RULES OF THE HOUSE

SPEECH OF

HON. GWEN MOORE
OF WISCONSIN

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, January 5, 2011

Ms. MOORE. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to sound the alarm about the hypocrisy and reckless budget policies the Republicans have rolled out this week.

The Republican leadership has declared that a new day is dawning—a day of so-called "fiscal discipline." But even a child could see that these "cut-go, budget go-go-go" new budget policies the Republicans have called "fiscal discipline." But even a child could see that these "cut-go, budget go-go-go" new budget policies the Republicans have called "fiscal discipline." Ms. Sabik is an inspirational and strong cancer survivor and volunteers her time with the American Cancer Society. She continues to assist with fundraising for cancer research and education. The "Love Lights a Tree" exhibit is displayed annually at Union Beach Borough Hall to honor survivors and victims of cancer during the holiday season. The exhibit is a result of Ms. Sabik's hard work and dedication toward this cause. Ms. Sabik has also admissibly served on the borough's Heritage Committee and participated in various bicentennial celebrations throughout the community. Ms. Sabik currently resides in Union Beach, New Jersey. She has two daughters, Charlene and Allison, and five grandchildren ranging from ages 12 to 18 years old. She enjoys reading biographies, knitting and relaxing with a movie in the evening.

Mr. Speaker, please join me in congratulating Ms. Sabik for her 45 years of service to the borough of Union Beach. Her continued hard work and dedication are an example of what steadfast commitment and dedication can accomplish.

Mr. Speaker, I ask the House of Representatives to recognize Rose Ceroli Stabile. Rose died peacefully with her family at her side on Tuesday, Nov. 2, 2010 at the age of 88.

Rose was born April 20, 1922, in Niles, Ohio the daughter of Carmen and Basilia Meroli Ceroli. She was employed at Packard Electric, a homemaker and a member of Our Lady of Mount Carmel Catholic Church in Niles.

She enjoyed cooking, spending time with family and friends, and was well-known for baking pitzels and fancy cookies with her girlfriends for weddings.

She was deep in love with both a son, LeRoy M. Stabile of Arizona, who traveled home to Niles to help care for her; two daughters, Anna Lee Williams and her husband, Joseph, of Niles and attorney Sandra Stabile Harwood and her husband, Thomas, of Niles; seven grandchildren, Christopher Stabile, Nicole Stabile, Timothy Waddell, Tiffany Waddell Redman, Kristen Wolfe and Joseph J. Williams; eight great-grandchildren, Darrin, Dawn, Ryan, Joseph, Jeffery, Joshua, Haley and Timothy; and one great-great-grandchild, Carmen.

She was preceded in death by two brothers, Nicholas Ceroli and Joseph Ceroli; and a sister, Mary Lucarelli.

She lovingly and enthusiastically supported the endeavors and interests of her loved ones. She could be found many weekends at car shows with her husband, where their antique cars won many awards, and accompanying her musician husband at his performances. She hosted band rehearsals in her home, cooking and feeding band members and also thoroughly enjoyed the countless hours she spent working on her daughter state Rep. Sandra Harwood's political campaigns.

Mr. Speaker, it is my honor to speak on behalf of such a beloved woman who will be missed dearly by the many whose lives she touched.
HONORING BRADLEY UNIVERSITY
PRESIDENT JOANNE K. GLASSER

HON. LORETTA SANCHEZ
OF CALIFORNIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, January 11, 2011

Ms. LORETTA SANCHEZ of California. Mr. Speaker, I rise in support to honor the groundbreaking accomplishments of Bradley University President Joanne K. Glasser.

A native of Baltimore, Maryland, President Glasser is a graduate of George Washington University, the University of Maryland School of Law, and the Harvard University Graduate Institute of Education for Higher Education Management.

Joanne grew up in a diverse Baltimore neighborhood and has had friends and neighbors of different cultures, different religions and different backgrounds. That personal history, and the inclusive example set by her mother and father, has inspired President Glasser to strive to provide educational opportunities for all students, no matter their race, religion or economic circumstance. She believes in promoting diversity and advances it by actively recruiting students who, without her leadership, would not have the chance to attend a private university.

President Glasser is an inspiration to many for creating history where ever she goes. President Glasser became the first woman president at Eastern Kentucky University in 2001. She repeated that honor in 2007 when she was named president of Bradley University in Peoria, Illinois, an institution founded in 1897 by another trailblazing woman, Lydia Moss Bradley. Earlier in her career, Ms. Glasser was the first woman to be labor commissioner of Baltimore County.

Today, we honor the work President Glasser has done in further closing the achievement gap among low-socioeconomic and Latino students throughout Orange County. She is committed to broadening both regional and ethnic diversity at Bradley University. Her staff has worked tirelessly to find ways for low-socioeconomic students to afford the top-notch education that Bradley University offers.

Pricilla Merritt-Bravo, a junior at Bradley University and vice president of the Bradley Speech Team, explains, “President Glasser is small in stature, but the power that is felt when she comes into a room is great. She is an inspiration not only to women like myself but the entire student body. She believes in dreaming big dreams and striving to achieve them. For myself, going to college was a dream and graduating was a fantasy. President Glasser believed in me and made it possible for me to be here and demonstrate that, if given the chance, those of us who come from limited means can fly.”

Once again, I rise in support of the accomplishments of President Joanne Glasser and Bradley University for furthering education for all people. Joanne’s commitment to diversity and the well-being of her students is unprecedented.
