

employees. I offered a pension benefit to my employees. Both of these plans were as a result of a 1974 Federal law called ERISA, the Employee Retirement Income Security Act, that allows employers to offer health plans to their employees and pension plans to their employees across State lines.

Over the years, employers now provide health insurance to their employees, to the total of about 132 million Americans that today get their health insurance through their employer.

But in the Democrat health care plan, I noticed this morning in an article from The Wall Street Journal there's a provision in there that, in their bill, after 5 years all employer plans will have to be approved by the Department of Labor and the new Health Choices Commissioner, who will set Federal standards for what is an acceptable health plan.

Now, these employers are providing these plans to their employees. They're trying to provide a benefit their employees want and need. And now the Federal Government is going to decide what your health plan is going to look like.

I would suggest that a lot of employers in America are going to look at this and decide, You know, this really isn't worth it. Under their plan, if you're an employer and you don't provide health insurance, you have to pay an 8 percent payroll tax to the Federal Government. Eight percent.

Now, most employers probably pay more than this for their health care. And so, as a result, I would think a lot of employers are just going to pay the 8 percent tax and allow their employees to be shoved into the government-run plan.

According to the Congressional Budget Office, some 23 million Americans would lose their benefits from their employers and be forced into government health care. According to the Lewin Group, 114 million Americans would be forced into the government plan.

This is not what the American people want. And if you put an 8 percent tax on payroll, guess what? Employers are going to hire less people. And most of my constituents are asking, Where are the jobs? And if you tax employment through this health care plan or you tax employment under this crazy national energy tax, you're going to create less jobs in America.

At a time when we need jobs and we need our economy going again, we don't need to be taxing employers and taxing employment, because we're going to get a lot less of it.

SUPPORT PASSAGE OF STATUTORY PAY-AS-YOU-GO

(Mrs. KIRKPATRICK of Arizona asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mrs. KIRKPATRICK of Arizona. Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of the Statutory Pay-As-You-Go Act. This commonsense measure will help bring fiscal responsibility back to Washington. With the national debt at almost $11.6 trillion, Congress needs to start showing some discipline.

I launched my "Do More With Less" campaign to cut inefficient spending and reduce the debt. I have been proud to support billions of cuts in the fiscal year 2010 appropriations bills. And I have called on the Treasury Secretary to use returned bailout funds to pay back what we owe.

I am also pleased to be an original cosponsor of the PAYGO bill. By requiring that Congress offset spending dollar-for-dollar, this legislation will ensure that Washington makes the tough choices it takes to get our country back on track.

PAYGO helped produce the budget surpluses of the late 1990s, and it will help us restore the balance now.

I urge my colleagues to stand with me and support passage of this bill.

ENOUGH IS ENOUGH

(Mr. CANTOR asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. CANTOR. Mr. Speaker, at a time when millions of Americans are losing their jobs and families are desperately seeking employment, this Congress and this administration have made job creation a secondary concern. As a result, they have squandered a golden opportunity to put people back to work.

Frankly, the American people have just had enough. They have had enough of a stimulus bill that has wasted hundreds of billions of dollars and not staved off job loss. They have had enough of the national energy tax that will impose extraordinary job-killing taxes on the people of this country. And now, Mr. Speaker, they have had enough of talk of a health care bill that not only will fail to deliver the access and quality that we need, but it will cripple small businesses by imposing an 8 percent payroll tax on them.

Mr. Speaker, the question is: Where are the jobs? Congress and this administration have been asleep for too long—and we can do better.

SUPPORT THE HEALTH CARE PLAN

(Mr. BACA asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. BACA. America's health system is not working. We cannot stay with the failing system that we now have. What good is an insurance card if there's no real access to services? What good is the current system if I have a senior under Medicare, like in my district, scared that their doctors won't see them any more?

We also need a health care reform that gets past the politics and past the rhetoric that every single person is covered.

I stand here to advocate for those without a voice, for those who cannot afford to travel to Washington, D.C. I stand here to advocate for a viable public option to compete with the private sector.

I stand here to advocate for American families. And I stand for the American families who are busting at the seams, trying to make ends meet, and hoping one day they won't get sick.

I urge my colleagues to advocate for all American families and pass health care reform that is needed for all American people in this country.

WE CAN AND MUST DO BETTER

(Mr. PENCE asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. PENCE. In the midst of the worst recession in 25 years, after months of runaway Federal spending, bailout, record deficits, and a national energy tax, now comes a government takeover of health care paid for with nearly a trillion dollars in tax increases.

Before we move on to the next big government scheme of this administration, the American people are asking, Mr. President, where are the jobs?

Make no mistake about it, the President's health care bill would do nothing to lower the cost of health care and would be a disaster for the American economy. If ObamaCare passes—according to the experts—if ObamaCare passes, you will probably lose your health insurance and you might just lose your job.

The American people know we can do better. We must do better. For the sake of our economy and reform, I implore my Democratic colleagues, say "no" to a government takeover of health care and higher taxes and say "yes" to a bipartisan majority in this Congress that is committed to fiscal discipline, reform, and putting Americans back to work.

REINSTITUTE PAYGO

(Mr. CHILDERS asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. CHILDERS. It's a privilege to come to this House floor today to express my steadfast support for pay-as-you-go legislation that is scheduled to be introduced this week. As a member of the fiscally conservative Blue Dog Coalition, I believe reinstituting PAYGO is vital to restoring confidence with the American people that Washington and this Congress are indeed serious about reducing the Federal deficit and not continuing the reckless spending policies so often associated with Washington over the past decade.

The people of north Mississippi and the American people all understand that at some point the bills have to be paid. Going from a $5 trillion debt at the end of the Clinton administration
