10 information.

11 (7) STRATEGIC PLAN OF THE DEPARTMENT OF 12 STATE.—The term “Strategic Plan of the Depart-13 ment of State” means the Strategic Plan for Fiscal 14 Years 2007–2012 of the Department of State and 15 the United States Agency for International Develop-16 ment revised on May 2, 2007.

17 SEC. 503. FINDINGS.

18 Congress makes the following findings:

19 (1) Accurate, timely, and comprehensive foreign 20 intelligence and information are critical to the na-
21 tional security of United States and the furtherance 22 of the foreign policy goals of the United States.

23 (2) It is in the national security and foreign 24 policy interests of the United States to ensure the 25 global deployment of personnel of the Government of

1 the United States who are responsible for collecting, 2 reporting, and analyzing foreign intelligence and in-3 formation, including specifically personnel from the 4 intelligence community and the Department of 5 State, as well as other elements of the Government
6 of the United States, and that adequate resources
7 are committed to effect such collection, reporting,
8 and analysis.

9 (3) The National Security Strategy of the
10 United States of America issued on March 16, 2006
11 summarized the National Security Strategy of the 12 United States of America issued on September 17, 13 2002 and provided that “defeating terrorism re-
14 quires a long-term strategy and a break with old 15 patterns”.

16 (4) The National Security Strategy of the
17 United States of America issued on March 16, 2006
18 asserts that “our diplomats must be able to step 19 outside their traditional role to become more in-20 volved with the challenges within other societies, 21 helping them directly, channeling assistance, and 22 learning from their experience”.

23 (5) The 2005 National Intelligence Strategy
24 and the 2006 Annual Report of the United States
25 Intelligence Community identified 5 major missions

1 of the intelligence community to support the na-
2 tional security requirements of the United States,
3 the first 2 of which, defeating terrorism and pre-4 venting and countering the spread of weapons of 5 mass destruction, are global and transnational in na-
6 ture.

7 (6) The third major mission identified by the 8 2005 National Intelligence Strategy and the 2006
9 Annual Report, bolstering the growth of democracy
10 and sustaining peaceful democratic states, requires a 11 global commitment of intelligence resources.

12 (7) The 2005 National Intelligence Strategy
13 and the 2006 Annual Report identify as a major 14 mission the need to “anticipate developments of 15 strategic concern and identify opportunities as well 16 as vulnerabilities for decision makers”.

17 (8) The 2006 Annual Report provides the fol-
18 lowing:

19 (A) “In a world in which developments in 20 distant reaches of the globe can quickly affect 21 American citizens and interests at home and 22 abroad, the Intelligence Community must alert
23 policy makers to problems before they escalate
24 and provide insights into their causes and ef-
25 fects. Analysis must do more than just describe

1 what is happening and why; it must identify a
2 range of opportunities for (and likely con-
3 sequences of) diplomatic, military, law enforce-
4 ment, economic, financial, or homeland security
5 action. To support policymakers, the Intel-
6 ligence Community should develop, sustain, and 7 maintain access to expertise on every region, 8 every transnational security issue, and every 9 threat to the American people.”.

10 (B) “[I]ntelligence collectors and analysts
11 provide a great deal of information to help pol-
12 icymakers understand the spread of free institu-
13 tions and the perils they often face.”.

14 (C) “We still need to re-balance, integrate,
15 and optimize collection capabilities to meet cur-
16 rent and future customer and analytic prior-17 ities. Collection is ... what gives the [Intel-
18 ligence Community] its ‘competitive advantage’
19 in protecting the United States and its inter-20 ests.”.

21 (D) “One challenge to improving the cov-
22 erage of emerging and strategic issues across 23 the Intelligence Community has been the diver-
24 sion of resources to current crisis support ...”.

1 (E) “Collection against terrorists in places
2 like Iraq and Afghanistan took a substantial
3 share of the [Intelligence Community’s] re-
4 sources and efforts in FY 2006.”.

5 (F) “With so many [Intelligence Commu-
6 nity] resources dedicated to the War on Terror
7 and WMD programs in closed regimes, the [In-8 telligence] Community’s collection efforts still 9 have to devote significant attention to potential 10 or emerging threats of strategic consequence.”.

11 (9) On January 23, 2007, the Deputy Director 12 of National Intelligence for Collection testified to the 13 Select Committee on Intelligence of the Senate that 14 there is a “need to get the Intelligence Community 15 back to what I grew up calling global reach”, stating 16 that “we don’t have that today”. She further testi-
17 fied that “our challenge is ... with [Congress’s] help 18 [to get back] to a place where we can do global 19 reach, and pay attention to places that we are not”.

20 (10) On February 14, 2008, the Director of 21 National Intelligence testified to the Select Com-
22 mittee on Intelligence of the Senate that “certainly 23 current crisis support takes a disproportionate 24 share” of intelligence resources over emerging and 25 strategic issues.

1 (11) The Strategic Plan of the Department of 2 State—

3 (A) provides that “National security starts
4 overseas, and our mission is to create conditions
5 abroad that serve and protect American citizens
6 and interests.”;

7 (B) provides as a strategic goal that “Our 8 diplomatic and development activities will re-9 duce the threat or impact of violent conflict by 10 developing early warning. . .capability.”; and 11 (C) establishes that the Department of 12 State will “emphasize regional solutions to re-

13 gional problems and sustainable, long-term
14 strategies to address complex challenges”.

15 SEC. 504. ESTABLISHMENT AND FUNCTIONS OF THE COM-
16 MISSION.

17 (a) ESTABLISHMENT.—There is established in the 18 legislative branch a Foreign Intelligence and Information

6 with human and budgetary resources; and

7 (B) provide recommendations for directing re-
8 sources to such missions;

9 (6)(A) evaluate the extent to which the require-
10 ment, stated in 2005 National Intelligence Strategy

2 human and budgetary resources have supported such 3 plans; and

4 (B) provide recommendations to improve proc-

6 for effective collection of foreign intelligence and in-
