RECOGNIZING PATIENT SAFETY DAY

HON. BILL DELAHUNT

OF MASSACHUSETTS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, July 23, 2009

Mr. DELAHUNT. Madam Speaker, I rise today to invite my colleagues in the House of Representatives to join me in recognizing Patient Safety Day, which will be observed across our country and around the world this weekend.

Every year, as many as 98,000 Americans die and thousands more are left seriously injured as the result of an avoidable medical error. These incidents are extremely costly to our society—in monetary terms, but more importantly in the devastating pain and suffering that individuals and families experience in the wake of such a tragedy. As the wealthiest nation in the world, we can and must do more to ensure that our health care system promotes healing, prevents harm, and protects patients from dangerous medical errors.

Today, my thoughts and prayers are with John McCormack, a Massachusetts state trooper, loving father, and a constituent of mine. In 2000, John lost his precious 13-month-old daughter, Taylor, after doctors postponed emergency surgery to relieve pressure on her brain. Channeling his grief and anger, John seized the opportunity to advocate for medical malpractice reform at the state level to ensure that no family need experience a similar loss. In 2004, the Massachusetts legislature passed Taylor's Law, a measure safeguarding the ability for patients and their families to be present with an attorney and confront doctors at disciplinary hearings.

John fought admirably to turn his heart-breaking experience into a positive for our Commonwealth's families, but we must also ensure that meaningful steps are taken at the federal level to strengthen the safety of our health care system. Ten years ago, the Institute of Medicine (IOM) issued a seminal report, To Err is Human, which offered a forward-thinking, constructive set of recommendations toward that end. With health care reform front-and-center on Congress's agenda, now is the moment for us to draw on those ideas and to work together—as legislators, health care providers, patients, and consumer advocacy groups—to accomplish the goal of quality health care for every American.

Patient Safety Day, which has been celebrated for the past eight years on July 25, falls at an opportune time. There could be no better occasion for us to remember those whose lives have been lost or harmed due to preventable medical errors and to commend the physicians, nurses, and other medical providers who dedicate their lives to providing safe, quality, compassionate care to those in need. I encourage all Americans—at home, at work, or wherever they may be—to join hands and hearts in a moment of silence this Saturday at noon and 6 p.m. in their respective time zones in honor of Patient Safety Day. And I look forward to working with my colleagues on both sides of the aisle in efforts to improve the quality and safety of our health care system.
