PROCEEDINGS AND DEBATES OF THE 110th CONGRESS, SECOND SESSION

Vol. 154

WASHINGTON, TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 23, 2008

No. 151

House of Representatives

The House met at 9 a.m. and was called to order by the Speaker pro tempore (Mr. STUPAK).

DESIGNATION OF SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The SPEAKER pro tempore laid before the House the following communication from the Speaker:

WASHINGTON, DC,
September 23, 2008.

I hereby appoint the Honorable BART STUPAK to act as Speaker pro tempore on this day.

NANCY PELOSI,
Speaker of the House of Representatives.

MORNING-HOUR DEBATE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the order of the House of January 4, 2007, the Chair will now recognize Members from lists submitted by the majority and minority leaders for morning-hour debate.

The Chair will alternate recognition between the parties, with each party limited to 25 minutes and each Member, other than the majority and minority leaders and the minority whip, limited to 5 minutes, but in no event shall debate continue beyond 9:50 a.m.

THE ECONOMIC TRAIN WRECK: IT MATTERS WHO IS IN THE WHITE HOUSE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Oregon (Mr. BLUMENAUER) for 5 minutes.

Mr. BLUMENAUER. Mr. Speaker, it has been a painful experience for all of us watching this slow-motion economic train wreck get worse and worse.

One of the lessons over the last dozen years that I have been in Congress is that it matters deeply who is in the White House. One can just look at the bankruptcy legislation, the so-called “reform,” as it worked its way through Congress getting actually worse in various iterations. When Bill Clinton was no longer there to veto it, it was embraced by the Bush administration and enacted into law to the detriment of the vast majority of American citizens.

One looks at how for 13 years when the Fed Chairman refused to use the authority to reign in the subprime mortgage madness, the “froth” that Mr. Greenspan referred to. We went from the firm leadership of the Clinton White House Treasury Team of Rubin and Summers to the drift of the Bush Treasury with O’Neill and Snow.

I appreciate the efforts by Speaker PELOSI and Chairman FRANK to protect the taxpayers, to rein in the people who have driven these companies over the edge and our economy into the ditch, to assure that they don’t profit from any Federal bailout, to stop the golden parachutes. This may seem to some to be relatively small potatoes given the hundreds of billions of dollars that are being tossed around, but it is incredibly important in terms of the signals we are going to send to people who are going to behave recklessly in the management of corporations. It is critical that we don’t rub the nose of the public in this failure by rewarding people who have helped create this disaster.

It’s important that we take the time to craft this properly, to have a shorter leash for the Treasury, particularly because there is such a dramatic difference that we are hearing on the campaign trail between a Senator MCCAIN, who has repeatedly said that the fundamentals of the economy are strong even as he has advocated policies and has been counseled by people like Phil Gramm who helped make those fundamentals weaker. Senator OBAMA has appropriately highlighted the problems, proposing reasonable solutions, while convening groups of people who understand the problem, who have credibility, and the reasonable principles and solution.

Some of the key elements that should be pursued from my perspective are, first and foremost, to not put the taxpayer on the hook for any more than is absolutely necessary. That sounds simple, but we see proposals coming forward that would have us not simply mark to market, to just buy the value of the damaged items but things that are going to actually accelerate the amount of loss. It is important that we get something in return, get back equity. This is not unprecedented. This is just what happened a few days ago with insurance giant AIG, and it should be a principle that is applied to any other institutions that are going to receive Federal assistance.

It is absolutely critical that we focus on two groups that we need to be more sensitive to than the reckless and the greedy: homeowners and retirees. It is important to stabilize the middle class housing market on which so much of not just our economy but the stability of our communities relies. Today’s retirees are in danger of paying the greatest price of all. Many are already losing what they thought were lifetime guarantees of health care and pensions as corporations they retired from rewrite the rules. Too many have less saved, they have longer lives in retirement, and they are going to be forced to deal with more risk than ever before.

All of this suggests, while I think we are moving in the right direction changing some of these proposals, just because the Secretary of the Treasury and the Fed Chair made some rash comments about urgency, Congress should not rush it; it needs the time to get this right.

SECRETARY PAULSON AND THE BAILOUT LEGISLATION

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Oregon (Mr. DEFAZIO) for 5 minutes.

Mr. DEFAZIO. Mr. Speaker, 2007 was a great year on Wall Street, 2007, bonuses of $38 billion to themselves. Secretary Paulson came to us just having received a $39 million bonus from Goldman Sachs, came here to the applause of the Wall Street elites and others.

His first crisis was Bear Stearns. He bailed out Bear Stearns, or he had them acquired with Federal guarantees. But he said, don't worry, the fundamentals of our economy are sound. Then along came Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac. He wanted Congress to give them an unlimited line of credit, but don't worry, it's only a crisis of confidence. Their fundamentals are sound. They probably won't even need the line of credit. Congress went along with that. I voted "no." The fundamentals of America are sound, he said.

A month later he had to take over Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac, unprecedented, accumulating maybe $5 trillion of debt onto the books of the Federal Government all at once. But not to worry. We'll work our way through it. The fundamentals are sound.

Then came Lehman Brothers. It's just one firm, he says. Let 'em go, let the market work. Our fundamentals are sound. Two days later AIG, a big company, a lot of money in insurance, annuities, other things, too big to fail, broke a 50-year precedent, put Federal money into an insurance company. But not to worry, this is just a little blip. Our fundamentals are sound.

Then Thursday night he has a closed-door meeting with congressional leadership, and he says, if we don't do a bailout plan tomorrow, the economy is going to collapse.

Now, wait a minute. This guy has been consistently wrong and out of touch or he has been lying to Congress and the American people about how sound our fundamentals are. Now he wants us to trust him with the keys of the treasury and no restrictions on how he would spend the money in his next bailout. He is compromised, in my opinion, because of his relationship with Goldman Sachs and Wall Street, not with Main Street America. My small banks are not clamoring for this. My credit unions aren't clamoring for this. They are still making loans. They're saying there's a credit crunch. Guess what, if you've got good credit in Oregon, you can go to the credit union, you can go to a small bank, and then the small bank can sell the loan to the Federal Government, that is, Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac, thanks to Mr. PAULSON.

But he's saying to us here I've got a deal for you. Let's think of Henry Hank Paulson as a realtor. Here's the deal: He's got a great house he wants to sell you. Now, the thing about that is he can't give you an appraisal on the house. There are no market comparables. And he can't tell you what it's going to cost. But it is a great deal for you.

That is the bailout he is proposing, to take this junk from Wall Street that no one understands and put it on the Federal books. What if we spend, borrow $700 billion and the market continues to go down? That's what the Asian market said yesterday. They said, wait a minute, it sounded good at first, but where is the U.S. going to get the $700 billion? Who's going to lend it to them? Or are they just going to print it and cause inflation? And what if it doesn't work? What will they do then? We aren't dealing with some of the fundamental underlying problems that we have now.

And now I find out by reading the Washington Times that very quietly they have folded in all student loan debt, all automobile debt, and all credit card debt. So the Federal Government is now not only going to be in the housing business, it's not only going to be in the insurance business, suddenly we are going to be in the repo business, out there collecting cars around America so we can sell them to try to get back some of the taxpayers' money.

This is nuts. Congress should not do this this week. We need to understand what's going on. They can't be slipping in little things like this and trying to jam this bill through. This is way too much like the rush to war when Congress was under pressure to go home for elections. Forget about the elections. This is about the future of the United States of America and our financial system. And if we have to stay here every day in October to understand this and get it right, we should.

THE BAD OLD DAYS

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. CUELLAR). The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Washington (Mr. McDERMOTT) for 5 minutes.

Mr. McDERMOTT. Mr. Speaker, in my Seventh Congressional District in Washington State, and in towns and cities across the United States, the American people are justifiably outraged and at the same time dumbfounded that the President would send the Treasury Secretary up here to Congress asking for a blank check, declaring the sky will immediately fall if he doesn't get it. With a straight face, but no straight talk, he demanded unchecked, unlimited power to spend $700 billion of taxpayer money any way he sees fit. From the moment this President took office 8 years ago, his administration has done everything possible to roll back the clock to the roaring '20s, and now they want to roll the American people to pay for it.

For the last 8 years, this administration rewarded Wall Street and ignored Main Street. For 8 long years, this administration encouraged practices that have taken America back to the finances of 1929. But now this administration wants the American people to pay $700 billion for Wall Street's ignorance and greed, and what are they going to do with it? The American people are asked to sacrifice, but what about Wall Street? What does the President ask of them? Wall Street lobbyists are here by the busload, trying to cut deals to sweeten the pot for the people who pay them millions. When someone suggested any potential bailout ought to include a provision to refinance some mortgages, the lobbyists declared the sky would fall. And when somebody declared that there would not be golden parachutes for executives who masterminded this mess, we were told that that would be punitive. And then when the White House relented and said they might give a little on golden parachutes, the American people are supposed to be thankful and give in.

In case anybody has forgotten, the golden parachutes originally pegged at $13 million for the chief executives of Freddie and Fannie were cut. They ended up only getting $9 million. Does that sound like sacrifice to you?

Friends and supporters of this administration have had 8 years of unregulated, unfettered access to the wallets of the American people. Their complex derivatives and mathematical formulas were used to create financial products that can best be described in a single phrase: house of cards. This administration permitted, encouraged, and now wants to mortgage this house of cards to the American people. They take no responsibility for their role in the crisis. Instead, they warn the American people that they might suffer mightily if they do not act within a week. Suddenly the administration and the Republican Party that regularly decry government intervention now clamor for it, but only because they can't find $700 billion anywhere else.

How do they propose to pay for it? Does the President offer to reduce the massive tax holidays enjoyed over the last 8 years by the rich? Did they offer something that would benefit the working Americans who don't want to pay for this?

To all the American families where the husband and wife work two, three, four jobs to make ends meet, to all the single moms and dads who play by the rules, the administration has offered you a threat and a share in paying this $700 billion mortgage on a house of cards. This administration has brought America to the brink of national bankruptcy, and they are banking on fear again. They used fear to go to war. They used fear to take away your civil rights and spy on you. And now they are using fear of financial collapse, and they are just trying to scare you into getting them to do whatever they want.

There's a line that aptly describes this situation: "Fool me once, shame on you. Fool me twice, shame on me." Don't be fooled.

Mr. Speaker, remember, trust is something that is already bankrupt.

The bank of trust in this administration is absolutely bankrupt. They have misled, lied, misrepresented, whatever word you want to use, on issue after issue. And now they give us 7 days. Come back, take out your wallet, and give them everything that's in it, $700 billion. Well, actually, we don't have to give them anything. We're going to borrow it from the Chinese. Let's borrow our way.

When will they talk about how you pay for the profligacy of this administration?

S.J. RES. 45, GREAT LAKES-ST. LAWRENCE RIVER BASIN WATER RESOURCES COMPACT

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. STUPAK) for 5 minutes.

Mr. STUPAK. Mr. Speaker, today the House will vote on the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence River Basin Water Resource Compact. I am asking Members to vote "no" and slow down the approval of this compact.

I am deeply concerned that this compact would allow Great Lakes water to be defined as a "product." By allowing water to be defined as a "product," the compact could subject the Great Lakes to international trade agreements such as the North American Free Trade Agreement, NAFTA; or the World Trade Organization, WTO.

There is also no language in the compact that recognizes that Great Lakes water is held in public trust. The public owns the waters of the Great Lakes, and anything Congress passes should preserve this principle.

The compact was created in response to the first large-scale threat of privatization of the Great Lakes. In 1998 the Ontario Minister of Natural Resources granted a permit to a private firm, the Nova Group, to ship millions of gallons of Lake Superior water to China. I led the fight opposing the sale of our Great Lakes water, and we were successful in pressuring the Canadian Government to suspend this permit. This case exposed the region's vulnerability to private and public entities who wished to commercialize the world's largest body of fresh water for financial gain. While the original intent of the Great Lakes Compact was to protect our water from diversions, the compact the States have sent to Congress may unintentionally have the opposite effect and set a precedent that would open up the door to water diversions.

The Great Lakes Governors have spent more than 3 years addressing the local and State implications of the compact. Unfortunately, we have not undergone the same deliberative process. We have spent less than 20 legislative days since the introduction of this legislation. We have conducted no hearings to consider the Federal and international implications. Congress is rushing to a vote when one of our Nation's most precious natural resources, the Great Lakes, is at stake. So before we ratify the Great Lakes Compact, the following questions must be fully investigated:

First, how does the compact's exemption of water in containers smaller than 5.7 gallons affect the Federal prohibition on diversions under the Water Resources Development Act?

Second, will creating a Federal definition of Great Lakes water as a "product" subject it to international trade law or agreements such as NAFTA or WTO?

Third, what actions taken by the Great Lakes States to protect the Great Lakes from international commercial entities who seek to privatize the Great Lakes ever be subject to claims under GATT, the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade; or the WTO?

I have asked these questions to the International Joint Commission, the United States Trade Representative, and the Department of State before Congress adjourned for the August recess. While these agencies have acknowledged my requests, they were unable to provide any substantive answers. Without answers to these questions, Members should vote "no" on this legislation. I do not know how any Member in good conscience could vote to approve legislation that may unintentionally open the Great Lakes water to diversions through privatization, commercialization, and exportation. So I urge my colleagues to slow this process down. There is no time limit on this agreement. We can take our time.

So I urge you to vote "no" on Senate Joint Resolution 45 so we may fully address the questions and pass a compact that truly protects the Great Lakes.

THE BAILOUT LEGISLATION

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Vermont (Mr. WELCH) for 2 minutes.

Mr. WELCH of Vermont. Mr. Speaker, I want to read a letter from a Vermonter about this bailout. It's from a banker.

"I am a community banker who is irate about the recent developments on Wall Street and recent bailouts that our government has undertaken. The great, great majority of banks in this country never made one subprime loan, and 98 percent are well capitalized. We are working every day to serve our communities and provide loans to consumers and small businesses. Banks have paid tens of billions of premiums to fund the FDIC insurance fund, and we know we are going to have significantly increased premiums for years to come. We accept that and we don't ask for or need a bailout.

"Bear Sterns, Fannie Mae, Freddie Mac, and AIG are not banks. Yet we hear constant talk about 'bank problems' and 'bank bailouts.' Now Congress is going to vote on legislation to consider a fund with billions of dollars in it to buy distressed assets and some want to add amendments that will hurt my bank, the local community bank, such as changes in the bankruptcy laws.

"My bank is trying to serve its community and make loans, but it cannot do that when policymakers are adopting policies that may make it hard to lend and increase regulatory costs. While a stable financial system is essential, these measures cannot be done at the expense of community banks like mine. I implore you to please consider the impact of these proposals and oppose any effort to include provisions that would hurt our community banks."

BY HELPING MAIN STREET, WE CAN HELP WALL STREET

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. HOLT) for 2 minutes.

Mr. HOLT. Mr. Speaker, here's the problem as I understand it with the financial crisis that is called the worst in decades, maybe ever.

Time and complicated securities. The rescue must be done immediately or else the financial house will collapse, Paulson says. Second, the taxpayers say they don't know if they are getting anything of fair value for the $700 billion they are asked to put up. No one knows the value of these securities, and Paulson says there isn't time to find out. Trust him, he says. He won't pay too much. Maybe the market can even help him determine the fair value.

Yes, we may need to act quickly to staunch the crisis of confidence. Yes, the government may have to commit a lot of money to prop up the value of the investments. But rather than coming to the rescue by standing behind the investment paper, which is a mix of good and bad mortgages that have poisonous bad mortgages mixed with good, rather than committing $700 billion to something that Paulson and Bernanke and others say they don't really understand, why not stand behind the mortgages themselves? At least then the public will know what they are getting for their $700 billion and it will help the homeowner, the neighborhood, the community, and the investor.

There is an antecedent. The Home Owners' Loan Corporation of the 1930s through the 1950s helped people, individuals, with their mortgages. It was a Federal program that shored up a collapsing market. And, incidentally, when it finally went out of business, it showed a net plus for the taxpayer.

Let's take a breath, show the world that the Government of the United States will not let the financial house collapse. And let's go to the root of the problem.

I have been taking calls in my office from people who say "help Main Street, not Wall Street." Well, in fact, by helping Main Street, we can help Wall Street. But by helping Wall Street, we don't necessarily help Main Street. Bailing out those holders of financial paper does not stop the homeowner from the foreclosure. If we go to the root of the problem, we can help both.

CALLING ON THE PRESIDENT TO TAKE RESPONSIBILITY AND DEMONSTRATE LEADERSHIP IN THIS TIME OF FINANCIAL CRISIS

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentlewoman from Minnesota (Ms. MCCOLLUM) for 1½ minutes.

Ms. MCCOLLUM of Minnesota. Mr. Speaker, our Nation is facing the most serious financial crisis since the Great Depression. Where is President Bush? The Republican President is asking every hardworking American taxpayer to pay $5,200 to rescue reckless banks and incompetent financiers.

If saving our economy demands such enormous sacrifices from the American taxpayers, then I urge the President to come before a joint session of Congress to ask the American people for their support. President Bush has an obligation to talk to the American people and their elected leaders. Only this President could explain why his $700 billion taxpayer-funded rescue package that calls for unprecedented government powers is needed.

President Bush is in New York today speaking before the United Nations. Why isn't President Bush speaking to the American people and this Congress? This time of crisis is no time for the President of the United States to be abdicating his duty. President Bush needs to take responsibility and demonstrate leadership.

BAILOUT LEGISLATION: THE ADMINISTRATION IS SAYING TWO THINGS AND ONE OF THEM MUST BE FALSE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from California (Mr. SHERMAN) for 1½ minutes.

Mr. SHERMAN. Mr. Speaker, the administration is saying two things, and one of them must be false. In public they say the sky is falling. If you don't pass this bill immediately, the entire economy will be destroyed.

In private they say we're going to veto this bill, Democrats, if you try to put anything in it that we find difficult. That is like a man who claims to be desperate in the desert for water, throwing water back at your face, and demanding Perrier.

They have threatened two vetoes. First, if the administration doesn't get all the power. They will accept review oversight, which means we can look at their transactions after they are done. But they reject the idea of an independent board that has control, and determines whether or not the contract can be entered into.

Second, they reject any serious limitation on executive compensation.

They reject anything other than a few tweaks on those with golden parachutes who are leaving, which means they want total compensation, in the millions of dollars, for the bailout executives who are staying.

How can the administration tell us that the sky will fall if we don't pass a bill, and then block the passage of a good bill by saying they are going to veto anything that doesn't put all the unfettered power in the administration, and all the money in the pockets of the Wall Street executives?

They are not telling us the truth.

RECESS

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 12(a) of rule I, the Chair declares the House in recess until 10 a.m. today.

Accordingly (at 9 o'clock and 30 minutes a.m.), the House stood in recess until 10 a.m.

AFTER RECESS

The recess having expired, the House was called to order at 10 a.m.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, the Reverend Daniel P. Coughlin, offered the following prayer:

Lord God, Your generosity of blessing has filled the Earth. We believe You have endowed this Nation with singular gifts and resources, especially its diverse people. Throughout our history, even to this day, we have been a grateful people, and our expressions of praise and thanks have shown us to be proud patriots, yet humble servants, always trusting in Your bountiful love.

Today, shower our Nation with renewed wisdom and understanding. Empower us to take bold but prudent steps to reestablish confidence in our financial markets and regulatory systems, that both here at home and abroad our transparency of truth and justice will reveal us as a people who find true freedom in being law-abiding citizens seeking the common good for all.

Lead and guide us, Lord, now and forever. Amen.

THE JOURNAL

The SPEAKER. The Chair has examined the Journal of the last day's proceedings and announces to the House her approval thereof.

Pursuant to clause 1, rule I, the Journal stands approved.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE

The SPEAKER. The Pledge of Allegiance will be led by the gentleman from Texas (Mr. SMITH).

Mr. SMITH of Texas led the Pledge of Allegiance as follows:

I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE

A message from the Senate by Ms. Curtis, one of its clerks, announced that the Senate has passed without amendment a bill of the House of the following title:

H.R. 6893. An act to amend parts B and E of title IV of the Social Security Act to connect and support relative caregivers, improve outcomes for children in foster care, provide for tribal foster care and adoption access, improve incentives for adoption, and for other purposes.

The message also announced that the Senate has passed with amendments in which the concurrence of the House is requested, a bill of the House of the following title:

H.R. 5834. An act to amend the North Korean Human Rights Act of 2004 to promote respect for the fundamental human rights of the people of North Korea, and for other purposes.

The message also announced that the Senate has passed bills and agreed to Concurrent Resolutions of the following titles in which the concurrence of the House is requested:

S. 1193. An act to direct the Secretary of the Interior to take into trust 2 parcels of Federal land for the benefit of certain Indian Pueblos in the State of New Mexico.

S. 3341. An act to reauthorize and improve the Federal Financial Assistance Management Improvement Act of 1999.

S. Con. Res. 93. Concurrent Resolution supporting the goals and ideals of "National Sudden Cardiac Arrest Awareness Month".

S. Con. Res. 96. Concurrent Resolution commemorating Irena Sendler, a woman whose bravery saved the lives of thousands during the Holocaust and remembering her legacy of courage, selflessness, and hope.

SUPPORT CREDIT CARDHOLDERS' BILL OF RIGHTS ACT OF 2008

(Mrs. MALONEY of New York asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mrs. MALONEY of New York. Madam Speaker, later today, this House will consider H.R. 5244, the Credit Cardholders' Bill of Rights. It is landmark reform that will level the playing field between credit card companies and consumers.

For too long, card issuers have been able to do anything they want any time they want, and cardholders can take it or leave it. But credit cards have become an essential part of most households, and when rates are hiked retroactively, double-cycle billing charges interest on balances already paid, and when multiple over-limit fees are charged for just one over-limit transaction, something has gone haywire and consumers on Main Street often face the same kind of credit crunch that Wall Street is now coping with. Even the Federal Reserve calls these credit card practices "unfair, deceptive, and anti-competitive."

Every game needs an umpire, and today the House can help "backstop"

American consumers with these reforms by passing the Credit Cardholders' Bill of Rights. I urge support for this important legislation.

AMERICAN PEOPLE EXPECT BETTER

(Mr. WILSON of South Carolina asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. WILSON of South Carolina. Mr. Speaker, the American people expect better from their government. When high gas prices and electricity bills threaten families across this Nation, the American people expect Congress to get serious and get to work. When the financial markets began to shake and the economy slows down, the American people expect Congress to stop and properly weigh the consequences of taxpayer-funded bailouts before acting. When this Nation needs to fund programs that move our country forward in a responsible manner, that respects the wallets of American taxpayers, the American people expect Congress to consider each different spending bill on its own merits.

This Democrat-led Congress has not sent even one appropriations bill to the President for his signature. In the last week of the session, I sincerely hope the majority of this Congress will seek bipartisan cooperation to serve the American people better.

In conclusion, God bless our troops, and we will never forget September the 11th.

"WALL STREET DRUNK"—MR. PRESIDENT, YOU GAVE THEM LIQUOR CABINET KEYS

(Mr. DOGGETT asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. DOGGETT. Mr. Speaker, a few months ago, President Bush accurately diagnosed the problem he just dumped in the lap of Congress: "Wall Street got drunk, and now it's got a hangover," he said.

Mr. President, you gave them the keys to the liquor cabinet by failing to enforce our laws, and now you are really demanding that Americans who didn't get invited to the party must pay for everything destroyed in the drunken brawl.

These late-night negotiators have not asked the President, "where do we find $700 billion?" It is time to demand that the bailout supporters outline the revenue measures necessary to pay for it, and the place to begin is with those who enriched themselves as Republicans removed the cop from the corporate beat.

We need an alternative to just raising the credit card limit, an alternative to more irresponsible borrow-and-spend policies from a President who has borrowed more from foreigners than all previous presidents in American history put together, and who seems determined to continue to mortgage America's future.

DEMAND ACCOUNTABILITY IN THE BAILOUT PACKAGE

(Mr. KIRK asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. KIRK. Mr. Speaker, let me strike a more bipartisan tone. Given the dire economic warnings that we see, Republicans and Democrats in this House must pull together to save the jobs and the economy for working Americans. But if there is to be a bailout, it must be a bailout with consequences. We should include a prohibition on taxpayer dollars being used for senior officer salaries or golden parachutes and require the termination for senior officers who are receiving aid.

Federal regulators rightly blocked the golden parachutes for the failed leaders of Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac. We should now set that precedent into law. If you get a taxpayer bailout, you lose your job and your parachute.

In the Navy, we know how to deal with this. If a skipper runs his ship aground, he is immediately relieved of command.

ANOTHER 4 YEARS OF FAILED POLICIES ARE NOT NEEDED

(Mr. ALTMIRE asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. ALTMIRE. Mr. Speaker, while the $700 billion Wall Street bailout that we are considering this week is proof of the failures of the economic policies of the past 8 years, we should not forget the policies that President Bush and the Republicans tried unsuccessfully to enact.

Imagine what we might be facing now had Republicans been successful in privatizing Social Security and tying its benefits to the stock market. And it was none other than Senator JOHN MCCAIN who just this month said that the American health care system would be better off if it were run more like our banking and financial markets.

Well, thankfully we didn't follow Republicans in tying Social Security to the stock market, and we didn't take Senator MCCAIN's advice to run our health care system like we run our financial system.

Mr. Speaker, our Nation simply cannot afford another 4 years of the same failed policies that got us into this mess in the first place.

ASSOCIATED PRESS SHOWS BIAS

(Mr. SMITH of Texas asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. SMITH of Texas. Mr. Speaker, the Associated Press is one of the largest and most influential news organizations in the world. It serves thousands of newspapers, radio stations and TV outlets. Americans expect the AP to be fair and unbiased in its reporting. Unfortunately, all too often it has fallen short.

For example, a comparison of AP news stories following the announcement of each vice presidential running mate shows that while dozens of AP stories characterized Governor Sarah Palin as "conservative," only three described Senator BIDEN as "liberal," even though the National Journal ranked him as the third most liberal Member of the U.S. Senate.

This is one example of a much larger media slant problem. In interviews, articles and news analysis, the media have grilled one side and coddled the other. The American people want the media to apply the same rules to both political parties in this election.

RECOGNIZING HENRY CEJUDO, 2008 BEIJING OLYMPICS GOLD MEDALIST

(Mr. BACA asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. BACA. Mr. Speaker, I stand here to share with you the history of Henry Cejudo, a true believer in the American dream.

Henry Cejudo proudly represented the United States in the 2008 Beijing Olympics in China, winning a gold medal in free-style wrestling. Henry was the youngest American wrestler in history to do this.

Overnight, Henry became a beacon of hope for so many in sports and wrestling in the United States. He is now also a beacon of hope for so many Latino immigrants. As the son of an immigrant mother from Mexico, Henry's story of struggle and sacrifice embodies what so many immigrant families have done every day.

Thanks to Henry, America has an Olympic gold medal in free-style wrestling. Thanks to Henry, the story of an immigrant's story for the American dream is still alive.

The contributions of immigrants throughout history for this country cannot be and must not be denied. I urge my colleagues to join me in this serious discussion of comprehensive immigration reform to help families like Henry's.

HONORING OLYMPIAN DAVID PAYNE

(Mr. CHABOT asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. CHABOT. Mr. Speaker, today I have the honor of recognizing Olympian David Payne, who hails from the Cincinnati suburb of Wyoming, on his remarkable athletic accomplishment in the 2008 Beijing Olympics. David brought home a silver medal in the 110 meter hurdles. He leaned across the finish line in an outstanding time of 13.17 seconds, really a tremendous effort.

Yet his road to the Olympics and the medal was not an easy one. David overcame a number of adversities in order to attain this goal.

In February, he had surgery to his appendix, had it removed. A month later, he bruised his heel bone, only to find out 6 weeks later that he had a stress fracture in the left tibia. "It hurts when I train," he said, "but it is an Olympic year, and in an Olympic year like this, you push until you can't push anymore."

David is just one class short of earning his degree from the University of Cincinnati and intends to return during the 2008 winter indoor season to finish.

Good luck, David, and congratulations on your outstanding performance.

REPUBLICAN ECONOMIC PHILOSOPHY PRODUCED OUR NATION'S ECONOMIC CRISIS

(Mr. CARNAHAN asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. CARNAHAN. Mr. Speaker, from 2001 to 2007, President Bush, Senator McCain, and the Republican Congress had the opportunity to finally implement the conservative economic ideas they have been talking about for decades.

During that 6-year period, Republicans controlled every branch of government. They instituted their plan that eliminated government regulation of big business. That's the Republican philosophy. Get government out of the way and let big business have their way.

Well, Wall Street had their way. For 6 years, large financial institutions were allowed to trade, to borrow, to loan funds to Americans and other institutions without anyone watching. That's the way Washington Republicans wanted it. Now we are seeing the results, the financial crisis on Wall Street and more pain on Main Street.

Today, the Bush administration wants this Congress to approve a Wall Street recovery package to the tune of $700 billion with no strings attached. We simply cannot give this administration a blank check on the backs of American taxpayers, and their children, and their grandchildren.

DEMOCRATS WANT TO WORK IN A BIPARTISAN WAY TO INSULATE MAIN STREET FROM WALL STREET

(Ms. EDDIE BERNICE JOHNSON of Texas asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Ms. EDDIE BERNICE JOHNSON of Texas. Mr. Speaker, the financial crisis on Wall Street did not happen overnight. For 8 years, this Bush administration refused to regulate the very financial institutions that they are now asking American taxpayers to bail out.

Congressional Democrats want to work in a bipartisan fashion to clean up this mess and to insulate Main Street from Wall Street. We will not be pressured into approving a $700 billion blank check for Wall Street that does not include any safeguards or any independent oversight.

We simply cannot hand over $700 billion of the American taxpayers' money to the Department of Treasury and hope for the best. Any bailout package needs to ensure that the actions of the administration are being watched by an independent observer who can report back to both Congress and the American taxpayer.

We also need to include some protections for homeowners who are in danger of losing their homes and some reasonable limits to the executive compensation for CEOs and top executives.

House Democrats will work in a bipartisan fashion to improve the economic recovery package.

GREED HAS CREATED A FINANCIAL CRISIS

(Ms. SHEA-PORTER asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Ms. SHEA-PORTER. Mr. Speaker, greed has created a financial crisis. I don't believe I have heard one single CEO from Wall Street apologize for the mess they put this country in. But if we are going to help Wall Street, we need to help Main Street as well.

This country lost more than 600,000 jobs last year. We need to be investing in our infrastructure so we can create jobs again. We also need to extend unemployment benefits so those who are looking for jobs will be able to pay for their families in the interim.

Because of the high energy prices, we are now going to have to provide more fuel heating assistance so that families won't have to choose between eating, or paying their rent, or their mortgage or their bills this month or next month or the next year, while we bail this country out.

We have an opportunity, finally, to look at Main Street. While we do this work for Wall Street, let's keep in mind the people of Main Street who pay the bills.

HONORING CINTHIA REYES

(Ms. RICHARDSON asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Ms. RICHARDSON. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize a very special young lady, Cinthia Reyes. I had the opportunity of meeting Cinthia, who recently enrolled in Long Beach City College, at a cancer walk-a-thon in my district. Her compelling story began when she was only in sixth grade, and she was diagnosed with a tumor, ovarian cancer, something much older women usually, unfortunately, have to face.

She had to miss school for 1 month, but she bravely faced that battle. Yet, now again, in her junior year high school, while most 11th graders are thinking about their local prom, in November of 2006 she was faced with another tumor in her appendix.

But I have a good story to tell about Cinthia. Despite two major surgeries, she has had a bright, positive outlook on life. She has inspired many children and befriended those at Long Beach Memorial and Children's Hospital, and she plans on being a nurse. How blessed would this country be.

Please join me as we fight the battle of having adequate health care for all Americans. In the United States, ovarian cancer is the eighth most common cancer among women, but it's usually diagnosed at about the age of 63.

DEMOCRATS WILL WORK WITH ADMINISTRATION, BUT CEO ACCOUNTABILITY IS NEEDED

(Mr. ARCURI asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. ARCURI. Mr. Speaker, as Congress and the Bush administration continue to discuss a proposal to help turn Wall Street around, it is important that the administration know that this Congress is not going to just hand over $700 billion without any accountability or oversight.

The administration's proposal is a nonstarter, because it does not hold Wall Street executives accountable for their bad decisions. The crisis on Wall Street did not just happen. CEOs and other executives at the financial institutions made bad decisions, and we need to ensure their bad decisions are not rewarded.

For years, CEOs have been walking away from faltering companies with millions of dollars in compensation. Last year, the CEO of Merrill Lynch resigned after the company lost $10 billion, and its stock lost 45 percent of its value. Despite these failures, the CEO walked away with $161 million retirement package.

In any Wall Street recovery package, we need to ensure that the CEOs are not rewarded for their poor decisions with bonuses and other large compensation packages. They need to be held accountable. This is the taxpayers' money.

NO GOLDEN PARACHUTE

(Mr. HALL of New York asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. HALL of New York. Mr. Speaker, there are millions of Americans across this country who have lost a house, lost a job or lost their investments through no fault of their own, and they don't have a rich corporate bonus. They don't have a golden parachute or a bailout plan.

The idea that the well-paid executives who contributed so much to put us in this mess could walk away, while making millions of dollars, getting bailed out by the same taxpayers who are struggling thanks to their negligence, is totally absurd and cannot be allowed. Whatever we do this week, as we help out Wall Street, we should throw a lifeline to Main Street where people are really hurting.

We need to help them keep their homes, hold on to their jobs and make ends meet. We must act to ensure that these problems never happen again by including rigorous new government control and oversight into all of the securities and institutions that have been operating outside regulatory authority.

If we act in the right way, I have no doubt we can pass a bill that will rescue the economy and at the same time prevent this same mess from happening again. We must pass the right bill.

SENATOR MCCAIN IS OUT OF TOUCH ON THE ECONOMY—THE FUNDAMENTALS ARE NOT STRONG

(Mr. ELLISON asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. ELLISON. Mr. Speaker, the Bush administration, Senator MCCAIN and congressional Republicans need to realize that economic hardship does not end on Wall Street. For 8 years now, Washington Republicans have been implementing policies that have also hurt Main Street.

Today, middle class workers are struggling to make ends meet on paychecks that are, on average, $300 smaller a year than they were back in 2001 when President Bush took office. Meantime, grocery prices have increased by more than $800, home energy prices are up $300, and health care costs are up more than $2,000.

In total, American families are paying $4,000 a year more for these basic necessities than they did during the Clinton administration. No wonder the American people are feeling financially squeezed.

Senator MCCAIN said he doesn't really understand economics very well, and he proved it when he said that the fundamentals of the economy were strong. How can Senator MCCAIN turn our economy around if he doesn't even recognize that we are in trouble?

CONGRATULATING JOHN DEERE & COMPANY

(Mr. BRALEY of Iowa asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. BRALEY of Iowa. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to congratulate Deere & Company on their 90th anniversary in Waterloo, Iowa. John Deere has been in Waterloo since March 14 of 1918, when it bought the Waterloo Gasoline Engine Company, maker of the "Waterloo Boy" two-cylinder tractor, for $2.35 million. That model is still located at the Smithsonian Institution.

Today Deere's facilities in Waterloo include a foundry, the engine works, and the tractor assembly plant, making Deere & Company a multibillion-dollar corporation.

Over the past 90 years, John Deere has been an integral part of the Waterloo economy. The company employs thousands of Iowans and is currently the largest manufacturing employer in Waterloo. John Deere is in the midst of a fifth consecutive year of record earnings. If that continues, it would match the previous 5-year record run in the nineties and would have produced record earnings 10 times in the past 15 years.

That's quite a feat for a company that was down and out during the 1980s farm crisis, which saw mass layoffs at its facilities. A strong John Deere is fundamental to promoting a healthy and stable economy in the Cedar Valley.

Due to its successes, Deere has been able to give back to the community in a big way, and I congratulate them on their successes.

AMERICA HAS DEFAULTED ON ITS PROMISSORY NOTE

(Mr. JACKSON of Illinois asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. JACKSON of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, in 1963, Martin Luther King, Jr., said, "In a sense we have come to our Nation's capital to cash a check. When the architects of our republic wrote the magnificent words of the Constitution and the Declaration of Independence, they were signing a promissory note to which every American was to fall heir. This note was a promise that all men would be guaranteed the unalienable rights of life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness.

"It is obvious today that America has defaulted on this promissory note. Instead of honoring this sacred obligation, America has given us a bad check, and it has come back marked insufficient funds."

Dr. King went on to say, "As a nation, we can spend billions of dollars to put a man on the Moon and a war in Vietnam, but we can't put a man on his own two feet right here in America."

Last week this Congress could not provide money for community health care centers. They couldn't find money for day-care programs, for community policing, for crumbling schools, but this week we found $700 billion to bail out incompetence on Wall Street. For months, President Bush has refused to sign appropriations bills that exceeded his budget request. This week he wants the Treasury, with bipartisan support of the Congress, to give him maybe up to $1 trillion.

Stop defaulting on the American Dream. Stop issuing promissory notes.

Mr. Speaker, I too have a dream: Let's bail out homeowners and Main Street before Wall Street.

CUBA

(Ms. SOLIS asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. SOLIS. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to discuss the humanitarian aid situation in Cuba. Earlier this month, Cuba was struck by Hurricanes Gustav and Ike, which devastated the lives of about 11 million citizens of Cuba.

These hurricanes wiped out towns and destroyed about 500,000 homes, crops, roads, electrical service, water and other key infrastructure on that island. It's estimated that the damage will be anywhere from 4 to $10 billion. I just happened to be in south Florida this weekend and heard from many in the community, many Cuban Americans, who don't like the politics there, but understand that there has to be something done.

But because of a travel restriction implemented by the Bush administration in 2004, Cuban Americans in the United States are unable to send money back home or even travel. They are restricted by that travel. These restrictions do not reflect, in my opinion, the family values upon which our Nation was founded. Instead, they unfairly target families in need of this dire assistance.

We must temporarily lift these travel restrictions and remittances so that money can go to those families that are in so desperate need of assistance at this time. I ask for at least a temporary lifting of travel and remittances for at least 3 months.

MCCAIN DEREGULATION AGENDA WOULD BE DISASTROUS FOR MIDDLE CLASS AMERICANS

(Mr. PERLMUTTER asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. PERLMUTTER. Mr. Speaker, while years of deregulation policies have caused the biggest financial crisis in decades, Senator MCCAIN is touting himself as the greatest deregulator.

The Senator has called government regulations unnecessary and burdensome, and has said they should be eliminated. Now he wants to extend his deregulation agenda to the health insurance industry, writing in an opinion op-ed this month, that, "Opening up the health insurance market to more vigorous nationwide competition, as we have done over the last decade in banking, would provide more choices of innovative products less burdened by the worst excesses of State-based regulation."

For 8 years now, the Bush administration has turned a blind eye to all the trading, lending and borrowing that is now responsible for the Wall Street crisis.

Senator McCain now wants to extend that same strategy to the health insurance industry? Our Nation's health care system has enough problems, and we don't need to exacerbate them by implementing Senator McCain's dangerous new deregulation idea.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. COSTELLO. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks and to include extraneous material on H.R. 6984.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Illinois?

There was no objection.

Mr. COSTELLO. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I rise today in support of H.R. 6984, the Federal Aviation Administration Extension Act, Part II. I want to thank Chairman OBERSTAR for bringing this legislation to the floor today, as well as Chairman RANGEL and Ranking Members MICA and PETRI.

The Aviation Trust Fund was created to fund the development and improvement of our airport and airway system, make critical investments to the air traffic control facilities, and to ensure the safety of the flying public.

The trust fund provides revenue for the airport improvement program, which provides grants for construction and safety projects at airports; the facilities and equipment account, which funds technical improvements to the air traffic control system; and a research, engineering and development account. The fund also partially pays for the salaries, expenses, and operations of the FAA.

This trust fund is currently operating under a short-term extension that expires on September 30, 2008. In order to continue to provide essential safety and capacity improvement funds to our airports, we must pass this extension.

While the House passed H.R. 2881, the FAA Reauthorization Act of 2007, which is a long-term authorization for the FAA programs, the Senate has yet to pass its version of the bill. Until H.R. 2881 becomes law, it is important that we extend the FAA's programs on a short-term basis.

To ensure continued FAA operations, H.R. 6984 would extend not only the aviation taxes and expenditure authority, but also the AIP contract authority until March 30, 2009.

Specifically, H.R. 6984 provides $1.95 billion in AIP funding for airports, which is based on the level of AIP funding we authorized in H.R. 2881 for fiscal year 2009, and is consistent with the fiscal year 2009 congressional budget resolution. These additional funds will allow airports to proceed with necessary safety and capacity enhancement projects.

Mr. Speaker, aviation is too important to our Nation's economy, contributing $1.2 trillion in output and approximately 11.4 million U.S. jobs, to allow the taxes or funding for critical aviation programs to expire.

While our economy has slowed and economic factors have created difficult times for the airlines and their passengers, Congress can provide some stability to the aviation system by passing this extension this week. I urge my colleagues to support the bill.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. PETRI. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, in September 2007, the House considered and passed the FAA Reauthorization Act of 2007, H.R. 2881, which reauthorizes the FAA for the next 4 years.

Unfortunately, however, the Senate has not come to any agreement on its bill and so we are here today considering a fifth extension. H.R. 6984 would extend the taxes, programs, and funding of the Federal Aviation Administration through March of 2009.

This bill extends FAA funding and contract authority for 6 months, funds the airport improvement program at $1.95 billion through March of next year, extends the war risk insurance program, extends the small community air service development program, and extends application of the rule for measuring highway miles to determine eligibility for essential air service subsidies.

The bill will ensure that our national aviation system continues to operate until a full FAA reauthorization can be enacted by the next Congress. As I have indicated many times since the passage of the House FAA reauthorization bill just over a year ago, we need to pass a long-term bill so we can meet the growing demands placed on our Nation's infrastructure. Modernizing our antiquated air traffic control system and repairing our crumbling infrastructure needs to be one of our top priorities when Congress reconvenes in 2009. In that connection, I would observe recent statistics which indicate that our friends in China are spending some 9 percent of their GNP on infrastructure. We here in the United States are spending about 2.5 percent, most of that on maintenance, and we are falling behind even in that regard. In 20 years, who is going to be better prepared to conduct a modern economy, somebody who is spending 9 percent of their GNP building first-class infrastructure, or someone who is barely maintaining what they already have?

We need to step up to bat. This bill will do us good in the aviation sector, but we have a big job ahead of us in infrastructure generally as a Nation.

Clearly, there is much work to be done. This 6-month extension gives us time to revisit the FAA reauthorization bill early in the 111th Congress. I urge our colleagues in the other body to take up a comprehensive FAA reauthorization package as early as possible in the next year.

I support this extension as the best alternative to keep the FAA and the national airspace system running safely until the 111th Congress can take up and pass a bipartisan, bicameral bill that the President can sign. We should all commit to quickly passing a 4-year bill as quickly as possible next year.

Mr. OBERSTAR. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of H.R. 6984, the "Federal Aviation Administration Extension Act of 2008, Part II".

The previous long-term Federal Aviation Administration ("FAA") reauthorization act, the Vision 100—Century of Aviation Reauthorization Act (P.L. 108–176) expired on September 30, 2007. On September 20, 2007, the House passed H.R. 2881, the "FAA Reauthorization Act of 2007", to reauthorize FAA programs for fiscal years 2008 through 2011.

Unfortunately, the Senate has been unable to complete action on a long-term FAA reauthorization bill. As a result, Congress has passed a series of short-term FAA extension acts. The current authority for aviation programs and taxes expires next week, on September 30.

H.R. 6984 provides a 6-month extension of aviation programs and taxes, through March 31, 2009.

H.R. 6984 provides $1.95 billion in contract authority for the Airport Improvement Program ("AIP"). The $1.95 billion provided for the first six months of fiscal year 2009 will enable airports to move forward with important safety and capacity projects, and is sufficient to meet all Letter of Intent ("LOI") commitments. When annualized, this level of AIP funding equals $3.9 billion, consistent with both the House and Senate FAA reauthorization bills, and the fiscal year 2009 Concurrent Budget Resolution.

The bill also authorizes appropriations for FAA Operations, Facilities and Equipment ("F&E"), and Research, Engineering, and Development ("RE&D") programs.

In addition, H.R. 6984 extends the aviation excise taxes through March 31, 2009. These taxes are necessary to support the Airport and Airway Trust Fund, which in recent years has provided about 80 percent of the FAA's budget. With an uncommitted cash balance of just $1.4 billion estimated as of the end of fiscal year 2008, any lapse in the aviation taxes could put the solvency of the Trust Fund at risk.

In addition to extending the aviation taxes, H.R. 6984 extends the FAA's authority to make expenditures from the Airport and Airway Trust Fund, through March 31, 2009.

To allow aviation programs to continue under the same terms and conditions as were in effect during the previous authorization period, H.R. 6984 also extends several other provisions of Vision 100.

I thank Chairman RANGEL, Chairman of the Committee on Ways and Means, for his assistance in ensuring the continued operation of aviation programs. I also thank my Committee colleagues, Ranking Member MICA, Subcommittee Chairman COSTELLO, and Subcommittee Ranking Member PETRI, for working with me on this critical legislation.

I strongly urge my colleagues to join me in supporting H.R. 6984.

Mr. CLYBURN. Mr. Speaker, I want to add a few words about the Disadvantaged Business Enterprise (DBE) and the Airport Concessions Disadvantaged Business Enterprise (ACDBE) Programs. These programs are critically important tools in our Nation's ongoing efforts to eliminate discrimination against minority and women owned businesses. Sadly, the evidence makes clear that race and sex discrimination are still realities for many of the business owners who are working hard to support their families, grow their businesses and contribute to our national economy.

Many disparity studies detailing discrimination against minority and women business owners have been released in every region of the country. While each study is a little bit different, taken together, these studies illustrate that discrimination impacts business owners in every minority group including African-Americans, Hispanic-Americans, Asian Americans and Native Americans. The studies also show discrimination against women of every racial group. While hundreds of such studies have been conducted, I will mention just six of the many airport-related studies that have been produced, including: Dallas/Fort Worth International Airport Board Disparity Study Final Report, MGT of America, October 17, 2000; Final Report: Broward County Small Disadvantaged Business Enterprise (SDBE) Disparity Study, MGT of America, Inc., April 3, 2001; The City of Phoenix, Minority-Women-Owned and Small Business Enterprise Program Update Study: Final Report, MGT of America, April 21, 2005; Race, Sex and Business Enterprise: Evidence from the State of Maryland, NERA Economic Consulting, March 8, 2006; Race, Sex and Business Enterprise: Evidence from Denver, CO, NERA Economic Consulting, May 5, 2006; and Final Report for Development and Revision of Small, Minority and Women Business Enterprise Program, Nashville International Airport, (BNA), Griffin and Strong, PC, September 19, 2007. Let me be clear, these six studies represent a fraction of the airport-related studies that have been conducted—and yet even this small cross-section demonstrates the national scope of the problem and the breadth of its impact. These studies are too long to insert in the record in their entirety under House rules. However, I would note that these studies were submitted to the record on September 11, 2008 in a hearing before the U.S. Senate Committee on Small Business and Entrepreneurship.

Disparity studies provide us with both statistical and anecdotal evidence. In other words, these studies illustrate both the broad-based statistical impact of discrimination and the personal accounts of discrimination by those who suffer its effects. It is the combination of these two types of data that helps us see how discrimination works and the problems it causes. The anecdotal accounts of discrimination provided in these studies demonstrate the various different ways that discrimination happens. Sometimes, discrimination is caused by prime contractors that simply refuse to work with businesses that are not part of established business networks—the old boy network, if you will. Other times, discrimination occurs in the bid process through bid shopping, uneven and untimely notice, and intentionally deceitful practices by prime contractors that approach DBEs and ACDBEs and ask them to prepare elaborate quotes and bids with no intention of actually using their services.

In other situations, the discrimination happens in access to capital. Just last week on September 11, 2008, the Chair of the Airport Minority Advisory Council, Don O'Bannon, provided testimony before the Senate Small Business Committee outlining the severe difficulty that minority and women owned businesses confront when attempting to obtain working capital. This is not all. Different forms of discrimination reach into every aspect of the efforts by minority and women businesses to participate in airport-related business. There has been discrimination by suppliers, by government officials, by trade associations and in all of the more informal networks through which businesses obtain work. Of course, in the private sector where many of these businesses must obtain the lion's share of their work, there are rarely programs like the DBE and ACDBE programs and, as a result, discrimination has an even larger impact.

The bottom line is this: The DBE and ACDBE programs are still vital to leveling the playing field for minority and women entrepreneurs in airport-related industries. I look forward to working with my colleagues to maintain and strengthen these programs to ensure that we continue the critical work of leveling the playing field to ensure that all American businesses have a fair chance to participate in the airport-related business opportunities.

Mr. PETRI. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. COSTELLO. Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for speakers, and so I yield back the balance of my time and urge passage of this legislation.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. COSTELLO) that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 6984.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds being in the affirmative) the rules were suspended and the bill was passed.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

PROVIDING FOR CONSIDERATION OF H.R. 5244, CREDIT CARD-HOLDERS' BILL OF RIGHTS ACT OF 2008

Mr. WELCH of Vermont. Mr. Speaker, by direction of the Committee on Rules, I call up House Resolution 1476 and ask for its immediate consideration.

The Clerk read the resolution, as follows:

H. RES. 1476

Resolved, That upon the adoption of this resolution it shall be in order to consider in the House the bill (H.R. 5244) to amend the Truth in Lending Act to establish fair and transparent practices relating to the extension of credit under an open end consumer credit plan, and for other purposes. All points of order against consideration of the bill are waived except those arising under clause 9 or 10 of rule XXI. The amendment in the nature of a substitute recommended by the Committee on Financial Services now printed in the bill shall be considered as adopted. The bill, as amended, shall be considered as read. All points of order against provisions of the bill, as amended, are waived. The previous question shall be considered as ordered on the bill, as amended, to final passage without intervening motion except: (1) one hour of debate equally divided and controlled by the chairman and ranking minority member of the Committee on Financial Services; and (2) one motion to recommit with or without instructions.

SEC. 2. During consideration of H.R. 5244 pursuant to this resolution, notwithstanding the operation of the previous question, the Chair may postpone further consideration of the bill to such time as may be designated by the Speaker.

SEC. 3. The chairman of the Committee on Armed Services may insert in the Congressional Record at any time during the remainder of the second session of the 110th Congress such material as he may deem explanatory of defense authorization measures for the fiscal year 2009.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Vermont is recognized for 1 hour.

Mr. WELCH of Vermont. Mr. Speaker, for the purpose of debate only, I yield the customary 30 minutes to the gentleman from Texas (Mr. SESSIONS). All time yielded during consideration of the rule is for debate only. I yield myself such time as I may consume. I also ask unanimous consent that all Members be given 5 legislative days in which to revise and extend their remarks on H. Res. 1476.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Vermont?

There was no objection.

Mr. WELCH of Vermont. Mr. Speaker, H. Res. 1476 provides for consideration of H.R. 5244, the Credit Card-holders' Bill of Rights Act of 2008 sponsored by Congresswoman MALONEY. This rule provides for 1 hour of general debate controlled by the Committee on Financial Services. It also provides one motion to recommit with or without instructions.

Mr. Speaker, it is entirely appropriate that today, with the extraordinary spectacle of Wall Street titans coming to Congress hat in hand asking taxpayers for $700 billion, that we take up consideration of a bill of rights for Americans who hold credit cards. It is impossible for any of us who care to observe not to see the connection between the need for stronger consumer protections in the credit card industry today and the careless, reckless dismantling of consumer protections in the housing and financial markets in the past 30 years now known by the infamous term of "deregulation."

Mr. Speaker, as we know, credit serves a vital function in our economy. You cannot have a functioning capitalist economy without a functioning credit system. But the question that we face as elected representatives of the people who sent us here is whether or not we will act to provide a critical consumer protection to the credit markets and the protection to consumers who depend on them, or will we continue to leave this laissez-faire to the rules made up as they go along by the people in charge on Wall Street.

If this Congress had insisted on upholding consumer protections on Wall Street, if it had not simply stood aside to the proponents of the wild west, anything-goes markets that eviscerated the regulations, and instead kept consumers safe and the markets stable and strong, then we may well have averted the crisis that this House is now considering.

Maybe we would not be facing this extraordinary threat to the strength of the middle class who is working hard, paying their bills, but hanging on by their fingernails.

The challenge our economy faces now is largely a result of Wall Street abusing the credit system that we all need. And now ballooning credit card debt presents a similar threat to American consumers and possibly the markets.

Today, the House of Representatives will have the opportunity to adopt legislation sponsored by Congresswoman MALONEY that would prevent the recurrence of a crisis in credit cards that is happening in our housing industry.

Let's just look at the situation of consumer credit as it exists today. In 2007, Mr. Speaker, 5.2 billion credit card solicitations were put in the mail, 36 solicitations per household. There are 1.22 billion credit cards in the United States. Outstanding consumer credit in the United States is approaching $1 trillion, $969.9 billion, to be precise, and the average credit card debt per household that carries a balance as opposed to those who simply use the credit card as a convenience to pay bills, that average balance is $17,103.

Does that sound sustainable and does this sound familiar?

Congresswoman MALONEY's bill, H.R. 5244, institutes essential and overdue protections for the market and for the consumer by guarding against growing unmanageable debt and provides critical safeguards for consumers who have been relentlessly taken advantage of by credit card companies.

Specifically, the bill, among other things, ends unfair and arbitrary interest rate increases. Credit card companies raise interest rates at will, bait and switch, ends unfair penalties for cardholders who pay on time, requires fair allocation of consumer payments so that the payments are attributed to the highest interest rate first, protects cardholders from due date gimmicks, prevents companies from using misleading terms and damaging consumer credit ratings, protects vulnerable consumers from high fee subprime credit cards, and bars issuing credit cards to vulnerable minors.

The bill is the beginning of important reform in credit cards; the beginning of increased protection for consumers of credit card companies. H.R. 5244 is one side of the consumer protection coin.

The other side of the coin, which we're not taking up today but will hopefully get to, is for merchants who pay fees to credit card companies for every single credit card transaction, the so-called "interchange fees."

Mr. Speaker, in the United States, our credit card interchange fees are the highest in the entire world, accounting for as much as 2 percent of the cost of every credit card transaction, in some cases, a good deal more. By comparison, those interchange fees in the United States are almost three times what they are in Australia, four times what consumers and businesses pay in the United Kingdom.

These bloated interchange fees are passed on to the consumer. The average American family, in fact, pays an extra $300 a year on items they purchase as a result of credit cards. For example, interchange fees can add more than 8 cents to the price of a gallon of gas every time you fill up.

I and others have introduced legislation that may be considered at some future time, H.R. 6248, the Credit Card Interchange Fees Act, which would require credit card companies to disclose their interchange rates, terms and conditions to consumers, businesses and the public. In addition, the bill would empower the Federal Trade Commission to review these rates and rules and prohibit any practices that violate consumer protection and anti-competitive laws.

Mr. Speaker, Chairman CONYERS on the Judiciary Committee also has important legislation being considered, the Credit Card Fair Fee Act. In the next Congress we'll have an opportunity to take up the Conyers bill and perhaps the Welch bill.

But today we have the opportunity to take up the first step, the work of Congresswoman MALONEY, where she has scores of cosponsors, where she's worked tirelessly to bring this legislation to the consideration of the floor. I urge my colleagues to support this rule and to support this underlying legislation.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. SESSIONS. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for extending me the time.

I rise in opposition to this new, record-breaking 62nd closed rule being offered by this Democrat-led Congress, and I object to the timing of bringing this underlying legislation to the floor at a particularly fragile and vulnerable time for American consumers, for American small businesses, and for the entire American economy.

As every Member of this House, in fact, probably every single person on this planet with a working television already understands and they're very acutely aware, the United States capital markets for commercial credit have been frozen. And later this week, this Congress is going to be asked to vote on a massive and currently unfinished proposal to try to stem this enormous threat to our economy and to prevent it from spilling over into everyday Americans' lives who are simply trying to make ends meet.

The enormity and complexity of this crisis and its corresponding legislative solutions makes me question why, Mr. Speaker, why, with all the other problems in our financial markets that require our immediate, fixed and unwavering attention, this House leadership would bring this bill to the floor under a closed rule, instead of focusing on the much larger problem that economists and editorial boards across this country believe has the potential to do catastrophic damage to global financial systems.

Additionally, Mr. Speaker, I'm confused as to why this Congress is choosing this path because, despite whether the House considers this Democrat majority's 62nd closed rule, or this legislation today, it makes no difference, absolutely no difference as to whether the issues contained in this legislation to protect consumers from unfair or deceptive practices will even be addressed in a timely fashion.

To protect consumers from questionable practices, the Federal Reserve has already proposed broad new rules. But rather than allowing the Fed to finish its job, this Congress thought it was important enough to pass a new law to give to them, and this Congress is passing a bill that preempts all of the work that Congress has asked these regulators to do, while doing nothing to strengthen the Federal Reserve's already existing consumer protection mandate.

Like every other Member of this House, I am concerned about the crushing economic impact that rising food and fuel prices are having on American families. I'm even more concerned that passing legislation like this will discourage investment in credit card lending to fewer consumers and smaller businesses getting access to the credit that they need to stay afloat.

Unlike the Democrat leadership bringing this bill to the House floor, I do not believe that it is wise policy to create a consumer credit crunch at the same time that our economy is already experiencing a massive commercial credit crunch. And I'm greatly concerned that current market conditions have the potential to greatly amplify the unintended consequences of this legislation at a time when families and small business need it the most. The "it" is credit.

Limiting the ability of consumer credit issuers to base their prices according to risk, as this legislation proposes to do, will only increase rates and fees for everyone, while also severely constricting the availability of credit to higher risk consumers altogether.

So, at a time when our constituents most need the flexibilities of these products, i.e., credit, this Democrat Congress is trying to preempt the focused efforts of three different regulators and restricting the access to credit card credit that is made available to American families and to small businesses.

Mr. Speaker, I believe a far more reasonable course of action would have been the one that was suggested by 14 members of the Financial Services Committee, a bipartisan group of seven Democrats and seven Republicans, when they asked the chairman of the committee to hold hearings on the Federal Reserve proposed rules before deciding whether passing legislation limiting consumer credit was necessary.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to insert into the RECORD a copy of this bipartisan letter to Chairman FRANK, as well as a copy of the administration's statement of administrative policy on this bill, which makes their concerns about unfair and deceptive practices as clear as their opposition to this underlying legislation that would "result in less access to credit and higher interest rates for consumers."

That is what the White House has said, and I will once again quote: This legislation will "result in less access to credit and higher interest rates for consumers."

Mr. Speaker, this comes at a particularly bad time, when consumers in our economy already have had enough stress to deal with without having to worry about unintended consequences of legislation passed by Congress that would make it even more difficult for families and small businesses to make ends meet.

EXECUTIVE OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT,
OFFICE OF MANAGEMENT AND BUDGET,

Washington, DC, September 22, 2008.

STATEMENT OF ADMINISTRATION POLICY
H.R. 5244—CREDIT CARDHOLDERS' BILL OF RIGHTS ACT OF 2008

The Administration is concerned about unfair and deceptive credit card practices and supports efforts to protect consumers. Credit card plans have become more complex, and it is important that disclosures are transparent and clear so that consumers can understand their contracts and compare products. Transparency alone is insufficient to protect consumers from all unfair credit card practices, and legislation likely to result in higher interest rates for consumers is not the answer; deceptive practices must also be prohibited.

The Federal Reserve, Office of Thrift Supervision, and National Credit Union Administration are currently finalizing regulations to prohibit unfair and deceptive credit card practices and make disclosures more transparent. The proposed regulations, which are expected to be finalized in December, address a number of goals of this bill. Those proposed regulations eliminate universal default, prohibit double-cycle billing, require advance notice of rate increases, and rein in over-the-limit fees. Regulations are better suited to addressing these problems than legislation because they can be adapted more readily to changes in market conditions. The proposed regulations are the result of extensive research and consumer input, have received extensive public comment, and should be finalized without legislation.

The Administration opposes H.R. 5244, particularly section 2 of the bill, because it would broadly constrain the ability of financial institutions to price risk, likely resulting in less access to credit and in higher interest rates for consumers. For the credit market to operate efficiently, creditors must have the flexibility to react to changes in customer risk and market conditions. Section 2 would restrict when lenders may change terms of the credit agreement, significantly constraining the ability of financial institutions to adapt to changing credit risks and market conditions.

CONGRESS OF THE UNITED STATES,
HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,
Washington, DC, July 23, 2008.

Hon. BARNEY FRANK,
Chairman, Financial Services Committee, House of Representatives, Washington, DC.

DEAR MR. CHAIRMAN: On July 16, 2008 Federal Reserve Chairman Ben Bernanke testified before the Financial Services Committee and stated that the Federal Reserve had received over 20,000 comments on its proposed Unfair or Deceptive Acts or Practices rules for banks that issue credit cards. While we may support some of the policy changes these proposed rules address, we believe the Financial Institutions Subcommittee should carefully review these proposed policies and their impact on consumers and regulated industries. Therefore, we request that the Subcommittee hold a hearing on these proposed rules at its earliest convenience before further steps are taken on this important subject.

Sincerely,

Dennis Moore; Carolyn McCarthy; Timothy Mahoney; Michael N. Castle; Stephen C. LaTourette; Judy Biggert; Charlie Wilson; Ed Perlmutter; Gregory Meeks; Jon Gerlach; Christopher Shays; Shelley Moore Capito; Peter J. Roskam; Don Cazayoux.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. WELCH of Vermont. Mr. Speaker, I yield 5 minutes to the gentlewoman from New York, the chairwoman of the Subcommittee on Financial Institutions and Consumer Credit, and the sponsor of the bill, Mrs. MALONEY.

Mrs. MALONEY of New York. I thank the gentleman for yielding and for his leadership.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of the rule on H.R. 5244, the Credit Cardholders' Bill of Rights. The rule before us gives the House an opportunity to have a clear up-or-down vote on meaningful credit card reforms that will level the playing field between cardholders and credit card companies.

This legislation passed the House Financial Services Committee on July 31 on a vote of 39-27 and has the support of 155 cosponsors in this House.

For too long our constituents have found themselves on the wrong side of a very uneven playing field between them and their credit card companies. This bill restores fairness to credit cards and brings back the notion that a deal is a deal.

The bill that this rule will allow for consideration represents a work product that the committee and I started at the beginning of this Congress. We met with the stakeholders, issuers, consumer groups and the regulators and economists. We listened to real consumers and experts in consumer law and economics. We held six hearings in my subcommittee on the reforms contained in this bill and the reforms that are proposed by the Federal Reserve.

A year ago I held a round table which produced gold standard principles to guide voluntary issuer action. Several issuers announced changes in policy consistent with the principles, and I applaud their efforts.

In May, the Federal Reserve, the Office of Thrift Supervision, and the National Credit Union Administrator released proposed rules to prohibit unfair and deceptive acts and practices that track the key provisions of my legislation. These regulations have received an astonishing, record-breaking 56,000 comments from consumers in support, the largest ever in history.

But without legislation, regulations can be stopped or scaled back, and lucrative abuse of practices will continue, and issuers who gave them up will lose profits and their market share. We need legislation to level the playing field for consumers and issuers so that the normal forces of the free market can work together again.

The bill has been endorsed by 12 consumer groups. I would like to place their names in the RECORD and applaud their hard work. Labor unions, including the AFL-CIO, and especially the SEIU, and civil rights organizations, the Leadership Council on Civil Rights, the NAACP, and the National Council of La Raza. Editorials and op-eds endorsing the need for credit card reform have run in more than 55 newspapers across the Nation, and these editorials can be seen on my Website. Commentators from Pat Robertson of Christian broadcasters and Lou Dobbs of CNN have consistently supported this effort. Senator BARACK OBAMA has called for a Credit Cardholder's Bill of Rights, and Vice Presidential candidate Sarah Palin has said that Republicans should get on this issue and not leave it to Democrats. So it is a bipartisan effort.

Even four of the five banking regulators have called for the specific reforms contained in this bill. I say this because some on the other side may argue against this rule. But I want the American people to understand all of the work that has gone into this work product. This bill, this process has been open and bipartisan.

Today, with the rule now before us, we get to preserve the core principles of this legislation, and this rule gives us a chance to have a clean up-or-down vote on meaningful credit card reform. I support this rule and look forward to the underlying debate.

I would like to conclude by saying that it is now clear that in the area of consumer credit, the same lack of reasonable regulations, transparency and prudent lending has led to a level of pain on Main Street that matches or exceeds the pain on Wall Street. This is our chance to do something about it.

We are called upon to come forward with a $700 billion backstop for Wall Street. This legislation gives a backstop and support to Main Street.

I urge my colleagues to support this legislation.

Mr. SESSIONS. Mr. Speaker, at this time I would like to yield 5 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from Arizona (Mr. FLAKE).

Mr. FLAKE. I thank the gentleman for yielding. We're often accused of, when a rule comes up, of bringing up something that doesn't relate to the rule at all or speaking on something completely different. I'm here because something has been added to this rule that shouldn't be in this rule at all that bears no relation to this rule.

In this rule, for a bill on credit cards, there was an attachment which would allow the chairman of the Armed Services Committee to insert a joint explanatory statement for the defense authorization act, that he would be allowed to file that at any time between now and the end of the 110th Congress. That's important because in the joint explanatory statement is when you learn sometimes about what earmarks have been added to the bill, and you're supposed to get that report and that explanation and statement before you consider the bill on the floor.

We will be considering the bill on the floor later today or tomorrow, I guess, under a suspension of the rules with no ability to amend or to question anything in the defense authorization bill. That bill, when it came to the House floor earlier this year, contained more than 500 earmarks.

This is the defense authorization bill that we learned of just a day before it came to the floor. It came to the floor under a closed rule—or under a rule which allowed me to offer just one amendment—more than 500 earmarks, one amendment. There were a lot of Democratic earmarks; there were a lot of Republican earmarks. The majority saw fit to only allow me to question one Republican earmark. No coincidence there.

And yet even worse—at least then we knew when the bill came to the floor we really couldn't do anything about it, but we knew which earmarks were in the bill. Now there's a possibility that there could be dozens, hundreds, maybe 10, we don't know. We don't know how many earmarks have been air-dropped into this legislation, or if any have, and we likely won't know—we just don't know because this rule on a credit card bill allows the chairman of the Armed Services Committee to file at any time between now and the end of the 110th Congress which earmarks were in the bill.

Theoretically, the President could even sign this legislation in a couple of weeks or a couple of months, and we would only learn after that what earmarks were in the bill or those earmarks, theoretically, could even be added after the President signs the bill into law. I don't know how that could be stopped under this rule.

I just wonder how the majority—and I would love to yield time to the Rules Committee to explain how we are doing this, how this squares with the statements earlier this year or earlier this Congress that, according to the majority, according to the Speaker of the House, we will bring transparency and openness to the budget process into the use of earmarks.

I would be glad to yield 30 seconds to the Rules Committee to explain why this provision was added to the rule.

Mr. WELCH of Vermont. I thank the gentleman from Arizona.

Here is my understanding. The gentleman raises, I think, a good point.

The Armed Services Committee is working, as I understand it, on a bipartisan Department of Defense authorization bill. My understanding is the conclusion of the people who are most responsible on both sides of the aisle for that, on our side, expect that the Senate will not participate in a conference, so it will be a single bill that would be presented to this body under suspension.

So my understanding is that the folks who represent us, both sides of the aisle on the Armed Services Committee, have come to the conclusion that given the way the other body is going to handle this, that this is the most practical and effective way to proceed.

Since it's coming up under suspension, it's going to take a two-thirds vote, obviously. So whatever the reasons are that Members may want to reject that, they're going to have an opportunity to do it.

I will go on if you want, but I don't want to take too much of your time.

Mr. FLAKE. I thank the gentleman.

We're being asked to take—it is our understanding that this will happen. We're probably to understand that, yeah, they'll file something before we do a suspension bill that we couldn't amend or question even if we didn't like what was in there.

Again, Mr. Speaker and Members here, this just doesn't square with the commitments that we have made on both sides of the aisle to have an open and transparent process. Like I said, it's bad enough to just learn before bills come to the floor that you've had a couple hundred earmarks added. But in this case, we're giving the authority to the authorizing committee to let us know about which air-dropped earmarks have been added after we pass the bill, after it's too late; theoretically, after the President even signs the legislation.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The time of the gentleman from Arizona has expired.

Mr. SESSIONS. I would like to yield the gentleman an additional 3 minutes.

Mr. FLAKE. Here, like I said, we're being asked to give authority to actually not explain which earmarks have been added until after the bill has passed. I just can't see how that represents good government in any sense, how in the world we can say that we are having an open and transparent process when we have bills that come like this.

Now with prior bills, we had a defense authorization bill that came to the floor a while ago that we only got the list of earmarks that were added after the deadline passed to file amendments to actually strike those earmarks.

So we have had a number of these cases throughout this Congress. But I can tell you nothing compares to this. Nothing compares to having an unrelated provision added to a credit card rule, a rule to a bill to allow the authorizing Committee of Armed Services to, up to the end of this Congress, to wait a couple of months after the bill passes—after a bill that was passed under suspension of rules, I might add—to add an explanation as to which earmarks are in the bill.

So I just want to register my objection there, and I would hope that Members would vote down this rule. We can't do business like this, particularly at a time when we have a financial meltdown, we have legislation on the floor this week to spend $700 billion. If that's not bad enough, here we have a situation where we're simply hiding—I don't know how else to say it—but hiding what we have done in the committees and on the floor and not letting Members of this body actually exercise the responsibility that we have here.

With that, I register my objection. I thank the gentleman for yielding, and I urge a “no” vote on the rule.

Mr. WELCH of Vermont. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. CLEAVER).

Mr. CLEAVER. Mr. Speaker, this credit card bill is extremely important, and I would like to just express appreciation to my colleague for having the vision to bring it forth.

People all over the country, the majority of the people around this country, are concerned about what is happening to them with regard to credit cards. I think that this is a week in which we need to all be concerned about what the consumers are feeling. In particular, I'm interested in the fact that we were not, at least in terms of statute, prohibiting what could happen to underage consumers.

In our committee, I produced a letter received by a 15-year-old boy offering him a credit card. The father of that boy works here on the Hill and brought the letter to the committee.

This bill, if approved, would provide that no credit card may be knowingly issued to or open-end credit plan established on behalf of a consumer who has not attained the age of 18 unless the consumer is emancipated under applicable State law.

Mr. Speaker, we have, in this country, right now over a billion credit cards. We have young people going to college receiving credit cards. We had testimony before our committee that in colleges, the administration will quite often allow credit card companies to come in on enrollment day. They offer the students a sandwich at one of the local fast food restaurants in exchange for them applying for a credit card. This has got to stop.

China has almost a 22 percent savings rate. The United States is negative .6. We are training our kids to go off to college where that is becoming increasingly expensive and then go out and get a credit card without having any source of income.

This has to stop, and I would like to commend my colleague for introducing this legislation and for doing things that I think the public expects us to do as elected officials.

Mr. SESSIONS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to inquire of my colleague, the gentleman, Mr. WELCH, if he has additional speakers. I, at this time, do not appear to have any additional speakers.

Mr. WELCH of Vermont. I have at least two speakers at this point.

Mr. SESSIONS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. WELCH of Vermont. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Texas (Mr. DOGGETT).

Mr. DOGGETT. Mr. Speaker, I rise as an enthusiastic supporter of the legislation that has been prepared by the gentlewoman from New York. Credit card abuse is rampant, and her legislation helps us to correct some of the most egregious abuses.

I have just come from the Subcommittee on Health on which I serve. It's well known that the number one item in terms of credit card debt is for medical bills and that health care costs are the number one cause of personal bankruptcy in this country.

When we wrote the bankruptcy bill a few years ago, what began as a reasonable reform to deal with problems with debtors became an entirely one-sided piece of legislation that ignored these rampant abuses in the credit card industry. So it's appropriate here, under new leadership and a Democratic Congress and the leadership of the gentlewoman from New York, we are finally belatedly addressing some of these abuses.

But all of this will be for naught unless this measure becomes part of the great Wall Street bailout that the President has proposed. Once again, the proposal being advanced from this administration, not unlike our old debate about the bankruptcy laws, is all one-sided: give to those who cause the problem, give taxpayer money to those who cause the problem, and let those who cause the problem decide how that money is distributed. It's all one-sided.

If such a bill in any form is to be passed—and I think there's great debate about the wisdom of approving anything in this area of the type that has been advanced—but if such a measure is to be approved, it is essential that we do just a little bit for the consumers who have been entrapped, in many cases, with massive amounts of credit card debt. And incorporating the modest but very important reforms that the gentlewoman from New York has advanced into this legislation is absolutely essential.

We need not negotiate just over the unsatisfactory proposal that was advanced by the Treasury Department.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Mr. WELCH of Vermont. Mr. Speaker, I will yield the gentleman an additional 30 seconds.

Mr. DOGGETT. We need not be limited by just trying to improve an unsatisfactory proposal advanced by the administration; we need to add to that negotiating list key consumer reforms like this so that the protection is just not for the wrongdoers on Wall Street, but it's for the average consumer struggling to make ends meet with a huge credit card debt. And I applaud the gentlewoman from New York for her leadership.

Mr. SESSIONS. Mr. Speaker, we reserve our time.

Mr. WELCH of Vermont. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Minnesota, a member of the Financial Services Committee, Mr. ELLISON.

Mr. ELLISON. Mr. Speaker, let me start by thanking Chairwoman MALONEY and Chairman FRANK for their continued commitment to this much-needed credit card reform legislation. I'm proud and honored to have worked with both of them to ensure the financial security of working families across America.

As co-chair of the Congressional Consumer Justice Caucus, I'm strongly in favor of H.R. 5244, the Credit Card Holder's Bill of Rights.

Mr. Speaker, today we have an opportunity to stand up for working families across America by passing legislation that will ensure the prosperity of the working class. And this legislation, Mr. Speaker, needs to be part of the financial markets' rescue plan. As we move forward to try to help people on Wall Street, we cannot leave alone the people on Main Street. Americans are suffering under tremendous weight of this credit crisis. We have to do something, and this is what we can do about it: giving people relief from these incredible abuses in the credit card industry.

The debt crisis inundating so many Americans is in large part due to the result of an industry with few regulations and little oversight. Consumers with credit cards nationwide are facing excessive credit card fees, sky-high interest rates, and unfair incomprehensible agreements that credit card companies can revise at will.

In short, American families are suffering while credit card companies are making record profits, Mr. Speaker. In 2007, credit card issuers imposed $18.1 billion—that's billion with a "B"—in penalty fees on families carrying credit card balances for more than 50 percent since 2003. This accounts for nearly half of the $41 billion industry profits.

This year, credit card companies will break all record fees for late fees, over-limit charges, and other penalties pulling in more than $19 billion.

H.R. 5244 bans unfair and deceptive practices that have resulted in billions of dollars in fees drained from hard-working families for the credit card industry.

Also included in the bill is a ban on universal default. Last May, I introduced legislation to ban this unfair and ethical practice, and I'm pleased to see it included in the bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Mr. WELCH of Vermont. I yield the gentleman an additional 30 seconds.

Mr. ELLISON. Universal default is the popular term for a practice that allows creditors to increase the rate on your credit card to the default rate, even when you haven't missed a single payment on that card. This means that we're going to look at real reform with this important piece of legislation.

Mr. Speaker, I want to thank Chairwoman MALONEY, again, for her valiant advocacy, and this does need to be a part of the rescue package.

Mr. SESSIONS. Mr. Speaker, it's my understanding that the gentleman from Vermont is through with his speakers at this time, if I could confirm that.

Mr. WELCH of Vermont. That is correct.

Mr. SESSIONS. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, since taking control of this House, this Democrat Congress has totally neglected its responsibility to address the domestic supply issues that have created the skyrocketing gas, diesel and energy costs that Americans are facing today, and no doubt, part of the credit crunch that we are facing today and credit card costs that Americans are facing today is as a result of the high cost of gasoline right now that all Americans are paying.

By going on vacation for 5 weeks over August, while I and 138 others of my Republican colleagues stayed in Washington to talk about real solutions for American families, this Democrat majority has proven that they do not believe that the energy crisis facing American families and business was important enough to cancel their summer beach plans or book tours to get the job done.

So, again, today, the Republicans are here on the floor of the House of Representatives asking each of our colleagues to vote with me to defeat the previous question. If the previous question is defeated, I will move to amend the rule to allow this House to take up a measure that will allow Members to be able to vote for a pro-energy bill and prevent Members from going home to campaign for reelection without actually passing a bill which will pass and have meaningful reform so that we can lower the price of gasoline at the pump.

This legislation that I will be proposing that can be voted on today and that would turn into law would allow States to expand the exploration and extraction of natural resources along the Outer Continental Shelf. Not allowed in the Democrat bill that passed one week ago.

It would open the arctic energy slope and oil shale reserves to environmentally prudent exploration and extraction. Not included in the Democrats' bill of a week ago.

It would extend expiring renewable energy incentives. It would encourage the streamlining approval of new refining capacity and nuclear power facilities. Not included in the Democrat bill of a week ago.

It would encourage advanced research and development of clean coal, coal-to-liquid, and carbon sequestration technologies, which was not included in the Democrat bill a week ago.

Perhaps most of all, it would minimize drawn out legal challenges that unreasonably delay or prevent actual domestic energy production. Not included in the Democrats' bill of a week ago.

Mr. Speaker, this requirement would finally force the Democrat leadership to take positive, meaningful action to increase the supply of American energy. It would reduce the price at the pump for American families and use, what we term in the Republican Party, an all-of-the-above strategy combining increased supply of American-made energy, improved conservation and efficiency, and provide for new and expanding energy technologies to achieve American energy independence.

Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to have the text of the amendment and extraneous material inserted into the RECORD prior to the vote on the previous question.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Texas?

There was no objection.

Mr. SESSIONS. Mr. Speaker, we're here on the floor debating a bill today that may have unintended consequences of drying up the ability that families have and people have and small businesses have for getting credit.

I do acknowledge, I think every Member of this House acknowledges, that gasoline prices, energy prices are way too high. Food prices are way too high. But people who are trying to live their lives need the opportunity to have credit, the opportunity to be able to have a credit card, and to be able to place those expenses on their credit card, and then manage their own ability to pay back. That is the essence of what we should be about is trying to help people do that today.

Not about creating another credit card crunch. Not about creating credit cards where people don't know whether they're going to be able to get credit or not, and perhaps, more importantly, the opportunity for us to give this marketplace for American consumers stability where they know what they can count on and move forward to take care of their families and their small businesses.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to say also that we believe that the provisions that were put in the rule specifically addressing the earmark reform or earmarks is unacceptable. It's unacceptable to say that this House will quite likely be voting on a massive bill only to find out weeks later we'll find out what was in the bill and those earmarks that accompany that.

As the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. FLAKE) noted, that is disappointing. It's disappointing because this House was advised over 2 years ago that this would be the most honest, open, and ethical Congress in history.

Mr. Speaker, I have seen very little to no action on behalf of this new Democrat majority that is open about what they do, that is transparent in what they do. And once again, today, with a record shattering breaking new closed rule, we find that they aren't even willing to take ideas from people in their own party, and I think that's disappointing.

As we wind down this last week that we're here before the election, we find that there are new tricks of the trade that take place in this Rules Committee. I'm disappointed that this new Democrat majority continues that. I support the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. FLAKE) and what he said; and, Mr. Speaker, I would say that that's why I'm asking Members of this body not to support this rule and the underlying legislation.

I yield back my time, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WELCH of Vermont. Mr. Speaker, I want to make three points.

First, in response to the concerns expressed by the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. FLAKE), I want to assure him, as well as my colleagues, that the Armed Services Committee intends today to file their explanatory statement. This is on the, incidentally, Duncan Hunter defense authorization bill. They want to file their explanatory statement before the bipartisan DOD authorization is considered on the floor. So Members are going to have an opportunity to read in the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD all the information that they want, including anything related to so-called "earmarks."

Second, I want to speak to the energy concerns that were discussed by the gentleman from Texas. I understand the argument he's making. It's been made by him and his colleagues, and in fact, many of the arguments that were made were incorporated into the energy legislation that did pass this House for an all-of-the-above approach to energy, and I can appreciate that some Members here do believe that drilling is the way to go and almost the only way to go. And I can understand the political appeal that has been embraced by my friends on the other side to use every occasion to speak, whether it is on a credit card bill, whether it's on a veterans bill, doesn't matter the nature of the bill that they want to give their pitch about oil. And they've done it. We've listened, and we've passed legislation that does incorporate all of the above.

But the third point I want to make is this: this legislation that has been brought to the floor by Congresswoman MALONEY raises a fundamentally, profoundly important question for this Congress. Are we going to stand by hands off while the credit industry, most recently exhibited by Wall Street, basically plunders our economy, picks the pockets of consumers, has their way, tramples on the rights of individuals and families, disregards the needs of the middle class, all in the name of whatever it is in and however much money it is they can make? Or is Congress going to assert its role as the representatives of the people and establish a level playing field so that people can have access to the credit that they need in a way that companies are going to make a fair profit, the old, the elderly, the people on the margin aren't going to be ripped off?

It's really that simple, and we can debate about what the fine points are in any kind of consumer protection legislation, and reasonable people can disagree on both sides of the aisle. But the fundamental question for this Congress is, are we going to do anything or not? And the whole reason we have this extraordinary spectacle of these Wall Street titans, billionaires, now coming in to Congress saying they're going broke and give us $700 billion, and oh, it's not for us, it's because we want the economy to work for the people who are on the dead-end side of these mortgages, why did that happen?

It happened because in many ways the Federal Trade Commission, the Federal Reserve, the Office of Thrift Supervision, the executive branch of government abdicated any responsibility that it had to stand up for people who needed an active government on their side.

What Congresswoman MALONEY's legislation says very simply is, Enough. Enough. Enough abuse. It's over; the free ride is over. We're going to have some fair rules, consumer protections. You get notice of what your bill is going to be. You can't change the interest rate arbitrarily. A contract is a contract both ways, and if there's an obligation to pay your credit card, which there is, there's an obligation on the part of the credit card company to abide by explicit terms and conditions in a contract.

So this legislation is a first step, in my view long overdue, for Congress to stand up and say that there are going to be some basic rules of fairness, some basic rules of the road that are going to protect everyday citizens. Credit is essential to our economy, and that's a point my friend from Texas made and he's right, and it's a useful and important tool for individuals and families.

But there have to be fair rules, and one family up against a monolith of the credit card industry, there's got to be somebody on the side of that family, and that's got to be the United States Congress.

I urge a "yes" vote on the previous question and on the rule.

The material previously referred to by Mr. SESSIONS is as follows:

AMENDMENT TO H. RES. 1476 OFFERED BY MR. SESSIONS OF TEXAS

At the end of the resolution add the following new section:

SEC. 4. It shall not be in order in the House to consider a concurrent resolution providing for an adjournment of either House of Congress until comprehensive energy legislation has been enacted into law that includes provisions designed to—

(A) allow states to expand the exploration and extraction of natural resources along the Outer Continental Shelf;

(B) open the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge and oil shale reserves to environmentally prudent exploration and extraction;

(C) extend expiring renewable energy incentives;

(D) encourage the streamlined approval of new refining capacity and nuclear power facilities;

(E) encourage advanced research and development of clean coal, coal-to-liquid, and carbon sequestration technologies; and

(F) minimize drawn out legal challenges that unreasonably delay or prevent actual domestic energy production.

THE VOTE ON THE PREVIOUS QUESTION: WHAT IT REALLY MEANS

This vote, the vote on whether to order the previous question on a special rule, is not merely a procedural vote. A vote against ordering the previous question is a vote against the Democratic majority agenda and a vote to allow the opposition, at least for the moment, to offer an alternative plan. It is a vote about what the House should be debating.

Mr. Clarence Cannon's Precedents of the House of Representatives (VI, 308-311) describes the vote on the previous question on the rule as "a motion to direct or control the consideration of the subject before the House being made by the Member in charge." To defeat the previous question is to give the opposition a chance to decide the subject before the House. Cannon cites the Speaker's ruling of January 13, 1920, to the effect that "the refusal of the House to sustain the demand for the previous question passes the control of the resolution to the opposition" in order to offer an amendment. On March 15, 1909, a member of the majority party offered a rule resolution. The House defeated the previous question and a member of the opposition rose to a parliamentary inquiry, asking who was entitled to recognition. Speaker Joseph G. Cannon (R-Illinois) said: "The previous question having been refused, the gentleman from New York, Mr. Fitzgerald, who had asked the gentleman to yield to him for an amendment, is entitled to the first recognition."

Because the vote today may look bad for the Democratic majority they will say "the vote on the previous question is simply a vote on whether to proceed to an immediate vote on adopting the resolution . . . [and] has no substantive legislative or policy implications whatsoever." But that is not what they have always said. Listen to the definition of the previous question used in the Floor Procedures Manual published by the Rules Committee in the 109th Congress, (page 56). Here's how the Rules Committee described the rule using information from Congressional Quarterly's "American Congressional Dictionary": "If the previous question is defeated, control of debate shifts to the leading opposition member (usually the minority Floor Manager) who then manages an hour of debate and may offer a germane amendment to the pending business."

Deschler's Procedure in the U.S. House of Representatives, the subchapter titled "Amending Special Rules" states: "a refusal to order the previous question on such a rule [a special rule reported from the Committee on Rules] opens the resolution to amendment and further debate." (Chapter 21, section 21.2) Section 21.3 continues: "Upon rejection of the motion for the previous question on a resolution reported from the Committee on Rules, control shifts to the Member leading the opposition to the previous question, who may offer a proper amendment or motion and who controls the time for debate thereon."

Clearly, the vote on the previous question on a rule does have substantive policy implications. It is one of the only available tools for those who oppose the Democratic majority's agenda and allows those with alternative views the opportunity to offer an alternative plan.

Mr. WELCH of Vermont. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time, and I move the previous question on the resolution.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on ordering the previous question.

The question was taken; and the Speaker pro tempore announced that the ayes appeared to have it.

Mr. SESSIONS. Mr. Speaker, on that I demand the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 8 and clause 9 of rule XX, this 15-minute vote on ordering the previous question will be followed by 5-minute votes on adoption of H. Res. 1476, if ordered; and the motion to suspend the rules and pass S.J. Res. 45.

The vote was taken by electronic device, and there were—yeas 221, nays 192, not voting 20, as follows:

The text of the bill is as follows:

H.R. 5244

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the “Credit Cardholders’ Bill of Rights Act of 2008”.

SEC. 2. CREDIT CARDS ON TERMS CONSUMERS CAN REPAY.

(a) UNIVERSAL DEFAULT ELIMINATED.—Chapter 2 of the Truth in Lending Act (15 U.S.C. 1631 et seq.) is amended by inserting after section 127A the following new section:

“§ 127B. Additional requirements for credit card accounts under an open end consumer credit plan

“(a) UNIVERSAL DEFAULT ELIMINATED FOR CREDIT ALREADY OUTSTANDING.—No creditor may use any adverse information concerning any consumer, including any information in any consumer report (as defined in section 603) or any change in the credit score of the consumer, as the basis for increasing any annual percentage rate of interest applicable to the outstanding balance on a credit card account of the consumer under an open end consumer credit plan at the time of any such increase, other than actions or omissions of the consumer that are directly related to such account.”.

(b) ANY-TIME ANY-REASON CHANGES IN TERMS ELIMINATED.—Section 127B of the Truth in Lending Act is amended by inserting after subsection (a) (as added by subsection (a)) the following new subsection:

“(b) ANY-TIME ANY-REASON CHANGES IN TERMS ELIMINATED.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—No creditor may change any term of the contract or agreement applicable with respect to any credit card account of the consumer under an open end consumer credit plan until renewal of the contract or agreement except for the specific material reasons, and subject to specific limitations, that are contained in the contract or agreement with respect to such term at the time the account is opened.

“(2) EXCEPTION FOR INCREASES IN CREDIT LIMIT.—Paragraph (1) shall not apply with respect to any increase in the amount of credit authorized to be extended under an account described in such paragraph.”.

(c) ADVANCE NOTICE OF CREDIT CARD ACCOUNT RATE INCREASES AND RIGHT TO CANCEL ACCOUNT.—Section 127B of the Truth in Lending Act is amended by inserting after subsection (b) (as added by subsection (b)) the following new subsection:

“(c) ADVANCE NOTICE OF CREDIT CARD ACCOUNT RATE INCREASES AND RIGHT TO CANCEL ACCOUNT.—

“(1) ADVANCE NOTICE OF CREDIT CARD ACCOUNT RATE INCREASES REQUIRED.—In the case of any credit card account under an open end consumer credit plan, no increase in any annual percentage rate of interest, for any reason other than an increase due to the expiration of any introductory percentage rate of interest, or due solely to a change in another rate of interest to which such rate is indexed, may take effect before the end of the 45-day period beginning on the date notice of such increase is sent to the cardholder.

“(2) RIGHT TO CANCEL WITHOUT INCREASE IN APR ON OUTSTANDING BALANCE.—Any consumer who receives a notice from a creditor pursuant to paragraph (1) with respect to a credit card account under an open end consumer credit plan shall have the right—

“(A) to cancel the credit card, by mail, telephone, or electronic communication and without penalty or the imposition of any fee with respect to such cancellation, at any time during the period beginning on the date the consumer receives the notice pursuant to paragraph (1) and ending on the date the consumer receives the third periodic statement with respect to such account after the effective date of the increase; and

“(B) to pay any outstanding balance on the credit card account that accrued before the effective date of the increase at the annual percentage rate and repayment period in effect before the notice was received.

“(3) NOTICE REQUIREMENTS.—

“(A) INITIAL NOTICE REQUIREMENT.—The notice required under paragraph (1) with respect to an increase in any annual percentage rate of interest shall—

“(i) be made in a clear and conspicuous manner; and

“(ii) contain a brief statement of the right of the consumer to cancel the account and pay the balance at the annual percentage rate in effect before the increase in accordance with paragraph (2) and the mailing address, telephone number, and Internet address and Worldwide Web site at which the consumer may make any such cancellation.

“(B) SUBSEQUENT NOTICES REQUIRED IN PERIODIC STATEMENTS.—Each periodic statement provided to the consumer with respect to the credit card account after a notice is provided under paragraph (1) until the third periodic statement with respect to such account after the effective date of the increase shall also contain the information required in such notice.

“(C) PRO FORMA NOTICES DO NOT MEET NOTICE REQUIREMENT.—A notice that terms may change, or will change, for any or no reason does not constitute a notice for purposes of this subsection.

“(4) PAYMENT OF POST-INCREASE EXTENSIONS OF CREDIT.—If any consumer obtains an extension of credit on a credit card account on or after the effective date of the increase in the annual percentage rate for which a notice was provided in accordance with paragraph (1) and subsequently cancels the account under paragraph (2), the outstanding balance of such credit that was extended on or after the effective date of the increase shall be subject to repayment at the increased rate in effect at the time of the extension of credit.”.

“(B) any failure to make timely repayments of such balance shall not constitute a default on the account.

“(2) RULE OF CONSTRUCTION.—Paragraph (1) shall not be construed as affecting—

“(A) the consumer's obligation to pay any accrued interest on a credit card account under an open end consumer credit plan; or

“(B) the accrual of interest on the outstanding balance on any such account in accordance with the terms of the account and this title.”.

“(1) ‘FIXED’ RATE.—The term ‘fixed’, when appearing in conjunction with a reference to the annual percentage rate or interest rate applicable with respect to such account, may only be used to refer to an annual percentage rate or interest rate that will not change or vary for any reason over the period clearly and conspicuously specified in the terms of the account.

“(2) PRIME RATE.—The term ‘prime rate’, when appearing in any agreement or contract for any such account, may only be used to refer to the bank prime rate published in the Federal Reserve Statistical Release on selected interest rates (daily or weekly), and commonly referred to as the H.15 release (or any successor publication).

“(A) IN GENERAL.—Each periodic statement for any such account shall contain a date by which the next periodic payment on the account must be made to avoid a late fee or be considered a late payment, and any payment received by 5 P.M., Eastern Standard Time, on such date shall be treated as a timely payment for all purposes.

“(B) CERTAIN ELECTRONIC FUND TRANSFERS.—Any payment with respect to any such account made by a consumer on-line to the Web site of the credit card issuer or by telephone directly to the credit card issuer before 5 P.M., Eastern Standard Time, on any business day shall be credited to the consumer's account that business day.

“(C) PRESUMPTION OF TIMELY PAYMENT.—Any evidence provided by a consumer in the form of a receipt from the United States Postal Service or other common carrier indicating that a payment on a credit card account was sent to the issuer not less than 7 days before the due date contained in the periodic statement under subparagraph (A) for such payment shall create a presumption that such payment was made by the due date, which may be rebutted by the creditor for fraud or dishonesty on the part of the consumer with respect to the mailing date.”.

(f) PRO RATA PAYMENT ALLOCATIONS.—Section 127B of the Truth in Lending Act is amended by inserting after subsection (h) (as added by subsection (e)) the following new subsection:

“(i) PRO RATA PAYMENT ALLOCATIONS.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—Except as permitted under paragraph (2), if the outstanding balance on a credit card account under an open end consumer credit plan accrues interest at 2 or more different annual percentage rates, the total amount of each periodic payment made on such account shall be allocated by the creditor between or among the outstanding balances at each such annual percentage rate in the same proportion as each such balance bears to the total outstanding balance on the account.

“(2) ALLOCATION TO HIGHER RATE.—Notwithstanding paragraph (1), a creditor may elect, in any case described in such paragraph, to allocate more than a pro rata share of any payment to a portion of the outstanding balance that bears a higher annual percentage rate than another portion of such outstanding balance.”.

“(1) IN GENERAL.—In the case of any credit card account under an open end consumer credit plan under which an over-the-limit-fee may be imposed by the creditor for any extension of credit in excess of the amount of credit authorized to be extended under such account, the consumer may elect to prohibit the creditor, with respect to such account, from completing any transaction involving the extension of credit, with respect to such account, in excess of the amount of credit authorized by notifying the creditor of such election in accordance with paragraph (2).

“(A) through the notification system maintained by the creditor under paragraph (4); or

“(B) by submitting to the creditor a signed notice of election, by mail or electronic communication, on a form issued by the creditor for purposes of this subparagraph.

“(4) NOTIFICATION SYSTEM.—Each creditor that maintains credit card accounts under an open end consumer credit plan shall establish and maintain a notification system, including a toll-free telephone number, Internet address, and Worldwide Web site, which permits any consumer whose credit card account is maintained by the creditor to notify the creditor of an election under this subsection in accordance with paragraph (2).

“(5) ANNUAL NOTICE TO CONSUMERS OF AVAILABILITY OF ELECTION.—In the case of any credit card account under an open end consumer credit plan, the creditor shall include a notice, in clear and conspicuous language, of the availability of an election by the consumer under this paragraph as a means of avoiding over-the-limit fees and a higher amount of indebtedness, and the method for providing such notice—

“(A) in the periodic statement required under subsection (b) with respect to such account at least once each calendar year; and

“(B) in any such periodic statement which includes a notice of the imposition of an over-the-limit fee during the period covered by the statement.

“(6) NO FEES IF CONSUMER HAS MADE AN ELECTION.—If a consumer has made an election under paragraph (1), no over-the-limit fee may be imposed on the account for any reason that has caused the outstanding balance in the account to exceed the credit limit.

“(A) IN GENERAL.—The Board shall issue regulations allowing for the completion of over-the-limit transactions that for operational reasons exceed the credit limit by a de minimis amount, even where the cardholder has made an election under paragraph (1).

“(B) SUBJECT TO NO FEE LIMITATION.—The regulations prescribed under subparagraph (A) shall not allow for the imposition of any fee or any rate increase based on the permitted over-the-limit transactions.

“(1) OVER-THE-LIMIT FEE RESTRICTIONS.—With respect to a credit card account under an open end consumer credit plan, an over-the-limit fee may be imposed only once during a billing cycle if, on the last day of such billing cycle, the credit limit on the account is exceeded, and an over-the-limit fee, with respect to such excess credit, may be imposed only once in each of the 2 subsequent billing cycles, unless the consumer has obtained an additional extension of credit in excess of such credit limit during any such subsequent cycle or the consumer reduces the outstanding balance below the credit limit as of the end of such billing cycle.”.

“(2) EXISTING BALANCE DEFINED.—For purposes of this subsection and subsections (b) and (c), the term ‘existing balance’ means the amount owed on a consumer credit card account as of the end of the fourteenth day after the creditor provides notice of an increase in the annual percentage rate in accordance with subsection (c).

“(3) TREATMENT OF EXISTING BALANCES FOLLOWING RATE INCREASE.—If a creditor increases any annual percentage rate of interest applicable to credit card account of a consumer under an open end consumer credit plan and there is an existing balance in the account to which such increase may not apply, the creditor shall allow the consumer to repay the existing balance using a method provided by the creditor which is at least as beneficial to the consumer as 1 of the following methods:

“(A) An amortization period for the existing balance of at least 5 years starting from the date on which the increased annual percentage rate went into effect.

“(B) The percentage of the existing balance that was included in the required minimum periodic payment before the rate increase cannot be more than doubled.

“(4) LIMITATION ON CERTAIN FEES.—If—

“(b) EXCEPTIONS.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—A creditor may increase any annual percentage rate of interest applicable to the existing balance on a credit card account of the consumer under an open end consumer credit plan only under the following circumstances:

“(A) CHANGE IN INDEX.—The increase is due solely to the operation of an index that is not under the creditor’s control and is available to the general public.

“(B) EXPIRATION OR LOSS OF PROMOTIONAL RATE.—The increase is due solely to—

“(i) the expiration of a promotional rate; or

“(ii) the loss of a promotional rate for a reason specified in the account agreement (e.g., late payment).

“(C) PAYMENT NOT RECEIVED DURING 30-DAY GRACE PERIOD AFTER DUE DATE.—The increase is due solely to the fact that the consumer’s minimum payment has not been received within 30 days after the due date for such minimum payment.

“(2) LIMITATION ON INCREASES DUE TO LOSS OF PROMOTIONAL RATE.—Notwithstanding paragraph (1)(B)(ii), the annual percentage rate in effect after the increase permitted under such subsection due to the loss of a promotional rate may not exceed the annual percentage rate that would have applied under the terms of the agreement after the expiration of the promotional rate.”.

(c) ADVANCE NOTICE OF RATE INCREASES.—Section 127B of the Truth in Lending Act is amended by inserting after subsection (b) (as added by subsection (b)) the following new subsection:

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentlewoman from New York (Mrs. MALONEY) and the gentleman from California (Mr. CAMPBELL) each will control 30 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentlewoman from New York.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mrs. MALONEY of New York. Madam Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks on H.R. 5244 and to insert extraneous material thereon.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from New York?

There was no objection.

Mrs. MALONEY of New York. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Madam Speaker, I rise in support of H.R. 5244, the Credit Cardholders' Bill of Rights. I introduced this bill, together with Chairman FRANK. This important legislation has 155 cosponsors. A dozen national consumer groups have not only endorsed this legislation, but have made it one of their top priorities. The AFL-CIO and especially the SEIU have strongly supported the bill. Major civil rights groups saw this bill as necessary to stop abuses to their constituents.

Over 50 newspapers from all over the Nation published editorials and op-eds in support of credit card reform, from California to Florida and even my own hometown paper, The New York Times.

The Federal Reserve, whose first priority is protecting the safety and soundness of our financial institutions and our economy, has called the credit card practices addressed in this bill "anticompetitive for markets and unfair and deceptive to consumers." Some 56,000 Americans wrote in in support of the proposed Federal rule, more than any in the history of the Fed, commenting in support of this bill.

Rarely do we get an opportunity to vote for legislation with such deep and widespread support. In the midst of the financial turmoil in our markets, Congress has been asked to provide $700 billion for Wall Street. Now we have a chance with this bill to do something for Main Street.

Credit cards are an essential part of our economy, but for too long card issuers have been allowed to do whatever they want, any time, for any reason. A deal is a deal, but what sort of a deal is it when one side gets to make all the decisions? This bill will get credit card practices back to basic principles of contractual fairness.

No other industry is allowed to raise the price of a product after the consumer has bought it.

Also, the credit card bill of rights bans "any time any reason" rate increases on existing card balances. It bans double cycle billing which charges interest on debt already paid.

It gives consumers 45 days notice of any rate increases so cardholders can decide whether to pay off their balances and shop for another card. The bill makes sure that consumers who borrow high rate balances such as emergency cash advances can pay them off by requiring issuers to credit some part of the payments to the high rate balances.

The bill stops due date gimmicks that trick cardholders into paying late and racking up unjustified fees. It prevents subprime cards from trapping the most vulnerable cardholders in a cycle of debt, and it prohibits issuing cards to vulnerable minors.

The bill will demonstrate, once and for all, that Congress is protecting working Americans, as well as large institutions, from the current financial storm. Unfair credit card debt is as toxic to ordinary citizens as subprime debt obligations are to investment banks.

This is an issue that cuts across social and economic groups. Everyone has a credit card, and too many have a credit card story of getting hit with an unfair or deceptive practice.

I expect opponents of reform will argue that we should wait for the Federal Reserve to act or, as they put it, Congress should defer to the Fed; but this Congress and this majority cannot abdicate our responsibilities. This country cannot afford to wait for this administration and its regulators any longer. We need to take action now on this critical issue.

I urge my colleagues to support this bill. Enough is enough. It is time to help consumers.

Madam Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. CAMPBELL of California. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

There is already existing law on this subject. This is clearly a critical subject. There has been discussion about unfair and deceptive practices, and I don't think there is any disagreement that unfair and deceptive practices exist in the credit card industry. The question is, how do we deal with it and what do we do with it?

Right now there is existing law. The existing law says that the Federal Reserve is supposed to crack down through regulation on "unfair and deceptive acts or practices."

To that end, the Federal Reserve in May issued proposed regulations to do exactly that, to try to stop those things that they determined were, at that time, unfair and deceptive. As the lady from New York correctly pointed out, there have been tens of thousands of responses and input to the Federal Reserve on their proposed regulations. The Federal Reserve has said that they will make those regulations final prior to the end of the year, which by the way, is more likely to be sooner than this legislation could possibly pass both Houses and perhaps be signed by the President.

I don't know why at this point we would want to interfere with this process, which appears to be working well. Clearly it is working well because the proposed bill is pretty much identical to the proposed regulations that the Fed put out in May.

Now the Fed may make some changes to those regulations based on the tens of thousands of responses that they got, which is how that process works. For us to come in and intercede in that process and overrule that process is, first of all, wrong; and, second of all, sets a bad precedent.

The reason that we often, in this situation and other situations in Congress, allow the definitions of these sorts of things to be done by regulators is that things change quickly. Congress doesn't act quickly.

Next year, there could be new deceptive practices. There could be some things out there this year that are in the proposed regulations that have been determined to actually not be deceptive or perhaps to interfere with the marketplace. By doing this, we are stepping in, and we are defining what these things are, and that is not something I believe we should be doing when the existing law is in process and appears to be functioning correctly.

Second of all, it is well known the major issue that we will be dealing with this week is the financial crisis in which the country finds itself gripped. This is clearly a very, very serious financial crisis and a very serious issue.

What are the ramifications? What are the manifestations of this financial crisis? Right now, credit is contracting. Currently, it is happening in the corporate and business markets, but it is also already extending, and has been, to home loans, car loans and, yes, credit cards.

We are in a financial crisis in which the availability of credit to Americans everywhere, in all forms, is becoming more difficult to get and more expensive. Clearly, the solutions to this crisis go way beyond the scope of this bill that we have before us today. But one thing we don't want to do is to further constrict credit markets that are already constricting and further increase the interest rates to consumers that are already going up.

This bill, by stepping in directly in this way and interfering with the process that the Federal Reserve has in place, has the potential to do that. I would say that before people vote on this bill, I think they need to consider carefully that if it becomes more difficult for people to get credit in the future, if in the next weeks or months it becomes harder to even get a credit card or the interest rates thereon go up, do you want to be a part of pushing that credit out and pushing those rates up, or do you want to be a part of looking at the solution to those issues?

Let's remember that many of the credit card issuing companies are those companies that are on Wall Street and that are in trouble. They are not making any money right now.

Now we are not here, and the purpose of credit cards is not to ensure that they make money through their credit cards, that is not where I am going. That is the market at work. That is their problem; that is their issue. But the fact is that when companies don't make money on something, they do less of it or they charge more for it, and that is where we appear to be headed now.

I strongly urge my colleagues to oppose this bill and suggest that you consider that if this bill does not pass, that still unfair and deceptive practices will be reined in by the Federal Reserve's regulations before the end of the year in a rational manner and hopefully we will then proceed to deal with, later this week, the issue of trying to make sure that credit and credit cards will be available.

Madam Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mrs. MALONEY of New York. I would say to my good friend on the other side of the aisle, doing nothing and hoping that the Fed will act is an abdication of our responsibility, and that is not the way of this Congress. The Fed has called it unfair and deceptive practices, they have called it anticompetitive, and we should act to correct these abuses.

Madam Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to my friend and colleague, KEITH ELLISON, the gentleman from Minnesota, who is cochair of the Consumer Justice Caucus and has had a leadership role in passing this bill.

Mr. ELLISON. Let me thank the gentlelady from New York, who has done absolutely heroic work on this bill, and let me echo her words: no more abdication from Congress. We are a coequal branch of Congress, and it is time for us to do our job.

Americans all over this country want to know what does the Congress care about the debt that they are drowning in because of these credit card practices. If the Fed says they are deceptive practices, who are we to just let them go on and step back and say, well, somebody else will do it.

No, it is time for the Congress to do something about it now. To do otherwise is to abdicate our responsibility. Nobody at the Fed holds an election certificate. All of us do. It is time to take this thing by the charge.

The fact is, about $8,000 worth of credit card debt is what Americans are holding on average for people who have a revolving balance. That is a burden that people cannot sustain. The fact is, we would not be in this situation if we had the active regulation that Americans expect from their government.

We have seen now nearly 30 years of stagnating wages. Americans have had flat wages, on average, if you look at folks who are working hard every day to put food on the table. Because the wages have been flat, we haven't had the savings to buy the things that we need.

What has been happening is people have gone to their credit cards, and as we have gone to the credit cards, the credit card companies, some of them, have been using unfair, deceptive practices that have got to be brought to a stop now. If the Fed says they are wrong, they are wrong.

We shouldn't have to wait on them to tell us what to do. We should do our job.

I just want to thank Chairwoman MALONEY and Chairman FRANK for bringing this bill to the floor now. I hope this bill can be wrapped into the rescue that is being contemplated for the financial meltdown that is going on now.

This is what we should be doing, and it needs to go into effect now. We need to deal with the credit crisis now, and credit cards must be a part of it.

Mr. CAMPBELL of California. Madam Speaker, I yield myself 30 seconds. I would say, if the Fed is so unable to deal with this problem, then why does this bill basically parrot exactly what the Fed did in May?

Madam Speaker, I would like to yield 4 minutes to my friend and colleague, and a member of the Financial Services Committee, the gentleman from Delaware (Mr. CASTLE).

Mr. CASTLE. I thank the gentleman from California for yielding.

Let me first pay a compliment to the sponsor of the legislation. I worked with her through a number of the hearings on this situation with credit card companies. I think she heightened the awareness to do something about this. Maybe that's, in part, why the Federal Reserve has started to move forward. I think she deserves a great deal of credit for that.

Madam Speaker, I do not, however, support this legislation at this time for a lot of the reasons that have already been stated.

The Federal Reserve, as we all know, regulates in this area. This is not one of those unregulated banking areas. They have issued a rule on unfair and deceptive practices. They have received, as the gentlewoman has properly pointed out, over 50,000 comments concerning that. Those comments have come both in opposition to their rule and in support of it, and they are now going through all of that.

We anticipate that by the end of the year they will issue their final, what is known as UDAP, rules on this particular subject, dealing with these deceptive practices, which will guide the consumers, which will guide the credit card companies, in which a great deal of expertise and time has been put in. I am certain that a number of provisions that are in this legislation will be included in whatever the Fed people issue, but there also may be different ways of looking at problems, there may be different nuances. Frankly, I trust their expertise to be able to do that.

Plus, we have the ability as Congress, or at least the next Congress does, to come back and incorporate into law anything we feel should happen. I think by doing what we are doing now by trying to pass legislation at this point, regardless of whether it could pass in the Senate or not in the next few days, we are, indeed, taking the responsibility of doing something that the Fed is well prepared to handle. I think we should leave it to them to do that.

For that reason, I believe that this legislation should not have come up. I prefer not to oppose it, but in the circumstances that we are dealing with, I feel that we need to oppose it.

There are a few points here. There is a lot of competition out there and people can go from one credit card company to another. I do not necessarily think that we are abrogating our responsibility, as has been stated on the floor here, by not supporting this legislation at this time. As a matter of fact, I think we are doing the right thing as far as consumers, credit card companies and the economy is concerned.

I am also concerned about who is going to pay all of this. If some of these steps are taken and all of a sudden there are losses as far as the credit card industry is concerned, does that mean fees go up? Other people who were paying lower interest rates are going to pay higher interest rates? Will they charge more at the beginning? Various steps that I don't know if I have the economic sophistication to explain, but I have a gut reaction that the bottom line is that somebody is going to pay for it. They always do in some way or another, and that could be many consumers who are presently being responsible in terms of how they are handling their debt circumstances.

So for all of these reasons, it is my judgment that this is legislation better not done at this time. Could it come back in the spring in the form of incorporating what the Fed has done or incorporating and polishing what the Federal Reserve issues in their rules, yes, that would be something that we should do. I think we all agree there should be steps taken in this situation.

But I trust those who have received all of these comments and looked at all of this and have all of the expertise to make the decisions. I would hope that Members of Congress would withhold voting for this at this time and see what the Federal Reserve is going to issue.

I would just add, the statement was made by the sponsor, I believe, that hoping that the Fed will act is an abrogation of our responsibility. The Fed has acted. They have issued a rule. They are getting comments. They are going to issue a final rule. I don't think there is any doubt in anyone's mind that the Fed has acted in this circumstance, so I urge defeat of this legislation if it is going to move forward.

Mrs. MALONEY of New York. I yield such time as he may consume to the Chair of the Committee on Financial Services, BARNEY FRANK, and congratulate him on his hard work on this piece of legislation and so many other areas.

Mr. FRANK of Massachusetts. I thank the gentlewoman who has been the spark plug here. I think it is an important day, that we are dealing in a rational way with credit card legislation.

I appreciate the reasonable tone of my friend from Delaware. We disagree some. I don't think anyone could reasonably characterize this as some assault on the free enterprise system. It understands the importance of credit cards and tries to work within that framework.

It is important to note that what this bill does is essentially protect consumers against retroactive unfairness. When it comes to rate setting, this bill, to the disappointment of some, doesn't limit future rates. As far as the future is concerned, if proper notice is given, this bill is not restrictive. It does deal essentially with retroactivity and with honoring the consumers' wishes.

The thing I want to address is one thing which seems to be a little upside down, and that is we should defer to the Federal Reserve. I want to say to some of my Republican friends, that sounds a little odd to me after hearing for years that the people must be allowed to decide, that we shouldn't defer to unelected bureaucrats. The notion that we, the elected Representatives, should defer to the Federal Reserve not on monetary policy but on a public policy matter involving what institutes fairness with credit cards, it is not an argument that I have often heard on that side.

Now I understand there is nothing in the Constitution or the rules of the House that requires consistency, but I would hope we would at least note there is an element of convenience in the invocation of this argument at this point, let's defer to the Federal Reserve. No, let's exercise the powers given to us under the Constitution. And there has been a lot of talk about the Federal Reserve doing too much. Well, I think sometimes they have to act because we don't. But here we are willing to do it.

But again, I want to stress the reasonableness of these proposals. They deal with retroactivity and unfair billing practices. If a credit card company follows the rules set here, they are not prohibited or restricted going forward with setting whatever conditions they think ought to be set. That, I think, is the essence of fairness, and I hope the bill is passed. I again congratulate the gentlewoman from New York for taking the lead.

Mr. CAMPBELL of California. How much time remains?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from California has 19 minutes and the gentlewoman from New York has 20 minutes.

Mr. CAMPBELL of California. Madam Speaker, I yield myself 2 minutes to respond to the chairman of the Financial Services Committee.

I would argue that this bill already defers to the Federal Reserve because it basically parroted the proposed regulations that the Federal Reserve put out in May. So this bill basically says okay, we are going to take what you guys proposed and we are going to make it law, not regulation which can be changed, not making any changes based on the 50,000 or 40,000, we are going to make it law.

Second, on this side we are not deferring to the Federal Reserve; we are deferring to existing law. And the will of the people based on existing law was that it is best that these sorts of determinations and definitions, which is what is unfair and what is deceptive, be handled on a regulatory basis, than that it is that Congress come back every year or 2 years or 6 years or whatever and try and determine what is new out there in the marketplace that is now determined to be unfair.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mrs. MALONEY of New York. Madam Speaker, I thank the gentleman for his comments, but I introduced my bill in February after many legislative hearings and meetings that involved Members on the other side of the aisle, stakeholders, consumers, and everyone concerned about this problem. We drafted and put in our bill in February. In May, the Federal Reserve came back with recommendations that mirrored our bill almost completely.

I would like to point out to him that the Federal Reserve is not in the Constitution, and we didn't leave it up to the regulators in the foreclosure crisis. We passed a bill to help homeowners stay in their homes. As we have seen Wall Street under attack, we are not leaving things up to the regulators. We passed legislation giving new direction to the Treasury to help the GSEs, investment banks, and insurers. So you are very selective on your comments that we should step back and let the Fed do everything.

I now recognize an outstanding member of our committee, the gentleman from Texas (Mr. HINOJOSA) who is co-chair of the Literacy Caucus on the Financial Services Committee.

Mr. HINOJOSA. Madam Speaker, I rise in strong support of H.R. 5422. I want to commend Chairwoman MALONEY for introducing H.R. 5422, the Credit Cardholders' Bill of Rights Act. I am proud to be a cosponsor of this legislation which is supported by many organizations, including the National Council of La Raza, LULAC, MALDEF, and many others.

As chairman of the Subcommittee on Higher Education, I am concerned that thousands of students each year do not enroll in higher education institutions because of financial barriers. I am equally concerned about the amount of debt that students are incurring while attending institutions of higher education.

I have been working diligently with our Democratic leaders to make college more affordable and accessible. We are tackling that issue as well as trying to ensure that students graduate with the least amount of debt possible.

I am interested in the relationship between institutions of higher education and credit card companies. Many receive revenue from credit card deals. I want to know the nature of the deals, how much the credit card companies make from those deals, how they market those credit cards to students, and whether the institutions approach the credit card companies or vice versa. We need to address this issue and find out how widespread the practice is and whether it is national in scope.

This legislation will eliminate unfair and arbitrary interest rate increases, end unfair penalties to cardholders who pay on time, and require the fair allocation of consumer payments. Moreover, it will help college students reduce their debt.

Madam Speaker, I want to take this opportunity to again thank Chairwoman MALONEY for introducing the Credit Cardholders' Bill of Rights legislation, and I support it.

Mr. CAMPBELL of California. Madam Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mrs. MALONEY of New York. Madam Speaker, I recognize the gentleman from North Carolina, WALTER JONES, for 1 minute, an outstanding member of the Committee on Financial Services.

Mr. JONES. Mrs. MALONEY, thank you for your hard work on this important legislation.

I stand here with great pride and respect that I support this legislation. Approximately 145 million Americans, about half the population, own credit cards. Americans in the year 2001 paid $50 billion in finance charges; $50 billion.

A GAO study on credit cards found there are many new types of fees, new types of fees on cards, and they have risen much faster than inflation. The GAO also found that fees and penalties are buried in statements making it hard to understand when they will be levied on cardholders.

Madam Speaker, I don't know how anyone could be opposed to the American people fully understanding the charges on their credit card bills, and that is exactly why I stand here today in strong support and I ask my colleagues on the Republican side to join in supporting this bill.

Mr. CAMPBELL of California. Madam Speaker, I continue to reserve the balance of my time.

Mrs. MALONEY of New York. Madam Speaker, I recognize the gentleman from North Carolina (Mr. PRICE) for 3 minutes.

Mr. PRICE of North Carolina. Madam Speaker, I rise to engage in a colloquy with the Chair of the subcommittee. I thank her for bringing this bill to the floor and her hard work in protecting the interests of credit card holders.

As the House considers this bill, I want to make this body aware of a related bill I have introduced, along with a number of cosponsors, the Credit Card Repayment Act, H.R. 1510, which would require lenders to give cardholders more information on their monthly statements. For example, how long would it take the consumer to pay off their entire balance making only the minimum monthly payment, and how much would they pay over that time, including principal and interest?

The bill has been endorsed by the Center for Responsible Lending, the Consumer Federation of America, Consumer Action, and the National Council of La Raza. The bill is not part of the legislation we are considering today, but these kinds of disclosure requirements complement the bill currently on the floor, and they can be a valuable part of our efforts to help protect consumers. I ask the chairwoman to work with me to incorporate these provisions into the legislation as it moves forward.

I would appreciate the chairwoman's response, but I first yield to the gentleman from New York (Mrs. LOWEY).

Mrs. LOWEY. And I want to thank the gentlewoman from New York and the gentleman from North Carolina. While most credit card holders know it is difficult to pay off the balance while only making the minimum payment, they do not know the actual cost. Consumers have a right to know the true cost of making minimum payments, and I look forward to working with my colleagues to implement these important changes.

Mr. PRICE of North Carolina. I am happy to yield to the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. MORAN).

Mr. MORAN of Virginia. I thank my friend, the gentleman from North Carolina. I am embarrassed to admit that I have been periodically suggesting this provision since I was on the Banking Committee 18 years ago. It is a deceptive billing practice, and all we are asking is that the consumer know how much they will wind up paying and how long it will take them to pay it. And if they knew they would be paying much more than the original purchase, and they will be paying it for the rest of their lives, they might do the right thing. It would be the right thing for the committee to pass this kind of legislation at the next opportunity.

Mr. PRICE of North Carolina. I yield to the chairwoman of the subcommittee.

Mrs. MALONEY of New York. I thank the gentleman for his comments. I have been a supporter of transparency and fairness for consumers in the financial services area since I came to Congress. I believe consumers should have complete information so they can decide how to manage their money more efficiently and better.

I commend the gentleman from North Carolina for his efforts to provide consumers with robust information, and I would be happy to work with him on including these provisions.

Mr. PRICE of North Carolina. I thank the gentlewoman.

Mr. CAMPBELL of California. Madam Speaker, I yield myself 2 minutes just for a brief response.

In listening to the arguments on the other side, it sounds as though they are debating for changing certain things in credit cards as though we are debating against that. We are not.

What we are here saying is simply that this kind of thing is better done by regulation than it is by proscriptive statute, which is what this bill would do. And actually, it would be more effective in protecting the consumers if there is a regular regulatory process and review and so forth, not just this year but ongoing forward, than if Congress keeps stepping in and interfering with and, in fact, probably slowing down that particular regulatory review and process.

That is what we are talking about here, in addition to the fact that the other very important thing to keep in mind is that we have the availability of this credit going forward given the current crisis in which we find ourselves.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mrs. MALONEY of New York. Madam Speaker, in response to my good friend's comments, the bill is very close to the rule, and opponents of the bill also oppose the rule. Industry opposes my bill and has filed arguments opposing the rule. The OCC opposes the bill and also opposes the Fed rule. The Federal Reserve and two other regulators support the substance of the bill. The administration opposes provisions of my bill that are identical to the Fed rule.

So it would be one thing if you supported the regulations you so passionately argue we should be waiting for; it is another thing to argue that we should wait for something that those who oppose protecting consumers, giving them information and providing fairness in the contractual agreement between credit card issuers and consumers.

I now yield 2 minutes to my good friend from the great State of Colorado, MARK UDALL, who has been a leader in this debate and has had constituents who have come before the committee to testify. We thank him for his leadership.

(Mr. UDALL of Colorado asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. UDALL of Colorado. I thank the chairwoman for yielding me time, and I rise in strong support of this legislation. The bill's purpose is to require more fair play for people with credit cards.

For many Americans, consumer credit is more than a convenience. They rely on it for everyday needs. And for them it's a necessity. But they aren't always treated fairly by the companies that issue the credit cards that they use.

As the chairwoman pointed out, I've heard from many people in my State of Colorado asking me to help level the playing field. They work to do the right thing and pay their bills on time, and they deserve to be treated in good faith by the credit card companies.

That's the reason I've been working to make some commonsense changes in the rules for credit cards over these last two Congresses. I introduced a bill in 2006, and then reintroduced it again this year. And I'm proud that it won the support of an array of consumer groups, as well as 39 cosponsors from congressional districts across the country.

Most of the provisions in my bill have been included in this bill, H.R. 5244, the Credit Cardholders Bill of Rights. This is a good, solid bill that will bring real reform without arbitrary rate caps or price controls that could backfire and make credit less available.

Now later this week we'll be debating on how to respond to the problems in the credit markets. This debate will focus on a financial market crisis that's brought on, in part, by the reckless practices of lenders who thought the use of complicated financial engineering would make risky loans safe.

Across the country, people worry that we will be too concerned about rescuing the reckless and not concerned enough about fairness for hard working Americans who may be called upon to pay the tab. So it's appropriate, as we prepare for that debate, that we start by acting and bringing greater fairness to the millions of Americans who need and use credit cards.

I urge passage of the bill. I thank the chairwoman again for her leadership on this important measure.

Madam Speaker, as a proud cosponsor of this legislation, I rise in strong support of it as a way to add some common-sense rules to the laws governing issuance of credit cards.

Later this week, we will be debating how to respond to problems in the credit markets. As we all know, that debate will focus on a financial-market crisis brought on, in large part, by reckless practices of lenders who thought the use of complicated financial "engineering" would make risky loans safe.

Understandably, many in Colorado and across the country are concerned that Congress may be too concerned about rescuing those who took excessive risks and not concerned enough about fairness for hard-working American taxpayers who will be called on to pay the tab.

So it is appropriate, as we prepare for that debate, that we start by acting to bring greater fairness to the millions of Americans who need and use credit cards. I have heard from constituents across Colorado, asking me to help even the playing field on this issue.

They benefit from the widespread availability of consumer credit, and their use of that credit has been important to our economy. In fact, for many Americans, consumer credit is more than a convenience. It is something that many people need to use to pay for their everyday needs. For them, it is a necessity.

Of course, another word for credit is debt—and credit card debt has increased considerably in recent years. Overall, during the last decade, total credit-card debt rose by about 70 percent, and this clearly has an effect on consumers.

Some polls have reported that about 70 percent of surveyed families said the quality of their lives is adversely affected by the extent of their debts, and young people are more worried about going deeply into debt than about a terrorist attack.

Some have argued that much of this debt was caused by recklessness and an erosion of financial responsibility. That was one of the main arguments advanced in support of the recent changes in the bankruptcy laws.

But while there was something to that argument, it was not the whole story and it put too much emphasis on borrowers alone. Instead of just focusing on borrowers, Congress should also do more to promote responsibility by those who provide the credit—and one place to start is with credit card companies.

That's the reason I have been working to make some common-sense changes in the rules for credit card companies.

I first introduced a bill to do that back in 2006, and reintroduced it again last year with our colleague, the gentleman from Missouri, Mr. CLEAVER. I'm proud it won the support of an array of consumer groups as well as 39 cosponsors from Congressional Districts across the country.

Now, I have joined as an original cosponsor of H.R. 5244, the Credit Cardholders' Bill of Rights, which includes many provisions based on my bill.

It includes protection against arbitrary interest rate increases. It will prevent cardholders who pay on time from being unfairly penalized. It will bar excessive fees and will require more fairness in the way payments are handled. And it would prohibit the use of "universal default" clauses—provisions that allow card issuers to impose a new, higher interest rate on a credit card account if there has been any change for the worse in the cardholder's credit score—even if the change is unrelated to the credit card account.

In short, H.R. 5244 is a good, solid bill that will bring real reform without arbitrary rate caps or price controls that could backfire and make credit less available.

It deserves passage today and prompt enactment into law.

Mr. CAMPBELL of California. I reserve the balance of my time.

Mrs. MALONEY of New York. Madam Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to LORETTA SANCHEZ, who has been involved in the drafting and the movement of this bill. I congratulate her on her leadership.

Ms. LORETTA SANCHEZ of California. Madam Speaker, I want to thank Mrs. MALONEY of New York for coming up with this, for working with so many of us, because we have heard from so many of the people we represent asking for just some better and fairer types of practices for credit cards. I rise today as a cosponsor of this bill.

While the economic crisis on Wall Street is on the front page of every newspaper, many American families are actually dealing with their own crisis at home, and that is this crisis of how they get credit and how they manage credit.

Credit card debt in the United States has reached a record high, nearly $1 trillion, and unfortunately, many Americans are subjected to these excessive credit card fees and unfair interest rate increases with no warning, among other misleading and questionable tactics.

This legislation today would end practices that would require credit card companies to provide 45 days' notice before interest rate increases, and mailing billing statements 25 calendar days before the due date, instead of only 14.

In addition, this bill would prohibit double cycling billing so that companies cannot charge consumers interest on debt that they actually have already paid on time.

This legislation provides consumers with needed protections, while allowing credit card companies to balance the financial risk of the consumers they lend to. I think that's what's important, that the credit card companies also have to take responsibility for the type of credit risk that they're taking on.

We're talking so much today about credit risks. Well, this is one of the areas that is incredibly important. This has been going on for too long. Credit card companies just give credit to anybody, and they're really not taking the responsibility of what type of risk is there.

We have to protect the access to credit, but we also have to take into account and protect Americans against some of these bad practices.

Mr. CAMPBELL of California. I continue to reserve the balance of my time.

Mrs. MALONEY of New York. May I inquire as to how much time remains.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from New York has 8 minutes remaining. The gentleman from California has 15½ minutes remaining.

Mrs. MALONEY of New York. I yield 1 minute to KEITH ELLISON, Congressman ELLISON from Minnesota.

Mr. ELLISON. Madam Speaker, the gentleman from California has made the point that if this bill passes, that interest rates will go up and that credit availability will decline. Is the Congressman saying that credit card companies will retaliate against consumers with higher rates if Congress proscribes practices that even the Fed considers deceptive?

Mr. CAMPBELL of California. Will the gentleman yield?

Mr. ELLISON. I yield to the gentleman from California.

Mr. CAMPBELL of California. Yes. What I said was that they may. And it would not be a retaliatory basis. It would be because the credit markets are currently in great turmoil. And because they are in great turmoil already, credit is restricting and the rates are going up. That is happening not just with credit card debt, but with car loan debt.

Mr. ELLISON. Reclaiming my time, so for practices the Fed says are deceptive, if they are proscribed, you believe that is something that the credit card companies will react with interest rate increases on consumers for?

Mr. CAMPBELL of California. No. What I am saying is that we should, as I've said—

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Mr. CAMPBELL of California. Madam Speaker, I yield myself a minute just to respond to that, that what we have here is that the unfair and deceptive practices should stop. The Federal Reserve is probably going to do that. But by stepping in now, they will be considering all of the responses they got, and by the way, the lady from New York mentioned about the credit card companies are against the Federal Reserve proposal. I'm sure they are. But the Federal Reserve will make the decision they believe is right based on the statute which says they are supposed to crack down on those unfair and deceptive practices. And they will do that.

But what we don't want to do is send more messages to the marketplace now that we are stepping in to do things that may include some things that aren't unfair and deceptive, or that may mess with the financial markets because they are very, very fragile at the moment.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mrs. MALONEY of New York. In response to my good friend and colleague, there is no evidence to support that claim. The argument that this will raise the cost of credit and restrict access to credit is an assertion that has absolutely no basis in fact. We asked the industry, at our six hearings, for some evidence to support this claim, and they had none.

The Federal Reserve and the General Accounting Office have said in reports that there is no evidence to support the argument that these abuses have lowered rates or increased access to credit. And these reports are on my Web site and also on the industry's Web site.

Getting rid of anticompetitive practices will increase access to credit. The Federal Reserve has called these practices anticompetitive. Getting rid of them will not hurt the market. Getting rid of these practices will help competition and increase, not decrease, access to credit.

As I mentioned earlier, we had a roundtable where many of the issuers participated, and some of them voluntarily started following the proposals, voluntarily. And they tried to move to the higher goal standards, and they were turning their backs on these unfair and deceptive practices. But they found that they were losing profit and market share. So we need to level the playing field not only for consumers, but for the industry itself.

I would now like to yield 2 minutes to my distinguished colleague from Connecticut, CHRISTOPHER SHAYS, who is a member of the Financial Services Committee.

Mr. SHAYS. Thank you, Madam Speaker, and to my colleague, CAROLYN MALONEY, for introducing this bill and encouraging me to cosponsor it. I'm grateful I did, and I'm here to encourage its passage.

I rise in support of the Credit Cardholders Bill of Rights.

Loose mortgage underwriting standards and interest rate resets have helped cause the housing market to deteriorate. This could have been avoided had we acted earlier by establishing reasonable safeguards.

With this legislation, we are acting responsibly, in my judgment, to address a credit problem. In an effort to make credit easily available, credit has been overextended, and many consumers can't afford significant interest rate increases.

Consumers need fair, accurate, and transparent information to make informed choices regarding their credit card company or bank. This legislation gives consumers several long overdue protections, which include preventing sudden interest rate increases on existing loans, stopping the practice of universal default, and ensuring consumers have time to pay their bills.

I hope we synchronize our efforts with the Federal Reserve to set some reasonable limits on consumer credit to protect our economy.

Mr. CAMPBELL of California. I reserve the balance of my time.

Mrs. MALONEY of New York. I yield 1 minute to my colleague, Congressman ELLISON.

Mr. ELLISON. Madam Speaker, thank you again for allowing me to address this final point.

This issue that I put to our colleague and friend, Mr. CAMPBELL, regarding whether or not deceptive practices, practices that have been deemed to be deceptive by the Fed and that are proscribed in this legislation today, whether these things will result in rate increases or lack of availability.

In fact, they will do the opposite, Madam Speaker. They will provide transparency, they'll provide fair rules, and most importantly, they will help to keep good lenders good.

If you have a good lender, a good credit card company who is playing fair and acting ethically, and yet their competitors are allowed to engage in universal default and things like this, the net result will be that they will be at a competitive disadvantage when they don't do these unethical practices, things that the Fed has deemed to be unfair. So it's very important that we keep a nice level playing field and maintain the high standards in the industry.

This is actually a bill that will help the credit card industry because it will send a signal that the rules are fair, even, and ethics are the priority.

Mr. CAMPBELL of California. Madam Speaker, I would like to point out that Fed Governor Randy Kroszner, in testimony, said that he did believe that the regulations promulgated by the Fed would, in fact, raise interest rates for some and restrict credit for some, talking about his own proposed regulations. So there is at least some authoritative belief that that will happen.

I would now like to yield 4 minutes to a member of the Financial Services Committee, the gentlewoman from Minnesota (Mrs. BACHMANN).

Mrs. BACHMANN. I thank the gentleman from California for his leadership, for what he's doing on this bill. He's a remarkable talent, and we're well served by Mr. CAMPBELL.

Madam Speaker, I rise in opposition to this bill that's before this body. Given the current instability in our credit markets and, Madam Speaker, given the pressing need for this United States Congress to focus on the financial services bailout that is now before us, this bill is simply not what the United States Congress should be debating today. In fact, this bill is just another example of how this Congress far too often charges ahead without full contemplation of the consequences of its actions.

In today's global marketplace, Madam Speaker, consumers are paying for products and services more and more with credit and debit cards, rather than with cash payments. It's a completely different way today that we have of doing business. In fact, electronic payments now account for more than half of all consumer purchases here in the United States.

With the increasing role that credit cards play in the everyday lives of most Americans, it's both timely, and appropriate that we update and improve standards to protect those American consumers from unfair and deceptive credit card practices.

I also believe, Madam Speaker, that it's imperative that we improve access to useful, understandable and complete disclosure about the terms and conditions that govern credit card use here in our country.

The Federal Reserve Board has made a proposal. They proposed a rule known as Regulation Z which prescribes uniform methods for computing the cost of credit for disclosing credit terms and for resolving errors on certain types of credit accounts. This proposed rule is virtually identical to H.R. 5244, the Credit Card Holder's Bill of Rights Act of 2008.

While both Regulation Z and this bill are offered with the best of intentions, both could have very serious unintended consequences, and they could pose potentially significant, unnecessary costs on consumers and the United States economy. Goodness knows we don't need that right now.

Madam Speaker, Congress should absolutely allow the Federal Reserve Board's rulemaking process to play out before we rush to codify this proposed rule into law. The public comment periods, the public notice both serve a very important role that I think we all agree that will ensure that this government carefully considers every angle before we jump to regulatory change.

I'm very actually sorry to see the House Financial Service Committee hastily move to implement H.R. 5244 before the rulemaking process even had time to play out. It seems like that's the game now in Washington, DC: rush to judgment. Quick, hasty moves before the public even has time to weigh in. That's not democracy at its best, Madam Speaker, because this action shut out the comments of consumers. It shut out nonprofit organizations. It shut out industry representatives. It's certainly not in the best interests of credit card holders.

We all know that when Congress moves too quickly and bypasses important parts of the process, that it often does more harm than good. Take a look at this week. Take a look at what we're about to do: put the American consumer on the hook for almost another trillion dollars in bad debt.

This Congress has a responsibility to the people that we serve and to businesses to analyze this proposal's overall effectiveness and the effect on the cost of credit and market liquidity. Let's remember, the underlying, underpinning of this current crisis is the lack of liquidity. In other words, money into the marketplace. And that's very true today.

Ironically, the premise of this new $700 billion bailout is to restore that form of liquidity.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The time of the gentlewoman has expired.

Mr. CAMPBELL of California. I would like to yield the lady 1 more minute.

Mrs. BACHMANN. Why would Congress dismiss outside input from the experts? Are we so smart that we don't need that outside input? I think experience proves otherwise, Madam Speaker. Should we not hear from those who are impacted most from these stressful times? We are imprudent, to say the least, if we do not allow for that comment.

I could not support this bill, Madam Speaker, when it moved out of committee because it was imprudent to jump ahead; and given this new instability that's broke out in the last 2 weeks, I absolutely in good conscience cannot support this measure now. Congress should exercise prudence—wouldn't that be a novel idea?—and allow the Federal Reserve Board to finalize this proposal before we codify it with a vote of Congress.

I want to thank you, Madam Speaker. I want to thank the gentleman for his absolutely supreme work that he's doing on this bill.

Mrs. MALONEY of New York. In response to my good friend on the other side of the aisle, this has not been a rush to judgment. Democrats have been working on this bill for well over 2 years. My subcommittee has held 6 hearings, numerous meetings, roundtable discussions with consumers and issuers. The gentlelady claims that Reg Z is the bill. Reg Z is not at all the same as this bill. Reg Z from the Federal Reserve deals just with disclosure, and the Federal Reserve has said disclosure is not enough. They have called the practices unfair, deceptive, and anti-competitive, and have come forward with recommendations that, in many ways, resemble the bill that is before us today.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. CAMPBELL of California. Madam Speaker, may I inquire as to how much time is remaining on both sides?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from California has 10 minutes remaining. The gentlewoman from New York has 2 minutes remaining.

Mr. CAMPBELL of California. Madam Speaker, I would like to yield 5 minutes to the gentleman from Texas (Mr. HENSARLING), also a member of the Financial Services Committee.

Mr. HENSARLING. I thank the gentleman for yielding. I thank him for his leadership.

I certainly understand the intent and the purpose of the gentlelady's bill, and her intent is good. Unfortunately, I believe the policy is bad.

It is entitled the Credit Card Bill of Rights Act. I fear, if enacted, it will prove to be a "credit card bill of wrongs" for credit card holders all over America. I view it as a most decisively anti-consumer piece of legislation.

Madam Speaker, I believe that this piece of legislation helps turn back the clock to a different era in America where there is little competition for credit cards, where a third fewer Americans had access to credit cards which so many now view as a necessity of everyday economic life. Those people in this previous era who did have credit cards universally paid a high, high interest rate.

I believe this bill also represents another assault on our personal economic freedoms and will exacerbate the credit crunch that we see today. Why would we want to bring a bill to the floor that could make credit even less accessible and more expensive at a time when Americans are struggling to pay their bills?

This bill ultimately would limit the ability in some instances to charge interest; it would limit the ability in some respects to change terms; limit the ability to impose certain late fees; limit the ability to impose over-the-limit fees. Essentially, it erodes what we call risk-based pricing.

And what has risk-based pricing and competition brought us? Number one, what we have seen is where interest rates used to be in the 20 percent range, they have now fallen below the 15 percent range. We have seen a virtual disappearance in our entire economy of the dreaded annual fees, which typically most cards had charged anywhere from $20 to $50. We have seen a flowering, a myriad of benefits that are now available from product protection to free plane tickets because of the competition, and an unprecedented surge in credit card use from under 300 million a day to almost 700.

Credit cards are just an absolutely vital tool for the small business in America, which is the job engine in our Nation. Madam Speaker, I hear from a lot of hardworking small business people in my district, the Fifth Congressional District of Texas that I am proud to represent. I hear from the Mayhall family that runs a small business in Athens, Texas. They write, "Dear Congressman. I run a small business, and I do not have very good credit. I have four credit cards which have very low limits. I try not to use them very often, but sometimes the cash flow isn't there, and I have to have something for my business. Without access to this credit, I would not be able to purchase the items for my business when I need it."

"Please do not make it more difficult for me to run my business. I have enough problems."

I don't want to tell the Mayhall family of Athens, Texas, that maybe their small business just won't have access to one of those credit cards any more. I don't want to have to tell them that they may have to pay more. That simply isn't right.

Now I don't come here today to defend credit card companies and all of their practices. There is one certain credit card company that my wife and I just refuse to do business with. We don't like them. We've changed our main credit cards several times because we didn't like some of the provisions. But we had that choice, Madam Speaker. We had that choice in a competitive economy.

We should also mention a phrase that is rarely used in the Halls of Congress, and that is "individual responsibility." We all bear some individual responsibility for knowing what is in our credit card bills.

Now listen. If we don't know what the terms are, either, one, we've been misled by a credit card company—and, Madam Speaker, it happens. There are some misleading and fraudulent practices, and they need to be cracked down on. That's why we have the Truth in Lending Act, that's why we have the Unfair and Deceptive Practices Act, that's why we have the Fair Debt Collections Practices Act, the Fair Credit Billing Act, and others.

Another reason that we don't know the terms, Madam Speaker, is because we didn't read them, in which case we have ourselves to blame. Another reason that people don't know their terms is because they're incomprehensible. We can't understand them because of too many crazy government mandates that give us voluminous disclosure written in legalese as opposed to effective disclosure written in English.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Mr. CAMPBELL of California. I yield the gentleman 1 more minute.

Mr. HENSARLING. Madam Speaker, again, don't take my word for it, but the nonpartisan Congressional Research Service has written that if restrictive proposals like these were to become law, "credit card issuers could also respond in a variety of ways. They may increase loan rates across the board on all borrowers, making it more expensive for both good and delinquent borrowers to use revolving credit.

Issuers may also increase minimum monthly payments, reduce credit limits, or reduce the number of credit cards issued to people with impaired credit."

Madam Speaker, we have seen a similar piece of legislation across the pond in the U.K. Britain decided that credit card default fees were too high. They ordered credit card issuers to cut them or face legal action, and guess what happened? Two of the three biggest issuers imposed annual fees on their credit card holders, 19 have raised interest rates, and we have seen studies that 60 percent of new credit applicants are being rejected. I don't want to repeat that experience in the United States of America in the midst of a credit crunch.

We should reject this legislation.

Mrs. MALONEY of New York. Madam Speaker, I have no further speakers. Does the gentleman from California have any further speakers?

Mr. CAMPBELL of California. I have one more speaker, a repeat speaker, and then I am prepared to close after that.

I would like to yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Delaware (Mr. CASTLE).

Mr. CASTLE. I again thank the gentleman from California for yielding.

I would like to take up a couple of points that the sponsor of the bill raised.

One is the credit card companies in general oppose what is happening at the Federal Reserve and thereby also oppose her legislation which is here. That may be accurate to a degree, but there are a couple of factors in this. One is that many of the better credit card companies—"better" being the ones that are paying attention to the practices—have already made a number of the changes proposed both by the Federal Reserve and what is in this legislation.

Secondly, I certainly support the concepts of this legislation as well as support what has been recommended in the unfair and deceptive practices rule which hopefully will get even better with the 50,000-plus comments that will come out here again in the fall. I think that's a matter of good consumer adjustment that needed to be made.

I also hope that consumers in general will understand the significance of understanding what they're dealing with. What bothers me sometimes is people don't understand all of their practices, but we need to make sure it's clear before them. And so I, and I think many others on this side and even some of the better credit card companies, would be very supportive of a lot of these changes which are being made.

The other thing that concerns me somewhat is the statement that there is no evidence that this legislation may raise the cost of credit. That may be a correct statement. But I think it is also correct to say there is no evidence that it will not raise the cost of credit. I think that's a logical conclusion. If you take away money in one way or another, they're going to have to make up for it, and they're probably going to do that by looking at fees charged, interest rates, or whatever it may be.

My bottom line is you are probably going to see increases if indeed the changes as proposed in this legislation are made.

Again, I would urge the bill to be withdrawn. I don't expect it today, but I would urge the bill to be withdrawn so we can allow the Federal Reserve to make its opinions known and then proceed from there.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The time of the gentleman has expired.

The gentleman from California is recognized for 2 minutes.

Mr. CAMPBELL of California. Madam Speaker, for the reasons we have articulated, this is not the way to do this, nor is it the time to do it. This bill is very well intentioned, and I applaud my colleague from New York for her commitment to this issue and, frankly, for her tenacity with this issue.

But this bill, make no mistake, will not help consumers. It will hurt consumers. Unfair and deceptive practices will be dealt with on a regulatory basis as they should be by the Federal Reserve. And then hopefully this Congress will act this week in a bipartisan and reasoned manner to try and deal with the financial crisis so that credit availability for people is continued and assured. And then we can deal with this continuing issue, and it will be a continuing issue without the current environment of the potential shutdown of credit to availability. It is not the way. It is not the time to do this.

I urge a "no" vote.

I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from New York is recognized for 2 minutes.

Mrs. MALONEY of New York. Madam Speaker, I would like to respond to my good friend and colleague on the other side of the aisle, Mr. CASTLE, for whom I have great respect, and we have worked together productively in many ways. If you support these reforms, as you have so stated, then you should vote for them, and you should not vote for delay and weakening by waiting for some action that may happen in the future. If you support these reforms that have been called unfair and deceptive, then I hope you will join us in a bipartisan effort to correct the system.

Now many of my colleagues on the other side of the aisle have said that we should not act. But how in the world can we not act now? We are providing a $700 billion rescue for banks. How can we not provide basic fairness to consumers and some help and rescue to Main Street?

These practices have been called by the Fed unfair and deceptive and anti-competitive. We are helping consumers and the market by getting rid of them.

The current situation makes it more urgent that we do so, not less.

Many, many people worked long and hard on this bill, and I would like to first and foremost thank the chairman of this committee, BARNEY FRANK, for his consistent support and input; the 155 cosponsors of this legislation; other members of the Financial Services Committee that took a leadership role, KEITH ELLISON, EMANUEL CLEAVER, LINCOLN DAVIS; also MARK UDALL, PETER WELCH, and LOUISE SLAUGHTER for their leadership on the issue; WALTER JONES and CHRIS SHAYS who were supportive from the beginning; the many consumer groups without whom we could not have gotten the broad base of support for this legislation; the labor unions, the AFL-CIO, especially the SCIU, which made this a top priority, civil rights groups; and certainly, the staff: my own staff, Eleni Constantine and Edward Mills, who have poured their heart and intelligence into this effort for 2 years; and the staff of the full committee, Michael Beresik, Patience Singleton, Charles Yi and Rick Maurano. Thank you for your efforts.

I urge very, very strong support for this long overdue reform.

Mr. LANGEVIN. Madam Speaker, I rise in strong support of H.R. 5244, the Credit Cardholders' Bill of Rights Act. As a cosponsor of this legislation, I believe it is a sensible approach to reforming major credit card abuses and improving consumer protections for cardholders.

Credit cards have become an integral part of the American economy, offering consumers instant access to a convenient, flexible source of financing. Unfortunately, more and more Americans are turning to their credit cards to help pay medical and utility bills, buy groceries, and make ends meet in this troubled economy. Credit card debt now consumes a sizeable portion of the average family's income. To make matters worse, the playing field between card companies and consumers has become very one-sided in recent years. A credit card agreement is a contract between a card company and a cardholder, but these companies have taken advantage of their customers with deceptive billing practices and hidden fees. Meanwhile, money that families are forced to devote to these unfair rates and charges is money that is not being spent on goods and services that could help bolster our struggling economy.

Cardholders deserve more bargaining power, and the Credit Cardholders' Bill of Rights Act helps level the playing field. Cardholders are entitled to accurate information and the right to make decisions about their own credit. This bill will ban interest rate increases on an existing balance unless the borrower is 30 days overdue and require card companies to give cardholders notification 45 days before any interest rate increase. This legislation also protects vulnerable consumers from fee-heavy subprime cards and prohibits issuing cards to minors. H.R. 5244 would also ban "universal default", where a card company raises the interest rate on one card if the cardholder misses a payment on a separate credit card or their credit score lowers. All of the provisions in this bill are the result of careful study and analysis over the past year, and I believe this deliberative approach has produced a very balanced and moderate bill.

Madam Speaker, instead of looking the other way while Americans fall deeper into debt, Congress must protect their financial interests and put an end to the tricks and traps made by credit card companies that undermine a competitive market. The balanced reforms in the Credit Cardholders' Bill of Rights will help do just that, while also helping to foster fair competition and the values of the free market. I encourage all my colleagues to vote for H.R. 5244.

Mr. DINGELL. Madam Speaker, I am proud to be an original cosponsor of the Credit Cardholders' Bill of Rights Act of 2008, which will ban some of the worst credit card industry practices, provide important protections for consumers, and implement important reforms that will benefit working families.

The events of the past week have highlighted the problems caused by a lack of transparency and regulatory oversight in the financial industry. The same problems that have caused the current crisis on Wall Street also plague the credit card industry. Millions of Americans are struggling with the increased costs of groceries, gasoline, healthcare expenses, and other essential goods and services, while at the same time the average American worker has actually experienced a decline in real wages since President Bush took office. Many of these families are stretched thin, and have had to use credit cards to finance unforeseen expenses such as car repairs, or emergency room bills. Far too often these families are being forced to pay unfair late fees and arbitrary rate increases, or are being taken advantage of by high-fee subprime lenders.

The legislation before us today requires nothing more from the credit card companies than to treat customers who pay their bills on time fairly. Sadly, the credit card industry has increasingly resorted to unfair practices to exact late fees and higher interest charges from credit cardholders. In fact penalties have increased by more than 50 percent during the Bush Administration, and now make up more than half of the industry's $40 billion profits.

For example, this legislation will end the practice known as "universal default," where a credit card company uses information about a cardholder's financial status, such as a change in his or her credit rating, to raise the cardholder's interest rate even though the cardholder has not defaulted or made any late payments to the credit card company. The bill will also ban what is known as "double cycle billing," which is the collection of interest on amounts already paid. H.R. 5244 will also offer cardholders the right to cancel a card when faced with a rate increase so long as he or she agrees to pay off the existing balance at the rate they agreed to when they borrowed it.

This legislation is an important step towards reining in some of the worst excesses of the Bush administration's hands-off approach to the financial industry. I encourage my colleagues to support H.R. 5244, and protect consumers from further abuse against the most unscrupulous credit card industry practices.

Mr. BLUMENAUER. Madam Speaker, I opposed the 2005 Bankruptcy Act in part because of its egregious support for abusive credit card practices. H.R. 5244 works to knock down some of those supports. This bill represents one step toward fixing some of the worst aspects of that bankruptcy bill and one step towards resolving the challenges facing our nation's consumers and I support it.

It is outrageous that as the financial crisis has spread, credit card companies have imposed higher delinquency fees. Double-cycle billing, unfair penalties, and arbitrary rate increases likely are also part of the credit card industry's response.

This bill would put a stop to many of the most egregious practices by credit card companies. This bill ends "double-cycle billing," where consumers pay interest and fees even where they have paid their obligation fully and on time. This bill also requires that cards allocate consumer payments proportionally to debt carrying different interest rates—rather than allocating the payment to the debt carrying the lowest interest rate.

In short, I support this bill because it provides added protections for consumers, and I will continue to work to end abusive credit card and bankruptcy practices.

Ms. HERSETH SANDLIN. Madam Speaker, the House is considering today the Credit Cardholders' Bill of Rights. I believe it is critically important to ensure fairness and transparency for consumers engaged in credit card transactions, and I support many of the commonsense provisions included in this bill designed to prevent unfair and deceptive practices.

However, while ensuring basic consumer protections, we should also consider the full implications of potential new regulation for consumers. I have joined with the other members of the South Dakota delegation in expressing our concerns on this subject to the regulatory agencies that are already fully engaged in crafting new credit card regulations addressing many of the same issues addressed in this legislation.

We are concerned that, if enacted, this legislation would prohibit issuers of nonprime credit cards from charging deposits or fees to the card for the issuance of credit. Although well intentioned, this provision could have the unintended consequence of unnecessarily limiting credit for many of the more than 70 million consumers who are considered nonprime, and for whom subprime credit cards may be the only available source of credit. In a time of economic instability and decreasing credit availability, it is essential to consider the full potential impact of limiting access to credit.

Furthermore, the Federal Reserve Board of Governors and other agencies with significant expertise in this area are already working to implement new credit card regulations targeting many of the same practices this legislation seeks to address. These regulations are expected to be finalized before the end of this year and will reflect over 50,000 comment letters received by these agencies from consumers and representatives of the financial service industry. It should also be recognized that many issuers of credit cards have already initiated good faith steps to impose greater fairness, transparency and consumer protections in their industry.

For these reasons, while I fully support the goal of ensuring fairness in the credit card industry and protecting consumers from unfair and deceptive practices, I cannot support today's bill, which I believe should be improved before being passed by the House. As the legislative and regulatory processes progress, I will continue to work to ensure Congress fully considers the potential effect of these provisions on millions of consumers.

Mr. BACA. Madam Speaker, I rise as a proud cosponsor of the H.R. 5244, Credit Card Holder's Bill of Rights.

Access to fair and affordable credit cards is important for families entering the financial market for the first time, as well as those that rely on cards in times of financial emergency.

Credit card reform is vital to the Latino community.

Like most Americans, Latino families rely on credit to help them manage their monthly finances and purchase assets that will move them firmly into the middle-class.

Currently, 22 percent of Latinos do not have enough credit information available to generate a credit score, and more than one-third do not maintain traditional banking or savings accounts.

Because creditors generally rely on automated data mining, the fact that Latinos and immigrants are less likely to have robust credit files leaves them at a disadvantage.

As a result, issuers do not solicit our communities with their best priced credit cards. Instead, they offer high fee cards, with higher rates, and engage in other practices that regularly trap families in cycles of debt.

The Latino community is often targeted by "affinity" cards, cards that claim to be looking out for Latinos, but end up taking their money as an advanced loan scam, leaving consumers with no credit history and more fees than the card is worth.

Shopping for safe credit cards has become impossible, with mail solicitation rates rising 30 percent since 2006.

According to a Federal Trade Commission survey, 14.3 percent of Hispanics are victims of credit fraud, compared to 6.4 percent of non-Hispanic Whites.

Therefore, Latinos are hard hit by unfair credit card industry practices. Hispanic credit card users are more likely to be struggling to manage their debt, and are more susceptible to adverse industry practices.

Common abusive practices such as universal default, retroactive fees, no advance notice of changes in terms, and double-cycle billing make it hard for families playing by the rules to get ahead.

The Credit Card Holder's Bill of Rights, H.R. 5244, is important to Latinos and families across America for many reasons.

H.R. 5244 stops credit cards from changing their terms arbitrarily—instead, the bill requires up-front disclosures of all reasons for an increase in fees or changes in contract terms.

H.R. 5244 requires card companies to apply consumer payments to the highest interest balances first, making payments proportional and fair. Currently, many credit card companies apply payments first to lower-rate balances, preventing consumers from paying-off higher interest rate balances until the lowest rates are paid-off. This practice creates a situation where fees and finance charges accrue on the higher-cost balances, beginning a cycle of debt for many families.

H.R. 5244 stops universal default. Universal default is an unfair practice of many card companies, in which a consumer's rates can retroactively increase on a card that they have a perfect payment record with, if they have a decline in their credit score, or issues with an unrelated credit card. Minimum monthly payments can skyrocket, affecting a family's ability to successfully manage their debt and maintain financial stability.

H.R. 5244 ends unfair late fees on payments that were received on-time. Clearly outlined due dates that can not arbitrarily change will be made explicit to the consumer and companies must mail bills 25 days before their due dates.

The complaints of over 30,000 Americans have flooded the Federal Reserve Board in the last 2 months, urging the Board to make their recent credit card proposals permanent. H.R. 5244 will codify the Board's recent proposals so that they cannot be weakened. Congress can send a strong message of approval to the Board, encouraging them not to weaken their proposed protections for the American consumer.

I urge my colleagues to support this bill.

Mr. VAN HOLLEN. Madam Speaker, I am proud to stand, as an original sponsor, in strong support of the Credit Cardholders' Bill of Rights Act of 2008, a bill to prohibit creditors from using adverse information about a consumer or his credit as the basis for increasing his interest rate or fees.

Even in the best economic times, unexpected credit card fees can make it difficult for many strapped consumers to stay afloat. In the worst of times, these fees can push them over the edge into bankruptcy. For Americans struggling to keep pace with rising food costs and falling home values, this legislation equips consumers with significant new powers to help protect them from punitive credit card rate charges and fees.

The bill requires advance notice of credit card account rate increases and prohibits companies from imposing interest on credit repaid within the interest-free repayment time period.

The bill authorizes a consumer who receives a notice about a rate change to cancel the credit card without penalty or the imposition of any fee and allows consumers to pay any outstanding balance that accrued before the effective date of the rate increase.

The bill also authorizes a consumer to opt-out of over-the-limit fee programs and imposes restrictions on the frequency of over-the-limit fees.

Madam Speaker, this important bill comes before this House at an important time for American consumers. Our constituents need these protections. I urge my colleagues to join me in support of this bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. All time for debate has expired.

Pursuant to House Resolution 1476, the previous question is ordered on the bill, as amended.

The question is on the engrossment and third reading of the bill.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed and read a third time, and was read the third time.

MOTION TO RECOMMIT

Mr. CASTLE. Madam Speaker, I have a motion to recommit at the desk.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is the gentleman opposed to the bill?

Mr. CASTLE. Yes, in its current form, I am.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Clerk will report the motion to recommit.

The Clerk read as follows:

Mr. Castle moves to recommit the bill H.R. 5244 to the Committee on Financial Services with instructions to report the same back to the House promptly with the following instructions:

SEC. 9. TRIGGER FOR ENACTMENT.

No provision of the Act shall take effect until a study to be completed by the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System makes a determination that the provisions of the Act will not result in a reduction in the availability of credit covered by this Act to small businesses, veterans, or minorities.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from Delaware is recognized for 5 minutes in support of his motion.

Mr. CASTLE. Madam Speaker, I hope that we listened to the motion carefully. It pertains to the issue that's been raised a couple times in the discussion, the matter of credit.

And what we are simply trying to do in this is to make sure that there is not a reduction in the availability of credit covered by this act to certain groups, small businesses, veterans or minorities. There is a concern that as you start to make some of these shifts that you could have a credit increase, and even though the committee held several hearings on the bill before us today, not a single witness could reassure the committee that this bill would not result in a reduction of credit.

Given the current state of our financial system with available credit staying locked up on the sidelines, credit cards are becoming increasingly important to make ends meet for seniors, small businesses, and average Americans.

Should this bill be signed into law without an appropriate effort to evaluate the impacts, Congress will have been an accomplice to the reduction in credit.

This motion to recommit simply asks the Federal Reserve to study the effects of the bill, and if the conclusion is that this will damage our economy and reduce credit, then we would not enact these sweeping provisions.

There are more than 4 million minority-owned small businesses in America. SBA data shows that some 15 percent of the capital used to open a minority-owned small business comes from the use of credit cards. There are nearly 10.4 million firms owned by women employing 12.8 million people. However, these women-owned businesses had to make an average of four attempts to obtain bank loans or lines of credit and 22 attempts to obtain equity capital. So clearly the need is there.

Eleven percent of the capital for women-owned businesses comes from the use of credit cards. What if that number is reduced or eliminated due to a provision in the bill? The economy obviously would take a direct hit.

I would also point out in closing, Madam Speaker, that this hopefully is a motion to recommit that could be supported by everybody, even those in favor of the legislation, on the basis that we need to establish whether or not there's going to be a credit hit with respect to all this before such legislation would go into place.

I would encourage support from all the Members of the House for the motion to recommit.

I yield back the balance of my time. Mrs. MALONEY of New York. Madam Speaker, I rise in opposition to the motion.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mrs. MALONEY of New York. Madam Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman on the other side of the aisle if he would be open to a UC change to change the term "promptly" in the bill to "forthwith." If this UC is agreed to, I would support it and accept the motion.

I yield to the gentleman from Delaware.

Mr. CASTLE. At this time, we will not accept the suggestion. I appreciate the kind offer, however, of the sponsor.

Mrs. MALONEY of New York. Then regretfully I oppose your motion to recommit because it would effectively kill the bill because we are in the last week of session, and it is yet another delay tactic. If this was a serious concern, you would have raised this in the committee, and it is obviously just another effort to kill the bill.

We are being called upon to help Wall Street. We should also help Main Street, and I would urge my colleagues to understand that this bill has been supported not only by 155 of their colleagues but over 52 major publications across this country in editorials or op-eds, every single consumer organization in this country, and three of the regulators, including the Federal Reserve.

Rarely are my colleagues on the other side of the aisle given an opportunity to vote against stopping unfair, deceptive, and anticompetitive practices that have been endorsed and called upon by many in this country to stop.

I urge a "no" vote on this motion to recommit. It is an effort to kill the bill. It is an effort not to help consumers, and it is an effort that would roll us backwards. They say they're for it. Well, we're giving them an opportunity to vote for consumers with this bill.

I urge a "no" vote on the motion to recommit. It kills the bill.

I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Without objection, the previous question is ordered on the motion to recommit.

There was no objection.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion to recommit.

The question was taken; and the Speaker pro tempore announced that the yeas appeared to have it.

Mr. CASTLE. Madam Speaker, on that I demand the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 8 and clause 9 of rule XX, this 15-minute vote on the motion to recommit will be followed by 5-minute votes on passage of the bill, if ordered, and the motion to suspend on H.R. 6897.

The vote was taken by electronic device, and there were—yeas 198, nays 219, not voting 16, as follows:

The text of the bill is as follows:

H.R. 6983

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the “Paul Wellstone and Pete Domenici Mental Health Parity and Addiction Equity Act of 2008”.

SEC. 2. MENTAL HEALTH PARITY.

(a) AMENDMENTS TO ERISA.—Section 712 of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 (29 U.S.C. 1185a) is amended—

(1) in subsection (a), by adding at the end the following:

“(3) FINANCIAL REQUIREMENTS AND TREATMENT LIMITATIONS.—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—In the case of a group health plan (or health insurance coverage offered in connection with such a plan) that provides both medical and surgical benefits and mental health or substance use disorder benefits, such plan or coverage shall ensure that—

“(i) the financial requirements applicable to such mental health or substance use disorder benefits are no more restrictive than the predominant financial requirements applied to substantially all medical and surgical benefits covered by the plan (or coverage), and there are no separate cost sharing requirements that are applicable only with respect to mental health or substance use disorder benefits; and

“(ii) the treatment limitations applicable to such mental health or substance use disorder benefits are no more restrictive than the predominant treatment limitations applied to substantially all medical and surgical benefits covered by the plan (or coverage) and there are no separate treatment limitations that are applicable only with respect to mental health or substance use disorder benefits.

“(B) DEFINITIONS.—In this paragraph:

“(i) FINANCIAL REQUIREMENT.—The term ‘financial requirement’ includes deductibles, copayments, coinsurance, and out-of-pocket expenses, but excludes an aggregate lifetime limit and an annual limit subject to paragraphs (1) and (2).

“(ii) PREDOMINANT.—A financial requirement or treatment limit is considered to be predominant if it is the most common or frequent of such type of limit or requirement.

“(iii) TREATMENT LIMITATION.—The term ‘treatment limitation’ includes limits on the frequency of treatment, number of visits, days of coverage, or other similar limits on the scope or duration of treatment.

“(4) AVAILABILITY OF PLAN INFORMATION.—The criteria for medical necessity determinations made under the plan with respect to mental health or substance use disorder benefits (or the health insurance coverage offered in connection with the plan with respect to such benefits) shall be made available by the plan administrator (or the health insurance issuer offering such coverage) in accordance with regulations to any current or potential participant, beneficiary, or contracting provider upon request. The reason for any denial under the plan (or coverage) of reimbursement or payment for services with respect to mental health or substance use disorder benefits in the case of any participant or beneficiary shall, on request or as otherwise required, be made available by the plan administrator (or the health insurance issuer offering such coverage) to the participant or beneficiary in accordance with regulations.

“(5) OUT-OF-NETWORK PROVIDERS.—In the case of a plan or coverage that provides both medical and surgical benefits and mental health or substance use disorder benefits, if the plan or coverage provides coverage for medical or surgical benefits provided by out-of-network providers, the plan or coverage shall provide coverage for mental health or substance use disorder benefits provided by out-of-network providers in a manner that is consistent with the requirements of this section.”;

(2) in subsection (b), by amending paragraph (2) to read as follows:

“(2) in the case of a group health plan (or health insurance coverage offered in connection with such a plan) that provides mental health or substance use disorder benefits, as affecting the terms and conditions of the plan or coverage relating to such benefits under the plan or coverage, except as provided in subsection (a).”;

(3) in subsection (c)—

(A) in paragraph (1)(B)—

(i) by inserting “(or 1 in the case of an employer residing in a State that permits small groups to include a single individual)” after “at least 2” the first place that such appears; and

(ii) by striking “and who employs at least 2 employees on the first day of the plan year”;

(B) by striking paragraph (2) and inserting the following:

“(A) IN GENERAL.—With respect to a group health plan (or health insurance coverage offered in connection with such a plan), if the application of this section to such plan (or coverage) results in an increase for the plan year involved of the actual total costs of coverage with respect to medical and surgical benefits and mental health and substance use disorder benefits under the plan (as determined and certified under subparagraph (C)) by an amount that exceeds the applicable percentage described in subparagraph (B) of the actual total plan costs, the provisions of this section shall not apply to such plan (or coverage) during the following plan year, and such exemption shall apply to the plan (or coverage) for 1 plan year. An employer may elect to continue to apply mental health and substance use disorder parity pursuant to this section with respect to the group health plan (or coverage) involved regardless of any increase in total costs.

“(i) 2 percent in the case of the first plan year in which this section is applied; and

“(ii) 1 percent in the case of each subsequent plan year.

“(C) DETERMINATIONS BY ACTUARIES.—Determinations as to increases in actual costs under a plan (or coverage) for purposes of this section shall be made and certified by a qualified and licensed actuary who is a member in good standing of the American Academy of Actuaries. All such determinations shall be in a written report prepared by the actuary. The report, and all underlying documentation relied upon by the actuary, shall be maintained by the group health plan or health insurance issuer for a period of 6 years following the notification made under subparagraph (E).

“(D) 6-MONTH DETERMINATIONS.—If a group health plan (or a health insurance issuer offering coverage in connection with a group health plan) seeks an exemption under this paragraph, determinations under subparagraph (A) shall be made after such plan (or coverage) has complied with this section for the first 6 months of the plan year involved.

“(E) NOTIFICATION.—

“(i) IN GENERAL.—A group health plan (or a health insurance issuer offering coverage in connection with a group health plan) that, based upon a certification described under subparagraph (C), qualifies for an exemption under this paragraph, and elects to implement the exemption, shall promptly notify the Secretary, the appropriate State agencies, and participants and beneficiaries in the plan of such election.

“(ii) REQUIREMENT.—A notification to the Secretary under clause (i) shall include—

“(I) a description of the number of covered lives under the plan (or coverage) involved at the time of the notification, and as applicable, at the time of any prior election of the cost-exemption under this paragraph by such plan (or coverage);

“(II) for both the plan year upon which a cost exemption is sought and the year prior, a description of the actual total costs of coverage with respect to medical and surgical benefits and mental health and substance use disorder benefits under the plan; and

“(III) for both the plan year upon which a cost exemption is sought and the year prior, the actual total costs of coverage with respect to mental health and substance use disorder benefits under the plan.

“(iii) CONFIDENTIALITY.—A notification to the Secretary under clause (i) shall be confidential. The Secretary shall make available, upon request and on not more than an annual basis, an anonymous itemization of such notifications, that includes—

“(II) a summary of the data received under clause (ii).

“(F) AUDITS BY APPROPRIATE AGENCIES.—To determine compliance with this paragraph, the Secretary may audit the books and records of a group health plan or health insurance issuer relating to an exemption, including any actuarial reports prepared pursuant to subparagraph (C), during the 6-year period following the notification of such exemption under subparagraph (E). A State agency receiving a notification under subparagraph (E) may also conduct such an audit with respect to an exemption covered by such notification.”;

(4) in subsection (e), by striking paragraph (4) and inserting the following:

“(4) MENTAL HEALTH BENEFITS.—The term ‘mental health benefits’ means benefits with respect to services for mental health conditions, as defined under the terms of the plan and in accordance with applicable Federal and State law.

“(5) SUBSTANCE USE DISORDER BENEFITS.—The term ‘substance use disorder benefits’ means benefits with respect to services for substance use disorders, as defined under the terms of the plan and in accordance with applicable Federal and State law.”;

(5) by striking subsection (f);

(6) by inserting after subsection (e) the following:

“(f) SECRETARY REPORT.—The Secretary shall, by January 1, 2012, and every two years thereafter, submit to the appropriate committees of Congress a report on compliance of group health plans (and health insurance coverage offered in connection with such plans) with the requirements of this section. Such report shall include the results of any surveys or audits on compliance of group health plans (and health insurance coverage offered in connection with such plans) with such requirements and an analysis of the reasons for any failures to comply.

“(g) NOTICE AND ASSISTANCE.—The Secretary, in cooperation with the Secretaries of Health and Human Services and Treasury, as appropriate, shall publish and widely disseminate guidance and information for group health plans, participants and beneficiaries, applicable State and local regulatory bodies, and the National Association of Insurance Commissioners concerning the requirements of this section and shall provide assistance concerning such requirements and the continued operation of applicable State law. Such guidance and information shall inform participants and beneficiaries of how they may obtain assistance under this section, including, where appropriate, assistance from State consumer and insurance agencies.”;

(7) by striking “mental health benefits” and inserting “mental health and substance use disorder benefits” each place it appears in subsections (a)(1)(B)(i), (a)(1)(C), (a)(2)(B)(i), and (a)(2)(C); and

(8) by striking “mental health benefits” and inserting “mental health or substance use disorder benefits” each place it appears (other than in any provision amended by the previous paragraph).

(b) AMENDMENTS TO PUBLIC HEALTH SERVICE ACT.—Section 2705 of the Public Health Service Act (42 U.S.C. 300gg-5) is amended—

(1) in subsection (a), by adding at the end the following:

“(A) IN GENERAL.—In the case of a group health plan (or health insurance coverage offered in connection with such a plan) that provides both medical and surgical benefits and mental health or substance use disorder benefits, such plan or coverage shall ensure that—the predominant financial requirements applied to substantially all medical and surgical benefits covered by the plan (or coverage), and there are no separate cost sharing requirements that are applicable only with respect to mental health or substance use disorder benefits; and

“(4) AVAILABILITY OF PLAN INFORMATION.—The criteria for medical necessity determinations made under the plan with respect to mental health or substance use disorder benefits (or the health insurance coverage offered in connection with the plan with respect to such benefits) shall be made available by the plan administrator (or the health insurance issuer offering such coverage) in accordance with regulations to any current or potential participant, beneficiary, or contracting provider upon request. “(5) OUT-OF-NETWORK PROVIDERS.—In the case of a plan or coverage that provides both medical and surgical benefits and mental health or substance use disorder benefits, if the plan or coverage provides coverage for medical or surgical benefits provided by out-of-network providers, the plan or coverage shall provide coverage for mental health or substance use disorder benefits provided by out-of-network providers in a manner that is consistent with the requirements of this section.”;

(2) in subsection (b), by amending paragraph (2) to read as follows:

“(2) in the case of a group health plan (or health insurance coverage offered in connection with such a plan) that provides mental health or substance use disorder benefits, as affecting the terms and conditions of the plan or coverage relating to such benefits under the plan or coverage, except as provided in subsection (a).”;

(3) in subsection (c)—

(A) in paragraph (1), by inserting before the period the following: “(as defined in section 2791(e)(4), except that for purposes of this paragraph such term shall include employers with 1 employee in the case of an employer residing in a State that permits small groups to include a single individual)”;

“(ii) PREDOMINANT.—A financial requirement or treatment limit is considered to be predominant if it is the most common or frequent of such type of limit or requirement.

“(iii) TREATMENT LIMITATION.—The term ‘treatment limitation’ includes limits on the frequency of treatment, number of visits, days of coverage, or other similar limits on the scope or duration of treatment.

“(4) AVAILABILITY OF PLAN INFORMATION.—The criteria for medical necessity determinations made under the plan with respect to mental health or substance use disorder benefits shall be made available by the plan administrator in accordance with regulations to any current or potential participant, beneficiary, or contracting provider upon request. The reason for any denial under the plan of reimbursement or payment for services with respect to mental health or substance use disorder benefits in the case of any participant or beneficiary shall, on request or as otherwise required, be made available by the plan administrator to the participant or beneficiary in accordance with regulations.

“(5) OUT-OF-NETWORK PROVIDERS.—In the case of a plan that provides both medical and surgical benefits and mental health or substance use disorder benefits, if the plan provides coverage for medical or surgical benefits provided by out-of-network providers, the plan shall provide coverage for mental health or substance use disorder benefits provided by out-of-network providers in a manner that is consistent with the requirements of this section.”;

(2) in subsection (b), by amending paragraph (2) to read as follows:

“(2) in the case of a group health plan that provides mental health or substance use disorder benefits, as affecting the terms and conditions of the plan relating to such benefits under the plan, except as provided in subsection (a).”;

(3) in subsection (c)—

For purposes of the preceding sentence, all persons treated as a single employer under subsection (b), (c), (m), or (o) of section 414 shall be treated as 1 employer and rules similar to rules of subparagraphs (B) and (C) of section 4980D(d)(2) shall apply.”; and

(B) by striking paragraph (2) and inserting the following:

“(A) IN GENERAL.—With respect to a group health plan, if the application of this section to such plan results in an increase for the plan year involved of the actual total costs of coverage with respect to medical and surgical benefits and mental health and substance use disorder benefits under the plan (as determined and certified under subparagraph (C)) by an amount that exceeds the applicable percentage described in subparagraph (B) of the actual total plan costs, the provisions of this section shall not apply to such plan during the following plan year, and such exemption shall apply to the plan for 1 plan year. An employer may elect to continue to apply mental health and substance use disorder parity pursuant to this section with respect to the group health plan involved regardless of any increase in total costs.

“(i) 2 percent in the case of the first plan year in which this section is applied; and

“(ii) 1 percent in the case of each subsequent plan year.

“(C) DETERMINATIONS BY ACTUARIES.—Determinations as to increases in actual costs under a plan for purposes of this section shall be made and certified by a qualified and licensed actuary who is a member in good standing of the American Academy of Actuaries. All such determinations shall be in a written report prepared by the actuary. The report, and all underlying documentation relied upon by the actuary, shall be maintained by the group health plan for a period of 6 years following the notification made under subparagraph (E).

“(i) IN GENERAL.—A group health plan that, based upon a certification described under subparagraph (C), qualifies for an exemption under this paragraph, and elects to implement the exemption, shall promptly notify the Secretary, the appropriate State agencies, and participants and beneficiaries in the plan of such election.

“(ii) REQUIREMENT.—A notification to the Secretary under clause (i) shall include—

“(I) a description of the number of covered lives under the plan involved at the time of the notification, and as applicable, at the time of any prior election of the cost-exemption under this paragraph by such plan;

“(II) for both the plan year upon which a cost exemption is sought and the year prior, a description of the actual total costs of coverage with respect to medical and surgical benefits and mental health and substance use disorder benefits under the plan; and

“(III) for both the plan year upon which a cost exemption is sought and the year prior, the actual total costs of coverage with respect to mental health and substance use disorder benefits under the plan.

“(iii) CONFIDENTIALITY.—A notification to the Secretary under clause (i) shall be confidential. The Secretary shall make available, upon request and on not more than an annual basis, an anonymous itemization of such notifications, that includes—

“(II) a summary of the data received under clause (ii).

“(F) AUDITS BY APPROPRIATE AGENCIES.—To determine compliance with this paragraph, the Secretary may audit the books and records of a group health plan relating to an exemption, including any actuarial reports prepared pursuant to subparagraph (C), during the 6-year period following the notification of such exemption under subparagraph (E). A State agency receiving a notification under subparagraph (E) may also conduct such an audit with respect to an exemption covered by such notification.”;

(4) in subsection (e), by striking paragraph (4) and inserting the following:

“(4) MENTAL HEALTH BENEFITS.—The term ‘mental health benefits’ means benefits with respect to services for mental health conditions, as defined under the terms of the plan and in accordance with applicable Federal and State law.

(5) by striking subsection (f);

(6) by striking “mental health benefits” and inserting “mental health and substance use disorder benefits” each place it appears in subsections (a)(1)(B)(i), (a)(1)(C), (a)(2)(B)(i), and (a)(2)(C); and

(7) by striking “mental health benefits” and inserting “mental health or substance use disorder benefits” each place it appears (other than in any provision amended by the previous paragraph).

(d) REGULATIONS.—Not later than 1 year after the date of enactment of this Act, the Secretaries of Labor, Health and Human Services, and the Treasury shall issue regulations to carry out the amendments made by subsections (a), (b), and (c), respectively.

(1) IN GENERAL.—The amendments made by this section shall apply with respect to group health plans for plan years beginning after the date that is 1 year after the date of enactment of this Act, regardless of whether regulations have been issued to carry out such amendments by such effective date, except that the amendments made by subsections (a)(5), (b)(5), and (c)(5), relating to striking of certain sunset provisions, shall take effect on January 1, 2009.

(2) SPECIAL RULE FOR COLLECTIVE BARGAINING AGREEMENTS.—In the case of a group health plan maintained pursuant to one or more collective bargaining agreements between employee representatives and one or more employers ratified before the date of the enactment of this Act, the amendments made by this section shall not apply to plan years beginning before the later of—

(A) the date on which the last of the collective bargaining agreements relating to the plan terminates (determined without regard to any extension thereof agreed to after the date of the enactment of this Act), or

(B) January 1, 2009.

For purposes of subparagraph (A), any plan amendment made pursuant to a collective bargaining agreement relating to the plan which amends the plan solely to conform to any requirement added by this section shall not be treated as a termination of such collective bargaining agreement.

(f) ASSURING COORDINATION.—The Secretary of Health and Human Services, the Secretary of Labor, and the Secretary of the Treasury may ensure, through the execution or revision of an interagency memorandum of understanding among such Secretaries, that—

(1) regulations, rulings, and interpretations issued by such Secretaries relating to the same matter over which two or more such Secretaries have responsibility under this section (and the amendments made by this section) are administered so as to have the same effect at all times; and

(2) coordination of policies relating to enforcing the same requirements through such Secretaries in order to have a coordinated enforcement strategy that avoids duplication of enforcement efforts and assigns priorities in enforcement.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. PALLONE) and the gentleman from Nebraska (Mr. TERRY) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from New Jersey.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on the bill under consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from New Jersey?

There was no objection.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that the gentleman from California (Mr. STARK) and the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. ANDREWS) each be permitted to control 6½ minutes of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from New Jersey?

There was no objection.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I rise today in support of the passage of H.R. 6983, the Paul Wellstone and Pete Domenici Mental Health Parity and Addiction Equity Act of 2008, a comprehensive bill which will establish full mental health and addiction care parity.

We live in a time when discrimination in any form against any person should not be tolerated. One out of every five adults in the U.S. suffers from mental health or substance abuse disorders on an annual basis, and yet studies show that people with mental illnesses continue to face insurers and employers unwilling to provide them the same level of care they would for a medical problem.

The legislation before us will fully ensure equity in the coverage for mental illness and substance abuse disorders by requiring that group health plans with mental health coverage offer that coverage without the imposition of discriminatory financial requirements or discriminatory treatment limitations.

I want to recognize two of my colleagues, Representative PATRICK KENNEDY and Representative JIM RAMSTAD, who have worked tirelessly to bring this bill to the floor. We can't delay any longer. I strongly urge my colleagues to vote in favor of the passage of this important legislation.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. TERRY. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mental health deserves serious attention. We all share in this concern. The debate around mental health parity hinges on that principle, does government really know what is best? Isn't it better to allow consumers choice and not a one-size-fits-all government-dictated mandate? People should be able to decide if they want to pay more for health insurance.

We have been here before, and, from what I am told, this isn't the only time or possibility even this week that we will be considering a government-dictated mental health mandate.

Earlier this year, the House passed H.R. 1424, a bill that served as the House mental health parity bill for purposes of negotiation with the Senate. At the time, CBO estimated that H.R. 1424 would have increased premiums for group health insurance by an average of about four-tenths of 1 percent before accounting for the responses of health plans, employers and workers to the higher premiums. Those responses would include reductions in the number of employees enrolling in employer insurance, changes in the types of health plans that are offered, including eliminating coverage for mental health benefits and/or substance benefits, and reductions in the scope or generosity of health benefits, such as increased deductibles or higher copayments.

I opposed H.R. 1424 for these and other reasons regarding the offsets presented at that time, as well as many of my colleagues on Energy and Commerce.

The bill before us today is not H.R. 1424. It may be confusing to see this stand-alone mental health parity bill here today, since I know we just passed one a few months ago. After a little digging, I soon realized that this bill is a cut-and-paste of the same agreed-upon text from the tax extenders bill originating in the Senate to be sent over to this body to consider possibly as early as today or tomorrow. So what the majority has done is take language negotiated directly with the Senate without any House Democrats in the room and dropped into another stand-alone bill.

One has to wonder why we are considering this bill today, when the exact same language is on its way over to us pursuant to an agreement between the majority and the Senate. Is this just another political gimmick by the Democrat leadership?

This is a prime example of what happens when Democrats stop leading on issues and start politicking. The Democrat do-nothing Congress is doing something today. Instead of addressing outstanding issues our country faces, such as a need for real energy reform, they are hard at work to put in front of us a bill that already passed the House this year and will be arriving momentarily from the Senate. Are we really supposed to pass the same bill three times this year? That is not progress. That is a waste of taxpayer time.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of our time.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I am pleased at this time to yield 2 minutes to the chairman of the Education and Labor Committee, the gentleman from California (Mr. GEORGE MILLER).

(Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. Mr. Speaker, I rise in very strong support of this legislation. It is an important piece of legislation. It does some very important things for families and individuals with mental health problems.

H.R. 6983 amends the Employer Retirement Income Security Act to prohibit employers and group health plans from imposing mental health or substance abuse treatment limitations, financial requirements or out-of-network coverage limitations, unless comparable limitation requirements are imposed upon medical surgical benefits.

Under this provision, if a mental health plan permits individuals to go to an emergency room for a medical condition without prior authorization or an out-of-network hospital or treatment center at in-network rates for a medical condition, then the plan must apply the same rules to an individual suffering from mental illness or substance abuse.

However, if a group plan does offer mental health or substance abuse benefits, there must be equity between the mental health or substance abuse coverage and all comparable medical and surgical benefits in the plan. Nothing in H.R. 6983 is intended to preempt the stronger State mental health and substance abuse parity laws.

Having said that, I want to pay tribute to two of our colleagues. JIM RAMSTAD, who has been tireless in his effort to see this measure become law, and hopefully with our actions today it will be on its way to the President's desk and become law. I just want to thank you on behalf of so many families, not just my constituents who have mental health illness problems in their families, but so many families in America and individuals, for your work on this legislation.

And to PATRICK KENNEDY, our colleague who again has just done a remarkable job of rounding up support and votes for this legislation and getting to people to explain it to them, to get them to understand it and appreciate the problems that these families have when they try to get services from the insurance plans, from their health networks, and the barriers that are erected in front of them.

Hopefully this legislation will do what it is supposed to do to make sure that they can get treatment, they can get care, and they don't have to run all of the gauntlet that they today encounter with those barriers.

So to Congressman RAMSTAD, thank you so very much for all of your work, and to PATRICK KENNEDY, thank you so very, very much for all of your advocacy on this legislation.

Mr. TERRY. Mr. Speaker, the Energy and Commerce Committee is not taking a position saying or encouraging other Members to vote for or against this bill. Our frustration is with the process on this bill.

At this time, I want to, seeing no other Energy and Commerce speakers here, yield the balance of my time to Mr. RAMSTAD of the Ways and Means Committee.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Without objection, the gentleman from Minnesota will control the time.

There was no objection.

Mr. RAMSTAD. I thank the gentleman for yielding.

Mr. Speaker, we would not be having the debate here today without the compassionate leadership of the late Senator Paul Wellstone.

I want to thank the Speaker and majority leader, as well as Chairmen RANGEL, STARK, GEORGE MILLER, DINGELL, PALLONE and ANDREWS, for their key support.

The issue before us today is not just another public policy issue. The issue today before us is a matter of life and death for 54 million Americans suffering the ravages of mental illness and 26 million Americans suffering from chemical addiction.

Last year alone, more than 30,000 Americans committed suicide from untreated depression and 150,000 Americans died as the direct result of chemical addiction. On top of the tragic loss of lives, untreated addiction and mental illness cost our economy $550 billion last year, according to the Wall Street Journal. In fact, the Journal cited $70 billion was lost from our economy because of untreated depression alone.

I am alive and sober today only because of the access that I had to treatment following my last alcoholic blackout on July 31, 1981. I woke up that day in a jail cell in Sioux Falls, South Dakota, and I am living proof that treatment works and recovery is possible. But far too many people in our country don't have the same access to treatment that I and other Members of Congress, other Federal employees have.

A major barrier for thousands of Americans is insurance discrimination, plain and simple, against people in health plans who need treatment for mental illness or chemical addiction. The legislation my friend from Rhode Island (Mr. KENNEDY) and I have authored, H.R. 6983 before us today, would end this discrimination by prohibiting health insurers from placing discriminatory restrictions on treatment for people with mental illness or addiction.

No more inflated deductibles or copayments that don't exist for physical diseases. No more limited treatment stays that don't apply to physical ailments, no more discrimination against people with mental illness or chemical addiction.

I just want to say a word about the chief sponsor of this legislation, Mr. KENNEDY, who has worked tirelessly on this bill. We have worked together for many years now on this legislation since he first came to the House. I want to publicly acknowledge and thank Mr. KENNEDY, who has not only worked hard on this legislation, but has been an inspiration to literally hundreds of thousands of Americans as we traveled this country to 14 States, holding field hearings on this important legislation.

Simply stated, the Paul Wellstone and Pete Domenici Mental Health Parity and Addiction Equity Act, which has, by the way, 274 cosponsors from both sides of the aisle, simply stated, provides equal treatment for diseases of the brain with the body. Diseases of the brain should be treated the same as diseases of the body.

There is no government mandate. Nobody is mandated to insure anybody for treatment for mental illness or chemical addiction. There is no mandate in this bill. All it says is if your policy includes coverage for mental illness or addiction, then you cannot be discriminated against, that is, those ailments must be treated the same as physical ailments.

Providing treatment equity is not only the right thing to do, it's the cost-effective thing to do. Believe me, we have over the last 12 years assembled all the empirical data in the world, all the actuarial studies in the world, and they all showed the same thing, that equity for mental health and addiction treatment will save, not cost, but save, literally, billions of dollars nationally.

At the same time, treatment parity will not raise premiums more than two-tenths of 1 percent. That's according to the Congressional Budget Office. Let me repeat that. Premiums will not raise more than two-tenths of 1 percent.

So, in other words, for the price of a cheap cup of coffee per month, I am not talking about a fancy restaurant, I am talking about Pete's Diner, where many of us go, millions of people could receive treatment for chemical addiction and mental illness. In fact, 16 million people of the 26 million people in health plans could receive treatment under this bill.

When my friend from Rhode Island and I traveled this country holding field hearings on this legislation, we heard, literally, hundreds and hundreds of stories of human suffering that ripped your heart out, broken families, tragic deaths, ruined careers, shattered dreams, all because insurance companies would not provide access to treatment for mental illness and addiction for people who were in health plans. We could change that here today.

It's time to end the discrimination against people who need treatment for mental illness and addiction. It's time to prohibit health insurers from placing discriminatory barriers on treatment. It's time to join the coalition of insurance companies, yes, I said insurance companies. More than 10 of them now support this, as well as the major business groups who support parity. They know it's cost effective, they know parity saves health care dollars. It's time to make this bipartisan legislation the law of the land.

The people of America cannot wait any longer for Congress to act.

STATEMENT FOR THE RECORD IN SUPPORT OF
THE PASSAGE OF THE PAUL WELLSTONE AND
PETE DOMENICI MENTAL HEALTH PARITY
AND ADDICTION EQUITY ACT OF 2008, SEP-TEMBER, 2008

I am pleased to speak in support of the Paul Wellstone and Pete Domenici Mental Health Parity and Addiction Equity Act of 2008. This legislation is critically important to the future of health care, and it is also very close to my heart. During my father's time in the Senate, he never stopped fighting for fairness in coverage and treatment for mental illness and substance use disorders. My family and I are grateful for the tribute that the Senate and the House have paid to my father's legacy by naming the bill after him, as well as his close colleague, Sen. Pete Domenici.

My brother and I founded Wellstone Action to carry on my father's work, and through this organization, thousands of people are trained each year to run for office and to develop grassroots skills in organizing and leadership. But nothing represents my father's passion and commitment more than his work to pass legislation that would end the discrimination against those with mental illness and substance use disorders. This legislation is a major achievement and will do so much to end that discrimination.

For some time, I have been coming to Washington to speak on behalf of this legislation, but the fight for parity has a long history with many milestones: the 1996 federal law; the 1999 Executive Order that gave federal employees mental health and addiction parity benefits; the many successes at the state level to strengthen their parity laws; the times that Congress came very close to passing the expansion of the federal law; and the endorsement by President Bush in 2002. For my father, these milestones were very personal. His dedication stemmed from his personal observations of the terrible conditions in psychiatric institutions when his brother was hospitalized in the 1950s. These conditions, and the eventual catastrophic financial toll that my grandparents had to bear, inspired my father to do everything he could to make things right for those in similar circumstances.

The legislation that my father and Sen. Domenici passed in 1996 was groundbreaking and important, for it established in law an important first principle of parity: that those with mental illness should not be discriminated against in insurance coverage. But my father knew that it was not enough, and that is why this legislation is so necessary. It is the critically important next step toward ending the persistent discrimination against people who suffer from mental illness and addiction.

In the House, the tireless leadership of Congressman Patrick Kennedy and Congressman Jim Ramstad has been extraordinary, especially with the groundbreaking inclusion of substance use disorders in the parity bill and their protection of the rights of patients. They and the House Leadership, especially Speaker Nancy Pelosi and Majority Leader Steny Hoyer, should be proud of their efforts to make this legislation one that will strongly protect the needs of millions of Americans who have mental illness and substance use disorders. In the House, the efforts by the Chairmen of the Energy and Commerce, Ways and Means, and Education and Labor Committees should be proud of their successful efforts to fight for the rights of those with these illnesses. And, as I know well, nothing is accomplished without the unflagging commitment of hundreds of dedicated staff and advocates who have worked so hard to right the wrong of discrimination that has existed for so long in our country.

I also want to extend my deep gratitude to former First Lady Rosalynn Carter for her many years of leadership on this issue and many other problems related to mental illness. She and my father worked closely together on parity for many years, and he was always grateful for her support and leadership.

We know that mental illness is a real, painful, and sometimes fatal disease. It is also a treatable disease. My father used to say that the gap between what we know and what we do is lethal. Available medications and psychological treatments, alone or in combination, can help most people who suffer from mental illness and addiction. But without adequate treatment, these illnesses can continue or worsen in severity. Suicide is the third leading cause of death of young people in the U.S. Each year, 32,000 Americans take their lives, hundreds of thousands attempt to do so, and in 90% of these situations, the cause is untreated mental illness. This legislation will save lives. It will also go a long way toward ending the stigma that is behind the discrimination.

People have asked me why I am so involved in this issue. My first response is, "Because of my father, of course". I loved him and I miss him, and I have learned that many others here in Washington and throughout the country miss him too, especially his courage and his compassion. He fought hard for those who had no voice, and he had a strong personal commitment to helping those with mental illness and addiction. After he died, Congressional members honored him and my family by promising to name the parity bill after him, and this meant a great deal to my family. But I also knew the kind of man my father was, and the kind of parity bill he would have wanted finally passed into law, and I wanted to help ensure that the final bill was one worthy of his name. The safeguards for patients that have been included in this final bill, such as protections of stronger state laws, out of network benefits, oversight of diagnosis coverage, and transparency of medical necessity, are essential to a strong law. This Congress can be remembered as the one that had the courage and leadership to pass a strong parity bill, one where everyone's voices had a chance to be heard.

I, along with millions of Americans, look forward to the day when people with mental illness and substance use disorder receive decent, humane, and timely care. The passage of the Paul Wellstone and Pete Domenici Mental Health Parity and Addiction Equity Act of 2008 brings us so much closer to this day.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. STARK. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume, and I will be brief.

I am here to establish my ranking among distinguished Members like Chairman DINGELL, Chairman PALLONE, Chairman MILLER, Chairman ANDREWS, Ranking Member MCCRERY, Ranking Member CAMP and all of my colleagues. We all get the title today as pieces of parsley on a platter of fish. We are here to garnish the work that JIM RAMSTAD and PATRICK KENNEDY, led by former Senator Wellstone and Senator DOMENICI, have accomplished with diligent hard work. Without it, we would not be here to protect the people and add the protection that people need.

I urge my colleagues to support the Paul Wellstone and Pete Domenici Mental Health Parity and Addiction Equity Act, H.R. 6893, to honor PATRICK and JIM for the marvelous work they have done.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. RAMSTAD. Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Connecticut, who has been a long supporter of parity, Mr. SHAYS.

Mr. SHAYS. Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of the Paul Wellstone and Pete Domenici Mental Health Parity and Addiction Equity Act. Twenty-five percent of the U.S. adult population suffers from mental disorders or substance abuse disorders.

Yet despite the prevalence of mental disorders, there continues to be widespread misinformation and ignorance surrounding the condition. We need to ensure those who have treatment have access to care. At the same time, we need to increase biomedical research into the causes of and treatments for mental illness.

It is estimated 98 percent of private health insurance plans discriminate against patients seeking treatment for mental illness by requiring higher co-payments, allowing fewer doctor visits or days in the hospital, or requiring larger deductibles than imposed on other medical illnesses. With passage of this legislation, we will end these discriminatory practices and bring mental health care on par with care for physical ailments.

I congratulate my friends, Congressman RAMSTAD and Congressman KENNEDY, for all their efforts to help the mentally ill.

I urge adoption of this legislation.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Rhode Island, who has worked so tirelessly as a chief sponsor of this bill, Mr. KENNEDY.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of H.R. 6893, the Paul Wellstone and Pete Domenici Mental Health Parity and Addiction Equity Act of 2008.

I would like to acknowledge the hard work of Chairmen DINGELL, RANGEL and MILLER, as well as subcommittee Chairmen STARK, PALLONE and ANDREWS, without whose unflagging commitment to this bill we would not be so close to sending it to the President's desk.

I would also like to thank Speaker of the House NANCY PELOSI, and our majority leader, STENY HOYER, and the whole Democratic leadership for their consistent support in making this bill a top priority.

I most would like to thank my good friend, JIM RAMSTAD. JIM is leaving this year, and there will be no greater testament to his devotion to those with mental illness and substance abuse disorders than to see this bill signed into law by President Bush this year.

Mr. Speaker, I have a letter in support of this bill from former First Lady Rosalynn Carter, who has been such a champion for this issue, and I will insert it into the RECORD.

STATEMENT FOR THE RECORD IN SUPPORT OF THE PASSAGE OF THE PAUL WELLSTONE AND PETE DOMENICI MENTAL HEALTH PARITY AND ADDICTION EQUITY ACT OF 2008 BY MRS. ROSALYNN CARTER, FORMER FIRST LADY OF THE UNITED STATES, CHAIRWOMAN, CARTER CENTER'S MENTAL HEALTH TASK FORCE, ATLANTA, GEORGIA

I am pleased to have the opportunity to express my strong support for the passage of a critical health issue facing millions of Americans: parity for the treatment of mental illnesses and substance use disorders.

I have been working on mental health issues for more than 35 years. When I began no one understood the brain or how to treat mental illnesses. Today everything has changed—except stigma, of course, which holds back progress in the field.

Because of research and our new knowledge of the brain, mental illnesses now can be diagnosed and treated effectively, and the overwhelming majority of those affected can lead normal lives—being contributing citizens in our communities.

I join many individuals and hundreds of national organizations calling for an end to the fundamental, stigmatizing inequity of providing far more limited insurance coverage for mental health care than for treatment of any other illnesses. Again, I join forces with my friend Betty Ford in urging action on this important issue.

Jimmy and I founded The Carter Center 25 years ago, and I have a very good mental health program there. Annually we bring together leaders to take action on major mental health issues of concern to the nation. We have focused many times on stigma and discrimination and the importance of insuring adequate, equitable coverage for people with mental illnesses.

To me, it is unconscionable in our country and morally unacceptable to treat 20 percent of our population (1 in every 5 people in our country will experience a mental illness this year) as though they were not worthy of care. We preach human rights and civil rights and yet we let people suffer because of an illness they didn't ask for and for which there is sound treatment. Then we pay the price for this folly in homelessness, lives lost, families torn apart, loss of productivity, and the costs of treatment in our prisons and jails.

I have always believed that if insurance covered mental illnesses, it would be all right to have them. This may be why the stigma has remained so pervasive—because these illnesses are treated differently from other health conditions.

All mental illnesses are potentially devastating. But today living a life in recovery from a mental illness is not only possible, but expected. We had an intern at The Carter Center this spring, for example, who has obsessive compulsive disorder and depression. While she was in high school, she once spent two solid weeks in her house, unable to leave or be with her friends. I am happy to say that she received treatment, is a college graduate with Phi Beta Kappa honors, and just got a job in Washington, DC. Without resources and support, she could still be sick and shut in her home, which is what happens to so many who do not get the help they need because of lack of the ability to pay for services. We as a country lose all the many contributions of these wonderful people.

I have the pleasure of being friends with Tom Johnson, the former publisher of the Los Angeles Times and former CEO of CNN and a person who has struggled with depression. He has been interested in the mental health benefits offered by employers in Atlanta. He and two other prominent CEOs in the Atlanta community—all of whom have suffered from severe depression and are now great leaders—have had an enormous impact on businesses in the area.

Through the research of people like Howard Goldman and Richard Frank, we know that parity in insurance benefits for behavioral health care has no significant increase in total costs when coupled with management of care. We also know that a number of enlightened companies such as AT&T, Delta Air Lines, Eastman Kodak, General Motors, and IBM have provided comprehensive coverage for their employees. (Report to the Office of Personnel Management, by Washington Business Group on Health)

Since the mental health commission we held during Jimmy's presidency, there have been several major reports released including the first Surgeon General's Report on Mental Health, President Bush's New Freedom Commission on Mental Health, and the Institute of Medicine included mental and substance use conditions in its series of reports on the quality of American health care. All of the reports reinforce the statement that effective treatments are available, but most people who need them do not get them.

The whole nation has learned a lot about the importance of mental health issues through the events of Hurricane Katrina and the needs of our returning soldiers and National Guard troops. We support our troops in the field, and it is critical that we continue to support them when they come home.

Finally, I would like to comment on the number of states that have moved ahead with parity. These have been long-fought battles with some states managing wonderful successes. It is so important that stronger state parity laws continue to improve the lives of people with mental illness and addiction. It is also critically important that plans not override the intent of this legislation by discriminating against those with certain diagnoses of mental illness and addiction in their coverage. I am glad to see that this legislation includes efforts to keep a close watch on this issue. The intent of this law is fairness, not discrimination.

After waiting for 15 years, we finally have mental health and addiction parity legislation in sight. If this legislation is passed, many of our citizens will be healthier, and our nation will be stronger, more resilient, and more productive.

On behalf of the millions of people affected by mental illnesses, I applaud your efforts to pass the mental health and addiction parity legislation. I know the work has been hard, but the benefits to our nation will be enormous.

We are bringing to the floor today a bill that is fully paid for, bipartisan, bicameral and a compromise, a mental health parity bill that has long been coming to this floor. It is the result of extensive negotiations between the House, the Senate, and is supported by the chairmen of the relevant House committees and subcommittees, as well as Senators KENNEDY, ENZI and DOMENICI.

We cannot afford one more day without parity, because each day five United States soldiers take their lives because of suicide. We cannot afford one more day without parity because each year $1.3 billion is lost because of those workdays due to mental disorders, more than arthritis, stroke, heart attack and cancer combined.

The World Health Organization in this chart shows you. It's hard for anyone to really understand until you see it in this chart.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Mr. RAMSTAD. I yield the gentleman 2 additional minutes.

Mr. KENNEDY. If you look at the comparison in illnesses by lost days, burden of illness, mental illness is amongst the worst; sure, cancer; sure, arthritis; sure, heart disease, but these are illnesses that capture people usually at the end of life. Mental illnesses, addictive disorders, really paralyze people from their beginning of life throughout their life. That's why it's such a burden of illness in our society.

It catches us in the Justice Department. Drug-related crime in our country costs us $107 billion a year. We cannot afford not to have parity because 80 percent of our trauma admissions in our emergency rooms are alcohol and drug related. We cannot afford not to have parity, because by denying an individual's treatment to their diseases, we are denying them the opportunity to live out their full potential and live a full and fulfilling life.

Treatment works, as my good friend from Minnesota has said. It has worked for those who have had the opportunity to seek it.

If you are a Member of Congress, you have treatment opportunities. Like my friend from Minnesota said, he has had it; I have had it. Recovery is possible.

We need to end the stigma against those with mental illness, but it isn't going to happen until we first outlaw, outlaw, the embedded discrimination in our laws. That is what we are about to do today by passing this legislation. We simply cannot afford to wait one more day.

In fact, just today the Administration released a Statement of Administration Policy concerning an identical policy provision in the Senate tax extenders bill which reads, "the Administration supports passage of mental health parity legislation included in the Senate amendments to H.R. 6049 that eliminates disparities between mental health benefits and medical and surgical benefits without significantly increasing health coverage costs." The mental health parity legislation that statement refers to is identical to the bill we are considering on the floor today.

In March, we passed H.R. 1424, the Paul Wellstone Mental Health and Addiction Equity Act. At that time, some of my colleagues on the other side of the aisle expressed a preference for the Senate mental health parity bill. I would urge those members to join with us now to pass this compromise bill.

Mr. Speaker, it is past time that we enact mental health parity into law.

Enacting mental health parity will affect nearly every individual in this country who has watched a friend or family member struggle with mental illness or addiction, or who has battled the disease themselves.

The bill we are passing today is one more step in the long struggle to ensure that all Americans have a chance to realize their dreams.

I ask all of my colleagues to join me in putting an end to the discrimination against mental illness. I urge a yes vote for H.R. 6983.

Mr. RAMSTAD. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I just want to take this opportunity, like the previous speaker, to thank Senators DOMENICI and KENNEDY. It has been a real privilege to work with such committed public servants on this legislation, and also the chief cosponsor in the House, the gentleman from Rhode Island, who just spoke so eloquently about this legislation.

I want to say, as I have said many times before as I have traveled this country, were the gentleman from Rhode Island's uncle, President Kennedy, still alive today, and were President Kennedy to write a sequel to his book "Profiles in Courage," there would be a complete chapter about his nephew, the gentleman from Rhode Island, PATRICK KENNEDY, because not only has he been right on the policy and has done a tremendous job over the past several years fighting for parity, but also his personal story, which he shared with people all across this Nation, has literally inspired hundreds of thousands of people to get help. He has been a real profile in courage and a pleasure to work with.

At this time, Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself 1½ minutes.

Mr. Speaker, the person who is being helped and touched by this bill is someone we all know. He is a person who comes home from work and is confronted with the heartache that his son or daughter is dealing with the ravages of clinical depression. And they are worried about it, but they feel secure because they say at least we are insured. At least we can take care of her.

Then they find out that there is a $10,000 deductible before the insurance company will pay for the visits. Or they find out there is a $5,000 limit on how much care can be received.

If their daughter had broken her knee, there would be a $100 deductible and no limit on the care. But because she is dealing with clinical depression or a substance abuse problem or another mental illness, they are conscripted and limited. This person is who will be helped by the efforts of Mr. KENNEDY and Mr. RAMSTAD.

This bill is long overdue, and it will save the system money. More importantly, it will bring justice and fairness to people like the family I talked about in these remarks here today.

I congratulate Mr. KENNEDY and Mr. RAMSTAD on bringing together this broad coalition. I urge both Republicans and Democrats to vote "yes" on this worthy legislation.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. RAMSTAD. Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. STARK. Mr. Speaker, at this time I would like to yield 1½ minutes to the distinguished gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. PASCRELL).

Mr. PASCRELL. Mr. Speaker, it is time to remove the stigma and to destroy the barriers for individuals struggling with mental illness and addiction. Experienced by many of our returning brave soldiers, on the front page of USA Today, finally we have a breakthrough here.

A society of denial results in stigmatizing the admonition of emotional problems. For far too long we focused on the external injuries to the body and ignored the maladies of the mind. For too long it seemed as if we could not treat what we could not see. But modern medicine and science is showing us that these are real diseases with real treatments. It shows us that there is hope, as stated by Mr. KENNEDY and Mr. RAMSTAD.

Mr. Speaker, this is a civil rights issue. Parity removes the discrimination against a population that has been discriminated against and stigmatized. This is a humanitarian issue. Without parity, we allow those with illnesses to continue to suffer.

In closing, I would like to say that Paul Wellstone was a great and admi-nable man. He was a champion for this legislation. Today we honor him by passing this bill. The time is right. Let's pass this today.

Mr. RAMSTAD. Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to yield 1 minute to my friend from Pennsylvania (Mr. MURPHY).

Mr. PATRICK J. MURPHY of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, I rise for the purpose of a colloquy with the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. ANDREWS).

Mr. ANDREWS, I rise today in favor of a health care system that works for those in need. I am proud that this legislation promotes fairness for those with mental illness. I am also proud that it will not preempt stronger State laws, laws such as Pennsylvania Act 106 which has saved countless lives in our Commonwealth.

I stand with a leading Republican State representative from my district, Gene DiGirolamo, a leading advocate for mental health parity and someone who has worked tirelessly for health care laws that are fair and just.

Mr. ANDREWS, just to clarify, does the parity legislation leave intact Pennsylvania's Act 106 protections for those seeking treatment of substance abuse and similar protections in other States?

Mr. ANDREWS. If the gentleman will yield, that is correct. This bill will not preempt in any way the services and benefits provided to citizens of Pennsylvania Act 106 and similar legislation in other States. Some examples of the types of State laws that are not preempted by this bill include State laws that mandate minimum coverage, State laws that control access to benefits, and State laws that require access to out-of-network providers.

Mr. PATRICK J. MURPHY of Pennsylvania. I thank the gentleman from New Jersey, and I urge my colleagues to vote in support of this bill.

Mr. RAMSTAD. I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the chairman of the Energy and Commerce Committee, the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. DINGELL).

Mr. DINGELL. Mr. Speaker, I am proud to rise in support of H.R. 6983, the Paul Wellstone and Pete Domenici Mental Health Parity and Addiction Equity Act of 2008, which will permanently reauthorize and improve the Mental Health Parity Act of 1996. This legislation will put mental health and mental illness and substance-related disorders on the same footing as other medical and surgical disorders for health insurance benefits.

I would observe that we have much to thank our colleagues for. I particularly want to commend my colleagues, Representatives KENNEDY and RAMSTAD and Senators KENNEDY and DOMENICI, for their tireless efforts in crafting this important piece of legislation. They have been unwavering in their commitment to end the discrimination against those with mental health and substance abuse disorder.

I also want to congratulate and thank my friends, Mr. ANDREWS and Mr. PALLONE of New Jersey; and Mr. BARTON of Texas and Mr. DEAL, the ranking members of the Commerce Committee and of our Health Subcommittee and a superb staff on both the side of the majority and minority of the Commerce Committee.

I urge my colleagues to support the bill as it will create true parity of coverage for mental health and substance abuse disorders. I speak as one who has had to deal with the problem of mental health within the family of which I am a part, and I know the terrifying and awful consequences that exist not only to the person involved but to the whole family. So I hope that this legislation will go a long way to addressing the concerns millions of Americans have with regard to this terrifying disease.

I want to urge my colleagues to support this legislation, and note that in accordance with PAYGO rules, the bill is paid for with a worldwide interest allocation tax provision that delays a tax break for American companies that operate overseas. It is a good bill. I urge passage by the House.

Mr. RAMSTAD. Mr. Speaker, who has the right to close?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. PALLONE) has the right to close.

Mr. RAMSTAD. Are there speakers remaining?

Mr. STARK. I have two or three speakers remaining.

Mr. RAMSTAD. Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. STARK. Mr. Speaker, I recognize for 1½ minutes the distinguished gentleman from Michigan (Mr. LEVIN).

(Mr. LEVIN asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. Speaker, I first became involved with mental health services over 50 years ago when my beloved late wife, Vicki, worked in the network of child guidance clinics in Oakland County, Michigan. Those clinics tried to fill huge gaps in mental health services which in most cases were not covered by any insurance.

Since then the battle has ensued to provide mental health services on a parity with all other services in health insurance, private and public, including Medicare.

Twelve years ago, Congress and President Clinton came together to approve legislation that put this country on the road to mental health parity. It was a vital first step.

Today, we take another important step towards genuine mental health parity. Fifteen percent of Americans have no health insurance at all. Even Americans who do have health insurance often find themselves unable to receive care because of discriminatory policies in their health plans that require them to pay more and receive less for mental health care than for other services. This bill will change that.

This bill is another milestone in the long battle that must continue until everyone has full access to mental health services in our beloved Nation.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair will advise the gentleman from Minnesota that he has 6½ minutes remaining. The gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. ANDREWS) has 2 minutes remaining. The gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. PALLONE) has 2 minutes remaining. And the gentleman from California (Mr. STARK) has 2½ minutes remaining.

Mr. RAMSTAD. Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentlewoman from California (Mrs. NAPOLITANO).

Mrs. NAPOLITANO. Mr. Speaker, I thank the authors of this wonderful piece of legislation, the Paul Wellstone and Pete Domenici Mental Health Parity and Addiction Equity Act. This action is long, long overdue.

As Chair of the Mental Health Caucus here in Congress, we have been working and dealing with this issue for over 10 years. Mental health and addiction services are decades behind other services. We must recognize that the brain is part of the body and it also has rights. Stigma has always been a part of what has prevented us from being able to move forward to work for the benefit of the people.

It used to be businesses indicated that family leave was going to be a detriment and costly. It turned out not to be. This has that same effect. It is going to be a saver.

It is my deepest hope that this will open the gates for further legislation addressing mental health, whether addiction or other issues. Suicide is the third leading cause of death in young people aged 10 to 24. It can lead to academic failure, family conflicts, substance abuse, violence, incarceration and alarming rates of suicide.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentlewoman's time has expired.

Mr. RAMSTAD. I yield the gentlelady an additional minute.

Mrs. NAPOLITANO. I thank the gentleman.

The cost to society, to businesses and our families is unacceptable, and we need to move forward. Seventy-nine percent of those treated experience reduction of symptoms. We will continue to see these things crop up, whether it is veterans returning from Iraq, catastrophic happenings in our country such as 9/11, the hurricanes, the floods, the fires, all of that is going to cause us to continue to have a better, longer look at the effects it is costing our society, and the cost to our businesses and to our country. Our government cannot continue to ignore this issue. It affects our businesses and our health industry. They need to recognize this, and Congress has got to be able to recognize they can no longer ignore this. It affects the quality of life, and it is vital for the health and well-being of our communities and our schools.

I urge my colleagues to support this vital legislation. Let's move on and remove the stigma for mental health.

Mr. RAMSTAD. Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to yield at this time 1 minute to the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. HOLT).

Mr. HOLT. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman.

Today is a landmark day. Three cheers for PATRICK KENNEDY, JIM RAMSTAD and for the late Senator, my friend, Paul Wellstone. Today Congress makes clear that health is about more than having a healthy body, but being a complete individual from head to toe.

We know that mental illness is treatable, yet because maybe one-third of the people affected do not receive the needed treatments, mental illness remains a leading cause of disability and premature death. Untreated mental illness is costly to individuals, to families, to companies large and small; yes, to the entire society. But from now on, millions of Americans who suffer from mental illness will receive full access to the treatment they need and deserve without higher copays and treatment limits.

Finally, I am pleased to say that this bill protects States like New Jersey who go above and beyond coverage requirements that this legislation establishes. There is more to do, but this is a landmark, red letter day.

Mr. RAMSTAD. Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Washington (Mr. BAIRD).

Mr. BAIRD. I thank the gentleman.

Before coming to Congress, I spent 23 years as a clinical psychologist. Let me share with you two key points. One, mental illness is not only debilitating, it can be fatal. But we can treat mental illness. The treatment for mental illness is research based. It is effective, it is cost effective, and it saves the American people in terms of quality of lives and dollars, and it is long past time that we stop discriminating.

I want to commend PATRICK KENNEDY, JIM RAMSTAD, all the cosponsors of this bill, and all the associations and the individuals who have worked so hard to, at long last, see it pass.

Support this good bill. Make mental health parity reality at long last.

Mr. RAMSTAD. I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. STARK. Mr. Speaker, I would be happy to yield the balance of my time to the distinguished gentleman from Illinois (Mr. EMANUEL).

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman is recognized for 2½ minutes.

Mr. EMANUEL. Mr. Speaker, the issue of mental health parity doesn't always grab the biggest headlines, but the hard work that Democrats and Republicans have done to pass this landmark legislation will not go unnoticed.

For too long, millions of Americans with treatable mental illnesses have gone without care. Some in the business community and the insurance industry said mental health parity simply costs too much, declined to provide that type of coverage, and patients and their workers and their families suffered.

As those that know, when one individual in the family has an illness, a mental illness, the whole family is affected. That wrong ends today with this legislation. It ends because Democrats and Republicans, under the leadership of PATRICK KENNEDY, TED KENNEDY and JIM RAMSTAD, came together to back this landmark legislation, and never gave up.

It ends because even once-skeptical insurance companies and the business community across the country, know that mental health parity is cost effective, and helps ensure that American workers and their families remain healthy and productive. And it is a tremendous victory for the millions of Americans who will finally have access to this type of care.

This issue might not always be on the front page of the newspaper, but millions of Americans will finally get care they need and they will remember the work of those of us who do this.

I'd also like to add a note that while I was campaigning for Congress, I wrote an op-ed on this issue because I had worked in a White House that through executive order, President Clinton signed, as you remember, legislation, JIM, that insured that Federal workers had this and set a model for Federal employees. Not one op-ed I had got more comment from people at the subway stops, at the grocery stores, people who wanted to usually talk about something else until you began that discussion, never really began this discussion, but it touched people of all walks of life, whether it was at the grocery store, on the way to work or on their front doorstep. They told you about what was going on in their family.

Again, it's not the biggest headline; it's not the greatest. It's an important piece of legislation to give people peace of mind that they don't have to hide given the illnesses of depression and other types of substance abuse that they are facing, they now have an insurance policy that allows them and, again I want to say, their family to get protection, because one sick member of a family, with this type of illness, the entire family is affected.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Mr. RAMSTAD. I yield an additional minute to the gentleman, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. EMANUEL. I would like to thank Mr. RAMSTAD for that. I will try to not use that whole time.

But this is the type of thing that you will find that people who normally wouldn't talk to you about it will tell you stories of their family, their loved ones, their children who are facing illnesses, and you'll have done something to give them something; and it's ironic and I use this and I mean it when I say, a peace of mind. They will finally know that their sick child who is facing depression can get that care and it doesn't affect the whole family. And they know they got the type of care and they don't have to face a financial decision and being a good parent decision.

We're doing something that allows people to go on with their lives. I want to thank JIM and PATRICK and TED KENNEDY for never giving in. When all of us wanted to say, you know, it's just not the right time, it's too hard, the insurance industry doesn't like it. You never gave in. You never gave up. This is your day for making sure America lived up to its best potential. I want to thank you on a personal level from the floor. Thanks, JIM.

Mr. RAMSTAD. Mr. Speaker, in closing, I just want to thank all of those who have brought us to this point here today. As one who's worked on this legislation for 12 long years, it's truly been a team effort. I want to thank all of the organizations, all of the individuals, too many to mention here today, but I want to thank particularly David Wellstone and Allan Garrity from Senator Wellstone's staff who have kept the legacy of Paul Wellstone alive in terms of moving this mental health and addiction treatment parity legislation.

I also want to thank the 274 bipartisan cosponsors of the current bill. I want to thank the leadership of Speaker PELOSI, Majority Leader HOYER, because without their leadership we wouldn't be here today about to pass mental health parity.

I want to thank the distinguished chairmen of the full committees and the subcommittees and the other side of the aisle whose cooperation has been incredibly positive and helpful; and without their support, every one of you, without your support we wouldn't be here today as well.

I want to thank the leadership and the tireless efforts of my friend from Rhode Island, the chief cosponsor, PATRICK KENNEDY, who has worked so hard on this legislation from the minute he was sworn in as a Member of the House.

I want to thank all the staff from the full committees, the three full committees of jurisdiction, as well as the three subcommittees of jurisdiction.

And I particularly want to thank Karin Hope, my legislative director, who has worked on this legislation day and night for all 12 years that we've worked together.

Let me just wrap it up, Mr. Speaker, by saying that it's time for Congress to deal with America's number 1 public health problem. It's time for Congress to outlaw discrimination in treatment against people with mental illness and chemical addiction. It's time for Congress to pass mental health and chemical addiction treatment parity.

I yield back.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to yield the balance of our time to the gentlewoman from California (Mrs. DAVIS).

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentlewoman is recognized for 1 minute.

Mrs. DAVIS of California. Mr. Speaker, as everyone has said before, this bill is a victory. It may not be everything that everyone had hoped to get into this bill, but it is going in the right direction. It does ensure treatment, it does address the stigma associated with mental health disorders.

I just wanted to point out that we have so many of our servicemembers who are coming home who have fought in Iraq and Afghanistan. And they are coming home and transitioning to civilian life. But they are going to find some barriers as well. The barriers to mental health care are really playing themselves out today because I just talked to a family just a little while ago, and they felt that even though we're starting to put in some of those services, there's great resistance to people seeking that kind of care.

This bill begins to change that. It sends a very clear and a very direct message that mental health care is as important as physical care. We wouldn't stop people in the middle of their treatment for something of stomach ulcers. You cannot stop people in the middle of their treatment for mental health disorders.

Mr. Speaker, I'm pleased this bill is on the floor.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from New Jersey is recognized for 30 seconds.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, this bill would allow those individuals and families struggling to cope with the diverse array of mental illnesses to have greater access to affordable care. We can't delay any longer.

I strongly urge my colleagues to vote in favor of the passage of this important legislation which will ensure access to equitable health coverage for the millions of American who suffer from mental illness.

Mr. LARSON of Connecticut. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in support of H.R. 6983, the "Paul Wellstone and Pete Domenici Mental Health Parity and Addiction Equity Act of 2008." I would first like to commend Representative PATRICK KENNEDY and Representative JIM RAMSTAD on their outstanding efforts and tireless work on this important issue.

For far too long too many individuals and families have struggled with mental health illness and substance abuse disorders and yet have faced a health care system that provided them with unequal access to care. This bill is a step in the right direction for our country as it provides another degree of fairness for our citizens.

In short, it ensures that group health plans can no longer charge people more for seeking treatment for mental health or substance abuse problems. It also provides that out of pocket and visit limits may be no different for mental health and substance abuse care than for other medical care.

According to a report by the Lieutenant Governor's Mental Health Cabinet in Connecticut, of the nearly 600,000 of our state residents who experience symptoms of mental illness, 135,000 suffer from a serious condition and 66,000 suffer from a severe condition. Countless others suffer from debilitating substance abuse disorders. These problems are every bit as serious as other medical conditions and must be treated by our health care system as such.

Again, I want to commend my colleagues who worked so hard on this issue to reach a bipartisan compromise and reiterate my strong support for this legislation.

Mr. COURTNEY. Mr. Speaker, stigmas surrounding mental health illness have negatively impacted disease acceptance, and in turn, access to quality care and treatment. For too long, members of our eastern Connecticut community and Americans across our nation have suffered the consequences of these inequalities in our health care system. Today, we have the opportunity to ease access to quality care and treatments for those with mental illness by passing the Paul Wellstone and Pete Domenici Mental Health Parity and Addiction Equity Act (H.R. 6983).

In 1996, the Mental Health Parity Act codified the first national mental health parity requirements, mandating that annual and lifetime dollar limits on coverage for mental health treatment be no less than those for physical illness. While this legislation marked a monumental achievement with improving access to mental health care and treatments, more must be done.

Throughout the 110th Congress, the House and Senate have worked on mental health parity legislation that will extend coverage requirements beyond those established in the Mental Health Parity Act of 1996. The Mental Health Parity Act (S. 558) introduced in the Senate and the Paul Wellstone Mental Health Parity and Addiction Equity Act (H.R. 1424), which I cosponsored in the House, both extend coverage mandates to include equity in copayments, deductibles, as well as in- and out-of-network coverage. On March 5, 2008 and September 17, 2007, the House and Senate respectively passed H.R. 1424 and S. 558 with bipartisan support. The Paul Wellstone and Pete Domenici Mental Health Parity and Addiction Equity Act reflects a compromise between the House and Senate bills, and more broadly, an equitable standard for mental health care coverage.

Mr. Speaker, nearly one in four Americans suffers from a diagnosable mental disorder. By passing the Paul Wellstone and Pete Domenici Mental Health Parity and Addiction Equity Act we recognize the prevalence and seriousness of mental health illness as well as the need for expanded coverage. I ask my colleagues to join me in voting in favor of this critical legislation.

Mr. VAN HOLLEN. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of this long overdue bipartisan legislation, and I want to commend and thank our colleagues, PATRICK KENNEDY and JIM RAMSTAD, for their leadership on this very important issue that is so important to millions of Americans around this country.

The bill before us today is the product of their determination, perseverance and passion. They traveled across this great land holding field hearings listening to Americans from all walks of life. I had the privilege of hosting one of those hearings in my congressional district. The message from that hearing, as with other hearings from around the country, was very clear—Congress needs to end insurance discrimination in mental health care.

Both common sense and simple fairness dictate that mental health diseases be treated on an equal footing with other conditions. Unfortunately, employer-provided health care set stricter treatment limits and imposed higher out-of-pocket costs for mental health care for many years. The Paul Wellstone and Pete Domenici Mental Health Parity Act of 2008 will reverse this practice and ensure that group health plans do not charge higher co-payments, coinsurance, deductibles, and do not lower day and visit limits on mental health and addiction care than for medical and surgical care.

Mr. Speaker, this bill is completely paid for. Let us honor the spirit of Paul Wellstone and pass this much-needed legislation. I strongly urge my colleagues to vote for it.

Mr. PALLONE. I yield back the balance of my time.

The question was taken.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. In the opinion of the Chair, two-thirds being in the affirmative, the ayes have it.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, on that I demand the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 8 of rule XX and the Chair's prior announcement, further proceedings on this motion will be postponed.

RECOGNIZING THE 150TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE FOUNDING OF MACY'S, INC.

Ms. VELÁZQUEZ. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and agree to the resolution (H. Res. 1473) recognizing the 150th anniversary year of the founding of Macy's, Inc., as an American entrepreneurial success story and the role Macy's, Inc., plays in supporting America's small businesses and vendors, including those that are minority and women owned; celebrating the vision, innovativeness, and ingenuity of all of our Nation's small businesses.

The Clerk read the title of the resolution.

The text of the resolution is as follows:

H. RES. 1473

Whereas, on October 28, 1858, 36-year-old entrepreneur Rowland Hussey Macy opened a small dry goods store known as R.H. Macy &

Co. at the corner of 14th Street and 6th Avenue in New York City;

Whereas the early struggles of R.H. Macy & Co. are representative of all American small businesses and indicate the intense drive and spirit of our Nation's entrepreneurs;

Whereas Rowland Hussey Macy adopted a red star as his symbol of success, dating back to his days as a sailor, and had first-day sales totaling $11.06;

Whereas, after the first full year in operation, R.H. Macy & Co. had gross sales of almost $90,000, and, by 1877, nearly 20 years after it was founded, R.H. Macy & Co. had become a full-fledged department store occupying the ground space of 11 adjacent buildings;

Whereas, as small businesses must evolve to remain competitive in the marketplace, Macy's is known for several firsts that changed the retail industry, including being the first retailer to promote a woman, Margaret Getchell, to an executive position, pioneering such revolutionary business practices as the one-price system, in which the same item was sold to every customer at one price, and quoting specific prices for goods in newspaper advertising;

Whereas the competitive pressures facing small retailers such as Macy's compelled it to pursue creative merchandising initiatives, including being the first to introduce such products as the tea bag, the Idaho baked potato, and colored bath towels;

Whereas, by November 1902, the small store had outgrown its modest storefront and moved uptown to its present Herald Square location on Broadway and 34th Street, establishing an attraction for shoppers from around the world;

Whereas, as Macy's, Inc., has grown, it has not forgotten its heritage as a small business and promoted small firms, pursued supplier diversity initiatives, and assisted in the growth of talented entrepreneurs by striving to purchase and support vendors who are certified as minority or women owned;

Whereas Macy's, Inc., purchases goods and services from these small business enterprises and encourages prospective suppliers to partner with it and take advantage of its Supplier Diversity Program and provides participating vendors with direction and guidance to help them plan and ready for the strategic demands of a larger-scale retail relationship; and

Whereas Macy's, Inc., held its first-ever national supplier diversity fair in New York City in August 2007 targeting the minority- and women-owned vendor community in the cosmetics and skincare categories with the goal of enhancing Macy's existing assortment for its diverse multicultural customer population: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives—

(1) recognizes—

(A) the 150th anniversary year of the founding of Macy's, Inc., as an American entrepreneurial success story; and

(B) the role Macy's, Inc., plays in supporting America's small businesses and vendors, including those that are minority and women owned;

(2) celebrates the vision, innovativeness, and ingenuity of all of our Nation's small businesses that aspire to grow and prosper as Macy's, Inc., has over its 150-year history; and

(3) congratulates Macy's, Inc., as an American entrepreneurial success story.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentlewoman from New York (Ms. VELÁZQUEZ) and the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. CHABOT) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentlewoman from New York.

GENERAL LEAVE

Ms. VELÁZQUEZ. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on the resolution under consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentlewoman from New York?

There was no objection.

Ms. VELÁZQUEZ. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself as much time as I may consume.

I rise in support of this resolution in celebration of Macy's 150th anniversary. Both the City of New York and the small business community have benefited immensely from the success and generosity of this American icon.

As anyone within the small business community will tell you, the best entrepreneurs are more than just businessmen. While it is obviously important to have a head for numbers and risks, there is another, more critical, element involved. In order for an entrepreneur to make history, in order to be truly great, he or she must also be an innovator. Roland H. Macy was just that kind of man.

Today, we are saluting the business that Macy founded 150 years ago, a company that began small but, through hard work and enormous innovation, has come to stand as a symbol of the American Dream.

When Macy opened a small dry goods store in 1858, he probably never expected it to become a multi-billion dollar business. After all, he first reported sales added up to a grand total of $11.06. Still, it didn't take long for Macy's venture to become a success.

A century and a half after it first opened its door, that little dry goods shop has grown to become a national department store chain.

Macy's remarkable growth stands for more than just hard work and good business sense. R.H. Macy, like any successful entrepreneur, was a tireless innovator. As chairwoman of the Small Business Committee, I see that same sense of innovation in the entrepreneurs I work with. It is the spirit that drives people to start businesses in the first place.

Macy's small business success was largely rooted in its ability to innovate. Indeed, the department store pioneered many of their retail practices we now take for granted. For example, it was the first to adopt the one-price system through which every item is assigned a single fixed cost.

Macy's has also consistently outshone its competitors by offering new and novel products. Take, for instance, color bath towels, or the Idaho baked potato, or the tea bag. None of these commodities were available to the mainstream until Macy's brought them to market.

As with any industry, great success brings great change. Macy's has obviously outgrown its "small business" label and has become a major player in the retail world. Its flagship store in my home City of New York has become a shopping destination for Manhattanites and tourists alike. It attracts visitors from across the country and around the world. And yet despite being a multi-billion dollar corporation, Macy's has never forgotten its entrepreneurial roots.

The retailer still strives to support the small business community by purchasing many of its products from small firms. Through its Supplier Diversity Program, the company makes a point of buying from and nurturing women and minority entrepreneurs. In 2007, it held its first diversity supplier fair to target these groups specifically.

Macy's embodies the great American story of a small business that made it big. Roland H. Macy and his legendary venture represent the dream of every entrepreneur. After 150 years, the retailer stands as a shining example of two fundamental American values—hard work and innovation. Those are the values that have driven the department store's achievements throughout the years. And those are the values that we are celebrating this afternoon.

The Macy's story is a great American story. It is based on the premise that any small business owner can become a big business success. After all, Macy's began as a modest dry goods store on the corner of 14th Street and 6th Avenue in Manhattan. Today, it is a multi-billion dollar corporation.

But while Macy's may be a Fortune 500 company, it has not forgotten its small business roots. Its Supplier Diversity Program, for example, nurtures women and minority entrepreneurs. Macy's clearly recognizes the importance of giving back.

In celebrating Macy's, we are applauding its great achievements, and its dedication to invention. The company pioneered many practices and products that have since become American staples. For instance, the store first brought colored bath towels into the mainstream. But perhaps more importantly, we are also applauding Macy's commitment to small business development. It is a commitment to entrepreneurship. It is a commitment to innovation. It is a commitment to the American dream.

I would urge the adoption of this resolution.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. CHABOT. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

As ranking member of the House Small Business Committee, I rise to support this resolution recognizing the 150th anniversary year of the founding of Macy's, Inc. I'm pleased to be joined by my good friend and distinguished chairwoman of the Small Business Committee, NYDIA VELÁZQUEZ of New York, in offering this legislation.

Mr. Speaker, American small business owners are the entrepreneurs who create the majority of American jobs, export American products, and generate America's economic growth.

Small firms exhibit the best of American values: hard work, innovation, enthusiasm, and determination.

The story of Macy's is one of true entrepreneurship. Roland Hussey Macy started the small dry goods store in New York City in 1858 that would develop into one of the largest department store retailers in the world. It was Mr. Macy's perseverance, ingenuity, and determination that helped to spur that growth.

Many Cincinnatians remember the John Shillito Company—or Shillitos, as we called it—Cincinnati's first department store, which was founded in 1830. In 1929, Shillito's, F.&R. Lazarus in Columbus, Ohio, Brooklyn, New York-based Abraham & Straus and several other family-owned department stores formed a holding company called Federated Department Stores. In 1945, Federated moved its offices to Cincinnati, where Macy's primary headquarters operates today, and in 1994, Federated acquired Macy's.

Today Macy's operates over 810 stores in every major metropolitan area around the entire United States.

Small businesses are known for their ability to respond to the needs of the market. Macy's, which began as a small business, has always been innovative: it was the first American store with escalators, elaborate window displays, and an in-store Santa. Macy's also began what is now the Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade. Macy's tenets that customers are paramount and that success comes from taking advantage of opportunity are principles that small firms still apply today.

I want to commend Macy's for its commitment to purchasing from small businesses, including women- and minority-owned enterprises, establishing supplier diversity initiatives, and encouraging its vendors to purchase from small firms. Macy's also has a strong history of corporate and foundation giving and encouraging employee community service.

Congratulations to Macy's on 150 years of growth, success, and philanthropy.

Finally, I want to again thank Chairwoman VELÁZQUEZ for working in a bipartisan way on this issue as she has done consistently throughout the last 2 years that she served as the chairwoman of the Small Business Committee. I appreciate her leadership. I think she's done an extraordinarily good job. It's been an honor to work with her over the last 2 years.

At this point, I would like to reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. VELÁZQUEZ. Mr. Speaker, I would like to inquire if the gentleman has any other further speakers.

Mr. CHABOT. We have no further speakers.

I yield back.

Ms. VELÁZQUEZ. Mr. Speaker, I yield back.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentlewoman from New York (Ms.

VELÁZQUEZ) that the House suspend the rules and agree to the resolution, H. Res. 1473.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds being in the affirmative) the rules were suspended and the resolution was agreed to.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

UNITED STATES-REPUBLIC OF KOREA DEFENSE COOPERATION IMPROVEMENT ACT OF 2008

Mr. HIGGINS. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the bill (H.R. 5443) to improve defense cooperation between the Republic of Korea and the United States.

The Clerk read the title of the bill.

The text of the bill is as follows:

H.R. 5443

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the "United States-Republic of Korea Defense Cooperation Improvement Act of 2008".

SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

Congress makes the following findings:

(1) Close and continuing cooperation in defense between the United States and the Republic of Korea continues to be in the national security interest of the United States.

(2) The Republic of Korea was designated a Major Non-NATO Ally in 1987, the first such designation.

(3) The Republic of Korea has been a major purchaser of United States defense articles and services through the Foreign Military Sales (FMS) program, totaling $6,900,000,000 in deliveries over the last 10 years.

(4) Purchases of United States defense articles, services, and major defense equipment facilitate and increase the interoperability of Republic of Korea military forces with United States military forces.

(5) Congress has previously enacted important, special defense cooperation arrangements for the Republic of Korea, as in the Act entitled "An Act to authorize the transfer of items in the War Reserves Stockpile for Allies, Korea", approved December 30, 2005 (Public Law 109-159), which authorized the President, notwithstanding section 514 of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961 (22 U.S.C. 2321h), to transfer to the Republic of Korea certain defense items to be included in a war reserve stockpile for that country.

(6) Such actions by Congress and sales to the Republic of Korea enhance defense ties with that country and ensure favorable consideration by the Government of the Republic of Korea when it considers acquisitions of certain weapons systems.

(7) Enhanced support for defense cooperation with the Republic of Korea is important to the national security of the United States, including through creation of a status in law for the Republic of Korea similar to the countries in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, Japan, Australia, and New Zealand, with respect to consideration by Congress of foreign military sales to the Republic of Korea.

SEC. 3. SENSE OF CONGRESS.

It is the sense of Congress that expeditious consideration of certifications of letters of offer to sell defense articles, defense services, design and construction services, and major defense equipment to the Republic of Korea under section 36(b) of the Arms Export Control Act (22 U.S.C. 2776(b)) is fully consistent with United States security and foreign policy interests and the objectives of world peace and security.

SEC. 4. AMENDMENTS TO ARMS EXPORT CONTROL ACT.

The Arms Export Control Act (22 U.S.C. 2751 et seq.) is amended—

(1) in section 3 (22 U.S.C. 2753)—
(A) in subsection (b)(2), by inserting “the Government of the Republic of Korea,” before “the Government of Australia”; and

(B) in subsection (d)—

(ii) in paragraph (3)(A)(i), by inserting “the Republic of Korea,” before “Australia”; and

(A) in subsection (b)—
(i) in paragraph (1), by inserting “the Republic of Korea,” before “Japan”;

(ii) in paragraph (2), by inserting “the Republic of Korea,” before “Japan”; and

(5) in section 63(a)(2) (22 U.S.C. 2796b(a)(2)), by inserting “the Republic of Korea,” before “Australia”.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from New York (Mr. HIGGINS) and the gentleman from Florida (Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from New York.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. HIGGINS. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on the resolution under consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from New York?

There was no objection.

Mr. HIGGINS. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of this resolution and yield myself such time as I may consume.

I would first like to thank our distinguished colleague, Mr. ROYCE from California, for introducing this important piece of legislation.

For over 50 years, the United States and the Republic of Korea have enjoyed a strong security partnership and a close friendship. Our alliance helped check the spread of communism in Asia throughout the Cold War, and in the post-Cold War era, our relationship has continued to serve as a backbone of maintaining peace and security throughout the region.

As hosts to 28,000 United States military personnel that work side-by-side with the South Korean military, South Korea is a key element in the security presence of our Nation in Asia. We have continued to work closely with Seoul in Six Party Talks aimed at the denuclearization of the Korean Peninsula.

The bill before us strengthens the vital security relationship with our close friend by adding South Korea to the list of countries in the Arms Export and Control Act that receive expedited congressional review of armed sales of 15 instead of 30 days.

South Korea will now rightly be listed among our closest allies, including the NATO countries, Australia, New Zealand, and Japan, with respect to foreign military sales.

This is a significant symbolic recognition of the critical importance of South Korea to the United States' national security and peace and stability throughout east Asia.

I strongly support this legislation and urge my colleagues to do the same. I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of H.R. 5443, a bill to upgrade the status of South Korea's foreign military sales to that of the countries of NATO, Australia, New Zealand, and Japan.

I would like to thank Chairman HOWARD BERMAN for helping to schedule consideration of this legislation before us today and to also recognize the important work of our Foreign Affairs colleague, Mr. ROYCE of California, in introducing this timely and important bill which I am pleased to cosponsor.

Mr. Speaker, this bill appropriately accords South Korea the same treatment provided to other key partners of the United States in the foreign military sales process, such as higher dollar thresholds and expedited time frames for congressional notifications. This upgrade is a powerful symbol of a renewed and transformed U.S.-South Korea alliance. It forcefully reaffirms that South Korea has been and will continue to be a close and valued strategic ally of the United States—a relationship that has long served as a bedrock of stability for northeast Asia.

Mr. Speaker, this legislation is strongly supported by our Departments of State and Defense, and its passage will help advance a new strategic framework for the alliance but not only for the purpose of managing a range of increasingly complex contingencies related to North Korea, but also to cement a common Democratic partnership for the next century.

I urge its adoption.

With that, I reserve the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Without objection, the gentleman from Georgia will control the remaining time.

There was no objection.

Mr. SCOTT of Georgia. Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time at this time, and I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from California (Mr. ROYCE), the ranking member of the Subcommittee on Terrorism, Nonproliferation, and Trade and the author of this important legislation.

Mr. ROYCE. Mr. Speaker, let me just start by thanking ILEANA ROS-LEHTINEN, who's the ranking member, for her work and Chairman BERMAN's work in bringing this legislation to the floor.

I am in support, of course, of this bill. I authored this bill. But I wanted to share with you that today the House really has an opportunity to strengthen the relationship that we have had historically between the United States and Korea. That alliance is a very important one to us and to our soldiers.

The interoperability of U.S. and Korean soldiers in the Korean peninsula can be secured and, frankly, can be strengthened for years to come, and I think is important because our own Secretary of State, Condi Rice, wrote a letter recently to Chairman BERMAN, and she said in that letter that this “will serve as an important symbol of the renewed strength of the U.S.-Korea alliance.”

With this legislation in law, foreign military sales with Korea would be treated just as we treat those sales that we have today with NATO or what we call NATO+3, NATO plus Australia, New Zealand and Japan. So the NATO+3 list would become NATO+4. And the upgrade in South Korea's military procurement status would mean a streamlined process; the monetary thresholds that trigger congressional review would be raised and congressional review time would be reduced.

Mr. Speaker, the Republic of Korea, as we all know, is a vital, strategic, and enduring ally to this country; 29,000 U.S. troops stand side by side with the Korean Army, and they've helped keep the peace there in northeast Asia for nearly 60 years.

We had testimony to the United States Congress earlier this year. We had General Bell, a four-star general. He was commander of the U.S. Forces Korea, and he called it “bizarre and strange” that Korea did not have this status in U.S. law, and he urged the adoption of this very measure that we're discussing today.

Furthermore, the U.S.-South Korean alliance is distinct. With a mutual defense treaty dating back to 1953, Korea and the U.S. form perhaps the most integrated alliance of interoperable forces I think that exist in the world. On the Korean peninsula, interoperability is not just a buzz word. It is a real-life practice that passage of this legislation would help cement. U.S. and Korean soldiers need to be operating, frankly, on American equipment.

South Korea is a larger foreign military sales partner than any of the NATO+3 members. Last year, Seoul purchased $3.7 billion worth of American defense equipment, making it one of the largest partners in U.S. foreign military sales. And this has led South Korea to formally request this preferential status through its Foreign Ministry and its Defense Ministry. Indeed, South Korean President Lee Myung-Bak raised this legislation when he met with congressional leaders here last spring.

As our alliance has matured, the Koreans are rightly on the path towards assuming the lead for their own defense. With that, Korea plans to invest $290 billion in military hardware over the next dozen years. Without updating our laws to reflect the strategic nature of our relationship, we run the risk of South Korea looking to other suppliers as it continues its defense transformation, perhaps jeopardizing interoperability of our U.S. forces that work with the Korean forces. So today, we can help prevent that from happening, while at the same time benefiting the strength of this alliance.

I urge adoption of the legislation. I thank the chairman and ranking member for their support in bringing it to the floor.

Mr. SCOTT of Georgia. Mr. Speaker, I have no further speakers. I yield back the balance of my time.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of our time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from New York (Mr. HIGGINS) that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 5443.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds being in the affirmative) the rules were suspended and the bill was passed.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

REQUIRING CONSULTATIONS ON U.S.-TAIWAN ARMS SALES TALKS

Mr. SCOTT of Georgia. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the bill (H.R. 6646) to require the Secretary of State, in consultation with the Secretary of Defense, to provide detailed briefings to Congress on any recent discussions conducted between United States Government and the Government of Taiwan and any potential transfer of defense articles or defense services to the Government of Taiwan, as amended.

The Clerk read the title of the bill. The text of the bill is as follows:

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, SECTION 1. FINDINGS.

Congress finds the following:

(1) Relations between the United States and Taiwan are governed by the Taiwan Relations Act (22 U.S.C. 3301 et seq.; Public Law 96-8), three joint communiques, and the Six Assurances.

(2) The Taiwan Relations Act has governed United States arms sales to Taiwan since 1979, when the United States extended diplomatic recognition to the People's Republic of China.

(3) The Taiwan Relations Act specifies that it is United States policy, among other things, to consider any nonpeaceful means to determine Taiwan's future "a threat" to the peace and security of the Western Pacific and of "grave concern" to the United States, "to provide Taiwan with arms of a defensive character", and "to maintain the capacity of the United States to resist any resort to force or other forms of coercion" jeopardizing the security or social or economic system of Taiwan's people.

(4) Section 3(a) of the Taiwan Relations Act states that "the United States will make available to Taiwan such defense articles and defense services in such quantity as may be necessary to enable Taiwan to maintain a sufficient self-defense capability".

(5) Section 3(b) of the Taiwan Relations Act stipulates that both the President and the Congress shall determine the nature and quantity of such defense articles and services "based solely" upon their judgment of the needs of Taiwan.

(6) Taiwan has recently reversed a downward trend in defense spending with a $2.2 billion increase in 2007 to $9.8 billion and the Defense Ministry has requested and the Executive Yuan approved a 2008 budget of $10.6 billion, an increase of 15 percent.

(7) According to the Congressional Research Service, the executive branch has yet to send any arms transfer notifications to Congress during calendar year 2008, including notifications on at least seven pending arms sales programs with a total value of about $11 billion that encompass programs on a submarine design, Patriot PAC-3 missile defense systems, and Apache and Blackhawk helicopters.

(8) Taiwanese President Ma Ying-jeou stated on July 12, 2008, that the island needs to secure defensive weapons from the United States, despite a warming of relations with mainland China.

(9) On July 16, 2008, Admiral Timothy Keating, Commander of the Hawaii-based United States Pacific Command, acknowledged that the executive branch had imposed a "freeze" on arms sales to Taiwan, a decision that is in contradiction to longstanding United States law and policy.

SEC. 2. MANDATORY CONGRESSIONAL BRIEFINGS.

(a) BRIEFINGS.—Not later than 90 days after the date of enactment of this Act, and not later than 120 days thereafter, the Secretary of State, in consultation with the Secretary of Defense, shall provide detailed briefings to Congress on—

(1) any discussions conducted between any executive branch agency and the Government of Taiwan during the covered period; and

(2) any potential transfer of defense articles or defense services to the Government of Taiwan.

(b) DEFINITIONS.—In this section:

(1) COVERED PERIOD.—The term "covered period" means—

(A) with respect to the initial briefings required under subsection (a), the period beginning on the date of the enactment of this Act and ending on the date of the initial briefings; and

(B) with respect to the subsequent briefings required under subsection (a), the period beginning on the day after the date of the initial briefings required under subsection (a) and ending on the date of the subsequent briefings.

(2) EXECUTIVE BRANCH AGENCY.—The term "executive branch agency" has the meaning given the term "agency" in section 551(1) of title 5, United States Code.

(3) DEFENSE ARTICLE.—The term "defense article" has the meaning given the term in section 47 of the Arms Export Control Act (22 U.S.C. 2794 note).

(4) DEFENSE SERVICE.—The term "defense service" has the meaning given the term in section 47 of the Arms Export Control Act (22 U.S.C. 2794 note).

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. SCOTT) and the gentleman from Florida (Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Georgia.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. SCOTT of Georgia. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on the resolution under consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Georgia?

There was no objection.

Mr. SCOTT of Georgia. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of this resolution, and I yield myself as much time as I may consume.

I would like to first thank my distinguished colleague, the ranking member of the Foreign Affairs Committee, ILEANA ROS-LEHTINEN, for introducing this very, very important legislation.

When it comes to arms sales to Taiwan, U.S. policy is clear. We must ensure that the thriving democracy of Taiwan has the military capability necessary to defend itself from outside threats.

The United States is obligated to provide defensive military equipment to Taiwan, not just because it is right to aid our democratic friends, but also because it is the law of the land under the Taiwan Relations Act.

This act, which has been at the core of our policy towards Taiwan for almost three decades, clearly states that the United States should base its decision whether to supply defensive military equipment to Taiwan solely on the security needs of the Taiwanese military.

The Taiwan Relations Act is also clear that it is the President and Congress that determine what military equipment shall be sold to Taiwan. Apparently, the White House does not understand the Taiwan Relations Act.

As we speak, the administration is refusing to move forward with $11 billion worth of arms to Taiwan, arms which the administration has already agreed to sell. The Taiwanese government wants the weapons, and the administration has recommended that the sales be approved. The only thing remaining is for the administration to notify Congress, and yet, no notification has come.

To address this peculiar situation, over the past months the Foreign Affairs Committee has repeatedly requested briefings from the administration. Most often, the answer is simply no response. When pressed, State Department and other administration officials throw up their hands and tell us to ask the White House because it is the White House that is making the decision to delay notification of the sales and not to talk to Congress.

H.R. 6646 requires the administration to brief the House Foreign Affairs Committee and the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on all discussions that the administration has had with the Taiwanese Government regarding the arms sales and on any potential transfer of defense equipment to Taiwan.

I would like to point out the extraordinary measure we are taking by introducing this legislation. Section 15(b) of the State Department Basic Authorities Act provides that the Department "shall keep the Committee on Foreign Affairs of the House of Representatives fully and currently informed with respect to all activities and responsibilities within the jurisdiction." With respect to these arms sales to Taiwan, this law has been ignored.

Because of the importance of the U.S.-Taiwan relationship and the importance of the Taiwan Relations Act, which has helped keep peace in East Asia for almost 30 years, it is time for Congress to take a more direct step in compelling the administration to explain its decision-making on arms sales to Taiwan.

The stakes are too high to let the White House continue its policies of secrecy and disregard for congressional oversight. It is an injustice to our Taiwanese friends. It is a danger to our national security, and it is against the law.

I strongly support this legislation and encourage my colleagues to do the same.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from California (Mr. ROYCE), the ranking member of the Subcommittee on Terrorism, Nonproliferation, and Trade.

Mr. ROYCE. Mr. Speaker, I want to just begin by thanking Congresswoman ILEANA ROS-LEHTINEN, our distinguished ranking member on Foreign Affairs, for bringing this bill up before us. And, of course, this bill requires the State Department to provide detailed briefings to Congress on defense sales to the Government of Taiwan.

Mr. Speaker, I think it's clear to us Taiwan and the U.S. have a long and valued partnership. Taiwan is one of the few, very vibrant democracies in the region, in Asia, and we continue to build on our already strong economic partnership that we have with that country. Taiwan is an important ally, and we have long considered its security a priority. We have commitments there with regard to that security.

That is why this administration's decision to sit on an arms package worth approximately $11 billion is of concern. Today, the People's Republic of China continues to expand its military capabilities, amassing hundreds of short-range missiles pointed across the strait. Now they're pointed at Taiwan.

Now some of us support arms sales to Taiwan. Others may not. But we can all agree, I think, that Congress should be involved in this process. The 1979 Taiwan Relations Act, legislation that governs U.S. arms sales to Taiwan, stipulates that both the President and Congress, this body, shall determine the nature and quantity of such defense articles.

Unfortunately, Mr. Speaker, Congress has been left out. This bill, however, helps right that wrong, and I commend its author, Ranking Member ILEANA ROS-LEHTINEN, for bringing this bill before us today, and I urge its passage.

Mr. SCOTT of Georgia. I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I rise in strong support of H.R. 6646, a bill to require the executive branch to provide quarterly briefings to Congress on possible defense transfers from the United States to Taiwan.

At the outset, I'd like to thank Chairman HOWARD BERMAN and the leadership on both sides for helping to expedite consideration of this legislation.

Mr. Speaker, this is a modest bill. It requires the executive branch again to regularly brief Congress on our policy toward Taiwan and, in particular, the defense needs of Taiwan and the security balance across the strait.

Why is this bill even necessary? Well, it's necessary because a long-rumored freeze on United States foreign military sales to Taiwan was confirmed on July 16 by Admiral Timothy Keating, the commander of U.S. forces in the Pacific.

According to press accounts of his remarks at the Heritage Foundation, Admiral Keating observed that there have been "no significant arms sales from the U.S. to Taiwan in relatively recent times," and that the absence of arms sales under the Foreign Military Sales process reflected "administration policy."

Admiral Keating went on to suggest that he had, in fact, discussed the issue of Taiwan arms sales with leaders in Beijing, noting that, "The Chinese have made clear to me their concerns over any arms sales to Taiwan."

I found Admiral Keating's remarks at the Heritage Foundation affirming that there was, in fact, a "freeze" on arms sales to Taiwan to be a cause for great concern. Even more disturbing was the Admiral's indication that the Chinese leadership had had some input into the decision of the United States about Taiwan's defensive needs and our commitment to Taiwan under our laws.

The Taiwan Relations Act gives Congress a clear role in the provision of defensive weapons to Taiwan. President Reagan's "Six Assurances" to Taiwan was a solemn commitment made over a quarter century ago making it clear that there should be no pre-consultation with Beijing on this matter. However, it seems that, while Congress has been left in the dark on this issue—which is of vital concern to our national security interests—the Chinese leadership has been kept fully abreast of our Nation's intentions.

Last year, the House passed a resolution that I put forward which declared, "It shall continue to be the policy of the United States, consistent with the Taiwan Relations Act, to make available to Taiwan such defense articles and services as may be necessary for Taiwan to maintain a sufficient self-defense capability." That remains my firm position.

The legitimate defense needs of our friends in Taiwan must be met no matter who attended the Beijing Olympics nor how helpful the State Department says that China has been in the talks with North Korea. That is the clear intention of the Taiwan Relations Act. That is the clear commitment that President Reagan gave to Taiwan. On this matter, Mr. Speaker, there can be no backsliding or compromise.

I hope and I trust that this bill can be passed swiftly prior to congressional adjournment and thereby alleviate some of the confusion over this so-called arms "freeze."

For almost 30 years, the judicious sale of defensive weapons has been an essential element in the United States support for a secure, stable and democratic Taiwan as well as for peace and stability across the Taiwan Strait. Now is not the time to backtrack from that historic and bipartisan policy.

Mr. Speaker, this Congress should do everything in its power to ensure that Taiwan will continue as a beacon of democracy shining its light directly across the strait in the very heart of Tiananmen Square.

I urge support of this bill.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. SCOTT of Georgia. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentlelady from Nevada, Ms. SHELLEY BERKLEY.

Ms. BERKLEY. I thank the gentleman for yielding, and I thank the gentlewoman from Florida (Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN) for her strong leadership on this issue.

I will not speak long, Mr. Speaker, because this issue could not be more simple to understand.

I rise today as a proud cosponsor of this bill and as co-chairman of the Congressional Taiwan Caucus.

Mr. Speaker, this administration talks about spreading democracy and expanding liberty. In the case of Taiwan, we don't need to topple a dictator in order to show our support for one of the world's most embattled democracies, we simply need to help them protect themselves. And yet we cannot get this administration to tell us if they in fact will deliver the arms that they have already promised to Taiwan. Will they allow Taiwan to acquire the weapons they need, or will this administration continue to curry favor with the Chinese and refuse to help our democratic ally in its time of need?

We have written letters, Members of this body have made statements, and now we're passing a law just to get simple answers from the President of the United States. We cannot and should not wait any longer. Taiwan and its democratic citizens ought not have to wait any longer. Let us deliver the arms that we have promised to the Taiwan people.

I urge support for this bill.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. SCOTT of Georgia. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. SCOTT) that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 6646, as amended.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds being in the affirmative) the rules were suspended and the bill, as amended, was passed.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

UNITED STATES COMMITMENT TO PRESERVATION OF RELIGIOUS AND CULTURAL SITES

Mr. CROWLEY. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and agree to the concurrent resolution (H. Con. Res. 255) expressing the sense of Congress regarding the United States commitment to preservation of religious and cultural sites and condemning instances where sites are desecrated, as amended.

The Clerk read the title of the concurrent resolution.

The text of the concurrent resolution is as follows:

H. CON. RES. 255

Whereas the Congress is committed to protecting and preserving the cultural heritage of all national, religious, and ethnic groups, including sacred sites of such groups, including cemeteries in the United States and abroad;

Whereas the Holocaust annihilated much of Europe's Jewish population and in many countries, none were left to care for the communal properties that represent a historic culture in the area and constitute an integral part of the Jewish religion;

Whereas the Holocaust and 45 years of atheistic, Communist governments created a critical need that led to the establishment of the United States Commission for the Preservation of America's Heritage Abroad;

Whereas the United States Commission for the Preservation of America's Heritage Abroad is tasked with identifying and reporting on cemeteries, monuments, and historic buildings in Eastern and Central Europe that are associated with the heritage of United States citizens and obtaining assurances from the governments of those regions that the properties will be protected and preserved;

Whereas the United States Commission for the Preservation of America's Heritage Abroad has in effect over 20 bilateral agreements between the United States and foreign governments assuring the protection and preservation of cultural property;

Whereas many properties continue to be endangered and many governments and communities continue to face fundamental and compelling challenges in the preservation of these properties;

Whereas Congress is outraged by the construction that occurred within the perceived boundaries of the historic Jewish cemetery located in the Snipiskes area of Vilnius, Lithuania;

Whereas cemeteries are sacred sites and are established to remain undisturbed in perpetuity, and the sanctity of a cemetery is determined by the bodies buried therein;

Whereas construction of a commercial building on the site disgraces the cemetery, it does not change its status;

Whereas experts within Lithuania and from around the world community believe that the cemetery located in the Snipiskes area of Vilnius, Lithuania, is a Jewish cemetery and is therefore sacred ground;

Whereas the Jewish cemetery located in the Snipiskes area of Vilnius, Lithuania, is known by scholars within Lithuania and from around the world as the first Jewish cemetery in Vilnius and dates back to the 15th century, and it is believed that before the government closed the cemetery in the early 1800s, more than 50,000 Jews were buried there;

Whereas the fact that the Government of Lithuania has allowed construction to take place within the perceived boundaries of the Jewish cemetery located in the Snipiskes area of Vilnius, Lithuania, and that desecration continues into the 21st century is an affront to the international Jewish community, the American people, and everyone who values religious freedom and ethnic diversity around the world;

Whereas the failure of the Government of Lithuania to protect the Jewish cemetery located in the Snipiskes area of Vilnius, Lithuania, violates the October 15, 2002, bilateral agreement between Lithuania and the United States on the protection and preservation of certain cultural properties, including cemeteries;

Whereas specifically, Article 1 of the bilateral agreement states: "[E]ach party will take appropriate steps to protect and preserve the cultural heritage of all national, religious, or ethnic groups that reside or resided in its territory, including victims of genocide during the Second World War. The term 'cultural heritage' for purposes of this agreement means '... cemeteries, and memorials to the dead...'; and

Whereas Congress welcomed the decision by the Government of Lithuania to conduct a geophysical survey of the Jewish cemetery located in the Snipiskes area of Vilnius, Lithuania, in the summer of 2008 to establish definitively the boundaries of the cemetery, as well as to designate the land as a cultural heritage site: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the House of Representatives (the Senate concurring), That Congress—

(1) expresses strong support for the work of the United States Commission for the Preservation of America's Heritage Abroad and for the European countries that continue to work to preserve sacred historical sites, despite ongoing challenges;

(2) expresses strong sentiments to the Government of Lithuania that the people of the United States believe the Jewish cemetery located in the Snipiskes area of Vilnius, Lithuania, must not be desecrated;

(3) calls on the Government of Lithuania to give serious consideration to the recommendations being prepared by the international experts group on the basis of the geophysical survey of the Jewish cemetery located in the Snipiskes area of Vilnius, Lithuania, and to take steps that guarantee the permanent preservation of the cemetery site, including the possibility of placing the land under government ownership; and

(4) declares that constructive bilateral relations between Lithuania and the United States are important to the governments, citizens, and shared agendas of both countries.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from New York (Mr. CROWLEY) and the gentlewoman from Florida (Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from New York.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. CROWLEY. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on the resolution under consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from New York?

There was no objection.

Mr. CROWLEY. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of the resolution and yield myself as much time as I may consume.

I want to thank our colleague, Mr. FERGUSON of New Jersey, for introducing this resolution that draws congressional attention to an ongoing dispute in Lithuania about construction on the grounds of a former Jewish cemetery in that country. I would also like to thank my good friend, Representative ROS-LEHTINEN, for her leadership on this issue, and recognize the efforts of Representative SHIMKUS in seeking to find a constructive solution to this problem.

One of many tragic consequences of the Holocaust was the decimation of Jewish populations that would otherwise have cared for communal property that represents an important part of Europe's history. The Jewish cemetery in the Snipiskes area of Vilnius, Lithuania, is just one example. Archival documents suggest it was established as Vilnius's first Jewish cemetery in the 15th century, served as the burial place for more than 50,000 Jews, and was closed by Czarist Russia in 1831.

As part of our ongoing dialogue with Lithuania regarding the 2002 U.S.-Lithuanian agreement on the preservation of the cultural property of the victims of the Nazi regime, Congress has been concerned about construction on perceived boundary lines of this cemetery.

Despite repeated requests by the U.S. Embassy in Vilnius and Jewish organizations to the Lithuanian Government to address this issue, there has been little movement in recent years.

Congress welcomed the decision by the Government of Lithuania to conduct a geological survey and archaeological investigation of the site this past summer to establish these cemetery boundaries. While the Government's designation of the area as a cultural heritage site is also a helpful step, the fact that the entire site remains in the hands of a private developer raises concerns about the prospects of future construction on the site.

Congress feels very strongly that the Lithuanian Government should take steps to guarantee the permanent preservation of the Snipiskes cemetery, including the possibility of placing the land under government ownership. The government should also consider the recommendations of the International Experts Commission regarding the preservation of these sacred grounds.

The United States greatly values its long friendship with Lithuania, which could be further enhanced by a prompt and sensitive resolution to this difficult situation.

I strongly support this resolution and encourage my colleagues to do the same.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I rise to express my support for House Concurrent Resolution 255, which deals with the preservation of the historic Jewish cemetery in Lithuania. I thank our colleague, Congressman FERGUSON, for introducing this important measure.

Mr. Speaker, the resolution before us speaks to the preservation of a historic Jewish cemetery located in Vilnius, Lithuania, a city that was once a major center of Jewish culture in all of Europe. That cemetery has been in existence since the 13th century and is considered by religious experts around the globe and those of the Jewish faith to be sacred ground.

In 2002, the Government of Lithuania entered into a bilateral agreement with the United States to ensure the protection and the preservation of certain historical, cultural and sacred properties, including cemeteries such as the one in Vilnius. Regrettably, despite that bilateral agreement, construction of a condominium building took place within the perceived boundaries of the Jewish cemetery in Lithuania.

The resolution before us expresses the view that the Jewish cemetery in Vilnius must not be desecrated. It urges the Lithuanian Government to protect the cemetery site from future construction and desecration.

I want to note at this point, Mr. Speaker, that Lithuania has indeed been our ally in NATO since 2004. Indeed, the United States and Lithuania have had a strong relationship. And I believe that bilateral cooperation on issues of importance such as this issue that is addressed by the measure before us today will strengthen that relationship.

This resolution simply calls on the Lithuanian Government to do more to protect and preserve this cemetery site. Such action by the Government of Lithuania would indeed reaffirm the values shared by our two nations, and in so doing, enhance the broader relationship between the United States and Lithuania.

I urge my colleagues to support this important resolution.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. CROWLEY. I continue to reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. FERGUSON), the author of this resolution and a member of the Committee on Energy and Commerce.

Mr. FERGUSON. Mr. Speaker, I first want to thank my friend and colleague, Mr. CROWLEY, for working with me on this resolution, and I appreciate his leadership on the floor today. I want to thank Chairman BERMAN of the committee and Ranking Member ROS-LEHTINEN for their strong support in helping us bring this resolution to the floor today.

This Congress is committed to protecting and preserving the cultural heritage of all national, religious, and ethnic groups, including sacred sites such as the cemeteries here in the United States and around the world.

There are over 20 bilateral agreements between the United States and foreign governments assuring the protection and preservation of cultural property. However, in recent months, the bilateral agreement between the United States and Lithuania has, unfortunately, been broken.

We're disappointed that there has been a lack of meaningful action by the Lithuanian Government in preserving the Jewish cemetery in the Snipiskes area of Vilnius, Lithuania. Instead of preserving this site, the government in Lithuania has allowed an apartment complex to be built over the assumed boundaries of this particular cemetery.

Now, cemeteries are sacred sites and are established to remain undisturbed in perpetuity, and the sanctity of a cemetery is determined by the bodies and the families of those bodies that are buried in them. This resolution expresses this body's deep commitment to preserving these sacred cultural sites. Those buried there and their families deserve nothing less than that.

As I close, I just want to again thank the chairman of the committee, my friend from New York (Mr. CROWLEY) and the ranking member of the committee, Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. I also want to thank my legislative director, Mandy Tharpe, who worked very hard on drafting this legislation, and all the members of the staff for helping us with this important resolution.

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to voice my support for House Concurrent Resolution 255, expressing the sense of Congress regarding the United States commitment to preservation of religious and cultural sites and condemning instances where sites are desecrated. The heart of this bill is protecting the memory and beliefs of those around the world. Protecting the beliefs of others allows me to rest easy that my beliefs and the beliefs of those in the 18th Congressional District of Texas are kept safe.

Protecting religious freedoms isn't just about allowing anyone to pray to whatever God they believe in, it is also about allowing them to have religious sites that are safe from molestation by people who disagree with what those places symbolize and embody. These sites are more than Churches, Synagogues, and Mosques; they are gardens, statues, and cemeteries.

Before 9/11 happened, the Taliban was still in the midst of wreaking havoc on all those who believed in things different from them. In March 2001, Supreme Taliban leader Mullah Mohammed Omar issued an edict against un-Islamic graven images. This edict made two mountain sized, 1,500 year old sandstone statues of Buddha against the law. Through hand placed dynamite and tank shells fired from below, these two majestic monuments of sixth century ingenuity were reduced to rubble. As if this wasn't bad enough, the culprits of this despicable deed went through local museums with sledge hammers finding anything that was related to other religions. After it was over, 2,500 artifacts from centuries passed were lost forever to what can only be described as petty, but effective, vandalism.

Mr. Speaker, destruction like this should not be allowed. This does not just hurt those who follow the teachings of Buddha; this hurts those who have their own beliefs shared by people around the world. Christian burial grounds, Jewish monuments to the Holocaust, and Islamic mosques need to be protected to assure that every man, woman, and child has the right to practice whatever religion they want.

Second only to personal safety, in regard to defending religious rights, is safeguarding the sites that are sacred to a religion. Buddhists around the world were gravely hurt by the destruction of their statues. Before the Taliban had come to power, these 15 story tall monuments had served as a beacon for Buddhists everywhere. They could come and view the proof that people just like them 15 centuries ago had the same basic beliefs that they did. This was proof that this faith could endure and in fact, had for generations.

This bill will express to the world, in a clear and unwavering voice, that the United States of America will not tolerate such brutal attacks on religion. Residents of my district know that if anyone in the world was attacking their most tightly held beliefs and religious ideals that the Federal Government would not sit idly by and watch as a repeat of the destruction on the mountainside of Bamiyan, Afghanistan, occurred.

Sites from Jerusalem's Wailing Wall to the supreme holy city of Mecca to the Vatican City should remain protected from those who don't believe what these places represent. In the end, the right to practice any religion you choose doesn't just protect those who practice; it protects those who don't practice. Religion, like speech, is such an engrained belief in our country, since the time of the founding of the country, that it must be protected at all costs.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. CROWLEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from New York (Mr. CROWLEY) that the House suspend the rules and agree to the concurrent resolution, H. Con. Res. 255, as amended.

The question was taken.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. In the opinion of the Chair, two-thirds being in the affirmative, the ayes have it.

Mr. FERGUSON. Mr. Speaker, on that I demand the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 8 of rule XX and the Chair's prior announcement, further proceedings on this motion will be postponed.

CONDEMNING SEXUAL VIOLENCE IN THE DEMOCRATIC REPUBLIC OF THE CONGO

Mr. CROWLEY. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and agree to the resolution (H. Res. 1227) condemning sexual violence in the Democratic Republic of the Congo and calling on the international community to take immediate actions to respond to the violence, as amended.

The Clerk read the title of the resolution.

The text of the resolution is as follows:

H. RES. 1227

Whereas the situation in eastern Democratic Republic of the Congo has been recognized as the worst crisis of violence against women in the world, according to the United Nations Special Rapporteur on Violence Against Women;

Whereas the Democratic Republic of the Congo has experienced the world's deadliest crisis since World War II, with an estimated 5.4 million deaths since 1998;

Whereas hundreds of thousands of women and girls have experienced an exceptionally violent type of rape in the Democratic Republic of the Congo, and the full extent of incidence of sexual violence is unknown as most survivors experience repeated rapes, live in inaccessible areas, are afraid to report the attacks, or did not survive them;

Whereas sexual violence is used as a method of warfare by all parties to the conflict in the Democratic Republic of the Congo as a means to terrorize and destabilize entire communities;

Whereas in 2007, Malteser International estimated that 70 percent of all rapes in South Kivu were committed by nonstate armed groups, including foreign militia from Burundi, Rwanda, and Uganda, 16 percent by Democratic Republic of the Congo military forces, and 14 percent by civilians;

Whereas control over the Democratic Republic of the Congo's natural resources is central to the ongoing conflict;

Whereas in 2002, the United Nations Panel of Experts on the Illegal Exploitation of Natural Resources and Other Forms of Wealth of the Democratic Republic of the Congo alleged nine United States business enterprises to be in violation of the OECD Guidelines for Multinational Enterprises;

Whereas, on July 30, 2007, the United Nations Special Rapporteur on Violence Against Women reported, "Women are brutally gang raped, often in front of their families and communities. In numerous cases, male relatives are forced at gun point to rape their own daughters, mothers or sisters. Frequently women are shot or stabbed in their genital organs, after they are raped. Women, who survived months of enslavement, [said] that their tormentors had forced them to eat excrements or the human flesh of murdered relatives";

Whereas rape with the use of knives, gun barrels, beer bottles, cassava roots, or sticks can result in a tear or fistula between a woman's vagina and bladder or rectum, or both, causing the development of traumatic gynecologic fistula;

Whereas some women and young girls reportedly have had their lips or tongues cut off by their attackers so that they won't report the crime to authorities;

Whereas the Panzi Hospital, a specialized institution in South Kivu, receives about 3,500 cases annually of women who suffer from traumatic fistula and other severe genital injuries resulting from these sexual atrocities;

Whereas at Heal Africa Hospital in Goma, doctors reported treating 4,800 rape victims and, in 2005, doctors performed 242 fistula-repair operations;

Whereas current activities to treat survivors meet only a portion of the need;

Whereas the scope of the sexual violence affects women and girls of all ages, from 10 months to 80 years old;

Whereas a culture of impunity continues in eastern Congo and rape has become a societal norm;

Whereas in July 2006, the Congolese Parliament passed the Law on the Suppression of Sexual Violence, which attempted to strengthen penalties and criminal procedures, but in reality, little action has been taken by the authorities to implement the law and perpetrators continue to enjoy impunity; and

Whereas the United States Government has codified its commitment to the Democratic Republic of the Congo through the Democratic Republic of the Congo Relief, Security, and Democracy Promotion Act of 2006 (Public Law 109-456): Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives—

(1) strongly condemns the use of all forms of sexual violence, including rape, in the Democratic Republic of the Congo;

(2) condemns the actions of all armed groups in the Democratic Republic of the Congo, including militias and rebel groups, such as the Forces Démocratiques de Libération du Rwanda (FDLR), Mai-Mai Militia, and the Front for Patriotic Resistance of Ituri, that have created a culture of impunity for rape and sexual violence;

(3) calls on the Government of the Democratic Republic of the Congo to develop a strategy to address and end the large-scale sexual violence in the Democratic Republic of the Congo by—

(A) protecting its civilians from violence and enforcing and respecting the rule of law in accordance with international norms and standards;

(B) holding all armed groups accountable for their actions by implementing judicial reforms to investigate, arrest, and try suspected criminals;

(C) prosecuting and punishing members of the Congolese Armed Forces who have committed crimes of sexual violence and other atrocities; and

(D) establishing a verification mechanism to ensure that officers who have engaged in or have been complicit in the commission of sexual violence, including rape, do not receive important posts in the Congolese Armed Forces, the national police, and other security services;

(4) urges an increased effort by the United States through the Department of State and other donor countries to provide greater assistance to the Democratic Republic of the Congo for police and military human rights education and training, and training for those in the judiciary in order to improve their ability to investigate, prosecute, and sentence rapists;

(5) strongly urges the United States Agency for International Development to increase its assistance to victims of rape and sexual violence in the Democratic Republic of the Congo;

(6) urges the Secretary of State to appoint a special envoy to the Democratic Republic of the Congo to sustain United States engagement in a peace process and stabilization programs, and to continue its leadership towards the implementation of the Nairobi communiqué;

(7) encourages the Secretary of State to continue to work with the heads of the other agencies implementing programs in the Democratic Republic of the Congo to develop a plan for systematically assessing the United States Government's overall progress in achieving the policy objectives of the Democratic Republic of the Congo Relief, Security, and Democracy Promotion Act of 2006;

(8) encourages the international community to ensure greater coordination in its response to sexual violence and to provide further humanitarian and psychosocial assistance to survivors of sexual and gender-based violence in the eastern Democratic Republic of the Congo;

(9) reaffirms its support for democracy, the rule of law, and human rights in the Democratic Republic of the Congo and calls upon regional African leaders to support the preservation of a democratic political system in the country;

(10) encourages full protection of women and girls and the promotion of their rights by emphasizing the responsibilities of all countries to put an end to impunity and to prosecute those responsible for genocide crimes, including those related to sexual and other forms of violence against women and girls;

(11) calls on the Secretary General of the United Nations and the permanent members of the Security Council to immediately take steps to—

(A) ensure that the United Nations Mission in the Democratic Republic of the Congo (MONUC) is fully funded and strategically deployed in areas where sexual violence is most prevalent;

(B) include an adequate number of female troops and police in MONUC to properly manage incidents of rape and sexual violence;

(C) provide more in-depth and continuing gender-sensitive training to its peacekeepers; and

(D) hold all military and civilian personnel associated with MONUC who have committed acts of rape or sexual exploitation accountable for their crimes and ensure that they are permanently barred from serving in any future peacekeeping operation;

(12) encourages a transparent process for the government of the Democratic Republic of the Congo's review of mining contracts; and

(13) strongly encourages United States companies investing and operating in the Democratic Republic of the Congo to exert oversight concerning where their products are coming from and who is benefitting from the trade of such products.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from New York (Mr. CROWLEY) and the gentlewoman from Florida (Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from New York.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. CROWLEY. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on the resolution under consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from New York?

There was no objection.

Mr. CROWLEY. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of the resolution and yield myself as much time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I want to thank my good friend and colleague, Congresswoman CAROLYN MALONEY, as well as Congressman BRAD MILLER, for urging the condemnation of the most vicious crime imaginable, the systematic rape and mutilation committed against women, girls and boys taking place in the Democratic Republic of Congo, known as the DRC.

The conflict in the DRC has been called the deadliest since World War II. Within the last 10 years, more than 5 million people have died, and the numbers keep rising. In fact, more people have died because of war in the DRC than in Iraq, Afghanistan and Darfur combined. As in other wars, women in the DRC are overwhelmingly the target of military aggression. Rape and mutilation are the perpetrators' preferred weapon of choice. Unlike other wars, the scale and systematic nature of rape in the DRC is unparalleled. In some villages, as many as 90 percent of the women and girls have been raped.

This important resolution encourages the Secretary of State to work with the DRC Government to develop a strategy to address and end the large-scale sexual violence in the DRC. Our State Department and our American embassy in the DRC should have this extremely important mission.

Mr. Speaker, I urge all of my colleagues in the House to support this resolution.

With that, I will reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of House Resolution 1227, which condemns pervasive sexual violence in the Democratic Republic of the Congo and calls upon responsible nations to take immediate steps to respond.

While many have focused well-deserved attention on the humanitarian and human rights crisis in Darfur, Sudan, scant attention has been given to a deadly, festering conflict in the Democratic Republic of the Congo. The war in Congo has been called Africa's first "world war," having drawn in seven neighboring countries and spawning some of the worst human rights atrocities known to man. An estimated 4 million people were killed by war, disease and starvation. Armed groups engaged in systematic rape, looting and acts of cannibalism often forcing their victims to victimize others. Children were forcibly recruited to serve as soldiers, and civilians were used as human shields.

Though a 2002 peace agreement and elections in June 2006 paved the way for a new beginning in Congo, these atrocities have continued in the eastern part of the country where a proxy war for control over Congo's vast natural resources continues to rage.

The level of sexual violence in eastern Congo is particularly alarming. It has become so pervasive, Mr. Speaker, and so severe, that the Panzi Hospital in South Kivu has had to perform an estimated 3,500 surgeries annually to repair a particularly stigmatizing injury suffered by those who have been brutally raped. And that is just one hospital. Countless others suffer the physical injury and the social consequences of rape in silence living as outcasts in their own communities.

All parties to the conflict in eastern Congo have taken part in such human rights atrocities, including the armed forces of the Congo and an increasingly vast array of armed militias. Even the United Nations peacekeepers, who have been deployed to help protect civilians in Congo, have engaged in acts of sexual exploitation and abuse themselves.

This is an unspeakable and unforgivable crime that cannot be swept under the carpet.

I want to thank my colleague, Mrs. MALONEY of New York, for seeking to draw attention to the scourge of sexual violence in the eastern Congo and for seeking to inspire responsible nations to provide critically needed assistance to those in need.

I would like to thank the sponsor, Mrs. MALONEY, as well as our chairman, HOWARD BERMAN, for agreeing to modifications which would allay fears raised regarding the Convention on the Elimination of Discrimination Against Women and what was referred to as "women's reproductive health."

With these critical changes accepted, I urge support to House Resolution 1227, Mr. Speaker.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. CROWLEY. Mr. Speaker, I would now yield 2 minutes to the gentlelady from New York, Mrs. CAROLYN MALONEY, the sponsor of the resolution.

Mrs. MALONEY of New York. I thank my colleague from New York for his tremendous leadership and my friend from the other side of the aisle for her support for this critical bill and so many others that are important to our country. I would like to thank Chairman BERMAN and Representative BRAD MILLER for their leadership along with 39 of our colleagues who have cosponsored this important Resolution 1227. I thank my colleagues for highlighting the sexual violence crisis that is plaguing the women and girls of the Democratic Republic of the Congo or the DRC.

The eastern Democratic Republic of the Congo is one of the world's richest countries in natural resources, but it has been recognized as the worst place on Earth to be a girl or a woman. Women and girls from the age of 8 to 80 are being violently raped systematically on a scale unimaginable in the hundreds of thousands. As a strategy of war, they are often raped with guns and knives which destroy their sexual organs and forces them into a life of suffering from fistula and other deformities.

As my friend from the great State of Florida mentioned, there are hospitals that are dedicated only to trying to restore their destroyed bodies from not only rape but the use of a knife or a gun. Countless women are being sold in sexual slavery for months on end. According to UNICEF, the DRC is currently witnessing the world's deadliest humanitarian crisis since World War II.

In this war, the battlefield is literally the bodies of women and girls. Congress must continue its commitment to the people of the DRC as it has demonstrated in the past.

I thank my colleagues for their support. The women in DRC and the girls deserve justice.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. CROWLEY. We have no further speakers on our side, and I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from New York (Mr. CROWLEY) that the House suspend the rules and agree to the resolution, H. Res. 1227, as amended.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds being in the affirmative) the rules were suspended and the resolution, as amended, was agreed to.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

REMEMBERING THE 75TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE UKRAINIAN FAMINE-GENOCIDE OF 1932-1933

Mr. SCOTT of GEORGIA. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and agree to the resolution (H. Res. 1314) remembering the 75th anniversary of the Ukrainian Famine-Genocide of 1932-1933 and extending the deepest sympathies of the House of Representatives to the victims, survivors, and families of this tragedy, and for other purposes, as amended.

The Clerk read the title of the resolution.

The text of the resolution is as follows:

H. RES. 1314

Whereas in 1932 and 1933, an estimated seven to 10 million Ukrainian people perished at the will of the totalitarian Stalinist government of the former Soviet Union, which perpetrated a premeditated famine in Ukraine in an effort to break the nation's resistance to collectivization and communist occupation;

Whereas the Soviet Government deliberately confiscated grain harvests and starved millions of Ukrainian men, women, and children by a policy of forced collectivization that sought to destroy the nationally conscious movement for independence;

Whereas Soviet dictator Joseph Stalin ordered the borders of Ukraine sealed to prevent anyone from escaping the man-made starvation and preventing any international food aid that would provide relief to the starving;

Whereas numerous scholars worldwide have worked to uncover the scale of the famine, including Canadian wheat expert Andrew Cairns who visited Ukraine in 1932 and was told that there was no grain "because the government had collected so much grain and exported it to England and Italy," while simultaneously denying food aid to the people of Ukraine;

Whereas nearly a quarter of the rural population of Ukraine was eliminated due to forced starvation, while the entire nation suffered from the consequences of the prolonged lack of food;

Whereas the Soviet Government manipulated and censored foreign journalists, including New York Times correspondent Walter Duranty, who knowingly denied not only the scope and magnitude, but also the existence, of a deadly man-made famine in his reports from Ukraine;

Whereas noted correspondents of the time were castigated by the Soviet Union for their accuracy and courage in depicting and reporting the famine in Ukraine, including Gareth Jones, William Henry Chamberlin, and Malcolm Muggeridge, who wrote, "[The farmers] will tell you that many have already died of famine and that many are dying every day; that thousands have been shot by the government and hundreds of thousands exiled";

Whereas in May 1934, former Congressman Hamilton Fish introduced a resolution in the House of Representatives (House Resolution 399 of the 73d Congress) which called for the condemnation of the Soviet Government for its acts of destruction against the Ukrainian people;

Whereas the United States Commission on the Ukraine Famine, formed on December 13, 1985, conducted a study with the goal of expanding the world's knowledge and understanding of the Ukrainian Famine of 1932-1933, and concluded that the victims were "starved to death in a man-made famine" and that "Joseph Stalin and those around him committed genocide against Ukrainians in 1932-1933";

Whereas on May 15, 2003, in a special session, the Ukrainian Parliament acknowledged that the Ukrainian Famine (Holodomor) was engineered by Joseph Stalin and the Soviet Government deliberately against the Ukrainian nation and called upon international recognition of the Holodomor;

Whereas with the dissolution of the Soviet Union, archival documents became available that confirmed the deliberate and premeditated deadly nature of the famine, and that exposed the atrocities committed by the Soviet Government against the Ukrainian people; and

Whereas on October 13, 2006, the President of the United States signed into law Public Law 109-340 that authorized the Government of Ukraine "to establish a memorial on Federal land in the District of Columbia to honor the victims of the Ukrainian famine-genocide of 1932-1933," in recognition of the upcoming 75th anniversary of the tragedy in 2008: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives—

(1) solemnly remembers the 75th anniversary of the Ukrainian Famine (Holodomor) of 1932-1933 and extends its deepest sympathies to the victims, survivors, and families of this tragedy;

(2) condemns the systematic violations of human rights, including the freedom of self-determination and freedom of speech, of the Ukrainian people by the Soviet Government;

(3) encourages dissemination of information regarding the Ukrainian Famine (Holodomor) in order to expand the world's knowledge of this man-made tragedy; and

(4) supports the continuing efforts of Ukraine to work toward ensuring democratic principles, a free-market economy, and full respect for human rights, in order to enable Ukraine to achieve its potential as an important strategic partner of the United States in that region of the world.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. SCOTT) and the gentleman from Florida (Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Georgia.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. SCOTT of Georgia. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on the resolution under consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Georgia?

There was no objection.

Mr. SCOTT of Georgia. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of this resolution, and I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I am pleased to support this resolution that allows the House of Representatives to pause in remembrance of the 75th anniversary of the Ukrainian famine of 1932 and 1933 and extend its sympathies to the victims, survivors and relatives of this tragedy. I commend my distinguished colleague, Representative LEVIN of Michigan, and the cochair of the Ukrainian Caucus in the House for introducing this important resolution.

At the beginning of the 20th century, Mr. Speaker, Ukraine was so renowned for its rich soil and high grain production that it was known as the "bread basket of Europe." Such bounty serves only to amplify the magnitude of the country's loss: The deaths of nearly one-quarter of its entire rural population as a result of the Soviet policy of forced collectivism in 1932 and 1933.

This premeditated famine was intended to break the nation's resistance to Communist occupation and destroy its movement for independence. While

7 to 10 million Ukrainians were starving to death, millions of tons of grain were kept in reservoirs, sold or sent to other parts of the Soviet Union. Further compounding this tragedy, Soviet dictator Joseph Stalin ordered that the borders of Ukraine be sealed and that anyone trying to relocate family or children be severely punished or killed.

Mr. Speaker, the United States of America has never forgotten this tragedy that occurred in Ukraine 75 years ago. As early as May 1934, former Congressman Hamilton Fish introduced a resolution in this House that called for condemnation of the Soviet Government for its acts of destruction against the Ukrainian people.

The United States Commission on the Ukrainian Famine, which was established in December of 1985, worked to uncover the scale and the reasons for and the consequences of this terrible manmade famine. And in October 2006, President Bush signed a law authorizing the Government of Ukraine to construct a memorial in the District of Columbia to honor the victims of the famine.

Today, 17 years after the collapse of the Soviet Union, Ukraine is a strong ally of the United States. We fully support the efforts of this young democracy to strengthen its political institutions, its rule of law and civil society. It's so appropriate that we pause today to remember the victims of the famine and reaffirm our continued friendship and solidarity with the Ukrainian people.

I strongly support this resolution, and I urge my colleagues to join me.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I also rise in support of House Resolution 1314, commemorating the 75th anniversary of the Ukrainian famine, Holodomor, of 1932 and 1933.

The former Communist state known as the Soviet Union was controlled by a brutal regime that oppressed its own people as well as that of its neighbors. The scars left by the inhumane practices and policies of the Soviet leadership are still felt, despite the passage of 75 years since the famine in Ukraine and the passage of almost two decades since the Soviet regime's demise.

During 1932 and 1933, Joseph Stalin's Communist regime intentionally confiscated grain harvest from the Ukrainian people and prevented any foreign food from being shipped in to help those who were starving to death.

The famine inflicted on Ukraine by the Stalinist regime during those years killed millions of Ukrainians. It is one of the most stark examples of the former Soviet regime's cruel and horrific policies.

Among other items, this resolution notes the 75th anniversary of the Ukrainian famine and expresses sympathy to the victims, survivors and families of that man-made calamity; condemns the violation of human rights, the freedom of speech and of the self-determination of the Ukrainian people by the former Soviet regime; encourages expanding the world's knowledge about this man-made disaster; and, lastly, supports continued efforts in Ukraine to strengthen the principles of democracy and of a free-market economy.

Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues to support this important measure.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. SCOTT of Georgia. Mr. Speaker, it is now my distinct pleasure to yield 3 minutes to the distinguished Congressman from Michigan, Congressman SANDER LEVIN, who is the sponsor of this resolution and is the very distinguished cochair of the Ukraine Caucus in the House of Representatives.

(Mr. LEVIN asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. LEVIN. Thank you very much, Mr. SCOTT, and I thank the chairman and the ranking member of the Foreign Affairs Committee for bringing this to the floor.

I rise in support of this resolution, marking the 75th anniversary of the man-made famine that killed millions of Ukrainians in 1932 and 1933.

Recognizing this tragedy and remembering its victims are important for all of humanity, including 1.5 Ukrainian-Americans. It has special meaning to the people of Ukraine, who continue to struggle toward a more free, democratic, open society, and indeed to all of us who value freedom.

During the famine-genocide of 1932–33, 7 to 10 million Ukrainians were deliberately and systematically starved to death. We are familiar in this House with the terrible suffering caused by famines that are the result of natural forces, but the famine of 1932–33 is all the more tragic because it resulted from criminal acts and deliberate decisions by Soviet officials. Despite efforts by the Soviet Government at the time and afterward to hide the planned and systematic nature of this famine-genocide, it is clear that the Soviet Union used food as a weapon.

We in this country must persist in standing with those living under oppressive and tyrannical regimes as they struggle for their freedom. During the 109th Congress, we enacted a bill authorizing the Government of Ukraine to establish a memorial in Washington, D.C. honoring the victims of the Ukrainian famine-genocide. The Ukrainian Government and the Ukrainian-American community are working with the appropriate Federal agencies to identify a site for this memorial.

I urge all of my colleagues to support this resolution.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Madam Speaker, I am pleased to yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. SMITH), the ranking member of the Subcommittee on Africa and Global Health and a true champion of human rights around the world.

Mr. SMITH of New Jersey. I thank the gentlewoman for yielding and for her leadership, and thank Chairman LEVIN for sponsoring this very important resolution.

I rise in strong support of H. Res. 1314, commemorating and honoring the memory of victims of the abominable act perpetrated against the people of Ukraine from 1932 to 1933.

Seventy-five years ago, millions, and the estimates are as high as 10 million, men, women and children were murdered by starvation so that one man, Soviet dictator Joseph Stalin, could consolidate control over the Ukraine. In an attempt to secure collectivization and to break the spirit of the independent-minded Ukrainian peasants, Stalin ordered the expropriation of all the foods in the rural population. It was shipped to other areas of the Soviet Union or sold abroad. Peasants who refused to turn over grain to the state were deported or executed. Without food or grain, mass starvation ensued, as was Stalin's intention.

Madam Speaker, food was used as a weapon in a crime against humanity staggering in its scope. This famine was man-made, the planned consequence of a deliberate policy which aimed to wipe out a substantial part of the Ukrainian people in order to crush the spirit of those who remain. In short, genocide was committed against the Ukrainian people.

Madam Speaker, over the years I have read many works of Stalin's genocide against the people of Ukraine, but I recall a moment back in the 1980s when I saw the unforgettable documentary, Harvest of Sorrow. It documented and depicted the horrors of the famine, so that no one since has denied this mind-boggling crime and tragedy. In its bare, stark truth, it was one of the most moving films I have ever seen.

I also recall the fine work of the congressionally mandated Ukraine Famine Commission, which issued its well-documented report in 1988. I am happy that Mr. LEVIN's resolution notes that there were those in the West, including the New York Times correspondent Walt Duranty, who deliberately falsified their reporting so to cover up the famine because they wanted to ensure that the Soviet Union got "a good press."

The fact is that for over 40 years the planned famine was hardly spoken or written about in our country, due to an academic skepticism and silence enforced by political correctness. When Ukrainians and others tried to break through the wall of silence, they were treated with derision. This silence, which lasted from the 1930s through the publication of Harvest of Sorrow, made a sorry chapter in the history of American intellectual life.

Madam Speaker, this resolution will continue to recognize one of the most horrific events in the last century in the hopes that mass murders of this kind never happen again. I support this resolution unreservedly. I hope that the full membership of this body supports it unanimously.

Mr. SCOTT of Georgia. Madam Speaker, I have no further speakers, and I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Madam Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of our time.

Mr. SCOTT of Georgia. Madam Speaker, I yield back.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Ms. SOLIS). The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. SCOTT) that the House suspend the rules and agree to the resolution, H. Res. 1314, as amended.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds being in the affirmative) the rules were suspended and the resolution, as amended, was agreed to.

The title of the resolution was amended so as to read: "Remembering the 75th anniversary of the Ukrainian Famine (Holodomor) of 1932–1933 and extending the deepest sympathies of the House of Representatives to the victims, survivors, and families of this tragedy, and for other purposes."

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

SUPPORTING DEMOCRACY IN BANGLADESH

Mr. CROWLEY. Madam Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and agree to the resolution (H. Res. 1402) supporting a transition to democracy through free, fair, credible, peaceful, and transparent elections in Bangladesh.

The Clerk read the title of the resolution.

The text of the resolution is as follows:

H. RES. 1402

Whereas the independent, sovereign republic of Bangladesh was first proclaimed on March 26, 1971, and the Constitution of Bangladesh, ratified in 1972 following a war of independence, established a democracy ruled by and for the people;

Whereas Bangladesh has a population of 154,000,000 people and is the world's third most populated Muslim country, and has been known to be a stable, moderate, democratic Muslim Nation;

Whereas Bangladesh has held what the international community has viewed as three free and fair elections in 1991, 1996, and 2001;

Whereas in October 2006, as set up by the constitution, power was handed over to a caretaker government before the January 22, 2007, scheduled election;

Whereas the caretaker Government of Bangladesh imposed a national state of emergency on January 11, 2007, that suspended fundamental rights guaranteed by the constitution and detained a large number of politicians and others on suspicion of involvement in corruption and other crimes;

Whereas the state of emergency has restricted media reporting and it has been reported that journalists have been harassed, detained, or threatened by the authorities;

Whereas the anti-corruption campaign is creating institutions to fight rampant corruption throughout the government, including in the police and ports, but also has resulted in the reporting of human rights abuses;

Whereas the caretaker Government of Bangladesh reportedly arrested 18,000 persons with questionable records since May 28, 2008, and subsequently released most of them;

Whereas the Chief Adviser, Fakhruddin Ahmed, announced that elections will be held by the third week of December 2008;

Whereas the current political situation has been exacerbated by food prices that have doubled within the past year, compounding economic challenges for the people;

Whereas Bangladesh has established an estimated 6 percent real growth rate in the last 4 years, and a 6.5 percent growth rate in 2007;

Whereas the Grameen Bank, through microfinancing in Bangladesh, has been able to provide lending to 7,300,000 stakeholders and has empowered women to control 97 percent of the Bank, alongside other agencies in rural Bangladesh creating a new climate of economic growth and increasing social capital;

Whereas the economic support extended by the United States has helped to create an opportunity for employment and growth in Bangladesh, with particular impact on the empowerment of women and strengthening the process of social moderation and modernization in Bangladesh; and

Whereas Bangladesh's long-term political stability and economic progress are critical to the security of the South Asian region: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives—

(1) expresses its strong support to the restoration of democracy in Bangladesh so it will be able to address economic and political challenges, and urges all stakeholders to play a constructive and forward looking role to strengthen such a process;

(2) appreciates the decision of the caretaker Government of Bangladesh to hold free, fair, credible, peaceful, and transparent elections by the third week of December 2008;

(3) welcomes the decision of the Government of Bangladesh to hold dialogue with all political parties and other civil society organizations to create a congenial atmosphere for holding elections and to ensure participation of all political parties in that process;

(4) urges all political parties to participate in the elections so that democratic governance can be maintained, which could continue fight against corruption and institutional and policy reforms;

(5) calls on the Government of Bangladesh to lift the state of emergency and remove other restrictions on political activity to allow free and fair elections to occur;

(6) urges the caretaker Government of Bangladesh to complete a transparent voter registration process that will facilitate the enrollment of the maximum number of eligible voters to protect the voting rights of all eligible voters regardless of religious affiliations or ethnic background, to use all practical technical means of ensuring the security of the ballot, to prevent violence before and after elections, and to permit and facilitate international and domestic nongovernmental monitoring of the entire electoral process;

(7) urges the caretaker Government of Bangladesh to invite foreign nationals to observe and monitor the December 2008 elections;

(8) urges the Government of Bangladesh to ensure the due process and equal treatment under the rule of law for all suspects, witnesses, and detainees;

(9) notes the initiatives of the caretaker Government of Bangladesh to eradicate corruption from all levels of government and society through institutional and policy reforms;

(10) expresses concern at the reported abuse of human rights and urges the Government of Bangladesh to ensure human rights, freedom of speech, assembly, and association;

(11) urges the caretaker Government of Bangladesh to protect the rights of religious and ethnic minorities, particularly Hindus, Christians, Buddhists, Ahmadis, and non-Muslim tribal peoples;

(13) urges the President to use the voice and vote of the United States in multilateral organizations to strengthen the rule of law and democracy in Bangladesh; and

(14) urges the President to consider, upon completion of an internationally-accepted free and fair election, extending generous economic support to Bangladesh as an incentive.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from New York (Mr. CROWLEY) and the gentlewoman from Florida (Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from New York.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. CROWLEY. Madam Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on the resolution under consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from New York?

There was no objection.

Mr. CROWLEY. Madam Speaker, I rise in strong support of this resolution, and yield myself such time as I may consume.

Bangladesh is going through an important time in its history as she attempts to move back to a representative government. Since October 2006, Bangladesh has been under the control of two different caretaker governments. After the January 2007 elections were postponed, a second caretaker government, backed by the military, came into power, and since then has been attempting to deal with what has become rampant corruption, violence and political instability.

Once in power, the caretaker government instituted a state of emergency that suspended fundamental rights guaranteed by the Bangladeshi constitution. They subsequently detained a large number of politicians and others on suspicion of involvement in corruption and other crimes.

While I continue to remain concerned about the arrests of so many under the emergency powers rule, I must commend the caretaker government for establishing institutions to fight corruption and bring about national reconciliation between the political parties. But these gains have been marred by serious reports of human rights violations of those held in custody. Bangladesh must respect all the rights of her people and prosecute cases before her to the letter of the law.

The next step is getting people back the power in Bangladesh. Nearly 2 years after the postponement of elections and the state of emergency was declared, the caretaker government is following through with a roadmap towards elections that they have presented.

Just this past weekend, the chief adviser of the caretaker government announced that parliamentary elections will be held on December 18, 2008. This is an important step, but an election held under a state of emergency is a questionable approach to establishing democratic governance in Bangladesh.

The bill before us calls on the caretaker government to relax or suspend the state of emergency to ensure that public gatherings during the campaign are allowed to take place. This election is about bringing true democracy back to Bangladesh, and it must be held with all the freedoms their constitution grants her people.

Bangladesh has been a strong friend and ally of the United States and is a moderate Muslim nation, and we should do what we can to foster continued growth of democracy, not only in the nation of Bangladesh, but throughout that region. We must work to ensure that the elections held in Bangladesh are free, fair, credible, peaceful and transparent.

I introduced this legislation in July to set out what we, the United States Congress, expect of Bangladesh and we the people of the United States expect of Bangladesh. I urge all my colleagues to support this legislation. It has the backing of the Bangladesh Caucus, which I chair here in the House of Representatives.

I believe that with fair, free, transparent and open elections, Bangladesh will move towards a more Democratic society.

Madam Speaker, I retain the balance of my time.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Madam Speaker, I also rise in strong support of House Resolution 1402, a measure that underscores congressional support for democracy, development and respect for fundamental human rights in Bangladesh. I would like to congratulate my good friend from New York, Congressman CROWLEY, for his leadership on this resolution, and for his long-standing interest in Bangladesh and indeed all of South Asia.

Madam Speaker, the United States and Bangladesh have been strong allies since the founding of that country in 1971. Despite many handicaps, including a unique vulnerability to natural disasters, Bangladesh has made impressive strides in key areas of development during the 1990s. However, political polarization, endemic corruption and the rise of violent extremists all pose serious challenges to Bangladesh society.

In January of 2007, faced with an opposition boycott of national elections and widespread political violence, Bangladesh's president declared a state of emergency. In accordance with the constitution of Bangladesh, the president appointed a caretaker government, which has in turn embarked on an ambitious agenda of reform and renewal for the people of Bangladesh and its institutions.

Since that time, the United States has consistently urged Bangladesh's caretaker government to lift the restrictions on basic rights, meet international standards for due process in pursuing corruption cases and follow through on its commitment to hold free, fair and transparent elections by December 2008.

In recent weeks, there have been positive indications that the electoral roadmap remains on track. The government's progress on updating their voter list and on fighting corruption are encouraging signs, as is its effort to move forward on dialogue with political parties.

Despite these positive developments, however, it remains the strong view of the Congress and the executive branch that the caretaker government must immediately lift the state of emergency or otherwise remove restrictions on freedoms of assembly and freedom of the press.

The political parties of Bangladesh must be able to participate fully in a democratic process. This resolution reaffirms the importance of a U.S. national interest in helping to work with the people of Bangladesh in building a peaceful, prosperous, democracy that will continue to be a strong partner for the United States.

I urge its adoption, and I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. CROWLEY. Madam Speaker, I just wanted to add a couple of more points for the record.

In order to ensure the transparency of these elections, I believe it's imperative that the Government of Bangladesh, the present caretaker government, invite foreign governments and nongovernment organizations to observe and monitor the elections of December 18, 2008.

The restoration of democracy, though, in Bangladesh, is not the only challenge that Bangladesh is facing. Just last year, Cyclone Sidr caused massive devastation in Bangladesh and destroyed the annual rice harvest in parts of the country. The global rise in fuel prices has also had a major effect on the livelihoods of all the people of Bangladesh over the last year.

The Congress, therefore, strongly supports the continuation of a robust economic support and humanitarian program for the people of Bangladesh, particularly in helping the nation get back on its feet after the cyclone. But free, fair, and transparent and open elections, together with the continuation of American assistance to Bangladesh, will serve to further strengthen the relationship between our two countries. With the restoration of democracy, the political, economic and strategic ties between the United States and Bangladesh will become even stronger.

I urge my colleagues to support this resolution, and I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Madam Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

Ms. WOOLSEY. Madam Speaker, thanks to Representative CROWLEY for his excellent work on this resolution.

I rise today in support of this important resolution and in support of free and fair elections.

Bangladesh, the world's third most populated Muslim country, must return to the fold of democracy and uphold the most basic human rights—the right to vote.

Over the past 2 years, the people of Bangladesh have lived under a state of emergency. As the resolution outlines, the rights of the press have been curtailed and corruption is running rampant.

We all know that a nation can only succeed when it heeds the will of the people. Security—both economic and political—cannot be established while citizens are being ignored and repressed.

Bangladesh must hold free, fair, credible, peaceful, and transparent elections. I urge support of House Resolution 1402.

Mr. CROWLEY. Madam Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from New York (Mr. CROWLEY) that the House suspend the rules and agree to the resolution, H. Res. 1402.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds being in the affirmative) the rules were suspended and the resolution was agreed to.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

RECOGNIZING THE 70TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE 1938 OCCURRENCE OF KRISTALLNACHT, THE NIGHT OF BROKEN GLASS

Mr. SCOTT of Georgia. Madam Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and agree to the resolution (H. Res. 1435) recognizing the 70th anniversary of the 1938 occurrence of Kristallnacht, The Night of Broken Glass.

The Clerk read the title of the resolution.

The text of the resolution is as follows:

H. RES. 1435

Whereas November 9, 2008, through November 10, 2008, marks the 70th anniversary of Kristallnacht, The Night of Broken Glass;

Whereas during Kristallnacht, hundreds of synagogues in Germany and Austria were burned and destroyed, businesses and homes were ransacked, scores of innocent people were killed because they were Jews, and thousands of others were arrested and sent to concentration camps;

Whereas Kristallnacht was sanctioned by the Nazi state to foment anti-Semitism and terrorize Jewish citizens;

Whereas the shattered panes of glass that littered sidewalks, most of it coming from the shop windows of Jewish stores, gave the pogrom its name, Kristallnacht or "Night of Broken Glass";

Whereas Kristallnacht marked the Nazis' first centrally organized operation of large-scale, anti-Jewish violence;

Whereas the lack of any serious diplomatic consequences from civilized nations led the Governments of Germany and Austria to believe that further atrocities would go unpunished;

Whereas Kristallnacht served as a prelude to the Second World War, to the death of millions of innocent people, and to the mass murders and carnage on a scale never before seen in human history;

Whereas the reign of the Nazi government marks one of the darkest periods in civilized history; and

Whereas Kristallnacht should remind us all that evil must be confronted forcefully and the civilized world cannot watch idly while barbarism and mass murder are committed against innocent peoples: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives—

(1) recognizes the 70th anniversary of Kristallnacht, The Night of Broken Glass;

(2) pays tribute to the over 6,000,000 Jewish people who were killed during the Holocaust; and

(3) recommit the United States to continued vigilance against these kind of atrocities and urges the international community to fight against organized aggression directed at religious, ethnic, and other minority groups wherever it may occur.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. SCOTT) and the gentlewoman from Florida (Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Georgia.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. SCOTT of Georgia. Madam Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days to revise and extend their remarks and to include extraneous material on the resolution under consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Georgia?

There was no objection.

Mr. SCOTT of Georgia. Madam Speaker, I rise in strong support of this resolution, and I yield myself as much time as I may consume.

Let me first thank the gentleman from New Hampshire (Mr. HODES) for offering this important resolution, which marks the 70th anniversary of Kristallnacht, the Night of Broken Glass. His leadership on the Holocaust-related issues is greatly appreciated.

On the night of November 9, 1938, the streets of German and Austrian cities were littered with the shattered glass of Jewish homes, businesses and synagogues. Ninety-one people lost their lives and 30,000 were deported to concentration camps during the course of this pogrom. Buchenwald and Dachau soon filled with Jews who had been deprived of their property, their savings and their livelihoods by the Nazis.

Kristallnacht, the Night of Broken Glass, showed the world once and for all the true face of the Nazi regime and served as a prelude to the horrors that would soon befall Europe's Jewish community. As Germany's synagogues burned on this terrible night, the governments of the west, including our own, failed to take meaningful action. Ambassadors were recalled, speeches were made, but the Nazis' orchestrated pogrom resulted in the diplomatic equivalent of just a slap on the wrist.

We condemn not just the destruction wrought against Germany and Austria's Jewish community that terrifying night, but we also condemn the world's inaction, which undoubtedly led the Nazis to believe the international community would offer little resistance to their plans to murder all the Jews in Europe.

Though 70 years have passed since the Nazis began to set in motion the final solution, and 63 years since the liberation of the last of their death camps, we must continue to maintain our vigilance against all forms of ethnic, national and religious hatreds.

Adolf Hitler exploited the world's failure to protect those threatened by the Nazi's vicious ideology of hate. As we reflect upon the anniversary of this infamous night and pay tribute to the over 6 million people killed in the Holocaust, we must recommit ourselves to preventing genocide anywhere and any time.

I strongly support this resolution, and I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

The night of November 9 through November 10 of the year 1938 consisted of hours of darkness that the world cannot afford to forget. Known as Kristallnacht, that horrible night of unleashed terror and violence that we remember in this resolution before us today, was the clear signal for the start of Adolf Hitler's orchestrated campaign of genocide.

On that night, as state-sponsored violence poured out into the streets, the halls of civilized governments were mute. Joseph Goebbels had announced in his speech on the day of November 8, and I quote, "The Führer has decided that . . . demonstrations should not be prepared or organized by the Party, but insofar as they erupt spontaneously, they are not to be hampered."

Following that speech, regional leaders of Hitler's National Socialist Party issued instructions to their local offices, and violence erupted across Germany and in some neighboring countries as well, in a matter that was anything but spontaneous. For 48 terrible hours, mobs rampaged through the streets of German, Czechoslovak and Austrian cities.

The riots destroyed 267 synagogues, shattered an estimated 7,500 windows of Jewish-owned businesses and desecrated many Jewish cemeteries. The Night of Broken Glass claimed the lives of at least 91 Jewish citizens.

Unfortunately, the rest of the world remained largely silent when confronted with the news of this organized brutality. We can only wonder how history might have changed, how the war and the genocide of the subsequent years might have been avoided if silence had been replaced by condemnation and strong action.

As we look back at the events of that terrible night, from the perspective of the passage of 70 years, we recall what our president at that time, Franklin Roosevelt, said. "I, myself, could scarcely believe that such things could occur in a 20th century civilization."

As we consider this resolution, which notes this terrible event 70 years ago and the subsequent organized murder of more than 6 million Jews across Europe during World War II, we realize how important it is that we remember the lessons of the 20th century today at the start of the 21st century.

I urge strong adoption of this important resolution, and I reserve the balance of our time.

Mr. SCOTT of Georgia. Madam Speaker, we have no further speakers at this time.

However, let me conclude by simply stating that Adolf Hitler and the Nazis perpetrated the most heinous tragedy of man's inhumanity to man. We will never forget it, and people all across this Nation on this 70th anniversary say never, never again.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Madam Speaker, I echo the sentiments of my good friend, and I yield back the balance of our time.

Mr. SCOTT of Georgia. Madam Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. SCOTT) that the House suspend the rules and agree to the resolution, H. Res. 1435.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds being in the affirmative) the rules were suspended and the resolution was agreed to.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

TOM LANTOS HUMAN RIGHTS COMMISSION ESTABLISHMENT RESOLUTION

Mr. SCOTT of Georgia. Madam Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and agree to the resolution (H. Res. 1451) establishing the Tom Lantos Human Rights Commission in the House of Representatives.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Georgia.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. SCOTT of Georgia. Madam Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on the resolution under consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Georgia?

There was no objection.

Mr. SCOTT of Georgia. Madam Speaker, I rise in strong support of this resolution and yield myself as much time as I may consume.

I first want to thank our colleague, the newly appointed Democratic co-chairman of the Congressional Human Rights Caucus, Congressman JIM MCGOVERN, and the distinguished Republican Human Rights Caucus co-chairman, Congressman FRANK WOLF, for their strong leadership in bringing this important legislation before the House of Representatives.

This legislation before us will immediately and fully institutionalize the biggest and most active human rights entity in the United States Congress, the Congressional Human Rights Caucus. The new entity will carry the name Tom Lantos Human Rights Commission and will be led by the current caucus cochairmen assisted by the executive committee.

This year, the caucus should have joyfully and proudly celebrated its 25th anniversary, on which Members of this House and human rights NGOs could have paid tribute to the tremendous human rights accomplishments of the caucus under the leadership of its founding cochairman, Tom Lantos.

This joy was, of course, overshadowed earlier this year with the passing of this extraordinary human being and human rights giant, our good friend and distinguished former chairman of our Foreign Affairs Committee, the Honorable Tom Lantos.

With him, the caucus had lost its inspiring cochairman; the Foreign Affairs Committee, its visionary leader; this body, one of its most respected, passionate and eloquent colleagues; and this Nation, a foreign-born public servant who loved this country with every fiber of his body.

Given Tom's biography and life experiences before he was elected as the only Holocaust survivor to this distinguished body, and his burning desire to stand up for people around the world who do not have a voice in the corridors of power, it certainly is no surprise that 25 years ago our distinguished former colleague, John Edward Porter, collaborated with Tom to establish a working group dedicated to the defense of global human rights.

With Annette Lantos and Kathryn Cameron Porter at their sides, the Congressional Human Rights Caucus was launched. It is impossible today to chronicle every single accomplishment of the Human Rights Caucus. But over the last 25 years, the caucus has intervened on behalf of countless individuals and groups whose human rights have been violated, raised human rights issues which were on nobody's radar screen, used its strong voice for the voiceless, and has actively engaged Members of the United States Congress on the important matter of human rights.

Over the last 25 years, the caucus has also proven that human rights is a truly bipartisan issue and has driven totalitarian regimes and their lobbying agents to the brink of utter despair when liberal Democrats and conservative Republicans—and every shade in between—relentlessly stood shoulder to shoulder on global human rights issues.

Under the strong leadership of our colleagues, JIM MCGOVERN and FRANK WOLF, I have no doubt that the new commission will continue to stand as a beacon for human rights around the world.

Madam Speaker, I urge all of my colleagues to support this important resolution.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Madam Speaker, I would like to yield myself such time as I may consume.

Madam Speaker, I rise in strong support of House Resolution 1451 establishing the Tom Lantos Human Rights Commission.

I want to thank my colleagues, my friends Mr. MCGOVERN and Mr. WOLF, the cochairmen of the Congressional Human Rights Caucus, who authored this fitting tribute to the late chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee, our dear friend, Congressman Tom Lantos of California.

A quarter century ago, Tom Lantos was the founding cochair of the Human Rights Caucus. With the tireless assistance of his wife, his partner in life, Annette, Tom spent the remainder of his life at its helm, and it grew to become one of the largest and most active caucuses on the Hill.

It is a fitting tribute to his heroic life that we meet here today, Madam

Speaker, to upgrade the status of that organization and name it in Tom Lantos' honor.

Tom Lantos was born in Budapest in 1928, and came of age as Nazism descended upon the European continent. Imprisoned during the Second World War merely for being Jewish, Tom Lantos twice escaped the labor camps and survived the Holocaust with the help of the Hungarian resistance movement and the Swedish humanitarian Raoul Wallenberg.

Tragically, Tom's family was not so fortunate and they perished in the death camps alongside millions more.

Tom experienced human nature at its worst, and his later work as a champion of human rights cannot be separated from the trials that he endured as a young man.

The horrors of fascism helped to forge his unshakeable commitment to the protection of human dignity. It is hard to think of a major human rights issue of the past three decades on which Tom Lantos was not a leader, whether it was the fight against anti-Semitism, religious persecution, human trafficking, genocide in Darfur, or repression in Tibet, just to name a few.

The bill before us today will create the Tom Lantos Human Rights Commission as the formal successor to the Human Rights Caucus. The new commission will carry on the nonpartisan work of promoting fundamental human rights both inside and outside Congress. It will be cochaired by a majority and minority member, and may be joined by any Member of the House. Although it does not have legislative responsibility nor oversight, the commission will be staffed by professionals from the Committee on Foreign Affairs which it is required to collaborate with closely.

I am thankful and blessed for the years that I was able to serve the people of our Nation alongside a hero like Tom Lantos. I appreciate the opportunity that this resolution gives us to honor his life and to recommit ourselves to the ideals by which he lived every day.

I look forward to many years of spirited advocacy by the Tom Lantos Human Rights Commission, and I urge unanimous support for this important resolution.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. SCOTT of Georgia. Madam Speaker, it is my distinct pleasure to yield 5 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from Massachusetts (Mr. MCGOVERN) who has taken over Chairman Lantos' duties as cochair of the Human Rights Caucus as the new Democratic cochairman of the Congressional Human Rights Caucus.

Mr. MCGOVERN. Madam Speaker, I thank my friend for yielding and for his generous words.

Madam Speaker, I want to express my appreciation to the many Members and staff who worked on the Tom Lantos Human Rights Commission Establishment Act. It was truly a collaborative, bipartisan effort, and a genuine desire to pay tribute to the work and legacy of our former colleague, Tom Lantos.

I want to thank Chairman HOWARD BERMAN and Ranking Member ILEANA ROS-LEHTINEN for all of the support and guidance they have provided. They, and their incredible staffs, were true partners in crafting this resolution. I especially want to thank my colleague from Virginia, my fellow cochair of the Human Rights Caucus, FRANK WOLF, for welcoming me as his new partner and for his leadership in shaping this resolution.

I also want to thank his staff, Molly Miller, Elizabeth Hoffman, and Elyse Anderson, who contributed so much time and careful attention to the resolution before us today.

I also want to thank my staff, Cindy Buhl and Keith Stern, who have done magnificent work in making this resolution a reality.

Madam Speaker, I can't think of a more fitting tribute to Congressman Tom Lantos than institutionalizing human rights work by Members of this House. This commission will be a living, breathing legacy to the vision and inspiration of Tom Lantos. It reminds us that protecting and promoting human rights is not just the right thing to do, but it has the capacity of transforming us, of making us better people, better Members of Congress, and better citizens of the world. That's what helping to save lives around the world can do to you. That is what giving voice to the voiceless can do to you. That is what standing up for something, standing for the universal declaration of human rights can do to you.

The Tom Lantos Human Rights Commission will promote and protect human rights, whether that is the freedom to worship as you choose, run a newspaper or be a journalist without interference, organize a union, expect fair and equal justice before the courts, or receive fair treatment regardless of your gender, race, or your sexual orientation or your racial or ethnic heritage. And most importantly, it is the right to live your life, raise your family, and carry out your daily activities without the constant threat of being killed, jailed or disappearing.

When Speaker PELOSI appointed me to be just the second Democratic cochair in the history of the Human Rights Caucus, I couldn't quite grasp what it would mean to try to follow in the footsteps of Tom Lantos. Then Annette Lantos gave me a call, and Kathryn Cameron Porter came in to visit me, and they gave me their support and their blessing. We talked about how to strengthen the structure and permanence of the caucus, how to encourage and support other Members, especially new Members of Congress to become active on human rights issues so the United States will continue to be recognized throughout the world as a leader in the defense of human rights.

It was in this spirit that the Tom Lantos Human Rights Commission Establishment Act gradually took form and came into being.

Madam Speaker, there is one other person I would like to recognize and thank for all his knowledge and insights in the many discussions and process of establishing this commission, and that is Hans Hogrefe. Hans handles the human rights portfolio for the Foreign Affairs Committee, and he also staffs the Congressional Human Rights Caucus. I cannot think of anyone else on the Hill who has his institutional memory on human rights legislation and the many human rights issues that Members have worked on over the past 25 years. He is a human rights encyclopedia, and I want to thank him for his dedication to the cause of human rights.

Madam Speaker, I believe establishing the Tom Lantos Human Rights Commission will allow Members of Congress to take human rights work to a new level, and it will better serve and support the Members of this House as they take up human rights issues.

As I have often said, it is my strong belief that if the United States is going to stand for anything, it needs to stand out loud and foursquare for human rights. I look forward to working with FRANK WOLF and taking on this task, and I urge all of my colleagues to support this resolution and join us in our work.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Madam Speaker, I am pleased to yield 4 minutes to the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. WOLF), the primary sponsor of this bill, the ranking member on the appropriations subcommittee on State, Foreign Ops and Related Agencies and cochair of the Congressional Human Rights Caucus.

(Mr. WOLF asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. WOLF. I thank the gentlelady.

First off, I would like to thank Chairman BERMAN and Ranking Member ROS-LEHTINEN for their support on the resolution, and also the staff. At the end I will include all of the staff members who have worked on this issue from my side from the very beginning.

I also want to thank my colleague, JIM MCGOVERN, who has taken on the role of the Congressional Human Rights Caucus succeeding our good friend and colleague, the late Tom Lantos, for whom this resolution is named.

Mr. MCGOVERN has hit the ground running, and I believe that Mr. Lantos would be very proud of the job he is doing.

I first became interested in human rights when in 1984 my good friend, former Congressman Tony Hall, asked me to go to Romania with him. It was a life-changing trip. I would urge all Members to sort of try to find these different events and places around the world where people are being oppressed and suffering. It is an eye opener for us.

Ronald Reagan once said that the Constitution is kind of a covenant. It is a covenant that we have made not only with ourselves, but with all of mankind.

By making the Congressional Human Rights Caucus into a commission, which will serve as an arm of the House of Representatives, I believe we are helping to take a step to fulfill that covenant. The creation of the Tom Lantos Human Rights Commission will tell the world that the United States is still the shining city upon a hill, a beacon of hope in a world of turmoil and vision.

It was the vision that led Congressman Lantos and former Congressman John Porter, with the help of their wives, Annette Lantos and Kathryn Porter, to really establish the Human Rights Caucus in 1983.

There is much else that I can say. One, I am looking forward to working with JIM. This is to honor Mr. Lantos. It has seemed in the past that when major issues came up, the giants were Mr. Lantos and Mr. Hyde. And I may say, my colleague to the right, Mr. SMITH and the gentlewoman from Florida (Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN), and Mr. BERMAN and some others, but really not a lot of others. This is an opportunity for us to come together to really care about this issue and hopefully we can get some of the new Members who don't know they are going to be Members who are campaigning around the country somewhere who will come here in January next year so the baton is passed to new Members so there will be other people like Mr. Lantos and Mr. Hyde who will carry it well into the future.

I thank the leadership on that side for this. And I want to thank JIM and I thank Mr. BERMAN and Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN.

Madam Speaker, first of all, I would like to thank Chairman BERMAN and Ranking Member ROS-LEHTINEN for their support of this resolution and the staff on both sides.

I would also like to thank my colleague, Representative JIM MCGOVERN, who has taken on the role of co-chairman of the Congressional Human Rights Caucus, succeeding our good friend and colleague the late Congressman Tom Lantos, for whom this resolution is named.

Representative MCGOVERN has hit the ground running, and I believe that Mr. Lantos would be very proud of the job he is doing.

I first became interested in human rights when in 1984, Congressman Tony Hall, a Democrat and my best friend in Congress invited me to go on a trip with him to Romania.

At that time Romania was a very dark place. Under Nicolae Ceausescu, the securitate engaged in severe violations of human rights and religious freedom.

Many people I met slipped notes in my hand telling me that their family members had been taken away or killed by the government.

The trip to Romania, combined with a trip I took later that year to Ethiopia, which was in the midst of a famine, sparked my passion for human rights.

In Ethiopia, I held malnourished babies in my arms. It is a profound and humbling experience to see this kind of suffering first hand.

Ronald Reagan once said that the Constitution is "a kind of covenant. It is a covenant that we've made not only with ourselves, but with all of mankind."

By making the Congressional Human Rights Caucus into a Commission which will serve as an arm of the House of Representatives, we are fulfilling this covenant.

This creation of the Tom Lantos Human Rights Commission will tell the world that the United States is still the "shining city upon the hill," a beacon of hope in a world of turmoil and tragedy.

No other Member of Congress can claim to have known turmoil and tragedy like our late colleague.

In the ashes of despair, Tom saw hope and opportunity. It was this vision that led Congressman Lantos and former Congressman John Porter with the support of their wives, Annette Lantos and Kathryn Porter, to form the Congressional Human Rights Caucus in 1983.

Since then, it has grown into one of the largest, most active, bipartisan caucuses in the Congress.

I was deeply honored to succeed Congressman Porter as the Republican co-chair of the caucus when he retired in 2001.

After the retirement of John Porter and then with the losses of Representative Tom Lantos and Representative Henry Hyde, we are without some of the greatest champions of international human rights and religious freedom.

It is fitting that we ensure that their legacy is preserved and honored through the creation of this commission.

It is our duty as Representatives of the people of the United States of America, to speak out for those who cannot speak for themselves.

Our world will be a better and safer place for our children and grandchildren, when all people can live together and respect the most basic dignities and freedoms of all human beings.

Madam Speaker, over the years I have been supported in my work on human rights by a dedicated staff who has shared my passion for advocating on behalf of the oppressed and persecuted people in this world and worked to promote the mission of the Congressional Human Rights Caucus. I want to thank those staff members and recognize them today:

Molly Miller, Elizabeth Hoffman, Elyse Anderson, Samantha Stockman, Anne Huiskes, David Dettoni, Karen Feaver, Scott Flipse, Stuart Mallory, Brett Dody, Karin Finkler, Aldo de Pape, Fay Johnson, Hillary Hosford, Evan Baehr.

Mr. SCOTT of Georgia. Madam Speaker, it is my pleasure to yield 3 minutes to the distinguished congresswoman from Nevada, Ms. SHELLEY BERKLEY.

Ms. BERKLEY. I thank the gentleman for yielding.

When I was a freshman Member of Congress about 10 years ago, a very senior Member, Tom Lantos, came to me and asked if I would be willing to be a member of the Human Rights Caucus. I, of course, would not hesitate for a moment if Tom Lantos asked me to in fact participate. It was, and has been, among one of the most rewarding experiences I have had in Congress, and I cannot think of a more fitting tribute to an absolutely extraordinary man and dear friend, Tom Lantos, than to create this Human Rights Commission in his name, and I support this resolution wholeheartedly.

But when I think of Tom Lantos, I also think of the last resolution that Congress took up a few moments ago marking the 70th anniversary of Kristallnacht, The Night of Broken Glass. In many ways Kristallnacht marked the turning point in the history of European Jewry.

Tragically, too few nations, including our own, dared to speak out or even thought to speak out against this horrific pogrom. As a result, the Nazis concluded that the world would stand by and do nothing as they committed atrocities that the world had never seen before. Indeed, after Kristallnacht, they intensified their genocidal operations, ultimately leading to the gas chambers and the Final Solution.

Sadly, the Nazis were proven right, that the world would stand by and watch a feeble response that has been repeated far too often since that horrific night in 1938.

Madam Speaker, the grim anniversary of Kristallnacht reminds us that evil must be confronted forcefully and early, or else these unspeakable acts will be repeated again and again.

I think, given the fact that we will be creating a Human Rights Commission in Tom Lantos' name, that perhaps because of this bold move on the part of Congress, that a Kristallnacht could never and should never be able to happen again. I support both resolutions.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Madam Speaker, I would like to yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. PITTS), one of the House's most consistent voices in defense of human dignity.

Mr. PITTS. Madam Speaker, I rise in strong support of H. Res. 1451, which would form a permanent Human Rights Commission in the House of Representatives. As we've heard, we currently have a Human Rights Caucus here in the House which does great work on behalf of many of those around the world that simply lack a voice. This resolution would create a Commission that would ensure the activities of the Caucus would be more stable and permanent by creating a budget and a permanent staff devoted to working on these issues.

I want to thank all of the various parties that have worked on getting this legislation to the floor so quickly, including the leadership on each side of the aisle.

This resolution is aptly named after our friend and colleague, Tom Lantos, who passed away earlier this year. Tom was a survivor of one of the most heinous crimes against humanity, the Holocaust, and he dedicated his public service to ensuring that good people would not stand silently by while people were deprived of their most basic, God-given rights.

The resolution would establish the permanent Commission in order to promote and advocate in a nonpartisan manner, both inside and outside Congress, internationally recognized human rights norms.

Our Founding Fathers believed that we are born with certain unalienable rights, namely, life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, and they established in our Constitution, in the very first amendment, the rights of freedom of religion, speech, press, assembly, redress of grievances.

And yet we live in a world where people are deprived each day of even these most basic rights. We have a duty, as fellow human beings, to speak out against these most depraved violations of human rights.

The creation of this Commission will dedicate the necessary resources to ensure that the Members of this great body are informed on this issue, and have an opportunity to affect real change in the lives of people who need it most around the world.

I urge support for this resolution.

Mr. SCOTT of Georgia. I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Madam Speaker, I am pleased to yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Tennessee (Mr. WAMP), a member of the Appropriations Committee and a good friend.

Mr. WAMP. I thank the gentlelady for the time.

I just come today because we need to remember that our moral authority as a Nation in the world doesn't come from our extraordinary free enterprise system or our capital markets or our military strength, as important as that is. Frankly, our moral authority comes when we uphold the rights of every human being in the world given to them by God, their Creator, and not by the government.

Frankly, the decline in human rights in the world over the last 20 years is one of the greatest challenges that we face. The combination of human rights violations around the world, and the intolerance of religious views, and the lack of religious freedom, are creating such a divide in the world that if we're not careful, we face a Crusades-like event. And the two go together. This is so appropriate.

I want to thank people like FRANK WOLF. I miss Mr. Hyde and Mr. Lantos. What a privilege to serve with people who are here because they care so much about the rights of individuals, not just in this country where it's guaranteed under our Constitution, but everywhere.

I am maybe one the younger Members, even though I'm 50 now, who has traveled the world and tried to be engaged on these issues, like Mr. ADERHOLT, Mr. PITTS and many others, Mr. SMITH on our side. This is so fundamental to our way of life and our moral authority in the world and we lose that. Not everybody is worried about money. In the world they look to us because we're basically good and we uphold the right of the individual, and those are inherent human rights.

This Commission is the right approach. Otherwise, it just gets lost in the shuffle of this crisis and this bailout and this conflict. The world is really struggling, and our country needs to be a light and a beacon of hope.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. I would like to yield an additional minute to the gentleman.

Mr. WAMP. We have to be that light, that shining city on a hill, and we have to uphold the rights of the individual. And we have to be engaged in the world in order for that to happen. We can't just pull in and hunker down and look at the world as if it's not our problem. It is, more so today than ever, because this is a global marketplace, and we are connected to the entire world.

And there are so many wrongs around the world. We can't be the world's police force. We can't solve every single problem. But if we uphold the right of the individual, and it's fundamental to what happens here on the floor of the greatest deliberative body in the history of mankind, we have a chance of standing for the rights of the individual. Human rights are fundamental to our way of life.

This Commission is so important. I commend those that have brought it to the floor today, and urge passage by every single Member of the House.

Mr. SCOTT of Georgia. I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Madam Speaker, I would like to yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. SMITH), the ranking member on the Subcommittee on Africa and Global Health, whose name is synonymous with support for human rights.

Mr. SMITH of New Jersey. Thank you to the distinguished ranking member, ILEANA ROS-LEHTINEN, for her leadership, for her leadership on human rights. She has been a stalwart for years, and I want to thank her for her tremendous leadership.

I want to thank Mr. MCGOVERN for sponsoring this, and for his commitment as well.

And I especially want to thank Congressman FRANK WOLF with whom I've been in Congress now for 28 years. And there is no one that I know or have ever met who cares more deeply, more passionately, more fervently, nor works more effectively to promote human rights around the globe. I have traveled with FRANK. I would be more than happy to carry his bags. He is just such a tremendous individual.

I'll never forget when the International Religious Freedom Act was being considered. It was his legislation. He was the prime sponsor. I held a number of hearings on it as chairman of the Global Human Rights Subcommittee on the Foreign Affairs Committee, and there was significant opposition to that legislation. The Clinton administration was against it, on the record, said so in hearings.

Assistant Secretary for Democracy, Labor and Human Rights, John Shattuck, couldn't have made it more clear. They made a bogus argument that the legislation would set up a hierarchy of human rights, vis-a-vis, all other human rights.

Our argument was religious freedom was integral, and a necessary part of a fabric of protecting everyone who was weak and disenfranchised. That includes religious believers, regardless of what their belief system might be. And we wanted to speak out in a very powerful way.

Mr. WOLF pushed that bill to a successful completion. It ended up being signed into law and the International Committee for Religious Freedom, its designation of countries of particular concern, those egregious violators of religious liberties now get put on a list. They're subject to sanctions. We have an ambassador at large who combs the Earth promoting religious liberty and freedom, and then issues reports that holds countries to account and speaks truth to power. That's all a direct result of Congressman FRANK WOLF, the prime sponsor of legislation that was as dead as a door nail when he introduced it because of opposition in very high places and indifference.

So it is very fitting that Mr. WOLF will be serving as cochair of this extraordinarily important Human Rights Commission, named very aptly and very importantly after another great man, Congressman Tom Lantos. No one has done more on such issues as anti-Semitism than Congressman Lantos, Chairman Lantos, who is not, sadly, with us, but I'm sure is looking down from heaven with a great smile on his face because he cared passionately about human rights as well.

Madam Speaker so it ought to be clear, I believe it is time to turn the Caucus into a Commission. When the Human Rights Caucus was founded back in 1983, human rights was, at best, a foreign policy sideshow, an obligatory mention, often uttered after the more "weighty matters" of statecraft took place, like trade and other issues. It was always at the end if at all. An afterthought. It always had some asterisk next to it on the talking point memo. In case after case, high level diplomats would essentially say, oh yeah, by the way, I have to bring up human rights, because when I go back home I have to mention it. And many of our Secretaries of State, with some exceptions, often would take it to that point. It was never a central core issue in our foreign policy. There was little predictability or consistency.

The Caucus certainly has helped move human rights concerns forward. The Commission, I believe, will take it to the next level.

I hope that more Members will realize that genuine respect for human rights is the key to good governance. It's also the key, if you want intellectual property rights respected. If you want contract law observed and honored in places like China where human rights are violated with impunity, respect fundamental human rights for the individual. Stop torturing. Protect women from the violence of coercive population control and forced abortion. Help the Falun Gong and the Christians and the Uighurs and the Buddhists and all the others, the Catholic bishops who are languishing in prison. Get it right on fundamental human rights and you also help on the trade side as well, because if they respect one, if they respect their own people, they'll adhere to contract law and intellectual property rights.

I do believe that we must care for and protect all, no exceptions, everywhere, every place, every time from violence; and from my point of view, that includes unborn children, newly born children, the handicapped, disabled; it includes those who are of a religious denomination that some government official thinks ought not to have their rights or liberties. It is about everyone being included. Nobody being excluded. The politics of inclusion. And again, for me that means the unborn child and everyone else who is weak and at risk.

I do believe that we have to, Madam Speaker, realize that human rights can be respected. It is a matter of political will. It is a matter of understanding and empathizing. Get in the minds and hearts of victims and get motivated. Go into the prison, empathize with someone who has been victimized by torture. And we all come out with a different, enlightened, compassionate perspective. Empowered and knowledgeable, we then must—we have a duty—to act!

We'll never know the full extent of the Caucus's success over these 25 years, the impact that it has had, but I believe it has had a tremendously positive impact, as a result of broad bipartisan action, Democrats and Republicans, staff, doing yeoman's work. Hans was mentioned a moment ago. He's a fighter. There are so many who have done so much, often without any kind of accolade whatsoever, but they stand up and they do the hard work of human rights, and they do it each and every day because they care, because they love and because they have compassion.

Again, this is a resolution that takes the Human Rights Caucus to the next level, and I think it's about time we did it. This Congress, I think, will be much improved; we will have more insights. Good staffing does make a difference. We've had great staffing, but I think now as we build out that staff, I think more victimized people everywhere will be represented.

Mr. SCOTT of Georgia. Madam Speaker, as we have heard and seen with this extraordinary outpouring of passion and support, this legislation establishing the Tom Lantos Human Rights Commission naming Mr. MCGOVERN and Mr. WOLF as cochairmen is extraordinary important, and we urge support across the aisle for this important piece of legislation.

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Madam Speaker, I rise today in support of H. Res. 1451. This is important. It is a nonpartisan human rights commission that will have a universal code of human rights which is imperative. This human rights commission will look at charges of human rights violations according to the Universal Declaration of Human Rights that will certainly show countries and individuals who choose to violate what every individual has a right to: their civil liberties. I urge my colleagues to support H. Con. Res. 1451 because it establishes a commission on human rights that creates a way for Congress to promote, defend, and advocate internationally recognized human rights.

This resolution is timely because there have been numerous violations of civil rights all over the world. Egregious human rights violations are occurring in countries such as Sudan, Pakistan, Colombia, and China every day.

Sudan's own president is wanted by the ICC for genocide, crimes against humanity, and war crimes. This is the first time the ICC Prosecutor has named a sitting head of state, and the first time it has accused a suspect of genocide. There are also allegations of attacks on peacekeepers by rebels in Darfur. There are also numerous abuses of women in Pakistan where Dr. Shazia was a 32-year-old Pakistani physician who worked at a hospital run by Pakistan Petroleum Limited, a state-owned natural gas supplier in Baluchistan, a remote area of Pakistan. On January 2, 2005, Dr. Shazia was attacked and raped in her home, a guarded compound, by an intruder who broke in at night while she was sleeping. She reported the crime although told to stay quiet. Doctors sedated her and flew her to a psychiatric hospital in Karachi. The government forced Dr. Shazia to sign a statement saying that she had been given government help and that she wanted to close the matter.

China is also a country that commits numerous civil rights violations. It has a 1982 constitution that guarantees freedom of speech, but the Chinese Government often uses the subversion of state power clause to imprison those who are critical of the government. The PRC is known for its intolerance of organized dissent toward the government. Dissident groups are routinely arrested and imprisoned, often for long periods of time and without trial. The Chinese Government also limits religious freedom by requiring that members of the Communist Party be atheists.

Between June 2006 and June 2007, at least 280 Colombian civilians were extra judicially killed by Colombian security forces and many of them were subsequently presented by those forces as guerrillas killed in conflict. And this year human rights groups have continued to document extrajudicial killings by some Colombian military forces.

As a civilized nation, we cannot remain silent at outrages such as these. We must give voice to those who cannot on their own, and we must scream at the offense to human rights and settle for nothing less than full and complete justice. The United States Congress must show the violators that their actions will not be condoned or ignored. We must come together and take action on the atrocities occurring in the international community.

The human rights commission will promote human rights education, serve as a medium for dialogue on human rights issues, and promote the realization of human rights obligations. Promoting human rights education is vital for administering justice to those who have been wronged and this bill proposes to do just that. We need to know what is wrong in order to help those who have been wronged.

Establishing a human rights commission is important in establishing a united American foreign policy that consistently stands for human dignity around the world. We need to use this commission to find the best course of action to encourage countries from around the world to adopt principles for the protection of human rights.

Mr. SCOTT of Georgia. We have no further speakers. I yield back my time.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Madam Speaker, we also have no further requests for speakers. We yield back our time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. SCOTT) that the House suspend the rules and agree to the resolution, H. Res. 1451.

The question was taken.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. In the opinion of the Chair, two-thirds being in the affirmative, the ayes have it.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Madam Speaker, I object to the vote on the ground that a quorum is not present and make the point of order that a quorum is not present.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 8 of rule XX and the Chair's prior announcement, further proceedings on this motion will be postponed.

The point of no quorum is considered withdrawn.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. SCOTT) and the gentlewoman from Florida (Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Georgia.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. SCOTT of Georgia. Madam Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on the resolution under consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Georgia?

There was no objection.

Mr. SCOTT of Georgia. Madam Speaker, I rise in strong support of this resolution, and I yield myself such time as I may consume.

August 7, 1998, is a day that will never be forgotten. With near simultaneous vehicular bombing attacks by members of al Qaeda on our embassies in Nairobi, Kenya, and Dar es Salaam, Tanzania, the United States was challenged to face a new world. The violence that day claimed the lives of Americans, Kenyans, and Tanzanians with a death toll of 213 individuals in Kenya and 11 in Tanzania. The injured numbered well over 5,000. As great as the tragedy that day, without the dedication and bravery of the security individuals of those embassies, those acts of terrorism would have been far more catastrophic.

Shortly after the bombings, Congress provided $50 million in emergency supplemental appropriations to aid in the recovery process. And last October, the House passed the Foreign Service Victims of Terrorism Act of 2007 which provides compensation to the families victimized by these tragedies who are still recovering from their loss.

Our embassies in Nairobi and Dar es Salaam have been rebuilt. Nevertheless, we must never forget the tragedy of that fateful day, and we must always remember the significance of the lives of those lost.

Madam Speaker, that is why I strongly urge and support this resolution, and I urge my colleagues to join me in that support.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Madam Speaker, I would like to yield myself such time as I may consume.

Madam Speaker, I rise in strong support of House Resolution 1461 which recognizes the 10th anniversary of the terrorist bombings of the United States embassies in Kenya and Tanzania and honors those who were killed or injured as a result of these attacks.

I imagine there is not one among us here today that could not tell you exactly where they were or what they were doing when the al Qaeda terrorist network launched its cowardly and dastardly attacks against the United States on September 11, 2001.

Many of us recounted those stories just 2 weeks ago as the House and the Senate united to solemnly commemorate the seventh anniversary of the September 11 attacks. And while September 11 represents the deadliest attacks suffered by the American people at the hands of the al Qaeda operation to date, it was not the first.

Three years earlier on the morning of August 7, 1998, 223 people were killed and 5,000 people were injured as nearly simultaneous car bombs ripped through the United States embassies in Kenya and Tanzania. The bombings in Nairobi were particularly serious as the embassy stood on one of the busiest intersections in the city and the blast took down several neighboring buildings. The bombing in Tanzania was no less spectacular, but remarkably, it occurred on a national holiday when the embassy was closed.

Though these terrorist attacks reportedly were intended to punish the United States, the overwhelming majority of the victims that day were Kenyan and Tanzanian. This is typical of a network which callously views the innocent victims it kills, including fellow Muslims, merely as collateral damage. It also reveals the true hypocrisy of al Qaeda's radical Islamic agenda.

In all, 12 Americans were killed as a result of the east African embassy bombings, 31 foreign service nationals were killed, and one is still listed as missing. Scores more were saved as guards protecting the embassy in Nairobi succeeded in physically blocking the suicide bombers from gaining entry into the underground parking area. They paid with their lives for this act of heroism.

We owe a debt of gratitude to those who died in service to our country on August 7, 1998. And we are compelled to express our profound sorrow for those whose lives were taken or were forever altered as a result of these dastardly attacks.

As we solemnly commemorate the 10th anniversary of the bombings in Kenya and Tanzania and the seventh anniversary of the September 11 attacks on our Nation, we seek to reaffirm our resolve to defend our Nation, to defend our interests from radical Islamic terrorists who seek to destroy the United States and our citizens.

I want to thank my colleague, Mr. SCOTT, for introducing this important measure, and I urge unanimous support for its passage.

With that, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. SCOTT of Georgia. Madam Speaker, it is with both sorrow and gratitude that we indeed recognize this 10th anniversary of the terrorist bombings of the United States embassies in Nairobi, Kenya, and Dar es Salaam, Tanzania, and in memorializing the citizens and families of the United States, the Republic of Kenya, and the United Republic of Tanzania whose lives were lost and injured as a result of these horrible terrorist attacks.

Mr. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Madam Speaker, I rise in strong support of H. Res. 1461, "Recognizing the Tenth Anniversary of the terrorist bombings of the United States embassies in Nairobi, Kenya, and Dar es Salaam, Kenya and Tanzania who lives were lost or whose were injured as a result of these attacks which is introduced by my distinguished colleague Representative SCOTT. This legislation is important to ensure that we remember those who lost their lives and those lives were affected by these tragic and horrendous bombings.

GENERAL

On August 7, 1998, approximately 4,000 people were injured in the Nairobi bombing and 85 injured in Dar es Salaam. These attacks which killed hundreds of people, first brought international attention to Osama Bin Laden and his al Qaeda terrorist network, and stand out as one of the worst anti-American terrorist attacks preceding September 11, 2001.

This legislation will recognize all the citizens whose lives were lost in these bombings. In addition to recognizing the 10th anniversary of the al Qaeda bombings, this resolution will recognize all the families and friends of victims lost in the attack and mourn those who lost their lives in these tragic and senseless attacks. This resolution will also express gratitude for the people of Kenya and Tanzania for their gracious contributions and assistance following these attacks in striving for future opportunity, democracy, and prosperity, and reaffirm its resolve to defeat al Qaeda and other terrorist organizations.

It is a national tragedy that lives have been victim to reckless acts of terrorism, and the least we can do as a Congress, as a Nation is to recognize those involved in this tragedy and the counties who came to our aid. We cannot withhold this honor from those victims that perished in the tragedy. As honored Members of Congress, we have the honor to have the opportunity to recognize this anniversary and ensure the proper recognition is given to those involved in the terrorist bombings of 1998. Anything else would be giving in to the power of the terrorist, to which America will not yield.

I firmly believe that we must pass this legislation in order to demonstrate our support of those people who lost their lives and those people who lost their loved ones, and I urge my colleagues to do the same. Though this was a horrible tragedy, we can recognize the Tenth Anniversary and bring honor to those who were victims of al Qaeda.

Mr. SCOTT of Georgia. I yield back the balance of my time.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Madam Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. SCOTT) that the House suspend the rules and agree to the resolution, H. Res. 1461, as amended.

The question was taken.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. In the opinion of the Chair, two-thirds being in the affirmative, the ayes have it.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Madam Speaker, I object to the vote on the ground that a quorum is not present and make the point of order that a quorum is not present.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 8 of rule XX and the Chair's prior announcement, further proceedings on this motion will be postponed.

The point of no quorum is considered withdrawn.

SUPPORTING RESTITUTION FOR PROPERTY CONFISCATED BY NAZI AND COMMUNIST REGIMES

Mr. SCOTT of Georgia. Madam Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and agree to the concurrent resolution (H. Con. Res. 371) strongly supporting an immediate and just restitution of, or compensation for, property illegally confiscated during the last century by Nazi and Communist regimes, as amended.

The Clerk read the title of the concurrent resolution.

The text of the concurrent resolution is as follows:

H. CON. RES. 371

Whereas the United States strongly supports an immediate and just restitution or compensation of property illegally confiscated during the last century by Nazi and Communist regimes;

Whereas the wrongful and illegal confiscation of property perpetrated by Nazi and Communist regimes was often an integral part of the persecution of innocent people due to their religion, nationality, or social origin, or the expression of a view that differed from that of the ruling regime;

Whereas the protection of and respect for property rights is a basic principle tenet for all democratic governments that operate according to the rule of law;

Whereas the participating countries of the Organization for Security and Cooperation in Europe (OSCE) have agreed to achieve or maintain full recognition and protection of all types of property, including private property, and the right to prompt, just, and effective compensation in the event private property is taken for public use;

Whereas the Paris Declaration of the OSCE Parliamentary Assembly (OSCE Assembly) in July 2001 noted that the process of restitution, compensation, and material reparation of victims of Nazi persecution has not been pursued with the same degree of comprehensiveness by all of the OSCE participating countries;

Whereas the OSCE Assembly passed a resolution during the 10th session that urged the OSCE participating countries to ensure that they implement appropriate legislation to secure the restitution of, or compensation for, both property loss by victims of Nazi persecution and property loss by communal organizations and institutions or their successors during the Nazi era, irrespective of the current citizenship or place of residence of victims or their heirs, or the relevant successor to communal property;

Whereas the Government of the United States has, since 1947, with the passing of Military Law 59 in the occupied American Zone of Germany, supported the return of property looted during the National Socialist era to the rightful owners, or the heirs, of such property;

Whereas during the last decade, Congress has passed resolutions that endorsed, reiterated, and emphasized the longstanding support of the United States for the restitution and compensation for property illegally confiscated during the Nazi and Communist regimes;

Whereas some post-Communist countries in Europe have taken steps toward compensating victims whose property was seized and confiscated by the Nazis during World War II or subsequently seized by Communist governments after World War II;

Whereas the legislation addressing the return of or compensation for such confiscated property enacted by post-Communist countries in Europe has, in various instances, not been implemented in an effective, transparent, and timely manner;

Whereas private properties were seized and confiscated by the Nazis in occupied Poland during the Nazi era and by the Communist Polish government after World War II;

Whereas Poland, virtually alone among post-Communist countries, has failed to enact any legislation that provides for a process for the restitution of, or compensation for, private property seized and confiscated by the Nazi and Communist regimes;

Whereas Jewish communal properties were seized and confiscated by the Nazis in Lithuania during the Nazi era and by the Communist Lithuanian government after World War II; and

Whereas Lithuania, virtually alone among post-Communist countries, has failed to implement legislation that provides for the restitution of, or compensation for, Jewish communal property seized and confiscated by the Nazi and Communist regimes: Now, therefore, be it

(1) praises the efforts by those countries in Central and Eastern Europe that have enacted legislation for the restitution of, or compensation for, private and communal religious property improperly confiscated during the Nazi and Communist eras and urges each of those countries to ensure that the legislation is effectively and justly implemented;

(2) urges the countries in Central and Eastern Europe which have not already done so to return looted and confiscated properties to their rightful owners or, where restitution is not possible, pay equitable compensation, in accordance with principles of justice and in an expeditious manner that is just, transparent, and fair;

(3) calls on the Government of Poland to—

(A) immediately enact fair, comprehensive, and just legislation so that persons (or the heirs of such persons) who had their private property seized and confiscated by the Nazis during World War II or subsequently seized by the Communist Polish government after the war are able to obtain either restitution of their property or, where restitution is not possible, fair compensation should be paid; and

(B) ensure that such restitution and compensation legislation establishes an unbureaucratic, simple, transparent, and timely process, so that it results in a real benefit to those many persons who suffered from the unjust such confiscation of their property, many of whom are well into their 80s or older;

(4) calls on the Government of Lithuania to immediately implement, fair, comprehensive, and just legislation so communities that had communal and religious property seized and confiscated by the Nazis during World War II or subsequently seized by the Communist Lithuanian government after World War II (or the relevant successors to the communal and religious property or the relevant foundation) are able to obtain either restitution of their property or, where restitution is not possible, fair compensation;

(5) calls on the President and the Secretary of State to continue to engage in an open dialogue with the Governments of Poland and Lithuania supporting the adoption of legislation requiring, in Poland, the fair, comprehensive, and nondiscriminatory restitution of, or compensation for, private property that was seized and confiscated during the Nazi and Communist eras and, in Lithuania, the fair, comprehensive, and just restitution of Jewish communal and religious property that was seized and confiscated during the Nazi and Communist eras; and

(6) calls on the Secretary of State to deliver a report to Congress, every six months, regarding the implementation of this concurrent resolution.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. SCOTT) and the gentlewoman from Florida (Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Georgia.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. SCOTT of Georgia. Madam Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on the resolution under consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Georgia?

There was no objection.

Mr. SCOTT of Georgia. Madam Speaker, I rise in strong support of this resolution, and I yield myself as much time as I may consume.

First I would like to thank the gentleman from Florida and the chairman of the Europe Subcommittee, Mr. WEXLER, for introducing this important resolution calling for immediate and just restitution of illegally seized property from the Nazi era. Among the many atrocities perpetrated by the Nazis during World War II was the illegal confiscation of private homes, of businesses, of art work, and communal property. Many of these stolen assets were retained by the Communist governments after the war.

While the vast majority of Central and Eastern European countries should be praised for passing property restitution laws in order to right historical wrongs, others have failed to enact necessary legislation, or they have thrown legal roadblocks in the way of individuals or religious and communal organizations who are seeking to reclaim property rightfully belonging to them.

Though it had the largest pre-war Jewish community in Europe, Poland has, for over half a century, resisted efforts to return private property—be it homes or businesses—stolen by the Nazi and Communist governments to its original owners.

I am very heartened now to learn that Polish Prime Minister Donald Tusk is currently finalizing a draft restitution bill, and I hope the Polish Parliament approves this long overdue legislation.

My concern is that we have been down this road before with previous Polish governments, all of whom have failed to deliver on their promises. The Lithuanian Government has been similarly disappointing in its failure to implement fair and comprehensive restitution legislation.

While it should be commended for enacting laws that provide restitution for individual property owners, attempts to pass legislation paving the way for the return of nonreligious communal Jewish property taken by the Nazis, such as schools and hospitals, have stalled.

As many of those individuals awaiting restitution are in their waning years, it is imperative that the United States continue to encourage the governments of Poland, Lithuania, and others to adopt meaningful legislation ensuring the prompt return of or compensation for property seized during the Nazi and Communist eras.

I strongly support this resolution, Madam Speaker, and I encourage my colleagues to join me in doing the same.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I also rise in strong support of House Concurrent Resolution 371 which states the support of the Congress for just restitution or compensation for property illegally confiscated during the last century in certain countries of Eastern Europe.

The tragedy of the Holocaust, in which millions of innocent people were murdered by the Nazis and their property illegally confiscated, was followed by oppression and continued confiscation under Communist regimes. The fresh air of freedom that entered with the collapse of the Communist bloc in Eastern Europe moved some post-Communist governments in the region to support justice for the victims of such property confiscation.

Regrettably, as this resolution points out, the government of Poland has not enacted legislation that would provide for a process for the restitution of, and the compensation for, private property that had been seized, that had been confiscated illegally by those regimes.

Similarly, Lithuania has not implemented legislation that would provide for the restitution or compensation for communal property confiscated by the Nazi and Communist regimes.

This resolution calls on the Polish government to enact such legislation. It calls on the Lithuanian government to implement legislation so that communal or religious properties can be returned to their rightful owners or can provide them or their heirs with fair compensation.

Madam Speaker, the resolution also calls on our President and our Secretary of State to engage the governments of Poland and Lithuania on these important issues.

I urge my colleagues to support this important resolution.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. SCOTT of Georgia. Madam Speaker, it is my distinct pleasure to extend 3 minutes to the distinguished congresswoman from Nevada, Ms. SHELLEY BERKLEY.

Ms. BERKLEY. I thank the gentleman for yielding and for his leadership on this issue. Madam Speaker, I rise as a strong cosponsor of this legislation.

While the Holocaust may have ended over 60 years ago, its effects are still very much felt today, and it is essential that we do not allow the victims of those horrific crimes to continue to be victimized by the circumstances that surround this issue today.

Many survivors of the Holocaust have still not received proper restitution for their looted property, and the time is long past due to say “enough.” And let us take action on behalf of these survivors and the victims of the Holocaust.

I would like to share with my colleagues a story of a constituent of mine, Dina Babbitt, who I have been working with for the last 10 years to get her property back, her rightful property back. Dina was a 20-year-old young lady when she and her mother were interned in Auschwitz. Now Dina had a talent. Dina was an artist. Even at the age of 20 her talent was obvious.

Joseph Mengele saw her work on one of the walls of the children's barracks where she had drawn a picture of Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs to cheer up the children that were in the children's barracks in Auschwitz. He singled her out, and what he started doing is, he would point out people that were interned at Auschwitz, the prisoners that were interned, and he would direct her to draw their pictures. And she would draw the picture. He didn't want to take a photograph because he couldn't get the color of the skin right, and she would draw the picture. After she drew the picture he would kill the inmate. Now Dina says she learned to draw very slowly at that time.

She was liberated, and she and her mother fled Auschwitz. She eventually came to the United States of America where she worked at Disney Studios for well over 30 years of her life.

She received a telephone call 25 years ago from the Polish Government. They said they had found artwork that they believe she had created and would she come to Poland to authenticate it. She became so thrilled that she could have something to give to her children and her grandchildren so that they would have a piece of her.

She is convinced, and I believe this, too, that the artwork is the only thing that saved her and her mother. She was a Czechoslovakian Jew; 3,600 Czechoslovakian Jews were interned in Auschwitz, only 22 survived. Dina and her mother were two of the 22 Czechoslovakian Jews that survived their time in Auschwitz.

She went to Poland. She authenticated that those are my pictures, and they refused to give them to her. To this day, the Polish Government has not negotiated with Dina Babbitt one bit so she could get one or two or three of her pictures. There are seven that currently exist.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The time of the gentlewoman has expired.

Mr. SCOTT of Georgia. I yield the gentlelady 1 additional minute.

Ms. BERKLEY. I thank the gentleman very much.

I tell you this with all the passion that I could muster, that this woman should be able to get her property, her rightful property. This isn't even a purchase that she made that has been stolen from her. This came from her own hands, and I think it is time. That is why I so strongly support this resolution that people like Dina Babbitt, it is time, the time is long since past for Dina Babbitt and so many others to receive their just compensation.

I urge support for this resolution. I look forward to the time that the Polish government and the Lithuanian government actually take positive steps to restore the treasure and the possessions of these people who have suffered so much.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Madam Speaker, I have no further requests for time, if the gentleman also has no further requests for time.

Mr. SCOTT of Georgia. I'd like to just add this one point in closing, that it is so important that we take this opportunity as a United States Congress to put pressure on Poland and Lithuania and other countries to adopt meaningful legislation ensuring prompt return and/or compensation for the property seized during the Nazi and Communist eras.

This is the height of injustice. We have an opportunity to right a terrible wrong, and it is important that we pass this legislation and send a very strong message to these countries to finally, finally restore the property and/or the compensation to these individuals.

I yield back the balance of my time.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Madam Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. SCOTT) that the House suspend the rules and agree to the concurrent resolution, H. Con. Res. 371, as amended.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds being in the affirmative) the rules were suspended and the concurrent resolution, as amended, was agreed to.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

SENSE OF HOUSE REGARDING CAMPAIGN BY ORGANIZATION OF ISLAMIC CONFERENCE TO DIVERT UNITED DURBAN REVIEW CONFERENCE

Mr. BERMAN. Madam Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and agree to the resolution (H. Res. 1361) expressing the sense of the House of Representatives that the United States should lead a high-level diplomatic effort to defeat the campaign by some members of the Organization of the Islamic Conference to divert the United Nation's Durban Review Conference from a review of problems in their own and other countries by attacking Israel, promoting anti-Semitism, and undermining the Universal Charter of Human Rights and to ensure that the Durban Review Conference serves as a forum to review commitments to combat all forms of racism, as amended.

The Clerk read the title of the resolution.

The text of the resolution is as follows:

H. RES. 1361

Whereas the United Nations is undertaking preparations for a 2009 Durban Review Conference on the implementation of commitments made as part of the 2001 World Conference Against Racism held in Durban, South Africa;

Whereas the 2001 World Conference Against Racism marked an important recognition of the historic wounds caused by slavery, colonialism, and related ongoing racism and racial discrimination, including the recognition of the transatlantic slave trade as a crime against humanity, and that people of African descent, people of Asian descent, and indigenous peoples who were victims of these acts continue to face discrimination and marginalization as a direct consequence;

Whereas the 2001 World Conference Against Racism also undertook historic efforts to recognize and address ongoing racism and racial discrimination against persons of African descent and members of Jewish, Muslim, caste, indigenous, Roma and Sinti, and other communities, as well as anti-migrant xenophobia and incitement to racial and religious hatred;

Whereas the 2001 World Conference Against Racism and its achievements were overshadowed and diminished as some participants in the conference, in particular during the Non-Governmental Organization Forum, called the "NGO Forum Against Racism" (NGO Forum), misused human rights language to promote hate, anti-Semitism, incitement, and divert the focus of the conference from problems within their own countries to a focus on Israel;

Whereas the NGO Forum produced a document called the "NGO Declaration" that contained abusive language, branding Israel an "apartheid state" that is guilty of "racist crimes against humanity";

Whereas the United States withdrew its delegation from the 2001 World Conference Against Racism, a decision that Secretary of State Colin Powell explained by stating that "you do not combat racism by conferences that produce declarations containing hateful language, some of which is a throwback to the days of 'Zionism equals racism'; or supports the idea that we have made too much of the Holocaust; or suggests that apartheid exists in Israel; or that singles out only one country in the world—Israel—for censure and abuse";

Whereas the atmosphere of anti-Semitism at the NGO Forum was described as "hateful, even racist" by former High Commissioner for Human Rights Mary Robinson and as "disgraceful" by Deputy Foreign Minister Aziz Pahad, of South Africa, who also stated that parts of the 2001 World Conference Against Racism were "hijacked and used by some with an anti-Israeli agenda to turn it into an anti-Semitic event";

Whereas the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights, who served as Secretary General of the 2001 World Conference Against Racism, refused to accept the NGO Declaration, and some leading civil and human rights organizations and activists criticized the repugnant anti-Semitism and demonization of Israel in the NGO Forum, and the harassment of Jewish participants it engendered;

Whereas despite recognizing the Holocaust and increased anti-Semitism, the official government declaration adopted by the 2001 World Conference Against Racism, the "Durban Declaration and Program of Action", highlighted the "plight of the Palestinian people under foreign occupation", and in so doing singled out one regional conflict for discussion in a biased way, and wrongly implied that Israeli Government policies towards the Palestinians are motivated by racism;

Whereas the Human Rights Council agreed in Resolution 3/2 on December 8, 2006, that the 2009 Durban Review Conference would, like other United Nations review conferences, focus on countries' implementation of the many commitments to fight racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance contained in the official government Durban Declaration and Program of Action and that there will be "no renegotiation of the existing agreements contained therein";

Whereas at the first organizing session of the Durban Review Conference on August 27, 2007, in Geneva, Switzerland, Ambassador Masood Khan of Pakistan, speaking "on behalf of the OIC", described the concerns being expressed about the Durban Review Conference as a "smear campaign", and made it clear that the Organization of the Islamic Conference (OIC) intends to make so-called "contemporary" forms of racism a centerpiece of the conference agenda, urging also that "[t]he Conference should move the spotlight on the continued plight of Palestinian people and non-recognition of their inalienable right to self-determination";

Whereas several OIC member states have also made clear their determination to go beyond the comprehensive list of items covered by the Durban Declaration and Program of Action to force consideration by the Durban Review Conference of a global blasphemy code that would legitimize arbitrary restrictions of freedom of thought, conscience and religion, and the freedoms of expression and opinion, all in the name of protecting religions from “defamation” and “blasphemy”;

Whereas following the August 27, 2007, preparatory meeting for the Durban Review Conference in Geneva, Switzerland, several countries, including the United States, France, and Israel, stated that the Conference would not be worthwhile or worthy of support if it were not limited to a discussion of country commitments to combat racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia, and related intolerance contained in the Durban Declaration and Plan of Action;

Whereas the High Commissioner for Human Rights was named Secretary-General of the 2009 Durban Review Conference;

Whereas in advance of determining the modalities, format, duration, and venue of the 2009 Durban Review Conference, the OIC and G-77 member states requested the United Nations General Assembly to fund a $7.2 million preparatory process of international, regional, and national meetings;

Whereas on November 28, 2007, 45 United Nations Member States, including the United States, joined together in the Third Committee (Resolution A/C.3/62/L.65/Rev.) to vote against a resolution that contradicted the 2009 Durban Review Conference preparatory committee consensus agreements about the framework of the Durban Review Conference, its scope, and sources of funding;

Whereas on December 21, 2007, 40 United Nations Member States, including the United States, joined together in the Fifth Committee (Resolution A/C.5/62/21) to vote against a resolution that authorized up to $6.8 million to fund the 2009 Durban Review Conference preparatory process;

Whereas the United States has decided to withhold from its 2008 funding for the United Nations an amount equivalent to the United States share of the United Nations Human Rights Council-administered preparatory process for the 2009 Durban Review Conference; and

Whereas since the 2001 World Conference Against Racism, the need for a credible global forum to review United Nations Member States' efforts to combat racism remains urgent given the continuing scourge of racism, discrimination and related violence, including against persons of African descent, Jewish, Muslim, caste, indigenous, Roma and Sinti, and other communities, anti-migrant xenophobia, and incitement to racial and religious hatred: Now, therefore, be it

(1) acknowledges that the 2001 World Conference Against Racism marked an important recognition of the historic wounds caused by slavery, colonialism, and related ongoing racism and racial discrimination, including the recognition of the transatlantic slave trade as a crime against humanity, and that people of African descent, people of Asian descent, and indigenous peoples who were victims of these acts continue to face discrimination and marginalization as a direct consequence;

(2) reaffirms its abiding commitment to the cause of combating continuing racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia, and related intolerance in all its forms;

(3) calls on the President and the Secretary of State to lead a high-level diplomatic effort to ensure that the Durban Review Conference focuses on the implementation by states of their commitments to combat racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance and to defeat any effort by states to use the forum to promote anti-Semitism or hatred against members of any group or to call into question the legitimacy of any state;

(4) calls on the President to urge other heads of state to condition participation in the 2009 Durban Review Conference on concrete action by the United Nations and United Nations Member States to ensure that it is not a forum to demonize any group, or incite anti-Semitism, hatred, or violence against members of any group or to call into question the existence of any state;

(5) calls on the Secretary of State to—

(A) initiate United States policy into action by calling on counterparts, including the Government of Pakistan as the chair of the Organization of the Islamic Conference (OIC) and the Government of Egypt as the head of the African Group, to insist that they take prompt and effective measures to ensure that the Durban Review Conference does not become a forum for anti-Semitism, incitement or hatred against members of any group or to call into question the existence of any state; and

(B) demarche foreign capitals raising the concerns of Congress and to report to Congress on what steps the United States and its allies have taken to address these concerns;

(6) commends all governments, including those of the United States, France, Canada, Israel, the United Kingdom, and the Netherlands that have declared their intentions not to participate in any United Nations Durban Review Conference that sidesteps scrutiny of country commitments to combat racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia, and related intolerance, and that promotes hate, undermines human rights standards, and damages the credibility of the United Nations itself;

(7) commends the countries that joined the United States, including the member states of the European Union, Albania, Andorra, Australia, Bosnia, Herzegovina, Croatia, Georgia, Israel, Moldova, Monaco, Montenegro, San Marino, Serbia, the former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia, Ukraine, Canada, and the Republic of Korea, in voting to uphold earlier United Nations consensus agreements that established the scope and funding of the 2009 Durban Review Conference process;

(8) urges all United Nations Member States not to support a 2009 Durban Review Conference process that fails to adhere to established human rights standards and to reject an agenda that incites hatred against any group in the guise of criticism of a particular government or that seeks to forge a global blasphemy code;

(9) commends the diverse civil society organizations that have joined together to learn from the shortcomings of the 2001 World Conference Against Racism, and to work together in a spirit of solidarity and mutual respect toward a 2009 Durban Review Conference that rejects hatred in all its forms;

(10) reaffirms that, as recognized by Article 18 of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, “Everyone has the right to freedom of thought, conscience and religion; this right includes freedom to change his religion or belief, and freedom, either alone or in community with others and in public or private, [and] to manifest his religion or belief in teaching, practice, worship and observance”;

(11) urges all states to implement their commitments to combat racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance to secure just treatment and the realization of universal human rights for all as enshrined in international human rights instruments, in particular the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, the International Convention on the Elimination of Racial Discrimination, and the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights;

(12) notes that the Human Rights Council agreed in Resolution 3/2 on December 8, 2006, that the 2009 Durban Review Conference would, like other United Nations review conferences, focus on countries' implementation of the many commitments to fight racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance contained in the official government Durban Declaration and Program of Action and that there will be “no renegotiation of the existing agreements contained therein”;

(13) recognizes the purposeful attempts of some countries to prevent a focus on ongoing racism by utilizing inflammatory language, employing divisive tactics and strategies, fostering an atmosphere of anti-Semitism and otherwise deviating from the commitments made at the 2001 World Conference Against Racism in order to divert the 2009 Durban Review Conference from the important goal of eradicating global racism;

(14) calls on United Nations Secretary General Ban Ki-Moon to publicly urge the Human Rights Council to adhere to its mandate and to the high responsibility and expectations placed on it, and asks him to personally intervene to refocus the 2009 Durban Review Conference efforts on the review of what United Nations Member States have done to fulfill their commitments to combat racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance, and on concrete action to fight racism, anti-Semitism, and all forms of hatred, intolerance, and violence; and

(15) calls on the High Commissioner for Human Rights to urge United Nations Member States to adhere to the agreed framework of the 2009 Durban Review Conference and its previously agreed upon goals and parameters and to urge Member States of the preparatory committee to return to decision making by consensus.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from California (Mr. BERMAN) and the gentlewoman from Florida (Ms. ROSELEHTINEN) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from California.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. BERMAN. Madam Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on the resolution under consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from California?

There was no objection.

Mr. BERMAN. Madam Speaker, I rise in strong support of this resolution, and I yield myself as much time as I may consume.

First, I want to express my appreciation to the ranking member of our Foreign Affairs Committee, Ms. ROSELEHTINEN, along with the distinguished chairman of the Subcommittee on Africa and Global Health, Mr. PAYNE, and my colleague from California, Ms. BARBARA LEE, for their hard work on this resolution aimed at preventing a repeat of the tragic outcome of the 2001 World Conference Against Racism.

As my colleagues know, the convening of the first World Conference Against Racism in Durban, South Africa, in 2001 marked an important recognition of the historic wounds caused by slavery, colonialism, and ongoing racism and racial discrimination.

The Durban conference's explicit recognition of the transatlantic slave trade as "a crime against humanity" was a watershed event in the global community's effort to begin confronting this indelible stain in human history.

Tragically, the seminal achievements of this conference were overshadowed and diminished when some conference participants diverted the focus of the conference from problems in their own countries to a pathological focus on Israel and Jews.

The worse abuses took place in and around the NGO forum that took place on the margins of the conference. This forum devolved into a hate-filled circus, as anti-Israeli and anti-Semitic rallies spilled onto Durban's streets.

The official document produced by the NGO forum contained abusive language branding Israel an "apartheid state" that is guilty of "racist crimes against humanity."

The government document, while not as inflammatory as the NGO document, singled out one and only one regional conflict in a biased way by highlighting the "plight of the Palestinian people under foreign occupation," and in so doing, wrongly branded Israel's treatment of Palestinians as racist.

The U.N. is now preparing a Durban Review Conference set to take place in Geneva in 2009. Despite the fact that the U.N. Human Rights Council agreed in Resolution 3/2 on December 8, 2006, that the review conference would be limited in its scope to a focus on countries' implementation of commitments to fight racism and discrimination, the same actors that hijacked the initial Durban conference are threatening to do so once again.

In preparatory meetings for the Durban Review Conference in Geneva, the Organization of the Islamic Conference, led by Pakistan, and the African Group, led by Egypt, have boldly stated—and that's the governments of both Pakistan and Egypt here—have boldly stated their determination to go beyond the boundaries established for the Durban Review Conference to attack Israel and to make so-called new forms of racism a centerpiece of the review conference agenda.

Our government and the governments of France, Canada, the United Kingdom, The Netherlands, and Israel have stated that unless the direction of the conference is refocused, the review process will not be credible or worthy of support.

I strongly support these "redlines" and will urge the next administration not to participate in the Durban review process if it continues on its current path.

But up to this point, neither the State Department nor the White House has undertaken any kind of sustained diplomatic effort to ensure that this outcome is not a forgone conclusion.

Our resolution confronts the diplomatic inaction by calling on the Secretary of State to convey in the strongest possible terms to the governments of Pakistan and Egypt that their campaign to hijack Durban II is completely unacceptable to us.

It also calls on the State Department to undertake a worldwide demarche of foreign capitals to seek support for refocusing the conference on its agreed-upon purpose.

A focused high-level diplomatic effort on the part of the State Department and the White House could force the OIC and the Arab League to stand down in their campaign to usurp the Durban review and to further unravel global adherence to human rights norms.

Unlike in the run-up to the original Durban Conference in 2001, many key U.S. allies have spoken out forcefully and resolutely in opposition to the campaign to hijack Durban II.

President Sarkozy of France, for example, has stated that the Government of France will not tolerate "a repeat of the digression and extremes of 2001."

It is time for the administration to end any diplomatic retreat from U.N. human rights mechanisms. We have ceded far too much space to human rights abusers by sitting on the sidelines in Geneva. We must confront the fact that among the key spoilers of U.N. human rights bodies are governments we should be in a position to influence, such as Pakistan and Egypt.

The United States is in a position to lead. We need the will to do so.

Our European allies feel far more threatened than they have been in the past by the intense OIC campaign to unravel key global human rights standards such as the right to freedom of expression.

They would certainly respond to the re-emergence of the United States as the leading advocate for universal standards of human rights.

The need for a credible global forum to review United Nations member states' efforts to combat racism remains urgent. The scourge of racism and related intolerance has not abated. If anything, discrimination against people of African, Jewish and Muslim descent has increased. We have also seen recently alarming outbreaks of violence against refugees and migrants. It makes no sense, therefore, to cede this critical forum provided by the Durban Review to a group of countries who are hostile to democratic principles and human rights standards.

Madam Speaker, I strongly support the resolution.

Madam Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Madam Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Madam Speaker, I rise today in support of House Resolution 1361—but, but, but, but with great reservations, particularly with respect to changes made to the text after the resolution had been adopted by our Foreign Affairs Committee.

Madam Speaker, in 2001, a number of anti-democratic governments hijacked the planning and implementation of the World Conference Against Racism, Racial Discrimination, Xenophobia and Related Intolerance in Durban, South Africa.

Instead of representing a bold step forward by devoting its attention to fighting racism and other bigotry, the event was dominated by attacks on America, on Israel, and on Jews at every turn.

At the conference's NGO forum, groups distributed literature expressing sorrow that Adolf Hitler did not fully exterminate the Jewish people. The anti-Israel and anti-American rhetoric at Durban so discredited the conference that our U.S. Secretary of State, Colin Powell, withdrew our delegation, stating, "I know that you do not combat racism by conferences that produce declarations containing hateful language or that singles out any one country alone in the world, Israel, for censure and abuse."

Our late friend and colleague, Tom Lantos, the former Chair of the Foreign Affairs Committee, also walked out on Durban, stating that the conference "provided the world with a glimpse into the abyss of international hate, discrimination and, indeed, racism."

Today, Madam Speaker, we are confronted with the forthcoming 2009 Durban Review Conference, also known as Durban II. The version of this resolution that passed our committee was a compromise that was worked out between our Republican and Democratic Members. Having introduced several resolutions in this Congress addressing Durban II, I felt at the time that even that compromise text did not go far enough in portraying the problems plaguing this conference. That compromise text, however, focused on defeating the campaigns by some countries, particularly members of the Organization of the Islamic Conference, to divert Durban II away from reviewing human rights concerns and, instead, focus it on attacking Israel and promoting anti-Semitism.

Unfortunately, Madam Speaker, the text before us today has a different focus. This text places the emphasis on higher level U.S. diplomatic efforts on ensuring that Durban II follows up on the commitments made at the last conference, an effort that could be interpreted as legitimizing the first Durban meeting, and as such the efforts by Israel and America haters.

Indeed, Madam Speaker, responsible nations must work to fight against racism and other forms of intolerance. And therefore, we appreciate that the 2001 Durban Declaration declared slavery to be a crime against humanity and noted that the Holocaust should never be forgotten.

We all wish that Durban I were a symbol of success in the struggle against racism, and that Durban II would build on that success. However, Madam Speaker, the Durban Conference ultimately did not represent progress against racism. Until this very day, Durban is a symbol of the powerful, pervasive menace of anti-Semitism and anti-Israel hate.

Indeed, the conference's own Durban Declaration, which could have been a stirring, unequivocal call to stop racism and hate, was tarnished by a number of irrelevant provisions, including several clauses that singled out Israel while ignoring the plight of Israelis under siege from violent extremists.

Therefore, it is imperative that we not imply, in hindsight, that Durban I was more positive than it actually was; neither should we pretend that Durban II will be less disastrous than it actually will be.

The planning committee for Durban II, Madam Speaker, is led by the regimes of Libya, Iran and Cuba. And that committee has already expressed its intent to focus the conference on Israel bashing, anti-Semitism, and establishing a global blasphemy code that could stifle our freedom of speech and religion.

Just a few days ago, on September 19, the Algerian Ambassador to the U.N. Missions in Geneva, within the context of discussions concerning Durban II, redefined anti-Semitism and referred to "traditional anti-Semitism" as having become "politically incorrect in many rich nations." What? Translation, Madam Speaker: Anti-Israel and anti-Semitism is objectionable in rich nations of the West, but acceptable everywhere else.

The fix is in, Madam Speaker. After extensive diplomatic efforts by the U.S. to prevent Durban II from following in the dark path of its predecessor, we joined our allies, Canada and Israel, in declaring that we will not fund and we will not participate in a conference that promotes hate.

As former Assistant Secretary of State Kristen Silverberg noted while testifying before our Foreign Affairs Subcommittee this past April, "There is absolutely no case to be made for participating in something that is going to be a repeat of Durban I. We don't have any confidence that this will be any better than Durban I."

It is clear, Madam Speaker, that any further U.S. involvement in Durban II in the planning process, whether by an Undersecretary, by the Secretary of State, or even by the President, will not avert the looming train wreck that is Durban II. It will only waste precious U.S. time, legitimacy, and political capital on a doomed venture.

However, the text before us today, while it contains some positive clauses as it has been amended after committee action, could be misconstrued as urging America to further participate in the Durban II planning process in order to attempt to ensure that Durban II follows up on the commitments made at Durban I.

Making sure that we don't send a mixed signal is especially important this week, Madam Speaker, as the United Nations General Assembly meets in New York and as Ahmadinejad prepares today to spew his anti-American, anti-Israel, anti-Semitic venom on the world stage.

I will vote for this resolution, Madam Speaker, with the intent that it does not call for the U.S. to participate in Durban II or its planning process in any way, shape or form. Moreover, Madam Speaker, I will continue my efforts to work with my colleagues, the executive branch, and our allies to discuss an alternative to Durban, one rooted in freedom, in tolerance, and in democratic values.

I thank Chairman HOWARD BERMAN for introducing this resolution. I intend to vote for it with all of these reservations.

Madam Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. BERMAN. Madam Speaker, before I yield to my colleague from California, I would like to yield myself 1 minute.

The gentlelady and I, my ranking member, we're coming from the same place in the sense that we do not want the United States participating in a conference which produces the kind of statements and the kinds of activities that happened the last time. Perhaps in this case I'm a little more of an optimist than the gentlelady from Florida because I can't think of anything better, that, before the last preparatory meeting, the House speaks on what our red lines are—yes, we want the conference to succeed, it's an incredibly important purpose, as the gentlelady has agreed to and acknowledged and has always been supportive of. But we know what's happened before, we know what's being set up to happen this time. But I want to see delegations from the kinds of organizations that are supporting this resolution that plan to go to Geneva for that preparatory meeting to say, in the United States, we speak with one voice, and that includes not simply the American Jewish Committee and APAC and the other Jewish community organizations that support this resolution—

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Mr. BERMAN. I yield myself 1 additional minute.

But it also includes the Leadership Conference on Civil Rights, Human Rights First—one of the preeminent human rights organizations—the NAACP, and all the other organizations that are going to Geneva, supporting this resolution and telling them that we're not going to stand for another hijacking. And this resolution creates the framework, with the support of those kinds of organizations, to make that last effort. While I can't tell you what's going to happen there, let's give it our best shot.

Passing this resolution, allowing these organizations to go with a statement from the House of Representatives that is clear on the red lines, is very important.

I now yield 4 minutes to my friend and colleague, who has been very involved in this process from the very beginning and has helped us to fashion the final product with a tremendous contribution, the gentlelady from California (Ms. LEE).

Ms. LEE. I want to thank the gentleman for yielding and for your patience and for your understanding and for your really very skillful way in bringing us all together to make sure that there is a resolution that we all can support.

I do support H. Res. 1361, putting the House, first of all, on record in support of the United States leading a high-level diplomatic effort to ensure that the Durban Review Conference, better known as Durban II, serves as a forum to review commitments to combat all forms of racism.

The resolution also directs the United States to strongly oppose any effort by any party to use the forum as a platform for attacking Israel, for promoting anti-Semitism, or undermining the Universal Declaration of Human Rights.

Madam Speaker, in 2006, the United Nations General Assembly voted to hold a conference to review the process and progress made by member nations in implementing the Durban Declaration and Programme of Action. This declaration was the signal achievement of the World Conference Against Racism, Racial Discrimination, Xenophobia and Related Intolerance, which was held August 31 through September 7, 2001 in Durban, South Africa. The conference known as the "Durban Conference" was attended by more than 10,000 persons from all corners of the globe. The Review Conference, or Durban II, is scheduled to convene in Geneva, Switzerland, in April 2009.

This resolution is an important resolution warranting the support of all Members. But it's also important for my colleagues to know that, once again, without the leadership of Chairman BERMAN and Chairman PAYNE and Ranking Member ILEANA ROS-LEHTINEN, we really wouldn't have this opportunity to put the House on record directing the United States to exercise the strong leadership that we've all talked about at the Durban II Conference, and to resist any attempt by any party to launch anti-Semitic attacks on Israel.

So let me just say it has been a privilege working with all of you over these past several months in crafting this language that reflects our shared commitment to combating racism in all forms and condemning anti-Semitism.

I want to say also that I was part of the Durban Conference. Actually, we wrote a letter to the Secretary of State, then Secretary Colin Powell, under the leadership of our Congressional Black Caucus Chair then, Congresswoman EDDIE BERNICE JOHNSON. And we told the Secretary of State and the State Department then that in no way did we believe Durban I should turn into a forum to attack Israel or become an anti-Semitic forum, and that, in fact, we believe this Durban Conference was so important to African Americans and to all minorities in America that we thought then that it was even important on Durban I to try to stop all of the things that the NGO forum allowed to happen.

But I want to clarify that that was the forum; that was not the full Durban conference. We were there. The United States did not send an official delegation. And in fact there was some delegates there who actually left the conference. But Congresswoman EDDIE BERNICE JOHNSON, myself and others, we said we would end up just being the official delegation. I think there were seven or eight of us at Durban because we felt it was so important to first stay there to make sure that we could try to ensure that it was focused on combating racism.

And, secondly, there were hundreds and hundreds of African Americans at that conference. This is one of the first conferences where African Americans could go abroad and talk about all forms of racism; what had happened, what the trans-Atlantic slave trade really was all about, its legacies and its vestiges. So this is an important conference.

Let me just mention what this resolution is and summarize some of the provisions of this resolution. First, to review the progress and assess implementation of the declaration by all stakeholders.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The time of the gentlewoman from California has expired.

Mr. BERMAN. I yield the gentlelady an additional 2 minutes.

Ms. LEE. To review the progress and assess the implementation of the Durban Declaration, to assess the effectiveness of the existing Durban follow-up mechanisms and other relevant United Nations mechanisms dealing with racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance, to promote the universal ratification and implementation of the International Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Racial Discrimination, and to identify and share good practices in the fight against racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance.

We should support this resolution because it says very explicitly that we will not allow, impugn and support behavior at any of these conferences, including we condemn what happened at the 2001 NGO forum as it relates to anti-Semitism and attacks on Israel. And this is important because it really does encourage this active participation by the United States in this conference, because I can guarantee you, just as the seven or eight of us members of the Black Caucus who went to Durban the first time tried to beat back any type of anti-Semitism we saw bubbling, we will do that this time. And we want an official, high-level delegation along with us to go to Durban so that we can do the business and move forward to participate in a world forum to combat racism and discrimination.

I'm proud of the fact that the Leadership Conference on Civil Rights supports this. Mr. BERMAN laid out who all is involved in that conference. It's a good resolution. It's a resolution that deserves our support on both sides of the aisle.

Thank you, again, Mr. BERMAN, for your leadership.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. I continue to reserve our time until the speakers are done on their side.

Mr. BERMAN. I yield 2 minutes to the gentlelady from Nevada (Ms. BERKLEY).

Ms. BERKLEY. I thank the gentleman for yielding and for his strong and very important leadership on this issue.

Madam Speaker, I rise today in support of this important resolution stating our position on the Durban Conference. Seven years ago, we watched in disgust as a conference on racism, a very important issue which demands the world's attention, was diverted into a hate fest against Israel and Jews everywhere where participants and outside groups attempted to paint Israel as an "apartheid state" guilty of "crimes against humanity." This kind of inflammatory speech does nothing to help the Palestinians. And it certainly does nothing to help those who are truly oppressed by racist regimes.

We now hear of new attempts to hijack the review conference to be held next year. The Organization of Islamic Conference says they want to highlight "new forms of racism" such as blasphemy against Islam while continuing to focus on spewing anti-Semitic and anti-Zionist hatred. We must stop these cynical attempts to divert attention away from the human rights abuses in places like Iran and Saudi Arabia and put the spotlight squarely where it belongs, on real forms of racism, slavery and xenophobia, which is what this conference is supposed to be about and which it should be about.

I urge support for this resolution.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. I have no further requests for time, and I will reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. BERMAN. I have one additional speaker. I'm very pleased to yield 3 minutes to the gentlelady from Texas, a member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee and a participant in the last conference, Ms. SHEILA JACKSON-LEE.

(Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas asked and was given permission to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Madam Speaker, I too want to add my appreciation to the chairman of the full committee, Mr. BERMAN of California, and the ranking member, Ms. ILEANA ROS-LEHTINEN, who was obviously here during that first Durban Conference in 2001.

Interestingly enough, that conference preceded the horrific tragedy that occurred in this country. I might venture to say that the contempt and hatred that was expressed there certainly did not help in adding to the idea that we are all part of the human family. But I will say to you that this is a characterization of relief.

And I do thank my colleague from California, Congresswoman BARBARA LEE. Both of us were on that early delegation. But more importantly we worked extensively to pressure, if you will, the Bush administration to actually send a high level delegation. In fact I believe that if we had sent a high-level delegation, many of us many times will argue for boycotting. In this instance, we worked with Secretary Powell and begged him to go so that he could put a face of America, and that face of America will be in conjunction with the basis of this particular conference, and that is for the first time to be able to hold a conference that marked an important recognition of the historic wounds raised or caused by slavery, colonialism and related ongoing racism, racial discrimination, including the recognition of trans-Atlantic slave trade as a crime against humanity and the people of African descent, people of Asian descent, and indigenous people, and as well to stamp out racial discrimination against persons of African descent, members of Jewish, Muslim, castes, indigenous Roma and Sinti and other communities. That is what we were supposed to be doing. But because I believe we did not send a high-level delegation, it was hijacked. We were hoodwinked. But I can assure you that as I can recount the actions of those of us who went unofficially claiming we were official, we were running from one meeting to the next to be able to argue for the purpose of this particular conference, putting the message of America forward, suggesting that we want to stamp out racism and anti-Semitism and other forms of discrimination. We were there on the front line.

This is an important statement. And that statement says that America does recognize the sins of the past, that we do embrace those around the world who have suffered injustices, and we reject the anti-Semitism or creating an opportunity for this to be a cause of bashing Israel. But I believe that as we go as a full delegation, which I hope that many of us will again be able to attend the Durban review in 2009, you will see the opportunity for African Americans and those descendants of slaves around the world, those who are presently abused, you will see a standing up for the cause of eliminating and eradicating racism wherever it is and scapegoating any people, which includes as well the Jewish people and the State of Israel.

Madam Speaker, I believe that this is a right step. I wish we had had this document. I wish we had had a high-level delegation some years ago. And if I might quickly acknowledge Mary Robinson.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The time of the gentlewoman from Texas has expired.

Mr. BERMAN. I yield the gentlelady an additional 30 seconds.

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. I acknowledge the then Human Rights Commissioner, Mary Robinson, who was the architect somewhat of this idea. Her heart was in the right place. She was there. She wanted us to speak on the issues that this conference needed to grapple.

Racism, Madam Speaker, is intrinsic. It is deep. It is in the souls of many. It covers ethnicities and language. It is difficult to deal with. This is an important conference. This legislation should craft it, design it and stand for it in the right way.

Let me thank the NAACP for its support of this legislation. And I understand Wade Henderson, who was one of the architects of working with this, this is the right direction to go. I'm looking forward to a conference that speaks to the issues and embraces all of those who have been victims of racism and discrimination and to end it forever and ever.

Mr. KLEIN of Florida. Madam Speaker, I rise to support H. Res. 1361, a resolution that urges the U.S. government to prevent the upcoming U.N. World Conference on Racism from being hijacked by those seeking to spread anti-Semitism and hate. The theory behind a conference on racism, where members of all nations come together to fight hate and promote diversity, is an important goal. Unfortunately, just as they have in the past, the organizers of this U.N. conference on Racism seem to have buried the task at hand.

In 2001, the conference was held in Durban, South Africa, and was hijacked and transformed into an anti-Israel tirade. While racism and the promotion of hate are taught in many classrooms around the world, the organizers of this U.N. conference unfairly chose to single out Israel. This must stop.

The United States must take a leadership role now, while the conference is still in planning stages, to ensure that such a despicable charade will not be repeated. The administration must work with our allies and use its leverage to ensure that this conference lives up to its name. And, if it seems that the conference is going to mock the world's fight against racism and it becomes clear that the conference will become a forum to promote hate and anti-Israel sentiment, then I urge the administration to pull U.S. support and work with our allies to show the conference for what it is: a sham.

Finally, I join the sponsors of this legislation in commending the efforts of our allies, France, Canada, and Israel for declaring their intentions not to participate in Durban II if its agenda is diverted.

It is imperative that the United States not stand idly by while countries around the world belittle the fight against racism. I look forward to working with my colleagues, the administration and countries around the world until we get this right.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Madam Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of our time.

Mr. BERMAN. Madam Speaker, I yield back our time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from California (Mr. BERMAN) that the House suspend the rules and agree to the resolution, H. Res. 1361, as amended.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds being in the affirmative) the rules were suspended and the resolution, as amended, was agreed to.

The title of the resolution was amended so as to read: "Expressing the sense of the House of Representatives that the United States should lead a high-level diplomatic effort to ensure that the Durban Review Conference serves as a forum to review implementation of commitments made at the 2001 Durban Conference to combat all forms of racism by defeating the campaign by some members of the Organization of the Islamic Conference to divert the United Nation's Durban Review Conference from a review of problems in their own and other countries by attacking Israel, promoting anti-Semitism, and undermining the Universal Declaration of Human Rights."

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

PERMISSION FOR MEMBER TO BE CONSIDERED AS FIRST SPONSOR OF H.R. 643

Ms. BERKLEY. Madam Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that I may hereafter be considered as the first sponsor of H.R. 643, a bill originally introduced by Representative Stephanie Tubbs Jones of Ohio, for the purposes of adding cosponsors and requesting reprints pursuant to clause 7 of rule XII.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentlewoman from Nevada?

There was no objection.

RECOGNIZING NGO WORK ON ISRAELI-PALESTINIAN PEACE

Mr. BERMAN. Madam Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and agree to the resolution (H. Res. 1369) recognizing nongovernmental organizations working to bring just and lasting peace between Israelis and Palestinians.

The Clerk read the title of the resolution.

The text of the resolution is as follows:

H. RES. 1369

Whereas the Israeli-Palestinian conflict has cost many innocent lives and continues to bring terrible suffering to both peoples;

Whereas despite the ongoing conflict, Israeli and Palestinian individuals and nongovernmental organizations have been working for decades to build bridges between the two peoples, to address humanitarian concerns, and to further the cause of peace;

Whereas such individuals and nongovernmental organizations that are committed to nonviolence, recognize Israel's right to exist, and are dedicated to achieving a two-state solution deserve recognition and encouragement to continue their important work;

Whereas the Israeli-Palestinian conflict is currently at a critical juncture, and sustained progress towards peace depends on the commitment of individuals and organizations that choose dialogue, friendship, and openness;

Whereas the Palestinian Anti-Terrorism Act of 2006 (Public Law 109-446) permits the provision of United States assistance to nongovernmental organizations to provide for basic human needs, the protection of basic human freedoms, and the promotion of human rights, nonviolence, and for a just and peaceful reconciliation, provided that such assistance does not knowingly and directly benefit any terrorist organization;

Whereas the initiatives of these individuals and nongovernmental organizations reflect the tenacity of those with a true commitment to peace, mutual respect, and coexistence, and demonstrate the real impact that such people can make on the lives of individuals and communities; and

Whereas such initiatives build hope and trust among both peoples and can help pave a path to peace; Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives—

(1) recognizes the vital role of nongovernmental organizations in peace-building efforts between Israel and Palestinians, and encourages them to remain steadfast in their commitment to nonviolence, recognition of Israel's right to exist, dedication to achieving a two-state solution, and work toward building trust and cooperation between the two peoples;

(2) applauds the tireless work of these individuals and nongovernmental organizations, and urges them to continue their efforts;

(3) acknowledges and encourages the important efforts and support that these nongovernmental organizations, religious organizations, and individuals committed to peace and nonviolence contribute to these initiatives;

(4) affirms the importance of United States support to nongovernmental organizations that provide humanitarian aid and work for democracy, human rights, and peace and reconciliation between Israelis and Palestinians; and

(5) urges Israeli and Palestinian leaders to embrace the spirit of nongovernmental peace builders toward achieving a just and lasting peace.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from California (Mr. BERMAN) and the gentlewoman from Florida (Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from California.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. BERMAN. Madam Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on the resolution under consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from California?

There was no objection.

Mr. BERMAN. Madam Speaker, I rise in strong support of this resolution, and I yield myself 3 minutes.

I would like to thank, Madam Speaker, my friend and distinguished colleague, Representative BARBARA LEE, for introducing this important resolution to highlight the work done by the NGO community in support of Israeli-Palestinian dialogue. In spite of the shaky cease-fire reached between Israel and Hamas on the Gaza Strip, Hamas and other extremist Palestinian groups have neither changed their stated aim, namely, the destruction of the State of Israel, nor given up the use of terrorism and violence as a means to achieve that end.

But while the terrorists of Hamas and Palestinian Islamic jihad continue to threaten innocent civilians and undermine peace efforts, we should recognize the courageous efforts being made by many nongovernmental organizations to do just the opposite, that is, to foster conditions that can lead to peace. Many of these groups work tirelessly and selflessly not only to improve the daily lives of Palestinians but also to effect peaceful coexistence between Palestinians and Israelis. One example, Seeds of Peace, brings Israeli and Arab youth together for summer retreats that cultivate a culture of understanding and tolerance among tomorrow's leaders.

As this resolution affirms, it shall remain U.S. policy to actively support all those nongovernmental organizations that provide humanitarian assistance, promote democracy, human rights and work towards Israeli-Palestinian reconciliation while unequivocally opposing the use of violence. This resolution lends that encouragement and backing only to those NGOs that explicitly renounce violence, accept Israel's right to exist and support existing agreements between Israel and the Palestinians.

I join the author of this resolution, Congresswoman LEE, in lauding contributions to peaceful coexistence between Israelis and Palestinians made by nongovernmental organizations. I hope, and believe and want to believe that this is the way of the future. I urge all my colleagues to support this resolution.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to yield myself such time as I may consume.

House Resolution 1369 recognizes the efforts of nongovernmental organizations working to bring just and lasting peace between Israelis and Palestinians.

□ 1800

I would like to thank my good friend from California, the gentlelady, Ms. BARBARA LEE, for her hard work in drafting this important resolution. We all want to see peace, stability and security prevail in the Middle East and, indeed, in all regions of conflict. However, that goal remains elusive when leaders act in ways that distort, perpetuate and aggravate otherwise resolvable disputes between nations and peoples. Such leaders make peace impossible by programming their citizens into viewing other nations and other people as wicked, as inhuman, as worthy of hatred and even of death.

Fortunately, the work of nongovernmental organizations and of individuals committed to nonviolence and to Israel's right to exist as a Jewish and as a Democratic state provide a counterweight to the purveyors of this terrible rhetoric. These individuals and NGOs cultivate relationships that oppose violent extremism and hateful propaganda, that promote a culture, instead, of life and that seek peaceful, rational and mutually beneficial solutions to seemingly intractable problems.

So I commend the gentlelady from California (Ms. LEE) for its introduction, and I urge the passage of this important resolution.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. BERMAN. Mr. Speaker, we have one speaker, the sponsor of the resolution, and I yield her, Congresswoman BARBARA LEE, 4 minutes.

Ms. LEE. Mr. Speaker, let me just say once again that I want to expressly thank the Chair of our committee, Mr. BERMAN, for his leadership and for his support in bringing this resolution to the floor.

Also, I want to thank our ranking member, Congresswoman ILEANA ROS-LEHTINEN, for her assistance in making sure that we can have a bipartisan resolution.

Every now and then, I think we ought to talk about peace. You know, that seems not to be a word or a term that we discuss very often on this floor, so we have a chance to just say "peace" a few times today.

Thank you, Mr. BERMAN and Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN, for giving us that chance.

This resolution recognizes the vital role of nongovernmental organizations in peace-building efforts between Israelis and Palestinians, and it encourages them to remain steadfast in their commitment to nonviolence, in their recognition of Israel's right to exist, in their dedication to achieving a two-state solution, and in their work towards building trust and cooperation between the two peoples.

Mr. Speaker, this bipartisan resolution is strongly endorsed by many organizations and groups that have been long dedicated to the cause of peace, justice and of reconciliation between Israelis and Palestinians. I'd like to mention for a minute the supporters of this resolution:

The Churches for Middle East Peace, which is a coalition of 22 public policy offices of national churches and agencies—Orthodox, Catholic and Protestant—working to realize the vision of a region where two viable states, Israel and Palestine, live side by side within secure and recognized borders; the Alliance for Middle East Peace, which is an alliance of 57 NGOs that are promoting people-to-people coexistence, cooperation and reconciliation between Israelis, Palestinians, Arabs, and Jews in the Middle East; the Israel Policy Forum, which is an independent, non-partisan organization advocating for sustained American, diplomatic efforts to end the conflict between Israel and her neighbors and to actively promote the two-state solution to the Israeli-Palestinian conflict; and the Middle East Policy Advisory Committee, which is a coalition of organizations that my congressional district formed to bring a just peace between Palestinians and Israelis.

Mr. Speaker, in a region that has suffered so much loss and seemingly interminable conflict, these efforts are critically important in addressing the daily struggles and challenges faced by Israelis and Palestinians.

Sixty years ago, the great Senator Hubert Humphrey said that people are the issue of the 20th century. I might add now the well-being of people is the critical issue of the 21st century, and peace is needed for people to flourish.

As the great theologian Saint Augustine reminds us, peace is the necessary condition in which people can be free to work out in their private destiny.

That's why it's fitting and proper to recognize, as my resolution does, the efforts of Israeli and Palestinian individuals and of nongovernmental organizations that have been working, really, for decades to build bridges between the two peoples—to address humanitarian concerns and to further the cause of peace.

Although the Israeli-Palestinian conflict has cost too many innocent lives and though it continues to bring terrible suffering to both peoples, we can all be thankful that there are many nongovernmental organizations comprised of men and women of goodwill, working to build schools and hospitals, to foster cultural exchanges, to increase commercial ties, economic development, and to promote interreligious dialogue and understanding.

The Israeli-Palestinian conflict is currently at a critical juncture. Sustained progress toward peace depends on the commitment of individuals and of organizations that choose dialogue, friendship and openness.

So this amendment recognizes the efforts of those unsung heroes and heroes, and it encourages them to continue their important work.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. COHEN). The time of the gentlewoman has expired.

Mr. BERMAN. I yield the gentlelady an additional 30 seconds.

Ms. LEE. It also salutes them for their commitment to nonviolence, to the recognition of Israel's right to exist and to their dedication to achieve a two-state solution.

I would like to thank our staff, Mr. BERMAN. I would like to thank Alan Makovsky and Matthew Zweig of the staff of the Foreign Affairs Committee, and I would also like to thank Gregory Berry and Scott Exner on my staff.

This is the spirit in which I hope we can move forward in terms of nongovernmental peace builders and move toward achieving a just and lasting peace. Let's be cognizant of the fact today that peace is possible.

Thank you, Mr. BERMAN. Thank you, Ms. ILEANA ROS-LEHTINEN. I thank the committee for the resolution.

THE REBUILDING ALLIANCE,
Palo Alto, CA, September 23, 2008.

DEAR REPRESENTATIVE, I am very proud to support H. Res 1369, a positive and constructive resolution to advance the cause of peace and justice in Israel and Palestine and I urge you to vote for it. I am really proud that Representative Lee was willing to work with us at the Rebuilding Alliance and the Middle East Policy Advisory Committee to bring this resolution to the floor.

At its heart, H. Res. 1369 recognizes those people—Israelis and Palestinians—who continue to pursue peace and justice with every breath they take, despite their own overwhelming personal losses. These are the people who make a difference in their communities, and it is to them we offer encouragement. Let me tell you about some of them:

I want Congress to care about the peacemakers in the Village of Al Aqabah and all those who seek to help them:

Last week, Mayor Haj Sami Sadik came, in his wheelchair, to Washington DC to meet with Congressional and Senate staff. He is the mayor of the Palestinian West Bank Village of Al Aqabah and he came to ask your help to save his kindergarten and village from demolition. Israeli Architect Shmuel Groag, a founder of BIMKOM: Planners for Planning Rights, joined him, along with me, American Donna Baranski-Walker, executive director of the Rebuilding Alliance, the SF Bay Area nonprofit that helped the village build their kindergarten and brought them here to ask Americans to help save it.

I care about Al Aqabah. I care about their kindergarten with 130 students. The village holds full title to its land, without question—and they even won an earlier case before the Israeli High Court of Justice to remove the Israeli Army's training camp from the village gates. As they were rebuilding their kindergarten, the Israeli Army issued demolition orders against the kindergarten, the medical center, the mosque, and nearly all the homes in the village. The village held to their belief that justice will prevail as Mayor Haj Sami Sadik again petitioned the Israeli High Court of Justice to recognize their village's right to exist. Now he filed the village's own master plan with the Israeli Army's Civil Authority and asks the world's help to see the village's plan approved, and to help his village thrive.

I care about the Rachel Corrie Charity in Rafah, Gaza, holding their soccer tournament on the land where 2200 Palestinian homes once stood, as a way to build community and goodwill near a very traumatized refugee camp. The Rebuilding Alliance brought one of the founders of this group, Khaled Nasrallah, to the U.S., joining Cindy and Craig Corrie, parents of the late American Rachel Corrie, in a six-state speaking tour three years ago. The Rachel Corrie Charity is being sponsored by the Gaza Community Mental Health Organization, a Palestinian non-governmental organization that deeply opposes violence and is itself an outspoken advocate of freedom, fairness, and democracy—and many congressional staff met with one of the founders of Gaza Community Mental Health Programme, Mr. Husam El Nounou, along with Rebuilding Alliance board member from Jerusalem, Rabbi Jeremy Milgrom, helping Mr. El Nounou return home when the Gaza's borders were first blockaded in 2006.

I care about the Free Gaza Movement and the Americans, Internationals, Israelis, and Palestinians who worked together to steer their boats through international waters to break the siege of Gaza last month. My friend and Representative Lee's constituent, Paul Larudee, was on one of those boats. It is important to recognize their nonviolent activism and urge an end to the collective punishment of 1.4 million people in Gaza and speak out against using blockades and siege as tools of diplomacy.

I care about the Israeli and Palestinian peacemakers who are part of a group called Combatants for Peace. These are Israeli former soldiers and Palestinians who have been in Israeli jails who now pledge not to use violence, but instead to work together for peace and justice. Their Palestinian cofounder, Bassam Aramin, lost his daughter Abir to a soldier's rubber coated bullet. Their Israeli cofounder, Elik Elhanan, lost his sister when a suicide bomber detonated. Together they and 500 more like them, choose peace. Combatants for Peace has launched the Abir's Garden Project to build playgrounds at Palestinian schools in memory of Abir Aramin.

These are but four groups working to bring about a real peace in Israel and Palestine. I look forward to inviting all the peacemakers in each congressional district to forums with their Representatives to describe their work for peace in Israel and Palestine. Honorable Representatives, I hope each of you will send letters of encouragement to those Peacemakers in Israel and Palestine who they support.

H. Res 1369 moves beyond condemnation to begin a process of recognition and encouragement.

I believe that this form of recognition can open doors and I urge your support. To the peacemakers, may you know that your work makes a difference. May you continue your efforts and may the Congress of the United States join you to help you realize your goals. To the honorable members of the U.S. House of Representatives, I urge you to vote for H. Res. 1369 and recognize these and many more peacemakers in Israel and Palestine. Please use your influence to keep them safe, help them achieve their goals, and press for a negotiated peace agreement between Israel and Palestine that is viable and fair to all.

Sincerely,

DONNA BARANSKI-WALKER,
Executive Director of the Rebuilding Alliance.

CHURCHES FOR MIDDLE EAST PEACE,
Washington, DC, September 23, 2008.

Attn: Foreign Affairs Legislative Aide.

DEAR REPRESENTATIVE: Churches for Middle East Peace, a coalition of 22 Catholic, Orthodox and Protestant national church bodies, urges all Members of the House to support H. Res. 1369, recognizing nongovernmental organizations working to achieve a just and lasting peace between Israelis and Palestinians. This resolution was unanimously approved by the House Committee on Foreign Affairs in July and is scheduled to be considered under suspension of the rules today.

Passage of H. Res. 1369 would send a strong message of Congressional support for efforts to further the cause of Middle East peace. At this critical time, when progress on the political process is uncertain, this resolution affirms the important role that civil society plays in laying the groundwork for peace. It provides hope and encouragement to the many Israelis and Palestinians who have long worked to foster peace and reconciliation, promote human rights, democracy and nonviolence, and address humanitarian concerns. In our frequent visits to Israel and the Palestinian Territories, and through our long-standing relationships with partner churches and their relief and development agencies, we know well the fruits of their good works. We believe the commitment of these dedicated individuals and organizations, together with robust U.S. diplomacy and the commitment of Israeli and Palestinian leaders, can finally help realize the vision of two states, Israel and Palestine, living side by side in peace and security.

We ask today for your support of H. Res. 1369 and look forward to continued work with the U.S. Congress to finally achieve peace in the Holy Land.

Sincerely,

Bishop Wayne Burkette, President, Southern Province, The Moravian Church in America.

James Fine, Legislative Secretary for Foreign Policy, Friends Committee on National Legislation.

Catherine Gordon, Representative for International Issues, Washington Office, Presbyterian Church, USA.

Dr. Duncan Hanson, The Reformed Church in America, Supervisor for Europe and the Middle East.

Maureen Shea, Director, Office of Government Relation, The Episcopal Church.

Russell Testa, Director, JPIC, Franciscan Friars, OFM.

Rev. Susan P. Wilder, Director for Middle East Policy, Washington Office, Evangelical Lutheran Church in America.

Ms. WOOLSEY. Mr. Speaker, a sincere thank you to Representative BARBARA LEE. In this Congress, there is no greater voice for peace than Congresswoman LEE.

I rise today in strong support of this Resolution recognizing non-governmental organizations working to help bring a just and lasting peace to Israelis and Palestinians.

Peace will not be brought about by governments and presidents. Peace will only be achieved when people come together to support a common goal—security and prosperity for all.

More than any conference or summit, the work of local and international NGOs have brought the region closer to a non-violent resolution to the ongoing crisis. Their work is invaluable.

From student exchanges to high-level reconciliation programs, NGOs are irreplaceable in the peace process.

I applaud this Resolution's commitment to peace and nonviolence and urge my colleagues' support today.

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of H. Res. 1369, Recognizing nongovernmental organizations working to bring just and lasting peace between Israelis and Palestinians, which I am a co-sponsor of. This bill was introduced by my distinguished colleague from California Congresswoman BARBARA LEE. This important legislation encourages countries in the Middle East to find a solution that will ensure long lasting stability, prosperity, and self-sufficiency in their region and affirms the importance of nongovernmental organizations to this process.

GENERAL

For decades, the United States and Israel have maintained strong bilateral relations based on a number of factors, including strong domestic U.S. support for Israel; shared strategic goals in the Middle East; shared democratic values; and historic ties dating back to U.S. support of the creation of Israel in 1948. U.S. economic and military aid has been a major component in cementing and reinforcing these ties. Although there have been occasional differences over Israel's settlements in the West Bank and Gaza Strip and Israeli arms sales to China, successive administrations and many lawmakers have long considered Israel to be a reliable partner in the region, and U.S. aid packages for Israel have reflected this sentiment.

However, the elongated years of fighting between Israel and Palestine are indirectly detrimental to the position of our country in the Middle East. The most beneficial solution for the United States, Israel, and Palestine is lasting peace in the holy regions, and as the Congress of the United States we must recognize that nongovernmental organizations can facilitate this process and aid every country involved. The stability of the Middle Eastern region is important to the United States, and this resolution will reaffirm our commitment to supporting any steps towards peace in the Israel and Palestine.

PREVIOUS LEGISLATION

Earlier this year, I supported H. Con. Res. 322, recognizing the 60th anniversary of the founding of the modern State of Israel and reaffirming the bonds of close friendship and cooperation between the United States and Israel. I have supported Israel in the past, and the national interest of Israel is in the national interest of the United States. The best outcome for the country of Israel is a peace resolution that will quell the fighting, encourage peace, and allow the country a chance to recover from years of hostile encounters.

If the best way to facilitate and encourage peace between Israel and Palestine is to offer our support of the involvement of nongovernmental organizations, then I strongly support H. Res. 1369, and I encourage my colleagues to do the same. We must do what we can to support peace negotiations in the Middle East and support the national interest of Israel.

Mr. SIRE. Mr. Speaker, today, I rise in support of House Resolution 1369, which recognizes the work of nongovernmental organizations in helping to bring peace between Israelis and Palestinians. It is through the tireless efforts of so many dedicated and talented individuals on the ground in the region that we have been able to see progress. Nongovernmental organizations have worked for years at a grassroots level to build relationships between Israelis and Palestinians; neighbor to neighbor. These organizations have a true commitment to peace and to coexistence. The relationships they nurtured have helped to build bridges within these communities that I hope will sustain a lasting peace in the region.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. BERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from California (Mr. BERMAN) that the House suspend the rules and agree to the resolution, H. Res. 1369.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds being in the affirmative) the rules were suspended and the resolution was agreed to.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

SUPPORTING CHRISTIAN, JEWISH, MUSLIM INTERFAITH DIALOGUE

Mr. BERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and agree to the concurrent resolution (H. Con. Res. 374) supporting the spirit of peace and desire for unity displayed in the letter from 138 leading Muslim scholars, and in the Pope's response, as amended.

The Clerk read the title of the concurrent resolution.

The text of the concurrent resolution is as follows:

H. CON. RES. 374

Whereas interfaith dialogue among Christians, Jews, and Muslims is a powerful way to bridge the chasms of mistrust and misunderstanding that can divide adherents to the 3 Abrahamic faiths;

Whereas a number of important initiatives to enhance interfaith dialogue have been launched in recent years;

Whereas in 1997, the Three Faiths Forum was founded in London and has focused on "improving understanding between the Muslim, Christian, and Jewish communities";

Whereas in 1998, the Foundation for the Three Cultures of the Mediterranean was founded in Seville, Spain, by former Israeli Prime Minister Shimon Peres, King Juan Carlos I of Spain, and King Hassan II of Morocco, with the objective of promoting cooperation between Christians, Jews, and Muslims;

Whereas in 2005, King Abdullah II of the Hashemite Kingdom of Jordan launched the "Amman Interfaith Message" in order to "establish full acceptance and goodwill" between Christians, Jews, and Muslims;

Whereas in 2007, 138 Muslim scholars, leaders, and activists sent a letter to numerous Christian leaders expressing their support for peace, harmony, and goodwill between Christians, Jews, and Muslims;

Whereas in 2007, the Council of Religious Institutions of the Holy Land was founded "to advance [the] sacred values [of Christianity, Islam, and Judaism], to prevent religion from being used as a source of conflict, and instead serve the goals of just and comprehensive peace and reconciliation";

Whereas the Vatican has announced that the Pope intends to address a Catholic-Muslim summit of religious leaders in November 2008;

Whereas interfaith dialogue has the potential to inspire men and women around the world to appreciate the common values shared by adherents of different religions, thereby strengthening the bonds of respect, cooperation, and tolerance against the forces of radicalism, extremism, and hatred;

Whereas these initiatives provide an opportunity to elevate the voices of people of faith who, often at risk to themselves, advocate for peace and understanding, courageous positions too often drowned out by radical extremists; and

Whereas unity among leaders of different faiths is a powerful weapon to fight intolerance, marginalize extremism, and defeat the agents of terrorism: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the House of Representatives (the Senate concurring), That it is the sense of Congress that—

(1) the United States supports the spirit of peace and desire for unity displayed in initiatives of interfaith dialogue among leaders of the 3 Abrahamic faiths;

(2) the United States further supports additional meetings of Christian, Jewish, and Muslim religious leaders aimed at greater dialogue between the religions;

(3) the United States encourages the many people of faith around the world who reject terrorism, radicalism, and extremism to join these and similar efforts in order to build a common bond based on peace, reconciliation, and a commitment to tolerance; and

(4) the United States appreciates those voices around the world who condemn terrorism, intolerance, genocide, and ethnic and religious hatred, and instead commit themselves to a global peace anchored in respect and understanding among adherents of the 3 Abrahamic faiths.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from California (Mr. BERMAN) and the gentlewoman from Florida (Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from California.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. BERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days to revise and extend their remarks and to include extraneous material on the resolution under consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from California?

There was no objection.

Mr. BERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume but no longer than 3 minutes as I need an arbitrary restraint.

I want to begin first by thanking both the gentleman from Tennessee (Mr. WAMP) and the gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. ELLISON) for this resolution and for coming to the committee with a sense of the importance of this resolution and for the broader sentiment this resolution reflects, which is a broad and sincere commitment to global interfaith dialogue. I think it's a brilliant proposal.

I am pleased to have before us this resolution that supports such interfaith dialogue. I know its authors were inspired by a dialogue that 138 Muslim scholars, from all major sects of Islam, initiated in a letter to the Pope and to other Christian leaders. The letter emphasizes the importance of religious tolerance and of mutual respect between Christians and Muslims. In fact, the Pope graciously responded to this letter by agreeing to host a summit of Catholic and Muslim leaders that is scheduled for this November.

This initiative reflects the same spirit as that of several other major interfaith initiatives meant to strengthen relations among the Abrahamic faiths, such as the 2005 Amman Initiative of King Abdullah II of Jordan and the 1998 initiative launched by the now Israeli President Shimon Peres, by King Juan Carlos I of Spain and by the late King Hassan II of Morocco.

Ever since Samuel Huntington coined the phrase, much is said in our public discourse about a “clash of civilizations” and about how to avoid it, but we really have to shoot higher than that. We have to aim to seek a comedy of civilizations. To do so, Muslim, Christian, Jewish, and other religious leaders must emphasize the core similarities of their faiths and values.

This resolution encourages understanding and partnership among Christians, Muslims and Jews. Much of the cultural heritage of the West and the Middle East can be ascribed to these three Abrahamic religions, but of course interfaith dialogue doesn't need to and should not stop there. We should support and encourage the sentiments expressed in this resolution in favor of dialogue, not only among Abrahamic religions but among all religions.

While there is much work still to be done to reach our goals, I again want to thank Mr. ELLISON and Mr. WAMP for this resolution that points the way towards developing societies, in the words of the resolution, based on peace, reconciliation and on a commitment to tolerance.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I rise today in support of House Concurrent Resolution 374, which expresses the House's backing for interfaith dialogue between Christian, Jewish and Muslim leaders.

Mr. Speaker, at a time when violent extremists are misusing Islam in order to encourage others to commit mass murder and to do away with liberty, it is more important than ever for true moderates from all faiths to come together and to unequivocally repudiate hate and violence and to embrace peace, tolerance and religious freedom for all.

As true moderates do come together for this most noble of purpose, they should know that America stands with them in their quest.

Mr. Speaker, while this important resolution deals with interfaith dialogue involving adherence to Christianity, to Judaism and to Islam, I would like to note that interfaith dialogue and religious freedom should encompass all faiths.

Finally, I would like to thank my distinguished colleague and dear friend, Mr. WAMP of Tennessee, for introducing this important resolution and for presenting it before us today.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. BERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to yield 4 minutes to a cosponsor of the resolution, to a gentleman who brought it to my attention some months ago. He is the gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. ELLISON).

Mr. ELLISON. Mr. Speaker, I know that it's protocol and important to thank the Chair of the committee and the ranking member, but today, I have to convey my very sincere and heartfelt thanks to Chairman BERMAN and to Ranking Member ILEANA ROS-LEHTINEN. Of course, I have to also thank my dear friend ZACH WAMP, who came to me many months ago and proposed that we offer this resolution together.

I believe this is an historic day, and I am deeply humbled. Other than the day that I had to come here before the House to talk about the collapse of our bridge in Minneapolis, I feel the most sense of emotion and of weight and of gravity today.

I also want to point out that this resolution that comes to the floor today takes place during a very special time for people of the Muslim faith, which is the month of Ramadan—a month of reflection, of fasting and, based on this resolution's coming to the floor, of good things as well.

The passion that my colleague Mr. WAMP and I share for this resolution may strike some Members as unusual, but it shouldn't. Indeed, as Members of Congress on different sides of the political aisle, Mr. WAMP and I may not always agree on policy, but we are two men who have come together as people of faith to highlight what we both believe are historic interfaith developments within the Christian, Jewish and Muslim faiths.

In late 2007, 138 Muslim scholars from every sect of Islam, representing communities of faith in countries both friendly and hostile to the United States, sent a letter to Christian leaders everywhere, declaring common ground between our faiths and seeking dialogue among leaders of two traditions that represent nearly half the world's population.

Responding to that letter, some 300 Christian leaders, including many leaders in the United States, declared in November 2007 their appreciation and support for this historic outreach. In March 2008 the Vatican announced that the Pope had invited these scholars to a first-ever summit, which will meet in Rome in November 2008.

I believe the mutual respect by all participants in this effort holds tremendous transformative power, not only for relations between Christians and Muslims, but also for Islam's entire relationship with the West.

I believe it is in the best interests of the United States to support and encourage those efforts so that the world knows that our Nation stands with those people who reject extremism and violence and hate and embrace reconciliation.

Let me read from the resolution: “It is the sense of Congress . . . that the United States encourages the many people of faith around the world who reject terrorism, radicalism, and extremism to join these and similar efforts to build a common bond based on peace, reconciliation and a commitment to tolerance . . . Furthermore, the United States appreciates those voices around the world who condemn terrorism, intolerance, genocide and ethnic and religious hatred, and instead commit themselves to global peace anchored in respect and understanding among the adherents of the three Abrahamic faiths,” Christianity, Judaism and Islam.

Today, our world knows too many people who are divided, rather than healed, by faith. I speak for myself, but I am sure most Members of the House would agree that our religious faith is a great source of strength and has the transformative effect of bringing people together, not pushing them apart.

I believe this resolution will serve to send a strong message to people everywhere that Members of the House stand in solidarity with members of the Christian, Jewish and Muslim faith as they confront ancient and modern divisions so that peace may prevail. It is brought up during a particularly special month for me.

I urge my colleagues to support this truly bipartisan resolution.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to yield such time as he may consume to the author of this resolution, my good friend from Tennessee (Mr. WAMP).

Mr. WAMP. Mr. Speaker, over the last 14 years that I have had the privilege to serve here in the House, many times I have come to the floor from the head.

Today, I totally come to the floor from the heart, and that was the initial motive that I had was from the heart. We can't really speak for each other because we are speaking from our faith perspectives, but I do think that our motives are all for peace, and that is the common denominator that brings us together today. It is historic in the sense that three principal sponsors here are a Muslim, a Jew and a Christian. I happen to be an evangelical.

But we are here in a country that is pluralistic, that separates us from the entire world in that we honor and respect everyone's religious views. We may have a foundation that's Judeo-Christian, but it's so important that we cling to this pluralistic approach. We are not theocratic, and we do not want the world to be divided over our religious beliefs.

The common denominator today is that we stand together against radicalism and violence and terrorism. I have seen polling data in the Islamic world that shows that 92 percent of Islam denounces and does not believe that terrorism is an acceptable means to an end. That's the good news.

The bad news is that 8 percent is a very large number of people. But we want to encourage the moderates, the peace lovers in all of the Abrahamic faiths to stand together against radicalism and extremism and promote tolerance and a pluralistic view, as we have in this country, that is part of our foundation that says every one has the right to worship as they please and to believe as they please, even not to believe, if they please. That is part of our fabric.

The divisions over religion in the world create this danger of some kind of an event where, over religious intolerance and difference in the world, we can have a Crusades-like event.

Now Jesus to me is love. That's my belief. I come to the floor today to say I in no way want to water down anyone's faith or beliefs, but I do believe that Jesus taught us blessed are the peacemakers, for they shall inherit the kingdom of heaven, and I want that to be me.

I am speaking for that belief, and I believe there is a time for war. I believe when we are attacked, we have to defend ourselves and our freedom and our way of life.

But there is also a time for peace, and I hope and pray that is now. I think you have to risk peace from time to time, and that's what I am doing on the floor today. I think we must, as a Nation, risk peace.

I want to commend Tony Hall, who is part of the formation of the Council of Religious Institutions of the Holy Land, also known as the Jerusalem Council, where Mr. BERMAN, Mr. ELLISON and I got together with the religious leaders from the Holy Land of all three Abrahamic faiths to promote peace.

Many times the state departments and the governments of these countries get together to talk peace, but then religious leaders are not there, engaged, buying into what the policies are that will maintain peace. We want the religious leaders to also come together and stand against radicalism and violence and division in the world.

I think the scope of these divisions are so great that this is the greatest pursuit we can engage in to lasting peace, is to stand together against radicalism and to respect each other's religious views. That's what I call risking peace. That's the common denominator.

I don't want to say that I know Mr. ELLISON's motives or Mr. BERMAN's motives, but I know mine. I ask the House to come together and stand together, even if it's for this brief moment, respecting our traditions of pluralism, and the freedom of religion, but standing together united against radicalism and violence and terrorism and encouraging all in the Islamic world, and all in every faith, to stand together against violence and destruction and death so that we have the hope of a world that could exist together in peace, because blessed are those peacemakers.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. BERMAN. Mr. Speaker, with great appreciation to both of the sponsors of this resolution, I yield back the remainder of our time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from California (Mr. BERMAN) that the House suspend the rules and agree to the concurrent resolution, H. Con. Res. 374, as amended.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds being in the affirmative) the rules were suspended and the concurrent resolution, as amended, was agreed to.

The title was amended so as to read: "Concurrent resolution supporting Christian, Jewish, and Muslim interfaith dialogue that promotes peace, understanding, unity, and religious freedom."

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. SCOTT) and the gentlewoman from Florida (Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN) each will control 20 minutes. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Georgia.

Mr. SCOTT of Georgia. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of this resolution, and I yield myself as much time as I may consume.

I wanted to first thank our colleague and the ranking member of the Committee on Foreign Affairs, Ms. ILEANA ROS-LEHTINEN of Florida, who introduced this important legislation.

Mr. Speaker, the human rights situation in North Korea remains one of the bleakest on the planet. This is an extraordinarily important piece of legislation which speaks to some extraordinary abuses of human rights in North Korea.

As we speak, millions of North Koreans live in desperate conditions; political, economic, and religious freedoms are nonexistent, and many are starving and undernourished and live in fear of arbitrary arrests when they know they may be tortured or executed.

The North Korean government knows that access to information outside the country is a threat to the regime's control, and so it maintains an absolute grip over all legal media using it to manipulate the population into believing that life is no better anywhere else on the planet.

Those who manage to leave the country in North Korea face further danger. They face denial of rights and threats to their lives. China stubbornly refuses to categorize North Koreans who flee horrific living conditions and persecution as refugees. Instead, they label them as "economic migrants." This disingenuous semantic trick relieves Beijing of its obligation to assist the North Koreans who escape into China in accordance with international conventions on refugees to which Beijing is a signatory.

North Koreans are routinely arrested and abused by the Chinese authorities and sent back to North Korea where they are considered traitors. Upon return, they are arrested. They're likely tortured, and sometimes, Mr. Speaker, they are killed.

The suffering people of North Korea need assistance. And in 2004, Congress passed with overwhelming bipartisan support the North Korea Human Rights Act in an effort to focus U.S. attention on their plight. This Act provided new resources to assist North Korean refugees, support democracy and human rights programs and improve access to information through radio broadcasts and other activities. It is also required that the President appoint a special envoy on North Korean human rights.

Our bill, H.R. 5834, reauthorizes this vitally important legislation. The current bill extends the North Korea Human Rights Act through fiscal year 2012 and enhances the role of the special envoy by making it an ambassadorial rank and requiring it be a full-time position.

H.R. 5834 was passed by the House on May 15 of this year, and the Senate made minor amendments to the bill on September 22.

Mr. Speaker, the North Korea Human Rights Act has been instrumental in ensuring the issue of human rights for North Koreans remains a key priority of U.S. policy toward North Korea. I strongly support this legislation. It is badly needed. And I encourage my colleagues to do the same.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to yield myself such time as I may consume.

I rise in strong support, also, of H.R. 5834, the North Korean Human Rights Reauthorization Act, which I introduced with my good friend from California, the chairman of our committee, Howard Berman, earlier this Congress. We passed this bill, Mr. Speaker, 4 months ago in a strong demonstration of this body's continued commitment to human rights, to transparent humanitarian assistance, and to refugee protection for the people of North Korea.

On Monday, the Senate followed our bipartisan lead and unanimously supported this bill with minor modifications, which is why we are taking it up again today.

I would like to thank Chairman BIDEN and Ranking Member LUGAR and their staffs for their input and their assistance. Special thanks to my friend, Senator SAM BROWNBACK, for his longstanding leadership on the issues of North Korea human rights, and his efforts were instrumental in securing a successful outcome in the Senate.

During our initial House floor debate in May, Mr. Speaker, we discussed the dire traumas that the North Korean regime has perpetrated against its own people during the past half century.

Rather than recount the horrific circumstances which compelled me to draft this bill, I would instead like to focus today on some of the important clarifications contained in this legislation.

Over the past 4 years, in oversight hearings, in meetings and official letters, Members have expressed their dissatisfaction with the executive branch implementation of the North Korean Human Rights Act of 2004.

In the words of the report of the Foreign Affairs Committee on this bill, it has been "too slow and too weak," and the purposes set forth in section 4 of the original act remain largely unrealized.

After enactment, the administration delayed appointment of the special envoy for nearly 8 months, 4 months after the envoy was required to file a report to Congress under the act, a deadline that was ignored. Since then, the special envoy has never filled that position on more than a part-time basis.

Mr. Speaker, House Members were genuinely surprised by that limited time commitment, which did not track with the broad duties and responsibilities assigned to the envoy and the ambitious purposes of that law. Congress has also repeatedly noted our disappointment with the inadequate pace of the North Korean refugee admissions during the past 4 years.

Even though title 3 of the act clarified North Korean eligibility for U.S. resettlement and required the Secretary of State to facilitate the submission of those refugee applications, fewer than 70 of the more than 150,000 refugees resettled here since then have been North Koreans.

Many North Koreans have been deterred or have abandoned their claims for U.S. resettlement because of the extremely long wait caused by the resistance and the delay of foreign governments, as well as the slow pace of our own screening.

One poignant case, Mr. Speaker, followed by our committee staff involved the family of three North Koreans, a husband, a wife, and their young son. That family lived a vulnerable and depressing existence in Southeast Asia, confined largely to a single room for more than 2 years while awaiting completion of the U.S. process. Even though the mother was battling cancer, they persisted in the resettlement process because she believed that life in America would provide the most freedom and opportunity for her son.

This summer, after a personal appeal by Chairman BERMAN and me, they were finally allowed to leave that Third Country and travel halfway around the world to their new home in Virginia. After years of heroic patience, the mother lived just long enough to deliver her son safely to this land of new promise. She died less than 2 weeks after their arrival.

The United States must intensify our diplomacy with foreign nations on these issues, Mr. Speaker, and work more cooperatively with our ally South Korea, which admirably continues to bear the overwhelming bulk of the refugee resettlement numbers.

To help address these deficiencies, H.R. 5834 clarifies and strengthens the role of the special envoy. It makes the special envoy for North Korean human rights an ambassadorial-rank position to ensure that the envoy has ample stature to pursue his or her duties with foreign governments, as well as to promote the priorities of the act within the Department of State.

This bill makes clear that the envoy position is to be "a full-time position . . . as intended by the North Korean Human Rights Act of 2004."

When combined with the requirement of the original act that the envoy "be a person of recognized distinction in the field of human rights," the bill before us eliminates any misconception that the position may be a part-time undertaking, or a second hat worn by a Foreign Service officer with other, more important, supposedly, duties.

This bill also makes clear that the envoy's mandated concerns include the protection of North Korean refugees.

Finally, Mr. Speaker, the bill inserts a new paragraph at the very top of the special envoy's statutory duties that confirms the envoy's role in the formulation and implementation of the full range of activities under the North Korean Human Rights Act, which includes, in the words of the act: "Promoting the Human Rights of North Koreans"; "Assisting North Koreans in Need"; and "Protecting North Korean Refugees."

The people of North Korea face some of the most severe repression on the planet.

I am proud of the work that our Congress began 4 years ago to help their plight, and I thank my friend Chairman BERMAN, our bipartisan cosponsors, and the numerous nongovernmental organizations who have worked with us to extend and improve the North Korean Human Rights Act.

I urge unanimous support for this measure.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of our time.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. SCOTT of Georgia. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days in which to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on H.R. 5834.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Georgia?

There was no objection.

Mr. SCOTT of Georgia. And a final comment, Mr. Speaker. House Resolution 5834 indeed gives us an ambassador rank for human rights in North Korea. This is extraordinarily important, and this is not just right and needed for the people of North Korea. It's needed and it's right for all freedom-loving people on this planet, for us to move forthrightly and to be able to finally make this a critical, key part of our foreign policy.

Mr. Speaker, I have no further speakers, and I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Mr. Speaker, to help explain the intent behind the full-time special envoy requirement in this bill, I would like to insert into the RECORD a brief excerpt from the Background and Purpose section of House Report 110-628 submitted to the House by Chairman BERMAN.

NORTH KOREAN HUMAN RIGHTS REAUTHORIZATION ACT OF 2008 BACKGROUND AND PURPOSE FOR THE LEGISLATION

Executive Branch implementation of the refugee provisions of the 2004 Act has been too slow and too weak. On February 21, 2006, a bipartisan group of 9 senior House Members and Senators—including the then-Chairman and Ranking Member of the Committee on International Relations and the Chairman and Ranking Member of the Subcommittee on Asia and the Pacific—wrote the Secretary of State 'to express our deep concern for the lack of progress in funding and implementing the key provisions of the North Korean Human Rights Act.' Foremost among their concerns, they noted that, 'despite the fact that the Act calls for the Department of State to facilitate the submission of North Korean refugee applications, not one North Korean has been offered asylum or refugee status in the 16 months since the unanimous passage of the legislation.' The first North Korean refugees did not arrive in the United States until 3 months later, in May 2006.

North Koreans who have requested resettlement in the United States as refugees have also faced extended delays, in some cases longer than 2 years, while residing in circumstances that are frequently unsafe, unhealthy, and insecure. Delays sometimes continue even after the refugees have passed U.S. assessment and security screening, due to foot-dragging in the issuance of exit visas by the governments of the countries where they are located. These delays have been the source of considerable discouragement, frustration, and anxiety among North Korean refugees. Just last month a group of North Koreans awaiting U.S. resettlement in Thailand reportedly conducted a hunger strike in an attempt to obtain information about the status of their cases.

In the intervening 3½ years since the 2004 Act became law, the United States has resettled fewer than 50 North Korean refugees. This does not constitute the 'credible number of North Korean refugees [to be accepted] for domestic resettlement' contemplated by House Report 108-478.

During that same time frame, the United States, which has the largest refugee resettlement program in the world by far, has resettled approximately 150,000 other refugees from around the world. The United States is also home to the largest ethnic Korean community outside of the Korean peninsular region, and many of the 2-million-strong Korean-American community have family ties to North Korea. During the same period, South Korea has resettled approximately 6,000 North Koreans.

Remedying this situation will require more persistent U.S. diplomacy at more senior levels. At present, the number of foreign governments who allow the United States to process North Koreans in their countries for resettlement is extremely limited. Having a greater number of countries in which the United States can screen and process North Korean refugees for domestic resettlement will reduce the burdens that such cooperation may pose to each individual country. The United States must make it clear that this is a humanitarian and foreign policy priority, and demonstrate a willingness to use the refugee assistance funds (authorized in section 203 of the 2004 Act and section 10 of the Reauthorization Act) to help mitigate the costs that such cooperation might impose on countries that agree to allow U.S. resettlement processing.

To further the purposes of the 2004 Act, it is also important to clarify and strengthen the role of the Special Envoy. Regrettably, the President did not appoint a Special Envoy for North Korean Human Rights Issues until August 19, 2005, more than 4 months after the Special Envoy was required to report to Congress under the 2004 Act. The Special Envoy appointed by the President has filled that position on a part-time basis only, and has continued to live and pursue a career outside of Washington, D.C. Looking ahead to the possibility of a Special Envoy who may not enjoy the same preexisting rapport with and access to the President, it is important to ensure that any successor has adequate stature and presence within the Department of State. An active presence at Main State is necessary to ensure that the concerns at the heart of the Special Envoy's mandate are adequately represented in the decision-making processes of the State Department's regional and functional bureaus, especially the Bureau of East Asian and Pacific Affairs (EAP) and the Bureau of Population, Refugees, and Migration (PRM).

I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of our time, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. SCOTT of Georgia. I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. SCOTT) that the House suspend the rules and concur in the Senate amendments to the bill, H.R. 5834.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds being in the affirmative) the rules were suspended and the Senate amendments were concurred in.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

BREAST CANCER PATIENT PROTECTION ACT OF 2008

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the bill (H.R. 758) to require that health plans provide coverage for a minimum hospital stay for mastectomies, lumpectomies, and lymph node dissection for the treatment of breast cancer and coverage for secondary consultations, as amended.

The Clerk read the title of the bill.

The text of the bill is as follows:

H.R. 758

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the "Breast Cancer Patient Protection Act of 2008".

SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

(1) the offering and operation of health plans affect commerce among the States;

(2) health care providers located in a State serve patients who reside in the State and patients who reside in other States;

(3) in order to provide for uniform treatment of health care providers and patients among the States, it is necessary to cover health plans operating in 1 State as well as health plans operating among the several States;

(4) currently, 20 States mandate minimum hospital stay coverage after a patient undergoes a mastectomy;

(5) according to the American Cancer Society, there were 40,954 deaths due to breast cancer in women in 2004;

(6) according to the American Cancer Society, there are currently over 2.0 million women living in the United States who have been treated for breast cancer; and

(7) according to the American Cancer Society, a woman in the United States has a 1 in 8 chance of developing invasive breast cancer in her lifetime.

SEC. 3. AMENDMENTS TO THE EMPLOYEE RETIREMENT INCOME SECURITY ACT OF 1974.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Subpart B of part 7 of subtitle B of title I of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 (29 U.S.C. 1185 et seq.) is amended by adding at the end the following:

"SEC. 714. REQUIRED COVERAGE FOR MINIMUM HOSPITAL STAY FOR MASTECTOMIES, LUMPECTOMIES, AND LYMPH NODE DISSECTIONS FOR THE TREATMENT OF BREAST CANCER AND COVERAGE FOR SECONDARY CONSULTATIONS.

"(a) INPATIENT CARE.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—A group health plan, and a health insurance issuer providing health insurance coverage in connection with a group health plan, that provides medical and surgical benefits shall ensure that inpatient (and in the case of a lumpectomy, outpatient) coverage and radiation therapy is provided for breast cancer treatment. Such plan or coverage may not—

“(A) insofar as the attending physician, in consultation with the patient, determines it to be medically necessary—

“(i) restrict benefits for any hospital length of stay in connection with a mastectomy or breast conserving surgery (such as a lumpectomy) for the treatment of breast cancer to less than 48 hours; or

“(ii) restrict benefits for any hospital length of stay in connection with a lymph node dissection for the treatment of breast cancer to less than 24 hours; or

“(B) require that a provider obtain authorization from the plan or the issuer for prescribing any length of stay required under this paragraph.

“(2) EXCEPTION.—Nothing in this section shall be construed as requiring the provision of inpatient coverage if the attending physician, in consultation with the patient, determines that either a shorter period of hospital stay, or outpatient treatment, is medically appropriate.

“(b) PROHIBITION ON CERTAIN MODIFICATIONS.—In implementing the requirements of this section, a group health plan, and a health insurance issuer providing health insurance coverage in connection with a group health plan, may not modify the terms and conditions of coverage based on the determination by a participant or beneficiary to request less than the minimum coverage required under subsection (a).

“(c) NOTICE.—A group health plan, and a health insurance issuer providing health insurance coverage in connection with a group health plan shall provide notice to each participant and beneficiary under such plan regarding the coverage required by this section in accordance with regulations promulgated by the Secretary. Such notice shall be in writing and prominently positioned in the summary of the plan made available or distributed by the plan or issuer and shall be transmitted—

“(1) in the next mailing made by the plan or issuer to the participant or beneficiary; or

“(2) as part of any yearly informational packet sent to the participant or beneficiary; whichever is earlier.

“(d) SECONDARY CONSULTATIONS.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—A group health plan, and a health insurance issuer providing health insurance coverage in connection with a group health plan, that provides coverage with respect to medical and surgical services provided in relation to the diagnosis and treatment of cancer shall ensure that coverage is provided for secondary consultations, on terms and conditions that are no more restrictive than those applicable to the initial consultations, by specialists in the appropriate medical fields (including pathology, radiology, and oncology) to confirm or refute such diagnosis. Such plan or issuer shall ensure that coverage is provided for such secondary consultation whether such consultation is based on a positive or negative initial diagnosis. In any case in which the attending physician certifies in writing that services necessary for such a secondary consultation are not sufficiently available from specialists operating under the plan with respect to whose services coverage is otherwise provided under such plan or by such issuer, such plan or issuer shall ensure that coverage is provided with respect to the services necessary for the secondary consultation with any other specialist selected by the attending physician for such purpose at no additional cost to the individual beyond that which the individual would have paid if the specialist was participating in the network of the plan.

“(2) EXCEPTION.—Nothing in paragraph (1) shall be construed as requiring the provision of secondary consultations where the patient determines not to seek such a consultation.

“(e) PROHIBITION ON PENALTIES OR INCENTIVES.—A group health plan, and a health insurance issuer providing health insurance coverage in connection with a group health plan, may not—

“(1) penalize or otherwise reduce or limit the reimbursement of a provider or specialist because the provider or specialist provided care to a participant or beneficiary in accordance with this section;

“(2) provide financial or other incentives to a physician or specialist to induce the physician or specialist to keep the length of inpatient stays of patients following a mastectomy, lumpectomy, or a lymph node dissection for the treatment of breast cancer below certain limits or to limit referrals for secondary consultations; or

“(3) provide financial or other incentives to a physician or specialist to induce the physician or specialist to refrain from referring a participant or beneficiary for a secondary consultation that would otherwise be covered by the plan or coverage involved under subsection (d).”.

(b) CLERICAL AMENDMENT.—The table of contents in section 1 of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 is amended by inserting after the item relating to section 713 the following:

(1) IN GENERAL.—The amendments made by this section shall apply with respect to plan years beginning on or after the date that is 90 days after the date of enactment of this Act.

(2) SPECIAL RULE FOR COLLECTIVE BARGAINING AGREEMENTS.—In the case of a group health plan maintained pursuant to 1 or more collective bargaining agreements between employee representatives and 1 or more employers ratified before the date of enactment of this Act, the amendments made by this section shall not apply to plan years beginning before the date on which the last collective bargaining agreements relating to the plan terminates (determined without regard to any extension thereof agreed to after the date of enactment of this Act). For purposes of this paragraph, any plan amendment made pursuant to a collective bargaining agreement relating to the plan which amends the plan solely to conform to any requirement added by this section shall not be treated as a termination of such collective bargaining agreement.

SEC. 4. AMENDMENTS TO THE PUBLIC HEALTH SERVICE ACT RELATING TO THE GROUP MARKET.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Subpart 2 of part A of title XXVII of the Public Health Service Act (42 U.S.C. 300gg–4 et seq.) is amended by adding at the end the following:

“SEC. 2707. REQUIRED COVERAGE FOR MINIMUM HOSPITAL STAY FOR MASTECTOMIES, LUMPECTOMIES, AND LYMPH NODE DISSECTIONS FOR THE TREATMENT OF BREAST CANCER AND COVERAGE FOR SECONDARY CONSULTATIONS.

“(a) INPATIENT CARE.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—A group health plan, and a health insurance issuer providing health insurance coverage in connection with a group health plan, that provides medical and surgical benefits shall ensure that inpatient

(and in the case of a lumpectomy, outpatient) coverage and radiation therapy is provided for breast cancer treatment. Such plan or coverage may not—

“(A) insofar as the attending physician, in consultation with the patient, determines it to be medically necessary—

“(i) restrict benefits for any hospital length of stay in connection with a mastectomy or breast conserving surgery (such as a lumpectomy) for the treatment of breast cancer to less than 48 hours; or

“(ii) restrict benefits for any hospital length of stay in connection with a lymph node dissection for the treatment of breast cancer to less than 24 hours; or

“(B) require that a provider obtain authorization from the plan or the issuer for prescribing any length of stay required under this paragraph.

“(2) EXCEPTION.—Nothing in this section shall be construed as requiring the provision of inpatient coverage if the attending physician, in consultation with the patient, determines that either a shorter period of hospital stay, or outpatient treatment, is medically appropriate.

“(b) PROHIBITION ON CERTAIN MODIFICATIONS.—In implementing the requirements of this section, a group health plan, and a health insurance issuer providing health insurance coverage in connection with a group health plan, may not modify the terms and conditions of coverage based on the determination by a participant or beneficiary to request less than the minimum coverage required under subsection (a).

“(c) NOTICE.—A group health plan, and a health insurance issuer providing health insurance coverage in connection with a group health plan shall provide notice to each participant and beneficiary under such plan regarding the coverage required by this section in accordance with regulations promulgated by the Secretary. Such notice shall be in writing and prominently positioned in the summary of the plan made available or distributed by the plan or issuer and shall be transmitted—

“(1) in the next mailing made by the plan or issuer to the participant or beneficiary; or

“(2) as part of any yearly informational packet sent to the participant or beneficiary; whichever is earlier.

“(d) SECONDARY CONSULTATIONS.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—A group health plan, and a health insurance issuer providing health insurance coverage in connection with a group health plan, that provides coverage with respect to medical and surgical services provided in relation to the diagnosis and treatment of cancer shall ensure that coverage is provided for secondary consultations, on terms and conditions that are no more restrictive than those applicable to the initial consultations, by specialists in the appropriate medical fields (including pathology, radiology, and oncology) to confirm or refute such diagnosis. Such plan or issuer shall ensure that coverage is provided for such secondary consultation whether such consultation is based on a positive or negative initial diagnosis. In any case in which the attending physician certifies in writing that services necessary for such a secondary consultation are not sufficiently available from specialists operating under the plan with respect to whose services coverage is otherwise provided under such plan or by such issuer, such plan or issuer shall ensure that coverage is provided with respect to the services necessary for the secondary consultation with any other specialist selected by the attending physician for such purpose at no additional cost to the individual beyond that which the individual would have paid if the specialist was participating in the network of the plan.

“(2) EXCEPTION.—Nothing in paragraph (1) shall be construed as requiring the provision of secondary consultations where the patient determines not to seek such a consultation.

“(e) PROHIBITION ON PENALTIES OR INCENTIVES.—A group health plan, and a health insurance issuer providing health insurance coverage in connection with a group health plan, may not—

“(1) penalize or otherwise reduce or limit the reimbursement of a provider or specialist because the provider or specialist provided care to a participant or beneficiary in accordance with this section;

“(2) provide financial or other incentives to a physician or specialist to induce the physician or specialist to keep the length of inpatient stays of patients following a mastectomy, lumpectomy, or a lymph node dissection for the treatment of breast cancer below certain limits or to limit referrals for secondary consultations; or

“(3) provide financial or other incentives to a physician or specialist to induce the physician or specialist to refrain from referring a participant or beneficiary for a secondary consultation that would otherwise be covered by the plan or coverage involved under subsection (d).”.

(1) IN GENERAL.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to group health plans for plan years beginning on or after 90 days after the date of enactment of this Act.

(2) SPECIAL RULE FOR COLLECTIVE BARGAINING AGREEMENTS.—In the case of a group health plan maintained pursuant to 1 or more collective bargaining agreements between employee representatives and 1 or more employers ratified before the date of enactment of this Act, the amendments made by this section shall not apply to plan years beginning before the date on which the last collective bargaining agreements relating to the plan terminates (determined without regard to any extension thereof agreed to after the date of enactment of this Act). For purposes of this paragraph, any plan amendment made pursuant to a collective bargaining agreement relating to the plan which amends the plan solely to conform to any requirement added by this section shall not be treated as a termination of such collective bargaining agreement.

For purposes of this paragraph, any plan amendment made pursuant to a collective bargaining agreement relating to the plan which amends the plan solely to conform to any requirement added by this section shall not be treated as a termination of such collective bargaining agreement.

SEC. 7. OPPORTUNITY FOR INDEPENDENT, EXTERNAL THIRD PARTY REVIEWS OF CERTAIN NONRENEWALS AND DISCONTINUATIONS, INCLUDING RESCISSIONS, OF INDIVIDUAL HEALTH INSURANCE COVERAGE.

(a) CLARIFICATION REGARDING APPLICATION OF GUARANTEED RENEWABILITY OF INDIVIDUAL HEALTH INSURANCE COVERAGE.—Section 2742 of the Public Health Service Act (42 U.S.C. 300gg-42) is amended—

(1) in its heading, by inserting “, CONTINUATION IN FORCE, INCLUDING PROHIBITION OF RESCISSION,” after “GUARANTEED RENEWABILITY”;

(2) in subsection (a), by inserting “, including without rescission,” after “continue in force”; and

(3) in subsection (b)(2), by inserting before the period at the end the following: “, including intentional concealment of material facts regarding a health condition related to the condition for which coverage is being claimed”.

(b) OPPORTUNITY FOR INDEPENDENT, EXTERNAL THIRD PARTY REVIEW IN CERTAIN CASES.—Subpart 1 of part B of title XXVII of the Public Health Service Act is amended by adding at the end the following new section: “SEC. 2746. OPPORTUNITY FOR INDEPENDENT, EXTERNAL THIRD PARTY REVIEW IN CERTAIN CASES.

(c) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall apply after the date of the enactment of this Act with respect to health insurance coverage issued before, on, or after such date.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. PALLONE) and the gentleman from Texas (Mr. BURGESS) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from New Jersey.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on the bill under consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from New Jersey?

There was no objection.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I rise in strong support of the Breast Cancer Patient Protection Act of 2008, introduced by my good friend and colleague from Connecticut, Congresswoman ROSA DELAURO, and I know she's been working long and hard on this legislation. I am very pleased that we're bringing it up this evening.

This legislation is very important. It would provide protections for women across America who suffer from breast cancer.

Under the bill, doctors, in consultation with their patients, would decide the length of time the patient should remain in the hospital after having a mastectomy and other types of related procedures, and not the insurance company.

This legislation does not mandate hospitalization, but instead, restores the right of patients to consult with their physicians and decide how long she should be hospitalized, based on medical appropriateness.

Presently, 20 States have implemented minimum stay requirements to varying degrees. As a result, some people may question why this legislation is necessary. This bill is not for the women who live in States or have insurance policies that provide these protections. It is for the women who do not. For these women, a Federal remedy is their only hope. Having access to appropriate medical care should not be dependent on the State that you live in.

Mr. Speaker, for the thousands of American women diagnosed with breast cancer each year, this bill would help put an end to what has come to be known as drive-through mastectomies.

In addition, the bill clarifies existing law on when a health insurer can or cannot issue a decision of nonrenewal, discontinuation or rescind a health insurance policy. The bill would also create a new consumer protection by setting up a new independent review process for consumers in the individual health insurance market in the event of a nonrenewal, discontinuation or rescission of a health insurance policy. Insurers would be required to continue coverage under such policy until completion of the independent review.

Once again, I want to thank my colleagues who have worked so hard on both of these bills, particularly Ms. DELAURO, the bill's sponsor; and I also want to thank the chairman of the Energy and Commerce Committee, Mr. DINGELL, who championed this cause during the patient's bill of rights debate, which some may remember—I certainly do. I also want to thank our friends in the minority, particularly Mr. BARTON and Mr. DEAL, for working across party lines to strengthen this bill. This is a very important bill, Mr. Speaker.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. BURGESS. Mr. Speaker, I yield such time as he may consume to the ranking member of the full committee, Mr. BARTON.

(Mr. BARTON of Texas asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. BARTON of Texas. Thank you, Dr. BURGESS.

Mr. Speaker, I want to rise in strongest possible support for H.R. 758, the Breast Cancer Patient Protection Act.

As you know, as our distinguished subcommittee chairman Congressman PALLONE has already said, this bill will guarantee that every woman in America in need of a mastectomy and certain other procedures related to breast cancer will have access to such care and, with her doctor's consent, will be allowed to stay in the hospital for up to 48 hours after that operation has been conducted. This is an important protection for every woman in America; and as Congressman PALLONE said, while it is allowed in some States, it's not allowed in other States.

One of the things in this bill that I want to speak briefly about, Mr. Speaker, is that for the first time we put into Federal law a provision that says if an individual has a policy that's not a group policy but an individual policy and that individual has to have a procedure and the insurer, in looking into the primary procedure, discovers that there was some inadvertent omission of information on the person's health record that's not directly related to the procedure in question, then that person's health insurance coverage cannot be canceled.

I had a situation in my district, Mr. Speaker, within the last several months where a woman had decided to move out of State to take care of her parents. And when she did that, she lost her group coverage and she converted her group plan to a private insurance plan.

She moved, took care of her family, came back to Texas, and in a routine examination discovered that she had breast cancer. Her doctor recommended an immediate mastectomy. And when they went to schedule that, the insurance coverer began to go through her insurance application with a fine tooth comb and finally canceled it based on the proposition that she had failed to inform, in her private application, the fact that several years before she had been treated briefly for hypertension and taken some blood pressure medicine. She was no longer being treated and was no longer under medicine, but the fact that she failed to state on her original application that she had been in the past, the insurance carrier canceled her policy.

Now this is a woman who has been diagnosed with breast cancer. As we all know, if the treatment option that is recommended by the doctor is a mastectomy, that should be done as quickly as possible, yet this insurance carrier looked for a reason and finally found a reason and canceled her policy. Under the bill before us, Mr. Speaker, that would no longer be possible. The coverage would continue in force. And if it was discovered that there was an intentional fraudulent omission, then the coverage could be canceled; but if that's not the case, if it's truly inadvertent, it's not directly related, then you cannot cancel the insurance policy.

This bill and this amendment, if the other body passes it and it becomes law, literally can save tens of thousands of women's lives every year in America. So I am very honored to have played a small part in bringing this bill to the floor. And I am extremely pleased that the members of the Energy and Commerce Committee, on a bipartisan basis, included my amendment that I have just spoken about.

I urge this passage in the strongest possible terms. I thank my friend, Dr. BURGESS from Texas, for yielding me time.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I am very proud now to yield 5 minutes to the sponsor of the legislation, the gentlewoman from Connecticut (Ms. DELAURO), who really has worked for so many years championing this cause.

Ms. DELAURO. I thank the gentleman from New Jersey.

After too many long years, this is a historic moment. After too many lost opportunities, this is our chance to make a difference and to take an important step toward meeting our commitment to the women of America.

I want to thank my colleague, Chairman DINGELL, with whom I introduced the very first version of the Breast Cancer Patient Protection Act over a decade ago. It is his partnership and that of our colleagues, Chairmen PALLONE, STARK, ANDREWS, MILLER, that helped to make this day and this vote possible.

I want to say thank you to the ranking member of the full committee, Mr. BARTON, for his support, and for the bipartisan support of this effort.

More than 12 years ago, I first met Dr. Kristen Zarfos. She walked into my office in Connecticut and told me that HMOs were forcing her to discharge her patients before they were ready, sometimes just hours after mastectomy surgery. Dr. Zarfos' experience inspired me to get involved. Her tireless work with patients in my State of Connecticut and with a network of doctors she knew around the country gathered support for this bill from the grass roots all the way to the Congress.

Today, a woman's chance of developing breast cancer in her lifetime is one in eight. Almost everyone knows someone who has suffered from this disease. If you have watched a loved one fighting for her life, you understand how important it is to have not only the loving support of family as I did during my fight against ovarian cancer, but also adequate recovery time in the hospital after surgery so you have the professional care to begin healing and to avoid infection.

A mastectomy is not an easy surgery; it is physically and emotionally traumatic. That is what the Breast Cancer Patient Protection bill is all about. It says that when it comes to mastectomies and lumpectomies, adequate recovery time in the hospital should not be negotiable. The last thing any woman should be doing at that time is fighting with her insurance company.

This bill does not mandate a 48-hour hospital stay if a patient chooses to go home sooner, nor does it set 48 hours as a maximum amount of time a woman can stay in the hospital. It simply ensures that any decision in favor of a shorter or longer hospital stay will be made by the patient and her doctor, and not an insurance company. It would also ensure women have access to second opinions and adequate hospital stays after having a lumpectomy.

Some may argue that the time for a bill like this has already passed, that States are beginning to address the issue, but the truth is that drive-through mastectomies continue to today.

At the Energy and Commerce Subcommittee hearing this spring—and I thank, again, the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. PALLONE)—breast cancer patient Alva Williams testified that she had a mastectomy on March 6, 2006 and was sent home several hours after surgery. Her insurance company would not cover an overnight stay. Ms. Williams had family to take care of her at home, but they had no medical training. She developed an infection in her incisions. Recovering from the infection caused Ms. Williams' chemotherapy treatments to be delayed by 6 weeks.

All across the Nation women continue to suffer the same way that Alva Williams suffered, physically and emotionally, and yet without the care they should rightfully be getting for the insurance premiums that they have paid. And all across this Nation people everywhere are saying, "No more."

Twenty-three million Americans have signed Lifetime Television's petition calling for the Breast Cancer Patient Protection Act's passage. Now with 222 cosponsors in the House and Senators SNOWE and LANDRIEU leading 19 cosponsors in the Senate, strong bipartisan support exists for these most basic patient protections.

I urge my colleagues to support the Breast Cancer Patient Protection Act. Make this day a powerful turning point. We have a tremendous opportunity today to make it clear to women, to cancer patients, and to their families that we value your health.

I again thank my colleagues, and urge the support of this bill.

Mr. BURGESS. Mr. Speaker, this is an important bill. It raises a fundamental question, who should make a medical decision? Is it the insurance company? Is it the HMO? Is it the United States Congress? Or is it a Federal agency? The answer to that question is "none of the above," it is the patient's physician, in consultation with the patient and her family. And this rightfully puts the decision back where it should have been all the time. Patient, in consultation with physician or family, should make the appropriate decision.

There is nothing in this bill that says a 48-hour stay is required or mandated. There is nothing in this bill that says a 48-hour stay is a maximum length of time.

I also want to thank the ranking member, Mr. BARTON, of the full committee for bringing the important amendment that would disallow an insurance company for rejecting a patient's claim based on an inadvertent error in the application process. This amounts to a clerical error that might seriously jeopardize a patient's health or leave a patient who was not expecting a very large medical expenditure to suddenly be facing one. And certainly, given the status of today's economic climate, that would be an intolerable occurrence as well.

I thank the author of the bill for bringing it forward. I thank the subcommittee chairman for bringing it to the floor.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentlewoman from California (Ms. WOOLSEY).

Ms. WOOLSEY. Thank you, Mr. PALLONE, and to the other side of the aisle, for bringing this wonderful bill before us, H.R. 758, the Breast Cancer Patient Protection Act.

Breast cancer is the second leading cause of cancer death among women and the leading cause of cancer death among women under the age of 40.

Marin County, in my district, just north of the Golden Gate Bridge in San Francisco, has the highest rate of breast cancer in the United States of America. Marin's rates are approximately 40 percent higher than national average, and about 30 percent higher than the rest of the Bay Area.

My constituents are personally involved in our need to increase the funding for research so that we can learn more about what is causing breast cancer and how best to treat it.

We must also pass H.R. 758, the Breast Cancer Patient Protection Act, so that we can ensure that doctors are the ones making the decisions about medical care, not health insurance companies, not clerks.

This bill, H.R. 758, will prohibit drive-through mastectomies. It will ensure that women receive the best possible care. The last thing a patient and her family needs to be dealing with when trying to fight breast cancer is battling with a health insurance company, battling about covering necessary medical treatment.

Again, Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues to support H.R. 758, the Breast Cancer Patient Protection Act, to leave the decisions about the medical care of breast cancer patients to doctors and their patients, not health insurance companies.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time to close very briefly.

I cannot stress enough how important this legislation is. We obviously need to put an end to the drive-through mastectomy. And although it may be the case that they have been eliminated in a number of States, they have not been nationally. I would urge my colleagues to support this legislation.

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I speak today on an important bill that I believe in, H.R. 758, The Breast Cancer Patient Protection Act of 2007. This bill is important to people facing this horrible disease, and it is time that we protect those who are the most vulnerable among us.

Patients who have breast cancer face a very tough road ahead. The medical realities are enough to frighten anyone and these patients face financial realities as well. With an ever corporatizing of the American health care system, it's more of an in and out process. Even those with excellent healthcare are pushed out of hospitals with great speed. Worse yet, those who do survive face an uphill battle making sure they can get the follow up they need to assure a long and healthy life.

This bill will show support for those with breast cancer that they are not alone. Worried that while they are recovering from major surgery, their insurance company will look at the bottom line, and no longer pay for hospital stays. This bill will require insurance companies to pay for the stays as long as the doctor thinks is necessary. As I am sure all of my colleagues know, you cannot get an insurance company to do anything without regulation.

This legislation will also remove the doctor's biggest challenge, needing insurer's permission before doing what they believe is medically necessary. There is nothing worse about our healthcare system today than the thought that it's not your doctor making the decisions for your care, but it's the insurance company that pays him or her. It's an unfortunate reality that doctors must choose between caring for their patients and keeping their practice and families afloat. This bill will at least give these doctors back the right to have the option of always putting their patients first.

Last, this bill also provides for secondary consultations by specialists in the appropriate medical fields to confirm or refute a diagnosis of cancer. While the vast majority of cancer diagnoses are correct, with the small numbers that are "false positives" this bill will allow for patients to double check their status before undergoing very expensive and dangerous treatment.

I am reminded of the American political commentator, journalist, and author, Molly Ivins of Texas. Diagnosed with breast cancer when she was 55, she didn't look down on her situation and feel sorry for herself. She instead looked at it as an opportunity saying, "One of the things I said was that I had been in great hopes I would become a better person as a result of confronting my own mortality, but it actually never happened. I didn't become a better person." After two mastectomies, Molly toured around the country speaking out about breast cancer awareness, tragically she later died of the disease.

Almost everyone has had, or knows someone who has breast cancer, it's our mothers and daughters, sisters and friends who face this disease, and it's time we honor them, by protecting those who come after them. I also pay tribute to the work of Sister's Network in supporting this bill.

Mr. Speaker, we need to make sure that doctors are making the right diagnosis, that they are making the choices in care and not the insurance companies and that the health and care of these patients are in the right hands. I urge passage of this bill.

Mr. LARSON of Connecticut. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in strong support of H.R. 758: the "Breast Care Patient Protection Act of 2008." I would like to commend my colleague, Congresswoman ROSA DELAURO who has fought passionately for issues like these since she entered the Congress.

Put simply, this bill protects the health of women and ensures they have the time they need to recover from difficult medical procedures. With passage of this legislation no longer will women have to feel pushed out the door following breast cancer treatment. There are too many stories of women across the country who have suffered from not being given the proper time to recover from breast cancer surgery for Congress to stand idle.

According to the Connecticut Department of Health, in 2004, 29 percent of all new diagnosed cases of cancer in Connecticut were breast cancer. This was more than any other type of cancer diagnosed in women in the State.

While we need to continue to be vigilant in the fight against the causes of breast cancer we must also ensure that those seeking treatment are given the protections to allow for them to properly recover. I again commend my colleague Ms. DELAURO and repeat my firm support of this legislation.

Ms. SLAUGHTER. Mr. Speaker, today I rise in support of the Breast Cancer Patient Protection Act and urge its passage.

Breast cancer is so pervasive it touches every American family. One in eight women can expect to be diagnosed with breast cancer during her lifetime, and it remains the number one cause of death in women between the ages of 30 and 54. In my congressional district there are almost 1,500 incidences of breast cancer and nearly 300 women die from this disease every year.

Breast cancer surgery is not easy, physically or emotionally—but all too often women find themselves forced by their insurance companies to leave the hospital before they are ready—sometimes just hours after surgery.

One woman from New York said: "I was one of those women that was forced out of the hospital after having a double bilateral mastectomy with four drainage tubes still attached. It was the most barbaric thing ever done to me."

Rushing a woman through a hospital stay and pressuring her to return to her normal life almost immediately, hampers her recovery at the least and may put her in grave danger. That is why it is imperative that we pass the Breast Cancer Patient Protection Act.

This bill would help ensure that patients have adequate support after breast cancer surgery by: Guaranteeing a minimum hospital stay of 48 hours for a woman having a mastectomy or lumpectomy, and 24 hours for a woman undergoing a lymph node removal; requiring health plans to include notice of these benefits in their monthly mailing and yearly information packet sent to plan participants; and requiring plans to cover a second opinion should the patient seek one.

We must also support research into better breast cancer detection methods. Mammographies miss too many women and cannot suffice as our gold standard.

Women diagnosed with breast cancer across this country deserve the best care possible—their lives depend on it.

Mr. VANHOLLEN. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of the Breast Cancer Patient Protection Act of 2008.

Over two million women living in this country have been treated for breast cancer. This common sense legislation would allow a woman and her doctor to decide—rather than the insurance company—whether she needs to have adequate time of at least 48 hours to recuperate in the hospital from a mastectomy or lumpectomy, or whether she has enough support to get quality care at home. As someone who has lost their mother to breast cancer, the last thing women undergoing these invasive procedures should have to deal with is fight with their insurance company.

Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues to support this compassionate bill. It will ensure that women suffering from this terrible disease have access to appropriate health care.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. PALLONE) that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 758, as amended.

The question was taken.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. In the opinion of the Chair, two-thirds being in the affirmative, the yeas have it.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, on that I demand the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 8 of rule XX and the Chair's prior announcement, further proceedings on this motion will be postponed.

HEALTH INSURANCE RESTRICTIONS AND LIMITATIONS CLARIFICATION ACT OF 2008

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the bill (H.R. 6908) to require that limitations and restrictions on coverage under group health plans be timely disclosed to group health plan sponsors and timely communicated to participants and beneficiaries under such plans in a form that is easily understandable, as amended.

The Clerk read the title of the bill.

The text of the bill is as follows:

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. PALLONE) and the gentleman from Texas (Mr. BURGESS) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from New Jersey.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on the bill under consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from New Jersey?

There was no objection.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of H.R. 6908, the Health Insurance Source of Injury Clarification Act of 2008. This bill would prohibit health insurers from restricting or denying benefits to plan participants if they are injured while engaging in legal recreational activities like riding a motorcycle, skiing, snowmobiling or horseback riding unless such restrictions were made explicitly clear by the plan to the person before he or she enrolled.

Mr. Speaker, this change is necessary because of a 2001 rule that was issued in accordance with the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act of 1996.

While that 1996 rule prohibits employer health plans and insurers from denying coverage to individuals who engage in legal recreational activities, the rule ironically allows the denial of health care benefits for injuries sustained while participating in such recreational activities. If I could explain that again, you can't deny coverage, but you can deny benefits, which obviously makes no sense.

Accordingly, the rule in its current form will allow insurance companies to treat health care benefits coverage arbitrarily and capriciously. Under the current rule, a plan could for example deny coverage for someone who has broken an arm through skiing or riding a motorcycle but would cover someone who sustained a similar injury from drinking and driving. What is worse is that a person might not even know that their health care coverage was even subject to such limitations until after they were actually injured.

So, Mr. Speaker, this is an important consumer protection for millions of Americans who participate in recreational activities every day by providing greater transparency for plan participants. When we enacted the rule in 1996, we did not intend that people would be allowed to purchase health insurance only to find out after the fact that they had no coverage for an injury resulting from a common recreational activity. This bill simply clarifies that point.

I want to thank Mr. STUPAK and Dr. BURGESS who have worked very hard on this legislation. I urge my colleagues on both sides of the aisle to support its adoption.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. BURGESS. Mr. Speaker, I thank the chairman of the subcommittee for bringing the bill to the floor tonight.

This is an important bill, an important bill to me and an important bill to Mr. STUPAK of Michigan. We've worked on this for a number of years through a number of sessions of Congress. In January 2001, the Department of Labor, the Internal Revenue Service and the Health Care Financing Administration, as it was then known, issued a rule in accordance to the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act of 1996 that was designed to guard against discrimination in coverage in the group health market. While addressing the issue of discrimination based upon participation in certain activities, these rules allowed continued health plan nonpayment based upon the source of an injury. This resulted in a situation where some people who have paid the premiums and believed they would be covered by their plans were actually responsible for paying for their own medical treatment because the exclusions were either unclear or very, very broad.

The lack of clarity underlying these exclusions has created a confusing situation for individuals that may ride a motorcycle, might ride on horseback, might operate a snowmobile or participate in other activities that could result in an injury. Millions of Americans enjoy these activities safely every year within the framework of State laws and utilizing proper safety precautions. Earlier last year Congressman STUPAK and I introduced H.R. 1076 to restore fairness and equity to the situation.

In response to concerns raised during discussions on this bill, the House Energy and Commerce staff, my staff and Mr. STUPAK's staff have all worked together in a bipartisan manner to address certain areas of concern. As a result of these conversations in negotiations, we have reintroduced our original legislation to encapsulate the agreed-to principles.

H.R. 6908, the Health Insurance Source of Injury Clarification Act will, number one, require any limitations and restrictions on health plan benefits be spelled out, that they be explicit, that they be clear; number two, require that they be disclosed to the sponsor of the group health plan in advance of the point of sale of the group health plan; and, thirdly, require that the issuer of the health insurance coverage make available to participants and beneficiaries in an easily understandable manner a description of the limitations and restrictions upon their enrollment.

This legislation is supported by a number of groups. The American Motorcyclist Association has been very supportive and very vocal in their support of this legislation, and I certainly appreciate their efforts in advocating for an issue that is very important to them, likewise the Motorcycle Riders Foundation. In addition, the American Council of Snowmobile Association, the American Horse Council, the American Recreational Coalition, American Trails, Americans for Responsible Recreational Access, the Blue Ribbon Coalition, the International Mountain Bicycling Association, the National Ski Areas Association, the Specialty Vehicle Industry Council, the Sporting Goods Manufacturing Association, the Washington Road Riders Association, and many others support this legislation.

Mr. Speaker, again, this is a culmination of many, many months and indeed years of work on the Energy and Commerce Committee. Again I want to congratulate the cosponsor of the bill, Mr. STUPAK of Michigan, and thank the chairman and the ranking member of the subcommittee for allowing this bill to come forward this evening.

Mr. DINGELL. Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to support H.R. 6908, a bill introduced by Representatives BART STUPAK and MICHAEL BURGESS. H.R. 6908 represents a compromise that achieves everyone's goals and is acceptable to all. As a result, the Committee on Energy and Commerce favorably reported the bill last week.

H.R. 6908 requires transparency in healthcare benefits. An insurer is required to explicitly and clearly state any restrictions and limitations on benefits.

You would not buy a car without knowing if it was new or used. Why should you buy health insurance without knowing whether the benefits you may need are included?

This bill does not change what benefits an insurer provides. It merely requires that restrictions be transparent to the consumer. Specifically, this bill requires: (1) that any limitations on benefits be explicit and clear; (2) that they be disclosed to plan sponsors in advance of the point of sale; and (3) that they be disclosed to participants and beneficiaries in a manner that is easily understandable in advance of enrollment and after enrollment.

This is a commonsense bill, and it is surprising we have not required such transparency before. I urge my fellow colleagues to support passage of H.R. 6908.

Mr. STUPAK. Mr. Speaker, this legislation does one simple thing—it requires health insurance companies to be up front and honest with their policyholders when they place limitations and restrictions on benefits prior to selling them an insurance policy.

Currently, the way insurance regulations are set, many Americans are unaware that their health insurance may not cover injuries resulting from certain recreational activities because their policy is unclear or very broad.

This lack of clarity has created a confusing situation for individuals that may ride motorcycles, horses, snowmobiles, or participate in other recreational activities.

While millions of Americans enjoy these activities safely every year, when an individual is injured, they often find that their insurance will not cover their medical expenses until it is too late.

H.R. 6908 would require that any limitations and restrictions on insurance benefits be explicit and clear. Insurance companies would be required to make available to participants and beneficiaries in an easily understandable manner a description of the limitations and restrictions included in the policy.

By passing this straightforward legislation, we will protect our constituents that ride motorcycles, horses, snowmobiles, or participate in other recreational activities from being caught by surprise when they thought that their policy covered any possible injuries from their accident.

I encourage all of my colleagues to vote in support of this legislation.

I want to thank Congressman BURGESS for his work on this legislation as well as Chairmen DINGELL and BARTON.

I also want to thank Bridgett Taylor, Ryan Long, and Josh Martin with the Committee staff and Erika Orloff of my personal staff for their hard work on this legislation.

Mr. BURGESS. Seeing no other speakers on my side, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I would urge passage of this bill.

I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. PALLONE) that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 6908, as amended.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds being in the affirmative) the rules were suspended and the bill, as amended, was passed.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

STEPHANIE TUBBS JONES ORGAN TRANSPLANT AUTHORIZATION ACT OF 2008

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the bill (H.R. 6469) to amend the Public Health Service Act to authorize increased Federal funding for the Organ Procurement and Transplantation Network, as amended.

The Clerk read the title of the bill.

The text of the bill is as follows:

H.R. 6469

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the “Stephanie Tubbs Jones Organ Transplant Authorization Act of 2008”.

SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

Congress makes the following findings:

(1) The National Organ Transplant Act of 1984 amended the Public Health Service Act to require the Secretary of Health and Human Services to provide for, by contract with a private nonprofit entity, the establishment and operation of an Organ Procurement and Transplantation Network.

(2) The Organ Procurement and Transplantation Network represents a unique public-private organization that requires each party to contribute a certain amount of funding to the network’s operation.

(3) The National Organ Transplant Act of 1984 provided a statutory annual authorization of $2,000,000 for such purpose with remaining costs to be paid by the private sector contractor.

(4) In 1984, the annual total operating cost of the Organ Procurement and Transplantation Network was $5,000,000, but in 2007 such annual cost exceeded $27,000,000.

(5) The original authorization amount for the Organ Procurement and Transplantation Network has never been increased since the enactment of the National Organ Transplant Act of 1984, resulting in a greatly increased cost burden on the private sector contractor.

(6) Much of the increased costs of operation of the Organ Procurement and Transplantation Network have resulted from additional duties and responsibilities assigned to the private sector contractor by Federal regulations and Secretarial directives.

SEC. 3. INCREASED FUNDING FOR THE ORGAN PROCUREMENT AND TRANSPLANTATION NETWORK.

Section 372(a) of the Public Health Service Act (42 U.S.C. 274(a)) is amended by striking “$2,000,000” and inserting “$7,000,000”.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. PALLONE) and the gentleman from Texas (Mr. BURGESS) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from New Jersey.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on the bill under consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from New Jersey?

There was no objection.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I rise in support of H.R. 6469, the Stephanie Tubbs Jones Organ Transplant Authorization Act of 2008. This legislation would provide important new funding for the Organ Procurement and Transplantation Network.

Nearly 100,000 people are on the U.S. organ transplant waiting list, and 19 people in the U.S. die every day because a lifesaving organ does not become available to them.

The Organ Procurement and Transplantation Network, OPTN, performs the critical functions of maintaining the Nation’s organ transplant waiting list and facilitating the matching of deceased donor organs with individuals in need of a transplant. It also develops policies and procedures for organ recovery, distribution and transportation, collects data about organ donation and transplantation and provides professional and public education about organ donation and transplantation.

Since its creation in 1984, authorization levels for the OPTN have stagnated at no more than $2 million annually. Today the projected cost of operating the OPTN is approximately $27 million. Over the years, both the demand for transplantation and the responsibilities of the OPTN have increased, yet funding levels have obviously not followed suit. This legislation provides a much-needed increase in the authorization of appropriations for OPTN from $2 million to $7 million annually.

The bill is aptly named in honor of Representative Stephanie Tubbs Jones, our Democrat of Ohio who died on August 20, 2008, from a brain aneurysm. Representative Tubbs Jones was a strong and vocal advocate for organ donation during her life and donated her organs upon her passing. It is estimated that as many as 58 people will benefit from her donation. When enacted, Mr. Speaker, this legislation will provide critical funding to ensure the OPTN has resources it needs to continue to perform its valuable services to our Nation.

I would particularly like to thank Representative DIANA DEGETTE for all her hard work on ensuring passage of this legislation. I urge my colleagues to support this important piece of legislation.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. BURGESS. Mr. Speaker, I will reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the sponsor of the legislation, the gentlewoman from Colorado (Ms. DEGETTE).

Ms. DEGETTE. Mr. Speaker, I want to thank the subcommittee chairman for working with us on this bill. And I especially want to thank Mr. COSTA and Mr. CAMP for all of their hard work and advocacy in helping us bring such an important bill to the House floor.

I stand here in strong support of H.R. 6469, which has been named the Stephanie Tubbs Jones Organ Transplant Act of 2008. We named this bill in honor of our dear departed colleague because Stephanie Tubbs Jones was a committed advocate of organ transplantation and was an organ and tissue donor herself. Upon her passing she was able to continue serving her constituents and the Nation by donating her tissue and organs.

As the chairman said, the National Organ Transplant Act authorized the creation and operation of the Organ Procurement and Transportation Network in 1984. Among other things, the OPTN's responsibilities include facilitating the matching of deceased donor organs with individuals waiting for an organ transplant, developing policies and procedures for organ recovery, distribution and transportation, collecting and managing scientific data about organ donation and transplantation, and maintaining the Nation's organ transplant waiting list.

The National Organ Transplant Act limits Federal support to the OPTN to no more than $2 million annually. But this figure has not been increased since the network was created in 1984. Since then, though, the annual operating costs of OPTN have increased from $5 million to $27 million. The demand for transplantation has increased, and the costs of transplantation have increased, but funding levels have remained stagnant.

The problem is compounded by the fact that OPTN has been asked to take on new responsibilities. For example, Congress recently clarified that paired kidney donation is not a violation of the act and therefore must also be facilitated by the network. But there are no plans available to implement such a national program. The Health Resources and Services Association has also directed the network to assume jurisdiction over living organ donors, a new and very challenging jurisdiction.

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, this bill increases the authorized funding by $5 million to $7 million annually. And quite frankly this amount is modest considering there are almost 100,000 patients on the waiting list for an organ transplant.

This bill is supported by numerous groups, Mr. Speaker. It is a vitally important bill. I look forward to passing it tonight and further continuing Stephanie Tubbs Jones' legacy of public service.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from California (Mr. COSTA).

Mr. COSTA. Mr. Speaker, I too want to thank the subcommittee chairman, Mr. FRANK PALLONE from New Jersey, for his good work in this important legislation that we are going to vote on. This effort is really a culmination of a lot of people's hopes, desires and dreams to further advance the medical science that has taken place in recent decades on organ transplants.

As a founder and the cochair of the Congressional Organ and Tissue Donation Awareness Caucus, I am very pleased to support this measure before us, H.R. 6469, otherwise known thereafter as the Stephanie Tubbs Jones Organ Transplant Authorization Act.

I want to thank my colleague Congresswoman DEGETTE for her hard work with me on this important legislation, as well as the caucus cochair, Congress Member CAMP, Congress

Member CLAY and Congresswoman ROS-LEHTINEN, all champions of transplant communities throughout our country.

This bill reaffirms our Nation's commitment to providing lifesaving care through transplantation, and at the same time it honors our late colleague, Congresswoman Stephanie Tubbs Jones, who gave the gift of life by becoming an organ donor after her passing.

The Organ Procurement and Transplantation Network was created in 1984 as a public-private partnership to facilitate the safe, effective and efficient sharing of organs through donation and transplantation. Since its inception, the Organ Procurement and Transplantation Network, which contracts with the United Network for Organ Sharing, has helped facilitate the transplantation of over 435,000 organs. And nearly 53,000 of them have occurred in my home State of California. I know, because I have worked with the transplant community. My good friend, Dr. Sue McDiarmid, who was formerly the president of the United Network for Organ Sharing, and her colleagues have been doing some amazing work at UCLA Transplant Center to serve the needs of our youngest children specializing in pediatric transplantation with the largest record of transplantation that has taken place probably anywhere in the world, giving these young children, and in some cases babies, a second chance at a full life.

Whether it's a kidney transplant that ends a child's need for dialysis or a liver transplant that gives a person a second chance to play catch with his or her daughter or son, the impact of these lifesaving procedures cannot be overstated. With the advancement of medical science today, we are able to do more and more in this gift of life that is so important.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. DONNELLY). The time of the gentleman from California has expired.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 additional minute to the gentleman.

□ 2000

Mr. COSTA. Still, despite the amazing advances the United Network for Organ Sharing and its partners in the transplant community have made, there is still much work to be done. As has been noted, over 100,000 people are currently waiting for an organ, and the numbers grow each day.

Today, we take an important step toward reducing that number by providing additional resources to continue the increased number of donors to improve and to expand the outreach and to help provide those in need with the access to life-saving organs.

I encourage all of my colleagues to join in honoring Congresswoman Tubbs Jones by supporting this bill and by also following her example in becoming organ donors. After all, it's perhaps the most precious gift we can give. I know because I am one of those who intends to do just that.

I urge an "aye" vote on this important measure.

Mr. BURGESS. Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of H.R. 6469, the Stephanie Tubbs Jones Organ Transplant Authorization Act of 2008. I am proud to support this bill in honor of the late Congresswoman Stephanie Tubbs Jones.

I would also like to commend Congresswoman DIANA DEGETTE for her work on this bill.

This bill increases the authorized funding for the Organ Procurement and Transplantation Network, which has not been increased since 1984. The Organ Procurement and Transplantation Network provides coordination between individuals in need of an organ transplant and donor organs made available from deceased donors. I support the increased authorization levels for the program, which currently represent only 7 percent of the operating cost for this valuable resource.

For those concerned about the increased expenditure, do consider for a moment, in just the arena of kidney dialysis and of kidney transplant, the cost of keeping someone on dialysis three times a week indefinitely. That person can be relieved of that burden, of that dialysis burden. The dialysis, itself, costs significant amounts of money. Of course, that's not to say anything about the quality of life that may be returned to that person who is a recipient of a transplant.

I agree with the gentleman from California. We should sign our donor cards, if we're able, and should become donors because there are people on waiting lists. There is no point in sending organs to heaven. Heaven knows we need them here. With that, I urge support of the legislation.

I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, at this time, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Texas (Ms. JACKSON-LEE).

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman is recognized for 3 minutes.

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. I thank the Speaker very much, and I appreciate his leadership this evening, and I appreciate his managing the floor in such a dynamic and excellent manner.

Let me also thank the chairman of the subcommittee on Energy and Commerce, Mr. PALLONE, the manager of this bill. Let me thank our loyal opposition, Dr. BURGESS, a colleague and friend from Texas. As well, let me thank DIANA DEGETTE, who has worked so hard to get this legislation to the floor, one legislative initiative that has been championed by Stephanie Tubbs Jones and the honor that has been given her by naming this the Stephanie Tubbs Jones Organ Transplant Authorization Act of 2008.

This is a difficult question to debate on the floor of the House because, whenever you think of organ transplants, you're well aware that someone you've loved or some friend or some neighbor has passed away, and we know that when a loved one dies it is never a happy moment. Experiences like this always bring sadness and sorrow, but when that loved one's death can serve, however, as a beacon of hope for someone else, maybe there can be an additional moment of comfort for those who have lost their loved ones. That's probably one of the most difficult aspects is to predict loss of life or to be able to say to your family that you want to be an organ donor.

This legislation, I think, goes a long way in responding to the thousands and thousands who are on the list for organ donations, such as for kidney and liver donations. Currently, there are over 60,000 people on the transplant list for kidneys, praying that someday they will receive a kidney and will be able to live a full life. Liver donations, I know, are extremely difficult.

I want to pay tribute to one of our very fine public servants in the State of Texas, State Senator Mario Gallegos, who goes around speaking openly about how his life was saved because of a liver transplant and about how he works tirelessly for full coverage for those individuals who receive transplants.

This bill is an important bill because the formula that was developed for organ transplants was developed in 1984. It is old and outdated. Since then, there have been countless new regulations that have increased the cost. In response, the marketplace has been shifting this cost on to private entities. Often, these entities are nonprofits that lack the funds to help in all they should be able to do or would like to do.

We need to help these patients with high-quality, low-cost health care and assure those who are needing transplants that they can rest easy in that they will receive the care they deserve. That is the advocacy of Senator Mario Gallegos.

This bill will create the Organ Procurement and Transplantation Network public-private partnership that will greatly increase a patient's access to transplants. Additionally, it will take some of the burden off of the nonprofit entities that are already facing some of the toughest conditions in the sector.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The time of the gentlewoman has expired.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I yield the gentlewoman an additional minute.

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. This bill will also provide an updated reimbursement formula to these nonprofits to modernize the system. Most importantly, it will make a very important statement, Mr. Speaker—the need for organ donors and the great need of those needing organ transplants.

We know that we lost our very dear friend in August, a friend who championed health care, who championed her own health system in the State of Ohio. More importantly, she valued life because she lived it to the fullest. Yet she understood that, in death, you can also give life. This is a great tribute to Congresswoman Stephanie Tubbs

Jones. It reminds us again of the need of organ transplants and of donors in the African American population, which makes up about 12 percent of the Nation's population, about 12 percent of the patients who donate but 23 percent of the need.

So this is an important step forward, this legislation that is now being renewed. It is an important tribute to Congresswoman Stephanie Tubbs Jones and to her family. Out of the joyful life that she had, she then gave life in death and reminded us of the importance of organ transplants and of the life they give to others.

I ask my colleagues to support this legislation.

Mr. Speaker, I rise today to voice my support for House Resolution 6469, The Organ Transplant Authorization Act of 2008. Whether in war or peace, the greatest gift one person can give to another is the gift of life.

When a loved one dies, it is never a happy moment; experiences like this always bring sadness and sorrow. When that loved one's death can serve as a beacon of hope for another, it does not lessen the sadness; it allows the family to have a good, if small, memory of the loss of their loved one.

Thankfully, there are a great number of cases of living donors sharing the gift of life instead of giving it. In this country, the need for kidneys grows every year as kidney disease increases. It is estimated that within the next decade, the rate of kidney disease will double. Currently there are over 60,000 people on the transplant list praying that someday they will receive a kidney and will be able to live a full life, free of dialysis three times a week. It is time to help patients, all across the country, in need of lifesaving transplants of not just the kidney, but also heart, liver, lung and other vital organs.

Currently, we are facing a crisis in this country with regards to transplanting organs. As costs and governmental regulations go up, so does the cost, and so must the funding. As of now we are using a formula that was developed in 1984. It is old and outdated. Since then, there have been countless new regulations that have increased the cost. In response, the marketplace has been shifting this cost on to private entities. Often these entities are nonprofits that lack the funds to help all they should be able to. We need to help these patients with high quality, low cost health care that will assure that even those needing transplants can rest easy that they will receive the care they deserve.

This bill will create the Organ Procurement and Transplantation Network. This public and private partnership will greatly increase patients' access to transplants. Additionally it will take some of the burden off of the nonprofit entities that are already facing some of the toughest conditions in the sector. This bill will also provide an updated reimbursement formula to these nonprofits to modernize the system.

Finally, this bill will honor an ardent supporter of transplantation, the Honorable Stephanie Tubbs Jones. Before her death, she ordered that when she passed away, her organs be donated, to any in need. Her death, while a great loss for myself, her state, and anyone who knew her and loved her, will hopefully serve as an example for her fellow Ohioans and beyond. Congresswoman Tubbs Jones knew, like all of us will, that there is a growing need among the African American community for transplantation. Currently, African Americans make up about 12 percent of the Nation's population and about 12 percent of the patients who donate. However, of all the patients requiring a transplant, 23 percent of them are African American. This disparity is a growing epidemic and must be resolved.

Mr. Speaker, Congresswoman Tubbs Jones served as a model for how we should live our lives and beyond. I hope that her memory will inspire millions around the Nation to take up the noble cause of saving those who have no other choice. I urge passage of this bill.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I would urge the support for and the passage of this bill, not only because of its significance but also in honor of our colleague Ms. Stephanie Tubbs Jones.

I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. PALLONE) that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 6469, as amended.

The question was taken.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. In the opinion of the Chair, two-thirds being in the affirmative, the ayes have it.

Mr. BURGESS. Mr. Speaker, I object to the vote on the ground that a quorum is not present and make the point of order that a quorum is not present.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 8 of rule XX and the Chair's prior announcement, further proceedings on this motion will be postponed.

The point of no quorum is considered withdrawn.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. PALLONE) and the gentleman from Texas (Mr. BURGESS) each will control 20 minutes.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days to revise and extend their remarks and to include extraneous material on the bill under consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from New Jersey?

There was no objection.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I rise this evening in support of S. 1760, the Healthy Start Reauthorization Act of 2007. The Healthy Start Program was developed in 1991 in order to combat alarming rates of infant mortality and racial disparities in maternal and infant health. It has grown from a small demonstration project with 15 grantees to an impressive 97 grantees in 2005. Healthy Start has since expanded its targeted population to include women and infants through 2 years postpartum.

S. 1760 promotes grant applications that facilitate a community-based approach to the delivery of services and a comprehensive approach to women's health care to improve perinatal outcomes. S. 1760 also ensures the Secretary is not prohibited from addressing disparities in perinatal health indicators in communities along the U.S.-Mexico border and in Alaska and Hawaii.

This legislation reauthorizes appropriations through 2013 for the Healthy Start Initiative. The Healthy Start Program has made great strides in combating infant mortality and in improving maternal and infant health. With increased resources, the Healthy Start Program will be able to continue its important role in improving maternal and infant health outcomes and in reducing health disparities.

I want to particularly thank Representative TOWNS and Representative UPTON for all of their hard work on this legislation. Messrs. TOWNS and UPTON introduced the House companion to S. 1760, and both have been huge advocates for the Healthy Start Program and for its reauthorization.

S. 1760 passed the Senate by unanimous consent on April 30, 2008. I urge its passage.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. BURGESS. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I rise in support of S. 1760, the Healthy Start Reauthorization Act of 2007. I want to commend Congressman TOWNS and Congressman UPTON of Michigan on this bill. This bill reauthorizes the Healthy Start Program.

In the United States, each year, approximately 6 million women become pregnant. Most women have a safe pregnancy and deliver a healthy infant, but that's not the experience for all. Healthy Start provides services tailored to the needs of high-risk pregnancies—to high-risk pregnant women, infants and their mothers in geographically, racially, ethnically, and linguistically diverse communities with exceptionally high rates of infant mortality—in an effort to reduce the factors that contribute to that high infant mortality rate, particularly among minority groups.

It is an important program which deserves reauthorization. That's why I'm happy to support it this evening. I urge Members to support this legislation.

I will reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time. I would urge passage of the Healthy Start Reauthorization Act of 2007.

I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. BURGESS. Mr. Speaker, I would just also make the observation that September is Infant Mortality Awareness Month, so it's appropriate that we're passing the bill at this time.

I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. PALLONE) that the House suspend the rules and pass the Senate bill, S. 1760.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds being in the affirmative) the rules were suspended and the Senate bill was passed.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

COMPREHENSIVE TUBERCULOSIS ELIMINATION ACT OF 2008

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. PALLONE) and the gentleman from Texas (Mr. BURGESS) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from New Jersey.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days to revise and extend their remarks and to include extraneous material on the bill under consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from New Jersey?

There was no objection.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I rise in support of H.R. 1532, the Comprehensive Tuberculosis Elimination Act—a bill to amend and reauthorize the preventative health services regarding tuberculosis.

Tuberculosis causes more deaths than any other infectious disease caused by a single microorganism with approximately 1.6 million people worldwide succumbing to the disease each year. While the U.S. has done well in combating the disease in the past, the global burden continues to be high, and the emergence of drug-resistant tuberculosis has added a new level of difficulty to the problem.

The bill before us recognizes these issues by creating a Federal tuberculosis task force, by modifying the structure and duties of the Advisory Council for the Elimination of Tuberculosis and by encouraging the director of the National Institutes of Health to expand, intensify and coordinate research and development activities with respect to tuberculosis.

□ 2015

All of these efforts will steer us closer to the final goal of the elimination of tuberculosis.

I want to acknowledge my colleague on the Energy and Commerce Committee, Congressman GENE GREEN of Texas, for his leadership on this issue. This bill was negotiated in a bipartisan and bicameral fashion. I am proud to support it. I urge my colleagues to do the same.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. BURGESS. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I rise in support of H.R. 1532, the Comprehensive Tuberculosis Elimination Act of 2008.

I certainly want to join in commending Congressman GENE GREEN, Congresswoman TAMMY BALDWIN, and Congresswoman HEATHER WILSON for their work on this bill.

This bill revises the national strategy to combat tuberculosis at the Centers for Disease Control. The Centers for Disease Control provides leadership and assistance to domestic and international efforts to prevent, control and eliminate tuberculosis.

Despite the lower incidence rate of tuberculosis in 2007, according to the Centers for Disease Control, the average annual percentage decline in the tuberculosis rate slowed from just over 7 percent per year in the 1993 to 2000 range to under 4 percent from 2000 to 2007.

The high global burden of this disease, coupled with continued problems of drug-resistant strains and lack of better tools for tuberculosis control, threatens our ability to eliminate tuberculosis in the United States. The Centers for Disease Control's national TB program provides grants to States and other entities for prevention and control services, researches the prevention and control of tuberculosis, funds demonstration projects, sponsors public information and education programs and supports education training and clinical skills improvement activities to address tuberculosis.

This bill will help in the noble goal of continuing to try to eradicate this disease. I do urge Members to support this legislation.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time. I would urge support of this tuberculosis act and yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. BURGESS. I also have no further requests for time, and I will yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. PALLONE) that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 1532, as amended.

The question was taken.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. In the opinion of the Chair, two-thirds being in the affirmative, the ayes have it.

Mr. BURGESS. Mr. Speaker, I object to the vote on the ground that a quorum is not present and make the point of order that a quorum is not present.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 8 of rule XX and the Chair's prior announcement, further proceedings on this motion will be postponed.

The point of no quorum is considered withdrawn.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. PALLONE) and the gentleman from Texas (Mr. BURGESS) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from New Jersey.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days to revise and extend their remarks and to include extraneous material on the bill under consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from New Jersey?

There was no objection.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of H.R. 2994, the National Pain Care Policy Act of 2007, a bill to amend the Public Health Service Act with respect to pain care. All of us have probably experienced pain resulting from an illness or disease in our lives. Some people are fortunate enough to be able to access drugs and other treatments to relieve pain and suffering.

However, millions are not able to obtain that relief and suffer from acute pain. The National Center for Health Statistics estimates that one in every four Americans has suffered from pain that lasts longer than 24 hours. Pain can impact every aspect of our daily lives, from an inability to work, to being unable to spend time with family and friends.

This bill would do much to help us better manage pain. H.R. 2994 would encourage the Secretary of Health and Human Services to enter into an agreement with the Institute of Medicine to convene a conference on pain, encourage the Director of the National Institutes of Health to expand a research program on the causes of and potential treatment for pain, establish an interagency pain research coordinating committee within HHS, allow the HHS Secretary to award grants to public and private entities for the development of programs to provide education and training to health care professionals in pain care, and require the HHS Secretary to establish and implement a national pain care education outreach and awareness campaign.

Pain is the leading reason Americans come into contact with the health care system, and it's also a huge contributor to the growing costs of health care. We must do a better job of helping to alleviate that suffering, and I believe this bill would go a long way towards achieving that end.

I want to thank my colleagues on the Energy and Commerce Committee, particularly Congresswoman CAPPS and Congressman ROGERS, for their leadership on this issue. I urge my colleagues to join me in voting for adoption of this bill.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. BURGESS. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I rise in support of H.R. 2994, the National Pain Care Policy Act of 2008. Certainly, I also want to join the chairman of the subcommittee in commending Congresswoman Lois Capps and Congressman Mike Rogers for their work on this bill.

Chronic pain is disabling, and it's debilitating. It would certainly be frustrating for both the patients and caregivers alike. Fortunately, most painful conditions can be relieved with proper treatment and adequate pain management. This bill will create an interagency coordinating committee to coordinate all the efforts within the Health and Human Services and other Federal agencies related to pain research.

This effort, along with other efforts of the National Institutes of Health, via the pain consortium, will go a long way towards increasing research and awareness of chronic pain. I do urge Members to support this legislation.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the sponsor of the bill, the gentlewoman from California (Mrs. CAPPS).

Mrs. CAPPS. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of H.R. 2994, the National Pain Care Policy Act.

I want to thank the chairman of our subcommittee, Mr. PALLONE, for yielding me the time and also for his leadership in making sure this bill has gotten to this point.

I thank the chairman of the full committee, Mr. DINGELL, and our staff who are here and have been working diligently on both sides of the aisle to get this bill to where it is today. I thank our colleague from Michigan, MIKE ROGERS, for his work in paving the way for the passage of this bill today.

The National Pain Care Policy Act would take important steps to improve the coordination of research and treatment of pain. More than 75 million Americans suffer from pain, both chronic and acute, making pain the most common reason Americans access or try to access the health care system.

Yet they often face significant barriers in receiving the proper diagnosis and treatment. Pain is often, too often, only researched and considered as a symptom of another disease, and best practices haven't always been shared across disciplines.

H.R. 2994 would amplify research at the National Institutes of Health and also improve education and outreach efforts for health professionals and the general public alike. I am proud of the significant support we have received in the community from various advocacy groups, health professionals and providers.

I urge all of our colleagues to vote "yes" on H.R. 2994.

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION OF NURSE ANESTHETISTS,
Washington, DC, September 22, 2008.

Hon. LOIS CAPPS,
House of Representatives,
Washington, DC.

DEAR CONGRESSWOMAN CAPPS: On behalf of the more than 39,000 members of the American Association of Nurse Anesthetists (AANA), I am pleased to express the Association's support for HR 2994, the National Pain Care Policy Act of 2007.

The AANA is the professional association for Certified Registered Nurse Anesthetists (CRNAs) and student nurse anesthetists, representing over 90 percent of the nurse anesthetists in the United States. CRNAs are advanced practice nurses who administer about 30 million anesthetics to patients each year in the U.S., provide assessment and evaluation for acute and chronic pain and deliver pain management services, and are the sole anesthesia providers in most rural hospitals, affording these medical facilities obstetrical, surgical, and trauma stabilization, and pain management capabilities.

AANA is pleased to support HR 2994, which seeks to eliminate barriers to pain care and improve pain care research, education, and clinical practice. Recognizing that pain is both a significant public health challenge and a burden to millions of Americans' quality of life, we believe that adoption of the National Pain Care Policy Act would help focus our nation's healthcare research in a new and important way on the cause, prevention, treatment and management of pain. As recognized experts in the field of anesthesia and pain management, America's CRNAs have made substantial contributions to clinical practice in pain care, and help provide millions of patients relief from pain. As HR 2994 would help focus national resources on research and translate research findings into improved clinical practice, we ask that upon the measure's enactment that representatives of the profession of nurse anesthesia be represented on government panels and councils that the legislation authorizes, such as the National Institutes of Health (NIH) National Pain Care Research Advisory Committee, the development of the Institute of Medicine Conference on Pain, the development of the Secretary of Health and Human Services' Public Awareness Campaign on Pain Management, and any others intended to guide and lead this critical healthcare policy agenda. In addition, we ask that grants that the legislation would authorize for expanding education and training to health care professionals in pain care also be made available to accredited nurse anesthesia educational programs.

The AANA applauds the work of the Committee on Energy and Commerce for its bipartisan effort in advancing the National Pain Care Policy Act and will continue working toward its enactment. If we can be of further assistance, please contact Frank Purcell, AANA Senior Director Federal Government Affairs.

Sincerely,

JACKIE S. ROWLES,
President.

Mr. BURGESS. Mr. Speaker, I would just simply add that many providers, many physicians across the country, will welcome that establishment of parameters and best practices. Oftentimes we feel caught between the situation where do we provide adequate pain relief to our patients and perhaps risk scrutiny from the department of drug enforcement, or do we risk the scrutiny of the patient and their family because of inadequate efforts at pain management.

Oftentimes it can be a fine line and quite a balancing act. I think we will go a long way towards alleviating the suffering of those who are sufferers of chronic and debilitating pain, but also provide additional resources to the caregivers when faced with these difficult situations.

Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time on my side, and I will yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time. I would urge adoption of this bill dealing with pain care policy and yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. PALLONE) that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 2994, as amended.

The question was taken.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. In the opinion of the Chair, two-thirds being in the affirmative, the ayes have it.

Mr. BURGESS. Mr. Speaker, I object to the vote on the ground that a quorum is not present and make the point of order that a quorum is not present.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 8 of rule XX and the Chair's prior announcement, further proceedings on this motion will be postponed.

The point of no quorum is considered withdrawn.

PAUL D. WELLSTONE MUSCULAR DYSTROPHY COMMUNITY ASSISTANCE, RESEARCH, AND EDUCATION AMENDMENTS OF 2008

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the bill (H.R. 5265) to amend the Public Health Service Act to provide for research with respect to various forms of muscular dystrophy, including Becker, congenital, distal, Duchenne, Emery-Dreifuss facioscapulohumeral, limb-girdle, myotonic, and oculopharyngeal, muscular dystrophies, as amended.

The Clerk read the title of the bill.

The text of the bill is as follows:

H.R. 5265

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the "Paul D. Wellstone Muscular Dystrophy Community Assistance, Research, and Education Amendments of 2008".

SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

The Congress finds as follows:

(1) The muscular dystrophies are devastating diseases that have a significant impact on quality of life—not only for the individual who experiences its painful symptoms and resulting disability, but also for family members and caregivers.

(2) DMD is the most common lethal genetic disorder of childhood worldwide, affecting approximately 1 in every 3,500 boys born each year around the globe. It is characterized by a rapidly progressive muscle weakness that almost always results in death from respiratory or cardiac failure, typically in the late teens or twenties.

(3) Myotonic muscular dystrophy is the second most prominent form of muscular dystrophy and the type most commonly found in adults affecting an estimated 1 in 8,000 people. However, it can affect people of any age—from birth to old age. Described as the most variable disease known in medicine, it is multi-systemic and can cause not only muscle atrophy and myotonia, but also serious cardiac, respiratory, endocrine, gastrointestinal, skeletal and central nervous system complications, as well as problems with the eyes, teeth and hair. As it passes from one generation to the next, it generally worsens with earlier onset. Congenital myotonic muscular dystrophy is the most severe form of myotonic muscular dystrophy affecting infants and causing severe cognitive delays. It often causes sudden death; however, others can live for many years with this slowly degenerative disorder.

(4) Facioscapulohumeral muscular dystrophy (referred to in this section as "FSHD") is the second most prevalent adult muscular dystrophy and the third most prevalent muscular dystrophy of men, women and children. It is inherited genetically and has an estimated incidence of 1 in 20,000 persons. Many leading FSHD scientists note that the prevalence may be three times higher due to undiagnosed and misdiagnosed cases. FSHD, affecting between 15,000 to 40,000 persons, causes a lifelong progressive and severe loss of all skeletal muscles gradually bringing weakness and reduced mobility. It is genetically transmitted to children, can occur spontaneously, and may affect entire families. Persons with FSHD may also experience hearing loss, vision problems and respiratory insufficiency; some may become severely physically disabled and spend decades in a wheelchair and on a ventilator. FSHD is caused by a novel epigenetic phenomenon not found in other forms of muscular dystrophy and is caused by a contraction of repetitive DNA previously thought to be "junk DNA". The unique epigenetic structure of FSHD is unprecedented in other muscular dystrophies and genetic disorders and demands novel approaches and new research groups. Understanding this mechanism will have great benefit to other areas of biomedical research including cancer and other disease of epigenetic origin.

(5) Congenital muscular dystrophies represent a group of distinct diseases, which begin at birth, with varying severity and involvement of both muscle strength and brain. These diseases often lead to premature infant death, or severely disabled young children who require 24-hour care given their developmental delay compounded by muscle weakness. Other children live to young adulthood and typically require the use of a wheelchair for mobility.

(6) Forms of muscular dystrophy affecting children and adults include Becker, congenital, distal, Duchenne, Emery-Dreifuss, facioscapulohumeral, limb-girdle, myotonic, and oculopharyngeal muscular dystrophies. The limb-girdle muscular dystrophies are of 15 known different types.

(7) Each of the muscular dystrophies, though distinct in progressivity and severity of symptoms, has a devastating impact on hundreds of thousands of children and adults throughout the United States and worldwide, as well as imposes severe physical and economic burdens on those affected. In many of the muscular dystrophies, there are associated medical problems arising from pulmonary issues, respiratory insufficiency, cardiomyopathy, which in many cases is the cause of death for persons with muscular dystrophy.

(8) In the 5 years since enactment of the Muscular Dystrophy Community Assistance, Research and Education Amendments of 2001 (MD-CARE Act) and due directly to the momentum established by the MD-CARE Act, progress has been made in the battle against the Muscular Dystrophies.

(9) Investments made by the Federal Government as a result of the MD-CARE Act include the creation of the MD Coordinating Committee (MDCC), the development of the MDCC Action Plan, establishment of 6 Paul D. Wellstone Muscular Dystrophy Cooperative Research Centers (co-funded, in part, by a national non-profit health organization), development of the Muscular Dystrophy Surveillance, Tracking and Research Network (MD STARnet), and the launch of a comprehensive education and outreach initiative.

(10) In the past few years, the NIH program in translational research in muscular dystrophy has grown significantly and funded a number of large-scale projects to further the development of therapies for muscular dystrophy. As part of this program, the National Institute of Neurological Disorders and Stroke (NINDS) and the National Institute of Arthritis and Musculoskeletal and Skin Diseases (NIAMS) of the National Institutes of Health (NIH) awarded a $15.4 million, five-year cooperative agreement to develop new small molecule drugs for the treatment of Duchenne muscular dystrophy (DMD) and potentially other forms of muscular dystrophy as well. The project is a unique research collaboration between private, public, and non-profit partners to build upon previous research and discovery work originally initiated by non-profit partners to identify new treatments for muscular dystrophy. Also through the translational program, three other major cooperative agreements have been awarded for highly targeted therapy development projects in the muscular dystrophies.

(11) Advancements in care have helped prolong life and quality of life for patients with muscular dystrophy.

(12) There remains a shortage of qualified researchers in the field of muscular dystrophy research. Many family physicians and health care professionals still lack the knowledge and resources to detect and properly diagnose muscular dystrophy as early as possible, thus delaying management of symptoms in cases that go undetected or misdiagnosed.

(13) As new understandings of the genetic basis for disease and potential treatment has emerged, the public and health care communities are in urgent need of education and outreach to ensure competent, informed engagement in genetic testing and counseling and appropriate patient characterization so that patients are able to participate in new avenues of research and clinical trials.

(14) As basic research into the muscular dystrophies points the way to new therapeutic targets, there is an urgent need to support the clinical research infrastructure necessary to bring these therapeutic leads to human trials; these infrastructure needs include validated endpoints, current natural history studies, biomarkers, clinical research networks, patient registries and databases.

(15) In order to improve lives and develop effective treatments for individuals with muscular dystrophy, there must be improved communications and partnerships between patients, patient advocacy, researchers, and clinical care providers. To that end, renewed effort to work together by all parties is a critical element for successful outcomes in the years to come.

(16) Continued focus and investment are required to build on the current momentum, respond to public need, and ensure that research and other innovation is translated to therapeutic targets as quickly as possible.

"The Director—

"(1) shall evaluate the available scientific evidence for the appropriate medical or patient organizations for purposes of the development and issuance of an initial set of care considerations for Duchenne-Becker muscular dystrophy and provide periodic review and updates where appropriate; and

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from

New Jersey (Mr. PALLONE) and the gentleman from Texas (Mr. BURGESS) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from New Jersey.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on the bill under consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from New Jersey?

There was no objection.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of H.R. 5265, the Paul Wellstone Muscular Dystrophy Community Assistance, Research, and Education Amendments of 2008, a bill to reauthorize programs at the National Institutes of Health and the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention for research on various forms of muscular dystrophy.

Duchenne-Becker muscular dystrophy, DBMD, is a combined spectrum of a genetic disorder. DBMD is usually diagnosed when the child is 3 to 6 years of age. Early signs include delays in walking and frequent falling. As the child grows older, muscle deterioration continues to progress until, finally, the disease reaches a fatal conclusion in the teen years.

Enacting H.R. 5265 would make a number of improvements to current programs at the NIH and CDC. It would allow the interagency coordinating committee for muscular dystrophy to give special consideration to enhancing the clinical research infrastructure required to test emerging therapies for the various forms of muscular dystrophy, require the director of the CDC to report on muscular dystrophy surveillance, tracking, and research network data collection and provide for respective health outcome data on the health and survival of people with muscular dystrophy and require the director of the Agency for Health Care Research and Quality to evaluate the available scientific evidence to develop and issue an initial set of care considerations for DBMD and provide ongoing review and updates. All of the above coordinated research and tracking efforts will continue to lead us down a path towards one day finding a cure for this tragic condition.

I want to thank my colleague on the Commerce Committee, Congressman ENGEL of New York, for his leadership on this legislation. He has been working on this bill for a long time, and I appreciate his efforts to craft a strong bipartisan product.

I fully support H.R. 5265 and urge my colleagues to join me in its adoption.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. BURGESS. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume, and I rise in support of H.R. 5265, the Paul D. Wellstone Muscular Dystrophy Community Assistance, Research, and Education Amendments of 2008. I want to commend Congressman ENGEL for bringing this bill, and I was also proud to be the lead minority cosponsor on this bill.

H.R. 5265 reauthorizes the existing Centers for Disease Control efforts towards muscular dystrophy. The muscular dystrophies are a group of more than 30 genetic diseases characterized by progressive weakness and degeneration of the skeletal muscles that control voluntary movement. Muscular dystrophy funding is used for surveillance and family needs and assessment activities.

I am supportive of the bill's efforts to reauthorize and improve the existing muscular dystrophy registry at the Centers for Disease Control, and I urge Members to support the legislation.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance my time.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I urge adoption of this bill, the Paul Wellstone Muscular Dystrophy Community Assistance, Research, and Education Amendments of 2008.

Mr. ENGEL. Mr. Speaker, I am so proud that today we will move to pass H.R. 5265, the Paul D. Wellstone Muscular Dystrophy Community Assistance, Research, and Education Amendments of 2008. Today we have over 120 bipartisan cosponsors, as well as the support of the medical community.

Muscular dystrophy is a genetic disease which results in progressive degeneration of skeletal muscles and other organs, notably the heart. There are nine muscular dystrophies affecting over 300,000 individuals in the United States. The most lethal is Duchenne muscular dystrophy, which affects 1 in every 3,500 boys. There is no cure.

Prior to 2001, there were few resources directed toward research and development of therapies and care models for those afflicted with muscular dystrophy. To address this issue, the Muscular Dystrophy Community Assistance, Research and Education Amendments of 2001 was introduced. Congress overwhelmingly supported the legislation. Unfortunately, the authorization for this work expired in 2006.

The 2001 law specified a number of provisions for expanding and intensifying research on muscular dystrophy. These efforts included the establishment of six scientific centers of excellence, the creation of a Muscular Dystrophy Coordinating Committee (MDCC) to develop plans for supporting research and education on muscular dystrophy, and an expansion by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) into epidemiological activities regarding muscular dystrophy.

The reauthorization of the Paul D. Wellstone MD-CARE Amendments officially names the Centers of Excellence the Paul D. Wellstone Muscular Dystrophy Cooperative Research Centers. In addition, it ensures that data collection at CDC is updated regularly with a requirement for regular reports to Congress. The bill also requires the Agency for Healthcare Research and Quality to work with appropriate medical or patient organizations to finalize an initial set of care considerations and for CDC to disseminate that information to targeted audiences.

Once again, thank you Mr. Speaker for your commitment to muscular dystrophy.

I know this bill will have a profound effect on so many families in America upon enactment.

Mr. PALLONE. I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. PALLONE) that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 5265, as amended.

The question was taken.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. In the opinion of the Chair, two-thirds being in the affirmative, the ayes have it.

Mr. BURGESS. Mr. Speaker, I object to the vote on the ground that a quorum is not present and make the point of order that a quorum is not present.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 8 of rule XX and the Chair's prior announcement, further proceedings on this motion will be postponed.

The point of no quorum is considered withdrawn.

METH FREE FAMILIES AND COMMUNITIES ACT

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the bill (H.R. 6901) to amend the Public Health Service Act to provide for the establishment of a drug-free workplace information clearinghouse, to support residential methamphetamine treatment programs for pregnant and parenting women, to improve the prevention and treatment of methamphetamine addiction, and for other purposes.

The Clerk read the title of the bill.

The text of the bill is as follows:

H.R. 6901

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

SEC. 2. ENHANCING HEALTH CARE PROVIDER AWARENESS OF METHAMPHETAMINE ADDICTION.

Section 507(b) of the Public Health Service Act (42 U.S.C. 290bb(b)) is amended—

(1) by redesignating paragraphs (13) and (14) as paragraphs (14) and (15), respectively; and

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. PALLONE) and the gentleman from Texas (Mr. BURGESS) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from New Jersey.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days in which to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on the bill under consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from New Jersey?

There was no objection.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I rise this evening in support of H.R. 6901, the Meth Free Families and Communities Act. Despite recent Federal efforts to curb abuse, meth addiction remains a national epidemic. In 2006, the National Survey on Drug Use and Health estimated that 1.9 million Americans age 12 and older had abused meth at least once in the year prior to being surveyed. Recent trends suggest that meth use is up among women, including pregnant women and women of child-bearing age.

H.R. 6901 would amend the Public Health Service Act to improve prevention and treatment programs for meth addiction. The bill expands grants available for student-driven meth awareness programs, and prioritizes grants that are intended to reach areas lacking in mental health professionals and substance abuse treatment options.

This legislation seeks to improve treatment for meth addiction to pregnant and parenting women, and aims to help professionals recognize vulnerable populations for the purpose of preventing and treating addiction.

H.R. 6901 also provides information and educational materials to employers and employees about drug testing policies and programs.

H.R. 6901 helps our communities battle meth addiction by providing targeted education and treatment programs to the areas and people that need it most. It is the result of the very hard work of Representatives HOOLEY and CUBIN. I urge my colleagues to support the passage of the bill.

I want to particularly thank Representative HOOLEY for her work on this legislation. As many of you know, she will not be with us after this session and I very much regret that because of all she has contributed as a congresswoman over the years. But passage of this bill is important to her legacy and important for the American people.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. BURGESS. Mr. Speaker, in deference to the sponsor of the bill, I will reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I yield at this time 5 minutes to the sponsor of the bill, the gentlewoman from Oregon (Ms. HOOLEY).

Ms. HOOLEY. I want to thank my colleague and good friend and wonderful chairman of my subcommittee on Energy and Commerce for giving me this opportunity.

I also want to thank, and I am sorry she is not here tonight, Representative CUBIN who has worked so hard on this issue. Battling the meth epidemic has been amongst my top priorities in Congress, and it is also a priority for the gentlewoman from Wyoming (Mrs. CUBIN). It is something that we share.

Those of us in the West have long been familiar with the ways that meth has worked to destroy communities, families and property. For over two decades as a county commissioner and as a Member of Congress representing the mid-Willamette Valley and Oregon's central coast, I've dealt with the fallout of meth production in small communities and rural areas where law enforcement and social services are stretched beyond their limit to handle this scourge.

The Federal Government must step up to the plate and do its part in defending families and communities against this threat. Meth is one of the fastest-growing drug problems in the country because it is cheap, easy to make, and gives addicts an intense, long-lasting high. The consequences of its use can be severe not just for the addict but for the community.

Meth addicts frequently abuse or neglect their children. Meth labs are toxic to our environment. Meth use and production raise the rate of property crime and identity theft.

When we talk about fighting drug abuse, we frequently talk about this concept of a three-legged stool: prevention, treatment and enforcement. Just like a stool, our efforts to fight drug abuse will collapse if we try to stand on just one or two of those legs.

During the last Congress we in the Meth Caucus worked together to make significant progress on both the enforcement aspect and controlling the meth supply through the Combat Methamphetamine Epidemic Act. But treatment and prevention issues have largely been ignored, which is why I am so pleased that today we will consider the Meth Free Families and Communities Act that Congresswoman BARBARA CUBIN and I have worked together to craft.

Our legislation has four important provisions that will help our communities. One concern I have heard throughout Oregon in meetings with treatment and prevention officials and nationally is that we need to start looking at the meth epidemic as not just a criminal problem, but as a public health problem.

The first section will require the Center for Substance Abuse Treatment to work with primary care providers to apply evidence-based practices for screening and treating people with drug addiction or those at risk of developing one. It will also direct the center to collaborate with both addiction professionals and primary care providers to raise awareness of how do we recognize the signs of drug addiction so doctors can direct the addicted patients into treatment.

The second provision will reauthorize an existing grant program for pregnant and parenting women so they can receive comprehensive, family-based substance abuse treatment. Congresswoman CUBIN has led the way in fighting for the resources needed for this vital initiative. Too many children have gone into the foster system because their mothers are sent to jail for meth addiction. This initiative will provide treatment to pregnant and parenting women which is much more effective for the mother and certainly cost effective and better for the child.

Another issue that has employers seeking our help is ensuring safe and drug free workplaces. Employers are concerned about finding employees who are able to pass a drug test. In some cases, companies are worried about implementing drug free workplace policies out of concern for the employee filing suit against them. Although the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration already provides guidelines to employers on creating a drug free workplace policy, the chief concern I have heard from businesses is that the guidelines can be difficult to navigate and assistance is not readily accessible.

So this legislation will create a single information clearinghouse in the Office for Substance Abuse Prevention that will serve as a resource for both employers and employees on drug testing policies and programs.

Finally, this legislation will create a national version of an incredibly successful program we have in Oregon, the Methamphetamine Awareness Project. The project goes into the high schools throughout the State with a film production crew and works with the students to produce anti-meth advertisements or sometimes even short documentaries that are entirely student driven. It is a great project that allows students to create the message that they think will best reach their fellow students. And it also gives them an after-school activity that keeps them from being idle and teaches them new skills. This project has been so effective in Oregon, I want to see it expanded on a national level which is why this legislation will allow SAMHSA prevention grant dollars to be used for professionally mentored, student-driven methamphetamine awareness projects around the country.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman's time has expired.

Mr. PALLONE. I yield the gentleman an additional 2 minutes.

Ms. HOOLEY. I thank the gentleman. Congresswoman CUBIN and I have both met extensively with prevention and treatment experts in our respective States and throughout the country. These provisions reflect what professionals have told us are the greatest needs in their field.

With gratitude, I would like to recognize Alison Craig of my own staff and Landon Stropko of Congresswoman CUBIN's staff who have taken these ideas from sessions and turned them into provisions in this legislation.

I also want to recognize the work of the late Timm O'Cobhthaigh of my staff who helped Alison Craig put together many of these forums in Oregon.

I would like to thank Congresswoman CUBIN for her leadership and her great passion to do a bill against methamphetamine that isn't just limited to enforcement efforts. I urge my colleagues to join us in supporting the Meth Free Families and Communities Act.

Mr. BURGESS. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I rise in support of H.R. 6901, the Meth Free Families and Communities Act. I also want to commend Congresswoman HOOLEY and Congresswoman CUBIN for their tireless work on this bill.

This bill reauthorizes a grant program administered by the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration. Methamphetamine is a powerful central nervous system stimulant which affects neurochemical mechanisms responsible for regulating heart rate, body temperature, blood pressure, appetite, attention and mood. The grant program at the agency provides comprehensive family-based substance abuse treatment for methamphetamine addiction for pregnant and parenting women.

The bill updates the law by directing the agency to expand, intensify and coordinate efforts to provide for pregnant and parenting women and for the family-based treatment for methamphetamine addiction. In addition, the bill attempts to increase awareness of methamphetamine addiction amongst providers and employers.

By helping people break their addiction, this program helps to put them on a road towards self-sufficiency and ends the vicious cycle of methamphetamine addiction.

I commend Congresswoman HOOLEY and Congresswoman CUBIN for their work on this bill and for all of their years of service to this body and to our Committee on Energy and Commerce. Both Members will be sorely missed, and I wish them well in whatever life has in store for them in the future.

Mrs. CUBIN. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in partnership with Representative DARLENE HOOLEY to address an issue that transcends district boundaries and party lines—methamphetamine addiction.

While we hail from different political parties, Representative HOOLEY and I are natural partners in the fight against meth. We both represent rural, western districts that have struggled with the horrible effects of the meth epidemic. We both feel that we need a comprehensive approach to fighting meth, including increased education, awareness, and treatment for the addicted.

For the benefit of Wyoming, Oregon, and other rural areas across the Nation, we decided to combine our work into one bill, H.R. 6901, the Meth Free Families and Communities Act. This legislation incorporates portions of H.R. 405, the Family-Based Meth Treatment Access Act, which I introduced in both the 109th and 110th Congresses. My meth treatment provisions, combined with the education and awareness provisions authored by Representative HOOLEY, will give our citizens more tools to fight meth in our schools, in places of work, and in the family unit itself.

Too many young men and women in Wyoming are getting hooked on meth. In a survey conducted in my home State of Wyoming, nearly half of Wyoming's young adults believe there are significant benefits to meth use, including weight loss and happiness.

It's this misperception that leads young people into the nightmare of meth. These people have families, and children, that suffer right along with them. We need increased awareness in Wyoming. We also need treatment options for those that succumb to meth addiction.

I crafted the provisions of H.R. 6901 that reauthorize the pregnant and parenting women grant program. These grants support family-based treatment centers, which meet the needs of the entire family—mother, father, and children, rather than just the addict. This means healthy mothers, healthy fathers, and safe and healthy children. Every success story is one less family torn apart by meth.

H.R. 6901 authorizes over $110 million for family-based treatment over 5 years. We need this funding in rural areas like Wyoming that otherwise lack treatment options. This legislation points us in that direction.

I know that some question the wisdom of spending taxpayer dollars on drug treatment. I don't think we can afford not to invest in treatment. The cost of treatment pales in comparison to what meth has cost the taxpayer through our courtrooms, our prisons, our emergency rooms, and our foster care system. Moreover, the emotional cost to Wyoming's families has been immeasurable. Family treatment is a sound investment, one that this body should make.

I want to thank Representative HOOLEY for her leadership and willingness to tackle the meth problem in a bipartisan fashion. I urge my colleagues on both sides of the aisle to join me in support of H.R. 6901, which will make a real difference for meth-affected families in Wyoming and across the Nation.

Mr. BURGESS. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I would urge passage of this meth addiction bill, and I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. PALLONE) that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 6901.

The question was taken.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. In the opinion of the Chair, two-thirds being in the affirmative, the ayes have it.

Mr. BURGESS. Mr. Speaker, I object to the vote on the ground that a quorum is not present and make the point of order that a quorum is not present.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 8 of rule XX and the Chair's prior announcement, further proceedings on this motion will be postponed.

The point of no quorum is considered withdrawn.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. PALLONE) and the gentleman from Texas (Mr. BURGESS) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from New Jersey.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days in which to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on the bill under consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from New Jersey?

There was no objection.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I rise this evening in support of H.R. 2583, the Physician Workforce Enhancement Act of 2008. This legislation seeks to address shortages in the physician workforce by creating a loan program for rural and urban hospitals to start residency training programs.

Demand for primary care has grown due to an increase in the number of people living with chronic diseases and due to the long-term care needs of an aging population. However, recent trends show that the growth in the physician workforce is not keeping pace with the growth of the general population. In fact, there has been a decline in the number of medical students and training opportunities for primary care in certain areas of practice, including pediatrics, which are expected to have more critical shortages in the future.

H.R. 2583 seeks to address the physician shortage by establishing a loan program for eligible hospitals to establish residency training programs in allopathic and osteopathic medicine with a preference for hospitals located in rural areas.

Residency training programs are an integral way for rural and small urban communities to attract physicians as it encourage doctors to put down roots in the community where they completed their residency.

One important source of funding for residency training programs is Medicare. However, the Medicare program caps the number of residents and fellows eligible for Medicare reimbursement.

□ 2045

This can narrow the number of resources available to some smaller hospitals that have the greater need for residents that will later serve the community as physicians. That cap was implemented at the time when it appeared that the physician workforce would enjoy surpluses for some time, and that the use of managed care services would reduce the demand of medical services. But both trends have significantly reversed in recent years, precipitating the need for a new strategy to improve the health and vitality of the U.S. physician workforce.

H.R. 2583 provides such a strategy. This legislation will make great strides in attracting new physicians to serve in rural and small urban districts that need them most.

I want to urge my colleagues to support the passage of this bill.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. BURGESS. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Health care workforce issues are going to be a major and developing problem over the next several years, and it's a problem that the country really doesn't know a great deal about. In fact, in the next 20 to 30 years our population is going to age, and it's going to grow. And the current trends suggest that we will reach a critical shortage of physicians in growing communities, and it'll be especially acute in some specialties.

The problem is complex. The problem is varied, and does not have just one solution. But in a modest attempt to spark the discussion on how to increase the domestic supply of physicians and provide at least one solution, Congressman MATHESON and I introduced H.R. 2583 last year.

H.R. 2583 will assist small hospitals that serve rural or growing areas by providing them with financial resources to establish a residency training program for certain high need medical specialties.

While we need to increase the number of doctors, we also need to make certain that they practice in areas where they're needed. We need to develop new residency training programs away from the major urban centers. It is a rule of thumb that most physicians tend to settle and start their families and integrate into the community where they complete their residency training program. H.R. 2583 will help smaller emerging communities attract and retain the medical professionals that their communities will need to rely on well into the future.

H.R. 2583 would establish an interest-free loan program for eligible hospitals to establish residency training programs. Over the period of its authorization, it should operate at no cost to the American taxpayer.

To qualify, hospitals will need to have secured preliminary accreditation from the American Council of Graduate Medical Education or the American Osteopathic Association, and have not had a residency training program in the past. These loans would go to pay salaries or benefits for residents, salaries of faculty and other costs directly attributable to the residency training program.

Mr. Speaker, in response to concerns raised during discussions on this bill, House Energy and Commerce staff and Member office staff have worked together in a bipartisan manner to address areas of concern. This bill represents a modest and an accountable approach to the growing problem of physician workforce issues.

This bill is supported by medical groups, and most notably, the American Osteopathic Association. I'm pleased also to have worked with Congressman MATHESON on this important proposal.

So, Mr. Speaker, if Members want to help their smaller rural communities, and if they want to help attract medical professionals that their communities will need in the future, I urge a "yes" vote on H.R. 2583 today.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. MATHESON. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in support of H.R. 2583, the "Physician Workforce and Graduate Medical Education Enhancement Act." I am proud to join Representative BURGESS as a lead sponsor of this legislation and want to thank him along with Chairman DINGELL and the Energy and Commerce staff for moving this legislation forward.

Data shows that physicians typically will practice within 100 miles of where they train. While current residency training programs continue to excel at producing high quality physicians, they do not adequately distribute physicians to communities across the Nation. H.R. 2583 aims to create new residency programs in geographic regions that face physician shortages, especially those in the South, Southwest, Rocky Mountain, and West regions.

A major obstacle often preventing the establishment of new residency training programs are the costs associated with the creation of such programs. Under current law, a hospital starting a new residency program is not eligible immediately for direct graduate medical education or indirect medical education funding. This financing arrangement presents challenges for hospitals that operate on narrow margins, especially community hospitals that lack adequate reserve funds to offset the financial commitments associated with staffing a new residency program.

I believe this legislation provides the appropriate incentives that would lead to the creation of new residency training programs in geographic areas that lack an adequate supply of physicians, thus enhancing the Nation's ability to meet future physician workforce needs. If carried out over 10 years, the loan program established by the "Physician Workforce and Graduate Medical Education Enhancement Act" has the potential of assisting in the establishment of up to 50 new residency programs.

Thank you and I urge my colleagues to support this piece of legislation.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I have no further speakers. I urge passage of the Physician Workforce and Graduate Medical Education bill, and I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. BURGESS. I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. PALLONE) that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 2583, as amended.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds being in the affirmative) the rules were suspended and the bill, as amended, was passed.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

SUPPORTING THE WE DON'T SERVE TEENS CAMPAIGN

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and agree to the resolution (H. Res. 1042) supporting the We Don't Serve Teens campaign, as amended.

The Clerk read the title of the resolution.

The text of the resolution is as follows:

H. Res. 1042

Whereas the 2007 National Survey on Drug Use and Health conducted by the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration estimates there are 10,700,000 underage alcoholic beverage drinkers in the United States;

Whereas research shows that young people who start drinking alcoholic beverages before the age of 15 are 4 times more likely to develop an alcohol-related disorder later in life;

Whereas surveys show that 17 percent of 8th graders, 33 percent of high school sophomores, and 47 percent of high school seniors report recent drinking of alcoholic beverages;

Whereas in a 2003 survey of such drinkers ages 10 to 18, 65 percent said they got the alcohol from family members or friends—some took alcohol from their home or a friend's home without permission, and in other cases adults, siblings, or friends provided the alcohol;

Whereas the Surgeon General issued a national Call to Action against underage drinking in March 2007, asking Americans to do more to stop current underage drinkers from using alcohol and to keep other youth from starting to drink alcohol before the age of 21;

Whereas the Leadership to Keep Children Alcohol Free initiative is a coalition of Governors' spouses, Federal agencies, and public and private organizations which specifically targets prevention of drinking in the 9- to 15-year-old age group;

(1) supports the goals and ideals of campaigns working to improve long-term public health and well being, including campaigns that work to prevent underage drinking of alcoholic beverages, such as the We don't Serve Teens Campaign;

(2) encourages Americans to utilize resources, including the Web site of the Federal Trade Commission at www.dontserveteens.gov and the Web site of the National Institute of Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism at www.alcoholfreekids.org, that provide a wealth of information beneficial to combating and reducing such underage drinking; and

(3) commends the leadership and continuing efforts of all groups working to reduce such underage drinking, including the Federal Trade Commission, the Department of Health and Human Services, State and local officials, law enforcement, public health organizations, community groups, and the beverage alcohol industry.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on the resolution under consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from New Jersey?

There was no objection.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of H. Res. 1042, supporting the We Don't Serve Teens Campaign.

Underage drinking is an ongoing problem in our country, as over half of high school seniors drink alcoholic beverages, while more than a quarter of them engage in binge drinking. Binge drinking at a young age is an especially troubling activity, as those teens are more susceptible to both alcohol addiction and dependence.

Besides binge drinking, teens who drink are more likely to engage in other risky behavior, including smoking, having sex without birth control, and drinking and driving. This last behavior should be a particular concern to everyone as the combination of inexperience behind the wheel and alcohol often results in a deadly conclusion.

Currently, car crashes rank as the leading cause of death among individuals ages 15 to 20. We must all work to prevent such tragedies from occurring.

The resolution before us supports the goals and ideals of campaigns working to improve long-term health, encourages Americans to use resources to help combat underage drinking, and commends organizations that are already working to reduce underage drinking.

I want to thank my colleague, Representative BONO MACK, for her leadership on this resolution. It's an important issue to address.

I urge my colleagues on both sides of the aisle to join me in support of its adoption.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. BURGESS. Mr. Speaker, I will yield myself such time as I may consume.

And I do rise in support of House Resolution 1042.

Since Congress passed the National Minimum Drinking Age in 1984, teen drinking rates have dropped; 25 percent fewer high school seniors drink than in 1983. But despite these gains, many teens still drink, and when they do, it can be to excess, with 25 percent of seniors reporting binge drinking.

Mr. Speaker, adolescent years can be fraught with peril. It is said that being a teenager is risky business. Adding alcohol to the mix can compound the difficulties, and especially when driving, being behind the wheel of a car. Drunk driving is the leading cause of death among people ages 15 to 20. These crashes claim and kill almost 2,000 teenagers each year; and in 65 percent of them, the kids got the alcohol without permission from family or friends.

The best protections against underage drinking are prevention and enforcement strategies by parents and members of the community. Parents should take the time to discuss with their children the dangers of underage drinking, and can use the Federal Trade Commission's Web site as a resource for parents, educators and community leaders concerned about underage drinking.

The We Don't Serve Teens campaign has worked to unite State officials, business leaders, parents and all three tiers of the beverage alcohol industry in fighting underage drinking, and unites all of those participants in a concerted effort to protect America's youth.

I do want to thank the sponsor of the resolution, Mrs. BONO MACK of California, for raising public awareness and her continued effort to reduce underage drinking.

I encourage all of my colleagues to vote in favor of this resolution.

Having no additional requests for time on my side, I will yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I would yield 5 minutes to the gentlewoman from California (Ms. ROYBAL-ALLARD).

Ms. ROYBAL-ALLARD. Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of H. Res. 1042, which supports the We Don't Serve Teens campaign.

I commend my California colleague, MARY BONO MACK, for her leadership in offering this resolution, and for highlighting the public health crisis of underage drinking in our country. This crisis is real, and the impact on the health and safety of our children is profound.

During the 10 years I've been working on this issue, one thing has been made perfectly clear: underage drinking and its serious consequences are not inevitable. From research, we know that parents are the leading influence over their children's decision to drink or not drink alcohol. Simply stated, when parents talk, kids really do listen. Unfortunately, many parents under estimate the problem of underage drinking in their communities and therefore do not talk to their children about the dangers of alcohol consumption.

The facts are, however, that each year, 10.8 million Americans between the ages of 12 and 20 report illegal alcohol consumption. This number includes 41 percent of 8th grade students, 62 percent of 10th grade students, and 73 percent of 12th graders.

State officials, business leaders, parents and community leaders can also make a difference. When they come together to fight this public health crisis, it is possible to reduce the terrible toll underage drinking has on our youth. The We Don't Serve Teens Campaign will help us reach that goal.

From my personal experience in my own district, I can attest to how highly successful the program is in educating parents and their children about the dangers of underage drinking. Last fall I worked with the Century Council and the Federal Trade Commission to bring this important public safety campaign to Los Angeles during National We Don't Serve Teens Week.

The Wine and Spirits Wholesalers Association and the California Highway Patrol joined us in sending a strong message to retailers, parents and adults that providing alcohol to any person under the age of 21 is unsafe, irresponsible, and illegal.

I was privileged to host this important campaign in my district, and I am honored to support this resolution today.

I hope that passage of this resolution will encourage others to become more actively involved in the fight against underage drinking. By working together to reduce underage drinking, we will provide a safer and healthier future for our children.

I encourage my colleagues to vote "yes" on H. Res. 1042 and to do what they can in their communities to get the message out.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I have no additional requests for time, I would urge passage of this resolution relative to underage drinking, and I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. PALLONE) that the House suspend the rules and agree to the resolution, H. Res. 1042, as amended.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds being in the affirmative) the rules were suspended and the resolution, as amended, was agreed to.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

SUPPORTING THE GOALS AND IDEALS OF NATIONAL SUDDEN CARDIAC ARREST AWARENESS MONTH

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and agree to the concurrent resolution (H. Con. Res. 393) supporting the goals and ideals of "National Sudden Cardiac Arrest Awareness Month".

The Clerk read the title of the concurrent resolution.

The text of the concurrent resolution is as follows:

H. Con. Res. 393

Whereas sudden cardiac arrest is a leading cause of death in the United States;

Whereas sudden cardiac arrest takes the lives of more than 250,000 people in the United States each year, according to the Heart Rhythm Society;

Whereas anyone can experience sudden cardiac arrest, including infants, high school athletes, and people in their 30s and 40s who have no sign of heart disease;

Whereas sudden cardiac arrest is extremely deadly, with the National Heart, Lung, and Blood Institute giving the disease a mortality rate of approximately 95 percent;

Whereas to have a chance of surviving an attack, the American Heart Association states that victims of sudden cardiac arrest must receive a lifesaving defibrillation within the first 4 to 6 minutes of an attack;

Whereas for every minute that passes without a shock from an automated external defibrillator, the chance of survival decreases by approximately 10 percent;

Whereas lifesaving treatments for sudden cardiac arrest are effective if administered in time;

Whereas according to joint research by the American College of Cardiology and the American Heart Association, implantable cardioverter defibrillators are 98 percent effective at protecting people at risk for sudden cardiac arrest;

Whereas according to the American Heart Association, cardiopulmonary resuscitation and early defibrillation with an automated external defibrillator more than double the chances that a victim will survive;

Whereas the Yale-New Haven Hospital and the New England Journal of Medicine state that women and African-Americans are at a higher risk than the general population for dying as a result of sudden cardiac arrest, yet this fact is not well known to people at risk;

Whereas there is a need for comprehensive educational efforts designed to increase awareness of sudden cardiac arrest and related therapies among medical professionals and the greater public in order to promote early detection and proper treatment of this disease and to improve quality of life; and

Whereas the Heart Rhythm Society and the Sudden Cardiac Arrest Coalition are preparing related public awareness and education campaigns on sudden cardiac arrest to be held each year during the month of October: Now, therefore, be it

(1) supports the goals and ideals of "National Sudden Cardiac Arrest Awareness Month";

(2) supports efforts to educate people about sudden cardiac arrest and to raise awareness about the risk of sudden cardiac arrest, identifying warning signs, and the need to seek medical attention in a timely manner;

(3) acknowledges the critical importance of sudden cardiac arrest awareness to improving national cardiovascular health; and

(4) calls upon the people of the United States to observe this month with appropriate programs and activities.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. PALLONE) and the gentleman from Texas (Mr. BURGESS) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from New Jersey.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on the resolution under consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from New Jersey?

There was no objection.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of H. Con. Res. 393, a resolution expressing support for the goals and ideals of National Sudden Cardiac Arrest Awareness Month.

While many of us are aware of the importance of maintaining a healthy diet in order to mitigate the risk of heart attacks, there is much less information concerning the risk of cardiac arrest. However, the dangers to the public are no less severe. It's estimated that more than 250,000 people die each year from sudden cardiac arrest.

Sudden cardiac arrest occurs when the heart stops functioning properly, usually as a result of an irregular heart rhythm. Any type of heart disease can lead to cardiac arrest.

Often, though, two or more major coronary arteries are narrowed due to fatty buildups.

H. Con. Res. 393 recognizes October as an appropriate month to support National Sudden Cardiac Heart Awareness. This resolution would support efforts to educate the American public about cardiac arrest and raise awareness regarding prevention and warning signs.

It's especially important that warning signs are recognized immediately because death can occur in as little as 6 minutes after experiencing cardiac arrest. Moreover, women and African Americans need to make themselves particularly familiar with this health problem as they are at a higher risk than other populations.

I want to thank my colleague, Representative PICKERING, for his work in bringing this resolution to the floor. I urge my colleagues to join me in support of H. Con. Res. 393.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. BURGESS. Mr. Speaker, I will yield myself such time as I may consume.

I rise today in support of House Concurrent Resolution 393, recognizing October as the National Sudden Cardiac Awareness Month.

Sudden cardiac arrest is one of the Nation's leading killers, claiming the lives of over a quarter million Americans a year. The most incidents of sudden cardiac arrest occur without any warning signs and can strike at any age, even in healthy infants, high school athletes, and adults with no prior signs of distress or heart disease.

Most victims of sudden cardiac arrest—95 percent—die because they are not able to receive a life-saving shock from an automated external defibrillator within 4 to 6 minutes before brain and permanent death start to occur.

Sudden cardiac arrest occurs when the heart stops working and no blood is pumped to vital organs. The heart's electrical system malfunctions. And in fact, for those who can be identified to be at risk for SCA, an implantable cardioverter-defibrillator is very effective at preventing a deadly arrest.

This resolution will support continued efforts to raise awareness about the risk of sudden cardiac arrest, to improve the public's ability to identify warning signs and encourage individuals to seek medical attention in a timely manner.

I certainly would like to thank the Heart Rhythm Society and the 29 organizations that comprise the Sudden Cardiac Arrest Coalition for their support. I would also like to point out their ongoing efforts promoting public awareness and education campaigns that will be held each year during the month of October.

Certainly I also want to thank the sponsor of the resolution, Mr. CHIP PICKERING of Mississippi, for raising awareness about sudden cardiac arrest and improving national cardiovascular health.

I encourage all of my colleagues to vote in favor of this resolution.

I will yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I would yield 2 minutes to the sponsor of the legislation, the gentlewoman from California (Mrs. CAPPS).

Mrs. CAPPS. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of House Concurrent Resolution 393 which would recognize October as Sudden Cardiac Arrest Awareness Month, and I want to thank my colleague from New Jersey, our chairman of our Health Subcommittee, for recognizing me. I also want to thank the resolution's sponsor, CHIP PICKERING, and thank him for his leadership on this topic.

I have proudly served with Mr. PICKERING as cochair of the Heart and Stroke Coalition for the past 2 years. I have enjoyed working with him as well on the Stop Stroke Act, which we are so close to passing into law, and for his advocacy on behalf of these issues. He will sorely be missed when he retires this year from Congress.

Sudden cardiac arrest claims the life of over 300,000 people per year. It's known as SCA, and it can strike at any age in people who appear to be otherwise healthy. We all know the famous stories of young athletes mysteriously dying on the basketball court or the football field. But perhaps none of us know enough about how to prevent it from happening in the future in our families with our loved ones and in the future.

There are certain warning signs for sudden cardiac arrest which can be identified through screenings, and we hope that establishing a Sudden Cardiac Awareness Month will help more Americans learn what those warning signs are and to encourage more medical professionals to conduct proper screenings.

I'd also like to take this time to promote awareness about the greatest chance for survival after a sudden cardiac arrest: the automated external defibrillators, or AEDs. Throughout my tenure in Congress, I have been proud of the efforts to increase the presence of AEDs on school campuses and other public buildings. Many of you are probably familiar with the placement of AEDs on every floor through the Capitol and our office buildings. They are so simple to use and are crucial to improving survival.

I urge my colleagues to vote in favor of House Concurrent Resolution 393 and help improve awareness about sudden cardiac events and AEDs.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I have no additional speakers. I would urge passage of this resolution with regard to sudden cardiac arrest.

I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. PALLONE) that the House suspend the rules and agree to the concurrent resolution, H. Con. Res. 393.

The question was taken.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. In the opinion of the Chair, two-thirds being in the affirmative, the ayes have it.

Mr. BURGESS. Mr. Speaker, I object to the vote on the ground that a quorum is not present and make the point of order that a quorum is not present.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 8 of rule XX and the Chair's prior announcement, further proceedings on this motion will be postponed.

The point of no quorum is considered withdrawn.

MRSA AWARENESS MONTH

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and agree to the resolution (H. Res. 988) designating the month of March 2008 as "MRSA Awareness Month," as amended.

The Clerk read the title of the resolution.

The text of the resolution is as follows:

H. RES. 988

Whereas Methicillin-resistant Staphylococcus aureus (MRSA) is a type of infection that is resistant to treatment with the usual antibiotics and is one of the most common pathogens that cause Healthcare-Associated Infections (HAIs) in the United States and in many parts of the world;

Whereas a study led by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention estimates that in 2005 more than 94,000 invasive MRSA infections occurred in the United States and more than 18,500 of these infections resulted in death;

Whereas the percentage of Staphylococcus aureus infections in the United States that are attributable to MRSA has grown from 2 percent in 1974 to 63 percent in 2004;

Whereas the annual number of hospitalizations associated with MRSA infections, including both HAIs and community-based infections, more than tripled between 1999 and 2005, from 108,600 to 368,600;

Whereas approximately 85 percent of all invasive MRSA infections were associated with healthcare;

Whereas serious MRSA infections occur most frequently among individuals in hospitals and healthcare facilities, particularly the elderly, those undergoing dialysis, and those with surgical wounds;

Whereas individuals infected with MRSA are most likely to have longer and more expensive hospital stays, with an average cost of $35,000;

Whereas there has been an increase in reported community-acquired staph infection outbreaks, including antibiotic-resistant strains, in States such as Illinois, New York, Kentucky, Virginia, Maryland, Ohio, North Carolina, Florida, the District of Columbia, and Alaska;

Whereas clusters of community-acquired MRSA infections have been reported since the late 1990s among competitive sports teams, correctional facilities, schools, workplaces, military facilities, and other community settings;

Whereas a person who is not infected with MRSA can be a vehicle for the transmission of infections through skin-to-skin contact; and

Whereas many instances of MRSA transmission can be prevented through the use of appropriate hygienic practices, such as hand washing and appropriate first aid for open wounds and active skin infections, are followed: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the United States House of Representatives—

(1) recognizes the importance of reducing the transmission of infections in hospitals and ensuring appropriate use and utilization of antibiotics to meet patient and public health needs;

(2) recognizes the importance of operational research for finding the best ways of preventing hospital- and community-acquired Methicillin-resistant Staphylococcus aureus (MRSA) and developing new antibiotics for improving care for MRSA patients;

(3) recognizes the importance of raising awareness of MRSA and methods of preventing MRSA infections; and

(4) supports the work of advocates, healthcare practitioners, and science-based experts in educating, supporting, and providing hope for individuals and their families affected by community and healthcare associated infections.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. PALLONE) and the gentleman from Texas (Mr. BURGESS) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from New Jersey.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on the resolution under consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from New Jersey?

There was no objection.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I rise this evening in support of H. Res. 988 designating the month of March 2008 as MRSA Awareness Month.

MRSA is a type of infection that is resistant to treatment with regular antibiotics. While healthy individuals can acquire MRSA as well, it is most likely to occur among parts of our population least equipped to deal with its effects such as those individuals in hospitals and health care facilities who have weakened immune systems.

The latest information regarding MRSA is disconcerting. Infections are on the rise as hospitalizations associated with MRSA more than tripled from 1999 to 2005. We must do more to raise awareness and stem the tide of this infection.

The resolution before us recognizes the need to continue research to find the best ways of preventing hospital and community-acquired MRSA. As a community, we must be careful to prevent overuse of antibiotics and to create hygienic and sanitary conditions in our hospitals and other health care facilities.

This resolution also lends support to advocates, health care practitioners, and others on the front line in the battle against MRSA. Through a unified effort, we can provide hope for those who are personally affected by this infection.

I want to thank my colleague, Congressman MATHESON of Utah, for his hard work in bringing this resolution to the floor.

I urge my colleagues on both sides of the aisle to join me in support of its adoption.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. BURGESS. Mr. Speaker, I also rise in favor of House Resolution 988 and support designating the month of March as the Methicillin-Resistant Staphylococcus Aureus Awareness Month. I also want to thank the sponsor of this resolution, Representative JIM MATHESON of Utah, for his work on this issue.

Staphylococcus aureus, commonly known as "staph," is a potentially dangerous bacterium that can cause skin infections that look like pimples or boils. Staph infections also can cause redness, swelling, pain, and drainage at the site of infection. They can be warm to the touch and cause a fever.

Some staph infections are resistant to certain antibiotics and this makes it harder to treat. These infections are known as methicillin-resistant Staphylococcus aureus, or MRSA. They result from direct contact with people who have the infection.

Now anyone can get a staph infection, anyone can get a resistant staph infection. It is becoming more and more common. The national Centers for Disease Control and Prevention says that Americans visit their physicians approximately 12 million times a year to get checked for potential staph infections. In some areas of the country, more than half of the skin infections are caused by resistant strains of staph, according to the CDC.

While most serious methicillin-resistant staph infections occur among individuals in hospitals and health care facilities, there are community-acquired infections among competitive sports teams, correctional facilities, schools, workplaces, military facilities, homeless shelters, and other community settings. These infections usually occur through skin-to-skin contact, and even individuals who are not infected with resistant staph can be a vehicle for its transmission.

This resolution recognizes the importance of raising the awareness of methicillin-resistant staph aureus and methods of preventing infections through appropriate hygienic practices, such as hand washing, appropriate first aid to open wounds. In addition, the Centers for Disease Control conducts MRSA surveillance, prevention, education campaigns to raise awareness, and laboratory research to identify genetic patterns or relationships among the different types of resistant staph that could be used for prevention and control strategies.

I urge my colleagues to join us in recognizing March as the Methicillin-Resistant Staphylococcus Aureus Awareness Month, and I urge Members to support the resolution.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time. I urge adoption of this MRSA Awareness Month Resolution.

Mr. MATHESON. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in support of H. Res. 988, a resolution honoring MRSA awareness. I introduced this resolution with my colleague, Congresswoman BARBARA CUBIN. First, I would like to thank Representative CUBIN for working with me on this resolution, as well as the staff of the Energy and Commerce Committee, several stakeholder organizations who advocated in support of this resolution, and most importantly over 80 of my colleagues who joined me on this resolution.

Since the 1940s, the widespread availability of antibiotics, such as penicillin, and the subsequent discovery of additional antibiotics have led to a dramatic reduction in illness and death from infectious diseases. Today, antibiotics continue to save lives and also have led to many other advances. However, bacteria and other infectious disease-causing organisms through mutation and other mechanisms are able to develop resistance to antimicrobial drugs. The more antimicrobials are used, whether appropriately or inappropriately, the quicker resistance develops. Worrisome recent examples of drug resistance which have been highlighted in the news include community-associated MRSA.

An October 2007 article published in the Journal of the American Medical Association (JAMA) concluded that more than 94,000 invasive methicillin-resistant Staph aureus, MRSA, infections occurred in the United States in 2005. More than 18,500 of these infections ended in death. The CDC estimates that Americans visit doctors more than 12 million times per year for skin infections typical of those caused by staph bacteria. In some areas of the country, more than half of the skin infections are MRSA. In my home State of Utah, reported cases of MRSA are steadily rising. According to the Bureau of Epidemiology for the Utah Department of Health, there were 4,904 cases in 2006.

MRSA and other drug-resistant microbes that were once confined to ill hospital patients are now striking down otherwise healthy individuals, including schoolchildren, athletes and members of the Armed Forces. The resulting "super infections" are painful, difficult to treat, and cost billions of dollars to the U.S. health care system annually. Patient stories about this silent, yet sinister, pandemic are tragic and heart-wrenching. They should not go unnoticed and unanswered by Congress.

By bringing much needed attention to MRSA, this resolution will highlight the need for Congress and Federal health agencies to identify and coordinate efforts to address this growing problem.

Thank you and I urge my colleagues to support adoption of the resolution.

Mr. PALLONE. I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. BURGESS. I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. PALLONE) that the House suspend the rules and agree to the resolution, H. Res. 988, as amended.

The question was taken.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. In the opinion of the Chair, two-thirds being in the affirmative, the ayes have it.

Mr. BURGESS. Mr. Speaker, I object to the vote on the ground that a quorum is not present and make the point of order that a quorum is not present.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 8 of rule XX and the Chair's prior announcement, further proceedings on this motion will be postponed.

The point of no quorum is considered withdrawn.

SENSE OF HOUSE REGARDING PREVENTION AND PUBLIC HEALTH

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and agree to the resolution (H. Res. 1381) expressing the sense of the House that there should be an increased Federal commitment prioritizing prevention and public health for all people in the United States, as amended.

The Clerk read the title of the resolution.

The text of the resolution is as follows:

H. RES. 1381

Whereas the United States has the highest rate of preventable deaths among 19 industrialized U.N. nations and lags behind 28 other U.N. nations in life expectancy;

Whereas various research studies estimate that nearly 60 percent of premature deaths in the United States could be addressed through prevention activities;

Whereas of the more than $2,200,000,000,000 spent nationally on health care in the United States every year (more than any other nation in the world), approximately $88,000,000,000 (or about 4 percent) is estimated to be spent on prevention and public health;

Whereas chronic diseases are the leading causes of preventable death and disability in the United States, accounting for 7 out of every 10 deaths and killing more than 1,700,000 people in the United States every year;

Whereas these often preventable chronic diseases account for 75 percent of health care spending in the United States, including more than 96 cents out of every dollar spent in Medicare and more than 83 cents out of every dollar spent in Medicaid;

Whereas these chronic diseases cost the United States an additional $1,000,000,000,000 each year in lost productivity, and are a major contributing factor to the overall poor health that is placing the Nation's economic security and competitiveness in jeopardy;

Whereas the number of people with chronic conditions is rapidly increasing, and it is estimated that if we do not intervene now that by 2025 nearly half of the population will suffer from at least one chronic disease;

Whereas current research has shown that increasing to 90 percent the use of just 5 preventive services, including—

(1) the portion of adults who take aspirin daily to prevent heart disease;

(2) the portion of smokers who are advised by a health professional to quit and are offered medication or other assistance;

(3) the portion of adults age 50 and older who are up to date with any recommended screening for colorectal cancer;

(4) the portion of adults age 50 and older immunized against flu annually; and

(5) the portion of women age 40 and older who have been screened for breast cancer in the past 2 years, would save more than 100,000 lives each year in the United States; and

Whereas research has shown that prevention and community-level interventions that promote and enable proper nutrition, increased access to physical activity, and smoking cessation programs can prevent and mitigate chronic diseases, improve quality of life, increase economic productivity, and reduce health care costs: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives—

(1) recognizes that in order to reduce the disease burden and health care costs associated with preventable disease and injury, it is imperative that this Nation strengthen its public health system to—

(A) encourage all persons in the United States to obtain the proper information and educational resources they need to make healthier choices and live healthier lives; and

(B) protect all people in this country from health threats beyond their control, such as bioterrorism, natural disasters, infectious disease outbreaks, and environmental hazards;

(2) encourages the creation of public health strategies in the public and private sectors to improve the health of all people in the United States regardless of race, ethnicity, or socioeconomic status;

(3) supports public and private partnerships focusing on the prevention of disease and injury, and encourages community-based programs to support healthy lifestyles, including those that promote proper nutrition and increased access to physical activity;

(4) emphasizes the importance of the 5 prevention strategies of daily aspirin therapy, smoking cessation, colorectal cancer screening, annual flu immunizations, and breast cancer screening that can save more than 100,000 lives each year;

(5) believes that the congressional budget process should reflect the significant savings associated with investments in prevention of disease and injury, and therefore strongly encourages the Congressional Budget Office to consider the health care savings associated with reduced chronic disease burden due to clinical and community preventive services and programs when formulating its health care cost estimates; and

(6) supports helping the United States be the healthiest nation by encouraging an increased focus on public health and prevention efforts in the public and private sectors.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. PALLONE) and the gentleman from Texas (Mr. BURGESS) will each control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from New Jersey.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on the resolution under consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from New Jersey?

There was no objection.

Mr. PALLONE. I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I rise this evening in support of H. Res. 1381, expressing the sense of the House that there should be an increased commitment to prioritizing prevention and public health for all people in the United States.

At a time when our health care costs are rising exponentially, it's important now more than ever for us to prioritize public health spending. Spending on chronic diseases is particularly egregious as these diseases are the leading cause of preventable death and disability costing the Nation approximately $1 billion a year. If we can better manage this type of disease, we can dramatically reduce the costs of health care spending.

We know from our past efforts with screenings and vaccines that prevention has proven to work to reduce incidences of illness. Accordingly, any step that we can undertake to prevent the spread of illness and disease needs to be implemented.

I want to thank my colleague and friend, the gentlewoman from California, Congresswoman ROYBAL-ALLARD, for her and her staff's late-night work to bring this resolution to the floor this evening.

I urge my colleagues on both sides of the aisle to join me in support of its adoption.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. BURGESS. Mr. Speaker, again, in deference to the author of the bill, I will reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I yield 5 minutes to the sponsor of the legislation, the gentlewoman from California, Congresswoman ROYBAL-ALLARD.

Ms. ROYBAL-ALLARD. Mr. Speaker, the passage of H. Res. 1381 gives us an opportunity to send a clear message to the 111th Congress that public health and prevention must be an essential part of any health care reform package.

I introduced H. Res. 1381 because as we began the debate on national health care reform, focusing on prevention strategies is a key component to our ultimate success.

Currently our country spends a staggering $2.2 trillion each year on health care, more than any other country in the world, yet we are dying younger and we have the highest rate of preventable deaths among 19 industrialized nations.

□ 2115

Research tells us that nearly 60 percent of premature deaths in the United States could be prevented by strategies that address environmental conditions, social circumstances, and behavioral choices.

But we have not prioritized prevention in this country, and the serious consequences of neglecting prevention strategies has both an economic and a human toll.

When we survey the economic components of our health care budget, we see that chronic diseases account for 75 percent of the health care spending in the United States, including more than 96 cents out of every dollar spent in Medicare and more than 83 cents out of every dollar spent in Medicaid.

The human cost is reflected in the fact that each year these largely preventable chronic diseases account for seven out of ten deaths in the United States every year.

Science and the medical community are warning us that if we do not focus on prevention now, by the year 2025 nearly half of our U.S. population will suffer from at least one chronic disease.

Mr. Speaker, the entire public health community agrees that prevention is a critical component to successfully addressing our Nation's public health crisis and to reining in the astronomical cost of health care.

A study by the Partnership for Prevention found that each year there is the potential to save 100,000 lives through five simple behavioral changes.

And an analysis by the Trust for America's Health found that an annual investment of just $10 per person in proven community-based programs could save the country more than $60 billion annually within 5 years.

It is time for our country to adopt a proactive and strategic approach to health care aimed at preventable conditions.

H. Res. 1381 calls on our Nation to prioritize prevention and public health for all people in the United States.

The resolution urges community-based programs to support healthy lifestyles, and it promotes the expansion of prevention strategies like daily aspirin therapy, smoking cessation, colorectal and breast cancer screening, and annual flu immunizations.

The resolution also calls for the creation of public health strategies to improve our Nation's health and eliminate health disparities.

Finally, H. Res. 1381 challenges the Congressional Budget Office to consider the savings associated with the prevention of chronic disease when formulating its health care cost estimates.

I extend my sincere thanks to the bipartisan group of original cosponsors who join me in this effort, including my co-chairs from the Study Group on Public Health, KAY GRANGER and JIM MCGOVERN; my colleagues, JIM MORAN from the Prevention Caucus and DIANA DEGETTE and MIKE CASTLE from the Diabetes Caucus.

We share a passion for improving public health and preventing chronic disease.

I also thank The Trust for America's Health and the Campaign for Public Health, in addition to over 150 public health organizations that have endorsed this resolution.

Mr. Speaker, the future health of our Nation depends on the priorities we set as we begin the process of health care reform.

By passing H. Res. 1381 today, we are sending an important message to the new 111th Congress that Public Health and Prevention must be a priority in any health reform package.

I urge my colleagues to vote "yes" on the passage of H. Res. 1381. We cannot solve the health care crisis in this country until we get serious about prevention.

Mr. BURGESS. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume, and I also rise in support of House Resolution 1381, a resolution expressing the sense of the House that there should be an increased public and private commitment prioritizing prevention and public health for all people in the United States.

Each year almost 2 million people in the United States die from chronic diseases that are often preventable and also account for almost three-quarters of health care spending. It costs the United States almost $1 trillion a year in lost productivity that erodes our national competitiveness.

In an effort to alleviate chronic diseases, Americans need to eat right, quit smoking, and get exercise. You probably don't need to be an economist to understand why that will help increase economic productivity, and it's intuitively obvious to the most casual observer that this can help prevent the onset of chronic disease and improve the quality of our lives.

This resolution urges the people of the United States to use the five prevention strategies to create healthier lifestyles. It encourages daily aspirin therapy, smoking cessation, colorectal cancer screening, annual flu immunizations, and breast cancer screenings that can save more than 100,000 lives each year by addressing behavioral choices.

In addition, the resolution suggests that the Congressional Budget Office process should reflect the significant savings associated with prevention of disease and injury. And that's of particular concern to me and something that I argue for in many other vocations and other legislation that we have to have the ability to do dynamic scoring when we follow policies that are likely to result in savings.

So the line in the bill, that it is the sense of the House we believe "the congressional budget process should reflect the significant savings associated with investments in prevention of disease and injury," and that is an important concept and one that this Congress and the next Congress would do well to recognize and encourage our Congressional Budget Office to follow likewise.

I would like to thank the author of this resolution, Representative LUCILLE ROYBAL-ALLARD of California, for her leadership in improving the awareness of the benefits of prevention and her efforts to lower the number of preventable chronic diseases in the United States.

I encourage all of my colleagues to vote in favor of this resolution.

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, today I stand for a commitment to making public healthcare a priority. I stand for universal healthcare as a universal right. I stand to support H. Res. 1381, "expressing the sense of the House that there should be an increased Federal commitment prioritizing prevention and public health for all people in the United States." I thank my colleague, Representative ROYBAL-ALLARD for introducing this important resolution.

I would be remiss if I did not also thank my dear colleague from Michigan, Chairman of Judiciary, and Congressman JOHN CONYERS, for his tireless work on prioritizing healthcare in this Congress. His bimonthly meetings to bring together the healthcare community, congressional Members and staff, and other stakeholders; speaks to his commitment to making universal healthcare a priority.

Sadly, the United States is the only wealthy, industrialized nation that does not have a universal health care system. Some of the other disturbing healthcare statistics are that:

Mr. Speaker, it is time we make public health a priority for all Americans. Children cannot do well in school when they do not have proper healthcare. Parents are afraid to change jobs because of possible loss or reductions in healthcare coverage. Our elders, our seniors have to choose between groceries and prescriptions.

Healthcare will become a priority when we make it one. This body has the power to create a fundamental change in how our country views and manages its healthcare system. We have the power to make a change in the lives of everyday Americans for the better. For it does not matter how much money you have, how many languages you speak, or how many degrees you have earned—without your health, you have nothing. A healthier America—starts right here, right now. Let's make it a priority Today!

Mr. Speaker, I encourage my colleagues to join me in supporting American families in their struggle to provide basic needs to their children, to their parents, and for themselves. I encourage my colleagues to remember that they hold the power of the pen and the vote, to make universal healthcare a priority.

Mr. Burgess. Having no other requests for time, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time, I would urge support of this resolution for an increased commitment to prevention in public health, and I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. PALLONE) that the House suspend the rules and agree to the resolution, H. Res. 1381, as amended.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds being in the affirmative) the rules were suspended and the resolution, as amended, was agreed to.

The title was amended so as to read: "A resolution expressing the sense of the House that there should be an increased public and private commitment prioritizing prevention and public health for all people in the United States."

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on the bill under consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from New Jersey?

There was no objection.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of H.R. 1014, the Heart Disease Education, Analysis Research, and Treatment (HEART) for Women Act. This legislation will go a long way in improving the prevention, diagnosis, and treatment of heart disease, stroke, and other cardiovascular diseases in women.

Heart disease and other forms of cardiovascular disease are the leading cause of death in the United States and a major cause of disability. More than 850,000 people die of cardiovascular disease in the U.S. annually, representing nearly 36 percent of all U.S. deaths.

Although heart disease is sometimes thought of as "man's disease," one in three American women die of heart disease and other cardiovascular diseases, making it the leading cause of death for both women and men in the United States. Heart disease is the leading cause of death among women aged 65 years and older and is the second and third leading cause of death among women aged 45 to 64 years, and women aged 25 to 44 years respectively.

H.R. 1014 proposes to reduce the cardiovascular disease death rate for women through improved health education, gender-specific analysis and research, and increased access to screening for women. H.R. 1014 authorizes the Department of Health and Human Services to educate health care professionals and older women about unique aspects of care in the prevention, diagnosis, and treatment of women with heart disease and stroke.

H.R. 1014 requires clinical data that is already being reported to the Federal Government by drug and advice manufacturers to be gender-specific. Additionally, the bill before us authorizes the expansion of the CDC's Well-Integrated Screening and Evaluation for Women Across the Nation (WISEWOMAN) program. This program, currently available in only 20 States, provides free cardiovascular screenings to low-income uninsured women.

H.R. 1014 is the result of the leadership of Representative LOIS CAPPS and BARBARA CUBIN and the hard work and cooperation of the Democratic and Republican members of the Energy and Commerce Committee. The bill enjoys the support of a majority of the House of Representatives and numerous public health organizations, including the American Heart Association and the American Stroke Association, the Society for Women's Health Research, and WomenHeart: The National Coalition for Women with Heart Disease.

I strongly urge all of my colleagues to vote to improve the health of women by passing this bill.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. BURGESS. Mr. Speaker, in deference to the primary sponsor of the bill, I will reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I yield once again to the gentlewoman from California, the sponsor of the bill, the vice-chair of the Health Subcommittee and obviously someone who's worked very hard on so many health care initiatives, 3 minutes.

Mrs. CAPPS. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of H.R. 1014, the HEART for Women Act. I thank my colleague for yielding to me, and I thank the lead co-sponsor of this bill, Congresswoman BARBARA CUBIN of Wyoming.

I was proud to first introduce the HEART for Women Act in 2006 with the help of organizations such as the American Heart Association, WomenHeart, and the Society for Women's Health Research. Since then, the list of supporters has grown to over 50 organizations, 237 cosponsors in the House, and 47 cosponsors of the Senate companion legislation.

This legislation was borne out of the realization that despite heart disease being the number one killer of women, too few people are aware of it. In 2006, only 21 percent of women identified heart disease as women's greatest health problem, and too few people were aware that heart disease manifests itself differently in women than in men.

The HEART for Women Act would improve the diagnosis and treatment of cardiovascular disease in women in three important ways.

First, it would authorize educational campaigns aimed at health providers and older women to make them more aware of the risks for cardiovascular disease among women.

Secondly, it will authorize the expansion of CDC's highly successful WISEWOMAN program, to which our chairman alluded. Since 2000, WISEWOMAN has been providing screenings for low-income uninsured women. The CDC has touted the success of WISEWOMAN in that they have screened over 79,000 women in need, identified over 7,600 new cases of high blood pressure, over 7,900 new cases of high cholesterol, and over 1,000 cases of diabetes.

I am proud that this legislation will play a part in reaching hundreds of thousands of new women in the years to come.

Finally, H.R. 1014 will improve the way we collect and analyze research data. By directing the FDA to collect data about safety and the efficacy of new and investigational drugs and devices according to gender, age, and racial subgroups.

We will help women and their health care providers better understand which course of treatment may yield the best outcome.

Once again, I thank our colleague Congresswoman CUBIN, the coalition of supporters, and the Energy and Commerce Committee majority and minority staff.

I urge my colleagues to vote "yes" on H.R. 1014.

□ 2130

Mr. BURGESS. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of H.R. 1014. This legislation encourages manufacturers of drugs and devices to report to the Food and Drug Administration gender and race-specific information on their products. The legislation also authorizes the Secretary to develop a public awareness campaign relating to the prevention, diagnosis, and treatment of heart disease, stroke, and cardiovascular diseases in women.

Lastly, the bill authorizes the WISEWOMAN program at the Centers for Disease Control which provides heart disease and stroke prevention screening, such as tests for high blood pressure and high cholesterol, to low-income uninsured and underinsured women.

I urge Members to support the bill.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I urge support of this important legislation relative to heart disease.

Mr. RADANOVICH. Mr. Speaker, I would like to thank my colleagues Mrs. CAPPS and Mrs. CUBIN for sponsoring H.R. 1014, the Heart Disease Education, Analysis Research and Treatment, or HEART, for Women Act. I lend my strong support for its swift passage both here and on the House floor. Heart for Women Act will be a vital step forward in addressing the disparities in the diagnosis and treatment of heart disease and stroke between men and women.

Heart disease, stroke, and other cardiovascular diseases are the number one killer of women, both nationally and in my home state of California. They account for over 30 percent of all female deaths in California, and there are currently approximately 43 million adult women living with one or more forms of heart disease.

These numbers are very telling about the need for this reporting and authorization. But to really understand the importance of this legislation, you must look at how this can affect the lives of any one of those 43 million women living with heart disease today. I personally have seen the effects it can have—the struggles for the individual and the difficulties it can place on a family—through the experiences of a longtime and valued member of my staff. But also through her, I have seen the courage displayed by women living with heart disease. They are dedicated to this cause, so that others may have it a little easier than they have. For her and all women living with this disease, this legislation today is a triumph and a testament to their strength.

Thank you again to the bill's sponsors, and I encourage all my colleagues to fully support this extremely important legislation.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. PALLONE) that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 1014, as amended.

The question was taken.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. In the opinion of the Chair, two-thirds being in the affirmative, the ayes have it.

Mr. BURGESS. Mr. Speaker, I object to the vote on the ground that a quorum is not present and make the point of order that a quorum is not present.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 8 of rule XX and the Chair's prior announcement, further proceedings on this motion will be postponed.

The point of no quorum is considered withdrawn.

RYAN HAIGHT ONLINE PHARMACY CONSUMER PROTECTION ACT OF 2008

Nothing in this Act or the amendments made by this Act shall be construed as authorizing, prohibiting, or limiting the use of electronic prescriptions for controlled substances.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from

New Jersey (Mr. PALLONE) and the gentleman from Texas (Mr. BURGESS) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from New Jersey.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on the bill under consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from New Jersey?

There was no objection.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of H.R. 6353, the Ryan Haight Online Pharmacy Consumer Protection Act of 2008. This legislation addresses serious concerns about the purchase of controlled substances through online pharmacies.

According to the Drug Enforcement Agency, nearly seven million Americans are abusing prescription drugs, more than the number who are abusing cocaine, heroin, hallucinogens, ecstasy and inhalants combined.

Prescription pain relievers are new drug users’ drug of choice. Nearly one in 10 high school seniors admits to abusing powerful prescription pain relievers. And prescription pain relievers appear to be among the drugs most heavily dispensed by certain Internet pharmacies using prescriptions that are issued based on online questionnaires. Most times, the doctor providing the prescription has never seen the patient or even had a conversation with them. This practice has sometimes been abused by rogue sites and it has led to instances of addiction, overdose and death.

H.R. 6353 will go a long way in combating this harmful practice. The bill prohibits the delivery, distribution, or dispensing of controlled substances over the Internet without a valid prescription. A valid prescription is defined as a prescription that is issued for a legitimate purpose by a practitioner who has conducted at least one in-person medical evaluation of the patient.

H.R. 6353 also imposes new registration and reporting requirements for online pharmacies. The legislation before us also increases criminal penalties involving controlled substances in Schedules II, IV and V of the Controlled Substances Act.

H.R. 6353 is named after Ryan Haight, a young man who unfortunately was the victim of illegal sales of pharmaceuticals through the Internet. Ryan died on February 12, 2001 at the age of 18 from an overdose of prescription drugs he had purchased on the Internet. Ryan was prescribed the drugs by a doctor whom he never saw and was never examined by, and an Internet pharmacy delivered them to his home.

H.R. 6353 is the result of the leadership of Representative BART STUPAK and the hard work and cooperation of the Democratic and Republican members of the Energy and Commerce Committee and the Judiciary Committee.

The bill is a bipartisan product. It enjoys the support of the administration and the National Association of Chain Drug Stores.

I strongly urge all of my colleagues to vote to prevent another needless death similar to that of Ryan Haight and vote for the passage of this bill.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. BURGESS. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume and rise in support of H.R. 6353. I would like to commend Congressman BART STUPAK and Ranking Member LAMAR SMITH of the Judiciary Committee for their work on this bill.

This bill prohibits the delivery, distribution or dispensing of controlled substances over the Internet without a valid prescription. Ryan Haight overdosed and died on February 12, 2001 on narcotics that he had purchased over the Internet. He was prescribed the medication from a doctor on the Internet, and the doctor never examined the patient. He was 17 when he purchased the narcotics and 18 when he died.

This bill will provide the Drug Enforcement Agency better tools to combat rogue Internet sites that are peddling narcotics to our children.

I urge Members to support this legislation.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I yield 5 minutes to the gentlewoman from California. Again, Mrs. CAPPS has played such an important role on this and other bills of this nature that are important. Reading about this legislation, it really is so crucial.

Mrs. CAPPS. I thank our chairman for yielding and for his leadership.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of H.R. 6353, the Ryan Haight Online Pharmacy bill. And in doing so, I want to pay tribute to its author, BART STUPAK, who would be here giving this statement except that his voice ran out tonight. So I am stepping in on his behalf, but it is something that I truly support as well.

Nearly 7 million Americans are abusing prescription drugs; more than the number of individuals who are abusing cocaine, heroin, hallucinogens, ecstasy and inhalants all combined.

Over the past 6 years, we have witnessed a dramatic 80 percent increase in prescription drug abuse from 3.8 million to 7 million. That's more than double. A large number of individuals are obtaining their prescription drugs over the Internet through rogue Internet pharmacies.

Purchasing drugs online without a valid prescription can be simple: A consumer just types the name of the drug into a search engine, quickly identifies a site selling the medication, fills out a brief questionnaire, and then clicks to purchase.

The risks of self-medicating, however, can include potential adverse reactions from inappropriately prescribed medicines, dangerous drug interactions, use of counterfeit or tainted products, and addiction to habit-forming substances.

Several of these illegitimate sites failed to produce information about potential adverse side effects, effectiveness, and where the pharmacies are located.

A 2004 GAO study obtained 68 samples of 11 different prescription drugs, each from a different Web site. GAO found that 45 online pharmacies provided a prescription based on their own medical questionnaire or had no prescription requirement. Among the drugs GAO obtained without prescription were those with special safety restrictions and highly addictive narcotic pain killers.

The tragic case of Ryan Haight has already been mentioned. His mother has testified before Congress and is nationally known. Ryan died at the age of 18, as has been stated, from an overdose of pain killers, including Vicodin. He ordered these over the Internet without a legitimate prescription while he was a 17-year-old minor.

The Ryan Haight Online Pharmacy Consumer Protection Act would bar the sale or distribution of all controlled substances via the Internet without a valid prescription. In order for a prescription to be valid, it must be issued by a practitioner who has conducted at least one in-person examination of the particular patient.

H.R. 6353 would also require online pharmacies to clearly display on their Web site a statement of compliance with U.S. laws and DEA regulations. This would allow consumers to clearly identify which pharmacies are safe and which are not.

This legislation also creates a new Federal cause of action that would allow a State attorney general to shut down a rogue site selling controlled substances in any State and increase the penalties for all illegal distributions of controlled substances classified as Schedule III, IV or V substances.

This legislation is supported by the administration, including the DEA and FDA, the Chain Drug Stores, Go Daddy, eBay, Federation of State Medical Boards, and the Fraternal Order of Police.

I encourage all of my colleagues to vote in favor of this legislation. I thank Congressman LAMAR SMITH, Congresswoman MARY BONO MACK, Senator FEINSTEIN, Chairman DINGELL and Ranking Member BARTON. I also want to thank Virgil Miller, Ryan Long, Caroline Lynch and Jeff Spalding with the committee staff, and Erika Orloff of Mr. STUPAK's personal staff for their hard work on this bill.

Mr. BURGESS. I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I want to urge, strongly, passage of this important bill regarding consumer protection for controlled substances.

Mr. SMITH of Texas. Mr. Speaker, America is no stranger to the plague of illegal drugs and drug addiction. For decades, Congress has fought to curb the flow of drugs such as heroin, cocaine, and marijuana into our country.

Today, America is facing a new threat—prescription drug abuse. According to the Office of National Drug Control Policy, prescription drugs now rank second—only behind marijuana—as America's drug of choice.

The Drug Enforcement Administration estimates that as many as 7 million Americans are addicted to prescription drugs—more than the number of cocaine and heroin addicts combined.

Today, prescription painkillers cause a higher number of overdose-related deaths than cocaine or heroin. And large quantities of these drugs are just a few mouse clicks away. The dangers posed by illegal online pharmacies are real. The National Center on Addiction and Substance Abuse reports a 542-percent increase in abuse of prescription opiates among 12- to 17-year olds between 1992 and 2002.

Hundreds of rogue online pharmacies peddle these highly-addictive painkillers to adults and teenagers without a valid prescription. The most popular of these drugs is commonly known as Vicodin.

Teenagers are fast becoming addicted to prescription painkillers, in large part because of their availability on the Internet. The Partnership for a Drug Free America reports that every day, 2,500 teenagers use a prescription drug to get high for the first time. Teenagers are abusing prescription drugs at a higher rate because they perceive them as less dangerous than illegal drugs.

Today, the House has the opportunity to put a stop to illegal online pharmacies. I am pleased to join Congressman BART STUPAK and Congresswoman MARY BONO MACK as an original sponsor of H.R. 6353, the Ryan Haight Online Pharmacy Consumer Protection Act of 2008.

On February 12, 2001, Ryan Haight died of an overdose of Vicodin. He was just 18. An investigation into his death revealed that Ryan ordered the drugs from a doctor he had never seen and who had never examined him. The drugs were shipped directly to his home by an online pharmacy.

This legislation amends the Controlled Substances Act to address the growing sale of prescription drugs by these so-called online pharmacies. The bill prohibits the sale or distribution of all controlled substances via the Internet without a valid prescription and requires online pharmacies to display information identifying the business and any pharmacy and doctor associated with the Web site. The bill also provides tough penalties for the illegal sale of prescription drugs.

Legislation sponsored by Senators FEINSTEIN and SESSIONS unanimously passed the Senate in April. It is time for the House to do the same.

This legislation represents months of hard work and bipartisan negotiations by House and Senate Republicans and Democrats. I wish to thank my House colleagues, Mr. STUPAK and Mrs. BONO MACK and my Senate colleagues, Senators FEINSTEIN and SESSIONS, for their efforts to complete this legislation.

I urge my colleagues to join me in supporting this important bill.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. PALLONE) that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 6353, as amended.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds being in the affirmative) the rules were suspended and the bill, as amended, was passed.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

CODE TALKERS RECOGNITION ACT OF 2008

Mr. GUTIERREZ. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the bill (H.R. 4544) to require the issuance of medals to recognize the dedication and valor of Native American code talkers, as amended.

The Clerk read the title of the bill.

The text of the bill is as follows:

H.R. 4544

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the “Code Talkers Recognition Act of 2008”.

SEC. 2. PURPOSE.

The purpose of this Act is to require the issuance of medals to express the sense of the Congress that—

(1) the service of Native American code talkers to the United States deserves immediate recognition for dedication and valor; and

(2) honoring Native American code talkers is long overdue.

SEC. 3. FINDINGS.

The Congress finds the following:

(1) When the United States entered World War I, Native Americans were not accorded the status of citizens of the United States.

(2) Without regard to that lack of citizenship, members of Indian tribes and nations enlisted in the Armed Forces to fight on behalf of the United States.

(3) The first reported use of Native American code talkers was on October 17, 1918.

(4) Because the language used by the Choctaw code talkers in the transmission of information was not based on a European language or on a mathematical progression, the Germans were unable to understand any of the transmissions.

(5) This use of Native American code talkers was the first time in modern warfare that such a transmission of messages in a native language was used for the purpose of confusing an enemy.

(6) On December 7, 1941, Japan attacked Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, and the Congress declared war the following day.

(7) The Federal Government called on the Comanche Nation to support the military effort during World War II by recruiting and enlisting Comanche men to serve in the Army to develop a secret code based on the Comanche language.

(8) The United States Army recruited approximately 50 Native Americans for special native language communication assignments.

(9) The United States Marine Corps recruited several hundred Navajos for duty in the Pacific region.

(10) During World War II, the United States employed Native American code talkers who developed secret means of communication based on native languages and were critical to winning the war.

(11) To the frustration of the enemies of the United States, the code developed by the Native American code talkers proved to be unbreakable and was used extensively throughout the European theater.

(12) In 2001, the Congress and President Bush honored Navajo code talkers with congressional gold medals for the contributions of the code talkers to the United States Armed Forces as radio operators during World War II.

(13) The heroic and dramatic contributions of Native American code talkers were instrumental in driving back Axis forces across the Pacific during World War II.

(14) The Congress should provide to all Native American code talkers the recognition the code talkers deserve for the contributions of the code talkers to United States victories in World War I and World War II.

SEC. 4. DEFINITIONS.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. GUTIERREZ) and the gentleman from West Virginia (Mrs. CAPITO) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Illinois.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. GUTIERREZ. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks on this legislation and to insert extraneous material thereon.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Illinois?

There was no objection.

Mr. GUTIERREZ. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself 3 minutes.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of H.R. 4544, the Code Talkers Recognition Act of 2008.

This legislation directs the Speaker of the House and the President pro tempore of the Senate to authorize the award of gold medals to deserving individual Native American code talkers from specified Native American tribes.

The bill defines "code talker" as a Native American who served in the Armed Forces during a foreign conflict and who participated in military communications using a native language. However, the bill excludes members of the Navajo tribe because, in 2001, the Congress honored Navajo code talkers with Congressional Gold Medals for their contributions as radio operators during World War II.

The legislation further directs the Secretary of the Treasury and the Secretary of Defense to identify individual code talkers deserving of this recognition.

I urge passage of this bill.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,
COMMITTEE ON HOUSE ADMINISTRATION,
Washington, DC, September 12, 2008.

Hon. BARNEY FRANK,
Chairman, Committee on Financial Services,
Rayburn HOB, Washington, DC.

DEAR CHAIRMAN FRANK: I understand that your committee is considering bringing to the Floor H.R. 4544, the "Code Talkers Recognition Act of 2007." The Committee on House Administration received an additional referral for this bill due to the inclusion of section 5(c), which gives an important role to the Smithsonian Institution in maintaining a list of tribes and receiving medals which the tribes may choose to donate. It is my understanding that the intent of the legislation is that, if the tribes provide the medals to the Smithsonian, they then would become the Smithsonian's property for possible exhibition or other appropriate purpose.

The House Administration Committee is the principal committee of jurisdiction over the Smithsonian Institution under Rule X. We recognize that, at this point in the session, there is a desire to move legislation as expeditiously as possible. Therefore, we will waive any further consideration of the bill and agree to be discharged. However, we do so with the understanding that the Committee does not waive any future jurisdictional claims over similar measures. In the event of any conference with the Senate, the Committee reserves the right to seek the appointment of conferees and to have your support.

I would appreciate the inclusion of this letter in the Congressional Record during any consideration of H.R. 4544 on the House floor.

Sincerely,

ROBERT A. BRADY,
Chairman.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,
COMMITTEE ON FINANCIAL SERVICES,
Washington, DC, September 19, 2008.

Hon. ROBERT A. BRADY,
Chairman, Committee on House Administration,
House of Representatives, Washington, DC.

DEAR MR. CHAIRMAN: I am writing in response to your letter regarding H.R. 4544, the "Code Talkers Recognition Act of 2007." This bill was introduced in the House on December 13, 2007 and referred to the Committee on Financial Services and in addition to the Committee on House Administration. It is my understanding that this bill will be scheduled for floor consideration shortly.

I wish to confirm our mutual understanding on this bill. The legislation gives an important role to the Smithsonian Institution in maintaining a list of tribes and receiving medals which the tribe may wish to donate and I acknowledge your committee's jurisdictional interest in such matters. However, I appreciate your willingness to forego committee action on H.R. 4544 in order to allow the bill to come to the floor expeditiously. I agree that your decision to forego further action on this bill will not prejudice the Committee on House Administration with respect to its jurisdictional prerogatives on this or similar legislation. I would support your request for conferees on those provisions within your jurisdiction should this bill be the subject of a House-Senate conference.

I will include this exchange of letters in the Congressional Record when this bill is considered by the House. Thank you again for your assistance.

BARNEY FRANK,
Chairman.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mrs. CAPITO. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of H.R. 4544, the Code Talkers Recognition Act of 2008, introduced by the gentleman from Oklahoma (Mr. BOREN).

This legislation honoring the Native American code talkers, who served this country so honorably in the First and Second World Wars, is long overdue.

Mr. Speaker, the history of Native American code talkers is long and honorable. And I'm going to go through a little bit of this, beginning with their striking display of patriotism.

When the First World War broke out, Native Americans were technically not citizens of the United States—hard to believe, really; nevertheless, many enlisted and fought honorably as part of the American Expeditionary Force that helped to defeat the German armies.

In those days, as the technology of warfare changed and the size of the battlefields grew, it was necessary to transmit tactical information over what we would consider rudimentary and very unsecure communications methods that in many cases were easy for the enemy to intercept.

During the Second Battle of the Somme in September of 1918, and later during the Meuse-Argonne campaign in the waning days of the war, Cherokee and Choctaw natives used their own language to communicate tactical information. Since their languages were not related to any European language, the Germans intercepting it were baffled, even though the code itself was rather simple—a tank was a turtle, for example.

Again, in the Second World War, Native Americans signed up in large numbers to fight in both Europe and in the Pacific theater. The best known of these were the Navajos, who worked with the Marines in the Pacific. But considering both wars, code talkers came from as many as 17 different tribes.

Interestingly, the code talkers weren't used much in the European theater until D-day, because it was known that Adolf Hitler had been aware of the code talkers' successful role in World War I and had sent teams of German anthropologists to learn Native American languages before the start of the Second World War. The effort was largely unsuccessful, though, because there were so many different languages and dialects of those languages.

The role of the code talkers was largely unknown until 1968, when the story was declassified. Since then, President Reagan declared a "Code Talkers Day," and in 2001 President Bush presented the Congressional Gold Medal to several Navajo code talkers.

Unfortunately, the bill authorizing that medal did not acknowledge the role of Code Talker heroes from other tribes in the First World War as well as the second.

Mr. Speaker, it has taken nearly a decade to address this oversight, and through the hard work of the gentlelady from Texas, Ms. GRANGER, and most recently Mr. BOREN, bills were introduced to do so in each Congress since the original legislation passed. We are now at the historic point, thanks to Mr. BOREN's legislation, that we can move to recognize the other heroes from the other tribes. I urge my colleagues to support this bill enthusiastically.

With that, Mr. Speaker, I would like to reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. GUTIERREZ. Mr. Speaker, I recognize the gentleman from Oklahoma (Mr. BOREN) for 7 minutes.

Mr. BOREN. Mr. Speaker, I rise today with the support of 300 of my colleagues to honor a forgotten group of American war heroes. As many of you know, the State of Oklahoma has a long and rich Native American heritage. My congressional district is home to 17 of the 37 federally recognized tribes headquartered in Oklahoma.

Millions of these Native Americans count themselves among the proud veterans who defended this Nation during a time of war. But today, Mr. Speaker, I ask my fellow colleagues to join me in honoring the brave service of a small group of veterans. It is estimated that 12,000 Native Americans served in our Armed Forces during World War I and over 45,000 bravely fought during World War II. Among those was a small band of Choctaw Indians that were the beginning of what would become the Native American Code Talkers. They would eventually play a critical but very unique role in the Allies' victory over evil and tyranny.

During World War I, feeling a sense of duty to the cause of freedom, a number of Choctaws answered the call to serve. They began their service assigned to the 142nd Infantry of the 36th Division of the Texas-Oklahoma National Guard. Their first action was as a unit in France. At that time, communication by telephone and by radio on the battlefield was still developing. But both types of transmissions were under constant surveillance by the German enemy.

Army movements and supply shipments were being ambushed by the Germans on a constant basis costing thousands of lives. At one point Colonel A.W. Bloor, the commanding officer of the 142nd Infantry, believed that the Germans were cracking every message his division sent by radio or by phone. Frustrated with the division's inability to communicate safely, an officer recalled that the division included a company of Native Americans. After hearing these men speak to one another on a regular basis, it occurred to him that their language could hold the key to encoding the Allies' transmissions. After all, a few of these men spoke 20 dialects, many of which had never even been written.

In October of 1918, the Choctaw Code Talkers' ability to secretly communicate over radio resulted in a surprise momentum-shifting attack on the German enemy in northern France's Argonne forest. What began as 6 to 10 Choctaw transmitting a handful of coded messages quickly grew into a much larger group of soldiers spread across the European battle front. As the tide of World War I began to turn in favor of the Allies, military commanders came to rely on these Native American Code Talkers to communicate their most sensitive information.

Many believe to this day that not a single Code Talker transmission was ever cracked by the enemy. Army leaders began to notice immediately that troop movements were no longer mirrored and supply convoys were not ambushed. After realizing the effectiveness of the Choctaw Code Talkers, U.S. military leadership sought out and recruited leaders of such tribes as the Comanche, Choctaw, Seminole, Hopi, Cherokee, Sioux, Navaho, as well as many others.

During World War II, the Native American Code Talkers would once again prove their effectiveness, this time on two fronts, in the Pacific and in Europe. Many high-ranking military officials contend that the United States would have never won the Battle of Iwo Jima without the unbreakable communications of the Native American Code Talkers.

So, Mr. Speaker, with this historical contribution to liberty and freedom in mind, it is our duty to honor these brave men, their families and their tribes. Let us never forget the valiant and noble service of the Native American Code Talkers. They are truly some of America's greatest war heroes.

In closing, I would like to take a moment to thank the many people who have worked tirelessly to commemorate these brave men. There are far too many to name in a brief time, but I would like to mention a few. I would like to commend the National Congress of American Indians for supporting this legislation and for their unwavering dedication to Native Americans everywhere. I would also like to acknowledge Chairman FRANK and his staff for working with me on bringing this legislation to the floor. I would also pay tribute to DALE KILDEE, and most especially my colleague from Oklahoma, TOM COLE, for his tireless effort in getting so many of the cosponsors on this legislation.

Finally, I would like to thank Chief Gregory Pyle of the Choctaw Nation. His dedication and leadership to his people, to all Native Americans, to the State of Oklahoma and to this great Nation is the mark of a true statesman. I am proud to call him both a mentor and a friend.

With that, Mr. Speaker, I urge support for the Native American Code Talkers Act.

Mrs. CAPITO. Mr. Speaker, I would like to yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from Oklahoma (Mr. COLE).

Mr. COLE of Oklahoma. I thank my good friend from West Virginia for yielding so graciously.

Mr. Speaker, it is with great pleasure that I rise today in support of H.R. 4544, the Code Talkers Recognition Act, which would award the Congressional Gold Medal to Native American Code Talkers who assisted the allied powers in World War I and World War II to deceive and confuse our enemies in both conflicts. It's a particular personal pleasure to me, Mr. Speaker, because not only am I a Native American, Chickasaw, but my ancestry is both Choctaw and Chickasaw. My great grandfather had both tribes in his veins. And it's a wonderful treat for me to be able to participate in this.

I would also first like to thank my dear friend and colleague, Mr. BOREN, who introduced this legislation and without whose hard work this bill would simply not be here today. He has worked hard and tirelessly to honor a group of Americans that deserve recognition. And I appreciate it so much, my dear friend.

To date only the famous Navaho Wind Talkers have received this prestigious award, and it's only right and proper, Mr. Speaker, that Congress finally recognize all of the Code Talkers that dedicated their service to the United States of America. As an Oklahoman and as the only Native American currently serving in Congress, I am very happy to be here before you today to participate in awarding this honor to these fine individuals and their tribes.

Native Americans have a long, complex and honorable relationship with the United States military. Native Americans have fought against and with the United States military throughout the entire history of our country. And despite the often egregious policies of our government towards Indian country, thousands of Native Americans from dozens of tribes have helped protect our homeland. Indeed the first allies of the United States in the Revolution were the Oneida tribe. There was the Seneca present with Grant when he accepted the surrender of Robert E. Lee. As a matter of fact Robert E. Lee called him the only real American present at the ceremony. And of course in the Plains wars in the West, Indians fought on both sides of the conflict. Indeed our first President, General Washington, once commented the only way to defeat Native Americans was to be allied with Native Americans against other Native Americans because they were formidable and elusive foes.

Over the course of American history, Native Americans have demonstrated outstanding valor on the battlefield. And they have consistently received awards and commendations for their outstanding service. Historically Native Americans have the highest record of service per capita of any ethnic group or demographic group in our country. There are currently over 190,000 Native American veterans.

Mr. Speaker, this legislation awards the congressional medal to 13 individual tribes whose members assisted in this effort of defending our country. By using Native languages that were unidentifiable to the enemy forces in Europe and in the Pacific, the Code Talkers contributed to the victory of allied powers in both the First and the Second World Wars. Without their efforts it is clear that we would have lost countless additional lives and wars would have dragged on longer than necessary. Though most Native Americans did not even have United States citizenship in the First World War, there were a few. My tribe actually did. And we were pretty good negotiators. And most Oklahoma tribes got theirs a little bit ahead. But most tribes and most members who served in our Armed Forces were not citizens. They volunteered their service to defend their country despite that lack of citizenship.

It is estimated that more than 12,000 American Indians and about 600 Oklahoma tribal members served the United States military in the First World War. Despite the fact that most in the United States considered their heritage and their language to be obsolete in the first decade of the 20th century, these individuals volunteered for their country and helped turn the tide in one of the bloodiest wars in human history.

In 1917 a group of eight Choctaw serving in the Army's 36th Infantry Division trained to use their language in code. They helped the American Expeditionary Force win several key battles in the final big push of the war. Other tribes continued to be recruited into the service of our country in later conflicts. Almost immediately after the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor and the United States entered the Second World War, the Army recruited members of the Comanche Nation, located in my district, to assist the Allied Forces. Throughout the war other tribes were also recruited to carry out these efforts. And throughout that conflict, the Axis powers could neither decipher the codes based on Native language nor significantly undermine efforts to communicate in that language. The use of these languages significantly improved the tactical efforts of the Allied powers. These efforts were certainly remarkable, Mr. Speaker, and the contribution of these men clearly deserves to be recognized by Congress.

Mr. Speaker, Native American Code Talkers of the First and Second World War are true American heroes without whose efforts our troops would have certainly suffered greater casualties and would have certainly experienced slower progress in their efforts to end these conflicts. For too long our country has failed to recognize the efforts made by these great Native American citizens. It is time that we acknowledge and honor the contributions and service of these Native Americans who dedicated their service to our country by awarding them the Congressional Gold Medal.

I urge Members to honor these courageous men and their tribes and vote "yes" on H.R. 4544.

Mr. GUTIERREZ. I ask if there are any further requests for time on the other side or does the gentlelady yield back?

Mrs. CAPITO. I have no further requests.

I yield back the balance of my time.

Ms. HERSETH SANDLIN. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of H.R. 4544, the "Code Talker Recognition Act."

As a cosponsor of H.R. 4544, I would like to thank Representative BOREN for introducing this important bill to honor our nation's Native American Code Talkers—including code talkers from South Dakota's Sioux tribes—within this long overdue recognition.

South Dakota is home to the last living Lakota code talker—Clarence Wolf Guts. Clarence, who is an 84-year-old Lakota warrior from the Rosebud Indian Reservation in South Dakota, was the personal code talker for Major General Paul Mueller, commander of the U.S. Army's 81st Infantry. He traveled with Gen. Mueller and the 81st as the division moved from island to island during the fight against the Japanese during World War II.

I am privileged to have this opportunity to thank Clarence for his service during World War II and to honor all of our Nation's code talkers—whose efforts prevented the enemy from intercepting vital communications—saving the lives of countless American members of the Armed Forces.

Again, I would like to thank Representative BOREN for his leadership and to thank our Nation's code talkers, who serve as an inspiration for all Americans to emulate.

Mr. BOSWELL. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of H.R. 4544, the Code Talker Recognition Act.

I am proud to say that this legislation, which I am an original cosponsor, will finally recognize the men who served as code talkers for our great Nation during World War I and World War II.

Eight of those men who specifically will be honored today are members of the Meskwaki tribe based in Tama County, Iowa.

In January 1941, nearly a year before Pearl Harbor, 27 Meskwaki men, then 16 percent of Iowa's Meskwaki population enlisted in the Army. Of those 27, eight became code talkers: Edward Benson; Dewey Roberts; Frank Sanache; Willard Sanache; Melvin Twin; Judy Wayne Wabaunasee; Mike Wayne Wabaunasee; and Dewey Youngbear.

The Meskwaki men trained in Marshalltown and served together in the 168th Infantry, 34th Division. After jungle warfare training in Louisiana and code talker training in Scotland and then in England, they were sent to North Africa.

While in North Africa Frank Sanache ventured out far beyond the battalion and using a walkie-talkie directed artillery fire in the desert. He said "It was the worst place this side of hell."

The enemy was never able to translate the native Meskwaki language, and the Meskwaki Code Talkers, among other Code Talkers are credited with saving the lives of countless members of the United States Armed Forces and contributing significantly to the victory of our Nation.

I am pleased to see that finally this bill will be brought to the House floor—it has taken many years to get to this point and even though many of those who are being honored are no longer with us at least their family members and loved ones have the opportunity to finally see them receive the gratitude and respect of our country.

Mr. GUTIERREZ. Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. GUTIERREZ) that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 4544, as amended.

The question was taken.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. In the opinion of the Chair, two-thirds being in the affirmative, the ayes have it.

Mrs. CAPITO. Mr. Speaker, I object to the vote on the ground that a quorum is not present and make the point of order that a quorum is not present.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 8 of rule XX and the Chair's prior announcement, further proceedings on this motion will be postponed.

The point of no quorum is considered withdrawn.

There was no objection.

□ 2200

Mr. GUTIERREZ. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself 5 minutes.

I rise in strong support of H.R. 6894, the Defense Production Act Extension and Reauthorization of 2008, and urge my colleagues to support the bill's passage.

This legislation reauthorizes the Defense Production Act of 1950, which expires at the end of fiscal year 2008, through September 30 of 2009.

Although the act is due for a comprehensive review, we did not have adequate time to conduct hearings and a markup in this Congress. Therefore, we are seeking this straight, 1-year extension that makes no substantive changes to the act.

Mr. Speaker, the Defense Production Act, or DPA, is a little known bill of great national significance. Put simply, the DPA gives the President a vital set of tools to ensure the constant readiness of those portions of our industrial base that support national security. These tools include production priorities and financial incentives, but they also extend to monitoring the increasing effects of globalization on the defense base.

Since it was enacted in 1950 during the Korean war, every administration since President Truman has used the act carefully and prudently.

In addition to its national defense uses, the DPA holds the promise of helping to mitigate civil emergencies during peacetime. For example, during the California energy crisis, former President Clinton authorized the U.S. Energy Secretary to use the act to compel a continuing supply of natural gas to Pacific Gas & Electric.

Mr. Speaker, the United States is currently fighting wars on two fronts—rebuilding from the damages caused by Hurricane Ike and, regrettably, still rebuilding from Hurricane Katrina. The DPA is a key component of our national security and civil emergency readiness, and we cannot let the act lapse.

I know that some of my colleagues have questions about how the act has been used, if at all, by the current administration during civil emergencies. I share these concerns, but I believe these oversight issues would be best addressed in the next Congress.

Next year, the Financial Services Committee will conduct a comprehensive review of the DPA, specifically looking at proposals to increase the amounts authorized in title III of the act. The 1-year extension will give the committee time to do its work in a thoughtful, bipartisan manner, and I urge the bill's passage.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mrs. CAPITO. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in support of H.R. 6894, the Defense Production Act Extension and Reauthorization of 2008.

In 1950, at the outset of the Korean war and at the behest of President Truman, Congress acted to give the President the ability to meet a specific national security need should we have a shortfall in supplies.

The ability of this Nation to call on private industry to meet the demands of securing a nation are just as prominent today as they were over a half century ago when Congress first enacted this law. In an uncertain world where we face constantly changing threats and remain vulnerable to national disaster, the ability of military and civilian agencies to be given priority service to aid the American people is paramount.

Today, with American soldiers fighting so courageously abroad, we have the same imperative: they must have the resources and equipment they need when they need them.

Similarly, this country has seen the toll natural disasters can take on the Nation. Within the last weeks alone, we have seen Hurricanes Gustav, Hanna and Ike bring destruction to this Nation's shores. Responding to the needs of the families affected should be a priority, and this legislation reauthorizes the President's ability to effectively respond to those needs with priority purchases of supplies, be they water or equipment, to repair damaged railroad switches.

The authorities in this act are too important to be allowed to expire for any amount of time. Yet, Mr. Speaker, without the Congress acting today, these authorities will expire on September 30. The legislation before us would reauthorize the Defense Production Act in its current form, for 1 year, with no other changes to the DPA's powers. This 1-year extension will continue these authorities while providing the Congress a window to consider any need for updating this act. A recently issued GAO report on the authorities, as well as volumes of other information, will ensure engagement in an important dialogue on how to improve on this authority's taking place. Passing this law today ensures that that debate takes place without the impending pressure of adjournment.

I hope, Mr. Speaker, that we can undertake any needed updates of the act at the beginning of the first session of the next Congress and then extend the authorization for multiple years at that point so that these important authorities remain available to protect America, Americans and American interests, uninterrupted.

In closing, I would like to thank Chairman LUIS GUTIERREZ and full committee Chairman BARNEY FRANK for authoring this bipartisan legislation. Because of their leadership on this issue, Congress has before it today a bill to ensure the American people and their security interests are well served. With that, Mr. Speaker, I urge the passage of H.R. 6894.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. GUTIERREZ. I would ask the gentlelady if there are any requests for time on her side.

Mrs. CAPITO. I have no further speakers.

I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. GUTIERREZ. Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time.

I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. ALTMIRE). The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. GUTIERREZ) that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 6894.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds being in the affirmative) the rules were suspended and the bill was passed.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

STEPHANIE TUBBS JONES GIFT OF LIFE MEDAL ACT OF 2008

Ms. MOORE of Wisconsin. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the bill (H.R. 6950) to establish the Stephanie Tubbs Jones Gift of Life Medal for organ donors and the family of organ donors.

The Clerk read the title of the bill.

The text of the bill is as follows:

H.R. 6950

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE; FINDINGS.

(a) SHORT TITLE.—This Act may be cited as the “Stephanie Tubbs Jones Gift of Life Medal Act of 2008”.

(b) FINDINGS.—The Congress makes the following findings:

(1) Congresswoman Stephanie Tubbs Jones was dedicated to eliminating health disparities and protecting vulnerable populations.

(2) Through her service on the Committee on Ways and Means, Subcommittee on Health, she was a strong voice for those who were poor, elderly, racial and ethnic minorities, and disenfranchised.

(3) Congresswoman Stephanie Tubbs Jones' concern for others was demonstrated by the decision to donate her organs, so that as her life ended, the lives of others continued.

(4) There are currently 99,625 candidates for organ donation on the national transplant waiting list. Every 16 minutes, a new name is added to such list. Sixteen persons die each day waiting for a life saving organ transplant.

(5) Minority populations account for nearly 50 percent of those on the national transplant waiting list.

(6) Diseases that can lead to organ failure, such as hypertension and diabetes, are found more frequently in ethnic minority populations than in the general population.

(7) While minorities donate organs in proportion to their population, the rate of organ donations fails to keep pace with the need for transplants in the population. African-Americans, for example, represent about 13 percent of the population and 12 percent of organ donors, but comprise roughly 23 percent of individuals on national transplant waiting list for kidney transplants.

(8) Transplantation success rates are higher when organs are matched between people sharing the same racial and ethnic background.

(9) Because of the disparities in the need for organs, minorities are more likely to wait longer to find a successful match and are more likely to be sicker when an organ is found.

(10) An increase in minority organ donations would decrease the waiting time and increase the likelihood of successful transplantations for minorities.

SEC. 2. ELIGIBILITY REQUIREMENTS FOR STEPHANIE TUBBS JONES GIFT OF LIFE MEDAL.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Subject to the provisions of this section and the availability of funds under this Act, any organ donor, or the family of any organ donor, shall be eligible for a Stephanie Tubbs Jones Gift of Life Medal (hereafter in this Act referred to as a “medal”).

(3) arrange for the presentation to the relevant organ procurement organization all medals struck pursuant to section 4 to individuals or families that are determined to be eligible to receive medals.

(c) LIMITATION.—

- (3) consist of bronze.

(2) SELECTION.—The design of medals struck under this section shall be—

(A) selected by the Secretary of the Treasury, in consultation with the Secretary of Health and Human Services, the Organ Procurement and Transplantation Network, interested members of the family of Stephanie Tubbs Jones, Dr. William H. Frist, and the Commission of Fine Arts; and

(B) reviewed by the Citizens Coin Advisory Committee.

(c) NATIONAL MEDALS.—The medals struck pursuant to this section are national medals for purposes of chapter 51 of title 31, United States Code.

(2) ORGAN PROCUREMENT ORGANIZATION.—The term “organ procurement organization” means a qualified organ procurement organization described in section 371(b)(1) of the Public Health Service Act (42 U.S.C. 273(b)(1)).

(3) ORGAN PROCUREMENT AND TRANSPLANTATION NETWORK.—The term “Organ Procurement and Transplantation Network” means the Organ Procurement and Transplantation Network established under section 372 of the Public Health Service Act (42 U.S.C. 274).

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentlewoman from Wisconsin (Ms. MOORE) and the gentlewoman from West Virginia (Mrs. CAPITO) will each control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentlewoman from Wisconsin.

GENERAL LEAVE

Ms. MOORE of Wisconsin. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks and to include extraneous materials on H.R. 6950.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentlewoman from Wisconsin?

There was no objection.

Ms. MOORE of Wisconsin. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

It is with great humility and respect that I present for favorable consideration H.R. 6950, the Stephanie Tubbs Jones Gift of Life Medal Act of 2008.

Our friend, our respected colleague, Congresswoman Stephanie Tubbs Jones, worked tirelessly for her district, for her community and for people who are underrepresented. As a constant advocate for justice and peace, as a very proud member of the Ways and Means Subcommittee on Health, she was a fervent supporter and leader of efforts to reduce health disparities in our Nation.

This legislation directs the Treasury Department to design and produce a commemorative medal that the Department of Health and Human Services will award to organ donors or to a surviving family member, which is especially fitting to be named in honor of Congresswoman Stephanie Tubbs Jones for a couple of reasons:

Organ donation is an area where dramatic health disparities still exist. She, herself, was an organ donor, and over 50 beneficiaries have benefited from her gift of life.

The number of Americans affected by shortages of suitable organs for donation is considerable. Nearly 100,000 people are currently waiting for organ transplants, and nearly 2,000 of these are children under 18. The national waiting list grows substantially every year. Since the waiting list began, over 80,000 donation-eligible Americans have died while waiting for an organ to become available. In 2007 alone, over 6,500 people died for lack of a suitable organ.

The men and women who elect to become organ donors are heroes and heroes just like our friend and colleague. They have the opportunity to give the gift of life to thousands of Americans who are suffering from debilitating and lethal diseases.

While the gift of a donor is priceless, the enactment of this bill would have no cost to the Federal Government as funding for the medals would come from charitable donations.

I would reserve the balance of my time.

Mrs. CAPITO. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in support of H.R. 6950, the Stephanie Tubbs Jones Gift of Life Medal Act of 2008.

As everyone in this Chamber knows, the late Congresswoman Stephanie Tubbs Jones was a wonderful woman and was a tireless public servant. She sought to use her time each day to serve the people of her district and of this Nation, and the extraordinary generosity she exhibited in so many of her actions proves to be one of her lasting legacies. She was also a very joyful woman, and she brought much joy to all of those who were fortunate enough to know her. I include myself in that group.

However, nowhere have her selfless nature and leadership qualities been more apparent than in her decision to be an organ donor. Her untimely death was a tragedy, but because of her decision, others will be fortunate to enjoy the gift of life.

Currently, there are close to 100,000 individuals on the national transplant waiting list. Each hour, this number increases, adding a new name approximately every 16 minutes. Yet, despite how sobering this statistic is and the even harsher statistic that my colleague mentioned, more sobering is the number of people who die while waiting for a life-saving organ transplant. This number is 16 people per day. Understanding that reality, Representative Tubbs Jones did what she always did. She volunteered to give to those in need.

This legislation honors her actions. The bill before us today would establish a Stephanie Tubbs Jones Gift of Life Medal, and it would make any organ donor or family of the organ donor eligible to receive the honor. The legislation empowers the Secretary of Health and Human Services to direct the Organ Procurement and Transplantation Network to establish an application and assessment process for donors in order to receive the award.

By agreeing to this legislation, this Congress honors the actions of Representative Tubbs Jones and the actions of so many others who sought to give what they could to those in need. This is an important action, and I urge my colleagues to support the bill.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. MOORE of Wisconsin. Mr. Speaker, many thanks are due to Representative PETE STARK, the chairman of the Ways and Means Health Subcommittee, who quickly organized this bill in honor of our colleague.

Also, many thanks go to former Senate majority leader and transplant surgeon Bill Frist for whom this bill was named in an earlier version in this Congress. Now, while in the Senate, Dr. Frist worked hard on behalf of organ donors and their families. He supported renaming the bill for Representative Tubbs Jones. Earlier versions of this bill have been endorsed by the Association of Organ Procurement Organizations, by the American Society of Transplantation, by the American Association of Transplant Surgeons, by the National Kidney Foundation, by the American Association of Kidney Patients, by the Organization of Transplant Professionals, and by the Transplant Recipients International Organization.

I strongly urge passage of this bill.

I would ask the lady if she has any further speakers.

Mrs. CAPITO. I have no further speakers.

I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. STARK. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to urge passage of the "Stephanie Tubbs Jones Gift of Life Medal Act of 2008," and to thank the many colleagues and friends of Stephanie's who joined together to bring this bill to the floor.

Stephanie's life ended as she lived it; by exemplifying concern for the welfare of others. She donated her organs in the waning hours of her life so that the lives of others could continue. In that spirit, this bill creates a commemorative medal for organ donors and their families, recognizing the brave and selfless act of organ donation.

The need for organ donation is critical. Since the national transplant waiting list began, more than 80,000 donation-eligible Americans have died waiting for an organ to become available; in 2007 alone, more than 6,500 people died for lack of a suitable organ.

As an active member of the Ways and Means Health Subcommittee, Stephanie worked tirelessly to remedy health disparities in our nation. Organ donation is one area where dramatic health disparities exist, which makes this all the more of a fitting tribute.

While minorities donate organs in proportion to their population, the rate of organ donations fails to keep pace with the need for transplants in the population. Minority populations account for close to 50% of the people who are currently waiting for organ transplants.

I'd like to take a moment to recognize the help of former Senate Majority Leader and transplant surgeon Dr. Bill Frist, for whom this bill was named for when it was introduced earlier this year. Dr. Frist is a tireless advocate of organ donors and their families, and worked on behalf of the Gift of Life Medal Act. I appreciate his graciousness in expressing his strong support for renaming the bill, and I would ask the Chair to have Dr. Frist's letter of support inserted into the RECORD.

I ask my colleagues to help bring an end to transplant waiting lists and recognize the enormous courage displayed by organ donors and their families. This bill honors these brave acts, while publicizing the critical need for increased organ donation, and pays tribute to the selflessness and memory of our colleague. Stephanie's dedication to improving health care should be permanently recognized. I urge passage of the Stephanie Tubbs Jones Gift of Life Medal Act.

NASHVILLE, TN, September 15, 2008.

Hon. Pete Stark,
Chairman, Ways and Means Health Subcommittee, Longworth House Office Building, Washington, DC.

Hon. DAVE CAMP,
Ranking Member, Ways and Means Health Subcommittee, Cannon House Office Building, Washington, DC.

DEAR CHAIRMAN STARK AND RANKING MEMBER CAMP: Thank you for your leadership on the Gift of Life Congressional Medal.

Like you, I am truly inspired by those that donate their organs. I can think of no act that is more honorable or selfless, and it is befitting of Congress to pass this act to recognize these outstanding individuals and their families. I was pleased to sponsor this legislation in the Senate.

It is also extremely fitting to name this legislation in honor of the late Congresswoman Stephanie Tubbs Jones. A tireless advocate for those in need, she cemented her legacy by donating her organs and tissue, which will help over 50 individuals. Her act, and the thousands that have come before it, must be recognized.

Each year, there are nearly 14,000 organs that are donated. As a transplant surgeon, I have seen first hand how lives are transformed through these miraculous gifts. For me, it is a privilege to be part of the transplantation process. I am continually amazed at the advances in technology that make transplants more successful every year.

While advances are being made, there are still too few donors—nearly 100,000 people are waiting on national transplant lists. To encourage more donors, we should make every effort to recognize those that make this life-saving decision. I believe creating a Gift of Life Congressional medal is critically important to increasing awareness on this issue.

Again, please accept my sincere appreciation for your work and strong support for naming the Gift of Life Congressional Medal Act in honor of Congresswoman Stephanie Tubbs Jones. It is a fitting tribute for such an outstanding and committed woman.

Sincerely,

DR. WILLIAM H. FRIST.

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I speak today on a very close subject to my heart, House Resolution 6950, a bill to establish the Stephanie Tubbs Jones Gift of Life Medal for organ donors and the family of organ donors. Congresswoman Tubbs Jones was a rare breed of person who not only talked the talk, but walked the walk.

Tragedy struck Congress a few weeks ago when Congresswoman Tubbs Jones was taken from us. This brought attention to an issue of vital importance to her and the Nation. Organ transplantation is the greatest gift a person can give. While a majority of them happen while both the donor and the recipient are alive, a large number happen after death. Unfortunately these organs, such as the heart, lung, liver, and kidney, among others, are very hard to come by. In the Congresswoman's home State, only 53 percent of the population was a registered organ donor. This is a good start but we must go further.

When a loved one dies, it is never a happy moment; experiences like this always bring sadness and sorrow. When that loved one's death can serve as a beacon of hope for another, it does not lessen the sadness; it allows the family to have a good, if small, memory of the loss of their loved one. When Congresswoman Tubbs Jones passed away, we were all deeply saddened but I think I can speak for more than a few of my fellow Members of Congress when I express the joy and pride I felt when I learned that after years of advocating for organ transplantation, Congresswoman Tubbs Jones left all of her vital organs to those in need.

Organ transplantation needs to increase in this country. With currently over 100,000 people on the transplant list waiting for organs, we can not afford to wait to act any longer. Currently, African Americans make up about 12 percent of the Nation's population and about 12 percent of the patients who donate. However, of all the patients requiring a transplant, 23 percent of them are African American. This disparity is a growing epidemic and must be resolved.

This bill will do three wonderful things and help the cause that the Congresswoman fought for in all her years serving Ohio. One, it will honor the life of an unwavering advocate of transplant. Naming the medal after her will show all those who come later, that this was a woman deep with passion about this important issue. It will shine a light on a life that helped shine a light on others.

Second, this bill will honor those, who like the Congresswoman, have showed their true patriotism to their fellow man or woman and shared with them the greatest gift. These medals are a way that the Federal Government, on behalf of its people, to begin to thank Americans who commit themselves to being organ donors.

Lastly this bill will help raise awareness for minority health issues. It was found that African Americans make up a disproportional number of patients requiring transplants and that they wait, on average, longer to receive an organ. When they do finally receive this opportunity, they are sicker and the success rate is not what it could be. We can, and must, do more.

Mr. Speaker, we can do something to help the millions of men and women around the world waiting for organ transplants. We should also move quickly to honor those who have already given the greatest gift there is. As Albert Einstein once said, "Only a life lived for others is a life worthwhile" and no one exemplified this better than Stephanie Tubbs Jones. I urge my colleagues to pass this bill to honor her.

Ms. MOORE of Wisconsin. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentlewoman from Wisconsin (Ms. MOORE) that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 6950.

The question was taken.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. In the opinion of the Chair, two-thirds being in the affirmative, the ayes have it.

Mrs. CAPITO. Mr. Speaker, I object to the vote on the ground that a quorum is not present and make the point of order that a quorum is not present.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 8 of rule XX and the Chair's prior announcement, further proceedings on this motion will be postponed.

The point of no quorum is considered withdrawn.

FAMILY SELF-SUFFICIENCY ACT OF 2007

Ms. MOORE of Wisconsin. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the bill (H.R. 3018) to provide for payment of an administrative fee to public housing agencies to cover the costs of administering family self-sufficiency programs in connection with the housing choice voucher program of the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The Clerk read the title of the bill.

The text of the bill is as follows:

H.R. 3018

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the "Family Self-Sufficiency Act of 2007".

SEC. 2. ADMINISTRATIVE FEES FOR FAMILY SELF-SUFFICIENCY PROGRAM COSTS.

Subsection (h) of section 23 of the United States Housing Act of 1937 (42 U.S.C. 1437u(h)) is amended by striking paragraph (1) and inserting the following new paragraph:

"(1) SECTION 8 FEES.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall establish a fee under section 8(q) for the costs incurred in administering the self-sufficiency program under this section to assist families receiving voucher assistance through section 8(o).

"(B) ELIGIBILITY FOR FEE.—The fee shall provide funding for family self-sufficiency coordinators as follows:

"(i) BASE FEE.—A public housing agency serving 25 or more participants in the family self-sufficiency program under this section shall receive a fee equal to the costs of employing one full-time family self-sufficiency coordinator. An agency serving fewer than 25 such participants shall receive a prorated fee.

"(ii) ADDITIONAL FEE.—An agency that meets minimum performance standards shall receive an additional fee sufficient to cover the costs of employing a second family self-sufficiency coordinator if the agency has 75 or more participating families, and a third such coordinator if it has 125 or more participating families.

"(iii) PREVIOUSLY FUNDED AGENCIES.—An agency that received funding from the Department of Housing and Urban Development for more than three such coordinators in any of fiscal years 1998 through 2007 shall receive funding for the highest number of coordinators funded in a single fiscal year during that period, provided they meet applicable size and performance standards.

"(iv) INITIAL YEAR.—For the first year in which a public housing agency exercises its right to develop an family self-sufficiency program for its residents, it shall be entitled to funding to cover the costs of up to one family self-sufficiency coordinator, based on the size specified in its action plan for such program.

"(v) STATE AND REGIONAL AGENCIES.—For purposes of calculating the family self-sufficiency portion of the administrative fee under this subparagraph, each administratively distinct part of a State or regional public housing agency shall be treated as a separate agency.

"(vi) DETERMINATION OF NUMBER OF COORDINATORS.—In determining whether a public housing agency meets a specific threshold for funding pursuant to this paragraph, the number of participants being served by the agency in its family self-sufficiency program shall be considered to be the average number of families enrolled in such agency's program during the course of the most recent fiscal year for which the Department of Housing and Urban Development has data.

"(C) PRORATION.—If insufficient funds are available in any fiscal year to fund all of the coordinators authorized under this section, the first priority shall be given to funding one coordinator at each agency with an existing family self-sufficiency program. The remaining funds shall be prorated based on the number of remaining coordinators to which each agency is entitled under this subparagraph.

"(D) RECAPTURE.—Any fees allocated under this subparagraph by the Secretary in a fiscal year that have not been spent by the end of the subsequent fiscal year shall be recaptured by the Secretary and shall be available for providing additional fees pursuant to subparagraph (B)(ii).

"(E) PERFORMANCE STANDARDS.—Within six months after the date of the enactment of this paragraph, the Secretary shall publish a proposed rule specifying the performance standards applicable to funding under clauses (ii) and (iii) of subparagraph (B). Such standards shall include requirements applicable to the leveraging of in-kind services and other resources to support the goals of the family self-sufficiency program.

"(F) DATA COLLECTION.—Public housing agencies receiving funding under this paragraph shall collect and report to the Secretary, in such manner as the Secretary shall require, information on the performance of their family self-sufficiency programs.

"(G) EVALUATION.—The Secretary shall conduct a formal and scientific evaluation of the effectiveness of well-run family self-sufficiency programs, using random assignment of participants to the extent practicable. Not later than the expiration of the 4-year period beginning upon the enactment of this paragraph, the Secretary shall submit an interim evaluation report to the Congress. Not later than the expiration of the 8-year period beginning upon such enactment, the Secretary shall submit a final evaluation report to the Congress. There is authorized to be appropriated $10,000,000 to carry out the evaluation under this subparagraph.

"(H) INCENTIVES FOR INNOVATION AND HIGH PERFORMANCE.—The Secretary may reserve up to 10 percent of the amounts made available for administrative fees under this paragraph to provide support to or reward family self-sufficiency programs that are particularly innovative or highly successful in achieving the goals of the program."

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentlewoman from Wisconsin (Ms. MOORE) and the gentlewoman from Illinois (Mrs. BIGGERT) will each control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentlewoman from Wisconsin.

GENERAL LEAVE

Ms. MOORE of Wisconsin. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members have 5 legislative days in which to revise and extend their remarks and to include extraneous materials on H.R. 3018.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentlewoman from Wisconsin?

There was no objection.

Ms. MOORE of Wisconsin. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I enthusiastically endorse for favorable consideration this bill authored by Mrs. JUDY BIGGERT. This, Mr. Speaker, is much needed legislation to enhance and to improve a program that assists families who hold a section 8 housing voucher with the goal of leading to economic independence.

Under the Family Self-Sufficiency Program, public housing agencies work with welfare agencies, schools and businesses to develop a program that gives participating Family Self-Sufficiency families the skills and experiences necessary for them to obtain employment that pays a living wage.

Now, this is not an expensive program. In my State of Wisconsin, for example, eight public housing authorities have successfully competed for Family Self-Sufficiency Programs with awards ranging from $34,000 up to only $47,000.

But while it is expensive, it's inexpensive. It is very successful.

While my home public housing authorities in Milwaukee do not anticipate the section 8 family self-sufficiency programs, they do have a public housing family self-sufficiency program in its second year, which is very similar to the section 8 self-sufficiency program.

They have linked in really creative way to a "Make Your Money Talk" program. It's a wealth-building program that is partnered with the Wisconsin Women's Business Initiative Corporation, and they have 39 families enrolled.

Based on prior outcomes, participants have used their savings generated from family self-sufficiency to start a business or purchase a home. One resident in particular, a resident of the Westlawn housing development, has started her own cleaning business that has become quite successful.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mrs. BIGGERT. I thank the gentlelady for her comments, and I would yield myself time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, as the author of H.R. 3018, the Family Self-Sufficiency Act, I strongly encourage my colleagues to support this important legislation.

First, let me thank Congresswoman WATERS for working with me to include the language of this bill in the section 8 reform bill, H.R. 1851, the Section 8 Voucher Reform Bill Act of 2007, which the House passed on July 12 of last year by a vote of 333–83.

Not to anyone's great surprise, the Senate has yet to take up this larger section 8 reform package. My hope is that the House will pass this bill today, and the Senate will, at a minimum, move this smaller but very important noncontroversial bill.

The bill will strengthen the Family Self-Sufficiency Program, or FSS, and help more disadvantaged families gain independence from government assistance. The FSS is offered in connection with the Department of Housing and Urban Development, section 8 Housing Choice Voucher Program. It provides homeownership counseling, job training, child care, education and other services to help individuals obtain work.

Let me take just a minute to give you just one example of a Family Self-Sufficiency Program success story from my congressional district. Angela, a single mother of two from Willowbrook, Illinois, served 6 years in the Navy. When she finished her service, she got a part-time job and, thanks to the GI Bill, enrolled as a full-time student. Yet she still struggled to make ends meet.

In stepped the wonderful team at the DuPage Housing Authority. Through their Family Self-Sufficiency Program, they helped Angela with the rent for a dozen months, moving her and her two children from tenant-based rental assistance to the Housing Choice Voucher Program. During this time Angela was able to complete college and obtain a degree with a double degree in human resources management and psychology.

The FSS program then connected Angela to a resume-writing class offered by the Illinois Employment Training Center. Within just 1 week of posting her new, polished resume, Angela secured three interviews and a new part-time job.

This March, Angela secured full-time employment as a human resource assistant at the Edward Hines VA Hospital. Angela now earns twice the hourly wage she did when she started working with the FSS program. But the story doesn't end there.

FSS also connected Angela with a financial planner who helped empower Angela with a little financial literacy to improve her budgeting and asset management skills. Today, Angela is working to prepare herself for homeownership, a long way to come from public housing.

Now, Angela is also giving back. She is an active member of the FSS program in DuPage County, providing insights and suggestions to help keep the program relevant and effective for local participants.

Even amidst record-high energy prices and other challenges facing our economy, there are bright stars like Angela who, with a little help, can successfully make ends meet, raise children, get an education, secure a job and achieve the dream of homeownership.

What better way to help more of our neighbors in need than to support this bill today. It's a simple, bipartisan step that we can now take to ensure that a brief period of economic hardship doesn't turn into a lifetime of poverty and dependence for many of our Nation's most vulnerable families.

It does so by addressing the lack of consistent Federal funding for administering FSS services. The bill establishes a minimum ratio of program coordinators to participants, with funding for one coordinator per housing authority, serving an annual average of 25 or more families enrolled in FSS, two coordinators for 75 or more families, and three coordinators for 125 or more families.

It also requires HUD to establish and implement performance measures, collect data on FSS programs, evaluate their effectiveness, and report to Congress on its findings. Finally, the bill provides some funding flexibility to reward innovative and successful FSS programs.

These are good, flexible programs that help put disadvantaged families on the path to independence. Public housing can be an important safety net, but it is not a permanent solution. Let's give these individuals all the support we can to help them stand on their own two feet.

Before I conclude, I would like to thank John Day, president of the DuPage Housing Authority; Jeffrey Lubell, executive director of the Center for Housing Policy; and the folks at the American Association of Service Coordinators, the National Housing Conference, the New America Foundation, and the Corporation for Enterprise Development, for making this bill a reality.

I would, of course, like to thank Angela for her courage and willingness to let me share her success story with all of you today.

I would also like to thank the gentlelady from Wisconsin for managing this bill and all the hard work that she puts into the Financial Services Committee.

With that, I urge my colleagues to support the bill.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. MOORE of Wisconsin. Mr. Speaker, I just want to tell you how moving the gentlelady's story was about Angela, and how encouraged she must be and others who benefit from this program.

This is welfare reform done right, and I want to congratulate her on her compassion, for pushing this bill through.

I certainly urge all of my colleagues to vote unanimously for this great bill.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mrs. BIGGERT. Mr. Speaker, I would like to yield as much time as she might consume to the gentlelady from Texas (Ms. GRANGER).

Ms. GRANGER. Mr. Speaker, I was unable to get here in time to speak about an issue I feel very strongly about. I speak about the need to honor the Code Talkers. It was brought to my attention by my friend and constituent, Mr. Ben Tahmahkera, of Fort Worth, Texas. He is a proud Comanche himself and passionately articulated the important role of the Code Talkers contributed to our Nation during World War II.

Mr. Tahmahkera came to me and pointed out that in July, 2001, President Bush honored the Navajo Code Talkers for their contribution to the United States Armed Forces as radio operators in World War II. Mr. Tahmahkera was very pleased to hear about the Navajo recognition, but he wanted to make sure the sacrifices of the Comanche Code Talkers and other Code Talkers were not forgotten either.

Mr. Tahmahkera suggested that I learn more about Charles Chibitty, who at the time was the only surviving Comanche Code Talker.

In January of 1941, Charles Chibitty enlisted in the United States Army and was assigned the Army's 4th Signal Company. Chibitty himself probably saved thousands of lives during the Normandy invasion alone, and he remembers, years after the battle, that he could clearly remember the messages he received and set out on D-day.

On that day, he identified where our troops were, protected them from being fired on by our own troops and, in general, completely confused the Germans. Chibitty specifically remembers saying in code to our men, "Okay, we know where you are. Just keep on doing what you are doing."

The code that Chibitty used was never broken.

For a long time, Germans believed it was just gibberish, and eventually the Germans sent spies to training grounds in Ft. Gordon and reservations in Oklahoma to try and crack the code. None of the spy missions were successful.

After hearing the compelling story of the Comanche Code Talkers from Mr. Tahmahkera, I introduced a bill to award the Comanche Code Talkers the Congressional Gold Medal in December 2001 during the 107th Congress.

I have worked to get these men an honor that is long overdue for the past several Congresses. After a lot of hard work and research by many different Members today, we are, at long last, honoring the Code Talkers who so nobly served our country during both World War I and World War II.

My friend, Representative DAN BOREN from Oklahoma, I appreciate his work and this Congress for bringing the bill to the floor.

Like the Navajo Code Talkers who were recognized for services in 2001, the Comanches, along with members of at least 15 other tribes, acted as Code Talkers in some capacity during both world wars. The Code Talkers were sent out on their own to provide communications on enemy locations and their strength.

They sometimes spent 24 hours in headphones without sleep or food. Many of these men endured terrible conditions without protection from the enemy. The Code Talkers were able to send messages in their native dialect, a code an enemy could never track. Military commanders credit the Code Talkers with saving the lives of countless American soldiers and ultimately to the success of the United States in many battles.

In my mind, the Native American Code Talkers are some of our Nation's greatest heroes. As my good friend, Deputy Secretary of Defense Gordon England said, "The story of the Native American Code Talkers is one of the most inspiring chapters in America's march to victory in World War II. Their heroic and dramatic contributions were instrumental in driving back our enemies across the Pacific."

It's time for Congress to give the Native American Code Talkers the recognition they deserve for their contribution to U.S. victories in World War I and World War II.

Charles Chibitty, a true American hero, was also a loyal friend. He once turned down a Medal of Honor because it did not include all the four signal companies who he considered his brothers.

Chibitty said, I am glad that I am still here, but I miss my comrades. I know that my comrades that have already gone before me are listening and laughing right now. I know when I go up there someday, they will be there waiting for me.

Today, at long last, we honor the late Charles Chibitty and all of his friends who served our country as their service Code Talkers during World War I and World War II.

I urge my colleagues to support H.R. 4544.

EXTENDING THE AUTHORIZATION OF THE NATIONAL FLOOD INSURANCE PROGRAM

Mr. WATT. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the bill (H.R. 6965) to extend the authorization of the national flood insurance program, and for other purposes.

The Clerk read the title of the bill.

The text of the bill is as follows:

H.R. 6965

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. EXTENSION OF NATIONAL FLOOD INSURANCE PROGRAM.

(a) PROGRAM EXTENSION.—Section 1319 of the National Flood Insurance Act of 1968 (42 U.S.C. 4026) is amended by striking "September 30, 2008" and inserting "April 30, 2009".

(b) FINANCING.—Section 1309(a) of such Act (42 U.S.C. 4016(a)) is amended by striking "September 30, 2008" and inserting "April 30, 2009".

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from North Carolina (Mr. WATT) and the gentlewoman from West Virginia (Mrs. CAPITO) will each control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from North Carolina.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. WATT. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks on this legislation and to insert extraneous material thereon.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from North Carolina?

There was no objection.

Mr. WATT. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

(Mr. WATT asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. WATT. Mr. Speaker, this bill would extend the National Flood Insurance Program by 7 months. During the most recent hurricanes of last year, we found that the program had some substantial problems to it. The House has passed a bill, the Senate has passed a bill, and we have been unable to this point to reconcile the two bills.

So the solution in the meantime is to extend the existing flood insurance program by 7 months. It is important to homeowners and businesses so they can have easy access to flood insurance.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mrs. CAPITO. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in reluctant support really of H.R. 6965 to extend the authorization of the National Flood Insurance Program. I would prefer that this would be a debate on a consensus reform package that would put the National Flood Insurance Program on a more actuarially sound footing.

Both the House and Senate have passed separate bills that include important and necessary reforms. However, there are significant differences between the two packages. And, unfortunately, we have been unable to reach a compromise on our differences.

Although there are differences in the two approaches, there are some similarities. For instance, both measures would reauthorize the flood program for 5 years and include important reforms to phase out premium subsidies and require more realistic pricing that is actuarially sound and based on the actual risk of flooding. Both bills would also phase out rate subsidies for nonresidential properties and non-primary residences.

One of the great challenges for this program is the debt, which presents an ongoing challenge and stands at $17.4 billion resulting from the 2005 hurricanes. Any flood program reform package has to address the NFIP's debt, the interest payments on that debt and the net impact that they have on the budget.

We also have to face the reality of new claims in the pipeline to cover losses from Hurricanes Ike and Gustav, as well as the flooding in the Midwest earlier this summer.

Both bills contain strong and prudent reforms designed to strengthen the flood program, phase out subsidies, and encourage a premium pricing structure that is based on the actual risk of property loss from flooding.

The National Flood Insurance Program is currently set to expire on September 30. For this reason we are today considering a simple 7-month extension designed to keep the flood insurance program up and running past the September 30 deadline. Allowing the flood insurance program to expire could cause serious disruptions to the mortgage market and we could not afford to let that happen, especially in light of our current financial instabilities. A 7-month extension would allow Congress time to complete their work on a comprehensive reform package.

I want my colleagues in the House to know that the Republican members on the Financial Services Committee remain committed to enacting comprehensive reforms that not only modernize the National Flood Insurance Program so that homeowners will continue to have access to flood insurance, but also to protect the American taxpayer at the same time. I urge passage of this bill.

I reserve the balance of my time, although I have no further speakers.

Mr. WATT. I thank the gentlewoman for her excellent presentation on this. If she is prepared to yield back, I am also prepared to yield back.

Mrs. CAPITO. I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. WATT. Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from North Carolina (Mr. WATT) that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 6965.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds being in the affirmative) the rules were suspended and the bill was passed.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER
PRO TEMPORE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair will entertain Special Order speeches without prejudice to the resumption of further legislative business.

SPECIAL ORDERS

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under the Speaker's announced policy of January 18, 2007, and under a previous order of the House, the following Members will be recognized for 5 minutes each.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Texas (Mr. POE) is recognized for 5 minutes.

(Mr. POE addressed the House. His remarks will appear hereafter in the Extensions of Remarks.)

HONORING HANNAH WARFIELD AND JENNY BARRINGER

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Colorado (Mr. PERLMUTTER) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. PERLMUTTER. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize two members of one of my Colorado offices, Hannah Warfield and Jenny Barringer. These two are world-class athletes from my alma mater, the University of Colorado. They recently competed in the U.S. Olympic track and field trials in Eugene, Oregon; and in Jenny's case, the 2008 Olympics in Beijing.

I want to start off by saying a few words about Hannah, a native of Sydney, Montana, who competed in the women's javelin competition. Her work ethic is extraordinary; and despite the rigors of working a full-time job and recently graduating from the University of Colorado, she maintains a training schedule which begins at 5 a.m. in the morning and would humble even the most dedicated among us.

This work ethic propelled her to become the 2007 NCAA Women's Big 12 Champion in the javelin event, a distinction not achieved by a University of Colorado athlete in 20 years.

She is one of the most pleasant, organized and courteous individuals I have ever had the opportunity to meet. And although Hannah came just short of making it to Beijing, words cannot express the amount of pride and inspiration she brought to our office and our community with her dedication to the pursuit of her dreams. Hannah's positive attitude and tenacity should serve as an inspiration to all of us.

Next, I would like to take a moment to speak about Jenny Barringer from Oviedo, Florida, who competed in the women's 3,000 meter steeplechase event. Jenny is a true pioneer in the sport which made its inaugural appearance at the 2008 games.

Prior to the Olympics, she shattered the American record in the women's steeplechase with a time of 9:22:73. If that were not enough, she maintains a 3.7 GPA, serves as a sign language interpreter, volunteers with the Ronald McDonald House, Habitat for Humanity, and the local adopt-a-road program.

I can attest that Coloradoans watched her with excitement and anticipation as Jenny made her Olympic debut and competed in the Beijing games where she once again made history by breaking her own American record with a time of 9:22:26. This was a 9th place finish in the world. Jenny made our community and Nation proud.

But what impresses me most about Hannah and Jenny is that for as great as their athletic ability, they are even better people. Active in their communities, great students, combined with a desire to go above and beyond what is expected, they serve as a positive example of what can be achieved with hard work and a positive attitude.

As a father of three young women myself, all of whom are athletes, I can attest Hannah and Jenny represent the pride and hope every parent feels when they drop their own daughters off at an athletic practice.

It is an amazing honor to see two of our own in Colorado rise to this level, especially knowing it could not have happened to two better people. Hannah Warfield and Jenny Barringer embody the best our country could hope for in the next generation of Americans, and I am privileged for the opportunity to have come to know these two remarkable individuals.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from North Carolina (Mr. JONES) is recognized for 5 minutes.

(Mr. JONES addressed the House. His remarks will appear hereafter in the Extensions of Remarks.)

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from South Carolina (Mr. SPRATT) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. SPRATT. Madam Speaker, under section 211(3) of S. Con. Under his leadership, Friendship Missionary Baptist Church has acquired 108.5 acres of land in Charlotte on which they are pursuing plans to develop HIV/AIDS housing, single family housing, a child care center, commercial space, an assisted-living facility for seniors, and centers for Alzheimers and hospice patients. Amidst all these accomplishments, Pastor Jones is also recognized as an outstanding husband and father and is a published author.

Pastor Jones has also been an active force internationally. He has organized and led medical and religious mission teams of doctors, nurses, technicians, and teachers to provide needed healthcare, medical supplies, and educational training in Jamaica, Africa, India, and Guyana for children and families struggling in poverty.

Mr. Speaker, I'm sure my colleagues join me in wishing Reverend Dr. Clifford Anthony Jones, Sr., and the Friendship Missionary Baptist Church congregation a happy 25th pastoral anniversary and best wishes for years to come.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from California (Ms. WOOLSEY) is recognized for 5 minutes.

NO BAILOUT FOR EXECUTIVES

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Ohio (Ms. KAPTUR) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Ms. KAPTUR. Mr. Speaker, Congress is being pushed to pass a Bush administration plan to write a blank check to white collar criminals of the highest order. Instead of prosecuting those who stole from us, Secretary Paulson wants us to reward his former colleagues for their bad decisions, abusive and unlawful practices.

While my constituents are struggling to pay their gas bills, we should recall fondly the record annual bonuses Secretary Paulson's alma mater, Goldman Sachs, gave less than 2 years ago. In 2006, that investment house alone paid $16.5 billion in compensation to its employees averaging more than $600,000 per employee. In fact, Goldman CEO Lloyd Blankfein got $53.4 million that year. And Bear Stearns chief executive officer, the company that the Fed just bailed out with our money, James E. Cayne, got a stock bonus that year worth $14.8 million. Merrill Lynch chief executive officer Stanley O'Neal, he got $35.4 million. Think about this America.

Now 2 years later, those houses are demanding that our taxpayers bail out their companies, despite the fact that the real median household income of a middle class family in our country is about $50,000 a year. That doesn't matter to the people drafting this bailout.

In 2006, Forbes Magazine estimated Secretary Paulson earned $16.4 million as CEO of Goldman Sachs, not counting all his other perks. His net worth is estimated somewhere over half a billion dollars. Indeed, that tidy amount alone would make a real dent in what is owed to the American people in this proposed bailout.

So why would our middle class taxpayers be asked to bail out billionaires? Some of them should be doing time for insider trading and fraudulent accounting rather than lobbying down here in Washington for us to bail them out.

American taxpayers were forced to lay out $30 billion to help Bear Stearns.

□ 2245

And then we were asked to shell out the first $200 billion, and that could rise to $2.44 trillion, for Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac. And now, $85 billion to rescue AIG Insurance Company.

Who ever heard of the Federal Government rescuing an insurance company that was already paying, get this, civil fines in New York for its wrongdoing of over $1.6 billion on proven charges of serious accounting fraud and misconduct.

Why send our hardened paychecks to the very people who caused these problems?

Americans don't need to write checks. We need investigations, and we don't need just investigations, we need prosecutions. White collar crimes of this magnitude cannot go unpunished, nor can they get rewarded.

First, investigation. We need the American people's voices to be heard, not just the voices of those who perpetrated these crimes against us, the taxpayers. We need real congressional investigation and oversight in each of the committees of jurisdiction which seem strangely silent here, using their subpoena power, the Judiciary Committee, the Ways and Means Committee, the Energy and Commerce Committee, the Budget Committee, the Financial Services Committee, which is having a perfunctory hearing tomorrow, I guess, and Government Oversight. The silence is deadening.

The crimes of Wall Street will make Watergate look like penny-ante thieves.

Second, campaign reform. Get the Wall Street money out of congressional and presidential races. Wall Street is now the Number 1 top source of Federal campaign money to Congress and in those presidential races. And guess who's the Number 1 Wall Street giver? Goldman Sachs. And guess where our last two Treasury Secretaries have come from? Goldman Sachs.

Whether it's a Democratic administration or a Republican, not one lawmaker or candidate should be accepting Wall Street money. Wall Street is so broke as to beg for our help, but somehow they have millions of dollars to drop into political coffers.

I think the American people are beginning to get the picture. In fact, I'm putting in the RECORD tonight an article from the Wall Street Journal called Wall Street Top Source of Campaign Money, and also a list of the biggest donors on Wall Street.

Mr. Speaker, I will continue tomorrow evening to talk about justice and empowering the Department of Justice to institute a major investigation.

And let me also, in closing say, I'm going to be placing in the RECORD tonight some remarks from Americans who have ideas about what should be done.

I want to compliment the American people. You're doing a lot of thinking on your own. We need to hear from you.

This Congress shouldn't be closing down and going home. We should be taking care of America's business, not going home to campaign.

WALL STREET IS TOP SOURCE OF CAMPAIGN CASH

WALLETS OPEN UP ON WALL STREET

(By Brody Mullins)

Despite Wall Street's recent woes, people who work in the financial industry continue to dig deep for political donations to Republican and Democratic candidates for president.

Employees of Wall Street firms are the single largest source of campaign cash, accounting for a total of $50.4 million in financial contributions to the candidates so far this election cycle. That is more than any other industry sector, according to a Wall Street Journal analysis of campaign-finance data compiled by the nonpartisan Center for Responsive Politics.

As candidates load up for advertising blitzes before "Super Tuesday" primaries on Feb. 5, candidates from both parties are again coming to New York seeking campaign donations. Sen. John McCain, the Arizona Republican, had a fund-raiser at the St. Regis Hotel last night that was hosted by Merrill Lynch & Co. Chief Executive John Thain, private-equity giant Henry Kravis of Kohlberg Kravis Roberts & Co. and former Goldman Sachs Group Inc. Chairman John Whitehead.

Mr. McCain recently spent $1 million on advertising ahead of the Florida primary next Tuesday. Voters in more than 20 states, including California and New York, go to the polls Feb. 5.

New York Sen. Hillary Clinton heads to her home state tomorrow for two fund-raisers. The Clinton campaign hopes to raise $15 million through these and other means to fund her campaign through Feb. 5.

Contributions from Wall Street have favored Republicans, who have collected 54% of donations from financial companies. Wall Street is the No. 1 source of donations to every major presidential candidate in both parties, except former North Carolina Democratic Sen. John Edwards, who is favored by the legal industry, according to the data.

Lawyers and lobbyists are the second-largest source of contributions to the candidates, with $34.8 million in donations. Together, the finance and legal industries are responsible for nearly a quarter of the $354 million donated to the presidential candidates as of Sept. 30. The next round of campaign-finance information, covering the three-month period ending Dec. 31, will be released at the end of the month.

Employees of financial firms, lawyers and lobbyists make up 46% of all large donations—contributions of $200 or more—to the presidential candidates. Each of the other industry sectors is responsible for just a fraction of the donations to the candidates.

According to the data, people who work in Hollywood, communications or electronics rank a distant third with $13.3 million in donations to the candidates. Other top sources of donations were employees of the health-care industry with $9.5 million, construction with $6.1 million and energy with $3.1 million. People who work in the defense industry gave $502,000, according to the data.

Not surprisingly, the two candidates from New York are winning the race for donations on Wall Street. Mrs. Clinton and former New York City Republican Mayor Rudy Giuliani lead with $12.3 million and $10.6 million, respectively, in campaign donations from employees of Wall Street firms.

Employees of Goldman Sachs, Lehman Brothers Holdings Inc. and Morgan Stanley rank as the top individual sources of donations to the presidential candidates, according to the data.

Goldman employees were the largest contributor to Mr. Obama, the second-largest giver to Mrs. Clinton and the fifth-largest to Mr. Edwards. Goldman employees donated $369,000 to Mr. Obama and $350,000 to Mrs. Clinton.

Other top Wall Street givers to Mr. Obama include employees of Lehman Brothers ($229,000), J.P. Morgan Chase & Co. ($217,000) and Citigroup Inc. ($181,000).

The top seven companies that have produced the most money for Mr. Giuliani are all financial firms, including Ernst & Young LLP, hedge fund Elliott Management and Credit Suisse Group.

Former Massachusetts Gov. Mitt Romney also has fared well on Wall Street. A founder of Bain Capital, Mr. Romney has scored with employees of Goldman Sachs, Merrill Lynch and Morgan Stanley. Employees of his former company have donated $112,000 to his campaign, according to the data.

Unlike Wall Street, lawyers heavily favor Democrats with their political donations. Lawyers have donated $9.6 million to Mrs. Clinton, $8.2 million to Mr. Edwards and $7.9 million to Mr. Obama.

Mr. Giuliani, a former prosecutor and partner with Bracewell & Giuliani LLP, raised $3.2 million from others in his profession. That was more than any other Republican but less than half as much as the leading Democratic candidates.

Pennsylvania-based law firm Blank Rome LLP was the top source of donations to Mr. McCain, who collected $141,000 from employees of the firm. Mr. McCain fared well with employees of Greenberg Traurig LLP, a Miami firm that ranks as his third-largest contributor. As the chairman of the Senate Indian Affairs Committee, Mr. McCain took the lead in investigating convicted lobbyist Jack Abramoff, who was a lobbyist with Greenberg Traurig.

Mr. McCain and Mrs. Clinton led all others with donations from lobbyists. Mrs. Clinton collected $568,000 from lobbyists, while Mr. McCain has $340,000.

Re: Key ideas for improving the Paulson Plan
To: Key Policymakers in Congress
From: Dr. Brent Blackwelder, and James S. Henry, Esq.

Date: September 23, 2008

Based on our our conversations this morning with several thoughtful observers here are some additional specific ideas for improving the Paulson Plan.

The overall perspective is that Congress should concentrate now on a short list of crucial improvements to the Plan that are most important to the public. In our view, these are the following:

1. Equity "Upside" and Voting Power. In return for the undeniable new risks that US taxpayers are taking on, and the poor management track record of leading Wall Street institutions, it is reasonable to insist that they receive an "upside" on the value of participating financial institutions (FIs) themselves as well as on the potential increased value of acquired mortgage-backed assets. This proposal commands widespread support in this panel.

Technically, this could be accomplished by demanding preferred shares (with anti-dilution provisions) from any financial institutions (FIs) that receive assistance, as was routinely done by Bank of Japan in exchange for financial assistance during the Japanese bank restructuring of the 1990s, and by the Chilean government during the February 1983 bank nationalization.

Warrants might also be used, as was done in the case of the 1979 $1.2 billion Treasury loan guarantee to Chrysler. (According to Sen. Bradley, the Federal Government eventually made money on those warrants.) We believe that while warrants are easier to implement, it is vital to insist on actual equity (including voting power). This will provide the Treasury with much more direct influence over management behavior, will be easier to value, and will also be easier to explain to the public than warrants.

2. Clawback Provisions for Executive Severance Pay. The basic principle here is that for senior FI executives, there should be accountability for some time period even after they leave office—at a minimum, any future compensation or severance that they receive should be subject to stiff taxes or repossession in bankruptcy court. Insisting on compliance with this standard should be a condition for participation in the bailout.

3. Share the Pain.

A. Emergency Taxes. Since this very costly bailout package may severely limit the ability of the Federal Government to afford vital programs like health insurance reform and alternative energy, it is important that we deal now with the substantial "tax justice" implications of the bailout.

One way to do this would be to start treating this as the national emergency that it really is, and help ordinary taxpayers pay for it by: (1) eliminating the carried-interest benefits for hedge fund managers; (2) cracking down on offshore havens—no FIs should be permitted to establish subs or place SPVs in them; (3) imposing at least a temporary increased income tax rate on all people with incomes above $1 million and on all estates above $10 million.

B. Compulsory Write-Down/Debt Reduction of Residential Mortgages. Given the failure of this summer's relief packages for ordinary mortgage holders to have much impact, and the fact that foreclosures are still increasing (to a record 100,000+ per month, and that housing prices are still falling in a majority of key markets, this is another essential measure. The debt restructuring should be implemented quickly, affect large numbers of people, and be inversely proportional to mortgage size. It might also be means-tested.

4. Financial Products Safety Commission. This would review and certify the quality of all financial products offered to the general public. Products like zero-down payment mortgages would require special labeling, and might not qualify for government incentives like interest deductibility, access to the government insurance window, and so forth.

5. Treasury-Created Market for MBS Insurance. As discussed in the draft article below, a very novel idea is that the US Treasury might be able to use current authority to offer ABX-like insurance at a fixed price per tranche to institutions that hold MBSs. According to Professors Kotlikoff and Merlin, if such a government-backed insurance market were in place, backed by a significant reserve against losses, it might even obviate the need for the entire $700 billion, while creating a market-based workout alternative.

As Mr. Henry has suggested, this could be combined with #1, if FIs were allowed to pay for the insurance with equity or warrants. This would also have the benefit of helping to recapitalize troubled FIs.

6. New "Pecora Commission" (ala 1932): a congressional committee with subpoena power to investigate the root causes of this crisis and recommend further steps.

THE RIGHT FINANCIAL FIX

SEPTEMBER 21, 2008

Fortunately, the Treasury and Fed are looking for a "comprehensive approach to address the illiquid assets on bank balance sheets." Their idea is to swap up to $700 billion in Treasuries for the "toxic" assets, putting a floor on bank losses and leaving the government to hold the risky assets until conditions improve. The big question is the swap rate; i.e., how to price these thousands upon thousands of illiquid securities so that both taxpayers and bank shareowners are fairly treated.

Treasury Secretary Paulson wants to run auctions to determine prices, but this will take time to set up and may be impractical given the highly complex nature of many of the securities involved. Furthermore, those holding the worst securities will be the most eager to sell.

Our answer is to rely on the same pricing mechanism, but not the same prices, used before things hit the fan. In the good old days, mortgage derivatives were priced by reference to the cost of buying default insurance on five tranches of a bundle of 20 standard subprime mortgages. The top tranche (AAA) provided the highest probability of full repayment. The lowest tranche (BBB) had the lowest probability. In between were another 3 tranches. The market for these insurance contracts is called the ABX.

Avant le deluge, you could use ABX prices to figure out what a given tranche of a standard mortgage-backed security was worth. It would simply be the cost of buying a safe bond—a Treasury—with the same coupon plus paying the ABX-determined price for default insurance for that tranche. The reason is that once you had purchased the insurance, you are guaranteed a safe income stream; i.e., you were guaranteed the equivalent of a Treasury bond. More exotic mortgage-backed securities, with now scary initials, like CDOs, could also be priced using the ABX.

So here's our specific idea. Rather than ask Hank Paulson to determine the price of each and every toxic asset, let's have him simply set prices for the ABX insurance policies (or credit default swaps, as they are called). Right now these insurance policies are selling for crazy prices because nobody can insure against systemic risk. Nobody, that is, except the government. The government is in a unique position to insure against system-wide risk because its own decisions determine, to a very large degree, the extent of this risk.

Were the government to start selling the ABX insurance policies at reasonable prices, our Cinderella mortgage-derivatives market would suddenly wake up and start pricing every mortgage-related security in sight based on these ABX prices. If Hank does this, the market will do essentially all the pricing;

Hank will have only a handful of prices to set, not thousands.

But how does Hank set those prices? What's fair? What's fair are insurance policy prices that assumes no system collapse, a modest additional decline in house prices, a mild recession, and modest additional increases in default rates. Yes, these are optimistic assumptions, but that's the economic outcome the government is arranging and it needs to signal its resolve.

Once the five prices are set, Hank can keep the $700 billion in his pocket. The Treasury will be receiving premium payments as it sells the ABX policies—premiums that it will need to keep in reserve.

What will happen to the banks? With reasonable ABX insurance prices, their toxic assets will take on reasonable values. This will restore their balance sheets and allow them to keep operating. Yes, this will help bank shareholders, but they will still end up far worse off than at the beginning of this crisis. Taxpayers will keep their $700 billion pistol dry for another day.

Playing the ABX market-maker is step one for the government. Step two is reorganizing banks whose capital is still too low even when its "toxic" assets are revalued. This means helping such troubled banks find a marriage partner. Step three is reregulating the entire financial sector. This includes establishing a Federal Financial Authority that stamps a seal of approval on consumer financial products that it deems to be safe, that rates individual securities, and that audits the books and rates the performance of each and every one of our nation's major companies.

The final step, and the most important, is to require financial institutions to report on line and in fine detail everything they know about the assets they hold. The principle here is simple enough even for Wall Street "geniuses" to understand. If you want to sell the public a product, including your stock, you need to explain what it is.

ANXIETIES OF THE AMERICAN PEOPLE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under the Speaker's announced policy of January 18, 2007, the gentleman from Texas (Mr. GOHMERT) is recognized for 36 minutes as the designee of the minority leader.

Mr. GOHMERT. Mr. Speaker, there's great concern all over the Nation for those who follow what is going on in our financial institutions. That concern is entirely appropriate.

There's great anxiety all over the Nation by hardworking men and women who do not know how they're going to be able to continue to pay the soaring energy costs for both their vehicles and their homes.

Yet, still, the Congressional leadership continues to refuse to put a piece of legislation on the floor for a vote that could immediately send us well on our way to energy independence by allowing us to produce that with which this Nation has been so blessed.

There's much anger over the disgusting immorality of corporate executives who padded their own pockets with millions of dollars by creative bookkeeping and representations that mortgage securities had value that they did not actually have.

There's incredulity in America over Members of Congress who have spent years decrying the culture of corruption, only to have information come out raising questions about failures to pay proper taxes under the income tax laws that may have been written by such person.

There's incredulity that the FBI might find cold hard cash secreted in a freezer 3 years ago, causing people to wonder why nothing has happened.

There's amazement from those who have bothered to notice that last year a vote could be lost by the Democratic majority, fair and square, then the rules be changed to allow a different outcome.

There's astonishment among those who have bothered to notice that the majority leadership could continue to advertise on-line that this would be the most open Congress in history, with complete use of the committee process, and each bill being subjected to full amendment opportunities and across-the-board input, yet, we continue to have the most closed and dictatorial Congress in memory.

While people in America were being overwhelmed by killer gasoline prices and home energy costs, the United States Congress took 5 weeks off. When over 100 Members of Congress played by the rules and signed up in a timely manner to speak for 5 minutes on the last day of our session in July, before the 5-week recess, the majority party used that majority, yet again, to cram down an abrupt adjournment on us to prevent our speaking with the microphones on. Yet, we spoke with the microphones off anyway.

When points of order have been raised regarding rules violations or alleged ethical malfeasance, the majority has used their power to table legitimate objections to prevent the violations from being corrected and from even being called violations. They've even gone so far as to have the transcript of the proceedings in this Chamber changed to cover up the inappropriate behavior and rulings from the day before, but the video certainly revealed the truth.

I simply could not and still struggle to understand how this body could go so far off course. When we find that our Nation has been brought to the brink of financial failure, there was fear with wailing and gnashing of teeth.

But we find that in 2002 and 2003, when the Bush administration was pushing for and demanding reforms of Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac just to try to avoid this type financial disaster that they foresaw, the efforts at reform were blocked by people against whom allegations have now arisen in the Senate who were reported to have gotten sweetheart deals from the financial industry. The foresight of such potential problem is to the Bush Administration's credit. But the failure to continue to beat the drum, warning that something was amiss does fall at the feet of the administration and Members on both sides of Congress.

There's one word that can prevent the destruction of our little experiment in democracy, as some of our forefathers referred to it, that could also prevent the destruction of a family, of a company, of a society or of a government or a Nation, and that word is accountability.

When Adam and Eve were convinced there was no accountability, they fell from grace.

When the only man mentioned in the Bible who was said to have a heart after God's own actually had no earthly accountability, King David himself committed atrocious wrongs.

When people are convinced that there is no accountability for sexual relations outside marriage, and there turns out to be consequences of a pregnancy, some think it would be punishment to allow a child to be born alive.

When the highest officers in a company think they can raid the retirement funds of their longstanding employees and be mega-wealthy, with no one to whom to account, they raid whatever is in the company as if it were their own.

Some corporate leaders allow workers to come into this country illegally, just so the owners can pocket a little more profit, despite the fact that it diminishes the society and Nation from following the rule of law and for being a Nation of laws.

And though these same people can't see it coming, history makes very clear that such violations of the rules of law will destroy a Nation and society. It makes this Nation appear, at times, to be a corrupt Third World Nation where the law just does not mean much.

When a society believes that if it feels good, do it, and there is no accountability, society ceases and an animal kingdom full of the basest instincts of animals takes over.

When Members of Congress think that they're too big and important to ever be accountable, they display hubris or arrogance and engage in tawdry financial dealing with the taxpayers' money. When people in government begin to feel that there is no accountability for them, they will allow massive overspending that the country cannot afford. They will create monuments to themselves with other people's money. They will allow the vast national wealth to be sent to other countries that do not like us very much, just so the energy does not have to be produced in the backyard of the selfish.

In 1995, the House and Senate both passed a bill that would bring about drilling in what Jimmy Carter, as President, designated for drilling, because there is no wildlife there. It's a perfect place for drilling. And that is in the coastal area where there are billions of barrels of oil. But President Clinton vetoed the bill.

In the last Congress, we passed a bill to provide for drilling in the Outer Continental Shelf, but the Democrats blocked it from getting the required 60 votes to allow cloture in the Senate, so there was no vote up or down on the bill itself in the Senate, and it died there; while our country was dying.

Here our country is in a terribly difficult time with these extremely high energy rates, and our Democratic leadership still supports sending $700 billion a year to nations, many of whom do not like us. If that $700 billion sends familiar, it's because it's also the amount that Secretary Paulson says that we need at this time to save the mortgage and financial system.

Congressman JOE BARTON proposed that, in this time of financial crisis, why not open up ANWR out of necessity? Why not open up the Outer Continental Shelf and use the billions of dollars that will come from that to help mitigate the expense of financial crisis here?

What a great idea. But the majority leadership does not see that this Nation will have an accountable judgment day where we will be accountable for what we did not do to use the blessings that we have here in this Nation of tremendous amounts of energy.

So what will it take to get people here to see that you cannot spend unabatedly, and you cannot send money overseas with reckless abandon without an accountability, a judgment day coming?

There will indeed be a high price to pay. As Chuck Colson once said, you cannot have the morals of Woodstock and not have the current problems. If you do have people whose world view is that if it feels good you should just do it then, as Chuck Colson says, you're going to have Columboes.

When the message of a majority of those serving in Congress is that we will only follow the rules when it is convenient, then the message to the world is that we will not be bound by the rule of law, as we will change it whenever we want to suit us as we please.

When our Nation's children see the adults sending such a clear message by their conduct, and the rules don't apply to us if we don't want them to, according to the majority, then you can expect the Nation's children to soon follow suit. That leads us to Enrons among the adults, the Fannie Mae fiascoes among the adults. And from our children, you begin to see wayward kids thinking maybe it will feel good to shoot people, so let's see.

Well, if there's a higher power, there's a reason for accountability. If there is no higher power, then there is no reason to worry about our accountability. You can get away with all you want in this life with no adverse consequences at all. For those who think there is no ultimate accountability, no ultimate judgment of the universe, I would point you to the discussion C.S. Lewis had in his book "Mere Christianity."

He had said that when he was an atheist, he used to love to tweak Christians by saying, "Why don't you just admit that there cannot be a just God over the universe when there is so much injustice in the world?" And no matter what the Christian would say, he would come back and say, "Yes, yes, yes. That's all well and good. But wouldn't it be easier just to admit there cannot be a just God over the universe when there is so much injustice in this world?"

Eventually, it hit him like a ton of bricks. How could he say—and who was he to say—that there was injustice unless there is some absolute, unwavering outside source of right and wrong? If there were not such a universal source of right and wrong that is written on the hearts of people, then how could anyone ever know or say that there was injustice in the world? You couldn't know.

Once you come to grips with the fact that there is a universal source of right or wrong in the world, then you have to come to grips with the fact that there must be a good God that made it so, and there will be accountability some day. Therefore, no one will ultimately be above the law.

Now, not everyone sees everything exactly the same, of course. C.S. Lewis noted that that just because some can sing closer to the notes printed on a page doesn't mean the music doesn't exist. It just means some do a better job of hitting closer to what the exact and appropriate note is.

There is right and wrong in the world, and most people innately know that. But they rationalize—and we find it all across the House and in Congress—people rationalize that it is more fun to say there is no God, perhaps no Creator so they don't have to feel guilty or consider that some day someone will judge them.

So long as we recognize, as our founders did, that there is a Creator who has endowed us with unalienable rights, then we should recognize that we have a duty to protect those rights for the sake of ourselves and those that follow. Perhaps that is why there is such an effort underway to sterilize and remove God or any reference to Him from all public buildings and documents these days.

If we keep mentioning God, as the founders of this Nation did constantly, then it reminds us that we will some day be accountable even if we get away with things today.

People do not like to feel guilty so they want to strike God out of everything. For example, as our society progressed to the point that we were too smart, too elusive to be accountable to God, we had our first national memorial in 2003 open that does not anywhere in it mention the word "God." First memorial to do that. That was the Franklin D. Roosevelt Memorial. In all of those acres at the expansive memorial, there is no mention of God, Creator, Providence, Holy Trinity, Holy Spirit, Lord, all of these different names that were in our founding documents. They're still found throughout our documents, if anyone cares to look.

Nor is there any mention of the Latin words that are found in our official great seal that's on the back of every dollar bill. If you don't believe it, pull it out and look. Those Latin words are "Annuit Coeptis," meaning He, God, has smiled on our undertaking.

Those words are also found around the Capitol and in the Senate Chamber and in the congressional prayer chapel.

Franklin D. Roosevelt was a leader of this Nation who believed strongly in accountability and that there was a God before whom that would happen.

On June 6, 1944, D-day, President Roosevelt went on national radio and did an amazing thing as President: he led the Nation in prayer. And I would like to just read that for you at this time.

And for those that may look in, Mr. Speaker, they will be able to know from the poster, this is President Franklin D. Roosevelt's prayer during his radio broadcast to the Nation on June 6. Here is that prayer as I read it verbatim as President Franklin Roosevelt gave it.

And understand, as President Roosevelt prayed this prayer, our soldiers were dying fighting valiantly during D-day trying to save the world and make it safer for democracy. This was his prayer:

"My fellow Americans:

"Last night when I spoke with you about the fall of Rome, I knew at this moment that troops of the United States and our allies were crossing the Channel in another and greater operation. It has come to pass with success thus far. And so in this poignant hour, I ask you to join me in prayer."

President Roosevelt went on, "Almighty God: Our sons, pride of our Nation, this day have set upon a mighty endeavor, a struggle to preserve our Republic, our religion, and our civilization, and to set free a suffering humanity.

"Lead them straight and true; give strength to their arms, stoutness to their hearts, steadfastness to their faith.

"They will need Thy blessings. Their road will be long and hard. For the enemy is strong. He may hurl back our forces. Successes may not come with rushing speed, but we shall return again and again; and we know that by Thy grace, and by the righteousness of our cause, our sons will triumph.

"They will be sore tried, by night and by day, without rest—until the victory is won. The darkness will be rent by noise and flame. Men's souls will be shaken with the violences of war.

"For these men are lately drawn from the ways of peace. They fight not for the lust of conquest. They fight to end conquest. They fight to liberate. They fight to let justice arise, and tolerance and goodwill among all Thy people. They yearn but for the end of battle, but their return to the haven of home.

"Some will never return. Embrace these, Father, and receive them. Thy heroic servants, into Thy Kingdom.

"And for us at home—fathers, mothers, children, wives, sisters, and brothers of brave men overseas, whose thoughts and prayers are ever with them—help us, Almighty God, to rededicate ourselves for renewed faith in Thee in this time of great sacrifice.

"Many people have urged that I call the Nation into a single day of special prayer. But because the road is long and the desire is great, I ask that our people vote themselves into a continuance of prayer. As we rise to each new day, and again when each day is spent, let words of prayer be on our lips, invoking Thy help to our efforts.

"Give us strength, too—strength in our daily tasks to redouble the contributions we make in the physical and the material support of our Armed Forces.

"And let our hearts be stout, to wait out the long travail, to bear sorrows that may come, to impart our courage unto our sons, wherever they may be.

"And, O Lord, give us faith. Give us faith in Thee; faith in our sons; faith in each other; faith in our united crusade. Let not the keenness of our spirit ever be dulled. Let not the impacts of temporary events, of temporal matters of but fleeting moment—let not these deter us in our unconquerable purpose.

"With Thy blessing, we shall prevail over the unholy forces of our enemy. Help us to conquer the apostles of greed and racial arrogances. Lead us to the saving of our country, and with our sister nations into a world unity that will spell a sure peace—a peace invulnerable to the schemings of unworthy men. And a peace that will let all of men live in freedom, reaping the just rewards of their honest toil.

"Thy will be done, Almighty God.

"Amen."

That was a prayer of our President, Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Now, in the 1950s, senator majority leader Lyndon Johnson was sick of having churches harp on him over alleged immortality, so he fixed them. He added a provision to the charitable institution laws that governed churches that says in fact you could not maintain your charitable tax-free status if you got involved in politics. That dramatically changed the Nation that had been known from our beginning.

There again, majority leader Johnson's efforts were an attempt to prevent judgment for what was alleged as improper conduct. No one enjoys accountability. But to have a free Nation, a just Nation, a prosperous Nation, and a blessed Nation, there must be accountability.

Then in 1962, an unaccountable Supreme Court that begins every single session with a prayer that God will save that honorable court, they changed nearly 200 years of precedence by ruling there could be no prayer in schools.

As mentioned in 2003, the first national memorial opened as the FDR Memorial that never mentioned God. In 2004, the second memorial in United States history opened that did not mention God anywhere either. That was the World War II Memorial.

Understand, these are both beautiful memorials. They're just Godless, yet their subjects were certainly not.

Amazingly, the park service had quotes from Eisenhower and Roosevelt in the World War II Memorial that had to be cut right at the right place so their quotes would not mention "God" or "Almighty God" as those two gentlemen and great leaders did.

I have a Bible here. My aunt says my uncle, my late uncle, got when he entered World War II. On the front, it says—it has got a metal cover—"May the Lord be with you." He said he was issued this as he went into the Army.

Right inside the fly leaf there's a message. It says, "The White House, Washington. As Commander in Chief, I take pleasure in commending the reading of the Bible to all who serve in the Armed Forces of the United States. Throughout the centuries, men of many faiths and diverse origins have found in the sacred books words of wisdom, counsel, and inspiration. It is a fountain of strength. And now as always, an aid in attaining the highest aspirations of the human soul."

Signed Franklin D. Roosevelt.

They used to issue these to people going into the service.

Let me read to you the speech that was given on the floor of the United States Senate by Senator ROBERT BYRD on June 27, 1962, which is the day or two after the Supreme Court ruled there would be no public prayer in school.

I'm reading it as Senator BYRD's speech appeared in the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD.

And Mr. Speaker, I've got a chart here that says it's Senator ROBERT BYRD's speech on the Senate floor, June 27, 1962.

And this is what he said. Senator BYRD, 1962:

"In as much as our greatest leaders have shown no doubt about God's proper place in the American birthright, can we, in our day, dare do less?

"In no other place in the United States are there so many, and such varied official evidences of deep and abiding faith on God in the part of Government as there are in Washington.

"Every session in the House and Senate begins with prayer. Each House has its own chaplain.

"The Eighty-Third Congress set aside a small room in the Capitol, just off the rotunda for the private prayer meditation of Congress. The room is always open when Congress is in session, but it is not open to the public. The room's focal point is a stained glass window showing George Washington kneeling in prayer. Behind him is etched these words from Psalm 16:1 'Preserve me, O God, for in Thee do I put my trust.'

"Inside the rotunda is a picture of the Pilgrims about to embark from Holland on the sister ship of the Mayflower, the Speedwell. The ship's revered Chaplain Brewster, who later joined the Mayflower, has open on his lap the Bible. Very clear are the words, 'The New Testament according to our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ.'

□ 2315

On the sail is the motto of the Pilgrims, "In God We Trust, God With Us."

The phrase, "In God We Trust," appears opposite the President of the Senate, who is the Vice President of the United States. The same phrase, in large words inscribed in the marble, backdrops the Speaker of the House of Representatives.

Above the head of the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court are the Ten Commandments, with the great American eagle protecting them. Moses is included among the great lawgivers in Herman A. MacNeil's marble structure group on the east front. The crier who opens each session closes with the words, "God save the United States and this honorable Court."

Engraved on the metal on the top of the Washington Monument are the words: "Praise be to God." Actually, parenthetically, the words are Laos Deo, Latin, meaning "Praise be to God," and actually, again parenthetically, that was put on the east side of the top of the Washington Monument for a purpose. Because those, so many decades, years ago, wanted it such that when the sun touched the Nation's capital, Washington, D.C., the first thing that the sun would touch would be the Latin words, Laos Deo, "Praise be to God." Interesting.

Lining the walls of the stairwell are such Biblical phrases as "Search the Scriptures," "Holiness to the Lord," "Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old he will not depart from it."

Numerous quotations from scripture can be found within the Library of Congress' walls. One reminds each American of his responsibility to his Maker: "What doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly and love mercy and walk humbly with thy God," Micah 6:8.

Another in the lawmaker's library preserves the Psalmist's acknowledgment that all nature reflects the order and beauty of the Creator, "The heavens declare the glory of God, and the firmament sheweth His handiwork," Psalm 19:1. And still another reference, "The light shineth in darkness, and the darkness comprehendeth it not," John 1:5.

Millions have stood at the Lincoln Memorial and gazed up at the statue of the great Abraham Lincoln. The sculptor who chiseled the features of Lincoln in granite all but seems to make Lincoln speak his own words inscribed into the walls.

He said, "That this Nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom, and that government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth."

At the opposite end, on the north wall, his Second Inaugural Address alludes to "God," the "Bible," "providence," "the Almighty," and "divine attributes."

It then continues: As was said 3000 years ago, so it still must be said, "The judgements of the Lord are true and righteous altogether."

On the south banks of Washington's Tidal Basin, Thomas Jefferson still speaks: "God who gave us life gave us liberty. Can the liberties of a Nation be secure when we have removed a conviction that these liberties are the gift of God? Indeed I tremble for my country when I reflect that God is just, that his justice cannot sleep forever."

These words of Jefferson are a forceful and explicit warning that to remove God from this country will destroy it.

Those are the words of Senator ROBERT BYRD back in 1962.

We have a visitor's center, the Capitol Visitor's Center, CVC for short. It cost over $621 million. It is slated to open December 2 of this year. So far, it had been completely sterilized of any mention of God in any form. It was not until over 100 Members of Congress sent a letter and followed up repeatedly with more concern that we finally got a concession this past week that "In God We Trust" would be put above the mock-up of the Speaker's rostrum area there in the visitor's center, because what had been there before was a fraud and a deception and attempted to represent that there was no "In God We Trust" above our Speaker's head.

There will also be accountability someday for this majority leadership playing so fast and loose with the rules. When rules and laws don't matter, then we lose this blessed country that was founded as a Nation of laws, because people are not perfect. People need rules. We need accountability. That means that the majority leadership, if they play by the rules, they're going to lose a vote every now and then, and that's okay. Don't break the rules just to keep from losing a vote. The rule itself is too important to do that. It also means that the Speaker and other leadership of the majority must abide by the rules as promised, and the promises are actually still on the Speaker's Web site but have not been followed as expected.

Let me just read you from the Speaker's own Web site. This is from the Speaker's Web site, as I pulled them off today.

"Every person in America has a right to have his or her voice heard." It would have been nice if that had been remembered the last day of our session on August 1 before there was a 5-week vacation. We didn't get to have the microphones on so we could be heard.

But it continues: "No Member of Congress should be silenced on the floor"—it would have been nice if somebody had noticed that—"as has been the practice of Republican leadership in the United States House of Representatives." A little slap there. Any-one smell hypocrisy?

It goes on and says: "Respectful of both the wishes of the founders, and the expectations of the American people, we offer the following principles for restoring democracy in the 'People's House,' guaranteeing that the voices of all the people are heard."

That just makes me sick to read those words and to think about what's happened in the last year and a half.

Then it goes on. It says: "Bipartisan administration of the House. Our goal is to restore accountability, honesty and openness at all levels of government. To do so, we will create and enforce rules that demand the highest ethics from every public servant, sever unethical ties between lawmakers and lobbyists, and establish clear standards that prevent the trading of official business for gifts. Honest leadership"—on the speaker's Web site it said—"is not a partisan goal. It is the key to a stronger union." I agree.

But it goes on to say: "We must all work together to put the progress of all Americans ahead of the special interests of the few." I certainly agree with that, too.

It goes on and says: "With honest leadership and open government, America's leaders can once again focus on the urgent needs of the American people."

How about energy? American people need energy. They need cheaper energy. We need to get off the addiction to foreign oil. They're not addressing that. We took off on a 5-week vacation when the people needed us most.

The Web site goes on and says—this is the Speaker's Web site—"bills should be developed following full hearings and open subcommittee and committee markups, with appropriate referrals to other committees. Members should have at least 24 hours to examine a bill prior to consideration at the subcommittee level."

Boy, that would have been nice last week when we got slapped with an energy bill that didn't go through subcommittee, didn't go through committee, had not one single Republican getting to have any input in that energy bill last week, and it was posted, as I recall, at 9:45 the night before we had to vote on it. It would be nice if these things on the Speaker's Web site were followed.

"Bills should generally come to the floor under a procedure that allows open, full, and fair debate consisting of a full amendment process that grants the minority the right to offer its alternatives, including a substitute."

How long has it been on a bill of any substance that the minority was given an opportunity to have amendments? Closed rules over and over and over and over.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will be recognized for the remainder of his hour, 24 minutes.

Mr. GOHMERT. The Web site goes on to say: "Members should have at least 24 hours to examine bill and conference report text prior to floor consideration."

Oh, that's another thing. We don't even have conference reports anymore, because if we had a conference, then there would be Republicans from the House that would be required to get to have input, and that's not going to happen. So the conference reports instead became Democrats getting together, working out in the Senate and the House—though, I think they may have let some Republicans in the Senate throw in a line or two—but nobody from the House. Not fair, not open.

And it says that it "must be reported before 10 p.m. for a bill to be considered the following day." They found a way to completely avoid the conference process so that rule doesn't even matter anymore.

Now, the promises on the Speaker's Web site are so far from what's been happening in this, the most closed-door Congress in history. All I can say is that because of the vast abuses, at some point the majority will change again. Maybe not this year. At some point it will, because the American people begin to notice eventually, and some eventually will be shocked by the broken promises that were never fulfilled.

You can only fool the American people for so long before they figure it out. There may even be consequences for people across the aisle, apparently only for show, being on an energy alternative bill and then having two dozen of those people—it was their bill, and they voted against it, having already acknowledged that was the best bill. Maybe there will be consequences for doing that.

Accountability and fairness also mean that if people are going to use electric or fossil fuel-produced energy they should not try to prevent people who are not as wealthy as they are from being able to have the same opportunities to purchase that fuel on less income, that they would have to allow more to be produced to do that.

It means if you're going to use energy, then allow us to get it in America so it produces American jobs, increases America's gross national product, creates a better standard of living for more Americans. It will stop funding Nations that allow their assets to slip into the hands of those who want to destroy us. You cannot keep sending money abroad and not have a day of accountability when it will come back to haunt and truly hurt us badly.

It's time to quit sending $700 billion a year out of this country for energy that we have. Sure, let's produce the renewables. We have got to go to those for our future. And alternative energy sources would be terrific.

Some of us have come up with innovative things that will allow us to go way into the future with cheap energy, but right now, as my farmers tell me, we can't find a Prius tractor. When electricity was lost for days because of this Hurricane Ike that came through my district, as people pointed out to me, there are no hybrid generators. They run on fossil fuel.

Accountability to strengthen the Nation means that children have to have rules, and that when a man and a woman voluntarily have sexual relations, they have made their choice, and they will be accountable and bear the consequence of igniting a life in this world.

Accountability means that if you're a CEO of a company and you run a corporation into the ground, you should not receive millions of dollars in severance and a thank you for your greedy destruction. Instead, you should have to pay.

So, tonight, I want to close with a motion and a supporting speech made by Benjamin Franklin.

Let me set the stage here.

The American Revolution, you remember the Declaration of Independence, 1776. And then the war went on for 7 years. We got to 1783. The revolution was won. There was a Treaty of Paris, 1783. I did not know until I came to Congress, as a historian, history degree I've got, I didn't know until I saw an original copy in the State Department of the Treaty of Paris of 1783—this was a critical document because this was getting Great Britain to acknowledge in writing that the United States was a country that was and should be free and they would have to recognize that. So they wanted it in the name that even Great Britain would be afraid to break and breach.

I was shocked. It starts with big, bold letters at the top of the Treaty of Paris that forced Great Britain to recognize us; in these big, bold words it says, "In the name of the most Holy and undivided Trinity."

Then we had the Articles of Confederation in this country, but they were too loosely woven. There were a number of problems, no common currency; there were problems and haggling between the States. And by 1787, it was very clear that if the Nation was to survive, it was going to have to have a new constitution.

So they went to George Washington and said, we need you to come back to preside. And he said, I did my part as God led me to do and you appointed me to do; I did my part. And they said, You don't understand; the 13 colonies will only come back together if you are willing to preside because they know you, they know your heart, they know you're not in it for yourself; you proved that the day you surrendered all power, as had never been done in the history of the world, surrendered all power and went home; won the revolution, commander of the military. You know, when you do that, historically, you could be called Czar, King, Caesar, whatever you want to be called. George Washington didn't do any of that.

When King George, III heard that Washington might resign after the revolution and just go home, he knew history, he said that would never happen. He said, in his exact words, "If Washington were to do that, he would be the greatest man alive." He probably was.

So then we come to have the Constitutional Convention, with George Washington presiding. They went on for nearly 5 weeks with no success. At that point, Benjamin Franklin was recognized by the President of the Constitutional Convention, George Washington. And Benjamin Franklin rose to his feet and this is what he said—his exact words as recorded by James Madison with help from some of the others there. Benjamin Franklin:

"Mr. President, the small progress we have made after four or five weeks close attendance and continual reasonings with each other—our different sentiments on almost every question, several of the last producing as many noes as ayes, is, methinks, a melancholy proof of the imperfection of the human understanding. We indeed seem to feel our own want of political wisdom, since we have been running about in search of it. We have gone back to ancient history for models of government and examined the different forms of those Republics which having been formed with the seeds of their own dissolution now no longer exist. And we have viewed modern states all around Europe, but find none of their constitutions suitable to our circumstances.

In this situation of this Assembly, groping as it were in the dark to find political truth and scarce able to distinguish it when presented to us, how has it happened, sir, that we have not hitherto once thought of humbly applying to the Father of Lights to illuminate our understanding? In the beginning contest with Great Britain, when we were sensible of danger, we had daily prayer in this room for the Divine protection. Our prayers, sir, were heard, and they were graciously answered.

"All of us who were engaged in the struggle must have observed frequent instances of a superintending Providence in our favor. To that kind of Providence we owe this happy opportunity of consulting in peace on the means of establishing our future national felicity. And have we now forgotten that powerful friend? Or do we imagine that we no longer need His assistance?

"I have lived, sir, a long time. And the longer I live, the more convincing proofs I see of this truth—that God governs in the affairs of men. And if a sparrow cannot fall to the ground without His notice, is it probable that an empire can rise without His aid? We have been assured, sir, in the Sacred writing that, "except the Lord build the House, they labour in vain that build it." Firmly believe this; and I also believe that without His concurring aid we shall succeed in this political building no better than the builders of Babel.

"We shall be divided by our little partial local interest, our projects will be confounded, and we ourselves shall become a reproach and by word down to future ages. And what is worse, mankind may hereafter, from this unfortunate instance, despair of establishing governments by human wisdom and leave it to chance, war and conquest.

"I, therefore, beg leave to move that henceforth prayers employing the assistance of heaven and its blessing on our deliberations be held in the Assembly every morning before we proceed to business, and that one or more of the clergy of this city be requested to officiate at that service."

According to the record, Mr. SHERMAN seconded the motion.

Mr. Speaker, that was George Washington's recognition of Benjamin Franklin, and the words I read are verbatim from Benjamin Franklin.

We've begun every day here in this House, here in session with the prayer, just as Franklin moved and requested. There is a higher power; there has to be accountability. Decisions in this body must be made in deference to the Father of Lights, as Benjamin Franklin called Him, and doing so with prayer, and as Franklin prayed, that God will illuminate our understanding.

We are in a perilous time, and it is time for responsibility and accountability, or otherwise, we lose this precious country.

It is time now for the majority leadership to stop playing so fast and loose with the rules and with enforcement of the rules. It is time that, after 2 years in the majority, that promises of opportunity to amend bad Democratic bills be fulfilled. It is time that rules apply to CEOs, to speakers, to committee chairmen, to leaders, and the leaders start leading by example.

George Washington said, back during the revolution, these words: "A people unused to restraint must be led, they will not be drove." He led from the front. When I was in the Army, they taught you to lead from the back. Not Washington, he led from the front. He said, "A people unused to restraint must be led, they will not be drove."

As someone pointed out previously, we have the only National Anthem whose first verse ends with a question: Oh say does that star-spangled banner yet wave, o'er the land of the free and the home of the brave? The answer as to whether that banner will yet wave depends on whether this Congress begins to acknowledge some accountability and do the right and the wise thing, not the convenient, not the political thing, do the legal, ethical and moral thing, not the Woodstock thing.

May we get back to following God's directives so that this does not cease to be the land of the free and the home of the brave. May we get back to those things that cause God to pour out his richest blessings.

HONORING THE 225TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE CONTINENTAL CONGRESS

Ms. SUTTON. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that the Committee on Oversight and Government Reform be discharged from further consideration of the concurrent resolution (H. Con. Res. 351) honoring the 225th Anniversary of the Continental Congress meeting in Nassau Hall, Princeton, New Jersey, in 1783, and ask for its immediate consideration in the House.

The Clerk read the title of the concurrent resolution.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Ohio?

There was no objection.

The text of the concurrent resolution is as follows:

H. CON RES. 351

Whereas, in response to the financial difficulties of the times, the Continental Congress departed the city of Philadelphia suddenly due to a possible uprising by discontented Continental Army soldiers who had not been paid;

Whereas the President of the Continental Congress, Elias Boudinot, established a temporary capital at Princeton "in order that further and more effective measures may be taken for suppressing the present Revolt, and maintaining the Dignity and Authority of the United States";

Whereas members of the Continental Congress were instructed to meet in Princeton on June 26, 1783;

Whereas the 300 residents of Princeton took members of the Congress into their homes;

Whereas Princeton University offered the prayer hall and the library in Nassau Hall for Congress to use to conduct the governmental business of the United States;

Whereas the Congress conducted essential business in Nassau Hall, which helped shape the foreign relations of the fledgling Nation;

Whereas General George Washington was called to Princeton by a letter from President Boudinot to receive the formal thanks of the Nation for his dedicated service as commander-in-chief;

Whereas Pittsburgh 250 has connected Washington, DC to Pittsburgh by supporting the completion of the Great Allegheny Passage Trail, the longest hiking and biking trail east of the Mississippi and the most accessible great trail experience in the world, providing an important new outdoor recreational asset to the people of the Mid-Atlantic United States; and

Whereas hydrographic surveys are important to the use of all bodies of water;

Whereas engineering surveys are utilized in the study and selection of engineering construction;

Whereas geodetic surveys determine precise global positioning for such activities as aircraft and missile navigation;

Whereas cartographic surveys are used for mapping and charting, as well as photogrammetry, the science of using aerial photographs for measurement and map production;

Whereas many services are provided through the use of sophisticated surveying equipment and techniques, including satellite-borne remote sensing devices and automated positioning, measuring, recording, and plotting equipment;

Whereas the role of the surveyor has been, and remains, of vital importance in the development of the United States;

Whereas since the colonial days of this Nation, surveyors have been leaders in the community, Statesmen, influential citizens, and shapers of cultural standards;

Whereas former surveyors include George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, and Abraham Lincoln;

Whereas it was the work of the surveyor that determined the boundaries of land, the greatest economic asset in the colonies that became the United States;

Whereas Thomas Jefferson chaired a committee in 1784 to devise a plan for disposing of lands west of the 13 original colonies;

Whereas Thomas Jefferson argued that surveying before sale was necessary to prevent overlapping claim and to simplify deeds and registers;

Whereas Thomas Jefferson reportedly wrote a plan, which was debated in Congress and in modified form was adopted as the Land Ordinance of May 20, 1785, establishing the Public Land Survey System ("PLSS"), the rectangular system that continues today in 30 midwestern and western States; and

SUPPORTING THE GOALS AND IDEALS OF NATIONAL OVARIAN CANCER AWARENESS MONTH

Ms. SUTTON. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that the Committee on Oversight and Government Reform be discharged from further consideration of the resolution (H. Res. 671) supporting the goals and ideals of

H. RES. 671

Whereas ovarian cancer is the deadliest of all gynecological cancers, and the reported incidence of ovarian cancer is increasing over time;

Whereas ovarian cancer is the 5th leading cause of cancer deaths among women in the United States;

Whereas all women are at risk for ovarian cancer, and 90 percent of women diagnosed with ovarian cancer do not have a family history that puts them at higher risk;

Whereas the Pap test is sensitive and specific to the early detection of cervical cancer, but not to ovarian cancer;

Whereas there is currently no reliable and easy-to-administer screening test used for the early detection of ovarian cancer;

Whereas many people are unaware that the symptoms of ovarian cancer often include bloating, pelvic or abdominal pain, difficulty eating or feeling full quickly, and urinary symptoms, among several other symptoms that are easily confused with other diseases;

Whereas the first national consensus statement on ovarian cancer symptoms was developed in June 2007 to provide consistency in describing symptoms to make it easier for women to learn and remember them;

Whereas due to the lack of a reliable screening test, 75 percent of ovarian cancer cases are diagnosed in an advanced stage when the five-year survival rate is below 30 percent;

Whereas if ovarian cancer is diagnosed and treated at an early stage before the cancer spreads outside of the ovary, the treatment is potentially less costly, and the survival rate is as high as 90 percent;

Whereas there are factors that are known to reduce the risk for ovarian cancer and play an important role in the prevention of the disease;

Whereas awareness and early recognition of ovarian cancer symptoms are currently the best way to save women's lives;

Whereas the Ovarian Cancer National Alliance, during the month of September, holds a number of events to increase public awareness of ovarian cancer; and

Whereas a National Ovarian Cancer Awareness Month should be designated to increase the awareness of the public regarding the cancer: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives supports the goals and ideals of National Ovarian Cancer Awareness Month.

mittee on Oversight and Government Reform be discharged from further consideration of the concurrent resolution (H. Con. Res. 386) to recognize and celebrate the "232nd Anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence," and ask for its immediate consideration in the House.

Whereas the signing of the Declaration of Independence marked the formal dissolution of the ties of the thirteen American colonies with Great Britain, the beginning of their statehood and national identity, and the dawning of a new era of freedom in America and the world;

Whereas these Founding Fathers, relying on the direction from and protection of Divine Providence, pledged to each other their lives, their fortunes, and their Sacred honor in defense of this action;

Whereas the Declaration of Independence paved the way for the birth of the Republic;

Whereas the Declaration of Independence has become part of the national culture, and its principles are part of the consciousness of all Americans;

Whereas the fundamental genius of the United States is embodied in the Declaration's recognition that "all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, that among these are Life, Liberty, and the Pursuit of Happiness";

Whereas the principle that the rights of man are bestowed by the Creator and are unalienable was derived from Scripture, which antedates the existence from any government;

Whereas the Declaration of Independence affirms that governments are instituted to protect those rights; and

Whereas the Declaration acknowledged these self-evident Truths, which constituted one of the most revolutionary philosophical developments in history and began an unparalleled national experiment: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the House of Representatives (the Senate concurring), That the Congress recognizes and celebrates the 232d anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

The concurrent resolution was agreed to.

JOINT EXPLANATORY STATEMENT SUBMITTED BY MR. SKELTON, CHAIRMAN OF THE COMMITTEE ON ARMED SERVICES, REGARDING THE AMENDMENT OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES TO S. 3001

The Chairman of the Committee on Armed Services of the House of Representatives offers an amendment to S. 3001, the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2009, as received in the House on September 18, 2008. The amendment consists of an agreement between the managers of the bill in the House of Representatives and the Senate on the reconciliation of H.R. 5658 and S. 3001, as passed by the respective chambers from which each bill originated. This agreement is memorialized in the offered amendment and described in the remainder of this Joint Explanatory Statement submitted on behalf of Mr. Skelton and Mr. Hunter for the House Committee on Armed Services and Mr. Levin and Mr. Warner for the Senate Committee on Armed Services.

Although not required by the Rules of the House of Representatives and the Senate, the Joint Explanatory Statement includes the disclosure of member earmarks and congressionally directed spending items as defined in clause 9 of rule XXI of the Rules of the House of Representatives and rule XLIV of the Standing Rules of the Senate.

In this statement, the provisions of H.R. 5658, the House passed version of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2009, are generally referred to as “the House bill.” The provisions of S. 3001, the Senate passed version of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2009, are generally referred to as “the Senate bill.” The final form of the agreements reached during an informal conference between the managers of the bill in the House and the Senate are referred to as “the agreement.”

The House amendment strikes the text of the S. 3001 and inserts the Duncan Hunter National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2009, as amended by the agreement between the managers of H.R. 5658 and S. 3001, as passed by the respective chambers from which each bill originated.

This Joint Explanatory Statement fulfills the authority granted to the Chairman of the Committee on Armed Services by H. Res. 1476 to file explanatory material for the Duncan Hunter National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2009. Mr. Skelton, the Chairman of the Committee on Armed Services, does not intend to file any additional material pursuant to H. Res. 1476 beyond this Joint Explanatory Statement.

Submitted by Mr. Skelton, Chairman of the House Committee on Armed Services (for himself, Mr. Hunter, ranking Member of the House Committee on Armed Services, Mr. Levin, Chairman of the Senate Committee on Armed Services and Mr. Warner, Acting Ranking Member of the Senate Committee on Armed Services).

CONGRESSIONAL DEFENSE COMMITTEES

The term “congressional defense committees” is often used in this joint explanatory statement. It means the Defense Authorization and Appropriations Committees of the Senate and the House of Representatives.

DIVISION A—DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE
AUTHORIZATIONS

TITLE I—PROCUREMENT

Procurement overview

The budget request for fiscal year 2009 included an authorization of $102,694.3 million for procurement for the Department of Defense.

The House bill would authorize $102,711.9 million.

The Senate bill would authorize $104,168.5 million.

The agreement recommends an authorization of $103,969.9 million. Unless noted explicitly in the joint explanatory statement, all changes are made without prejudice.

BUDGET ITEMS

Shipbuilding

The budget request contained $2.5 billion for the third DDG-1000 class destroyer, $103.2 million for close out costs associated with discontinuing the LPD-17 amphibious ship production line, and no funding for the DDG-

51 class program which had ceased new production funding with the three ships bought in fiscal year 2005. Additionally, the budget request contained $920.0 million for two Littoral Combat Ships (LCS) and $348.3 million in the National Defense Sealift Fund (NDSF) designated for advance procurement for the first of a class of Maritime Preposition Force-Future (MPF(F)) aviation vessels.

The agreement would authorize full funding for the third DDG-1000 class destroyer without prejudice to any potential future Department of Defense decision to truncate the DDG-1000 class acquisition program in favor of a return to DDG-51 class destroyers.

However, the agreement would authorize $349.0 million for surface ship advance procurement which would permit the Navy to acquire major spares for DDG-51 destroyers or buy advance procurement should the Secretary of Defense determine that there is a validated requirement to produce more of these ships.

The agreement also would authorize $600.0 million in advance procurement to extend the LPD-17 amphibious acquisition program to a total of 11 ships. The Marine Corps considers the tenth and eleventh ships of this class to be vital to the future expeditionary force.

The agreement would authorize the budget request of $920.0 million for two LCS vessels. Elsewhere in the agreement, we recommend a provision that would delay implementation of the cost cap for the LCS program until fiscal year 2010. We note that the Navy has taken delivery of the first ship of this class and anticipates taking delivery of the second by the end of the calendar year. While these are significant milestones, we remain concerned that the Navy has not taken sufficient actions to control costs for follow-on vessels. Moreover, in repeated testimony before the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives, we have been told that a primary benefit of utilizing mid-tier shipyards is that such yards can easily balance commercial and government workload to ensure that the Navy does not have to pay overhead costs to maintain capability during periods of limited government funding. Nevertheless, the Navy has requested, for the second year in a row, an adjustment to the cost cap in order to preserve industrial capability because the Navy is unable to purchase a ship at or below its budgetary estimate and lacks a coherent acquisition strategy for the program. We strongly encourage the Navy to take steps to procure follow-on vessels with required warfighting capability, while prioritizing the aggressive management of cost and the most efficient utilization of the industrial base. Likewise, we direct the Secretary to develop and submit to the Congress a long-term acquisition strategy for LCS vessels with the submission of the fiscal year 2010 budget request.

Finally, consistent with a change in the definition of the vessels appropriately funded within the NDSF, the agreement would transfer $348.3 million from the NDSF to the Shipbuilding and Conversion, Navy (SCN) account to buy MPF(F) vessels which are non-combatant versions of assault echelon vessels of the Navy's amphibious force.

ITEMS OF SPECIAL INTEREST

Intelligence, surveillance, and reconnaissance task force

The Senate report (110-335) accompanying S. 3001 included recommendations for authorization of funding and direction for multiple programs and activities to immediately strengthen intelligence, surveillance, and reconnaissance (ISR) capabilities for deployed forces. Since the publication of that report, the Secretary of Defense established an ISR Task Force to recommend immediate actions to field additional capabilities. The Secretary of Defense subsequently submitted a prior-approval reprogramming request to the Congress of $1.2 billion for fiscal year 2008 (which Congress approved), and indicated that another $1.4 billion or more would be requested for fiscal year 2009.

We applaud the Secretary's decisive action. However, based on past experience with countering improvised explosive devices and fielding large numbers of Mine-Resistant Ambush Protected armored vehicles, we are concerned that the Department of Defense will encounter difficulties in executing the approved initiatives as rapidly as needed unless the Department establishes a high-level organization and process to manage, oversee, and report regularly to the Secretary on the initiative. In addition, we expect that additional requirements for immediate ISR support will arise, suggesting the need for sustaining an organization and process for evaluating theater needs and potential solutions.

Therefore, we urge the Secretary of Defense to create and sustain an organization, led by a senior official, to manage the implementation of the ISR initiatives and to evaluate and make recommendations to the Secretary on new ISR requirements as they arise. We request that the Secretary submit a report to the congressional defense and intelligence committees within 30 days of the date of enactment on the Secretary's plans for managing the multi-billion dollar ISR enhancement effort.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS ADOPTED SUBTITLE A—AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS

Authorization of appropriations (secs. 101–105)

The House bill contained provisions (secs. 101–106) that would authorize the recommended fiscal year 2009 funding levels for procurement for the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Air Force, Defense-wide activities, and National Guard and reserve equipment.

The Senate bill contained provisions (secs. 101–104) that would authorize the recommended fiscal year 2009 funding levels for procurement for the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Air Force, and Defense-wide activities.

The agreement includes the House provisions with technical amendments.

SUBTITLE B—ARMY PROGRAMS

Separate procurement line items for Future Combat Systems program (sec. 111)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 111) that would require, beginning with the fiscal year 2010 President's budget request, separate procurement lines for five classes of equipment planned for procurement under the Future Combat Systems (FCS) program. These classes would be FCS manned ground vehicles, FCS unmanned ground vehicles, FCS unmanned aerial vehicles, FCS untended ground systems, and other FCS elements.

The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision with an amendment that would require the use of dedicated procurement line items for the FCS program beginning with the Fiscal Year 2011 President's Budget Request submitted to Congress under section 1105(a) of title 31, United States Code.

Clarification of status of Future Combat Systems program lead system integrator (sec. 112)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 112) that would prohibit the Army from awarding a contract for low-rate initial production or full-rate production for major elements of the Future Combat Systems (FCS) program to entities serving in the role of a lead systems integrator for the FCS program.

The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision with an amendment that would amend section 802 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2008 (Public Law 110-181) to clarify the prime contractor for the Future Combat Systems program is a lead system integrator under such section and will remain so until 45 days after the Secretary of the Army certifies in writing that such contractor is no longer serving as a lead system integrator. The specific functions performed by the prime contractor for the FCS program under the current FCS program contract, including major roles in system and subsystem integration, requirements definition, program scope adjustments, and program management, constitute "acquisition functions closely associated with inherently governmental functions" for the purposes of this provision. The provision would also clarify the definition of "new contract" to include certain FCS contract modifications.

Restriction on obligation of funds for Army tactical radio pending report (sec. 113)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 113) that would restrict obligation of 25 percent of the total funds authorized for Army tactical radio systems pending a report on Army tactical radio system fielding plans from the Assistant Secretary for Defense for Networks and Information Integration.

The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision with a technical amendment.

The agreement specifies that the restriction on obligation of funds in paragraph (b) of the provision refers only to Army radios procured through the following Other Procurement, Army budget lines: "SINGARS family," and "Radio, Improved HF (COTS) family."

Restriction on obligation of procurement funds for Armed Reconnaissance Helicopter program pending certification (sec. 114)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 114) that would limit the obligation of funds for the Armed Reconnaissance Helicopter (ARH) for fiscal year 2009 to not more than 20 percent of the authorized amounts until 30 days after the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology, and Logistics (USD-ATL) certifies to the congressional defense committees that the ARH has satisfactorily completed a Limited User Test and has been approved by the USD-ATL to enter production.

The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision with an amendment that would add requirements for the ARH program to achieve certification as required by section 2433 of title 10, United States Code, and restructuring of its acquisition strategy.

Stryker Mobile Gun System (sec. 115)

The Senate bill contained a provision (sec. 111) that would require the Secretary of Defense, through the Director of Operational Test and Evaluation (DOT&E), to ensure that the Stryker Mobile Gun System (MGS) is subject to testing to confirm the efficacy of any actions taken to mitigate operational deficiencies identified in Initial Operational Test and Evaluation and Live Fire Test and Evaluation. The provision would also require the Secretary of the Army to provide quarterly updates to the congressional defense committees on the status of the corrective measures and expand section 117(a) of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2008 (Public Law 110-181) to future fiscal years.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the Senate provision with a clarifying amendment that updates the provision based on developments relating to the program since Senate committee action.

We remain concerned by the Army's deployment of low-rate initial production Stryker MGS vehicles to Iraq given the performance and survivability issues noted during testing and urge the Army to take the actions necessary to ensure Stryker MGS vehicles meet all requirements before deploying any additional Stryker MGS vehicles to theater.

SUBTITLE C—NAVY PROGRAMS

Refueling and complex overhaul of the U.S.S. Theodore Roosevelt (sec. 121)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 121) that would provide a one-time exemption to the normal full funding policy to allow for contracting of a 3 year incrementally-funded aircraft carrier refueling complex overhaul (RCOH) from the Shipbuilding and Conversion, Navy (SCN) account. This language would provide the Navy with the authority to commence the refueling overhaul in fiscal year 2009.

The Senate bill contained a similar provision (sec. 132).

The agreement includes a provision incorporating this one-time exemption.

Littoral Combat Ship (LCS) program (sec. 122)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 123) that would amend section 124 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2006 (Public Law 109-163), as amended by section 125 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2008 (Public Law 110-181), to permit the Secretary of the Navy to make adjustments in the cost cap for the Littoral Combat Ship (LCS) to reflect: (1) economic inflation, up to a total of $10.0 million per ship; and (2) cost increases or decreases for insertion of new technology, owing to lower life cycle costs or increased capability required to meet emerging threats.

The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes a provision that would amend section 125 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2008 to delay implementation of the existing cost cap until fiscal year 2010.

Report on F/A-18 procurement costs, comparing multiyear to annual (sec. 123)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 124) that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit a report on F/A-18 procurement, comparing multiyear procurement costs to those of annual procurements. The provision would also authorize the Secretary of the Navy to obligate up to $100.0 million from within F/A-18 procurement funds to pay for cost reduction initiatives, either for single year procurement or multiyear procurement.

The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes a requirement that the Secretary of Defense submit a report comparing F/A-18 annual and multiyear procurement alternatives, and that he submit appropriate certifications required by section 2306b of title 10, United States Code if he finds that a multiyear procurement is the preferable alternative.

Authority for advanced procurement and construction of components for the Virginia-class submarine program (sec. 124)

The Senate bill contained a provision (sec. 131) that would modify the multiyear authority provided in section 121 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2008 (Public Law 110-181).

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the Senate provision.

SUBTITLE D—AIR FORCE PROGRAMS

Maintenance of retired KC-135E aircraft (sec. 131)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 132) that would require the Secretary of the Air Force to maintain a minimum of 46 KC-

135E tanker aircraft in Type-1000 storage, rather than all of those KC-135E tanker aircraft that have been or would be retired under section 135(b) of the John Warner National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2007 (Public Law 109-364).

The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision with an amendment that requires the Secretary of the Air Force maintain at least 74 aircraft in Type-1000 storage.

Repeal of multi-year contract authority for procurement of tanker aircraft (sec. 132)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 133) that would repeal section 135 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2004 (Public Law 108-136) that, among other things, authorized multi-year procurement of up to 80 aircraft as part of a tanker leasing pilot program to acquire 100 tanker aircraft, with 20 coming from a long-term lease.

The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision.

Report on processes used for requirements development for KC-(X) tanker aircraft (sec. 133)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 134) that would require the Secretary of the Air Force to report on: (1) an evaluation of the process for deriving KC-(X) requirements; (2) the justification for using the KC-135R as the comparative baseline for the KC-(X) competition; and (3) an evaluation of potential aerial refueling platforms derived from commercial aircraft in the range of maximum gross take-off weights from 750,000 to 1,000,000 pounds.

The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision amended to require the Secretary of Defense to report on:

(1) an examination of the requirements for aerial refueling, including an explanation for the use of the KC-135R as the baseline for the last KC-(X) solicitation; and

(2) a summary of commercial derivative or commercial, off-the-shelf aircraft available for use as potential aerial refueling platforms using aerial refueling capabilities within the capability bands identified within the KC-(X) Analysis of Alternatives.

The agreement also includes a requirement that the Secretary of Defense reassess the requirements for aerial refueling that have been most recently validated by the Joint Requirements Oversight Council, and submit the complete results of that reassessment to the congressional defense committees.

F-22A fighter aircraft (sec. 134)

The Senate bill contained a provision (sec. 151) that would authorize $497.0 million for Aircraft Procurement, Air Force (APAF) for either (1) advance procurement for F-22A aircraft in fiscal year 2010; or (2) winding down the production line for F-22A aircraft. The next President of the United States would have to decide which alternative would be in the best interests of the Nation and submit a certification of that decision to the congressional defense committees before any of these funds could be spent.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement authorizes $523.0 million in APAF for advance procurement for the F-22A aircraft. The agreement also includes a provision that would prohibit obligating more than $140.0 million of those funds until the next President of the United States: (1) decides whether continuing F-22 production or terminating production would be in the best interests of the Nation; and (2) submits a certification of that decision before March 1, 2009, to the congressional defense committees.

SUBTITLE E-JOINT AND MULTISERVICE MATTERS

Annual long-term plan for the procurement of aircraft for the Navy and the Air Force (sec. 141)

The Senate bill contained a provision (sec. 171) that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit an annual long-term plan for procurement of aircraft for the Departments of the Navy and Air Force. The provision would require that the plan project procurement, inventories, retirements, and losses for the following 30-year period.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the Senate provision.

Report on body armor acquisition strategy (sec. 142)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 141) that would require the Secretary of Defense to establish an executive agent for individual body armor and associated components and establish a procurement budget line item for body armor and personnel protection enhancements. This provision would also require the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology, and Logistics to report to the congressional defense committees by March 15, 2009, detailing an assessment of the body armor industrial base and a strategic plan for its sustainment, and to specify the objective technical capabilities intended for the body armor system.

The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision with an amendment that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit a report to the congressional defense committees, not later than 120 days after enactment, that includes an assessment of the feasibility and advisability of establishing a dedicated procurement line item for body armor; an assessment of the feasibility and advisability of designating one executive agent for the acquisition of body armor for the military departments; and an assessment of all current initiatives implemented by the Secretary of Defense and the military departments that provide improvements to the body armor acquisition process.

Small arms acquisition strategy and requirements review (sec. 143)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 142) that would require the Comptroller General of the United States Government Accountability Office to audit the Department of Defense small arms requirements generation process and report to the congressional defense committees by October 1, 2009, on any statutory, regulatory, or procedural barriers that may affect the ability of the military services to rapidly field small arms. This section would also require the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology, and Logistics to provide a report to the congressional defense committees that details small arms inventory, research and development programs, joint acquisition strategy, an analysis of any ongoing small arms capability gap assessments.

The Senate bill contained a similar provision (sec. 112) that would require the Secretary of the Army to submit a report on the Army's small arms Capabilities Based Assessment. The provision would also recommend that in the event the Army requires a new individual weapon, that the acquisition of such weapons should result from a full and open competition. The provision would also require that the Secretary of Defense submit a report on the feasibility and advisability of conducting a full and open competition for carbine-type rifles.

The agreement includes the House provision with an amendment that would require the Secretary of Defense to report to the congressional defense committees on the Department's assessments of small arms requirements, modernization plans, and the United States small arms industrial base. The amendment would further direct that in the event that the Secretary of the Army determines that there is a gap in small arms capabilities and that a new individual weapon is required, the Secretary shall procure the new individual weapon using a full and open competition.

Requirement for common ground stations and payloads for manned and unmanned aerial vehicle systems (sec. 144)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 143) that would require the Secretary of Defense to establish a policy for acquisition of intelligence, surveillance, and reconnaissance payloads and ground stations for manned and unmanned aerial vehicle systems that would have as its objective obtaining commonality throughout the Department.

The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The amendment contains the House provision with a clarifying amendment.

Report on future jet carrier training requirements of the Navy (sec. 145)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 144) that would require the Secretary of the Navy to submit a report to the congressional defense committees within 120 days after the date of enactment of this Act on future jet carrier training requirements.

The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision with a clarifying amendment.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS NOT ADOPTED

Rapid acquisition fund

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 106) that would authorize funds for a rapid acquisition fund.

The Senate bill did not contain a similar provision.

The agreement does not include the House provision.

Applicability of previous teaming agreements for Virginia-class submarine program

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 122) that would amend the multiyear contracting authority contained in section 121 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2008 (Public Law 110-181) to require that the Secretary of the Navy certify that the contract to be awarded under such authority comports with the Team Agreement between the two submarine building yards, dated February 16, 1997, which was submitted to the Congress on March 31, 1997.

The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include the House provision.

Limitation on retiring C-5 aircraft

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 131) that would repeal section 132 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2004 (Public Law 108-136) relating to a prohibition on retiring C-5A aircraft until certain testing had been completed. Instead, the provision would prohibit retiring C-5A aircraft until 45 days after the Secretary of the Air Force had submitted a certification that retiring aircraft would not increase operational risk, and a cost analysis assessing different approaches for meeting strategic airlift requirements.

The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include the House provision.

TITLE II—RESEARCH, DEVELOPMENT, TEST, AND EVALUATION

BUDGET ITEMS

Research, Development, Test and Evaluation overview

The budget request included $79.7 billion in Research, Development, Test and Evaluation for the Department of Defense.

The House bill would authorize $79.8 billion.

The Senate bill would authorize $79.8 billion.

The agreement would authorize $77.8 billion.

Unless noted explicitly in the statement of managers, all changes are made without prejudice.

Network science, technology and experimentation center

The budget request included $10.0 million in PE 61104A for the establishment of a network science and technology research center. This is an example of the Army's continued commitment to investments in basic research, especially in the face of severe budget constraints due to the current operations and reset of the force. In particular, it is widely expected that new investments in network science can lead to significant enhancements in operational capabilities.

The fact that the current Army plan for this effort calls for the majority of funding to go to the establishment of a single research center is a cause for concern. The National Research Council's 2007 report entitled "Strategy for an Army Center for Network Science, Technology, and Experimentation" concluded that, "based on Army needs, the NSTEC [Network Science, Technology, and Experimentation Center] should be a hybrid operation consisting of two or three centralized facilities having interconnectivity to a variety of distributed supporting elements." The current Army proposed plan and budget is not consistent with this recommended hybrid approach.

The Army is directed to ensure that the network science and technology research center be established so as to leverage the benefits of a distributed and networked research community. Clearly, some funding should be retained to support in-house research efforts, but the majority of funding should continue to go to a networked group of investigators selected on the basis of technical merit of proposed research.

The Army is further directed to ensure that none of the $10.0 million authorized in PE 61104A for the establishment of a network science and technology research center shall be available for the purpose of infrastructure and facilities development. The fact that basic research funding is a precious and scarce resource places a great emphasis on ensuring its use for designated research purposes. Such funds should not be utilized for infrastructure and facilities development, save for the most exceptional circumstances.

Executive helicopter program (VH-71A)

The budget request included $1,047.8 million in PE 64273N for continued development of the executive helicopter, VH-71A. The VH-71A program is intended to provide the replacement helicopter for transportation of the President and Vice President of the United States, heads of state, and other dignitaries. The House report (H. Rept. 110-652) observed that the reported cost increases in the program were sufficient to exceed the 25 percent unit cost increase that would invoke the certification requirements levied by section 2433 (e)(2)(A) of title 10, United States Code, commonly referred to as a "Nunn-McCurdy Breach." The House report directed the Secretary of Defense to submit an analysis of potential advantages and disadvantages of conducting a re-competition of the program when the Secretary submits that certification.

The Senate report (S. Rept. 110-335) directed the Secretary of the Navy to submit a VH-71A report to the congressional defense committees outlining VH-71A program:

- (1) performance requirements;
- (2) revised cost estimates;
- (3) causes for cost growth;
- (4) detailed breakout of cost growth related to under-estimated requirements; and
- (5) actions being implemented to reduce and control development and production costs.

The Senate report would also prohibit the Secretary from obligating fiscal year 2009 funds for VH-71A Executive Helicopter Development (PE 64273N) for Increment Two efforts until: (1) the Defense Department completes VH-71A unit cost reporting requirements as prescribed by section 2433 of title 10, United States Code; and (2) the Secretary of the Navy submits the VH-71A report described above to the congressional defense committees.

Additionally, the Senate report directed the Secretary to identify alternatives for extending the service life of Increment One aircraft and increasing their utility in the effort to provide greater return on this investment.

The agreement directs the Secretary to submit the reports requested in both the House and Senate reports, removes the prohibition on obligating any fiscal year 2009 funding, and directs the Secretary not to restructure the existing VH-71 contract until the completion of the Nunn-McCurdy certification process.

Missile defense force structure and Joint Capabilities Mix studies

We note that the Joint Integrated Air and Missile Defense Organization, a component of the Joint Staff, has conducted a number of studies over several years concerning the operational requirements of combatant commanders for upper tier ballistic missile defense. These Joint Capabilities Mix (JCM) studies have consistently concluded that U.S. combatant commanders need about twice as many Standard Missile-3 (SM-3) and Terminal High Altitude Area Defense (THAAD) interceptors as the number planned by the Missile Defense Agency (MDA), just to meet their minimum inventory requirements to defend against existing levels of short- and medium- range ballistic missiles.

We are deeply disappointed that the Department of Defense has not planned or budgeted for even this minimum requirement, and believe that achieving at least this minimum inventory should be the highest priority for MDA. We expect the Department of Defense to budget accordingly starting with the budget submission for fiscal year 2010.

We are concerned that there is no adequate requirements process in place for MDA to determine the force structure and inventory levels to meet the needs of the combatant commanders. This is a fundamental shortcoming of the Department of Defense's approach to missile defense, and one that needs to be resolved. We expect the Department of Defense to establish an adequate requirements process for missile defense force structure and inventory that ensures that the operational requirements of the regional combatant commanders are fully taken into account in MDA's budget and planning process.

Missile defense tests and targets

We are discouraged to note that the Missile Defense Agency (MDA) Test and Targets program has had another disappointing year. MDA failed to conduct a single intercept flight test of the Ground-based Midcourse Defense (GMD) system during fiscal year 2008, and canceled a planned and budgeted GMD flight test, designated FTG-04. Instead, it conducted a sensor flight test, FTX-03. Over the last several years, MDA has not managed to conduct an average of even one GMD intercept flight test per year, despite the fact that Congress has authorized and appropriated over $200.0 million per year to conduct two flight tests each year.

In addition, a test of the GMD system was aborted in May 2007 when the target failed to reach the necessary altitude, and a flight test of the Terminal High Altitude Area Defense (THAAD) system was aborted on September 17, 2008, when the target missile failed shortly after launch.

We are disappointed to note that MDA chose to cancel FTG-04 without first consulting with any of the key stakeholders, including the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology, and Logistics (USD/AT&L), the Director of Operational Test and Evaluation (DOT&E), or the Commander of United States Strategic Command.

We direct MDA to consult with these organizations, or their designees, prior to any future decision to cancel a flight test, and to report in writing to the congressional defense committees within 1 week of a decision to cancel such a test, indicating the following information: (1) the reasons for the cancellation; (2) the implications and risks for the testing and development program that will result from cancelling the test; (3) a plan describing how the original objectives of the flight test will still be met, notwithstanding the cancellation; (4) the views and recommendations of the organizations consulted; and (5) any modifications in the allocation of budget and testing resources as a result of the cancellation of the flight test.

Upper tier follow-on to Arrow

The United States is engaged in a cooperative program with Israel to provide an upper-tier follow-on to the Arrow Weapon System for Israel. There are two systems being pursued under this cooperative program: a land-based version of the existing Standard Missile 3 (SM-3) using an AN/TPY-2 forward-based X-band radar, and the development of a new Arrow-3 interceptor. The SM-3 interceptor and the AN/TPY-2 radar, which is derived from the radar for the Terminal High Altitude Area Defense (THAAD) system, have already been developed and demonstrated. The Arrow-3 has not yet been developed, and its design has changed several times.

After a number of changes to Israeli requirements and the planned performance of the Arrow-3 missile, the Missile Defense Agency (MDA) has chosen to pursue development of the Arrow-3 as the primary approach to developing an upper tier missile defense capability for Israel. However, this would be a technically challenging undertaking, involving a number of critical and complex technologies that Israel has never produced previously. Consequently, it is not certain that Israel can succeed in the development of all the Arrow-3 technologies in time to meet Israel's required fielding schedule.

We are concerned that MDA has chosen a technically risky path forward, and is not providing sufficient risk mitigation through the land-based SM-3 option. MDA has indicated it intends to pursue an Arrow-3 development strategy based on knowledge points, with the stated intention of being able to curtail or stop the program if it does not meet its knowledge points on schedule.

However, MDA has not demonstrated an ability to reduce funding for other programs that have not met their knowledge points on schedule. This suggests that an Arrow-3 development program could continue to be the primary path even if it does not meet its knowledge points or its schedule, thus precluding the option of having the proven SM-3 and AN/TPY-2 technology serve as a suitable upper tier option on schedule.

Therefore, we direct the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology, and Logistics to review MDA's proposed approach and submit to the congressional defense committees, no later than April 15, 2009, a report providing a plan for risk mitigation for the U.S.-Israel upper tier program of cooperation that provides a cost-effective path to providing an upper tier missile defense capability for Israel.

Wide area airborne surveillance

The Senate report (110-335) accompanying S. 3001 urged the Department of Defense to rapidly define and acquire next generation wide area airborne surveillance (WAAS) capabilities to augment existing and planned full motion video (FMV) platform deployments, and possibly to help limit the number of additional orbits of FMV aircraft needed in the future.

We are encouraged that the Defense Department at senior levels is focused on the WAAS requirement and the range of potential solutions. However, a number of concerns persist.

While significant funds have been allocated for development of the WAAS collection system, very little money is available for the processing, exploitation, and dissemination of the vast amount of imagery that the WAAS system will produce. This imbalance will prevent effective fielding of a WAAS capability in the timeframe required.

There is confusion as to whether the WAAS system is intended to complement or replace existing and planned deployments of narrow-field-of-view FMV assets. This confusion creates concern and opposition from deployed forces. If it is possible for a WAAS system to substitute for FMV assets, the required performance level (in terms of resolution, frame rate, look angles, and the like) cannot be fielded at least for a period of years. While it is important for the Department to evaluate now what levels of performance might be achievable in subsequent increments of a WAAS program, the near-term focus must be on fielding capabilities that complement existing assets and operate with them in a systems-of-systems network.

In this regard, we are concerned that insufficient attention and resources are being devoted to rapidly fielding a command and control capability that will permit, on a large-scale, integrated operations involving WAAS platforms, FMV assets, and signals intelligence systems across services, national agencies, and various echelons of command. We support the recent initiative by the Air Force WAAS program office to utilize the Network-Centric Collaborative Targeting system, now reaching Initial Operational Capability, as the basis for this important command and control capability.

We direct that, within 90 days of the date on which there is a down select by the WAAS prime integrator, the Deputy Secretary of Defense submit a report to the congressional defense and intelligence committees that characterizes WAAS collection and exploitation requirements, the program increments and funding to meet the requirements, the operational concept for WAAS increments, and the means by which WAAS, FMV systems, and other sensors will be operated together to support the find, fix, and finish targeting process.

SUBTITLE A—AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS

Authorization of appropriations (sec. 201)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 201) that would authorize appropriations for fiscal year 2009 for the use of the Department of Defense for research, development, test and evaluation.

The Senate bill contained a similar provision (sec. 201).

The agreement includes a provision that would authorize appropriations for fiscal year 2009 for the use of the Department of Defense for research, development, test and evaluation.

Authorization for defense science and technology (sec. 202)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 202) that would authorize appropriations for fiscal year 2009 for the use of the Department of Defense for science and technology activities.

The Senate bill contained a similar provision (sec. 202).

The agreement includes a provision that would authorize appropriations for fiscal year 2009 for the use of the Department of Defense for science and technology activities.

SUBTITLE B—PROGRAM REQUIREMENTS, RESTRICTIONS, AND LIMITATIONS

Additional determinations to be made as part of Future Combat Systems milestone review (sec. 211)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 211) that would amend section 214 of the John Warner National Defense Authorization Act for 2007 (Public Law 109-364) by adding additional determinations to be made by the Secretary of Defense during the Future Combat Systems (FCS) program review.

The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision.

We intend that the additional determinations required during the FCS program review should be applied with respect to threshold FCS system of system technologies, not surrogates.

Analysis of Future Combat Systems communications network and software (sec. 212)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 212) that would require the Assistant Secretary of Defense, Networks and Information Integration (ASD NII), to conduct an independent study and report to the congressional defense committees by July 1, 2009, on possible vulnerabilities of the Future Combat Systems (FCS) communications network. The purpose of this study is to inform the review of the FCS program mandated by section 214 of the John Warner National Defense Authorization Act for 2007 (Public Law 109-364).

The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision with an amendment that would provide the Department with additional time to complete the analysis and require the ASD NII to assess, in coordination with the Director of Operational Test and Evaluation, the synchronization of the funding, schedule, and technology maturity of the Warfighter Information Network-Tactical and Joint Tactical Radio System in programs in relation to the FCS program.

Future Combat Systems manned ground vehicle selected acquisition reports (sec. 213)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 213) that would require the Secretary of the Army to submit to the congressional defense committees selected acquisition reports as defined in section 2432(c) of title 10, United States Code, on each of the eight Future Combat Systems (FCS) manned ground vehicle variants. The reports are required by February 15 of each year from 2009 to 2015.

The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision with a clarifying amendment that would include any additional manned ground vehicle variants designated in FCS Acquisition Reports after the date of enactment.

Separate procurement and research, development, test, and evaluation line items and program elements for Sky Warrior unmanned aerial systems (sec. 214)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 214) that would require the Secretary of Defense to ensure that the Department of Defense program and budget exhibits for the Army's Sky Warrior unmanned aerial system break out that program into separate program elements and line items.

The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision.

Restriction on obligation of funds for the Warfighter Information Network-Tactical program (sec. 215)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 215) that would restrict obligation of 80 percent of research and development funds authorized for appropriation for the Warfighter Information Network-Tactical, Increment 3 program until 15 days after receipt by the congressional defense committees of certification from the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology and Logistics that the program has an approved acquisition program baseline, a new independent cost estimate, and the Director, Defense Research and Engineering has completed a technology readiness assessment.

The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision with an amendment that reduces the amount of funding restricted pending the certification from 80 percent to 50 percent and makes other clarifications.

Limitation on source of funds for certain Joint Cargo Aircraft expenditures (sec. 216)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 216) that would require the Secretary of the Army to fund certain expenditures for the Joint Cargo Aircraft (JCA) through procurement or research, development, test and evaluation accounts, rather than from other appropriations accounts.

The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement included the House provision with an amendment that would modify the provision to place the same requirement on the Secretary of the Air Force.

The report (H. Rept. 110-652) accompanying the House bill noted that, at the time of the report, the Air Force was reporting a unit cost for JCA of $60.7 million, and was reporting a unit cost for C-130J aircraft of $56.7 million. After further discussion with the Air Force acquisition officials and clarification of terminology, we believe that a fairer, apples-to-apples comparison of such costs would raise the comparable average procurement unit cost for a C-130J to $84.2 million, in terms of fiscal year 2007 dollars.

Requirement for plan on overhead nonimaging infrared systems (sec. 217)

The Senate bill contained a provision (sec. 211) that would direct the Secretary of the Air Force to develop a comprehensive plan to conduct and support research, development, and demonstration of technologies that could evolve into the next generation of overhead nonimaging systems. The plan would also include an explanation of how such systems would be tested, including any flight or on-orbit testing as well as how and when the technologies would transition to an acquisition program. In addition, the provision would prohibit appropriation of more than 50 percent of the funds authorized to be appropriated for the third generation infrared surveillance program until the plan is submitted to the congressional defense committees.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the Senate provision with an amendment that would direct the Secretary of Defense and the Director of National Intelligence to conduct the plan. In addition the amendment would add a description of the research, development and demonstration activities, as an additional element to the plan.

Advanced energy storage technology and manufacturing (sec. 218)

The Senate bill contained a provision (sec. 212) that would require the Department of Defense to develop a technology and manufacturing roadmap for battery technologies.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes a provision that would expand the scope of the roadmapping exercise to include all relevant energy storage technologies, such as, but not limited to, batteries, fuel cells and capacitors. The provision would further add a requirement for the Department to provide a detailed report of the investment levels in energy storage technologies.

The roadmap development should be primarily lead by the Director of Defense Research and Engineering, the Deputy Under Secretary of Defense for Industrial Policy, and Service Acquisition Executives, so that the roadmap accurately reflects technology development, industrial base, program requirements, and cost drivers. It is further expected that Service acquisition program offices with significant energy storage technology requirements, the Joint Defense Manufacturing Technology Panel, the Defense Logistics Agency, and appropriate organizations within the Department of Energy will all participate in the roadmap development. The roadmap should not focus solely on science and technology activities and existing investments.

It is expected that a thorough understanding of resource allocation and current investment in advanced energy storage technologies will help clarify the investment shortfalls and capability gaps that should be emphasized in the technology and manufacturing roadmap.

Mechanisms to provide funds for defense laboratories for research and development of technologies for military missions (sec. 219)

The Senate bill contained a provision (sec. 213) that would authorize the Secretary of Defense to permit laboratory directors to utilize up to 3 percent of laboratory funds for research and development, technology transition, and workforce development activities.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the Senate provision with an amendment that would terminate the authority after 4 years.

The utilization of this authority and its impact on the mission performance and technical capabilities of the laboratories will be closely monitored by the congressional defense committees. All efforts to supply the needed authorities and resources to the defense laboratories to enable them to effectively and efficiently perform their designated missions are supported and encouraged.

Requirements for certain airborne intelligence collection systems (sec. 220)

The Senate bill contained a provision (sec. 215) that would require that each airborne collection system within the Department of Defense that is connected to the Distributed Common Ground/Surface System to have the ability to operate with the Network-Centric Collaborative Targeting System, unless the Chairman of the Joint Requirements Oversight Council waives the requirement on a case-by-case basis.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the Senate provision.

Limitation on obligation of funds for enhanced AN/TPQ-36 Radar System pending submission of report (sec. 221)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 236) that would limit the amount of funds provided to the program until the Secretary of the Army provides the congressional defense committees with a plan to transition the Counter-Rockets, Artillery, and Mortars (C-RAM) program to a program of record.

The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision.

SUBTITLE C—MISSILE DEFENSE PROGRAMS
Annual Director of Operational Test and Evaluation characterization of operational effectiveness, suitability, and survivability of the Ballistic Missile Defense System (sec. 231)

The Senate bill contained a provision (sec. 234) that would require the annual report of the Director of Operational Test and Evaluation on the testing of the Ballistic Missile Defense System (BMDS) to include a characterization of the operational effectiveness, suitability, and survivability of the BMDS and its elements that have been fielded or tested before the end of the preceding fiscal year.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the Senate provision.

Independent study of boost-phase missile defense (sec. 232)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 221) that would require an independent study of boost-phase missile defense programs, specifically the Airborne Laser and the Kinetic Energy Interceptor. The study would assess a variety of relevant factors and compare the results to non-boost-phase missile defense systems. The provision would require the independent study to be submitted to the congressional defense committees.

The Senate bill contained a similar provision (sec. 235).

The agreement includes the House provision with an amendment that would combine elements of the Senate provision with the House provision.

Limitation on availability of funds for procurement, construction, and deployment of missile defenses in Europe (sec. 233)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 222) that would limit the availability of fiscal year 2009 and future funds for procurement, site activation, construction, preparation of equipment for, or deployment of a long-range missile defense system until the following conditions have been met: (1) the Governments of Poland and the Czech Republic have each signed and ratified the necessary agreements allowing for such deployment; and (2) 45 days have elapsed after Congress receives the independent assessment required in section 226 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2008 (Public Law 110-181). The provision would also limit the availability of funds for the acquisition and deployment of operational interceptor missiles for the planned European deployment until the Secretary of Defense certifies, after receiving the views of the Director of Operational Test and Evaluation, that the interceptor has demonstrated, through successful, operationally realistic flight testing, a high probability of working in an operationally effective manner and the ability to accomplish its mission.

The Senate bill contained a similar provision (sec. 232), with the differences being that it would: (1) limit the effect of the general limitation to the availability of fiscal year 2009 funds; (2) clarify that each host nation would need to give final approval to any missile defense agreements concerning the deployment of missile defense components on its territory; and (3) authorize the initial long lead procurement funds for the proposed European interceptors, since the long-lead components are 100 percent common to the three-stage variant of the interceptor.

The agreement includes a combined provision that would limit the availability of fiscal year 2009 and future funds for procurement, site activation, construction, preparation of equipment for, or deployment of a long-range missile defense system until the following conditions have been met: (1) in the case of the proposed midcourse radar element, the host nation has signed and ratified the agreements needed to allow for the deployment of such radar in the host nation; (2) in the case of the proposed long-range missile defense interceptor element, the condition in paragraph (1) has been met, and the host nation has signed and ratified the agreements needed to allow for the deployment of such interceptor element in the host nation; and (3) 45 days have elapsed after Congress has received the report required by section 226(c)(6) of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2008 (Public Law 110-181). The provision would also limit the availability of fiscal year 2009 funding for acquisition (other than initial long-lead funding) or deployment of the proposed interceptor until the Secretary provides the certification required in both bills.

Review of the ballistic missile defense policy and strategy of the United States (sec. 234)

The Senate bill contained a provision (sec. 231) that would require the Secretary of Defense to conduct a review of the ballistic missile defense policy and strategy of the United States. The provision would require the Secretary to submit a report to Congress not later than January 31, 2010, setting forth the results of the review.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the Senate provision with an amendment that would add several elements to be required in the review.

Airborne Laser System (sec. 235)

The Senate bill contained a provision (sec. 233) that would require the Director of Operational Test and Evaluation (DOT&E) to assess and report on the operational effectiveness, suitability, and survivability of the Airborne Laser (ABL) System. The provision would also limit the availability of funds for procurement of a second or subsequent ABL aircraft until the Secretary of Defense, after receiving the DOT&E assessment, submits a certification that the ABL system has demonstrated a high probability of being operationally effective, suitable, survivable, and affordable.

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 221) that would, among other things, prohibit the use of funds to acquire a second ABL aircraft until 60 days after Congress receives an independent study on boost-phase missile defense programs required by the provision.

The agreement includes the Senate provision with an amendment that would incorporate the House funding prohibition into the Senate provision.

Activation and deployment of AN/TPY-2 forward-based X-band radar (sec. 236)

The Senate bill contained a provision (sec. 237) that would authorize the use of up to $89.0 million in funds for defense-wide research, development, test, and evaluation for the activation and deployment of an AN/TPY-2 X-band radar to a classified location. It would also require the Secretary of Defense to submit a report to Congress on such deployment before the funds would be available for the deployment.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the Senate provision.

SUBTITLE D—REPORTS

Biennial reports on joint and service concept development and experimentation. (sec. 241)

The Senate bill contained a provision (sec. 252) that would reduce the reporting requirement on Department of Defense concept development and experimentation activities and include reporting on related activities of the military services.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the Senate provision with an amendment that would clarify the reporting requirements.

The joint and service level for concept development and experimentation activities can support efforts at innovation and transformation in doctrine, training, materiel acquisition and other areas of Departmental activity. As the executive agent for joint warfighting experimentation, the Commander of United States Joint Forces Command has a unique ability and responsibility to use the results of the Department's various concept development and experimentation activities to advocate for the transformation of investment strategies, defense acquisition policies, requirements generation, doctrine development, and force structure to enhance joint warfighting capabilities.

Report on the participation of the historically black colleges and universities and minority serving institutions in research and educational programs and activities of the Department of Defense (sec. 242)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 232) that would require an assessment of the Historically Black Colleges and Universities (HBCU/MI) and Minority Serving Institutions program.

The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes a provision that would require an independent assessment of the participation of HBCU/MI, Hispanic Serving Institutions, Tribal Colleges and Universities, and other minority postsecondary institutions in Department of Defense research, training, and educational activities.

At a time when the Department and the nation are facing a shortage of personnel in growing areas of science and engineering, this community of educational institutions and the population they serve can make a valuable contribution to the missions of the Department of Defense.

Report on Department of Defense response to findings and recommendations of the Defense Science Board Task Force on Directed Energy Weapons (sec. 243)

The Senate bill contained a provision (sec. 255) that would require the Department of Defense to report on responses to the findings and recommendations of the Defense Science Board Task Force on Directed Energy Weapons.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the Senate provision with a clarifying amendment.

SUBTITLE E—OTHER MATTERS

Modification of systems subject to survivability testing oversight by the Director of Operational Test and Evaluation (sec. 251)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 231) that would clarify the responsibilities of the Secretary of Defense and the Director of Operational Test and Evaluation with respect to oversight and reporting on survivability testing for personnel protective equipment and other defense systems.

The Senate bill contained a similar provision (sec. 251).

The agreement includes the House provision with an amendment that would allow the Secretary of Defense to authorize the Director of Operational Test and Evaluation to perform statutorily mandated monitoring and reporting on a broader range of defense systems. The amendment makes additional clarifying amendments to sections 2366 and 139 of title 10, United States Code. This provision will enable the Secretary and Director to have appropriate levels of oversight of systems that require survivability and lethality testing, including certain items of personnel protective equipment and non lethal weapons. It is expected that the acquisition and testing community should continue to work together to develop and adequately test systems to validate their operational effectiveness, suitability and survivability, but still deliver new capabilities in a rapid and efficient fashion.

Technology-neutral information technology guidelines and standards to support fully interoperable electronic personal health information for the Department of Defense and Department of Veterans Affairs (sec. 252)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 233) that would amend section 1635 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2008 (Public Law 110-181) to add additional reporting requirements to the annual report required by that section. The provision would also require the Director of the Department of Defense-Department of Veterans Affairs Interagency Program Office to report within 12 months after the date of enactment of this Act on the development of information technology infrastructure guidelines and standards for use by the Departments of Defense and Veterans Affairs to enable fully interoperable electronic personal health information.

The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision with an amendment that would eliminate the requirement for reporting to the appropriate congressional committees on the specific guidelines and standards developed or adopted under this provision.

The Department of Defense and Department of Veterans Affairs should, to the extent practicable, pursue guidelines and standards that are consistent with other similar ongoing federal efforts and with relevant guidance and directives for the development of information technology (IT) systems in the Department of Defense and Department of Veterans Affairs.

Within the Department of Defense, the medical IT community should work closely with Assistant Secretary of Defense for Networks and Information Integration and the Business Transformation Agency, both of which have valuable experience in evaluating and selecting standards for large-scale enterprise systems.

Assessment of technology transition programs and repeal of reporting requirement (sec. 253)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 234) that would require the Department of Defense to assess the feasibility of consolidating various technology transition accounts into a unified effort. The House provision would also repeal the requirement for the Technology Transition Initiative (TTI).

The Senate bill contained a provision (sec. 253) which would repeal the recurring reporting requirement relating to the TTI program.

The agreement includes a provision which requires the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology and Logistics (USD (AT&L)) to assess the feasibility of consolidating technology transition accounts into one account to be managed at the Department-level. The agreement also requires the USD (AT&L) to submit a report to Congress on the aforementioned assessment and include recommendations concerning the streamlining and improvement of technology transition activities throughout the Department. Finally, the agreement repeals the Department's annual TTI reporting requirement.

Efficient technology transition is a mainstay of the Department's ability to deliver military advantage to the operational force. Continued employment of the current regime of initiatives and programs may not be the most effective approach to transitioning promising technologies to the force. The USD (AT&L) is expected to characterize the limitations of the existing transition activities and provide recommendations to improve the process of transitioning technologies. The overall goals of the various Department of Defense technology transition programs are laudable, but there is a need to better understand the Department's requirements for additional authorities or for the repeal of unnecessary authorities that could improve technology transition.

Trusted defense systems (sec. 254)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 235) that would require the Department of Defense to perform an assessment, develop a strategy, issue interim policy guidance, and provide a report to Congress related to assuring trust in the supply chain for certain defense systems.

The Senate bill contained a related provision (sec. 256) that required an assessment of the capabilities of the Department to assess trust in semiconductor technologies.

The agreement includes a provision that requires the Secretary of Defense to assess the trust in, and vulnerabilities within the supply chain of key electronic components of major defense acquisition programs; to assess methods for verifying trust of DoD semiconductors; to produce a strategy for managing supply chain risk and trust verification for semiconductors; to establish policies necessary to support these activities; and to report to Congress on the assessment and policies.

There is growing concern that major manufacturing for many mission-critical semiconductors have moved offshore, primarily to Asia. The inherent risks associated with procuring electronic components that have been designed, fabricated, tested, or packaged in insecure facilities abroad demand a well planned and structured response.

Therefore, the Secretary is instructed to coordinate the various current efforts designed to study and protect mission-critical electronic components and create an integrated strategy for managing supply chain risk and ensuring trust of semiconductors used in applications across all services. Only by engaging in consultation with industry, academia and other agencies will the Department be able to fashion the cross-cutting strategy needed to address a challenge that confronts the most complicated and important acquisition programs and threatens every part of the operational force.

Capabilities-based assessment to outline a joint approach for future development of vertical lift aircraft and rotorcraft (sec. 255)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 237) that would require the Secretary of Defense and the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff to develop an assessment of a joint approach to developing future vertical lift aircraft and rotorcraft, and to submit a report on that assessment.

The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision, with the understanding that the current program for modernizing the Marine Corps' heavy lift rotorcraft fleet shall not be subsumed within any joint program office that might emerge from this assessment.

Executive agent for printed circuit board technology (sec. 256)

The Senate bill contained a provision (sec. 254) that would require the establishment of an executive agent to oversee Department of Defense activities related to printed circuit board technologies.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the Senate provision with an amendment that requires the Secretary of Defense to designate an executive agent for printed circuit board and interconnect technologies. The provision specifies roles and responsibilities that the Secretary of Defense will charge to the executive agent.

The Secretary may include further duties, especially as they may pertain to ensuring that the Department maintains and grows its capability for establishing trust in interconnect technologies. While it is critical that the executive agent designated by the Secretary develop a well-planned roadmap which details current and future technologies needed and the logistics network necessary to provide them, the executive agent should also draw together the specific timeline that must be realized and funding that must be obtained to successfully implement the roadmap going forward.

Finally, the provision directs the Secretary of Defense to ensure that the executive agent is properly resourced to implement the task and is supported throughout the military departments.

Review of conventional prompt global strike technology applications and concepts (sec. 257)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 238) that would limit the use of funds for conventional prompt global strike (PGS) in fiscal year 2009 to only those activities expressly delineated in the expenditure plan for fiscal years 2008 and 2009, which was required by section 243 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2008 (Public Law 110-181) or activities otherwise expressly authorized by Congress. The expenditure plan was transmitted to the congressional defense committees on March 24, 2008. The provision would also require the Secretary of Defense to submit a report on PGS concepts with the fiscal year 2010 budget request.

The Senate bill contained a similar provision (sec. 1054) that would direct the Secretary of Defense, in consultation with the Secretary of State, to conduct a review of the prompt global strike technologies that will be demonstrated beginning in fiscal year 2010. The report would set forth the cost of the demonstration, identify any legal, treaty, or policy related issues that might be associated with the concept demonstrated or the demonstration itself, and whether and to what extent there is a possibility that the concept or the demonstration itself could be confused with a nuclear weapons system. In addition, the report would set forth a description of the types of targets against which the concept demonstrated might be used. The report would be submitted to the congressional defense committees no later than 30 days after the date on which the budget is submitted.

The agreement includes the Senate provision with an amendment that would limit the use of funds for conventional PGS in fiscal year 2009. The amendment would also direct the Secretary of Defense to submit a report to the congressional defense committees that describes the technologies planned to be developed during fiscal year 2009 and how those technologies relate to PGS options and concepts. The due date for this report would be April 1, 2009.

In addition, the amendment would modify the review and assessment to be conducted by the Secretary of Defense in consultation with the Secretary of State, to include recommendations that would mitigate such risk in the assessment as to whether a PGS concept could be misconstrued as a nuclear weapon or delivery system. The amendment would further modify the assessment to include an assessment of the intelligence needed to support the use of any PGS concept. A report on this review and assessment would be due no later than September 1, 2009.

We note that the Department of Defense has expressed interest in examining biconic technology as part of an alternative re-entry system/warhead engineering and delivery vehicle options/development but included no plan to manufacture a biconic vehicle in the expenditure plan for fiscal years 2008 and 2009. As a result no funds are available in fiscal year 2009 to manufacture such a vehicle.

We note that the Department is approaching a PGS concept definition milestone in the fiscal year 2010 timeframe. We encourage the Department to weigh carefully all aspects of PGS concept alternatives, including the technical, cost, operational, and policy considerations associated with each option.

We note that the National Research Council of the National Academy of Sciences has recently completed a report titled "U.S. Prompt Global Strike: Issues for 2008 and Beyond." This report was prepared at the request of Congress. The Department should review this and other PGS related reports as part of the process to determine which PGS concept alternatives to pursue.

We direct the Secretary to submit a copy of the report to the Committee on Foreign Affairs of the House of the Representatives and the Committee on Foreign Relations of the Senate.

We are concerned about the adverse effects of the brown tree snake on native species on Guam and the ecological and economic risks posed by its inadvertent introduction to other areas in the Pacific region and the United States. We recommend that the Department of Defense place appropriate emphasis on brown tree snake interdiction and population reduction for the dual purposes of preventing inadvertent introduction outside of Guam and supporting programs to protect and restore native species on Guam. We further recommend that the Department execute this program in cooperation with the Government of Guam and consistent with its Integrated Natural Resources Management Plans.

The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision with an amendment that would require the independent assessment to review budget displays and the current visibility of reported depot workload to Congress.

We were made aware by a recent reprogramming action, FY 08-37 PA, that certain depot maintenance is not being reported in the military departments' depot budget lines. In addition, the military departments' inflexibility in budgeting between depot and operations budget lines may cause them to make less than optimal budgeting and maintenance workload decisions. The additional study requirement on the adequacy of maintenance workload visibility in reports and budget displays to Congress addresses these concerns.

These large civilian centers include Hill Air Force Base, Utah; Warner Robins Air Force Base, Georgia; Tinker Air Force Base, Oklahoma; and Wright Patterson Air Force Base, Ohio. These large civilian centers are critical to the national security.

The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision.

We understand from the Department of the Army and the Department of the Air Force that: (1) these three C-12 aircraft have no residual value to the Army; (2) they are not sufficiently capable that they would represent any value to the Air Force in meeting its emerging needs for manned reconnaissance aircraft; and (3) the Army would otherwise dispose of these aircraft as scrap.

Limitation on treatment of retired B-52 aircraft for Air Combat Command Headquarters (sec. 357)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 360) that would prohibit the Commander of Air Combat Command from obligating more than 80 per cent of the operation and maintenance funds available for Air Combat Command Management Headquarters, Sub-Activity Group 012E until the Secretary of Defense certifies that the future years defense program includes funding for 76 B-52 aircraft.

Temporary suspension of studies and public-private competitions regarding conversion of functions of the Department of Defense performed by civilian employees to contractor performance

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 325) that would place a 3-year moratorium on public-private competitions within the Department of Defense.

The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include the provision.

Over the last decade, the number of contractor employees performing services for the Department of Defense (DOD) has nearly doubled, while the number of DOD civilian employees has remained essentially unchanged. Shortages of qualified civilian personnel in key functional areas have raised questions about the Department's ability to manage its operations. At the same time, the Department's aggressive effort to privatize functions currently performed by civilian employees has led to turbulence and low morale in some segments of the Department's workforce. In addition, we are concerned that the savings generated from such competitions may not justify the turmoil generated at a time when the military services are stressed by ongoing operations in Iraq and Afghanistan, transformation initiatives, and actions being taken to implement the 2005 base closure and realignment. These problems may be further exacerbated when the process of conducting public-private competitions drags out over a period of years, while the threat of job loss continues to hang over the heads of impacted employees. We believe that these factors require a serious reconsideration of the Department's strategy regarding public-private competitions of functions performed by the Department's civilian employees.

Exception to alternative fuel procurement requirement

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 335) that would amend section 526 of the Energy Independence and Security Act of 2007 (Public Law 110-140) to specify that federal agencies are not prohibited from entering into contracts to purchase generally-available fuel that is not an alternative or synthetic fuel or predominantly produced from a nonconventional petroleum source in certain circumstances.

The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include the provision. Section 526 was not intended to preclude the Department of Defense from purchasing the fuel that it needs for the national defense from the generally-available fuel supply. We expect the Department to continue making such purchases.

TITLE IV—MILITARY PERSONNEL AUTHORIZATIONS

SUBTITLE A—ACTIVE FORCES

End strengths for active forces (sec. 401)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 401) that would authorize the following end strengths for active-duty personnel of the armed forces as of September 30, 2009: Army, 532,400; Navy, 326,323; Marine Corps, 194,000; and Air Force, 317,050. The agreement includes the House provision.

The Secretary of Defense has stated that he will support the Air Force's request to maintain its active-duty end strength well above the 316,000 level previously approved in connection with its recapitalization planning. While excessive and poorly managed manpower cuts aimed primarily at saving money must be avoided, the Department of Defense must demonstrate in the next budget cycle how it intends to balance these competing, readiness-related goals. We do not oppose the Air Force's efforts to maintain a higher end strength, and expect the Department and the Air Force to work with the Congress in finding appropriate funding sources in 2009.

End strength levels for the active forces for fiscal year 2009 are set forth in the following table:

Service	FY 2008 authorized	FY 2009		Change from

Brigadier General Yeager is an extraordinary American hero. During World War II he distinguished himself in aerial combat over France and Germany by shooting down 13 enemy aircraft including five on one mission. As an Air force test pilot he played a pivotal role in the advancement of aviation. Brigadier General Yeager made history on October 14, 1947, when he became the first man to fly faster than the speed of sound and on December 12, 1953, he also became the first man to fly faster than twice the speed of sound. During the Vietnam War he flew 127 missions over South Vietnam as the Commander of the 405th Fighter Wing. He is one of only four individuals to have received the Special Medal of Honor, the non-combat equivalent of the Medal of Honor.

For these and many other achievements in a remarkable life of leadership, commitment, and achievement in service to the Air Force and the United States, we urge the President to reconsider Brigadier General Yeager's advancement on the retired list and immediately nominate him for promotion to the grade of Major General.

This provision was requested by the Department of Defense to give the President the maximum flexibility in employing the armed forces, including the unique capabilities in the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, and Coast Guard Reserves when necessary to respond to major disasters or emergencies. Many State governors have expressed concern about unity of effort of State and federal forces in delivering emergency services to citizens of their states and are concerned that they lack sufficient authority to direct the efforts of federal forces, including personnel and units of the armed forces.

We agree that this proposal has significant merit. The Department of Defense should engage with the community of governors to work out an understanding of unity of effort during domestic terrorist events and public emergencies. This key underlying issue must be addressed to allow this and other promising proposals to be enacted.

Many State governors have expressed concern about unity of effort of State and federal forces in delivering emergency services to citizens of their states and are concerned that they lack sufficient authority to direct the efforts of federal forces, including personnel and units of the armed forces.

The provision would also provide that a court may not consider the absence of a service member by reason of deployment, or possibility of deployment, in determining the best interest of the child.

The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

It is the sense of Congress that, when addressing the best interests of minor children in child custody cases, judges should, whenever possible, allow service members to return from deployment before issuing a permanent order regarding child custody arrangements.

The agreement includes the House provision with an amendment that would clarify that the prohibition against requiring repayment of the unearned portion of any bonus, and the requirement to pay out the remainder of any bonus not yet paid, applies to service members who die while on active duty, or service members who retire or separate due to a disability that is determined to be combat-related as defined in section 1413a(e) of title 10, United States Code.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS NOT ADOPTED

Equitable treatment of senior enlisted members in computation of basic allowance for housing

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 603) that would amend section 403 of title 37, United States Code, to provide that the determination of what constitutes adequate housing for members in the pay grade of E-8 with dependents shall be equivalent to the standard in effect for members in the pay grade of E-9 with dependents.

The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include the provision.

Stabilization of pay and allowances for senior enlisted members and warrant officers appointed as officers and officers reappointed in a lower grade

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 606) that would authorize a member of the armed forces who accepts an appointment or reappointment as an officer, without a break in service, to retain the pay and allowances to which the member was entitled in the previous grade if it is more than the pay and allowances to which the member is entitled in the grade to which he is appointed or re-appointed.

The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include the provision.

Guaranteed pay increase for members of the armed forces of one-half of one percentage point higher than employment cost index

The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include the provision.

Increased weight allowance for transportation of baggage and household effects for certain enlisted members

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 631) that would authorize an additional weight allowance for noncommissioned officers in the grades E-5 through E-9 for shipping household goods during permanent changes in station.

The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include the provision.

Travel and transportation allowances for members of the reserve components of the armed forces on leave for suspension of training

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include the provision.

We urge the services to be mindful of training suspensions and minimal staffing periods when devising training schedules for the reserve components. Suspension of training activities for mobilized Reserve and National Guard units must be carefully managed to avoid wasted time and unnecessary absence from home duty stations, particularly during the holiday season.

Equity in computation of disability retired pay for reserve component members wounded in action

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 641) that would change the method of calculating retired pay for reserve component members who have been awarded the Purple Heart by crediting the members with a year of active-duty service for each year the members received at least 50 reserve retirement points.

The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include the provision.

Effect of termination of subsequent marriage on payment of Survivor Benefit Plan annuity to surviving spouse or former spouse who previously transferred annuity to dependent children

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 642) that would authorize surviving spouses or former spouses, who had previously transferred their Survivor Benefit Plan annuity to a child or children, to reclaim their eligibility for the annuity after the termination of a subsequent marriage if the child or children were no longer eligible for the annuity.

The agreement does not include the provision.

Presumption of death for participants in Survivor Benefit Plan in missing status

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 647) that would prohibit a determination of presumed death by the Secretary of State for retired service members who are Survivor Benefit Plan annuitants, and who have been kidnapped in Iraq or Afghanistan.

The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include the provision.

While current law explicitly entitles an active-duty service member to continued pay and allowances upon a determination that the member is missing, retired pay is stopped when a retired service member is determined to be missing, regardless of whether the member is still in a direct employment relationship with the Federal Government. Under the Survivor Benefit Plan, commencement of payment of the survivor benefit annuity may begin upon such a determination. We are sensitive to the fact that the annuity is typically but a portion of full retired pay. The Department of Defense must balance the need to avoid erroneous payments to survivors with the need to protect the interests of survivors in situations where death cannot or should not be presumed. We urge the Department to study whether retired pay should be stopped in the case of retired service members who are still in a direct employment relationship with the Federal Government, and to recommend statutory changes to the Congress, as necessary.

Eligibility for disability retired pay and separation pay of certain former cadets and midshipmen with prior enlisted service

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 648) that would extend retroactively the eligibility for disability retired pay and separation pay to cadets and midshipmen with prior enlisted service whose physical disabilities were incurred after January 1, 2000.

Requirements for private operation of commissary store functions

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 652) that would amend section 2485(a)(2) of title 10, United States Code, to extend the moratorium on studies to compare the cost effectiveness of commissary operations employing federal civilian employees and private sector employees from December 31, 2008, to December 31, 2013.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include the House provision.

Before initiating a cost comparison study of a commissary store under Office of Management and Budget Circular A-76, we recommend that the Secretary of Defense confirm that the government workforce in question has transitioned to the Defense Commissary Agency's Workforce of the Future and ensure that the private sector competitor has demonstrated experience in grocery store operations.

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 653) that would amend section 2491a of title 10, United States Code, to authorize the use of appropriated funds to purchase and maintain golf carts designed to accommodate persons with disabilities and the use of such golf carts on military golf courses.

The agreement does not include the provision.

Use of appropriated funds to pay post allowance or overseas cost of living allowances to non-appropriated fund instrumentality employees serving overseas

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 656) that would authorize the Secretary of Defense to pay post or cost of living allowances to nonappropriated fund instrumentality employees who are United States citizens and employed full-time at an overseas location utilizing appropriated funds. Appropriated funds may be used to pay such allowances only if they were due to a non-appropriated fund instrumentality employee or former employee since December 1, 2001, but have not been previously paid.

The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include the provision.

We are aware that there has been some confusion about the requirement for non-appropriated fund entities to pay post allowances at overseas locations when the employee is hired locally. We are also aware that the Department of Defense is reconsidering the current policy that requires post allowances to be paid to nonappropriated fund employees who are locally hired. Given the confusion over the specifics of the policy, we believe that nonappropriated fund entities should be protected from the burden of making additional unexpected retroactive and current payments until the Department's reassessment of the policy is completed. We strongly urge the Secretary of Defense to identify and allocate appropriated funding to pay post allowances to locally hired nonappropriated fund employees at overseas locations and ensure that no non-appropriated fund entity incurs additional cost resulting from confusion over the Department's policy on these matters.

Study regarding sale of alcoholic wine and beer in commissary stores in addition to exchange stores

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 657) that would require the Secretary of Defense to conduct a study to evaluate the propriety, patron convenience, and financial utility of including alcoholic wine and beer for sale in, at, or by commissary stores, and to report the findings of this study to Congress. This provision would also authorize the Secretary to conduct a pilot program involving the sale of alcoholic wine and beer in commissary stores.

The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include the provision.

Bonus to encourage Army personnel and other persons to refer persons for enlistment in the Army

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 661) that would authorize the Secretary of the Army to train, directly or through a contractor, members of the general public to refer recruit candidates for enlistment. The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include the provision.

Providing injured members of the armed forces information concerning benefits

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 663) that would amend section 1651 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2008 (Public Law 110-181) to add additional requirements to the handbook required by that section.

The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include the provision.

Postal benefits program for members of the armed forces serving in Iraq or Afghanistan

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 664) that would require the Secretary of Defense, in consultation with the United States Postal Service, to provide a postal benefits program to service members serving in Iraq or Afghanistan, or who are hospitalized in a Department of Defense facility as a result of service in Iraq or Afghanistan.

The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement does not include this provision.

TITLE VII—HEALTH CARE AND WOUNDED WARRIOR PROVISIONS

SUBTITLE A—IMPROVEMENTS TO HEALTH BENEFITS

One-year extension of prohibition on increases in certain health care costs for members of the uniformed services (sec. 701)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 701) that would extend until September 30, 2009, the statutory prohibition on increases in any premium, deductible, and copayment under TRICARE; the maximum charge for inpatient care under TRICARE Standard; and the enrollment fee for TRICARE Prime.

The provision would also authorize the Secretary to conduct demonstration projects to provide chiropractic services to deployed members of the uniformed services.

The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision with an amendment that would require the Secretary of Defense, not later than September 30, 2009, to provide chiropractic services to active duty service members at 11 additional Military Treatment Facilities that do not currently provide chiropractic services, the selection of which would be decided by the Department of Defense.

Calculation of monthly premiums for coverage under TRICARE Reserve Select after 2008 (sec. 704)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 705) that would require the Secretary of Defense to recalculate the monthly premium for TRICARE Standard coverage. The premium could not cost more than 28 percent of the total average monthly amount for coverage based on actual cost data for the preceding fiscal year. If the amount calculated based on actual cost data is more than the amount in effect for the month of March 2006, then the Secretary would be required to offer coverage at the March 2006 rate.

The Senate bill contained a provision (sec. 701) that would require the Secretary of Defense to calculate calendar year 2009 monthly premiums for TRICARE Standard coverage based on the actual cost of coverage during calendar years 2006 and 2007. The provision would require the premiums for subsequent years to be calculated using the actual cost of providing benefits during the preceding calendar years.

The agreement includes the Senate provision with an amendment that would stipulate that calendar year 2009 monthly premium calculations must be limited to no more than 28 percent of the total average monthly amount for that coverage, as determined by the cost of providing benefits during calendar years 2006 and 2007, but may not exceed the amount in effect for the month of March 2007. For subsequent years, the premium calculation must be based on the actual cost of providing benefits during the preceding calendar years.

Program for health care delivery at military installations projected to grow (sec. 705)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 706) that would require the Secretary of Defense to develop a plan to establish a program to build cooperative health care arrangements and agreements between military installations projected to grow and local and regional civilian health care systems. The provision would also require the Secretary to implement such a program at each installation participating in the pilot program conducted pursuant to section 721 of the Ronald W. Reagan National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2005 (Public Law 108-375). The Secretary would be required to submit an annual report to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and House of Representatives describing the results of the program.

The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision with an amendment that would authorize the Secretary to develop a plan, and that would delete the requirement that the program be implemented at each installation participating in the pilot program under section 721 of Public Law 108-375.

We are encouraged by the Department of Defense's assessment of the pilot programs for health care delivery established by Public Law 108-375 in its July 2007 interim report on the status of these programs. At the two sites selected to test the program, Fort Drum, New York, and Yuma, Arizona, the Department found that "substantive partnerships, significant cooperative health care arrangements, and agreements" have been established between each installation and its local civilian medical community. We urge the Department of Defense to take the best practices learned from these respective programs and use them as a model for future initiatives established under this section.

Guidelines for combined medical facilities of the Department of Defense and the Department of Veterans Affairs (sec. 706)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 707) that would require the Secretaries of Defense and Veterans Affairs to complete a written agreement including, at a minimum, plans for patient priority categories, budgeting, staffing, construction, and physical plant management before a facility could be designated a combined federal medical facility of the Department of Defense and the Department of Veterans Affairs.

The agreement includes the House provision with an amendment that would add governance, training, contingency planning, quality assurance, and information technology to the list of minimum requirements for the written agreement.

SUBTITLE B—PREVENTIVE CARE

Waiver of copayments for preventive services for certain TRICARE beneficiaries (sec. 711)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 711) that would require the Secretary of Defense to waive all TRICARE copayments for preventive services for all beneficiaries who would otherwise pay copayments, and to ensure that a beneficiary pays nothing for preventive services during a year even if the beneficiary has not paid the amount necessary to cover their annual deductible. The provision would also authorize the Secretary to refund the copayment amounts paid by certain Medicare-eligible beneficiaries for preventive services obtained during fiscal year 2009. Covered preventive services would include colorectal screening, breast screening, cervical screening, prostate screening, annual physical exams, and vaccinations.

The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision with an amendment that would expand the list of covered preventive services to include any other services as determined by the Secretary of Defense.

We believe that the Department of Defense should also consult with and consider the recommendations of the U.S. Preventive Services Task Force, as well as consider including screenings for other preventable health care conditions such as osteoporosis.

Military health risk management demonstration project (sec. 712)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 712) that would require the Secretary of Defense to conduct a demonstration project evaluating the efficacy of providing monetary and non-monetary incentives to assist enrolled beneficiaries to improve and encourage healthy behaviors. The demonstration project must include a wellness assessment with physiological and biometric measures such as blood pressure, glucose level, lipids, and nicotine use. Non-Medicare eligible retired TRICARE Prime beneficiaries and their dependents who reside in the demonstration project service area would be enrolled in the demonstration project.

The agreement includes the House provision with an amendment that would offer, rather than require, eligible beneficiaries to enroll in the demonstration project, and would add weight to the list of measures to be included in the wellness assessment.

Smoking cessation program under TRICARE (sec. 713)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 713) that would require the Secretary of Defense to establish a smoking cessation program under TRICARE. The program would be made available to all non-Medicare eligible beneficiaries covered under TRICARE. The program would include, at a minimum: pharmaceuticals used for smoking cessation through the mail-order pharmacy program at no cost to the beneficiary if appropriate; access to a 24 hour, 7 days a week toll-free quit line; and access to tobacco cessation materials.

The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision with an amendment that would add counseling as a required program element, and provide for involvement of the military chain of command.

We urge the Department of Defense to look at the work of other nationally recognized programs and consider implementing any appropriate best practices into its program.

Preventive health allowance (sec. 714)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 714) that would require the Secretary of Defense to conduct a demonstration project to evaluate the efficacy of providing an annual preventive health services allowance to eligible service members, in order to increase the use of preventive health services by those service members and their dependents.

The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision with an amendment that would add to the list of preventive health services weight and body mass screening.

Additional authority for studies and demonstration projects relating to delivery of health and medical care (sec. 715)

The Senate bill contained a provision (sec. 712) that would authorize the Secretary of Defense to conduct additional studies and demonstrations relating to the delivery of health and medical care, which may include:

(1) projects to provide awards and incentives to TRICARE covered service members and beneficiaries who obtain certain health promotion and disease prevention health care services;

(2) projects to provide awards and incentives to individual health care professionals to encourage improved quality and effectiveness of health care services;

(3) projects to improve the medical and dental readiness of the reserve components; and

(4) projects to improve the continuity of health care services for family members of mobilized members of the reserve components, including payment of a stipend for continuation of employer-provided health coverage.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the Senate provision with an amendment that would clarify that health promotion and disease prevention health care services received by members and covered beneficiaries are required to be obtained under the TRICARE program. The amendment would also clarify that personnel incentives available to individual health care professionals should be made available to civilian personnel as well as members of the armed forces.

SUBTITLE C—WOUNDED WARRIOR MATTERS

Center of excellence in prevention, diagnosis, mitigation, treatment, and rehabilitation of hearing loss and auditory system injuries (sec. 721)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 721) that would require the Secretary of Defense to establish within the Department of Defense a center of excellence in the prevention, diagnosis, mitigation, treatment, and rehabilitation of hearing loss and auditory system injury. The Secretary would be required to collaborate with the Secretary of Veterans Affairs, institutions of higher education, and other appropriate public and private entities to carry out the work of the center.

The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision.

We note that tinnitus, characterized by ringing in the ears, can be a severely disabling condition that impacts military personnel, particularly those exposed to blasts. The genesis and nature of this condition requires further study, including whether it disproportionately affects military personnel, and its correlation to other combat related neurological conditions.

Clarification to center of excellence relating to military eye injuries (sec. 722)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 722) that would remove the phrase “in combat” from section 1623(d) of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2008 (Public Law 110-181) to match sections 1621 and 1623 of the same Act.

The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision.

We direct that not later than 30 days after the date of enactment of this Act, the Secretary of Defense shall submit to the Committees on Armed Services of the Senate and the House of Representatives a report on the status of implementation of the Vision Center of Excellence. The report shall include, at a minimum, a description of the mission of the center, the resources and funds available for the center in fiscal years 2009 through 2013, and the planned programs and priorities of the center.

Center of excellence in the mitigation, treatment, and rehabilitation of traumatic extremity injuries and amputations (sec. 723)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 724) that would require the Secretary of Defense and the Secretary of Veterans Affairs to establish a competitive, peer-reviewed research program to conduct peer-reviewed medical research designed to develop scientific information aimed at saving injured extremities, avoiding amputations, and preserving and restoring the function of injured extremities. The Secretary would also be required to submit a report on the plans for establishment, management, and operation of this research program.

The Senate bill contained a similar provision (sec. 1066).

The agreement includes the Senate provision with an amendment that would add conducting research on saving injured extremities, avoiding amputations, and preserving and restoring the function of injured extremities to the responsibilities of the center.

Additional responsibilities for the Wounded Warrior Resource Center (sec. 724)

The Senate bill contained a provision (sec. 1064) that would amend section 1616(a) of the Wounded Warrior Act (title XVI of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2008 (Public Law 110-181)) to require the Secretary of Defense to provide referrals for legal assistance where appropriate to wounded warriors, their families, and primary caregivers.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the Senate provision.

We note that the intent of this provision is not to create a new entitlement for legal assistance, but to provide a referral service to connect wounded service members and their families with their local judge advocate office or other appropriate entity.

Sense of Congress on research on traumatic brain injury (sec. 725)

The Senate bill contained a provision (sec. 1065) that would amend section 1621(c) of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2008 (Public Law 110-181) to authorize the Secretary of Defense to conduct pilot programs to promote or assess the efficacy of treatment approaches for all forms of traumatic brain injury, to include mild traumatic brain injury.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the Senate provision with an amendment to express the sense of Congress that the requirement under section 1621(c)(7) to conduct basic science and translational research on traumatic brain injury includes pilot programs designed to test the efficacy of clinical approaches, including the use of pharmacological agents. The amendment would express support for continued joint research with the National Institutes of Health in this area.

Extension of Senior Oversight Committee with respect to wounded warrior matters (sec. 726)

The Senate bill contained a provision (sec. 1067) that would require the Secretary of Defense and the Secretary of Veterans Affairs to jointly take actions to continue the operations of the Senior Oversight Committee established to address concerns related to the treatment of wounded, ill, and injured members of the armed forces and veterans until September 30, 2011.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement contains the Senate provision with an amendment to require the Secretary of Defense and the Secretary of Veterans Affairs to continue the operations of the Senior Oversight Committee until December 31, 2009, and to report by August 31, 2009, on the future operations of the Senior Oversight Committee.

Modification of utilization of veterans' presumption of sound condition in establishing eligibility of members of the armed forces for retirement for disability (sec. 727)

The Senate bill contained a provision (sec. 1061) that would amend sections 1201 and 1203 of title 10, United States Code, to adopt the same presumption of sound condition used by the Department of Veterans Affairs in accordance with section 1111 of title 38, United States Code, that a disability is incurred while on active duty if the disability was not noted at the time of a member's entrance on active duty unless clear and unmistakable evidence demonstrates that the disability existed before the member's entrance on active duty and was not aggravated by active military service.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes this provision.

We believe that the Department of Defense and the Department of Veterans Affairs must make consistent determinations as to whether a disability existed before the member's entrance or was aggravated by active military service.

SUBTITLE D—OTHER MATTERS

Report on providing the Extended Care Health Option program to dependents of military retirees (sec. 731)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 732) that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit a report on including autistic dependents of military retirees in the Extended Care Health Option (ECHO) program.

The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision with an amendment that would expand the scope of the report to cover all dependents of retirees who participate in the ECHO program, and clarify that the report should discuss including such dependents for a limited transitional period following retirement.

Increase in cap on extended benefits under Extended Health Care Option (ECHO) (sec. 732)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 733) that would ensure that autistic children of members of the armed forces enrolled in the Extended Health Care Option (ECHO) program would be eligible for a minimum of $5,000 per month of autistic therapy services.

The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision with an amendment that would replace the monthly cap on services under the ECHO program with an annual cap of $36,000.

We are concerned that the needs of military dependent children with autism are not being fully met due to the lack of availability of providers nationwide to provide therapeutic and other support services to children with autism. We expect the demonstration project initiated under TRICARE to go forward, incorporating to the maximum extent practicable, improvements identified by military family members. The demonstration project must complement other essential services to military dependent children with autism, including those authorized in section 587 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2008

(Public Law 110-181). Those services include assignment of case managers, development of individualized services plans, and establishment of autism support centers.

We direct the Secretary of Defense to report not later than 90 days after the enactment of this Act, and semi-annually thereafter, on the status of implementation of the TRICARE demonstration project, including the numbers of autistic children served, the type and frequency of services provided, the number of available providers by region, and whether reimbursement levels are sufficient to retain qualified providers in the TRICARE networks.

Not later than February 1, 2009, the Secretary shall report to the congressional defense committees on the feasibility of establishing one or more autism support centers, as authorized by Public Law 110-181. The report shall describe the capabilities of such centers to serve military dependent children with autism of all services, the potential efficacy of such centers to meet the needs of military families with children with a diagnosis of autism, as well as the potential for training additional qualified providers of services to children with autism. We believe that each center should utilize medical, educational, and developmental therapies that have been successfully used to treat children with autism.

Department of Defense task force on the prevention of suicides by members of the armed forces (sec. 733)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 735) that would require the Secretary of Defense to conduct a study to identify the mental health risks associated with the performance of military duties.

The Senate bill contained a provision (sec. 581) that would require the Secretary of Defense to develop a comprehensive policy designed to prevent suicide by members of the armed forces.

The agreement includes the Senate provision with an amendment that would require the Secretary of Defense to establish a task force to examine matters relating to prevention of suicide by members of the armed forces.

Transitional health care for certain members of the armed forces who agree to serve in the Selected Reserve of the Ready Reserve (sec. 734)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 737) that would provide transitional health care benefits to members who separate from active duty and who agree to become a member of the Selected Reserve.

The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision with an amendment that would delete the language related to funding, which is reflected in the tables.

Enhancement of medical and dental readiness of members of the armed forces (sec. 735)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 362) that would authorize $22.3 million to be appropriated for first term dental readiness, and $8.5 million to be appropriated for demobilization dental treatment.

The Senate bill contained a provision (sec. 711) that would require the secretary of each military department to provide to members of the Selected Reserve who are assigned to units scheduled for deployment within 75 days after mobilization annual medical screenings, a full physical examination for members who are over the age of 40 every 2 years, and annual dental screenings and dental care required to ensure that a member meets the dental standards required for deployment, all at no cost to the member. The provision would also authorize the secretaries concerned to provide the same services to other members of the Selected Reserve and to a member of the Individual Ready Reserve with a deployment responsibility, if those services are necessary to ensure medical and dental readiness. In addition, the provision would clarify that reserve components may use available operation and maintenance funds to achieve these goals.

The Senate provision would also authorize the Secretary of Defense to waive, in whole or in part, during a time of national emergency, the requirement for members of the Selected Reserve enrolled in the TRICARE dental insurance program to pay copayments for restorative care necessary to meet dental readiness standards, in order to facilitate readiness of a unit or individual scheduled for deployment. Finally, the provision would require the Secretary of Defense to submit a report on the policies and procedures to ensure medical and dental readiness of service members.

The agreement includes the Senate provision with an amendment that would clarify that waivers of charges determined necessary by the Secretary to ensure the readiness of a unit or individual for deployment should be subject to regulation and limited to dental services required for readiness.

We remind the Department of Defense that readiness includes not only pre-deployment medical and dental work necessary to make the member deployable, but also post-deployment medical and dental care to bring the member back up to readiness standards after they return from a long absence, where such medical and dental care may not have been available.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS NOT ADOPTED

Prohibition on conversion of military medical and dental positions to civilian medical and dental positions

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 703) that would prohibit the military departments from converting any military medical or dental position to a civilian medical or dental position on or after October 1, 2008. This provision would also require that any military medical or dental position that has been converted to a civilian medical or dental position from October 1, 2004, through September 30, 2008, be restored to a military medical or dental position if the position is not filled by a civilian by September 30, 2008.

The Senate bill contained a provision (sec. 721) that would repeal subsection (a) of section 721 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2008 (Public Law 110-181), which prohibits the military departments from converting any military medical or dental position through September 30, 2012. The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the Senate provision with an amendment establish a semi-annual reporting requirement on the Navy's transition between the NMCI and NGEN programs.

The NGEN program represents one of the largest, farthest reaching, and complex acquisition programs and technology deployments for the Navy and Marine Corps in the next decade. We note with concern the lack of planning and oversight that the Department of Defense has dedicated to the requirements generation, acquisition strategy development, outreach to industry, contracting mechanisms, realistic testing, and transition planning for the NGEN program. The lack of transparency and dialogue with industry about the acquisition strategy for NGEN and the planned transition of assets and intellectual property currently associated with the NMCI program is a continuing concern.

The Secretary of Defense is directed to keep the congressional defense committees well informed about the development of acquisition and transition strategies for NGEN. It is expected that the semi-annual reporting requirement in this provision will provide an efficient mechanism to support that dialogue.

Sense of Congress on nuclear weapons management (sec. 1035)

The Senate bill contained a provision (sec. 1038) that would find that the unauthorized transfer of nuclear weapons from Minot Air Force Base, North Dakota, to Barksdale Air Force Base, Louisiana, in August 2007; the unauthorized transfer of classified intercontinental ballistic missile parts, discovered in March 2008; and a lack of training and staffing for nuclear matters, demonstrate a lack of attention by the Department of Defense (DOD) to nuclear issues in general. In addition, the provision would set forth the sense of Congress that safety and security of nuclear weapons and related equipment should be a high priority for the United States; that the President should take steps to nominate an individual to fill the position of the Assistant to the Secretary of Defense for Nuclear and Chemical and Biological Defense Programs; and that the Secretary of Defense should establish a senior position in the DOD Office of Policy at an assistant secretarial or deputy under secretarial level with responsibility for nuclear policy issues.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the Senate provision with an amendment that would add an additional finding to the provision. The amendment would set forth the sense of the Congress that maintaining the safety and security of nuclear weapons would be more easily achieved if greater attention were paid to the nuclear matters in the Offices of the Secretary of Defense, the Under Secretary of Defense for Policy and the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology, and Logistics. The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision with a clarifying amendment. We note that numerous studies from independent commissions, the Government Accountability Office, and the Defense Science Board have indicated a lack of clearly articulated strategic goals for the Federal Government's efforts at strategic communication and public diplomacy. Taken as a whole, these studies point to deficiencies in the U.S. approach to this mission that have not been adequately addressed by previous strategies, or by any other official government initiative. For example, these studies indicate that the Federal Government's approach to strategic communication and public diplomacy has not been effective enough at garnering greater participation from the private sector, academic institutions or other non-governmental organizations. We commend the establishment of the Global Strategic Engagement Center at the Department of State, but note that its role within a whole-of-government approach to strategic communication and public diplomacy still needs to be further clarified.

This provision contains aspects worthy of future consideration by the Department of Defense, as well as Congress, as they relate to acquisition of information technology systems. The National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2008 (Public Law 110-181) contained a provision (sec. 887) that required the Defense Science Board (DSB) to conduct a study of policies and procedures for the acquisition of information technology. The strides that the Department of Defense has made in improving energy efficiency across the entire organization are encouraging. The Department is working to increase the fuel efficiency and alternative fuel options of its vast fleet of vehicles, but also developing options for improving the energy efficiency of its extensive information technology (IT) enterprise. IT systems, including all of the desktop computing, servers, routers, and associated equipment consume significant quantities of energy, and any gains of efficiency will likely translate to significant cost savings. The adoption of innovative business practices will also help contribute to the reduction of the energy consumption for these resources. The Department should continue to undertake further measures to reduce energy consumption in its information technology enterprise, and keep industry and academia aware of opportunities for them to support efforts in this area.

Public disclosure of names of students and instructors at Western Hemisphere Institute for Security Cooperation

TITLE XI—CIVILIAN PERSONNEL MATTERS

Authority to waive annual limitation on premium pay and aggregate limitation on pay for federal civilian employees working overseas (sec. 1101)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1101) that would extend for an additional year the authority of a head of a federal agency to waive the limitations on the amount of premium pay that may be given to a civilian employee who performs certain work in an overseas location that falls under the responsibility of the United States Central Command, or in support of a military operation or responding to an emergency declared by the President. The total compensation would be limited to $212,100 for the calendar year.

The total amount payable may not exceed the total annual compensation payable to the Vice President under section 104 of title 3, United States Code.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the Senate provision.

The agreement includes the House provision.

Extension of voluntary reduction-in-force authority of Department of Defense (sec. 1105)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1103) that would extend, from 2010 to 2014, existing authorities under section 3502(f)(5) of title 5, United States Code, to allow an employee who is not affected by a reduction in force (RIF) to volunteer to be separated to protect another employee from being involuntarily separated by RIF procedures.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the Senate provision with a clarifying amendment.

The National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2008 (Public Law 110-181) substantially revised the Department's authority under the NSPS legislation, with the objective of restoring the collective bargaining rights of DOD employees. Unfortunately, proposed regulations, issued May 22, 2008, to implement that legislation would restrict such rights by unilaterally removing negotiable issues from the scope of collective bargaining. In particular, the law provided that while unions would not be able to negotiate over the "rate of pay," they would be permitted to bargain over "procedures and appropriate arrangements," as defined in chapter 71 of title 5, United States Code regarding pay. However, the proposed regulations define "rate of pay" so broadly that it would be impossible to negotiate over any procedures or appropriate arrangements. We intend to carefully scrutinize the final regulation when published. Should it fail to comport with the intent of Congress to restore the collective bargaining rights of DOD employees, we shall revisit the issue in the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2010.

Expedited hiring authority for health care professionals (sec. 1107)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1105) that would amend section 1599c of title 10, United States Code, to authorize the Secretary of Defense to designate any category of medical or health care professional position within the Department of Defense as a shortage category position, and would authorize the Secretary to recruit and appoint highly qualified individuals directly to those designated positions. This bill would also extend health care hiring authorities under this section until September 30, 2012.

The Senate bill contained a similar provision (sec. 1104).

The agreement includes the House provision.

Direct hire authority at personnel demonstration laboratories for certain candidates (sec. 1108)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1109) that would authorize the Secretary of Defense to make a limited number of appointments to positions at specified defense laboratories using expedited hiring procedures.

The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision with an amendment that clarifies that the authority is intended for the purposes of hiring a limited number of qualified candidates with advanced degrees into scientific and engineering positions in specified defense laboratories. There are clear difficulties facing defense laboratories in recruiting and retaining a highly qualified, technical workforce to support their designated national security missions. It is expected that this authority, if aggressively implemented, will assist in addressing these challenges.

Status reports relating to laboratory personnel demonstration projects (sec. 1109)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1110) that would require status reports on the utilization of personnel authorities granted to the Department of Defense related to the laboratory personnel demonstration program.

The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision with an amendment that clarifies that the report should include information on any defense laboratories that are seeking to be newly designated as a demonstration laboratory and the status of those applications. The amendment also clarifies that the designation of a "demonstration laboratory" is distinct from the designation of a "science and technology reinvention laboratory."

Technical amendment relating to definition of professional accounting position for purposes of certification and credentialing standards (sec. 1110)

The agreement does not include the provision.

We expect that execution of a furlough of civilian employees during a contingency operation will be a measure of last resort only, after all other alternative actions are taken or considered, in order to avoid disruption of civilian workforce operations.

TITLE XII—MATTERS RELATING TO FOREIGN NATIONS

The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision with an amendment to extend this authority through fiscal year 2009 and limit the authorized funding level for such assistance to $25.0 million. We note that the Department of State intends to seek Foreign Military Financing funding for the Pakistan Frontier Corps program in fiscal year 2009 and encourage the transition of funding for this program from the Department of Defense to the Department of State.

This provision would also add two elements to the existing reporting requirement regarding types and disposition of equipment lent to foreign nations but not returned to the United States.

Modification and extension of authorities relating to program to build the capacity of foreign military forces (sec. 1206)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1206) that would extend through fiscal year 2010 the authority provided in section 1206 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2006 (Public Law 109-163). The provision would also permit the use of funds provided in a fiscal year for programs to build the capacity of foreign military forces that began in that fiscal year but continued into the next fiscal year.

The Senate bill contained a provision (sec. 1204) that would extend and modify the authority under section 1206 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2006 (Public Law 109-163). The provision would expand the types of security forces eligible to be trained and equipped under this authority and increase the annual limitation on authorized funding from $300.0 million to $400.0 million. The provision would also extend the section 1206 authority through September 30, 2011.

The agreement includes the Senate provision with an amendment that would expand the types of security forces eligible to receive assistance under this section to include maritime security forces for the purpose of building capacity to conduct counterterrorism operations. The amendment would also increase the authorized funding level to $350.0 million per fiscal year. The amendment would allow funds available in a fiscal year to be used for programs that begin in that fiscal year but end in the next fiscal year. The amendment would extend the section 1206 authority through September 30, 2011.

The train and equip authority under section 1206 was initiated as a pilot program and is generally intended to address emerging needs for building the capacity of foreign military forces, particularly those of developing or other countries that otherwise would be unable to build this capacity on their own. This authority is not intended to duplicate or substitute for other foreign assistance authorities, nor is it intended to sustain train and equip programs over multiple years. We continue to view this authority as provisional and intend to continue to carefully monitor its implementation.

Moreover, as clearly articulated in the conference report accompanying the John Warner National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2007 (Public Law 109-364), we continue to believe strongly that foreign assistance programs are more appropriately funded through the foreign assistance accounts, as administered by the Department of State, and expect future budget requests to include sufficient funding for foreign military assistance in those accounts.

It is essential that the Department choose projects that strictly meet the criteria stipulated by the authority—projects that will contribute directly to building the capacity of a foreign country's national military forces to conduct counterterrorist operations or participate in or support military and stability operations in which the United States armed forces are participants. When this authority is used for counterterrorism purposes, nations that face a known terrorist threat, and that do not have the resources to build their military capacity without U.S. assistance, should be given the highest priority.

Extension of authority and increased funding for security and stabilization assistance (sec. 1207)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1207) that would extend the authority provided under section 1207 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2006 (Public Law 109-163), as amended by section 1210 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2008 (Public Law 110-181), through September 30, 2010.

The Senate bill contained a similar provision (sec. 1205) that would extend the section 1207 authority through September 30, 2011, and increase the authorized annual funding level from $100.0 million to $200.0 million.

The agreement includes the Senate provision with an amendment that would extend the 1207 authority through September 30, 2009. The amendment provides that up to $50.0 million in assistance under section 1207 may be provided to the Republic of Georgia, without that assistance counting against the authorized annual funding limit of $100.0 million. The amendment also clarifies that Section 1207 authority is not to be used to provide budgetary support to a foreign country.

The Congress established this authority as a temporary measure to allow the Department of Defense to support Department of State efforts to address security and stabilization missions. Budget proposals for the Department of State should provide adequate resources to accomplish those missions without relying on this temporary transfer authority, and we urge the administration to request sufficient funding for the Department of State in future budget submissions.

Extension and expansion of authority for support of special operations to combat terrorism (sec. 1208)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1208) that would make permanent the authority provided in section 1208 of the Ronald Reagan National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2005 (Public Law 108-375) for the Secretary of Defense to provide assistance to foreign forces, irregular forces, groups or individuals supporting or facilitating military operations by U.S. special operations forces to combat terrorism. The provision would also increase the amount that may be expended during any fiscal year from $25.0 million to $35.0 million.

The Senate bill contained a similar provision (sec. 1203) that would extend the section 1208 authority through 2011 and also increase the authorized annual funding level to $35.0 million.

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1214) that would amend section 1202 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2006 (Public Law 109-163), as amended by section 1205 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2008 (Public Law 110-181), to modify the authorized level of funding for the activities of the Commanders' Emergency Response Program (CERP). The provision would authorize $1.7 billion for the activities of this program in fiscal year 2008, and $1.5 billion in fiscal year 2009. The provision would also impose a limitation of $2.0 million on the amount of U.S. CERP funds that could be contributed to any individual humanitarian and reconstruction project in Iraq. The provision would allow the Secretary of Defense to waive this limitation if he determines that a waiver is required to meet urgent humanitarian relief and reconstruction requirements that will immediately assist the Iraqi people. The provision would also require the Secretary, or the Deputy Secretary of Defense, to certify that any project that is funded with U.S. CERP funds at a level of $1.0 million or more addresses urgent humanitarian relief and reconstruction requirements that will immediately assist the Iraqi people. The amendment would also require certain elements be included in the quarterly CERP reports to the congressional defense committees. The amendment also includes a sense of the Congress that the Government of Iraq should assume increasing responsibility for funding and carrying out projects currently funded by the United States through CERP, and should assume all costs associated with the Sons of Iraq as expeditiously as possible.

The restriction could be waived following a certification by the Secretary of Defense in consultation with the Secretary of State. One of the elements of the review to be conducted is whether there have been any incidents with respect to which a determination has been made that an improper disclosure of covered information occurred during the 5 year period preceding the date of enactment. We would urge, in the event that the Secretary determines that such an event has occurred after the date of enactment and before the due date of the report, that any such incident should be included to the extent practicable.

Defense Inspector General (sec. 1406)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1406) that would authorize appropriations for the Inspector General of the Department of Defense.

The Senate bill contained an identical provision (sec. 1406).

The agreement includes this provision.

National Defense Sealift Fund amendments (sec. 1407)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1014) that would change the definition of what vessels would be funded within the National Defense Sealift Fund (NDSF) account, and would strike subsection (J) of section 2218 of title 10, United States Code, which allows the Secretary of Defense to transfer resources within the NDSF if he determines that the action serves the national defense interest.

The Senate bill contained a similar provision (sec. 1432) that would change the definition of what vessels would be funded in the NDSF.

The agreement includes the House provision.

SUBTITLE B—NATIONAL DEFENSE STOCKPILE*Authorized uses of National Defense Stockpile funds (sec. 1411)*

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1411) that would authorize $41.2 million from the National Defense Stockpile Transaction Fund for the operation and maintenance of the National Defense Stockpile for fiscal year 2009. This section would also permit the use of additional funds for extraordinary or emergency conditions 45 days after Congress receives notification.

The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision.

Revisions to previously authorized disposals from the National Defense Stockpile (sec. 1412)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1412) that would authorize revisions on limitations in National Defense Stockpile (NDS) by amending section 3303(a) of the Strom Thurmond National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1999 (Public Law 105-261), as amended most recently by section 1412(b) of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2008 (Public Law 110-181) to increase the Department's disposal authority from $1.1 billion to $1.5 billion.

The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision with an amendment that would increase the Department's disposal authority from $1.1 billion to $1.4 billion.

We note that in June 2008 the Deputy Under Secretary of Defense for Logistics and Materiel Readiness determined the need to suspend, or limit, the authorized sales of selected materials in the NDS inventory pending a review of critical and strategic materials. This provision is not intended to supersede this determination, but to provide additional authority if the Department's review of materials justifies continued sales.

SUBTITLE C—ARMED FORCES RETIREMENT HOME*Authorization of appropriations for Armed Forces Retirement Home (sec. 1421)*

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1421) that would authorize $63.0 million to be appropriated for fiscal year 2009 from the Armed Forces Retirement Home Trust Fund for the operation of the Armed Forces Retirement Home.

The Senate bill contained a similar provision (sec. 1421).

The agreement includes the Senate provision.

TITLE XV—AUTHORIZATION OF ADDITIONAL APPROPRIATIONS FOR OPERATION IRAQI FREEDOM AND OPERATION ENDURING FREEDOMLEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS ADOPTEDAuthorization of additional appropriations for operations in Afghanistan and Iraq for fiscal year 2009 (sec. 1501)*

The House bill contained a series of provisions (sections 1501-1507 and 1509-1515) that would authorize $70.0 billion in fiscal year 2009 appropriations for military operations in Afghanistan and Iraq.

The Senate bill contained a series of provisions (sections 1501-1512) that would authorize $19.9 billion in fiscal year 2009 funding for military operations in Afghanistan.

The Senate bill also contained a series of provisions (sections 1601-1613) that would authorize $49.6 billion in fiscal year 2009 funding for military operations in Iraq.

The agreement includes a provision that would authorize $66.0 billion in fiscal year 2009 appropriations for operations in Iraq and Afghanistan in accordance with the funding provided in Chapter 2 of title IX of the Supplemental Appropriations Act, 2008 (Public Law 110-252).

The agreement would also authorize $2.1 billion for an additional six C-17 aircraft.

Requirement for separate display of budgets for Afghanistan and Iraq (sec. 1502)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1002) that would require the Secretary of Defense, for any annual or supplemental budget request of the Department of Defense, to clearly and separately set forth any funding requested for any U.S. operations in Afghanistan.

The House bill also contained a provision (sec. 1003) that would require a similar separate budget display for operations in Iraq.

The Senate bill contained a similar provision (sec. 1516) that would require a separate budget display for funding of operations in Afghanistan.

The agreement combines the House and Senate provisions into a single provision that would require separate budget displays for operations in Afghanistan and operations in Iraq.

Joint improvised explosive device defeat fund (sec. 1503)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1507) that would authorize funding for the Joint Improvised Explosive Device Defeat Fund (JIEDDF). This section would require that of the funds appropriated to the Joint Improvised Explosive Device Defeat Fund, $50.0 million shall be made available for the rapid fielding of additional Aerial Reconnaissance Multi-Sensor platforms for tactical operations in Operation Iraqi Freedom and Operation Enduring Freedom.

The Senate bill contained two similar provisions (sec. 1505 and sec. 1605) both of which would authorize funding for the Joint Improvised Explosive Device Defeat Fund.

The agreement includes a provision authorizing funding for the Joint Improvised Explosive Device Defeat Fund.

We urge the Joint Improvised Explosive Device Defeat Organization (JIEDDO) to direct $5.0 million each to ongoing Marine Corps and Army efforts to develop specialized improvised explosive device (IED) dog teams. The Marine Corps program has already deployed IED dog teams embedded with combat forces successfully to Iraq and intends to expand the program. JIEDDO has been funding the development of specialized IED dog team capabilities in the Army ($2.75 million in fiscal years 2008 and 2009), and the Army is now fielding its first embedded IED dog team with a Brigade Combat team (BCT). However, the Marine Corps needs additional funds to sustain its research and development program, and the Army will be able to field this counter-IED capability to only one BCT in fiscal year 2009 unless JIEDDO provides additional funds or the Army re-prioritizes its military working dog budget. We direct the director of JIEDDO, the Deputy Chief of Staff of the Army for Intelligence, and the Army Provost Marshal General review this situation and notify the Armed Services Committees of the Senate and the House of Representatives of their decision within 30 days of the enactment of this Act.

Further, we also urge JIEDDO to continue funding at a level of not less than $65.0 million the ongoing efforts of the Irregular Warfare Support office under the Assistant Secretary of Defense for Special Operations/Low Intensity Conflict.

Science & technology investment strategy to defeat or counter improvised explosive devices (sec. 1504)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1508) that would limit the amount of funds that the Joint Improvised Explosive Device Defeat Organization (JIEDDO) may obligate for science and technology (S&T) efforts until it delivers to Congress a report describing its S&T strategy.

The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision with an amendment that would require the Director of JIEDDO, jointly with the Director for Defense Research and Engineering, to develop and deliver to the congressional defense committees an annual report outlining the Department of Defense's (DOD) investment strategy for S&T to defeat and counter improvised explosive devices (IEDs).

According to DOD Directive 2000.19E, JIEDDO's mission is to "focus (lead, advocate, coordinate) all DOD actions in support of the Combatant Commanders' and their respective Joint Task Forces' efforts to defeat Improvised Explosive Devices as weapons of strategic influence." Even more specifically, it requires the Director of JIEDDO to "integrate all IED Defeat solutions throughout the Department of Defense, seeking Inter-agency assistance, as necessary, and identifying innovative near-term solutions." While JIEDDO has actively invested in S&T efforts to support its mission, it has neglected its responsibility to lead, advocate and coordinate the Department's total S&T investment in this area. If JIEDDO does not serve in this coordination role, then the likelihood for duplicative and redundant investment with Service and Defense Agencies investments increases dramatically.

Limitation on Iraq Security Forces Fund (sec. 1505)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1512) that would authorize fiscal year 2009 appropriations for the Iraq Security Forces Fund (ISFF).

The Senate bill contained a similar provision (sec. 1613).

The agreement includes a provision that would subject funds authorized in this title for the ISFF to the terms and conditions of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2008 (Public Law 110-181). The funding authorization for this program is contained in section 1501 of this Act. Additional restrictions on the use of the ISFF for infrastructure projects are contained elsewhere in this Act.

The Senate bill contained a similar provision (sec. 1512).

The agreement includes a provision that would subject funds authorized in this title for the ASFF to the terms and conditions of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2008 (Public Law 110-181). The funding authorization for the ASFF is contained in section 1501 of this Act.

Special transfer authority (sec. 1507)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1516) that would authorize the transfer of up to $4.0 billion of war-related funding authorizations in this title among the accounts in this title.

The Senate bill contained a similar provision (sec. 1514) that would authorize transfers of up to $3.0 billion.

The agreement includes the House provision.

This special transfer authority is in addition to the general transfer authority contained in section 1001 of this Act, but the same reprogramming procedures applicable to transfers under section 1001 would also apply to transfers under this section.

Prohibition on use of United States funds for certain facilities projects in Iraq and contributions by Iraq to combined operations and other activities in Iraq (sec. 1508)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1512) that would prohibit the use of certain funds for the acquisition, conversion, rehabilitation, or installation of facilities for the Iraqi Security Forces.

The Senate bill contained a provision (sec. 1616) that would prohibit the use of funds authorized by this Act to pay for any large-scale infrastructure project commenced after the date of enactment of this Act. The provision would also require the United States Government to begin negotiating an agreement with the Government of Iraq to share the costs of combined operations between the Government of Iraq and Multi-National Force Iraq. The provision would further require that the United States Government act to ensure that Iraqi funds are used to pay the costs of training, equipping, and sustaining the Iraqi Security Forces and the costs associated with the Sons of Iraq.

The agreement includes a provision that would prohibit the use of certain funds for the acquisition, conversion, rehabilitation, or installation of facilities for the use of the Government of Iraq, political subdivisions of Iraq, or agencies, departments or forces of the Government of Iraq or its subdivisions. The provision would also require the United States Government to begin negotiating an agreement with the Government of Iraq to share the costs of combined operations between the Government of Iraq and Multi-National Force-Iraq. The provision would further require that the United States Government act to ensure that Iraqi funds are used to pay the costs of training, equipping, and sustaining the Iraqi Security Forces.

The current Defense Access Road (DAR) eligibility criteria contained in the Federal-aid Policy Guide of the Federal Highway Administration do not consider the full range of transportation impacts or requirements. We are aware that the criteria currently do not account for safety and security concerns for local roads, even though certain DAR projects have been carried out in the past 5 years in order to correct significant deficiencies threatening the safety of military personnel. The Department of Defense is strongly encouraged to consider incorporating the standards put forth by the Transportation Research Board, which serves as an independent adviser to the President, Congress, and federal agencies on scientific and technical questions, in the Highway Capacity Manual. This manual contains state-of-the-art techniques for estimating road capacity and determining levels of service for transportation facilities and modes. These techniques have been adopted by the Federal Highway Administration as a basis for assessing road requirements based on current congestion and saturation levels for traffic flows on public roads.

We recognize the importance of AT/FP measures for Department of Defense installations and facilities. We are concerned that adequate funding has not been requested to construct permanent facilities and infrastructure, including fences, physical anti-terrorism barriers, large vehicle inspection stations, and reinforced, blast-protected facilities for guards since updated AT/FP standards were adopted by the Department of Defense in 2003. Timely funding of these requirements is necessary to protect the safety and welfare of service members and their families. We expect the Department of Defense to include, in conjunction with this report, funding in the fiscal year 2010 budget and future-years defense program to ensure that main gates and entry points at military installations comply with AT/FP standards.

DIVISION C—DEPARTMENT OF ENERGY NATIONAL SECURITY AUTHORIZATIONS AND OTHER AUTHORIZATIONS

TITLE XXXI—DEPARTMENT OF ENERGY NATIONAL SECURITY PROGRAMS

SUBTITLE A—NATIONAL SECURITY PROGRAMS AUTHORIZATIONS

Overview

Title XXXI authorizes appropriations for atomic energy defense activities of the Department of Energy for fiscal year 2009, including: the purchase, construction, and acquisition of plant and capital equipment; research and development; nuclear weapons activities; nuclear nonproliferation activities; naval nuclear propulsion; environmental cleanup; operating expenses; and other expenses necessary to carry out the purposes of the Department of Energy Organization Act (Public Law 95-91). This title authorizes appropriations in five categories: (1) National Nuclear Security Administration (NNSA); (2) defense environmental cleanup; (3) other defense activities; (4) defense nuclear waste disposal; and (5) energy security and assurance.

The budget request for atomic energy defense activities at the Department of Energy included $16.0 billion for atomic energy defense activities, a 5.6 percent increase above the fiscal year 2008 appropriated level. Of the total amount requested:

- (1) $9.1 billion is for NNSA, of which
 - (a) $6.6 billion is for weapons activities,
 - (b) $1.2 billion is for defense nuclear nonproliferation activities,
 - (c) $828.1 million is for naval reactors, and
 - (d) $404.1 million is for the Office of the Administrator;
- (2) $5.3 billion is for defense environmental cleanup;
- (3) $1.3 billion is for other defense activities; and
- (4) $247.4 million is for defense nuclear waste disposal.

The budget request also included $7.6 million for energy security and assurance within energy supply.

We agree to authorize $16.1 billion for atomic energy defense activities, an increase of $143.2 million above the budget request.

Of this amount, we authorize:

- (1) $9.8 billion for NNSA, of which
 - (a) $6.6 billion would be for weapons activities, a decrease of $7.0 million below the budget request,
 - (b) $1.9 billion would be for defense nuclear nonproliferation, an increase of $648.2 million above the budget request,
 - (c) $828.1 million would be for naval reactors, the amount of the budget request, and
 - (d) $404.0 million would be for the Office of the Administrator, the amount of the budget request;
 - (2) $5.3 billion would be for defense environmental cleanup activities, the amount of the budget request;
 - (3) $826.5 million would be for other defense activities, a decrease of $487.0 million below the amount of the budget request; and
 - (4) $222.4 million would be for defense nuclear waste disposal, a reduction of $25.0 million below the amount of the budget request.
- We agree to authorize $7.6 million for energy security and assurance, the amount of the budget request.

The following table summarizes the budget request and the authorizations:

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS ADOPTED

National Nuclear Security Administration (sec. 3101)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3101) that would authorize $9.3 billion for the activities of the National Nuclear Security Administration (NNSA) for fiscal year 2009, an increase of $204.7 million above the budget request.

The Senate bill contained a similar provision (sec. 3101) that would authorize $9.6 billion for the activities of the NNSA for fiscal year 2009, an increase of $544.6 million above the budget request.

The agreement includes a provision (sec. 3101) that would authorize $9.8 billion, an increase of $655.2 million above the budget request.

Within NNSA, the provision would authorize $6.6 billion for weapons activities, a decrease of $7.0 million; $1.9 billion for defense nuclear nonproliferation, an increase of $648.2 million; $828.1 million for naval reactors, the amount of the budget request, and $404.1 million for the Office of the Administrator, the amount of the request.

The budget request included $6.6 billion for weapons activities. The provision would authorize $6.6 billion, a decrease of $7.0 million below the budget request. The budget request included $10.0 million for the Reliable Replacement Warhead, no funds are provided for this item. The provision would authorize an increase of $5.0 million above the budget request for weapons dismantlement and disposition and a decrease of $20.0 million below the budget request for pit manufacturing. Within campaigns, the provision would authorize a reduction of $5.0 million below the budget request for test readiness, an increase of $5.0 million above the budget request for enhanced surety, an increase of $3.0 million above the budget request for enhanced surveillance, an increase of $14.6 million above the budget request for inertial confinement fusion, and a decrease of $10.0 million below the budget request for tritium readiness. Within readiness in technical base and facilities, the provision would authorize an increase of $1.0 million above the budget request, which includes an increase of $10.0 million above the budget request for the Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory, an increase of $10.0 million above the budget request for the Pantex Plant, and a decrease of $19.0 million for the Kansas City Plant. We note that the $19.0 million reduction for the Kansas City Plant is without prejudice. The provision provides an additional $23.4 million above the budget request for defense nuclear security.

The budget request included $1.2 billion for defense nuclear nonproliferation. The provision would authorize $1.9 billion for defense nuclear nonproliferation, an increase of $648.2 million, including $487.0 million transferred from nuclear energy for the mixed oxide fuel fabrication facility. The provision would include an increase of $25.0 million above the budget request for the Nonproliferation and Verification Research and Development program including technologies to support improved nuclear material forensic and attribution capabilities and seismic research. The provision would authorize a reduction of $5.8 million for the Nonproliferation and International Security (NIS) program, of which $5.0 million shall be applied to the Global Initiatives for Proliferation (GIPP) Prevention and the balance shall be applied across the NIS as a reduction for Global Nuclear Energy Partnership activities including GIPP. The provision would authorize an increase of $22.0 million above the budget request for the International Nuclear Materials and Cooperation program to secure nuclear weapons and weapons materials outside the United States. Funding for the mixed oxide fuel fabrication facility, $467.8 million, and $19.2 million for operations and maintenance for the U.S. surplus fissile materials disposition, has been moved from nuclear energy back to the NNSA to reflect that this is a nonproliferation program. The NNSA is the responsible entity within the Department of Energy to manage nonproliferation programs. The provision would authorize an increase of $120.0 million above the budget request for the Global Threat Reduction Initiative for highly enriched uranium reactor conversion, to secure domestic research and test reactors, to secure and remove U.S. origin high risk radiological sources, to secure and remove international high risk radiological sources, and to dispose of U.S. origin highly enriched uranium located outside the United States.

The budget request included $828.1 million for naval reactors. The provision would authorize the amount of the budget request.

The budget request included $404.1 million for the Office of the Administrator. The provision would authorize the amount of the budget request.

Defense environmental cleanup (sec. 3102)

The Senate bill contained a provision (sec. 3102) that would authorize $5.3 billion for environmental defense cleanup activities, the amount of the budget request.

The House bill contained a similar provision (sec. 3102) that would authorize $5.3 billion, an increase of $20 million above the budget request.

The agreement includes the Senate provision that would authorize $5.3 billion, the amount of the budget request.

The agreement would authorize a number of projects not included in the budget request. The Department of Energy (DOE) has identified these projects as unfunded and not included in the budget request but necessary to meet environmental cleanup commitments and requirements. Due to the uncertainty of the appropriations process for fiscal year 2009, the agreement would authorize these additional projects but offset the amount of the cost of the additional projects through the use of prior year balances. This will allow the DOE discretion and flexibility in implementing these additional projects should additional appropriated funds be available. In the event that additional funds are not available, the DOE would retain the flexibility to implement these projects with prior year balances, or through reprogramming actions should the decision be made to do so. We view implementation of the additional projects as being within the discretion of the Secretary.

Funding for these projects is authorized by site and by account. The increases for the sites and accounts are as follows: Fernald, $13.5 million; 2035 completion projects at the Hanford Site, $89.5 million; 2035 completion projects at the Hanford Site, $45.0 million; Idaho National Laboratory, $40.0 million; National Nuclear Security Administration (NNSA) sites $85.101, which includes $5.0 million for NNSA/SPRU, $10.0 million for Nevada, $3.0 million for Sandia National Laboratory, and $67.1 million for Los Alamos National Laboratory; Oak Ridge reservation, $25.0 million; Office of River Protection, $53.0 million; 2035 completion projects at the Savannah River Site, $58.5 million; Waste Isolation Pilot Project, $18.7 million; and safeguards and security at the Hanford Site, $8.2 million.

Other defense activities (sec. 3103)

The Senate bill contained a provision (sec. 3103) that would authorize $826.5 million for other defense activities, a decrease of $487.0 million.

The House bill contained a similar provision (sec. 3103) that would authorize $1.3 billion for other defense activities, an increase of $8.0 million.

The agreement includes the Senate provision.

The amount authorized is a decrease of $487.0 million from the amount of the budget request. We recommend: $446.9 million for health, safety, and security, the amount of the budget request; $186.0 million for legacy management, the amount of the request; $6.6 million for the Office of Hearings and Appeals; and $78.8 million for nuclear energy, a decrease of $487.0 million from the budget request. We recommend that the $487.0 million included in the budget request for other defense activities for the mixed oxide fuel fabrication facility be transferred to the National Nuclear Security Administration.

Defense nuclear waste disposal (sec. 3104)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3104) that would authorize $247.4 million for defense nuclear waste disposal, the amount of the budget request.

The Senate bill contained a similar provision (sec. 3104) that would authorize $197.4 million for defense nuclear waste disposal, a reduction of $50.0 million below the budget request.

The agreement includes the House provision with an amendment that would authorize $222.4 million for defense nuclear waste disposal, a reduction of $25.0 million below the budget request.

Energy security and assurance (sec. 3105)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3105) that would authorize $7.6 million for energy security and assurance at the Department of Energy.

The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision.

SUBTITLE B—PROGRAM AUTHORIZATIONS, RESTRICTIONS, AND LIMITATIONS

Modification of functions of Administrator for Nuclear Security to include elimination of surplus fissile materials usable for nuclear weapons (sec. 3111)

The Senate bill contained a provision (sec. 3111) that would amend section 2402(b)(1) of title 50, United States Code, by adding a new paragraph assigning responsibility for elimination of surplus fissile materials usable for nuclear weapons to the Administrator for Nuclear Security.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the Senate provision.

Limitation on funding for project 04-D-125 Chemistry and Metallurgy Research Replacement facility project, Los Alamos National Laboratory, Los Alamos, New Mexico (sec. 3112)

The House bill provided full funding for project 04-D-125, the chemistry and metallurgy research replacement (CMRR) facility project at the Department of Energy Los Alamos National Laboratory.

The Senate bill provided $50.2 million for CMRR, a reduction of $50.0 million from the budget request.

The agreement includes a provision that would authorize $100.2 million for the CMRR, the amount of the budget request, but would prohibit the Administrator of the National Nuclear Security Administration (NNSA) from obligating more than $50.2 million of the CMRR funding until 15 days after the Administrator and the Defense Nuclear Facilities Safety Board have each certified to the congressional defense committees that the issues associated with the design of the safety class systems at the CMRR and seismic related design issues have been resolved.

Nonproliferation and national security scholarship and fellowship program (sec. 3113)

The Senate bill contained a provision (sec. 3114) that would direct the Administrator of the National Nuclear Security Administration (NNSA) to establish a nonproliferation scholarship program. The scholarship program would be available to both undergraduate and graduate students in disciplines to be determined by the NNSA administrator. A student would be required to work as a Federal Government employee or as a laboratory employee for 1 year for each year that the student received support under the program.

The House bill contained a similar provision (sec. 3113(a)) that would establish a fellowship program for graduate students in nuclear chemistry.

The agreement includes the Senate provision with an amendment that would direct the NNSA Administrator to establish a scholarship program for nonproliferation and national security programs at the Department of Energy. The provision would authorize $3.0 million from funds available to the Administrator to be used for the scholarship program in fiscal year 2009.

There is concern that experts in certain technical areas critical to nonproliferation and national security programs, such as radio-chemistry, are increasingly difficult for the NNSA and the Department of Energy laboratories to attract and retain.

Enhancing nuclear forensics capabilities (sec. 3114)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3113) that would establish a fellowship program for graduate students in nuclear chemistry and direct the Administrator of the National Nuclear Security Administration (NNSA) to prepare and carry out a research and development plan to improve the speed and accuracy of nuclear forensics radiation measurement equipment. In addition, the provision would direct the Secretary of Energy to prepare a research and development plan to support technical forensics and attribution capabilities, including an international database on nuclear material to allow prompt attribution of material or weapons.

The provision would also amend the report on nuclear forensics capabilities required to be submitted by section 3129(b) of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2008 (Public Law 110-181) to include a requirement to identify any treaty, legislative, or regulatory actions needed to establish the international database. The provision would also direct the Secretary of Defense, in consultation with the Secretary of Energy and Homeland Security, to submit a report with respect to a nuclear forensics advisory panel.

The provision would also require a series of reports including, a report on the costs of the fellowship program; a research and development plan with the costs to implement the plan; a report on the research and development plan for technical capabilities to enhance forensics and attribution; and a report on the involvement of senior Executive Branch leadership in nuclear terrorism preparedness exercises.

The Senate bill contained a provision (sec. 3114) that would establish a nonproliferation scholarship and fellowship program.

The agreement includes the House provision with an amendment that would direct the Secretary of Energy to establish, prepare and implement a research and development plan to improve nuclear forensics capabilities in the Department of Energy (DOE) and at the DOE national laboratories. The Secretary of Energy should ensure that the House Committee on Science and Technology receives a copy of the report.

In addition, the amendment would amend the report on nuclear forensics capabilities required to be submitted by section 3129(b) of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2008 (Public Law 110-181) to include a requirement to identify any treaty, legislative, or regulatory actions needed to establish the international database.

The amendment would also direct the President to submit a report to the appropriate congressional committees on the involvement of senior level Executive Branch leadership in nuclear terrorism exercises including nuclear forensics analysis.

Elsewhere in the agreement there is a separate provision that would establish a scholarship and fellowship program for nonproliferation and national security.

Utilization of contributions to International Nuclear Materials Protection and Cooperation program and Russian plutonium Disposition program (sec. 3115)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3111) that would establish the authority of the Secretary of Energy, in consultation with the Secretary of State, to enter into agreements with any person, including a foreign government or entity, which the Secretary of Energy considers appropriate, to accept funds to assist with the disposition of excess Russian plutonium as part of the Russian Plutonium Disposition program. Contributed funds would be maintained in a separate account in the Treasury, and would be returned to the donor if not used in 5 years. The provision would also require the Secretary of Energy to submit a report on the receipt and use of funds. The authority provided in the provision would terminate on December 31, 2013.

The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the House provision with an amendment that would modify existing authority that allows the Department of Energy (DOE) to accept contributions for other nonproliferation programs to allow DOE to accept contributions for the Russian Plutonium Disposition Program and for the International Nuclear Materials Protection and Cooperation Program. The DOE authority to accept contributions for these nonproliferation programs would expire on December 31, 2015.

Review of and reports on Global Initiatives for Proliferation Prevention program (sec. 3116)

The Senate bill contained a provision (sec. 3115) that would direct the Administrator of the National Nuclear Security Administration (NNSA) to conduct a review of the Global Initiatives for Proliferation Prevention (GIPP) program and submit a report on the review to the congressional defense committees no later than February 1, 2009.

The report would include a description of the goals for the GIPP program and the criteria for partnership projects together with recommendations regarding the future of projects in Russia and the other countries of the former Soviet Union as well as plans for projects in countries other than the former Soviet Union. In addition, the report would include a plan for completing all projects in the countries of the former Soviet Union by 2012.

The provision would also restrict funds associated with the Global Nuclear Energy Partnership (GNEP).

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The agreement includes the Senate provision with an amendment that would change the due date of the report to October 1, 2009, and that would require a plan and criteria for completing all partnership projects under the program, not just in the countries of the former Soviet Union. In addition, recognizing that each country has different needs and presents different opportunities for partnerships, the agreement does not include a deadline by which projects have to be completed.

The GNEP funding restriction is addressed in a separate provision.

We appreciate the GIPP program information recently provided by the NNSA and the NNSA efforts to continue to strengthen the management, implementation and oversight of the program. This additional attention and oversight by the NNSA will ensure that the GIPP program achieves its intended nonproliferation objectives, and will address the concerns the Government Accountability Office has raised about the GIPP program. We also are encouraged that NNSA is reducing unobligated and uncosted balances in GIPP program funding and will re-baseline the program by December 2008 as part of its Strategic Plan.

Limitation on availability of funds for Global Nuclear Energy Partnership (sec. 3117)

The Senate bill contained a provision (sec. 3115(c)) that would prohibit funds authorized to be appropriated for defense nuclear nonproliferation and available for use in the Global Initiatives for Proliferation Prevention program from being used to support the Global Nuclear Energy Partnership (GNEP).

The House bill contained no similar provision. House Report 110-652 did not support using any defense nuclear nonproliferation funds for GNEP.

The agreement includes the Senate provision with an amendment that would allow no more than $3.0 million of the funds authorized to be appropriated by section 3101(a)(2) for defense nuclear nonproliferation to be used for projects specifically designed for the GNEP. None of the $3.0 million amount shall be obligated until 30 days after the Administrator of the National Nuclear Security Administration (NNSA) submits to Congress a report describing in detail the amount proposed to be used for GNEP and the specific activities that would be funded.

The agreement specifies that the $3.0 million is available to be used for nonproliferation risk assessments relating to the GNEP and related work on export control reviews.

The DBT establishes the physical security requirements for each DOE site. This report would be a follow-on report to the 2006 DBT report, which laid out a plan for each site to either be compliant by 2008 or obtain a waiver. The provision would also direct the Secretary to conduct an assessment of the 2005 DBT and to identify any necessary modifications, updates, or revisions to the 2005 DBT. Vol. 154

No. 151

Senate

(Legislative day of Wednesday, September 17, 2008)

The Senate met at 10 a.m., on the expiration of the recess, and was called to order by the Honorable JON TESTER, a Senator from the State of Montana.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Dr. Barry C. Black, offered the following prayer:

Let us pray.

Almighty God, You alone are the sovereign of our beloved Nation. We need You. Our Nation needs You.

Bring unity to this Chamber today. Lord, we don't ask for uniformity but for true unity with its bountiful diversity. Give our Senators unity like the symphony with its variety of instruments, its different notes which produce grand harmonies. Give them the unity of the tapestry with its traces of every color woven into one masterful design. Give them a unity that honors differences but out of which comes the synthesis of truth and action that best meets the needs of our Nation and world.

We pray in the Name of Him who was incarnate love. Amen.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE

The Honorable JON TESTER led the Pledge of Allegiance, as follows:

I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

RECOGNITION OF THE MAJORITY LEADER

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The majority leader is recognized.

SCHEDULE

Mr. REID. Mr. President, when we finish leader time, we are going to proceed to a period of morning business to allow Senators to speak for up to 10 minutes each. The minority will control the first half hour, the majority the second 30 minutes. Following morning business, we will proceed to the consideration of H.R. 6049, the tax extenders legislation. There is an order that has been entered that we will finish that legislation today.

We have been in discussion with the Republicans, and it is to everyone's best interest to not have any votes before the noontime caucuses, the reason being, at 9:30 a.m., a hearing started in the Banking Committee. Secretary Paulson and Chairman Bernanke are there. The full committee will be there. They will all want to ask some questions. I believe this hearing will not finish before lunchtime. There has been word it might even go on after lunch. We will wait and see what Chairman DODD and Ranking Member SHELBY come up with in that regard.

We are going to finish this legislation. We hope we can complete most all the debate this morning and start voting this afternoon. I hope that, in fact, is the case.

The House is going to take up the continuing resolution tonight. I think they are going to file it tonight, and I think they are going to try to waive the 48-hour rule and have that vote maybe as early as tomorrow. That is on the CR. We also expect to be receiving an economic recovery package from them shortly.

THE ECONOMY

With the financial crisis facing this country today, we are all waiting to see what happens in the Banking Committee. Everyone is a Monday morning quarterback. We have former Speaker GINGRICH who is stating Senator MCCAIN should not support this legislation, it would be wrong to do that. We are just going to wait and see.

I think everyone has been convinced that we have a financial crisis on our hands. The question is, What do we do about it? I cannot speak for everyone on this side of the aisle, but we think there should be something done as quickly as possible. Does that mean tomorrow? No, I don't think so. It means we should be deliberate in what we do but certain that what we are doing is the right thing to do.

There has been certain agreement. There has to be something done about executive compensations. The American people are demanding that. That is what is happening, in all the calls to my office. Certainly all of the Senators would say the same. There has to be some way of recouping some of these moneys the Government is paying to buy these bad loans so that there is some ownership in it from the Federal Government if money is made on these, and taxpayers should be compensated. There is a question that the original proposal had language in it that would have allowed foreign banks to be, in effect, taken care of. The American people are concerned about that.

We are waiting for the hearing. There may be reasons for the very short proposal the administration sent to us. Maybe that is all that should happen. But if people are getting the same message I am, there is going to have to be some changes. We believe this should be done on a bipartisan basis, that it should be done in keeping with the emergency we have before us.

In effect, I am saying let's wait until the hearings are over. Hopefully, at that time, the two banking chairs, with their ranking members, FRANK and DODD, can point us in the right direction so we can complete this legislation in a reasonable period of time.

I will also indicate to the minority that I am ready to move forward on the consent agreements regarding the Coburn matters.

What I have been told is Senator BOND is going to speak for—how long? Mr. BOND. Maybe 15 minutes.

Mr. REID. What I will do, Mr. President, is I will wait until Senator BOND has completed his statement. I see the Republican leader is here. I ask unanimous consent that following the remarks of Senator MCCONNELL and any that I wish to make, Senator BOND be recognized for 15 minutes and then, following his statement, I be recognized to do my business with Dr. COBURN.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

RECOGNITION OF THE MINORITY LEADER

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Republican leader is recognized.

TAX EXTENDERS

Mr. MCCONNELL. Mr. President, the taxpayer can claim a major accomplishment today. At a time of high economic anxiety, this tax relief extension bill we will be voting on later today encourages greater energy independence and delivers much needed relief to job creators across the country and ensures a much smaller tax bill for millions of American families.

The Senate had been deadlocked on the provisions contained in this bill for a number of months, but in the end, Senators on both sides of the aisle shut out the partisan rancor of the Presidential election, hammered out a compromise, and delivered. The result is a tribute to all the Senators and many staffers on both sides who worked so hard to get us to this point.

This legislation does a number of good things:

It blocks the alternative minimum tax from hitting about 20 million middle-class American families, including 137,000 in Kentucky, from an average tax hike of about $2,000, and it doesn't raise taxes to do it.

It helps American families who are struggling to cover the high cost of a college education by giving single parents and married couples a deduction of between $2,000 and $4,000 for college tuition payments through 2009.

Teachers will continue to get a valuable deduction for educational expenses.

Research and development, the heart of future growth, is also encouraged.

At a time of record-high energy prices, this bill contains a number of incentives for increasing the use of clean energy and decreasing our dependence on Middle East oil. It extends a tax credit for companies that produce renewable energy from wind, solar, and biomass. Domestic carmakers get a new tax credit for investing in plug-in electric cars and trucks. Families that build energy-efficient homes will see substantial savings on their utility bills when they buy energy-efficient freezers, dishwashers, and other energy-efficient, common household appliances. And refineries that process shale or tar sands will also see help—a critical new step in expanding domestic energy exploration and development.

From a Kentucky standpoint, I recently met with a group of business leaders from west Kentucky who are pursuing a coal-to-liquids refinery in Paducah that could lead to more than 1,100 new jobs for Kentuckians. They viewed extension of the expiring tax incentives for refinery construction as an incredible economic development tool and an important step toward energy independence by using abundant Kentucky coal. And I was happy to help.

Taken together, the tax extenders in this bill amount to more than $100 billion in tax relief for America's workers and job-creating businesses, and they provide much needed certainties for a nation that has faced enough uncertainty in recent weeks by ensuring that this relief stays in place through next year.

This bill was not easy to complete. Both sides had to make major concessions to get a good result. But this is how the Senate works. With this bill, it worked very well, and both sides can take credit. This tax relief will help the American people at a moment when they can truly use the help.

Mr. President, I yield the floor.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The majority leader.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, this will be the ninth vote we have had on the tax extenders as relates to renewable energy. There have been compromises made. I say to my good friend the Republican leader, one of the provisions I don't like in the bill is the coal-to-liquids. I wish it were not in there, but it is. I have been here long enough to understand that to get legislation passed, there have to be compromises made. I hope when this matter goes to the House of Representatives that they will take the seriousness of how difficult it has been for us to get this legislation passed.

My friend talked about the importance of these tax credits for renewable energy. It is very important. But also there is another tranche that is extremely important, and that is the extenders for the business community. We have done something that has not been done in a long time. We have them for 2 years. This is a big step forward for the business community, and it is a step forward that is very important.

I say to my friends on the other side of the Capitol, in the House: Don't send us back something else. We cannot get it passed. If they try to mess with our package, it will come back here, it will die, and we will have snatched defeat from the jaws of victory. It would be a terrible shame that we would not be able to pass this legislation after having, for example, nine votes on the energy tax renewables. So I say to my friends in the House, Democrats and Republicans: Rise up and accept this because our procedures are different from the House. We can claim a victory for the American people by getting this done. And I hope we will have a resounding vote. I am confident we will on this legislation today.

RESERVATION OF LEADER TIME

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Under the previous order, the leadership time is reserved.

MORNING BUSINESS

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Under the previous order, there will now be a period for the transaction of morning business for 60 minutes, with Senators permitted to speak for up to 10 minutes each, with the time equally divided and controlled by the two leaders or their designees, with the first half of the time under control of the Republicans and the second half of the time under control of the majority.

The Senator from Missouri.

THE ECONOMY

Mr. BOND. Mr. President, I thank our leaders and the members of the relevant committees for coming up with the extenders package. That is good news. But I come here today to talk about some very difficult news this country is facing, and that is our country's financial crisis.

We have heard lots of people who are very much concerned about the details and why we are doing it. As the majority leader announced, this is being addressed in the Senate Banking Committee today by Secretary Paulson and others. He also noted that the former Speaker of the House has come out and said there is no rush; that we don't need to deal with this expeditiously. We do need to deal with this. We need to deal with this because the credit markets are frozen, the stock market is tanking, and the financial system is facing a stone age.

Now, this doesn't just affect some well-known companies on Wall Street and in major areas, it affects every one of us in our personal finances, in our jobs, and in our homes. It is a question of if we go to the ATM, will we get money out? If we have a home mortgage, can we get it refinanced? Could we get a new mortgage? If you are a small business, can you roll over your credits? If you are a farmer, can you get your operating loans for the next year? If you are an employee, can your business get the money it needs through the financial system to keep your job going or even to create new jobs?

We must respond to this financial crisis quickly, but we also must respond responsibly. We should not just throw money at the problem. We must also demand increased accountability, increased oversight, and increased transparency so the taxpayers and our financial system are never put in this position again.

Back in Missouri this weekend, and on the telephone since, I have heard from seniors worried about their retirement accounts, parents worried about their children's college savings, families worried about their checking accounts, and small businesses and homeowners worried about their mortgages. Folks across the Nation are worried about what this financial crisis means to their financial security. Missourians are worried about how this crisis on Wall Street is hitting hard on Main Street and throughout the State, from cities to farms to homes. They want to know the job loss hitting Wall Street traders will not cripple small-town job sites, the city workplaces, and homes across the State.

But they also wish to know that the politicians, the elected officials, are protecting their tax dollars and not just bailing out those who made bad decisions with no consequences. Folks at home face accountability every day. At home, if you screw up and lose a lot of money, you lose your job. And you certainly don't get paid to leave. At home, when people make mistakes, you don't throw a lot of money at them and not ask for anything in return or no change in their ways. We need to come together to end this crisis but also to make sure it does not happen again.

Last week, I spoke on the Senate floor and asked my colleagues to do that, to come together and work in a bipartisan way for American families during this financial crisis. There are long-term remedies and changes we must make. I don't know if we can get them done because right now the fire departments have called on us for more flame retardant, and we need to move to provide the flame retardant to stop this crisis from raging across the country.

As soon as we do that, however, we need to change the other aspects of the regulatory system that allowed this blaze to get out of control. Now, some of that was mandated by Congress; some of it was a failure to exercise oversight; some of it was judgments made a long time ago which turned out not to work in these critical times. But it is absolutely essential we come together on this measure and work with bipartisan cooperation and understanding and communicating with our constituents. It is critical that Americans see Democrats and Republicans avoid the "blame game" and, instead, work toward solutions.

We are seeing that happening already. Secretary Paulson is working with congressional leaders of both parties on his plan. He is testifying before the Senate Banking Committee right now. In addition to bipartisan cooperation, this crisis demands the action be bold and swift.

I believe the free market system is the best in the world, but it must have reasonable regulation. There are times when we must take temporary emergency action to get us through the rare crisis. This is one of those rare moments. This is an emergency crisis. On Friday, Treasury Secretary Paulson proposed bold action. Since his announcement, we have been getting details about the administration's plan to stabilize the financial and housing systems now in crisis and get at the root causes of the problem. The plan outlines a change from the ad hoc process we have been seeing to a comprehensive systematic approach. I agree we need a bold and comprehensive plan to get to the heart of the problem and get the economy back on its feet so it can again start growing and creating jobs for the American people as soon as possible. At the same time, a bold plan is not enough. We must also have a responsible plan. We cannot just throw money at this problem. Any plan that Congress adopts must ensure accountability, oversight, and transparency. It is our responsibility as elected officials to demand accountability so we do not reward those who made bad decisions.

It is our responsibility as elected officials to demand greater oversight so the taxpayers and the overall economy are protected. It is our responsibility as elected officials to demand transparency so people can have trust in our financial system and know their money is safe.

That is why I am preparing amendments to increase taxpayer protection. These protections should be a larger part of the Treasury Secretary's mandate. I am working on amendments that increase accountability by giving the Secretary specific powers to reduce executive compensation and eliminate golden parachutes. We did it in the Fannie Mae bailout and we can do it again.

We need to give the Secretary the power to take some equity in the bailed-out firms. We not only need to take the toxic paper off their hands—in what I trust will be below-market value for which we can sell the paper—but we need to take some equity so, if our infusion works, as I believe it must, and the company grows, we as taxpayers will get a return on that equity. American families should not have to pay fat bonus checks for failed CEOs and golden parachutes, and it should not expect bailed-out firms to be giving obscene executive compensation.

I also am preparing an amendment to increase transparency. We need to increase disclosure requirements for mortgage-backed securities and related derivatives so we are not again caught by surprise. As I said last week, we need to make sure all mortgage originators are appropriately regulated. Right now, we regulate the banks and the savings and loans but not the people who offer loans outside those institutions. They need to be regulated. If firms refuse to participate voluntarily in the program we pass in the Congress, then we need to consider giving the Secretary the power to resolve those bad situations and not let them linger for another round of crisis.

Now, there has been talk—and there will be plenty more—about the need to pass a clean rescue package. But once again I say we need to act quickly, and we shall act quickly, but there is plenty of time to take a day and consider these types of amendments. We cannot write a $700 billion blank check, hand it over to unelected officials and not ask for any accountability. I believe if we do this properly, the cost will be far less.

I heard a commentator on CNBC saying yesterday that if they do it right, the taxpayer may even gain a little bit of money for it. Don't count on that. But if we do it properly, if the Treasury sets up a system where they have the appropriate people contracted out under strict oversight, with accountability and incentives to take these failed mortgages at below the value of the underlying homes—not the market value, which may be zero—and then resell them and also take a slice of the equity of the firm from which they acquire those loans, then the price should be many times less than $700 billion. We have to do that, but we must act now.

We must act boldly to protect the economy, to protect our homes, our jobs, and our communities throughout the Nation. We must protect Americans' bank accounts, savings accounts, and retirement plans. We also must protect the taxpayer. I urge my colleagues to work in a bipartisan way, to come together on a sound plan, and to do it as quickly as we can. Don't rush it so much that we don't include the oversight, the accountability, and transparency. Include those elements and get it done now.

I yield the floor, and I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. COBURN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

LEARNING ECONOMIC LESSONS

Mr. COBURN. Mr. President, I spent 8½ hours yesterday trying to get back here, and I understand during a period of that time my name was mentioned rather prominently several times on the floor, which is fine. I know Senator REID is going to come out in a little bit and offer some unanimous consent requests, which I am certainly open to considering, but we just got the language on those and so we will be looking at that. I will be objecting until I get a chance to see what changes have been made, and I look forward to working with Senator REID.

But I think this whole debate about 35 bills and $10 billion is a great lesson for us. We stand right now as a nation on a fault line that has created a lack of confidence in the financial system in this country—and not just in this country but in the world as well. While we are facing what is being requested by the head of the Federal Reserve, the Treasury, and the administration—a task of trying to reestablish confidence and liquidity in our markets—we have failed to learn the lesson. The lesson is this: We cannot continue to indiscriminately create more Government without making the Government we have efficient.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The majority leader is recognized.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, regular order. The regular order was I was to have the floor when Senator BOND finished.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The majority leader is correct.

ADVANCING AMERICA'S PRIORITIES ACT

Mr. REID. Mr. President, yesterday we started a process of trying to clear bills and passing matters. Prior to that, to remind everyone, 34 bills have been held up by Senator COBURN, held up for months. We have tried to work with him and it has borne no fruit. I want everyone here to understand that Senator COBURN may have been the person objecting to these pieces of legislation passing, but the Republicans are complicit in this because they have joined with him in blocking these bills. He could not do this alone. They have joined with him in doing this. So people who go back to their constituency and say they are in favor of all these pieces of legislation are not leveling with their constituents. I repeat, Senator COBURN may have been the person who made the objection, but we have attempted to move forward. He has been joined by his Republican colleagues. Every Democrat, of course, is in favor of moving these pieces of legislation, even though they are Republican bills. We believe, for the good of the people, you don't identify a good piece of legislation by whether it is a Democrat or Republican sponsoring it; you identify it as to the merits of that piece of legislation.

Again, to recap, the legislation contains 34 bills with broad bipartisan support that have been held up by Senator COBURN, who obviously thinks he knows better than the House of Representatives—by the way, these bills were passed overwhelmingly; the average vote is 370—that he knows more than the committees that reported these bills out, both in the House and the Senate, and he knows better than the whole Senate, since he will not give us simple votes on these bills. I repeat, he has been joined by his Republican colleagues in the obstructionism.

I tried to get the whole block passed yesterday. I tried to move to different sections—there are seven different sections—and there was an objection made on behalf of Senator COBURN to each of those. With a few things on our plate; that is, the financial crisis facing this country, trying to complete a funding resolution to get us through this beginning of the next fiscal year, an economic recovery package—we have a lot to do. Because of that, I did not have the ability, again, to file cloture. It takes 2 days to vote on a motion to proceed, 30 hours; get on the bill, file cloture, 2 more days, 30 hours. We didn't have time to do that. But we are going to continue working on these next Congress. If we come back after this weekend—which is looking more every day as though we are going to have to—we can consider moving forward on these pieces of legislation at that time.

We are going to do what we can to get these extremely important pieces of legislation passed. I again say, each one of these bills overwhelmingly passed the House of Representatives. Each one of these bills has been reported out of the Senate committee. We are going to see if any of these will get the approval of the Republicans today.

We were told yesterday by Republican Senate staff that maybe there are other Republican Senators who are using Senator COBURN as a foil, using him as somebody to do the blocking, so we will see. Yesterday it was interesting, the junior Senator from Arizona said there are 8 bills we could clear—8 out of 34, not very good, but 8 is a lot better than nothing. Within a few seconds after I agreed to that, well, he said, maybe three. I tried to pin him down to three. He said you will have to wait until Dr. COBURN shows up.

I hope everyone is beginning to see a clearer picture of this obstructionism.

Also understand this: Not a single piece of legislation will cost the American people 10 cents—nothing, not a penny, because they are all authorizations. They allow the appropriations committees to take a look at these pieces of legislation. There are a lot of pieces of legislation that pass that give authorization and then there have to be priorities set by the Budget Committee, sometimes the Finance Committee, and the Appropriations Committee, to find out which priorities should exist.

The authorizations do not cost the American taxpayers anything; nothing; zero. That is why I was stunned when I got a letter from the Senator from Oklahoma saying you strike $10 billion in authorizations from these bills and then when the bills come forward you make an amendment to put it back in.

I haven't gone to medical school, but I know that is illogical. We are not going to offer consent requests on each bill in this package because we have been told in no uncertain terms by Senator COBURN that he will not accept that. Right now we have to deal with him. So I am going to start on a couple of titles and see what progress, if any, we make today. As I have said, we are not going to give up on the rest of the important pieces of legislation. But because the Republicans have supported Senator COBURN, that is where we are. I repeat, even though he is the person out front, the Republicans, the Republican caucus is responsible for this.

I disagree with Dr. COBURN on his concerns about authorizations. I think he is wrong, but he has a right to his opinion and I accept that. But my disappointment is his Republican colleagues are supporting him. I do not think that is going to continue.

We do not know what is going to be the status next year, but I hope there will be fewer of them and more of us and maybe that will lessen some of the intransigence we have seen on the other side. I am happy to continue discussion with Senator COBURN's office which, frankly, we found basically has been a big waste of time, but we will continue to do that. I have tried to be patient and I will continue to do that so I hope we can get something done.

The first title of this package deals with health care. This title consists of very important bills covering a range of diseases and conditions. I venture to say that every American and every family in America has been touched by some portion of the health care provisions in this package. The health care provisions in this package include the ALS Registry Act and the Christopher and Dana Reeve Paralysis Act. That piece of legislation is interesting. Christopher Reeve, Superman, who was badly injured in a horse accident, and his wonderful wife Dana, who was so supportive through his very difficult life, are both dead. As young people they are both dead, even though there is legislation that has been introduced and we tried to pass in their honor. They are both dead.

The STOP Stroke Act—I don't think there is a family in America who has not been affected by stroke in some way.

The Legislation also contains the Melanie Blocker Stokes MOTHERS

Act, which focuses on postpartum depression, which now is more easily diagnosed, and they are looking for ways to lessen the burden that people who have postpartum depression have and the Vision Care for Kids Act and the Prenatally and Postnatally Diagnosed Conditions Awareness Act.

Three of the six bills in the health care package were introduced by Republicans. All these bills passed the House with extremely strong bipartisan support. Eighty-five percent of the people in the House of Representatives voted for these pieces of legislation. That is the average. Of course, the same over here. We have bipartisan support. But procedurally Republicans have supported Senator COBURN.

UNANIMOUS-CONSENT REQUEST— H.R. 1727

Mr. REID. First, let's take a look at the Christopher and Dana Reeve Paralysis Act, one key provision that has been obstructed. It is an important piece of legislation dealing with paralysis. This legislation would support and enhance cooperation in paralysis research, rehabilitation, and quality of life programs for people with paralysis. It authorizes grants and research funding for clinical rehabilitation of paralysis. The bill has been languishing on the Senate calendar for well more than a year and, I repeat, passed the House with extremely broad bipartisan support.

Dr. COBURN's office has indicated on several occasions that, OK, let's pass this. But we have heard that before.

I ask unanimous consent that the HELP Committee be discharged from further consideration of H.R. 1727, the Christopher and Dana Reeve Paralysis Act, and the Senate proceed to its consideration, that the bill be read a third time, passed, the motion to reconsider be laid upon the table, and there be no intervening action or debate.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there objection?

Mr. COBURN. Reserving the right to object, will the Senate majority leader yield for a question?

Mr. REID. Of course.

Mr. COBURN. You sent over some 20 or 30 bills to our side. Is this one of those bills and has there been any change in what we have since our discussions?

Mr. REID. This is the exact language from the House of Representatives.

Mr. COBURN. Pending the time we get to review all of that, I will gladly accept a unanimous consent but, reserving the right to object, I will object at this time until I have a chance to look at the bills. They were given to us less than 20 minutes ago and we wish an opportunity to look at that. The majority leader has my word I will not object if that is the case.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I say to my friend, he has had more than a year to look at this. It is the exact bill from the House. Fine. Take a look at it. We will come back again.

UNANIMOUS-CONSENT REQUEST— S. 1810

Mr. REID. Another bill in this package is extremely important. This bill will help ensure pregnant women and new mothers of babies with prenatal conditions will get information and support services to help prepare them for the challenges and rewards of their children.

I ask unanimous consent the Senate proceed to Calendar No. 457, S. 1810, that all after the enacting clause be stricken, that an amendment at the desk consisting of subtitle (f) of title I of S. 3297 be inserted in lieu thereof, the amendment be considered and agreed to, the bill as amended be read a third time and passed, and the motions to reconsider be laid upon the table, with no intervening action or debate. The two sponsors of this legislation, Senators BROWNBACK and KENNEDY, are in favor of what we have done with the amendment that is at the desk.

I have made this amendment available to everybody for some time.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there objection?

Mr. COBURN. Reserving the right to object, after looking at what was sent over this morning, if there was no change to it, I will not object. Pending that, I object at this time.

UNANIMOUS-CONSENT REQUEST— S. 1382

Mr. REID. Mr. President, now we turn to another important piece of legislation. This is what we mentioned earlier, the Lou Gehrig's disease legislation. The bill would build upon, expand, and coordinate among pre-existing ALS registries, helping to collect data essential to the study of this dread disease.

The reason this is important is the average time from discovering a person has Lou Gehrig's disease until they die is 16 months. Time is of the essence.

The bill would create a Federal advisory committee on the national ALS Registry and promote research access to ALS data. The bill passed the House 411 to 3 a year ago. Both House and Senate committees marked the bill up with bipartisan support. Senator COBURN said he wanted some changes made so we have made those changes. Each change he told us he wanted we have made. Then he asked for an additional change and we made that. Now we have made extensive changes to the bill to accommodate the concerns Senator COBURN said he had with the bill, so I hope we can get it passed.

I ask unanimous consent that the Senate proceed to Calendar No. 518, the ALS Registry Act, that all after the enacting clause be stricken, the amendment at the desk consisting of the compromise amendment based on the language of subtitle (a) of title I of S. 3297 be inserted, that the amendment be considered and agreed to and the bill, as amended, be read a third time, passed, and the motions to reconsider be laid on the table, with no intervening action or debate.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there objection?

Mr. COBURN. Reserving the right to object, again, after looking at this, if what the majority leader said is accurate, I plan on supporting this. But until I have had a chance to read what was sent over this morning—I will object until that time.

UNANIMOUS-CONSENT REQUEST— H.R. 507

Mr. REID. Mr. President, this is the Vision Care for Kids Act. What this would do is ensure that children get the vision care they need to succeed in school.

I think most everybody knows I was born in a little town and raised in a little town—no doctors, no hospital. I was born in a house, not in a hospital.

When I went away to high school, which is also a fairly small high school, I was a baseball catcher on the baseball team. When we would move inside to the gym when the weather was very bad, which was not very often in Nevada, and I would be catching, I had trouble picking up the ball. But I thought it was that way for everybody. I thought other people had trouble seeing the ball. It was not until I was a freshman in college that somebody said: You must not be able to see very well. And so as a freshman in college I got a pair of glasses. I will never forget it. I came back to my dormitory; I had never seen green on the hills. I did not know things looked that way. But with my glasses, I could see it was green now. Now I know why I could not see the ball.

That is what this is all about, so kids like me have an opportunity maybe to be able to see with glasses or whatever it takes to improve their eyesight. Is this bill going to solve all of those problems? No, but it certainly would help. It would establish a program through the Centers for Disease Control to complement and encourage existing State efforts to improve children's vision care.

I am not suggesting to anyone that I was blind. I just didn't see very well, and I didn't know that. I thought everybody was like me. But can you imagine how—I can imagine. I was there. I know. I came home, and I could not believe it. I called my friends: Look, it is green over there.

I ask unanimous consent that the HELP Committee be discharged from further consideration of H.R. 507 and the Senate proceed to its immediate consideration; that the bill be read a third time, passed, and the motion to reconsider be laid on the table, with no intervening action or debate.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there objection?

Mr. COBURN. This bill has never been before the HELP Committee. It has never had a hearing in the Senate. There has been no discharge of this from the committee. We have never even voted on this bill. With that, I plan on objecting until I see exactly what has been offered by the majority leader later today.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, this exact language passed the House. This is a Republican bill, Senator BOND. My friend is right, it did not go through the committee. I think Senator BOND is right by being the chief advocate over here. Maybe he can help us with Senator COBURN. But the same thing we had before, it passed overwhelmingly. Maybe after he looks at it, he will allow it to pass later on.

UNANIMOUS-CONSENT REQUEST—
S. 1375

Mr. REID. I want to make a couple of other efforts here. The Melanie Blocker Stokes MOTHERS Act will help provide support services to women suffering from postpartum depression and psychosis and will also help educate mothers and their families about these conditions. It will support research into the causes, diagnosis, and treatments for postpartum depression. This is something Senator MENENDEZ and others feel extremely strongly about. This matter passed the House of Representatives 382 to 3. Senator COBURN repeatedly blocked the Senate HELP Committee action on the Senate companion bill.

I ask unanimous consent that the HELP Committee be discharged of S. 1375; that the Senate immediately proceed to S. 1375; that all after the enacting clause be stricken and that an amendment at the desk consisting of the text of subtitle (d) of title I of S. 3297 be inserted in lieu thereof; that the amendment be considered, agreed to; the bill, as amended, be read a third time and passed; and a motion to reconsider be laid on the table, with no intervening action or debate.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there objection?

Mr. COBURN. I object.

UNANIMOUS-CONSENT REQUEST—
H.R. 477

Mr. REID. The next bill I wish to seek unanimous consent on is the STOP Stroke Act. The Cochran-Kennedy STOP Stroke Act will help establish comprehensive systems of stroke care in health care settings and improve the education of first responders to ensure that patients presenting with signs or symptoms of a stroke will receive the highest quality care. The legislation was approved unanimously by the House in 2002. In the last year, it has been approved by voice votes in the Senate and House committees and on the House floor.

I ask unanimous consent that the Senate HELP Committee be discharged of H.R. 477; the Senate immediately proceed to the bill; that the bill be read a third time, passed, the motion to reconsider be laid on the table, and that there be no intervening action or debate.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. COBURN. Reserving the right to object, five different Government agencies already have significant programs in that. This bill does not eliminate any of those, make improvements in those, just lays a layer of bureaucracy on top of that. With that, I object.

UNANIMOUS-CONSENT REQUEST—
H.R. 4120

Mr. REID. Mr. President, we are now moving to title II in the Advancing America's Priorities Act, which was a set of Judiciary Committee bills blocked by Senator COBURN and supported by the Republicans. The bills Senator COBURN blocked included the Emmett Till Unsolved Civil Rights Crime Act, to help solve unsolved civil rights-era crimes; the Mentally Ill Offender Treatment and Crime Reduction Reauthorization and Improvement Act; the reauthorization of the successful Drug Endangered Children Program, to help kids who are victims of the drug trade; the PROTECT Our Children Act, to stop dangerous Internet child predators, molesters, and pornographers.

Each of these bills passed the House with broad bipartisan support. Of course they have broad bipartisan support here. Procedurally, we have been blocked because of Senator COBURN, and being procedurally supported by his Republican colleagues. I hope we can pass some of these.

Let's talk about the child pornography prosecution bills. These bills will increase the penalties for child pornography and change the criminal law to make it easier to convict these people. It is amazing that they have been blocked for so long. Hopefully we can get them completed. We have combined them into a single bill to speed enactment. I hope we are clear on these.

I ask unanimous consent that H.R. 4120 be discharged from the Judiciary Committee; that the Senate immediately proceed to the bill; that all after the enacting clause be stricken and an amendment at the desk consisting of text of subtitles (d) and (e) of title II of S. 3297 be inserted in lieu thereof; that the amendment be considered and agreed to, the bill as amended be read a third time and passed, and the motions to reconsider be laid upon the table with no intervening action or debate.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there objection?

Mr. COBURN. Reserving the right to object, a question for the majority leader: Is this bill similar to what we had discussed in our negotiations and does it, in fact, include the SAFE Act or not?

Mr. REID. This is not the PROTECT Act. These are on child pornography. This is not the PROTECT Act.

Mr. CORNYN. Pending looking at what the majority leader sent over, on our side we look forward to supporting that, should it be as represented by the majority leader. Reserving the right to object, I will object at this time until we have a chance to look at that.

UNANIMOUS-CONSENT REQUEST—
H.R. 1199

Mr. REID. Another bill in the Judiciary Committee title package was a bill that reauthorized the Drug Endangered Children Program. There may be families who have not been affected by drugs in some way. It may not be their immediate family. It may be some distant family members, it could be neighbors. But my nephew died of a drug overdose. He had a problem from his time as a teenager until he died at the age of 38 or so. There is a terrible problem with illegal drugs; it leaves many victims. Many are innocent children who are found in homes, hotels, automobiles. My nephew died in a sleazy motel. Among those are innocent children who are found, as I have indicated, in homes, hotels, automobiles, and apartments where all kinds of illegal substances are produced.

The product that is causing so much problem now is meth, methamphetamine. This bipartisan bill would authorize the Department of Justice to award $20 million per year—remember, this authorizes it—in grants designated to improve coordination among law enforcement, prosecutors, child protection services, social service agencies, and health care providers to help transition these drug-endangered children into safe residential environments.

I ask unanimous consent that the Judiciary Committee be discharged from further consideration of H.R. 1199 and the Senate proceed to its immediate consideration; that the bill be read a third time and passed and the motion to reconsider be laid on the table; that there be no intervening action or debate.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there objection?

Mr. COBURN. I would object pending our review of the legislation.

UNANIMOUS-CONSENT REQUEST—
H.R. 293

Mr. REID. One of the bills in this package that has been languishing for well over a year—and I think it is shameful that is, in fact, the case—is the Emmett Till Unsolved Civil Rights Crime Act.

Emmett Till was a 14-year-old boy from Chicago visiting his relatives in Money, MS, way back in 1955 when he was brutally mutilated and killed for whistling at a white woman. Remember, his courageous mother, wanting everyone to see the brutality of how her boy was killed, had an open casket. That open casket said it all.

The killers in this case, like so many others during that time, were never punished for their violent, treacherous acts. However, by passing this Emmett Till Unsolved Civil Rights Crimes Act, the Justice Department will have the tools necessary to investigate and prosecute violations of the civil rights statutes in which the alleged violation occurred before January 1 of 1970 and resulted in death.

The bill has broad bipartisan support. I hope we can pass the House-passed bill. That way, the bill will be signed by the President immediately.

I ask unanimous consent that the Senate proceed to Calendar No. 237, H.R. 293, that the bill be read a third time and passed, and the motion to reconsider be laid on the table with no intervening action or debate.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mrs. McCASKILL.) Is there objection?

Mr. COBURN. Reserving the right to object, I have a question for the majority leader. I understood from your statement that this does not have any of the changes we talked about, this is strictly the House-passed bill.

Mr. REID. That is right.

Mr. COBURN. Reserving the right to object further, we will relook at what that is. I will object at this time and hope we can work out with the majority leader what we had discussed earlier in terms of a compromise.

UNANIMOUS-CONSENT REQUEST— S. 1738

Mr. REID. Madam President, again, as has happened during this long process where these bills have languished, we keep getting suggestions for changes. We make them, and it does not make any difference. And last night, again, Senator COBURN suggested a change. We certainly can go along with that. We will make the change, send it over to you, and take a look at it.

I want to take a minute to talk about another one of the 34 pieces of legislation that is so important. Its name is "PROTECT Our Children Act," or the PROTECT Act. This bill seeks to increase the prosecution of individuals producing and trading in child pornography by providing funding to the Internet Crimes Against Children Task Force.

The Crimes Against Children Task Force has developed the ability to identify individuals in the online distribution of child pornography but lacks the manpower needed to pursue and prosecute the offenders. This bill would give the Crimes Against Children Task Force the resources it needs.

This bill would also help promote coordination and strategic planning of Government resources to catch child predators by requiring DOJ to develop and implement a national strategy to combat child exploitation.

This bill would go a long way toward rescuing the thousands of children who are being exploited by child predators. Studies show that 30 percent of the people identified by the Crimes Against Children Task Force are actively engaged in molesting a child. Yet, right now, of the over 500,000 known cases, we are investigating 2 percent of them because law enforcement does not have the resources to do more.

This legislation was introduced in October 2007 and passed the House about a year ago, 415 to 2. The Senate companion legislation passed the Judiciary Committee. The Senate bill Republican cosponsors include Senators STEVENS, HATCH, HUTCHISON, and MURKOWSKI. So it is the right thing to do to pass this bill.

I ask unanimous consent that the Senate proceed to Calendar No. 862, S. 1738, that a substitute amendment which is at the desk be agreed to, the bill, as amended, be read a third time and passed, and the motion to reconsider be laid on the table, with no intervening action or debate.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. COBURN. Reserving the right to object, a question again for the majority leader. As confused as I was on a previous act, this does not include the language of the SAFE Act?

Mr. REID. That is right. The reason it doesn't—there are lots of reasons it doesn't, but we have a letter from the Justice Department. The Justice Department—Bush's Justice Department we all know about—decided to take a look at that. Even the Bush Justice Department said this needs a lot more work. Keep in mind, I have described in detail what we are trying to do. The SAFE Act the Senator is talking about is a different piece of legislation, and it should not be tied into what we are trying to do with this child pornography thing. I would hope we would get this done. We will be happy to work with the Justice Department and everybody else to see if we can work something out on the SAFE Act. It is not yet ready for passage. We all agree there is a need to combat Internet pornography. But important questions about the text of Senator COBURN's proposed legislation must be answered. We have questions. I used the Justice Department as an example. It is not only us. It is the Bush Justice Department. While some version of the SAFE Act might pass, let's not fool ourselves. The SAFE Act will help develop leads, but right now only 2 percent of all cases are investigated because law enforcement does not have the resources. The SAFE Act does absolutely nothing to bolster law enforcement resources. The PROTECT Act fills the known hole that has resulted in 98 percent of existing leads on child predators to go uninvestigated.

The Judiciary Committee, the committee of jurisdiction, has not held a hearing on the SAFE Act. It has not been the subject of committee markup. I don't believe any Republican on the committee even formally asked for a markup. It is ironic that Senator COBURN, the self-designated champion of insisting that bills be scrutinized before passage, now wants to circumvent the legislative process for a bill he never even bothered to raise in committee.

The Justice Department has serious concerns about this act. In a six-page letter sent last year, DOJ made numerous suggestions for improving the text of the bill. Some of the suggestions were addressed in the House version of the bill but many were not. In addition, officials from the Internet service providers that would implement this new law have raised important practical questions. They are concerned about vague definitions and requirements in the bill. There is no point in rushing to pass a bill that will be ineffective or struck down by the courts as unconstitutionally vague.

Last week, I asked my staff to convene a group of Republican and Democratic staffers to try to revise the text of the bill in light of the concerns expressed by the Department of Justice and others. Senator COBURN's staff is part of that effort. I am hopeful we can reach bipartisan agreement on the SAFE Act. The staff negotiations are ongoing. We will continue to work in good faith to get this bill in shape, but we are not there yet. Meanwhile, we are there on the PROTECT Act. It is ready to go. It has been for a long time. We can pass it today and get it to the President's desk immediately.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Oklahoma.

Mr. COBURN. Continuing my reservation of the right to object, by the same logic that the majority leader has argued on all these other bills, the SAFE Act passed the House 390 to 2. So with the wisdom of the House, under which we are basing all the other requests for unanimous consent, why is that wisdom not any good now with the SAFE Act? The fact is that it isn't. I regret that unless we can pass the PROTECT Act with the SAFE Act and unless we can actually do something—the SAFE Act actually will do something tomorrow, the day it is signed. The PROTECT Act will not do anything until the money comes through Congress a year from now. So the fact is, if we had the SAFE Act, we will stop child pornography faster than if we don't. The question of the fourth amendment rights of child pornographers versus the rights of children being abused is not a hard thing to figure out. With that, I object until we add that to the bill.

Mr. REID. It is interesting how my friend isn't interested in the authorization of money this takes. It is obvious from what we have heard from my friend, supported by his Republican colleagues, that these important pieces of legislation have been held up and are continuing to be held up. That is unfortunate. We have not a single piece of legislation today that has been approved. That is the way it is, this arrangement. I hope the Republicans accept what they have done. They have supported this. The Republicans have supported Senator COBURN's blocking bills that have passed overwhelmingly in the House. They would pass overwhelmingly here, but Republicans are supporting his procedural blockage of these bills.

UNANIMOUS-CONSENT REQUEST—
S. 2982

Mr. REID. Another bill is the Run-away and Homeless Youth Protection Act. It would help combat youth homelessness and help protect vulnerable runaway youth. The prevalence of homelessness among young people is high. Recent studies have suggested that more than 2 million young people either run away or are thrown out of homes each year. Many of them become homeless. That this problem continues in the richest country in the world means we need to redouble our commitment and efforts to safeguard our kids.

I ask unanimous consent that the Senate proceed to Calendar No. 751, Calendar No. 2982; that all after the enacting clause be stricken and the text of subtitle (a) of title II of S. 3297 be inserted in lieu thereof; that the amendment be considered agreed to, the bill, as amended, be read a third time and passed, the motion to reconsider be laid on the table, and there be no intervening action or debate.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. COBURN. Reserving the right to object, pending examination of what we received less than 30 minutes ago—we have to take a look at that, and I will come back to the majority leader—I object.

UNANIMOUS-CONSENT REQUEST—
S. 2304

Mr. REID. One of the other bills is the Mentally Ill Offender Treatment and Crime Reduction Reauthorization and Improvement Act. This bill was introduced by Senator DOMENICI, who has been a leading advocate throughout his Senate career on issues relating to people who are mentally and emotionally ill. This bill would help ensure that offenders who are mentally ill get the treatment they need. It would provide training and resources to State and local criminal justice systems. The House bill didn't even have a vote. It passed by voice vote, it was so overwhelmingly popular.

I ask unanimous consent that the Senate proceed to Calendar No. 622, S. 2304; that the bill, as amended by committee, be read a third time and passed, and the motion to reconsider be laid on the table, with no intervening action or debate.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. COBURN. Reserving the right to object, pending the information, I will get back to Senator REID. I object until that time.

UNANIMOUS-CONSENT REQUEST—
S. 3297

Mr. REID. Madam President, there is a homeland security bill in the package that Senator COBURN's office has objected to, being supported by his Republican colleagues. This legislation would establish two programs to assist African Americans and others in conducting genealogical and historical research. It would require the Archivist of the United States to establish, as part of the National Archives, an electronically searchable database and of historic records of servitude, emancipation, and post-Civil War reconstruction contained within Federal agencies. The bill would also require the National Historical Publications and Records Commission to provide grants to States, colleges, universities, libraries, museums, and genealogical associations to preserve records and establish databases of local records of such information. The bill passed the House 414 to 1.

I ask unanimous consent that the text of subtitle (b) of title VI of S. 3297, that we proceed to that, that the bill be read three times and passed, the motion to reconsider be laid upon the table, and there be no intervening action or debate.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. COBURN. Reserving the right to object, with the same answer as before, I object.

Mr. REID. Madam President, directing a question to my friend. He has indicated he is going to look at these. When should we come back and see if we can get some of them done?

Mr. COBURN. My answer, through the Chair, Mr. Majority Leader, I appreciate that you have made concessions on many bills. I have not seen those. My staff is working on what you have sent over 30 minutes ago. I will communicate to you as soon as we finish the review, which should be before 1 o'clock today.

ALS REGISTRY ACT

Mr. REID. One last thing, again, we have been told by our staffs that the ALS question you had has been all taken care of. I assume you will take a look at that and see if that, in fact, is the case.

Mr. COBURN. Answering the majority leader through the Chair, my staff has advised me a moment ago that we have come to agreement on that. I have no objection to the way that is written at this time.

Mr. REID. I ask unanimous consent that the Senate proceed to Calendar No. 518, the ALS Registry Act, that all after the enacting clause be stricken and that an amendment at the desk, consisting of a compromise amendment based on the language of subtitle A of title I of S. 3297 be inserted in lieu thereof; that the amendment be considered and agreed to; that the bill, as amended, be read a third time and passed; and the motion to reconsider be laid on the table.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The Senate proceeded to consider the bill (S. 1382) to amend the Public Health Service Act to provide for the establishment of an Amyotrophic Lateral Sclerosis Registry, which had been reported from the Committee on Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions, with an amendment to strike all after the enacting clause and insert in lieu thereof the following:

SEC. 3. REPORT ON REGISTRIES.

Not later than 18 months after the date of enactment of this Act, the Secretary of Health and Human Services may submit to the appropriate committees of Congress a report outlining—

- (1) the registries currently under way;
- (2) future planned registries;
- (3) the criteria involved in determining what registries to conduct, defer, or suspend; and

(4) the scope of those registries.

The report may also include a description of the activities the Secretary undertakes to establish partnerships with research and patient advocacy communities to expand registries.

The committee amendment in the nature of a substitute, as amended, was agreed to.

The bill (S. 1382), as amended, was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, was read the third time, and passed.

Mr. REID. Madam President, let me say, as Senator COBURN leaves the floor, he knows there isn't a single bit of my mind or body that has any ill will toward him. He does this. I disagree with his doing this. He has a right to do this. My objection is not with him. It is his colleagues who procedurally support him in this. I want him to know our relationship is very good. I like him. The fact that I like him doesn't take away from my ability to disagree with him. Again, I would hope that maybe later today we can come here and pass some of these other bills we have tried to do today.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Oklahoma.

Mr. COBURN. Madam President, it is my understanding I have 14 minutes remaining in morning business.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator is correct.

Mr. COBURN. Madam President, I appreciate the attitude with which the majority leader comes. We have attempted to work out several bills that I think we will get worked out today. I would like to provide a more general discussion about what went on here because the American people need to know.

All these bills could have come to the floor for debate and amendment. They haven't been blocked. What has happened is one Senator, myself, to the dismay of most of my colleagues on my side of the aisle who want these bills to pass, has said the American people ought to hear a debate. We ought to be able to amend the bills. We are talking about $10 billion in new spending, 37 new Government agencies, and we are to pass that by not having any debate and just saying yes.

I will not do that. I understand that is frustrating to my colleagues on both sides of the aisle. As a matter of fact, I get much more consternation from Republicans than I do from Democrats for my desire for us to be frugal with taxpayer dollars and also to be transparent. The fact is, we ought to have debates. We ought to amend. If one watches C-SPAN at all, what they see is, the vast majority of time, we are not doing anything in here. So there is plenty of time for us to do it.

I will make another significant point. We have in front of us a financial crisis that we are going to ask the American taxpayer to fund, some $700 billion in guarantees on loans, one way or the other, for loans that are not performing, whether that be mortgages or other loans, commercial real estate, home real estate. We are getting ready to ask the American people to do that. The contention I have had in this body since I have been here is completely opposite of what Senator REID voiced yesterday and again this morning, that these don't cost anything. If they don't cost anything and we are not going to spend any money, then they are not ever going to have any impact, if we don't spend the money. The fact is, authorizations matter because we do intend to spend the money. Therefore, if we continue to authorize and authorize and grow the Government bigger than what it is today—and one of reasons we are in the jam today is because the Federal Government is trying to do things totally outside the enumerated powers of the Constitution that were specifically given to us to limit the range and impact and reach of the Federal Government. That is why we are going to be asking for $700 billion of the next generation's money to make up for mistakes that Congresses have made as we have reached beyond what the Constitution says.

The very idea to claim that these don't spend any money flies in the face of reality. I would like to submit to the record a release on military aid spending. It shows the duplicity associated with our words. The majority leader said none of this spends any money. We passed the Defense authorization bill. Lo and behold, what are the releases of all the Members of Congress that had marks and things that go home on parochial interests? Here is what they say. They will spend money. Major research and military infrastructure needs will receive an enormous boost. Nearly $200 million in Federal spending to ensure the State's bases have everything they need.

Well, if authorizations do not spend any money, why are we claiming in press releases they do? We cannot have it both ways. The fact is, if we say they do not spend any money, and we do not intend to appropriate it, what we are doing is playing a hoax on the American people.

We are going to have before us this week some very difficult challenges for the Congress. The medicine, the painful medicine this country is going to have to take to reestablish confidence in our financial markets is directly related to the behavior of not deauthorizing and not getting rid of wasteful programs. The fact is, the Government Accountability Office has specifically listed out, along with the inspectors general of each of the agencies, as well as the Congressional Budget Office and Congressional Research Service, over $300 billion of waste, fraud, or duplication.

When was the last time we aggressively eliminated waste, we aggressively eliminated fraud, we aggressively eliminated duplication? The President has admitted that combining the debt with what we are borrowing from Social Security, this next year we are going to have a $600 billion deficit.

Not only are we going to take $700 billion and put it into nonperforming loans, we are going to borrow another $600 billion from the next generation to operate the Government, when we know over $300 billion of that is waste.

What are we doing? We are passing more authorizations with new spending, which will get spent, or we are being dishonest with those people who say we are supporting those programs. It is time for a change. Both campaigns on the Presidential side are talking about that. But the change that needs to happen is a change inside Congress, that we will start addressing the real problem. Imagine the fact that HHS put out that in 2007 31 percent of all Medicare payments were improperly made, with about 80 percent of those being overpayments.

It does not sound like much until you see that is almost 80 billion of Medicare dollars that were improperly paid. Where is the bill on the floor now to fix that? Where is the bill on the floor to get us out of the energy jam we are in? Instead, we are authorizing new programs without eliminating others and continuing the very errors of our ways that got us into the jam we are now going to ask the American taxpayers to give us $700 billion to get us out of.

It time for a timeout in Washington. It is time for us to reconsider how we do things, why we do things, and when we do things. Passing large numbers of new authorizations without eliminating the areas that are not working now does not fix anything. All it will do is make it more expensive to continue to fail. It also means we do not hold the bureaucracies accountable, which we are not.

I ask the Presiding Officer the amount of time I have.

THE PRESIDING OFFICER. Six minutes 41 seconds.

Mr. COBURN. I thank the Presiding Officer. I will finish in a moment.

The question the American people ought to be asking of Congress right now, I believe, is this: You took an oath to uphold the Constitution. The Constitution has in it this very significant component that is called the Enumerated Powers Act. It is article II, section 8. It tells us exactly what we are to be about, what we are to do, and what we are not to do. The question you ought to measure us on is: Are we following the U.S. Constitution? Many of the bills Senator REID just brought forward are well within the bounds of the Enumerated Powers, but many of them are not. Yet we think at a parochial level and a political level about our own reelections and we forget this document that has guided this country so well.

My hope is the American people will start demanding that we follow this rule book, this guide book. If we do, not only will we eliminate that $300 billion of waste, fraud, and abuse, we will eliminate another $300 billion worth of programs that do not have any role coming out of the Federal Government, and we will put Government closer and more directly accountable to the very people who are being governed, and that is back at the local and State levels.

I will say in finishing up, Senator REID made several references to the Republican caucus. I will assure him that the vast majority of the members of my caucus do not support my position on authorizations. Their only support of me came in light of contrasting it next to an energy bill, which we still have not accomplished.

Congress has still not done anything about the No. 1 national security issue facing us, which is our dependence on foreign sources of energy. That is what we ought to be about this week. We ought to pass a CR. We ought to do what we have to do to fix the financial crisis. And we ought to be back making sure that another year does not go by where we do not have a comprehensive plan that utilizes every bit of America's talents, every bit of America's resources to make us less dependent and more secure on the issue of energy.

Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that this document be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

REID SET TO DELIVER NEARLY $200 MILLION TO NEVADA TO AID MILITARY

WASHINGTON, DC.—Major research efforts in Nevada and military infrastructure needs statewide could soon receive an enormous boost from Nevada Senator Harry Reid, who is delivering nearly $200 million in federal funding to help ensure the state's bases have everything they need.

As part of the defense authorization bill passed Wednesday by the Senate, Nevada will see important benefits if President Bush drops his veto threat. Notable are the construction of a $33.9 million Army Reserve Center in Las Vegas, as well as nearly $64 million in improvements at Nellis Air Force Base. This includes construction of a hangar and aircraft maintenance unit, and infrastructure upgrades for the F-16 aggressor squadron at the base.

There is also more than $32 million for improvements at Creech Air Force Base in Indian Springs, including funds for the construction of the Unmanned Aerial Systems Flight Simulator and Academics Facility.

"Safety abroad begins with strength at home, and I will always make sure Nevada's military installations are as strong as possible," Reid said. "This money will improve both our ability to protect our country and the quality of life for the troops we appreciate so greatly. I will always deliver for our military and for our veterans when their military service ends, and I call upon the President to do the same by signing this bill."

Mr. COBURN. With that, I yield the remainder of my time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Maryland.

IN REMEMBRANCE OF KENNETH N.
HARRIS, SR.

Mr. CARDIN. Madam President, I rise today with a heavy heart to remember Kenneth N. Harris, Sr., of Baltimore City.

Ken Harris was a Baltimore City councilman, community activist, and champion of safe and family friendly neighborhoods. He loved his family, was so proud of his children, and he was my good friend.

Ken grew up in west Baltimore's Sandtown and Park Heights neighborhoods, where the strict guidance of a single mother and afternoons at the YMCA gave him the self-assurance and direction he needed to succeed in an environment where so many others struggled to survive. He graduated from Dunbar High School and worked four jobs to put himself through Morgan State University. After graduation, Ken went to work for Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Maryland and began his professional life in the corporate world, including Comcast Cable. For many, professional achievement and financial security are enough. But not for Ken.

Concerned about his children's school and his neighborhood, Ken soon became a community leader serving as president of the Leith Walk Elementary School PTA and the Glen Oaks Community Improvement Association. Encouraged by his ability to make a positive change, Ken ran for office and was elected to two terms in the Baltimore City Council, representing the 4th District, an elected office he would, no doubt, continue to hold today had he not decided to run for president of the city council.

While in the city council, Ken championed the rights of his neighbors. He sponsored legislation to stop landlords from throwing tenants' belongings out on the street—saving many tenants from homelessness and cleaning up the streets. He pushed for remedial programs in the public schools, such as the Baltimore Truancy Assessment Center, to encourage students to stay in school. He took the police to task for not having enough real community policing but too many reckless warrants, arrests. Last month, when the new Hilton Hotel opened in downtown Baltimore, it was remembered that it was Ken Harris who insisted that if the city was going to financially ensure the development of the hotel, the city and the developer also had to ensure financial support for college students and afterschool recreational opportunities for schoolchildren.

I ask my colleagues to join me in thanking Ken's family, his wife Annette, his daughter Nicol, and his son Kenneth, Jr., for sharing her husband and their father with our city and the State of Maryland. His life, which ended all too soon, made a difference in the lives of many others, and his contributions will not be forgotten.

Madam President, I yield the floor and suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. BAUCUS. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. BAUCUS. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that morning business be concluded.

CONCLUSION OF MORNING BUSINESS

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Morning business is closed.

RENEWABLE ENERGY AND JOB CREATION ACT OF 2008

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, the Senate will proceed to the consideration of H.R. 6049, which the clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

A bill (H.R. 6049) to amend the Internal Revenue Service Code of 1986 to provide incentives for energy production and conservation, to extend certain expiring provisions, to provide individual income tax relief, and for other purposes.

AMENDMENT NO. 5633

Mr. BAUCUS. Madam President, on behalf of Senator GRASSLEY and myself, I call up amendment No. 5633, which is at the desk.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Montana [Mr. BAUCUS], for himself, Mr. GRASSLEY, and Mr. REID, proposes an amendment numbered 5633.

Mr. BAUCUS. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

(The amendment is printed in today's RECORD under "Text of Amendments.")

Mr. BAUCUS. Madam President, this amendment would extend and improve tax incentives for clean, renewable energy. It is a good energy amendment and energy policy for America.

Here is the bottom line: This amendment would create thousands of new American jobs—jobs that would pay good wages. This amendment would begin the end of America's dependence on foreign oil. And this amendment gives us a chance to show America, before we go home in October, that Congress can actually work for them.

This amendment would extend and improve tax credits for wind and solar power. It would extend and improve tax incentives for building and appliance efficiency. And it would extend and improve incentives for clean coal and biofuels.

And this amendment would create new incentives for clean energy. It includes a credit of up to $7,500 to help consumers purchase plug-in hybrid cars. It includes a breakthrough credit for the capture and storage of carbon dioxide.

And it includes a new tax incentive for what people are calling "smart meters." Smart meters provide real-time information on electricity use. And thus smart meters have proven to reduce electricity use.

This amendment would allow my home State of Montana to further develop its vast energy resources, from wind power to biofuels, from clean coal to solar power.

I have been trying to pass a version of this amendment for most of the last couple years. And I am very pleased that passage may well be at hand.

Mr. President, the last bill that extended energy tax provisions was the Tax Relief and Health Care Act of 2006. The ink was hardly dry on that law before I set out to extend and modify the energy incentives that it included.

The Finance Committee undertook a series of hearings on energy-tax policy at the beginning of last year. Our hearing topics ranged from renewable electricity to biofuels, from electric vehicles to carbon sequestration, from energy efficiency to clean coal technology. We heard from a wide range of experts on the need for reliable, long-term tax incentives for clean energy, and how best to invest in these incentives.

We used this input to develop a far-ranging clean-energy bill. It would have invested roughly $30 billion over 10 years.

Our bill included long-term extensions for the wind and solar tax credits. It included long-term extensions and modifications of incentives for improved building efficiency. It included new incentives, such as favorable tax treatment for transmission lines, so we can get renewable power to the market. And it included a credit for cellulosic biofuels, which I am proud to have helped pass a couple months ago in the farm bill.

In keeping with the philosophy of paying-as-you-go, the Finance Committee offset the cost of that package. The offsets largely scaled back or repealed tax breaks for the long-established oil and gas industry.

We scaled back tax incentives for oil and gas companies in order to increase tax support for clean energy. Our rationale was twofold.

First, we argued that as America moves to address global warming, we should begin to provide Federal support for energy that is less carbon-intensive, not more.

Second, we argued that with oil and gas prices on the rise, the oil and gas industry did not need tax incentives that it may have needed in the past. Indeed, in 2005, President Bush said, "I will tell you with $55 oil we don't need incentives to oil and gas companies to explore." When the Finance Committee reported our bill on June 19, 2007, oil traded at more than $69 a barrel.

We needed 60 votes to pass the bill. And the oil and gas industry lobbied hard to prevent us from reaching that threshold. We had a strong Senate majority for the Finance Committee product. But we fell 3 votes shy of the 60 needed to break a filibuster.

So we went back to the drawing board. We listened to the concerns from the other side that the oil and gas tax offsets were too big. We scaled back our bill. We worked with the House Ways and Means Committee to produce a package with a roughly $20 billion pricetag—about a third smaller than our committee-reported bill.

And the argument for our offsets grew stronger. When the Finance Committee reported its bill, a barrel of oil sold for $69. Four weeks later, oil crossed the $75 threshold. In October of last year, oil topped $85 a barrel. And a month after that, oil reached $95 a barrel.

In December of last year, we presented our revised $20 billion energy package to the Senate. When the Senate voted on that package, oil traded at $92 per barrel.

Our argument swayed a couple of votes, but not enough to break 60. Despite dramatically scaled-back oil and gas tax offsets, our bill fell short by just one vote: 59 votes to 40.

So I went back to the drawing board another time. I wrote an energy tax package without oil and gas offsets.

I introduced legislation to pay for an energy-tax package by closing tax loopholes and by delaying a tax benefit for multinational corporations. These items also offset the cost of expiring nonenergy tax provisions, such as the tuition deduction and the research and development credit.

I have tried to move this package for the last several months. While I dropped the oil and gas tax offsets, some still objected. We made several attempts to pass this vital legislation, with non-oil and gas tax offsets. But it did not clear the Senate.

But now energy prices are sky-high. And many more Senators have come to agree that it makes sense to scale back oil and gas tax breaks.

So Senator GRASSLEY and I worked together to rewrite our energy tax package one more time. The package before us today is a bit more modest than it used to be. But it is still a valuable set of incentives.

It would foster clean-energy jobs, here in America. It would help us to address energy independence. And it would help us to address global warming.

Our amendment would extend the section 45 production tax credit, for wind and biomass and geothermal. It would provide an 8-year extension of the credit for solar projects. And it would remove the $2,000 cap on the residential solar credit, giving consumers a strong incentive to power their homes with solar power. The amendment would extend the biodiesel credit, as well as the incentive for property used to refuel alternative vehicles.

As before, today's amendment also has several new incentives. It includes the new plug-in hybrid credit—an incentive of up to $7,500 for consumers to purchase clean-running, next-generation vehicles. The amendment includes new incentives for conservation as well—in the form of those "smart meters" and investments in recycling property.

This energy package would help move us in the right direction toward cleaner, home-grown energy.

The amendment is offset by a series of tax provisions, both energy- and nonenergy-related. For example, the amendment addresses the section 199 manufacturing deduction for oil and gas activity. Congress passed this deduction in 2004, when oil traded at about $50 a barrel. It is set to increase to 9 percent in 2010. Our amendment would freeze that deduction at 6 percent for oil and gas activity.

Another offset closes a loophole related to oil companies' foreign income. This provision passed the Finance Committee last year. And it would streamline and simplify reporting of income earned on overseas oil and gas activity.

Another offset is basis reporting. This provision would improve tax compliance. It would require brokers to tell their clients and the IRS the cost basis of securities sold during the year. This provision would help taxpayers to file more accurate tax returns. And it would help the IRS to more efficiently identify tax returns that are not correctly filed.

In essence, it will help us close the tax gap. As you know, about $340 billion a year worth of revenue legally owed to Uncle Sam is not being collected today. This tax reporting provision will help put a dent in that tax gap.

This amendment does not include everything that I would like. On the clean energy incentives side, I would have liked to extend the renewable production credit for a longer period. I would have liked to provide incentives for improving our electricity grid.

I would have liked a more robust set of measures to address the use of clean coal. No matter how much some people dislike coal, the fact is that we get half of our electricity from coal. We need to burn it cleanly.

As for offsets, while oil has retreated from an all-time high of nearly $150 per barrel, the price of crude closed at $121 a barrel yesterday. That is still a very strong incentive to explore and produce. Whether the price of oil is $121 or $150—or even, as President Bush said, $55—it's hard to argue that oil and gas activity needs a boost from the American taxpayer. We will continue this debate in the next Congress.

This amendment does not do everything. But it would prevent vital energy tax extensions from expiring. And it would add new clean-energy incentives. We cannot start addressing global warming without a recognition that—at least for now—clean and alternative energy generally cannot compete with the fossil-based variety without at least a little help from incentives like these.

And so I urge my colleagues to support this amendment. I urge their support to create thousands of jobs in the clean tech industry. I urge their support to help address global warming. I urge their support to help foster greater energy independence.

Let's adopt this amendment. Let's show America that Congress can work for them. And let's finish what we have to do before the end of the session.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Iowa is recognized.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Madam President, I am pleased that we are finally discussing legislation that is designed to deal with time-sensitive tax matters. I thank Chairman BAUCUS for his cooperation in working in a bipartisan way on this legislation.

There are five categories of time-sensitive tax matters. These are things that are sunset. For those in the public who don't recognize the word "sunset," at certain times, legislation comes to an end and must be reenacted. That is called sunset.

The first category of this sunset legislation is the alternative minimum tax fix. It expired on December 31 of last year. If we don't act, 24 million families will face an average tax increase of at least $2,000 each.

The second category of tax relief includes several tax benefits available to middle-income taxpayers. These expired also December 31 of last year. Included are deductions for out-of-pocket expenses for teachers who buy supplies for their classrooms, sales tax in various States that have a sales tax but not income tax, and college tuition for middle-income families. Millions of taxpaying families would face an unexpected tax increase if this sunset legislation is not reenacted.

The third category in the bill consists of many valuable business incentives, such as the research and development tax credit that has likewise expired and has put corporations in a position of not doing research and development or maybe wondering whether the tax incentives are going to be available to them. This will reenact incentives such as that.

In this time of high oil prices and instability in the energy market, Congress should send a clear signal in support of alternative energy and conservation. This very important issue is dealt with in the fourth category in this bill. We will be considering that issue today to send a strong signal in support of alternative and renewable energy, as well as conservation. We will not let the wide assortments of tax incentives for alternative energy and conservation expire this year, which would otherwise happen.

The fifth and final category deals with the disasters that have ravaged the Nation's heartland, especially my State of Iowa and, of course, most recently the gulf coast, particularly along Galveston. We need to respond to help these folks in these regions, and these tax incentives are meant to help both business rehabilitation, as well as individual rehabilitation.

I believe this legislation is must-do business. Congress cannot dawdle any longer. And with a sense of emergency and urgency, Senator REID and Senator MCCONNELL, the leaders of the Senate, have devised a path for the Senate to complete action on these provisions. I would rather have processed this legislation over a period of time. Several months ago would have been a better time to process this sensitive business. Better late than never, and this is late, and better to do it now than not to get the job done at all.

Our leaders provided Chairman BAUCUS and me with the authority to do a compromise. That, of course, was a critical step. I am glad our leaders were able to get together on that point. So Chairman BAUCUS and I pulled out our note pads and resharpened our pencils and, of course, here we are with this bipartisan compromise.

I am confident that the Senate will approve the first and third amendments that will be before the Senate. The first amendment will deal with the fully offset energy tax incentives package that I will deal with in some detail in a minute. The third amendment will contain a bipartisan compromise on the alternative minimum tax fix and, of course, these business extenders to which I have referred.

In between those two bipartisan amendments will be an amendment to be offered by Senator REID for the Democratic caucus. All amendments will face a 60-vote threshold.

Last year, I laid out the principles Senate Republicans would follow when it came to revenue raisers, and those principles are still in effect, somewhat modified by the bill before us. But the basic rationale behind the Senate Republicans on revenue raisers is still there.

The first principle I laid out is whether the proposal is good tax policy. If the proposal is good tax policy, then we would support, and vice versa, not support if it is bad tax policy.

The compromise before us meets fully the needs of all Republicans on this point that the principles of this bill are good tax policy.

The crackdown on offshore deferred compensation plans is appropriate tax policy. I am pleased we made it tougher on hedge fund managers by removing a charitable loophole. Likewise, the offsets in the energy portion of the bill are appropriate policy.

The second principle I laid out last year deals with how revenue raisers are accounted for. This is where our two parties differ. How do the two caucuses differ? Republicans do not want to go down the slippery slope of building in a bias toward automatic tax increases—I should say almost automatic tax increases—and against current law tax relief. This is especially compelling when appropriations are wholly outside the Democratic version of their pay-as-you-go principle.

Let me explain that we find it in our Republican caucus inconsistent that Democrats would say, when you are going to continue existing tax policy, you need to raise taxes on other Americans to pay for it. We believe existing tax policy should be continued without offset.

The inconsistency for us comes from the Democratic point of view that if you want more spending in appropriations bills, you don't have to pay for it. We find that highly inconsistent.

Also, I could say that expiring entitlement spending does not figure in to the Democratic caucus's pay-as-you-go proposition—another inconsistency.

The Democratic version of pay as you go sets us down an irreversible path of higher taxes and higher spending. If expiring tax relief and expiring spending and appropriations were treated similarly, maybe the deficit reduction rationale behind pay as you go would be credible. As it exists now, it only reinforces an ideology of higher taxes and higher spending. The rejection of Senator McConnell's deficit-neutral offer on alternative minimum tax and the extenders proves my point. I will refer to a chart which shows the bias toward more spending and against current law tax relief.

If we look at that chart, we see the red line is one of mandatory expiring spending. We see the annual increase in nondefense discretionary spending going up very much. We see the annual cost of increased AMT, the solid green line, going down, and we see making certain other tax provisions permanent and what that does.

In any event, we found ourselves at an impasse on this point, but we still were able to reach this compromise that is before us.

In getting to that compromise, Democrats insisted on offsetting current law tax relief, and Republicans resisted more tax and spend. Republicans were willing to use revenue raisers for new policy and for long-term or permanent tax policy. Republicans did not want to use revenue raisers for new spending.

We came to a compromise by looking at this impasse as kind of a prism. A prism breaks one beam of light into several different shades. I have a chart showing the most famous prism of recent decades. It is a copy of the album entitled "The Dark Side of the Moon" by the band Pink Floyd. I am not, of course, a big fan of rock music. I am not a fan of its lyrics and its culture, but I think this piece of art by itself makes this very important point as ideal with this compromise legislation before us.

As we can see, there is a beam of white light on the left side of the triangular prism. On the right side, the beam of light is very fractured and multishades.

At the end of the day, we will have an alternative minimum tax fix, we will have extenders, and we will have an energy and disaster relief package that is a compromise. That is the white light on the left side. Republicans will see that the compromise meets their principles.

Let's say Republicans see the red light on the right. The offsets are good policy. From a Republican standpoint, there is enough new policy in the energy part of the deal to tie the non-energy offsets; otherwise, energy incentives are reformed. That is our way of looking at this within the policy I announced a year ago. Republicans can see that the biggest item in the bill, the alternative minimum tax, is not offset. That preserves our point that the unfair alternative minimum tax—hitting 23 million middle-class Americans if we don't fix it—should not be a reason to raise taxes on other taxpayers.

Likewise, there is enough new and modified policy to tie to the offshore deferred compensation revenue. The bottom line is that the leaders were able to secure a longer term extension of current policy, as well as with the revenue.

Democrats are able to see the offset policy from their standpoint. That is the blue strand of light on the right side of the prism. Democrats wanted significant revenue raisers, and they got them. Both sides wanted the underlying revenue-losing extensions and new policy.

Most prisms are delicate. They are transitory. This one is no different. Our friends in the House need to see that. They can break this fragile prism. The shards will cut millions of taxpaying families.

This deal defers the very vital debate between Republicans and Democrats on whether we tax our way out of this fiscal situation—the Democratic view—or contrariwise, do we restrain spending. That is the Republican view. That is a very important debate which has held us up for so very long. That very important debate is deferred to another day.

Each side holds to its principles. Each side does the people's business. I thank Chairman BAUCUS and both leaders for getting us to this point of compromise where each of us can have some victories. But for me, it is preserving the very basic policies of the Republican caucus.

Using the prism that presents the opportunity to preserve tax relief for millions of middle-income families, I ask that we pass this compromise.

Madam President, one of the amendments we will be voting on today is the energy tax extenders bill that I just told you I would refer to in detail, and here it is.

I once heard a man say he always went everywhere with his wife because he never wanted to kiss her goodbye. Our dependence on foreign oil is very similar. As Americans, we know our dependence on foreign oil is not pretty but have not found a way to kiss that dependence goodbye. We need to enact commonsense, bipartisan laws, such as this energy tax extenders amendment that we will be voting on, the first vote midafternoon. It will help America move toward ending its dependence on foreign oil.

We are almost three-quarters of the way through this year, 2008. Since January 1 of this year, a number of energy tax relief provisions have already expired. In addition, a number of energy tax provisions are set to expire in just 3 months. For example, section 45, production tax credit for energy production for wind and refined coal, is extended through the year 2009.

Importantly, the wind production tax credit does not have the harmful 35-percent cap that the House Democratic leadership wants to place on it.

Another provision contained in this amendment is a new credit for electric plug-in vehicles. Consumers who purchase an electric plug-in—and it has to be a passenger vehicle—can get up to a $7,500 tax credit. If Americans are using electricity instead of gas to power their cars, it is a step toward reducing our dependence on foreign oil, much as ethanol has reduced our dependence on foreign oil for use in our cars by at least 5 percent.

Included in this amendment is a provision to reduce the tax on idling reduction units. These units are designed to eliminate the need for a big rig to idle to provide heating, air-conditioning, and electricity when it is stopped.

That brings me to the fact that we are saving diesel in big Mack trucks because they don't idle because we have this incentive for the separate unit to keep the cab cool while people are sleeping. It irritates me then, when I look back to this summer—and maybe even right now for all I know—when I saw Government officials using their chauffeured SUVs which were idling outside our office buildings wasting a great deal of fuel. As Members of Congress, we should be setting a good example for the American people by conserving fuel and not wasting it. For instance, I have a Ford Taurus. You don't see it idling outside my home or outside of wherever I am momentarily stopped. You surely would not see my driver in it because I don't have one. If you do see anyone else driving my Taurus, please call the police because someone has stolen my car. I would like to refer to Ashton Kutcher, from Cedar Rapids, IA, saying: "Dude, Where's my car?"

So far, the Senate has not passed these popular expiring and expired energy tax extender provisions. However, the Senate has now reached a bipartisan agreement that should enable us to pass this first amendment that we will be voting on midafternoon. This first amendment contains these popular energy tax extender provisions—many beyond what I have already talked about—as well as revenue offsets for these provisions.

My fellow Republicans were divided on whether energy should be offset. Some opposed any tax increase on oil and gas. Others, such as this Senator, looked to convert conventional energy tax incentives into incentives for alternative energy and conservation. On the other hand, almost all Democrats were in this "conversion" camp. I kind of feel myself like we have had a lot of incentives for old-time fossil fuels; that those industries are developed, and it is okay to move that money from that source over to alternative energy—a new industry that we are in the middle of developing and, in the case of ethanol, for a long time have been developing.

We compromised between Republicans and Democrats by cutting back the following oil and gas tax incentives, which totaled roughly $9 billion. First, we froze the manufacturing deduction for all oil and gas production at 6 percent. We reformed the use of the foreign tax credit for major oil companies. This offset is very important to get done. Finally, we raised the cap on funding for the oil spill trust fund.

To reach the $17 billion target for fully offsetting this energy tax package, we used a couple of nonoil and gas offsets totaling roughly $8 billion. First, we included the Bush administration's "tax gap" proposal to have securities firms report the cost of stock purchases and sales to the Internal Revenue Service. Secondly, we extended the unemployment surtax.

In keeping with the principle that tax offsets should make good policy sense and should be used to pay for new tax policy, we used these $8 billion in nonoil and gas offsets to pay at least $8 billion in new energy tax policy because it is a Republican program that if you have new tax policy, it should be offset. Our objection is to offsetting existing tax policy that might sunset; that you want to extend it in the same way it has been functioning for the last several years.

So the bottom line of this is that both sides compromised. Democrats yielded on unoffset popular current law tax relief—AMT as an example—and Republicans agreed to offsets that were good tax policy. But we ensured that our principle that major current law tax relief, such as the alternative minimum tax fix, should not be conditioned on other tax increases.

It is important to note that if we don't do more to encourage alternative energy, we might one day run out of oil and end up having to drive the alternative vehicles, such as Fred Flintstone, as you recall from the cartoon on television.

So I urge a "yes" vote on this first amendment that we will be voting on midafternoon, and I hope we can get this bipartisan agreement through and get it to the House of Representatives because we only have a little time left before we adjourn for the elections.

I yield the floor, and as I don't see any other Member who wants to speak, I suggest the absence of a quorum, and I ask unanimous consent, Madam President, before you call the roll, to divide the time that lapses in the quorum call between the two sides.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mrs. HUTCHISON. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mrs. HUTCHISON. Madam President, I have been in meetings all morning trying to work through the hurricane relief package that is certainly important to my home State of Texas, meeting with the mayors of Houston and Galveston as they go to their hearings for oversight for FEMA and disaster relief. I know we are learning much about what can be done, but I think we are doing so much better than with any previous hurricane relief.

But I am also absorbed in the financial crisis that is certainly present in our country today and is affecting so many people, so many jobs, so many families, and so many lives. All of us are going to be making some very tough decisions this week, and I wished to talk about the parameters I am going to put around any package that is put before us for passage that would help us get through this historical time in our country with regard to our economy.

Here is what I am looking for. I am looking for a package that, first and foremost, protects the American family who is doing the best they can and doing the right thing; the family who has put their money in a money market fund, as well as bank deposits. We need to protect them. We are hearing that will be done without any further action. So we need to do that. We need to protect those money market funds so no one will lose their life savings because they are doing what is right for their families—saving for their retirement or for their futures or for their emergency needs or people trying to keep their homes. If they are keeping their mortgages current or they are working with their bank to try to extend or lower interest rates, and they have an agreement in order to keep that mortgage going, we want to make sure they are able to do that.

That is what we are looking for in a package that we would pass. It is the most important thing that every American is looking toward Congress to do. We want to work together in a bipartisan way—the Congress, the administration, the Federal Reserve—to address this financial issue in a way that protects every family and every person who is doing what is right for their futures and their families.

The second major part of any package has to be protection of the taxpayers. The taxpayers are going to basically underwrite what we decide is the right thing to do. So if we are going to underwrite, we want the taxpayers to also have an upside. We want the taxpayers to be protected. We want the taxpayers to have the regulatory underpinnings that would assure they are protected and we want them to have the upside. There is an upside in the AIG bailout that the Federal Reserve has put in place, and that is good, because I believe there is a great chance that will turn out to be a profit for the taxpayers if that is done correctly.

I think that should be the model for the package coming forth this week upon which we will decide; that there will be an upside position for the taxpayer, so that when the packages are put together and the bad loans—or the nonperforming loans—are taken off the books, there is an upside to that if those loans perform or if the company succeeds after the bad loans are out.

Going down the road, I do think Senator GREGG is saying it best. I think he will probably be able to come out and talk about his view, but it is that we put everything that comes back—in the stabilization that we would provide—to debt reduction. Instead of taking the debt up to possibly $1 trillion, we would pay down the debt so there would be relatively no cost to the taxpayer and we would begin the very long process of not only putting our financial house in order, but we would also start putting our monetary system and our debt repayment back in order.

Before 9/11, this country had wiped out the deficit. Congress had wiped out the deficit. We had wiped out the deficit and were paying down the debt. That is where all of us want to be again—that we would wipe out deficits by careful, prudent spending and that we would start paying down that debt so the interest payments do not overwhelm us. Those are the basic parameters I believe Congress should put in the mix, as we are being asked to vote for a very important stabilization of the financial institutions and the families of this country. Congress can put its stamp on this package in our fiduciary responsibility and we can do this right and assure that we do it right. That is our job. That is our responsibility—to carefully look at the package that will be put forward, to have input from Congress and the key people in Congress who are working with the Secretary and the Chairman of the Federal Reserve, to do what is right for our country. Politics should be thrown out the window right now. We should be talking about what is our role, our fiduciary responsibility as elected officials, elected by the taxpayers, and we should be doing it on a bipartisan basis. We should be inclusive, not exclusive.

I think we are going to do it. We have an opportunity here to give the taxpayers and American people the confidence that we will do this in their best interests and do it right. That is my hope. I do have the confidence we can do it.

I yield the floor and suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. HARKIN. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

RECESS

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, the Senate stands in recess until the hour of 2:15 p.m.

Thereupon, the Senate, at 12:29 p.m., recessed until 2:15 p.m. and reassembled when called to order by the Presiding Officer (Mr. CARPER).

RENEWABLE ENERGY AND JOB CREATION ACT OF 2008—Continued

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who seeks recognition?

Mr. FEINGOLD. Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum and I ask unanimous consent that the time be equally divided.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. ENSIGN. I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. ENSIGN. Mr. President, I rise today to speak about the importance of the renewable energy amendment that is coming before us on the next vote in the Senate. For the past several months I have worked with Senator CANTWELL, as well as many other Members of this body, in a bipartisan manner to develop a way forward on renewable energies.

We know and agree that more renewable green energy is needed for the United States. That was evidenced by an amendment that Senator CANTWELL and I brought to the floor on the housing bill last April that passed by a vote of 88 to 8. We all realize that there is broad bipartisan consensus and that we want more renewable green energy for the United States.

The question was, how do we get it enacted into law? What we have before us today, through working together in a bipartisan way once again, is a compromise of how to offset the cost of some of these tax credits.

I am very pleased that, with the help of Chairman BAUCUS and Ranking Member GRASSLEY of the Finance Committee, Senator CANTWELL and I were able to come up with this renewable energy amendment that is fully offset and fully paid for, so that we can get this bill finally passed into law.

What does this mean for our country? Well, first, I think most Americans are well aware of what is going on in Washington right now. Our country is on the brink of financial catastrophe. We are working very hard to stop this from happening and bring consumer confidence back to our financial markets.

This, however, only solves the immediate crisis. We have a longer term economics problem in this country. There is nothing more important to our economy than having a comprehensive energy plan for the United States. Renewable energy is only part of that comprehensive energy plan for the United States though.

Within the bill we have before us, there are strong incentives for all types of clean energy, including solar power, geothermal, wind, and biofuels. If somebody wants to add solar power panels to their home, there are currently some incentives in today's law, but those incentives are not adequate. We encourage more and more people to put solar power into their own homes so they can actually help solve the energy problems we have in this country in their own home.

I think it is important that the Senate say to the House of Representatives, let's pass this bill in a strong bipartisan fashion. This is so the House of Representatives will take up this bill, pass it, and send it to the President where he can sign this bipartisan piece of legislation into law.

I strongly believe that we need a comprehensive energy plan for the United States of America that includes an all-of-the-above approach. This would include alternative green energies, drilling for more oil and natural gas, more clean coal energy, and clean nuclear energy, all of which include more conservation for the United States. We need all of this if we are to stop sending $700 billion overseas. A lot of that money is going to countries who do not like us. Some are even going to fund terrorist organizations that want to do harm to the United States of America.

It is critical that we have a comprehensive energy plan. Let's at least do the renewable energy part of the energy plan, today. I want to thank all who have worked so hard on this. On the solar part of this bill alone, it is estimated that 400,000 jobs could become permanent in the United States between now and the year 2016. These people would be building solar panels for houses, for businesses, for powerplants and the like. Over 1 million jobs will be produced in the building of a powerplant.

This is a good bill for our economy. It is a good bill for the power generation of the United States of America, and it is a good bill for our environment.

In many ways, this is a very exciting bill. Right now, unfortunately, it is being overshadowed by what is happening in our financial markets. But that does not mean this bill is not important; it is more important than ever. I encourage all of our Senators to vote for it, and then the message needs to go to the House of Representatives: Let's not delay on this bill; let's get this bill signed because this is the last week of business we have this year. Let's get it passed in the House and sent to the President so that he can sign this bill into law and we can start getting these jobs now.

I yield the floor. I suggest the absence of a quorum and ask unanimous consent that the time be equally divided between both sides.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President, this afternoon we will vote on energy tax extenders or tax incentives for renewable energy. I wanted to make a comment about the importance of this legislation. I believe this will be our tenth vote to try to extend the tax incentives for renewable energy. It has been previously blocked nine times, which is almost unbelievable to me.

But at a time when we face a very severe energy problem in this country, and when we need to incentivize and begin developing additional renewable sources of energy to make us less dependant on Saudi Arabia and Kuwait, Venezuela, Iraq, at a time when we need to be less dependent and produce other kinds of energy, we have been blocked in extending these energy tax credits. It makes no sense at all to me.

If you are going to address the energy problem in this country, we need to do a lot of things. We need to conserve more. Yes, we need to drill more, and we need much greater energy efficiency. We need to do a whole lot of things, but this country needs to move ahead with respect to renewable energy on a much more aggressive path.

A substantial amount of energy comes every day from the Sun, and we use precious little of it. A substantial amount of energy is available from the wind, and we use too little of it.

How does this compare to other energy resources? Now, here is what we have done in the past for those who look for oil and gas. In 1916 this country said: If you are searching for oil and gas, we are going to give you a big fat set of tax breaks, because we want you to find oil and gas. That has existed for nearly 100 years, those tax incentives for those who search for oil and gas. Contrast that with what we have done for those who want to proceed with renewable energy such as wind and solar.

In 1992, we put in place the production tax credit. These were short-term and rather shallow tax incentives. They have been extended short term five times. They have been allowed to expire three times. We have seen projects to put up new wind turbines and new solar projects put on the shelf because these tax incentives have been in a start-stop, stutter step approach. It makes no sense. It is a pathetic, anemic response.

This country should be saying: Here is where we are headed for the next decade. For the next decade you can count on this. We are going to develop wind resources and solar energy all across the country that will make us less dependent on Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, and others. That is what this country should do.

We have had great difficulty getting a 1-year extension from these production tax credit for wind energy, as an example until December 31 next year. I am going to celebrate today, if we pass this legislation. I believe we will. It is an achievement, but it is not a giant step forward. It is a baby step in the right direction because we have been blocked nine times by the minority from passing this legislation during this Congress. My hope is that today, finally, we will get it done and get this finally sent back to the House and to the President for signature.

We have had a lot of time on the floor of the Senate in recent weeks, a lot of wringing of hands, mopping of brows and gnashing of teeth about energy. This country's economy runs on energy. Sixty-five percent of the oil we use comes from overseas. We are unbelievably dependent on foreign sources of energy. How do we overcome that dependence to make us less vulnerable? We can do that by producing more here, which means drilling and by substantial amounts of conservation. We are prodigious users of energy, and we waste a lot. So while we produce more, we need to conserve more too. In everything we use every single day, from the time we turn the light switch on in the morning, to all of our appliances like refrigerators, air-conditioners, dishwashers, and more, we must make them more efficient. Many of these machines are more efficient now than they were in terms of all appliances. But we can impose even greater standards and create greater efficiency. So production, conservation, and efficiency—all are elements of an important national energy program.

I believe most important is the decision to pursue renewable energy. We do it with ethanol by taking alcohol from corn and extending our energy supply. We do it with biodiesel too. We do it with a range of areas. Especially in the area of biomass, wind, solar, and geothermal energy, there is such great potential. We have had so much difficulty providing certainty about where America is going to head with renewable energy.

I have introduced legislation saying we ought to do this for a full decade. We ought to say to the world, to investors and businessmen and women: Here is where America is headed. You can count on it. We will produce a lot of energy from renewable sources. We will maximize the opportunity to receive energy from the Sun. We have some projects that are interesting, but we have fallen far behind on solar energy. We are not anywhere near where we ought to be in producing solar energy. We are not near where we can be in producing energy from the wind. We have unbelievable turbines now that are much more powerful. They can take energy from the wind and use that energy to extend America's energy supply.

This is a very important vote, but it is only a small step forward in the right direction. It needs to be followed by a much larger step that tells the world where America is going. Yes, we will drill, conserve, all those things, but this country needs to decide that we want substantial amounts of additional renewable energy to make this economy less dependent on Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, Iraq and Venezuela. They provide us energy that comes from off our shores. Using more renewable energy and using this energy wisely are very important elements to sustain our country's economic strength and opportunity in the future.

I yield the floor.

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. President, today I will vote for the renewable energy tax legislation, Baucus-Grassley Amendment No. 5633, included in the tax extenders package because it is the best balanced approach to encourage renewable and alternative forms of clean energy that the Senate has had a chance to consider. I especially like the fact that, after many years, Congress is finally encouraging solar power in a serious way.

But the proposal would be much better if it would use the subsidy money designated for wind power instead for a dramatic new Federal investment in clean energy research and development.

This legislation adds nearly $5 billion to the $11.5 billion in Federal taxpayer dollars that are already committed to subsidize wind power over the next 10 years. This means that Congress will be spending two-thirds as much over the next 10 years to subsidize wind turbines as it did—in today's dollars—on the Manhattan Project to build the atom bomb. Wind power is a proven technology, useful in some places for clean electricity, but this disproportionate allocation of tax dollars is unwise because:

Wind turbines produce 1 percent of America's electricity.

There is only one wind farm in the southeastern United States because the wind doesn't blow hard enough in that part of the country.

There is almost nowhere in the U.S. where consumers can rely mainly on wind power without also needing coal, nuclear or gas—or maybe solar thermal—plants.

Wind power provides 2.7 percent of U.S. carbon-free electricity, which helps deal with climate change, but nuclear power provides 69 percent of U.S. carbon-free electricity.

Under existing law—without the new subsidies in this energy tax legislation—beginning in 2010 the largest Federal taxpayer subsidy for producing electricity would go to wind.

Per kilowatt hour, Federal subsidies for wind in 2007 were: 53 times the subsidy for electricity made from coal; 15 times the subsidy for nuclear power; and 27 times the subsidy for all other forms of renewable electricity.

If the Federal Government were to subsidize each kilowatt hour that nuclear power produces at the same rate it now subsidizes wind power, the cost to taxpayers for the nuclear subsidy over the next 10 years would be $289 billion.

On average, for every dollar Texas utilities pay wind developers, the Federal taxpayer pays another 69 cents.

Some say that by 2030 wind could generate 20 percent of America's electricity. Over 10 years the Federal tax subsidy for this much wind power would be enough to give 55 million Americans $3,000 to help buy an electric plug-in car or truck.

Wind turbines are a dramatic disruption to the landscape. A typical 1.5 megawatt wind turbine is as tall as a 40-story building. Its blades reach from 10 yard line to 10 yard line on a football field, and its blinking lights are visible for up to 20 miles.

I suspect the value of my vacant lot on Nantucket Island will go up when values go down on the other side of the island where a wind farm is being built.

Wind power is useful but not a true alternative energy because it blows only when it wants to—turbines operate, on average, 34 percent of the time—and can't be stored for baseload power, the kind our jobs and homes depend on, or for peaking power, the kind utilities buy in the late afternoon when every home appliance is on. When cost of transmission from remote locations is added, wind power can become very expensive.

Instead of spending another $5 billion to subsidize a proven technology, wouldn't it be wiser to make a dramatic new Federal investment in energy research and development—a series of mini-Manhattan Projects, for example—to: Make electric cars and trucks commonplace, make solar power cost competitive, capture and store carbon from coal-burning power plants, reprocess and store nuclear waste, make advanced biofuels from crops we don't eat, encourage green buildings, and provide energy from fusion.

According to MIT president Susan Hockfield, Federal funding for energy research has “dwindled to irrelevance”—$2.4 to $3.4 billion a year—less than half the R&D budget of America's largest pharmaceutical company.

Use the wind subsidy money for new Manhattan projects, and use wind turbines where the wind blows and where transmission line costs make sense—and where both don't spoil the natural beauty of the great American outdoors.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from North Dakota.

AMENDMENT NO. 5634

(Purpose: To provide alternative minimum tax relief, and for other purposes)

Mr. CONRAD. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the pending amendment be temporarily set aside so I may call up amendment No. 5634.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from North Dakota [Mr. CONRAD] proposes an amendment numbered 5634.

(The amendment is printed in today's RECORD under "Text of Amendments.")

Mr. CONRAD. What is the time on this amendment?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. One hour equally divided.

Mr. CONRAD. Mr. President, I have offered this amendment to prevent the alternative minimum tax from hitting 26 million taxpayers in 2008. My amendment is fully paid for. That is how we should provide alternative minimum tax relief.

We need to wake up around here. We are facing a fiscal crisis, in part because of the massive deficits and debt we have run up as a Nation that has helped propel this bubble. Our markets are in turmoil. The Bush administration is now proposing to spend hundreds of billions of taxpayer dollars to stabilize Wall Street. We simply cannot continue to pile debt on top of debt. We have to begin to send a signal that the United States is going to start paying its bills. We are running massive budget deficits, massive trade deficits. The debt of the country has mushroomed.

In one fell swoop, the administration is proposing adding $700 billion more. That is on top of the $100 billion dedicated to Fannie Mae, the $100 billion dedicated to Freddie Mac, and the $85 billion dedicated to AIG. Let's add that up. That is nearly a trillion dollars. Let's add the $30 billion for Bear Sterns. We are over a trillion dollars.

Let's think very carefully about what is happening. Yesterday, the Washington Post reported the dollar declined in value against the euro by more than 2 percent in a single day. I ask people who are watching and listening to think very carefully now about how these events are connected. The dollar has gone down in value sharply. Already in the last 6 years it has gone down about 40 percent against the Euro. Yesterday, in one day, it went down 2 percent. In one day, the stock market went down almost 400 points. In one day, the price of oil went up by a record amount for a single-day increase. These events are all connected. We have to connect the dots. The dollar goes down in value, oil sells in dollar terms. That puts upward pressure on oil prices.

Of course, as people see that we are headed toward some kind of economic weakness, they look for safe havens. One place to look is commodities. A key reason people are losing confidence in the dollar is the mushrooming debt. To add in just a matter of days almost a trillion dollars to a debt that already stands at $9.6 trillion has an effect on people's confidence in the ability of the United States to repay. That means they are going to insist on higher interest rates in order to continue to extend us credit.

As we run up these massive deficits and debt, where do we get the money to pay for this? We get it by borrowing, and increasingly we have been getting it from borrowing from other countries. We cannot afford to continue on this course of not paying for things.

We can look back now and see the results of these irresponsible fiscal policies. In the last eight years, we have seen the five highest deficits ever recorded, with the highest of those now projected to come in 2009. The 2009 estimate of the deficit does not include the still unknown cost of the Federal intervention to help the financial markets. But our budget situation is actually even worse. The debt is going up much more rapidly than the reported deficit. For example, the increase in the debt in 2008 will be far greater than the estimated $407 billion deficit. That is because the general fund of the United States is taking the surpluses from Social Security and Medicare and using those funds to pay other bills. Let me repeat that: The debt increase in 2008 will not be the $407 billion advertised deficit. The increase in the debt will be $647 billion. For next year, the deficit is estimated to go up $438 billion. The debt will go up by more than $800 billion. And all that is before we include those bailouts. We could easily see the debt of the country go up a trillion dollars next year. The debt, as we sit here today, is $9.6 trillion. That is the gross debt of the United States.

This President has been building a wall of debt: $5.8 trillion at the end of his first year; now they want to increase the debt ceiling to over $11 trillion. This chart shows $10.4 trillion in 2009. That has now been erased because what they are proposing to do is increase the debt ceiling to over $11 trillion, nearly a doubling of the debt in that short period of time.

Here is what the New York Times headline from this weekend said: "Administration Is Seeking $700 billion for Wall St.; Bailout Could Set Record." That could mean hundreds of billions of dollars of debt added to the wall of debt we already face. That is an unsustainable circumstance. It is a key reason why the dollar went down 2 percent in value in one day.

One of the great risks that is being run by this fiscal policy is the risk of a sharp downward break in the value of the dollar. If that were to occur, we would be faced with a series of unpleasant alternatives. One would be a sharp cut in spending by the United States. A second possibility would be a dramatic increase in taxes. A third would be a substantial increase in interest rates to attract additional capital to float this boat.

I hope people are listening. I know this is hard to fully comprehend because economic issues are complex.

But they are related. They are tied together. The fact that we have dramatically increased the debt and deficit has an impact on the value of our dollar. When we flood the world with dollars, the value of those dollars goes down. When those dollars go down in value, that puts us in a position of having to find some way to attract additional dollars. One way open to us is to increase the rent we pay for those dollars we call interest. If we had to dramatically increase the interest rate to attract dollars to be able to float this enterprise, that would have an adverse effect on economic growth and economic activity.

So all of these things are connected. They are related, and they matter. We are already seeing the dollar fall further in response to the prospect of billions of dollars of additional debt being piled on.

The Washington Post article I showed earlier said "Currency's Dive Points to Further Pain." "Currency's Dive Points to Further Pain"—again, a 2-percent reduction in the value of our currency in a single day. This is after the dollar has already lost about 40 percent of its value against the euro since 2002.

I am not the only one who believes we have to start paying for things. Earlier this month, the former Chairman of the Federal Reserve reiterated his opposition to deficit-financed tax cuts. This is what Alan Greenspan said on Bloomberg Television:

[U]nless [tax cuts are] paid for on the so-called pay-go, I'm not in favor of it. I'm not in favor of financing tax cuts with borrowed money.

To my colleagues who say: Well, it is the people's money so let's give it back to them in a tax cut, what people are we talking about here? It is the people's money, so we give it back to them. The problem is, the people's Government does not have any money. The people's Government is out of money. It is borrowing money, and increasingly it is borrowing from foreign entities. So when people say: We ought to give the people's money back to them, it is a little late. We already did that. We did that, and much more. We went and borrowed money to give it to them.

Now, who is going to get stuck with the tab? It is going to be the American taxpayer. Because you can only continue to stack up debt for so long. At some point the chickens come home to roost. That is why I support a fully paid-for alternative minimum tax relief amendment. This alternative minimum tax relief provides tax relief in the first year costing $76 billion, but it is paid for over the next 10 years.

I remind my colleagues that pay-go does not require that these bills be paid for immediately. It requires the legislation be paid for over 6 and 11 years. Given the economic downturn and turmoil we now confront, I would not call for paying for AMT relief right now. But we can provide offsets over time to cover the cost. That would be the responsible thing to do, and it would send a signal to the financial markets that we are serious about putting our fiscal house back in order.

Some have argued we should not be raising taxes to pay for alternative minimum tax relief. We are not talking about raising taxes. We are talking about closing tax loopholes and making hedge fund managers and oil companies pay their fair share.

Here is a list of the offsets or the pay-fors included in my amendment.

One, ending deferral of offshore compensation by hedge fund managers trying to evade current taxation. Two, delaying implementation of a new worldwide interest allocation provision designed to benefit some multinational corporations. Three, correcting underpayment of royalties for oil and gas production on federal land in the Outer Continental Shelf. Four, codifying economic substance—prohibiting transactions with no economic rationale, done solely to evade taxes.

Does anyone oppose closing these loopholes? Does anyone oppose these offsets, these means of paying for what is needed? Because certainly alternative minimum tax relief is needed. Otherwise, 26 million people are going to get hit by the alternative minimum tax.

It is important to recognize these annual alternative minimum tax fixes, as costly as they are, conceal the much longer and larger long-term cost of fixing this problem. The cost to reform the alternative minimum tax over the next 10 years is a staggering $1.6 trillion. Let me repeat that. To fix the alternative minimum tax over the next 10 years would cost $1.6 trillion.

So if we continue to pass alternative minimum tax patches that are not offset, that is the real amount, as shown on this chart, we are going to be adding to the Nation's debt. Over the summer, I asked the Congressional Budget Office to examine the impact on our budget and economy from continuing to pass these unoffset tax cuts. CBO found that the debt absolutely explodes if we continue with unoffset alternative minimum tax reform and unoffset extension of the President's tax cuts—rising to 602 percent of the gross domestic product by 2082.

Let me repeat that. This is what the Congressional Budget Office has told us will happen if we continue on this course. As shown on this chart, this is the debt if we proceed with the current policies. That is the green line. Now, this is the debt that will accrue if we continue to pass alternative minimum tax reform unpaid for. That is the black line. Finally, the red line is what happens to the debt with unoffset alternative minimum tax reform and extension of the Bush tax cuts. In that case, the result is the debt of the country goes to 600 percent of gross domestic product. That is five times the record amount. That is five times the record amount of debt to gross domestic product in our Nation's history.

What is the implication of such an explosion of debt? What would it mean?

I asked the Congressional Budget Office to tell me what would happen if we fail to pay for alternative minimum tax reform and the Bush tax cuts. What would happen to economic growth? Here is what they concluded. As shown on this chart, the black line is the economic loss from not paying for alternative minimum tax reform. You can see, it is very dramatic, the drop in GNP per person. Here is what happens to economic loss from not offsetting the alternative minimum tax reform and the extension of the Bush tax cuts. CBO projects that, over time, it would reduce American living standards by 50 percent.

It is because the debt operates as a gigantic drag on the economic growth of the country. How is that possible? Well, very simply, as I described earlier, if you keep adding to the debt, you have to finance it. How do you finance it? You borrow it. Increasingly, we borrow from abroad. That undermines the value of the dollar. That puts upward pressure on interest rates. Rising interest rates stifle economic growth. Again, that is not just my view. Here is what the Congressional Budget Office said in a letter to me on July 17 of this year concerning their estimates:

Despite the substantial economic costs generated by deficits in that model, such estimates may significantly understate the potential loss to economic growth from financing the tax changes with deficits . . . In reality, the economic effects of rapidly growing debt would probably be much more disorderly and could occur well before the time frame indicated in the scenario.

Is anyone listening to what our own advisers are telling us? Deficit financing of tax cuts hurts long-term economic growth, and the reaction could be disorderly changes in the markets well before the models suggest. I believe that, in part, that is what we are seeing today: a sharp drop in equity values, a sharp drop in the value of the dollar, and all the while we see a massive increase in our deficits and debt.

As shown on this chart, this is the long-term budget scenario of the Congressional Budget Office. This is where we are to this point. This is where we are headed without fundamental changes. If we keep patching the alternative minimum tax without paying for it, if we extend the Bush tax cuts without paying for them, there is going to be, according to those who advise us, a sharp reduction in economic growth, a sharp reduction in the economic strength of our country.

We have to start somewhere. I propose we start today by paying for the alternative minimum tax relief that is needed. We could do it today. We could open a new chapter. We could get serious about the long-term economic prospects of our country. The alternative is to stay on the current course, keep running up the debt, keep running the risk of a sharp break in the value of the dollar, keep running the risk of a sharp break in the economic strength of our country.

I thank the Chair and yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. SANDERS). Who seeks recognition? The Senator from Utah.

AMENDMENT NO. 5633

Mr. HATCH. Mr. President, I appreciate my colleague from North Dakota. He is diligent. He means well. And I care for him a great deal. He has an impossible job, in my opinion. One reason he does is because one side thinks the only way to solve our problems is to increase taxes. Our side believes the only way to solve our problems is to reduce spending. We all know the only way you can do that and be significant is to take on some of the entitlement problems that exist, and that causes even more of an explosion. But I respect him very much for the fight he wages all the time.

I rise today to express my support for the Baucus-Grassley substitute and perfecting amendments to the tax extenders bill before us today. These amendments may sound a bit confusing, so I will try to clarify briefly what they do.

The Baucus-Grassley substitute amendment is a bipartisan compromise on the soon-to-be expired tax provisions dealing with energy production, alternatives, and conservation. This important group of tax incentives enjoys a great deal of support from Members on both sides.

Unfortunately, the passage of these energy extender provisions has been held up over discussions about energy policy in general, and more particularly, over the question of whether and how to offset the lost revenue.

The Baucus-Grassley perfecting amendment is also a bipartisan compromise, but this amendment features the retroactive extension of important tax provisions that expired at the end of last year, as well as extending the so-called alternative minimum tax patch for 2008, and a package of disaster relief tax provisions.

This long-delayed group of provisions also enjoys broad support among Senators, but it too has been held up by the question of how or if to pay for the lost revenue.

I want to first congratulate those of my colleagues whose hard work and flexibility have made these compromises possible. Getting to this point where we can hopefully pass this tax extenders bill today is a big achievement, and one that should not be overshadowed by the necessities of dealing with other urgent legislative business this week.

The chairman and the ranking Republican of the Finance Committee, Senators BAUCUS and GRASSLEY, along with the majority leader and the republican leader, deserve all of our thanks for guiding us to this compromise.

As with all compromises, this one is completely satisfactory to no one. My position all year long on the offset question, along with that of most of my Republican colleagues, can be summed up in two sentences. First, it is wrong to raise taxes on one group of Americans in order to prevent another group of Americans from suffering a tax increase. Second, it is wrong to raise taxes on a permanent basis in order to pay for the temporary extension of expired or expiring tax provisions.

The other side has put forward the position that, in the name of fiscal responsibility, we should not allow the budget deficit to grow higher as a result of extending current law tax provisions. I respect this position, and as someone who has long been concerned with this Nation's fiscal health, I also do not want to see the deficit climb.

However, the rate of Federal spending for the past several years has grown alarmingly high. According to the CBO's latest baseline budget projection, the deficit is estimated to explode from last year's $161 billion to $431 billion by 2010. So, yes, it is obvious that we have a deficit problem. However, over this same 3-year period, annual Federal revenues are projected to increase by $313 billion from fiscal year 2007 levels. This is an increase of more than 12 percent.

Over that same period, however, the amount of annual Federal spending is projected to climb by $583 billion. This is an increase of more than 21 percent. Therefore, it seems obvious that we do not have a problem with revenues. We have a problem with spending growing much faster than revenues are growing.

It seems to me that the answer to the offset question is not to raise taxes but to cut spending growth. And yet after months of impasse, we made no progress in getting the other side to line up for spending restraint instead of tax increases.

However, the leadership on both sides, along with the two leaders of the Finance Committee, have found a way to move us forward in a manner acceptable to both sides.

The energy extenders amendment is fully offset, as has been insisted upon by the Democrats. However, it is true that much of this amendment is comprised of expansions of current policy and not strictly extensions of current law. Therefore, some offsets are acceptable. I wish they were offsets in the form of spending cuts, but my voice is in the minority on this desire.

Moreover, the tax increases in the energy amendment have been moderated from earlier versions. Instead of a full repeal of the deduction for the domestic production of oil and gas, the amendment freezes the current deduction at 6 percent. And, instead of an obnoxious and unprecedented new Federal severance tax on oil drilled in the Gulf of Mexico, the amendment includes a small set of offsets that are relatively acceptable in light of the positive provisions included in the package.

In the AMT and extenders amendment, the other side has conceded that it need not be fully offset. This amendment does include a large tax offset dealing with offshore deferred compensation. I am not fully convinced that current law is in need of reform in this area. However, again the benefit to our economy and to taxpayers of having the expired provisions extended on a retroactive basis justifies this compromise.

We are obviously in a time of great economic peril. While the size of this combined tax extenders package might pale in comparison with the larger number of dollars involved with legislation we are considering this week to ensure the liquidity of our financial markets, we should not underestimate the importance of these tax provisions to our economy.

We must not subject another 23 million American families to the cruelties of the alternative minimum tax. What a nasty and unfair surprise to these unsuspecting households we would be leaving at their doorsteps absent this bill. Because the AMT patch will save these taxpayers almost $62 billion, in just one year, not passing the AMT patch would go a long way toward reversing the benefits of this year's economic stimulus tax rebates.

Let me mention two other vital provisions that are extended in this package, among many important ones.

First is the provision to extend the exemption of active financing. I know this sounds confusing, but it is critically important to keeping America's financial services firms competitive with their overseas counterparts.

The Internal Revenue Code imposes worldwide taxation on its citizens and domestic corporations. Many of our trading partner nations do not impose this kind of taxation on their home-based companies. Without the exemption for active financing income, which expires at the end of this year, our firms will have a significant disadvantage in competing with companies based in these other nations.

The second, and I believe, the most important, is the research credit, which expired at the end of last year. Research and development is the lifeblood of American innovation. This is an area where our Nation has clearly held the lead for decades.

However, we are at serious risk of losing this edge to other countries. No longer is the U.S. the only place to find talented scientists and other researchers. No longer does the U.S. have the only world class research facilities. And certainly, no longer do we have the only tax incentives for research in the world. Many other countries, each of which would love to take our lead away, are vying for this research.

We simply cannot afford to allow this credit to lose its incentive value and thus allow research to escape our shores. I fear it is already happening, but passing this bill is the first step in fighting to keep this indispensable segment.

This is obviously a historic week in a monumental year. Hugely important questions with tremendous ramifications lie before the Congress and before the American people and must be decided in the next few days and weeks.

The issue at hand today might be overshadowed by other matters, but is nevertheless a vital one. We must pass this tax extenders and energy incentives bill, and I hope the House can get it done this week as well. Let us put this part of our financial house in order today.

Then, I hope and pray we as a Congress can make the right decisions in solving our financial and liquidity crisis, and that the people of America choose wisely in the elections that are just a few weeks away.

As a Nation and as a Congress, we have a lot of work ahead of us to bolster the confidence of the people. We need health care reform and we need a tax system that helps us compete in the world, instead of leaving us at a disadvantage.

I personally compliment the distinguished Senator from Montana and the distinguished Senator from Iowa, Senators BAUCUS and GRASSLEY, for the work they have done, and, of course, others who have participated in this. Let's build on this work as we move forward.

Mr. President, I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time?

The Senator from Montana is recognized.

Mr. BAUCUS. Mr. President, I yield 10 minutes from the time in opposition to the Senator from Washington.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Washington is recognized.

Ms. CANTWELL. Mr. President, I rise to talk about the series of votes we are going to be having on the extenders package and to thank my Chairman, Senator BAUCUS, for his leadership on this legislation because this is important legislation my colleagues are going to be voting on in a short period of time.

Senator BAUCUS has been diligent in working with Senator GRASSLEY on various provisions that I believe are good for Washington State and for the country—specifically, the R&D tax credit and the continuation of that credit for 2 years. I thank Senator BAUCUS and Senator HATCH, who worked out a more robust tax credit for the future. We also are extending the college expense deduction; a continuation of that at $4,000. Many parents are struggling with many financial obligations, and college education costs that are continuing to rise. This legislation makes sure they can deduct some of these expenses and helps out those taxpayers.

For us in Washington State, it also is critically important we be able to continue to deduct sales tax from our Federal income tax obligations. It was about 22 years ago that Congress took away this opportunity for Washingtonians to be treated fairly, just like other States in the Union, to be able to deduct sales tax. We recently reestablished this policy, and this bill continues it for another 2 years, so that we are able to deduct what obligations we pay to the State of Washington from our Federal income tax obligation. This is stimulus to us in Washington State, and it is about tax fairness. We are glad that, for 2 more years, Washington residents will be able to either take a standard deduction or itemize their deductions and claim these taxes against their Federal tax obligation.

I remind my colleagues, too, about the importance of the energy provisions we are about to vote on. We are making a significant change in energy policy by promoting clean energy solutions for our country. In fact, were we to look at the 2005 bill we passed, which had many similar tax provisions in it related to energy production, it was probably two-thirds tilted toward fossil fuel and one-third for green energy. This bill turns that equation on its head; it is two-thirds for green energy solutions and one-third for fossil fuel. That heads us in the right direction as a Congress and as a country, it is where we should put our priorities.

This legislation unleashes the ability for us to focus on solar power in America. It unleashes the ability of solar power by giving it an 8-year tax credit horizon, the same we are giving to fuel cell technology. Concentrating solar power technology is a new endeavor that holds great promise for us in America and particularly in the Southwest. We think that over 400,000 jobs could be created in the next 8 years thanks to this technology, and those are jobs right here in the United States. That gives the United States the ability to produce enough power for probably over 7 million American households. It is also a $232 billion investment that we expect to see into our economy coming from these investment in solar energy. We are truly unleashing that power and producing what will be emission-free fuel for our homes and businesses.

For plug-in electric cars, this bill provides up to a $7,500 tax credit so an American citizen will be able to get a plug-in car and use that to drive down their cost of transportation. If you think about it, instead of spending $4 a gallon for gasoline, with a plug-in vehicle, your cost per gallon would probably be only about a dollar. That would be significant savings for the American consumer.

Third, we are including, for the first time in the Tax Code, faster depreciation for what are called smart meters. This technology is going to help us as consumers understand the power we are using and how we can manage that usage to reduce our energy costs. Tom Friedman has done a good job of evangelizing this. He believes this is where IT meets ET—where Internet technology meets energy technology. The fact is that we can build a smart electricity grid that understands what consumers are using and empowers those consumers to help drive down their costs. Once we get these meters installed throughout the country we will begin to realize energy savings just by moving power more efficiently around the electricity grids. We can save 10 percent on what power we are using today by just consuming it in a more efficient fashion.

This provision will help with the deployment of smart meters and smart grid technology that will help us move forward.

When we think about this platform of distributed generation, smart grid technology, the advent of efficiencies, we can see how we can build a national smart grid that will help us immensely because we know we are going to have an increase in demand, we know we want to reduce carbon emissions, we know there are intermittent sources of power such as we are talking about with wind and solar that we can work in cooperation with our other power sources, and we know that substituting electricity for oil can make a major transition for us in getting off our dependence on foreign oil.

All of these are improvements to that electricity grid. It is like taking our current two-lane dirt road highway and turning it into a superhighway of a smart electricity grid that can empower us in making this transition.

I am very happy that the accelerated depreciation provision made it into the legislation. I thank Chairman BAUCUS and Senator GRASSLEY for making that part of the tax incentives we are going to pass here today.

Lastly, there are over $10,000 in tax breaks to American consumers to try to help them lower their energy costs into the future. I know from the Presiding Officer that in the Northeast part of our country, a lot of people have suffered under the high cost of home heating fuel. This legislation helps them with tax breaks on wood-burning stoves so they can install the latest technology to turn wood pellets into a better, more efficient source of fuel and help drive down the demand on home heating oil. Hopefully this can help reduce the cost to many of the Northeast residents who are still using oil as their primary heating source.

The $10,000 in tax breaks, as I said, for items such as plug-in automobiles, wood stoves, solar panels on the homes, small wind farms, and a variety of things are going to help the American consumer reduce the burden they are now facing from higher energy costs.

We are taking this direction and moving closer to what we think the United States can be—a world leader in green technology. We are creating the platform and putting in place the right incentives in this legislation that will move our country away from its dependence on fossil fuel and on to the clean energy technologies that will make the United States a world energy leader.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Montana.

AMENDMENT NO. 5635 TO AMENDMENT NO. 5633

(Purpose: To amend the internal Revenue Code of 1986 to extend certain expiring provisions, and for other purposes)

Mr. BAUCUS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the pending amendments be temporarily set aside and I be allowed to call up my amendment No. 5635.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The clerk will report.

The bill clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Montana [Mr. BAUCUS], for himself, Mr. GRASSLEY, and Mr. REID, proposes an amendment numbered 5635 to amendment No. 5633.

Mr. BAUCUS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

(The amendment is printed in today's RECORD under "Text of Amendments.")

Mr. BAUCUS. Mr. President, I yield 10 minutes of the time in favor of the third amendment to the senior Senator from New Mexico, a lead sponsor of the mental health parity provisions in the amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New Mexico.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, my thanks to the chairman.

First, I wish to thank a number of individuals and institutions.

First and foremost, I thank Senator KENNEDY. Senator KENNEDY is my long-time partner and friend in our work on parity and other mental health issues. Obviously, he cannot be here today, but he is fully aware of what we are doing. I know he is very pleased with what we are doing and thrilled that we have found the offset for our bill, the bill that has been accepted by the House.

The question is whether our bill with the offset or our bill with a different offset becomes law. There should be no doubt that we will now get parity of treatment for a large number of Americans suffering from mental illness.

My further thanks go to Senator ENZI. I could not have asked for a better colleague to help work on this issue of mental health parity.

Senator DODD, my long-time friend, has done an admirable job standing in for Senator KENNEDY, not to mention his own work on mental health issues.

Chairman BAUCUS and Senator GRASSLEY: Simply put, we could not be here without you.

Leaders REID and MCCONNELL: I cannot say enough about the fantastic assistance the leaders have provided and they should certainly share with us the optimism that comes from this bill.

Members of the House of Representatives KENNEDY and RAMSTAD, the chairmen and members of the committees of jurisdiction and the leadership in the House; our superb coalition outside the Senate and House. Mental health groups, insurance companies, and business organizations banded together and stayed together to ensure a broadly supported bill.

It might shock some, but I read the long list of those who banded together. And yes, you will see that this bill is supported by businesses—by big businesses—by those who pay for the large numbers of people who are covered by insurance and who are going to be guaranteeing parity of treatment under this bill. Finally, my dear friend Paul Wellstone. He was always the one who pushed and prodded me to move quicker and faster. I know he is watching us today and is extremely proud of what we have accomplished.

Let me take a couple of minutes to talk about the historic mental health parity compromise before the Senate.

Twelve years have passed since the Mental Health Parity Act of 1996 became law. The compromise is the product of 3-plus years of continuous work and thousands of hours of labor. Rather than say just thousands, I will say a thousand hours at a minimum. For those 3-plus years I would walk into my office from time to time and I would see my conference room occupied by 30 or 40 people. Whenever that conference room was full, I knew that the member of my staff who handles mental health parity, Edward Hild, who is sitting at my right hand today, was among them. He was working with them to see what they could agree on and to see which problems could be solved. Joined with him was Senator KENNEDY's aide, Connie Garner. I thank the two of them especially. Without them we could not have completed this bill. They worked and worked in order to get all sides to agree. And now we have what many have waited for a long time. My thanks to Ed Hild, and Connie Garner, who works for Senator KENNEDY.

What does this bill do? It provides mental health parity for about 113 million Americans who work for employers with 50 employees or more. It ensures that 98 percent of the businesses that provide a mental health benefit do so in a manner that is no more restrictive than the coverage of medical and surgical benefits.

It ensures that health plans do not place more restrictive conditions on mental health coverage than on medical and surgical coverage; parity for financial requirements, such as deductibles, copayments, and annual and lifetime limits; parity for treatment limitations, and the number of covered hospital days and visits.

It provides an out-of-network parity for mental health coverage if a plan provides out-of-network coverage for medical and surgical benefits.

It provides a small employer exemption for companies with fewer than 50 employers and provides a cost exemption to all covered employers.

Simply put, our legislation will ensure that individuals with a mental illness have parity between mental health coverage and medical and surgical coverage. No longer will people with mental illness have their mental health coverage treated differently than their coverage for other illnesses. That means there will be parity between the coverage of mental illness and other medical conditions such as cancer, heart disease, and diabetes.

No longer will people be treated differently only because they suffer from a mental illness. And that means 113 million people in group health policy plans will benefit from our bill.

We have worked with the mental health community and business and insurance groups to carefully craft a compromise that all members of the coalition support.

I wish to take a minute to talk about what we are doing and what we are not doing. I have done that in all of my remarks, talking about what we are doing and what we are not doing.

Mr. President, I say to everyone here, I do believe that if Senator KENNEDY had his way, he would be standing over there where his chair is and he would be speaking as long as I speak or maybe longer. He and I would be discussing how difficult it has been to get this very basic American insurance coverage for the mentally ill.

Parity means fairness. We have been unfair to the mentally ill since we started medical insurance coverage for people with illnesses. Somehow we got off the track. We said, of course, we will treat everything that has to do with the heart, but, for instance, we won't do anything having to do with illnesses that affect the brain. Perhaps, it was because we didn't know that illnesses such as schizophrenia were diseases of the brain. We started talking about them as if they were something else. So we began saying they don't get the kind of coverage that people with heart problems do, or people with cancer do, or people with tuberculosis do.

What we have had is millions of Americans, since health insurance was first started, to this date, millions of Americans have been born and died with mental illnesses. Illnesses never covered by health insurance. However, over time the unfairness has been whittled away, and we have become more and more fair.

Today this bill says all of the group insurance policies in the United States of America, no matter who wrote them, no matter where they were written, no matter which company they were written by or for, will have to provide for the mentally ill who are covered. If they are going to have any mental health coverage, those insurance companies must cover them with the exact same coverage they give to others who suffer from other diseases as I have described in the last 6 or 7 minutes.

This is a red-letter day for fairness, a red-letter day for doing something very positive. This was a tough one, and it should have been easy. But it was tough. It took many years to get it through here. In fact, the last effort we had, believe it or not, we had a Senator who was so concerned about his work that he said he wanted one more weekend. To which I said: What can you do in one more weekend? And his response—and he was sincere—he said: I want to finish reading the bill. Nobody tells us that, but he did. He finished reading the bill. I thank him. I said: You must be a genius to understand what we wrote. I compliment you. That was one of our last hurdles. That was months ago in the Senate. Then it got to the House, this final bill, this bill before us today.

We had a parity bill a number of years ago which was quasi almost parity. That got through here a little easier, although even that bill was resisted in the House. Many of us have warmed to the idea finally that the mentally ill of our country are truly people who are sick, and if they are treated by doctors or in hospitals for that ailment—be it schizophrenia, be it bipolar, be it depression, any of those doctors have to treat—those patients ought to be covered by general health insurance.

I am so pleased we are finally doing this bill. I am so unhappy that my friend Senator KENNEDY cannot be here today. He and I spent many hours talking about this legislation, changing it, moving it around. I know he would have loved to have been here. So I say on behalf of Senator KENNEDY that he and I thank the Senate for this bill. It will be adopted shortly.

My 10 minutes is up. This is on a bill which is destined to pass. We were glad to put it on the bill. Maybe we helped the bill; maybe the bill helped us. In any event, we are trying to do everything that anybody asks of us. We even had the Congressional Budget Office say this bill costs the Government money, and that was a hard thing to eat and buy, but we did buy it. It took us a long time because we had to have an offset. We did get one.

For those people interested in the bill, I have said everything about the bill and the people with mental illness across our land. I have seen these people by the thousands—the mothers and fathers and relatives of the mentally ill. They are my friends across the land. Today, we have added other things and we are getting close to covering the mentally ill, as we should—as a concerned, considerate country should do.

I yield the floor. I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. WYDEN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. WYDEN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to speak for up to 10 minutes on the third amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. WYDEN. Mr. President, I particularly wish to thank my friend from North Dakota, Senator CONRAD, for his courtesy because I know his remarks are extremely important, given these tough fiscal times.

I will be speaking on the third amendment and particularly the part of that third amendment that addresses the extraordinary economic hurt in much of rural America. Senator BAUCUS and the ranking minority member, Senator GRASSLEY, have worked very closely with me and a number of Members of the Senate who represent rural communities where the Federal Government owns much of the land, and tonight it looks like there is some promising news ahead for these desperately hard-hit rural communities.

More than 100 years ago, our rural communities entered into an agreement with the Federal Government. What these rural communities said was that, in effect, they would give up their land so there could be a national forest system, and in return the Federal Government would ensure that these rural communities would have sufficient funds for schools and basic services.

This was facilitated by tying these payments to the rural communities to the amount of timber that was cut in these areas.

Now, this went quite well for many years. But as the environmental laws in our country began to change, this money shriveled up. It shriveled up and we were faced, in rural communities, with the prospect of having school 3 days a week. In my part of the country, our law enforcement officials were faced with not having the funds that they desperately needed to fight this epidemic of methamphetamines. Suffice it to say there was a real question—and there continues to be—as to whether some of these communities and some of these rural counties would actually survive. We have three in our State that are walking on an economic tightrope right now.

So what Chairman BAUCUS and Senator GRASSLEY have done, working with a host of us from these communities—myself, Senator BINGAMAN, Senator FEINSTEIN, Senator CANTWELL, Senators MURRAY, SMITH, BOXER, CRAPO, CRAIG, and other colleagues on both sides of the aisle—is they have given us the opportunity, if this third part of the extenders package passes tonight, to give new hope to these rural areas. The hope comes in the form of a multiyear reauthorization of the law that I wrote in 2000 with Senator CRAIG to the Secure Rural Schools legislation.

It provides a safety net for these communities in our part of the country so they can educate their kids, fight drugs and crime, and pay for essential services. Right now, pink slips have been sent out in my State and elsewhere to county workers, teachers, and others. Without the legislation that has been put together so carefully by Chairman BAUCUS and Senator GRASSLEY, my view is we will see devastating losses to the very fabric of rural communities. Some of those rural communities will not survive. Today's vote—the vote we are going to have this afternoon—provides the best opportunity we have seen in many months to ensure that rural communities do not drown in this economic crisis.

The reason this proposal is so very important is that it is a multiyear reauthorization of the law that Senator CRAIG and I wrote in 2000. The reason we feel so strongly about a multiyear reauthorization is it will give our rural communities an opportunity to plan for new economic development efforts where they can create good-paying jobs for their people.

I know for a fact, given the huge problems we have had with fires in the West, that it will be possible to put together a strong thinning program, where we can thin out, for example, the overstocked second growth stands and get those merchantable materials—they are merchantable materials—to the mills and put our people to work.

We are going to be able to take other steps. We want to have new clean energy programs, using biomass, something where the Senate has brought together the forest product sector, the environmentalists, scientists, and others. We are looking at new opportunities in carbon sequestration. But to have the time for our rural communities to get into the thinning, to get into biomass, to get into carbon sequestration, we desperately need this 4-year reauthorization program to take these rural communities off the economic roller coaster they have been on since the time in which these funds ran out.

We have had wave after wave of bad economic news in rural America. We are now in a position to vote for a measure that will give new opportunity to these rural communities and particularly the opportunity over the next few years to survive and to look at additional business ventures that are tailor-made for the times. They are going to be greener, they are going to be sustainable, but they are going to create family wage employment.

In our part of the country, we recognize this is a different day than it was 100 years ago, when folks in the Northwest and other parts of rural America made this agreement with the Federal Government. Times have changed, and they are certainly tough fiscal times, made tougher by the events of the last few weeks. But the people I have the honor to represent in the Senate are up to making these changes.

On this legislation that we will vote on shortly, I am very hopeful that this time the other body will finally approve it; we have had 74 votes in the Senate in favor of this package. What Chairman BAUCUS and Senator GRASSLEY have added to the legislation virtually mirrors the vote that we had on the amendment I offered earlier in the Congress. Chairman CONRAD worked very closely with westerners to ensure that this was fiscally responsible. Senator GRASSLEY, the ranking Republican on our Finance Committee, on which Senator CONRAD and I serve, worked closely with us. This is truly bipartisan. It is a vote that would bring new hope to rural America, ensuring their survival and the chance for better days ahead.

I urge my colleagues to support the third part of the tax extenders package.

I thank my colleague from North Dakota for the courtesy of speaking at this time, and I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from North Dakota.

Mr. CONRAD. Mr. President, I rise to address the extenders package and the alternative minimum tax amendment now under consideration.

Earlier this morning, we debated an amendment to provide several critical energy tax provisions which was fully offset—it was fully paid for. They were important items, such as provisions that will promote renewable and alternative sources of energy. But now we are debating another important amendment, the underlying provisions of which I also support, such as the extension of the research and development tax credit, and other important extender provisions that will help middle-class families and promote economic growth, and another 1-year fix for the alternative minimum tax to ensure that 26 million taxpayers are not thrown onto the alternative minimum tax in 2008.

But as the chairman of the Budget Committee, I wish to be clear to my colleagues that the provisions in this amendment are not paid for. The extender and other provisions are only partially paid for, and the alternative minimum tax relief is not paid for at all. That, I believe, is a serious mistake. I fully support these provisions, but they should be paid for. I earlier offered an alternative minimum tax package that was paid for—fully paid for—and paid for in a way that it should be.

This spring, I made a commitment to the Blue Dogs in the House that I would raise a point of order against any unpaid alternative minimum tax bill in the Senate. The Blue Dogs are to be commended for fighting for fiscal discipline. I intend to keep my commitment to them and to raise a pay-go point of order against this bill. I do it not just because I made that commitment but because I believe it is the right policy as well.

I wish to remind my colleagues that pay-go does not require that these bills be paid for immediately. Pay-go requires that the legislation be paid for over 6 and 11 years. Given the economic downturn and turmoil we now confront, I would not call for paying for these tax reductions right now. But I also do not believe we can simply add them to the national debt without any offset over any period of time. That I believe is a mistake.

We can provide offsets to pay for these measures over the longer term, and we should. That would be the responsible thing to do, and it would send a signal to our financial markets that we are serious about putting our fiscal house back into order. So I will vote to uphold my point of order today, but I also recognize my point of order will fail and that this legislation will pass and be sent to the House.

Now, why is there a need to have alternative minimum tax relief? Well, the simple answer is: Because if we don't, 26 million people will be hit with additional taxes. In 2008, we would have 4.2 million affected if we passed the alternative minimum tax relief. With no AMT fix, 25.7 million would be affected. In other words, we would have 21 million more affected if we don't have a 1-year fix.

The 1-year cost of this alternative minimum tax and extender package is $104 billion. But these annual fixes, as costly as they are, conceal the much larger long-term cost of fixing this problem. The cost to reform the alternative minimum tax over the next 10 years is $1.6 trillion. Let me repeat that. The cost to fix the alternative minimum tax over the next 10 years is $1.6 trillion.

On the path we are following, we will absorb all that additional debt without a dime of it being paid for. I believe that is a profound mistake. Not only do I believe it, but the Congressional Budget Office confirms it. Over the summer I asked the Congressional Budget Office to examine the impact on our budget—and, more importantly, on our economy—from continuing to pass these unpaid-for, unoffset tax reductions. The Congressional Budget Office found that the debt absolutely explodes if we continue to pass the alternative minimum tax fixes without paying for them, without offsets. To go further, to pass an extension of the President's tax cuts without paying for them, without offsets, would increase the debt as a share of the gross domestic product to 602 percent.

Is anybody fiscally responsible in this Chamber anymore? Does anybody care about the effect on the debt, and more importantly, on the economy? The Congressional Budget Office, let me repeat, made it very clear. Here is what is going to happen to the debt without fixes to the alternative minimum tax, without extending the President's tax cuts. You can see the debt under any scenario is going to rise dramatically, but, if we keep passing alternative minimum tax fixes without paying for them, the debt will skyrocket. If we add to that an extension of the President's tax cuts without it being paid for, the red line shows what happens to the debt. Under that scenario, according to the Congressional Budget Office, the debt will reach 602 percent of the gross domestic product in 2082.

After World War II, the debt as a share of GDP was about 125 percent. The debt was about 125 percent of the gross domestic product. The Congressional Budget Office is telling us if we continue to pass these alternative minimum tax fixes without paying for them, and add in the cost of the President's tax cuts, the debt will reach over 600 percent of gross domestic product in 2082.

More importantly, the Congressional Budget Office concluded that the effect on economic growth would also be dramatic and devastating. Specifically, the Congressional Budget Office found that a failure to pay for these policies, the alternative minimum tax fixes and extension of the President's tax cuts, will result in an economic loss of almost 50 percent in the gross national product, per person, in roughly the next 65 years. In other words, instead of growing the economy, the Congressional Budget Office is finding and telling us that the debt created by these unoffset tax cuts will act as a giant anchor on this economy, dragging us down with debt and deficits, leading to higher interest rates, leading to less economic growth, more unemployment, and a weaker America.

In CBO's letter to me presenting the results of its analysis, the agency noted that the economic disruption caused by these deficits and debt is likely to be far worse than their own models show. Here is what they said:

Despite the substantial economic costs generated by deficits in that model, such estimates may significantly understate the potential loss to economic growth from financing the tax changes with deficits . . . In reality, the economic effects of rapidly growing debt would probably be much more disorderly and could occur well before the time frame indicated in the scenario.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent for an additional minute.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. CONRAD. Mr. President, I don't know when we are going to absorb this cruel lesson, but deficits and debt do matter. It is not just numbers on a page. This is the question of the economic performance of this country. What the Congressional Budget Office is telling us is that the explosion of deficits and debt hurt long-term economic growth and hurt it a lot—a reduction of 50 percent of the gross national product per person of this country.

I deeply believe one of the reasons we have the economic turmoil we have now is because of the explosion of deficits and debt fueling a gigantic bubble. That bubble is bursting and the pain is spreading.

We have to make a judgment. We have to make a determination. When do we start paying for things around here? When do we quit shuffling it off onto the debt? When do we stop threatening long-term economic growth and the economic strength of the country?

Today could be the day that we begin the march toward responsibility. For that reason I will offer a budget point of order on this measure that is unpaid for and urge my colleagues to support the previous amendment I offered to fully pay for the alternative minimum tax fix that otherwise will hit over 25 million Americans.

Mr. President, under the rules of the Senate I will offer the budget point of order as we approach that vote.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Iowa is recognized.

AMENDMENT NO. 5634

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I want to speak on the second or third amendments we are going to be voting on. But before I do that, I think the Senator from North Dakota has asked a very important question that I want to address: Is anyone around here concerned about the debt?

I want to remind everybody that it seems uncharacteristic to be able to speak about concern about the debt when it comes to the issue of tax policy, and not reducing taxes but basically in this bill keeping taxes where they have been for years and in some instances for more than a decade, but at the same time not think in terms of the debt when it comes to spending policy.

I have heard the Senator from North Dakota speak about concern about the debt when it comes to tax policy and the necessity to raise taxes to keep the existing tax policy in place. But at a time that we have increases in spending, I do not hear people talking about offsetting increases in expenditures.

I spoke this morning about pay-as-you-go somehow applying to taxes, but when it comes to increased spending we do not see the same concern about spending as it is with tax policy. That is an inconsistency that shows to me that the other party—at least the Senator from North Dakota—is concerned about the debt when it comes to talking about taxes, but when it comes to talking about spending I do not see that same concern. Hence I see an inconsistency in the debate on the issue of pay-as-you-go.

On this issue in this tax bill we are not talking about reducing taxes, we are talking about taxes that have sunset and periodically Congress deals with: Should we keep those same tax policies in place? For the most part, this bill is nothing more than keeping existing tax policy in place. As on the alternative minimum tax, it has been a policy of this Congress for a long period of time, at least since 2001, that we would not tax middle-income people because the alternative minimum tax was not indexed. This bill does that for the year 2008, so 25 million middle-income families do not pay more. They were not intended to pay it with tax policy of that nature—keeping it right where it is.

It is one thing to say we ought to raise taxes on other Americans to keep that tax policy where it has been, of not taxing the middle-income folks with the alternative minimum tax. But the game around here and in the amendment suggested by the Senator from North Dakota is to raise taxes permanently but to reduce the alternative minimum tax—I should not say reduce it, keep it so it doesn't hit 25 million Americans, where it has been, for 1 more year. So you have a tax increase forever to offset the tax policy that is for 1 year and sunseting and have to deal with it next year. So next year we come back and if you follow his analogy, you raise taxes someplace else forever but probably deal with the alternative minimum tax for a short period of time of a year or probably at most 2 years.

We see it as a gimmick to raise taxes forever but not to take care of the problems of middle-income taxpayers not being hit by the alternative minimum tax, but for 1 year—once in a while for 2 years but in this bill for 1 year. So that is my response to the Senator from North Dakota. I hope people, as we have, do as we have done before. This body last year decided that when we keep tax policy where it has been for a long period of time and we want to extend it for 1 more year, we do not raise taxes on other Americans to continue doing what we have done for a long period of time.

While Members of this body may disagree on a lot of issues, there are some concepts that I think we should all be able to agree on. For instance, I think we can all agree it is not fair to penalize one group of people for another group of people's mistakes; second, that two wrongs don't make a right. Despite the fact that all of us may agree on these basic ideas, the amendment we have before us today suggests otherwise. So the Conrad amendment attempts to violate these principles—first by punishing taxpayers for the repeated mistakes of Congress not indexing the alternative minimum tax and, second, by attempting to correct Congress's original mistakes with yet another mistake.

The original mistake I am referring to, of course, is the alternative minimum tax. We all know the story. The alternative minimum tax was created 40 years ago in response to the discovery that a few people, 155 wealthy taxpayers, were able to eliminate their entire tax liability through legal means. The goal of the AMT was to guarantee that extremely wealthy people were not able to game the system and avoid paying some income tax. While this doesn't sound like a bad plan—on the surface, at least—the design and execution of this plan could not have been worse. That is because it was not indexed. Today, nearly 40 years after this travesty of a law that was put into place, the alternative minimum tax continues to fail on every level as a policy instrument while plaguing more than 4 million American taxpayers on a yearly basis. If we do not do something, 25 million more people will be hit this very year.

Since 2001 the Finance Committee has produced annual legislation to do what we call hold harmless the amount of families and individuals who are subject to this AMT. The amendment before us, if agreed to, would fully offset the alternative minimum tax fix for the year 2008. While I have said it on numerous occasions in the past, I want to say it again: The alternative minimum tax is a phony revenue source. It should not be offset, since it collects revenue that was never meant to be collected in the first place. In other words, it was meant to be collected only from very wealthy people and not from middle-income Americans. Therefore, I urge my colleagues to join me in rejecting this amendment.

Let's look at some of the reasons the 2008 AMT fix should not be offset. First, we need to go back to the original purpose of the alternative minimum tax. As I said earlier, 155 wealthy taxpayers were able to completely avoid Federal income taxes in 1969, and the AMT was put in place to make sure this practice did not continue.

So in 2008 has this problem been eliminated? Well, the answer is, absolutely not. In 2004, IRS Commissioner Mark Everson informed the Finance Committee that the same number of taxpayers, as a percentage of the tax-filing population at large, continued to pay no Federal income tax. In fact, the most recent IRS data available on high-income returns show that this problem is getting worse. According to an IRS analysis of tax year 2004, 2,351 taxpayers with incomes of $200,000 or more who do not use the medical or dental expense deduction had no income tax. In 2005, the number rose to 6,640. In other words, 6,640 taxpayers with incomes of $200,000 or more paid no income tax in 2005, which is over 42 times greater than the number—the 155—of wealthy taxpayers who paid no income tax in 1969. After nearly 40 years of failure and futility by the alternative minimum tax, the problem of wealthy taxpayers legally eliminating their entire tax liability is over 40 times worse than it was in 1969.

Clearly, the alternative minimum tax was and is a mistake. It is not doing what it was proposed to do. If you keep it on the books, it is going to kill the middle-income taxpayer.

Despite widespread agreement that the alternative minimum tax is a mistake and that something needs to be done about it, agreement on what exactly to do is not so widespread. A major factor in the disagreement relates to the massive amount of money the alternative minimum tax brings into the Federal Government, which is the only thing the AMT actually does well. In 2006, AMT filers paid more than $21.8 billion into the Federal Treasury, which is up from $17.2 billion in 2005 and greater than the $12.8 billion in 2004.

If we do not extend the most recent AMT hold harmless, that number is projected to balloon to a much greater amount, and long-term budget forecasts currently show this greater amount coming into the Treasury. When forecasters put their projections together, they are working under assumptions that the hold harmless that was extended last year will not be extended again because they base their assumptions on what the law says right now. Because of this, budget planners make the assumption that revenues will be much higher than everyone who is frustrated with the AMT thinks they ought to be because we have concluded that middle-income people never have paid this tax, never should pay it, so consequently the revenue is not going to come in. But the reason for this is then the AMT balloons the revenue base as it is projected to increase revenues as a percentage of GDP. There is a great deal of evidence to support this. Therefore, since these projections showing the AMT ballooning revenues are used to put together budgets, the central problem in dealing with the AMT is money.

There are some people who say we can only address the AMT if offsetting revenue can be found to replace the money the AMT is currently forecast to collect. Anyone who says this sees the forecasts showing revenues being pumped up as a percentage of GDP and wants to keep them there.

This argument is especially ridiculous when one considers that the AMT was never meant to collect nearly so much revenue. Subscribers to this argument want taxpayers to pay the price for a tax that was designed poorly and, through a comedy of errors, was allowed to flourish. It is simply unfair to expect taxpayers to pay a tax they were never intended to pay.

Offsetting the AMT would be a clear case of attempting to correct a past congressional mistake by punishing innocent taxpayers both today and into the future. If we are going to solve this problem, we need to look on the other side of the ledger; that is, the spending side. Budget planners need to take off their rose-colored glasses when looking at long-term revenue projections and read the fine print. In general, it is a good idea to spend money within your means, and that wisdom holds true in this case as well. If we start trying to spend revenues we expect to collect in the future because of the AMT, we will be living beyond our means. We need to stop assuming that record levels of revenue are available to be spent and recognize that the AMT is a phony revenue source.

As we continue to consider how to deal with the AMT, we must first remember that we do not have the option of not dealing with it. The problems will only get worse every year and make the solution even more difficult.

We must also be clear that offsetting the revenue that the AMT would fail to collect as a result of repeal or reform should not be a condition of repeal or reform. We should not call it "lost revenue" because it is revenue that we never had to begin with. Making the offsetting of the AMT's ill-gotten gains a condition of an AMT fix is to punish the American taxpayer for ill-conceived and poorly executed policy that has been a total failure.

Aside from not increasing the proportion of wealthy taxpayers who pay income tax, the AMT is projected to balloon Federal revenues over historical averages and to become a greater source of revenue than even the regular income tax. Budget forecasters need to recognize that the AMT is not a legitimate source of revenue, and Congress needs to be disciplined enough to show restraint on spending so that the AMT solution does not boil down to the replacement of one misguided policy with another. The amendment before us would certainly be such a misguided policy, so I urge my colleagues to reject this amendment because two wrongs certainly do not make a right.

We are almost three quarters of the way through the year 2008, and since January 1 of this year, several tax relief provisions have expired. These are what we call the tax extenders. The biggest one I have just referred to is the alternative minimum tax affecting 25 million Americans. There are a number of other widely applicable tax relief provisions in the bill. One provides millions of families with the deduction for college tuition, and another provides a deduction for teachers for out-of-pocket expenses. There is one that is very important to innovation in American business, which is a research and development tax credit.

All of these tax relief provisions expired over 8 months ago. So far, the Senate has not passed these popular expiring and expired tax extender provisions. However, the Senate has now reached a bipartisan agreement that should enable us to pass this third amendment we will be voting on shortly. The third amendment contains these popular individual and business tax extender provisions as well as the alternative minimum tax fix, the incentive stock option AMT fix, disaster tax relief, and other important provisions such as the secure rural schools and mental health parity provisions.

You might ask, now that the Senate is expected to pass these tax extenders and other tax relief in this third amendment, what could hold up these important, bipartisan, time-sensitive tax relief measures? They are time sensitive. In short, the answer is, the philosophy in the other body by the Democratic leadership's version of pay-go.

I have worked with the Senate Democratic leadership, including my friend Chairman BAUCUS, in putting together this bipartisan tax relief package. However, it seems in the other body the leadership is saying that instead of taking this amendment we will pass today, along with the energy tax extenders we will pass today, they will instead insist that more of this tax relief be offset with tax increases elsewhere.

I have spoken on this before, and the hangup the leadership in the other body has is that they obsess over raising taxes to offset continuing current tax relief policies. I offered a deficit-neutral path for these tax extenders, a restraint on new spending, but I got no takers. The leadership of the other body has been so obsessed with raising taxes that they were willing to hold hostage popular, bipartisan tax relief measures. Now the House leadership is threatening to kill these tax extenders unless they get the tax increase they want so badly.

It reminds me of the nursery rhyme story. I am referring to the story of the big bad wolf. I have a chart here that depicts the big bad wolf. You remember the story—the big bad wolf that threatened the three little pigs. He said: I am going to huff and puff and blow your house down. The Democratic leadership is playing the role of the big bad wolf right now. There is some serious huffing and puffing from my friends in the Democratic leadership in the other body.

For those millions of families sending their kids to college, forget about your tax deduction unless Democrats get their offsetting tax increases. They have ignored the spending cut proposals I circulated a few months ago. So they are not holding tax extenders hostage to a pledge to pay for them; they are holding tax extenders hostage to their version of pay-go, which is guaranteed tax increases. More revenue means more spending and bigger Government.

What we have is huffing and puffing and a threat to blow the tax extenders house down by the big bad wolf. A partisan obsession with a tax-increase version of pay-go will not, at the end of the day, trump bipartisan, popular tax relief measures that millions of families are counting on. The House should take up the bill we have passed today and pass it through the House as well so we can send it to the President for his signature. If the House does not do this, the House leadership will have some explaining to do to millions of families and hundreds of thousands of businesses that will ask: What is more important—a partisan agenda or doing the taxpayers' business? Will House Democrats tell their constituents that having a big Government was more important to them than providing tax relief to their constituents suffering from natural disasters, as one example? Will House Democrats tell their constituents that partisan politics was more important to them than providing tax incentives to lower the high gas prices they are paying and moving away from our dependence on foreign oil, as another example? I will wait for a response from the House leadership. More importantly, the House Democrats' constituents should hear the answer.

I urge you to vote yes on this third amendment. I also urge our friends in the House to pass this genuine compromise.

I ask unanimous consent to have printed in the RECORD a copy of the President's Statement of Administration Policy dated September 23 in support of this compromise.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

EXECUTIVE OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT,
OFFICE OF MANAGEMENT AND BUDGET, WASHINGTON, DC,

September 23, 2008.

STATEMENT OF ADMINISTRATION POLICY

SENATE AMENDMENTS TO H.R. 6049—ENERGY IMPROVEMENT AND EXTENSION ACT OF 2008 AND TAX EXTENDERS AND ALTERNATIVE MINIMUM TAX RELIEF ACT OF 2008

The Administration supports prompt passage of the above-named Senate amendments to H.R. 6049. This legislation is important to protect about 26 million Americans from an unwelcome tax increase in the form of the Alternative Minimum Tax. This legislation would also extend the tax credit for research and experimentation (R&E) expenses, incentives for charitable giving, subpart F active financing and look-through exceptions, and the new markets tax credit. The Administration supports these provisions and supports the passage of this legislation, despite the inclusion of several provisions that the Administration opposes.

The Administration supports tax incentives for renewable energy and has proposed replacing the current complicated mix of temporary incentives with a comprehensive unified approach that is carbon-weighted, is technology-neutral, and provides long-term certainty. The Administration believes this approach would be preferable to the provisions included in the Senate amendments.

It is the policy of this Administration that efforts to avoid tax increases on the American people should not be offset by provisions to increase revenue and treated as the equivalent of additional government spending under budgetary guidelines. Protecting taxpayers from the higher 2008 AMT liability and extending current rules for business taxation should not be impeded by the same procedural barriers as provisions to increase Congressional spending. For this reason, the Administration supports the provisions in the Senate amendments that provide individual and business tax relief without subjecting Americans to offsetting tax increases.

The Administration remains strongly opposed to provisions that would freeze the domestic manufacturing deduction for one industry, change the tax treatment of foreign income for American energy companies operating abroad, and eliminate the cap on the oil spill liability trust fund, raising the price of a barrel of oil. These provisions will increase the costs of American oil production, will give further advantages to foreign suppliers, and will likely result in higher prices at the pump. At a time when consumers are already struggling with the high price of gasoline and diesel fuel, Congress should not put additional upward pressure on fuel prices. As a matter of general principle, the Administration opposes singling out particular industries, based on political considerations, to be denied the full amount of broadly available tax advantages. In addition, the Administration strongly opposes the provision in the bill treating U.S. citizens with deferred compensation from certain employers, in all industries, more unfavorably than other U.S. citizens. The Administration is also concerned about certain incentives included in the bill, such as expensive and highly inefficient tax credit bonds. The Administration urges Congress to eliminate all such provisions from the final bill. Finally, the Administration opposes new mandatory funding for Payments in Lieu of Taxes, and believes that any extension of rural community payments should be phased out, as it has previously proposed. The Administration urges Congress to eliminate all such provisions from the final bill.

The Administration supports passage of mental health parity legislation included in the Senate amendments to H.R. 6049 that eliminates disparities between mental health benefits and medical and surgical benefits without significantly increasing health coverage costs. Also, the Administration is pleased that the Senate amendments include the President's Budget proposal to restructure and eventually retire the debt of the Black Lung Disability Trust Fund.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mrs. MCCASKILL.) The Senator from Montana is recognized.

Mr. BAUCUS. Madam President, I yield 10 minutes from the time on the bill to the senior Senator from Connecticut, a senior member of the HELP Committee and a longstanding advocate of the mental parity part of the third amendment. I also yield 10 minutes to the Senator from Minnesota from the time on the bill for her to use after the Senator from Oregon speaks, following the Senator from Connecticut.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The Senator from Connecticut is recognized.

Mr. DODD. Madam President, first let me thank my dear and longtime friend, Senator MAX BAUCUS, for his kind comments. I appreciate them very much. And let me thank him and Senator GRASSLEY as well. There are a lot of people to thank about all of this, but we wouldn't be here today talking about this were it not for MAX BAUCUS and CHUCK GRASSLEY making it possible, as part of the tax extenders bill, to deal with this longstanding issue, mental health parity, that affects so many millions of our fellow citizens. I am confident mental health parity is going to become the law of the land before we adjourn, in a few days, this session of Congress.

I rise in strong support of the Paul Wellstone and Pete Domenici Mental Health Parity and Addiction Equity Act of 2008, which, as I mentioned, is included in the tax extenders package. This is a very proud moment for millions of Americans who have fought for this but also who know, who are themselves, have family members, neighbors, friends, neighbors, coworkers affected by mental illness.

Let me begin by commending someone who is not here today, Senator TED KENNEDY, who we all know is recovering from a strong challenge himself at his home in Massachusetts. He asked me, along with BARBARA MIKULSKI, to take on a couple issues when he had to leave and go back home to try and get his health back. BARBARA MIKULSKI did a remarkable job in dealing with the higher education bill. Senator KENNEDY asked me to monitor and work with our Senate colleagues and our colleagues in the other body on the mental health parity bill. While it has not yet been adopted, we are about to do so in the Senate. It is a moment to congratulate our friend and colleague from Massachusetts who needs no further words from me about his commitment or his family's commitment, his remarkable sisters, Eunice Shriver, Jean Kennedy Smith, and his brothers over the years. This has been a family crusade, the issue of mental health parity, in addition to the work of Paul Wellstone and PETE DOMENICI.

This is also a great triumph. I know it is a matter of deep pride but also of relief as well that at long last we will recognize the importance of mental health. Let me mention PETE DOMENICI. PETE is a wonderful friend of mine. We are two people of opposite political parties who don't agree on a lot, looking back over the years we have been here together. We have taken different sides of many issues. But PETE and Nancy Domenici are remarkable people. He will be leaving the Senate in a few days after a distinguished career. I had the honor of being with PETE and Nancy in Las Cruces, NM, to speak at a dinner for him at the Pete Domenici Center for Public Policy, which is now going to be part of New Mexico State University. I had dinner with PETE and several colleagues, past and present, who have worked with him over the years. The Domenicis know about this issue, not just from an intellectual standpoint but a personal one as well. It is a matter of great pride to PETE and his family as well that our country, at least by the expression of this body and the other, recognizes the deep importance of this issue. We will hear shortly from my friend from Oregon who understands this matter very well indeed, personally, as well.

I thank all those involved. Paul Wellstone was a remarkable guy. What a tragedy to lose him a few years ago, him and his family, in that dreadful plane crash. No one cared more about this issue day in and day out than Paul Wellstone. The first day he arrived, he started talking about it and never stopped during his tenure. Today, we are recognizing him by calling this the Paul Wellstone and Pete Domenici mental health parity bill. His son Dave has been a champion on behalf of his father's cause. I wish to mention Dave and how proud his parents would be that he has carried this cause on to both Chambers. PATRICK KENNEDY as well has championed this issue on the House side, Senator TED KENNEDY's son, who is a distinguished Member in his own right of the House of Representatives and has done a great job on this issue. I know there are a lot of others who are part of this. I don't want to forget anyone.

I ask unanimous consent that a list of some 250 organizations that have been a part of this crusade be printed in the RECORD. I also ask unanimous consent that a statement by Mrs. Rosalynn Carter, Former First Lady of the United States and Chairwoman of the Carter Center's Mental Health Task Force, in support of passage of the Paul Wellstone and Pete Domenici

Mental Health Parity and Addiction Equity Act of 2008 be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

MENTAL HEALTH LIAISON GROUP,
September 10, 2008.

Hon. NANCY PELOSI,
Speaker of the House,
House of Representatives, Washington, DC.
Hon. JOHN BOEHNER,
Minority Leader,
House of Representatives, Washington, DC.
Hon. HARRY REID,
Majority Leader,
U.S. Senate, Washington, DC.
Hon. MITCH MCCONNELL,
Minority Leader,
U.S. Senate, Washington, DC.

DEAR SPEAKER PELOSI, LEADER BOEHNER, LEADER REID, AND LEADER MCCONNELL: We are writing to express our support for the mental health and addiction parity compromise developed by House and Senate negotiators. We urge Congress to pass this important legislation before adjourning in September.

Congress has taken a major step forward in developing this thoughtful and balanced bipartisan legislation. We applaud the long, hard work engaged in by you and your colleagues in approving and reconciling the bipartisan House and Senate parity bills (H.R. 1424, S. 558). We urge Congress to take the last, most important step by passing this legislation.

Passage of the balanced and bipartisan mental health and addiction parity legislation would represent the fruition of many years of work by members of Congress, advocates, employer organizations and health plans to build on the Mental Health Parity Act of 1996. This broad and diverse coalition stands united in support of the parity compromise. Now, Congress has the chance to reach the goal of enacting this consensus legislation, before a new administration and a new Congress take office, and broader health policy issues begin demanding policymakers' time and attention.

We ask Congress to pass federal mental health and addiction parity legislation now.

Sincerely,

STATEMENT FOR THE RECORD IN SUPPORT OF THE PASSAGE OF THE PAUL WELLSTONE AND PETE DOMENICI MENTAL HEALTH PARITY AND ADDICTION EQUITY ACTION OF 2008, BY MRS. ROSALYNN CARTER, FORMER FIRST LADY OF THE UNITED STATES, CHAIRWOMAN, CARTER CENTER'S MENTAL HEALTH TASK FORCE, ATLANTA, GEORGIA

I am pleased to have the opportunity to express my strong support for the passage of a critical health issue facing millions of Americans: parity for the treatment of mental illnesses and substance use disorders.

I have been working on mental health issues for more than 35 years. When I began no one understood the brain or how to treat mental illnesses. Today everything has changed—except stigma, of course, which holds back progress in the field.

Because of research and our new knowledge of the brain, mental illnesses now can be diagnosed and treated effectively, and the overwhelming majority of those affected can lead normal lives—being contributing citizens in our communities.

I join many individuals and hundreds of national organizations calling for an end to the fundamental, stigmatizing inequity of providing far more limited insurance coverage for mental health care than for treatment of any other illnesses. Again, I join forces with my friend Betty Ford in urging action on this important issue.

Jimmy and I founded The Carter Center 25 years ago, and I have a very good mental health program there. Annually we bring together leaders to take action on major mental health issues of concern to the nation. We have focused many times on stigma and discrimination and the importance of insuring adequate, equitable coverage for people with mental illnesses.

To me, it is unconscionable in our country and morally unacceptable to treat 20 percent of our population (1 in every 5 people in our country will experience a mental illness this year) as though they were not worthy of care. We preach human rights and civil rights and yet we let people suffer because of an illness they didn't ask for and for which there is sound treatment. Then we pay the price for this folly in homelessness, lives lost, families torn apart, loss of productivity, and the costs of treatment in our prisons and jails.

I have always believed that if insurance covered mental illnesses, it would be all right to have them. This may be why the stigma has remained so pervasive—because these illnesses are treated differently from other health conditions.

All mental illnesses are potentially devastating. But today living a life in recovery from a mental illness is not only possible, but expected. We had an intern at The Carter Center this spring, for example, who has obsessive compulsive disorder and depression. While she was in high school, she once spent two solid weeks in her house, unable to leave or be with her friends. I am happy to say that she received treatment, is a college graduate with Phi Beta Kappa honors, and just got a job in Washington, DC. Without resources and support, she could still be sick and shut in her home, which is what happens to so many who do not get the help they need because of lack of the ability to pay for services. We as a country lose all the many contributions of these wonderful people.

I have the pleasure of being friends with Tom Johnson, the former publisher of the Los Angeles Times and former CEO of CNN and a person who has struggled with depression. He has been interested in the mental health benefits offered by employers in Atlanta. He and two other prominent CEOs in the Atlanta community—all of whom have suffered from severe depression and are now great leaders—have had an enormous impact on businesses in the area.

Through the research of people like Howard Goldman and Richard Frank, we know that parity in insurance benefits for behavioral health care has no significant increase in total costs when coupled with management of care. We also know that a number of enlightened companies such as AT&T, Delta Air Lines, Eastman Kodak, General Motors, and IBM have provided comprehensive coverage for their employees. (Report to the Office of Personnel Management, by Washington Business Group on Health)

Since the mental health commission we held during Jimmy's presidency, there have been several major reports released including the first Surgeon General's Report on Mental Health, President Bush's New Freedom Commission on Mental Health, and the Institute of Medicine included mental and substance use conditions in its series of reports on the quality of American health care. All of the reports reinforce the statement that effective treatments are available, but most people who need them do not get them.

The whole nation has learned a lot about the importance of mental health issues through the events of Hurricane Katrina and the needs of our returning soldiers and National Guard troops. We support our troops in the field, and it is critical that we continue to support them when they come home.

Finally, I would like to comment on the number of states that have moved ahead with parity. These have been long-fought battles with some states managing wonderful successes. It is so important that stronger state parity laws continue to improve the lives of people with mental illness and addiction. It is also critically important that plans not override the intent of this legislation by discriminating against those with certain diagnoses of mental illness and addiction in their coverage. I am glad to see that this legislation includes efforts to keep a close watch on this issue. The intent of this law is fairness, not discrimination.

After waiting for 15 years, we finally have mental health and addiction parity legislation in sight. If this legislation is passed, many of our citizens will be healthier, and our nation will be stronger, more resilient, and more productive.

On behalf of the millions of people affected by mental illnesses, I applaud your efforts to pass the mental health and addiction parity legislation. I know the work has been hard, but the benefits to our nation will be enormous.

Mr. DODD. I thank them and others who have been a part of this. Senator HARRY REID, the majority leader, doesn't often get recognized, but without him, none of this happens. While we associate mental health parity issues with Senator KENNEDY and Paul Wellstone and PETE DOMENICI and others, the majority leader makes all this possible. While he probably wouldn't say so himself on this issue, I can guarantee you we were not going to leave for this session of Congress without a chance to vote on this issue. HARRY REID made it a quiet, personal commitment that this body would have a chance to express itself on this issue. Without that kind of commitment from the distinguished majority leader, these matters often can slip away and disappear. To HARRY REID, the majority leader, the Senator from Nevada, to the millions of people affected by this issue as well, we thank him for his commitment.

This legislation has the potential to impact 1.8 million insured individuals from my home State of Connecticut, 150 million Americans in the United States, but with 1 in 5 American families directly affected by mental illness, the impact of this legislation will be much broader. Every one of us, every American knows a friend, has a relative, a neighbor, a coworker, colleague whose life has been touched by mental illness in one way or the other. With this legislation, we are saying that mental illness will no longer take a backseat to physical illness.

With this legislation, we are taking an important step toward tearing down the stigma that people with mental illness face every single day and have for decades. The Paul Wellstone and Pete Domenici Mental Health Parity and Addiction Equity Act will end health insurance discrimination between mental health and substance abuse disorders and medical and surgical conditions. Upon passage of this bill, health insurers will no longer be permitted to charge higher copays or limit the frequency of treatment for people with mental illness than what they would for a medical or surgical condition. The bill before us builds on what the Senate passed unanimously 1 year ago. The bill strengthens the requirements around out-of-network benefits for mental illness and improves the transparency of decisions made by insurance companies with respect to mental health coverage.

A component of the bill I wish to highlight is its protection of State laws that provide for greater consumer protection than what exists in Federal law. I take pride in the fact that I represent the small State of Connecticut. Yet my State recognized the disparity between insurance coverage for physical and mental illness years ago. They did so by taking a significant step to address mental illness by enacting strong mental health parity and consumer protection laws. These laws far exceed what currently exists in Federal law, and I believe the bill before us today will allow my State and others to maintain those strong laws in the future. The protection and preservation of State law is an issue I have fought long and hard for during Senate consideration of this bill. It is an issue of crucial importance to my State and will no doubt be a central issue next year, when I hope this body acts on legislation to finally make mental health care universal in this country as part of a universal health care effort.

Of all the health care issues I have worked on, it is a rarity to find an issue with as many diverse interests putting their full weight behind passage of a bill such as this. As I mentioned, more than 250 national organizations, representing consumers, family members, advocates, professionals, and providers have signed a letter urging Congress to pass this legislation into law. It is so important that we have that kind of support. I will not go through all the organizations involved, but I wish to highlight the work of the Connecticut Psychological Association, Aetna, which is headquartered in Hartford, and the Connecticut Insurance Department and Office of Healthcare Advocacy. They have all played an important role in this legislation.

Again, I urge my colleagues to act now and pass this bill. We tip our hat to TED KENNEDY, Paul Wellstone, PETE DOMENICI, and all those who fought and care about this issue. It is a great moment for the country.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Oregon.

Mr. SMITH. Madam President, I thank the Senator from Connecticut, Mr. DODD, for his statement on health parity. When I first began wrestling with this issue, he was unusually helpful to me in breaking the dam, this cause of mental health and suicide prevention. I thank him for that. I will never forget him for that. I think of Senator KENNEDY and of PETE DOMENICI and others who have been my allies to move not just the youth component but mental health parity as an essential ingredient, to help move it forward and put it on a basis that is equal with physical health. The truth is, if you have physical health and you don't have mental health, you do not have health. In fact, you may have something just as lethal as leukemia or any other dreaded disease.

America is taking a great step forward with the passage of this extenders package today. I suspect many of my colleagues are having their phones ring off the hook as we speak on the issue of financial insecurity that is leading the headlines of the papers and on all the news shows and talk shows. It is something that is deeply distressing to every American and certainly to this American.

What we have in this country that we are dealing with, at its root, is a crisis in confidence over credit. Right or wrong, like it or not, commerce in this country runs on credit. Small businesses without cashflow have to take out loans. As I evaluate this package—and I have made no decision on it—I am going to be looking to make sure there are no golden parachutes, to make sure this is not a bailout of fat cats but that this goes to Main Street in ways that help people who are already suffering the consequences. We can do things such as extending unemployment insurance, improving LIHEAP. We can even add additional funds to food stamps. But at the end of the day, what does matter to the people who have a job and go to work is to have employers who are creditworthy. If their banks are not creditworthy, if their banks have written their assets down so much that when you put your money in, they keep it, they don't lend it out—when that happens, commerce stops. Jobs are lost. The carnage spreads. That is what we are dealing with in this very difficult week in the Senate, to make sure we do the best we can in this deliberative body that the Constitution gives the purse strings.

We have to do it right. If it comes up wrong, we have to start over and do it better. There is no place for golden parachutes for those who have taken advantage of the rules on Wall Street in ways that have victimized many people. We have already put $300 billion toward the bailout of Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac. These are government-sponsored enterprises. In those institutions, apparently the leaders, the boards, were playing fast and loose with the terms Congress gave them in their charter in a way that is both deplorable and more than lamentable. There are people who need to be held accountable for what has happened. But Fannie and Freddie are the central plank in the problem of our credit. That is what started the dominos.

Having said that, I do wish to suggest that this extenders package is most worthy of passage, not just because of the mental health parity that is included, but I wish to talk about another feature that my colleague RON WYDEN and I have been working on ever since we have been in the Senate together. That is the secure rural schools extension. This has been most difficult because it has not been easy to explain to our colleagues all over the country who do not know what it is like to have the Federal Government own most of your State. When the Federal Government owns your State, the local governments cannot tax the Federal Government. So dating back to the beginning of statehood in Oregon in 1859, there was a relationship developed between the Congress and Oregon, and other similarly situated States, whereby they would receive 25 percent of what are called timber taxes or mining taxes or extraction taxes, these kinds of resources that come from public lands.

It is through that, because the counties don't have a tax base, that rural folks are able to have schools, streets, and neighborhoods that are safe, with police protection. That worked very well, even through a big reformation period under Teddy Roosevelt, when these things were redone. It has worked very well. But in the 1990s, there came a great effort to save the spotted owl. There came a change in forest policy with the Clinton administration. The purpose was to save the spotted owl. We learned now, decades later, that the spotted owl was not imperiled by logging. It is now imperiled by catastrophic wildfire. It is now imperiled by a nonnative owl called the bard owl, and the bard owl likes to eat the spotted owl. Nevertheless, the carnage has been done. At the end of the Clinton administration, the President was good enough to sign replacement revenues which are called county payments or secure rural schools funding.

It has been hard to get these funds reauthorized. We had it extended by one year last year. This package extends it 4 years. It needs to be extended. This is not a golden parachute. This is keeping the covenant with rural counties. This is vital if we are to keep faith with rural places and people in very vulnerable areas.

I am delighted this legislation is included in the package. The Senate has passed it before with huge majorities because Senator WYDEN and I—he has worked that side of the aisle and I have worked this side of the aisle—made sure we got it in, that we keep enough support on both sides that it could make it to the House of Representatives, where I hope and I pray it will be accepted.

But I would conclude my remarks by saying: I understand from some of my neighboring States that the formula had to be changed. This bill represents a declining interest to Oregon of 60 percent. The 60 percent is based on a cut to Oregon, which is based on a new formula. The new formula is not based on history. You see, the old formula was that the money goes to those counties where God put the trees. Now, it is distributed differently, so our neighboring States can get more, and Oregon gets less. I do not like that.

But I want to say there is a way to remedy that deficiency, and that is to go back to a balance on forest policy that allows for a sustainable yield, allows for the creation of timber jobs, allows for the development of American timber for American homes and American commerce. Instead of being a nation that imports lumber, we can once again be a self-sufficient country in lumber.

We need the help of the administration. We have had it with President Bush. We have not had it with the courts. But the courts, I hope, are changing because this is literally a matter of economic life and death for vulnerable rural communities. So what we have to have is this, which is the best we can get, and we need it for 4 years.

Then we need to make up this deficiency the old-fashioned way, by letting men and women in rural places go back to work, to manage our forests, these public lands that can be managed in a way that is consistent with the environment and creates the economic blessings Oregon and other places have known in the past. Those blessings, in short, are family-wage jobs, the kinds of jobs that pay property taxes, build schools, pave streets, and keep neighborhoods safe. If we can do that, all will be well and this day will represent a good day for the State of Oregon and particularly its rural parts and places.

With that, I thank the Presiding Officer for the time and yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Minnesota.

Ms. KLOBUCHAR. Madam President, I thank the Senator from Oregon for his support for the Paul Wellstone and Pete Domenici mental health parity bill, something I am going to talk about in a minute.

Madam President, as we focus on the very serious and urgent challenge facing our financial system, we must not lose sight of the equally serious challenge of building a solid foundation for America's economy in the long term. Today, we have the opportunity to vote on a bipartisan bill—the Energy Improvement and Extension Act—which will help America build that long-term foundation.

I thank Senator GRASSLEY and Senator BAUCUS for their work on this bill. The bill we vote on today provides an opportunity for the first step to move America forward. The way we have been handling these energy incentives has been like a game of red light, green light: on again, off again, on again, off again. While our country develops so much of the technology for wind and solar, we have now been leapfrogged by other countries that have more long-term policies in place that encourage investment in these areas.

You can drive past hundreds of massive wind turbines along Buffalo Ridge in southwestern Minnesota. My State is the third leading producer of wind power, and that is because our State, on a bipartisan basis, has set some standards and put those incentives in place. On the Iron Range in northeastern Minnesota, a large mining company has just announced it will invest $15 million to build a facility to produce a renewable biofuel using a variety of sources, such as switchgrass, corn husks and stover, wood byproducts and oat hulls. This is about the future of energy.

When I get questions about this and how we need to move with energy, I always remind people of the first start of the computer age when we had those big computers in those big rooms and they were inefficient, and over time they got more and more efficient, so those computers can fit in the palm of someone's hand. But to do that, as a country we are going to have to have that individual focus and that determination to invest and set those standards.

Today is the first step. I think our energy challenge offers similar opportunities that we had when we put a man on the Moon. So we have to ask ourselves this: Will the United States be a leader in creating the clean energy technology jobs and industries of the future or are we just going to sit back and watch the opportunities pass us by with Japan and Europe and India leading the way? Today, with the bill before us, we have the opportunity to be that energy leader.

AMENDMENT NO. 5635

We also have a chance to be a better leader in an area of health care where we have come up short for far too long. I am referring to the mental health parity bill that is included in this package. We have tried to pass this legislation through the Senate over and over again. These efforts predate my time in the Senate, and they continue to this day.

My friend and our former colleague, the Senator from Minnesota, Paul Wellstone, fought for this law as a matter of justice and fairness. Senator DOMENICI, on the other side of the aisle, was right there with him and has continued to press for this legislation. Senator KENNEDY has been a champion for this legislation, and Senator DURBIN. In the House, there is PATRICK KENNEDY and one of my favorite Republican Congressmen, JIM RAMSTAD from Minnesota. He is stepping down this year, and he does not want to leave until this bill gets done.

As Paul Wellstone always insisted: A mental health parity law is about equality and fairness. It is also about human dignity. Although much has changed over the years, people who suffer from a mental illness continue to suffer from a deep social stigma—something that can be just as challenging to live with as their illness. Their families suffer too. This legislation is not just about health insurance. It is also about eliminating the stigma and affirming the dignity of the Americans who suffer from a mental illness or an addiction.

Paul knew about this and cared about this issue because of his brother Steven who had a mental illness. He was hospitalized. His family was thrown into debt. Paul would often talk about how, during those years, there was a darkness in their home. Paul's brother eventually got proper treatment and secured his dignity at great cost to their family. Paul did not want anyone else to go through what their family went through.

He also cared about this bill because he always cared about the underdog, the person for whom it seemed as though there was nothing else there for them. That is what Paul Wellstone was about: putting those people first in the Halls of the Senate.

Whenever I walk through the Senate and say I am a Senator from Minnesota, I hear stories from other Senators about Paul. But the stories I remember most are those I hear from the secretaries in the front offices or the tram drivers or the police officers who guard the front of the Capitol. They, too, tell me about Paul and how good he was to them and how he treated them with respect. That is what Paul brought to this job. That is why he cared so much about this legislation.

In 1995, Minnesota enacted a mental health parity law that is among the strongest in the Nation. In the past 10 to 15 years, other States have enacted some version of mental health parity. The problem is that despite these State laws, 82 million Americans do not benefit because their employers' self-insurance plans come under the jurisdiction of the Federal Employee Retirement Income Security Act, or ERISA. It is time for them to receive the same protection as Americans whose insurance does not come under ERISA.

I think about the legendary Supreme Court Justice, Justice Brandeis, who had a famous saying about States being the laboratories of democracy. He said:

It is one of the happy incidents of the federal system that a single courageous state may, if its citizens choose, serve as a laboratory; and try novel social and economic experiments without risk to the rest of the country.

But Justice Brandeis did not mean that "novel social and economic experiments" must forever stay at the State level. If an experiment is successful at the State level—especially in many States—then it may very well be something that should be taken up on a larger national scale. Mental health parity has proven its value in State after State. Now it is time to take this well-tested innovation to the national level so our country has a uniform, equal standard of mental health parity that applies to self-insurance plans under the jurisdiction of ERISA.

There are so many good reasons for our Nation to have a mental health parity law: economic reasons, health reasons, criminal justice reasons, and reasons of basic fairness and human dignity. For me, there is one special reason why we must pass this legislation. That reason is Paul Wellstone. This legislation is about everything he stood for—about fighting for people who do not have power and do not have a voice, people who would rather hide than speak up because of the stigma and the shame, people who needlessly suffered because of discrimination and prejudice. This bill is about Paul. It is about his brother Steven. It is about his family. And it is about his determination to help bring justice and dignity to millions of Americans who live in the shadow of mental illness. When Paul was alive, many people in this Chamber said they wanted to pass this bill, and when Paul died, they said they wanted to pass this bill. Well, the time has come to pass this bill.

Senator KENNEDY, home watching everything that goes on in this Chamber, wants to get this done. Before he retires, JIM RAMSTAD wants to get this done. And Paul Wellstone's sons have been here day after day walking the halls of the Capitol, knocking on doors, trying to do this for their father's memory. We have waited too long.

We have the opportunity to finally get this bill into law. It is an opportunity to put aside all the excuses and, instead, to put front and center all of the many good reasons this law will serve our Nation well. I hope, when this vote comes up today, this bill will pass and it will pass by a large margin. It is a tribute to Paul and to all the people who have waited for so long to get their dignity.

I thank the chair.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Montana.

Mr. BAUCUS. Madam President, this third amendment, which I hope we vote on successfully very soon, addresses tax relief for American families and tax relief for American businesses. The amendment addresses jobs, families, disaster relief, and mental health parity.

I was particularly struck by the last speaker. She is right. The mental health parity provision is so important for so many reasons, especially for the people who deserve equal treatment, in addition to being in honor of Senator TED KENNEDY and also in honor of Paul Wellstone.

This amendment also prevents the alternative minimum tax from hitting millions more American families. Our economy is struggling, and so are America's working families. Markets are experiencing volatility. At times such as these, Americans need tax cuts that they have come to count on and that can help them get by. That is why this amendment includes a 1-year patch for the alternative minimum tax. This patch would protect more than 21 million Americans from falling victim to the AMT. We will not let more taxpayers fall into the alternative minimum tax.

In addition, the amendment would extend expiring individual and business tax provisions for 2 years. These provisions include the qualified tuition deduction to give families relief from high tuition costs. In my home State of Montana alone, almost 14,000 families would get help with high college tuition.

The amendment also includes the teacher expense deduction. This deduction gives back to teachers some of the money they spend on school supplies to educate America's children.

The amendment includes a State and local sales tax deduction for those States without an income tax.

The amendment covers several business incentives that help keep American businesses competitive and create jobs. The amendment includes incentives such as the research and development credit. This credit gives an incentive to businesses to invest in research. It helps to create and keep American jobs with good wages, and it helps to keep America competitive in the global economy.

This package does more than just extend expiring provisions. It expands the refundable child tax credit. By expanding this valuable credit, nearly 3 million more children will be eligible for this tax incentive.

This amendment would also help to improve health care for countless families dealing with mental illness. This mental health parity legislation would mandate equal assistance for those suffering from mental illness. This legislation has been championed by our late colleague, Paul Wellstone, and our colleagues TED KENNEDY and, of course, PETE DOMENICI. It has long been a goal in the Senate and it is a goal that we can finally meet today.

The amendment would provide much-needed relief to families and businesses that have been devastated by natural disasters.

Right now, our country is experiencing rough economic times. Congress should do more than just extend legislation; Congress needs to meet the needs of the American people.

Let us help to create jobs. Let us help working families make ends meet. Let us achieve mental health parity once and for all. Let us provide relief for those who have suffered from natural disasters.

I urge my colleagues to support the amendment.

Madam President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. BAUCUS. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. BAUCUS. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that at 4:45, all time be considered yielded back, and the Senate then proceed to vote in relation to the amendments and the motion to waive the Budget Act in the order in which offered; that prior to each vote, there be 2 minutes of debate equally divided and controlled in the usual form; that after the first vote in the sequence, the remaining votes be 10 minutes in duration, with the remaining provisions of the previous order governing consideration of H.R. 6049 still in effect.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. BAUCUS. Madam President, I further ask unanimous consent that upon disposition of H.R. 6049, the Senate then proceed to a period of morning business, with Senators permitted to speak therein for up to 10 minutes each.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. BAUCUS. Madam President, a couple words on the first amendment to be voted on. The energy amendment would help create well-paid jobs in the growing field of new energy technology, help to secure our independence from high-priced foreign oil, and move us closer to addressing global warming. I urge my colleagues to vote for the amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time in opposition?

The Senator from Iowa is recognized.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Madam President, I speak in favor of the Baucus-Grassley amendment, which is an important step in our effort to free America from our addiction to foreign oil. The amendment converts tax incentives for conventional energy and, in turn, puts that as an incentive for alternative energy, as well as conservation.

The amendment continues the path to development of clean coal, hybrid vehicles, and biofuels. A vote for this amendment is a vote for a brighter American future for all families, for cleaner fuel. I ask that you all support the amendment.

Madam President, I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There is a sufficient second.

The question is on agreeing to the amendment.

The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk called the roll.

Mr. KYL. The following Senators are necessarily absent: the Senator from South Carolina (Mr. DEMINT) and the Senator from Arizona (Mr. MCCAIN).

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. SALAZAR). Are there any other Senators in the Chamber desiring to vote?

The amendment (No. 5633) was agreed to.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The motion to reconsider is made and laid on the table.

AMENDMENT NO. 5634

There will now be 2 minutes of debate equally divided on Conrad amendment No. 5634.

The Senator from North Dakota.

Mr. CONRAD. Mr. President, the amendment I have offered today is a fully paid for alternative minimum tax fix. To go down the road of fixing the alternative minimum tax without offset, without paying for it, will only grow the debt dramatically. The 10-year fix for the alternative minimum tax costs $1.6 trillion, all of it added to the debt.

Yesterday, I say to my colleagues, the dollar dropped 2 percent in value in 1 day, after already falling 40 percent in value over the last 2 years. The key reason analysts gave was burgeoning debt in the United States that undermines the credibility of our national credit.

It is time to start paying for things. This is a fully paid for, fully offset alternative minimum tax, paid for in ways that are not controversial.

I thank the Chair, and I urge my colleagues to vote aye.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Iowa.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, everyone, of course, agrees with the Senator from North Dakota that the fiscal situation is unsustainable. So as an alternative—as the minority ought to offer a reasonable alternative—on this side, our leader a few weeks ago offered a deficit-neutral proposal on AMT and on extenders. That proposal would have reduced new above-baseline spending nondiscretionary appropriations for future years. That deficit-neutral proposal was rejected. In its place is this amendment, which insists that AMT relief be conditioned on a tax increase.

A vote for this amendment is a vote to hold AMT relief now, and in the future, hostage to a tax increase. That is not reasonable. I urge my colleagues to reject the amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to amendment No. 5634.

Mr. BAUCUS. I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, 60 votes being required to adopt the amendment, the amendment is withdrawn.

AMENDMENT NO. 5635

There is now 2 minutes of debate equally divided on the Baucus-Grassley perfecting amendment. Who seeks recognition?

The Senator from North Dakota is recognized.

Mr. CONRAD. Mr. President, 53 Senators voted to pay for an alternative minimum tax fix. That is a majority. I am now raising the point of order, a budget point of order against an unpaid-for alternative minimum tax fix, again reminding our colleagues the cost to continue on this path to fix the alternative minimum tax for 10 years is $1.6 trillion, all added to the debt.

Yesterday the dollar went down 2 percent in value in 1 day. Colleagues, we simply have to begin to pay for things; otherwise, the creditworthiness of our country will be in question and at risk.

Therefore, I raise a point of order that the pending amendment violates the pay-go section 201 of the S. Con. Res. 21, a concurrent resolution on the budget for fiscal year 2008.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Montana is recognized.

Mr. BAUCUS. Mr. President, I move to waive the applicable budget provisions for the consideration of the Baucus-Grassley amendment No. 5635.

I might say, if this point of order is not waived, then the underlying extenders bill will not pass and AMT will be felt by millions of taxpayers next year. As much as we would like to pay for everything, we cannot pay for everything in this context at this time. Without this amendment, the tax extenders will not pass. The underlying bill for the AMT should pass for a year. It fixes the child tax credit, provides support for rural schools, the mental health parity provisions, as well as finally it provides disaster relief for families and businesses. I urge my colleagues to support the amendment and waive the point of order.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, if I could direct a question to my friend, the chairman of the Budget Committee. We already had this vote. Do we need another one? It is obvious it is not going to get it. I committed to the House we would have a vote. What purpose is there of this vote? We have already proven we cannot get 60 votes, so why do we need another vote?

Mr. CONRAD. We have raised the point of order. I made a commitment to our colleagues in the House to carry that out. I feel honor bound to have a vote.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Montana is recognized.

Mr. BAUCUS. Mr. President, I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There appears to be a sufficient second.

The question is on agreeing to the motion.

The clerk will call the roll.

The bill clerk called the roll.

Mr. DURBIN. I announce that the Senator from Delaware (Mr. BIDEN), the Senator from Massachusetts (Mr. KENNEDY), and the Senator from Illinois (Mr. OBAMA) are necessarily absent.

Mr. KYL. The following Senators are necessarily absent: the Senator from South Carolina (Mr. DEMINT) and the Senator from Arizona (Mr. MCCAIN).

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there any other Senators in the Chamber desiring to vote?

The yeas and nays resulted—yeas 84, nays 11, as follows:

The PRESIDING OFFICER. On this vote, the yeas are 84, the nays are 11. Three-fifths of the Senators duly chosen and sworn having voted in the affirmative, the motion is agreed to.

NATIONAL DISASTER RELIEF

Mrs. BOXER. I thank Senator BAUCUS, for joining me to discuss the Senate Finance Committee's substitute amendment to H.R. 6409.

Mr. BAUCUS. It is my understanding that the Senator would like to speak about an issue related to the national disaster relief section of the Finance Committee substitute to H.R. 6409.

Mrs. BOXER. The Senator is correct. Throughout the summer a swarm of dry lightning storms sparked more than 2,000 fires across drought-ridden land in California, burning over 900,000 acres of public and private land. These fires damaged and destroyed homes and businesses across the State.

As the Senator knows, his bill makes taxpayers in "federally declared disaster" areas under the Robert T. Stafford Disaster Relief and Emergency Assistance Act eligible for certain tax relief provisions.

Under the Stafford Act, the President has the ability to designate a disaster area under a "major disaster declaration" or an "Emergency Declaration." Areas affected by wildfires in California this year were provided an "Emergency Declaration" by the President.

In the matter of what "federally declared disaster" areas are eligible under the bill on the floor, the Senator's Finance Committee staff and the Congressional Research Service have indicated that both categories of disaster declaration have historically been eligible for disaster tax relief purposes.

Is it the Senator's understanding that the term "federally declared disaster" includes both categories of disaster declarations, and that Californians affected by the 2008 wildfires are eligible under division B, title VII, subtitle B, sections 706-711 of the substitute to H.R. 6409?

Mr. BAUCUS. Yes, it is the committee's intention that Californians in federally declared disaster areas will be eligible for tax relief in the sections the Senator has referenced.

Mrs. BOXER. I thank the Senator.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I rise today in support of the Paul Wellstone and Pete Domenici Mental Health Parity and Addiction Equity Act of 2008.

Enacting comprehensive parity legislation is long overdue. This is simply a matter of fairness and I hope the Senate will pass this compromise legislation so it can be sent to the House today. We owe nothing less to the more than 80 million Americans suffering with mental illness and addiction.

Thoughtful compromises were made so that the bill we are considering today provides mental health and addiction benefits on par with other medical and surgical conditions and, for the first time after 12 years, a compromise is supported by all of the business, insurer, addiction and mental health groups.

Throughout my time in office, I have been a strong advocate for ending the discrimination against people suffering from mental illness and addiction and ensuring those in need have access to effective treatment services. This passion was shaped by the many Minnesotans who have raised their voices to get us to where we are today in this important fight. In particular, I want to thank all the people at Hazelden Foundation, Kitty Westin from the Anna Westin Foundation, NAMI Minnesota, the Minnesota Psychological Association, Mental Health America's Minnesota advocates and others. Finally, this bill will not only be a living legacy to their tireless efforts, but also to the unwavering support from Senators Paul Wellstone and PETE DOMENICI, and Representative JIM RAMSTAD.

As a supporter of parity legislation since I arrived in the Senate, I know that passage of comprehensive parity legislation and ensuring access to treatment is long overdue. I know that effective mental health and addiction treatment can mean the difference between happiness and hopelessness and in some cases, even life and death. The good news is that those of us on both sides of the aisle and both wings of the Capitol finally recognized this and are coming together to send a strong bill to the White House.

The time is now. Let's end the discrimination by passing the Paul Wellstone and Pete Domenici Mental Health Parity and Addiction Equity Act of 2008.

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, while this is far from being a perfect bill, I am pleased that the Senate is finally taking up this package of "tax extenders" after repeated filibusters of this effort by the minority.

I am a strong supporter of advanced and alternative energy technologies and believe that the tax incentives included in this bill are an essential component of bringing these technologies to the commercial market place. We need a balanced energy strategy that includes energy from a broad array of sources—renewable technologies such as solar, wind, and biomass, as well as more conventional sources such as clean coal and natural gas. We also need to reduce our consumption and dependence on petroleum by promoting expanded use of advanced, more fuel-efficient vehicle technologies and alternative fuels such as ethanol and other biofuels. Critical to the success of all of these advanced and alternative energy technologies are tax incentives, which will both spur development of these technologies and make them accessible and affordable to consumers.

The energy tax extender package was a long time in coming. The Senate considered it first in June 2007, again in December 2007, and then multiple times in this calendar year. This package extends many critical existing tax incentives—including those for renewable production of electricity from wind, solar, and biomass; it extends existing tax credits in the area of alternative fuels production and alternative fuel infrastructure; and it extends tax incentives for energy efficient appliances and residential home energy improvements. The package also includes new tax incentives for plug-in hybrid vehicles, small residential wind investments, and carbon capture and sequestration technologies.

This package of energy tax provisions will take important steps forward to develop and commercialize all of these technologies. Renewable technologies such as wind and solar are becoming more economical every year and our manufacturing sector can play a major role in the production of these technologies. Extension of these tax credits is critical to the development of these technologies and critical to our manufacturers ability to commit to projects that will utilize these technologies. Similarly, extension of the tax credit for alternative fuel pumps for ethanol and natural gas, and extension of tax credits for production of ethanol and other biofuels are essential to both the production and distribution of these fuels.

I am particularly pleased to see in this package establishment of a new tax credit for consumers for plug-in hybrid and all-electric vehicles. All of our auto manufacturers are working to develop new vehicle technologies that will use advanced batteries and will draw a greater percentage of their power from electricity. These technologies will revolutionize the way in which we drive and the distances that we can go without refueling. But the development and commercialization of these technologies are also expensive. Therefore, these tax incentives are key not only to the development of these technologies and but also to consumer acceptance and widespread use of these vehicles.

This bill also provides help to those affected by the numerous floods, tornadoes, and severe storms that occurred this summer in the Midwest. I am pleased that those individuals and businesses that suffered losses this past June in Michigan's declared disaster areas will be eligible for these benefits.

I am also glad that this bill extends the research and development tax credit. At a time of increasing globalization, America's prosperity depends more than ever on its capacity for innovation. For decades, our Nation's leadership in basic and applied research has led to discoveries that have dramatically improved living standards and given rise to new industries that have in turn created millions of high paying jobs in engineering, research and technology. Other countries are well aware of the significant economic benefits that flow from R&D activities, and many have created strong tax incentives designed to increase levels of local R&D and attract R&D investment from around the world. Particularly for large multinational corporations, the question is often not whether to invest in R&D, but where. I hope that in the near future we can cement our commitment to this incentive by making the R&D credit permanent.

There are a number of other good policies that I am pleased are in this bill, including the IRA rollover provision which allows individuals over the age of 70½ to donate up to $100,000 from their individual retirement accounts to qualifying charitable organizations on a tax-free basis. This provision has contributed to a considerable increase in IRA donations to eligible charities across our country. Unfortunately, the provision was only temporary, and it expired at the end of 2007.

I am also glad that this bill extends the critically important adjustment to the alternative minimum tax. Relief from the AMT is needed to avoid imposing an unintended tax increase on millions of middle income families. But in order to have money for other priorities, AMT relief should be done without busting the budget. I wish that the amendment that would have paid for this provision had been adopted.

There is another part of this bill that deserves mention: the Paul Wellstone and Pete Domenici Mental Health Parity and Addiction Equity Act. This critical piece of legislation will address inequities between health insurance coverage for medical and surgical benefits and coverage for mental health and substance abuse disorders for group health plans with more than 50 employees.

Under most health insurance plans, beneficiaries of mental health or substance abuse services do not receive the same level of coverage as medical and surgical services. An earlier piece of legislation, the Mental Health Parity Act of 1996—title VII of Public Law 104-204—sought to address this issue by providing limited parity for mental health coverage under employer-sponsored group plans. While the 1996 parity law prohibits insurers from establishing more restrictive annual and overall lifetime limits on mental health coverage than for other health coverage, it is far from adequate. For example, the Act did not require that mental health benefits be offered as part of a health insurance package. Additionally, it did not require parity in copayments or deductibles for mental health services nor does it require health plans to cover a minimum number of inpatient days or outpatient visits. As a result, many health plans have found ways to discourage the use of mental health care by setting higher copayments and deductibles, or by lowering limits on the number of hospital days and physician visits for which they would pay.

Under this new legislation, if such a group health plan provides both medical and surgical benefits as well as mental health or substance abuse benefits, the plan's requirements and limitations must not be more restrictive as applied to mental health or substance abuse benefits. For example, if such a plan provides out-of-network coverage for medical and surgical benefits, then it must also provide parity in out-of-network coverage for mental health or substance abuse disorder benefits. If the change leads to increases in cost for a particular plan, the legislation establishes a procedure whereby an employer can apply for 1-year exemptions.

Mental health parity is about basic fairness and equity. Individuals suffering from mental health illnesses deserve access to adequate and appropriate health care. I am glad that Congress is righting this wrong.

My concerns with this bill are not over what is included, but rather what is not. The main dispute in the long drawn-out battle over these extenders has been whether we could do this in a way that is fiscally responsible, so that we do not leave our children and our children's children to foot the bill. I am troubled by the fact that this bill pays for only $42 billion of the $161 billion 10-year cost of extending these incentives. Some of my colleagues argue that Congress should just add the $62 billion cost of the AMT fix to the deficit and leave it at that. But while taxpayers are given necessary relief, if we don't pay the cost, but merely increase the debt, the burden is shifted to our children and grandchildren.

Paying for these extenders does not need to be controversial, and we do not need to raise taxes on the middle class. It is estimated that the use of offshore tax havens by tax dodgers robs our Treasury of more than $100 billion in revenue each year, leaving honest taxpayers to foot the bill. Last year I introduced the Stop Tax Haven Abuse Act, S.681, which would provide important tools to combat offshore tax abuses and would bring in a significant amount of that lost revenue. I will continue to fight to enact that bill and other commonsense measures to close tax loopholes.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, as a Senator that not only represents a leader in renewable energy technology but also helps run the Energy and Natural Resources Committee, I am pleased that we have finally reached a compromise which will allow us to extend important tax credits for renewable energy.

History tells us that our most promising technologies frequently need government assistance in order to get off the ground and become economically viable. One of the most effective ways we can do this is through our Tax Code.

Our Nation is facing unprecedented challenges in our financial markets and in energy. I have spent much of my time over the last few months talking about the need to build a bridge toward our energy future. I believe that bridge consists of increased oil and gas production from American lands offshore. I am pleased to note that since the time I first introduced legislation to open up lands offshore in May, there has been a sea change in both public opinion and the opinions of my colleagues on this issue.

But the domestic oil and gas that I am talking about is not the entire solution. In fact, as I said, it is just a bridge to the ultimate solution, and that is the development of new technologies that will allow us to use far less oil. Those technologies include plug-in hybrid cars as well as renewable energy sources like wind, solar, biomass and geothermal.

In 2005, as chairman of the Energy Committee, I was pleased to lead the Senate to pass the largest and longest tax credits for renewable energy in history. We have renewed those tax credits several times since then, but these credits are once again set to expire. Every time they get close to expiring, investments in the industry begin to dry up, and the uncertainty hurts our Nation's ability to deploy these technologies in a timely and cost-effective manner.

We have struggled with the tax extensions during this Congress, because, frankly, the majority has decided to play politics with them. For the first time in history, they have demanded that they be offset through tax increases. Although the Senate voted 88-8 to extend them without those tax increases earlier this year, the House refused to consider our proposal, and the renewable energy industry has suffered as a result.

At last, there appears to be a light at the end of the tunnel if the House of Representatives doesn't seek to politicize this issue once again. A reasonable, commonsense agreement to extend the tax credits for renewable energy, as well as do several other important things like mental health parity and fixing the AMT problem, has been reached. I will address those subjects in greater detail, but it should be noted that the agreement now before us does offset much of the cost of the tax credit extensions, but it does so in a way that will not harm domestic production of energy.

I urge my colleagues to support this agreement in its totality, and I sincerely hope that the House will take up this entire package and pass it so that these essential tax credits will once again not be allowed to expire.

(At the request of Mr. REID, the following statement was ordered to be printed in the RECORD.)

● Mr. KENNEDY. I thank all my colleagues in the Senate and their staffs who have worked so long and hard and well to bring us to this historic day on mental health parity.

In particular, I recognize our late friend and colleague, Senator Paul Wellstone, who championed this fight for so many years. Without the leadership of Senator Wellstone and our colleague Senator DOMENICI, we would not be here today.

Americans believe we are all created equal. This legislation brings us closer to that ideal by ending a particularly invidious form of discrimination—discrimination in health insurance against tens of millions of Americans who suffer from mental illness.

One in five Americans will face mental illness this year. Today at least, the Senate can say to them loud and clear, you will no longer have to suffer in the shadows.

Through the miracle of modern medicine, mental illnesses are just as treatable as physical illnesses—but patients with mental illnesses are still treated very differently.

That difference is unfair and unacceptable. It makes no sense for health insurance companies to charge patients more for mental health care than they do for physical health services.

It is tragic when any family member is diagnosed with an illness; it is heart-wrenching for a parent to watch their child suffer.

But the tragedy is even greater, when treatment is denied solely because the child's illness is a mental illness.

This discrimination can tear families apart, exactly when they should be coming together to support their loved one. The last thing any parent should have to worry about is whether insurance will pay for the needed care and treatment.

When mental illnesses of our fellow citizens are treated, they get their health back—and we get back our friends, our family members, and our coworkers.

The parity legislation before us is a landmark agreement after 10 years of stalemate, not only in Congress, but also with the mental health community, businesses, and the insurance industry.

Now, we have come together and agreed at long last to end the senseless discrimination at all levels of society that has plagued persons living with mental illness.

Together, we have worked to end injustice that has denied them the care and treatment they deserve. We have agreed that equal treatment of mental illness is not just an insurance issue—it is also an issue of civil rights.

At its heart, mental health parity is an issue of fundamental justice, and today that fundamental justice arrives in the lives of millions of our fellow Americans, and I thank all my colleagues on both sides of the aisle for making this day possible.●

● Mr. ENZI. Mr. President, for far too long, American workers and businesses have awakened each day to wave after wave of bad news: rising foreclosures, $4 gasoline, job losses, inflation, bank runs, credit crises, embassy bombings, triple-digit stock losses, devastating hurricanes . . . the bad news just keeps coming. The burden is heavy and Americans are tired.

But today, a ray of sunlight is peeking through the storm clouds. Today, I am happy to share some good news with you. It is good news when the Senate can rise above partisan politics and find solutions to tough problems. And it is very good news when that solution lets taxpayers keep more of their hard-earned money.

The legislation before us will provide much needed tax relief to individuals, families, and American industry and put us on the path towards recovery. It will spur the development of alternative energy sources and help free our dependence on foreign oil. It will protect working Americans from the over-arching reach of the alternative minimum tax and expand the child tax credit to help low-income working families.

This bill also includes some very good news for Wyoming. It preserves the sales tax deduction on taxable income. This will enable residents of Wyoming and other States that have no State income tax to deduct their State sales taxes when filing their Federal income tax returns. Without it, Wyoming residents would shoulder an unfair share of the Federal tax burden.

This bill also enhances funding for rural schools. In States like Wyoming where a large percentage of land is federally owned, local and State governments lose property tax revenues which are traditionally used to fund education and other local government functions. Historically, the Federal Government shared timber sale produced receipts with rural counties with Federal forests but timber receipts have been inconsistent creating budget uncertainty for rural counties to provide for schools, roads, and other county needs. This tax extenders bill would reauthorize and expand the Secure Rural Schools and Community Self-Determination Act and provide additional support for Wyoming schools.

The bill also includes important tax provisions that promote charitable giving and reward the tireless volunteers who help rebuild our communities after natural disasters.

This legislation will encourage business research and development—the twin engines that power our economy by spurring the development of new technology and creating more jobs.

And for the first time, the Senate will establish health insurance parity between mental health coverage and medical surgery coverage.

The Presidential campaigns spend a lot of time engaged in endless volleys about reforming health care, but my colleagues Senators KENNEDY and DOMENICI—and I have actually done something about it. This is an accomplishment we have worked long and hard to achieve and I would like to take a moment and explain how important this is.

In 1996, Senator DOMENICI and the late Senator Paul Wellstone authored a law that provided parity specifically for annual and lifetime limits between mental health coverage and medical surgical coverage. Although it was a landmark accomplishment and an important step forward, it was just the first step in the effort to address this issue.

Our bill will improve upon the 1996 law by including deductibles, copayments, out-of-pocket expenses, out-of-network benefits, coinsurance, covered hospital days, and covered outpatient visits. Essentially, it will require health insurance plans that offer coverage for mental health to offer it in parity with their coverage for physical health. It will help ensure Americans with serious mental illnesses like schizophrenia and bipolar disorder are treated fairly and can receive appropriate care. It will not mandate mental health coverage, but it will improve coverage that is available to 113 million Americans.

Mental health parity has been a long time coming. We are here today because my colleagues and I worked together with business, insurance and mental health groups for thousands of hours over many years to forge a common solution. Instead of fighting for the same old positions, where one side wins and the other loses, we worked hard to find a third way to get it done.

I often say that on any given issue, people can agree on about 80 percent of it, and they will never agree on the other 20 percent. By focusing on the 80 percent we could agree on, instead of the 20 percent where we'll never reach agreement, we found common ground on mental health parity and a third way that addressed the concerns of stakeholders.

The broader tax extenders package before us today isn't perfect. It is expensive and some of the temporary tax credits are offset with permanent tax increases, but it's a start. I think Americans are tired of watching Congress pit the "perfect" against the "pretty good" so that both sides lose and nothing gets done. We have accomplished something today and makes today a good day.

Indeed, this bill is good news and I am happy to share it with the people of Wyoming and all hard-working Americans.●

● Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, we are reaching the end of a long road. We are about to pass the compromise on the AMT patch, extenders, energy tax incentives, and disaster relief.

I urge my friends in the House leadership to take a careful look at the votes the Senate took this afternoon. Also, they should take a look at the White House policy statement. House Democrats will see $42 billion of revenue raisers. House Republicans will see an unoffset AMT patch, extenders and other items.

There must be a majority to match the supermajority here.

I thank Chairman BAUCUS, Leader REID, Leader MCCONNELL, and their staffs. I wish to single out Russ Sullivan, Bill Dauster, Cathy Koch, Josh Odinitz, Pat Bousilman, Tiffany Smith, Mary Baker, Bridget Mallon, and Ryan Abraham.

I also wish to thank the Senate legislative team led by Jim Fransen. Finally, the crew at Joint Tax went above and beyond the call of duty. Ed Kleinbard, Tom Barthold, and the Joint Tax team moved effectively and efficiently.●

●Mr. FEINGOLD. Mr. President, I will support this measure, but I do so reluctantly because in passing this bill the Senate is also passing its cost on to our children and grandchildren rather than paying for it. With the exception of the provisions relating to emergency disaster relief, the provisions of this measure were entirely predictable and as such could have been fully offset with spending cuts, revenue increases, or some combination of both. The emergency disaster relief provisions are another matter, and I do not suggest that they should have been offset, though it is always preferable to do so whenever possible. But the disaster relief provisions, which I strongly support, represent a tiny fraction of the entire cost of this bill. The bulk of the cost stems from one provision, namely the so-called 1-year patch of the alternative minimum tax to ensure that tax does not expand its reach to millions of average families. The need for this fix has been known for some time. Indeed, it has become almost an annual ritual to extend the AMT patch, and regrettably Congress has done so without paying for the fix. Instead, we have just added the cost to the debt. This year, the 10-year cost of that provision will amount to over $60 billion, every penny of it added to our already massive debt.

As I have noted frequently on this floor, every dollar that we add to the Federal debt is another dollar that we are forcing our children and grandchildren to pay back in higher taxes or fewer government benefits. When the government in this generation chooses to spend on current consumption and to accumulate debt for our children's generation to pay, it does nothing less than rob our children of their own choices. We make our choices to spend on our wants, but we saddle them with debts that they must pay from their tax dollars and their hard work. And that is not right.●

●Ms. SNOWE. Mr. President, although long overdue, I am very pleased that the Senate has come to an agreement to renew expiring tax provisions critical to families across America, as well as to provide incentives for the production of clean energy and conservation that could create 100,000 new jobs. As working families are struggling to put food on the table and gas in their cars, I am especially grateful that the package assists the least fortunate among us by including a proposal to lower the income threshold for the refundable child tax credit that Senator LINCOLN and I have championed.

I urge my colleagues to support this responsible and balanced package. And, I would like to especially thank Senators BAUCUS and GRASSLEY as well as their staffs for working days, nights, and weekends in forging this agreement. These two gentlemen exemplify the bipartisan tradition of this Senate and how this body can get its work done if Members are willing to reach across the aisle to find some middle ground.

Unfortunately, partisan gridlock too often ties the hands of even these Senate stalwarts. Frankly, it is unconscionable that in what could potentially be the closing hours of this Congress, we are only now moving a step closer to enacting this legislation. At a time when renewable energy projects are being mothballed because of this uncertainty and Americans are demanding action on energy policy, I cannot believe that we have been abrogating our duty to serve the American people by our inaction on this time-sensitive issue. It seems to me that these tax extensions should have been the low-hanging fruit that we could have done much sooner.

We could have unleashed sooner renewable energy projects creating jobs, provided targeted tax relief to low-income working families struggling to pay the high cost of food and fuel, encourage an infusion of capital into rural and urban communities, provide tax incentives for retail businesses looking to grow their business, and help keep the jobs associated with film production within our borders.

This is occurring at a time when our economy teeters on the brink of recession; when we have seen the collapse of a banking institution founded in 1850; when the U.S. government has seen no other way but to take over and buy the assets of other major financial institutions; when unemployment surged to 6.1 percent last month the highest rate since 2003; when gasoline at the pump is near $4 a gallon; when oil costs are have risen to over $120 per barrel; and when foreclosures have hit historic level, do we really want to say that we can't extend a renewable energy tax credit that caused 45 percent growth in wind energy production last year and that we can't adopt energy efficiency tax credits that create necessary incentives to reduce energy demand?

Consider the economic impact of inaction. Dr. Mark Cooper of the Consumer Federation of America estimates that from 2002 to 2008 annual household expenditures on energy increased from about $2600 to an astonishing $5300. In my state of Maine, where 80 percent of households use heating oil to get through winter, it is going to be even worse.

Last year at this time, heating oil prices were at a challenging $2.70 a gallon—for a Mainer who on average uses 850 gallons of oil that is $2,295. With current prices at $3.80 per gallon, the cost per Mainer just to stay warm will be $3230, and that is not even considering gasoline costs. That is the difference between a burden and a crisis.

Now is not the time to allow energy efficiency tax incentives and the renewable production tax credit to expire. But that is what we are doing unless we pass this bipartisan package today. Energy efficiency is by far the most effective investment that our country can make to address the calamity of an absent energy policy. It constitutes a dereliction of duty if Congress allows energy efficiency tax credits to expire. In fact, some tax credits already have expired, and as a result, there are currently no incentives to purchase efficient furnaces. At a time when Americans are worried about paying heating bills this winter, we must provide the assistance to encourage investment in energy efficient products that will reduce our collective demand for energy, and save Americans money.

Yet, we have jettisoned a $300 tax credit to purchase a high efficiency oil furnace, which would produce more than $430 in annual savings for an average home—according to calculations based on Department of Energy data and recent home heating prices. We have sidelined an extension of a tax credit for highly efficient natural gas furnaces that would save an individual $100 per year. However, this tax credit ended at the beginning of this year—when oil prices began their historic rise.

And for businesses that are competing against countries that subsidize oil, the situation is untenable. Earlier this summer, Katahdin Paper Company in my state announced that the cost of oil used to operate its boilers has caused the company to consider closing the mill's doors. Talks are under way to find alternative solutions to re-start the mill's operations and revive its 208 jobs, but it is undeniable that these jobs hang in the balance because of unprecedented energy costs.

One remedy would be to create more renewable energy jobs that would help right a listless economy and invest in a secure energy future. Indeed, more than 100,000 Americans could have been put to work this year if clean energy production tax credits had been extended.

We could have already unleashed renewable energy projects creating jobs, but instead, projects currently underway may soon be mothballed. Clean energy incentives for energy efficient buildings, appliances, and other technologies, as well as additional funding for weatherizing homes, would similarly serve to stimulate economic activity, reduce residential energy costs, and generate new manufacturing and construction jobs. It is irresponsible to allow a bright spot in our economy, the renewable energy industry and energy efficiency industries, to falter, when the output of these industries is so essential to the future of this country.

Extending these expiring clean energy tax credits will ensure a stronger, more stable environment for new investments and ensure continued robust growth in a bright spot in an otherwise slowing economy. I am encouraged by the bipartisan agreement that is before us today. We must not lose yet another opportunity to raise the bar for future domestic energy systems and energy efficiencies, benefiting our economy, our health, our environment, and our national security. I hope that the House of Representatives will quickly take up and pass this package.

Some may argue this is an election year and we must lower our expectations for getting things accomplished. I couldn't disagree more. And I met a remarkable woman from Maine earlier this year who couldn't disagree more—because time is quickly running out on this Congress to take necessary steps to help Americans like her. She told me she had three jobs—the first to pay for the mortgage, the second to pay for heating oil, and the third to pay for gas to be able to drive to her other two jobs and this was back in April.

Solving this crisis isn't about party labels. It isn't about Republicans or Democrats—or red states or blue states. It is about what is good for America, and what unites us as Americans under the red, white, and blue. We must move in that direction as a country.

But, there is much more in this package beyond energy tax incentives. The legislation before us will extend the New Markets Tax Credit through 2009. Based on the New Markets Tax Credit Extension Act of 2007, which I introduced with Senator ROCKEFELLER, this provision will help to ensure that investment dollars continue to flow to underserved communities.

Additionally, the tax extenders package will enable retailers who own their properties to depreciate over 15 years, instead of 39 years, improvements to those structures. Based on my legislation, this Main Street-friendly provision levels the playing field between owner-occupied and leased retail space and will help to generate additional construction and renovations to stores nationwide by lowering the cost of capital in a tightening credit market.

Also included is a provision that will allow companies to claim accelerated depreciation for the purchase of recycling equipment. This provision is based on my Recycling Investment Saves Energy, RISE, Act and will save energy, create jobs, strengthen local recycling programs, and improve the quantity and quality of recycled materials.

So as you can see, this package is more than just extending expiring tax provisions. This legislation will create jobs, move us closer to energy independence, encourage investment in low-income communities, and provide much-needed relief to low-income families struggling to meet just their basic needs.

I would hope that when we finally adjourn, we can say we extended this critical tax relief. I would also hope that at the beginning of next year, when a new Congress is sworn in, we will commit ourselves to serving those who have entrusted us with their votes, where reaching across the aisle is the norm, not the exception—where looking for consensus is viewed as the answer, not an aberration.●

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The majority leader is recognized.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, for the benefit of all Members, we are going to shortly have our last vote of the evening. The work we have accomplished today is historic. This is the ninth time we voted on renewing and extending the renewable tax credits. We finally did it.

We are going to send over to the House a package that is remarkably good, a 2-year extension of the business tax extensions that are so necessary. For the first time in a long time, it is not 1 year, it is 2 years. The business community thinks this is extremely important, as do I.

As I said earlier this morning, I hope the House accepts what we do. I do my very best to get along with the House, Democrats and Republicans. But everyone should understand we have had a very difficult time getting to the point where we are, in passing the final version of this bill. If the House does not pass this, the full responsibility of not passing this is theirs, not ours.

Now, people may say: Well, we want all the tax credits paid for. But I say to my friends in the House, AMT is not going to be paid for. Much of what we do around here is not paid for. It is nothing I necessarily like. But are we asking that the war be paid for? I ask what is more important, to extend these tax credits for 2 years and bring about some stability in the business community or have, out of the blue, the House telling us that everything has to be paid for? AMT is not going to be paid for. So how do they pick and choose what is right to be paid for?

So I would hope everyone understands the importance of this legislation, and all 100 Senators, if you would be good enough to call your counterparts in the House and tell them—I think if they had a vote in the House on our passage, it would pass overwhelmingly. I hope that can be arranged.

I would hope my friends will do that. We have not accomplished much this work period. That is an understatement. This would be an accomplishment for us. I hope we can do that.

Tomorrow we are going to come in and have morning business. We are moving to proceed to the Coburn matter. That is an effort so we have something on the floor to proceed to. We are not going to do anything on that piece of legislation. We are going to pass a few of the things tonight, I think 4. That will be 5 things we have passed when we are done. There are still 29 to go.

But tomorrow I hope Senators would take this opportunity, when we have a relatively free day, to come in and perhaps give statements about those Senators who are retiring and whatever else you wish to talk about.

Now, when we get things from the House, we will move to those as quickly as we can. The House, it is my understanding, is filing and going to order both tonight, filing and doing the order on the CR. We should get that maybe tomorrow, maybe Thursday. They are then going to do a stimulus. We will see what happens with that, an economic recovery package.

As we speak, we are trying to work something out on this financial crisis facing this country. Democrats and Republicans had some concern about this. I hope we can work to get this done. I am not giving a political speech here, but I am giving a factual speech the best I can.

None of us are happy about the situation we are in. I can direct blame just as well, and sometimes better, than a lot of people as to why we are here. But we are here. We have to figure out some way to move beyond where we are. I would hope the White House is listening. I would hope the Republicans are listening and Democrats are listening because a lot depends on what we do, and we have to do it right. I am not asking anyone to do anything fast; we have to do it right. Maybe we can do both, do it fast and do it right.

So there are meetings going on tomorrow that will hopefully help move us down the road. I got some good news in the last hour or so, that it appears Senator MCCAIN is going to come out for this. It would be a tremendous help if he would do this. As you know, Senator OBAMA has come out for this package, with basically the same thing that—I think he and MCCAIN are pretty well in line with this. Some of the statements coming out of the MCCAIN camp last night were not very good, but they have changed over the day. I certainly hope that is the case.

So we all want to work together. We want to do the best we can to move this forward. This week those are the things we need to do before we leave. I have talked about them on a number of occasions. We have to try to do something on economic stimulus. That is still a jump ball. The continuing resolution is pretty well, from our perspective, going to be filed tonight. We have been fortunate to work with Congressman OBEY. The latest word I got is that the Defense appropriations bill is going to be in the CR. That is extremely important.

We all know what is finally in it. It is not loaded down with a lot of extraneous material. Then we are going to work on the economic recovery package and try to make sure we have a vote on that sometime before we leave.

We got good news today. The Defense authorization conference has been completed. We are going to finish that before we leave. If it takes a number of cloture votes, then we will have to do it. But it is something that has been worked on long and hard. We have been through that.

Mr. WARNER. Will the distinguished leader yield? I hope to have a meeting in the Vice President's Office with my Republican colleagues to explain the status of that bill. I think the distinguished chairman has set up a similar meeting for his colleagues.

Mr. REID. I think I have covered everything we need to do before we leave. Again, I would say it is not a question of us leaving on a given day or time, but it is a question of being able to complete our work before we go, and we have an opportunity to do that.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Montana.

Mr. BAUCUS. Mr. President, a couple of words underlying what the leader said in his remarks. These are not only for our membership but also for the other body.

The underlying bill has mental health parity in it. The underlying bill is also 2-year extenders. We are wrapped around the axle too much in this body by having actual extenders every year. This is 2 years.

Third, this is a compromise between both bodies. They want everything paid for, this body does not. It is a compromise in the middle. For those reasons, I very much hope the other body supports this measure we are about to adopt.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on the engrossment of the amendments and third reading of the bill.

The amendments were ordered to be engrossed, and the bill to be read a third time.

The bill was read the third time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on the passage of the bill, as amended.

Mrs. BOXER. I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senate will proceed to a period of morning business. Senators will be permitted to speak for up to 10 minutes.

The Senator from Idaho.

ORDER OF PROCEDURE

Mr. CRAIG. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that following my remarks, the Senator from Illinois, Mr. DURBIN, be recognized.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

TIMBER-DEPENDENT SCHOOL DISTRICTS

Mr. CRAIG. Mr. President, while I think most of us have been focused on H.R. 6049, as amended by the Senate, primarily on the tax extenders and some of the energy tax credits and provisions that we believe are critically important to our economy and to the American business sector that is, by any measure, having difficulty at the moment, something is also in this legislation that is phenomenally important to timber-dependent school districts throughout the United States but dominantly in the Pacific Northwest. That is a provision called the Secure Rural Schools and Community Self-Determination Program.

Now, if I were in Oregon, I would call it the Wyden-Craig bill. If I am in Idaho, I call it the Craig-Wyden bill. It is legislation that both Senator WYDEN and I, a good number of years ago, fashioned when I was chairing the Forestry and Public Lands Subcommittee and he was my ranking member, when we came to the Senate and said we have the rural schools of our timber-dependent communities and counties in crisis.

Through the decade of the 1990s, we saw a dramatic reduction in the allowable cut of timber on our public land forests for a variety of reasons. As a result, a 1908 policy, established by Gifford Pinchot and President Teddy Roosevelt, said if we are going to create these forest preserves, we have to connect the communities of interest with them. By that, I do not mean the Sierra Club. I mean that little community sitting out in the forest that is trying to make a living off our forests and to supply to its county its roads and bridges and to its citizens its schools. We will give them a piece of the stumpage or the fee the Federal Government is paid by a private logging company to cut that tree and turn it into lumber.

Down through the years, we did just that. We financed many of our counties and many of our schools in these dependent communities largely with the stumpage fee from public timber. In some counties, it was 50 or 60 percent of the county budget. In certain counties of Oregon, in the O&C lands of Oregon, it was oftentimes the near whole school budget and oftentimes a very large chunk of the county budget.

Well, when that timber went away, for a lot of different reasons, most of them environmental, so went the money. We saw that as a crisis in our school districts, looked at it, evaluated it, established a formula, came to the Senate, and said: We have to help these school districts that do not have fee land. They do not have private property to tax. They are all public lands.

I say to the Presiding Officer, I have counties in my State that are larger than your entire State, Mr. President, and most of them are 60 or 70 percent public lands. They don't pay taxes, but they produce product. We, a long time ago, nearly 100 years ago, decided that product the Government was selling ought to pay something back to the communities. So we established this legislation, Craig-Wyden. It lived its life. It secured our schools and our communities. It allowed some self-determination. It brought together regional advisory groups, issue groups who were warring amongst each other, and it brought common cause to the public concern on our national forested lands. It was highly successful, but it expired.

In a time of deficits and financial difficulties and finding all of the needed resources we need for our Government, it became very difficult to refinance, to reauthorize this program. I have school districts that were laying off essential educators, canceling programs that would provide for the quality education of the students simply because we could not pass this legislation.

Today, we passed the legislation. Today, we reauthorized, for a period of up to 4 years, this program. It is vastly important to hundreds of school districts across the Nation. When I say the Pacific Northwest—Idaho, Oregon, and Washington—it is Montana, it is California—northern California tremendously—it is Mississippi. I suspect there are a few school districts in the State of Colorado and other places that are highly dependent upon this particular piece of legislation.

So I am here this evening to thank my colleagues for being sensitive to these public land-bound counties that simply do not have fee land to finance their essential needs—roads, bridges, schools—and they cannot ask the other taxpayers to assume their burden outside the counties within the State.

My State anticipated the difficulty of reauthorizing and created some contingency, but still it would not have funded the full school program. So tonight we have acted and sent a very clear message to these counties, to these schools that we take educating the young people of these school districts as a high priority, that we see the vitality of these communities as extremely important.

So tonight, in section 601, the Secure Rural Schools and Community Self-Determination Program, we have reauthorized Craig-Wyden. I thank my colleagues for allowing that to happen.

Mr. President, I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Ohio.

Mr. BROWN. Thank you, Mr. President. I just have a few short remarks.

IMPROVED ADOPTION INCENTIVES AND RELATIVE GUARDIANSHIP SUPPORT ACT OF 2008

Mr. BROWN. Mr. President, I thank my friend from Montana, Senator BAUCUS, for the terrific work he did when I talked to him on the Senate floor in July and he made a point of speeding up and shepherding through the Improved Adoption Incentives and Relative Guardianship Support Act of 2008. It was his leadership that made such a difference. I am proud to be a cosponsor of that bill, which was introduced by Senator GRASSLEY in May and passed the Finance Committee unanimously earlier this month.

Since its enactment in 1998, the Adoption Incentives Program has helped nearly 450,000 children in all 50 States and the District of Columbia move from foster care to permanent homes. In my State of Ohio, more than 18,000 adoptions have been finalized through this program. It has helped incredible people such as Joe and Becky Puckett of Conover, OH. After raising children of their own, the Pucketts adopted four children with special needs out of the foster care system. Without reauthorization, this important program would have expired on September 30. Thankfully, this bill passed last night by unanimous consent.

I commend the senior Senator from Montana and others for their tireless support and the hard work they have done on behalf of adopted children and families who adopt in our great country. I thank the Senator from Montana.

I yield the floor, Mr. President.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to speak in morning business.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Illinois is recognized.

PAUL WELLSTONE AND PETE DOMENICI MENTAL HEALTH PARITY AND ADDICTION EQUITY ACT

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, something happened on the floor of the Senate moments ago which was a long time in the making. We passed a bill, the mental health parity bill, that has been debated in this Chamber for 10 years or more.

The reason I come to the floor today, after its passage, is to note one of the Members of the Senate who was an inspiration for this bill. His name was Paul Wellstone. Six years ago, he died in a plane crash, running for election in the State of Minnesota. He used to sit in the back row over here and at a corner desk. He had an especially long cord for his microphone, and he used to wander all up and down the aisle talking. It was a sight to behold—a short, little fellow, and because of his passion for college wrestling, his back was all beat up and he kind of hobbled around. But he had a heart of gold, and he was one of these people you loved to be serving with because he brought out the best in you.

The last time I ever saw him was here in the well of the Senate on the night of the vote authorizing the war in Iraq. He was one of 23 of us who voted against it.

I knew he was going home to Minnesota to face a tough election, and I said to him: I hope this doesn't cost you the election, Paul.

He said: It is all right if it does. This is what I believe. This is what Minnesota expects of me. And whatever happens, I am all right.

That was the last conversation I had with him. Within days, he died in a plane crash.

When we returned after a memorial service and a lot of heartfelt expressions of sympathy for him and his wife Sheila, who died, as well as members of their staff, there was always a question about, what is a fitting tribute to Paul Wellstone for a great, inspiring legislative career? Those of us who knew him knew the last thing in the world he would ever want is a statue or a bridge named after him or a post office—just not the kind of thing that would mean anything to Paul. But this bill, the Paul Wellstone and Pete Domenici Mental Health Parity and Addiction

Equity Act of 2008, is the tribute Paul Wellstone would have wanted.

I thank Senator PETE DOMENICI, who was his partner in this effort for this mental health parity bill, for agreeing to allow Paul Wellstone's name to be the lead name on this legislation. It will be the Wellstone-Domenici bill for all of us, and both of them deserve praise for all the work they did. But when PETE DOMENICI said: Put his name first, it meant a lot to many of us. This was the fitting tribute we were hoping for Paul Wellstone.

What does it mean? It means for Paul Wellstone's family and the families of millions of Americans that mental health will now be treated differently in their health insurance plan. For the longest time, we have languished in ignorance over mental health. We have fed our prejudices instead of learning about this illness. We have treated it not as an illness but a curse, and we have basically said that we officially give up on finding cures for mental illness.

That is just plain wrong on every count. Mental illness is an illness. For the vast majority of Americans, it is a curable illness. What those suffering from mental illness need is professional assistance and the right medication, and many of them will lead absolutely normal, happy, productive lives. But the health insurance companies refused to cover mental illness—most of them—so many people with family members who were suffering from mental illness had no place to turn, and many times they could not afford the medications, and many times their lives were compromised as a result.

Paul Wellstone and PETE DOMENICI said a long time ago that is just unfair and America is a better place. Thanks to their hard work and inspiration, thanks to the hard work of TEDDY KENNEDY, who should have been here today voting for it—his name belongs in this pantheon as well when it comes to mental health parity—TOM HARKIN, and MAX BAUCUS, who put this in this package to make sure it passed—I just want to say it is a great day for America, a great day for us to give so many millions of Americans who struggle with mental illness or have a member of their family struggling with mental illness a fighting chance. That is what this gives them: a fighting chance that their health insurance policies will cover this, for the first time in many instances. It is long overdue, and this tribute to Paul Wellstone is long overdue. But 6 years after he left this Chamber, 6 years after he died, we finally gave the right tribute to a great man who served us so well.

Mr. President, today is an important day for the U.S. Senate and the Nation.

With the passage of the Paul Wellstone and Pete Domenici Mental Health Parity and Addiction Equity Act, the Senate not only acknowledges the struggle for civil rights in our country, but also the fight of one man never neglected that struggle.

In 1992, the late Senator Paul Wellstone worked with Senator PETE DOMENICI to introduce the Mental Health Parity Act to correct the unfair burden placed on American families living with mental illness without access to mental health services.

For his entire public service career, our friend Paul fought valiantly for equal rights for all, regardless of their race, religion, socioeconomic status, or health status. He fought for parity as he fought for all civil rights—he fought to end discrimination against people with mental illness and addiction in insurance coverage.

For over a decade, the Wellstone name has been synonymous with the Democratic effort to push mental health parity.

Finally, with the passage of mental health parity legislation, we are assuring millions of Americans that mental illness deserves equal treatment as physical illness.

But we also honor our dear friend and his lifelong commitment to seeing parity enacted.

I only wish that Paul Wellstone could have lived to see this day.

Although Paul himself could not be here, his memory lives on in his two sons, David and Mark.

Paul would be proud of his sons and the great work of Wellstone Action, a national center for training and leadership development for the progressive movement with a mission to honor the legacy of Paul and Sheila Wellstone by continuing their great work.

And Paul would be proud of all of us for moving this important bill forward.

As Paul said, "Politics isn't about big money or power games; it's about the improvement of people's lives."

I am pleased to support this bill, in honor of Paul and Sheila, and the millions of people living with mental illness whose lives will hopefully be improved by its enactment.

I ask unanimous consent to have David Wellstone's written comments printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

STATEMENT FOR THE RECORD IN SUPPORT OF
THE PASSAGE OF THE PAUL WELLSTONE AND
PETE DOMENICI MENTAL HEALTH PARITY
AND ADDICTION EQUITY ACT OF 2008

I am pleased to speak in support of the Paul Wellstone and Pete Domenici Mental Health Parity and Addiction Equity Act of 2008. This legislation is critically important to the future of health care, and it is also very close to my heart. During his time in the Senate, my father never stopped fighting for fairness in coverage and treatment of mental illness and substance use disorders. My family and I are grateful for the effort in the Senate and the House to pay tribute to my father's legacy by naming the bill after him and his close colleague, Sen. Pete Domenici.

My brother and I founded Wellstone Action to carry on my father's work, and through this organization, thousands of people are trained each year to run for office and to develop grassroots skills in organizing and leadership. But nothing represents my father's passion and commitment more than his work to pass legislation that would end the discrimination against those with mental illness and substance use disorders. This legislation is a major achievement and will do so much to end that discrimination.

For some time, I have been coming to Washington to speak on behalf of this legislation, but the fight for parity has a long history with many milestones: the 1996 federal law; the 1999 Executive Order that gave federal employees mental health and addiction parity benefits; the many successes at the state level to strengthen their parity laws; the times that Congress came very close to passing the expansion of the federal law; and the endorsement by President Bush in 2002. For my father, these milestones were very personal. His dedication stemmed from his personal observations of the terrible conditions in psychiatric institutions when his brother was hospitalized in the 1950s. These conditions, and the eventual catastrophic financial toll that my grandparents had to bear, inspired my father to do everything he could to make things right for those in similar circumstances.

The legislation that my father and Sen. Domenici passed in 1996 was groundbreaking and important, for it established in law an important first principle of parity: that those with mental illness should not be discriminated against in insurance coverage. But my father knew that it was not enough, and that is why this legislation is so necessary. It is the critically important next step toward ending the persistent discrimination against people who suffer from mental illness and addiction.

In the Senate, the tireless leadership of Senator Edward Kennedy and Senator Pete Domenici on this effort has been extraordinary, especially with their efforts to bring together the coalition of business and advocates to work to get this bill completed. They and the Senate Leadership, especially Senator Harry Reid and Senator Dick Durbin, should be proud of their efforts to make this legislation one that will strongly protect the needs of millions of Americans who have mental illness and substance use disorders. In the Senate, the efforts by Senator Chris Dodd, Senator Tom Harkin, Senator Max Baucus, Senator Barbara Boxer, and Senator Amy Klobuchar also did so much to bring this bill to final passage. And, as I know well, nothing is accomplished without the unflinching commitment of hundreds of dedicated staff and advocates who have worked so hard to right the wrong of discrimination that has existed for so long in our country. I also want to extend my deep gratitude to former First Lady Rosalynn Carter for her many years of leadership on this issue and many other problems related to mental illness. She and my father worked closely together on parity for many years, and he was always grateful for her support and leadership.

We know that mental illness is a real, painful, and sometimes fatal disease. It is also a treatable disease. My father used to say that the gap between what we know and what we do is lethal. Available medications and psychological treatments, alone or in combination, can help most people who suffer from mental illness and addiction. But without adequate treatment, these illnesses can continue or worsen in severity. Suicide is the third leading cause of death of young people in the U.S. Each year, 32,000 Americans take their lives, hundreds of thousands attempt to do so, and in 90 percent of these situations, the cause is untreated mental illness. This legislation will save lives. It will also go a long way toward ending the stigma that is behind the discrimination.

People have asked me why I am so involved in this issue. My first response is,

"Because of my father, of course". I loved him and I miss him, and I have learned that many others here in Washington and throughout the country miss him too, especially his courage and his compassion. He fought hard for those who had no voice, and he had a strong personal commitment to helping those with mental illness and addiction. After he died, Congressional members honored him and my family by promising to name the parity bill after him, and this meant a great deal to my family. But I also knew the kind of man my father was, and the kind of parity bill he would have wanted finally passed into law, and I wanted to help ensure that the final bill was one worthy of his name. The safeguards for patients that have been included in this final bill, such as protections of stronger state laws, out of network benefits, oversight of diagnosis coverage, and transparency of medical necessity, are essential to a strong law. This Congress can be remembered as the one that had the courage and leadership to pass a strong parity bill, one where everyone's voices had a chance to be heard.

I, along with millions of Americans, look forward to the day when people with mental illness and substance use disorder receive decent, humane, and timely care. The passage of the Paul Wellstone and Pete Domenici Mental Health Parity and Addiction Equity Act of 2008 brings us closer to this day.

THE ECONOMY

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, this is a hard week around here because we are being asked to consider something that is historic. This question of bailing out financial institutions because of a struggling economy has called into question a lot of very basics about the way we govern this Nation.

I think most people understand the economy is in trouble. For working families, they have known it a long time. They have been falling behind for 8 years. Their incomes do not keep up with the cost of living. The expenses they face grow dramatically, whether we are talking about mortgage payments, utility bills, groceries or gasoline or health care costs. They know the economy is weak. No matter how hard they work, they cannot keep up with it. They are the ones who have been wondering when Congress was going to understand this and do something about it.

It took a tragedy in another sector of the economy for Congress to act, and that tragedy is in the credit institutions. You see, what happened to the credit institutions in America was totally avoidable. What happened was we created a parallel credit operation, parallel to the banks and other regulated institutions—investment banks and other Wall Street entities—which had basically no rules. They played by their own rules. They were not regulated. There was no Government oversight, very little transparency. They loaned money in ways and with terms that were not publicly disclosed on a regular basis.

The attitude for the longest time around Washington was: Keep your hands off of them. These are the dynamics of capitalism. Give them a chance.

They will just create wealth and opportunity in every direction. Well, that sounds too good to be true, and it turned out it was. They started making loans that were careless, negligent, and wrong.

They started loaning money, for example, on mortgages to people under terms that were unreasonable, to people who could not afford them in some instances, and started collapsing. They just counted on the fact that the default rate would be low when it came to mortgages, even if the mortgage was full of tricks and traps. They counted on the fact that real estate would always appreciate in value. Eventually, the house of cards tumbled and they ended up holding the mortgage securities and other mortgages that were worthless. Nobody wants to buy them. They are called illiquid assets.

As the portfolios of these investment banks got loaded up with worthless securities and paper, they started struggling to survive. Some of them didn't. Bear Stearns was about to go out of business, and the Federal Government stepped in. This administration said: We will keep you going. Lehman Brothers was about to go out of business, and they said: We won't step in. But for the portion rescued by Barclays, thousands of jobs were lost.

I think the net result of this is very clear. First, what we are facing today was avoidable. If we had not bought into the economic philosophy of those who argued that regulation is inherently evil, we could have avoided some of these mistakes and tragedies. But we didn't. Voices in the Senate, like former Senator Phil Gramm of Texas, argued with vigor: Get out of the way. Capitalism will work just fine. All the Government can do is mess it up.

Well, we saw what happened. In the last several weeks, some of the giants of Wall Street and some of the major institutions in Washington have either been compromised or perished. In some instances, the Federal Government stepped in. In stepping in, it has created new obligations for our Government and our taxpayers.

I think this chart I put together is fairly close to what we are facing. The current national debt of the United States of America is $9.73 trillion. That represents the accumulated debt of every administration in the history of the United States, from George Washington through George W. Bush. That is $9.73 trillion.

Look what happened in the last several weeks: First, we had the Treasury Secretary step in and say that we are going to keep Bear Stearns afloat. So they did that by allocating some $30 billion. Then they came in and said: We are going to stand behind—guarantee—the mortgages being held by Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac to the tune of $5.3 trillion.

Admittedly, there are security and collateral behind these, but we are on the hook now for $5.3 trillion.

AIG, the biggest insurance company in America, was about to go out of business. It would have been catastrophic. We stepped in and, for $80 billion, said we would stand behind them and purchase a share of AIG and expect to be paid back. I hope we are.

Money market insurance, money market mutual funds are those cash options for people who don't want to invest in securities and, at some point last week they could not pay a dollar on a dollar given to them. So we stepped in to provide insurance for them, an exposure of $3.35 trillion. Then comes President Bush's bailout plan that Secretary Paulson brought to us, to the tune of $700 billion.

So in the last several weeks, we now have a new exposure to taxpayers of this country, a liability of $9.46 trillion. The accumulated debt of America, from its beginning to today is $9.73 trillion, and the new exposure is $9.46 trillion. This is a dramatic and, in many ways, troubling scenario that has unfolded.

Lack of regulation, lack of accountability, lack of transparency led to terrible decisions based on greed and on the fact that no one was looking. Many people got rich in the process. Some of them went away with millions of dollars in income as executives, and others from the investments that did pay off, and some with golden parachutes did quite well.

Most of the American taxpayers didn't realize any gains from that, but now they are on the hook for this proposal of $700 billion. What does that come out to for every man, woman, and child? It is $2,300 in new liability that every man, woman, and child in America will have as a result of the Bush bailout proposal.

Many of us have serious problems with the President's bailout proposal. I don't question that we need to do something and do it in an expeditious way. But we should do as much as we need to do and not more. We should make certain we are not subsidizing the compensation of executives of these failed companies. These men and women who ran these companies into the ground, who bought these rotten portfolios we are now rescuing, don't deserve a gold watch or a million dollars as they leave the office. Certainly, the taxpayers should not have to pay it. That is No. 1.

Executive compensation ought to be off the table. If they want to play with taxpayer money, let them be restrained and restricted in terms of their income to the highest salary paid in the Federal Government, which is a generous $400,000. That is enough, nothing more—not a million-dollar going-away gift for incompetent and failed corporate executives.

Secondly, we have to make sure whatever we do is not torn apart by conflicts of interest. Whatever allocation of money is given to the Treasury Department is going to be spent on companies, and we have to make certain it doesn't go to buddies and friends but to the companies that can make a difference in the economy.

When the Treasury Secretary gave us this three-page bill asking for $700 billion, he specifically said none of the decisions or actions taken under that bill would be subject to review by any court in America, any administrative agency, and the rules he would draw up for the conduct of this activity would not be subject to the ordinary course of business and laws of America. I am sorry. I will never vote for that. I cannot.

How can the Secretary of the Treasury be above the law? Why wouldn't he be held accountable for conflicts of interest?

I believe Henry Paulson is an honorable man. I don't think he is out to do anything wrong. But what of those who work for him? There can be a lot of people spending taxpayer dollars. I want them to know they are held to the same standards of ethical and legal conduct as anybody doing business or anybody involved in our Government. So that is something I insist on.

The third point I want to make is this: If we are going to come to the rescue of some of these companies and buy their illiquid assets that nobody wants to buy—if the taxpayers are going to put that money on the line, I want them protected. If those companies survive and succeed, the American taxpayers should reap at least some of the profits. That is not unreasonable. Why should we be left holding the bag for $700 million for their mistakes, and when they get well, they will basically stand around and complain about Government getting in their way again. I would insist on that as well.

The other element is one that I authored and is included in both the House and Senate versions of the Democratic alternatives to the Bush bailout. This really goes to the heart of it. This economic mess started because of subprime mortgages—mortgages that were basically predatory lending, where people were being taken advantage of. We see what has happened. People were drawn into mortgages they could not pay, and they are about to lose their homes. Foreclosures are at the highest level since the Great Depression.

If we are going to get this economy moving forward again—and we should do it quickly—we have to go to the heart of the problem. The rot at the bottom of the pyramid is foreclosures. As long as mortgages are being foreclosed in record numbers, people will not only lose their homes, but every one of us suffers. I recently had an appraisal on my home in Springfield, and the value is down 20 percent. We made our payments. We didn't do anything wrong. That is the real estate market in Springfield, IL. That is what is affecting homes across America. Until we staunch the bleeding of this mortgage foreclosure crisis, I am afraid we are not going to get well.

One of the provisions in this bill relates to bankruptcy. It says if someone owns a home and goes into bankruptcy facing foreclosure, the Bankruptcy Court has the right to rewrite the terms of the mortgage so if it is possible, that person can stay in their home.

This is not a radical idea. It applies now to all second homes, vacation homes, farms, and ranches—just not your primary residence, for no good reason. It should apply. If we put this provision in the law, trust me, those institutions that are issuing the mortgages are going to be much more open to renegotiating the terms and making them more reasonable. Unless we put it in, they will continue to say let that homeowner lose their home. That is an outcome that doesn't help anyone.

I hope we can see a balanced package come through when this is all over. I hope we can see some equity and fairness for the taxpayers in this country. Lord knows, they have paid enough. To ask them to pay another $2,300 deeper into our national debt is unreasonable if we don't have safeguards to stop excessive executive compensation, to give the taxpayers the upside of these businesses, if they do get well; to make sure that we police against conflicts of interest and wasting of taxpayer dollars and, finally, make sure we do something about the homeowners who are at the root cause of the economic downturn we are now facing.

We need to do it and do it quickly. I know banks will hate this provision on bankruptcy. They have made up so many stories about what this will do to them. They talk about interest rates going up on mortgages across the board. But there was an analysis done by Adam Levitin, a Georgetown law professor. He said:

Taken as a whole, our analysis of the current and historical data suggests that permitting bankruptcy modification of mortgages would have no or little impact on mortgage markets.

I agree. It is just a smokescreen. The same banks that want to be bailed out don't want to be held accountable. They created this mess, and they want to continue to profit from it. They want the taxpayers to subsidize it, and they don't want to step up to the table and work with families and homeowners to keep them in their homes.

That is not the way we do business in America. I hope we have learned a bitter lesson. Those who were champions of deregulation—JOHN MCCAIN used to talk about that being his mantra. He was opposed to regulation. He was all for Senator Phil Gramm's attitude toward keeping your hands off the economy. Look where it brought us today: the mess that we face.

In just a matter of a couple weeks we will see an exposure of liability to our Federal Government almost equal to the combined national debt accumulated in the United States since its inception. That is poor management. It reflects poor thinking. It reflects an economic philosophy that needs to be tossed onto the dustbin of history.

I yield the floor and suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. HATCH. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

THE ECONOMY

Mr. HATCH. Mr. President, I rise today concerned about the current crisis in our financial markets and the state of our economy. I am also concerned about the course that is being laid out by both the administration and the congressional leadership.

Specifically, I fear that the magnitude of what we are undertaking is being swallowed by the concerns of an election campaign and, quite frankly, I don't believe that is any way to govern. Of course, the sense of urgency being expressed by my colleagues is warranted given the circumstances.

In the last year, price increases, particularly in food and energy, have exceeded our income growth. The unemployment rates have edged up. Already we have lost some 700,000 jobs. Obviously, the fallout was particularly severe in the housing sector. But it should be noted that some of the slowdown is due to the aging of the economic expansion and the completion of the capital investment spurred by the 2001 and 2003 tax cuts. Clearly, these need to be renewed and expanded to encourage growth in the economy at large.

However, we are dealing with more than a sputtering in our economy. Losses on mortgage-backed securities, coupled with the loss of confidence in the financial sector, threaten to turn a predictable economic slowdown into something far worse. Indeed, we are in the grips of a financial panic of monumental proportions.

The sharp decline in confidence has led to runs on many institutions, most apparently among our investment banks that operated largely on borrowed money at high rates of leverage. Most of these institutions have either sought merger partners or are being sold to stronger firms. Others are reconstituting themselves as commercial banks in order to obtain additional Federal deposit protection and regulation.

Many investment banks were too shaky to survive, unable to absorb losses on housing-related securities that exceeded their capital and having insufficient time to obtain an infusion of capital from new investors.

Most financial institutions here and around the world have suffered manageable losses. Except for the uncertainty which has made our banks reluctant to deal with one another or to issue new loans, they are otherwise in good condition.

Banks and other financial institutions around the world have considerable assets but cannot access them. Normally, an institution in need of cash would sell some of its assets to others. But at the current time, entire classes of assets cannot be valued properly and, as a result, there is no functioning market for them. These institutions cannot wait for the market values to be sorted out because they owe money now that is due for repayment.

We have to buy the banks enough time to properly sort out their assets. When the sorting is complete, they will likely find that their assets still have considerable value, perhaps between 70 cents and 90 cents on the dollar. Delinquency rates on mortgages are significantly up from a year ago, from about 2.4 percent to a bit over 8 percent as of the end of June. However, the homes and the land are still in existence and have retained much of their intrinsic real value. Most of the borrowers are paying their mortgages, and most of the mortgage-backed bonds are still paying interest. Unfortunately, if the bonds have to be resold today in this unstable, panicky market, they will yield far less than their real value. If the bonds can be held until the crisis is sorted out, the losses will be greatly decreased. Certainly, the losses will be substantial and inconvenient for many institutions and for a number of individual investors, but they will be manageable.

These are not insurmountable problems. We have dealt with financial crises before. We overcame the devastating stagflation of the 1970s, halting inflation and renewing economic growth through a mix of new monetary tax-and-spend policies enacted in 1981. We solved the savings and loan crisis of the mid-1980s, even as income and unemployment rose rapidly, without resorting to renewed inflation.

In short, our greatest fear should not be the crisis itself but the possibility of an inappropriate response to the crisis.

In order to determine the best course going forward, we need to examine what got us here. While it would be easy, especially during the campaign season, to lay the blame at the feet of certain individuals, the actual problems we face are simply too complex to be pinned on a single actor or party.

Right now, we are seeing the consequences of a long series of policy errors, both in the private and public sectors, which combined to create a perfect storm of financial instability. Many of our problems stem from our monetary policy at the Federal Reserve. From 1988 to 1999, the Fed pursued a relatively stable monetary policy. However, in anticipation of serious problems with the financial sector's computer systems as the year 2000 approached, the Fed flooded the system with money in 1999. This contributed to the "dot com" bubble, and subsequent efforts to take out the excess cash contributed to the recession of 2001.

In order to spur the economy, the Federal Reserve held short-term interest rates too low for too long, well below the expected rate of inflation. The money that subsequently poured into housing and commodities created excessive demand, contributing to the housing and commodity price bubbles, both of which burst due to the most recent efforts of the Fed to return to a less-inflationary stance.

The easy credit made available from these policies was quickly steered into the housing sector, facilitated by increased availability of adjustable rate mortgages, rising demand for mortgage-backed securities, and the globalization of financial markets.

The proverbial plot thickened as loan origination companies and many banks continually borrowed at the prevailing low rates and resold the mortgages to Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac or other firms generating mortgage-backed securities, all of which planned to sell the mortgages rather than keep them on their books. So they had little reason to be concerned with the quality of loans or the borrowers' ability to repay.

As a result, lending standards fell. Subprime loans were given to many debtors who could not, under normal conditions, qualify for or afford the debt they were taking on. These people were offered adjustable rate mortgages with low teaser rates, borrowing on the assumption that they could always refinance at the same low rates later on. In effect, low-income buyers became speculators in the midst of a bubble. Borrowers and lenders assumed that real estate prices would rise indefinitely. Therefore, many assumed that, even if they could not refinance, they would be able to sell their houses later on at a profit.

The infusion of money into the housing market increased demand and drove up housing prices, leading to overconstruction. Eventually, the prices had to come down to Earth, leading to the losses and defaults that we are facing today.

Make no mistake, we are facing difficult times. But I must urge my colleagues to maintain some perspective about the overall state of our economy. True enough, these were unprecedented challenges, but given what is at stake, the American people need an accurate portrayal of the obstacles we face. Once again, our current problems are difficult but not fatal, and contrary to the claims of some of my colleagues, this is not 1929 and America has not become a country of Tom Joads.

While, once again, the financial failures have placed us in an extremely tenuous position, the overall economy has not collapsed. As a result of the reduction in tax rates beginning in 2001 and 2003, we saw more than 4 years of strong economic growth. After a single quarter of negative growth at the end of 2007, our economy has continued to grow this year, though at a slower rate. Productivity has been on the rise and inflation has been on the decline. Of course, these facts are not likely to comfort those in our country who are struggling through the uncertainties, but they should give us cause to believe we can weather this storm.

Yet what we hear from some Democrats regarding these matters are more partisan attacks and fingerpointing. The country is in shambles, and President Bush and JOHN MCCAIN, they say, are entirely to blame. Of course, these attacks are simply ridiculous, just as it would be ridiculous for me to stand here and lay the blame entirely on Democratic congressional leaders. The stakes are simply too high on this issue for our response to be muddled by campaign rhetoric or election-related agendas. I sincerely hope we can move past any partisan wrangling and address these matters in a sensible, bipartisan fashion.

This week we are working on, and are likely to pass, an economic relief package that, if it resembles what has been advertised, will put the American taxpayers on the hook for about $700 billion—$700 billion—and the American taxpayers will become the proud owners of a mountain of questionable mortgages. The fact that this gargantuan number can be discussed in these Chambers without causing all of us to shudder says a lot about how detached from reality many of us have become.

The Secretary of the Treasury, Henry Paulson, whom I greatly respect and admire, announced a proposed bailout last Friday. According to the current agenda discussed among congressional leaders, they hope to be able to finalize the package and have it on the President's desk by the end of the week.

To sum up, we are preparing to authorize $700 billion in new spending and to fundamentally alter the balance between the Government and the private sector, and we will not take longer than a week to debate and discuss the legislation.

I know many of my colleagues are anxious to get back on the campaign trail so they can blame President Bush, Senator MCCAIN, or anyone with an "R" next to their name for the financial crisis. But I think the American people expect more out of us. Indeed, if we are going to spend $700 billion of their money, we had better be certain it is the right thing to do.

The proposal clearly has the potential to work. Under the plan, the Secretary will be given authority to spend up to $700 billion to acquire large quantities of questionable mortgage-related debt that have caused the financial markets to freeze. Fortunately, from what we have been told, that $700 billion figure is only the gross cost of the program. The assets acquired by the Treasury will eventually be sold. If—and this is a big if—all goes according to plan and the assets are purchased at appropriate discounts, there is a chance the Treasury will recoup the taxpayers' investment or even turn a profit.

As we heard from Secretary Paulson and Chairman Bernanke on Tuesday, this outcome cannot be guaranteed and, at this point, much uncertainty remains. However, as we all know, the cost of doing nothing could be much greater. By failing to act, we may inflict even greater hardship on the working people, small business owners, and retirees throughout the country.

In addition to the inherent risks in the program, a number of other factors must be considered. First of all, we need to remember that Secretary Paulson will not be running the Treasury for much longer. That is a possibility. In fact, it is a probability. Given the sheer size of this proposal, passage of this bill, coupled with the start of a new administration in January, the choice regarding the next Treasury Secretary will suddenly become one of the most important political appointments in a generation. We would be passing on to an unknown administration unprecedented powers over the financial markets and the private sector. While I have great confidence in the leadership and abilities of Secretary Paulson, such uncertainty gives me pauses.

Second, there is a conspicuous lack of transparency, oversight or accountability in the Secretary's proposal. Instead, it contains explicit provisions exempting his decisions from any kind of review. No consultation is required for any purchase, nor is there a requirement that either his decision-making process or his decisions themselves be made public. The shudder I feel over the $700 billion price tag grows exponentially if there is going to be no accountability.

If Congress is to approve a bailout of this magnitude, we must take proper precautions to ensure we do not compound the inherent uncertainty of the plan with more uncertainty in the legislation. We need to include some sort of guidelines or oversight in order to ensure that this administration and the next one do not abuse or misuse such a huge grant of trust.

Finally, we need to consider any response to the current crisis in the context of our long-term economic needs. While the proposed bailout may hold off an impending economic meltdown, any action we take now will be meaningless if it is not followed up with decisive action on our part.

Foremost, we need to change the way the financial sector works. The Federal Reserve needs to rethink its definition of good monetary policy and determine whether its existing policy tools—such as reserve requirements, oversight capabilities, and reporting rules—are adequate. In addition, Congress must reconsider what it has charged the Federal Reserve to do. The Fed has been charged with two goals: No. 1, providing a sound currency with stable purchasing power; and, No. 2, maintaining steady economic growth with low unemployment. At this point, it is obvious that an aggressive, excessively easy monetary policy in pursuit of short-term growth is self-destructive in the long run. It leads only to inflation and speculative excesses in the credit markets that might harm the economy, and probably will. Only by focusing on a stable currency can the Federal Reserve achieve both its objectives.

We also need to completely rethink Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac. As we have heard countless times over the last few weeks, in creating these two government-sponsored enterprises, we have made sure the benefits of their investments are private while all the risks are public. Put simply: This is bad policy with considerable moral hazard.

Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac together represent an immense government-created and government-coddled duopoly. In the years since their creation, they have focused mainly on their own expansion, recklessly urged on by many in Congress who believed this was the way to make home ownership more affordable for low-income families. However, as a recent Fed study has demonstrated, most of the benefit of the previously implicit—now explicit—Federal guarantee of their debt has gone to their shareholders as higher earnings, not to reducing costs for new homeowners. In their efforts to expand, Fannie and Freddie took too many unwarranted risks. They needed an ever-expanding supply of new mortgages to package and resell and to hold for income. Others fed this expansion effort with unsound lending.

The recent Federal bailout of these institutions requires an immediate step: an end to their lobbying to Congress. It is a little late in coming, but as of right now, it is essential. We need to stop insisting that Fannie and Freddie have an ever-expanding role in the housing market. We should also consider breaking each of them into separate pieces to promote more competition and to ensure that no one part of them will ever again be too big to be allowed to fail.

The regulatory and rating agencies also need to be reviewed. We need to ask whether they have enough resources for adequate supervision and whether they have failed to recognize the evolutionary changes in the credit markets and the new business arrangements that reduced transparency in financing. These and other questions will have to be explored as we move forward.

Congress must also recognize its responsibility to help the economy grow. I, for one, would like to see some willingness among the Democratic leaders to enact policies that are actually intended to spur long-term economic growth in our country. It is simply appalling that the United States has the second highest corporate tax rate in the industrialized world. Yet it is almost sacrilegious among Democrats to consider reducing those rates in order to spur growth among our Nation's businesses and employers. Capital gains in this country are taxed at a higher rate than they are in many countries throughout the world, and all we hear from Democrats are proposals to increase taxes on capital gains and dividends, which, as history has shown, creates disincentives for investment. During these months of slow economic growth, it has been our exports that have kept our economy afloat. One would think this should incentivize Congress to promote free trade with our allies throughout the world. Yet we have consistently seen efforts to open our exports to foreign markets stalled by the Democrats in Congress.

Finally, we spend $700 billion a year to purchase oil from outside the United States. But if you looked at any of the so-called energy bills we have considered in Congress, they do not contain any provisions that will actually increase oil production at home, except the bill we Republicans offered here a month or so ago.

We clearly need to reform our financial markets and refine the powers of the Federal Reserve in order to ensure crises such as this don't happen again. And though I hesitate to support the idea, it is not unreasonable to conclude that the proposed bailout can provide immediate relief and prevent any more catastrophic losses in the near future and give the financial market time to sort out the mess. But if we don't adopt policies that are pro-growth, pro-business, and pro-job creation, we won't be able to ensure long-term economic security for our country, no matter how many bad mortgages we purchase with the taxpayers' money.

These are indeed difficult times for our financial markets and the housing sector of our economy. I agree with my colleagues that we need to act fast. I only hope that, as we work toward a solution, we do so according to a timetable that is appropriate to the problems we face and not one based on election year expediency. I also hope that we can consider the long-term implications of our actions and consider the future as well as the present.

INTELLIGENCE OVERSIGHT

Mr. INOUE. Mr. President, on September 11, the senior Senator from Missouri, Mr. BOND, came to the floor to introduce a resolution which suggests that the Appropriations Committee should establish an Intelligence Subcommittee. While I don't agree that this would be beneficial to either the Senate or the Nation, the Senator, of course, has a right to his opinion.

I would inform my colleagues that the leaders of the Appropriations Committees, Senators BYRD and COCHRAN, who are responsible for the division of labor on the committee addressed this matter in a letter they sent to Senators REID and MCCONNELL earlier this year.

Rather than debating this matter I would just point out that the chairman and ranking member make a very compelling case in opposition to this proposal articulating the significant damage to intelligence oversight that could result from the proposal offered by Senator BOND. I would like to highlight one observation from their letter. They point out that the proposal that the Senator makes would have the effect of further limiting the number of members who have access to the details of intelligence programs. It would put all decisionmaking into fewer hands. They suggest that for intelligence programs in which the general public, the watchdog groups, and the press must be denied access to the information, the absolutely worst thing the Congress could do would be to further constrain oversight and eliminate the benefits that come from having more individuals share responsibility in the decisionmaking process. I share their view that the proposal made by the Senator from Missouri would not improve congressional oversight of intelligence.

My colleague from Missouri spoke eloquently and passionately about the tragedy of 9/11 and the impact it had on him and this institution. On a personal note, I would like to thank him for the kind words he expressed about me and my role as chairman of the Defense Subcommittee. Senator BOND and I have served together on the Appropriations Committee since he joined us in 1991. He has served the committee in a number of key areas including on our Defense Subcommittee, but most notably as chairman of the former VA-HUD Subcommittee and currently as the ranking member of the Transportation-HUD Subcommittee. On the Appropriations Committee we have come to count on him for his expertise and sound judgment in these areas. As such, I must say I was surprised by some of the characterizations he made regarding action on classified programs.

Senator BOND noted that billions of dollars has been spent on technology programs which, as he described, "never get off the ground." I concur with this description and share his concern. He rightly blamed executive branch officials for many failures. But in so doing he failed to note that the Congress, including the Intelligence Committee, reviewed these programs for several years and authorized funding for them.

He discussed a program that he referred to as a "silver bullet." If I am right in assuming which program that is, I would point out that the Intelligence Committees, Appropriations Committees, and the intelligence community all originally supported the program. While the Senate Intelligence Committee soured on the program a few years ago, it remained supported by the House oversight committees, the Senate Appropriations Committee, the Director of National Intelligence, the Secretary of Defense, the Under Secretary of Defense for Intelligence, and the Chairman of the Strategic Command. But, yes, it was expensive. When a new DNI, new Secretary, and new Under Secretary assumed their posts, they determined that it simply wasn't affordable.

The Senator from Missouri postulates that it didn't work. Since it was not completed, we will never really know, but no one involved in the program in DoD and the intelligence community ever contended it wouldn't work. It was cancelled because the executive branch determined it wasn't worth the continued investment. By cancelling the program as urged by the Intelligence Committee, the Government did, to use the Senator's word, "waste" billions of dollars. But this is not the only example of problems in this community.

One notable program that was finally killed by the administration in the past few years on which significantly more funding had been spent was strongly supported by the Intelligence Committee from the program's inception. The committee had even suggested that this program could partially serve as an alternative to the program referred to above. It had been behind schedule and overbudget for years, but it continued to be supported by the executive branch and the Congress with the hope that it could be saved. Eventually, the administration realized that technically it could not be made to work, and it was cancelled.

For the Senator to claim that it is the appropriations process which is so disconnected from the workings of the Intelligence Committee that billions of dollars come to naught puts the blame squarely on our committee for the failures which have occurred. This is not only unfair, but it is completely inaccurate.

Mr. President, while the Senator and I may disagree on the relative merits of programs, and while I am not particularly proud of the Government's record in recent years, the responsibility for wasting of billions of dollars is shared by all of us, the executive branch, the Appropriations Committees, and the Intelligence Committees.

The Senator attempted to link these past failures to a particular program which he advocates which was not funded by the Appropriations Committee this year. I would point out that the administration did not request funding for the program and that the Director of National Intelligence opposes funding the program. The funding sought by Senator BOND was not authorized by the House oversight committee. It was not recommended by the Intelligence oversight panel of the House Appropriations Committee.

Moreover, I would disagree with his characterization of the action by the Defense Subcommittee on this subject. We recognize that several members of the Intelligence Committee feel this would be a worthwhile program. Senators STEVENS, COCHRAN, and I considered the actions by the Intelligence Committee on this and many other programs very carefully. To address the concerns of the Intelligence Committee, we reallocated a substantial sum of money from other programs and provided an amount with which the intelligence community could fully fund the program that Senator BOND advocates. However, we didn't mandate that outcome. There is disagreement within the community about the proper approach which should be taken. In recognition that a new administration will be taking office, we requested that the program supported by Senator BOND be analyzed along with those of other contractors and the best option or options be selected next year.

We felt we met the Senator halfway. We recommended sufficient funding which could be used for this program even though it was funded by neither the other intelligence oversight committees nor the intelligence community.

We are familiar with the program in question. We believe it may have merit. We have confidence in individuals associated with the program, but we also are aware of those with great technical expertise who argue that the program will not work for technical reasons which I cannot discuss in unclassified session. We believed locking the intelligence community into another multibillion-dollar sole source contract when there are legitimate questions about its potential is probably a mistake. To imply that this program has broad-based support and that it is the Appropriations Committee which is out of step is categorically inaccurate.

It is somewhat ironic that the Senator from Missouri is urging support for responding to the recommendations of the 9/11 Commission while at the same time he is telling the Senate to ignore the judgment of the Director of National Intelligence who was established and empowered to make such decisions as the principal recommendation of the 9/11 Commission.

Finally, I would note that the Senator claimed that the root problem is that the Appropriations Committee simply does not have enough staff to pay adequate attention to intelligence.

The Defense Subcommittee has a small staff and the Intelligence Committee staff is fairly large. But I would point out that the Intelligence Committee has one professional staff member on the majority staff who reviews the budget for the National Reconnaissance Office; so do we. The Intelligence Committee has one professional staff member on the majority staff who reviews the budget for the National Security Agency; so do we. Moreover, the staff which the Defense Subcommittee devotes to overseeing the intelligence budget has far greater experience in reviewing budgets than does the staff of the Intelligence Committee for such programs. I would also point out that several other subcommittees on the Appropriations Committee have jurisdiction over portions of the intelligence budget. To single out the Defense Subcommittee misses one of the key points of the appropriations process: that many individuals have oversight over these matters.

I don't want to stir up passions on this issue any more than I may already have. I have the greatest respect for the workings of the Intelligence Committee. Many of my younger colleagues may not be aware that I served as the first chairman of the Intelligence Committee. I am proud of my service on that committee. I believe the work that Senators ROCKEFELLER and BOND do is extremely important to the Senate. I believe they have a very competent staff. Since I resumed the chairmanship of the Defense Subcommittee last year, I have directed my staff to work closely with the staff of the Intelligence Committee to ensure that we have the benefit of their expertise and to minimize any disagreements between our two panels, and they have done so. Our staffs attend many briefings together. Members of our staffs have traveled together to review programs. I believe we have established a good relationship that strengthens Senate oversight.

For example, there are literally thousands of line items in the intelligence budget. Our staffs spend countless hours discussing items which one committee or the other believes should be adjusted. We carefully review the classified annex of the Intelligence Committee and provide recommendations to the Appropriations Committee which are very close to those of the Intelligence Committee. This year we had two issues out of hundreds of items under review on which we disagreed. On one we were able to reach an agreement easily. The other has been described in vague terms above.

Last year, Chairmen BYRD and ROCKEFELLER, Ranking Members COCHRAN and STEVENS, and I signed a significant memorandum of agreement between our two committees pledging greater cooperation. Senator BOND chose not to be party to that agreement. Since that time the signers and their staffs have tried to live up to the letter and the spirit of that pact. I believe we have been generally successful and the Senate is better served that two separate panels are continuing to review the intelligence budget but working together and generally resolving our differences amicably.

It is rare for me to openly disagree with another Member. I want to assure all my colleagues that I do not mean anything personally by my statements today. However, the assertions and implications that were levied against the Appropriations Committee earlier this month were simply untrue. At times all of us can become passionate on matters which we care about. Perhaps that explains why such inaccuracies were offered as facts. Regardless of the reason, I felt it was my duty to come to the floor today and correct the record.

HONORING OUR ARMED FORCES

MASTER SERGEANT KENNETH NATHANIEL MACK

Mr. CORNYN. Mr. President, I wish today to honor the life and service of a dedicated marine, MSG Kenneth Nathaniel Mack. On May 5th, 2007, Master Sergeant Mack gave his life in service to his country fighting in Iraq. In his 23 years of service to the U.S. Marine Corps, Master Sergeant Mack proved himself a dedicated marine and a trusted colleague to all who served by his side.

Born in Goldsboro, NC, on December 18, 1964, Kenneth's family soon moved to Texas, where he graduated from Southwest High School in 1982 and attended Tarrant County Junior College in Fort Worth.

While still in college, Master Sergeant Mack joined the Marine Corps Reserves, following his love of country, as well as his interest in automotive repair work. While many of his fellow students considered weekends simply a time to relax, Kenneth chose to spend many of those weekends at military drill in Abilene. In 1991, Kenneth was called upon to serve his country in combat during Operation Desert Storm. It would not be the last time he served on a far-away field of battle.

Following the conclusion of the first gulf war, Kenneth returned home, married his wife Peggie, and started his family. Like so many members of our Nation's Reserve forces, Kenneth worked hard to balance his military service and civilian job with his family life. He succeeded, as evidenced by the lasting legacy of love and compassion that he left behind with his family. He cherished his time with them and was known for always bringing the family together.

In 2004, Kenneth was once again called to serve overseas and deployed in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom. After helping to liberate the Iraqi people from an oppressive government regime, Master Sergeant Mack returned home. In March of 2007, he answered his country's call for the third time, returning to serve in Iraq. Sadly, just a few short months later, Master Sergeant Mack was killed by an improvised explosive device while conducting combat operations there.

In honor of his service and his selfless sacrifice, Congress passed legislation earlier this year naming the Wedgwood Station Post Office the "Master Sergeant Kenneth N. Mack Post Office Building." Master Sergeant Mack will be remembered across Texas for his generosity and loving attitude towards children, which extended well beyond his own family. He will also be remembered for his enthusiasm for hobbies such as scuba diving, skydiving, and motorcycle riding; and his love for the U.S. Marine Corps.

MSG Kenneth Mack is survived by his wife, Peggie; his children, Candace, Courtney, Shyquadra, and Nathaniel; his mother, Mahalia S. Mack; and his brothers, Timothy and Robert. It is my honor today to share Kenneth's story, and pay tribute to his remarkable service and sacrifice for this country, which shall be forever indebted to him.

FEDERAL STUDENT LOANS

Mr. HARKIN. Mr. President, just last week Congress passed a 1-year extension of the Department of Education initiative to buy back student loans from lenders who have difficulties accessing capital in the tight financial market. I was pleased to support the extension of this program which has injected more than $1 billion in capital to lenders and has had a hand in ensuring students have access to federally guaranteed student loans in the 2008–2009 school year.

However, the continued need for the Federal Government to prop up student lenders, many of which already operate at a profit, concerns me. Companies making loans through the federally guaranteed program already receive generous subsidies and a guarantee of 95 percent of the value of the loan. While extending the buyback program for another year will provide stability in the student lending market for the 2009–2010 school year, it raises the question of how much Federal funding is too much when there is a cheaper alternative that offers the same Federal loans to students.

That alternative is the direct loan program which issues the same federally guaranteed student loans without reliance on banks and lenders. In addition to cutting out the middleman, the direct loan program is far cheaper for the government to administer. According to the President's most recent budget, the cost to the taxpayer per loan through the direct loan program is $.77 compared to $5.25 through the FFEL program.

Iowa State University, the University of Iowa, University of Northern Iowa, Kirkwood Community College, Des Moines Area Community College, and many other Iowa colleges, all issue loans through the direct loan program. I continue to hear from students and financial aid administrators at those schools that the program serves them well. An added benefit of the direct loan program is that in these troubled economic times students at direct loan schools receive their student loans without the worry of whether their lender will be there for them next year. Any college worried about loan availability for their students should immediately sign up for the direct loan program.

But the problem is deeper than any one school or lender. As our economy continues to falter and the cost of college rises, we owe it to our young people and their parents to provide student aid that is reliable, efficient and comprehensive. The Federal student loan program is one of the best investments our country can make. It should be a priority to provide those loans in the most fiscally responsible way possible.

CHINA'S DOUBLE TEN NATIONAL DAY

Mr. CRAIG. Mr. President, I rise today to congratulate Taiwan President Ma Ying-jeou and Ambassador Jason Yuan on celebrating China's Double Ten National Day.

The people of Taiwan should be proud of their freedom, their political system, and Taiwan's strong economy. With good schools, excellent health facilities, and a sophisticated transit system, Taiwan is a model of development for the region. National Day affords us the opportunity to reflect on those successes.

In addition, I want to recognize Taiwan's ongoing efforts to strengthen its ties with China and its continual commitment to constructive relationships with democratic nations throughout the world. Taiwan and the United States have enjoyed a very positive partnership through the years—a relationship that I am confident will continue to benefit our respective citizens.

On this Chinese National Day, I again offer my congratulations to the Taiwanese government and people for their past success and send my best wishes for this year's celebration.

TRIBUTE TO BILL GATES, SR.

Mrs. MURRAY. Mr. President, I rise today to recognize Bill Gates, Sr.'s contributions to civic programs and initiatives that have changed the lives of many in our home State of Washington and across the country. On Friday September 26, 2008, the University of Washington will be holding an event to honor Bill Gates, Sr. and it is my pleasure to share my sincere gratitude to Bill Gates, Sr. for his extensive civic engagement and accomplishments.

Bill Gates, Sr. has a long history of serving others. First as an Eagle Scout and later serving in the U.S. Army during World War II, Bill Gates, Sr. made a conscious choice to lead by example. Bill Gates, Sr. has dedicated his time and efforts to numerous organizations that strive to improve the lives of individuals and families across the Nation and world. His active leadership roles in organizations such as the United Way of King County and the United Way of America; local and national boards of Planned Parenthood; and the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation are just a few examples of his passion and commitment to helping others.

As a fellow education advocate, I appreciate the work Bill Gates, Sr. has done to increase the ability of our youth to access and afford a quality education. Bill Gates, Sr. clearly understands the importance of education and he has worked on this issue from many angles: as a chair of a Seattle Public School Levy Campaign, a member of the Board of Regents for the University of Washington, and as cochair of the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation, Bill Gates, Sr. is an integral part of decisions made about influential education initiatives. Recently, Bill Gates, Sr. chaired a $2 billion capital campaign for the University of Washington that included funding for the Husky Promise, which supports an endowment to help lower income students access higher education and attend the University of Washington.

Bill Gates, Sr. has also worked to advance projects that provide support for individuals and families in need around the world. As chair of the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation, Bill Gates, Sr. has helped launch initiatives that tackle major health and poverty issues for the developing world. The initiatives have focused on practical solutions that empower international communities and help save lives.

I would like to thank Bill Gates, Sr. for both his past activities and his current pursuits to help create healthier and happier communities. I am sure Bill Gates, Sr. will continue to embrace the opportunities and challenges of tomorrow through his work with many charitable organizations, and I am pleased he is being honored for his years of dedication to helping others.

IDAHOANS SPEAK OUT ON HIGH ENERGY PRICES

Mr. CRAPO. Mr. President, in mid-June, I asked Idahoans to share with me how high energy prices are affecting their lives, and they responded by the hundreds. The stories, numbering well over 1,000, are heartbreaking and touching. To respect their efforts, I am submitting every e-mail sent to me through an address set up specifically for this purpose to the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD. This is not an issue that will be easily resolved, but it is one that deserves immediate and serious attention, and Idahoans deserve to be heard. Their stories not only detail their struggles to meet everyday expenses, but also have suggestions and recommendations as to what Congress can do now to tackle this problem and find solutions that last beyond today. I ask unanimous consent to have today's letters printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

Thank you for your vote to stop the cap and trade thing, but it will come back with [a new president. We would be better off to be] drilling the deep reserves of the Williston Basin (more oil than Saudi Arabia in Dakota farmers fields) or the ANWR 5,000 acres or 5 million acres, or off shore where the Chinese will soon have rigs. We would be gearing up like the moon landing to get oil out of our coal whose estimated reserves are five times all the oil ever pulled out of the Middle East. . . . or the even more vast oil shales of Colorado or the tar sands. We would be building nuclear reactors and starting up those on moth balls right now . . . or better building refineries or making the hydrogen car that GM already has. Or how about this: All Of The Above.

But we are stuck [because of money influence] and nothing will change.

DENNIS.

Will It Ever End?

I have several examples of how the energy cost is driving my life.

1. High propane cost has increased my heating cost to an increase of over $600 more this year. Propane has had a large increase and now is over $3 per gallon. Five years ago it was under .60 cents per gallon. Propane is a by product of gas exploration. I feel this is a very large price for a by-product.

2. The government rating for mileage rate is at 50.5 per mile. Why have they not raised this? Gas prices soar, but the rate stays the same.

3. Thanks for the stimulus check. I just wish I could have used it to buy something extra.

4. Diesel prices are out of control. Why is diesel almost a dollar more a gallon than gas?

5. Just about the time you feel you are getting somewhere, someone takes more of your income. It is no wonder people are losing houses and entering into get rich adventures. (Lottery, gambling)

B.

This is the third email that I have sent over the past few months on this subject, and my message this time will be short and succinct—reducing speed limits is among the quickest solutions to help us in addressing the current issues with fuel pricing. Highway fuel consumption can be cut considerably (perhaps by as much as 20%—depending on the engine) by lowering speed limits. This is only a part of the solution. We also need to step up efforts on many fronts including utilizing more domestic resources, pushing the development of renewable energy sources and providing incentives to reduce energy consumption (i.e.—building smaller, more energy efficient homes that utilize solar/wind/geothermal energy). It is a complex challenge requiring strong leadership.

This brand of leadership will require some to act without regard for political ramifications (courage)—We are looking to you to provide your share of that leadership.

RICH.

You and your fellow congressman are a little late to help with this energy problem as we are at peak oil and prices will continue to rise. I am totally amazed at Congress's lack of action on coming forth with a sensible energy program.

JAMES.

Thank you for this opportunity to discuss my concerns. Higher gas prices have forced my family to reduce times spent together. We have to drive, because of very little public transportation. I would support your efforts for the oil companies to build more refineries. Every time one goes down for "maintenance," we get burned. Let them use their profits to build them. I think we need to force auto companies to build more efficient cars. We need more good choices for higher mpg autos, not just one per auto company. As a side note, we need to start a federal public works program. Get people employed and get our bridges/roads, schools, libraries, etc. rebuilt. This would stimulate our economy more than Bush's tax break plan. We need authority to install toll booths on our interstate highways to help keep them maintained. I think we are ready for nuclear energy at INL. The time is right. We need leaders in Congress, not Republicans or Democrats. Can you be one? Thanks again for this opportunity.

JOHN, Boise.

I had to take a medical disability from my job of 24 years as my health was getting so bad. My husband is 69 years old and I am 64. We find when we go to the grocery store we have to decide whether we should buy groceries or put gas in our tank so we can get home if we can buy groceries. We cannot afford to sell our house and move into town. We have no public transportation for five miles, I am trying to help my daughter with her children as she had to go back to work and I can get them to the Mall on public transportation but we would have to walk the five or six miles to get the rest of the way to my house. Our utilities are getting out of sight also and just the necessities in food are more than our Social Security and other bills allow. And then they want to give our Social Security to illegal aliens who have never worked and paid into it. My Grandmother had worked for years and when she applied they told her she was a quarter short to collect S.S., but we can give it to people who have never worked or paid into it? What are we supposed to do when we have our hands tied and no one wants to help back there and you are our only hope because you pass the laws and we have to live with them. Please help us as there are so many things they can use as alternative fuel and they seem to drag their feet about it. We have all kinds of weeds we will donate for the purpose of alternative fuel.

NANCY.

The cost of energy is devastating to seniors on a fixed income such as me.

JERRY, Idaho Falls.

I want to thank you for the opportunity to address my views on the situation we are in, not only in Idaho, the United States but the entire world. The affects of high energy prices will continue until Wall Street speculators are stopped. The auto manufacturers here in the United States and abroad have been given every opportunity to produce high efficient automobiles for decades. They have failed. Congress has [not acted to create] mass transit high speed transportation from coast to coast. The technology has been here for many decades with nothing being done in Washington D.C.

What are we to do with the waste from nuclear energy plants? I believe that technologies for coal, wind and solar should be explored. We should be exploring technologies of our ocean's salt water as a useful solution to our energy situation. We need qualified people to manage our water and other natural resources here in Idaho and throughout the world.

If Congress would only work together for the betterment of mankind. These are but a few of our hopes and dreams for the future of our existence.

Thank you, Senator Crapo, for your efforts in Congress and for this consideration.

GREG, Pocatello.

Sorry Mr. Crapo, but I do not agree with you about your vote against the climate change legislation.

In 2000, I recall paying between $.99 and $1.09 for gas for many months in Boise, occasionally a little more, but in that range. Now, eight years later, we are paying 400% more. The administration has refused during this time to get involved in the Kyoto agreements and only just in the last year or so acknowledged that climate change was even real, but attacked and prevented the science that warned us of it throughout his term. Gasoline prices going up 400% in Boise in the past eight years is painful, but it is caused by many factors, mostly, I believe, due to rich people getting insanely richer at the expense of the rest of the world. Meanwhile, we still do very little to protect against the disastrous consequences of global warming.

So, if we are going to be subjected to 400% increases and do nothing but make the rich richer, how can you be unwilling to vote for a bill that might make us pay 12.5% more, but will take huge strides toward protecting the future of our planet and safeguarding against additional enormous energy costs in the future. Penny wise and pound foolish. What we should do is get to the bottom of exactly why prices have gone up 400% in eight years.

I feel angry that our society is willing to mortgage our future almost completely for slight increases in personal luxury and benefit in the present (consider the gas tax reprieve that [was] proposed this summer as one tiny example). Where are our values for providing for the future of our children and our planet? I believe we need to prioritize much greater efforts on green and renewable resource R&D. I believe that if we put our innovation behind solutions that the entire world needs, we can more than offset the up-front costs. This is the strength of capitalism and I believe we ought to focus on our strengths. I do not want us to emphasize further oil exploration and drilling and opening up of our protected public lands (such as ANWR).

SCOT, Boise.

P.S. Please have the courage and honesty to include critical comments like mine as well when you compile comments from the public. Thank you.

Our farm has been severely impacted by high energy prices and the price of corn, which is a by-product of the energy crisis. We have gone from 100 employees down to 34. We are currently liquidating our calves because we can no longer make money raising them. We will soon be down to 12 employees. We could hang on a little longer if Congress would do something about drilling in ANWR and Bakken. We need refineries! We need oil! Oil is 1000% more efficient than these "alternative" fuels and drilling and refining our own oil is proven to work, while these other fuels are not. There is too much energy used to make ethanol to make it efficient. I believe that the mere announcement of drilling and building refineries will drastically help our economy. Just think of the excitement of jobs. The excitement of better times to come. Anyone can hang on if they have hope. There are no downsides to drilling in our own country. Drilling is not environmentally hazardous and even if it was, people come first.

Please, please get this message out. Call news conferences with your fellow conservative Senators. Shout it from the housetops. And for the sake of our economy and country's freedom, [support conservative efforts to govern].

ELIZABETH, Kuna.

You ask how the fuel prices are affecting us personally; it is very simple—in every way.

As fuel prices rise, food costs increase, the cost of every basic need jumps up, the distances to functions become critical, we all have to make choices about what is most important. Unfortunately, for many of us, our lives become a struggle to get the dollar to buy the foods to keep going, pay our property taxes for homes we cannot afford to sell, get the fuel to get us to the place to make that dollar which is worth less every day and employers cannot afford to pay more in wages and the cycle goes on and on.

Everyone says "Oh, let us just raise the minimum wage. That will fix it." Think again. The average small business man is one step away from sinking in this quicksand himself. He cannot afford health or dental insurance or retirement for him or his family, but he cannot have much of a business without employees, either. So he gives a raise to his employees and has to cut somewhere else, quality or quantity of goods sold and then the purchaser suffers. It all affects every one of us.

Transportation, fuel costs, value of the dollar, energy costs, making ends meet becomes increasingly difficult and our situations look increasingly dismal. Our society, like it or not, is tied to the umbilical cord of fuel oil pricing and something needs to be done to remove the grip on that cord that is choking out the life-giving fluids our nation needs to function. We need to control our own supplies of energy, provide for ourselves everything this nation needs to not just survive, but to thrive. We have oil supplies of our own under our own soil and off our own coasts; use them. That is what they are there for. As you use them, develop new sources, require more renewable energy implementation, but use what you've got. Stop letting the nation get the life strangled out of it. Make renewable energy more affordable, for one thing. It was going to cost me over $40,000 to put in a wind generator to power my home. That would never ever pay for itself before it self destructed. It is ridiculous to have solar power and wind power devices so overpriced to make them unattainable. They would help the economy. Subsidize alternative energy and educate people on ways to stretch their dollar before it is too late.

Things are bad everywhere, but if we do not do something very soon, it is going to get much worse. Overcrowded, underfed, unhappy people, unable to care for their loved ones, will turn angry, bitter, and dangerous after years of being taught "me first philosophy." We have created a monster and that monster drinks crude oil. You better keep feeding it.

JANELLE, Hayden.

Thanks for your interest in doing something about high gas prices. Here in Rexburg, I have found that at age 56, I can still ride a bike to work. I may even start doing groceries and other errands with my bike. I am getting in good shape, although I already was in good shape. My family and I find that we consolidate errands. Instead of going to town for one thing, we make sure it is for three or more things. If it is not, we just wait until we have more to do downtown or elsewhere. I have aging parents who need help, and gas prices have not made getting to their house very easy, but what we can do, we have to go. So we go without a lot of things. We pass by the treats and other not so important purchases (we were doing that before anyway). I think where this really hits us the hardest is in going to see our grandkids far away, or taking a simple trip like to Mt. Rushmore or even Yellowstone Park. The gas prices have eaten those options up pretty fast. It is too bad that we sit around as a nation and let the oil rich countries dictate to us how we can live our lives. We should have started doing something about these fifty years ago, but apparently, nobody had that much far sight into the potential problem. We'll survive and we do not feel bad for ourselves, but it is not easy.

FERRON.

TRIBUTE TO DEAN STONE

• Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. President, today marks the 84th birthday of Dean Stone, who has lived in my hometown of Maryville, TN, his entire life. This year also marks the 125th anniversary of The Daily Times, Maryville's hometown newspaper where Dean has worked for the last half century.

I extend my warmest wishes to both of these Maryville institutions, and ask that a letter I wrote to Dean be printed in the RECORD.

The material follows.

SEPTEMBER 10, 2008.

Mr. DEAN STONE,
The Daily Times,
Maryville, Tennessee.

DEAR DEAN, It is an especially good idea to celebrate your birthday and that of The Daily Times all at once, because for me, and I am sure for most Blount Countians, it is hard to separate the two.

That was true when I was a Maryville High School student years ago and you hired me to contribute to the Times' school news page.

But it is even more true today because for the last half century I have so much enjoyed your photographs, your stories, and your opinions about Blount County. No one has ever done a better or more complete job of covering our families and communities.

Years from now, when anyone looks back to try to understand Blount County—its history, its people, and its mountains—the first place to go will be to a Dean Stone photograph of Cades Cove, or "Bits of stone" about some family, or a carefully reasoned editorial about why we should think now about what our county's landscape will look like later.

Happy birthday, Dean—and Maryville-Alcoa's The Daily Times—from a grateful former paperboy and school news correspondent.

Sincerely,

LAMAR ALEXANDER,
U.S. Senator.●

HEROES OF THE OREGON TRAIL FIRE

• Mr. CRAPO. Mr. President, on August 25, 2008, Idahoans residing on the Boise bench in the area of the Oregon Trail and Columbia Village subdivisions experienced immense devastation caused by a brush fire that became a residential nightmare. With the combination of 50 m.p.h. winds, dry sage brush, high heat, sloped terrain and homes with cedar shake shingles and wooden decks, a small grassfire exploded, claiming the life of one woman, destroying 10 homes and causing extensive damage to nine others. Mary Ellen Ryder, a professor at Boise State University, beloved wife of Peter Ryder and a friend to the community, was the single fatality. My thoughts and prayers and those of many Idahoans are with the Ryder family.

Although the fire caused great devastation, many lives and homes were saved because of the efforts of several courageous Idahoans. I would like to formally recognize one homeowner, two Boise police officers, one firefighter and one local humanitarian. Without their selfless service and personal sacrifices of physical safety, expense and time away from families and careers, the outcome and aftermath of the fire would have been much harder to endure. Thanks to homeowner Kent

Hallamore, a survivor of the fire, my office gained key insight into the contributions of these five citizens.

The first Idahoan I would like to acknowledge is Rod Poe. When the fire reached Rod's subdivision, he quickly alerted neighbors and evacuated the surrounding homes. Even before emergency assistance arrived, Rod was hosing down houses within the fire's path and putting out new blazes as they emerged. He stayed on the scene for the entire night and for many subsequent evenings inspecting the area for hot spots and patrolling for looters. His leadership in the community extended beyond physical service. He comforted the suffering, acquired household goods for those who had none, and contacted Boise's mayor to discuss future fire prevention solutions for the bench area.

Like Poe, officers Jason Rose and Chris Davis of the Boise Police Department were among the first to begin working at the location of the fire. These two men ran door-to-door urging residents to leave their homes. As homes ignited, the inferno-like conditions worsened and took their toll on the men. Their clothing caught fire; their vision blurred; and both suffered from smoke inhalation. Yet they faced these risks with valor, persisted in their duties and saved the lives of many residents.

Firefighter Charlie Ruffing is the sole coordinator of the Firefighters Burn-out Fund, a collection fund for the immediate needs of fire victims. In the aftermath of the Oregon Trail Fire, Ruffing responded on his personal cell phone around the clock. He worked diligently to collect cash and household goods and distribute them. To date, he has collected over $110,000 in cash and gift-card donations. He displayed tremendous compassion and individual care for each family he assisted. He exceeded his responsibilities and earned the trust and respect of those he sought to assist.

Finally, Pattie Wagstaff organized an assistance network and coordinated a community donation event which amassed even more personal and household goods than the fire victims needed. Since the coordinator of her church's disaster relief program was among the victims of the fire, Wagstaff heroically filled the void. Taking 2 weeks off from her job to help in the relief efforts, Wagstaff quickly came to play an integral part in helping the affected families begin to return to normal life. Her presence inspired many during times of great shock and emotional upheaval.

Many hands played valuable roles in quelling the flames and caring for the people who survived the Oregon Trail Fire. To these five individuals and members of the Boise Police and Fire Departments as well as the others who so selflessly served their community, I join with family, friends and neighbors to offer my sincere gratitude.●

TRIBUTE TO ROBERT FISCH AND EUGENE LANSING

● Mr. HARKIN. Mr. President, I would like to share with my colleagues a remarkable story of generosity and public spiritedness.

Twenty years ago, in October 1988, I opened an official office in Dubuque in order to better serve people in that part of Iowa. Almost immediately, two wonderful citizens—Robert Fisch and Eugene Lansing—came forward to be of service to me and to the staffers in my new Dubuque office.

Both of them were retired Army veterans. Bob, who was 67 at the time, was a veteran of World War II. Gene, who was 57, was a veteran of the Korean war.

We eagerly accepted their offers of assistance. But little did we know that this initial act of kindness and generosity would extend for another two decades.

Over the years, Bob and Gene have been faithful friends and valued helping hands to my Dubuque staff. They have pitched in answering phones, taking messages, and helping out with many of the mundane but necessary tasks that keep an office running efficiently.

Bob usually comes into the office twice a week. Gene comes in once a week, driving 50 miles round trip from his home in Dyersville.

They have given their time and energy. But they have given much more: their wisdom and experience, their enthusiasm, and their amazing generosity of spirit. Bob Fisch and Gene Lansing are outstanding examples of the old saying that "you don't have to be on the public payroll to be an outstanding public servant."

Bob Fisch, after leaving the Army, worked for 42 years at Dubuque Packing Company and 14 years at the 4th Street Elevator. He is involved in many civic and volunteer organizations, and he founded an organization of community activists called the 11th Street Neighborhood Group. He and his beloved wife Marion, who died in 1999, were married for half a century. They have five adult children—four daughters and one son.

Gene Lansing and his wife, Marvel, have been married for 36 years. They have two sons and one daughter. After the Korean war, Gene worked on a tanker on the Great Lakes for 10 years, then went on to work at Wickes Lumber and, later, in the Dubuque City Parks Department. He is active in his church, Trinity Lutheran. He is also active in American Legion Post 136, the Disabled American Veterans, and the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Mr. President, as you can imagine, Bob Fisch and Gene Lansing have become dear friends to my Dubuque staff over the years. I have gotten to know them, as well, and I have tremendous respect and admiration for both of them. That is why I wanted to take this opportunity, here in the Senate, to salute these two exceptional Iowans. I want to publicly thank them for two decades of selfless service to my staff and me, and to the people of Iowa.●

FORT DODGE COMMUNITY EDUCATION

● Mr. HARKIN. Mr. President, in Iowa and across the United States, a new school year has begun. As you know, Iowa public schools have an excellent reputation nationwide, and Iowa students' test scores are among the highest in the Nation.

I would like to take just a few minutes, today, to salute the dedicated teachers, administrators, and school board members in the Fort Dodge Community School District, and to report on their participation in a unique Federal partnership to repair and modernize school facilities.

This fall marks the 10th year of the Iowa Demonstration Construction Grant Program. That is its formal name, but it is better known among educators in Iowa as the program of Harkin grants for Iowa public schools. Since 1998, I have been fortunate to secure a total of $121 million for the State government in Iowa, which selects worthy school districts to receive these grants for a range of renovation and repair efforts everything from updating fire safety systems to building new schools or renovating existing facilities. In many cases, this Federal funding is used to leverage public and/or private local funding, so it often has a tremendous multiplier effect in a local school district.

The Fort Dodge Community School District received a 1999 Harkin grant totaling $750,000 which it used to help build Butler Elementary School. This school is a modern, state-of-the-art facility that befits the educational ambitions and excellence of this school district. Indeed, it is the kind of school facility that every child in America deserves. The district also received a 2005 fire safety grant totaling $100,000 to upgrade install fire alarms systems at Riverside, Cooper and Feelhaver Schools.

Excellent schools do not just pop up like mushrooms after a rain. They are the product of vision, leadership, persistence, and a tremendous amount of collaboration among local officials and concerned citizens. I salute the entire staff, administration, and governance in the Fort Dodge Community School District. In particular, I would like to recognize the leadership of the board of education—president Stuart Cochrane, Jerry Schnurr, Janice Merz, Brian Forsythe, Craig Jarrard, Bill Kent and Kevin Rogers and former board members Steve Schwendeman, Ernest Kersten, Clark Fletcher, Jeri Green, Dennis Milechick and Steve Lindeberg. I would also like to recognize superintendent Linda Brock, former superintendent Dr. David Haggard, former Butler principal Jerry Spittal, business manager Jack Christensen, director of operations

Chris Darling and former director of operations Sherwood Johnson.

As we mark the 10th anniversary of the Harkin school grant program in Iowa, I am obliged to point out that many thousands of school buildings and facilities across the United States are in dire need of renovation or replacement. In my State of Iowa alone, according to a recent study, some 79 percent of public schools need to be upgraded or repaired. The harsh reality is that the average age of school buildings in the United States is nearly 50 years.

Too often, our children visit ultra-modern shopping malls and gleaming sports arenas on weekends, but during the week go to school in rundown or antiquated facilities. This sends exactly the wrong message to our young people about our priorities. We have to do better.

That is why I am deeply grateful to the professionals and parents in the Fort Dodge Community School District. There is no question that a quality public education for every child is a top priority in that community. I salute them, and wish them a very successful new school year.●

HINTON COMMUNITY EDUCATION

● Mr. HARKIN. Mr. President, in Iowa and across the United States, a new school year has begun. As you know, Iowa public schools have an excellent reputation nationwide, and Iowa students' test scores are among the highest in the Nation.

I would like to take just a few minutes, today, to salute the dedicated teachers, administrators, and school board members in the Hinton Community School District, and to report on their participation in a unique Federal partnership to repair and modernize school facilities.

This fall marks the 10th year of the Iowa Demonstration Construction Grant Program. That is its formal name, but it is better known among educators in Iowa as the program of Harkin grants for Iowa public schools. Since 1998, I have been fortunate to secure a total of $121 million for the State government in Iowa, which selects worthy school districts to receive these grants for a range of renovation and repair efforts—everything from updating fire safety systems to building new schools or renovating existing facilities. In many cases, this Federal funding is used to leverage public and/or private local funding, so it often has a tremendous multiplier effect in a local school district.

The Hinton Community School District received a 2003 Harkin grant totaling $234,475 which it used to help build an addition to the elementary school for preschool and child care programs. The Federal grant has made it possible for the district to provide quality and safe schools for their students.

Excellent schools do not just pop up like mushrooms after a rain. They are the product of vision, leadership, persistence, and a tremendous amount of collaboration among local officials and concerned citizens. I salute the entire staff, administration, and governance in the Hinton Community School District. In particular, I would like to recognize the leadership of the board of education—Steve Eddy, Ed Vondrak, Rob Held, Lynette Blanchard and Randy Riediger and former board members Michelle Rodgers and Kenneth Hoefling. I would also like to recognize superintendent Allen Steen and curriculum director and principal Jane Krehbiel.

NORTHWOOD-KENSETT COMMUNITY EDUCATION

● Mr. HARKIN. Mr. President, in Iowa and across the United States, a new school year has begun. As you know, Iowa public schools have an excellent reputation nationwide, and Iowa students' test scores are among the highest in the Nation.

I would like to take just a few minutes, today, to salute the dedicated teachers, administrators, and school board members in the Northwood-Kensett Community School District, and to report on their participation in a unique Federal partnership to repair and modernize school facilities.

The Northwood-Kensett Community School District received a 2002 Harkin grant totaling $112,500 which it used to help replace the roof at the elementary school. The district also received two fire safety grants totaling $66,280 to install a fire alarm system and to make other repairs at the elementary school and to install heat detectors and to make other safety improvements at the high school. The Federal grants have made it possible for the district to provide quality and safe schools for their students.

The Southeast Warren Community School District received a 2002 Harkin grant totaling $39,360 which it used to help renovate a classroom and replace windows and siding for the gymnasium in Lacona. The district also received a fire safety grant totaling $50,000 for electrical upgrades, door closures and emergency and exit lighting at the junior/senior high school in Liberty Center. The Federal grants have made it possible for the district to provide quality and safe schools for their students.

REMEMBERING SPECIALIST SHAVONTE DONTRELL FIELDS

● Mr. BAYH. Mr. President, I rise today with a heavy heart to honor the life of SPC Shavonte Dontrell Fields from Fort Wayne, IN. Shavonte was 22 years old when he lost his life on September 7, 2008, from injuries sustained when his vehicle, also carrying his 2-year-old son Ladaryion Shavonte Fields, overturned in Indianapolis shortly after he returned from active duty in Iraq.

Today, I join Shavonte and Ladaryion's family and friends in mourning their deaths. Shavonte, who was known to many as Dontrell, will forever be remembered as a loving father, son, brother, and friend to many. Shavonte is survived by his parents Anita M. Davis Fields and Robert Lee Fields, Jr.; his stepfather Detrick Eley; his siblings Robert Lee Fields, III, Detrick Tubbs and Demetria Eley; his grandparents, John and Margurite Davis, Frank and Betty Cochran, Robert and Mary Fields and Deborah Andrew; and his great-grandparents Tom and Lena Lofton. He was preceded in death by his grandmother, Carlotta Joann Cochran.

Shavonte served a 14-month deployment in Iraq as a petroleum specialist with the Army National Guard. Those who knew him best recall a devout man who loved making people smile. Shavonte's family said he had an "energetic personality and an infectious sense of humor that spread to all those in his vicinity." He was a member of the Progressive Baptist Church of Fort Wayne. At the time of the accident, Shavonte was moving back into civilian life, set to start a new job as a customer service representative with AT&T the next day.

While we struggle to express our sorrow over this loss, we can take pride in the example Shavonte set as both a soldier and a father. Today and always, he will be remembered by family, friends and fellow Hoosiers as a true American hero, and we cherish the legacy of his service and his life.

It is my sad duty to enter the name of Shavonte Dontrell Fields in the RECORD of the U.S. Senate for his service to this country and for his profound commitment to freedom, democracy and peace. I pray that Shavonte's family can find comfort in the words of the prophet Isaiah who said, "He will swallow up death in victory; and the Lord God will wipe away tears from off all faces."

May God grant strength and peace to those who mourn, and may God be with all of you, as I know He is with Shavonte.●

TRIBUTE TO MIKE CRITELLI

● Mr. LIEBERMAN. Mr. President, today I pay tribute to someone I have known for many years, both because of his guidance of a major company in Connecticut as well as his leadership in the mailing industry—Mike Critelli, executive chairman of Pitney Bowes Inc.—which is headquartered in Stamford, CT. Mike will be retiring late this year, after dedicating 30 years to both Pitney and the mailing industry.

Mike and I have come to know each other not only because Pitney Bowes is headquartered in my home State of Connecticut but also because he has been the chairman of the Mailing Industry CEO Council, an organization of chief executive officers of companies in the mailing industry.

The Mailing Industry CEO Council, under Mike's able leadership, has been at the forefront of educating policymakers about the mailing industry for years. Although those of us who follow mailing industry issues know by heart now the key statistics—a $900 billion industry representing over 8 percent of the gross domestic product and employing 9 million workers—there was a time when the impact of the industry was less well known. Mike Critelli and the Mailing Industry CEO Council helped to change that. The CEO Council came to town several times a year to meet with me and others in Congress to provide support for the postal reform legislative effort. They helped to spread the word to many of my colleagues who are not on the Senate Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs Committee, which has jurisdiction over postal issues, about the importance of the mailing industry and the impact of the industry on jobs in each of their States. As we moved forward with postal reform legislation in the 109th Congress, having others in Congress actively supporting the mailing industry proved very helpful.

As we worked together on the Postal Accountability and Enhancement Act, my staff and I were always impressed by the attention and care Mike gave to every detail. As a lawyer, Mike took the time to read the various versions of postal reform legislation page by page. He got into the details and commented on specific provisions—and the final outcome was better as a result. He was critically important in brokering some agreements with interested parties that helped get us over the final hurdles towards enactment. In the final days of the 109th Congress, the Postal Accountability and Enhancement Act passed the House and Senate and was signed into law. Mike Critelli played an essential role in helping to educate others about the importance of the mailing industry and the need for the legislation that enabled it to get done.

He began his career at Pitney Bowes as a staff attorney and rose through various leadership positions over the years. He served as general counsel, chief personnel officer, and then became president of Pitney Bowes Financial Services. He was then CEO and chairman and now serves as executive chairman of the board. He has brought the company through many changes—acquisitions and transformations. He has also served as an effective ambassador for the mailing industry. After the deadly anthrax attacks of fall 2001, Mike wasted no time in working with the U.S. Postal Service to advocate on its behalf so that our mailstream would quickly regain the confidence of the American people.

Under Mike's leadership, Pitney Bowes has been a leader as well on health care issues. The company invests heavily in the health of its employees and has found that the focus on prevention, wellness, early diagnosis and treatment, and chronic disease management has improved health and minimized costs for employees as well as the company. This has helped to make Pitney Bowes a model for other companies.

Mike has also demonstrated a strong commitment to diversity. Under his tenure, Pitney Bowes has been consistently recognized as one of the best corporations in America for diversity. Although this record began before Mike took the helm as CEO, he continued to grow the diversity efforts within the company. Outside of the office, Mike served for several years in a Connecticut chapter of the Urban League and as chairman of the National Urban League Board.

As I wish Mike Critelli well as he begins a well deserved retirement, I can't help but be disappointed that Connecticut's business community is losing a great leader. For our sake, I hope he continues in some capacity assisting us with public policy issues of concern to our State.●

TRIBUTE TO ANTHONY J. HARDING

● Mr. MENENDEZ. Mr. President, I wish today to honor Anthony J. Harding for his leadership, integrity, and many accomplishments at United Water, one of the Nation's largest private water companies. During the past 5 years, Tony has been the chief executive officer of United Water, and he was responsible for the success of the company's water and wastewater operations of both regulated and nonregulated businesses. Last month, Tony was named chairman of the board at United Water, a subsidiary of Paris-based Suez Environment.

Tony has over 35 years of experience in engineering and operations including management of major water businesses in Europe and Asia. Prior to joining United Water, he was president of Suez Environment in the Asia Pacific Region, with overall responsibility for water operations in the Philippines, Malaysia, Vietnam, Australia, and New Zealand. He also enjoyed a long and distinguished career managing water operations for two of England's most prestigious water companies: Essex and Suffolk Water Plc. and Northumbrian Water Plc.

In 2003, Tony was named chief executive officer at United Water and he immediately made an impressive impact in the United States water services industry, making the company the respected and sought-after institution it is today. As CEO, Tony has made great strides in improving the water services to people in cities and towns across the country. As a result of his remarkable skills, United Water now provides water services to customers in the 48 continental States as opposed to 21 States when Tony took over as CEO.

In 2005 Tony worked with then-Governor Kempthorne of Idaho to install high-tech membrane water filtration technology at a brandnew water treatment plant in Boise. In 2006 he worked with Pennsylvania Congressman TIM HOLDEN to bring similar technology to the people in the Harrisburg community. In 2007, Tony launched an aggressive $110 million project in northern New Jersey, utilizing the latest water filtration technology to improve water quality for nearly 1 million residents in the State.

Additionally, Tony has provided his wealth of experience to the National Association of Water Companies and the American Water Works Association. He is also on the board of directors for the United Way in northern New Jersey. Dedicated to both his community and his family, Tony and his wife, Christine, have two daughters, Rhyann and Bethann.

Tony received his bachelor of science degree in civil engineering from the University of Glamorgan in Wales. He was also a contributing author to the textbook "Instrumentation and Computer Integration in Water Utility Operations," a joint project between the American and Japanese Water Associations.

There is no doubt that Anthony J. Harding exhibits all the qualities of an exemplary leader who has greatly impacted this Nation's water and wastewater industry. Therefore, I am pleased to pay tribute to Anthony J. Harding and know my colleagues will join in wishing him continued success.●

STATEMENTS ON INTRODUCED BILLS AND JOINT RESOLUTIONS

By Mr. MENENDEZ (for himself and Mr. NELSON of Florida):

S. 3543. A bill to improve the administration of the Minerals Management Service, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources.

Mr. MENENDEZ. Mr. President, I have come to the floor today to introduce legislation intended to bring much needed reform to the Minerals Management Service. After recent reports of the widespread corruption at the agency, I came together with my colleague Senator NELSON from Florida to work on legislative solutions that will address the complete and total lack of ethics at this agency. I would also like to take this time to thank Senator NELSON for his outstanding work on this bill. I know there are few people out there that show as much dedication and clear vision on this issue as he does.

The cries of Drill! Drill! Drill! have reached a fevered pitch and proponents of drilling say that a profitable relationship between the Government and the oil industry will benefit everyone involved.

However, as we have recently learned from reports released by the Department of Interior Inspector General's Office, the influence of Big Oil corrupts absolutely. Honestly, we have been learning that lesson over and over again since we sent an oil man to the White House. The influence of Big Oil has led us to make policy decisions that are diametrically opposed to the best interests of this country. With barrels of Big Oil lobbying money, this administration has led us all head first into policies that benefit Big Oil and almost no one else. We are more addicted to oil than ever before and we continue with this addiction to the detriment of our economy, our energy infrastructure, our environment, and even our national security.

Once Big Oil is involved, it is as if all reason flies out the window. Nowhere has this become clearer than at the Minerals Management Service. The most recent reports from the Inspector General's office describe corruption at MMS on a level difficult to believe. The descriptions of drug use and sexual activity between oil company representatives and MMS employees are not suitable for network television, much less the floor of the United States Senate. This is the agency tasked with leasing Federal lands to oil companies and ensuring the adequate compensation of such leasing and yet their employees behaved like oil company lackeys with complete disregard for the interests of the American taxpayer.

I am sure no one is surprised by the increased influence of the oil industry since we elected a former oil man to the White House, but this is truly beyond the pale. The Inspector General's report concludes that MMS is plagued by "a culture of ethical failure." This is an agency where conflict of interest is not only the norm, but where officials do not think the rules even apply to them. This is an agency with a complete free-for-all atmosphere where employees go on golf and ski outings, concerts, and sporting events all paid for by oil executives. This is an agency whose culture is "devoid of both ethical standards and internal controls" where officials are LITERALLY and figuratively in bed with industry.

This is the agency that we want to trust with our shorelines. This is the agency we want to trust to lease thousands of miles of our beaches to the oil industry and then collect compensation for use of that public land—OUR LAND—with oil and gas. The Government Accountability Office has already released reports that concluded that MMS has no idea if they are collecting the right amount of oil through the Royalty-in-Kind program. Not only that, but the agency has refused to institute the reforms recommended by GAO in order to collect the correct amount of compensation from the oil industry. Of course, considering the Inspector General's report, their lack of reform is not surprising as they were too busy living the high life on the oil industry's dime.

This agency is clearly in desperate need of regulation. If the officials at MMS believe that the rules do not apply to them, then clearly we need tougher rules. That is why I rise today with my colleague Senator NELSON from Florida to introduce legislation that will dramatically toughen the ethics rules for employees at the Minerals Management Service.

First, this legislation holds MMS employees to the same standards as federal procurement officials and addresses the revolving door between the agency and industry. There would be a one year ban on agency employees taking any private sector job for companies the employee worked with while a federal employee. This means ANY job, not just "representational activities" such as lobbying. Any real first crack at reform has to be stopping this revolving door.

Second, this legislation requires that MMS employees divest all industry investments before working at MMS. Currently, the law only requires that employees recuse themselves from working on a matter specifically having to do with a particular company in which they have a financial stake. Needless to say, trusting MMS employees who believe the rules do not apply to them and that the agency is here to serve the needs of industry seems unrealistic at best and downright dangerous at worst.

Third, we would increase the number of MMS employees required to file public financial disclosure forms and forms revealing past employment. Those who earn incomes at the base level of a G-13 employee or higher will now have to reveal this information.

Currently, only employees compensated at 120 percent of GS15 level or more must disclose. However, as this report makes clear, the extreme influence of industry on the agency means that employees beyond merely the top officials need to be held to a higher standard of objectivity.

Of course, as I mentioned, the issues at MMS do not end with the ethical standards, or lack thereof, among agency employees. The Royalty-In-Kind Program is broken and the Federal Government is not being compensated for the leasing of land to the oil industry. This program is part of the second largest source of revenue for the Federal Government, yet it currently operates on what basically amounts to an honor system. We are supposed to trust the oil companies to pay the right amount and for the employees to see that the Government receives compensation.

Therefore, our legislation would suspend the Royalty-In-Kind program until the following conditions are met. First, the MMS must conduct a comprehensive review to determine if it has been accurately collecting royalties and report its finding to Congress. We all know the oil industry is flush with cash, so there is absolutely no excuse for them to use OUR LAND to make a profit and not pay for it.

Second, the MMS must conduct a thorough review to ensure that metering equipment properly measure what royalties are owed to the Federal Government and report those findings to Congress. In addition, they will be required to perform no less than 550 audits of oil and gas leases each fiscal year to assure adequate royalties are being collected. There needs to be a real process in place to ensure adequate compensation.

Third, they must also have a robust training program for their employees ending with a signed certification that MMS employees understand ethics laws and regulations. It needs to be abundantly clear to all agency employees and officials that no matter who is in the White House the rules most definitely apply to them.

Last, the MMS must create a position for an ombudsman that will monitor the agency's progress in carrying out all these reforms. This ombudsman must be hired by and report exclusively to the Department of Interior Inspector General's office because there must be an objective outside source to protect us from this type of corruption happening again. The Inspector General will also be tasked with determining whether the Royalty-In-Kind program is even saving the taxpayers money at all.

Clearly, some type of reform at MMS is desperately needed. I believe the bill Senator NELSON and I are introducing will go a long way towards addressing these concerns. No matter what, I do not see how we can in good conscience open up thousands of miles of our precious coastlines to the oil industry without being able to trust the agency tasked with protecting our interests.

Mr. NELSON of Florida. Mr. President, today Senator ROBERT MENENDEZ and I filed legislation that would address the morass of ethical problems that have besieged the Minerals Management Service, MMS.

I have warned publicly that we could not trust the oil companies that want to drill in the waters off our most protected coastlines nor could we trust the Federal watchdogs charged with keeping a watchful eye over them. We have seen proof in report after report detailing mismanagement, a lack of control, and inappropriate, even possibly criminal, behavior.

I have voiced serious doubts about the integrity and cost effectiveness of this Royalty-In-Kind program, where oil companies pay the Federal Government with mineral, oil, or gas they produce on public lands, rather than cash. This program was authorized in the 2005 Energy bill, which I opposed for many reasons.

The bill that we introduced today seeks to restore integrity in managing our offshore energy resources.

Specifically, our bill requires employees of the Minerals Management Service to adhere to the same ethical guidelines that other Federal employees abide by. This means no gifts from industry, the filing of financial disclosure forms for some higher level employees, and the divestment of all industry investments before working at MMS.

The bill suspends the scandal-plagued Royalty-in-Kind program until these conditions are met. Additionally, MMS must review the accuracy of its royalty collection program with an independent watchdog to monitor its progress. Finally, MMS is required to conduct extensive audits of the Royalty-In-Kind program to ensure the government is receiving fair compensation for use of public lands.

Offshore drilling will not solve our energy crisis nor will it bring down prices at the pump. Instead, it will only serve to further enrich the oil companies and reward the culture of corruption that has been fostered, funded, and now exposed at the Department of the Interior. I hope the Senate will consider our legislation expeditiously.

By Mr. BROWNBACK:

S. 3546. A bill to establish the National Center for Strategic Communication to advise the President regarding public diplomacy and international broadcasting to promote democracy and human rights, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

Mr. BROWNBACK. Mr. President, one might conclude from the last 7 years without a successful al Qaeda attack in America either that we have crippled our enemies or that the terrorist threat is overstated. Unfortunately, neither is true: violence is rising in Afghanistan, Pakistan and elsewhere, and the ideas behind this violence continue to proliferate from Europe to Asia and across the World Wide Web. But while we spend a great deal of time discussing tactics and troop deployments, we rarely analyze the broader ideological struggle.

Military force may sometimes be necessary in the war on terrorism, but force alone cannot defeat the threat posed by violent Islamist extremism. Recognizing this fact, Secretary of Defense Robert Gates worries about the state of the “war of ideas” and rightly points out that it is “plain embarrassing” that al Qaeda communicates more effectively than we do.

The answer to this problem is not more money. We have spent billions since 9/11 on a wide array of public diplomacy initiatives, international broadcasts and information and exchange programs. Some succeeded, others failed, but none were developed in accordance with a national strategy overseen by an official who is accountable for making strategic communications work.

The U.S. Information Agency focused on strategic communications during the Cold War. After the defeat of communism, USIA’s mission seemed fulfilled, and I supported its dismantlement. Today’s ideological threats, however, demand the same focus on strategic communications that the USIA provided a generation ago. Today, I am introducing legislation that would establish a new National Center for Strategic Communications to correct a number of deficiencies and meet 21st century challenges.

There are several reasons why I believe major reforms are necessary. First, fundamentally, we are not on offense. Seven years after September 11, we have only begun to acknowledge the existence of a war of ideas. We need to move from merely informing the world about America to countering those who support terrorism and violence. We also need to enable moderate voices around the world to help us in opposing violent extremism.

Second, we need to separate official diplomacy—by which I mean the act of communicating with foreign governments—from public diplomacy—which means talking to foreign publics. When we dismantled USIA, we thought the result would be better coordination between official and public diplomacy. We now know that this arrangement has relegated public diplomacy to second-tier status. We need to ensure that such a crucial part of the war on terrorism receives the attention and priority level that it deserves.

Third, our strategic communications programs lack transparency and accountability. Despite spending hundreds of millions per year on international broadcasting, it is unclear how these broadcasts fit into a national strategic communications plan or how the Broadcasting Board of Governors makes decisions on allocating the resources Congress appropriates. The same could be said of the State Department’s Educational and Cultural Affairs programs. Moreover, it is nearly impossible to determine how much the Department of Defense is spending on strategic communications activities and how many of those functions might be performed—or at least better supported—by other parts of the government.

Beyond government programs, it is clear that the U.S. Government does not effectively leverage the resources of the private sector and nonprofit groups. We should be able to promote our values and oppose violence and extremism alongside organizations that already work along the same lines. And there is no question that there are times when these outside voices will be more persuasive than the messages linked to Washington, DC.

These problems call for something beyond a bigger budget or the generic cry for better coordination among departments and agencies. We need to realign authorities so that the President has a single individual responsible for ensuring that the Nation’s strategic communications goals are being met. We need that individual to be responsible for an agency that has a clear mission to fight and win the war of ideas and the budgetary authority and flexibility to match.

My proposal abolishes the existing Undersecretary for Public Diplomacy at the State Department and the Broadcasting Board of Governors, transferring their functions to the new National Center for Strategic Communications where they would be managed by single director. The Director would report to the President as the Nation’s top strategic communications official and oversee the creation of a new national strategic communications strategy. Just as important, the Director will oversee an interagency panel of representatives from other Federal agencies and departments, including the Department of Defense, whose missions inherently involve strategic communications with foreign publics.

More than providing information about America, the goal of strategic communications should be nothing less than the ability to persuade individuals all over the world to choose freedom, human rights and the rule of law over any challenging ideologies or philosophies. My legislation would correct a number of deficiencies in our current structure in support of this objective.

First, the new Center would separate public diplomacy—speaking to foreign publics—from official diplomacy—speaking to foreign governments. We should not let public diplomacy be held hostage to the official priority of the moment, nor should public diplomacy budgets compete with official diplomatic priorities.

Second, the Center would manage U.S. international broadcasts directly. Too often in the last few years, taxpayer-funded broadcasts have been kept at arms length from government oversight and undermined rather than affirmed U.S. policies and values. My legislation makes our broadcasts more transparent and focused on the national mission by giving the Center close oversight of our broadcasts and abolishing outdated Smith-Mundt Act provisions that keep the American public from knowing what the government is saying abroad.

Third, the Center enlists the support of private, non-profit and non-governmental organizations. There is no reason to believe the U.S. Government must always deliver key messages, and outside groups may have the best ability to counter ideological support for extremism. My proposal enables the new Center to make grants to such groups and places representatives of the Center in key countries around the globe to implement our national strategy on a local level.

Our vision of a free, prosperous and peaceful world is under attack from extremists who propose endless violence and fear. Military force may keep these extremists at bay for a time, but ultimate victory depends on winning the war of ideas. Though some would throw more money at our strategic communications problems or settle for smaller, marginal reforms, I believe major reforms are necessary for us to succeed. I look forward to developing this proposal with the next administration and the new Congress. No matter who ends up in power, we will have a share in reforms that can help win the war on terror without just relying on more bullets.

SUBMITTED RESOLUTIONS

SENATE RESOLUTION 678—SUPPORTING THE GOALS AND IDEALS OF NATIONAL OVARIAN CANCER AWARENESS MONTH

Ms. STABENOW (for herself, Mrs. DOLE, Ms. CANTWELL, Mr. BAYH, Mrs. CLINTON, Mrs. BOXER, Mrs. FEINSTEIN, Ms. COLLINS, Mr. VITTER, and Mr. WHITEHOUSE) submitted the following resolution; which was considered and agreed to:

S. RES. 678

Whereas ovarian cancer is the deadliest of all gynecological cancers, and the reported incidence of ovarian cancer is increasing over time;

Whereas ovarian cancer is the 5th leading cause of cancer deaths among women in the United States;

Whereas all women are at risk for ovarian cancer, and 90 percent of women diagnosed with ovarian cancer do not have a family history that puts them at higher risk;

Whereas the Pap smear is sensitive and specific to the early detection of cervical cancer, but not to ovarian cancer;

Whereas there is currently no reliable and easy-to-administer screening test used for the early detection of ovarian cancer;

Whereas many people are unaware that the symptoms of ovarian cancer often include bloating, pelvic or abdominal pain, difficulty eating or feeling full quickly, and urinary symptoms, among several other symptoms that are easily confused with other diseases;

Whereas due to the lack of a reliable early screening test, 75 percent of cases of ovarian cancer are detected at an advanced stage, when the 5-year survival rate is only 50 percent, a much lower rate than for many other cancers;

Whereas if ovarian cancer is diagnosed and treated at an early stage before the cancer spreads outside of the ovary, the treatment is potentially less costly, and the survival rate is as high as 90 percent;

Whereas there are factors that are known to reduce the risk for ovarian cancer and play an important role in the prevention of the disease;

Whereas awareness and early recognition of ovarian cancer symptoms are currently the best way to save women's lives;

Whereas the Ovarian Cancer National Alliance, during the month of September, holds a number of events to increase public awareness of ovarian cancer; and

Whereas September 2008 has been designated by the President as National Ovarian Cancer Awareness Month: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Senate supports the goals and ideals of National Ovarian Cancer Awareness Month.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION 101—HONORING THE UNIVERSITY OF NEBRASKA AT OMAHA FOR ITS 100 YEARS OF COMMITMENT TO HIGHER EDUCATION

Mr. HAGEL (for himself and Mr. NELSON of Nebraska) submitted the following concurrent resolution; which was considered and agreed to:

S. CON. RES. 101

Whereas local leaders in the Omaha area formed a corporation known as the University of Omaha on October 8, 1908, for the promotion of sound learning and education;

Whereas, on September 14, 1909, the first 26 University of Omaha students gathered in Redick Hall, located west of 24th and Pratt Streets in the city of Omaha;

Whereas, during the first 10 years of existence, the key division of the University of Omaha was Liberal Arts College, designed to produce a well-rounded and informed student;

Whereas, in 1910, the University of Nebraska announced it would accept all University of Omaha coursework as equivalent to its own, a milestone in terms of recognition for the new institution and acknowledgement of its substantial and respected curriculum;

Whereas, in December 1916, the University of Omaha students had a farewell party for Redick Hall and moved into their new building, a 3-story, 30-classroom building named Joslyn Hall;

Whereas, in 1929, the University of Omaha board of trustees and the people of Omaha voted to create the new Municipal University of Omaha to replace the old University of Omaha on May 30, 1930;

Whereas, in 1936, the Municipal University of Omaha acquired 20 acres of land north of Elmwood Park and south of West Dodge Street, which would become the site of the present-day campus;

Whereas the University dedicated its beautiful Georgian-style administration building in November 1938, capable of accommodating a student body of 1,000;

Whereas the increased enrollment of World War II veterans in 1945 due to the Montgomery GI Bill led to the completion of several new buildings, including a field house, library, student center, and engineering building;

Whereas, in 1950, the College of Education was separated from the College of Arts and Sciences, and within 3 years 1/3 of all teachers in Omaha public schools held degrees from the Municipal University;

Whereas the College of Business Administration was founded in 1952, and the business community responded by creating internship programs for accounting, insurance, real estate, and retailing at major firms and for students interested in the field of television at station KMTV;

Whereas 12,000 members of the military, including 15 who rose to the rank of general, were able to receive a Bachelor of General Education degree through the College of Adult Education "Bootstrap" program;

Whereas the University received a Reserve Officers' Training Corps (ROTC) unit in July 1951;

Whereas Municipal University became a leader in radio-television journalism by founding its own radio station in 1951, and in 1952 became the first institution in the Midwest to offer courses by television;

Whereas Municipal University became part of the University of Nebraska system in July 1968, and was renamed the University of Nebraska at Omaha, its present-day name;

Whereas, in 1977, the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools gave the University of Nebraska at Omaha the highest rating possible;

Whereas, in an effort to gain a more suitable location for conferences and an off-campus class site, the University opened the Peter Kiewit Conference Center in 1980;

Whereas the University has established innovative programs that enrich the community through service learning, support of the arts, outreach programs for business, education, and government, and creation of dual-enrollment programs for Nebraska high school students;

Whereas the University has 90,000 graduates, with nearly half of those still residing, raising families, and building careers in the Omaha metropolitan area; and

Whereas the year 2008 is the 100th anniversary of the founding of the University of Nebraska at Omaha, and the activities to commemorate its founding will begin on October 8, 2008: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring), That Congress congratulates the University of Nebraska at Omaha on its 100 years of outstanding service to the city of Omaha, the State of Nebraska, the United States, and the world in fulfilling its mission of providing sound learning and education.

SA 5638. Mr. MENENDEZ (for Mr. LIEBERMAN) proposed an amendment to the bill S. 3328, to amend the Homeland Security Act of 2002 to provide for a one-year extension of other transaction authority; as follows:

On page 3, line 5, strike “Affairs of” and insert: “Affairs and the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation of”.

SA 5639. Mr. MENENDEZ (for Mrs. MURRAY (for herself and Mr. BURR)) proposed an amendment to the bill S. 2932, to amend the Public Health Service Act to reauthorize the poison center national toll-free number, national media campaign, and grant program to provide assistance for poison prevention, sustain the funding of poison centers, and enhance the public health of people of the United States; as follows:

Strike all after the enacting clause and insert the following:

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the “Poison Center Support, Enhancement, and Awareness Act of 2008”.

SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

Congress makes the following findings:

(1) Poison control centers are the primary defense of the United States against injury and deaths from poisoning. Twenty-four hours a day, the general public as well as health care practitioners contact their local poison control centers for help in diagnosing and treating victims of poisoning. In 2007, more than 4,000,000 calls were managed by poison control centers providing ready and direct access for all people of the United States, including many underserved populations in the United States, with vital emergency public health information and response.

(2) Poisoning is the second most common form of unintentional death in the United States. In any given year, there will be between 3,000,000 and 5,000,000 poison exposures. Sixty percent of these exposures will involve children under the age of 6 who are exposed to toxins in their home. Poisoning accounts for 285,000 hospitalizations, 1,200,000 days of acute hospital care, and more than 26,000 fatalities in 2005.

(3) In 2008, the Harvard Injury Control Research Center reported that poisonings from accidents and unknown circumstances more than tripled in rate since 1990. In 2005, the last year for which data are available, 26,858 people died from accidental or unknown poisonings. This represents an increase of 20,000 since 1990 and an increase of 2,400 between 2004 and 2005. Fatalities from poisoning are increasing in the United States in near epidemic proportions. The funding of programs to reverse this trend is needed now more than ever.

(4) In 2004, The Institute of Medicine of the National Academy of Sciences recommended that “Congress should amend the current Poison Control Center Enhancement and Awareness Act Amendments of 2003 to provide sufficient funding to support the proposed Poison Prevention and Control System with its national network of poison centers. Support for the core activities at the current level of service is estimated to require more than $100 million annually.”.

(5) Sustaining the funding structure and increasing accessibility to poison control centers will promote the utilization of poison control centers and reduce the inappropriate use of emergency medical services and other more costly health care services. The 2004 Institute of Medicine Report to Congress determined that for every $1 invested in the Nation's poison control centers $7 of health care costs are saved. In 2005, direct Federal health care program savings totaled in excess of $525,000,000 as the result of poison control center public health services.

(6) More than 30 percent of the cost savings and financial benefits of the Nation's network of poison control centers are realized annually by Federal health care programs (estimated to be more than $1,000,000,000), yet Federal funding support (as demonstrated by the annual authorization of $30,100,000 in Public Law 108-194) comprises less than 11 percent of the annual network expenditures of poison centers.

(7) Real-time data collected from the Nation's certified poison control centers can be an important source of information for the detection, monitoring, and response for contamination of the air, water, pharmaceutical, or food supply.

(8) In the event of a terrorist event, poison control centers will be relied upon as a critical source for accurate medical information and public health emergency response concerning the treatment of patients who have had an exposure to a chemical, radiological, or biological agent.

This title may be cited as the “Effective Child Pornography Prosecution Act of 2007”.

SEC. 102. FINDINGS.

Congress finds the following:

(1) Child pornography is estimated to be a multibillion dollar industry of global proportions, facilitated by the growth of the Internet.

A bill (H.R. 6984) to amend title 49, United States Code, to extend authorizations for the airport improvement program, to amend the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 to extend the funding and expenditure authority of the Airport and Airway Trust Fund, and for other purposes.

There being no objection, the Senate proceeded to consider the bill.

Mr. KERRY. Mr. President, I want to say a few words about the FAA’s Disadvantaged Business Enterprise, DBE, Program and the Airport Concessions Disadvantaged Business Enterprise, ACDBE, Program. As we are all aware, case law over the past decade has made clear that Federal race-conscious programs are subject to strict constitutional scrutiny to ensure that programs serve a compelling governmental interest and are narrowly tailored to address that interest. Gender-conscious programs must meet heightened scrutiny to ensure that there is an exceedingly persuasive justification for the program. Still, under any reading of constitutional law, race- and gender-conscious programs are clearly permitted to remedy current discrimination and the present-day effects of past discrimination where there is a strong basis in evidence that such discrimination exists. As the Commerce Committee is aware, discrimination in business practices continues to be a serious problem. There are countless disparity studies and examinations of this topic and for that reason we have made only minor changes to the DBE and ACDBE program over time. Taken as a whole, the quantitative and qualitative evidence clearly suggests that discrimination remains a serious problem in our Nation.

I serve both as a member of the Commerce Committee and as chairman of the Senate Small Business Committee. In these roles, I have the opportunity to review enormous amounts of information about discrimination against women and minority entrepreneurs throughout our economy and across our Nation. While we have made very real progress over the time that I have been in the Senate, there is no doubt that a lot of work remains to be done. Programs such as the DBE and ACDBE programs are making an important difference by offering real opportunities to companies that otherwise might not ever get a chance to compete. These programs are critically important in airport-related industries as well as in other areas of Federal contracting.

The statistics are telling. On May 22, 2007, I held a hearing in the Small Business Committee addressing the effectiveness of SBA’s programs for minority businesses. One economist who testified, Dr. Jon Wainwright, presented a number of troubling statistics to the committee. For instance, he explained that according to the most recent economic census data available, while African Americans constitute 12.7 percent of the population, they own only 5.3 percent of businesses and those businesses account for only 1 percent of business sales and receipts. Latinos are 13.4 percent of the population, but only 7 percent of businesses and 2.5 percent of business sales and receipts. Dr. Wainwright also noted that Asian and Pacific Islanders own 5 percent of businesses but earned only 3.8 percent of business sales and receipts and Native Americans constituted .9 percent of the business population but earned only .3 percent of business sales and receipts. For women the numbers are also shocking: women constitute 50.9 percent of the population but own only 28.9 percent of businesses and receive only 10.7 percent of business sales and receipts.

Dr. Wainwright went on to explain that these disparities in business ownership and earnings exist in all 50 States and the District of Columbia and that similar outcomes had been evident in all previous versions of this same survey over the past 35 years. He also stated that he had conducted further analyses to determine whether the types of disparities he had observed were caused by discrimination or some other factor. He explained that he had conducted regression analyses to account for geography, industry, labor market status, age, and education among other factors. Even when this regression analysis was conducted, the disparities remained large, negative, and statistically significant for African Americans, Hispanics, Asian/Pacific Islander Americans, Native Americans, and women suggesting that race and gender discrimination are the cause.

Also troubling were Dr. Wainwright's comments on small business finance issues. We know that credit is the lifeblood of entrepreneurship, but it turns out that minority business owners are far more likely to be denied credit than nonminority owners. Dr. Wainwright explained that these findings held up even when regression analyses were conducted to adjust for a number of balance sheet, credit history, and other characteristics. And Dr. Wainwright found that women were also likely to face some discrimination in credit markets. Dr. Wainwright was only one witness at the May 22 hearing and there were several others whose testimony was equally compelling. The fact is that discrimination remains a very serious problem in Federal contracting markets across this country.

More recently, on September 11, 2008, our committee held another hearing on discrimination against minority- and women-owned businesses which focused on discrimination in access to capital. During the hearing we heard testimony from several witnesses about the serious barriers that minority- and women-owned businesses confront when attempting to obtain capital to start up, grow, and flourish. In the context of the FAA extension bill before us today, I want to specifically highlight the testimony of Don O'Bannon who is the current chair of the Airport Minority Advisory Council or AMAC. Mr. O'Bannon explained that, in his experience, access to capital is an enormous hurdle for minority- and women-owned businesses in airport-related industries. He gave us specific real-life examples of firms that had attempted to obtain both venture capital and more conventional debt capital and encountered extraordinary barriers due to discrimination that compromised their ability to grow and succeed.

Of course, there are many other sources of information about discrimination in contracting. Literally hundreds of disparity studies have been conducted around the country that contain compelling statistical data about discrimination in the public and private marketplaces related to airport-related contracting. Just a few of the studies that have been conducted recently and include airport-related data were put into the record by Mr. O'Bannon during our recent hearing. These include: "Race, Sex and Business Enterprise: Evidence from Denver, CO," NERA Economic Consulting, May 5, 2006; "Dallas/Fort Worth International Airport Board Disparity Study Final Report," MGT of America, October 17, 2000; "The City of Phoenix, Minority-, Women-Owned and Small Business Enterprise Program Update Study: Final Report," MGT of America, April 21, 2005; "Race, Sex and Business Enterprise: Evidence from the State of Maryland," NERA Economic Consulting, March 8, 2006; "Final Report: Broward County Small Disadvantaged Business Enterprise (SDBE) Disparity Study," MGT of America, Inc., April 3, 2001; and "Final Report for Development and Revision of Small, Minority and Women Business Enterprise Program, Nashville International Airport, (BNA)," Griffin and Strong, PC, September 19, 2007. There are hundreds of additional studies, including many relevant studies that cover entities other than airports but that analyze the same industries and enterprise populations that do airport-related work.

But the statistics can only tell part of the story. Overlooked aspects of disparity studies are the sections that address anecdotal evidence. These are the accounts that individual business people give about the challenges they confront in doing business. When you read these studies, it quickly becomes clear that discrimination remains a problem at literally every stage of the business process. It is harder for women and minority entrepreneurs to start companies. They often are denied credit even when they have the same creditworthiness of male, nonminority entrepreneurs. And because of past discrimination, minority entrepreneurs often do not have access to family wealth. As one African-American contractor reported in a study about discrimination in the state of Massachusetts:

Now I go to the bank—again I've been in business for 28 years, I've been very successful at times—I go to the bank and say "Okay. I need a $250,000 line of credit." I walk out of there with $50,000. A [White] gentleman that used to work with me was a former partner of mine, left, went to the same bank, and walked away with $1.2 million. Okay? Now he walked away because his house is not mortgaged. So he has equity that they can touch to go back if he doesn't make payments. They are looking at me and saying, "He's already leveraged himself. He doesn't have anything that I can touch." So they don't want to give me any money. And not that the fact of my business—my business is very solid. It's just they won't give it to me because I started with nothing and I've taken everything I've had and put it into the businesses. They still think I'm worth nothing. That's . . . discrimination . . . which is where minorities and women who start from scratch and build their businesses up, that's where we get hurt. That's where it comes back to backfire, because we don't have that same leverage that somebody who either inherited a business or had family that gave them land or some sort of inheritance that they got some money.

That is from "Race, Sex and Business Enterprise: Evidence from the Commonwealth of Massachusetts," Volume 1, NERA Economic Consulting, at 218–219.

Even once minorities and women manage to start up a business they face serious discrimination in every stage of the contracting process. Sometimes that discrimination comes in the form of explicit gender or racial harassment. In a study dealing with the State of Texas, one Hispanic-American woman business owner related the following story:

Some [of my male colleagues] do not want to work with a woman. They feel they are wasting their time. [On one occasion] a guy took me to check on a project, and when he got out of his truck, he wanted me to touch him. I said, "Come on, let's get back to work." I had to be very strong with him. There are not many women builders in the residential construction industry either.

That is from "Update of the State of Texas Disparity Study," Mason Tillman Associates, Ltd., January 2007, at 9–8.

Another Hispanic-American woman contractor in Texas explained that sometimes the discrimination is not so direct, but it is still unmistakable. She stated:

As a young woman, there have been several occasions where I was told that if I really wanted an award, there were other ways I could get it. This was not said directly to me, it was implied [by] a White male [manager] at a [State] university.

That is from "Update of the State of Texas Disparity Study," Mason Tillman Associates, Ltd., January 2007, at 9–8.

Sometimes the harassment rises to the level of threats of violence against a business owner or their property. In the NERA Commonwealth of Massachusetts study, one African-American businessman even gave an account of a threat to blow up his truck.

That is from "Race, Sex and Business Enterprise: Evidence from the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, Volume 1," NERA Economic Consulting, at 219.

Even when discrimination does not involve explicit harassment or threats, it still poses barriers to minority and women business owners. Unfortunately, the "old boy network" continues to be a problem in many industries. An analysis of the experiences of business owners in a study of contracting by the airport in Nashville, TN, demonstrates that discrimination not only hurts minority- and women-owned businesses, but it can also drive up the price of doing business:

[One business owner] said his firm has tried to get in on airport work and, in one instance, partnered with a much more experienced firm to get into one particular area of construction only to find that "a couple of firms had a lock on it". According to [this firm], it is hard to get jobs because people tend to use the same companies. [The business owner] said he believes that subcontractors tell "their" bidders where to come in with their numbers and they tell them where they can make up the difference on the project and how to pursue change orders. By the end of a project, his competitors have been paid more than his original estimate, which was rejected for being too high.

That is from "Final Report for Development and Revision of Small, Minority and Women Business Enterprise Program, Nashville International Airport," BNA, Griffin and Strong, PC, September 19, 2007, at 163.

Another business owner in Nashville was explicit about the informal networks that impose barriers on minority businesses and the need for programs like the DBE and ACDBE program to address these impediments. The study stated:

According to [one business owner], the airport made a mistake in disbanding SMWBE requirements because there are still a lot of "good old boys" playing golf and the like. Having a diversity manager helps "level the playing field" and provides "checks and balances".

That is from "Final Report for Development and Revision of Small, Minority and Women Business Enterprise Program, Nashville International Airport," BNA, Griffin and Strong, PC, September 19, 2007, at 164.

Another point that these studies make clear is that discrimination against business owners is something that is experienced by all minority groups and women. It is not limited to only some groups. One study summarized its analysis of anecdotal evidence as follows:

Nineteen percent of the respondents indicated that they had experienced discrimination because of race, ethnicity, or gender on one or more occasions (three percent very often, 10 percent sometimes, and six percent seldom). Forty percent reported they had not experienced discrimination. The fact that 19 percent of respondents reported experiencing discrimination on at least an occasional basis suggests that discrimination is not confined to isolated incidents. The 19 percent that experienced discrimination account for 63 surveyed respondents categorized as follows: 22 African Americans, 17 Hispanic Americans, 16 non-minority females, two Asian Americans, two non-minority males, and one Native American. Three people reported discriminatory incidents but did not indicate their demographic background.

That is from "Final Report: Broward County Small Disadvantaged Business Enterprise (SDBE) Disparity Study," MGT of America, Inc., April 3, 2001, at 6-30.

These examples I have given are but a few from the voluminous body of research about race and gender discrimination in business. The evidence is troubling and should cause all of us to redouble our efforts to ensure that we do everything we can to eliminate the barriers confronted by women and minority business owners. The DBE and ACDBE program are indispensable tools in this effort.

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the "Poison Center Support, Enhancement, and Awareness Act of 2008".

SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

Congress makes the following findings:

(1) Poison control centers are the primary defense of the United States against injury and deaths from poisoning. Twenty-four hours a day, the general public as well as health care practitioners contact their local poison control centers for help in diagnosing and treating victims of poisoning. In 2007, more than 4,000,000 calls were managed by poison control centers providing ready and direct access for all people of the United States, including many underserved populations in the United States, with vital emergency public health information and response.

(2) Poisoning is the second most common form of unintentional death in the United States. In any given year, there will be between 3,000,000 and 5,000,000 poison exposures. Sixty percent of these exposures will involve children under the age of 6 who are exposed to toxins in their home. Poisoning accounts for 285,000 hospitalizations, 1,200,000 days of acute hospital care, and more than 26,000 fatalities in 2005.

(3) In 2008, the Harvard Injury Control Research Center reported that poisonings from accidents and unknown circumstances more than tripled in rate since 1990. In 2005, the last year for which data are available, 26,858 people died from accidental or unknown poisonings. This represents an increase of 20,000 since 1990 and an increase of 2,400 between 2004 and 2005. Fatalities from poisoning are increasing in the United States in near epidemic proportions. The funding of programs to reverse this trend is needed now more than ever.

(4) In 2004, The Institute of Medicine of the National Academy of Sciences recommended that "Congress should amend the current Poison Control Center Enhancement and Awareness Act Amendments of 2003 to provide sufficient funding to support the proposed Poison Prevention and Control System with its national network of poison centers. Support for the core activities at the current level of service is estimated to require more than $100 million annually."

(5) Sustaining the funding structure and increasing accessibility to poison control centers will promote the utilization of poison control centers and reduce the inappropriate use of emergency medical services and other more costly health care services. The 2004 Institute of Medicine Report to Congress determined that for every $1 invested in the Nation's poison control centers $7 of health care costs are saved. In 2005, direct Federal health care program savings totaled in excess of $525,000,000 as the result of poison control center public health services.

(6) More than 30 percent of the cost savings and financial benefits of the Nation's network of poison control centers are realized annually by Federal health care programs (estimated to be more than $1,000,000,000), yet Federal funding support (as demonstrated by the annual authorization of $30,100,000 in Public Law 108-194) comprises less than 11 percent of the annual network expenditures of poison centers.

(7) Real-time data collected from the Nation's certified poison control centers can be an important source of information for the detection, monitoring, and response for contamination of the air, water, pharmaceutical, or food supply.

(8) In the event of a terrorist event, poison control centers will be relied upon as a critical source for accurate medical information and public health emergency response concerning the treatment of patients who have had an exposure to a chemical, radiological, or biological agent.

SEC. 3. REAUTHORIZATION OF POISON CONTROL CENTERS NATIONAL TOLL-FREE NUMBER.

Section 1271 of the Public Health Service Act (42 U.S.C. 300d-71) is amended to read as follows:

“SEC. 1271. MAINTENANCE OF THE NATIONAL TOLL-FREE NUMBER.

RECOGNIZING THE HISTORICAL SIGNIFICANCE OF THE SLOOP-OF-WAR USS CONSTELLATION

Mr. MENENDEZ. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate proceed to the immediate consideration of calendar No. 1030, S. Res. 540.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report the resolution by title.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

A resolution (S. Res. 540) recognizing the historical significance of the sloop-of-war USS Constellation as a reminder of the participation of the United States in the transatlantic slave trade and of the efforts of the United States to end the slave trade.

There being no objection, the Senate proceeded to consider the resolution.

Mr. MENENDEZ. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the resolution be agreed to, the preamble be agreed to, the motions to reconsider be laid upon the table, with no intervening action or debate, and that statements relating to the resolution be printed in the RECORD.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The resolution (S. Res. 540) was agreed to.

The preamble was agreed to.

The resolution, with its preamble, reads as follows:

S. RES. 540

Whereas, on September 17, 1787, the Constitution of the United States was adopted, and article I, section 9 declared that Congress could prohibit the importation of slaves into the United States in the year 1808;

Whereas, in 1794, the United States Congress passed "An Act to prohibit the carrying on the Slave Trade from the United States to any foreign place or country", approved March 22, 1794 (1 Stat. 347), thus beginning the efforts of the United States to halt the slave trade;

Whereas, on May 10, 1800, Congress enacted a law that outlawed all participation by people in the United States in the international trafficking of slaves and authorized the United States Navy to seize vessels flying the flag of the United States engaged in the slave trade;

Whereas, on March 2, 1807, President Thomas Jefferson signed into law "An Act to prohibit the importation of slaves into any port or place within the jurisdiction of the United States, from and after the first of January, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eight" (2 Stat. 426);

Whereas, on January 1, 1808, the prohibition on the importation of slaves into the United States took effect;

Whereas, on March 3, 1819, Congress authorized the Navy to cruise the coast of Africa to suppress the slave trade, declaring that Africans on captured ships be placed under Federal jurisdiction and authorizing the President to appoint an agent in Africa to facilitate the return of captured Africans to the continent;

Whereas, in 1819, the Royal Navy of Great Britain established the West Coast of Africa as a separate naval station and actively plied the waters in pursuit of slave ships, and Great Britain negotiated with many other countries to obtain the right to search vessels suspected of engaging in the slave trade;

Whereas, on May 15, 1820, Congress declared the trading of slaves to be an act of piracy and that those convicted of trading slaves were subject to the death penalty;

Whereas the Webster-Ashburton Treaty between Great Britain and the United States, signed August 9, 1842, provided that both countries would maintain separate naval squadrons on the coast of Africa to enforce their respective laws against the slave trade;

Whereas, in 1843, the newly formed United States African Squadron sailed for Africa and remained in operation until the Civil War erupted in 1861;

Whereas, in 1859, the USS Constellation, the last all-sail vessel designed and built by the United States Navy, sailed to West Africa as the flagship of the United States African Squadron, which consisted of 8 ships, including 4 steam-powered vessels suitable for chasing down and capturing slave ships;

Whereas, on December 21, 1859, the USS Constellation captured the brig Delicia after a 10-hour chase, and although the Delicia had no human cargo on board upon capture, the crew had been preparing the ship to take on slaves;

Whereas, on the night of September 25, 1860, the USS Constellation spotted the barque Cora near the mouth of the Congo River and, after a dramatic moonlit chase, captured the slave ship with 705 Africans crammed into her permanent "slave deck";

Whereas after capturing the Cora, a detachment of the Constellation's crew sailed the surviving Africans to Monrovia, Liberia, a colony founded for the settlement of free African-Americans, which became the destination for all Africans freed on slave ships captured by the United States Navy;

Whereas, on May 21, 1861, the USS Constellation captured the brig Triton, and although the Triton did not have Africans captured for slavery on board when intercepted by the Constellation, a search confirmed that the ship had been prepared to take on slaves;

Whereas the Triton, registered in Charleston, South Carolina, was one of the first Union naval captures of the Civil War;

Whereas, from 1859 to 1861, the USS Constellation and the United States African Squadron captured 14 slave ships and liberated nearly 4,000 Africans destined for a life of servitude in the Americas, a record unsurpassed by the squadron under previous commanders; and

Whereas, on September 25, 2008, the USS Constellation Museum will hold a ceremony to commemorate the bicentennial of the abolition of the transatlantic slave trade aboard the same ship that, 148 years before, forced the capitulation of the slave ship Cora and freed the 705 Africans confined within: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Senate—

(1) recognizes the historical and educational significance of the USS Constellation, a 153-year-old warship berthed in Baltimore, Maryland, as a reminder of both the participation of the United States in the slave trade and the efforts of the United States Government to suppress the inhumane practice;

(2) applauds the preservation of the historic vessel and the efforts of the USS Constellation Museum to engage people from all over the world with this vital part of our history; and

(3) supports the USS Constellation as an appropriate site for the Nation to commemorate the bicentennial of the abolition of the transatlantic slave trade in 2008.

Whereas ovarian cancer is the deadliest of all gynecological cancers, and the reported incidence of ovarian cancer is increasing over time;

Whereas ovarian cancer is the 5th leading cause of cancer deaths among women in the United States;

Whereas all women are at risk for ovarian cancer, and 90 percent of women diagnosed with ovarian cancer do not have a family history that puts them at higher risk;

Resolved, That the Senate supports the goals and ideals of National Ovarian Cancer Awareness Month.

SUPPORTING THE GOALS AND IDEAS OF NATIONAL SPINA BIFIDA AWARENESS MONTH

Mr. MENENDEZ. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the HELP Committee be discharged from further consideration of S. Res. 661, and the Senate proceed to its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The clerk will report the resolution by title.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

A resolution (S. Res. 661) supporting the goals and ideals of National Spina Bifida Awareness Month.

There being no objection, the Senate proceeded to consider the resolution.

Mr. DODD. Mr. President, I rise today to support, with Senator WICKER, a resolution to raise awareness about spina bifida, the most common, permanently disabling birth defect. This often devastating birth defect occurs during the first month of pregnancy when the spine fails to close completely, leaving a permanent opening and resulting in a multitude of serious medical complications.

Thanks to modern medicine and technological advances, most babies born with spina bifida—1,500 to 2,000 a year—survive, and many are now living longer than ever before. It is estimated that in the United States no less than 70,000 people, and possibly as many as 130,000 people, currently live with spina bifida. This is wonderful progress, but there are substantial hurdles that can prevent those with spina bifida from reaching their full potential.

For a person with spina bifida, the body, mind, and spirit are all under assault. Most children with the worst form of spina bifida must undergo a surgery to insert a permanent shunt to drain fluid from the brain for the duration of their lives. People with spina bifida may endure any combination of full or partial paralysis, seizures, bladder and bowel problems, latex allergies, learning disabilities, depression, and other psychosocial issues. The promise of an extended life expectancy for individuals with spina bifida may be dampened by the new challenges they face in education, job training, independent living, health care for secondary conditions and aging concerns. Far more needs to be done to improve the quality of life for those suffering with spina bifida.

I applaud the groups that labor so diligently to offer support to the many Americans with spina bifida and their families. In particular, I extend my gratitude to the Spina Bifida Association, which has been dedicated to this important issue for more than three decades. They are steadfast advocates for those whose lives have been touched by spina bifida, working across our Nation to improve lives through education, research, and service.

The Spina Bifida Association, together with the National Spina Bifida Program at the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention and other groups, is working hard to spread the word to the 65 million women at risk of having a baby born with spina bifida. On any given day in the United States, eight births are affected by spina bifida or a similar birth defect of the brain and spine. It is estimated that 70 percent of birth defects such as spina bifida are preventable by consuming an adequate amount of folic acid prior to pregnancy. This is a simple step that women can take to reduce their risk, but far more outreach and education is required to reach women with this important message.

It is time to renew our efforts to prevent spina bifida and help the many individuals and families living with spina bifida. The resolution we will adopt today calls for a greater commitment to spina bifida prevention and to improving the quality of life of those affected by it, increased funding for evidence-based spina bifida research, and further development of the National Spina Bifida Patient Registry. Taken together, these efforts will help decrease the incidence of spina bifida and improve available treatments and quality of life for those living with it. I wholeheartedly urge my colleagues to join with me in support of this resolution.

Mr. MENENDEZ. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the resolution be agreed to, the preamble be agreed to, the motions to reconsider be laid upon the table, with no intervening action or debate, and that any statements relating to the resolution be printed in the RECORD.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The resolution (S. Res. 661) was agreed to.

The preamble was agreed to.

The resolution, with its preamble, reads as follows:

S. RES. 661

Whereas spina bifida is the most common, permanently disabling birth defect;

Whereas spina bifida occurs during the first month of pregnancy and leaves a permanent opening in the spinal column that subsequently impacts nearly every organ system;

Whereas an estimated 70,000 to 130,000 people in the United States currently live with spina bifida;

Whereas all women of childbearing age are at risk of having a spina bifida affected pregnancy;

Whereas an estimated 70 percent of neural tube defects such as spina bifida can be prevented if a woman consumes adequate amounts of folic acid, which is found in most over-the-counter multivitamins and foods rich in folate such as spinach, prior to becoming pregnant;

Whereas Hispanic women are at the highest risk, between 1.5 and 2 times higher than non-Hispanic whites, of delivering a baby with spina bifida or another neural tube defect, yet are the least likely to consume sufficient amounts of folic acid prior to becoming pregnant;

Whereas people with spina bifida face unprecedented medical complications associated with aging because people with spina bifida are living longer than people with spina bifida in previous generations lived and care for spina bifida is complex and involves myriad clinical specialists;

Whereas a 2005 nationwide survey of spina bifida clinics revealed that the current system of care serving people with spina bifida does not fully meet current or anticipated needs and physicians have little evidence-based research about spina bifida on which to build neurological, orthopedic, or urologic treatment regimens and interventions;

Whereas the National Spina Bifida Program, administered by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, exists to improve the health, well being, and overall quality of life for the individuals and families affected by spina bifida through numerous programmatic components, including the National Spina Bifida Patient Registry and critical quality of life research in spina bifida;

Whereas the National Spina Bifida Patient Registry helps to improve the quality of care, to reduce morbidity and mortality from spina bifida, and to increase the efficiency of, and decrease the cost of, care by supporting the collection of longitudinal treatment data, developing quality measures and treatment standards of care and best practices, identifying centers of excellence in spina bifida, evaluating the clinical and cost effectiveness of the treatment of spina bifida, and exchanging evidence-based information among health care providers across the country; and

Whereas October has been designated as "National Spina Bifida Awareness Month" to increase awareness of spina bifida, of ways to prevent spina bifida, and of the need for increased funding to support improving evidence-based research and enhancing the quality of life of those living with spina bifida: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Senate—

(1) supports the goals and ideals of National Spina Bifida Awareness Month and of national organizations working for people with spina bifida;

(2) recognizes the importance of—

(A) highlighting the occurrence of spina bifida;

(B) recognizing the struggles and successes of people who live with spina bifida; and

(C) advancing efforts to decrease the incidence of spina bifida;

(3) supports the ongoing development of the National Spina Bifida Patient Registry to improve lives through research and to improve the treatment of spina bifida in both children and adults;

(4) recognizes that there is a continued need for a commitment of resources for efforts to reduce and prevent disabling birth defects like spina bifida; and

(5) commends the work of national organizations that educate, support, and provide hope for individuals who are affected by spina bifida and their families.
