Students in Mr. Spoonamore's engineering and technology lab are exposed to an innovative and hands-on approach to teaching engineering design principles. Building a robot, assembling electrical circuits, and experimenting with CO<sub>2</sub> cars in wind tunnels are just an example of what Mr. Spoonamore's students participate in each school year.

This month, Mr. Spoonamore will be honored at the Kentucky Association for Career and Technical Education Leadership and Learning Conference in Louisville, KY.

Additionally, Mr. Spoonamore is a recipient of this year's Teacher Excellence Award by the International Technology Education Association, which was presented to only 39 individuals across the United States.

Mr. Spoonamore has proven himself to be an exemplary teacher, changing the way teachers teach and how students learn. He is an inspiration to the citizens of Kentucky and to teachers everywhere. I wish him luck on all of his future endeavors.●

REMEMBERING CLAUDE "T" MOORMAN

● Mr. LUGAR. Mr. President, today, Wednesday, July 22, Claude "T" Moorman II is being put to rest at Arlington National Cemetery. "T" was a remarkable scholar, athlete and physician who served his Nation with honor during the Vietnam war.

Born August 21, 1939, in Roanoke, VA, "T" grew up in Miami, FL, where he excelled in football, receiving both All State and All American honors while playing at Miami High School; "T" was a popular student who was elected student body president.

"T" attended Duke University on a football scholarship. He served as a class officer and played football for legendary coach Bill Murray. "T" caught the much celebrated game winning touchdown in the 1961 Cotton Bowl, and he was elected to the All American Team. "T" Moorman is a member of Duke University's Athletic Hall of Fame, and in addition he was named one of Florida's All-Time Top 100 Football Players and Duke's Top 50 Athletes of the Century.

But athletic prowess is not why we honor Claude "T" Moorman II today at Arlington National Cemetery and here in the Senate. It is, of course, for his service to our Nation that "T" warrants our praise and respect.

After the cheers of Saturday college football games died down for "T," he continued his education at Duke University Medical School, completing his degree in 1966 and training under another Duke legend, Dr. Lenox Baker, this time in the field of Orthopedics. In 1970, he volunteered for medical service in Vietnam, caring for our wounded soldiers. Those who called "T" a friend know it was this experience that shaped the character of "T" Moorman, and it is this service that makes "T" the true all-American that he was and that we honor today. "T" Moorman continued to serve with our military for 28 years.

Upon his return from Vietnam, "T" finished anesthesiology training at Emory, followed by a law degree from William and Mary in 1979. He then served with the Army Department of Legal Medicine Armed Forces Institute of Pathology in Washington DC. Before retiring from the U.S. Army Reserves in 1998, Colonel Moorman commanded multiple U.S. Army Reserve units. Additionally, during this time he opened anesthesiology centers in Leesburg, VA, Stuart, FL, and Port St. Lucie, FL.

During the last decade of "T's" life he fulfilled a lifelong dream of farming in Washington County, NC.

By making the choice to serve in the military during a time of war, a decision which demands and deserves our respect, those in the medical service make a choice to help their fellow man in the most difficult of situations—combat. "T" showed through action part of what comprised his character, morality, and strong passion for helping fellow Americans. Having been an All American Football player in college, "T" could have played professional football had he chosen that route. Instead, "T" made the most of his college career to obtain not only his undergraduate degree but additionally two medical degrees and a law degree. I think that this is an exemplary model of what a college athlete might strive to become. America certainly benefitted from "T's" choices.

COL Claude "T" Moorman II will be remembered and missed by so many of the soldiers that he mended and friends and family that he humored. He will be forever celebrated and his legacy will never be forgotten.●
