

help others achieve and live better lives. And this he did.

Mr. Rudd spent a few years working as an engineer for Shell Oil and then selling fire engines in Iowa until 1952 when he moved to Louisville. There he established Rudd Equipment Company, which distributed heavy construction equipment. The company he built brought him a large fortune which would serve him well when he undertook his many altruistic pursuits.

Mason grew to love the city and especially the local university—the University of Louisville. He contributed $1.4 million to the creation of a neurology professorship at the University of Louisville after his first wife Mary suffered a fatal stroke. His help facilitated the $3.6 million Bass-Rudd Tennis Center at the University of Louisville as well as the endowment for the Rudd Program for Young Artists at the Kentucky Opera to train young singers.

However, more important than the money, Mr. Rudd contributed invaluable time and effort to the causes of health care and education.

Thirty years ago, this passion was clear to me when I served as Jefferson County's judge-executive and it was my responsibility to appoint someone to the county's board of health. I reappointed him to the board, just as those serving before me had and those after me did.

While serving on this board as well as in leadership positions at Louisville General Hospitals and Louisville's Jewish Hospital, his efforts provided everyone in the city with a healthier, safer life. His fellow members credit him with creating lead poisoning education programs, a hazardous-materials task force in the health department, a mandate on sewage treatment, and primary care clinics for the uninsured.

His efforts also extended to helping the Louisville Free Library Foundation during his 16 years on the board there. Because of him the library's book endowment is stronger and the children's reading program continues to grow. Most notably, in the year 2000 library fundraising efforts under his leadership made it possible to purchase computers for the library.

Mr. Rudd leaves behind his wife Peggy; his daughter Betsy; and his son Michael. The life he led in his 90 years stands out as an example of service to his community and country which all Americans should honor and strive to achieve. He will be missed.

ADDITIONAL STATEMENTS

125TH ANNIVERSARY OF NORTHWOOD, NORTH DAKOTA

• Mr. CONRAD. Mr. President, I am pleased today to recognize a community in North Dakota that is celebrating its 125th anniversary. On July 23–26, the residents of Northwood will gather to celebrate their community's history and founding.

Founded in 1884, Northwood is located in Northeastern ND, and was named after Northwood, IA, a common starting point for pioneers settling in the Dakota Territory. In its early years, the town grew rapidly, and continued to expand over the next century. It was honored in 1993 by the North Dakota League of Cities as City of the Year.

In 2007, Northwood was devastated by an EF4 tornado. Not a single building was left untouched by this monstrous storm that wreaked havoc on everything in its path. Homes and businesses were destroyed, yet amidst all of the destruction, this community banded together, and with the assistance of the federal government, it has successfully rebuilt.

Today, Northwood is a friendly and welcoming community that includes a nine-hole golf course, a swimming pool, a strong business community, and a high quality education system. Additionally, the town remains true to its agricultural roots through its farming population.

The central point of Northwood's 125th anniversary celebration will be the dedication of the new Northwood Public School and the Veteran's Memorial. Other activities, to name a few, include a community picnic, a tractor pull, a teen dance, karaoke, a 5K walk and run, a craft show, a kiddie parade, and a 3-on-3 basketball tournament.

I ask the Senate to join me in congratulating Northwood, ND, and its residents on their first 125 years and in wishing them well in the future. By honoring Northwood and all other historic small towns of North Dakota, we keep the great pioneering frontier spirit alive for future generations. It is places such as Northwood that have helped shape this country into what it is today, which is why this fine community is deserving of our recognition.

Northwood has a proud past and a bright future.●

COMMENDING ABIGAIL KIMBELL

• Mr. JOHANNIS. Mr. President, today I pay tribute to a leader in American forestry.

In February of 2007, Abigail Kimbell became the 16th Chief of the U.S. Forest Service. She was the first female in this role, a job she held until July 5, 2009. During those 2½ years, she served with distinction and accomplished much for the forests, grasslands, and people of the United States.

Gail is credited with renewing the emphasis behind the Forest Service's mission of "Caring for the Land and Serving People" and reconnecting programs and functions to that mission. She improved firefighter safety and fire suppression cost containment. Gail showed great vision and leadership, pressing the agency to continually strive to meet a standard of excellence in its operations, both internally and in service to the public.

Gail emphasized the importance of quality water to the environment and our communities. She directed the agency's investment in the education of children and youth, particularly those in underrepresented communities, to enhance their connection to the natural world.

Gail's numerous and significant contributions span more than three decades of public service. As a Forest Supervisor, she focused on community collaboration to build understanding and support for an economically and environmentally viable long-term timber sale program in Alaska. She also made bold land management decisions to ensure forests remained healthy by reducing hazardous fuels.

As associate deputy chief for the national forest system, Gail was central to the development of the Healthy Forests Initiative, including the Healthy Forests Restoration Act. She also worked to improve interagency cooperation.

As regional forester in the northern region, she oversaw the development and implementation of community wildfire protection plans in Idaho, Montana, and North Dakota. She also played a leading role in the development of plans to delist the grizzly bear in the Yellowstone Ecosystem. Gail pioneered the implementation of improved forest planning with unprecedented public collaboration and ownership.

On July 31, 2009, Gail Kimbell will be retiring from the Forest Service with 35-plus years of service to that agency and our country. Her dedication to the Forest Service mission "to sustain the health, diversity, and productivity of the Nation's forests and grasslands to meet the needs of present and future generations" will be forever appreciated by the people of the United States.●
