The House met at 12:30 p.m. and was called to order by the Speaker pro tempore (Mr. Gingrey).

DESIGNATION OF SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The SPEAKER pro tempore laid before the House the following communication from the Speaker:

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,

I hereby appoint the Honorable Phil Gingrey to act as Speaker pro tempore on this day.

J. DENNIS HASTERT,
Speaker of the House of Representatives.

MORNING HOUR DEBATES

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the order of the House of January 31, 2006, the Chair will now recognize Members from lists submitted by the majority and minority leaders for morning hour debates. The Chair will alternate recognition between the parties, with each party limited to not to exceed 30 minutes, and each Member, except the majority leader, the minority leader, or the minority whip, limited to not to exceed 5 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. Skelton) for 5 minutes.

IRAQIS MUST ASSUME MORE RESPONSIBILITY

Mr. Skelton. Mr. Speaker, thank you.

I am very concerned about Iraq. Very concerned. The weather vane of the Iraqi fight has shifted clearly to the Iraqis. It is theirs to win or lose. General John Abizaid stated yesterday, “It’s very, very clear that in order to win in Iraq, the Iraqis have to assume more and more responsibility.”

Last week, there were two developments in Iraq that I feel need to be highlighted. First, the Marine Corps’ chief of intelligence in Iraq has reportedly described the situation in the Sunni-dominated Anbar province as “politically” lost to al Qaeda. The second is the plan to secure Baghdad from the insurgents by encircling it with, for lack of a better word, a moat. The idea of a moat went out of style in the middle ages. Both of these reports paint a less than rosy picture of how we are faring in this war that has already cost so much in blood and treasure. These two developments indicate that our level of effort is insufficient to maintain control of the country.

On the basis of these and other reports, some analysts determined that the solution to our problems in Baghdad and the Anbar province is to send more troops to Iraq. This might sound like a plausible course of action except for the fundamental problem that there are no more units to send to Iraq. Oh, certainly we can surge units forward into combat, but there is no way we can sustain that increase for any significant period of time. The administration’s poor planning and poor strategic choices in Iraq have depleted our strategic base of resources. The readiness situation has become so bad that our nondeployed combat brigades report that if called today, they may not be fully ready to complete all of their wartime missions.

The fact that our ground force readiness has fallen to such a dangerous level risks emboldening our enemies both in Iraq and elsewhere in the world. We must act now to reverse this decline. Certainly spending more money on Army and Marine Corps readiness will help. The Congress has provided additional funds to reset Army and Marine Corps equipment. But even with that increased funding, it will take some time for our units to get healthy again. I also strongly urge the administration to submit a budget that realistically reflects the services’ needs.

But unfortunately, Mr. Speaker, additional money will not be enough. We do not have the luxury of staying the course. The conflict in Iraq has depleted our ground forces and placed this country at strategic risk. We must start making significant progress in Iraq now, and the best way to do it is by transitioning the responsibility for Iraqi security to the Iraqis. I urge the administration to redouble its efforts to train and equip the Iraqi security forces.

COMBATING CORRUPTION REQUIRES EXPANDING FREEDOM

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the order of the House of January 31, 2006, the gentleman from Florida (Mr. Stearns) is recognized during morning hour debates for 5 minutes.

Mr. Stearns. Mr. Speaker, according to the State Department, international corruption costs American companies that play by the rules many billions of dollars in lost exports. Corruption impedes government efforts to deliver basic efforts to citizens, weakens confidence in democracy, and is often linked to international criminal activity. It causes rampant economic inefficiency, interferes with capital markets, and obviously contributes to poverty.

Transparency International is a global not-for-profit organization dedicated to the fight against corruption. Transparency puts out annual reports on the state of corruption worldwide, trying to measure whether we are winning or losing that fight.

This fight is a top priority for the U.S. Departments of State, Justice and Commerce. My colleagues, since 1979, the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development, OECD, has had a convention against corruption. and continues to see it as a top global priority. All this reflects a growing international consensus that corruption is a problem that we must confront. That much is true. But working on anticorruption campaigns, all these entities treat the symptoms rather than the disease. The disease is oppression and lawlessness. The cure is freedom and the rule of law.

The annual Index of Economic Freedom, compiled by the Heritage Foundation and the Wall Street Journal, provides a simple framework for understanding how open countries are to competition; the degree of state intervention in the economy, whether through taxation, spending or over-regulation; and the strength and independence of a country’s judiciary to enforce rules and protect private property.

One of the indicators in the index is the size of a nation’s “informal,” or black market economy, which helps to measure corruption. Charting the relationship between these two factors, they report that when economic freedom vanishes, the informal economy takes a larger share of GDP. The size of the informal economy in economically unfree and repressed economies is almost three times the size of the informal economy in free economies, and almost double the size of the informal economy in mostly free economies.” The Heritage calculations demonstrate the perverse effect of economic repression on the moral behavior of simple, ordinary people and the continuation of the cycle of poverty that entraps them.

Access to credit in most developed countries is the key to a better standard of living. That access is incumbent on one’s property, for which you need a formal job and a legal title to that property.

When it is difficult for people to invest in business, whether a corner grocery store or a major factory, formal jobs are hard to come by. Jobs can be more easily had in the informal economy, where small and medium entrepreneurs can negotiate salaries and benefits, and tie them to performance. In cases like this, the government bureaucracy encumbers legal businesses, encouraging employers and employees to operate in the shadows.

Without a formal job, you can still get credit if you have titled property to offer as collateral. But while Peruvian economist Hernando de Soto has shown that most of the poorest people in the developing world own property, they face innumerable bureaucratic hurdles in order to actually title that property as their own. In Peru, he says, “to obtain legal authorization to build a house in the outlying land took 6 years and 11 months. To obtain a legal title for that piece of land took 728 steps.” Other countries are similarly ridiculous.

In Egypt, it takes 77 steps to set up a government office and anywhere from 6 to 14 years. In the Philippines, it takes 168 steps through 53 offices and anywhere from 13 to 25 years to get legal title to that property.

An oppressive government system perpetuates poverty of its citizens by making it impossible to claim their property rights and pursue legal employment. Equally important, the Heritage Foundation says that the resulting black market economy creates a culture of contempt for the law and fosters corruption and bribery in the public sector as a necessary means to navigate the bureaucracy.”

Mr. Speaker, when those folks, particularly international elites, take on corruption, they see it as just one more corporate scandal to be uncovered and think that will be that and we can fix it. One more capitalistic crime, they call it, that must be prosecuted. That is not it. That is not it at all. In reality, charting actual corruption indicates a simple lack of freedom and, more importantly, a consistent rule of law.

RECESS

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 12(a) of rule I, the Chair declares the House in recess until 2 p.m. today.

Accordingly (at 12 o’clock and 41 minutes p.m.), the House stood in recess until 2 p.m.

AFTER RECESS

The recess having expired, the House was called to order by the Speaker pro tempore (Mrs. MILLER of Michigan) at 2 p.m.

PRAYER

The Most Reverend Anthony Sablan Apuron, Archbishop of Agana, Guam, offered the following prayer:

Almighty and eternal God, whose goodness fills our hearts with joy and whose love permeates our daily lives, You are blessed for bringing us together to work in harmony, in peace, and in justice. Send Your blessings upon our United States House of Representatives, who generously devote themselves to the work of our Nation and territories in the laws they pass and the resolutions they create. In times of difficulty, challenge and need, grant them the strength to transcend personal interests and seek only after the common good for all. Strengthen them, Lord, with Your grace and wisdom so that everything that they do may begin with Your inspiration, may continue with Your guidance and, by You, be happily ended.

Grace us with Your saving presence and aid us with Your constant blessing. All glory and praise be to You, our ever-living God, forever and ever.

Amen.
and our communities have greatly benefited from his ministry. This past weekend, Archbishop Apuron led a pilgrimage from Guam to Washington, DC, for the enshrinement of Our Lady of Carmen, the Patroness of the Marianas, in the Basilica of the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception. Many of these pilgrims, Madam Speaker, from Guam are with us today in the gallery.

I thank Archbishop Apuron for his prayer this afternoon and for his guidance and counsel throughout the years. The people of Guam join me in thanking you, Madam Speaker, and our House chaplain, Father Daniel Coughlin, for the invitation to Archbishop Apuron to serve as guest chaplain.

I thank you, Si Yuos Maase. God bless America and God bless Guam.

POLITICIZING THE WAR ON TERROR

(Ms. FOXX asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Ms. FOXX. Madam Speaker, I rise today to challenge my colleagues on the other side of the aisle. They continue to pound the drums and politicize the war on terror and unnecessarily criticize the administration. Yet they have no plan or any indication of one for how they would make our Nation more secure.

As the President said last week in his press conference, he wakes up every day to a thorough intelligence briefing that informs of the actions of numerous Islamo-fascists and others whose only goal is to destroy America, our freedoms and our way of life. He must respond to these threats.

The President is not politicizing the war on terror. He is simply carrying forth the war on terror and unnecessarily criticize the administration. But when the feelings of these radicals get hurt, we overreact, blame ourselves and apologize. That is what the Pope did.

I question whether the Pope should have even apologized. So much for free speech, so much for religious freedom, and so much for nonviolence.

In our world, hypocritical, radical Muslims may preach hate and violence against Christians and Jews, but heaven forbid anybody mention or quote slightly negative comments about radical Muslims, because this extremist sect will react with violence to prove just how nonviolent they are.

And that's just the way it is.

THE POPE AND FREE SPEECH AND RELIGIOUS FREEDOM

(Mr. POE asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. POE. Madam Speaker, over the last few days, radical Muslims burned the Pope in effigy, destroyed churches in Israel, preached hatred against the Pope and Christians, and cowardly killed a 65-year-old nun, shooting her four times in the back. So much for nonviolence by these radical Muslims.

All this because the Pope quoted a Byzantine emperor from the 1600s who commented on Muhammad's purported command "to spread by the sword the faith he preached." The Pope, of course, was not agreeing with this Byzantine emperor. The Pope was promoting discourse among all religions. But when the feelings of these radicals get hurt, we overreact, blame ourselves and apologize. That is what the Pope did.

So I question whether the Pope should have even apologized. So much for free speech, so much for religious freedom, and so much for nonviolence.

In our world, hypocritical, radical Muslims may preach hate and violence against Christians and Jews, but heaven forbid anybody mention or quote slightly negative comments about radical Muslims, because this extremist sect will react with violence to prove just how nonviolent they are. And that's just the way it is.

A CRITICAL TIME FOR THE PEOPLE OF DARFUR

(Mr. MORAN of Virginia asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. MORAN. Madam Speaker, this week marks a critical time for the people of Darfur and for this administration's role in ending the crisis in Sudan. Hundreds of thousands of innocent civilians have been murdered by the government-backed Janjaweed, and the African Union's peacekeeping mission mandate is set to expire within a couple of weeks.

It has been 2 years since the President declared that genocide was taking place in Darfur, but we are still allowing the Government of Sudan to act with impunity and commit crimes against humanity.

Today President Bush addressed the crisis in Darfur before the United Nations and appointed Andrew Natsios as the U.S. Special Envoy to Sudan. This is a step in the right direction, but it is not enough. The United States must push to keep an international peacekeeping force in Darfur, and this force must be stronger and more robust, with the authority to use force to protect the innocent civilians who are trapped in this nightmare. This has to happen as quickly as possible.

Would we be this complacent if the genocide was not in Africa? Would the administration act any differently if claims of ethnic cleansing were in Europe or the Middle East? What in the world does it take for us to stand tall against the evil of genocide wherever it is taking place?

We have to act before September 30. We have to require that President el-Bashir stop the indiscriminate killing and slaughter of the helpless and the weak in his country.

RECOGNIZING CONSTITUTION DAY

(Mr. WILSON of South Carolina asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. WILSON. Madam Speaker, Sunday marked the 219th anniversary of the signing of the United States Constitution. To ensure our schoolchildren are educated about our Nation's founding, Congress requires each school to hold an education program observing Constitution Day.

Yesterday, schoolchildren across the country watched as General Colin Powell led the Nationwide recitation of the Preamble. Students at Brookland-Cayce High School in Lexington County's School District 2 hang banners around the school displaying the Bill of Rights. Each senior received a pocket-sized Constitution.

Principal Scott Newman should be commended for his commitment to ensuring students at BC High are well versed in our Nation's history. He was raised well by his parents, dedicated educators, Tom and Frankie Newman. As Cicero said, "To remain ignorant of things that happened before you were born is to remain a child." If the goal of Constitution Day is realized, our Nation's schoolchildren will grow into engaged adult citizens.

In conclusion, God bless our troops, and we will never forget September 11.

GOLDEN DRAIN AWARDS TO CHERTOFF AND RUMSFIELD

(Mr. CARDOZA asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Ms. PRATT Lowry. Madam Speaker, on July 21, 1994, a group of radical Muslims murdered 10 Maltese tourists at the Notre Dame church in Malta. The Boulder Advertiser reported, "It is a mystery why the terrorists targeted the tourists; there were no deaths or injuries to tourists from the United States."

The Golden Drain Awards are given to the best and the worst of the week. In this case, Maltese tourist's' murder is a candidate for the Golden Drain Award because it involved the United States and the deaths were not American.
Mr. CARDOZA. Madam Speaker, the Truth Squad on Waste. Fraud and Abuse has been tasked with holding this administration and this Congress accountable for mishandling of taxpayer dollars.

Last week the Truth Squad recognized the first two winners of the Golden Drain Award, Homeland Security Secretary Michael Chertoff and Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld.

We created this award to bring attention to the waste, fraud and abuse in government. Otherwise it will never stop.

Overseeing a department that has squandered billions of taxpayer dollars. Michael Chertoff and Donald Rumsfeld are clearly deserving of this inauspicious honor.

In FEMA alone, we have seen billions of dollars go down the golden drain as a result of no-bid contracts and fraud during the aftermath of the Katrina crisis.

The Defense Department has been unable to produce a clean audit, and the Pentagon’s track record of waste, fraud and mismanagement in Iraq under Mr. Rumsfeld is disgraceful.

All told, the Truth Squad has identified over $150 billion that has gone down the golden drain.

Republicans believe that government does not work, and this administration seems to prove it every single day. Enough is enough. It is time for a new direction.

PRETEXTING AND HP

(Mr. STEARNS asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. STEARNS. Madam Speaker, it was recently reported that in order to stop boardroom media leaks, investigators hired by Hewlett-Packard used pretexting to obtain the phone records of directors and journalists. This disclosure demonstrates another nasty byproduct of having the availability of Internet-based personal information instantaneously available.

One of the major reasons for the growing pretexting problem is the lax data security at businesses that hold sensitive consumer information. The Commerce, Trade and Consumer Protection Subcommittee which I chair has amassed an extensive record on these issues.

I have introduced H.R. 4127, the Data Accountability and Trust Act, which is designed to improve data security and attack the scourge of privacy-infringing practices, like pretexting, that continue to be exploited on the Internet.

The DATA Act will go a long way toward protecting the privacy rights of all Americans, and I urge its consideration by the full House.

MILITARY TRIBUNALS

(Mr. GINGREY asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. GINGREY. Madam Speaker, I rise today to call on the House and Senate to quickly pass the right kind of military tribunal legislation.

We are in a war for the future of civilization, and military tribunals provide the best way for us to bring brutal terrorists to justice and to prevent future attacks on our citizens.

Military commissions have been successfully used throughout United States history to bring dangerous war criminals to justice. President Roosevelt used them in 1942 to try eight German saboteurs who plotted to attack the United States. In fact, military commissions have been used by President Lincoln and even General George Washington. Now Congress must allow this same power to our modern-day Presidents.

The right kind of military tribunal legislation can help us to disrupt actual terrorist plots right here in America; access critical information on al Qaeda; and prevent handing over Top Secret information to men like Khalid Sheikh Muhammad, one of the masterminds of September 11.

September 11 was one of the darkest days in United States history. We must give our military the power to continue preventing other devastating attacks.

RULE OF LAW AND PRISONERS

(Ms. SCHAKOWSKY asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Ms. SCHAKOWSKY. We are having a very important debate in this country on how we deal with terrorist prisoners or so-called terrorist prisoners and the way that we try them and the way that we present evidence.

Many of you will remember that in the Oklahoma City bombing when Timothy McVeigh was captured no one in the United States of America said, We are not going to give him all the rights under our Constitution, we are not going to show him the evidence that we have against him; we are going to deny him all his full rights to a jury trial.

If you think about it, no matter how heinous the crime is, when it occurs here, Americans say we have the rule of law, that is who we are. And no matter how horrible and horrifying it is, each individual has a process.

It seems to me that when we deal with this war on terrorism that we are talking about so much, that we owe it to ourselves as a country that established the rule of law that we make sure that those who are accused get the charges against them and the right to defend themselves.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 8 of rule XX, the Chair will postpone further proceedings today on motions to suspend the rules on which a recorded vote or the yeas and nays are ordered, or on which the vote is objected to under clause 6 of rule XX.

Record votes on postponed questions will be taken after 6:30 p.m. today.

WOOL SUIT FABRIC LABELING FAIRNESS AND INTERNATIONAL STANDARDS CONFORMING ACT

Mr. STEARNS. Madam Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the bill (H.R. 4583) to amend the Wool Products Labeling Act of 1939 to revise the requirements for labeling of certain wool and cashmere products, as amended.

The Clerk read as follows:

H.R. 4583

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the “Wool Suit Fabric Labeling Fairness and International Standards Conforming Act”.

SEC. 2. LABELING OF WOOL AND CASHMERE PRODUCTS TO FACILITATE COMPLIANCE AND ENFORCEMENT.

(a) In General.—Section 4(a) of the Wool Products Labeling Act of 1939 (15 U.S.C. 68b(a)) is amended by adding at the end the following new paragraphs:

“(A) ‘Super 80’s’ or ‘80’s’, if the average diameter of wool fiber of such wool product does not average 19.75 microns or finer;

“(B) ‘Super 90’s’ or ‘90’s’, if the average diameter of wool fiber of such wool product does not average 19.25 microns or finer;

“(C) ‘Super 100’s’ or ‘100’s’, if the average diameter of wool fiber of such wool product does not average 18.75 microns or finer;

“(D) ‘Super 110’s’ or ‘110’s’, if the average diameter of wool fiber of such wool product does not average 18.25 microns or finer;
Madam Speaker, I rise today in support of H.R. 4583, the Wool Suit Fabric Labeling Fairness and International Standards Conforming Act, introduced by my colleague, Mrs. BLACKBURN of Tennessee, and co-sponsored by my colleague, the ranking member of our subcommittee, Ms. SCHAKOWSKY of Illinois.

This is a simple bill, my colleagues, which is fundamental and has a fundamental purpose: to give consumers the information they need to make buying decisions about the products they want.

This bill would amend the Wool Products Labeling Act of 1939 to make specific and standard certain designations of fabric quality for certain wool products.

For years, high-end suits and other expensive wool garments have carried the label “super” and a number like 120 or 130, to designate the fineness of the weave of the wool and thus the quality and cost of producing the fabric. It is about time we make certain that there is a standard, internationally accepted definition of the “super” designation to ensure that unscrupulous garment manufacturers don’t dupe consumers with simply passing labels that are false to the American consumer and to the great American textile industry that produces these fine products.

H.R. 4583 makes the “super” designation a standard designation of quality wool products. Likewise, the Wool Suit Fabric Labeling Fairness and International Standards Conforming Act creates a specific and standard definition of cashmere so that the term cashmere actually means a certain thing rather than serving as a nonspecific designation of a certain level of quality, no technical, standardizing the designation of cashmere so that the term cashmere actually means a certain thing rather than serving as a nonspecific designation of a certain level of quality.

As I said, while these may seem a bit technical, standardizing the designation of a certain level of quality, no matter what the products, allows consumers and the manufacturers alike to be certain that what they are spending their hard-earned dollars on is real and is genuine. That is a laudable goal for any piece of legislation.

I therefore would like to urge my colleagues to join me in supporting it on final passage.

Madam Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. STEARNS. Madam Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the author of the bill, the gentleman from Tennessee (Mrs. BLACKBURN).

Mrs. BLACKBURN. Madam Speaker, I do rise today in support of this legislation to update our wool labeling laws. I want to thank Chairman BARTON, Ranking Member DINGELL, as well as Chairman STEARNS, for their help in bringing the legislation forward. I also want to thank and commend my friend from Illinois, the ranking member of the Commerce Trade and Consumer Protection Subcommittee, Representative SCHAKOWSKY, for joining me to sponsor the legislation.

The Wool Suit Fabric Labeling Fairness and International Standards Conforming Act will modernize the Wool Labeling Act by using the international definition of “super” as an identifier for the quality of wool products. It will help to protect consumers and industry participants from the mislabeling of certain suitings.
In recent years, many wool products at the wholesale and retail level, including worsted wool fabrics and apparel items, are being marketed and labeled as “super 100,” “super 120s,” and so-called “super” grades. These refer to the fineness of the yarn contained in the product. The finer the average yard is in diameter, the higher the super’s grade.

Higher super grades reflect products that are supposed to have higher yarns and therefore sold at higher prices. The Wool Labeling Act, which regulates the labeling of wool products in the United States, has not been amended to reflect the current marketing practice of using supers as an identifier for quality wool products.

The International Wool Textile Organization is the international body representing the interests of the world’s wool textile industry, which includes the U.S., oversees the implementation of the International Wool Textile Arbitration Agreement. The IWTO has adopted a code of practice regarding the use of the term “super” on wool products, and the exact yarn diameter that each level of “super” must contain. Woolmark, a company that licenses the use of the Woolmark logo, has accepted the identical definition.

Modernization of the Wool Labeling Act has strong support, as my colleagues mentioned. It is supported by the National Textile Association, Victor Forstman, UNITE, the Cashmere and Camel Hair Manufacturers Institute, the American Apparel and Footwear Association, Hartman, and Hickey Freeman on behalf of the Tailored Clothing Association.

As the domestic tailored clothing industry and wool textile mills continue to face significant challenges, this legislation is timely and it is vital to the continued health of this important manufacturing sector in the U.S. I urge my colleagues to support the legislation.

Ms. SCHAKOWSKY. Madam Speaker, let me close by saying this: this is really a jobs bill and a truth-in-labeling bill. It is a win-win-win situation: good for the consumers, good for the manufacturers, good for the garment workers. And I urge its passage.

I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. STEARNS. Madam Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Florida (Mr. STEARNS) that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 4983, as amended.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the bill, as amended, was passed.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

[Editorial note: The resolution before the House, H. Con. Res. 210, was passed by a recorded vote of 419-1 on September 19, 2006.]

Supporting the Goal of Eliminating Suffering and Death Due to Cancer by the Year 2015

Mr. DEAL of Georgia. Madam Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and agree to the concurrent resolution (H. Con. Res. 210) supporting the goal of eliminating suffering and death due to cancer by the year 2015, as amended.

The Clerk read as follows:

H. CON. RES. 210

Whereas this year alone, cancer will claim the lives of more than 570,000 Americans—1,500 per day—and is the cause of one of every four deaths in the United States; Whereas more than 1,300,000 new cancer cases will be diagnosed in 2005; Whereas it is estimated that cancer cost the Nation nearly $190,000,000,000 in 2003, including more than $69,000,000,000 in direct medical costs; Whereas the Nation’s investment in cancer research and programs has led to real progress—between 1991 and 2001, cancer death rates declined by more than 9 percent and about 258,000 lives were saved; Whereas cancer touches almost every family, with over 10,000,000 Americans now living with a history of cancer; Whereas at least half of all cancer deaths could be prevented by applying existing knowledge; Whereas the Director of the National Cancer Institute has set a bold goal to eliminate suffering and death due to cancer by 2015; and Whereas eliminating suffering and death due to cancer will require a commitment by the Government to continue to make the fight against cancer a priority: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the House of Representatives (the Senate concurring), That the Congress supports the goal of eliminating suffering and death due to cancer by 2015.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. DEAL) and the gentleman from New York (Mr. PALLONE) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Georgia.

Genral Leave

Mr. DEAL of Georgia. Madam Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on H. Con. Res. 210.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Georgia?

There was no objection.

Mr. DEAL of Georgia. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I am pleased to rise today in support of House Concurrent Resolution 210, a resolution supporting the goal of eliminating suffering and death due to cancer by the year 2015.

To many people, the goal of eliminating suffering and death due to cancer in under a decade may seem impossible or at least highly unlikely. But when we take a step back and look at the amazing things we have accomplished in the last three decades, I believe that with the hard work and concentrated effort of our Nation, this goal is realistic and achievable.

Thirty years ago, just hearing the word “cancer” sent chills down people’s spines. Cancer of any kind was considered a virtual death sentence. And unfortunately, today cancer is still a death sentence for far too many people from all ages and all walks of life.

But for an increasing number of Americans, cancer is no longer a death sentence as it once was. Rather, it is becoming a preventable, controllable, beatable disease. Today medical science is accomplishing things that were undreamed of 30 years ago. For the first time, we are seeing a decline in the numbers of lives claimed by cancer each year. People are living longer both with the disease and after the disease. Screening is better and more widespread than ever. Treatments are better and safer, and outcomes continue to improve. Based on the strides that have made, I say I think we are winning the war on cancer.

I can also say with confidence that the future of cancer research looks bright. With the mapping of the human genome, we will be able to identify each person’s cancer-related genes. Using this information, we can design tailored prevention and treatment options for each individual patient. The availability of these advanced techniques is not a question of if, but when.

While the goal of ending suffering and death from cancer by the year 2015 requires us to set our eyes on the future, we must also focus on what can be done today. The resolution before us encourages Congress to examine how the resources of this great Nation can best be harnessed to reach the ultimate goal of finding a cure. Whether through government-sponsored research, partnerships with the private sector, investors, or philanthropic organizations, we must pursue this enemy of cancer on all fronts.

We must set priorities. We must demand more for our money. We must foster the next generation of cancer scientists and researchers and encourage more young people to enter this high calling. We must ensure that the fruits of research make their way into clinical practice and into public health efforts to reduce the burden of cancer. We must also promote proper intellectual property management, the key to scientific innovation. We must make sure that people who qualify have access to clinical trials.

But finally and most importantly, we must not forget the human face of cancer. Outside of this Chamber, thousands of people are gathering on the National Mall as part the American Cancer Society’s Celebration on the Hill. People whose lives have been touched by cancer from every State and every congressional district across the United States have come to celebrate life, to remember those that were lost, and to have their voices heard. I applaud their courage, faith and perseverance, and I look forward to meeting with many of them during the coming hours and days.

With their help and shining example, along with the continued attention of this great Nation, we can meet the challenge set forth in the resolution, to end suffering and death from cancer by the year 2015.

In closing, I would like to commend the gentleman from Florida (Mr. SHAW) for introducing this important resolution. I urge my colleagues to support it.

Madam Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. PALLONE. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Madam Speaker, I support the goal of ending suffering and death by cancer by the year 2015 as set forth in this resolution. It is certainly a commendable goal; and, of course, I support the resolution.

But what is Congress doing to set up programs and strategic plans to make that goal a reality? For example, the National Cancer Institute has focused the fight against cancer on eight strategic objectives, including: First, understanding the causes and mechanisms of cancer; second, accelerating the progress in cancer prevention; third, improving early detection and diagnostic methods of treating patients effectively and efficiently; fifth, understanding the factors that influence cancer outcomes; sixth, improving the quality of cancer care; seventh, improving the quality of life for cancer patients, survivors and their families; and, eighth, overcoming cancer health disparities.

That is the National Cancer Institute. That is what they are focusing on. Congress, on the other hand, is doing little to help this fight. A resolution I would say is mere talk and does not actually take action to fight cancer.

I think Congress has choices right now, and instead of passing this resolution, we should, for example, increase funding for NIH’s cancer research fund, fund real stem cell research supported by the scientific community, fund the Department of Defense’s breast cancer research program, and probably most importantly, health coverage to the 46 million Americans that do not have it today. Three times as many people have lost health insurance as jobs since the Bush administration has come to power. Without health coverage, early detection and treatment are almost impossible.

There are many cancers that can be cured today, such as cervical, breast and prostate cancer, but without health insurance, access to early detection or follow-up treatment it is almost impossible for the many hard-working people across this country.

This year alone, Madam Speaker, cancer will claim the lives of 570,000 Americans, that is 1,500 per day, almost half of those that gave their lives on September 11. In addition, 1.3 million new cases of cancer were diagnosed in 2005 alone.

Again, the goal of this resolution is good, but the support it puts on the floor nor supporting legislative action, not a resolution to help everyone suffering from or touched by cancer. As much as I support this resolution, I think that a lot more needs to be done that is not being addressed today by this Republican majority.

Madam Speaker, I yield the balance of my time.

Mr. DEAL of Georgia. Madam Speaker, I yield such time as he may consume to the author of the resolution, the gentleman from Florida (Mr. SHAW).

Mr. SHAW. Madam Speaker, I rise today to urge passage of this important bipartisan resolution that I introduced with my fellow cancer survivors and advocates COLLIN PETERSON, DEBORAH FRYCE, LOIS CAPPs, SUE MYRICK and STEVE ISRAEL, all cochairs of the 2015 Cancer Caucus.

This resolution expresses Congress’ support for the National Cancer Institute’s goal of ending suffering and death due to cancer by the year 2015.

Cancer claims the lives of more than 570,000 Americans each year. That is right, over half a million, but we have yet to declare a full-scale war on cancer. The passage of this resolution today puts us on record as going on the right track. Cancer affects everyone. It is not a Republican issue or a Democratic issue, it is an issue for our entire country, and it is an issue that faces the world.

In 1961, President Kennedy established the lofty goal of putting a man on the moon in 10 years. This historic goal was achieved in just 8 years. Just like the moon landing, this goal was established and achieved, so can the goal of 2015.

We are very close to achieving the goal of ending cancer death and suffering. But when you are in a race and you see the finish line, you don’t jog, you sprint. Scientists at the National Cancer Institute and other private and public research facilities across the country and world are conducting vital research each and every day that will enable cancer sufferers to be cancer survivors.

We must show our solidarity on these efforts by fully supporting the 2015 goal and providing the Federal resources necessary that to achieve it. Over the last 5 years, we have doubled the research dollars for cancer, but yet that is not enough. I see no better legacy for future generations than ending cancer suffering and cancer death.

Over 10,000 cancer survivors and advocates from across the country are converging on the Capitol this week for the American Cancer Society’s Celebration on the Hill. These heroes will be visiting every one of our offices this week. When you visit with them, and I hope you will visit with them and not push them off to staff, I hope you pledge your strongest support on the war against cancer.

We must work together to provide Federal funding needed for research efforts and pass legislation to support early diagnosis and treatment. Ending the suffering and death due to cancer will be achieved with momentous global proportions, the most important public health achievement of all time.

I urge passage of this important resolution.

Mr. PALLONE. Madam Speaker, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from California (Mr. STARK).

Mr. STARK. Madam Speaker, I would like to address my remarks to the thousands of cancer advocates in Los Angeles this week and thank them for their service and dedication. They have come to Washington to tell Congress to make concrete commitments to fight cancer, but instead of action, they get the useless resolution.

Cancer patients, survivors and advocates are getting nothing but empty words. It is all hat and no cattle. It is typical of Republicans’ approach to solving problems in this country. I am surprised that they didn’t try and land on an aircraft carrier and declare that cancer was conquered. I am offended that the Republican do-nothing Congress is bringing forth a do-nothing resolution as its response to fighting cancer.

No cancer advocate in our country should be appeased by this vote. The resolution is empty rhetoric and not action. And action is what is needed for cancer, for AIDS, for Parkinson’s disease, and so many other diseases that impact our citizens and people around the world.

The sponsor of this resolution is offering a few platitudes. They agree with the laudable goal of eliminating suffering and death due to cancer by the year 2015. I don’t know anybody that would not subscribe to that. Maybe move it up to the year 2010, but I can’t think of a human being that would object to that.

But how does this resolution achieve that goal? Does it increase the NIH funding for cancer research? No. Do the Republicans oppose that? Yes. Does it boost support for the Department of Defense breast cancer research program? Not one penny.

Does it extend the expiring tax credit for research and development of lifesaving cancer treatments? No.

That, by the way, is supported by Republicans support, but they can’t seem to get it to the floor to get a vote. And they control this place. If they can’t get it to the floor, who can? Florida?

Does it provide for stem cell research as advocated by the scientific community? No. They are pandering to a bunch of religious radicals and avoiding dealing with scientific research that is needed to cure these diseases. They put their head in the sand and pander to political contributions.

The sponsor of this resolution, the gentleman from Florida (Mr. SHAW), voted to cut money for the Centers for Disease Control and early detection and prevention of cancer. This resolution doesn’t restore that.

Does it expand health coverage to the nearly 47 million Americans who lack health care, can’t even find out if they have cancer and, therefore, fail to get the preventive care available to them? No, it does not add insurance to one of the 47 million people without health insurance in this country, who, therefore, do not get medical care. It is the Republican way of all talk and no action.

This resolution is an affront to those who have traveled here from across our Nation to advocate better cancer care. Not only does this resolution fail to do anything to help eliminate cancer, but this Congress is taking us in the wrong direction. Led by the Republicans, President Bush and this Congress have aggressively cut funding for NIH. This year, for example, they have cut $213 million. Over the last 4 years, they have reduced the agency’s purchasing power by more than 12 percent.

The cuts aren’t just to research. Since President Bush and the Republican leadership have taken office, nearly 7 million people have lost their health insurance, and we all know that is the only way to get proper care. The President used the only veto of his administration to prevent even a resolution on life-saving stem cell research, and the Republican leadership in this Congress didn’t have the courage to override that.

I guess I could go on, but I think I have made my point. I wholeheartedly agree we must do much more to eradicate cancer and other dreaded diseases, but I, like the American public, want action, not words. That is why I suspect the American public will join with them and be outraged by the Republican majority in this Congress.

I would remind him that the National Cancer Institute (NCI) has led the fight against cancer since its inception in 1937. NCI conducts and supports research, training, health information dissemination, and other programs with respect to the cause, diagnosis, prevention, and treatment of cancer, rehabilitation from cancer, and the continuing care of cancer patients and their families.

The National Cancer Institute set for itself the goal of ending cancer suffering and death by 2015. Over the last several years, NCI has taken on this challenge by working with expert staff and identified critical paths needed to make the vision a reality. This includes developing a strategic plan and framework for use of funding, infrastructure, tools, and other resources.

Eliminating cancer suffering and death is a true possibility. Americans have already received the benefits of investment in research against cancer provided in 1991 and 2001, cancer deaths declined by more than 9 percent. Moreover, doctors are able to help patients defeat a number of cancers if detected early, including cervix, breast, colon, and prostate cancer. And today 3 out of 4 children with cancer are cured.

The resolution that we are discussing today expresses Congress’s, support of ending suffering and death due to cancer. But we can best push for the continued decline of cancer death and suffering by making it a national priority and making the right budget and policy choices to meet this goal by 2015.

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Madam Speaker, I rise today to support this resolution, which recognizes the goal of eliminating suffering and death due to cancer by the year 2015.

Investments in cancer research and programs continue to be a crucial part of tackling and eliminating this devastating disease. Thanks to prior investments in cancer research and programs, we are making remarkable progress in the fight against cancer. When Congress and President Nixon joined forces to fight the battle against cancer in 1971, cancer was largely a death sentence. Thirty five years later, our national research investment has yielded substantial gains.

Today, early detection can defeat some of the more common cancers, such as cancer of the cervix, breast, colon and prostate. These represent more than half of all cancers. In addition, childhood cancer is curable in 3 out of 4 patients. The development of colon cancer screenings and the early detection of cancer has led to a 90 percent 5-year survival rate for colon cancers caught in the earliest stages and 64 percent when the cancer has spread only to adjacent organs or lymph nodes.

Though such progress is encouraging, we still have much work to do. Cancer has now surpassed heart disease as the number one killer of Americans under age 85.

Cancer strikes 1 out of every 2 men and 1 out of every 3 women. This year alone, cancer will claim the lives of more than 570,000 Americans—1500 lives per day—and is the cause of 1 out of every 4 deaths in the United States.

It is imperative that we continue to fund and expand medical research to forge the battle against this deadly enemy. As Americans, we have a strong history, through science and innovation, of detecting, conquering and defeating many illnesses. We must and we will continue to fight cancer until the battle is won. I urge my colleagues to support this resolution.

Mr. HIGGINS. Madam Speaker, I rise today in support of H. Con. Res. 210, a resolution to support the National Cancer Institute, NCI, in its goal of eliminating death and suffering due to cancer by 2015. We can and we must make the 2015 goal a priority, but we cannot make do if we continue to cut and underfund the very researchers working to make it a reality.

Thanks to research, great progress has been made against cancer in the last three decades. In 1976, half of all cancer patients survived more than 5 years after diagnosis. Today, closer to two-thirds or 63 percent of adults and 85 percent of children are alive 5 years after they learn they have cancer. Let’s build on that progress.

Since cancer is more common among older Americans and the American population is aging, by the year 2050 the number of new cancer cases in America could more than double, with estimates as high as 2.46 million new cases annually. Cancers cost the United States $220 billion in 2005. This amount included $74 billion in direct medical costs and nearly $136 billion in lost productivity. And advances in biomedical research benefit not only cancer treatment, but provide information on molecular and genetic processes that will aid in a better understanding in the underlying causes of virtually all diseases.

NCI, part of the National Institutes of Health, is the Federal Government’s principal agency for cancer research and training. The NCI has a goal of eliminating all suffering and death due to cancer by the year 2015. I believe that eliminating suffering and death due to cancer by the year 2015 should be America’s goal.

Madam Speaker, when the House leadership finally schedules a vote on the Labor, Health, and Human Services Appropriations bill for Fiscal Year 2007, LHHS, I intend to sponsor an amendment that fully funds NCI. The Higgins Amendment proposed 2007 Brownback $597.7 million to NCI by over $39.7 million and the LHHS bill as written currently includes the same underfunding. The Higgins Amendment to LHHS will restore $240 million in funding to NCI, bringing its total to $5,033,000,000.

Additionally, I will support projects that advance the mission of the Roswell Park Cancer Institute and other local cancer research, treatment, and advocacy projects. Western New York is home to Roswell Park Cancer Institute, a premier cancer research and treatment facility and one of Western New York’s top 20 employers. The research done at Roswell has the potential to bomb the research field open—and the care provided there to patients cannot be matched.

Finally, I intend to support expanding programs that detect cancer early and help Americans get treatment. These programs significantly reduce the cost to our nation’s healthcare system and suffering people early. There are proven programs like the Breast and Cervical Early Detection Program, which help underserved communities get diagnosed and treated early. Because of underfunding these programs cannot reach all the people who need them.

Mr. DEAL of Georgia. Madam Speaker, I am pleased that we are here today uniting behind this bill and this goal, but we can and we must do much more than pay lip service to meeting the 2015 deadline. Let’s take this opportunity to come together and eradicate cancer by fully funding NCI, by supporting local centers, and by reauthorizing and funding the very programs that reach the men, women and children who need them most and can least afford them.

Mr. DEAL of Georgia. Madam Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. DEAL) that the House suspend the rules and agree to the concurrent resolution, H. Con. Res. 210, as amended.

The question was taken.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Mr. SHAW. Madam Speaker, on that demand the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 8 of rule XX and the Chair’s prior announcement, further proceedings on this question will be postponed.

SUPPORTING THE GOALS AND IDEALS OF NATIONAL PERIPHERAL ARTERIAL DISEASE AWARENESS WEEK

Mr. DEAL of Georgia. Madam Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and agree to the resolution (H. Res. 982) supporting the goals and ideals of National Peripheral Arterial Disease Awareness Week.

The Clerk read as follows:

Whereas peripheral arterial disease is a vascular disease that occurs when narrowed arteries reduce the blood flow to the limbs; Whereas peripheral arterial disease is a significant vascular disease that can be as serious as a heart attack or stroke; Whereas peripheral arterial disease affects approximately 8,000,000 to 12,000,000 Americans; Whereas patients with peripheral arterial disease are at increased risk of heart attack and stroke and are 6 times more likely to die within 10 years than are patients without peripheral arterial disease; Whereas the survival rate for individuals with peripheral arterial disease is worse than the outcome for many common cancers; Whereas peripheral arterial disease is a leading cause of lower limb amputation in the United States; Whereas many patients with peripheral arterial disease have walking impairment that leads to a diminished quality of life and functional capacity; Whereas a majority of patients with peripheral arterial disease are asymptomatic and less than half of individuals with peripheral arterial disease are aware of their diagnosis; Whereas African-American ethnicity is a strong and independent risk factor for peripheral arterial disease, and yet this fact is not well known to those at risk; Whereas effective treatments are available for people with peripheral arterial disease to reduce heart attacks, strokes, and amputations and to improve quality of life;

Whereas many patients with peripheral arterial disease are still untreated with proven therapies; Whereas there is a need for comprehensive educational efforts designed to increase awareness of peripheral arterial disease among medical professionals and the greater public in order to promote early detection and appropriate treatment of this disease to improve quality of life, prevent heart attacks and strokes, and save lives and limbs; and

Whereas September 18 through September 22, 1996, would be an appropriate week to observe National Peripheral Arterial Disease Awareness Week: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the House of Representa-
Mrs. CAPPS. Madam Speaker, I rise in strong support of H. Res. 982, to support the goals and ideals of National Peripheral Arterial Disease Awareness Week. I was proud to introduce this bill with my colleague and fellow chair-co-chair of the Congressional Heart and Stroke Coalition, Representative FOLEY. More than 8 million Americans, that is 1 in 20 adults, have peripheral arterial disease (PAD).

Yet this condition is largely unrecognized and often goes undiagnosed because most people do not have any recognizable symptoms. PAD occurs when arteries in the legs become narrowed or clogged, resulting in reduced blood flow to the legs. A diagnosis of PAD is indication that a patient is now to have narrowed arteries to the heart and brain as well and is a powerful warning sign of existing cardiovascular disease. However, without early detection and proper treatment, 1 in 4 people who suffer from PAD will also suffer a heart attack, stroke, amputation or even death within the next 5 years.

It is evident that greater awareness about PAD and better detection capabilities will not only improve the quality of life for those who suffer from PAD, but can actually save their lives. During National Peripheral Arterial Disease Awareness Week, efforts are increased to make physicians and the public at-large more cognizant of their risks for PAD, the symptoms, and the importance of early treatment. During this week we can assist by highlighting those who have high risk factors for PAD: over age 50, African Americans, smokers, and those with high blood pressure, diabetics, abnormal cholesterol, a personal history of heart disease or stroke.

I urge my colleagues to vote in favor of this resolution and encourage them to learn more about Peripheral Arterial Disease and how it may affect them.

Mr. PALLONE. Madam Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. DEAL of Georgia. Madam Speaker, I rise in support of the resolution.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the resolution was agreed to, and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

SUPPORTING THE GOALS AND IDEALS OF OBSERVING THE YEAR OF POLIO AWARENESS

Mr. DEAL of Georgia. Madam Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and agree to the resolution (H. Res. 526) supporting the goals and ideals of observing the Year of Polio Awareness, as amended.

The Clerk read as follows:

H. Res. 526

Whereas 2005 was the 50th anniversary of the poliomyelitis vaccines and the success of the poliovaccine; and

Whereas 2005 is the 132nd anniversary of the diagnosis of the first case of post-polio syndrome and is the year that the creation of the International Post-Polio Task Force;

Whereas research and clinical work by members of the International Post-Polio Task Force have discovered that post-polio sequelae can be treated, and even prevented, if polio survivors are taught to conserve energy and use assistive devices to stop damaging and killing the reduced number of overworked, poliovirus-damaged neurons in the spinal cord and brain that survived the polio attack; and

Whereas many medical professionals, and polio survivors, do not know of the existence of post-polio sequelae, or of the available treatments; and

Whereas the mission of the International Post-Polio Task Force includes educating medical professionals and the world’s 20,000,000 polio survivors about post-polio sequelae through the international Post-Polio Letter Campaign, The Post-Polio Institute at New Jersey’s Englewood Hospital and Medical Center, the Paralytic Polio Paradox, and the television public service announcement provided by the National Broadcasting Company; and

Whereas it would be appropriate to observe the year beginning October 1, 2006, as the Year of Polio Awareness; Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives—

(1) recognizes the need for every child, in America and throughout the world, to be vaccinated against polio;

(2) recognizes the 1,630,000 Americans who survived polio, their new battle with post-polio sequelae, and the need for education and proper medical care;

(3) requests that all appropriate Federal departments and agencies take steps to educate—

(A) the people of the United States about the need for polio vaccination; and

(B) polio survivors and medical professionals in the United States about the cause and treatment of post-polio sequelae; and

(4) supports the goals and ideals of observing the Year of Polio Awareness to promote vaccination and post-polio sequelae education and treatment.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. DEAL) and the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. PALLONE) each will control 20 minutes.
The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Georgia.

Mr. DEAL of Georgia. Madam Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days in which to revise and extend their remarks and all extraneous material on the resolution.

Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Madam Speaker, I rise in support of House Resolution 526, a resolution authored by Mr. ROTHMAN of New Jersey that supports the goals and ideals of observing the Year of Polio Awareness. I commend Representative ROTHMAN for introducing this important resolution, which helps to raise awareness about polio around the country.

While many of us in this Chamber are old enough to remember polio as a national tragedy that claimed thousands of lives and left permanently disabled, younger generations may have only heard about polio in history books. But the story of polio, its spread, its dreaded consequences, the millions of lives it touched, and our ultimate triumph over the disease, should forever remain etched in our national memory.

Recently, the Smithsonian Institution’s Museum of American History held an exhibit commemorating the 50th anniversary of the polio vaccine, also known as the Salk vaccine. The exhibit detailed the incredible story of polio in the United States, beginning with the 1916 outbreak in New York City that paralyzed 9,000 people and killed 2,400, most of whom were under the age of 10. It spread rapidly, killing as many as 5,000 people per year. By the beginning of the 1950s, the polio virus was found in 44 states, paralysis was reported weekly, and polio vaccine was a rare commodity.

In 1955, Jonas Salk introduced the polio vaccine, which was safe, effective, and could be used in populations of all ages. The hope is that this resolution and the newfound awareness of polio will promote increased vaccination and education and treatment of post-polio complications. Even today, Madam Speaker, 10 percent of American children under the age 3 do not receive their polio vaccine. This percentage is even lower in poor cities. Given new cases being reported in Indonesia, India, Pakistan, Somalia, Afghanistan, Egypt, Niger, Ethiopia and Yemen, an outbreak in the U.S. would not be surprising. And last year, there were cases of the polio virus reported in Minnesota.

The eradication of new polio cases is achievable, but only if we reeducate the public about the dangers, effects and availability of a vaccine and treatments. This resolution asks the appropriate Federal agencies to take action to educate the people of the U.S. about the polio vaccine, and to educate polio survivors and medical professionals about the existence of post-polio complications and available treatments.

Therefore, I support this resolution recognizing a Year of Polio Awareness beginning on November 1.

Mr. ROTHMAN. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Madam Speaker, I rise to support House Resolution 526, which, by far, is the most crucial weapon in the fight against infectious disease is vaccination, the medical advance that has saved more lives than any other. Vaccines continue to serve as the first line of defense against infectious disease.

The resolution rightly recognizes the need of every child to be vaccinated against polio. It also recognizes the 1.6 million Americans who survived polio, but still suffer from its effects today.

Madam Speaker, I urge my colleagues to support this important resolution.

Madam Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. PALLONE. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Madam Speaker, I rise to support House Resolution 526, which supports the observance of the Year of Polio Awareness.

I do want to thank the sponsor of the legislation, my colleague from New Jersey Representative STEVE ROTHMAN, for introducing this important bill, but also for all of his efforts to increase awareness of polio. He will be speaking just a few minutes later.

Polio, as you know, is a viral illness that destroys nerve cells. As a result, muscles become paralyzed, and these muscles can atrophy and die. Polio is most common in infants and young children; however, complications occur most often in older persons and often post-polio.

Those complications have the often disabling symptoms of overwhelming fatigue, muscle weakness and pain, sleep disorders and more. It occurs in 75 percent of paralytic and 40 percent of nonparalytic polio survivors about 35 years after the polio virus attacks.

Although polio has plagued humankind since ancient times, its extensive outbreak occurred in the first half of the 1900s before the vaccination created by Jonas Salk became widely available in 1955. And I would say, Madam Speaker, that I certainly am old enough to remember when there were many people who were struck by polio. And in the 1950s, when I was growing up, the fact that there was a vaccine available was just seen as an amazing thing. It was very much on the minds of all of us as we were growing up in the 1950s and the 1960s.

Sadly, despite having a vaccine against polio, this disease has not been eradicated from the world, and outbreaks continue to occur in the U.S. and other countries. As a matter of fact, it seems we are headed in the wrong direction. The World Health Organization announced last year that it would not meet the 2000 deadline for eliminating new cases of polio worldwide by the end of 2005, since many cases remained.

The hope is that this resolution and this new resurgence of interest in polio will promote increased vaccination and education and treatment of post-polio complications. Even today, Madam Speaker, 10 percent of American children under the age 3 do not receive their polio vaccine. This percentage is even lower in poor cities. Given new cases being reported in Indonesia, India, Pakistan, Somalia, Afghanistan, Egypt, Niger, Ethiopia and Yemen, an outbreak in the U.S. would not be surprising. And last year, there were cases of the polio virus reported in Minnesota.

The eradication of new polio cases is achievable, but only if we reeducate the public about the dangers, effects and availability of a vaccine and treatments. This resolution asks the appropriate Federal agencies to take action to educate the people of the U.S. about the polio vaccine, and to educate polio survivors and medical professionals about the existence of post-polio complications and available treatments.

Therefore, I support this resolution recognizing a Year of Polio Awareness beginning on November 1.

Mr. ROTHMAN. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Madam Speaker, I first want to thank the leadership of the Energy and Commerce Committee for bringing Resolution 526 to the floor. I also want to take this opportunity to recognize my constituent, a very tireless worker on behalf of those suffering the effects of polio, Dr. Richard Bruno.

As the director of the Post-Polio Institute and International Center for...
Madam Speaker, I rise today in strong support of this resolution, H. Res. 526, that will bring critical attention in the United States and around the world to the need for children to be vaccinated against polio. It sounds so simple. So many of us think that polio had been eradicated, but that is far from the truth.

This resolution recognizes the need for every child to be vaccinated against polio and designates the year starting October 1, 2006, as the Year of Polio Awareness. It also urges all Federal agencies to educate doctors and parents about polio, and to also educate polio survivors and medical professionals about the cause and treatment of something called post-polio sequelae. More about that later.

It has been 51 years since the introduction of the polio vaccine. By now this virus should have been eradicated. But as has been said earlier by our chairman and Mr. Pallone, that is not the case. In fact, according to the Centers for Disease Control, 10 percent of the U.S. children under 3 years of age, which is approximately 1 million toddlers in our country, are not vaccinated against polio.

This percentage is even greater in America’s poorest cities. Even more of our young people are not vaccinated against polio. In my own home State of New Jersey, only 86 percent of the toddlers in my county were vaccinated in 2004. Furthermore, the United States is not protected against a polio outbreak. In October of 2005, five children in an Amish community in Minnesota were diagnosed with polio. Although that outbreak was ultimately brought under control, this was a clear signal that we must do more in our country to prevent the spread of polio.

Polio outbreaks, Madam Speaker, are not only limited to occurring in the United States, but have, for example, as my colleagues have said, been reported in Indonesia, India, Pakistan, Somalia, Afghanistan, Egypt, Niger, Ethiopia and Yemen, amongst other countries.

In some way the polio vaccination has become a victim of its own success, one might say, with many Americans believing that polio has been eradicated. They no longer have their children vaccinated against this virus. That is a mistake. With outbreaks occurring overseas, the world, unvaccinated children everywhere, including in the United States, are susceptible to exposure and to catching polio. That is why this resolution is so important.

Madam Speaker, parents must be informed when making decisions about vaccinating their children. They have to know that there is still a threat that they could be exposed to the polio virus. This resolution will help ensure that doctors will provide all of the necessary information to parents about the polio vaccine and the dangers of the virus. I hope that this passage of this resolution will accomplish our goal of raising awareness of the importance of having every child vaccinated against polio, and will have the effect of allowing doctors to understand this post-polio sequelae syndrome, which is that after someone has lived a whole lifetime with polio, they then suffer a series of additional complications: chronic overwhelming fatigue, joint pain, and chronic pain of a variety of natures.

Madam Speaker, I urge my colleagues to support this resolution, which will educate our own people and all of the people of the world to the continuing threat of polio.

Mr. DEAL of Georgia. Madam Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. DEAL of Georgia. Madam Speaker, once again, we support this resolution and thank the sponsor, my colleague from New Jersey, for introducing it, and I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. DEAL of Georgia. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Madam Speaker, certainly as we talk about the elimination of polio, it is one of the great success stories, but one in which we must continue to be vigilant, as has been pointed out. As a Rotarian, I am proud that my organization, on an international basis, undertook as a project to eliminate polio worldwide, poured millions of dollars into that effort, and contributed greatly to the success of the eradication of polio in other parts of the world.

But as we talk about the polio vaccine, a disease that has been able to be treated with a vaccine, we are also on the verge of recognizing that we are going to have, as we currently have, a problem with vaccine manufacturers for not only this disease, but many other diseases as well.

Today we only have four United States vaccine manufacturers. That is down from about 50 that we had back in the 1960s. The bipartisan Institute of Medicine has identified three primary factors as the reason we have lost vaccine firms and for the reluctance of firms to get into the manufacturing of vaccines.

One is the economic realities, and certainly those are very real; secondly, the burdensome regulations that they must go through; and third, legal liability. As we deal with other diseases, in addition to this question of polio, we are going to be faced with the fact that we are going to have to encourage manufacturers of vaccines to get in the marketplace, and we must deal with those three factors as we move forward on this issue of vaccines for other illnesses as well.

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to support H. Res. 526 supporting the goals and ideals of observing the Year of Polio Awareness.

At least 70 percent of paralytic polio survivors, and 40 percent of nonparalytic polio survivors, are developing post-polio sequelae. Post Polio Sequelae are late effects of the disease that can occur 35 years after the poliovirus attack in 75 percent of paralytic and 40 percent of “non-paralytic” polio survivors.

Because they present soon after an individual is ill, these effects are unexpected and are often unrecognized: fatigue, muscle weakness, muscle and joint pain, sleep disorders, heightened sensitivity to anesthetics, cold pain, and difficulty swallowing and breathing.

This year marks the 132nd anniversary of the diagnosis of the first case of post-polio sequelae and the 20th anniversary of the creation of the International Post-Polio Task Force. The mission of the International Post-Polio Task Force includes educating medical professionals and the 20,000,000 polio survivors in the world about post-polio sequelae through letter campaigns, public service announcements, and other forms of media.

I cannot understate the importance of the work of the International Post-Polio Task Force. Because many medical professionals and polio survivors do not generally know of the existence of post-polio sequelae or of the available treatments, it is vital that we continue to support efforts by organizations such as the International Polio Task Force to increase the awareness of the debilitating effects of polio.

I urge my colleagues to support this important resolution.

Mr. DEAL of Georgia. Madam Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time and urge the adoption of the resolution.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds of those voting concurring) the rules were suspended and the resolution, as amended, was agreed to.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. DEAL) and the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. PALLONE) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Georgia.

General LeavE

Mr. DEAL of Georgia. Madam Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days in which to revise and extend their remarks and to add extraneous material to the bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Georgia?

There was no objection.

Mr. DEAL of Georgia. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Madam Speaker, today I rise in support of House Concurrent Resolution 386, honoring Mary Eliza Mahoney, as America’s first professionally trained African-American nurse.

Born in 1845, Mary Eliza Mahoney lived with her parents, Charles Mahoney and Mary Jane Steward Mahoney. For 15 years, Mary Eliza worked alternately as a cook, janitor, washerwoman, and an unofficial nurse’s assistant at the New England Hospital for Women and Children in Roxbury, Massachusetts.

In 1878, at the age of 33, she was admitted as a student into the hospital’s nursing program. After graduation, 16 months later, Mary Eliza worked primarily as a private-duty nurse. Her nursing career ended as director of an orphanage in Long Island, New York, a position she had held for over a decade.

As the resolution states, Mary Eliza Mahoney’s motto was always, “Work more and better the coming year than the previous year.” Mahoney also recognized the need of nurses for nurses to work together to improve the status of African Americans in the profession.

In 1986, Ms. Mahoney was inducted into the National Association of Colored Graduate Nurses. Mahoney gave the welcoming address at the first convention of NACGN and served as the association’s national chaplain. She became an inspiration to all nurses and helped make it possible for the members of the NACGN to be received at the White House by President Warren G. Harding. Ms. Mahoney died in 1926. Because of her dedication and untiring will to inspire future generations, she has been an inspiration to thousands who are a part of the nursing profession.

Madam Speaker, I would like to thank the author of this resolution, Ms. ENSIS BENNICE JOHNSON of Texas, for her support in honoring this great American. I encourage all of my colleagues to vote in favor of the resolution.

Madam Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. PALLONE. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Madam Speaker, it is not every day that we get to pay tribute to a truly special person that served our country like Mary Eliza Mahoney, America’s first professionally trained African-American nurse. I want to indicate my support for H. Con. Res. 386 offered by Congresswoman EDDIE BENNICE JOHNSON honoring Mary Eliza Mahoney’s outstanding nursing career, her dedication to the U.S. nursing profession, and exemplary contribution to local and national professional nursing organizations.

Ms. Mahoney was born in 1845 and grew up in an era where many similarly situated African Americans did not have the opportunity for an education. Ms. Mahoney also enrolled in nursing school. In 1879, at the age of 34, she was one of only a handful of students in her class who graduated, and the only African American in her class.

Ms. Mahoney changed the face of nursing as the first African American woman. Afterwards, black students were accepted at school as long as they met the requirements. Not only did she pave the way for African Americans as nurses, she advocated for them. Moreover, she worked hard to counteract the nationwide shortage of nurses, which, of course, continues.

In 1896, Ms. Mahoney became one of the original members of a predominantly white nurses association, alumni of the United States and Canada, later known as the American Nurses Association, or ANA. In 1908, she was co-founder of the National Association of Colored Graduate Nurses.

In addition, Madam Speaker, she supported the voting rights amendment and was the first African American nurse to receive retirement benefits for her lifelong hard work and service to others.

The contributions of people like Mary Eliza Mahoney should be remembered. She set an example more than a century ago that I hope many children today will follow: Work hard, follow your convictions and help others.

The U.S. is expected to have a shortage of 2.8 million nurses by the year 2020, and Congress has to do a lot more to support the work of America’s nurses both through resolutions like these and through greater funding. Ms. Mahoney was a remarkable woman. We should not let what she fought for so long ago be for naught. That is why it is very important that we pass and support this resolution this afternoon.

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Madam Speaker, I rise today in support of H. Con. Res. 386, honoring Mary Eliza Mahoney, America’s first professionally trained African-American nurse.

First, I would like to honor my mother, Ivalita Jackson, who served as a vocational nurse.
while she raised her children. With her nurturing hand and wise mind, she instilled in me a strong work ethic, a value of education, and a compelling desire toward public service. Her lifetime of hard work, and her commitment to giving and healing remains an inspiration to me.

Mary Eliza Mahoney was born on May 7th, 1845 in Dorchester, Massachusetts. Mary became interested in nursing as a teenager. Though she worked as a maid, washerwoman and cook at the New England Hospital for Women and Children in Roxbury, Massachusetts for fifteen years, her dream was to practice nursing.

The first step to realizing her dream came when, at the age of 33, Ms. Mahoney was accepted into the nursing school at the New England Hospital for Women and Children. One of only four students of a class of forty-two to complete the nursing program, Mahoney received her nursing diploma on August 1, 1879.

As such, she became the first African-American graduate nurse. This indeed, was a magnificent accomplishment at a time in this country when the odds were heavily stacked against her as an African-American, and as a woman.

After graduation, Ms. Mahoney became a private duty nurse. Her employers consistently praised her for her calm and quiet efficiency and for her professionalism.

Despite the odds, she proved that African-Americans could successfully enter into the world of professional nursing. She continues to be a source of inspiration to all nurses.

Mahoney was one of the first African-American members of the organization that later became the American Nurses Association (A.N.A.), which, failed to actively admit black nurses, Mahoney strongly supported the establishment of the National Association of Colored Graduate Nurses (N.A.C.G.N.).

Mahoney recognized the inequalities in nursing education and called for a demonstration at the New England Hospital to have more African-American students admitted.

For more than a decade after, Mahoney helped recruit nurses to join the National Association of Colored Graduate Nurses. Nursing is the nation’s largest health care profession, with more than 2.7 million registered nurses nationwide. In 2003, 9.9 percent of registered nurses were African American.

Ms. Mahoney was strongly concerned with women’s equality and was a staunch supporter of the movement to give women the right to vote. At the age of 76, Ms. Mahoney was among the first women in Boston to register to vote after passage of the Nineteenth Amendment.

As a part of our country when there is a nurse-shortage crisis, it is important to acknowledge the service and dedication of an outstanding American nurse. More than one million new and replacement nurses will be needed by 2012. Ms. Mahoney is a prime example of a professional woman who values and advocates for education, civil rights, and giving something of yourself for your community and for your nation.

I urge my colleagues to support this resolution honoring Mary Eliza Mahoney, America’s first professionally trained African-American nurse.

Mr. PALLONE. Madam Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. DEAL of Georgia. Madam Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. DEAL) that the House suspend the rules and agree to the concurrent resolution, H. Res. 622, to recognize and honor the Filipino World War II veterans for their defense of democratic ideals and their important contribution to the outcome of World War II, as amended.

The Clerk reads as follows:

Whereas in 1898, the Philippines Archipelago was acquired by the United States, became an organized United States territory in 1902, and, in preparation for independence, became a self-governing commonwealth in 1935;

Whereas the people of the Philippines and of the United States developed strong bonds throughout the decades-long democratic transition of the island, compelling the United States to assume the responsibilities of defending the archipelago and protecting the people of the Philippines;

Whereas on July 26, 1941, anticipating the aggression of Japanese invasion forces in the Pacific region, as well as the imminent conflict between the United States and Japan, President Franklin D. Roosevelt issued a military order, calling the organized military forces of the Commonwealth of the Philippines into armed service under the command of United States Army officers led by General Douglas MacArthur;

Whereas on December 7, 1941, the Japanese Government began a devastating four-year war with the United States with their stealth bombing attacks of Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, and Clark Air Field, Philippines, and led to the loss of tens of thousands of American and Filipino soldiers and countless civilian casualties;

Whereas on February 20, 1946, President Harry Truman stated, “ Philippine Army veterans are nationals of the United States and will continue in that status until July 4, 1946. They fought, as American nationals, under the American flag, and under the direction of our military leaders. They fought with gallantry and courage under most difficult conditions. I consider it a moral obligation of the United States to look after the welfare of the Philippine Army veterans.”;

Whereas on October 17, 1966, President William J. Clinton issued a proclamation on the anniversary of the 1944 return of United States forces under General MacArthur to the Philippines; I hereby restate that policy, “I urge all Americans to recall the courage, sacrifice, and loyalty of Filipino Veterans of World War II and honor them for their contribution to our freedom.”;

Whereas on July 26, 2001, President George W. Bush, in his greetings to the Filipino World War II veterans said, “More than 120,000 Filipinos fought with unwavering loyalty and great gallantry under the command of General Douglas MacArthur. The combined United States and Filipino forces distinguished themselves by their valor and heroism in defense of freedom and democracy. Thousands of Filipino soldiers gave their lives for their country and their friends the Corregidor. These soldiers won for the United States the precious time needed to disrupt the enemy’s plan for conquest in the Pacific. During the three long years following these battles, the Filipino people valiantly resisted a brutal Japanese occupation with an indomitable spirit and steadfast loyalty to America.”;

Whereas the contributions of the Filipino people, and the sacrifices of their soldiers in World War II, have not been fully recognized: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved. That the House of Representatives recognizes and honors Filipino World War II veterans for their important contributions to the victorious outcome of World War II, including their valiant fight for the liberation of their homeland and their defense of democratic ideals.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentlewoman from Florida (Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN) and the gentleman from California (Mr. LANTOS) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentlewoman from Florida?

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as may consume.

I rise in support of House Resolution 622, which recognizes and honors Filipino World War II veterans for their important contributions to the victorious outcome of World War II.

This resolution notes that the prior history of the Philippines as a United States territory, then as a self-governing commonwealth, during which time the Filipino Armed Forces were called into service under the command of General Douglas MacArthur in July 1941. Those servicemen fought with gallantry and courage, and thousands gave their lives resisting Japanese aggression and occupation. House Resolution 622 honors the Filipino veterans for their valiant fight, for the liberation of their homeland, and for their defense of democratic ideals.

I commend the cochair of the Philippine Caucus, the gentleman from California (Mr. ISAIAH), for introducing this long overdue resolution. It was moved forward with the strong support of the chairman of the House International Relations Committee, the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. HYDE), and colleagues from the House Armed Services Committee. That Chairman HYDE was a combat veteran of the Philippine campaign in World War II, and he piloted a landing craft.
in the January 1945 landing that marked the beginning of the liberation of Luzon.

Madam Speaker, I submit for printing in the Congressional Record a copy of an article from the September 10, 2006, edition of Philippine Panorama, the leading weekly news magazine in the Philippines.

[From the Philippine Panorama, Sept. 10, 2006]

Memories of Lingayen

Henry Hyde, chairman of the US House International Relations Committee, led a group of four congressmen, including Melvin Watt of North Carolina, Dana Rohrabacher of California, and Zach Wamp of Arizona, on a visit to the Philippines (August 11th to 15th) to assess security in this country, discuss trade relations and, in the case of the 82-year old chairman, he hoped to visit with fellow veterans of World War Two, and see Lingayen Gulf again.

As a college freshman at Georgetown University, Hyde enlisted in the Navy in 1942. Why the Navy? He had never been to sea but liked the idea of “a nice clean ship” in comparison to life in a trench. “It didn’t occur to me that ships sink,” he recalled wryly in an interview at the Makati Shangri-la Hotel where the group were staying. After an officers training course at Duke University, Hyde attended a 90-day midshipmen’s school at Notre Dame and won his commission as an Ensign in October 1944. Told that he would go to commanders school at Harvard, he bought new blue uniforms as befit the occasion which he never wore, since his orders bought new blue uniforms as befit the occasion which he never wore, since his orders...
Mr. FILNER. I thank Congressman LANTOS for your leadership in the fight for benefits, and your chairman, Mr. HYDE, and the sponsor of this legislation, Mr. ISSA. Along with my colleagues from San Diego County, Mr. ISSA, Congressional U.S.-Philippines Caucus, and Mr. ISSA is the prime sponsor of the equity bill which you talked about, H.R. 4574, to bring real justice to our Filipino American and Filipino veterans.

Mr. LANTOS. Madam Speaker, I am pleased to yield 3 minutes to my good friend and distinguished colleague, the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. SCOTT).

Mr. SCOTT of Virginia. Madam Speaker, I thank the gentleman from California for yielding. I rise in strong support of this resolution.

On December 7, 1941, the Empire of Japan attacked not only Pearl Harbor, but also Clark Airfield in the Philippines. Tens of thousands of Americans died that day, but also thousands of Filipino soldiers lost their lives. This one act of war united the American and Filipino people in the noble cause of ending tyranny in the Pacific. In 1946, President Harry Truman cited that during the war the Philippine Army veterans “fought with gallantry and courage under the most difficult conditions.” He also declared that it was the moral obligation of the United States to look after the welfare of the Philippine Army veterans. In fact, it was with that promise that many of the veterans joined our military efforts, many losing their lives, others suffering injuries.

Our promise, however, remains unfulfilled. We promised to make them eligible for veterans benefits, but, unfortunately, in 1946, Congress withdrew those benefits.

Now, nearly 60 years later, our Filipino veterans are still looking to see our promise fulfilled. We saw some progress in 2003 when we passed the Veterans Benefit Act, which increased benefits to veterans who are Filipino veterans and made the new Philippine Scouts living in the United States eligible for burial in VA national cemeteries.

The United States is indebted to the 120,000 Filipino veterans of World War II for their extraordinary sacrifices. While we can never fully repay our veterans for the sacrifices made on our behalf, today we stop to remember those who gave their lives for our freedom and honor those who are still with us for their courage and dedication to our country.

Although no longer a territory of the United States, the Philippines and the United States are bound by the countless contributions and achievements of Americans of Filipino descent in every field of human endeavor, including the sciences, business, education, medicine, the arts, athletics, and government.

As the only Member of Congress with any Filipino ancestry, I am honored to come before the House today to honor the Filipino veterans of World War II and urge my colleagues not only to support this resolution, but to also pass legislation to grant the Filipino veterans the equity that they were promised.

Mr. CASE. Madam Speaker, I rise today as a cosponsor and strong supporter of H. Res. 622, a resolution to recognize and honor the Filipino World War II veterans for their defense of democratic ideals and their important contributions to our nation. As a member of the U.S. Philippines Caucus and the Congressional Asian Pacific American Caucus, I am pleased that the House of Representatives is considering this important resolution and urge its passage.

Just this past weekend, Gloria Macapagal-Arroyo, the President of the Republic of Philippines, visited my home State of Hawaii and unveiled at the National Memorial Cemetery of the Pacific a commemorative marker honoring Filipino-American World War II veterans. That 10 years after this body, or 10 years ago, Mr. LANTOS was here, I think, at the time, I was pleased that President George W. Bush, at my request, wrote a message on the occasion of the centennial anniversary of Filipino migration to Hawaii. We must also continue to celebrate and thank the early Filipino migrants who came to work in the sugar plantations of Hawaii and those who fought in support of the United States in World War II.

But there is still much more to be done in support of these brave individuals. In 1946, Congress, only Mr. LANTOS was here, I think, at the time, Congress passed a Rescissions Act, which cut the benefits and cut the recognition that they were promised by President Roosevelt and President Truman.

This is wrong, my colleagues; and yet Mr. ISSA, as the sponsor of this resolution, also is the sponsor of the real answer to this situation and the real tribute that we could pay to these veterans, all of whom now are in their 80s. They are a rapidly dwindling band of survivors. They are occupying their 80s. They are a rapidly dwindling band of survivors, all of whom now are in their 80s.

Well, 10 years ago this body, or 10 years ago, Mr. President, President Clinton said this same thing: I urge all Americans to recognize that they were promised by the United States to look after the welfare of the Filipino Army veterans.

In 1946, President Harry Truman cited that during the war the Philippine Army veterans “fought with gallantry and courage under the most difficult conditions.” He also declared that it was the moral obligation of the United States to look after the welfare of the Philippine Army veterans. I hope that Mr. LANTOS is right, that this resolution will pave the way. I am afraid it will be an excuse for not doing anything more. Let us pass this resolution. It helps educate us and our constituents about the role of the Filipino veterans in World War II. But let us go further. Let us pass the Filipino Veterans Equity Act, which provides access to health care and access to pensions of those Filipinos who are eligible.

They don’t have long to live, Madam Speaker. They want the honor and dignity that was denied them after World War II. So let us give a fitting tribute and let us do a long overdue action of this Congress. Let us pass H.R. 4574, which will be our true tribute to these brave men.

I thank Mr. ISSA for introducing this resolution. Let us approve it, but let us move on beyond this and truly recognize those who contributed so much to this Nation’s freedom and independence.

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Madam Speaker, I rise today in support of H. Res. 622, to recognize and honor the Filipino World War II veterans for their defense of democratic ideals and their important contribution to the outcome of World War II. All Filipinos, men and women responded to President Roosevelt’s call and joined the U.S. Armed Forces in order to help preserve peace and democracy in the Philippines.

In their tumultuous four-year battle to restore independence, the courageous young men and women of the combined Philippine Islands suffered many hardships, terrors, loss of life and limbs, yet they never wavered. They endured the unendurable. They bore the unbearable.

Four decades after their heroic service under the command of their leaders and General Douglas MacArthur, these men and women of Filipino-American national heritage were denied the benefits and privileges provided to their American compatriots who fought alongside the United States.

It is past time that the brave and proud soldiers of the Philippines receive well-earned recognition and thanks for their selfless and heroic contributions.

Filipino World War II veterans fought as nationals of the United States and must be given the same recognition and praise as all American veterans. I applaud the service and efforts of all of our veterans and am honored to give such praise to the Filipino World War II veterans.

I urge my colleagues not only to support this resolution—I urge my colleagues to also consider legislation, such as H.R. 170, the Filipino Veterans Fairness Act, that will grant these aging patriots the full benefits they are due.

Ms. BORDALLO. Madam Speaker, during World War II, the, War in the Pacific began with attacks on the United States on December 7, 1941, including the bombing of Pearl Harbor, attacks on the Philippine Islands and the invasion of Guam. Within days of these attacks, our nation and our allies mobilized for war. The United States and the Philippines united in their passion to defend democracy and are proud of the support of the Filipinos during that difficult time. This is why I rise today in support of House Resolution 622, to recognize and honor the Filipino World War II veterans for their defense of democratic ideals and their important contribution to the outcome of World War II.

Ultimate victory belonged to the cause of freedom and therefore to the American and Filipino people. Having suffered a brutal occupation, Filipinos and Guamanians alike were liberated in the march to allied victory in World War II.

Filipino soldiers and civilians fought, sacrificed and died side-by-side with members of the U.S. Armed Forces throughout the course of the World War II. Loyal to the American flag and to the ideals which our country represented, Filipinos fought with notable skill, dedication, and heroism. We honor their commitment to freedom and democracy.

Over sixty years later, we pause today to remember the valor and the commitment to freedom displayed by Filipinos who fought the invading forces alongside their American brothers in arms. With this resolution we also proclaim our deep debt of gratitude for their service and share the disappointment that our nation has not fully honored Filipino World War II veterans as have we honored our own. It is important that we recognize the Filipino veterans and express our appreciation for their sacrifices, contributions and accomplishments.

I am a proud sponsor of this legislation. I urge my colleagues to vote in favor of this resolution to honor the Filipino World War II veterans for their defense of freedom and their important contributions to our nation in World War II.

Mr. BILL BARR. Today, the House of Representatives is poised to pass House Resolution 622 honoring and recognizing the service of Filipino World War II veterans in their defense of our society and the freedoms we enjoy today. I am proud to co-sponsor this resolution highlighting the efforts of a community that came together with the United States to triumph over Japanese Imperialism.

In 1946, on a hot July day, President Franklin D. Roosevelt issued a military draft calling as an example for all Americans. The Government of the Commonwealth of the Philippines into armed services under the command of United States Army officers lead by General Douglas MacArthur. Those brave soldiers stood side by side with American military service members courageously fighting to defend America.

These Filipino World War II veterans are part of what is often referred to as the “greatest generation” and with good reason. From Bataan to Corregidor, Filipino soldiers unselfishly fought to preserve and protect the democratic principles we champion, with the hope that those principles could liberate a people enveloped by tyranny. Today, we stand to recognize those heroes who fought so valiantly to help win the greatest war in history.

Madam Speaker, in San Diego we have a vibrant and robust Filipino community that includes many military families with a storied line of military service to our nation. Through the sacrifices of these brave veterans, serve as an example for all Americans. The Filipino community in San Diego has a distinct pride that defines them, and for that they enrich San Diego and make it a better place to live.

I thank my colleague from California, Mr. Issa, for introducing this legislation and I look forward to voting on its passage.

Ms. PELOSI. Mr. Speaker, I strongly support H. Res. 622, to provide recognition to the Filipino veterans who fought to defend democracy and freedom during World War II. Their heroic efforts played a vital role in the outcome of the war and helped lead the allied forces to victory.

It was more than 60 years ago, when Filipino soldiers answered a call from President Roosevelt asking them to fight alongside American forces. Confederate and American soldiers sacrificed their lives to protect the democratic principles they shared. It was estimated that 100,000 Filipino soldiers and 1,200 American soldiers died as prisoners of war during the Bataan Death March alone. Upon taking the Philippines, the Filipino, troops were promised the same benefits and pensions as their American brethren. They suffered the same torture and witnessed the same horrors. They shared the same patriotic duty to preserve liberty around the world. But in 1946 Congress passed the Recission Act, which revoked the full eligibility rights of Filipino soldiers and broke the commitment our nation made to them.

As we stand together today acknowledging the contributions that the Filipino, soldiers sacrificed for our country, we must pledge to continue their fight for full recognition. This resolution is the first step in correcting the past. As Americans, we make a simple yet sacred promise that those who served our country in uniform: “You have taken care of us, so we will take care of you.”

Today, fewer than 70,000 Filipino, veterans are still alive. We remember World War II hero Magdaleno Duenas, a brave soldier who fought side by side during the Pacific battles of World War II, and continued the fight from the battlefield to the frontlines in effort to ensure equity for Filipino veterans. We cannot forget the sacrifices that these veterans have made. We must dedicate ourselves as a nation to ensure that America fulfills its moral obligation to those who pay the high price for our freedom.

Mr. GARRETT of New Jersey. Madam Speaker, today I rise to honor those brave American and Filipino soldiers who fought side by side during the Pacific battles of World War II, facing hardships, and for their heroic actions this for the Allied Forces the edge that they needed to emerge victorious in that great war.

American veterans like Donald Patafio of Woodcliff Lakes and Raymond DiPietro of Demarest. Patafio and DiPietro served in the Navy alongside these brave Filipino soldiers in the battle for their homeland. Patafio served honorably as an aviation radioman and DiPietro’s unit received a Presidential Citation for their work in the battle.

More than 120,000 Filipino nationals were formed into U.S. divisions for the defense of their homeland and to advance the Allied forces’ cause of liberty. Though poorly armed, they fought bravely under the American flag and under the direction of American military leaders in the weeks following the invasion of their homeland. Many continued the battle against the Japanese during the years of occupation.

American soldiers and Filipino troops died during the infamous hundred-mile Bataan Death March. Many were executed along the way for merely asking for water in the scorching sun. While 70,000 forces surrendered, only 54,000 reached the internment camp. The Geneva Convention was no barrier to the mistreatment, torture, and indiscriminate execution inflicted upon these prisoners of war.

Civilian Filipinos suffered for their alliance with our American troops as well. In Manila, for instance, Japanese troops—in an indefensible position and cut off from supplies—took their anger out on an undefended civilian population, massacring more than 100,000.

We are grateful for the service of all the Filipino people—civilian, guerilla, and regular armed forces. And, we are thankful for their continued friendship. To this day, the Filipino people continue to welcome American soldiers, sailors, and airmen to bases that were instrumental in the Cold War and are now important in the War on Terror. The Philippines are fighting alongside brave American soldiers like Donald Patafio and Raymond DiPietro, the people of the Philippines continue to work with American forces to spread the cause of liberty.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Madam Speaker, I rise today to honor the sacrifice of the Filipino veterans of WWII.

America owes a great debt of gratitude to these brave veterans, who risked life and limb.

Madam Speaker, I rise in strong supp
Madam Speaker, I rise in strong support of this resolution. First, I would like to congratulate my good friend and colleague, Congressman Mark Kirk, for his leadership and strong voice in the defense of Baha’i communities all over the world. I am proud to be the original Democratic cosponsor of this important resolution.

The Baha’is are Iran’s largest religious minority, but because the Baha’i faith is not one of the four religions recognized in Iran’s Constitution, Baha’is do not have rights under Iranian law. Iranian courts have ruled that people who injure or kill Baha’is are not liable for damages because the Baha’is are “unprotected infidels.” The absurdity of the statement that they are “unprotected infidels” says a great deal about this regime.

Congress has long recognized the plight of this suffering community. Since 1982, we have passed eight resolutions condemning the treatment of the Baha’i in Iran. On March 28 of this year, the White House expressed concern for a worsening situation of the Baha’i in Iran and called on the Government of Iran to respect the religious freedom of its minorities.

Madam Speaker, the situation of the Baha’i in Iran has deteriorated dramatically over the past year with an increase in arbitrary arrests, raids on private homes and imprisonments, a particular minority what the next step is. Our resolution calls on the Government of Iran simply to grant Baha’i the rights guaranteed by international law. This resolution, is a signatory to the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights and several other human rights treaties, but it is obvious that Tehran has no more intention of observing the requirements of these agreements than it does the nuclear agreements it has signed.

The international community must not be mocked. It must hold Iran to those standards to which it has voluntarily committed itself. In fact, Iran’s contempt for basic human rights standards knows no bounds. Earlier this year, Supreme Leader Ali Khamenei ordered the Ministry of Information, the Revolutionary Guard and the police to identify Baha’is and collect information on their activities. This is particularly worrisome in light of the Iranian Government’s view of the Baha’i as non-persons.

The Association League has called this order “reminiscent of the laws imposed on European Jews in the 1930s by Nazi Germany.” Our resolution rightly highlights this order, which was revealed by the U.N. Special Rapporteur for Freedom of Religion or Belief.

Madam Speaker, the U.S. Congress needs to speak out strongly against these policies. We cannot stand by quietly as another pogrom against the Baha’is is quietly being prepared by the bigoted regime of Iran. We and the international community must put on notice that such action is utterly intolerable.

Madam Speaker, I urge all of my colleagues to support this important resolution.

Madam Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. ROSENSTEIN. Madam Speaker, I am pleased to yield 5 minutes to the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. KIRK), the sponsor and author of this resolution.

Mr. KIRK. Madam Speaker, I thank the gentlewoman for yielding.

Madam Speaker, I rise in strong support of this resolution, which condemns the Government of Iran’s repression of the Baha’i community. I would like to thank my very good friend, Congressman Tom Lantos, for joining me as the Democratic cosponsor of this important human rights resolution.

The North American Baha’i Temple is located in Wilmette, Illinois, inside my congressional district. It is a magnificent house of worship, gracing Lake Michigan’s shoreline.

The Baha’i faith, founded nearly 150 years ago on principles of peace and tolerance, is one of the fastest growing religions in the world. Yet since the Iranian revolution of 1979, the Government of Iran has intensified a deliberate campaign of discrimination, harassment, detention, arrest and imprisonment against the 300,000 members of the Iranian Baha’i community.

Since 1982, we have passed eight resolutions and in the 1990s, several United Nations resolutions condemning the Iranian regime. That Congress is considering this resolution today is particularly significant. The Iranian President Mahmoud Ahmadinejad with address the United Nations General Assembly today to call for all developing countries to join him in confronting the West. It is incumbent on Congress to reveal the real truth about this Iranian leader. We must demonstrate to the international community that while Iran’s President has become a ruthless dictator who espouses hatred, discrimination and tyranny, the United States is standing for liberty and toleration and human rights and freedom, especially for Baha’is in Iran.

Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues to support this resolution, and I would like to thank our ranking member Congressman LANTOS for his friendship and support on this measure, a tireless advocate, a Holocaust survivor, a man who knows when the authorities call for the names and addresses of a particular minority what the next step is. We have seen that in Kayhan, the government newspaper. I want to particularly thank Chairman HYDE and Chairwoman ROS-LEHTINEN for their strong support, upon whom this resolution would not be coming to the floor on this crucial day in which the Chairman speaks before the United Nations.

Finally, I would also like to thank Kit Bigelow and Aaron Emmel from the National Spiritual Assembly of the Baha’is of the United States for their dedication to their afflicted coreligionists inside Iran.

Mr. LANTOS. Madam Speaker, I would like to thank my good friend from Illinois for his most gracious comments, and I am pleased to yield as much as time as he might consume to our colleague and my good friend from Ohio (Mr. KUCINICH).

Mr. KUCINICH. Madam Speaker, I want to thank Mr. LANTOS for his undying commitment to human rights. It was you and Mrs. Lantos who worked to see a Human Rights Caucus created, and I am glad to have you at this time.

I also salute my colleague Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN for her commitment to human rights. I think it is important that we always bring these issues before the House.

I think it is also important to rededicate ourselves to the Congress to reveal the real truth about this Iranian leader. We must demonstrate to the international community that while Iran’s President has become a ruthless dictator who espouses hatred, discrimination and tyranny, the United States is standing for liberty and toleration and human rights and freedom, especially for Baha’is in Iran.
The Baha’is in Iran certainly deserve to have a full accounting of their rights. As a matter of fact, this House has passed eight resolutions that condemn Iran for persecuting the Baha’i faith. At the same time, the House has not passed any resolutions condemning any other nation for the persecution of the Baha’is.

The 2006 U.S. Commission on International Religious Freedom has identified three nations that persecute the Baha’i faith, as the Special Representative Permanent Select Committee on Intelligence with respect to misleading and false information that was being circulated around Congress, and I submit it for the RECORD.

I have a copy of a letter from myself to CHRISTOPHER SHAYS, he is the chairman of the Subcommittee on National Security, Emergence Threats, and International Relations, which asks for an accounting by the Director of National Intelligence, who was supposed to be charged with the responsibility of reviewing this particular staff report before it reached publication. I submit this for the RECORD.

I have a copy of a Washington Post article which characterizes the U.N. inspectors’ dispute with Iran or the U.N. inspector disputing the Iran report by the House Intelligence Committee which, according to the Washington Post, the U.N. inspectors are still preparing their report.

Why am I submitting all this in the context of a resolution that has to do with standing up for the rights of the Baha’i to practice their faith? Because, once again, the Baha’i would not have this resolution to be used as part of a series of steps to encourage an attack on Iran. I can state that with certainty, knowing the Baha’i religion as I do, and yet we are seeing a series of steps, covert operations affecting Iran, preparing for a naval blockade. I mean, this all points to the United States moving in a direction of attacking Iran. That is anti-thetical to the spirit of the Baha’i faith, which we are here today to stand up for.

There will be other resolutions that will relate to Iran which will be on the floor of the House this afternoon, and I expect to be speaking to those as well. I want the House to know that, as the Speaker may be aware, it was 4 years ago that the administration was taking steps to take this country to war against Iraq, and they had not made their case, and we actually went to war against Iraq based on false pretenses.

I am once again stating to the people of this Congress that we ought to be very careful about these series of initiatives which this administration is putting forth at this time so that we have to be aware that they are making a case for war based on these resolutions, we should be very careful about what our intention is in passing these resolutions.

I want to thank the gentleman from California for the opportunity to point out these matters relevant to Iran.

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Madam Speaker, I rise today in support of H. Con. Res. 415, condemning the repression of the Iranian Baha’i community, and calling for the emancipation of Iranian Baha’is.

I have long been an advocate of a free, independent, and democratic Iran; an Iran that does not destabilize the region, that does not threaten its neighbors, and that honors its commitments to the international community, especially on the issue of the proliferation of nuclear weapons. Since 1982, Congress has declared eight times that it deplores the religious persecution of the Baha’i community in Iran and that we hold the government of Iran responsible for upholding the rights of all Iranian nationals, especially members of the Baha’i faith. It is with dismay that I state that this persecution continues unabated and that the time has come for us as a nation of conscious to take action.

On March 20, 2006, the United Nations Special Rapporteur on Freedom of Religion or Belief revealed the existence of a confidential letter dated October 29, 2005, from the Chairman of the Command Headquarters of Iran’s Armed Forces stating that the Supreme Leader, Ayatollah Khamenei, had instructed the Command Headquarters to identify members of the Baha’i faith in Iran and to monitor their activities. The U.N. Special Rapporteur expressed grave concern and apprehension about the implications of this letter for the safety of the Iranian Baha’i community.

For years, I have been a supporter of the democratic movement in Iran. More than ever, the people of Iran need to be supported, empowered, and protected. In 2005, the Iranian government initiated a new wave of assaults, home raids, harassment and detentions of members of the Baha’i faith; 129 Baha’is are currently awaiting trial for, among other things, charges of ‘creating anxiety in the minds of the public and those of the Iranian officials.’ I find this simply unacceptable and call on my colleagues to condemn this form of religious repression.

I am only effective in my efforts to achieve lasting peace and prosperity in the region, along with effectuating reforms in Iran’s polity, is assisting the Iranian people in general and members of the Baha’i faith in particular in their quest to achieve political, social, and religious liberty. Every government can be judged with the way in which it treats its ethnic and religious minorities. The current Iranian government gets a failing grade for its treatment of the 300,000 Baha’i who live throughout the regions of Iran. I hold the government of Iran responsible for upholding the Baha’i community and call on the government of Iran to cease repressive activities aimed at Iran’s Baha’is. I consider the Iranian government’s human rights record as a significant factor in our foreign policy towards Iran and call for President Bush to urge the leaders of nations around the world to demand that the government of Iran emancipate the Baha’i community by granting those rights guaranteed to them by the Universal Declaration of Human Rights and other international human rights covenants.

I urge my colleagues to support this important resolution condemning the repression of the Iranian Baha’i community and calling for the emancipation of Iranian Baha’is.
Mr. LANTOS. Madam Speaker, I have no further requests for time. We yield back the balance of our time.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Madam Speaker, I also have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of our time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Florida (Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN) that the House suspend the rules and agree to the concurrent resolution on August 5, 2006, of the Iranian constitution of 1906.

The question was taken.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. In the opinion of the Chair, two-thirds of those present have voted in the affirmative.

Mr. LANTOS. Mr. Speaker, on that I demand the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

Mr. LANTOS. The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 8 of rule XX and the Chair’s prior announcement, further proceedings on this question will be postponed.

RECOGNIZING CENTENNIAL ANNIVERSARY OF IRANIAN CONSTITUTION OF 1906

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Madam Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and agree to the resolution (H. Res. 942) recognizing the centennial anniversary on August 5, 2006, of the Iranian constitution of 1906.

The Clerk read as follows:

H. Res. 942

Whereas in 1906, one hundred years ago, the people of Iran rose in a peaceful democratic revolution against arbitrary, despotic rulers; Whereas the people of Iran chose to confront these rulers with peaceful assemblies of thousands of people in the public spaces of Iran until these rulers received their demands; Whereas these rulers bowed to the wishes of the people on August 5, 2006, and issued a decree for the convocation of a freely elected assembly, the Majles, to write a democratic charter; Whereas the Iranian constitution, written pursuant to the decree of 1906, was a democratic instrument providing for— (1) the establishment of an independent judiciary; (2) the establishment of an independent legislature with members directly elected by the people; (3) socio-political progress, including the separation of religion from the affairs of government; and (4) the commitment of the government to the territorial integrity of Iran; Whereas the maneuvering of the imperial powers and a fundamentalist clergy crushed the democratic aspirations represented in the constitution of 1906; Whereas the Iranian constitution of 1906 has nevertheless remained in the forefront of the aspirations of the Iranian people throughout decades of a long struggle towards progress, civil society, and democracy; Whereas those ideals were abolished by the clerical-led dictatorship of the Ayatollahs in 1979; and Whereas August 5, 2006, would be an appropriate day to recognize the centennial anniversary of the Iranian constitution of 1906. Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives—

(1) recognizes the centennial anniversary of the Iranian constitution of 1906;
(2) is mindful of the democratic revolution of 1906 that lead to the drafting of the Iranian constitution;
(3) expresses its profound hope that the people of Iran will once again enjoy a democratic government in the spirit of the Iranian constitution of 1906.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentlewoman from Florida (Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN) and the gentleman from California (Mr. LANTOS) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentlewoman from Florida.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Madam Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on the resolution under consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentlewoman from Florida?

There was no objection.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I rise in strong support of H. Res. 942 introduced by my friend, my colleague Mr. KING from Iowa. H. Res. 942, Madam Speaker, recognizes the centennial anniversary on August 5 of the Iranian Constitution of 1906.

The resolution acknowledges the democratic revolution of the Iranian people going back 100 years. It notes the democratic political system created from this movement, with clearly defined separation of powers. Finally, the resolution expresses the hope that the people of Iran will be inspired by their democratic history and once again enjoy democratic rule.

You might be surprised to learn that Persia was the first country in the Middle East to introduce a constitutional and create a constitutional monarchy with an elected parliament and popular sovereignty in 1906. The then-Shah signed the electoral law and the fundamental law of Persia that established an independent legislature and an independent judiciary.

While the constitutional movement was temporarily undermined in 1908 during the reign of Mohammed Ali Shah Qajar, it was later rescued by the reign of his son.

The ideals of the constitutional revolution were abolished with the demise of the dynasty and the rise of an absolute monarchy in 1925, and then with the Iranian revolution in 1979.

Madam Speaker, this resolution is an opportunity to reach out to Iranian people about their indigenous democratic tradition. We hope that this tradition will be an inspiration for the Iranian people as they seek to increase their political freedoms.

I strongly support the passage of this resolution. I thank Mr. King for introducing it.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Madam Speaker, I rise in strong support of this resolution, and I yield myself such time as I might consume.

I want to congratulate my friend and distinguished colleague from Iowa, Congressman KING, for introducing this important resolution commemorating Iran’s democratic revolution of 1906. I want equally to congratulate my friend and committee colleague, Mr. BLUMENAUER, who introduced the resolution on the very same topic at virtually the same time.

The issues raised by the King and Blumenauer resolutions are both simple and complex. On the one hand, it is important simply that we commemorate the events of 1906, a popular uprising that led to the drafting of a constitutional brimming with democratic guarantees.

Indeed, this was a heady time for tens of thousands of Iranian liberals, as they witnessed the establishment of a constitutional monarchy in the Middle East in the late 19th and early 20th centuries including both in Egypt and in the Ottoman Empire.

At the same time, we cannot help but acknowledge that the high hopes of the 1906 Constitutional Revolution were quickly dashed on the shoals of reactionary resistance, foreign interference, and the lack of unity among the constitutionalists. Iran has gone through many permutations since 1906, but it has experienced very little democracy.

Today’s Iran is a far cry from that envisioned by the revolutionaries and constitutional writers of a century ago. The Iran of today is an authoritarian, intolerant, theocratic regime in which ultimate authority rests with the clergy and a minority of clergymen at that.

There are elections and there is a parliament in Iran, but candidates must first be approved by an unelected clergy. The democratic promise that Iranians set out for themselves in 1906 remains unfulfilled, but it is not forgotten. It stands as a symbol of democratic hope for Iran and for others throughout the Middle East.

At a time when we have committed our resources to supporting the emergence of a liberal, tolerant Middle East, it is very appropriate that we recall one of the earliest efforts in that region to establish a constitutional democratic regime. And we honor those Iranians who struggled for positive change. That is why I support this resolution and urge all of my colleagues to do likewise.

I reserve the balance of my time.
from Iowa (Mr. King), the prime sponsor and author of the resolution.

Mr. King of Iowa. I thank the gentleman from Florida for yielding and for her leadership on this important issue. And I also thank the gentleman from California (Mr. Lang) for his leadership on many of these foreign relation issues that we have.

I am very pleased to be here on the floor today, Madam Speaker, to address this issue; and I rise in support of H. Res. 942 to recognize the 100th anniversary of the Iranian constitutional revolution.

The current totalitarian regime of the ayatollahs presents a threat to world peace. It is important to recognize that Iran history contains within itself the evidence of internal representative constitutional aspirations which would free the Iranian people of oppressive tyranny.

In 1906, the people of Iran brought about a peaceful constitutional revolution to limit the autocratic power of a corrupt regime. As such, it was among the most significant turning points in Iranian history; it and resulted in the establishment of an elected parliament, the Majles, and the creation of a representative system of government, including checks and balances and the separation of powers.

While the constitution that was ultimately result of the revolution was never fully implemented in Iran, it presents the Iranian people with an important starting point in their present-day struggle to overcome the tyranny of the ayatollahs.

Much like the situation that we currently see in Iran, before the revolution in 1906 Iran was ruled harshly by its rulers. In modern terms, it was a time sweeping through Europe and Latin America. The people of Iran saw what was happening in other countries and demanded similar reforms. Just as today’s Iranians see their needs overlooked in their leaders’ attempts to hasten the coming of a worldwide radical Islamic state, the destruction of the assets of Iran before the 1906 revolution resulted in widespread poverty, food shortages, and the rulers demonstrated no obligation to relieve the needs of the people.

After years of agitation and a number of failed attempts to bring about representative constitutional reforms in cooperation with Iran’s rulers, the reformists chose nonviolent means to establish their demands. Early in 1906, some 16,000 Iranians gathered in the mosques and the public places of Tehran, organized camps, committees, and sanitation facilities and established order; and they simply stayed there. In modern terms, it was a giant sit-in that lasted for weeks. And on August 5, 1906, Mozafareddin Shah signed a decree authorizing the creation of a freely elected Majles which was the first task of writing a permanent constitution. The constitution that was created was a modern representative document created upon the model of the Belgian Constitution that had met the four demands of the Iranian people: autonomy, freedom, separation of the religious and political affairs, and the establishment of an elected parliament, with members directly elected by the people.

The third was a socio-political progress, including the separation of religion from the affairs of government. I will repeat, the separation of religion. The fourth was a commitment of the government to the territorial integrity of Iran. And in 1907, in one of the most unfortunate events of the Iranian history, Mozafareddin Shah died, and with him died the full implementation of the representative constitution.

Nevertheless, the constitution has always served as a beacon of liberty for those striving for freedom in Iran. All people on the face of the Earth ought to have the right to live under a constitutionally prescribed government that is representative and responsive to the will of the people. The 1906 Constitution of Iran provides the people of Iran with a blueprint for constitutional government that is a product of their culture and their needs. Hanedan Khameneh, a social reformist, said that Iranians could come together, using their own resources and their own traditions, to create a liberal representative constitutional state. And even though a corrupt dictatorial reactionary regime has ruled in Iran since 1979, the 1906 Iranian Constitution inspires hope for a free Iran today.

I ask my colleagues for support of this important legislation and pray for the day that all of God’s children live in freedom and liberty.

Concluding remarks.

Mr. LANTOS. Madam Speaker, I am pleased to yield to my good friend and distinguished colleague from Ohio (Mr. KUCINICH) as much time as he might consume.

Mr. KUCINICH. I want to thank the gentleman from California, and I appreciate your commitment to constitutional democracies. My statement here today, while I can certainly agree with the sentiment that was expressed and the spirit of this resolution with respect to hoping for constitutional democracies, I think we need to look at the letter of the resolution and put it in the context of the administration’s policies.

First of all, this particular resolution expresses its profound hope that the people of Iran will once again enjoy a democratic government in the spirit of the Islamic Republic, I think we need to look at the letter of the resolution and put it in the context of the administration’s policies.

In 1951, a pro-democratic nationalist, Dr. Mohammed Mossadegh, rose to prominence in Iran. Now, Mossadegh was elected its first Prime Minister. As Prime Minister, Mossadegh alarmed the West by his nationalization of an Anglo-Iranian oil company that was later named BP, which controlled all the country’s oil reserves.

Britain immediately put an embargo on Iran. Members of British Intelligence Service approached the United States under President Eisenhower in 1953 to join them in Operation Ajax, a coup against Mossadegh. President Eisenhower agreed and authorized the CIA to assist the BIS in overthrowing Mossadegh. The Shah at first attempted to dismiss Mossadegh, but this backfired and Mossadegh convinced the Shah to flee to Baghdad.

Regardless of this setback, the covert operation soon went into full swing conducted from the U.S. embassy in Tehran under the leadership of Kermit Roosevelt, Jr. Agents were hired to facilitate violence, and as a result protests broke out across the nation, anti- and pro-monarchy. Protesters violently clashed in the streets leaving almost 300 dead. The operation was successful in triggering a coup, and within days pro-Shah tanks stormed the capital and bombarded the Prime Minister’s residence. Mossadegh surrendered and was arrested on the 19th of August 1953, tried for treason, and sentenced to 3 years in prison.

Now, keep in mind that on March 8 of 1951, Mossadegh submitted to the Iranian mullahs his proposal to nationalize Iran's oil. According to the Cornell University library, the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company, most of whose stock was owned by the British Government, had been paying Iran much less than the British Government took from the company in taxes. Mossadegh's nationalization bill scared the company into concessions that were made too late. The Premier was committed to nationalization. Much to the surprise of the British, he went through with it right down to the expulsion of British technicians, without whom the Iranians could not run the Abadan refinery. Results? The West lost the Iranian oil supply, and the Iranian Government lost the oil payments. When we are talking about democracy, we had a democratic government which was overthrown because of oil. So let's celebrate democracy and not try to at the same time raise a process that resulted in an overthrow of democracy.

I think when we look at this particular resolution, you have to read these resolutions to the letter to get an idea of what is going on here.

Here we are expressing the profound hope that the people of Iran will once again enjoy a democratic government in the spirit of the Iranian Constitution of 1906. They had a democratic government. The U.S. helped overthrow it.

One of the last resolutions, we talked about initiating an active and consistent dialogue with other governments in the European Union in order to persuade the Government of Iran to rectify its human rights practices. We should be talking to the Government of Iran if we object to their human rights practices.

Resolution 415 says human rights will be considered a significant factor in the foreign policy of the United States with regard to Iran, but we are not stating that with the other countries that have violated the human rights of their citizens.

My concern is that while these resolutions in and of themselves may have elements that are salutary, at the same time you have to put them in the context of the administration's policy, which is a buildup to war against Iran. That is why I am raising a note of caution here. You have to see why we have three resolutions on the floor of the House dealing with Iran on the same day our President is before the United Nations making a statement which characterizes Iran in much the same way that Iraq was characterized before the United Nations in another visit by the President. I think we have to be very cautious about the path this country is taking.

We can stand for democracy and human rights in Iran. We can do all of those things without taking steps and letting our efforts, which might be in good faith, by the way, without letting those efforts be used as a buildup towards war. I am saying look at all of this in the context in which it is occurring.

Look at Time magazine this week and look at the stories that have been published in The New Yorker. Watch the development of the Iranian situation with respect to covert activities in Iran.

Madam Speaker, you might be interested to know that our House Subcommittee on Government Operations, which has jurisdiction over national security and international relations, were supposed to have a classified briefing by the State Department and by the Department of Defense on this forced exit of what is going on in Iran. They refused to allow us to attend. They still refuse to appear. They are not accountable to Congress. I am raising this issue so my colleagues know that you have to look at the context in which these resolutions are being offered.

Madam Speaker, I thank the gentleman from California for the opportunity to present these observations.

Mr. BLUMENAUER. Madam Speaker, I rise in support of H. Res. 942, recognizing the centennial anniversary on August 5, 2006, of the Iranian constitution of 1906. I, too, introduced are solution recognizing the 100th anniversary of the Iranian Constitutional Revolution at the same time as Mr. KING, H. Res. 967. The Iranian Constitutional Revolution was a pivotal event in Persian and Middle Eastern history. In the face of a corrupt and authoritarian Qajar monarchy, and in order to defend Persian interests against British and Russian imperialism, the Persian people rose up and in 1906, adopted a constitution containing basic democratic rights for the first time in Iranian history.

In this time that the United States faces very serious and perilous threats towards Iran, this historic event demonstrates that the Iranian people's long-standing desire for democratic self-government, free from authoritarian rule or foreign interference. I believe that understanding these values common to the Iranian and American peoples, as well as Iran's political history, will help us develop a constructive policy towards Iran. It is also an important sign of support for the Iranian people and our Iranian-American constituents.

Mr. LANTOS. Madam Speaker, we have no additional requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Madam Speaker, I also have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of our time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentlewoman from Florida (Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN) that the House suspend the rules and agree to the resolution, H. Res. 942.

The question was taken.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. In the opinion of the Chair, two-thirds of those present have voted in the affirmative.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 8 of rule XX and the Clerk's prior announcement, further proceedings on this question will be postponed.

EXPRESSING SENSE OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES THAT THE SOCIALIST REPUBLIC OF VIETNAM NEEDS TO DO MORE TO RESOLVE CLAIMS FOR CONFISCATED REAL AND PERSONAL PROPERTY.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Madam Speaker, whereas the people of the United States are firmly committed to freedom, democracy, and basic human rights for the citizens of the Socialist Republic of Vietnam; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That—

(1) The House of Representatives—

(A) welcomes recent attempts by the Government of the Socialist Republic of Vietnam to establish private land use rights for its citizens, and hopes that these rights are quickly expanded to encompass all Vietnamese citizens;

(B) calls on the Government of the Socialist Republic of Vietnam to more fully recognize its responsibility to provide equitable, prompt, and fair restitution of property that was confiscated by the government;

(C) calls on the Government of the Socialist Republic of Vietnam to direct local officials, particularly in the Highlands region, to promptly investigate and resolve complaints about discriminatory and uncompensated confiscation of land;

(D) urges the Government of the Socialist Republic of Vietnam to form a national commission; and

(E) strongly urges the Government of the Socialist Republic of Vietnam—

(i) to ensure that implementation of land use reforms by local officials does not result in increased inequity of land, particularly for the poor and those out of favor with the Communist Party; and
(ii) to ensure that the government provides fair, prompt, and equitable restitution to former landowners for the property rights of all confiscated lands; and

(2) it is the sense of the House of Representatives that—

(A) the President should specifically consider land use rights for individuals in determining bilateral policy toward Vietnam;

(B) the President should direct the Secretary of State to include, in the Secretary of State’s Annual Country Reports on Human Rights Practices submitted to the Congress under the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961, the status of land use rights and restitution claims in the Socialist Republic of Vietnam.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentlewoman from Florida (Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN) and the gentleman from California (Mr. LANTOS) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentlewoman from Florida, Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Madam Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days in which to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on the resolution under consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentlewoman from Florida?

There was no objection.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

House Resolution 415 expresses the sense of the House that the Socialist Republic of Vietnam needs to do more to resolve claims for confiscated real and personal property. This resolution notes the widespread confiscation of real and personal property that occurred during the establishment of the Socialist Republic of Vietnam as a one-party state led by the Vietnamese Communist Party.

Many individuals and entities, including the Catholic Church and the United Buddhist Church of Vietnam, still have not been adequately compensated for those extensive takings.

Unfortunately, property confiscation is not just a thing of the past. Earlier this year, the State Department noted reports that Vietnamese officials had forced some ethnic minority Protestants to leave their homes without adequate compensation, and that land was seized from other minorities and given to state-owned coffee and rubber plantations. These events underscore the continuing need for equitable restitution and better protection of property rights in Vietnam.

House Resolution 415 urges the Vietnamese Government to investigate confiscation complaints and to provide restitution. It also expresses the sense of the House that our President should consider these issues in determining whether Vietnam is a country of particular concern for religious freedom under the International Religious Freedom Act, and should include reporting on land rights and restitution issues in the annual Country Reports on Human Rights Practices.

We appreciate the efforts of this resolution’s lead sponsors, the gentlewoman from California (Ms. LORETTA SANCHEZ) and the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. BURTON), and we thank Chairman HYDE and the Committee on International Relations for moving this resolution forward.

Madam Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN, Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume, and I rise in strong support of this resolution.

I first want to commend my good friend and fellow Californian Ms. LORETTA SANCHEZ for introducing this resolution. Her leadership in Congress on matters related to Vietnam is deeply appreciated.

Since the fall of Saigon more than three decades ago, the Vietnamese Government has confiscated private property of thousands of Vietnamese families. Some of these Vietnamese have fled abroad, while others have continued to live under the repression of the Communist Party.

Sadly, the confiscation of private property by the Vietnamese Government is not a matter of ancient history. Many Vietnamese today complain that local authorities are confiscating their land through compensation and due process, and that these confiscations are being carried out in a singularly discriminatory fashion.

The Montagnards in Vietnam’s Central Highlands, many of whom are Christians, have been particularly subjected to land confiscations. Many Christian Montagnards have lost access to their ancestral lands, and they have been severely marginalized in an economic sense. In some cases, confiscated Montagnard land has been turned over to Vietnamese from lowland areas.

Madam Speaker, the Vietnamese Government has recently made efforts to improve its land reform policies. It is imperative that the government uses this process to end discriminatory land seizures and to ensure that everyone receives adequate compensation for their property.

I urge all of my colleagues to support this resolution.

Madam Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the author of this important resolution, my good friend from California (Ms. LORETTA SANCHEZ).

Ms. LORETTA SANCHEZ of California. Madam Speaker, I thank Mr. LANTOS for yielding me this time. I would also like to thank my original cosponsor, the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. BURTON), and Chairman HYDE, and all of the members of the Committee on International Relations who thought this was an important resolution, and who helped me bring it to the floor.

I introduced H. Res. 415 in June 2005 because we began to see a very big pattern of confiscation of land. Now, this had been happening in Vietnam since the fall of Saigon back in 1975 by the Socialist government. But we have seen it happen even more, and particularly to religious institutions and to minorities, including the Montagnards who live up in the highlands.

It is a growing concern, and illegal seizures of personal property from Vietnamese citizens and private organizations just shouldn’t be happening. Even though Article 23 of the Vietnamese Constitution provides property without compensation, this has not been enforced.

We must support the people within Vietnam who continue to fight for the right to keep their land. Believe me, they do. They have been demonstrating now for almost 6 months in front of the government buildings in Hanoi asking for land reform, asking to get their lands back. We need to make sure if their lands are taken and they are not gotten back, they should at least be compensated correctly for having them taken from them.

The government claims it is working to improve its human rights record. Well, this Congress can send a clear signal that it is what they are doing, and in order to show progress in the area of human rights, we are going to evaluate it step by step, and the first part is to end property seizures and to fairly compensate the families and organizations whose land has been unfairly taken.

Congress must be clear with the Government of Vietnam that promises alone are not satisfactory, and that implementation and enforcement are the real measures of this progress. As the President prepares to go to Vietnam, and as Vietnam is looking at entrance into WTO, and as we are looking at normal trade relations with Vietnam, I think it is incredibly important for them to remember how important human rights are here in the United States and for every citizen of the world.

I urge my colleagues to support the people of Vietnam and to send a clear message to the Government of Vietnam by voting for this resolution today.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Madam Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentlewoman from Texas (Ms. JACKSON-LEE).

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas asked as an original cosponsor permission to revise and extend her remarks.

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Madam Speaker, I rise to support the effort, the legislation and the work of Congresswoman SANCHEZ, who has worked on these issues for a very long time. I also thank the ranking member Mr. LANTOS and the manager Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN for their leadership on these issues.

It is interesting that now, with most of the world’s leaders at the United Nations, we would almost hope that they would accomplish something. Certainly that would mean to many of the nations that would be appearing there... that they would address some of the questions that have oppressed their citizens for years.

After the Vietnam War, we remain with a divided Vietnam, the North and South Vietnam; but over the years, this Congress and these administrations have moved more closely to try to develop alliances with the United States and North and South Vietnam, under the argument that engagement is responsible and it helps to promote democracy.

I would say that many of the Vietnamese in the Vietnamese community of the United States know that that is still a difficult road. Many are still fighting for family reunification, for the right to visit their families, or the right for their families to be reunited with them. Even though we move closer and closer to trade relationships, we still have harsh conditions in the Socialist Republic of Vietnam, and that has to do with the ongoing conflict for confined and confiscated property that has not been returned.

Unfortunately, as the one-party system was established under the Vietnamese Communist Party, uncompensated confiscation of real and personal property from Vietnamese citizens was widespread and there was no solution. Unfortunately, under this government, the confiscation of land as a tool of represssion against certain ethnic minorities continued, and it continues even today. Article 23 of the Constitution of the Socialist Republic of Vietnam provides that the lawful property of individuals and organizations shall not be nationalized.

So I rise today to ask that more attention be given to the providing of this property back to the rightful owners and that the government is asked by the world community to establish a private land use right for some of its citizens and also to establish a way to return this property. We, likewise, believe that this government should remove itself from engaging in repressive procedures that allow the right of private property ownership to exist in North Vietnam. We believe it is very important for tools to be put in place so that the rights of the people can be restored.

I hope in this time that the United Nations is gathered that issues dealing with individual rights of citizens and countries that are still repressive be become high on their agenda. We need to discuss Sudan. We need to discuss the rights of the people in Iran, and, certainly, Vietnam is one in particular.

So I join in support of H. Res. 415 and ask this Congress to support a strong statement being made to North Vietnam, this Congress of its citizens and the right for the return of private and personal property. This is a time that the statement should be made, but more importantly, this is a time for action.

Mr. LANTOS. Madam Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Madam Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the resolution, as amended, was agreed to.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

REQUESTING THE PRESIDENT TO ISSUE A PROCLAMATION CALLING FOR OBSERVANCE OF GLOBAL FAMILY DAY, ONE DAY OF PEACE AND SHARING

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Madam Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and agree to the resolution (H. Con. Res. 317) requesting the President to issue a proclamation annually calling upon the people of the United States to observe Global Family Day, One Day of Peace and Sharing, and for other purposes, as amended.

The Clerk read as follows:

H. Con. Res. 317

(Whereas the President in promoting appropriate actions to fight hunger, this day would encourage people worldwide to give to the poor and others in need; and that is the basic unit of a civil society. Whereas family is the basic structure of humanity; and, thus, we must all look to the stability and love within our individual families to create stability in the global community; and

Whereas family is the basic structure of humanity, thus, we must all look to the stability and love within our individual families to create stability in the global community:

Resolved by the House of Representatives (the Senate concurring), That Congress urgently requests the following:

1) The President issue a proclamation annually calling upon the people of the United States to observe Global Family Day, One Day of Peace and Sharing, a day which is dedicated—

(A) to eradicating violence, hunger, poverty, and suffering; and

(B) to establishing greater trust and fellowship among peace-loving nations and families everywhere.

2) That the President invite former Presidents of the United States, Nobel laureates, and other notables, including American business, labor, faith, and civic leaders, to join the President in promoting appropriate actions to fight hunger, this day would encourage people around the world to give to the poor and others in need; and that is the basic unit of a civil society.

Whereas, in the year 2005, the people of the world suffered many calamitous events, including devastating from tsunamis, terror attacks, war, famine, genocide, hurricanes, earthquakes, political and religious conflict, disease, poverty, and rioting, all necessitating global cooperation, compassion, and unity previously unprecedented among diverse cultures, faiths, and economic classes; and

Whereas grave global challenges in the year 2006 may require cooperation and innovative problem-solving among citizens and nations on an even greater scale; and

Whereas, on December 15, 2000, Congress adopted Senate Resolution 308, expressing the sense of Congress that the President of the United States should issue a proclamation each year calling upon the people of the United States to celebrate Global Family Day, One Day of Peace and Sharing, and for other purposes, as amended;

Whereas, in 2001, the United Nations General Assembly adopted Resolution 56/2, which invited “Member States, intergovernmental and non-governmental organizations and all the peoples of the world to celebrate One Day in Peace, 1 January 2002, and every year thereafter”;

Whereas many foreign heads of state have recognized the importance of establishing Global Family Day, a special day of international unity, peace, and sharing, on the first day of each year; and

Whereas family is the basic structure of humanity, thus, we must all look to the stability and love within our individual families to create stability in the global community:

Now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the House of Representatives (the Senate concurring), That Congress urges the President:

Today, Madam Speaker, we are considering House Concurrent Resolution 317, sponsored by my colleague Congressman CONCERNS recognizing that in order to implement these resolutions calling for peace and the alleviation of worldwide suffering, we must rely heavily on the family. It is the family that is the basic unit of a civil society. The family is where our values are learned and carried out. Stability and peace in the global community can only be accomplished one family at a time.

A special day where families worldwide can sit down to a meal and pledge... to work locally for peace and to end injustice in their own communities will no doubt have a worldwide impact.

I urge an “aye” vote, Madam Speaker.

Madam Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. LANTOS. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Madam Speaker, I rise in strong support of this resolution.

It would first like to commend my good friend and distinguished colleague, the ranking member of our Judiciary Committee, John Conyers, for introducing this resolution and for advocating on behalf of Global Family Day for many years. I would also like to thank Chairman Hyde for allowing this resolution to move to the floor.

Madam Speaker, this resolution is very simple and very important. It provides that the Nation should set aside a day dedicated to eradicating violence, hunger, poverty, and to establishing greater trust and fellowship among peace-loving nations and families everywhere.

As we commemorate the lives lost in the tragedy that occurred on September 11, 5 years ago, it is particularly fitting that the President designate a day for eradicating violence and embracing our common humanity.

Madam Speaker, I urge all of my colleagues to support this resolution.

Madam Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Madam Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. LANTOS. Madam Speaker, I am very pleased to yield such time as he may consume to the author of this resolution, my good friend and distinguished colleague from Michigan, Congressman Conyers.

Mr. CONYERS. Madam Speaker, I rise absolutely overjoyed at the action that has been taken by the Committee on International Relations. I begin by commending the distinguished chairman, Henry Hyde, a current member of the House Judiciary Committee, where he was once chairman; my dear friend from Florida, Subcommittee Chairwoman Ileana Ros-Lehtinen; and, of course, the esteemed Tom Lantos, the ranking member of the committee.

Ladies and gentlemen, I cannot tell you how thrilled I am to see a resolution come back to the floor for the observance of Global Family Day, One Day of Peace and Sharing. It has a long history that the gentlewoman from Florida remembers all the way back to the late Senator Paul Wellstone. And I join all of you as we in the Congress continue to search for a way to find peace in Iraq and Afghanistan, in every corner of the world.

There are widely divergent views about my purpose at peace; but most of all, we are deeply concerned about the subject. We have families, constituents, individuals who are longing for peace in the world and an end to the suffering caused by poverty, disease, and hunger. Untold numbers of our friends, neighbors, parents, children are hoping that there can be more understanding, more generosity, more genuine friendship and more caring among peoples and cultures.

We struggle with military strategies and budgets, economic considerations, and international issues.

But there is one matter which we can come together on, and this is House Concurrent Resolution 317, which calls on the United States to take upon the President to issue an annual proclamation calling upon the Nation’s citizens to observe Global Family Day. It has been done before in the year 2000, and we are so pleased that it is being done.

I would remind you that in 2001 following the tragedy of 9/11, the United Nations General Assembly took the same action. In more than 20 nations around the globe, the leaders of those countries noted this event and endorsed this initiative. And here in the Nation’s capital, Mayor Anthony Williams proclaimed just 2 months ago that January 1, 2007, would be a day for all Washingtonians to become peacemakers in whatever capacity they can.

Frequently, this took the role of people breaking bread with someone, some family of another faith, of another community, and the idea was to get to know one another better. It provides a way of saying to the world that we understand that it is the individuals, the 6.6 billion people on this planet, interacting with one another that will allow us to become a little closer together.

Again, my thanks to the floor leaders that have managed this.

Mr. KUCINICH. Madam Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. CONYERS. I yield to the gentleman from Ohio.

Mr. KUCINICH. Madam Speaker, I want to thank the gentleman for his work on this resolution, and I ask the gentleman with his consent that I could be added as an original cosponsor.

Mr. CONYERS. Yes. I thought that he was, but if he wasn’t, he is now.

Mr. McCaul. Madam Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. LANTOS. Madam Speaker, I am pleased to yield 4½ minutes to my friend and colleague from Texas, Sheila Jackson-Lee.

(Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas asked and was given permission to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Madam Speaker, let me thank my distinguished friend from California for his effort and his leadership, as well as my friend from Texas. Most of all, let me offer my great appreciation for Congressman Conyers and his service and his commitment and years of working on human rights and justice issues in the United States, as well as his friendship, as well as his collaboration on this legislation. I thank him for allowing me to be an original cosponsor for something as instructive and as insightful as this legislation is.

I am delighted to be joined with a number of cosponsors now, Mr. Kucinich as well.

And I rise today to applaud the concept, but also to say how vital and how important this idea is. We celebrate Thanksgiving and holidays around the Congress, as I do. I believe there is a need of the different faiths call that timeframe in their own faith a name. We have commemorations around the birth of Christ for Christians, and other faiths have their commemorations. We are different to promote peace, these are the original sponsors of the Department of Peace, offered by my good friend from Ohio, Mr. Kucinich. But I do not know if we realize how crucial it is in this day and time to have a Global Family Day, One Day of Peace and Sharing.

If you would take a journey with me back to New Orleans, reminding and remembering the horrificness of Hurricane Katrina and the time we spent just a few weeks ago, some 28 Democratic Members who traveled throughout the gulf region. We really want to see the improvement, to be able to shake hands and to see where people had moved from the devastation of 2005. But yet we found ongoing devastation.

We went down and we offered prayers as well as action. And it made me think more and more that we needed to be able to come together as families to address the question of hurricanes and earthquakes, famine and genocide. Because right here in the United States in the gulf region, there are still people who are homeless, not because they are not Americans who have contributed to this country, and veterans and people who have built their homes and raised their families, but because this government has failed to provide them with the resources necessary to go back to their homes, private insurance companies have not been able to provide them with relief to build their homes. One day of peace is the concept of being able to bring us together, not to forget those who are now hopeless sometimes and helpless, but to be able to say that we want to reunite families.

Then I want you to think of the child soldiers around the world. I thought maybe we had extinguished that. I offered legislation early in my career.
about the elimination or the lack of use of child soldiers by cutting some of the foreign relations funding. But yet child soldiers exist. They are still fighting in guerilla warfares around the world. Children who are barely 8 years old, 7 years old, 12 years old have their heads eliminated because they are now in guerilla warfare. We need this Global Family Day. One Day of Peace and Sharing.

Then, of course, the crisis in Sudan. I am urging the President, as he interacts with, again, the nation of families, to demand that the President of Sudan step aside to allow the African Union peace keepers to enter into their territory, to prevent the famine, the genocide, the brutality, the violence, the violence against women.

For those of us who have been in the Sudan, who have been in Chad where the refugees are, the stories are horrific. If you sit down on the dirt floor as I did the women of Sudan to tell you about how they are raped continuously when they simply go out to get wood, in order to provide fire in order to survive. This is a time now that the United Nations when the President can indeed, along with the General Assembly and the U.N. Security Council for the Sudan to step aside and the world family to condemn them.

And so this Global Family Day. One Day of Peace and Sharing that the President should call for the United States, should be that we pray for the peace and human rights of the people of Iran, for the troops to come home so that they can be redepoyed out of Iraq, and that the Iraqi Government can take their rightful place of leadership.

We pray for those in the gulf region who are now suffering. This resolution is so crucial, so vital, so important, because it is a day of action, because it is calling for action. All of us who are comfortable in our homes right now need to be aware that the world is in trouble.

But the United States, taking the high moral ground, has the opportunity, based upon this wonderful resolution, to be instructive and to gather its people around to ask for the freedom and peace and justice of the people in Sudan, freedom and human rights, and a new day in Iran and a standing down of any military violence by the United States against Iran.

And, as well, the redeployment of our troops out of Iraq, and the governance of the people of Iraq so that we can promote this Global Day of Peace and Sharing.

Madam Speaker, I rise today in support of H. Con. Res. 317: Requesting the President to issue this annual proclamation annually calling upon the people of the United States to observe Global Family Day, One Day of Peace and Sharing, and for other purposes.

Global Family Day originated from One Day Holiday, a day of peace and sharing together around the world and is the first major annual global event to annually celebrate the entire human family, its achievements, and its aspirations.

Global Family Day is an important and necessary day set aside to represent the unity of the human family. At a time of war, hatred, poverty, and friction within our international community, Global Family Day reminds us to remain hopeful, to weather the stormy seas, to look for peace in the midst of the tempest.

We need to demand, because we are indeed in the midst of a troubling time. In the United States alone, there is plenty to remind of us of the urgency of fighting many of our social maladies.

In 2000, 16.2 percent of persons in the United States under the age of 18 were considered poor.

In that same year, 11.7 million American children younger than 18 lived below the poverty line.

One out of every six American children (16.3 percent) was poor in 2001. More specifically, 30.2 percent of African-American children, 28 percent of Hispanic children, 11.5 percent of Asian and Pacific Islander children, and 9.5 percent of Non-Hispanic White children lived in poverty.

1 in 1,056 children will be killed by guns before the age of 20.

Children make up 12 percent of all crime victims reported to the police, including 71 percent of all sex crimes and 38 percent of all kidnapping victims.

Participation in the observance of Global Family Day is an important gesture of compassion. When we recognize Global Family Day, we support the idea of peace over war. When we recognize Global Family Day, we support the fight against poverty. When we recognize Global Family Day, we support world unity over ill-motivated antagonism.

As the leader of the free world, the United States must foster a sense of empathy, compassion, and brotherhood. We must join our brothers and sisters around the world to build hope at a time of doubt, to spread love and unity in a time of hate and division.

I urge my colleagues to support this resolution requesting the President to issue a proclamation annually calling upon the people of the United States to observe Global Family Day, One Day of Peace and Sharing, and other purposes.

Mr. McCaul of Texas. Madam Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. LANTOS. Madam Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. KUCINICH).

Mr. KUCINICH. Madam Speaker, I want to thank the gentleman from California for yielding me time.

Mr. DAVIS of Illinois. Madam Speaker, I yield back the balance of our time.

Mr. LANTOS. Madam Speaker, I yield the balance of my time.

CONDEMNING HUMAN RIGHTS ABUSES BY THE GOVERNMENT OF IRAN AND EXPRESSING SOLIDARITY WITH THE IRANIAN PEOPLE

Mr. McCaul of Texas. Madam Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and agree to the resolution (H. Res. 976) condemning human rights abuses by the Government of the Islamic Republic of Iran and expressing solidarity with the Iranian people.

The Clerk read as follows:

H. Res. 976

Whereas the Government of the Islamic Republic of Iran was elected through a controlled and fixed election process which does not allow the Iranian people to freely elect their leaders;

Whereas the Government of Iran is accountable to the will of the Iranian people;

Whereas the Government of Iran is a party to the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights, the International Covenant on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights and the International Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Racial Discrimination;

Whereas the Government of Iran within both its legal framework and everyday practices considers the civil and human rights of its citizens, in particular women, religious and ethnic minorities, and vocal opponents of the regime;

Whereas the Government of Iran practices discrimination against the aforementioned groups through denial of access to education and employment, seizure of private property, violent suppression of peaceful protest and freedom of assembly, arbitrary arrest and detention, physical and mental torture, cruel, inhuman, and degrading punishment, such as public floggings, hanging, and stoning, and extra-judicial killings of dissidents and ordinary citizens;

Whereas the Constitution of Iran promotes religious intolerance and prohibits religious freedom by endorsing one religion to the exclusion of other religious beliefs;

Whereas an unelected theocratic ruler and clerical elite exert control over the executive, legislative, and judicial branches of the Iranian Government;

Whereas the Iranian judiciary is not independent and can be subject to arbitrary dismissal by the clerics;

Whereas on December 16, 2005, the United Nations General Assembly passed a resolution discussing the human rights violations by the Government of Iran and insisting that Iran eliminate in law and in practice discrimination toward the aforementioned groups;

Whereas international human rights organizations have called for investigations into violent crackdowns of peaceful protests and other violations which the Government of Iran has ignored;

Whereas Iran sent to the June 2006 inaugural meetings of the United Nations Human Rights Council Saeed Mortazavi, Tehran’s Prosecutor General responsible for jailing hundreds of journalists and linked to the 2003 arrest, imprisonment, and murder of an Iranian-Canadian photojournalist, showing a blatant disregard for the issue of human rights reform;

Whereas the Department of State’s Country Report on Human Rights Practices and Report on International Religious Freedom document the human rights abuses by the Government of Iran and list Iran as a “Country of Particular Concern”; Therefore, now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the House of Representa-

(1) condemns the human rights abuses perpetrated by the Government of the Islamic Republic of Iran and strongly urges the international community to increase pressure on Iran to halt discrimination and violence toward its citizens, in particular women, religious and ethnic minorities, and vocal opponents of the regime;

(2) urges the United States to continue to pressure the Government of Iran into making measurable improvements in the human rights situation for the Iranian people; and

(3) expresses its unity with all Iranian people and shares their desire to see Iran become a free country with transparent, democratic institutions and equal rights for all.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from Texas (Mr. McCaul) and the gentleman from California (Mr. Lantos) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Texas.

General Ljave

Mr. McCaul of Texas. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Madam Speaker, I rise today in support of freedom for the Iranian people, and I want to thank Congressman Crowley and Congressman Lantos for their efforts on this resolution. I want to thank Chairwoman Ros-Lehtinen for her tireless efforts to see Iran become a free and democratic state.

For nearly 30 years, Iranians have lived under the extremist policies of religious clerics. Their human rights violations against the Iranian people defy common belief. The Iranian people deserve, indeed desire, the opportunity to live in a free and democratic society.

This is the dream of the vast majority of Iranians, and we should help them make this dream come true. It has been far too long since we have looked at the human rights record of one of the most evil regimes of the modern era. We know that Iran is the single largest state sponsor of terrorism in the world. And we know that their leaders wish to continue inflicting terrible pain and suffering on any group of people who do not share their extremist beliefs.

However, we must also remember the pain and suffering of the Iranian people at the hands of their leaders. Congress, the President, and the international community must address the excessive human rights abuses by Iran’s Government. Since the Khomeini revolution in 1979, Iran has been ruled by a string of tyrants who use religion and politics as an excuse to persecute their own people.

Religious, ethnic, and gender discrimination are practiced every day by the Iranian judicial courts and the clerics who run them. People or groups critical to their goals are given few rights under the law and no rights in practice.

The Government of Iran practices discrimination against its own people by denial of access to education and employment, seizure of private property, violent suppression of peaceful protest and freedom of assembly, arbitrary arrest and detention, physical and mental torture, cruel, inhuman and degrading punishment such as public floggings, hangings, and stonings, and extra-judicial killings of dissidents and ordinary citizens.

Iran’s clerical regime has been a serial abuser of human rights since it violently took over the country in 1979. But it is clear that since President Ahmadinejad took power, the abuse of Iranian citizens has increased. Under his rule, Iranians are tortured for simply practicing a different religion, for speaking a different idea, and even for not supporting the extremist mullahs.

The oppression of women under the Iranian regime is perhaps the most brutal and most offensive. Iranian women are not allowed to attend universities, to hold jobs, to drive a car. They are forced to cover their entire bodies in public. In many cases of rape, the accused man will not face any punishment, and the woman in question will be accused of fornication, will be imprisoned, and eventually put to death.

One case involved a young woman who was deeply in love with her husband, and without evidence or reason, and against the pleas of her own husband, was found guilty of adultery. She was buried alive up to her chest in Tehran and then stoned to death.

In other cases of abuse, people have been arrested, beaten, and even killed for eating during the month of Ramadan, or doing anything that the mullahs deemed inappropriate. According to Iranian law, the religious police can interrogate a suspect without a lawyer present, which allows them to beat prisoners until they confess, most often to a crime that they did not commit.

We must never forget these violations when we consider Iran’s place in the international community. President Bush has attempted to engage the Iranian Government to end their illegal nuclear weapons program. This effort is crucial to keeping the world safe from a nuclear nightmare.
However, the effort must not end there. The United States and its allies must continue to pressure Iran to end the severe human rights violations against the Iranian people.

It is appropriate for us to raise this issue today. This evening the President of Iran will address the world from the floor of the United Nations. His pleas and support of a nuclear Iran will fall on deaf ears. His continued defiance of U.N. Security Council resolutions and the international community must begin the process of isolating the Iranian regime until true reform in that country begins.

Human decency requires us to stand unapologetically against Ahmadinejad’s oppression of his own people. We must continue to pursue freedom for Iran through diplomacy, but we must also not shrink from our responsibility through the option of strength.

We must end the policy of internal resistance and change from within Iran. The policies and extremist views of Iran’s religious mullahs are not representative of the entire nation of Iran. There are many Iranian people who do not live in fear and are willing to fight for it. I have met with them, and we should do everything we can to forward their cause.

Now is the time to save their countries, for them to save their own countries, for them to save their own societies and for them to save their own religion. I would like to leave with a few powerful stories of Iranian citizens who were persecuted against and who died at the hands of their own government. The first involved an innocent Iranian girl. The religious police will not even respect the private boundaries of the home. A religious police was even involved an innocent Iranian girl. The religious police will not even respect the private boundaries of the home. A religious police fenced in a neighbor, from whose house she could be seen. She was sentenced to 60 lashes, but she died after the 30th lash.

And then there was an Iranian photographer in 2003. A single mother, she had struggled to raise a child and to build a career in exile. Her son remembers her as a small but feisty and courageous woman who loved freedom. She left her son for a business trip to Iran and Afghanistan. She was arrested while photographing a group of people inquiring about their detained loved ones. She was interrogated and beaten to be silenced. She died in a military hospital in Tehran as a result of her torture.

Another case involved a 52-year-old Iranian salesman, 1998. He believed in democracy. He, too, was arrested and found guilty of converting a woman to his religion. He was eventually hanged in a public square on July 21, 1998.

These are just a few stories that highlight the need for this important resolution, and I strongly urge my colleagues to support this resolution.

Madam Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. LANTOS. Madam Speaker, I rise in strong support of this resolution. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I first would like to commend my good friend and distinguished colleague from Texas for introducing this important resolution and for his powerful and eloquent words.

This body has regularly condemned Iran for its nuclear program, which is clearly designed to build weapons of mass destruction. We have condemned Iran for its support of terrorism and other aggressions. But for far too long we have not adequately called attention to the broad range of horrific human rights violations practiced by the Islamist Republic of Iran.

In fact, Madam Speaker, Iran is among the world’s leading human rights abusers. It is morally incumbent upon us to affirm our commitment to support the victims of Iran’s repression and to express our sympathy for the Iranian people’s desperate desire for freedom. That is exactly what this resolution does.

Madam Speaker, I believe we all are familiar with many aspects of Iranian repression, the authoritarian, intolerant, theocratic state, and the Iranians are at the mercy of a cynical, self-indulgent clerical elite, whose extremist views do not even reflect those of the majority of Iranian clergy.

We all know how Iran treats religious minorities, most infamously the Baha’is, and we all know that Iran represses democratic dissent, cooks the elections to make sure that the winners are theocrats unrepresentative of the will of the Iranian people.

But perhaps nothing more eloquently expresses Iran’s cynicism about human rights than Iran’s willingness to sign and maintain agreements committing itself to adhere to international human rights standards while, in practice, scorning those very standards. Presumably the Iranian regime thinks it can fool us by signing documents.

In that regard, Madam Speaker, Iran’s attitude towards its human rights obligations and its nuclear obligations are two sides of the same coin. Tehran takes neither set of commitments seriously.

By supporting this resolution, we will send a skyrocket message to the Iranian regime and to the Iranian people that we see through the regime’s veil of cynicism, that we will keep the pressure on the Iranian regime to cease its repression, and that we look forward to the day when Iran will join the ranks of democratic, human-rights-respecting, laic states. We will not cease to believe in the good will and democratic inclinations of the vast majority of the Iranian people.

Madam Speaker, I urge all of my colleagues to support this resolution.

Madam Speaker, I am pleased to yield to my friend from Ohio as much time as he might consume.

Mr. KUCINICH. Once again, I am grateful to the gentleman from California for the opportunity to offer a slightly different perspective. While I continue to associate myself with my good friend Mr. LANTOS in the celebration of the imperative of human rights globally, I have spoken about the tenor of this resolution and its relationship to the administration’s policy of ramping up for a war against Iran.

Again, I want to state that this is the third resolution that has been brought before this House this evening. You have to read it in the context of administration actions, which have been documented in published reports, that relate to an attempt to interfere in the internal affairs of Iran by sending elements of the Department of Defense inside of Iranian territory: number two, by planning a bombing, targets inside Iran; number three, by planning a naval blockade in the Strait of Hormuz where 40 percent of the world’s oil flows through.

We have to look at this in a broader context of an administrative foreign policy, which is really aimed at creating not stability, but instability in the region. You can look at the July 2006 Vanity Fair article, which goes into detail about the unfortunate administrative and fornicacy escapade of tricking up a case for uranium from Niger with respect to Iraq. One of the administration’s key advisers in that article basically made the case: ‘In 1951, under Mossadegh, Iran sought to nationalize its oil industry. That then resulted in a draft resolution submitted to the United Nations by the United Kingdom, and supported by the United States and France, as depicting Iran then as a threat to international peace and security.

Then we saw a coup d’etat that was organized by the U.S. and the U.K. Yes, we ought to stand for democracy. We ought to also stand for truth with respect to the historical unfolding of what we say we stand for.

Where does this resolution lead? Does it lead to a continued insistence that the Government of Iran restore human rights to everyone in Iran? If it does, wonderful. We all ought to go along with that. But if his resolution is just another brick on a path towards war, look out. This looks like Iraq all over again, and that is what my concern is.

If this resolution sets us on a path to war, many of us in the Congress, are prepared to see this administration borrow money from China and Japan to go to war against Iran, as they have borrowed money from China and Japan to go to war against Iraq? We have to look at what we are doing here.

While this resolution, I am sure, will pass overwhelmingly, we have to see that circumstances are being set in order which could lead us towards a path of war against Iran. We have to ask ourselves, is that what we really want?

I can stand here with my colleagues and say, absolutely, I support the religious freedom of the Baha’i. I do. Absolutely, I support human rights for all people in Iran, and I do. Absolutely. I support democratic principles in Iran and every other country in the world, and I do.

But I am not for war against Iran. I don’t believe the American people want war against Iran. I don’t think they wanted war against Iraq, but they were dragged into it.

I am just offering these remarks as a cautionary note to make sure that we have our eyes open as we walk in the days ahead with respect to policy and Iran. Yes, we need to make sure that Iran is not destroying its atomic energy. We have an obligation to do that.

But, in conclusion, Mr. Speaker, I maintain that we should begin first with direct negotiations with Iran. Second, we should assure Iran that we are not going to attack it. Third, we should demand that Iran open itself up to inspections once again by the IAEA.

Fourth, we need assurances, and they are fair, that Iran is not going to be developing nuclear weapons.

There is a way out of this, and I am hopeful that in this stand for human rights, we are not paradoxically beginning a process that would deprive millions of Iranians of their human right to life.

I thank the gentleman from California for his friendship and also for his willingness to see debate in this House of the people. You have always done that, Mr. LANTOS. Whether we agree or not, you have always been willing to see debate continue.

Mr. LANTOS. I thank my friend for his generous words.

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to support H. Res. 976, condemning human rights abuses by the Government of the Islamic Republic of Iran and expressing solidarity with the Iranian people.

It is astonishing that the Iranian government denies that there is a human rights issue in the country. The Iranian government suppresses free expression of opinion and persecutes individuals for peaceful expression of their political views. Iran is constantly cited and criticized by our Department of State, Amnesty International, and many other human rights watch groups for its human rights record.

I have long been an advocate of a free, independent, and democratic Iran; an Iran that honors its commitments in the world community. There is no dissent in the world community about the inherent dangers of nuclear proliferation in the region.

For years, I have been a supporter of the democratic movement in Iran, and today more than ever, the people of Iran need to be supported, empowered, and given the confidence to create for themselves a new nation. Wars and appeasements are temporary actions, and not even close to a solution.

The only effective way to achieve a lasting peace and prosperity in the region is to support the Iranian people who seek democracy, women, and children in their endeavors to make Iran a democratic state.

Democracy is a struggle, but democracy is just. No one should experience the terror of a government that would torture or kill its own. Iran is not a country that gleefully thwarts international peace treaties and human rights conventions.

This bipartisan bill sends a very clear message that any government that oppresses its people will not be tolerated, and a smug tyranny is not acceptable. I urge my colleagues to support this measure.

May we all soon see peace and stability return to all of the Middle East.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of H. Res. 976, introduced by my colleague, Mr. COLE of Texas. H. Res. 976, Condemns human rights abuses by the Government of the Islamic Republic of Iran and expresses solidarity with the Iranian people.

The resolution notes the injustices inflicted upon the people of Iran by an unaccountable government against their will.

It urges the President and the international community to increase pressure on the Iranian government to improve its human rights situation and expresses unity with the Iranian people.

The recent untimely deaths of two political prisoners, reinforces the urgency that Iran free all prisoners of conscience.

The incarceration of student and political opposition activists is a form of intellectual terrorism that seriously undermines indigenous democratic reform.

In addition, the recent decision by the Iranian government to outlaw the Center for Defense of Human Rights, which was established by the first Muslim Woman Nobel Laureate, Shirin Ebadi, and to revoke its post revolutionary constitution.

Mr. Speaker, this resolution is an opportunity for the American people to convey to the Iranian people that we support their efforts to bring freedom to their nation.

As a co-sponsor of this measure and strong advocate for the right of every human being—every Iranian—to live free from intimidation and be able to exercise their fundamental rights, I ask that we render our strong support for this resolution.

Mr. LANTOS. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. MCCaul of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. GOMERT). The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Texas (Mr. McCaul) that the House suspend the rules and agree to the resolution, H. Res. 976.

The question was taken.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. In the opinion of the Chair, two-thirds of those present have voted in the affirmative.

Mr. LANTOS. Mr. Speaker, on that I demand the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

RECOGNIZING AND SUPPORTING THE SUCCESS OF THE ADOPTION AND SAFE FAMILIES ACT OF 1997

Mr. CAMP of Michigan. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and agree to the resolution (H. Res. 969) recognizing and supporting the success of the Adoption and Safe Families Act of 1997 in increasing adoption and the efforts the Act has spurred including National Adoption Day and National Adoption Month, and encouraging adoption throughout the year.

The Clerk read as follows:

H. Res. 969

Whereas since the passage of the Adoption and Safe Families Act of 1997, the number of children adopted from foster care has increased significantly, with approximately 51,000 children adopted from foster care in fiscal year 2004 alone;

Whereas despite this remarkable progress, approximately 183,000 children remain in the United States foster care system are waiting to be adopted, and 49 percent of these children are at least nine years old;

Whereas adoptive families make an important difference in the lives of the children they adopt by providing a stable, nurturing environment for those children;

Whereas National Adoption Awareness Month, also known as National Adoption Month, is a collective national effort to find permanent, loving families for children in foster care;

Whereas both National Adoption Day and National Adoption Month are in November;

Whereas the Department of Health and Human Services launched a series of public service announcements promoting the adoption of children eight and older in 2002;

Whereas more than 6,000 children have been placed into adoptive homes since the Department of Health and Human Services launched www.adoption.gov, a national photo listing service for children awaiting adoption across the United States;

Whereas judges, attorneys, adoption professionals, child welfare agencies, and child advocates in 45 States and the District of Columbia participated in 227 events in conjunction with National Adoption Day in 2005; and

Whereas these events finalized the adoptions of more than 3,300 children from foster care; Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives—

(1) recognizes and supports the success of the Adoption and Safe Families Act of 1997 and of the efforts it has spurred;

(2) recognizes and supports the goals and ideals of National Adoption Day and National Adoption Month; and

(3) encourages adoption throughout the year.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. CAMP) and the gentleman from North Dakota (Mr. Pommeroy) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. CAMP).

Mr. CAMP of Michigan. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.
Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of H. Res. 959, a resolution that recognizes the successes of the landmark Adoption and Safe Families Act and honors National Adoption Day and Month. I was proud to introduce this resolution and the Adoption and Safe Families Act, today.

The work of Congress over the past decade has led to dramatic improvements for children in the foster care system. In fact, since 1997, the number of children adopted from foster care has increased significantly, from 28,000 in 1998 to 51,000 in 2004. I have been pleased to work with my colleagues to refocus Federal child welfare programs, to ensure the best interests of children are first. The way to make that happen is to place children in safe, permanent loving homes. That is why National Adoption Day and Month are so important.

This year, National Adoption Day will take place on November 18, 2006, and it will feature ceremonies for children around the country to highlight adoptions. Last year, over 227 events were held in 45 States, which finalized the adoption of 3,300 children.

I have been honored to participate in these events for several years. To be part of such a special occasion reinforces the need for further efforts to move children into adoptive homes. I would like to applaud the Department of Health and Human Services for its efforts in this area. In 2002, HHS launched a series of public service announcements promoting the adoption of children eight and older and activated the Web site www.adoptUSkids.com. This Web site has helped move 6,000 children into adoptive homes.

The consideration of this resolution today is timely. Tomorrow, the Congressional Coalition on Adoption Institute will be holding its annual Angels in Adoption gala in recognition of their extraordinary commitment to children that have been brought into their families. I want to tell about the North Dakota family of Pat and Michelle Beyer. They are in town this week. They have quite a story, like each and every family I have honored at the Angels in Adoption gala.

Pat is a North Dakota National Guardsman. He is on leave from his service in Iraq. At home, Michelle is raising two naturally born children, three adopted children, each of whom have some special needs, and this wonderful loving couple is now proceeding with the adoption of yet another child with special needs.

Mr. Speaker, your heart goes out to people like Pat and Michelle. As I reflect, I believe, the very best of goodwill and compassion in our country. I am so proud of them.

Even as I speak about what they have done to make their home available to children and what we recognize with the adopted families everywhere in terms of the homes they create for children, the fundamental and profound truth of adoption, in my view, is that the parents benefit far more than they possibly could have imagined in the beginning. I know a little bit about what I am talking about on this score. These are my children, Kathryn and Scott, adopted from Korea, the best thing that ever happened to me. So I care just enormously about this resolution.

I also want to for a moment congratulate my colleague DAVE CAMP for his role in the passage of what has been a very important piece of legislation to encourage and move adoption forward. In 2002, he was very well 10 years ago with C-SPAN on in my office hearing floor debate about a proposal that was precisely something that had been worrying me for months, because I had been told in North Dakota by judges that things were out of whack, that in this business of evaluating children in foster care, the best interests of the child were being hopelessly confused and sometimes placed secondary to the goal of family reunification of completely dysfunctional families.

Now, maybe Congress had a role in its earlier legislation in giving some confusion out there to the social services system, but there was one thing we knew, and we knew very clearly, to save a life, Republican, Democrat, and I also commend Barbara Kennelly, the lead cosponsor on the legislation, and that was the put the best interests of the children first, foremost, exclusively, only. We wanted nothing more than to advance the interests of the children.

The legislation strengthened that out, and made no bones about it, and then placed substantial expectations on the system with defined time limits on children, with just kicked down the road without end in interim foster care arrangements. We wanted them moved out of those arrangements and into permanent adoptive status, to the extent we possibly could.

You know, there are a lot of things we do here, and we sure mean the best as we do them, and we don’t always know how they work. Well, the jury is in on this one, and this act has worked. I think it’s even better than I had hoped it might.

The number of children annually adopted out of the foster care system has nearly doubled, from 27,000 in 1996 to 52,000 in 2004. The North Dakota situation I had been worrying about, we have gone from 41 adopted in 1996 to 128 in 2004. We tripled.

So, again, David Camp, as I told you that day in debate, you have got a real fine piece of work here, and I again applaud you for the leadership you have played in such an important bill.

Another aspect of this bill, in addition to the time expectation put forward by Congress, we actually put some money on the table as positive incentives for States that really took the charge to move children into permanent adoptive homes. We have paid out more than $200 million to States since that legislation. I think it has without question proven to be an extremely effective and cost-effective use of taxpayer dollars. It is a reminder and something I think we need to keep in mind as we look at what else we can do that the carrot needs to go along with the stick.

Another positive bill we passed in advancing legislation is moving the tax credit for adoption expenses into law and then increasing it so it more appropriately reflects expenses incurred by a family in seeking to adopt.

I have got to experience the miracle of adoption in my life, but I don’t think that in any way you have to have some kind of financial status to experience this miracle. We want everybody
Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. CAMP of Michigan. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from North Dakota for comments, a distinguished member of the Ways and Means Committee.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentlewoman from Florida (Ms. GINNY BROWN-WAITE).

Ms. GINNY BROWN-WAITE of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in support of this resolution. The Adoption and Safe Families Act of 1997 has proven itself instrumental in increasing adoption in every month of the year. The legislation made it easier to adopt children across State lines, and it also provided some financial incentives to States to improve their foster care systems.

Prior to adoption of the bill, the number of children in foster care and the length of time that they spent in foster care was rapidly increasing. In just two decades prior to the mid-1990s, the number of children in the foster care system more than doubled. The crisis was threatening to overwhelm various State social services departments. More importantly, it was brutally unfair to hundreds and thousands of children.

However, since passage of the bill in 1997, the number of children adopted out of foster care has actually increased by some 65 percent. In 1996, only 31,000 children were adopted. By 2004, that number rose to 51,000. It is a start. We certainly need to have more adoptive families out there.

Moreover, not only are more children being adopted, but they are also spending less time in the foster care system. However, this Congress must not forget that hundreds of thousands of children still remain in the foster care system and much still remains to be done. This year alone, those older foster care children, some 19,000, will age out of the foster care system. Additionally, one in five children will still languish in foster care for more than 5 years.

I am a board member of the Congressional Coalition on Adoption Institutes, and it is a very, very worthwhile group out there to promote foster parent, good foster parents, as well as adoption.

I have two beautiful children I gave birth to and one child that I adopted. She was an older, hard-to-place child, and usually in the adoption system the older children, especially someone designated as hard to place, are the last ones to be adopted.

I certainly hope that this resolution will shine some light on the need for more people to step forward and consider adoption of children of all ages. In my heart of hearts, I have a very special place for my adoptive daughter who is now an adult. This was a special needs child. They do require more time, they require more love and certainly a lot of structure, and with that plan, they can become very productive members of society.

We must build upon the success of the Adoption and Safe Families Act of 1997 by continuing to raise awareness about foster youth and adoption.

Mr. POMEROY. Mr. Speaker, I commend the preceding speaker, our colleague, for the personal commitment she has made in this area. She has indicated, and I yield 4 minutes to the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. DAVIS).

Mr. DAVIS of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, I want to thank the gentleman for yielding.

First, I want to commend him and Mr. CAMP for their outstanding leadership and the passion with which they display relative to this issue and their personal involvement.

Mr. Speaker, I rise to recognize the significance of the Adoption and Safe Families Act of 1997. ASFSA provided sweeping changes in Federal child welfare law designed to ensure children’s safety and to quicken permanent placements in the event that a child could not return home.

By enacting the Adoption and Safe Families Act of 1997, Congress recognized the need to align Federal incentives with the desired goal of providing abused and neglected children, permanent homes. This law also helped move States to promote adoption and has helped moved children into permanent homes.

In praising ASFSA, I want to take a moment to highlight the need to develop similar policies to promote permanency more broadly. ASFSA has done much to promote adoption, but policymakers should extend ASFSA’s successes to other areas of permanency to address the needs of hundreds of thousands of children for whom adoption is not the solution.

Using ASFSA as a model, the bipartisan Pew Commission on Children in Foster Care recommended that Federal policies create subsidized guardianship programs and State incentives to promote permanency more broadly, be it via reunification, adoption or guardianship.

Also, we must use our understanding of the implementation of ASFSA to make it better. I am particularly concerned about the over 29,000 children who have entered our child welfare system due to parental incarceration, most often from nonviolent acts. The policies set forth in ASFSA do not align well with those of the criminal justice system, leading to a permanent separation of many children from their parents and family.

I encourage my colleagues to consult the wonderful policy brief by the Brennan Center for Justice at the New York University School of Law on the topic, “Rebuilding Families, Reclaiming Lives,” draws attention to hurdles created by the Federal policies with regard to children of incarcerated parents. It also offers policy recommendations to promote stability and well-being for the children.

Mr. Speaker, I also take this opportunity to commend the One-Family, One Child program in Illinois, who are indeed going to be here for the Angels in Adoption gala. They have developed a unique program of recruiting families to become foster parents to children coming out of institutional institutions. I commend them for that outstanding work and note Reverend Parks, Reverend Nelson and Ms. Hunt who have developed a fantastic program with the other members of their board.

Again, I commend the gentlemen for their outstanding work on this issue.

Mr. HERGER. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in strong support of H. Res. 959, which recognizes and supports the success of the Adoption and Safe Families Act of 1997 in increasing adoptions. I would like to thank the gentleman from Michigan, Mr. CAMP, for introducing this resolution and for his work to enact legislation to improve the lives of abused and neglected children.

The number of children adopted from our nation’s foster care system has substantially increased since enactment of the Adoption and Safe Families Act from 31,000 in 1997 to over 51,000 in 2004. I applaud the judges, attorneys, state officials, and other adoption professionals who have worked tirelessly to move foster children more quickly into permanent, loving families.

National Adoption Day in November 2005 finalized the adoptions of more than 3,300 children from foster care and I hope the November 2006 National Adoption Day is even more successful.

There are currently 118,000 foster children available for adoption and we must do more to find them loving families. Almost half of these children are aged 5 or more at risk of spending their entire childhood in foster care and aging out of the system without a permanent home. In 2003, President Bush signed the Adoption Promotion Act, which extended the availability of adoption incentive payments to the States while promoting the adoption of older children. We will continue to support policies that ensure children who cannot be safely reunified with their parents are moved quickly into permanent, adoptive homes.

I also wish to recognize the many talented and hardworking staff at the Department of Health and Human Services for their outstanding work in this area. More than 6,000 children are placed in adoptive homes since the launch of www.adoptuskids.org, a website which connects families with waiting children. We must do more to help connect would-be adoptive parents with these children to ensure every child grows up in a safe, loving family.

I again wish to thank the gentleman from Michigan for introducing this resolution. I'd like to personally thank the many child welfare professionals and most importantly all the adoptive families across America who have made a permanent commitment to improve the lives of these vulnerable children. They are the real heroes behind the many improvements we have seen in recent years.

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to support H. Res. 959 recognizing and supporting the success of the Adoption and Safe Families Act of 1997 in increasing adoption and the efforts the Act has spurred including National Adoption Day, National Adoption Month, and encouraging adoption throughout the year.

As the Chair of the Congressional Children’s Caucus, I especially understand the importance of providing a stable, safe, loving home for all of our children. Under the Adoption and Safe Families Act of 1997, the number of children adopted from foster care has increased significantly, with approximately 51,000 children from foster care in fiscal year 2004 alone.

This progress must be recognized, yet we know that there is much more work to be done to ensure that every child has a safe, permanent and loving home. On a daily basis, in America, children enter the foster care system as victims of abuse, neglect or abandonment. Most of them will wait at least five years before being adopted. Siblings will be separated from each other and most will have moved at least three times before being adopted. It is currently a fact that one in five children will never be adopted, and will be forced out of the foster care system at the age of 18 with little or no family support.

Modeling the successes of the Adoption and Safe Families Act and National Adoption Day, states have significantly increased adoptions from foster care. National Adoption Day inspires a collective national effort to raise awareness to the 119,000 children in foster care awaiting permanent, loving families. For the last six years, National Adoption Day has seen the dreams of thousands of children come true by working with courts, judges, and attorneys to finalize adoptions and find permanent, loving homes for foster care children.

Let me add that I hope that before we recess, we may have the opportunity to make a further statement with H.R. 1704, Second Chance Act. This important legislation authorizes, rewrites, and expands crucial provisions regarding adult and juvenile offender re-entry demonstration projects, in order to address issues of recidivism and the effects of the criminal justice system and child welfare services.

The welfare of children must continue to be a priority for all Americans. Every child deserves a warm, safe, stable home environment. It is imperative that we support and recognize the success of the Adoption and Safe Families Act of 1997 of increasing adoption of foster care children. Because children are the future, we must support them in the present. I urge my colleagues to support this important resolution.

Mr. POMEROY. Mr. Speaker, seeing no other speakers, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. CAMP of Michigan. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. CAMP) that the House suspend the rules and agree to the resolution, H. Res. 959.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the resolution was agreed to.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

STUDENT AND TEACHER SAFETY ACT OF 2006

Mr. KUHL of New York. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the bill (H.R. 5295) to protect students and teachers, as amended.

The Clerk reads as follows:

H.R. 5295

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled.

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the “Student and Teacher Safety Act of 2006”.

SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

Congress finds the following:

(1) The United States Department of Education’s National Center for Education Statistics reported in the 2005 Indicators of School Crime and Safety that in 2003 seventeen percent of students in grades 9-12 reported they carried a weapon. Six percent reported having carried a weapon on school grounds.

(2) The same survey reported that 29 percent of all students in grades 9-12 reported that someone offered, sold, or gave them an illegal drug on school property within the last 12 months.

(3) The United States Constitution’s Fourth Amendment guarantees “the right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures.”

(4) That while the Supreme Court affirmed the Fourth Amendment’s application to students in public schools in New Jersey vs. TLO (1985), the Court held that searches of students by school officials do not require warrants issued by judges showing probable cause. The Court will ordinarily hold that such a search is permissible if:

(A) there are reasonable grounds for suspecting the search will reveal evidence that the student violated the law or school rules; and

(B) the measures used to conduct the search are reasonably related to the search’s objectives, without being excessively intrusive in light of the student’s age, sex, and nature of the offense.

(5) The Supreme Court held in Board of Education of Independent Sch. Dist. 92 of Putnamatomie County vs. Earls (2002) that randomly drug tests of students who were participating in extracurricular activities was reasonable and did not violate the Fourth Amendment. The Court stated that such search policies effectively serve the School Districts interest in protecting its students’ health and safety.

SEC. 3. SEARCHES BASED ON REASONABLE SUSPICION.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Each local educational agency shall have in effect throughout the district a policy that ensures that a search described in subsection (b) is deemed reasonable and permissible.

(b) SEARCHES COVERED.—A search referred to in subsection (a) is a search by a full-time teacher or school official, acting on any reasonable suspicion based on professional experience and judgment, of any minor student on grounds of any public school, if the search is conducted to ensure that classrooms, school buildings, school property and students remain free from the threat of all weapons, dangerous materials, or illegal narcotics. The measures used to conduct any search must be reasonably related to the search’s objectives, without being excessively intrusive in light of the student’s age, sex, and the nature of the offense.

SEC. 4. ENCOURAGEMENT TO PROTECT STUDENTS AND TEACHERS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—A local educational agency that fails to comply with section 3 shall not, during the period of noncompliance, receive any Safe and Drug Free School funds after fiscal year 2008.

DEFINITION.—In this section, the term “Safe and Drug Free School funds” includes any funds under Part A of Title IV of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from New York (Mr. KUHL) and the gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from New York.

Mr. KUHL of New York. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members have 5 legislative days in which to revise and extend their remarks on H.R. 5295.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from New York?

There was no objection.

Mr. KUHL of New York. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

It gives me great pleasure to rise in support of H.R. 5295, the Student and Teacher Safety Act of 2006, of which I am a cosponsor. This bill is designed to help schools take actions to keep students and property safe from harm and destruction.

We have an obligation to make the learning environment in which our children attend free from weapons and drugs. By allowing school officials the ability to use their experience and intuition, we are combating these threats of violence before they have an opportunity to occur.

Specifically, this bill encourages local school agencies to establish policies that put parents and students on notice that weapons and drugs will not be tolerated within school property, and gives power to school officials and full-time teachers to enforce such policies.

We all know that the threat of weapons
Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, as one of the original cosponsors of the Zero Tolerance for Guns and Weapons in Schools, I have long supported the effort to make our schools safer, and, in fact, schools are among the safest places in our entire society for children, but this legislation, I do not quite understand what it is trying to do.

The suggestion here is that if we just pass some legislation, that somehow schools will become safer. The fact of the matter is every school district, every State has a policy with respect to the bringing onto campus of drugs, which it is illegal to have on campus, off campus, in your own home or anywhere else, and the same is true of weapons, which we have a very strong zero tolerance policy against the bringing of any guns or weapons onto school sites.

It seems to me that this legislation is somehow flawed in the idea that if the Congress just votes, this will, in fact, happen.

Tragically, what we have seen is while people are asking us to vote on this policy, which is already in place in most school districts, or all school districts in all of the States in accordance with the State court decisions and in accordance with the Supreme Court decisions, what we have is that the Republicans are masking this fact that the State courts, under this law, are getting the Safe and Drug-Free School Grants to the States. They cut those grants from $437 million in 2005 to $346 million in 2006, and the House Republicans want to cut them even further to $310 million next year.

So the very funds that this Congress has determined and we worked in partnership with States and school districts over the last several years to make our schools safer, to help educate children about the dangers not only of the drugs and of weapons and various kinds of social behavior, they are now in the process of cutting those, but they want to pass a law that says to do what we have as a matter of existing policy, except that this law, in fact, exposes the district to much more litigation now because now, under the guise of this law, they have to go back through, and if a student is searched under this law, the questions are raised about whether any districts have tried to settle under State law, under State court interpretations, so that they can have a policy that works, that the schools are on notice of, and the students are on notice of, and that the parents are on notice of. The fact of the matter is, the policy that appears to be working across this country.

So, when we get all done with this, I think what we have with this legislation is an effort to try and cover what are the more serious votes taken by this Congress to slash the funding for the Safe and Drug-Free Schools legislation.

Also, this legislation, if it were to be passed into law, fails to take into account the actions that have been imposed by State courts. A uniform search policy can cause difficulties for school districts and would require it to establish policies to address requirements of H.R. 5295, as well as legal standards that apply to respective jurisdictions.

The Congressional Research Service adds that enacting Federal legislation with respect to school-based searches could, therefore, interfere with areas of traditional local responsibility, of which there is no showing that the States and local school authorities are not meeting their responsibilities to their students, to the teachers, to the staff in the schools, to the parents and to the communities.

The question is, I guess, just a question of whether or not you think you trust the Congress more simply to pass a law, of which there have been no hearings and no discussion with local officials about how to do this, or whether you trust the people who are running the schools—the school boards, the school administrators, the principals, the district superintendents—who, in fact, have the responsibility for the safety of the children of their districts and of their schools.

It is not much more complicated than that, and you do not have to take it from me, because the fact is that the National School Boards Association, the American Correctional Association of School Administrators, the American Federation of Teachers, the National PTA and the Great City Council Schools all oppose this legislation.

Why do they oppose this legislation? Because this legislation only makes it a very difficult job that they have been working at and policies for the safety of our students that they have been refining over the last decade.

This legislation just throws all of that open to new interpretations, to new exposure to liability on the questions of their actions that they take on a daily basis to keep our schools safe, to keep our children safe.

They understand this policy. They have developed these policies they have done in conjunction with the communities that they represent. Now Congress wants to fly in and say without hearings and drop down a new policy, one size sort of fits all, for all of these school districts, for all of the schools, when in fact the people we represent in our communities have been working on these policies a long time before this legislation was ever suggested. They have been working on them successfully, they have been working on them within the intrinsics of State and Federal law, and they have developed the policies in cooperation with the communities and with the parents.

And I would hope that we would reject this legislation, and we would let those who have to take the responsibility, those who absorb the liability for their actions, and those who have local cooperation within their communities on engaging these policies, that they would in fact be allowed to go forward and continue those policies, and we would heed the concerns of the Congressional Research Service that we now have a Federal policy that, if it was to pass, requires this kind of reaction by all of the States to see whether or not they comply with this Federal law when in fact they are already complying.

I reserve the balance of my time.
Heath High School in Paducah, Kentucky, shocking acts of violence have been planned and unfortunately executed in our schools.

Last week in Green Bay, Wisconsin, the situation turned out differently. Local police officer reaction to information gathered by school officials were able to thwart an attack being planned by high school students and save lives.

The National Center for Education Statistics found in 2003, the last year for which we have statistics, 17 percent of students in grades 9 through 12 reported having carried a weapon; 9 percent of students reported having been threatened or injured with a weapon, such as a gun, knife, or club, on school property. During the same period, 29 percent of students have been offered drugs on school grounds within the previous 12 months.

My friends, these numbers are simply unacceptable. The presence of drugs or weapons on campus is not relative to a productive learning environment. Metal detectors have become a fact of life in many of our schools. Despite that fact, weapons are still appearing in our classrooms.

When school is achieved in school, no one doubted who had control of the classroom. Teachers were clear in their ability to control their learning environment. Today, we have the opportunity to restore some of that clarity.

I agree in our Constitution and our Bill of Rights, and I take my oath of office to defend those rights very seriously. This legislation is simple. This act does not issue a blank check to anyone to conduct random, unfounded, or mass searches. It does not change the fourth amendment standards on search and seizure. In fact, it is the parents and school officials who are empowered by this legislation. These men and women will work with individual communities across the Nation to develop school safety policies that suit the unique needs of their teachers and students and are based on the constitutional standards set by the Supreme Court. Nothing more, nothing less.

H.R. 5295 requires local education agencies to have policies in place that adopt a standard articulated by the Supreme Court in New Jersey v. T.L.O. This standard allows teachers and school officials to use their experience and professional judgment in making decisions that will help control their classrooms and protect the students.

Our schools and classrooms should be safe places, free from drugs and weapons; and safety should not be a luxury. Parents should be confident in the safety of their children at school. Children should be able to focus on their studies without fear; teachers and school officials should be confident in their judgment and ability to control school property.

I am very proud of the work that we have done with the National Education Association to improve the language of H.R. 5295 since its original introduction, and I am even more pleased that the National Education Association has endorsed this legislation as a positive step toward a safer learning environment for teachers and students throughout the country.

A special thank you is due to Chairman MCKEON and his staff for their assistance. I would especially like to recognize the work of three staffers, Joanna Glaze, Taylor Hansen and James Bergeron. Their efforts to support this simple, commonsense legislation to provide our students and teachers with a safer, more productive learning environment.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. I yield 4 minutes to the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. DAVIS).

Mr. DAVIS of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, I want to thank the ranking member for yielding.

I rise in strong support of the expressed intent and expressed purpose of this legislation. But as one who taught for 6 years in probably one of the toughest schools and one of the toughest communities in the country, I have some serious reservations about what this legislation actually does. And I guess my reservations are not unfounded, because I find that the American Association of School Administrators, the National School Boards Association, the Council of Great City Schools, Parent Teachers Association, American Civil Liberties Union, the American Federation of Teachers, and of course my own school district, one of the largest, the City of Chicago School System, has some concerns. And many of the concerns expressed is that the legislation is unnecessary, because many school districts already have policies on search that take into consideration State laws and State court decisions. They are concerned that it overrides local and State policies on school searches, and that it establishes one-size-fits-all, although all of us know that circumstances in different locations and locales are very different.

It sends a confusing message to schools on what legal standards are, and it establishes a policy that gives teachers authority to conduct searches when authority for determining who could search should rest with the school board. And, of course, it penalizes schools inappropriately for noncompliance by withholding safe and drug free funds, even though not all school districts receive these funds.

So, Mr. Speaker, while the intent is good, and while all of us want to see our schools be the safe and secure places we know that they need to be, I find the legislation to be duplicative, unnecessary, and that it takes away in some instances rights that should be reserved certainly for local communities to make determinations about. For that reason, I oppose this legislation.

Mr. Kuhl of New York. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes at this time to the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. KIRK).

Mr. KIRK. I thank the gentleman. Columbine High School, Colorado. East High School, Green Bay. Hubbard Wood School in Winnetka. Each of these schools bore witness to an attack or an attempted attack using a gun in some cases to save gun-free classrooms. Just last week, alert school officials foiled a Columbine-style attack on a Green Bay school. In my district, we were not so lucky in Winnetka. There, an attacker shot and killed a child and wounded five. Just 6 months ago Jeffrey Phillips of my own staff was a first grader in that school on that day.

I spoke with a number of fellow teachers who say they hesitate before searching a child. Dan Larsen and Andrew Connors, teachers at Stevenson High School in Lincolnshire, told me that teachers many times hesitate before searching a book bag for a gun. They worry about being punished; they worry about being sued. This bill requires teachers that they have the power to search any minor child to make sure that their classroom remains gun free. And the Nation’s largest teachers union, the National Education Association, strongly endorsed this bill.

Like all other American workers, teachers deserve to work in a safe, drug-free, and gun-free workplace. Diane Shust and Randall Moody of the NEA wrote: “On behalf of the 3.2 million members of the NEA, we would like to commend you for introducing the Student and Teacher Safety Act. H.R. 5295 will help promote a safe school environment.”

The National Education Association knows that there is nothing more important than the safety of children and teachers who have dedicated their lives to education. Let common sense prevail. This bill puts teachers back in the classroom and makes classrooms safer. If this bill helps one teacher stop one Columbine massacre, then Congress today will have served the Nation well and protected its children. I urge Members to support this bill so strongly backed by the National Education Association.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. I yield 4 minutes to the gentlewoman from California (Ms. WOOLSEY).

Ms. WOOLSEY. Mr. Speaker, I oppose this so-called Student and Teacher Safety Act. This bill would impose a one-size-fits-all policy on student searches on every school district in the country.

You know, in my experience with children and youth, it is a mistake to assume that every student is as guilty as a few troubled persons, making all youth feel guilty because a few actually are. Mr. Speaker, this bill would strip Safe and Drug-Free School Acts funding from any school district that decides that local parents, that teachers,
Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. KUHL of New York. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the distinguished chairman of the Education and Workforce Committee, a gentleman from California (Mr. McKEON).

(Mr. McKEON asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. McKEON. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to introduce H.R. 5295, the Student and Teacher Safety Act. This legislation builds upon the past efforts of this Congress to bolster school safety, and I commend Mr. GEOFF DAVIS of Kentucky for leading the charge on this legislation.

Enhancing school safety is not a new priority for this House. Earlier this year, we sent to President Bush legislation that included a proposal of my committee colleague Mr. PORTER to provide schools, with criminal history records for adults seeking to work with or around children.

Today we have the opportunity to take another step towards safer classrooms. The Student and Teacher Safety Act simply asks schools to adopt policies that ensure compliance with the legal standard established by the U.S. Supreme Court pertaining to the reasonable nature of student searches. As such, the bill enjoys a tremendous consensus of support, including leading teacher unions and school safety advocates. These groups support the commonsense steps that this bill will take, and I include a letter from the National Education Association for the RECORD at this point.

NATIONAL EDUCATION ASSOCIATION, Washington, DC, September 6, 2006.

Representative GEOFF DAVIS, House of Representatives, Washington, DC.

DEAR REPRESENTATIVE DAVIS: On behalf of the National Education Association’s (NEA) 3.2 million members, we would like to commend you for introducing the Student and Teacher Safety Act (H.R. 5295), which will help establish a safe learning environment in all public schools. We thank you and our staff for your willingness to engage in a constructive dialogue and to make changes to your original draft based on our suggestions. With these changes, we are pleased to offer our support for H.R. 5295.

NEA believes that a safe and effective learning climate is necessary for promoting educational excellence in public schools. All students and education employees must be safe from violence and procedures must be in place to prevent and eliminate all types of disruption or harassment that might occur. H.R. 5295 will help promote a safe school environment by requiring districts to have in place policies addressing reasonable student searches. Specifically, required policies under your bill must allow education employees or school officials to conduct student searches when acting on reasonable suspicion based on professional experience and judgment. We believe that such policies will help ensure that school buildings, school property, and students remain free from the threat of weapons and other dangerous materials.

We believe that H.R. 5295 strikes a proper balance between ensuring the safety of students and educators and protecting student rights. We thank you for your efforts on this important issue and we look forward to continuing to work with you to ensure great public schools for every student.

Sincerely,

DIANE SHUST,
Director of Government Relations.
RANDALL MOODY,
Manager of Federal Policy and Politics.

Mr. McKEON. Mr. Speaker, this legislation empowers full-time teachers or school officials, when acting on suspicion based on professional experience and judgment, to search students on school grounds, allowing States and school districts to conduct reasonable searches to ensure that the schools remain free of all weapons, dangerous materials or illegal narcotics.

I cannot imagine anyone that would oppose this kind of legislation based on the fact that we all, working together, want to make schools safer for our students and teachers.

And for our Nation’s students to get the most out of their education, it is imperative that they feel safe inside the classroom. Last week’s report of two Wisconsin teens shooting a school shooting spree only served to underscore the need for our teachers, administrators and parents to have the necessary tools to keep the classrooms safe and focused on what they are meant for, learning. Parents should be at ease when sending their children to school. Teachers and administrators should know that we are empowering them with resources to make sure that we are keeping their workplaces safe. And most of all, students deserve to learn in as safe an environment as possible.

I urge my colleagues to join me in supporting this important measure to bolster school safety.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. KUHL of New York. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. FITZPATRICK).

Mr. FITZPATRICK. Mr. Speaker, I rise tonight to thank my friends and colleagues, Mr. DAVIS and Mr. KUHL, for introducing this outstanding legislation, and I am proud to join them in strong support of the Student and Teacher Safety Act.

As a father, I am very concerned about my children’s safety during the school day. Every morning, my wife and I, send our children off to school to prepare them for a better and brighter future. I expect them to learn in a safe, secure and nurturing environment, an environment incompatible with weapons and violence. Unfortunately, statistics show that this may not be the case.

I am shocked by the statistics that describe the threat drugs and guns pose in our schools. According to a national survey of high school students in 2003, 29 percent of students in grades 9–12 reported having been offered drugs on school grounds; 9 percent of students reported having been threatened or injured by a weapon such as a gun or knife on school property; and almost 7 percent of students in these same grades said they had missed at least one school day because they felt unsafe or at or traveling to or from school.

Statistics show America has a problem. It is up to Congress to provide the tools and guidance that is needed to combat this threat. Back when I was a student in high school, if a teacher asked me to show them the contents of my locker, I would have complied. It was a simpler time. Today our teachers’ hands are tied with current regulations and the constant threat of litigation that prevents them from confidently acting on perceived threats to their students.

That is why this act is so important.

H. R. 5286 will provide much-needed clarity for school districts in setting policies for school searches. Specifically, this legislation will require school districts and other local education agencies to create a policy that is firmly founded upon the fourth amendment and the TLO decision. It will require the controlling Supreme Court decision on school searches, New Jersey v. TLO.

I am proud to be listed as a cosponsor of this legislation, and I call on my colleagues in Congress to support its passage today.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. KUHL of New York. Mr. Speaker, we have no additional speakers other than myself to close, so if the gentleman from California would like to close at this time.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

It is rather interesting that this legislation comes up with no hearings, no discussion with the school districts, no discussion with local authorities who have the obligations to meet the demands that we cavalierly talk about here. The gentleman from Kentucky mentioned. Regardless of the fact that there are school districts who are attempting to make changes in their policies protecting students, the fact is that violence remains a very, very big issue in our schools. It needs to be resolved.

People, like the teachers on the front lines combating this violence and protecting our students, are not necessarily afforded the opportunities to do that. That is what this bill does. I applaud Mr. Davis for bringing it forward.

The bill simply asks, and while my friend Mr. MILLER would try to distort what the bill actually does, the bill asks school districts, each and every one of them separately, to develop and implement a policy on school safety. Noticeably missing in this legislation is language requiring what the policy should look like or how strict or relaxed it should be. The legislation merely allows each and every individual school district to craft unique policies with guidance established by the Supreme Court decision. That Supreme Court decision, and I will quote again, simply says apart from education, the school, and I underline the school, has the obligation to protect pupils from mistreatments by other children and also protect teachers themselves from violence by the few students whose conduct in recent years has promoted national concern.

Now let’s go to the actual language. I don’t know whether Mr. MILLER has had an opportunity to read the bill, but the bill itself specifically says each local educational agency shall have in effect throughout the jurisdiction of the agency policies that ensure that a search described in subsection (b) is reasonable and permissible. No question about it.

Some people might concern themselves with the fact that this might be an overextension of personal rights, but the Supreme Court has defined what is permissible. In no way does this bill give permission for school officials to perform mass or strip searches of students. No way.

Also, Mr. MILLER, let me assure you that while provisions make castigations about this side of the aisle trying to balance the budget, nobody on this side of the aisle has suggested that funding for the implementation of this program is to be deleted. As a matter of fact, we open support increased funding to implement this policy.

Mr. STARK. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in opposition to the Student and Teacher Safety Act of 2006, H.R. 5295. Although this bill seeks a noble end, protecting our children and their teachers, it gives me pause because it authorizes school systems to strip away student’s constitutional rights.

All children should feel safe at school. All teachers should be secure while carrying out their mission of teaching our children. Mr. HINOJOSA. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I would like to express my strong support for House Resolution 874, a resolution recognizing and honoring older Americans. I would like to thank my friend from Texas, Congressman CHARLIE GONZALEZ, for bringing this resolution forward.

As the resolution so eloquently states, older Americans have made countless contributions that have strengthened our nation. We are gradually bidding farewell to our Greatest Generation that fought for our freedom and values during the Great Depression and two world wars. We must never forget their strength of character and willingness to sacrifice for the greater good of our nation and our world.

We are now welcoming the baby boom generation into the ranks of older Americans. This presents great challenges and great opportunities for our nation. The challenge is to keep our intergenerational compact of Social Security and Medicare, not by privatization schemes or giveaways to special interests, but by prudent management and fiscal responsibility. We can meet that challenge.

We have the opportunity to leverage the tremendous talent, the energy, and desire to make a difference that older Americans bring to our communities. This generation of older Americans is healthier and more educated than any generation before. Its best years are yet to come. Our older Americans continue to make valuable contributions to our society every day. We must not waste this invaluable national resource.

As we celebrate the contributions of older Americans today with this resolution, let us recommit ourselves to honoring them by completing the reauthorization of the Older Americans Act and supporting our Federal programs that improve the quality of life of older Americans and enable them to continue to contribute to their communities and to our great Nation.

I urge all my colleagues to support this resolution.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. KUHL of New York. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from North Carolina (Mr. JONES).

Mr. JONES of North Carolina. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from New York for yielding.

Mr. Speaker, I join my friend Congressman GONZALEZ of Texas and many of my colleagues in support of H. Res. 874, a resolution to recognize and honor older Americans for their role in helping make America great.

It is so important that policymakers in Congress recognize the contributions of our Nation’s seniors by keeping their needs in mind as we develop legislation. We must take this responsibility seriously as we consider issues such as Medicare, Social Security, veterans benefits, housing, and health care. We also owe it to our seniors and our seniors’ grandchildren to do a better job of balancing the budget here in Washington, D.C. No matter what the issue, we must always work to ensure that the needs of our seniors do not get overlooked.

I am thankful to the TREA Senior Citizens League, the largest non-partisan seniors group in the Nation, and its national chairman, Ralph McCutchen, for supporting this resolution.

The sacrifice of our seniors and the Greatest Generation should not go unrecognized. And, again, I thank my friend from Texas for introducing this resolutions. And I am pleased to support this resolution and encourage my colleagues on both sides of the aisle to support the resolution.

Mr. HINOJOSA. Mr. Speaker, I yield 4 minutes to my good friend and colleague CHARLIE GONZALEZ from San Antonio, who serves on the Energy and Commerce Committee.

Mr. GONZALEZ. Mr. Speaker, I thank my dear friend Mr. HINOJOSA, my colleague from Texas, for yielding.

Mr. Speaker, I sincerely thank my colleagues on the Education and Workforce Committee, especially Chairman McKEON and Ranking Member GEORGE MILLER, who was here earlier, for bringing this bill to the floor. I also thank my friend Congressman WALTER JONES for supporting this legislation so very beginning and serving as its Republican lead. His efforts, in addition to those of his staff, have been very important throughout this process. I would also like to recognize, as Congressman JONES acknowledged, the senior citizens league and the important role they have played in promoting and supporting this resolution. Their chairman, Ralph McCutchen, wanted, above all, to see a bill that honors and pays tribute to the many sacrifices seniors have made, including those who have served in the military. I certainly appreciate the support demonstrated by this very important organization.

This resolution recognizes the importance of honoring senior citizens. This can be done in countless numbers of ways, from simple gestures of kindness towards a stranger to the actions made by this Congress that will impact seniors for a whole lifetime. We are policymakers. We should not make policy that makes it more difficult for seniors to vote. We should not have policy that makes it more difficult for seniors to obtain medical care. We should not enact policy that makes it more difficult for seniors to obtain prescription drugs or to afford housing.

This resolution encourages children and students to take time to learn from senior citizens. It is imperative that we as a society facilitate the sharing of information among the different generations. I don’t want anyone to get the idea that this resolution is about seniors and what they have accomplished in the past. In part it is, but they are not relegated to the past. And let me quickly explain.

Today’s seniors are active in our present-day workforce, contributing to the economy every day their ideas and their labor. They have helped build this wonderful economy and capitalist system of our country. With their skill, their training, and their education in how they prepare those other generations, they are part of our future.

I would like to end with an observation. I was trying to figure out what constitutes a senior. Is it someone 60, 70, 80, 90? Well, age is important and it isn’t important. It is important in this respect, and I am going to quote Sir Oliver Lodge: “Never throw away hastily any old faith, tradition or convention. They are the result of the experience of many generations.”

So age is important as far as experiences and having the life experiences. I still remember my father, when I used to ask, that was a brilliant man. Dad, where did he go to school? And he said, it was the school of hard knocks. So many times it is just life experiences that will instill that wonderful knowledge that is imparted to succeeding generations.

But age does not constitute and define seniors. And I will end it here with a quote from Satchel Paige: “Age is a case of mind over matter. If you don’t mind, it don’t matter.”

I ask my colleagues to support this resolution.

Mr. KUHL of New York. Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. HINOJOSA. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to my colleague Danny DAVIS from the great State of Illinois, who serves on the Education Committee and the Government Reform Committee.

Mr. DAVIS of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, I would like to thank the gentleman from Texas for yielding.

Mr. Speaker, I rise today in honor of our Nation’s senior citizens. Senior citizens are a vital part of society to whom we have a responsibility of ensuring both economic and physical well-being. Seniors provide vital links to our past as well as serve as the care-givers to over 6.1 million of the Nation’s children.

I recognize the importance of caring for our elderly and providing them with the services they need to live independently. I have a Seniors and Eldercare Task Force, composed of an outstanding group of experts who advise me on key issues of importance to the seniors in my district. They advise me on key issues for the reauthorization of the Older Americans Act.

Within the bipartisan process surrounding this bill, I am pleased that I was successful in including important changes to the act. My local experts said that seniors raising their grandchildren needed great access to financial support and information about...
Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. KLINE. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and agree to the concurrent resolution (H. Con. Res. 419) recognizing and supporting the efforts of the State of New York to develop the National Purple Heart Hall of Honor in New Windsor, New York, and for other purposes, as amended.

The Clerk read as follows:

H. Con. Res. 419

Whereas George Washington, at his headquarters in Newburgh, New York, on August 7, 1782, devised a Badge of Military Merit to be given to enlisted men and noncommissioned officers for meritorious action;

Whereas the Badge of Military Merit became popularly known as the "Purple Heart" because it consisted of the figure of a heart in purple cloth or silk edged with narrow lace or binding and tipped with the uniform coat over the left breast;

Whereas Badges of Military Merit were awarded during the Revolutionary War by General George Washington at his headquarters, in Newburgh, New York, on May 3 and June 8, 1783;
Whereas the Badge of Military Merit, an award for military merit in the Revolutionary War, is the inspiration for today’s Purple Heart medal;

Whereas on the bicentennial of General Washington’s birthday in February 1832, the Badge of Military Merit was redesignated by General Douglas MacArthur, then Chief of Staff of the Army, to honor those individuals who have been awarded the Purple Heart and to inform and educate the people of the United States about the history and importance of that distinguished combat award;

Whereas the State of New York has dedicated substantial resources to the creation of the National Purple Heart Hall of Honor to be constructed at the New Windsor Cantonment, a New York State Historic Site, in New Windsor, New York, to honor those individuals who have been awarded the Purple Heart and to inform and educate the people of the United States about the history and importance of that distinguished combat award;

Whereas the National Purple Heart Hall of Honor will be a permanent place of remembrance of the service and sacrifices made by the members of the Armed Forces wounded or killed in service to America throughout the Nation’s history, both at home and abroad; and

Whereas as the Nation continues to defend the American Way, there will be a need for a distinguished place to honor those who in the future are awarded the Purple Heart for their service and sacrifice: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the House of Representatives (the Senate concurring), That the Congress—

(1) recognizes and supports the efforts of the State of New York to develop and maintain the National Purple Heart Hall of Honor in New Windsor, New York, to honor those individuals who have been awarded the Purple Heart and to inform and educate the people of the United States about the history and importance of that distinguished combat award; and

(2) encourages the people of the United States as well as Federal departments and agencies to cooperate, assist, and participate in educating and informing individuals about the history and importance of the Purple Heart and about the National Purple Heart Hall of Honor.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. KLINE) and the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. SKELTON) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Minnesota.

Mr. KLINE. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks on the resolution under consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Minnesota?

There was no objection.

Mr. KLINE. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I rise today in strong support of H. Con. Res. 419, recognizing and supporting the efforts of the State of New York to develop the National Purple Heart Hall of Honor in New Windsor, New York.

Mr. Speaker, let me first take just a moment to thank my colleague and good friend, the gentleman from New York (Mrs. KELLY), and the State of New York for establishing a place for Americans to come and honor those men and women of our military who have sacrificed so much for America. They are the individuals who fight for us, who swear for us, who bleed for us, and, sometimes, who die for us.

The Purple Heart is a unique symbol that recognizes the sacrifices made by the men and women of the Armed Forces, sacrifices made for the freedoms not just for themselves, but for future generations of Americans.

It is only fitting that we have a place such as the National Purple Heart Hall of Honor to honor those men and women so that future generations can go there and learn about those fine young Americans who have ensured that we can all live free.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. SKELTON. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. SKELTON asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.

Mr. SKELTON. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in support of House Concurrent Resolution 419, which recognizes the efforts of the State of New York to establish the National Purple Heart Hall of Honor.

And, I recognize the gentlewoman from New York, Mrs. S. KELLY, the sponsor of this resolution, and the gentleman from Missouri.

The State of New York is leading the effort to establish a center that focuses on the history and importance of this honored military award. The reason is simple, in the summer of 1782, during the Revolutionary War; General George Washington devised two new badges, one of which was the Badge of Military Merit, which we know today as the Purple Heart.

General Washington at the time wrote, “... whenever any singularly meritorious action is performed, the author of it shall be permitted to wear a little Badge, of the figure of a heart in purple cloth, or silk, edged with narrow lace or binding.” Three soldiers are known to have received the original honor badge, Sergeant Daniel Bissell of the 2nd Connecticut Regiment of the Continental Line, Sergeant William Brown of the 5th Connecticut Regiment of the Continental Line, and Sergeant Elijah Churchill of the 2nd Continental Dragoons, also a Connecticut regiment.

However, after the Revolution, the award feels into disuse and was not proposed for use again until 1917.

In 1927, Army Chief of Staff General Charles P. Summerall directed that proposed legislation be sent to Congress to revive the Badge of Military Merit. However, it was not until 1931, when General Summerall’s successor, General Douglas MacArthur pushed forward the idea to reestablish the badge. It was on the 200th anniversary of George Washington’s birth, February 22, 1932, that the War Department announced General Order No. 3, which established the Purple Heart.

In 1942, President Franklin D. Roosevelt extended the award to the Navy, Marine Corps, and Coast Guard, and established a uniform application of standards in the Army and Navy. President Harry S. Truman retroactively extended the eligibility for the Navy, Marine Corps, and Coast Guard back to April 5, 1917, and in 1962, President John F. Kennedy extended eligibility to any “civilian national of the United States,” who while serving under competent authority in any capacity with an armed force of the United States, has been wounded or killed in service to America.

Mr. Speaker, the Purple Heart has an illustrious career and it is recognition of the enemy-related injuries a service member sustains. Today, there are more than 800,000 members of the Armed Forces who have been awarded the Purple Heart. The State of New York has been working to establish a National Purple Heart Hall of Honor at the New Windsor Cantonment in New Windsor, New York to provide a permanent place of remembrance of the service and sacrifices made by men and women in uniform throughout our nation’s history. This resolution before us recognizes the efforts of the State of New York, and encourages the education and information on the history and importance of this distinguished combat award.

Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues to support this resolution.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. KLINE. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from New York (Mrs. KELLY).

Mrs. KELLY. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in honoring the extraordinary sacrifices made by American veterans by voting yes on H. Con. Res 419.

This resolution supports the establishment of a National Purple Heart Hall of Honor in the birthplace of the Purple Heart in New Windsor, New York. The Purple Heart is the oldest and one of the most prestigious honors bestowed upon an American soldier. By passing this legislation today, we recognize the sacrifices of the brave men and women who have received this honor.

The National Purple Heart Hall of Honor will uniquely highlight the stories of the Purple Heart veterans. Every Purple Heart veteran is a hero whose story needs to be told. By hearing these stories we can fully honor their sacrifices and learn from their experiences. The stories will echo within the halls of the National Purple Heart Hall of Honor, and they should inspire our Nation not only to preserve the legacy of our military heroes, but to better appreciate the freedoms for which they fought.

The Hall of Honor is scheduled to be officially dedicated November 10. It will be located at New Windsor Cantonment, the site in my congressional district. This is the site of the last encampment of the Continental Army, where General George Washington first presented the Badge of Military Merit in 1782. Since then more than 800,000 members of the Armed Forces have been awarded this medal, which is now called the Purple Heart. It is an honor reserved for those soldiers who are wounded or killed while defending the greatest of our principles, freedom.
Mr. KLINE. Mr. Speaker, I encourage all of my colleagues to support H. Con. Res. 419, and I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. KLINE) that the House suspend the rules and agree to the concurrent resolution, H. Con. Res. 419, as amended.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the concurrent resolution, as amended, was agreed to.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Speaker pro tempore notified the Speaker that according to the rules of the House the next vote in the series will be a 5-minute vote.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Speaker pro tempore notified the Speaker that the second vote in the series will be a 15-minute vote.

PERSONAL EXPLANATION
Mr. GREEN of Wisconsin. Mr. Speaker, I was absent from Washington on Tuesday, September 19, 2006. As a result, I was not recorded for rollcall votes Nos. 451, 452, and 453. Had I been present, I would have voted "yea" on rollcall Nos. 451, 452, and 453.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE HONORABLE SHELLEY BERKLEY, MEMBER OF CONGRESS
The SPEAKER pro tempore laid before the House the following communication from the Honorable Shelley Berkley, Member of Congress:

CONGRESS OF THE UNITED STATES,
HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,
WASHINGTON, D.C., SEPTEMBER 14, 2006.

Mr. Chairman:

I am writing to inform you that I have been notified that the Attorney General of the United States has made a determination that the two political subdivisions that I represent—Clark County, Nevada, and the City of Las Vegas—may have already violated the Voting Rights Act.

I believe that it is in the best interest of the citizens of Nevada and the United States that we pass the Voting Rights Act现代化 (H.R. 4844) to amend the National Voter Registration Act of 1993 to provide for consideration of the bill (H.R. 4844) to amend the National Voter Registration Act of 1993 to require any individual who desires to register or re-register to vote in an election for Federal office to provide the appropriate State election official with proof that the individual is a citizen of the United States to prevent fraud in Federal elections, and for other purposes, which was referred to the House Calendar and ordered to be printed.

SECURE BORDERS

Mr. PRICE of Georgia asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.

Mr. PRICE of Georgia. Madam Speaker, this week we will consider legislation that the American people have made clear must be addressed to solve the illegal immigration crisis in our country. For too long, the security and well-being of our Nation has been compromised by open and porous borders. After months of field hearings and listening to our constituents’ concerns, it is clear that Americans from Savannah to Seattle and from San Diego to Syracuse demand tighter border security and stronger immigration laws. Last week, we passed the Secure Fence Act to tackle the problem of illegal aliens coming across the border, and three bills will be brought to the floor this week to ensure that our law enforcement agencies have the tools needed to further deal with this crisis. I call on all of my colleagues here and in the Senate to pass these critical pieces of legislation.

Madam Speaker, no longer can we allow an attitude of indifference toward the sovereignty of our borders. We should pass these bills and speak loudly to those wishing to break our laws that their actions will no longer be tolerated by the United States.

SPECIAL ORDERS

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under the Speaker’s announced policy of January 4, 2005, and under a previous order of the House, the following Members will be recognized for 5 minutes each.

IRAQ WAR

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Washington (Mr. McDERMOTT) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. McDERMOTT. Madam Speaker, the Iraq war is doing badly, and the President would like the American people to think about something else. With less than 2 months until the midterm elections, the Republicans suddenly fear the democracy they claim to be spreading.

A commentary in today’s Asia Times sums it up. The article is entitled, "The War in Iraq: No End in Sight, No Exit Strategy, No Peace Agreement, No End to the Suffering."
"Iraq. Trying to Spin the Unspinnable."

Let me briefly quote from it:

“The power of spin is not infinite; however, as the administration is now discovering, bad news has cascaded out of Iraq faster than the terrorist spin can catch it. Because spin cannot be made to do what it defies credibility to suggest that the war has not drastically worsened the lives of Iraqis."

American soldiers have been fighting and dying in Iraq for years to prop up the same flawed and failed policy by the President who cannot win the war; cannot win the peace, and cannot lead the United States out of harm’s way.

The President says stay the course, and Republicans in the Congress refuse to say or do anything independent of the President. No oversight, just blind allegiance. The number of U.S. soldiers killed in Iraq stands at 2,678. Every day in Iraq, on average of two more soldiers die. The number of U.S. soldiers injured in Iraq recently passed another grim mark: 20,000 physical injuries. Every day in Iraq, 19 U.S. soldiers on average are injured as they try to survive in the middle of a civil war. And we have not yet begun to count the number of U.S. psychological casualties, with PTSD afflicting 30% of deployed military personnel.

We have not yet begun to count the number of U.S. psychological casualties, with PTSD afflicting 30% of deployed military personnel. But nothing will change as long as the President has a Republican Congress rubber-stamping his vision. Even Iraq’s leaders and parliament get it. Just yesterday, Abdel al-Anisi, a member of the largest party in Maliki’s government said, “We have to determine the nature of our relationship with the Multinational Forces in Iraq, which is to support the role of the government, not to take over its role.”

We are seen as occupiers in Iraq trying to control their oil and trying to dictate their policies, and our presence provokes more violence.

The problem isn’t that you believe that terrorism is a new threat in a new century. The only new thing about the latest threat is how the President has mismanaged our response. Had Republicans in Congress provided any Iraq oversight, the truth would have emerged and we would have changed the course.

But the Republican congressional leaders demand acquiescence by their members, so the President’s flawed war just keeps getting worse.

Throughout history, nations in the East and nations in the West have faced the threat of terrorism. A new book entitled, “What Terrorists Want: Understanding the Enemy, Containing the Threat,” by Louise Richardson, ought to be required reading for Republicans in Congress that merely takes orders. We have to have a Democratic Congress that is willing to provide oversight on what this President is doing. Election is about 50 days away, Mr. President."

MISTAKES MADE BY US IN STAFFING IRAQ:
NEW BOOK ALLEGES IT WASN’T WHAT, BUT WHO, YOU KNEW OR KNOWN TO BE KEY JOBS

(BY Tom Regan)

In the early days after the fall of Baghdad in 2003, many Americans both inside and outside the government indicated a desire to go to Iraq to help with the war effort. But a new book by Washington Post reporter Rajiv Chandrasekaran, “Imperial Life in the Emerald City,” argues that ties to the Bush administration or to the Republican Party regularly trumped years of experience or knowledge in a particular field when key jobs were being assigned.

The result, Mr. Chandrasekaran writes, is that under the leadership of L. Paul Bremer, the first administrator of the Coalition Provisional Authority, many inexperienced or unqualified people were given key posts in the rebuilding of Iraq, and often found themselves in situations they could not handle.

In Baghdad, Chandrasekaran (who had spent six months in Iraq before the war started in March 2003, and then was the Post’s Baghdad bureau chief from October 2003 to October 2005) reports, they first had to go through the office of Jim O’Beirne in the Pentagon.

To pass muster with O’Beirne, a political appointee in the Republican Party, candidates for Defense Department posts, applicants didn’t need to be experts in the Middle East or in post-conflict reconstruction. What seemed most important was loyalty to the Bush administration.

O’Beirne’s staff posed blunt questions to some candidates about domestic politics: Did you vote for George W. Bush in 2000? Do you support the way the President is fighting the war? Do you have jobs with the US occupation authority they said they were even asked their views on Roe v. Wade.

The result, Chandrasekaran says, was that officials in many key posts had little skills and experience. Many people involved in the effort to rebuild and stabilize Iraq now see this decision making process as “one of the Bush administration’s greatest failures.”

“We didn’t tap—and it should have started from the White House on down—just didn’t tap the right people to do this job,” said Frederick Smith, who served as the deputy director of the CPA’s Washington office. “It was a tough, tough job. Instead we got people who went out there because of their political leanings…”

One former CPA employee who had an office near O’Beirne’s wrote an e-mail to a friend describing the recruitment process: “I watched résumés of immensely talented individuals who had sought out CPA to help the country thrown in the trash because their names didn’t come up to the ‘President’s Desk’ (a frequently heard phrase at CPA) was ‘uncertain.’ I saw senior civil servants from agencies like ‘Treasury-Energy’ and Commerce denied advisory positions in Baghdad that were instead handed to prominent RNC (Republican National Committee) contributors.

In a review of the book in The Washington Post, Moses Naim, editor in chief of Foreign Policy magazine, writes that while common wisdom holds that “it’s better to invade Iraq and topple Saddam Hussein is still open to debate. American mismanagement of the country after the invasion is not.

What caused the major collapse of common sense that doomed the CPA and undermined the US gamble in Iraq? That is the question that every page tactily forces on the reader. American ingenuity, pragmatism and practical approaches to problem-solving are legendary. But Chandrasekaran shows the failure of the Bush administration.

The Bush administration...
A loss not only for his family and our country, but our community back home in Texas. In these dark days of mourning, many people are no doubt trying to muster an encouraging word to comfort his parents. But it is their fellow police officers who have the most powerful and comforting thing to say. They say to him, they say to his parents, these officers in blue, “He would have made a fine police officer.”

Ryan Miller was a fine marine. He was a hero of the war in Iraq. As a member of the United States House of Representatives, I send my best to the Miller family and give them America’s support as they fight their own battle over his death.

His death was not a loss, because he gave his life over there for all of us over here. Today we honor Ryan, we honor the parents of this marine and their sacrifices. I also pause today to remember the marines who served with Ryan, and those who serve today. They are the fabric of this great Nation.

While the blood of their fellow comrades is the red color in the stripes of our flag, these few, these proud, these marines, keep us free to see the stars, stars of liberty, freedom and justice. So Semper Fi, Lance Corporal Ryan Adam Miller, Semper Fi, and God bless these sons of America.

And that’s just the way it is.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Oregon (Mr. DeFazio) is recognized for 5 minutes. (Mr. DeFazio addressed the House. His remarks will appear hereafter in the Extensions of Remarks.)

MORE TROUBLE FOR AMERICA’S WORKING FAMILIES

Ms. KAPTUR. Madam Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to claim the time of the gentleman from Oregon (Mr. DeFazio).

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Without objection, the gentleman from Ohio is recognized for 5 minutes.

There was no objection.

Ms. KAPTUR. Madam Speaker, the latest trade report out of Washington spells more trouble for working families; most immediately for Ohio, Michigan, and Indiana, and our Nation’s heartland, but, in fact, for our entire Nation.

The U.S. Department of Commerce reported this week that America’s trade deficit in the second quarter of this year hit its second highest level in history, rising 2.4 percent to $218.4 billion more into our Nation than exports out. That is just in one quarter.

We are well on our way to another record trade deficit likely to exceed $800 billion. At this rate, the United States might well post its first trillion-dollar trade deficit this year.

That level of trade deficit throttles real growth in our country and continues the unfortunate path of selling out America. We are not winning the global trade war, we are losing it badly. President Bush’s trade policy is one of success only in his foreign policy. Since President Bush took office, we have lost 3 million more good jobs. America’s trade deficit in motor vehicles alone has climbed by approximately 20 percent, and the recent announcement by Ford Motor Company of plant closures and closings will only exacerbate the situation.

Still, the administration clings to the same failed policies. The President will not even meet with the executives of the Big Three. I never thought I would see a day that the President of the United States refused to meet with the leaders of America’s automakers. No industrial nation can afford to cash out its domestic automotive industry.

One of five jobs here in our country are directly tied to it. And apparently that is what this President thinks of the industry that has been the backbone of our economy.

Back in 1975, New York City was in dire fiscal straits, and Gerald Ford refused to help. The New York Daily News ran a famous headline: “Ford to City: Drop Dead.” Maybe it is just a matter of time before we see a similar headline about George W. Bush and his lack of concern about the U.S. automotive industry.

The same Commerce Department report showed other statistics which showed the deterioration in our Nation’s financial picture. Foreign-owned assets in the United States increased by $366 billion more during the second quarter. U.S. liabilities to foreigners reported to U.S. banks increased by $81.2 billion more in the second quarter following an increase of $148.9 billion in the first quarter.

Who owns the assets of our Nation? Increasingly, foreign interests own our assets, and we owe them money. No wonder people think our country is headed in the wrong direction. It is.

Increasingly, Americans don’t own America. Transactions in U.S. Treasury securities shifted to net foreign purchases of $10.1 billion in the second quarter, almost double the rate in the first quarter. I don’t like the fact that foreign interests are buying our country. Indeed, I detest what is happening as un-American and unpatriotic. But foreign official assets in the United States increased $74.9 billion in the second quarter following an increase of $75.7 billion in the first quarter. It came as no surprise as a result that our dollar has depreciated an additional 3 percent.

What the trade deficit means in real-life terms is that money, usually U.S. currency, is leaving American hands and ending up in the hands of foreign competitors. From the United States to Saudi Arabia and other major oil producers: from the United States to China, now the second largest holder of U.S. dollar assets; from the United States to Japan, Korea and other major automobile and truck makers who keep their markets closed. So we are left with padlocked factories, a shrinking middle class, diminishing tax bases, and all the problems that accompany a shortage of good jobs.

What a shame. What a shame that Washington is so out of touch with the real America. People are rapidly losing hope and trust. They believe their government is captured by special interests and no longer cares about them, and they are right.

When they see these statistics about what is happening to our country, it is no wonder people are beginning to despair. So our people vote less, they become more cynical, and they conclude their government no longer stands up for them or indeed belongs to them.

That, my friends, is a recipe for a rising political radicalism across our Nation, and this is what will happen, but it will happen.

SUPPORT OF U.S. BORDER PATROL AGENTS

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from North Carolina (Mr. Jones) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. JONES of North Carolina. Madam Speaker, the men and women of the U.S. Border Patrol are often exposed to high-risk situations and dangerous environments while working on our southern border. Often working alone in remote areas and rugged terrain, U.S. Border Patrol agents routinely encounter heavily armed human drug traffickers. Despite these dangerous conditions, the men and women of the U.S. Border Patrol work tirelessly to protect our Nation’s borders, and they deserve the utmost praise for their dedication and bravery.

Unfortunately, Madam Speaker, two U.S. Border Patrol agents who deserve our appreciation have instead become victims of a grave injustice. Agents Ramos and Compean were found guilty in a Federal court for wounding a drug smuggler who brought 743 pounds of marijuana across our southern borders into Texas. The agents now face up to 20 years in Federal prison.

Agent Ramos served the Border Patrol for 9 years and was a former nominee for Border Patrol Agent of the Year. Agent Compean had 5 years of experience as a Border Patrol agent. These agents never should have been prosecuted for their actions last year.

By attempting to apprehend a Mexican drug smuggler, these agents were simply doing their job to protect the American and the American public. They should have been commended for their actions. But instead, the U.S. Attorney’s Office prosecuted the agents and granted full immunity to the drug smuggler. Granted full immunity to the drug smuggler for his testimony against our agents.

The drug smuggler received full medical care in El Paso, Texas, was permitted to return to Mexico, and is now suing the Border Patrol for $5 million for violating his civil rights. I want to repeat that, Madam Speaker. The drug smuggler received full medical care in El Paso, Texas, was permitted to return to Mexico, and is now suing the Border Patrol for $5 million for violating his civil rights. He is not even an American citizen. He is a criminal.

Madam Speaker, I have spoken to numerous people inside Texas and outside of Texas regarding this outrage, including the agents in these cases. I have written to the President of the United States asking him to please look into this matter. I have written two letters to Attorney General Gonzales asking him to reopen this case for a fuller investigation before these men are sentenced in October.

I hope that the American people will agree that this prosecution is an outrageous injustice and that the situation must be rectified.

Madam Speaker, I am going to close in 1 second, but I will tell you I have had the opportunity to talk to these gentlemen, and I will tell you they are fine Hispanic Americans. They are citizens of this great Nation and they love America. They, like their fellow Border Patrol agents, have a very difficult and tough job, and I hope that my colleagues on both sides of the aisle will ask the same question that I am asking: Why and how is it that these Border Patrol agents doing their job to apprehend a drug smuggler, and yet they are the ones who have been prosecuted, and on October 18 they will be sentenced?

I think this is an injustice, and we are asking for an investigation. I know that Congresswoman Sheila Jackson Lee has joined us in this effort. I hope that we will look into this because these men and women who serve us on the border deserve our protection. I thank those who serve. God bless America.

STOP THE GENOCIDE IN DARFUR

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. Pallone) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. PALLONE. Madam Speaker, after more than 3 violent years, the genocide in Sudan is getting worse. As Jan Egeland, Undersecretary General for Humanitarian Affairs at the U.N., has said, the coming weeks could see “a man-made catastrophe of an unprecedented scale.”

At the end of this month, African Union forces are set to leave Darfur. Currently the only peacekeeping forces in Darfur, the departure of these troops will only embolden the Sudanese Government and the allied Janjaweed militias to continue to murder and displace Sudanese citizens.

As my colleagues know, the crisis in Darfur began in February 2003 when two rebel groups emerged to challenge the National Islamic Front government in Darfur. Since then, over 400,000 people have died, and nearly 2.5 million have been displaced from their homes. Sadly, it took the United States until July 2004 to recognize that these events were a human rights catastrophe and we cannot continue this type of inaction. Far too many times we have seen the horrible consequences of ignoring genocide or failing to get involved quickly.

Madam Speaker, I was pleased to help the President of the United States newly appointed Andrew Natsios as the special envoy to Sudan. I joined 88 of my colleagues in cosponsoring a resolution calling for the President to appoint such an envoy to demonstrate the United States’ commitment to resolving the crisis. This special envoy to Sudan will ensure continuous high-level U.S. engagement in Darfur, and will work to deter a further escalation of violence and humanitarian disaster in that region.

But there is much more, however, that the administration should do to work towards a lasting peace in Darfur. As the most prominent democracy in the world, the U.S. must stand firm and take a leadership role in stopping this genocide. Resolving this conflict and ending the violence should be a high priority for this Congress and for the Bush administration.

The United States must pressure Sudanese allies, particularly those in the Arab League, to ensure that the Sudanese Government agrees to U.N. Security Council Resolution 1706. This resolution calls for 22,500 U.N. troops and police officers to be sent into Darfur to bolster the peacekeeping mission.

So far Sudanese President Omar al-Bashir has rejected the U.S. Security Council Resolution 1706 and thus rejected calls for U.N. peacekeeping troops to enter Darfur. But if the African Union peacekeepers leave at the end of September, and al-Bashir is successful in keeping U.N. forces out of the region, the situation in Darfur will spiral into a worsening tragedy.

The United States cannot in good conscience stand idly by as the horrors in Darfur approach 1 million deaths and 3 million displaced. Families are being destroyed, and people are being murdered. The U.S. and the U.N. have a moral obligation to stop this genocide so we can avoid the failures of Bosnia and Rwanda. Have we not learned anything from those mistakes?

The U.S. must work with NATO to impose a no-fly zone over Darfur to ensure military offensives and bombings are brought to an end. The Sudanese Government is escalating an air war by turning Soviet-era Antonov planes into mortar launchers and using helicopter gunships against mud and thatch huts inhabited by many Sudanese people. We cannot allow these killings to continue, and establishing a no-fly zone will take a step in the right direction to lessen the violence in Darfur.

Madam Speaker, the Sudanese Government has improperly imprisoned American reporters and killed aid workers to try to eliminate any international presence in the country. This kind of aggression must come to an end. If the international troops are forced out of Sudan, the country will spiral further into a land of violence and chaos.

Finally, the U.S. has a moral obligation to take all possible steps to end the humanitarian crisis in the Darfur region of Sudan. We have seen over and over what can happen if the international community does not intervene when people are being systematically murdered and displaced from their homes.

With the African Union forces planning to depart at the end of the month and the Sudanese Government rejecting U.N. peacekeeping forces, the time for full-scale international involvement is now.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Utah (Mr. BISHOP) is recognized for 5 minutes.

(Mr. BISHOP of Utah addressed the House. His remarks will appear hereafter in the Extensions of Remarks.)

EARLINE HEATH KING

Ms. FOXX. Madam Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to speak out of order for 5 minutes.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The previous order of the House is suspended. Without objection, the gentlewoman from North Carolina (Mrs. MCCARTHY) is recognized for 5 minutes.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Without objection, the gentlewoman from North Carolina is recognized for 5 minutes.

Ms. FOXX. Madam Speaker, I am happy to rise today to honor Mrs. Earline Heath King of Winston-Salem, North Carolina, for her exemplary artistic career.

Mrs. King is an internationally recognized sculptor whose work decorates private residences and public places around the world. I am honored to recognize a remarkable woman who at all stages of her life has boldly sought to inspire young minds, adorn public spaces, and share her talents so beautifully with others. At a time when many of us worry about regrets regarding a life foregone, Mrs. King discovered a means to express her creativity that continues to inspire both young and old today.

Born in 1913 in Winston-Salem, North Carolina, Mrs. King did not begin her sculpting career until she was 50 years old. However, while growing up, she discovered an early interest in the arts. She recalls drawing advertisements for her father, a local barber, by drawing ladies with the latest hairstyles. In addition, she found artistic inspiration in her mother's own handiwork of embroidery, knitting, and tatting.

However, Mrs. King's first serious interest in the arts began during her studies at R.J. Reynolds High School in Winston-Salem. After her initial evaluation, she was advised to major in art and music along with her academic curriculum. During this time, Mrs. King learned the basics of art by working in pen and ink, pastels, watercolor, and oils. While in these classes, Mrs. King met her high school sweetheart, Joe King. She recalls that he always entered the art contest and she usually came in second. Before the conclusion of their senior year, they were married.

Mrs. King was awarded a scholarship in music to college the following year, while Joe finished school and worked at the Carolina Theater. The following year they traveled to Washington, D.C. to visit family and tour art museums. Mrs. King was so enthralled with the art opportunities that she applied at a top photography studio for a job as a colorist while she was there. That same day she was offered a job; so the couple quickly packed their belongings and headed for their new home in Washington.

While Mr. King worked as a commercial artist, Mrs. King sewed and used needlepoint to create hats for friends and family in her little free time. Her hats were noticed by a local milliner, and he suggested that she travel to New York and study with a top milliner. Mrs. King was accepted at the Dache millinery and worked as a copier from nine to six. Each day she was given a hat and a bag filled with materials and required to “copy” the original. She later became a hatter fitting hats on celebrities such as Greta Garbo, Mary Pickford, and Loretta Young.

During the summer of 1946, Mr. and Mrs. King returned to Winston-Salem. There Mr. King set up his first professional studio in the old blacksmith’s shop of Reynolda Plantation with the help of John Whitaker, the president of Reynolds Tobacco Company. Within a month Mr. and Mrs. King opened a studio that would remain open for the next 50 years.

It was in the latter stages of these years that Mrs. King first grew interested in sculpture. In the mid-1960s, Mrs. King began her studies with Gardner Gilley of Winston-Salem. When first approached by a friend who asked her to attend the sculpture course, Earline hesitantly replied, thanks but no thanks, believing that she had neither the time nor the talent to take on the challenge. However, when the opportunity presented itself, she went kicking and screaming, but she went. Her studies continued with Bruno Luchesi of New York; followed by Livia Papini of Florence, Italy; and, finally, George Lundeen of Scottsdale, Arizona.

In 1979 she unveiled her first public work, a bronze equestrian monument of Richard Joshua Reynolds, founder of R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Company. She has since completed more than 300 portraits commissions including portraits of Governor James B. Hunt, Jr.; Sir Winston Churchill at the Worrell House in London, England; Dr. Armand Hammer of the Salk Institute in La Jolla, California; and Dr. Camillo Artom of Casa Artom in Venice, Italy.

Her public commissions include: the AirCare memorial for Bowman Gray School of Medicine in Winston-Salem; pieces for the Denver Center for the Performing Arts in Denver, Colorado, Winthrop College in Rock Hill, South Carolina; and works for The Gallery for the Blind at the North Carolina Museum of Art in Raleigh.

Earline’s contributions to the art world expand beyond her own commissioned work. Along with five other painters and sculptors, she opened a gallery over 30 years ago in Winston-Salem called Art Gallery Originals. At their gallery in Reynolda Village, Earline still provides a workshop once a year where emerging artists and novice artists can exhibit their creations.

Each year Mrs. King introduces hundreds of young minds to the inspiring world of creativity through the tutelage of yearly workshops in different communities of North Carolina. Earline’s artworks continue to find homes in galleries, museums, and private residences of prominent collectors throughout the United States and Europe. Her artwork can be viewed in Midtown, Troatman, and ERL galleries in Winston-Salem; the Tyler White Art Gallery in Greensboro; and Curzon Gallery in Boca Raton, Florida.

Mrs. King’s artistic career is one of tremendous inspiration and talent. Her career is marked by a true love for the arts and for creation. I believe that there are few people in life who truly find a passion that keeps them inspired and creating. I believe that Earline Heath King has truly discovered that passion in her life through her art, and I applaud her for the beauty that she has given us all.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. REICHERT). Under a previous order of the House, the gentlewoman from New York (Mrs. MCCARTHY) is recognized for 5 minutes.

(Mrs. MCCARTHY addressed the House. Her remarks will appear hereafter in the Extensions of Remarks.)
INTERNATIONAL DAY OF PEACE

Ms. WOOLSEY. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to speak out of order.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Without objection, the gentlewoman from California is recognized for 5 minutes.

Ms. WOOLSEY. Mr. Speaker, this Thursday, September 21, is the International Day of Peace, as established by the United Nations a quarter century ago. To recognize it, a coalition of peace organizations is mobilizing thousands upon thousands of people around the country in a week's worth of marches, vigils, and rallies. Their goal: an end to the Iraq occupation and the safe return of our troops back home to the United States.

I have signed their Declaration of Peace Congressional Pledge, and I strongly urge my colleagues to do the same. In addition to troop withdrawal, the pledge calls for important post-occupation steps that I and many of my colleagues have been pushing for some time now: among other things, no permanent U.S. military bases in Iraq; a reconciliation process led by the Iraqis which may include an international peace conference; Iraq control over its internal affairs and its rich oil supply; increased support for veterans of the Iraq conflict; the establishment of a peace dividend with the money being spent on occupying Iraq being reinvested in our people so they will have more jobs, stronger schools, better housing, and more efficient and affordable health care.

So how is the Bush administration celebrating International Peace Day? By promising us a semipermanent state of war, an open-ended occupation of Iraq. General Abizaid said today that we will maintain our current troop levels for at least the next 9 months. There you have it. The ultimate ‘stay the course.'

Mr. Speaker, traumatic injury is the leading cause of death in the United States for people under the age of 45. It is the third leading cause of death in the general American population, and each year more than 100,000 men, women, and children are injured severely enough to seek medical care. About 400 of these people will die and another 200 will sustain long-term disability as a result of their injuries. The total cost of traumatic injury in the United States is largely due to motor vehicle trauma, an estimated cost of $260 billion.

Experts estimate that many injury-related deaths could be prevented if a minimum standard of trauma care were available to all Americans. Many areas in the United States do not have appropriate emergency medical services. Several areas report large gaps in transportation coverage and lack of access to emergency nurses and doctors. To illustrate this point, I have a map that shows the areas of the country where residents can reach a trauma center within 60 minutes by flying or driving. This map was created by the National War College’s National War College for Ambulances and Hospitals, which is a computer model designed to aid State and regional planners in their decisions to locate or relocate designated trauma centers and helicopter pads. It is designed to help save lives, adding a life-saving trauma care for our constituents.

Mr. Speaker, the blue areas are within 1-hour driving distance; the pink areas are within 1-hour flying distance.

Recall that the 1-hour time limit is not arbitrary. In emergency medicine, the first hour after injury is referred to as the golden hour. Patients treated within this timespan are more likely to recover or have less long-term effects of their injury. The longer a person waits for treatment, the worse the outcome is likely to be.

Mr. Speaker, I represent an area of north Texas around the Dallas Fort Worth Metroplex, and if you drive from Dallas to Los Angeles, you travel about half of that distance in Texas. That distance in Texas from the Dallas-Ft. Worth area to El Paso is a 10-hour trip. And you can easily make that trip and be outside the range of trauma service almost the entire time. That is a long drive with the potential for an accident throughout the trip.

I recently introduced a bill, H.R. 5555, the Trauma Care Systems Planning and Development Act of 2006. H.R. 5555 would provide grants to State trauma systems to improve the coordination of emergency departments and bolster the safety net from point of injury, transportation, to triage and treatment.

Mr. Speaker, traumatic injury is the leading cause of death in the United States for people under the age of 45. It is the third leading cause of death in the general American population, and each year more than 100,000 men, women, and children are injured severely enough to seek medical care. About 400 of these people will die and another 200 will sustain long-term disability as a result of their injuries. The total cost of traumatic injury in the United States is largely due to motor vehicle trauma, an estimated cost of $260 billion.

Experts estimate that many injury-related deaths could be prevented if a minimum standard of trauma care were available to all Americans. Many areas in the United States do not have appropriate emergency medical services. Several areas report large gaps in transportation coverage and lack of access to emergency nurses and doctors. To illustrate this point, I have a map that shows the areas of the country where residents can reach a trauma center within 60 minutes by flying or driving. This map was created by the National War College’s National War College for Ambulances and Hospitals, which is a computer model designed to aid State and regional planners in their decisions to locate or relocate designated trauma centers and helicopter pads. It is designed to help save lives, adding a life-saving trauma care for our constituents.

Mr. Speaker, the blue areas are within 1-hour driving distance; the pink areas are within 1-hour flying distance.

Recall that the 1-hour time limit is not arbitrary. In emergency medicine, the first hour after injury is referred to as the golden hour. Patients treated within this timespan are more likely to recover or have less long-term effects of their injury. The longer a person waits for treatment, the worse the outcome is likely to be.

Mr. Speaker, I represent an area of north Texas around the Dallas Fort Worth Metroplex, and if you drive from Dallas to Los Angeles, you travel about half of that distance in Texas.

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD—HOUSE

September 19, 2006

There is no nationwide standard for training and certification of emergency medical personnel, and Federal responsibility for oversight is scattered across multiple Federal agencies.

Thirdly, critical specialists are often unavailable for emergency trauma care. Three-quarters of hospitals report difficulty finding specialists to take emergency and trauma calls. Key specialties are in short supply. Specialists often treat emergency room patients without compensation. And there is extremely high medical liability.

Fourthly, the emergency system is ill-prepared to handle a major disaster. There is little surge capacity. The emergency medical services received only 4 percent of Department of Homeland Security first responder funding in 2002 and 2003. Emergency medical technicians in nonfire-based services have less than 1 hour of training in disaster hospital and EMS personnel lack protective equipment to effectively respond to chemical, biological or nuclear threats.

In response to these four deficiencies, the Institute of Medicine made the following recommendations. One, create a coordinated, regionalized and accountable system. Two, create a lead agency. Three, end emergency system boarding and diversion. Fourthly, increase funding for emergency care. Fifthly, enhance emergency care research. And finally, promote the EMS workforce standards.

I have sought with the bill, H.R. 5555, the Trauma Care Systems Planning and Development Act, to address this issue. A coordinated and thoughtful plan must be applied to improve our trauma care system in this country.

Anyone or their family member could need trauma care in the blink of an eye. Wouldn’t we all want to know that we are receiving the very best trauma care available quickly and efficiently?

DEMOCRATS AND THE BUDGET DEFICIT

Mr. DAVIS of Alabama. Permission to speak out of turn, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Without objection, the gentleman from Alabama is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. DAVIS of Alabama. Mr. Speaker, I have the honor of being the first of a series of Democratic speakers tonight about the budget. And my colleagues will talk in some detail about the deficit and the debt and its consequence on the country.

But, if I can, I want to begin with a memory of a 10-year-old child growing up in Montgomery, Alabama. I remember being 10 years old and listening to a very conservative radio commentator talking about the liberal government in Washington, D.C., spending too much money.

I remember hearing this very skilled radio commentator talk about the fact that amazingly the Government of the United States of America was running a $36 billion deficit, and that it might rise to $100 billion the next year.

And I remember hearing that very conservative radio commentator say: If we do not get our hands on our budget, if we do not figure out a way to restore fiscal discipline, there was no way that we can have a strong and solvent economy.

Well, that radio commentator was named Ronald Reagan. He would be elected to the Presidency 2 years later; would forget a lot of what he said. He ended up running up massive deficits during his own time in office.

I begin with that observation, Mr. Speaker, because for the next, what is it, 51 days between now and November 7, we will hear a lot of talk about which party can be trusted to better manage the money of the American people. People talk in bands about this 51 days about the danger of Democrats being fiscally reckless and irresponsible, and we will be told that all we will do is we will tax people too much, and we will spend too much.

And I want to direct my remarks, Mr. Speaker. The President’s approval ratings are rising, we are told, and they are rising for one reason. He has gone from a 70 percent approval rating among Republicans to 86 percent.

And when I read the various political reports that we are regularly favored with in this city, I read the Republican’s strategy on November 7 hinges on one factor: bringing home the base. Bringing home those Republicans in Tennessee and Missouri and Ohio who drifted away, getting them to come back and to believe again.

So I want to direct my remarks, if I can, at the Republican base for a minute. I am not a member of it. We have got a lot of conservatives in Alabama, and I think I can speak to them. It is interesting, Mr. Speaker, I want them to know a few basic facts.

I want them to know that fiscal conservatism has changed its meaning in this country, and that in which they put their votes and in which they put so much faith is now running up these massive deficits, and the Chairman of the President’s Council of Economic Advisors went before a group of Republican-leaning businessmen last week and said, you know what, it doesn’t even matter. Deficits are just things that the statisticians worry about.

I want all of the conservative people who are listening tonight, again, many of whom are in my great State of Alabama, to know that, well, you may be a conservative, I bet you care about the security of your border. One of the reasons we cannot put enough money around enforcing border security is cause of these debts and deficits your government is running up.

To all of the conservatives who are listening tonight, you may be a conservative, but I will bet you would love to see the veterans of this country given adequate benefits, the government that you value so much, the government to which you have given your votes the last several cycles cannot do it because they cannot afford it.

We had a debate on this floor, Mr. Speaker, just 1 year ago, September of 2005. The subject was whether we were going to provide full funding for health care for Guards and reservists. And our esteemed colleagues on the other side of the aisle rose in the Chamber and said, we just cannot afford it; it has got to be held in check, and what your party has become, a conservative party that says the debt does not matter, a conservative party that says that red ink is not important, and a conservative party that cannot find enough money to save the lives of our military, to provide benefits for veterans. It is enough to prevent you from going home. It is enough to make you look at an alternative.

Now, my colleagues will talk tonight, Mr. Speaker, about a lot of other lost opportunities. They will talk about the fact that if we are to put the health care in the Democratic house in order, we could do all kinds of things that we thought we could do just a short time ago. You remember the debates, Mr. Speaker, when there was a $236 billion surplus. Republicans had ideas on what they could do. They talked about middle-class tax cuts instead of upper-end tax cuts. People on my side of the aisle talked about a refurbished commitment to veterans and the health care and education. We cannot debate any of those things right now because of this debt and these deficits.

So I end with that point. The conservatism that is on the ballot on November 7 is a conservatism of missed opportunities. It is a conservatism that has totally changed the notion of what it means to be fiscally responsible. It is a conservatism that is fading and failing for a reason.

I think a lot of people will come home on November 7, Mr. Speaker, but it will not be to a party that used to call itself conservative, it will be to common sense, it will be to a notion of reasonable sacrifice, that it is a notion of shared sacrifice. And that is why I think the ranks will change so much on November 7.
WHAT THE CONSTITUTION SAYS

Mr. BARTLETT of Maryland. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to speak out of order.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Without objection, the gentleman from Maryland is recognized for 5 minutes.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. BURTON) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. BARTLETT of Maryland. Mr. Speaker, a few days ago we paused to recognize Constitution Day. I thought it would be appropriate this evening if we spent a few moments looking at the Constitution.

But in order to really understand the milieu in which the Constitution was created, I think we need to go back 11 years before the Constitution was ratified to the Declaration of Independence. In there we read these words: We hold these truths to be self-evident that all men are created equal.

And, Mr. Speaker, we mouth those words today, and then we move on to the next clause, and they mean so little to us compared to what they meant to our Founding Fathers. You see, most of our Founding Fathers came from countries in the British Isles and in Europe that were ruled by a king or an emperor. They do not have a right in the Constitution or these amendments understood that essentially all of the rights belonged to the people.

And then the most violated amendment in the Constitution, the 10th amendment. The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution nor prohibited to the States are reserved to the States respectively or to the people.

What this really says in plain everyday English, without the old English and the legalese, is if you cannot find it in Article I, section 8, you cannot do it.

Now, we are doing a great many things in this Congress that neither I nor anyone else can find a sound basis for in the Constitution, and this is pretty widely recognized. As evidence of that, I have, and I think this was a joke from Jay Leno, that is one of the places that it was heard. “They keep talking about drafting a Constitution for Iraq. Why don’t we just give them ours? It was written by a lot of really smart guys, it has worked for over 200 years, and we are not using it any more.”

Mr. Speaker, this general recognition on the part of the citizenry that we are now largely ignoring the Constitution ought to cause us to rethink what we are doing.

I am not saying that the things that we are doing are not things that we ought to be doing. What I am saying is we ought not be ignoring the Constitution. That has put us on a very slippery slope. If I can argue it is okay to do these things, like philanthropy, health care and education, I am not arguing that these are not things that the Federal Government might ought to be doing. I am simply arguing that if we are going to do them, we need to have amended the Constitution, because I am very concerned that the Constitution now, that we can ignore it in the future for some very important civil liberty that we have.

Mr. Speaker, I am very concerned that the general malaise on our part in the future, and I think that we need to look at every law that we pass to make sure there is a firm basis in the Constitution.

This is a wonderful document. We have one person in 22. We have a fourth of all the good things in the world. I think it is because of the milieu that was established by this Constitution, the civil rights. No other constitution, no other bill of rights provides such civil liberties. To remain who we are, I think that we need to stick by our Constitution.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Florida (Ms. CORRINE BROWN) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Ms. CORRINE BROWN of Florida addressed the House. Her remarks will appear hereafter in the Extensions of Remarks.

DEMOCRATS ARE PREPARED TO LEAD THE COUNTRY IN A NEW DIRECTION

Ms. SCHWARTZ of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to speak out of order for 5 minutes.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Without objection, the gentlewoman from Pennsylvania is recognized for 5 minutes.

Ms. SCHWARTZ of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, the budgets crafted by the Bush administration and the Republican majority do not address our national short-term or long-term objectives or the values of our Nation. It is time for a new direction.

To meet our Nation’s goals of economic security for our families and security for our homeland, Democrats have offered a plan.

Democrats believe in paying down the debt and maintaining fiscal restraint and discipline.

Democrats believe in real investment in life-long education which enables every American to reach their potential and strengthens the long-term financial security of our families and our Nation.

Democrats believe in budgets that invest in our armed services to defend our homeland and to protect the men and women who defend us. Democrats believe in tax fairness and tax cuts for the middle class. We believe in helping Americans pay for college, buy their first home, find affordable health insurance, and save for retirement. We understand the priorities of everyday Americans.

The Republican budgets of the last 5 years have failed to meet each of these objectives. At a time when American families are facing stagnant wages and ever-increasing bills for child care, for health care, for college tuition and for gas at the pump, the Republican Congress has failed to address these day-to-day concerns. Instead, they have enacted tax cuts for the very wealthy. My constituents want Congress to address their needs, not the wants and desires of a select few. It is clear which side the majority has chosen.

Instead of budgeting fairly, the Republicans have relied on smoke-and-mirror, borrow-and-spend gimmicks. They don’t include the war in Iraq and the military activities in Afghanistan in the budget, they don’t include the massive costs of repealing the estate tax for estates valued at $10 million or more, and they don’t include the full cost of the Medicare part D prescription drug benefit. Despite these efforts to keep costs hidden, their budget schemes create new deficits every year and have added nearly $3.5 trillion to our national debt.

Mr. Speaker, American families deserve better and they deserve a new direction. By making smart investments in America’s future, the Republican budgets have run up massive deficits each year and have added to our national debt, so that as of now our national debt is nearly $3.5 trillion. This means that we spend more on interest payments on our debt than the combined Federal investments in education, homeland security, and veterans health care combined. The Nation’s debt is unsustainable and it is immoral.

Mr. Speaker, American families deserve better. They deserve a new direction.

Mr. Speaker, the budget policies of the Bush administration and this Republican Congress leave our Nation less secure. Their schemes rely on borrowing more and more money from foreign investors. More money, mind you, than the amount borrowed by all past American Presidents combined.

And in enhancing our safety at home and bolstering our security abroad, the Republican Congress continues to underfund important security initiatives at our ports, chemical plants and along our borders, this at the same time they are failing to enacted many of the 9/11 Commission’s recommendations, including enabling our police and firefighters to communicate seamlessly.

Mr. Speaker, American families expect the government to make the necessary investments to keep them safe, and they believe that the American Dream should be available to everyone, not a select few. They deserve a new direction.

Democrats understand that unless we change course, the harmful effects of the Republicans’ borrow-and-spend budget policies will only continue.

Democrats have a plan that makes tough, fiscally disciplined choices, to restore our budget to balance and to meet our obligations to American families; Democrats have a plan that fulfills the basic budgetary principles of living within our means; and Democrats have a plan to reduce wasteful spending and make smart investments in all Americans that will ensure the Nation’s current and future fiscal well-being and protect the safety, security and freedoms that make our Nation great.

Mr. Speaker, Americans work hard every day. My constituents work hard every day to meet their obligations to their families, to their communities and to their Nation. We must honor their commitment, and we should not just stand by and walk away from our obligations to them.

Mr. Speaker, the Democrats are committed to fiscal responsibility, the Democrats are committed to the future of our Nation, and the Democrats are prepared to lead the Nation in a new direction.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Kansas (Mr. MORAN) is recognized for 5 minutes.

(Mr. MORAN of Kansas addressed the House. His remarks will appear hereafter in the Extensions of Remarks.)

SUPPORT THE FEDERAL ELECTION INTEGRITY ACT

Mr. WESTMORELAND. Permission to speak out of turn.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Without objection, the gentleman from Georgia is recognized for 5 minutes.

There was no objection.

Mr. WESTMORELAND. Mr. Speaker, this week the House will take up the Federal Election Integrity Act. The Federal Election Integrity Act will ensure American elections of Americans, for Americans, and by Americans. This measure promotes fairness and simply assures compliance with U.S. law. All citizens who hold a stake in our electoral system, and we owe it to our constituents to crack down on voter fraud.

For these reasons, I have long supported photo ID requirements for voters in Georgia. In fact, Georgia enacted into law such a requirement in the past year. Nearly all voters already have a government-issued photo ID, such as a driver’s license or a passport. Georgia made photo IDs available to all citizens and offered them for free to those who could not afford the nominal fee. With these safeguards in place, it makes no sense to argue that photo ID requirements disenfranchise certain segments of our population.

Photo ID requirements actually protect the sanctity of every legal vote. The greatest threat to the constitutional right to vote is voter fraud. A legal voter whose ballot is canceled out by the ballot of an illegal voter has effectively been disenfranchised. We seek not to suppress the vote to promote the sanctity of the ballot.

The Federal Election Integrity Act will require in the 2008 election that voters show a photo ID. In 2010 it will require that voters show a photo ID that could not be obtained without proof of citizenship. I have supported such efforts in the past, and I will support this bill.

Though I have acted consistently throughout my career in public service to promote fair and honest elections, I fear the House debate will be rife with irony. You see, just 2 months ago, this House voted by a lopsided margin to trample the equal protection clause of the Constitution and to violate the sovereignty of the State of Georgia by extending the Voting Rights Act for 25 years.

I joined several of my colleagues from Georgia on this floor to educate Members of the House on our State’s tremendous progress on voter equity. We presented hard evidence that the Georgia of 2006 is far removed from the Georgia of 1964. We proved that Georgia is no different than any other State when it comes to voter equality.

After I defended the honor and integrity of my State, the chairman of the Judiciary Committee slurred my State’s record. He entered into the RECORD a statement that said: “The record since 1982 makes clear that Georgia and its political subdivisions have not progressed beyond the need for the temporary provisions of the Voting Rights Act.” As evidence of ongoing problems in Georgia, the chairman of the Judiciary Committee and others cited Georgia’s photo identification law.

Now, the nearly 400 Members who voted to penalize Georgia should reflect on that vote. They need to ask themselves what changed between July and September of this year. Why was it bad in July to have a photo ID requirement for my home State of Georgia, but okay in September to have a photo ID requirement nationwide?

Make no mistake, I will be voting for the Federal Election Integrity Act. I only wish it went further, to make all sections of the Voting Rights Act applicable to all States and to make all ballots be in English only.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Texas (Mr. GOHMERT) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. GOHMERT addressed the House. His remarks will appear hereafter in the Extensions of Remarks.)

SUPPORTING A NEW DIRECTION FOR AMERICA

Mr. BISHOP of New York. Mr. Speaker, let me start by thanking the gentleman from Alabama for organizing this debate.

Mr. Speaker, Americans work hard every day. My constituents work hard every day to meet their obligations to their families, to their communities and to their Nation. We must honor their commitment, and we should not just stand by and walk away from our obligations to them.

Mr. Speaker, the Democrats are committed to fiscal responsibility, the Democrats are committed to the future of our Nation, and the Democrats are prepared to lead the Nation in a new direction.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from New York (Mr. BISHOP) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. BISHOP of New York. Mr. Speaker, let me start by thanking the gentleman from Alabama for organizing this debate.

Two weeks short of the end of the fiscal year of 2006 and with no budget in place for fiscal 2007. I commend my distinguished Democratic colleagues on the Budget Committee for taking this time to call America's attention to the fiscal challenges resulting from the Republicans' misguided policies and the wrong choices they have made for our economy. Misleading spending priorities and bad decisions have consequences. They are leading us further down the path to fiscal ruin and expanding the wedge between middle-class families and the superwealthy.

I asked in my colleagues to highlight the hypocrisy of the overriding Republican economic philosophy that extending dividends, capital gains and other tax cuts for millionaires and corporations create a rising tide that lifts all boats.

Five years after the President's $1.5 trillion tax cut, our national debt now approaches $10 trillion. If our tax cuts performed as promised by those across the aisle, an exploding economy would have wiped out this debt. We have already proven that more needs to be done than just hope that sooner or later tax cuts will reach Americans who need help the most. But those who do need help must get in line with the benefits of tax cuts for millionaires and corporations will ultimately trickle down to them.

Perhaps the expanding gulf between the haves and the almost-haves is best illustrated by the fact that wages and salaries now make up the lowest share of gross domestic product since the government began keeping records on that in 1947, while corporate profits continue to break all-time records. Meanwhile, the buying power of the minimum wage has sunk to its lowest level in 50 years.

What is missing are policies that ensure that the benefits of higher corporate earnings, productivity and globalization are widely shared, such as renewed and strong support for higher education, a progressive Tax Code and affordable health care.

When choices are made at the expense of our safety net, choices that benefit the top 1 percent who will never struggle to pay a mortgage, never struggle to keep up with gas prices, never struggle to put their children through school, it is clear that a new direction for our economy is long overdue.

How can the Republicans argue that this economy is bound in the right direction when our Nation is saddled with record-breaking deficits over 4 consecutive years, combined with deep and painful cuts to hospitals, to schools, and to security? At least the Republicans' budget outlook since 2001 has been consistent. Americans could bank on the American budgets to slash funding for proven homeland security programs, veterans benefits, education and health care priorities, all the while cutting taxes for millionaires who need the break the least.

As real-life indicators of poor Federal spending choices, such as stagnant wages, soaring crime rates and rising health care premiums and drug prices begin to take their toll on Americans, it is our responsibility to react. Instead, inaction reigns under the direction of the current leadership. In some cases, this inaction has yielded a record federal deficit, such as an energy bill that does more for oil and gas companies than lower gas prices, a Medicare bill that does more for drug companies and HMOs than make life-saving drugs affordable, a pension bill that features corporate boards while ignoring the decline of traditional defined benefit plans.

Eleven days away from the start of the fiscal year, the record of this Republican Congress on the economy shows that we have not completed a budget or a single appropriations bill.

Fiscal irresponsibility has reached unprecedented new lows, depending on how you look at it. The debt limit has been raised for the fifth time in as many years to almost $10 trillion. Perhaps we shouldn't be worried. After all, the President's budget director said last month that $200 billion annual deficits are sustainable indefinitely. Apparently normal budget rules don't apply to this administration. But they do apply to a middle-class family of four living on Long Island whose monthly cost-of-living expenses, due mostly to rising gas prices and health care costs, are rapidly exceeding wage increases. Perhaps their creditors and collection agents will understand that outstanding debts owed by families sinking deeper into red ink are sustainable indefinitely.

We can fix this mess. We have the blueprint—a new direction for America. And we only need to look to past and proven methods, like the pay-as-you-go budget rules that were enforced in the previous administration and produced surpluses that helped us start buying down our national debt.

Indeed, we do. We resolve to restore what should be the goals of our Federal budget, to reflect the priority of our Nation, to build a strong economy, and to set policies that reflect the values and priorities of the mainstream of Americans.

Mr. Speaker, I look forward to working with all of my colleagues who recognize that it is long past time to reverse course on this economy and support a new direction for America.

* 2005 BUDGET

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. REICHERT). Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from North Carolina (Mr. Etheridge) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. ETHERIDGE. Mr. Speaker, I rise tonight to join my Democratic colleagues to call for a new direction in our Federal budget priorities. I want to thank my friend Artur Davis from the Budget Committee and the Democratic committee staff for arranging this series of speeches on this very important subject.

The Federal budget is much more than a boring government document or irrelevant policy paper. The Federal budget is our Nation's mission statement. The budget is our collective expression of our national priorities, and it reflects the values of our national leadership. Unfortunately, the values of the current national leadership, as presented in the Federal budget, are a sorry state of affairs.

I am very proud that during my first term in this United States House, Congress and the President joined together to move toward balancing the Federal budget for the first time in decades. Democrats and Republicans reached across the partisan aisle and worked together to balance the books for the first time in over a generation.

The surpluses generated from the balanced budget were used to pay down the national debt, strengthen the Social Security Trust Fund and to make key investments in essential services like education and health. And we had enough left over to fund cutting-edge research and to open the gateway to America's economic future and quality of life.

Unfortunately, all of that progress was reversed when the current administration took office. The current administration and the Republican Party bosses here in Congress have passed incredibly irresponsible budgets with disastrous results for our economy and for future generations. These record deficits and rising national debt present a crushing burden as we legacy and produce profound neglect of our basic infrastructure.

Just this morning, the Raleigh, North Carolina, News and Observer reported my State is running billions of dollars short in funding to rejuvenate aging roads, schools and water systems. The 2006 North Carolina Infrastructure Report Card by the American Society of Engineers gave my State a C-minus grade on nine key categories of infrastructure readiness.

Mr. Speaker, I believe the Federal Government needs to work in partnership with our States and local communities to meet the needs of our people.

I have worked for several years with my friend Congressman CHARLIE RANGEL of the Ways and Means Committee to pass Federal legislation to leverage school bonds on the local level. This legislation will make a real difference throughout America to build new schools, relieve overcrowding, enhance safety and improve education for our children. Unfortunately, under the current Republican regime, we cannot even get a hearing on the Rangel-Etheridge bill.

Far worse than not passing new bills, the Republican budget fails to pay for the laws they have put on the books. For example, the No Child Left Behind, which the President bragged about as his signature legislation reform achievement, has never been fully funded. To date, Republicans in the White House and Congress have shortchanged our schools roughly $50 billion that they promised under No Child Left Behind. Talk to any educator. They can tell you. Promises unmet are programs unfulfilled.

This disgraceful record is a direct result of those misguided budgets. I believe in my bones that public education is one of the best investments that we can make building a bright future, but under the current Federal budget, the taxpayers will pay nearly three times as much to service the interest on the national debt as we will invest in education at the Federal level, and nearly 45 percent of that national debt is held by foreign investors like China, Japan, Europe and elsewhere.

Mr. Speaker, America needs a new direction. The first place we can start is reversing the current budget priorities that we have that are out of touch with our American values.

I congratulate my colleagues for leading this series of speeches on this important issue.

IMMINENT CRISIS IN DARFUR

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. DOYLE) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. DOYLE. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to call on my colleagues in the House to act quickly on an issue where literally thousands of lives hang in the balance. I speak, of course, of the situation in Darfur, where the Sudanese Government is pursuing a policy of genocide.

This is different than your run-of-the-mill civil war. This is a case in which a government has pursued policies of widespread destruction, rape and murder in order to destroy entire tribes that it considers enemies.

The Sudanese Government and its allies consciously target civilians. I do not care which term you prefer, a systematic violation of human rights, violations of international law, ethnic cleansing, war crimes, crimes against humanity, or genocide, the indisputable bottom line is that the Sudanese Government is carrying out and supporting acts so reprehensible and so horrible that no one with the ability to take action can, in good conscience, fail to do so.

For the last 3 years, the Sudanese Government and its proxies, the Janjaweed militias, have been attacking villages in Darfur; destroying homes, crops and properties; and killing, raping and torturing innocent civilians in a concerted effort to destroy, or at least displace, the tribes most closely associated with the Darfur rebel groups. As a result of this violence and the resulting starvation, exposure and disease, 300,000 people have died, and 2 million more are refugees.

A cease-fire agreement was reached in 2004, and the Sudanese Government agreed to monitoring by an African Union force of 7,000 troops.

The deployment of this African mission in Sudan, inadequate though it was to oversee an area the size of Texas, forced the Sudanese Government and the Janjaweed militias to be a bit more surreptitious about their genocidal activities, which continued, but at a significantly slower pace.

The Sudanese Government and one rebel faction signed a peace agreement this past May. Nevertheless, the killing by government forces and the Janjaweed militias has continued. In fact, the Sudanese Government has launched a major military offensive to finish the job in Darfur before it is compelled by international pressure to allow the U.N. peacekeepers into the region. This is a major violation of the Darfur peace agreement.

The mandate of the African Union peacekeeping mission in Darfur is set to expire at the end of September, just over a week from now. At that point there will be no military force protecting the people of Darfur from the central government and the Janjaweed militias, and no official observers to deter the Sudanese military and militias by bearing witness to their acts.

Thus, the U.S. Congress, as it considers the Sudanese Government’s genocidal policies will be gone, and many of us are worried that what will follow will rival the level of death and destruction inflicted in Rwanda 12 years ago. Moreover, without the AU peacekeepers in place, humanitarian aid deliveries will grind to a halt, endangering the 3 million people who rely on that aid for survival.

Millions of lives are at stake, and the only practical solution at hand is an extension of the AMIS peacekeeping force’s mandate. The AU Peace and Security Council is expected to approve the AMIS mandate tomorrow. We need to do our part as well.

Recently the other body adopted an amendment to the 2007 defense appropriations bill that would increase funding the African Mission in Sudan by $20 million. The other body, to its great credit, recognized the fact that only the African Mission in Sudan can prevent the likely deaths of thousands of people.

I rise today to urge my colleagues to adopt this provision in the conference report, in this appropriations bill. We have no morally acceptable choice but to act and act quickly. Let us do our part to prevent more deaths in Darfur.

IRAN’S NUCLEAR AMBITION

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from California (Mr. SHERMAN) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. SHERMAN. Mr. Speaker, the President of Iran has just addressed the United Nations General Assembly. He well could have declared victory. Hezbollah, a creature of Iran, created and funded by Iran, attacked Israel. The resulting conflict diverted attention from Iran’s nuclear program and bolstered Iran’s position in the Middle East. Our invasion of Iraq has removed the chess board what was once a bloody rival of Iran for power in its own region, and now Iraq says America’s strength.

Mahmoud Ahmadinejad came to New York with a stamp of approval for his country’s nuclear program from the 100-plus members of the nonaligned movement, where he led a festival of America-bashing.

Most importantly, Ahmadinejad has brazenly ignored the August 31 deadline from the United Nations Security Council to cease enrichment of nuclear fuel.

A nuclear Iran would be a catastrophe. That regime has already been listed as number one on the list of state sponsors of terrorism year after year by our own State Department. The threat to our national security, our allies, and our allies’ ability to maintain a balance of power in the region, is a real and present danger.
With nuclear weapons, Iran could blatantly sponsor the most horrific terrorist events, feeling itself immune from retaliation. The Iranian regime could terrorize its Muslim neighbors and interrupt their oil exports, because it could literally build a Middle East State to develop their own nuclear weapons. If the Tehran regime got just a little bit crazier than they are, it could smuggle a weapon into the United States and then threaten to use it if we did not change our policies.

Finally, if that regime were about to be overthrown, and many of us look forward to that day, it could use its nuclear weapons against its own people, or it could use them against Israel as a final parting act.

Ahmadinejaddeclared in one of his recent famous diatribes that the United States should bow down and surrender.

Mr. Ahmadinejad, we already have. Our unilateral concessions began in 1999 when we opened our markets to Iranian exports, not oil which we could use, nor the stuff Iran cannot sell elsewhere like caviar.

Since then we have acquiesced in World Bank loans to the Iranian Government. We allow corporations to do business in Iran through their foreign governments. We allow corporations to do business in Iran through their foreign governments. We allow corporations to do business in Iran through their foreign governments. We allow corporations to do business in Iran through their foreign governments. We allow corporations to do business in Iran through their foreign governments. We allow corporations to do business in Iran through their foreign governments. We allow corporations to do business in Iran through their foreign governments.

Mr. Ahmadinejad, we already have. Our unilateral concessions began in 1999 when we opened our markets to Iranian exports, not oil which we could use, nor the stuff Iran cannot sell elsewhere like caviar.

Since then we have acquiesced in World Bank loans to the Iranian Government. We allow corporations to do business in Iran through their foreign subsidiaries. And last year we opened the door to Iran's membership in the WTO.

For 6 years, the Bush administration has violated U.S. law by refusing to apply the Iran-Libya Sanctions Acts to billions of dollars of investment in the Iranian oil sector. All this while energy sanctions were effective in reducing Libya's behavior.

Most recently, Condoleezza Rice and President Bush personally approved a visa for a five-city U.S. propaganda tour by Ahmadinejad's predecessor, former Iranian President Khatami.

Amazingly, the U.S. taxpayer picked up part of the tab for Khatami's terrorism promotion tour. We paid for the security. As you remember, the last time there were American officials in Iran, there wasn't much security and they were taken hostage and held for 44 days.

There is a certain symmetry to all this, Mr. Speaker. According to the 9/11 Commission, during the administration of Khatami, Iran used its taxpayer dollars to provide safe harbor and protection to al Qaeda terrorists. Now U.S. tax dollars are used to provide safe harbor and protection to Khatami for Khatami.

The failure of this administration to persuade the U.N. Security Council, particularly Russia and China, to impose sanctions on Iran for developing nuclear weapons is the greatest diplomatic embarrassment the United States has suffered in its history. Why? Why did they fail? Because they refuse the concept of linkage. We seek Russia's help on Iran while refusing to make the slightest concession on issues Russia cares about like Moldavia, Chechnya, Obkazia, any reasonable U.S. policy which subordinates these issues that are minor to us to the goal of preventing a nuclear Iran.

Likewise, we refuse to link how China deals with Iran with how we deal with China on trade issues, such as how we choose to respond to their legally questionable currency manipulations.

Mr. Speaker, the options are clear. We can use all our economic and diplomatic power, including linkage, to stop Ahmadinejad's nuclear weapon program, or we can bow down and surrender.

Actually, the Bush administration has embraced a third option. Talk tough, avoid effective action, especially linkage, and take solace in the fact that the policy failure will not become manifest and Iran will not develop and test a nuclear weapon until after 2008. Bush refuses linkage. We are doomed to a nuclear Iran.

CONGRESSIONAL CONSTITUTION CAUCUS CONSTITUTION HOUR

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mrs. McCarthy, of Minnesota) ordered the House, the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. GARRETT) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. GARRETT of New Jersey. Mr. Speaker, we come to the floor tonight for our weekly Constitution Caucus Constitution Hour to honor the annual Constitution Day, September 17. September 17 marks the anniversary of the signing of our founding legal document, the U.S. Constitution.

On September 17, 1787, 39 revolutionary and visionary Founding Fathers changed the course of history and this country and the world, securing liberties and freedoms that centuries of civilization had only dreamed of before and that democracies around the world have tried to emulate ever since. I encourage all of my colleagues to use this occasion to remind us all and all Americans of the true intent of the U.S. Constitution and all the rights and the liberties that are guaranteed to them when our government was first formed.

Today more than ever before these freedoms are too often encroached upon by every branch of government.

Unfortunately, for most Americans, the Constitution is nothing more than a historical document, really, too often cited, and cited inaccurately, and nearly always greatly misunderstood.

Still more unfortunate, this esteemed body of General Government have lowered the standard of constitutional understanding and adherence, and so it is no wonder the general public has little interest or comprehension of the intent of our Nation's Founding Fathers. Just today, for example, if someone tuned in to see the discussion on C-SPAN of what was going on on the floor, the House was debating, as if, you might say, a school board was debating, for we were looking at legislation of how schools should be run without regard to their securities within their confines.

Thomas Jefferson was once asked the question, why is it that the Federal Government does not regulate and promote schools throughout the country? And he answered the question by saying: Madam, we shall do so when the Constitution is amended to say that we have the right and constitutional power to do so. But until that time, we shall not.

Here in the House floor today, unfortunately, we were doing just that, acting as if this was one large superschool board for the entire 50 States of this country.

But we were happy to come to the floor, along with my colleague from Utah, earlier this evening and other members of the caucus to help reorient the conversation to the original beliefs of our Founding Fathers and purposes of our founding documents. I think we have become a society that has begun to take for granted our systems of self-government and our liberties and freedoms. You know, gone are the days of the tyrannical rulers that inspired patriots to dump tea in the Boston Harbor or compel Patrick Henry to cry out, "Give me liberty or give me death," or motivated such important luminaries as General George Washington, who successfully led a patchwork of army of little resources and even less hope to take up arms against one of the mightiest armies in the world for their freedom.

As societies around the world are currently struggling to establish or maintain democracy as the true model of self-government, let us not forget the many rights that we possess and the single document that protects them.

So as we celebrate the anniversary of our signing of our Nation's most significant legal document, let us each and every one of us try to better familiarize ourselves with it. Highlighting and understanding what the Constitution actually says; what the intent of the authors actually was, and how it is now interpreted, stretched, or ignored will empower the public, like our forefathers once did, to stand up for our innate rights and to resist the growth of government at every level.

You see, Mr. Speaker, it is easy to let our rights slip away, but tremendously difficult to get them back ever again. The best weapons that we have against either of those things ever happening is to arm ourselves with the knowledge found in the United States Constitution.

And so I conclude as I had once before on this floor, to encourage this House to adopt legislation that is pending right now called the AMERICA Act, which is simply asking every Member of this body to on a yearly basis to simply read the Constitution, and their staffs as well. Let us start in this body to have an understanding of the Constitution and to share that belief with the American public as well.
SUDAN TEETERING ON THE EDGE OF DISASTER

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentlewoman from Texas (Ms. JACKSON-LEE) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. As the end of the Congressional session begins to revolve and the session business or unfinished business is recognized for 5 minutes.

You have not sat down on the ground with the women in a circle as I have in those refugee camps listening to women who would not look at me face to face, who hid their eyes and their faces, who didn’t want to talk about the massive rapes over and over again. They killed the men and one man in. Before they raped their bodies by going out to be raped, because if the men went out they would be murdered. Is this not a call to action? Is this not a reason to tell the President of Sudan to stand down and step aside?

We have gone into conflict and we have had rousing and vigorous debates on lesser items than this. And so to the President who is now at the United Nations, it is time to turn these three days of the general assembly around issues of severity. There is life or death matters going on in Sudan. And might I just say this: just a few weeks ago, there was some sort of survey that categorized the Members of Congress and their response to these issues. Unfortunately, it was a skewed survey, because one of the amendments that it scored was an amendment that this Congress utilized to make a point by taking money away from Egypt. Obviously, that is not the right way to go when you talk about the problem of Sudan. The way to solve the problem for Sudan is to put an allotment of dollars that doesn’t take away from any one and enhances both the resources necessary for bringing those violent perpetrators out of there and away from those refugees, and as well supporting the African Union peacekeepers.

FURTHER MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE

A further message from the Senate by Ms. Curtis, one of its clerks, announced that the Senate has passed a bill of the following title in which the concurrence of the House is requested: S. 2863. An act to designate certain land in New England as wilderness for inclusion in the National Wilderness Preservation system and certain land as a National Reservation Area, and for other purposes.

The message also announced that the Senate insists upon its amendment to the bill (H.R. 2864) “An Act to provide for the conservation and development of water and related resources, to authorize the Secretary of the Army to construct various projects for improvements to rivers and harbors of the United States, and for other purposes,” agrees to a conference with the House on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses thereon, and appoints Mr. Inhofe, Mr. Sessions, Mr. Baucus, Mr. Voinovich, Mr. Chafee, Ms. Murkowski, Mr. Vitter, Mr. Jeffords, Mr. Baucus, Mr. Lieberman, Mrs. Boxer, and Mr. Carper, to be the conference on the part of the Senate.

REAL SECURITY SPECIAL ORDER

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under the Speaker’s announced policy of January 4, 2005, the gentleman from California (Mr. SCHIFF) is recognized for 60 minutes as the designee of the minority leader.

Mr. SCHIFF. Madam Speaker, 229 years ago today, American forces under the command of General Horatio Gates defeated the British at Saratoga, New York. This battle and the subsequent engagement at Saratoga several weeks later turned the tide of the American Revolution and were crucial in securing the survival of our fledgling Nation.

More than two centuries later, the United States is the most powerful Nation on Earth, but we face myriad challenges to our national security that our revolutionary forebears could not have imagined.

Throughout much of our history, the security of our Nation was an issue that was above politics. America’s leaders put aside their differences and, working together, ensured that our country remained strong and free. Unfortunately, Madam Speaker, that bipartisan tradition has been cast aside by our GOP colleagues who have sought for the last three decades to portray the Democratic Party as weak on defense or insufficiently concerned with defending the United States. Never mind that this wholly distorts the historical record of Democrats who have always, always answered the Nation’s call to lead in the defense of our country. It was Woodrow Wilson, a Democrat, who led America during the first World War and vowed to make the world safe for democracy.

It was Franklin Roosevelt, a Democrat, who guided our Nation and the entire free world through World War II. It was Harry Truman, a Democrat, who made the tough decisions to use the atomic bomb against Japan to contain Soviet expansionism after the war and to confront the North Korean attack against South Korea in 1950.

It was John Kennedy, a Democrat, who went eyeball to eyeball with Nikita Khrushchev during the Cuban missile crisis.

These great leaders and their successors, including Lyndon Johnson and Bill Clinton, never shied away from the hard fights, and our friends on the other side of the aisle know it. Nevertheless, Republicans have continued to try to scare the American people into believing that only they can protect the country.

This shameful use of national security as a political wedge issue has reached new lows since the September 11 attacks. In 2002 and 2003, in this election season, Republicans from President Bush on down have used terrorism as a political issue. In doing,
September 19, 2006

they have up-ended America’s long tradition of optimism, self-confidence and bipartisanship on national security.

In 1933, President Roosevelt told a Nation shaken by 3 years of depression that the only thing we have to fear is fear itself. President Bush has spent the last 5 years telling the American people the only thing we really have to fear is the loss of GOP rule.

My colleagues, including the distinguished gentleman from Maryland (Mr.
HOYER), the other distinguished gentleman from Georgia (Mr. SCOTT), and the gentleman from my home State of California (Mr. CARDOZA) will join tonight in a message to the American people that we must change course from the administration’s policies which have endangered our country, and that Democrats will do a better job at protecting the country.

Our Plan, Real Security, was developed with the assistance of a broad range of experts, former military officers, retired diplomats, law enforcement personnel, homeland security experts, media who helped identify key areas where current policies have failed and where new ones are needed.

The Real Security Plan rests on five pillars. They involve the creation of a 21st century military, a smart strategy to win the war on terror, a plan to secure our homeland, a way forward in Iraq, and a proposal for achieving energy independence for America by 2020.

Under Real Security, a Democratic Congress will rebuild the state-of-the-art military by making needed investments in equipment and manpower so we can project to protect America wherever and whenever necessary.

We have all heard stories of parents throughout the country using their own money to purchase body armor for their children serving in Iraq. I have asked Secretary Rumsfeld about the shortage of body armor and the lack of properly armored vehicles, about setbacks in the procurement of equipment to counter roadside bombs that have killed and maimed so many of our troops. Despite his assurances, the last few months have seen a spike in the number of IED attacks against American forces in Iraq, and they seem more lethal than ever.

Under Real Security, Democrats will guarantee all of our troops have the protective gear, the equipment, the training and are never sent to war without accurate intelligence and a strategy for success.

I have been to Iraq three times, Afghanistan twice. I visit our troops warmed here at home, there in Germany and at the funerals of my constituents killed in Iraq. I have sat with their families as they have mourned. These experiences have re-forced my sense of commitment to ensuring the well-being of America’s so-diers and their families and our veterans.

Democrats will enact a GI Bill of Rights for the 21st Century that guarantees our troops, Active, Reserve, retired, our veterans and their families, receive the pay, health care, mental health services and other benefits they have earned and deserve.

Our Active military are stretched to the breaking point, our Guard and Reservists have also been ground down by multiple deployments, falling enlistment and reenlistment. This has, in turn, added to the stress.

I remember meeting one young marine from California when I was in Iraq who had been there for 9 months and was on his way home. His wife, also in the service of this country, was on her way to Iraq. These are the kinds of deployments that are so taxing on our military families.

As a part of Real Security, Democrats will strengthen our National Guard in partnership with our Nation’s Governors to ensure it is fully manned, properly equipped and available to meet missions abroad.

The next pillar of Real Security is a broad strategy to win the war on terror. Four-and-a-half years, five years after 9/11, Osama bin Laden is still at large. Al Qaeda has morphed into a worldwide amorphous network we cells that are almost difficult to track down.

When Democrats are in charge, we will make the elimination of Osama bin Laden our first priority. We will destroy al Qaeda and other terrorist networks and finish the job in Afghanistan, Pakistan and the swamps of Taliban. We propose to double the size of our Special Forces, increase our human intelligence capabilities, and ensure that our intelligence is free from political pressure.

Despite their vow to drain the swamp, the administration has done little to eliminate terrorist breeding grounds by combating the economic, social and political conditions that allow extremism to thrive. Democrats will fight terrorism with all the means at our disposal, using military force
when necessary, but also leading international efforts to uphold and defend human rights and renew the long-standing alliances that have advanced our national security objectives.

Under Real Security, we will confront the specter of nuclear terrorism by greatly accelerating the pace at which we are securing nuclear material that can be used to make a nuclear weapon. We want to make sure all the means at our disposal, using military force
when necessary, but also leading international efforts to uphold and defend human rights and renew the long-standing alliances that have advanced our national security objectives.

As a part of Real Security, Democrats will provide firefighters, emergency medical workers, police officers, and other workers on the front lines with the training, the equipment and the cutting-edge technology that they need.

The immediate threats to our national security come from terrorists, we face other dangers as well. Democrats are committed to a security strategy that will protect America from biological terrorism and nuclear threats, including the threat of bird flu, by investing in the public health infrastructure and training public health workers.

There are four pillars. The one that will have the most immediate effect on our security and the longest-term effect on our security, is to chart a new course in Iraq that will ensure that in the coming months we see a significant transition to full Iraqi sovereignty, with the Iraqis assuming primary reponsibility for securing and governing their country with a responsible rede-ployment of U.S. forces.

Democrats will insist that Iraqis maker the political compromises that are necessary to unite their country, defeat the insurgency, and we will pro-

cells, solar and wind. We will promote hybrid and flex-fuel technology in manufacturing, enhance energy efficiency and conservation measures. All of this we will do, and more, to meet the real national security needs of our country.

We are joined tonight by the minority whip, the gentleman from Maryland (Mr. HOYER), who has been a great leader on national security issues. I would invite the minority whip to address us this evening, along with our colleague from Maryland and our colleague from Georgia.

Mr. HOYER. I thank the gentleman for yielding the time, and I am pleased to join him and certainly adopt his remarks, which I think are fundamental to this debate that will be going on for the next 6 weeks in our country about how we effect Real Security. That is our objective. That is our commitment as Democrats.

We agree that terrorism is a real threat. We believe that we have a responsibility to confront and defeat that threat. That is our responsibility as citizens, and that is our responsibility as elected representatives.

I am pleased to join Mr. SCHIFF, who has leadership on national security issues in the Congress; my dear friend from Maryland and colleague Mr. VAN HOLLEN, who has a depth of knowledge and experience in foreign policy issues and national security issues, and my friend from the State of Georgia, Mr. DAVID SCOTT. The State of Georgia has historically had leaders in national defense. On our side of the aisle, most recently was Sam Nunn, one of the most extraordinarily able and thoughtful spokespersons for national security.

Madam Speaker, I want to thank my colleagues for taking this time. Our highest duty as Members of this Congress is to protect the American people, our homeland and to strengthen our national security. We Democrats are proud of our party's strong tradition of leadership in world affairs from Woodrow Wilson and Franklin Roosevelt to Harry Truman and John Kennedy, indeed to Bill Clinton. Bill Clinton, it will be recalled, most recently marshaled the NATO Alliance, received the imprimatur of the United Nations, confronted the genocide being led by Slobodan Milosevic, defeated him and stopped the genocide, stopped the ethnic cleansing, and put Slobodan Milosevic in the dock in trial at the Hague, all without losing a single American life in combat.

These leaders demonstrated that defending America requires our Nation to marshal the full range of its powers, economic and moral, diplomatic and military, to fight for freedom, to foster democracy, and to defeat tyranny and terrorism.

I believe that Members on both sides of the aisle are committed to this Nation's security. Any suggestion to the contrary, in my opinion, is either mistaken or quite possibly malicious par-tisanship. Furthermore, I believe that members of the loyal opposition, in this case us congressional Democrats, have the responsibility to critique the wisdom and effectiveness of the policies pursued by the majority party. That is what our Founding Fathers demanded of our national security. The Founding Fathers believed was absolutely essential for the success of our democracy: A Congress and an executive and indeed a judiciary that provided checks and balances, provided thoughtful alternatives and provided a tri-judicial review of anything that the executive branch did.

The fact is our Nation and our people are not as safe today as they could and should be.

I accept the fact that we are safer, but I repeat, that we are not as safe as we could or should be. Osama bin Laden, the architect of the worst terrorist attack on America in our history, remains at large. We still have not fully implemented the recommendations of the bipartisan 9/11 Commission, for which the commission itself has criticized us sharply. In fact, Tom Kean, the co-chair, the former Republican Governor of New Jersey, the co-chair of the 9/11 Commission and the former Republican Governor, as I said, of New Jersey, recently stated: 'We are not protecting our own people in this country. The government is not doing its job.' What powerful words as well as all attention are Governor Kean's words.

Meanwhile, the nuclear threats from North Korea and Iran have increased dramatically in the last 6 years. The Taliban is resurgent in Afghanistan, where roadside bombs have increased 30 percent and suicide bombings have doubled. And anti-Americanism has unfortunately and dangerously risen by substantial proportions. Even former Secretary of State and Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff Colin Powell, who has served this country so honorably in uniform and as a diplomat, remarked last week: 'The world is beginning to doubt the moral basis of our fight against terrorism.'

That is an extraordinary dangerous condition. We cannot nor should we fight this war against terrorists alone. We must have allies. We must have allies who respect us, who believe that our word is credible, and believe that our word, our values, insight, good intelligence, and conviction. Without question, Madam Speaker, our continuing military action in Iraq has fomented much of this anti-American sentiment.

Let me add that I supported the effort to remove Saddam Hussein as the dictator in Iraq. Democrats, however, as the loyal opposition, believe that we have a duty to honestly appraise the gross miscalculations and, I suggest, even incompetence that have plagued Operation Iraqi Freedom from its very start and to offer alternatives.

The administration ignored the advice of top military commanders and sent far too few troops to accomplish the task at hand. Recall, if you will, that we sent over a half million troops in the fall of 1990 to confront Saddam Hussein and his army in the late winter of 1991. We sent those troops to eject Hussein from Kuwait. We sent a force that could and should have been used in 2003 not only to confront Saddam Hussein's army but to take control and stabilize an entire nation of 22 million plus people and to ensure its stability.

As Tom Friedman of the New York Times stated, 'We are embroiled in a terrorist struggle with radical Islam and if getting Iraq right is at the center of that struggle, why did the Bush administration fight the Iraq war with the Rumsfeld doctrine, just enough troops to lose, and not the Powell doctrine of overwhelming force to create the necessary foundation of any democracy-building project, which is,' of course, "security?"

The administration, with Mr. Bremer as its viceroy in Iraq, fired police and armed forces and provided for systemic corruption which increased, not decreased, instability. It initiated the war before making alternative plans when the Turks told us that we could not come in through the north so we could shut the back door to Baghdad. And as a result, many of those in the Saddam Hussein armed forces escaped and were a basis for an insurgency.

In fact, just this month Brigadier General Mark Scheid revealed that Secretary of Defense Rumsfeld said he would fire the next person who talked about the need for a post-war plan. There was no effective plan for post-Saddam Hussein regime nation-building. As a result, chaos occurred.

The administration failed to properly equip our own troops. Mr. SCHIFF has pointed that out, nearly 2,700 of whom have given the ultimate measure of sacrifice in this war. All of us in our districts have lost people in this war.

The administration grossly underestimated the cost of the war at about $60 billion. Today, the war costs stand at five times that amount, in excess of $300 billion. All of that has happened, I suggest to you, Madam Speaker, without significant oversight and appropriate hearings being conducted by this Congress, which is our responsibility to our constituents and to our country.

The administration hired inexperienced and unqualified political appointees for the Coalition Provisional Authority, as The Washington Post reported on Sunday. And when confronted with concrete evidence of wide-spread mistreatment of detainees in American custody, the President failed to hold anyone in his administration accountable.

All of this, Madam Speaker, has undermined the effectiveness of an effort that I supported. Some did not. But when you support an effort and do not, you must lament the fact that the execution of the policy has been so unsuccessful.
Madam Speaker, as Lieutenant General Gregory Newbold, the former commanding general of the 1st Marine Division, has stated: “What we are living with now is the consequence of successive policy failures.” That is not a Democrat or a Republican but a three-star general, concerned about our country, concerned about the success of an effort given to our Armed Forces.

The current strategy for our military, our security, and the Iraqi people is not only ensuring that country’s Anbar Province and the city of Ramadi is secure. Our colleague Congressman SKELETON of Missouri has pointed out that there is not a single Army nondeployed combat brigade currently prepared to meet its wartime mission. That, Madam Speaker, is an extraordinary assertion and I suggest an accurate one as well.

Meanwhile, the news in Iraq is equally dire. The chief of intelligence for the Marine Corps in Iraq has concluded that in the next six months, over 25,000 of our troops, concerned about our country, concerned about the success of an effort given to our Armed Forces.

And after the attacks took place on September 11, 2001, this Congress, this President, and the international community were united in pledging that we would work together to defeat terrorism, to defeat al Qaeda and bring them to justice. And despite that unity, we have not achieved the result. In fact, if you look upon the situation today, there is great division in the world and we have failed to capitalize on that unity to finish the job in Afghanistan and against al Qaeda.

The President declared way back in 2003, May 2003, aboard the aircraft carrier USS Lincoln, he had a big banner behind him that said “Mission Accomplished.” Well, we haven’t come close to accomplishing that mission because as we gather here on the floor today, Osama bin Laden is alive and well somewhere along the Afghan-Pakistan border, al Qaeda continues to plot attacks against the United States. They have become a franchiser. You know how al Qaeda franchises around the world.

We have not made progress at totally dismantling that organization. In fact, what we are seeing in southern Afghanistan is a resurgence of the Taliban as reported by the NATO Commander there, and our own commanders on the ground.

What have we done? We have actually reduced the number of U.S. forces in southern Afghanistan. We disbanded the one unit at the CIA that had the specific mission of going after al Qaeda and Osama bin Laden.

You open the newspaper today and see that the opium crop in Afghanistan is at all-time high, historic high. And we also know that the Pakistan Government that we had been really relying on to keep the Taliban and al Qaeda on the run in the northwest frontier part of Pakistan, that, in fact, they have now, the Pakistani Government, we are witnessing a positive impact essentially with the Taliban leaders and the leaders in the Waziristan area.

In conclusion, Madam Speaker, I reiterate, Democrats are committed to defending America, making safe Americans, and defeating terrorists who would harm our Nation and undermine our values. Our policies that we are pursuing have not worked. They need to be changed.

Again, I thank Mr. SCHIFF for his leadership on this hour.

Mr. SCHIFF. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

And I particularly appreciate your comments about the proposal that Zbignew Brzezinski has put forward. It is, I think, exemplary of the new direction in policy that Democrats have been advocating.

The administration’s policy of staying the course, the sum and substance of it, is more of the same. Indeed, in a nonclassified briefing when I asked Secretary Rumsfeld and Rice, Director Negroponte and General Pace how are we adapting our strategy given that the sectarian violence is now more prominent than the insurgent violence, how are we changing from a counterinsurgency strategy to one that attempts to stop the civil war, the long and short of it is we weren’t. We are simply doing the same thing we have done all along. The same thing that has led us to a place, as you pointed out, where Marine intelligence is saying we lost Anbar Province probably for good. If you keep doing the same thing and you expect the result to be different, you are going to be bitterly disappointed.

And I thank the gentleman for his comments and his leadership on this, Mr. HOYER. Thank you very much.

Mr. SCHIFF. For a small State, I have to say Maryland produces more than its share of great leaders, particularly on the issue of national security. Mr. HOYER. Will the gentleman yield?

Mr. SCHIFF. Yes. Mr. HOYER. Of course our small State has given your large State our leader. Mr. SCHIFF. That is true.

I now yield to my friend and colleague from Maryland, Mr. VAN HOLLEN.

Mr. VAN HOLLEN. I thank my friend and colleague. Mr. SCHIFF from California for these very important national security discussions here on the floor in the House. I also want to thank my colleague from Maryland, STENY HOYER for his terrific leadership on national security and a whole range of issues, and it is great to be here again with DAVID SCOTT, my colleague, from Georgia, who has also been a leader and a very important voice on these important issues to our country.

Mr. HOYER mentioned that we had the important passing about 8 days ago of the solemn occasion of 9/11. It was the 5th-year anniversary of 9/11 and the terrible attacks that took place upon our country. And I do think it is important to go back to that time and remember where those attacks came from because they were launched from Afghanistan. You had a failed state in Afghanistan run by the Taliban; and in that failed state, al Qaeda was able to take hold and find a home, and Osama bin Laden was able to prosper and plot his attacks against the United States.

And after the attacks took place on September 11, 2001, this Congress, this President, this administration and the international community were united in pledging that we would work together to defeat terrorism, to defeat al Qaeda and bring them to justice. And despite that unity, we have not achieved the result. In fact, if you look upon the situation today, there is great division in the world and we have failed to capitalize on that unity to finish the job in Afghanistan and against al Qaeda.

The President declared way back in 2003, May 2003, aboard the aircraft carrier USS Lincoln, he had a big banner behind him that said “Mission Accomplished.” Well, we haven’t come close to accomplishing that mission because as we gather here on the floor today, Osama bin Laden is alive and well somewhere along the Afghan-Pakistan border, al Qaeda continues to plot attacks against the United States. They have become a franchiser. You know how al Qaeda franchises around the world.

We have not made progress at totally dismantling that organization. In fact, what we are seeing in southern Afghanistan is a resurgence of the Taliban as reported by the NATO Commander there, and our own commanders on the ground.

What have we done? We have actually reduced the number of U.S. forces in southern Afghanistan. We disbanded the one unit at the CIA that had the specific mission of going after al Qaeda and Osama bin Laden.

You open the newspaper today and see that the opium crop in Afghanistan is at all-time high, historic high. And we also know that the Pakistan Government that we had been really relying on to keep the Taliban and al Qaeda on the run in the northwest frontier part of Pakistan, that, in fact, they have now, the Pakistani Government, we are witnessing a positive impact essentially with the Taliban leaders and the leaders in the Waziristan area.
So here we are more than 5 years after those terrible attacks, and we have not completed the job. We have not finished the mission against al Qaeda. And instead, in my view, we have actually reduced our commitment to doing that. And we have fallen into the position that the Americans are we are again united today, making sure we finish the mission in Afghanistan and bringing to justice and defeating the organization that, after all, was the organization and the instigators responsible for those attacks of September 11.

Instead, we did take our eye off the ball. We decided, instead of finishing the job in Afghanistan, to go into Iraq. We decided by the end of 2003 to go into Iraq, to go into Iraq, to do the Iraq war plan. We did not have a postwar plan. We did not know what we were going to do after we had gone into Iraq. We actually did not have a postwar plan.

And let me just, I think it is important to read this excerpt: "Rumsfeld Forbade Planning for Postwar Iraq, General Says." This is out of the Saturday, September 9, Washington Post. "Long before the United States invaded Iraq in 2003, Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld forbade military strategists to develop plans for securing a postwar Iraq, the retiring commander of the Army Transportation Corps said." Brigadier General Mark Scheid said in an interview, that Rumsfeld said "he would fire the next person" who talked about the need for a postwar plan. And we wonder why we are in trouble today in Iraq. We wonder when we open our newspapers or look at television sets why we see such a mess.

You know, the Vice President, it was a little more a year ago, he went on national television and said, and I quote, that "the insurgency in Iraq was in its last throes.

Well, just a few weeks ago we had a Pentagon report required by Congress that said that the insurgency, and I quote, "remains potent and viable. And, the insurgency in the south is our number one problem in Iraq. The real problem is the cycling civil war, whether it is called a civil war, an incipient civil war, incipient of people are being killed in sectarian violence.

So you have a situation where the administration was wrong on so many counts. They were wrong on weapons of mass destruction, they were wrong on the claim that there was a connection between Osama bin Laden and Saddam Hussein. In fact, we have now a bipartisan report out of the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence that said definitively there was never any relationship between Saddam Hussein and al Qaeda. In fact, they were adversaries, they were ideological opposites. They were wrong on that.

They were wrong on the cost of the war. They totally underestimated the cost of the war. They gave the American people one number that was low-balled. In turn it was a much bigger number.

Mr. SCHIFF. Mr. VAN HOLLEN, notwithstanding all of those mistakes in judgment and execution of the war. I am sure it gave you great confidence to hear from the Vice President on Meet the Press that if he had to do it all over again, he would do exactly the same thing. That must have encouraged you.

Mr. VAN HOLLEN. It was stunning actually, because what you would hope for from our national leaders is some reflection, some understanding that the situation that we encountered in Iraq was far more complex than anybody had anticipated. And that was not what he said it would be. And, in fact, unfortunately this administration has never come to grips with the huge gap between what they said would happen in Iraq and what is happening on the ground. That has exposed, I believe, a great credibility gap.

So when the administration says, trust us, we know what we are doing in Iraq; all you people who raise questions, don't you worry about it. I have to say, that is what they told us many, many years ago. That is what Vice President CHENEY said more than a year ago when he said the insurgency was in its last throes. "We are looking for the real fight, the real fight is in Iraq," he said. "The real fight is in Iraq," he said. "The insurgency is in its last throes."

And one of the other things that we must do is to hold people accountable. We need to do some more firing. We need to do some more firing. We need to hold people accountable who made these big, big mistakes.

Now, one of the other things that we have learned recently, and this may be partly due to the fact that they did not have a postwar plan, was the incompetence of many of the civilians that they sent in there to work on the reconstruction phase in Iraq. You know, we recently passed the 1-year anniversary of the Terrible Hurricanes Katrina and Rita that hit the United States in the Southern United States, struck New Orleans, struck Louisiana, struck Mississippi.

And we know all too well that the people in those regions were hit twice really. First they were hit by a terrible hurricane, and then they were hit by the incompetence of a FEMA that was headed up by people who were not experienced in the response of the emergencies that had happened to be political favorites in the administration. Michael Brown, we know that his primary credential was he had been the President of the Horse Breeders Association.

Mr. SCHIFF. Mr. VAN HOLLEN, I am sure if there had been an emergency of a national character involving thoroughbred horses, we would have been prepared.

Mr. VAN HOLLEN. Well, the FEMA job, as we know, is one that we have to be prepared for all sorts of things, but you are absolutely right, my colleague. It goes to show, in my view, the kind of disdain that the administration has with respect to what kind of qualifications are required of people who are vested with such important national responsibilities.

And we remember when the President said, "Heck of a job, Brownie." in the midst of the real disaster not just from the hurricane, but in the response.

But what I think we are learning now, unfortunately, is that same kind of cronyism, that same kind of cronyism infected many of the decisions with respect to who we sent to Iraq for that postwar period and reconstruction period.

You would think that in deciding who we should send to Iraq, we would send the people who are highly qualified at reconstruction, people who knew something about Iraq, maybe people who spoke Arabic and the native language if we had them available. But if you look at a very recent article from the Washington Post, we learned that it was not those kind of expert qualifications that made the decision. It had to do with whether or not you were a big political supporter of the Bush administration.

And I think this kind of political cronyism, when it comes to the biggest national security issues we have got, shows an incredible contempt for the American people and their security.

And I think it is very important to read a little passage from this article from the Washington Post. This is an article, September, this past Sunday, September 17, Headline: Ties to GOP Toppled Know-How Among Staff Sent to Rebuild Iraq. After the fall of Saddam Hussein's government in April 2007, the opportunity to participate in the U.S.-led effort to reconstruct Iraq attracted all manner of Americans, from professional academics, development specialists, and war-zone adventurers. But before they could go to Baghdad, they had to just get past Jim O'Beirne's office in the Pentagon.

To pass muster with O'Beirne, who is a political appointee who screens prospective political appointees for Defense Department posts, applicants did not need to be experts in the Middle East or in postconflict reconstruction. What seemed most important was loyalty to the Bush administration.

Jumping down a bit: The decision to send the loyal and willing instead of the best and the brightest is now regarded as one of the 3½-year effort to stabilize and rebuild Iraq as one of the Bush administration’s gravest errors.

And one of the people who was set up to be, he was the CPA person over there, said: We did not tap the right people to do this job, said Frederick Smith, who served as the Deputy Director of the CPA, that is the Coalition Provisional Authority’s Washington office. It was a tough, tough job. Instead, we got people who went out there because of their political leanings.

He goes on to give a couple of examples of people with absolutely no experience in contracts were given responsibilities for a $18 billion construction budget.

He goes on to talk about, you know, 24-year-old political appointees whose only experience there had been part of the Bush campaign machine. Those are the people that were sent to Iraq to do a very important mission for the American people.

And it is extremely disturbing to discover that the qualifications for those people who wanted to do their job, their expertise to do the job, their past background to do the job; that what it had to do with was whether they were a big political booster of the Bush administration. It points out that many of them were big political contributors to the Bush administration.

Taking that kind of license with our national security, I think, is scandalous. It is important that we begin to hold people to account. Let’s begin to have a real national conversation, not just a one-way discussion that the President wants to have.

Let’s have some real hearings on Capitol Hill. Let’s begin to have some accountability, because we all know that when you have a system that rewards people who fail, that gives a pat on the back to the people who constant got it wrong, and yet at the same time penalizes the people who got it right in this administration, the people who said we needed more troops on the ground, the people who questioned some of the decisions, it turns out that people who questioned the decisions were ignored or penalized. People like this general who wanted to do some posturing and now was ignored. In fact, they threatened to fire people who did that kind of thing.

If you reward failure, you are going to get more failure. What we are asking that I think tonight and on other nights is that we just begin to hold people accountable and that this House of Representatives begin to do its job, and not be a rubber stamp, not just say yes. Mr. President, you know it all, when in fact we know from what is going on in Iraq that they have gotten so much wrong. Let’s begin to get it right, and let’s begin to ask the hard questions.

I thank my colleague.

Mr. SCHIFF. I thank my colleague for his statement tonight and all your tremendous leadership on this. I am confident with Democrats we will not only will we see a functioning government of checks and balances where there is actual oversight by the Congress of the administration, which every administration needs, no matter how good, but particularly when the administration has made such serious mistakes that have placed this Nation so much in jeopardy. We need oversight.

I would add only one thing, and this you may have watched. Mr. VAN HOLLAND, the President from New Orleans when he went down for the Katrina anniversary, and Brian Williams asked him, “Mr. President, some people have criticized that you have never really asked for a sacrifice from the American people in the fight against terrorism. Is that a fair criticism?”

His answer really struck me, because we have been talking about the American people being brought in and given a chance to contribute to our security and our success with an Apollo-like project for energy independence.

Well, the President’s idea of sacrifice, he said, “Brian, that is not true. The American people have sacrificed. After 9/11, our economy was hurt, so American people sacrificed. The troops paid taxes. They pay a lot of taxes, Brian.”

That was it. That was the sacrifice he was asking. Now, if he had been a little more forthcoming, he might have said, “We pay taxes.” They pay a lot of taxes, although actually they pay less taxes since 9/11, thanks to me, so the sacrifice really is they pay less taxes. That is their contribution.

And you have to ask, where are the Rosie the Riveters? Who is being called to do this? We are sacrificing and their families are sacrificing. But what have the rest of us been asked to do? And in this body, I think that at a juncture we could move forward with far-reaching legislation to wean ourselves from reliance on fossil fuels. We could initiate real oversight by the United Nations. Today presented some very interesting pictures as we watched television. Two speeches, of course, stand out on this day.

I don’t think I can remember in history when the President of the United States addressed the United Nations, but yet one of our chief adversaries, one of which he labeled one of the “axis of evil,” Iran, Ahmadinejad, came in prime time, while the President spoke earlier, not in prime time.

I am wondering how we got to this point? Where did this president of Iran come from? Five years ago we had no record of him. Certainly, I didn’t. But here he is at the United Nations, in fact upstaging our President. If I were working at the White House, I certainly would not have allowed the President of the United States to be over there on the same day. I felt that was very, very interesting.

It might do us a little good to understand how we got to this point, and the way we do that. I think, is to start off this discussion by clearly pointing out to the American people something that they are gradually beginning to see, and that is this, that we are fighting two distinct wars; one war is on terror, the other war is in Iraq.

One war is of necessity. It was necessary. That is the war on terror, which is where we went into Afghanistan to go after the terrorist organization that attacked us on 9/11. That was a war of necessity, and we went there because we had to stop that enemy that attacked us. That is where al Qaeda was. That is where bin Laden was, on that border between Afghanistian and Pakistan. We got the support of NATO and we got the support of the government of Afghanistan, with their help, and we went in there.

But then we went into Iraq, and we went into Iraq on a lot of manufactured, now we know the truth, incomplete information, maybe false information, information manipulated in formation. Those are the facts. That is what is out there. But, nonetheless, we went into Iraq in a war of choice.

Now we need to do a cost-benefit analysis, which brings me to the point I wanted to get to earlier, to segue back in, to show these two connecting points of what happened today, where the President of the United States is upstaged by the President of Iran, a president we did not even know about 5 years ago.

But when you do the cost-benefit analysis on the war of choice, which is the war in Iraq, not the war on terror, which is the war of necessity in Afghanistan, and do a cost-benefit analysis, in other words, look at our cost: 2,600 soldiers, men and women who gave their lives, who were killed; nearly 20,000 wounded; over $600 billion expended at a rate of $3 billion every week. That is the cost.

Who benefited? Who benefited? Who benefited? Iraq is the beneficiary of our going into Iraq. And, like you, we are not standing here just talking. We are standing here explaining how we earnestly feel as Americans, strong, patriotic Americans, about this country, and who resent the President of the United States saying that anytime we question that, we are not patriotic. We are doing our duty that the American people sent us up here to do to raise these issues.

We cannot stay the course, not this course. Sixty-three percent of the American people say they want a new direction. It is up to Democrats to provide that direction.

The other issue which concerns me is the state of our military. Not only must we explain to the American people and help to dramatize and explain why we are early and deeply mired in a war with two distinct wars, one of necessity, one of choice, but the drain on the military, we have got to correct that. Our military is in a draining state. We are not meeting our recruiting goals. We are on two and three tours of duty there.

We are in a terrible hole in Iraq, and we have got to extricate ourselves out of it. The challenge is to do so with yet the dignity and the respect that we must show to the sacrifice of our men and women who have given their lives there, while at the same time putting the responsibility on the Iraqis themselves to manifest their destiny. They want democracy. We cannot shove it at them with a gun. They have to feel it in their soul. They have to go forward and grab it. That is not happening, and that is what we have to do to get this moving forward in a way that gives the respect to our military who have given their lives there.

Mr. SCHIFF. I thank the gentleman very much for your comments, for your leadership on this issue. It has been a great pleasure and honor to share a few thoughts with you and our colleagues, Mr. VAN HOLLEN and our whip Mr. HOYER. Once again, I want to thank the great State of Georgia for sending you to Congress.

THE OFFICIAL TRUTH SQUAD

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mrs. SCHMIDT). Under the Speaker’s announced policy of January 4, 2005, the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. PRICE) is recognized for 60 minutes as the designee of the majority leader.

Mr. PRICE of Georgia. Madam Speaker, it is indeed a privilege to come before the House as the representative of the majority party. And as I was sitting and listening to the tail end of my good friends on the other side of the aisle with their recitation of doom and gloom, Madam Speaker, I was reminded of a radio program on daily. He comes on and he introduces his program by saying, “And now for the rest of the story.”

So, Madam Speaker, I come before you tonight and before the House with another version of the Official Truth Squad. The Official Truth Squad began a little over a year ago with a group of freshmen Republicans in the United States House of Representatives who had, frankly, grown tired of the lack of respect for the truth and the misinformation and the distortion and the demagoguery and the hyperbole that we hear over and over and over on the House floor. And, Madam Speaker, you have been treated to a particularly egregious example of that kind of misinformation and misinformation in the past hour.

Before I get into the comments that I had prepared for this evening to talk a little bit about national security and the fact that our excellent effort to point out a couple of items for those folks in the House who are listening and have just heard the comments on the floor.

I think it is important to make certain that we talk about the truth, and when we talk about the truth, I am reminded of Daniel Patrick Moynihan’s famous quote. It is one of my favorites. Senator Moynihan was a Democratic Senator from the State of New York. He said that everyone is entitled to their own opinion, but they are not entitled to their own facts. Is that not true, Madam Speaker? Everyone is entitled to their own opinion, but they are not entitled to their own facts.

So I am here to point out just a few of the opinions that we have heard this evening that, in fact, bear no resemblance to the truth and bear no resemblance to fact, but that are so divisive to us as a Nation. That is what concerns me, Madam Speaker.

My background is as a physician. I came to Congress after over 20 years practicing medicine, and I knew that when I dealt with my patients and when I dealt with my colleagues, that we had to talk about the truth. We had to talk about real things. We had to talk about facts, because when you did not talk about facts, then you made the wrong diagnosis, and when you make the wrong diagnosis, somebody gets hurt. Somebody gets hurt.

So, Madam Speaker, when my colleagues on the other side of the aisle do not want to talk about the facts, and they do not want to talk about the truth, then somebody gets hurt, and in this instance it is the American people. It may even be the American fiber and the American spirit, the unity of America.

What we just heard is a remarkable demonstration of diversity, of division, of folks who, I do not know how long people have been listening, but I did not hear a single solution, not one solution offered.

Churchill said that criticism is easy; it is achievement that is difficult. Another war-lite quote. Criticism is easy, but achievement is difficult.

You just heard a remarkable statement, and we have had a remarkable day with our President going to the United Nations and addressing the United Nations in his annual address. Because we are the host Nation, there is a defined time for that annual address, and it occurs in second speaking order. So it happened to occur during the middle of the day today. My friends on the other side of the aisle want to attribute the fact that the President was not on prime-time television tonight to some remarkable favor of this administration. Madam Speaker, what kind of nonsense is that? What kind of distortion of the truth is that?

So when we hear these kinds of things, it really disturbs me, it saddens me, because it cheapens the debate that we have here when you have that kind of distortion.

The question was asked, how did the President of Iran get to be so strong? One of the reasons he is so strong is because our friends on the other side of the aisle have not participated in assisting us on an energy agenda that will make it so we have American energy for Americans. There is some truth for you. The folks who continue to throw stones on the other side of the aisle constantly, and we will talk about this this evening, make it so that we talk about votes as it relates to the President of Iran get to be so strong. And goodness knows we can put roadblocks in the way of solving this, it really disturbs me, it saddens me.

It may even be the American fiber and the American spirit, the unity of America. And it had to be something reliable. Did you hear who we used, Madam Speaker? The Washington Post. Now there is a reliable source for you. But when he brought that information, he didn’t bring it by way of enlightenment; he brought it by way of criticism, by way of tearing down those individuals who are working just as hard as they can to make certain that Iraq is restored and has an opportunity to become a democratic and sovereign nation on its own. Division, division, division, division, division, division, division, division, division, division, division, division, division, division, division, division, division.

Misinformation, disinformation, Madam Speaker. I would ask the gentleman from Maryland to apologize to the Members, to the United States citizens who are working as hard as they can to help Iraq as independent contractors, risking their lives just like the military. Some of them have actually been murdered by our enemies in Iraq. So I would hope that the gentleman would reconsider what he said.

Don’t you get tired of it, Madam Speaker, that kind of distortion of the fact, that kind of division? I certainly do, and I know my constituents do at home. They get tired of the lightning, of the backbiting. They get tired of three or four individuals who can stand up here for an hour on the floor of the House and not offer a single, single, single positive solution to the challenges that confront us as a Nation. And the challenges are big; these are big challenges. They are not Republican challenges, they are not Democrat challenges, they are American challenges.

And so, Madam Speaker, I am pleased to commend them at the pleasure of the leadership to be able to come and talk a little bit about some positive things about America, some positive things that we have done as a Nation. Remember Senator Moynihan’s comment, everyone is entitled to their own opinions but they are not entitled to their own facts. So we would like to bring some facts tonight about a couple different areas, primarily national security because it has been talked about just recently, and the issue of the economy, the economic perspective in our Nation. And I think it is extremely important that when we discuss this, we remember that truth and facts are important. And so I am going to present some information here that I hope that Members of the House are listening to. I hope that they are listening to, and, frankly, I hope they are listening to, and remember that there is some information that I think that they will be extremely, extremely interested in, especially when we talk about votes as it relates to issues on the floor of the House.

So the Energy Squad is pleased to be able to come and talk a little bit about national security and about the economy.

Now, there is certainly no more important function of the Federal Government than the security of the American people. And Republicans, as everyone knows, have always been committed to national security. Our friends on the other side, if we are not a Nation that remains at risk because of enemies around the world, then all one has to do is look to a very recent activity in England where we have our good friends in Great Britain and friends in Pakistan, were able to thwart a plan by our enemies, by our enemies who have sworn to make certain they end our way of life. We were time and time again, in the 9/11 world, time and time again, in the 9/11 world, being told many, many, many airliners that would kill thousands, thousands of innocent civilians.

So it is clear that the global war on terror is indeed a huge, it is a priority for us. I would hope that it would be a priority for all Members of the House. However, the Democrats continue to try to obstruct our security plans, and they have been essentially a party of "no" with no alternative plans to meet our security needs. And I would ask, Madam Speaker, folks to remember just the hour that we have just heard by our good friends on the other side of the aisle, and try to the United States, along with our good friends in Great Britain and friends in Pakistan, were able to thwart a plan by our enemies, by our enemies who have sworn to make certain they end our way of life. We were time and time again, in the 9/11 world, time and time again, in the 9/11 world, being told many, many, many airliners that would kill thousands, thousands of innocent civilians.

For instance, Democrats had called for troops to be redeployed from Iraq to Okinawa. If you take a look at the globe, the port of Newport News and Norfolk is closer to Iraq than Okinawa. So redeployment of troops to Okinawa makes absolutely no sense whatsoever.

Now, the other side of the aisle, the Democrats are certainly good at saying no, but they are not good at laying forth alternative plans. What they don’t seem to understand is the magnitude of this, in this remarkably difficult and changed post-9/11 world.

There is one Democrat leader who has in fact said that the global war on terror isn’t really all that relevant. Can you imagine, Madam Speaker, we have the remarkable activities in England just last month, the knowledge and understanding that our enemy is making plans day in and day out to try to kill innocent civilians that cross all free nations. They try to use their best to try to certain that we end our way of life, that they end our way of life, and we have a Democrat leader in this House who says that the global war on terror isn’t really all that relevant. Well, with a statement and confound terror cells planning to attack against the United States. This is the kind of program that was utilized to assist in the activities that foiled the plot in England.

Now, when I go home, Madam Speaker, I don’t know about you, but when I go home and I talk to my constituents and they say, what on Earth are you all arguing about? How can it be that anybody in this Nation believes that we as a Nation don’t have the responsibility, in fact, we have the absolute imperative to make certain that we are listening and hearing and determining what our enemies are saying if they are outside the United States? I have significant concern on privacy issues when you are talking about communication between a United States citizen in the United States and another United States citizen in the United States. That is a different issue, Madam Speaker. And when individuals constitute and confound those two, they do a disservice to every single American.

The issue is not whether or not that kind of communication is protected. The issue is, in fact, whether or not we, as elected representatives of constituents all across this Nation, will respond to what they believe, our constituents. Americans all across this Nation, is an imperative for our government to do, and that is to have a terrorism surveillance program that lets us know what the bad guys are going to do before they do it. Clearly that is the most effective means of combating the war on terror, is to make certain we know what our enemy is going to do before they do it and then stop them before they do it.

In the House this month, we will be authorizing military tribunals for suspected terrorists. These are noncitizens fighting under any flag. These are terrorists. They have proclaimed to kill you and me and end our way of life as a Nation. They are not fighting for a nation. They have never signed the Geneva Accords themselves. These are evil people who must be dealt with by different rules. This is unlike any war the world has ever seen. That is not to say that they ought to be treated in a manner that is not treated with different rules in order for us to gain the kind of information that we need, in addition to being able to hold these people who are interested in doing us great, great harm, great harm. This month the House Republicans have passed a resolution to recognize the 5-year anniversary of the 9/11 terrorist attacks. As I go through these, I think it is important for Members of the House as well as Americans all across the Nation to appreciate as these votes come up, watch where the votes go, watch who is supporting these commonsense protections for the American people.

A resolution recognizing the 5-year anniversary of the 9/11 attack, we even had some Members on the other side of the aisle vote against that. They objected strenuously that it came to the floor of the House for a vote.

Strengthening border security. We had a debate on building a fence along the southern border to make sure that our Nation is secure. This week we will deal with some issues that will provide for allowing local law enforcement individuals to be deployed locally, the right and privilege to detain and retain illegals who come under their jurisdiction until the Federal Government comes and is able to deport them. Right now that is not the case. We will have a bill on the floor that will once and for all end the catch-and-release program that has been operating at the border. I ask the American people to watch who is voting on these issues. There is no reason of we ought to apprehend an individual coming across our border illegally and then give him a piece of paper and say, you have to come back in 90 days and we will try you. They just blend into society. A catch-and-release program does not work. There are over 400,000 individuals who have already in this Nation gone through the process. They were here illegally, they are found to be guilty of another crime and been ordered deported, and yet they are told to come back in 90 days and report for their deportation date. And the catch-and-release program does not make any sense. We will have on the floor this week a bill to provide for a catch-and-return policy, which means if they are apprehended coming into our Nation illegally, they are returned to their country of origin.

There was the discovery once again of another tunnel between San Diego or the San Diego area and Mexico. Apparently both State and local law enforcement had a hard time figuring out what to do here, and it was used to smuggle drugs and contraband and illegals into the United States. That was just discovered. We will have a bill on the floor to strengthen the laws as it relates to the building of tunnels for the purpose of bringing drugs and smuggling aliens in. We will have on the floor funding and protecting American troops, the defense authorization report, and defense and military quality of life appropriations conference reports, and then homeland security conference reports which will provide that funding for border security and for the barriers that I talked about.

And it is extremely important to watch who is voting for these things and who is opposing them. Oftentimes what we find is that individuals will say one thing at one end and then they come to Washington, and there is something in the air here that makes them do something different. We respectfully request that folks watch and see who is voting for what.

The issue of border security, maintaining the integrity of our borders is an economic and a security concern. Americans are worried about the vulnerabilities at our borders, and Republicans have several pieces of legislation to strengthen our borders, put more technology and personnel at the borders, and develop systems to ascertain who crosses the border and for what purposes. We need to know who is coming in to our Nation.

The Republican plan for border security focuses on providing more Border Patrol agents, strengthening security through additional fencing and infrastructure, stricter enforcement, and empowering State and local law enforcement authority. These are the foundations that must be set before we can begin the next step of immigration reforms. It is imperative, the American people are demanding, that we put our priorities first on controlling the border, making certain we know who is coming into our Nation.

It ought not surprise anybody to get a little truth now, and that is that the Democrats have not supported the effort to secure our country. Passed the REAL ID Act, the act that provide for an appropriate form of identification for people traveling on an airplane. This would go a long way in identifying individuals here illegally, and 152 Democrats voted "no," including the top two members of their leadership. They voted against the REAL ID Act.

We passed the Border Protection, Antiterrorism and Illegal Immigration Control Act, which was the bill that has been proclaimed by those individuals who truly know and appreciate what it is going to take to control and secure our border. They believe it is extremely important to apprehending our deport and removing them from date. And the catch-and-release program does not make any sense.

We will have on the floor the bill that has been proclaimed by those individuals who truly know and appreciate what it is going to take to control and secure our border. They believe it is extremely important to apprehending our deport and removing them from date. And the catch-and-release program does not make any sense.
On our Nation’s defense, people who fight for our freedom must be fully supported. The House Armed Services Committee and our Appropriations Subcommittee on Defense and Military Quality of Life have concentrated their efforts on making certain that we meet those needs as well as helping transform the Department of Defense to meet the threats for the next century.

In the area of intelligence reform, this is where I talked about making certain that we know what the bad guys are going to do before they do it. Republicans have worked with the administration and intelligence agencies to help transform our intelligence-gathering capabilities and analyzing system. Rather than keep that, what we need to focus our efforts on this kind of reform. Democrats instead want to focus on just attacking the administration. You hear it over and over again.

Madam Speaker, it is like a broken record. They have tried to discredit the terrorist surveillance program that we talked about and other policies which have helped protect our Nation from further attack. It is not a mistake or just a happenstance that we as a Nation have not been attacked since 9/11. There are incredible individuals working day and night to make certain that we are safe as a Nation.

The 9/11 Recommendations Implementation Act that was proposed in 2004, these are the recommendations of the 9/11 Commission that you hear people talking about on the other side of the aisle all the time and that we should implement them. We had the bill that implemented a portion of those, and what happened? A majority, 125 Democrats, including their leader, voting to oppose it, voted “no” to implement significant recommendations of the 9/11 Commission. So, let us never forget, remember, you are entitled to your own opinions, but are not entitled to your own facts.

The global war on terrorism is truly the most important activity, most important generation, and it is not a war like no other, as we have talked about. It is fought on many different levels: military, intelligence, economic, technology, cyberworld, Internet, all corners of the Earth. Again, the war of terrorism. What happened with that? They have been the loud party of implementing the 9/11 Commission recommendations. They have called, but repeatedly Capitol Hill Democrats have opposed legislation implementing the recommendations of the 9/11 Commission meant to strengthen America’s national security and to prevent further attacks.

The 9/11 Commission said: “The government has made significant strides in using terrorism financing as an intelligence tool.” So, since the 9/11 Commission reported on House Resolution 885, the legislation supporting intelligence and law enforcement programs that track terrorists, there is a Bill to fund the national government, which is making the 9/11 Commission recommendations.

Madam Speaker, it is like a broken record. They have tried to discredit the terrorist surveillance program that we talked about and other policies which have helped protect our Nation from further attack. It is not a mistake or just a happenstance that we as a Nation have not been attacked since 9/11. There are incredible individuals working day and night to make certain that we are safe as a Nation.

The 9/11 Recommendations Implementation Act that was proposed in 2004, these are the recommendations of the 9/11 Commission that you hear people talking about on the other side of the aisle all the time and that we should implement them. We had the bill that implemented a portion of those, and what happened? A majority, 125 Democrats, including their leader, voting to oppose it, voted “no” to implement significant recommendations of the 9/11 Commission. What happened? 174 Democrats voted “no.” 174 voted “no” for the immediate implementation of the 9/11 Commission recommendations. One of the 9/11 Commission recommendations was: “The READ ID Act has established statute standards for State-issued IDs acceptable for Federal purposes, though States’ compliance needs to be closely monitored.” What happened with that bill that the 9/11 Commission said was a wise idea and ought to be adopted? 152 of our friends on the other side of the aisle voted “no.”

They talk about immediately implementing the 9/11 Commission recommendations. A quote from the 9/11 Commission: “The House and Senate have taken positive steps, but Secretary Chertoff and his team still report to too many bosses. The House and Senate Homeland Security Committees should have exclusive jurisdiction over all counterterrorism functions of the Department of Homeland Security.” That is a recommendation of the 9/11 Commission. A recommendation that our good friends say ought to be immediately implemented. So when the proposal comes up to do just that, a majority, 120 of them, vote “no.”

Madam Speaker, you are entitled to your own opinions, but you are not entitled to your own facts.

In the area of national security, I think it is clear. There is a party, there are leaders in this Congress on the Republican side of the aisle withstanding the threat, understanding the gravity of the situation, understand and appreciate that we have a real enemy, understand and appreciate that that real enemy is interested in causing significant harm to our Nation and in murdering innocent civilians, and we are taking actions day in and day out, including this week, to make certain that we are more safe and more secure as a Nation.

So I challenge and call on my friends on the other side of the aisle to join us. Don’t just talk about it. Don’t just come down here and paint doom and gloom. There are people here who are working hard. Remember what Churchill said; “Criticism is easy. Achievement is difficult.” “Achievement is difficult.” So join us. You might find that being part of the solution instead of just railing against the individuals who are in positions of leadership now is actually beneficial, that your constituents actually appreciate the work that you are doing in a bipartisan manner. Boy, wouldn’t that be wonderful? We certainly would welcome you to participate.

Madam Speaker, I talked about the concern that the Official Truth Squad has about all of the disinformation and the misinformation that goes on. I was looking a little over a year ago for a quote. I am a fan of quotes. I enjoy quotes, and I think that oftentimes individuals in history have given us great perspective on our principles and the roots of our Nation. And the “politics of division” really irritates me, and I think it does a disservice to our Nation because we are strong and we are united as a Nation.

But the other side of the aisle seems intent on tearing down, on dividing. You have heard some of it this evening. The extending tax cuts for millionaires you heard tonight and all sorts of remarkable divisive statements. The comment about the contractors in Iraq was a divisive statement, where we have hardworking American citizens who are putting their lives at risk and they are doing it in order for our divisive purpose, to try to gain some political points. Madam Speaker, it is just disheartening to hear that kind of conversation, and it does a disservice to our Nation.

When I attempted to find a quote that would crystallize that emotion, I came across this one, the Reverend William Boetcker, who was a leader and a public speaker in the late 19th and early 20th century. He was trying to crystallize the philosophy of Abraham Lincoln in his social philosophy, and it is one of my favorite quotes. He said: “You cannot bring about prosperity by discouraging thrift. You cannot strengthen the weak by weakening the strong. You cannot help the wage earner by socialism. You cannot encourage the brotherhood of man by encouraging class hatred.”

You cannot help the poor by destroying the rich. You cannot keep out of trouble by spending more than you earn. You cannot build character and courage by taking away man’s initiative and independence. And you cannot help men permanently by doing for them what they could do for themselves.

And so, Madam Speaker, I turn now to addressing the issue of vision and addressing the issue of the economy. House Republicans have realized, certainly do realize the importance of developing and having a vision to focus our efforts and to ensure that we address what is important for the American people and highlighted a vision earlier this year that would address this new American century. And we came up with the following vision. We will promote dignity and future of every individual. It is important to talk about the individual. Madam Speaker, often times you hear the folks on the other side of the aisle talk about groups of folks. And again they like to separate people into groups so that they can divide and conquer. But it is the individual, it is the individual who makes things great. So we will promote the dignity and the future of every individual by building a free society, under a limited, accountable government that protects our liberty, our security, and our prosperity for a brighter American dream.

Now, the Democrats had no such vision. Again, they are the “party of no,” they have got no plan to lead the Nation. That is a dangerous way to try to take over the majority of the House of Representatives. And it is clear. We heard it again tonight. Their actions are guided by politics and discrediting the administration over and over again rather than focusing on a positive agenda for the American people. Again that is the kind of information and the kind of requests that I get at home when I talk to my constituents about a passion for a positive agenda for America. Because, we are great, great Nation. And we work so well together when we work unified. And that is what folks at home tell me that they would desire, that we move together forward in unity.

Now, I want to talk a little bit about our economy. And I think it is important to appreciate that our economy today is truly remarkably strong. And the numbers prove that. Our Nation has bounced back from the blow that the economy took following the attacks of 9/11. Our unemployment is low. Home ownership across all sectors of our society is the highest it has ever been.

And recently, as I know in your home state, Madam Speaker, the gas prices are falling. No surprise, a lot of criticism for the gas prices going up, so we ought to take a fair amount of credit for them coming down. The most recent economic numbers are truly remarkable.

Although this chart is a little old, the trends are absolutely accurate and correct. Unemployment. The Employment gains continue. 128,000 new payroll jobs were created in August. A total of 5.7 million new jobs since August of 2003.

The unemployment rate is at a point, at a level of 4.7 percent, 4.7 percent. I know that there are some economist who are still understanding and I appreciate that full employment is basically 5 percent, used to be 6 percent a number of decades ago, but they revised it downward to 5 percent being full employment. That means that basically folks who are interested having a job. GDP growth for the second quarter was revised up to 2.9 from an earlier estimate of 2.5 percent. Gasoline prices have fallen recently with the average regular unleaded gasoline falling to below $2.70 a gallon. I know in my area it is $2.22 cents when I drove to the airport this moving to come here.

Oil apparently today was down to less than $62 a barrel, which is a significant move downward. And, Madam Speaker, this is due to the policies put in place by this Republican Congress and our effort to spur the economy and lay the foundation for the economy of the next century.

Now, elections are coming up. I know that is a surprise to some. But if you heard the kind of comments made earlier on the floor this evening you can tell that elections are coming up. But the American people understand that elections are about choices, and they are about the future. And there is a clear choice between Republicans who are working to enact serious reforms that will grow our economy, and reduce the deficit, and Capitol Hill Democrats who are interested in spending more of America’s taxpayer dollars on wasteful Government programs as they see fit.

Now, I want to point out two things on this and the next poster. This poster shows the years have been lower proportion here, 2000-2006. And it has, this blue line here is the number of new jobs created, the number of new jobs created. And since August of 2003, this has 5.3. It is actually 5.7 million new jobs created in that period of time.

There is a vertical dotted green line here. And that vertical dotted green line marks the point where the tax decreases, the appropriate and fair tax decreases for the American people were enacted by this administration and by this Congress. And since that point, what you have seen, again, here is jobs growth going down. Tax cuts decrease put in place, and jobs go up.

These red bars are business investment in these quarters. See business investment down, which means a slower economy, not as many jobs, not as much economic activity or growth. What happens when appropriate, fair tax decreases are put in place? The economy flourishes. So much about it. It occurs every time that significant tax reduction is put in place, has been put in place over the last 50 years in our Nation.
President Kennedy knew it. It occurred when he instituted appropriate tax decreases. President Reagan knew it. It occurred when he instituted tax decreases, and occurred with president George W. Bush with the appropriate tax decreases.

Now, I think it is important to appreciate that the other side truly has no plan for the economy. In fact they have not proposed any plans to address the mandatory programs, Social Security, Medicare, Medicaid, those things that are on autopilot that now consume about 54 percent of the budget, and unless they are addressed in relatively short order they will cause a significantly greater drain on the economy, decrease the economic growth and activity that we have seen.

The other side is literally blind and has not proposed any proposals to improve or to reform those spending programs. In fact, what they have done is to propose in the last fiscal year 2006 budget, these were the things that they actually did write down and bring to committees and bring to the floor of the House, new spending to the tune of $21.5 billion, and new taxes, new taxes to the tune of $54 billion with again no savings, no savings in Medicare, Medicaid, Social Security, those items that if nothing is doing to those three items by 2030, they will consume the entire budget, the entire budget.

So it is not something that you can just say, well, do not worry about it, we do not have to do anything to those items because they will take care of themselves.

Over the past 4 years, if the Democrats had been in control, they talk about their desire to take control of the House and to lead, well, what would have happened if they would have been in control for the last 4 years and had their proposals put in place?

If they had been in control, discretionary spending would have increased by over $106 billion. Amazingly, although they talk a good game, they are not entitled to their own facts, and these are the facts about who is truly interested in budgetary reform and earmark reform.

To make matters worse, they are more than eager to raise your taxes. You hear the code words, and the code words recently have become “shared sacrifice.” Have you heard that, Madam Speaker, “shared sacrifice?”

What that means is raising your taxes because they believe that they know how to spend your money better than you. That is one of the principles that they have about how they plan to grow the government, how they plan to cover all these special projects and programs that they would like to expand. That would have not only a horrible impact on the economy, but it would also give them even more revenue, increased revenue in the government to spend.

Madam Speaker, when I hear the other side talk, if you just listen to them, you get so doggone depressed. But I am optimistic about the future of this Nation. I am optimistic about this economy.

The United States has the number one economy in the world, and in order to assure that vibrant economy in the 21st century, we in the House have focused on a comprehensive set of policies and incentives that will build on a solid economic foundation.

This won’t be accomplished by Federal funds though, because Federal funds don’t solve that kind of challenge. That is done by private capital. The private sector, not government bureaucrats, know how money should be spent, what resources are needed and what type of training workers will require. Unfortunately, unfortunately, there are way too many government roadblocks that stand in the way of business development and that deter investment, both here and abroad.

There are steps that we can take and we will take to restore our Nation’s competitiveness and ensure that America remains the land of opportunity. We are not the status quo party. The Republicans are not the status quo party. We are the party of change, we are the party of vision, we are the party of entrepreneurship, we are the party of individual responsibility, we are the party of success.

We will work to address health care security, termination of bureaucratic red tape, lifelong learning, trade fairness and opportunity, tax relief and simplification, energy self-sufficiency and security, innovation and investment, and ending lawsuit abuse and litigation management.

I tell you, Madam Speaker, that is an agenda that the American people can be proud of. It is an agenda that the American people can embrace with enthusiasm, with optimism, with passion, not with a dour look on your face and say “woe is me, isn’t the world awful.”

These are the exciting kind of proposals. These are exciting proposals that will put forward before this House as we continue our leadership, our strong leadership, to bring about increasing American competitiveness.

For 3 years, House Republicans have promoted the House economic competitiveness agenda. This year alone we have passed over 39 pieces of legislation that will help make America more competitive. We have real solutions. Republicans offer real solutions. We invite our colleagues to join us in moving America forward and providing an opportunity for the United States businesses and working families.

But instead, they have no plan, and instead of working with us at the committee level or on the House floor, the Democratic Party decided to undermine the economic competitiveness agenda over and over and again.

Again, their so-called innovative agenda is not innovative. It is a call for increased government spending, presumably fueled by increased taxes. In response to our economic agenda, at so many different points they have been nothing but obstructionists over and over again.

For example, college access for all. They say they are for expanding access to college, yet they voted against the College Access and Opportunity Act, 181 of them, including the top two leaders in their party, 181 of them voted against the College Access and Opportunity Act.

Energy independence, Democrats say they want to end our dependence on foreign oil, and yet they try to obstruct every single plan to access America’s own oil and natural gas reserves, such as tapping into ANWR and the OCS.

The Energy Policy Act, 183 Democrats, including their top two leaders, voted no. The Refinery Permit Process Schedule Act, 176 Democrats, including their top two leaders, voted no. And the Deep Ocean Energy Resources Act, 156 Democrats, including their top two leaders, voted no.

Affordable health care, a difficult challenge for so many large and small businesses around our Nation. Democrats say they want to help employers provide health insurance to their employees. But they vote against every single measure to do so. The HEALTH Act, 185 Democrats, including their top two leaders, voted no. Small Business Health Fairness Act, 165 Democrats, including their top two leaders, voted no.

And recently, the Health Information Technology Promotion Act, something that would truly streamline health care for our Nation, 139 Democrats, including their top two leaders, voted no. So, Madam Speaker, it truly is a remarkable contrast between the two parties.

I want to put up one more chart, because when you think about what would happen if the other side were in fact to be in the majority, I get questions at home, what would they do? What would they do?

Again, elections are about choices and they are about the future, and to determine what they would do, all you have to do is look at the legislation that they have proposed, the legislation they proposed. I presume that is what they would do, don’t you, Madam Speaker?

The top two bills that they have proposed, H. Res. 635 and H. Res. 636, the first step in impeaching President Bush resolution and the second step in impeaching President Bush resolution.

Madam Speaker, I do not believe that the American people are interested in leadership in this House of Representatives that was so obsessed one priority the impeachment of the President of the United States. That is not what the American people are interested in.

What else are they interested in? H.R. 4683, the Federal Health Care System Government-Run Health Care Act. House Democrats want to create a Federal health care system without choices, which would combine the efficiency of the Department of Motor Vehicles and the compassion of the IRS, and they would tax Americans to get to it. They would amend the Social Security Act, the bill would, to impose on the income of every individual tax equal to 1.7 percent of wages received, and on every employer an excise tax of 6 percent of all wages paid to each employee, and on the self-employment income of every individual a tax equal to the applicable percentage of the self-employment income for such taxable year. Who cosponsors that? Ranking Democrats, remember, the individuals who would be chairmen of the committees, ranking Democrats and senior members of the Democrat Caucus.

Madam Speaker, I do not think that is what Americans are bargaining for.

So, Madam Speaker, Republicans understand that it is the American people who built this Nation, American people who built this economy and made this the land of opportunity. Washington’s job as the people’s representative is to provide national and economic security and to give each individual the freedom and the protection to pursue their American dream.

The imagination and hard work of the American people have built this wonderful and beautiful Nation, and they have made it prosperous. Our task as Members of the United States Congress is to ensure that this remains true for the next century.

Once again, the other side relies on the vague promises and big government programs to solve every perceived problem in the United States. Government is not the answer, and this philosophy, which is truly left over from previous bureaucratic administrations of the 1960s and 1970s, has only slowed down progress in our Nation every single time it has been instituted.

Madam Speaker, we live in a glorious Nation. It is a wondrous Nation, a Nation that is still seen by men and women around the world as a beacon of liberty and repository of hope. I am incredibly proud to belong to the United States House of Representatives and to have the opportunity to share this positive perspective and this positive vision with my colleagues and with the Nation as we have done tonight.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Dr. Barry C. Black, offered the following prayer:

Let us pray.

Eternal Spirit, a nation turns its heart and mind to You. Give hope to those who are underpaid and overworked. Sustain the lonely and empty, particularly those who have lost loved ones in the defense of freedom. Fill the vacuum created by such sadness with Your presence, lest loneliness shake their faith.

Today, bless our Senators. You know their needs. Supply them from Your celestial bounty. Show them duties left undone. Strengthen them to resist temptation in all of its enticements and to walk the narrow way of discipline that leads to life. Enrich them with Your powerful presence and keep them faithful.

We pray in Your holy Name. Amen.

RECOGNITION OF THE MAJORITY LEADER

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The majority leader is recognized.

SCHEDULE

Mr. Frist. Today, following the opening remarks of the two leaders, we will have a 30-minute period of morning business. Following that time, we will return to the United States-Oman Free Trade Agreement for closing remarks. The agreement provides for a vote on passage at 12 noon today, and that will be the first vote of the day. The Senate will then recess from 12:30 to 2:15 to allow the weekly policy meetings to occur.

When the Senate resumes business at 2:15, we will proceed to executive session for the consideration of the Alice Fisher nomination. We have an order for 5½ hours of debate on the Fisher nomination prior to the vote on confirmation. We expect some of that time to be yielded back, and we will vote on that nomination this evening before adjourning.

Last night, I filed a cloture motion on the motion to proceed to H.R. 6061, the Secure Fence Act of 2006. That cloture vote will occur on Wednesday morning, and we hope we can invoke cloture and dispose of this bill quickly.

OMAN FREE TRADE AGREEMENT

Mr. Frist. Mr. President, I wish to take a few moments to comment on the bill we will be voting on later this morning, the Oman Free Trade Agreement.

On June 29, the Senate passed the Oman Free Trade Agreement by a vote of 60 to 34. Today, we will bring the Oman Free Trade Agreement to the floor again for final passage of the House bill.

We have a long history with Oman. Our relationship has extended for nearly 200 years. It dates back to 1833, when a treaty of friendship and navigation was signed with Muscat. Oman was the first Arab country to send an ambassador to the United States.

Over the years, Oman has offered us valuable support. When we needed a local airbase for an attempt to rescue U.S. Embassy hostages in Iran during the Carter administration, Oman volunteered. When we needed a safe ground for our troops during Operation Enduring Freedom in Afghanistan and Operation Iraqi Freedom, Oman volunteered.

Today, Oman cooperates closely with us and other allies on counterterrorism and has publicly supported the democratic transition in Iraq. Although not a formal member of the coalition, Oman has been a committed, dependent ally in the global war on terror.

In Oman, we have found a solid partner on terrorist finance issues. Oman partners with its neighbors on transborder terror threats, and Oman’s Government and religious leaders consistently and courageously denounce acts of terror and religious intolerance.

It is clear that through nearly 200 years of formal relations, we have enjoyed a close and cooperative partnership that continues to expand.

The free-trade agreement before us builds on the progress already made. It strengthens our relationship with a key friend and ally in the region, and it is a model for free trade in the entire Persian Gulf region.

It is not our first bilateral agreement in the region. We struck similar deals with Jordan in 2000, with Morocco in 2004, and with Bahrain in 2005. Like those earlier deals, the Oman agreement will open and expand opportunities for exports of many American products. America’s workers, manufacturers, consumers, farmers, ranchers, and service providers will all benefit.

As soon as the agreement takes effect, Oman and the United States will provide each other immediate duty-free access on virtually all products in our tariff schedules. This includes all consumer and industrial products. We will phase out tariffs on the remaining products within 10 years. Former Trade Representative Rob Portman called it “a comprehensive free trade agreement that will contribute to economic growth and trade.”

Unfortunately, some have sought to undermine the agreement. They have propagated myths that don’t stand up to scrutiny. For example, despite claims to the contrary, Oman does not implement any aspect of the Arab boycott of Israel. Oman publicly affirms and has reaffirmed its position in a letter from its Commerce Minister in September 2005. Moreover, Oman neither tolerates nor allows the use of slave labor. Oman has made substantial commitments to the United States on labor reform, and it has promised to enact key reforms by October 31, 2006.

Rejecting the trade agreement would send a strong negative signal to our friends in the Middle East. Oman is a forward-looking Arab country on a range of social and economic issues. We must demonstrate our support to Oman, just as Oman has supported us.

As the 9/11 Commission advised, expanding trade with the Middle East will “encourage development, more open societies, and opportunities for people to improve the lives of their families.” Passing the agreement before us will promote economic reform and development in the Persian Gulf, and it will advance our goal of a free and more open Middle East. Quite simply, it will move our allies forward, and it will move America forward.

I urge my colleagues to demonstrate their commitment to these goals by voting to pass the Oman Free Trade Agreement later this morning. I yield the floor.

RESERVATION OF LEADER TIME

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Under the previous order, the leadership time is reserved.

MORNING BUSINESS

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Under the previous order, there will now be a period for the transaction of morning business for up to 30 minutes, with the first half of the time under the control of the Democratic leader or his designee, and the second half of the time under the control of the majority leader or his designee.

The Senator from Illinois is recognized.

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to speak as in morning business for the minority side. The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

DEMOCRATIC POLICY COMMITTEE HEARINGS

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, I commend my colleague, Senator DORGAN of North Dakota, for a hearing he held yesterday. It was a hearing of the Democratic Policy Conference. This is the 10th hearing he has held. I attended with several other Senators. The hearings are held on Monday because they cannot be held during the ordinary course of business of the Senate.

The reason, I am afraid, is very clear. Senator DORGAN is considering an issue which no other committee in Congress will consider. Senator DORGAN is raising questions which no other committee in Congress will consider. And do you know what I suggest? Senator DORGAN and the Democratic Policy Conference are calling witnesses to testify openly on issues which the majority in this Republican-led Congress will not even consider. What could that possibly be? It turns out to be the conduct of our war in Iraq and, particularly, the waste and mismanagement of Federal tax dollars.

Yesterday, there were several former employees of Halliburton. We all know what happened this fourth year in Iraq. This is the company with the no-bid contracts—$7 billion worth—and friends in high places all over this administration. This is the company which made millions of dollars off of taxpayer funds and, sadly, often at the expense of our soldiers.

Yesterday, the testimony was very clear. There was one witness who talked about this fitness center that was put up for our troops and an Inter-serv center. And Halliburton was going to run it. It turns out they dramatically inflated the number of soldiers walking through the door so they could make more money on the center, ripping off the taxpayers. It turns out that the supplies they were given for our troops, Halliburton ended up consuming for their own employees, having Super Bowl parties, using the food and drink that had been prepared for our troops.

One of the witnesses yesterday said there was a certain arrogance of the Halliburton contractors when it came to our troops. They were annoyed when the soldiers asked for certain things. It was all about profit. It was all about them.

Why in the world hasn’t a single committee in the Senate called Halliburton in to answer for these things? Because Halliburton has friends in high places. People don’t ask these rude and embarrassing questions of this powerful special interest corporation.

I thank Senator DORGAN and the Democratic Policy Conference for continuing to bring in the whistleblowers. One would think there would be a Member of the Republican Senate embarrassed enough at Halliburton’s conduct in this war in Iraq that they would join us in a bipartisan effort. Sadly, this do-nothing Republican Congress has been a coverup Republican Congress as well. They don’t want to talk about it. They don’t want to raise the questions.

Do you think the feature in the Washington Post this last Sunday would have invoked at least some response from the Republican chairmen of major committees in the Senate? It was an expose. It showed that when we created this provisional authority in Iraq to create a civil society, it turned out to be a patronage operation, worse than known and FEMA when it came to Katrina.

What they did was screen employees who were headed over to Iraq to spend billions of dollars and ask them probing questions about their qualifications. And do you know what happened? They were all screened. What is your position on the issue of abortion? Where do you stand in terms of the Republican Party of America?

These were the questions asked of people we sent over to manage billions of dollars, our taxpayers’ dollars, and rebuild Iraq. Is it any wonder we are in the fourth year in Iraq? What is your position on the issue of abortion? Where do you stand in terms of the Republican Party of America?

There was a time in the history of this great institution when no President could get by with what this administration is getting by with. There was a time when a Democratic Senate would challenge a Democratic President, when a man named Harry Truman would stand up and say: We are going to look at profiteering and waste in waging the war against the Nazis and those who are their allies, even if we have a Democratic President, even if it might embarrass him.

Sadly, those days are gone. This Congress stands mute. This Congress refuses to ask the hard questions of this administration. This Congress refuses to acknowledge the obvious. We have lost 2,866 American soldiers in Iraq, and over 20,000 have returned home seriously injured. We have spent over $325 billion. The scandalous conduct of contractors over there, deserving of investigation, has been made a matter of public record because of Senator DORGAN’s hearings, and this administration and this Republican Congress refuse to ask the hard questions. Clearly, it is time for a change.

It is a time for new leadership that will ask these hard questions on behalf of our soldiers and our taxpayers.

Mr. President, I yield the floor.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from North Dakota.

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President, how much time remains?

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Five minutes.

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President, I thank my colleague from Illinois. I appreciate him attending the hearing yesterday. As he indicated, we would prefer not to do oversight hearings. That is a job for... other committees. But because they have not done it, we have a responsibility to do them, and will.

We have done 10 oversight hearings with respect to contracting in Iraq. I am convinced the stories we have heard at these hearings undermine our American image in the Middle East and cheat our taxpayers. I don’t, for the life of me, understand why there is not aggressive activity in this Chamber and at the Pentagon to root out the waste, fraud, and abuse we have seen. It is as if there is a sleepwalking on through these issues.

I have held hearings, and we have described all of the issues. Yesterday, a woman who worked for Halliburton went to Halliburton and said: What is happening is Halliburton is billing, in some cases, five times the amount they should be billing to the Federal Government for certain activities in Iraq.

For complaining to her superiors about the taxpayers being cheated by this company was put under guard by four civilians working for Halliburton, kept overnight, put on an airplane, fired, and shipped out of Iraq. That is what she got for being a whistle blower to talk about how the taxpayers were being cheated.

I am going to speak more about those issues this week with respect to all the hearings I have held. It is not for the purpose of injuring anybody. It is for the purpose of protecting our troops and our taxpayers.

Briefly, I want to describe something I am going to send over to the inspector general of the Defense Department today. This is a letter that was given to us yesterday at the hearing. It is a letter from Halliburton to us yesterday at the hearing. It is a letter from Halliburton—Kellogg, Brown and Root, a subsidiary of Halliburton. It is from Mr. Standard, a civilian contract employee who was a truck driver in Iraq who was wounded.

By the way, Halliburton hires these contract civilian employees through their subsidiary in the Cayman Islands. Why do they have a subsidiary in the Cayman Islands? That is a tax haven country. They get American contracts from our Government and run them through the Cayman Islands so they don’t have to pay taxes.

This is from Mr. Standard, a truck driver wounded in Iraq driving a convoy as a civilian contract employee for Halliburton. Here is what Halliburton has written to this truck driver:

I hope this finds you well and enjoying a swift recovery. Per our conversation today, I included the medical records release form. This form authorizes me to share your medical records with the Pentagon Review Board for the purpose of authorizing you the Secretary’s Defense of Freedom Medal.

Halliburton is saying to the truck driver: We would like you to sign a release so that we, Halliburton, can send them your medical records to the Defense Department and get you a Defense of Freedom Medal. And then under section 9, it says:

Release: I agree that in consideration for the application for a Defense of Freedom Medal on my behalf that on behalf of my heirs, executors, administrators, successors, I hereby release, acquit and discharge and do hereby release, acquit and discharge KBR, all KBR employees, the military, and any and all contractors, collectively and individually, with respect to any claims and any and all causes of action of any kind or character, known or unknown, that I may have against any of them.

What they have said to the employee in a deceitful way, in my judgment, is: We would like you to sign a medical release form so we can apply for a Defense of Freedom Medal for you. First, there is no such thing as being able to apply for a Defense of Freedom Medal.

You are either entitled to it or you are not.

In any event, they are saying to the truckdriver, buried in No. 9, in exchange for that, you should assign away all your rights against this company or any actions of the company or any employee of the company.

This is unbelievably deceptive. Here is a company, Halliburton, saying to a truck driver that was wounded, an employee of theirs—by the way, the testimony yesterday by other truck drivers who were wounded in action is that Halliburton knew they sent a convoy right into hostile action on a road that was marked red and black, which meant no travel by a civilian convoy. They deliberately sent them onto that road anyway. Seven people were killed in that circumstance.

Aside from all of that—and that is important in itself—this company has written to its former employee, a wounded truck driver, saying: We would like to send your medical records to the Pentagon, and we would like to get for you this Defense of Freedom Medal. So would you please sign this—not pointing out to him that he is signing away all his rights to take action against that company or anybody in that company.

I have the standards of the Defense Medal of Freedom right here. Let me show the date. It is in 2001:

Secretary of Defense Donald Rumsfeld announced today the creation of the Defense of Freedom Medal to honor civilian employees of the Department of Defense injured or killed in the line of duty. It will be the civilian equivalent of the military’s Purple Heart. The first recipients to be honored will be the Defense Department civilians injured or killed essentially as a result of the terrorist attack on the Pentagon. At the discretion of the Secretary of Defense, the medal may be awarded to nondefense employees, such as contractors, as a result of contract involvement in Department of Defense activities.

This is unbelievably deceptive, and I believe deceitful, to try to persuade a former employee of this company to sign a release form saying it is a release of medical records when, in fact, it is a release of much more.

I am going to ask the inspector general to investigate exactly what this contractor has done.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator’s time has expired.

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President, I yield the floor.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The majority controls 15 minutes.

Mr. GREGG. Mr. President, I want to talk today a little bit about the progress we are making relative to securing our borders in the United States as a result of efforts made by this Congress and the administration. Before I do, I want to comment briefly on the presentation of the Senator from Illinois relative to the actions of this Congress and its passage of legislation or its investigative activities.

It is truly disingenuous when the assistant leader of the Democratic side comes to the floor and says we have done nothing as a Congress when almost every major piece of legislation that has been brought to the floor of this Senate has been filibustered by the other side of the aisle. Bill after bill after bill has been stymied, stopped and, in fact—it is no secret—there is an open understanding around here that the purpose of the Democratic leadership has been to make it virtually impossible to pass legislation in the Senate in order that the Senate appear to be an ineffective body—their feeling being that if they can obstruct enough things, they can suggest an argument that Congress isn’t functioning and they should be put in charge.

It is an ironic position, of course, and has been on a number of times characterized as being similar to the situation when a man who shot both his parents, when brought before the court, asked for mercy because he declared himself an orphan. The fact is that the Democratic leadership of this body has decided to actively obstruct and try to stop almost any legislation of any significance that has been brought to the floor and, as a result, many things have been stopped because, as we all know, this is a body which functions essentially on a 60-vote majority, not a 51-vote majority. So, therefore, even though the Republican Party has 55 votes, we cannot pass something if there is united opposition. It has happened again and again.

I do find it a bit disingenuous to make this argument—it is their right to make it—but I think an honest reflection of what is actually happening around here makes the argument rather superficial and inadequate in its essence and its purpose.
SECCURING OUR BORDERS

Mr. GREGG. Mr. President, I wish to talk about the progress we have made relative to securing our borders because this is one of those situations where the facts on the ground have not yet caught up with the public perception, which is understandable. That happens a lot in all sorts of areas where things are moving in the right direction, which were broken but are being repaired; there is still a perception that things are fundamentally broken, which is understandable.

Since 2005, we have made rather significant strides toward putting in place the infrastructure and the people necessary to secure the borders. I have the good fortune to chair the Subcommittee on Homeland Security. It may well be the only major appropriations bill that gets out of this Congress before we adjourn in October. That bill and the precursors to it, including the appropriations which we are currently working on over the last 2 years and the supplements that have gone with those bills, have allowed us to significantly expand our commitment to homeland security.

This has been an aggressive step taken by the Republican Congress and the administration. Back in 2005 we took a look at the problem when I assumed the leadership of this Subcommittee, and we basically reoriented this whole funding stream within the Homeland Security Department, relative to the issue of weapons of mass destruction and border security. We concluded that those were the two major threats on which we as a committee should focus. So we took significant amounts of funds at that time and moved them into those accounts. Initially, back in 2005, the administration wasn’t too sure about that, but after they took a hard look at what we were doing, they felt it was a good idea and they decided to join us in our efforts.

Now, since 2005, that effort has accelerated, and we have actually made significant gains. By the time this next bill passes, which I hope will pass before we leave at the end of September, it is expected we will have put in place almost 4,000 new border agents, which is a 40-percent increase in border agents—people physically on the ground; we will have put in place almost 10,000 new detention beds so that when we catch people, we don’t have to release them. That was really an inappropriate policy that was being followed, which was when somebody was caught coming across the border, they were simply either taken back across the border if they were Mexican, or they were released and told to come back and appear for a court date if they were not Mexican. And what we found was that nobody came back for those court dates. So with the 10,000 additional beds we put in place, that policy of catch and release will be curtailed.

We have added hundreds of miles of new fence, and we will continue to add new fencing where it is appropriate. We have dramatically increased the Customs and Border Patrol agents so that we are now up to 18,000 Customs officers. I am talking about—not Border Patrol—Customs officers who monitor our ports of entry, in addition to our Border Patrol. We have greatly increased the commitment to the Coast Guard, which is the first line of defense relative to our ports and also plays a major role, of course, along the access points of our coastline for people who are coming into the country illegally. We have added $7.5 billion to the Coast Guard accounts which are going to give them the new capability they need for the boats and the aircraft, specifically upgrading their aircraft, upgrading their helicopters. All of this is in order to give the Coast Guard the ability to intercept people who may be coming here to do us harm.

We dramatically increased our commitment in the area of nuclear detection. We set up the Nuclear Deterrence Office, which basically is a focused effort on the question of how to deter a nuclear attack and also respond to it. We have upgraded our capabilities along the borders; that we are significantly improving the capabilities of the Coast Guard, and that systems such as US-VISIT, which basically tracks who is coming into the country through a fingerprint process, are up and running and appear to be giving us significant results.

But the facts on the ground are that we are actually significantly upgrading our capabilities along the borders; that we have significantly upgraded our technological capability and we are continuing to expand that dramatically; that we are significantly improving the capabilities of the Coast Guard, and that systems such as US-VISIT, which basically tracks who is coming into the country through a fingerprint process, are up and running and appear to be giving us significant results.

So I think we should talk about the good that is happening and our efforts to do the right thing along the borders, which is secure them and the progress that we are making. We should recognize that although we are not there yet, we are clearly on a path toward accomplishing our goal, which is to make sure that the people who come into this country, first, come in legally and, secondly, when they come in they do us no harm and their purpose is to do us no harm; and thirdly, that the product that is coming into this country is for the purpose of commerce, not for the purpose of harming us.

Mr. President, I yield the floor. The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Vermont is recognized.

Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, what is the parliamentary situation? The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The majority controls 4 minutes 15 seconds in morning business. The minority’s time has expired in morning business.

Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that I be allowed to speak for up to 12 minutes as in morning business.

Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, I am delighted to hear you say that.

Mr. LEAHY. I thank the Chair.

HUMANITARIAN CATASTROPHE IN DARFUR

Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, it is disheartening to be back on the floor of the Senate again to talk about the looming humanitarian catastrophe in Darfur that we had not adequately addressed. The partial peace agreement signed in May between the Sudanese Government and one rebel faction, the 3-year civil war... in Darfur has intensified in recent months. By any account, the situation is rapidly deteriorating.

Today, Darfur faces a more complex and brutal environment where rebel groups have splintered, and one has joined the Sudanese Army, strengthening jingaweit militias that have long used rape, murder and mayhem to gain control of the region.

On August 28, Sudanese Government forces launched a major offensive in Darfur against any opposing rebels, in direct violation of the Darfur Peace Agreement and cease-fire accord. As a result, tens of thousands more civilians have been forcibly displaced, bringing the total to more than 2 million people. And, of course, for those who have been displaced, disease and dysentery are rampant, causing the death rate to increase.

Relief organizations that have not already left the region face near impossible hurdles to reach hundreds of thousands of desperate people in need of food, water, and medical attention who are also vulnerable to the intensifying and indiscriminate aerial bombings. It is a scene straight out of Hell.

The well-intentioned, 7,000-member African Union peacekeeping force is understaffed, under-equipped, and has been unable to stop the violence in Darfur. The fact is they don't even have the communications, airlift, mobility, or support that most military would have. Estimates of the number of people who have died from war and disease in Darfur range as high as 450,000. That is 75 percent of the population of my own State of Vermont.

The United Nations Security Council adopted Resolution 1706 that would replace the African Union force with a much larger U.N. force empowered to protect civilians. The Sudanese Government not only rejected the resolution but demanded that the African Union withdraw from the country after its mandate expires at the end of this month.

While the United Nations, the African Union, and most of the international community are united in support of a larger U.N. peacekeeping force, the government in Khartoum has repeatedly refused. I think they probably fear that the U.N. can pose a challenge to its own ability to act with impunity and its own ability to carry out murder and mass extermination of people.

It is a fact that a lone despot, Sudan’s President Omar Hassan al-Bashir, can obstruct the deployment of a U.N. peacekeeping force to stop genocide from continuing in his country. He has even gone so far as to threaten to attack any U.N. force that enters Sudan. This is a man who has made it very clear he supports the genocide and will try to stop anybody who wants to bring a halt to it.

Despite the Bush administration’s diplomatic efforts in pressing for urgent international intervention to ease the Darfur crisis, China and Russia managed to thwart passage of a stronger U.N. Security Council resolution. And on August 20, the Arab League Committee on Sudan backed the Sudanese President’s refusal of a U.N. peacekeeping force. They further distanced themselves from any responsible members of the Arab League, and that is amazing. People are dying. People are being killed. They are being raped. They are being murdered. They are being starved and they are dying of all kinds of diseases. Nobody takes responsibility. The Sudanese regime has managed to defy the Bush administration.

from accomplishing because the minority will not let us.

First of all, that is not the case because, with respect to oversight hearings—which was the subject I raised and my colleague from Illinois raised this morning—nothing anybody is obstructing anybody from holding oversight hearings. That is the responsibility of the committees and the chairmen of the committees, to hold oversight hearings.

I have held some in the Democratic Policy Committee because the regular committees won't hold them, but let me describe a few of the things I have found in the hearings I have held—some small, all of them. In my judgment, cheating American taxpayers: Contractors in Iraq paying $45 for a case of Coca-Cola; contractors in Iraq paying $7.500 for a 1-month lease on an SUV; contractors in Iraq who are buying towels for the troops, and instead of buying the hand towels for our troops to use that would cost a relatively small amount of money, they triple the amount that the taxpayers pay for these hand towels for our soldiers. I want the company name on them, Kellogg Brown and Root, embroidered on the towels. So they triple the cost of the towels.

Henry Bunting came and testified about that. He said he was the purchaser. They said: Purchase the towels with the embroidered name of our company on it. He said it costs more. They said: Don't bother about that; it doesn't matter. It is a cost-plus contract. The taxpayer pays for it.

The list of abuses is endless. At any point along the way did anybody say we ought to look into this, issue subpoenas? No, no; dead silence.

Twenty-five tons, 50,000 pounds of nails are laying in the sands of Iraq because the contractor ordered the wrong size. What did they do? Dumped them out. It doesn't matter. The taxpayers are paying for all of that.

The contractors in Iraq have new trucks left to be torched, put on fire on the side of the road because they had a flat tire and they did not have a tool to fix them. The contractor says: That is not a problem. The taxpayers will pay for that.

Serving food to the soldiers? The contractor that gets the contract to provide food for the soldiers is providing food that has out-of-date stamps on the food. It doesn't matter. Serve it to the soldiers anyway.

Yesterday, a woman came forward who worked in Iraq, as I mentioned earlier today, Mrs. McBride. She said they were charging the Government five times the amount of money, five times the cost, over the number of soldiers who were using the recreational facilities. They were double counting and triple counting and, in some cases, submitting forms with five times the number of people. Why? To inflate the cost, to extract money from the American taxpayer.

All of this is going on and nobody seems to care. Oversight hearings? You show me where the oversight hearings have been held. Show me. They have not been held because nobody wants to embarrass anybody around here. We have one-party rule—in the White House, House, Senate. Nobody wants to embarrass anybody.

You have sole-source, no-bid contracts given at the Pentagon. The top civilian official, the top person in the Pentagon who rose to the top civilian level in the Pentagon as a contracting officer, who everyone says is one of the finest contracting officers in the Pentagon, do you know what she said? She said: The awarding of these sole-source, no-bid contracts to Halliburton is the most substantial abuse that I have seen in my service in the public arena. What happened to her? Nobody cares.

Under the reconstruction program, I am told, we, the American taxpayers, spent $18 billion for reconstruction for Iraq. We ordered an air conditioner for a room in Iraq, and then it went to a subcontractor, another subcontractor, and pretty soon the American taxpayer paid for air conditioners and that room now has a ceiling fan—yes, a ceiling fan. It is just unbelievable what is going on. Again, nobody seems to care.

I mentioned before that in the 1940s, Harry Truman was a Senator in this Chamber, and he put together the Truman Committee. It was bipartisan. They went after fraud, and they didn't tolerate it. I am sure Franklin Delano Roosevelt was furious that a Congress was nipping at his heels, a Congress of his own party nipping at his heels on these issues. It didn't matter. Harry Truman, Republicans and Democrats together, went after it.

I proposed three or four times in the Senate to have votes to establish a select committee to do just that, but, sorry, no dice. Nobody wants anything to do with this issue.

I will come to the floor and give a list of what we have discovered in 10 hearings and see if anybody stands up to say: Yes, that makes sense; we support all that. None of this makes sense.

It cries out, it begs for leadership. This was a near miss. It could have caused death or massive illness. It is unbelievable. Oversight hearings? You have sole-source, no-bid contracts to Halliburton is the most substantial abuse by any of our civilian officials.

This is unbelievable. Oversight hearings? You have one-party rule—Democrats and Republicans. They happen to be Republicans now because they are in power, but it has gone on for some long while. Here is what you see: Trade deficits, which are nonpotable water that is provided to the soldiers for the purpose of showering and brushing their teeth and washing their hands and doing the kinds of things they do was more contaminated than raw water coming from the Euphrates River. And their intermembrane交流

This event, which was a near miss, could have caused death or massive illness. It has been denied that it even happened by the company. The Pentagon doesn't seem to be very interested. The company denies it happened, despite the fact that we have it in writing from the person who was in charge and who still works for the company. It is unbelievable.

I didn't come to talk about that, but when I hear people say there has been aggressive oversight, or any oversight in this Congress—it is a sham. It is not the case.

CONCLUSION OF MORNING BUSINESS

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Morning business is closed.

UNIVERSAL STATES-OMAN FREE TRADE AGREEMENT IMPLEMENTATION ACT

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Under the previous order, the Senate will resume consideration of H.R. 5684, which the clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

A bill (H.R. 5684) to implement the United States-Oman free trade agreement.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Under the previous order, there will be 30 minutes divided as follows: Mr. DORGAN, 10 minutes; Mr. GRASSLEY, 10 minutes; the chairman and ranking member of the Finance Committee, 10 minutes, equally divided.

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President, I believe I had reserved 1 hour of which I had used 30 minutes previously. The vote is at noon, so I intend to speak for the other 30 minutes, if that is appropriate?

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there objection? Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President, let me talk about the Oman Free Trade Agreement. There are nine additional free-trade agreements being negotiated right now, nine of them. This past week there was an announcement that the monthly trade deficit is now $68 billion a month; a $68 billion monthly trade deficit. If ever there was a definition of failure, this is it.

So here is what we have: We have the good old boys negotiating trade agreements—Republicans and Democrats. They happen to be Republicans now because they are in power, but it has gone on for some long while. Here is what you see: Trade deficits, which are represented by a mountain of red ink—or a deep valley of red ink in the case of this chart—the highest trade deficit in history, an unbelievable trade deficit. No country has ever had these kinds of deficits. They will have significant effects for our country.

These deficits must be paid for with a lower standard of living in our country. Every single day, we send $2 billion out to foreign countries because we import $2 billion more than we export. That means every single day we are selling $2 billion worth of American jobs. We are selling America piece by piece.

Does this give anybody pause? Is anybody concerned? No. You know what we need to do? Let’s do another trade agreement. We have done trade agreements here, at this point on the chart, we have done them here, we have done them here, and every single incompetent trade agreement this country signs up for ends up dramatically increasing our Federal deficits. We are choking on them, pulling the rug out from under American workers, shipping more American jobs overseas. And what is the response of this Congress? You know, let’s do more of it. Why? Because we live in a global economy, and this is free trade.

I once knew, in my little home, a three-legged blind dog with fleas that they used to call Lucky. Labels didn’t mean much to me—didn’t mean much to that dog either, as a matter of fact. “Free Trade” was the label on this nonsense. It is not free and it certainly is not fair.

This country has become Uncle Suck-er on trade agreements. We have signed up to almost anything. Most of our trade is foreign policy and soft-headed foreign policy at that. I am in favor of trade. I want to expand trade—the more the better, but I demand it be fair to this country. When it is not fair, I think we ought to insist. It doesn’t matter what country it is. Whether it is China or Europe or Japan or Korea or Mexico or Canada, I think we ought to say it is a new day. And the way we are going to trade with you is with circumstances that are fair to our country, to our workers, and to our country’s interest.

Trade ought to be mutually beneficial. When we sign up to trade with somebody, it ought to be mutually beneficial.

Let me tell you what is coming next year. Next year everyone in this country will have an opportunity to start buying Chinese cars because China has announced that they intend to start shipping Chinese automobiles to the U.S. marketplace. We have a trade agreement with China about cars. Let me describe what it is.

It says: China, when you ship a car to the United States—it will happen starting next year—we are going to hit you with a 2.5-percent tariff, a tiny little tariff, a 2.5-percent tariff you are going to have to pay on the cars you ship into our marketplace. And, by the way, any American cars that we send to China next year, we agree we will pay a 25-percent tariff.

So a country with whom we have a $2.5 billion trade deficit, we signed up, on bilateral automobile trade, that they should be able to charge a tariff 10 times what we could. And then we try to sell a car in their country. That is unbelievably incompetent. That is what our country has agreed to.

That is just one little piece. Most people wouldn’t know about dealing with bilateral trade. It affects American jobs. It pulls the rug out from under our workers. That is just one. There are dozens and dozens of similar examples.

Since I am talking about automobiles, let me describe the situation with Korea. South Korea sent us over 700,000 cars last year. I will show you the chart. South Korea sent 730,000 cars last year into our marketplace. Do you know how many American cars we sold in South Korea? We sold them just 4,251 cars. Is it because they don’t want American cars? No. It’s because the Koreans largely closed their market to our product even as we opened our markets to them. We will ask anything about it? No. We sit around twiddling our thumbs—sucking our thumbs in some cases—and lament that this is going on. It is an unbelievable failure.

Ninety-nine percent of the cars driven on the streets of South Korea are Korean-made cars. Why is that the case? That is exactly the way they want it, and that is the way it will stay because our country doesn’t seem to care. We sign up to all of these trade agreements. In fact, we are doing a new agreement with Korea now. That is one of the nine. Does anyone really care about fair trade?

So in this context, let me talk about Oman now. There are about 400 organizations, ranging from the League of Rural Voters to the National Farmers Union to the Sierra Club to the AFL-CIO, about 400 organizations have come out in opposition to the Oman Free Trade Agreement. What is the reason for that? Let me describe it with a letter which many of them signed which says the following:

Like NAFTA and CAFTA, OFTA (the Oman Free Trade Agreement)—fails to include any meaningful labor and environmental protections. The lack of effective labor provisions in OFTA is particularly significant. It will not only fail to prevent massive labor abuses in Jordan—a Nation with which the United States has a free trade agreement. These violations involve widespread human trafficking, 20-hour workdays and widespread failure to pay back wages. More troubling is the fact the Oman FTA contains weaker labor provisions than the Jordan FTA.

Let me describe what is going on in Jordan. This is actually a New York Times piece. I have actually spoken to the people who went to Jordan and saw these sweatshops.

Propelled by a free trade agreement with the United States, manufacturing is booming in Jordan, its exports to America soaring twenty-fold in the last 5 years. But some foreign workers in Jordanian factories that produce garments for Target, Wal-Mart and other American retailers are complaining of dismal working conditions—20-hour workdays, of not being paid for months, and of being hit by supervisors and jailed when they complained.

Here is what happens in Jordan. They fly in so-called guest workers from Bangladesh, Sri Lanka, put them in a sweatshop in Jordan in sweatshops, in factories with closed doors, and then they fly in Chinese textiles, and in sweatshop conditions, with imported workers from Bangladesh and imported textiles from China, they produce products which they ship to the United States.

Let me describe some of the conditions. Some of these workers imported from Bangladesh were promised $120 a month but in some cases were hardly paid at all. One worker was paid $50 for 5 months of work. Forty-hour shifts were common. Let me say that again. Forty-hour shifts—no weeks—were common. Forty-hour shifts in those sweatshops apparently replaced the 40-hour workweek. There were frequent beatings of any workers who complained.

What is the relevance of all this to an Oman Free Trade Agreement? First of all, the country of Oman has about 3 million people. Of that rather small population, over one-half million are actually foreign guest workers. The majority of Oman workers involved in manufacturing and construction are not from Oman. The majority of the workers in Oman are foreigners brought in from Bangladesh, Sri Lanka, and other very poor Asian countries, under labor contracts to work in construction and in factories.

Here is what our own country’s State Department’s 2004 Report on Human Rights said about Oman. We are doing a trade agreement now with Oman. Our own State Department report said:

The law prohibits forced or compulsory labor, including children; however, there were reports that such practices occurred. The government did not investigate or enforce the law effectively. Foreign workers at times were placed in situations amounting to forced labor.

Our own State Department talks about forced labor in Oman. It doesn’t matter to the people who put this agreement together. They could care less about putting in strong labor provisions with respect to this trade agreement.

There are no labor unions in Oman that would be protective of workers or negotiate for workers. In 2005, the Sultan of Oman issued a Sultanic decree which categorically denies workers the right to organize and join unions of their choosing. In some circumstances, workers in Oman can join “representa- tive committees,” but those committees, just as the case in China—China is now advertising that part of its unions—those committees are not independent of the employers or of the Gov- ernment. China now has unions that are part of the Communist government, and the Sultanic decree that prohibits unions in Oman allows representatives of workers to get together but not independent of employers or the Government.

So this month the Sultan of Oman has written to our U.S. Trade Ambassador and promised that he will improve Oman’s labor laws in October of this year. That would be next month. How do you calculate that? That would be after the Congress votes, wouldn’t it? They are going to improve their labor laws after we have voted. Yes, I guess I have heard that before. Maybe this country ought to be suggesting that some of these things be improved before they negotiate free-trade agreements.

Under fast-track rules, the Congress, in its own lack of wisdom, said: We would like to put ourselves in a straight-jacket. So can negotiators agree to trade treaties on their own with no public hearings, at all, without negotiations, on terms that are unfair, on terms that are not in America’s interests? Can they do it? Yes, they can. Under the fast-track treaty, we must negotiate in a way that says when we come back to the Senate, we are prohibited from offering amendments. So the Senate actually votes to put itself into a straight-jacket and prohibit any amendments. I don’t vote for that. I lead the fight against it because I think it is fundamentally undemocratic. But the Congress, and the Senate there done that. That is why there will be no amendments to the Oman Free Trade Agreement.

Let me describe one provision in the Oman agreement, and it has been in a couple of other agreements as well.

Earlier this year, there was a big fight in this country about Dubai Ports World, which is a company owned by the United Arab Emirates, taking over major seaports in this country—six major U.S. seaports—New York, New Jersey, Baltimore, New Orleans, and Miami—taken over to be managed by a company owned by the United Arab Emirates. There was a huge blowup as a result of a massive fire bombed by terrorists at the seaport protest. The President had already approved it, said: It is fine; don’t worry about it; we think American ports can be managed by the United Arab Emirates or the company it owns, Dubai Ports World. I didn’t think so, but the President said it is fine.

Brushing aside suggestions from Republicans and Democrats alike, President Bush endorsed the taking over of shipping operations at six major seaports by a state-owned business in the United Arab Emirates. He pledged to veto any bill Congress might approve to block that amendment. But still, in all, there was such a storm of protest by the American people on this issue that the Senate, probably about all of the terrorist threats, maybe we ought to manage our own seaports; there was such a storm of protest that Dubai Ports World announced they had reached an agreement and they decided they would sell or negotiate to sell all of their interests in managing our ports.

Michael Chertoff, Homeland Security Secretary, said during that period that the proposed takeover of terminal operations at five U.S. ports by a Dubai company would give U.S. law enforcement a better handle on security at U.S. terminal operations. Let me talk about terminally bad judgment here. Here is the guy in charge of Homeland Security who says that allowing foreign interests to take over the management of America’s ports will fully actually provide better security for our country. You talk about unbelievably bad judgment. Everybody has a right to be wrong, including the head of Homeland Security. Let’s just hope that when he is wrong, it doesn’t result in another terrorist attack on this country.

Here is what is in the Oman Free Trade Agreement, a provision that says that the U.S. government cannot block Oman’s acquisition of the following activities:

- Landside aspects of port activities, including operation and maintenance of docks, loading and unloading directly or from land, marine, cargo handling operations and maintenance at piers.
- That is the managing of a port. That provision says that we can’t block Oman from acquiring or an Oman company from being in the trade agreement. This agreement says we will not be able to block, without abrogating this trade agreement, a company from Oman from operating America’s seaports. This alone should defeat the trade agreement. It will not be blocked that there are 60 or 65 Members of this body who will vote for any trade agreement, almost. This provision alone should defeat this trade agreement.

Let me finish by talking about the consequences of this senseless trade policy on jobs in this country. I know it is tiresome to some of my colleagues to keep hearing about this, but I believe it is worthy to describe where we are headed in textiles, manufacturing, high tech, and other areas.

You will remember the television commercials advertising Fruit of the Loom underwear. It ran a lot of commercials talking about how wonderful Fruit of the Loom underwear would be for each of us. They paid someone to dress as green grapes and someone to dress as red grapes. I guess that is the little logo on Fruit of the Loom underwear. They danced, the green and red grapes danced and sang and played music and various things. I don’t know who would actually accept money to dance as grapes, but they found actors to dance as grapes, and they danced right out of this country. They don’t make one pair of Fruit of the Loom underwear in this country anymore, not one.

If you want Mexican food, go to the grocery store and buy Pig Newton cookies. They left this country. They went to Monterrey, Mexico. Every Member of this Senate, I will bet, once had a Radio Flyer, a little red wagon. It was made in America for 110 years. You can still buy them here, but they are not made here anymore; they left for China—all made in China, the little red wagon, the Radio Flyer.

If you wear Tony Lama cowboy boots, you might be wearing Chinese shoes. I have told this story until everyone is tired of it. I used to make them, but they lost their jobs. When they were fired, the last job they had was to take the “American made” decals off existing inventory. They had an hourly job plus their hourly job lost their jobs. That is the managing of a port. That provision says that we can’t block Oman from acquiring or an Oman company from being in the trade agreement, a provision that says that we can’t block Oman from acquiring or an Oman company from being in the trade agreement. This agreement says we will not be able to block, without abrogating this trade agreement, a company from Oman from operating America’s seaports. This alone should defeat the trade agreement. It will not be blocked that there are 60 or 65 Members of this body who will vote for any trade agreement, almost. This provision alone should defeat this trade agreement.

Ultimately, this country will not long remain a world economic power if it does not retain a world-class manufacturing base. This country will not continue to expand the middle-class workers if it continues to incentivize the shipment of jobs overseas. The construction of many big companies of say, Boeing, who want to produce offshore, it is too good: we want to sell in the established marketplace of Los Angeles, Chicago, Denver, Fargo, Pittsburgh, and run the income through the Cayman Islands to avoid paying taxes—which undermines the economic interests of this country.

This country made great progress by expanding the middle class with good jobs that paid well. We debate a lot of this stuff, but there is nothing we debate with respect to a social program that is more important than a good job that pays well. We would do well to remember that as we take a look at bad trade agreements and how we might say, the majority of this Chamber—but not me—votes yes in favor of trade agreements which pull the rug out from under workers, pull the rug out from under farmers, and undermine the long-term economic interests of this country.

We have the same chorus of a tired song that is being sung today in the
Mr. BAUCUS. Mr. President, two-and-a-half months ago, the Senate passed the United States-Oman Free Trade Agreement Implementation Act. We did so because we expected that this agreement would benefit our economy, but it is not true. And we should pass it again today.

Under the agreement, virtually all American merchandise exports will enter Oman duty free. Oman will eliminate most of its duties right away. And Oman will liberalize the remainder of its duties within 10 years. This agreement gives free access to the growing Omani market to American industrial equipment, medical devices, frozen beef, and snack foods.

Oman has also agreed to go beyond its multilateral commitments to provide greater American access to its services markets. It has committed to protect intellectual property. It has committed on combat corruption and bribery. And it has implemented reforms of its labor laws to address American concerns.

I support this trade agreement on its merits. It is a good agreement. And it will strengthen our ties with a valuable partner in the Middle East. I urge my colleagues to vote for it.

Some may wonder why a small agreement like this has generated any controversy. In part, that is due to the fast-track process by which this agreement came before Congress.

The Finance Committee unanimously adopted an amendment to the Oman implementing legislation. Then the administration rejected that amendment outright. Most notably, an attempt by the Senate Finance Committee to deny trade benefits for products made with slave labor, approved unanimously by the Committee on an 18-to-0 vote, was rejected by the administration, which submitted this agreement without that reasonable protection.

You don’t have to be a trade expert to know that our trade policy is alarmingly bad. When even the most reasonable addition is proposed by the Finance Committee to deny preferential benefits for products made by slaves, the administration refuses to include it.

Mr. President, any consultative role Congress was to have as part of the fast-track process has been shown to be meaningless. I very much hope my colleagues will remember this when we consider legislation to renew fast-track implementing authority. Until then, we should reject this and similarly flawed trade agreements.

I yield the floor and suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. SUNUNU). The clerk will call the roll.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I would like to use my 10 minutes that has been allocated to me on the Oman Free Trade Agreement.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered. The Senator is recognized for 10 minutes.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I rise in strong support of H.R. 5684, the United States-Oman Free Trade Agreement Implementation Act. The United States-Oman Free Trade Agreement will benefit U.S. farmers, workers, and businesses. It will lead to economic growth and enhance the predictability of the rule of law in Oman, a reliable ally of the United States in the Middle East.

The United States-Oman Free Trade Agreement will also serve as a model for other free-trade agreements in the Middle East.

In this way, the United States-Oman Free Trade Agreement will contribute to the formation of a Middle East free trade area, a development that would provide major economic and political benefits for the United States.

Let me begin by discussing the economic gains that this agreement will bring to the United States. On the day that the agreement goes into effect, Oman will no longer impose any tariffs on U.S.-produced consumer and industrial products. The agreement will also benefit U.S. farmers as some 87 percent of Oman's remaining tariffs on U.S. farm products will be phased out over 10 years.

In addition, the United States-Oman Free Trade Agreement will result in substantial improvements in market access for U.S. service providers and new protections for U.S. investors.

Given the benefits that it will provide to the United States, the agreement has been endorsed by groups as varied as the American Farm Bureau Federation, the American Chemistry Council, the Association of Equipment Manufacturers, the National Foreign Trade Council, and the United States-Middle East Free Trade Coalition, an entity consisting of over 110 U.S. companies and associations supporting trade expansion in the Middle East.

The United States-Oman Free Trade Agreement will result in new market opportunities for farmers, workers, and businesses throughout the United States, including those in Iowa.

For example, the Midamar Corporation—a small business located in Cedar Rapids, IA, that specializes in halal food—anticipates that the United States-Oman Free Trade Agreement will lead to new sales of Iowa-produced foods in Oman. Profit margins in the food sector are very low, and Oman's current average applied tariff of 5 percent on Midamar's products cuts into the company's profits.

With Oman's tariffs on many of Midamar's products going to zero on day one of the agreement, Midamar will have significantly improved access to the Oman market immediately upon implementation of the United States-Oman Free Trade Agreement.

At least two other Iowa businesses expect to benefit from the free-trade agreement. The HNI Corporation of Muscatine is the second largest manufacturer of office furniture in North America, and HNI is specifically targeting the fast-growing market of the Middle East. HNI anticipates that the agreement will provide significant opportunities for it to sell its products in Oman.

Likewise, Lennox—which manufactures residential heating and cooling products in Marshalltown—predicts that it will gain from the United States-Oman Free Trade Agreement. Thus, the United States-Oman Free Trade Agreement could have a direct impact on Iowans in Cedar Rapids, Muscatine, and Marshalltown.

This agreement will benefit people in other States as well. I am confident that the Oman Free Trade Agreement will ultimately lead to new market access opportunities for American products in yet more Middle Eastern countries. President Bush is advocating the development of a United States-Middle East free trade area by 2013, and the United States-Oman Free Trade Agreement is another building block toward the accomplishment of this goal.

The United States has already implemented free-trade agreements with four other countries in the Middle East—Bahrain, Israel, Jordan, and Morocco.

A completed United States-Middle East free trade area would result in significantly improved market access for U.S. farm, consumer, and industrial products in a region of the world populated by 350 million people that is growing quickly.

Such an arrangement would also benefit people throughout the Arab world by providing needed economic reforms. So a United States-Middle East free trade area in the best interests of the people of the Middle East, and it would advance American interests as well.

In addition to providing new economic opportunities for the United States, the United States-Oman Free Trade Agreement will contribute to the security of our country. Oman is a consistent ally of the United States in an unstable part of the world. Given that the United States is currently engaged militarily in two countries in the region, now is a particularly appropriate time for us to further cement our close ties with Oman.

By improving economic conditions in Oman, I am confident that the United States-Oman Free Trade Agreement will contribute to the stability of that country. Such stability will help solidify Oman as a moderate Arab country and a friend of the United States.

The United States-Oman Free Trade Agreement is a strong agreement. It will provide economic benefits for the United States. It will also benefit Oman, a consistent ally of the United States.

I urge my colleagues to vote for H.R. 5684, the United States-Oman Free Trade Agreement Implementation Act. I yield the floor and suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The bill clerk proceeded to call the roll.

EXECUTIVE SESSION

NOMINATION OF ALICE S. FISHER TO BE AN ASSISTANT ATTORNEY GENERAL

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, the Senate will proceed to executive session to consider the following nomination, which the clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read the nomination of Alice S. Fisher, of Virginia, to be an Assistant Attorney General.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Kentucky.

Mr. MCCONNELL. Mr. President, I rise today in strong support of a person I know personally from the hometown of Louisville, KY, Alice S. Fisher, who has been nominated to be Assistant Attorney General for the Criminal Division at the Department of Justice.

As I remarked at her confirmation hearing last year, Ms. Fisher is a battle-tested veteran of the war on terror. For the last year, she has again been on the front lines of that struggle.

She has, really, an outstanding and impressive record. She first joined the Justice Department in July of 2001 as a Deputy Assistant Attorney General in the Criminal Division. She was placed in charge of its counterterrorism efforts. Just 2 months later came September 11.

After that horrific day, our Government responded forcefully and quickly. Ms. Fisher’s role was absolutely vital to that fight. She was responsible for coordinating all matters related to September 11 investigations and prosecutions. In addition, she headed up the implementation of the USA PATRIOT Act.

As a Deputy Assistant Attorney General, Ms. Fisher also headed up the Department’s efforts to combat corporate fraud just when the collapse of Enron and other corporate scandals were front-page news. She also helped draft the Sarbanes-Oxley Act and worked closely with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

In July of 2003, Ms. Fisher left the Department to become a partner at Latham and Watkins, where she concentrated on litigation and white-collar crime.

Last spring, Alice Fisher again answered the call to join her country by rejoining the front lines on the war against terror when the President nominated her to head the Criminal Division.

As I mentioned earlier, the Criminal Division has many important responsibilities, among them national security prosecutions, both counterterrorism and counterintelligence, combating gang violence and organized crime, prosecuting corporate fraud and identity theft, liquor control, public corruption and protecting kids from child pornography.

For the last year Ms. Fisher has impressively led the Department in all facets of its operations while serving as a recess appointment. In this capacity, she has further demonstrated her expertise, determination and integrity. Alice Fisher is a proven leader.

Under her tenure, the counterterrorism section has convicted numerous terrorists including Zacarias Moussaoui, the 20th September 11 hijacker. She created a new gang squad of experienced prosecutors to combat national and international gangs such as MS-13. She supervised the Enron task force resulting in the convictions of top executives Ken Lay and Jeffrey Skilling. She heads the Katrina Fraud Task Force which combats all fraud and corruption resulting from this national disaster. As of the end of July, her task force has charged 371 defendants. Under her leadership the Public Integrity Section has prosecuted major public corruption cases.

In addition, since the beginning of her tenure, the Department has aggressively prosecuted crimes against children. It is now coordinating 18 national child pornography operations.

Ms. Fisher was born and raised in my hometown of Louisville, KY, and is part of a close-knit family. Her father ran a chemical plant. Her mother, a Kentuckian of whom all America can be proud, is a wonderful person, an accomplished lawyer, and a Kentuckian of whom all America can be proud.

Given Ms. Fisher’s experience in both the legislative and executive branches of government and her exhibited level of commitment and her experience I ask that unanimous consent be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

NATIONAL DISTRICT ATTORNEYS ASSOCIATION,
Alexandria, VA, August 17, 2006.

Hon. ARLEN SPECTER,
Chairman Committee on the Judiciary,
Washington, DC.

Hon. PATRICK J. LEAHY,
Ranking Member, Committee on the Judiciary,
Washington, DC.

DEAR CHAIRMAN SPECTER AND SENATOR LEAHY: I want to most strongly support the nomination of Alice Fisher as the Assistant Attorney General of the United States in charge of the Criminal Division and urge her speedy confirmation.

Ms. Fisher served her country well as the Deputy Assistant Attorney General in the Criminal Division during a unique and tragic time in this nation’s history. During the period following September 11, 2001, Ms. Fisher was responsible for managing the Counter-Terrorism Section and worked on the development of policy issues on criminal law enforcement and national security.

Since her appointment as Assistant Attorney General in the Criminal Division she has been responsible for the Department of Justice’s response to Hurricane Katrina and the aftermath of widespread fraud; the development of a strategic plan to address the burgeoning identity theft problem that confronts this nation; child sexual exploitation issues; corporate fraud; and public corruption issues.

Prior to Ms. Fisher’s career in the Department of Justice she also served Congress in her capacity as Deputy Special Counsel to the United States Senate Special Committee to investigate the Whitewater Development and Related Matters.

Given Ms. Fisher’s experience in both the legislative and executive branches of government and her exhibited level of commitment to the Department of Justice I can think of no one who would bring more ability to this position than she would.
If you have any questions or concerns in regard to my support of Ms. Fisher please do not hesitate to contact me.

Sincerely,

THOMAS J. CHABOT, Executive Director.

GRAND LODGE, FRATERNAL ORDER OF POLICE.
Washington, DC, August 1, 2006.

Hon. ARLEN SPECTER,
Chairman, Committee on the Judiciary, U.S. Senate, Washington, DC.

Hon. PATRICK J. LEAHY,
Ranking Member, Committee to the Judiciary, U.S. Senate, Washington, DC.

DEAR SENATORS SPECTER AND LEAHY: I am writing on behalf of the membership of the Fraternal Order of Police to advise you of our support of Alice S. Fisher to be continued as the next Assistant Attorney General for the Criminal Division at the U.S. Department of Justice.

For more than one year, Ms. Fisher has served as Assistant Attorney General for the Criminal Division as a recess appointment. She has diligently served in this role and has coordinated with law enforcement on a variety of issues, including antiterrorism prosecutions, public corruption cases, and child sex exploitation cases. Prior to this, Ms. Fisher served as Deputy Assistant Attorney General for the Criminal Division at the U.S. Department of Justice and was responsible for managing both the Counterterrorism and Fraud Sections at the Department. During her tenure, she was responsible for coordinating the Department's national counterterrorism activities, including all matters relating to Section 1118 investigations and prosecutions, terrorist financing investigations, and the implementation of the USA PATRIOT Act.

Her involvement of the Fraud Section included supervising many investigations into corporate fraud, particularly in the areas of securities, accounting, and health care. She worked on a variety of policy matters relating to identity theft and testified before the Senate Special Committee on Aging about the impact of these crimes on our nation's senior citizens.

Currently Ms. Fisher's management of the Innocence Lost Initiative, a cooperative effort to prosecute child prostitution between the FBI, the Criminal Division's Child Exploitation and Obscenity Section and the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children has led to 186 open investigations, 547 arrests, 79 complaints, 105 indictments, and 80 convictions in both the Federal and State systems.

Ms. Fisher's experience as a litigator and policy-maker, as well as her strong, positive relationship with the law enforcement community, makes her an excellent choice to lead the U.S. Attorney General. I have no doubt that she will continue to be an outstanding Assistant Attorney General, and we urge the Judiciary Committee to expeditiously consider her nomination.

Sincerely,

CHUCK CANTERBURY, National President.

FEDERAL LAW ENFORCEMENT OFFICERS ASSOCIATION, Leesburg, PA, August 31, 2006.

Hon. HARRY REID,
U.S. Senate, Washington, DC.

DEAR SENATOR REID: On behalf of the 25,000 members of the Federal Law Enforcement Officers Association (FLEOA), I am writing to you in support of the nomination of Alice S. Fisher for the position of Assistant Attorney General of the Criminal Division of the Department of Justice. Since her nomination easily cleared the Senate Judiciary Committee in May, we are now appealing to you in your leadership role as the Senate Minority Leader to intervene and help bring this important matter to the floor of the Senate for a full vote.

It is our understanding that this process has stalled due to the unfortunate invocation of partisan politics. As the largest non-partisan professional federal law enforcement association, FLEOA would like to see Ms. Fisher's nomination evaluated based on its merit. To that end, the leadership of FLEOA is convinced that Ms. Fisher's impressive credentials would result in her being confirmed should the matter reach the floor of the Senate.

Why is this matter important to the membership of FLEOA? Several of our members have had the distinct pleasure of working with Ms. Fisher, or have served on one of the many task forces she oversees. Two notable examples are the Katrina Fraud Task Force and the President's Identity Theft Task Force. When you ask one of our members about their experience working with Ms. Fisher, the typical response is an enthusiastic thumbs up. Ms. Fisher's reputation as a tireless proponent of federal law enforcement, and she commands the respect of our membership.

In her capacity as the Deputy Attorney General, Ms. Fisher did an outstanding job leading the Enron Task Force. Again, several FLEOA members who were involved in the Enron investigation have nothing but the highest praise for Ms. Fisher. A logical person that objectively reviews Ms. Fisher's long record of distinguished accomplishments cannot conclude that her confirmation as the Assistant Attorney General for the Criminal Division will significantly strengthen the law enforcement component of our nation.

While the threat of domestic terrorist attacks continues to escalate, time does not take pause to accommodate indecision. If we sit back and allow Ms. Fisher's recess appointment to expire, then we become complicit in weakening the Department of Justice. This is unacceptable to the membership of FLEOA.

We have reached a pivotal point in our government's history where it has become increasingly difficult to find and retain the best and the brightest minds to assume leadership positions. If we don't make every effort to confirm the nomination of Ms. Fisher, then who do we expect to get to fill these important positions? More importantly, who will the Attorney General have to turn to for assistance in investigating and overseeing numerous federal law enforcement task forces?

Senator Reid, the membership of FLEOA hopes that you will consider the nomination of Ms. Fisher a priority matter. We are prepared to provide you with additional recommendations and anecdotal support if necessary. Please don't hesitate to contact me or Executive Vice President Jon Adler if we can be of further assistance. On behalf of the FLEOA membership, I thank you for your leadership and your service to our great country.

Sincerely,

ART GORDON, National President.

Mr. McCONNEL, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The pending question is the nomination of Alice Fisher. The Senator from Vermont has 30 minutes.

Mr. LEAHY, Mr. President, what is the pending question?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The pending question is the nomination of Alice Fisher. The Senator from Vermont has 30 minutes.

We are being required to consider this nomination despite unanswered questions regarding her role in the administration's controversial, questionable detainee treatment policies. Of course, we are all aware of the many other matters involving torture and detainees at Guantanamo, the administration has refused to provide Congress with the information it has sought.

As I said 2 weeks ago when the President re-nominated five extremely controversial choices for lifetime positions on the Nation’s highest courts, I continue to be disappointed in the misguided priorities of the Bush-Cheney administration and, in fact, the rubberstamp Senate Republican leadership. I really think all Americans—Republicans and Democrats—would be better served if we used the few remaining weeks of this legislative session to address vital, unfinished business, such as the Medicare prescription drug plan. That might be something the American people would really like to see us debate, the war in Iraq. We haven’t had a real debate on it since we saw that huge sign a few years ago behind the President that said: “Mission Accomplished.” He was dressed up like Tom Cruise in “Top Gun” and put up the sign that said: “Mission Accomplished.” I guess they decided it was all over; why debate it? It would be nice if we enacted a Federal budget. The law says—the law says, and I say this to my law-and-order friends who control the agenda, my Republican friends who control the agenda—the law says we have to have a budget passed by April. We didn’t do it in April or May or June or July or August, now September. We are all law and order around here, but apparently we think we don’t have to follow the law. Of course, we are supposed to pass the 11 remaining required appropriations bills by the end of this month. It doesn’t look like that is going to happen.
We talked about enacting lobbying reform and ethics legislation. I remember the Republican leadership having a wonderful press conference, just absolutely wonderful—just touched by it—especially knowing they would never bring up the legislation.

It would be easy to address the skyrocketing cost of fuel. I don’t think any one of us goes home where we don’t hear about the cost of gas, but we don’t do anything about that.

People talk to me about health care. We don’t do anything about that, either.

How about a bipartisan, comprehensive immigration reform bill? I stood outside the White House and praised President Bush for his support of a comprehensive immigration reform bill. He told several of us in a long meeting—and I think he was passionate about it—that we needed to have one. When a 30-vehicle caravan of Vice President Cheney’s with sirens wailing went by, the Hill don’t think they were saying: Let’s pass a comprehensive immigration reform bill.

But what we can do is controversial nominations—not the items the law requires of us but the things the fund-raising letters require.

In this case, we have an interesting nominee to be the head of the Criminal Division for the Justice Department. She has never prosecuted a case. She has never been in an operating room, you have never really executed a case. It is sort of like saying you are the head brain surgeon; however, you have never really been a brain surgeon. She will be the one to finally resolve those difficult cases. She will be the one to finally treat patients who have nothing to do with the law. She will be the one to finally sign on that, but she has never prosecuted a case. It is sort of like saying you are going to be the head brain surgeon; however, you have never really been a brain surgeon and you have never seen a brain, but there you go.

Even more troubling, perhaps, is the fact that there are so few senior officials at the Justice Department who do have experience in criminal prosecution. I agree with the chairman of the Judiciary Committee, Senator Specter, who has noted: The lack of criminal experience at the top of the Department “does concern me.” He said that while there were lots of “first-class professionals” throughout the ranks of prosecutors, “there are tough judgment calls that have to be made at the top, and it’s good to have some experience on what criminal intent means when you have to make those decisions.”

Both Senator Specter and I are former prosecutors. We understand that.

I also share the concern of the distinguished senior Senator from Michigan, Senator Levin, with the uncertainty about Ms. Fisher’s role as Mr. Chertoff’s deputy in the development and use of controversial detainee interrogation techniques. Despite repeated requests from Senator Levin, who is, after all, a past chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, joined by others, the Justice Department refused to satisfy Senators on these points. As a result, concerns remain whether Ms. Fisher had knowledge of the abuse of detainees at Guantanamo and what, if any, action she took. The rubberstamp Republican leadership of this Congress has gone along with the administration and said: You can’t have the information.

Sometimes holding this stuff back creates far more of a problem than just telling the truth out front. If FBI Director Mueller had been more forth-
The United States should acknowledge what it did, but instead, it uses legal maneuvers to thwart every effort to get to the facts and be accountable for its mistakes. No matter how egregious the mistake, no matter how many international laws are broken, nobody ever admits a mistake around here.

Now, I certainly understand, if somebody votes against this nomination, it may be a vote not so much against Ms. Fisher’s qualifications, but against the administration’s stonewalling and going it alone to the detriment of the interest of the United States and the safety, security, and rights of all Americans.

Last month, our Nation commemorated the one-year anniversary of Hurricane Katrina and the devastation it wrought. We haven’t done much to clean it up at Homeland Security, but it is the one-year anniversary. Last week, our Nation commemorated the fifth anniversary of the deadliest terrorist attack on American soil in our Nation’s history. These twin tragedies—one caused by nature, one caused by terrorists—serve as somber, but ever present, reminders that our Nation is still not secure. One year after this administration’s inaction in the face of Hurricane Katrina, our Nation still faces citizens on the Gulf Coast who do not have homes to return to or jobs waiting when they get there. Five years after the terrorist attack of September 11, the Federal Government has not only affected judicial nominations, but also the confirmation of important executive branch nominees with significant national security responsibilities.

Ms. Fisher oversees vital national security apparatus. Ms. Fisher oversees vital counterterrorism and counterespionage sections of the Criminal Division and the Office of Intelligence Policy and Review, which has the lead role in implementing the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Act, FISA—under the leadership of a single Assistant Attorney General. Bringing together these mission-critical entities will enhance our ability to fulfill our top priority of preventing, disrupting and defeating terrorist acts before they occur.

The President approved the WMD Commission’s recommendation more than a year ago. And Congress embraced the concept and fully authorized the National Security Division as part of the USA PATRIOT Act reauthorization. Congress has also approved a reprogramming request submitted by the DOJ and office space has been dedicated and renovated—but unfortunately, the WMD Commission has been vacant because holds have been placed on the nomination and we have seen a filibuster-by-hold. The Department has done everything it can to meet this Senate’s desire for Mr. Wainstein’s confirmation. While Mr. Wainstein’s confirmation would fulfill one of the key recommendations of the WMD Commission, the Weapons of Mass Destruction Commission. It was the WMD Commission that recommended the reorganization of intelligence-gathering components of the Department of Justice. Mr. Wainstein has broad-based, bipartisan support, yet he inexplicably still faces a Democrat filibuster-by-hold.

We cannot wait any longer for Democrats to release their hold on Mr. Wainstein. In the 5 years since the attacks of September 11, the Federal Government has taken a number of steps to reorganize and improve its resources to better fight terrorism. Our terrorist enemies are always changing and adapting, and so must we—if we are to keep the upper hand in the war on terror.

Some 15 months ago, the WMD Commission recommended that improvements should be made to the Department of Justice’s national security apparatus. They recommended a reorganization of the Department and the creation of a new National Security Division—which would bring together under one umbrella all the national security components of the DOJ.

The National Security Division that Mr. Wainstein would oversee is critically important to the Department—and to America’s safety. It will integrate the key national security components—the Counterterrorism and Counterespionage Sections of the Criminal Division and the Office of Intelligence Policy and Review, which has the lead role in implementing the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Act, FISA—under the leadership of a single Assistant Attorney General. Bringing together these mission-critical entities will enhance our ability to fulfill our top priority of preventing, disrupting and defeating terrorist acts before they occur.

And for its mistakes. No matter how egregious its mistakes, nobody ever admits a mistake around here. Perhaps the most inexcusable obstruction pertains to the nomination of Kenneth Wainstein, who would head the newly created National Security Division. But Ms. Fisher and Mr. Wainstein are not the only nominees to face obstruction. Just looking back to a few others who were slated to fill positions critical to our Nation’s war on terror have likewise been filibustered. For instance, the current Deputy Secretary of Defense, Mr. England, was filibustered before the President was forced to recess-appoint him. He was eventually confirmed. Undersecretary of Defense for Policy, Mr. Edelman, was filibustered, recess-appointed, and finally confirmed. The Office of the Director of National Intelligence General Counsel, Mr. Powell, likewise was filibustered, recess-appointed and finally confirmed.

This obstruction is not limited solely to nominations. Who can forget how proud Democrats were when they celebrated killing the reauthorization of the PATRIOT Act, one of the most important anti-terror tools for our frontline law enforcement and intelligence agents. And it also compelled that we are not doing all we can to secure the safety of our citizens, and then promote hyperbole and hysteria about the Terrorist Surveillance Program, which is well within the President’s authority during wartime, to conduct critical battlefield intelligence-gathering against foreign threats to America.

I think the American people see through this Democrat obstruction. But nominations to critical national security positions should not face partisan road blocks. I recently read a newspaper report on the nomination of Mr. Wainstein. It reported that the office was ready, the phone lines up and the computers humming, waiting on him to start. But, his nomination is being blocked on reasons unrelated to him. This obstruction must stop. I am glad Ms. Fisher will be confirmed later today and I hope that the Senate will be able to move on to Mr. Wainstein’s nomination quickly, so that we do not leave critical national security offices unfilled.

In closing, I am pleased that President Bush has nominated Ms. Fisher to serve as Assistant Attorney General and I look forward to her continued service in that post. I ask my colleagues to support her nomination.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. THUNE). The Senator from Michigan.

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, I listened to the debate in Oregon and Texas and I look forward to her continued service on the Senate Intelligence Committee. I ask my colleagues to support her nomination.

Ms. FISHER. Mr. President, I rise today to discuss the procedure for confirming nominees to the Department of Justice. Nomination hearings are part of a constitutional obligation of the Senate to provide its advice and consent to nominations, which is a solemn one. Instead of respecting this constitutional duty, the administration has consistently sought to thwart it by denying us relevant information.

The administration has put up barrier after barrier, hurdle after hurdle to efforts to get legitimate information that bears on Ms. Fisher’s fitness to serve in this important position. Why is she being stonewalled for so long instead of answering questions and providing information can only be speculated by me. Is it because it is part of an effort to prevent information about interrogation techniques from being provided to Congress, or does it relate directly to Ms. Fisher? I don’t know the answer, but the fact of the stonewalling is undeniable. It is part of a pattern of secrecy that this administration has engaged in in so many areas and so many ways.

The request for documents I have sought relates to what Ms. Fisher knew about aggressive and abusive interrogation techniques in use at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, during the time that Ms. Fisher served as deputy head of the Criminal Division in the Justice Department from July 2001 to July 2003. From publiclly released FBI documents, we have learned that FBI personnel raised serious objections in response to legitimate requests for documents. These impediments to votes can be easily removed by simply having the committee chairman join in the request for these documents, but that has not been forthcoming.

Today the Senate will be able to move on to Mr. Chertoff’s nomination to the Department of Justice. This obstruction must stop. The administration has repeatedly obstructed efforts to get this information. Interrogation techniques at weekly meetings between FBI and Department of Justice Criminal Division officials. I have sought to find out what Ms. Fisher knew about these FBI concerns over aggressive DOD methods; what, if anything, was reported to Ms. Fisher; and what steps, if any, she took in response.

If Ms. Fisher knew of aggressive interrogation techniques at Guantanamo and did nothing about it, or she knew about them but has denied knowing, then I would be deeply troubled. The administration has repeatedly obstructed efforts to get this information. Interrogation techniques at weekly meetings between FBI and Department of Justice Criminal Division officials. I have sought to find out what Ms. Fisher knew about these FBI concerns over aggressive DOD methods; what, if anything, was reported to Ms. Fisher; and what steps, if any, she took in response.

those critical years when Ms. Fisher was the Deputy Director for the Criminal Division. It spoke about DOD interrogation techniques which “differed drastically” from methods employed by the FBI. It recounted “heated” conversations of FBI personnel with DOD officials.

There were heated conversations between FBI personnel and DOD officials about aggressive interrogation techniques. This FBI agent said that the Department of Defense has their marching orders from the Secretary of Defense and that the two techniques again differed drastically.

E-mails during those years recounting these heated conversations between the FBI which was objecting to the techniques being used at Guantanamo and DOD officials who were engaged in those techniques confirmed the serious FBI concern about what they saw at Guantanamo. FBI agents expressed alarm about the military’s interrogation technique in an e-mail from December 9, 2002: “You won’t believe it.” Also in that e-mail dated December 9, 2002, they included an outline of the coercive techniques in the military’s interviewing toolkit.

Let me quote from the FBI on the one hand talking to their headquarters about coercive techniques being used against Guantanamo detainees, complaining about those details, and in one e-mail dated September 30, 2002. FBI agents were clear that they would not even work with the military interrogators. They were told that FBI agents had guidance to work with military interrogators “as long as there was no ‘torture’ involved.” Think about it. We read the headlines in today’s newspapers of the techniques being used by the Department of Defense, the CIA and the Department of Justice. These are the headlines that we see in today’s papers. These are the events from which those headlines flow. These are e-mails back in 2002 and 2003 referring to coercive techniques that the FBI objected to, talking about heated conversations that the FBI was having with the Department of Defense over those techniques. That is what today’s story flows from.

Yet the FBI was finally told by their superiors that they can be present as long as no torture is involved. FBI agents complained of DOD techniques of standing over them, darting to the generals at Guantanamo, to the DOD General Counsel here in Washington, and in video teleconferences with the Pentagon. According to FBI emails, a senior member of the Department of Justice Criminal Division was present at Guantanamo at the time of a “heated” video teleconference during late 2002. FBI officials were so concerned that their agents at Guantanamo received guidance during this period from headquarters “to step out of the picture.” FBI officials said that these aggressive interrogation techniques are being used. That is how deep this went.

This was all brought back to the Department of Justice when Alice Fisher was the deputy head of the Criminal Division. And if the Criminal Division people were deeply involved in these debates, was Ms. Fisher involved? What did she know about the aggressive tactics? Was she aware of the objection of the FBI agent, which is part of the Department of Justice, to these techniques? That is what we have tried to find out over the last year and a half.

The May 2004 FBI document I mentioned describes how senior FBI officials communicated regularly with their Justice Department counterparts in the Criminal Division during the period in question, the period when Ms. Fisher was Deputy Director of the Department of Homeland Security. He had been head of the Criminal Division during the time of these events, from April of 2002 through March of 2003 that Alice Fisher was his deputy.

Then there is a series of blotted-out names of several individuals with the abbreviation SES after the names indicating the individuals were members of the Senior Executive Service. The document states that the named individuals “all from the Department of Justice Criminal Division” attended meetings that Fisher attended. Fisher at that time was the Deputy Director of the Department of Justice Criminal Division at the time.

The document continues: We all agreed (blank, redacted, covered over) were going to be an issue in the military commission cases. I know (blank) brought this to the attention of (blank).

That was the document that we were given during the Chertoff nomination. Clearly, the redacted information—the deleted portions of this document—was relevant. It included the names of senior Criminal Division officials participating in those meetings with the FBI agents. The administration withheld this information during Judge Chertoff’s confirmation hearing before the Homeland and Security Committee of which I am a member.

On February 2, 2005 during his confirmation hearing, I asked Judge Chertoff about this document. In that hearing, Judge Chertoff did not say which Criminal Division officials were named in the document or even whether the weekly meetings referred to in the document occurred on his watch as head of the Criminal Division. He could not recall any discussion about DOD’s interrogation techniques at Guantanamo “other than simply the question of whether interrogations or questioning down there was effective or not.”

Judge Chertoff further testified that he “had no knowledge” of the use of any interrogation techniques other than those that he described as “plain vanilla.”

It has been a few months after Judge Chertoff’s confirmation that the interrogation techniques the military was using at Guantanamo were anything but “plain vanilla.” The Defense Department investigation by Generals Schmidt and Furlow into the FBI allegations of detainee mistreatment at Guantanamo during the period of 2002 to 2003 found that interrogators at Guantanamo could subject detainees to numerous aggressive interrogation techniques. These included, beatings, sleep deprivation, isolation, temperature extremes, torturing with hot and cold, loud music and strobe lights and “gender coercion;” that is, inappropriate touching by female interrogators.

The report found that the interrogation of one high-value detainee involved many of these techniques as well as forcing the detainee to wear a dog leash and perform dog tricks; also forcing him to wear women’s underwear; strip searches; and 20-hour interrogations for 48 out of 54 days.

Here is what one of the persons in the Army helping to keep these detainees in custody wrote about her experience. She wrote:

On a couple of occasions, I entered interview rooms to find a detainee chained hand and foot in a fetal position to the floor with no food or water, or care. Most times, they would urinate and defecate on themselves. They had been left there for 18 or 48 hours or more. On one occasion the air conditioning had been turned down so far the temperature was cold in the room that the barefooted detainee was shaking with cold. When I asked the MPs on duty what was going on, I was told the interrogators the day prior had ordered this treatment and the detainee was not to be moved. The detainee was almost unconscious on the floor with a pile of hair next to him. He had apparently been literally pulling out his own hair throughout the night.

“Plain vanilla” is all that Judge Chertoff heard about. But members of his Division heard about those techniques, and we didn’t know that through the Chertoff nomination because the information was denied to us.

Other FBI documents include a partially redacted letter dated July 14, 2004 from Thomas Harrington, Deputy Assistant Director of the FBI’s Counterterrorism Division to Major General Donald Ryder, Commanding General of the Army’s Criminal Investigation Command.

Detainees highly aggressive, interrogation techniques at Guantanamo.

The subject line in the letter is “Suspected mistreatment of detainees.” The letter describes alleged incidences of abuse witnessed by FBI.
agents as early as the fall of 2002. These include allegations of a female interrogator squeezing a male detainee’s genitals, bending back his thumbs; an interrogator reportedly wrapping a detainee’s head in duct tape; the use of a dog leash on a detainee.

The letter describes a detainee suffering from extreme mental trauma after being kept in isolation in a cell flooded with lights for 3 months.

The letter indicates these incidents and other FBI concerns were discussed with two officials in the DOD General Counsel’s office in mid-2002.

There are two points to emphasize here. These events took place from 2002 to 2003 when Ms. Fisher was the Department’s Director of the Criminal Division.

These events were reported to top level people in the Criminal Division.

The question is, What did she know about these events as Deputy Director of the Criminal Division? That is what we have tried to find out since her nomination. That is where we have been thwarted and frustrated and obstructed by the administration in getting information from them.

These unknown people making these complaints to the Department of Justice’s Criminal Division. This is our own FBI people who are strongly objecting to these aggressive DOD interrogation techniques. They were writing in. They were sending e-mails prior to their hearings about the military’s coercive interrogations.

One e-mail said, “You won’t believe it”—the techniques used and what they were involved with. At the same time, FBI personnel had weekly meetings with senior Criminal division officials discussing the Department of Defense techniques. Again, Michael Chertoff was head of that division at the time Alice Fisher was his deputy.

Other officials of Defense investigations into detainee abuse, in particular the report of Major General George Fay and the Schlesinger panel, concluded that it was some of these aggressive techniques in use at Guantanamo which migrated to Afghanistan and Iraq and were part and parcel of detainee abuse at Abu Ghraib and elsewhere. If the techniques at Guantanamo that I have just described sound familiar, it is, because the pictures of those techniques used at Abu Ghraib became painfully familiar to us and to the world.

That Judge Chertoff did not recall any discussions about DOD interrogation techniques other than perhaps whether they were effective, never heard of a discussion about abuses, aggressive techniques being used by the Department of Defense, Judge Chertoff did not recall any knowledge, did not have any knowledge about who in his division might have engaged in such discussions or that these discussions might have taken place, should not have been the end of the Senate inquiry into this matter. If the Senate had access to the names listed in the May 2004 FBI document at the time of Judge Chertoff’s confirmation, we would have tried to refresh Judge Chertoff’s recollection about the conversations referred to in these documents.

The Senate clearly had a right to find out the names of these Department of Justice Criminal Division officials and ask them what they knew about these interrogations, what if anything they reported, what actions if any were taken. The Senate was frustrated and thwarted by an administration that wanted to cover up what was going on in the area of interrogation of detainees at Guantanamo.

In February of 2005, Senator LIEBERMAN and I wrote to FBI director Mueller requesting that he provide an unredacted version of the May 2004 document referring to the weekly FBI Criminal Division meetings or, if a copy was not provided, then provide a legal justification for denying us the unredacted document.

In letter dated 3 days later, February 7, 2005, the Department of Justice—not the FBI but the Department of Justice—wrote to deny the request. The Justice Department insisted that an unredacted copy could not be provided because it contained “information covered by the Privacy Act . . . as well as deliberative process material.” A few days later, on February 10, Senator LIEBERMAN and I wrote to the Attorney General requesting that he reconsider his decision not to provide an unredacted copy of the May 2004 FBI document.

Despite repeated requests, the Justice Department refused to provide either an unredacted copy of the May 10, 2004 e-mail or information on the names of the FBI and the Department of Justice personnel redacted from the document prior to the Senator’s confirmation to the Attorney General’s office.

The Justice Department’s refusal to provide this information based on the Privacy Act was a misuse of that statute. The Privacy Act was designed primarily to prevent the U.S. Government from disclosing personal information about private individuals who have not consented to that disclosure. That act is not intended to authorize the Government to prevent the Congress from knowing the names of public officials engaged in Government conduct funded with taxpayers dollars. Invoking the Privacy Act to deny the Senate relevant information regarding a nomination before the Senate was an abusive and dangerous precedent, and we were determined not to let it stand.

The excuses used to deny us an unredacted May 2004 document went beyond any assertion that a U.S. Senate has ever accepted from any administration as far as I can determine. There is no claim of executive privilege, and the document itself has no bearing on any advice given to the President. The particular FBI document that Senator LIEBERMAN and I sought, and the other documents that I have referred to, dramatize the refusal of the administration to be straight with the American people and with the Congress relative to the detainee abuse issue.

The thwarting of congressional oversight over this and so many other issues is deeply ingrained in this administration. The executive branch is determined to seize any crumb of justification to prevent Congress’s access to executive branch documents needed to carry out our constitutional responsibilities of confirmation and oversight.

We found out a month after the Senate confirmed Judge Chertoff to head the Department of Homeland Security the redacted portions of the May 2004 FBI e-mail were, indeed, very relevant to Judge Chertoff’s nomination. On March 18, 2005, the Justice Department finally responded to our February 10, 2005 letter, a letter from Senator LIEBERMAN and myself, asking the Department to reconsider its decision to withhold an unredacted copy of the May 2004 document. In its March 2005 response, the Justice Department stated it had reviewed the May 2004 FBI e-mail and provided a new version of the document, somewhat less redacted than previously.

While significant information continued to be withheld, including the name of the FBI agent who authored the e-mail, the new version contained new information, including the names of the four Department of Justice Criminal Division officials who had regularly met with FBI personnel concerned about Department of Defense interrogation techniques.

Specifically, the named Criminal Division officials who, according to this e-mail, were present at those meetings, discussing those interrogation techniques were Alice Fisher, who served as Judge Chertoff’s deputy, Dave Nahmias, then counsel to Judge Chertoff within the Criminal Division, and two other senior Criminal Division officials, Bruce Swartz and Laura Parsky. Also newly revealed was that one Criminal Division official, Bruce Swartz, had brought concerns about Department of Defense tactics to the attention of the Department of Defense Office of General Counsel.

On May 2, 2005, I wrote to Attorney General Gonzales requesting the name of the author of that May 2004 e-mail. Who was the FBI agent who wrote that e-mail naming those persons? I also requested an opportunity to interview both the FBI and the Department of Justice personnel named in that document, including the specific FBI and senior Justice Department officials David Nahmias, Bruce Swartz, and Laura Parsky.

I don’t think there is any doubt that information would be relative to the nomination of Judge Chertoff. The administration essentially told us, however, to trust them, that the information and interviews we were seeking were not relevant to Judge Chertoff’s nomination.

July 26, 2006: DOJ letter to Levin agreeing to the request to make FBI Agent available to be interviewed with a representative from the FBI OGC present, but asserting that “the FBI Agent’s testimony is not related to the agent’s factual knowledge of communications to Ms. Fisher about the treatment of detainees at Guantanamo Bay.”

June 12, 2005: Senators Durbin, Kennedy, and Levin interview Alice Fisher. Fisher says she does not recall FBI personnel or anyone else expressing to her anything about Guantanamo Bay.

July 26, 2006: Levin letter to DOJ clarifies that Senator Levin intends to ask the FBI agent “any question which I consider relevant to the nomination of Judge Fisher.”

June 16, 2005: Judiciary Committee reports Fisher nomination. Nomination placed on the Senate Executive Calendar.

The letter does not address Senator Levin’s request for interviews of David Nahmias and Bruce Swartz, but proposing in the alternative that they provide answers to questions included with the letter.

Mr. LEVIN. Let me summarize these efforts. Alice Fisher was first asked in written questions what she knew or heard about these FBI concerns. In her answers, Ms. Fisher stated that she recalled regular meetings between the FBI and Department of Justice Criminal Division. She also stated that she did not recall general discussions about FBI interrogation techniques. At that meeting, she stood by her statement that she did not “recall” FBI officials expressing concerns about Department of Defense methods at Guantanamo Bay. She also stated that she did not recall “general discussions” with Judge Chertoff, who was heading the Criminal Division, about the effectiveness of DOD interrogation techniques and methods compared to the FBI’s methods.

On June 14, 2005, Senators Kennedy, Durbin, and I interviewed Ms. Fisher regarding her recollection of FBI concern about DOD interrogation techniques. At that meeting, she stood by her statement that she did not “recall” FBI officials expressing concerns about Department of Defense methods at Guantanamo Bay other than general concerns about their effectiveness.

July 29, 2005: Letter from Attorney General Gonzales reiterating request to interview David Nahmias, Bruce Swartz, and Laura Parsky, but proposing in the alternative that they provide answers to questions included with the letter.

The letter does not address Senator Levin’s request for interviews of David Nahmias and Bruce Swartz.

FBI meetings were discussed. The name of the agent, however, was still redacted. There was still, and is to this day, stonewalling and obstruction to legitimate requests of Senators who must vote under the Constitution on the confirmation of these appointees. The nomination of Judge Chertoff. The administration essentially told us, however, to trust them, that the information and interviews we were seeking were not relevant to Judge Chertoff’s nomination.

June 12, 2005: Senators Durbin, Kennedy, and Levin interview Alice Fisher. Fisher says she does not recall FBI personnel or anyone else expressing to her anything about Guantanamo Bay.

July 26, 2006: Levin letter to DOJ clarifies that Senator Levin intends to ask the FBI agent “any question which I consider relevant to the nomination of Judge Fisher.”

June 16, 2005: Judiciary Committee reports Fisher nomination. Nomination placed on the Senate Executive Calendar.

The letter does not address Senator Levin’s request for interviews of David Nahmias and Bruce Swartz, but proposing in the alternative that they provide answers to questions included with the letter.

Mr. LEVIN. Let me summarize these efforts. Alice Fisher was first asked in written questions what she knew or heard about these FBI concerns. In her answers, Ms. Fisher stated that she recalled regular meetings between the FBI and Department of Justice Criminal Division. She also stated that she did not recall general discussions about FBI interrogation techniques. At that meeting, she stood by her statement that she did not “recall” FBI officials expressing concerns about Department of Defense methods at Guantanamo Bay other than general concerns about their effectiveness.

To attempt to resolve the conflict in those statements, I wrote to Attorney General Gonzales in June of 2005 requesting a response to the request originally made on May 2, 2005 for the name of the FBI agent who authored the e-mail and for an opportunity to interview the Criminal Division officials named in that document, including David Nahmias, Bruce Swartz, and Laura Parsky. So May of 2005 is the first time I made the request for the name of the FBI agent who authored the e-mail and an opportunity to interview the Criminal Division officials named in that document—Nahmias, Swartz, and Parsky.

On July 26, 2005, the Justice Department wrote the Judiciary Committee...
Chairman ARLEN SPECTER, responding to Senator SPECTER’s request for information about the May 2004 e-mail. In that letter, the Department provided a summary of an interview it had conducted with the FBI agent who authored the e-mail regarding what he knew of conversations with Alice Fisher.

In that letter, the Department said: [the FBI agent] did not have conversations with Ms. Fisher nor does he recall conversations with Ms. Fisher and other department and FBI representatives about a specific detainee and that detainee’s links to law enforcement efforts. These discussions focused on the information gathered regarding the information and individual and his associations, but not on his treatment or interrogation.

The letter also stated that the unnamed FBI agent’s conversation with Ms. Fisher: . . . focused on the particular detainee described and the broader conversations [in the weekly meetings] about DOD techniques with other department representatives.

And the letter concluded by expressing the hope that this would resolve any outstanding questions about Ms. Fisher’s nomination.

A few days later, the Attorney General wrote to the minority leader, Democratic Leader HARRY REID, stating that the Department had taken steps to respond to the Senator’s concern “sufficient for the Senate to make an informed decision” on Alice Fisher’s nomination. In essence, what the Justice Department was saying, they will do the interview; trust them. It is up to them to decide on the sufficiency of information for the purpose of Senate confirmation. The Department was unwilling to trust Senators with the names of the FBI agent who had written e-mails despite the fact that the FBI and other agencies had been seeking. The administration continued to refuse to provide the information and instead made a recess appointment of Alice Fisher to head the Criminal Division in August of 2005, and she was renominated in September of 2005.

In December of 2005, Attorney General Gonzales offered to make the FBI agent available to be interviewed by me if a Department of Justice official could be present. I declined an interview under those terms but told Attorney General Gonzales I could accept having someone from the Department of Justice Inspector General’s office present.

This led to more delay, more stonewalling by the Department of Justice until this past June. With the help of the chairman of the Judiciary Committee, Senator SPECTER, and others, the Justice Department finally agreed to make the FBI agent who authored the e-mails available to be interviewed.

On July 26 of this year, more than 1 year after my request for the FBI agent’s name, Senator SPECTER and I, along with FBI General Counsel Capron and FBI agent—1 year, delayed by the administration, simply providing access to the FBI agent who wrote a critically important e-mail.

There was reference made about the Senate obstructing the nomination (Mr. CHAFEE assumed the Chair.) Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, the obstruction here should be directly laid at the feet of the administration which, for 1 year, refused access to an FBI agent who wrote a critically important memo regarding detainee abuse at Guantanamo and whether Ms. Fisher had any knowledge of that and, if so, what she did relative to that knowledge.

The FBI agent said in the interview that he recalled Ms. Fisher attended only one of the weekly meetings, which dealt primarily with the relationship between a particular high-value detainee and his legal team. He also stated that he had “frequent conversations” with David Nahmias, counsel to the Criminal Division’s head, Mr. Chertoff. That is now the issue which comes before the Senate.

Just a couple of months ago, it was finally provided to the Senate that an FBI agent says he had frequent conversations about the issue of interrogation techniques at Guantanamo with the counsel, the attorney to the head of the Criminal Division of which the current nominee was the deputy. This is the same David Nahmias named in that FBI agent’s May 2004 e-mail regarding FBI concerns about aggressive DOD techniques. The FBI agent added that he specifically shared with Mr. Nahmias his view that interrogation methods used on one detainee were “completely inappropriate.” This is the same David Nahmias I have repeatedly sought to interview since May of 2006.

Compare these statements of the FBI agent when interviewed in person to the assurances the Justice Department made in their July 2005 letter about the FBI agent’s discussions with the Criminal Division officials, including Alice Fisher. The Justice Department wrote that the discussions at the meeting attended by Alice Fisher “focused on the information gathered” from one specific detainee “but not on his treatment or interrogation.” . . . The Justice Department now said that the FBI agent had “frequent conversations” about interrogation techniques being used at Guantanamo with David Nahmias, counsel to the head of the Criminal Division, or less frequent conversations with Bruce Swartz, also a Deputy Assistant Attorney General in the Criminal Division. That wasn’t disclosed—very critical information, which is the subject now of the debate.

We can’t we not get answers from David Nahmias, who we now believe, acting as counsel to Chertoff, head of the Criminal Division, of which Alice Fisher was the deputy—why can we not get David Nahmias to answer our questions as to whether he shared those deeply held concerns, which were shared with him by FBI agents at Guantanamo, with Alice Fisher, the deputy head of the Department?

Following the interview, I also learned of a December 11, 2002, e-mail to Mr. Nahmias from the FBI agent I interviewed, asking for his comments on “legal issues regarding Guantanamo Bay,” which were apparently set out in an e-mail.

The FBI agent’s statements to me in that December 11, 2002, e-mail reveal that FBI personnel raised concerns with senior Department of Justice Criminal Division officials, including David Nahmias and Bruce Swartz, that went beyond simply questions about the “effectiveness” of Department of Defense techniques, which was the only FBI concern that both Chertoff and Ms. Fisher could recall during their confirmation proceedings—the only concern they ever heard about the effectiveness of DOD techniques, despite a raging debate between the FBI and the Department of Defense about the aggressiveness of those techniques and whether those techniques were abusive and indeed illegal.

To try to determine whether those FBI concerns were shared with Nahmias, counsel to the Criminal Division, and were shared with the deputy head of that Criminal Division, Ms. Fisher, I wrote to Attorney General Gonzales on August 1, 2006, to renew for the third time my request to interview the senior Criminal Division officials, David Nahmias and Bruce Swartz.

This is a highly relevant request. The FBI agent said he discussed the Department of Defense interrogation tactics during regular meetings with Mr. Nahmias and Mr. Swartz. Mr. Nahmias was counsel to Assistant Attorney General Chertoff, who was head of the Criminal Division. Alice Fisher and Bruce Swartz were both deputies in that division. Alice Fisher was in charge of overseeing terrorist suspect prosecutions. FBI objections to aggressive DOD interrogation tactics were a major issue, a raging issue, according to numerous e-mails sent back and forth from Gonzales to Washington. This issue was so intense that FBI agents were wondering whether they could even be present during interrogation. They were so intense that FBI agents were writing back to headquarters saying: Can you believe what is going on down there? These differences between the FBI and the Department of Defense were so intense... that there were regular discussions, meetings, debates, and heated conversation over the tactics being used by the DOD at Guantanamo that the FBI rejected, reacted to, and shared with their headquarters. All we need to ask—is ask—Did Mr. Nahmias and Mr. Swartz talk to the deputy head of the Criminal Division about those concerns? Did they talk to Alice Fisher about those concerns? Alice Fisher may not recall hearing about those concerns, about abusive and aggressive tactics, but they might recall talking to her about them. If the administration has its way, we will never know. We are never going to know whether David Nahmias and Bruce Swartz discussed with Alice Fisher what we now know they knew about in their capacities—one as counsel to the Criminal Division, of which she was the deputy, and the other as a deputy director of that division.

In an August 30 response, the Justice Department ignored my request to interview Mr. Nahmias and Mr. Swartz, urging instead that the Senate proceed to a vote on Ms. Fisher's nomination. On September 12, a week ago, I wrote back on my request for an interview, offering in the alternative that Mr. Nahmias and Mr. Swartz respond to just a set of questions I had provided. The Justice Department has not responded to this letter.

So the Justice Department stalled for 1 year in allowing me access to an FBI agent whose information is clearly relevant to this nomination; for 1 year, they stonewalled; for 1 year, they stood in the way of information coming to the U.S. Senate; for 1 year, they set up a roadblock to a Senator who is making a request that is clearly relevant to the fitness of a person to serve as head of the Criminal Division of the Department of Justice of the United States. And I am given access to that agent 1 year later. And when that agent discloses that he, in fact, shared concerns about aggressive interrogation techniques with two other individuals who were working at the Criminal Division with Ms. Fisher, and when I simply say I want to talk to those two people to see if they shared those concerns with Ms. Fisher because she denied ever hearing concerns about aggressive techniques, of course, I have been denied that.

The stonewalling continues. Obstruction by the Department of Justice of access to information relevant to the nomination of Alice Fisher continues to this day.

When I wrote the Attorney General on September 12 saying: OK, if we cannot meet with these two witnesses, at least would you ask them to answer questions as to whether they shared this information they had heard about these techniques being used at Guantanamo with the Department of Justice. They are silent. The current form of stonewalling and obstruction by the Department of Justice of information that is relevant to this nomination is silence.

There is one other important background fact I wish to bring to the attention of the Senate. The Justice Department's inspector general has been investigating for over a year now the allegations by FBI personnel of having observed the mistreatment of detainees at Guantanamo, Abu Ghraib, and elsewhere. The inspector general of the Justice Department, Glenn Fine, has assured me that this review is looking into "the role of Alice Fisher, Assistant Attorney General for the Criminal Division, and other Department officials regarding detainee interrogation techniques." We have been waiting for the IG's findings on this for months. The Senate is about to vote on Ms. Fisher's nomination before the IG report comes out.

The delay in voting on the confirmation of this nominee is directly attributable to the administration stonewalling on requests for relevant information from the Senate. Ms. Fisher is in place. She is in office. She is in an acting capacity. I have had a stand-by investigator for over a year now. What was the reliable source of those legal concerns? Dave Nahmias (SES), Laura Parskey (now SES, GS-15 at the time) and Alice Fisher (SES appointee) all from DOJ Criminal Division attended meetings with FBI. We all agreed DoD tactics were going to be an issue in the military commission cases. I know Mr. Swartz brought this to the attention of DOJ OGC.

Please identify the FBI and DOJ personnel who attended these meetings. How frequently did Alice Fisher attend these meetings?

B. How often were DoD interrogation techniques discussed at these weekly meetings? During what time period did these discussions occur?

C. Did you believe that DoD interrogation techniques would be an issue for the military commissions? If so, in what way?

During my interview with the FBI Agent, he recalled one DOJ-FBI meeting where Ms. Fisher was present. The FBI Agent stated that the main subject of that meeting was the role relations of a particular high value detainee at Guantanamo and the 9/11 hijackers, but also discussed was how the Defense Department was "pushing hard" on the FBI commander to "speed up" getting information out of this particular detainee and others.

D. Do you recall the DOJ-FBI meeting at which Ms. Fisher was present and FBI concerns about DoD "pushing hard" on FBI personnel to "speed up" getting information was discussed?

E. What actions were taken in response to these concerns?

3. MAY 10, 2004 DOCUMENT

A May 10, 2004 email authored by the FBI Agent stated: “In my weekly meetings with FBI agents at the time and Alice Fisher (SES – Appointee) all from DOJ Criminal Division attended meetings with FBI. We all agreed DoD tactics were going to be an issue with the OGC in this regard, when and where those meetings or discussions occurred, and no FBI person was present. Ms. Fisher was present. The FBI Agent stated he recalled one DOJ–FBI meeting where Ms. Fisher was present.”

A. Identify the FBI and DOJ personnel who attended these meetings. How frequently did Alice Fisher attend these meetings?

B. How often were DoD interrogation techniques discussed at these weekly meetings?

During the interview with the FBI Agent, he recalled one DOJ–FBI meeting where Ms. Fisher was present. The FBI Agent stated that the main subject of that meeting was the possible relationship between a particular high value detainee at Guantanamo and the 9/11 hijackers, but also discussed was how the government was “pushing him right” on the FBI site commander to “speed up” getting information out of this particular detainee and others.

C. Did you believe that DoD interrogation techniques would be an issue for the military commissions? If so, in what way?

D. During the interview with the FBI Agent, he recalled one DOJ–FBI meeting where Ms. Fisher was present. E. What actions were taken in response to these concerns?
didn’t all work out to his satisfaction. The Department of Justice, the administration offered this, he didn’t like that. They offered that, he didn’t like that. Maybe sometimes one gets to thinking there has been a little strategy around here—and I have said it in case you have heard them with Miguel Estrada—for the Members on the other side to demand records, statements, internal conversations, internal memora-randa to which they are not entitled. They don’t want people coming in and demanding things they said to each other behind closed doors, and they asked for all these items. Then when they don’t get them, they say: Obstruction, obstruction; we can’t vote for the nominee. Now they have created an excuse to vote against a very fine nominee, when the person is doing an excellent job and ought to be confirmed so they can continue to be even more effective in the war against terror. I have been there before. With regard to the Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals, one of our Senators down here complaining had a whole host of those nominees held up for years. The court ended up deciding the University of Michigan higher education, affirmative action case with far less judges than should have been on that panel. There has been some real concern expressed about that.

Obstructing, holding up, and delaying nominees that right thing to do. We have important governmental actions to do here.

Let me tell my colleagues about Alice Fisher. She has proven herself in the Criminal Division. Under her leadership, the division has made a number of great strides. The Criminal Division has been responsible for the national coordination of all national security prosecutions, of all the criminal cases in Federal court, including domestic and international terrorism and counterintelligence matters.

Alice Fisher has also worked closely with the intelligence community. That is her responsibility. We had too much of a wall of separation. Sure, she is to be engaged in these issues to assess potential threat information to our national security and disrupt potential attacks against this country.

Alice Fisher provides advice to U.S. attorneys. I was a U.S. attorney for 12 years, and I know of no one who has devoted more time to counterterrorism matters than Alice Fisher. She has been a staff person, and someone stole her identity and used it. She spent years investigating that effort.

As Assistant Attorney General, she also worked closely with the FBI early in her career. She was the Deputy Assistant Attorney General, with the Enron task force.

When we remember when everybody talked about Enron that something had to be done about it. Many people doubted anything would be done about it. President Bush announced that we were going to have integrity in big business, and big business people who cheat and harm their employees and others in this country will be vigorously prosecuted. She was involved in that effort.

She supervised the Enron task force. It has investigated that entire scheme created by the executives of Enron to deceiv de the investing public, the Securities and Exchange Commission, and others. The case has resulted in convictions of top Enron executives. Many said that wouldn’t happen, but they have been indicted, convicted, assets seized, and those included Ken Lay and Jeffrey Skilling, the two top people.

As a member of the corporate fraud task force—and we need to be aggressive in prosecuting corporate fraud in America—Fisher works closely with other agencies on corporate fraud policies and investigations.

She has supervised recent corporate fraud prosecutions involving defendants from AIG, BP, and Qwest. She is not afraid to take on the big boys. She has done so effectively and courageously.

She is cochair of the Law Enforcement Subcommittee of the President’s Identity Theft Task Force, which is an important issue in our country. I have a staff person, and someone stole her identity and used it. She spent years trying to clear her record and get the situation straightened out.

Under her leadership, this subcommittee is focusing on enhancing coordination among law enforcement agencies, the Federal Trade Commission, and others to maximize the Government’s capabilities to curb the international problem of identity fraud.

Mr. President, I know you served so-ably in Florida as a mayor and then later as a member of the President’s Cabinet. Florida suffered terrific losses during Hurricane Katrina. We will probably spend over $100 billion on trying to help that whole region recover and a whole city, New Orleans, that was flooded. Having been a prosecutor in Mobile on the gulf coast after hurricanes, I can tell you that fraud does occur. You want to get money out to people who are hurting in a hurry. You can’t ask for the same amount of time and evidence that you would normally ask for help right now. They have no place else to go. But people take advantage of that. The scum of the Earth take advantage of the generosity of the American people by often slipping in as contractors or claimed beneficiaries, lying about losses, to get money that is supposed to go to people who are hurting.

Well, just days after Hurricane Katrina hit the Nation, Attorney General Gonzales established the Katrina Fraud Task Force. This task force would send a message right off the bat that fraud would be investigated and prosecuted, and it was to focus on fraud and corruption resulting from the hurricanes. He named Fisher the Katrina Fraud Task Force chairman. As chairman, Alice Fisher quickly set up a forward-looking strategic plan and resource allocation for this inter-agency task force, among all the other things she was doing, to investigate s cases and investigations.

During her tenure, the division’s counterterrorism section, which Fisher also had previously organized and supervised as Deputy Assistant Attorney General, has prosecuted numerous “material support” terrorism cases, cases against people who have given material support to terrorists to further their ability to attack and kill innocent people in this country and abroad. Those prosecutions have been located throughout the country and include potential terrorists facing extradition from the United Kingdom and other foreign countries; international terrorist organizations, such as al-Qaeda, Hezbollah, FARC’s, the Revolutionary Armed Forces of Colombia—and domestic terrorists.

Under the direction of the Attorney General, the Justice Department is placing increased emphasis on targeting gangs. Fisher was chosen by the Attorney General to head that effort. Under her guidance, the Criminal Division has created the National Gang Targeting, Enforcement and Coordination Center, a multiagency initiative led by another former prosecutor with participation from the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives, the Bureau of Prisons, the Drug Enforcement Administration, the Federal Budreau of Investigation, U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement, and the U.S. Marshals Service. Those are agencies she coordinates.

The gang initiative will create law enforcement strategies and facilitate operations across agency lines aimed at dismantling and transnational violent gangs. Fisher also established a new gang squad of experienced gang prosecutors who coordinate nationwide prosecutions and make them more effective.

Under her leadership, in partnership with various U.S. Attorney’s Offices and the Drug Enforcement Administration, more than 130 defendants were recently indicted and hundreds of thousands of dollars seized as part of an operation targeting the trafficking of black tar heroin in the United States. The multistate investigation, called Operation Black Gold Rush, included arrests in 15 U.S. cities and 10 indictments in eight Federal judicial districts, along with State charges. More than 17 kilograms of black tar heroin, a potent form of heroin that is dark and sticky in appearance, were seized during this operation.

As Assistant Attorney General, she also worked closely with the FBI earlier in her career. When she was the Deputy Assistant Attorney General, with the Enron task force. We remember when everybody talked about Enron that something had to be done about it. Many people doubted anything would be done about it. President Bush announced that we were going to have integrity in big business, and big business people who cheat and harm their employees and others in this country will be vigorously prosecuted. She was involved in that effort.

She supervised the Enron task force. It has investigated that entire scheme created by the executives of Enron to deceiv
As of July 25, the task force had charged 371 defendants in 29 separate Federal districts. A majority of the cases charged to date have involved emergency benefits fraud against both FEMA and the American Red Cross—charitable donation fraud. People have gone out there and taken money to help people, and they just stole it. What kind of sorry person is that, who would ask people to sacrifice and give help to someone else, and then steal the money? We have that, and she is working on that.

Other cases have involved Government contract fraud. We have people taking advantage of the contracting process and cheating when they are supposed to follow through and do certain amounts of work for the Government. They have certify they have done it, they get paid, and then we find out they didn’t do it. Some of them need to go to jail.

The task force has therefore been taking advantage of proactive measures to identify, investigate and prosecute these kinds of cases.

Alice Fisher created the Katrina Fraud Task Force Joint Command Center in Baton Rouge where analysts, agents from the Inspector General and Federal law enforcement communities co-locate—these are all of the agencies, State and local—they get together to focus on procurement fraud and public corruption which could result from the over $100 billion reconstruction money flowing into the affected region. As of July 25, 2006, the Command Center has received and referred 6,424 complaints to various Federal agencies.

The task force has provided training for the Inspector General community. Each one of these agencies have their own Inspector General, and many of those Inspector Generals are not familiar with hurricane work. They train all of them in the Commerce Department, the Agriculture Department, the Coast Guard, and other agencies involved with this relief effort can have watchdogs within their agencies trained to prevent fraud.

I am going to tell my colleagues, we have had a problem in this Nation, and we still do, of public corruption. There are public officials, whether in hurricane areas or not, who are taking money, extorting bribes and that sort of thing, particularly in the States. For the most part, we are a Nation of high integrity, but there are those who don’t meet those standards and need to be prosecuted. I would say, in many cases, the Federal investigators are the ones who really have the best opportunity to understand the situation, to handle these cases, and they just have to do it. They have been rightfully praised over the years for their leadership in that area.

Under Fisher’s leadership, the Public Integrity Section has prosecuted major public corruption cases, including the ongoing Jack Abramoff investigation, which has to date resulted in five pleas of guilty and in a conviction after trial of David Safavian, the former chief of staff of the General Services Administration—the GSA, a big Government agency here in Washington, their chief of staff. In addition, Fisher supervised the successful prosecution of former Alabama Governor Don Siegelman. This is in addition to the former HealthSouth CEO Richard Scrushy for conspiracy and public corruption offenses.

Fisher was recently named by the Deputy Attorney General to establish a national procurement fraud initiative. Now, we have a lot of money that is paid out as a result of Government procurement by our military and other agencies, and there is a good bit of fraud there, so she is forming a national initiative on that.

Since Fisher’s tenure began, the Department of Justice has made headway in aggressively prosecuting crimes against children. A lot of people say the Department of Justice shouldn’t be involved in this; that it is not important, and we need to focus on other big issues. But I submit the Department of Justice’s leadership and work in these cases can make quite a difference.

For example, the Criminal Division is currently coordinating 18 national child pornography operations targeting hundreds and, in some cases, thousands of customers or participants in mass child pornography distribution schemes, on July 26, 2006, the Innocence Lost Initiative targeting children victimized through prostitution has resulted in 228 open investigations, 543 arrests, 86 complaints, 121 informations or indictments, and 94 convictions in both the Federal and State systems.

Fisher is working on the implementation of the Adam Walsh Act. We all know John Walsh, what a tragic story he has lived through and, as a result of it, he has become a well-known throughout this country for his work in the protection of children. So she is working now to create the mechanism to fully implement the Adam Walsh Act, which was passed by Congress just recently to combat child exploitation, and the Department’s new initiative targeted at protecting children from predators, Project Safe Childhood, another time-consuming and challenging activity.

As Assistant Attorney General in charge of the Department of Justice Intellectual Property Task Force and oversees the Computer Crimes and Intellectual Property Section of the Criminal Division. Under Fisher’s leadership, the Department has increased its prosecution of these cases and enhanced international partnerships in this area. It is important that we do operate internationally.

As Assistant Attorney General in charge of the Criminal Division, Fisher developed and implemented a strategic plan to focus and prioritize the mission of the Division’s approximately 750 employ-more effective if she has been confirmed and holds the office permanently. She will do a great job, I believe. Her record has proven that, I urge my colleagues to support this nominee.

Mr. President, I thank the chair and yield the floor, and I note the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, I have sought recognition to speak in support of the nomination of Alice Stevens Fisher to be Assistant Attorney General of the Criminal Division of the United States Department of Justice.

Ms. Fisher has an outstanding academic background. She received a bachelor's degree from Vanderbilt in 1989. At Vanderbilt, she was a member of the Gamma Beta Phi Honorary Society. She received her law degree from the Catholic University of America’s Columbus School of Law in 1992. She served as Note & Comment Editor of the Catholic University Law Review, which was a mark of distinction. After law school, she was an associate with Sullivan & Cromwell from 1992–1996.

She served as Deputy Special Counsel to the Senate Select Special Committee to Investigate the Whitewater Development Corporation from 1995 to 1996. She was an associate of the law firm of Latham & Watkins from 1996 to 2000, and was made a partner in 2001.

From 2001 until 2003, she served as the Deputy Assistant Attorney General in the Criminal Division of the Department of Justice.

She went back to Latham & Watkins from 2003 to 2005. On August 31, 2005, she was appointed to that position via a recess appointment on August 31, 2005.

SUPPORT FOR ALICE FISHER

"It is with the greatest enthusiasm that I write this letter in support of Alice Fisher... From personal experience, I know that Ms. Fisher, a member of the President’s legal team, is a person of great dedication, integrity, and talent. Her judgment and skills as both a lawyer and a leader are unparalleled." — Michael Chertoff, Secretary to the Department of Homeland Security.

"During my tenure as Solicitor General, I had the privilege and pleasure of working with Ms. Fisher... I found Ms. Fisher to be an extremely accomplished, able and dedicated public servant. In my view, she is a superb choice to head the Criminal Division and I enthusiastically urge that the Committee and the full Senate vote to confirm her appointment." — Theodore B. Olson, former United States Solicitor General.

"Ms. Fisher’s experience as a litigator and policy-maker, as well as her strong, positive relationship with the law enforcement community, make her an obvious choice to lead the Criminal Division. The F.O.P. has no doubt that she will continue to be an outstanding Assistant Attorney General, and we urge the Senate committee to expeditiously approve her nomination.” — Chuck Canterbury, National President, Fraternal Order of Police.

"From the commencement of my appointment, my staff and I worked closely with Ms. Fisher, who at that time served as Deputy Assistant Attorney General in the Criminal Division in the Department of Justice. In all of my numerous dealings with Ms. Fisher, I found her to be a person of tremendous legal acumen and good judgment, extremely hard working and unflinchingly committed to upholding the highest standards of the Department of Justice and the legal profession." — Mike A. Battle, United States Attorney for the Western District of New York.

After graduating from the Catholic University of America School of Law in 1992, Ms. Fisher became a member of the law firm of Sullivan & Cromwell.

In 1995, Ms. Fisher served as Deputy Special Counsel to the U.S. Senate Committee Investigating Whitewater Development Corporation and Related Matters, where she supported the investigation and assisted in drafting the final report.

In 1996, Ms. Fisher returned to private practice and joined the law firm of Latham & Watkins. As a member of the Firm’s Litigation Practice, Ms. Fisher’s work was focused on the representation of corporations in government investigations and complex civil litigation. In 2001 she became a partner.

From 2001 until 2003, Ms. Fisher served as Deputy Assistant Attorney General in the Criminal Division of the Department of Justice. As Deputy Assistant Attorney General, she supervised the Divisions Counter-Terrorism Section, Fraud Section, Appellate Section, Capital Case Unit, and Alien Smuggling Task Force.

In 2003, Ms. Fisher returned to Latham & Watkins as a Partner. On April 5, 2005, President Bush nominated Ms. Fisher to be Assistant Attorney General, Criminal Division, Department of Justice. She was appointed to that position via a recess appointment on August 31, 2005.

Mr. SPECTER. Ms. Fisher’s nomination has been delayed for a very long period of time. In the meantime, Ms. Fisher has been serving as Assistant Attorney General for more than a year. She has handled some very high profile investigations and has done an outstanding job.

When she appeared before the Judiciary Committee, she presented herself as an extremely well-qualified candidate for the position.

Since her nomination, some objections have been raised and her nomination has been delayed because an email memorandum, authored by an FBI agent, lists her at a meeting where Department of Defense Guantanamo interrogation techniques were discussed. Ms. Fisher was not responsible for the interrogations conducted at Guantanamo by the Department of Defense or the FBI. She did not approve or direct the interrogation or interrogation techniques, and she was not involved in the approval of the Office of Legal Counsel’s memorandum, the so-called Bybee memorandum.

Senator LEVIN, before withdrawing a hold on Ms. Fisher’s nomination, wanted to talk to the FBI agent who was identified in the file in connection with Ms. Fisher’s nomination. However, when the matter became protracted and delayed, the Attorney General asked me if I would meet with Senator Levin and the FBI agent. It was the practice of the Department of Justice not to make an FBI agent available to Senators but only to the chairman of the Judiciary Committee. I decided to honor this request, even though I did not see the connection between Ms. Fisher and either the FBI or the Department of Defense’s interrogation techniques.

Senator Levin wished to have the FBI agent appear, not with the customary representative from the Department of Justice, Office of Legislative Affairs, but instead with someone from the Department of Justice Inspector General’s Office. We accommodated Senator Levin by having a representative from the IG’s office attend the meeting. We also accommodated Senator Levin on the location of the meeting, which was held... in his office and I was happy to meet there.

The interview with the FBI agent lasted approximately 1 hour, during which we had an extensive discussion about what the FBI agent knew about interrogation techniques. The meeting barely touched on Ms. Fisher. Nothing in the interview showed any misconduct or impropriety on the part of Ms. Fisher. Nothing contradicted her testimony. She was barely involved.

Following that meeting, Senator LEVIN made a request to see two other individuals who had no connection with Ms. Fisher and no connection with her nomination.

I am glad we have come to this point. I have included extensive documentation in the record demonstrating the way the Department of Justice responded in honoring Senator LEVIN’s requests. I have worked with Senator LEVIN for 26 years. He is a very thorough Senator. When he wanted to see this FBI agent, we worked it out so that he saw the FBI agent.

I am glad the hold is off. I understand we are going to vote on Ms. Fisher. I believe in the words of Shakespeare—his edict: All’s well that ends well. And now we will go on to work on some other important matters, such as trying to get habeas corpus in effect on the Guantanamo issue.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Michigan is recognized.

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, I thank my good friend from Pennsylvania for his words.

After I tried for about a year to get the Attorney General to make available an FBI agent so we could talk to him about a memo that he wrote naming Ms. Fisher, naming three other members of the Criminal Division that she was the Deputy Director of, as being very aware of the debate between the FBI and the Department of Defense over interrogation practices at Guantanamo, I was unsuccessful for about a year to simply get information.

Stonewalling has occurred in this case. The delay that has occurred in this case is directly attributable to the refusal of the Department of Justice to provide information to this Senator.

After that meeting—and I thank the good Senator from Pennsylvania for arranging it; it wouldn’t have happened without him—after that meeting, something became clear which needed to be clarified. I sent a letter to the Department of Justice on that matter. It is a very important matter involving whether Mr. Nahmias, the counsel to the Criminal Division who was aware of the tactics which were being used at Guantanamo, was personally involved in knowing about this debate between the FBI and the Department of Defense on interrogation tactics. This is the background for what I am referring to.

At the discussion which occurred in my office, which Senator SPECTER accurately described, the FBI agent indicated that Ms. Fisher’s connection related to one discussion he could remember, not abusive interrogation techniques but, rather, about whether one of the detainees down there had been involved in September 11. That is what his recollection was. We accept that. We have no basis to not accept it.

However, something came out at that July meeting which is critically important. He said he had regular discussions on this subject about the detainee treatment at Guantanamo with the counsel to the Criminal Division, David Swartz. We simply wanted to find out from the two of them, particularly from Mr. Nahmias since he served in the same department of the Justice Department at the same time as Ms. Fisher, the Deputy Director for that department, whether he, David Nahmias, had shared the information that he got from the FBI that wrote the e-mail, with the Deputy Director of that department.

For reasons that I cannot fathom, the Justice Department is still stonewalling answering questions which are directly related to the nomination. That question is, Did Mr. Nahmias and Mr. Swartz share with the Deputy Director of their own department, the Criminal Justice Department, what they had learned from this FBI agent about the raging dispute going on between the FBI and the Department of Defense over these tactics?

We were not the Attorney General if we could talk with Mr. Nahmias. By the way, this is the fourth request I had made to meet with Mr. Nahmias. I started in May of 2005 because he was named, along with Ms. Fisher, and Mr. Swartz as having been present at meetings during which these tactics were discussed. So he was right in that e-mail. We asked four times to see Mr. Nahmias. We have been rejected every time.

But now, in my office, we learned something else which is significant, which is relevant, which is going to go unanswered. It is going to go unanswered because the Department of Justice will not even answer the questions which I want them to put to Mr. Nahmias.

What I finally have done out of exasperation was to write to the Attorney General saying: You obviously are not going to produce two relevant people so I can ask them very basic information—did they share the information they had about these abuses and these raging debates between FBI and DOD. You are not going to allow me to ask those two people whether they shared that with the Deputy Director of their department. You are simply not going to do it. Would you at least ask the two of them questions in writing about whether they shared that information with Ms. Fisher?

The answer of the Department of Justice is silence—stone, cold, silence—to my request.

That is where we are. I will be voting against this nomination because of the stonewalling by the Department of Justice of legitimate, reasonable requests for information which are still outstanding, relative to Nahmias and to Swartz.

That is unacceptable. It puts us in a position of voting on nominees without relevant information which we should have. The delay—and I emphasize this—the delay in this matter is not mine. The delay is the refusal of the Department of Justice to provide information, to provide witnesses for a year and a half.

Without the help of my good friend from Pennsylvania, Senator SPECTER, we would have never received the information that we got from the FBI agent and, as he knows, I am grateful to him for that. I can now only hope that he will join in asking the Department of Justice—it can come after this nominee’s vote—I would hope he would consider joining the request of the Department of Justice that we have this information for the record as being relevant to the matters we are debating.

I close by saying I believe it is unacceptable, it is wrong for the Department of Justice to deny the Senate relevant information. We are going to end up voting now on this nomination of Ms. Fisher without it. It should not be that way. I will express my opposition to the stonewalling tactics of the Department of Justice by voting no on this nomination, again, with my thanks to the chairman of the Judiciary Committee for the help that he did provide in this matter.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Pennsylvania.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, there are many things I can say in response to what the distinguished Senator from Michigan has said, but silence is the preferable course.

Instead, I ask, as the representative of the majority leader, to set the vote at 5:45 with the expectation there will be no other speakers. I ask unanimous consent we set the vote at 5:45.

Mr. LEVIN. I understand we have a thumbs up from the rear of the Chamber. I have no objection.

Mr. SPECTER. People who run the Senate, staffers, have just consented to the request.

Mr. LEVIN. They didn’t consent, but they indicated to me there was no objection, to be technically correct.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. BUNNING. Mr. President, I speak today on the nomination of Ms. Alice Fisher to be Assistant Attorney General for the Criminal Division at the Department of Justice. Ms. Fisher, a native from Louisville, KY, is without question very well qualified to fill this position. As a fellow Kentuckian, it is an honor to address her nomination today, and I give her my full support.

I feel that Ms. Fisher possesses the qualifications needed for this position. Her dedication and personal drive stand as an example to us all.

Ms. Fisher has served as Assistant Attorney General for over a year now. In this time she has coordinated with law enforcement agencies on a variety of issues, including antiterrorism prosecutions, public corruption cases, and child pornography cases.

Prior to this appointment, Ms. Fisher served within the Department of Justice managing both the Counterterrorism and Fraud Sections of the Department. In this time, she was responsible for coordinating the Department’s national counterterrorism activities, including matters related to terrorist financing and the USA PATRIOT Act.

Throughout her tenure at the Department of Justice, Ms. Fisher has shown time and time again that she is a true leader by example. Many of her colleagues testified before Congress this past year about her unwavering work habits and her true commitment to justice.

This is the type of leader that we need in our Government. I urge my colleagues across the aisle who have held up her nomination in the past to not let partisan politics get in the way this time. We need to move forward with her nomination. Not only does she have a proven record, but it was approved overwhelmingly by the Judiciary Committee, and now she deserves a fair up-or-down vote on the Senate floor.

I am confident that when she receives this vote that she will be confirmed and I will see her continued success in her position.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, I will yield back my time.

Mr. LEVIN. I yield back my time, also. I would like to do that as Senator Specter has yielded his back. What time remains?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Vermont has 13 minutes. The minority leader has 59 minutes. The majority leader has 27 minutes.

Mr. LEVIN. I wonder if the Senator from Pennsylvania would agree that we can put in a quorum call and the time be deducted proportionally from all of the remaining speakers.

Mr. SPECTER. That is acceptable. Having set the vote at 5:45, we have given our colleagues ample notice. If somebody wants to speak in the next 14 minutes, they certainly would be at liberty to do that. My hunch is that we will have a quorum call for 14 minutes. The important thing is that we have finished the discussion on a reasonably harmonious note.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. GREGG. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. GREGG. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that we proceed to the vote.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. GREGG. Mr. President, I ask for the yeas and nays on the nomination.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second? There is a sufficient second.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is, Will the Senate advise and consent to the nomination of Alice S. Fisher, of Virginia, to be an Assistant Attorney General? On this question, the yeas and nays have been ordered. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk called the roll.

Mr. MCCONNELL. The following Senator was necessarily absent: the Senator from Virginia.

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, I ask for the yeas and nays on the nomination.

The yeas and nays on the nomination were ordered.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The PRESIDING OFFICER. The nominee was confirmed.

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate now proceed to a period of morning business with Senators permitted to speak for up to 10 minutes each.

I now request the opportunity to address the Senate under that provision. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate now proceed to a period of morning business with Senators permitted to speak for up to 10 minutes each, please.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The President is notified of the Senate’s action with respect to this nomination.

LEGISLATIVE SESSION

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senate now returns to legislative session.

The Senator’s request is agreed to. The Senator from Virginia is recognized.

PRAYER IN THE ARMED FORCES

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, at the present time, the members of the Armed Services Committee of the Senate and the members of the Armed Services Committee of the House are in a conference. A great deal of confidentiality is attached to that procedure. I do not in any way intend to violate that confidentiality.

But before the conference—and this is not a matter of confidentiality—is a provision in the bill of the House of Representatives which is related to military chaplains. I will read from the House bill.

Each Chaplain shall have the prerogative to pray according to the dictates of the Chaplain’s own conscience, except as must be limited by military necessity, with any such limitation being imposed in the least restrictive manner feasible.

That is the end of the proposed bill language. That is what I would like to address at this time.

I first want to say that the Senate has no such provision, and therefore we have to resolve the difference between the two bodies. The House of Representatives put this provision in during markup, which is the time they go through their bill. Another amendment was offered in that markup and rejected. It is referred to as follows: “Amendment to H.R. 5122, offered by Mr. Israel,” Member of Congress, and it provides in section 500, which I just read, relating to military chaplains: at the end of the quoted matter inserted by each of the subsections (a), (b), (c), (d), and (e), insert the following: “, except that chaplains shall demonstrate sensitivity, respect, and tolerance for all faiths present on each occasion at which prayers are offered”.

I personally have not decided on what version I personally feel should address this problem, so I remain of an open mind. But I remain very firmly of a mind that in the brief time that we have had an opportunity to look at it and examine it here on the Senate side, the time is inadequate to address an issue which I regard as of profound importance. This is the issue that I would hope this Chamber would have the opportunity to discuss, whether to put into law a provision as proposed by the House or a provision as proposed by Mr. ISAEL, a Member of Congress, which I believe is a more moderate version of this issue from a different angle. This is just an example of the diversity of views on this important issue.

Among the conference—I cannot name names; I will not—there is a strong division, those in favor of certain language other than what is in the House bill. Some conferees think that the provision by Mr. ISAEL should be included. So there is at this time just an enormous uncertainty among the conferees.

The House book that contains what we call report language, which is a very helpful instrument to try to explain the background of how provisions come into our legislation, trying to explain what some of the words mean, this book is silent. The only report language is a recitation, exactly, of the proposed bill language. So there is no guidance that Congress is providing on this important phrase. I have to point out that, as is the case in just about all matters that we take up in the Armed Services Committee regarding the annual authorization bill, the Secretary of Defense transmits to us opinions that he has, on behalf of the Department, with regard to proposed legislation. I now will have printed in the Record what is entitled:

The Department of Defense, FY 2007 Defense Authorization Bill; Subject: Military Chaplains; Language/Provision: 2007 Defense Authorization Bill; Subject: This provision could marginalize chaplains of the Armed Forces. I now will have printed in the Record what is entitled: is no atheist in the foxholes of war.” Military people, military families are heavily dependent upon the comfort that is given by prayer—prayer alone or prayer with others.

I urge this Congress not to do at this time what the Senate and House of Representatives have done before. I will read it again. I have difficulty, as many times as I have read it, understanding exactly what it means.

It says: Each chaplain shall have the prerogative to pray according to the dictates of the chaplain’s own conscience except as must be limited by military necessity.

What is that? What is military necessity? We should define that very carefully. I continue.

With any such limitation being imposed in the least restrictive manner feasible.

That, to me, is a complicated sentence and a complicated message to put forth.

In conclusion, I will recommend to the conferees that at this time Congress retain this bill language in the House, that we defer it to a time when the entire Senate and the entire House in open before the public invites in as many as we can possibly accommodate to give their views on the institution. I will request that the chaplain (in the Armed Forces of the United States, an institution that I have known since the closing days of World War II and have known for over a half century and have seen it function and have seen it work. Before changing those rules, I think we owe no less to the men and women in the Armed Forces to have these deliberative bodies of the House and Senate have their hearings, debate the language, and then decide whether they wish or not to write language that in many respects we were admonished by the Founding Fathers to be careful, at least at the most under the First Amendment.

In addition, some of the concern—and I think it will be the same concern or other concerns concern that imposing this language emanates from actions taken by the Department of the Air Force, the Department of the Navy, and I believe—I have not seen it—the Department of the Army in issuing certain guidance. The guidance was issued recently about those proposing this language enforcement of these newly promulgated regulations until such time as the Congress has had an opportunity to hold its hearings, go through a deliberative process, and then decide whether it wishes to act by way of sending a conference report to the President for purposes of becoming the law of the land.

So it is twofold: let the system of the chaplain, which has been operating for my lifetime, half a century, serving the needs of the men and women of the Armed Forces, continue to do as they have done but stand down any regulations until studied by this coequal branch of the Government, which under the Constitution has a very special role. I hope that in each and every one of these ways we have a responsibility to care for the needs in general of the men and women of the Armed Forces. That is what the conference report does.

I am hopeful that the conferees will see the wisdom of this action, let this bill go forward to the President’s desk so it can become law, and it can care for the men and women of the Armed Forces.

That will be written in report language. It does not have the force of law. But I am basically assured by the Department of Defense that they will comply; stay for the time being the most recent regulations, whatever they wish to call them, that have been sent to the President’s desk; but what is more important is Congress has had a reasonable time within which to decide whether they feel it is necessary to prepare for the President’s signature a new law.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that additional materials relating to this subject be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

SECRET INSTRUCTION 1705.7C

(1) Chaplains are Qualified Religious Ministry Professionals (RMPs) endorsed by a Department of Defense (DOD)—list Religious Organization (ROID) and commissioned as CHC officers.

(2) As a condition of appointment, every RMP must be willing to function in a pluralistic environment in the military, where diverse religious beliefs and practices of the chaplain and the other persons authorized to be served, in divine religious services, religious elements for a command function, absent extraordinary circumstances, should be non-sectarian in nature. Neither the participation of a chaplain, nor the inclusion of a religious element, in and of themselves, renders a command function a Divine Service or public worship. Once a command determines a religious element is appropriate, the chaplain may choose to participate based on his or her faith commitments. If the chaplain chooses not to participate, he or she may do so with no adverse consequences. Anyone accepting a command’s invitation to provide religious elements at a command function is accountable for following the commander’s guidance.

d. Chaplains shall, when in a combat area, only assign, detail, or permit chaplains, as non-combatants under the Geneva Convention, to perform such duties as are related to religious ministry under Art. 1063 of reference (b).

e. Commanders shall not assign chaplains collateral duties that violate the religious practices of the chaplain’s religious organization or that require services in a capacity not authorized by the chaplain or religious organization or called upon to reveal privileged or sensitive information.

f. Commanders shall not assign chaplains duties to act as director, solicitor, or treasurer of funds, other than administrator of a Religious Offering Fund; or serve on a court-martial; or stand watches other than of duty chaplain.

U.S. ARMY

Army Chaplains & Ministry/Patriotic Ceremonial Prayer: How does the Army Chief of Chaplains address chaplains and Military/Patriotic Ceremonial Prayer?

AR 1651-1. Chaplain Activities in the United States Army, has several pertinent statements. Paragraph 1-4 a. reads, “In, striking a balance between the ‘establishment’ and ‘free exercise’ clauses the Army and Department of Defense policies and practices for chaplains’ services and ministries to the command, is an instrument of the U.S. Government to ensure that soldier’s religious ‘free exercise’ rights are protected. At the same time, chaplains are trained to avoid even the appearance of any establishment of religion.” Paragraph 4-4h. reads, “Military and patriotic ceremonies or observances are a chapter on invocation, reading, prayer, or benediction. Such occasions are not to be considered religious services. Chaplains will not be required to offer a prayer, if doing so would be in variance with the tenets or practices of their faith group.

Chaplains provide prayer within worship services governed by the tenets of their faith. Chaplains also provide prayer in public ceremonies which are patriotic/military (sometimes secular). The former is completely voluntary; the latter are often required functions at which all manner of people are present. It is at these non-worship ceremonies that the Chaplains must consider their obligations to assist every Soldier to pray.

There is an Army regulation guiding prohibi- ting an individual from praying or directing an individual to pray in any specific manner. AR 165–1 is intended to strike a balance between a Chaplain’s right to freely express his or her personal religious beliefs and the Chaplain’s duty to ensure that every Soldier is afforded his or her “free exercise” rights under the Constitution.

Praelation and religious accommodation are trained throughout the Chaplain life cycle with the bulk of the subject matter conveyed in the foundation courses at the Chaplain Course. AR 165–1 is the reference for this training.

The Army Chief of Chaplains sees no reason to promulgate guidelines concerning Chaplains and public prayer since AR 165–1 is sufficient.

The Army Chief of Chaplains will not dictate how a Chaplain performs his or her prayer. Chaplains are trained and expected to use good judgment when addressing pluralistic audiences at public, non-worship ceremonies.

U.S. AIR FORCE

REvised INTERIM GUIDELINES CONCERNING FREE EXERCISE OF RELIGION IN THE AIR FORCE

We are sworn to support and defend the Constitution of the United States. In taking our oath we pledge our personal commitment to the Constitution’s protections for free exercise of religion and its prohibition against government establishment of religion.

We will remain officially neutral regarding religious beliefs, neither officially endorsing nor discouraging any faith belief or absence of belief. We will accommodate free exercise of religion and other personal beliefs, as well as freedom of expression, except as must be limited by an overwhelming need to protect a military necessity (with such limitations being imposed in the least restrictive manner feasible). Commanders should ensure that requests for religious accommodation are welcomed and dealt with as fairly and consistently as practicable throughout their commands. They should be approved unless approval would have a real, non-hypothetical, adverse impact on military readiness, unit cohesion, standards, or discipline. Avoidance of schedule conflicts between official activities and religious activities enhance unit effectiveness and demonstrate mutual respect.

Chaplain service programs are the responsibility of commanders. Chaplains impartially advise commanders in regard to free exercise of religion, and implement programs of religious support and pastoral care to help commanders care for all their people, including opportunities for free exercise of individual beliefs. We will respect the rights of chaplains to adhere to the tenets of their religious faiths and they will not be required to participate in religious activities, including public prayer, inconsistent with their faiths.

Leaders at every level bear a special responsibility to ensure their words and actions cannot reasonably be construed to be officially endorsing or disapproving any faith belief or absence of belief. In official circumstances or when superiors/subordinates relationships are involved, superiors need to be sensitive to the potential that personal expression may appear to be official, or have undue influence on their subordinates. Subject to these sensitivities, superiors enjoy the same free exercise rights as all other personnel.

Voluntary participation in worship, prayer, study, and discussion is integral to the free exercise of religion. Nothing in this guidance should be understood to limit the substance of voluntary discussions of religion, or the exercise of free speech, where it is reasonably clear that the discussions are personal matters and can be reasonably free of the potential for, or appearance of, coercion.

Public prayer should not imply Government endorsement of religion and should not usually be a part of routine official business. Mutual respect and common sense should always be applied, including consideration of unusual circumstances and the needs of the command. Further, non-denominational, inclusive prayer or a moment of silence may be appropriate for military ceremonies or activities when it is the primary purpose of the advanced of religious beliefs. Military chaplains are trained in these matters.

General rules regarding use of Government computers apply to personal religious matters as they do for other personal matters. Chaplain programs will receive communications support as would comparable staff activities.

These guidelines are consistent with the responsibility of commanders to maintain good order and discipline, and are consistent with the core values of the Air Force: integrity first; service before self; and excellence in all we do.

LOCAL LAW ENFORCEMENT ENHANCEMENT ACT OF 2005

Mr. SMITH. Mr. President, I rise today to speak about the need for hate crimes legislation. Each Congress, Senator KENNEDY and I introduce hate crimes legislation that would add new categories to current hate crimes law, sending a signal that violence of any kind is unacceptable in our society. Likewise, each Congress I have come to the floor to highlight a separate hate crime that has occurred in our country.

On March 8, 2006, in Savannah, GA, David Bennett was attacked by five men outside a local gay bar. According to police, Sidney Swift, one of the alleged attackers, made several antigay remarks towards Bennett while in police custody. Swift’s motivation for attacking Bennett was based solely on his sexual orientation.

I believe that the Government’s first duty is to defend its citizens, to defend them against the harms that come out of hate. The Local Law Enforcement Enhancement Act is a symbol that can become substance. I believe that by passing this legislation and changing current law, we can change hearts and minds as well.

TRIBUTE TO BEN CHATER

Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, in my 32 years as a U.S. Senator, I have met many extraordinary people. They have included Presidents, Kings and Nobel laureates, artists, soldiers, nurses, activists, and ordinary Americans who are doing any number of wonderful, selfless, and courageous things for their families, their communities, and their country. Some have chosen careers in public service. Others were leading normal, uneventful lives when they were unexpectedly confronted with circumstances that caused them to become leaders. Many have significantly improved lives and caring for others. And then there are those who have struggled to overcome unfair and seemingly impossible hurdles and in doing so have shown a force of character and spirit that breaks barriers and inspires awe among everyone they meet.

Ben Chater, a Vermonter who interned in my office several years ago during the summer after his sophomore year at the University of California at Berkeley, is in the latter category. Ben is a cerebral palsy victim who faced obstacles from birth that the rest of us could not even imagine, much less overcome. He has done so with amazing grace, courage, and good humor, and his accomplishments are nothing short of awe inspiring. Ben’s refusal to let his disability prevent him from taking on practically any challenge has been an example for me and my wife Marcelle, for my staff, and for virtually everyone who has come into contact with him.

I have little doubt that Ben will continue to set ambitious goals and in reaching them he will demonstrate even further the incredible capacity of the human spirit to overcome adversity. He will also continue to erase the stereotypes and misconceptions about the potential of people with disabilities.

Ben was recently the subject of an article in the Vermont Sunday Magazine by Tom Slayton, who is also the editor of Vermont’s largest newspaper. Tom, in an unani- mous consent that it be printed in the RECORD so others can be inspired by Ben’s life and accomplishments.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

[From the Vermont Sunday Magazine, September 10, 2006].

"IN AWE OF BEN"—Ben CHATER, 23, WITH CEREBRAL PALSY, FINISHES BERKELEY, PREPARES FOR LIFE’S NEXT CHALLENGE (by Tom Slayton)

This is the story of a fine mind living in a body that won’t cooperate.

Ben Chater, 23, of Montpelier has had cerebral palsy since birth. Due to a difficult labor, Ben’s brain was deprived of oxygen for a few moments. As a result, he has a major disability—he has limited control over movements of his limbs, or the rest of his body. Ben requires assistance with everyday living—getting dressed in the morning, eating a meal, taking a shower. He speaks with some difficulty and requires a motorized wheelchair to get around.

However, Ben’s mind is complete and undamaged. In fact, he is extremely bright.
He graduated this year, with honors, from the University of California at Berkeley with degrees in English and linguistics, the study of language—how it works, how sounds combine to form words, how the rules we use shape our thinking and our experience.

Linguistics is not for the faint of heart. Or mind. But Ben is neither.

For work in that field, Ben received the Departmental Citation for Excellence in Linguistics, awarded by the faculty of the department to an outstanding student. He was the only student at Berkeley to receive that award this year.

Ben is not only an outstanding student; he is an an individual.

After talking with him for even a few minutes, one forgets the fact that he is in a powered chair and has some difficulty forming words. There is no need to say the last position of an intelligent, positive, hopeful young man.

"I'm frankly in awe of Ben," says his mother, Maude Chater. "There's a grace about him that I don't understand—or do I need to?"

Maude and her husband, Mike, have worked long and hard to help Ben achieve an independent life. Perhaps the hardest thing for them to do, in recent years, has been to stand back and get out of Ben's way.

"For those families to resist their protective instincts," she notes quietly.

In addition to academic success that would be remarkable in a person with normal abilities, Ben has an intern in the office of U.S. Sen. Patrick J. Leahy, living in Washington while working for the senator. And he recently took—and aced—the LSAT exam—qualifying exam for law school.

However, all that success does not eliminate the fact that he has difficulties the rest of us take for granted.

Recently, Ben went outside into the back yard to check on a blueberry patch, alone, while family members were out and about, as usual. He drove his motorized chair up hill toward some trees—and got mired in a soft spot in the yard.

Two hours later, when his mother arrived back home, she found Ben, still mired, still in his chair, stuck in front of one of the trees. When she went to assist him, Ben's only wry comment was: "It's a big hill. Really?"

Early on—when Ben was a junior at Montpelier High School, to be exact—his special needs became apparent to all of his classmates.

For Ben, as for most kids, it was a time of change, uncertainty and social stress. Many of the young people he had grown up with had begun to change their interests, and old friends drifted away and new ones didn't appear to take their places. More than most kids, Ben felt isolated.

Unlike most kids, though, he decided to do something about it. He received permission from the school administration to call a school-wide assembly, and at it he spoke to his fellow students about what he had felt. He spoke about what it was like to be Ben Chater, teenager, confused and lonely. "I felt I needed to do something," he said recently. "I believe that everyone has a right, and that aren't fair."

Interestingly, although he is well aware of the inequities that people with disabilities face in society, he said recently, "There are a lot of things about our society that aren't right, and that isn't fair."

And they are regularly amazed by their son's courage.

For his part, Ben doesn't waste any time at all on self-pity. Not a moment. He's never spent a single minute thinking about what life would be like if I weren't disabled," he said recently, "I believe that every time you think about, or worry about what you can do, that you're taking away the time you have to do things."

Ben is an outstanding person. At Berkeley, one of the nation's most competitive universities.

Going to Berkeley expanded my horizons in just about every way imaginable," he says of the school, which is located across the bay from San Francisco. As Ben explains the situation at Berkeley, he smiles and mentions the school's diverse, multi-ethnic, multi-cultural student body. "In most cities, 'diversity,' means there are a lot of different sections of town, each with its own different ethnicity or whatever," he said. "But in Berkeley, everybody—all the different kinds of people—lives together. . . . And that creates a kind of social comfort I had never seen before."

People in the Bay area—California generally—tell me you can make life as easy and non-confrontational as you want. They tend to be more accepting of different kinds of people because there are a lot of different kinds of people living here. One is the steady, strong support of his parents. Maude Chater says, "Our family was definitely oriented around Ben in his early years." Maude Chater says, "When he got into high school, he directed us to back off a bit. Vacations and trips have occasionally been challenging. "We travel, but we don't travel light," Maude quips.

Independence has been Maude and Mike's goal for Ben since his birth, and they realize that to foster independence in a person you have to let him be independent. But there are moments—especially when Ben wants to take a short, one-day trip abroad—like foreign travel or learning to drive—that can cause the mental brakes to go on in a parent's head. The difficulties Ben faces with transportation and accessibility can cause the mental brakes to go on. His dad, Ben notes, has counseled him to keep as many options open as he can.

"The thought of being a lawyer . . . working in an office for the rest of my life is not all that exciting," he said. "But to go to law school, you've got a lot of things you can do a lot of things with a law degree."

Ben obviously has some things going for him. One is the steady, strong support of his parents.

There is an employment possibility at Berkeley that he's considering, but he's also visiting law schools—he and his father, Mike Chater, checked out Yale last week; and Ben would also like to visit Columbia and New York University.

Eventually, he plans to apply to several law schools, choose one, and go the next year. He's also thinking about traveling.

"Like many young men and women his age, he also doesn't know precisely what career he will follow."

"People with disabilities are just another minority, too?"
what their circumstances. At Berkeley, one of his nicknames was “The Rabbi,” because of the wise counsel he would offer his classmates, when asked.

He was most good about his achievements, the long learning process he has come through and the long road that remains ahead. “I’m definitely in the middle of a lengthy process of figuring out who I am and who I am up,” he said. “It’s a process that everyone has to figure out for themselves.”

And what are his parents’ hopes? “One is that he is able to live independently, support himself, and be happy,” Maude says “...that he finds his place in the world.”

DISASTER RECOVERY PERSONAL PROTECTION ACT

Mr. VITTER. Mr. President, as the Senate author of the Disaster Recovery Personal Protection Act of 2006 and a cosponsor of the District of Columbia Personal Protection Act, I believe we must work to support the ability of law-abiding citizens to defend and protect themselves and their families from criminal attacks. It has been proven time and time again that prohibiting law-abiding citizens from owning a legal and constitutionally protected firearm does not reduce crime but, as this article which I will ask to have printed in the RECORD states, in fact, increases crime.

I ask unanimous consent that an article published in the August 7 issue of Legal Times entitled “The Laws That Misfire: Banning guns doesn’t work—in the District or anywhere else” authored by Don B. Kates be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

[From Legal Times, Aug. 7, 2006]

THE LAWS THAT MISFIRE
(By Don B. Kates)

The District of Columbia is now suffering from what its police chief on July 11 called a “crime emergency.”

In the District banned handguns and required that all other guns be kept unloaded and disassembled, making them unavailable for self-defense. The result is that for 30 days lawbreakers have had guns readily available for use in the District.

Is that effective policy? Is it a sensible way to respond to a crime emergency? Those policy questions, in addition to purely legal issues, arise in pending litigation that brings a Second Amendment challenge against the District’s gun bans.

I reported on this as Brandeis amicus brief supporting this constitutional challenge. My co-counsel were 12 other law professors, and the amici we represent include 16 American, Canadian, and medical school professors.

The case in question, Parker v. District of Columbia, is currently before the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit after an unfavorable ruling in the District Court. The plaintiffs include a woman under a death threat for reporting neighborhood drug-dealing to the police, a man whose girlfriend had an unloaded handgun to defend himself against a hag crime. This brief was filed pro bono, and the amici are not being paid.

What the amicus brief shows is significant, and the information it contains may surprise some. For the truth about gun bans is that they are policy failures even on their own terms: More guns don’t mean more death, and fewer guns don’t mean less death. Gun bans like the District’s simply don’t work.

BRITAIN’S FAILURE

Before the District adopted these policies in 1976, its murder rate was declining. Shortly after the District adopted the gun bans in an effort to control violence, its murder rate became the highest of any large American city. It has remained the highest throughout the 30 years these policies have been in force (or even when the District ranked second or third).

To excuse this disastrous history, anti-gun advocates assert that gun bans covering only a single city are effective.

True enough, but experience shows that gun bans covering an entire nation are also unenforceable. In the United Kingdom, decades of severe gun control failed to stem steadily rising violent crime. So in 1997 the United Kingdom banned and confiscated all legally owned handguns. Yet by 2000 the United Kingdom had the highest violent-crime rate in the Western world—twice ours—and it still does today.

Gun bans also work even in a relatively small island nation, the report of England’s National Crime Intelligence Service laments: Although Britain has some of the strictest gun laws (it appears that anyone who wishes to obtain a firearm [illegally] will have little difficulty in doing so).

American anti-gun advocates used to cite the United Kingdom, Canada, and Australia as nations where low violence stemmed from severe gun restrictions. But in recent decades those nations have skyrocketed, first matching and now far surpassing ours.

In the 1950s these nations moved from severe controls to outright bans and confiscation of half a million guns. Today, Australia and Canada join the United Kingdom in having the highest violent-crime rates in the Western world—more than double ours.

MURDER RATES

For decades anti-gun advocates claimed that America, with the world’s highest gun-ownership rate (true), had the highest murder rate (false). In fact, the recently revealed Russian murder rate for the past 40 years has been consistently higher than the American rate. The Russian murder rate in the 1990s has been almost four times higher than the U.S. rate. All this despite Russia’s 70 years of banning handguns and strictly controlling long guns—laws that it enforced with police-state methods. Various European nations, including Luxembourg, also ban handguns but have much higher murder rates than the United States does.

Gun bans reflect a quasi-religious belief that more guns (particularly handguns) mean more violence and death, and, conversely, fewer guns mean fewer deaths. This belief is quasi-religious because the believers cling fanatically to it despite scores of studies around the world finding no such correlation.

Consider the 2004 U.S. National Academy of Sciences evaluation: Having reviewed 283 publications, including thousands of government publications, and some empirical research of its own, the academy could not identify any gun law that had reduced violent crime, suicide, or gun deaths even in the United States. In the U.S., the murder rate was 6 per 100,000 people.

By 2000 the number of guns had increased fivefold (to more than 260 million), but the murder rate was almost identical (6.1). It remained there as of year-end 2004, despite the 12 million guns added to the American gun stock since 2000.

In the 60 years since World War II, U.S. murder rates dramatically increased and then slowly decreased—but not in relation to gun ownership, which increased substantially every year.

In the 1950s our murder rate held steady despite the addition of roughly 2 million guns per year. In the mid-1960s through the early 1970s, the murder rate doubled, while 2.5 million to 3 million guns were added annually. In the late 1970s the murder rate held steady and then declined, even as 4 to 5 million more guns were added annually. Murder rates skyrocketed with the introduction of crack in the late 1980s, but in the ‘90s they dramatically decreased, even as Americans bought 50 million more guns.

Between 1993 and 2003, the number of guns doubled, but murder rates declined by one-third. So much for the quasi-religious faith that more guns mean more murder.

Criminological studies say the opposite. An American criminologist’s comparison of homicide and suicide-mortality data with gun-ownership levels for 36 nations (including the United States) for the period 1990–1995 showed “no significant (at the 5% level) association between gun ownership and the total homicide rate.”

Somewhat later European study of data from 21 nations found “no significant correlations [of gun-ownership levels] with total suicide or homicide rates.” When you look at the data, guns aren’t increasing murders.

WHO KILLS

The myth of more-guns-meaning-more-murder makes sense to people who think most murders involve ordinary people killing others in moments of rage because guns were available to them. But ordinary people do not commit most murders, or many murders, or almost any murders. Almost all murderers are extreme aberrants with life histories of violence, psychopathology, substance abuse, and other crime.

Only about 15 percent of Americans have criminal records. But homicide studies reveal nearly all murderers have adult criminal records (often serious prior arrests), have been diagnosed as psychotic, or have had restraining orders issued against them.

Obviously, such dangerous aberrants should not be allowed any instrument more deadly than a toothpick. Unfortunately, they disobey gun laws just as they disobey laws against violence. But law-abiding adults do not murder, guns or no guns, so there is little point in trying to disarm them.

DEFENDING THE INNOCENT

Worse, banning guns to the general public is just dead-end counterproductive. Criminals prefer victims who are weaker than they are. The unique virtue of firearms is that they alone allow weaker people to resist predation by stronger, more violent ones.

A recent criminological evaluation states: “Reliable, durable, and easy to operate, mod-ern firearms are the most effective means of self-defense ever devised. They require minimal maintenance and, unlike knives and other weapons, do not depend on an individual’s physical strength for their effectiveness. Only a gun can allow a 110 pound woman to defend herself against a 200 pound man.”

Research has shown guns are six times more often used by victims to repel criminals than by criminals committing crimes.
The first Permanent President Eisenhower appointed General McDermott to the position of dean of faculty and in 1959, he served as vice dean at the Air Force Academy for 4 years. General McDermott served in the Pentagon.

Mrs. HUTCHISON. Mr. President, I would like to take this moment to honor a dear friend and dedicated community leader who passed away on August 28, 2006. General Robert McDermott was a dedicated and enthusiastic advocate for San Antonio, General McDermott focused his efforts to advance economic development in the area. In 1974, he was elected chairman of the Greater San Antonio Chamber of Commerce and promoted San Antonio as a center for domestic and international growth.

On August 6, 1994, General McDermott married Marion Slemmon of Colorado Springs. They enjoyed his retirement in San Antonio and Colorado Springs, but General McDermott did not slow down. He was active in the San Antonio community with business and charitable organizations, enjoyed traveling, visiting family and friends, and continued playing golf and his trombone.

As a dedicated and enthusiastic advocate for San Antonio, General McDermott worked tirelessly to advance economic development in the area. In 1974, he was elected chairman of the Greater San Antonio Chamber of Commerce and promoted San Antonio as a center for domestic and international growth. He also founded the Economic Development Foundation and was a co-founder of United San Antonio. In the 1980s, General McDermott focused on the development of biotechnology in San Antonio to provide the city with a viable economic sector. He was a strong advocate for the establishment of the Texas Research and Technology Foundation which was established in 1983 to advance economic development in the area. In 1985, General McDermott was a member of the board of directors of the Texas Research and Technology Foundation and was a co-founder of United San Antonio.

In the early 1990s, General McDermott led a group of local investors to buy the San Antonio Spurs to assure that they would stay in San Antonio. To coach the Spurs, he selected Air Force Academy graduate Gregg Popovich who led the team to win three NBA championships.

For General McDermott’s wide-ranging efforts on behalf of San Antonio, the city of San Antonio named a section of Interstate Highway 10 West as the “Robert F. McDermott Freeway.” He also received recognition for his business and educational activities, including an elementary school named for him, induction into the Texas Business Hall of Fame in 1987 and the American National Business Hall of Fame in 1989. He was inducted into the University of the Incarnate Word’s Alumni Achievement Hall of Fame in 1987. The recipient of the Distinguished Graduate Award from the University of the Incarnate Word in 1993; the recipient of Harvard University’s Alumni Achievement Award in 1998; and most recently, the University of the Incarnate Word established the Robert F. McDermott Professorship in Organizational Leadership this year.

Today I honor the passing of a great family man, a terrific friend, and an outstanding community leader.

NATIONAL MINE RESCUE COMPETITION

- Mr. ENZI. Mr. President, I am pleased to today to report some good news with regard to mine safety and to congratulate FMC Corporation’s White Team for being the best mine rescue team in the Nation. As we all know, the mining community experienced a profound loss this year with the disasters at the Sago and Aracoma coal mines in West Virginia and at the Darby Mine in Kentucky. The tragic loss of life in these accidents served to reaffirm the commitment of all those involved in the mining industry to ensuring and improving the safety and welfare of our Nation’s miners.

Essential to that effort, and emblematic of our commitment, was the passage of the Mine Improvement and New Emergency Response, MINER, Act of 2006. The MINER Act passed this body by a vote of 97 to 0. It was signed into law by President Bush and implemented by the Mine Safety and Health Administration, MSHA.

As the primary sponsor of the MINER Act, I am confident that this new law will improve the safety of our underground mines and reduce the likelihood of similar tragic accidents in the future. In the careful and deliberate process of developing the MINER Act, the views of all stakeholders were solicited and carefully considered. Although in many areas there were differences of opinion, all those involved in the issue of mine safety were in agreement on the critical role played by mine rescue teams and universal praise in their praise of the dedicated individuals who serve on them.

Rescue teams represent the very finest traditions of the mining community. Composed of volunteers, highly trained and experienced, these teams stand ready to come to the aid of their fellow miners in the most critical and dangerous of situations. The MINER Act explicitly recognizes the essential role of mine rescue teams and the importance of their participation.

Part of the training and the tradition of mine rescue teams is their participation in competitions that pit the teams against each other. Each year MSHA holds a national mine rescue competition that draws teams from throughout the United States. This year the national, nonmetal mine competition was held in Reno, NV. I am particularly pleased to report that the leading team from the United States, the White Team of the FMC Corporation White Team, which was led by Leroy Hutchinson, won the competition.

The White Team was followed by the FMC Red Team, led by Bob Knott. OCI Chemical’s Blue Team, which was led by Gary Ruiz, placed fifth, and Solvay’s Silver Team, which was led by Shawn Marshall, placed sixth.

The teams represent the best of southwest Wyoming’s soda ash industry. The four companies that mine the mineral Trona in Wyoming account for 90 percent of the U.S. production of soda ash. Soda ash is a commodity required for the production of glass. It is also a very important export that accounts for $500 million of our balance of trade.

I am very proud of this year’s showing by our Wyoming soda ash industry in this competition. It is important to remember that although this is a competition, it is not a sport. The National Mine Safety Rescue Contest and other mine safety rescue contests are training events. They help prepare mine rescue teams so they are ready to act if they ever have to deal with a situation that we hope will never occur.

When accidents happen, miners count on volunteer mine rescue teams to save them. Those mine rescue teams need to have the best resources available to them. They need to be prepared for anything that may happen as they take on that important job. Mine rescue competitions play an important role in that effort by providing mine rescue teams with the kind of experience they will need if they are to perform at the highest level of efficiency in the event there is an emergency. They offer a chance for teams to improve their communication skills, to consider previously unforeseen problems, and to get feedback on their performance from contest judges.

Although these teams compete against each other in mine rescue contests, when a real world situation arises, they operate as one cohesive unit to affect a rescue. Each company can draw on the good will and collective expertise of the mine rescue teams to help bring miners in danger to safety. In the spirit of brotherhood and cooperation, the teams know that if there is a mine emergency, they will have the support they need to bring the victims of the accident and their fellow rescue workers out of the mine and home to their families and loved ones.

In other words, while these companies compete in the marketplace and mine rescue teams compete in these contests, they will stand shoulder to shoulder should an accident occur at the mine.

I would like to include the names of each of the participants of our teams in this competition. Although I particularly want to congratulate the FMC White Team, the FMC Red Team, OCI Chemical’s Blue Team, and Solvay’s Silver Team, I congratulate and thank all those who participated. Your efforts continue to make a difference by making our mines a safer place for all our nation’s miners to work.

CREATIVE PLANTERS GARDEN CLUB
• Mr. VITTER. Mr. President, today I acknowledge the Creative Planters Garden Club of Louisiana. After the catastrophic destruction of Hurricanes Katrina and Rita, this organization has dedicated itself to rebuilding the horticulture in Louisiana, and I would like to take a few moments to highlight their efforts.

Unfortunately, like many other citizens in south Louisiana, several members of this organization lost their homes to the hurricanes that ravished our State in 2005. While many members of the Creative Planters Garden Club are rebuilding their livelihoods, they are also volunteering their time to rebuild their State. Their priorities include replanting lands devastated by Hurricanes Katrina and Rita and replanting the rose garden in New Orleans Botanical Gardens in City Park. It is community involvement like this that enriches our State.

I applaud the members of the Creative Planters Garden Club of Louisiana for their continued service to the citizens of their community.
over $600 million in savings were harvested and redirected to the fleet starting in the Program Objective Memoranda for fiscal year 2006. Overall, Rear Admiral Loose increased production productivity by 13 percent while reducing the workforce by 17 percent. This structural realignment combined Navy public works centers focused on maintenance, transportation, and utilities services with engineering field divisions focused on planning, environmental, design, and construction services to establish a single, aligned, and vastly streamlined organization—a Regional Facilities Engineering Command. He also developed and executed strategic partnership agreements with Commander, Navy Installations Command and Headquarters, U.S. Marine Installations—Commander, Naval Supply Systems Command, to enable lowest facility lifecycle business analysis and management by leveraging the transformed NAVFAC organization. With the establishment of the Regional Facilities Engineering Command in each Navy region, Rear Admiral Loose operationalized NAVFAC, creating a command culture of accountability, technical competency, and responsiveness to fleet mission demands and surge requirements.

Rear Admiral Loose also aggressively supported the newly established Naval Expeditionary Combat Command/Naval Expeditionary Combat Enterprise as Systems Command Commander and first chief operating officer. He developed a $400 million program to replace overage and expended equipment, weapons, personal protective gear, and materials supporting the Naval Construction Force extended operations in support of Operations Noble Eagle, Iraqi Freedom, and Enduring Freedom. Rear Admiral Loose guided the largest mobilization since Vietnam of Seabees and Civil Engineer Corps Officers, enabling outstanding mission support of Operation Iraqi Freedom and Operation Iraqi Freedom II.

Clearly, Rear Admiral Loose’s comprehensive knowledge of the Navy, keen judgment, and unwavering commitment to the Navy family, and the fleet have made him an asset to the Navy. I am proud that he is my fellow New Mexican and my fellow American, and I am pleased to recognize and thank Rear Admiral Loose for his tenure as Commander, NAVFAC and Chief of Civil Engineers.

Today I honor Rear Admiral Loose for his service to our country, his inspirational moral courage, his exceptional strategic vision, and his relentlessly bold leadership. He and his wife Carol have made many sacrifices during his career in the Navy, and I call upon my colleagues and join his family, friends, and associates to wish them “fair winds and following seas” as they embark on yet another great Navy adventure and continue their dedicated and outstanding service to this grateful Nation.

HONORING SOUTH DAKOTA GAME, FISH AND PARKS

Mr. THUNE. Mr. President, today I honor South Dakota Game, Fish and Parks for being awarded the 2006 Secretary of Defense Employer Support Freedom Award.

South Dakota Game, Fish and Parks is 1 of only 15 employers nationwide to be honored with this prestigious award. The support, encouragement, and flexibility they provide to their employees who are called to serve their country with the South Dakota National Guard illustrates that they are truly deserving of this high honor. South Dakota Game, Fish and Parks serves as a fine example of South Dakotans coming together to defend freedom around the world. They are going the extra mile to accommodate our service men and women and thus ensure a safer, more secure America.

Today I together with the entire State of South Dakota commend South Dakota Game, Fish and Parks for their commitment to serving our State and our Armed Forces.

STATEMENTS ON INTRODUCED BILLS AND JOINT RESOLUTIONS

By Mrs. CLINTON (for herself and Mr. SPECTER):

S. 3910. A bill to direct the Joint Committee on the Library to accept the donation of a bust depicting Sojourner Truth in the Capitol Building.

S. 3771. A bill to appropriate for the health centers within the Lake Traverse Indian Reservation.

Mrs. CLINTON. Mr. President. It gives me pride and pleasure to introduce revised legislation that will enable the Joint Committee on the Library to display a bust depicting Sojourner Truth in the Capitol Building. I began this effort with legislation I introduced 2 years ago during the 108th Congress. Because my colleagues in the other body and I were not able to enact our bill that time, we return in the 109th Congress with new legislation which would direct the Joint Committee on the Library to accept the donation of a bust depicting Sojourner Truth in a suitable location in the Capitol. I now lay down this version of the bill that reflects bipartisan support among leaders who share the goal of honoring this important figure in our Nation’s and New York State’s history.

Sojourner Truth was born into slavery in New York’s Hudson Valley in 1797. She moved to New York City after gaining her freedom in 1826 and by 1843 had changed her name to Sojourner Truth, traveling the country preaching for human rights. After attending the 1850 National Woman’s Rights Convention, Truth made women’s suffrage a focal point of her speeches, portraying women as powerful, independent figures. Her most famous speech, “Ain’t I a Woman,” given at the 1851 Women’s Rights Convention in Akron, OH, has become a classic text on women’s rights.

Because of her great, advocacy on behalf of women, despite all of the hardships she faced, Sojourner Truth deserves to be represented along with the suffragists depicted in the United States Capitol Building. I ask that the Senate come together and honor this visionary American for her service to our Nation.

By Mr. ENSIGN [for himself, Mrs. LINCOLN, Ms. COLEMAN, Mr. HATCH, and Mr. TALENT]:

S. 3912. A bill to amend title XVIII of the Social Security Act to extend the exceptions process with respect to caps on payments for therapy services under the Medicare program; to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. ENSIGN. I am pleased to introduce the Securing Effective and Necessary Individual Outpatient Rehabilitation Services Act, the SENIORS Act, to ensure that Medicare beneficiaries who rely on medically necessary therapy services continue to have access to the services they need. The bill would allow exceptions to therapy caps for certain medically necessary services in 2007. An exceptions process for Medicare patients who exceed the therapy cap was authorized in legislation last year. A Medicare patient may now obtain an exception if the service is deemed medically necessary and then receive covered therapy services above the cap. The exceptions process expires at the end of this year, so Congress must extend it for the 2007 calendar year.

I started the fight to eliminate the annual cap on outpatient rehabilitation services in its entirety when I was in the House of Representatives. I brought this fight to the Senate where I introduced legislation to completely repeal the annual Medicare cap on rehabilitation therapy services. I recognize that the repeal is not politically or financially viable at this time. However, an extension of the exceptions process should be possible.

Action is needed to address the therapy caps this year. This is not a Republican issue or a Democrat issue. At its heart, this issue is a patient issue. Forty-four of my Senate colleagues have joined me in legislation to repeal the therapy caps once and for all. In addition, almost 260 members of the United States House of Representatives and 46 groups representing patients and providers support legislation efforts to repeal the caps or extend the current exceptions process. And, in May of this year, 47 Senators signed a letter to Senate leadership urging an extension of the exceptions process authorized in the Deficit Reduction Act beyond its current expiration of January 1, 2007.

Ensuring access to needed outpatient physical therapy, occupational therapy, and speech language pathology services for Medicare beneficiaries in a fiscally responsible manner is essential. Denying access by an arbitrary cap will only shift costs as patients will delay rehabilitative treatment which is often necessary to prevent further deterioration of health and to maintain independence.

As a member of the Senate Budget Committee, I realize the serious budgetary constraints that are upon Congress. I also understand that we need to prioritize these services. I believe that extension of the exceptions process beyond 2006 should be a priority. I look forward to working with my colleagues to ensure that senior citizens continue to have access to high-quality rehabilitation services.

BY MR. ROCKEFELLER:

S. 3913. A bill to amend title XXI of the Social Security Act to eliminate funding shortfalls for the State Children’s Health Insurance Program (SCHIP) for fiscal year 2007; to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. ROCKEFELLER. Mr. President, I rise today to introduce legislation to provide a temporary fix of the funding issues facing CHIP, the bill I am introducing today will alleviate the fiscal year 2007 shortfalls and ensure that children currently enrolled in CHIP do not lose their coverage. I congratulate my colleagues on the House side, Congressmen DEAL and NORWOOD, who introduced similar legislation at the end of last week. They understand this is something we can come together on, pass, and enact into law before Congress recesses for the elections. It is my hope that Congress will make these positive changes on a bipartisan basis to more comprehensively address the long-term financial challenges facing CHIP when the program is reauthorized next year.

In the meantime, I urge my colleagues to make children’s health care a priority during the limited time we have left this session. Working families depend on this program in order to access health care services—like check-ups and prescriptions—that their children need. I hope we will not let them down. We should not.

I ask unanimous consent that the full text of this bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the text of the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

SENATE RESOLUTION 573—CALLING ON THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT AND THE INTERNATIONAL COMMUNITY TO SUPPORT THE SUCCESSFUL TRANSITION FROM CONFLICT TO SUSTAINABLE PEACE IN UGANDA

Mr. FEINGOLD (for himself and Brownback, Mr. DeWine, Mr. Martinez, Mr. Coleman, Mr. Kerry, Mr. Durbin, Mrs. Clinton, Mr. Leahy, Mr. Biden and Mr. Kennedy) submitted for the following resolution; which was considered and agreed to:

S. Res. 573

Whereas, for nearly 2 decades, the Government of Uganda has been engaged in a civil conflict with the Lord’s Resistance Army (referred to in this preamble as the “LRA”) that has resulted in—

(1) the deaths of approximately 200,000 individuals from violence and disease; and
(2) the displacement of more than 1,600,000 individuals from the northern and eastern regions of Uganda;

Whereas more than half of those internally-displaced individuals are under the age of 15, and approximately 25% of those individuals live in absolute poverty in camps where they face malnutrition, high rates of AIDS and malaria, and egregious abuses of their human rights;

Whereas the LRA has used brutal tactics during that conflict, including the abduction and abuse of more than 25,000 children who are currently in the midst of the conflict, including rape, and murder members of their families and communities on behalf of the LRA;

Whereas continued instability and a lack of security in the northern region of Uganda has severely hindered the delivery of sufficient humanitarian assistance and services to individuals who have been displaced or otherwise negatively affected by that conflict;

Whereas spillover from the war in the northern region of Uganda have had negative consequences in the neighboring countries of Sudan and the Democratic Republic of the Congo;

Whereas a successful transition to sustainable peace in the northern region of Uganda and throughout the country will depend in large part on a coordinated and comprehensive effort of the Government of Uganda, regional partners, and the international community to create new social, economic, and political opportunities for the citizens of Uganda who have been affected by that conflict;

Whereas a sustainable political resolution to that conflict must include a range of locally and nationally driven reconciliation efforts that will require the endorsement and involvement of all parties to the conflict, as well as support from the international community;

Whereas the 2005 Country Reports on Human Rights Practices, published by the Department of State, relating to the Government of Uganda indicated that the “security forces committed unlawful killings, and were responsible for deaths as a result of torture” along with other “serious problems”, including repression of political opposition, official impunity, and violence against women and children;

Whereas, in the Northern Uganda Crisis Response Act (Public Law 108-233; 118 Stat. 912), the Senate—

(1) declared its support for a peaceful resolution of the conflict in the northern and eastern regions of Uganda; and
(2) called for the United States and the international community to assist in rehabilitating, reconstructing, and demobilization efforts; and

WHEREAS the cessation of hostilities agreement, that was mediated by the Government of Southern Sudan and signed by representatives of the Government of Uganda and the LRA on August 20, 2006—

(1) required both parties to cease all hostile military and media offensives; and
(2) asked the Sudanese People’s Liberation Army to facilitate the safe assembly of LRA fighters in designated areas for the duration of the peace talks: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Senate—

(1) commends the delegates from the Government of Uganda and the Lord’s Resistance Army for agreeing to a cessation of hostilities for the first time in the 20 years of that devastating conflict;

(2) recognizes the leadership role that the Government of Southern Sudan played in mediating that cessation of hostilities and establishing a basis within which a lasting peace to that conflict could be achieved;

(3) emphasizes the importance of a complete and immediate implementation of the cessation of hostilities agreement by all parties to maintain progress towards a permanent resolution of that conflict;

(4) expresses the support of the citizens of the United States for the people of Uganda who have endured decades of violence as a result of that conflict;

(5) entreats all parties to address issues of accountability and impunity for war crimes and crimes against humanity, and to support broader national reconciliation efforts;

(6) strongly encourages the Government of Uganda to improve the professionalism of Ugandan military personnel currently stationed in the northern and eastern regions of Uganda, with an emphasis on enhancing respect for human rights, accountability for abuses, and effective protection of civilians;

(7) urges the Government of Uganda to follow through and augment its resettlement plan by—

(A) expanding social services; and
(B) deploying professional civil servants; and
(C) developing the legal, political, and security infrastructure—

(i) necessary to facilitate the freedom of movement of civilians to their homes, land, and areas within and around camps; and
(ii) essential to fulfill the needs of returnees and former combatants;

(8) calls on the United States Department of State and the United States Agency for International Development, as well as the international community—

(A) to provide adequate and coordinated humanitarian assistance through nongovernmental organizations to the individuals and areas most affected by that conflict;

(B) to, while providing humanitarian assistance, pay particular attention to women and children who have been victimized; and

(C) to provide—

(i) sufficient technical assistance for the demobilization and reintegration of rebel combatants and abductees;

(ii) both financial and technical support for reconciliation and reconstruction efforts; and

(iii) diplomatic and logistical support for the cessation of hostilities agreement and subsequent progress towards a sustainable peace in Uganda.

SENATE RESOLUTION 574—RECOGNIZING THE NORTH CAROLINA FARM BUREAU FEDERATION ON THE OCCASION OF ITS 70TH ANNIVERSARY AND SALUTING THE OUTSTANDING SERVICE OF ITS MEMBERS AND STAFF ON BEHALF OF THE AGRICULTURAL COMMUNITY AND THE PEOPLE OF NORTH CAROLINA

Mr. BURR (for himself and Mrs. Dole) submitted for the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary:

S. Res. 574

Whereas the North Carolina Farm Bureau Federation was founded on March 2, 1936, in Greenville, North Carolina, during the Great Depression, a period of national frustration and economic disaster;

Whereas the North Carolina Farm Bureau Federation was established to organize North Carolina’s farm families and to maximize their ability to engage in national, State, and local policy debates that affect North Carolina agriculture;

Whereas at its first annual meeting in Raleigh, North Carolina, on July 30, 1936, the North Carolina Farm Bureau Federation had slightly over 2,000 members from 24 counties;

Whereas in 2005, the North Carolina Farm Bureau Federation was composed of approximately 490,000 member families from all 100 counties of North Carolina, making it the second largest State farm bureau in the United States;

Whereas the North Carolina Farm Bureau Federation was created a North Carolina Farm Bureau Federation in 1942 and a Young Farmer and Rancher Program in the 1970s to encourage leadership development among its members;

Whereas the North Carolina Farm Bureau Federation is committed to advancing agricultural education in North Carolina through its R. Plake Shaw Scholarship Program, established in 1958, and the Institute for Future Agricultural Leaders, founded in 1984, which help ensure that the young men and women of North Carolina are well prepared for careers in agriculture;

Whereas the North Carolina Farm Bureau Federation created and continues to sponsor the Ag-In-The-Classroom initiative to introduce students and educators to careers in agriculture; and

Resolved, That the Senate

(1) recognizes the North Carolina Farm Bureau Federation on the occasion of its 70th anniversary and saluting the outstanding service of its members and staff on behalf of the agricultural community and the people of North Carolina; and
(2) further recognizes the North Carolina Farm Bureau Federation’s 70 years of leadership in agriculture and the contributions of its members and staff on behalf of the agricultural community and the people of North Carolina.
Whereas the North Carolina Farm Bureau Federation’s visionary Board of Directors developed numerous initiatives that enable farmers to effectively produce and sell their products, such as their marketing program, and that provide farmers with access to necessary farm resources, such as the tires, batteries, and accessories service; and

Whereas in 1953, the North Carolina Farm Bureau Federation founded the North Carolina Farm Bureau Federation Mutual Insurance Company, which is North Carolina’s largest domestic insurance company; and

Whereas the Board of Directors of the North Carolina Farm Bureau Federation Mutual Insurance Company is composed entirely of farmers; and

Whereas the North Carolina Farm Bureau Federation is a true grassroots organization dedicated to ensuring that agriculture remains North Carolina’s number one industry through the organization’s unique policy development process and active legislative and regulatory advocacy programs; Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Senate recognizes the North Carolina Farm Bureau Federation on the occasion of its 50th anniversary and salutes the outstanding service of its members and staff on behalf of the agricultural community and the people of North Carolina.

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE

ALICE S. FISHER, OF VIRGINIA, TO BE AN ASSISTANT ATTORNEY GENERAL.
EXPRESSING SENSE OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES ON FIFTH ANNIVERSARY OF TERRORIST ATTACKS LAUNCHED AGAINST THE UNITED STATES ON SEPTEMBER 11, 2001

SPEECH OF

HON. VIRGINIA FOXX
OF NORTH CAROLINA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Wednesday, September 13, 2006

Ms. FOXX. Mr. Speaker, it is with great honor and humility that I rise today to commemorate the lives of the thousands of victims and heroes of the terrorist attacks on September 11, 2001. I extend my heartfelt condolences to the loved ones of those whose lives were needlessly cut short on that day. In addition, I rise to pay tribute to those who have died at the hands of the same threat which brought the September 11th attacks. From 1983, with the bombing of the Marine barracks in Beirut, Lebanon killing 241 American service members, to the 1993 bombing of the World Trade Center, killing six, Islamic fascists have continued with attacks against the United States at the Khobar Towers in Saudi Arabia, our embassies in Kenya and Tanzania, and the USS Cole in Yemen. I mention these events because it is essential for Americans to remember that the threat responsible for perpetuating these attacks is the same unending threat against which we are fighting today in the Global War on Terror. This enemy is methodical, patient, determined, and bound by one unifying purpose: the complete annihilation of all who do not subscribe to their warped vision of Islam by pursuing a murderous ideology.

While some setbacks have occurred in our efforts, we have made tremendous progress in confronting this threat, head-on. We must acknowledge the steadfast resolution of the Administration and the commitment and diligence of those in our intelligence community. Over the past 5 years, the Republican-led Congress has spent over $150 billion on homeland security. Congressional action on a variety of policies has provided those in our intelligence community with the critical tools needed to prevent future terrorist attacks on our homeland. Today, our service men and women are engaging the enemy abroad so the terrorists can no longer establish the pathways to economic security for Hispanic business owners.

The HCCO was formed in 1981 to address the glaring absence of Hispanic-owned businesses in American society. Concerned, motivated, and determined, a small group of Hispanic business owners united forces to incorporate the HCCO as a recognized non-profit in 1983. The membership and scope of services of the HCCO has grown, yet the mission has remained the same—to focus on providing assistance, services and support to local Hispanic business owners.

Over the past quarter century, HCCO has vastly evolved from its diminutive beginnings to a viable coalition of business owners that represent the interests and memberships of more than 7,500 Hispanic-owned businesses in the State of Ohio. The HCCO provides a wide range of support services, including: the sponsorship of seminars, workshops and networking luncheons and dinners; technical assistance and support; discounts on medical and dental benefits; and a wide range of support services for individuals interested in starting their own business.

Mr. Speaker and colleagues, please join me in honor and recognition of the Hispanic Chamber of Commerce of Ohio, as they celebrate 25 years of service and promotion of the economic growth and development for Hispanic business owners.

IN HONOR OF THE 25TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE HISPANIC CHAMBER OF COMMERCE OF OHIO

HON. DENNIS J. KUCINICH
OF OHIO

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, September 19, 2006

Mr. KUCINICH. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in honor of the Hispanic Chamber of Commerce of Ohio (HCCCO), as they celebrate 25 years of promotion and support of the economic growth and development for Hispanic business owners.

The HCCO was formed in 1981 to address the glaring absence of Hispanic-owned businesses in American society. Concerned, motivated and determined, a small group of Hispanic business owners united forces to incorporate the HCCO as a recognized non-profit in 1983. The membership and scope of services of the HCCO has grown, yet the mission has remained the same—to focus on providing assistance, services and support to local Hispanic business owners.

Over the past quarter century, HCCO has vastly evolved from its diminutive beginnings to a viable coalition of business owners that represent the interests and memberships of more than 7,500 Hispanic-owned businesses in the State of Ohio. The HCCO provides a wide range of support services, including: the sponsorship of seminars, workshops and networking luncheons and dinners; technical assistance and support; discounts on medical and dental benefits; and a wide range of support services for individuals interested in starting their own business.

Mr. Speaker and colleagues, please join me in honor and recognition of the Hispanic Chamber of Commerce of Ohio, as they celebrate 25 years of service and promotion of the economic growth and development for Hispanic business owners.

IN HONOR OF LUIS ALEJO

HON. SAM FARR
OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, September 19, 2006

Mr. FARR. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to congratulat Luis Alejo on being awarded the 2005 Democrat of the Year for Santa Cruz County. Luis, a native of Watsonville, California, received dual B.A. degrees from UC Berkeley in 1997 and his Juris Doctorate (JD) from UC Davis School of Law in 2001. He received his master’s degree in education from Harvard University in 2003. His academic accomplishments led him back home, where he has been an active member of the community.

After graduating from Harvard, Luis came back to Watsonville where he became a staff attorney for California Rural Legal Assistance, CRLA. While working at the CRLA, Luis worked on education, housing, public benefits and civil rights cases on behalf of low-income families and residents. Luis has always been a champion for empowering those who feel their rights have been violated. Luis has also worked to educate people on the rights given to them as laid out in the Constitution.

Luis brought his passion into the classroom as a high school teacher in Watsonville. As a former teacher he continues to inspire Watsonville youth as he directs the Student Empowerment Project. Luis later became a member of the California advisor committee of the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights, of which he was nominated by a former California Supreme Court Justice, Cruz Reynoso. As a civil rights activist, he has been the point person for distributing valuable information to Watsonville residents about the process and requirements to become naturalized citizens.

As a member of the DCC, Luis has worked tirelessly to modify by-laws and endorsement policies and procedures within the organization. He is currently in charge of the endorsement program for all the political races for 2006 in Santa Cruz County. As the Watsonville representative of the DCC, Luis has effectively organized Watsonville residents in order to unite them on Democratic causes through the creation of the Pajaro Valley Cesar Chavez Democratic Club.

Luis is currently the chair of the Pajaro Valley Cesar Chavez Democratic Club. The Pajaro Valley community points to Luis as the key person who has brought inspiration and resources to Watsonville. He also spearheaded a registration drive targeting voters in order to educate them on how to get their voices heard.

Mr. Speaker, for all of these reasons, it is with great pleasure that I acknowledge Luis Alejo. He has proven himself to be a person who works for the people of the community, and his hard work has changed Santa Cruz County for the better. He continues to educate people, and for that I acknowledge him today.

DR. G.S. AULAKH WINS INTERNATIONAL PEACE PRIZE AWARD

HON. EDOLPHUS TOWNS
OF NEW YORK

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, September 19, 2006

Mr. TOWNS. Mr. Speaker, Dr. Gurmit Singh Aulakh, the President of the Council of Khalistan, whom many of us know, has been awarded the International Peace Prize Award by Dal Khalsa USA. It was awarded for his tireless efforts in support of peace in South Asia and freedom for the Sikh nation. I would like to take this opportunity to congratulate Dr. Aulakh on this prestigious award and congratulate Dal Khalsa on selecting such a worthy honoree. Dr. Aulakh has worked for over 20 years to free the Sikh nation from oppression that has taken the lives of more than a quarter of a million Sikhs and left over 52,000 as political prisoners. He has worked with many groups on both sides of the aisle to expose this repression and free his people.

Mr. Speaker, we should help this struggle by declaring our support for a free and fair plebiscite in Khalistan, Kashmir, Nagaland, and wherever they are seeking the kind of freedom that we enjoy, and we should stop giving aid and trade to India until it stops oppressing its people.

I would like to press the release on Dr. Aulakh’s award into the RECORD.

Dr. AULAKH RECEIVES INTERNATIONAL PEACE AWARD
WASHINGTON, D.C., Sept. 12, 2006.—Dr. Gurmit Singh Aulakh, President of the Council of Khalistan, received the International Peace Award on September 11 from Dal Khalsa of America, headed by Sardar Paramjit Singh Sekhon. The award was presented at a ceremony at the Fremont Gurdwara in Fremont, California. Dr. Aulakh was nominated for this prestigious award by Dr. Awatar Singh Sekhon, Managing Editor of the International Journal of Sikh Affairs.

According to a Dal Khalsa USA press release, he was given the award “for his tireless service to preserve peace in South Asia in particular and the world in general. The release cites Dr. Aulakh for “continuing the Sikhs’ struggle to regain their lost sovereignty, independence, and political power, by peaceful means.”

The award was presented for Dr. Aulakh’s continuing efforts to internationalize the peaceful, democratic, nonviolent Sikh struggle for independence and the human rights violations against the Sikhs in India. He has been a tireless worker for the cause of Sikh freedom. Dr. Aulakh has raised awareness of the massive human-rights violations in India.

The Indian government has murdered over 250,000 Sikh infants, children, youth, women, and men. Since 1984, more than 300,000 Christians in Nagaland, over 90,000 Muslims in Kashmir, tens of thousands of Christians and Muslims throughout the country, and tens of thousands of Assamese, Bodos, Dalits, Manipuris, Tamils, and others.

Indian police arrested human-rights activist Jaswant Singh Khalra after he exposed their torture of Sikhs in辽宁省. Khalra, one of the most prominent of the hundreds of thousands of Sikhs who over 50,000 Sikhs have been arrested, tortured, and murdered, then their bodies were declared unidentified and secretly cremated. Khalra was murdered in police custody. His body was not given to his family. No one has been brought to justice for the kidnapping and murder of Jaswant Singh Khalra.

The police never released the body of former Jathedar of the Akal Takht Gurdev Singh Kaunke after SSP Swaran Singh Ghotna murdered him. He has never been tried for the Kaunke murder.

In 1994, the U.S. State Department reported that the Indian government had paid over 41,000 cash bounties for killing Sikhs. A report by the Association for a Resolution of State Repression (MADR) quotes the Punjab Civil Magistracy as writing “if we add up the figures of the last few years the murder of innocent persons killed would run into lakhs [hundreds of thousands].” The Indian Supreme Court called the Indian government’s murder of Sikhs “a moral outrage.”

The MASR report states that 52,288 Sikhs are being held as political prisoners in India without charge or trial, mostly under a repressive law known as “Terrorist and Disruptive Activities Act” (TADA), which expired in 1995. Many have been in illegal custody since 1984. There has been no list published of those who have been acquitted under TADA and those who are still rotting in Indian jails. Tens of thousands of other minorities are also being held as political prisoners, according to Amnesty International. We demand the immediate release of all these political prisoners,” said Dr. Aulakh. “Are they political prisoners in a democracy?”

Missionary Graham Staines was murdered along with his two sons, ages 8 and 10, by a mob of militant, fundamentalist Hindu nationalists who set fire to the jeep, surrounding it, and chanted “Victory to Hannuman,” a Hindu god. Missionary Joseph Cooper was beaten so badly that he had to spend a week in an Indian hospital. Then the Indian government allowed him to leave the country. None of the people involved has been tried. The persons who have murdered priests, raped nuns, and burned Christian churches have not been charged or tried. Police broke up a Christian religious festival with gunfire.

The murderers of 2,000 to 5,000 Muslims in Gujarat have never been brought to trial. An Indian newspaper reported that the police were ordered not to get involved in that massacre, a frightening parallel to the Delhi massacre of Sikhs in 1984.

“Sikhs and other minorities cannot live under Indian rule,” said Dr. Aulakh. “The conditions the government have made it clear that there is no place for Sikhs or other minorities such as Christians, Muslims, Dalits, and others in India’s Hindu theocracy,” he said. Dr. Aulakh took note of the charges filed against 35 Sikhs for making speeches and raising the Khalistani flag. “Clearly India is scared of the peaceful, democratic, nonviolent movement for freedom inside and outside Punjab, Khalistan,” he said.

History shows that multinational states such as India are doomed to fail. Countries such as Austria-Hungary, India’s longtime friend the Soviet Union, Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia, and others prove this point. India is not one country but like those countries, thrown together for the convenience of the British colonialists. It is doomed to break up as they did. Currently, there are 17 freedom movements within India’s borders. It has 18 official languages.

“Only a sovereign, independent Khalistan will end the repression and raise the standard of living of the people of Punjab,” said Dr. Gurmit Aulakh. “As Professor Darshan Singh, former Jathedar of the Akal Takht, said, ‘If a Sikh is not a Khalistani, he is not a Sikh.’” Dr. Aulakh is a great man. We must free Khalistan now.”

VALLEJO SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA’S 75TH ANNIVERSARY TRIBUTE
HON. GEORGE MILLER OF CALIFORNIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, September 19, 2006

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to invite my colleagues to join me in recognizing the Vallejo Symphony Orchestra as it celebrates its 75th season of excellence, community involvement and leadership potential. The mission of the Vallejo Symphony Orchestra, VSO, is to present performances of symphonic music of the highest possible artistic value for the citizens of Vallejo and all of Solano County; to cultivate and nurture the appreciation and enjoyment of classical music in people of all ages; and to serve and shape the musical, cultural, and educational interests of the people of Vallejo and Solano County.

The VSO engages the talents of professional and international renown so Solano County residents can enjoy them in live performance. The VSO sends its musicians to perform in public schools so children may experience and learn about live classical music.

The Vallejo Symphony, seventh oldest symphony orchestra in California, traces its roots to the early days of the Great Depression, when a small group of community leaders determined that local musicians needed a showcase for their talents and that other members of the community would be enriched by attending live performances of timeless music. On February 21, 1931, a 60-piece orchestra conducted by Julius Weyland made its debut in the auditorium of the city’s newly dedicated Veterans Memorial Building. Concerts were presented throughout the decade with Mr. Weyland and George Trombley conducting the orchestra during these formative years.

Activity lessened, then ceased during World War II until 1946, when the Vallejo Symphony was revitalized under the auspices of the Recreation Department. Dr. Orley See became its conductor at that time. In 1951, Virl M. Swan was established to support a professional orchestra in California. Mr. George Wargo began his 21-year career as music director and conductor. The sixty-some performances of the orchestra during the 1950s established, and supportive fundraising activities begun by the Symphony Association’s board of directors. During the following decade, artistic goals for the orchestra were set, and an annual Major Gifts Campaign was established to support a professional orchestra and expand the concert season.

The 1980s saw a dramatic improvement in the quality of the orchestra and programming when David Ramadanoff, a former associate conductor of the San Francisco Symphony and winner of the 1980 Leopold Stokowski Conducting Award, accepted the position of music director and conductor. Under his dynamic leadership, the Vallejo Symphony has developed into an urban orchestra of regional importance, attracting some of the finest musicians in the San Francisco Bay Area. In 1983 the VSO became completely professional. In 1993 the orchestra visited Vallejo’s sister city of Akashi, Japan. In 1997 the VSO hosted the West Coast premiere of Hannibal’s concert opera “African Portraits.” Hannibal spent the week in Vallejo public schools with students.

The Vallejo Symphony now performs a four-concert subscription season and an annual Summer Pops concert each Fourth of July. As part of its commitment to the musical education of Solano County’s children, the orchestra performs youth concerts for the elementary school children of Vallejo, and presents its popular series of intimate, entertaining and educational mini-concerts in elementary schools throughout the county.

Mr. Speaker, it is appropriate that we recognize the Vallejo Symphony Orchestra for its many contributions to the Vallejo community and wish its members many more years of outstanding performances.

REMARKS ON THE DEATH OF SHAMIL BASAYEV
VITO FOSSELLA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, September 19, 2006

Mr. FOSSELLA. Mr. Speaker, on July 10, 2006, one of the world’s greatest terrorists, Shamil Basayev was killed during a special operation by Russian Security Services. Basayev represented the radical aspect of the Chechen rebel movement. The movement began as a secular fight for independence and has become overrun by Islamic extremists. Russia claims that Basayev has become overrun by Islamic extremists.

But more than 10 years, Basayev, designated as a terrorist by the United States and the United Nations, was the mastermind behind the most horrific attacks on the Russian people. His reign of terror includes the seizure of a hospital in Budennovsk in southern Russia in 1995 that killed approximately 100. He attacked a theater in Moscow in 2002 where dozens of hostages died. And most tragically and horrific in its cowardice, he abducted a school in Beslan in 2004, where most tragically and horrifically, more than half of them were children, the orchestra performs for the elementary school children of Vallejo, and presents its popular series of intimate, entertaining and educational mini-concerts in elementary schools throughout the county.

Mr. Speaker, it is appropriate that we recognize the Vallejo Symphony Orchestra for its many contributions to the Vallejo community and wish its members many more years of outstanding performances.

Seek to establish personnel exchange programs with other federal agencies designed to enhance stabilization and reconstruction capacity.

Importantly, the bill promotes a stabilization and reconstruction curriculum and the utilization of already existing programs like the Center for Reconstruction Studies at the Naval Postgraduate School.

I urge my colleagues to cosponsor this important piece of legislation that would greatly assist in improving the capacity of our government to respond to some of the most important and pressing security threats of our time.

SIKH CONTINUE TO FIGHT FOR FREEDOM

HON. EDOLPHUS TOWNS
OF NEW YORK
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, September 19, 2006

Mr. TOWNS. Mr. Speaker, the Council of Khalistan recently published an open letter showing that the effort to liberate Khalistan from Indian occupation is closer than ever to success. It took note of the speeches and the raising of flags on the occasion of the 35th anniversary of the seminar that was given that promoted Khalistan, and numerous other activities that have moved forward the peaceful effort to liberate Khalistan.

The letter argues that Khalistan is the only issue facing the Sikhs. It cites examples of people living in tyranny who put their differences aside to oust the tyrants and urges the Sikhs to learn from those examples and do the same. It calls on the political leaders in Punjab, Khalistan, to focus their attention on the issue of liberating Khalistan from Indian occupation rather than the lesser issues that so often command their attention.

I recommend this letter highly, Mr. Speaker. It provides an excellent overview of the situation in Punjab, Khalistan.

Mr. Speaker, we must do our part to ensure freedom to the people of Khalistan and all the oppressed people of south Asia and the world. This is critical if we are proclaiming the American values of freedom, democracy, and human rights, which are cornerstones of American foreign policy. In pursuit of that goal, we should extend our aid to India and our trade relations with India until it respects the basic human rights of all people under its control, treating them fairly, equally, and with dignity. And we should actively support democracy for the people of Khalistan and all the occupied nations, such as Kashmir, Nagaland, and others. The United States, in the form of democracy and self-determination. They should have a free and fair vote on their status, the democratic way. Does India have a problem with democracy for the people it rules? If so, it is not worthy of our support.

I would like to put the Council of Khalistan's open letter into the RECORD for the information of my colleagues and the American people.

SIKH LEADERSHIP MUST UNITE TO FREE KHALISTAN

Dear Khalja Ji: As I write this letter, we are again approaching Indian Independence Day. Although it is a celebration for the uppercaste Hindus, it is a black day on the calendar for Sikhs and other minorities suffering under the boot of Indian repression. Over 32,000 of our Sikh brothers and sisters remain in illegal Indian custody as political prisoners without charge or trial. More than a quarter of a million of our Sikh brothers have been murdered by the Indian government. Similarly, affluent Christians, Muslims, and other minorities. Is this what India celebrates? Are they celebrating bloodshed, violence, brutality, and mistreatment? Is this the way it looks. How does a democracy justify that kind of celebration?

The flame of freedom continues to burn brightly in the heart of the Sikh Nation. No force can suppress it. The arrests last year and earlier this year of Sikh activists, most of them from those who are flying the Khalistani flag and making pro-Khalistan speeches shows that the movement to free our homeland is on the rise. It has gotten the attention of the world. It has been organized by former Member of Parliament Sardar Atinder Pal Singh, who has publicly asked why can't we have Khalistan, also moved the cause of freedom for Khalistan forward. We are closer to freedom than ever before, despite the ongoing repression.

Recently, a coalition of Sikh leaders led by Simranjit Singh Mann has come together to oppose both Chief Minister Amarinder Singh and Parkash Singh Badal. While it is good to see the opposition, they are also puppets of the brutal Indian regime, the small, incremental proposals that the Mann-led coalition is making do little to solve the basic problem: The real issue is Khalistan. That is why these 35 Sikhs face charges from the Indian government for raising the Khalistani flag and speaking for Khalistan, and not merely for opposition to Badal and Amarinder. As worthwhile as it may be to oppose them, it is diverting the attention of the Sikh Nation from the real issue of Khalistan. India is trying to subvert Khalistan's independence by overrunning Punjab with non-Sikhs while keeping Sikhs from escaping the brutal repression in Punjab. We must redouble our efforts to free our homeland, Punjab, Khalistan. That is the only way to keep these atrocities from continuing and to protect the Sikh Nation. This is a direct challenge to the Sikh leadership, irrespective of their party affiliation. Yet the new coalition wants to practice politics as usual, within the Indian system. How will they achieve freedom, dignity, security, or prosperity for the Sikhs of Punjab, Khalistan. They must speak out forcefully for Khalistan or their people's sacrifices will waste the Sikh Nation's time on other issues that divert our attention from liberating Khalistan. Those issues can and should be dealt with after Khalistan is free. But until then, no other issue matters to the future of the Khalistan Panth.

Other nations that have faced repression have taught us the lesson that these politicians need to learn. When Nicaragua suffered under a repressive government in the 1980s, the opposition forces put aside their differences and worked together to free the people from the repression of the Ortega regime. A similar thing is happening in other countries around the world today. They know that those differences, as important as they may be, are for a later day. First, they must secure freedom.

Any organization that sincerely supports Khalistan deserves the support of the Sikh Nation. However, the Sikh Nation needs leadership that is honest, sincere, consistent, able to live in freedom, peace, prosperity, and dignity. It is time to start a Shantma Morcha to liberate Khalistan from Indian occupation.

Never forget that the Akal Takht Sahib and Darbar Sahib are under the control of the Indian government, the same Indian government that has murdered over a quarter of a million Sikhs in the past twenty years. These institutions will remain under the control of the Indian regime until we free the Sikh homeland, Punjab, Khalistan, from Indian occupation and oppression and sever our relations with the New Delhi government.

The Sikhs in Punjab have suffered enormous destruction at the hands of the Indian government. Another 52,000 are being held as political prisoners. Some have been in illegal custody since 1984! Even now, the capital of Punjab, Chandigarh, has not been returned over to Khalistan. It remains in illegal Indian control—a Union Territory. How can Sikhs have any freedom living under a government that would do these things?

Sikhs will never get any justice from Delhi. Ever since India has misinterpreted the Sikh Nation, starting with Patel's memo labelling Sikh 'a criminal tribe.' What a shame for Home Minister Patel of the Indian government to issue this memorandum when the Sikh Nation gave over 80 percent of the sacrifices to free India.

How can Sikhs continue to live in such a country? There is no place for Sikhs in supposedly secular, supposedly democratic India. Let us work to make certain that 2006 is the Sikh Nation's most blessed year by making sure it is the year that we shake ourselves loose from the yoke of Indian oppression and liberate our homeland, Khalistan.

TRIBUTE TO BERNICE KING-HILL

HON. GEORGE MILLER
OF CALIFORNIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, September 19, 2006

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Speaker, it was with deep sadness that I learned of the passing of Mrs. Bernice King-Hill on July 18, 2006. For more than 30 years Bernice “Bea” King-Hill faithfully served the community of her church and the city of Richmond, California. For her church group, Mrs. Hill was a social worker and teacher of great passion and dedication. Throughout her many years of service to the people of our district, Mrs. Hill maintained her direction and independence. She was hardworking with a unique honesty and heart yet she was never afraid to challenge those who sought to exploit her or her effort. She believed in self-responsibility and forgiveness and she not only built her work on these values, but also inspired them in others. Her goddaughters Leona Sims and Nola Pyle are fine examples of her commitment and integrity. Her home will be the Senior Extension Center to continue her legacy.

To Bernice Hill’s family and friends, I extend my heartfelt condolences. Their loss is shared not only by those who knew Mrs. Hill but also by all those who have been touched by the work she has done. We will be forever grateful for the courage, integrity and commitment with which she sought to make our community, and our country, a better place for all of us. We are so grateful to Mrs. Hill’s family and church for sharing her with us for so many years.

REMARKS ON CONDEMNING THE ACTIONS OF THE LIBERATION TIGERS OF TAMIL EELAM (LTTE)

HON. VITO FOSSELLA
OF NEW YORK
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, September 19, 2006

Mr. FOSSELLA. Mr. Speaker, on June 26, 2006, a homicide bomber drove his explosive laden motorcycle into a car carrying Major General Parami Kulatunga, the Deputy Chief of Staff of the Sri Lanka Army, killing him instantly. While they deny responsibility, this act mirrors many terrorist attacks carried out by the Liberation Tigers of Tamil Eelam (LTTE).

This is another unfortunate event in the constant struggle between the Government of Sri Lanka and the LTTE. Sri Lanka and the United States share a good friendship, with Sri Lanka as Asia’s oldest democracy. While on the other hand, the LTTE is a group that the Secretary of State has designated as a Foreign Terrorist Organization.

One possible step in mitigating this violence is for the Government of Sri Lanka and the Tamil Tigers to renegotiate a cease-fire agreement. This must be done in a successful manner and with the LTTE’s refusal to renounce violence, this peace process is constantly in jeopardy. Tragically, the number of violent acts the LTTE has committed since the peace agreement with Government of Sri Lanka has only increased.

While it has been the United State’s policy to encourage peace through negotiation, if the violence continues, the State Department should consider taking more aggressive steps in aiding the Government of Sri Lanka’s fight against the LTTE. It is in the interest of the United States to ensure that the LTTE renounces violence, primarily so all Sri Lankans can live in peace, but also so the LTTE’s reign of terror does not spread. Reports have indicated that the LTTE has ties with al Qaeda. Furthermore, the LTTE has at least a dozen oceangoing vessels with which they have honed waterborne terrorist tactics not unlike what occurred with the USS Cole bombing.

The Government of Sri Lanka is a friend to the United States, and I stand by the commitment to ensure that friendship lasts well into the future.

DAL KHALSA USA HOLDS SEMINAR ON KHALISTAN

HON. EDOLPHUS TOWNS
OF NEW YORK
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, September 19, 2006

Mr. TOWNS. Mr. Speaker, recently, Dal Khalsa USA held a seminar in support of Khalistan, the Sikh homeland. It was a significant demonstration of the continuing support that the Sikh people have for freedom for their homeland. Paramjit Singh Sekhon and Gagandeep Singh, who lead Dal Khalsa USA and organized the seminar, are to be congratulated. Speakers included Dr. Gurmit Singh Aulakh, Dr. Awatar Singh Sekhon, Dr. Ajit Pal Singh Sandhu, and Dr. Arjinder Singh Sekhon.

Freedom is a dream that people all over the world share and we should be encouraging it, Mr. Speaker. Both here and in Punjab, support for Khalistan is on the rise and getting more visible.

As the beacon of liberty in the world, it is our duty to encourage people who are reaching for freedom. The essence of democracy is the right to self-determination. But in India, all elections do for minorities is to change the faces of the oppressors. The time has come to go on record in support of a democratic vote on freedom for Khalistan, Kashmir, Nagaland, and all the minority nations of South Asia. And we should stop our aid to India and our trade until human rights are respected.

Mr. Speaker, the Council of Khalistan issued a press release on the seminar. I would like to add it to the Record:

DAL KHALSA USA HOLDS SEMINAR ON KHALISTAN

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Dal Khalsa USA held a seminar on Khalistan in Fremont, California from August 25 to August 27. The seminar focused on the need to liberate Khalistan, the Sikh homeland, from Indian occupation. Khalistan is the Sikh homeland that domestic terrorist groups have not been able to take over. Police broke up a Christian religious festival with gunfire. Recently, militant Hindus from the Bhabral Janata Yuva (a youth movement affiliated with the BJP and the Fascist RSS) attacked the Christian festival of Loreto and the school there. 13 Catholic schools remain closed and a spokesman for the BJP, Mr. H. Dikhshit, demanded an investigation of the school.

The murderers of 2,000 to 5,000 Muslims in Gujarat have never been brought to trial. An Indian newspaper reported that the police were given funds to cover up the massacre, a frightening parallel to the Delhi massacre of Sikhs In 1984. The most important mosque in India, the Sabri Mosque, was destroyed by militant Hindu fundamentalists who have never been held responsible for their actions.

“I am honored to be a speaker at this seminar and very pleased that Dal Khalsa USA is holding these activities to focus the attention of America and the world on the plight of the Sikhs in Punjab, Khalistan and the need for a sovereign, independent Khalistan,” said Dr. Aulakh.

History shows that multinational states such as India are doomed to failure. Countries like Austria-Hungary, India’s longtime friend the Soviet Union, Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia, and others prove this point. India is not one country; it is a polyglot like those countries, thrown together for the convenience of the British colonialists. It is doomed to break up as they did. Currently, there are 17 freedom movements within India’s borders. It has 18 official languages. We hope that India’s breakup will be peaceful like Czechoslovakia’s, not violent like Yugoslavia’s,” Dr. Aulakh said.

Dr. Aulakh stressed his commitment to the peaceful, democratic, nonviolent struggle to liberate Khalistan. “The only way that the repression will stop and Sikhs will live in freedom, dignity and prosperity is to liberate Khalistan,” said Dr. Aulakh. “As Professor Darshan Singh, former Jathedar of the Akal Takht, said, ‘If a Sikh is not a Sikh, he is not a Khalistani.’” Dr. Aulakh said.

EXPRESSING SOLIDARITY WITH THE INDIAN PEOPLE IN THE WAKE OF THE MUMBAI TERRORIST BOMBINGS

HON. VITO FOSSELLA
OF NEW YORK
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, September 19, 2006

Mr. FOSSELLA. Mr. Speaker, on July 11, 2006, terrorist bombs were detonated throughout the train network in India’s cultural capital, the city of Mumbai. More than 180 people were killed, and over 900 were injured. The bombs exploded simultaneously during the evening rush hour resulting in an entire shut down of the rail network which stranded hundreds of thousands of commuters. The terrorists may have hit a target with high practical and psychological impact, but I am confident that the people of India will again stand tall and not relent to such senseless and unfathomable violence.

Following the attacks, Indian Prime Minister Manmohan Singh described the incidents as a “shocking and cowardly attempt to spread a feeling of hatred.” Even Pakistani leaders condemned the blasts as a “despicable act of terrorism.”
The tragedy continued even after the bombing, with an eyewitness reporting that some of the dazed survivors who had jumped from the train after the blast were run over by another train coming in the opposite direction.

Undoubtedly, the hospitals in Mumbai were swamped with casualties.

Many parallels can be drawn between Mumbai and New York City. Mumbai is home to 17 million people, and is headquarters to many big Indian companies and foreign multinationals. Severe terror threats are very expensive in the world. Both Mumbai and New York have been attacked more than once by terrorists. In 1993 New York saw the first bombing of the World Trade Center, and in the same year 250 people were killed in Mumbai from bombings throughout the city.

Mr. Speaker, in closing I would like to re-mind the people of India, as partners in a civilized world, America will not stand for senseless terrorism and together we can fight this evil until it no longer impedes the advancement of society.

PROVIDING FOR EARMARKING REFORM IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

SPEECH OF
HON. DAVID DREIER
OF CALIFORNIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, September 14, 2006

Mr. DREIER. Mr. Speaker, today we are considering H. Res. 1003, a rule providing that, upon its adoption, H. Res. 1000, providing for earmaking reform in the House of Representatives is hereby adopted.

Mr. Speaker, today we are considering an important reform that members of both parties have supported. In fact, it was a key provision in the House-passed Lobbying Accountability and Transparency Act. Specifically, with this new rule, member-directed spending to projects in their district, or earmarks, will no longer be anonymous.

As it stands now, there are no disclosure requirements for earmarks in appropriations, tax and authorizing legislation. Earmarks can be buried in the text of bills that often number into the thousands of pages. There is no easy way to account for how many earmarks are in a bill and who is sponsoring them.

This new rule requires sponsors of earmarks to be listed in committee reports. Conference reports must also have a list of earmarks that are “airdropped” into the agreement.

We are blowing away the fog of anonymity so the public can have a clear picture of what the projects are, how much they cost and who is sponsoring them. This is a victory for fiscal responsibility and a victory for spending taxpayer dollars wisely.

As an enforcement mechanism, this new rule also provides for a question of consideration when a bill or conference report does not contain a list of earmarks. The question of consideration is debatable for 30 minutes—15 minutes equally divided.

If a Member feels strongly enough about a proposed earmark, they will have to attach their name to it. And they need to be prepared to make their case in full view of their colleagues and constituents.

Mr. Speaker, while the report to accompany H. Res. 1000 addressed several issues regarding the implementation of this new rule, I believe that it is important to further clarify how this rule will operate after its adoption.

First, this rule will become effective immediately upon its adoption. Any report filed by a committee from that point forward should address this new rule. If there are earmarks in the bill or report, they should be listed appropriately; if there are none, I would encourage the committee chairman to include a statement to that effect, as is often the current practice with other reporting requirements under rule XIII.

Secondly, with regard to measures in conference, we recognize that the exact requirements of the resolution may be problematic given that this rule was not in place at the point of House consideration. We believe that it is important that committee chairmen make a good faith effort to comply with the spirit of the rule, and we would regard inclusion of a list of earmarks which were not in either the House or Senate bill or their accompanying reports, i.e. “airdropped” earmarks, as meeting the intent of this new rule.

Mr. Speaker, the earmark reform will build on the reforms already being implemented by the Appropriations Committee—reforms that have reduced the number of earmarks this year by 37 percent. Overall, spending on member projects was reduced $7.8 billion below last year. Over the last 2 years, Member project spending has decreased by over $10 billion.

I want to thank Chairman LEWIS and the Appropriations Committee for making significant progress in reining-in government spending. I also want to reiterate that our focus is not solely on appropriations. For the reform to be effective, it must be comprehensive, and that was the commitment made by Speaker HASTERT and the leadership of the House. So let me point out that this earmark reform applies across the board. It does not just apply to appropriations all committees and all appropriations, tax and authorizing legislation that moves through regular order.

Mr. Speaker, we have taken great care to clearly and precisely state what constitutes a tax, an appropriations and an authorizing earmark. And the good news is that there is more agreement than disagreement on these definitions. Yet clearly, there’s no magic bullet. There is not going to be one definition that will be perfect and pleasing to everyone. But at the end of the day, we have to come together and move this process forward. If there’s an earmark in a bill, it belongs on a list. It’s just that simple.

Now, is this new disclosure going to completely end the practice of earmarking? No. But it will shine a spotlight on earmarks without grinding the legislative process to a halt.

And let me make very clear that the larger goal of this new rule is to make a profound and lasting change in how this institution handles earmarks and spends taxpayer dollars. The goal is to increase transparency and accountability. And the goal is to pull back the curtain on earmarks for the public, who have every right to know.

For this earmark reform to be both meaningful and lasting, everyone, from committee chairman down, must make a good faith effort to comply with the spirit of the new rule. Our leadership—and certainly the Rules Committee—has made such a commitment. We are determined to make this work.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to point out that while this is an important milestone on the path toward reform, we have not reached the goal-line. Reform is a continuous process. It gains momentum from members who never let up and never settle for the status quo. I urge my colleagues to vote yes for reforming earmarks and yes to setting the stage for more reforms down the road.

Command Sergeant Major (CSM) James H. Cheney entered the United States Army on September 8, 1976, at Fort Leonard Wood, Missouri, with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers. Since joining the U.S. Army, CSM Cheney has completed tours of duty at Fort Leonard Wood, Missouri (on five occasions); Fort Rucker, Alabama; Camp Indian, Korea; Fort Lewis, Washington; Schofield Barracks, Hawaii; Fort Bragg, North Carolina; and Vilseck, Germany. Throughout his military career, CSM Cheney has served the White House Communications Agency where he was the NCOIC of the fabrications department and the Office of the Chief of Engineers at the Pentagon where he fulfilled the responsibilities as the Office of the Chief of Engineer Sergeant Major.

Additionally, CSM Cheney has been recognized for his service to the United States Army having held every Noncommissioned Officer leadership position culminating as the United States Army Garrison, Fort Leonard Wood, Missouri, Garrison Command Sergeant Major.

Highly respected within the Army leadership, CSM Cheney has been awarded the Global War on Terrorism Service Medal, the Armed Forces Service Medal, the National Defense Service Medal, and the Good Conduct Medal. CSM Cheney has also received the Drill Sergeant Badge, the Jungle Expert Badge, the Army Staff Badge, and the Presidential Service Badge. The aforementioned awards and decorations are just a few of the many that CSM Cheney has been given.

Mr. Speaker, it is an honor for me to pay tribute to Command Sergeant Major James H. Cheney. I know my colleagues join me in thanking him for his service to his country and in wishing him well as he concludes his tour of duty with the United States Army.

CELEBRATING THE 125TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE SOUTHAMPTON FIRE DEPARTMENT

HON. TIMOTHY H. BISHOP
OF NEW YORK
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, September 19, 2006

Mr. BISHOP of New York. Mr. Speaker, I am delighted to rise in honor of a proud and long-serving institution of my district—on the occasion of the 125th anniversary of Southampton Fire Department’s creation last Saturday, September 9th. I was honored to participate in this celebration, which included a parade of fire trucks and culminated with the anniversary gala at the Hampton Road Firehouse.

I am privileged to represent the Village of Southampton, New York. A common thread runs through the town’s rich history—an all-volunteer force that has served and responded bravely since the first firefighters in Southampton consisted of bucket brigades whose fire alarms were sounded by the village blacksmith hanging on his rim.

The first company that constitutes today’s fire department was the Agawam Engine Company. Founded in 1881, it was widely known for the 415-pound bell used to alert the firefighters and the handpumping hose cart they used to extinguish fires. Like many Long Island families who can proudly claim that generations served as the department, one of my ancestors, James H. Bishop, was a founding member of Agawam Company, and my great grandfather, Benjamin Bishop, later served as its chief between 1893 and 1897.

Since that time, more dangerous fires started by complex fuels and as a result of eastern Long Island’s booming population have intensified the demands on the 143 current members of the Agawam Engine, Agawam Hose, Southampton Hook and Ladder, Southampton Volunteer Fire Patrol, and Southampton Hose Companies. Still, they remain an all-volunteer and highly skilled force whose frequent feats of heroism and selfless dedication remind us of the firefighters who gave their lives at the World Trade Center as we observed the solemn occasion of the tenth anniversary of the September 11th attacks.

Mr. Speaker, I encourage my colleagues to join me in thanking those firefighters who continue to protect our families and communities, and extend our deepest gratitude to volunteers, like those intrepid men and women of the Southampton Fire Department, who risk their lives each day to keep us safe.

HONORING GUNNERY SGT. HAWLEY WALDRON

HON. JOHN E. SWEENEY
OF NEW YORK
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, September 19, 2006

Mr. SWEENEY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to take this opportunity to honor one of our Nation’s true heroes, Gunnery Sgt. Hawley Waldron. A decorated and distinguished serviceman, Gunnery Sergeant Hawley Waldron was an inspiration to the men he fought with in the First World War, though not even those closest to him truly understood the extent of his valor. He was a resident of Saratoga County and I am honored to have many members of the Waldron family who take great pride in Hawley’s accomplishments.

Hawley led a selfless life, never speaking of the numerous accolades he received during the war, leaving his family to discover these achievements only after his passing in 1961. Gunnery Sgt. Waldron received several awards and medals during his service including the silver star along with two gold stars signifying three separate awards for valor. He also received two Croix de Guerre decorations given by the government of France for his service. He was decorated following the battle of Belleau Wood, in which he helped the Allied forces turn back the German army advancing on Paris and in doing so paved the way for Germany’s ultimate defeat.

America’s armed service men and women are held in the highest regard in this Nation and Hawley Waldron was one of our greatest. It is with great joy and respect that I commend the late Gunnery Sgt. Waldron for his accomplishments and the many distinguished honors received over his 2 years of service in World War I. Our country is truly safer and honored to have had someone of the character, caliber, and courage of Gunnery Sgt. Hawley Waldron. I would like to offer the deepest gratitude on behalf of myself, the United States House of Representatives and all Americans for his dedication to our country.

Tuesday, September 19, 2006

Mr. KUCINICH. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in recognition of the Honorable Dr. Oleh Shamshur, Ukraine’s Ambassador to the United States and extend a warm welcome to him as he visits Cleveland, Ohio to celebrate the Fifteenth Anniversary of Ukraine’s Proclamation of Independence.

For nearly 80 years, the United Ukrainian Organizations of Greater Cleveland have served as a vital coalition of historical and cultural significance, aimed at preserving and promoting all aspects of Ukrainian culture. Additionally, this organization was instrumental in the creation of the United Ukrainian Organizations of Greater Cleveland.
Mr. Speaker and Colleagues, please join me in honor and welcome of Dr. Oleh Shamshur, Ukraine’s Ambassador to the United States, along with leaders and members of the present, of the United Ukrainian Organizations of Greater Cleveland. Their vigilant determination to raise awareness of their struggle for liberty serves as a monument to all who have traveled to America seeking freedom and opportunity and reflects the vibrant fabric of diversity of our Cleveland community and our entire nation.

CONVENT ATTACKED IN INDIA

HON. EDOLPHUS TOWNS
OF NEW YORK
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, September 19, 2006

Mr. TOWNS. Mr. Speaker, on September 11, while we were observing the anniversary of a horrible terrorist attack on America, 13 Catholic schools were closed in Lucknow, India, after the Convent of Loreto, the school there, and the chapel were attacked by the violent Hindu organization the Bharatiya Janata Yuva, a youth arm of the BJP, which is part of the RSS, a Fascist organization that published a book on how to get minorities, including Christians, falsely implicated in criminal cases.

The spokesman for the BJP demanded a high-level inquiry into the school, according to the Tribune newspaper of Chandigarh, saying it engaged in “irrational behavior.” Apparently, being a Catholic is irrational behavior and “unscientific activity” in the world of Hindu militants.

Unfortunately, Mr. Speaker, this is not an isolated incident. There has been a wave of attacks against Christians. According to an article that appeared in the Journal of the London Institute of South Asia, some Christian boys were shot while praying. A mob of Hindus burned a missionary, Graham Staines, and his two sons (ages 8 and 10) to death. The others who seek their freedom.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to put the Council of Khalistan’s press release on the Loreto attack in the RECORD.

CONVENT ATTACKED IN INDIA

CATHOLIC SCHOOLS IN LUCKNOW CLOSED AFTER ATTACK ON CONVENT BY MILITANT HINDUS
WASHINGTON, D.C.—Thirteen Catholic schools were closed today to protest vandalism on the premises of the Loreto Convent, the seat of the Sikh religion, the Golden Temple in Amritsar, which has been called the Sikh equivalent of the Vatican, was attacked in June 1984. Hundreds of people were brutally murdered there, and more than 20,000 were killed in the month of June 1984. More than 50,000 bikes and motorcycles were burned in India. They have murdered human-rights activists for exposing their secret cremations, murdered religious leaders, murdered toddlers, and paid out more than 41,000 cash bounties to police officers who killed Sikhs.

The other thing that would like to point out is Dr. Gurmit Singh Aulakh of the Council of Khalistan for bringing the Loreto attack to my attention.

Mr. Speaker, we are at war right now with Fascists using the cover of Islam. Many of us have criticisms of the war policies, but the recent anniversary of September 11 reminds us that we cannot let terrorists carry out their awful deeds with no consequences. So why do we refuse even to raise our voices against Fascists who use the cover of the Hindu religion and oppress and kill Christians, Muslims, Sikhs, and others? At the very least, Mr. Speaker, we should be willing to stop trading with India and cut off our aid, and we should stand for the principles that America represents by seeking a democratic solution to the repression in the form of a free and fair election in Nagaland, and predominantly Sikh Khalistan, Kashmir, and the others who seek their freedom.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to put the Council of Khalistan’s press release on the Loreto attack in the RECORD.

The attack on the Loreto Convent shows that Christians have been going on heavily since Christmas 1988, which is in line with similar tyranny against other minorities. Missionary Graham Staines was murdered along with his two sons, ages 8 and 10, by a mob of militant, fundamentalist Hindu nationalists who set fire to the jeep, surrounded it, and chanted “Victory to Hanuman.” Mr. Bole So Nihal, which overreacting to breaking a few flower pots.

is not one country; It is a polyglot like those countries, thrown together for the convenience of the British colonialists. It is doomed to break up as they did. Currently, there are 17 freedom movements within India’s borders. It has 18 official languages. “The only way that the repression of Sikhs, Christians, Muslims, and other minorities will end is to liberate them, such as Jallianwalla Bagh in Nagaland, Kashmir, and the rest,” said Dr. Aulakh. “As Professor Darshan Singh, former Jathedar of the Akal Takht, said, ‘If a Sikh is not a Khalistani, he is not a Sikh.’” Dr. Aulakh said. “We must free Khalistan now.”

IN MEMORY OF ESTHER MARTINEZ
HON. TOM UDALL OF NEW MEXICO
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, September 19, 2006

Mr. UDALL of New Mexico. Mr. Speaker, I rise today with a heavy heart today to honor the memory of a very special New Mexican, Esther Martinez.

Esther Martinez is renowned for her work as an educator, author, and master storyteller. But it is her life story that is very unique.

Born in 1912, her grandson Matthew notes that Esther introduced herself by saying she was born the same year New Mexico became a State and the Titanic sank. As a young girl, she traveled by covered wagon with her grandparents from her home in the Ute Country of Colorado to what was then known as San Juan Pueblo, now Okay Owinge.

After arriving at Okay Owinge, Esther was sent to the Santa Fe Indian Boarding School, as a part of the Federal Government’s efforts to assimilate Native Americans into mainstream society. There she was scolded and often punished for speaking Tewa, her native tongue. As a lonely young girl, Esther longed to hear the voices and stories of her grandparents.

Story telling in her native Tewa language would be Esther’s greatest legacy. She dedicated herself to maintaining and preserving the various forms of the Tewa language. Among her Pueblo people Esther or Aunt Esther, as many called her, is best known for her storytelling, but also recognized for her linguistic and educational contributions.

Esther taught Tewa at the San Juan Day School and for more than 20 years served as the school’s director of bilingual education.

She also published her stories and used them as learning tools in the classroom. As a master of the Tewa language, she compiled Tewa dictionaries in various dialects for the northern New Mexico Pueblos and also translated the New Testament into Tewa.

Last Thursday, Esther was in Washington, DC, where I had the privilege of helping present her with the Nation’s highest honor for folk and traditional artists. At the age of 94, Esther was named a 2006 National Heritage Fellow by the National Endowment for the Arts. With members of her family in the audience, Esther rose to be honored and received a standing ovation for her life’s work preserving her native Tewa language and traditions.

Tragically, while making her way back home from the airport Saturday evening, Esther was killed in a traffic accident. Two of her daughters traveling with her suffered injuries but survived the crash.

Our hearts weigh heavy with the news of Esther’s tragic passing but her legacy will forever live in the contributions she made to our Nation as an educator, linguist, and master storyteller. Her greatest role, however, was as a mother of 10 and grandmother who was loved by many. Our deepest sympathies are with them today.

MEMORIAL TRIBUTE TO TOM VELOZ
HON. HOWARD P. “BUCK” McKEON
OF CALIFORNIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, September 19, 2006

Mr. McKEON. Mr. Speaker, I rise in sadness today to honor the memory of my friend, Thomas Michael Veloz. A caring and charitable man who was a monumental presence in Santa Clarita, CA, Tom passed away on September 13, 2006, at the age of 69.

Born in New York in 1937, Tom moved to California with his family in the 1950’s. He attended the University of Southern California where he discovered his love of business leadership and finance and education in 1960. After graduating, Tom worked in his father’s business, Aquafine Corporation. Eventually assuming the role of president, Tom made the company an international success and then began another thriving business, Ultra Violet Devices, Inc. He was well regarded by his peers who held him in high esteem for his leadership, honesty and integrity. Extremely astute and innovative, Tom helped define many of his industry’s current manufacturing standards.

Success in business afforded Tom the opportunity to be a generous philanthropist and he was honored several times for his efforts. Tom was a major benefactor to Henry Mayo Newhall Memorial Hospital, College of the Canyons and many other local nonprofit organizations, including local chapters of the United Way, Salvation Army, and the American Diabetes Association. But helping kids became his passion and he was a driving force behind the Santa Clarita Valley Boys and Girls Club. Tom was also very instrumental in opening the Sheila R. Veloz Breast Imaging Center at Henry Mayo Newhall Memorial Hospital in memory of his second wife, Sheila, and he actively participated on the center’s board.

With his contagious sense of fun and enthusiastic love of life, Tom had a genuine affection for kids who were a funny man with a constant smile and a twinkle in his eye, and he made many friends, some of whom became targets of his renowned practical jokes. Always the doting grandfather, Tom enjoyed semi-retirement because it gave him the opportunity to spend more time with his beloved grandchildren.

Although Tom will be remembered as a visionary community leader who generously helped others, his lasting legacy rests in his family. He is survived by his wife, Janet, sons, David and Peter, his first wife, Roberta, brothers, Robert and his identical twin, Frank, as well as stepdaughters, Sheryl Regan and Janine Jones, and 10 grandchildren. His second wife, Sheila, preceded him in death.

Tom’s life personifies Cicero’s statement that the memory of a well-spent life never dies. Tom Veloz made a positive and profound difference in the Santa Clarita Valley. He will be remembered as a kind man with a giving heart; one who always strived to make his world a better place.

HBCU WEEK
SPEECH OF
HON. CORRINE BROWN OF FLORIDA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, September 14, 2006

Ms. CORRINE BROWN of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I rise to speak in strong support of the outstanding contributions that our nation’s Historically Black Colleges and Universities have given us over the years.

There are four HBCU’s in the state of Florida: Florida Memorial in Miami, Florida Agricultural and Mechanical University (FAMU) in Tallahassee, my alma mater, and Edward College in my district in Jacksonville, and Bethune-Cookman, a great institution in Daytona Beach, a school I work very closely with.

The importance and outstanding work HBCU’s do around the country is most noteworthy. In addition to educating African American students nationwide, they provide resources for our communities, such as mentoring and tutoring programs for our youth.

Around the country, HBCU’s enroll 14 percent of all African American students in higher education, even though they make up just 3 percent of our nation’s 4,000 institutions of higher education. HBCU’s have awarded master’s degrees and first-professional degrees to about 1 in 6 African American men and women, and awarded 24 percent of all baccalaureate degrees earned by African Americans nationwide.

I would also like to add that my Alma Mater, Florida A&M University, currently tops the list for black students and was recognized in this month’s edition of Black Enterprise Magazine for being the #1 university in the country for black students. It is also the #1 producer of blacks earning bachelors degrees in the United States.

FAMU alone has produced many of society’s leaders in various fields, including myself, ALCIE HASTINGS, KENDRICK MEEK, other Members of Congress past and present, the current mayor of Detroit, Kwame Kilpatrick, tennis great Althea Gibson, and football legend Bullet Bob Hayes. Most recently, FAMU has produced young leaders such as Mr. Andrew Gillum, the youngest City Councilman ever to be elected in Tallahassee, Florida, Miss Black Universe 2006, Ms. Kimberlee Borland, and an emerging leader on my staff, Mr. Joseph Bastian.

As you can see, Historically Black Colleges and Universities are a staple in our community and are vital to the success of the students striving to achieve the American dream. These colleges and universities are preparing a new generation of leaders, business people, teachers, entrepreneurs and change agents. I urge your continued support of these historic institutions as we recognize them and spotlight their achievements.

Mr. Peretti has served on the State of Washington Property and Casualty Advisory Committee. He was named Agent of the Year by PIA of Washington/Alaska in 1995, received the Hartford/Jonathan Trumbull Council’s Chairman’s Award. Mr. Peretti was also honored by the Insurance Fire Marauder Society of the Pacific Northwest with its Presidential Award, and is the recipient of a public relations award from the Insurance Women of South King County.

Active in his community, Mr. Peretti is the owner of the Hub Insurance Agency of Renton, Washington. A lifelong member of the Renton Lions Club, he is also a member of the Renton Chamber of Commerce, serving 6 years as a member of its board of directors, and has been a member of the Renton Arts Commission and the Renton Ethics Board.

As a professional insurance agent, Mr. Peretti’s dedication to the highest standards of his profession has earned him the respect of his friends, associates, business colleagues and of the insurance industry as a whole.

Mr. Speaker, I appreciate the opportunity to rise today to recognize the good work that Ray L. Peretti has done throughout his career as a member of the insurance community, and to again congratulate him on the completion of his term as the president of the National Association of Professional Insurance Agents.

TRIBUTE TO M. KRISHNAN AND M. MURALI

HON. FRANK PALLONE, JR.
OF NEW JERSEY
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, September 19, 2006

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I wish to formally congratulate M. Krishnan and M. Murali for earning the title of Best Businesspersons of the Year and for their receipt of the Fetna Award of Excellence for 2006. This recognition is the culmination of the contributions that these two brothers have made in the Indian and larger communities.

The two businessmen established Sri Krishna Sweets as the premier purveyor of finest sweets in India. While maintaining uncompromising principles and ethical values, they have applied the highest standards of excellence in areas ranging from purchase to fresh delivery of products to creating a new generation of satisfied customers all of the time.

Outside of the business world, they have been well known in their local community for the initiation of community service projects in India, most notably among them being posting of life guards in Chennai beaches, restoration of water bodies, preservation and promotion of art and culture and addressing environmental issues. As an advocate for environmental consciousness and a big admirer of Indian art and culture, I applaud their commitment. Their corporate social responsibility is worthy of emulation by Indian and American companies.

Sri Krishna Sweets began as a single store in 1948 and has become the leading retailer of specialty sweets in India with over 54 branches across the country. As Sri Krishna Sweets plans to expand its enterprise to the United States, the company will foster a stronger relationship and bring about a better understanding and cooperation between the U.S. and India.

I look forward to seeing Sri Krishna Sweets outlets opening in the U.S. Again, I commend Krishnan and Murali for their notable efforts.

TRIBUTE TO RABBI MOSHE AND LOIS ROTHBLUM

HON. HOWARD L. BERMAN
OF CALIFORNIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, September 19, 2006

Mr. BERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to Rabbi Moshe and Lois Rothblum who have been involved in the Adat Ari El synagogue community for 35 years. Rabbi Rothblum is celebrating his retirement, and Lois Rothblum is receiving the Adat Ari El Humanitarian Award.

Rabbi Rothblum has long been a part of the Los Angeles community. He attended Fairfax High School and Los Angeles Hebrew High School, and graduated from UCLA. His parents instilled in him a love of music and musical theatre, evident in his role as a counselor and music specialist at Camp Ramah. He went on to direct musical theater at Adat Ari El during his tenure as Rabbi, and his musical compositions for Shabbat and other occasions are still sung in synagogues all over the world. After his retirement, he will continue to stay involved in youth musical theater.

Moshe’s love of music is only one of many amazing facets of his personality that he has showcased as Rabbi. He has been an eloquent advocate for Israel in the Jewish community and the larger southern California community. He is a quiet champion of social justice. He met with the late Cesar Chavez to discuss the plight of migrant farm workers. He broke precedent with the Conservative Jewish movement when, in 1985, he appointed Rabbi Leslie Alexander, the first woman to serve a large Conservative congregation. Rabbi Rothblum also met the late Pops John Paul II during his time as president of the Southern California B’nai B’rith. He is a renowned spiritual leader who has touched many lives.

Lois Rothblum is receiving the Adat Ari El Humanitarian Award. She attended New York University and Columbia University Teachers College. Lois was a religious school teacher for nine years, and her passion and dedication caused her to become a leading Jewish educator. She currently serves as director of teacher education at the Fingerhut School of Education, University of Judaism.

Rabbi Moshe and Lois Rothblum have made lasting impressions on the Adat Ari El community, as well as the larger Los Angeles community. I am proud to call them friends and proud to be a member of their congregation. I ask my colleagues to join me in saluting Moshe and Lois for all that they have achieved.

THANKING PUBLIC-SPRITED EMPLOYEES AT GEOEYE IN COLORADO

HON. MARK UDALL
OF COLORADO
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, September 19, 2006

Mr. UDALL of Colorado. Mr. Speaker, I want to acknowledge the assistance of several public spirited individuals working at GeoEye, the world’s largest commercial satellite imagery company.

GeoEye, which acquired another company, Space Imaging, earlier this year, now operates a constellation of three Earth imaging satellites—Orb View-2, Orb View-3 and Ikonos—that contribute to an international network of more than a dozen regional ground stations, an image archive, and advanced geospatial imagery processing capabilities that are among the best in the world.

GeoEye has a strong presence in Colorado’s 2nd Congressional District and recently demonstrated the value of their corporate presence in our state.

Last month, the Boulder County Sheriff and others responded to a report that a young Marine was missing after a fall in Eldorado Canyon State Park. This search effort involved hundreds of volunteers and a significant number of law enforcement officials, and of course, the missing Marine’s parents were deeply concerned about their son’s disappearance, and conventional search methods were proving to be ineffective.

As the search was underway, my office was asked to contact GeoEye to see if they might be able to provide imaging data that could be used to find him.

Within moments of my request, GeoEye was offering up satellite imaging of the Eldorado Springs area and other forms of assistance to the Boulder County Sheriff’s Department and to the Marine’s family. No questions asked. No request for payment in return for services rendered; just a neighborly helping hand.

I want to express my deep public appreciation for the employees at GeoEye, who were quick to offer the company’s assistance and who demonstrated a true sense of community spirit in a difficult situation.

While the law says “corporations” are also “persons,” I think it is noteworthy when a company responds to a crisis in the way ordinary citizens do. After all, companies are organized—and properly so—for financial profit and economic benefit. We don’t expect corporations, particularly large ones, to exhibit the very human qualities that neighbors or friends do. And that is why I want to commend GeoEye and thank the company for their quick response and their offer to help.

I want to particularly thank Mr. Matt O’Connell, the CEO of GeoEye, Mr. Mark Bender, the Vice President for Comms/Marketing at GeoEye, and to Kim Goff, Kerri Rose and Val Webb. They generously gave of their time and expertise to help the community. Ms. Webb called my District Office to follow up on the case several times to offer additional assistance. That kind of personal effort certainly impressed me and my staff.

Please join me in commending these individuals and thanking them for their public-spiritedness. They remind us that with the right leadership, corporations are not necessarily abstract institutions lacking the qualities we look for in good friends and neighbors, but are, at their best, integral parts of the community at-large.

CELEBRATING THE 60TH ANNIVERSARY OF FRENCH HOSPITAL MEDICAL CENTER

HON. LOIS CAPPS
OF CALIFORNIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, September 19, 2006

Mrs. CAPPS, Mr. Speaker, today I rise to pay tribute to French Hospital Medical Center and acknowledge their 60 years of providing quality healthcare to our community.

Founded by Edison French in 1946, this French Hospital Medical Center brought state of the art medicine to the San Luis Obispo community and continues to do so today. Dr. French, a surgeon, actively encouraged other specialists to settle in the San Luis Obispo area. In 1972, Dr. French moved the hospital to its current location on Johnson Avenue, where it serves residents throughout San Luis Obispo County. Currently, the hospital has working relationships with 320 physicians and employs more than 480 people.

On June 1, 2004, French Hospital was acquired by Catholic Healthcare West (CHW), and joined a network of over 40 medical centers and hospitals in three states. Founded in 1986, CHW is one of our Nation’s largest not-for-profit healthcare systems and the largest Catholic healthcare system based in the Western United States. In 2005, French Hospital Medical Center provided more than $5 million in care to the uninsured in our community and to other philanthropic endeavors. The hospital is committed to delivering high-quality, compassionate and affordable healthcare services, with special attention to the poor and underserved.

French Hospital Medical Center has set, and continues to set, a positive example with their passion for the practice of great medicine and their commitment to our local community. I am pleased, Mr. Speaker, to represent this community and the many caring staff and administrators of French Hospital Medical Center and am pleased to celebrate their 60-year anniversary.

Providing for consideration of H.R. 6061, Secure Fence Act of 2006

Speech of HON. JAMES R. LANGEVIN OF RHODE ISLAND
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, September 14, 2006

Mr. LANGEVIN. Mr. Speaker, today I rise in strong opposition to H.R. 6061, the Secure Fence Act of 2006. This bill is not about border security or terrorism prevention, as the name implies, but is rather a gimmick and will not in fact solve our nation’s border and immigration problems. We need to focus on “smart security” and develop a comprehensive plan. Only then will we truly secure our borders and ensure our safety as Americans. This bill strays far from those priorities and is opposed by almost every reasonable business, labor, and civil liberties advocacy group in the country.

The bill before us does not provide any specific dollar amounts to build the mandated fence, and nowhere does the bill even authorize additional Border Patrol, Immigration and Customs Enforcement officers needed to secure the border. Blindly erecting a fence, without taking into consideration the needs of the area and the men and women who work on the front lines of our borders is not effective and we can do better. We need to focus on “smart security,” and we need to do it now.

It is extremely important to know who is entering our country and who is already here. We need to focus on strengthening our borders by improving our surveillance technology, deploying more patrol agents and providing them with the materials they need to effectively do their jobs. This is why I am proud to support Mr. Thompson’s substitute amendment.

The substitute amendment requires the Department of Homeland Security to develop a comprehensive border security strategy by deploying at least 3,000 additional Border Patrol agents and 2,000 additional Immigration and Customs Enforcement agents at our borders each year for the next four years. The substitute also provides helicopters, portable computers, radio communications and hand-held global positioning devices so the agents have all of the resources they need to get the job done.

Mr. Thompson’s substitute also ends our ineffective “Catch and Release” practice. We need to ensure that we have adequate space in which to house people until we determine who they are and why they are here. It is unacceptable that illegal immigrants have been released after being charged with a crime simply because there is not adequate space in which to detain them. The substitute authorizes 100,000 additional detention bed spaces through FY 2010 to assist with the detention of undocumented individuals.

We also need to refocus our efforts on monitoring precisely which materials come through our borders. As the lead Democrat on the Subcommittee for the Prevention of Nuclear and Biological Attack, I have called for the installation of radiation portal monitors at designated ports of entry to screen all inbound cargo for radiological or nuclear materials. I am dedicated to ensuring we have this important technology at every entry point.

Although erecting a security fence in specifically targeted areas may be necessary, it needs to be part of a much larger comprehensive plan. In order to employ a plan that is truly effective, we need to take into consideration all of these factors, not just a select few. Rhetorical bills proposing a quick fix will not secure our borders, and I cannot support legislation that does not propose a comprehensive solution. I am proud to support Mr. Thompson’s substitute amendment, and I urge my colleagues to follow suit.

In Honor and Recognition of George Nashar for Receiving the North Olmstead Democrat of the Year Award

HON. DENNIS J. KUCINICH
OF OHIO
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, September 19, 2006

Mr. KUCINICH. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in honor and recognition of George M. Nashar, dedicated father and community leader, whose lifelong service has merited him this year’s North Olmsted Democrat of the Year Award.

Born in Detroit, Michigan, Nashar grew with a strong sense of responsibility and family values as the oldest of seven siblings. After graduating from Detroit Institute of Technology and Cuyahoga Community College, he proudly served in the U.S. Army for two years. During this service, Mr. Nashar moved to the Berlin Wall crisis, a harsh reality of the Cold War that left a lasting impression upon him, strengthening his democratic values and call to civic duty. Back in America, after his service, Mr. Nashar fell in love with his wife Donna and settled down in Ohio, where the two have been happily married for 41 years and blessed with three beautiful daughters, Nancy, Nicole, and Noelle, and nine lively grandchildren. A devoted husband and father, Mr. Nashar has supported his family throughout the years with his employment at General Motors. After retirement, Mr. Nashar served actively working for Gerald Fuerst at the Clerk of Courts.

In addition to being a hard-working and warm-hearted family man, Mr. Nashar is an exemplary American citizen because of his enthusiastic involvement throughout his local community of North Olmsted. Actively committed to his children’s education, Mr. Nashar served for several years on the St. Richard School Parent Club as President and as Chairman of fun and successful fundraisers, in addition to serving for 12 years on the Magnificat High School Board of Governors. A devoted Catholic, Mr. Nashar has been ushering for Sunday Mass at St. Richard Parish for over 20 years and has made many friends within the church community.

Mr. Nashar goes above and beyond his civic responsibilities within the political process. As a member of the North Olmsted Democratic Club, serving as its President for two years and repeatedly sponsoring their annual picnic, he works to foster unity and political awareness. From 1990–2006, Mr. Nashar served on the 3-member Board for the City of North Olmsted, chairing several committees including Streets and Transportation and Safety. During these 16 years he was well-respected and repeatedly re-elected by his constituents because of his steadfast and earnest dedication to their needs as not only a representative, but a friend.

Mr. Speaker and Colleagues, please join me in honor and recognition of George M. Nashar, the 2006 North Olmsted Democrat of the Year, who unwavering commitment to serving his family, community, and country has left a lasting impression, inspiring those around him.

IN TRIBUTE TO BETTE DEWING
HON. CAROLYN B. MALONEY
OF NEW YORK
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, September 19, 2006

Mrs. MALONEY. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to Bette Dewing, a great New Yorker. Bette Dewing is devoted to her community on the Upper East Side of Manhattan, and in recognition of her selfless dedication to the well-being of others and her significant achievements on behalf of the quality of life in New York City, she is being honored this month by the East 79th Street Neighborhood Association.

For decades, Bette Dewing has served on the front lines of the fight to preserve and enhance her fellow New Yorkers’ quality of life. A longtime columnist at the premier local newspaper of Manhattan’s East Side, Our Town, Bette Dewing has used her public platform expertly and effectively to become an unparalleled advocate for her fellow New York City residents on a wide range of issues. She has been perhaps the Big Apple’s leading champion for enhancing pedestrian safety, focusing the attention of government officials on a host of urban ills, most notably the need to curb traffic lawlessness. No New Yorker has done more to combat illegal bicyclists, skateboarders and motorists, whose careless and often selfish behavior is a menace to city pedestrians, in particular to seniors and persons with physical disabilities. A founder of a community-based advocacy organization, Pedestrian First, Ms. Dewing is perhaps more responsible than any other for starting the drumbeat of protest against those who would encroach on the space and safety of her fellow New Yorkers, a call that has since been echoed by many elected officials and municipal government leaders.

Some of Bette Dewing’s most important advocacy occurred when she presciently called for a renewed emphasis on the preeminence of family life, respect for the many contributions to our society by the elderly, and a return to civility. Her wise counsel to younger generations to maintain strong family ties is one that everyone should embrace. Similarly, her manifestoes urging a return to a culture in which a prevailing civic-mindedness—including courtesy and consideration for others—is the rule, not the exception, have since been taken to heart by many New Yorkers.

In being honored by the East 79th Street Neighborhood Association, Bette Dewing’s achievements are being recognized by one of the most important civic associations in our Nation’s greatest metropolis. Representing the residents of Manhattan’s Upper East Side living on or around East 79th Street, the dedicated membership of East 79th Street Neighborhood Association and its distinguished and estimable president, Betty Cooper Wallerstein, have made immeasurable contributions to improving the quality of life of their neighbors and their community.

Mr. Speaker, I ask that my distinguished colleagues join me in recognizing the outstanding contributions to the civic life of New York City made by Bette Dewing.

HONORING THE ACCOMPLISHMENTS OF W.D. FARR
HON. MARYLON N. MUSGRAVE
OF COLORADO
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, September 19, 2006

Mrs. MUSGRAVE. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor the contributions and life-time achievements of Mr. W.D. Farr.

Mr. Farr was recently inducted into the Hall of Great Westerners, which honors those who have embodied and perpetuated the heritage of the American West through their exemplary lives, careers, and achievements. Mr. Farr, a man of many talents, excelled in ranching, government, and law. After inheriting the family agricultural business, Mr. Farr remained a cattle rancher for many years. During this time Mr. Farr worked to improve livestock and farming methods. His innovative ideas became a catalyst for improved irrigation on the eastern plains and influenced ranching methods throughout the United States.

Mr. Farr was also a statesman. While working for the U.S. Department of Agriculture, Mr. Farr advised three U.S. Presidents and traveled the world as an advocate for the U.S. agricultural industry. His dedication to the agricultural community earned him induction into the Colorado Agriculture Hall of Fame in 1995. Another one of Mr. Farr’s successful endeavors was in the banking industry. He directed banks in Greeley and Denver. He also co-founded and chaired the Affiliated Bankshares of Colorado.

Mr. Farr’s life epitomizes the courageous and innovative spirit of Colorado and the greater American West.

Mr. Speaker, I am honored to represent Mr. Farr in Congress. I ask my colleagues to join me in congratulating W.D. Farr for his many accomplishments and his service to the community.

PROVIDING FOR EARMARKING REFORM IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
SPEECH OF
HON. LORETTA SANCHEZ
OF CALIFORNIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, September 14, 2006

Ms. SANCHEZ of California. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in support of H. Res. 1000, to provide for earmark reform in the House of Representatives. This measure, I believe, will help bring much-needed transparency and accountability for funding projects in the House. It will do this by obliging Committees to list the names of House Members next to the projects that they request. Identifying project sponsors will allow the public to see how their representatives are choosing to spend their tax dollars.

I am pleased that this legislation will include ALL House Committees. That means this resolution will identify the sponsors of special tax breaks, and special programs as well as those who are asking for appropriations earmarks.

Despite the fact that I support this bill, I am disappointed in its limitations. In the first place, the bill only applies to House rules. It’s not the law of the land. So if there are violations, there are no legal consequences. Second, the bill does nothing to limit or at least define Member earmarks. That means that Members will continue to use their seniority and committee assignments to get special deals for their districts. While I’m a strong supporter of bringing tax dollars back to the district, I firmly believe that federal programs and projects need to be awarded based on merit and need, and should be subject to scrutiny and rigorous review.

Having said all this, H. Res. 1000 is a step forward. I am hopeful that greater transparency for the earmarking will allow the public to become more knowledgeable about the
CBO ESTIMATE ON H.R. 4844, THE “FEDERAL ELECTION INTEGRITY ACT OF 2006”

HON. VERNON J. EHLERS OF MICHIGAN
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, September 19, 2006

Mr. EHLERS, Mr. Speaker, please find attached the Congressional Budget Office’s estimate for the legislation, H.R. 4844, the Federal Election Integrity Act of 2006, as reported by the Committee on House Administration.

U.S. CONGRESS,
CONGRESSIONAL BUDGET OFFICE,

Hon. Vernon J. Ehrers,
Chairman, Committee on House Administration,
House of Representatives, Washington, DC.

Dear Mr. Chairman: The Congressional Budget Office has prepared the enclosed cost estimate for H.R. 4844, the Federal Election Integrity Act of 2006.

If you wish further details on this estimate, we will be pleased to provide them. The CBO staff contacts are Matthew Pickford (for federal costs), Sarah Paro (for the impact on state and local governments), and Paige Piper/Bach (for the impact on the private sector).

Sincerely,

Donald B. Marron,
Acting Director.

Enclosure.

H.R. 4844—Federal Election Integrity Act of 2006

Summary: H.R. 4844 would amend the Help America Vote Act of 2002 to require all voters in federal elections to display a valid and current photo identification card issued by a government agency. The requirement would begin with the November 2008 federal election. The legislation would require the government to provide photo identification cards to eligible voters on a fee-for-service basis. The legislation would also authorize appropriations for the Election Assistance Commission (EAC) to reimburse states for the cost of providing government-issued photo identification cards to voters who cannot afford to pay for the cards. The cost of implementing this provision would depend on the number of voters who receive identification cards for free, and the cost of producing those cards.

CBO estimates that H.R. 4844 contains two intergovernmental mandates as defined in the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act (UMRA). Beginning in 2008, the bill would require local governments to establish outreach programs to provide free photo identification cards to eligible voters who cannot afford to pay for the cards. The cost of these efforts would be $1 million in 2007 and $5 million over the 2007–2011 period. Estimates of the cost of reimbursing states for the cost of providing free identification cards to voters who cannot afford to pay for the cards are also necessary for the EAC to operate the reimbursement program. Based on information from the EAC, CBO estimates that about 4 million newly registered voters over the 2010–2011 period would request such identification cards to vote; and that spending on state and local outreach activities would cost about $5 million over the next few years.

Prevention of State Voting Laws

The bill would prohibit state and local governments from allowing individuals without proper photo identification to vote. This requirement would replace the requirement contained in the UMRA that states must provide voting assistance to those individuals who cannot afford the fee. The bill would also prohibit state and local governments from charging a fee for such identification if the applicant cannot afford the fee.

While the aggregate costs to state, local and tribal governments of complying with these mandates is uncertain, CBO estimates that they would far exceed the threshold established in UMRA ($64 million in 2008, adjusted annually for inflation) in at least one of the first five years after the mandates go into effect. The cost of these efforts would cost $1 million in 2007 and $5 million over the 2007–2011 period.

Implementing H.R. 4844 would cost about $1 million over the 2007–2011 period.

Basis of estimate: For this estimate, CBO assumes that the mandate would be enacted near the start of fiscal year 2007, that the necessary amounts will be provided for each year, and that spending will follow historical patterns for similar programs. Assuming appropriation of the necessary amounts, CBO estimates that implementing H.R. 4844 would cost $1 million in 2007 and $77 million over the 2007–2011 period to reimburse the states for the cost of providing government-issued photo identification cards to voters who cannot afford to pay for the cards. The cost of implementing this provision would depend on the number of voters who receive identification cards for free, and the cost of producing those cards.

The National Commission on Federal Election Reform estimated in 2001 that up to 10 percent of voters do not have a state identification card. The commission assumed that this population consisted of the poor (who may not have cars) and those living in dense urban areas (who may not need cars). Idaho, Georgia, and Missouri currently require voters to have photo identification. Those states estimate that about 7 percent of their registered voters do not have a state-issued driver’s license or identification card. Based on the estimates and experience of those states, CBO estimates that about 4 percent of the nation’s registered voters—about 7 million individuals—do not have state identification cards and would likely request free identification cards to vote in federal elections. That estimate reflects the expectation that only those registered voters who intend to vote might seek free identification cards.

States typically charge about $10 to issue an identification card. CBO estimates that the cost of providing photo identification cards to voters who cannot afford them would be about $5 million in 2008 and $72 million over the 2008–2011 period, adjusted annually for the necessary amounts. That amount includes the cost of the cards to provide free identification cards to some newly registered voters over the 2010–2011 period.

H.R. 4844 would require the EAC to reimburse the states for the cost of providing free photo identification cards and to promulgate regulations for its reimbursement program. Based on information from the EAC, CBO estimates that additional staffing and administrative costs for those efforts would cost $1 million in 2007 and $5 million over the 2007–2011 period.

Estimated impact on state, local, and tribal governments:

H.R. 4844 includes intergovernmental mandates as defined in UMRA. Beginning in 2008, the bill would require state and local governments to establish a program that would provide a form of photo identification available to those who currently do not have it.

The bill would require state and local governments to establish outreach programs to provide free identification cards to individuals who cannot afford them, which CBO estimates would total about $70 million over the 2007–2011 period.

The bill would prohibit state and local governments from allowing individuals without proper photo identification to vote; and that spending on state and local outreach activities would cost about $5 million over the next few years.

Establishing an Outreach Program

The bill would require states to establish a program to provide free photo identification cards to meet the requirements of the bill. According to government sources, establishing such a program would require some or all of the following: purchasing certain new equipment, hiring additional staff for certain offices, training current employees, providing outreach activities to educate affected voters via pamphlets, television and radio advertisements, and posting information on state and local Web sites. Costs for each state would vary based on the demographics of the population the state without photo identification and the current voting structure in the state. For example, states that conduct voting by mail would incur costs to train poll workers, while states that do not currently have a Department of Motor Vehicles office in each county would need to purchase equipment for such offices. CBO estimates that these costs to establish outreach programs would total about $75 million in 2008 and about $5 million over the 2008–2011 period.

Providing Free Identification Cards

process. At the very least, this will let them know how their taxes are being sent. And at the most, it will create the oversight and accountability we need to lead to better allocation of our precious and limited resources.
In the three states that currently require voters to show photo identification when voting, such cards for free to those who cannot afford them. CBO expects that those states would comply with this mandate without incurring significant additional costs. This is because states that currently require all voters to show photo identification when voting would be required to issue free cards to indigent citizens. While the costs to states would vary, on average, states would charge about $10 for identification cards that are not driver’s licenses. Based on information from the states that currently have photo identification requirements and on nationwide studies of those without photo identification, CBO expects that about 4 percent of the population likely would apply for and receive a free card under this bill. CBO estimates that the costs to state, local, and tribal governments would total about $70 million, with most costs occurring in calendar year 2006. The bill would authorize funds to cover these costs.

Issuing Identification Cards for Proof of Citizenship

The bill would also require states to issue, by 2010, such cards for which applicants would be required to provide proof of citizenship. Under current law, states do not collect or place citizenship status of an applicant on a driver’s license or other identification cards, although they will begin collecting such information in May 2008 under the requirements of the REAL ID Act. CBO expects that by 2010, roughly half of the voting-age population will have a driver’s license that complies with the terms of the REAL ID Act, although such licenses would not necessarily comply with the requirements of this bill.

States could place the citizenship information they collect on these driver’s licenses andWould not be required to renew their driver’s licenses early or to obtain voter identification cards as authorized by the bill. The costs to states would vary, and would include providing new licenses or identification cards, establishing new databases, hiring and training new staff, and providing services to a large number of additional residents. CBO cannot estimate the total costs of this provision; they likely would exceed the threshold established in UMRA.

State governments may choose to use revenues received from fees to cover the expenses associated with this mandate. Under UMRA, however, these revenues are considered a means of financing and as such are not counted against the mandate costs of H.R. 4844. For purposes of determining whether other costs would exceed the UMRA threshold.

Estimated impact on the private sector: By requiring individuals to have a government-issued identification for federal elections would be implemented in two phases. In 2008, the bill would require individuals to provide “a government-issued, current, and valid photo identification” to the appropriate election official when voting in person. Individuals voting other than in person would be required to submit “a copy of a government-issued, current, and valid photo identification” along with other information required to determine the authenticity of those who are absent from the United States during the election would be exempt from this requirement. Individuals who wish to vote and who do not have an appropriate identification card would have to get a government-issued identification cards such as a passport, a driver’s license, or a state-issued photo identification would meet the requirement for voting in federal elections. On average, the state-issued photo identification would be the least expensive method to comply. For individuals who need to obtain identification, the cost of complying with the first phase of the mandate would be fees charged by states along with other expenses for individuals to obtain the photo identification. Prohibits states from charging a fee to any individual who provides an attestation that they cannot afford the fee for a photo identification. In addition, the incremental costs for individuals voting other than in person would be the expense of making a copy of their identification.

Beginning with the regularly scheduled general election for federal offices held in November 2010 and each subsequent federal election, individuals who want to vote would have to provide government-issued identification cards, although they will begin collecting such information in May 2008 under the requirements of the REAL ID Act. The REAL ID Act requires states to place the citizenship information on the new drivers licenses and identification cards. Under current law, state-issued drivers’ licenses are supposed to be compliant with the REAL ID Act by May 2008. Individuals who have obtained driver’s licenses and when their state becomes compliant with the REAL ID Act would have to renew their license early or obtain another state-issued identification in order to vote in 2010. Based on information from government and other sources regarding the percentage of individuals that renew licenses each year, the percentage of individuals with passports, and the number of individuals that vote in federal elections, CBO estimates that the cost to comply with the mandate would exceed UMRA’s annual threshold.

Estimate prepared by: Secretary of Homeland Security, the president’s top homeland security official. Based on information from government and other sources that the cost to comply with the current law would exceed the UMRA threshold.

Under the bill, the requirement for an individual to have a government-issued identification for federal elections would be implemented in two phases. In 2008, the bill would require individuals to provide “a government-issued, current, and valid photo identification” to the appropriate election official when voting in person. Individuals voting other than in person would be required to submit “a copy of a government-issued, current, and valid photo identification” to the appropriate election official when voting in person. Ms. HERSETH. Mr. Speaker, today I rise to introduce legislation that will help to protect the health care provided to Native Americans by the Indian Health Service.

 Providing quality health care is one of the most important Federal responsibilities in Indian country. Through a network of service units scattered across the country and across South Dakota, the Indian Health Service is the primary, and often the only, access point to care.

 For this reason, any service reduction at any service unit should be preceded by a thorough and thoughtful analysis of the impacts of the reduction proposal, an evaluation of alternative options, and meaningful tribal consultation at every step. Current law recognizes this and already requires that IHS conduct an impact study before implementing a reduction.

 Unfortunately, the law contains a critical oversight and specifies only that the study occur at least 1 year before any service reduction. It contains nothing to prevent an outdated study from being inappropriately used to justify a service reduction. This legislation would correct that mistake—mandating that the study occur 1 year, but not more than 2 years, before the actual service reduction. This will ensure that any analysis will reflect current conditions, not ones that no longer exist.

 This is a small and reasonable change that is both consistent with the intent of existing statute and, I think, an important improvement. Though introduced as astand alone measure today, I am hopeful that my amendment can later be added to Indian Health Care Improvement Act Amendments moving through this Congress.

 Mr. BUYER. Mr. Speaker, today I am proud to introduce H.R. 6096 the Disabled Warriors' Family Education Act of 2006. I am especially pleased that the Ranking Member of the Veterans Affairs Committee Honorable LANE EVANS, and the Chairman and Ranking Member of the Subcommittee on Economic Opportunity Honorable JOHN BOOZMAN and Honorable STEPHANIE HERSETH join me as original cosponsors.

 The Disabled Warriors' Family Education Act of 2006 would allow spouses and dependent children to access their Survivors' and Dependents' Education Assistance under chapter 35 of title 38, U.S.C. prior to the severely injured servicemembers being discharged from active duty.

 Many of our disabled warriors have spouses who find themselves faced with being the breadwinner of the family. It is important that these individuals have access to their education benefits to improve their ability to compete in today's job market. Therefore, once the servicemember receives a VA rating stating that their injuries are permanent and total in nature, the servicemember's spouse, and college-aged dependent children may begin their education during the servicemember's convalescence period, which in some instances may be 2 years.

 Mr. Speaker, this is an important piece of legislation that will help families of our servicemembers who have sacrificed so much for the safety of our nation in the Global War on Terrorism, and I urge my colleagues to support the Disabled Warriors' Family Education Act of 2006.

 Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to Meta Jackson for continuously serving the Juniata Township Election Board for the past 50 years. Meta will be honored at a ceremony on November 7 for her service to the community.

 Meta started as an election inspector in 1956 during the Dwight Eisenhower-Adlai Stevenson Presidential race. At the time the paper election ballots were counted by hand and the counting often extended into the next day. She has told her current fellow poll workers that in the 1950s they would be up 24 hours straight working to get every ballot counted. Meta has served as the chair of the Election Board for several decades and has witnessed many changes over the years. Today the township uses opti-scan machines and automatic loading terminals for the disabled that count the ballots as they run through the system.

 In addition to serving as an election official for the past 50 years, Meta is active in the Veterans of Foreign Wars Ladies Auxiliary, Ladies of the Moose, and the Caro Eagles. She has lived in Juniata Township since the age of 5 and graduated from Caro High School. She married the late Walter Jackson in 1953 and moved to the family dairy farm. Meta and Walter have four children and nine grandchildren.

 Meta continues to help out on the family farm by doing the recordkeeping and running errands.

 Mr. Speaker, I ask the House of Representatives to join me in congratulating Meta Jackson for 50 years as an election official and wish her the best as she continues her service to the community.

 Mr. Speaker, this is an important piece of legislation that will help families of our servicemembers who have sacrificed so much for the safety of our nation in the Global War on Terrorism, and I urge my colleagues to support the Disabled Warriors' Family Education Act of 2006.

 The Disabled Warriors' Family Education Act of 2006 would allow spouses and dependent children to access their Survivors' and Dependents' Education Assistance under chapter 35 of title 38, U.S.C. prior to the severely injured servicemembers being discharged from active duty.

 Many of our disabled warriors have spouses who find themselves faced with being the breadwinner of the family. It is important that these individuals have access to their education benefits to improve their ability to compete in today's job market. Therefore, once the servicemember receives a VA rating stating that their injuries are permanent and total in nature, the servicemember's spouse, and college-aged dependent children may begin their education during the servicemember's convalescence period, which in some instances may be 2 years.

 Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to Meta Jackson for continuously serving the Juniata Township Election Board for the past 50 years. Meta will be honored at a ceremony on November 7 for her service to the community.

 Meta started as an election inspector in 1956 during the Dwight Eisenhower-Adlai Stevenson Presidential race. At the time the paper election ballots were counted by hand and the counting often extended into the next day. She has told her current fellow poll workers that in the 1950s they would be up 24 hours straight working to get every ballot counted. TRIBUTE TO OTTAWA TOWNSHIP HIGH SCHOOL

HON. JERRY WELLER OF ILLINOIS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, September 19, 2006

Mr. WELLER. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to offer congratulations to Ottawa Township High School (OTHS) in Ottawa, Illinois for its remarkable accomplishment of winning the Illinois State Music Championship for the tenth consecutive year.

Much of the credit for this amazing achievement must be attributed to the strong leadership of Mr. Roger Am, Vocal Music Director, and Ms. Sarah Reckmeyer, Director of Bands. Clearly, their hard work and commitment to the program over the years have developed an environment of high expectations.

Further credit for the OTHS success is due to the support of the school administration; the work of the music staff at the elementary schools which feed into Ottawa Township High School and the OTHS students themselves who have overcome any outcome that short of victory in the state music competition.

It is quite refreshing to see a public high school with such a strong commitment to the fine arts. In addition to its obviously outstanding music program, Ottawa Township High School also possesses and displays a truly remarkable multi-million dollar collection of artwork—a fine arts attribute which surely few public high schools in the nation can match.

In closing, let me state just how proud and pleased I am to have this chance to provide my colleagues in the United States House of Representatives with this shining example of a public educational institution which believes so strongly in offering its students this type of fine arts opportunity. I encourage my colleagues to share this example with the high schools in their own congressional districts in hopes of spurring interest in the fine arts in our young citizens across our nation.

HON. JOHN LEWIS OF GEORGIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, September 14, 2006

Mr. JOHN LEWIS of Georgia. Mr. Speaker, no discussion of our Nation’s Historically Black Colleges and Universities would be complete without mention of the Atlanta University Center Consortium. I have the privilege of representing, in my Congressional District, this remarkable consortium of institutions of higher learning which comprises: Clark Atlanta University; Spellman College; Morehouse College; Morehouse School of Medicine; the Interdenominational Theological Institute. I also am fortunate to represent Morris Brown College, Georgia’s first college founded by African-American students.

I would like to take this opportunity to highlight the rich history and the integral role that these institutions have played in educating African-American scholars for over a century.

Atlanta University Center—As the largest concentration of historically Black colleges and universities in the Nation, the Atlanta University Center has played a pivotal role in providing African Americans access to higher education for over 150 years. The history of the Atlanta University Center Consortium truly demonstrates the forward thinking of those who came before us.

During the 1930s, the modern organization of the Atlanta University Center emerged, with Atlanta University, Clark College, Morris Brown College, and the Interdenominational Theological Center affiliating a few years later. The controlling Boards of sister HBCU institutions (Atlanta University; Clark, Morehouse, Morris Brown and Spellman Colleges; and Gammon Theological Seminary) ratified new Articles of Affiliation, creating the present-day Atlanta University Center. In 1964, the Atlanta University Center became a 501(c)(3) organization to provide services and programs to its member institutions. Today, Atlanta University Center Consortium member institutions continue to share a unique bond and a common goal of providing quality education for African Americans.

I want to commend the outstanding work of the Atlanta University Center, Consortium Executive Director, Dr. Marilyn T. Jackson, and the staff, faculty of the Atlanta University Center.

Clark Atlanta University—Formed by the consolidation of Atlanta University, which offered only graduate degrees, and Clark College, a 4-year undergraduate institution oriented to the liberal arts, Clark Atlanta University was formed in 1957. While Clark Atlanta University continues to maintain its historic relationship with the United Methodist Church, it should be noted that the legacy of both Clark College and Atlanta University extend back to the mid 19th century.

Clark College was founded in 1869 as Clark University by the Freedmen’s Aid Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church, which later became the United Methodist Church. Atlanta University was established by the American Missionary Association, with later assistance from the Freedmen’s Bureau in 1870.

Prior to its consolidation, Atlanta University was the Nation’s oldest graduate institution serving a predominantly African-American student body. By the late 1870s, Atlanta University was renowned for supplying black teachers and librarians to the public schools of the South. By 1930, Atlanta University was offering graduate coursework in liberal arts, social and natural sciences; it would later go on to adopt professional programs in social work, library science, and business administration.

Clark Atlanta University continues to emphasize sound ethical and moral principles that promote personal integrity and understanding of others. Additionally, Clark Atlanta University accepts the mandate of its parent institutions:
Atlanta University’s motto, “I’ll Find a Way or Make One,” and Clark College’s motto, “Culture for Service.”

I want to commend the outstanding work of Clark Atlanta University’s current President, Dr. Walter Broadnax, and the staff, faculty, students, and alumni.

Interdenominational Theological Center—The

Interdenominational Theological Center was chartered in 1958 through the mutual efforts of four denominations, representing four seminaries: Morehouse School of Religion, Gammon Theological Seminary, Turner Theological Seminary, and the Phillips School of Theology. The Interdenominational Theological Center would later add the Johnson C. Smith Theological Seminary; the Charles H. Mason Theological Seminary; and the Lutheran Theological Seminary in Atlanta. Today, over 15 different denominations are represented throughout the center, including Disciples of Christ (Christian Church), United Church of Christ, African Methodist Episcopal Zion, Lutheran, Episcopalian, and Roman Catholic, as well as those who are nondenominational.

The ITC has an international reputation for producing exceptional clergy and a long-standing tradition of community outreach, and it is known for its commitment to promoting service and the church and society. In fact, the International Theological Center is currently playing an important role in fostering a national dialogue surrounding the Black church’s role in the renewal of American society.

I want to commend the outstanding work of the Interdenominational Theological Center’s current President, Dr. Michael A. Battle, and the staff, faculty, students, and alumni of the Interdenominational Theological Center.

Morehouse College—Founded in 1867 as the Augusta Institute in Augusta, Georgia, Morehouse College is the Nation’s largest liberal arts college for men. In addition to ensuring that its students are prepared both academically and socially, Morehouse also takes great pains to ensure that its students are spiritually prepared for leadership and success in the larger society; as a result of this unique focus, Morehouse has the distinction of conferring bachelor’s degrees on more black men than any other college or university in the United States.

I am pleased to note that Morehouse’s notaable alumni include some very distinguished Members of this Congress: my colleague from Georgia, Congressman SANFORD BISHOP and my good friend from New York, MAJOR OWENS. It also should be noted that Morehouse counts former U.S. Surgeon General

David Satcher, and former Health and Human Services Secretary Leon Sullivan, among its prominent alumni. I want to commend the outstanding work of Morehouse College’s current President, Dr. Walter Massey, in addition to its students, faculty, staff, and alumni.

Morehouse School of Medicine—Morehouse

School of Medicine was established in 1975, as part of Morehouse College, to address both a severe shortage of minority doctors, and a shortage of doctors in rural areas and inner cities. In 1983, Morehouse School of Medicine joined the consortium of institutions known as

Atlanta University Center and was granted full accreditation of its M.D. degree program in April 1985.

Recognized for taking the lead in educating primary care physicians, 68 percent of Morehouse School of Medicine alumni are practicing in primary care disciplines, while 84 percent are practicing medicine in underserved areas. Furthermore, Morehouse School of Medicine’s research focuses on areas that disproportionately affect the African-American and other minorities. Its institutes include, but are not limited to the National Center for Primary Care, the Cardiovascular Research Institute, the Neuroscience Institute, and the NASA Space Medicine and Life Sciences Research Center.

I want to commend the outstanding work of

Morehouse School of Medicine’s current President, Dr. John Maupin, in addition to its students, faculty, staff, and alumni.

Spelman College—Founded in 1881 for the purposes of educating African-American women and girls, Spelman College has empowered women to fully use their talents to succeed and to better the world, for many generations. As one of two black women’s colleges in the Nation, Spelman develops its students not only academically but also emotionally and spiritually.

Spelman students are encouraged to pursue the study of fields where minorities and women are often underrepresented, such as math, science, and engineering. To this end,

Spelman has forged partnerships with NASA and has been designated as one of six institutions designated by the National Science Foundation and NASA as a Model Institution for Excellence in undergraduate science and math education.

I want to commend the outstanding work of

Spelman’s current President, Dr. Beverly Daniel Tatum, in addition to its students, faculty, staff, and alumni.

Morris Brown College—Morris Brown College is a private, liberal arts, 4-year institution founded in 1881 by members of the African Methodist Episcopal Church. Today, thousands of leaders in government, education, business, technical fields and the professions are proud to have Morris Brown College as their alma mater.

While the Atlanta community was deeply troubled by the April 2003 decision of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools to rescind the accreditation of Morris Brown

College, we remain hopeful that the institution will soon be restored to its full academic standing. I stand in solidarity with Morris

Brown College, as it moves forward through this challenging transition, and I am confident that the institution will return stronger than ever.

Mr. Speaker, I want to express my strong support for the goals and ideals of Historically

Black Colleges and Universities week, and I courage all of my colleagues to do the same.

PROVIDING FOR EARMARKING RE-FORM IN THE HOUSE OF RE-PRESENTATIVES

SPEECH OF

HON. BOB ETHERIDGE

OF NORTH CAROLINA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, September 14, 2006

Mr. ETHERIDGE. Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to this sham legislation and call on this Congress to pass serious reform legislation to clean up the corruption in the People’s House.

The culture of corruption under the current Republican Majority is a stain on the honor of everyone who serves this institution. The former Republican Majority Leader has been indicted, one former Republican Member of the House of Representatives convicted of a lengthy Federal prison term, and just this morning we learned that a former powerful Republican Committee Chairman has agreed to plead guilty to criminal charges. And throughout the current 109th Congress, the Republican leadership has shut down the Ethics Committee that has responsibility for maintaining the integrity of the U.S. House.

I support full disclosure of all Member-directed appropriations to shine a light on the process and ensure any special interest provisions can pass muster of public scrutiny. It is well past time for Congress to pass serious lobbying reform to clean up this institution.

Unfortunately, House Resolution 1000, the so-called Earmark Reform Act is a fraud. It would do nothing to expose the Alaskan

“Billion Dollar To Nowhere” because it does not apply to authorization bills. And on appropriations bills, this proposal sets up a huge loophole because it does not apply to what is known as the Manager’s Amendment. This omission simply sets up a new conduit for the Republicans’ earmark excesses.

Mr. Speaker, I regret the Republican party
b osses refuse to bring legislation to clean up the corruption in Congress, and I urge my colleagues to join me in voting against this scam legislation.

S. 418: MILITARY PERSONNEL FI-NANCIAL SERVICES PROTECTION

ACT

HON. SHEILA JACKSON-LEE

OF TEXAS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, September 19, 2006

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Mr. Speaker,

I rise today in support of S. 418, the Military Personnel Financial Services Protection Act.

This act helps to ensure that our military personnel are not vulnerable to immoral and dishonest insurance schemes.

I think the provisions of this bipartisan bill are crucial for the protection of our Armed Forces and their families. While most of America’s focus on the military concerns our actions abroad, protecting personnel and their families at home can sometimes be overlooked. But for years now, men and women in the armed services have fallen victim to unscrupulous salespeople pushing high cost and unnecessary financial products and life insurance. This practice must be stopped.

As numerous investigations, studies, and congressional hearings have shown, bad actors within the insurance and financial products industry have been taking advantage of military personnel in order to turn a quick profit. The military personnel they target are often young, inexperienced in financial matters, and particularly vulnerable to the aggressive sales tactics used by some companies. To make matters worse, Department of Defense Directives and state regulations would be violated or completely ignored by these salespersons, without repercussion.

In some cases, servicemen and women were sold life insurance policies with low benefits and premiums as high as fourteen times the amount available to every enlisted person under the Servicemembers’ Group Life Insurance Program. In other cases, they were sold investments that had high but distorted returns from the civilian markets because they could rob investors of years of earnings. But some salespersons found a niche outside of the public mainstream to sell these disreputable investments on our military bases.

It should be noted that there are many upstanding firms that sell very worthwhile investment and insurance products to military personnel and their families. They should be applauded for the fine job that they do in helping our military members and their families. This bill is targeted at the few who abuse the system and prey upon our military.

This bill, the Military Personnel Financial Services Protection Act, will stop these practices by targeting the bad actors, adding much-needed transparency and communication between federal and state agencies. This bill clarifies confusing jurisdictional issues between DoD and state regulators, allowing regulators to better enforce state and federal law on military bases. It would create a registry to track investment advisors, brokers, dealers, and insurance salespersons, and let bases know when a suspicious salesperson has walked through their gates. Finally, the bill would ban the worst types of financial products being sold to our military. These products have disappeared from the civilian market, and they should disappear from our military installations too.

This bill has gained bipartisan support in Congress. I urge you to support this legislation and protect the financial future of our military personnel and their families. During a time when so many of our armed forces are bravely fighting tyranny abroad, we must ensure that they are protected at home.

IN HONOR OF POCAHONTAS’ SESQUICENTENNIAL CELEBRATION

HON. MARION BERRY OF ARKANSAS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, September 19, 2006

Mr. BERRY. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to the city of Pocahontas in Randolph County, Arkansas, which will celebrate its 150th anniversary this year. This is a significant milestone for the community and for all who helped shape the city’s history.

Pocahontas has a long history dating back to the 1700’s when the region was occupied by the French and a number of Indian tribes, including the Osage and Cherokee. The city’s first settler, Ransom S. Betts, arrived from Greenbrier County, in the early 1800’s and is credited with helping establish Pocahontas as the county seat.

Pocahontas began as a significant river port and the first supply stop in Arkansas for travelers coming down Old Southwest Road. Several early families and women, including Sam Houston, Stephen F. Austin, General Ulysses S. Grant and others, made stops in Pocahontas during this time. Even today, the city continues to serve as a strategic educational and agricultural center for Randolph County and the state.

The city constructed its first courthouse in 1837, a 40 feet by 40 feet two story structure. After the courthouse collapsed in 1870, Pocahontas residents replaced the structure in 1875 and it remains standing today. The courthouse is a central landmark in Pocahontas’ historic downtown business square with most of the commercial outlets renovated to compliment the building.

Pocahontas served as a major recruiting, training, and supply center during the Civil War. The city housed as many as 10,000 men after Arkansas withdrew from the Union on May 6, 1861. These men helped the state prepare for combat and secure the northern border from invasion. Federal troops even burned a section of the city, including the Pocahontas newspaper office, during the conflict.

The late nineteenth century through the mid-1920s marked a golden age for Pocahontas. The city had seven hotels and forty-three steamboats that navigated the Black River and turned Pocahontas into an important port of commerce. During this time, Pocahontas landed the Hoxie, Pocahontas, and Northern Railroad in 1896, completed the Hauk Railroading Company’s connection of Poplar Bluff, Missouri, to Pocahontas in 1902, and watched the San Francisco Railroad construct a new rail bridge across the Black River in 1911. Other early industries included four button factories, a brick company, Hanauer’s cotton gin, the Grafton Stage and Heading Company, and the Pocahontas Bending Works, which made wooden parts for the army around 1901.

Development slowed during the 1920s and 1930s until several industries began to locate in the area. In 1942, Pocahontas landed a factory that made powdered eggs for the army and employed about 1,000 residents. Brown Shoe Company came to the area just a few years later, becoming the largest employer in Pocahontas. Other factories came in the 1960s including McGee, Aircraft Engineer, Cinch, and Pro Group, followed by Amerace Company and Cinch, and Pro Group, followed by Amerace

Pocahontas continues to benefit today from its central location between the hills of the Ozarks to the west and the rich farmland of the Delta to the east. Tourists and residents flock to the region’s five rivers year-round for all types of recreational activities including fishing and canoeing. The city is also home to the Black River Technical College which contributes significantly to the region’s educated workforce.

This month, friends and residents of Pocahontas will kick-off the week long celebration honoring the city’s 150 years of history. I ask my colleagues to join me in congratulating Pocahontas, Arkansas, on this significant milestone. We send our appreciation to the city’s citizens for years of hard work and dedication to their community, and wish Pocahontas many more years as a wonderful place to live and raise a family.

TRIBUTE TO HAL POT E

HON. CHRISTOPHER H. SMITH
OF NEW JERSEY

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, September 19, 2006

Mr. SMITH of New Jersey. Mr. Speaker, I would like to take his opportunity to recognize and congratulate Hal Pote on the occasion of his 60th birthday.

Hal, a friend of mine, diligently serves as the President of the Spina Bifida Foundation, SBF. As Co-Chair of the Congressional Spina Bifida Caucus, I have had the privilege of working alongside Hal and truly appreciate his commitment and dedication to improving the quality of life for individuals living with Spina Bifida.

Mr. Speaker, Spina Bifida—our nation’s most commonly-occurring birth defect—occurs in the first month of pregnancy when the spinal column does not close completely. Spina Bifida occurs in approximately 7 out of 10,000 live births and currently there are 70,000 men, women, adolescents, and children living with Spina Bifida in the United States.

In addition to Hal’s strong professional commitment to improving the lives of those living with Spina Bifida, Hal has a binding personal tie that unites his heart with his expertise. Hal’s nephew, Gregory was born with Spina Bifida almost 20 years ago. Supporting his nephew through more than 20 surgeries, Hal counts it a privilege to share in Gregory’s many wonderful moments like in 2006 when Gregory carried the Olympic torch.

Hal is dedicated to ensuring that Gregory and all other individuals living with Spina Bifida enjoy a high quality of life. Through Hal’s vision and dedication to helping Gregory and the tens of thousands of people like him, he joined with a group of colleagues to form the Spina Bifida Foundation in 1999.

In its 7 years of existence, the Foundation has achieved many amazing things for the Spina Bifida community. Just a few years ago, people born with Spina Bifida did not live past their teenage years and yet today, thanks to the advances in medical research and the dedication of public advocates like Hal Pote, many children with Spina Bifida are living to be adults. With more and more people with Spina Bifida living into adulthood, Hal and the Spina Bifida Foundation are committed to addressing the new challenges these adults now face.

One of the specific projects in which Hal has been instrumental is urging Gruma—one of the world’s largest producers of corn flour and tortillas—to begin product testing on enriching its corn products with folic acid, a known preventative of Spina Bifida. At the urging of the Foundation and with the full and strong support of the Spina Bifida Caucus, Gruma now has a year-end goal of enriching all its corn products sold within the United States.

This is an outstanding and notable achievement. In fact, studies show that if all women in the United States consumed the recommended amount of folic acid daily before and during early pregnancy, up to 70 percent of neural tube birth defects could be prevented. Members of the Hispanic/Latino Community are at a higher risk of Spina Bifida affected pregnancies than any other ethnic group and this important and commendable action by Gruma has significant implications for improving the health and well-being of the US Hispanic/Latino population.

In conclusion, Mr. Speaker, I would like to congratulate Hal for his outstanding leadership of the Spina Bifida Foundation and his steadfast commitment to improving the quality of life not just for his nephew Gregory but for all individuals living with Spina Bifida. I wish him the
H.R. 5450, NOAA REAUTHORIZATION ACT

HON. BOB ETHERIDGE
OF NORTH CAROLINA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, September 19, 2006

Mr. ETHERIDGE. Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of this legislation to reauthorize NOAA and call on the agency to work to develop an inland flooding warning system. Six years ago I held a Hurricane Summit in the Second District of North Carolina. This was in response to the devastation that was brought to my State by Hurricane Floyd. Hurricane Floyd was one of the most devastating storms to hit the United States in more than 25 years. When Hurricane Floyd roared ashore in North Carolina in September of 1999, the storm took at least 56 lives, and left damages upwards of $6 billion from the Carolinas to New England.

Although the National Weather Service uses the Saffir-Simpson Scale to classify hurricane strength according to wind speed, Hurricane Floyd showed us that much more damage, death, and destruction can be created by un-expected inland flooding. One year ago this fact was displayed again with disastrous intensity during Hurricane Katrina when the damage was not just limited to the immediate coastal areas of the gulf coast. After the storms there were inland areas in Louisiana, Mississippi, and Alabama that were inaccessible for weeks following the severe flooding.

The purpose of my Hurricane Summit was to bring together meteorological experts from universities, the National Hurricane Center, and the National Weather Service to develop a more comprehensive warning index for inland flooding. With the information gathered at this summit, I drafted legislation to ensure that NOAA and the National Weather Service make significant improvements to their inland flood warning system. H.R. 2486, the Inland Flood Forecasting and Warning System Act of 2002, was passed in the 107th Congress and enjoyed wide bipartisan support.

Mr. Speaker, this legislation directed NOAA and the National Weather Service to improve the capability to forecast inland flooding associated with tropical storms and hurricanes, to develop a distinctive inland flood warning index for emergency management officials, and to train emergency management officials, National Weather Service personnel, and meteorologists to use these improved forecasting techniques for inland flooding.

An important part of this legislation requires the National Weather Service and NOAA to report annually to Congress on the progress of this new flood index. I would like to continue to work with the members of the Science Committee and the Appropriations Committee to ensure that NOAA provides these reports to the Congress.

Congress must provide the proper oversight to NOAA to ensure that the progress in developing an improved inland flooding index can be put in place to save lives.

TRIBUTE TO EDWARD BEHNE
HON. RON PAUL
OF TEXAS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, September 19, 2006

Mr. PAUL. Mr. Speaker, I wish to take this opportunity to pay tribute to Major Edward Lee Behne, a decorated military veteran, entrepreneur, husband, and father who passed away on September 8. Major Behne served his country by flying UH-1 Hueys in Vietnam from 1967 to 1969. In the Vietnam War’s second-most decorated army pilot, having received two Distinguished Flying Crosses, a Legion of Merit, a VN Cross of Gallantry with Silver Star and Palm, two Silver Stars, six Bronze Stars, VN Service Medal (9 campaigns), two Meritorious Unit Citations, and 80 Air Medal.

In 1979, Edward Behne retired from the army to return to his home in Texas, in 1988, he founded Tex-Air Helicopters, Inc. Guided by his vision of a company that would provide customers an unequaled level of quality, service, and performance in helicopter operations, Major Behne worked for over 20 years to build Tex-Air into one of the major providers of helicopter services in the Gulf Coast region. By 2000, the Tex-Air fleet had grown to thirty aircraft and was the most modern and sophisticated helicopter fleet in the United States. Operations ranged from Florida to Mexico with twelve helicopter bases, fifteen offshore refueling platforms, and two major maintenance facilities. Tex-Air established an extensive offshore radio network for operational control and flight following across the entire Gulf of Mexico using repeaters and a central communications base. In 2003, Major Behne retired from Tex-Air to return to his beloved Texas hill country ranch, where he entertained his best friends and family members, worked and hunted.

War hero, entrepreneur, rancher, family man—Major Edward Behne made numerous contributions to the betterment of his country and set an example for us all. I ask my colleagues to join me in paying tribute to Major Edward Lee Behne and extend our condolences to his wife, Mary Lynne; two sons, Mark Behne and Mike Behne; four step children, Jimmy Gonzalez, Mark Gonzalez, Tanya Roland and Robert Hughley; brother, Richard Behne; sister, Gwen Pascal; grandchild, Josephine Behne; and 14 step grandchildren, as well as all of Major Behne’s family and friends.

TRIBUTE TO SAMUEL GOMPERS HIGH SCHOOL
HON. JOSE E. SERRANO
OF NEW YORK
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, September 19, 2006

Mr. SERRANO. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to Samuel Gompers High School as it celebrates its seventieth anniversary of service in the South Bronx. The first New York School designed to serve as a vocational high school, Samuel Gompers is a trailblazing institution that is proving to be a model for progress.

Gompers opened its doors on September 12, 1935 and immediately began to make valuable contributions to the nation. After training machinists and welders during World War II, Gompers became one of the first high schools to adopt a technical program and to receive accreditation from the Middle States Atlantic School Association.

As the world evolves, Gompers adjusts its curriculum accordingly, and students are always a step ahead of rapid advances in technology. Majors such as Computer Pre-Engineering with Cisco Certification, Desktop Publishing, Computer Aided Design, Copier Repair, and Electronic Technician with A+ Certification guarantee that the young men and women of Samuel Gompers possess the skills necessary to solve the complex technological problems of the 21st century.

The pursuit of excellence shared by the faculty and students of this institution creates an atmosphere that is ripe for achievement. Accordingly, the Gompers students have won numerous awards and competitions, including second place in the New York City All Academy Competition, third place in the New York/New Jersey Regional Bobtail tournament, and first place in the 2005 high school division of the USA Memory Championship. In addition, the school has graduated numerous students who have gone on to have very successful careers. Some of its more well known alumni include General Robert White, who piloted the X–15, the nation’s first rocket aircraft; Damien Radcliffe, of the movie Glory Road; and former Gompers music teacher Alexander Alteri, who performed with legends such as Tito Puente and Eddie Palmieri.

Mr. Speaker, while I am truly impressed by the academic achievements of Gompers, it is the school’s commitment to serving the community that makes me most proud. Currently, the school tutors students from neighborhood primary schools, holds food drives for the needy, and plants trees in an effort to beautify the South Bronx. In past years, the school sponsored a shared instruction program for students who attended high schools without trade programs.

“Through a depression and two wars, Samuel Gompers High School in the South Bronx has been supplying skilled craftsmen for the nation’s industries,” said a New York Post article in January of 1960. Fortunately, forty-six years and three wars later, Gompers continues to provide state of the art vocational and technical training in today’s highly technological world.

Mr. Speaker, for its commitment to excellence and tireless efforts to empower those who have the least among us, I ask that my colleagues join me in paying tribute to Samuel Gompers High School on the occasion of its seventieth anniversary.

INTRODUCTION OF LEGISLATION TO COMBAT HUMAN SEX TRAFFICKING
HON. CAROLYN B. MALONEY
OF NEW YORK
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, September 19, 2006

Mrs. MALONEY. Mr. Speaker, today, along with Representative Lynn Woolsey and Representatives Jerrold Nadler, I am introducing legislation that would combat human sex trafficking by using the tax code to put traffickers in prison. Approximately 600,000 to 800,000 people are trafficked across international borders each year. Instead of dreams of better jobs and better lives, they are trapped into a nightmare of coercion, violence, and disease. However, trafficking is not just a problem in other countries. In addition to the men, women, and children from around the world who are trafficked into the United States for the sole purpose of being bought and sold by American citizens for commercial sex, in many communities, the victims themselves are Americans.

The legislation, which is based on an amendment offered by Senator Grassley to S. 1321, the “Telephone Excise Tax Repeal Act of 2005,” would authorize $2 million toward the establishment of an office within the IRS Criminal Investigation division to prosecute sex traffickers for violations of tax laws. This office would coordinate closely with the existing task forces in the Department of Justice that are focused on sex trafficking offenders. The IRS would be directed to focus on the willful failure of traffickers to file returns, supply information, or pay tax where the taxpayer failed to file a non-filer. Additionally, the provision establishes a new felony offense for an aggravated failure to file to include failure to file with respect to income or payments derived from activity which is criminally under Federal or State law. The aggravated failure shall carry a maximum sentence of ten years per failure and shall increase the penalty from $25,000 under current law to $50,000. The legislation also increases other penalties for underpayment or overpayment of tax due to fraud.

The bill works to the benefit of the women and girls that are victimized by the traffickers not only by removing the traffickers from the streets but also by revising the IRS Whistleblower provisions that are currently in place so that the women and girls who choose to participate in the investigation of the trafficker will be eligible to participate in the whistleblower program and may ultimately receive some payment for their participation.

It is important that we protect the victims of the sex trade industry, and punish the predators who exploit them.

REMEMBERING 9–11

HON. BRIAN P. BILRAY
OF CALIFORNIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, September 19, 2006

Mr. BILRAY. Mr. Speaker, in a day that will be looked upon as one of the worst days in American history, I remember it as a day where the world saw the best in all of us. Together, we mourned the loss of our fellow countrymen, grieved for the families they left behind and reaffirmed our resolve to cement the lessons of their sacrifice. Today, we celebrate the memory of a reunited America and commit to never forget the lives lost on September 11th. For every life we lost, there was also a tale of courage and spirit.

I’d like to take a moment to tell you the story of a 53-year-old Catholic priest living in San Diego named Bill Metzdorf who is also a member of California National Guard. On September 11th, Father Metzdorf was fulfilling his annual National Guard requirements by performing funerals at Arlington National Cemetary. Minutes following the attack on the Pentagon, Father Metzdorf was coordinating an impromptu prayer service. He would later accompany rescue workers into the Pentagon debris and perform blessings over the remains of those who did not survive the attack. He did this for more than two weeks, working 12-hour shifts.

Consoling family members, friends and survivors, Father Metzdorf helped strangers become friends, facing his difficult mission with unshakable resolve and fierce determination. Amidst all of the fear and uncertainty, Father Metzdorf stood with unwavering strength and gave others the gift of comfort. His story is similar to many of the police, fire and emergency responders who went into action, unafraid and unwilling to let cowards win the day.

As we honor those people lost five years ago and the heroes who helped rebuild an injured nation, let us also remember the men and women who are currently serving in our armed forces, who did not expect nor invite what would follow after September 11th. The people living in the San Diego region that I represent understand as well as anyone what kind of sacrifices come with military service. They have agreed to put a greater interest above their own and are the cornerstone of our Republic. They are defending the very thing the terrorists tried to destroy and we will never forget their service or sacrifices.

The truth is—we survived the worst and we still stand tall today. Bound by a common spirit of enterprise and a love of liberty, we have moved beyond the shadows cast by the events of September 11th and persevered. The terrorists may have succeeded in tearing down structures, but no deed can extinguish the flames of freedom, or the American spirit.

55th ANNIVERSARY OF AL-ANON

HON. JIM RAMSTAD OF MINNESOTA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, September 19, 2006

Mr. RAMSTAD. Mr. Speaker, this month marks the 55th anniversary of Al-Anon Family Groups. As co-chair of the Addiction, Treatment and Recovery Caucus, I want to recognize the tremendous work of this dedicated organization.

For over half a century, Al-Anon and Alateen have been a key source of support and hope for families and friends of alcoholics and addicts all over the world, with over 26,000 groups in 115 different countries.

Policymakers often focus attention on the individual with chemical addiction and forget or underestimate how devastating a loved one’s disease can be on friends and family members.

Thankfully, Al-Anon and Alateen have never forgotten and are always there whenever a hurting person reaches out for help. We owe a tremendous debt of gratitude to Al-Anon and Alateen.

This month not only marks the 55th anniversary of Al-Anon, it is also the 17th annual National Alcohol and Drug Addiction Recovery Month. As we celebrate the promise and possibility of recovery this month, we must also remember the loved ones impacted by this devastating disease. As the chemical dependency professionals tell us, chemical addiction is truly a “family disease.”

Thanks to Al-Anon, these individuals have a place to go where they can find hope and support. For that we owe this wonderful organization and all of its members our support and gratitude for 55 years of dedicated service.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker, and thank you, Al-Anon and Alateen.

HON. JO ANN DAVIS OF VIRGINIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, September 19, 2006

Mrs. JO ANN DAVIS of Virginia. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to call attention to the accomplishments of a great man and a great Virginian, Dr. Raymond A. Bell, Senior Pastor at Mount Hope Baptist Church.

Dr. Bell celebrates his 20th Anniversary with Mount Hope Baptist Church on September 23, 2006. Dr. Bell is a true pillar of his community. As a leader in the faith community and an advocate for his congregation, Dr. Bell is a real example of the values held dear by Virginians—hard work, perseverance, and dedication.

Mr. Speaker, Dr. Bell is a true American leader. A successful reverend and public servant who has worked tirelessly for so many years, I wish Dr. Bell many more years to so greatly impact his fellow Virginians.

“FLOOD INSURANCE COMMUNITY OUTREACH GRANT PROGRAM ACT OF 2006”

HON. DORIS O. MATSUI
OF CALIFORNIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, September 19, 2006

Ms. MATSUI. Mr. Speaker, one year after Hurricanes Katrina and Rita, it is clear that more needs to be done to protect and prepare homeowners from future catastrophic flooding.
Which is why I have introduced the “Flood Insurance Community Outreach Grant Program Act of 2006.” The intent of this legislation is to increase the overall participation in the National Flood Insurance Program (NFIP) while moving the program toward long-term stability and solvency.

My legislation will forge a stronger partnership between the federal government and local floodplain managers. It will: Create a grant program within FEMA to educate property owners about their flood risk and about the importance of flood insurance; and Funds this grant program at $50 million dollars annually over five years.

People at risk of flooding need to know their options and our local floodplain managers are our best partners in this effort. To put it quite simply, with 20,000 participating communities in NFIP—one size does not fit all. Our local partners know the risks, they know the landscape and in many cases they know the people. They know how to reach out to the people in their flood plain.

They can focus on the estimated 20 to 25 percent of property owners who have fallen through the cracks of our flood insurance system. People who are supposed to carry flood insurance, but do not carry it. Or use the money for an educational campaign directed towards people living in areas protected by levees, but not subject to the federal flood insurance requirement. Spreading the message: Levees can fail or overtop in severe weather. So it is common sense to carry flood insurance, even if the federal government no longer requires it.

This program can work.

Last year, with the support of a $162,000 FEMA grant, my local flood protection body, the Sacramento Area Flood Control Agency (SAFCA), conducted just such a flood insurance outreach initiative.

SAFCA reached out to more than 45,000 National Flood Insurance Program (NFIP) policyholders in the American River floodplain. In February 2005, this densely populated region was released from the Federal flood insurance requirement.

SAFCA’s efforts yielded impressive results.

More than one year after SAFCA conducted outreach, 74 percent of the 45,000 NFIP policyholders who were removed from the Federal requirement had maintained their flood insurance protection.

Of this group, 43 percent now carry Preferred Risk flood insurance. Preferred Risk Policies provide property owners, who have been released from the federal requirement, but remain at risk of flooding, with full flood insurance protection for about half the price of a Standard flood policy. Because of their lower cost, it is likely that these Preferred Risk Policies will result in a higher level of policy retention over time.

Through this partnership with SAFCA, FEMA was able to retain a high number of flood insurance policies in the Sacramento region—a region that accounts for nearly 1 in 4 of all flood insurance policies in California.

Increasing the number of people who carry and hold on to their flood insurance will only strengthen the National Flood Insurance Program. And as Katrina made painfully clear: We need a strong and functional program to be there for our constituents in times of crisis.

While this grant program would be funded at $50 million annually and authorized for 5 years, I want to emphasize that this grant program has an excellent return on its investment.

For FEMA to recoup its initial grant to SAFCA, 550 Preferred Risk Policies had to be sold to property owners who otherwise would have canceled their flood insurance. SAFCA accomplished this . . . more than 20 times over.

Because of the FEMA and SAFCA partnership, more than 35,000 property owners who did not have to carry flood insurance stayed in the federal flood insurance pool. What is more, nearly 13,000 policyholders in the American River floodplain switched to Preferred Risk Policies.

In short, FEMA got its money’s worth. And this says nothing of the Sacramento premiums that will continue to come into the Federal flood insurance pool each year these policyholders maintain their flood insurance.

Again, most of these policyholders no longer have to buy flood insurance. They do so because it is the safe thing to do. Because SAFCA has alerted them to the ongoing flood risk in their community. And because they saw what happened on the Gulf Coast.

If we can have this type of success in Sacramento, I am confident it can be replicated across the country.

These local outreach efforts will augment and benefit FEMA’s existing marketing program by targeting property owners who are most likely to leave the NFIP—those who have been or will be released from the Federal flood insurance requirement.

The lesson learned here is that people whose houses, apartments and businesses are vulnerable to flooding are willing to enter and stay in the National Flood Insurance Program when they are informed of the risk they face and the options available to them.

Let me be clear; I speak from experience.

We are making strides in strengthening and reinforcing the levees in Sacramento and making improvements to Folsom Dam—but whenever I talk about these efforts, I remind my constituents, “If you live behind a levee, you should purchase flood insurance.”

Finally, I am encouraged by the efforts we are making as a Nation to develop a comprehensive flood protection agenda.

FEMA is in the process of implementing their Map Modernization Program that will update our Nation’s flood maps.

Additionally, the Army Corps of Engineers is conducting a national levee inventory. When completed, this inventory will provide communities with a greater understanding of their flooding vulnerabilities. It will also provide us with a good indication as a country as to what long-term investments need to be made toward our flood protection infrastructure.

Both the FEMA Remapping Initiative and the levee inventory are important to the long-term safety and economic security of our country. The “Flood Insurance Community Outreach Grant Program Act of 2006” would be an excellent resource for communities to augment these initiatives.

This bill is a step in the right direction in providing for comprehensive flood protection for property owners and communities. I urge my colleagues to support this important legislation.
