IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Friday, February 18, 2011

Ms. EDDIE BERNICE JOHNSON of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I am delighted to congratulate one of my constituents who will be honored for his extraordinary volunteerism leadership in the community. Mr. Raúl Magdaleno will be presented with the MillerCoors 2010 Lider of the Year Award at the Latino Cultural Center in Dallas, Texas on Thursday, February 24, 2011.

Raúl Magdaleno was the one among 12 Hispanic leaders chosen for outstanding contributions to his community through volunteerism at Parents Step Ahead/Padres un Paso Adelante. Mr. Magdaleno was selected through an online public voting campaign hosted from September 15 through October 29, 2010. In compliment to his award, Parents Step Ahead will receive a $25,000 grant for a community leadership project in collaboration with MillerCoors. The focus of Parents Step Ahead is to encourage parents to participate in their children's education.

Although this is a prestigious award, this is not the first honor bestowed upon this exceptional Dallasite. Mr. Magdaleno is a 2004 recipient of the United States Congressional Gold Medal for his more than 29,000 hours of community service. He has clearly demonstrated his dedication to the Hispanic community and leadership ability to serve those in need. At present, Mr. Magdaleno oversees the office of Diversity and Community Outreach for Southern Methodist University's Meadows School of the Arts.

Mr. Speaker, I salute Raúl Magdaleno for his remarkable commitment as a servant leader. He is one that our youth across the nation can aspire towards to make this country a better place to live. In his own words, "Perseverance and determination triumphs over any disadvantage life may bring you."

TRIBUTE TO LEONARD METZGER, JR.

HON. JO BONNER

OF ALABAMA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Friday, February 18, 2011

Mr. BONNER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to offer tribute to Mr. Leonard Metzger, Jr., a beloved and respected member of the South Alabama business community who recently passed away at the age of 81.

To his many friends, Leonard Metzger was a gentleman, an avid outdoorsman, a devoted businessman and booster of the community.

Born in Mobile in 1929, Mr. Metzger graduated from University Military School, UMS, where he was the 1948 Julius Tutwiler Award recipient. He would later serve on the UMS-Wright Board of Directors for 25 years.

He attended the University of Alabama until he was called home to lead the family clothing business, Metzger's, after the death of his father, Leonard Metzger, Sr.

For three decades, Mr. Metzger guided the store and supervised its expansion. He sold his business interest in the early 1980's and turned his attention to local civic activities, including the Alabama Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo and the Junior Miss Pageant.

Mr. Metzger loved fishing, duck hunting and telling humorous stories as much as he loved making friends.

His contributions to our community in business and civic activities are many and he will be sorely missed.

On behalf of the people of South Alabama, I wish to extend condolences to Mildred, his wife of 36 years; his son, Leonard "Lee"; daughters, Nancy, Peggy and Debbie; step-daughter, Marty; sister, Clare; 6 grandchildren, and extended family and friends. You are all in our thoughts and prayers.

TRIBUTE TO MR. DAVID M.
ALTWEGG

OF OHIO

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Friday, February 18, 2011

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, on the occasion of his retirement from the Department of Defense, I wish to recognize Mr. David M. Altwegg, Rear Admiral (RADM) (Retired) for his more than six decades of dedicated military and federal service to the security of our country. In his most recent assignment, he served as Executive Director at the Missile Defense Agency, where he advised the Director on issues related to the management and operations of one of the most dynamic organizations within the Department of Defense. Mr. Altwegg has made an enormous contribution to the successful development and fielding of a defensive system to protect this nation, American troops deployed abroad, and our allies and friends from attack by ballistic missiles.

Mr. Altwegg enlisted in the Navy in 1947 and after attending aviation electronics training, he earned a fleet appointment to the United States Naval Academy, earning his commission in 1952. He rose through the ranks as a Surface Warfare Officer where he led sailors and Marines through three decades of distinguished military service, retiring from active duty in 1985. RADM Altwegg's passion to serve this great country led him to continue his federal government service for another quarter century as part of the Senior Executive Service. It is to this nation's benefit that Mr. Altwegg decided to pursue a post-navy career in civil service.

Mr. Chairmen, very few individuals demonstrate the passion, patriotism, loyalty and dedication to national security as exemplified by Mr. Altwegg. His accomplishments and leadership over the course of his 24 year senior executive career contributed significantly to the Department of Defense in the areas of complex combat systems development, acquisition reform, and the fielding of a ballistic missile defense capability for the Nation. As a senior executive, he served in positions of increasing responsibility in the Naval Sea Systems Command and the Program Executive Office for Theater Air Defense (later renamed Theater Surface Combatants). He served as the Deputy Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Theater Combat Systems before being assigned to the newly formed Missile Defense

Agency where he rose to the position of Executive Director, the senior civilian in this organization.

Mr. Altwegg has been at the forefront of the Department of Defense efforts to improve and streamline the acquisition of complex combat systems for his entire civilian career, but nowhere has he had more direct impact than in his current Missile Defense Agency assignment. He pioneered the portfolio management concept when MDA was formed in 2002 through the consolidation of all Service ballistic missile defense programs under this new Defense Agency. Concurrent with this effort, he revamped the budget development and oversight process for MDA's $8 billion annual portfolio, and he dramatically improved the detail and applicability of budget documentation for Congress and other national leaders, resulting in bipartisan praise for promoting a much clearer understanding of a very technically complex program of work. His vision for managing disparate systems as a single integrated system, networking air and space surveillance resources to allow the warfighter to take advantage of the full kinematic range of the family of missile defense interceptors, revolutionized the way we think of the DoD Acquisition Model. MDA's early application of spiral development to introduce future capability in blocks became the new lexicon used by the Defense Acquisition University where we train our future acquisition experts.

Mr. Altwegg also championed the re-engineering of the agency's management structure to better administer and support a revolutionary approach to developing and fielding missile defense capabilities. He redefined the Executive Management Council organization around the three core executive management functions of the Director (head of agency, acquisition executive and program manager) improving teamwork, increasing the information flow among senior executives and dramatically reducing decision cycle time. His tireless efforts streamlined staff, improved communication among more than 30 departments, and advanced the interests of the Department of Defense and American taxpayers in more efficiently delivering improved ballistic missile defense capabilities.

Consistent with the President's Quality Management Agenda as set forth in 2002, Mr. Altwegg pushed for better metrics and measures to support all aspects of ballistic missile defense acquisition. When the Office of Management and Budget implemented their Program Assessment Rating Tool (PART), the MDA was included in the first group of government agencies to be reviewed. The MDA earned an unprecedented score of 75 in the first year. This objective assessment by an outside organization was a direct reflection of Mr. Altwegg's ability to set measurable goals for MDA and to communicate a complex strategy and revolutionary spiral acquisition process.

He was also singularly responsible for the agency's implementation of the President's Management Agenda spotlight activity for Budget-Performance Integration, achieving 100 percent integration of the agency's strategic and budgetary goals. He articulated a recurring strategic rhythm where investment, development, testing and fielding decisions are based on periodic reviews of the maturity, progress and balance of the ballistic missile defense portfolio. Strategic decisions on element progress are based on their ability to
