The House met at 10 a.m. and was called to order by the Speaker pro tempore (Mr. Bonner).

DESIGNATION OF THE SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The SPEAKER pro tempore laid before the House the following communication from the Speaker:

WASHINGTON, DC.
May 18, 2006.
I hereby appoint the Honorable Jo Bonner to act as Speaker pro tempore on this day. J. Dennis Hastert, Speaker of the House of Representatives.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentlewoman from Georgia (Ms. McKinney) come forward and lead the House in the Pledge of Allegiance.

Ms. McKinney led the Pledge of Allegiance.

RECOGNIZING CHAPLAIN MAURY STOUT

(Mr. Ryun of Kansas asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. Ryun of Kansas. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to welcome Chaplain Maury Stout to the House floor. Chaplain Stout is presently an action officer at the Army Chief of Chaplains at the Pentagon. Prior to that he served as the brigade chaplain for the First Brigade, First Infantry Division at Fort Riley in my district.

Prior to coming to Fort Riley, Chaplain Stout served as the Task Force Chaplain at Camp Kabal, Kuwait. He has also served at many other posts and was awarded the FORSCOM Excellence in Ministry Award while serving as the Squadron Chaplain at Fort Polk, Louisiana.

Chaplain Stout is impressively educated, holding degrees from Central Bible College, Harvard University, the Assemblies of God Theological Seminary, and Georgetown University.

He has been honored with numerous awards, including the Meritorious Service Medal, the Army Commendation Medal, the National Defense Service Medal, the Global War on Terrorism Service Medal, the Military Outstanding Volunteer Service Medal, the Korean Defense Service Medal, to name just a few. But I am sure he will tell you that his highest honor is with his family, who is up here seated in the gallery today, his wife, Jeressa, and they have four children.

Mr. Speaker, it is my distinct honor to welcome Chaplain Stout to the House Chamber. I commend him for his outstanding service, and express my appreciation to him for opening our session today.

RECOGNIZING GEORGE OLSON

(Mr. Foley asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. Foley. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize a heroic American that winters in my district and lives in Muskegon, Michigan. George Olson, a World War II veteran, has traveled here with his family to visit the long-overdue memorial dedicated to veterans of the greatest generation.

Sergeant Olson served in the European theater in the U.S. Army Air Force as a tail gunner in a B-17. His plane was shot down, he was held a prisoner of war for some 11 months. Mr. Olson was awarded the Purple Heart, among other commendations.

The sacrifice of those like Sergeant Olson ensured we could live in a free society as we do today, and they deserve every bit of gratitude we can offer.

Like so many silent heroes of his generation, Mr. Olson returned home, married his sweetheart, Rose, and they had three children, Stuart, Garry and Lisa. Also with us today are his grandchildren, Katherine, Ryan and Kyle, Doug, Becky, Charlotte, Kelly, Jack, Nina, Kelly and Ken are also in the Chamber.

Mr. Speaker, I hope you will join me in acknowledging a great American, George Olson, today and wish him and his family well as they continue their visit to Washington, DC.

The sacrifices of his generation ensured we are in a free society as we do today, and they certainly deserve every bit of gratitude we can offer.

FEMA HOUSING

(Ms. LEE asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. LEE. Mr. Speaker, the Bush administration failed the people of the Gulf Coast before Hurricane Katrina and continues to fail them today.

Now, people who were abandoned and left to fend for themselves are about to get kicked to the curb again. First, we had to fight and force FEMA to allow survivors to temporarily stay in hotels and motels. Now, survivors may be on the streets again.

On May 31, 55,000 displaced families could lose emergency shelter assistance, even though it was promised to them for at least a year.

FEMA says that these families are supposed to apply for a different kind of assistance, yet four out of five applicants reportedly are being turned down. Those who do receive assistance have to reapply every 3 months. Why are we messing with these people who deserve to be treated better by their own government?

FEMA has failed to submit its plan for permanent transitional housing for Congress, which was due in January. Instead of assistance, they have offered incompetence. In the place of aid, they have offered nothing but bureaucracy.

Why in the world are we adding insult to injury? Katrina survivors deserve better.

THE PARTY OF NO

(Ms. FOXX asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Ms. FOXX. Mr. Speaker, the rhetoric from the other side of the aisle, which is usually full of hyperbole, has suddenly dissolved down into one simple word. No.

It is no to energy solutions. It is no to immigration reform. It is no to tax relief.

Last year Republicans passed not one but two energy bills, the Border Protection, Antiterrorism and Illegal Immigration Control Act, and the REAL ID Act. And the Democrats response: No.

Finally, a last week, Republicans approve a tax conference agreement that will help keep the Bush economic boom going and prevent a massive tax increase. The Democrats response: No.

Mr. Speaker, the Democrats favorite new slogan is “America, Can Do Better.” The American people have a clear choice in November: The party that is accomplishing things, or the party that stands on the sidelines and says “no.”

Yes, America can do better, better than the party of no.

KATRINA SURVIVORS

(Ms. MCKINNEY asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Ms. MCKINNEY. Mr. Speaker, after evicting all Katrina survivors in temporary housing on March 15, FEMA has now announced that 55,000 families will lose their emergency housing assistance as of May 31.

Teens of thousands of these families are being told they are ineligible for further assistance because of FEMA’s onerous and discriminatory rules.

Is this how we treat people who have lost everything? Where do we expect families who have lost their homes, their jobs, even their city, to turn without housing assistance?

Nearly 9 months have passed since Hurricane Katrina hit. If FEMA can’t help these families reclaim their lives, then Congress has to act.

Literally dozens of Katrina bills are still languishing in committees, including H.R. 4197, the most comprehensive relief package offered to date. I urge my colleagues to pass H.R. 4197 in support of Katrina’s survivors.

MEXICO SUES AMERICA—LONE STAR VOICE: CURTIS KRUEGER

(Mr. POE asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. POE. Mr. Speaker, my office has been inundated by calls from citizens since the announcement that the Mexican government plans to sue the United States over our military troops along our border, hailed into court by the Fox south of the border.

Curtis Krueger of Kingwood, Texas, writes to me: “Now I read that Mexico is considering suing the United States over border patrols. To not respond to this would be egregious. We as Americans have a sovereign right to have our borders protected by however and whomever we see fit. Our government should use common sense in every way possible, not sit back and let someone else formulate public opinion. To say we cannot handle the immigrant insurgency in our country flies directly in the face of what we are doing in Iraq. If we are in Iraq to handle insurgents, why aren’t we able to do so within our own borders. I, along with a vast majority of Americans, say to you and the government, ‘We want our country back.’”

America is now sued in our courts by foreign nations for protecting our nation.

Mr. Speaker, this ought not to be. We the people have become the defendants. Mr. Krueger has got it right. Help for our government does.

And that’s just the way it is.

CHENEY’S SECRET ENERGY TASK FORCE HAS PAID DIVIDENDS FOR BIG OIL

(Ms. SCHAKOWSKY asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. SCHAKOWSKY. Mr. Speaker, 5 years ago this week Vice President Cheney convened his secret energy task force, bringing Big Oil and energy lobbyists together to craft the Bush administration energy agenda. Last year House Republicans rubber-stamped that agenda, and the administration happily signed the legislation into law.

Today, the results are in. Big Oil is laughing all the way to the bank. During the first quarter of this year, the big five oil companies reported profits of $32.8 billion, up 35%. These profits are a direct result of those secret Cheney meetings. Big Oil has experienced record profits because Washington Republicans chose to shower Big Oil with more than $230 billion in gifts.

While Big Oil is prospering, the decisions made in those secret Cheney meetings are not paying off for the American consumer. Over the past 5 years the average American family is paying $2,500 more a year in gas, home heating and electrical bills.

Washington Republicans continue to hurt everyday Americans by cozying up to Big Oil. Is it any wonder that Americans are demanding change? Democrats will end Big Oil price gouging and rapidly move our country to energy independence and a renewable, clean energy future.

CONGRATULATING RICHMOND NATIVE AND AMERICAN IDOL CONTESTANT ELLIOTT YAMIN

(Mr. CANTOR asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. CANTOR. Mr. Speaker, today I rise to congratulate Richmond, Virginia, native and American Idol contestant Elliott Yamin for pursuing his dream while sharing his powerful voice with all of us. Elliott is returning home a star; a man with an extraordinary gift who dared to put his talent on display and achieve success. Elliott’s personality and amazing ability won over the judges and the viewers to earn him national recognition as a
URGING VIDEO GAME MAKERS TO ACT RESPONSIBLY IN WAKE OF RECENT SHOOTINGS

(Mr. KENNEDY of Minnesota asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. KENNEDY of Minnesota. Mr. Speaker, the suburbs of Washington were shaken last week by the senseless murder of two police officers in Fairfax, Virginia. This shooting occurred just days after the 25th annual Police Officers Memorial Service honoring the 155 police officers who, like Shawn Silvera from Lino Lakes, Minnesota, died in the line of duty last year.

There does come a time when violence against police officers is being glorified by video games like 25 to Life which gives players points for shooting police officers.

This is unacceptable. It is outrageous, it must be stopped. I urge the makers of this game to think carefully about the message they are sending to the families of fallen officers and the impact it has on impressionable children. If companies like those that produce 25 to Life continue to market this filth to our children, I say to my colleagues, we have a duty to act.

ONGOING HOUSING CRISIS ON THE GULF COAST

(Mr. JEFFERSON asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. JEFFERSON. Mr. Speaker, after almost 9 months, I suppose it doesn't surprise anyone to hear that FEMA is failing the citizens of the Gulf coast. In the wake of the storms, FEMA expressly advised the survivors of Hurricanes Katrina and Rita that they could expect 1 year of assistance. Moreover, section 406 of the Stafford Act provides for 18 months of assistance to victims of natural disasters.

Yet just 9 months after these devastating storms, FEMA is working feervishly, not to house the victims of the hurricanes but to terminate their assistance. FIRS loan funds will be returned to homeowners' hands; insurance claims will be resolved and paid; and then the people of New Orleans will begin rebuilding in earnest.

The President has the authority to issue waivers, to make adjustments to accommodate the survivors. FEMA also can behave more reasonably, more humanely. Until FEMA has a workable plan for transitional housing for these American survivors, it must not evict them. To do so is unconscionable.

YOUTH COUNCIL

(Mr. PRICE of Georgia asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. PRICE of Georgia. Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to take this opportunity to talk about a group of exceptional students in my district. After coming to Congress last year, I put together several advisory councils made up of constituents. These panels perform research, investigations and advise me on the needs and concerns of my district, our State and our Nation across a variety of different areas.

Most recently, my Youth Advisory Council presented their report. Made up of 46 students representing 25 local high schools, the council met monthly to discuss and debate three very pertinent topics of their own choosing: Social Security, tax reform, and illegal immigration. During that time they also compiled and reviewed data from surveys administered to fellow students.

Much to my delight, the most consistent conclusion in all three working groups was that many of our young Americans are thirsty for more information on these issues. They want to be a part of the national dialogue.

I am excited to have had the opportunity to hear their voices. The information and conclusions they presented to me were extremely thorough and valuable. I thank them for their time and effort. I will work with colleagues here to implement many of their recommendations.

HOUSE REPUBLICANS CHOOSE TO PENALIZE CASH-STRAPPED SENIORS

(Mrs. CHRISTENSEN asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mrs. CHRISTENSEN. Mr. Speaker, say it isn't so. House Republicans are ready to penalize millions of American seniors who did not sign up for a prescription drug plan by that arbitrary May 15 deadline. Congress should have extended that deadline to give seniors more time to pick the right plan for both their health and their pocketbook.

House Republicans expected seniors to choose a plan by May 15 even though they knew seniors were receiving incomplete and incorrect information from the Bush administration. An investigation by GAO concluded that the CMS was giving out wrong information to seniors 60 percent of the time.

You would think that Washington Republicans would not start penalizing seniors with the Bush prescription drug tax based on the administration giving out accurate information. But no, they chose instead to force seniors into a plan by midnight on May 15 or face the Bush prescription drug tax that will remain with them for the rest of their lives.

House Republicans and the President who the Congressional Black Caucus called on had a chance to help seniors and they didn't. Congress should have extended the deadline to give seniors more time. They still can. I call on them to do so.

Bring the Congressional Black Caucus bill to the floor and pass it.

CRITICAL CONDITION: THE STATE OF THE UNION'S HEALTH CARE, 2006

(Mr. MURPHY asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. MURPHY. Mr. Speaker, a couple weeks ago, I provided for Members of Congress this document: “Critical Condition: The State of the Union’s Health Care, 2006,” put out by my office. In that we outlined many programs that would help reduce costs of health care in America.

Let me expand on one of them about Community Health Centers, which are nonprofit centers to provide primary and preventative care for folks who are low income or who are uninsured and underinsured. However, a recent report by the Journal of the American Medical Association said that although these clinics are of tremendous value, there is a shortage of medical personnel at them. A study published by Dr. Roger Rosenblatt of the University of Washington says that there is a 13 percent shortage of family physicians, a 20 percent shortage of obstetricians, and a 22.5 percent shortage of psychiatrists for these positions.

Oddly enough, if a physician is employed by a Community Health Center, they are covered by the Federal liability, but if someone wants to volunteer at a clinic, they are not.

It is important that we provide mechanisms to allow physicians and other medical personnel to volunteer at these clinics. America needs that. The uninsured and underinsured need that, and, quite frankly, it would save a tremendous amount of money.

People can receive further information on my Web site, murphy.house.gov.
DO NOTHING CONGRESS NOT TACKLING ANY OF THE ISSUES IMPORTANT TO THE AMERICAN PEOPLE

(Mr. PALLONE asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, our Nation faces many pressing issues; yet the House Republican leadership prefers to send Congress home for breaks rather than working to solve any problems.

Back in 1948 President Truman dubbed that Congress the “Do Nothing Congress” because it only met 108 days the entire year. The Republican Congress of 2006 is set to break that record, scheduled to meet for only 97 days this year, 11 fewer than the first “Do Nothing Congress.”

Now, the budget continues to spiral out of control after finally being balanced by President Clinton back in the late 1990s; yet House Republicans approved a budget last night that makes the deficit worse and offers no plan to bring the budget back into balance.

Gas prices continue to hover at or above $3 a gallon; yet House Republicans continue to do the bidding of the big oil execs rather than providing any real relief to the American consumer.

House Republicans, Mr. Speaker, are presiding over the most “Do Nothing Congress” in our Nation’s history. They simply cannot govern and it is time for a change.

THE EFFECTS OF ENERGY COSTS ON OUR AGRICULTURE ECONOMY

(Miss McMORRIS asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Mrs. BLACKBURN. Mr. Speaker, the topic of this week, the topic of discussion with our constituents, with those who are calling us is illegal immigration. There is genuine concern over Mexico’s choosing and wanting to sue the United States for defending our borders.

Mr. Speaker, America has reached a consensus and our constituents have reached a consensus on this issue. What they are telling us is secure our borders. Show us a secured border. Show us a plan of action. Allow us to know that we can have our faith restored in your ability to secure this Nation.

We hear from them. They are letting us know that they expect us to uphold our oath to defend and protect this Nation. Mr. Speaker, we are listening. In this body we have been listening. Last fall we took action.

We encourage all to join us in securing the border of this great Nation.

THE REPUBLICAN BUDGET

(Ms. KILPATRICK of Michigan asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Ms. KILPATRICK. Mr. Speaker, at 1 o’clock this morning, the Republicans in the House of Representatives passed a budget that is fiscally irresponsible; increases the national debt; cuts veterans’ health care; cuts student loans; and at the same time, President Bush passed a $70 billion tax cut bill for the wealthiest of America.

What is just as bad is that the debt limit for our Nation has been increased five times since 2001 under President Bush and the Republicans. This is more than any Presidents that preceded him.

Is this the kind of America that you want? American people, please speak out. Please speak up. We can do better. This is the best Nation in the world. We must change the way we do business in Congress.

One hundred percent of Democrats voted against that budget at 1 o’clock this morning. It is bad for America. It is bad for our families, and we can do better.

THE NATION’S CONSENSUS: SECURE OUR BORDERS

(Mrs. BLACKBURN asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

THE EFFECTS OF ENERGY COSTS ON OUR AGRICULTURE ECONOMY

(Miss McMORRIS asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Miss McMORRIS. Mr. Speaker, agriculture is a billion dollar industry in Eastern Washington. And for those of us from Eastern Washington, as well as all across America, we must be promoting policies and projects that are going to help our farmers and ranchers.

Over the past several months, I have heard from our farmers about high energy costs that are hurting their ability to do business. At a time when their profit margins are slim, unexpected increases in energy costs are having a devastating effect.

I recently received a letter from a third generation farmer who prides himself on being a good steward of the land. He has never seen circumstances as severe as these now. He mentions that the reason we are losing good family farms is because our agriculture economy is unable to absorb the energy costs for fuel and fertilizer. His costs alone are up 66 percent, and fertilizer costs are up 46 percent.

We have the energy resources available here in the United States to solve this problem. We need to be taking steps right now to better meet our energy needs because America needs American energy. It includes increasing supply, conservation, and alternative fuels.

Growing up on a family farm, I learned firsthand about these challenges, and I look forward to working with my colleagues to address this situation.

THE TAX BILL

(Mrs. MALONEY asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mrs. MALONEY. Mr. Speaker, the President signed another tax bill that will add to the Federal deficit. And the House budget resolution that passed last night, with 100 percent of the Democrats voting against it, contains a provision to raise the debt ceiling for the fifth time on President Bush’s watch.

This President and this Congress have squandered the fiscal discipline of the Clinton years of the 1990s and created a legacy of deficits and debt that will erode the standard of living of our children and our grandchildren. This is a record-setting producer, but they are setting the wrong kinds of records.

We have seen the Federal budget deficit set a record in dollar terms. We have seen the national debt rise to a record level. And we have seen our trade deficit and our indebtedness to the rest of the world rise to a record level.

America can do better.

FLOYD COUNTY SCHOOLS

(Mr. GINGREY asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. GINGREY. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to congratulate the Floyd County school system on receiving an “outperformer” rating in the Standard and Poor’s 2006 School Evaluation report. Floyd County was one of only 20 school districts in the State of Georgia to receive this distinction.

This award recognizes the great work Floyd County schools are doing to educate our children. I know everyone in the community was excited, but not surprised, by this honor, as Floyd County consistently displays exceptional levels of student achievement.

Mr. Speaker, I want to thank the dedicated Floyd County educators whose hard work earned this award, Floyd County superintendent Kelly Henson, members of the Floyd County School Board, principals, teachers, parents at every school in the system deserve our gratitude for a job well done.

I know Floyd County will continue its long tradition as a leader in educational achievement for the State of Georgia.

Mr. Speaker, I ask that you join me in congratulating the Floyd County school system and in thanking its educators for their dedication to developing the minds of our community’s rising leaders.

OLDER AMERICANS

(Mr. HINOJOSA asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. HINOJOSA. Mr. Speaker, May is Older Americans Month. Let us celebrate Older Americans Month by passing a budget that will promote their dignity and health.

The once-per-decade White House Conference on Aging put reauthorization of the Older Americans Act at the top of its list of national priorities. I am proud that we are working in a bipartisan manner to pass a consensus bill to reauthorize this essential law that has built the foundation for our aging network.

However, we must couple reauthorization with real resources. We know that every dollar spent providing a meal or supporting seniors so that they can remain at home and in their communities not only improves their quality of life, but saves entitlement spending on long-term care. That is the genius of the Older Americans Act. Yet we know that the Older Americans Act’s purchasing power per individual has dropped by 50 percent since 1980.

It is incumbent upon all of us to step up and invest in these programs. It is one sure way to help control the cost of our government programs. It is the right thing to do.

Mr. BISHOP of Utah. Mr. Speaker, by direction of the Committee on Rules, I call up House Resolution 818 and ask for its immediate consideration.

The Clerk read the resolution, as follows:

H. Res. 818

Resolved, That at any time after the adoption of this resolution the Speaker may, pursuant to clause (b) of rule XVIII, decline the House resolved into the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union for consideration of the bill (H.R. 5386) making appropriations for the Department of the Interior, environment, and related agencies for the fiscal year ending September 30, 2007, and for other purposes. The first reading of the bill shall be dispensed with. All points of order against consideration of the bill are waived. General debate shall be confined to the bill and shall not exceed one hour equally divided by the chairman and ranking minority member of the Committee on Appropriations. After general debate the House shall be continued in order under the five-minute rule. Points of order against provisions in the bill for failure to comply with clause 2 of rule XXI are waived except as follows: page 73, lines 3 through 8; section 425; and title V. During consideration of the bill for amendment, the Chairman of the Committee of the Whole may call on any Member in recognition on the basis of whether the Member offering an amendment has caused it to be printed in the portion of the Congressional Record designated in clause 2 of rule XVIII. Amendments so printed shall be considered as read. When the committee rises and reports the bill back to the House with a recommendation that the bill do pass, the previous question shall be considered as ordered on the bill and amendments thereto to final passage without intervening motion except one motion to recommit with or without instructions.

SEC. 2. Upon adoption of House Concurrent Resolution 376, and until a concurrent resolution or fiscal year 2007 has been adopted by the Congress, the provisions of House Concurrent Resolution 376 and its accompanying report shall have force and effect in all purposes of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974 as though adopted by the Congress.

(b) Nothing in this section may be construed to engage rule XXVII.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Utah (Mr. BISHOP) is recognized for 1 hour.

Mr. BISHOP of Utah. Mr. Speaker, for the purpose of debate only, I yield the customary 30 minutes to my friend the gentleman from Florida (Mr. Hastings), pending which I yield myself such time as I may consume. During consideration of this resolution, all time yielded is for the purpose of debate only.

Mr. Speaker, the resolution provides for an open rule on H.R. 5386, the Interior Appropriations Act for 2007. It provides for 1 hour of general debate, equally divided and controlled by the chairman and ranking member of the Interior Subcommittee on Appropriations.

The rule waives all points of order against consideration of the bill, except for certain legislative provisions which are specified under the text of the rule.

For purposes of the amendment, the rule provides for recognition to Members who have preprinted their amendments in the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD.

Mr. Speaker, at this time I am pleased to stand and introduce this rule as well as the underlying legislation. I appreciate the hard work and the hard choices that have been done by the subcommittee members, specifically Chairman TAYLOR and Ranking Member DICKS, as well as the full committee leadership of Chairmen LEWIS and many others who have played a essential role in putting this budget together, which actually comes in at $145 million less than last year’s enacted levels.

This important measure provides funding for the entire Department of Interior, except for the Bureau of Reclamation, for the U.S. Forest Service within the Department of Agriculture, for the National Park Service, for the Health and Human Services Department, the Environmental Protection Agency, as well as other programs.

At the same time, this measure provides for a moderate increase over the President’s proposed budget for the Forest Service, for the National Park Service, EPA, Environmental programs and management.

This budget provides for $5.9 billion to pay for essential needs in Federal lands and is controlled by it. Payment in lieu of taxes is not charity, it is simply rent on land that is due to compensate for economic problems created by the Federal Government, created by Federal Government actions, and in contradiction to the deals that were made when these States originally came into the Union.

The Department of Interior took the concept of payment in lieu of taxes from the BLM as an effort, in their words, “to ensure appropriate emphasis,” and that it would be a benefit accrued to both Congress, the Department, BLM and to the counties of the West as well.

Since that time, that has not been the case. In fact, in each of the last 2 years, the administration and the OMB have actually cut this particular program, only to have it restored by Congress, which once again I thank Chairman TAYLOR, his committee and his staff, their efforts of it is significant that it does not add inventory to our public land policies that are above and beyond what we can already afford.

There is one particular note of significance to me which I wish to address, that this bill provides $228 million for the Payment in Lieu of Taxes Program at the Department of Interior. This figure is $30 million above what the President proposed, and I appreciate the efforts of Chairman TAYLOR, ranking member DICKS and the entire committee in providing the restoration of funds. However, it is still below the $332 million that was provided for in last year’s budget, and significantly below the authorized level of $390 million, which would be there today.

If one were to draw a line from Montana through New Mexico on the map, everything west of that line has 57 percent ownership by the Federal Government. Everything east of the line is 4 percent ownership by the Federal Government.

When the western States, which I live in one, entered this country under their enabling acts, there were legal commitments that were made, that in the 1950s the Federal Government unilaterally changed and since that time have been repeatedly changing. In fact, there are several amendments that have been threatened to be only the start of an increase which would increase that change in commitment.

No one who does not live in that area understands the significance of Federal ownership of that particular land. Chairman TAYLOR though, having a substantial amount of Forest Service land in his district, is one of those that is empathetic to this situation, and we are appreciative of all his efforts in this particular area. I wish the administration were the same. In dealing at one time with an administrative official, he asked me why I was so concerned about all this Federal land; it was simply useless land and no one lived there anyway.

It has to be realized that half of the Western States are essentially tied to Federal lands and is controlled by it. Payment in lieu of taxes is not charity, it is simply rent on land that is due to compensate for economic problems created by the Federal Government, created by Federal Government actions, and in contradiction to the deals that were made when these States originally came into the Union.

The Department of Interior took the concept of payment in lieu of taxes from the BLM as an effort, in their words, “to ensure appropriate emphasis,” and that it would be a benefit accrued to both Congress, the Department, BLM and to the counties of the West as well.

Since that time, that has not been the case. In fact, in each of the last 2 years, the administration and the OMB have actually cut this particular program, only to have it restored by Congress, which once again I thank Chairman TAYLOR, his committee and his staff, their efforts of it is significant that it does not add inventory to our public land policies that are above and beyond what we can already afford.
around 7 percent over the past 5 years, if my math is correct, the Department of Interior’s administrative budget has increased 100 percent in that same time, from $64 million to $118 million today.

While I may disagree with this portion of the bill, we will be joining with other western Congressmen later on today to try to present an amendment through regular order that will address this one particular issue.

If I may appreciate once again to Chairman TAYLOR and the ranking member from the State of Washington who have been understanding of this situation, empathetic of this situation, and very helpful to us, as we move forward to try and find some kind of resolution with this particular situation.

Mr. Speaker, while I have a few disagreements obviously that I have just stated, overall that is only one aspect of this important underlying bill that will be presented by this rule. We will be trying to address that agreement at some other time.

Still, the overwhelming majority of this bill is very positive and it does move us forward, and it was a responsible result of a lot of bipartisan work done by all members of this particular subcommittee.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may ascertain.

Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from Utah, my friend Mr. Bishop, for yielding me the time.

Mr. Speaker, I rise today in opposition to this rule, not because of what it allows, but rather because of what it blocks. I am also inclined to oppose the underlying legislation, not because of the process, but rather because of the lack of progress which we have made in the last year in our efforts to protect and improve our environment.

Nearly 1 year ago to the day, I stood on this floor also with the gentleman from Utah when the House considered the fiscal year 2006 Interior, Environment and related agencies appropriations bill. Under that bill, $240 million had been cut from the Clean Water State Revolving Fund. Conservation funding was approximately $750 million below, or less than half of what was promised when Congress passed the Conservation and Restoration Act of 2000, and, overall, EPA’s budget had been cut by $300 million.

Today, the House is being asked to consider an Interior appropriations bill that is even worse. Indeed, this is not by any fault of the Appropriations Committee, but it is the fault of the majority in this body, which has tied our hands in a knot of fiscal irresponsibility.

If this rule passes, the House will be forced to fund Interior’s appropriations bill that not only includes the massive cuts from last year, but actually cuts these programs even more, so that my friends in the major-
Katrina, Rita, Wilma, Florida, etc., happened in New Orleans, lower Louisiana, the warmest 10 years on record from 380 parts per million in just 100 years. That is fast, from 280 parts per million to the last 100 years, we have done that. It is 100 years ago. So almost 10,000 years it took to increase CO₂ into the atmosphere from natural processes 100 points, from 180 parts per million to 280 parts per million 100 years ago. Now, let us fast forward almost 10,000 years. It was 280 parts per million 100 years ago. So almost 10,000 years it took to increase CO₂ into the atmosphere from natural processes 100 points, from 180 parts per million to 280 parts per million 100 years ago.

Now, let us fast forward 100 years to today. It is 380 parts per million. So what in 100 years to increase the last 100 years, we have done that fast, from 280 parts per million to 380 parts per million in just 100 years. What we are saying is that dramatic increase is attributed to human activity burning fossil fuel. That dramatic increase has resulted in glaciers receding dramatically around the planet, the warmest 10 years on record from the 1990s. Hurricanes are getting stronger and more fierce, and all we have to do is look at what happened in New Orleans, lower Louisiana, Katrina, Rita, Wilma, Florida, etc., et cetera, et cetera, because the atmosphere is warming as a result of an increase in CO₂.

The seas, the oceans are warming as a result of increasing CO₂ into the atmosphere that is directly attributed to fossil fuel burning by human activity. The polar ice cap is melting. In the last 20, 25 years it has decreased in volume by 40 percent. Twenty years ago, the amount of water running off the ice caps of Greenland was 20 cubic miles a year. Now it is 53 cubic miles a year flowing off Greenland. If Greenland’s ice cap melts, that is a 23-feet sea level rise, try to imagine that, depending on where you live. Human activity, the burning of fossil fuel, is increasing CO₂, and so the idea that we should have a sense of Congress that this is an observable problem and we should take a look at it is only reasonable. The U.S. is losing competitiveness, economic opportunities for advanced technologies unless we move forward with this, I support the underlying rule.

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to my good friend and fellow member on the Rules Committee, the gentlemen from Massachusetts (Mr. MCGOVERN). Mr. MCGOVERN. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentlemen for yielding me time.

Mr. Speaker, I want to say to the gentleman from Maryland who just spoke that I agree with almost everything he said, except when he said that he was going to vote for the underlying rule, because the rule specifically does not protect the global warming language. So I do not know how the gentleman can feel about the one hand very passionately about doing something about global warming and having us look into the issue, and on the other hand go ahead and vote for a rule that will allow anybody on this floor to strike it.

Mr. Speaker, it has been nearly a year since we considered the Interior appropriation, the last Interior appropriations bill. One year ago I joined with my colleagues in voicing my outrage at the inadequate funding levels for critical environmental and conservation programs, and last year, like this year, we were told that because of the budget allocation this was the best that we could do, we will try to do better next year. So here we are today in the wake of having the Republican leadership ram through a martial law rule in order to take up a budget resolution that just like last year’s version slashes programs in areas of education, job training, conservation, public health and medical research and social services. Another year has gone by, but it is still the same old story. And so I rise today, sadly, in opposition to the fiscal year 2007 Interior Appropriations bill. This bill is an assault against our environment and it should be defeated.

Once again, it significantly cuts funding for the Land and Water Conservation Fund and completely eliminates the Stateside Grant Program. That is right, zero dollars for the Stateside Land and Water Conservation Program. I am simply not interested in hearing the same old argument that this is simply the best we can do given the budget constraints. The budget allocation does not just fall from the sky, this Congress voted on the budget yesterday. The Republican majority chose to slash environmental programs. The Republican majority chose to eliminate the State grants for the Land and Water Conservation Fund. The Republican majority chose to pass a budget that requires a completely inadequate allocation for the Department of Interior and environmental programs.

Mr. Speaker, we have the results of those choices before us today. We could have done better. We could have chosen to move away from the deliberate policy of curtailing the privileges of millionaires ahead of the needs of our communities and families. Since 1964, LWCF funding has been used to support the acquisition and maintenance of our national wildlife refuges, parks, forests and public domain lands, and the stateside program has helped to preserve open space, slow urban sprawl and given our children safe places to play. This program has broad bipartisan support, and success stories can be found in every single State and every single community throughout this country. In fact, this year I joined with my colleagues from New York (Mr. KING) and New Jersey (Mr. HOLT) in urging the committee to provide money for the Land and Water Conservation Fund to the Stateside Grant Program. One hundred fifty Members shared this concern and signed on to a bipartisan letter.

Mr. Speaker, it is all about priorities: Tax breaks for the wealthy few or open space and environmental protections for the majority of Americans. I commend Mr. TAYLOR and Mr. DICKS for the good in this bill, but the good is not enough to outweigh the bad. The Republican majority in this House have made their choices. It is the wrong choice. I urge my colleagues to hold true to their promise to the American people and reject this bill. We must do better.
Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Washington (Mr. Dicks), my good friend, the ranking member of the relevant subcommittee.

Mr. DICKS. Mr. Speaker, I appreciate the gentlemen from Florida for yielding me time.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to this rule for the consideration of H.R. 5386, the fiscal year 2007 Interior and Environmental appropriations bill.

The provision I sought for, section 425 of the bill, results from an amendment I successfully offered in the Appropriations Committee that simply expresses the sense of the Congress that global climate change is in part due to human activity. I think that is pretty self-evident.

The provision also stated that this reality of climate change may result in a comprehensive and mandatory program to reduce the impact of human activity on global warming.

Let me repeat. The provision was nonbinding. The provision would have resulted in no change in spending by the agencies funded by the Interior and Environmental Appropriations Subcommittee. This provision authorizes nothing. In fact, it was the same language that the other body adopted last year during consideration of the energy bill that was dropped during conference.

I still think it is important that the House go on record as acknowledging the reality of climate change. At least the House appropriations Committee accepted would my amendment I offered and the Appropriations Committee chose not to protect the Environment and Public Works Committee that seeks to correct this problem.

So now we have a problem. The appropriations bills are not supposed to move forward until we have a budget resolution passed by both chambers in place. So what do our friends on the majority side of the aisle decide to do? They use this rule to deem as passed the budget resolution which they have regarded the budget pushed by the minority party as being extreme, and it is something that they don't want to take home to their constituents.

Last night, in a very interesting kabuki dance, the majority party managed to finally find the votes some more than a month late to pass their budget resolution in this House. But it still has not been passed by the Senate, and I think objective observers feel it is not likely to ever pass the Senate.

So now we have a problem. The appropriations bills are not supposed to move forward until we have a budget resolution passed by both chambers in place. So what do our friends on the majority side of the aisle decide to do? They use this rule to deem as passed the budget resolution which they have not been able to pass. In other words, the rule says "Let us pretend that in spite of the fact that the Congress hasn't passed its budget, it has." That is what we are doing.

And so I think that is reason enough to vote against this bill and this rule. Unless, of course, you think it is right to provide $40 billion in tax cuts to people who make over $1 million a year, while at the same time we are cutting needed domestic programs such as education, health care, science, and environmental protection by $13 billion below the current service level. Unless you think, of course, that it is perfectly justifiable to cut the clean water revolving fund by 50 percent, as this bill will do, at the same time that you allow a very big cut of $28 billion in tax cuts to people in this country who make over $400,000 a year $64 billion in tax cuts.

million a year will get a tax cut well over $100,000.

If you make $42,000 a year, the tax break that you are going to get in the bill that the majority passed last week is about 80 cents a week; but if you make $1 million, your tax cut is going to be $85,000, as the entire salary of that person who made $42,000. I don’t think that is the kind of budget that I want to take home to my constituents.

So I would say the underlying bill itself, with what it does to the clean water revolving fund, the way it shreds land acquisition programs, the way it hems in EPA’s ability to enforce the law against polluters, it is bad enough to vote against as is. But when you add to it this “Let’s Pretend” fiction that the House has passed a budget which it hasn’t passed, it therefore becomes an endorsement of that budget. I don’t think the American people want that budget. I certainly don’t want that budget. I intend to vote no.

Mr. BISHOP of Utah. Mr. Speaker, I am going to reserve.

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I am very pleased at this time to yield to my good friend from West Virginia. Mr. RAHALL. I thank the distinguished gentleman from Florida for yielding me the time.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to this rule and in support of the amendment that the Senate tacked on at conference. I am a co-sponsor of the Abandoned Mine Reclamation Act.

In regard to the Abandoned Mine Reclamation Act, I have expressed the need for an expended balance in the AML trust fund approaching $2 billion, and it is my hope that in conference this particular appropriation will be increased.

With respect to the Office of Surface Mining, I would observe that just yesterday, the President intends to nominate John R. Correll to serve as the agency’s director. I have not met the gentleman, and I look forward to doing so. But what immediately catches the eye is that, since 2002, Mr. Correll served as the deputy assistant secretary of labor and health administration. Mr. Correll to serve as the agency’s director. I have not met the gentleman, and I intend to yield.

Mr. BISHOP of Utah. Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to yield 5 minutes to the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. PETERSON) to try to correct an inaccuracy that was stated a little bit earlier.

Mr. PETERSON of Pennsylvania. I thank the gentleman for yielding, and I rise to support the rule. I would like to commend the committee and staff for good work in tough times.

Mr. Speaker, I think this House better get used to tough budgets if we are going to get a handle on the Federal deficit. We are not going to have a lot of surprises, we are going to have to pay attention to the budgets and appropriations bills that leave us all a little painful because it is important that we get a handle on the fiscal affairs of this country.

In this bill there is a provision that was mentioned by the gentleman from Florida that removes the congressional moratorium for producing energy on the outer continental shelf. Now, why would I propose that in the committee? I am pleased to tell you why.

The industries of this country that provide the very best jobs we have left in America are being made non-competitive and have been non-competitive for several years because of high natural gas prices. Five years ago the average price of natural gas in America averaged $2. Last year, the average price was $9.50. You don’t have to be very good in math to know that was a huge, huge increase. If it was gasolene at the pump, it would be $7 gasoline to fill our cars.

This is preventing Americans from being warm in their homes, it is preventing Americans from being warm in their businesses. I was at a lot of businesses where it was 60 degrees and they were wearing jackets in their retail businesses. America cannot afford to be warm with energy prices increasing that fast.

Businesses, the petro-chemical industry, 55 percent of their cost is natural gas both as an ingredient and a fuel. Fertilizer, as high as 70 percent to make nitrogen fertilizer, the cost of natural gas. The steel industry, the aluminum industry, the glass industry, the brick industry will not remain in America unless we provide affordable natural gas.

Now, here is the tragedy. What people don’t realize, when we pay $75 for oil, the whole world does. When we paid...
Energy can make a company non-competitive overnight because of the use of energy. This government is the reason we are in trouble. We expanded the use of natural gas 10 or 12 years ago before I got here to make electricity. Now a huge amount of our natural gas makes electricity, close to 20 percent. We did not open up supply. We are the only country in the world that has locked up the Outer Continental Shelf. I had a visitor from the U.K. yesterday. He said, Why do you people not produce in the OCS? Everybody does. Canada does right off the coast of Maine. We have the coast of Washington. Canada has been drilling for gas in Lake Erie since 1913 and selling the gas to us currently because we buy 17 percent of our gas this year from Canada.

Natural gas we are rich with. We have chosen to lock it up, and caused our homeowners to pay double and triple heating costs, our small businesses to become nonprofitable, and our large corporations to literally move away. We have lost several million jobs already because of energy costs, and we are going to lose millions more.

What I am going to tell you is it will not be the America we grew up in with lots of opportunity. The America we are going to leave is an America that decided to starve itself on the cleanest fuel known to man, the cleanest fossil fuel. Natural gas is the least polluting fuel, and those who today were talking about CO$_2$ and global warming, it produces much less CO$_2$ than all the other fossil fuels.

So, if we had the price down, it can become a major player in our transportation system. Not 5 years down the road, tomorrow. Every gasoline engine can run on natural gas. Our buses, our short-haul trains, our construction vehicles could all be on natural gas with a modest change. Natural gas can be the bridge to all the alternatives that are slowly moving forward. It can quadruple the savings that we can do with CAPE, and I am probably going to support that this time, but it is an immediate thing. Natural gas is what can keep America competitive until we get a handle on the other energies that can replace oil. I urge you to not remove the moratorium. It does threaten our coastline. We still have a presidential moratorium. We still have a 5-year plan that takes 2 years to implement and it is not the end of that. It is the first step in saying we are going to deal with natural gas and energy in this country.

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I would urge my colleague from Pennsylvania to understand that tourism is the major industry in Florida, and offshore gas drilling is nothing but the nose under the tent. There is no such thing as just gas drilling, and I do not have enough time. If you could get some time from Mr. Bishop, I would be happy to engage you ad nauseam on this subject, but when Mr. Peterson says that it is not going to be environmentally harmful, offshore gas drilling routinely dumps into the ocean spent drilling muds containing vast quantities of mercury and other toxins, contaminated produced waters that often contain radium and other dangerous substances, and additional harmful marine discharges that include benzene, toluene, lead and zinc.

Maybe Pennsylvania does not have the tourist industry that we do because that is right, you do not have an offshore. We do in Florida, and we are going to protect it.

Mr. Speaker, I am very pleased to yield 2 minutes to the distinguished gentlewoman from New York (Ms. CARSON), my good friend.

Ms. CARSON. Mr. Speaker, certainly I am very grateful to my dear friend from the State of Florida (Mr. HASTINGS).

Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to this rule, which does not protect the language added in committee regarding global climate change.

Global climate change is one of the most serious environmental threats of our time. Yet, this House has failed repeatedly to act on this issue or even acknowledge the bleak outlook voiced by many scientists.

Global temperatures are rising. This fact is indisputable. As we speak, sea levels are rising, glaciers are melting, and polar bears are drowning in the Arctic. There is a growing scientific consensus that human activities, primarily the burning of fossil fuels, have contributed to greenhouse gas accumulation in the atmosphere.

The effects of global warming are devastating. Approximately 160,000 people die each year from the side effects of global warming that range from malaria to malnutrition to heat exhaustion in our seniors. If temperatures continue to rise, coastal flooding and drought could occur, and the intensity of hurricanes could increase.

In my neighborhood in Indianapolis, Indiana, we have finally got the EPA to look at the fact that it is the environment that is snatching away people's lives prematurely.

Mr. Speaker, I yield the balance of my time to the distinguished gentleman from New York (Mr. MALONEY).

Mr. MALONEY. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding and for his outstanding work on this issue and so many others.

I rise in strong opposition to this rule that in this rule the Appropriations Committee failed to report out important amendments that were approved by the Appropriations Committee, including the important Dicks-Obey language expressing the need to address global climate change. Why in the world can you not include that important issue in this bill?

This bill is woefully underfunded at $800 million below the level needed to maintain current services, and I must say that a very important amendment that would save taxpayers money, the Hinchey amendment, was not included, although the committee supported it. His amendment would suspend the royalty relief program and authorize the Secretary of the Interior to renegotiate existing leases.

This would save taxpayers dollars. It would save dollars in our Treasury. Right now, in New York and L.A. and across this country, a gallon of gas costs more than $3, while the oil and gas companies continue to make record profits. All of this is happening while the taxpayers are losing out in billions of dollars in royalty payments from oil and gas taken from land owned by the American people.

Earlier this year, the New York Times reported that the Federal Government will lose at least $7 billion over the next 5 years in underelected royalty payments. Why in the world will the majority not correct this problem that would save taxpayers money, the Hinchey amendment, was not included, although the committee supported it. Yet, they would not include it and the underpayment continues, and that money rightfully belongs to the American people.

We are talking about oil and gas extracted from land owned by the American people with rip-off leases to the oil and gas companies where they are reporting record profits. What is wrong with having those leases negotiated to express fair market value so that the taxpayers and the Federal Government can have that money for the services that the people need?
It is a really terrible rule. They did not even include amendments that were passed out by the Appropriations Committee. Please vote "no."

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself the remaining time.

Mr. Speaker, I will be calling for a "no" vote on the previous question. If the previous question is defeated, I will amend the rule so we can consider Mr. OBEY's amendment to restore vital funding to the Interior appropriations bill, the same that was rejected in the Rules Committee last night on a straight party-line vote.

I ask unanimous consent to insert the text of the amendment and extraneous materials immediately prior to the vote.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Florida?

There was no objection.

Mr. BISHOP of Utah. Mr. Speaker, the Interior appropriations bill is currently funded at $145 million below the fiscal year 2006 level and $800 million below the level that is needed just to maintain current services. These shortfalls will negatively impact our national parks and forests, critical environmental and conservation programs, clean water programs, and services for Native Americans.

Mr. Speaker, the Oney amendment would restore $800 million to the bill to ensure that these vital programs and services are able to continue at current levels, and that amendment is fully paid for by reducing the tax break given to those fortunate individuals among us with incomes more than $1 million annually. Their generous tax savings, which average $114,000, would be reduced by $2,000, certainly a small sacrifice to maintain these essential programs and services.

I want to assure my colleagues that a "no" vote will not prevent us from considering the Interior appropriations bill under an open rule, but a "no" vote will allow Members to vote on Representative Oney's amendment. However, a "yes" vote will block consideration of this amendment to restore severe funding shortfalls in this bill.

Vote "no" on the previous question.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. BISHOP of Utah. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I find these opportunities exhilarating to say the least. There are a couple of things that I would like to point out.

We have spent a great deal of time talking about one of the provisions that is in this bill that deals with the drilling of natural gas, which is far different than the drilling of oil would be. It seems in Congress sometimes that we talk so much about the problem of heating our winter. We appropriate billions of dollars for the LIHEAP program so that Federal money can go directly through an individual over to the utility companies, when it would seem logical or at least rational to try to explore in some way a way of increasing the availability so that all people have to pay less for heat for their homes in the winter, and that instead of trying to subsidize the poor, we began digging for its root.

It is difficult to sometimes be here and have people criticize the lack of natural energy, wanting to consume more without producing more, at the same time being critical of any efforts to actually increase our consumption possibility. Not only is this an issue that hits individuals in trying to heat their homes, but it also hits businesses, much of which runs on natural gas.

I have farmers in my constituency that cannot fertilize this year because there is not enough fertilizer being produced and because natural gas becomes a critical element in its production and its distribution form. Industries are not being able to operate because of that.

I do, though, want to thank Mr. HASTINGS for the very end talking about increasing fund because this is, after all, a funding bill. I do want to also talk about two issues that were raised in defense of the bill and defense of the position by the Rules Committee.

Section 2 of the resolution says that it is essential to allow the House to have the so-called deeming resolution, which means we deemed the budget resolution which was passed by the House last month to be in force and effect until we can get a conference report. It is essential to move that forward if there is to be any kind of parameters and discussion over the debate. If we do reject this rule and subsequent rules on appropriations items which do that, we simply have the net effect of this body of postponing any rational discussion in a logical and determined way of any of the appropriations items.

Mr. Speaker, this is a good rule. This is a good rule because it follows the rules, it defends the process that we have, and it moves us forward in the debate. I feel comfortable with that. I feel comfortable with much of the actual appropriations in this particular bill.

I did have times when I was given a kind of start. As an old teacher, every time they said the word education my ears perked up, because I was wondering where education fits into this bill. And then I realized we are debating a whole lot of other issues not necessarily related to this appropriations process.

I do want to say something that is extremely personal to me as it deals with potential taxes. The last time my party did not control the House and the Senate and the President, the solution to our budget situation was the largest tax increase in the history of this country, and it started out with the concept of taxing the rich. I was a school teacher. My taxes increased at a greater percentage and with a greater dollar amount than ever in my lifetime. My wife had just taken a part-time job that year. Everything she made in that part-time job went to pay for the tax increase, supposedly on the rich.

I guess I should be grateful to the Congress that at that time, as a school teacher, I was labeled as one of the rich in this country. But that was the reality. And if indeed we never go back to those days again, I will be grateful and I will be happy.

Mr. Speaker, this is a good rule. This is a good rule. It will be talked about at 6 tomorrow, an amendment will be amended in appropriate ways as time goes on, but it is still a good bill and I urge the adoption of the rule.
The material previously referred to by Mr. Hastings of Florida is as follows:

PREVIOUS QUESTION FOR H. RES. 818—RULE FOR H.R. 5386 THE INTERIOR, ENVIRONMENT, AND RELATED AGENCIES APPROPRIATIONS FOR F.Y.2007.

At the end of the resolution, add the following new sections:

'Sec. 3. Notwithstanding any other provision of this resolution, the amendment printed in section 4 shall be in order without intervention of any point of order and before any other amendment if offered by Representative Obey of Wisconsin or a designee. The amendment is not subject to amendment except for pro forma amendments or to a demand for a division of the question in the committee of the whole or in the House.'

At the end of the bill (before the short title), insert the following:

TITL E VI—ENHANCED APPROPRIATIONS FOR CONSERVATION, RECREATION, AND UNITED STATES FISH AND WILDLIFE SERVICE, AND NATIVE AMERICANS

Sec. 601. In addition to the amounts otherwise made available by this Act, the following amounts, to remain available until expended, are appropriated:

(1) $300,000,000 for clean air and water programs administered by the Environmental Protection Agency as follows:

(a) $250,000,000 for the Clean Water State Revolving Fund, as authorized by title VI of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act.

(b) $50,000,000 for clean diesel and homeland security programs, as requested in the President’s budget.

(2) $300,000,000 for protection of Federal lands, including removal of backlogs within the National Park Service, the Department of the Interior and the United States Forest Service as follows:

(A) $100,000,000 to address maintenance backlogs within the national parks, refuges, forests, and other lands of the United States.

(B) 150,000,000 for acquisition and preservation of priority lands within the national parks, refuges, and forests when such lands are threatened by development activities that could restrict access to such lands in the future by the American people.

(C) 50,000,000 to address staffing shortages for visitor services at national parks and national wildlife refuges.

(3) $30,000,000 for grants to States administered by the National Park Service for support of conservation and recreation programs within the States.

(4) $20,000,000 for the State and Tribal Wildlife Grants program administered by the United States Fish and Wildlife Service.

(5) $50,000,000 for “Payments in Lieu of Taxes” as administered by the Secretary of the Treasury and as authorized by sections 6901 through 6907 of title 31, United States Code.

(6) $50,000,000 for “Indian Health Services for support of expanded clinical health services to Native Americans.”

(7) $50,000,000 for “Bureau of Indian Affairs—Operation of Indian Programs” for support of educational services to Native Americans.

Sec. 602. In the case of taxpayers with income in excess of $1,000,000, for calendar year 2007, to be determined by using the maximum tax reduction resulting from the enactment of Public Laws 107–16, 108–27, and 108–311 shall be reduced by 1.94 percent.

The Vote on the Previous Question: What It Really Means

This vote, the vote on whether to order the previous question on a special rule, is not merely a procedural vote. A vote against ordering the previous question is a vote against the Republican majority agenda and a vote to allow the opposition, at least for the moment, to offer an alternative plan. It is a vote about what the House should be debating.

Mr. Clarence Cannon’s Precedents of the House, (VI, 308–311) describes the vote on the previous question on the rule as “a motion to direct or control the consideration of the majority before the House, being made by the Member in charge.” To defeat the previous question is to give the opposition a chance to decide the subject before the House, the Speaker’s ruling of January 13, 1920, to the effect that “the refusal of the House to sustain the demand for the previous question passes the control of the resolution to the opposition” in order to offer an amendment. On March 15, 1969, a member of the majority party offered the previous question and a member of the opposition rose to a parliamentary inquiry, asking who was entitled to recognition. Speaker Joseph G. Cannon (Illinois) said: “The previous question having been refused, the gentleman from New York, Mr. Fitzgerald, I asked the gentleman to yield to him for an amendment, is entitled to the first recognition.”

Because the vote today may look bad for the Republican majority, they will say they “voted on the previous question is simply a vote on whether to proceed to an immediate vote on adopting the resolution * * * [and] has no substantive legislative or policy implications whatsoever.” But that is not what they have always said. Listen to the Republican leadership on the Legislative Process in the United States House of Representatives, (6th edition, page 135). Here’s how the Republicans describe the previous question in their text: “Although it is generally not possible to amend the rule because the majority Member controlling the time will not yield for the purpose of offering an amendment, the same result may be achieved by voting down the previous question on the rule * * * When the motion for the previous question is defeated, control of the time passes to the Member who led the opposition to ordering the previous question. That Member, because he then controls the time, may offer an amendment to the rule, or yield for the purpose of amending.”

Deschler’s Procedure in the U.S. House of Representatives, the chapter titled “Amending Special Rules” states: “a refusal to order the previous question on such a rule [a special rule reported from the Committee on Rules] opens the time to amendment and further debate.” (Chapter 21, section 21.2 Section 21.3 continues: Upon rejection of the motion for the previous question a resolution reported from the Committee on Rules, control shifts to the Member leading the opposition to the previous question, who may offer a proper amendment or motion and who controls the time for debate thereon.”

Clearly, the vote on the previous question on a rule does have substantive policy implications. It is one of the only available tools for those who oppose the Republican majority’s agenda to offer an alternative plan.

Mr. BISHOP of Utah. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time, and, with gentle persuasion that are made at this point, I move the previous question on the resolution.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on ordering the previous question.

The question was taken; and the Speaker pro tempore announced that the ayes appeared to have it.
The question was taken; and the Speaker pro tempore announced that the noes appeared to have it.

RECORDED VOTE

Ms. SLAUGHTER. Mr. Speaker, I demand a recorded vote.

A recorded vote was ordered.

The vote was taken by electronic device, and it appeared—ayes 228, noes 192, not voting 22, as follows:

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD—HOUSE

May 18, 2006

RECORDED VOTE

Mr. BRADY of Pennsylvania, Ms. DEGETTE, Mr. HINCHey, Ms. BALLWIN and Messrs. THOMPSON of Mississippi, HOLT, and JACKSON of Illinois changed their vote from "yea" to "nay."

So the previous question was ordered. The result of the vote was announced as above recorded.

Stated against: Mr. HINOJOSA. Mr. Speaker, on rollcall No. 160, had I been present, I would have voted "nay."

While we appreciate input from the administration each year, we have made some significant changes to the request, including restoring funds for Johnson O’Malley Education Grants in the Bureau of Indian Affairs; restoring funds for the operations of 32 urban Indian health clinics; restoring funds for PILT; restoring funds for Superfund remediation and environmental education, and research in EPA; restoring funds for forest health and forest road maintenance; and restoring funds for National Heritage Areas and for U.S. Geological Survey mineral assessments.

We have provided significant increases to support the operations of our national parks and the Indian Health Service, and we fully fund the National Fire Plan.

One area that deserves particular mention, in which we have supported the administration’s budget proposal, is the energy area. In the Bureau of Land Management, there are significant increases that will enable us to expedite the permitting of on-shore oil and gas exploration and development on Federal lands. In EPA, we were unable to provide all the requested increases that were associated with the Energy Policy Act of 2005, but we have provided significant increases, including $26 million for the National Clean Diesel Initiative.

This committee, and this member in particular, soundly rejects the administration’s proposal to sell National Forest lands throughout the country, and we think this will not be happening.

We have eliminated Stateside Land and Water Grants, the Forest Service Economic Action Program, the BLM Rural Fire Program, and the Asia Pacific Partnership in EPA.

This is a responsible bill that is focused on protecting Federal lands, Indian programs, environmental programs, cultural programs, and other programs under the committee’s jurisdiction. I urge you to support this bill.

The Ways and Means Committee has recommended that we make a technical change in the appropriations language for the Leaking Underground Storage Tank program in EPA, and we will do that in the final conference agreement.

Mr. Chairman, I include for the RECORD a table detailing the various accounts in the bill. I want to thank our staff, and my colleague, Mr. DICKS, and his staff for the fine work that they have done in preparing the bill and the cooperation they have shown.

Mr. DICKS. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, at the outset, I want to thank Interior Subcommittee Chairman CHARLES TAYLOR and his staff for the fairness with which the minority has been treated in the development of this bill. We have been consulted throughout the process. As a result, the bill reflects our input in a number of places.

From a process point of view, this bill reflects how the majority and minority should work together to produce legislation. Unfortunately, as Chairman TAYLOR and I have discussed throughout the year, a fair process cannot produce a good bill when the Interior Subcommittee is given an inadequate allocation. What we were given to work with for 2007 is, once again, inadequate.

The $25.9 billion allowed by the full Appropriations Committee for Interior and environment programs is substantially below the enacted level at the FY 2006 enacted level. This is roughly $800 million below the level necessary to maintain current services for the programs funded by the Interior Subcommittee.

The bill in which our parks, refuges and forests are again to be squeezed to cover fixed costs. It means funding for clean water and clean air programs at the EPA are going to be substantially reduced. It means critical new investments requested by the President in areas like homeland security and diesel emissions reductions are dramatically reduced or in some cases not funded at all. Assistance to our States with their environment and conservation programs is dramatically reduced.

It means the very real problem of global warming will not be adequately addressed. And I assume that when consideration of the bill is completed, the provision approved by the Appropriations Committee acknowledging the existence of global climate change and the human involvement in that change will no longer be part of it. I will talk about my disappointment over that later.

I won’t go through all the numbers today, but I think it is important that Members are aware of some of the most troubling recommendations. Despite facility maintenance backlogs of at least $15 billion in our parks, refuges and forests, funding for construction projects throughout the bill are cut by $216 million below last year and more than $400 million below the level in 2001. There is no funding at all for new schools on Indian reservations. Park Service construction is cut by $100 million.

In most cases, this bill has only been able to fund 70 percent of the increases mandated by law for Federal pay and for other fixed costs. As our recent GAO report on the parks made clear, the inevitable will mean cutbacks in staff and cutbacks in visitor services for people who visit our parks, refuges and other Federal facilities. Staffing in our wildlife refuges has been cut by more than 700 FTEs over the past 5 years.

Funding for the Clean Water Revolving Fund is cut by another $200 million below the 2006 level. Over the last 3 years, the Clean Water Program, which EPA cites as one of its most effective, has been reduced by $662 million, or nearly 50 percent. This means that essential infrastructure repairs for this country’s aging water infrastructure will not be made. The local water and sewer rates will increase as communities pick up the Federal share of these costs.

Other State grant programs broadly supported in the House are cut below the current rate. This includes a $14 million cut in PILT, as well as a significant reduction in State Wildlife grants and the North American Wetlands programs. Statewide Conservation grants are completely eliminated. It means the danger to our capacity to conserve the wilderness and other public lands programs. Stateside Conservation programs have been reduced by more than $750 million.

Funding for Federal land acquisition and to help pay open spaces is cut by $38 million in this bill and by more than $400 million since 2001. Funding in this area has been cut by more than 80 percent in the last 4 years. These are not vast stretches of new land for the Federal Government to manage. Unfunded acquisitions include smaller parcels in iconic parks such as Valley Forge, Grand Teton, and Acadia. These purchases are the highest priorities of the Bush administration and are ready to go in 2007 if we had funding.

I want to express my strong support for the cuts totaling $20 million to the Smithsonian contained in this bill, which Chairman TAYLOR and I believe is the best way for the Interior Subcommittee to express our extreme displeasure with recent actions taken by the Smithsonian. This situation involves the recently negotiated commercial venetian blind contract, the details of which have been kept from Congress by the Smithsonian.

Mr. Chairman, I hope we can improve the bill as it moves forward, but this is not a bill in my opinion which adequately addresses our country’s needs. Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. TAYLOR of North Carolina. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Oklahoma (Mr. COLE).

Mr. COLE of Oklahoma. Mr. Chairman, I rise in support of H.R. 5386, the Department of Interior Appropriations bill for fiscal year 2007.

Mr. Chairman, I commend the distinguished chairman, Mr. TAYLOR, and his committee for including funding in the Indian Health Service facilities budget for joint venture projects. I believe that the Service should take advantage of opportunities like the joint venture program to leverage tribal dollars with Federal dollars.

In my State of Oklahoma, I am pleased to note that the Chickasaw Nation, the largest tribe with a reservation in Oklahoma, has pledged an unprecedented $135,000 million in tribal funds to design, construct, and equip a new state-of-the-art medical center to meet the needs of its people, its community, and neighboring tribes.

Congress and the Indian Health Service should look favorably upon tribes willing and able to make those investments back into their community and provide the necessary supplemental resources.

That said, Mr. Chairman, I urge the support of H.R. 5386.

Mr. DICKS. Mr. Chairman, I yield 3 minutes to the gentlewoman from California (Ms. WOOLSEY).

Ms. WOOLSEY. Mr. Chairman, the majority party believes that if we just keep drilling for more gas and oil then our energy crisis will be over. Unfortunately, they are not looking for a solution to our energy crisis and a solution to our rising gas prices. They are just looking short term for false security solutions like oil and gas exploration in our national parks and marine sanctuaries. As a result, they are not looking for a solution to our energy crisis that will keep drilling for more gas and oil then our energy crisis will be over.

Mr. Chairman, I am fortunate to represent in Marin and Sonoma Counties north of San Francisco, across the Golden Gate Bridge, do understand. They get it. The coast of my district is one of the most biologically productive regions in the world. This coast should look like that. It would be threatened, threatened by oil and gas exploration if this bill passes as is.

For this reason, I have introduced a bill to extend the Gulf of the Farallones and Cordell Bank National Marine Sanctuaries along the entire coastline of Sonoma to protect it from offshore drilling threats.

The coastal communities in my district rely on tourism and fishing, industries that would be severely hurt if offshore drilling was permitted. If you were to visit this beautiful stretch of coast you would understand why, and you would know that we must protect it.
Mr. Chairman, the people who live in my district strongly oppose offshore drilling. They understand that we need an energy policy that focuses on investments in energy efficiency and renewable energy sources, not on oil rigs and the endless depletion of our natural resources.

Mr. Chairman, I urge my colleagues to join me in supporting the Capps-Davis amendment.

Mr. TAYLOR of North Carolina. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentlemen from Florida (Mr. MARIO DIAZ-BALART).

Mr. MARIO DIAZ-BALART of Florida. Mr. Chairman, first I want to thank the chairman for the incredible job that he has done on this bill. It is one of the toughest pieces of legislation that come before us every year, and he has done an incredible job. His staff is always willing to listen to all of us and put up with all of us, I thank them as well, and they know who I am referring to.

But I do need to say, Mr. Chairman, that there was an amendment put on during this process that I think would have, could have a devastating effect on the State of Florida, and that it would potentially allow for the drilling of natural gas, potentially up to just 3 miles off the coast of Florida.

And I do not need to remind everybody how important tourism is for the economy of Florida, $57 billion to the economy. We depend on that environment being pristine. There is a consensus in Florida, among the people in Florida and just about all of the elected officials of Florida, that this could be devastating for the State of Florida.

There will be an amendment by Mr. PUTNAM and others to try to remedy that. I will support that. I want to thank the chairman and staff again for always listening to us, and we hope that the great will could be improved by taking out that part that can be very devastating to Florida.

Mr. DICKS. Mr. Chairman, I yield 4 minutes to the gentlemen from Florida (Mr. DAVIS).

Mr. DAVIS of Florida. Mr. Chairman, I would like to further elaborate on the drilling issue that has been discussed by the last two speakers, Democrat and Republican.

Mr. Chairman, since 1981, this Congress has included language in this Interior spending bill that says that we draw a line as far as the extent to which we are willing to risk oil spills off the coast of Florida and off the coast of the United States in return for drilling. It has been a matter of balance.

This bill today contains a provision that repeals this language, that has been there since 1981 and, as was mentioned earlier, will allow the possibility of large oil gas and as close as 3 miles off the east coast of Florida and 9 miles off the west coast of Florida, my home.

The risk of a spill to the State of Florida is devastating, and to be perfectly honest, it is entirely uncertain to all of us what the risk is. But it is a risk that we do not want to accept in Florida, particularly because the quantities are so modest in return as far as what the truth.

Now the language in the bill, which I would like to discuss, is important to point out what it does and what it does not do. It gives the White House the authority to issue leases should it choose to do so right off the coast of Florida.

The language says, it is only for natural gas. But if you look at the record, including the President's own leader in the Department of Interior, he says when you go to drill you get what you get. If you make an investment as a company to drill for gas and you get oil, you are going to take oil. So this is about having an oil spill as well as gas.

Secondly, there has been a representation made of drilling off the coast of Florida and other parts of the United States is going to lower the price at the pump. With respect to Florida, nothing can be further from the truth. The representation is made that if we allow drilling amounts of our cars and trucks to natural gas, then this provision will lower the price at the pump.

The price at the pump is the problem with the price of oil. This provision is not going to help the Nation's needs as far as oil. It could produce enough oil to generate a spill off the coast of Florida, but it is not going to lower the price at the pump.

Let me finally just say, reasonable people can disagree on where this line should be drawn. But the way to do that is through hearings around the country, in the State of Florida. We want to be part of the solution in terms of meeting the Nation's energy needs.

Mr. Chairman, I do not question for a minute the motives behind the sponsor of this bill, but there is a right way and a wrong way to have this debate. The right way is to have an open and honest discussion in the committee, around the country. Come to Florida. Our beaches are not just a State treasure, they are a national treasure.

But the wrong way to do it is this last one, to change a balance that has existed for a very short debate and to simply erase what Congress has had in place for decades throughout other energy crises and subject the State of Florida and other parts of the country to the possibility of an oil spill that could be enormous devastating, not just to our environment, not just to our economy, but to our way of life.

Mr. Chairman, I hope that the Members of Congress will choose to take a responsible approach to this very important issue. This is not just about Florida. It is about coastlines that are pristine in terms of the entire country as well as the rest of the coastline.

Mr. DICKS. Mr. Chairman, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. DAVIS of Florida. I yield to the gentleman from Washington.

Mr. DICKS. Mr. Chairman, I also want to point out that this restriction, which has been in the law since 1981, was also in the President's budget. This was part of the President's budget.

So we are not only overturning this congressional restriction, but we are also doing it in the face of the Bush administration's budget.

Mr. DAVIS of Florida. Mr. Chairman, reclaiming my time. I do not think anybody on the floor of this Congress is going to accuse the President of being bashful about drilling. He does not support this drilling right off the coast of Florida.

Mr. TAYLOR of North Carolina. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentlewoman from Florida (Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN).

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I thank Mr. TAYLOR as well as his excellent colleague Mr. AYOTTE for their remarks.

Mr. Chairman, there is one provision that is very harmful to my home State of Florida. Along with my Florida colleagues, we will be fighting the Peterson language that is attached to this bill which will allow offshore drilling just three miles off of our Nation's coastline.

The Peterson language would overturn a 25-year bipartisan moratorium on such drilling. It is bad for the environment, it is bad for national security, and it is not the answer to our pressing energy needs.

Three miles. That is the distance in which drilling structures could appear off of Florida's shoreline. These structures could blight the coast, damage sensitive habitats, and undermine our State's economic future. Last year alone, 85 million people visited Florida, many to experience the national beauty of our sandy beaches and marine habitats.

Offshore drilling would introduce toxins and pollutants into the ocean environment. The Florida delegation will unite to promote the Putnam amendment later today to strip the Peterson language from the bill.

Mr. Chairman, I am so proud to represent the national treasures of the Florida Keys. The Florida Keys National Marine Sanctuary is home to thousands of plants and animal species as well as the world's third largest living coral reef system. Drilling would threaten the health of this national marine sanctuary and undermine our efforts to foster and restore sensitive areas.

Mr. Chairman, I encourage my colleagues' help in making sure that we can protect Florida's coastline and our Nation's ecosystem by adopting the Putnam amendment and rejecting the Peterson language.

Mr. Chairman, I thank again Chair---
Mr. DICKS. Mr. Chairman, I yield 3 minutes to the gentlemen from Hawaii (Mr. ABERCROMBIE).

(Mr. ABERCROMBIE asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. ABERCROMBIE. Mr. Chairman, it is clear that the principal issue that is going to be before us as we deal with the overall bill is going to be the lifting of the moratorium, the congressional moratorium with respect to drilling in the Outer Continental Shelf. As a supporter of a bill that Mr. PETerson and I hoped to have heard in the Resources Committee that will deal with the issue in a much broader scope, I hope I can bring some level of reality here to what this is all about.

Mr. Chairman, it is the quite true, as has been mentioned by previous speakers who want to see this amendment taken out of the overall bill, that 25 years ago the question of drilling 3 miles off of Florida or California or anywhere was an issue, and the purpose that the moratorium was put in was to prevent that from happening. But that was 25 years ago, and now the issue is up for reconsideration, not to drill 3 miles, but whether there is going to be any drilling at all and whether it should take place and under what circumstances, given what has happened over the past 25 years.

The reason the Peterson amendment is in the overall bill is to give us the opportunity to start that discussion. There will be no drilling off of Florida or anywhere else if we pass this bill. It just gives us the opportunity to begin a discussion as to whether we should re-consider that position and where it should happen. That is what is at issue here, lifting the congressional moratorium. There is still a Presidential moratorium against it; there is still a 5-year moratorium to be implemented. We need to consider whether we want to continue with that particular approach.

So what we are asking for is every Member here to be able to vote his or her own views on whether we can have a discussion on this issue. Our problem, Mr. Chairman, is, particularly for those of us who are Democrats, that we are in the grip of an assault by an environmental Taliban out there that has absolute revealed wisdom as to what is involved with us trying to achieve an independent energy source. This is why I will support the moratorium, the congres-sional moratorium, and I hope that everybody understands this is not a Democratic-Republican issue; this is an American issue about independent energy resources for this Na-tion.

Mr. TAYLOR of North Carolina. Mr. Chairman, I would like to yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. SAXTON).

Mr. SAXTON. First, let me thank the gentleman for yielding. I would like to join Mr. Taylor and Mr. Blumenauer in a colloquy regarding funding for an important conservation project in New Jersey.

Mr. Chairman, the State of New Jersey has only 3 percent of its real estate in Federal land ownership. It is also the most densely populated State in the country, as everyone knows. From national parks to wildlife areas, our in-vestment in conservation, preservation, wildlife and recreation pays tremendous dividends every day. The coastal areas of our Nation are under extreme pressure from development.

The areas surrounding the Edwin B. Forsythe National Wildlife Refuge is no exception. It is vital that we assist our State and local governments in true Federal/State/local partnerships to purchase tracts of land like the ones surrounding the Forsythe refuge boundary, environmentally valuable land that would provide wildlife habitats that most likely will be lost permanently for public use in the very near future because of development.

I appreciate the challenges that the subcommittee faced in this very difficult budget year. However, I am also hopeful that, Mr. Chairman, you will recognize the importance of this project. We have a responsibility to our children to ensure that green spaces remain. To provide recreation by land and water, and ample opportunities to enjoy wildlife and the great outdoors.

Mr. TAYLOR of North Carolina. I thank my colleague from New Jersey for bringing this important project to our attention. I believe increased attention to consider this funding need should be also additional funds become available in con-ference.

Mr. DICKS. Mr. Chairman, I yield 3 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from Oregon (Mr. BLUMENAUER).

Mr. BLUMENAUER. I appreciate the gentleman’s courtesy in permitting me to speak on this bill, which should be one of the highlights of this congressional session, of any congressional session, as it touches on things that are dear and near to the hearts of the people we represent: clean air, vast expanses of the environment’s protection, investment in the arts, and the public lands that are so meaningful to people.

Mr. Chairman, there are important provisions in this bill that I do support. I appreciate the subcommittee funding for land acquisition in the Henry River Gorge which will help us honor Federal commitments to communities in Oregon and Washington along a priceless national treasure. But, sadly, overall what should be a positive expres-sion of our values, our hopes, and opportunities instead is a pattern of broken promises to our communities. It does represent a lost opportunity and is a symbol of the inability of those of us in Congress this year and the Administration to live up to our commitments with those of our constituents and, most importantly, for the future.

I appreciate the fact that there is a funding allocation in the Interior Appropriations Subcommittee, putting them in the hole from the beginning. I appreciate the funding for land acquisition has been increased over the President’s budget. But there is no reason for the billions within the trust fund for the land and water conservation fund for that express purpose should not be used for those purposes.

Without the funding, communities will lose opportunities to purchase eco-logically rich lands and waters, pre-serving and protecting recreation and conservation and historic values.

Remember the commitment that was made on this floor in the year 2000. I appreciate the leadership that Mr. DICKS exhibited with the committee working with Mr. YOUNG and Mr. MILLER in the CARA legislation, which passed overwhelmingly in the House, both chambers by a 400-to-1 vote. It does represent a lost opportunity that that commitment that was made to realize the over-whelming sense of what needs to happen in this body with CARA is being violated with this legislation today.

I hope that we will be able to, before we finish deliberations and move it through this session, go back and re-visit it, because that commitment was made in good faith. I appreciate the progress of the gentleman from Washing-ton together with Mr. YOUNG and Mr. MILLER. Mr. OBEN I see here. We should not be violating that commitment.

I hope that the Speaker, I do hope that we can focus more attention and have a healthy discussion on that in the course of these deliberations.

Mr. TAYLOR of North Carolina. Mr. Chairman, I yield 4 minutes to the gentleman from Maryland (Mr. GILCHREST).

Mr. GILCHREST. I thank the gentleman for yielding, and I want to thank the chairman of the Appropriations Committee for his work and the staff on the hard work they have done on this bill. Based on the limited allocation that they have received, I think they did a pretty good job.

Mr. Chairman, I want to speak specifically to the provision in the bill that I support, and I want to thank Mr. Dicks for putting the provision in the bill, and I want to thank the chairman for allowing it to stay in the bill.

Basically, the provision I would like to speak to is the sense of Congress in this bill that deals with the fact that this Congress should pay attention to, work with, and try to understand the increasing amount of carbon dioxide into the atmosphere, and what does that mean.

Carbon dioxide in the atmosphere, while it represents a tiny fraction of 1 percent of the whole atmosphere, is the chief gas that determines the heat balance; it determines the climate. And there is what I would like to say, a scientific consensus that within the last 50 years, human activity burning fossil fuel has put huge amounts of carbon dioxide in the atmosphere, thus debilitating or changing that balance that we have known for a long time.

An example: 10,000 years ago, at the end of the Ice Age, it is calculated through analysis that there was 180 parts per million of carbon dioxide in the atmosphere. It took 10,000 years for that to go up 100 points, 10,000 years. Now, in the last 100, but especially in the last 50 years, it has risen 100 points. So what the natural environment did in 10,000 years, human activity burning fossil fuel has done in less than 100 years.

Now, what does that mean? Does that mean whoever talked about global warming is crying Chicken Little, the sky is falling? Don’t worry about it, nothing will happen? Or does it mean we need to pursue knowledge?

What it means is, that increase in carbon dioxide in less than 100 years that took the natural process 10,000 years to produce, this U.S. Congress, this government should pay attention to that issue. And the sense of Congress contained in this legislation should remain in this legislation.

I yield to the gentleman from Washington.

Mr. DICKS. I want to commend the gentleman on his statement. This is not an issue that should be partisan in any way. We have had six former EPA administrators in both parties say that this is the issue of our time. A former President, former Vice President of the United States, Al Gore, has made a national issue out of this. I would like the gentleman to repeat what he said about Greenland. I thought that was very dramatic. I would appreciate it. I think we have more Members now. If you would repeat that, I think that would be important to the debate.

Mr. GILCHREST. Greenland is an interesting place because you can go back several hundred years. People were tracking the increasing or decreasing glacier ice cap. So there is a very accurate record. We saw some 20 years ago that the ice cap really significantly began to melt and about 20 cubic miles of ice was flowing into the North Atlantic. Today, that has increased to 53 cubic miles of ice cap on Greenland flowing in the form of water, melted water, into the North Atlantic. The rate we are going, we are going to lose the Greenland ice cap. When we do lose the ice, the sea levels will rise 23 feet around the globe.

Mr. DICKS. I want that to be repeated: 23 feet. I want my colleagues from Florida who are sitting here on the floor to think about what that would mean in Florida, what that would mean in the coast of California, the coast of Washington.

Mr. GILCHREST. New York City, Boston.

Mr. DICKS. This could be a catastrophic event. Yet we are not even willing to have a sense of the Congress resolution that says that human activity may be part of the problem. I mean, we have got to wake up on this. It is time to wake up.

The former Vice President has been out making speeches all over the country. There was a movie which opened last night on this issue. This could be the issue of all time. If we don’t get busy and start realizing we have got a role and a responsibility to play here, it may be too late. For every one of us who either has grandchildren, or may have grandchildren, we have got to think about this. What legacy are we leaving if we don’t face up to this reality?

The authorizers simply haven’t done it. That is why the chairman, I thought, was very kind to accept this amendment. But now I understand they are going to knock it out on a point of order. This is like putting your head in the sand. I want to thank the gentleman from Maryland, who is one of the more enlightened Members of this body, for all the facts that he has brought to this debate today. I hope somehow working together we can resolve this at some future point. I would hope even that maybe the chairman of the Commerce Committee might rethink his opposition to this sense of the Congress resolution.

The CHAIRMAN. The Committee will rise informally.

The Speaker pro tempore (Mr. Kuhl of New York) assumed the chair.

MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

A message in writing from the President of the United States was communicated to the House by Ms. Wanda Evans, one of his secretaries.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Committee will resume its sitting.

The Committee resumed its sitting.

Mr. TAYLOR of North Carolina. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Florida.

Mr. YOUNG of Florida. Mr. Chairman, 25 years ago, I stood at this very microphone at this very desk and offered the amendment that initiated the first Outer Continental Shelf moratorium dealing with drilling for oil and gas. Over the years, that 25-year period, working with industry, working with the Federal Government, working with the State government and working with the Congress, we have evolved a program that has worked. During that time we have opened up some of the areas for exploration and for drilling. During that time we have also bought back some of the leases that were environmentally threatening.

The amendment that was adopted in the appropriations committee, the so-called Peterson amendment, happened without any hearings on the part of the subcommittee, no hearings on the part of the appropriations committee, and now we are trying to do something about that, at least give us time to work with our own House committee that has been working diligently for the last 6 to 8 months on trying to come up with a proper type of moratorium.

We should not allow this language, the so-called Peterson amendment, to stay in this bill today. We should continue the work with the House committee that is already working on it and try to maintain the environmental protection that is so important to so many areas of the waters in and around the United States of America.

I said, this moratorium has been here for 25 years. It has evolved during that time. It has worked extremely well. I believe that we should be very careful in changes that we might make and we shouldn’t make them wholesale without definite thought and consideration.

I yield to the gentleman from Washington.

Mr. DICKS. I want to commend the gentleman from Florida who has been a leader on this issue. We all know the gentleman for his thoroughness.

Mr. HINCHRY. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Texas (Mr. Gene Green).
Mr. GENE GREEN of Texas. Mr. Chairman, I was really going to wait and discuss this on the Peterson amendment or at least on the Putnam-Capps amendment to strike the Peterson language that is in the bill, but listening to all the Members, I thought maybe at least have a voice that is on the other side.

I can't near entertain as much as my colleague from Hawaii, who I agree with on this, and I am not going to call environmentalists Tallibin, but I know we have considered this amendment for over a year and this issue has been debated on this floor many times, including the energy bill last year.

Supply and demand for energy is out of whack and our Nation needs more energy. The Federal Government tried to mandate demand reduction in the last energy crisis and it contributed to a nationwide recession we do not want to repeat. Opening the Outer Continental Shelf could save $300 billion in natural gas costs over 20 years for consumers and manufacturers. High natural gas costs are sending manufacturing jobs overseas, following the cheap gas. Environmentally conscious nations like Norway, Denmark, Canada, and the United Kingdom are safely and successfully producing natural gas from their coastal waters. Canada uses natural gas only wells in Lake Erie, but right across the line the U.S. is not allowed to do the same.

No nation has more energy more responsibly than ours. I have been on oil and gas rigs and they have such few discharges into the ocean, a medium sized fishing boat will leak more in a year.

The Peterson language is a major opportunity for us to respond to today's energy crisis with a national solution. I feel justified in supporting the amendment because I come from a coastal district. My constituents feel the economic and recreational needs of our National parks, our Federal responsibilities, including our national parks, our Federal forests, abandoned mine reclamation, and national parks. This is a bipartisan bill, and it is the product of fair and impartial hearings.

I think it is fitting that this first appropriations bill of the season shows that it is funded at $211 million below the current fiscal year. We are on a track here to some fiscal sanity. Tough choices had to be made. The chairman made the right choices.

Also important, it includes a very important amendment offered in full committee by Mr. Peterson which modifies the current congressional moratorium to allow for safe and efficient production of natural gas along our Outer Continental Shelf. This is a rational step to take in a time when we need to be increasing domestic production to meet our Nation's energy needs. Any effort to take this out would be the wrong thing to do right now. This is in this bill because that is where the rule is.

I believe that this bill provides the environmental, energy, resource, cultural and recreational needs of our Nation while still playing a significant role in controlling Federal spending.

Again, I commend the chairman and Mr. Dicks for their hard work in bringing this bill through and I urge my colleagues to support the bill and to support the Peterson amendment.

Mr. HINCHEY. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from California (Mr. FARR), my friend and colleague.

(Mr. FARR asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)
needs without populating our waters with oil platforms and adding additional scars to our beautiful coastline.

The actions taken today by the House Appropriations Committee is extremely disappointing. As a result, the federal FY07 Interior Appropriations bill that you will be asked to vote on as early as next week ends the two-year bipartisan Congressional moratorium and the protection it guarantees California’s coast. Moreover, the bill’s provisions would allow drilling to begin just three miles from our coast. Rather than watching the sun set on the western horizon each day, millions of Californians and visitors will now see grotesque oil platforms in plain sight. It is clear that the Delegation is capable of these provisions and work to defeat them during the House debate. California’s beautiful coastline is an integral part of our culture, our heritage and our economy. Putting it at risk would be an absolute travesty.

The price of gasoline has risen dramatically in California, but reducing our use of fossil fuels and diversifying our energy supply would have a much greater and more direct impact on prices than drilling off shore. California has gone to great lengths to do just this. We have dedicated $6.5 million to the Hydrogen Highway initiative to build hydrogen fueling stations and expand research for cars that will not pollute. We have invested $165 million to get gross polluters off of California’s streets; and finally, we have created incentives to reduce gasoline consumption by making more people eligible to receive $1,000 when they turn in gross-polluting, inefficient vehicles. California leads the nation on these initiatives.

Ending or weakening the current moratorium on offshore oil and gas leasing will not result in reduced prices for consumers nor is it the foundation for a sustainable energy policy. I urge your support for renewing the OCS moratorium and your continued support for California’s economy and coastal environment.

Sincerely,

ARNOLD SHWARZENEGGER, Governor.

Mr. TAYLOR of North Carolina. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Florida (Ms. HARRIS).

(Ms. HARRIS asked and was given permission to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. HARRIS. Mr. Chairman, later today, we will debate a natural gas exploration provision in this bill over which I have grave concerns. Thus, Mr. Chairman, I rise in support of the bipartisan Putnam-Capps amendment.

We are all acutely aware of the financial strain that higher gas prices place on all Americans. We are very concerned about our national and economic security if we do not identify alternative energy sources to meet our Nation’s ever increasing demand for energy.

The answer, however, is not in this provision. It is the 25-year bipartisan Outer Continental Shelf, OCS, moratorium that Chairman YOUNG spoke earlier about and, thus, allow construction of these gas wells as close as 3 miles from every coastal State.

From an economic perspective, this provision will jeopardize coastal economies that rely on healthy tourism industries for continued prosperity. Setting up natural gas wells visibly 3 miles from the shore would have a crippling effect on these coastal communities and the residents whose livelihoods they support.

Additionally, opening up our most sensitive coastlines to offshore natural gas drilling would not only threaten these miles could adversely impact the coastal waters, the fisheries, and the marine ecosystems.

If the Putnam-Capps amendment is not adopted, be shut out from offshore oil drilling decisions. Coastal Governors and the State legislatures would be denied a meaningful role in decisions where and when and what drilling might occur. They would be silent, yet subject to a Federal mandate.

Finally, the Secretary of Defense has indicated that areas east of the military mission line are vital to military operations and training. Specifically, Secretary Rumsfeld has indicated language akin to what is currently in the bill would be incompatible with military operations and that it could be crucial to our Nation’s security.

For these reasons, I urge my colleagues to support the bipartisan Putnam-Capps amendment.

Mr. KUCINICH. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. KUCINICH).

Mr. KUCINICH. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman.

It is sad that as we stand on the cusp of the most profound change in our environment the civilized world has ever seen, the actions of a few in Congress can stop desperately overdue action.

The science is clear. This is not a problem of the future. It is happening now. The United Nations has declared that at least 5 million cases of illness and more than 150,000 deaths every year are attributed to global warming. The 2003 European heat wave killed over 20,000 people. The 10 hottest years in the last 15 years. Two consecutive record-breaking hurricane seasons. The problem will not fix itself.

And yet we will not allow a provision in this bill that has no timeline, no specific targets and no commitment.

The committee inserted text that merely expressed the sense that we should take action on global warming, but the Rules Committee chose to leave it open to challenge by anyone, and I understand that challenge will be coming on this provision. We cannot even say we should be doing something about this.

Just how bad does it have to get?

Mr. TAYLOR of North Carolina. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Florida (Mr. SHAW).

Mr. SHAW. Mr. Chairman, I rise in strong support of the Putnam amendment that will be given later here this evening.

We have heard a lot today about drilling off the coast of Florida. Let me make a parallel here and something every Member should think about. Would we allow oil rigs on the edge of the Grand Canyon, on the rim? How about at the foot of Old Faithful?

The Florida beaches are really tremendously important. When you start to think about how far that this bill, as it is presently written, would bring these oil wells and gas wells into proximity to our beaches we are talking about 3 miles. The line of sight is over 7 miles.

This bill just goes way too far in really imposing mass destruction on our beaches and on our tourism. Florida’s beaches are really the most important thing that we have for our economy. It is the lifeblood of our economy, and the very thought that with the tremendous opposition that Florida has to this particular amendment that this body would do anything except strike it...

I urge all my colleagues, Democrats and Republicans, this is a bad provision. ADAM PUTNAM is going to be putting an amendment in this evening that would strip it out of this particular bill, and I think as Mr. YOUNG said earlier, that if we are going to be doing this, you need discussion and you need to talk about it.

It was said that we have talked about it. I do not remember one time that we have ever talked about bringing them within 3 miles of the coastal State of Florida.

I urge all my colleagues to vote with the Florida delegation. Kill this amendment to the appropriations bill that was put in this bill by this committee and support the Putnam amendment that would strip it out.

Mr. HINCEHY. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself 3 minutes.

Mr. Chairman, we have had a lot of discussion about the amendment that has been put forward by the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. PETERSON). There are some technical problems with this amendment that I think have not been adequately addressed in the context of this debate thus far.

One of those technical amendments has to do with the fact that the experts on this issue, both within Interior and Energy, believe that it may not be possible to give leases for the extraction of natural gas alone. All the leases that we have currently are for natural gas and oil. And the reason for that is, if you drill for natural gas, the likelihood is that you are going to hit oil. And if you hit oil, and you are not capable or prepared to deal with that, then you are going to encounter some very serious problems.

The amendment that Mr. PETERSON is going to bring before the House sometime later this afternoon or this evening has within it this very serious technical problem, and for that reason alone it ought to be rejected.

The gentleman from Florida, the former chairman of the Appropriations Committee, was up here just a few minutes ago talking about the serious damage that this amendment, if it is passed and put into action, might have on the tourist industry in Florida and on the general situation of the coastal region in Florida and California and in parts of the gulf.

So when you are thinking about this particular amendment, keep in mind that if you go out and drill just for natural gas, the likelihood is if you hit natural gas you are going to hit oil too. And if you are not prepared for it, you are going to have some very serious problems. We ought to address this now and put it in the context of what a more comprehensive way.

As has been pointed out, again by the gentleman from Florida on the other side of the aisle just a few minutes ago, we have not had adequate hearings on this. This is an issue that has not gone through the appropriate authorizing committee. We are attempting to inappropriately put it into the context of this appropriations bill, and for that reason also that amendment ought to be rejected.

Furthermore, we need to be conserving our natural resources, particularly our energy resources. Anything that you find anywhere in the world on energy resources, natural gas and oil, these materials are fungible. They go out anywhere. If we are smart about our natural resources, we ought to be doing everything we can to conserve them, keep them where they are. The value of these natural resources is going to dramatically increase. If we exploit them now, extract them now, exhaust them now, we are going to be very sorry for it later.

In addition to that, we have another circumstance with regard to this amendment and the ideas behind it, and that has to do with the fact that we are not now receiving adequate royalties from the natural resources, particularly petroleum and natural gas, that are being extracted by oil companies on public lands, whether those public lands are dry or under water. And there will be an amendment coming up later this evening, in all likelihood towards the end of this bill, which will deal with the need to get those royalties.

So for those reasons I think that this amendment ought to be rejected.

Mr. Chairman, may I inquire as to how much time we have.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman's time has expired.

Mr. HINCHLEY. The entire time for the bill?

The CHAIRMAN. The entire time for general debate has expired. The gentleman from North Carolina remains the only person with time, and he has 9½ minutes.

Mr. TAYLOR of North Carolina. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the appropriations chairman, the gentleman from Florida (Mr. Lewis).

Mr. LEWIS of Florida. Mr. Chairman, I very much appreciate my chairman yielding me this time, and I want to express my deep appreciation to him for his work, as well as for Norm Dicks of Washington. This is a fabulous bill, in my view. It is the first step in the passage of 11 of our bills between now and the 4th of July break, all of them off the House floor.

This bill reflects exactly the approach and style we are attempting to take within our committee this year and in the years ahead. The total spending on this bill provides $19.5 billion in total discretionary spending. That is a $145 million decrease from the previous year.

The chairman and the ranking members are attempting to help us balance the importance of preserving our resources, our environment, and, indeed, our country as we move towards energy independence. And one of the pieces of preserving our independence is to make certain that our appropriation processes is spending less money, not more money, in the years ahead.

Mr. TAYLOR of North Carolina. Mr. Chairman, I yield to the gentleman from Florida (Mr. MILLER).

Mr. MILLER of Florida. I thank the chairman for yielding me time. Opponents of the Putnam-Capps amendment say that the underlying language does nothing to enhance the independence of our military here in the United States, and I can say that that is 100 percent wrong.

This map is the eastern Gulf of Mexico off the State of Florida. This is a joint test range that extends from the panhandle of Florida all the way to Key West. Let me tell you, the Air Force uses this for live fire. Live fire. And the Navy uses the gulf ranges to predeploy certification and to fire Tomahawk cruise missiles from submarines.

Now, I want to read you a list, if I can, which is just a sampling of some of the future and current missions conducted in the eastern Gulf of Mexico: the F-35 Joint Strike Fighter initial training and live fire; the F-22 pilot upgrade training, including the AMRAAM live fire; Tomahawk cruise missiles launched from submerged vessels; testing of Small Diameter Bomb program against man-made targets in the Gulf of Mexico; F-16 weapons system testing and evaluation; air dominance munitions; unmanned combat air vehicles; directed energy weapons and classified programs.

Now, the former commander of the Air Armament Center, Major General Robert W. Chedister, said last August: "Clearly, structures associated with oil and gas production are totally incompatible with, and would have a significant impact on, the mission activity in the eastern Gulf of Mexico."

The Secretary of Defense, Donald Rumsfeld recently wrote: "Areas east of 86°41', which is the military mission line, commonly known as the mission line, are critical to DOD. He went on to say: "In the area east of the military mission line, drilling structures and associated development would be incompatible with military activities, such as missile flights, low-flying drone aircraft, and weapons testing and training."

Now, let me show you where that has been marked on the map. The underlying language in this bill would open the door to drilling in the entire Joint Test Range, and is completely incompatible with the military mission of our Air Force and our Navy. We cannot allow this area to be impacted.

Mr. TAYLOR of North Carolina. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. SHERWOOD).

Mr. SHERWOOD. Mr. Chairman, I wish to engage in a little colloquy with you.

As you know, the administration proposed $49.5 million for the National Clean Diesel Initiative, which was authorized at $200 million in the Energy Policy Act. We were only able to fund that at $26 million. I am concerned the demand will far exceed the amount the committee was able to provide.

For example, Pennsylvania's 13 school districts have filed applications with EPA for funding to retrofit diesel engines, and we are going to have a lot more of this.

I would like to yield to my friend from New York (Mr. Kuhl).

Mr. KUHL of New York. Mr. Chairman, I want to compliment my colleague from Pennsylvania (Mr. SHERWOOD) on his efforts on this particular important matter. And while he addresses the issues dealing particularly with his district in Pennsylvania, which I think is laudable, we should know that actually diesel engines play a very important role in our Nation's economy. They are, however, responsible for a substantial portion of particular matter emissions and there are 11 million vehicles that need to be retrofitted, nearly 500,000 of which are school buses, which my colleague has addressed.

So I compliment again my colleague, Mr. SHERWOOD, for approaching this problem, and certainly I compliment the chairman for what he has been able to do. Hopefully, he will be able to supplement what has been appropriated in this bill by substantial increases in the appropriation.

Mr. TAYLOR of North Carolina. Mr. Chairman, I agree that the demand for funding for retrofitting diesel vehicles has exceeded the funding made available to date. However, it is important to note that in fiscal year 2006, funding for programs under the National Clean Diesel Initiative was less than $12 million, and the $26 million recommended by the committee for fiscal 2007 represents an increase in funding of nearly 120 percent.

I have been personally involved in programs to promote the use of diesel retrofits back in my district, and I believe that the funding approved by the committee will make significant strides in addressing the clean diesel program's objectives. Having said that,
I would be happy to work with my colleagues to see if we might be able to increase the funding for this program should additional funds be made available when we go to conference with the Senate.

Mr. Chairman, I yield 3 1/2 minutes to the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. Peterson).

Mr. PETERSON of Pennsylvania. I thank the chairman. We are beginning the most important debate this country has had on energy in a long time, and I am glad to see we have finally moved forward.

My good friend, BILL YOUNG, 23 years ago started the moratorium. Back then, the cost of natural gas was a dollar something a thousand. Oil was less than $10. It didn’t matter that we locked up our resources. Last year, the average price of natural gas was $9.50. At times it was $14 and $15, and the rest of the world was a fraction of that. We are putting our industries and businesses in this country in jeopardy.

We have witnessed today serious fear from coastline people, and I respect that. This is not “us against you.” This is about America. Fear is only in our hearts when we don’t have the facts, and I think significantly that when we have the facts, and we debate this issue, we will do the right thing and we will figure out how to produce natural gas off our shorelines at the right distance so that we have wonderful tourism and have affordable energy, so our people can stay in their homes in the north and keep warm, and our businesses can stay in this country and prosper and build our economy.

Now, this bill, if it passes, only removes the legislative moratorium. The Presidential moratorium still remains. I could not remove that because that is legislating on an appropriations bill. We still have the 5-year plan, which is a 2- or 3-year process that we all react to because any drilling is done anywhere. We have to change language that we can have gas-only leases. You all know that I have a bill that gives 20 miles of shoreline protection and gives the States control over that and only allows for natural gas production...

Folks, States like Florida, that use 235 times more gas than they produce, could be self-sufficient and could bring in a lot of money to the State of Florida. California likewise, huge energy users, could bring in huge amounts of money and could produce natural gas only.

And those who say we can’t produce natural gas only just don’t understand how you drill. I grew up in this. I have been in the oil business, but I grew up around it. You drill through the layers of the surface. You drill through oil sands, coal sands, and gas sands; and you put a steel casing down, you cement the top and the bottom, and you go back and open that casing up wherever you want to produce. It doesn’t all just come gushing out.

We have been drilling for oil for hundreds of years. It is a sound science today. I am not promoting oil, but the last major oil spill was Santa Barbara in 1969. How long do they have to do it right? There has never been a gas well that has polluted a beach and made it a place we wouldn’t want to be.

I have spent dozens of evenings on Florida beaches. I just spent a week at Duck. Do you think I don’t appreciate the value of that, folks? But I also want my kids and my grandchildren to have a job and to have economies, and polymers, plastics, petrochemicals, bricks, and all of the industries, steel and aluminum, which use huge amounts of natural gas.

The President of U.S. Steel told me his cost went up $500 million, and if we don’t get gas below $3 consistently, he cannot compete in America. Every glass company will be in South America where gas is $1.87, and every brick company. We won’t even make bricks in America. We will bring them in from South America. The petrochemical business has 120 plants being built, with one in America. The rest will move jobs out of this country when they are completed, folks.

We don’t have a lot of time. We need to provide affordable energy.

Mr. TAYLOR of North Carolina, Mr. Chairman, I yield to the gentleman from Colorado (Mr. BEAUPREZ).

Mr. BEAUPREZ. Mr. Chairman, I want to rise to express my strong opposition to language in the bill that earmarks $13 million in funding to continue operating the existing U.S. Geological Survey mapping facility in Rolla, Missouri. This facility is planned to be closed based on a careful and thorough analysis of the 21st-century role of the USGS mapping.

The amendment also prohibits the planned consolidation of the mapping functions at the USGS, which is estimated to save the American taxpayers millions of dollars.

Two formal investigations, including one by the Department of the Interior’s Inspector General, have assessed the resources available to combat these incurred costs.

I understand from the Colville Tribe’s law enforcement personnel that up to 25 aircraft may be in the area, and I am hopeful that the Congress can again restore the funds in this bill.

Mr. Chairman, I yield 3 1/2 minutes to my friend and colleague that I share a portion of the district in Washington State with (Mr. McMORRIS).

Miss McMORRIS. Mr. Chairman, the northern portion of my district in Washington State is contiguous with the United States border with Canada. One of the Indian tribes in my district, the Confederated Tribes of the Colville Reservation, has for the last several months been experiencing an epidemic of cross-border drug smuggling activity from Canada onto its reservation. I mention this, Mr. Chairman, because since 1990 Congress has funded a very important program that as late as last year had a direct impact in fighting this smuggling activity, and I am hopeful that the Congress can again restore the funds in this bill.

This program, identified as Lake Roosevelt Management/Enforcement funds in the Bureau of Indian Affairs budget, enables the Colville Tribe and the Spokane Tribe to employ law enforcement officers to patrol Lake Roosevelt and its shoreline to enforce Federal laws and tribal health and safety laws. Lake Roosevelt is the 151-mile reservoir of the Grand Coulee Dam, the largest hydroelectric power plant in the United States and the third largest in the world. A portion of the dam lies within the boundaries of the Colville Reservation.

Currently, the Colville Tribe’s law enforcement officials are under increasing strain due to cross-border smuggling activity on the reservation. In recent months, numerous sightings of unmarked fixed-wing aircraft capable of landing on water have been reported on the lakes and waterways within and near the Colville Reservation.

Specifically, on March 15 of this year, Colville tribal law enforcement officers funded with the Lake Roosevelt Management/Enforcement funds seized an unmarked float plane from Canada that was attempting to smuggle illegal drugs into the United States through the Colville Reservation. The tribe’s law enforcement officers captured and detained the pilot and handed over to Federal law enforcement authorities an estimated $2 million in illegal drugs that had been dropped by the plane on the bank of Columbia River near the Grand Coulee Dam. Last month the U.S. Border Patrol honored the Colville Tribal officers that participated in this seizure.

In addition to this incident, other incidents involving float planes from Canada smuggling drugs through the lakes and waterways on the Colville Reservation have also resulted in arrests in recent months and have also involved the Colville Tribe’s law enforcement personnel. I understand from the Colville Tribe that its law enforcement personnel register two to three reports of float plane sightings per week and that the tribe’s police department has reason to believe that up to 25 aircraft may be involved in cross-border drug smuggling activities using the lakes and waters on the Colville Reservation.

I am appalled by the ease with which these small planes fly back and forth across the northern border is truly cause for alarm. In commenting on these recent smuggling incidents, the U.S. Attorney for the Eastern District of Washington was recently quoted by a northwest newspaper as saying that “a person that will smuggle is an easy customer. After being alerted to cash will also be the kind of person who would smuggle a special-interest alien or a terrorist.” As disturbing as this prospect is, I believe that it is equally important for all of our law enforcement agencies on the northern border to have the resources available to combat these incursions, including the Colville Tribe.

Congress has in past years funded this program at the $630,000 level and our colleagues... should know that both the Colville Tribe and the Spokane Tribe contribute significant funds of their own and secure matching funds from various sources to keep these patrols running. Given the critical importance of this program to both border security and homeland security, and given the relatively modest request I have very much hope the subcommittee can support this quest in conference, with an eye toward inclusion in the conference report.

Mr. UDALL of Colorado. Mr. Chairman, I regret that I cannot vote for this appropriations bill.

Colorado has a special stake in the bill because it provides funds for Federal agencies that are particularly important for our State, including most of the Interior Department, the Forest Service, and the Environmental Protection Agency.

And of course the bill is important for the entire country, because it provides much of the funding necessary for the Federal Government to meet its responsibilities regarding protection of the environment and the conservation of our natural, historic, and cultural resources.

If the bill dealt adequately with those matters, I would gladly support it. Unfortunately, however, it falls so far short of the mark that I do not think it should be approved.

Responsibility for the bill’s shortcomings lies with the leadership and the misguided budget resolution that they forced through the House in the very early hours of this morning. Their budget plan provides $9.4 billion less for domestic programs than the amount necessary just to maintain current services.

That is why the funds available for this bill are $145 million below this year’s level and about $800 million below what would be required to maintain current services. That is why the bill includes only about 70 percent of increases mandated by law for Federal pay and for other fixed costs for the Federal agencies covered by the bill. And that is why despite maintenance backlogs of some $12 billion in our parks, refuges and forests, funding for construction projects throughout the bill are cut by $200 million below last year and there is no funding at all for new schools on Indian reservations.

And that is why there are similar cuts in the Clean Water Revolving Fund, wildlife grants, and the North American Wetlands program while funding for Federal land acquisitions—already reduced by more than 80 percent over the last 4 years—is cut by $98 million. These cuts are particularly bad for Colorado because our growing population puts increasing pressure on our open spaces and wildlife as well as our underfunded infrastructure of our rural communities.

If the bill now before the House were to be enacted as it stands, the result would be dirtier water and air, reduced care for our natural landscapes and historic structures, and declining levels of service for the protection of the national parks, wildlife refuges, and national forests in Colorado and across the country. I cannot support such results and cannot support the bill.

Of course, today’s vote is not the end of the story of this legislation. Once the Senate has acted on the changes and differences between its version and the House-passed bill will have to be resolved and a final version considered. I hope that the result of that process will be a version that deserves to be supported and enacted into law.

Mr. FORTENBERRY. Mr. Chairman, I am pleased to express my support for H.R. 5386, the fiscal year 2007 Interior-Environment appropriations bill and I urge my colleagues to vote for it.

I would like to begin by commending the distinguished gentleman from North Carolina (Mr. TAYLOR), the chairman of the Interior Appropriations Subcommittee, and the distinguished gentleman from Washington (Mr. DICKS), the ranking member of the subcommittee, for their outstanding work in bringing this bill to the Floor.

I recognize that extremely tight budgetary constraints this year made the job of the subcommittee much more difficult. Therefore, I believe the subcommittee should be commended for its diligence in creating this fiscally responsible measure.

In light of these fiscal constraints, I am very pleased that the bill includes $1 million for a rainfall sewer overflow between Nebraska and Iowa. This new crossing is a very immediate need for the community of South Sioux City, NE. The existing crossing is more than 40 years old and 3 years ago, the pipe carrying sewage between South Sioux City to the treatment plant in Sioux City, IA, broke. For several weeks, about 1.6 million gallons of raw sewage each day was dumped into the Missouri River. The pipe was eventually replaced, but the incident highlighted the need for a second crossing. The new crossing that is proposed, to be located south of the city, would provide a more direct link to the regional treatment plant in Sioux City.

Since the original sewer pipe was installed in the early 1960s, South Sioux City’s population has increased by sixfold. Also, the community’s economic base continues to grow, which places an additional burden on the sewer system. In an effort to meet the growing needs for an improved sewer system, the city’s residents have seen significant rate increases over the past several years. Therefore, I believe the subcommittee should be commended for its diligence in creating this fiscally responsible measure.

Again Mr. Chairman, I appreciate the subcommittee’s inclusion of $1 million for the South Sioux City sanitary sewer crossing project. I support this project of H.R. 5386 and urge my colleagues to vote for it.

Mr. HOLT. Mr. Chairman, I rise today in opposition to the Department of Interior and related agencies appropriations bill for fiscal year 2007. Today we are considering a bill that funds the majority of our Nation’s environmental programs. However, the funding levels that this bill allows are inadequate to meet the needs of our country. By passing this bill today we are turning our back on programs that conserve, protect, and enhance our environment.

I am disappointed with a variety of programs that are losing funding in this appropriations bill but I want to talk specifically about the cuts to the Land and Water Conservation Fund (LWCF), the largest Federal grant program that helps States acquire open space and recreational land. I was pleased that over 150 of my colleagues joined a letter that Representative McGovern, Representative Peters, Mr. King and I to the Interior Appropriations Subcommittee to restore state side LWCF funding. Mr. McGovern, Mr. King and I all represent densely populated States that are combating overdevelopment, and programs like the matching grant program help our local communities establish the recreational and open space areas that are so vitally important to our children’s health, appreciation for the environment and community development. In the past 40 years, roughly 40,000 grants to States and local governments have been funded through the LWCF State side program.

According to the National Park Service “Today, there is clear evidence that the grant program has been successful in encouraging States to take greater responsibility for the protection and development of recreation resources at every level.” Now is not the time to cut funding for conservation programs that help our local communities.

Protecting open space is not an abstract environmental matter—it is a quality of life issue. I urge my colleagues to vote against this bill and the underlying budget and demand real attention to our Nation’s environmental needs.

Mr. KING of Iowa. Mr. Chairman, I wish to take time to highlight a watershed-related project at Storm Lake, IA, in my district. As background, Storm Lake’s depth and water quality have been deteriorating since the last dredging in the early 1960s. Storm Lake is among 156 water bodies to make the U.S. Environmental Protection Agencies list of “imperiled” streams and lakes because of siltation. Removing silt and radically improving water quality have been identified as the key for Storm Lake. I am pleased that over 150 of my colleagues joined a letter that Representative McGovern, Representative Peters, Mr. King and I to the Interior Appropriations Subcommittee to restore state side LWCF funding. I believe the subcommittee should be commended for its diligence in creating this fiscally responsible measure.

The Storm Lake community has implemented practices by both business and residents in an effort to ensure that the current dredging of Storm Lake will last for several generations to come. Finally, local agricultural landowners on or near the watershed have incorporated farming practices that help curb or reduce the amount of runoff into the Storm Lake Watershed. I believe this comprehensive approach to water resource management by the Storm Lake community is to be commended.

Funds will be used to dredge 700,000 cubic yards of spoil from the lake. Through decades of ground erosion and silt freely entering Storm Lake the lake levels have diminished. In order to remove the silt and prevent the continued inflow of silt, a Lake Restoration Project has been proposed to dredge a large portion of the lake and to develop watershed protection practices. Therefore the Iowa Department of Natural Resources believes this dredging and wastewater work plays a vital role in the water quality and restoration of the lake. Buena Vista County, the city of Storm Lake, and the city of Lakeside view the dredging project as an essential component in the overall economic development of the area. Dredging will create positive environmental effects while increasing the natural habitat for native fish and marine organisms.

Mr. Chairman, I look forward to working with Chairman TAYLOR for the inclusion of funding in the final conference report.

Mr. HAYWORTH, agriculture, Chairman, I rise today in opposition to H.R. 5386.

Rural America is hurting economically. Our families are faced with the highest fuel prices in history. And this bill cuts $142 million from last year’s funding level for essential services like environmental protection.

These cuts come from state grants that help fund rural water, sewer, and infrastructure projects. They come from state wildlife preservation grants and wetland preservation funds. This bill even cuts funding to EPA programs like the clean air diesel program; all while rolling back pollution standards for power plants for the first time ever.

This bill would also allow drilling off of our pristine coastlines, and it would provide for the exploration and development of drilling in the Alaska National Wildlife Refuge (ANWR) an area that is currently off limits for drilling, at a cost of $113 million.

The priorities of this Congress are wrong for the American people. I urge my colleagues to vote against this legislation.

Mr. STARK. Mr. Chairman, I rise today in opposition to the Interior Appropriations bill.

Given their commitment to “conservative values,” I would think that Republicans would be more committed to actual conservation. Instead, this bill shortchanges our environment, attacks our natural heritage, and recklessly endangers public health.

This bill slashes funding for environmental programs by $145 million and provides about $800 million less than is necessary to maintain current environmental protection services. Specifically, this legislation cuts Land and Water Conservation programs, which provide funding for the acquisition of land for national parks, wildlife refuges, forests and monuments, to their lowest funding levels in 30 years. At the same time, this bill cuts the Forest Legacy Program by more than $43 million, the Fish and Wildlife Service by $55 million and the National Park Service by $100 million.

We have an obligation to ensure that future generations can enjoy the beauty of our national parks and public lands. With this bill, however, “conservatism” has abandoned their social and ethical responsibility to protect our environment and invest in America’s future.

This indefensible legislation not only harms our environment but places Americans’ health at risk by cutting the Clean Water State Revolving Fund to its lowest funding level in a decade. According to the EPA, close to $20 billion—nearly 30 times the appropriated amount—is necessary to maintain our current water quality. I am not willing to endanger the health of millions of Americans by exposing them to dirtier water.

I don’t believe something as important as our natural resources should be left in the hands of Republican members of the flat-earth society who don’t even believe in global warming. There is scientific consensus that the earth is warming because of manmade greenhouse gases and the threat posed by global warming is real and immediate. Recent polls show that 85 percent of Americans believe that global warming is probably happening and 75 percent of conservatives, think the Federal government is not doing enough to address the problem. Yet Republicans are so reluctant to acknowledge global warming, they won’t even allow the House to consider the issue.

If Republicans really preach conservative values, perhaps they should start with actually conserving our most precious resources. I simply cannot vote for this mockery of environmental legislation and I encourage my colleagues to join me in opposing this bill.

Mr. HAYWORTH. Mr. Chairman, the state of Arizona has a rich history, much of it left to us by Native Americans from centuries past. One way in which the great tribal traditions and cultural stories of our native predecessors are passed down is in the form of petroglyphs. These stones are not just carved into rock formations tell the stories of the first Americans, and it is important that we give special attention to the preservation of these artifacts.

One of Arizona’s largest collections of petroglyphs is housed at the Deer Valley Rock Art Center in Phoenix. Conceptualized with the intent to both preserve and educate, the center is operated and maintained by Arizona State University and the 47 acre facility is home to over 1,500 petroglyphs.

I would ask that the Bureau of Land Management engage in conversations with the Deer Valley Rock Art Center in order to see where the agency might be able to provide assistance to the center. It is my hope that strengthening the relationship between the agency and the center will make it possible for Arizona’s historical treasures to continue to be preserved, allowing the center to remain a valuable educational tool for generations to come.

Mr. CARTER. Mr. Chairman, in 1991, the Texas legislature authorized the establishment of the Texas Institute of Applied Environmental Research (TIAER) at Tarleton State University. Congress quickly recognized the merits of the effort and since 1992 has provided an average of $500,000 a year and the U.S. Department of Agriculture has added $4.5 million dollars. These dollars have been effectively leveraged, and when added to state and private funds, total funding has exceeded $45 million. This project is an excellent example of how critical federal support can effectively trigger matching funds to help meet the needs of this country.

The mandate for the organization has been to:

Conduct applied research on environmental issues that have public policy implications

Provide a setting for environmental studies that focus on the interface between government and the private sector

Provide national leadership on emerging environmental policy

Establish programs and partnerships with public and private institutions of higher education, government, and private entities to develop and implement new policies, technology, strategies, relationships and sources of funding.

The organization’s mission statement is: “TIAER conducts scientific research, economic inquiry, and institutional, statutory and regulatory analyses to address pressing environmental issues facing the state and nation and assists public entities in developing and implementing policies that promote environmental quality.”

STRONG ECONOMY, HEALTHY EARTH

TIAER continues to fulfill its mission by assembling and supporting a multidisciplinary research staff. TIAER houses economists, engineers, agronomists, agrarianists, mathematicians, biologists, statisticians, computer scientists, and social scientists to address the next generation of Clean Water Act initiatives.

TIAER was among the first to recognize that emerging environmental issues in agriculture required new policy. TIAER developed the Planned Intervention Microwatershed Approach (PIMA) to address landscape-based, polluted runoff issues. PIMA uniquely links USDA voluntary programs with EPA programs in a manner that is tailored to the needs of production agriculture. PIMA protects privately-held lands from government intrusion.

TIAER operates a one-million-acre outdoor laboratory, the Bosque River Watershed, which consists of cropland, ranch land and, in the upper reaches of the North Bosque, a 250,000-acre watershed that is home to one of the largest concentrations of dairy farms in the Nation. The Bosque River watershed provides TIAER with a cross-section of agricultural lands and enables TIAER to address many of the environmental issues that production agriculture will face over the next quarter-century.

Industry-Led Solutions (ILS)—Leadership Toward Environmental Solutions

A major focus of TIAER’s work began with the conception of “Industry-Led Solutions” (ILS) in 1999. TIAER has hosted four national workshops and two regional Gulf of Mexico workshops with leaders of animal agriculture, the rice crop industry, environmental groups, and government to explore ways that agriculture can proactively address environmental initiatives that will enable agricultural producers to be good stewards of the land while maintaining the economics of the industry. The intent is for ILS to serve as a “think-tank” for agricultural environmental issues.

The Nation is at a strategic point in determining how agriculture can meet Clean Water Act objectives. ILS is TIAER’s response to the need for agriculture to become proactively involved in both policy initiatives and developing science-based programs that will lead to sustainable agricultural practices that provide for a strong economy and a healthy Earth.

Agricultural producers and TIAER work together in a unique manner. Agricultural producers lead all ILS initiatives. TIAER provides staff for ILS programs. The multidisciplinary staff of TIAER enables ILS to address all issues related to resolving environmental issues in agriculture. TIAER is unique in other ways.

TIAER recognizes that the U.S. economy must remain strong in order to have a healthy Earth—“Strong economy, healthy Earth.”

TIAER has the capacity to mobilize quickly to address new initiatives. The TIAER Director reports directly to the Tarleton State University President. In addition, TIAER staff work full-time, further enabling TIAER to move quickly.
The institute operates in an entrepreneurial manner. TIAER has no permanent funding. Therefore, the institute must address issues that are seen by TIAER clientele as pertinent and useful in addressing problems and issues they face.

As a proponent of ILS, TIAER brings together the distinct concerns of entrepreneurs and environmentalists to develop effective public policies and cooperative, science-based solutions.

In the past 30 years, efforts to improve the Nation's waters focused on cleaning up point source discharges with great success. Now, however, water quality efforts will increasingly address nonpoint sources for the next increments in water quality improvements. The Clean Water Act of 1972 provided little insight into how agriculture would address polluted runoffs from crop and ranch lands. It has become evident over the past decade that agricultural lands are in the crosshairs of the EPA and environmental groups. The challenge lies in developing programs that are specifically tailored to the needs of agriculture. At this fifteen-year mark, TIAER looks toward facilitating future successes in improving our Nation's air and water quality. That is a laudable goal, and it is made possible by congressional appropriations that triggers valuable matching dollars. I hope my colleagues will continue to support successful efforts like this—responsible federal funding triggering additional financial support. That is a partnership that makes sense.

The CHAIRMAN. All time for general debate has expired.

Pursuant to the rule, the bill shall be considered for amendment under the 5-minute rule. During consideration of the bill for amendment, the Chair may accord priority in recognition to a Member offering an amendment that he or she has printed in the designated place in the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD. Those amendments will be considered read.

The Clerk will read. The Clerk reads as follows:

H.R. 5386

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the following sums are appropriated, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, for the Department of the Interior, environment, and related agencies for the fiscal year ending September 30, 2007, and for other purposes, namely:

TITLE I—DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR

BUREAU OF LAND MANAGEMENT
MANAGEMENT OF LANDS AND RESOURCES

For necessary expenses for protection, use, improvement, development, disposal, cadastral survey, acquisition, suspension of easements and other interests in lands, and performance of other functions, including maintenance of facilities, as authorized by law, in the management of lands and their resources under the jurisdiction of the Bureau of Land Management, including the general administration of the Bureau, and assessment of mineral potential of public lands pursuant to Public Law 96-487 (16 U.S.C. 3150(a)), $967,738,000, to remain available until expended, of which $1,250,000 is for high priority acquisition projects pursuant to be carried out by the Youth Conservation Corps, and of which $2,750,000 shall be available in fiscal year 2007 subject to a match by at least an equal amount by the National Fish and Wildlife Foundation for cost-shared projects supporting conservation of Bureau lands, and such funds shall be advanced to the Foundation as a lump sum grant without regard to when expenses are incurred.

AMENDMENT OFFERED BY MS. SLAUGHTER

Ms. SLAUGHTER. Mr. Chairman, I offer an amendment.

The Clerk reads as follows:

Amendment offered by Ms. SLAUGHTER:

Page 2, line 15, after the dollar amount, insert the following: "(reduced by $1) (increased by $1)"

Page 28, line 2, after the first dollar amount, insert the following: "(reduced by $5,000,000)"

Page 46, line 8, after the dollar amount, insert the following: "(reduced by $3,000,000)"

Page 75, line 1, after the dollar amount, insert the following: "(reduced by $2,000,000)"

Page 107, line 21, after the dollar amount, insert the following: "(increased by $5,000,000)"

Ms. SLAUGHTER. (during the reading). Mr. Chairman, I ask unanimous consent that the amendment be considered as read and printed in the RECORD.

The CHAIRMAN. Is there objection to the request of the gentlewoman from New York?

There was no objection.

Ms. SLAUGHTER. Mr. Chairman, over the past 40 years the National Endowment for the Arts and the National Endowment for the Humanities have proven themselves time and time again to be among our country's most valuable and successful organizations. Their reach is national, their impact profound. They are tremendously beneficial to our economy, generating $134 billion annually in economic activity. Artistic endeavors return some $10.5 billion to the Federal Government in income taxes every year. And the arts support nearly 5 million full-time jobs. When our children have art education in their lives, they score higher on their SATs, have greater self-confidence, and are more focused on their studies.

I ask you today to urge stronger Federal commitment to the arts by supporting this amendment to provide modest increases to the NEA and NEH of $5 million each.

Unless we provide an overall increase for NEA, the programs like Challenge America and the Big Read, which have been so important, will be slashed. And they will reach fewer people.

Challenge America has enhanced America's communities through direct grants for arts education, at-risk youth and cultural preservation, community arts partnerships and improved access to the arts for all Americans, with local programs in every single congressional district.

Because of the NEA, more children have music in their lives today than ever before, and high school students are participating in poetry sessions and learning more about Shakespeare. And our brave men and women serving on our military bases throughout our country are entertained by popular opera performances.

NEA's Big Read program has resulted in committed partnerships among local government officials, schools, libraries and arts organizations to address the troubling national decline in literacy reading.

As part of the program, a book is selected and everybody is encouraged to read it. It is that simple. The first 10 pilot programs now under way have proven to be overwhelmingly successful. The neighbors talk about "Great Gatsby," friends are locked in heated debate about "To Kill a Mockingbird," and coworkers are analyzing "Fahrenheit 451."

Imagine the conversations, connections and community enrichment that will be generated if NEA expands the Big Read into 100 communities, as it currently plans.

The value of these programs should no longer have to be proved. The real question is, will the Congress, with its patriotism and pride in America, prioritize the betterment of its culture?

In the late 1980s and 1990s, we funded the NEA at $170 million. The NEA was last funded at this amount in 1994 and has never recovered from the awful budget cut it took.

As a result, today its invaluable programs remain seriously underfunded. The increases I propose today are modest, but without adequate funding the NEA and the NEH will be unable to continue these and other important programs.

I urge Members to vote for the Slaughter-Shays-Dicks-Leach-Price amendment and to preserve its funding in the final conference report. I thank my colleagues who have joined me today.

Mr. DICKS. Will the gentlewoman yield?

Ms. SLAUGHTER. I yield to the gentleman from Washington.

Mr. DICKS. I want to rise in strong support of the gentlewoman's amendment. She has been a leader and a valued advocate on this issue for many, many years; and I am very proud to be associated with her on this amendment.

Mr. Chairman, I rise to urge support for this amendment offered by Mrs. SLAUGHTER and Ms. SLAUGHTER, to increase funding for the National Endowment for the Arts and the National Endowment for the Humanities.

The amendment would provide an additional $10 million to be split equally between the two Endowments. The increase would be offset by a series of small cuts to several Interior Department programs.

I am gratified to note that the debate over the last few years has calmed down. The votes in favor of this annual Arts and Humanities amendment had been growing by an increasing margin. And last year, Chairman Taylor accepted this amendment without the need for a rollcall vote.

Although we offer this amendment each year, it is important that we again discuss the importance of how this rather modest Federal support can have such large impact on our home districts. Most importantly, this seed money spurs private donations to the arts and humanities.

I still wish that we could restore the funding levels for NEA and NEH back to the level 12 years ago but this amendment will get us closer. I urge your support on this important amendment.

Mr. SHAYS. Will the gentlewoman yield?

Ms. SLAUGHTER. I yield to the gentleman from Connecticut.

Mr. SHAYS. It is my understanding that the chairman, if we can close this debate quickly, will gladly accept it.

Mr. Chairman, I rise in support of the Slaughter/Shays/Dicks/Leach/Price amendment which will increase funding for the National Endowment for the Arts and National Endowment for the Humanities.

As Dana Gioia, the NEA Chairman, said "A great nation deserves great art."

How we prioritize the arts and humanities and their impact on our society and children's education says a lot about us as Americans.

Support of the arts should come from so many sources—individuals, foundations, arts consumers, and yes, taxpayers. In a bill where we are spending $29.5 billion on various government programs, I believe spending $275.3 million on cultural programs is well worth the investment. It is a moderate amount of money that can have a big impact because today's economy is driven by ideas and innovation.

In fact, nationwide, there are 548,000 businesses involved in the creation or distribution of the arts and employ 2.9 million people. The fourth District of Connecticut is home to 2,841 arts-related businesses employing 14,711 people.

The Federal investment in the arts is the smallest part of arts funding. But we have a role—an important one. A stabilizing one. And one that I admire.

I grew up in an arts family. My parents—both performing actors—met in the theater.

Listening to my father play the piano each night and hearing stories from their days on the stage gave me a profound appreciation for creativity, expression—an appreciation that I know so many of the constituents I represent share.

I thank the Chairman TAYLOR and Ranking Member Dicks for their continued support of the arts and humanities.

I urge my colleagues to support this amendment.

Mr. TAYLOR of North Carolina. We accept this amendment, Mr. Chairman.

Ms. SLAUGHTER. I thank the chairman, my colleagues.

Mr. FARR. Mr. Chairman, I rise in support of the Slaughter/Shays Amendment to the FY07 Interior Appropriations Bill that would add $5 million each to the National Endowment for the Arts and the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Many of us do not recognize the role the arts play in our lives. But without the arts, our lives would be black and white. Arts add the color. Arts add the diversity and aid the understanding. Arts allow for expression and facilitate the acceptance. These experiences are truly immeasurable.

Cultures that have the ability to create, preserve and appreciate the arts are truly unique.

I know you can think of times when a certain peal of a trumpet, or glimpse of a color triggering something—a memory, an awareness, or an idea. Though art can trigger strong emotions, the value of these has not historically been measured. But they are less important than the experiences that are quantifiable. NEA and NEH ensure that Americans across the country can discover and share the treasure of artful expression while instilling a sense of historical and cultural heritage throughout the generations.

I urge my colleagues to recognize the benefits of preserving the arts and humanities by supporting this amendment's funding to NEA and NEH.

Mr. MORAN of Virginia. Mr. Chairman, I rise in support of the Dicks-Slaughter-Shays-Leach-Price amendment to increase National Endowment for the Arts by $5 million and increase the National Endowment for the Humanities by $5 million.

The dividend this Nation receives from the Endowment for the Arts and the Humanities far exceeds the investment we make with the limited Federal dollars.

We could eliminate all funding for the endowments tomorrow, and the arts and humanities would survive.

That's not the issue.

The grants NEA provides don't make or break most theater productions, studio exhibitions or symphonic performances.

What NEA does with its grants is to ensure that these performances, exhibits and productions are shared with greater audiences of Americans.

Scholarly research on the humanities will continue without the NEH, but research, writings and creative thought on what it is to be an American, to the People initiative, the embodiment of who and what we are, and diffusion of this understanding and insight among Americans will suffer.

Mr. Chairman, there is too much that divides us as a Nation.

We need institutions like the NEA and the NEH, that find common ground through performances and pamphlets that inspire us to look past the parochial and appreciate greatness.

Support the Dicks-Slaughter-Shays-Leach-Price amendment.

Mrs. MALONEY. Mr. Chairman, as a proud representative of New York City, an important center of the creative industries in our Nation, I rise in enthusiastic support of the Slaughter-Shays-Dicks-Leach-Price amendment.

This amendment will provide a very small, but critical increase in funding for the National Endowment for the Arts and the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Earlier this week, I was honored to be joined by the Governor from New York and the gentleman from Connecticut—spokespersons of this amendment and co-chairs of the Arts Caucus—in passing legislation recognizing the American Ballet Theater for their 65 years of service as "America's National Ballet Theater."

The ABT is just one of well over 7,000 arts-related businesses in my district, employing nearly 120,000 employees—the highest number of arts-related jobs in the country.

And the NEA is key in bolstering the economic and creative force of these organizations.

Mr. Chairman, for the 120,000 arts-related employees that I represent and the countless others who enjoy and benefit from their creativity and hard work, I urge a yes vote on the Slaughter-Shays-Dicks-Leach-Price Amendment.

Mr. PRICE of North Carolina. Mr. Chairman, I rise as a cosponsor of the Slaughter amendment providing increased funding for the National Endowment for the Arts and Humanities and the National Endowment for the Arts.

For 40 years, the NEH has helped advance the study and understanding of our Nation's history, culture and heritage. The NEH provides seed money for high quality projects and programs that reach millions of Americans each year.

As Co-Chair of the Congressional Humanities Caucus, I am pleased to support this amendment, which would increase funding for NEH by $5 million and for NEA by a like amount.

With a modest appropriation, the Humanities Endowment provides seed money for projects including continuing education for K–12 teachers and college and university faculty, television documentaries, educational museum exhibitions, and preservation of historically important books and newspapers.

The State humanities councils, in partnership with the NEH, reach millions of Americans each year in all 50 states with such activities as teacher institutes, literacy programs, and programs on local history and culture.

Today, the humanities play an increasingly important role in preparing our students and the public to be contributing and productive American citizens who also have a global awareness.

This modest funding increase will aid NEH's efforts to conserve and nurture America's heritage, bring the humanities to communities across the country, and educate the next generation of Americans.

I encourage my colleagues to support this amendment.

Mrs. LOWEY. Mr. Chairman, I rise in support of this amendment and strongly urge its adoption.

Our contributions to the arts and humanities are the standard by which our history as a society will be measured. A strong public commitment to the arts and humanities, along with a dedication to freedom, is the hallmark of great civilizations. History has shown that religious and political freedoms go hand in hand with greater artistic and literary activity, and that the societies that flourish and have a lasting influence on humanity are those that encourage free expression in all of its forms. This is a lesson that resonates with people of every age, background, and belief, and one that we can guarantee our children learn.

Sharing ideas and images from a diverse range of hacker grounds and through many different media, the arts and humanities help to create a more informed citizenry. We are better prepared to meet the responsibilities of democracy; to ask ourselves the hard questions; to demand of our leaders the full answers; and to judge fairly the actual and potential endeavors of our country.

Our support for the arts and humanities also has a profound impact on our economy. In my Congressional District, there are close to 2,000 arts-related businesses, providing more than 9,000 jobs. This creates a substantial economic impact. Nationally, the arts industry generates $134 billion in economic activity, sustaining over 4 million jobs.
Even more significant is the return on the investment for the American taxpayer. While the Federal Government spends just over $250 million on the NEA and NEH annually, it collects over $10 billion in tax revenue related to the arts industry. Federal funding for the NEA and NEH is crucial to the arts community, helping leverage more state, local, and private funds. Clearly, the numbers show that investment in the arts is important not only to our national identity, but also to our national economy.

Mr. Chairman, we must act decisively to commit ourselves to our national heritage and culture, by voting to increase funding for the NEA and NEH. I urge my colleagues to support creativity and reflection, to support our economy, and to support the continued growth and expression of democracy in its fullest form.

Mr. HOLT. Mr. Chairman, I rise today in strong support of the Slaughter-Shays-Dicks-Leach-Price amendment to provide much needed funds for the National Endowment for the Arts and the National Endowment for the Humanities.

As a scientist, I am often advocating for investments in math, science, and technology research, development, and education. These are worthy expenditures that contribute to innovation and economic growth, but our nation requires a parallel investment in the arts to retain the cultural and creative growth that ties our diverse society together. This modest increase in funding will build programs that use the strength of the arts and our Nation’s cultural life to enhance communities in every State and every county around America. The additional funds provided through this amendment would support the very successful Challenge America program, which brings the arts to rural communities and inner-city neighborhoods whose limited resources don’t always allow for community arts programs.

In 2005, the Challenge America program provided grants to towns and cities in 99 percent of Congressional districts for jazz and blues festivals, showcases for regional musicians and artists, and public-private partnerships that bring the arts into local schools. Dozens of studies have demonstrated the significant impact these arts education programs have on students’ academic performance, self esteem, and behavior, and the Challenge America grants are an excellent mechanism to bring the arts to students who can greatly benefit from that exposure.

Since the NEH serves to advance the nation’s scholarly and cultural life, the additional funding contained in this amendment would enable NEH to improve the quality of humanities education to America’s school children, as well as to offer lifelong learning opportunities through a range of public programs, and support new projects that encourage Americans to discover their storied and inspiring national heritage.

It is clear that increasing funding for the arts and humanities are among the best investments that we as a society can make. They help our children learn. They give the elderly sustenance. They power economic development, even in regions that are down and out. Will the projects that would be sponsored by these funds be anything but worthwhile? Probably not, but they will make our country more worth defending. I urge my colleagues to support this amendment.

Ms. LEE. Mr. Chairman, I rise in strong support of the bipartisan Arts’ Caucus amendment that would fully fund the National Endowment for the Arts, NEA, and the National Endowment for the Humanities, NEH.

I would like to especially thank co-chairs of the Arts Caucus and the author of the amendment, Mr. Slaughter from New York (Ms. Slaugher) and the gentleman from Connecticut (Mr. Shays)—for their leadership on this issue.

In my district, the 9th congressional district of California, more than 10,000 people are employed in arts related jobs. They play an integral role in building and sustaining our local economy.

The AXIS Dance Company, an NEA grants recipient in Oakland California, is just one example of an organization in my community that relies on these funds to sustain their programs.

The AXIS Company includes dancers with and without disabilities. Thanks to an NEA Access to Artistic Excellence Grant, the company launched their first-ever Summer Intensive session last month.

As Judith Smith, the company’s artistic director, explains: “By presenting dance that includes dancers with and without disabilities we show youth what is possible when people with differences collaborate. . . . Ultimately it helps them see themselves and whatever they set their mind to. This is the beauty of art.”

The AXIS Company is but one example; nationally there are 548,000 arts-related businesses, but it is impossible to count how many lives are impacted by their arts. Arts speak for themselves—if you cut arts funding, you cut jobs and opportunities for all.

Mr. Chairman, I strongly urge my colleagues to vote “yes” on the Arts’ Caucus bipartisan amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentlewoman from New York (Ms. Slaugher).

The amendment was agreed to.

Ms. MILLENDER-MCDONALD. Mr. Chairman, I move to strike the last word.

Mr. Chairman, I would like to enter into a colloquy with the chairman. I would like to thank the gentleman from North Carolina in this colloquy. And, Mr. Chairman, as a resident of Southern California, I have witnessed the impact diesel emissions has had on our air quality. Our constituents are more likely to contract cancer, asthma and other respiratory problems. The emissions from heavy-duty trucks, in particular, are among the highest contributors of ground level ozone, volatile organic compounds, and particulate pollution in the country. These trucks are the highest pollutants among on-road transportation emissions sources.

As a primary player in the movement of goods, diesel engines play an important role in keeping our economy strong. While the administration has taken action with the diesel fuel emissions regulations, the EPA estimates that there are 11 million existing engines that need to be fixed. This is why providing the necessary resources for the important diesel initiatives under the Diesel Emissions Reduction Act should be central to any current national transportation plan.

We have worked extremely hard to ensure that Americans may have clean air to breathe. I know, despite the bipartisan support we received for DERA funding, finding the funds for this program was a tough process. Ultimately, while cuts had to be made to DERA’s appropriation, I am very proud to have the strong subcommittee leadership to get the funds that we did receive. However, the fight is not over.

While the $26 million will go far in the mission for reducing diesel emissions, a great deal more is needed. Despite the fact that today’s diesel vehicles are 99 percent cleaner than their 1970 counterparts, each older truck contributes an average of 1 ton of pollutants into the air per year. We must act decisively to make the environment a priority through this amendment.

I urge my colleagues also to remember that we will try to increase funding above the $26 million level, or at least to consider keeping it where it is.

Mr. Chairman, the DERA program is every important to my district. These funds play a critical role in fully integrating today’s technological advances with consumer demands and environmental needs in order to provide cleaner air where our constituents live and work. And I would like to just to the gentleman from North Carolina to the power of the administration to keep these funds above the $26 million level, or at least to consider keeping it where it is.

Mr. TAYLOR of North Carolina. Mr. Chairman, the gentlemanwoman has made a huge contribution on this matter to the committee. We did increase the amount up 12 percent from where we were. But I agree with the gentlemanwoman, if we can do more in conference, we will try to do it because the great need is there.

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will read.

The Clerk reads as follows:

In addition, $32,696,000 is for Mining Law Administration program operations, including the cost of administering the mining claim fee program; to remain available until expended, to be reduced by amounts collected by the Bureau and credited back to the appropriation from annual mining claim fees so as to result in a final appropriation estimated at not more than $867,738,000, and $32,696,000 is for wildland fire management (including Wildland Fire Management Cooperative Agreements, organized as the President recommends) for which funds are available for repayment of advances to other appropriation accounts from which... funds were previously transferred for such purposes: Provided further, That persons hired pursuant to 43 U.S.C. 1469 may be furnished subsistence and lodging without cost from funds previously transferred for such purposes: Provided further, That notwithstanding 42 U.S.C. 1856 et seq., sums received by a bureau or office of the Department of the Interior for fire suppression pursuant to section 318(d) of Public Law 102–381, funds made available in the Forest Ecosystem Health and Recovery Fund can be used for the purpose of planning, preparing, implementing and monitoring salvage timber sales and forest ecosystem health and recovery activities, such as release from competing vegetation and density reductions. The Federal share of receipts (defined as the portion of salvage timber receipts not paid to the counties under 43 U.S.C. 118f-1 et seq. and Public Law 196–320) derived from treatments funded by this account shall be deposited into the Forest Ecosystem Health and Recovery Fund.

RANGE IMPROVEMENTS

For rehabilitation, protection, and acquisition of lands and interests therein, and improvement of Federal rangelands pursuant to subsection (b) of title II of the Act of August 26, 1937 (50 Stat. 876), Congress finds it necessary to provide a Forest Ecosystem Health and Recovery Fund.

PROVIDING FUND, SPECIAL ACCOUNT

In addition to amounts otherwise authorized in Public Law 102–381, funds made available in the Forest Ecosystem Health and Recovery Fund can be used for the purpose of planning, preparing, implementing and monitoring salvage timber sales and forest ecosystem health and recovery activities, such as release from competing vegetation and density reductions. The Federal share of receipts (defined as the portion of salvage timber receipts not paid to the counties under 43 U.S.C. 118f-1 et seq. and Public Law 196–320) derived from treatments funded by this account shall be deposited into the Forest Ecosystem Health and Recovery Fund.

ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISIONS

To assure accountability and consistent application of the authorities provided herein: Provided further, That funds appropriated under this heading may be used to reimburse the United States Fish and Wildlife Service and the National Marine Fisheries Service for the costs of carrying out their responsibilities under the Endangered Species Act of 1973 (16 U.S.C. 1531 et seq.) to consult and conferences, as required by section 7 of such Act, with the Department of the Interior, the States, local, or non-profit youth groups; (3) small or micro-businesses; or (4) other entities that will hire or train a significant number of disadvantaged persons, for the purpose of developing or improving the project workforce to complete such contracts: Provided further, That in implementing this section, the Secretary shall enter into cooperative agreements and reimbursable agreements with public and private entities, to achieve the purposes of this account: Provided further, That notwithstanding the provisions of section 28f(a), by striking the phrase “for years 2004 through 2008”; and (3) in section 28g, by striking the phrase “and before September 30, 2008,”. Refunds or rebates received on an on-going basis from an information technology (IT) contractor may be deposited into the Forest Ecosystem Health and Recovery Fund.

ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISIONS

For the performance of other authorized functions, the Secretary may use funds otherwise appropriated to enter into cooperative agreements and reimbursable agreements with public and private entities, to support other endangered species, to promote and protect the rehabilitation of public lands administered through the Bureau of Land Management which have been damaged by the action of a resource developer, pursuant to the provisions of sections 28f, 28g, 28h, and 28i, by striking the phrase “and before September 30, 2008,”. Provided further, That notwithstanding the provisions of section 28f(a), by striking the phrase “for years 2004 through 2008”; and (3) in section 28g, by striking the phrase “and before September 30, 2008,”. Provided further, That notwithstanding the provisions of section 28f(a), by striking the phrase “and before September 30, 2008,”. Refunds or rebates received on an on-going basis from an information technology (IT) contractor may be deposited into the Forest Ecosystem Health and Recovery Fund.

AMENDMENT OFFERED BY MR. PUTNAM
Mr. PUTNAM. Mr. Chairman, I offer an amendment.

The Clerk read as follows:

Amendment offered by Mr. PUTNAM:

Page 16, line 13, after the dollar amount insert ``(increased by $500,000)''.

Page 107, line 21, after the dollar amount insert ``(reduced by $500,000)''.

Mr. PUTNAM. Mr. Chairman, I rise today to submit an amendment to assist States dealing with the increasing problem of alligator attacks.

As you may know, just in the past week there have been a number of at-attacks resulting in three human fatalities, just in the State of Florida. Florida is not the only State that has to deal with this problem. Citizens across Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana, South Carolina, and Texas have all been vic-ims of alligator attacks, often deadly, once a year.

The number of alligator complaints received by the Florida Fish and Wildlife Commission continues to grow. Last year there were over 18,000 complaints alone, which resulted in the removal of over 7,000 alligators.

Unfortunately, with three deaths in 1 week, current efforts are insufficient to prevent these attacks. I rise today to offer this amendment to add $500,000 to the monies available to the States to hire trappers and expand alligator trapping activities.
Our support for nuisance alligator programs helps provide the critical resources States need to respond and remove these alligators, as well as educate the public on the prevention of these attacks. Across the Gulf coast and throughout the South, these attacks are increasing in frequency and severity, and this amendment will help the States obtain the resources they need to accelerate their trapping program as we continue to face this challenge of an urban interface with wildlife that is listed as threatened not only because of their resemblance to the American alligator.

There is no population concern whatsoever with the alligator. And I thank my colleagues for their support and urge adoption of the amendment.

I see that the distinguished chairman of this subcommittee has risen, and I would be happy to yield to him for any comments.

Mr. TAYLOR of North Carolina. Mr. Chairman, I appreciate what the gentleman is going to do, but I would ask him to withdraw his amendment.

The money that you want is in control of the State, and if you could withdraw, we will sit down between now and the conference and try to work with you.

Mr. PUTNAM. Mr. Chairman, reclaiming my time, certainly I recognize the difficult position that Mr. DICKS and Mr. TAYLOR are in; in drafting an appropriate spending bill for this area, I appreciate the gentleman's expression of concern about this problem. Obviously being from the South, he understands the issues we are dealing with, and I hope that we will be able to work something out in conference toward that end.

Mr. DICKS. Mr. Chairman, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. PUTNAM. I would be happy to yield to my friend from Washington.

Mr. DICKS. Mr. Chairman, even from Washington State we understand the severity of this problem because we have seen it on national television, but I want him to know we are very willing to work with the gentleman on this issue before the conference and during the conference.

Mr. PUTNAM. We appreciate that. Obviously, the Wildlife Grant Fund is something that is a formula-driven process and was an imperfect vehicle, but we certainly wanted to take this opportunity to make the important case for doing everything we can to ameliorate what has become a deadly situation this alligator mating season.

Mr. WELDON of Florida. Mr. Chairman, I rise to express my concerns about both the underlying Peterson amendment that was adopted in the committee and the amendment offered by the gentleman from Florida. I voted against the Peterson amendment when it was offered in committee because it fails to include the 100-mile buffer along Florida's coast that I believe is important to ensuring that we can adequately protect Florida's shoreline. I am not opposed to the drilling for natural gas, provided we have a 100-mile buffer to protect Florida's coast.

I want it to be very clear what I support and that is: a policy that allows for natural gas wells 10 miles or more off the coast of Florida.

The amendment before us, offered by my Florida colleague, however, would ban natural gas wells not only along the Florida coast, but also along southern, northern California; Washington; Oregon; and the North Atlantic. It would not permit natural gas wells located 100 miles or more off the coast of Florida, and for that reason I will not support it.

There is some confusion that must be cleared up. No one here today is proposing that we allow natural gas wells within 3 miles of the Florida coast. In the event that the underlying bill before us is approved today the Presidential moratorium remains in place protecting Florida, and President Bush has pledged to ensure that Florida is permitted to maintain its existing buffer. Moreover should the Presidential moratorium be removed, the Congress must enact legislation directing the Department of Interior on where to permit Outer Continental Shelf (OCS) leases. This is not a one step process.

Some have suggested that allowing natural gas wells will do little to address the energy costs in the United States. This claim simply is not based on sound economics. As many of my colleagues know, over the past decade there has been a dramatic increase in the use of natural gas to produce electricity. Switching to natural gas for electric power generation has been a very quick and cost effective way to reduce greenhouse gas emissions. According a 2005 report from the Florida Public Service Commission, in 2003, 26 percent of Florida's electric power was generated using natural gas. By 2013, just seven years from now, the FPSC projects that over 50 percent of Florida's electric power will be generated using natural gas. Clearly, Florida is increasingly relying on natural gas to meet our everyday energy needs and ensuring a longer-term affordable supply will help keep Florida consumer's power bills affordable.

When you consider this growing reliance on clean burning natural gas along with price increases we have seen, it is clear that Florida consumers will continue to pay higher costs for electricity if we don't address natural gas supply concerns. According to the U.S. Department of Energy, the costs of natural gas for electric power generation increased 300 percent between 2000 and 2005.

I look forward to working with my colleagues to support ensuring that Florida has an adequate protective buffer while looking to meet our long-term clean energy needs.

Mr. PUTNAM. Mr. Chairman, I ask unanimous consent to withdraw the amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Florida?

There was no objection.

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will read.

The Clerk read as follows:

Appropriations and funds available to the United States Fish and Wildlife Service shall be available for purchase of not to exceed 54 passenger motor vehicles, of which 54 are for replacement only (including 15 for police-type use); repair of damage to public roads within and adjacent to reservation areas caused by operations of the Service; options for the purchase of land at not to exceed $1 for each option; facilities incident to such public recreational uses on conservation areas as are consistent with the primary purpose; and the maintenance and improvement of aquaria, buildings, and other facilities under the jurisdiction of the Service and to the extent approved by the United States Government and which are used pursuant to law in connection with management, and investigation of fish and wildlife resources.

[45x125]Mr. WELDON of Florida. Mr. Chairman, I rise today to discuss an issue of pressing national importance: the cleanup and protection of the Great Lakes. The Great Lakes comprise the largest source of freshwater in the world, 20 percent of the Earth's total and 45 percent of surface freshwater in North America. They provide drinking water, transportation, and recreation to millions of people in the U.S. and Canada. However, the Great Lakes are... plagued by contaminants from years of industrial pollution that have settled into the sediments of tributaries to the lakes. These pollutants degrade the health of both humans and wildlife and disrupt the beneficial uses of those waters. To take to these areas, the greater likelihood that the sediment will be transported into the open waters of the Great Lakes where cleanup is virtually impossible.

The Great Lakes Legacy Act, which was enacted in 2002 in response to slow cleanup progress, authorizes the EPA to clean up contaminated sediments in the Areas of Concern in the Great Lakes. This Legacy Act has an added advantage in that 35 percent of the funding comes from the local communities and the States. The Legacy Act program was funded at about $29 million last year, and the authorization is $50 million. The bill your committee drafted would support a total of $500,000 cut to the Great Lakes National Program Office, which operates the Legacy Act program, directs other EPA cleanup and protection actions in the lakes, and helps to coordinate the activities of other Federal agencies within the region. But I decided against offering an amendment because I recognize that limited resources are available to you in this bill because of your small allocation.

I can assure you that I am not the only one concerned about these funding levels. Last year over 1,500 Federal, State, and local government officials, scientists, engineers, and other stakeholders participated in the President’s groundbreaking Great Lakes Regional Collaboration. This diverse group of experts and advocates developed a strategic action plan for restoring the Great Lakes. Among the recommendations was $150 million in annual funding for the Legacy Act. This level is justified because of the success of the six projects that are completed or underway or in the pipeline and nine other potential projects being considered by the EPA. In fact, Federal and State officials involved in cleaning up contaminated sediment have recently estimated that 75 million cubic yards of sediment need to be remediated at a total cost range of $1.6 billion to $4.4 billion. The comparatively small amounts in the Legacy Act will help leverage State, local, and private dollars and get some of these ready-to-go projects off the ground.

Chairman TAYLOR, I urge you to work with your colleagues on increasing funding for this important, oversubscribed program, and help to jump-start restoration efforts for this national treasure. We simply cannot wait.

I yield now to my friend from Illinois, a stalwart champion of Great Lakes restoration and my Cochair of the Great Lakes Task Force, Mr. MR. KIRK.

Mr. KIRK. Mr. Chairman, I thank my friend for yielding and strongly share his sentiments regarding the importance of funding the Great Lakes and especially the Great Lakes Legacy Act. As the gentleman from Michigan noted, the Great Lakes are a national treasure. Our history is filled with supporting these national treasures, and in 2000 Congress and the administration rose to the occasion, providing a restoration plan for the Everglades that yielded impressive results.

Today the beginning to recognize a new effort. The Great Lakes Regional Collaboration brought together local, State, and national officials and interests, including the administration, to work on a coherent plan, a thorough plan for Great Lakes restoration and protection. Last December all Great Lakes Collaboration members met and endorsed this process. But we must go further. We must waste no time in moving forward with tangible, immediate action and funding. The Great Lakes face a myriad of threats, from invasive species to mercury contamination to the effects of long-term pollutants which are awaiting cleanup. These same Great Lakes face also are a resource for drinking water, recreation, and transportation purposes. And to protect them we must increase coordination and funding of Great Lakes programs.

The Great Lakes Legacy Act provides an essential tool for addressing sediment contamination in areas of concern in the Great Lakes. My district contains Waukegan Harbor, a contaminated area that, if properly cleaned, would increase the economic value of lakefront property by over $800 million. MR. KIRK. Mr. Chairman, I move to strike the last word.

The Great Lakes Legacy Act funding cleans one of our national treasures while simultaneously adding value to the areas it serves. I strongly urge the chairman to lend his support to this program as we move through the committee process. More funding for the Great Lakes Legacy Act is extremely important in the overall effort to clean up the Great Lakes and to restore the economy of our region.

Mr. Chairman, I yield to the chairman of the subcommittee.

Mr. TAYLOR of North Carolina, Mr. Chairman, I seek your comments of the gentleman from Michigan and the gentleman from Illinois. I recognize the importance of the Great Lakes as a natural resource and an issue of national importance. I commend those involved in the Great Lakes Regional Collaboration for their work, which will guide research managers and policymakers with a helpful guide in setting priorities and implementing critical resource and protection programs.

The committee’s allocation did not allow us to provide the sizable increase in the funding for the Great Lakes Legacy Act. Indeed, many programs in the bill are funded substantially below the 2006 level while the Great Lakes program received an increase, albeit a small one.

I would be happy to work with my colleagues to see if we might increase funding for this program should additional funds be available when we go to conference with the Senate.

Mr. EHLERS. Mr. Chairman, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. KIRK. I yield to the gentleman from Michigan.

Mr. EHLERS. Mr. Chairman, I thank the chairman for his assurance. I thank him for his consideration.

And I also wish to thank the Chairman of the Committee of the Whole House for being generous with his time and also for his hard work over the years in working for the Great Lakes.

Mr. KIRK. Mr. Chairman, I thank these two chairmen.

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will read.

The Clerk reads as follows:

NATIONAL PARK SERVICE

OPERATION OF THE NATIONAL PARK SYSTEM

For expenses necessary for the management, operation, and maintenance of areas and facilities administered by the National Park Service (including administration of the National Park Service, $1,751,317,000, of which $9,829,000 is for planning and interagency coordination in support of Everglades restoration and shall remain available until expended; of which $86,164,000, to remain available until September 30, 2008, is for maintenance, repair or rehabilitation projects for constructed assets, operation of the National Park Service administrative facility management software system, and comprehensive facility condition assessments; and of which $1,909,000 is for the Youth Conservation Corps for high priority projects: Provided, That the only funds in this account which may be made available to support United States Park Police are those funds approved for emergency law and order incidents pursuant to established National Park Service procedures, those funds needed to maintain and repair United States Park Police facilities, and those funds necessary to reimburse the United States Park Police account for the unbudgeted overtime and travel costs associated with special events for an amount not to exceed $10,000 per event subject to the review and concurrence of the Washington headquarters office: Provided further, That this account includes funds in the account which may be used for maintenance for the national parks. Almost immediately thereafter, we began a process to reopen them. We reopened them literally but we also reopened them. symbolically to say, in the words of Secretary Norton from September 12 of that year, “Even though atrocities such as those of September 11 can affect us, they cannot close us down.” She said that while standing above Hoover Dam on September 12, 2001.

Today, after a period of a couple of months after September 11, all of the facilities of the national parks were re-opened. Today these many years later, all of them are reopened except one, perhaps the most symbolic spot in all of the parks that is, the Statue of Liberty. The Statue of Liberty is still not reopened. Why? Well, it is not for lack of money. We in Congress have allocated more than $19 million to do security upgrades, to do improvements to the facility. In fact, there has been over $6 million that was raised privately. We all remember the Statue of Liberty Foundation, major companies lined up, people sent in their coffee tins. Boys and girls from around the country collected pennies and dimes and nickles to help reopen the Statue of Liberty. So it is not for lack of funding.

Frankly, the reason that the Statue of Liberty is still closed is the lack of imagination and will on the part of the Park Service. After the course of years, we in this House have said in many different ways either open it or tell us why you cannot. And each time they said things like, well, we are still pondering it, we are trying to figure it out. The final analysis is quite clear. They do not want to reopen it. They are concerned they cannot possibly make it safe. Some of us have suggested why not have no bags permitted? Why not say only a limited number of people can go in? Why not suggest that you have reservations in advance? Why not come to us and say maybe we need additional security? No. In fact, that is exactly what we have been told by the National Park Service..."}

The House of Representatives debated the amendment of Mr. Pearce. Mr. Pearce, Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman from New York. I yield to the gentleman from North Carolina. I want to thank the gentleman for yielding and I appreciate the concerns of the gentleman from New York. As the National Parks Subcommittee chairman, I would say that this issue has not been brought to us and that we would gladly hold a hearing on it. On my own last year, Mr. Chairman, last year in October I did go to the Statue of Liberty to ask similar questions. The island is open. The statue is open. The park to Ground Zero still being closed is an insult to their memory, and this is an opportunity for us to do something.

I want to thank in advance the gentleman from Washington and the chairman of the subcommittee for their indulgence. This is a chance for us to do the right thing and also do the symbolic thing.

Mrs. MALONEY. Mr. Chairman, I rise in support of the amendment.

(Mrs. MALONEY asked and was given permission to revise and extend her remarks.)

Mr. TAYLOR of North Carolina. Mr. Chairman, I rise in opposition to the amendment.

Mr. Chairman, I can understand the gentleman’s concern. The Statue of Liberty was reopened to the public on August 3, 2004, but the crown was not opened at that time, and let me tell you why the crown was not opened to the public: safety and security.
happy to have public hearings, but I would like that request submitted to the Parks Subcommittee.

I would oppose the gentleman’s amendment, with all due respect. I understand what he is trying to do, and I understand the frustration. I am not always on the side of the park’s management team, but in this case I have been; and I have taken a look at it myself and see the problems they are wrestling with. No amount of money can change the size and scope of the stairways. It is limited by the inside diameter of the statue itself.

I recognize what your concern is. Our attempt in going to see so many parks is to see how we can increase visitation, how we can increase the enjoyment. So you and I are approaching this from a very similar fashion. But, myself, I struggle.

The Park Service did have a significant study, a multiple-page study; I have copies of that and would be happy to share them with the Members of the Chamber. But, Mr. Chairman, I would oppose the amendment.

Mr. DICKS. Mr. Chairman, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. TAYLOR of North Carolina. I yield to the gentleman from Washington.

Mr. DICKS. Are you suggesting a public hearing?

Mr. PEARCE. Yes, I would be happy to do public hearings. Since I have been chairman, just almost a year; I suspect we have had hundreds of hearings on business plans and the numbers of visitors coming into parks. We have done two field hearings. We have done hearings on access for the handicapped.

So we have done multiple, multiple oversight on subjects such as this. I would be happy to work with the gentleman.

Mrs. MALONEY. Mr. Chairman, I rise in support of my colleague from New York’s amendment that would re-open all of the Statue of Liberty, the symbol of American freedom. When our Nation was attacked on September 11, 2001, a number of our national landmarks were temporarily closed to the public for security reasons. It is now four and a half years since that terrible day, and only one of these national treasures remains closed—Lady Liberty. Visitors to Liberty Island, which remains open while most of the statute is closed, have been down as much as 50 percent from pre-9/11 levels, and that hurts the economy of New York City.

Mr. Chairman, when terrorists attacked our country, they hoped that they could restrict our freedom and our way of life. They miscalculated the fervor and freedom-loving spirit of New Yorkers and Americans, who have showed their resilience. But it would be a tremendous additional display of our Nation’s ever-lasting freedom to re-open the Statue of Liberty and welcome visitors from around the world back to the statute that has long been a signal of hope. The Park Service shouldn’t have to resort to essentially holding a bake sale for private donations to get it re-opened. Our Nation’s beacon of liberty deserves better than that.

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from New York (Mr. WEINER).
to become much better for the public to be better served and for the Park Service to be better served. I thank the chairman for his indulgence.

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will read.

The Clerk read as follows:

UNITED STATES PARK POLICE

For expenses necessary to carry out the programs of the United States Park Police, $84,775,000.

NATIONAL RECREATION AND PRESERVATION

For expenses necessary to carry out recreation programs, heritage partnership programs, environmental compliance and review, international park affairs, and grant administration, $726,996,000, of which $84,775,000 is available for obligation only if matching funds are appropriated: Provided, That none of the funds provided under this heading for implementation of modified water deliveries to Everglades National Park shall be available for obligation if any of the funds appropriated to the Army Corps of Engineers for the purpose of implementing modified water deliveries, water detailed engineering and design documents for a bridge or series of bridges for the Tamiami Trail component of the project, becomes unavailability consistent with the requirements for implementation of modified water deliveries to Everglades National Park: Provided further, That none of the funds provided under this heading for implementation of modified water deliveries to Everglades National Park shall be available for obligation if any of the funds appropriated to the Army Corps of Engineers for the purpose of implementing modified water deliveries, water detailed engineering and design documents for a bridge or series of bridges for the Tamiami Trail component of the project, becomes unavailability consistent with the requirements for implementation of modified water deliveries to Everglades National Park.

LAND AND WATER CONSERVATION FUND

The contract authority provided for fiscal year 2007 by 16 U.S.C. 460l–1a is rescinded.

LAND ACQUISITION AND STATE ASSISTANCE

For expenses necessary to carry out the Land Acquisition and State Assistance Act of 1965, as amended (16 U.S.C. 460l–4 through 11), including administrative expenses, and for acquisition of lands or waters, or interest therein, in accordance with the statutory authority to acquire lands or such lands or waters (including necessary improvements) for the purpose of extinguishing or reducing liability. Franchise fees at the benefiting unit and amounts credited to a sub-account shall be available for expenditure by the Secretary, without further appropriation, for use at any unit of the National Park System for extinguishing or reducing liability. Franchise fees at the benefiting unit and amounts credited to a sub-account shall be available for expenditure by the Secretary, without further appropriation, for use at any unit of the National Park System for extinguishing or reducing liability. Franchise fees at the benefiting unit and amounts credited to a sub-account shall be available for expenditure by the Secretary, without further appropriation, for use at any unit of the National Park System for extinguishing or reducing liability.

ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISIONS

Appropriations for the National Park Service shall be available for the purchase of not to exceed 233 passenger motor vehicles, of which $7,882,000 shall be for replacement only, including not to exceed 190 for police-type use, 11 buses, and 6 ambulances: Provided, That none of the funds provided to the National Park Service may be used to implement an agreement for the redevelopment of the southern end of Ellis Island until such agreement has been submitted to the Congress and shall not be implemented prior to the expiration of 30 calendar days not including any day in which either House of Congress is not in session because of adjournment for not more than 20 days to a day certain) from the receipt by the Speaker of the House of Representatives and the President of the Senate of a full and complete documentation of the facts and circumstances relied upon in support of the proposed project: Provided further, That none of the funds provided to the National Park Service in this Act may be used to provide a grant to the Washington Tennis and Education Foundation for recreation programs designed to at-risk school children in the District of Columbia.

CONSTRUCTION

For construction, improvements, repair or replacement of physical facilities, including the acquisition of property, the Jacksonville Basin Project of the Everglades National Park Protection and Expansion Act of 1989, $229,934,000, to remain available until expended (16 U.S.C. 470), and the Omnibus Parks and Public Lands Management Act of 1996 (Public Law 104–333), $58,658,000, to be derived from the Water Conservation Fund and remain available until September 30, 2008, of which $15,000,000 shall be for Save America’s Treasures for preservation of nationally significant historic resources, and $5,000,000 of which $3,000,000 shall be for Preserve America grants to States, Tribes, and local communities for projects that preserve important historic sites, structures, and artifacts; for the Pinelands Partnership programs of the United States Park Police, $229,934,000, to remain available until expended consistent with the requirements for implementation of modified water deliveries to Everglades National Park: Provided further, That hereafter, notwithstanding any other provision of law, procurements for the National Mall and Memorial Park, Ford’s Theatre National Historical Site accessibility and infrastructure improvements may be issued which include the full scope of the project: Provided further, That the solicitation and contract shall contain the clause “availability of funds” found at 48 CFR 32.232.18.

The Clerk will read.

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will read.
The CHAIRMAN. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Colorado?

There was no objection.

Mrs. EMERSON. Mr. Chairman, I move to strike the last word.

The CHAIRMAN. Ordered.

I am pleased that the gentleman has decided to withdraw his amendment, because if he had been studying this issue as long as we had in Missouri you would find, number one, that the cost of moving the mapping facility to Denver, Colorado, is an increase to taxpayers of $2,069,322, and a 13.8 percent increase over the cost today of managing this program.

Now, let me just give you a little bit of history about this. Originally the goal was to consolidate the four USGS mapping sites and find the office that would be most competitive against the private sector. This is according to the former USGS Director. And Rolla, Missouri, the facility that we have today, has scored the best of the criteria that the USGS committee put together for this planning. As a matter of fact, it scored 4.18 out of a possible 5, and Denver scored 2.84 out of a 5. The USGS planning committee actually recommended that the mapping center be located in Rolla. It was subsequently decided by one individual within in USGS to move it arbitrarily, so that it would lose against private competitors.

And let me also say that the Inspector General who did a report at the request of Senators BOND, TALENT and I has found that USGS “failed to effectively and transparently demonstrate the entirety of its criteria or communicate the magnitude of its rationale.” In effect, the decision was made by one person who dismissed an entire team and planning process which was convened to select the site.

Mr. Chairman, I would like to yield to my colleague from Missouri (Mr. HULSHOF).

Mr. HULSHOF. I appreciate first of all the tone in which the gentleman offers this amendment. In the health care field, the Hippocratic Oath says first do no harm. A colloquialism from the outstate Missouri region that I think is appropriate here is, if it ain’t broke, don’t fix it.

I can assure my friend from Colorado that the National Geospatial Technical Operations Center in Rolla, Missouri, is a bargain for America’s taxpayers and then some. The 160 employees at USGS Rolla are extremely proficient and possess a specialized technical skill. In fact, I heard the word “obsolete.” These specialized individuals worked around the clock to produce digital data sets of graphics in the aftermath of Hurricanes Rita and Katrina.

USGS Rolla continually provides the Interior Department Inspector General the Interior Department Inspector General.

Both found the process leading to the decision to consolidate the facilities was open, fair and adequate. The mission of the USGS is to serve the Nation by providing reliable, scientific information to describe and understand the Earth, minimize loss of property from natural disasters, manage water, biological energy and mineral resources and enhance and protect the quality of life.

Its mission is not to maintain antiquated facilities or outdated paradigms to serve the parochial interests of the State or the Nation.

Mr. Chairman, I do intend to withdraw this amendment, but first would yield to my colleague from Colorado.

Mr. UDALL of Colorado. Mr. Chairman, I rise in support of this amendment.

Mr. Chairman, the gentlemen makes a compelling point that we would be following the recommendations of a number of groups. Primarily the Bush administration has pointed out that this is a sound business decision that is fair to the taxpayers.

I believe the gentlemen’s amendment should be supported today, but we will support whatever decision he decides is appropriate.

The amendment would remove language from the bill requiring the USGS to have a “full service mapping organization” at a specific location.

The Interior Department says that this would require them to continue to use outdated technology and would block them from their plans to consolidate geospatial operations.

The Bush Administration objects to the language now in the bill because they say it is not fiscally responsible and would reduce their ability to provide needed geospatial information.

In a letter to the appropriations committee, the Interior Department describes their plans as being “a sound business decision” that is “fair to the taxpayers.”

I think that description is accurate, showing that even this Administration sometimes gets things right.

So, I think that on this matter we should do what they suggest.

I urge adoption of the amendment.

Mr. TANCREDO. I yield to the gentleman from Colorado.

Mr. BEAUPREZ. I thank the gentleman for yielding.

Mr. Chairman, I would join with my additional colleague from Colorado in supporting the gentleman’s amendment. I entered into a colloquy earlier on the debate over the underlying bill and had that colloquy with the chairman of the subcommittee, and so my comments are in the Record. But I too am very supportive. I want to be on record as supporting the gentleman’s amendment in every way, shape and form, and join my colleague, Mr. UDALL, as well.

Mr. TANCREDO. Mr. Chairman, reclaiming my time. I hope we can work together on this issue.

Mr. Chairman, I ask unanimous consent to withdraw the amendment.
the gentlewoman from southeast Missouri knows is so important in response to the New Madrid fault.

USGS is not obsolete. It does play a critical role in Rolla in disaster response, and is the best and most affordable North Carolina functionality.

Mrs. EMERSON. Mr. Chairman, reclaiming my time, I want to thank the gentlemen from Missouri. I also want to point out to my colleagues from Colorado that the USGS facility in Rolla provides data to the border health issue, which I know is of great interest to the gentlemen.

And I do want to correct a mistake. I did say that Denver scored 2.84 out of 5 as compared to Rolla, which was 4.18. Denver actually scored 3.11 out of 5, as compared to 4.18 for Rolla.

Mr. TANCREDO. Mr. Chairman, I move to strike the last word. I would like to engage in a colloquy with the chairman.

Mr. Chairman. I had intended to offer an amendment that would prevent the use of funds to delay action on a petition to remove the so-called Preble’s Jumping Mouse from the Endangered Species List. I say so-called, because in December of 2003, a scientific study conducted by biologists and the Chair of the Denver Museum of Natural History’s zoology department, concluded that the Preble’s Mouse is, in fact, not really a valid subspecies at all.

Ms. RAMEY. Mr. Chairman, I stand corrected. My colleagues and I conducted a study a half century ago. We are now agreeing that Ramey’s findings contradicted a 1950 study based on just three museum specimens. That was the basis of the original “threatened” designation. Ironically, the Arizona professor who conducted the study a hundred years ago, himself now agrees that Ramey’s research invalidates his findings.

In early 2005, in the wake of Ramey’s study, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service determined the petition to delist the mouse was warranted, and the agency began the delisting process. Better late than never, although that agency began the delisting process.

Mr. Chairman, I want to bring to my colleagues’ attention a very important site called Fort King, which is in Florida. It is in my hometown of Ocala. It is a very prominent place in American history. Fort King is a site where Chief Osceola fought against the United States in the chapter of American history, the Second Seminole War. This is from 1835 to 1842.

This site in Ocala, Florida is represented by my good friend, Congressman KELLER, who also supports the idea of making Fort King part of a National Historic Landmark, because it played such a distinct role in the founding of our wonderful State of Florida.

Secretary of the Interior Gail Norton designated Fort King a National Historic Landmark on February 24, 2004, and we were greatly pleased. Then in November, 2005, Fort King entered a draft special resource study and environmental impact statement public comment period.

This continued, Mr. Chairman, and we look forward to moving Fort King along in the process, and so now I am working toward preserving Fort King in perpetuity as a National Park.

Mr. Chairman, I would like to bring this to your attention. We have put in a request to fund it, and I think my only purpose today is to bring it to the chairman and his staff’s attention how important it is to the history of Florida and its founding, and then if you in the future would consider it, that would be utmost appreciated.

Mr. Chairman, I would be glad to yield to Chairman Taylor.

Mr. TAYLOR. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman. I do recognize and appreciate you drawing it to our attention, the significance of the history of this matter, and we will take a look at it and see what we can do to work with the gentleman.

Mr. STEARNS. Mr. Chairman, re-claiming my time. I thank the gentle-

Mr. Chairman, I would like to take this opportunity to talk about an important site called Fort King, Florida, a site prominent in American history. Specifically, Fort King is the site where Chief Osceola fought against the United States, in a chapter of American history, the Second Seminole War from 1835–1842.

Then in November, 2005, Fort King entered a Draft Special Resource Study and Environmental Impact Statement public comment period. This continues, and we look forward to moving Fort King along in the process of preservation. And now, I am working towards preserving Fort King in perpetuity as a National Park. My good friend and colleague in the neighboring District, the Honorable Ric KELLER, who also represents Ocala, has collaborated with me on this effort.

Historic sites are a vital link between current and future generations of Americans and those who came before us. These landmarks give context to the national experience and help us understand our past so that we can envision our future.

What happened at Fort King? It is a very long story, about which I will elaborate longer on another occasion. The abbreviated story is that on December 28, 1835, Fort King was the site of an outbreak of hostilities between the United States Government and the Seminole Indians. The Seminoles were led in this attack by Chief Osceola. This attack began the Second Seminole War, which lasted longer than any other United States armed conflict, except for the Vietnam War.

Chief Osceola’s first appearance to the world was at Fort King in October 1834. The defiant young war chief rejected the U.S. orders to leave Florida and threatened war unless the Seminoles were left alone. There was no trust left between the U.S. Army and the Seminoles. Then came the fateful day of December 28, 1835. That morning 40 miles to the south along the Fort King Road, the Seminoles ambushed and annihilated two companies of U.S. Army regulars in route to Fort King. That afternoon, Osceola shot and killed the Indian Agent Wiley Thompson outside the walls of Fort King. The Second Seminole War had begun.

During the 7 year guerrilla war that followed, every major general and every regiment of the U.S. Army was stationed at or passed through Fort King: men who would gain fame in the Mexican and Civil Wars. And here stood the Second Seminole War from 1835–1842.

On June 12, 2003 the National Park System Advisory Board unanimously recommended Fort King for National Landmark status. On February 24, 2004 Fort King was designated as a National Landmark.

WHY A NATIONAL PARK?

Since the early 1900s local citizens recognized the historical value of this site not only to our community but to the nation. On a national level played a key role in the Second Seminole War and is strongly associated with the broader national themes of Indian Removal and Jacksonian Democracy. Manifest Destiny and Westward Expansion. The fort also had strong ties to persons, such as the famous Seminole leader Osceola and General L. Wiley Thompson, which are significant in the history of our country. Most of the West Point graduates during this time period served at Fort King.

Compared to other Second Seminole War sites, Fort King contains the greatest wealth of intact subsurface features and artifacts presently documented. Archaeologists have also found that the site contains several pre-contact American Indian components, which with further research could answer important questions about the transition between the Archaic (circa 2300–500BC) and Cades Pond (circa AD100–600) periods. Archaeological studies have already identified structures and features that relate to the early post-military use of Fort King. This site has the potential to provide important information about the establishment, early settlement and expansion of the Florida peninsula.

The City of Ocala and Marion County were politically and geographically established. The site is strongly associated with the broader national themes of Indian Removal and Jacksonian Democracy. Fort King for National Landmark status. The Marion County Commission with the help of the McCall family, City of Ocala, Bureau of Historic Preservation and Trust for Public Lands pursued the acquisition of the site from 1988 to 2001.

In 2001 the County, City, and State purchased the entire Fort King site with the City agreeing to maintain and protect the site.

Mr. POMBO. Mr. Chairman, I move to strike the last word.

Mr. Chairman, I rise to engage Chairman TAYLOR in a colloquy regarding the State Water Research Institute’s program.

Mr. TAYLOR of North Carolina. Mr. Chairman, I would be happy to discuss the matter with the distinguished chairman of the Resources Committee.

Mr. POMBO. Mr. Chairman, as chairman of the Resources Committee, I have fought to add more domestic water supplies to blunt the effects of drought, population growth, and environmental mandates. We have made significant progress in this effort, but more change can be made to existing programs to create new supplies. One needed reform is to the State Water Research Institute’s program which is funded through the USGS in this bill. This program needs to be reauthorized and changed to reflect current water supply concerns. In fact, the Resources Committee held a hearing just last week on Mr. DOOLITTLE’s bill to reauthorize the program by adding water supply creation as a focus and to create better transparency and results-oriented research.

I do concern with the appropriation in this bill to a program in desperate need of change, but I want to work cooperatively with the distinguished gentleman from North Carolina to resolve this concern. Absent such authorization, it will be difficult for Congress to continue its support for this program in the future.

Mr. TAYLOR of North Carolina. I want to ensure my colleague from California and the Resources Committee that this concern should be targeted and focused to solving real water supply problems. I am aware that the Resources Committee is advancing Mr. DOOLITTLE’s bill and that reauthorization is needed. I look forward to working with my colleague on this important issue and thank him for bringing that to our attention.

Mr. POMBO. I thank the gentleman very much.

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will read.

Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement may provide for the travel and per diem expenses of State and tribal personnel attending Office of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement-sponsored training.

ABANDONED MINE RECLAMATION FUND

For necessary expenses to carry out title IV of the Surface Mining Control and Reclamation Act of 1977, Public Law 95–87, as amended, purchase of more than 10 passenger motor vehicles for replacement only, $185,936,000, to be derived from receipts of the Abandoned Mine Reclamation Fund and to remain available until expended; of which up to $10,000,000, to be derived from the Federal Expenses Share of the Fund, shall be for supplemental grants to States for the preparation of mine reclamation plans for abandoned mines.

For the cost of guaranteed and insured loans under title IV of the Surface Mining Control and Reclamation Act, any tribe or tribal organization receiving money under section 402(g)(2) of such Act as of September 30, 2006, which would be deficient in assuring that the costs of the project are recoverable from the tribe's trust fund account, may establish for the benefit of such tribe within the meaning only, $185,936,000, to be derived from receipts of the Abandoned Mine Reclamation Fund and to remain available until expended.

ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISION

With funds available for the acquisition of perpetual water rights, the Secretary may transfer to or during fiscal year 2007, in implementing new construction or improvements, any grantee concerning a grant shall be subject to the disputes provision in 25 U.S.C. 2504(f) as the regulatory requirement to be met by the grantee.

For construction, repair, improvement, and maintenance of the Power Division of the Bureau of Indian Affairs, not to exceed $87,376,744.

INDIAN LAND AND WATER CLAIM SETTLEMENTS AND MISCELLANEOUS INDIAN PROGRAMS (INCLUDING TRANSFER OF FUNDS)

For miscellaneous payments to Indian tribes and individuals and for necessary administrative expenses, $39,213,000, to remain available until expended, for implementation of Indian land and water claim settlements pursuant to Public Laws 99–264, 100–580, 101–618, 107–351, and 107–351, and for implementation of Indian guaranteed construction, not to exceed $56,000,000, and the Indian Guaranteed Loan Program, not to exceed $26,750,000.

For the cost of guaranteed and insured loans, $6,262,000, of which $562,000 is for administrative expenses, as authorized by the Indian Guaranteed Loan Program Amendments Act of 1976: Provided further, That such costs, including the cost of modifying such loans, shall be as defined in section 502 of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974: Provided further, That these funds are available to subdivide total loan principal, any part of which is to be guaranteed, not to exceed $57,376,744.

Administrative Provisions

The Bureau of Indian Affairs may carry out the operation of Indian programs by direct expenditure, contracts, cooperative agreements, compacts and grants, and in cooperation with States and other organizations.

Notwithstanding 25 U.S.C. 15, the Bureau of Indian Affairs may make advances in support of the management, operation, and maintenance of the Power Division of the San Carlos Irrigation Project.

Provided further, That the Bureau of Indian Affairs (except the revolving fund for loans, the Indian loan guarantee and insurance fund, and the Indian Guaranteed Loan Program) may provide for the travel and per diem expenses of exhibits, and purchase and replacement of passenger motor vehicles.
Mr. THOMPSON of California. Mr. Chairman, I move to strike the last word.

Mr. Chairman, I rise to engage the chairman in a colloquy regarding the Klamath River Basin recovery in northern California.

I know the chairman would agree with me that these two occurrences demonstrate the urgent need to combine peer-reviewed science with local stakeholder cooperation in order to help fish in the Klamath Basin recover so that fishing and farming in the area can continue. Mr. Chairperson, you have helped keep the effort in the past, and I thank you for your attention to this important issue.

Mr. TAYLOR of North Carolina. Mr. Chairman, I agree with the gentleman that accurate science, local input, and the establishment of a clear plan is the best approach to solve the problems in the Klamath Basin, and the committee has tried to be helpful in this regard.

Mr. THOMPSON of California. As you know, Mr. Chairperson, one important aspect of the Klamath issue is the development of a salmon recovery plan. And no plan will be successful without broad support and voluntary cooperation by local stakeholders. Fortunately, there has been progress in the Klamath Basin to develop voluntary recovery plans and projects for the threatened Coho salmon. This has been done collectively with farmers, tribes, fishers, and scientists. Would the chairman support me in requesting that the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and the U.S. Forest Service use their existing authorities and the conservation funds identified in this bill for the Klamath Basin to implement the salmon recovery projects that have been developed by this local stakeholder group?

Mr. TAYLOR of North Carolina. I agree with the gentleman that plans that identify locally supported and on-the-ground recovery projects are an important part of helping to solve the problems in the Klamath Basin. And no plan will be successful without broad support and voluntary cooperation by local stakeholders.

Further, the Committee would be glad to facilitate a meeting as soon as possible with the appropriate agencies of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service on this important issue. I thank the gentleman for bringing this to our attention.

Mr. THOMPSON of California. I thank the chairman for his cooperation.

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will read.

The Clerk reads as follows:

Notwithstanding any other provision of law, no funds available to the Bureau, other than the amounts provided herein for assistance to public schools under 25 U.S.C. 452 et seq., shall be available to support the operation of any elementary or secondary school in the State of Alaska.

Notwithstanding any other provision of law, no funds available to the Bureau, other than the amounts provided herein for assistance to public schools under 25 U.S.C. 452 et seq., shall be available to support the operation of any elementary or secondary school in the State of Alaska.

Mr. THOMPSON of California. Mr. Chairman, I move to strike the last word.

Mr. Chairman, as you know, salmon fishing off the coast of California and Oregon has been shut down this year due to poor returns of Chinook salmon to the Klamath River in the Klamath Basin. Communities in the Klamath Basin were similarly shut down due to the resource problems in this watershed.

I know the chairman would agree with me that these two occurrences demonstrate the urgent need to combine peer-reviewed science with local stakeholder cooperation in order to help fish in the Klamath Basin recover so that fishing and farming in the area can continue. Mr. Chairperson, you have helped keep the effort in the past, and I thank you for your attention to this important issue.

Mr. TAYLOR of North Carolina. Mr. Chairman, I agree with the gentleman that accurate science, local input, and the establishment of a clear plan is the best approach to solve the problems in the Klamath Basin, and the committee has tried to be helpful in this regard.

Mr. THOMPSON of California. As you know, Mr. Chairperson, one important aspect of the Klamath issue is the development of a salmon recovery plan. And no plan will be successful without broad support and voluntary cooperation by local stakeholders. Fortunately, there has been progress in the Klamath Basin to develop voluntary recovery plans and projects for the threatened Coho salmon. This has been done collectively with farmers, tribes, fishers, and scientists. Would the chairman support me in requesting that the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and the U.S. Forest Service use their existing authorities and the conservation funds identified in this bill for the Klamath Basin to implement the salmon recovery projects that have been developed by this local stakeholder group?

Mr. TAYLOR of North Carolina. I agree with the gentleman that plans that identify locally supported and on-the-ground recovery projects are an important part of helping to solve the problems in the Klamath Basin. And no plan will be successful without broad support and voluntary cooperation by local stakeholders.

Further, the Committee would be glad to facilitate a meeting as soon as possible with the appropriate agencies of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service on this important issue. I thank the gentleman for bringing this to our attention.

Mr. THOMPSON of California. I thank the chairman for his cooperation.

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will read.

The Clerk reads as follows:

Notwithstanding any other provision of law, no funds available to the Bureau, other than the amounts provided herein for assistance to public schools under 25 U.S.C. 452 et seq., shall be available to support the operation of any elementary or secondary school in the State of Alaska.

Notwithstanding any other provision of law, no funds available to the Bureau, other than the amounts provided herein for assistance to public schools under 25 U.S.C. 452 et seq., shall be available to support the operation of any elementary or secondary school in the State of Alaska.
Under Chairman Taylor’s leadership, and I might say also Ranking Member Dicks’, we have been able to achieve historic levels of PILT funding. We thank them both for that and for their efforts this year that have nearly restored last year’s PILT funding levels.

Mr. SALAZAR to redirect $16 million
Mr. S ALAZAR, Mr. Chairman, I offer an amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will designate the amendment.

The text of the amendment is as follows:

Amendment No. 10 offered by Mr. CANNON: Page 46, line 8, after the dollar amount insert “increased by $16,000,000.” Page 47, line 1, after the first dollar amount insert “(increased by $16,000,000).”

Mr. TAYLOR of North Carolina. Mr. Chairman, I ask unanimous consent to the request of the gentleman from Colorado (Mr. CANNON).

Mr. CANNON. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, I rise in support of this amendment that I offer on behalf of myself, Mr. MARK UDALL, Mr. ROB BISHOP, Mr. RAHALL, Mr. GIBBONS, and Mr. DICKS.

I would like to redirect $16 million from Departmental salaries and expenses to the Payment in Lieu of Taxes program.

I am pleased to be working with this bipartisan group and thank the gentleman from North Carolina.

There was no objection.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Utah is recognized for 10 minutes.

Mr. CANNON. I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, I rise in support of this amendment that I offer on behalf of myself, Mr. MARK UDALL, Mr. ROB BISHOP, Mr. RAHALL, Mr. GIBBONS, and Mr. DICKS.

I would like to redirect $16 million from Departmental salaries and expenses to the Payment in Lieu of Taxes program.

I am pleased to be working with this bipartisan group and thank the gentleman from North Carolina.

The CHAIRMAN. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Colorado?

There was no objection.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Utah is recognized for 10 minutes.

Mr. CANNON. I rise in support of this amendment that I offer on behalf of myself, Mr. MARK UDALL, Mr. ROB BISHOP, Mr. RAHALL, Mr. GIBBONS, and Mr. DICKS.

I would like to redirect $16 million from Departmental salaries and expenses to the Payment in Lieu of Taxes program.

I am pleased to be working with this bipartisan group and thank the gentleman from North Carolina.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Utah is recognized for 10 minutes.

Mr. CANNON. I rise in support of this amendment that I offer on behalf of myself, Mr. MARK UDALL, Mr. ROB BISHOP, Mr. RAHALL, Mr. GIBBONS, and Mr. DICKS.

I would like to redirect $16 million from Departmental salaries and expenses to the Payment in Lieu of Taxes program.

I am pleased to be working with this bipartisan group and thank the gentleman from North Carolina.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Utah is recognized for 10 minutes.

Mr. CANNON. I rise in support of this amendment that I offer on behalf of myself, Mr. MARK UDALL, Mr. ROB BISHOP, Mr. RAHALL, Mr. GIBBONS, and Mr. DICKS.

I would like to redirect $16 million from Departmental salaries and expenses to the Payment in Lieu of Taxes program.

I am pleased to be working with this bipartisan group and thank the gentleman from North Carolina.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Utah is recognized for 10 minutes.

Mr. CANNON. I rise in support of this amendment that I offer on behalf of myself, Mr. MARK UDALL, Mr. ROB BISHOP, Mr. RAHALL, Mr. GIBBONS, and Mr. DICKS.

I would like to redirect $16 million from Departmental salaries and expenses to the Payment in Lieu of Taxes program.

I am pleased to be working with this bipartisan group and thank the gentleman from North Carolina.
Mr. CANNON. Mr. Chairman, I want to thank the gentleman from Colorado for his comments, and I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Nevada (Mr. GIBBONS). Mr. GIBBONS. Mr. Chairman, I want to thank the gentleman from Colorado for yielding the time, and, Mr. Chairman, I am grateful to stand here in support of this bipartisan amendment, grateful not just as a Member of Congress from Nevada, but as member of the Western Caucus as well.

Mr. Chairman, as you can see, in Nevada, the Federal Government owns more than 60 million acres of land, which equates to nearly 87 percent of the State. More often than not, for those of us in the West, the Federal Government is not just our neighbor, it is the neighborhood. With such a large Federal presence comes significant challenges, especially in our rural communities.

The PILT program helps compensate for the responsibility of our rural communities to generate sufficient property tax revenues needed for schools and local infrastructure because of the overwhelming Federal land ownership, and since Nevada cannot generate revenue from 87 percent of the State, PILT funding is vital. Yet the program has never been adequately funded.

In my congressional district alone, Nevada has lost more than $68 million over the last 10 years because PILT has not been fully funded.

I want to thank the chairman, Mr. TAYLOR, for his efforts to increase PILT this year. The $198 million requested by the administration was very disappointing and would only serve to exacerbate the current funding discrepancy and increase the burden on our rural communities.

Chairman Taylor added $30 million to the PILT this year above the administration’s request, and for that we are grateful but we cannot stop there.

This amendment will allow all communities, and especially our rural communities, to continue to provide not only for their residents but for essential services for visitors to our public lands such as law enforcement, emergency health care, and search and rescue.

It bears mentioning again that Nevada cannot raise revenue from more than 60 million acres of land, and since Nevada cannot generate revenue from nearly 87 percent of the State, PILT funding is vital. Yet the program has never been adequately funded.

Mr. RAHALL. Mr. Chairman, I rise in strong support of the amendment to increase funding for PILT.

I am proud to join my colleagues from Western States to make the point that PILT is a vital part of communities across this great land. PILT funds are vital because our communities are safer, cleaner and healthier. If 49 of our 50 States—from Maine, to West Virginia, to California. In seeking adequate PILT funding, we are truly all in this together.

Now some may say that, in the grand scheme of our Federal budget, PILT payments are just not important. Well I can tell you that the PILT funding received by Greenbrier County or Pocahontas County in West Virginia is crucial to their ability to provide the quality and quantity of local services the families of West Virginia deserve.

I am also here to support more funding for PILT because I support public land ownership and acquisition, where it is appropriate. As the ranking member on the House Resources Committee, I have the privilege of working with my colleagues to oversee our national parks, forests and refuges. These lands are part of our national identity and they are a birthright we will pass on to future generations of Americans.

But along with responsibility for these public lands comes a responsibility to the surrounding local communities. PILT payments compensate these local communities for lost revenue due to public land ownership. Making good on those payments is part of being a good steward but it is also part of being a good neighbor, and that is something we take very seriously in West Virginia.

The budget priorities chosen by this administration and this Congress force many very painful decisions. However, funding for a program as broad and important to local governments as PILT must be funded adequately. I urge adoption of this amendment.

Mr. RAHALL. Mr. Chairman, I yield back my time.

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Utah (Mr. CANNON).

Mr. CANNON. Mr. Chairman, I rise in strong support of the amendment to increase funding for PILT.

Mr. RAHALL. Mr. Chairman, I rise in strong support of the amendment to increase funding for PILT.
the vast majority could greatly benefit from energy saving improvements.

According to the EPA, energy costs represent a typical school district's second largest operating expense after salaries, more than the cost of computers and textbooks combined. Amazingly, in a typical school, one-third of the energy used goes to waste, largely due to old and poorly functioning equipment, poor insulation, and outdated technology.

Unfortunately, school administrators are often hard pressed to allocate any of their limited funds toward improving the energy efficiency of their buildings and systems, even when it is clear that such improvements would save them substantial sums of money that could help pay for their other needs.

Fortunately, the EPA has an energy conservation program that can help these schools do just that: to implement energy-saving strategies that save money, help children learn about energy, and create improved teaching and learning environments.

In short, Mr. Chairman, the EnergyStar Program helps our Nation's schools to implement energy saving strategies that save money, help children learn about energy and create improved teaching and learning environments. This amendment would provide an increase of $1.8 million, and while I do not approve of the proposed offset, I am prepared to accept the amendment and we will do that.

Mr. Chairman, I move to strike the last word.

This amendment would provide an increase of $1.8 million, and while I do not approve of the proposed offset, I am prepared to accept the amendment and we will do that.

Mr. Chairman, the question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Vermont (Mr. SANDERS).

TAYLOR of North Carolina. Mr. Chairman, I yield back the balance of my time.

Unfortunately, school administrators are often hard pressed to allocate any of their limited funds toward improving the energy efficiency of their buildings and systems, even when it is clear that such improvements would save them substantial sums of money that could help pay for their other needs.

Fortunately, the EPA has an energy conservation program that can help these schools do just that: to implement energy-saving strategies that save money, help children learn about energy, and create improved teaching and learning environments.

The EPA’s EnergyStar Program, in its partnership with America’s K through 12 school districts, is committed to building a new national infrastructure of schools that are smart about every aspect of energy.

In addition to helping school districts save up to 30 percent on their energy bills each year, energy efficiency prevents greenhouse gas emissions and improves students’ learning environment. Schools that are well lit, well ventilated, and in good repair create a healthy, comfortable learning and teaching environment. A better physical environment is among the many factors that have been demonstrated to contribute to increased learning and productivity in the classroom, which in turn affects performance and achievement.

Right now, more than 200 school districts across the country are partnering with EnergyStar. But for a Nation whose schools spend $5 billion annually on energy, there is obviously a lot of work to do. Of the 11,000 school buildings that have been rated, only 16 percent of the Nation’s total school building inventory, only 530 schools have earned an EnergyStar rating by achieving a score of 75 or higher, a score that means that they use about 40 percent less energy than average buildings.

Fortunately, the EPA is now working with partners such as the National School Boards Association, the National Parent-Teacher Association, and the Sustainable Buildings Industry Council to collaboratively improve the energy efficiency and the indoor environments of many more of our Nation’s K through 12 schools. These efforts are helping school districts to save big on utility bills and maintenance costs, in turn making it possible for parents, computers and teachers, and to improve indoor air quality and comfort. These efforts deserve our support.

In short, Mr. Chairman, the EnergyStar Program helps our Nation’s schools to implement energy saving strategies that save money, help children learn about energy and create improved teaching and learning environments. This amendment would add $1,800,000 to the budget line for work in our Nation’s K through 12 school systems.

Mr. Chairman, I yield back the balance of my time.
for approval: Provided further, That the Secretary shall provide a semi-annual report to the Committees on Appropriations on reimbursable support agreements between the Office of the Secretary and the National Business Center and the bureaus and offices of the Department, including the amounts billed pursuant to such agreements.

GENERAL PROVISIONS, DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR

SEC. 101. Appropriations made in this title shall be available for expenditure or transfer (within each bureau or office), with the approval of the Secretary, for the emergency restoration, replacement, or repair of aircraft, buildings, utilities, or other facilities or equipment damaged or destroyed by fire, flood, or other unavoidable causes: Provided, That no funds shall be made available under this authority until funds specifically made available to the Department of the Interior for emergencies shall have been exhausted: Provided further, That all funds used pursuant to this section must be replenished by a supplemental appropriation which must be requested as promptly as possible.

SEC. 102. The Secretary may authorize the expenditure or transfer of any non year appropriation in this title, in addition to the amounts provided in the budget program of the several agencies, for the suppression or emergency prevention of wildland fires on or threatening lands under the jurisdiction of the Department of the Interior; for the emergency rehabilitation of burned-over lands under its jurisdiction; for emergency actions related to potential or actual earthquakes, floods, volcanic eruptions, or other unavoidable causes; for contingency planning subsequent to actual oil spills; for response and natural resource damage assessment activities related to actual oil spills for the prevention, suppression, and control of actual or potential grasshopper and Mormon cricket outbreaks on lands under the jurisdiction of the Secretary, pursuant to the authority in section 1773(b) of Public Law 99–198 (99 Stat. 1658); for emergency reclamation projects under section 410 of Public Law 95–87; and shall transfer, from any non year funds available to the Office of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, such funds as may be necessary to the Office of the Secretary for permit review and other regulatory programs of the Department of the Interior for emergencies, pursuant to the authority in section 1774 of Public Law 95–164 (99 Stat. 2035).

The estimates for the amounts of oil and gas in this region range from trillion to trillion cubic feet of natural gas and trillion barrels of crude oil. The energy market is driven by the total amount of natural gas and oil that is available in the environment.

The risks to the beaches in this area are self-evident as to the values of the resources that are threatened. The safety record is exemplary, and I would say to the gentleman that I appreciate that. It was my intent to offer an amendment, a separate and apart from the spending bill, and I would agree with him that it addresses the particular issue.

Mr. CONWAY. Mr. Chairman, I rise today to talk about an issue that is in every paper and on every television program almost, on every news channel, and that is the supply of oil and gas that this country not only uses but in particular produces.

For 25 years now, we have used this appropriations bill to unnecessarily restrict access by those who would explore for oil and gas to lands and properties and, in this instance, the Outer Continental Shelf, where it is clear that significant supplies of oil and natural gas exist. The additional production that would be gained from these areas would provide money to the Federal Treasury, not only the balance of payment, but also the high price of gas that consumers are dealing with.

However, this is an important balancing act that this Congress must consider very carefully. Whatever we do as it relates to offshore drilling ought to be done in a comprehensive manner, it ought to have the input of the States, and it ought to recognize the sensitive areas.

My friend from Texas makes a very important point about the economic necessity and, frankly, the improvements in technology that allow for safer production and safer exploration capabilities. But it is my belief, and this is my belief, that the State of Florida and other coastal areas have been dealing with the for the past 25 years in terms of the appropriateness of the moratorium. This particular issue is one that has obviously reached critical mass, with the public opinion of the State of Florida and delegations, that we must deal with this separate and apart from the spending bill.

We must also deal with it in a way that does not expose an area as close to the beaches as 3 miles to the prospect of oil and gas rigs, and one which allows a range of input from throughout the membership so that we can move forward with the goal of dealing with our national energy crisis, do it in a comprehensive way, and do it in a way that respects the rights of States to opt in or opt out, as appropriate, dealing with their own individual environmental sensitivities.

We recognize our obligation as Floridians, indeed, as major energy consumers, that we have an obligation to review our previous positions. We recognize the improvements in technology. But, frankly, 3 miles off of our coast is an unacceptable limit, and we believe that this issue is best served as a stand-alone comprehensive bill.
from Florida and the chairman, and in the interest of working on a comprehensive solution that addresses the supply issues that face our Nation, as well as the States’ rights issues that are very legitimate concerns as to where the drilling begins off a particular State’s coast, and the opportunity to allow each State to make that decision for their own, as Texas has done for many, many years, I ask unanimous consent to withdraw my amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. Without objection, the gentleman’s amendment is withdrawn.

There was no objection.

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will read.

The Clerk read as follows:

SEC. 106. No funds provided in this title may be expended by the Department of the Interior to conduct offshore oil preleasing, leasing and related activities in the eastern Gulf of Mexico planning area for any lands located outside Sale 181, as identified in the final Outer Continental Shelf 5-Year Oil and Gas Leasing Program, 1997–2002.

SEC. 105. No funds provided in this title may be expended by the Department of the Interior to conduct oil preleasing, leasing and related activities in the Mid-Atlantic and South Atlantic planning areas.

AMENDMENTS OFFERED BY MR. POE

Mr. POE. Mr. Chairman, I offer three amendments, and I ask unanimous consent they be considered en bloc.

The CHAIRMAN. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Texas?

Mr. TAYLOR of North Carolina. Mr. Chairman, reserving the right to object, and I will not object, with the understanding with the gentleman that he will agree with a unanimous consent request that I will make to limit debate on the amendment to 10 minutes, with 5 minutes divided on each side. Does the gentleman share that understanding?

Mr. POE. That is correct, Mr. Chairman.

The CHAIRMAN. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Texas?

There was no objection.

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will report the amendments.

The Clerk read as follows:

Amendments offered by Mr. POE:

Mr. TAYLOR of North Carolina. Mr. Chairman, I ask unanimous consent that the debate on this amendment and any amendments thereto be limited to 10 minutes to be equally divided and controlled by the proponent and myself, the opponent.

The CHAIRMAN. Without objection, they may be considered under that limitation.

There was no objection.

Mr. POE. Mr. Chairman, the United States has to be more self-sufficient when it comes to energy. We import 60 percent of our crude oil from foreign countries. In doing so, we are subject to the illegal price-fixing cartel known as OPEC. The Gulf of Mexico is responsible for one-third of the domestic oil production and 20 percent of the domestic natural gas production. My amendment would prohibit any moratoria on energy exploration along the Outer Continental Shelf.

Right now, Mr. Chairman, the areas shaded in blue are where we drill offshore. We drill offshore of the coast of Texas, Louisiana, and part of Mississippi and Alabama. All of the red on the West Coast, East Coast, and the other parts of the Gulf of Mexico are prohibited by law. Since the 1980s, Congress has been placing appropriations moratoriums on drilling in all these red areas that are outlined on the map, which is about 90 percent of the Outer Continental Shelf that is off limits to energy development.

All of these areas in these coastal States are producing cheap gasoline and they want natural gas, but they do not want to drill in their neighborhoods. They would rather that Texas and Louisiana keep drilling in our neighborhoods. We can’t have it both ways, cheap gasoline and refuse to drill offshore. It seems to me to be somewhat hypocritical, because this does not make sense.

In the Outer Continental Shelf there are about 300 trillion cubic feet of natural gas and more than 50 billion barrels of oil yet to be discovered! That is enough natural gas or oil to replace current imports from the Persian Gulf for 60 years and produce gasoline for 116 million cars for 15 years. And these are conservative estimates, since these areas are largely unexplored. There is going to be drilling off this area because Cuba and China are already making plans to drill 47½ miles off Florida in those rich gulf reserves. It seems to me that we should take advantage of those reserves.

While people talk about the pollution that comes from drilling, many of the problems have been overstated. According to the 2002 National Academy of Sciences report, the largest cause of pollution is from nature. Shown by this chart, 60 percent of the pollution to our shores is by nature itself. So the best way we prevent the number one cause of pollution to our shores is to eliminate this and drill for it.

Boating. All those boats off the shores of our coasts are producing 32 percent of the oil seepage. Tankers from the Middle East are 3 percent. And offshore drilling only accounts for 2 percent of the pollution to our shores.

It obviously makes sense to drill offshore, Mr. Chairman, because nature is the primary cause of the pollution to our beaches.

When Katrina and Rita hit the gulf coast this last year, over 100 platforms were damaged. But seepage from the Gulf of Mexico almost did not exist because the valves and the pumps for these offshore rigs were shut off immediately. So it seemed that opening up these areas would be an obvious choice.

We are the only major industrial power in the world that has this silly rule about not drilling offshore. They don’t have those rules in Norway or Russia or the rest of the world, and they do so safely. It is important that we use some common sense.

Americans worry about skyrocketing energy prices and lack of energy and electricity solutions. A decision where we drill is going to have to be made and made very soon by Americans. This is a price issue, but it is also a national security issue. Those who say “no” to offshore drilling have no solutions to this problem. We can drill offshore safely, environmentally correct; and when we get over the fear factor and take control of our own energy needs, this country will be better off.

I yield 1 minute to Mr. GREEN from Texas.

Mr. GENE GREEN of Texas. Mr. Chairman, Members, I want to thank my colleague for yielding me a minute. I support his amendment. Obviously, I think that would be the ideal provision we could do to eliminate a moratorium. The committee, I think, has struck a compromise on natural gas, although Congressman POE and I know the difficulties of just drilling for one substance over the other. But obviously I support that and I think the committee, though, came up with a compromise, and we will fight that battle later.

Mr. POE. Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. TAYLOR of North Carolina. I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Florida (Mr. FOLEY).

Mr. FOLEY. Mr. Chairman, I certainly understand the politics of petroleum. But I represent Florida, and I represent the coast that produces a valuable resource for tourism, the environment, the ecology.

Let me remind my colleagues the area that they are proposing to drill both oil and natural gas wells has recently been referred to as Hurricane Alley. The gulf coast, we all know now, after Katrina, is responsible for 25 percent of U.S. production of natural gas. Following Katrina and Rita, almost 75 percent of the natural gas production in the gulf was shut down and not producing.

As of May 3, almost 13 percent of natural gas production in the Gulf of Mexico was still offline 9 months later. So it begs the question, why would you put more rigs in a vulnerable place? Why do I understand the argument States like drilling, like oil and like offshore rigs. And my question, or my statement, to you is, have at it. But I do want to have the opportunity as a Floridian to defend our shoreline having oil drilling rigs off our coastline.

Several Governors are opposed to the provisions, including Governor Schwarzenegger; my own Governor
Mr. TAYLOR of North Carolina. I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Florida (Mr. YOUNG).

Mr. YOUNG of Florida. Mr. Chairman, this is not some political issue. This is serious business. You are dealing with some of the fragile marine ecosystems in the world. This moratorium was put on here for a good reason. And I mentioned earlier during general debate, it has evolved into a workable, effective protection for those ecosystems.

The ecology of some of those Florida waters is just unbelievable. Now, the authorizing committee has been working on this issue for several months trying to come up with a good answer, a good responsible answer. Now, this is being offered without any hearings by the subcommittee, no hearings by full committees, just as a whim to accomplish something that some special interests want to see accomplished. This is not good government. This is a bad amendment, and we need to be very careful about what we do, not only on this amendment today, but on the Peterson amendment that we will deal with later.

The CHAIRMAN. All time for debate pursuant to the unanimous consent request has expired.

The question is on the amendments offered by the gentleman from Texas (Mr. POE).

The question was taken; and the Chairman announced that the noes appeared to have it.

Mr. POE. Mr. Chairman, I demand a recorded vote.

The CHAIRMAN. Pursuant to clause 6 of rule XVIII, further proceedings on the amendments offered by the gentleman from Texas will be postponed.

The Clerk will read.

The Clerk reads as follows:

S. 107. Appropriations made in this Act under the headings Bureau of Indian Affairs and Office of Special Trustee for American Indians and any unobligated balances from prior appropriations Acts made under the same headings shall be available for expenditure or transfer for Indian trust management and reform activities, except that total funding for historical accounting activities shall not exceed amounts specifically designated in this Act for such purpose.

S. 108. Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the Secretary of the Interior is authorized to redistribute any Tribal Priority Allocation funds, including tribal base funds, to alleviate tribal funding inequities by transferring funds to address identified, unmet needs, dual enrollment, overlapping service areas or inaccurate distribution methodologies. No tribe shall receive a redistribution of Tribal Priority Allocation funds of more than 10 percent in fiscal year 2007. Under circumstances of dual enrollment, overlapping service areas or inaccurate distribution methodologies, the 10 percent limitation does not apply.

S. 109. Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the Secretary of the Interior is authorized to redistribute any Tribal Priority Allocation funds, including tribal base funds, to alleviate tribal funding inequities by transferring funds to address identified, unmet needs, dual enrollment, overlapping service areas or inaccurate distribution methodologies. No tribe shall receive a redistribution of Tribal Priority Allocation funds of more than 10 percent in fiscal year 2007. Under circumstances of dual enrollment, overlapping service areas or inaccurate distribution methodologies, the 10 percent limitation does not apply.

Mr. TAYLOR of North Carolina. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. PALLONE).

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Chairman, I rise in opposition to this amendment. In my home State of New Jersey, tourism supports nearly 500,000 jobs and indirectly generates $16.6 billion in wages and $5.5 billion in State tax revenues. Much of that enormous economic engine is driven by our coastline which we have worked hard to protect.

All it takes is one incident from an industrial drilling rig sitting in the ocean to put this entire economic engine at risk. What this amendment would do is open up OCS areas as close as 3 miles from shore to drilling. There is no buffer here, no minimum barrier. If we pass this amendment, we can see drilling rigs as close as 3 miles from our shores. And for what?

This will do nothing for the price of oil. It takes up to 7 years to begin producing from an offshore lease.

And I would also like to know why the oil industry is getting these areas open for drilling when they have thousands of leases already in place, both onshore and offshore that they haven’t bothered to explore.

Mr. Chairman, our coasts are simply too valuable to risk this if we had to do a balancing act, there is no way you could support this amendment.

I urge a "no" vote on this amendment.

Mr. TAYLOR of North Carolina. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the gentlewoman from California (Mrs. CAPPS).

Mrs. CAPPS. Mr. Chairman, I rise in strong opposition to the Poe amendment, and I would like to set the record straight. This current ban on new drilling is actually two moratoria, one of which is enacted by Congress annually through a ban on Federal funding to drill for oil in areas now off limits.

In addition, there is a complementary moratorium put into place originally in 1991 through an executive moratorium that, after expiring till 2012 by Bill Clinton, emulated by the current President in his current 2007 budget.

The provision in the Interior bill and in the Poe amendment eliminate the annual congressional moratoria. It doesn’t end the Presidential moratorium. However, the President certainly has the authority to revive or revoke this existing Presidential moratorium before 2012.

I am not a betting person, but I would wager that if Congress eliminates the moratorium through this legislation and encourages the President to do the same, he is going to revoke the Presidential moratorium. Why not? Drilling advocates will argue that the people, through Congress, have spoken in favor of new drilling; and when that Presidential moratorium is revoked, it would mean an immediate end to the ban on new drilling in waters off our coastal States.

It is not just coincidental this amendment is coming up just as the next 5-year plan is being enacted. This would happen right away.
(1) for the benefit of the National Wildlife Refuge System within the State of Minnesota; and (2) for all activities authorized by Public Law 108–98, 16 U.S.C. 46522.

Sec. 111. Funds provided in this Act for Federal Units of the National Park Service for Shenandoah Valley Battlefields National Historic District and Ice Age National Scenic Trail, and funds provided in division A, title V, section 5305 (42 U.S.C. 15951 et seq.) for land acquisition at the Niobrara National Scenic River, may be used for a grant to a State, a local government, or any other land management entity for the acquisition of lands without regard to any restriction on the use of Federal land acquisition funds provided through the Land and Water Conservation Fund Act unless amended.

Sec. 112. None of the funds made available by this Act may be obligated or expended by the National Park Service to enter into or implement a contract or permit or the removal of the underground lunchroom at the Carlsbad Caverns National Park.

Sec. 131. None of the funds made available in this Act may be used: (1) to demolish the bridge between Jersey City, New Jersey, and Ellis Island; or (2) to prevent pedestrian use of such bridge, when such pedestrian use is consistent with generally accepted safety standards.

Sec. 132. None of the funds in this or any other Act can be used to compensate the Special Master and the Special Master-Monitor, and all variations thereto, appointed by the United States District Court for the District of Columbia in the Cobell v. Norton litigation at an annual rate that exceeds 200 percent of the highest Senior Executive Service rate of pay for the Washington-Baltimore metropolitan area.

Sec. 115. The Secretary of the Interior may use discretionary funds to pay private attorney fees for employees and former employees of the Department of the Interior reasonably incurred in connection with Cobell v. Norton to the extent that such fees and costs are actually incurred by the Department of Justice or by private insurance. In no case shall the Secretary make payments under this section that would result in payment of hourly fees in excess of the highest hourly rate approved by the District Court for the District of Columbia for counsel in Cobell v. Norton.

Sec. 116. The United States Fish and Wildlife Service shall, in carrying out its responsibilities to protect threatened and endangered species of salmon, implement a system of management structures and harvest methods intended for harvest, that are released from Federally operated or Federally financed hatcheries including but not limited to fish released on or into federal waters, and to maintain sufficient numbers of salmon to spawn.

(b) INDIAN INDIAN LAND.—Nothing in this section permits the conduct of gaming under the Indian Gaming Regulatory Act (25 U.S.C. 2701 et seq.) on land described in section 123 of the Department of the Interior and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 2001 (114 Stat. 944), or land that is contiguous to the land described in section 123 of the Department of the Interior and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 2001, if that portion of the land has been taken into trust by the Secretary of the Interior.

Sec. 118. notwithstanding the provisions of this Act, the Secretary shall provide for the Department of the Interior by this Act or any other Act shall be used to study or implement any plan to drain Lake Powell or to remove or mitigate any water levels below the range of water levels required for the operation of the Glen Canyon Dam.

Sec. 119. nothing in this Act limits the authority of the Secretary to implement a concession contract which permits or requires the removal of the undersea communications cable under the land and water conservation fund Act unless amended.

Sec. 120. Notwithstanding any implementation of the Secretary that they have the capability to do so, the Department shall provide funds to the tribes within the California Tribal Trust Reform Consortium and to the Salte River Pomo-Martico Indian Community, the Salt and Kootenai Tribes of the Flathead Reservation and the Chippewa Cree Tribe of the Rocky Boys Reservation through the same methodology as those in fiscal year 2003. This Demonstration Project shall continue to operate separate and apart from the Department of the Interior’s trust reform and reorganization efforts. The Department shall not impose its trust management infrastructural upon or alter the existing trust resource management systems of the above referenced tribes having a contract and operating in accordance with the Tribal Self-Governance Program set forth in 25 U.S.C. 458aa-588h.

The California Trust Reform Consortium and any other participating tribe agree to carry out their responsibilities under the same written and implemented fiduciary standards as those being carried by the Secretary of the Interior. The Consortium shall demonstrate to the satisfaction of the Secretary that they have the capability to do so.

Sec. 121. Notwithstanding any provision of law, the Secretary is authorized to negotiate and enter into leases, subleases, concession contracts including franchise fees (and other monetary considerations) for the management within the past 9 years, shall be renewable for that portion of the grazing allotment for the winter use season of 2006–2007.

Sec. 122. Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the Animal Unit Months authorized in any nonrenewable grazing permit between March 1, 1997, and February 28, 2005, shall continue in effect under the renewed permit. Nothing in this Act shall be deemed to extend the renewed permit beyond the standard 1-year term.

Sec. 123. Upon the request of the permittee for the Clark Mountain Allotment lands adjacent to the Mojave National Preserve, the Secretary shall issue a special use permit for the portion of the allotment located within the Preserve. The special use permit shall be issued with the same terms and conditions as the most recently issued permit. It shall be the responsibility of the Secretary to ensure that the permit be one transferred in accordance with section 325 of Public Law 108–108.

Sec. 124. Notwithstanding any other Act the Secretary may determine reasonable.

Sec. 125. None of the funds in this or any other Act may be used to set up Centers of Excellence and Partnership Skills Bank training without prior approval of the House and Senate Committees on Appropriations.

TITLE II—ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION AGENCY

SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY

For science and technology, including research and development activities under the Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation, and Liability Act of 1980, as amended, there is appropriated to the Secretary of the Interior by this Act or any other Act, not exceeding $85,000 per project, $808,044,000, to remain available until September 30, 2008.

ENVIRONMENTAL PROGRAMS AND MANAGEMENT

For environmental programs and management, including necessary expenses not otherwise provided for, for personnel and related costs and travel expenses, including uniforms, or allowances therefor, as authorized by 5 U.S.C. 5901–5902; services as authorized by 5 U.S.C. 3109, but at rates for individuals not to exceed the per diem rate equivalent to the maximum rate payable for senior level positions in the Executive Office of the President; and administrative costs and travel expenses, not to exceed $85,000 per project, $808,044,000, to remain available until September 30, 2008. shall not serve as the Inspector General for the Chemical Safety and Hazard Investigation Board.

BUILDINGS AND FACILITIES

For construction, repair, improvement, expansion, purchase, and alteration of equipment or facilities, or for use by the Environmental Protection Agency, $38,816,000, to remain available until expended.

HAZARDOUS SUBSTANCE SUPERFUND (INCLUDING TRANSFERS OF FUNDS)

For necessary expenses to carry out the Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation, and Liability Act of 1980 (CERCLA), as amended, including sections 111(c)(3), (c)(5), (c)(6), and (e)(4) (42 U.S.C. 9611), and for construction, alteration, repair, rehabilitation, and renovation of facilities supported by section 303 of the Project, $1,256,855,000, to remain available until expended, consisting of such sums as are available in the Trust Fund on September 30, 2006, as authorized by section 517(b) of SARA, as amended: Provided, That funds appropriated under this heading may be allocated on a priority basis as authorized by section 517(b) of SARA, as amended: Provided, That funds appropriated under this heading, $15,316,000 shall be transferred to the "Office of Inspector General" appropriation to remain available until September 30, 2008, and $30,011,000 shall be transferred to the "Science and Technology" appropriation to remain available until September 30, 2008.

LEAKING UNDERGROUND STORAGE TANK PROGRAM

For necessary expenses to carry out the leaking underground storage tank cleanup activities authorized by section 102(a)(6) of the Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation, and Liability Act of 1980 (CERCLA), as amended, including grants, interagency agreements, and associated program support costs; $26,000,000 shall be for the national grant and loan program authorized by section 792 of the Energy Policy Act of 2005 for the National Clean Diesel Initiative, and $1,122,584,000 shall be for grants, including associated program support costs, to States, federally-recognized tribes, interstate agencies, tribal consortia, and air pollution control agencies for multi-media or single media pollution prevention, control and abatement and related activities, including activities pursuant to section 108(3)(A) of the Air Act for greenhouse gas monitoring and data collection activities subject to terms and conditions specified in the explanatory statement of the managers accompanying this Act, and, for purposes of these grants, each grantee shall contribute not less than 10 percent of the funds appropriated for the project unless the grantee has been approved for a waiver; $80,118,000 shall be to carry out section 114(a) of the Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation, and Liability Act of 1980 (CERCLA), as amended, including grants, interagency agreements, and associated program support costs; $39,816,000, to remain available until expended.

OIL SPILL RESPONSE

For expenses necessary to carry out the Environmental Protection Agency's responsibilities under the Oil Pollution Act of 1990, $16,506,000, to be derived from the Oil Spill Liability Trust Fund, to remain available until expended.

STATE AND TRIBAL ASSISTANCE GRANTS (INCLUDING RESCSSION OF FUNDS)

For environmental programs and infrastructure assistance, including capitalization grants for State revolving funds and performance partnership grants, $3,007,348,000, to remain available until expended, of which $687,555,000 shall be for making capitalization grants to the Clean Water State Revolving Funds under title VI of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act (33 U.S.C. 1301) and the Drinking Water State Revolving Funds under section 1492 of the Safe Drinking Water Act, as amended; $24,750,000 shall be for architectural, engineering, planning, design, construction and related activities in connection with the construction of high priority water and wastewater facilities in the area of the United States-Mexico border, after consultation with the appropriate border commission; $14,850,000 shall be for grants to address the needs of drinking water and waste infrastructure needs of rural and Alaska Native Villages: Provided, That, of these funds: (1) the State of Alaska may use 25 percent; (2) no more than 5 percent of the funds may be used for administrative and overhead costs; and (3) Alaska Native Village Corporations and Alaska Native tribal governments shall make awards consistent with the State-wide priority list established in 2004 for all water, sewer, waste disposal, and similar projects carried out by States that are funded under section 221 of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act (33 U.S.C. 1301) or the Consolidated Farm and Rural Development Act (U.S.C. 1921 et seq.) which shall allocate not less than 25 percent of the funds provided for projects in regional hub communities: $200,000,000 shall be for making special project grants for construction of drinking water, wastewater, and storm water infrastructure and for water quality protection in accordance with the terms and conditions specified in the explanatory statement of the managers accompanying this Act, and, for purposes of these grants, each grantee shall contribute not less than 10 percent of the funds appropriated for the project unless the grantee has been approved for a waiver by the Agency; $89,119,000 shall be to carry out section 102(b) of the Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation, and Liability Act of 1980 (CERCLA), as amended, including grants, interagency agreements, and associated program support costs; $26,000,000 shall be for the national grant and loan program authorized by section 792 of the Energy Policy Act of 2005 for the National Clean Diesel Initiative, and $1,122,584,000 shall be for grants, including associated program support costs, to States, federally-recognized tribes, interstate agencies, tribal consortia, and air pollution control agencies for multi-media or single media pollution prevention, control and abatement and related activities, including activities pursuant to section 108(3)(A) of the Air Act for greenhouse gas monitoring and data collection activities subject to terms and conditions specified in the explanatory statement of the managers accompanying this Act, and, for purposes of these grants, each grantee shall contribute not less than 10 percent of the funds appropriated for the project unless the grantee has been approved for a waiver; $80,118,000 shall be to carry out section 114(a) of the Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation, and Liability Act of 1980 (CERCLA), as amended, including grants, interagency agreements, and associated program support costs; $39,816,000, to remain available until expended.

AMENDMENT OFFERED BY MR. TAYLOR OF NORTH CAROLINA

Mr. TAYLOR of North Carolina. Mr. Chairman, I offer an amendment.

The Clerk read as follows:

The amendment was agreed to.

On page 67, line 2, strike "$3,007,348,000" and insert in lieu thereof "$3,009,348,000".

Mr. TAYLOR of North Carolina. Mr. Chairman, this amendment would increase the EPA State and Tribal Assistance Grants account by $2 million for the National Clean Diesel Initiative. This is an amendment that was authorized by the Energy Policy Act of 2005. These funds will be used to retrofit school buses and heavy duty trucks and contribute significantly to reducing harmful emissions into the air.

I urge a "yes" vote on the amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from North Carolina (Mr. Taylor). The amendment was agreed to.

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will read.

The Clerk read as follows:
Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Chairman, I am introducing this amendment with the gentlwoman from California (Ms. SOLIS) to protect local communities’ rights to know if toxic chemicals are being dumped in their backyard.

Eighteen years ago Congress passed the Emergency Planning and Community Right-to-Know Act, which established the Toxics Release Inventory Program. The program does not force companies to reduce the amount of toxic chemicals they use. Rather, it requires that they disclose the types and amounts of chemicals used at a particular facility and how those substances were disposed of, recycled, or released into the environment.

This critical disclosure requirement lets communities know specifically how much of which chemicals are being dumped where. For citizens concerned about their health, this information is useful. It can even be a host of other constituencies, including workers who could be affected on the job site, first responders and others who need to plan for incidents at specific facilities.

Not only does the program provide this important information to those who need it, it also has been extremely successful at getting companies to voluntarily reduce their toxic releases. Since the program started, overall toxic releases have declined by nearly 50 percent around the country.

In fact, the chemical industry themselves thinks this is a good program. Earlier this year the Washington Post quoted Michael Walls, manager of Regulatory and Technical Affairs for the American Chemistry Council, saying, ‘It’s one of the most successful regulatory programs we have been involved in.’

Unfortunately, Mr. Chairman, the EPA does not seem to agree. Last year they proposed a set of changes that EPA does not force companies to reduce the amount of toxic chemicals they use. Rather, it requires that they disclose the types and amounts of chemicals used at a particular facility and how those substances were disposed of, recycled, or released into the environment.

This critical disclosure requirement lets communities know specifically how much of which chemicals are being dumped where. For citizens concerned about their health, this information is useful. It can even be a host of other constituencies, including workers who could be affected on the job site, first responders and others who need to plan for incidents at specific facilities.

Not only does the program provide this important information to those who need it, it also has been extremely successful at getting companies to voluntarily reduce their toxic releases. Since the program started, overall toxic releases have declined by nearly 50 percent around the country.

In fact, the chemical industry themselves thinks this is a good program. Earlier this year the Washington Post quoted Michael Walls, manager of Regulatory and Technical Affairs for the American Chemistry Council, saying, ‘It’s one of the most successful regulatory programs we have been involved in.’

Unfortunately, Mr. Chairman, the EPA does not seem to agree. Last year they proposed a set of changes that would seriously undermine the intent of the program.

First, they are proposing to eliminate reporting for more than 22,000 facilities that release up to 5,000 pounds of toxic chemicals every year. These facilities would switch to a simple form merely indicating which chemicals they have on site, not how they are released and in what quantities.

Second, the EPA is proposing to eliminate the same type of detailed reporting from facilities that manage up to 500 pounds per year of persistent bio-accumulative chemicals, some of the deadliest substances used in industry today. These chemicals, which include mercury and lead, can cause serious harm even in tiny quantities.

And, third, EPA is proposing to require that companies report only every other year rather than every year as the program currently requires. This final change makes the least sense of all. EPA themselves point out that data for certain chemicals can swing widely from year to year depending on the actions of one particular facility such as a large mining operation.

The EPA would gut the intent of the TRI program, and I would like to remind my colleagues that this program was created in the wake of the Bhopal disaster in India, where toxic chemicals at a Union Carbide facility more than 20 years ago killed thousands. We have the program so we know where we might have the potential for another Bhopal, but also so we know where toxic chemicals could pose serious threats to public health.

So I would like to emphasize again to my colleagues that our amendment is really about protecting community right to know. It is about standing up for the principle that your constituents should be able to find out what toxic chemicals might be getting dumped in area streams, pumped out into the air, or trucked to a nearby landfill. And it is really about protecting successful program, one of the few that has been consistently recognized even by industry as being effective and worthwhile.

Mr. Chairman, I ask that my colleagues join me in supporting this amendment, and I would like to thank Chairman TAYLOR for being open to discuss this issue, and I hope that we can continue to work together.

Mr. TIAHRT. Mr. Chairman, I move to strike the last word.

Mr. Chairman, I rise in opposition to this proposal, this amendment, and I want to tell you it is really difficult for me to see us put more and more barriers in the way of keeping and creating jobs in America.

What the gentleman is doing with his amendment is striking language that will allow reforms to the Toxic Release Inventory annual reporting requirements. The reason it is important is because it directly affects small businesses. In fact, it has a tremendously greater impact on small businesses than it does on large companies.

There was an example given by W. Mark Crain in a report called The Impact of Regulatory Costs on Small Firms. It was done by the Small Business Administration Advocacy Group, the overall regulatory burden was, as estimated by Mr. Crain, to exceed $1.1 trillion in 2004. The costs have gone up since then. But for manufacturing firms of fewer than 20 employees, the annual regulatory burden of 2004 was $284 per employee. It was more than half greater than the $874 burden per employee with firms of 500 or more employees. So by striking this language, you target the small businesses, and in Kansas small businesses are four times more likely to do new and creative jobs. So this does not get at the job in America because it raises costs making us less competitive.

Now, the EPA has followed the proper process of reforms. In response to the continuing calls for this Toxic Release Inventory annual reporting system, EPA conducted stakeholders outreach meetings in 2003. It took public make the environment any cleaner. It will only cost us jobs. Again, ninety-nine percent of the same information will still be reported under the reforms conducted by EPA and put in place correctly by EPA.

So for that reason I rise in opposition to the gentleman's proposal, and I encourage all my colleagues to vote against this amendment.

Mr. TAYLOR of North Carolina. Mr. Chairman, I move to strike the requisite number of words.

The amendment would block the EPA from changing the reporting requirements for toxic releases. I appreciate the proponent's concerns that the information on toxic releases should be reported in a timely manner and that this information should be publicly available. These concerns are shared by many State and local officials.

On the other hand, I believe that some accommodation should be made by EPA for small businesses that have no toxic releases or have only trace amounts of toxic releases.

I am prepared to accept the amendment today with the understanding that we will work with EPA to determine how we can accomplish the amendment's goals without placing unnecessary reporting burdens on business that release no toxic or have only trace amounts.

I commend the amendment's authors for pursuing this and look forward to working with EPA on that matter.

Mr. TAYLOR of North Carolina. Mr. Chairman, I move to strike the requirement on these toxic inventories.

The Acting CHAIRMAN (Mr. FOLEY).

The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. PALLONE).

The question was taken; and the Amendment was agreed to.

Mr. PENCE. Mr. Chairman, I demand a recorded vote.

The Acting CHAIRMAN. Pursuant to clause 6 of rule XVIII, further proceedings on the amendment offered by the gentleman from New Jersey will be postponed.

Mr. TAYLOR of North Carolina. Mr. Chairman, I move that the Committee do now rise.

The motion was agreed to.

Accordingly, the Committee rose; and the Speaker pro tempore (Mr. SHIMKUS) having assumed the chair, Mr. FOLEY, Acting Chairman of the Committee of the Whole on the State of the Union, reported that that Committee, having had under consideration the bill (H.R. 5386) making appropriations for the Department of the Interior, environment, and related agencies for fiscal year ending September 30, 2007, and for other purposes, had come to no resolution thereon.

UNITED STATES HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Mr. TAYLOR of North Carolina. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that further consideration of H.R. 5386 in the Committee of the Whole pursuant to House Resolution 818, notwithstanding clause 11 of rule XVIII, no further amendments to the bill may be offered except pro forma amendments offered at any point in the reading by the chairman or ranking minority member of the Committee on Appropriations or their designees for the purpose of debate.

Amendments printed in the Record and numbered 1 and 7.

The amendment printed in the Record and numbered 6, which shall be debateable for 30 minutes.

An amendment by Mr. PUTNAM regarding a moratorium on drilling in the OCS, which shall be debateable for 60 minutes;

An amendment by Mr. CHABOT regarding a limitation on funds for roads in the Tongass National Forest, which shall be debateable for 20 minutes;

An amendment by Mr. OBERSTAR regarding a limitation on funds for activities under the Clean Water Act, which shall be debateable for 30 minutes;

An amendment by Mr. HINCHLEY regarding a limitation on funds for suspension of royalty relief, which shall be debateable for 30 minutes;

An amendment by Mr. OBEN or Mr. DICKS addressing global climate change by modifying the amount provided for EPA Environmental Programs and Management, which shall be debateable for 30 minutes;

An amendment by Mr. OBEY regarding funding increases for various accounts, which shall be debateable for 30 minutes;

An amendment by Mr. TIAHRT regarding business competitiveness;

An amendment by Mr. GARY MILLER of California regarding the San Gabriel Watershed;

An amendment by Mr. CONAWAY regarding EPA drinking water regulations for arsenic;

An amendment by Mr. GORDON regarding Federal building energy use;

An amendment by Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas regarding a limitation on funds for urban reforestation;

An amendment by Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas regarding a limitation on funds for Smithsonian outreach programs;

An amendment by Mr. GARRETT of New Jersey regarding Federal employee travel to conferences;

An amendment by Mr. DOETZ regarding a limitation on funds to enforce the Indian Gaming Regulatory Act;

An amendment by Mr. ANDREWS regarding Forest Service salaries and expenses;

An amendment by Mr. MEEHAN regarding EPA national emissions standards;
An amendment by Mr. TAYLOR of North Carolina regarding funding for various accounts;
An amendment by Mr. BEAUPREZ regarding funding for wildland fire management;
An amendment by Mr. FLAKE regarding any Iowa State University project on mitigating emissions from egg farms;
An amendment by Mr. FLAKE regarding funding for ivory-billed woodpecker research;
An amendment by Mr. FLAKE regarding funding for Neosha National Fish Hatchery;
An amendment by Mr. FLAKE regarding funding for the Blackwater National Wildlife Refuge;
An amendment by Mr. FLAKE regarding Santa Ana River Wash program;
An amendment by Mr. FLAKE regarding staffing for the National Zoological Park;
An amendment by Mr. FLAKE regarding NFS recreation sites in North Carolina;
An amendment by Mr. FLAKE regarding citrus studies in Florida;
An amendment by Mr. FLAKE regarding the Pacific Crest National Scenic Trail;
An amendment by Mr. FLAKE regarding the Florida National Scenic Trail;
An amendment by Mr. FLAKE regarding the Continental Divide National Trail.

Each such amendment may be offered only by the Member named in this request or a designee, or by the Member who caused it to be printed in the RECORD or a designee, shall be considered as read, shall not be subject to amendment except that the chairman and ranking minority member of the Committee on Appropriations and the Subcommittee on Interior, Environment, and Related Agencies each may offer one pro forma amendment for the purpose of debate, and shall not be subject to a demand for division of the question in the House or in the Committee of the Whole.

Except as otherwise specified, each amendment shall be debateable for 10 minutes, equally divided and controlled by the proponent and an opponent. An amendment shall be considered to fit the description stated in this request if it addresses in whole or in part the object described.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from North Carolina?

Mr. OBEY. Mr. Speaker, reserving the right to object, I don't intend to object, but I do want to point out to each and every Member that if this unanimous consent agreement is accepted by the body, the way I count it, that means that we will go to about 12 o'clock tonight before we begin to vote. I ask that Members remember that as they are entertaining their enthusiasm for offering a number of these amendments tonight. It just seems to me that Members need to know that this is going to take a long, long time; and we would appreciate it being shortened by people whenever it is possible to do so. Mr. Speaker, I withdraw my reservation of objection.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from North Carolina?

There was no objection.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to House Resolution 818 and rule XVIII, the Chair declares the House in the Committee of the Whole House on the State of the Union for the further consideration of the bill, H.R. 5386.

[1553]

IN THE COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE

Accordingly, the House resolved itself into the Committee of the Whole House on the State of the Union for the further consideration of the bill, H.R. 5386.

The Acting CHAIRMAN. When the Committee of the Whole rose earlier today, a request for a recorded vote on the amendment offered by the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. PALLONE) had been postponed and the bill had been read through page 73, line 8.

Pursuant to the order of the House of today, no further amendment to the bill may be offered except those specified in the previous order of the House of today, which is at the desk.

The Clerk will read.

The Clerk read as follows:

GENERAL PROVISIONS, ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION AGENCY

SEC. 201. None of the funds made available by this Act, or amended as provided by any subsequent legislation or, in the event such legislation is not enacted, by the Act for fiscal year 2007 or any subsequent fiscal year, under section 3 of Public Law 71–319 (16 U.S.C. 671 et seq.) and amounts for hazardous fuels reduction at the end of fiscal years 2006 and 2007 shall be transferred to the fund established pursuant to section 3 of Public Law 71–319 (16 U.S.C. 576 et seq.) if necessary to reimburse the fund for unpaid past advances: Provided further, That such funds shall be available to reimburse State and other cooperating entities for services provided in response to wildfire and other emergencies or disasters to the extent such reimbursable amounts are required by the Forest Service for non-fire emergencies and for wildfire suppression on or adjacent to such lands or other lands under fire protection agreement, hazardous fuels reduction on or adjacent to such lands, and for emergency rehabilitation activities and to make competitive research awards in support of fire science research in support of the Joint Fire Science Program: Provided further, That such funds shall be available to reimburse State and other cooperating entities for services provided in response to wildfire and other emergencies or disasters to the extent such reimbursable amounts are required by the Forest Service for non-fire emergencies and for wildfire suppression on or adjacent to such lands or other lands under fire protection agreement, hazardous fuels reduction on or adjacent to such lands, and for emergency rehabilitation activities and to make competitive research awards in support of fire science research in support of the Joint Fire Science Program: Provided further, That such funds shall be available to reimburse State and other cooperating entities for services provided in response to wildfire and other emergencies or disasters to the extent such reimbursable amounts are required by the Forest Service for non-fire emergencies and for wildfire suppression on or adjacent to such lands or other lands under fire protection agreement, hazardous fuels reduction on or adjacent to such lands, and for emergency rehabilitation activities and to make competitive research awards in support of fire science research in support of the Joint Fire Science Program: Provided further, That such funds shall be available to reimburse State and other cooperating entities for services provided in response to wildfire and other emergencies or disasters to the extent such reimbursable amounts are required by the Forest Service for non-fire emergencies and for wildfire suppression on or adjacent to such lands or other lands under fire protection agreement, hazardous fuels reduction on or adjacent to such lands, and for emergency rehabilitation activities and to make competitive research awards in support of fire science research in support of the Joint Fire Science Program: Provided further, That such funds shall be available to reimburse State and other cooperating entities for services provided in response to wildfire and other emergencies or disasters to the extent such reimbursable amounts are required by the Forest Service for non-fire emergencies and for wildfire suppression on or adjacent to such lands or other lands under fire protection agreement, hazardous fuels reduction on or adjacent to such lands, and for emergency rehabilitation activities and to make competitive research awards in support of fire science research in support of the Joint Fire Science Program.
Renewable Resources Research Act, as amended (16 U.S.C. 1614 et seq.), $43,000,000 is for State fire assistance, $12,810,000 is for volunteer fire assistance, $14,800,000 is for forest health activities on Federal lands and $10,000,000 is for forest health activities on State and private lands: Provided further, That amounts in this paragraph may be transferred among the ''State and Private Forestry'', ''National Forest System'', and ''Forest and Rangeland Research'' accounts to fund State fire assistance, volunteer fire assistance, management of forest and rangeland research, vegetation and watersheds management, heritage site rehabilitation, and wildlife and fish habitat management: Provided further, That transfers of any amounts in excess of those authorized in this paragraph, shall require approval of the House and Senate Committees on Appropriations in compliance with reprogramming procedures contained in the report accompanying this Act: Provided further, That the costs of implementing any cooperative agreement between the Federal Government and any non-Federal entity may be shared, as mutually agreed on by the affected parties: Provided further, That in addition to funds provided for emergency fire suppression programs, and subject to all authorities available to the Forest Service under the State and Private Forestry Appropriation, up to $10,000,000 may be used on adjacent non-Federal lands for the purpose of protecting communities when hazard reduction activities are planned on national forest lands that have the potential to place such communities at risk: Provided further, That included in funding for hazardous fuel reduction is $8,000,000 for implementing the Community Forest Protection Act, Public Law 106-393, title VI, and any portion of such funds shall be available for use on non-Federal lands in accordance with authorities available to the Forest Service under the State and Private Forestry appropriation: Provided further, That the Secretary of the Interior and the Secretary of Agriculture may authorize the transfer of funds appropriated for wildfire management, in an aggregate amount not to exceed $9,000,000, between the Departments when such transfers would facilitate and expedite joint federal wildfire management programs and projects: Provided further, That of the funds for hazardous fuels reduction, not to exceed $5,000,000, may be used to make grants, using any authorities available to the Forest Service under the State and Private Forestry appropriation, for the purpose of creating incentives for increased use of biomass from national forest lands: Provided further, That funds designated for wildfire suppression shall be assessed for indirect costs on the same basis as such assessments are calculated against other agency programs.

AMENDMENT NO. 5 OFFERED BY MR. BEAUPREZ

Mr. BEAUPREZ. Mr. Chairman, I offer the following amendment.

The Acting CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will designate the amendment.

The text of the amendment is as follows:

Amendment No. 5 offered by Mr. Beaugrez

In title III of the bill under the heading "WILDLAND FIRE MANAGEMENT (INCLUDING TRANSFER OF FUNDS)", insert after the first dollar amount the following: "increased by $28,700,000".

In title III of the bill under the heading "NATIONAL ENDOWMENT FOR THE ARTS—GRANTS PROGRAM", insert after the first dollar amount the following: "reduced by $30,000,000".

The Acting CHAIRMAN. Pursuant to the order of the House of today, the gentleman from Colorado (Mr. BEAUPREZ) and a Member opposed each will control 5 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Colorado, Mr. BEAUPREZ.

Mr. BEAUPREZ. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, simply put, this amendment will reduce funding for the National Endowment for the Arts by $30 million and transfer those funds to the United States Forest Service to reduce the threat of catastrophic wildfires.

Earlier this week, I was pleased to support the passage of the Forest Emergency Recovery and Research Act because it will expedite the restoration of forest land affected by catastrophic wildfires. However, we can all agree that prevention comes first. Additional resources are needed if we are to get a handle on the wildfire crisis gripping the West.

In 2002, the American taxpayers spent over $1.5 billion containing these devastating blazes. When Congress spends so much annually to put out wildfires, doesn’t it make more sense to spend that money on additional thinning treatments that could help prevent these fires from starting in the first place?

According to the House Resources Committee, 190 million acres of BLM and Forest Service land are at risk to catastrophic wildfire. To put that in perspective, this area is larger than the States of California and Arizona combined.

The Wall Street Journal reported that parts of the National Forest system contained more than 400 tons of dry fuel per acre, or 10 times the manageable or appropriate level. Disease and insect infestation have also contributed to an increase in combustible fuels.

In Colorado alone, my State, surveys have recorded that approximately 1.2 million trees were killed by mountain pine beetle outbreaks in 2004. This is nearly 100 times the mortality rate reported in 1996, the first year a study was released by the Colorado Forest Service on pine beetles damage.

Unfortunately, beetle kill leaves behind the kind of timber that turns small fires into the kinds of infernos that have devastated Colorado and other Western States of recent years, destroying homes, poisoning the air, scorching critical habitat, and choking streams and rivers with tons of sot and sediment.

Even worse, increased attention to thinning and fuel treatments efforts with legislation like the Healthy Forest Initiative, more funding is needed.

Since the majority of our forests are federally owned, the burden to protect our States and local communities from catastrophic fires falls with the Federal agencies designated to protect them. Congress must fully fund their needs.

The question arises, Why take funding from the NEA? I actually applaud the progress that has been made recently by the NEA in repairing a very damaged image in the view of many Americans. It is important, however, to recognize that only a small percentage of funding for the arts comes from the Federal Government. In 2001, Americans spent $27 billion on non-profit arts funding. At $124 million, the NEA funding is just a drop in the bucket for an art industry that seems to be doing exceedingly well.

Congress has to choose its fiscal priorities and obligations responsibly. This amendment amounts to one-tenth of one percent of total arts funding, but it is a massive help to ensure the safety of our western communities, prevent forest fires and save lives.

Anyone who has witnessed the devastation to life, property, wildlife, water and air from the monster that is a forest fire understands that investing in prevention infinitely outweighs the in-calcuable long-term costs of a forest fire. This amendment allows us to invest in prevention, Mr. Chairman, and I urge its adoption.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. TAYLOR of North Carolina. Mr. Chairman, I rise in opposition to this amendment.

Mr. Chairman, no one is a stronger supporter of the National Forests and the wildfire program. But this amendment goes too far. The amendment cuts the NEA funding drastically, and this is much too much of a cut.

The President’s budget in the committee bill is a fair amount, is level funding with the fiscal year 2006 enacted level. We did raise it slightly and agreed to that.

But that remains to be seen. We should support the NEA. The reforms with this committee are working. The new chairman of the NEA is doing an excellent job of ensuring that important works are supported and that funding is well distributed.

The bill makes a very strong contribution to the National Fire Plan. It is something that Members can be proud of. The bill increases overall wildfire funding $80 million over last year. That includes a large $70 million increase for Forest Service fuel reduction, and this is $34 million above the 2005 level.

I agree with the gentleman that this work is essential, but the agencies can only ramp up so fast. So extra funding is not necessarily needed this year.

Mr. Chairman, the gentleman is incorrect when he says that the fire funding is down 14 percent from 2005. His calculations may have included the $500 million in emergency funding provided that year. Not counting the emergency fire suppression funds, this bill is $145 million above the 2005 funding level, and this is enough for these fiscally tight times.
I also want to point out that this bill has increased funding for forest health management, an important key for preventing forest fires by $31 million above the President’s request, and I want to point out that the Forest Service was able to carry over extra wildfire suppression funds from 2005 to this year.

So they have or should have plenty of funds for the fire season absent a catastrophic season. Despite the good intentions behind this amendment, we do not need this additional increase for the fund’s work at this time. We should not gut the administration’s effort in the NEA.

Mr. DICKS. Mr. Chairman, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. TAYLOR of North Carolina. I yield to the gentleman from Washington.

Mr. DICKS. Mr. Chairman, I want to say to the gentlemen, our committee has been a great advocate for money for fire. We have $40 million below its high point back in 1994. Fund programs in all States. This would be a devastating cut, and we do not need the money for fire. And I have offered amendment after amendment after amendment to put emergency fire money in when it is necessary.

Also, the agencies can borrow money internally if necessary to deal with the problem. So I urge a no on this amendment. I think it is well intended, but simply not necessary and would do great damage to the NEA.

Mr. Chairman, I urge a no vote.

Mr. BEAUPREZ. Mr. Chairman, I appreciate the chairman. I will be brief. I respect and appreciate the effort put forth by the minority as well as the majority side of the committee on this issue.

But with all due respect, I would point out again that the private sector, and a very large private sector, supports our arts industry. The public sector, we in government, have an obligation to look after the government’s assets and people’s lives, and that is what is at stake with this amendment.

With all due respect to the comments that have already been made, no one looks after our national forests other than we in government, and I would encourage both the chairman and the ranking member at the next opportunity to come out to the West and visit and see the devastation the pine beetle damage has created in our forests. We are sitting literally on a matchbox awaiting someone to light the first match.

I urge the adoption of this amendment. I think it is common sense. I think it is about us in government establishing priorities to protect and defend our Nation’s assets and our citizens’ lives.

Mr. Chairman, I yield back the balance of my time.

The Acting CHAIRMAN (Mr. Bishop of Utah). The gentleman from North Carolina has 1½ minutes remaining.

Mr. TAYLOR of North Carolina. Mr. Chairman, I yield 1½ minutes to the gentleman from Idaho (Mr. Simpson).

Mr. SIMPSON. I thank the gentleman for yielding.

Mr. Chairman, I do not disagree with what the gentleman from Colorado is saying. There has been devastation in the West, and we need the funding for firefighting and so forth. But I will tell you that taking it out of the NEA is the wrong place in the bill.

Mr. Chairman, they have done a tremendous job under the chairmanship of Gloia. They have brought the NEA back to what we originally intended it to be, and that is a means of getting the arts out to the rest of America, to rural America, particularly.

And if you will look at some of the programs that they have, their masters program and shore program, and others, they have done a great job of getting the rest of rural America exposed to these types of things. That is what the NEA is all about.

And yes, there is private organizations that fund a lot of these. But oftentimes it is in conjunction with private and public financing. Sometimes they just finance a very small portion of it. So I think that while I agree with the gentlemen’s intent in terms of fire protection, I think taking the money out of the NEA, which is substantially below what it was in its high peak as was mentioned, I think is the wrong direction to go and would set this program back, when it is moving in the direction that we all hope it will go.

Mr. Chairman, I appreciate the gentleman’s amendment, but I will be voting against it.

Mr. TAYLOR of North Carolina. Mr. Chairman, I yield back the balance of my time.

The Acting CHAIRMAN. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Colorado (Mr. Beauprez).

The question was taken; and the Acting Chairman announced that the noes appeared to have it.

Mr. BEAUPREZ, Mr. Chairman, I demand a recorded vote.

The Acting CHAIRMAN. Pursuant to clause 6 of rule XVIII, further proceedings on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Colorado will be postponed.

The Acting CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will read.

The Clerk read as follows:

CAPITAL IMPROVEMENT AND MAINTENANCE (INCLUDING TRANSFER OF FUNDS)

For necessary expenses of the Forest Service, not otherwise provided for, $41,025,000, to remain available until expended for construction, reconstruction, maintenance, and acquisition of, buildings and other facilities, and for forest roads, trails, and other public roads, including $45,000 for the Homewood Conservation Project in Lake Tahoe, California.

For expenses necessary to carry out the provisions of the Land and Water Conservation Fund Act of 1965, as amended (16 U.S.C. 460l–4 through 11), including administrative expenses, and for acquisition of land or waters, or interest therein, in accordance with such Act, the Secretary shall accept not to exceed $411,025,000, to be derived from the Land and Water Conservation Fund and to remain available until expended.

For expenses necessary to construct a wildfire management training facility in San Bernardino County, shall be transferred within 15 days after enactment of this Act to the Forest Service, ‘‘Wildland Fire Management’’ account and shall be available for hazardous fuels reduction, hazardous fuel mitigation, and rehabilitation activities of the Forest Service in the San Bernardino National Forest so long as this funding is not needed to be, and that is a means of getting the arts out to the rest of America, to rural America, particularly.

And if you will look at some of the programs that they have, their masters program and shore program, and others, they have done a great job of getting the rest of rural America exposed to these types of things. That is what the NEA is all about.

Mr. TAYLOR of North Carolina (during the reading). Mr. Chairman, I ask unanimous consent that the remainder of title IV be considered as read, printed in the RECORD, and open to amendment at any point.

The Acting CHAIRMAN. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from North Carolina?

There was no objection.

The text of the remainder of title IV is as follows:

SEC. 402. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall remain available for obligation beyond the current fiscal year unless expressly so provided herein.

SEC. 404. None of the funds provided in this Act to any department or agency shall be obligated or expended for personal cook, chauffeur, or other personal servants to any officer or employee of such department or agency except as otherwise provided by law.

SEC. 405. Estimated overhead charges, deductions, reserves or holdbacks from programs, projects, activities and subactivities to support governmental, agency or bureau administrative functions or headquarters, regional or central operations shall be presented in annual budget justifications and subject to approval by the Committees on Appropriations. Changes to such estimates shall be presented to the Committees on Appropriations for approval.

SEC. 407. None of the funds made available in this Act may be transferred to any department, agency, or instrumentality of the United States Government except pursuant to transfer made by or transferred provided in, this Act or any other Act.

SEC. 408. (a) LIMITATION OF FUNDS.—None of the funds appropriated or otherwise made available pursuant to this Act shall be obligated or expended to accept or process applications for a patent for any mining or mill site claim located under the general mining laws.

(b) EXCEPTIONS.—The provisions of subsection (a) shall not apply if the Secretary of the Interior determines that, for the claim concerned: (1) a patent application was filed with the Secretary of the Interior by September 30, 1994; and (2) all requirements established under sections 2323 and 2326 of the Revised Statutes (30 U.S.C. 29 and 30) for vein or lode claims and sections 2323 and 2326 of the Revised Statutes (30 U.S.C. 35, 36, and 37) for placer claims, and section 2337 of the Revised Statutes (30 U.S.C. 42) for mill site claims, as the case may be, were fully complied with by the applicant by that date.

(c) REPORT.—On September 30, 2007, the Secretary of the Interior shall report to the House and Senate Committees on Appropriations and the Committee on Resources of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources of the Senate on actions taken by the Department under the plan submitted pursuant to section 314(c) of the Department of the Interior, Public Land Survey System, and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 1997 (Public Law 104–208).

(d) MINERAL EXAMINATIONS.—In order to process patent applications in a timely and responsible manner, upon the request of a patent applicant, the Secretary of the Interior shall allow the applicant to fund a qualified third-party contractor to be selected by the White House Commission on the National Moment of Remembrance, the sole responsibility to choose and pay the third-party contractor in accordance with the standard procedures employed by the Bureau of Land Management in the retention of third-party contractors.

S. 409. Notwithstanding any other provision of law or any provision of applicable law, no funds appropriated to or earmarked in committee reports for the Bureau of Indian Affairs and the Indian Health Service by this Act (or any prior Acts making appropriations for the Interior for fiscal year 2006 or for any prior year) may be expended under this section to replace funds expended under said appropriations to provide fire suppression services, for purposes of tort liability, employees of the Interior may be exempt from any tort claim arising out of fighting fires in a foreign country. Neither the sending country nor any legal organization associated with the firefighter shall be subject to any legal action whatsoever pertaining to or arising out of the firefighter’s role in fire suppression.

S. 410. In awarding a Federal contract with funds made available by this Act, notwithstanding Federal Government procurement and contracting laws, the Secretary of Agriculture and the Secretary of the Interior are authorized through administrative agreements to local non-profit entities to develop, implement, and support competitive sourcing studies involving Forest Service employees, the Secretary of Agriculture shall—

(a) determine whether any of the employment concerns are also qualified to participate in wildland fire management activities; and

(b) take into consideration the effect that contracting with a private sector source would have on the ability of the Forest Service to effectively fight and manage wildfires.

S. 411. None of the funds in this Act or prior Acts making appropriations for the Department of the Interior and Related Agencies may be provided to the managing partners or their agents for the SAFECOM or Developments for the Everglades National Park Protection and Expansion Act of 1989, or to funds appropriated for Federal assistance to the State of Florida to acquire lands for Everglades restoration purposes.

S. 412. Notwithstanding any other provision of law or any provision of applicable law, no funds appropriated to or earmarked in committee reports for the Bureau of Indian Affairs or any provision of Federal Government procurement and contracting laws the Secretary of Agriculture shall not be considered as such boundary existed on January 20, 2001, except where such activities are allowed under the Presidential proclamation establishing such national monument.

S. 415. In entering into agreements with foreign countries pursuant to the Wildlife and Foreign National Monument Establishment Act of 1966 (16 U.S.C. 1361 et seq.), with the Secretary of Agriculture and the Secretary of the Interior are authorized through the end of fiscal year 2010 to enter into reciprocals agreements with foreign countries or their nationals for furnishing fire fighting services, for purposes of tort liability, employees of the Interior may be exempt from any tort claim arising out of fighting fires in a foreign country. Neither the sending country nor any legal organization associated with the firefighter shall be subject to any legal action whatsoever pertaining to or arising out of the firefighter’s role in fire suppression.

S. 416. In awarding Federal contracts with funds made available by this Act, notwithstanding Federal Government procurement and contracting laws, the Secretary of Agriculture and the Secretary of the Interior (the “Secretaries”) may, in evaluating bids and proposals, give consideration to local contractors who are from, and who provide employment and training for, dislocated and displaced workers in an economically disadvantaged rural community, including those historically timber-dependent areas that have been affected by reduced timber harvests, and to determining the economic viability for forest-dependent rural communities isolated from significant alternative employment opportunities. Notwithstanding Federal Government procurement and contracting laws, the Secretaries may award contracts, grants or cooperative agreements to local non-profit entities, Youth Conservation Corps or related partnerships with State, local or non-profit youth groups, or small or micro-business or disadvantaged business.

S. 417. No funds appropriated in this Act or prior Acts making appropriations for the Department of the Interior and Related Agencies may be provided to the managing partners or their agents for the SAFECOM or Developments for the Everglades National Park Protection and Expansion Act of 1989, or to funds appropriated for Federal assistance to the State of Florida to acquire lands for Everglades restoration purposes.

S. 418. (a) Limitation on Competitive Sourcing Studies Conducted Prior to Fiscal Year 2006.—The Forest Service is hereby exempted from implementing the Letter of Obligation and post-competition accountability guidelines where a competitive sourcing study involved 65 or fewer full-time equivalents, the decision was made in favor of the agency provider, no net savings was achieved by conducting the study, and the study was completed prior to the date of this Act.

(b) Competitive Sourcing Study Defined.—In this section, the term ‘competitive sourcing study’ means a study on subcontracts or cooperative agreements, either directly or through its fire organization, to provide fire protection services (including firefighting and in-fight firefighting services) to foreign countries, when an agreement is reached for furnishing firefighting services, the only legal organization associated with the firefighter shall be subject to any legal action whatsoever pertaining to or arising out of the firefighter’s role in fire suppression.

SEC. 419. None of the funds in this Act or prior Acts making appropriations for the Department of the Interior and Related Agencies may be provided to the managing partners or their agents for the SAFECOM or Developments for the Everglades National Park Protection and Expansion Act of 1989, or to funds appropriated for Federal assistance to the State of Florida to acquire lands for Everglades restoration purposes.

SEC. 420. Section 331 of the Department of the Interior and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 2000 (as enacted into law by section 76 or any other administrative regulation, directive, or policy.

(c) Competitive Sourcing Exemption for Forest Service Studies Conducted Prior to Fiscal Year 2006.—The Forest Service is hereby exempted from implementing the Letter of Obligation and post-competition accountability guidelines where a competitive sourcing study involved 65 or fewer full-time equivalents, the decision was made in favor of the agency provider, no net savings was achieved by conducting the study, and the study was completed prior to the date of this Act.

(d) In preparing any reports to the Committees on Appropriations on competitive sourcing activities, agencies funded in this Act shall include all costs attributable to conducting the competitive sourcing activities and staff work to prepare for competitive sourcing activities, including starting contracts, including costs attributable to paying outside consultants and contractors and, in accordance with full cost pricing principles, the costs attributable to developing, implementing, supporting, managing, monitoring, and reporting on competitive sourcing, including personnel, consultant, travel, and training costs associated with program management.

(e) In carrying out any competitive sourcing study involving Forest Service employees, the Secretary shall—

(1) determine whether any of the employees concerned are also qualified to participate in wildland fire management activities; and

(2) take into consideration the effect that contracting with a private sector source would have on the ability of the Forest Service to effectively fight and manage wildfires.

The Acting CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Alaska (Mr. Young), I make a point of order.

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. Mr. Chairman, I make a point of order.

The Acting CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Alaska (Mr. Young) has made a point of order. It is in order to consider the amendment. The amendment may be debated for 15 minutes, and after its consideration it may be disposed of by a vote on the question of adoption or not.

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. Mr. Chairman, I offer this amendment simply to have an opportunity to comment on what has just transpired on the House floor.

My great mentor and friend through my public life has been Gaylord Nelson, the founder of Earth Day, and perhaps the greatest environmentalist who ever served in the United States Senate. Just before he died, I had my last conversation with him about environmental issues, and he made quite clear that he thought the greatest environmental threat to mankind over the next 100 years was the issue of global warming. And it is time this Congress face up to that fact and does something about it.

I don't know what it takes to have this government get off its you-know-what and start dealing with the most critical environmental problem that confronts the entire planet. If we just take a look at a few of the pieces of evidence, we are talking about ice-core drillings in glaciers around the world that enable us to study bubbles that go back as far as 300,000 years, and we see that we have a higher concentration of carbon dioxide than we had in the last 650,000 years. Two hundred western cities have broken heat records in the past 2 years.

Glaciers, which are serving really as the proverbial canaries in the mines, are trying to tell us something. Twenty-three of the 25 glaciers in Glacier Park are gone, and the rest of them are likely to be gone before this century reaches its halfway point. The Larsen ice shelf, 700 feet thick, was expected to last 100 years; it suddenly began to collapse in two weeks. The Arctic ice cap has lost half of its thickness in the last half century. The Greenland ice cap, as was referred to on that side of the aisle earlier, is melting at a highly accelerated rate. And, if it goes, one-third of Florida goes with it. It will be underwater. If it goes, it could shut off the major Atlantic Ocean current. The current that drives the Gulf Stream has already decreased 30 percent in 50 years, and that is driven by differences in temperature and salinity of the water.

So this to me is not just an environmental problem; it is a moral problem. All of you who are in my generation are going to be gone within 20 years. But it most certainly is going to affect our kids, it most certainly is going to affect our grandkids. And I would hope that we would demonstrate that we are trying to make sure that the next generation has a livable planet.
care more about the welfare of the planet than we care about committee jurisdictional dung hills.

But what is apparent today is that this Congress is going to be prevented from making a simple statement of fact that humans and human activity are driving global warming and that we have an obligation to do something on the national level and the international level to deal with it, and we have an obligation to do it now.

John Yarmuth, who served a variety of Republican administrations in a variety of capacities, said this just before he died: “In the end, our society will be defined not only by what we create, but by what we refuse to destroy.” And I think we ought to remember that when we think of this issue.

To me, I think we need to remember what those who were present saw in 1933 at FDR’s inaugural when he took the oath of office on the very steps of this Capitol. He is remembered mostly for saying that “we have nothing to fear but fear itself.” But the line that got the greatest reaction from the crowd at that time was when FDR said, “We need action, and we need action now. The Depression is here now. It is not in the future. It is not in the next election, but right now because we are the Federal government. We have the power to do something about it right now.”

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. Mr. Chairman, I have the greatest respect for the gentleman who just spoke. My interest is in putting on appropriation bills. And I do believe we have the opportunity to in fact have good hearings on this issue, because there is a difference of opinion.

Do me a favor, my friends, and go back and read 1972, 1973, 1974 and 1975. There is a difference of opinion.

Mr. OBEY. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself 2 minutes.

Mr. YOUNG. Mr. Chairman, I knew we still had charter members of the Flat Earth Society walking around this country. I didn’t realize there were quite so many, not 6 months, not 6 years from now, the real process of producing actions that will indeed save this planet from what is most assuredly going to occur if we continue the drift that is implied by this action today.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. OBEY. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself 2 minutes.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. OBEY. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself 2 minutes.

I thank the gentleman, again, for his presentation. I am glad he gave us an additional 2 years because the way I record it we have been in power for 12 years, not 14 years. I would gladly take two more. Maybe he is an omen of this next election, but I am just saying we have actually been going on 12 years.

Lastly, let us say this is not about the action itself. It is about legislating on appropriation bills. Mr. OBEY. Yes.

Mr. Young of Alaska. We call that the Ice Age. Every scientist of any renown says we are faced with an ice age immediately, not 6 months, not 6 years from now, the real process of producing actions that will indeed save this planet from what is most assuredly going to occur if we continue the drift that is implied by this action today.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. Mr. Chairman, I have the greatest respect for the gentleman who just spoke. My interest is in putting on appropriation bills. And I do believe we have the opportunity to in fact have good hearings on this issue, because there is a difference of opinion.

Do me a favor, my friends, and go back and read 1972, 1973, 1974 and 1975. There you were here, Mr. OBEY. I believe you were. I was. Maybe you weren’t.

Mr. OBEY. Yes.

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. We call that the Ice Age. Every scientist of any renown says we are faced with an ice age. It was irreversible. We were going to be faced with famines. The world was coming to an end. And we had to do something about it immediately. We had to do something about it as the Congress.

Check the records. That is the reality. What concerns me the most is the possibility of a fear tactic being implemented in the warming threat.

Let’s have a good study. Let’s have a debate on what is occurring by scientists. Let’s look at the model. Yes, the Earth is warming, in some areas. I just read a report, in fact, that Greenland is cooling. The thing I think strikes me the most is if you will take the time to study the globe, the world as we know it, and look at what has occurred in the past and possibly will occur in the future, we are now pumping 1 million barrels a day from Prudhoe Bay. Prudhoe Bay, the most northerly point of this continent, we are pumping that oil.

Now, I ask you, my friends, if you studied science, where does oil come from? What occurred on this globe at that time to allow mastodons, ferns, trees, and the dinosaurs to be there to create that oil? And that is the reality.

I ask you, secondly, if you go back to the Ice Age, and we have had four ice ages, three majors and one minor, if you go to New Mexico 12 million years ago, there was 287 feet of ice in New Mexico. I won’t ask you what created that ice. But I will ask each and every one of you and everybody watching and everybody talking this fear tactic what made the way all the way to the North Pole before mankind set foot on this continent. It certainly wasn’t hair spray or freon or automobile emissions. It melted, 287 feet of ice, before we set foot.

And I am a little bit concerned when everything that is wrong is our fault, that the human factor creates all the damages on this globe. That is pure nonsense. That is nonsense.

And so I am asking you, let’s have the hearings. Let’s have the scientists. Let’s have some debate about really what is occurring here instead of having hysteria and saying it is all our fault.

And, by the way, it is always the fault of the Americans. It is never the fault of the bigger countries that burn as many barrels of oil as we are doing today, not per capita but as many barrels of oil, and burn the coal as we are trying to do. It is never their fault. It is our fault.

So let’s have a sound debate about this issue and not be caught in this attitude that we must do something right now because we are the Federal Government. Let’s do it the right way. I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. OBEY. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself 2 minutes.

Mr. Chairman, I knew we still had charter members of the Flat Earth Society walking around this country. I didn’t realize there were quite so many, not 6 months, not 6 years. I would gladly take two more. Maybe he is an omen of this next election, but I am just saying we have actually been going on 12 years.

Lastly, let us say this is not about the action itself. It is about legislating on appropriation bills, but I do, and ask you sincerely, I do not have jurisdiction with that committee. Thank God, I do not really run the White House, but I think we have to legitimately and not respond to the fear tactic. Read the book, Controlled By Fear. It is very interesting you can frighten people into doing most anything, including taking away the economy and the opportunity for future generations, easily done.

That is what I do not want us to fall into. If we are the driving factor, I am not going to accept that responsibility and do something of it, but again, go back to the history of this globe and what has occurred. It is ironic when I go into many of these States and I see seashells at 11,000 feet, seashells. This continent was covered with water at one time, retreated and allowed humanity to grow. Now, keep that in mind. Do not keep getting caught in the idea that everything that is here now is permanent. The Earth is a natural, evolving phenomenon.

That is all I am asking people to do. It is not to be caught into the fear and driving and say it is all our fault what is occurring. If that is the case through such studies, then let us accept that, but right now it has not been proven. There is a large division that says this is not happening because of humanity.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. OBEY. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself 2 minutes.

I simply say to my good friend that just about the only scientists left in the world who do not recognize that this is a serious and real problem are... those who have an economic interest in not recognizing it, and that, in my view, is an absolute fact.

The gentleman talks about not wanting to fall into a trap. What you are going to fall into if we listen to the gentleman is sea levels 20 to 50 feet higher today than they were in 1980, and virtually every coastal city in the world is going to be under water, and New Orleans is going to be the norm rather than the unhappy exception. That is what the world is going to face if we do not deal with it immediately, and begin to deal with it while we still have time.

Mr. Chairman, how much time do we have remaining on each side?

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. OBEY) has 7½ minutes remaining. The gentleman from Alaska (Mr. YOUNG) has 9 minutes remaining.

Mr. OBEY. Mr. Chairman, I yield 5 minutes to the gentleman from Massachusetts (Mr. OLIVER).

Mr. OLIVER. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman for yielding.

I am sorry that the gentleman from Alaska has raised this point of order because planet Earth is warming. Climate scientists of all persuasions agree that the average surface temperature of the Earth has risen by about 2 degrees Fahrenheit since 1850, and all agree that the accurately measurable concentration of carbon dioxide in our atmosphere has risen from about 280 parts per million in 1850 to over 380 parts per million today. Furthermore, 75 of that 100 parts per million rise has occurred in just the last 40 years.

As a scientist, my attention became totally focused on global warming some 15 years ago by the elegant and powerful measurements of carbon dioxide trapped in ice cores taken as much as 2 miles deep from the great East Antarctica ice sheet.

Those data give a continuous 400,000-year record of concentration of CO₂ in the atmosphere at the time the snow fell. Through four successive cycles of deep cold followed by interglacial periods of warming, in the coldest part of each cycle the concentration of CO₂ in the atmosphere never fell below 190 parts per million, and in the warmest period of each cycle never rose above 280 parts per million.

Suddenly, within the last 40 years, concentration of carbon dioxide in our atmosphere has smashed through the 400,000-year maximum of 280 parts per million to a 380-part-per-million level and continues to rise.

Since 1850, burning of fossil fuels, coal, oil and natural gas has increased 100 times to produce energy as the world has industrialized to serve the world’s more than 6 billion and growing population. The scientists who do climate research understand that much of this ever-increasing concentration of CO₂ in the atmosphere since 1850 can be attributed to burning those fossil fuels to produce the energy that drives industrialization.

With this chart, let me touch one facet of the climate crisis that we are dealing with. 6.3 billion people, on average, produce four tons of CO₂ every year. That comes to a total of slightly more than 25 billion tons of CO₂ produced every year. Our 290 million people, producing two tons per person, and China, with its almost 1.3 billion people in 2003 produced 2.7 tons per person of CO₂.

We all know that China is industrializing at a growth rate of 8 to 10 percent per year. China is on track to pass the U.S. as the largest economy in the world in 20 to 25 years, and China is determined to give its people a chance at this high standard of living that we enjoy.

Consider a hypothetical case. If every country except China stayed exactly where they are on population and energy usage, and China alone industrialized to our level, using the same mix of energy sources that the U.S. uses in emulating the Chinese and multiplying it by the difference between 20 and 2.7, 17.3 additional tons per person, and that’s 22.5 billion tons of added CO₂ over what is presently emitted by the whole world. That is 90 percent as much as is being produced by the whole world today.

The industrialization of China alone would increase by 90 percent the concentration of CO₂ in our atmosphere and would at least increase the atmospheric CO₂ by at least another 100 parts per million.

That simple example tells why climate scientists are so concerned about the lack of effective measures to curb CO₂ emissions, to develop new technology, to produce energy that does not produce CO₂, to increase efficiency of present technology and, frankly, to conserve energy.

The sense of the Congress resolution on which a point of order has been raised recognizes the looming crisis that human life faces if we continue to produce the energy needed by methods that disrupt the Earth’s climate by adding humongous amounts of CO₂ into our atmosphere. It is a critical first step in any effort to address global warming.

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. Mr. Chairman, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Maryland (Mr. GILCHREST).

Mr. GILCHREST. Mr. Chairman, I thank and appreciate the gentleman from Alaska for the time.

The issue that we are debating here, the sense of Congress, is to ask the Members of Congress to take a look at a potential problem of global warming that human activity is causing by burning fossil fuel and adding increasing amounts of CO₂ to the atmosphere that gives rise to a greenhouse effect.

Carbon dioxide makes up less than 1 percent of the atmosphere, a very, very tiny amount. Yet that tiny amount has a large impact on the heat balance or the climate of the planet, and so if you can take an analysis, which we can, without dispute from the scientific community, over the past 10,000 years, you can actually go back 5 million years, and if you look at the long-term trend of concentrations of CO₂ by a natural amount from 180 parts per million of CO₂ to 280 parts per million. It took 100 years to increase the amount of CO₂ in the atmosphere by 100 parts per million.

Now, it is still a very tiny amount. Every additional CO₂ is only 4 percent, when we are working at levels of hundreds of a percent, that 4 percent is significant.

So we are seeing, as a result of the change in increase in CO₂, warming temperatures of the atmosphere, warming temperatures of the oceans, receding glaciers, and that is not to scare people.

We, as adults, always want better science for our students in our schools. We need better science here on the House floor. If you look at the Greenland ice sheet 25 years ago, 20 cubic miles of that ice sheet was flowing into the North Atlantic. Today, just a few decades later, 33 cubic miles a year of the Greenland ice sheet is flowing into the North Atlantic, and like the gentleman from Wisconsin said earlier, if the Greenland ice sheet were to go, and it is growing, we should recognize a potential for 2 feet to increase in the sea level.

So, all we are asking for on the House floor is let us look at the data. Let us acknowledge our future.

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. Mr. Chairman, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Chairman, I just want to remind people, this is an appropriations bill, and we can go through the process. I think the debate has been good. We have had some good presentations. It is just a matter of difference of opinion, and some day we will decide who is right, and when I become the correct one I hope you all recognize that.

Mr. Chairman, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. OBEY. Mr. Chairman, let me yield the remaining 2 minutes of my time to the distinguished gentleman from Washington (Mr. DICKS), who was the originator of the language which was stricken.

Mr. DICKS. Mr. Chairman, I am going to be brief here.

The reason I offered this global warming amendment is because I believe this is a serious problem. When you have six former administrators of the Environmental Protection Agency saying this is a reality, when you have just heard Congressman Gilchrest talk about the increases in parts per million of carbon dioxide, and when you have this that this is a real issue that affects everyone on the Earth? While Alaska melts away, their Congressmen will be down here in D.C. and everybody will be wondering whatever happened to Alaska.

All I am saying is this is a serious problem, and it is time for serious people to get serious, including the gentleman from Alaska.

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. Mr. Chairman, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. DICKEY. I yield to the gentleman from Alaska.

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. Mr. Chairman, I just want to remind him, if you look at any of the studies that are taking place now, the polar bear pack is very healthy and, in fact, increasing. Keep that in mind. Read something that really has some merit to it. Do not just read the fear tactic. This is science from the Fish and Wildlife people. Read that. They will tell you we are increasing the numbers, not decreasing. And you got this idea, I have no idea. Because someone told you that.

Mr. DICKEY. Mr. Chairman, I do not think you and I will be here to figure out who was right. I would rather do some serious research about it now than wake up 10 years from now and find out if we would have acted back in 2006 and done something about this, we might have been able to save all of humanity. I mean, this is real and it is an important issue, and I hate to see it be treated so frivolously by the gentleman from Alaska.

Mr. OBERRY. Mr. Chairman, I yield for the purpose of a unanimous consent request to the gentleman from New Mexico (Mr. Udall).

(Mr. UDALL of New Mexico asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. UDALL of New Mexico. Mr. Chairman, I support keeping the language in because, as the gentleman from Washington has said, it is very, very important to deal with this problem.

Mr. Chairman, I am extremely disappointed that the Rules Committee did not protect the global warming language in the Interior Appropriations Bill. Global warming is real and human activities are largely to blame. Many scientists believe the erratic and record-breaking weather events we are seeing across the country, such as the prolonged droughts in my home state of New Mexico, are the direct result of global warming. The United States must act, and we must act soon.

The language that was removed from the Interior Appropriations Bill today declared the need for a mandatory cap on greenhouse emissions. Stripping this language further sidelines our efforts to solve the House of Representatives on this issue. Mr. Chairman, global warming is perhaps the biggest problem that present and future generations of Americans will face. We cannot leave this to our children.

Our colleagues in the Senate have already begun the much needed debate on this issue. In fact, they passed a sense of Congress exactly the same as the one that was stripped today. In addition, they held a day-long climate change forum that gathered stakeholders on this issue, including the leadership of numerous top American companies such as GE and Walmart. Many positions and recommendations for federal greenhouse gas control legislation were aired and debated. It is way past time for the House of Representatives to join the debate. At this point, Mr. Chairman, our neglect hastens and it is an act of omission of duty.

Several pieces of legislation have already been introduced on the monumentally important and complex issue of global warming. Certainly, it will take considerable time, effort and investment to mitigate the negative effects of greenhouse gas emissions.

And, this must be done equitably and without unnecessary harm to hard-working Americans.

Fortunately, much is already known on what we can do. Research and development on creative solutions to global warming has been underway for some time, and there is a lot of optimism that we can control the worst effects if we make the commitment. Many companies, states and cities around the country have begun the process. The United States House of Representatives remains silent.

We have not had a single hearing on global warming legislation. In the mean time, the United States continues to increase its greenhouse gas emission levels and China and India are developing fossil fuel dependent, carbon-intensive economies at astounding rates. Mr. Chairman, the process must begin. The United States must be a leader on this issue.

Included in the list of legislation foundering in the House is a bill that the Gentleman from Wisconsin, Mr. PETRI, and I introduced. H.R. 5049, the Keep America Competitive Global Warming Policy Act, is a bipartisan policy that will address greenhouse gas emissions but not put America’s jobs at risk. This monumen tal step of putting a price on carbon will stabilize and eventually reduce emissions, finally putting the United States on the road toward curbing the effects of global warming.

Mr. Chairman, I urge the House of Representatives to immediately begin the debate on solutions to global warming.

Mr. OBERRY. Mr. Chairman, I want to congratulate the gentleman from Alaska. He always does the best job possible in selling a very bad case.

Mr. PETRI. Mr. Chairman, I would like to take this opportunity to encourage the House to seriously look at the issue of climate change.

I agree with many of my colleagues who have spoken today on the need to address global warming and that any national policy should not significantly harm the United States economy and encourage comparable actions by other nations.

That is why I am the lead cosponsor of Congressman Tom Udall’s Keep America Competitive Global Warming Policy Act. This legislation is a mandatory, economy wide, cap-and-trade all greenhouse gas reduction policy.

It sets a reasonable standard for emissions and allows companies to buy the time they need to meet reduction requirements without incurring irreparable harm.

The bill will maintain U.S. competitiveness by encouraging research and innovation as well as tie increases in the price of an emission allowance to the emissions-reducing actions of developing countries.

So I hope at some point we can come together and begin the discussion in a thoughtful, bipartisan manner and work to address this issue.

The CHAIRMAN. All time for debate has expired.

The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. Obey).

The amendment was rejected.

The CHAIRMAN. The Clerk will read. The Clerk read as follows:

TITLE V—SUSPENSION OF ROYALTY RELIEF

SEC. 501. (a) REQUIREMENT TO SUSPEND.—The Secretary of the Interior shall suspend the application of any provision of Federal law under which any person is given relief from any requirement to pay royalty for production of oil or natural gas from Federal lands (including submerged lands), for leases occurring in any period after the date of the enactment of this Act with respect to which:

(1) in the case of production of oil, the average price of crude oil in the United States over the most recent 4 consecutive weeks is greater than $34.71 per barrel; and

(2) in the case of production of natural gas, the average wellhead price of natural gas in the United States over the most recent 4 consecutive weeks is greater than $4.91 per thousand cubic feet.

(b) DETERMINATION OF MARKET PRICE.—The Secretary shall determine average prices for purposes of subsection (a) based on the most recent data reported by the Energy Information Administration of the Department of Energy.

Mr. PEARCE. Mr. Chairman, I rise to make a point of order.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman will state his point of order.

Mr. PEARCE. Mr. Chairman, I make the point of order that the language contained in section 2(b) of rule XXI constitutes legislation on an appropriations bill.

The CHAIRMAN. Does any other Member wish to be heard on the point of order?

If not, the Chair will rule. The Chair finds that this section contains language imparting direction to the Executive.

The section therefore constitutes legislation in violation of clause 2(b) of rule XXI. The point of order is sustained and the section is stricken from the bill.

The Clerk will read.
American public is being gouged for the price of oil on two separate occasions, once at the gasoline pump and once when their oil and natural gas is being drilled and obtained by oil companies that are not paying the royalties on those leases. This is something that needs to be addressed. We have right now over 1,000 leases, roughly 1,032 leases, to major oil companies to drill in the Outer Continental Shelf and elsewhere, and there is no provision for those oil companies to pay royalties on the product owned by the American citizens that is being taken out of the ground, whether it is dry or under the Continental Shelf. That needs to change. We are losing roughly $1 billion a year, and unless this is changed over the course of the next 20 years, we will lose more than $20 billion.

So we need a situation that is going to address this, and this amendment will do so. It simply says that anyone who is interested in having leases to extract oil or natural gas from the Outer Continental Shelf, and they have already leases upon which they are not paying the proper royalties, is not going to be permitted to take those new leases.

Those new leases provide for royalties between 12 and 16 percent. The royalties are on a product that is owned by the citizens of this country, whether it is the oil or the natural gas; and any oil company that is taking those products out of the ground, out of public lands, taking this public property and not paying royalties on it should not be provided with additional leases unless they are willing to pay the royalties on both the additional leases and the leases that they already have.

Mr. Chairman, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. TAYLOR of North Carolina. Mr. Chairman, I rise to claim the time in opposition.

Mr. SIMPSON. Mr. Chairman, I stand to oppose this amendment offered by the gentleman from New York. In committee, the gentleman from New York offered an amendment that conditioned eligibility for future leases on renegotiation of price thresholds in old leases. Today’s amendment seeks to obtain the same coercive result by indirect means.

I share the gentleman’s concern about the lack of price thresholds in leases negotiated by the Clinton/Gore administration in 1996 and 1999. The Department of the Interior’s Inspector General has appropriately launched an investigation into this, as has the Resources Committee. However, these leases were valid legal contracts signed between the government and these companies in good faith. They paid the terms of their contracts and any bonus bids for these leases, bidding on the basis of the royalty relief that they were being offered.

If the lessees seek to maintain their valid legal rights under these contracts, the amendment would penalize them for doing so, in violation of their due process rights under the Constitution. At best, the amendment is an invitation to litigation, which the government will likely cost $20 billion. A more dire impact will be the lack of development of energy resources that America badly needs.

The amendment would disqualify many companies from bidding on new leases. Remember, these were valid leases signed by the government, legally binding. They are contracts. So what we are going to do is penalize these companies because they are abiding by their legal contracts.

Sure, we want them to negotiate. We want them to renegotiate. We would like them to pay the royalties. But the Clinton/Gore administration at that time put these contracts in place. They were signed by the companies. They were signed by the government. And now we are going to go in and say if you don’t renegotiate, you are not going to be eligible for any of these contracts. If you don’t pay royalties on these contracts, wherein you are doing exactly what you are required to do by law, if you don’t pay royalties voluntarily, then you are not going to be eligible for any of the new leases that are out there.

To me, that is discrimination against those companies. Sure, we would like them to pay the royalties. We think they should. We think they should renegotiate, but I don’t think you can go in and break the contract that the government signed with these companies by pressuring them with the threat of not being eligible for future leases.

Mr. Chairman, this is a bad amendment and we should reject it.

Mr. HINCHRY. Mr. Chairman, I just want to point out to my friend from Idaho that the Congressional Research Service has told us that the enactment of this amendment would not constitute a taking of existing leaseholders’ rights, and goes on to say that this amendment is perfectly appropriate and should be adopted.

Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER).

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. I thank the gentleman for yielding.

What is it about the marketplace that the Republicans don’t understand? You signed a valid lease, although there’s some argument about it. But you have a valid lease and now you want to leases the space next door. You leased a couple hundred thousand square feet, and you leased a thousand square feet, and now you want to lease next door. The economy has changed out there. You signed a valid lease, and so the landlord says to you, I think we will do is, we will do a wraparound lease. You want this?
This is done all the time. It is done all the time in the business world. Various assets at various prices are combined, and the landlord thinks about extracting what he can at that time when you come to renegotiate. This happens all the time in the real estate field, all the time in the minerals field.

All we are saying to the government is, these people have such a huge advantage because of the failure of the cap, we don't think they ought to get any additional leases. They can keep those leases without the caps and not lease, or they can negotiate those caps with the government to be like the rest of the oil companies and they can lease. This is a business transaction. It just happens to be a business transaction on behalf of the people of the United States of America who own these lands.

What is it about the marketplace that you think at $70 a barrel you need royalty relief? I think you are confusing this with the idea that the oil companies are somehow royalty and we must bow down to them. At $70 a barrel, the conservative chairman of my committee, the Resources Committee, said not only deserves royalty relief. The President of the United States says at these prices nobody deserves royalty relief. And here you are on the floor of the House of Representatives arguing for those who get $70 a barrel.

I talked to the CEOs of these companies when this royalty relief came up, and most of them thought it was balderdash. Most of them thought it was about trying to rescue a couple of companies that made some real bad decisions in the gulf shelf when oil was a bad price. Fine, we agreed that under $34 a barrel you can have some royalty relief. Oil today, my friends, maybe you haven’t been out of the Chamber here, it is $70 a barrel; and that is why we are in this marketplace to work on behalf of the taxpayers of the country who are paying $3.50 for gasoline.

The gentleman’s amendment should be unanimous in this House on behalf of people who are buying gas and commuting to work and are paying that price every day. Why do they now have to pay it through this tax break through this royalty relief?

Mr. TAYLOR of North Carolina. Mr. Chairman, I yield 4 minutes to the gentleman from Idaho (Mr. SIMPSON).

Mr. SIMPSON. Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I appreciate what the gentleman from California was saying, but he was wrong. Just dead wrong.

These leases were signed by the government. They were legal leases. They were valid leases. All we are saying is that the government ought to keep its word. When they sign a contract, they ought to honor the contract. The gentleman is absolutely wrong. Congress and the government should keep their word when they sign a contract. That is all we are saying:

Do we want them to pay royalty on this? Certainly we should, and I do not know why in the world the Clinton/Gore administration, the Clinton/Gore administration, let these leases go without any royalty. I do not know why they did that, but the reality is that they were signed contracts. And all we are suggesting is that you should honor our word and our contracts, and that actually signed these contracts in good faith. You should not penalize them for future leases. Why should we penalize them? There is absolutely no reason why we should penalize them. We should honor our word and our contracts, and then we should go forward. We hope, we hope that they will renegotiate for leases, but this is not giving a break to those companies. That is not what we are intending. We hope they renegotiate. That is the reality.

Mr. HINCHEY. Mr. Chairman, the Bush administration has allowed these leases to continue for 5 years, and they haven’t renegotiated them. I would just like to draw that to the attention of my friend from Idaho.

Mr. Chairman, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER).

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. You have a loan on your home. You have a second mortgage on your home and you want a new line of credit. It is a valid line of credit and it is a 4 percent loan. What does the bank tell you? We want you to pay it off, and the new rate is 7 percent or 6 percent.

People renegotiate these contracts all the time. You just refuse to renegotiate them on behalf of the taxpayers. You renegotiate them all of the time on behalf of the oil companies. We do it all of the time.

This is what people do when they want to refinance their homes. The banker says, here are the new rules. You can stick with your loan and be happy as you are; but if you want another $50,000 out of your house, here are the points you have to pay. People understand this.

Why don’t you let the marketplace work for once and why don’t we run the government like a business, like so many of our constituents stand up and tell us to do. We now have an opportunity. We now have an opportunity, and you are refusing to take the opportunity on behalf of the taxpayers.

Mr. TAYLOR of North Carolina. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Idaho (Mr. SIMPSON).

Mr. SIMPSON. I am sorry the gentleman from California left the floor. We do renegotiate all the time, but it is up to me to decide whether I want to renegotiate or not.

What we are doing is imposing a penalty on these companies if they choose not to renegotiate. And I really don’t care what CRS says. I don’t think they are a bunch of attorneys down there. All I know is that in Idaho, we believe that when you write a contract you abide by the contract. We have written a contract. We ought to abide by it.

We are the Government of the United States. If you can’t trust us to abide by the contracts we sign, why should we trust anybody else to?

Mr. HINCHEY. Mr. Chairman, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. MORAN).

LEAVE OF ABSENCE

By unanimous consent, leave of absence was granted to:

OFFERED BY MR. DENT

AMENDMENT No. 12: At the end of the bill (before the short title), insert the following:

TITLE VI—ADDITIONAL GENERAL PROVISIONS

SEC. 601. None of the funds made available in this Act may be used to implement, administer, or enforce section 20(b)(1) of the Indian Gaming Regulatory Act (25 U.S.C. 2719(b)(1)).

H.R. 5386

OFFERED BY: MR. TIAHRT

AMENDMENT No. 13: At the end of the bill (before the short title) insert the following:

SEC. . None of the funds made available in this Act may be used to promulgate regulations without consideration of the effect of such regulations on the competitiveness of American businesses.
The Senate met at 9 a.m. and was called to order by the President pro tempore (Mr. STEVENS).

PRAYER
The Chaplain, Dr. Barry C. Black, offered the following prayer:
Let us pray.
Sovereign Lord, the way, the truth, and the life, give us the courage to follow You. Help us to follow You in our quest for ethical fitness. Help us to follow You in service to the lost, the lonely, and the least. Help us to follow You in going the second mile in our labors. Help us to follow You in loving our enemies, in blessing those who curse us, and in praying for those who misuse us.
Today, guide our Senators with Your might. Empower them with wisdom and courage.
We pray in Your holy Name. Amen.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE
The PRESIDENT pro tempore led the Pledge of Allegiance, as follows:
I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

RESERVATION OF LEADER TIME
The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Under the previous order, the leadership time is reserved.

COMPREHENSIVE IMMIGRATION REFORM ACT OF 2006
The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The legislative clerk read as follows:
A bill (S. 2611) to provide for comprehensive immigration reform and for other purposes.
Pending:
Inhofe amendment No. 4064, to amend title 4, United States Code, to declare English as the national language of the United States and to promote the patriotic integration of prospective U.S. citizens.

RECOGNITION OF THE ACTING MAJORITY LEADER
The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The acting Republican leader is recognized.
Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, we are on the immigration bill. We have a lineup of amendments which we are anxious to take up. We have a considerable number of amendments pending on both sides of the aisle. Our lead amendment is the one to be offered by Senator KENNEDY. The amendment has now been reviewed, and I think it may be necessary to have a little extra time, which ought not to pose a problem since the vote will not occur until 10 o’clock. But Senator CORNYN would like 10 minutes of time, and Senator Kyl may want a little time, so my suggestion would be that, if the Senator from Massachusetts wants to start the debate, that would be agreeable. It is his amendment, obviously. We would then turn to Senator CORNYN for 10 minutes.
I would like to put other Senators on notice that we want to proceed with the other amendments. Senator INHOFE is next in line, then Senator AKAKA, Senator ENNSIGN, Senator NELSON, Senator VITTER, Senator DURBIN, Senator Kyl, and Senator CHAMBLISS. It would be appreciated if those Senators would come here at least 15 minutes ahead of the anticipated time their amendment will come up so that we could move right along and not lose floor time. I yield to my distinguished colleague from Massachusetts.
Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, we look forward to this. What was, then, the time allocation requested? Is it 25, 10, 10, 5? Is that what the Senator suggested?
Mr. SPECTER. Ten for Senator CORNYN, ten for Senator Kyl, and I would like five.
Mr. KENNEDY. So that is 25. Mr. SPECTER. Yes. Mr. KENNEDY. Then I think we would get 15.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, we just received word that Senator Dorgan wants 10 or 15 minutes.
Mr. KENNEDY. Have we added all that?
Mr. SPECTER. Suppose we divide the time equally.
The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Under the agreement, it is 20 minutes, equally divided.
Mr. REID. Mr. President, it is my understanding the two managers want that modified. Rather than 20 minutes on this amendment, it will be 55 minutes, the time evenly divided between now and 10. I ask unanimous consent for that modification.
The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there objection?
Mr. SPECTER. That is acceptable.
Mr. REID. No second-degree amendments would be in order?
Mr. SPECTER. Agreed.
The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered. Time is equally divided between now and 10 a.m., and there will be no second-degree amendments.
Who yields time?
Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, if Senator CORNYN would like to begin the debate, I yield 10 minutes to him.
The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Texas is recognized.
Mr. CORNYN. Mr. President, less than 24 hours after the Senate voted to protect American workers and to put them first when it comes to competition for jobs in this country, the Senator from Massachusetts has now offered an amendment that would literally gut the amendment that was adopted yesterday and put American workers in the back seat and foreign workers who wanted to come here and participate in a guest worker program in the front seat.
President Bush has spoken time and time again about a guest worker program that matches willing workers with willing employers. But Senator KENNEDY’s amendment would do nothing of the kind. It would allow people to come to the United States and to self-petition without having an employer sponsor their petition, and it would not require proof that an American citizen is unavailable to perform that type of job.

Yes, Senator—wisely, in my view—changed the underlying bill to require that American workers be put first before a guest worker could be provided a job and that, under the provisions of this bill, No. 1, they had to identify a job so they would not be here unneeded. No. 2, that job must be offered to qualified American workers. Then, in that event no American workers were found available to perform that job, of course the guest worker provisions of the bill would kick in.

To make matters worse, the Kennedy amendment would allow an alien who has worked a total of less than 40 days in the United States—yes, that is about 6 days a year—to obtain a green card. That employment, 1 day out of every 60, the employment. For some, that track record of employment should be sufficient evidence that the worker is invaluable to the American economy. What that means is that up to 200,000 unskilled workers a year would receive a green card, irrespective of economic conditions, irrespective of whether that worker has actually been employed for the preceding 4 years and, most importantly, irrespective of whether there are unemployed U.S. workers available to fill those jobs.

Senator KENNEDY had suggested that, by requiring an employer to determine that a qualified worker is not available, that would somehow subject foreign workers to exploitation. But let me be clear: Worker exploitation and abuse will not be tolerated under our laws and should not be tolerated under any circumstances. This amendment has nothing to do with protecting foreign workers against exploitation. What it has everything to do with is whether we are protecting American workers first.

With that, I will reserve the remainder of my time and yield the floor.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Who yields time? The Senator from Pennsylvania.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, I yield myself 3 minutes.

Mr. President, I opposed the amendment from the distinguished Senator from Texas yesterday because I believe there ought to be an opportunity for the immigrant himself or herself to file the petition. The amendment now pending by Senator KENNEDY would leave the petition, leave the alternative: to be filed by the employer or to be filed by the immigrant. The vote yesterday was 50 to 48, and I was tempted to move to reconsider—I would have to change my vote to do that—but decided in the alternative that we would discuss today with a different amendment.

The issue of not having the immigrant subject to the control of the employer is an important one, to see to it that the immigrant is treated fairly. When the Senator from Texas seeks to be sure the immigrant has a job so that the employer has to make the application and the job will not be taken from some other American, I can understand his point. I think there is a higher value in not having the immigrant subject to the control of the employer, where there may be coercion and pressure as to the amount of compensation or to working conditions, notwithstanding law. There is ample protection that citizenship will not be granted, or the process will not move forward, because the Kennedy amendment simply gives the immigrant the right to file a petition. After the petition and the efforts are made to get into the citizenship line, it will be evaluated by the appropriate authorities. I think the concerns Senator CORNYN has in mind will be met.

I notice Senator DORGAN has come to the floor, and time has been reserved for Senator DORGAN—10 minutes. I yield to him at this time.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from North Dakota is recognized.

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President, the discussion this morning is once again on a subject called guest workers. I don’t happen to think we ought to have a guest worker provision in this legislation. The discussion now is, if it exists in the legislation, what are the conditions under which guest workers can petition for citizenship, and so on and so forth. I hope we are not done with the question of whether there should be so-called guest workers or, as some call it, future flow, the soft-sounding words. They could call it tourism for all that matters.

What this is about is grafting onto this bill to deal with the question of illegal immigrants coming into this country, the so-called quotas, and the people that come in illegally are a pretty serious problem, the 11 million or 12 million people who live in this country, who live outside of the United States—yes, that is about 6 days a year. They could call it tourism for all that matters.

What is the purpose of that? That is the purpose of bringing in the back door folks who are willing to assume the bottom-end jobs.

That future for the American worker on one side, and on the other side we have this urge to import cheap labor. How does that work? My understanding is the price the Chamber of Commerce requires to support this bill is that there be additional guest workers attached to it.

What is the purpose of that? That is the purpose of bringing in the back door folks who are willing to assume the bottom-end jobs.

The President and others say these are jobs the American people will not take. I don’t think that is the case at all. There may be no jobs if we keep removing them at current wages, at the bottom of the economic ladder. We haven’t changed the minimum wage for nearly 9 years. This Congress will not change the minimum wage. The President doesn’t support it. If we change the minimum wage and perhaps pay what the jobs are worth at the lower economic level, at the bottom of the economic ladder, perhaps then we wouldn’t need to import cheap labor. This is about importing cheap labor on the back side. This is about guest workers, about the future flow of guest workers. It is not about making 11 million to 12 million people legal this country, who will come into this country for the purpose of taking jobs. Here is the strategy. The strategy in the country these days, and it is a strategy embraced on the floor of this Chamber, is to export good jobs and import cheap labor at any discussion on the floor of this Senate about American workers—none. You can go to the newspapers and see a discussion. You can see the headlines about American workers who are losing their jobs because their employers are moving the jobs abroad—Bangladesh or Indonesia or Sri Lanka; and yes, some of those Americans are finding other jobs, and the headlines also tell us those jobs pay less than the jobs we used to have. We lost 3 million to 4 million jobs in just the last 4 or 5 years.

Alan Blinder, a very respectable mainstream economist, former Vice Chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, has just written a piece and said there is an issue of American jobs even as there is this urge to import cheap labor—he said this about exporting American jobs—he said there are 42 to 54 million American jobs subject to offshoring. It is expected that 11 million to 12 million workers are subject to being moved out of this country in search of cheaper labor—at 33 cents an hour in China, perhaps Indonesia, Sri Lanka, wherever they would move to. He said that not all of those jobs are subject to offshoring. It will leave this country by employers, not all will be moved out of this country by employers, but even those who stay are subject to the competition of lower wages abroad. Therefore, there will be lower wages, less health care, less benefits, and less retirement benefits.

That future for the American worker on one side, and on the other side we have this urge to import cheap labor.
who are already here illegally. But more needs to be done. Allowing people who would normally be illegal and stamping them as “legal” is kind of a “let’s pretend” approach.

I understand the Senate has already voted on an amendment, and I think that pretty handily, as a matter of fact. But I think there is more to do on this. The bill is still open for amendment. For example, we have a so-called guest worker provision which says let’s pretend that illegal immigration is legal immigration. Should we have all this vision that lasts forever and is permanent, or should we sunset it after a few years and have a real honest study by people who might evaluate how many Americans are losing their jobs as a result of this back door, cheap labor coming as replacement workers?

How many Americans are losing their jobs? I see very little discussion on the floor of this Senate in this debate about immigration which, after all, is about jobs, among other things. I see very little discussion and Members standing up on the floor of the Senate saying: Let us wonder what this means to American workers. What does it mean to the fabricator or how about the punch press operator, to the manufacturer? Does it mean to the steel worker? What does it mean to the punch press operator? To the manufacturer? To the American workers? What does it mean to American workers. What is the construct which is occurring throughout the country today, and I think it is fundamentally wrong.

My hope is we continue these discussions about guest workers. We will have other opportunities to offer amendments. I will have some, and perhaps we can get back to where we should be and that is dealing with the central question of our country’s border; protect us first against terrorism; and then other jobs and, more importantly, have that allow people to come into this country legally. We have quotas with which we accomplish that. Seal this country’s border so we have border protection and an orderly flow of people in and out of this country; and, second, enforce standards against employers that routinely and knowingly hire illegal workers.

I was here when we passed Simpson-Mazzoli. In fact, I went back and reread some of the debate on the floor of the Senate and House.

What was said was we are fixing immigration. Back then, there really was amnesty. Amnesty was given to a good number of millions of illegal immigrants. We said to employers: Don’t you dare hire illegal workers. If people come into this country illegally to take Americans’ jobs, don’t you dare hire them. If you do, you will be subject to fines and penalties that are significant.

Guess what. There has been no enforcement at all. Last year, one company was subject to enforcement action in the entire United States of America; the year before, three companies in the entire United States. The message implies Kate bar the door; hire illegals if you like; pay sub-standard wages because they are illegal; don’t worry, nobody is going to look; nobody is going to fine you; and nobody is going to impose jail.

That is why this entire thing has failed. Twenty years later, we have the same language. You can change the names and it is the same language—going to get tough, going to fix this issue.

The fact is, if we don’t decide, first, to secure our borders and, second, to have real sanctions against those who want to hire illegal immigrants for sub-standard wages, this will not work. All we are doing is playing let’s pretend. We play that often around here. It is not going to work.

What we ought to do is stare truth in the eye on this issue and decide that we are going to do what is necessary to secure our borders. What the immigration issue is, how to fix it and go about the business of doing it. Instead, there is all this energy to see not only how we deal with the immigration issue but how we add a new guest worker program to this thing. What we have into this country who otherwise would be illegal and how do we bring new people into this country to take the jobs that American workers need. That doesn’t make much sense to me, and it is not a proposition that I can support.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Who yields time?

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, I inquire as to the regular order and the time agreement reached on the next few amendments.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The time agreement on the next two amendments? The Senator is informed there is no time agreement on the next amendments. The time agreement is on the current amendment, but no further amendments are subject to a time agreement.

Mr. INHOFE. And the vote will take place at 10 o’clock?

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. This vote will take place at 10 o’clock.

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, the next amendment coming up will be the amendment we refer to as the English national language amendment. Since there is some time right now, unless someone else wants the floor, I can discuss what it is before the legislation.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The time is equally divided on the current amendment.
Mr. INHOFE. I inquire, is someone requesting time?

Mr. KENNEDY. We have until 10 o’clock, and that time is divided.

Mr. INHOFE. I thank the Senator.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. There is 12 minutes left for the majority and 17 minutes remaining for the minority.

Mr. KENNEDY. If the Senator wants to speak for a few minutes, we can arrange that. I will withhold.

Mr. INHOFE. As I understand it, on our side there is 17 minutes remaining, is that correct, and I can use a few minutes?

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. That is correct.

Mr. CORNYN. Mr. President, we split the time between 9 and 10 o’clock, but it was on the pending amendment. The Senator from Massachusetts has yet to call up the amendment. The only speakers who have been heard have been in opposition to the amendment, but the amendment has not yet itself been called up.

I want to make sure the balance of the time reserved is still preserved so we do not lose an opportunity to respond to the debate by the Senator from Massachusetts.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The current order is the vote will take place at 10 o’clock, but the time between then and now is roughly 16 minutes for the majority and 12 minutes for the minority.

Mr. KENNEDY. Can I ask unanimous consent we defer the vote at 10 clock until 10:05?

Mr. INHOFE. I thank the Senator for that generous offer. I will not make any comments at this time and will wait until our amendment is up. We will discuss it then.

Mr. KENNEDY. Fine.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Massachusetts is recognized.

AMENDMENT NO. 8966

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, we send an amendment to the desk on behalf of myself, Senator McCAIN, and Senator GRAHAM.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk reads as follows:

The Senator from Massachusetts, [Mr. KENNEDY], for himself, and Mr. McCAIN, and Mr. GRAHAM, proposes an amendment numbered 8966.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent the reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. SUNUNU). Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: To modify the conditions under which an H-2C nonimmigrant may apply for adjustment of status)

On page 256, after line 16 insert the following:

or “(iv) the alien submits at least 2 documents to establish current employment, as follows:

(1) Records maintained by the Social Security Administration.

(2) Records maintained by the employer, such as pay stubs, time sheets, or employment work verification.

(3) Records maintained by the Internal Revenue Service.

(4) Records maintained by any other government agency, such as worker compensation records, disability records, or business licensing records.

Mr. KENNEDY. How much time remains?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The minority controls 11 minutes 45 seconds, and the majority controls 15 minutes 45 seconds.

Mr. KENNEDY. We have 11 minutes?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Eleven and a half minutes.

Mr. KENNEDY. I yield myself 4 minutes.

Mr. President, as we all know, yesterday the Senate voted to eliminate the H-2C immigrant’s ability to self-petition for green cards after 4 years. I believe that vote was a mistake because it will have a devastating effect not just for temporary workers but for all workers and, basically, for all Americans.

The amendment we offer today would correct the mistake and take the good language from the Cornyn amendment to improve the underlying bill. This amendment will require that the Labor Department certify that no U.S. worker will be displaced by H-2C workers when the amendment status, as the Cornyn amendment requires. This amendment also restores the ability of H-2C workers to obtain a green card without being dependent on the generosity of the employers.

The self-petition feature of our temporary worker program is innovative and essential to workers’ rights. All Americans lose if it is eliminated from the bill.

The reason temporary worker programs failed in the past, going back to the time of the Bracero Program, is because they did not protect workers’ rights. For this new program to work without harming U.S. workers, H-2C workers must have the full set of rights. That is why our bill includes extensive labor protections for temporary workers.

Effectively, then, at the time after the 4 years, the individual will be able to make a green card petition under the green card, and they will also have to have a certification by the Department of Labor that there is no American able and willing to perform that job. There will have to be that kind of a finding.

The self-petition gives that worker some rights and respect as an employee instead of being subject to the dangers we have seen in the past of exploitation by an employer that knows that worker can never get a chance to have a petition and can never get on the path for a green card without the employer giving the thumbs-up signal.

When that power relationship between the employer and the employee exists, we have seen exploitation in terms of wages, working conditions, and other unfortunate problems with regard to women.

This seems to be a solid compromise. It takes the framework of the Cornyn amendment, but it will also ensure that these petitioners are going to have to demonstrate there is that gap in terms of the labor market that they are able to fill and that there is not someone out there in the American labor market prepared to take that job. It seems to me to be a very tentative principle, a very concrete proposal, one I hope we can have accepted this morning.

I withdraw the remainder of my time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Texas.

Mr. CORNYN. Mr. President, I yield myself 3 minutes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator is recognized.

Mr. CORNYN. Mr. President, the amendment Senator KENNEDY is proposing guts the worker protection amendment agreed to by the Senate yesterday. It would do so by allowing workers to self-petition for legal permanent residency if they produce some documents which indicate they are currently employed, but they will be necessarily retrospective in nature.

In other words, you do not have a document necessarily that shows you are employed today or will be employed tomorrow. You simply have to sign a check from the last week or the last month. So there is no way to determine whether the individuals who are self-petitioning, under this proposal by the Senator from Massachusetts, are actually going to be working.

No. 2, if they are working, there is no protection for American workers—first, that the Secretary of Labor certify that there were no sufficient U.S. workers willing, able, and qualified to perform those jobs.

If the proponents of this bill are serious when they say that certain provisions are needed because immigrants will do work that Americans won’t do, then they should support the amendment agreed to yesterday and vote against the amendment that has been proposed this morning.

President Bush, again, has said the concept of a temporary worker program is to provide additional legal workforce for jobs that there are not enough Americans to perform. Yet this proposed amendment simply sidesteps that requirement entirely.

It further represents a shell game insofar as it would only require those workers in this country during an initial 3-year period to work about 6 days a year in order to obtain a green card.

This is about truth in advertising. If, in fact, the bill is going to represent something even close to what we have been told the purpose of it is, as represented, we need to make sure the actual language of the bill conforms to that and not pull a fast one on the American people by taking away the very protection for American workers that the proponents of this bill have said are an important part of their legislation.

I yield the floor and retain the remainder of my time.

Mr. KENNEDY. How much time remains?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator has 8 minutes remaining.

Mr. KENNEDY. I will take 3 minutes for the membership, if they have a chance to review the amendment.

On page 1, second paragraph:

The Secretary of Labor determines and certifies that there are not sufficient United States workers who are able, willing, qualified, and available to fill the position in which the alien is, or will be employed.

So the Secretary of Labor has to make the certification that they will not be replacing an American worker.

Then, how are they going to be able to give the assurance they have had the 4 years that are included in the first paragraph, that “the alien has maintained such nonimmigrant status in the United States for a cumulative period of not less than 4 years of employment?”

There are listed and include: records maintained by Social Security, records maintained by the employer, employment work verification, records maintained by the Internal Revenue Service, records maintained by other government agencies.

What we are saying, in the four different categories, those categories are government-held records or the employer-held records, not the employee-held records.

I don’t know how it could be much clearer exactly what this amendment does. It is very clear. It is the certification that there is no American that is able, willing, and qualified. And to be able to prove it, there are government-held records or employer-held records, not the petitioner’s records, not his stubs, but government-held records.

We have tried to craft this in a way which is going to be fair. We are not interested in people trying to “jimmy” the system. We have had too much of that in the past.

I get back to the final theme. This legislation tries to learn from past experience. In 1986, we had amnesty but there was supposed to be tough employment sanctions. They hired employed. We had vast industries that produced fake identification cards. The system never functioned. It never worked.

What we have tried to do is avoid that. We have a tamper-proof card. We will have vigorous employment. But, also, to learn the lessons of the Bracero Program, we are not going to have the exploitation of these workers by their employers. That is what we do when we deny the opportunity of an employee ever to make a petition. We say you have to be in there for 4 years, with solid record of employment, solid record of achievement, solid record of commitment to work. Then you can make your petition. You have to meet that requirement.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator has 5 minutes remaining.

Mr. KENNEDY. When I paid my time?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The opposition has 13 minutes remaining, and the Senator from Massachusetts has 4 minutes 45 seconds.

Mr. KENNEDY. I yield that time to the Senator from Arizona.

Mr. MCCAIN. I rise in support of this amendment. It is an important amendment. I point out that I appreciate very much the efforts of Senator CORNYN and Senator KYL to have a respectful debate on this issue. We have honestly held views, and I am very appreciative of the level of this debate and our discussion not only in the Senate but in the cloakroom as we have worked out a number of differences we have had in a mutual effort to come up with legislation which is appropriate to the future of America.

The language in the amendment is identical to what we passed last night, only this amendment adds an additional paragraph giving the alien more of an opportunity to prove their current work status. If we allow people to gain permanent residency, we want them to be hard-working, upstanding individuals. The amendment allows illegal immigrants to prove, through the use of valid government documents—we would be more than happy to define “valid government documents” more carefully in report language or in additional amendments—they should have, we believe, an opportunity with secure, government-issued documents that they can prove they are eligible.

This is an important right they should be given. It releases them from the possibility of the bondage of an employer who would like to keep them in the status of which they are. That would only apply to a few, but this is a necessary addition.

The original CORNYN-KYL amendment does not mandate that the employer attest they will employ this individual in the future, only that they employ them currently. This is an important amendment. I urge my colleagues to support this amendment.

I reserve the remainder of my time for the Senator from Massachusetts.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Texas.

Mr. CORNYN. Mr. President, may I inquire how much time I have remaining?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator has 13 minutes remaining.

Mr. CORNYN. Mr. President, I appreciate the opportunity the Senator from Massachusetts and the Senator from Arizona have made. This language has been somewhat fluid, and now I have it in front of me. I think I understand it, and I think I understand what the differences are between our two arguments.

Basically, it does retain a certification requirement by the Department of Labor. But the one who decides what the job requirements are and whether the foreign worker actually meets those job requirements is the worker him or herself and not an employer. This is, I believe, insufficient to provide American workers a sense of security because, essentially, the foreign worker is the judge of his own abilities and also the judge of the job requirement for which the Department of Labor is supposed to certify there are not sufficient American workers available to take it, and so if not the same, I would say similar defects to the original underlying bill that was amended yesterday to reinsert American worker protection.

Let me speak a minute or two about the nature of what this position is. We are now talking, as Senator DORGAN said, about the so-called future flow, people who are not here yet. This has been the needed and approved program. Senator KYL and I will be offering an alternative to this so-called guest worker program which we describe as a temporary worker program because I believe this guest worker program is misnamed, is mishandled, and is in no sense a guest worker program. That is because when you invite guests into your home, you expect at some point they might actually leave.

Under this guest worker program, as designed, that never happens. It invites as many as 200,000 individuals a year, under the Bingaman amendment, who can then come into the United States and work for a period of 4 years, and then, under the approach by the Senator from Massachusetts, self-petition for legal permanent residency and then get in line for American citizenship without regard to whether the American economy is in a boom or a bust. In terms of the so-called amnesty, it is very clear, when we are in recession, it is much more likely that American workers are going to be competing with foreign workers admitted under this so-called guest worker program.

I do believe calling this a guest worker program, when in fact it is a path to a legal permanent residency and citizenship, is a misnomer. In addition to damaging the prospects of American workers during times when our economy is not doing well and when there are not a lot of jobs available, it also harms countries such as Mexico and Central American countries that have seen a massive exodus of their hard-working citizens to the United States, never to return.

What we need to do, for the benefit of America as well as the benefit of countries such as Mexico and those in Central America, is to restate this historical notion of circular migration; in other words, create a framework where people can come to the United States, qualify to work for a period of time, and then return home with the savings and skills they have acquired working in the United States.

A person who works at even modest pay in the United States under a temporary worker program can, in many instances, go back home and live like a king in some of these countries, where their money goes a lot further and where their investment in a home or a small business will thereby create opportunity not just for them but also other citizens in those other countries.

I believe if we are ever going to narrow the gap between opportunities available in countries such as Mexico and those in Central America and South America and other countries—which is the basic reason why people leave home to the United States, find jobs and work, and we all understand why—we need to find some way of reinstating this pattern of circular migration so people do maintain their contacts and ties with their country and their culture and their family because otherwise we will never be able to satisfactorily address this phenomenon of illegal immigration, no matter what kind of caps we put on it, no matter how many folks we put on the border, no matter whether we build an actual wall or a virtual wall.

Unless we find some way of reducing the development gap between countries that are the net exporters of human labor and a country such as America, which is the importer of human labor from all over the world, we are never going to get to the bottom of this problem.

So that is another reason why I believe this amendment should be defeated. We will have further discussion later on transforming, I hope, the so-called guest worker program to a true temporary worker program and reinstating circular migration in a way that both benefits America and benefits those countries from which those workers come.

Mr. President, I reserve the remainder of our time and yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Massachusetts.

Mr. CORNYN. Mr. President, I have tried to point out this will be a judgment decision that will be made by the Secretary of Labor as to whether there is an American fit, willing, and able. And if there is, they cannot petition.

Now, the Senator says: Well, it is all then up to the employee. But the idea of the whole guest worker is the employer. Why is it good for the employer, who is going to go out and petition and say: Look, I need someone to come. They advertise for 45 days. Then they find out they have someone from overseas who will do that. So the employer is the one who is petitioning there. Didn’t have any problem with that.

Now, we get into the situation after 4 years, they can make the petition on this, if there is a vacancy, according to this proposal, but if there is not a green card available, they do not get it. They might have to wait a year. They might have to indicate 2 years. This is still weighted far against the worker than the employer.

What we were always trying to do in the development of the legislation is to have balance and fairness in terms of the authority and responsibility and the rights of the other parties. I think what we have offered addresses what I understood to be the Senator’s concern; that is, that there are going to be American workers out there when this person is getting a green card. Therefore, it is critical that we allow the American workers. We say, if there is one, they don’t get it. That is decided by the Secretary of Labor. And they have to be able to prove their work history through documents and records that are either held by the Government or by the employer. It seems to me that is about as lock safe and secure as you can have in this business. I would hope we would accept this amendment.

Mr. President, I think my time has expired.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The time of the Senator from Massachusetts has expired.

There is 7 minutes remaining in opposition to the amendment.

Mr. CORNYN. Mr. President, I yield to the Senator from Arizona 5 minutes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Arizona is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. KYL. Mr. President, the amendment that was adopted yesterday is a good amendment. I would hate to see us undo what we did yesterday with the Kennedy amendment. Therefore, I rise in opposition.

What we are talking about is self-petitioning by an illegal immigrant for permanent legal status in the United States—a green card—to be here for the rest of their life. The circumstances in the past for that had always been that either the individual had a job and we then adopted an amendment that would be able to date the American who would be able to stay here forever and, therefore, compete with the American for the job.

So I think we should stick with the worker protection amendment we adopted yesterday and not agree to the Kennedy amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Texas.

Mr. CORNYN. Mr. President, is it correct that we have 5 minutes remaining?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator is correct.

Mr. CORNYN. Mr. President, where we have come from since yesterday afternoon is, we had a basic bill that provided no protection for American workers because it allowed foreign workers to self-petition without a job, without any type of certification there were no Americans available to fill the job, and we then adopted an amendment that would install some protection up against those things: that, No. 1, there is a job available; and, No. 2, there are sufficient Americans to fill that type of job.

The bottom line that Senator CORNYN is trying to assure is that if an American has a job, that job is not undercut by somebody coming here today who would be able to stay here forever and, therefore, compete with the American for the job.

So I think we should stick with the worker protection amendment we adopted yesterday and not agree to the Kennedy amendment.
Now, under the amendment of the Senator from Massachusetts, we have gone from no worker protection to what I would call illusory worker protection—illusory worker protection—because this puts the decision to define the job requirements in the hands of the foreign worker. It also puts in the hands of the foreign worker—the self-interested individual, by the way, who is going to be staying or leaving depending on whether they meet these requirements—it puts in that foreign worker’s hands the total and unilateral determination of what the job requirements are and, No. 2, whether that same foreign worker meets those job requirements; whereas, for everyone else in America, it is the employer who determines whether the prospective employee meets the job requirements.

The last thing I would say is, for every other category of visa, worker visa in America, under our naturalization and immigration system, there has to be some form of employer sponsor-ship. And this deviates from that pattern which I believe is important, and this represents an unprecedented break with that in a way that I think damages the prospects of American workers.

So I urge my colleagues to vote against the amendment.

I yield the floor and yield the re-mainder of our time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. All time has expired on the amendment.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, following this vote, the next scheduled amendment is by the Senator from Oklahoma, Mr. INHOFE. There are negotiations in trying to work it out. They are supposedly very close. So we are not sure whether we will have Senator INHOFE’s amendment and a side-by-side lieu to the amendment. We will try to determine that while the vote is on.

If they are table to work it out—or immediately following that, we will go to the amendment by Senator AKAKA. We are going to try to work out time agreements so we can move the bill along on all of them.

Let me remind my colleagues, we are going to enforce the rules strictly to 15 minutes and 5 so we can move the bill along.

Let me also remind my colleagues on the Judiciary Committee that we are going to have our executive meeting in the President’s Room. We had planned to have an executive meeting at 9 o’clock this morning, but then when the hearing on General Hayden was moved by the Intelligence Committee from 10 to 9:30, we could not have that meeting, so we are going to have it in the President’s Room immediately following this vote.

I thank the Chair and yield the floor.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The yeas and nays are requested.

Is there a sufficient second?

NOT VOTING—1

Rockefeller

The amendment (No. 4066) was agreed to.

Mr. KENNEDY. Madam President, I move to reconsider the vote, and I move to lay that motion on the table.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from West Virginia is to be recognized.

Mr. KENNEDY. Madam President, we are trying to move to lay off, I see my colleague and friend behind me, the Senator from West Virginia, Mr. BYRD, who has been here patiently waiting to address the Senate on this issue generally. That might work, as we are just trying to resolve the language on this Inhofe amendment.

Mr. SPECTER. Madam President, may I ask the Senator from West Vir-

Inhofe how long he would like?

Mr. BYRD. Presumably 20 minutes.

Mr. SPECTER. Madam President, that is entirely acceptable. I announce that following Senator BYRD we will be going to the Inhofe amendment. I understand they are very close on an agreement. If that agreement is reached, then I would like to move—although I am not asking consent for that now—to a 20-minute time agreement—If an agreement is reached, equally divided. If it is not reached, we will have side-by-side amendments. I alert Members as to what the schedule will be.

Following that, Senator AKAKA is next in line, and we are considering a time agreement there, also.

I have been asked when the next vote will occur. I think we can move the bill most expeditiously if we continue to take up the amendments one at a time, but after the first votes bring all the Senators in to stack the votes. We will then have a better idea as to when we will stack the votes when we have a better idea as to how many votes we will have.

Meanwhile, the Judiciary Committee is meeting in executive session in the President’s Room, so I ask the Judiciary Committee members to go to that meeting.

I thank the Chair and yield the floor to Senator BYRD.

Mr. KENNEDY. Madam President, the Inhofe amendment is enormously important. It is complicated. Members on both sides, including the author of the amendment, are working in good faith to try to work this out. To my knowledge, it has not been worked out. Hopefully, after 25 minutes, we will be able to tell the Senate whether it is worked out, whether we will have to have side-by-side amendments. But at this time, we will not enter into a short time agreement.

Hopefully, as we have been making progress in other areas, we will have a chance to do that in this area as well.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from West Virginia has the floor.

Mr. BYRD. Madam President, today the Senate finds itself considering yet another amnesty for illegal aliens. After the defeat of a similar amnesty proposal last month, I had hoped that the Senate had seen the last of these efforts. I had hoped that the Senate, given the time to consider the overwhelming opposition of the American people to amnesty, would pass a clean border security bill like the House did without amnesty, with a guest worker program, and without an increase in the annual allotment of permanent immigrant visas.

Sadly, the Senate is embarking on a path that contradicts everything we know—everything we know—about the position of the American people on this issue. It is an unpopular approach. It is the wrong approach.

The other night in his address to the Nation, the President endorsed the Senate amnesty bill to award U.S. citizenship to illegal aliens, and he announced the deployment of up to 6,000 guardsmen to the U.S. border with Mexico. The deployment of U.S. troops is intended to suggest an urgency about gaining control of the border that has been missing for many years, even since the September 11 attacks. Nevertheless, I have my doubts and concerns.

Guardsmen have been sent overseas two times, even three times—no, even four times—and have come home fatigued and stressed out. They have been forced to sell businesses and endure financial hardships because of their long absences.

Just a few months ago, the White House proposed that the National Guard by nearly 18,000 soldiers. The adjutants general of many States are reporting that they were not involved in discussions about the deployment of the Guard to our borders. So what assurances are there that sending troops to the border won’t hamper our ability to respond to the floods in New England, another Hurricane Katrina, or another natural disaster?

The National Guard might be able to lend support to our border security, but that role must not be at the expense of the thousands of communities around the country that also depend on our Guard should disasters strike those towns or counties.

Press reports indicate that the Guard men and women will not be empowered to arrest aliens who attempt to cross our borders. I cannot help but wonder if this move to detail guardsmen to our borders is a political stunt to look tough while the State of the Guard.

The President would not have to call out the National Guard to secure the borders if he had supported even some—even some—of the nine—nine—nine—nine—nine amendments that I offered since September 11 to hire and train more Border Patrol agents. If these amendments had been adopted—I say, if they had been adopted—the law enforcement agents would be in place right now helping to secure the borders.

Instead, the administration has consistently opposed these efforts as unnecessary and extraneous spending, saying that those funds would expand the size of Government. When I included $400 million in the fiscal year 2002 Supplemental Appropriations Act for border security, the President refused to spend it saying: I made my opposition clear ... We’ll spend none of it.

That is what he said. That is what the President said. He said: I made my opposition clear ... We’ll spend none of it.

As recently as last September, on a party-line vote, the majority defeated an amendment that I offered since September 11 to hire and train more Border Patrol agents. If these amendments had been adopted—I say, if they had been adopted—the law enforcement agents would be in place right now helping to secure the borders.

in the interior, and in its processing of immigration applications. It only took 19 temporary visa holders to slip through the system to unleash the horror of the September 11 attacks, and the pending proposal would shove many tens of millions of legal and illegal aliens whom have never gone through a background check—through our border security system over the next decade, in effect, flooding a bureaucracy that is already drowning.

It is a recipe for disaster, and 6,000 National Guardsmen without the power to enforce our immigration laws and arrest illegal aliens are not going to make the difference between success and failure. Our Nation’s experience shows that amnesty does not—do not—work. They encourage illegal immigration. They open our borders to terrorists. Our experience shows that we cannot play games with our border security or American lives could be lost.

I will oppose this amnesty bill, and I suggest the absence of a quorum.

AMENDMENT NO. 961, AS MODIFIED

Mr. INHOFE. I ask unanimous consent that the amendment be modified with the changes that are at the desk. The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment is so modified. The amendment (No. 961), as modified, is as follows:

On page 102, line 2, strike “the alien—” and all that follows through page 296, line 5, and insert “the alien meets the requirements of section 312.”

On page 352, line 3, strike “other—” and all that follows through line 15, and insert “the requirements of section 312(a) (relating to English proficiency and understanding of United States history and Government).”

On page 614, after line 5, insert the following:

SEC. 766. ENGLISH AS NATIONAL LANGUAGE

(a) In General.—Title 4, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following:

"§ 161. Declaration of official language

"English is the national language of the United States of America. Unless otherwise authorized or provided by law, no person has a right, entitlement, or claim to have the Government of the United States or any of its agencies, offices or officers, commissions, or committees, perform or provide services, or provide materials in any language other than English. If exceptions are made, that does not authorize the additional payment for services in that language or any language other than English. If any forms are issued by the Federal Government in a language other than English, such forms are completed in a language other than English, the English language version of the form is the sole authority for all legal purposes.";

(b) Definitions. — The table of chapters for title 4, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following: "§ 161. Language of the Government ......... 161.".

SEC. 767. REQUIREMENTS FOR NATURALIZATION.

(a) Findings.—The Senate makes the following findings:

a. Under United States law (8 U.S.C. 1423(a)), lawful permanent residents of the United States who have immigrated from foreign countries must, among other requirements, demonstrate an understanding of the English language, United States history and Government, to become citizens of the United States.

b. The Department of Homeland Security is currently conducting a review of the testing process used to ensure prospective United States citizens demonstrate said knowledge of the English language and United States history and Government for the purpose of redesigning said test.

(b) Definitions.—For purposes of this section only, the following words are defined:

(1) Key documents means the documents that established or explained the foundational principles of democracy in the United States, including the United States Constitution and the amendments to the Constitution (particularly the Bill of Rights), the Declaration of Independence, the Federalist Papers, and the Emancipation Proclamation.

(2) Key events. — The term “key events” means the critical turning points in the history of the United States (including the American Revolution, the Civil War, the world wars of the twentieth century, the civil rights movement, and the major court decisions and legislation) that contributed to extending the promise of democracy in American life.

(3) Key ideas. — The term “key ideas” means the ideas that shaped the democratic institutions of the United States, including the notion of equal justice under the law, freedom, individualism, human rights, and a belief in progress.

(4) Key persons means the men and women who led the United States as founding fathers, elected officials, scientists, inventors, pioneers, advocates, or leaders of equal rights, entrepreneurs, and artists.

(c) Goals for Citizenship Test Redesign.—The Department of Homeland Security shall establish as goals of the testing process designed to comply with provisions of [8 U.S.C. 1423(a)] that prospective citizens:

a. demonstrate a sufficient understanding of the English language for usage in everyday life;

b. demonstrate an understanding of American common values and traditions, including the principles of the Constitution of the United States, the Pledge of Allegiance, respect for the flag of the United States, the National Anthem, and voting in public elections;

c. demonstrate an understanding of the history of the United States, including the history of the United States, including the key events, key persons, key ideas, and key documents that shaped the institutions and democratic heritage of the United States;

d. demonstrate an attachment to the principles of the Constitution of the United States and the well being and happiness of the people of the United States; and

e. demonstrate an understanding of the rights and responsibilities of citizenship in the United States.

(d) Implementation.—The Secretary of Homeland Security shall implement changes to the testing process designed to ensure compliance with [8 U.S.C. 1423(a)] not later than January 1, 2008.

Mr. INHOFE. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent to add as cosponsors several Senators, including the distinguished senior Senator from West Virginia, Senator BYRD, and Senators ALEXANDER and KYL.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. INHOFE. Madam President, this is, I believe, a very significant amendment. We have had an opportunity to talk to people who had problems. In addition to making English the national language, we also unify some of the applications in terms of legalized immigration.

I have had the honor of speaking at naturalization ceremonies. It is a very warm thing to know that these people come in and do it the legal way, the right way; wherein they have to, and they do, learn the language. We have some language in here that Senator ALEXANDER had suggested that I think makes this a better bill, and I think Senator KYL and Senator SESSIONS also have this language. So it goes beyond that.

Basically, what it does is it recognizes the practical reality of the role of English as our national language. It states explicitly that English is our national language, providing English a status in law that it has not had before. It clarifies the entitlement to receive Federal documents and services in languages other than English. It declares that any rights of a person and services or materials in languages other than English must be authorized or provided by law. It recognizes the decades of unbroken court opinions that civil rights laws protecting against national origin and discrimination do not create rights to Government services and materials in languages other than English, and establishes enhanced EDDIS as redesigned. This is what I talked about in trying to make those more uniform.

I think Senator ALEXANDER wants to make a few comments. I would only say that this is something that is more significant probably to the American people than it is inside this Chamber. I know there is opposition to this. There are some people who don’t believe that English should be our national language. If you look at some of the recent polling data, such as the Zogby poll in 2006, it found that 67 percent of Americans, including 77 percent of Hispanics, believed that English should be the national language of Government. operations. A poll of 91 percent of foreign-born Latino immigrants agreed that learning English is essential to succeeding in accordance with the United States, according to the 2002 Kaiser Family Foundation poll.

Also, we heard the other day, when President Bush made his very eloquent statement, he said:

An ability to speak and write the English language, English allows newcomers to go from picking crops to opening grocery stores, from cleaning offices to running offices, from a life of low-paying jobs to a diploma, a career, and a home of their own.

So I believe this is something very significant that we are doing today that people have talked about now for four decades that I know of, and I believe it should be popular.

I yield to the Senator from Arizona.

Mr. KYL. Madam President, I wish to compliment the Senator from Oklahoma for his work, for bringing it to the Senate floor, and for doing something I think is very important and that I think unifies us.

What are some of the things that do unify us? Well, the English language unifies us. Senator ALEXANDER, who will speak in a moment, was responsible also for working with Senator INHOFE to include provisions in this amendment that help us to recognize the importance of immigrants to our country and the importance—not just for our new immigrants but for all Americans—of speaking this language that is our national language. So an amendment that recognizes that it is our national language is very positive for both immigrants and nonimmigrants alike.

I would also like to make a point about what this amendment is not. This is not an English-only amendment. That is an important point. We do speak a lot of different languages in this country, but English is our national language, and I think we can all agree on those great principles.

So this expression by the Senate is an important one, and I compliment all of those who helped to work on it, and for bringing it to the Senate floor. I thank Senator INHOFE.

Mr. INHOFE. I appreciate the comments of the Senator from Arizona, who was very instrumental in coming up with some good language that made this a viable legislation.

Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that Senator FRIST be added as a cosponsor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Alabama is recognized.

Mr. SESSIONS. I thank the Senator from Oklahoma for his good work because we are now a Nation of people of different faiths, different skill sets, different backgrounds, different colors of skin. In Senator ALEXANDER’s words, ‘we once were apart, now we have become Americans’. The thing that makes this country effective is being able to communicate with one another in a common language. I think that is an ideal of America that is important. I think any Nation, historically, that has divisions based on language, begins to have a lot of complications and problems. So I am pleased that Senator ALEXANDER and Senator INHOFE have worked hard on this, that they have come up with language that also includes more extensive training and learning on behalf of new citizens about what it means to be an American. No one has been more articulate over the years on this than Senator ALEXANDER.

I offered an amendment on it and worked with Senator INHOFE and Senator ALEXANDER and others, and we have reached a common accord with an amendment I think everyone can support that will help unify us as a Nation and make sure we are one people, all Americans, adhering to the highest ideals of this great country.

Senator ALEXANDER for his work, for bringing it to your work and, Senator ALEXANDER, I appreciate your leadership also.

Mr. INHOFE. I thank Senator Sessions for the contributions he has made. You and Senator ALEXANDER have both worked with me, and I think it would be appropriate for me to yield some time to Senator ALEXANDER because he can articulate some of the other areas that we are addressing here, other than English as the national language.

Mr. ALEXANDER. Madam President, I see the manager of the bill. I wonder if it would be appropriate for me to go ahead for about 10 minutes on the Inhofe amendment.

Mr. SPECTER. Madam President, the distinguished Senator from Tennessee has been a leader in this field going back to his days as the Secretary of Education and Governor. Ten minutes would be fine. I think that is acceptable to Senator ALEXANDER.

I would like to remind Senators we are trying to move the bill along. The next Senator in line is Senator AKAKA, and I think we are likely to be ready for Senator AKAKA very briefly. If he could come to the floor, we could move ahead with his amendment. I thank the Chair, and I yield to Senator ALEXANDER.

Mr. ALEXANDER. Madam President, could I be notified when I have 60 seconds left?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator will be notified.

Mr. ALEXANDER. I think Senator INHOFE, the Senator from Oklahoma, has been looking at the original motto of the United States which is above the Presiding Officer’s chair: e pluribus unum, “one out of many,” in our antecedent language of Latin because he has done a very good job, I think, of helping to say what the body as a whole would like to say, and I hope it helps to say something all Senators can agree on.

Here is what the Inhofe amendment, of which I am proud to be a cosponsor, does. No. 1, it states the obvious: that English is the national language of the United States. But in so stating, it does not prevent those who are today receiving Government services in other languages from continuing to do so. We can have those discussions at another time.

The second thing it does is it adopts an idea that has been suggested by Senator GRASSLEY, the Senator from Iowa, on another occasion during the debate on this bill; that for those immigrants who are in the country illegally but who may be able to adjust to a legal status under the way this bill is finally written, it establishes a clear English language requirement for them to become lawful permanent residents.

The third thing it does is it establishes clear goals for the tests that immigrants take to become new American citizens, so that they know English, our common language, and so that they are familiar with it and with its dictionary. That test is currently being redesigned by the Department of Homeland Security. In doing so, this part of the Inhofe amendment picks up language that had been offered before by Senator RIEDELL, Senator KENNEDY from Massachusetts, and Senator DODD, as we worked to create summer academies for outstanding students and teachers of American history.

It should surprise no one that the Senate would pass a resolution stating that our national language is English. I can remember being at an education meeting in Rochester in the late 1990s, when someone asked: What is the rationale for common schools? And Albert Shanker, the late president of the American Federation of Teachers, said the public schools, the common schools of America were created to help largely immigrant children learn reading and writing and English and mathematics with the hope they would go home and teach their parents.

So for a long time, we have tried to help new citizens learn our common language so we can speak to one another, and that has been English. Since 1906, our naturalization laws have required new citizens to know English and be able to pass tests in English.

The Senate, at the beginning of the immigration debate, put a value on the English language by approving an amendment that said that the federal government will offer $500 grants paid for out of visa fees by those who are legally here, who are seeking to become prospective citizens. In other words, we want to help people learn English.

The same amendment said that if you become fluent in English, we will cut a year off the time you have to wait to become a lawful, new citizen from 5 years to 4 years.

I remember when I was Education Secretary for this country 15 years ago, when I went to the Southwest United States and someone told me: Well, you will probably find a lot of people who object to learning English. But I found just the reverse. I found a lot of men and women in the Southwest United States who were upset with me because they didn’t have enough help to learn English. They wanted to learn the national language, the common language of those who speak more than one language, whether it is Spanish or Chinese or English, after Spanish, is the next most widely spoken language in our country—but that one of those languages must be English, and children should learn it as quickly as it is practical.

The second part of the Inhofe amendment should not surprise anyone because it incorporates language Senator Sessions had offered to try to make certain that the U.S. history test that new immigrants take if they wish to become citizens includes the key documents and key events and key ideas of our founding documents. As I mentioned, that has broad support on both sides of the aisle here, with the Democratic leader, as well as the Republican leader, Senator Sessions, Senator Kyll, and others, having been involved in that.

Finally, it should be no surprise that the Senate, in the middle of a debate on a very important subject, finds talking about our common language, our national language, English, an important matter, and talking about U.S. history an important matter. In many ways, there is nothing more important to discuss if we are talking about immigration because the greatest accomplishment of our country is not our diversity, even though that is a magnificent part of our country. It is that we have taken all that diversity and molded it into one nation on something other than race or ancestry.

We have this enormous advantage in the world today, an advantage France and Germany don’t have. People have a hard time thinking of how to become German, how to become French, how to become Italian, how to become Chinese, how to become Japanese. But if you come to this country and you want to become a citizen, you must become an American and you must learn our common language. That is a part of it, and it has been for 200 years.

The Inhofe amendment is a very carefully constructed amendment to try to make sure that we are heard properly in this country. We value every language. We value every ancestry. We value every background that is here. It is what makes our country so special. I hope our children grow up speaking more than one language. But we need to be able to speak with one another, and we need to understand those principles which we debate here in the Senate. Just look at this debate on immigration. We are debating four great principles with which we all agree, but we apply them in different ways. They are the rule of law; they are laissez faire, about our free market opportunity, giving everybody a fair chance at the starting line; and e pluribus unum, the idea that we are one nation from many.

This amendment is as important as any amendment which is being offered because it helps take our magnificent diversity and make it something even more magnificent. It recognizes that only a few things unite us: our principles, found in our founding documents, and our common language. We are proud of where we have come from, where our ancestors have come from, but to make this land of immigrants truly one country, we must have and honor our national language, our common language, and that language is English.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. MARTÍNEZ). The Senator from Oklahoma.

Mr. INHOFE. First of all, I do appreciate as always the very eloquent Senator from Oklahoma, and the Senator from South Carolina. He and I have spoken on this, and I thank him for his support.

I have always believed that the spirit. I have always believed that the national language, the common language of those who speak more than one language, whether it is Spanish or Chinese, how to become Japanese. But if you come to this country and you want to become American, you must learn our common language to assimilate into our culture to make our country more magnificent. It recognizes that because it helps take our magnificent diversity and make it something even more magnificent. It recognizes that only a few things unite us: our principles, found in our founding documents, and our common language is English. We need to understand that and promote that because if you are coming to America or you are here now, your life will be tremendously enhanced if you are fluent in the English language. Opportunities will exist for you that will not exist otherwise.

I know there are many people in this body from different places in the world, and some have parents or grandparents who are not fluent in English. Some may have died not speaking a word of English, and their lives were just as valuable as anybody else’s life, but we are trying, as a Government to make a policy statement, not change the law at the same time. The goal of this amendment is to say English is the national language of the United States. That is true. I would encourage every American to learn another language, get your kids enrolled in taking Spanish or some other language because they will be more successful in a global economy. From an individual level, we would be better off if every American could master additional languages other than English. But from a national perspective, to make sure we maintain our national unity and our common sense of being one nation, it is important that we emphasize the need to assimilate into America by mastering the English language. Senator Inhofe has made a statement that needs to be made. I congratulate him.

What does this amendment do, and what is it intended to do? This amendment says:

The Congress of the United States shall preserve and enhance the role of English as the national language of the United States of America.

That is a good policy statement. From an individual perspective, we should learn as many languages as possible, but from a national perspective, we need to promote assimilation in our society. The best way to assimilate into our society is not to abandon your native tongue but to also learn English.

Mr. DURBIN. Will the Senator yield for a question?

Mr. GRAHAM. I certainly will.

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, I would like to first commend the Senator from South Carolina and I have spoken in the well here on the floor about this issue. I am trying, as he is, to understand this issue from another’s point of view. view because I am a lucky person. My mother was an immigrant to this country. When her parents came to this country from Lithuania, they did not speak English. My mother spoke both Lithuanian and English, and as a young girl was an interpreter in court so I could have learned language even if they didn’t understand English very well. My mother spoke both languages, but I speak only English.

The Spanish language has become an important symbol for so many people in this country. It reflects on their heritage. It is a source of pride. They are proud to be Americans, but they are equally proud to have a heritage they are not adequately trained in the language, the English language, and they can’t understand the proceedings—if a judge determines that or other proceedings that make sure that they are conversational, they are in that communication environment, nothing in this amendment would override that.

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. DURBIN. Can the Senator point to me in a current situation where a Government service is being offered and explained in a language in addition to English—and that is usually the case.

Mr. GRAHAM. Right.

Mr. DURBIN. There will be English and then another language. And in my home State of Illinois, that language might be Polish, incidentally, or the Filipino dialect of Tagalog, for example, that might be the case.

Mr. GRAHAM. Right.

Mr. DURBIN. Can the Senator point to a single circumstance where he thinks there is an injustice in providing that alternative language instruction, an injustice that requires us to change the law of the United States of America?

Mr. INHOFE. Will the Senator yield so I can answer that question?

Mr. GRAHAM. Go ahead.

Mr. INHOFE. First of all, if you look at the second page of the bill, it provides:

Unless otherwise authorized or provided by law.

So we have that set up for exceptions that are already in law.

Now, the Court Interpreters Act was passed in 1978. They did not, prior to that time—there was a problem that corrected. That act, the Court Interpreters Act, protects already existing constitutional rights such as the 6th amendment, the right to confront witnesses speaking against you, and the 5th amendment and 14th amendment and due process. The United States—I think it was in Negron v. New York. That is a Federal case which is often cited to support the right to an interpreter in Federal and State proceedings. So it is Federal and State proceedings. I believe that exception takes care of that injustice in providing that alternative language instruction.

Mr. DURBIN. I don’t know whether to direct my question to the Senator from South Carolina, who I believe has the floor at this time, or to the Senator from Oklahoma. What is happening on the floor of the Senate is that there is a call to order, which hardly ever happens. And I ask those on C-SPAN to turn up the volume. This may turn out to be a debate.

Mr. GRAHAM. Let’s go back to the original question and incorporate it into the answer. The Senator asked me if I know of a case where the American Government provides a service in some language other than English that I find unjustified. The answer is no. I believe that the Government which get money from the Federal level, bilingual ballots and other services outside of English is preserved. At some point in time—in 1978 or whenever it was—Congress came along and said: There will be services provided in a language other than English in a court setting. Not only do I think that is just, but I want to preserve it.

Here is the ultimate answer to the Senator’s question. If there is an example of an injustice in the Senator’s mind as an individual Senator, where the Government of our country is providing a service not in English, this will not remedy that injustice.

That is what I am trying to say. Prior to this amendment, this language said that this amendment will not remedy that injustice. If you find one, you would have to come to the floor of the Senate and introduce a bill—a regulation—because this does not do that.

What Senator INHOFE said is absolutely right. The reason I am going to vote for this is because I think it tries to unite us without taking off the table exceptions to English or services provided other than English. It doesn’t disturb the legal situation in this country by a statute, regulation, court decree or an Executive order conferring rights of people to receive services other than English. If I thought it did, I wouldn’t vote for it.
Mr. DURBIN. If that is not the case, what does this add? What does it change? What does it bring to the law that isn’t currently in the law?

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, I was trying to reinforce that without doing well in English, they will never be able to work out an agreement on the Inhofe amendment.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, will the Senator yield?

Mr. GRAHAM. I yield the floor.

Mr. ENSIGN. Mr. President, on scheduling, we have not been able to work out an agreement on the Inhofe amendment.

The Ensign amendment is about to go. We are trying to juggle schedules with one Senator graduating from New Mexico, one Senator going to Florida. And if we can structure our schedules to have 12:30 votes, we can have two votes at 12:30. If the Senator from Nevada would be agreeable to a time limit between now and 12:30, why don’t we just divide? We will then be in position to vote on the Kennedy amendment. We will be in a position to vote on the Ensign amendment at 12:30. If we have the consent of Senator INHOFE—I have already discussed it with him informally—to set aside his amendment, the plan is to have a vote on the Inhofe amendment this afternoon. That will give time for others to have a side-by-side. That is how I would like to proceed.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, I want to cooperate and have cooperated with the Senator. I think it is premature to establish a time on the Ensign amendment. I don’t think it will be an undue period of time. But it would be difficult now to agree to a specific time. I hope we would be able to agree after a while. I welcome the chance to continue this. I think this discussion has been enormously valuable and helpful. We can proceed in whatever way the leader wants to proceed. Right now, we would not be in a position to agree to a 1-hour time limitation on the Ensign amendment, half an hour on each side. But we will we well need to try to get a reasonable time. That is this discussion.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, I suggest we proceed with the Ensign amendment. I agree. The discussion with Senator GRAHAM, Senator INHOFE, and Senator Specter was very productive. Perhaps we could continue the discussion on an informal basis as we try to come to an agreement on language but meanwhile proceed to the Ensign amendment with the prospect of a vote at 12:30.

I yield the floor.

THE PRESIDING OFFICER. Mr. ISAKSON.

Mr. ISAKSON. The Senator from Nevada.

Mr. ENSIGN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the pending amendment be set aside.

THE PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

AMENDMENT NO. 3985

Mr. ENSIGN. Mr. President, I send an amendment to the desk.

THE PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Nevada [Mr. ENSIGN], for himself, Mr. SANTORUM, and Mr. INHOFE, proposes an amendment numbered 3985.

Mr. ENSIGN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: To reduce document fraud, prevent identity theft, and preserve the integrity of Social Security, this amendment ensures that persons who receive an adjustment of status under this bill are not able to receive Social Security benefits as a result of unlawful activity.)

Insert in the appropriate place:

SEC. 1. PRECLUSION OF SOCIAL SECURITY CREDITS PRIOR TO ENUMERATION.

(a) INSURED STATUS.—Section 214 of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 415) is amended by adding at the end, the following new subsection:

’’(d) Except as provided in paragraph (2), no quarter of coverage shall be credited for purposes of this section if, with respect to any individual who is assigned a social security account number on or after the date of enactment of the Comprehensive Immigration Reform Act of 2006, such quarter of coverage is earned prior to the year in which such social security account number is assigned. ’’

(2) Paragraph (1) shall not apply with respect to any quarter of coverage earned by an individual who, at such time such quarter of coverage is earned, satisfies the criteria specified in subsection (c)(2).’’

(b) BENEFIT COMPUTATION.—Section 215(e) of such Act (42 U.S.C. 402) is amended—

(1) by striking ‘‘and’’ at the end of paragraph (1);

(2) by striking the period at the end of paragraph (2) and inserting ‘‘; and’’; and

(3) by adding at the end a new paragraph as follows:

‘‘(4) In computing the average indexed monthly earnings of an individual who is assigned a social security account number on or after the date of enactment of the Comprehensive Immigration Reform Act of 2006, there shall not be counted any wages or self-employment income for which no quarter of coverage may be credited to such individual as a result of the application of section 214(d).’’

Mr. ENSIGN. Mr. President, this bill we are debating today, the immigration bill, will place a significant cost on the American taxpayers. I am particularly concerned that provisions of this bill will impose a heavy strain on our social security system. That concern is why I am offering amendment number 3985.

The American public needs to understand what this bill would do. If enacted, it would allow the immigrants who receive amnesty to qualify for social security based on work performed prior to their amnesty. It allows people to qualify for social security based on work they did while they were illegally present in the United States and illegally working in the United States. Let me repeat that.

People who broke the law to come here and broke the law to work here can benefit from their conduct to collect social security. This bill is the pathway that allows that.

In some cases, illegal immigrants may have stolen an American citizen’s identity. They may have stolen an American’s social security number to fraudulently work. But it is that illegal conduct and fraudulent work that they will be allowed to use to qualify for social security.
Does this bill punish the people who stole an American citizen’s identity? No, it does not. It rewards them. Does this bill consider the impact that the crime of identity theft had on the victim whose social security number was stolen? No, it does not. This bill gives them the full benefit of citizenship, with respect to social security benefits and rewards criminal conduct without any consideration for the victim.

There have been many media reports recently about illegal immigrants stealing Americans’ social security numbers. To understand the potential scope of this problem, you have to understand that every year employers are advised that nearly 800,000 employees do not have valid, matching social security numbers. In too many cases, the number used belongs to someone else. And so, for a moment, I want the Senate to stop. I want my colleagues to think. And to consider the impact this theft and fraud has on the victims.

Rather, I think the Senate ever really consider the impact that crime has on the victim. Today should be different. And so I am going to take a few moments to share with my colleagues a few of the stories of the victims of identity theft. In order to protect their privacy, I will only use the victim’s first name.

Identity theft by illegal aliens has created many problems for Americans. Sometimes those problems involve the Internal Revenue Service. For example, Audra has been a stay-at-home mom since 2000. Over the last 3 years, the IRS has accused her of owing $1 million in back taxes. This is a picture of the first letter she received from the IRS saying she owed back taxes. Since that first letter, she has received many more.

Her story is clear. She has not worked in 6 years. Yet the IRS says she owes taxes for working the last three years. What she first thought was a mistake, later became clear. It was a case of identity theft. Her social security number was being used by at least 218 illegal immigrants, mostly in Texas, to obtain jobs.

Audra has obtained copies of the 218 W-2s that were used in 2004 by illegal immigrants using her Social Security number. This is a picture of the stack of those W-2s. In Audra’s own words, she said, “It was so overwhelming I couldn’t believe it. I was just completely beyond that.” She filled a complaint with the Federal Trade Commission. Her file at the Federal Trade Commission is very thick. Here is a picture of many of the documents in her file on this chart.

Identity theft by illegal immigrants has made it hard for some Americans to find a job of their own. When my staff spoke to Audra, she explained to them that she was not able to find a job of her own because of the theft of her Social Security number. This is a photo of the letter Audra received denying her employment because she is actually already employed by that same employer. Obviously, she is not, but someone else with her Social Security number is employed at that place of employment.

Audra is not the only American affected in this way. A few years ago, a woman named Kelly’s daughter is 11 years old. She works as a prep cook at two restaurants in Salt Lake City. That is a lot of responsibility, especially for an 8-year-old boy. Another boy from Salt Lake City supposedly works for an express air freight company, quite an important job for an 11-year-old.

The stories are shocking. It is clear that illegal immigrants are purchasing false papers and using stolen Social Security numbers to obtain jobs. They are victimizing hard-working Americans, Americans who want to work. They are also victimizing these young children. The current Social Security policy and this bill will only make matters worse by granting benefits to those who are working illegally.

I am offering an amendment to correct this problem. My amendment will help reduce this kind of document fraud. My amendment will also preserve the integrity of the Social Security system by ensuring that people are not able to receive Social Security benefits based on their prior unlawful activity.

I will explain my amendment to the American people and to the Senate. Under current law, individuals who work in the United States illegally and later obtain legal employment status can use their illegal work history to qualify for benefits. For example, if an illegal immigrant works in the United States for 9 years, and then receives legal status under this bill, the immigrant would qualify for full Social Security benefits after just 1 year of legal work. Essentially, the illegal immigrants can go back to the Social Security Administration and ask them for credit for his or her illegal work.

What is important to understand is that in order to go back to the Social Security system, the illegal immigrant must get legal status in some way. My amendment is an attempt to ensure that legal status. This bill opens the door for illegal immigrants to get Social Security based on their illegal work history. My amendment closes that door.

I know some of my colleagues may argue that the illegal immigrants paid into the system, and as a result they should be able to collect benefits based on paying into the system. To those colleagues who feel that way, I say this: First, the crime of identity theft and Social Security fraud are not victimless crimes. The victims of these crimes are American citizens and legal immigrants. My staff has spoken to...

The Social Security Administration advised the victim that the victim’s records are so bad that their only option was to erase the victim’s work history. The victims can rebuild their accounts if they can produce their old W-2s. How many people in America can produce them? Some, maybe. If you are like me, and keep records forever, you will not have a problem. But for most Americans, who do not keep their past
W-2s, it will be impossible to prove their work history. As a result, some victims end up losing their ability to collect their Social Security based on their own legal work history.

At the same time, this bill would open the door to give Social Security benefits based on illegal work history. If Members oppose this amendment, Members are saying they want to re-

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Sen-
tator from Massachusetts.
Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, identity fraud is a major problem, a major insult to those who are involved in identity fraud and have paid into the Social Security fund. Should they have that payment they have made into the fund denied to them? So I am with the Sentator from Nevada in trying to deal with identity fraud, but I separate myself from him when he says all illegal immigrants are involved in this identity fraud and, therefore, they should not get credit for what they have paid in in terms of Social Security.

So the issue is, should they be denied the credits they have paid into Social Security? The Senator from Nevada thinks they should.

Well, first of all, who are these peopers? First of all, his proposal would deprive, for example, widows and surviving children of needed Social Secu-

All of that is bad and wrong and violates the law, and we ought to deal with that. But we are talking about individuals who are not involved in identity fraud and have paid into the Social Security fund. Should they have that payment they have made into the fund
denied to them? So I am with the Sen-
tator from Nevada in trying to deal with identity fraud, but I separate myself from him when he says all illegal immigrants are involved in this identity fraud and, therefore, they should not get credit for what they have paid in
in terms of Social Security.

Now, who are we talking about? Basically, we are talking about individuals who were the children of those who have the opportunity to try to earn their position, the opportunity to be an American citizen, who have to pay a fine, have to go to the end of the line for those who are coming into the United States currently, who have to demonstrate they have paid all of their taxes, who have to demonstrate they have been free from violating the law.
There are all of those conditions that are set up. But once they have achieved all those conditions, then they have the possibility of citizenship 11 years from now.

So the issue is, should they be denied the credits they have paid into Social Security? The Senator from Nevada thinks they should.

Well, first of all, who are these peo-
pers? First of all, his proposal would deprive, for example, widows and surviving children of needed Social Secu-

So I hope people will see the common sense of this amendment and will, in a bipartisan fashion, overwhelmingly adopt this amendment. I urge my colleagues to adopt this amendment.
Mr. President, I yield the floor.
Now, let’s say this individual regularizes their position and has paid into Social Security. If that person dies, their survivors would be eligible for survivor benefits, but not under the Ensign amendment. It is interesting, some 85 percent of immigrant-headed households include at least one U.S. citizen. Under the Ensign proposal, citizen children may not be eligible for survivor benefits if their parents had gained legal status or even citizenship but die before they gained the 40 hours of coverage.

The Ensign amendment effectively would deprive the immigrants who have become legal residents of the right to receive Social Security credits for the payroll tax payments they made on the work they performed when they were undocumented. Some do now.

The 1986 act permitted 3 million people—they received the amnesty. That was amnesty. We did not move ahead in order to get to the enforcement against the undocumented afterwards. But that was amnesty. Now they are able to receive the benefits today. We are going to say to them, we are evidently going to cut you off from being able to get any workers, because I don’t see in the Ensign amendment where they are going to respect their position.

It is important to focus on who would be hurt by this highly punitive proposal. Only immigrants who have attained legal status are eligible to receive Social Security. So everyone this amendment would affect will be legal residents under the terms of the bill. Many of them will even be citizens by the time they apply for Social Security. Those are the hard-working men and women this amendment seeks to penalize.

Those are the individuals who really want to be Americans, be part of the American family. They are going to have to pay the payroll taxes, abide by all of the laws, continue to believe in their faith. And then they will have the opportunity to go to the end of the line. And then, in 11 years, they will be able to achieve citizenship. They will be working during this period of time.

They are paying into Social Security. And, finally, when they become citizens—11 years from now—the Ensign amendment is going to say: Well, all right, if you already have paid millions, the payroll taxes, abide by all of the laws, continue to believe in their faith. And then they will have the opportunity to go to the end of the line. And then, in 11 years, they will be able to achieve citizenship. They will be working during this period of time.

They are paying into Social Security. And, finally, when they become citizens—11 years from now—the Ensign amendment is going to say: Well, all right, if you already have paid millions, the payroll taxes, abide by all of the laws, continue to believe in their faith. And then they will have the opportunity to go to the end of the line. And then, in 11 years, they will be able to achieve citizenship. They will be working during this period of time.

The amounts paid in by them are substantial. Payments into the Social Security system by undocumented workers total $7 billion a year. Unfortunately, most of these workers do not have genuine Social Security numbers, so the money goes into what they call the Social Security Administration’s earnings suspense file. This money is identified by the employer who submitted it but not by the individual worker it belongs to.

Each year, Social Security identifies approximately 130,000 employers who submitted W-2s that cannot be matched to a worker. So the undocumented workers are entitled to receive Social Security benefits they have earned and fees. It would be wrong to deny them credit for the Social Security tax dollars they have paid from their often meager wages.

Once those workers are legal residents, if they became disabled, they wouldn’t be able to receive disability benefits based on the payroll taxes they contributed to Social Security? And if they die prematurely, leaving minor children, shouldn’t those children—who in many instances are American children—shouldn’t those American children be eligible to receive survivor benefits based on the payroll taxes they contributed to Social Security? And when, after a lifetime of hard work, they reach retirement age, shouldn’t they be able to receive a retirement benefit based on all the years of payroll tax payments they contributed to Social Security?

This is not a handout. This is not welfare. Social Security is an earned benefit. If these immigrant workers earned it, they should receive it like everyone else. The amendment would take their hard-earned money and give them nothing in return. That is not the way America operates.

In order to get credit for the payroll tax dollars that they have paid, whether they are undocumented, a worker would have to prove how much he paid in while working for a particular employer and when it was paid. The burden of proof would be on the worker, and the worker would only receive credit for payments that the Social Security Administration could verify.

Whatever rules and regulations Social Security establishes, we are for. They ought to be accurate. They ought to be tough. They ought to be fair. But we are not going to say that every individual who paid in, who is now in the process, over this 11 years—here, they are paying in. I want to be a citizen. I am paying my fine. I paid my back taxes. My sons have joined the military serving in Afghanistan. We are going to church every single week. And I am paying into Social Security. I wait 11 years, and I finally become a citizen. Under the Ensign amendment, I am not going to receive any of that. You are not going to receive a cent of that.

So we are all for Social Security establishing whatever requirements are necessary to ensure the integrity of the fund and the accuracy of the work effort by individuals. But I think the only reason for the Ensign amendment is to deny the legal residents the Social Security benefits they have earned and paid for. Their money sits in the Social Security Administration waiting to be matched with an eligible beneficiary. Once those workers establish eligibility, how, in all fairness, can we deny them credit for their past contributions?

In the legislation before the Senate sets out a difficult process for undocumented workers seeking to become legal residents. Most of them have very little money. Yet the legislation will require them to pay thousands in fines and fees. It would be wrong to deny them credit for the Social Security tax dollars they have paid from their often meager wages.

Once those workers are legal residents, if they became disabled, they shouldn’t be able to receive disability benefits based on the payroll taxes they contributed to Social Security? And if they die prematurely, leaving minor children, shouldn’t those children—who in many instances are American children—shouldn’t those American children be eligible to receive survivor benefits based on the payroll taxes they contributed to Social Security? The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Pennsylvania.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, may I inquire as to whether we might be set now to enter into a time agreement on this amendment?

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, I have been here on the floor since the Senator started, and in response, I would be glad to inquire of those who are interested. I think there are some members of the Finance Committee who are interested in this amendment and want to be here. But it deals with the Finance Committee jurisdiction. So I will inquire and report back to the floor manager.

Several Senators addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. GRAHAM). The Senator from Pennsylvania.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, Senator LUGAR has come to the floor and would, jointly with me, request a few minutes to get more business into introduction legislation.

Would the Senator from Nevada be willing to yield for—how long do you require, I ask Senator LUGAR?

Mr. LUGAR. About 5 minutes.

Mr. ENSIGN. Mr. President, I say to the Senator, could I spend 5 minutes responding to a couple things, and then I would be willing to yield to the Senator for 5 minutes in morning business.

Mr. SPECTER. By all means. I will yield to Senator ENSIGN. And ask unanimous consent that then Senator LUGAR and I be recognized for 5 minutes each to introduce a bill.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The Senator from Nevada is recognized.

Mr. ENSIGN. Just to respond to a couple of things the Senator from Massachusetts talked about, that section 614 and a provision in section 603 in this legislation on page 386 would ensure that aliens who received legal status, amnesty, whatever you want to call it, cannot be prosecuted for document fraud. He said they weren’t receiving amnesty. If there was a felony they were committing, and now they can’t be prosecuted, that sounds like amnesty to me.

A couple other points he brought up: Legal aliens who were here and who overstayed their visas have a legal Social Security number. They are paying into the system with a legal Social Security number. Even though they are here illegally, they would still be able to collect benefits.

Another point I want to address is that the Senator from Massachusetts brought up concerned the Social Security Administration. These illegal workers would come to them and petition for the benefits, and they would have to prove that they actually worked, where they worked, they paid in the taxes, and things like that. Let’s try to think about the burden that this would place on the Social Security Administration.

Currently, there are 255 million earning suspend files. Those are the ones where the Social Security number and the work don’t match, 255 million. Try to imagine how many of these are going to come forward with the Social Security Administration where people are trying to prove something to gain benefits. They are going to be overwhelmed. What is that going to do to the normal processing for people who have problems with their Social Security benefits? Case work goes back in our States who deal with seniors who have legitimate Social Security problems. Sometimes there are mistakes made. We have had people who have actually received a letter where the Social Security Administration told them that they had died. It was kind of a surprise to them. But they called us, and we were able to bring them back to life. We jokingly refer to these cases as Lazarus cases. It is a situation where we get more help. If the Social Security Administration is burdened with all of these millions of potential cases, it just boggles the mind how people could be against this amendment.

The next point I want to make is that the Senator from Massachusetts said that this illegal immigrant who is now legalized or regularized, whatever term you want to put on it, cannot go to the Social Security Administration, and they have to prove with documents. We have seen the kind of fraudulent documents used in the country today. These documents are not that difficult to produce, to defraud. There is a great incentive for them to do that. Once again, it will be an extra burden on the Social Security Administration trying to prove or disprove whether these documents are real.

The last point I want to make, the Senator said they are regularizing in this bill have to pay a fine. They have to pay back taxes. We have heard that over and over again: They have to pay back income taxes. They don’t have to pay back Social Security taxes. The Federal act didn’t pay, only the income taxes. So let’s be completely open and honest about what this bill does and about what my amendment seeks to correct.

When we are considering this amendment, we absolutely must consider what it is going to do to the Social Security Administration, what it is going to do to the trust fund and, mostly, what it is going to do to the victims. Rewarding those while we are not taking care of the victims in the United States fundamentally is unfair.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Pennsylvania.

Mr. SPECTER. I ask unanimous consent that 5 minutes be allotted to Senator DODD after Senator LUGAR and I speak.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The Senator from Indiana is recognized.

Mr. SPECTER. The remarks of Mr. LUGAR, Mr. SPECTER, Mr. DODD, Mr. SHUMER and Mr. SESSIONS pertaining to the introduction of S. 2831 are located in today’s RECORD under “Statements on Introduced Bills and Joint Resolutions.”

I have tried to move along this position of the Ensign amendment, looking for a time agreement. Senator SESSIONS has asked for 5 minutes. If other Senators want to debate this amendment, I ask them to come to the floor. If there is no time allowed, where there are no people to debate, I will move to table the amendment so we can get the bill moving.

I now yield to Senator SESSIONS.

Mr. SESSIONS. Mr. President, regarding the Ensign amendment, I will say a few things. No. 1, Social Security is a benefit this country provides to American citizens and people lawfully in this country. That is what it is about, the benefit. For the most part, people in the United States who have come into the country illegally or they would not be here, or they would be legal and would not be covered by his amendment. They have worked in the country without authorization, and it is not allowable for them to come into this country if you are not here legally. So they have committed a second illegal act. In the course of working in this country, they may have submitted forged, false, stolen, or bogus Social Security numbers—a separate crime, if you examine the U.S. Code. Maybe they have even broken other laws. As Senator Ensign pointed out, so many of these numbers are other people’s numbers, seizing their identity and causing all kinds of confusion and disruption in their lives.

Under the language of the bill, not only do they get protection from prosecution for violation of these laws, they would be given the benefits of Social Security. Although he clearly makes—properly so—an exemption for those who came into the country illegally under a visa, got a legal Social Security number but overstayed, at least they had a legitimate Social Security number.

Mr. President, I had an opportunity, for strange reasons, in my career as a prosecutor and as a private lawyer to deal with contracts based on illegality. I had a situation in which a client—a young man—was sued by a home builder on the note that he signed to the home builder. The reason he signed that note was the home builder loaned him the downpayment to buy a house. The mortgage and the Federal act required that the deposit or downpayment be your own money or you could not fund it by a mortgage. The home builder was in on the deal. He was there at the closing of the loan. He got the big check, so when it came to suing on that note, I defended the client and said the court had no jurisdiction over the case. There is a principle of law—in our English American tradition—founded on fraud, stating that a contract founded on illegality cannot be enforced in court.

So that person who comes into our country illegally and submits a false Social Security number has no legal right to expect to ever collect on that amount. If he is entitled to legally not having a right to that, they have no moral right to that. To have a moral right to come to court, you ought to have clean hands. You should be a person that is legitimately here and then you can make a legitimate claim. I see no reason these persons who come here in order to work and, as a cost of doing business, accept and sign up for Social Security without any expectation whatsoever that they would receive Social Security benefits, should now be awarded by this legislation that would allow them to get it. They would say they paid into it, so they are entitled to it. Not so, in my opinion.

I show you how you can make this remark, but I think we are too far down the road of an entitlement mentality. This whole bill contemplates people having an entitlement to come to America, to bring their parents and children, and they are entitled to have them ultimately be on Medicare and go to hospitals and be treated, even though they are not properly here.

We need to clarify our thinking. We are a nation of laws. Let’s think this through. That is all I am saying. I submit to my colleagues that the process by which an immigrant who comes here illegally, works illegally, and illegally submits a false, bogus, fraudulent Social Security number as a price to get the job and be paid, that is no entitlement to claim that money—not legally because it is founded on a false claim and a false premise, and not morally because they knew they were not entitled to it when they came. They knew they were here illegally and they never expected to receive it.

I think the Senator from Nevada has proposed an amendment that is important. It asks us to think, for a change, in this body about what it is going to do, and what it will do to our Nation’s bottom line and with regard to the message we send regarding whether we are serious that people should follow the law.

We need to quit rewarding unlawful conduct. Unlawful conduct should have penalties and should result in detriments, not benefits. That is what we are sort of getting that sort of sense in this debate, whatever new laws we pass about immigration, whatever new policies we set, how much of a joke will they be? Will they be the same joke, the same mockery of law that we have had for 20 years since the last amnesty we issued? That is what the American people are asking us to do. Let’s create a system that actually works.

Sometimes you have to make decisions. Somebody who came here illegally and worked illegally and submitted an illegal Social Security number is not entitled to draw on the Treasury of the United States. I thank the chairman and I yield the floor.

Mr. President, I yield the floor. They Senator MCCAIN is asking for some time. It is my hope that we can move ahead with either a time agreement or a vote on the Ensign amendment, but now I yield to Senator MCCAIN.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Arizona is recognized.

Mr. MCCAIN. Mr. President, I rise in strong opposition to the Ensign amendment. Under current law, undocumented immigrants are ineligible for Social Security benefits which I think is entirely appropriate. But we all know that millions of undocumented immigrants pay Social Security and Medicare taxes for years and sometimes decades while they work to contribute to our system. According to Stephen Goss, the Social Security Administration’s chief actuary, three-quarters of illegal immigrants pay payroll taxes. These payments generate approximately $3.5 billion in Medicare taxes each year. In fact, according to a 2005 New York Times article, the Social Security Administration records these payments in a so-called earnings suspense file, which grew by $189 billion in five years and now grows by over $50 billion each year, generating up to $7 billion in Social Security tax revenue and about $1.5 billion in Medicare taxes. According to the article, most of these payments come from illegal immigrants.

The Ensign amendment would undermine the work of these people by preventing lawfully present immigrant workers from claiming Social Security benefits that they earned before they were authorized to work in our country. If this amendment is enacted, the nest egg that these immigrants have worked hard for would be taken from them and their families.

It pains me to disagree with my good friend from Nevada on this matter, but I believe the amendment is wrong. It is fundamentally unfair to collect taxes from these workers and then disqualify the taxes paid once the workers achieve legal status. I believe instead of supporting the amendment, we should continue to support the principle that people who worked and paid into the Social Security system for years should be able to depend on their retirement income to which they contributed.

The amendment compounds the unfairness by ignoring the underlying legislation that already calls for payment of all back taxes and a $2,000 fine. So what we are asking the immigrants to do is pay all back taxes and, at the same time, forgo the taxes they already paid into the Social Security trust fund. It is fundamentally unfair.

Mr. ENSIGN. Mr. President, will the Senator yield?

Mr. MCCAIN. As soon as I finish my statement, I will be glad to yield to my friend from Nevada.

I point out to my colleagues a recent Los Angeles Times article that indicates tens of thousands of undocumented immigrants are already lining up to pay back taxes. They want to do that because they want to play by the rules. So we are going to tell them there is one set of rules for them to pay their back taxes, but the taxes they have already paid will reward them with no benefits for their efforts.

What about the fiscal consequences of the amendment? I submit that if Social Security is not available in the future for immigrants, that when they retire or become disabled, then State and local governments and potentially the Federal Government will be forced to absorb significant costs as the Federal Government has refused to provide services and supports paid for by tax dollars of millions of legal immigrants. This amendment would simply continue this trend.

The Senator from Nevada has argued that his amendment is about combating identity theft and that the bill before us says identity theft is OK. That is inaccurate. I don’t know any Member of the Senate who would say: I support identity theft. Not one. In fact, the Senate Commerce Committee has been working to approve legislation, which I have cosponsored, to combat this egregious crime.

Identity theft is a serious issue. In fact, the highest rate of identity theft occurs in the State of Arizona. It happened to me and my wife. But this immigration bill isn’t drafted to comprehensively address identity theft, and the amendment before us isn’t going to do a thing to fix this problem. Maybe we should add the Commerce Committee legislation to the bill. I assume other Members may not be agreeable to doing that, but I stand ready to work with the Senator from Nevada, and I suspect the Senator from Massachusetts would be willing to join us in pushing legislation to combat identity theft in a meaningful, comprehensive way.

Now I will be glad to respond to any question the Senator from Nevada might have. I understand the patience of our manager is somewhat limited. Please go ahead.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, I ask my colleagues in a moment on his amendment. If there are no other speakers desiring recognition to speak on this amendment, at the conclusion of Senator ENSIGN’s comments, I intend to move to table.

Mr. DODD. Mr. President, I ask my colleague for a couple minutes, if I may.

Mr. SPECTER. To speak on the amendment?

Mr. DODD. In relation to matters before us on this bill.

Mr. SPECTER. How much time does the Senator desire?

Mr. DODD. Four minutes.
Mr. SPECTER. I agree. I yield to Senator ENIGN for some comments and then to Senator DODD, and if no other speakers appear, I am going to move to table.

Mr. ENIGN. Mr. President, I wish to ask my friend from Arizona a couple of questions. Is the bill and about my amendment in particular. The bill does not require that the people whose status is adjusted pay all back taxes. The bill only requires that people pay any back income taxes. There is no mention of it in the bill, is the Senator aware of that distinction?

Mr. McCAIN. The Senator is aware of that. When their employer pays them, the taxes are withheld.

Mr. ENIGN. First, if the alien is self-employed, that is not correct. Remember, the employer pays half and sends in those funds.

Mr. McCAIN. As is true of anyone else who works in the United States.

Mr. ENIGN. That is correct. But the bottom line is that FICA taxes under this bill, they do not have to pay those back taxes.

Mr. McCAIN. The intent of the amendment is that they must pay and the legislation—I will be glad to state back taxes, a-1.

Mr. ENIGN. I have another question for my friend from Arizona. Is he aware that it is a felony to use someone’s Social Security number?

Mr. McCAIN. I am aware of that.

Mr. ENIGN. Under this legislation, we forgive that felony. We grant amnesty for that felony.

Mr. McCAIN. Under this legislation, we allow the illegal immigrants a path to citizenship which, if they are convicted of felonies or misdemeanors, according to an amendment, then they would be ineligible to embark on that path to earn citizenship.

Mr. ENIGN. Right. But, Mr. President, in Sections 601 and 614 of the legislation, it actually ensures that aliens who receive legal status cannot be prosecuted for document fraud, including the false use of Social Security numbers. Is the Senator aware of that?

Mr. McCAIN. The Senator is aware that when people come here illegally, obviously, they do not have citizenship, so, therefore, any Social Security number they use, whether it belongs to someone else or is entirely invented, is not valid. But I also know, if I can complete my answer to my friend, their taxes, part of their earnings are going into the Social Security fund, and that is a fact that it is theirs and their employers.

Mr. ENIGN. Mr. President, I agree with the Senator from Arizona that many people are paying into the system. They paid into the system with no expectation of getting social security’s benefit because they didn’t know we would be enacting a bill like this. They paid into the system simply because that is what they pay to get a job in the United States. The immigrant knew they were using an illegal Social Security number but without regards of the impact of the victim. I have reviewed case after case related to identity theft and Social Security fraud. These cases are occurring all over the United States. In every case, in every state, where someone’s Social Security number was used in an illegal immigrant to use to find where the victim’s credit history is destroyed. Sometimes their work history is too. Earlier I talked about Caleb, a gentleman in Nevada. The illegal immigrant who used Caleb’s Social Security number was not trying to harm that person but he did. Caleb applied for unemployment but couldn’t get it because the agency said he was working when, in fact, he wasn’t. He lives in Reno. They said he was working in Las Vegas. It was an illegal immigrant using his Social Security number in Las Vegas.

I never said this amendment is going to prevent identity theft. What I have said is that it is not right for somebody to steal somebody else’s identity—granted for the noble purpose of getting a job—and reward the theft by giving work credit that counts towards Social Security. We should consider the victims who are forced to deal with the terrible consequences of the crime.

I will make two other points. The chairman of the Finance Committee supports this amendment. One of the reasons the chairman of the Finance Committee supports this amendment is because the Administration will not be able to make determinations with respect to the earnings of Social Security numbers that the Senator from Arizona referenced. As of 2003, there were 255 million instances where the Social security number did not match the name given the employer. This bill will legalize those who are in the workforce—today the 7 million or so in the workforce out of the 12 million who are in the country. The effect of this amendment over the next 10 years, will require the Administration to hire nearly an additional 2,000 people to handle the cases of people who worked illegally, received amnesty under this bill, and are now applying for this benefit. A benefit they earned illegally.

Point No. 2 is, it is going to cost $1.7 billion in administrative costs—$1.7 billion in administrative costs. It does not include any future costs in benefits that the United States will have to provide to these people. Illegal immigrants will have earned the benefit. But the Senate does not even know what amnesty will cost. The cost estimates for these policies are not known. My amendment is absolutely the right thing to do. Illegal immigrants did not expect to ever receive this benefit. They were using somebody’s Social Security number or a made up one. They did so to get a job. I can appreciate that. I appreciate somebody trying to come to this country to better themselves. I don’t think we would reward the conduct of identity theft by giving people the right to claim the work history for purposes of Social Security.

Our Social Security trust fund is already in trouble. We all know that. This will further put the Social Security trust fund in trouble. The costs could be potentially huge. We don’t even know that in this bill. That is why I think we should adopt this amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Arizona.

Mr. McCAIN. Mr. President, very briefly, of course, they didn’t expect to receive these benefits they had to pay into the system because they were here illegally. The whole thrust of this legislation is to give them not only Social Security benefits but, as importantly, the protections under the law, as they now live in the shadows and are exploited and mistreated in many cases. Of course, they didn’t expect to. That is why we are going through this process of letting them earn citizenship.

The amendment of the Senator from Nevada will let you earn citizenship, but what you have paid into a system, you will not only not receive the benefits but on top of that is a $2,000 fine.

This is not about administrative costs. The fact is that each year the Social Security trust fund continues to lose $50 billion, generating up to $7 billion in Social Security tax revenue and about $1.5 billion in Medicare taxes. So as to the Senator’s argument that this could cost money administratively—yes. But the fact is that when these people came here, they were—because they came here illegally and broke our laws—of course, they accepted the fact that they probably wouldn’t get Social Security or Medicare or protection of our laws against exploitation and mistreatment and all of the protections that citizens have. We are trying to give them a path to earn that. Yet under the Senator’s amendment, they would be ineligible for the same benefit of citizenship that was earned under the legislation, are trying to make them earn.

I apologize to the Senator from Pennsylvania for taking additional time, and I understand the pressing time issue.

I yield the floor.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, Senator DODD is next in line to speak for 4 minutes, as agreed.

Mr. DODD. Mr. President, I thank the chairman very much. I just want to thank the lawyers who provided—our brief case may be not about the matter of this amendment right before us, but about a vote that occurred yesterday regarding the construction of the fence along the southern border. I was 1 of 16 people who voted against that amendment, and I wanted to take a minute or so to explain my concerns.

Primarily, my concern is because the decision to place this fence down here without any other additional consultation with local communities in the United States or our neighbors to the south is something that worries me. There are implications of that. I firmly believe that any discussion about immigration policy must begin with border security. If there is a failure to do that, I don’t think you have much of an audience.

My concern is if we unilaterally do this without seeking the cooperation of the countries involved and the legislation next to us that we are dealing with primarily on this issue, we may have absolutely the opposite effect. In fact, there are implications of this decision. So at some point, in consultation with the managers of this bill, I may offer an amendment that would require some consultation with the U.S. communities involved, as well as with the Mexican Government, so that we are not unilaterally placing a fence here.

Believe me when I tell you this. I have spent a lot of time in this region, as my colleagues know. There will be political implications. There is a national election in Mexico in about 6 weeks, and I will guarantee this issue will be in that debate. And who wins those elections will have a huge implication in terms of how much cooperation we get on dealing with immigration policy. My colleague from Texas, Senator Convexx, and I spent a weekend with our colleagues from Mexico about 4 months ago. To their credit, the Mexican Congress, along with all five Presidential candidates, adopted unanimously in their legislation provisions regarding immigration issues. The very government we are seeking cooperation from, if we impose this fence without dealing with them, talking with them, asking their advice, working with them. That is true among neighbors in communities as well as nations that are neighbors.

My hope is, as we talk about matters we think are important for securing our borders, we will do so in consultation with our neighbors. I am not suggesting we give them veto power, but if you are going to put up a fence of some 3 to 4 miles long, first of all, I think it is a question of whether that will work, but I guarantee you it will not work if we don’t have the cooperation of the very government we are seeking cooperation from. If we impose this fence without dealing with them, talking with them, asking their advice, working with them. That is true among neighbors in communities as well as nations that are neighbors.

So my hope is we can draft some language that would be endorsed and adopted unanimously. It would certainly then cause me to have a very different attitude about the vote yesterday. But I caution my colleagues. I know the frustration levels. I understand the frustration of the communities along these borders; worse, but we are not going to succeed with this policy if we don’t have a neighbor to the south that is going to work with us.

So while it is frustrating, and certainly Mexico has not been as cooperative as they should have been over the years, I think that has changed and we ought to encourage that change rather than take a step backwards. So again, at an appropriate time, we could try to craft some language that would at least encourage the kind of cooperation we are going to have to have if we are going to succeed with the kind of border security issues that are included in the bill.

I think the chairman of the committee for giving me a few minutes to explain my concerns.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, I believe there are no other speakers on the amendment. I am the manager of the bill, and I do no objection to a motion to table, not that I need permission to move to table. We have the Inhofe amendment pending. I very much want to get a vote on the Inhofe amendment this afternoon. So we can either come to a time agreement to finish debate or if there are side-by-sides that have been prepared so that we could move ahead there.

Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, would the Senator respond?

Mr. SPECTER. I would.

Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, the President said: Every human being has dignity and value, no matter what their citizenship papers say. I believe this amendment is antithetical to that sentiment. Senator Ensign has proposed an amendment antithetical to the sentiments that the President expressed, and which most Americans share. Americans understand that for years there are undocumented workers who have tried to follow our laws and be good neighbors and good citizens, and have paid into the Social Security Trust Fund. Many do not yet have Social Security numbers but they and their American employers have paid in their contributions. Once that person regularizes his or her status, and as they proceed down the path to earned citizenship, they should have the benefit after having followed the law and made those contributions. Americans understand fairness. That is fairness. We should not steal their funds or empty their Social Security accounts. That is unfair. It does not reward their hard work or their financial contributions. It violates the trust that Americans made those contributions. Americans understand respecting other people and respecting their contributions in terms of work and Social Security payments. They will not want to steal those contributions and benefits and deny fairness to lawful immigrants and their families.

They also understand that if the Republican-controlled Senate is prepared to take these Social Security funds today, the risk increases that their Social Security funds could be targeted tomorrow. After all, the Social Security Trust Fund is already being used to mask the deficit. As it becomes harder and harder to pay for tax breaks for millionaires and rising gas prices and lucrative Government contracts, some will be tempted to use money stolen from Social Security to mask the deficit. We should respect the contributions that the President expressed, and which most Americans share. Americans understand fairness. That is fairness. We should not steal their funds or empty their Social Security accounts. That is unfair. It does not reward their hard work or their financial contributions. It violates the trust that underlies the Social Security Trust Fund.

Senator Ensign proposes to change existing law to prohibit an individual from gaining the benefit of any contributions while the individual was in an undocumented status. I oppose this amendment and believe it is wrong.

Under current law, immigrants who have paid Social Security while in an undocumented status may gain the benefit of all of their contributions once they gain legal status and become eligible to collect Social Security benefits. They paid in and they should be entitled to the benefits they have earned. The whole purpose of the path to citizenship in this bill is to encourage people to become lawful, productive citizens. Penalizing these people is unfair, especially since under the law they are not only working hard and contributing to the Social Security Trust Fund, but also working hard to achieve legal status and earned citizenship. Hard work is rewarded in the country, not penalized. Following the President’s sentiments on the path toward earned citizenship should be encouraged, not punished.

For example, the children of an undocumented worker who has worked for 20 years and who has paid into the system would be denied all Social Security benefits if their parent dies before becoming a legal resident or citizen. Even though the children are citizens, they would be denied the benefit their parent worked many years and contributed to. This is unfair, but it risks encouraging others in similar situations to stay in the shadows and not to pay into the Social Security Trust Fund. This will also have the effect of shifting burdens to the states and local communities and away from the Social Security safety net. I am confident that Vermonters and all Americans understand fairness. They understand respecting other people and and respecting their contributions in terms of work and Social Security payments. They will not want to steal those contributions and benefits and deny fairness to lawful immigrants and their families.

They also understand that if the Republican-controlled Senate is prepared to take these Social Security funds today, the risk increases that their Social Security funds could be targeted tomorrow. After all, the Social Security Trust Fund is already being used to mask the deficit. As it becomes harder and harder to pay for tax breaks for millionaires and rising gas prices and lucrative Government contracts, some will be tempted to use money stolen from Social Security to mask the deficit. The motion was agreed to.

Mrs. BOXER. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. DURBIN. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

Mr. MENENDEZ. Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the following amendments be agreed to:

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, we will take half an hour for Senator AKAKA's amendment. We will give him 25 minutes of that time. Senator KENNEDY and I will take the remaining 5 minutes to accept it.

Mr. INHOFE. Reserving the right to object.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair notes that under all the time allocated, as outlined, the time goes beyond 2:40 before proceeding to the Inhofe amendment. The time would go to approximately 2:45.

Mr. KENNEDY. If I could suggest, why don't we vote at 4:15. That gives 45 minutes to Vitter.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair will clarify or summarize the unanimous consent: The proposed unanimous consent agreement would move the Senate to the Akaka amendment first, with half an hour total, 25 minutes to Senator AKAKA, and 5 minutes to split between the floor managers of the debate. Next is the Vitter amendment, with a total of 45 minutes equally divided. Then we proceed from 2:45 to 4:15 to the Inhofe amendment, with a possibility of a Democratic side-by-side amendment.

Is that the summary of the unanimous consent proposal?

Mr. SPECTER. I ask consent for that.

Mr. INHOFE. I object.

Mr. SPECTER. Without any second degrees to Vitter and Akaka.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The proposal would exclude second-degree amendments.

Mr. INHOFE. And for clarification, there would be a vote on the Inhofe amendment at 4:15; is that correct?

Mr. SPECTER. That is correct.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, I further ask consent that following the sequencing already discussed, we take up an amendment from the Senator from New York, Mrs. Clinton.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Under the unanimous consent agreement, the Senator from Hawaii is recognized for 25 minutes.

AMENDMENT NO. 4029

Mr. AKAKA. Mr. President, I call up amendment 4029 to S. 2611 and ask for its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Hawaii [Mr. AKAKA], for himself and Mr. INOUYE, proposes an amendment numbered 4029.

Mr. AKAKA. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent in the reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: To grant the children of Filipino World War II veterans special immigrant status for purposes of family reunification) On page 345, between lines 5 and 6, insert the following:

SEC. 509. CHILDREN OF FILIPINO WORLD WAR II VETERANS.

Section 201(b)(1) (8 U.S.C. 1151(b)(1)), as amended by sections 505 and 508, is further amended by adding at the end the following:

“(d) Aliens who are eligible for a visa under paragraph (1) or (3) of section 203(a) and are the children of a citizen of the United States who was naturalized pursuant to section 405 of the Immigration Act of 1990 (8 U.S.C. 1400 note).”.

Mr. AKAKA. Mr. President, I ask that Senators MURRAY and CANTWELL be added as cosponsors to my amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. AKAKA. Mr. President, it has long been evident that our immigration system needs reform. The debate in immigration has been a long time in coming, and I am pleased that this body is moving forward on this important topic in such a comprehensive fashion. For our work on immigration to be truly comprehensive, however, we must address those that have been on the floor.

My amendment is regarding one of those issues that has not received widespread attention but is of great importance. As a World War II veteran, this amendment is important to me personally, to Filipino-Americans, and to veterans. My amendment would grant the children of Filipino World War II veterans special immigrant status for the purpose of family reunification. Making this small change to our nation’s immigration policy would go a long way toward making our immigration laws more just, and I am hopeful that my colleagues on both sides of the aisle will join me in supporting this amendment.

Before I begin a discussion on the specifics of my amendment, I would first like to thank my dear friend and colleague, the senior Senator from Hawaii, Daniel Inouye, for cosponsoring this amendment. In the 101st Congress, Senator INOUYE authored section 405 of the Immigration Act of 1990, which provided for the naturalization of Filipino World War II veterans. Senator INOUYE has a long history of being involved in this important effort and it is my honor to have his support on my amendment today. In addition, Representative Ed Case has introduced a similar bill, H.R. 901, in the House of Representatives.

To understand the significance of this amendment, it is important to first provide some background about the historical circumstances that got us where we are today.

On the basis of 1943 legislation enacted prior to Philippine independence, President Franklin Delano Roosevelt issued Executive Order 9066 on February 1942. Through this order, President Roosevelt invoked his authority to “call and order into the service of the Armed Forces of the United States, ... all of the organized military forces of the Government of the Commonwealth of the Philippines.” This order drafted over 200,000 Filipino citizens into the United States military. Under the command of General Douglas MacArthur, Filipino soldiers fought American soldiers in the defense of our country.

Throughout the course of World War II, these Filipino soldiers proved themselves to be courageous and honorable as they helped the United States fulfill its mission. These heroes were not treated the same as American troops. For example, Filipino soldiers fought side-by-side with American soldiers in the Battle of Bataan and the Battle of Corregidor. When Bataan fell and the Bataan Death March began, Filipino soldiers were forced to march more than a hundred kilometers from Bataan to Tarlac along with their American comrades. Filipino soldiers faced hardships in concentration camps, and they endured 4 years of occupation by the Japanese. In every sense, Filipino soldiers proved their allegiance to our country through thick and thin.

These Filipino soldiers are war heroes, and they deserve to be honored as such. They served active duty service on behalf of the U.S. military, which should qualify them for the same benefits as other veterans of active duty. Congress has treated these veterans by enacting the First Supplemental Surplus Appropriation Rescission Act in 1946, which included a rider that conditioned an appropriation of $200 million, for the benefit of the postwar Philippine Army, on the basis that service in the Commonwealth Army should not be deemed to have been service in the Armed Forces of the United States.

Commonwealth Army members were those called into the service of the U.S. Armed Forces of the Far East. These members served between July 26, 1941, and June 30, 1946. Similarly, Congress enacted the Second Supplemental Surplus Appropriation Rescission Act, which provided that service in the New Philippine Scouts was not deemed service in the Commonwealth Army.

New Philippine Scouts were Filipino citizens who served with the U.S. Armed Forces with the consent of the Philippine Government. They served between October 6, 1945, and June 30, 1947.

This generation of veterans is predominantly in their eighties. Of the 200,000 Filipino veterans that served in WWII, there are close to 49,000 left. Some of these veterans receive U.S. benefits, but not all. By 2010, it is estimated that the population will have dwindled to 20,000.

With the passage of the Immigration Act of 1990, the courage of the many Filipino soldiers who fought alongside our troops, World War II veterans, was finally recognized by our Government, and Filipino veterans were offered the opportunity to obtain U.S. citizenship. According to the former Immigration and Naturalization Service, about 15,000 Filipino veterans live in the U.S. and became citizens between 1991 and 1995 under the authority of the Immigration Act of 1990. Between that time, about 11,000 veterans who live in the Philippines were naturalized. These thousands of Filipino veterans clearly wished to spend their golden years in the United States, and I am pleased that the 1990 Immigration reform efforts offered them the opportunity to do so.

Unfortunately, the offer did not extend to the adult sons and daughters of these veterans. As a result, the brave Filipino veterans who fought on behalf of America, and who now live in America and contribute to its economy, must do so alone. Due to a backlog in the issuing of visas, many of the children of these veterans have waited more than 20 years before they were able to obtain an immigrant visa. Unfortunately, many more are still waiting.

It is no secret that U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services in the Department of Homeland Security is facing significant backlogs. However, it is not as well known that family-sponsored immigrants from the Philippines have the most substantial waiting times in the world before a visa is scheduled to become available to them. What this means, is that these honorable Filipino veterans who faced numerous dangers to defend this Nation now face the prospect of spending the last years of their lives without the comfort and care of their families.

It is a shameful disgrace that the sons and daughters of these brave soldiers are now last in line to become citizens of our country. This is no way to honor Filipino soldiers who bravely fought on the front lines with American soldiers during World War II.

As a proud World War II veteran myself, I am proud to have answered my nation’s call to active duty. During my time of active service, I was driven by a love for my country, and I was comforted by the love of my family. The support that a soldier’s family offers during military service is an invaluable buoy to a soldier’s spirit.

A family’s role in caring and supporting for a soldier becomes even more important after active military service, when a soldier is lucky to be surrounded by his family after his service. My heart goes out to those who were separated from their family for years and years due to bureaucratic backlogs.

As the ranking member on the U.S. Senate Committee on Veterans Affairs, I have seen firsthand the difficulties that veterans can face when readjusting to civilian life after serving in a war. For many veterans, the difficulty of returning to a home that has changed while at war is eased by being surrounded by the familiar faces of loved ones. While that window of opportunity has unfortunately passed for our World War II Filipino veterans, there are still many important ways that families enrich the lives of veterans after the initial readjustment phase. Being surrounded by the love and care of family, especially for World War II veterans facing their twilight years, offers a special source of support.

Action on this issue is long overdue, and it would be very meaningful for the Senate to pass my amendment during debate on the immigration bill. As you know, Filipino Americans are celebrating their centennial this year. Late last year, the Senate accepted by UC S. Res. 333, a resolution to recognize the centennial of sustained immigration from the Philippines to the United States, and acknowledge the contributions of the Filipinos to American community to our country over the last century.

The Filipino-American community has grown and thrived over the last hundred years. Today, Filipino-Americans are the third largest ethnic group in the State of Hawaii, and represent one of the fastest growing immigration groups in the country. Filipinos have made contributions to every segment of our community, ranging from politics and sports, to medicine, the military and business. One of the foremost issues for Filipino Americans is our Nation’s commitment to Filipino veterans, and passing my amendment would be a significant way to honor Filipino veterans during a historic year for the Filipino American community.

Over the years, I have listened to the stories of countless Filipino World War II veterans who have been separated from their families and who are patiently waiting in line. Every veteran has a unique story to tell, but those Filipino World War II veterans who have not yet been reunited with their family members share a universal bond of heartache.

Another important commonality among Filipino World War II veterans is hope. Those Filipino World War II veterans still separated from their families are hopeful that we will use this opportunity to rectify the unjust oversight in current law. The poignant truth behind this matter is that if we don’t act now, we may not have another opportunity.

This weekend I am participating in the first annual “A Time of Remembrance” event, which honors the families of the American fallen. Family members from all 50 States will come to the National Mall at noon this Sunday, May 21, 2006, to recognize the important contributions our fallen heroes have made on behalf of America. I am proud to take part in this event, which points out the very real ways that families are impacted when soldiers courageously leave their family and fight to protect America. These brave World War II veterans who are still with us, this event points to the importance of honoring them now, before it is too late.
Let us prove those wrong who say that we are waiting until enough veterans die before we right this injustice. These veterans have been waiting for 60 years to have their benefits reinstated. Unfortunately, our efforts to provide them with the benefits they promised, the benefits they fought for, have been unsuccessful because opponents have cited the payment of such benefits as too costly.

The Filipino Veterans from World War II have already made extreme sacrifices and they should be entitled to endure the further sacrifice of life without their loved ones. It is time that the United States fulfills its responsibility to these veterans. The least we could do is to help unite these aging veterans with their families. We are a nation that keeps its word . . . not a nation that uses people for our own purposes and then casts them aside.

Ensuring that our World War II Filipino Veterans can enjoy and be supported by their family members in their twilight years is a simple yet profound way of honoring these war heroes.

My amendment has received strong support from Filipino veterans, the Filipino-American community, and the Asian-American community. The Japanese American Citizens League, the Organization of Chinese Americans, and the Asian Pacific American Legal Center have endorsed my amendment. In addition, the American Coalition for Filipino Veterans, which represents over 4,000 Filipino Veterans across the country, has wholeheartedly endorsed my amendment with a letter of support that states:

S. Amtd. 2049 will be a timely benefit to address the veterans’ loneliness and will provide them with a partial measure of U.S. veterans recognition that they were unjustly denied in 1946.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the full text of the letter of support be printed in the Record. There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the Record, as follows:

American Coalition for Filipino Veterans, Inc.

_Arlington, VA, May 18, 2006._

Dear Senator Akaka: On behalf of 4,000 members of our national advocacy organization, we highly commend your leadership in introducing S. Amtd. 4029 to grant special immigrant status to children of Filipino WWII veterans for the purpose of family reunification. It is high time for our elderly Filipino American heroes to have their children join them in their twilight years in the U.S. These Filipino veterans served the U.S. Army. They as U.S. citizens now deserve to be treated as Americans.

Sadly, their children with Approved immigration petitions have been patiently waiting for more than a dozen years. S. Amtd. 2049 will be a timely benefit to address the veterans’ loneliness and will provide them with a partial measure of U.S. veterans recognition that they were unjustly denied in 1946.

Please count on our leaders and members. They will gladly assist you and your colleagues to win priority issuance of immigrant visas to sons and daughters of Filipino American WWII veterans.

We hope and pray your legislation will be passed into law.

Very sincerely yours,

_Eric Lachica_

_President, Executive Director_

Mr. AKAKA. My amendment has received a letter of support from the Asian American Justice Center. I ask unanimous consent that the full text of the letter from the Asian American Justice Center to be printed in the Record.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the Record, as follows:

Asian American Justice Center,

_Washington, DC, May 18, 2006._

Dear Senator: The Asian American Justice Center writes in strong support of S. Amtd. 4029 to S. 2661, the Comprehensive Immigration Act of 2006. This important amendment, introduced by Senators Akaka and Inouye, would allow the sons and daughters of naturalized Filipino veterans who fought for the United States during World War II to finally reunite with their aging parents in the United States.

Approximately 200,000 Filipino soldiers fought for the U.S. during World War II. They were promised U.S. citizenship as a condition of their service to our country, but that right was withdrawn in 1946. To address this injustice, Congress belatedly granted U.S. citizenship to these veterans as a part of the Immigration Act of 1990. However, it did not grant citizenship to the children of these veterans, thereby causing many of these families to be separated. A long immigration backlog developed because these veterans petitioned for their sons and daughters to immigrate to the U.S. This has not only negatively impacted the veterans and their families, but also other Filipinos who are caught in the same backlog. The Philippines have the worst immigration backlog in the world. A U.S. citizen parent who is petitioning for his or her unmarried son or daughter must wait approximately 14 years before they can immigrate to the U.S. If the son or daughter is married, they must wait roughly 18 years. The Akaka-Inouye amendment would address this problem by allowing the sons and daughters of the U.S. citizen veterans to immigrate to the U.S. without being subject to numerical limitations.

Of the 200,000 Filipino soldiers who fought for the U.S., only approximately 49,000 remain alive, and they are predominantly in their 80’s. They have served our country well. They deserve to be reunited with their sons and daughters, sometimes even decades, of waiting. Please support the Akaka-Inouye amendment.

Sincerely,

_Karen K. Narasaki, President and Executive Director_

Mr. AKAKA. Mr. President, I urge my colleagues to honor their valiant contributions to our Nation by supporting my amendment.

Mr. INOUYE. Mr. President, I rise to join Senator Akaka in support of his amendment that grants immigrant visas for alien children of Filipino veterans of World War II, who were naturalized pursuant to section 405 of the Immigration Act of 1946, a measure which I authored in the 101st Congress.

In recognition of Filipino veterans’ contributions during World War II, the Congress, in March of 1942, amended the Nationality Act of 1940, and granted Filipino veterans the privilege of becoming United States citizens. The law expired on December 31, 1946. However, many Filipino veterans were denied the benefits they fought for under this act because of an executive decision to remove the naturalization examiner from the Philippines for a 9-month period. The 9-month absence of a naturalization examiner was the basis of numerous lawsuits filed by Filipino World War II veterans. On July 17, 1988, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that Filipino World War II veterans had no statutory rights to citizenship under the expired provisions of the Nationality Act of 1940. Section 405 of the Immigration Act of 1990 was enacted to make naturalization available to those Filipino World War II veterans whose military service during the liberation of the Philippines rendered them deserving of United States citizenship. Approximately 25,000 veterans took advantage of the naturalization provision which expired in February 1995.

Unfortunately, the 1990 Act did not confer naturalization to the children of Filipino World War II veterans. Accordingly, they are enduring decades of family separation due to the long waiting periods under the numerical limit on immigrant visas for alien children of citizens of the United States. Many of these veterans are in their twilight years, and declining in health. They long to see their sons and daughters. If this provision is not renewed or ignored, let us not turn our back on those who sacrificed so much. Let us show our appreciation to these gallant Filipino men and women who stood in harm’s way with our American soldiers, and who fought the common enemy during World War II by granting their children a special immigrant status to immigrate and reunify with their aging parents who have made sacrifices for this country.

Mr. AKAKA. Mr. President, I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The PRESIDING OFFICER, The Chair would note that under the unanimous consent agreement, the time is 5 minutes to be split between the Senator from Massachusetts and the Senator from Pennsylvania. Does the Senator wish to yield the balance of the time?

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, I will take 2 minutes. Then I will yield back the time. And then I think we will be prepared to vote.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Massachusetts.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, first of all, I commend the Senator for raising this issue. He has been a constant advocate for the families he has spoken about today. And he has communicated with us in the Immigration Committee on so many different occasions about the fairness and the importance of the family reunifications and the uniqueness of senators so many of these patients were involved in at a very difficult and challenging time during World War II.

So the Senator from Hawaii deserves great credit for bringing this to the attention of us in the Senate. I speak for the state of Pennsylvania, who urges the acceptance of this amendment. This will help provide some very important family reunification. It is entirely warranted and entirely justifi-

We thank the Senator for bringing this issue again to our attention and for his continued advocacy on this issue. We will do everything we possibly can to make sure this is carried at the conference as well.

Mr. President, I yield back the re-

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there further debate?

If not, the question is on agreeing to the amendment. The amendment (No. 4029) was agreed to.

Mr. KENNEDY. I move to reconsider the vote, and I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, I thank the Senator. I suggest the presence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. Atexander). Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, under our unanimous consent agreement, it is now time for the amendment by the distinguished Senator from Louisiana under a time agreement of 45 minutes equally divided.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Louisiana.

AMENDMENT NO. 3964

Mr. VITTER. Mr. President, I call up amendment No. 3964.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The Senator from Louisiana (Mr. VITTER), for himself and Mr. GRASSLEY, proposes an amendment numbered 3964.

Mr. VITTER. I ask unanimous consent that reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: To modify the burden of proof requirements for purposes of adjustment of status.

Beginning on page 350, strike line 1 and all that follows through “inference” on page 351, line 1, and insert the following:

“(II) OTHER DOCUMENTS.—An alien who is unable to submit a document described in subclause (I) may satisfy the requirement in clause (i) by submitting to the Secretary at least 2 other reliable documents that provide evidence of employment for each required period of employment, including—

(‘‘aa’’) bank records;

(‘‘cc’’) sworn affidavits from non-relatives who have direct knowledge of the alien’s work, including the names, address, and phone number of the affiant, the nature and duration of the relationship between the affiant and the alien, and other verification information;

(‘‘dd’’) remittance records.

(‘‘vv’’) BURDEN OF PROOF.—An alien applying for adjustment of status under this subsection has the burden of proving by a preponderance of the evidence that the alien has satisfied the employment requirements in clause (i).

On page 374, line 22, insert after “work” the following: “’, including the name, address, and phone number of the affiant, the nature and duration of the relationship between the affiant and the alien, and other verification information’’.

Mr. VITTER. Mr. President, yesterday on the Senate floor I briefly began to explain the purpose of this amendment. As was clear from yesterday’s debate, all of these new verifications with many parts of this bill. One of those hesitations is about the huge loopholes and encouragements for fraud that exist in the bill in many different sections.

We are very good on the Senate floor in debating, tossing around ideas, general concepts, broad principles, but I fear we are often very bad at really looking at the details of a proposal and walking through how it is going to work in the real world and in practice or, perhaps it is more appropriate to say, how it is not going to work. Again, this bill is a glaring example of that.

Amendment No. 3964 does not correct all of those deficiencies. It does not close all of these very important distinctions between has the person been in the country over 5 years or between 2 and 5 years or under 2 years, but when it comes down to the actual workings of this bill, it will open in the real world, all that person has to do is write out a fairly simple statement — “I have been here for over 5 years” — sign his name to it, and under the details of the bill that is good enough. To me, that makes a mockery of the entire system that is being proposed. That makes an open invitation for fraud. Why would a person who is in an admittedly difficult and strenuous, stressful, even desperate situation, why would a person put himself in category B or category C when he has to sign a piece of paper to get in the best category, the clearest route to citizenship, category A? It makes no sense. Of course, a lot of folks in that desperate situation will do exactly that. This is a loophole, an invitation to fraud which we need to close.

Under a similar provision of the bill, also in section 601, there is a similar glaring loophole and open invitation to fraud in terms of the type of evidence that a person may get in the second category, being in the country between 2 and 5 years. I don’t know why this is so much an issue because if I were the person, I would immediately rush to the best category, sign a simple piece of paper, and have the clearest route to citizenship. But still, in the evidence accepted in category B, between 2 and 5 years, a person can supply a simple statement, a piece of paper signed by a nonrelative third party. Again, the requirements for that are loose. It is a glaring loophole and an open invitation to fraud.

If this system is to have any meaning, if these distinctions in terms of how long a person has been in the country are to have any significance, if this plan is to have any hope of working in practice, rather than just being something pretty to talk about on the floor of the Senate, we need to close these loopholes to stop outright invitations for fraud. That is what my amendment would do in important respects.

To summarize, my amendment would do five specific things that would close these loopholes, shut down these very wide open invitations to fraud.

No. 1, it would strike the language allowing an alien to prove employment history by providing a self-signed, sworn declaration; in other words, nothing more than a piece of paper that he himself signs.

No. 2, it would require that sworn affidavits from nonrelatives who have direct knowledge of the alien’s work—and that is a phrase in the underlying bill—be corroborated by the Secretary of the Department of Homeland Security and should include contact information of the affiant, the name, the address, the phone number, the nature and duration of the relationship, so that the Department has some hope, some means of looking into this declaration, cross-examining the affiant to see what his ability of looking into this declaration is about. That the Department has some hope, some way to make sure that system can actually work in the real world and not simply be unworkable beyond being able to be administered full of glaring loopholes, full of invitations to fraud. I believe this is an example of that. I believe in many aspects, including many that are not covered by our amendment, this is going to prove very unworkable in the real world and be wide open with loopholes you can drive a truck through, with open invitations for fraud. My amendment simply highlights perhaps the two most obvious or egregious examples of that and tries to close those loopholes, close down those open invitations for fraud. My amendment simply highlights the two most obvious or egregious examples of that and tries to make certain that system can actually work in the real world and not simply be unworkable beyond being able to be administered full of glaring loopholes, full of invitations to fraud. I believe this is an example of that. I believe in many aspects, including many that are not covered by our amendment, this is going to prove very unworkable in the real world and be wide open with loopholes you can drive a truck through, with open invitations for fraud. My amendment simply highlights perhaps the two most obvious or egregious examples of that and tries to close those loopholes, close down those open invitations for fraud. My amendment simply highlights perhaps the two most obvious or egregious examples of that and tries to close those loopholes, close down those open invitations for fraud.

With that, I am happy to hear from Members who would like to debate the amendment pro or con. I reserve the remainder of my time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time?

The Senator from Massachusetts.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, as I understand the amendment, on page 350, you strike lines 8 through the rest of the page; am I correct?

Mr. VITTER. I don’t have that in front of me. If you could read me the lines.

Mr. KENNEDY. Well, this is on the intent of Congress, the basic kind of understanding, the intent of Congress be interpreted in a manner that recognizes the difficulties encountered by the alien in obtaining evidence. As I understand, you strike that. And then you strike the burden of proof provisions through the top of 351, once the burden is met, the burden shall shift to the Secretary of Homeland Security. So those provisions are dropped. The essence of your amendment is then tightened up verification in terms of the applicant.

Mr. VITTER. The Senator is correct.

Mr. KENNEDY. And that is effectively the purpose of the amendment. In your description and in the language, you talk about bank records, business records, sworn affidavits from nonrelatives who have direct knowledge of the alien’s work, including name, address, phone number of the affiant. And those, as Massachusetts—let me be clear, as Massachusetts—have direct knowledge of relati...

Mr. VITTER. The Senator is correct on all of that.

Mr. KENNEDY. I am going to urge that we accept that amendment. We believe we have made sure, that of us who support this proposal, that we are going to reach those people who are defined in the legislation. And we want to make sure that it is accurate.

We are not interested in people gaming the system or in the identity theft problems and other kinds of challenges and false documents. We have made a very strong effort because if we have that and we lack the verification of information and lack the verification in terms of the individual and what we are going to have continued forgery of documents, this is going to be a disaster. But we have given strong emphasis in terms of legality and veracity, and we are going to have the biometric identification cards. We are going to try to do this correctly and by the book, so to speak.

The Senator has redrafted provisions that we had in the legislation to ensure the applicant is going to provide the best information and that the best information has to be reliable and dependable in order to be able to participate in the system. I think it is useful and valuable. At the appropriate time, I will urge our colleagues to accept the amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Pennsylvania is recognized.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, there is no doubt that we have to have appropriate evidence in order to establish a criterion for moving on the floor of the Senate, we need to close these problems, these are not the only cases. Unfortunately, I think they are an example of the general nature in which many aspects of the bill were drafted. In a spirit of working toward the end all of us have said we fully support, I encourage all of the Members intimately involved in continuing to draft the bill, including if a bill should go to conference—and I will certainly include the Senators from Pennsylvania and from Massachusetts—to continue to identify those problem areas in the bill language. I hope this amendment will be adopted and we will have addressed two of them. I will continue identifying more. I am encouraged by the comments that they will join us in that endeavor as this work product moves on.

With that, I am prepared to yield back my time if we can proceed to voice vote.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, I think we are ready for a voice vote on the Vitter amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is all time yielded back?
Mr. SPECTER. It is.

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, would the Senator yield for a question?

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, would the Senator yield for a question?

Mr. INHOFE. I yield.

Mr. DURBIN. First, I thank the Senator for his cooperation. I think we have had a very valuable dialogue, and the Senator from Oklahoma has made some important concessions. But I would like to make sure that, for the RECORD, I understand the intent and language of the amendment which he currently offers.

Has the Senator changed the version which referenced section 161: “Declaration of official language,” which shows on page 2 of the amendment?

Mr. INHOFE. Yes, that was changed.

It was actually written up—a number of questions and answers count against us, but I would just as soon yield a number of questions to the Senator to ask.

I am not interested in diminishing any rights under the law given to any person for services or materials provided by the Government of the United States relative to services or materials provided by the Government of the United States in any language other than English. That is an exception under section 162.

Mr. DURBIN. Reclaiming my time, Mr. President, that is the problem.

This is what it comes down to. This is an easy question to answer: Yes, it is not my intention to diminish any rights under the law given to any person for services or materials provided by the Government of the United States relative to services or materials provided by the Government of the United States in any language other than English. If the Senator said yes to that question, it would put a lot of people at ease.

But let me tell you what I am afraid is at stake. In the language which the legislation has prepared, I am afraid there is more to it. It is apparent that at least some believe you are going further than what you have indicated; that you are trying to diminish existing rights of the law. That is troubling because we are talking about are rights that are over 40 years old, dating back to the 1964 Civil Rights Act. And if the Senator from Oklahoma wants to make a statement of policy that English is the language of the United States it is a common and unifying language, then he will have 100 votes in the Senate. It will be an important statement. But when he goes on and adds this other language, this amendment raises questions.

I just gave the Senator a chance to clarify the rest of his language, and he didn’t want to do it. I am afraid that is where we are going to have a parting of the ways.

I think it is valuable for us to establish that the English language is common and unifying in America and that success depends on it, and I believe that. As I have said many times on the Senate floor, I urge the Senator, if he wants to diminish those, he might say to the Senator and his legal staff, if he wants to diminish those, he might say to the Senator and his legal staff, if he wants to diminish those, he might say to the Senator and his legal staff, if he wants to diminish those, he might say to the Senator and his legal staff, if he wants to diminish those, he might say to the Senator and his legal staff, if he wants to diminish those, he might say to the Senator and his legal staff, if he wants to diminish those, he might say to the Senator and his legal staff, if he wants to diminish those, he might say to the Senator and his legal staff, if he wants to diminish those, he might say to the Senator and his legal staff, if he wants to diminish those, he might say to the Senator and his legal staff, if he wants to diminish those, he might say to the Senator and his legal staff, if he wants to diminish those, he might say to the Senator and his legal staff, if he wants to diminish those, he might say to the Senator and his legal staff, if he wants to diminish those, he might say to the Senator and his legal staff, if he wants to diminish those, he might say to the Senator and his legal staff.
I reserve the remainder of my time, and I yield back to the Senator from Oklahoma.

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, let me first of all say no, it is not my intent, nor is it the intent of this amendment, to do that. This amendment is pretty straightforward. It does say “unless otherwise authorized or provided by law.” What that says to me is if there are some of these privileges out there that you believe are not in the law, then I would not be addressing those. I think we are addressing a matter of law, but I don’t know that. I would rather say if it is a matter of law, we are providing an exception. And I guess I would ask you the question, since I now have the floor, do you believe that some of these rights are entitlements?

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, I don’t know whose time this counts against.

Mr. INHOFE. It is mine.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Oklahoma has the floor.

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, as I said earlier, this is dangerously close to debate in the Senate, and I am glad we are doing it. My feeling is this: When you say: What are you entitled to? Is there anything you are entitled to?

Mr. INHOFE. No, no. Mr. President, reclaiming my time, it is certainly not our intention. And I think what the Senator is saying is that language and national origin are the same when, in fact, I am not saying that language and national origin are the same.

Let me go ahead and try to respond, even though I am speaking to lawyers and I am not one, with some court cases that I think might clarify things for all of us.

Mr. SALAZAR. Mr. President, would my friend from Oklahoma yield for a question?

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, let me hold off yielding until I get through with what I am about to say. I was going to mention these this morning, but I would like to go ahead and say where I believe we are today in responding to the question that has already been asked. I think it speaks for itself, but let me see after reading these cases whether you agree with that or not.

Mr. SALAZAR. Mr. President, again, if I may ask a question of my friend from Oklahoma.

Mr. INHOFE. All right. I would rather wait until I am through, but go ahead.

Mr. SALAZAR. This is not on the substance—

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Colorado is recognized to ask a question.

Mr. SALAZAR. Mr. President, what I would like to do as we move forward in this discussion is also lay down the amendment that I have which I believe accomplishes the objectives which have been articulated by the Senator from Oklahoma and, hopefully, after the Inhofe statement, I can lay down my proposed amendment. I think addresses some of the questions we are talking about on the floor.

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, it is my understanding—we talked about this before the Senator came in—that we will have two amendments that will be tabled: the Salazar amendment and the Inhofe amendment. They will be side by side. There will be a vote at 4:15. That vote will take place on my amendment first and then on the Salazar amendment, is my understanding.

Mr. SALAZAR. I thank the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Oklahoma is recognized.

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, first of all, I would like to get into some of the legal background. For the legal analysis, let me start by mentioning Wesley Newcomb Hohfeld who was the author of the seminal Fundamental Legal Conceptions, a powerful and enduring analysis of the nature of rights and the implications of liberty. Hohfeld noted that rights correlate to duties. A has a duty to B if B has a right against A. If A has no duty, that means B has no right and A has liberty, are the terms that he used. Such Hohfeldian analysis applies here.

My amendment makes clear that nobody has a right or entitlement to sue the Federal workers or the Federal Government for services or materials in languages other than English. In the Hohfeldian analysis, the Federal Government only has the duty to provide foreign language services and materials with a violation of the prohibition against national origin discrimination.

In other words, we are talking about English as the national language. We are talking about certain exceptions that are written into law, and I have said on page 2 that I have read several times, “unless otherwise authorized or provided by law.”

That means there are many cases where that would be the case. Again, such examples exist, such as the Voting Rights Act, which provides for bilingual ballots, and the Court Interpreters Act of 1978, which provides for foreign language services in the Federal courts.

Prior to 1978, there was no such act, and that was not the case. This does not change the decision in the change in law that took place in 1978.

For over 30 years, the courts have repeatedly rejected the attempts to equate a person’s language with their national origin in dozens of court cases and court decisions going back more than 30 years. Therefore, any expansion of the concept of national origin to encompass a theory repeatedly rejected by the Federal courts must come explicitly from Congress. It must be a law. It must be something that Congress proposes and passes and not be imposed by a flawed or arbitrary interpretation of the law. Today the Senate is stating that there is no right, entitlement or claim to services and materials in any language other than English. Federal courts have rejected attempts to equate a person’s language with their national origin in dozens of court cases. This is incorrect. It seems to me perhaps the other side is trying to say they are one and the same.

But the Federal courts have rejected the attempts to equate a person’s language with their national origin in dozens of court cases and court decisions going back more than 30 years. Therefore, any expansion of the concept of national origin to encompass a theory repeatedly rejected by the Federal courts must come explicitly from Congress. It must be a law. It must be something that Congress proposes and passes and not be imposed by a flawed or arbitrary interpretation of the law. Today the Senate is stating that there is no right, entitlement or claim to services and materials in any language other than English. That is assuming we pass our amendment.

I will mention just three of the long, unbroken line of court cases spanning over 30 years.

In 1983 the Second Circuit Court of Appeals determined in Solorza-Perez v. Heckler, which the Supreme Court let stand, that there is no right to government forms in languages other than English.

In 1994 the Second Circuit Court of Appeals determined in Toure v. U.S. that there is no right to government deportation notices in languages other than English.

The most recent United States Supreme Court case in this area is Sandoval v. Alexander, the Alabama driver’s license case. Justice Scalia wrote the decision in Sandoval in 2001. The Supreme Court in Sandoval rejected the equation of language and national origin.

Indeed, the Federal courts have repeatedly considered and rejected just that case written into law, which we have said on page 2 that I have read several times, “unless otherwise authorized or provided by law.”
There is no support in the legislative history or judicial interpretations of title VI for the right or entitlement to Federal Government services or materials in languages other than English. Executive Order 13166 purported to interpret title VI, but it was written before the United States Supreme Court’s decision in Sandalov.

This amendment now clarifies in Federal statute the line of cases culminating in the United States Supreme Court decision in the Sandalov case. Here we are simply stating that there is no legal basis for Executive Order 13166 that purported to direct services and materials in languages other than English. I state it again clearly: There shall be no right or entitlement to services or materials in languages other than English.

I ask unanimous consent additional material be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

EXECUTIVE HISTORY

The legislative history does not support a language-based definition of national origin. The Supreme Court has noted that the legislative history concerning the meaning of national origin, which states that it is “quite meager.” Espinoza v. Farah Mfg. Co., 414 U.S. 88, 95 (1973). Nevertheless, “[t]he terms ‘national origin’ and ‘ancestry’ were considered synonymous.” 414 U.S. at 89. Foregoing debate on the 1964 Civil Rights Act, Representative Roosevelt stated: “May I just make very clear that ‘national origin’ means nationality or the country from which you or your forebears came from. You may come from Poland, Czechoslovakia, England, France, or any other country.” 110 Cong. Rec. 3546 (1964).

The Supreme Court supports this assessment: “Given the term ‘national origin’ on its face refers to the country where a person was born, or, more broadly, the country from which he or her ancestors came.” Eoionoia, 414 U.S. at 88; see also, Pejic v. Hughes Heli-copters, 840 F.2d 667, 672–73 (9th Cir. 1988) (persons of national origin are members of a protected class under Title VII).

CASY HISTORY

Federal courts have rejected attempts to equate a person’s language with their national origin in dozens of court decisions going back thirty years. Therefore any expansion of the concept of national origin to encompass a theory repeatedly rejected by federal courts must come explicitly from Congress, and not be imposed by a flawed and arbitrary interpretation of the law.

The Supreme Court has never held that the language-based definition of national origin is impliedly or inherently included in the definition of national origin. Though this issue was briefed and discussed in Hernandez v. New York, 500 U.S. 352 (1991), the Court did not take a holding on this question. “Petitioner argues that Spanish language ability bears a close relation to ethnicity, and that, as a result, it violates the Equal Protection Clause. We need not address that argument here.” 500 U.S. at 369. The Circuits, on the other hand, have rejected such an equation. See, e.g., Sobeloff v. Rockefeller, 441 F.2d at 441: “A language-based definition is implicitly made, but it is on the basis of language, i.e., English-speaking versus non-English-speaking individuals, and not on the basis of race or national origin. Language, by itself, does not identify members of a suspect class.”

See, also, Touv v. United States, 24 F.3d at 466 (affirming Sobeloff-Perez and rejecting request for multilingual forfeiture notices). “A policy involving an English requirement, without more, neither discriminates on the basis of race or national origin.” An v. General Am. Life Ins. Co., 872 F.2d 426 (9th Cir. 1989) (table).

The one administrative interpretation linking language and national origin is the EEOC’s arbitrary presumption against English-language workplace rules, 29 C.F.R. §1606.7. The Supreme Court has never reviewed these purely administrative interpretations. But many other courts have reviewed these and have rejected them and their underlying equation of language and national origin. See, e.g., Garcia v. Span-Sleak, 96 F.3d 1469, 1489–90 (9th Cir. 1996) (‘‘[R]ight to speak his native tongue while on the job.”), affirmed, 96 F.3d 1151 (9th Cir. 1996); Gloor v. Rush-Presbyterian St. Luke’s Medical Center, 690 F.2d 1217, 1222 (7th Cir. 1981)(upholding English-on-the-job rule for non-English-speaking truck drivers); Garcia v. Rush-Presbyterian St. Luke’s Medical Center, 690 F.2d 1217, 1222 (7th Cir. 1981) (upholding English proficiency); Long v. First Union Corp., 894 F. Supp. 933, 941 (E.D. Virginia, 1995) (“there is nothing in Title VII to protect or provide that an employee has a right to speak his or her native tongue while on the job.”), affirmed, 96 F.3d 1151 (9th Cir. 1996).

A few cases where the language policy is a pretext for intentional discrimination, a language-related rule might violate national origin rules. In addition, two recent lower court decisions have adopted the EEOC’s interpretation equating language and national origin. See, e.g., EEOC v. Synchro-Start Products, 29 F.Supp.2d 911, 915 (D.N.J. 1998) (advice of law clerk, Judge Shadur was "staking out a legal position that has not been espoused by any appellate court."); EEOC v. Premier Operator Services, 113 F.Supp.2d 1666 (N.D. Texas, 2000) (Magistrate Judge Stickney, rejecting appellate cases against EEOC Guidelines and relying on Synchro-Start Products and Judge Reinhardt’s dissent from denial of rehearing en banc in Span Sleak, found disparate treatment of Hispanic employees in the pro-mulgation of an English-workplace rule; the defendant company was bankrupt and did not present a defense).

But almost all cases, including all Circuit decisions which equate the language and national origin. See, e.g., Goor, 618 F.2d at 270 (“The EEO Act does not support an interpretation that equates the language requirement of an employee to the native tongue of his national origin.”); Nazarova v. INS, 171 F.3d 478, 483 (7th Cir. 1999)(permitting deportation notices in English); Carmona v. Sheffield, 475 F.2d 1232 (5th Cir. 1973) (requiring employment discrimination claim); Frontera v. Sindic, 522 F.2d 1215 (6th Cir. 1975) (civil service exam for carpenters can be in English); Carmona v. Ariz. Dep’t of Transp., 639 F.2d 1489-90 (9th Cir. 1985), cert. den., 512 U.S. 1228 (1994) (rejecting EEOC guidelines); Gonzales v. Salvation Army, 965 F.2d 578 (11th Cir.)(table), cert. den., 500 U.S. 910 (1990)(rejecting employment discrimination claim); Jurado v. Eleven-Fifty Corp., 813 F.2d 1406 (9th Cir. 1987) (permitting radio station to choose language an an applicant would use); Vasquez v. Mccallen Bag & Supply Co., 660 F.2d 686 (5th Cir. 1981) (upholding English-on-the-job rule for non-English-speaking truck drivers); Garcia v. Rush-Presbyterian St. Luke’s Medical Center, 690 F.2d 1217 (7th Cir. 1981) (upholding hiring practices requiring English proficiency); Long v. First Union Corp., 894 F.Supp. 933, 941 (E.D. Virginia, 1995) (“there is nothing in Title VII which protects or provides that an employee has a right to speak his or her native tongue while on the job.”), affirmed, 96 F.3d 1151 (9th Cir. 1996); Getsey v. Book Covers, Inc., 1999 WL 20925, *8 (N.D. Ill. 1999) (rejecting attempt to use EEOC guidelines to operate a hostile work environment); Tran v. Tarrant/Dallas Printing, Inc., 1998 WL 548686, *5 (N. Texas, 1998) (“English-only policies are not of themselves indicative of national origin discrimination in violation of Title VII”); Prado v. Longines Schilling Co., 171 F.3d 894 (1st Cir. 1997) (rejecting challenge to English workplace policy); Cunia v. Archdiocese of Philadelphia, 114 F. Supp. 2d 730, 733 (E.D. Penn. 1998) (surveying cases: “all of these courts have agreed that—particularly as applied to multi-lingual employees—an English-only rule does not have a disparate impact on the basis of national origin, and does not violate Title VII”);

There is, therefore, a basis in the terms, history or interpretation of “national origin” which supports a per se rule equating a person’s language and that person’s national origin.

The Executive Order 13166 is based on the equation of a person’s language and that person’s national origin. Again, here we are making clear that there is no legal basis for Executive Order 13166. Neither is there any legal basis for federal regulations based on Executive Order 13166, including, but not limited to those federal regulations in the following list:

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, I know we can get bogged down. I suspect the reason this particular amendment that has been proposed numerous times in the past but not in the last 23 years, we may have spend many hours with perhaps some people do not want this amendment, so they come up with all kinds of technical reasons to oppose it. But what we are doing is declaring—we are making a declaration—that English is the national language for the United States of America.

We are talking about the exceptions, for example, the Court Interpreters Act. Before the Court Interpreters Act passed in 1978, defendants did not have a right to an interpreter. It was up to the Court’s discretion. The Court Interpreters Act protects already existing constitution rights such as in the sixth amendment, the fifth amendment, the 14th amendment, amendments on due process. It is very important to know that is one of the many exceptions that is written into law. It is also a very important exception.

You also have some exceptions found in the Voting Rights Act. Somebody mentioned this morning some disaster could take place in California, a tsunami or something such as that, and when the interpretation comes, obviously, if you are addressing Chinatown, it would be in Chinese. We know that. That protection is there.

I believe we have covered the legitimate concerns that are out there. I know that not everyone who want this to happen are going to vote against this. I understand that. That is what this is all about. It has been 23 years since we had an opportunity to vote for it or against it. I know that not everyone who want this is going to have your opportunity at 4:15 today. In the meantime I agree with the Presidents—almost every President of the United States going back long before Teddy Roosevelt said he thought they need a home of their own. From picking crops to working in factories to renting offices, from a life of poverty to a better life. This is an opportunity. We look at the Cinco de Mayo, we had the Cinco de Mayo and all the celebrations there. It is probably the most popular thing that has ever been done in the city of Tulsa.

I went back and talked to these people. I said: Do you agree with the polling data that shows very clearly that Hispanics want to have English as the national language? And they said yes. This is a group I have been dealing with since 1974.

I think it may be somebody’s impression that certain extremist groups—and I am sure there are some extremist groups that have a large number of Latins in them. They may be of opposition. They may not want to have this. That is fine. Let them exercise their influence on every voter, each of the 100 Members of this body. That is the way the system works.

But I will say this. Jumping from the one I know and the ones I have had experience with back in my city of Tulsa, the Hispanic population is very proud of the fact that they are going to learn English, and it should be our national language. As recently as 2 months ago, a Zogby poll, in March of 2006, found that 84 percent of Americans, including 77 percent of the Hispanics, believe English should be the official language of Government operations. In 2002, the Kaiser Family Foundation poll—which I do not think an exception—found 91 percent of the foreign-born Latino immigrants agreed that learning English is essential to succeeding in the United States. In 2002, there is also a Carnegie/Public Agenda poll that found by a more than 2-to-1 margin, immigrants themselves say that the United States should expect new immigrants to learn English.

My favorite poll is this one. In 2004, the National Council of LaRaza found that 86.4 percent or somewhat 10.9 percent—agreed that the ability to speak English is important to succeed in this country. That is a no-brainer. We all know that. There is not a country you go to where that is not true.

I would say this. There are 50 other countries around the world today that have English as their national language. In these countries, they expect you, when you come to their country, to learn English. But if you go to another country, if it is Italy or France or any other country, you are expected to be able to communicate in their language.
In 1988, G. Lawrence Research showed 87 percent favored English as an official language with only 8 percent opposed and 5 percent not sure. That was 1988. Very consistent; about the same numbers. A 1996, national survey by Luntz Research asked, “Do you think English should be the official language of the United States?” and 86 percent of Americans supported making English the official language and only 12 percent opposed and only 2 percent unsure. That was 1996.

In 2000 another Zogby poll, that was a different one than the one I quoted, but 92 percent of Republicans, 76 percent of Democrats, and 76 percent of Independents favored making English the national language. Again, that was a March poll of Zogby. It is consistent throughout.

You have some things working here. You have everybody wanting it, including the Latin community. You have more than half the States, 27 of the 50 States—27 States have accepted English as an official language, including Colorado, I might add. I say to my good friend from Colorado. Let’s see where Illinois is. Yes, Illinois. You don’t have a problem in Illinois. You already have it as a State concept that has been accepted.

So if you have 27 States, you have 51 other nations accepting English as the national language, you have all the polling data showing this is what people want, you have an exception made so no one is going to lose anything by doing it this way, then I can only come to the conclusion that you don’t want it as the national language.

That is fine. That is good. If that is the case, we are going to have a vote at 4:15 and make that determination.

Before I yield, let me ask how our time is coming along.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Oklahoma has 30 minutes remaining.

Mr. DURBIN. Will the Senator yield for a question?

Mr. INHOFE. I yield the floor at this point.

Mr. DURBIN. I’ll take it on my time. The Senator made it clear. He has two parts of this amendment. The first part is, from my point of view, It is the common, unifying language of our Nation? The answer is yes. His conclusion is that you can’t succeed in America without being English proficient. If that’s his amendment, that vote would be 100 percent.

It is the second part, the part you called the technical arguments, that we find troublesome. You said, in the course of explaining the amendment, that you didn’t want to take away any existing rights of people in law, in courthouses, for example, or going to vote, and I’m glad to hear that. But I want to ask you directly: Do you want to diminish any of the rights currently available to those living in our country under title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, which prohibits discrimination based on national origin?

Mr. INHOFE. Do I personally want that? No, I don’t. This amendment doesn’t do that because it makes those exceptions and eliminate what you are referring to is the law.

Mr. DURBIN. Let me ask you expressly and specifically, because you did refer to this. This was Executive Order 13166, issued by President Clinton, which implemented the same title of the Civil Rights Act that I refer to. The Executive Order said that agencies of our Government had to make efforts to provide their services and materials to people with limited English proficiency.

Is it your intention with your amendment to, in any way, diminish the responsibilities and rights created by Executive Order 13166?

Mr. INHOFE. It is my understanding, I say to the Senator from Illinois, that the courts already have had some interpretations of that which perhaps are not the same as you are stating right now. What the courts have interpreted I stand behind because that means it is law, that is what is according to my amendment.

Mr. DURBIN. So will the Senator accept an amendment to his amendment which says that:

Nothing herein shall diminish or expand any existing right, duty, or the law of the United States relating to services or materials provided by the Government of the United States in any language other than English?

Mr. INHOFE. You will have an opportunity to have that in your side-by-side amendment that will be voted on after mine. My answer is no because we have already massaged this language. A lot of people are supporting this. If I start changing things now, as you well know, we are going to start peeling off, and I won’t have the support I have right now. We will have an opportunity to vote on my amendment. Then we will have an opportunity to vote on whatever language you decide to put in, in your amendment.

Mr. DURBIN. I thank the Senator. Mr. AKAKA. I agree that English is the common language of our Nation. Everyone should learn it, just as I believe everyone should learn other languages, and more about the world around them. But I must oppose the Inhofe amendment because it does not merely encourage learning the English language. I am concerned that this amendment will have far-reaching consequences and eliminate the rights of many Americans.

First of all, the Inhofe amendment is unnecessary. English is the de facto official language of the United States. In fact, according to the 2000 census, only 9.3 percent of Americans speak both their native language and another language fluently.

Second, the Inhofe amendment is divisive. The sponsors of the amendment claim that this is needed to promote national unity. However, our common language is not what unifies this country. It is our common belief in freedom and justice. The first amendment to the Constitution ensures that we have the freedom of speech. We are free to speak in any language. We are free to promote our native language. We are free, and I fear, we are free to promote the Inhofe amendment.

Moreover, children growing up in homes that speak languages other than English will feel stigmatized. As a young child, I was discouraged from speaking Hawaiian because I was told that I would not succeed in the Western world. My parents lived through the overthrow of the Kingdom of Hawaii and endured the aftermath as a time when all things Hawaiian, including language, which they both loved, were viewed as negative.

I therefore, was discouraged from speaking the language and practicing Hawaiian customs and traditions. I remember as a young child sneaking to listen to my parents so that I could maintain my ability to understand my language. My experience mirrors that of my generation of Hawaiians.

This is the same problem facing bilingual education. There is a push to stop the learning of other languages when individuals are young, when it is much easier to learn another language, but then we tell those same people that it is essential that they learn another language to preserve our national security. This is contradictory.

Third, the amendment sends the wrong message to our heritage communities. After the terrorist attacks of 9/11, we sought out these individuals to help with our translation efforts; however, now we are telling them that we do not value their language enough to provide them with essential services in their languages. The ability to speak a foreign language is critical to our national security, and we should not discourage it. In any case, the Inhofe amendment could prohibit the Government from providing emergency services in other languages or providing critical health and safety materials to non-English speakers since such programs may not be required by law. People’s lives might be endangered by this amendment.

Finally, I worry that the very strength of our democracy is threatened by this amendment. I am proud to be an original cosponsor of S. 2703, a bill to amend the Voting Rights Act of 1965. Importantly, S. 2703 will continue to require bilingual voting assistance. Unless every citizen has access to the pools and can understand the language on their voting ballot, our democracy is not as strong as it could be.

We want immigrants and individuals from all over the world to learn about the United States and what defines us. I think freedom needs us. Actions speak louder than words, no matter the language. I urge my colleagues to act to oppose the Inhofe amendment.

Mr. ENZI. Mr. President, I rise in support of an amendment introduced by my colleague from Oklahoma, Senator INHOFE.

I firmly believe a common language promotes unity among citizens and fosters greater communication. Establishing a national language would be a disservice to the United States. We were founded, would be a disservice to the freedoms on which this country was founded, would be a disservice to the American people.

Our language was our social fabric. It was a common language that helps unite us as a country.

A recent Zogby poll showed 84 percent of Americans believe English should be the official language of our Government. Twenty-seven U.S. States have already made English the official language, including Louisiana which agreed to it as a condition of statehood. My home State of Wyoming made English the official language of the State in 1996.

Fifty-one nations also have English as their official language, but the United States does not. It is time that we have a clear statement of national language.

This amendment also addresses the important issue of English proficiency for new citizens. On May 15, 2006, President Bush addressed the Nation about immigration reform and establishment of national language. Many improvements need to be made to the current process that our new citizens go through. I am pleased that this amendment creates a set of amendments to the new citizen exam. Some of the goals are demonstration of sufficient understanding of English usage in everyday life and an understanding of American common values. These common values include the principles of our U.S. Constitution, the Pledge of Allegiance, the National Anthem, and the significance of our American flag. The goals will help new citizens better understand our Nation and become productive members of our society.

Senator INHOFE’s amendment is a good strong statement in support of English as our national language and the importance of sharing this common value with all of us. I think this amendment will establish English as the official language of the U.S. Government during my service in the Senate and in the Wyoming State Legislature, and I encourage all Senators to support this important amendment to the immigration reform bill.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Colorado.

Mr. SALAZAR. Mr. President, I send an amendment to the desk.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, the pending amendment is set aside.

The Clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read the amendment as follows:

SEC. 161. DECLARATION OF ENGLISH.

(a) DECLARATION. English is the common and unifying language of the United States that helps provide unity for the people of the United States.

(b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—The table of chapter and section numbers in this subtitle shall be amended by striking out the following:

SEC. 162. PRESERVING AND ENHANCING THE ROLE OF THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE.

The Government of the United States shall preserve and enhance the role of English as the common and unifying language of America. Nothing herein shall diminish or expand any existing rights under the law of the United States relative to services or materials provided by the Government of the United States in any language other than English.

For the purposes of this section, law is defined as including provisions of the U.S. Code, the U.S. Code of Federal Regulations, Presidential Proclamations, Executive Orders, treaties, conventions, and other agreements.

(b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—The table of chapters for title 4, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end of the Language of Government of the United States.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, I yield 15 minutes to the Senator.

Mr. SALAZAR. Thank you, Mr. President.

Let me first say that the amendment I send to the desk is sponsored as well by Senators REID, DURBIN, BINGAMAN, and KENNEDY.

I would like to start by reading the amendment in its entirety. I think it reflects what it is we are discussing.

Let me also make a couple of observations regarding Senator INHOFE’s amendment.

First, I remember during those days when I was a young man going to school in the 1960s in Conejos County, in the southern part of Colorado, those who spoke Spanish in our school were punished because of the fact they spoke Spanish. I remember seeing the incident where young people would have their mouths washed out with soap because of the fact they happened to be speaking a language other than English in the public school. I have seen these kinds of incidents throughout a lifetime of personal experience.

I think those kinds of incidents and those kinds of experiences run counter to what America is all about. America becomes richer and stronger because of our diversity. We have learned through the hard times of history that America is stronger when it stands together, when we find those issues that unite us as opposed to those issues that divide us.

We found those issues that divided us in the Civil War and over half a million Americans died in that war. We found those issues that divided us in the era of segregation that led to Brown v. Board of Education and led to the Civil Rights Act of the 1960s. Those acts were intended to bring us together as a country.

My fear is that the proposal which has been presented by my good friend from Oklahoma will serve to divide this country and not unite the country.

That is why the amendment I have offered, along with my colleagues, is intended to be an amendment that says we believe the English language is the common language of the United States and that it is a unifying language of the United States.

I think this amendment will help preserve and enhance the role of English as a common and unifying language of America. Nothing herein shall diminish or expand any existing rights under the law of the United States relative to services or materials provided by the Government of the United States in any language other than English.

That is the essential and substantive part of the amendment which we are sponsoring today.

As I start to speak about this amendment, I want to say this amendment is a unifying amendment because it speaks to the common language of America. It unifies us from whatever particular language or background we come from.

It is my hope that when we complete this debate today we could have 100 Senators standing up in support of this amendment.

Let me say, for me—as we have approached this debate over immigration and as we approach this debate over official English and other aspects of language—what I think the nation has heard by my friend from Oklahoma—it has been a call for me to reflect back to the history of America and to the history of my own family in this country. My family came in and founded the city of Santa Fe in 1598, 408 years ago. And the language that is still the language of my home—the language still spoken on our ranch 110 miles north of Santa Fe—is still the spoken language from the 12th and 13th centuries. It is a very old language.

I remember during those days when I was a young man going to school in the 1960s in Conejos County, in the southern part of Colorado, those who spoke Spanish in our school were punished because of the fact they spoke Spanish. I remember seeing the incident where young people would have their mouths washed out with soap because of the fact they happened to be speaking a language other than English in the public school. I have seen these kinds of incidents throughout a lifetime of personal experience.

I think those kinds of incidents and those kinds of experiences run counter to what America is all about. America becomes richer and stronger because of our diversity. We have learned through the hard times of history that America is stronger when it stands together, when we find those issues that unite us as opposed to those issues that divide us.
You can read in the second part of the second page of his amendment essentially the language that says “no official will communicate, provide services, or provide materials in any language other than English.”

I know there have been exceptions written into the language to try to accommodate times and places where the language other than English might have to be spoken.

We have to ask the question: Why is the language written the way it is which says it is in these narrow, tailored exceptions where we will make the exception that a language other than English can be spoken?

It causes me concern because I am not exactly sure what that means. If I am a public official working in law enforcement for one of our Federal agencies, if I work for the U.S. Postal Service, or whoever I work for, I might not have the authority to communicate or provide materials in any language other than English. As someone who might not be a lawyer or a servant serving within the Federal Government, it might give me a signal—and I think it would—and lots of our Federal employees the signal that perhaps providing services to the citizens of the United States in a language other than English is wrong and violative of the rule of law.

They will not have the opportunity that we have had today to go through the fine review of this legislation in the way the Chairman has, and even after having gone through that fine review of this language there are still many of us who have questions as to how this proposed amendment will take away rights from the people of America.

As I was listening to my friend from Oklahoma speak about the importance of this amendment, one of the things he said is that he thought it was important that we stand together in opposition to language discrimination. For sure, we can all agree in this Chamber that we are not to discriminate against someone because they happen to be Irish or French or if they happen to be of Mexican descent, whatever it is; we stand united in this country’s belief in the proposition that we oppose any kind of discrimination based on national origin. Yet, it seems to me, from what I was hearing from my friend from Oklahoma, that the same question applies with respect to language discrimination; if it happens to speak a language other than English, or if you happen, perhaps, to have an accent that indicates you may be of a native tongue that is other than English, that perhaps discrimination on the basis of language then would be sanctioned under our law in America. That is not the American way. The American way is to say that we are a stronger country when we recognize the diversity within us when we discriminate against those who are different among us, and that we create a much stronger country when we stand together.

I believe the amendment which Senator Inhofe has proposed will create division within the country. I think it is putting a finger on a problem that does not exist today.

The statistics which Senator Inhofe cited from the National Council for Larussa, indicates that most Americans, including most Hispanics, speak English. The National Council for Larussa cites a GAO study in which it was consistently found that U.S. Government documents are printed in English, that is more than 1 percent of U.S. Government documents are published in any language other than English.

They also found that the English language is not under attack in our country. In the U.S. census findings, they found that 92 percent of Americans had no difficulty speaking English. We also found in poll after poll that immigrants in America come because they want to learn English. They want to learn English to assimilate into our society because they know that English is, in fact, a keystone to opportunity.

The Inhofe amendment does nothing in terms of including or encouraging people to move forward and learn the English language. We are already a country that speaks English. Senator Inhofe’s amendment does not do anything with respect to moving the English language acquisition forward. Let me finally say that it is true there are many States that have made English their official language. I believe that English being made the official language is also a matter of States rights. It is true that in my State of Colorado, as well as in other States, English has been adopted as the official language of those particular States. I believe we ought to leave it to the States; let the States decide we are a Federal system. I think States ought to decide the way we ought to go with respect to dealing with this issue.

Let me conclude by saying the amendment which I have proposed, along with my colleagues, Senators Reid, Durbin and Bingaman, is an amendment that would unify America and not divide our country.

I hope my colleagues will join me in supporting the amendment which we have offered and oppose the Inhofe amendment.

I yield the floor.

THE PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time?

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, I yield as much time as the Senator from Tennessee requires.

THE PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Tennessee.

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. President, first, let me say to my friend from Colorado that if we were to take all 100 of us who are in the Senate, some of whose families have been here for a lifetime, most of us would judge, have families who have been in the United States for longer than Senator Salazar’s family—for 11, 12, or 13 generations. It is a source of great pride to serve with him.

He and I discussed this amendment. I understand his passion and feeling about it. But what I would like to do in a few minutes is take exactly the opposite side of the amendment filed by the Senator from Colorado because I do not see how the United States of America can be unified unless we have a national language. That is all this is about. The Inhofe amendment is not an official English amendment. It is not an amendment to declare English the official language of the United States, which 27 States have done. It does not require that all government documents be spoken and printed in English. It could have done that, but it didn’t.

It simply says English is the national language of the United States, period. That is the first thing it says. Then it has a provision that talks about the importance of encouraging the learning and understanding of English.

It has a provision which, the way I read it, says that nothing prevents the government from rendering services in languages other than English.

That would mean that in a whole variety of areas where the Congress last made a decision—whether it is the Civil Rights Act of 1964, the Voting Rights Act of 1965, the Bilingual Education Act of 1967, the provision that Senator Robert Kennedy put into the law recognizing the unusual circumstances of Puerto Ricans who moved from Puerto Rico to one of the 50 States—or an Executive order by any President, this amendment wouldn’t change any of that. That is the whole point of the amendment. It is just to say this is our national language.

Then it says that someone does not have the right to sue to get services in another language unless it is provided by law. It doesn’t diminish a right already established by law.

It does one other important thing. It draws on the beginnings of an amendment by Senator Sessions about the citizenship requirements that have been in our citizenship process. It seeks to make those strongest.

Senator Sessions is not the only one in this Senate interested in that. There is probably no one in this Senate more interested in that than the distinguished senior Senator from Massachusetts, who is not only interested in American history, but his family has a place in it.

We have worked together in a variety of ways to try to get a clearer understanding of U.S. history among our children, among our citizens—not because we want to punish them, but because we have such a unique and diverse country that it is critical that we all understand these common unifying principles which come from our history. It was Senator Sessions who said today: rule of law, equal opportunity, laissez-faire, E pluribus unum. We are not pro-immigrant or anti-immigrant; we just have four principles on which we all agree, and we are trying to put them together into a bill. Those are the things which unite us as a country, along with one other thing, and that is our common national language.
May 18, 2006

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD—SENATE

The second part is the Inhofe Amendment has in it language to help improve the citizenship exam that legal immigrants take to become citizens, of which 514,000 did last year. It is a good language, language which was in legislation Senator Kennedy, Senator Reid, and I worked on with many others a couple of years ago to help create summer academies for outstanding teachers and students of American history. We tried to define the history we were talking about in the sense of key ideas, key documents such as the Declaration of Independence, the place from which come our unified principles.

Here are the differences between the amendment from the Senator from Colorado and Senator Inhofe. There are four differences. It is important for colleagues to understand.

Senator INHOFE’s amendment declares that English shall be the national language. The Senator from Colorado is trying to put, the words are, “English shall be national.” He does not want it to say that. He says “common and unifying” language. I prefer the wording of the Inhofe amendment because while English is our common language, it is more than that. It is the common language of a number of countries, but English is also part of our national identity. It is part of our blood. It is part of our spirit. It is part of what we are. It is our national language. That is one difference.

No. 2, the Salazar amendment does not include the provision that is in the Inhofe amendment that says that for all those people here illegally who may become lawful and put on a path to citizenship, they must learn English. The Inhofe amendment strengthens that requirement. Currently, in the underlying bill, it simply says they must be enrolled in school to learn English, and the Inhofe amendment strikes that, so those persons have to learn English in order to be here lawfully. That is very important.

This large number of 10 million or so people who are here illegally who may become lawful and put on a path to citizenship is the goal of the sponsors, it says those persons must learn English. The Inhofe amendment strengthens that requirement. Currently, in the underlying bill, it simply says they must be enrolled in school to learn English. The Inhofe amendment modifies that so those persons have to learn English in order to be here lawfully. That is very important.

The third difference is the Salazar amendment completely takes out the excellent work Senator INHOFE and Senator SESSIONS did, much of the language having been borrowed from work that Senator KENNEDY, Senator REID, and others worked on, which tried to improve the citizenship test. This may not be an intention of the Salazar amendment, but it does. It takes out the language that says the test should mention certain things, such as the Constitution, the Bill of Rights, the Emancipation Proclamation, and key events such as the American Revolution, the Civil War, the world wars, the civil rights movement, and the key ideas and key persons.

Why is that important? Because we are not a nation based on race, we are a nation based on ancestors; we are a fragile idea based upon a few principles and our national common language. So I prefer an amendment that has those provisions in there. That is the third reason.

The fourth, as I read it, suggests that Executive orders issued by the President are just like statutes. Congressional lawyers would have a problem with that. A vote for the Inhofe amendment is a vote to say English is our national language. It is a vote to say that those who may not be here legally, but who have proven that they are not illegal by passing a test education, should learn English on their way to citizenship. And finally, the amendment includes a very good section that helps to define the key ideas and even the key documents.

Mr. SALAZAR. Would my friend from Tennessee yield for a question?

Mr. ALEXANDER. I would be happy to if we can do that on your time.

Mr. SALAZAR. I would be happy to do so on my time. Through the Chair, I ask the manager.

Mr. KENNEDY. He is asking the question, and he wants to answer the question on our time. I yield 5 minutes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, I will recognize Senator Kennedy.

Mr. SALAZAR. Mr. President, through the Chair, I say to my friend from Tennessee, there was an Executive order issued on limited English proficiency and the importance of reaching out to people who are limited English proficient so they could recognize and understand the language of the Government, an Executive order dated August 11, 2000.

Is the Senator’s reading of the Inhofe amendment in substance would essentially eviscerate the Executive order issued by then-President Clinton concerning limited English proficiency?

Mr. ALEXANDER. The answer to my friend from Colorado is no. The election of a new President might change an Executive order if the new President modified or changed the Executive order. My understanding of Senator INHOFE’s amendment, and he can speak for himself, is he does not seek to change any right now granted to anyone.

We can have a good debate about whether there ought to be bilingual ballots. In my opinion, I don’t think there should be because you have to be a citizen to vote and you have to demonstrate an eight grade understanding of English to be a citizen. But that is in the law and is not affected by this and neither would an Executive order.

Mr. SALAZAR. My friend from Tennessee. Not long ago in the Senate, we entered into a debate concerning the nomination of Attorney General Gonzales to be Attorney General of the United States. There were Members of this Senate who came to the Senate and spoke eloquently in Spanish about why he should be confirmed, including Senator Martinez. Would the Inhofe amendment make it illegal for that kind of activity to occur in the Senate?

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. President, I say to my friend from Colorado, that is a preposterous question for what we are talking about and not really a suitable question for a serious proposal.

This is a simple proposal which declares that English shall be our national common language. The United States and that the Government of the United States should do whatever it can to encourage that. It does not change any right that anyone has today. It also includes a provision to learn English or to go through the civics courses which are required now for the legislation that has been included in here. So it is my view that the Senator has misread the amendment we have supported.

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. President, if I could have 4 more minutes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator is recognized.
Mr. ALEXANDER. The differences I see in the two amendments are, No. 1, the Salazar amendment says no to making English our national language. It uses another description. No. 2, it says no to the requirement that immigrants who are illegitimately here and who may wish to become citizens should learn English before they go on that path to citizenship. And it says no to the provisions in the Inhofe amendment which improve the citizenship test, requiring those who become citizens to learn the key events and documents, key ideas of our history.

The Inhofe amendment is well within the mainstream of 90 to 95 percent of the thinking of the American people. It is a valuable contribution. It is a restrained proposal. It does not seek to change any existing right that someone might have to receive services from the Government in some other language.

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, the majority leader has several speakers who want to speak. I also know that virtually everyone on our side is wanting to stay with the 4:15 vote.

What I would like to do, of course, is encourage the minority leader to use his leader time if necessary but go ahead and let everyone on the other side to use time at this time. I yield the floor.

Mr. KENNEDY. I yield 10 minutes to the Senator from New Mexico.

Mr. BINGAMAN. Mr. President, I thank my colleague, Senator KENNEDY. I have been trying to figure out what is, in my mind, objectionable to the Inhofe amendment. I think it comes down to a very basic point; that is, the Inhofe amendment, the language, the operative language of the Inhofe amendment, is:

. . . no person has a right, entitlement or claim to have the Government of the United States or any of its officials or representatives, perform or provide services, or provide materials in any language other than English.

That is the operative provision. And then it says there are “exceptions.” The exceptions are where we have specifically written laws which allow that or which provide for the providing of information or communication in a language other than English.

Why is that objectionable? It is objectionable to me because it is directly contrary to the constitution of my State, the thrust of the constitution of my State.

When New Mexico came into the Union in 1912, we had many more people in my State speaking Spanish than we have speaking English. People were very concerned that the right of individuals in the State to speak either language would be preserved and that no one be discriminated against by virtue of their inability to speak English.

We wrote a provision in our constitution that the right of any citizen of the State to vote, to hold office, or to sit upon juries shall never be restricted, abridged, or impaired on account of religion, race, language, color, inability to speak, read, or write the English or the Spanish language except as may otherwise be provided in the constitution. So the presumption is directly opposite to the Inhofe amendment.

The general rule in my State and in my State’s constitution is that people shall not in any way be discriminated against in their dealings with the Government by virtue of their inability to speak English. And the Inhofe amendment means that the general rule is people have no right to speak any language or communicate with their Government in any language other than English unless we write a law saying they can. I think that is an unfortunate change in emphasis and change in the law, which I cannot support.

Obviously, we have many court cases. And, I gather, under one of the exceptions to the general rule that the Inhofe amendment contains, this might be covered. I have not been well recognized. I believe, in our courts for a very long time that it is a denial of due process to non-English-speaking persons if they are denied services and communication and interpretation in their own language when they are in criminal proceedings.

We have a provision, again, in my own State constitution which I think is pretty close on this issue. It says: In all criminal prosecutions the accused shall have the right to appear and defend himself in person, and by counsel, to demand the nature and cause of the accusation, to be confronted with the witnesses against him, to have the charges and testimony interpreted to him, and in a language that he understands.

Now, I know there is a Federal law that says the same kind of thing today. So it falls under one of the exceptions that is provided for in the Inhofe amendment.

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, will the Senator yield?

Mr. BINGAMAN. Mr. President, I am glad to yield.

Mr. INHOFE. You mentioned several things. I believe the last one you mentioned was covered in the Court Interpreters Act of 1978. It does allow you to have that, and it is actually written into law.

I would also suggest that these are already allowed. This is not something that has to be done.

Mr. INHOFE. Those protections are specifically exempted on page 2.

Mr. BINGAMAN. Mr. President, let me clarify my time and indicate I said that very thing. I am not disagreeing with the Senator from Oklahoma. He has pointed out there are legal provisions that make an exception to his general rule, and the exception in this case is that you are entitled to have the Government provide interpretation when you are accused of a crime and you are trying to defend yourself in court.

All I am saying is, why are we writing into law a general rule that you are not entitled to communicate with your Government or have your Government communicate with you in any language other than English, except where we provide for it? I think that is a mistake. It is directly contrary to what my own State constitution does. It is directly contrary to the sentiment behind my State constitution.

We have the Native American Languages Act where Congress specifically found that there is compelling evidence that student achievement and performance and community and school pride and educational opportunity are tied to respect for the first language of the child or the student. And we talk there about that Native American languages shall not be restricted in any public proceeding.

Well, you can say: OK, now, we have already written a law that protects the rights of Native American languages to be used in public proceedings. So that is not a problem.

I do not know that I want to have to have this Congress write a law to cover every circumstance that might arise where an American wants to communicate with his or her Government in some language other than English. I think it is a bad precedent for us. I think it is contrary to the history of my State. It is certainly contrary to that.

I hope very much we will resist this amendment. I think this is a nonproblem. I do not know why we are spending most of the day debating an issue of this type, except to say to people who do not speak English. You are not going to be entitled to the full rights that other citizens are entitled to.

Clearly, that is true economically. We all know that. We all know you cannot succeed economically in this country in a full sense if you can speak English, and probably speak English with adequate proficiency. But I do not think as a legal matter we need to be writing statutes into the Federal law that say if you are not speaking English, you are entitled to fewer rights, you are entitled to fewer legal rights than other citizens are, and we want to remind you of it.

In fact, as to this amendment, it is very interesting, because it says: Look, the way we have treated those exceptions—this interpreter’s exception or the Native American exception; the language where we have written a specific law—it says, if exceptions are made, that does not create a legal entitlement to additional services in that language or any language other than English. So we are saying: Look, the general rule is, you have to speak to your Government and communicate with your Government in English. We acknowledge there are exceptions where we will allow you to use other languages, or the Government will agree to communicate with you in other languages, but we are going to be specific about what those are. But let’s also remind you—this last sentence says—by making an exception and allowing you to have an interpretation into a language you can understand, we are not giving you a legal entitlement. We are not, in any way, by setting ourselves to do anything more.

I do not know that there is a very wellcoming message to all these immigrants we are welcoming into our country as part of this legislation. I think my Senator from Massachusetts has a great tradition of cooperation between the Native American community, the Hispanic community, and the Anglo community. And we have been able to maintain that sense of cooperation by respecting each other’s languages, by respecting the right of each person, each group, to use his or her language in whatever way they feel is appropriate. I believe this amendment by Senator INHOFE would change that dynamic substantially. So I hope my colleagues will agree with me, will oppose this amendment, will support the Salazar amendment, and then I hope we can get on with more substantive matters.

There are a great many substantive matters involved with this immigration bill. This is an enormous, complex piece of legislation which we ought to be trying to understand and deal with separate from this discussion about English as the national language.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, let me yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Mr. President, who yields time?

Several Senators addressed the Chair.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, in consultation with the floor manager—this has been a good, important, and constructive debate—we need a few more minutes. And we asked the floor manager—

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, let me go ahead and respond.

Mr. KENNEDY. Could I ask consent to get the time?

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, it is my understanding the manager has agreed to allow 45 more minutes for the other side; is that correct?

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, that is correct.

Mr. INHOFE. That is acceptable.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to modify the amendment on page 2, to change the word “official” to the word “national.”

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection to the modification?

Without objection, it is so ordered. The amendment (No. 4073), as modified, is as follows:

At the appropriate place insert the following:

Notwithstanding any other provision:

SEC. 161. DECLARATION OF ENGLISH.

English is the common and unifying language of the United States that helps provide unity for the people of the United States.

SEC. 162. PRESERVING AND ENHANCING THE ROLE OF THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE.

The Government of the United States shall preserve and enhance the role of English as the common and unifying language of America. Nothing herein shall diminish or expand any existing rights under the law of the United States with respect to materials provided by the Government of the United States in any language other than English.

For the purposes of this section, the law is defined as including provisions of the U.S. Code, the U.S. Constitution, controlling judicial decisions, regulations, and controlling Presidential Orders.

(b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—The table of chapters for title 4, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end of the Language of the United States chapter and inserting the following:

AMENDMENT NO. 4064, AS FURTHER MODIFIED.

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to modify the amendment on page 2, to change the word “official” to the word “national.”

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection to the amendment? Without objection, it is so ordered. The amendment is so modified.

The amendment (No. 4064), as further modified, is as follows:

On page 295, line 22, strike “‘the alien—’” and all that follows through line 15, and insert “‘the alien meets the requirements of section 312.’”

On page 352, line 3, strike “either—” and all that follows through line 15, and insert “meets the requirements of section 312(a) relating to English proficiency and understanding of United States history and Government.”

On page 614, after line 5, insert the following:

SEC. 766. ENGLISH AS NATIONAL LANGUAGE.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Title 4, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following:

“CHAPTER 6—LANGUAGE OF THE GOVERNMENT

Sec. 161. Declaration of national language

161. Preserving and enhancing the role of the national language

*161. Declaration of national language

‘English is the national language of the United States."

162. Preserving and enhancing the role of the national language

‘The Government of the United States shall preserve and enhance the role of English as the national language of the United States relative to services authorized or provided by law, no person has a right, entitlement, or claim to have the Government of the United States or any of its officials or representatives act, communicate, perform or provide services, or provide materials in any language other than English. If exceptions are made that do not create a legal entitlement to additional services in that language or any language other than English. If any forms are issued by Federal Government other than English (or such forms are completed in a language other than English), the English language version of the form is the sole authority for all legal actions."

“*CH. 6. LANGUAGE OF THE GOVERNMENT”.

SEC. 767. REQUIREMENTS FOR NATURALIZATION.

(a) FINDINGS.—The Senate makes the following findings:

(1) Under United States law (8 USC 1423 (a)), lawful permanent residents of the United States who have immigrated from foreign countries must, among other requirements, demonstrate an understanding of the English language, United States history and Government, to become citizens of the United States.

(2) The Department of Homeland Security is currently conducting a review of the testing process used to ensure prospective United States citizens demonstrate knowledge of the English language and United States history and government for the purpose of redesigning said test.

(b) REQUIREMENTS.—For purposes of this section only, the following words are defined:

(1) KEY DOCUMENTS.—The term “key documents” means the documents that established or explained the foundational principles of democracy in the United States, including the United States Constitution and the amendments to the Constitution (particularly the Bill of Rights), the Declaration of Independence, the Federalist Papers, and the Emancipation Proclamation.

(2) KEY EVENTS.—The term “key events” means the critical turning points in the history of the United States (including the American Revolution, the Civil War, the world wars of the twentieth century, the civil rights movement, and the major court decisions and legislation) that contributed to extending the promise of democracy in America.

(3) KEY IDEAS.—The term “key ideas” means the ideas that shaped the democratic institutions and heritage of the United States, including the principles of human rights, and a belief in progress.

(4) KEY PERSONS.—The term “key persons” means the men and women who led the United States as founding fathers, elected officials, scientists, inventors, pioneers, advocates of equal rights, entrepreneurs, and artists.

(c) GOALS FOR CITIZENSHIP TEST REDesign.—The Department of Homeland Security shall establish as goals of the testing process designed to comply with provisions of [8 U.S.C. 1423 (a)] that prospective citizens:

(1) Demonstrate a sufficient understanding of the English language for usage in everyday life;

(2) Demonstrate an understanding of American common values, including the principles of the Constitution of the United States, the Pledge of Allegiance, respect for the flag of the United States, the National Anthem, and voting in public elections;

(3) Demonstrate an understanding of the history of the United States including the key events, key persons, and key documents that shaped the institutions and democratic heritage of the United States;

The amendment (No. 4073), as modified, is as follows:

At the appropriate place insert the following:

Notwithstanding any other provision:
(4) Demonstrate an attachment to the principles of the Constitution of the United States and the well being and happiness of the people of the United States; and

(5) Demonstrate an understanding of the rights and responsibilities of citizenship in the United States.

(d) IMPLEMENTATION.—The Secretary of Homeland Security shall implement changes to the testing process designed to ensure compliance with [8 U.S.C. 1423 (a)] not later than January 1, 2008.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. COLEMAN). The Senator from Vermont.

Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, I have spoken several times in the course of this debate about my belief that immigrants should learn the English language. In my experience, most new Americans want to learn our language and make efforts to do so as quickly as possible. The bill that we are debating calls for immigrants to learn English as one of the several steps they must take before they can earn citizenship.

We believe that English should be the common language of the United States, but by making English the “national” language, the Inhofe amendment goes too far. The amendment was modified to remove a ban on publishing official documents in any language but English, yet good conscience in many local communities and States it may well be useful and helpful for the government to reach out to language minorities. Greater participation and information are good and appropriate steps; they should be strives for. We should not be mandating artificial and shortsighted restrictions on State and local government.

I regret, however, that the amendment continues to include language that strongly discourages the use of other languages to inform residents and continues to treat those who speak another language as second-class citizens. We would do better to recognize our diversity and provide greater opportunities to those for whom English is a second language to become more fluent.

My mother spoke Italian as a child and learned English when she went to school. My wife grew up in a family that spoke French. She began speaking English when she started going to school. Both were helped throughout their lives by being completely and totally bilingual as a result.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, if the Senate will yield, we are trying to find out how much time the Senator wants.

Ten minutes, does that work?

Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, I tell the distinguished Senator from Massachusetts, I will have a total amount of 10 minutes.

Mr. KENNEDY. I thank the Senator.

Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, information is vital and sometimes lives depend on it. Is it not in the interests of all Americans to have every member of our society as well-informed on matters of health, safety and our democracy as possible? Do we really want to restrict government publications and communications, such as those on disaster preparedness, public health concerns, if there is an avian flu pandemic, to English only? We have recently seen the extensive and effective reach of Spanish radio in this country. Would we not want to employ that resource in order to tie our American hands and require Congress to pass a special statute every time health and safety materials, for example, would be useful?

We already have statutes that call for bilingual election materials to assist language minorities in accordance with our commitment to making participation in voting fair and meaningful. We know that there are many circumstances in which effective access to information requires communications in many ways and many languages.

Would it not have been useful for the President to try to sell and explain the Medicare drug benefit plan with all its complications and permutations in English, yet how much better could he have made the most possible beneficiaries? Do we really intend to require such obviously beneficial actions to need a special statutory authorization? Should we review agency requirements to take into account the wariness of many who speak English off our airlines and automobiles and dangerous equipment? Are we going to stop providing court translators and require all court proceedings, which are themselves official proceedings, to occur in English, only to the detriment of fairness and justice?

Are we going to go back into the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD and scrub the statements of Senators MARTINEZ and others who have used Spanish here on the floor? If I recall correctly, the Senator from Oklahoma has spoken on this floor in Spanish. Would this amendment make his use of Spanish illegal—or does the Constitution’s “speech and debate clause” mean that the rule that he is asking us to adopt applies to everyone else but not to Senators?

Now, the distinguished Senator from Tennessee is on the Senate floor. It was only a few weeks ago that we worked together to adopt the Alexander amendment to S. 2454, the immigration bill we debated in April. The text of Senator ALEXANDER’s amendment is included in S. 2611, the bill before us now. The Alexander amendment created a grant program to promote the integration of immigrants into democracy by teaching civics, history and the English language.

That is the right approach for America to take. The Inhofe amendment takes the opposite approach, the wrong approach and has the effect of stigmatizing those who grew up where Spanish or Chinese or other great languages were spoken. It risks driving a wedge between communities. This is contrary to our values and what we should be seeking to do. Do we really want to tie our American English with this important legislation.

I recognize that not every State is like my home State of Vermont, where the majority of residents speak English. Even in my State, however, there are many families who first came to America speaking only French. My parents-in-law lived proud American citizens. They spoke French at home, and that was the first language of my wife and her grandparents. My father-in-law was from Italy speaking Italian. That was the first language of my mother until she went to school. We are proud of that.

In prior generations, we welcomed large groups of Irish, Italians, Eastern Europeans, and in recent years, immigrants and refugees from Africa, Asia and many other parts of the world. I wish my French was better. I wish my Latin was more polished. I wish I knew more than a few words and phrases in Chinese and Spanish.

On Monday night, the President spoke eloquently about the need to help newcomers assimilate and embrace our common identity. He spoke of civility and respect for others and our American pluralism. We are proud of the fact that we are together by our shared ideals. These are the messages we must send to the American people, not the divisive message of the Inhofe amendment.

I look around this Senate Chamber and nowhere is there behind the elevated desk and chair of the President of the Senate are the words “E Pluribus Unum.” Every school child is taught that expression, “out of many, one” and what it means to our shared values and heritage. America is a nation unlike any that had come before. It points to an important value from our history and today. It points to our struggle to become a nation of many people, of many States, and of many faiths. What is wrong with our using Latin, as we traditionally have and expressing our unity?

Latin expressions mark our official currency and the reverse of the Great Seal of the United States. The phrases “annuit coeptis” and “novus ordo seclorum” are part of the official symbols of the United States. These expressions are traced back to Virgil and a line from his instruction for farmers, which seeks the favor of God or Providence for our great endeavor to create a nation unlike any that had come before. The second Latin phrase is another allusion to Virgil and notes our seeking a new order.

Our incorporation of languages other than English does not stop there. Take a look at the flag of the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico with the phrase “Qui transtulit sustinet”; the flag for Idaho that includes the phrase “Esto perpetua”; the Kansas flag that includes the phrase “ad astra per aspera”; the Maine flag that includes “Dirigo”; the Massachusetts flag that includes the phrase “Ense petit placidam sub libertate quietem”; the Michigan flag includes not only “e pluribus unum” but also “Circumspice,” “Si quiescet peninsula amans” and “Tolerant”; the Missouri flag includes the phrase “Missouri is the third把手 supreme lex esto”; the flag of New York includes the expression “Excelsior”; the Virginia flag includes the phrase “Sic semper tyrannis”; the flag of West Virginia includes the phrase “Montani semper liberi”; and the Wisconsin flag also includes the phrase “e pluribus unum.”

I see the distinguished Presiding Officer, the Senator from Mississippi, said to me, I thought I would include the flag from his own State. The flag of Minnesota includes a French language phrase befitting its history, “L’etoile du Nord.”

Do we in this Senate mean to demand that the States change their State flags or State mottos to eliminate Latin and French? Do we really mean to frown on their use? Or is it only that the States change their State House demanded that French fries be renamed “freedom fries.” Does this prohibition apply to Roman numerals, such as those included on the flag of Missouri? Does this body intend to embarrass our own road? I hope not, I pray not.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Massachusetts.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, I yield myself 10 minutes.

I think those who have been listening to this debate understand what this discussion is all about. On the one hand, we have the amendment of the Senator from Colorado, which is effectively a way to unite all of us, and on the other hand, we have the Inhofe amendment that is a way that is going to divide us. The language couldn’t be clearer. From the Salazar amendment:

English is the common and unifying language that helps provide unity for the people of the United States.

It is clear.

Preserving and enhancing the role of the English language. We on the United States shall preserve and enhance the role of English as the common and unifying language of America.

On the other hand, we have the Inhofe amendment that has the statement:

English is the common and unifying language that helps provide unity for the people of the United States.

It is clear.

Preserving and enhancing the role of the English language. We on the United States shall preserve and enhance the role of English as the common and unifying language of America.

We have had a debate about how that applies or whether it doesn’t apply, and we have had mixed debates. I would be impressed if the Inhofe amendment had provided some resources to help those who are limited English speaking to be able to learn English. In the immigration legislation before the Senate, we have the requirement, except those provided in this title, can be naturalized upon their application without understanding the English language, including the ability to read, write or speak the English language. That is what we have said. That is underlined. That is what we are committed to.

Now we have this amendment which is effectively a limiting one. In addition, the Catholic Charities reports 1,000 people on their waiting list and a waiting time of 12 months to learn English. Is there anything in the Inhofe amendment that will help those people? No, there is not.

Mr. INHOFE. If the Senator from California.

Mr. KENNEDY. I yield 3 minutes to the Senator from California.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from California.

Mrs. BOXER. Mr. President, Senator Inhofe and I have spoken about this amendment. As I said to him when he first decided to offer it, is there any question in anybody’s mind that in America we speak English that is the language of the country? If you ask any person in this country, they will say English. If you ask any foreigner, they will say English. So the question is: Why do we have to say that English is the language that we speak in America? Are we that insecure about ourselves? Of course, it is. We are a nation of many who proudly keep their own culture. But, of course, English is our language.

If we have to say that it is your language, fine with me. Fine, I have no problem with it. In other words, if there are those who believe we have to make sure that everyone knows what they already know, fine. But I want to do it in a way that unites us, not in a way that sets up some unintended consequences. Even though my friend from Oklahoma would not agree that there are unintended consequences, I think there are. For example, he said, make five speeches on the floor in Spanish. And he went and he translated them so they appeared in English. Did he go over and did he dub in the videotapes? Because the videotapes will show the speech in Spanish. Is he breaking the rule then by not going up and hiring someone to dub in his words? What if there is an outbreak of a pandemic and it is moving quickly and there is no Federal law saying that you must let people know in a series of different languages to protect our people and we didn’t have time?

What if there is a terrorist attack, God forbid, and we are not even here, and we need to spread the word and there is no law? Can we go in to pass a law. What is going to happen then? And as my friend from Vermont said: Are we going to have to take the State flags out from an exhibit in the basement because many of them have slogans in Latin? There are unintended consequences.

I know my friend tried hard to get us all to unify, but I have to say, if that was what he wanted to do, Senator SALAZAR has put together an excellent amendment. English is the common and unifying language of the United States that helps provide unity for the people of the United States. That is a beautiful statement. It says that English is our common language. But he doesn’t set up an issue in his amendment, which I have read very carefully, that can have the unintended consequence of coming back to bite us. His particular amendment unifies us. I thank him for that very much, coming from a State that has great diversity, the great State of California. I thank him for his hard work.

I yield the remainder of my time to the Senator from Massachusetts.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Oklahoma.

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, again, it is a beautiful statement in opposition to an amendment that doesn’t exist. When the Senator from California talks about an emergency and an emergency evacuation, I previously used the example of California because I suspected she might be coming down. That is, if there is an evacuation or some emergency, it can be done in Chinese so Chinatown can all evacuate. That is not a problem.

Yet when I spoke on the floor in Spanish, the only reason I had to translate it is because that is one of the rules of the Senate. It has nothing to do with this bill. That would not be affected in any way.

I yield to the Senator from South Carolina 8 minutes.

Mr. GRAHAM. Mr. President, this is a debate which you wonder why you are having it the more we talk about it. How did we get here from where we started?

Let me suggest that what Senator INHOFE was trying to do here is important. Senator BINGMAN, my good friend from New Mexico—I disagree with him that this is not that big a deal in terms of its importance to the bill or the debate. I think it is a very important part of the debate. I appreciate Senator INHOFE putting it on the floor of the Senate. We will talk about what I think the amendment does and does not do. Let’s talk about why it is important to the debate.

One thing we have to remember is that the underlying bill that came out of both the Senate and the House—McConnell-Kennedy concept as changed by Hagel-Martinez, which I support and I think is a good solution for a real problem for America, has as one of the provisions that if you will come out of the shadows and you raise your hand and say: Here I am, I am undocumented, the bill allows you a path to citizenship with several requirements before you can ever apply for citizenship. One of those requirements is that you come out of the shadows, stay in the United States for a 6-year period you can vote here, you have to have $2,000 fine. I think that is fair. I don’t think that is being oppressive. That is making people pay for violating the law. It is a punishment that is consistent with a nonviolent offense.

Another condition is that you must learn English. Why did we make that a condition of coming out of the shadows? I think Senator KENNEDY and I have a lot of the provisions of the aisle—the Democratic side of the aisle—understands that to require an illegal immigrant to learn English is not unfair. If we thought it was unfair, we should not have put it in the bill. Why did we put it in the bill? We realize as a body the best you can do for people coming out of the shadows is challenge them and help them learn English so they can be value added to our country and they can survive in our economy.

It is true that the Inhofe amendment doesn’t provide any resources, nor does the Salazar amendment. The reason neither one provides resources to learn English is that we have already done that with my good friend, Senator AL-EXANDER from Tennessee. We put a requirement on the undocumented illegal immigrant to learn English but in a true American fashion. We have put some resources—a $500 grant—on the table which will help meet that obligation.

Here is the important point. If you fail to pass the English proficiency exam, you will be deported. Under the bill, if you fail to pass the English proficiency exam, you probably are the worst advocate in the country for the English language—you can be deported. That is not unfair. That is not too hard. That is just. So if you are willing to make everybody come forward and learn English, and if they fail you are going to deport them, why can we not say as a body that the Government of the United States shall preserve and enhance the role of English as the national language of the United States of America? If we are willing to deport people who do not know English, surely we should stand behind the concept as a nation that it is in our best interest for people to learn English.

Now, as to the unintended consequences, I have looked at this all day, and I am of the belief that this amendment, as written, preserves every legal opportunity avenue available for the Federal Government to interact with the people of the United States by issuing forms and documents in languages other than English. If we are going to deport people, we must have the power to deport. Why do you deport people who fail the English exam, you are getting to deport. We are giving people money to help them pass that exam, but we are not going to waive the requirement that you learn English to be assimilated for the 11 million undocumented workers. I think it would help everybody in this country if the Senate went on record and said that the policy of this Government will be to preserve and enhance the role of English in our society, and do it in such a way that understands that speaking other languages, having a different culture, is not a bad thing but a good thing. There is nothing in this amendment, in my opinion, that does away with any laws that already exist or did exist in the future for a language other than English.

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, the Inhofe language in this amendment... contains two basic parts. In the first part, we can talk about changing a word or two, but we all basically agree on it. We basically agree that to be successful in America, you must speak English. I imagine there are people on the margins of our society who survive without a command of English, but that is where they will remain. It is rare that a person in America reaches a level of success without a mastery of English. As I go about the State of Illinois and the city of Chicago, where so many people do not speak English, it is well understood that learning English is the first step toward becoming an American and becoming successful in America. We don’t argue about that.

There are different ways to characterize English as our language. I like the characterization of my colleague, Senator Salazar, who characterizes English as “our common and unifying language.” It is that; it is our common and unifying language. Senator Salazar uses the words “our national language.” But when you get down to it, there is no argument here about the basic premise. We agree on the basic premise. It is not as if it is just in America. We know that the language of aviation around the world is English. We know that the common universal language in most places on the Internet is English. That is a fact. So when it comes to the first part of Senator Inhofe’s amendment and that first part of Senator Salazar’s amendment, there is no dispute. If the debate ended there, we would have voted a long time ago. But that is not where the debate ends. Senator Inhofe added several sentences beyond that, which now take us into a legal thicket.

He argues that these are technical issues. They are not technical issues. They are issues about a person’s basic rights in America. They are issues that really emanate from landmark legislation, such as the Civil Rights Act of 1964. This is not a technicality; it is the Civil Rights Act of 1964. People literally fought and bled and died for the passage of civil rights legislation. Before we casually cast aside some part of the protection of that law, we should think about it long and hard.

I look at the language Senator Inhofe brings to the floor and, on its face, it appears to be easy to accept:

Unless otherwise authorized or provided by law, no person has a right, entitlement, or obligation to communicate or provide materials in any language other than English. How could that possibly come up? Well, let’s take one illustration. I happen to know that the other day that Senator Inhofe of Oklahoma came to the floor in the midst of a debate on a judicial nominee, Miguel Estrada. The date was November 12, 2003. Senator Inhofe came to the floor and gave his remarks to the Senate in Spanish. I was impressed. He is proficient in Spanish, and I respect his skills in that language, which I do not share. I didn’t understand him. But I respected him for being confident enough to come to the floor and express himself in the Spanish language. And then what happened was that the Congressional Record, which is printed every day from our proceedings, included Senator Inhofe’s speech in Spanish and his translation in English. They are both part of the Record.

But wait. Had Senator Inhofe’s amendment been in effect then—the one he wants us to vote for today—it would have been illegal for our government to print the Congressional Record with Senator Inhofe’s speech in Spanish. There is no statute which creates the right of any Member to come to the floor and speak in any language, but the language which we object to. They do their best to print those speeches, but there is no law authorizing it. So, if Senator Inhofe’s amendment had passed at that time, the speech which he delivered on the floor in Spanish would not have been allowed to be printed and published by the Government in the Congressional Record. Is that what we want to achieve? Is that our goal?

Let me give you one more practical example. Near U.S. Capitol is the famous Potomac River. The Washington Post ran a story 6 months ago. It said that drowning deaths on the Potomac River were down dramatically. Last year, for the first time in 15 years, no one drowned in the Potomac in the Washington area. Park Rangers believe they know why: their new signs that warn swimmers and fishermen about the river’s strong current and undertow. The new signs are printed in English and in the five languages of many new immigrants who use the river to relax with their families or to fish. The Park Service posted the bilingual signs after they noticed that many recent drowning victims were also recent immigrants. So, is making this political statement in the Inhofe amendment so important that we wouldn’t want to provide safety for those who are using the Potomac River? It was considered to be a sensible, rational thing to do: print the sign in both languages, so people will be warned of the danger.

You have heard the arguments here about the potential of avian flu. Wouldn’t we want any dangers relative to avian flu or some other epidemic to be shared in enough languages so that we all would be protected? Yet what Senator Inhofe has done is to create an obstacle for those who are trying to achieve public safety and public health.

Why do we need to do this? Why do we need to change the laws of America? I don’t think we do. I think instead we have an option which is much better.

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, would the Senator yield?

Mr. DURBIN. I would like to yield on your time if you have a question.

Mr. INHOFE. I don’t have time. We were very generous in giving you time, I am sorry to remind you.

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, I will yield for a colloquy for 1 minute, and then I see that the minority leader is here.

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, where in this bill does it say you can’t put those signs up, or where does it say in this bill that my speech that I made in Spanish would not be able to be included in the Congressional Record?

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, I am glad the Senator asked that question because that is exactly the point of what I am saying. It is because of your language in the amendment that states, “Unless authorized or provided by law,” bilingual printing cannot be done, and it would be illegal.

We have done some quick research but there is no statute we have found which says that when Members give speeches on the floor in foreign languages, the government shall print that speech in the foreign language in the Congressional Record. It isn’t there. There is no authorization in law for the printing of your remarks in Spanish. And you tell us in the language of your amendment that if not authorized by law, it cannot be done; it is illegal.

The point I am making is that the Senator started with a very positive and important premise, that English is our common and unifying language and that it should be preserved and enhanced by our Government. But the amendment then went too far. I think I know why. I believe what he is really aiming for is an Executive Order by President Clinton. Some on his side want to get rid of that. They don’t like that Executive Order. But the Executive Order, which is now being followed by our Government as law, says that when it comes to basic Federal services, we will help people who have limited proficiency in English understand their rights and understand their responsibilities. I think that is reasonable. I believe perhaps the Senator from Oklahoma sees it the other way.

I see my leader is here on the floor. Mr. INHOFE. If the gentleman will yield, I think we have a colloquy that goes two ways. Let me just respond.

Mr. DURBIN. I am sorry, I say to the Senator from Oklahoma, but it is my time. I will conclude by saying that in this situation, I urge my colleagues to take a close look at these amendments. I hope they will consider that the Salazar amendment is really the more positive statement that protects the rights of all Americans. It respects our cultures, but it also makes it clear that we have one common and unifying language in this country, and that is English.

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, just one comment.
The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Oklahoma is recognized.

Mr. INHOFE. First of all, I request that the minority leader not use leadership time since he now has 45 more minutes than we have, but that is just a request, Mr. President.

I would say this: We have a very short period of time to wind up. I would have to say that all of these ridiculous examples, such as the one the Senator from Illinois just came up with and the flag examples, have nothing to do with this amendment. It might be some other amendment that was referred to. This merely recognizes and declares English to be our national language. We have exceptions for anything that is in there in law or would refer to anything else that is accepted.

Mr. President, I would like to ask, how much time do we have remaining?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There is 8 minutes 9 seconds remaining.

The leader is recognized.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, English is today, as I speak, the language of America. In spite of the fact that in Nevada, we have the beautiful Sierra Nevada mountains; in Las Vegas, the meadows. In half of our counties, White Pine County, 200 miles from Las Vegas, Ely, a longtime mining community, I can remember going there to the Siaw festival and being taken to the graveyard because in the days of early Kennebec, they had a section in that graveyard for Greeks, for Slavs, for Italians.

Today, as I speak, the language of America is English. Things have changed around the world. If a person wanted to join the Foreign Service, whether they were in England, the United States, or any country in South America, to be in the diplomatic corps of their country, they had to learn French. That was the language of diplomacy. Not anymore. It is English. The world in diplomatic relations around the world is English.

If I am a pilot and I am flying into National Airport, the air traffic controller speaks English. If I am a pilot and am flying into Lima, Peru, the air traffic controller speaks English. If I am a pilot flying into Moscow, the air traffic controller in Moscow speaks English. The language of flying is English. It applies to every country in the world where they have an airport. We all have air traffic controllers. English is the language, and my distinguished friend, the Senator from Oklahoma, knows that. He himself has flown around the world as a pilot.

I have affection for my friend from Oklahoma, but I have the greatest disagreement with him on this amendment. While the intent may not be there, I really believe this amendment is racist. I think it is directed basically to people who speak Spanish.

I have three sons who speak Spanish—fluent Spanish. One of them lived in Argentina for a couple of years, one lived in Ecuador, one lived in Spain. They speak fluent Spanish. I am very proud of these young men. They have acted as interpreters for me when I do radio programs that are in Spanish. I can remember once being so frustrated. I was a guest in a hotel. I had locked myself in a room and there was a lady pushing the cart, and I told her I would like to get back in my room. She did not know what I was saying. She could not converse with me in Spanish. So as luck would have it, here comes one of my sons who could speak Spanish, he spoke to her in Spanish, her whole demeanor changed. She became a different person because, through my son, we could communicate.

I have a young man who works for me, an American citizen, of course, Frederico. Frederico comes from Puerto Rico. We were talking today after this amendment had been laid down, and Frederico said it wasn’t long ago—and these were his words—that a cleaning lady, a janitor, was buying a home in New Mexico, and had been in the United States for 10 years, doing her best to become part of society. She was very concerned, though. She was buying a home. Maybe by some standards the home wasn’t much, but to her, it was a lot. People were so frightened. She had papers; she couldn’t understand them. She asked Frederico if he would help her, and he did that. She was able to buy the home. He also told me that he became ill—very ill—and he didn’t know what was wrong with him. He speaks Spanish, and I don’t think I would embarrass Frederico in saying that even today—he is well educated, a longtime citizen—he still speaks with an accent, a Hispanic accent, for want of a better description. He speaks good English with a slight accent. He was so sick. He didn’t know what was wrong with him, and he was afraid, when he went to the hospital, the emergency room, he was afraid he couldn’t communicate to the health care workers what was wrong with him, and he asked: Is there anybody here who speaks Spanish? And there was—one of the nurses—and he was able to communicate. He felt better and the emergency room personnel felt better because he could explain to them what was wrong.

I believe this amendment cuts the heart out of public health and public safety. I gave you the example of the emergency room. I don’t know all of the reasons that the Executive order was issued by the President. I think one reason is because of public health. It is so important for us, English speakers only, that when someone goes to get help and they are sick, that they are able to tell the health care personnel everything they need to know because it is important to me if, for example, it is a communicable disease.

So I believe we have to understand that this amendment would hurt public health badly. We need people to be able to take their children, when they are sick, to a facility, whether it is for mumps that is going around now or whether, Heaven forbid, it is avian flu at some later time.

I have served in the Congress of the United States with Jim Inhofe for many years, and we disagree on issues on occasion. But even though I believe that amendment isn’t in any way suggest that Jim Inhofe is a racist. I don’t believe that at all. I just believe that this amendment has, with some people, that connotation—not that he is a racist but that the amendment is. So I want to make sure the record is spread because that I have only the strongest, as I indicated early on, affection for Jim Inhofe, the senior Senator from Oklahoma.

Public safety. Mr. President, one of the earmarks I got a number of years ago in our appropriations bill was for the Las Vegas Metropolitan Police Department because they needed police officers who were fluent in Spanish. Why? Because we have a large influx of Spanish speakers coming to southern Nevada. Why? Because the sheriff of Clark County believed he could do a better job with law enforcement if he had people who could communicate. And that is true. That worked out very well. I believe funding for police could be affected if this amendment if it passes.

Domestic violence is a perfect example. There is a lot of domestic violence, and we need people who can speak the language that people understand.

Reporting crimes—it is so important that our police departments have the ability to understand when people report crimes. In Nevada, 6 percent of the population is Asian American. We have now in Las Vegas a very large, burgeoning Chinese-American community. One of my former employees went from here to the district attorney’s office and is now working for a private individual and/or company, building a big hotel in what we call Las Vegas Chinatown.

I have been there. A lot of people there are not really not really speaking English. We have to do everything we can, whether people Chinese or whether they speak Spanish, to have them assimilated into our society. It is good for all of us. One of my concerns is that this will turn us back in the wrong direction.

I have said before, my wife is Jewish. Her father was born in Russia. He learned to speak English as a little boy. He spoke good English. His parents were not. We know what happened in years past. I have heard Senator Leahy, the ranking member of the Judiciary Committee, state on many occasions that there were signs in his State of Vermont: No Catholics or Irish. Many people went from there to Germany. And the amendment is very discriminatory.

I think this turns us in the wrong direction. I think we should make sure that people who are 911 operators can immediately switch to somebody who can speak Spanish. I think what I did, to get a little extra money there for the metropolitan police department so we could have people who were fluent in Spanish, I think that is the right way to go. I am not too sure this amendment wouldn’t stop that, or certainly slow it down.

Today, as I speak, the language of America is English. We want people to integrate into our society by understanding English. There are tools you need to do this no matter what their native language. This amendment takes some of those tools away, and we need all of those tools.

The fastest growing component of adult populations in America today is English as a second language. This will slow that down. This amendment impacts English speakers, reporting of crimes, reporting of diseases, involvement in commerce. Next, is it going to impact upon the right to vote?

This amendment is divisive. We should be here to unify our country, not divide it by ethnicity or language differences. I rise in strong opposition to this amendment. Everyone who speaks with an accent knows that they need to learn English as fast as they can. Success in America means the ability to speak English. That is the way it is now. We don’t need this amendment. Speaking English is critical to the functioning of anyone in our country. It is the language of our Government, of our Nation, and as I have indicated before, air traffic controllers and diplomacy. This amendment, I believe, is unconstitutional. It raises serious concerns that American citizens could lose some of their rights.

This amendment directly conflicts with several provisions of Federal law. I believe, that guarantee the right of non-English-speaking students to learn English in our public schools. Does this amendment apply to a Presidential order, an Executive order? Does it apply to a city ordinance? A county ordinance? A State statute? What does it apply to? Federal law.

This amendment conflicts with provisions of Federal law that require language materials or assistance to be provided to voters in some areas of non-English languages, where there is evidence of educational discrimination resulting in high illiteracy and low registration turnout.

One of the problems we are having all over America is children dropping out of school. This amendment will not help that. Do we benefit by children dropping out of school? Of course not. Don’t we help voter turnout? Don’t we want people to vote? This is going to slow that down, people asking to register to vote.

There has been substantial evidence of harassment, intimidation, even violence against language minority voters. This provision makes a blatant violation of the 14th and 15th amendments and criminal provisions of the Voting Rights Act more likely to occur. Look at history. In Nevada, Chinese who couldn’t over to build the railroad, the transcontinental railroad, were treated like animals. There were laws passed, State laws, county ordinances, local ordinances promulgated against the Chinese. Those laws which were discriminatory did not help our country. They hurt our country. This amendment is not going to help our country, it is going to hurt our country.

By the very terms of this amendment, persons accused of crimes would be denied the ability, I believe, to receive information material in their native language to assist in their own defense. This clearly violates the due process clause of the fifth amendment of our Constitution. I have talked about public health. This amendment will stand in the way of efforts made to facilitate the transmission of vital information necessary for the receipt of health care and public safety, including informed consent by non-English-speaking patients.

Doctors need this. Health care workers need this. This undermines our Nation’s public health and safety.

The foregoing things I have talked about are not new. There are, many more areas, public service and public safety, that will be negatively impacted by this amendment, hurting all Americans in the process. I hope we all support civic integration, but this amendment not only does not support it, it is going to slow that down, people asking to vote.

Why don’t we spend more money so we can educate more people who want to learn English? We are short of money. We have programs that are cut every day. That is the way it is in Nevada, and around the country. These is where we should be directing our efforts.

That brings people together. That is good for all of us. This does not bring people together. It makes it far more likely that we will end up with civic exclusion, including the denial of rights they should have to millions of U.S. citizens.

I hope we reject this amendment. It is bad policy. It is un-American. It turns back the clock on the substantial gains that language minority citizens have made. There will be a resounding vote against this.

I have no problem going home today and telling the people of the State of Nevada: English is the language of America. We are not going to change that with this amendment. This is divisive, it is mean spirited. I think it is the wrong way to go.

Mr. President, I also want to express my appreciation to the manager of the bill and Senator Inhofe for giving me extra time. We had not enough time over here, and it was gracious of him to allow us the extra time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time? The Senator from Colorado.

Mr. SALAZAR. Mr. President may I inquire as to how much time is left?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There remains 12 minutes 45 seconds.

Mr. SALAZAR. How much is left on the other side?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. They have 8 minutes 7 seconds.

Mr. SALAZAR. Mr. President, I thank Senator Reid and state his eloquence today, in terms of pointing out issues and concerns with respect to the Inhofe amendment, is very much appreciated.

I want to reiterate to my colleagues on the floor of the Senate today that I have asked my colleagues to vote against the amendment that will unify America, that will say that English is in fact the language of the land and that we will work to make sure English is the common language of America. I am also have to ask my colleagues to vote against the amendment that Senator Inhofe because I am concerned about the unintended consequences that will flow from the proposal which Senator Inhofe has offered.

Let me say there can be no doubt at all that English is, in fact, the unifying language of America. In my own State of Colorado, as I look at some of the statistics on the number of people who are waiting in long lines to learn English, it is an incredibly long line. In the five-county Denver-Metro area, adult ESL programs working with the Department of Education have 5,000 people enrolled in those programs. They have a waiting list that is up to 2 months, because there are so many people in the Denver metropolitan area who want to learn English.

This debate is not about the endangerment of English in America today. People in America understand that we conduct our business in English, that we conduct our business in the Senate today in English. The people of America understand that the keystone to opportunity is learning the English language, and you need not look any further than the number of people who are enrolled in educational classes, trying to learn English to know they understand that very fact.

The concern with the amendment of Senator Inhofe is that you are going to have unintended consequences that will flow from the language of the amendment. Many of my colleagues have spoken about those unintended consequences. I want to focus on one particular aspect of that which I find to be very un-American and that is the fact that when you allow for discrimination to occur on the basis of national origin, on the basis of race, on the basis of gender, on the basis of language, that we are taking a step back in the progress that America has made. None of us wants to revisit what has happened in the history of America as we have moved forward as a nation to become a much more inclusive nation and a nation that celebrates the diversity that makes us a strong nation. None of us wants to revisit the latter half of the last century, when segregation was sanctioned under the law until 1954, and until the Civil Rights Act. None of us want to move back into those dark days of American history.

Yet the fact remains today we still have some of that discrimination that exists in our society. We have example after example, personal examples we can cite about people who have been the victims of language discrimination. When we elevate one language, in the manner that Senator INHOFE has attempted to do in his amendment, above every other language, what will happen as an unintended consequence of his amendment is that you will usher in, in my judgment, a new era of language discrimination in America. I do not believe that ushering in a new era of language discrimination in America is something that will be helpful to us as we struggle in this 21st century to make sure that we maintain the strongest America, the strongest Nation possible in our world.

I ask people, those of you who are concerned about language discrimination in America, to vote against the amendment of Senator INHOFE on that point.

Let me conclude by saying that the amendment we have proposed today talks about the importance of English and the importance of unifying America through the English language. I believe we can work together. I believe that will require the immigrants to whom we are trying to address the immigration reform package to learn English. It is important that they learn English.

As I conclude my portion of this discussion, I think back to a mother and a father who in the 1940s were part of that greatest generation of generations fighting for the freedom of America—a mother in World War II as a soldier, and a mother at the age of 20 speaking Spanish but coming to Washington to work in the Pentagon. They were victims of language discrimination. That generation was a victim of language discrimination. They would have had maybe the same opportunities I have had if they had been part of an America that fully understood they would be treated the same as those who speak languages other than English. But I do not want us to go back in the history of our country to a place where we are darkened again by that discrimination which existed in the 1940s or the 1950s.

My fear is that the amendment that my good friend from Oklahoma is offering today will open the door once again to that history of discrimination, which I find very pernicious.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields the floor?

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, I yield 5 minutes to the Senator from Tennessee.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Tennessee is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. ALEXANDER. I thank the Senator. I thank the President.

Mr. President, I have been listening to the Democratic leader and colleagues struggle to come up with some reasons why they declare that English is our national language. They are having a very difficult time doing that. In fact, what they have been doing is arguing all sorts of unusual ways against an amendment that no one has proposed.

Let me say what Senator INHOFE’s amendment does. It declares English as the national language of the United States. What does that mean? In essence what we want, speak whatever we want, but it is our national language. Specifically, the Inhofe amendment says it doesn’t prevent those receiving Government services in another language from doing so, whether authorized by law or by Executive order or by regulation.

That is No. 1. The Salazar amendment, in contrast, does not say English is our national language. That is the first point.

The second thing is the Inhofe amendment would say that those who are illegally here, who might become legal under this law and get on a path to citizenship, would have to actually learn English rather than just enroll in school. Anyone can sign up and not learn English. Senator SALAZAR’s amendment doesn’t do that.

A third reason Senator INHOFE’s amendment is better, in my opinion, is it has some excellent language that would improve the citizenship test that new citizens take, including the key ideas, key documents, and key events of our history that we all agree on, and which we voted unanimously on a couple of years ago in another piece of legislation.

If you believe English is our national language and don’t want to interfere with any existing law or right, if you want new citizens who might be illegally here today to learn English as a part of that path to citizenship, and if you want a better American history test for new citizens, the Inhofe amendment is preferable.

I think a lot of this debate is about unity versus diversity. That is the struggle. It is a real struggle in this country.

Some on the other side of the aisle said this is unimportant. It might be to them, but it is not to me, nor is it to most Americans. I think it is at the center of this whole discussion about what we are doing with immigration. If the American people got any whiff that we thought having a national motto or a national anthem or a national pledge of allegiance or a national language was unimportant to us, I think they would throw us all out because most people realize that our diversity is a magnificent strength—we are a land of immigrants—but our greater strength is that we have turned that all into one country.

Irans is diverse, and Bosnia is diverse. Are they better places for that? They haven’t been able to unite themselves into one country. How did we do that? Partly because of these unifying principles which we debate here with respect for one another, and through our national language.

No matter what they say, the opponents of this amendment are reluctant to say that English is our national language. If they were not, they would vote for the Inhofe amendment. First, it declares that if you have any rights now, you will still have them after the Inhofe amendment passes. It requires those who are here illegally but want to stay citizens to learn English rather than just enroll in school. And it beeps up the U.S. history requirement in a way the Senate has previously approved.

The Democratic leader talked about how nice it would be for someone to call 9–1–1 and get a Spanish-speaking voice. It wouldn’t have been so nice to the 200,000 new citizens from Asia who came in last year because they do not speak Spanish. That is why we have a common language.

My goal is that every child in America be bilingual or even multilingual. But one of those must be to learn English, and every child should learn it as soon as possible. We have a common language because we are a land of immigrants. It is our national language.

A vote for the Inhofe amendment is a vote for our national language. It is a vote to leave everyone’s rights to receive services in other languages exactly where they are today. It is a vote to say that those who might be here illegally today but who seek to become citizens must learn English, and it is a vote to beef up our U.S. history tests which are required of those coming into this country and applying for citizenship.

For generations, we have helped people in this country learn English. We do not want to do that in the underlying bill with new $500 grants. It should be a simple statement to say that English is our national language, that we have a national motto, a national pledge, a national oath.

Then why struggle to come up with reasons not to make English our national language?

I yield the floor.

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, I think it is very obvious what is going on here. It has been 23 years since we have had a chance to vote on it. It probably will be the last time most Members—maybe all of the Members in this Chamber—will have a chance to vote to make English the national language.

Those who are offering this amendment today don’t want English to be the national language. They use the word “common,” the common language.

Those opposing this amendment want an entitlement to have the Federal Government provide for language, services, and materials. They can do it now. If you pass this bill, they can still do it. It is just not mandatory. It is not something that can’t be done. It doesn’t have to be done. They say that national origin equals to language. Their claims are consistently refuted by the Federal Government, the most recent one being in 2001, the Sandoval case.

The opponents of this don’t want people learning English but instead being served in foreign languages.
I think it is interesting that the word “racist” was used. I just wish the people here knew what has happened in the past and what I have been involved in in my State of Oklahoma. This is not the time to repeat what I said earlier. But the bottom line is I received the letter given by the Hispanic community in the city of Tulsa. I started the first Hispanic community commission, and it is now a model for the Nation.

Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, I thank the Senator from Colorado for his amendment. He is a Senator who continues to demonstrate his interest and ability in bringing us together rather than seeking to drive wedges between us. We can all agree that English should be the common language of the United States. His is a good suggestion for an alternative that I will support. In many local communities and States, it may well be useful and helpful for the Government to reach out to language minorities. Greater participation and information are good things. We should not be mandating artificial and shortsighted restrictions on State and local government.

I have spoken in the course of this debate about my belief that immigrants should learn the English language. In my experience, most new Americans want to learn our language and make efforts to do so as quickly as possible. The bill that we are debating calls on immigrants to learn English as one of the several steps they must take before they can earn citizenship. I certainly understand why the Mexican American Legal Defense and Education Fund, the Asian American Justice Center, the Lawyer’s Committee for Civil Rights, the National Council of La Raza, the National Association of Latino Elected and Appointed Officials Educational Fund and others have been concerned about the Inhofe amendment. I, of course, strongly support the efforts of the Senator from Colorado to find a common ground to unite us rather than divide us and strongly support his alternative amendment.

Ms. MIKULSKI. Mr. President, I rise today in support of Senator SALAZAR’s amendment. English is one of the common bonds that bring Americans together. Just as a new immigrant must learn the monetary currency of a country, a new immigrant must learn the social currency, the English language. Immigrants need to learn English so they can be successful and contribute to their new country. That is why current law already states that anyone becoming a U.S. citizen is required to learn English.

Yet as immigrants are learning English, we need to be able to provide them with critical information in a language they can understand. What if there was an avian flu outbreak? What if there was another terrorist attack? Or a hurricane? Our first priority is to make sure they are safe in any language.

English can bring us together it shouldn’t pull us apart. We must remember that our country was founded by immigrants from around the world. Their contributions to this Nation have made it great. My own great-grandparents were immigrants from Poland. They had the desire to seek a better life for them and their children is part of the American dream.

It is ridiculous. I don’t think people are going to buy into it.

I agree with my friend from Tennessee. If they are looking, searching for things to object to, they are not going to find it in this bill.

The racist thing, it is interesting. If you will look at polling data in 2002, the Kaiser Family Foundation poll says 91 percent of foreign-born Latino immigrants agree that learning English is essential to succeed in the United States.

Just 2 months ago, the Zogby poll found it 84 percent of Americans, including—this is significant—77 percent of Hispanics believe that English should be the national language. That is only 2 months ago—77 percent of the Hispanics.

I think it is an insult to the Spanish to say we are not going to have English as a national language because they are not capable of operating and succeeding in a country like this. They are dead wrong.

In terms of people criticizing us for wanting to make this the national language, 51 countries have done it. Isn’t that interesting? Fifty-one countries have made English their national language, except for us. Twenty-seven States out of fifty States already have it on a State basis.

When you go to your townhall meeting, it is not even a close call. This comes up every time I go to a townhall meeting in Oklahoma. Why don’t we have English as a national language? How do you decide that? It’s clear. Now, I hope they understand why, if they have seen this debate today, and the dialogue that is going on, pulling out of the air very eloquent statements that might be referring to some bill someone may want to introduce someday, or some amendment. It is certainly not this amendment.

I look at this and wonder, and I shake my head. What have you been reading? It has nothing to do with this. Our amendment does not prohibit using our services or any other Government services in languages other than English. It doesn’t prohibit it at all; it allows it. It doesn’t prescribe and say you have to do it. There is no prohibition of giving Medicare services or any other Government services in a language other than English. This amendment simply says there is no right unless Congress has explicitly provided that right.

If you read page 2 of the bill, it very specifically says “unless otherwise authorized by law.” That is the exception. In every one of these examples that have come up—from the Senator from California, the Senator from New Mexico, the Senator from Illinois, they fall into that category.

This is going to answer the question for a lot of people out there saying: Why can’t we have this as our national language?

It has been 23 years since we had our last vote. You can’t have it both ways. I wouldn’t want anyone here to be under the misconception that they could vote for my amendment and then turn around and vote for the Salazar amendment because that would completely negate our amendment. This is your last chance to vote to make English the national language. When we listen to the National Anthem: O, say can you see, by the dawn’s early light . . . bombs bursting in air . . . gave proof through the night that the flag was still there . . . the land of the free, and the home of the brave— that is not an official anthem, that is not a common anthem, that is the national anthem.

This is our last chance to have English as the national language for America.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, I will take 1 minute.

Patriotism doesn’t belong to a political party or any individual. The Salazar language is very clear. English is the common unifying language of the United States. It helps provide unity for the American people, preserving and enhancing the role of the English language. It couldn’t be clearer.

Let us not distort and misrepresent the amendment that is before us.

I ask unanimous consent that it be in order to ask for the yeas and nays on the Salazar amendment and the Inhofe amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. KENNEDY. I ask for the yeas and nays on the Inhofe amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There is a sufficient second. The question is on agreeing to the amendment. The clerk will call the roll.

The bill clerk called the roll.

Mr. MCCONNELL. The following Senators were necessarily absent: the Senator from Kentucky (Mr. BUNNING) and the Senator from Florida (Mr. MARTINEZ).

Further, if present and voting the Senator from Kentucky (Mr. BUNNING) and the Senator from Florida (Mr. MARTINEZ) would have voted “yea.”

Mr. DURBIN. I announce that the Senator from West Virginia (Mr. ROCKEFELLER) is necessarily absent.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there any other Senators in the Chamber desiring to vote?

The result was announced—yeas 63, nays 34, as follows:

[Roll Call Vote No. 131 Leg.]

YEAS—63

Alexander                        Baucus
Allen                            Bennett
Baucus                          Brownback
Burns                           Burr

[End of Roll Call Vote]
At the request of Senator from Kentucky (Mr. BUNNING) and the clerk will call the roll.

The amendment (No. 4073), as modified, was agreed to.

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. SPECTER. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, we are now ready to proceed with an amendment by Senator Clinton and a side-by-side amendment by Senator Cornyn, with a half hour equally divided. At the conclusion of those 2 votes, we will discuss the business for the remainder of the evening.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, we intend to support that as soon as we get a chance to see the Cornyn amendment. May we see that before the Senator makes that request? Is that possible?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment (No. 4073), as modified, is necessarily absent.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, while they are looking at that amendment, the plans will be that in about 30 to 45 minutes we will have 2 rollcall votes, and then we will keep amendments going, and we will be voting tonight. We will do at least several other amendments. I will let the chairman speak to that.

The amendment is as follows:

The amendment, No. 4073, is necessarily absent.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, what is now before the Senate?

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. MCCONNELL). The following Senators were absent: the Senator from Colorado, Mr. SALAZAR.

The yeas and nays have been ordered. Further, if present and voting, the yeas will be determined by an electronic voting device, and the nays by a count of those present.

The amendment is as follows:

(A) STATE CRIMINAL ALIEN ASSISTANCE PROGRAM ACCOUNT—

Mrs. CLINTON. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senators SALAZAR and SCHUMER be added, along with Senators OBAMA and BOXER, as co-sponsors of this amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mrs. CLINTON. Mr. President, as has become abundantly clear from the debate on the floor, immigration is a Federal responsibility. As this debate has shown, for too long the Federal Government has neglected its duty.

My amendment addresses one of the clearest examples of this neglect because our failed national immigration policy has left our State and local governments to bear the brunt of the cost of immigration. Our schools, our hospitals, our other State and local services are being strained.

Obviously, this is a problem in many communities and not just in border communities. Throughout our country and in my State, there are counties and municipalities that are covering the costs of dealing with education, health care, and law enforcement without adequate or any Federal reimbursements to help local and State governments to fend for themselves. They should not be left to bear these costs alone because it is not they who are making Federal immigration policy.

This amendment does several things. It helps finally provide adequate support for State and local governments. How? Well, it not only appropriates the State Criminal Alien Assistance Program funding to our States, but it establishes a funding formula. This money is allocated to our States in accordance with a formula that gives priority to States that need the money. In my State, 70 percent of those funds be passed on to local governments.

Money is allocated to our States in accordance with a funding formula based on the size and recent growth of the State’s noncitizen population. The State must then pass the funds on to local governments and other entities that need the money for reimbursements to the extent that would not be funded, because the amendment does not appropriate any new funds or impose any new fees on immigrants. Funding is drawn solely from existing fees already in the underlying bill.

The underlying bill creates a State impact assistance account at the Treasury, but it does not direct any money into that account. It is an empty account with no State purpose. My amendment would direct certain fees that already exist in the underlying bill and then redirect that money to provide for the disbursement of the collected funds to State and local government.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, the amendment directs this $200 million into the federal immigration enforcement account. Additionally, the underlying bill imposes a $2,000 fee for undocumented immigrants to participate in the path to legalization program spelled out in title VI of the bill, but imposes an additional fee that is left to the Department of Homeland Security to determine later. Eighty percent of these funds go to border security; 20 percent go to processing and administrative costs related to the undocumented.

My amendment does not touch the 80 percent going to border security. Instead, it takes half of the processing fees—in other words, 10 percent of the $2,000 fee and the yet-to-be, unspecified fine by DHS—and redirects that money to provide for the disbursement of the collected funds to State and local governments.

Each year, the SCAA program is underfunded. A 2005 GAO study documents that State and local governments get only 25 percent of their costs reimbursed through this program. A report indicates that my State of New York received even less—21 percent of their costs were compensated in 2002 and 24 percent in 2003. The remaining 75 percent of the money collected from the fees deposited in the State Impact Assistance Act of 1996, as amended, is sent to the Department of Homeland Security to pay for the costs of providing health and education services to noncitizens. This money is allocated among the States in accordance with a funding formula based on the size and recent growth of the States’ noncitizen population.

Now, to ensure that the funds actually get to the counties and cities and don’t sit in State governments, my amendment also requires that at least 70 percent of those funds be passed on to localities within 180 days of the States receiving the money. States can retain the remaining 30 percent to help offset their own costs related to immigration.

I think this amendment helps us fix a problem I care a lot about as I travel around my State. Our local communities have a tradition in New York of being very welcoming. We are a State that is not only built on immigrants but very proud of that, as the Statue of Liberty so eloquently says. But the costs of immigration have steadily increased, and the Federal Government’s neglect has strained local and State government budgets. I think if we pass any kind of immigration reform and we don’t take into account the strains on the budget on State and local governments, we will not have done our job.

This amendment also helps State and local governments not only recoup some of their expenditures, but it underlines a message to communities that they are working together, they welcome people who work hard and who make a contribution and will be on the path to earned legalization.

So I hope this amendment will be supported. It has support from the National Immigration Law Center, the National League of Cities, the National Association of Counties, and the National Conference of State Legislatures.

I think our laws can be both fair and strict. I think we can have laws which don’t shut the doors of America to people who want to make a contribution and at the same time don’t really provide disincentives to communities to be part of that welcoming tradition.

Balancing all of the interests in this debate is not easy, but I appreciate the efforts that are being made on this floor to address this difficult problem. I hope we will also send a message to local communities that we are here to help them because they don’t set immigration policy, they don’t enforce immigration laws, but they are often left holding the bag for the costs that flow because we haven’t done our job.

So I hope that this amendment finds favor in this body and we send a message to our local executives and legislatures around our country that we are going to send them some help to be part of a comprehensive immigration solution.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Texas is recognized.

Mr. CORNYN. Mr. President, I congratulate the Senator from New York on her amendment. One of the greatest scams the Federal Government has ever imposed upon taxpayers across the country is unfunded mandates, and education costs and health care costs imposed by the Federal Government on local taxpayers without reimbursement is not only unfair, it is a scandal.

The estimated annual costs to hospitals and other emergency providers of health care for the undocumented immigrants or illegal aliens, which is mandated but not reimbursed by the Federal Emergency Medical Treatment and Labor Act, is $1.45 billion a year. According to congressional and private research, the annual cost to just 24 border counties in my State and in New Mexico and California exceeds $200 million a year. Texans spend more than $4 billion annually on education for the children of illegal immigrants and their U.S.-born siblings. The percent of Texas schoolchildren in K through 12 are children of undocumented immigrants. Texas health care expenditures for illegal aliens are more than $520 million a year.

All States—New York, Texas, and all 48 other States—bear the burden of unfunded mandates providing for the health and education of undocumented immigrants because we have failed to enforce our immigration laws. Again, the Federal Government is twice culpable. No. 1, it imposes these costs on local taxpayers and local government; and No. 2, the very reason why they are incurred is because of the Federal Government’s failure to secure our borders and enforce our immigration laws.

The Federal Government requires, under the IMTALA act, that hospitals treat every person, irrespective of their immigration status. But then Congress fails to secure the border and our local hospitals have become overrun. So while the Government requires hospitals to treat everyone, the Government then fails in its own responsibility to secure the borders or reimburse health care providers for carrying out their federally mandated obligations.

The bill before the Senate fails to reimburse States for the costly burden placed upon their health care system and education system by undocumented immigrants. For example, recent reports are that 70 percent of the children born at Parkland Hospital in Dallas, TX, are born to undocumented immigrants.

What will my amendment do? The current Senate bill does not reimburse State and local governments for health care and education costs related to the millions of undocumented immigrants. While the underlying bill creates a State impact assistance account for future temporary workers, it is an unfunded account. The Cornyn amendment would impose a surcharge on any illegal alien who applies for legal status under this bill.

AMENDMENT NO. 4038

Mr. President, at this time I ask unanimous consent to carry the current amendment and to call up amendment No. 4038 and ask for its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senate from Texas (Mr. CORNYN) proposes an amendment numbered 4038.

Mr. CORNYN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the amendment be agreed to and the amendment be printed in the Record.

AMENDMENT NO. 4038

Mr. President, at this time I ask unanimous consent that the amendment be agreed to and the amendment be printed in the Record.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: To require aliens seeking adjustment of status under section 245B of the Immigration and Nationality Act or Deferred Mandatory Departure status under section 245C of such Act to pay a supplemental application fee, which shall be used to reimburse State Impact Assistance Account established under section 286(x).

On page 370, line 21, strike ‘‘this subsection’’ and insert ‘‘paragraphs (2) and (3)’’.

On page 371, between lines 14 and 15, insert the following:

‘‘(G) STATE IMPACT ASSISTANCE FEE.—

‘‘(A) IN GENERAL.—In addition to any other amounts required to be paid under this subsection, an alien shall submit, at the time the alien files an application under this section, a State impact assistance fee equal to—

‘‘(i) $750 for the principal alien; and

‘‘(ii) $190 for the spouse and each child described in subsection (k)(2).’’

‘‘(B) USE OF FEE.—The fees collected under subparagraph (A) shall be deposited in the State Impact Assistance Account established under section 286(x).’’

On page 389, between lines 6 and 7, insert the following:

‘‘(G) STATE IMPACT ASSISTANCE FEE.—

‘‘(A) IN GENERAL.—In addition to any other amounts required to be paid under this subsection, an alien seeking Deferred Mandatory Departure status shall submit a State impact assistance fee equal to $750.

‘‘(B) USE OF FEE.—The fees collected under subparagraph (A) shall be deposited in the State Impact Assistance Account established under section 286(x).’’

On page 395, after line 23, add the following:

(e) STATE IMPACT ASSISTANCE ACCOUNT.—Section 286 (8 U.S.C. 1356) is amended by inserting after subsection (w) the following:

‘‘(1) ESTABLISHMENT.—There is established in the general fund of the Treasury a separate account, which shall be known as the ‘‘State Impact Assistance Account.’’

‘‘(2) SOURCE OF FUNDS.—Notwithstanding any other provision under this Act, there shall be deposited as offsetting receipts into this State Impact Assistance Account all State impact assistance fees collected under section 245B(m)(5) and subsections (j)(3) and (k)(3) of section 245C.

‘‘(3) USE OF FUNDS.—Amounts deposited into the State Impact Assistance Account may only be used to carry out the State Impact Assistance Grant Program established under paragraph (1) of this subsection. . . .’’

On page 395, after line 23, add the following:

(f) STATE IMPACT ASSISTANCE GRANT PROGRAM.—

‘‘(1) ESTABLISHMENT.—The Secretary of Health and Human Services shall annually allocate the amounts available in the State Impact Assistance Account among the States as follows:

‘‘(A) NONCITIZEN POPULATION.—Eighty percent of such amounts shall be allocated so that each State receives the greater of—

‘‘(i) $500,000; or

‘‘(ii) after adjusting for allocations under subclause (1), the percentage of the amount to be distributed under this clause that is equal to the noncitizen resident population of the State divided by the noncitizen resident population of all States, based on the most recent data available from the Bureau of the Census.

(ii) HIGH GROWTH RATES.— Twenty percent of such amounts shall be allocated among the 20 States with the largest growth rates in noncitizen resident population, as determined by the Secretary of Health and Human Services, so that each such State receives 80 percent of the amount distributed under this clause that is equal to—

(i) the growth rate in the noncitizen resident population of the State during the most recent 5-year period for which data is available from the Bureau of the Census; divided by

(ii) the average growth rate in noncitizen resident population for the 20 States during such 3-year period.

(iii) LEGISLATIVE APPROPRIATIONS.— The use of grant funds allocated to States under this paragraph shall be subject to appropriation by the legislature with the terms and conditions under this paragraph.

(C) FUNDING FOR LOCAL GOVERNMENT.—

(i) DISTRIBUTION CRITERIA.— Grant funds received by States under this paragraph shall be distributed to units of local government based on need and function.

(ii) MINIMUM DISTRIBUTION.— Except as provided in clause (ii), a State shall distribute not less than 30 percent of the grant funds received under this paragraph to units of local government not later than 180 days after receiving such funds.

(iii) EXCEPTION.— If an eligible unit of local government that is available to carry out the activities described in subparagraph (D) cannot be found in a State, the State does not need to comply with clause (ii).

(iv) CIVIL RIGHTS.— Any grant funds distributed by a State to a unit of local government that remain unexpended as of the end of the grant period shall revert to the State for redistribution to another unit of local government.

(D) USE OF FUNDS.— States and units of local government shall use grant funds received under this paragraph to provide health services, educational services, and related services to noncitizens within their jurisdiction through contracts with eligible service providers, including—

(i) health care providers;

(ii) local educational agencies; and

(iii) charitable and religious organizations.

(E) STATE DEFINED.— In this paragraph, the term ‘State’ means each of the several States of the United States, the District of Columbia, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, Guam, American Samoa, and the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands.

(F) CERTIFICATION.— In order to receive a payment under this section, the State shall provide the Secretary of Health and Human Services with a certification that the State’s proposed uses of the fund are consistent with (D).

(G) ANNUAL REPORT.— The Secretary of Health and Human Services shall inform each State annually of the amount of funds available to each State under the Program.

Mr. CORNYN. The problem is this, Mr. President: Under the current bill, about 80 percent of the $2,000 paid by undocumented immigrants at the time they apply for green card or legal permanent residency, 80 percent of that $2,000 fee goes for border security. Ten percent of it goes to administering the process provided for under the underlying bill and another 10 percent for other uncovered administrative costs.

In other words, there is an 80-20 split of the $2,000 that are paid by undocumented immigrants at the time they regularize their status. In contrast with the Clinton amendment—the Senator from New York provides essentially an 80, 10, and 10 split, with 80 percent of the money going for border security, 10 percent going to a State im-

Mr. SCHUMER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that we proceed to roll call votes on the Clinton amendment at 6:20, to be followed by a roll call vote on the Cornyn amendment, with the Cornyn amendment being a 10-minute vote.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The Senator from New York will now have the floor. Mr. SCHUMER. I was just going to speak for 5 minutes on the amendment that Senator CLINTON and I and others have introduced. Mr. KENNEDY. Can I get 30 seconds at the very end?

Mr. SCHUMER. I would ask for 5 minutes. I ask unanimous consent I speak for 5 minutes, and Senator KEN- NEDY proceed for 1 minute immediately thereafter.

Mr. SPECTER. Reserving the right to object, how much time does Senator CORNYN have left?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There is no division of time.

Mr. SCHUMER. I will take 3½ minutes. I don’t mind.

Mr. CORNYN. I was under the impression there was 15 minutes allotted to Senator CLINTON and 15 minutes to me, a total of 30 minutes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. That agreement was not entered.

Mr. SPECTER. We are talking about how much Senator CORNYN needs and how much Senator SCHUMER needs. We could delay the votes a bit. How much time does Senator CORNYN need?

Mr. CORNYN. I would be happy with 5 more minutes total.

Mr. SPECTER. I amend the unanimous consent request to give 5 more minutes to Senator CORNYN, 5 minutes to Senator SCHUMER, and that would bring us to 6:25, at which point I ask unanimous consent that we have roll call votes on Senator CLINTON, then a roll call vote on Senator CORNYN, with the second vote to be 10 minutes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The Senator from New York is recognized.

Mr. SCHUMER. Mr. President, I rise in support of the amendment sponsored by my colleague, Senator CLINTON, co-sponsored by a number of us on this side. I commend her efforts to address a very important component of the immigration debate.

This amendment is going to provide some much needed and overdue relief to States and localities that have had to bear a disproportionate share of the burden when they have been host to a large number of undocumented immigrants. Too many of our State and local governments are overwhelmed and underfinanced. As the number of undocumented immigrants goes up in a community, so do the costs of services that local governments provide to them—including increased costs for law enforcement, health care, and education.
We need to make sure that while we not drown out our local governments. Sure the flood of new immigrants does reform, we in the Federal Government that is not fair. Come at the expense of local taxpayers often have to bear the financial consequences, and they should not be left to shoulder. This is not just a problem on the southern border. In Suffolk County on Long Island there are about 40,000 undocumented immigrants. Total estimates for all of Long Island are about 100,000. In Suffolk, the annual cost of meeting the needs of undocumented immigrants has been estimated to be $24 million. Of course, property taxes are too high. The counties are strapped for cash. This amendment will offer some much needed relief to localities such as Suffolk County that have had to go it alone and end up lonesome. And it will not require finding new sources of revenue. It will take some of the fees already in the bill and give the bulk of that money for reimbursement of health care and educational costs paid out by the States and localities, and the rest goes to SCAAP, to pay for the costs of detaining noncitizens, a program I have been much involved with in the past. These funds will be targeted toward States and localities that have been hit the hardest in their noncitizen populations, and we are going to get the money from the States to their localities fast because they are feeling the strain now. States will have to get most of the money to the localities within 180 days once the money is allocated.

Taxpayers in our country are already being pushed to the limit. They didn't cause the problems, but they far too often have to bear the financial consequences, and they should not be left holding the bag.

This financial assistance will not solve every problem associated with undocumented immigration, but it will go a long way toward lifting the financial strain in our States and localities all over the country.

I yield. If my colleague from Massachusetts wants, I yield my remaining time to my colleague from Massachusetts.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator has 1 minute 40 seconds.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, I fail to understand why it poses an unreasonable burden upon the 10 million or 11 million or 12 million undocumented immigrants who currently live in the United States in violation of our immigration laws to pay a modest fee as part of the quid pro quo for their regularization when, in fact, they have been imposing unfunded burdens on local taxpayers and local hospital districts and counties and cities for the entire time they have been present in the United States. No one is talking about being punitive or being unnecessarily harsh. But fair is fair. To suggest that it is not fair for them to pay a fee really stands in stark contrast to the fact that these same individuals, when they apply for legal permanent residency or a green card, will be required to pay $2,000.

The truth is, most individuals who come across at least the southern border in violation of our immigration laws, the illegal immigrants and human smugglers and pay on average about $1,500 each for each trip they make into the United States. Certainly, these individuals, in return, for the benefits that are conferred upon them under this bill, should be expected, and I think they would expect, to pay some modest cost to help defray the expenses to local and State taxpayers. In fact, these individuals are being given an opportunity for a second chance, and I believe there should be some cost associated with that. In fact, we have been told during the course of this debate that this underlying bill creates a situation where people earn their right to legal status.

On the other side, Senator CORNYN is going to raise, for these workers, immigrant workers who are working hard, playing by the rules—he is just going to jack up the amounts they are going to have to pay by another $750. The sky is the limit, they are already going to be paying the $2,000. This is going to add at least $750; $100 per child additional. So you are giving additional kinds of burdens on the worker, those who are in line to become citizens. I think the Clinton proposal is far superior and more fair.

I yield the remainder of my time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Texas.

Mr. CORNYN. Mr. President, I fail to understand why it poses an unreasonable burden upon the 10 million or 11 million or 12 million undocumented immigrants who currently live in the United States in violation of our immigration laws to pay a modest fee as part of the quid pro quo for their regularization when, in fact, they have been imposing unfunded burdens on local taxpayers and local hospital districts and counties and cities for the entire time they have been present in the United States. No one is talking about being punitive or being unnecessarily harsh. But fair is fair. To suggest that it is not fair for them to pay a fee really stands in stark contrast to the fact that these same individuals, when they apply for legal permanent residency or a green card, will be required to pay $2,000.

The truth is, most individuals who come across at least the southern border in violation of our immigration laws, the illegal immigrants and human smugglers and pay on average about $1,500 each for each trip they make into the United States. Certainly, these individuals, in return, for the benefits that are conferred upon them under this bill, should be expected, and I think they would expect, to pay some modest cost to help defray the expenses to local and State taxpayers. In fact, these individuals are being given an opportunity for a second chance, and I believe there should be some cost associated with that. In fact, we have been told during the course of this debate that this underlying bill creates a situation where people earn their right to legal status.

As we found out, during the first 6 years of their presence in the United States, after this bill passes, if it passes in its current status, they will be able to live and work and travel and have all the benefits of living in this country and have paid nothing—zero, nada. Only after about 6 years, when they apply for a green card or legal permanent residency, will they then be required to pay the $2,000.

I think it is only just that these individuals be required to pay a surcharge of $750, a reasonable amount for reimbursement to State and local governments and taxpayers for the costs of health care and education that have been imposed by their very presence on local taxpayers and it is not punishing anybody. This is not about making it unusually difficult for them to comply. This is a matter of simple justice.

Indeed, if the only source of that money is the funds that are paid some 6 years after they began to transition into legal permanent residency, under the Clinton amendment—and I applaud the goals of the Senator, to pay some money into a State impact fund, but it will amount to about $1.3 billion as opposed to $7.5 billion under my amendment. We will not see any of that money for at least 6 years and, in fact, it is taking money away from the program necessary to administer this underlying legislation which is necessary to make it a success.

Certainly, we are not going to build failure into this model by underfunding the very administrative process by which it is supposed to work.

I suggest it is the Federal Government's responsibility to step up. This is not taking any tax dollars in order to fund this unfunded mandate. This is coming from the beneficiaries of the program that is supposed to be enacted by this underlying bill. In fact, it made sense to appropriate from tax dollars $4 billion for the 3 million individuals who were given amnesty in 1986, it makes sense to me, today, that it is going to cost quite a bit more than the $1.3 billion under the amendment of Senator Chalpin. But it also makes sense that burden should not be borne again by the taxpayers of the United States but, rather, should be borne by the individuals who are going to receive a benefit under this bill.

I suggest to my colleagues to support this amendment. I think it only makes sense, it is only fair and just to the local taxpayers around this country, and it is a matter of funding what is currently an unfunded Federal mandate on those tax credits.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. All time has expired.

The question is on the Clinton amendment.

Mr. CHAMBLISS. Mr. President, for the information of our colleagues, we are now trying to work through another amendment following the votes, the Chambliss amendment. We are checking to see how much time would be needed. But it appears that we have a good likelihood of proceeding with that amendment and a later vote tonight, after enough time for debate.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Massachusetts.

Mr. KENNEDY. We are not prepared. We thought we were moving ahead with the Kyl amendment. Now we are on the Chambliss amendment. It involves a number of individuals here who feel very strongly. We are just trying to find out the amount of time they would need. Hopefully, we are going to be having two votes now, and by the end of those votes we will have more information.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the Clinton amendment.

Mr. SPECTER. I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second? There is a sufficient second.

The clerk will call the roll.

Mr. MCCONNELL. The following Senators were necessarily absent: the Senator from Kentucky (Mr. BUNNING), the Senator from Florida (Mr. MARTINEZ), and the Senator from Wyoming (Mr. THOMAS).

Further, if present and voting, the Senator from Kentucky (Mr. BUNNING) and the Senator from Florida (Mr. MARTINEZ) would have voted ‘nay.’

Mr. DURBIN. I announce that the Senator from North Dakota (Mr. DORGAN) and the Senator from West Virginia (Mr. ROCKEFELLER) are necessarily absent.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there any other Senators in the Chamber desiring to vote?

The result was announced—yeas 64, nays 32, as follows:

Mr. KENNEDY. Would the Senator from Pennsylvania outline what the rest of the evening is going to be?

Mr. SPECTER. That is what I am in the process of doing. I commented about the Ensign amendment. I was about to say we are going to have the amendment of the Senator from Florida, Mr. NELSON, which I anticipate will be accepted as well. Then we are going to take the Kyl amendment under an arrangement where there will be a tabling motion. And it is now anticipated that we have an hour-and-a-half time limit there. I would like to do it in an hour time limit, if that would be acceptable to that side. Senator Kyl is prepared to take a half an hour.

Mr. KENNEDY. That is fine, an hour evenly divided.

Mr. REID. Will the Senator from Pennsylvania yield?

Mr. SPECTER. I do.

Mr. REID. We just received a call from one of our Senators who objects to the Ensign amendment. So let’s do the hour and a half on Kyl, and maybe we can work that out while we are doing that.

Mr. ENSIGN. Mr. President, through the Chair, I ask the Senator from Pennsylvania if it would be possible at least to make my statement, lay down the amendment, and then we can consider it at the appropriate time based on the two managers of the bill.

Mr. REID. That certainly is appropriate. Mr. President, as you know, we don’t run this place. I don’t know why we need to wait an hour and 45 minutes to vote. We are going to have votes in the morning anyway. I talked to Senator KENNEDY. It is all right to go ahead for 90 minutes prior to a motion to table tonight on Kyl; we have no objection. Following that, we can decide what we will do for tomorrow.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Pennsylvania.

Mr. SPECTER. I ask unanimous consent that we have a time agreement of an hour and a half. We have just been informed that Senator Kyl wants an hour. I hope we can get some of that yielded back.

Mr. REID. We will take 30 minutes prior to a motion to table.

Mr. SPECTER. And a motion to table with no second-degree amendments being in order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Nevada, Mr. ENSIGN.

Mr. ENSIGN. Mr. President, did I understand that prior to the debate, I would have 10 minutes?

Mr. SPECTER. I was about to come to that. Let me include in the unanimous consent request that we lay down the Ensign amendment and give him 10 minutes, and then we will move to the Nelson amendment. There would be 5 minutes for Senator NELSON. I anticipate it will be accepted.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, that is not fair to our folks over here. If we are going to have a vote tonight, let’s vote and let people go home. Those people who want to still stand around and talk—that is Nelson and Ensign and Landrieu or anybody else—let them do it.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, we would be glad to respond after we see the amendments. We may need more time. We haven’t seen the amendments. That has been a problem continuously, not having seen the amendments. I repeat to the Senator from Louisiana, if we can see the amendments, we can answer the question.

Ms. LANDRIEU. I appreciate that. I cannot agree to any unanimous consent until we get this.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

Ms. LANDRIEU. Reserving the right here next week. We will take a look at the amendments. I will give the Senator from Louisiana an answer as soon as we can take a look at the amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Nevada, Mr. Ensign.

Mr. Ensign, Mr. President, I suggest we modify the unanimous consent to accommodate the minority and those who want to vote. I would be first recognized for 10 minutes right after the vote on Kyl to lay down my amendment, debate for 10 minutes, followed by Senator Nelson, followed by Senator Landrieu.

Ms. LANDRIEU. I want to modify the unanimous consent request that after Senator Nelson from Florida, Senator Landrieu would then be allowed to offer two amendments.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, I am advised that we have not seen the amendments of the Senator from Louisiana. I repeat, we are going to be in here next week. We will take a look at them. We will accommodate her tomorrow, if we can, but we have to see the amendments before we can say anything.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Democratic leader.

Mr. Specter, if I may understand we are going to have 90 minutes of debate on Kyl—60 for the majority, 30 for the minority—prior to a motion to table the Kyl amendment, no second-degree amendments would be in order, and following that there would be 10 minutes for Senator Landrieu and then Senator Bill Nelson 10 minutes after that.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Would the Senator from Pennsylvania wish to restate or state the request?

Mr. Specter. Senator Reed has accurately stated the unanimous consent request. I adopt his statement.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. Specter. The Senator from Pennsylvania.

Mr. Specter. Mr. President, another aspect of our evening business is, at the conclusion of the sequencing stated in the unanimous consent agreement of the morning, I am advised there are quite a number of Senators who want to speak on that. They can speak as long as they like. A vote will occur tomorrow on a tabling motion.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Louisiana.

Ms. Landrieu. Reserving the right to object, I most certainly don’t mind showing the amendments. They have been on file for a week. But I would like it to be in order this week for 10 minutes, either tonight or tomorrow morning.

Mr. Specter. Mr. President, we would be glad to respond after we see the amendments. We may need more time. We haven’t seen the amendments. That has been a problem continuously, not having seen the amendments. I repeat to the Senator from Louisiana, if we can see the amendments, we can answer the question.

Ms. Landrieu. I appreciate that. I cannot agree to any unanimous consent until we get this.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

Ms. Landrieu. Reserving the right to speak on that. They can speak as long as they like. A vote will occur tomorrow on a tabling motion.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Louisiana.

Mr. Specter. Mr. President, the bill that is on the floor purports to create two different paths to American citizenship for those, first of all, who are in the country living outside of the law in an undocumented status, and secondly, for those who are not yet present in the country but who want to come here at some future date to work. We have given the somewhat misleading name of “guest worker” to the so-called future flow, the people who are not yet in the country.

As I pointed out earlier, a guest is someone who comes into your home or wherever it may be temporarily and then leaves. The title “guest worker” to describe the future flow of people coming into the country to work is simply inaccurate. It does not describe what the title signifies.

First let me talk about the future flow. Under the Bingaman amendment, the Government would authorize the entry of 200,000 people a year who would qualify for an H-2C visa. These would be guest workers who, if working here up to 6 years, live, travel, enjoy the benefits of this country short of citizenship, after which they then apply for a green card, whereby they become a legal permanent resident.

They then get on the path to American citizenship 5 years later. Rather than a temporary worker, these are individuals who, under this bill, will become first legal permanent residents and then American citizens. Because of that, the title of “guest worker” is a misnomer. It is a mischaracterization of what this bill does. Submit it is simply misleading.

It is important for us to debate this issue honestly. This is a complicated bill, over 600 pages long. Obviously, the Congress has not debated the issue of comprehensive immigration reform for the past 20 years, since the last time Congress dealt with this in a comprehensive fashion. But at the very least, we ought to require of each of ourselves that we have an honest debate, that we call things what they are and we don’t call things what they are not.

The Kyl amendment, one I am proud to cosponsor, simply makes the point that a guest worker ought to be temporary. It doesn’t sound like a profound amendment but, in fact, it will change the fundamental structure of this underlying bill to make the representation that everyone, from the President of the United States down to those of us here, believes that a guest worker program is part of a comprehensive solution to the crisis that now confronts our country with our broken immigration system, that, in fact, we are talking about a temporary worker program.

That is important for many reasons. Let me mention two beyond the initial reason that we ought to be honest and fair and clear about what it is we are doing.

First, in terms of the future flow of individuals who come into the country to work, it is important that we have a temporary worker program in order to protect American workers. In fact, if we have an influx of 200,000, or whatever the number is, permanent residents and then new citizens in this country, without regard to the fact that our economy is in a boom time when we need those workers or in a bust when we find that new guest workers will end up competing with Americans and potentially displacing them from their jobs, it is important that we keep faith with the American people and we protect American workers by being able to dial up or dial down the provisions of this guest worker program in order to meet the demands of our economy.

Secondly, Mexico, as an example, which I have frequently commended with my State of Texas, has seen the mass exodus of some of its best and brightest and hardest working people permanently out of their country to live forever, the rest of their natural lives in the United States.

Now, I believe we ought to have a legal system of immigration and that ought to serve our national interests. But the reason why there is so much pressure put on our borders and on illegal immigration is because when a country’s young workers leave permanently and never return, how in the world can that country, whatever the country is—Mexico, United States, Guatemala, Honduras, or Brazil—how can any country ever hope to create economic opportunity and jobs for those who have no hope and no opportunity. I think that has at least the promise of developing economic opportunity and jobs in those countries that are now a net exporter of people to the United States. It would give them a realistic opportunity for growing jobs for those who, in fact, would prefer not to sever their ties with their home and their family and their culture. It would reinstate this circular migration that would benefit both the United States and those countries.

I remember some time ago—maybe 2 years ago—I was visiting Guatemala and had lunch with our American Ambassador to Guatemala at his residence. We were talking about American trade policy, and specifically I commended the Central American Free Trade Agreement, which had not yet come to Congress for a ratification vote. What a gentleman from Guatemala told me at that time very concisely—I will never forget—was that they want to export goods and services, but people do not to think he said it perfectly. We ought to provide countries such as Guatemala, Mexico, and others an opportunity to do business with the United States in a way that will help them develop their economy, so their people can stay home and enjoy their culture and their country and their family and not feel compelled to leave permanently to come to the United States and never return home again.

Some have said that, well, what attracts countries such as Mexico to massive illegal immigration of its own citizens is the fact that this last year they have sent $20 billion in remittances; that is, savings that workers from Mexico earned in the United States while working in the shadows, in the cash economy, in the black market, so to speak. They sent that money home to their family to help support them. Recently, though, a high official in the Mexican Government pointed out to me that it is not a benefit to countries such as Mexico to see their people leave just to send maybe 10 percent or 15 percent of their money or savings and return, because if you look at the economic activity that occurs in the United States, they would much rather have that economic activity occur in their country of origin.

Let’s say, for example, that $20 billion represents a cost to the United States. That means that the $20 billion that is sent from Mexican workers back to Mexico, there is $180 billion in economic activity occurring in the United States that could occur in Mexico if they had opportunities and jobs there. Obviously, that kind of economic activity feeds on itself and provides greater opportunity for those people and benefits to those people living at home. It takes a lot of pressure of illegal immigration off our borders.

Ultimately, I believe in comprehensive immigration reform because I believe that whatever we do has to be built upon a foundation of security. In 2006, national security is about border security. We simply must know who is coming into our country and the reasons they are coming here. We cannot assume that people are coming here only for benign reasons. We all understand that when people have no hope and no opportunity where they live, they are going to do whatever it takes. Any one of us, assuming we had the courage, would take whatever risk was necessary, including a risk to life itself, to provide for our loved ones. So at a very human level, we understand why people want to come to the United States.

But we also know, in a post-9/11 world, that the same porous borders that allow people to come across our borders to work are also available to be exploited by violent gangs such as MS-13, by drug traffickers, by all sorts of people that we don’t want in the United States because we have a duty to protect the American people and their security.

We also know that in a post-9/11 world, international terrorists can use these same avenues of entry into the United States and potentially create another 9/11, or some similarly catastrophic incident. So we have to have that border security. We also have to have interior enforcement working with local and State law enforcement officials. We also have to have worksite verification, along with secure identification cards that can be inspected through a reader to confirm that the person presenting themselves for work is, in fact, legally authorized to work in the United States.

Mr. President, I also say that the other part of this amendment deals with those who are already here and who, under the underlying bill, would be able to stay in place and then participate in the H-2C program or those who would have to go to a port of entry and then who could come back in, parole, and get on a permanent residency and citizenship. This would say that ‘notwithstanding any other provision of this act, an alien having non-immigrant status is ineligible for and may not apply for adjustment of status under this section on the basis of such status.’ In other words, temporary means temporary, and that a guest is welcome, assuming they qualify, to come for a time and participate in the benefits of this program but not necessarily be put on a path to a green card or legal permanent residency and citizenship.

Now, there are those who say that this kind of plan will not work and that we have no option but to legalize those who are here in place and those who want to come in the future. There are those who say there is no such thing as a temporary worker because America has not shown itself capable of enforcing its own immigration laws and making sure that people whose visas expire, in fact, leave the country at the expiration of their legal authorization.

I believe that we can, assuming we have the political will, enforce our laws. We can create humane and realistic laws that provide for our Nation’s needs and that serve our Nation’s interests and which, incidentally, serve the interests of countries who have young workers who want to come for a while and then return to their country of origin.

I don’t believe that we are incapable of enforcing our laws. I don’t believe we have to throw our hands up and say the only way we can deal with this is to create an opportunity for people to basically stay in place and become legal permanent residents and citizens. It is not that I think that we should not provide that opportunity. In fact, I believe that we should do it for those who will come to meet our Nation’s capacity to deal with this and who create a realistic cap based on our ability to assimilate those people and for them to become Americans.

So I think we can create a category of temporary workers, people who have no desire to stay, and then those who do want to come to our country, assuming that we can establish realistic caps and can then assimilate that population and they could become American citizens, and that we ought to create a reasonable opportunity to do that.

But our interests ought to be, first and foremost, what is in America’s best interest? What is in America’s best interest?

I guess I wish that America could open its arms and accept the flood of humanity that might want to come from every oppressed and downtrodden part of the planet. But the fact is that we cannot. We cannot do that without jeopardizing what America is. That is not to say that we would discontinue being the melting pot, where people who want to come legally from any part of the world and become Americans can do so. We ought to provide an opportunity for them to do so, to the extent that it serves America’s interests and serves America’s needs.

Mr. President, I reserve the remainder of my time, and I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time?

Mr. MCCAIN. Mr. President, I yield myself 7 minutes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is this from the time in opposition?

Mr. McCAIN. Yes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Arizona is recognized.

Mr. McCAIN. Mr. President, I rise in strong opposition to the amendment. It undermines both the intention and the spirit of this bill. The amendment would not only treat future workers as less than American workers, it would treat them as less than all other immigrant workers.

The real issue is—I will get right to it—after many long months and weeks and hours of negotiation, we had a proposal that passed through the Judiciary Committee and then a compromise, thanks to Senators Hagel and Maza-TINEZ, basically establishing the framework for a compromise in the Senate. If this amendment should pass, that whole compromise is destroyed because it was based on the premise that those who have been here for 2 to 5 years, after having gone back to a port of embarkation, would then be eligible for temporary work under the temporary worker program, and then over time be eligible for green card status and citizenship. This amendment would change that. I understand very well why the Senator from Texas and the Senator from Alabama on the floor of the Senate, and others, have been opposed to this bill from the beginning. I understand that and I appreciate it, but let’s have no doubt about what this amendment would do. It would destroy the entire carefully crafted compromise.

Now, the Senator from Texas has an interesting theory about people who would want to come here and only work and then go back, or maybe not go back, but not have any opportunity for citizenship. We have examples today in Europe of the situation that the Senator from Texas and my colleague from Arizona would want to create, which is having people living in your country with no hope to ever be a part of that society.

I would ask my colleagues of what happened not long ago in France. There were thousands of young Muslims who were burning cars everywhere and rioting and demonstrating because they had no hope and no opportunity. Why is it that all over Europe you find these enclaves of foreign workers who are totally and completely separate from society? Because they are in the situation which this amendment would dictate: No hope, no job, no opportunity, no future, but we will let you work.

This is not what we do with highly skilled workers. That is not what we do under any circumstances, and especially for those who have already been here between 2 and 5 years under this very carefully crafted compromise, the Hagel-Martinez compromise, as it is called, embodied. I understand why the Senator from Texas or the Senator from Arizona would oppose that. They oppose the very principles upon which the legislation was based and the Hagel-Martinez compromise was shaped.

The Senator from Alabama is on this floor constantly against virtually every aspect of the bill. I understand that.

But I want my colleagues who are voting to understand that if this amendment would pass, this whole compromise and this whole legislation collapses because it removes a fundamental principle of this legislation, which is that we give people an opportunity to earn citizenship, which is exactly what the 2- to 5-year part of the compromise under the Hagel-Martinez proposal represents. If you are here between 2 to 5 years, you have to go to a port of embarkation, you come back, you take part in a temporary worker program, and then over time you obtain eligibility for a green card, and ultimately citizenship. That is what America has been all about: people coming here and having the opportunity to obtain citizenship.

So we have a fundamental disagreement. I hope all of my colleagues will recognize that passage of this amendment would cause the entire bill to collapse, which we have been working on for a week with a debate and good votes, and I think the way the Senate should function. So I hope that everybody understands exactly the implication of this amendment, and I understand and respect the view that is held by my colleagues who support this amendment. But I want all of my colleagues to understand the impact of passage of this amendment. It undermines not only the principles of the bill but, in my view, the principles of what this Nation should be and is about today.

We have talked many times about people who live in the shadows, the people who don’t have the benefits of our citizenship, or an opportunity to become citizens, these 11 million people who are living in the shadows. If this amendment would pass, I can assure you we would keep several million in the shadows because they would never come out of the shadows because they would never want to return to their country and probably be on a path to citizenship. So from a principled viewpoint and, frankly, from a practical viewpoint, this amendment is unacceptable.

I know the hour is late. I know a lot of my colleagues are not paying as much attention, perhaps, as they would at other hours of the day, but I hope we make it very clear that the passage of this amendment would cause the entire legislation to implode, and we would then be obviously in a position where we could probably not pass meaningful legislation that would entail comprehensive immigration reform, which is what the President has espoused and what I believe the overwhelming majority of the Senate has proved in numerous votes this week that we support.

Mr. President, I reserve the remainder of my time.

Mr. CORNYN. Mr. President, I yield 10 minutes to the Senator from Alabama.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Alabama is recognized.
Mr. SESSIONS. Mr. President, I thank the Senator from Texas for his hard work on this amendment and his thoughtfulness.

The Senator from Arizona just tells us that he and a few masters of the universe are somewhere in some room to which I wasn’t invited—I am not sure many other Senators were invited—and they have decided that this bill as written is the compromise and if any of it is changed, well, the compromise collapses and the bill fails. So, if I am hearing the Senator from Arizona correctly, he thinks we should all just give it up and quit offering amendments. But I don’t think that is the way the Senate does business. I know the Senator from Arizona is a smart man and so are some of the others who have worked on this bill and worked out all of these compromises with Senator KENNEDY.

When they were working out these compromises did they consult the American people? I submit they haven’t consulted the American people. The American people, when they find out what all is in this bill, they are going to be more upset with it than they are today.

Mr. President, I am working with this piece of legislation than can be explained. I took an hour or so Friday, not condemning the philosophy of comprehensive immigration reform, not condemning steps to make the legal system work properly in a way that we can be proud of, I talked about why the legislation is insufficient and flawed and is unable to do what the sponsors say.

Senator MCCAIN doesn’t back down from a challenge, and I don’t intend to back down either. I am not going to just hide under my desk because he and Senator KENNEDY have worked out a compromise. They think we shouldn’t even make an argument against it, I suppose.

Let me just show you what the bill says. In big print up here: “Title IV—Nonimmigrant And Immigrant Visa Reform.” All this rubric at the top in big letters: “subtitle A, Temporary Guest Workers.” It says, “Temporary Guest Workers” in big print—not even the normal print. It says “temporary” and “guest” I don’t know how many times in this provision.

The President told me—and he has said publicly a hundred times—he believes in immigration and has been supportive of it, he has made clear that this will not go any further. He supports the principles behind the Kyl-Cornyn amendment. We need to listen to them. This is a big amendment. And I do not think the Members of this body should feel in any way that they are not able to reject this bill by legislation because some group says they have reached a compromise and nobody can fix it, when they have made mistakes, and there are a lot of mistakes. This is just one of them. But I don’t believe this Senate has ever seen—since I have been here, a piece of legislation of such monumental consequence have a misrepresentation as great as the allegation that the bill deals with temporary guest workers when it absolutely creates an automatic path to citizenship.

So why don’t we do it right? Why don’t we do what Senator Kyl and what Senator CORNYN say and fix it, make it actually do what we the bill claims, does, make it temporary? A green card is valuable. It entitles people to great benefits of the United States alone, even short of citizenship. We will not have a temporary guest worker program. It is contrary to the whole message the American people have been told repeatedly that they are somehow dealing with, which is a guest worker program, when it is a permanent citizenship track. It is against what the President of the United States believes in. In fact, he has now endorsed the Kyl-Cornyn amendment because he has been saying all along he thought we ought to have temporary workers in such large number that would be coming in permanently under this provision.

There will be other provisions by which people can come and get on the citizenship track. But the temporary guest worker provisions of the bill should be simply that. I think that will the needs of workers. I think it will meet the needs of businesses. I think it will be the right way to handle this matter. I think it is what the American people have in their minds and think we are talking about. Unfortunately, if they heard that message and think that is what we are doing, it is not. Unless the Kyl-Cornyn amendment passes, we will not have a temporary guest worker provision in the bill.

The choice is clear. If Senators actually believe what they have been saying about what they are trying to pass, that they want a temporary guest worker program, then they should support Kyl-Cornyn. If not, they ought to come out of the shadows and stand before the American people and say that they support temporary guest workers, words printed right here in this bill—well, they don’t mean what they say. They ought to tell us plainly and simply that they know that this is a provision that takes people straight to permanent resident status and straight to citizenship, so when we vote, Americans will know where we stand.

I thank the Senators from Texas and Arizona for offering the amendment and yield the remainder of my time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time? The Senator from Texas.

Mr. CORNYN. Mr. President, I will yield myself 3 minutes. Also, I yield to the Senator from Arizona, Senator Kyl, 20 minutes.

One of the hardest things about this whole subject I think is there are so many assumptions that people make based upon their own experience. How in the world can we put ourselves in the place of some of the individuals that this bill impacts and know what their desires are, know what their aspirations are, know what their relationships are to their country and their family and their culture?
I think there are some people who assume if America was to offer individuals from other countries an opportunity to come and qualify and work legally in the United States for a period of time, that they would not want to do so if they were able to stay permanently and they wouldn’t want to go back home. I think common sense tells us these individuals love their country, they love their culture, and they love their family as much as we love ours. There is a very deep and abiding connection that is not easily severed. The reason why people do sever it is necessity, when they don’t have any opportunities where they live so they are willing to do whatever it takes, including leave their country and come to work in the United States. But what would they like—there is at least some segment of these individuals who like to come and work for awhile and then go back home and then maybe come back again and work for another couple of years and maintain their ties to their culture and their country and their family.

I would like to point out to our colleagues there is one piece of what I would call objective evidence out there that no one gives as much credence or any attention to or a guess as to what people’s motivations might be. Not too long ago the Pew Hispanic Center took a survey of 5,000 applicants for the Matricula Consular card in the United States. That is basically an identification card that citizens of Mexico can apply for and receive while living in the United States. Five thousand Mexican citizens applied for the Matricula Consular card and they were asked this question: If you were provided an opportunity to work legally in a temporary worker program in the United States, would you participate, even though it meant that at the end of that temporary period you would be required to go home?

Seventy-one percent of the applicants said yes. Yes, I think we are fooling ourselves by thinking that the only folks who want to come to the United States want to stay here permanently and that there are not at least a large segment of people who would participate in a temporary worker program.

I hope we don’t get too confused about this. There are ways for people to come, immigrate to the United States, and to become legal permanent residents or American citizens. But if you are either part of the subclass or the legal permanent resident program, the legal permanent resident provision would provide. It is, in fact, I believe, an honest representation of what the program is, as opposed to the problem that the Senator from Alabama noted and that I noted earlier. This bill, as written, is neither a guest worker program or temporary in any sense. This amendment, I believe, would correct that.

I yield the floor and retain the remainder of my time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time?

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, how much time do we have?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Massachusetts is recognized.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, I will take 11 minutes and yield the remaining time to the Senator from Nebraska.

The hour is late. We have had a very good day and we are ready to get home. Now we are faced with an amendment that, even though it comes at the late hours of the day, is very basic and fundamental to the success of the whole piece of legislation. Just as important or even more important is the spirit of this particular amendment and what it is meant to achieve and what it is not meant to achieve.

Under the current immigration law, if you have a H-1B, that means you have skills and you are highly skilled. The concept behind the H-1B is you are highly skilled, and because you are able to have a particular niche, the result of your service means you are going to have 8 or 10 or 15 more Americans working. So there is a limited number of the H-1Bs.

Under our current law, if your employer wants to petition for you, you can get a green card. If you are highly skilled, your employer can get the green card. But under the Cornyn amendment, if you are low skilled, you are out the window. One set of treatment for the very highly educated, highly skilled, who are working on the computers. But if you are not skilled, it is not good enough to get married or have children. The employer can get the green card. It is a whole purpose of the bill. It brings in the highly skilled. The rest from Central America.

I was around during the Bracero period, and the exploitation of humanity was extraordinary. We are returning to it if we accept the Cornyn amendment.

Most important is the spirit. What is that spirit? What is the spirit of this amendment? You are talking about fairness in the immigration bill, you are talking about fairness in the standards, you are talking about the history and the tradition of this country about the poor and the unwashed in our country, you are changing that with the Cornyn amendment. Make no mistake about it. You are changing that.

I was around during the Bracero period, and the exploitation of humanity was extraordinary. We are returning to it if we accept the Cornyn amendment.

Make no mistake about it. You are changing that.

Really a nice, fair standard. The Statue of Liberty is turned around tonight, listening to the arguments of our friends over here. It is turned around. One standard for high skilled, and, boy, if you are doing the more menial work, which we know other Americans are not prepared to do, you are out. You are finished. You are gone. No chance at all. Work for 6 years and then maybe they will go out and leave the country or maybe they will stay. If they stay, they will be part of a subclass. They will become the permanent underclass of the United States of America. That is what we are trying to avoid in the basic immigration bill.

We emphasize legality: legality in coming in as guest workers, the legal system. Legality in terms of employment; you can only employ those who come in where there is not an American for the job.

But there is also opportunity. We respect those individuals who do menial jobs because after the 4 years that they are here, if there is not going to be an American to do the job, they can petition, and if they meet all the other requirements—they learn English, they obey the laws—they can be part of the American dream. The Cornyn amendment applied to our immigration laws 150 years ago, no Irish needed apply, no Polish needed apply, no Italians needed apply, no Jews needed apply. But tonight we are saying no, no, no. You, primarily because those are the ones, sure, it is 85 percent, the rest 5 percent or 6 percent Asian, the rest from Central America. But that is what the Senate tonight is confronted with. This undermines the whole purpose of this thing in illegality again. It says your employer hires this person, they work for 6 years, the employer might have trained him, given him decent skills and, bang, you are either part of the subclass or you are reporting to deport.

Those were wonderful words—report to deport. We will know who those individuals are—Homeland Security. As soon as that time is up, six times, they will get picked up and either pushed out of the country or they will be in a permanent underclass.

This is probably a very nice amendment that goes over in some circles. But I tell you, if we are talking about fairness in this country, if you are talking about fairness in the immigration bill, you are talking about fairness in the standards, you are talking about the history and the tradition of this country about the poor and the unwashed in our country, you are changing that with the Cornyn amendment. Make no mistake about it. You are changing that.
have sexual harassment and abuse for them. That is the record. Read the history of the Braceros. I went to the hearings. I attended the hearings all through the Southwest and into California; one of the most shameful periods in our history. We are going to play by the rules and earn their way to be a part of the American dream.

I withhold the reminder of my time.

Mr. MCCAIN. Mr. President, how much time on both sides?

Mr. HAGEL. Mr. President, I would like to address the Kyl-Cornyn amendment tonight. I obviously have listened to so much debate over the last hour. There is one thing I want to address before I get into what I think are the real critical issues here, not just on this amendment that we are going to be voting on but the bill, the purpose, underlaying focus.

I believe the junior Senator from Alabama that the White House, the President, was supporting the Kyl-Cornyn amendment.

That is not my understanding. As a matter of fact, the senior Senator from Arizona, Mr. MCCAIN, and the senior Senator from Florida, Mr. MARTINEZ, and I just got off the phone with the Chief of Staff of the President of the United States. He did not tell us what I just heard on the floor of the Senate as to the President’s support of this amendment. There seems to be some confusion. I would welcome the junior Senator from Alabama or maybe the senior Senator from Texas clarifying that if they have some tangible evidence that the President is supporting this amendment. As I said, we just got off the phone with the Chief of Staff of the President of the United States.

I would even add further that maybe some of my colleagues didn’t hear the President’s comments. I know that the President’s staff is working all through the night. I think most of America did. As a matter of fact, there seems to be some significant approval developing out there because the President of the United States articulated very clearly essentially the underlying bill that we are debating and have been debating this week on the Senate floor. Much of that is about the Hagel-Martinez bill. The President laid that out rather clearly.

I don’t know if the President of the United States is withdrawing his position that he clearly articulated to the people of the United States, and why he felt the underlying bill was imper-
If this amendment passes tonight, if this goes down, the entire compromise will go down. What will stand in its place? What will stand in its place? I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time?

Mr. MCCAIN. Mr. President, how much time remains?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Arizona, on the proponent’s side, has 3 minutes 22 seconds; on the opposition side, 7 minutes 22 seconds.

The Senator from Texas.

Mr. CORNYN. Mr. President, I yield myself 5 minutes and then the remaining portion of time to the Senator from Arizona, Mr. KYL.

Mr. President, I respect enormously the contributions that the Senator from Nebraska and the senior Senator from Arizona, Mr. McCaIN, and Senator Kyl have made to try to address this problem that has festered for so long and which cries out for resolution.

I daresay, as chairman of the Immigration, Border Security, and Citizenship Subcommittee of the Senate Judiciary Committee, that I have been trying to make a contribution to that solution, as has Senator KYL. We have held numerous hearings of our subcommittee. He chairs the Terrorism Subcommittee of the Senate Judiciary Committee. Inasmuch as our border presents national security concerns, we have held many committee hearings to try to, first, find out what the problem is, and, second, try to couple with practical solutions that appreciate the contributions of each and every Senator who has tried to find a solution to this problem.

I recognize this is what some have called a “fragile compromise”—that if we tinkering with it, all of a sudden it implodes and nothing is going to happen. I personally don’t believe that because we have seen a number of amendments offered and accepted during the course of this debate which the Senate has done nothing but make this bill stronger and better. I am absolutely committed to seeing passage of a bill out of the Senate and then going to the conference with the members of the House of Representatives. They have some very different views from all of us.

If our colleagues from Nebraska and Massachusetts and the senior Senator from Arizona think that they have found some of the answers, I think that some of these points among those of us here, just wait until they get to the conference with Members of the House. Then they will see that we really have a shared vision for comprehensive immigration reform, and we are going to have to work through all of that.

But I don’t believe it is appropriate to say that this amendment which merely tries to bring accuracy and truth in advertising to this temporary worker program, that it, in fact, be made and not permit that a guest worker program does not mean permanent residence and American citizenship.

I differ with the interpretation of some of our colleagues who say we are trying to replace the normal immigration path with legal permanent residency and citizenship with a temporary worker program. That is not true at all. What the amendment says is there is an additional way that people who want to come here and don’t want to stay here can come for a while and work in a legal system and then go home, and those who want to become American citizens we wish to provide them a reasonable path for them to do so subject to cap, subject to our ability to determine what is in America’s best interests.

I know the Senator from Massachusetts talked about distinguishing between immigrant populations based on skills, based on talents and their contribution. I say we have every right as a nation to determine what the attributes are of the immigrants we want to come to our border to our country, whether they are a net-plus in terms of their contribution. Let’s say have engineer, math, or science skills as opposed to low-skilled workers. I think we have a right to make that distinction.

This is an important amendment. I do believe it will gut the bill but will advance it.

I yield the remainder of our time to the Senator from Arizona.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Arizona is recognized.

Mr. KYL. Mr. President, this is a simple amendment, a very important amendment. It is not inconsequential. It changes in a major way a specific feature of the underlying bill. But I believe that feature is wrong and needs to be changed. The underlying bill sets up a temporary worker program, but it is not temporary in the sense that the workers who come here and get a temporary worker permit can then apply for permanent legal residency and ultimately citizenship. There is no reason to deny them that under the bill. As a result, have temporary workers. You always have permanent workers, people who are allowed to come here originally as temporary but who can in effect automatically convert their status to permanent legal residency and then citizenship.

The question is, Why is that necessary? The second point is it creates a problem when economic conditions change.

Why would it be necessary? There are many visas in our system today that are temporary. In fact, there are skilled labor visas that are temporary. They can be renewed. They are based upon an economic need. When there is a job here that is going unfulfilled by an American worker, we have the ability to issue visas to foreigners who can then come here and work for a temporary period of time. Then they return home. As long as there are jobs here, those visas ordinarily continue, but when the work is not here, the visas stop. That is a good thing.

I support a temporary worker program under this legislation. However, it should be temporary. That is to say, the program may be permanent, but the visas under it are temporary, for a limited period of time. They may be 8 or 10 years out of the box and may be 1 or 2 years in duration. In my view, they should be renewable. There are a lot of different ways to construct it. The bottom line is, when you come in because there is a job available for you, you get a visa that job or another job may not be available to you 5 years later. There may be no work for you 5 years later.

Let me give an illustration I have used before. In my home State of Arizona, we are in a construction boom period. We cannot get enough people to help build houses. There are jobs that go begging, and therefore we have to rely on a large supply of foreign labor to help. It is undoubtedly the case that many of the foreign laborers are illegal, they are not in the appropriate way. However, they are workers who are performing a valuable function in our economy today.

Here is the question. I have been in Arizona now for almost 50 years. We have seen lots of upturns and lots of downturns. What happens when the downturn comes, when we are not building as many houses or office buildings, there aren’t many jobs available, and Americans begin to find that jobs are not available for them, they are unemployed, and there is just not the work for people? What happens if you have a temporary visa issued and say that visa is for a period of 2 years? That visa expires, and there is no more job available. In fact, there are Americans looking for work. That foreign worker goes home. When another job opens up, when the construction industry gets going again and there are opportunities for foreign labor because all of the labor required, the visas would begin being issued again, and that individual could come back and begin working again. Perhaps there is some other industry in which the individual can work. In any event, the visa for that job would, after a year or after 2 years, expire, and if there is not a job available, you do not issue a new visa.

The problem in the underlying bill is that once you get your temporary visa, you cannot apply or you can apply for you to turn that automatically into a permanent legal residency status or a green card status. And we know from that you can apply for citizenship. When you have a green card, it does not matter whether there is a job here for you, it does not matter whether we are in the middle of a recession and Americans are looking for work; you have a legal right to be in the United States and no one can kick you out. That is what legal permanent residency means.

So there is no reason in a temporary worker program to be able to convert the temporary visa or permit into a legal permanent residency. In fact, there can be great harm done if the economy changes, the economic situations change, jobs are no longer available, and instead of having those visas expire, you have converted the individuals to other legal status and have a permanent right to stay in the United States.

This amendment does absolutely nothing to change the existing law with respect to how you can acquire a green card in the United States or convert other legal status into benefits under our immigration laws. You can still apply for a green card. You can still apply for other ways of remaining in the United States for differing periods of time. We do not change any of that. If you are someone who wants a green card, there is still a way to get a green card. In fact, under different versions of the bill, the number of green cards is increased so that there are greater opportunities for green cards. The bottom line is, you do not have to go to the temporary worker program into a permanent worker program.

There are economic studies which back up what I am saying. For the sake of time, I will not get into the details of those studies. Among other things, in previous times, going back to the year 2000, for example, in the skilled visa era where we issued large numbers of visas, there were economic studies that suggested we could have a continuing need for these visas out to the future for some number of years, and we were issuing those visas at a very high rate at that time. Little did we know that the economic conditions were going to change very rapidly, and very quickly those high-skilled jobs fell off. Yet we had issued visas for people to come into the country at a time when, in fact, we were starting to go into a recession and, in fact, those jobs were not available for those people.

If they had been able to permanently reside in the United States after they got their temporary visas, it wouldn’t matter whether there were jobs available for them; they would be here. It would be legal. There would be no way to remove them. And of course, with green cards, they would be entitled to benefits which would flow from that status. The United States is going to have to pay a lot of unemployment compensation if we now have two bodies of workers, neither one of which can get a job or both of which are competing with each other, American workers and foreign workers.

Whether you are talking about purely the future flow workers under the temporary worker program, which many in this Senate want to create, although we differ somewhat on the details of it, I would like to create a temporary worker program because we think they may be needed in the future, or you are talking about the people in existing bills who have been here 5 years or less and are required to go into the temporary worker program—those are the two groups of people we are talking about—our view is they should be temporary workers, subject to the economic conditions of the United States, not replacing American workers but fulfilling a work requirement when there aren’t enough Americans to do the job. It is basically the same thing. He said in his speech earlier this week when he said that the temporary workers should have an opportunity to be matched with a willing employer when there are not Americans who can do the job. We have said, they can return home. I am paraphrasing, but I think those are the words of the President.

The concept the President has articulated is the same concept that we believe is appropriate. It is the basis of the temporary worker bill in the Kyl-Cornyn legislation. We believe it is appropriate for that same concept to be embodied in this legislation.

Might I inquire how much time remains on the other side? The PRESIDING OFFICER. Twelve minutes to the Senator from Arizona and 7 minutes to the Senator from Massachusetts.

Mr. KYL. I will give someone on the other side an opportunity to speak.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, I yield the remaining time to the Senator from Idaho.

Mr. CRAIG. Mr. President, I approach this part of the debate on a critical piece of legislation with due caution. I say that because of my respect for my colleagues from Arizona and from the State of Texas and the work they have done as members of the Judiciary Committee and the due diligence they have always put into this critical issue.

I believe there is a component missing from this debate that speaks to the need for this country to be in a continual and progressive mode of training and shaping a permanent stable workforce.

Unlike all of the demographic studies of the last decade or two, there is something upon us as a nation that we have never experienced before. I am a 1945 baby. I am 60 years old. I am just 1 year ahead of a great class of people—77 million Americans—called baby boomers. They, similar to myself, because of their age, will soon be leaving the American workforce. There are demographic studies out there today which suggest that if we are to sustain a 3.5- to 4-percent growth economy, we have to have about 500,000 new, non-U.S. citizen workers in our workforce on an annual basis.

Yes, we will have ups and downs in the economy. We always have. But in the last downturn we had, in the final days of the Clinton administration and the early days of the Bush administration, it was about 3.5 million in the downturn before it came back. In the 12 months since that time, one-third of them have been claimed by foreign nationals. It speaks to an economic growth pattern that now requires for the first time in our history a sustained, incoming, trainable, and permanent workforce of the kind that the American citizen, by birthright, is not providing.

If we deny that as a country, if we cannot stabilize, we deny ourselves the ability to continue to grow. And if we do not grow, this Senate is going to be faced with public policy decisions we are not yet brave enough to make: Social Security reform, Medicare reform, Medicaid reform in a public debate. Without a sustained economic growth cycle, become phenomenally expensive and maybe unaffordable.

That does not sound like part of the debate that would tie itself to the Kyl-Cornyn amendment, but I suggest it does. I suggest it behooves this country to create a legal transparent immigration system with a secured border that allows America’s employers to train and sustain a permanent workforce, a country with a continually growing workforce, because the American, by birth, is no longer going to do that. It is the nature of our country. It is, in fact, the wealth of our country. That is, in part, what all of this debate is about.

Americans said: Get your borders secured and get the illegal flow under control; identify them, control them. That is what we are trying to do.

I do not believe that a constant temporary environment is a stable environment. For those who work for long periods of time and get a green card, does it mean they will become a citizen? No, it does not. Does it mean they are eligible? In this bill, it says: Yes, if you go to the end of the line and apply, and that is 6 years, another 5 years, then back at the country, that is 11 years, and it goes on and on.

I don’t believe this is an appropriate amendment to this bill. There is a component to the bill itself by the nature of H-2A’s, H-2B’s and H-2C’s, and that is written in. There has to be some stability of permanency. That is critical to the American economic scene and to the stability of America’s workforce. And even in that, we will have the down cycles that the Senate from Arizona talks about. I am not sure at that point, when trained workers are at hand and have supplied the American economy with its goods. They can say: The lights are out, leave the country.

Somehow, we have to balance that out. That is what we are attempting to do. That is why tonight I ask my colleagues to oppose the Kyl-Cornyn amendment.

Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, this is yet another amendment designed to undermine the well-balanced programs in this bill. The Comprehensive Immigration Reform Act is the product of a hard-fought compromise and it reflects a balance between the needs of American business and American workers. Strong coalitions representing both of those sectors of our society support this bill and endorse the temporary worker program contained in it.

One critical provision in the bill creates an opportunity for temporary workers who have followed the rules and worked hard while in the U.S. to seek legal permanent status after a period of time. An employer who has come to rely upon an immigrant guest worker and wants to keep that immigrant on staff can file a petition after 1 year for the immigrant to get in line for a green card. The guest worker does not need any preferential treatment in this program. He must get in the back of the line and meet all the other requirements to earn citizenship, a process that will likely take more than a decade to complete.

The Kyl amendment strips out this provision, taking away a valuable option for both the immigrants and their employers.

When a similar amendment was debated by the Senate, it was defeated, as I hope this one will be—the sponsor stated his belief that lower skilled immigrant temporary workers should have to leave the U.S. after a few years. High-skilled workers are not treated in this manner. H-1B visas holder have opportunity to apply for green cards under current law. But some sponsors of this bill are willing to treat guest workers as second class.

This attitude is deeply disturbing. Lower skilled workers are essential to our economy and deserve to be treated with respect and dignity. Many of our great American leaders, scientists, artists, and teachers have immigrant roots of very modest means. Throughout this debate we have heard many Senators tell their personal stories. Almost all of these reflected early years of hardship and struggle while immigrant parents worked hard under very tough circumstances so that their children could have greater opportunities.

Now we consider an attitude offensive to me, but it makes little business sense. Employers of immigrants in the sectors most likely to use these temporary workers, such as hotels and tourism, food service, health care, and meat packing, support the program in the bill. The National Restaurant Association has stated that the restaurant industry is expected to create almost 2 million new jobs by 2016. It expects this growth to outpace available labor. For reasons the Judiciary Committee and I have heard, the guest worker is an important member of the community, including the U.S. Chamber of Commerce and members of the Essential Worker Coalition support the bill, and strongly oppose this amendment.

Striking the path to citizenship measure in the guest worker program is also the wrong decision for national security reasons. One of the driving forces behind enacting a comprehensive reform program is to ensure that we know who is living and working within our borders. If there is no path available to those who seek it and can meet the tough requirements in the bill, then some guest workers will overstay their visas and continue to live and work in the U.S. out of status. That would put us back in the position we are in right now—the position that we all agree must be reformed.

In fact, the reason that guest worker programs have failed in the past is precisely because they did not contain an option for guest workers to apply to remain in the U.S. legally, if that is what they hope to do. Many guest workers will return home, but not all. We should ensure that the programs we debate in this chamber to extend immigrants back into the shadows.

Finally, I express my disappointment in hearing about the White House support of the Kyl amendment. I find it troubling that the White House would choose this amendment to fight so hard to pass. A tremendous amount of effort has been expended by many of us in the Senate, including a handful of determined Republicans, to preserve the core provisions of the bill. These compromises improve the bill view the Kyl amendment as one that strikes to the core of the compromises contained in it. We would have benefited from the White House’s involvement earlier in the process in a helpful way, but its holdout stance on the fight against comprehensive reform today is a grave disappointment.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There is 2 minutes remaining on the opposition side of the amendment. The Senator from the State of Idaho.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, let me take a couple of minutes to respond to my friend, the Senator from the State of Idaho.

He projects that 500,000 workers are going to be needed every year. That sounds a bit high, but there is a way to resolve the question. If we have a temporary worker program that works well and brings in all of the temporary employment needed to fill your labor needs, then whatever that number is can be satisfied with the temporary worker program. But if the Senator is wrong and we do not need that many people but we have allowed that many people to come into this country and remain here permanently, then we have a big problem because we also have to consider the American worker and the job of the American worker.

The Senator said we need stability in the hospitality industry. Indeed, that is a good thing. But I submit we need stability for the American worker. The American worker needs to know his job is secure. In all of the industries we are talking about, unless there is a significant need for foreign labor, there are far more American workers working in those industries than foreign workers.

The bottom line is, there are American workers who will do these jobs. The only exception to the significance is in certain specters of agriculture. And agriculture, in many respects, is a very different animal.

The reality is, whether you are talking about the hospitality industry with people making beds and washing the dishes or talking about the construction industry or landscaping, there are millions of Americans doing those jobs. And we want to know that those jobs are going to be filled by citizens when the economy is not as strong as it is now.

So in periods of decreasing jobs and increasing unemployment, we want to be able to ensure that workers can remain employed. With a temporary foreign worker program, we can ensure that because the foreign workers are brought in, to the extent they are needed, when they are needed, in each of these industries. But if they can convert to permanent status automatically, which is what this legislation would allow, they cannot be removed. They are here. They have legal permanent residency and eventually can acquire citizenship, if they desire. Whether they are here or not, they are here. The studies show they compete with American workers very well in the low-skilled job categories by usually taking less money than Americans, with the result that many times Americans will be unemployed, for which we will be responsible for paying unemployment compensation and other benefits, and yet the foreign worker might have the job. So instead of a situation in which there is no job for an American to do the job, we will have a situation in which there is a job, but it is held by a foreign worker rather than an American worker.

Why do we need to take the chance, is my question. We all agree with the concept of a temporary worker program for skilled labor. In skilled labor, these visas expire. For student visas, they expire. For tourist visas, they expire. They can be renewed in certain situations. In the different categories of temporary worker visas, in the agricultural categories, the law today, they are all for a specific period of time, and then they expire.

What is the matter with that same principle being applied to low-skilled workers? In fact, the experts all agree—we had testimony before our committee—that with respect to low-skilled workers, you are more likely to have people who are undereducated or less well educated and likely to work lower skill or lower paying jobs. We should not be surprised there. So if you are going to end up in a situation in which you have extra workers who are here, would you rather have them be of the high-skilled variety or the low-skilled variety, unable to be as flexible in the job market and somebody with better education and skills?

Our immigration law has always been very leery of allowing large numbers of undereducated and low-skilled workers into the country because they represent a potential expense for this country in the event that the employment that was promised to them does not materialize or goes away.
So there is no need to take a chance on this. If, in fact, my colleague is correct that we will need more laborers, we can get them under a temporary program where permits can continue to be expanded. We can expand the number or they can be renewed.

In the meantime, there is always the opportunity for people to acquire green cards. In fact, under I think all of the bills that are pending, the number of green card slots is increased. So there is also an opportunity for that.

In any case they are wrong, and jobs evaporate over time, and even Americans cannot find work, why would we want to be granting these foreign residents who are here temporarily the right to be here permanently? It seems to me it is unnecessary. It is potentially devastating, devastating to American workers, and we ought to change it.

As a result, I hope my colleagues will support this amendment, which could go a long way toward improving this bill, creating a true temporary worker program rather than one which automatically converts to legal permanent residency.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time?

There is 5½ minutes on the proponents' side and 2 minutes on the opponents' side.

Mr. KYL. Mr. President, the Senator from Massachusetts is willing to yield back his time. And if there is no one else on this side desiring to speak, I will be happy to yield back our time. I hope our colleagues will support the amendment. Thank you.

Mr. MCCAIN. Mr. President, I move to table the amendment and ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There appears to be a sufficient second.

The question is on agreeing to the motion.

The clerk will please call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk called the roll.

Mr. MCCONNELL. The following Senators were necessary absent: the Senator from Kentucky (Mr. BUNNING), the Senator from South Carolina (Mr. GRAHAM), the Senator from Mississippi (Mr. LOTT), the Senator from Florida (Mr. MARTINEZ), and the Senator from Alabama (Mr. SHELEY).

Further, if present and voting, the Senator from Kentucky (Mr. BUNNING) would have voted “nay” and the Senator from Florida (Mr. MARTINEZ) would have voted “yea.”

Mr. DURBIN. I announce that the Senator from California (Mrs. BOXER) and the Senator from West Virginia (Mr. ROCKEFELLER) are necessarily absent.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. BURR). Are there any other Senators in the Chamber desiring to vote?

The result was announced—yeas 58, nays 35, as follows:

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD—SENATE

which are meaningless when they could be accepted. It would be ludicrous, notwithstanding the fact that we all deserve to be voting tomorrow on ludicrous matters. But the majority leader decided we will not bring in people to have meaningless votes. It is our hope that this will spur us to some meaningful votes early on.

The Chambliss amendment will be laid down tonight, and there will be 30 minutes of debate on it before the vote at 30 on Monday. We will have a vote on Senator FEINSTEIN’s amendment, where she will have substantial time on Monday afternoon. We will see if we can construct a vote for Senator ENSEIGN on what he is trying to work out, which has quite a number of concerns. Senator BOND has an amendment that we may be able to take.

The remaining business tonight is to take the amendment of the Senator from Florida by a voice vote, which will, I believe, conclude business on the bill for the evening and the week.

Mr. FRIST. Mr. President, in the big picture, let me say at the outset that things are going very well. It is 9:30 on a Thursday night. We are making decisions about tomorrow and Monday. We have had a very good week. I thank the Democratic leader and both managers for making great progress over the course of the week.

It is very frustrating, from a leadership standpoint, for the Democratic leader and myself, because we have to truncate and essentially stop tonight when we could have had a productive day tomorrow morning. Two reasons. The managers have done such a good job addressing such a large number of amendments—more than I had anticipated—which is good, which means the amendments that remain, they want a lot of people around to be able to vote on those. In part, I am making an excuse because I told everybody we are going to vote. We have been trying hard to schedule two votes for tomorrow to try to get the Senate back on a schedule where we work on Fridays. It would take about a half hour to go through the chronology of eight different amendments that we have tried to structure but all of which have collapsed. Managing a bill has a lot of pitfalls, where we have absences for dinners on both sides, where we have adjournments for signing ceremonies, where we have recesses for social events at the White House and other places. In one situation, we had an arrangement for a half hour, equally divided, and to have a vote tomorrow and that was changed to we cannot do it tomorrow to we can do it tomorrow, but we want 2 hours, to we cannot do it ever.

I think there would be a 100-to-nothing vote on the point that we don’t have enough discipline here to move ahead with our work. We have tried to get this bill complete. So after telling the majority leader what the situation was, it was decided that it would be fruitless to have two 99-to-0 votes.
Mr. REID. Mr. President, I will make a brief comment.

Mr. President, we started out on this with the decision that we were going to try to do some legislation on this very difficult bill. This is from our perspective. We wanted to move through this amendment at a time. I think it worked out well. We are at a point now, I think, as we have done earlier in the day, that our hands don’t have to live by that. We have proven that we can legislate. We can always go back and do an amendment at a time if we have to. We are going to take an amendment at a time on a case-by-case basis, and we have no objection tonight—or very likely in the near future—to being able to set amendments aside and move on. I think we have been able to accomplish a great deal in this short week.

This bill is not finished yet, so there is no reason to give high fives and say we work well done. There is still a lot of real hard work to do. I have submitted at the request of the manager, the distinguished chairperson of the committee, a list of Democratic amendments that we have had—a lot of them. I have indicated to the managers that I am confident that most of them will not have to be offered. You asked for that and you have gotten that.

I think that this coming week we all have a heads-down and we will work hard. There is a lot of work to do, and we have very significant amendments. I applaud and commend Senator SPECTER and Senator KENNEDY for the way I see the Senate working. I think we have done good work. We have had some very timely amendments and difficult amendments. We have had winners and losers. That is what legislating is all about. Some of the compromise takes place not in the back room but on the Senate floor when we vote.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, I wish to thank the leaders and my colleague, Senator SPECTER. I think this has been a very good week in terms of talking and debating. I think we have seen some real debates on the floor of the Senate, some which we have not seen for a long period of time. I think the Members know a great deal more about what is in this legislation. They may like it or not, but I think the debate will go on. I think we have made good progress. Sometimes it is useful to take a little time to go over these amendments, as someone who has been here for 12 hours. Sometimes we can have a better debate and discussion if we can go over them and know where we are going to be on Monday and then what the priorities are. The Republicans have had, as I remember, 20 sort of key issues. We have gotten through a fair amount of them. There is still a good group that I think we need to put on the table and see how we can get through the issues, and I think we can use this time and be better prepared and have a better debate and a better outcome next week. I thank the leaders for all they have done, and I thank the Members on both sides.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, we will now go to the Nelson amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, the Senator from Florida is recognized.

Mr. DODD. Mr. President, if my committee would yield, we have an amendment that I think has been agreed to, and I am prepared to take 5 or 10 minutes to get through it. I will leave it up to the leaders how they want to handle it.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, let’s take the Nelson amendment. There is always manana.

Mr. ENSEN, Mr. President, parliamentary inquiry.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Nevada is recognized.

Mr. ENSIGN. Mr. President, my understanding of the earlier unanimous consent agreement was that I would be recognized followed by Senator Nelson.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator is correct. The unanimous consent agreement recognized the Senator from Nevada for 10 minutes prior to Senator Nelson. The Senator from Nevada is recognized.

AMENDMENT NO. 4076, AS MODIFIED

Mr. ENSEN, Mr. President, we have spent a great deal of time talking about how to proceed with tonight’s debate. We have been trying to work out whether we should have a vote on my amendment No. 4076.

I send a modified version of my amendment to the desk which has been been by both Senator BYRD and Senator GREGG who had previously expressed problems with the text of the amendment. The modification strikes a particular paragraph which had dealt with the questions of which agency would fund the program if the cost exceeded a certain dollar amount. I would ask for immediate consideration of the modified amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senate from Nevada [Mr. ENSEN], for himself and Mr. GRAHAM, proposes an amendment numbered 4076, as modified.

Mr. ENSEN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that further reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment (No. 4076), as modified, is as follows:

To authorize the use of the National Guard to support for units or personnel performing an activity authorized by this subsection, the Governor of a State may order any units or personnel of the National Guard of such State to perform duty under section 502(c) of title 32, United States Code, to carry out in any State along the southern border of the United States for purposes of this section, and only with the approval of the Secretary of Defense, the Governor of a State may perform activities in another State under subsection (a) only pursuant to the terms of an emergency management assistance compact or other cooperative arrangements entered into between Governors of such States for purposes of this section, and only with the approval of the Secretary of Defense.

Mr. ENSIGN. The term ‘State’ means each of the several States, the District of Columbia, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, Guam and the Virgin Islands.

Mr. ENSIGN. The term ‘State’ means the District of Columbia, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, Guam and the Virgin Islands.

Mr. ENSEN, Mr. President, I will speak just briefly, because it is late. I am not going to take up a lot of time, but this is a very important amendment. The substance of this amendment is something that I have been working on for over a month. During the last Congressional recess, I went down to Yuma, AZ, where the President was today. I saw firsthand what an extraordinary job our Border Patrol is doing. I also observed firsthand how undermanned the Border Patrol is and how overwhelmed they are with the numbers that are coming across our southern border.

When I was at the border, I asked a question of the Border Patrol personnel. That question concerned how we could use more National Guardsmen at the border, beyond those in the Counter Drug Program, to help you with your mission of protecting and securing our borders? The overwhelming answer was that they would absolutely welcome our National Guard in larger numbers down on the border.

The Border Patrol was very clear. It would create problems if the National Guard were to come down to the border to carry out law enforcement duties like arresting, detaining, and questioning detainees. Each of those things are part of the specialty role that the Border Patrol should do. They are, after all, highly trained law enforcement personnel while the National Guard is trained in other areas, areas for which the Border Patrol requires support.

In his Monday night address, the President proposed using up to 6,000 National Guardsmen on the border this year. The President would multiply the force of the Border Patrol that is currently on the border. What do I mean by that? In many instances, the Border Patrol is taken away from their normal duties when they have to, for instance, perform a medical rescue of somebody who has gone into distress. This is actually a common occurrence in the southwest desert. Immigrants crossing the desert become dehydrated and nearly die. Some of the Border Patrol surveillance cameras might pick up the alien pulling a distress beacon to signal they need help, and the Border Patrol actually goes to rescue them. This is something the National Guard is very well trained to do. When they are on the border, the National Guard can fulfill that mission which will free up the Border Patrol to perform some of the other functions of their duties, like arrest and detention.

When the National Guard trains today, when personnel are performing their normal training duties like building roads, building fences, and building bridges. They do all of these things as part of their training. Except most of the time when they are training, after they build something they are required to take it down. It is a training exercise. What this amendment envisions is that what they will build, fences, barriers, and roadways, will all be essential infrastructure needed to secure the border. The National Guard can use training time to build real roads that the border they have at this time they won’t have to tear them down. What they build will actually be permanent structures.

We had a hearing in the Senate Armed Services Committee yesterday. The National Guard told the committee that they are very excited about this mission, about what they will be accomplishing. Instead of building a road that will eventually be torn down, they will actually be building a road that is going to help secure the United States of America. I have received e-mails from National Guardsmen in my State that say they believe in this mission, and they are very excited about it.

I want to be clear. Some people have erroneously reported in the media that the National Guard will be on the border and would be arresting, they would be shooting at people, that they would be militarizing the border and performing law enforcement activities. That is not true. Let me tell you exactly what we have put in this amendment that states exactly what the National Guard will be authorized to do.

They will be authorized to conduct ground reconnaissance activities, airborne reconnaissance activities, logistical support, provision of translation services in training, administrative support services, technical training services, emergency medical assistance and services, communications services, rescue of aliens in peril, and construction of roads, patrol roads, fences, barriers, and other facilities to secure the southern land border of the United States. They will also cooperate with ground and air transportation.

We are very clear on what their mission is going to be down there. I appreciate the work of Senator CRAIG on this issue. I see him here on the Senate floor. He has been one of the biggest proponents of using the National Guard down on the border, and I appreciate the deng that has been in the United States Senate to bring everybody’s attention to this issue.

Mr. CRAIG. Mr. President, will the Senator yield?

Mr. ENSIGN. Mr. President, I would like to ask the Senator a question because perhaps he has thought this through and he could help me understand it. I support the President’s effort to make the border stronger and safer. What I understood him to say was at least 6,000 National Guardsmen at any one time, rotated every 2 or 3 weeks to accommodate what was their normal training schedule. By any calculation, that means that in the first year over 100,000 National Guardsmen from around the United States will be sent to the border. And in the second year, when half as many are needed, and I say, for the 400,000 National Guardsmen nationwide—I hope my figure is correct, although I don’t know if it is—but is it your understanding that 100,000 to 150,000 will end up on border duty during that period?

Mr. ENSIGN. Mr. President, I thank the Senator for his question. I was going to address his very point. The way that the Border Patrol, the National Guard, and the administration have developed their plan envisions that about one-third of the 6,000 Guardsmen would actually be on the border for longer than the 21 day maximum. My amendment mirrors their plan. It sets forth that two-thirds of the overall personnel will perform in the required 21 days of annual training down on the border. That time is time that the Guardsmen committed to when they signed up. The amendment also says that about a third of the force, consisting of command personnel and guardsmen who are necessary for integration purposes, will be down there full time. They will be there full time to ensure some continuity. The personnel who are rotating in will need to have leadership that can organize the way that the Border Patrol has done. The full time personnel can say to the rotating personnel: you need to go here, this is what you will do, and we need you to work with this other group.

During our hearing yesterday—this very issue came up—according to the National Guard the numbers that the President has committed will work. They have said that this mission can be done, that there is absolutely no problem for them to operate in this fashion. They are considering they will be going through the training anyway. Personnel will have to go through the 2 to 3 weeks of training and this set up will... actually improve the training they are getting.

Mr. DURBIN. Will the Senator yield for another question?

Mr. ENSIGN. I am happy to.

Mr. DURBIN. I would like to address this with the Chair. About 75 percent of the Illinois National Guard units have been activated to serve in Iraq or Afghanistan, and some have been on more than one tour of duty. During the course of that, they have left behind in Iraq and Afghanistan a lot of wornout equipment, damaged equipment. Currently our National Guard, in some areas of supplies, like certain trucks, is down to 7 percent of what they need, and nationwide we have been told the National Guard stock of supply and equipment has been depleted to the level of 34 percent of what they need.

Can the Senator from Nevada tell me whether our commitment of the National Guard to the border will also be a commitment to replenish the equipment they will need to serve effectively there and return home and do their job?

Mr. ENSIGN. Mr. President, to address that question, we actually talked about this. Yesterday’s hearing it was one of the questions that was asked. What the National Guard is going to do, with the Department of Defense, is take the equipment down there, and it will stay down there. If the National Guard comes down, they won’t come down with their own equipment; they will use the equipment that is there. So it will stay there for the 2 years, for the duration, what they need. So that is going to be paid for separately. It is part of the $1.9 billion the administration had requested, so it does not come out of the billion the administration had requested, so it does not come out of the base on top of only 20,000 detention beds nationwide—the chairman’s bill adds a one-time additional 10,000 new beds over and above the 8,000 beds per year. This amendment will double that by adding a one-time 20,000 new beds above the 8,000 beds per year. It is very simple. That is it.

I thank the chairman of the committee for being willing to accept this amendment.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, it is an excellent amendment which is accepted.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. If there is no further debate, the question is on agreeing to the amendment.

The amendment (No. 3998), as modified, was agreed to.

Mr. NELSON of Florida. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. DURBIN. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Georgia.

Mr. CHAMBLISS. I call up amendment No. 4009.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, the pending amendment is set aside. The clerk will report the amendment.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The amendment (No. 4009), as modified, was agreed to.

Mr. CHAMBLISS. I ask unanimous consent that the reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: To modify the wage requirements for employers seeking to hire H-2A and blue card agricultural workers)

On page 452, strike line 1 and all that follows through page 459, line 10, and insert the following:

(“A) In general.—An employer applying to hire H-2A workers under section 218(a), or utilizing alien workers under blue card program established under section 615 of the Comprehensive Immigration Reform Act of 2006, shall offer to pay, and shall pay, all wages at the uniform wage rate, and shall offer to pay, and shall pay, all wages at the prevailing wage rate, and shall offer to pay, and shall pay, all wages at the prevailing wage rate that means (i) the prevailing wage for the occupation for which the employer has applied for alien workers, not less than (and is not required to pay more than) the greater of

(i) the prevailing wage in the occupation in the area of intended employment; or

(ii) the applicable State minimum wage.

(B) Prevailing wage defined.—In this subpart, the term ‘‘prevailing wage’’ means the wage rate that includes the overtime rate paid to employees with similar experience.
and qualifications in the agricultural occupation in the area of intended employment, expressed in terms of the prevailing rate of pay for the occupation in the area of intended employment.

Mr. CHAMBLISS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senators ALEXANDER and BOND be added as original cosponsors to the amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. CHAMBLISS. Mr. President, I have said it before and I say it again today that I think the approach taken in this legislation we are considering today is contrary to the best interests of agriculture. By ignoring proper enforcement of our immigration laws for many years, the Federal Government has been sending the wrong message to farmers and ranchers across the United States: that it pays to break the law. Quite literally, it has. For those who have flouted rule of law by refusing to utilize the temporary worker program for agriculture—the H-2A program—have gained a tremendous economic advantage over their counterparts who have adhered to the laws on the books today.

I will be the first to admit that some farmers have had little choice but to utilize an illegal workforce—for the H-2A program, as presently written has its limitations—for instance, farmers with jobs that are not seasonal are not able to utilize it. However, changes can be made to the H-2A program to make it more responsive to the needs of agriculture and more user-friendly for farmers.

That is what the focus of immigration reform should be. Instead, the bill we are considering today is putting in statute what has only been implied previously by the Federal Government’s blind eye about illegal workers: it pays to break the law.

The feature that is most true in the agricultural section of this bill than anywhere else. The amendment I have introduced is one of a series that I will file that will attempt to eliminate some of the hardships this bill levies on those agricultural employers who have been and will continue to utilize the legal program we have in place for temporary agricultural workers.

Currently, agricultural employers who utilize the H-2A program must pay all workers in the occupation in which they employ workers the higher of the applicable minimum wage rate, the prevailing wage rate, or the adverse effect wage rate. In almost every instance, the adverse effect wage rate is the highest of these options.

Conversely, those agricultural employers who utilize an illegal workforce and are, often competitors of those using the H-2A program, are governed by no wage floor and generally end up paying around the Federal minimum wage rate, sometimes less. Obviously, a workforce that is paid a lower rate have a significant competitive advantage over their H-2A user counterparts based on overhead costs due to wage rates alone. And those illegal workers are subject to abusive payment practices by some employers.

Historically, approval of an employer’s use of non-immigrant visa-holding foreign workers was predicated on two things: No. 1, workers were available to fill the specific job, and No. 2, wages for that occupation would not be depressed by the hiring of foreign workers.

The obvious solution was the imposition of a prevailing wage requirement for specific occupations. The prevailing wage, determined by surveys conducted by States, insured that available U.S. workers would not be discouraged from applying for the job because it paid lower than usual wages. It also guaranteed that all workers, both foreign and domestic, would be paid a wage that was competitive in the local area, thus avoiding depressing wages for that occupation or making the use of foreign workers more attractive than hiring U.S. workers.

At the present time, prevailing wages are required for H-1B, H-2B, and permanent work-related visas. However, H-2A, the agricultural version of temporary, non-immigrant work visas, is not required to pay a wage rate above the adverse effect wage rate.

Unlike prevailing wages, which are established for a local area for specific jobs, and determined by the level of experience, skill, and education they require, the adverse effect wage rate is an average of all wages including incentive pay, bonuses, and seniority for all farm jobs in a multi-State region.

So an H-2A employer in Indiana must guarantee an H-2A worker with no experience working on a dairy farm the same minimum wage as a farm employee in Ohio with 5 years of experience operating a combine to harvest soybeans. Likewise, an inexperienced employee who is harvesting lettuce in California must be paid the same minimum wage as an experienced greenhouse worker in New Mexico. It just doesn’t make sense.

Prevailing wages are determined by the U.S. Department of Labor through its State partners, using a methodology designed to capture a fair wage that reflects the local standards specific to a particular occupation. This is currently done for H-1B and H-2B visas.

I might add that the new H-2C program that has been approved as part of this particular underlying bill and was accepted as the prevailing wage for that work was accepted by unanimous consent yesterday.

Conversely, the adverse effect wage rate is determined by a survey conducted by the U.S. Department of Agriculture as part of its larger National Agricultural Statistics Service surveys. Officials in the Department of Agriculture’s National Agricultural Statistics Service readily admit that the adverse effect wage rate was never designed to set specific wages-only to describe them in general. As such, the National Agricultural Statistics Service’s survey creates an artificial, multi-state wage floor—one that significantly increases annually, regardless of the economy, the agricultural market, and competitive factors within a product line or local area.

Supporters of maintaining an adverse effect wage rate for H-2A workers will tell you that it is necessary to prevent the presence of foreign workers from adversely affecting the wage rates of U.S. farm workers. These are generally the same folks who advocate for greater protections for farm workers.

So you can imagine my surprise when reading this bill when I found that there is no mandated wage floor for those workers who are now illegal working in agriculture once they get on a blue card or once they adjust to permanent resident status—assuming they stay in agriculture.

So while a farmer who utilizes H-2A workers in an occupation will have to pay all workers in that occupation the adverse effect wage rate, those farmers who have been using an illegal workforce and are allowed to continue to use that same workforce, which is legalized through this bill, will only be bound by the applicable minimum wage.

This does not make the least bit of sense.

To give you some examples: a farmer who uses the H-2A program in Oklahoma will have to pay his workers $8.32 per hour, while a farmer in the same place who uses a newly legalized blue card worker will have to pay only $5.15 per hour to his employees.

In Louisiana, an H-2A employer will have to pay $7.78 a hour to his workers while a farmer who employs blue card workers will only have to pay $5.15 per hour.

In Maryland, an H-2A employer must pay $9.23 an hour while a blue card employer only has to pay $5.15 an hour.

In Nebraska, an H-2A employer must pay $9.23 an hour while an employer of legalized blue card workers must pay only $5.15 an hour.

In Arkansas, H-2A employers must pay $7.58 an hour to their workers, while those who continue to use the previously illegal workforce pay only $5.15 an hour.

In Arizona, H-2A employers must pay $8.47 an hour while the blue card employers pay only $5.15 an hour for the same work.

In Kansas, H-2A employers will have to pay $9.23 an hour, while employers of blue card workers must pay only $5.15 an hour.

In Montana, H-2A employers must pay $8.47 an hour while blue card employers must pay $5.15 per hour.

You might be asking—well what about those states that have minimum wages higher than the federal minimum wage? The adverse effect wage rate is still higher—for example, an H-2A employer in New York will have to pay his workers $9.16 an hour while an employer who uses blue card workers will only have to pay $6.75 an hour. And in Connecticut, an H-2A employer will be mandated to pay $9.16 an hour while the farmer who uses blue card workers will pay $7.40 an hour. This is not fair to the farmers and it is not fair to the workers.

This bill systematically rewards law-breakers and punishes those who have, with some difficulty, been obeying the laws on the books today. This amendment is not just about parity, though I would argue strongly that it is needed—no only will H-2A employers be mandated to pay higher wages than their counterparts who use the newly legalized workforce, H-2A employers will also continue to be responsible for providing to their employees free housing and utilities, reimbursement of transportation costs, and payment of visa, consular, and border crossing fees. This amendment is about what is right for agriculture, both for the farmer as well as the migrant worker.

We know from past experience that once farm workers are legalized through an amnesty, they leave farm work. This means that the farmers who use an illegal workforce today and plan to leave their workers with the blue card program in this bill will be faced with the reality that the H-2A program will be the only avenue for legal workers when they cannot find others to do the jobs they need in the near future. The failure of the H-2A program in the past to meet the needs of agriculture across the nation has been based, in part, on provisions such as the adverse effect wage rate. H-2A employers simply can’t compete with the illegal workforce and they won’t be able to compete with employers of blue card workers.

This amendment will require that all workers in agriculture be paid the higher of the applicable minimum wage and the prevailing wage rate, as determined by the Department of Labor.

This will allow the mandated wages to reflect geographic location, occupation, and skill level, unlike under current law and in this bill. In addition, it will provide much-needed additional worker protections to those workers who adjust status under this bill by ensuring that they are guaranteed the same wage as an H-2A worker in the same occupation.

I ask my colleagues to support this amendment.

Let’s put parity in agriculture in a temporary worker program that has been on the books for decades and will work—if we can streamline it, if we can make it fairer for the employer, more attractive to the employer to use, and at the same time fair to the employee. I yield the floor.

The PRESIDENT OFFICER. The Senator from Idaho is recognized.

Mr. CRAIG. Mr. President, the hour is late. I know those at the desk, including the Chair, would like to dim the lights and say good evening. I will do that in just a few moments.

We are going to have an opportunity to debate in detail what the Senator from Georgia has put before the Senate as it relates to a wage rate for agricultural workers that is embodied within the bill that is before us in comprehensive immigration reform.

As I just stated after having worked on the agriculture portion of this bill for nearly 5 years, and as a farmer and rancher, I totally agree with the Senator from Georgia, that those who were under the H-2A program were very different, and those who weren’t were placing the farmer-producer who had adhered to the H-2A program at a true competitive disadvantage because of the adverse effect wage rate that the Senator spoke to.

As we work to reform and change the character of the H-2A program, and for those Senators who aren’t quite aware of that—that is the agricultural portion—we recognize that the adverse effect wage rate is a step. It was skewed in large part by comparative and competitive disadvantaged margins that the Senator speaks to. The Senator has proposed moving to a prevailing wage, which, in my opinion, is in itself the problem.

Let me make those points. What the Senator from Georgia has failed to suggest is after an examination of the adverse effect wage rate and recognizing the problems, we changed it dramatically. We said let’s freeze it at the 2003 level, January 1, which is actually the 2002 level, and keep it flat for 3 years while we adjust the agricultural workplace into a true prevailing wage.

That is what the bill does. Let me show you what I believe the effects are. I will go into those in more detail on Monday because they are significant, and in many instances what the bill does for American agriculture is better than what the Senator from Georgia is proposing. I focus on what is appropriate and right in bringing about equity and balance in the agricultural workforce and in that wage rate.

In 2006, the adverse effect wage rate was $8.63 an hour. This bill drops it to $8.19. In 2010, $10.25 and drops it to $9.06, and many examples on a State-by-State basis drop it more than that. But more than dropping the wage rate down and bringing equity in it, we bring equity in a sense by going in and focusing on it and making sure that we effectively change the indices, immediately upon the enactment of the agricultural portion known as AgJOBS of this bill.

In California, the wage rate will drop by 11 percent; in New Hampshire, 13 percent; South Carolina, 13 percent; Montana, 12 percent; Pennsylvania, 16 percent.

I wish the Senator would check his numbers. The numbers he talks about tonight are not prevailing wage. That is minimum wage. And minimum wage will not stand. That is something we are all going to have to look at as we focus on the Chambless amendment to see if those numbers are truly accurate. I am not in any way suggesting the Senator is wrong, but I am suggesting those who did the research used the Nation’s lowest indices possible. I challenge those numbers. It is appropriate to do so.

By 2016, the average farm wage is projected to be $12.81 but the projected adverse effect wage is $10 or down 17.5 percent below the average farm wage if we look at those kinds of indices. It is important to understand we are proposing significant changes in the wage rate and in the market.

The Senator is suggesting, and appropriately so, embodied within adverse effect wage were a variety of other things that agricultural producers had to supply, in some instances, housing, or housing certificates, and other types of amenities at the workplace. That will still happen, whether it is a transitional blue card employment force or an H-2A force because, clearly, once we have transitioned to the reformed H-2A program embodied within the bill before the Senate, will be the effective guest worker law portion of it dealing specifically with agriculture.

Agriculture is a different workforce. And it is a different wage scale. We know that.

Had the Senator embodied within it the advantage of piecework, the adverse effect wage rate does that. Do you know some workers who are getting $7 an hour, if they work piecework, get $12 an hour? It is their advantage to do is. There is a higher level of productivity when you bring them all to a common denominator that goes away. There are a variety of things that are critically important to look at.

I do not mean to suggest in any way that the numbers offered were offered in an untruthful way but the numbers that were provided to the offeror are the lowest common denominator at a minimum wage rate and not the 50th medium talked about by the Department of Labor in their analysis and in the establishment of an appropriate wage rate that would be a true prevailing wage rate.

I want a prevailing wage rate. That is what the bill proposes, a transitional pattern of time, a 3-year pattern of time with a frozen adverse effect wage rate, to move us to prevailing. The Farm Bureau asserts that the prevailing crop wage in Ohio ranges from $5.85 to $7.13 an hour. They compare this to the wage rate of $8.36 per hour which would apply during the AgJOBS wage freeze. Those are the kind of numbers that were being offered this evening. However, the medium hourly wage, which would be the prevailing wage under the amendment before the Senate was $8.37 as workers in Ohio in the data sourced by the Farm Bureau.

I am still digging into the numbers because I cannot quite understand it.
There is a disparity that is troublesome if we are to arrive at a fair, responsible, and accurate measurement to establish an effective prevailing wage that is fair to the worker, but more importantly, and as importantly, fair to the employer so that we get rid of the disincentive that the Senator from Georgia has recognized and sees as critically important.

In other words, if this data source represented agricultural prevailing wages, in one's opinion it does not, the prevailing crop rates I mentioned for Ohio would be at least 19 cents an hour higher than the AgJOBS minimum wage even in 2006 before we tamped it down in the law. The projected Ohio prevailing crop wage in 2010, based on the data source, would be $9.39 per hour compared to the AgJOBS minimum wage of $9.29.

In all sincerity, I offer to the Senator from Georgia a time for us to look at numbers and do some comparisons. There, I know what the bill does because the bill is accurately and effectively represented in these charts because we knew what the effective adverse wage was going to be, and there is a very clear projection line. I know and see the indicia given and provided as it relates to the Chambliss amendment.

I will spend the weekend looking at it and looking at those numbers. They do concern me. It is important we get it right that we want to treat anyone in a disadvantaged way, but what we do has to be accurate, it has to create stability, it has to take away the competitive disadvantage the Senator from Georgia is talking about, that is real today in this disparity between those H-2A workers and, if you will, the undocumented workers out there in the American workforce that the provision of the bill that deals with agriculture attempts to get its arms around. You can visualize through the blue card transition period the Senator and I have spoken to.

It is a very important part of the bill. Both the Senator from Georgia and I have been concerned for some time and have compared numbers about an American agricultural work base built on a faulty employment base. You cannot be working 75 percent undocumented workers and be wholly dependent upon them to bring the perishable crop and then have them swept out from under you.

Yet we also know that when there is 1.2 to 1.5 million people in the American agricultural workforce that are foreign nationals, yet annually, the H-2A as a program only effectively identifies 42,000 to 45,000, something was and is dramatically wrong. That is why the Senator is here with his amendment. That is why I am here with a major reform package within the bill. We both agree that the wage part of this is really critical. That is why I have proposed a prevailing wage, and he has proposed a prevailing wage.

We have to get the numbers right. I disagree with his numbers. It is important that in the effort to bring stability and equity we get them right.

I hope the Senate would get the Chambliss amendment, stay with the freeze that is actually the 2002 wage, and that is the way it should be. That is what we are going to be talking about.

But the numbers are what they are. And the numbers speak for themselves.

We look forward to debating in much more detail on Monday. Our purpose today on both ends was simply to get the amendment laid down. We will be back Monday to engage in more extensive debate.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that at 5:30 on Monday, May 22, the Senate proceed to a vote in relation to the Chambliss amendment No. 4009; provided further that the time from 5 to 5:30 be equally divided between Senator Chambliss and the Democratic manager. I further ask consent that following that vote, the Senate proceed immediately to a vote in relation to the Ensign amendment No. 4076, as modified. Finally, I ask consent that no second degrees be in order to either amendment prior to the votes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Without objection, it is so ordered.

MORNING BUSINESS

Mr. CHAMBLISS. Mr. President, I do not intend to take but a few seconds to not necessarily respond to my friend from Idaho, who correctly states we have been working together in trying to solve a very difficult problem relative to reform of the H-2A program.

He has been at it for a long time. My first vote on this was 11 years ago as a Member of the House of Representatives. That has been working on this issue. And we have yet to get the H-2A program reformed.

I am very hopeful, as we go through this, we will have an opportunity to look at the numbers. I did not even mention prevailing wage numbers for Ohio or any other State. Obviously, I am happy to look at those. But the numbers are what they are. And the Senator from Idaho, I assume, agrees with me and is going to vote with me because he wants a prevailing wage, and I am seeking to amend this bill to get a prevailing wage in a bill that has an adverse effect wage rate in it.

But seriously, the numbers are what they are. I think we can agree that the prevailing wage rate is higher than the minimum wage, and it is less than the adverse effect wage rate today virtually in every State and in every location in the country. Our farmers are very much at a disadvantage today, and it is not only that they are not willing to pay a fair wage.

You are right, most of our employees work on a piece rate. They cut a bucket of squash, they take it to the wagon, and they get a chip. And that chip may be worth $2 or it may be worth $5. That is the way most agricultural workers are paid: on a piece-rate basis. But there has to be a floor. They have to be paid a certain amount per hour under these circumstances to do an job it should be. And that is what we are going to be talking about.

But the numbers are what they are. And the numbers speak for themselves.

We look forward to debating in much more detail on Monday. Our purpose today on both ends was simply to get the amendment laid down. We will be back Monday to engage in more extensive debate.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that at 5:30 on Monday, May 22, the Senate proceed to a vote in relation to the Chambliss amendment No. 4009; provided further that the time from 5 to 5:30 be equally divided between Senator Chambliss and the Democratic manager. I further ask consent that following that vote, the Senate proceed immediately to a vote in relation to the Ensign amendment No. 4076, as modified. Finally, I ask consent that no second degrees be in order to either amendment prior to the votes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Without objection, it is so ordered.

COMMEMORATING THE 80TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE FOUNDING OF THE DESERT NATIONAL WILDLIFE REFUGE

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I rise today to bring recognition to one of the most majestic places in Nevada—the Desert National Wildlife Refuge. On Saturday, May 20 the refuge will have been in existence for 80 years. Established in 1936 during the Presidency of Franklin Delano Roosevelt, the Desert National Wildlife Refuge is a key part of the National Wildlife Refuge System that protects sensitive lands and species throughout our great Nation.

Covering 1.5 million acres of the Mojave Desert in southern Nevada, the Desert refuge is the largest National Wildlife Refuge in the continental United States. The Mojave Desert is known for its wide variety of geology, plant life, and animal life. The Desert National Wildlife Refuge epitomizes this diversity. It contains six different mountain ranges, and four different climatic regions, with an annual rainfall between 4 and 15 inches, elevations ranging from 2,500 ft to 10,000 ft, and over 300 different animal species, the Desert refuge offers a truly varied landscape.

The Desert National Wildlife Refuge was originally established for the preservation and management of Nevada’s desert bighorn sheep population, which had begun to decline as early as the 1880s. The desert bighorn sheep is the State animal of Nevada and, thanks in large part to the refuge and the work of groups such as the Fraternity of the Desert Bighorn and Nevada Bighorns Unlimited, our bighorn sheep population has been steadily rising in recent years.

I would be remiss if I didn’t also take a few moments to talk about the incredible sheep range that runs up the east side of refuge. Rising nearly 10,000 feet out of the desert floor and running over 50 miles in length, this mountain range has engaged the imaginations of Americans since well before southern Nevada was settled. This most memorable natural landmark is one of the key wildlife destinations in every corner and cranny of this wondrous State, filled with unparalleled scenic beauty, old-fashioned hospitality, and a sincere commitment to excellence. Our belief in ourselves and in our abilities is apparent when we welcome our troops home from service overseas; when we watch our sons and daughters receive their high school diplomas; when our communities band together to overcome tragedy; or when we gather together to celebrate shared pride and achievement. It is always the same: Mountaineer pride runs strong and deep in West Virginia.

West Virginia pride is particularly on display today in Buffalo, WV, where Toyota Motor Manufacturing, West Virginia, TMMWV, is celebrating its 10th anniversary. I commend Toyota on its commitment to West Virginia, and I heartily congratulate the company on its celebration of 10 years in the Mountaineer State.

I believe, over the past decade, how hundreds of West Virginians each day have committed themselves to their work at Toyota. The high standards that have been set by the men and women who work at Toyota’s facility in Buffalo show that our State, though small in size, successfully plays host to one of the world’s largest, most successful, and well-respected companies. To Toyota’s credit, the Bighorn Sheep Range serves its fine reputation, based on its gains in productivity, its high standards for fine quality, and its unflagging commitment to the future.

Today, Toyota Motor Manufacturing established its operations in West Virginia in 1996, and currently produces four-cylinder engines for the Toyota Corolla, the Matrix, and the Pontiac Vibe. It also produces V6 engines for the Toyota Sienna and Solara. The plant also manufactures automatic transmissions for the U.S.-built Solara, Sienna and Avalon, the Canadian-built Lexus RX 350, and the Japan-built Highlander, providing quality jobs for over 1,000 West Virginians. And employment there is projected to grow to 1,150 workers when the existing transmission plant is expanded as promised.

In fact, last year Toyota announced that it would undertake a $120 million expansion of its engine and transmission plant in Buffalo. As a result, beginning in 2007, Toyota Manufacturing in West Virginia will build 240,000 additional automatic transmissions per year. This will bring the plant’s total automatic transmission capacity to 600,000 units, and this fifth expansion by Toyota in West Virginia will bring its total investment there to over $1 billion mark.

Every day, in Buffalo, hundreds of West Virginians commit themselves to superior performance. Toyota has become a highly valued member of the West Virginia business community, and the company’s commitment to its continued expansion in our State sends a clear message to the world not only that West Virginia’s workforce is top of the line, but also that communities throughout West Virginia make our State a beacon for business, including international investment. The employment provided by Toyota at Buffalo constitutes exactly the type of well-paying jobs, with accompanying health and pension benefits, that West Virginia workers so richly deserve.

Mr. President, I would like to take this opportunity to once again congratulate Toyota on its 10th anniversary in West Virginia. I also congratulate Toyota Motor Manufacturing, West Virginia President Yutaka Mizuno and the men and women of this plant for its all of its truly spectacular achievements in its first decade in our fair State. I would also like to thank my dear friend and colleague, Senator JAY ROCKEFELLER, who worked so tirelessly and in such good faith to bring Toyota to West Virginia. JAY and I, and all West Virginians, are pleased and proud to have Toyota in Buffalo, WV. May this be the first of many more decades of partnership and accomplishment for our State and for Toyota Motor Manufacturing.

Mr. BAYH. Mr. President, I rise today to congratulate Toyota Motor Manufacturing of Indiana, on celebrating the 10th anniversary of its Princeton assembly plant. Since opening its doors 10 years ago, Toyota’s Princeton plant has spurred economic growth in southwest Indiana and brought quality, good-paying jobs to the State, giving more workers the opportunity to provide for their families and live the American dream.

When I was Governor, I was proud to join with Toyota Motor Corporation, TMC, Chairman Hiroshi Okuda in bringing the Toyota truck assembly plant to Princeton as part of my economic development for a growing economy, EDGE, initiative. Over the past 10 years, Toyota’s Princeton plant has experienced remarkable growth, which has had a substantial, positive economic impact on the State of Indiana as well as the local economy.

Toyota’s initial investment of $700 million in the Princeton assembly plant led to the immediate creation of 1,150 family-wage jobs and an increase in the production of approximately 100,000 trucks per year. Today, Toyota’s investment has grown to more than $2.5 billion, and its truck assembly plant now employs more than 4,700 men and women who produce more than 300,000 vehicles each year, including the Tundra full-size pickup truck, Sequoia sport utility vehicle, and Sienna minivan.

This exceptional growth and the recent announcement of Toyota’s collaboration with Subaru in Lafayette have made it one of Indiana’s largest auto manufacturers. Toyota’s efforts demonstrate its continued commitment to the State and highlight the contributions Toyota has made to the United States and local communities in Indiana.

It is estimated that Toyota’s annual economic impact on the State of Indiana is equal to about $1.25 billion, or nearly $503 million in employee compensation, and $3.5 billion in business sales. A study conducted by the University of Evansville and the University of Southern Indiana estimates that in Gibson County alone, Toyota is annually responsible for $8,865 jobs, approximately $119 million in employee compensation, and $519 million in business sales.

I am honored to have the opportunity to enter this tribute in the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD of the Senate and commend Toyota Motor Manufacturing of Indiana for all that it has done for Hoosier working men and women over the past 10 years.
Ralph could not stay away from Washington and returned to serve as Special Assistant to the Secretary of Commerce. In July 1985, Chief Justice Warren Burger appointed him Director of the Administrative Office of the U.S. Courts. The Administrative Office provided initial support that year to the judicial branch and communicated on behalf of the judiciary with Congress, the executive branch, and the public.

Ralph served in this capacity during a particularly challenging time for the judiciary. Providing effective judicial administration in the face of budgetary constraints is difficult when the Federal judiciary’s caseload continues its upward spiral. Cases filed in the U.S. Court of Appeals, for example, more than doubled during Ralph’s time as Director. The number of bankruptcy cases skyrocketed from 365,000 to over 1,780,000 in that same period. In addition, national tragedies such as the terrorist attack on September 11, as well as catastrophes such as Hurricane Katrina, created their own unique challenges to the continued functioning of the judiciary. Ralph met each challenge effectively. His extensive background in public administration and experience in both the legislative and executive branches served him well in equipping the judicial branch for its critical tasks even through these challenges and troubled times.

Ralph also led the judicial branch through a period of increased public attention and even criticism regarding judicial decisions. Protecting judicial independence while also enhancing public understanding of the function of judges in our system of government is just the kind of balancing act Ralph was prepared to tackle. He did so effectively with a steady hand.

The Director of the Administrative Office serves as secretary of the Judicial Conference, a member of its executive committee. The judges who chaired the executive committee during Ralph’s tenure also have praised his work.

The current executive committee chairman, U.S. District Judge Thomas F. Hogan, says that “[w]atching Ralph operate is like watching a master conductor guide the philharmonic orchestra through a complicated Bach symphony.” If only this could be said of us Senators and our work on our committees or on the floor.

Judge Carolyn Dinen King, Chief Judge of the Fifth Circuit, chaired the executive committee from 2002 to 2005. In tackling a wide range of problems, she says, “Director Mecham exhibited his usual inventiveness, intensity, tenacity, and judgment and his remarkable ability to inspire others . . . to do the very best they were capable of.”

Judge Wilfred Feinberg of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit chaired the executive committee from 1987 to 1989. He has said that “Ralph handled this difficult job with confidence, competence and dedication. It is a testament to his hard work and dedication that today the federal courts to a large extent so successfully manage their own resources and operations.”

Judge Ralph K. Winter, also a former Chief Judge of the Second Circuit, serves as an active member of the executive committee thatdecade later, from 1999 to 2000. He believed that Ralph showed “a remarkable capacity for keeping the long view in mind while putting out the short-term fires that would relentlessly pop up in various directions.”

Perhaps the best applause for Ralph Mecham’s leadership comes from Sixth Circuit Judge Gilbert Merritt, who chaired the executive committee from 1984 to 1996. The judiciary is in much better shape administratively than it was 20 years ago.” Whether in our families, our communities, or our work, we should each strive to leave those in our charge better off than we found them.

I was pleased to hear that Ralph recently received the 2006 National Public Service Award in recognition of his excellence in a half-century of public service. The award announcement noted his support for the Judicial Conference by providing high-quality services to judges and the courts, and by building relationships both inside and outside the judiciary.

Ralph Mecham has been married to the former Barbara Folsom for more than 55 years. With 5 children and 14 grandchildren, he is a devoted family man. Ralph has served in various positions in church and community, including time as a missionary in Great Britain, chairman of the Utah State Heart Association, chairman of the Salt Lake County Cancer Association, and chairman of the University of Utah National Advisory Council. His commitment to the community and to his church continues.

The judicial branch and the country are better because of Ralph’s service. I want to commend him for his commitment and for setting a good example of public service. His record tells me that, even in supposed retirement, Ralph Mecham will continue helping and serving those around him.

MESSAGES FROM THE PRESIDENT
Messages from the President of the United States were communicated to the Senate by Ms. Evans, one of his secretaries.

EXECUTIVE MESSAGES REFERRED
As in executive session the Presiding Officer laid before the Senate messages from the President of the United States submitting sundry nominations which were referred to the appropriate committees for action.

(The nominations received today are printed at the end of the Senate proceedings.)
REPORT RELATIVE TO THE CONTINUATION OF THE NATIONAL EMERGENCY WITH RESPECT TO BURMA—PM 48

The PRESIDING OFFICER laid before the Senate the following message from the President of the United States, together with an accompanying report.

The message was referred to the Committee on Banking, Housing, and Urban Affairs:

To the Congress of the United States:

Section 202(d) of the National Emergencies Act (50 U.S.C. 1622(d)) provides for the automatic termination of a national emergency unless, prior to the anniversary date of its declaration, the President publishes in the Federal Register and transmits to the Congress a notice stating that the emergency is to continue in effect beyond the anniversary date. I have sent the enclosed notice to the Federal Register for publication, which states that the Burma emergency is to continue beyond May 20, 2006, for publication. The most recent notice continuing this emergency was published in the Federal Register on May 20, 2005 (70 FR 29435).

The threats of attachment or other judicial process against (i) the Development Fund for Iraq, (ii) Iraqi petroleum assets and interests therein, and proceeds, obligations, or any financial instruments of any nature whatsoever arising from or related to the sale or marketing thereof, or (iii) any accounts, assets, investments, or any other property of any kind owned by, belonging to, or held by, on behalf of, or otherwise for the Central Bank of Iraq create obstacles to the orderly reconstruction of Iraq, the restoration and maintenance of peace and security in the country, and the development, administrative, and economic institutions in Iraq. Accordingly, these obstacles continue to pose an unusual and extraordinary threat to the national security and foreign policy of the United States. For these reasons, I have determined that it is necessary to continue the national emergency protecting the Development Fund for Iraq, certain other property in which Iraq has an interest, and the Central Bank of Iraq, and to maintain in force the sanctions to respond to this threat.

GEORGE W. BUSH.

STATEMENTS ON INTRODUCED BILLS AND JOINT RESOLUTIONS
By Mr. LOTT (for himself and Mr. PRYOR):
S. 2830. A bill to amend the automobile fuel economy provisions of title 49, United States Code, to reform the setting and calculation of fuel economy standards for passenger automobiles, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation.

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, I rise today to introduce The Corporate Average Fuel Economy, CAFE, Program Reform Act of 2006. This bill was joined in this effort by Senator PSEYOR, who serves on the Commerce Committee with me.

Since being introduced in the 1970s, CAFE standards have been controversial. Their effect on safety, consumer choice, and the automobile industry.

CAFE became so controversial that it essentially was frozen for many years. The stand-off over CAFE finally eased a little bit when a Congressionally commissioned National Academy of Sciences review of the CAFE program was released in 2002. Although that study found that CAFE had in fact reduced energy consumption, the Academy was critical of how the program was structured and found that there was a negative impact on safety.

Just this spring, the Department of Transportation issued a reformed CAFE rules for pickup trucks, vans, and SUVs. This rule is a radical departure from prior CAFE rules in that it applies different standards to different sized vehicles rather than a uniform standard across the entire industry.

The Department’s approach addresses many of the criticisms in the Academy’s study.

The recent rule did not, however, include new standards for cars. Those standards have been the same since 1981 and there is considerable legal ambiguity about the secretary’s ability to increase the existing standards. It is clear, however, that the law does not allow the secretary to “reform” CAFE standards for cars. This part of the statute is written differently than for light trucks.

As chairman of the Subcommittee on Surface Transportation and Merchant Marine, I held a hearing on reforming CAFE standards last week which heard from Secretary Mineta, as well as the automobile industry, safety advocates, and fuel economy experts. After listening to what our witnesses had to say, I am convinced that “reform” is a necessary approach.

After that hearing, Secretary Mineta transmitted legislation to Congress asking for the authority to reform CAFE standards.

The bill we are introducing today is very straightforward. The main feature of the legislation is that it gives the Secretary of Transportation the authority to reform the CAFE program in a manner similar to the rule that he issued for light trucks. The bill puts the responsibility of setting CAFE standards where it belongs—and that is with the scientists and technical experts at the Department of Transportation.

The reformed CAFE program authorized by this legislation will address many of the past criticisms. For example, the legislation specifies that the Secretary must take motor vehicle safety into consideration when developing new CAFE standards. The legislation also allows the trading of CAFE credits between a manufacturer’s passenger car and light truck fleets. This gives manufacturers the flexibility to increase CAFE where it is most cost effective to do so.

Let me briefly address one issue that is potentially controversial. That is the issue of what is being called “backsliding.” The concern is that under a reformed CAFE program, manufacturers could simply stop manufacturing some of their smaller cars since the Department of Transportation could then end up being below where it is presently. Although this is very unlikely to happen and that isn't the intent of a "reformed" CAFE system, I understand the concern. Senator Pryor and I have included a provision in our legislation to address that problem. I know that there are many opinions on how to deal with this backsliding issue, and some people may not feel that our approach is strong enough. On the other hand, if the provision is too strict then the benefits of reform are potentially wiped out.

In the past, many in Congress have played politics with CAFE—offering bills that try to set unrealistically high or arbitrary CAFE standards. On the other side are those that have simply opposed doing anything. This has resulted in a stalemate and lots of finger pointing. I hope this doesn't happen again, because we really do need to get tougher standards in place as soon as we can.

Senator Pryor and I are committed to improving the fuel economy of our vehicles without reducing safety and reliability or losing jobs. I urge my colleagues to support this legislation.

I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the text of the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

S. 2830
Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.
This Act may be cited as the "Corporate Average Fuel Economy Reform Act of 2006".

SEC. 2. CAFE STANDARDS FOR PASSENGER AUTOMOBILES.
(a) AVERAGE FUEL ECONOMY STANDARDS FOR AUTOMOBILES.—Section 32902 of title 49, United States Code, is amended—
(1) by striking subsections (b) and (c) and inserting the following:
"(b) PASSENGER AUTOMOBILES.—
(1) IN GENERAL.—In prescribing a standard under paragraph (1), the Secretary of Transportation shall prescribe by regulation average fuel economy standards for passenger automobiles manufactured by a manufacturer in that model year. Each standard shall be the maximum feasible average fuel economy level that the Secretary determines the manufacturers can achieve in that model year. The Secretary may prescribe separate standards for different classes of passenger automobiles.
(2) DEMONSTRATION.—In prescribing a standard under paragraph (1), the Secretary shall ensure that no manufacturer's standard for a particular model year is less than the greater of—
(A) the standard in effect on the date of enactment of the Corporate Average Fuel Economy Reform Act of 2006; or
(B) a standard established in accordance with the requirement of section 5(c)(2) of that Act.
"(c) FLEXIBILITY OF AUTHORITY.—
(1) The authority of the Secretary to prescribe by regulation average fuel economy standards for automobiles under this section includes the authority to prescribe different standards for different classes of passenger automobiles that attribute to vehicle attributes that relate to fuel economy, and to express the standards in the form of a mathematical function. The Secretary may issue a regulation prescribing standards for one or more model years.
(2) REQUIRED LEAD-TIME.—When the Secretary prescribes an amendment to a standard under this section that makes an average fuel economy standard more stringent, the Secretary shall prescribe the amendment at least 10 days before the beginning of the model year to which the amendment applies.
(3) NO ACROSS-THE-BOARD INCREASES.—
When the Secretary prescribes a standard, or amendment, under this section that changes a standard, the standard may not be expressed as a uniform percentage increase in automobile classes or categories already achieved in a model year by a manufacturer.
(b) MINIMUM STANDARD.—
In prescribing a standard under paragraph (1), the Secretary decides the manufacturers can achieve the exemptions from the standard.
(c) FLEXIBILITY OF AUTHORITY.

SEC. 3. USE OF EARNED CREDITS.
Section 32903 of title 49, United States Code, is amended—
(1) by striking "3 consecutive model years"; in subsection (a)(1) and subsection (a)(2) and inserting "5 consecutive model years";
(2) by striking "3 model years" in subsection (b)(2) and inserting "5 model years";
(3) by redesignating subsection (f) as subsection (g); and
(4) by inserting after subsection (e) the following:
"(g) CREDIT TRANSFERS.—The Secretary of Transportation may by regulation, on such terms and conditions as the Secretary may specify, permit the transfer of credits that automobile that earns credits to transfer such credits attributable to the following production segments in a model year to those credits in the model year to the other production segment:
(1) Passenger-automobile production.
(2) Non-passerger-automobile production.
In promulgating such regulation, the Secretary shall take into consideration the potential effect of such transfers on creating incentives for manufacturers to produce more efficient vehicles and domestic automotive employment.

SEC. 4. USE OF CIVIL PENALTIES FOR RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT.
Section 32912 of title 49, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end thereof the following:
"(c) RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT AND USE OF CIVIL PENALTIES.—
(1) All civil penalties assessed by the Secretary or by a Court shall be credited to an account at the Department of Transportation, and shall be used to carry out the research program described in paragraph (2).
(2) The Secretary shall carry out a program of research and development into fuel saving automotive technologies and support rulemaking related to the corporate average fuel economy program.

SEC. 5. EFFECTIVE DATE.
(a) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in subsection (b), this Act, and the amendments made by this Act, take effect on the date of enactment of this Act.
(b) TRANSITION FOR PASSENGER AUTOMOBILE STANDARD.—Notwithstanding subsection (a), and except as provided in subsection (c)(2), until the effective date of a standard for passenger automobiles that is issued under the authority of section 32902(b) of title 49, United States Code, as amended by this Act, the standard or standards in place for passenger automobiles under the authority of section 32902 of that title, as that section was in effect on the day before the date of enactment of this Act.
(c) RULEMAKING.—
(1) INITIATION OF RULEMAKING UNDER AMENDED LAW.—Within 60 days after the date on which the initial effective date of this Act, the Secretary of Transportation shall initiate a rulemaking for passenger automobiles under section..."
32302(b) of title 49, United States Code, as amended by this Act.

(2) AMENDMENT OF EXISTING STANDARD.—

Until the Secretary issues a final rule pursuant to paragraph (1), the Secretary shall amend the average fuel economy standard prescribed pursuant to section 32302(b) of title 49, Code of Federal Regulations, for passenger automobiles in model years to which the standard adopted by such final rule does not apply.

Mr. PRYOR. Mr. President, I rise today with my good friend and colleague from Mississippi, Senator LOTT, to introduce legislation to reform and raise the corporate average fuel economy standard for the first time since its inception over 30 years ago.

In 1975 this body passed, as a part of the Energy Policy and Conservation Act, the very first fuel economy standards for our passenger car fleet, setting a standard that all manufacturers must achieve 27.5 miles per gallon. This was done in response to the first oil embargo and the energy crisis of the early 1970s. Americans realized for the first time that we as a nation must set and achieve attainable goals for energy conservation, not only for our economic security but also for our national security.

Still 20 years after reaching this peak around 1985, the fuel economy of the Nation’s passenger car fleet has stagnated. Some have even argued the fleet of vehicles entering the marketplace today gets less fuel economy than those models in 1985. While fuel efficient technology has improved over the years, the fuel economy of the Nation’s passenger fleet has not. Also today, our dependence on oil is greater than ever before. This dependence has complicated decisions we make as a country, such as foreign policy decisions, and as individuals, such as whether or not to fill up your gas tank or buy groceries.

I believe we must do better for families in Arkansas and around the Nation. We must protect our national security by reducing our dependence on foreign oil, which complicate our foreign policy decision-making in oil-rich regions. We must protect the environment by reducing greenhouse gas emissions. We must reduce the cost of transportation for consumers. We must begin implementing more stringent CAFE standards now before these problems worsen. Gasoline is over 70 cents higher than this time last year, and the number of miles driven by every American over the age of 16 has risen over 60 percent since 1970—and is continuing to impose a huge price.

This is why I have joined my colleagues and worked in a bipartisan manner to introduce comprehensive CAFE reform. For over 30 years the original CAFE standard has remained in place while a rapidly advancing marketplace and rapidly advancing technology have left it behind. Each time fuel economy standards have been debated in this body, they have been mired in partisan politics resulting in nothing but stalemate.

Senator LOTT and I are choosing to break this pattern of progress over politics with our common sense legislation, the Corporate Average Fuel Economy Reform Act of 2006. Under the bill we will establish our national security and energy conservation goals while preserving motor vehicle safety, American manufacturing jobs, and consumer choice for vehicles.

Specifically, it will clarify the authority of the Secretary of Transportation to raise and reform CAFE standards. It requires the Secretary to begin the reform process within 60 days in addition to requiring the Secretary to complete an expedited rulemaking to immediately amend the current CAFE standard before a reformed standard takes effect.

For the first time, it will require the Secretary to consider greenhouse gas emissions when promulgating a CAFE standard, as well as require the Secretary to obtain comments from the Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency on the impact of any new rule on the environment.

Our legislation also gives automobile manufacturers more flexibility in the way they can apply CAFE credits in order to help them preserve American jobs. It preserves the 18-month lead time required before the Secretary can issue more stringent CAFE standards.

It also allows the Secretary to use the fines collected for violations of the CAFE standard for research and development of fuel saving technologies and to conduct CAFE rulemakings. Finally, our bill provides a backstop fuel economy average which no manufacturer can go below, regardless of their fleet mix.

There is no silver bullet in accomplishing our national security and energy goals, and we must seek short-term alternatives in addition to long-term solutions. CAFE reform is one part of a long-term solution to reduce our dependence on oil, but it is one that can have lasting impact. Still, I believe for the long-term security of our country, this is as good a place as any to start.

I thank my colleague from the Commerce Committee, Senator LOTT, for his hard work on this bipartisan legislation. I look forward to working with him and the rest of my colleagues to ensure that this reform becomes law.

By Mr. LUGAR (for himself, Mr. SPECTER, Mr. DODD, Mr. GRAHAM, and Mr. SCHUMER):

S. 2681. A bill to guarantee the free flow of information to the public by providing the press the ability to obtain and protect confidential sources. It provides journalists with certain rights and abilities to sources and report appropriate information without fear of intimidation or retribution. This bill sets national standards, based on Department of Justice guidelines, for subpoenas issued to reporters by the Federal Government.
Our legislation promotes greater transparency of government, maintains the ability of the courts to operate effectively, and protects the whistle-blowers that identify government or corporate misdeeds and protect national security.

It is also important to note what this legislation does not do. The legislation does not permit rule breaking, give reporters a license to break the law, or permit reporters to interfere with crime-fighting efforts. Furthermore, the Free Flow of Information Act does not weaken national security or restrict law enforcement. Additional protections have been added to this bill to ensure that information will be disclosed in cases where the guilt or innocence of a criminal is in question, in cases where a reporter was an eye witness to a crime, and in cases where the information is critical to prevent death or bodily harm. The national security exception and continued support for reporting the classified information will ensure that reporters are protected while maintaining an avenue for prosecution and disclosure when considering the defense of our country.

Reporters Without Borders has reported that more than 100 journalists are currently in jail around the world, with more than half in China, Cuba, and Burma. This is not good company for the United States of America. Global public opinion is always on the lookout to advertise perceived American double standards. I believe that passage of this bill would have positive diplomatic consequences. This legislation not only confirms America’s constitutional commitment to press freedom, it also advances President Bush’s American foreign policy initiatives to promote and protect democracy. When we support the development of free and independent media organizations worldwide, it is important to maintain these ideals at home.

In conclusion, I thank, again, my colleagues, Senator SPECTER, the distinguished chairman of the Judiciary Committee, and Senator DODD for their tireless work on this issue. With their assistance, I look forward to working with each of my colleagues to ensure that the free flow of information is unimpeded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Pennsylvania.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, I am pleased to join with Senator LUGAR, the principal sponsor, and Senators DODD, GRAHAM, and SCHUMER on the introduction of legislation which will codify a reporter’s privilege, something that is very necessary. The matter came into sharp focus recently with the contempt citation and the incarceration of New York Times reporter, Judith Miller, for some 85 days. The Judiciary Committee held two separate hearings on this subject. Senator LUGAR, with Congressman PENCE in the House, introduced legislation which has formed the nucleus of the bill we are introducing today.

The Branzburg v. Hayes case, 33 years ago, which was a 5-to-4 decision, with a concurring opinion by Justice Powell, has led to what is accurately called a crazy quilt of judicial standards. Rather than a clear, uniform standard for deciding claims of journalist privilege, the Federal courts currently observe a “crazy quilt” of different judicial standards.

The current confusion began 33 years ago, when the Supreme Court decided Branzburg v. Hayes. The Court held that the press’s first amendment right to publish information does not include a right to keep information secret from a grand jury investigating a criminal matter. The Supreme Court also held that the common law did not exempt journalists from the same duty to provide information to a grand jury.

In recent months, there has been a growing consensus that we need to establish a Federal journalists’ privilege to protect the integrity of the gathering process—a process that depends on the free flow of information between journalists and whistle-blowers, as well as other confidential sources. I do not reach this conclusion lightly. The Judiciary Committee held two separate hearings in which it heard from some 140 witnesses. Of this number were seven journalists, six attorneys, including current or former prosecutors and some of the Nation’s most distinguished experts on the first amendment.

These witnesses demonstrated that there are two vital, competing concerns at stake. On one hand, reporters cite the need to maintain confidentiality in order to ensure that sources will speak openly and freely with the news media. The renowned William Safire, former columnist for the New York Times, testified that “the essence of news-gathering is this: if you don’t have sources you trust and who trust you, then you don’t have a solid story—and the public suffers for it.”

On the other hand, the public has a right to effective law enforcement and fair trials. Our judicial system needs access to information in order to prosecute crime and to guarantee fair administration of the law for plaintiffs and defendants alike. As a Justice Department representative told the committee, prosecutors need to maintain the ability, in certain vitally important circumstances, to obtain information identifying a source when a paramount interest is at stake. For example, obtaining source information may be the only available means of precluding witnesses from testifying in grand jury investigations with the government to harass journalists. If a judge issues a subpoena, you have a right to keep information secret from a grand jury, but would compel the disclosure of a source for a national security case.

This legislation has the endorsement of 39 of the major American organizations in the United States. The New York Times, the Washington Post, the Associated Press, Time, Hearst Corporation, Philadelphia Inquirer, Newspaper Association of America, ABC, NBC, and CBS. It goes a long way to protecting sources, but it also leaves latitude, in the form of a balancing test, for Federal prosecutors to gain information under limited circumstances for plaintiffs and defendants in civil cases. Our justifiable commitment to press freedom, it also Under limited circumstances for plaintiffs and defendants in civil cases.

The current confusion began 33 years ago, when the Supreme Court decided Branzburg v. Hayes. The Court held that the press’s first amendment right to publish information does not include a right to keep information secret from a grand jury investigating a criminal matter. The Supreme Court also held that the common law did not exempt reporters from the duty of every citizen to provide information to a grand jury.

The Court reasoned that just as newspapers and journalists are subject to the same laws as other citizens, they are also subject to the same duty to provide information to a court as other citizens. However, Justice Powell, who joined the 5-4 majority, wrote a separate concurrence in which he explained that the Court’s holding was not an invitation for the government to harass journalists. If a journalist could show that the grand jury investigation was being conducted in bad faith, the journalist could ask the court to quash the subpoena. Justice Powell well indicated that we ought to assess such claims on a case-by-case basis by balancing the freedom of the press against the obligation to give testimony relevant to criminal conduct.

In attempting to apply Justice Powell’s enunciating opinion, Federal courts have split on the question of when a journalist is required to testify. In the 33 years since Branzburg, the Federal courts are split in at least three ways in their approaches to Federal criminal and civil cases.

With respect to Federal criminal cases, five circuits—the first, fourth, fifth, sixth, and seventh circuits—have applied Branzburg so as to not allow journalists to withhold information absent governmental bad faith. Four other circuits—the second, third, ninth, and eleventh circuits—recognize a qualified privilege, which requires courts to balance the freedom of the press against the obligation to provide testimony on a case-by-case basis. The law in the District of Columbia Circuit is unsettled.

With respect to Federal civil cases, nine circuits apply a balancing test when deciding whether journalists must disclose confidential sources. One circuit affords journalists no privilege in any context. Two other circuits have yet to decide whether journalists have any privilege in civil cases. Meanwhile, 49 States plus the District of Columbia have recognized a privilege within their own jurisdictions. Thirty-one States plus the District of Columbia have passed some form of reporter’s shield statute, and 18 States have recognized a privilege at common law.

There is little wonder that there is a growing consensus concerning the need for a uniform journalists’ privilege in Federal courts. This system must be simplified.

Today, we are taking the first step to resolving this problem by introducing the Free Flow of Information Act. This bill draws upon 33 years of experience, as embodied in the Department of Justice’s regulations, the law established by the Federal courts of appeals, State statutes, and existing national security provisions. The purpose of this bill is to guarantee the flow of information to the public through a free and active press, while protecting the public’s right to effective law enforcement and individuals’ rights to the fair administration of justice.

This bill provides ample protection for the Nation’s journalists, as demonstrated by the fact that it is endorsed by 39 news organizations identified in a list I will include at the end of my remarks.

This bill also provides ample protection to the public’s interest in law enforcement and fair trials. In drafting this legislation, we started with what works. Both the Department of Justice and the vast majority of journalists with whom we have met—in individual meetings and over the course of two hearing days—have voiced strong support for the regulations that the Department of Justice currently applies to all of its prosecutors. Moreover, time has proven that these regulations are workable. The Department of Justice has been effectively prosecuting cases under these regulations for 25 years and a majority of State prosecutors carry out their duties under similar statutes.

I have two concerns with the Department’s regulations, however. First, under current law, these regulations do not apply to special prosecutors. Special prosecutors are often called upon in cases that are politically sensitive, may potentially be embarrassing to senior government officials, and are high-profile—those cases that seem to carry the greatest risk of an overzealous prosecutor needlessly subpoenaing journalists.

Second, government regulations are presently enforced by the Attorney General, not a neutral court of law. This places the Attorney General in a difficult position; namely, the primary check on Federal prosecutors’ ability to subpoena information is the Nation’s highest Federal prosecutor. Most Americans, I believe, would feel more comfortable having the competing interests weighed by a neutral judge instead of a political appointee who answers to the President. Accordingly, this bill, in large part, codifies the Department of Justice’s regulations into law; applies them to all Federal prosecutors, including special prosecutors; and provides that the courts, not a political official, shall decide whether the public interest in law enforcement outweighs the interest in allowing a journalist to protect a confidential source.

The Free Flow of Information Act addresses two additional areas of considerable confusion and concern. First, it ensures that qualified sources apply a qualified privilege, which requires that the court conclude that the evidence to be disclosed is not a criminal defendant who subpoenas a journalist. To ensure that every criminal defendant has a fair trial, a criminal defendant has less of a burden than a prosecutor does, to show that the journalist’s information is needed to prevent or stop a crime that could lead to death or physical injury. Also, the bill ensures that both crime victims and the public interest are served, as the court must find that the party is not trying to harass or punish the journalist, and that the public interest requires disclosure. Finally, the bill provides that the court conclude that the journalist’s information is needed to prevent or stop a crime that could lead to death or physical injury. Also, the bill ensures that both crime victims and the public interest are served, as the court must find that the party is not trying to harass or punish the journalist, and that the public interest requires disclosure.

Finally, the Free Flow of Information Act adds layers of safeguards for the public. Reporters are not allowed to withhold information if a Federal court concludes that the information is important to the defense of our Nation’s security or is needed to prevent or stop a crime that could lead to death or physical injury. Also, the bill ensures that both crime victims and the public interest are served, as the court must find that the party is not trying to harass or punish the journalist, and that the public interest requires disclosure.

It is time to simplify the patchwork of court decisions and legislation that has grown over the last three decades. It is time for Congress to clear up the ambiguities journalists and the Federal judicial system face in balancing the protections journalists need in providing confidential information to the public with the ability of the courts to conduct fair and accurate trials. I urge my colleagues to support this legislation and help create a fair and efficient means to serve journalists and the news media, prosecutors and the courts, and most importantly the public interest on both ends of the spectrum.

I ask unanimous consent to print the list of organizations and companies that support the legislation in the RECORD.

Without being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

ORGANIZATIONS/COMPANIES SUPPORTING “FREE FLOW OF INFORMATION ACT OF 2006”

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Connecticut.

Mr. DODD. Mr. President, let me express my gratitude to my colleague from Indiana, Senator LUGAR, and his colleague from Indiana, Congressman BOUCHER of Virginia, who are drafting similar legislation and propose similar legislation in the other body and, of the Senator from Pennsylvania has explained. It deals with an issue that many were concerned about, and that is the national security question.

The point I would like to make is that while this is about journalists and this protection of helping them reveal stories that might otherwise not be told, the real winners of this proposal are not journalists or news media outlets, television stations, or the like. The real winners are the people we represent, our constituents, and the consumers of information. This is most important for them. It is really not that significant. If it were only about journalists, frankly, we might have second questions about it.

Jefferson, of course, said it better than anyone many years ago. When he said if he had to choose between a free country and a free press, he would select the latter. Madison, on the same subject, talking about freedom of information, freedom of the press, had this quote:

"Popular government without popular information or the means of acquiring it is but a prologue to a farce, or tragedy, or perhaps both."

"Today, that fundamental principle—that a well-informed citizenry is the cornerstone of self-government—is at risk in a manner in which it has not been at risk previously."

"In the past year alone, some two dozen reporters have been subpoenaed or questioned about their confidential sources. Most of those have faced fines or prison time. Seven have already been held in contempt. One has been jailed. Another was found guilty of criminal contempt for refusing to reveal a confidential source and served 6 months under house arrest. Why? Because they received information from confidential sources and pledged to protect the confidentiality of those sources. In other words, they committed the "offense" of being journalists."

These actions by our Government against journalists are having a profound impact on news gathering. For example, in testimony last summer before the Judiciary Committee, Norman Pearlstine, the editor in chief of Time, Inc., said this about the fallout from the Justice Department's efforts to obtain confidential information from a Time reporter:

"Valuable sources have insisted that they no longer trusted the magazine and that they would no longer cooperate on stories. The chilling effect is obvious."

"Confidential evidence may be just the tip of the iceberg. We have no way of knowing for certain the number of journalists who have been ordered or requested to reveal confidential sources. We can only speculate as to how many editors and publishers put the brakes on a story for fear that it could endanger their reporters in a spider web spun by the Federal prosecutors that could include prison. If citizens with knowledge of wrongdoing could not or would not come forward to share what they know in confidence with members of the press, serious journalism would cease to exist, in my view. Serious wrongs would remain unexposed. The scandals known as Watergate, the Enron failure, the Abu Ghraib prison photos—none of these would have become known to the public but for good journalists doing their work."

"That scenario is no longer purely hypothetical. It is, in some respects, already a reality. When journalists are hauled into court by prosecutors and threatened with fines and imprisonment if they don't divulge the sources of their information, we are entering a dangerous territory for a democracy. That is when not only journalists, but ordinary citizens, will fear prosecution simply for exposing wrongdoing. When that happens, information will be degraded, making it more and more difficult to hold accountable those in power. When the public's right to know is threatened, then I suggest to you that all of the liberties we hold dear are threatened, as well."

"Again, I thank Senator SPECTER for working out this compromise, and I say in a word of national security, which was a very legitimate concern, has been handled by this proposal. The underlying issue is the right of citizens to have access to important information that might otherwise never become available were it not for journalists' ability to share confidential sources. We must share that information and the ability of those journalists to protect the confidentiality of those sources. Thirty-nine States have provisions dealing with the shield law. I think 10 States have regulations regarding the same matter."

"I think it is long overdue that the Federal Government have a similar piece of legislation to protect the kind of information we seek. I commend my colleagues for their efforts in this regard. I am happy to join them."

"Mr. SESSIONS. Mr. President, I say with regard to what has just taken place, these are complex areas, and we need to be careful about protecting our free press and free institutions. But you have to be careful, too. I was thinking that if a spy comes into our country and gets secure information and gives it to our enemy, we put him in jail, and they can be convicted, I guess. If a reporter gets information and publishes it to our enemies and to the whole world, they get the Pulitzer prize."

"I think we have to be careful about how we word this. I am sure we will come up with a pretty good solution."

"Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senator SCHUMER be recognized for 4 minutes to speak on the Lugar-Specter-Dodd bill."

"The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New York is recognized for 4 minutes."

"Mr. SCHUMER. Mr. President, I join as a cosponsor of the bill just introduced because I think it really cuts the Gordian knot. There has been a deadlock on improving the shield law for the very reason that not all disclosures by Government officials to members of the press are equal. We certainly want to protect a whistleblower. We certainly want a person, if they work at the FDA and see that tests are being run improperly and report it, they are not going to get in trouble.

"I believe the reason why the legislation my colleagues from Indiana and Connecticut put in didn't get as much support is that it failed to distinguish that difference. We need to protect the press, especially with a large Government that keeps things secret more and more. But we also have to have some respect for the fact that there are certain things that should not be made public by statute in open debate."

"This is a large step forward. It is legislation I am proud to cosponsor. I am very glad that the deadlock has been broken by this thoughtful legislation, which I now believe will garner enough support to become law. Whereas, the previous legislation, as sweeping as it was, would not.

"I compliment my colleagues from Indiana, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, and South Carolina, with whom I join as lead cosponsors because it is going to make our country a better place.

"By Mr. KOHL (for himself and Mr. DEWINE):

S. 2854. A bill to prevent anti-competitive mergers and acquisitions in the oil and gas industry; to the Committee on the Judiciary.

"Mr. KOHL. Mr. President, I rise today to introduce the Oil Industry Merger Antitrust Enforcement Act. This legislation will significantly strengthen the antitrust laws to prevent anticompetitive mergers and acquisitions in oil and gas industry.

"We have all seen the suffering felt by consumers and our national economy resulting from rising energy prices. Gasoline prices have now shattered the once unthinkable $3.00 a gallon level, have doubled in the last 5 years, and increased more than 30 percent in the last year alone. And prices for other energy products—such as natural gas and home heating oil—have undergone similar sharp increases."

"Industry experts debate the causes of these extraordinarily high prices. Possible culprits are growing worldwide demand, supply disruptions, the actions of the OPEC oil cartel and limits on refinery capacity in the United States. But about one thing there can be no doubt—the substantial rise in concentration and consolidation in the oil industry. Since 2004, the Government Accountability Office has counted over 2,600 mergers, acquisitions and joint ventures in the oil industry. Led by gigantic mergers such as Exxon/Mobil, BP/Arco, Conoco/Phillips and Chevron/Texaco, by 2004, the five largest oil refining companies controlled over 56 percent of domestic refining capacity, a greater market share than that controlled by the top 10 companies a decade earlier.

"This merger wave has led to substantially less competition in the oil industry. As I wrote in my book, 'i study by the independent consumer watchdog Public Citizen found that in the 5 years between 1999 and 2004, U.S. oil refiners increased their average profits on every gallon of gasoline refined from 22.8 cents to 48.8 cents, a 79 percent increase. In that same period, the antitrust enforcement budget of the major oil companies—led by Exxon Mobil’s $3.4 billion profit in the first quarter of 2006, which followed its $36 billion profit in 2005, the highest corporate profits ever achieved in U.S. history—are conclude—evidence—if any more was needed—of the lack of competition in the U.S. oil industry. While it is true that the world price of crude oil has substantially increased, the fact that the oil companies can so easily pass along all of these price increases to consumers of gasoline and other refined products—and greatly compound their profits along the way—confirms that there is a failure of competition in our oil and gas markets.

More than 90 years ago, one of our Nation’s basic antitrust laws—the Clayton Act—was written to prevent just such industry concentration harming competition. It makes illegal any merger or acquisition the effect of which “may be substantially to lessen competition.” Despite the plain command of this law, the Federal Trade Commission—the Federal agency with responsibility for enforcing antitrust law in the oil and gas industry—failed to take any effective action to prevent undue concentration in this industry. Instead, it permitted almost all of these 2,600 oil mergers and acquisitions to proceed without challenge. And where the FTC has ordered divestitures, they have been wholly ineffective to restore competition. Consumers have been at the mercy of an increasingly powerful oligopoly of a few giant oil companies, passing along price increases without remorse as the market becomes increasingly concentrated and competition diminishes. It is past time for us in Congress to take action to strengthen our antitrust law so that it will, as intended, stand as a bulwark to protect consumers and prevent any further loss of competition in this essential industry.

Our bill will strengthen merger enforcement under the antitrust law in two respects. First, it will direct that the FTC, in conjunction with the Justice Department, revise its Merger Guidelines to take into account the special conditions prevailing in the oil industry. In reviewing a pending merger or acquisition to determine whether to approve it or take legal action to block it, the FTC follows what are known as “Merger Guidelines.” The Merger Guidelines set forth the factors that the agency must examine to determine if a merger or acquisition lessens competition, and sets forth the legal standard by which the FTC is to follow in determining whether to approve or challenge a merger. As presently written, the Merger Guidelines fail to direct the FTC, when reviewing an oil industry merger, to pay any heed at all to the special economic conditions prevailing in that industry.

Our bill will correct this deficiency. Many special conditions prevail in the oil and gas marketplace that warrant special consideration when assessing whether a merger will not substantially harm competition. In other industries, and the Merger Guidelines should reflect these conditions. In most industries, when demand rises and existing producers earn ever-increasing profits, new producers enter the market and new supply expands, reducing the pressure on price. However, in the oil industry, there are severe limitations on supply and environmental and regulatory difficulty in opening new refineries, so this normal market mechanism cannot work. Additionally, in most industries, consumers shift to alternative products in the face of sharp price increases, leading to a reduction in demand and a corresponding reduction in the pressure to increase prices. But for such an essential commodity as gasoline, consumers have no such option—they must continue to consume gasoline to get to work, to go to school, and to shop. These factors all mean that antitrust enforcement should be especially cautious about permitting a decrease in concentration in the oil industry.

Accordingly, our bill directs the FTC and Justice Department to revise its Merger Guidelines to take into account the special conditions prevailing in the oil industry—including the high inelasticity of demand for oil and petroleum-related products; the ease of gaining market power; supply and refining capacity limits; difficulties of market entry; and unique regulatory requirements applying to the oil industry. This revision of the Merger Guidelines must be completed within 6 months of enactment of this legislation.

The second manner in which this legislation will strengthen antitrust enforcement will be to shift the burden of proof in Clayton Act challenges to oil industry mergers and acquisitions. In such cases, the burden will be placed on the merging parties to establish, by a preponderance of evidence, that their transaction does not substantially lessen competition. This provision would reverse the usual rule that the government or private plaintiff challenging the merger must prove that the transaction harms competition. As the parties have significant influence in an already concentrated industry, and possessing all the relevant data regarding the transaction, it is entirely appropriate that the merging parties bear this burden. This provision does not forbid all mergers in the oil industry if the merging parties can establish that their merger does not substantially harm competition, it may proceed. However, shifting the burden of proof in this manner will undoubtedly make it more difficult for oil industry mergers to successfully surmount court challenge, thereby enhancing the law’s ability to block truly anti-competitive transactions and deterring companies from even attempting such transactions. In today’s concentrated oil industry and with consumers suffering record high prices, mergers and acquisitions that even the merging parties cannot justify should not be tolerated.

As ranking member on the Senate Antitrust Subcommittee, I believe that this bill is a crucial step to ending this unprecedented move towards industry concentration and to begin to restore competitive balance to the oil and gas industry. Since the breakup of the Standard Oil trust 100 years ago, antitrust enforcement has been essential to prevent undue concentration in this industry. This bill is an essential step to ensure that our antitrust laws are sufficiently strong to ensure a competitive oil industry in the 21st century. I urge my colleagues to support the Oil Industry Merger Antitrust Enforcement Act.

I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD.
SEC. 3. BURDEN OF PROOF.

Section 7 of the Clayton Act (15 U.S.C. 18) is amended by adding at the end the following:

"In any civil action brought against any person for violating this section in which the plaintiff

(1) alleges that the effect of a merger, acquisition, or other transaction affecting commerce may be to substantially lessen competition, or to tend to create a monopoly, in the business of exploring for, producing, refining, or otherwise processing, storing, marketing, selling, or otherwise making available petroleum, oil, or natural gas, or products derived from petroleum, oil, or natural gas and

(2) establishes that a merger, acquisition, or transaction is between or involves persons competing in the business of exploring for, producing, refining, or otherwise processing, storing, marketing, selling, or otherwise making available petroleum, oil, or natural gas, or products derived from petroleum, oil, or natural gas, the burden of proof shall be on the defendant or defendants to establish by a preponderance of the evidence that the merger, acquisition, or transaction at issue will not substantially lessen competition or tend to create a monopoly."

SEC. 4. ENSURING FULL AND FREE COMPETITION.

(a) REVIEW.—The Federal Trade Commission and the Antitrust Division of the Department of Justice shall jointly review and revise all enforcement guidelines and policies, including the Horizontal Merger Guidelines issued April 2, 1992 and revised April 8, 1997, and the Non-Horizontal Merger Guidelines issued June 14, 1984, and modify those guidelines in order to—

(1) specifically address mergers and acquisitions in oil companies and among companies involved in the production, refining, distribution, or marketing of oil, gasoline, natural gas, heating oil, or other petroleum-related products; and

(2) ensure that the application of these guidelines will prevent any merger and acquisition in the oil industry, when the effect of such a merger or acquisition may be to substantially lessen competition, or to tend to create a monopoly, and reflect the special conditions prevailing in the oil industry described in subsection (b).

(b) SPECIAL CONDITIONS.—The guidelines described in subsection (a) shall be revised to take into account the special conditions prevailing in the oil industry, including—

(1) the high inelasticity of demand for oil and petroleum-related products;

(2) the ease of gaining market power in the oil industry;

(3) supply and refining capacity limits in the oil industry;

(4) difficulties of market entry in the oil industry; and

(5) regulatory requirements applying to the oil industry.

(c) COMPETITION.—The review and revision of the enforcement guidelines required by this section shall be completed not later than 6 months after the date of enactment of this Act.

(d) ENFORCEMENT.—Not later than 6 months after the date of enactment of this Act, the Federal Trade Commission and the Antitrust Division of the Department of Justice shall jointly establish a committee on the Judiciary of the Senate and the Committee on the Judiciary of the House of Representatives regarding the review and revision of the enforcement guidelines mandated by this section.

SEC. 5. DEFINITIONS.

In this Act:

(1) OIL INDUSTRY.—The term "oil industry" means companies and persons involved in the production, refining, distribution, or marketing of oil or petroleum-based products.

(2) TRANSPORTATION.—The term "petroleum-based product" means gasoline, diesel fuel, jet fuel, home heating oil, natural gas, or other products derived from the refining of oil or petroleum.

By Mr. BIDEN (for himself and Mr. JEFFORDS):

S. 2655. A bill to amend the Safe Drinking Water Act to eliminate security risks by replacing the use of extremely hazardous gaseous chemicals with inherently safer technologies; to the Committee on Environment and Public Works.

Mr. BIDEN. Mr. President, I rise today to introduce the Community Water Treatment Hazards Reduction Act of 2006. This legislation would completely eliminate a known security risk to millions of Americans across the United States by facilitating the transfer to safer technologies from deadly toxic chemicals at our Nation’s water treatment facilities.

Across our Nation, there are thousands of water treatment facilities that utilize hazardous chemicals to treat drinking and wastewater. Approximately 2,850 facilities are currently regulated under the Clean Air Act because they store large quantities of these dangerous chemicals. In fact, 98 facilities threaten over 100,000 citizens. For example, the Piveash Water Treatment Plant in Fort Lauderdale, FL threatens 1,526,000 citizens. The Bachman Water Treatment in Dallas, TX, threatens up to 2 million citizens. And there are similar examples in communities throughout the Nation. If these facilities—and the 95 other facilities that threaten over 100,000 citizens—switched from the use of toxic chemicals to safer technologies that are widely used within the industry we could completely eliminate a known threat to nearly 50 million Americans.

Many facilities have already made the prudent decision to switch without intervention by the government. The Middlesex County Utilities Authority in Sayreville, NJ, switched to safer technologies and eliminated the risk to 10.7 million people. The Nottingham Water Treatment Plant in Cleveland, OH, switched and eliminated the risk to 400,000 people. The Blue Plains facility in Washington, DC switched and eliminated the risk to 1.7 million people. In my hometown of Wilmington, DE, the Wilmington Water Pollution Control Facility switched from using chlorine gas to liquid bleach. This commendable decision has eliminated the risk to 560,000 citizens, including the entire city of Wilmington. In fact, this facility no longer has to submit risk management plans to the Environmental Protection Agency under the Clean Air Act because the threat has been completely eliminated. There are many other examples of facilities that have done the right thing and eliminated the use of these dangerous, gaseous chemicals.

The bottom line is that if we can eliminate a known risk, we should. The legislation I am introducing today will do just that. It will require the Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency, in consultation with the Secretary of Homeland Security, to do a few simple things. First, water facilities will be prioritized based upon the risk that they pose to citizens and communities. Second, facilities—beginning with the most dangerous ones—will be required to submit a report on the feasibility of utilizing safer technologies and the anticipated costs to transition. If grant funding is available, the Administrator will issue a grant and order the facility to transition. Once the transition is complete, the facility will be required to track all cost-savings related to the switch, such as decreased security costs, costs saving by eliminating administrative requirements under the EPA risk management plan, insurance premiums, and others. If savings are ultimately realized by the facility, it will be required to return one half of these savings, not to exceed the grant amount, back to the EPA. In turn, the EPA will utilize these savings to help facilitate the transition of more water facilities.

A 2005 report by the Government Accountability Office found that providing grants to assist water facilities to transition to safer technologies was an appropriate use of Federal funds. The costs for an individual facility to transition will vary, but the cost is very cheap when you consider the security benefits. For example, the Wilmington facility invested approximately $160,000 to transition and eliminated the risk to nearly 600,000 people. Similarly, the Blue Plains facility spent $500,000 to transition after 9-11 and eliminated the risk to 1.2 million citizens immediately. This, in my view, is a sound use of funds. And, this legislation will provide sufficient funding to transition all of our high-priority facilities throughout Nation.

Finally, I would like to point out that facilities making the decision to transition after 9-11, but before the enactment date of this legislation will be eligible to participate in the program authorized by this legislation. I have included this provision because I believe that the Federal Government should acknowledge—and promote—local decisions that enhance our homeland security. In addition, we don’t want to create a situation where water facilities wait for Federal funding, before doing the right thing and eliminating those dangerous gaseous chemicals.

Last December the 9-11 Discourse Project released its report card for the administration and Congress on efforts to implement the 9-11 Commission recommendations. It was replete with D’s and F’s demonstrating that we have been going in the wrong direction with respect to homeland security. One of the most troubling findings made by the 9-11 Commission is that with respect to our Nation’s critical infrastructure that “no risk and vulnerability assessments actually made; no national priorities established; no recommendations made on allocations of scarce resources. All key decisions are at least a year away. It is time that we stop talking about priorities and actually set some.” While much remains to be done, the Community Water Treatment Hazards Reduction Act of 2006 sets an important priority for our homeland security and it affirmatively addresses it. I urge my colleagues to support this important legislation.

I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the text of the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

SEC. 1. SHORT TITLE.
This Act may be cited as the “Community Water Treatment Hazards Reduction Act of 2006.”

SEC. 2. USE OF INHERENTLY SAFER TECHNOLOGIES AT WATER FACILITIES.

Part F of the Safe Drinking Water Act (42 U.S.C. 300f–20 et seq.) is amended by adding at the end the following:

"SEC. 1466. USE OF INHERENTLY SAFER TECHNOLOGIES AT WATER FACILITIES."

(1) DEFINITIONS.—In this section:
"(A) HARMFUL INTENTIONAL ACT.—The term ‘harmful intentional act’ means a terrorist attack, an attack by a group of terrorists, or a sudden attack that is intended—
"(i) to substantially disrupt the ability of the water facility to provide safe and reliable—
"(II) conveyance and treatment of wastewater or drinking water;
"(III) disposal of effluent; or
"(iv) storage of a potentially hazardous chemical that can be used to treat wastewater or drinking water;
"(B) to damage critical infrastructure;
"(C) to have an adverse effect on the environment; or
"(D) to otherwise pose a significant threat to public health or safety.

(2) INHERENTLY SAFER TECHNOLOGY.—The term ‘inherently safer technology’ means—
"(A) a technology, product, raw material, or practice that, as compared to the current use of technologies, products, raw materials, or practices, significantly reduces or eliminates—
"(i) the possibility of release of a substance of concern; and
"(ii) the hazards to public health and safety and the environment associated with the release or potential release of a substance of concern.

(3) SECURITv.—The term ‘Secretary’ means the Secretary of Homeland Security (or a designee).

(4) SUBSTANCE OF CONCERN.—The term ‘substance of concern’ means any chemical, toxin, or other substance that, if transported or stored in a sufficient quantity, would have a high likelihood of causing casualties and economic damage if released or otherwise successfully targeted by a harmful intentional act, as determined by the Administrator, in consultation with the Secretary.

(5) INCLUSIONS.—The term ‘substance of concern’ includes—
"(i) any substance included in Table 1 or 2 contained in section 68.130 of title 40, Code of Federal Regulations (or a successor regulation), published in accordance with section 112(r)(3) of the Clean Air Act (42 U.S.C. 7412(r)(3)); and
"(ii) any other highly hazardous gasous toxic material or substance that, if transported or stored in a sufficient quantity, could cause casualties or economic damage if released or otherwise successfully targeted by a harmful intentional act, as determined by the Administrator, in consultation with the Secretary.

(6) TREATMENT WORKS.—The term ‘treatment works’ has the meaning given the term in section 212 of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act (33 U.S.C. 1292).

(7) VULNERABILITY ZONE.—The term ‘vulnerability zone’ means the geographic area that would be affected by a worst-case release of the substance of concern, as determined by the Administrator on the basis of—
"(A) an assessment that includes the information described in section 112(r)(7)(B)(i) of the Clean Air Act (42 U.S.C. 7412(r)(7)(B)(i)); and
"(B) other assessment or criteria as the Administrator determines to be appropriate.

(8) WATER FACILITY.—The term ‘water facility’ means—
"(A) a treatment works or public water system owned or operated by any person.

(9) REGULATIONS.—(1) IN GENERAL.—Not later than 90 days after the date of enactment of this section, the Administrator, in consultation with the Secretary and other Federal, State, and local governmental entities, security experts, owners and operators of water facilities, and other interested persons shall—
"(A) compile a list of all high-consequence water facilities in accordance with paragraph (2); and
"(B) notify each owner and operator of a water facility that is included on the list.

(10) IDENTIFICATION OF HIGH-CONSEQUENCE WATER FACILITIES.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—Subject to subparagraph (B), in determining whether a water facility is a high-consequence water facility, the Administrator shall consider—
"(i) the number of people located in the vulnerability zone of each substance of concern that could be released at the water facility;
"(ii) the critical infrastructure (such as health care, governmental, or industrial facilities or centers) served by the water facility;
"(iii) any use by the water facility of large quantities of 1 or more substances of concern; and
"(iv) the quantity and volume of annual shipments of substances of concern to or from the water facility.

(B) TIERS OF FACILITIES.—

(i) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in clauses (ii) through (iv), the Administrator shall classify high-consequence water facilities as determined under this paragraph into 3 tiers, and give priority to orders issued for, actions taken by, and other matters relating to the security of, high-consequence water facilities, based on a classification of the high-consequence water facilities, as follows:

(i) Tier 1 facilities.—A Tier 1 high-consequence water facility shall have a vulnerability zone that covers more than 100,000 individuals and shall be given the highest priority by the Administrator.

(ii) Tier 2 facilities.—A Tier 2 high-consequence water facility shall have a vulnerability zone that covers more than 25,000, but not more than 100,000, individuals and shall be given the second-highest priority by the Administrator.

(iii) Tier 3 facilities.—A Tier 3 high-consequence water facility shall have a vulnerability zone that covers more than 10,000, but not more than 25,000, individuals and shall be given the third-highest priority by the Administrator.

(ii) MANDATORY DESIGNATION.—If the vulnerability zone for a substance of concern at a water facility contains more than 10,000 individuals, the water facility shall be—
"(i) considered to be a high-consequence water facility; and
"(ii) classified by the Administrator to an appropriate tier under clause (i).

(iii) DISCRETIONARY CLASSIFICATION.—A water facility with a vulnerability zone that covers 10,000 or fewer individuals may be designated as a high-consequence facility, on the request of the owner or operator of a water facility, and classified into a tier described in clause (i), at the discretion of the Administrator.

(iv) RECLASSIFICATION.—The Administrator may reclassify a high-consequence water facility into a tier with a higher priority, as described in clause (i), based on an increase of population covered by the vulnerability zone or any other appropriate factor, as determined by the Administrator; but

(ii) may not reclassify a high-consequence water facility into a tier with a lower priority, as described in clause (i), for any reason.

(3) OPTIONS FEASIBILITY ASSESSMENT ON USE OF INHERENTLY SAFER TECHNOLOGIES.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—Not later than 90 days after the date on which the owner or operator of a high-consequence water facility receives notice under paragraph (1)(B), the owner or operator shall submit to the Administrator an options feasibility assessment that describes—
"(i) an estimate of the costs that would be directly incurred by the high-consequence water facility in transitioning from the use of the current technology used for 1 or more substances of concern to inherently safer technologies; and
"(ii) comparisons of the costs and benefits to transitioning between inherently safer technologies, including the use of—
"(I) sodium hypochlorite;
"(II) ultraviolet light;
"(III) other inherently safer technologies that are in use within the applicable industries; or
"(IV) any combination of the technologies described in clauses (I) through (III).

(B) CONSIDERATIONS IN DETERMINING ESTIMATED COSTS.—In estimating the transition costs described in subparagraph (A)(i), an owner or operator of a high-consequence water facility shall consider—
"(i) the costs of capital upgrades to transition to the use of inherently safer technologies;
"(ii) the costs of capital upgrades to transition to the use of inherently safer technologies;
"(iii) offsets that may be available to reduce or eliminate the transition costs, such as the savings that may be achieved by—
"(I) eliminating security needs (such as personnel and fencing);
"(II) water facilities complying with safety regulations; and
"(III) complying with environmental regulations and permits; consequences of a release of critical agents, including the potential for personal injury, which is integral to achieving and maintaining good health for the citizens of the United States and for the prevention of those diseases which are substantially prevented by early intervention of oral health care services. Therefore, be it Resolved, That it is the sense of the Senate that—
(1) access to oral health care services and the prevention of oral health care disease is integral to achieving and maintaining good health for the citizens of the United States and for the prevention of those diseases which are substantially prevented by early intervention of oral health care services...

(2) DE MINIMIS USE—Nothing in this section prohibits the de minimis use of a substance of concern as a residual disinfectant.

(c) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—There is authorized to be appropriated to carry out this section $25,000,000 for each of fiscal years 2007 through 2011.

SUBMITTED RESOLUTIONS

SENATE RESOLUTION 483—EX-PRESSING THE SENSE OF THE SENATE CONDEMNING THE MILITARY JUNTA IN BURMA FOR ITS RECENT CAMPAIGN OF TERROR AGAINST ETHNIC MINORITIES AND CALLING ON THE UNITED NATIONS SECURITY COUNCIL TO ADOPT IMMEDIATELY A BINDING NON-PUNITIVE RESOLUTION ON BURMA

Mr. MCCONNELL (for himself, Mr. BROWNSTEIN, Mr. LIEBERMAN, Mr. McCAIN, Mr. LIEBERMAN, and Mr. RIEDEL) submitted the following resolution, which was referred to the Committee on Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions:
Whereas the regime in Burma, the State Peace and Development Council (SPDC), reportedly threatened to abolish the pro-democracy National League for Democracy;

Whereas recent reports indicate that the SPDC escalated its brutal campaign against ethnic groups in November 2005;

Whereas reports indicate that the military junta in Burma has destroyed, relocated, or forced approximately 2,800 villages in eastern Burma over the past 10 years;

Whereas refugees continue to pour across Burma's borders;

Whereas those forced to flee their homes in Burma are increasingly vulnerable, and the humanitarian situation grows more dire as the rainy season approaches;

Whereas the United Nations Security Council was briefed on the human rights situation in Burma for the first time ever in December 2005;

Whereas United Nations Secretary-General Kofi Annan and Under-Secretary-General for Political Affairs Ibrahim Gambari acknowledged the seriousness of the problems in Burma, and the Secretary-General's office suggested the first-ever course of action on Burma at the United Nations Security Council at the December 2005 briefing;

Whereas numerous efforts outside the United Nations Security Council to secure reform in Burma, including 28 consecutive non-binding resolutions of the United Nations General Assembly and United Nations Commission on Human Rights, have failed to bring about change;

Whereas there is ample precedent in the United Nations Security Council for action on Burma; and

Whereas Daw Aung San Suu Kyi remains the world's only incarcerated Nobel Peace Prize recipient;

NOW, therefore, be it

Resolved, That it is the sense of the Senate—

(1) to condemn the military junta in Burma for its recent campaign of terror against ethnic minorities; and

(2) to call on the United States and other democracies to continue to work with the Association of South East Asian Nations to promote democracy, human rights and justice in Burma; and

(3) to call on the United States to lead an effort at the United Nations Security Council to pass immediately a binding, non-punitive resolution calling for the immediate and unconditional release of Daw Aung San Suu Kyi and all other prisoners of conscience in Burma, condemning these atrocities, and supporting democracy, human rights and justice in Burma;

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION 95—EXPRESSING THE Sense of Congress WITH REGARD TO THE IMPORTANCE OF Women’s Health Week, which Promotes Awareness of DISEASES that Affect Women AND Which Encourages Women to Take Preventative Measures to Ensure Good Health

Mr. FEINGOLD (for himself and Ms. SNOWE) submitted the following concurrent resolution; which was referred to the Committee on Health, Education, Labor and Pensions:

S. CON. RES. 95

Whereas women of all backgrounds have the power to greatly reduce their risk of common diseases through preventive measures such as a healthy lifestyle and frequent medical screenings;

Whereas significant disparities exist in the prevalence of disease among women of different backgrounds, including women with disabilities, African American women, Asian/Pacific Islander women, Latinas, and American Indian/Alaska Native women;

Whereas health issues should begin at a young age, and preventive care saves Federal dollars designated to health care, it is important to raise awareness among women and girls of key female health issues;

Whereas National Women's Health Week begins on Mother's Day annually and celebrates the efforts of national and community organizations working with partners and volunteers to improve awareness of key women's health issues; and

Whereas in 2006, the week of May 14 through May 20, is dedicated as the National Women's Health Week: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring), That Congress—

(1) recognizes the importance of preventing diseases that commonly affect women;

(2) calls on the people of the United States to use Women's Health Week as an opportunity to learn about health issues that face women;

(3) calls on the women of the United States to observe National Women's Check-Up Day on Monday, May 15, 2006, by receiving preventive screenings from their health care providers; and

(4) recognizes the importance of federally funded programs that provide research and collect data on common diseases in women and highlight racial disparities in the rates of these diseases.

Subtitle A—Mandatory Departure and Reentry in Legal Status

SEC. 601. MANDATORY DEPARTURE AND REENTRY IN LEGAL STATUS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Title II (8 U.S.C. 1151 et seq.) is amended by inserting after section 218D the following:

"SEC. 218D. MANDATORY DEPARTURE AND REENTRY.

(a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary of Homeland Security may grant Deferred Manda-

(b) REQUIREMENTS.—
An alien shall remain eligible for Deferred Mandatory Departure status if the alien’s ineligibility under subparagraphs (A) and (B) is solely related to the alien’s—(i) entry into the United States after having remaining in the United States beyond the period of authorized admissions; or (ii) failure to maintain legal status in the United States.

(J) Waiver.—The Secretary may, in the Secretary’s sole and unreviewable discretion, waive the application of subparagraphs (A) and (B) if the alien has ordered removed on the basis that the alien—(i) entered without inspection; (ii) failed to maintain status, or (iii) was ordered removed under 212(a)(6)(c)(i) prior to application. The Secretary may, in the Secretary’s sole and unreviewable discretion, or upon an applicant’s request, determine if the alien did not receive notice of removal proceedings in accordance with paragraph (1) or (2); or (ii) establishes that the alien’s failure to appear was due to exceptional circumstances beyond the control of the alien; or (iii) the alien’s deportation from the United States now would result in extreme hardship to the alien’s spouse, parent, or child who is a citizen of the United States or an alien lawfully admitted for permanent residence.

(8) MEDICAL EXAMINATION.—The alien may be required, at the alien’s expense, to undergo an appropriate medical examination (including a determination of immunization status) that conforms to generally accepted professional standards of medical practice.

(B) GROUNDS NOT APPLICABLE.—The Secretary of Homeland Security may waive any other provision of section 212(a), or a ground of ineligibility under paragraph (4), as applied to individual aliens.

(i) for humanitarian purposes;
(ii) to assure family unity; or
(iii) if such waiver is otherwise in the public interest.

(4) INELIGIBLE.—An alien is ineligible for Deferred Mandatory Departure status if the alien—

(A) has been ordered removed from the United States—(i) for overstaying the period of authorized admission under section 211(a); (ii) under section 235; or (iii) pursuant to a final order of removal under section 240;

(B) failed to depart the United States during the period of a voluntary departure order under section 235;

(C) is subject to section 211(a)(5);

(D) has been issued a notice to appear under section 237(a)(1), but has not appeared to the alien’s acts of conduct alleged to be in violation of the law are that the alien is removable under section 237(a)(1)(C) or inadmissible under section 212(a)(6).

HEROES EARNED RETIREMENT OPPORTUNITIES ACT

Mr. CHAMBLISS. Mr. President, I ask that the Chair now lay before the Senate the House message to accompany H.R. 1499.

The PRESIDING OFFICER laid before the Senate the following message from the House of Representatives:

H.R. 1499

Resolved, That the House agree to the amendment of the Senate to the bill (H.R. 1499) entitled “An Act to amend the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 to allow members of the Armed Forces serving in a combat zone to make contributions to their individual retirement plans even if the compensation on which such contribution is based is excluded from gross income, and for other purposes”, with the following House amendment to Senate amendment:

At the end of the Senate amendment add the following:

On page 3, after line 3 of the House engrossed bill, insert the following:

(c) CONTRIBUTIONS FOR TAXABLE YEARS ENDING BEFORE ENACTMENT.—In general.—In the case of any taxpayer with respect to whom compensation was excluded from gross income under section 112 of... the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 for any taxable year beginning after December 31, 2003, and ending before the date of the enactment of this Act, any contribution to an individual retirement plan made on account of such taxable year and not later than the last day of the 3-year period beginning on the date of the enactment of this Act shall be treated, for purposes of such Code, as having been made on the last day of such taxable year.

(2) WAIVER OF LIMITATIONS.—(A) CREDIT OR REFUND.—If the credit or refund of any overpayment of tax resulting from a contribution to which paragraph (1) applies is not made before the close of the 3-year period beginning on the date that such contribution is made (determined without regard to paragraph (1)), the credit or refund must nevertheless be allowed or made if the claim therefor is filed before the close of the 3-year period beginning on the date that such contribution is made.

(b) ASSESSMENT OF DEFICIENCY.—The period for assessing a deficiency attributable to a contribution to which paragraph (1) applies shall not expire before the close of the 3-year period beginning on the date that such contribution is made. Such deficiency may be assessed before the expiration of such 3-year period notwithstanding the provisions of any other law or rule of law which would otherwise prevent such assessment.

(c) INDIVIDUAL RETIREMENT PLAN DEFINED.—For purposes of this subsection, the term “individual retirement plan” has the meaning given such term by section 7701(a)(37) of such Code.

Mr. CHAMBLISS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate concur in the House amendment, the motion to reconsider be laid upon the table, and that any statements relating to the bill be printed in the RECORD.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

BROADCAST DECENCY ENFORCEMENT ACT OF 2005

Mr. CHAMBLISS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Committee on Commerce be discharged from further consideration of S. 193, and the Senate proceed to its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered. The clerk will print the title.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

A bill (S. 193) to increase the penalties for violations by television and radio broadcasters of the prohibitions against transmission of obscene, indecent, and profane language.

There being no objection, the Senate proceeded to consider the bill.

Mr. CHAMBLISS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the bill be read a third time and passed, the motion to reconsider be laid upon the table, and that any statements relating to the measure be printed in the RECORD.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The bill (S. 193) was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time and passed, as follows:

S. 193

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the “Broadcast Decency Enforcement Act of 2005”.

SECTION 2. INCREASE IN PENALTIES FOR OBSCENE, INDECENT, AND PROFANE BROADCASTS.

Section 503(a)(2) of the Communications Act of 1934 (47 U.S.C. 503(a)(2)) is amended—

(1) by redesignating subparagraphs (C) and (D) as subparagraphs (D) and (E), respectively;

(2) by inserting after subparagraph (B) the following new subparagraph:

(C) Notwithstanding subparagraph (A), if the violator is—

(1) a broadcast station licensee or permittee; or

(2) an applicant for any broadcast license, permit, certificate, or other instrument or authorization issued by the Commission; and

(i) determined by the Commission under paragraph (1) to have broadcast obscene, indecent, or profane language, the amount of any forfeiture penalty determined under this subsection shall not exceed $2,500,000 for each violation or each day of a continuing violation, except that the amount assessed for any continuing violation shall not exceed a total of $3,000,000 for any single act or failure to act.

(3) in subparagraph (D), as redesignated by paragraph (1), by striking “subparagraph (A) or (B)” and inserting “subparagraph (A), (B), or (C)”.

CONDEMNING THE MILITARY JUNTA IN BURMA

Mr. CHAMBLISS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate now proceed to consider S. Res. 484 which was submitted earlier today.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report the resolution by title.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

A resolution (S. Res. 484) expressing the sense of the Senate condemning the military junta in Burma for its recent campaign of terror against ethnic minorities and calling on the U.N. Security Council to adopt immediately a binding, nonpunitive resolution on Burma.

There being no objection, the Senate proceeded to consider the resolution.

Mr. McCONNELL. Mr. President, today’s Burma resolution reflects the Senate’s grave concern about the deteriorating situation in Burma. It also reflects the view of the Senate that, while a second United Nations Security Council briefing on Burma is welcomed, there now needs to be a legally binding, nonpunitive resolution regarding Burma passed by the U.N. Security Council. Absent such action, the Association of Southeast Asian Nations could very well end up being tougher on Burma than the U.N. The Senate has expressed its concern for the plight of the Burmese not only through this resolution but also by recently including $5 million in the emergency supplemental bill to assist refugees from Burma who are in Thailand.

On a related note, I have concerns about the visit of U.N. envoy, Ibrahim Gambari, to Burma this week. This visit should not be viewed as a success unless and until Mr. Gambari has an audience with Nobel Peace Prize winner, Daw Aung San Suu Kyi and Burma leader, Than Shwe. Mr. Gambari should consider cutting his trip short if it becomes apparent he will not be permitted to hold these meetings, or if the SPDC otherwise interferes with his visit.

I would also add that I applaud the President’s action today in extending the state of emergency with respect to Burma. It reflects the clear recognition by the President of the grave problems facing this beleaguered country.

These problems were poignantly addressed by Benedict Rogers, in his May 16, 2006, piece in The Wall Street Journal. In that piece, Rogers told of his encounter with a 15-year-old Burmese boy. This youth had witnessed the murder of both parents and the razing of his village and had endured abduction into forced labor. He hauntingly pleaded to Rogers “[p]lease tell the world not to forget us.” The Senate has not forgotten Burma and it is my profound hope that the U.N. will not either.

I ask unanimous consent that the resolution be agreed to, the preamble be agreed to, and the motion to reconsider be laid upon the table.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The resolution (S. Res. 484) was agreed to.

The preamble was agreed to.

The resolution, with its preamble, reads as follows:

S. Res. 484

Whereas the regime in Burma, the State Peace and Development Council (SPDC), reportedly threatened to abolish the pro-democracy National League for Democracy;

Whereas recent reports indicate that the SPDC escalated its brutal campaign against ethnic groups in November 2005;

Whereas the Thailand Burma Border Consortium reports that the military junta in Burma has destroyed, relocated, or forced the abandonment of approximately 2,800 villages in eastern Burma over the past 10 years;

Whereas refugees continue to pour across Burma’s borders;

Whereas forced to flee their homes in Burma are increasingly vulnerable, and the humanitarian situation grows more dire as the rainy season approaches;

Whereas the United Nations Security Council was briefed on the human rights situation in Burma for the first time ever in December 2005;

Whereas numerous efforts outside the United Nations Security Council to secure reform in Burma, including 28 consecutive non-binding resolutions of the United Nations General Assembly, and the United Nations Commission on Human Rights, have failed to bring about change;
Whereas there is ample precedent in the United Nations Security Council for action on Burma; and
Whereas Daw Aung San Suu Kyi remains the world’s only incarcerated Nobel Peace Prize recipient;
Now, therefore, be it
Resolved, That it is the sense of the Senate—
(1) to condemn the military junta in Burma for its recent campaign of terror against ethnic minorities; and
(2) to call on the United States and other democracies to continue to work with the Association of South East Asian Nations to promote democracy, human rights and justice in Burma; and
(3) to call on the United States to lead an effort at the United Nations Security Council to pass immediately a binding, non-punitive resolution calling for the immediate and unconditional release of Daw Aung San Suu Kyi and all other prisoners of conscience in Burma, condemning these atrocities, and supporting democracy, human rights and justice in Burma.

ORDERS FOR FRIDAY, MAY 19, 2006
Mr. CHAMBLISS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that when the Senate completes its business today, it adjourn until 10 a.m. on Friday, May 19; I further ask that following the prayer and the pledge, the morning hour be deemed expired, the Journal of proceedings be approved to date, the time for the two leaders be reserved, and the Senate resume consideration of S. 2611, the Comprehensive Immigration Reform Act.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

PROGRAM
Mr. CHAMBLISS. As announced this evening, tomorrow we will continue to work on the bill, but we will not have any rollcall votes during Friday’s session. The next rollcall votes will occur on Monday afternoon. At this point, we have two votes locked in for 5:30 Monday. We will be in session tomorrow to continue this constructive debate.

ADJOURNMENT UNTIL 10 A.M. TOMORROW
Mr. CHAMBLISS. If there is no further business to come before the Senate, I ask unanimous consent the Senate stand in adjournment under the previous order.

There being no objection, the Senate, at 10:17 p.m., adjourned until Friday, May 19, 2006, at 10 a.m.

NOMINATIONS
Executive nominations received by the Senate May 18, 2006:
FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM
DONALD L. KOHN, OF VIRGINIA, TO BE VICE CHAIRMAN OF THE BOARD OF GOVERNORS OF THE FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM FOR A TERM OF FOUR YEARS, VICE ROGER WALTON FERGUSON, RESIGNED.
SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION
KATHLEEN L. CASEY, OF VIRGINIA, TO BE A MEMBER OF THE SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION FOR A TERM EXPIRING JUNE 5, 2011, VICE CYNTHIA A. GLASSMAN, RESIGNED.
THE JUDICIARY
BOBBY E. SHEPHERD, OF ARKANSAS, TO BE UNITED STATES CIRCUIT JUDGE FOR THE EIGHTH CIRCUIT, VICE MORRIS S. ARNOLD, RETIRING.
KIMBERLY ANN MOORE, OF VIRGINIA, TO BE UNITED STATES CIRCUIT JUDGE FOR THE FEDERAL CIRCUIT, VICE RAYMOND C. CLIEVINGER, III, RETIRED.
DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE
MARTIN J. JACKLEY, OF SOUTH DAKOTA, TO BE UNITED STATES ATTORNEY FOR THE DISTRICT OF SOUTH DAKOTA FOR THE TERM OF FOUR YEARS, VICE STEVEN KENT MULLINS.
Mr. UDALL of Colorado. Madam Chairman, I cannot support this bill in its current form.

H.R. 4200 focuses on actions to be taken after a “catastrophic event,” defined as any one of various natural disasters or events.

For Colorado, this misses the point—our most pressing issue is the increased likelihood of severe wildfires that endanger human life and property (and municipal water supplies) resulting from a combination of increased fuel stocks (itself the result of various causes, including past fire-suppression policies), drought, and widespread insect infestations.

So, what we need is accelerated action to reduce hazardous fuels in the “red zones” before the communities that adjoin or intermingle with the forests are confronted with severe wildfires—not legislation that aims at speeding salvage or restoration after the damage has been done.

The bill also has serious flaws. I will not attempt to list them all, because they have been discussed at length in today’s debate. But I think it is worth emphasizing that while it is doubtful that the legislation is necessary anywhere it seems clear that there are certain lands to which it should not apply, including (1) National Conservation Areas and National Recreation Areas; (2) lands that have been recommended for wilderness by the President; (3) wilderness study areas; (4) BLM-designated areas of critical environmental concern; (5) lands recommended for wilderness in a Forest Service or BLM land-management plan; (6) the Fossil Ridge Recreation Management Area in Colorado; (7) the Bowen Gulch Protection Area in Colorado; (8) the Piedra, Roubideau, and Tabeguache Areas in Colorado; (9) the James Peak Protection Area in Colorado; and (10) the Arapaho National Recreation Area in Colorado. Further, I think the bill should include language to make clear that it will not change the requirement of section 103(d) of the Healthy Forests Restoration Act, which requires that at least 50% of the fuel-reduction funds must be used for projects in the wildland-urban interface—the “red zone” lands.

In the Resources Committee, I offered an amendment to make those changes, and also supported amendments offered by other Members. Unfortunately, those amendments were not adopted.

Similarly, I voted for the Rahall, DeFazio, Inslee, and Udall of New Mexico amendments when the House considered the bill earlier today.

Regrettably, however, the House did not agree to revise the bill as proposed in those amendments. And because I think the bill should not be enacted without those changes, I must vote against it.

FOREST EMERGENCY RECOVERY AND RESEARCH ACT

SPREECH OF
HON. JOHN B. LARSON
OF CONNECTICUT
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Wednesday, May 17, 2006

The House in Committee of the Whole House on the State of the Union had under consideration the bill (H.R. 4200) to improve the ability of the Secretary of Agriculture and the Secretary of the Interior to promptly implement recovery treatments in response to catastrophic events affecting Federal lands under their jurisdiction, including the removal of dead and damaged trees and the implementation of reforestation treatments, to support the recovery of non-Federal lands damaged by catastrophic events, to revitalize Forest Service experimental forests, and for other purposes:

Mr. LARSON of Connecticut. Madam Chairman, I would not be present today because of a family medical emergency and I am in opposition to the Forest Emergency Recovery and Research Act (H.R. 4200).

This bill misses the point. In the face of the President’s drastic budget cuts to State and local wildfire suppression programs, including a 30 percent cut in the State Fire Assistance program, which directly funds local community fire risk reduction planning and projects, this bill seems wholly inappropriate. Instead of providing the necessary tools to mitigate future fires to the 11,000 high risk communities around the country threatened by wildfires, this bill “expedites” or “streamlines” the timber salvage process for the logging industry following a catastrophic event. It is unnecessary and unwise to weaken existing laws meant to protect public participation and the environment, when the authority and ability to recover and restore forests after fires, floods, or other disasters is not being prevented. Our communities deserve better. I urge my colleagues to oppose the underlying bill.

FOREST EMERGENCY RECOVERY AND RESEARCH ACT

SPREECH OF
HON. CHRISTOPHER SHAYS
OF CONNECTICUT
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Wednesday, May 17, 2006

The House in Committee of the Whole House on the State of the Union had under consideration the bill (H.R. 4200) to improve the ability of the Secretary of Agriculture and the Secretary of the Interior to promptly implement recovery treatments in response to catastrophic events affecting Federal lands under their jurisdiction, including the removal of dead and damaged trees and the implementation of reforestation treatments, to support the recovery of non-Federal lands damaged by catastrophic events, to revitalize Forest Service experimental forests, and for other purposes:

Mr. SHAYS. Madam Chairman, protecting our environment is one of the most important jobs I have as a Congressman. Unfortunately, legislation before us today would hurt, rather than protect, our forests by speeding up destructive logging projects in national forests impacted by natural disturbances. H.R. 4200 would limit critical environmental reviews and excludes the public from the decision making process. Basic protections for streams, critical wildlife habitat, old growth forests, roadless areas, fragile soils, and other essential natural resources would be removed under this legislation.

Science suggests logging harms damaged forests and impedes their recovery, and can actually increase the likelihood and severity of future forest fires. A study by researchers at Oregon State University has shown allowing forests to recover naturally after a fire increases forest regeneration and decreases the risk of future fires.

I urge my colleagues to oppose this legislation. Congress can and must do a better job protecting our environment. We simply will not have a world to live in if we continue our neglectful ways.
Federal lands damaged by catastrophic events, to revitalize Forest Service experimental forests, and for other purposes:

Mr. STARK. Madam Chairman, I rise today in opposition to H.R. 4200, the Forest Emergency Recovery and Research Act. Rather than aid in a speedy recovery after a natural disaster, this bill is itself a disaster for the environment.

Forestry experts have repeatedly expressed concern about the harmful effects of salvage logging, yet Republicans choose to ignore sound science and insist on implementing environmentally irresponsible logging policies. Contrary to what Republicans and their campaign contributors in the logging industry would like you to believe, research shows that post-fire logging actually impedes forest regeneration, causes erosion and degrades water quality.

As if facilitating the destruction of forests wasn't enough, this bill also weakens existing laws meant to protect our entire environment. In the case of a catastrophic event, H.R. 4200 allows for the removal of timber salvage while ignoring the National Environmental Protection Act, the Clean Water Act, and key provisions of the Endangered Species Act.

The exemptions contained in this bill are entirely unnecessary. The Forest Service is currently completing the removal of timber salvage on national forests impacted by Hurricane Katrina with existing environmental guidelines and authorities for such practices. H.R. 4200 isn't needed and it is merely another attempt by Republicans to dismantle landmark environmental laws.

Finally, H.R. 4200 provides no protection for roadless areas, nation recreation areas, national conservation areas or wilderness study areas, thus putting many of our valuable public lands at risk.

I believe we have more reason to be concerned about the damage this bill will cause than the potential damage caused by actual natural disasters. H.R. 4200 is nothing short of disastrous for our national forests and public lands and I urge my colleagues to vote against it.

RECOGNIZING LEROY AND BARBARA SHATTO

HON. SAM GRAVES OF MISSOURI
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, May 18, 2006

Mr. GRAVES. Mr. Speaker, I proudly pause to recognize Leroy and Barbara Shatto of Osbourn, Missouri. They are the owners of the Shatto Farms Milk Company, a family owned and operated business in Northern Missouri. Recently, Leroy was selected as the 2006 Missouri Small Business Person of the Year. Recently, Leroy was selected as the 2006 Missouri Small Business Person of the Year.

The Shatto Farms Milk Company produces "pure" milk with no added hormones, in a variety of flavors. The milk has grown quickly in popularity and is available in local grocery stores in Missouri and Kansas.

Mr. Speaker, I proudly ask you to join me in recognizing Leroy and Barbara Shatto. Their entrepreneurial spirit and innovation in milk production are remarkable. I commend them for the achievement and I am honored to represent them in the United States Congress.

IN HONOR OF BOB GRIES RECIPIENT OF THE CLEVELAND SPEECH AND HEARING CENTER’S INAUGURAL DANIEL D. DAUBY AWARD

HON. DENNIS J. KUCINICH
OF OHIO
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, May 18, 2006

Mr. KUCINICH. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in honor and recognition of Bob Gries, upon being named the recipient of the 2006 Daniel D. Dauby Award, presented annually by the Cleveland Hearing and Speech Center of Cleveland, Ohio.

Since the 1930s, Mr. Gries and his family have been unwavering champions of support and advocacy for individuals and families who are impacted by hearing, speech and deafness issues. His leadership and volunteerism is evidenced throughout our Cleveland community, especially in the outstanding programs, services and awareness campaigns that originate from the Cleveland Hearing and Speech Center.

The Gries and Dauby families are connected not only by bloodline, but also by their collective sense of commitment to community involvement. Daniel Dauby, for whom the award is named, was born deaf. His father was Nathan L. Dauby, general manager for the former downtown May Company Department Store, a position he held for nearly 50 years. Mr. Gries is the nephew of Daniel Dauby, and his work serves to keep Daniel’s legacy alive and relevant to the thousands of individuals whose challenging world is filled with hope, joy and the potential to soar far above the walls of silence.

Mr. Speaker and Colleagues, please join me in honor, recognition and gratitude of Mr. Bob Gries, up in being named the Daniel D. Dauby Award recipient. Mr. Gries is an unwavering commitment and volunteerism, focused on advancing the services and programs offered at the Cleveland Speech and Hearing Center, continues to have a profound and positive impact on the lives of children, adults and their families who face daily challenges in a hearing world, giving them the practical resources to dream, achieve and succeed. I wish Mr. Gries and his entire family an abundance of health, peace and happiness, today and always.

IN RECOGNITION OF THE WOMEN’S CITY CLUB OF NEW YORK ON THE OCCASION OF ITS 90TH ANNIVERSARY

HON. CAROLYN B. MALONEY
OF NEW YORK
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, May 18, 2006

Mrs. MALONEY. Mr. Speaker, I rise to pay tribute to the Women’s City Club of New York, a non-partisan, non-profit civic association that shapes public policy through teaching, advocacy and citizen engagement. This august institution is celebrating its 90th anniversary this month, and I salute its remarkable success in working to achieve fairness, equity and inclusion for all New Yorkers.

Since its founding in 1915 by suffragists and social reformers, the Women’s City Club of New York has drawn upon the qualifications of its pool of volunteers to identify, analyze and increase awareness of current and emerging trends in public policy, develop a carefully reasoned platform on key issues, and educate and empower the public at large through a variety of informational programs and publications. Its membership works in concert with advocacy and community-based organizations to effect meaningful change for the better in our government and our society.

From its origins in women’s suffrage movement, Women’s City Club members have honored women’s hard-fought right to vote by helping the public become more informed and better educated about the political and governmental issues of the day. Throughout the long and proud history of the Women’s City Club, its members have fulfilled a critical mission by helping New Yorkers understand and scrutinize all aspects of their municipal government and to become active in policy debates and the political process. The Women’s City Club also achieved remarkable success in educating and enlightening elected officials, thus playing an instrumental role in shaping responsible government and public policies.

Today, Women’s City Club members continue to effect change at the city, state and Federal levels. Its members informed engagement has earned the Women’s City Club the respect of the government officials, opinion-makers in the news media, and civic activists of all stripes. Members of the Women’s City Club of New York have rightly been dubbed reasoned citizen-advocates who know the way to City Hall.

Today, the Women’s City Club is ably led by its president, Blanche E. Lawton, and its operations effectively managed by Paulette Geanacopoulou, LMSW. Through its network of committees and task forces, the Women’s City Club continues to educate and inform its members and the public at large and help keep New York’s municipal government a role model for cities around the Nation.

Mr. Speaker, I ask that my distinguished colleagues join me recognizing the enormous contributions to the civic life of our Nation’s greatest metropolis by the Women’s City Club of New York.

WOMEN IN THE IRAQ WAR: A DIFFERENT KIND OF MOTHER’S DAY

HON. CHARLES B. RANGEL
OF NEW YORK
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, May 18, 2006

Mr. RANGEL. Mr. Speaker, I raise to enter into the RECORD an article published in the Washington Post of April 18, 2006 “Limbs Lost to Enemy Fire, Women Forge a New Reality” and to offer my heartfelt gratitude and good wishes on Mother’s Day to the women serving in the United States Armed Forces who have fought in Iraq and Afghanistan and come home with life-changing physical or mental injuries. Some of these women might not be mothers themselves yet; some may never enjoy the precious gift of motherhood because of their injuries, but they all have mothers. I send the mothers of injured female troops a wish for the speedy recovery of your child and for a healing of your heart.

For the mothers of women who have died in combat I offer my humble apology and heartfelt sorrow. Your grief as a mother is more than I can ever understand but I grieve with you and for this Nation. The loss of your child, a brave woman and a blessing you delivered to this country is a loss to us all.

I wished to enter the particular article I cite above about women amputees because it is not widely enough known that the Iraq war is the first in which so many women have lost limbs in combat. The story in the Washington Post is subtitled “Women After War: The amputees.”

The Post features the story of Dawn Halfaker, a 26-year-old retired Army Captain, whose right arm and shoulder were ravaged by a rocket propelled grenade that exploded in her Humvee in 2004. According to the Post, she was one of the newest soldiers “To start down a path almost unknown in the United States: woman as combat amputee.”

Retired Captain Halfaker underwent multiple surgeries, learned to eat on her own and write with her left hand. “She was part of a new generation who have lost pieces of themselves in war, experiencing the same physical trauma and psychological anguish as their male counterparts.”

But there is a difference from male amputees for these women who have lost limbs in combat. They do not know how society will view them in the future. They have never experienced female amputees. They do not know how they will view themselves. Body image is an important part of every female child, teenager and woman in this country, more so and differently than it is for men. Society knows women will starve themselves to be thin because a thin body is important. They undergo implants, botox injections, and plastic surgery to make sure they look like society’s favorite model or celebrity. Girls in their teens are susceptible to life threatening bulimia and anorexia for fear of “getting fat.”

On April 18, 2006, when the Washington Post published the story about women amputees, the numbers were “small.” In 3 years of war there were only 11 female amputees. On that same date there were 350 male amputees.

Dawn Halfaker was on night patrol in Baqubah, Iraq, on June 19, 2004, when her vehicle was hit. Another soldier’s arm was sheared off in the same accident and went flying past her head. As the medics worked to stabilize her, she warned them not to cut off her arm. She had been a strong athlete, a basketball standout at West Point, a starting guard through 4 years of college. When she was at Walter Reed, she did not want to know what she looked like. She asked her mother to cover the mirror in her room with a towel.

One of the more shocking aspects reported by this article in the Washington Post is the following information from historian Judy Bellafaire of the Women in Military Service for America Memorial Foundation, which researches such issues. Surprising many political observers, the fact of female casualties has produced little public reaction. Before Iraq, many assumed that the sight of women in body bags or with missing limbs would provoke a wave of public revulsion. “New TERRAIN, NEW PERILS

The Iraq war is the first in which so many women have had so much exposure to combat—working in a wide array of jobs, with long deployments, in a place where hostile fire has no bounds. In all, more than 370 women have been wounded in action and 34 have been killed by hostile fire.

The war has created what experts believe is the nation’s first group of female combat amputees. “We’re unaware of any female amputees from previous wars,” said historian Judy Bellafaire of the Women in Military Service for America Memorial Foundation, which researches such issues.

Surprising many political observers, the fact of female casualties has produced little public reaction. Before Iraq, many assumed that the sight of women in body bags or with missing limbs would provoke a wave of public revulsion.

“Get us out of the kill zone!” she yelled to the Humvee driver. She was a 24-year-old first lieutenant, a platoon leader who two months earlier had led her unit in repulsing a six-hour attack on a police station in Diyala province. As medics worked to stabilize her, she warned: “You bastards better not cut my arm off.”

In the hospital, there had been no other way to save her life.

At first, in the early days, she tried to ignore the burns on her face, her wounded right shoulder, the fact of her missing arm. She had been a basketball standout at West Point, a starting guard through four years of college. She was fit, young, energetic.

Suddenly, she was a disabled veteran of war.

“Did I want to know what I looked like,” she recalled recently. She asked her mother to get a towel and cover the mirror in her hospital room.

By Donna St. George

NEW REALITY

Her body had been maimed by war. Dawn Halfaker lay unconscious at Walter Reed Army Medical Center, her parents at her bedside and her future suddenly unsure. A rocket-propelled grenade had exploded in her Humvee, razing her shoulder.

In June 2004, she became the newest soldier to start down a path almost unknown in the United States: woman as combat amputee. It was a distinction she did not dwell on during days of intense pain and repeated surgeries or even as she struggled to eat on her own, write left-handed and use an artificial limb. But scattered among her experiences were moments when she was aware that few women before her had rethought their lives, their bodies, their choices, in this particular way.

She was part of a new generation of women who have lost pieces of themselves in war, experiencing the same physical trauma and psychological anguish as their male counterparts. But for female combat amputees has come something else: a quiet sense of wonder and fate and insight and standing or bond, which researches such issues.

LIMBS LOST TO ENEMY FIRE, WOMEN FORGE A NEW REALITY

For Halfaker, an athlete with a strong sense of her physical self, the world was transformed June 19, 2004, on a night patrol through Baqubah, Iraq. Out of nowhere had come the rocket-propelled grenade, exploding behind her head.

Another soldier’s arm was sheared off. Blood was everywhere.

Charles Moskos of Northwestern University, a leading military sociologist. Politically, Moskos said, it is a no-win issue. Conservatives fear they will undermine support for the war if they speak out about wounded women, and liberals worry they will jeopardize support for women serving in combat roles by raising the subject, he said.

In the hospital, female combat amputees face all the challenges women face with a few possible differences. Women, for example, seem to care more about appearance and be more expressive about their experiences, hospital staff members said. Among the women, there also was “a unique understanding or bond,” said Capt. Katie Yancek, an occupational therapist at Walter Reed.

The advent of female combat amputees has left an enduring impact on the hospital staff members. “We have learned not to underestimate or be overly skeptical about how these women will do,” said Amanda Magee, a physician’s assistant in the amputee care program. “Sometimes they arrive in really bad shape, and people are really worried. . . . But we’ve learned they can move...”
Two months after Dawn Halfaker was wounded, Juanita Wilson arrived on a stretch bed, her legs covered in bandages, her hand gone. It was August 25, 2004, just days after a roadside bomb went off under Wilson’s Humvee. She came to the hospital as the Iraq war’s fourth female combat amputee—the first who was a mother.

From the beginning, Wilson decided she did not want her only child to see her so wounded the first time to the 6-year-old, her phone. “Mommy’s okay,” she assured the girl. “What are you doing at school now?” It was a comforting gesture that Wilson allowed her husband and child to travel from Hawaii, where the family had been stationed, for a visit. By then, Wilson was more mobile. She asked a nurse put makeup on her face, stowed her IV medications into a backpack she could wear and planned an outing to Chuck E. Cheese’s.

“Mommy, hurry you got hurt,” her daughter, Kenyah, said when she arrived, hugging her. And then: “Mommy, I thought you died.”

The sort of mother who massed her daughter penmanship exercises and math problems from the war zone, Wilson wanted Kenyah to stay focused on her school and the ordinary circumstances of being 6. “I wanted it to be like I was going to be okay when she saw me,” said Wilson, 32.

Chances revealed themselves one at a time. Wilson remembered that her daughter eyed a plate of croissants in the hotel-like room where the family stayed at Walter Reed that first time. At the end of the room and the ordinary circumstances of being 6. “I wanted it to be like I was going to be okay when she saw me,” said Wilson, 32.

Wilson headed to the pilot’s room at whose bedside Wilson still lay in a coma, her husband and parents at her bedside. “You care about everybody, but somehow amputees connect to amputees,” Wilson said, “especially if they are women.” “It was a big deal to me,” she said. Wilson’s mouth drops.

Wilson headed to the pilot’s room to sit with her family. She found herself returning to Duckworth, now 37, was conscious, Wilson remembered that her daughter eyed a plate of croissants in the hotel-like room where the family stayed at Walter Reed that first time. At the end of the room and the ordinary circumstances of being 6. “I wanted it to be like I was going to be okay when she saw me,” said Wilson, 32.

Wilson remembered that her daughter eyed a plate of croissants in the hotel-like room where the family stayed at Walter Reed that first time. At the end of the room and the ordinary circumstances of being 6. “I wanted it to be like I was going to be okay when she saw me,” said Wilson, 32. But Wilson continues to shield her daughter from the discomfort and anguish of her injury, “I didn’t want to take her childhood away. I just wanted to keep her happy and enjoy life and not thinking about me. She’ll ask me questions, and I’ll say, ‘Oh that’s not for children to worry about.”

On that winter morning, Wilson had already tied her combat boots, her right hand doing most of the work and her prosthetic holding the loop before it is tied. “I want it to be known that just because you’re a female injured in combat, you don’t have to give up your career and you don’t have to look at yourself as disabled,” she said.

She added, “It was a hurting feeling, no battle soldier yet who feels she shouldn’t be there.”

How the world sees war-wounded women like her, she said, is a little harder to pinpoint.

“When you’re in Walter Reed, you’re in a bubble with my arm. It’s okay. Everyone there knows. . . . But when you walk out that gate, it’s a whole different world. No one knows what it’s like to be on the other side of a mirror, and to avoid all of that. I never come outside without my [prosthetic] arm. Never.”

Wilson added, “I have noticed that when you’re a female injured as an amputee, everybody’s mouth drops.”

Lately, she has set new career goals, aiming high, perhaps even for the Army’s top enlisted job. She listened with glee to the news that Tammy Duckworth—at whose bedside she had prayed—had decided to run for Congress in Illinois.

Soon after she learned about her friend’s new political life, she called Duckworth, joked that she would serve as her assistant in Congress, and then reflected: “It definitely says that just because you were a combat veteran . . .

SCARS FARTHER FROM THE SURFACE

Long out of Walter Reed, Dawn Halfaker is also deeply into a life remade. It has been 17 months since she was wounded, and her favorite yoga tape is playing on a small VCR in an apartment in Adams Morgan. Halfaker barely seems to notice her image, which once was difficult to bear and is now reflected back at her from a large mirror—“hair and trim, athletic build, one arm extended perfectly above her head.”

In place of her missing limb is a T-shirt sleeve, emptiness along with the yoga tape, Halfaker visualizes that she still has a right arm; it helps her balance.

She retired from the Army as a captain—a tough choice only four years out of West Point, but one she made as she tried to imagine fitting back into military culture. Without her arm, she could no longer do push-ups, tie her combat boots, tuck her hair neatly under a beret.

She still has friends in Iraq, although one was killed this week. And the Bronze Star that she was awarded last year for her role at the Diyala police station is tucked away in a box. That day, she was in charge of 22 soldiers, including a new right, talking up a position on the roof with a grenade launcher, then queuing a jail riot.

Lately, she works at an office in Arlington, mostly as a consultant to the Defense Advanced Research Projects Agency. She has applied to graduate school in security studies and bought a condo in Adams Morgan and co-wrote a book proposal about postwar recovery.

To get to this new place, Halfaker has made parts of adjustment on a computer one-handed. Drive a car with a push-button ignition. Uses her knees to hold steady a peanut butter jar she wants to open. T условия for earlier note to learn to use her left hand, practicing nightly at Walter Reed as she penned her thoughts in a journal.

“You don’t think about how many times you have a lot of things in your hands, like for me just carrying my coffee from cafe downstairs up to my office on the seventh floor is a total battle every day,” she said. She has to hold the coffee cup, scan her identification badge, open doors, press elevator buttons. Sometimes she spills. Sometimes the coffee burns her.

In her apartment, Halfaker bends and stretches into yoga poses, her artificial arm lying beside the mirror. More functional prosthetics did little to change her type of injury, she found. So she persuaded prosthetic artists at Walter Reed to make this one—lightweight and natural-looking, easier on her body, allowing her to blend in with the outside world.

Halfaker goes without a prosthetic when she is exercising, jogging through the streets of Washington or snowboarding in Colorado or lobbing tennis balls around a court.

“I never really wanted to hide the fact that I was an amputee,” she said, “but I never wanted it to be the central focus of my life.” For some men, she said, it seems a badge of honor that they do not mind showing. “For a woman, it’s not acceptable. Everyone there knows. . . . But when you walk out that gate, it’s a whole different world. No one knows what it’s like to be on the other side of a mirror, and to avoid all of that. I never come outside without my [prosthetic] arm. Never.”

Wilson added, “I have noticed that when you’re a female injured as an amputee, everybody’s mouth drops.”

It has been 17 months since she was wounded, and her favorite yoga tape is playing on a small VCR in an apartment in Adams Morgan. Halfaker barely seems to notice her image, which once was difficult to bear and is now reflected back at her from a large mirror—“hair and trim, athletic build, one arm extended perfectly above her head.”

In place of her missing limb is a T-shirt sleeve, emptiness along with the yoga tape, Halfaker visualizes that she still has a right arm; it helps her balance.

She retired from the Army as a captain—a tough choice only four years out of West Point, but one she made as she tried to imagine fitting back into military culture. Without her arm, she could no longer do push-ups, tie her combat boots, tuck her hair neatly under a beret.

She still has friends in Iraq, although one was killed this week. And the Bronze Star that she was awarded last year for her role at the Diyala police station is tucked away in a box. That day, she was in charge of 22 soldiers, including a new right, talking up a position on the roof with a grenade launcher, then queuing a jail riot.

Lately, she works at an office in Arlington, mostly as a consultant to the Defense Advanced Research Projects Agency. She has applied to graduate school in security studies and bought a condo in Adams Morgan and co-wrote a book proposal about postwar recovery.

To get to this new place, Halfaker has made parts of adjustment on a computer one-handed. Drive a car with a push-button ignition. Uses her knees to hold steady a peanut butter jar she wants to open. T условия for earlier note to learn to use her left hand, practicing nightly at Walter Reed as she penned her thoughts in a journal.

“You don’t think about how many times you have a lot of things in your hands, like for me just carrying my coffee from cafe downstairs up to my office on the seventh floor is a total battle every day,” she said. She has to hold the coffee cup, scan her identification badge, open doors, press elevator buttons. Sometimes she spills. Sometimes the coffee burns her.

In her apartment, Halfaker bends and stretches into yoga poses, her artificial arm lying beside the mirror. More functional prosthetics did little to change her type of injury, she found. So she persuaded prosthetic artists at Walter Reed to make this one—lightweight and natural-looking, easier on her body, allowing her to blend in with the outside world.

Halfaker goes without a prosthetic when she is exercising, jogging through the streets of Washington or snowboarding in Colorado or lobbing tennis balls around a court.

“I never really wanted to hide the fact that I was an amputee,” she said, “but I never wanted it to be the central focus of my life.” For some men, she said, it seems a badge of honor that they do not mind showing. “For a woman, it’s not acceptable. Everyone there knows. . . . But when you walk out that gate, it’s a whole different world. No one knows what it’s like to be on the other side of a mirror, and to avoid all of that. I never come outside without my [prosthetic] arm. Never.”

Wilson added, “I have noticed that when you’re a female injured as an amputee, everybody’s mouth drops.”

Lately, she has set new career goals, aiming high, perhaps even for the Army’s top enlisted job. She listened with glee to the news that Tammy Duckworth—at whose bedside she had prayed—had decided to run for Congress in Illinois.

Soon after she learned about her friend’s new political life, she called Duckworth, joked that she would serve as her assistant in Congress, and then reflected: “It definitely says that just because you were a combat veteran . . .

RECOGNIZING LIEUTENANT COLONEL DEWAYNE L. KNOTT

HON. SAM GRAVES OF MISSOURI

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, May 18, 2006

Mr. GRAVES. Mr. Speaker, I proudly pause to recognize Lieutenant Colonel Dewayne L. Knott of St. Joseph, Missouri. He has served most recently as the Vice Commander of the 139th Medical Group of the Air National Guard based in St. Joseph. After 37 years of distinguished service, Lieutenant Colonel Dewayne L. Knott is retiring from the Missouri Air National Guard.

The Lieutenant Colonel began his years of service in March of 1969 as an enlisted member of the United States Air Force. He served and to honor those who continue on the noble work of service, safety and assistance.

Mr. Speaker and colleagues, please join me in honor and recognition of the men and women in blue who have paid the ultimate price in protecting the safety of others. We also join in recognition of the family members whose lives were forever altered upon losing a loved one in the line of duty. We extend our deepest gratitude to all police officers, for their commitment, courage and unwavering sense of duty in their vocation of service to others. The individual and collective work of our police officers is framed by integrity, dedication and excellence, serving as a shield of security and hope for every one of us—and their courage and sacrifice will be forever honored and remembered.

IN RECOGNITION OF THE PAN-PONTIAN FEDERATION OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA AND CANADA ON THE ANNUAL DAY OF REMEMBRANCE OF THE Pontian GREEK VICTIMS OF GENOCIDE

HON. CAROLYN B. MALONEY OF NEW YORK
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, May 18, 2006

Mrs. MALONEY. Mr. Speaker, I rise to recognize the annual day of remembrance of the genocide of the Pontian Greek people at the hands of the Ottoman Empire that took place from 1915 to 1923, and to salute the Pan-Pontian Federation of the United States of America and Canada for its role in preserving and promoting the history, traditions and culture of the Pontian Greeks.

With a long and distinguished history and a proud culture, the Greek Pontians have for millennia upheld Hellenic traditions against all odds. Named after Pontus, the Greek term denoting "the sea," the Pontians trace their origins to the region of the southeastern part of the Black Sea. There, one of the first Greek cities of Pontus, Sinope, was founded in 785 B.C.

The seeds for the Pontian genocide were planted during negotiations among the European powers that led to the signing of the Treaty of Berlin in 1878. The ensuing rise of nationalism led to many revolutionary wars and independence movements within the decaying Ottoman Empire, causing Turkish leaders to become increasingly fearful that their ethnically diverse domain would begin to disintegrate.

By the turn of the 20th century, many nations within the Balkans had acquired their independence from the Turks. However, due to the politics of the era, many of these newly formed nations only consisted of a small portion of their population, as the great powers had no desire to see these new Balkan states become too strong. As a result, many Serbians, Croats and Slovenes chafed under the borders of the Ottoman Empire. The nations of the Balkans yearned to incorporate and unite their people who still lived under Turkish rule. This situation led to the Balkan Wars of 1912-1913, in which the members of the Balkan League joined to present a united front against the Ottoman oppressors. The Ottoman armies were soundly defeated, and national borders were created and rearranged accordingly.

The reality was that many different nationalities existed within the Ottoman Empire and that their increasing desire to unite with their mother countries did indeed pose an ultimately fatal threat to the continued existence of the Ottoman Empire. In reaction, the Young Turk movement, which espoused a more modern and secular orientalization of the Ottoman Empire, from 1916 to 1923, largely under the leadership of Kemal Atatürk, the Ottoman Empire began to practice a ferocious genocide of the Christian population within its borders.

In 1916, after the Turks had concluded their massacre of the Armenians, the Pontians became their next victims. The Pontian Greeks were subject to massacres, atrocities, mass rapes and abductions of women and children. They were forced into starvation and sent on long marches whose true intended destination was the graveyard of history. This genocide almost resulted in the extinction of a people who had lived on Asia Minor for nearly three millennia. Between the years of 1915 and 1923, more than half of the Pontian population, or about 353,000 human beings, fell victim to what the world knows to be genocide. These Pontians who did survive the Ottoman onslaught were exiled from their ancestral homes, and many fled to Greece, Russia and the United States. It is estimated that there were about 400,000 Pontian refugees during this cataclysmic era.

Despite the death and displacement of almost 1 million Pontians, their traditions and culture still resonate across the world to this day. While forces of evil tried to obliterate an entire people, the determination and endurance of the Pontian Greeks stand as a testament to mankind's extraordinary ability to defy all odds in the hope of ultimately living in peace and justice.

Mr. Speaker, I ask that my distinguished colleagues join me in observing the annual day of remembrance of the victims of the Pontian Greek genocide, and in recognizing the Pan-Pontian Federation of the United States of America and Canada, its vital mission of preserving Pontian Greek culture and history, and its significance as a symbol of mankind's hope and endurance.

IN TRIBUTE TO THE LIFE OF FLOYD PATTERSON

HON. CHARLES B. RANGEL OF NEW YORK
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, May 18, 2006

Mr. RANGEL. Mr. Speaker, I rise in tribute to the life and legacy of Floyd Patterson, a giant of our time. He emerged not only as a heavyweight boxing champion, but as a champion for morality and an exemplar of courage. Patterson's life achievements span throughout the world, though his most notable accomplishments are to be found in the ring.

Patterson was born January 4, 1935, in a dilapidated neighborhood of Bedford-Stuyvesant in Brooklyn, New York. His early years were marked by challenges in school and emotional unrest. At the age of 11 he was sent to Wiltsie School for Boys, an institution for emotionally disturbed youths in upstate New York. In a later account of Patterson, he said the school and a particular teacher, Vivien Costen, saved his life. At Wiltsie he first discovered his interest with boxing and it was encouraged by his teachers.

Patterson moved back to Bedford-Stuyvesant in Brooklyn, New York, where he was able to continue boxing. At age 14 he began working out with his brothers at a gym on Lower East Side. The gym was owned by the legendary Constantine "Cus" D'Amato, who later would become Patterson's manager. At age 16, Patterson moved to New York and trained to become a middleweight champion.

In 1956, Patterson knocked out Archie Moore in Chicago to become the youngest world heavyweight champion.

The reality was that many different nationalities existed within the Ottoman Empire and that their increasing desire to unite with their mother countries did indeed pose an ultimately fatal threat to the continued existence of the Ottoman Empire. Mr. GRAVES. Mr. Speaker, I proudly pause to recognize Mrs. Dean Byrd of St. Joseph, Missouri. As a long time citizen of St. Joseph, Mrs. Byrd will be celebrating her 80th birthday. She has seen many events over the past 80 years and awoke each day with a strong sense of family and community that improved the lives of everyone she has touched. Her life should be celebrated with the same joy and excitement in which she gives back to our community.

Mr. Speaker, I proudly ask you to join me in recognizing Mrs. Dean Byrd. Throughout her 80 years, she has always given back more than was expected of her. Her life is an inspiration to many and I am proud to serve her in the United States Congress.

HONORING THE 30TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE MARY CAMPBELL CENTER
HON. MICHAEL N. CASTLE OF DELAWARE
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, May 18, 2006

Mr. CASTLE. Mr. Speaker, it is with great pleasure that I rise today to celebrate the 30th anniversary of the Mary Campbell Center, a facility serving disabled people in Delaware. The Mary Campbell Center as been home to thousands of people, some of who have lived there since the 1976 opening. Whether the residents of the Center have been there for a long or short time, they share in their daily lives of eating, learning, working, excersising, and playing with each other, the staff, and friends.

The Center is located on ten acres in Wilmington, Delaware. Amos and Mary Talley Campbell originally owned the property and lived there with their daughter, Evelyn, who was born with Down's Syndrome. Upon Mrs. Campbell's death, Mr. Campbell donated the land so that a long-term-care facility for Evelyn, and other people with disabilities, could be built in his wife's honor. Helping these individuals achieve a higher quality of life remains the main purpose of the Center.

Since its inception, the Center, home to 65 residents, has grown in many ways. What began as one building, now is a state-of-the-art facility with an indoor swimming pool, learning center, greenhouse, and an adaptive playground. These facilities help residents accomplish their dreams and keep in touch with family and friends.

I congratulate and thank those at the Mary Campbell Center for all they have contributed to the State of Delaware. Many disabled Delawareans and their families are grateful for them and I am pleased to be able to vocalize their appreciation. Thank you to those who have made the Mary Campbell Center what it is today and to those who will carry on this tradition into the future.

HONORING THE 50TH ANNIVERSARY OF DOWNERS GROVE BOY SCOUT TROOP 89
HON. JUDY BIGGERT
OF ILLINOIS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, May 18, 2006

Mrs. BIGGERT. Mr. Speaker, it is with great pleasure that I rise today to join the members of Downers Grove Boy Scout Troop 89 in celebration of their 50th anniversary.

Since 1956, the Scouts of Troop 89 have acted as role models for the youth of our community. By teaching values like loyalty, kindness and thrift, the Scout program has given generations of our sons and grandsons the foundation they will need to live honorable and successful lives.

Both my husband and my son were Boy Scouts, so I know firsthand what a positive force Scouting can be. Scouts make outstanding leaders and volunteers who give of themselves to make communities like Downers Grove a better place in which to live.

So congratulations to the members of Troop 89—past, present, and future. After 50 years, you continue to make us all very proud. And thank you to the families and friends of these Scouts who have supported them over the years. Without you, we could not have hoped to celebrate this momentous anniversary. to Cleveland. He has dedicated himself to our church, and to the betterment of all mankind. His distinguished record of service speaks volumes, and I look forward to working with him to strengthen our community.

Mr. Speaker and Colleagues, please join me in honoring Auxiliary Bishop Lennon and welcoming him to Cleveland as our community’s 10th Bishop. Today is a great day for the Catholic Church and the Cleveland community. Auxiliary Bishop Lennon brings a wealth of experience and knowledge, and I ask my Colleagues to join me in sharing in this treasured day.

TRIBUTE IN HONOR OF JENNY CHANG
HON. CAROLYN B. MALONEY
OF NEW YORK
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, May 18, 2006

Mrs. MALONEY. Mr. Speaker, I rise to honor a former staffer, a friend, and an inspiration, Jenny Chang.

When Jenny came to work in my office in 2003, she had already been through one round with a formidable opponent, breast cancer. But you certainly couldn’t tell. She brought an energy and positivity rarely seen, and none of us will ever forget her laugh.

I admire leaders, and Jenny Chang was a leader. Jenny was student body president and president of her senior class at North Carolina State University—she was the first woman of Asian descent to hold that position. Through her battle with a terrible disease, Jenny reached out to fellow cancer sufferers and survivors and used her position on Capitol Hill to make a difference. Despite her illness, she worked on my colleague David Price’s campaign and in his Congressional office, making scores of new friends and admirers at each stop.

And for 8 months, she was the soul of my office, always showing how things can be done and how problems can be solved.

It saddened us all when Jenny’s cancer returned and she had to take leave of my office and Capitol Hill.

Mr. Speaker, Jenny Chang passed away on April 29. We should all be so lucky to work with such a terrific soul as Jenny Chang. She was a model of strong service and civic leadership. Sharon has served as the Business Coordinator and Administrative Office Systems in the Hillyard Technical Center, as well as the advisor for the Phi Beta Lambda adult business student organization. Outside of the classroom, Sharon has remained active in the ACTE, Missouri ACTE, National Business Education Association, and as the Legislative Chairperson for the St. Joseph Parent Teacher Association.

Mr. Speaker, I proudly ask you to join me in recognizing Sharon Kosek. Her commitments to excellence in education and community service have remained as an inspiration to all of those people around her. She will certainly be missed and I would like to ask the House of Representatives to join me in thanking her for all of her hard work and dedication over the years. I am honored to represent her in the United States Congress.

RECOGNIZING KENT STATE UNIVERSITY PRESIDENT CAROL A. CARTWRIGHT FOR 15 YEARS OF SERVICE TO OHIO EDUCATION
HON. RALPH REGULA
OF OHIO
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, May 18, 2006

Mr. REGULA. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize Carol A. Cartwright, President of Kent State University, for 15 remarkable years of academic, community and national leadership. It has been my genuine pleasure to work with her on a range of priorities in northeast Ohio, including education and learning, economic development, healthcare and research.

Kent State has eight campuses, including the Stark campus in my District, with more than 34,000 students seeking from 2-year to Ph.D. degrees. Its leader must be a great communicator, able to multi-task and an innovative thinker in her approach to getting the job done. Carol Cartwright does that every day with a smile and wit, as well as considerable knowledge and experience.

Throughout her career, Dr. Cartwright has been a role model for women in higher education and every walk of life. After working as a teacher, university professor, pioneering researcher in the field of special education and as a university executive officer, she made history in 1991 when she became Kent State University’s first woman president and the first woman president of a public university in Ohio. From the outset of her presidency, she has been an advocate of professional development and personal-growth initiatives for women. In her first year of eligibility, she was elected to the Ohio Women’s Hall of Fame.

She was also a member of the committee that worked with my wife, Mary, to bring the long- overdue idea of a National First Ladies Library to life, and Carol continues to serve on the Library’s national board. She also serves on the American Council on Education Commission on Women in Higher Education and the board of directors of National Public Radio.

Carol has a clear commitment to all students, and she has been instrumental in building one of the finest programs in the nation to help GED candidates advance to pursue college degrees. I look forward every year to attending the graduation ceremony to hear wonderful success stories and to learn of students’ academic achievements—thanks to the GED scholar initiative at Kent State.

On October 5, 2005, Dr. Cartwright, Kent State University’s 10th president, announced her decision to step down from the leadership position she has held since 1991. She will retire from the presidency upon the arrival of her successor. I want to congratulate her on a tremendous job and wish Carol and her husband, Phil, health and happiness in the future.

VALLEY FEVER VACCINE DEVELOPMENT ACT
HON. WILLIAM M. THOMAS OF CALIFORNIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, May 18, 2006

Mr. THOMAS. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to discuss the Valley Fever Vaccine Development Act, which I introduced today. Valley Fever or coccidioidomycosis is a serious human disease caused by the inhalation of a soil-borne fungus, Coccidioides, and particularly impacts public health in the southwestern United States, specifically California, Arizona, Nevada, New Mexico, Utah, and Texas. According to researchers involved in the Valley Fever Vaccine Project, each year a estimated 130,000 people nationwide are exposed to Valley Fever and there are about 1,540 cases reported. Of those, 2,500 and 5,000 are serious and about 500 people die from Valley Fever. The disease is especially prevalent in Kern County, California, which I represent; 1,540 cases were reported in 2004, which was an increase of 1,137 from the 403 cases reported in 2000. Similar increases have been reported in Arizona, where some anticipate the number of cases this year will exceed 4,000. Moreover, 46 Kern County residents died from Valley Fever from 2000 to 2004.

Valley Fever particularly affects those with impaired or less developed immune systems, including children and the elderly. The disease has a high incidence among minority populations as well as among those who work outside in occupations such as construction, agriculture, mining, energy, and the military. In addition, the disease also impact those who engage in outdoor recreational activities, such as biking, golf, hiking, jogging, motorcycling, rock collecting, and tennis.

The drugs currently used to treat Valley Fever are often ineffective and the average hospitalization charges for the seriously ill exceed $30,000. Accordingly, a preventative vaccine is desperately needed. Unfortunately, there currently is no vaccine for Valley Fever and there is no private industry interest in investing the investment, estimated to be about $40 million, needed for the development of the vaccine.

However, nonprofit organizations have sponsored exploratory research conducted by the Valley Fever Vaccine Project and their efforts have resulted in the identification of candidate vaccines for preclinical development. While I greatly appreciate the $930,000 that has been provided through the federal appropriations process since Fiscal Year 2003 for the California State University at Bakersfield (CSUB) Foundation to purchase equipment needed by the Valley Fever Vaccine Project, additional funding is needed to develop a vaccine, particularly as incidences of Valley Fever continue to increase while treatment options are limited.

Thus, I have introduced the Valley Fever Vaccine Development Act, which would authorize, from Fiscal Year 2007 through Fiscal Year 2012, funding for grants through the Centers for Disease Control for efforts to develop a vaccine to prevent and reduce the prevalence of this serious disease. As the development of a Valley Fever vaccine will directly enhance public health, I ask my colleagues to join me as I work to enact this important legislation.

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION ON THE BUDGET FOR FISCAL YEAR 2007

SPRING OF

HON. BOB ETHERIDGE OF NORTH CAROLINA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, May 17, 2006

The House in Committee of the Whole on the State of the Union had under consideration the concurrent resolution (H. Con. Res. 376) establishing the congressional budget for the United States Government for fiscal year 2007 and setting forth appropriate budgetary levels for fiscal years 2008 through 2011.

Mr. ETHERIDGE. Mr. Chairman, I rise in strong opposition to this misguided budget resolution, and I urge my colleagues to join me in voting against it.

The Federal budget is much more than just a government document; it is a statement of our Nation's priorities and values. I am tremendously proud that in my first term as the Second District of North Carolina's Representative in the U.S. House, Congress and the President worked together to fulfill the hopeful promise of the budget for the first time in a generation. Until just a few years ago, the budget remained balanced and the surpluses we produced were being used to pay down the national debt and strengthen the solvency of Social Security. But this Administration and the Republican Congressional Leadership have squandered the budget surplus on wasteful tax policies and are running record budget deficits as far as the eye can see.

This budget offers more of the same failed policies and it flunks the test of moral leadership by increasing the burdens on the poor, the middle class, families struggling to get into the middle class and future generations. This budget contains devastating cuts to essential services for our families and will leave the statutory debt at a record level of $11.3 trillion. The American people deserve better.

As the only former State schools chief serving in Congress, public education is my priority. Education holds the key to the American Dream for middle class families, and the Federal Government has a solemn obligation to help all of our people make the most of their God-given abilities. This budget eliminates 42 Federal education initiatives, cuts funding for education, social services and training by $4.6 billion below the amount needed to maintain purchasing power at the current level and will cut this funding more deeply each subsequent year.

Specifically, this budget completely dismantles: vocational education ($1.3 billion); Perkins Loans ($730 million); Safe and Drug-Free Schools state grants ($347 million); GEAR-UP college readiness for low-income students ($303 million); education technology ($287 million); and Even Start family literacy services ($99 million). The budget cuts $15 billion from the amount authorized for the No Child Left Behind education reform effort and cuts the Federal contribution for special education from the current 17.7 percent to only 17.0 percent for the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA) despite years of rhetoric from the Republicans claiming to support IDEA. And while the costs of college continue to rise, this budget contains none of the funds needed to raise Pell Grants beyond the 2003 funding level.

In addition, this Republican budget resolution cuts funding for homeland security, including port security by $6.1 billion over 5 years, cuts essential services for working families by $9.4 billion, cuts veterans' health care by $6.0 billion, slashes funding for health by $18.1 billion below current services and fails to protect the environment by imposing a cut of $25 billion over the next 5 years.

In contrast, the Spratt Substitute will balance the budget by 2012. It includes tough Pay-As-You-Go (PAYGO) budget enforcement rules that require the cost of any new mandatory spending or revenue legislation to be fully offset. Vice President Cheney has claimed "deficits don't matter," but the American people know better. The Spratt budget provides $4.6 billion more for education in 2007 than the Republican budget and adds $45.3 billion over 5 years that our States and communities desperately need for quality schools.

The Spratt Substitute keeps our commitment to veterans by including $8.6 billion more than the Republican budget for veterans' health care. It provides $6.5 billion more over 5 years for homeland security, including port security and rejects the Republican cut to Army National Guard troop strength and the cut to Cooperative Threat Reduction that protects America from weapons of mass destruction. The Spratt alternative budget provides $18 billion more over 5 years to fund health priorities cut by the Republican budget, including medical research at NIH and CDC, rural health activities, and graduate medical education for children's hospitals. Finally, the Spratt Substitute rejects the Republican budget cuts for environmental protection and requires an honest, separate vote on any proposal to raise the limit on the national debt.

Finally, Mr. Chairman, I believe the Federal budget is the public expression of our Nation's priorities and values. I urge Congress to reject the Republican budget that is wrong for America and support the Spratt Substitute that restores funding for essential services for a stronger country and a brighter tomorrow for our families.
Hon. Solomon P. Ortiz
OF TEXAS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Wednesday, May 17, 2006
SPEECH OF
Hon. Solomon P. Ortiz
OF TEXAS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Wednesday, May 17, 2006
The House in Committee of the Whole will come to order. I am authorized to inform the House that the Speaker of the House has asked me to represent him on this occasion.
Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to the deficits proposed by this budget. We are at war. This should be a time of sacrifice for all Americans; it is not the time for gutting programs that help working families to pay for tax cuts to the wealthy among us. Sacrifice should be shared, not dumped on some of us.
Everywhere I go these days, people ask me when Congress will do something about the budget deficit—which will mean profound taxes on their children down the road. . . . Republicans, Democrats, business people, laborers—everybody.
I keep telling them each budget we pass is worse and worse, growing the deficit at an incredible level. People used to say Congress was taxing and spending. These days Congress is borrowing and spending. . . . worse, we’re borrowing from our children. This budget grows both the deficit and the national debt. The deficits in this budget would, according to the report accompanying the resolution, lead to another debt limit increase of $1.4 trillion—on top of the $3 trillion in debt ceiling increases already approved since President Bush took office.
And still . . . this resolution makes deep and harmful cuts to critical services for working families—including border security, education, and veterans’ services. Democrats offer a budget today, that this House will certainly reject, that does not include the harmful cuts to domestic priorities while still reaching balance in 2012. It has smaller deficits than the Republican budget, accumulates less debt, and returns us back to paying for what we pass.
If we pass this budget resolution today—and I will vote no—this House is following the bad ideas in President Bush’s budget, which continues the policies of the past 5 years that deeply cut into the spending for our homeland security, simply to pay for tax cuts to the wealthiest Americans.
The budget makes long-term damage in our real security . . . at a time the President and many in this Congress are saying the needs on the border are so severe that we must send the National Guard to protect the border. First, let me say how much I oppose deploying the National Guard to the borders, and second, let me say about how we got to crisis on the border: it is entirely about calculated disregard to the security forces on the border.
The House budget shortchanges homeland security programs—cutting them by up to $488 million this year and up to $6.1 billion over 5 years from the amount needed to keep up with inflation. In December, when the 9/11 Commission issued its final report card, it gave the Bush Administration and this Congress a series of Cs, Ds, and Fs on many areas in homeland security—including border security.
The only thing we have given border security is promises, but no money. We know generally how much it would cost for the recommendations the 9–11 Commission said was the very least we must do to make a dent in illegal immigration: $375 million for the detention beds the 9/11 Commission determined we need.
$1.4 billion for the Border Patrol agents the 9/11 Commission determined we need.
Even with the VA treating more than 144,000 veterans from Iraq and Afghanistan,
Mr. EVANS also served as the director for revolving funds beginning in April of 2000. While director, he was responsible for financial management oversight for all DoD revolving and working capital funds, including the Defense Working Capital Funds.

Since 2001, Mr. Evans was the director for operations. As director, Mr. Evans was responsible for the Department’s Operations and Maintenance appropriations, including programs that support the global war on terror and the Department’s homeland security functions.

Senior leaders, both in the Congress and the Department of Defense, have benefited from Mr. Evans’ experience, outstanding leadership, and distinguished performance. His efforts have enabled our Nation’s leader to make the most effective use of defense resources to ensure America’s military strength. On behalf of my colleagues, I thank him for his service to our country and wish him well on his retirement.

SUPPORT FOR H.R. 2231

HON. TAMMY BALDWIN OF WISCONSIN
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, May 18, 2006

Ms. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in support of H.R. 2231, the Breast Cancer and Environmental Research Act, and I ask my colleagues to work with me to pass this important legislation.

Last Sunday was Mother’s Day, and in honor of all mothers, I rise today to stand with the National Breast Cancer Coalition and the 3 million American women living with breast cancer today to urge all my colleagues to push for passage of the Breast Cancer and Environmental Research Act—H.R. 2231. Too many mothers, daughters, wives, and sisters are dying from breast cancer. We will not end this disease until we find out what causes it.

It is generally believed that the environment plays some role in the development of breast cancer, but the extent of that role is not understood. Less than 30 percent of breast cancers are explained by known risk factors. However, there is little consensus in the scientific community on how the environment impacts breast cancer. Studies have explored the effect of isolated environmental factors such as diet, pesticides, and electromagnetic fields, but in most cases there is no conclusive evidence. Furthermore, there are many other factors that are suspected to play a role but have not been fully studied.

Clearly, more research needs to be done to determine the relationship between the environment and breast cancer. What is needed is a collaborative, comprehensive, national strategy to study these issues. H.R. 2231 makes that strategy possible.
This bill would create a new mechanism for environmental health research. It would establish up to eight research centers to study environmental factors and their impact on breast cancer. Modeled after the successful Department of Defense Breast Cancer Research Program, it would include consumer advocates in the peer review and programmatic review process.

This Federal commitment is critical for the overall, national strategy and the long-term research investments needed to discover potential environmental causes of breast cancer, so that we can prevent it, treat it more effectively, and cure it.

Mr. Speaker, I am proud to be a cosponsor of H.R. 2231, and I urge my colleagues to work with me to pass this bill this year.
HIGHLIGHTS

Senate

Chamber Action

Routine Proceedings, pages S4727–S4817

Measures Introduced: Twenty-seven bills and three resolutions were introduced, as follows: S. 2830–2856, S. Res. 483–484, and S. Con. Res. 95.

Measures Reported:

S. 1899, to amend the Indian Child Protection and Family Violence Prevention Act to identify and remove barriers to reducing child abuse, to provide for examinations of certain children, with an amendment in the nature of a substitute. (S. Rept. No. 109–255)

S. 2856, to provide regulatory relief and improve productivity for insured depository institutions. (S. Rept. No. 109–256)

S.J. Res. 1, proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States relating to marriage.

Measures Passed:

Broadcast Decency Enforcement Act: Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation was discharged from further consideration of S. 193, to increase the penalties for violations by television and radio broadcasters of the prohibitions against transmission of obscene, indecent, and profane language, and the bill was then passed.

Democracy in Burma: Senate agreed to S. Res. 484, expressing the sense of the Senate condemning the military junta in Burma for its recent campaign of terror against ethnic minorities and calling on the United Nations Security Council to adopt immediately a binding, non-punitive resolution on Burma.

Comprehensive Immigration Reform Act: Senate continued consideration of S. 2611, to provide for comprehensive immigration reform, taking action on the following amendments proposed thereto:

Adopted:

By 56 yeas to 43 nays (Vote No. 129), Kennedy Amendment No. 4066, to modify the conditions under which an H–2C nonimmigrant may apply for adjustment of status.

Akaka/Inouye Amendment No. 4029, to grant the children of Filipino World War II veterans special immigrant status for purposes of family reunification.
