

RECOGNIZING NATIONAL CRIME
VICTIMS RIGHTS WEEK

(Mr. CHABOT asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. CHABOT. Madam Speaker, I would like to take this opportunity to recognize Crime Victims Rights Week with my colleagues from the Congressional Victims Rights Caucus.

Recently, the Judiciary Crime Subcommittee examined the issue of crime victims where we discovered that one violent crime occurs every 6 seconds in this country, one rape or sexual assault occurs every 2½ minutes.

The issue of how crime victims are treated within the criminal justice system has been of paramount importance to myself and many of us throughout our tenure in Congress. I was the sponsor of the Crime Victims Rights constitutional amendment back in the 106th, 107th and 108th Congresses. That legislation would have given crime victims the right to be reasonably protected from the accused, to be heard at all court proceedings, to receive full and just compensation in the form of restitution and, most importantly, to be treated with fairness and dignity and respect.

Unfortunately, despite numerous hearings and attempts by Senators KYL and FEINSTEIN, it was bipartisan, myself and others, we did not have the votes to pass a constitutional amendment. However, the Crime Victims Rights Act was included as title I of the Justice for All Act.

We need to recognize and support all crime victims in this country.

WELCOME TO STUDENTS AND PRINCIPAL OF ST. JOSEPH'S AT SACRED HEART SCHOOL

(Ms. ESHOO asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. ESHOO. Madam Speaker, I am very pleased to welcome a special group to the Capitol this morning. It is the season where so many students come to Washington to see their government in action and to visit the historic sites in Washington. This week the students of St. Joseph's School of the Sacred Heart in Atherton, California, are here.

The school is over 100 years old. It was founded by the religious of the Sacred Heart, the beloved religious of the Sacred Heart, and the traditions and their mission of excellence in education and the formation of the character and the spiritual formation of students continues today. How proud I am that they are here; how proud I am of the teachers; how proud I am of the principal of St. Joseph's at Sacred Heart, my daughter, Karen Eshoo.

Welcome, students, and enjoy your memorable and historic visit to our Capitol. May what you see and what you experience remain with you for a lifetime.

SUPPORT LEGISLATION TO ADVANCE ENERGY INDEPENDENCE

(Mr. WELLER asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. WELLER. Madam Speaker, the statistics say it all: two-thirds of the oil we consume today is imported. Sixty percent of our trade deficit, the increase, is as a result of oil imports, and today we are paying $3 or more per gallon of gasoline. The message is clear: we need independence from imported oil.

Last year's energy bill was a good start. In the district I represent, we are seeing new jobs created and much investment in wind energy, ethanol production, and a doubling of biodiesel production at the local plant, but we need to do more. I urge this House to take up and advance comprehensive legislation to replace oil with renewable fuels.

Would you support legislation that would replace 1.6 million barrels of oil a day? I would hope so. We have that opportunity with the Biofuels Act, H.R. 4973, legislation that would increase the amount of ethanol and biodiesel we produce from 4 billion gallons a year today to 25 billion gallons by the year 2025. This legislation will reduce our oil imports, create energy independence, and it is home-grown fuels.

“DO-NOTHING” CONGRESS REPUBLICANS
HAVEN'T CHANGED
MUCH FROM TRUMAN'S TIME

(Mr. McDERMOTT asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. McDERMOTT. Madam Speaker, back in 1948, President Truman dubbed the Republican-led House the “Do-Nothing Congress.” He came up with the name because the House barely ever met.

Would you believe that as bad as the 1948 Congress was, the Republican-led Congress of 2006 is worse? So far this year we have only been in session 22 days, and we are only scheduled to hold votes on a total of 97, which is 11 days less than the “Do-Nothing Congress” of 1948.

There is so much to do, gas prices and all the rest, but here in Washington the House Republicans seem content just to ignore our Nation's problems. Maybe they are satisfied with the work they have already done on behalf of their special interests for the election.

There is another thing this group has in common with the 1948 Republican “Do Nothing Congress.” Consider this comment from President Truman in 1948: “Something happens to Republican leaders when they get control of the government. They have a hard time hearing what the ordinary people of the country are saying, but they have no trouble at all hearing what Wall Street wants.”

It is time for the 2006 Congress to do something about the problems of the people in this country.

DEMOCRATS' HYPOCRISY ON ENERGY

(Ms. FOXX asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. FOXX. Madam Speaker, the Democrats sure do like to have their cake and eat it, too. Over and over again they complain about something, then turn right around and oppose any commonsense solutions offered by Republicans.

Democrats whine about our deficit, but vote against slowing the growth of spending. They complain about our President's plan in Iraq, but they offer no alternatives. They say we need to increase border security, yet vote against the bills that would do just that. The list goes on and on.

The Democrats' latest case of hypocrisy: they hold a press conference, complain about our rising energy prices, even though their actions have contributed directly to the problem. For a party that claims it is looking out for the best interests of the American people, it has a funny way of showing it.

For decades the Democrats have fought to stop production of all forms of energy. They voted against increasing domestic energy supplies, which would not only lower prices, but create more jobs here at home. The Democrats have opposed Republican efforts to lessen the tax burden at the pump. They have opposed nuclear energy and renewable fuels. They have opposed cracking down on price gouging.

Madam Speaker, Republicans have been working hard to address rising energy prices, yet all the Democrats do is vote “no.”

GAS CRISIS

(Mr. INSLEE asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. INSLEE. Madam Speaker, if you liked the administration and the Republican Congress' response to Hurricane Katrina, you are going to love the response to this gas crisis. Because while folks said they could not anticipate that the levees would be topped, when you do what the administration has done, you should have been anticipating $3 plus, $3.25, and $3.35 gasoline at the pump.

When you go into secret energy meetings, as the Vice President did, to devise an energy strategy and come out with a giveaway to the energy industry; when you have a President who refuses to act when Enron was stealing billions of dollars from the economy,
