EXTENSIONS OF REMARKS

IN HONOR AND RECOGNITION OF THE COUNCIL ON AMERICAN-IS-LAMIC RELATIONS

HON. DENNIS J. KUCINICH

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES Wednesday, April 26, 2006

Mr. KUCINICH. Mr. Speaker, I rise in recognition of the Council on American-Islamic Relations (CAIR) whose Cleveland office is hosting its 4th Annual Banquet and Fundraiser on Sunday, April 30, 2006. CAIR is a nonprofit, grassroots civil rights and advocacy group and the nation's largest Islamic civil liberties organization, with regional offices nationwide and in Canada. Since its establishment in 1994, CAIR has worked to promote a positive image of Islam and Muslims in America. Through media relations, lobbying, education and advocacy, CAIR puts forth an Islamic perspective to ensure the Muslim voice is represented.

Through its promotion of civil rights, research, education, conferences, seminars, internships, and public events such as the Cleveland chapter's 4th annual banquet, CAIR seeks to empower the American Muslim community and encourage its participation in political and social activism.

Mr. Speaker, I am pleased that CAIR is working nationwide and locally in the Greater Cleveland community to promote civil rights, civil liberties, and free speech and is able to educate the public about these issues by bringing such an outstanding program to the people of Northeast Ohio for their 4th annual banquet.

VICTIMS' RIGHTS WEEK

HON. SOLOMON P. ORTIZ

OF TEXAS IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES Wednesday, April 26, 2006

Mr. ORTIZ. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize and honor the goals and ideals set forth by the 2006 National Crime Victims' Rights Week taking place April 23 through April 29. The efforts to raise public awareness for—and participation in—the rights and concerns of crime victims in the United States is the noteworthy message advocated by Victims' Rights Week, whose theme this year is "Victims' Rights: Strength in Unity."

Crime is an indiscriminant crisis that impacts all constituencies. This week is one in which all people are encouraged to strengthen the voice of those victims and survivors of crime through involvement in crime prevention, victim assistance, and community safety.

It is not only through my tenure as a former law enforcement officer that I know firsthand the tragedies of crime, but it is also through the knowledge and experiences that people have shared with me.

A member of my staff has been affected by the consequences of crime very recently. Her nieces were victims of a domestic dispute that escalated into an appalling scenario. The criminal shot both his wife and six-year-old daughter in the head before failing in his suicide attempt. He was found guilty of attempted capital murder, injury to a child, and aggravated assault.

The long-term repercussions from this horrifying episode will be felt by all family members for the rest of their lives. The mother and child will live their entire lives with the physical disabilities they incurred, as well as the psychological trauma. The daughter suffers from seizures, and the mother has lost vision in one eye, which remains permanently closed.

To help families and victims through such difficult moments, I am proud to support the observance of Victims' Rights Week, which acknowledges crime victims and upholds their rights. The encouragement of public participation promoted by the Victims' Rights movement will support crime victims and address the impact of crime on communities with a single voice.

I ask the House of Representatives to join me and my fellow Victims' Rights Caucus colleagues today in honoring the observance of this noble cause—which through its advocacy for victims' justice, increased public awareness, and community collaboration has revolutionized American criminal jurisprudence.
