needed at this time. Secretary Leavitt has the authority. Current law allows him to have a smooth transition. And administrative actions will work faster than if we pass this legislation. That is because changes in law have to be followed by more administrative actions. This is very much going to slow things down. That is not what we want. We want, need, and will get quick action.

The issues that have surfaced do not lend themselves to legislative fixes. The example, that are broadly supported as good for the economy.

For example, prescription drug plans must have a first-fill policy. The first-fill policy already requires at least 30 days of coverage for the first prescriptions filled, even if the drugs are not on the plan’s formulary. And just yesterday, Secretary Leavitt announced that the first-fill policy is being extended further. It is now going to be in place for 60 or 90 days as a first-fill policy. The Bingaman amendment requires a one-day policy already out of date. The administrative actions are much faster. Changes in law are not needed to address the issue.

Now, here is another one. The Bingaman amendment says that dual-eligible beneficiaries, whom we call dual eligibles, should be presumptively eligible. But the dual eligibles are already automatically eligible under the law, and they are automatically assigned to a plan. So again, no change in law is required.

Another example. The Bingaman amendment says it would require plans to reimburse enrollees for cost-sharing problems. Here again, plans are already responsible for the costs to cover drugs. They are responsible for reimbursing beneficiaries for any cost-sharing charged in error. No change in law is required.

Let me give you another one. Some States have stepped up to fill claims during the transition. The Bingaman amendment requires States to be reimbursed for their costs. This is already happening. Last week, Secretary Leavitt indicated that the Federal Government will reimburse States for costs they have incurred during the transition period. We were told that that day we met with Secretary Leavitt. I do not know exactly when Senator Bingaman was there, but he was there for that meeting. Not every Senator stayed for every minute of the meeting, but Secretary Leavitt made this very clear. So again, legislation is not needed because administrative action is being taken, with the legal authority to do it. So no additional legislation is needed.

Senator Nelson’s amendment would extend the enrollment period through the end of the year and permit beneficiaries to change once before the end of the year. We have discussed this amendment before. The Senate has already voted twice, and we voted it down twice. And changing the enrollment period does nothing to address any of the issues experienced by beneficiaries just this last month. So no additional legislation is needed.

We are well into the enrollment period. Enrollment is exceeding expectations. Twenty-four million beneficiaries out of 44 million, potentially, have prescription drug coverage. Every day, nearly 50,000 beneficiaries are enrolling in the program, and about 1 million prescriptions are being filled daily. So again, legislation is not needed.

There are a number of resources for beneficiaries to help them choose a plan. There is the Medicare call center. It is available 24 hours a day, and the Medicare Web site. Every State has counselors available to assist beneficiaries through the State Health Insurance Information Program. That is the whole point of that program—the SHIIP program, it is called for short—to help beneficiaries understand their Medicare benefits. The prescription drug plans based their proposals to serve beneficiaries on the enrollment period specified in the law.

In addition, there are already rules in place under which a beneficiary can change their enrollment outside of the open enrollment period. A beneficiary can seek what is called a special election period or an opportunity to change. So again, we do not need legislation. These are issues already covered in the law today.

I want to make another point about what is going on with these amendments. There was a time when opponents of this benefit were concerned that there wouldn’t be enough choice. Now their concern is that there is too much choice. When we were in conference with the House on this 2 years ago, we were fearful there might not be a choice for people. So we provided if there wasn’t a choice, the Secretary set up a subsidized choice so that every individual could at least choose from two. We wanted people to have choice. We followed the Federal Employees Health Benefit Plan where people have the choice of many plans to choose from, and they get to change once a year. We wanted to make sure we didn’t cram anything down any senior citizen’s throat. We wanted to allow individuals to participate, if they were satisfied with Medicare the way it was, they didn’t have to. But if they wanted to participate, they elected.

You don’t write one plan for 44 million seniors. Everybody has different benefits. And one-third of the people already had some prescription drug coverage. We didn’t want to screw up their plans. So we subsidized those plans so that those people who had some prescription drug coverage would be able to keep it. I don’t know when you satisfy people. I didn’t think there would be enough choice. Now we are hearing complaints about too many choices. There are 44 million Americans; there are 44 million different personal needs of those people. We, sitting on the floor of the Senate, are not going to figure out what those 44 million needs are and pass a one-size-fits-all plan that is going to satisfy the needs of everybody. The risk of this is that if a new benefit will complain and fight it no matter what happens. I hope everyone remembers that. I also find it ironic that folks think that legislation is the answer. These are the same people who are concerned about confusion. Now they are proposing legislative changes in a bill that has only been in operation for 1 month, on top of administrative actions that the agency has already taken. They want to screw with beneficiaries. The Secretary will hear from representatives of the Senate with changes that will have no impact on any of the problems encountered this last month, legislation that would have to be followed by yet more administrative action, a snowball rolling down the hill, just getting more complicated as it rolls along. I would be delighted.

I ask whether this is going to help these perceived problems. Well, not just perceived problems; I admitted there are problems out there. I admitted when you put something like this into place, there are growing pains, just like I quoted that New York Times article from 1966 about the growing pains that we were going to have with Medicare when it was first put in place. Do you think these things are going to smooth the transition? I don’t think so. Talk about opportunity for confusion among beneficiaries, pharmacists, and plans. This is not going to reduce the confusion.

Passing legislation now runs the very real risk of undermining and complicating things. It can undermine the progress already made. It will interrupt actions taken by the administration. It will create more problems, not fewer problems. I for one have a steadfast commitment to gaining a full understanding of the problems and pursuing the most appropriate and timely course of action.

When the Secretary came before my committee and everybody turned out to make their complaints known, and the Secretary announced at that time seven problems and he announced at that time seven solutions to those problems and took full responsibility for those problems and the Secretary announced at that meeting fairly satisfied that nobody was going to blame somebody else and they had a grasp of the problems and solving problems, with some accountability that some changes had already been in place for the better.

So then when you come out of an environment of a committee meeting like that, you wonder what planet they have been on when these amendments are being offered—amendments that, if they were passed, would not get to the floor. President for another 30 days—to solve problems that were evident 30 days ago that the Secretary has already identified and taken action to overcome.

Senator Baucus and I are working together to get to the bottom of this issue. That is how we do it in our committee. We do it in a bipartisan way so that we are going to also be able to work together if it turns out that legislation is needed. But I asked the Secretary at that very committee meeting: Do you need any legislative changes to take care of these problems that we have all identified, particularly the seven that he identified? He said: No, he had ample legislative authority to do.

An important part of Senator Baucus’s and my work in this regard is going to be brought up at next week’s Finance Committee hearing, an open hearing. We will hear from Dr. McClellan, I will hear from representatives of the plans. We will hear from pharmacies. We are, most importantly, going to hear from the people involved in educating and enrolling beneficiaries into the plan. More than once I have heard Members take issue with the enrollee process, I bypass the committee process. The amendments before us are just that.

Senator Bingaman’s amendment has not gone through the Finance Committee. It is clear that this amendment falls within the jurisdiction of the Finance Committee, and the Senator from New Mexico is a member of that committee. I ask him to work within the committee. If the Senate proceeds on legislation that the full committee has not considered, then nothing would prevent the Senate from legislating on other Finance Committee issues without the benefit of hearings or committee markup.

Next week's hearing is very important. We need to gather more information about what is happening. This is needed to inform all of us of any necessary response. In the absence of such information gathering, it is dangerous and premature to consider any amendments related to the prescription drug program. We all know that this whole issue of Medicare prescription drug coverage has long been a political issue. With the amendments offered today, I can't help but think that is very unfortunate. It is also unfortunate that is probably not going to change during the 109th Congress.

On the other hand, I hope that is not the case. But here we are, just 1 month into the prescription drug program, already we see a lineup of amendments to perhaps the most inappropriate vehicle there could ever possibly be to be dealt with Medicare. In other words, these amendments are on a tax bill. But more importantly, as in just the process, these amendments are unnecessary because of administrative actions taken to date or to be taken tomorrow, if a new problem comes up.

When these amendments that I have discussed, the Bingaman and Nelson amendments, come up for a vote today, I hope my colleagues will trust what we learned in the committee: that the Secretary of HHS doesn't need any new legislative authority, consequently bringing any more uncertainty into this process by voting for these amendments. Vote them down.

What this amendment does is ensure that our low-income seniors and our disabled—who are often technically referred to as duals—are at least ensured of a 30-day supply of lifesaving drugs, regardless of any communication or data exchange problem. It simply ensures that States and pharmacies and beneficiaries who have had to provide coverage to those who have fallen through the cracks in this rolling out of the Medicare drug plan are going to receive just and fair reimbursement.

Finally, it will end the confusion facing any of our duals. And for any of my colleagues who have not been out in their States since January 1, I will tell you this, you and me and the conflict and people are falling through the cracks and we need to end that confusion so they know whether, in fact, they qualify for assistance.

Because of the tremendous data and outreach problems, many of these so-called duals have been told they have to meet a $250 deductible before their plan is going to cover their prescription drugs. If they are eligible today for Medicare and Medicaid, they are assumed eligible at the drugstore.

I have listened to Secretary Leavitt and CMS Administrator McClellan reassure all of us that they are acting to fix these problems. I am here today to applaud their attention and their commitment to trying to overcome the tremendous challenges out there, particularly for our duals, as this prescription drug rollout is occurring. I only wish they had listened last November when I offered an amendment to provide a 6-month transition and predicted the dire straits that we are now in before this was rolled out.

I will say they have been responsive since January 1. But all of the steps that have been implemented are worthless if the information of our pharmacists and our seniors, or if there is no aggressive oversight and enforcement. Saying that they are just going to work to ensure the plans honor their commitment is not the same as saying plans will be required by law to honor that commitment. It doesn't do a senior any good to be told we are going to hold plans accountable, and they still do not have any access.

There are a number of problems with this flawed structure, but let me tell you it is critical that we address the immediate crisis for those people who have very few options. If anyone on this floor today thinks this is fixed, or these problems are going to go away, I want them to know they are sadly mistaken.

I have traveled around my home State of Washington since August. I am not hearing that things are getting any better. I have people come to forums that I am holding where I try to give them information, and from what I have had, time after time, there are new problems, new challenges: pharmacists are falling through the cracks, doctors who don't know how to deal with their patients, long-term care facilities that are at a loss, and certainly the mental health advocates who are telling us we have people who could be in serious crisis very soon if we don't address these problems.

There is a lot of frustration. There is a tremendous amount of panic for these dual eligibles that they are being denied access to lifesaving drugs, and to low-income seniors, especially those in group homes, who can't afford the added burden of copayments. It is not what our country should be doing for us to sit here and say this is going to get worked out. I think it is our responsibility to stand up today, at our very first opportunity, and make sure we fix this Medicare prescription drug plan.

This week, my Governor, as many Governors who have been facing this at home on the ground, joined with me in urging the Federal Government to fix this mess. I want to quote her. She said, "If we are asking is don't make those people worse off than they were."

Our Governor's office, as many Governors' offices, has been flooded with calls about this prescription drug plan. She says some of these people are telling her they would rather take their own life than deal with the situation.

I have sat in forums in my State where people have said that to me, to my face, as well. These are people with mental health problems, they are elderly, they are having trouble getting through the system. It is too much for them. They cannot deal with the copayments for the first time—and that is what our country should be about. It does not sound to me like things are getting better and the kinks are getting worked out.

Congress promised in 2005, they promised to people in this country access to affordable prescription drug coverage. It is clear they are not getting that today. We know these problems cannot be fixed with some kind of administrative action alone. We here in Congress have an obligation to act and not follow CMS.

I urge my colleagues to support this amendment and send a message to those who are living, literally, in fear today that Congress is not going to wait and we are going to do the right thing.

I do not agree that this is not the bill to deal with this issue. We had another bill in front of us which we had an actual fix in front of us. But we cannot wait to work through the next several weeks and then the budget process and everything else coming down the pike to deal with this issue. We are talking about real individuals in real communities who are not getting access to their prescription drugs because of the challenges that CMS is facing. I have an obligation to do this, and I urge my colleagues to support the Bingaman-Rockefeller-Murray drug REPAIR amendment and get a fix in place so people’s lives are not in crisis. We have an obligation to do this, and I urge my colleagues to vote for this amendment.

Mr. BAUCUS. It is my understanding, Senator BAUCUS, the voting will not start for at least a half hour. Everyone should understand the votes will not start now but within the next half hour, 45 minutes probably.

Mr. BAUCUS. It is my understanding we could start early if Senators have amendments. We do not have to wait a full half hour.

I yield the floor and suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. TALENT. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. TALENT. Mr. President, I rise for a speak in favor of amendment No. 2711, which is at the desk. It is my amendment regarding the child tax credit offered by the majority leader. I will discuss briefly that amendment.

I originally hoped I could offer an amendment making the child tax credit permanent, which would help millions of workers and families around the country. I wanted to offer a straight-out extension. The Senate rules preclude that from being offered today. I will put the Senate record on December 5, 2005: The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, we have half an hour remaining. If there are Senators who wish to speak on their amendments, they should. If there is no one here who desires to speak to the votes more quickly. That is left up to Senator BAUCUS. If Members want to talk, now is the time.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. BIDEN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. BIDEN. Mr. President, I will speak up to 5 minutes on an amendment that is not in the first package of amendments we will vote on, but since we will have no opportunity in the second and third package of amendments, I will speak to it now.

I have an amendment that is fash-ioned from the 9/11 Commission Report that came out less than 2 months ago, on December 5, 2005. It was the so-called report card where this prestigious bipartisan Commission, led by former Republican Governor Tom Kean and former Democratic Congress-man Lee Hamilton, took a look at what we have done based on what they recommended in the 9/11 Report. It tells how little we have learned and how little we have done to actually make the homeland safer.

Most Americans, at least in my State, believe at least the most obvious steps have been taken to close the gaps in our homeland defense. They believe, at the very least, we have a plan, that we have set priorities, and we know what the next step will be.

Let me quote from the Commission’s report, which is only 6 or 7 weeks old, on what we have done to assess the risks and vulnerabilities of our critical infrastructure—transportation, communications, electric power, industrial assets. Here is what they say:

No risk and vulnerability assessments actually made; no national priorities established; no recommendations have been made on allocation of scarce resources. All key decisions [on homeland security] are at least a year away.

We all remember September 11 when we discovered that local police, fire, and rescue units could not communicate with each other, could not communicate with Federal agencies. There was no way to coordinate the action, no way to share information. Things are no better today, if things are worse. Airline passenger screening, the one place most Americans think we have done pretty well, the 9/11 Commission gives that effort a grade of “F.”

Regarding airline baggage screening, to check for explosives, from the report on December 5, 2005:

Improvements have not been made a priority by Congress or the Administration.

This is unacceptable. This administration tries to fill in the most obvious gaps in our homeland defense, but they have not done it. We have not done it. We simply have not done it.

This amendment is designed to fill in the most obvious gaps. It begins with those areas where the Commission grade is “F” and “D,” in the Commission Report. It addresses other issues such as the utter lack of a systematic program for rail security, passenger freight, stations, tunnels, rail yards, bridges. Every dime in this amendment is fairly paid for by closing corporate tax loopholes. Frankly, this is a modest list. There is much more to be done. We will need more resources to make us safer. Wiretapping, even if it is legal, is not the sole homeland defense. This amendment focuses on the most glaring and dangerous shortcomings in our homeland defense. By closing these loopholes, this amendment actually returns $23 billion to the Treasury to improve our fiscal security and reduce our dependence on borrowing from other countries.

I have been joined in this amendment—and I did not have time to notify her because I did not know until 2 minutes ago—by Senator STABENOW of the State of Michigan, who has worked tirelessly on dealing with this issue.

It is pretty basic. We have done nothing much to deal with the problems most Americans know relate to homeland security. We are safer but not nearly safe enough.

The bipartisan commission that got great grades from everybody in the Nation felt compelled on their own dime, with their own money, their own resources, not funded by the Government, to continue to issue reports to hold hearings. And they issued a report on December 5 that is, quite frankly, embarrassing and dangerous.

Our amendment is designed to fill some of the loopholes, not all of them, that, in fact, have been left by the President’s failure to secure our national interest, our homeland defense, as well as by our failure as a Congress to step to the ball.
We can and we have to marshal all our country’s resources in this struggle. I will bet you $100, if you asked anybody in the public, from corporate CEOs to the average American out there, Would you rather us spend this money on securing our ports, our nuclear power plants, our railroads, our cities, or would you rather us give it back in a tax break, I think it is just like the COPS bill years ago, given the choice, the American people said let’s make our streets safer. I am confident they think we should make the country safer.

This amendment will be voted on not in this first tranche of amendments but the second, but I am not going to get a chance to speak to it at the later date. There was a little opening in time, and I thank the staff for letting me know this time was available.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Michigan.

Ms. STABENOW. Mr. President, I rise, as we are waiting for the votes as well, to join with Senator BIDEN and to thank him for his continued leadership. We have come to this floor on numerous occasions to speak about this issue over the years ever since 9/11, and we still do not have this fixed.

So I am pleased to be joining with Senator BIDEN to offer this amendment. It is time we act. It is past time. As Senator BIDEN said, it should be an embarrassment of us, our falling grades we received from the 9/11 Commission, a bipartisan commission, whose sole focus is on giving us information about whether we are safe today and what it will take to keep us safe, what it will take in the future to make sure Americans are safe.

We received, collectively—the administration, the Congress—falling grades in area after area. One of my main focuses has been on whether the radios work; it is stunning to me we are still having occasions to speak about this issue. We have come to this floor on numerous occasions to talk about this issue, to talk about the impact of not having these radios. It does not matter what your income level is, if there is another attack, you expect that your Government is doing everything humanly possible to keep you safe.

We have heard from the 9/11 Commission. They have overwhelmingly told us that is currently not true. So I hope and pray we will see that change, that we would create the priorities that Americans are asking us to create, which is by starting with security, starting with security, making sure we are putting that at the top of the list, that we are providing police officers and firefighters with what they need in dealing with ports and nuclear plants and chemical plants and all of the other issues, such as with Amtrak, making sure people are safe as they travel, as well as airlines.

We can do that by setting the right priorities. And that is what this amendment does. I urge my colleagues to join us in adopting this amendment.

Thank you, Mr. President.

Mr. BAUCUS. Mr. President, I support the pending substitute amendment. I encourage my colleagues to support it as well.

I almost made a flow chart to explain how we got here. But because of several events, there is now more room for tax cuts. Yes, you heard right: more tax cuts.

We should tread carefully, though, rather than dive in. We have an opportunity to show responsibility. And I think that this substitute does just that.

Let me first explain how we got here. As my colleagues will recall, the tax reconciliation bill that we passed last November included much-needed relief for the Gulf States affected by Hurricane Katrina. Congress passed and enacted those incentives separately in December.

Further, our tax bill allocation was limited by the fact that the spending reconciliation bill had not been enacted. The House is expected to pass that bill today, clearing it for the President.

The bottom line is that this bill can accommodate $18 billion more in tax cuts.

We have an opportunity here to show some responsibility. And the responsible thing to do is to pass another year of extenders. Otherwise, we will be right back here in a few months to pass those extenders. Or since it is an election year, we will be back during a very tight campaign period doing the same set of expiring provisions.

These are very popular, bipartisan tax cuts we extend year after year. But we never have the resources in any given year to make them permanent. This list of annual extenders includes several proven tax incentives. Businesses are encouraged to do more U.S.-based research and create high-paying jobs. Long-term welfare recipients and others who are hard to employ are given job opportunities through an employer credit. And teachers who reach into their pockets to pay for classroom supplies can get a small deduction for their expenses.

These tax incentives were all part of the original Senate reconciliation bill. But in that bill, they were limited to one year. Now, Chairman GRASSLEY and I are pleased to offer this amended version today to extend these provisions through the end of next year. We want to provide certainty to businesses, workers, and teachers.

We know we will all vote to extend these provisions, if pressed at the end of the year to do so. We should take this opportunity now to provide these tax incentives through the end of 2007. It is the responsible thing to do. Individual and business taxpayers will be thankful.

Mr. President, before us now are a series of amendments. I have a list of 21 Democratic amendments. I have a list of eight Republican amendments, with promises of more amendments on that side of the aisle, depending upon the course we take today.

Pending a few moments ago, first was an amendment by the majority leader to permanently extend the child tax credit. That is a very popular amendment. I support—I think most of my colleagues do—extending the child tax credit. I daresay that most Senators on both sides of the aisle would probably strongly support extension of the child tax credit. Senator TALENT, the author, however, has expressed his will to convert his amendment to a sense of the Senate. The majority promises to offer that full version later.

Because of the Nation’s record on budget deficits, I would prefer that we paid for the pending amendment. But because of the procedural posture in which we find ourselves, we will not have that choice. So we will be faced with another choice of voting for an appealing tax cut without paying for it or voting against an appealing tax cut.

After this amendment from the other side, we have been promised similar measures to deal with marriage penalty relief, estate tax relief, Social Security tax relief, 10 percent tax bracket relief, and so on. At the end of the day, this could become a fiscally very irresponsible exercise. I wish to propose a different path. I propose that we address a limited number of amendments—just six—and then go to third reading. I propose that these six amendments be Senator Talent's six of the Senate on the child tax credit, Senator Bingaman's prescription drug benefit, a Republican alternative to the prescription drug amendment, a modified Schumer-Menendez-Grassley sense of the Senate on Amended Rockefeller-Santorum mine safety amendment, and a paid-for substitute by Senator Conrad, and then go to third reading.

The Republican manager has conveyed to me that he would find this procedure acceptable. This procedure would require, obviously, many Senators to forgo their opportunity to offer amendments. That is clear. It would have that consequence. But this procedure would also do the most to maintain a modicum of moderation. Let us end this bill this afternoon. I have given deep thought to this issue. I know there are many on both sides of the aisle who have conflicting emotions and views on this basic prospect we find ourselves facing. It is my considered judgment that the path I outline is probably the best course for the Senate and, more importantly, the best course for the Nation. After all, we are here representing our constituents. We should go the extra mile to do whatever we possibly can to represent the people back in our home States as well as we possibly can.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. Isakson). The Senator from North Dakota.

Mr. CONRAD. Mr. President, we are here at a moment that people have to think very soberly about what the possible consequences of our actions might be. The Senator from Montana has outlined one possible scenario. Far be it for me to judge which amendments would be in order and which would not. Let me just say what consequences could flow from a failure to reach agreement.

I had just had a consultation with the Parliamentarian. He informs me that if we were to waive on any one of the amendments that have been talked about on the other side, if we were to waive all budget points of order through conference committee, that would open up to the conference committee the opportunity to come back with legislation that would cost far in excess of the $70 billion limit we currently face as a result of the budget resolution. I know this is complicated, but I urge my colleagues to think very carefully about the potential consequences. Let me give four.

If all points of order were waived through conference committee on the child credit, that could open up the conference committee to $185 billion of additional tax cuts, not offset. If the estate and gift tax changes that have been proposed by some were adopted all through the conference committee, that could add $358 billion that the conference committee could come back with with no points of order prevailing or possible. On the expanded 10 percent bracket, that would open up an additional $262 billion for the conference committee to come back to this Chamber with no points of order pending. An income tax raise of 25, 30, 33, and 35 percent, if all points of order were waived through the conference committee, we could come back here and open up this Chamber to an additional $385 billion of tax reduction with no point of order pending.

I do not pretend to know what the package is that could be agreed on to resolve this. I do know that the Senator from Montana has made an impassioned plea to our colleagues to think twice before we get into this destruction of our potential. He is right. If, at the end of the day, we would find ourselves in the circumstance very easily in which you could have a trillion dollars of additional tax cuts pending on the floor of the Senate, with no point of order available, I notice the leader is in the Chamber. I yield the floor.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I think what we have here is a case being made for how bad the reconciliation plan is that we have. We have a number of amendments that Senators in good faith have tried to offer. There will be votes on these amendments. Ours doesn't break the bank, as indicated by the Senator from North Dakota. All the time we are talking about that are going to cost all this money come from the other side. With rare exception, our amendments are offset. We don't expect to ask to waive points of order through conference on our amendments. That is why Members should not vote to waive through conference.

Also, I hope the country is watching what is going on here today. First of all, as I said earlier today, we are working on something that has been named by the majority the "Deficit Reduction Act of 2005." Using the numbers given us by the majority, it increases the deficit by $50 billion. Today, as I was walking to lunch, a reporter says: Are you aware that we are going to get a supplemental next week for $90 billion? The budget gimmicks of this administration are unbelievable. Everyone knows the cost of the war is ongoing. We are in our fourth year of war. The President doesn't include it in his budget. I want to show the American people how deeply in the red we are. Rather than do that, he comes back later with all these supplemants. But I understand, having managed a few bills in my day, how the distinguished Senator from Montana and I will feel about it.

We want to get the bill out of here and move on to other things with as little damage as possible. But, Mr. President, damage has been done by having this reconciliation bill in the manner that we got it in the first place. Having been given this bill, we are $50 billion in the hole to begin with, using the numbers of the majority.

Now, people in good faith on our side offered amendments, or soon will offer them. Some have been debated. Our amendments take, for example, the amendment of the Senator from New York. She wants to have this Senate on record as to whether the Senate will stand for an independent bipartisan commission to study what went wrong with Katrina. We have been stymied every step of the way to do that. Rather than have a 9/11-type commission to find out what went wrong in the most significant natural disaster in the history of this country, we are being stonewalled. That is an amendment the majority doesn't want to vote on.

I think there was an easy way out of this, but there is not. I say to my friends who are offering this amendment on the child tax credit, if it is offered, a lot of Senators over here on this side are going to vote for it. Someone might the administration will recognize what they have done to this country economically. We are going to be asked in a few days to increase the debt ceiling from $8.2 trillion to whatever the majority wants—$8.2 trillion is not enough. So my suggestion is, let's just start voting.

Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

Mr. FRIST. The Assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. FRIST. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. Cornyns). Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. FRIST. I ask unanimous consent that the motion to commit be withdrawn. I further ask consent that amendment No. 2709 be withdrawn and offer up to two amendments and vitiated on amendment No. 2708; further, that the amendment be agreed to; provided further that the only remaining amendments in order be the following, and further, when a motion to waive occurs, it be in order for each leader to offer up to two amendments to each motion to waive.

The amendments are: Talent, child tax credit; Nelson, prescription drugs; Republican alternative to Nelson, relevant; Byrd-Rockefeller-Santorum substitute; Conrad, substitute; Dodd, veterans health; Republican alternative to Dodd, relevant; Reed, America's military; Republican alternative to Reed, relevant; Clinton, Katrina commission; Republican alternative to Clinton, relevant; Menendez, AMT; Grassley, AMT; Reid, relevant to any amendment on the list; Frist, relevant to any amendment on the list.

I point out that at the conclusion of this unanimous consent, all time be yielded back and the Senate proceed to votes in relation to the following amendments; that all votes in the sequence be limited to 10 minutes each. Following the reporting of each amendment, the amendment be considered as read and there be 2 minutes equally divided prior to the vote in relation to the amendment; finally, that following disposition of amendments, the substitute be agreed to, the bill be read the third time, and the Senate proceed to a vote on passage of the bill, with no intervening action or debate. The amendments will be considered in the order sent to the desk.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. (Mr. CRAFEE so objection?) Without objection, it is so ordered.

AMENDMENT NO. 2777

The Senator from North Dakota [Mr. CONRAD], for himself and Mr. BINGAMAN, proposes an amendment numbered 2729 to amendment 2707.

Mr. CONRAD. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that further reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is printed in today’s Record under “Text of Amendments.”

Mr. CONRAD. Mr. President, the chairman and ranking member have done an excellent job in putting together this package that is in the interest of the American people. I have all of the same tax relief provisions that are in their package. The only difference is that I have paid for it over the 10 years. I have done it by adopting the same offsets as in the managers’ package: closing the tax gap by shutting down abusive tax shelters and other reforms, raising some $34 billion, including revoking tax benefits for leasing foreign subway and sewer systems; second, ending a loophole for big oil that lets them avoid taxes on foreign operations, raising $9 billion; requiring tax withholding on Government payments to contractors such as Halliburton, raising $7 billion; renewing the Superfund tax so that polluting companies pay for cleaning up toxic waste sites, raising $17 billion; and closing additional loopholes, raising $22 billion.

This is the package that has all of the tax relief in the managers’ package. It just has additional pay-fors, so we cover the costs. We have exploding deficits, exploding debt. Let’s pay for these tax cuts we are offering.

I thank the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Iowa is recognized.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I disagree with the proposal in two important parts.

First, the proposal does not extend to 2009 several provisions that are very important to both sides, bipartisan—specifically, the section 179 expensing, which encourages the growth of small business in our country, and the college tuition deduction, which will give parents more certainty in the planning of their children’s education, and the low-income savers’ credit, which assists families who make less than $50,000 in saving for their retirement.

The second point I have—Mr. CONRAD. Mr. President, would the Senator yield on this point?

Mr. GRASSLEY. I only have 1 minute.

Mr. CONRAD. Can I grant you some additional time?

Mr. GRASSLEY. We don’t have that time.

Mr. CONRAD. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent for 30 seconds on this point, if it would.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Then I will take 30 seconds, too.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. CONRAD. That is more than fair. I say to my colleague that the statement he made is just not true. I have precisely the same tax relief in my package as in yours. Every one of the items the chairman just mentioned is in my package for exactly the same period of time as in yours.

Mr. GRASSLEY. All I can say in my 30 seconds on my point is that the Senator may be entirely correct, but that is one of the things that happens when we have 2 days of debate and these amendments are not put before the Senate to study until the last minute.

The second concern I have about the proposal is the inclusion of offsets which we have not had an opportunity to fully consider or with respect to which we may have some policy concerns. An example of that is the revival of the environmental excise tax offered, referred to as the “Superfund tax.” As you might expect, I believe the bill passed by a bipartisan majority with 64 votes in the Senate in November, which I do not get through again, represents a more balanced bill, one that provides longer-term benefits, including increased certainty and reduced complexity for planning.

In addition, I raise a point of order that the budget does not meet reconciliation instructions to the Senate. It is an issue of germaneness, Mr. President.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from North Dakota.

Mr. CONRAD. Mr. President, pursuant to section 904 of the Congressional Budget Act, I move to waive the applicable sections of the act for the purposes of the pending amendment, and I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There appears to be a sufficient second.

The question is on agreeing to the motion. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant journal clerk called the roll.

Mr. McCONNELL. The following Senators were necessarily absent: the Senator from New Mexico (Mr. DOMENICITI), the Senator from Oklahoma (Mr. INHOFFEN), and the Senator from Wyoming (Mr. THOMAS).

Mr. DURBIN. I announce that the Senator from New Mexico (Mr. BINGAMEN) is necessarily absent.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. ALLEN). Are there any other Senators in the Chamber desiring to vote?

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD—SENATE S489
The PRESIDING OFFICER. On this vote, the yeas are 47, the nays are 52. Three-fifths of the Senators duly chosen and sworn not having voted in the affirmative, the motion is rejected.

The point of order is sustained and the motion is rejected.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Iowa is recognized.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that reading of the amendment No. 2731 be dispensed with.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, the amendment expresses the sense of the Senate about the concerns regarding the problems encountered in implementing the new drug benefit. It expresses the Senate's support for the administration's efforts to fix them. These efforts have proven to be much speedier in getting the problems fixed, and fixed fast, than any legislation can do. To that point, one amendment offered yesterday has provisions that are completely unnecessary because administrative actions have already taken care of it. I see no point in legislating for the sake of legislating. Moreover, legislative action on top of administration action will undermine and complicate the date. I urge my colleagues to support this sense-of-the-Senate amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Iowa will please send the sense-of-the-Senate amendment.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, it is the sense of the Senate about the concerns regarding the Medicare prescription drug program, and smoothing the implementation of the new drug benefit. It expresses the Senate's support for the administration's efforts to fix them. These efforts have proven to be much speedier in getting the problems fixed, and fixed fast, than any legislation can do. To that point, one amendment offered yesterday has provisions that are completely unnecessary because administrative actions have already taken care of it. I see no point in legislating for the sake of legislating. Moreover, legislative action on top of administration action will undermine and complicate the date. I urge my colleagues to support this sense-of-the-Senate amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Iowa will please send the amendment to the desk.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Iowa is recognized.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that reading of the amendment numbered 2731 to amendment No. 2707 be dispensed with.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. BAUCUS. Mr. President, what is the status of the amendment?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment is pending. The amendment is not considered as defeated.

Mr. BAUCUS. That means the next amendment is the amendment of Senator GRASSLEY on the Medicare prescription drug program.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The majority leader.

Mr. FRIST. Mr. President, tonight it has taken a long time to get where we are. We are going to have 30-minute rollcall votes, so everybody needs to stay in the Chamber. We are going to cut everybody off. We have agreed to 10-minute votes. Everybody stay here. We are going to have 10-minute votes. Everybody stay here.

Second, we have a request from the other side of the aisle that after this series of amendments there be a rollcall vote on the extension of the PA-TRIOT Act. We will run through the series of amendments as outlined and then, in discussion with the other side of the aisle, they are requesting a rollcall vote on the extension of the PA-TRIOT Act following these stacked votes on the amendments. I yield the floor.
Secretary of Health and Human Services already has the authority to take under current law, rather than through Congressional action followed by administrative action.

(3) the Senate fully supports the efforts of the Secretary of Health and Human Services, Medicare prescription drug plans, pharmacists, and others to implement the Medicare prescription drug program and to resolve problems that have occurred during the implementation of the program; and

(4) the pace of enrollment in the Medicare prescription drug plan is so slow that extending the six-month enrollment period is not warranted at this time, and, by contrast, such an action could exacerbate implementation issues with the program.

Mr. BAUCUS. Mr. President, I yield 1 minute allocated to my side to the Senator from Florida.

Mr. NELSON of Florida. Mr. President, Senators had better look at this sense-of-the-Senate amendment because it indicates that “extending the 6-month enrollment period is not warranted.”

That is a direct quote. You know what you have been hearing from your senior citizens and how confused they are. This sense of the Senate says it shouldn’t be extended.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the amendment. Mr. NELSON of Florida. Mr. President, I ask for the yeas and nays.

This sense-of-the-Senate amendment be rejected. AMENDMENT NO. 2730 TO AMENDMENT NO. 2707 (Purpose: To provide for necessary beneficiary protections in order to ensure access to coverage under the Medicare Part D prescription drug program.

Mr. NELSON of Florida. Mr. President, I call up amendment No. 2730. The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

seniors who are out of pocket, the pharmacies that are out of pocket, the States that are out of pocket because of the Federal bungling, we will reimburse them in the implementation of the program; and

Mr. MCCONNELL. The following Senator from New Mexico (Mr. DOMENICI) and the Senator from Wyoming (Mr. THOMAS).

Mr. DURBIN. I announce that the Senator from New Mexico (Mr. BINGMAN) is necessarily absent.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. On this vote, the yeas are 32, the nays are 45. Three-fifths of the Senators duly chosen and sworn not having voted in the affirmative, the motion is rejected. The point of order is sustained and the amendment falls.

The problem goes on and on. The problem is being solved by the Secretary right now. Let’s not screw up what the Secretary is trying to do, something that is working very well. There are problems, yes, but those problems are identified, and they can work.

I raise a point of germaneness on this amendment. I raise a point of order under section 310 of the Budget Act, and I ask for the yeas and nays.

Mr. NELSON of Florida. Pursuant to 903 of the Congressional Budget Act, I move to waive the applicable sections of that act for consideration of this amendment. I ask for the yeas and nays on my motion.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. On this vote, the yeas are 32, the nays are 45. Three-fifths of the Senators duly chosen and sworn not having voted in the affirmative, the motion is rejected. The point of order is sustained and the amendment falls.
Mr. GRASSLEY. I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. BENNETT. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New York.

AMENDMENT NO. 2716 TO AMENDMENT NO. 2707

(Purpose: To establish a congressional commission to examine the Federal, State, and local response to the devastation wrought by Hurricanes Katrina in the Gulf Region of the United States especially in the States of Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, and other areas impacted in the aftermath and make appropriate legislative recommendations to improve such responses in the future)

Mrs. CLINTON. Mr. President, I call up amendment No. 2716 and ask for its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will please report.

The legislative clerk reads as follows:

The Senator from New York (Mrs. CLINTON), for herself, Ms. MIKULSKI, Mr. HARKIN, Mr. LAUTENBERG, Mr. REED, Mr. SALAZAR, Mr. GRAHAM, Mrs. BOXER, Mr. SLEET, Mr. SCHUMER, Mr. DURBIN, Mrs. FEINSTEIN, Mr. FEINGOLD, Mr. CARPER, Mr. JOHNSON, Mr. LEAHY, and Mr. JEFFORDS, proposes an amendment numbered 2716.

Mrs. CLINTON. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is printed in today’s Record under “To Amend Amendments.”

Mrs. CLINTON. Mr. President, this amendment would establish a Katrina commission modeled after the 9/11 Commission, made up of experts on a bipartisan basis.

We are seeing the administration withholding documents, testimony, and information from the ongoing investigations by the House and Senate. I commend our colleagues, Senator COLLINS and Senator LIEBERMAN, for their efforts to obtain the information that is needed. But we must establish this commission to get at what the truth is about what actually happened in order to take steps that will fix the problems so they do not happen anywhere else in our country.

A vote against this commission is a vote for continued stonewalling, sweeping problems under the rug, and ignoring the problems that we know exist today. That is a dangerous precedent for the people of this Nation.

I urge my colleagues to vote for the Katrina commission.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time in opposition? The Senator from Maine.

Mrs. COLLINS. Mr. President, the Homeland Security Committee of the Senate has been conducting a thoroughly comprehensive, bipartisan, and thorough investigation into the preparation for and response to Hurricane Katrina. We have held 15 hearings, the latest of which was today. We have interviewed 270 witnesses. We have reviewed 800,000—800,000—pages of documents. We have a completely bipartisan staff of investigators, attorneys, and other experts.

We are working together. We are making great progress. We will finish in March. We will produce a report and legislation. And, most important, we will finish our work before the next hurricane season.

I urge opposition to the amendment, and I raise a point of order that the pending amendment is not germane to the measure now before the Senate. I raise a point of order under section 305(b) of the Budget Act.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New York.

Mrs. CLINTON. Mr. President, I move to waive the applicable sections of the Budget Act for purposes of the pending amendment, and I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second? This appears to be a sufficient second.

The question is on agreeing to the motion to waive.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk reads as follows: The Senator from Iowa (Mr. GRASSLEY) proposes an amendment numbered 2732.

The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: To support the health needs of our veterans and military personnel)

At the appropriate place, insert the following:

(A) $1,000,000,000, which shall be deposited in the Fund upon the enactment of this subsection.

(B) Any other amounts authorized for transfer to or deposit in the Fund by law.

Administration.—The Funds shall be administered by the Secretary of Veterans Affairs.
Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, the problem with the Dodd amendment is that it doesn’t even do what the author says it does. He says it is paid for by using capital gains, but capital gains offsets don’t even come into play until the year 2009. The author is leading us to believe that the military assistance is covered, but it is not, if it is tied to an offset that won’t come due until 2009. Our alternative now before the Senate will do the same thing as the Dodd amendment, but we don’t tie it up in an offset that is way down the road 3 years. That is not truth in budgeting. I urge support for my amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Connecticut.

Mr. DODD. Mr. President, I send an amendment to the desk and ask for its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

‘‘(Purpose: To support the health needs of our veterans and military personnel and reduce the deficit by making tax rates fairer for all Americans)’’

At the appropriate place, insert the following:

SEC. 6. FUNDING FOR VETERANS HEALTH CARE AND DISABILITY COMPENSATION AND HOSPITAL INFRASTRUCTURE FOR VETERANS.

(a) FUNDING FOR MEDICAL SERVICES.—

(1) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—There is hereby authorized to be appropriated for the Department of Veterans Affairs for Medical Care amounts as follows:

(2) SUPPLEMENT NOT SUPPLANT.—The amounts authorized to be appropriated by this subsection are in addition to any other amounts authorized to be appropriated for the Veterans Benefits Administration for Compensation and Pensions under any other provisions of law.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The motion to lay on the table was rejected.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment (No. 2732) was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 275 TO AMENDMENT NO. 276

Mr. DODD. Mr. President, I send an amendment to the desk and ask for its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment is as follows:

The amendment is so ordered.

The amendment is so ordered.

The amendment is so ordered.

The amendment is so ordered.

The amendment is so ordered.
First, I thank the American Legion. I ask unanimous consent that a letter from the American Legion endorsing the Dodd amendment be printed in the Record.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the Record, as follows:

THE AMERICAN LEGION,

Hon. CHRISTOPHER J. DODD,
Hon. EDWARD M. KENNEDY,
U.S. Senate,
Washington, DC.

DeAR GENTLEMEN: On behalf of the 2.8 million members of the American Legion, I would like to offer our support of the proposed amendment to the Tax Relief Extension Reconciliation Act of 2005 that would provide for the unbudgeted costs of health care for veterans returning from Iraq and Afghanistan.

The amounts offered by this amendment would be in addition to any other amounts provided for medical care under other statutory provisions and would help to avoid funding shortfalls, such as those that took place last year, or other problems that arise due to the discretionary funding model currently in place for VA. This amendment would also establish a “Veterans Hospital Improvement Fund” to provide for improvements in medical care facilities treating veterans, including more treatment facilities, VA facilities and other facilities (state, local and private) that provide medical and services to veterans.

Again, we appreciate your efforts on behalf of our nation’s veterans. Your amendment acknowledges the need for adequate funding to ensure our nation’s veterans receive the healthcare and other benefits to which they are entitled.

Sincerely,

STEVEN ROBERTSON,
Director, National Legislative Commission.

Mr. DODD. Mr. President, the distinction between this amendment and what we just voted on is, of course, paying for this. This amendment would provide at least around $18 billion, $19 billion in needed funds to serve returning veterans from theater of conflict.

We know last year that over 100,000 Iraqi veterans returned home. Yet the administration’s fiscal year 2006 budget for the VA would only handle 23,000 veterans. There are shortfalls in every State across the country. There are shortfalls in private facilities as well as public ones. This amendment is for us finally to say let’s do something for these people.

Last year, we were promised it would be accommodated in the appropriations process. It had to be done as almost an afterthought. I don’t like offering this amendment on this bill. I understand the problems associated with it. But if we don’t finally do something, these veterans will lose the support they deserve. That is why the American Legion is so strongly supporting this amendment.

I urge my colleagues to join me in seeing to it we have the resources to pay for this. If we don’t pay for it, this amendment will not make it past the Ohio Clock. It will be dropped, and once again, veterans will suffer. I urge adoption of the amendment.

Mr. AKAKA. Mr. President, I rise today with my friends, Senators Ken-neddy and Dodd, to offer an amendment to address the costs of providing health care and improved benefits to troops serving in Iraq and Afghanistan.

This amendment we offer today allows VA to provide care for returning troops without diverting money from veterans currently using the system. Let us never forget the budget disaster last year. Early in the year, we knew VA was not making ends meet. The administration, however, took months to come to that realization. And just last week, the President declared a declaration of emergency funding for $1.2 billion for fiscal year 2006.

We cannot repeat last year’s budget scenario. This amendment provides more cushion for this fiscal year and future years.

Early warnings are that this will not be enough to cover expected shortfalls for this fiscal year. And VA will surely not have enough funding to open the system up to all veterans. In 2003, this amendment covered 100% of our severely injured veterans, disability compensation is their only income—the only way for them to provide for their families. This amendment ensures that our wounded warriors receive the compensation they have earned.

This amendment establishes a fund for infrastructure improvements. VA’s infrastructure has suffered greatly over the last 5 years. Major construction projects were held up for some time waiting for money from the construction study. And while that process still awaits conclusion, VA has been trying to catch up with the projects that have been stuck in the queue for years. At the same time, the Department has faced consistent funding shortfalls that have paralyzed its ability to carry out these projects. Its no secret that when the health care account is strained, funds are then diverted from “nonessential areas”—such as maintenance and construction—to be spent on direct health care costs.

Meanwhile, smaller scale projects are put in jeopardy. In my home State of Hawaii, we have a need for $6.9 million to build a new VA mental health facility in Honolulu.

The costs of the war we are fighting today will continue to add up long after the final shot is fired, mainly in the form of veterans health care and benefits.

I urge my colleagues to join us in this effort to see that they are provided the care they are currently earning.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Iowa.
Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, first, since we adopted the previous amendment, we obviously don’t need this amendment. But even if we consider this amendment, I raise a budget point of order on the amendment.

Mr. DODD. Mr. President, I move to waive all provisions of the Budget Act and budget resolutions necessary for consideration of the pending amendment to this bill, and for inclusion of the language of the pending amendment in the consideration of an amendment between the Houses.

I ask for the yeas and nays. The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. On this vote, the yeas are 44, the nays are 53. Three-fifths of the Senators duly chosen and sworn not having voted in the affirmative, the motion is rejected. The point of order is sustained and the amendment falls.

The Senator from Iowa.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Just not to confuse anybody, we are kind of going through the same thing we did on the previous two amendments, so be alerted.

Mr. BAUCUS. Mr. President, the Senate is not in order.

AMENDMENT NO. 276

Mr. GRASSLEY. I call up amendment No. 276.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Iowa (Mr. GRASSLEY), proposes an amendment numbered 276.

The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: To strengthen America’s military and for other purposes)

TITLE IV—STRENGTHENING AMERICA’S MILITARY

SEC. 401. SHORT TITLE.

This title may be cited as the “Strengthening America’s Military Act”.

Subtitle A—Military Funding

SEC. 402. FUNDING FOR MILITARY OPERATIONS.

There is appropriated, out of any money in the Treasury which is not otherwise appropriated, for the fiscal years 2006 through 2010, the following amounts, to be used for resetting and recapitalizing equipment being used in theaters of operations:

(1) $16,900,000,000 for operations and maintenance of the Army.

(2) $1,800,000,000 for aircraft for the Army.

(3) $6,300,000,000 for other Army procurement.

(4) $10,000,000,000 for wheeled and tracked combat vehicles for the Army.

(5) $467,000,000 for the Army working capital fund.

(6) $6,000,000 for missiles for the Department of Defense.

(7) $100,000,000 for defense wide procurement for the Department of Defense.

(8) $4,500,000,000 for Marine Corps procurement.

(9) $4,500,000,000 for operations and maintenance of the Marine Corps.

(10) $2,700,000,000 for Navy aircraft procurement.

Mr. GRASSLEY. The same arguments that I made on the previous amendments apply here as well. My amendment will do the same as the Reed amendment but doesn’t raise taxes to do it, will provide more equipment for our troops without increasing taxes. I urge support of my amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Montana.

Mr. BAUCUS. I yield 1 minute to the Senator from Rhode Island.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, the amendment proposed by the Senator from Iowa is my amendment. It would meet the supreme need of the military to reset, recapitalize, and rehabilitate $43 billion or more of equipment. The one big difference is that my amendment will pay for it. It will take the responsible step of actually paying to help our military. What I will use as dividend offsets. I will offer that later. But we have the responsibility to be responsible, not only give the troops what they need but pay for it so we do not increase the deficit. I hope we respond by supporting my amendment which takes $43 billion or more equipment and offsets so in a responsible way by providing the resources to pay for this necessary equipment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Iowa.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, again I raise a budget point of order. I ask unanimous consent it be exactly the same as the previous one on the last two bills. I ask unanimous consent to waive all provisions of the Budget Act and budget resolutions necessary for the consideration of the pending amendment to this bill and for the inclusion of the language of the pending amendment in the consideration of one amendment between the Houses—an amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? Without objection, it is so ordered.

The question is on agreeing to the amendment.

AMENDMENT NO. 277

(Purpose: To strengthen America’s military, to repeal the extension of tax rates for capital gains and dividends, to reduce the deficit, and for other purposes)

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Rhode Island and the Provid- ence Plantation.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I send an amendment to the desk.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Rhode Island (Mr. REED), for himself, Ms. STABENOW, Mr. LAUTENBERG, Mrs. CLINTON, and Mr. KERRY, proposes an amendment numbered 277.

(The amendment is printed in today’s RECORD under “Text of amendments.”)

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Rhode Island.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, our Army and Marines face a critical problem: $47 billion worth of equipment which they have used in Iraq and Afghanistan needs to be repaired and reconditioned. They call it reset recapitalization. We have to do this. This equipment is not new equipment. It is not transformational, it is the equipment they need. I commanded a paratrooper company in the 82nd Airborne Division. I can tell you the worst thing for morale is to have soldiers with poor and inadequate equipment. We owe it to them.

My amendment would be the responsible way to do it, pay for it, by taking capital gains cuts that are proposed, dividend cuts and others that are proposed, and other loopholes. It is essential. It is very simple. It is not going to give a dividend to the wealthiest citizens or are we going to give a dividend to our troops, our soldiers, and marines? And that dividend is equipment that will work, not only today but in the future.

This is particularly important for the National Guard. Every one of your National Guard units has equipment they have left overseas or has been run into the ground. If we do not act responsibly—not just act but act responsibly, then we will not be able to assure our soldiers and marines that the equipment they have is the best equipment, that it works, and it will be reconditioned and refit and work in the future.
I urge passage of this amendment. The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Iowa.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Again, I raise a budget point of order on this amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Rhode Island.

Mr. REED. I move to waive all provisions of the Budget Act and budget resolutions necessary for the consideration of the pending amendment to this bill and for the inclusion of the language of the pending amendment in the consideration of an amendment between the Houses.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New Hampshire.

Mr. GREGG. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to speak to this issue for 2 minutes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. REED. Reserving my right to object, if the Senator has 2 minutes, can I have it now?

Mr. GREGG. I just want to explain the parliamentary situation for the record.

Mr. President, these last two amendments are totally outside the traditional process of reconciliation. But the practical effects of the motion to waive, which the Senator from Iowa has made on his amendments, is that neither amendment can survive conference. I think it is important to understand that reconciliation cannot include spending under this bill, and that we would be doing fundamental damage to the process were either of these amendments to survive conference.

And, therefore, I support the motion on this point of order and hope we proceed the same way we have with the other points of order.

Mr. REED. I ask unanimous consent for 1 minute.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? Without objection, it is so ordered. The Senator from Rhode Island and the Providence Plantation is accorded the floor.

Mr. REED. I have great respect for the procedures and rules of the Senate, but we have come too many times to issues—I can recall back when we were talking about armored humvees when the objection was made this is not the right legislative vehicle to do this. I think we have an obligation to our soldiers and marines to help them now and provide for it now. This might be the only occasion we can do both.

I urge passage.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection to the request to waive the Budget Act?

Mr. REED. I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second? There is a sufficient second.

The question is on agreeing to the motion. The clerk will call the roll.

The Senator from New Mexico [Mr. DOMENICI] and the Senator from Wyoming [Mr. THOMAS].

Mr. DURBIN. I announce that the Senator from New Mexico [Mr. BINGMAN] is necessarily absent.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there any other Senators in the Chamber desiring to vote?

MENENDEZ, KERRY, and Thomas

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. THUNE). On this vote, the yeas are 44, the nays are 53. Three-fifths of the Senators duly chosen and sworn are not voted in the affirmative, the motion is rejected. The point of order is sustained and the amendment fails.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I hope we just have one more rollcall vote—on final passage. It is my understanding that the Menendez amendment has been changed to a sense of the Senate, so that means the amendment I was going to offer on AMT will not be offered. Consequently, I am hoping we can get this amendment agreed to on a voice vote.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, Senator MENENDEZ told Members he wants a rollcall vote.

AMENDMENT NO. 2705

Mr. MENENDEZ. Mr. President, I call up amendment number 2705.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from New Jersey [Mr. MENENDEZ], for himself, Mr. SCHUMER, Mr. KERRY, Mrs. FEINSTEIN, Mrs. CLINTON, Mr. LAUTENBERG, and Ms. STABENOW, proposes an amendment numbered 2705.

The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: To express the sense of the Senate that protecting middle-class families from the alternative minimum tax should be a higher priority for Congress in 2006 than extending a tax cut that does not expire until the end of 2008)

At the appropriate place, insert the following:

SEC. 9. SENSE OF THE SENATE REGARDING PROTECTING MIDDLE-CLASS FAMILIES FROM THE ALTERNATIVE MINIMUM TAX.

(a) FINDINGS.—The Senate finds that—

(1) the alternative minimum tax was originally enacted in 1969 as a supplemental tax on high-income taxpayers who evaded federal income tax by taking losses, credits, or deductions that resulted in a tax on millions of middle-class working families, particularly families in which both parents work, and families with 2 or more children;

(2) by the end of the decade, the alternative minimum tax will ensure more than 30,000,000 taxpayers, the majority of which will have adjusted gross incomes below $100,000, and the National Taxpayer Advocate has thus identified it as the most serious problem facing individual taxpayers;

(3) the alternative minimum tax is often portrayed as a tax that is most problematic for residents of States such as New York, California, Massachusetts, and New Jersey, but the truth is that many other States have a significant percentage of taxpayers affected by the alternative minimum tax, including Oregon, Maryland, Virginia, Minnesota, Ohio, Maine, Massachusetts, New York, Colorado, and Pennsylvania, so the problem is of national importance;

(4) a family with 2 children will become subject to the alternative minimum tax at about $67,500 of income in 2006, and a family with 5 children will start owing the alternative minimum tax at about $54,000 of income;

(5) the year 2006 is the “tipping point” for the alternative minimum tax, as the number of taxpayers affected nationally will explode from 3,600,000 to 19,000,000 if Congress fails to act;

(6) in 2004, only 6.2 percent of families earning $100,000 to $200,000 a year were subject to the alternative minimum tax, and that number will explode to nearly 50 percent if Congress fails to act;

(7) if the alternative minimum tax relief is extended through 2006, about two-thirds of the benefits will be realized by families earning under $200,000, with more than half of the total benefits going to families with incomes between $100,000 and $200,000;

(8) starting in 2008, the average married couple with 2 children earning $75,000 or more will find that more than half of the tax cuts they have been expecting from the various laws passed since 2001 will be “taken back” via the alternative minimum tax; and

(b) SENSE OF THE SENATE.—It is the sense of the Senate that protecting middle-class families from the alternative minimum tax should be a higher priority for Congress in 2006 than extending a tax cut that does not expire until the end of 2008.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New Jersey.

Mr. MENENDEZ. Mr. President, this amendment, which is a substitute amendment of the Senate, which I am offering with Senators SCHUMER, KERRY, FEINSTEIN, CLINTON, LAUTENBERG, and STABENOW, is simply a sense of the Senate to try to ensure that 17 million middle-class families do not see a tax increase next year through the alternative minimum tax. This tax was never intended to raise the taxes of average Americans but, in fact, it has—millions of Americans.

Some think this is more problematic for residents of States such as New York, California, or my home State of New Jersey. But the truth is a whole host of other States have a significant percentage of tax failures affected by the alternative minimum tax, including Oregon, Maryland, Virginia, Minnesota, Ohio, Maine, Georgia, North Carolina, and Pennsylvania. It is a problem of national importance. This is a question of whether the Senate values work and the work of honest and hard-working families who are going to be subjected to a tax not because they made more income but simply because of the way the tax is structured.

Ultimately, I urge my colleagues to support the sense of the Senate. I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There is a sufficient second.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Iowa.

Mr. GRASSLEY. I dispute the presupposition we have to choose between AMT hold-harmless and not extending capital gains and dividends. We can do both. The presumption in this bill is that we can and we are going to be able to do that in the conference committee.

Since the amendment reflects the position of what we in the Senate previously had anticipated doing anyway. Members ought to vote for the amendment. I will vote for it.

Yesterday afternoon, I took time to respond to Senator HARKIN’s statement that the AMT problem is a significant degree because of what the Finance Committee did in the 2001 tax bill. Importantly, he fails to recognize that we have addressed the problem for 2001 to 2005. And, now, we are trying to do the same thing for 2006—to make sure that the AMT problem is not worsened.

To the extent that Senator HARKIN suggests, like others who have looked at this issue, that the Bush tax cuts are responsible for the AMT problem—I disagree. I have reached that conclusion have done so by misusing data provided by the Joint Committee on Taxation, JCT, to distort the record on this issue. Additional analysis was necessary to isolate causation of the AMT. Because there is overlap in the variables being analyzed—in these examples, indexing and the Bush tax cuts—the order of analysis of those variables is crucial to the outcome. JCT acknowledges this point to us in a letter dated October 3, stating: “There is, however, interaction between these two contributing factors to the AMT effect. In order to avoid double counting of interactions, a stacking order is imposed. The apportionment of effects to each contributing factor will vary depending on the stacking order, even though the total effect remains constant.”

JCT to this tax cuts (“tax cuts” I have not seen anything that accurately suggests that the 2001 tax cuts have worsened the AMT problem to date. It is my intention to ensure that we continue to honor that commitment and that is an important part of this tax reconciliation legislation.

I ask unanimous consent that a memorandum be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

To: Mark Prater and Christy Mistr
From: George Yin
Subject: AMT Effects

This memorandum responds to your request of September 29, 2005, for an analysis of the portion of the AMT effect (AMT liability plus losses due to the AMT) which can be attributed to the failure to adjust the AMT exemption amount for inflation, assuming alternatively that the EGTRRA and JGTRRA tax cuts (tax cuts) are either permanently extended or repealed. We also explain how this information compares to information previously provided to you on August 31, 2005 and September 16, 2005.

For the purpose of this analysis, we have first assumed that the tax cuts are repealed. The first set of figures in Table 1 compares the AMT effect under this assumption if, alternatively, (1) the AMT exemption amount is not extended beyond 2005; (2) such provision is extended permanently; (3) and such provision is extended permanently and indexed after 2005. The second set of figures presents the same comparison under the assumption that the tax cuts are permanently extended. All of the information provided in this table was previously provided to you in our September 16, 2005 memo, except in a different format.

Subject: AMT Effects

In the information provided to you on August 31, 2005 and September 16, 2005, we analyzed the portion of the AMT effect attributable to the tax cuts. In the analysis described above, we identify the portion of the AMT effect attributable to failure to adjust the AMT exemption amount to inflation. There is, however, interaction between these two contributing factors to the AMT effect. In order to avoid double counting of interactions, a stacking order is imposed. The apportionment of effects to each contributing factor will vary depending on the stacking order, even though the total effect remains constant.

This phenomenon is illustrated by Tables 2 and 3 below. The first two columns of Table 2 show the portion of the AMT effect attributable to the tax cuts, consistent with the information provided on August 31, 2005 and September 16, 2005. The next two columns of Table 2 show the portion of the AMT effect attributable to the failure to extend and index the hold-harmless provision, consistent with the information provided in Table 1 above. Notice that if these two contributing factors were completely independent of one another, the information in Table 2 would suggest that the two factors together contribute to only 83 percent of the AMT effect. In fact, as shown in Table 3, the two factors together contribute to only 83 percent of the AMT effect. Thus, there is substantial overlap between these two factors.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the amendment.

The yeas and nays have been ordered. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant bill clerk called the roll.

We will be in session tomorrow, but there will be no votes tomorrow. The next piece of legislation we will be considering is the asbestos legislation, and it will be necessary to file cloture on the motion to proceed to that bill. The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Democratic leader.

Mr. FRIST. If there are no votes tomorrow.

Mr. REID. Either no votes or not in session.

Mr. FRIST. All right.

Mr. REID. We would be willing to agree procedurally on a motion to proceed to the asbestos bill. You could file whatever papers necessary tonight to do that so we could have a Tuesday cloture vote.

Mr. FRIST. All right. Mr. President, we will work out on filing the motion to proceed here, and I have an announcement. We will have no votes tomorrow. By the end of tonight, we will have Tuesday worked out. We will be debating the asbestos bill on Monday. The next vote will be on cloture motion, and we will talk about when that would occur Tuesday. In all likelihood, if we have a vote Tuesday, it would be around 6 o'clock at night. There are a number of Members who will want to attend the funeral of Coretta Scott King, and, as I understand it, that will be at noon on Tuesday. Therefore, the next vote that we will have will be at approximately 6 o'clock on Tuesday night.

CONFLICT OF INTEREST

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, I would like to call the chairman’s attention to a serious situation facing a Federal district judge in my State of Pennsylvania, who recently contacted me on this matter. He has an immediate problem that could be solved with an amendment to this bill. This judge was assigned as the transferee judge responsible for handling all pretrial matters in very large multidistrict litigation involving antitrust claims in the corgated paper industry from all around the United States. He has been working on the case since 1999.

Late in this last year, a company in which the judge inherited stock over 30 years ago merged into another company, which happens to be owned by the plaintiffs in the case. Because of the judge’s stock holdings in this company, the judge may now have to recuse himself from the case. Most of the parties would like the judge to remain on the case, however, to bring expertise on this case. In order to remain as the transferee judge, this judge would have to sell his holdings, which would give him a capital gain this year well into six figures.

Last March and some this past November, Ralph Mecham, as Secretary of the Judicial Conference of the United States, transmitted on behalf of the Conference a legislative proposal to you and to me to review this process to resolve this judge’s problem and similar problems for countless other Federal judges throughout the United States. It would permit a judge who must sell financial holdings in order to avoid giving the appearance of trading stock that money in another holding and defer paying the capital gains tax until the substitute financial interest is liquidated. The taxes are not forgiven, but deferred and payable at the later date, I just said.

This same solution to conflicts of interest is already available to executive branch officials. The proposal by the Judicial conference would simply extend it to Federal judges, as well, bringing her into line with those two branches of the Federal Government.

I understand that it is too late at this time to offer the Judicial Conference proposal as an amendment. However, I would like to know if the chairman would consider taking this matter up during the conference with the House on this bill.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I appreciate the Senator bringing this matter to my attention and regret that it is too late to amend the bill today on the floor. I will agree with the Senator, however, to review this proposal further with the intent of taking it up in conference.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, budget reconciliation is a process adopted by Congress nearly three decades ago to facilitate the passage of legislation to reduce the deficit and to help bring the Federal budget into balance. But in recent years, under the Republican majority, that process has been repeatedly abused to enact more and more tax cuts for the wealthy that make the budget deficit even larger.

Now we need to do it again, in spite of the urgent problems facing the Nation, from the ongoing war in Iraq to the devastating hurricane damage along the gulf coast. The Republicans have brought before the Senate two reconciliation bills, one after the other, that would produce a net increase in the budget deficit by billions of dollars over the next 5 years.

It sounds like deficit reduction, until you look at the tax reconciliation bill, which will cut taxes by far more than the savings in spending—$70 billion. The net result will be a substantial increase in the budget deficit—exactly the opposite of what reconciliation is supposed to accomplish. Billions of dollars will go from programs that assist low income families and senior citizens into the pockets of the already wealthy. It takes from the least and gives to the most. It is a breathtaking Republican scam on the Nation that can only further discredit this Congress in the eyes of the people.

From day one, the Republican plan has been in use this reconciliation process to push through a cut in the tax rate on capital gains and dividend income. These are tax cuts that overwhelmingly benefit the richest Americans. Over half the tax benefits will go to millionaires. These tax breaks were in the original mark proposed by Chairman Grassley and are in his revised bill already passed by the Republican majority in the House of Representatives. While they are not in the current Senate bill, we all know these capital gains and dividend tax cuts will be stopped in the conference.

Leading Republicans have made that clear. The GOP intent on delivering those tax breaks to their wealthy supporters. They will be included in the final bill.

What is the real cost of these capital gains and dividend tax cuts? The Republicans claim the cost of these provisions is $20 billion, the real cost of extending the lower rates for another 2 years is $50 billion. This tax break is particularly unfair, because over 75 percent of the tax benefits will go to taxpayers with incomes over $200,000 a year. Over half the benefits—53 percent—will go to taxpayers with incomes over $1 million a year. The average millionaire will save over $35,000 a year from these tax breaks for capital gains and dividends.

As a result of this shameful Republican let-them-eat-cake proposal, millions of working families would pay a substantially higher tax rate on their wages than wealthy taxpayers pay on their investment income. What could be more unfair? Republicans are penalizing hard work, not rewarding it. They are giving a preference to unearned income over earned income.

The Republicans cynically claim that capital gains and dividend income deserve special treatment because they will stimulate investment. The facts do not substantiate that claim. The stock market grew much more rapidly in the early and mid-1990s when investors’ income was taxed at the same rate as employers’ wages than since the rates on capital gains and dividend income were cut. The overall health of the economy has much more to do with financial stability than special tax breaks for the rich. More tax cuts that America cannot afford will hurt the economy, not help it.

There are some provisions in the Senate bill that we do need to address. The alternative minimum tax was never intended to apply to middle-class families, and they deserve tax relief. In a truly outrageous move, the House Republican leadership has gone, the middle class out of their reconciliation bill so they could fit in more tax breaks for the rich. The research and development tax credit is important to our international competitiveness and should be enhanced.

While they are not in the current Senate bill, we all know these capital gains and dividend tax cuts will be stopped in the conference.

Leading Republicans have made that clear. The GOP intent on delivering those tax breaks to their wealthy supporters. They will be included in the final bill.

What is the real cost of these capital gains and dividend tax cuts? The Republicans claim the cost of these provisions is $20 billion, the real cost of extending the lower rates for another 2 years is $50 billion. This tax break is particularly unfair, because over 75 percent of the tax benefits will go to taxpayers with incomes over $200,000 a year. Over half the benefits—53 percent—will go to taxpayers with incomes over $1 million a year. The average millionaire will save over $35,000 a year from these tax breaks for capital gains and dividends.

As a result of this shameful Republican let-them-eat-cake proposal, millions of working families would pay a substantially higher tax rate on their wages than wealthy taxpayers pay on their investment income. What could be more unfair? Republicans are penalizing hard work, not rewarding it. They are giving a preference to unearned income over earned income.

The Republicans cynically claim that capital gains and dividend income deserve special treatment because they will stimulate investment. The facts do not substantiate that claim. The stock market grew much more rapidly in the early and mid-1990s when investors’ income was taxed at the same rate as employers’ wages than since the rates on capital gains and dividend income were cut. The overall health of the economy has much more to do with financial stability than special tax breaks for the rich. More tax cuts that America cannot afford will hurt the economy, not help it.

There are some provisions in the Senate bill that we do need to address. The alternative minimum tax was never intended to apply to middle-class families, and they deserve tax relief. In a truly outrageous move, the House Republican leadership has gone, the middle class out of their reconciliation bill so they could fit in more tax breaks for the rich. The research and development tax credit is important to our international competitiveness and should be enhanced.

If we are honest about reducing the deficit and strengthening the economy, we need to stop lavishing tax breaks on the rich and start investing in the health and well-being of all families. These families are being squeezed mercilessly between stagnant wages and ever-increasing costs for the basic necessities of life. The cost of health insurance is up 59 percent in the last 5 years. Gasoline is up 74 percent. College tuition is up 45 percent. Housing is up 34 percent. The cost of groceries has gone up and up—and paychecks are buying less each year. The dollars that go to pay for more tax breaks for the rich are dollars that could be used to help these families. Instead, this Republican budget plan turns a blind eye to their problems.

The economic trends are very disturbing for any who are willing to look at them objectively. The gap between rich and poor has been widening in recent years. Thirty million Americans now live in poverty, up 19 percent during the Bush administration. One in five American children lives in poverty. Fourteen million children go to bed hungry each night. Wages remain stagnant while inflation drags more and more families below the poverty line. Two-point-eight million manufacturing jobs have been lost. Long-term unemployment is at historic highs.

In his second inaugural address, President Lincoln reminded us of the solemn obligation that we have to those who fight our Nation’s wars. He said “let us strive on to finish the work we are in, to bind up the Nation’s wounds, to care for him who shall have borne the battle (and for his widow and his orphan.)"

Over 550,000 brave men and women have served in Iraq and Afghanistan. A majority of them have served multiple tours fighting under dangerous conditions, and many were injured in unseen foes. We owe it to them to care for their injuries incurred in service of our Nation.

As of today, over 16,000 of our troops have been injured in battle. Of those, over 7,500 were so seriously injured that they could not return to duty. We have seen the ravages of war in the wards of Walter Reed and Bethesda. While body armor saves lives, many soldiers and Marines have lost their limbs.

Others will survive with major injuries to their spine or brain damage. This summer, the Surgeon General of the Army reported that 30 percent of U.S. troops have developed mental health problems within a few months of their return from Iraq. Twenty percent of the troops injured in Iraq have suffered head and brain injuries that require a lifetime of continual care that could cost as much as $5 million.

A recent study by the New England Journal of Medicine found that 35 to 17 percent of Iraqi vets showed signs of “major depression, generalized anxiety, or [Post Traumatic Stress Disorder].” But of those, only 23 to 40 percent are seeking help. Many of them will end up homeless with no other options for their health care than the VA. After their service to our country, we should not leave them out on the street.

The increased use of the Guard and Reserve in this conflict has created an entirely new category of people who may now make use of the VA. The Guard and Reserve make up approximately 40 percent of the troops on the ground, and approximately 90,000 have sought care at VA hospitals.

Unfortunately, our current budgets do not reflect this reality. A recent study by Nobel Prize-winning economist Joseph Stiglitz and Harvard professor Linda Bilmes found that the costs of paying for the injured from these wars has not yet been budgeted. To our dismay, we learned that the Veterans’ Administration needed an additional $2.7 billion for this fiscal year to care for the veterans returning from Iraq.

Stiglitz and Bilmes found that, “the military values the cost of those injured by what their medical treatment cost and disability pay; and current accounting only reflects current payments in disability” not future payments.

Based on their calculations, it could cost as much as $241 billion to pay for these costs over the next 5 years. Of this amount, $9.4 billion for medical care and $14.7 billion for increased disability payments.

This amendment Senator Dodd and I introduced would rectify that shortfall and keep faith with our men and women in uniform. It would be paid for by elimination of the capital gains and dividends tax breaks for taxpayers with over $1 million in annual income.

We owe it to soldiers like Sergeant Peter Damon, a son of Massachusetts who lost his arms in Iraq.

I also express my support for the amendment offered by Senator Rockefeller that would provide strong tax incentives for mining companies to adopt safer practices and up-to-date safety equipment.

The recent tragedies at Sago Mine and Alma Mine in West Virginia remind us that the safety of the Nation’s workers is paramount. This year, 21 miners have already been killed on the job. In early January, 12 miners died when they were trapped after an explosion at the Sago Mine. Just 2½ weeks later, two more miners died in a mine fire at the Alma mine. And tragically, yesterday, there were three more mine accidents—killing two more men. One miner died in an underground mine in Boone County when a wall support came loose. A second miner died when a bulldozer struck a gas line, causing a deadly fire. Miners have also died this year in Kentucky and Utah.

Our entire Nation joins the families and the communities in mourning these fallen miners. We have a continuing obligation to do everything we can to protect the safety of America’s miners. It is obvious that we are not meeting that obligation.

Two weeks ago, I traveled with Senator Rockefeller, Health, Education, Labor and Pensions Committee Chairman Enzi, and Subcommittee Chairman Isakson to meet with the family members of the miners who were killed at Sago Mine, and with coalminers, company representatives, and health and safety experts. Each of us committed to improving the Nation’s mine safety laws.

A critical part of that commitment is to ensure that all of our Nation’s miners have the best safety equipment available. This amendment will encourage companies to adopt up-to-date mine safety equipment by providing accelerated deductions for companies that invest in these technologies.

It encourages mines to adopt emergency communications technology and tracking devices to locate miners underground. It will also encourage coal mines to ensure that workers have access to additional stores of emergency oxygen, which will give them extra time to exit a mine or to wait for rescue. Finally, the amendment acknowledges the critical need for experienced mine rescuers who are familiar with the underground geography of a mine. By providing a tax credit to encourage the formation of mine rescue teams, we hope to ensure that mines have well-trained rescuers on call, saving precious minutes in any rescue attempt.

These are all safety measures that could have made a difference in the terrible tragedies that occurred this year at Sago and Alma Mines. By passing this amendment, we take the first step toward preventing future such tragedies from occurring.

I have joined separately in sponsoring legislation introduced by Senator Byrd and Senator Rockefeller to require the Mine Safety and Health Administration to quickly adopt needed safety standards. Both of these measures are critical to improving safety conditions in America’s mines. Our Nation’s miners deserve no less, and I urge my colleagues to support this amendment and the Federal Mine Safety and Health Act of 2006.

In contrast to helping hard-pressed families, the budget reconciliation process is being misused to cut the programs and eliminate the services that these families need most, while granting the wealthy even more tax breaks. It is yet another example of our priorities out of whack. Because we have heard a great deal about the wisdom or folly of extending the lower tax rate on dividends and capital gains, I would like to take this opportunity to offer a few words in defense of the extension.

It is interesting to note that so many of my colleagues have juxtaposed the capital gains and dividends provision against the provision to relieve temporarily the individual alternative minimum tax. Listening to some of my colleagues, one would think that we either must include the alternative minimum tax fix or extend the capital gains and dividends provision, but not both. My strong belief is that we can—and must—do both.

The reduced rate of tax on dividends and capital gains has been attacked repeatedly as being a costly sop to the rich and not much else, with little recognition given to its beneficial impact on the economy. The simple fact is that the data and basic economics tell us the cost of the lower tax rates on dividends and capital gains has been minor, and the benefits immense.

There is ample evidence that clearly shows the lower tax rates on capital income have stimulated saving. Alicia Munnell, an economist at Boston College and a former official in the Clinton Treasury Department, finds that working age households saved significantly less in 2001 when the tax reductions on capital gains and dividends passed the Congress, than they did in 2002. Incidentally, Munnell’s work also shows that the recently announced savings rate of zero is misleading—she reports that working families, and by that I mean families with breadwinners who have yet to reach retirement age, are indeed putting money aside. However, looking at our broad, economy-wide measure of net saving, the dissaving done by retired households obscures this fact.

There are other benefits from a lower tax rate on investment income besides increased saving. With lower tax rates, capital becomes more fluid, making it easier for it to flow to projects with higher rates of return. Families lock in much less capital for fear of the taxman. The Government gets a lower percentage of each sale of stock, but it gets more opportunities to tax the money.

And, Uncle Sam is getting more cracks at it. The amount of capital gains realized in 2005 was twice that in 2002. The stock market’s value has not doubled since then, and we are not twice as wealthy as we were then—people are just responding to incentives and they are holding their assets for a bit less time. There is nothing necessarily wrong with that. If capital is used this ultimately benefits not just the investors but also the workers, who see their productivity increase. When productivity goes up, wages must follow.

The amount of revenue collected from taxes on capital gains and dividends has increased significantly since the reduction in tax rates passed. In 2005, capital gains tax revenues amounted to $30 billion, 60 percent higher than in 2002.

Now, I am not about to claim that this or any other tax cut “pays for itself,” but the revenue lost from the lower rates on capital gains and dividends is relatively minor precisely because of the increased economic activity the lower taxes generate. The jump in revenues collected from the two taxes is manifest proof of this.

The beneficiaries of lower taxes on investment income are not just those who own stocks and bonds either, and I would not put it that way. Just the rich who have investments. I hear from retired Utahns who are living modestly on a Social Security check, a small pension, and their savings. They might not have a lot of money invested, and their dividends are not going to buy them a new car or luxury condominium, but every little bit helps, they tell me.

In reality, everyone benefits from lower taxes on dividends and capital gains, whether with little or no savings. The primary reason for lower tax rates on investment income is that it stimulates the economy. This is not a radical idea by any means—Nobel Prize-winning economists Robert Lucas and Ed Prescott have argued vehemently in favor of this. The logic is simple: Low taxes on the income we receive from our savings means we will save more. That ends up making more capital available for firms to invest in new plant and equipment, increasing productivity as well.

The strong economic conditions of the 1990s are owed to a number of factors, but the most important factor was undoubtedly the resumption of high productivity growth in the middle of the decade. It was in the latter years of the expansion, when unemployment dropped below 5 percent, that we finally saw the elusive gains in income of low-skilled workers. I believe that the low tax rates on capital gains and dividends is an essential ingredient in creating more new jobs and maintaining healthy economic growth.

Some of my colleagues may say they agree that the benefits of lower rates are real and ought to be continued, but they do not see the need to renew a provision that does not expire until 2008. The simple answer is that we need to create some degree of certainty and stability for investors. Investors in 2006 care about what the tax rate on a long-term investment is going to be in 3 years. If they believe that Congress will allow tax rates on dividends and capital gains to increase to their previously higher rates, they will be less inclined to make those investments. That money will go instead to less productive, shorter term investments or will simply not be saved at all. The end result is that we will have less capital available and lower economic growth.

We must acknowledge that the budget deficit is a problem—it is obvious we need to get our economic house in order soon. The baby boom generation is starting to retire and making our budget mess a lot worse. However, increasing the taxes on dividends and capital gains is not the answer to our budget morass, either in the short or the long run. We need every single bit of economic growth we can get for the next decade to help fund our obligations, and allowing the tax rates on dividends and capital gains to go back up would be a tax increase that would reduce growth.

When we seek to raise revenue by taxing the accumulation of wealth, we end up punishing a virtuous activity, namely saving. We should be doing all we can to encourage families to set aside money, to invest, to patiently prepare for the future. Allowing the low tax rate on dividends and capital gains to expire would do more than reduce productivity and economic growth; it would send a signal that we do not value savings in this country.

At this point in time, we can afford neither.

Some of my colleagues believe that low tax rates on dividends and capital gains benefit solely the rich and no one else and feel that they cannot counteract a continuation of the low rates at the expense of programs more targeted to low-income households. I do not fault my colleagues for their concern, but I believe that the lower rates helps everyone in our country. It costs us relatively little in terms of lost tax revenue, since the lower rates have resulted in higher dividends, higher stock price, and more sales of stock, with more revenue created by each activity. At the same time, every single working family in this country benefits from the higher savings engendered by the lower tax rates via the improved productivity, wages, economic growth, and the number of jobs available. High growth and economic prosperity are not the cure to every problem that afflicts the country, but it can make any solution much more attainable. Supporting low tax rates on dividends and capital gains is the right thing to do.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there further amendments to the first-degree amendment?

If not, without objection, the first-degree amendment, as amended, is agreed to.

The amendment (No. 2707), as amended, was agreed to.

The amendment was ordered to be engrossed and the bill to be read a third time.

The bill was read the third time.

Mr. PRIST. Mr. President, I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There appears to be a sufficient second.

The bill having been read the third time, the question is, Shall the bill pass? The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk called the roll.

Mr. MCCONNELL. The following Senators were necessarily absent: the Senator from New Mexico (Mr. DOMENICI) and the Senator from Wyoming (Mr. THOMAS).

Mr. DURBIN. I announce that the Senator from New Mexico (Mr. BINGMAN) is necessarily absent.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there any other Senators in the Chamber desiring to vote?

The result was announced—yeas 66, nays 31, as follows:

[Rollcall Vote No. 10 Leg.]
The bill (H.R. 4297), as amended, was passed, as follows:

USA PATRIOT ACT EXTENSION

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, the clerk will report H.R. 4659.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

A bill (H.R. 4659) to amend the USA PATRIOT Act to extend the sunset of certain provisions of such Act.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There are now 10 minutes equally divided for debate. Who yields time?

The Senator from Vermont.

Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, the Republican leadership of the House and the Senate has proposed a second extension of the PATRIOT Act to last another 5 weeks until March 10. I support that. I support it because it is basically what Senator SUNUNU and I proposed in December in the bipartisan S. 2062, co-sponsored by 47 Senators from both sides of the aisle. I hope this will allow us to make the final improvements necessary so that the final PATRIOT Act can be passed.

I support H.R. 4659, a bill by Chairman SENSENBRENNER. I hope all Senators from both sides of the aisle will. I say this because—notwithstanding the fact that the Senate doesn't even have a modicum of order, I would note, I am prepared to yield back the rest of my time if the place would just hush a tiny bit—it is a vital debate. The terrorist threat to American security is very real. It is vital that we have the tools to protect American security. That is why I coauthored the PATRIOT Act 5 years ago. That is why it passed with bipartisan support. I didn't believe it was a perfect piece of legislation, but I thought it was a good piece of legislation.

And then the Republican leader in the House, Dick Armey, and I put certain sunset provisions in it so that we would actually look at this again. I think we have done that. We are close to having a final product. After all, our Nation is a democracy. It is based on the principles of a balanced government, which requires something that we believe not only. Those of checks and balances. We can do that in this act.

I noted earlier this week that I was concerned that the Republican congressional leadership had not even proposed to the Senate Democratic leadership or to that of the Judiciary Committee that action be taken to ensure that certain sunset provisions of the USA PATRIOT Act not be allowed simply to expire at the end of this week. Thereafter, action was finally considered in the House, and the House passed on March 2 to extend the sunset provisions until March 10, 2006. I support H.R. 4659, Chairman SENSENBRENNER's bill.

Those of us working constructively and in a bipartisan way to extend the USA PATRIOT Act with improvements have repeatedly offered to meet to work out the remaining differences. Regrettably, the Senate leadership has not made the effort to work through the remaining concerns or to bring us together. I was concerned because as recently as last week leading Republicans were indicating that they opposed another short-term extension that could be used to work out improvements that can lead to larger term Senate reauthorization.

I was concerned that the demagoguery we had witnessed from the White House and House Republicans would be repeated, but that this time it would have real consequences. Last December, even though a majority of Senators—Republicans and Democrats, those who voted against cloture on the conference report that failed to pass the Senate and those who voted for it—wanted the President to act on a short-term, 3-month extension before the end of the last session. At that time the President had said that he would not approve a short-term extension, and House Republicans had said that they would not oppose a short-term extension. Those who threatened to let it expire were playing a dangerous political game. Fortunately, common sense prevailed, and in the waning days of the last session, just before adjournment in September, the House approved a short-term extension until February 3, and the President reversed his earlier position and signed it into law.

Now the Republican leadership of the House is proposing a second extension that will last for another 5 weeks, until March 10. That is in line with the initial bipartisan proposal that Senator SUNUNU and I made in S. 2062, back on December 12, that came to be comprised by 47 Senators. It is my hope that this will allow us the opportunity to work out improvements to the reauthorization legislation to better protect the liberties and rights of ordinary Americans. We should do our best to get it right for all Americans.

I have continued meeting and talking with interested Republican and Democratic Senators. Senate staff has finally gotten together this week in a bipartisan manner, and I hope that this will allow us the opportunity to work out improvements to the PATRIOT Act. That was wrong. That made no sense. They came to their senses in the days that followed.

In his State of the Union speech this week, the President said only that reauthorizing the PATRIOT Act was needed to provide the same tools we provide to law enforcement authorities to fight drug trafficking and organized crime. I have worked with others to provide additional tools in the fight against terrorism. With others on both sides of the aisle, I also want to protect the liberties of ordinary and law-abiding Americans from overreaching and unchecked Government intrusion. Permanent gag orders and conclusive pre-sumptions in favor of government action, when intrusive demands for library records or personal medical records are being made by agents without court approval, smack of a police state, not the United States.

Every Republican and Democratic Senators together last month to say we can do better to protect Americans' liberties while ensuring that our national security is as strong as it can be. In the days after 9/11, the Senate Democratic majority joined with Republicans and the administration in bipartisan action. Unfortunately, the President's political adviser Karl Rove and other Republican partisans have sought to make the PATRIOT Act a partisan issue. I urge them, instead, to join with our bipartisan coalition and work with us to provide a better balance to protect the rights of ordinary Americans.

Every single Senator—Republican and Democratic—voted last July to mend and extend the PATRIOT Act. That bipartisan solution was cast aside by the Bush administration and Republican congressional leaders when they hijacked the conference report, rewrote the bill in ways that fell short in protecting basic civil liberties, and then tried to ram it through Congress as an all-or-nothing proposition. I have joined with Senators of both parties in an effort to work to improve the bill. That bipartisan approach is what will protect the security and liberty of Americans. What is wrong is for the White House to seek to manipulate this into a partisan fight for its partisan political advantage. Instead of playing partisan politics, the Bush administration and Republican congressional leaders should join in trying to improve the law. Especially when security and liberty are at issue, why not make the extra effort to produce a consensus bill that can deserve the confidence of the American people?

This is a vital debate. The terrorist threat to America's security is very real, and it is vital that we be armed with the tools needed to protect Americans’ security. At the same time, the threat to civil liberties is also very real in America today. The question is not whether the Government should have the tools it needs to protect the American people. Of course it should. That is why I supported the PATRIOT Act 5 years ago, and that is why that act passed with broad bipartisan support.

When I voted for the PATRIOT Act, I did not think it was an ideal piece of legislation, and I knew that it would need careful oversight and, in due course, reform. This is about how to reconcile two fundamental goals—ensuring the safety of the American people and protecting their liberty by means of a system of checks and balances that keeps the Government—their Government—accountable. Those goals should not be the goals of any particular party or ideology, they are shared American goals.

Our Nation is a democracy, founded on the principles of balanced government. We need to restore checks and balances in this country to protect us all and all that we hold dear. Our Congress and our courts provide checks on the abuse of executive authority and should protect our liberties. We need to write the law so that Congress has provided its check in the law and so that courts can play their role, as well. All Americans need to take notice and demand that their liberties and security be properly and effectively maintained. I see the senior Senator, my good friend from Pennsylvania, on the floor. I will yield back the rest of my time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Pennsylvania is recognized.

Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, first, I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second? There is a sufficient second.

The yeas and nays were ordered. Mr. President, we need the PATRIOT Act. I am prepared to work on it further to improve it. I support the bill, and I yield back 4 minutes 45 seconds of my 5 minutes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on third reading and passage of the bill.

The bill (H.R. 4659) was ordered to a third reading and was read the third time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The yeas and nays have been ordered, and the clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk called the roll. Mr. MCCONNELL. The following Senators were necessarily absent: the Senator from New Mexico (Mr. DOMENICI), the Senator from Wyoming (Mr. Thomas), and the Senator from Mississippi (Mr. LOTT).

Mr. DURBIN. I announce that the Senator from New Mexico (Mr. Bingaman) is necessarily absent.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there any other Senators in the Chamber desiring to vote?

An FTA with Korea will help foster economic growth and create higher paying jobs in the United States by reducing and eliminating barriers to trade and investment between Korea and the United States. An FTA will enable American companies to increase their exports of goods and services to Korea. The FTA will require Korea to eliminate its tariffs on U.S. industrial and agricultural goods, remove any unjustified sanitary and phytosanitary (SPS) measures, improve the transparency of its regulatory and licensing procedures, and lower its barriers to U.S. service providers.

The United States has much to gain through an FTA with Korea. Korea already is our seventh largest trading partner with $72.8 billion in total bilateral trade during 2005. An FTA promises to increase trade still further across a wide range of goods and services and thereby promote economic growth and the creation of better paying jobs in both countries. An FTA will also level the playing field for U.S. exports in Korea by providing U.S. products treatment comparable to that which Korea has offered its other FTA partners, such as Chile, Singapore, and the European Free Trade Association countries (Iceland, Norway, Switzerland, and Liechtenstein).

An FTA with Korea will provide benefits for U.S. agricultural producers. In 2005, based on eleven month annualized data, Korea was the sixth largest export market for U.S. farm and ranch products. Under an FTA, Korea will eliminate duties on U.S. agricultural goods and reduce other barriers in Korea’s agricultural sector, thus creating new opportunities for U.S. farmers in this major market. U.S. negotiators will work hard to ensure that the FTA facilitates further market access for U.S. food and other agricultural exports to Korea and addresses the full range of trade barriers that U.S. agricultural exports currently face in Korea, including unjustified SPS measures. We will consult closely with Congress and the U.S. agricultural community in developing our positions on agricultural issues during the negotiations.

The FTA will also promote exports of U.S. industrial goods by eliminating Korea’s tariffs on U.S. products and removing non-tariff barriers. U.S. industry groups have consistently pointed out deficiencies in Korea’s trade and investment policies. An FTA will provide U.S. industrial goods exporters with an opportunity to reduce or eliminate restrictions that make it difficult for U.S. service providers to operate in the Korean market.

In recent years, U.S. industry has repeatedly pointed out deficiencies in Korea’s efforts to protect intellectual property. The Administration has held extensive, detailed discussions on this subject with Korea since 2001, and Korea has made progress on important issues, including improved protection for copyrighted works. The Administration welcomed Korea’s announcement in 2006 that it would increase protection for U.S. intellectual property rights. An FTA with Korea will provide even stronger protection for U.S. intellectual property rights.

We also recognize the concerns raised by U.S. industry about the close interaction between the Korean government and business in some sectors of the economy and the implications this has for transparency in regulatory processes. In order to address these concerns, we will seek to ensure that the FTA provides... for regulatory transparency in trade and investment matters, including a public comment period, the publication of general administrative actions, and other appropriate provisions.

An FTA with Korea will also promote bilateral investment. U.S. companies are already the largest source of foreign investment in Korea, while Korea is a growing source of investment in the United States. Additional bilateral investment holds the potential of adding to the many jobs that currently have high levels of bilateral investment support.

An FTA will also help strengthen Korea’s cooperation with the United States in multilateral trade fora. Korea is currently a close partner in the Asia-Pacific Economic Cooperation (APEC) and in the Doha Round of negotiations in the World Trade Organization (WTO). As host country for the APEC Leaders Meeting in November 2005, Korea played a leadership role in securing a call by all 21 APEC Leaders for an ambitious conclusion to the WTO Doha Development Agenda. It similarly played a constructive role in the recent Hong Kong Ministerial meeting. Concluding an FTA will help show that there continues to be a commonality of interest and close cooperation between the United States and Korea in all international trade fora.

In implementing our cooperative efforts with Korea on global and regional trade issues, an FTA will further enhance the strong United States-Korea regional partnership, which is a force for stability and development in Asia. An FTA will reinforce the shared interests of the United States and Korea and promote common values, facilitating our efforts to work together on a wide range of issues. Korea is a key ally in the region on military and security matters, in the global war on terrorism, and the extensive ties between the U.S. and Korean armed forces bolster U.S. strategic interests in the region.

While we see substantial benefits in pursuing an FTA with Korea, we are also giving careful consideration to concerns that some members of Congress have raised regarding Korea’s trade policies. We will continue to consult closely with Congress as we consider how to address these issues in the context of FTA negotiations.

Initial consultations with the Congressional Oversight Group (COG) on September 8, 2005 and with other Members of Congress regarding potential FTA negotiations with Korea were positive, and our decision to move ahead with negotiations with Korea was strongly influenced by the bipartisan expressions of interest we have received from members of Congress and U.S. industry. The Administration will continue to consult closely with the Congress, including the COG, throughout the negotiation process on the first FTA.

Our specific objectives for negotiations with Korea are as follows:

Trade in Goods

Seek to eliminate tariffs and other duties and customs impediments to trade between Korea and the United States on the broadest possible basis, subject to reasonable adjustment periods for import-sensitive products.

Seek an end to anti-dumping tariffs in Korea on U.S. exports, including permit and licensing barriers on agricultural and other products, restrictive administration of tariff-rate quotas, and other trade restrictive measures that affect new U.S. technologies, and other trade restrictive measures that U.S. exporters identify.

Seek to eliminate government practices that adversely affect U.S. exports of perishable or cyclical agricultural products, while providing for improved U.S. import relief mechanisms as appropriate.

Pursue a mechanism with Korea that will support achieving the U.S. objective in the WTO negotiations to eliminate all export subsidies on agricultural products, while maintaining the right to provide bona fide food aid for agricultural purposes, market development and export credit programs.

Pursue fully reciprocal access to the Korean market for U.S. textile and apparel products.

Customs Matters, Rules of Origin, and Enforcement Cooperation

Seek specific and trade facilitative customs commitments to ensure that Korea’s customs operations are conducted with transparency, efficiency, and predictability, and that Korea’s customs laws, regulations, decisions, and rulings are applied in a manner that facilitates the efficient and timely release of goods, and prevents unwarranted procedural obstacles to international trade.

Seek rules of origin, procedures for applying these rules, and provisions to address circuitous matters that will ensure that preferential duty rates under an FTA with Korea apply only to goods eligible to receive such treatment, without creating unnecessary administrative obstacles.

Seek terms for cooperative efforts with Korea regarding enforcement of customs and related issues, including in the area of trade in textiles and apparel.

Sanitary and Phytosanitary (SPS) Measures

Seek to have Korea reaffirm its WTO commitments on SPS measures and eliminate any unjustified SPS restrictions.

Seek to strengthen cooperation between U.S. and Korean SPS authorities.

Seek to strengthen collaboration with Korea in implementing the WTO SPS Agreement and to enhance cooperation with Korea in relevant international bodies on developing international standards, guidelines, and recommendations.

Technical Barriers to Trade (TBT)

Seek to have Korea reaffirm its WTO TBT commitments and eliminate any unjustified TBT measures.

Seek to strengthen collaboration with Korea in implementing the WTO TBT Agreement and to address information and information with Korea on TBT-related issues.

Intellectual Property Rights

Mr. SANTORUM. Mr. President, I rise today to honor the life of Coretta Scott King and express my condolences on behalf of Mrs. King. Mrs. King carried the message of nonviolence and the dream of racial equality around our great nation and throughout the world. She led goodwill missions in Africa, Latin America, Europe, and Asia. Mrs. King traveled around the world advocating racial justice, religious freedom, and helping those in need.

Coretta Scott was born in Marion, AL, on April 27, 1927. In a world where neither women nor minorities pursued an education, she graduated as valedictorian of her high school class and attended Antioch College in Yellow Springs, OH. She received a bachelor of arts in music and education and then studied concert singing at the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston, MA.

While in Boston, she met Martin Luther King, Jr., and the two forged a unique relationship that led to the raising of their four children and an emphasis on finding social equality throughout our country. She was not just the wife of one of our great civil rights leaders. She was a great civil rights leader in her own right. She became the first woman to deliver the Class Day address at Harvard, and the first woman to preach at a statutory service at St. Paul’s Cathedral in London.

Just days after the death of Martin Luther King, Jr., Mrs. King carried out her husband’s dream by leading a march on behalf of sanitation workers in Memphis, TN. Mrs. King continued to speak publicly and write nationally syndicated columns. As founding president, chair, and chief executive officer of the Martin Luther King, Jr. Center for Nonviolent Social Change, she dedicated herself to providing local, national, and international programs that have trained tens of thousands of people in Dr. King’s philosophy and methods. In 1983, she led an effort that brought more than 2 million demonstrators to Washington, DC, to commemorate the 20th anniversary of the 1963 March on Washington for Jobs and Freedom, where King delivered his famous “I Have a Dream” speech.

Mrs. King was also an instrumental part in establishing Dr. King’s birthday, January 15, as a national holiday in the United States. By an act of Congress, the first national observance of the holiday took place in 1986. Dr. King’s birthday is now marked by annual celebrations in over 100 countries.

Mrs. King has received honorary doctorates from over 60 colleges and universities and was the author of three books. She served on, or helped create, dozens of organizations, and has met with heads of state to address the issues of racial inequality and fighting poverty.

As a nation, we owe Mrs. King a debt of gratitude for her strength and perseverance throughout her lifelong pursuit of equality for all Americans. She and her husband inspired generations of Americans to work towards freedom and equality. Their legacy will live on and their quest for civil rights will never be forgotten.

Mr. BAYH. Mr. President, I rise today with a heavy heart and deep sense of gratitude to honor the life of a brave young man who was born in Michigan City. Brian Schoff, 22 years old, died on January 29 when a roadside bomb exploded near his humvee during a combat operation. With his entire life before him, Brian risked everything to fight for the values Americans hold close to our hearts, in a land halfway around the world.

Although Brian moved to Tennessee when he was young, his valor over the course of his service in Iraq is proof that he was a Hoosier at heart. He joined the Army in 2003, a year after he graduated from high school, because he wanted to serve his country. Brian en-joyed the military, and was delighted to return to Indiana in May to join his fa-ther working at Sullivan Corporation.

His father described his son to local media outlets as an adventurous, ac-tive person who enjoyed hunting, fish-ing and sports.

Brian was killed while serving his country in Operation Iraqi Freedom. He was a member of the 101st Airborne Division based at Fort Campbell, KY. This brave young soldier leaves behind his father, Brian L. Schoff, and his mother, Cathy Odle of Manchester, TN.

Today, I join Brian’s family and friends in mourning his death. While we struggle to bear our sorrow over the loss, we can also find comfort in the example he set, bravely fighting to make the world a safer place. It is his courage and strength of character that people will remember when they think of Brian, a memory that will burn brightly during these continuing days of conflict and grief.

Brian was known for his dedication to his family and his love of country. Today and always, Brian will be remembered by family members, friends and fellow Hoosiers as a true American hero, and we honor the sacrifice he made while dutifully serving his country.

As I search for words to do justice in honoring Brian’s sacrifice, I am reminded of President Lincoln’s remarks as he addressed the families of the fallen soldiers in Gettysburg: “We cannot dedicate, we cannot consecrate, we cannot hallow this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here, have consecrated it, far above our poor power to add or detract. The world will little note nor long remember what we say here, but it can never forget what they did here.” This statement is just as true today as it was nearly 150 years ago, as I am certain that the impact of Brian’s actions will live on far longer that any record of these words.

It is my sad duty to enter the name of Brian J. Schoff in the official RECORD of the U.S. Senate for his service to this country and for his profound commitment to freedom, democracy and peace. When I think about this just cause in which we are engaged, and the unfortunate pain that comes with the loss of our heroes, I hope that families like Brian’s can find comfort in the words of the prophet Isaiah who said, “like a grain of sand swallowed by the sea, and the Lord God will wipe away tears from off all faces.” May God grant strength and peace to those who mourn, and may God be with all of you, as I know He is with Brian.
Mr. SMITH. Mr. President, I rise today to speak about the need for hate crimes legislation. Each Congress, Senator KENNEDY and I introduce hate crimes legislation that would add new categories to current hate crimes law, sending a signal that violence of any kind is unacceptable in our society. Likewise, each Congress, I have come to the floor to highlight a separate hate crime that has occurred in our country.

On February 1, 2006, in New Bedford, MA, a man walked into Puzzles Lounge and asked someone at the bar if it was a gay bar. The man then opened fire with a handgun, wounding at least three people. Two of the victims were flown to Boston hospitals for treatment, while the third person was taken to St. Luke’s hospital in New Bedford. I believe that the Government’s first duty is to defend its citizens, to defend them against the harms that come out of hate. The Local Law Enforcement Enhancement Act is a symbol that can become substance. I believe that by passing this legislation and changing current law, we can change hearts and minds as well.

FAIRNESS IN ASBESTOS INJURY RESOLUTION ACT

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. President, I rise today to express my support for the Fairness in Asbestos Injury Resolution Act sponsored by Senators SPECTER and LEAHY. The FAIR Act is a bill about American jobs. It will have a substantial effect on a number of jobs at Tennessee manufacturers such as Nissan, Saturn, and Eastman as well as hundreds of their Tennessee suppliers. That is because while it means faster, more efficient resolution of claims for those harmed by asbestos exposure, it also means certainty for manufacturers so that they can spend more of their money investing in their businesses and creating more American jobs.

Americans injured by asbestos are waiting too long and paying too much to adjudicate these claims. According to estimates from the RAND Institute, of the $70 billion expended on asbestos litigation through 2002, nearly 60 percent was spent on attorneys’ fees and other transaction costs. Put another way, asbestos victims are only getting a little more than 40 cents of every dollar that is being paid out on asbestos claims. In addition, in many cases, these plaintiffs are waiting up to 30 years to collect this compensation as their cases wind their way through the tort system. As a result, many of these victims are not able to cover the costs of medical treatments that cannot be delayed. The FAIR Act will help claimants—attorneys by capping attorneys’ fees; and it will save jobs by giving American companies certainty with regard to the costs of compensating claimants.

I urge my colleagues to support this important legislation.

ILLEGAL EXPORT OF DANGEROUS FIREARMS TO MEXICO

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, several recent published reports indicate that lax gun safety laws here in the United States may be resulting in the trafficking of thousands of firearms across the border into Mexico and contributing to a surge in violence and crime in that country.

Many firearms are illegal in Mexico. In fact, there are apparently less than 250 licensed gun owners in the entire country. This is because such licenses take a year or more to process, cost nearly $2,000, and must be renewed every 2 years. In addition, Mexican authorities say they confiscate more than 250 illegal firearms every day from crime suspects. U.S. and Mexican law enforcement officials estimate that as much as 95 percent of these guns can be traced back to the United States.

Mexican law enforcement officials have made several major illegal weapons seizures in the last year alone. In December, 20 assault rifles were seized in Tijuana, just across the border from California. In another seizure, police recovered a cache of weapons that included seven assault rifles and several semi-automatic handguns in the Mexican border town of Nuevo Laredo. It also should be noted that in the last year alone more than 100 people were killed or wounded in suspected drug cartel members in Nuevo Laredo. According to Mexican and U.S. officials, these drug smuggling operations are frequently the end users of guns illegally trafficked from the United States.

Reportedly, weak U.S. gun regulations are being exploited to help arm criminals in Mexico. One way of doing this is through the use of a ‘straw purchaser’ who buys firearms legally in the United States on behalf of a Mexican gun trafficker. In one reported case last year, a handgun recovered in Reynosa, Mexico, was traced back to a Texas man who had reportedly bought more than 150 guns for criminals in Mexico. In another case, more than 80 guns were traced to a Texan resident who apparently paid Texas residents to purchase them for him. According to Mexican authorities, guns recovered in Mexico are often traced to original buyers in Texas, where ‘straw purchasers’ can buy guns and ammunition in unlimited quantities.

Law enforcement authorities in Mexico say assault rifles are the most sought-after weapons by Mexican criminals. Unfortunately, these dangerous weapons are being supplied here in the United States due to Congress’s failure to reauthorize or strengthen the 1994 Assault Weapons Ban. On September 13, 2004, this legislation expired, allowing 19 previously banned assault weapons, as well as firearms that can accept detachable magazines and have more than one of several specific military features, such as a folding/telescoping stock, protruding pistol grip, bayonet mount, threaded muzzle or flash suppressor, barrel shroud or grenade launcher to be legally sold again. These dangerous weapons are being bought in the United States and trafficked into Mexico, where they are frequently used in violent crime, conflicts between rival drug cartels, and shootouts with Mexican law enforcement authorities.

Apparently, law enforcement officials are also concerned about the prevalence of .50-caliber firearms, which include tank guns, sniper rifles, mortars, and .50-caliber machine guns, in Mexico in recent years. These high-powered weapons fire thumb-sized bullets that come in armor-piercing, incendiary, and explosive varieties and can easily punch through aircraft fuselages, fuel tanks, and engines. Under current U.S. law, .50-caliber sniper rifles can be purchased by private individuals with only minimal federal regulation. In fact, these dangerous weapons are treated the same as other long rifles including shotguns, hunting rifles, and smaller target rifles.

I am a cosponsor of the Fifty-Caliber Sniper Weapon Regulation Act introduced by Senator FEINSTEIN. This bill...
Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. President, last year, Senators BANES, HAGEL and ALLARD and I introduced S. 1562, the Safe and Fair Deposit Insurance Act of 2005, legislation to overhaul and reform this country’s deposit insurance system. I also wish to thank Senator BEN NELSON for joining us as a cosponsor.

I have been closely tied to deposit insurance reform for many years, and I am pleased to see that my strong commitment to this issue will result in the enactment of critical reforms that will provide tangible benefits to financial institutions and their customers. Many of my colleagues on the Banking Committee will recall when I first introduced the Main Street Act back in 2000. We have come a long way since then. The legislation that is now making its way to President Bush’s desk is the result of many years of debate and careful deliberation, and has garnered strong bipartisan support along the way.

The enactment of this legislation will mark a notable milestone in the history of banking and financial services in this country. Deposit insurance is one of the cornerstones of our country’s financial system, and it is especially critical to our nation’s smaller financial institutions and community banks.

I am pleased that we are giving the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation and the National Credit Union Administration the requisite tools to appropriately operate and manage the newly merged deposit insurance fund and assess premiums based on the risks that institutions pose to the system. These reforms were long overdue. It is imperative that the framework of deposit insurance be established to promote the stability and soundness of our banking system and to prevent victimization of our financial institutions and community banks.

By merging the bank insurance fund with the savings association insurance fund, we create a stronger and more diversified fund, and eliminate the possibility for disparities in premiums between banks and thrifts. Implementing a system of risk-based insurance premiums will ensure that banks pay based on the risk they pose to the system, and the FDIC will be able to price insurance premiums accordingly. By increasing the level of coverage for retirement accounts to $250,000, we are adjusting for the economic impact, and will promote financial stability for individual retirees. In the current environment, with the uncertainty surrounding Social Security and pension benefits, it is critical that we provide appropriate coverage for the hard-working Americans who have saved for their retirement and long-term needs.

I would again like to recognize the banking community in South Dakota for the invaluable and critical role they have played in this process over the past 5 years. I truly appreciate the input and recommendations that I have received from the industry overall. I would also like to thank Chairman SHELBY, and Ranking Member SARBANES for their leadership, Senators ENZI, HAGEL and ALLARD for the many hours of hard work, and former FDIC Chairman Don Powell for his commitment to deposit insurance reform and tremendous leadership.

RECOGNIZING THE COMMISSION ON INDEPENDENT COLLEGES AND UNIVERSITIES

Mrs. CLINTON. Mr. President, I want to take this opportunity to recognize a remarkable organization, the Commission on Independent Colleges and Universities, clcu, with which I have had the pleasure of working closely in the years since I was elected to the U.S. Senate. I am delighted to announce that this year clcu is celebrating its 50th anniversary. In 50 years of service, clcu has been at the forefront of every major issue facing postsecondary education in New York. With Abe Lackman’s leadership, clcu has been a powerful champion for college access, helping to increase opportunities for thousands upon thousands of New Yorkers.

clcu’s more than 100 members—private, nonprofit colleges and universities in New York—offer an exceptional educational experience, with personalized attention, and world-class faculty. New York is home to more of the nation’s top 100 colleges and universities than any other state and a leading destination for students at home and abroad. Because of the hard work and commitment of the people at clcu and throughout the independent sector, clcu member campuses have been pioneers in expanding access to higher education in New York, serving more minority students than many public higher education institutions. New York’s independent colleges and universities are also a robust economic engine, generating innovative ideas and sustaining thousands of jobs—a fact that Abe would never allow me to forget.

clcu schools enroll 452,000 students, including 300,000 New Yorkers, employ 131,000 people with an annual payroll of $8 billion, and generate $40 billion of annual economic impact. From major research universities to small faith-based institutions, clcu’s schools are shaping the future of individual students’ lives and New York’s economy. So happy birthday clcu. May your second 50 years be as successful and productive as your first 50.

IN MEMORY OF WILLIAM MATTHEW BYRNE, JR.

Mrs. FEINSTEIN. Mr. President, I would like to offer a few words in observance of the passing of U.S. District Judge William Matthew Byrne, Jr., a great legal mind and ambassador of justice who nobly served our country for over 30 years on the Federal bench.

I extend my deepest sympathy to the family of Judge Byrne, his many friends and colleagues, and the members of the legal community everywhere who had come to know his talent and vision. A giant in his field, Judge Byrne tirelessly traveled the globe teaching and promoting the rule of law. His efforts touched countless individuals and left an immeasurable impact on legal systems on an international scale.

After honorably serving our Nation in the U.S. Air Force and amassing an unparalleled 96 percent conviction record as a U.S. attorney in Los Angeles, Judge Byrne was named head of the Commission on Campus Unrest by President Nixon. As head of the Commission, Judge Byrne sought to bridge the growing cultural divide that had developed as a result of the war in Vietnam.

The Commission’s report revealed Judge Byrne’s unassailable judgment and great courage. Bravely stepping into the middle of the fray, he found fault with students and police alike. Judge Byrne’s work on the Commission played an important role in uniting us as a country around our shared values.

His contribution was recognized in 1971, when he was confirmed to a Federal judgeship at the age of 40, making him at that time the youngest man in America’s history to rise to this prominent position.

Although he dealt with many high-profile cases, Judge Byrne was most remembered for his courageous handling of the trial of Daniel Ellsberg, the man charged with possessing classified documents in the infamous Pentagon Papers case. The Government, he ruled, did not have a case, and a mistrial was declared.

In a time of rampant government scandal and deep-seated corruption at the highest levels of power, Judge Byrne courageously stood up for his convictions, sending the powerful message that nobody was above the law.

“The totality of the circumstances in this case,” Judge Byrne ruled, “offends a sense of justice.” It is for this sense of justice that Judge Byrne will always be remembered.

Throughout his long and remarkable career, Judge Byrne distinguished himself as a model jurist, devoted to the highest ideals of justice, honor, and integrity. His lasting legacy of sensible legal adjudication serves as an inspiration to all Americans.

Once again, my heart goes out to Judge Byrne’s family and all those who knew him.

He will truly be missed.

THE RETIREMENT OF TOM CAMPBELL

• Mr. ROBERTS, Mr. President, I rise to recognize the life work of Mr. Tom Campbell as he retires from Dow Agrosciences after more than 40 years of dedicated service. Tom will leave a legacy of leadership and a belief in the unlimited potential of American agriculture.

Mr. Campbell joined the Dow Chemical Company agriculture division in 1965 as a field representative servicing cotton producers in Illinois and Missouri. From there, he transferred to Louisiana to work with producers of sugar cane, rice, soybeans, sweet potatoes, cotton, strawberries, timber, and livestock. He moved to Hawaii in 1973 as manager for the company’s Hawaii operations where he worked with sugar cane, pineapple, and fresh fruit producers as well as customers of product groups Dow served.

In 1975, Mr. Campbell was moved to Midland, MI, to manage the market introduction into the cotton and corn markets in North America. Transferring to Dallas, TX, he then managed product sales for Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Montana, North and South Dakota, Wyoming, and Colorado. He then returned to Michigan to manage the marketing of agricultural products serving the rangeland and industrial vegetation markets of North America.

In 1989, he became the Federal Government Affairs manager, based in Washington, DC. In this capacity, Mr. Campbell has been responsible for Federal legislative activities, interfacing with governmental agencies on regulatory matters, continued involvement and cooperation with domestic trade associations, and support to business development in other countries. Mr. Campbell held this position until his retirement on December 31, 2005.

On the home front, Tom and his wife Lynda have raised two sons, beambers of the St. John’s Episcopal Church of McLean, VA, and are active in numerous community groups and boards, from the Langley High School Boosters Club to their local homeowners association.

In this business, there are people who tell you what you want to hear and people who tell you what you need to hear. Tom Campbell has always been someone who tells me and other Members of Congress what we need to hear, and I thank him for that.

The reason that I mention all these things, the reason that Mr. Campbell has had such a long and rich career, of course can be traced back to his roots in a wheat and cattle farm in Mitchell County, KS. As a child, he developed a degree in animal science he earned at Kansas State University. Kansans join me in celebrating the many accomplishments of Tom Campbell.

STATMENTS ON INTRODUCED BILLS AND JOINT RESOLUTIONS
by Mr. Levin (for himself and Ms. Stabenow):
S. 2240. A bill to amend title XVIII to reform the Medicare prescription drug program; to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. Levin. Mr. President, today I am introducing “The Medicare Part D Reform Act of 2006.” This bill is necessary to address some of the major problems in the Medicare prescription drug benefit that took effect on January 1 of this year. As we all know, the reaction of our seniors has been widespread disappointment, mass confusion and downright anger.

Let me discuss some of the problems that I am hearing from people in Michigan about this new Medicare prescription drug benefit.

First, many drug companies have previously issued discount cards and are currently providing drugs to low-income people and seniors at a nominal or no cost. These are individuals usually at 200 percent of the Federal poverty level, which is 19,600 for a single person or 36,400 for a couple, while to qualify for the Medicare low-income subsidy, the income must be $14,700 for a single person or $19,800 for a couple. Many of these programs are being discontinued, and seniors are losing a vital method of obtaining low cost prescription drugs.

Second, prescription drug plans can drop a drug from its list of covered drugs with 60 days notice at any time during the calendar year. This is particularly egregious for people who rely on a particular medication being available and covered when the senior chose that particular plan.

Third, the situation of so-called “dual eligibles” is clearly worse now than before the creation of the prescription drug benefit. These are former Medicaid beneficiaries who are being forced into Medicare prescription drug coverage, often putting them in plans with more restrictive formularies and higher co-payments, in other words leaving them worse off.

Fourth, many Michigan residents are retirees from good paying jobs and currently have a good prescription drug plan. This has changed for the worse with the creation of the new Medicare prescription drug benefit. Because many companies have decided to scale back or eliminate that retiree coverage. As a result, many of those retirees are worse off than they were before the bill became law.

Fifth, Medicare is specifically barred from negotiating lower drug prices for all of its beneficiaries.

Finally, the coverage gap from $2,500 to $3,600 in prescription drug expenses per person per year is commonly referred to as the “doughnut hole” and is unconscionable. Many seniors do not yet understand that this huge coverage gap is looming in their future and that during this gap, they are still expected to pay their monthly premiums, although they are getting no prescription drug coverage assistance.

To address many of these concerns I, along with my colleague Senator Stabenow, today am introducing the Medicare Part D Reform Act of 2006, and I hope that we can immediately consider these positive reforms. My legislation has four goals and I will briefly outline them.

First, this legislation would prohibit prescription drug plans from removing drugs from the plan’s list of covered drugs until January 1 of the following year. This will give seniors the opportunity to make an informed decision during open enrollment at the end of each year if one plan decides to remove a particular drug from the plan.

Second, my legislation clearly states that the discount cards that pharmaceutical companies are providing to our lower income seniors are permissible and that seniors should be allowed to participate in these programs. There has been some confusion as to whether companies can legally continue these programs and, if companies do continue their assistance, questions have arisen as to whether that assistance will count towards the “true-out-of-pocket” for that beneficiary, which plunges them into the “doughnut hole” when they reach $2,250. My legislation mandates that there will be no negative consequences for pharmaceutical companies continuing to provide discount cards to our low-income seniors.

Third, my legislation would allow former Medicaid beneficiaries now receiving their medications under Medicare to continue to receive their prescription drugs even if they cannot meet the worsened co-payment requirements.

Lastly, the legislation would specifically give the Federal Government the authority to negotiate prescription drug prices for our seniors. Current Medicare law prohibits the Department of Health and Human Services from negotiating lower prices, as we do for veterans in our VA health programs. As a result, Medicare beneficiaries do not have the benefit of the bargaining power of Medicare.

All of us are hearing from our constituents that we need to improve Medicare Part D. Congress needs to fulfill the promise it made that Medicare Part D would lower prescription drug prices, not increase them. This bill will help us begin to keep that promise.

I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the text of the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

Mrs. FEINSTEIN. S. 2241. A bill for the relief of Carmen Shahrzad Kulcsar; to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mrs. FEINSTEIN. Mr. President, I offer today private relief legislation on behalf of Carmen’s behalf because I believe that removal from the United States would not only be tragically unfair to her, but also to her aunt and uncle who have taken Carmen into their home and treated her like a daughter after the tragic events that brought her to America. Furthermore, Carmen’s removal could put her aunt’s, her uncle’s, and her own life in grave danger.

tions of affairs. In 1992, at the young age of two, Carmen witnessed her father shoot her mother point blank range in the head.

Her father, David Kulcsar—was convicted of murder and sentenced to 12 to 16 years in prison. Fortunately for Carmen, her American aunt Maniheh Varner was granted sole guardianship and custody of her niece by an Australian court.

Carmen entered the United States on a temporary Visitor’s Visa and has resided here for the past 13 years with her aunt and uncle.

Carmen is a model student at her high school who takes honor classes and has worked hard to earn a cumulative grade point average of 3.5. Her report card has multiple comments regarding her outstanding citizenship and as being a pleasure to have in class.

tive Academic Decathlon Team. Her future can be a bright one and it is unlikely that she will become a burden on the State or Federal Government.

Carmen’s aunt has always wanted to adopt her niece and begin the path to legal residency. However, there has always been one problem. Carmen’s fa-ter never wanted Carmen to go with her aunt and made repeated threats for revenge against Mrs. Varner. Adopting Carmen requires notifying Mr. Kulcsar about the adoption and Mrs. Varner believed always, as she does now, that doing so would put her and Carmen’s life in risk.

Mrs. Varner cannot pursue adoption now because time constraints prevent the process from being completed before Carmen’s 16th birthday; thus, adoption would have no bearing for immigration purposes.

Mr. and Mrs. Varner have done their best to try and create a life for Carmen that would otherwise have been impossible for her in Australia.

Both U.S. citizens, Mr. Varner is a high school teacher while Mrs. Varner is employed to have been assigned to by the Department of Transportation. Along with a daughter of their own, they have made the best possible situation of a horrible tragedy.

Unfortunately, if this private relief bill is not approved, the chances available to Carmen are grim. Clearly it would be impossible for her to go back to Australia.

The only memory she has of that country is the memory of her mother’s murder at the hands of her father. The only family in Australia is that of her father. She would be forced to live illegally in the United States through no fault of her own. America is the only land she has ever known. It is her home.

Given these extraordinary and unique facts, I offer this private relief bill on behalf of Carmen Shahrzad Kulcsar. We have the opportunity to make a just and fitting solution for this wonderful family. Therefore, I ask my colleagues to support this private relief bill.

I ask unanimous consent that the text of the legislation be printed in the RECORD.

RECORD, as follows:

S. 2241—

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in ber of immigrant visas available during the current fiscal year to natives of the country of the alien’s birth under section 203(b) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (8 U.S.C. 1153(a)).

By Mr. MENENDEZ—

S. 2243. A bill to make college more affordable by expanding and enhancing financial aid options for students and their families and providing loan forgiveness opportunities for public service employees, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Finance.

By Mr. MENENDEZ (for himself, Mr. LAUTENBERG, and Mr. DUR-BIN).—

S. 2244. A bill to provide funding and incentives for caregiver support and long-term care assistance; to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. MENENDEZ. Mr. President, I rise today to introduce The Caregiver Assistance and Relief Effort, CARE, Act and the College Access and Affordability Act because far too many famiilies today are squeezed by the demands of caring for aging loved ones while working to give their children what all parents want for their kids—the opportunity to go to college and be succes-

ful. As a son helping to care for a mother with Alzheimer’s disease and a father with diabetes, I know personally the intergenerational demands families are facing and the sacrifices they are making to care for their loved ones. That’s exactly why my first legislative initiatives in the United States Senate are to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. MENENDEZ (for himself, Mr. LAUTENBERG, and Mr. DUR-BIN).—

S. 2244. A bill to provide funding and incentives for caregiver support and long-term care assistance; to the Committee on Finance.
The CARE Act would provide tax credits to those caring for all family members and loved ones, and encourage individuals to plan and invest in their own long-term care by offering a tax deduction for long-term care insurance. In addition, it would increase the funding for the existing National Family Caregiver Support Program, which supports a wide range of important services for older persons.

There are an estimated 44.4 million caregivers in the U.S., which is 21 percent of the adult population. My home State of New Jersey has over 830,000 caregivers, ranking it 9th in the country.

Caregiving families face unique strains. They are challenged with additional costs, and often caregivers must sacrifice their job or cut back on their hours at work. Almost 6 in 10 caregivers either work or have worked while providing care, and 62 percent of caregivers report having to make work-related adjustments ranging from going in late and leaving early to having to give up work entirely. Caregivers are also a valuable asset to keeping health care costs down. They are providing $257 billion in care annually, double the annual spending on home care and nursing home care combined. Their compassion, dedication, and selflessness come at a price to their families and are a benefit to the greater good of our State and Nation. This legislation is aimed at addressing their hard work, sacrifice, and contributions to society.

The other bill I’m introducing today, the College Access and Affordability Act, will help open the doors to higher education for more young people by making financial assistance more flexible for students and by expanding and enhancing existing financial aid options.

I know the difference a college education can have on a young person’s life. As the first in my family to go to college, and later law school, I had opportunities that would not have been available to me had I not been able to go to college. But financing a higher education was not an easy thing for my family. Federal financial aid helped ensure that I could go to college and that I could pursue my dreams. I know firsthand the important benefits of receiving Federal aid—not only did it help me finance my college expenses, but it also gave me the extra confidence that I needed to succeed.

So, I am committed to ensuring that other promising young people get the same chance that I did and that we, as a Nation, will be there to help everyone in this country achieve their dreams of college, regardless of background, race, language, or income level. One of the great foundations of this country is that the doors of opportunity are open to anyone. The Act, which is 21 percent of the total cost, would follow through on that promise by providing a path for young people to have access to and attend college. If we do not lead the way to ensure that our colleges are full of the brightest minds and fullest potential, we are failing to prepare our future generations and we are jeopardizing the future of our Nation.

The College Access and Affordability Act will make financial aid more flexible and accessible to more students, such as extending Pell Grant eligibility to students who attend school year-round. It will also make substantial changes to the Hope Scholarship Tax Credit, a useful tool in helping cover the costs of a higher education. Since the Credit was enacted in 1997, the maximum credit has not increased to reflect the rising cost of tuition. This bill would raise the award by $1,000 and allow the credit to be claimed for all 4 years of college, instead of the current 2 years. Our Nation is making young people eligible for the credit by expanding the eligibility limits.

Finally, in recognizing that many of our communities are in need of qualified individuals to serve in essential public service positions, this bill would help attract dedicated college graduates who serve low-income communities in positions such as science, math, bilingual, or special education teachers; nurses; first responders; and child welfare workers.

Too many students do not pursue a college education because they think it is out of their reach. We must commit to providing sensible tools and adequate resources so that financing a college education is not more of a burden on families, and achieving the dreams of a higher education is not beyond the reach of our Nation’s most promising young people.

On any given day, families across New Jersey, and indeed, across this country, face the daunting challenges of making ends meet—putting food on the table, clothing their children, and putting a roof over their head. If that weren’t enough, add the challenge of trying to pay for college or care for an aging parent, or in many cases, both, and you have what many times is an insurmountable challenge. But that’s exactly what’s happening to more and more people everyday. And the intergenerational demands will only increase as the baby boom generation grows older and our life expectancy increases. We need to work now to address these challenges on both fronts—from providing affordable long-term care and encouraging future retirees to plan for their own long-term care, to ensuring that anyone who is willing to work hard has the opportunity to go to college and succeed. That’s what this country is all about, and that’s why I’ve made these initiatives my first priority in the U.S. Senate. I’m hopeful that we will be able to work in a bipartisan fashion to address these important challenges facing American families.

SUBMITTED RESOLUTIONS

SENATE RESOLUTION 385—TO PROVIDE FOR A 60 VOTE POINT OF ORDER AGAINST OUT OF SCOPE MATERIAL IN CONFERENCE REPORTS AND OPEN THE PROCESS OF EARMARKS IN THE SENATE

Mr. LOTT (for himself and Mrs. FEINSTEIN) submitted the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee on Rules and Administration.

S. Res. 365

Resolved,

SECTION 1. OUT OF SCOPE MATTERS IN CONFERENCE REPORTS.

(a) In General.—It shall not be in order in the Senate to consider a conference report that includes any matter not committed to the conference by either House. A point of order shall be made and decided on by the Presiding Officer for each item of violation of this section.

(b) Disposition.—If the point of order against a conference report under subsection (a) is sustained, then—

(1) the matter in such conference report shall be deemed to have been struck; and

(2) when all other points of order under this section have been disposed of—

(A) the Senate shall proceed to consider the question of whether the Senate should report from its amendment to the bill, or its disagreement to the amendment of the House, and concur with a further amendment, which further amendment shall consist of only that portion of the conference report not deemed to have been struck; and

(B) the question shall be debatable; and

(C) no further amendment shall be in order.

(3) If the Senate agrees to the amendment, then the bill and the Senate amendment thereto shall be returned to the House for its concurrence in the amendment of the Senate.

(c) SUPERMAJORITY WAIVER AND APPEAL.—The section may be waived or suspended in the Senate only by an affirmative vote of ¾ of the Members, duly chosen and sworn. An affirmative vote of ¾ of the Members of the Senate, duly chosen and sworn, shall be required in the Senate to sustain an appeal of the ruling of the Chair on a point of order raised under this section.

SEC. 2. EARMARKS.

(a) HONESTY IN EARMARKS.—Rule XVI of the Standing Rules of the Senate is amended by adding at the end the following:

“Section 104. Earmarks.

(A) the Senate shall proceed to consider the question of whether the Senate should report from its amendment to the bill, or its disagreement to the amendment of the House, and concur with a further amendment, which further amendment shall consist of only that portion of the conference report not deemed to have been struck; and

(B) it shall not be in order to consider any bill or amendment between the Houses or conference report on such a bill unless a list of—

(1) all earmarks in such measure;

(2) an identification of the member who proposed the earmark; and

(3) an explanation of the essential governmental purpose for the earmark; are available to all Members and made available to the general public by means of the Internet for at least 24 hours before its consideration.

(c) MEMBERS’ REQUESTS.—Prior to the consideration of a bill in the Senate, any Member who requests an earmark in the bill shall file a copy of the request with the Secretary of the Senate and the request shall be printed in the Congressional Record.

SEC. 3. AVAILABILITY OF CONFERENCE REPORTS ON THE INTERNET.

Rule XXVII of all the Standing Rules of the Senate is amended by adding at the end the following:
9. It shall not be in order to consider a conference report unless such report is available to all Members and made available to the general public by means of the Internet for at least 24 hours before its consideration.

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, I am pleased to be joined by the senior Senator from California, Senator Feinstein, in submitting a bipartisan proposal to reform some of the procedures of the Senate that have caused an explosion of anonymous earmarks in conference reports.

Our proposal does not bar the longstanding practice of allowing Members to channel resources to communities in their States that need Federal resources. However, we attempt to bring a far greater degree of transparency to the process and make it nearly impossible for Members to insert items in unamendable conference reports which have not undergone thorough scrutiny by either the House or Senate.

The proposal we are submitting today would create a point of order against any inserted or included in a conference report that had not been considered by either body. This point of order lies against all legislation, not simply appropriations bills. Thus a transportation authorization conference report that includes highway and bridge projects that were not considered by either body would be subject to this point of order, just as an earmark inserted in an appropriations conference report would be subject to a point of order. This point of order could be ruled on by a 50-50 vote.

Although current Standing Rule 28 allows a point of order against items in conference reports that were not considered by either body, this point of order is almost never used. That is because if the Rule 28 point of order is sustained, the entire conference report is rejected and Senate and House Members must reconstitute a new conference where all items in the original bills are included.

Under our approach, if a point of order against an item in the conference report is sustained, the conference report, minus the items struck by the point of order, is returned to the House for its concurrence.

Our approach is modeled after the Byrd Rule that applies in the case of reconciliation conference reports. I believe that this new point of order will make it far less likely that Members will attempt to insert new items in conference reports that have not been thoroughly aired in debate. However, our resolution goes much further in enhancing the transparency of earmarks, especially in appropriations bills.

Our resolution requires that any Senator who requests an earmark in an appropriations bill must file a copy of the request with the Secretary of the Senate, who is then required to publish the earmark request in the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD.

Moreover, our resolution requires that all earmarks that are included in appropriations bills must be specifically identified in the Report, along with the sponsor of the earmark and an explanation of the essential government purpose of the earmark. In addition, such reports, including conference reports, must be made available to all Members and the general public via the Internet, at least 24 hours before consideration of the measure.

There is nothing inherently wrong when a Member directs financing for a key project in his or her state. Sometimes it is necessary to get the Federal bureaucracy to focus on the needs of our constituents. However, the process needs far greater transparency, and it is my hope that this resolution will resolve some of the problems that have been associated with this process.

Mr. INHOFE (for himself, Mr. COLEMAN, Mr. SANTORUM, Mr. DE MINT, Mrs. HUTCHISON, Mr. DE WINE, Mr. MARTINEZ, Mr. BOND, Mr. CHAMBLISS, Mr. KVL, Mr. SPECTER, Mr. SMITH, Mr. ROBERTS, Mr. ALLARD, Mr. BURNS, Mr. BUNNING, Mr. ENSIGN, Mr. MCCAIN, Mr. SESSIONS, Mr. HATCH, Mr. ENZI, Mr. BENNETT, Mr. GRASSLEY, Mr. CRAIG, Mr. McCONNELL, Mr. COBB, Mr. BROWNBACK, Mr. VITTER, Mr. NELSON of Florida, Ms. MIKULSKI, Mr. AKAKA, Mr. PEYOR, Mr. CARPER, Mrs. LINCOLN, Mr. DAYTON, Mr. JEFFORDS, Ms. LANDRIEU, Mr. ROCKEFELLER, Mr. SALAZAR, Mr. NELSON of Nebraska, Mr. FEINGOLD, Mr. KENNEDY, and Mr. LUT TENBERG) submitted the following resolution; which was considered and agreed to:

S. RES. 366

Whereas, Joseph Kony has led the Lord’s Resistance Army (LRA) since 1987, terrorizing the region of Northern Uganda;
Whereas, 80 to 90 percent of Kony’s fighters are enslaved children brutalized and brainwashed in the LRA;
Whereas, sources estimate that between 20,000 and 50,000 children have been abducted by the LRA since 1987;
Whereas, the children are sexually abused, raped, beaten, taunted and traumatized by older soldiers in the LRA;
Whereas, these children are maliciously coerced to mutilate, rape, and murder others, even their own family members and friends;
Whereas, LRA leaders often force the friends and siblings of unsuccessful escapees to carry out vicious punishments to further the LRA’s culture of fear, intimidation and greed;
Whereas, even those children who do manage to escape are unspookably traumatized, often infected with sexually transmitted diseases, and superstitious, as a country at least $1.33 billion, or 3 percent of its GDP;
Whereas, approximately 40,000 children in rural Uganda trek miles into towns each night to sleep under the protection of soldiers and attempt to avoid capture;
Whereas, more than 1.6 million people have been forced to flee their homes;
Whereas, the conflict has slowed Uganda’s development efforts, costing the country at least $1.33 billion, or 3 percent of its GDP;
Whereas, starting in October 2005, the Sudan government gave Joseph Kony a three month grace period to surrender;
Resolved, That it is the sense of the Senate—
(1) that the government of Sudan continue to prosecute LRA terrorists within its borders and aid Uganda in ending the conflict;
(2) that Uganda use every available resource to end the atrocities of the LRA and bring its members to justice;
(3) that the United States and international community recognize the atrocities occurring daily in Uganda and provide necessary humanitarian assistance to that country;
(4) that the week of February 3 through 9, 2006 should be designated as a National Week of Prayer and Reflection for the people of Northern Uganda.

TEXT OF AMENDMENTS

SA 2703. Mr. TALENT submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the bill H.R. 4297, to provide for reconciliation pursuant to section 201(b) of the concurrent resolution on the budget for fiscal year 2006; which was ordered to lie on the table; as follows:

(a) FINDINGS.—The Senate finds that—

(1) the alternative minimum tax was originally enacted in 1969 as a supplemental tax on wealthy tax evaders, but has evolved into a tax on millions of middle-class working families, particularly families in which both parents work, and families with 2 or more children;

(2) by the end of the decade, the alternative minimum tax will ensure more than 30,000,000 taxpayers, the majority of which will have adjusted gross incomes below $100,000, and the National Taxpayer Advocate has identified it as the most serious problem facing individual taxpayers;

(3) the alternative minimum tax is often portrayed as a tax that is most problematic for residents of States such as New York, California, Massachusetts, and New Jersey, but the truth is that many other States have a significant percentage of taxpayers affected by the alternative minimum tax, including Oregon, Maryland, Virginia, Minnesota, Ohio, Maine, Georgia, North Carolina, and Pennsylvania, so the problem is of national importance;

(4) a family with 2 children will become subject to the alternative minimum tax at about $67,500 of income in 2006, and a family with 4 children will become subject to the alternative minimum tax at about $54,000 of income, if Congress fails to act;
(5) the year 2006 is the “tipping point” for the alternative minimum tax, as the number of taxpayers affected nationally will expire from 3,600,000 to 19,000,000 if Congress fails to act;

(6) in 2004, only 6.2 percent of families earning $100,000 to $200,000 a year were subject to the alternative minimum tax, and that number may increase to nearly 50 percent if Congress fails to act;

(7) if alternative minimum tax relief is extended through 2006, about two-thirds of the benefits will be realized by families earning under $200,000, with more than half of the total benefits going to families with incomes between $100,000 and $200,000;

(8) Mr. President, the average married couple with two children earning $75,000 or more will find that more than half of the tax cuts they have been expecting from the various laws passed since 2001 will be “taken back” via the alternative minimum tax; and

(9) the temporary relief from the alternative minimum tax (provided in 2001 and extended twice in 2003 and 2004) expired at the end of 2005, but the tax reductions on dividends and capital gains do not expire until the end of 2008, making immediate action on these issues a serious matter.

(a) SENSE OF THE SENATE.—It is the sense of the Senate that extending middle-class family benefits that the administration of Federal tax laws.

(b) REPEAL OF EXTENSION OF CAPITAL GAINS AND DIVIDENDS.

The amendment made by section 203 of this Act is repealed.

SEC. 305. SENATE ON USE OF NO-BID CONTRACTING BY FEDERAL EMERGENCY MANAGEMENT AGENCY.

(a) FINDINGS.—The Senate finds that—

(1) on September 8, 2005, the Federal Emergency Management Agency announced that it had awarded contracts for extra-housing relief following Hurricane Katrina to The Shaw Group of Baton Rouge, Louisiana, Fluor Corporation of Aliso Viejo, California, Bechtel National of San Francisco, California, and CH2M Hill of Denver, Colorado;

(2) these contracts were awarded with no competition from other capable firms, and up to $100,000,000 in taxpayer funds were authorized for each of these contracts;

(3) in violation of both abortive and irresponsible spending of taxpayer funds, the Federal Emergency Management Agency pledged to rebid these noncompetitive contracts. The Secretary of Emergency Preparedness and Response, R. David Paulison, stating before the Committee on Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs of the Senate that ‘‘[a]ll of these no-bid contracts, we are going to go back and rebid’’; and

(4) the Federal Emergency Management Agency has yet to reopen these 4 contracts to competitive bidding, and declared on November 11, 2005, that these contracts would not be reopened for bidding until February 2006;

(5) by February 2006, the majority of the contracts will have been completed and the majority of taxpayer funds will have been spent;

(6) large and politically-connected firms continue to benefit from no-bid and limited-competition contracts; and contracts are not being awarded to capable, local companies;

(7) according to an analysis in the Washington Post, companies outside the States most affected by Katrina have received more than 90 percent of the Federal contracts for recovery and reconstruction; and

(8) the monitoring of no-bid contracting practices is proving too difficult, with a report by the San Jose Mercury News stating ‘‘The database of contracts is incomplete. Information released by Federal agencies is spot-ty and sporadic. And disclosure of many no-bid contracts isn’t required by law’’; and

(9) there is currently no Chief Financial Officer charged with monitoring the flow of all funds to the affected areas; and

(b) the task of financial management is spread across disparate Federal departments and agencies with inadequate oversight of taxpayer funds.

(b) SENSE OF THE SENATE.—It is the sense of the Senate that the Federal Emergency Management Agency should—

(1) immediately rebid noncompetitive contracts entered into following Hurricane Katrina, consistent with the commitment of the Acting Under Secretary of Homeland Security of Concerns about the competition, cost, and transparency of the contracting process; and

(2) The Doha Round includes negotiations for the removal of trade barriers, particularly the effects of imports from multiple countries more difficult in unfair trade investigations, outruling the critical practice of ‘‘zeroing’’ in dumping investigations, shifting the weighing of causes, and mandating other provisions that make it more difficult to prove injury.

(3) United States trade remedy laws have already been significantly weakened by numerous unjust and activist WTO dispute settlement decisions which have created new obligations to which the United States never agreed.

(4) Trade remedy laws remain a critical resource for American manufacturers, agricultural producers, and aquacultural producers and others who seek to counteract unfair trade and injury;

(5) United States manufacturers have lost significant job losses and trade disadvantages;

(6) United States manufacturers have lost over 3,000,000 jobs since June 2000, and United States manufacturing employment is currently at its lowest level since 1950.

(7) Many industries critical to United States national security are at severe risk from unfair foreign competition.

(8) The Congress strongly believes that the proposals put forward by countries seeking to undermine trade remedy disciplines in the Doha Round would result in serious harm to the United States economy, including significant job losses and trade disadvantages.

(b) SENSE OF CONGRESS.—It is the sense of Congress that—

(1) the United States should not be a signatory to any agreement or protocol with respect to the Doha Development Round of the World Trade Organization negotiations, or any other bilateral or multilateral trade agreements, that—

(A) adopts any proposal to lessen the effectiveness of domestic and international disciplines on unfair trade or safeguard provisions, including proposals—

That the Doha Round negotiations are to preserve the ‘‘basic concepts, principles and effectiveness’’ of the Antidumping Agreement and the Subsidies Agreement.

(10) United States manufacturers have lost significant job losses and trade disadvantages;

(11) the United States should not be a signatory to any agreement or protocol with respect to the Doha Development Round of the World Trade Organization negotiations, or any other bilateral or multilateral trade agreements, that—

(A) adopts any proposal to lessen the effectiveness of domestic and international disciplines on unfair trade or safeguard provisions, including proposals—

That the Doha Round negotiations are to preserve the ‘‘basic concepts, principles and effectiveness’’ of the Antidumping Agreement and the Subsidies Agreement.
similar requirements under paragraph (1)(B) unless—
(A) the plan is required to cover substantially all employees;
(B) in the case of an option under an employee stock purchase plan, the plan is required to provide an option price which is not less than the amount specified in section 423(b)(6) of such Code by reason of this section, or
(C) the plan is required to provide coverage under section 423 more than the funding levels established

(2) these contracts were awarded with no competition from other capable firms, and up to $100,000,000 in taxpayer funds were authorized for each of these contracts;

(3) in the midst of concerns about abusive and irresponsible spending of taxpayer funds, the Federal Emergency Management Agency pledged to re-bid these noncompetitive contracts, with Acting Under Secretary of Homeland Security R. David Paulison, stating before the Committee on Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs of the Senate that “[a]ll of these no-bid contracts, we are going to go back and re-bid”;

(4) the Federal Emergency Management Agency has yet to reopen these 4 contracts to competitive bidding, as declared on November 11, 2005, that these contracts would not be reopened for bidding until February 2006;

SEC. 306. Sense of Congress regarding DoHa Round.

(a) Findings.—The Congress makes the following findings:

(1) Members of the World Trade Organization (WTO) are currently engaged in round of trade negotiations known as the DoHa Development Agenda (DoHa Round).

(2) The DoHa Round includes negotiations aimed at clarifying various disciplines under the Agreement on Implementation of Article VI of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade 1994 (Antidumping Agreement) and the Agreement on Subsidies and Countervailing Measures (Subsidies Agreement).

(3) WTO Ministerial Declaration adopted on November 14, 2001 (WTO Paper No. WT/CONF/1/W/DEC1) specifically provides that the DoHa Round negotiations are to preserve the “basic concepts, principles and effectiveness” of the Antidumping Agreement and the Subsidies Agreement.

(4) In section 2102(b)(14)(A) of the Bipartisan Trade Promotion Authority Act of 2002, the Congress mandated that the principal negotiating objectives for the United States with respect to trade remedy laws was to “preserve the ability of the United States to enforce its trade remedy laws, and to avoid agreements that lessen the effectiveness of domestic and international disciplines on unfair trade, especially dumping and subsidies.

(5) The countries that have been the most persistent and egregious violators of international fair trade rules are engaged in an aggressive effort to significantly weaken the disciplines provided in the Antidumping Agreement and the Subsidies Agreement and undermine the ability of the United States to effectively enforce its trade remedy laws.

(6) Chronic violators of fair trade disciplines have put forward proposals that would substantially weaken United States trade remedy laws and practices, including mandating that unfair trade orders terminate after a set number of years even if unfair trade and injury are likely to recur, mandating that trade remedy reflect less than the full margin of dumping or subsidization, mandating higher de minimis levels of unfair trade, making cumulation of the effects of multiple unfair trade, especially dumping and subsidies, less than the full margin of dumping or subsidization, mandating higher de minimis levels of unfair trade, making cumulation of the effects of multiple unfair trade, especially dumping and subsidies.

(7) Trade remedy laws remain a critical resource for American manufacturers, agricultural producers, and aquacultural producers in responding to closed foreign markets, subsidized imports, and other forms of unfair trade, particularly in the context of the challenges currently faced by these vital sectors of the United States.

(8) The United States trade remedy laws have already been significantly weakened by numerous unjust and activist WTO dispute settlement decisions which have created new obligations to which the United States never agreed.

(9) The United States had an accounting trade deficit of approximately $658,000,000,000 in 2004, including a trade deficit of almost $162,000,000,000 with China alone, as well as a trade deficit of $8,000,000,000 in advanced technology.

(10) United States manufacturers have lost over 300,000 jobs since the United States manufacturing employment is currently at its lowest level since 1990.
(11) Many industries critical to United States national security are at severe risk from unfair foreign competition.

At the appropriate place, insert the following:

SEC. 11. SENSE OF THE SENATE REGARDING THE MEDICARE PART D PRESCRIPTION DRUG PROGRAM.

(a) FINDINGS.—The Senate finds the following:

(1) It is not acceptable that startup issues under the new Medicare prescription drug program have resulted in some of our Nation’s most vulnerable citizens having difficulties getting the prescription drugs they need covered under the program, and these issues must be addressed and resolved.

(2) The Department of Health and Human Services and the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services are working tirelessly to address these startup issues and have taken numerous steps to smooth the transition process.

(3) All prescription drug plans under part D of title XVIII of the Social Security Act and MA-PD plans under part C of such title (in this section referred to as ‘‘Medicare prescription drug plans’’) already have a ‘‘first fill’’ policy in place that provides a new enrollee with coverage for prescription drugs during at least the first 30 days of enrollment regardless of whether the particular prescription drug is on the plan’s formulary, unless the Medicare and Medicaid Services is enforcing this requirement.

(4) Under current law, full-benefit dual eligible individuals (as defined in section 1905(o)(9) of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 1395(o)(9)) are already automatically enrolled into Medicare prescription drug coverage so no change in law is necessary.

(5) Medicare prescription drug plans are already responsible for covering the cost of covered prescriptions filled for enrollees, including short term transition prescriptions.

(6) Medicare prescription drug plans are already responsible for reimbursing any enrollee, including full-benefit dual eligible individuals, for the up-front cost of prescription drugs incurred by the enrollee that should have been covered by the plan.

(7) The Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services is already reimbursing States for the reasonable administrative costs incurred by States that have temporarily covered some claims for prescription drug coverage during the transition period.

(8) Enrollment is exceeding projections, with at least 24,000,000 Medicare beneficiaries who now have drug coverage and another 900,000 plan switching to the Medicare prescription drug program.

(9) In addition, the Secretary of Health and Human Services has taken many other actions to smooth the implementation of the Medicare prescription drug program, including the following:

(A) Establishing processes to ensure that full-benefit dual eligible individuals are not overcharged for their prescriptions and to require Medicare prescription drug plans to refund overcharges to such individuals.

(B) Establishing a process to ensure that Medicare prescription drug plans remburse pharmacies for costs incurred by pharmacies that are payable by such plans.

(C) Conducting outreach to pharmacies and pharmacy associations on the implementation of the Medicare prescription drug benefit, particularly with respect to full-benefit dual eligible individuals, as well as establishing a special pharmacy telephone help line.

(D) Requiring Medicare prescription drug plans to have comprehensive and procedures for enrollees to rapidly secure an exception to the limitation of coverage of a prescription drug when medical necessity is demonstrated.

(E) Permitting full-benefit dual eligible individuals to switch Medicare prescription drug plan under the Medicare prescription drug benefit at any time, for any reason, and improving data flows and communication with plans to ensure that plan switches by such individuals become fully effective as quickly and efficiently as possible.

(F) Partnering with national, State, and local groups that work with full-benefit dual eligible individuals to educate such individuals about the Medicare prescription drug program, and assisting in their transition to, and enrollment under, such program.
(b) Sense of the Senate.—It is the sense of the Senate that—

(1) the Secretary of Health and Human Services is making significant progress in smoothing implementation of the new Medicare prescription drug program, legislation changing the program is not needed at this time, and legislation at this time would also hinder implementation of the program and confuse beneficiaries;

(2) each of the implementation problems identified under the Medicare prescription drug program will be resolved more quickly through administrative actions, which the Secretary of Health and Human Services already has the authority to take under current law, without going through Congressional action followed by administrative action;

(3) the Senate fully supports the efforts of the Secretary of Health and Human Services, Medicare prescription drug program, drug plans, pharmacists, and others to implement the Medicare prescription drug program and to resolve problems that have occurred during the implementation of the program; and

(4) the pace of enrollment in the Medicare prescription drug program indicates that extending the six-month enrollment period is not warranted and, by contrast, such an action could exacerbate implementation issues under the program.

(2) Third Party Liability.—Nothing in subsection (a) shall be construed as limiting the authority or responsibility of a State under section 1902(a)(25) of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 1396a(a)(25)) to seek reimbursement from a prescription drug plan, an MA–PD plan, or any other third party, of the costs incurred by the State in providing prescription drug coverage during 2006.

(2) STATE COVERAGE OF NON-FORMULARY PRESCRIPTION DRUGS FOR FULL-BENEFIT DUAL ELIGIBLE INDIVIDUALS DURING 2006.—For prescription drugs furnished to any full-benefit dual eligible individual (as defined in section 1935(d) of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 1395w–5(d))) for part D or the MA–PD plan under part C of such Act (42 U.S.C. 1395w–116) during 2006, the Secretary shall ensure that such plans have been made available to such individuals on a timely basis prescription drug benefit furnished to any full-benefit dual eligible individual (as defined in section 1935(d) of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 1395w–5(d))) for part D or the MA–PD plan under part C of such Act (42 U.S.C. 1395w–116) during 2006.

(3) The processes established by the Secretary shall be made in consultation with the States, including the participation of representatives of the States in the processes established by the Secretary.

(4) Nothing in this section shall be construed as changing or affecting the primary payer status of a prescription drug plan under part D or an MA–PD plan under part C of title XVIII of the Social Security Act with respect to prescription drugs furnished to any full-benefit dual eligible individual (as defined in section 1935(d) of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 1395w–5(d)) for part D or the MA–PD plan under part C of such Act (42 U.S.C. 1395w–116) during 2006.

(2) Third Party Liability.—Nothing in subsection (a) shall be construed as limiting the authority or responsibility of a State under section 1902(a)(25) of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 1396a(a)(25)) to seek reimbursement from a prescription drug plan, an MA–PD plan, or any other third party, of the costs incurred by the State in providing prescription drug coverage during 2006.

(2) STATE COVERAGE OF NON-FORMULARY PRESCRIPTION DRUGS FOR FULL-BENEFIT DUAL ELIGIBLE INDIVIDUALS DURING 2006.—For prescription drugs furnished to any full-benefit dual eligible individual (as defined in section 1935(d) of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 1395w–5(d))) for part D or the MA–PD plan under part C of such Act (42 U.S.C. 1395w–116) during 2006, the Secretary shall ensure that such plans have been made available to such individuals on a timely basis prescription drug benefit furnished to any full-benefit dual eligible individual (as defined in section 1935(d) of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 1395w–5(d))) for part D or the MA–PD plan under part C of such Act (42 U.S.C. 1395w–116) during 2006.
Medicaid Services are working tirelessly to address these startup issues and have taken numerous steps to smooth the transition process.

(3) All prescription drug plans under part D of title XVIII of the Social Security Act and MA-PD plans under part C of such title (in this section referred to as “Medicare prescription drug plans”) already have a “no-fail” policy in place that provides a new enrollee with coverage for prescription drugs during at least the first 30 days of enrollment regardless of whether the particular prescription drug is on the plan’s formulary, and the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services is enforcing this requirement.

(4) Medicare prescription drug plans are already responsible for covering the cost of covered prescriptions filled for enrollees, including short-term transition prescriptions.

(5) Medicare prescription drug plans are already responsible for reimbursing any enrollee, including full-benefit dual eligible individuals, for any out-of-pocket costs incurred by the enrollee that should have been covered by the plan.

(6) The Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services is already reimbursing States for the reasonable administrative costs incurred by States that have temporarily covered some claims for prescription drug coverage during the transition period.

(7) Enrollment is exceeding projections, with approximately 759,000 Medicare beneficiaries who now have drug coverage and another 90,000 are enrolling each day in the Medicare prescription drug program.

(8) The Senate fully supports the efforts of the Secretary of Health and Human Services, Medicare prescription drug plans, pharmacists, and others to implement the Medicare prescription drug program and to resolve problems that have occurred during the implementation of the program.

(9) The pace of enrollment in the Medicare prescription drug program indicates that extending the six-month enrollment period is not warranted at this time, and, by contrast, such an action could exacerbate implementation issues under the program.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:
A resolution (S. Res. 366) affirming the importance of increased international action and a national week of prayer for the Ugandan victims of Joseph Kony’s Resistance Army, and expressing the sense of the Senate that Sudan, Uganda, and the international community bring justice and humanitarian assistance to Northern Uganda and that February 2 through 9, 2006 should be designated as a national week of prayer and reflection for the people of Uganda.

There being no objection, the Senate proceeded to consider the resolution.
Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, I want to speak about a matter of urgency and extreme concern to me that is going on right now in Uganda.
As my colleagues may know, I have spent much time in Africa, particularly in Uganda, talking with President Museveni.
The major issue that he and I discussed is the ongoing terrorist tragedy in his country. The Lord’s Resistance Army, LRA, is a rebel paramilitary group formed in 1986 to fight the Ugandan government, operating mainly in northern Uganda and southern Sudan. The group is engaged in an armed rebellion against the Ugandan Government in what is now one of Africa’s longest-running conflicts.

It is led by a man named Joseph Kony who claims to be a spiritual medium and uses his influence to kidnap and murder thousands of innocent civilians, most of them children. Because of the need for protection, the region has become one of the darkest spots of human atrocities worldwide.

Between 20,000 and 50,000 children have been kidnapped by the LRA for use as soldiers and sex slaves.

More than 1.6 million people have been forced to flee their homes, living in Internally Displaced People, IDP, camps. Every week 1,000 people die in the camps from the appalling conditions.

Though the Internally Displaced People camps were meant to provide security against the LRA attacks, they are now where most abductions take place.

It is estimated 40,000 children flee every night to bigger towns, seeking the safety in numbers, sleeping on street corners and in other public spaces. I recently saw a documentary on this titled “Invisible Children.”

Up to 200,000 people have been killed in the violence, with many more dying from disease and malnutrition as a direct result of the conflict.

The conflict continues to retard Uganda’s development efforts, costing the poor country’s economy a cumulative loss of at least $1.35 billion, which is equivalent to 3 percent of Uganda’s GDP.

Last night, in his State of the Union address, President Bush declared we must, “take the offensive by encouraging economic progress, and fighting disease, and spreading hope in hopeless lands.” He is absolutely right. We can no longer allow these atrocities in Uganda to go unnoticed and unabated; we must become more involved.

To that end I am supporting a resolution, S. Res. 366.

Further, I will include for the RECORD a letter to Secretary of State Rice signed by 34 organizations. This letter urges high-level attention to the situation in northern Uganda. I will also include the text of United Nations Security Council, UNSC, Resolution 1653 dated January 27, 2006. This resolution “strongly condemns” the activities of the Lord’s Resistance Army and “requests the Security Council’s demand that all such armed groups lay down their arms and engage voluntarily and without any delay or preconditions in their disarmament and in their repatriation and resettlement.”

UNSC Resolution 1653 “requests the Secretary-General to make recommendations to the Council, as appropriate, on how best to support efforts by States in the region to put an end to the activities of illegal armed groups and recommends that the United Nations agencies and missions—the United Nations Mission in the Sudan (UNMIS), MONUC and ONUB—can help, including through further support for the efforts of the governments concerned to ensure protection of, and humanitarian assistance to, civilians in need.”

These words are long overdue, and are only lamenting how far the action of the United Nations has been woefully inadequate. Words are not nearly enough. We need more action from the UN. If the United Nations is to be useful for the peoples of the world, this sort of problem is its highest and best.</ الدماغ يثرطح إلى النزاعات، وتثير التعاون، وتغلب على الخلافات.

As for the role of the United States, I suggest that Secretary Rice and Permanent Representative Bolton actively engage in drafting the aforementioned recommendations to the Security Council.

I also strongly suggest to President Bush and our administration that they examine every aspect of his executive authority to relieve this suffering, including the non-binding resolution provided under Section 1206 of Public Law 109-163, the train-and-equip legislation.

I believe these will be significant steps toward shedding light into the darkness that has cloaked the ongoing Ugandan tragedy, ending the conflict, and drawing the region into a positive future. I ask members for their support and thank the dozens of Senators who have joined me as cosponsors of this bipartisan resolution.

Let us pray for a cessation of the horrors and evils in Uganda and the Sudan.

I ask unanimous consent to print the above-referenced documents in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows: JANUARY 30, 2006.

Re Crisis in Northern Uganda

Dr. CONDOLEEZZA RICE, Secretary of State, Department of State, Washington, DC.

DEAR SECRETARY RICE: We, the undersigned organizations call on the U.S. government to dedicate high-level attention to the situation in northern Uganda in order to bring an end to the intractable conflict and catastrophic humanitarian conditions.

As you know, for the past 20 years, the people of northern Uganda have endured a conflict involving the rebel Lord’s Resistance Army (LRA) and the Government of Uganda. More than 1.7 million people—eighty percent of the population—are displaced and forced to live in squalid internally displaced persons (IDP) camps. These camps remain largely unprotected and vulnerable to LRA attacks and abductions. The LRA has kidnapped more than 30,000 children from their homes—holding them hostage as soldiers, sex slaves, and bondervendors. An estimated 35,000 children commute nightly to sleep in town centers in order to avoid violence and abduction. Nonetheless, these children, known as “night commuters”, remain vulnerable to exploitation and sexual and physical abuse.

This depopulation of IDP camps and human rights situation is the result of an on-going conflict that continues to be a cause of instability in southern Sudan and, now, the broader region. As regional security are growing: the LRA has expanded its area of operation deeper into southern Sudan and, for the first time, into the Democratic Republic of the Congo (DRC). LRA attacks against southern Sudanese civilians threaten implementation of the Comprehensive Peace Agreement (CPA) and recent LRA incursions into the DRC have heightened existing tensions between the Ugandan and Congolese governments. Within this context, we believe that multiple actors regrettably continue to provide covert support to the LRA.

Establishing a secure environment requires urgent leadership from the U.S. Government to put in place a comprehensive regional approach that addresses LRA cross-border movements and prioritizes a resolution to the conflict, while ensuring civilian protection, humanitarian access, and the reintegration of former combatants. To reduce civilian suffering, help consolidate peace in Sudan, and prevent further destabilization of the region, our organizations recommend the following actions:

UNITED NATIONS SECURITY COUNCIL ACTION

The continued presence of the Lord’s Resistance Army in southern Sudan and its recent expansion into the DRC underscores the urgency for United Nations Security Council (UNSC) engagement. Under Secretary-General Jan Egeland’s December 19, 2005, report on the humanitarian situation and the passage of UNSC Res. 1653 are welcome first steps towards engaging the Security Council on this issue, but greater action is critical.

We urge the US to take a leadership role at the United Nations to place northern Uganda on the UNSC agenda. The February 2006 US presidency of the UNSC would be an opportune time to galvanize action on this important issue. Specifically, the UN should do the following:

Continued encouragement and support for a regional solution to disarming groups within eastern DRC, Uganda, and southern Sudan. With the UNSC renewal of March, the United States should call on all relevant actors to accelerate the deployment of UNMIL and ensure that threats to civilians and disruption of humanitarian aid addresses the destabilizing presence of the LRA. Continued consideration should be given to the recommendations of the Regional Tripartite Commission on Disarming groups in eastern DRC.

Appoint a Special UN Envoy for Northern Uganda who will work collaboratively with all regional, national, and international stakeholders to help mediate between all parties to end the conflict.

Create a panel of experts to investigate and monitor the activities of the LRA, as well as the networks supporting the LRA, and its impact on regional peace and security.

Call on all parties to declare an immediate ceasefire; encourage greater international diplomatic and financial support for on-going stabilization efforts; and adopt a coordinated response to LRA activity in the area.

Call on the government of Uganda, in accordance with its national IDP policy, to adopt a security strategy that focuses on protection rather than confrontation, prioritizes civilian and aid convoy protection, and holds protection personnel accountable for crimes they commit.

DIRECT U.S. SUPPORT FOR MEDIATION

After 20 years of conflict, military victory is unlikely. Recent overtures made by the LRA leadership to negotiate are promising and greater international political pressure on all parties is needed to explore a peaceful solution. Approximately ninety percent of the LRA’s military is composed of young people, indicating that military aggression against the LRA only serves to inflict more violence upon these people, rather than to achieve a lasting solution.
children. Former Ugandan Government Minister Betty Bigombe’s mediation efforts deserve greater U.S. support. Accordingly, we strongly recommend that the State Department encourage a high-level diplomatic strategy to coordinate efforts within the U.S. government, among the donors, and ensure that greater resources and material support are available for Bigombe as a negotiation strategy is developed.

PROTECTION FOR CIVILIANS AND HUMANITARIAN WORKERS

Efforts to protect civilians have languished and high-level involvement by the international community is needed. Eighty percent of the displaced are women and children;
the population’s access to basic services and income generating movement, so that the displaced can gain activity to local defense units (LDUs) both hinders humanitarian access and leaves IDPs vulnerable to LRA attacks.

For example, at times LDU personnel have been inebriated while escorting humanitarian agencies, or sometimes have refused to provide escort unless provided with food.
This gap in protection significantly hinders relief efforts and the population’s ability to access employment, basic healthcare and education. Through US leadership, donor governments should work with the Ugandan government to devise a security strategy that prioritizes civilian protection instead of confrontational operations. This strategy must expand the area of protection around IDP camps to allow for greater civilian movement, so that the displaced can gain acto basic services and income generating opportunities.

DISARMAMENT, DEMOBILIZATION &
REINTEGRATION (DDR) ENHANCEMENT

In coordination with the government of Uganda, donors must develop and enact a comprehensive plan to draw LRA fighters out of this conflict and back into the embraces displacement and failure to protect and functions for regional peace and security, especially where arms and armed groups move across borders, such as the long-running and brutal insurgency by the Lord’s Resistance Army
(LRA) in northern Uganda which has caused the death, abduction and displacement of thousands of innocent civilians in Uganda, the Sudan and the Democratic Republic of the Congo.

Expressing its deep concern at the devastating impact of conflict and insecurity on the humanitarian situation throughout the Great Lakes region, and their implications for regional peace and security, especially where arms and armed groups move across borders, such as the long-running and brutal insurgency by the Lord’s Resistance Army
(LRA) in northern Uganda which has caused the death, abduction and displacement of thousands of innocent civilians in Uganda,
the Sudan and the Democratic Republic of the Congo.

Welcoming the efforts undertaken by the Tripartite Plus Joint Commission comprising Burundi, the Democratic Republic of the Congo, Rwanda and Uganda as a significant contribution to heightened dialogue between the countries of the Great Lakes, recalling its previous resolutions that reaffirmed the importance of holding an international conference on peace, security and stability in the Great Lakes region and rec-gonized the historical and regional process by the countries of the region with the facilitation of the United Nations, the African Union, the Group of Friends and all others concerned.

Taking note with satisfaction of the holding of the First International Conference on Security, Democracy and Developingment in the Democratic Republic of the Congo, Rwanda and Uganda and the Dar es Salaam Declaration of 2004 adopted by the first Summit of the International Conference on Regional Security, and recognizing the significant achievements and progress in the peace processes in the Great Lakes region, the recent installation of a democratically elected government in Burundi and progress in the transition to democratic institutions in the Democratic Republic of the Congo.

Expressing its gratitude to the United Na-	ions Organization Mission in the Demo-Cratic Republic of the Congo (MONUC) and to the United Nations Operation in Burundi (ONUB) for their significant contribution to peace in the region.

Partly to contribute to the donor community for the assistance it is providing to the countries in the region, and encouraging it to maintain that assistance.

dence-building measures based on effective and concrete actions;

3. Encourages and supports the countries of the Great Lakes region, individually and col-

Lakes region of Africa.

 vailing goodwill and relations among the countries of the region, which have positively influenced the successful transition in Burundi and the course of the ongoing democratic transition in the Democratic Republic of strong position to bring to justice perpetrators of grave violations of human rights and internathumanitarian law and to take appropriate measures of international cooperation and
