PURPOSE

The purpose of S. 1148 is to establish two Federal commissions: the Champlain Quadricentennial Commemoration Commission to commemorate the 400th anniversary of the voyage of Samuel de Champlain; and the other to establish the Hudson-Fulton 400th Commemoration Commission to commemorate the 400th anniversary of the voyage of Henry Hudson and the 200th anniversary of the voyage of Robert Fulton.

BACKGROUND AND NEED

S. 1148 would establish two federal commissions to commemorate the 400th anniversary of the voyages of Henry Hudson and Samuel de Champlain, and the 200th anniversary of the voyage of Robert Fulton.

Henry Hudson (c. 1565–1611) was an English navigator and explorer who searched in the early part of the seventeenth century to try and find a route from Europe to Asia via the Arctic Ocean. His third expedition was under contract to the Dutch East India Company. Sailing from Holland in 1609 on the vessel “Half Moon,” Hudson had to abandon his northeast voyage because of bad weather. Instead, he sailed along the Atlantic coast of North America in search of the Northwest Passage to the Pacific Ocean. He eventually entered the river, now named after him, and sailed up the river for approximately 150 miles, until determining that the river was not the Northwest Passage.

Hudson returned to North America again in 1610, entering into what is now known as Hudson Bay. When winter weather forced his return to England, Hudson and his son were overthrown by a crew mutiny, and cast adrift in Hudson Bay.

Samuel de Champlain (1567–1635) was a French explorer. Following an expedition to the Caribbean, Champlain sailed as an observer in 1603 on a voyage up the “River of Canada,” now known as the St. Lawrence River. The following year, he sailed to the Acadia region around the Bay of Fundy, spending three years there.

In 1608, Champlain led another expedition up the St. Lawrence River and founded the city of Quebec. He survived the first winter there with only eight other settlers. However, they were joined by new colonists the following year. While there he established a fur trade with local Indian tribes, and in 1609, visited the lake now named after him, the first European to do so. Although the fur trade collapsed in 1611, threatening the abandonment of Quebec, Champlain convinced King Louis XIII to maintain the settlement, eventually serving as commandant of New France, as the area was known. Champlain made his final voyage from France to Quebec in 1633.

Robert Fulton (1765–1815) was an American inventor and engineer credited with designing the first commercially successful steam-powered boat. In 1801, after failing to succeed as an artist in Europe, Fulton met Robert Livingston, the Minister to France, who had obtained a 20-year monopoly of steamboat navigation within the State of New York. Fulton and Livingston agreed to work together toward building a steamboat, using Fulton’s design. Although their initial attempts were unsuccessful, in 1807 a 150-foot twin paddlewheel steamboat made the 150-mile averaging almost 5 miles per hour, almost three times faster than the fastest sailing sloops of the day. Eventually Fulton strengthened and modified the original boat design, calling the new ship the “North River Steamboat of Clermont,” later reduced to the “Clermont.”

Hudson and Champlain’s explorations led to the establishment of Fort Orange, a Dutch, and later English, settlement of what is now Albany, New York, as well as the establishment of French trading posts, military forts, and settlements as far south as Lake George. From these early establishments came increased trade, commerce, cultural, and religious impact deep into the Mohawk Valley and as far west as Lake Erie. Fulton’s efforts almost 200 years later revolutionized waterborne commerce.

COST AND BUDGETARY CONSIDERATIONS

The following estimate of costs of this measure has been provided by the Congressional Budget Office:

JULY 30, 2007.

Hon. JEFF BINGAMAN,
Chairman, Committee on Energy and Natural Resources,
U.S. Senate, Washington, DC.

DEAR MR. CHAIRMAN: The Congressional Budget Office has prepared the enclosed cost estimate for S. 1148, the Hudson-Fulton-Champlain Quadricentennial Commemoration Commission Act of 2007.

If you wish further details on this estimate, we will be pleased to provide them. The CBO staff contact is Matthew Pickford.

Sincerely,

PETER R. ORSZAG.

Enclosure.

S. 1148—Hudson-Fulton-Champlain Quadricentennial Commemoration Commission Act of 2007

S. 1148 would establish the Champlain Quadricentennial Commemoration Commission and the Hudson-Fulton 400th Commemoration Commission. The first commission—consisting of 10 members—would plan, develop, and execute programs and activities related to the 400th anniversary of the voyage of Samuel De Champlain. The second commission—consisting of 15 members—would plan, develop, and execute programs and activities related to the 400th anniversary of the voyage of Henry Hudson and the 200th anniversary of the voyage of Robert Fulton.

Each commission would have three years to report on its activities, findings, and recommendations. Members would serve without pay, but would be reimbursed for travel expenses. The legislation would allow the commissions to make grants to communities, non-profit organizations, and other groups to commemorate and research the voyages. In addition, the commissions could hire staff, use personnel from other federal agencies or state governments, and rely on volunteers. Each commission would submit its final report in September 2010 and terminate in December 2010. To fund the costs of the commissions, the bill would authorize the appropriation of $1 million ($500,000 per commission) annually over the 2008–2011 period.

Assuming the appropriation of the authorized amounts, CBO estimates that implementing S. 1148 would cost about $4 million over the 2008–2011 period. Because S. 1148 would authorize the commissions to accept and use gifts, the legislation could affect revenues and direct spending. CBO estimates that any revenues from contributions and subsequent direct spending would be less than $500,000 annually.

S. 1148 contains no intergovernmental or private-sector mandates as defined in the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act and would benefit the states of New York, New Jersey, and Vermont.

On July 26, 2007, CBO transmitted a cost estimate for H.R. 1520, the Hudson-Fulton-Champlain Quadricentennial Commemoration Act of 2007, as ordered reported by the House Committee on Oversight and Government Reform on July 19, 2007. The two bills are similar and the estimated costs are identical.

The CBO staff contact for this estimate is Matthew Pickford. This estimate was approved by Peter H. Fontaine, Deputy Assistant Director for Budget Analysis.

REGULATORY IMPACT EVALUATION

In compliance with paragraph 11(b) of rule XXVI of the Standing Rules of the Senate, the Committee makes the following evaluation of the regulatory impact which would be incurred in carrying out S. 1148. The bill is not a regulatory measure in the sense of imposing Government-established standards or significant economic responsibilities on private individuals and businesses.

No personal information would be collected in administering the program. Therefore, there would be no impact on personal privacy.

Little, if any, additional paperwork would result from the enactment of S. 1148, as ordered reported.

EXECUTIVE COMMUNICATIONS

The testimony provided by the Department of the Interior at the July 12, 2007, Subcommittee hearing on S. 1148 follows:

STATEMENT OF KATHERINE H. STEVENSON, ACTING ASSISTANT DIRECTOR, BUSINESS SERVICES, NATIONAL PARK SERVICE, DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR

Mr. Chairman, thank you for the opportunity to present the views of the Department of the Interior on S. 1148, a bill to provide for the establishment of the Champlain Quadricentennial Commemoration Commission and the Hudson-Fulton 400th Commemoration Commission.

The Department supports this bill. The Department of Justice has advised us that it has constitutional concerns about certain appointment provisions in sections 102(b) and 202(b) of the bill and will transmit amendments at a later date to resolve these concerns.

S. 1148 provides for the establishment of two separate commissions to undertake activities celebrating the contributions of Samuel de Champlain, and those of Henry Hudson and Robert Fulton to the history of our nation. The French explorer, Samuel de Champlain, was the first European to discover and explore what is now called Lake Champlain in 1609. Henry Hudson, as the master of the vessel Half Moon, was the first European to sail up the river that now bears his name, also in 1609. In 1807, Robert Fulton navigated up the same river between New York City and Albany in the steamboat Claremont, revolutionizing the method of waterborne transportation and influencing forever commerce, the world's navies, and transoceanic travel and trade.

Title I would establish the Champlain Quadricentennial Commemoration Commission, composed of 11 members, who would be appointed by the Secretary of the Interior. Four of the members would be from among individuals serving on the Hudson-Fulton-Champlain Commission of the State of New York and residents of the Champlain Valley, and four members would be from among individuals serving on the Champlain Quadricentennial Commission of the State of Vermont and residents of Vermont.

Title II would establish the Hudson-Fulton 400th Commemoration Commission, composed of 16 members, would be appointed by the Secretary, six of whom would be after consideration of nominations from members of the House of Representatives whose districts encompass the Hudson River Valley, two after consideration of nominations submitted by members of the U.S. Senate from the State of New York, and two after consideration of the recommendations of the Mayor of the City of New York and consultation with members of the House of Representatives whose districts encompass the City of New York.

The duties of the respective Commissions are to plan, develop, and execute appropriate commemorative actions, coordinate with federal and state entities, promote scholarly research, and encourage a wide range of organizations to participate in activities and expand understanding and appreciation of the significance of the voyages of these three men. They are granted broad powers to accomplish these tasks. Both are also to coordinate their respective efforts with each other to ensure that the commemorations conducted pursuant to the legislation are consistent with the plans of the commemorative commissions established by the States of New York and Vermont.

The bill provides annual funding authorizations of $500,000 for each commission to be available until expended. Specific allocations of funds to be expended by the commissions are also included. The Champlain Commission's authorized appropriations between fiscal years 2008 and 2011 shall be expended with 45% going to activities in New York; 45% for activities in Vermont; and 10% for other activities in accordance with purposes of the legislation. The Commission will terminate on December 31, 2010. The Hudson-Fulton Commission's authorized appropriations, also between fiscal year 2008 and 2011, shall be expended with 80% for activities in the Hudson River Valley; 10% for activities in the City of New York; and 10% for other activities in accordance with the purposes of the legislation. This Commission will also terminate on December 31, 2010.

Both commissions are authorized to solicit, accept, use, and dispose of gifts, bequests, or devises of real money or other real or personal property for use in aiding or facilitating their work. Both are also authorized to appoint advisory committees as they determine necessary for carrying out the purposes of the legislation.

Back in the 108th Congress, the Department testified on a similar bill to establish the Hudson-Fulton-Champlain Commission. During that hearing, the Department raised three concerns we had with the bill. First, we were concerned about size of the commission that numbered 31 members. Second, we recommended that the bill clearly state that the commission was authorized to accept monetary donations to accomplish its purposes. And third, we recommended that the authorization of appropriations to the commission be capped. S. 1148 integrates all three of our recommended amendments.

The persons and events associated with the explorations of Lake Champlain and the Hudson River, and the inauguration of steam powered water-borne transportation form significant elements in our nation's history. As we commemorate the contributions of Samuel de Champlain, Henry Hudson and Robert Fulton, citizens of the United States and those abroad will come to have a better understanding of their impacts on early exploration, navigation, our national heritage, and the development of the United States.

Mr. Chairman, this concludes my testimony. I would be pleased to answer any questions you or other members of the committee may have.
