11 Congress finds the following:

(1) The Internet has facilitated the growth of a multi-billion dollar global market for images and video of children being sexually-displayed, raped, and

1 tortured, far exceeding the capacity of law enforce-
2 ment to respond at the Federal, State, and local 3 level.

4 (2) The explosion of child pornography traf-
5 ficking is claiming very young victims. Research by 6 the Department of Justice, the University of New 7 Hampshire, and the National Center for Missing
8 and Exploited Children indicates that among those 9 arrested for possession of child pornography, 83 per-10 cent have images of children 6-12 years old, 39 per-
11 cent have images of children 3-5 years old, and 19
12 percent have images of children under the age of 3
13 years old.

14 (3) The images and videos being trafficked typi-
15 cally depict sexual assaults that are both graphic
16 and brutal. The research described in paragraph (2)
17 also indicates that 80 percent of known child por-
18 nography possessors have images of children being 19 sexually penetrated and 21 percent have images de-
20 picting children bound, gagged, blindfolded, or “oth-21 erwise enduring sadistic sex.” Just one percent of 22 such possessors restricted their collecting to images
23 of simple child nudity.

24 (4) Millions of children and teens in the United 25 States are at risk from sexual predators who are

1 hunting, stalking, and luring minors online. Along 2 with the incredible access to the world offered our 3 children by the Internet, the Internet also offers the 4 world access to our children.

5 (5) The Internet Crimes Against Children task
6 forces at the Department of Justice have identified 7 millions of child pornography transactions involving 8 images and video of child sexual assault from mil-
9 lions of computer IP addresses worldwide.

10 (6) The ICAC Program has been highly suc-
11 cessful in creating and sustaining an emerging na-
12 tional network of 59 Federal, State, and local task
13 forces in all 50 States, which form the backbone of 14 national readiness to combat child exploitation.

15 (7) In testimony before Congress, law enforce-16 ment experts have expressed consensus that lack of 17 law enforcement resources, including dedicated fo-
18 rensic analysis capacity, is a severe problem at the 19 Federal, State, and local level, severely limiting the 20 number of predators that can be interdicted and 21 children that can be identified and rescued.

22 (8) The Federal Bureau of Investigation,
23 United States Immigrations and Customs Enforce-
24 ment, and the United States Postal Inspection Serv-
25 ice have each developed highly specialized and suc-

1 ccessful child exploitation investigative capabilities,
2 yet these agencies have testified to Congress that
3 they must triage the overwhelming number of child
4 exploitation crimes and cannot investigate a large
5 percentage of known crimes.

6 (9) Child pornography and online child entice-
7 ment crimes have among the highest conviction rates
8 of any child sexual offense, and the research funded
9 by the Department of Justice indicates that the ma-
10 jority of child pornography offenders have committed 11 or attempted direct sexual contact offenses against 12 children. Investigating and prosecuting these preda-
13 tors is one of the most concrete and measurable
14 strategies for the prevention of future child sexual 15 abuse.

16 SEC. 3. DEFINITIONS.

17 In this Act, the following definitions shall apply:
