The House met at 2 p.m. and was called to order by the Speaker pro tempore (Mr. McGINTY).

DESIGNATION OF THE SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The SPEAKER pro tempore laid before the House the following communication from the Speaker:

WASHINGTON, DC, June 13, 2011.

I hereby appoint the Honorable TOM McCINTY to act as Speaker pro tempore on this day.

JOHN A. BOEHNER, Speaker of the House of Representatives.

PRAAYER

The Chaplain, the Reverend Patrick J. Conroy, offered the following prayer:

Eternal God, we give You thanks for giving us another day.

On this day we ask Your blessing on the men and women, citizens all, whose votes have populated this people's House. Each Member of this House has been given the sacred duty of representing them.

O Lord, we pray that those with whom our Representatives met during this past week in their home districts be blessed with peace and an assurance that they have been listened to.

We ask Your blessing as well on the Members of this House, whose responsibility lies also beyond the local interests of constituents while honoring them. Give each Member the wisdom to represent both local and national interests, a responsibility calling for the wisdom of Solomon. Grant them, if You will, a double portion of such wisdom.

Bless us this day and every day, and may all that is done within the people's House this day be for Your greater honor and glory.

Amen.

THE JOURNAL

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair has examined the Journal of the last day's proceedings and announces to the House his approval thereof. Pursuant to clause 1, rule I, the Journal stands approved.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. RIGELL) come forward and lead the House in the Pledge of Allegiance.

Mr. RIGELL led the Pledge of Allegiance as follows:

I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

EXPRESSING DEEP CONCERN OVER THE PRESIDENT'S STANCE ON JOB CREATION

(Mr. RIGELL asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. RIGELL. Mr. Speaker, recently the President said this about our most recent new jobs numbers that were greatly disappointing: "People and the markets are still skittish and nervous, and so they pull back because they're still thinking about the traumas of just 2½ years ago."

Mr. Speaker, I want the President to know that American entrepreneurs and job creators are not looking to the past. Entrepreneurs and job creators by their very nature are looking toward the future, and all they see, Mr. Speaker, is the perfect storm of uncertainty based on the President's fiscal policies: They see an EPA that is a hindrance—not a partner—in job creation; they see a nationalized health care that's creating uncertainty about health care costs and where that's going; they see a mountain of debt that continues to grow each and every day; and they see local bankers who aren't hiring local account executives to reach out to small business owners, but they're hiring those account executives to go out and look at regulations that are just continuing to pour down on our small banks.

Thomas Friedman wrote this in the New York Times this weekend; he said: The epidemic of uncertainty is one of the principal problems undermining U.S. job growth today.

We can do better, Mr. Speaker. Let's support and unlock the greatest job-producing engine the world has ever known: the American small business owner.

HOSPITALITY INDUSTRY PROMOTES JOBS

(Mr. WILSON of South Carolina asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. WILSON of South Carolina. Mr. Speaker, Friday marks the 1-year anniversary of the current administration's "Recovery Summer." The 3-month "victory lap" was designed to celebrate the fabricated success of the so-called "stimulus" plan. The reality of this victory lap is failure. Since passage of the stimulus, America has lost 1.6 million jobs.

Sadly, earlier this month, the Bureau of Labor Statistics announced more families are without jobs. The failed economic policies of this administration, with skyrocketing gas prices promised by the President, have slowed the growth of small businesses. These are America's primary job creators, especially the hospitality industry of hotels and motels which have promoted job opportunities for millions of persons across the country.

Tragically, over 14 million Americans are now without jobs. House Republicans presented the "Cut and CONGRESSIONAL PAY ACCOUNTABILITY ACT

(Mr. HULTGREN asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.

Mr. HULTGREN. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to ask whether Congress can raise itself to the standard of accountability of your home State, the State of California, that was set there recently.

On April 15 of this year, I introduced the Congressional Pay Accountability Act of 2011, a bill that requires Congress to pass a budget and appropriations bills before the beginning of the fiscal year. If we don’t, we don’t get paid.

I introduced this bill because if Congress is unable to perform its basic fundamental duties—to pass the budget and appropriations bills before the beginning of the fiscal year. If we don’t, we don’t get paid.

Recently, I read that California voters approved a ballot measure that requires the same thing of their State legislators—pass a budget or don’t get paid. California voters, facing one of the worst budget crises in U.S. history, spoke up and said that they wanted to hold their elected officials accountable.

As America faces the worst debt crisis in its history, I hope Congress can stand up and declare that we, too, want to be held accountable.

Ask yourselves: If California can do it, why can’t Congress do it?

MILITARY CONSTRUCTION AND VETERANS AFFAIRS AND RELATED AGENCIES APPROPRIATIONS ACT, 2012

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Texas?

There was no objection.

Accordingly, the House resolved itself into the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union for the further consideration of the bill (H.R. 2055) making appropriations for military construction, the Department of Veterans Affairs, and related agencies for the fiscal year ending September 30, 2012, and for other purposes, with Mr. McCLINTOCK (Acting Chair) in the chair.

The Clerk read the title of the bill. The Acting CHAIR. When the Committee of the Whole rose on Thursday, June 2, 2011, the amendment offered by the gentleman from Texas (Mr. CULBERSON) had been disposed of and the bill was open for amendment from page 2, line 8, through page 60, line 9.

AMENDMENT OFFERED BY MR. MICA

Mr. MICA. Mr. Chairman, I have an amendment at the desk.

The Acting CHAIR. The Clerk will report the amendment.

The Clerk read as follows:

Page 9, line 21, insert after the dollar amount the following: “(decreased by $25,000,000)”.

The Acting CHAIR. The gentleman from Florida is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. MICA. Mr. Chairman, I come to the floor this afternoon to present an amendment that would transfer $25 million from one of the accounts, that is the NATO Security Investment Program, to the Military Construction Army National Guard Account. I take this action for several reasons.

First, in our State of Florida, we have at least two projects that are very important to the operation of the National Guard. Our men and women who belong to the National Guard, not only in Florida but across the Nation, deserve an upgrade in their facilities. We have several projects that have gone on for years and years. One of the projects I understand has had difficulty in the contract falling apart. Nonetheless, whether it is in Florida, again, in south Florida, central Florida, or in any State, we should adequately fund the account that protects and provides the accommodations necessary for the facilities for our National Guard. So here we want to plug up by $25 million from the NATO Security Investment Program to our National Guard facilities.

Across the country I hear the same thing—that National Guard facilities, many of which are two or three times older than those who are serving there, need replacement.

So this is a general amount, $25 million, but I believe that it can help boost up the facilities account that is so important for Florida and for the Nation. I am willing to work with the committee in any fashion to plug up this account. I am not trying to pick on NATO, although I believe that there is room in their budget to transfer these funds without doing any damage. I would ask my colleagues to consider this amendment.

I thank the committee. I usually don’t get into other folks’ turf, particularly military construction, I deal mostly with transportation in the House, and I understand the difficulty sometimes when other Members come in and try to manage some of the important dollars that are made available. I know the difficult choices that the committee has in trying to assign appropriate dollars properly for defense facilities construction.

Again, I won’t just take up the House’s time in unnecessary conversation, but it is a simple matter. We transfer $25 million from the NATO Security Investment account to fund military construction for our National Guard. We have the need across the Nation. It is evident in every State where we have National Guard activities. This isn’t a great amount, but I think it can make a significant difference on a number of projects throughout the United States.

I urge my colleagues to support the amendment.

I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. BISHOP of Georgia. Mr. Chairman, I move to strike the last word.

The Acting CHAIR. The gentleman from Georgia is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. BISHOP of Georgia. Mr. Chairman, this amendment would decrease the NATO Security Investment Program by $25 million and increase the Army National Guard account by $25 million. We support the Guard and our Reserves wholeheartedly, but I want to join Chairman CULBERSON in some concerns that I have about the amendment.

The MilCon portion of this bill for the most part is flat-funded, and the resources provided in this title were distributed, we believe, in a very judicious manner. The bill funds the Guard account at the budget request level, which makes the needed investments in Guard facilities.

In addition, I am concerned that the offset that the gentleman has chosen could cause shortfalls in the NATO Security Investment Program, which in turn could cause further delays in the NATO Security Construction Program. The Security Investment Program provides support for many of the important operations that we are involved in, including our current operations in Afghanistan. I believe that we have to get the NATO program back on track because it will ultimately save us money in the long run.

While I agree with the spirit of the amendment, I do have some concerns about the gentleman’s amendment. I won’t oppose it at this time, but I hope that we will be able to work through these concerns as we work through this process and as the bill goes to the Senate and it comes back and we can deal with these concerns in conference.
With that, Mr. Chairman, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. CULBERSON. Mr. Chairman, I move to strike the last word.

The Acting CHAIR. The gentleman from Texas is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. CULBERSON. I certainly agree with the gentleman from Florida, our distinguished chairman of the Transportation and Infrastructure Committee, that we need to do everything we can to support our National Guard. I look forward to working with the gentleman in conference.

We will accept the amendment, again, as an expression of our support for making sure that our National Guard and Reserve components have all the support they need. But we’ll work with the chairman in conference to see if we can find the best source of funding for this addition plus-up on the National Guard. We, of course, want to make sure that they’re not only taken care of in the state of Florida but around the Nation.

I know the chairman shares my concern with border security. The National Guard plays a vital role in helping our Border Patrol agents and in helping our law enforcement and Homeland Security folks in securing the border. So we want to make sure those elements of the National Guard’s role in securing our Nation’s borders are fully funded as well.

So we will accept the amendment at this time.

Mr. MICA. Will the gentleman yield?

Mr. CULBERSON. I yield to the gentleman from Florida.

Mr. MICA. Thank you. Again, I want to thank Mr. CULBERSON for his leadership and for his willingness to work with us, both sides of the aisle. Again, if it is necessary to take funds from another account—and we chose NATO in this instance for this amendment—we would welcome any assistance in plussing-up our National Guard facilities and construction accounts.

So, again, thank you so much for your leadership—I know you have difficult choices and I know the people that serve in our National Guard are grateful for your leadership—and also for accepting the amendment at this time.

Mr. CULBERSON. Mr. Chairman, again, we accept the amendment and move its adoption.

I yield back the balance of my time.

The Clerk. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Florida (Mr. MICA).

The amendment was agreed to.

The Acting CHAIR. The Clerk will read.

The Clerk reads as follows:

SEC. 414. None of the funds made available by this Act may be used to enforce Executive Order 13502 (41 U.S.C. 251 note), FAR Rule 2009-005, or any agency memorandum, bulletin, or contracting policy that derives its authority from Executive Order 13502 or FAR Rule 2009-005.

AMENDMENT OFFERED BY MR. LATOURETTE

Mr. LATOURETTE. Mr. Chairman, I have an amendment at the desk.

The Acting CHAIR. The Clerk will report the amendment.

The Acting CHAIR. The gentleman from Ohio is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. LATOURETTE. This is a simple, straightforward amendment.

During the committee markup of the Military Construction bill, under the able leadership of the subcommittee chairman, an amendment was offered by Mr. FLAKE of Arizona to deny funding to the President’s Executive order dealing with project labor agreements. The matter was accepted by voice vote. It was accepted by voice vote because, quite frankly, I couldn’t rustle up enough votes in the committee to overturn it.

However, this continues a pattern that we’ve seen in this Congress. I believe votes are being taken on whether or not Davis-Bacon should be the law of the land. In each one of the cases, the proponents of Davis-Bacon have been successful, the last one garnering 52 Republican votes. This would be the third vote by those who would wish to get rid of project labor agreements that will occur on the House floor. In the previous two, again, the proponents of project labor agreements have prevailed. In the last instance, 28 Republicans were, in fact, supportive of project labor agreements.

Mr. Chairman, basically, project labor agreements are those agreements wherein someone who is doing a construction project determines that they want to have an all-encompassing universal agreement that covers the construction from start to finish. If union labor is involved, it denies unions the ability to strike. It denies the contractor the ability to lock out. Wages are set. Terms are set. Conditions are set. And, quite frankly, the project labor agreements have been resounding successes.

As a matter of fact, project labor agreements, 90 percent of them are used by the biggest users of project labor agreements are the Disney Corporation and, in fact, Walmart. So neither of those companies have ever been sort of identified as big labor-loving organizations.

Now, this is a backdoor piece of language in line 16 to 21 because it doesn’t attack project labor agreements. What it does is, if you go back and look in February when President Obama enacted this Executive order, he said: I don’t know which is going to be better and what is law, and what is law, based upon the size of the project, where the project is located, what it is we want to get done.

So funds are appropriated to the agencies. Say it’s the Department of Veterans Affairs and they’re going to build a new hospital. You say, Department of Veterans Affairs, you study which is going to bring that project in at the best quality, the best price, on time and giving the taxpayer the best bang for his or her buck.

Well, this amendment strikes that funding. And so it doesn’t say you can’t use project labor agreements. What it fundamentally is that the agency can’t make that comparison. And if you’re not making that comparison to find out which is better for the taxpayer, which is in fact going to cause the project to come in at the lowest cost and with the best quality and under time, then it has nothing to do with saving the taxpayer money.

We hear a lot about these are tough times and we have to tighten our belts. I agree with that. I voted for that consistently. But that is just union bashing. This is just saying we don’t want to know whether a project labor agreement can develop a project that is cheaper, of better quality, and under time.

Quite frankly, although there are studies on both sides, there is an organization called ABC. They have a study that shows that it adds so much cost. You have a study by organized labor that says it reduces so much cost. I choose not to look at either of those because each of those folks and organizations, quite frankly, have some skin in the fight and have some incentive, if you will, to look at the data one way or another.

I would go with our bipartisan, bi-partisan Congressional Research Service, which last October was asked to study this issue, and they indicated, quite frankly, that the jury is out and, if anything, the data indicates that they really can’t say and they can’t find any convincing data as to whether or not project labor agreements save money or don’t save money, which really is the genius of the President’s Executive order because it says you should study it.

Quite frankly, the CRS goes on to indicate that in those areas of the country where there’s a lot of organized labor, the project labor agreements tend to bring these projects in on time, under cost, with better quality. In those areas of the country which aren’t heavily unionized, the opposite is, in fact, true.

So with the jury being out and all of us wanting to achieve the greatest savings for the taxpayer and build good, quality projects in the military construction account which benefits our men and women in uniform, why would we deny the departments the opportunity to study which way is cheaper, better, more effective, and with a better quality? So there’s only one reason. It’s called then that we don’t want to get away from: We hate unions. And that’s not a good reason to have this language in the bill.
I urge support of the amendment. I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. CULBERSON. Mr. Chairman, I rise in opposition to the amendment.

The Acting CHAIR. The gentleman from Texas is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. CULBERSON. This is a straightforward vote to the House about whether or not we will, on behalf of American taxpayers, vote to impose union collective bargaining requirements on any private company doing business with the Federal Government. The Obama administration will not fund and the amendment attempts to strike, language in our bill which does not fund this Executive order, the Executive order says that ‘‘in awarding any contract in connection with a large-scale construction project, the administration may require the use of a project labor agreement.’’

A project labor agreement, under the Executive order’s own definition, means a pre-hire collective bargaining agreement with one or more labor organizations. So the Obama administration through this Executive order is attempts any private company in America that wants to do business with the Federal Government.

That’s just an outrage.

Again, in looking at a Wall Street Journal editorial from April 14 of 2010, it read that is widely available and that has been repeatedly verified: that only about 15 percent of the Nation’s construction workers are unionized. So from now on, under this Executive order, the other 85 percent of American workforce standards that he makes support why we need to have the opportunity to work on a Federal project, or not be unionized.

This is just a blatant attempt by the Obama administration to impose union collective bargaining on any private company in America that wants to do business with the Federal Government. If the idea were to reduce the costs, that’s fine. We are in an era of austerity unlike anything this Nation has ever experienced. We confront record debt, record deficit, record public debt held by foreign nations. This is unlike anything we have ever seen before.

As I showed when we debated this bill earlier, just before the break, every single dollar of Federal revenue that comes in the door is already spent on existing social welfare programs. In fact, 104 percent of Federal income is obligated to pay for the existing social safety net. Social Security, Medicare, Medicaid, veterans’ benefits, and interest on the national debt consume 104 percent of our Nation’s income. Therefore, America is living on borrowed money, and it is our obligation as stewards of the Treasury to ensure that we do not waste any of these precious dollars. We have a spending limit where possibly can so that we do everything within our power to limit the atrocious debt burden that we are passing on to our children and grandchildren. This is an unacceptable direction the Nation is taking because of uncontrolled spending by previous Congresses.

Why would we voluntarily, knowingly, sacrifice our kids’ future to pay? The Wall Street Journal points out and as the Veterans Administration discovered, and why would we voluntarily pay 12 to 14 percent more for construction contracts? In a study they did, the VA discovered, when they compared costs for veterans’ hospitals in three of five markets, the cost of construction would jump by as much as 9 percent. The Beacon Hill Institute at Boston Suffolk University in 2006 said, when you impose these project labor agreements, it will in increase school construction costs by 12 to 14 percent. Why would we voluntarily do that?

This amendment must be defeated. This amendment is an effort to prevent project labor agreements on Federal dollars. If this amendment passes, the Obama administration will be able to impose collective bargaining on any private company that wants to do business with the Federal Government. I strongly urge Members to oppose this amendment.

I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. BISHOP of Georgia. Mr. Chairman, as much as I agree with many of the objectives expressed by the chairman in his discussion just a few moments ago, particularly that we want to make the most efficient use of taxpayer dollars, I think the very arguments that he makes support why we need to have project labor agreements.

This has nothing to do with union or nonunion workforce standards. The put labor agreements do not mandate or predetermine that a workforce has to be union or nonunion. It allows for the other owner, such as the government or a private sector entity, to establish workforce standards that both union and nonunion workers have to meet in order to be hired by contractors or subcontractors under the project labor agreements.

This is a model that increases the efficiency and the quality of construction projects. Of course the ultimate objective is that we will have a workforce that will ensure construction projects are built correctly the first time so that we won’t have cost overruns, so that they are built on time, so that we won’t have to extend the contracts, and so that we won’t have safety problems because of having unskilled workers. Basically, in the awarding of these contracts, these project labor agreements will make sure that the government’s money is spent appropriately. We get the most bang for taxpayer bucks. We want to make sure we make the most efficient use of taxpayer dollars.

There has been study after study after study that illustrates how the use of these project labor agreements does not extend costs to the taxpayers or to other projects—rather, that they often save money. In fact, in most cases, they do save money because, as a result of having a workforce, they don’t have to worry about equipment being broken; they don’t have to worry about the waste of resources and materials; they don’t have to worry about the contracts not being honored on time; and there are a lot of other benefits. If you’re worried about protections, project labor agreements will prohibit strikes or work stoppages by any kind of construction workers on the project. They will establish a single procedure for handling workforce disputes.

It is a tool for ensuring that large and complex projects, as many of our government projects are, are completed on time. It allows for the employment of local contractors. And right now, with the unemployment rate as it is and with so many of our skilled workers out of work, it allows for flexibility.

The Executive order, which seems to be the source of the complaint, really does not require that they be used. It gives the government the option of making a decision that is in the best interest of the American taxpayers. Certainly, we want to do everything that we can possibly do to make sure that we come in on budget or under budget, with the highest quality, with the safest work environment, and that we are able to employ the people in our communities to get the job done. As much as we need to improve employment, to increase the number of people who are working, these project labor agreements just add another tool to allow, in the awarding of taxpayer funded contracts, the most efficient use of those dollars. So I join the gentleman in support. I think it is well thought out and that it’s a benefit to the taxpayers.

With all due respect to my colleague on the other side who is opposed to this amendment, I think, when it is all said and done, the bottom line is these project labor agreements in this Executive order, while not requiring the use of project labor agreements, will be an added tool in our arsenal to get the most bang for taxpayer bucks to enhance what we do for our country for our citizens whom we put to work, and to make sure that the conditions and terms of their employment and the work that they do is done with appropriate standards.

I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. HARRIS. Mr. Chairman, I move to strike the last word.

The Acting CHAIR. The gentleman from Maryland is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. HARRIS. I thank my colleague from Ohio for introducing this amendment and, once again, this dialogue on an important issue.
I will remind my colleague that, although he brings up the fact that this has been decided in the Chamber twice already in other similar circumstances, it’s not really the same because, last Friday, of course, we found out that our unemployment rate is rising in the country. It’s up 9.1 percent again. We only created 54,000 jobs, not the 200,000 jobs we’d hoped we would create and certainly much fewer than the 150,000 jobs we need to create in order to get back to full employment. That’s how many we need to hire, or 4 percent of the workforce.

What this amendment means, very simply, is that we are going to have to spend 10 to 20 percent more on every single project that ends up in a project labor agreement—and more projects will, if more projects wouldn’t, then the advocates wouldn’t care about whether we put this provision in. It clearly will result in project labor agreements, so let’s review what a project labor agreement does.

First, it increases the cost 10 to 20 percent on every project. Now, Mr. Chairman, if you or I or people in my congressional district were going to contract to build something around their homes, they wouldn’t put a provision in normally that says that we’re only going to hire union contractors.

So let’s talk about jobs a little bit. What is our important role here in Congress? Our role in Congress is to try to get our unemployment rate up. Well, if we save 10 to 20 percent on every job, we certainly can do more construction jobs. I just met over lunch with one of the people in my district who is an electrical contractor and he’s not unionized, and he asked me to come down here and he said, please, go to the floor today and ask so that those 80 percent, or 7 percent, of us who are contractors who are not unionized can get a piece of that pie so that we don’t have to fire our employees.

Mr. Chairman, it’s simple. If we can save 10 to 20 percent on every project, we can hire 10 to 20 percent more people to do more projects. And again, the sad fact is our unemployment rate is 9.1 percent. It’s going up, not down. The number of new jobs created last month, 54,000, going down, not up. We’ve got to reverse that, and we’ve got to do it by being efficient and being smart with our dollars, and one way is not to require project labor agreements.

Finally, let me address the issue of local citizens. I want these contracts to go into the First Congressional District of Maryland; but, Mr. Chairman, I don’t have a lot of union contractors in my district. There are a lot of districts that don’t have a lot of union contractors. So if we want local contractors to be employed, if we want local citizens to get jobs, if we want employment rates to go down, Mr. Chairman, I would suggest we defeat this amendment, which will frequently require that in order to qualify for a contract you have to hire out of district. You may have to go to another State. That’s certainly not good for the folks in the First Congressional District of Maryland.

Mr. Chairman, again, I want to thank my colleague from Ohio for bringing this issue up, but we do need to revisit this issue because we don’t live in the same world we lived in one week ago. We live in a world where the talk of the double-dip recession is sincere and it’s serious and our unemployment rate going up, not down; the number of jobs going up, not up. The last thing we should do is to take those hard-earned taxpayer dollars and to use them, and I will say to waste them, in some circumstances, on project labor agreements.

I yield back the balance of my time.

The Acting CHAIR. The gentleman from Washington is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. DICKS. The gentleman’s amendment would strike the provision in the bill prohibiting the use of project labor agreements on any project funded in this bill. PLAs are a benefit to both contractors and bidders, and then they will make the decision based purely on price and quality and value whether or not to make that deal, not whether some one is a member of a union or hires union laborers; but that’s what a project labor agreement does.

So let’s talk about jobs a little bit. What is our important role here in Congress? Our role in Congress is to try to get our unemployment rate up. Well, if we save 10 to 20 percent on every job, we certainly can do more construction jobs. I just met over lunch with one of the people in my district who is an electrical contractor and he’s not unionized, and he asked me to come down here and he said, please, go to the floor today and ask so that those 80 percent, or 7 percent, of us who are contractors who are not unionized can get a piece of that pie so that we don’t have to fire our employees.

Mr. Chairman, it’s simple. If we can save 10 to 20 percent on every project, we can hire 10 to 20 percent more people to do more projects. And again, the sad fact is our unemployment rate is 9.1 percent. It’s going up, not down. The number of new jobs created last month, 54,000, going down, not up. We’ve got to reverse that, and we’ve got to do it by being efficient and being smart with our dollars, and one way is not to require project labor agreements.

Finally, let me address the issue of local citizens. I want these contracts to go into the First Congressional District of Maryland; but, Mr. Chairman, I don’t have a lot of union contractors in my district. There are a lot of districts that don’t have a lot of union contractors. So if we want local contractors to be employed, if we want local citizens to get jobs, if we want employment rates to go down, Mr. Chairman, I would suggest we defeat this amendment, which will frequently require that in order to qualify for a contract you have to hire out of district. You may have to go to another State. That’s certainly not good for the folks in the First Congressional District of Maryland.

Mr. Chairman, again, I want to thank my colleague from Ohio for bringing this issue up, but we do need to revisit this issue because we don’t live in the same world we lived in one week ago. We live in a world where the talk of the double-dip recession is sincere and it’s serious and our unemployment rate going up, not down; the number of jobs going up, not up. The last thing we should do is to take those hard-earned taxpayer dollars and to use them, and I will say to waste them, in some circumstances, on project labor agreements.

I yield back the balance of my time.

The Acting CHAIR. The gentleman from Washington is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. DICKS. The gentleman’s amendment would strike the provision in the bill prohibiting the use of project labor agreements on any project funded in this bill. PLAs are a benefit to both employers and unions. They provide uniform wages, benefits, overtime. A PLA sets the terms and conditions of employment for all workers on site, including work conditions and rules. In addition, a PLA prohibits strikes and work stoppages. A PLA provides a single collective bargaining unit which allows for easier management of a project.

Executive order 13502 only encourages executive agencies to consider the use of project labor agreements. There is no requirement to use a PLA. It should be up to the agency and project manager if the use of a PLA is appropriate for their particular project. And I was pleased that the chairman, Mr. CULBerson, read the language and it says “may,” not “shall.”

Two weeks ago, during the consideration of the FY 2012 Homeland Security appropriations bill, an amendment was offered to prohibit the Department from allowing project labor agreements, and it was defeated. We should support the option on the use of PLAs.

I urge the adoption of the LaTourette amendment.

Mr. LA TOURETTE. Will the gentleman yield?

Mr. DICKS. I yield to the gentleman from Ohio.

Mr. LA TOURETTE. I thank the distinguished ranking member very much; and, you know, Mr. HARRIS from Mary-project labor agreements. That's all this does, and I think we should all be for it. We should all be for free markets. We should all be for capitalism, for the best contractor competing against the best contractor and putting up the best project.

Now, they said that there were reports cited in The Wall Street Journal, and I just happen to have what The Wall Street Journal cited, and they did cite the independent study that was commissioned by the Department of Veterans Affairs that says in the study, the Obama project labor agreement would likely raise the VA construction costs for hospitals by as much as 9 percent in three of the five markets. So it’s clear that there is a study by an independent organization there that says costs will go up. Now, can we not accept that as evidence enough that we do not need project labor agreements as a mandate to receive the funding for projects throughout this Nation? I mean, we live in a day and a time in which the debt and deficit are out of control, and it seems to be what we spend our arguments about and our debates about is spending, and that’s an important topic. This is another one issue facing this Nation right now is the economy and the job losses.

Mr. HARRIS, he was so eloquent as he was talking about unemployment, 9.1 percent now. We all know that. We’re here in the middle of this summer, since the beginning of the summer of recovery, and yet we don’t see any recovery.

These project labor agreement requirements by the executive order were placed in effect in 2009; and as Mr. BISHOP referenced, you know, this was good for jobs, good for creating local jobs. Well, where are the jobs? They do not exist. In essence, we’ve had 2 years of a failed experiment, Mr. Chairman; and let’s be fair to say, you know what, look, the experiment didn’t work, let’s put it up on the shelf, and let’s try something new. Let’s go back to what we know works and that’s empowering the private sector, empowering the private sector, empowering the private sector.

Mr. Chairman, I yield back the balance of my time.

Ms. RICHARDSON. Mr. Chairman, I move to strike the last word.

The Acting CHAIR. The gentlewoman from California is recognized for 5 minutes.

Ms. RICHARDSON. Mr. Chairman, I rise in strong support of the LaTourette amendment. But before I get into the details, I want to speak to the comments that were just made. I happen to have the privilege of serving currently on the Transportation and Infrastructure Committee, and I would say to any Member of Congress who would like to know about the thousands of jobs that were, in fact, created and maintained through the American Recovery Act, I would be more than happy to give them a copy of that document. Let me move into, though, the topic that is at hand, which is really the LaTourette amendment, which is not in reference to the American Recovery Act.

I strongly speak in support of this amendment because it protects American jobs; two, it completes projects safely; and, three, it often-saves the taxpayers money. The LaTourette amendment ensures that funds for large-scale construction projects utilize the most cost-effective and efficient process for the awarding of Federal contracts. Section 415 of H.R. 2055 prohibits agencies from being able to use all available methods to ensure that Federal contracts are cost efficient, including the utilization of project labor agreements.

Our ranking member, Mr. DICKS, just recently spoke a few moments ago about section 415, and I will only reiterate two points: One, section 1, subsection (b) says, ‘‘Accordingly, it is the policy of the Federal Government to encourage executive agencies to consider requiring the use of project labor agreements.’’ Section 3, subsection (a) says, ‘‘In awarding any contract, executive agencies may, on a project-by-project basis, require, sec- tion 5 says, ‘‘This order does not require an executive agency to use a project labor agreement.’’

So, if we’re going to speak on the floor of this House, it’s important, if we’re going to talk about facts, let’s actually say those facts. So this dispels the myth that Executive Order 13502 makes requirements in the awarding of Federal contracts.

Now let’s talk a little bit about those project labor agreements. There is no substantial evidence that says that PLAs decrease the number of bidders on a project or increase the costs of construction projects. In fact, project labor agreements promote cost-effectiveness and efficiency in those construction projects. Having project labor agreements prevents labor disputes; it eliminates project delays and, thereby, helps us to get the projects done.

We can all talk about facts and figures and dates and sections, but I would like to talk about what’s happening in my district. I know from firsthand experience that project labor agreements work. Over the weekend, we have seen project labor agreements negotiated and implemented with incredible success.

There have been many who have talked about project labor agreements. Here is just a few examples of successful project labor agreements in California:

One, the construction of the L.A. Metro’s Blue Line; number two, the expansion and renovation of the Los Angeles World Airports; the recent Middle Harbor Project at the Ports of Los Angeles and Long Beach, which are the largest ports in this country; and then, finally, the $2.2 billion Alameda Corridor Project. That was a project that was completed on time and under budget.

So, with that, Mr. Chairman, I would ask respectfully that Mr. LaTourette’s amendment would be found in order and that all of our colleagues will join in support of it.

Finally, I would just like to say, for those who say that PLAs drive up the cost of construction, if they would say that, then we would simply ask: Why is it that Walmart is increasingly using PLAs and Toyota Motor Corporation has built every one of its North American manufacturing facilities under a project labor agreement?

So, when we talk about this, Mr. LaTourette has been a leader on this issue. I strongly support his amendment. I stand in lockstep.

Mr. LA TOURETTE. Will the gentle- woman yield?

Ms. RICHARDSON. I yield to the gentleman from Ohio.

Mr. LA TOURETTE. First of all, I want to thank the gentlewoman very much. I want the body to know that Ms. Richardson was going to offer this amendment and, over the weekend, permitted me to offer it as a member of the committee. I appreciate that very much. She is certainly a champion of PLAs.

I want to address the gentleman from Georgia’s observations because he is exactly right, and it doesn’t change anything that I said. The VA said that you should study both PLAs and non-PLAs based upon the area of the country. Now, he is correct. The VA study said that in three of the five that they studied, PLAs would have lower costs. It doesn’t say anything about the benefit from having increased quality, on time, and all that other business.

But what happened to the other two? In 40 percent of them, the answer is either there was no difference or they reduced costs, which is exactly the point. The amendment strikes out the language inserted in the bill by the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. PLAKEY) that would prevent an agency from studying which way gets you the bigger bang for the buck. Why would we want to do that?

I thank the gentlelady.

Ms. RICHARDSON. All of us in Congress are looking for ways to rein in the deficit.

The Acting CHAIR. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Ms. RICHARDSON. I strongly support the LaTourette amendment.

The Acting CHAIR. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. LATOURETTE). The question was taken; and the Acting CHAIR announced that the ayes appeared to have it.

Mr. CULBERSON. Mr. Chairman, I demand a recorded vote.

The Acting CHAIR. Pursuant to clause 6 of rule XVIII, further proceedings on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Ohio will be postponed.

The Acting CHAIR. The Clerk will read.

The Clerk read as follows:

AMENDMENT NO. 1 OFFERED BY MR. MEEKS

I have an amendment at the desk.

Mr. MEEKS. I have an amendment at the desk.

Mr. MEEKS. Mr. Chair, I rise in support of the amendment. We will accept Mr. MEEKS’ amendment because it’s vitally important that all Federal agencies, the VA included, understand that the Member of Congress representing that district, he’s their voice.

I represent Houston, Texas. I’m proud to do so. I have an obligation, obviously, to look after the entire Nation; but first and foremost, I am the Representative of the people of District Seven in Houston, Texas, as Mr. MEEKS is the Representative of his constituents in New York. And I think it’s vitally important that every Federal agency understand that they need to work with and earn the support of the Representative of that district before they move forward with a major project of any kind.

And as Mr. MEEKS has said, the community must determine the direction the VA is taking. And I would join with my friend, Mr. Bishop. And we strongly support the VA looking to the private sector to partner with the private sector to find innovative, cost-effective ways of providing better services to our veterans by partnering with the private sector.

And certainly, the committee does not want to discourage in any way the VA’s expansion of private partnerships to give better service to veterans. We encourage it. We want the VA to look for ways to save money, to provide better service to our veterans, to use the extraordinary expertise of hospitals and medical centers like the Texas Medical Center, which I represent. The work that Mr. Bishop is doing with Fort Benning and the VA in his district has created a marvelous partnership with private physicians to provide better services. We want the VA to continue that effort.

But it is absolutely essential that the VA understand that they have to earn the support and approval of the community. That means they have to earn the support and approval of the Representative for that district. And in this instance, I hope the VA is tuned in and listening. The VA needs to earn the support and approval of Congressman MEEKS before they move forward with this effort.

So for that reason, we will accept the amendment. And I want to know that the VA is not only returning Mr. MEEKS’ phone calls, but they are listening, responding to the needs of the community, to the needs of my constituents, the needs of the veterans that he represents; and that the VA, once they have earned the support of the community, they are going to have the support of Mr. MEEKS. And when Mr. MEEKS comes to the subcommittee and says that the VA has earned his support, the community has earned his support, then the committee will be prepared to move forward and support the VA work at St. Albans.

So for those reasons, we will accept the amendment. And I am looking forward to the day when Mr. MEEKS comes and tells us the VA is in his office and earning his support and the support of the community.

I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. ACKERMAN. Mr. Chairman, I move to strike the last word.

The Acting CHAIR. The gentleman from New York is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. ACKERMAN. Mr. Chairman, I rise in strong support of the Meeks amendment, which not only affects his district, but affects at least 11 congressional districts that surround his district, all in support of our veterans and fighting men and women who have returned from wars overseas, some of them severely injured and in need of our care, concern, and support at this very moment.

For 7 years now, the Department of Veterans Affairs has pursued a perhaps well-intentioned but a stubbornly wrongheaded plan for the St. Albans Prime Care Extended Care Facility which is located in the county of Queens. I am very concerned that the VA is proceeding full speed ahead with its plans to lease a property for 34 years, property currently dedicated exclusively for veterans. And what are we going to lose? We are going to lose for the next 75 years without this facility, when there is a rising demand among our veterans for medical services?

The justification—you have to hear this—the justification for the VA’s decision comes from an absurd outdated report that relied on data from 2003, 8 years ago, when we were only at the beginning of the wars in Iraq and Afghanistan. We have, unfortunately, seen tremendous increases in veterans homelessness, foreclosures, divorce, substance abuse, PTSD and, yes, suicides.

And yet the VA report from all those years ago projected at that time, almost a decade ago, that mental health services in veterans was going to decrease over the next 20 years. It’s been 8 years since that report. And what have we seen during the 8 years alone? And there’s 12 years more to go. We’ve seen increases in all of these problems among our veterans. And yet they cling stubbornly to the data in that report, thinking that these things are going to go down among our veterans. And this, everybody knows, is certainly not going to be the case.

All evidence suggests that returning veterans are going to require a greater significant increase especially in VA mental health services. A Rand Center report alone found that already 18.5 percent of all U.S. servicemembers who have returned already from Afghanistan and Iraq and many with PTSD have been diagnosed with PTSD or depression, and that 19.5 percent suffer from traumatic brain injury.

Where is the Veterans Administration’s plan? To give away this property, which is intended secured right now for our veterans, is a huge mistake, based on a report that is already discredited by the facts. This is something that we can’t allow to continue.

These are veterans who have sacrificed so much. We have to stand here today on the floor. And I want to thank my colleagues on both sides of the aisle, colleagues on the majority, especially, for standing through the politics of this and understanding that these are our veterans that we are fighting for; that we, as Members of Congress, understand our constituencies and our needs and their needs.

I want to especially thank Representatives GRIFF and KING, who are among our delegation, as well as the rest of the Democratic members of the delegation in our region, and thank Representative MECKS for his dynamic and great leadership in bringing this to our attention so that we could stand together as patriotic Americans all, at least on this issue, and fight for the needs of our veterans.

I yield back the balance of my time.

The Acting CHAIR. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from New York (Mr. MECKS).

AMENDMENT NO. 4 OFFERED BY MR. AMASH

Mr. AMASH. Mr. Chair, I have an amendment at the desk.

The Acting CHAIR. The Clerk will designate the amendment.

The text of the amendment is as follows:

At the end of the bill (before the short title), insert the following:

Sec. __.

Notwithstanding any provision of this Act to the contrary, the Secretary shall establish a wage-rate determined by the Department of Labor for Federal construction contracts to pay a prevailing rate that is the wage rate established by the Department of Labor for the particular trade or occupation in the locality involved in which the work is to be performed.

The Acting CHAIR. The gentleman from Michigan is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. AMASH. Mr. Chairman, the Davis-Bacon Act requires nearly all Federal construction contracts to pay a prevailing wage determined by the Department of Labor. Under the law, construction contractors and subcontractors may not pay their own workers wages lower than the department’s pay rate, even if the workers bargain for a wage below the government-set rate.

My amendment blocks application of Davis-Bacon to the Military Construction and Veterans’ Affairs Appropriations bill. There are two reasons why the House should block Davis-Bacon.

First, Davis-Bacon wastes taxpayer dollars on overpriced contracts. A recent study showed that, on average, nationwide, the government-set rate is 22 percent higher than the true market rate. For example, if sheet metal workers in Long Island, New York, are paid $28.79 per hour, while the government-set rate for that area is $35.00, factoring in the cost of materials and overhead, it means that the Federal Government overpays for construction contracts by between 10 percent and 15 percent.

Second, Davis-Bacon gives an unfair advantage to union employees. Small businesses, many of which are nonunion, lower their prices to compete against larger union firms. The tradeoff for nonunion employees is a lower wage rate. Davis-Bacon does not disadvantage nonunion employees who are willing to perform more construction for less money. By eliminating government-mandated wages, we can better allocate resources, in- vesting in our economy, and put hardworking Americans back on the job.

Providing for our national defense and the care of our veterans are critical priorities. Construction projects in the appropriations bill include VA facilities, family housing, schools and infrastructure for our National Guard troops stationed on the border. We owe it to our constituents to stretch every taxpayer dollar and spend wisely.

Blocking Davis-Bacon’s application to military construction and VA projects will honor our commitment to fiscal responsibility and our veterans. Let’s let competition determine what is not the Federal Government. Please support my amendment to block Davis-Bacon.

I now yield to the gentleman from Texas.

Mr. CULBERSON. I thank the gentleman from Michigan for bringing this important amendment. I strongly support the gentleman from the majority in the House to adopt the gentleman’s amendment because it will save, again, our children and grandchildren a significant amount of money.

We are in an era of austerity unlike anything America has ever experienced. We are living on borrowed money. Every dollar the Federal Government brings in goes right out the back door to pay for the existing social safety net. Social Security, Medicare, Medicaid, interest on the national debt and veterans’ benefits consume 104 percent of America’s revenue. Therefore, all the money we appropriate for the entire year for military construction, for the VA, for transportation, for homeland security, for the Defense Department, all of it, is borrowed. Therefore, we need to do everything we can to cut, to save money, to eliminate waste and abuse, and to avoid spending more money than we should.

Here, very straightforward, the gentleman’s amendment would save American taxpayers a significant amount of money. It depends on what study you’re looking at, but my very capable staff has looked at this and analyzed a whole variety of studies that indicate that there’s a whole range of savings.

The Chamber of Commerce believes there’s Davis-Bacon, the Chamber of Commerce, believes there’s a whole range of savings.

I now yield to the gentleman from Texas.

economy, would we prevent contractors, businesses, from coming in and competing for a job?

As on the last amendment, the LaTourette amendment, which I hope the House defeats, that amendment we need to defeat so that we could encourage companies to come in and compete for Federal contracts, this amendment needs to be adopted to encourage businesses to come in and compete for Federal contracts. This would expand the universe of companies that could compete for Federal work. As in Texas, for example, on a highway project, we pay the competitive, best price for bids, and in the Chamber of Commerce’s opinion, if we eliminate the Davis-Bacon prevailing wage, it would save about 15 percent on average on project construction. The Cato Institute estimates a 10 percent savings.

The Acting CHAIR. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Mr. CULBERSON. Mr. Chairman, I move to strike the last word.

The Acting CHAIR. The gentleman from Texas is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. CULBERSON. Thank you very much.

If I could, Mr. Chairman, point out that the Heritage Foundation estimates that there will be a 22 percent savings to taxpayers by eliminating the Davis-Bacon requirement. The Beacon Hill Institute at Suffolk University in Boston estimates a 10 percent savings.

This whole variety of savings, if you line them up, for example, we’ll just say, for the sake of argument, that there is about a 10 percent savings in construction costs, we as a Nation living on borrowed money should not voluntarily, willingly pay 10 percent more. It makes no sense.

The gentleman’s amendment is extraordinarily important. It will save taxpayers a significant amount of money on construction projects. On average, you’re going to wind up saving, under the gentleman’s amendment, about 10 percent. Ten percent goes a long way on a lot of these massive construction projects. The gentleman’s amendment is vitally important in this economy. The adoption of the gentleman’s amendment will increase the number of jobs available for people to work on Federal projects. The gentleman’s amendment will create jobs and save money for taxpayers. In an era of record deficit, and record burden that we simply cannot pass on to our kids, it is vitally important that the House approve the gentleman’s amendment, and I urge its adoption.

I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. BISHOP of Georgia. I move to strike the last word.

The Acting CHAIR. The gentleman is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. BISHOP of Georgia. Mr. Chairman, I rise in opposition to this amendment.

The Davis-Bacon Act is a pretty simple concept, and it’s a fair concept. What it does is to protect the government as well as the workers in carrying out the policy of paying decent wages for government contracts.

I noticed that the previous speaker was really concerned about the possibility that Davis-Bacon would raise the cost of the performance of these contracts, but it only requires that prevailing wages in the area where the contract is going to be performed is maintained. For example, if in some of the urban areas where labor costs are very high, where the prevailing wages are there, the standard of living and the wage payment for that area would be consistent. If it was in a lower wage area, then Davis-Bacon wages would be the wages that were paid in that market. So basically it just allows the workers to be paid at a rate consistent with where the project is being conducted.

The act requires that every construction contract that the Federal Government participates in in excess of $2,000 has to have this provision defining the minimum wage. It was taken up by this House just a few days ago, and, of course, three times this House has defeated attempts to repeal this Davis-Bacon requirement. It would appear to me that this House has exercised great wisdom three times in this session in preserving the right of workers to earn the wages that are paid in the area where the project is being constructed. That just makes sense. We want our workers to be paid fairly. We don’t want the government to overpay. So we won’t pay higher wages in an area where prevailing wages are lower. We won’t pay lower wages in an area where the prevailing wages are higher, where the cost of living is higher, where the cost of doing business is higher, where the cost of doing the construction would be higher. We want the government to get the best bang for the buck.

These amendments are probably very well-intentioned, and the taxpayers’ dollars, but we cannot and we should not be penny-wise and pound-foolish. The repeal of Davis-Bacon, I think, and I think that this House has stated on at least three occasions on this floor during this session of Congress, would be pound-foolish.

I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. SHERMAN. I join the gentleman from California is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. SHERMAN. Mr. Chairman, I move to strike the last word.

The Acting CHAIR. The gentleman from California is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. SHERMAN. I join the gentleman from Georgia in opposing this amendment and associate myself with his remarks.

The Federal Government is in a different position from a private company having construction done, for two reasons: First, one of the greatest social problems we face in this country is the eroding wages of middle class families. We try to keep the wages high when there are sufficient jobs, the average American doesn’t make any more on an inflation-adjusted basis than a decade or two decades ago. The Federal Government should not play a role in pushing down people out of the middle class. We have a social responsibility to work to return to what used to be the American norm, and that is that each generation does better than the last.

The second, even from a crudely proprietary position, the Federal Government is in a very different position than a private homeowner, private property owner. I knew I was tempted the last time we fixed our house, maybe I would go with the slipped, cheap-skate company. After all, I’m only going to live there a few more years. Even many private owners, they’re only going to own the building for a few years.

So many of us in our daily lives use government-constructed projects from the 1930s. When the government builds something, it is normally going to be owned and operated by the government and used by our citizens for many, many decades. Why do we want slipshod construction? Why do we want those who are not looking to have skilled craftsmen and craftsmen but, rather, are looking to slap it up there in the cheapest possible way?

Our public works need to be built by those with the proper construction skills; it’s not a matter of just hiring as many hands as you can as cheaply as possible.

And so I support the gentleman from Georgia and his comments, and I urge the defeat of this amendment.

Mr. DICKS. Mr. Chairman, I move to strike the requisite number of words.

The Acting CHAIR. The gentleman from Washington is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. DICKS. Mr. Chairman, I rise in strong opposition to this amendment. Some in the minority continue to try to repeal Davis-Bacon, despite the House being on record supporting the protection of labor standards.

Two weeks ago, the full committee voted to strip the anti-Davis-Bacon provision that was added by the chairman of the subcommittee. A similar amendment repealing Davis-Bacon was offered during the consideration of the FY 2012 Homeland Security Appropriations bill. It failed on a vote of 183–234.

I have been a long-time supporter of Davis-Bacon’s prevailing wage requirements. It helps ensure that local projects provide local jobs with affordable middle class wages. The law protects the government from contractors trying to win Federal contracts by bidding too low to attract competent workers. I strongly oppose this amendment.

I point out, if there is a problem here, it’s because we do not do the wage surveys on a continuing and consistent basis. That is a real problem. That’s why I went with the Department of Labor, and we need to make sure that they’re doing their part of the equation.
Mr. Chairman, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. BISHOP of Georgia. Mr. Chairman, I move to strike the requisite number of words.

The Acting CHAIR. The gentleman is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. BISHOP of Georgia. Mr. Chairman, let me just say that the Davis-Bacon Act prevents competition for construction contracts from artificially depressing local labor standards. The Davis-Bacon Act will prevent subverting the prevailing wage laws, which will lead to shoddy construction and substantial cost overruns.

Under the prevailing wage laws, contractors are forced to compete on the basis of who can best train, best equip, and best manage a construction crew, not on the basis of who can assemble the cheapest, most exploitable workforce, either locally or through importing labor from outside.

The Davis-Bacon Act does not require a union wage; it requires prevailing wage based upon surveys of wages and benefits that are actually paid to various job classifications of construction workers, such as iron workers in a community, without regard to whether they belong to a union or not.

According to the Department of Labor, a whopping 72 percent of prevailing wage rates issued in 2000 were based upon nonunion wage rates. A union wage prevails only if the Department of Labor survey determines that the local union wage is paid to more than 50 percent of the workers in that job classification.

Now higher wages and skills result in greater productivity and lower cost. It’s so much greater among high-wage, high-skill workers that projects use high-skilled workers and high-paid workers often cost less than those that use the low-wage, low-skilled workers due to repairs, revisions, and lengthy delays.

The opponents who claim that the government could save billions by eliminating the Davis-Bacon protections ignore the productivity, quality, safety, community development and other economic benefits which contribute to the real cost effectiveness of Davis-Bacon. A study of 10 States where nearly half of all of the highway and bridge work is done in the United States showed that high-wage, high-skill workers were paid double the wage of low-wage workers, they built 74.4 more miles of roadbed and 32.8 more miles of bridges for $557 million less.

Driving wages down will not help balance the budget. The Davis-Bacon Act will improve local economies and it will result in increased productivity.

I am convinced that, again, we have people with good intentions that want to save us money. But if you pay cheap wages, you will have to employ less skilled workers. If you hire less skilled workers, they will, in all likelihood, have to have work redone that will have to be repaired. It will extend the cost, it will extend the time, and ultimately it will cost our taxpayers more money, and we will not get the efficiencies that each and every tax dollar should have because they are hard-earned tax dollars, and our taxpayers don’t give them up lightly. But when we don’t do our part in this country and across this country wants to make sure that we get the best bang for the buck. Davis-Bacon would give us that result. It has proven that. The studies show that.

I would submit that this amendment is ill-advised and should be defeated.

Mr. Chairman, I yield back the balance of my time.

The Acting CHAIR. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. AMASH).

The question was taken; and the Acting Chair announced that the noes appeared to have it.

Mr. CULBERSON. Mr. Chairman, I demand a recorded vote.

The Acting CHAIR. Pursuant to clause 6 of rule XVIII, further proceedings on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Michigan will be postponed.

AMENDMENT NO. 2 OFFERED BY MR. SHERMAN

Mr. SHERMAN. Mr. Chairman, I have an amendment; the Acting CHAIR. The Clerk will designate the amendment.

Mr. SHERMAN. May the Clerk read the amendment?

The Acting CHAIR. Without objection, the Clerk will report the amendment.

There was no objection.

The Clerk read as follows:

At the end of the bill, before the short title, insert the following:

Sec. [1541 et seq.]. None of the funds made available by this Act may be used in contravention of the War Powers Resolution (50 U.S.C. 1541 et seq.).

The Acting CHAIR. The gentleman from California is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. SHERMAN. Mr. Chairman, I had the Clerk read the amendment because it’s a simple one-sentence amendment. It says that none of the money in this act can be used deliberately by the President to violate the law, in particular, the War Powers resolution, often referred to as the War Powers Act, which is found in title 50 of the United States Code.

This is the same amendment I offered to the Homeland Security appropriations bill. Some 208 Members of Congress voted for that amendment. The only argument against the amendment at that time was that it wasn’t exactly appropriate or relevant to the Homeland Security bill. After all, I was preventing the funding of violation of the War Powers Act with the funds provided to the Department of Homeland Security.

Now I offer this amendment to the MilCon bill, it is relevant. This is a bill that provides tens of billions of dollars for the Defense Department. And it is necessary and appropriate, if we are going to adopt a policy that says that money is not going to be appropriated for deliberate violation of our law, that we apply this amendment not only to the Defense Appropriations bill, but to this second bill that funds the Pentagon.

Why is this amendment necessary? Because so many administrations have embraced the idea of an imperial Presidency, the idea that a President can send our forces into battle for unlimited duration, for any purpose, unlimited in scope. This is not what the Constitution and the law provides.

The War Powers Act is the law of the land, and it says the President may in defense commit our forces, but the President must seek congressional authorization and must withdraw within 60 days if that authorization is not provided by the affirmative vote of both Houses of Congress.

In Libya, we face not an attack on the United States, not an attack on our allies. But even in this circumstance, this President, like others, claims that he does not have to follow the law.

The administration has implied that there are substitutes for congressional authorization; they have implied that resolutions by the United Nations, the Arab League or NATO can be a substitute for congressional authorization; and they implied that consulting congressional leaders, a lunch with leadership, is a substitute for the affirmative vote of both Houses of Congress. It is time for us to stand up and say, No, Mr. President, you actually have to follow the law.

Obviously, this amendment is even more apropos to the Defense appropriations bill, but we will be dealing with that weeks from now. The President has been violating the War Powers Act for many weeks. It is time to act today.

Now, if we put this amendment only on the Defense appropriations bill and don’t put it on this bill, then we invite the administration to try to figure out clever accounting ways to use the billions of dollars provided to the Defense Department in this bill to carry out operations in Libya. We should not invite a loophole hunt. We should put the same restriction on both of the bills that fund the Defense Department.

Now, if we can pass the amendment, the President will, I hope, request an authorization from Congress to take action in Libya, and he will have to accept an authorization that will, I expect, be limited in time and scope. Perhaps it will say that only our forces and not ground forces can be committed. Perhaps it will require renewal every 3 or 6 months. There may be conditions on funding sources. For example, perhaps we use some of the $33 billion that Qaddafi was stupid enough to leave in the United States in ways that we could find and that we have frozen rather than use taxpayer dollars.

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD — HOUSE

H4059

Congress will ask some tough questions. And we may put some conditions requiring certain action also by the Benghazi transitional government. We would ask why the Benghazi government has refused to disassociate itself from the al Qaeda fighters and the Libyan Islamic Fighting Group. They are in their midst and why they will not remove from that transitional government those that have American blood on their hands from Iraq and Afghanistan.

This is not just the issue of an aggrandizing President. It is also the issue of a derelict Congress. Continuing military action in Libya should be conducted only consistent with American law. If Congress habitually appropriates funds knowing that those funds will be used to violate the law of the land, then we are complicit in undermining democracy and the rule of law in the United States. The question is not democracy and the rule of law in Libya, but democracy and the rule of law in the United States.

The Acting CHAIR. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Mr. CULBERSON. Mr. Chairman, I rise in support of the amendment.

Mr. CULBERSON. Mr. Chairman, I rise in support of the gentleman's amendment, and I will happily accept it, because it is evident that the administration is directly involved as a partner in the defense of the War Powers Act, that we are directly involved in the defense of the War Powers Act, and I urge the House to adopt Mr. SHERMAN's amendment.

I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. AMASH. Mr. Chairman, I have an amendment to a point of order. The Acting CHAIR. Pursuant to clause 6 of rule XVIII, further proceedings on the amendment offered by the gentleman from California will be postponed.

AMENDMENT NO. 5 OFFERED BY MR. AMASH

Mr. AMASH. Mr. Chairman, I have an amendment that the amendment takes.

The Acting CHAIR. The Clerk will designate the amendment.

The text of the amendment is as follows:

At the end of the bill (before the short title), add the following:

SEC. ___. None of the funds made available in this Act may be used for a project or program named for an individual serving as a Senator in the United States Senate or as the President of the United States.

Mr. CULBERSON. Mr. Chairman, I reserve a point of order on the gentleman's amendment.

The Acting CHAIR. A point of order is reserved.

The gentleman from Michigan is recognized for 5 minutes on his amendment.

Mr. AMASH. Mr. Chairman, at the start of this Congress, the House made important changes to the way the administration spends our money. Under the leadership of the President, we began by ending earmarks. Americans understood that the practice favored Representatives' pet projects while the taxpayer was left to foot the bill. Earmarks diverted our constituents' hard-earned money to low-priority projects and, even worse, appeared corrupt. Americans started to lose confidence in their government when they saw their Representatives using public funds for personal gain.

In a similar vein, this Congress continued last Congress' prohibition on "monuments to me". Like earmarks, when House Members name Federal programs and buildings after themselves, Americans can't be sure whether the programs are funded because they are worthwhile or because they benefit a House Member personally.

The appropriations bill we are considering today has a prohibition on "monuments to me" that mirrors the House rules and bans naming programs and buildings after current House Members. My amendment extends that same prohibition to current Senators and the President.

Ending "monuments to me" is an important step to preventing the waste of taxpayer dollars and to ensuring that our appropriations are in the best interests of the public, not the personal interests of elected representatives. I ask you to support my amendment.

I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. FLORES. Mr. Chairman, I have an amendment that the amendment takes.

At the end of the short title, add the following:

SEC. ___. None of the funds made available in this Act may be used to name anything after our- selves. It is important that we as Members of Congress don't spend any money to name anything after ourselves and it is inappropriate. It just ought not be done.

I know that my colleague from Texas (Mr. McCaul) has also been working on this to prevent the use of taxpayer funds from being spent on monuments named for taxpayer expenses to Members of Congress that are still living. This rule is in place for the House of Representatives. It ought to be in place for the Senate and the President of the United States.

Unfortunatel, the gentleman's amendment imposes a duty on Federal agencies in violation of clause 2 of rule X, so I regret reluctantly I have to raise a point of order against the gentleman's amendment in that it proposes to change existing law, Mr. Chairman, and therefore constitutes legislation in an appropriations bill in violation of clause 2 of rule X, and that the amendment seeks to impose additional duties on a Federal agency or entity.

I ask for a ruling from the Chair.

The Acting CHAIR. Does any other Member wish to be heard on the point of order? If not, the Chair will rule.

The Chair finds that this amendment includes language requiring a new determination by the relevant executive branch official of the current membership of a body in the legislative branch. The amendment therefore constitutes legislation in violation of clause 2 of rule X.

The point of order is sustained and the amendment is not in order.

AMENDMENT OFFERED BY MR. FLORES

Mr. FLORES. Mr. Chairman, I have an amendment at the desk.

The Acting CHAIR. The Clerk will report the amendment.

The Clerk read as follows:

At the end of the bill (before the short title), add the following new section:

Sec. 4. None of the funds made available by this Act shall be available to enforce section 536 of the Energy Independence and

The Acting CHAIR. The gentleman from Texas is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. FLORES. Mr. Chairman, my amendment is quite simple. During the 110th Congress there was a section added to the Energy Independence and Security Act that bans Federal agencies from entering into contracts for procurement of alternative fuel sources unless the “lifecycle greenhouse gas emissions” are lower than or equal to such emissions from an equivalent conventional fuel produced from conventional petroleum sources. This amendment would simply prohibit the government from enforcing this ban on Federal agencies funded by the underlying bill.

I was not yet in Congress when the Energy Independence and Security Act was considered, but section 526 raises concerns over national security, economic security, and it creates bureaucratic uncertainty. Section 526 was added to this bill to stifle the Defense Department’s plans to buy and develop coal-based—or “coal-to-liquids”—jet fuels. Environmentalists argue that this coal-based fuel will ultimately produce greenhouse gases and is more expensive than traditional petroleum-based fuels. One goal of alternative fuels is to reduce our dependence on foreign oil, while the administration has used our tax dollars and its influence in the International Monetary Fund to attempt to prop up and support Brazilian exploration for oil and gas, discouraging American development of oil and gas.

We have been blessed by the good Lord with extraordinary resources. We have, apparently, the world’s largest supply of shale gas, shale oil. Yet the administration is doing everything in their power to prevent us from even finding or locating additional shale oil or gas. The administration is doing everything in their power to prevent us from drilling in the Gulf of Mexico, which we’ve done for decades cleanly, safely, economically.

We could create hundreds and hundreds of thousands of high-paying jobs in the United States if the administration would simply get out of the way and let Texans run Texas, and let the Gulf States and the Department of Energy and the Department of the Interior use their ingenuity to do what they do best—produce domestic oil and gas cleanly and safely. The jobs that are produced in the Gulf of Mexico in the energy industry across the United States are safe, high-paying, high-quality jobs that the economy and the people of America desperately need.

Mr. FLORES has brought a very important amendment to the floor which would expand the use of petroleum derived from coal. The United States is blessed with abundant amounts of coal. This Federal law, section 526 of the Energy Independence and Security Act, discourages the production of liquefied gas or fuel from coal—and that’s a vital part of our energy future. We understand, as constitutional conservatives, as the new majority in the House, that the United States needs to continue to invest in alternative technologies for the future. We are all in support of finding new ways to generate electricity to move the United States into the next era of energy beyond petroleum. But in the meantime, in the short term, we need to drill here and drill now. We need to use every available resource that the good Lord has given us with has given us in this way that’s obviously clean, safe, environmentally friendly. We’ve done it in Texas for years.

Mr. FLORES has extensive experience in the energy industry. I’m proud to represent the energy corridor of Texas. Houston is to the energy industry what California and Silicon Valley are to the computer industry. We’ve proven time and time again that we can produce oil and gas safely, cleanly. We desperately need to open up drilling in the Gulf. This bill is a nonstarter. It would have systematically shut down drilling in the Gulf of Mexico, which increases our dependence on foreign oil, while American businesses, but they are now potentially causing significant harm to the readiness of the Armed Forces. The Defense Department should not be wasting its time studying fuel emissions and should not have to be stifled by the arguments over how to interpret a small section of an energy law. This is an unacceptable precedent set in regard to America’s energy policy.
of his or her medical records to ensure information isn’t lost in transitioning between the two systems. When severely injured patients are released and transferred from Walter Reed to the VA center at Mountain Home in Johnson City, Tennessee, all the information that these severely injured transfers can be terribly difficult to access. That shouldn’t be the case.

This is why I support Chairman Culberson’s report language, which recommends that the Department of Veterans Affairs set aside $70 million of the overall $3.25 billion in the Information Technology account for the Virtual Lifetime Electronic Medical Record system. I would, in fact, like to strengthen this language by putting it in the underlining bill to ensure this money gets spent on integration.

The VA and DOD maintain the two largest health care systems in the Nation, providing health care to 6 million veterans and to over 1.5 million active duty members. Within the VA alone, there are over 1,500 different facilities that provide care to veterans. To provide this care, the DOD and VA both rely on electronic health record systems to create, maintain, and manage patient health information; but the two agencies for years have operated different systems that can’t talk to each other.

Let me give you an example: Ten billion dollars has been spent. A soldier leaves the military, and his records can’t be transferred electronically to the VA. I had someone in my office just before I walked over here on the House floor who showed where an electronic medical records system would have prevented the delay in treatment of a veteran.

This general lack of cooperation between the two Departments has occurred for years at the collective cost of billions of dollars. I first became aware of this issue when I arrived in Congress and didn’t realize it had been worked on for years.

I applaud the Appropriations Committee for highlighting the need for the VLER in its committee report, and I think this language should be put in the bill to ensure the VA spends the money for this purpose. A lifetime electronic health record system would improve the delivery of care to service members who are transitioning from military to civilian life.

As a physician myself, I know the importance of having an organized and efficient electronic medical records systems. In fact, I helped put an electronic medical records system in my office for over 70 providers and tens of thousands of patients. I do understand the difficulties, and I know how hard it is to be done, but I know the importance of it. I hope the committee will adopt this amendment and work on strengthening it in the final bill to ensure this goes to the VA that this integration be a priority.

Mr. DICKS. Will the gentleman yield?

Mr. ROE of Tennessee. I yield to the gentleman from Washington.

Mr. DICKS. We are trying to vote on the Fiores amendment. Could you have waited until we had voted on the amendment to make your 5-minute speech? This is totally irrelevant to this debate.

Mr. ROE of Tennessee. I apologize to the gentleman. I yield back the balance of my time.

The Acting CHAIR. The question is on the amendment offered by Mr. Flores from Texas.

AMENDMENT OFFERED BY MR. COFFMAN OF COLORADO

Mr. COFFMAN of Colorado. Mr. Chairman, I have an amendment at the desk.

The Acting CHAIR. The Clerk will report the amendment.

The Clerk reads as follows:

At the end of the bill (before the short title) insert the following:

SEC. None of the funds made available in this Act may be used to by the Secretary of Veterans Affairs to provide disability compensation under chapter 11 of title 38, United States Code, to any veteran for post-traumatic stress disorder if the required in-service stressor claimed by the veteran is related to the veteran’s fear of hostile military or terrorist activity and the places, types, and circumstances of the veteran’s service did not include a combat zone.

Mr. CULBERSON. Mr. Chairman, I reserve a point of order on the gentleman’s amendment.

The Acting CHAIR. The amendment is in order.

The gentleman from Colorado is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. COFFMAN of Colorado. Mr. Chairman, I stand with the American people in wanting to make sure that our returning servicemembers from Iraq and Afghanistan are taken care of.

The signature wound in this war has emerged to be post-traumatic stress disorders. Since 2008, almost 100,000 people in wanting to make sure that the servicemembers who operate on the ground side of your UAV example. We’re merely talking about disability compensation. I probably disagree with you, as a combat veteran myself, on the ground side of your UAV example.

I realize that the amendment is out of order because of the fact that it really does not have a definition in the artful drafting of the amendment to reflect terrorist activity that would be beyond a combat zone. Again, certainly, treatment would be available. We’re not talking about that. We’re merely talking about disability compensation. I probably disagree with you, as a combat veteran myself, on the ground side of your UAV example.

Mr. ROE of Tennessee. All points of order are over.

Mr. COFFMAN of Colorado. Mr. Chairman, I stand with the American people in wanting to make sure that our returning servicemembers from Iraq and Afghanistan are taken care of.

Mr. COFFMAN of Colorado. Reclaiming my time, the chairman has raised a similar issue. I certainly agree with the gentleman from Georgia as well as with the gentleman from Texas—to come up with a definition that makes sure that we take care of those veterans who are most in need.

Mr. BISHOP of Georgia. Mr. Chairman, I ask unanimous consent to withdraw my amendment.

The Acting CHAIR. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Colorado?

There was no objection.

AMENDMENT OFFERED BY MR. FITZPATRICK

Mr. FITZPATRICK. Mr. Chairman, I have an amendment at the desk.

Mr. COFFMAN of Colorado. I yield to the gentleman.

Mr. BISHOP of Georgia. I thank the gentleman for yielding.

I certainly can appreciate the concerns that the gentleman raises that those who were present who experienced that awful situation, under this amendment, it would prevent the veterans and servicemembers, once they’re discharged, from being able to take advantage of the benefits of the Department of Veterans Affairs because they were at Fort Hood as opposed to Afghanistan or Iraq or in some other place of hostility.

Also, I would remind the gentleman that the servicemembers who operate our unmanned aerial vehicles, such as the Predator, which has great capability for causing destruction in war—it’s one of our great weapons—actually can see on video, in realtime, the death and the destruction and the dismemberment that is caused by the utilization of that, although they’re in Nevada, and we’re actually making its impact in Afghanistan. Of course, because of that, they would be disqualified.

Under this amendment, I think the gentleman’s point is well taken in wanting to make sure that only those people who are entitled to veterans benefits in fact get them, but I think that perhaps there are some problems in the artful drafting of the amendment, which should be clarified. Because of that, I am reluctant to support it, and of course must oppose this amendment.

Mr. COFFMAN of Colorado. Reclaiming my time, the chairman has raised a similar issue. I certainly agree with the gentleman from Georgia as well as with the gentleman from Texas—to come up with a definition that makes sure that we take care of those veterans who are most in need.

Mr. BISHOP of Georgia. Mr. Chairman, I ask unanimous consent to withdraw my amendment.

The Acting CHAIR. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Colorado?

There was no objection.
The Acting CHAIR. The gentleman from Pennsylvania is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. FITZPATRICK. Mr. Chairman, I rise to offer an amendment that would level the playing field for our Nation’s veterans when it comes to contracting with the Federal Government.

After putting their lives on the line and at times their families and careers on hold in service of our Nation, America’s veterans deserve every consideration we can give them to adjust to life once they return. Veteran-owned small businesses are part of the American fabric; and as a government and a people, we must do all we can to encourage them.

Here are a few facts: According to the most recent census, over 2.4 million of our Nation’s veterans are now small business owners. Veteran-owned companies now make up 8 percent of all U.S. firms. The Small Business Administration now estimates that one in seven veterans are self-employed or a small business owner. And, finally, nearly a quarter of veterans say they’re interested in starting or in buying a small business.

Despite these encouraging numbers, the truth of the matter is veterans are unemployed at a higher level than any of us find acceptable. For instance, the unemployment rate for young veterans returning from Afghanistan and Iraq reached a staggering 22 percent last year. Mr. Chairman, this number is simply unacceptable. We must work to reduce this number, and it should be the explicit stated policy of all government agencies to assist veteran entrepreneurs.

As our Nation struggles to achieve an economic recovery, we should be looking to utilize the talent, expertise, and leadership skills of our Nation’s veterans. These men and women volunteered to selflessly serve our country and, in order to succeed, must display self-discipline and leadership. It is characteristics and character traits like these that should be nurtured and fostered to help our economy grow again and put people back to work.

Veterans have served our Nation nobly across the world. Now, their innovation and expertise can help lead our American recovery. Ultimately, we must all be focused on putting our constituents back to work, and I believe, Mr. Chairman, that this amendment will help to do that.

This amendment will give veteran-owned small businesses preferences for contracts in this bill equal to any group eligible for preferred consideration, except for service-disabled veteran-owned small businesses. The practice of the Federal Government providing federal government to do business with certain groups is well established. This amendment does not diminish preferences to any other group. It simply extends to veteran-owned small businesses the same level of consideration.

The amendment would apply to all Federal contracts authorized by the Military Construction and Veterans Affairs Act and would be attached to any portion of State and local projects funded with Federal dollars.

To preserve the integrity of the program, small businesses are considered those defined by the Small Business Administration, and eligible businesses must be registered veteran-owned businesses. The VA’s Center for Veteran Enterprise maintains a database of certified registered veteran-owned businesses. In many cases, this amendment will simply be codifying existing practice and ensure that it will continue to be the case for our Nation.

Mr. Chairman, veterans have sacrificed much for our Nation. It is only fair that, if any group is given preferential contracting status, that veterans receive it as well. I urge my colleagues to support this amendment.

I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. CULBERSON. I rise in support of the gentleman’s amendment.

The Acting CHAIR. The gentleman from Texas is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. CULBERSON. I want to express the committee’s strong support for the gentleman’s amendment.

We are all in agreement that the Nation needs to look first to attempt to hire our veterans who have served this Nation, to attempt to encourage the businesses that are developed and built by veterans to thrive and to prosper; and the gentleman’s amendment is a great way to encourage veteran-owned businesses.

We should, in the work the Federal Government contracts out, do everything we can to encourage the development of, and hiring of, small businesses owned and operated by veterans; and we strongly support the gentleman’s amendment and urge its adoption.

I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. BISHOP of Georgia. I move to strike the last word.

The Acting CHAIR. The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. BISHOP of Georgia. I move to strike the last word.

The Acting CHAIR. The gentleman is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. BISHOP of Georgia. I rise to engage in a colloquy with the gentleman from Texas.

Mr. Chairman, the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. FITZPATRICK) brought a matter to our attention that is very, very important and significant, and I think it’s appropriate that we ought to at least examine that in the form of a other legislation, some authorizing legislation that I think the chairman, Mr. CULBERSON, and I, along with Mr. DICKS and Mr. YOUNG and many, many others, on a bipartisan basis, have often called the Hiring Heroes Act, which basically supports our veterans, as they come back to make sure that they can be gainfully employed and that they are duly allowed to participate in the economy, to work and to engage in gainful employment.

I think that this amendment, as far as small businesses go, is a very, very good amendment. As veterans preferences, is very well taken, and I think that we ought to do that, as well as everything else we can possibly do, to make sure that the transition from full-time active service to the civilian population of our country on the part of our veterans is fully supported by this Congress and by the people of the United States.

With that, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. DICKS. I rise in support of the gentleman’s amendment. Veteran-owned companies are a great asset that we should be further encouraging. These businesses obviously play a positive role in the economy by providing not only jobs, goods, and services, but also are reducing unemployment amongst veterans who are already struggling with the unemployment rate greater than that of the general populace.

Furthermore, the government has done poorly in reaching its 3 percent contracting goal for veterans. For example, agencies’ contract awards were below 1 percent from 2003 to 2006. The most recent figures for 2009 show agencies awarded only 1.98 percent to service-disabled veterans. We must do more to ensure that our veterans are transitioning from soldiers to civilians and we are actively encouraging new opportunities for vets.

I believe this amendment will help the Department of Defense and VA to do better. I support this amendment and urge its adoption.

I yield back the balance of my time.

The Acting CHAIR. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. FITZPATRICK).

Mr. Chairman, the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. FITZPATRICK) brought a matter to our attention that is very, very important and significant, and I think it’s appropriate that we ought to at least examine that in the form of a colloquy here on the floor as we consider this Military Construction, Veterans Affairs, and Related Agencies appropriations bill.

Mr. Chairman, many veterans have returned home from Iraq and Afghanistan with severe disabilities; and when their disabilities cause them to lose a guide dog, we have a duty to help them. And one way that veterans receive this help is through the use of guide dogs. Now, the way the process works, veterans are assessed and they’re trained for orientation and mobility. If a veteran needs a guide dog, information on how to contact guide dog schools is provided. Essentially, the veteran is referred to a nonprofit. There’s no funding provided directly from the VA to these nonprofits; and with the costs associated with training these dogs, it takes time to raise the money which, in turn, causes a backlog for veterans, as well as for nonveterans.

Mr. CULBERSON. Will the ranking member yield?

Mr. BISHOP of Georgia. I yield to the chairman of the subcommittee.

Mr. CULBERSON. Mr. Bishop, the gentleman from Pennsylvania has raised a very important matter that we need to look into in the subcommittee as we move into conference. And I want to reassure the gentleman from Pennsylvania that the subcommittee and I will work diligently with him to look further into this issue to find ways that we can help make sure that the veterans who need guide dogs and service dogs get them.

Mr. BISHOP of Georgia. I am sure, Mr. Chairman, that Mr. FATTAH and other Members will be very, very appreciative of you. We thank you for your comments, and we look forward to working with all of our colleagues to support our veterans and their families.

Mr. DICKS. Will the gentleman yield?

Mr. BISHOP of Georgia. I would be delighted to yield to the gentleman from California.

Mr. DICKS. I just want to mention a program called Pets for Patriots. I happened to have attended an event just about a week ago where there is a national organization being created to get pets for our returning veterans and especially for those of whom have very serious injuries. So I think there is a real need for this, and I think it’s been demonstrated. And I commend Mr. FATTAH for his diligence and for your help in raising this issue.

Mr. BISHOP of Georgia. Thank you very much for that, Mr. Chairman.

I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. CULBERSON. Mr. Chairman, I move that the Committee do now rise. The motion was agreed to.

Accordingly, the Committee rose; and the Speaker pro tempore (Mr. FITZPATRICK) having assumed the chair, Mr. MCCLINTOCK, Acting Chair of the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union, reported that the Committee had considered the bill (H.R. 2055) making appropriations for military construction, the Department of Veterans Affairs, and related agencies for the fiscal year ending September 30, 2012, and for other purposes, had come to no resolution thereon.

Mr. CULBerson. Mr. Chairman, I move that the Committee do now rise and report the bill back to the House with aye amendments adopted in the Committee of the Whole, with the recommendation that the amendments be agreed to and that the bill, as amended, do pass.

The motion was agreed to.

Accordingly, the Committee rose; and the Speaker pro tempore (Mr. BASS of New Hampshire) having assumed the chair, Mr. WESTMORELAND, Acting Chair of the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union, reported that that Committee, having had under consideration the bill (H.R. 2055) making appropriations for military construction, the Department of Veterans Affairs, and related agencies for the fiscal year ending September 30, 2012, and for other purposes, reported the bill back to the House with aye amendments adopted in the Committee of the Whole, with the recommendation that the amendments be agreed to and that the bill, as amended, do pass.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under section 2(a) of House Resolution 228, the question is ordered.

Ms. FOXX. Mr. Speaker, I demand a recorded vote.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. A recorded vote was ordered.

The result of the vote was announced as follows.

The amendments were agreed to.

The SPEAKER pro tempore announced that the ayes appeared to have it.

So the question was decided in the affirmative, and title II of the bill was retained.

The roll of the vote was announced above as recorded.

PERSONAL EXPLANATION

Ms. Lee. Mr. Speaker, I was unable to cast my votes this evening. Had I been present to cast my votes, I would have voted ‘aye’ on the amendment offered by Mr. LATOURETTE and ‘yes’ on the amendment offered by Mr. SHEARMAN. I would have voted ‘no’ on the amendment offered by Mr. AMASH, and finally I would have voted ‘yes’ on retaining title II, the Department of Veterans Affairs.

PERSONAL EXPLANATION

Ms. SLAGHTER. Mr. Speaker, I was unavoidably detained on official business and missed rollcall vote Nos. 413, 414, 415 and 416. Had I been present, I would have voted ‘aye’ on rollcall vote No. 413, ‘nay’ on rollcall Vote No. 414, ‘aye’ on rollcall vote No. 415, and ‘no’ on rollcall vote No. 416. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that my statement appear in the permanent RECORD immediately after the vote.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 1(c) of rule XIX, further consideration of H.R. 2055 is postponed.

REMOVAL OF NAME OF MEMBER AS COSPONSOR OF H.R. 1380

Mr. BUCSHON. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to have my name removed as a cosponsor to H.R. 1380.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Indiana?

There was no objection.

REPORT ON RESOLUTION PROVING FOR CONSIDERATION OF H.R. 2112, AGRICULTURE, RURAL DEVELOPMENT, FOOD AND DRUG ADMINISTRATION, AND RELATED AGENCIES APPROPRIATIONS ACT, 2012

Mr. SESSIONS, from the Committee on Rules, submitted a privileged report (Rept. No. 112-103) on the resolution (H.
Res. 300) providing for consideration of the bill (H.R. 2112) making appropriations for Agriculture, Rural Development, Food and Drug Administration, and Related Agencies programs for the fiscal year ending September 30, 2012, and for other purposes, which was referred to the House Calendar and ordered to be printed.

REMOVAL OF NAME OF MEMBER AS COSPONSOR OF H.R. 1380

Mr. COFFMAN of Colorado. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to have my name removed from H.R. 1380.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Colorado?

There was no objection.

POLITICAL IED IN IRAQ

(Mr. COFFMAN of Colorado, Mr. Speaker, having just returned from Iraq with other Members serving in the military, we further met with Prime Minister Maliki. We discussed the killing of the 35 freedom-seeking Iranian dissidents at Camp Ashraf by Iraqi authorities. The United States has turned over the protection of these people who oppose Iranian dictator Ahmadinejad to Iraq. The Prime Minister’s candid position was that the dissidents were responsible for their own deaths and the Iraqi Government was not to be blamed for their recent demise.

Upon requesting that we wished to visit the camp to hear from the people who actually saw what happened, you would have thought a political IED had gone off. The Prime Minister curtly rejected that request. In an effort to fairly get at the truth, the statements from the ones actually present at the homicides was important. It is disturbing that the Prime Minister refused us access to the Iranian dissidents he promised the United States he would protect.

What does the Iraqi Government have to hide? Maybe the truth. Meanwhile, 35 innocent people are dead and hundreds of others are wounded by this new “free” democracy in Iraq.

And that’s just the way it is.

CREATING JOBS IN AMERICA

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. FLORES). Under the Speaker’s announced policy of January 5, 2011, the gentleman from Arkansas (Mr. GRIFFIN) is recognized for 60 minutes as the designee of the majority leader.

Mr. GRIFFIN of Arkansas. Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues to join me in congratulating each member of the 2011 NBA Championship Dallas Mavericks for their very many victories, but their very first championship, the champions of our community.

Mr. POE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, having just returned from Iraq with other Members serving in the military, we further met with Prime Minister Maliki. We discussed the killing of the 35 freedom-seeking Iranian dissidents at Camp Ashraf by Iraqi authorities. The United States has turned over the protection of these people who oppose Iranian dictator Ahmadinejad to Iraq. The Prime Minister’s candid position was that the dissidents were responsible for their own deaths and the Iraqi Government was not to be blamed for their recent demise.

CONGRATULATING DALLAS MAVERICKS ON WINNING 2011 NATIONAL BASKETBALL ASSOCIATION CHAMPIONSHIP

(Ms. EDDIE BERNICE JOHNSON of Texas asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Ms. EDDIE BERNICE JOHNSON of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize the Dallas Mavericks on winning the 2011 National Basketball Association Championship. This is the organization’s first NBA world championship title, and I congratulate the team owner, Mark Cuban, Coach Rick Carlisle, his staff, and the entire Mavericks organization on this great accomplishment. I also congratulate the team’s captain, Dirk Nowitzki, on being named the recipient of the NBA Finals Most Valuable Player Award, so much deserved.

The Mavericks also display a strong commitment to the Dallas community through its foundation. The Dallas Mavericks Foundation is dedicated to inspiring and motivating our youth to take their education seriously and to strive for high bodies and minds. Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues to join me in congratulating each member of the 2011 NBA Championship Dallas Mavericks for their very many victories, but their very first championship, the champions of our community.
having a field day with businesses coming over to them. You have our friends in Texas and in the South, like my friend from Arkansas, that are begging folks to come over and bring their businesses from Illinois. In fact, The Wall Street Journal came out with an article that said while Illinois has raised $300 million in receipts from this tax increase, they have given away $240 million just to keep businesses there that were leaving because of the tax increase. When we even contemplate in these halls increasing taxes on job creators again.

Debt, doubt, and despair and big bloated bureaucracy is in our future right now. It doesn’t need to be. Our future is the future of America that when you remember your parents and grandparents working hard, that is what we are going to be again.

The situation we are in is not fun. The situation we are in right now is very difficult. It is going to take a lot of hard work. It is going to take tough proposals. We put forward a budget plan to begin to get us out of the deficit and balance the budget. But you know what we got from the other side of the aisle, as my colleagues can attest to, is just demonization. No, not an alternative that we can take our budget and their budget and try to come up and meet in the middle somewhere that the American people want. They want both sides to talk and come to a conclusion. But we didn’t get that. We got television commercials. We got attempts to frighten senior citizens. We got politics as usual.

I wish I could give you his Greek accent, wish I could give you his new facility? He said, JAIME—I mean, I wish I could give you his Greek accent, wish I could see Louisiana as the greatest country in the world, We will continue to maintain our role as the greatest country in the world. Never accept second best.

We have a problem with rising health care costs. We have a problem with our debt and the deficits that we run year after year after year. We have a problem with too much government regulation—which stifles job creation. We have a problem with our Tax Code. If you’re talking about our business Tax Code and business taxes, we have a problem there. Why? Because it’s hard to compete with other countries when you’ve got the highest corporate tax rate in the world.

It’s not about whether you like big business or small business. It’s about job creators. And our Tax Code discourages job creation. If you’re talking about individual income tax, we’ve got a problem there, too. We’ve got one of the most complicated Tax Codes.

So what have we done about it here in the House? Well, on all of these counts we have acted. We have acted. And we have legislation that addresses the jobs issue, our spending issue, Medicare, the Tax Code, over-regulation. This is what we’ve been doing day in and day out since we got here.

And I would like to yield to some of my friends. Before I do, I would just like to say this: we’re the only one here. Where’s the Senate’s plan? Where’s the President’s plan?

So as we discuss here tonight, I just ask you all to think about where other plan that we can compare ours to. There’s not one. In fact, a former Democratic National Committee chair who’s running for Senate now in Virginia, Tim Kaine, said today, It’s a pretty bad deal when the Senate hasn’t even passed a budget. The U.S. Senate doesn’t have a plan. The President doesn’t have a plan. This House has a plan. And we’re working hard every day to execute it and implement it.

I would like to yield now to the gentlelady from Washington.

Ms. HERRERA BEUTLER. Thank you. I appreciate my friend’s work here on the floor.

I just came back from a week in my home district in southwest Washington. It’s a tremendous place. It’s where I grew up. Some of my fondest memories are in and around southwest Washington, whether it was lakes or the beaches. I made my first job at the Vancouver Mall. It’s not even called the Vancouver Mall anymore. I had a lot of opportunities—a lot of opportunities that I am very worried the next generation of Washingtonians are not to have. And let me tell you why. Our unemploy-you give us some predictability, quit raising our taxes, get the EPA off our backs. We all want to protect our way of life, but what’s happening right now is small business owners, the job creators, are being squeezed. And why?

I was reflecting on it’s true neither the Senate nor the President has put forward a really strong governing jobs agenda this year. When we got to meet with the President a couple of weeks ago, he pointed to some of the bills that have passed since last year, and some of the plans. If I reflect on the $700 billion-plus bailout or the $800 billion stimulus or the health care bill that was over a trillion dollars, one would think if we spent that kind of money, we would have the jobs to show for it.

But where are the jobs? I just read you the unemployment numbers for southwest Washington State. They have actually not gone up in tremendous rise. So, clearly, borrowing and spending more has, at the very least, a negligible impact. We can do better. We have to do better. The way we do that—stop bailing out big corporations, banks, auto dealers. Right? Stop spending more money.

Fact: I had some job creators in my office a couple of weeks ago, and they were asking for more investment. And I asked them about the stimulus—the $800 billion stimulus bill that the President and the Democrats here voted on and passed last year—how much that had actually stimulated job creation. You know what they told me? Less than 3 percent of that number actually went to build roads. Remember the shovel-ready hurrah that was talked about? We’re passing this because you promised us that that—stop bailing out big corporations, banks, auto dealers. Right? Stop spending more money.

Where is the rest of that money? My good friend Mr. Griffith, who comes from Colorado. He’s probably a lot of people who are around 6 o’clock back home, and there are probably a lot of people who are just now coming home from work or raising their taxes, get the EPA off our backs. We all want to protect our way of life, but what’s happening right now is small business owners, the job creators, are being squeezed. And why?

on our Senate to pass those bills and the President to sign them into law. They’re saying thousands and thousands of jobs could be created here in America if we simply take advantage of the resources in our backyards. That will do several things. It will drive development, it will help the private sector, it will hit every family and every small business here in the next several months. That’s one immediate step we can take, in addition to cutting back overspending. That’s a jobs production bill.

We could also make sure that we allow for some predictability. With these Federal regulations that are coming out, small business owners call me regularly, and say, Good grief. I just barely get one rule under order, and you’re sending me five new ones. I can’t keep up.

Here is the difference. Small businesses, small business owners, they can’t just hire someone who is not being productive and just dedicate that person’s time to going through Federal regulations. Maybe a big corporation could, one which can retain lots of lobbyists. But that’s not the job creation. True Value Hardware on Main Street in Ridgefield, both the owners actually work the store, so they can’t just waste money to jump through government regulations and government hoops. It has got to stop.

Last year, the EPA released 900 new regulations—900. Do you know what the EPA acting director for the water department told us on the Transportation Committee just 2 or 3 months ago? She basically said she didn’t have to take into account any of those regulations and their impact on our economy. That wasn’t her concern. I’m sorry. Since when does the government put forward regulations and rules and then say, “We don’t have any concern for what that’s going to do to the economy”? That’s why we’re in the mess we’re in now.

We can change it. We can take some steps to bring oversight to these regulatory agencies. Man, they’re just going crazy. We’re going to work to streamline those, and we’re going to do it now because House Republicans believe and understand that job creators and job growth occur in the private sector when individuals and entrepreneurs have the freedom to grow and to develop, not when they’re hampered, not when their wrists are tied, not when they’re told, You have to jump through these hoops just to sell your product or just to hire someone. It has got to stop, which is why we’re putting forward and why House Republicans are proud to put forward bills that are either going to pull back some of these regulations or streamline them, reform them or allow for more American job growth here in the United States.

So I appreciate that, and I look forward to hearing what my other colleagues have to say about this pro-growth agenda.

Mr. GRIFFIN of Arkansas. Thank you.

Before I yield to my colleagues, I would like to just go through the plan that the House Republicans have put together that certainly includes addressing the debt, that certainly includes addressing our spending. It’s a plan that we believe will help get us on the right fiscal path and help this country—the private sector—create jobs. There is much, much more to what we’re trying to do here in the House to encourage the private sector and job creation, and I’d like to run through some of those.

As I indicated, certainly we need to deal with the debt. That’s why we talk about reforming Medicare and saving Medicare for those on it and saving it for the next generation. We talk about that a lot because that directly relates to our debt, and we have to get our debt under control if we’re going to have the type of job growth that we are accustomed to in this country: job growth based on technological advancement and innovation. So dealing with the debt is a critical component of encouraging private sector job creation.

Yet, there are other parts to our plan, which include increasing energy development, maximizing energy production. We have passed numerous bills here in the House that will encourage drilling in the gulf and that will encourage more energy development, maximizing energy production and become energy independent. It’s not just a jobs issue. It’s a national security issue.

There is also the issue of the Tax Code that I referred to earlier. We can’t be competitive in this country if we don’t reform the way we tax individuals and the way we tax businesses. Ultimately, when businesses decide to land somewhere, they look and they consider the tax code, the tax questions. Unfortunately, we have created an environment in this country that runs business off. We want businesses to look around the world and say, The United States is where I want to create jobs. That’s the only place for me. In order to do that, we’ve got to make sure that we have rules in place that encourage private sector job creation.

I’d now like to yield to my colleague from Colorado.

Mr. GRIFFIN. I thank the gentleman from Arkansas for organizing tonight’s conversation with the American people about what our plan for job creation is all about and how we’re going to, once again, restore the greatness of this country by getting American back to work, by creating an economy for job creators.

The gentle lady from Washington reminded me of my visits throughout my district this past week in eastern Colorado and northern Colorado, Colorado’s Fourth Congressional District. It’s around 6 o’clock back home, and there are probably a lot of people who are just now coming home from work or who are about to get off work. They're worried about how they're going to continue to pay for their daughter's education, how they're going to make ends meet, what they're going to do to afford that car payment.

As the person here tonight will assure them that we have a plan for jobs, that we have voted on our plan for jobs and that we will continue to pursue policies to create jobs in this country, not because they're created by government but because we get people out of the way and allow the private sector to flourish.

This last week in Colorado, I met with a number of businesses. I toured a number of businesses in northern and eastern Colorado, and I had the opportunity to talk to the leadership of those companies and to the people who work on the lines in the factories. I was struck by one statement, one statement by an individual who said, it's time that we let loose the innovators and the entrepreneurs in America.

What are we doing to let loose the innovators and the entrepreneurs in this great country? I know that the Republicans have been trying to make sure that we're reducing regulations, to make sure that we have an energy policy that, instead of strangling the American working family, helps the American working family and that opens up our resources. We can do so in an environmentally responsible manner. We have done it, and we will continue to do it. We will continue to pursue tax policies that are fair and that don't chase businesses overseas but that allow those jobs to be created right here.

Another business owner in my State gave me a call last year, and said, You know what? My number one competitor just moved to Ireland, and I'm left with a choice. I can either stay here in Colorado and pay 30 percent more in taxes than they do or I can go overseas and find another place to do business and take those jobs with me.

That's not the kind of choice that we ought to be presenting in this country to the men and women who create business in the United States. Instead of deciding where to go, the question they ought to be asking is, How much can we grow right here in the U.S.? Among these factories that I toured and of the manufacturing plants that I toured, I spoke with one employee who came up to me and said, I'm just glad this business is located in Colorado. I'm glad they chose Colorado.

It wasn't that long ago that I was a State legislator. I remember one of the debates that we were dealing with was a particular regulation that many small businesses were struggling with. They were trying to figure out whether or not they could survive under that regulation. While the debate in the Colorado State legislature was taking place on whether or not this regulation was good for job creation or not, there was an advertisement on one of the State's largest radio stations from our neighbor to the north, the great State of Wyoming. Their Chamber of Commerce and one of their municipalities said, Come to Wyoming, a business friendly place. They should do that because Colorado was forcing a regulation on its business owners that was going to put the men and women of our State out of business. They saw an opportunity. They said, Come to us. We'll take your jobs. We'll take your businesses. You can do it right here, and you'll be better for it.

That's not the kind of policy I want for Colorado, and that's not the kind of policy I want for the United States. The policy of this country should be this:

We will make sure our government gets out of your way to let you do what you do best—run your businesses, your families, and your communities. We're not going to foster policies that force you to make a decision to go overseas because of an arbitrary decision in our Tax Code or a regulatory scheme that says, Don't do business here because we're going to make it too tough on you to do business.

Our plan for jobs in the 112th Congress is clear. Unfortunately, on the other side of the aisle, my colleagues in the Democratic side seem to have labeled themselves the "kick the can down the road" tour.

It is the kick the can down the road tour because they're not going to present solutions for Medicare. They're not going to present solutions to solve our energy crisis. They're not going to present solutions to solve our debt and deficit, but no, they're going to pass it on to the next generation. They're going to kick the can down the road and say, You know what? If you're 50 or 55, we're going to go ahead and put the burden all on you, all on you.

That is not fair for this country. That is debt, doubt, and despair, as my colleague from Illinois just a few minutes ago so eloquently stated. Debt, doubt, and despair, I haven't heard a campaign theme of debt, doubt, and despair, but that is certainly what they are running on.

We can do better, and I'm glad to be part of the 112th Congress and the Republican majority that has said we will create jobs in this country, we will get back to economic opportunity, and we will start by taking care of future generations, and that work begins today.

I thank the gentleman from Arkansas for his time.

Mrs. GRIFFIN of Arkansas. Thank you to the gentleman from Colorado.

I now yield to the gentlelady from Alabama.

Mrs. ROBY. I appreciate my colleagues from Arkansas for giving us the opportunity to talk about this most important issue, which is jobs.

It is the number one issue here, and what I see and we've all testified to tonight is that, as we travel throughout our districts, the number one thing that we hear from business owners all throughout the United States is the heavy hand of government has created so much uncertainty that the private sector, even those who have the ability to create new jobs, are not doing so because they're fearful. They don't know what the Federal Government is going to do to them next, and this is so evident by the recent unemployment numbers that have come out.

In the first day that this administration took office through the end of April of this year, the economy has lost 2.5 million jobs. That is an average of 304,000 jobs every single day. And unfortunately, and just to talk about the 112th Congress from Washington's unemployment numbers, those numbers aren't even necessarily correct, because the rate is so much higher because so many job seekers are giving up and they are leaving the labor force.

I traveled, like you all did, throughout my district this week, and I found myself at Rand Manufacturing, and they manufacture water heaters. It's a household name. They have over 1,000 jobs in the city of Montgomery, and they brought me into a room that was used for research and development for their company, but it was an addition, a $1 million addition to their headquarters which is already over 700,000 square feet, but $1 million that they had to invest due to regulation alone. This is not a research and development facility to further their products. This is to keep up with the government regulations that they have to comply with.

How in the world can we expect the private sector to invest in job creation when every dime they have is going toward complying with government regulation? Companies in the United States of America are hitting the brakes on needed products, and they're shipping back to the U.S. factory sector, the engine of our recovery, it had its biggest 1-month slowdown since 1984, and they showed private sector hiring dropped drastically.

You know, I'm a mom. I have two children, Margaret and George, who you hear me talk about often, and a lot of Members have their children up here who I talk to this week with. And as I look around the floor and I see these young people who think this is what we're doing. And as was so eloquently said, it has to be about the future generation and not the next election. And when I look into my children's eyes, I am reminded about how important it is that we do all we can, which is what we are. We're leading. We're doing all we can to lift this heavy hand of government. And when I go to the grocery store and when I'm at the gas pump, we see it. We feel it. We know exactly what is going on. hard and see it through, you can succeed in this country, and in pursuing this promise, entrepreneurs also play a critical role in expanding our economy and creating jobs. That was President Obama in January of 2011. The Obama administration has done nothing to encourage job creation. They have been obstructionists, causing uncertainty, this growing uncertainty with this overreaching regulation. Economic growth has been stifled.

House Republicans have taken steps to reduce uncertainty by approving all the legislation that the gentleman from Arkansas talked about to decrease spending for the rest of the year, and we adopted a budget that will cut nearly $6 trillion over the course of the next 10 years.

Our friends on the other side of the aisle have done nothing to demonstrate their commitment to private job growth in this country. Increased spending, misguided attacks on the budget process, raising the debt without deficit reduction, and burdensome regulations—this is the plan being offered by the other side of the aisle, and this is not what the American people sent us here to Washington to do.

I ask the President and my Democrat colleagues to let us make sure that entrepreneurs continue to embody the promise of America. Enough is enough. More taxation, regulation, and litigation do not create more jobs in this country.

America is certainly at a crossroads. We have an opportunity here, and House Republicans are committed to taking every possible step to spur job creation and get our economy back on track so that Americans can do what they do best, that is, create and innovate and lead.

I again thank the gentleman from Arkansas.

Mr. GRIFFIN of Arkansas. Thank you to the gentlelady from Alabama.

You know, when I think about where we are in this country in terms of unemployment and I think about what we can do to encourage job creation, it’s clear to me that we can fix this problem. This is something that is possible.

Sometimes I feel like this administration’s solution to the unemployment problem is to go around and beg the private sector to invest, to beg the private sector to create jobs. That doesn’t work.

There’s a reason that folks in the private sector who have money to invest are not investing. They’re sitting on the sidelines. Why? Well, it’s a lot like investing in your own family situation.

You want to be careful with your money. You’ve got a certain amount of money to invest. You want to invest it in something that’s safe. You want to invest it in something where there’s certainty. You certainly don’t want to take a bet that you have, this limited amount of money, and just gamble it on something risky. You want to make sure that what you’re putting your money into is going to pay dividends.

And so what you have is you have a lot of businesses in this country who have money to invest but they’re uncertain. We’ve heard that word “uncertainty” tonight. Well, it is not just a business uncertainty. If you don’t know what’s going to happen, job creators, when they don’t know what’s going to happen, they hold on to that money and they say, Well, I better wait; I better wait until I know how things are going to shake out.

There’s certainly always going to be some sort of uncertainty. Are the crops going to get rain? Well, that’s not something we have control over. But do you want your government activism, policies that relate to the government activism, I said, What is the government activism? I am assuming you are not talking about some types of certainty and uncertainty we do have a control over, and it directly relates to policy.

Mr. GARDNER. Will the gentleman yield?

Mr. GRIFFIN from Arkansas. I yield to the gentleman from Colorado.

Mr. GARDNER. A group of us had the opportunity today to discuss with one of the Nation’s leading economists job creation and what’s happening to our businesses around the country. And he made the observation, he said, You know, there are a lot of businesses—exactly what you had said—there are a lot of businesses out there that have money on their rolls, but they’re not investing into our economy because of what he called and used the term “government activism,” policies that relate to government activism. I said, What is the government activism? I am assuming you are not talking about somebody going out from government with a picket sign. And he said, No, no, no. Government activism in terms of the policies that they are pursuing that caution, whether it’s a regulatory approach that is an activist approach that takes away the certainty business has for the tax structure, for business environment regulations. And the conversation you had was, If we could bring back certainty, if we could get this country back to a point where businesses know what’s ahead tomorrow, then they can plan, and they won’t be afraid to invest that money. They’ll start creating jobs now. That’s one of the Nation’s leading economists who said exactly what my colleague from Arkansas is saying tonight.

Mr. GRIFFIN of Arkansas. And I think the debt is directly related to the issue of certainty or uncertainty. If you are an investor and you want to start creating jobs now. That’s one of the Nation’s leading economists who said exactly what my colleague from Arkansas is saying tonight.

Mr. GARDNER. As the gentleman from Colorado was thinking through your comments here, I was thinking through your comments here. And the gentleman from Colorado was talking about the uncertainty in investment. Why would you invest when you saw someone just burning through cash? You know, there’s another reason that people wouldn’t invest, and I think of a company in my district, Longview Fibre.

In southwest Washington, we have tremendous resources in our timber, sawmills, Holden paper companies, just tremendous renewable resources. And one of those energy sources that people have seemed to research is the ability to, through biomass, create energy. This is a green source of energy.

Let’s talk about what uncertainty can do to a business. So in the last couple of years, the EPA has signaled—and then pulled back and then signaled—that they’re not going to count biomass as green. So a company takes considerable time, energy, effort, and resources to put in play a biomass facility. And then the EPA steps in and says, Oh, time out, it doesn’t matter how much money you have invested, it doesn’t matter how much time and resources you have invested, we don’t think that’s what’s going to count—and puts everything on hold.

Well, the EPA decided to stay its ruling for a little bit, meaning they’re not really sure whether biomass is green or not. In an environment like that, what company would take the time and the money and the energy and the resources to create a biomass facility? And for a moment there—let me explain. Biomass isn’t chipping whole, new, old-growth trees—I guess that would be old trees. It’s chips. It’s the bark. It’s not really fully using the resources of timber, right? It’s properly managing it.
longview fibre is in cowitz county. cowitz county is upwards in double-digit unemployment. these are good-paying, family wage jobs. this uncertainty is killing us. you know, another thing you mentioned—naturally, i think it was the gentleman from colorado who talked a little bit about business is not hiring and why.

i'm a member of the small business committee. and through testimony, i think it was about 2 weeks ago, we had a whole panel on—it had to do with health information technology. but interestingly, the gallup organization was represented there, and they do nightly surveys. on some of the questions that they had asked, it showed small businesses that small business owners were not hiring to capacity. in fact, there was about 40 percent more they could hire. so existing businesses could hire up to 40 percent more people if they weren't doing it. so, naturally, we asked why. why? in the answer, they didn't have the certainty to know whether or not they were going to have any kind of cash flow, or if they could make payroll if they did it. you know what was on the top of that list up there? health care costs.

our small business owners continue to be targeted by government-run health care schemes. and that's what they are. because if we want to talk health care, we can talk health care. we can talk compromise in health care because that's a passion of mine. but the schemes that were passed target, unfairly, these small businesses. now some are getting waivers. some are not getting waivers. shoot, why in the world are there more employees if you didn't know whether you are going to be targeted or not targeted? that's uncertainty, and it's got to stop.

it's time that we put people before politics. we think of the families who are at the pump, the moms who are trying to make ends meet, balance the checkbook, go get groceries, pick up the kids from school, make health care appointments. it's time we put them first, not ideas. it's time we put people before politics, and that's exactly what we have been doing and that's what we are going to continue to fight for here on this house floor.

mrs. roby. to add to that, again, the district work weeks, this new schedule that we have, which affords all of us more time with our constituents, which is so important for transparency and accountability to the people who would hire us here, who are making decisions for on their behalf, representing their interests. i can't tell you how many times in these meetings—just what you are saying—in preparation for full implementation of this health care law, we are seeing businesses sit around conference tables, throwing their hands up, having to spend lots and lots of dollars that could go toward creation of jobs. but they're spending all this money just trying to figure out how this law is going to affect them and their bottom line. and it is a huge travesty. and i'm sure that each of you have had similar situations. but we know that there are free-market solutions to driving down the costs of health care, and that law does nothing to do that, to increase competition and to drive down costs. but yet what we do see every time we sit down at the table with these business owners is, we see how the costs associated with implementing the law is killing them.

so i just wanted to add that to the table. and on behalf of the folks in alabama that i'm so grateful to have the opportunity to be here to represent, i want to make loud and clear enough about the plan that we have here in the majority of the house to do all that we can to untie the hands of our business owners so that we can get this country back on track.

mr. griffin of arkansas. thank you. you make some good points about health care. and one of the things that we have pursued here in the house is medical liability reform. and when we were meeting with the president at the white house, a little over a week ago, someone raised the issue of medical liability reform. he said, well, i'm for that. i'm for that.

it's one thing to say you're for it. it's another thing to advocate for this sort of legislation. we're going to send it over to the senate from here in the house, and we need the president to get engaged on this issue.

medical liability reform is one of many solutions, market-based solutions, that can help reduce the health care costs. and it's not enough for the president to say, well, i'm for that. the president said in the state of the union on the issue of business taxes, he understands that we're at a competitive disadvantage. he says he does. he says he would like to see us be more competitive with regard to business taxes. but no action, nothing, no leadership on the issue of business taxes.

if he wants to talk about competitiveness, let's talk about competitiveness. let's talk about having a tax structure that welcomes job creators, not repels them.

if he wants to talk about competitiveness, let's talk about trade agreements. let's talk about having a tax structure that welcomes job creators, not repels them.

mr. president, opportunity lost.

we've been waiting. we've got three trade agreements that are pending for full implementation of this health care law, we are seeing businesses sit around conference tables, throwing their hands up, having to spend lots and lots of dollars that could go toward creation of jobs. but they're spending all this money just trying to figure out how this law is going to affect them and their bottom line. and it is a huge travesty. and i'm sure that each of you have had similar situations. but we know that there are free-market solutions to driving down the costs of health care, and that law does nothing to do that, to increase competition and to drive down costs. but yet what we do see every time we sit down at the table with these business owners is, we see how the costs associated with implementing the law is killing them.

mr. gardner. i thank the gentleman from arkansas. and i too have heard the president talk about his desire to increase trade and the exports of this country. in fact, i believe i've heard the statistic quoted, something to the effect that if we could increase trade in this nation by exports by 1 percent, we'd create tens of thousands of jobs.

we talk about what we're going to do to get this country moving forward again, how we're going to get this economy back, and there is a perfect example of what we can do, not only for arkansas, but for this country. the goods that we produce, to share them with the world, to make not just u.s. consumers, but world consumers of the excellence in manufacturing that this country used to have, can be, still ought to be and should be into the future.

and so again, i think you talk about the opportunities that we have missed. the other night we came to the floor, and there was a group talking about making it in america. well, you know what we need to make it in america? we need a business environment that fosters job growth. we need a tax policy that doesn't penalize people for choosing to work in the united states. to make it in america we need an energy policy that doesn't force people to pay $60, $70 every time they fill up a tank of gas just to get to work. to make it in america we need regulations that are pro-business, not anti-business, that are pro-business.

to make it in america we need a government that actually represents the american working families, not just bureaucracy. that's what we need to make it in america. and when it comes to trade agreements, i believe that we can and we ought to make it in america, and we can sell it abroad.

mr. griffin of arkansas. you make a good point. it's not just happenstance that we don't have a good manufacturing base. you don't just happen to make it in this country. when a country has a good manufacturing base, it's not just happenstance that we can and we ought to make it in america. well, you know what we need to do? we need a tax policy that actually represents the american working families, not just bureaucracy. that's what we need to make it in america. and when it comes to trade agreements, i believe that we can and we ought to make it in america, and we can sell it abroad.

they've changed their tune. I'm going back home. I want businesses, job creators around the world to say, that's the country where I want to create jobs because it's the best place to do business.

And we, the policies that we adopt here, the regulations that the administration puts forth, it all has an impact. It's not happenstance. It's by design. So we need to make sure that we're doing the things here that encourage the private sector job growth.

Mr. HERRERA BEUTLER. And I couldn't agree more. I was just sitting here reflecting on the number of people who come up and talk to me in my district in southwest Washington about how hard it is to find work, how hard it is to find a good paying family-wage job.

I mentioned timber resources. In our neck of the woods we traditionally have had just a booming timber economy, resource-based economy; and a lot of those operations have either shut down or moved elsewhere to be more competitive.

We've got to allow job growth. I mean, it sounds simple. It really does. You know, once upon a time our country had the amount of spending that we see happening right now was actually in the lead up to World War II. And I've talked a lot about cutting and reducing government overspending and government growth. It needs to be done. In the last year, we call that discretionary spending, the money that has to be appropriated annually has increased by over 80 percent. Federal employment has increased by 10 percent in about that same time. So government spending has grown. And people are saying that the way to—not “people”—my colleagues on the other side of the aisle and the President are saying that the reason we have stagnant job opportunities is because we haven't spent enough.

Well, I listed earlier the stimulus, the bailouts, the auto bailouts, the health care bill, all this spending that's taken place; and we're still where we are now. And people say, well, it happened during World War II; we spent a ton of money and then coming out of that we grew jobs. The difference, the big difference was coming out of World War II, the last time our debt to GDP ratio was near where it is now, the difference was, and the thing that moved us was the tax cuts and spending. Right?

We cut government spending back, but we grew jobs. We literally made things here in America. You know why? We had an environment that fostered job creation. We had an environment that cultivated entrepreneurs. We grew jobs here in America because we made things here. We produced things.

Again, in southwest Washington we had a roaring timber industry that has all but shut down, and the sad thing is if you don't manage the health of a forest, it deteriorates. Some of these folks who are here in these bureaucratic offices in Washington, D.C. I swear have never stepped foot in a real forest. They think you just tie a big ribbon around it and don't let anybody in or out, and that's how we protect our environment. They're wrong. You see, they think that our environment and our economy are mutually exclusive.

Man, that is such a low opinion of American researchers. That really must say that we don't think we can, our citizens, our people are intelligent enough to come up with new and innovative ways to both manage our timber and our timber economy and protect our environment.

So what we have now is shut off stands of trees ripe for beetle infestation, disease or worse, fire as we enter the summer seasons with a lot of dry foliage and underbrush. You know, it sure would be great if the EPA would have allowed some of those companies I mentioned in my district to create their biomass facilities, because then we could create jobs because we'd have a biomass facility up and running. We would be taking the remnants of trees. We wouldn't be taking full trees, but chips and bark, and using those in the biomass facility so we are creating green energy. We're fully utilizing a renewable resource, and we're creating jobs.

My goodness. That's a novel concept. We need to get there.

Mr. GRIFFIN of Arkansas. I thank the gentlelady. I yield to the gentleman from Colorado.

Mr. TIPTON. I thank the gentleman for yielding.

I just came back from our work week. I traveled better than 1,500 miles throughout Colorado. It was remarkable to me. At every one of our meetings, we found cities, counties, small businesses, people, talking about the opportunity to be able to get America back to work. But the problem, the obstacle that we are truly facing, it is not the American spirit but it is over-regulation coming out of Washington, D.C. Rather than being the stepping-stone, it has become a stumbling block, and we are going to be able to get this economy working and moving forward once again if we simply free up that American spirit.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The time of the gentleman from Arkansas has expired.

Mr. GRIFFIN of Arkansas. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TIPTON. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that my name be removed from H.R. 1380.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Colorado?

There was no objection.

The Senate met at 2 p.m. and was called to order by the Honorable Richard Blumenthal, a Senator from the State of Connecticut.

PRAYER
The Chaplain, Dr. Barry C. Black, offered the following prayer:

Let us pray.

Eternal Lord God, the center of our joy, Your word says You bless those who do not walk in the counsel of the ungodly. You also say that those who delight in Your word day and night are like fruitful trees planted by streams of water. Today, let Your word guide those who serve here on Capitol Hill. Infuse our Senators and their staffs with Your presence, power, and peace. Lord, make Your power available to them hour by hour so that they will have the physical, intellectual, emotional, and spiritual stamina to complete the duties of this day. And Lord, in the midst of the business of this day, allow them to experience Your peace that passes all understanding. We pray in Your gracious Name. Amen.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE
The Honorable Richard Blumenthal led the Pledge of Allegiance, as follows:

I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

APPOINTMENT OF ACTING PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE
The Presiding Officer. The clerk will please read a communication to the Senate from the President pro tempore (Mr. Inouye).

The legislative clerk read the following letter:

To the Senate:
Under the provisions of rule I, paragraph 3, of the Standing Rules of the Senate, I hereby appoint the Honorable Richard Blumenthal, a Senator from the State of Connecticut, to perform the duties of the Chair.

Daniel K. Inouye, President pro tempore.

Mr. Blumenthal thereupon assumed the chair as Acting President pro tempore.

RESERVATION OF LEADER TIME
The Acting President pro tempore. Under the previous order, the leadership time is reserved.

MORNING BUSINESS
The Acting President pro tempore. Under the previous order, the Senate will be in a period of morning business until 6 p.m., with Senators permitted to speak therein for up to 10 minutes each.

Mr. JOHANNS. Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The Acting President pro tempore. The clerk will call the roll.

Mr. THUNE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The Acting President pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. THUNE. I also ask unanimous consent I be allowed to enter into a colloquy with my colleague from Nebraska, Senator Johanns.

ETHANOL
Mr. THUNE. Mr. President, tomorrow the Senate will vote on a cloture motion that deals with an amendment that would do away with a tax provision that was enacted many years back by Congress but was extended just this last December. In fact, there were a whole series of tax extenders that were passed by the Congress in December of last year, but this particular one, the volumetric ethanol excise tax credit, was also extended. It was extended until the end of the year 2011. December 31 of this year is when it would expire with the amendment we will be voting on tomorrow—or at least the cloture motion we will be voting on is with regard to an amendment that would eliminate that now. There are a number of problems associated with that approach, one of which is this issue of economic certainty. We have lots of people across this country who have made investments. We have lots of jobs that are impacted by this industry. In fact, if you look, there are 294 plants, ethanol plants, in America today, spread across 29 States and on the order of about half a million jobs—all of which, I might add, are American jobs—you have half a million American jobs impacted by this industry. The ironic thing, too, is coming on the heels of an announcement last week that Venezuela, Libya, and Iran will block OPEC from producing more oil to relieve gasoline prices, we continue to be held more and more hostage every single day by our addiction to foreign oil.

We send $1 billion a day outside the United States to purchase foreign oil—$1 billion every single day to purchase foreign oil. The ethanol industry, which now represents about 10 percent of the fuel mix in this country, displaces 45 million barrels of oil every single year. That is the equivalent of $34 billion that we don’t send overseas—$34 million barrels of oil displaced every single year, $34 billion that we don’t have to spend purchasing foreign oil. So this is an issue that has a direct bearing on the issue of energy independence, the issue of continuing what I think is a very dangerous dependence on foreign sources of energy, foreign oil, and has a direct bearing as well on the price consumers pay at the pump. Clearly, if you took 10 percent of the fuel mix out of production or out of that mix, you would put an additional pressure on the price that currently is being paid by consumers.

In fact, there was a study done by Iowa State University that said, in 2010, if you took away the contribution ethanol makes to the fuel mix in the country today, you would see gasoline prices increase by 89 cents per gallon. When we are already facing $4 gasoline prices, it seems ironic that we would be looking at legislation and policy that would further drive up the cost of gasoline. We ought to look at ways we can reduce it, and this clearly would have the opposite effect.

A few weeks ago there was a proposal to put additional taxes on oil and gas or at least to change some gas policy with regard to oil and gas which many of us argued would add to the cost of gasoline in this country. It would essentially, in effect, be raising taxes on gasoline.

This proposal would have the same effect. It would increase the cost of energy and obviously impact many of the jobs to which I just alluded. It would also affect the common budgetary decision made by this Congress last December when we extended the VEETC, the volumetric ethanol excise credit, for another year. We have a lot of folks who made investments, you have people across the country whose livelihoods and jobs depend upon this, and I think it makes sense, when we put policy in place and we say it is going to be in place for a certain period of time, that that be honored.

Having said that, I have been working closely with my colleague from Nebraska and others of our colleagues on both sides of the aisle, Republicans and Democrats, on a proposal that would reform the VEETC and move us in a direction that puts us on a pathway or a trajectory into the future that will take greater advantage of this contribution that is being made by biofuels to our country’s energy independence and also phase out the VEETC tax credit but that does it in a way that will not impact and disrupt in a way that this would, where you say you are going to end this today. As I said, you have lots of people who made investment decisions based on current policy. You would change that policy immediately and abruptly, but that is not the right way or correct way to go about this. There is a better way. That is what my colleague from Nebraska and I have been working on. I hope my colleagues in the Senate will do the same thing and to disrupt this market and do tremendous harm to an industry that is contributing, in a significant way, to America’s move toward energy independence and is helping to keep gas prices lower than they would otherwise be, we have to deal with the amendment that will be offered tomorrow and the cloture motion that would get on that amendment. I hope my colleagues will defeat that cloture motion so we can work on a more responsible, reasonable way that phase out the VEETC and, in a responsible way, that would allow those who have made investments to be able to plan accordingly.

I would simply say, as we get into that debate tomorrow, this is an issue which has ramifications for our economy because of the price of fuel and the impact ethanol has on the price of fuel in this country. It has an impact on the old issue of energy independence and whether we are going to continue to be heavily dependent on foreign sources of oil. We import over $300 billion of oil; we have to import from other places around the world. Of course, it has implications as well for just the jobs that are created here at home, American jobs that could very well be lost if we made a decision in my view, that doing so would be very harmful for this industry and its ability to create jobs.

I have my colleague from Nebraska here as well this afternoon and I would welcome his thoughts on this subject and would welcome the contribution he makes to this discussion with him about the impact this industry has on his State of Nebraska—and not just the impact it has on Nebraska or South Dakota but the impact it has on this country by creating jobs, by lessening the dependence we have on foreign sources of energy, and by keeping gas prices at a more reasonable level than we would otherwise see if it were not for the contribution ethanol makes to our fuel mix.

I am also pleased to tell the Senator from Nebraska for his observations about this subject.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore, The Senator from Nebraska.

Mr. JOHANS, I wish to start out thanking my colleague from South Dakota. He has been a very reasoned voice on this issue, and he has brought forward some ideas that I believe are the right approach to dealing with ethanol. If you think about it, about 50 years ago, the atomic age was just entering into another part of the world. The more dramatic piece of that is that oftentimes the importation of that oil comes from parts of the world that do not share our philosophy, do not share our view of the world, are not democracies, and do everything they can to, in effect, fight against what we believe in. So not only are we dependent on foreign oil, we are dependent on a source of foreign oil that oftentimes is contrary to the values and beliefs of America.

One of these days, I think we are going to learn the lesson of that dependency, and we are going to alter our course. We are going to do a whole host of things that make sense: more drilling, more exploration, more nuclear power plants, as Senator LAMAR ALEXANDER has advocated for, and just everything on the list. It is all a piece of the puzzle.

A piece of that puzzle is also renewable fuels. It could be biodiesel, it could be ethanol, it could be cellulosic ethanol, which I championed when I was Secretary of Agriculture. Again, I think it is going to be a whole host of things.

Ten or twenty years ago, if I were on the Senate floor making those statements, many would have looked at me and said: Well, MIKE, that is just a pipedream. But as the Senator from South Dakota points out, 10 percent of our fuel in the United States is now ethanol—10 percent. It did displace $45 million barrels of oil last year. There is nothing else going on out there that has had that kind of impact. We can reasonably believe that $34 billion was kept in the U.S. economy. We often hear about this massive transfer of wealth that is occurring by us sending our hard-earned dollars to other parts of the world—again, parts of the world that do not share our values. In the creation of this product, we kept $34 billion here. At least one study indicates the average family saved $800 a year because of this. Our gas prices are about 89 cents lower per gallon than they otherwise would have been because of the savings to people who are out there trying to figure out how to pay for filling the tank.

Many years ago, when I was Governor of Nebraska, we took a long, hard look at our State. We wanted to know how we might best diversify our economy. Some of the things we did worked. I am very pleased to report our unemployment rate during this time never got over 5 percent. Today it is about 4.2 percent. We have been able to tell you we balanced the budget. We did not borrow money to do it. One of the things we did was we said: Look, ethanol is a piece of this puzzle in Nebraska, and so we actually created State programs to try to encourage the construction of ethanol plants.

I will tell you, at the time I was Governor, I thought maybe two plants would be built. Well, the marketplace responded and we built a number of plants. Today, Nebraska is the largest producer of ethanol. We have 24 plants in the State. Those 24 plants produce 2 billion gallons per year, $4 billion of capital investment. It directly employs 1,300 Nebraskans in high-quality jobs. It also does some great things for our livestock sector because our cattle industry—well, they buy the distiller grains. They have real value if you are feeding cattle, which we do a lot in our State.

I think we have recognized in Nebraska, and I think we would recognize across the country, that it is time to move to the next step when it comes to ethanol production. That is why I was pleased to sign on to Senator

Grassley's bill when he introduced it. I was also pleased to work with Senator Thune who has provided such excellent leadership in this area. Basically, what this plan does is: Let us take a thoughtful, measured approach. Let's not jeopardize our major industry's situation by having them pay higher fuel prices at the pump because we did something in a rash and hasty sort of way. It also helps to pay off some of the deficit. We are literally saying: OK, if we are going to make some changes, we make a contribution to deficit reduction.

Well, let me wrap up my comments and say: Senator Thune's approach is the right approach. It is an approach that says: Look, we are not going to take this industry, which has become such an important part of our energy strategy, and walk it off the cliff and just see how it lands. Instead, what we are going to do is, we are going to take a measured approach. We are going to build infrastructure necessary. We are going to add some money to reduce the deficit, and we are not going to jeopardize somebody's price at the pump. It is already expensive enough. I am very pleased to support that approach in that our colleagues will listen to this approach, get behind it, and support it because it is the right approach. It is the right approach for Nebraska, but it is the right approach for the country.

With that, I thank the Senator from South Dakota for his help. I yield the floor to him.

Mr. Thune. Mr. President, if I might just say to the Senator from Nebraska, because I am wondering if perhaps in his discussions with farmers and ranchers in his State—I am sure the issue which he alluded to, which I think is an important one, comes out—I wonder if other people around the country realize, when we make a gallon of ethanol, we lose a bushel of corn, which is a remarkable thing that we have gotten to, where the technology enables us to do that—where we produce 2.7 gallons of ethanol from a bushel of corn. We have almost 3 gallons of ethanol from a bushel of corn which goes into our fuel supply and represents about 10 percent of all the fuel we use. I wonder if a lot of people realize that one of the byproducts of that, as the Senator from Nebraska has mentioned, is something that is called dried distillers' grain. The DDGs, as we refer to it, is something that is then used to feed livestock.

Now, a lot of people think there is this whole crop debate about food versus fuel, but I don't think most Americans realize that only about 12 percent of our crop corn in this country actually ends up in foods. It is either consumed directly, such as corn chips, or indirectly, such as high fructose corn syrup. But one-third of the grain that goes into ethanol production comes from the second largest producer of ethanol. Yet, I could not get the E-85 unless we really went out and searched for it. What if we had a pump where I could literally pull up to it and dial it up to E-85 and put that in my vehicle? So it invests in the blender pumps. No. 2, it invests in the blender pumps. One of the challenges I had for a long time was with the flex-fuel vehicles. I believe we will see the day—and we are already seeing the day—where we will have a cellulosic product converted into ethanol.

Then, finally, $1 billion is added to deficit reduction. The ethanol industry is saying: Look, we agree we need to do our share. We agree we need to start on this process of phasing this out.

So I think the Senator from South Dakota has hit all the right points. It does not take this industry and drop it off the cliff. It is a thoughtful, measured approach to dealing with this issue.

Again, I thank the Senator from South Dakota for his leadership, and I yield to him.

Mr. Thune. Mr. President, in closing, I wish to, first of all, thank the Senator from Nebraska for joining us. He has a great wealth of experience, not only having grown up on a family farm in his early years but representing his State as a mayor, as a Governor, and then representing our Nation as the Secretary of Agriculture.

I recall working with him when he was the Secretary of Agriculture on a lot of these issues.

One of the things that strikes me about where we are today relative to what we were when the E-85 moratorium that has returned to the agricultural sector in our economy, to rural America. We can't say the biofuels industry has been solely responsible for that, but certainly a contributing factor. We have seen growth in the economy in the Midwest.

Again, what I would point out about this, which is so important for people to realize is that these are American jobs. This is our home-grown industry. We have either gone up in the United States or we are going to buy it from some foreign country. That is what we have been doing, and that is what we continue to do to the tune of $1 billion every single day. So to the degree we can advance domestic energy production in this country and add to the supply in this country, which is what biofuels does, it is for the American consumer and, obviously, good for America's economy and America's energy security. I think we can do a great deal more than what we currently have on foreign energy.

So the proposal the Senator from Nebraska is a cosponsor of and that he and I have worked together on and that we will file as a bill today will present an alternative to the approach that will be advanced, or that they will attempt to advance tomorrow, which is to just right now, in a very disruptive way, abruptly end something that we just voted on in December and that is in place. We have people who have made investments in it, and it has made a tremendous impact on jobs in this country.

The approach the Senator from Nebraska and I are advocating I believe is a reasoned approach. It is forward looking in the sense that it promotes the next generation of biofuels, advanced biofuels, and cellulosic ethanol. In the same way the Senator from Nebraska mentioned, it gets us to where we have more choices for American consumers when they come into a filling station by investing in some of the... pumps out there and giving consumers more choices.

Then, finally, as the Senator from Nebraska said, it also puts money toward the debt, toward deficit reduction, and phases out the tax credit that is available for use to ethanol producers in this country. If we are responsible and, as the Senator said, measured way of dealing with this, not the way that is being proposed by the vote we are going to have tomorrow.

So hopefully in 2012 we will join us in working in a constructive way to continue to grow this industry and do so in a way that creates jobs for Americans and lessens our dependence on foreign nations.

I yield the floor.

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT REVITALIZATION ACT OF 2011

Mr. KYL. Mr. President, I am going to talk about the basic underlying bill we are debating, not the amendment my colleagues have just been talking about. As a way of framing the discussion on this bill, I will cite some statistics that I think will help us understand the nature of our problem. Why not being the way that is being proposed by the vote we are going to have tomorrow. So hopefully in 2012 we will join us in working in a constructive way to continue to grow this industry and do so in a way that creates jobs for Americans and lessens our dependence on foreign nations.

I yield the floor.

PATENT REFORM

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I wanted to address the issue of patent reform. The Senate has already passed by an overwhelming majority. It is my understanding the House of Representatives is expecting to pass a patent reform bill the House wants, and in the process the House wants the Senate to agree very soon thereafter and do it without a formal conference.

I want my colleagues to understand why I hope the House-passed bill will contain a provision that was not in our Senate bill but passed unanimously out of the House Judiciary Committee.

The committee report recognized that the “need to modernize patent laws has found expression in the courts” but that “the courts are constrained in their decisions by the text of statutes at issue.” That is from the House committee report.

The House Judiciary Committee amendment that passed unanimously resulted from a recent Federal court case that had as its genesis the difficulty that the FDA—the Food and Drug Administration—and the patent office face when deciding how to calculate Hatch-Waxman deadlines. The Hatch-Waxman law was a compromise between drug patent holders and the generic manufacturers. Under the Waxman-Hatch law, once a patent holder obtains market approval, the patent holder has 60 days to request the patent office to restore the patent term—time lost because of the FDA’s long deliberating process eating up valuable patent rights.

That is the reason for the case I am talking about is 731 F. Supp. 2nd 470. The court case found:

the FDA treats submissions to the FDA received after its normal business hours differently than it treats communications from the agency after normal hours . . . when notice of FDA approval is sent after normal business hours, the combination of the patent term restoration day calculation and its new counting method effectively deprives applicants of a portion of the 60-day filing period that Congress expressly granted them . . . . an applicant could lose a substantial portion, if not all, of its time for filing a patent trademark extension application as a result of mistakes beyond its control . . . an interpretation that imposes such drastic consequences when the government erred could not be what Congress intended.

That is the end of the judge’s statement on why he ruled as he did in this particular case. Congress did not intend these drastic consequences that happen as a result of a difference between whether you are making an application to or an application from an agency. In other words, there should not be any difference. Congress did not intend the consequences that come from such a different application of the law. So the court clarified the law so when FDA sends a notice of approval after normal business hours, the 60-day period requesting patent restoration begins on the next business day. The House Judiciary Committee takes the court decision where common sense dictates: to protect all patent holders against losing patent extensions as a result of confused counting calculations.

I want to quote Ranking Member CONYERS of the House Judiciary Committee who sponsored the amendment and committee Chairman SMITH who supported Mr. CONYERS. Ranking Member JOHN CONYERS stated during markup that the amendment is needed to “move what amounts to a trap and would clarify the term ‘business day’ . . . . and so, our attempt here is to make the congressional effort at patent reform more clear, more efficient.”

Chairman LAMAR SMITH also advocated passage of this amendment during markup in the House Judiciary Committee. I will quote him.

I will recognize myself in support of the amendment. Now, the gentleman’s amendment—

Meaning the Conyers amendment—clarifies the counting rules that are imposed on patent holders who submit documents to the agency within statutory time limits. It has been established that the PTO has inconsistently applied these rules, which is not fair to various patent holders. The gentleman’s amendment tracks the recent court case decided in favor of a patent holder that originally applied for an extension 10 years ago. Under the amendment, if there are not scoring problems with this provision and I support it.

That is what Chairman LAMAR SMITH of the House Judiciary Committee said.

This is a commonsense amendment. It improves our patent system fairness through certainty and clarity, and I hope the House will leave that in their bill when it sends it over here to the Senate.

My interest in this amendment is because I opposed it 2 or 3 years ago when it was first brought up. Because of the different passage of this amendment and the different application of the 60-day rule is very unfair. As ranking member of the Senate Judiciary Committee, I want the House Judiciary Committee to know that several Republican and Democratic Senators have asked me to support the Conyers language as well.

I yield the floor and I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The clerk will call the roll.

Mr. BOOZMAN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

THE ECONOMY

Mr. BOOZMAN. Mr. President, the latest unemployment numbers indicate that nearly 106,000 Arkansans are unemployed. This 7.7 percent unemployment rate is higher than when the so-called stimulus passed that President Obama and Majority Leader Reid promised would produce jobs for hard-working Americans. Although this rate is below the national average, the numbers show that out-of-work Arkansans continue to struggle to find gainful employment.

What is more alarming is that the President and the majority here in the Senate are resisting real change and insisting on more of the same borrow, spend, and tax policies that have given us record unemployment and a sluggish economy.

In November, Americans gave a clear sign that job creation needs to be a priority. Unfortunately, the Senate majority and President Obama have failed to prove that this is one of the things on the agenda. Time and time again, the Senate and our President add to the uncertainty that is stifling job creation.

Commonsense legislation that would create the conditions for job growth is brought to the Senate because the Senate has more pressing issues. There is no excuse as to why the Chamber avoids voting on legislative and policy items that will provide real relief for the unemployed, such as the stalled free-trade agreements.

News reports pointed out over the past several weeks, the business in this body is progressing at a historically slow pace. As the Washington Post reported last week, “Quorum calls have taken up about a third of its time since January, according to the C-SPAN statistics.”

Americans are tired of the games. They need jobs, and it is our duty to help.

Linda from Mountain Home, AR, recently wrote to me asking the same thing millions of Americans want to know: “Where are the jobs?” She continued her e-mail asking what legislation Republicans introduced that will stimulate the economy and create jobs. I want to thank Linda for her letter and let her know my colleagues and I are on the side of the American worker, and that is evident by the legislation we have offered. These practical free-market ideas will put Americans back to work, and, like the millions of Americans who are looking for jobs, we are anxious to vote on them and approve these measures.

In February, we introduced the REINS Act, of which I am co-sponsor. Too often, Federal agencies overstep their boundaries and enact expensive mandates that strangle investment and job creation without congressional approval. This commonsense legislation provides a check and balance between Congress and the executive branch and allows business to focus on growth instead of how to comply with burdensome regulations.
This starts with making changes to unfunded mandates by the Environmental Protection Agency. Unnecessary and burdensome regulations imposed on our businesses cost money and cost jobs. EPA has put a target on America’s industrial, manufacturing, and agricultural job creators. Coal, air, clean water, and conservation are all very important, but the heavy-handed regulations coming from this EPA have little or nothing to do with cleaning up or clean water. We are witnessing a Federal bureaucratic power grab on behalf of a radical, job-destroying agenda. These regulations are making food more expensive, energy more expensive, and gasoline more expensive, and they are driving jobs out of our country. Our competitors are taking our jobs and emitting far more pollution into our atmosphere and oceans than we would here in the United States. Again, it is all pain and no gain. As the administration works to drive up the cost of energy, they seem to forget that a prosperous country is a country that can invest in conservation and protect the environment.

The President still wants to blame his predecessor for our sluggish economy. The blame game won’t help the President politically, and it won’t help turn our economy around. It is true that President Obama inherited a weak economy, but he made it worse. Before President Obama took office, the Federal government was carrying out many policies that distorted the market and contributed to the meltdown. In 2008, we were spending too much money and running severe deficits. Now our deficit is three times as big. Sadly, President Obama has made each of our economic problems worse.

I believe it is important to provide American businesses with an equal opportunity to compete and succeed while opening new markets for American products. I strongly believe that when presented with a level playing field, American businesses and workers can outperform any in the world in terms of quality and value.

With three pending trade agreements on the table waiting for approval, we are wasting precious time and resources at our disposal to open foreign markets to U.S. products. The lack of action on the Colombia, Panama, and South Korea agreements is concerning. I believe we need to move forward as quickly as possible to ratify these policies. American companies and their workers are losing market share and are being denied valuable business opportunities. That is why one of the first pieces of legislation I cosponsored as a Member of the Senate was S. Res. 20, legislation that urges this Chamber to consider and approve the pending free-trade agreements with these countries.

On multiple occasions, President Obama expressed support for the implementation of all of these trade agreements in order to reduce our Nation’s deficit and create American jobs for American workers. So far, there is still a failure to act on any of these agreements.

Americans deserve legislation that will promote job growth, but one of President Obama’s legislative cornerstones, the report of the onerous 1099 requirements, actually costs jobs. We were told ObamaCare would create 4 million jobs, but reality tells a different story.

According to the Congressional Budget Office, there will be 756,000 fewer jobs. This is bad for business. That is why we voted to eliminate the onerous 1099 reporting requirements included in this flawed legislation.

I will continue to fight for a full repeal of this law as we seek meaningful health care reform that provides quality, affordable access for all citizens based on free market principles. The simple truth is there are 14 million Americans out of work and millions more who have been forced into retirement or gave up looking for a job. These 14 million Americans are calling for our help, yet the majority and the administration continue to ignore their pleas.

We have a plan that is ready to move, and the practical free market ideas it is based upon will put Americans back to work. Let’s show Linda in Mountain Home and the millions of Americans looking for a job that we are working to change the direction our country is headed and be a job creator.

Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The clerk will call the roll.

THE PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. Coons). Without objection, it is so ordered.

THE ECONOMY

Mr. SESSIONS. Mr. President, I had the opportunity this morning to catch the CNBC program that had Jack Welch, former CEO of GE on, and I thought he made a number of valuable points. He is very worried about our economy. He believes we are facing serious troubles, and we need to take action to fix it. As a corporate leader of great renown, one of the more respected corporate leaders in America at this time, he evidenced a real frustration at the lack of leadership this administration is showing with regard to our financial crisis.

He said a number of things. One of them was classic leadership, classic thought by a manager, a man who has managed a very large corporation worldwide with many moving parts. He said we have to have strategy, and we have to have the right strategy, that is correct. I do not believe the American people sense that this country is able to articulated a serious strategy to confront the difficulties with which we are now dealing.

He said everything needs to go through a screen, and in his opinion the screen should be what our strategy is and our strategy should be, in general, to create and economy that is productive, innovative, that is about winning, creating jobs, creating wealth, creating prosperity, and everything ought to be judged by that.

One of the points he mentioned was doing great in America. We have all kinds of government agencies here, all kinds of regulations and a permitiorium, a blocking of the giving of permits, that has substantially reduced the ability of this Nation to produce oil and gas at home, a critical factor if we are going to be competitive and economically prosperous.

We need to quit buying so much abroad, sending wealth abroad, and keep it at home. He just threw that out as one of the things that would never work and that doesn’t make sense. Helping this country to be more prosperous and create jobs and growth, it does just the opposite. Yet in this massive government, we take contradictory actions, and as a result we are muddling ahead.

The economy under the American people are worried about it.

Last week was the sixth consecutive week that the stock market fell. We were told in January, when things were progressing, that everything was just dandy and that and that we are creating a lot of jobs; we are creating jobs, and the market is doing better. But in fact it is not moving very well. If we read the financial pages, we see that the people who spend their lives dealing with the economic threats we face are uneasy about our future.

Just read those articles in Barron’s that just came out over the weekend about the roundtable of worldwide economic experts. It was very troubling to me, perhaps one of them concerns about the future. Would we have a double dip? Some seem to say yes. The Presiding Officer, Mr. Coons, is on the Budget Committee and knows the numbers we are dealing with and has heard the testimony that Mr. Bowles, former Chief of Staff for President Clinton, and Alan Simpson, in their Fiscal Commission Report, said we are facing the most predictable crisis in our history, and it could cause economic difficulties for us soon. Mr. Bowles said 2 years, give or take. Not just for our grandchildren, but soon.

This is why the experts say we have a problem. I do not believe we have from the White House any call to the kind of action necessary to alter the unsustainable debt trajectory we are on.

I do not think the American people fully understand, but they understood enough to punish the Congress in this last election. I am afraid they are going to punish us again because no Congress can defend itself from the criticism that we have presided over a government that is borrowing 40 cents... of every dollar and spending $3.7 billion and taking in only $2.2 billion and borrowing the rest. We are on a path that does not alter that. The President’s budget is the most irresponsible ever submitted and would make our debt path worse rather than better, so I am worried about the manner in which Senator Reid announces: Well, it would be foolish to have a budget. Senator Reid said it would be foolish to have a budget, at a time when we have never faced a greater threat to the integrity of our economy could do as much harm to our Nation as it can today. We are heading to the wall at warp speed. It is a dangerous circumstance. But we can get off this path. We have to do some things that are not very pleasant, but not impossible, that are being done by mayors and county commissioners and Governors all over America and in countinents around the world. The British made some very substantial cuts to stand by that. We are in a systemic crisis that has to be confronted with serious decision making, and the President's budget comes nowhere close to doing that. So I offered it. The President's budget failed 97 to 0. Not one Democrat, Republican or Democrat, voted for that budget.

I think this is irresponsible. We have seen 775 days pass. We didn't have a budget last year. We didn't pass a single appropriations bill last year. Everything that is reasonable together. In this monumental CR we heard about, the continuing resolution. It is a totally ineffective method of governing this country and spending money. Congress ought to do its 12 appropriations bills properly every year. First, they should have a budget that tells all the committees how much money they have to spend and then they should pass the 12 appropriations bills. Each one should be brought up subject to amendment and voted on.

We have been in this irresponsible circumstance. My request is to our colleagues who are working either in the White House with the Vice President or whatever they are doing over there, the Gang of Six, whether or whatever they are doing—how about getting busy. How about let's see some numbers so we can get to work. I don't think it is going to be well received by Members of the Senate to have plopped down in our lap, on every one of some important issues, as the debt ceiling, a budget proposal that nobody has had a chance to study and that the American people don't know the details of. I thought that was one of the things we learned in the last election. I thought we learned the American people want transparency. They want accountability. They want to know what their representatives are doing, and they want to see them working in the light of day, not the dark of night. I think that if that is reasonable. That is the way our Congress was set up to work. That is what I wish to see.

I think it is time for these meetings to start wrapping up. I think it is time for us to start seeing some numbers. What are they going to do, wait for the last possible day to raise the debt ceiling and then wait in here with some sort of agreement we are all supposed to rubberstaple in a state of panic? I don't appreciate that. I don't think the American people will either. It is not good government. If they have a plan, let's start seeing what it is. Let's bring it up and let's start having a public discussion on it and vote on it. I think that is the right way to go about our business.

I am very concerned that we have gotten away from the regular order. I believe we have gotten away from our August responsibility to pass a budget, to decide openly and publicly how much we think we can spend how much we are going to tax, how much debt we are going to have. We ought to do that publicly and openly. I believe that will be held before the public and it will help the American people understand how deep a hole we are in. It is far deeper than most of us realize. I have looked at the numbers. They are very grim indeed. We need to get started sooner rather than later. I thank the Senator from West Virginia. I yield the floor, and I note the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The bill clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Ms. COLLINS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

ETHANOL

Ms. COLLINS. Mr. President, I am pleased to join with Senators COBURN and FEINSTEIN in offering an amendment to repeal the ethanol excise tax credit and the ethanol import tariff. These policies are fiscally irresponsible, environmentally unwise, and economically indefensible.

Historically, our government has helped a whole host of things in one of three ways: either we subsidize it, we protect it from competition, or we require its use. Right now, ethanol may be the only product receiving all three forms of support.

The ethanol tax credit is extraordinarily expensive. The Government Accountability Office has found that the tax credit costs American taxpayers a staggering $6 billion annually. This is quite a sum to prop up a fuel that is causing land conversion for corn production, commodity and food prices to rise, and is barely putting a dent in our Nation's dependence on foreign oil.

With our amendment, which has an effective date of July 1, we have the opportunity to immediately save American taxpayers nearly $3 billion in just the 6 months remaining in this year. The 2007 Energy Independence and Security Act requires the production of at least 36 billion gallons of biofuels in 2022, up from the original 2005 Energy Policy Act, which required 7.5 billion gallons by 2012. Collectively, the first generation biofuel industry will receive tens of billions in unnecessary subsidies through the year 2022.

If the ethanol industry is allowed to continue for 5 years, the Federal Treasury would pay oil companies at least $31 billion to use 69 billion gallons of corn-based ethanol that the Federal Renewable Fuels Standard already requires them to use. We simply cannot afford to pay the oil industry for following the law.

The data overwhelmingly demonstrates that the costs of the current ethanol subsidies and tariffs far outweigh their benefits. The Center for Agricultural and Rural Development at Iowa State University estimated that a 1-year extension of the ethanol subsidy and tariff would lead to only 427 additional direct domestic jobs at a cost of almost $6 billion. That is roughly $14 million of taxpayer money per job.

While expanding our capacity to generate alternative domestic fuel sources is an important step toward becoming less dependent on foreign oil, I have serious concerns about the effects of increased ethanol use. There are other alternative sources of energy that make far more sense.

The energy, agricultural, and automotive sectors are already struggling to adapt to the existing ethanol mandates. I am disappointed the Environmental Protection Agency has issued a partial waiver for the use of E-15, a blend of gasoline containing 15 percent ethanol. Many residents in my State have already experienced difficulties using gasoline blended with 10 percent ethanol, finding that it causes problems in older cars, snowmobiles, boats, lawn mowers, and off-the-road vehicles. The EPA's E-15 waiver fails to adequately protect against misfueling and will add unnecessary confusion at the gas pump for consumers. We simply cannot place so many engines in jeopardy.

These first-generation biofuel mandates also present environmental concerns, as they could result in energy efficiency losses and increased emissions of air pollutants because the mechanization failures can jeopardize the effectiveness of mission control devices and systems installed on engines.

In addition, over recent years, we have seen food and feed prices increase as crops have been diverted to first-generation biofuel production. I think of it this way: We should be raising crops for food, not for fuel.

Senate Homeland Security Committee chairman JOE LIEBERMAN and I held a series of hearings in 2008 that examined the impact of corn-based ethanol on food prices, and we found that it certainly had a negative impact. For one thing, crops that had been grown to support other grains were being converted to produce corn. The land was being switched to corn production, and the corn was no longer available for the products that used corn for food, but instead was being diverted to the production of ethanol.

The bottom line is that we can no longer ignore the cost of this policy to our Nation and its taxpayers, particularly given our current fiscal crisis. At a time when we are projecting a deficit, this year alone, of $1.5 trillion, why in the world are we spending $6 billion subsidizing ethanol? Subsidizing the blending of corn-based ethanol into gasoline is simply fiscally indefensible.

I urge my colleagues to join me in supporting the Coburn-Feinstein amendment to repeal the ethanol excise tax credit and to eliminate the ethanol import tariff.

I yield the floor.

Mr. ROCKEFELLER. Mr. President, in 1961 Senator Johnson envisioned an America that “rests on abundance and liberty for all.” It was against LBJ’s backdrop of the Great Society that we reignited a tradition of community. This was a little spilled ink of the space flight to the Moon and all of that, but the Nation somehow came together, and we sensed that we were a community and that we had a mutual obligation to each other, and that is at the very least characteristic of the American people, more than now. Programs such as VISTA, Peace Corps, Social Security, Medicare, and Medicaid were born in those few years, 1961 though 1964.

Sadly, nearly 50 years after LBJ’s war on poverty, we have witnessed vicious attempts to roll back government programs designed to give low-income Americans a hand up in life. I do not mean just low-income Americans but others as well. Programs, very important for Americans who qualify for both Medicare and Medicaid—such a difficult journey they have. What we want to do is not to give people a hand up but simply to be a safety net. That is what he said. That is what LBJ wanted people to feel—protected. That is true about defense, and that is true about social policy. We have responsibility, all of us, to do that, to make sure nobody is left out.

There is no question that we must reduce our deficit, and I have a whole series of ways that can be done in abundance, but we should not do so on the backs of working families still struggling under the weight of this recession. Oh, yes, we are in a recession, so everything that was true about people who were having a hard time before is a lot truer now. Yet bill after bill proposed by Republicans seeks to do exactly that.

The House Republican H.R. 1 was a direct attack on America’s working families and the successful education, job-training, and community development programs designed to combat poverty.

The Republican budget proposal for next year goes even further. It attacks Medicare and Medicaid, the health programs on which over 100 million American people rely—some more than others, but all have to have that as a safety net.

At a critical moment in our economic recovery, Republicans are more focused on settling old scores—evidently from health care reform and the bitterness of that fight—than they are on creating jobs or protecting people. The plan for getting the deficit under control amounts to an upside-down government. Instead of helping those who depend on government programs to support their families, the Republican plan would guarantee that millionaires, billionaires, and large corporations pay only 20 percent of their billions of dollars—to wit, $1 trillion under the new budget—in government subsidies, subsidies that will grow exponentially over time and substantially increase their benefit. They will do very, very well indeed were we to make the tragic mistake of accepting that.

Republicans are not for a fair or balanced approach to deficit reduction, and it is a great mystery to me. It is a quandary to me. I mean, you can say it is theological or whatever, you can make up all kinds of nasty political views of it, but nevertheless that is what it is. What they are there for is a government that only exists to support big business and wealthy Americans—kind of a perpetual TARP for their friends.

Well, I reject that notion, and the American people do too. In my estimation, there is no government program that more fully embodies our Nation’s tradition of community than Medicaid, our sense of mutual obligation. Some people are born wealthy. Some people are born poor. Some people are born in between. Some people are born wealthy and then become poor. Some people are born poor and then become wealthy. But while they are down, they have safety net, and it is called Medicaid. You don’t hear people talking about it very much, particularly, frankly—somewhat disappointedly—from my side of the aisle.

After almost 50 years, Medicaid is still a lifesaving part of what we do as a government, what we are meant to do as a government. Medicaid is simply too important to millions of people. Nationally, there were 68 million people enrolled in Medicaid in 2010—68 million children, seniors, people with disabilities, pregnant women. These are families who are living on the edge and barely making it. They now have a safety net, more efficient than any private insurance program in existence.

They have that. In West Virginia, there were over 402,000 people enrolled in 2008, 152,000 of those aged and disabled and 191,000 children. Almost 50 years later, Medicaid is still a lifesaving part of our Nation’s health care system. In West Virginia, Medicaid covers 50 percent of all births. That tells you something.

In our country, 40 percent of all births are taken care of by Medicaid. That says a lot.

Sixty-two percent of long-term care is Medicaid and, along with the Children’s Health Insurance Program it covers 34 percent of the children in our country. There are a lot of people who fought very hard over a number of years to get the Children’s Health Insurance Program that would insure children not just point eligible. Well, they are still getting it, but the House wants to get rid of that program altogether. That is 34 percent of the children in our country.

Medicaid provides an essential life-line to families during difficult economic times, when people lose jobs that have provided them health insurance.

Medicaid is the health care program that helps States during crises—not just people but States—including, obviously, the September 11 attacks, Hurricanes Katrina and Rita, the recent floods and tornadoes in the South and the Midwest—all being helped by Medicaid.

Medicaid is part of the fabric of our great Nation, and to be clear at this point, I need to say that the House bill that was passed by the House—and who voted for it and who did not obviously work much on record—would devastate Medicaid and government in general out of discretionary spending.

Anyway, people who are covered by Medicaid do matter. They are people. They are families. They have their needs, their wants, their ambitions, their dreams, their sadnesses, their depressions, whatever. Darren Hale, from Princeton, WV, wrote me.

I am a disabled West Virginian whose family relies on Medicaid. That may be a dual-eligible—you know, poor enough to be on Medicaid, old enough to be on Medicare, not able to survive simply on just one or the other.

I hope and pray that these health programs will not be ended or totally changed. Please do not support Republican changes to these programs as a way of cutting costs to the taxpayer. The poor of West Virginia and elsewhere should not and cannot bear the burden of the deficit reduction that Republicans want.

We need to think very seriously about our priorities. That is what this conversation really leads me to.

Let’s say I am a 10-year-old boy, and I am being brought up in West Virginia. My means are meager. I step out into a road, and I am hit by a car. I don’t die, but perhaps my spine is fractured—probably—legs broken, and I am condemned to a life in a wheelchair. That child would be protected by the private enterprise system. That child, unless they are an unusual child from a fairly wealthy family who then can provide insurance—but they will spend themselves down, with that insurance being so incredibly important, and they will eventually qualify for Medicaid.

You know, when you are hit by a car, that is not something you plan on. It is not something you failed to do because you did not have a work ethic or whatever the common wisdom would be about that. It is just something that happened. But the fact remains that your health care is cut, your life is changed, and it grows more miserable because you have nothing in the way of a safety net if the Republican budget is passed, if we get too aggressive about cutting Medicaid.

I am troubled. Members of Congress and senior advocates have rightfully rallied in staunch defense of Medicare, is there anyone in this chamber in Washington who rise up in anger when people talk about cutting Medicare. They are for Medicare. They know Sixty percent don't want Medicaid touched. The fact that it is a majority in Medicaid is amazing and wonderful to me. I just don't understand, Mr. President. I think it is political. I think people know that poor people and the disabled—I run into clusters of 30, 50, or 75 people in wheelchairs. They depend upon Medicaid. That is what they depend on. We see them in the Capitol. Do people stop to see them? Not particularly, no. They know them. They are not very good lobbyists. They cannot be because it is hard for them to get around. So is it political?

The Ryan budget cuts taxes on the wealthy, on big people and big deal corporations, by $4 trillion. But it cuts Medicaid. Is that an act of social conscience or budget wisdom, or is that a thought-through value system? Is it just political, basically because they know that poor people don't vote? That is what I think the answer is. You get worried about Medicare real fast. We saw the results. We saw the House back off from it. But Medicaid? Not so. And it won't be so unless people stand up for Medicaid because they don't have lobbyists; they cannot afford them. They don't even speak that much for themselves, I don't get as many letters as from others. They have a sense factor of 10. They have that life it has in for them. That is partly an Appalachian characteristic, and I think many other parts of the country. There is a certain fatalism in life—that God has a plan for you, and it is not necessarily very good. If people accept that—which I don't—as a theory, then they are not going to fight for what Lyndon Johnson gave to the Nation and passed overwhelmingly in 1965.

Cuts to Medicaid will also, to the pleasure of some, undermine the health care reform law that we just passed—which is still law. Medicaid is the underpinning of the entire coverage expansion of reform. We talk about 32 million people who are going to be covered. That goes way down, Mr. President, if these Medicaid cuts are made.

So I ask my colleagues, why is Medicaid so often treated like a second-class program? More to the point, why are people who are on Medicaid treated so often as second-class people? How does that work out? Is that a product of the American sense of justice, or is that a thoughtful America looking around them? We all have friends who have been on Medicaid, or are on it, and have made it out. Unfortunately, sometimes those people forget their Medicaid background and turn away from it because they are on to a new and better life. Somebody has to fight for these people.

Is it the feeling that maybe they are an unwanted burden on society? We have a tendency in America to say if you don't work, it is because you don't want to. If you don't have a decent job and you have a shabby home, it is because that is what you sought, not what was given to you in your, at least, destiny of the moment.

Again, I think, is it because most of the people enrolled are low-income people and half of all who have a friend or a family member that has received Medicaid assistance at some point, and they are absolutely worthy of our support.

Is it because we believe Medicaid spending is truly out of control? Then I remind colleagues that Medicaid costs per beneficiary grew much lower over the past decade than costs for any private health insurance coverage. The administrative costs in Medicaid are between 1 and 2 percent. An average of virtually every state, usually 10, 15, or 20 percent—and all of this despite the fact that Medicaid has more comprehensive benefits. They are much larger benefits that cover more. They do more for people, and significantly lower cost sharing.

I fervently believe the American tradition of shared responsibility—everybody working together for the greater good—has a tradition worth upholding and that a government must have a role to play in its preservation. It cannot play that role perfectly, but it can do it as best and most fairly as possible.

Instead of shortchanging Medicaid, we must have the courage to rein in tax breaks for corporate America and for people of great wealth. Medicaid does exactly what it was designed to do all those years ago: provide a safety net for low-income Americans. There are lots of worthwhile and positive ways we can improve the program. I grant you that. But trashing Medicaid, gutting Medicaid—especially if it is sort of flipping it aside for political gain—cannot be an option.

I want to point and yield the floor.

ETHANOL

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, tomorrow afternoon we will vote on Senator Coburn’s amendment dealing with ethanol.

I come to the floor at this time to express my strong opposition to that amendment. Senator Coburn’s amendment would raise the tax on domestic energy production. It would do this by repealing an incentive for the use of a home-grown renewable fuel called ethanol.

With conflicts in the Middle East and crude oil priced at $100 a barrel or more, we should be on the same side. Let me make that clear. We have Middle East problems. We have crude oil priced at over $100 a barrel. Oil interests and their interests if both are domestically produced, should be on the same side of the energy issue.

Why would anyone prefer less domestic energy production? In other words, why would anyone prefer importing more oil over domestically produced energy, whether it is fossil fuel or renewable? We should all be on the same side of more domestically produced energy.

The tremendous cost of America’s dependence upon foreign oil has never been more clear. I support drilling here and drilling now. I support renewable energy. I support conservation. I support nuclear energy. The reason I support different forms of energy and why we have to support more energy is that if we are going to have an expanding economy and create more jobs, we are obviously going to use more energy.

Remember, I included conservation in my energy program. So the attacks on domestic energy are quite a remarkable happening right now, when gasoline is $4 a gallon. We are spending $835 million a day imported oil. So whether it is oil or renewable energy, we should not be fighting each other over any source of domestic energy. We should be fighting together against OPEC and these foreign dictators and oil sheikls—some of them hate the United States—from holding our economy hostage.

The author of the amendment has argued that the production of clean, home-grown ethanol is fiscally irresponsible. It is important to remember that the incentive exists to help producers of ethanol compete with the oil industry—in other words, to have a level playing field for all forms of energy.

Remember, the oil industry has been well supported by the Federal Treasury for more than a century. The Senator from Oklahoma, the sponsor of the amendment, has touted with much fanfare a letter from oil companies that says they don’t need or want the credit. It is not that simple. It is a tax credit of the oil refineries are no longer in the business of downstream ethanol blending and, subsequently, do not pay the excise tax on gasoline and do not benefit from the credit.

Now, isn’t this going to be advocating repeal of something when you don’t benefit from it? It is even easier to advocate for repeal when doing so would undercut your competition.

It should not surprise anyone that the oil refineries and Big Oil are advocating a position that would reduce the competitiveness of renewable ethanol. Refiners enjoy a cozy monopoly on our Nation’s transportation fuel. They opposed the Renewable Fuels Standard because it cuts into their monopoly.

Alternatively, if the members of the National Petrochemical and Refiners Association say they don’t want or don’t need the credit, then it is pretty simple. It is a tax credit which they must apply for to the Internal Revenue Service. If they don’t want it and they don’t need it, they shouldn’t file for that credit with the Internal Revenue Service. I would be glad to work with Senator Coburn from Oklahoma in getting the members of the National Petrochemical and Refiners Association to return the credit to the Federal Treasury. No one is forcing them to take the credit. Since they seem eager to return it, perhaps Senator Coburn and I can work together to get them to return it.

If you like tight gasoline supplies and if you like $4 gasoline, join the campaign led by Big Oil and the National Petrochemical and Refiners Association. If you want less dependence on foreign oil and more use of home-grown, renewable fuels, support ethanol producers.

The fact is the portion of the industry that blends ethanol and sells it to the consumers supports maintaining this credit. The Society for Independent Gasoline Marketers of America, or SIGMA, recently wrote to the Senate majority leader and minority leader opposing efforts to prematurely and abruptly eliminate the blender’s credit:

On behalf of our client, the Society of Independent Gasoline Marketers of America, I write to you to oppose efforts in Congress to prematurely and abruptly eliminate the very credit that is the engine of growth. Increasing the tax paid on ethanol-blended gasoline makes no sense at a time when consumer fuel prices are already high and the need to maximize domestic energy sources is so very critical.

Very true at the time when gasoline is $4 a gallon.

SIGMA’s members account for 37 percent of the petroleum retail market. SIGMA works to promote competition in the marketplace to help keep consumer fuel costs down. This is contrary to the position of oil refiners who prefer no competition.

I have further words from that letter. This incentive has been an extremely useful tool in helping the Nation’s fuel marketers and chain retailers deliver fuels to the market at a competitive price.

By providing long-term price competitiveness for ethanol-blended fuels, VEETC also helps provide assurances to marketers and retailers that important infrastructure investments necessary to deliver these fuels will continue to provide returns, and not result in wasted improvements.

Simply put, SIGMA opposes recent moves to prematurely or abruptly end the subsidies without any consideration for future fuel and fuel-delivery costs.

To end this incentive immediately would no doubt result in an immediate spike in consumers’ fuel costs.

SIGMA believes that a policy that provides an effective transition for the industry from these two subsidies is better alternative to the slash and cut budget strategy being promoted by some Members of Congress.

I ask unanimous consent to have this letter printed in the RECORD at the conclusion of my remarks.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

(See exhibit 1.)

Mr. GRASSLEY. The Senator from Oklahoma also mentioned the total cost of the blender’s credit as a reason for supporting repeal of VEETC. He claimed the American people will have spent $32 billion on this credit over the past 30 years. That may be the case.

Again, I don’t believe we should be debating ethanol incentives by themselves or in a vacuum. For comparison’s sake, I wish to inform my colleagues of the cost and duration of a few oil subsidies.

The Senator from Oklahoma has decried the 30-year-old ethanol blender’s credit, arguing that the industry is mature. Well, what about our century-old oil industry? Don’t forget, oil was discovered in Pennsylvania in 1859. We haven’t had the incentives for that long, but according to the Government Accountability Office, the tax break allowing for the expensing of intangible drilling costs began in 1916, more than 95 years ago, and continues today. The percentage depletion allowance was enacted in 1926, 85 years ago, and it still exists today. After all, is the domestic oil industry not mature?

I know my colleagues will be interested in how much these two subsidies have cost the American people. A report issued by the General Accounting Office in the year 2000 looked at the subsidies for oil production. It reviewed the 32-year period between 1968 to 2000. During that timeframe, the intangible drilling subsides cost the American people as much as $52 billion. The percentage depletion subsidy cost the American people $82 billion. So these two provisions, enacted nearly a century ago, cost the American people as much as $134 billion through 2000. And this doesn’t even include the subsidies during the past 11 years.

Last month, we had a vote here in the Senate to repeal a number of these oil and gas tax provisions. Opponents of repealing oil and gas subsidies argued then, and I presume would argue today, that doing so would reduce domestic energy production and drive up our dependence on foreign oil. Opponents at that time also argued it would cost jobs and increase prices at the pump for consumers.

I happen to agree with those arguments. But if those arguments are good for oil, then they are good not just for ethanol but they are good for all sorts of green energy.

Prices at the pump are nearly $4 a gallon. All of our constituents are crying out for action to lower these prices, so it makes sense that Congress would consider steps to address the rising energy costs and work to drive down the cost to consumers at the pump.

That is not what the Coburn amendment would do. It would not drive down the price at the pump at all. It would very likely lead to higher prices for consumers. It won’t lead to the production of anymore energy. It won’t create anymore jobs. It very well could lead to less domestic energy production and less employment in the U.S. energy sector; in other words, more unemployment and more dependence on foreign sources of energy.

At a time of $4 gas and 9.1 percent unemployment, why would we in this body support an amendment that would increase the cost of energy production, reduce domestic energy supply, and lead to job losses?

Ethanol is reducing prices at the pump. A recent study by the Center for Agriculture and Rural Development found that ethanol is reducing the price at the pump by an average of 89 cents a gallon.

The fact is, this amendment is not about reducing prices at the pump. The amendment before us is not about reducing our dependence on foreign oil. This amendment is about raising taxes. And one thing is for certain: If you raise taxes on any activity, you get less of it. That is a common economic principle.

A taxpayer watchdog group considers a repeal of this tax incentive to be what it is, a tax hike. Americans for Tax Reform said, “Repealing the ethanol credit is a corporate income tax increase.” I agree.

Now is not the time to impose a gas tax hike on the American people. Now is not the time to send pink slips to ethanol-related jobs.

I know we all agree that we cannot and should not allow job-killing tax hikes during this time of economic uncertainty. What this Congress should be doing is increasing the domestic production of energy to increase jobs, increase domestic investment, and lower prices at the pump. This amendment does none of those things, and actually it does exactly the opposite. A repeal of the ethanol tax incentive is one that will be surely be passed on to the American consumers. Repealing incentives for ethanol would have the same exact result as a repeal of the oil and gas subsidies. We will get less domestically produced energy. It will cost U.S. jobs. It will increase our dependence upon foreign oil. It will increase prices at the pump for the American consumer.

So why do my colleagues want to increase our foreign energy independence when we can get it right here at home? I wish to ask my colleagues who voted against repealing the oil and gas subsidies but support repealing incentives on renewable fuels, why the inconsistency?

Interestingly, the same oil and gas association that is lobbying for repeal of the ethanol incentive led the charge against raising taxes on the oil and gas industry. The president of the National Petrochemical and Refiners Association stated:

"Targeting a specific industry or even a segment of that industry is what we would consider punitive and unfair tax policy, and it is not going to get us increased energy security, increased employment and certainly not going to lower the price of gasoline."

That is the end of the quote from the president of the National Petrochemical and Refiners Association.

The fact is, it is intellectually inconsistent to say that increasing taxes on ethanol is justified but that it is irresponsible to do so on oil and gas production. If tax incentives lead to more domestic energy production and to good-paying jobs, why are only incentives for oil and gas important? It is even more ridiculous to claim that the 30-year-old ethanol industry is mature but the oil and gas industry, now over 100 years old, is not. Regardless, I don’t think we should be raising taxes on any type of energy production or on any individual, particularly when we have a very weak economy. This amendment is a tax increase.

The Senator from Oklahoma also insists that because the renewable fuel is required to be used, it does not need an incentive. But with oil prices at $100 a barrel, oil companies are doing everything they can to extract more oil from the ground. There is not a mandate to use oil but oil already has a 100-year-old monopoly on our transportation infrastructure. They want to maintain as much monopoly as they can right now. Right now, because 10 percent of the energy used in cars is ethanol, they may only have a 90-per-cent monopoly, but they sure have a lot to say about what goes into your gas tank without competition.

When there is little competition to oil and it is enormously profitable, wouldn’t that industry argue that the oil and gas tax incentive on oil to produce it without additional taxpayer support? Oil essentially has a mandate today, and the economics of oil production are clearly in favor of producers.

It is still unclear to me why we are having this debate on this bill. This is not an energy bill. It is not a tax bill. Its prospects in the Senate are uncertain. Maybe most important, if this amendment were attached to this bill, the entire bill would be blue-sliped by the House because revenue bills under our Constitution must originate in the House of Representatives, and this is not a House revenue bill we are working on.

If we send it to the other body with this amendment, they will send it right back. It will be dead in the other body. So why are we having this debate on this bill? We should be debating this amendment in the context of a comprehensive energy plan. This debate should include a review of the subsidies for all energy production, not just for one of many renewable resources.

I could ask: Why are we talking about this subsidy on ethanol when we are not talking about the subsidies on oil? Why should we be talking about this subsidy on one alternative energy, which is ethanol, but not talking about the subsidies for wind and solar and biomass and geothermal and I suppose a dozen other alternative energy sources that we have? It boils down to the fact that we should not be singling out ethanol. Nearly every type of energy gets some sort of market-distorting subsidy from the Federal Government. I have indicated that at least for the last 15 years on one alternative energy.

An honest energy debate should include ethanol, oil, natural gas, nuclear, hydropower, wind, solar, biomass, and geothermal and I suppose a dozen other alternative energy sources that we have.

This 1-year extension has allowed Congress and the domestic biofuels industry to determine the best path forward for Federal support of biofuels.

As a result of these discussions, Senator CONRAD and I introduced bipartisan legislation on May 4 that is a serious, responsible first step to reducing and redirecting Federal tax incentives for ethanol. Our bill will reduce VEETC to a fixed rate of 20 cents in 2012, and 15 cents in 2013. It will then convert to a variable tax incentive for the remainder of the life of crude oil. When crude oil is more than $90 a barrel, there will be no blenders credit. When crude oil is $50 a barrel or... less, the blenders credit would be 30 cents. The rate will vary when the price of crude is between $50 and $90 a barrel.

When oil prices are high, a natural incentive should exist in the market to drive down the price. The bill also would extend through the year 2016 the alternative fuel refueling property credit, the cellulosic producers tax credit, and the special depreciation allowance for cellulosic biofuel plant property.

Today, Senators Klobuchar and Senator Thune are introducing another bipartisan bill to immediately reduce and reform the ethanol tax incentive. It includes many of the same features as the bill I introduced last month, but it enacts the reforms this year. The approach of Senator Thune also leads to significant deficit reduction.

The legislation we have introduced is a responsible approach that will reduce the existing blenders credit and put those valuable resources into investing in alternative fuel infrastructure, including alternative fuel pumps.

It would responsibly and predictably reduce the existing tax incentive and help get alternative fuel infrastructure in place so consumers can decide at the pump if they would prefer. I know that when the American consumers have their choice, they will choose domestic, clean, affordable renewable fuel. They will choose fuel from America’s farmers and ranchers rather than from oil sheiks and foreign dictators. Both of the ethanol reform bills I mentioned are supported by the ethanol advocacy groups. In an almost unprecedented move, the ethanol industry is advocating for a reduction in their Federal incentives. No other energy industry, whether it is fossil fuels or renewables, has come to the table to reduce their subsidies. No other energy advocate has come to me with a plan to reduce their Federal support.

In other words, all of these points would make history without abating the momentum toward a growing, sustainable, clean, and energy-independence based economy.

As the leading marketers of ethanol-blend fuel at the retail level, SIGMA’s members and customers are the beneficiaries of VEETC. This incentive has been an extremely useful tool for ethanol businesses. It also helps provide assurances to marketers and retailers that important infrastructure investments necessary to deliver these fuels will continue to provide returns, and not result in wasted improvements.

Simply put, SIGMA opposes recent moves to prematurely or abruptly end the subsidies. As my colleagues consider the power and fuel-delivery costs. To end this incentive immediately would no doubt result in an immediate spike in consumers’ fuel costs.

SIGMA believes that a policy that provides an effective transition for the industry from the current tax structure, is a better alternative to the slash and budget strategy being promoted by some Members of Congress. I thank you in advance for your support in this regard. If you have any questions or wish to discuss this matter further, please feel free to contact me.

Sincerely,

R. TIMOTHY COLUMBUS, General Counsel to the Society of Independent Gasoline Marketers of America

ECONOMIC POLICY

Mr. MENENDEZ. Mr. President, to the millions of Americans who are struggling to find jobs or make ends meet, this is simply stating the obvious, but I rise, a decade after we were told the Bush tax cuts for the wealthy would stimulate the economy and create jobs, to say they have done neither. A decade of the Bush tax cuts have proven what we knew from the beginning; that they disproportionately benefitted the wealthy, shifted wealth, did nothing for the middle class, and nothing to trickle down.

The tax cuts exploded the debt and continue to be an economic burden that has been twisted into a Republican mantra, an ironic rallying cry for what clearly is a failed economic policy. Yet adhering to the tax cuts for the wealthy is a Republican political litmus test, no matter how clear the evidence is that they have failed to deliver on the promise.
We again hear our colleagues on the other side of the aisle pursuing their "my way or the highway" approach to legislating. This time they are protecting these failed tax policies in the current debt limit negotiations, and they are putting tax cuts for millionaires ahead of poor seniors in nursing homes.

These are the very same tax cuts for millionaires that helped get us into this fiscal mess, and they should most certainly be on the table to help us get out. These Republicans and their colleagues have thrown a lavish dinner party for the past decade and now they want us to pick up the check. What we are saying is: Let's go Dutch and share the tab.

Ten years later, it is abundantly clear that tax cuts for the wealthy are nothing more than an ideological and political pivot point, not a sustainable economic policy. Our Republican colleagues use this failed notion as a one-size-fits-all policy to fix all economic circumstances: tax cuts in bad times, tax cuts in good times, tax cuts in all types of economic circumstances. That is not policy, it is a convenient bumper sticker slogan.

Our Republican friends on the other side come to the floor prepared to end Medicare as we know it. They come to the floor prepared to slash government to the bone. But they are unwilling to even entertain revisiting this failed economic stimulus effort and considering adding a single penny to the revenue side of the equation by limiting this blind giveaway to those who need it the least. They will not entertain asking the wealthiest to be part of the solution for America, and I believe if asked, they would be. They would not put tax cuts on the table but have made ending Medicare, as we know it, the centerpiece. They told us from the beginning that wealth will trickle down, tax cuts will lift all boats, those who support the cut will get what is right for America and its people and create American jobs for American families. Well, the facts do not suggest such an altruistic outcome.

Tax cuts for the wealthy have turned out to be the greatest failed jobs program in American history. All of the grand promises aside, all of the rhetoric about job growth and economic stimulus, all of that lofty rhetoric aside, just 3 years after the Bush tax cuts in June of 2004, we lost almost 1 million jobs, more than 300,000 jobs a year for each year of 3 years.

The fact is this economic policy did not stimulate job growth at home, but it did create job transfers abroad. Factories closed, jobs went overseas, services were outsourced. The rich got richer and tax cuts produced no jobs in America for 3 years. None. In April of 2003, almost 2 years after the tax cuts were passed, President Bush stood before the American people and said:

"These tax cuts will bring real and immediate benefits to middle income Americans. By speeding up the income tax cuts, we will speed up economic recovery and the pace of job creation."

He called the tax cuts "a victory for fairness and a vote for economic growth."

The fact is the Bush tax cuts coincided with the most anemic economic expansion of the postwar period. It exploded the deficit and the debt and concentrated wealth at the top unlike any concentration of wealth since the Gilded Age of the late 19th century. This, in addition to 2 wars we are paying for in Iraq and Afghanistan, a new entitlement program passed by Republicans unpaid for, and a marketplace that instead of being a free market was a free-for-all market created the excesses that brought us to the culmination of 2008's incredible economic challenge to this country on the verge of a potential new depression and drove so much of the debt the Nation faces today.

For all the rhetoric from the right, the Bush tax cuts have been the greatest failed jobs program and the most ineffective economic stimulus effort in our history, succeeding only in creating a new class of super-rich in America.

Let's talk about this shift in wealth from the last decade. As much as my Republican colleagues tried to twist themselves into knots and jump through elaborate hoops to disprove the obvious, the facts are clear. Ten years later the Bush tax cuts have disproportionately widened the income gap to a point today where the wealthiest 1 percent of households in this country owns almost 40 percent of all private wealth in this country, more wealth than the bottom 90 percent of all Americans combined. Think about it. The wealthiest 1 percent of households in this country owns 40 percent of all private wealth, more than almost all of the rest of us combined. That is an extraordinary shift in wealth in the 30 year period we are enacting that has cost this Nation $2.5 trillion in revenue with about 40 percent of the benefits going to households with incomes over $380,000. Yet our friends on the other side say no to a single mother who sits up in the middle of the night with a sick child wondering if she can afford to take that child to the doctor, praying she can afford the medicine that child needs and still put food on the table, hoping she will be able to keep her job and her health care plan.

All that wealth at the top and Republicans have said no to a young student who needs a Pell grant so he or she can get the education they need to succeed. All that wealth at the top and Republicans have said no to a mom-and-pop grocery store owner who cannot get the capital they need to make repairs or expand. Our friends on the other side have looked into the eyes of that mother, that student, that store owner and said no to saving them from paying for education, no to small business capital. They even said no to extending unemployment benefits, but asking the wealthy to pay their fair share is off the table. The one thing they have said yes to is ending Medicare as we know it and leaving seniors to fend for themselves.

I have been visiting senior centers in my home State of New Jersey. I just came from, earlier today, to hear thoughts on the current budget discussions of Medicare. A typical 65-year-old at these meetings under the Republican budget proposal would pay an additional $7,000 by the year 2022. Right now over 140,000 seniors in New Jersey are paying more for their medications because they fall into that doughnut hole.

Under the Republican plan, those New Jersey seniors will pay an additional $80 million for prescription drugs next year, and by 2020 seniors currently in the doughnut hole will pay an additional $1.6 billion. Nationwide nearly 4 million seniors would pay $2.2 billion more for prescription drugs in 2012 alone under the Republican plan, a plan that would end Medicare and would also force at least 1 million seniors to pay over $100 per month for annual wellness visits in 2012. Then turning to Medicaid, looking to turn that into a block grant program, the Republican plan could cost America more than 2 million private sector jobs over the next 5 years and threaten our economic recovery.

That is not all. Nationwide the Republican plan could cut more than $503 billion in Medicaid funding for seniors, for the disabled, including lifesaving nursing home care, leaving us with the uncomfortable and unanswerable question I pose to my Republican friends: What will those fellow Americans do? Where will they go? What happens to them under the Republican budget plan? These are people, not budget numbers. What happens to them?

Something is wrong with that picture of America. It is not the America I know. Something is fundamentally wrong when we let seniors fend for themselves and enact policies that lead to inequalities in income and wealth that are the most skewed since the Gilded Age and the Great Depression. How many years are we going to buy into the failed negotiation of trickle-down voodoo economics that reward the winners and leave the middle class behind?

We all know we need to cut wasteful spending, we all know we need to balance the budget. Let's do it before. It wasn't that long ago that, in fact, during another Democratic administration we had budget surpluses as far out as the eye could see. How quickly we forget the day Bill Clinton was reelecting President a $236 billion surplus with a projected surplus of $5.6 trillion over the next 10 years. When President Bush left office, he turned a $236 billion surplus into a $1.3 trillion budget deficit and signed into law a $1.4 trillion deficit over the next decade and handed the new President, President Obama, an economy headed off the cliff.
Now our Republican colleagues want to go back to the same failed policies. They want to give more tax cuts to millionaires and billionaires, continue subsidies to Big Oil while they end Medicare as we know it and gut Pell grants as they move to our economic future. They insist on tax cuts that will cost $700 billion on the revenue side over the next 10 years and trillions more by slashing tax rates for the wealthy and the powerful.

Those earning more than $1 million a year will see a windfall of $125,000 each from the tax cuts and tens of thousands of dollars more for proposed tax rate cuts while people in my home State lose $34 billion in health benefits and 400,000 New Jerseys end up without health coverage at all. They want to shift the balance to millionaires and billionaires while making Draconian cuts to health care benefits for seniors.

Cuts do not reflect our value as a people or as a nation. Even a majority of tea partiers think it is a bad idea according to recent polls. I am reminded that our distinguished Republican colleagues are symbolized in their party by an elephant, a large animal that never forgets. Our Republican colleagues have forgotten what Vice President Cheney told America on national television as he was waging two wars, both unpaid for. He said, “Deficits don’t matter.” Vice President Cheney: “Deficits don’t matter.”

We may not always think of the middle-class families. Show me the new opportunities for middle-class families. Show me who is keeping our economy on track and protect hard-working families from losing their homes in mortgage schemes and hedge fund gambles that stole the wealth of middle-class families taking us to the brink of economic ruin.

Let’s look at the simple facts about the Bush tax cuts 10 years later. The top one-tenth of 1 percent of American wage earners, those earning more than $3 million a year, received an average tax cut of $65,000—far more than the average middle-class family dream of making—a tax cut more than 450 times larger than the meager tax cut of an average middle-class wage earner. Those earning over $3 million benefited from lower tax rates on capital gains; higher tax rates on dividends; and lower marginal rates for the top two tax brackets.

From 2002 to 2007, the top 1 percent of American wage earners enjoyed 65 percent of the total income gains during that 5-year period. In those 5 years nothing trickled down. In fact, real hourly earnings fell by almost 2 percent for men in the bottom 10 percent of wage earners. It fell one-half of 1 percent for men in the middle of the 50th percentile but increased almost 3 percent for men in the top 10 percent. Nothing trickled down.

If the Bush tax cuts were designed as a stimulus to the economy, as Moody’s has said making the cuts permanent would generate only 35 cents in economic activity per dollar they cost.

Under the American Recovery Act, the payback would be $1.17 for every dollar of the Making Work Pay credit and $1.38 for the child tax credit. Clearly, the stimulus effect of the Bush cuts was not a stimulus at all. As far as the debt is concerned, from 2001 to 2010 the cuts added $2.6 trillion to the debt, 50 percent of the total accrued during that 10-year period. The fact is the Bush cuts averaged out to lower revenue levels as a share of the economy than any previous decade since the 1950s, even as we have America’s sons and daughters in two wars waging a war that is unrelated to the extension of the cuts in the December tax bill is projected to decrease revenues by $432 billion, from 2012 to 2021, making the total costs more than $5 trillion over the next decade. Yet Republicans will not even talk about the stimulus on the table, not even the tax cuts for millionaires, but they will happily end Medicare as we know it and kick poor seniors out of their nursing homes. This is something we cannot let happen.

Well, Republicans have apparently forgotten President Bush’s own words on April 16, 2001, about the benefits of tax relief, because he was right about one thing; it created new wealth, and new opportunities, interest on savings. On the flip side, from gainful employment, investment and savings—all of them at the top. But show me what it did to keep our economy on track. It is a disservice to do business this way— to our colleagues, to bipartisanship, and to the American people who sent us in Washington to get work done by working together. So I am disappointed in the way this was handled.

Now let me talk about the amendment itself. Today, families in Minnesota and around the country are paying painfully high prices at the pump and for everything from cars and houses to $100 a barrel. Today, families in Minnesota and around the country are paying painfully high prices at the pump and for everything from cars and houses to $100 a barrel. What this amendment does is cut the legs out from under the most viable alternative to foreign oil we have. Despite decade after decade of rhetoric about weaning our country off foreign oil, we are still dependent on it. And while about a third of our oil imports comes from Canada and Mexico, close to half come from the Persian Gulf, Africa, or Venezuela.

Last year at this time we were dealing with the gulf oil spill, the worst environmental catastrophe we have ever had. That was maybe the most jarring reminder of what has been clear for decades—that we have to kick our addiction to oil. While that is not something we can do overnight, we need to do everything in our power to transition to alternatives.

There is no more viable alternative than biofuels. Today, the industry that has been most successful in displacing oil is under attack. We are talking about an industry using our own American resources, an industry that has created thousands of jobs and catalyzed economic development across...
Ethanol

Mr. COBURN. Mr. President, I had a good time this afternoon listening to the debate on the amendment I have offered and visiting with Senators. I think there is an important distinction that needs to be made in the arguments that have been brought forward.

The first is we have a mandated level of ethanol that has to be produced and blended into gasoline, and it grows from now on. There will be zero job losses if this amendment is approved.

The second thing is, my colleague—and I love him to death—from South Dakota says we are going to save $1 billion. We can save $3 billion if we eliminate the VETC blending subsidy.

Now, why should we do that? Here is a subsidy that goes to all the blenders of the gasoline in the United States—all of them—and they all have called and written and said: We do not want the $3 billion for the rest of the year. We do not want it.

We actually have a letter from the National Petrochemical and Refiners Association, which they are all members of, saying: We do not want this money. So the best way to get money against the deficit is not to give money to people who do not want it on something that is already mandated anyway.

I spent a great deal of time listening to my colleague from Iowa, Senator Grassley, and his figures were very good. But they were only up through 2008. According to the U.S. Department of Agriculture, 40 percent of last year’s corn crop was utilized, converted to ethanol. Why would the American Bakers Association, the American Frozen Food Institute, the American Meat Institute, the National Council of Chain Restaurants, the National Petrochemical and Refiners Association, the International Dairy Foods Association, the Milk Producers Council, the National Chicken Council, the National Council of Chain Restaurants, the National Meat Association, the National Restaurant Association, the National Turkey Federation, the National Wildlife Federation—which is just about one-third of the people who are endorsing this—why would they be for this?

Because it is not just less than 1 percent of the cost of food. It has been, this last year, the significant driver. Corn prices are at $7.65 a bushel. They are 2½ times what they were 3½ years ago. And I am not against the farmers. I am for ethanol. I do not want to do away with ethanol blending. I do not want to do away with ethanol as a substitute. But we have a way to get the same amount of ethanol produced and put into our cars without spending $3 billion between now and the end of the year. $8 billion has averaged over the last few years.

We spent $34 billion of money we didn’t have subsidizing something that rural America. The first generation of biofuels has paved the way for the next generation of advanced biofuels. The first commercial-scale cellulosic ethanol plant is being built this year in Emmetsburg, IA, where it will be making ethanol from corncobs.

According to a recent study done by the researchers at Iowa State University and the University of Wisconsin-Madison, the growth in ethanol production reduced wholesale gas prices by an average of 89 cents per gallon in 2008.

In the Midwest, that number was higher: $1.37 per gallon. Let me repeat that. At a time when so many American families are struggling to pay their bills and make ends meet, they would have paid an average of 89 cents more per gallon of gas last year had we not had ethanol.

But instead of giving this industry the tools it needs to grow and reduce our oil dependence even more, this amendment hampers the ethanol industry out to dry. It makes no sense.

I share the concern of my colleague from Oklahoma about the deficit and our national debt. To cut our deficit, everyone in America will have to make some sacrifices, and that includes the ethanol industry. The easy part here is that the ethanol industry agrees. Ethanol producers stand ready to phase out the ethanol blenders credit. But we need to be consistent. If the ethanol industry is being asked to make some sacrifices, other fuel industries need to be willing to do the same. Yet, just a month ago, many of my colleagues, including my colleague from Oklahoma, voted against repealing billions of dollars in subsidies we pay every year to the biggest five oil companies. We are talking about companies that have made almost $1 trillion in profit over the last decade. My colleagues chose to leave those tax breaks in place, amounting to 21 billion in taxpayer dollars each year over the last 10 years. Expert after expert has basically concluded these subsidies are not lowering the cost of gas and would not cause it to increase if they were eliminated. But we do not need experts to tell us that. Subsidies for oil and gas are on the books right now, and some have been on the books since as far back as 1916, but they have done nothing to stem the skyrocketing gas prices that are squeezing the budgets of American families.

Yet when we are talking about ethanol—a homegrown alternative to foreign oil that lowers prices at the pump—my colleagues seem to think it is absolutely imperative to repeal this tax credit now.

When it is repealing subsidies for oil and gas companies operating in oil-producing States such as Oklahoma, that somehow is a tax hike. But cutting a tax credit that supports an American renewable fuel, that is “fiscal responsibility.”

The hypocrisy here is stunning.

Regardless, America’s ethanol producers are ready and willing to phase out this credit. But there is a right way and a wrong way to do it. The Coburn amendment, which abruptly ends the credit at the end of this month, is the wrong way. The right way is to responsibly phase out the tax credit in a manner that allows the industry to build the infrastructure it needs to bring advanced biofuels into the U.S. market.

Today my colleagues and I are introducing legislation that does it the right way, and I urge every Member of the Senate to support this. The way we see it, our biofuels industry is hitting a wall because of the national 10-percent ethanol blend limit we have had on the books. It also is hamstrung by the inability of most cars and gas pumps to ever blend biofuels above 10 percent ethanol. That means cellulosic ethanol and other advanced biofuels have no market access or market to grow into. This isn’t an industry problem, it is a public policy problem.

The EPA’s E15 waiver was a step in the right direction to address this very problem. But without pumps that can deliver higher ethanol blends, American consumers have no way to access additional ethanol that would and should be on the market. What our legislation does is reform our ethanol tax policy by ending the ethanol tax credit in its current form at the end of the month. It then invests part of the savings in extending the cellulosic ethanol credit, and puts $1 billion toward reducing our deficit.

Reducing America’s dependence on oil is going to require a national strategy, and biofuels are one part of that strategy. We also need to do things such as deploy more electric vehicles and make our entire economy more energy efficient. We have to recognize that if we don’t fix our national policies and allow our biofuels industry to grow, we are actively choosing for foreign oil and dirty fossil fuels over domestic, homegrown, renewable fuels.

Let me tell you my colleagues something: We are seeing a massive ethanol spill in the Gulf of Mexico that kills 11 workers, destroys thousands and thousands of livelihoods, and does irreparable harm to vital ecosystems. We are never going to see foreign countries collude to restrict the supply of ethanol and drive up gas prices for American families. As we transition to advanced biofuels and expand this industry, we are not going to see these jobs go overseas. This is an American industry, it is American jobs, and it is American energy independence. I urge my colleagues to make the responsible choice—one that will keep this industry moving forward.

Thank you, Mr. President. I yield the floor. is mandated, I mean, it even goes beyond the Reagan quote, which was that the government’s view of the economy could be summed up in a few short phrases: If it moves, tax it. If it keeps moving, regulate it. If it stops moving, subsidize it.

We have the incentive to blend the ethanol, and that incentive is you by law have to blend it. They do not have a choice. So we are going to use ethanol in this country.

Another fact that the American people ought to take into consideration when they go buy a gallon of fuel today—you already have $1.72 worth of subsidy in there. That does not have anything to do with oil and gas drilling; that has to do with the subsidies that go to this program for ethanol. And I am for using cellulosic. I am actually for using corn ethanol. I just do not think we ought to pay twice for it. I think we ought to pay once.

The number that the Senator from Minnesota makes about in terms of subsidy, there are—I have worked on the President’s commission on debt. I have worked with the Gang of 6. You cannot be for changing the Tax Code to get rid of tax expenditures and vote against this. I mean, how do you explain? Here is one we do not need the incentive for and we are going to pay for, and yet you say you want to solve the problems of the country. But the first time we have a vote to really eliminate that will make a difference in terms of the amount of ethanol that is produced in this country—it will just save us $3 billion—you can’t be on both sides of that issue.

Let me address the oil and gas industries for a minute. They get accelerated depreciation and writeoff. That is true. And that amounts to taking legitimate business expenses and saying: You can write them off sooner. Why did we do that?

It started in 1903, by the way. That is when we started. We started it because it is a capital-intensive business in terms of the exploration. It is associated with a lot of dry holes.

Now, the very companies that we say we want to take some of their “subsidies”—there is a big difference between a subsidy that is a tax credit and a subsidy. We are just saying: Do not spend the money for something that they have to go have to do anyway that they have already said to us they do not want.

Tomorrow during the debate, I will add to the RECORD the statement from the National Petrochemical and Refiners Association.

The other point I would make: There is no question we are not energy independent when you are dependent on biofuels and cellulosic ethanol can contribute to what our results can be in terms of maintaining that independence. But we are the only Nation in the world where we as citizens own more oil and gas than Canada, China, and Saudi Arabia combined. And our Government will not let us have it. Think about that for a minute. According to the Congressional Research Service, there is more oil, gas, and gas liquids unpriced in the United States than is known in all of Canada, all of China, and all of Saudi Arabia combined. So the reason we are in trouble and importing oil is because our own government will not let us have our own resources. Why would we continue that? That is a debate for another time.

No matter what we believe in terms of green energy, what we do know is that we are 30 years away from getting away from carbon-based fuels—at the earliest. So we can either pay a price to buy the Saudi oil or buy oil from other Middle Eastern countries or we can develop our own. Talk about jobs. The estimate is that if we would truly go after our own energy, we would generate over 100,000 jobs a year eliminating the need for the oil and gas industry in this country—cleanly.

The other comment I have heard is that this amendment was not brought up properly. Well, let me talk about something for a minute. When the Senator from South Dakota and I came to the Senate, the first 2 years you could offer an amendment on anything, on any bill at any time because that is the way the Senate was intended to operate. As a Senator, a Member of this body, you have the right to offer an amendment. Now, you may lose it or it may get tabled, but you had to right to do it. That is not a majority leader’s prerogative; it is a prerogative of every individual Senator that you ought to cherish and protect because if the majority leader is the only one who will decide what amendments get offered and when they get offered, this is no longer the Senate. There is no longer an ability to offer what is in the best interests of our country or our constituency.

The very fact that we do not want to have controversial amendments that we have much disagreement on coming to the floor because we do not want to have to go home and defend them or we do not want to vote on them because we might lose—the Senate ought to be a free place to offer ideas and get them voted down.

In my first 2 years in the Senate, I had tons—in fact, I had every amendment voted down. There was not an amendment I won. But I had the freedom to offer the amendments. And do you know what. We passed 10 times as much legislation in that Congress than we have the last two. So limiting amendments is not the prerogative of the majority leader. Deciding what bills come to the floor is the prerogative of the majority leader.

I hope to have and tell our constituents that we have voted against saving $3 billion, that we are going to borrow 40 percent of it from outside of this country because we do not like the way an amendment was brought up—how else do you bring up an amendment if you cannot in the Senate?

Every true and proper procedure was followed in bringing up this amendment, and had this amendment been allowed to come up, if other Members had not objected to it, we would have never used cloture to bring up an amendment. You should not have to use cloture to bring up an amendment. You should be able to bring up any amendment you want and let Senators have the courage to say: We do not want it on it rather than to say: I am going to hide behind not having to vote, so I am going to object to having a vote on an amendment.

Well, if we start down that process, we are never going to have any amendments and every amendment is going to end up having 60 votes just to be brought up. If we are going to move to that procedure—and I know procedure in this body pretty well—then I will insist that we do it for all time. That will dead stop the Senate.

So the idea that you can hide behind the excuse that even though you want to save the $3 billion but you do not like the way the amendment was brought up is a pretty flimsy excuse to go home and explain to your public that you think we should not ever have cloture motions on amendments. We ought to be able to bring any amendment up at any time.

If the majority leader coming to the floor. He is a dear friend of mine. He has the hardest job in Washington, there is no question. But the privilege to bring an amendment to the floor ought to be protected for both sides of this aisle, and you vote it down, you table it, but you do something with it.

Let me just finish by saying that I agree this is supposed to expire at the end of this year. I hope it does because we do not need it. Our corn farmers do not need it. The world demand for corn is high. We are going to continue to produce ethanol. We have a federally mandated requirement that we produce ethanol. This amendment does not touch that, never intended to touch that.

But ethanol as a fuel should be processed to the next stage, which is methanol, because methanol is not water soluble and it has the same octane rating as gasoline. Ethanol is not a great fuel. It is not an economical fuel. But we can take that same carbon atom and add to it and create methanol from corn and get a much better fuel that can be transported much easier and have much greater effect on our economy and have much better gas mileage and less effect on the engines and drivetrains and all of the other—the smog prevention we have on automobiles today.

So let me say it again. I am not against using biocrops. I am for biocrops. I am against cellulosic-based. I am not against algae. But ExxonMobil has spent a couple of billion of their own money on algae-based biofuels without the government’s help, which is one of the points with this amendment. We no longer need to help. We no longer need to spend the money.

So I look forward to the debate tomorrow. I will be on the floor all day to answer questions and to debate the pros and cons of this amendment.

I yield the floor.

MESSAGES FROM THE PRESIDENT

Messages from the President of the United States were communicated to the Senate by Mrs. Neiman, one of his secretaries.

EXECUTIVE MESSAGES REFERRED

As in executive session the Presiding Officer laid before the Senate messages from the President of the United States submitting sundry nominations which were referred to the appropriate committees.

(The nominations received today are printed at the end of the Senate proceedings.)

EXECUTIVE AND OTHER COMMUNICATIONS

The following communications were laid before the Senate, together with accompanying papers, reports, and documents, and were referred as indicated:

EC–2070. A communication from the Director of Procurement and Acquisition Policy, Department of Defense, transmitting, pursuant to law, the report of a rule entitled “Defence Federal Acquisition Regulation Supplement, Subpart 225.1, Conditions Applicable to Government Procurement of Commercial Items, Final Rule” (RIN0750–AG74)(DFARS Case 2009–D018) received in the Office of the President of the Senate on June 8, 2011; to the Committee on Armed Services.

EC–2071. A communication from the Director of Procurement and Acquisition Policy, Department of Defense, transmitting, pursuant to law, the report of a rule entitled “Defense Federal Acquisition Regulation Supplement, Warranty Tracking of Serialized Items” (RIN0750–AH23)(DFARS Case 2011–D024) received in the Office of the President of the Senate on June 8, 2011; to the Committee on Armed Services.

EC–2072. A communication from the Commission on Wartime Contracting in Iraq and Afghanistan, transmitting, pursuant to law, a report entitled “Cost Risk New Waste”; to the Committee on Armed Services.

EC–2073. A communication from the Chief of the Military Personnel and Resale Branch, Internal Revenue Service, Department of the Treasury, transmitting, pursuant to law, the report of a rule entitled “United States and Area Median Gross Income Figures” (Rev. Proc. 2011–37) received in the Office of the President of the Senate on June 8, 2011; to the Committee on Finance.

EC–2074. A communication from the Under Secretary of Defense (Personnel and Readiness), transmitting the report of (11) officers authorized to grade as brigadier general in accordance with title 10, United States Code, section 777, to the Committee on Armed Services.

STATEMENTS ON INTRODUCED BILLS AND JOINT RESOLUTIONS

By Mr. Johnson of South Dakota (for himself, Mr. Shelby, Mr. Kerry, Mr. McCain, Mr. Levin, Mr. Lieberman, and Mr. Reed):

S. 1180. A bill to authorize the President to sell to the Senate the property of the Government of Libya and to authorize the use of that property to provide humanitarian relief to and for the benefit of the people of Chairman LIEBERMAN as original co-and Government Affairs Committee
JOHN MCCAIN, and Homeland Security opinions in Congress on that issue, feel about the current military situa-approval. The additional $2 billion after a 30-day notification de-sets—plus an additional $2 billion if $36 billion in Libyan Government as-
Currently, there are approximately funds. To the Treasury Department, the State Department, and the
This measure is an updated version of that legislation, imposing certain conditions on that authority, and providing for comptrollers, for having seen the use of the funds.
Currently, there are approximately $36 billion in Libyan Government as-seizure and use to support humanitarian efforts in Libya. This measure would for confiscation of up to $3 billion of the Qaddafi government’s assets—plus an additional $2 billion if necessary to avert an imminent humanitarian emergency.
The bill provides for the confiscation and distribution of the funds in two batches—the first $4 billion could be seized, vested and distributed upon the bill’s enactment, and a second $4 billion could be confiscated and released after a 30-day notification period designed to give Congress an opportunity to deny the seizure of the funds via enactment of a joint resolution of disapproval. The additional $2 billion could be released upon certification of a humanitarian emergency.
Notwithstanding how my colleagues feel about the current military situation, or U.S. involvement in Libya—and Libyan Assets is a number of opinon Congress on that issue, which we’ll likely debate on the Senate to the question of continuing violence perpetrated by the Libyan regime against its own people, there is a real, urgent and growing need for humanitarian reliance and assistance.
The U.S. has already provided tens of millions of dollars of its own funds in reclaimed funds, and last week pledged additional aid. This bill would simply authorize the confiscation of certain assets of the Gover-ment of Libya, already frozen by the U.S. government under existing legal authorities, to provide additional humanitarian relief to meet urgent needs there. It would effectively give the true owners of these assets—the Libyan people—access to some of their own money to provide relief for Libya’s citizens.
The bill authorizes the President to seize and distribute these assets. I understand the Administration intends the funds to be overseen by the State Department, and to go mainly through non-governmental humanitarian relief organizations currently active in Libya; this measure ultimately allows the President to decide who the recipients are, with some limitations. It also requires that the funds be used only for purposes related to humanitarian relief, consistent with UN Security Council resolutions on this matter, and imposes a set of accounting, recordkeeping and Congressional reporting requirements on the funds.
It requires that the funds not go to aid anyone or any organization whose assets are blocked under U.S. law, or those identified as terrorists or affiliated with terrorist organizations, or those complicit in human rights abuses.
It also provides the President with powerful investigatory and penalty authorities, to ensure appropriate distribution of the funding and to com-batt any potential fraud in the distribution of aid. The Administration has made clear that such assets would be disbursed through mechanisms that meet U.S. legal and policy standards that the United States generally applies to the provision of assistance, including those relating to human rights and transparent oversight of the disbursements. While these are not U.S. taxpayer funds, I believe we still have a fiduciary responsibility for its efficient and effective distribution, and that’s why we have imposed these important accountability measures.
Such a fund management’s assets’ assets is not unprecedented. In the past, the U.S. government has seized and frozen the assets of other governments with whom we were involved in a conflict, going all the way back to World War I. The latest example is when we seized and used a portion of Iraqi government assets in 2003 to provide urgent reconstruction assistance and other forms of support for the people of Iraq.
I hope we can move quickly on this legislation to authorize the release of these funds and show that Congress and the Executive branch are working together on this issue and that despite our differences on U.S. military action there we can act promptly and decisively to provide needed humanitarian assistance to the people of Libya. I urge my colleagues to join us in this effort.
Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill and a letter of support be printed in the RECORD.
There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:
SEC. 1. SHORT TITLE.
This Act may be cited as the “Libyan Assets for Humanitarian Relief Act of 2011”.
SEC. 2. FINDINGS.
Congress makes the following findings:
(1) On February 26, 2011, the United Nations Security Council adopted Resolution 1970, which imposed an asset freeze on Colonel Muammar Qaddafi and members of his family.
(2) On March 17, 2011, the United Nations Security Council adopted Resolution 1973, which expanded the sanctions to include the Central Bank of Libya, the Libyan Investment Authority, the Libyan Foreign Bank, the Libyan Africa Investment Portfolio, and the Libyan National Oil Corporation.
(3) The United Nations Security Council stated in Resolution 1973 that the assets frozen would “at a later stage, as soon as possible, be made available to and for the benefit of the people of the Libyan Arab Jamahiriya”.
(4) On March 3, 2011, the President of the United States stated that “Muammar Qaddafi has lost the legitimacy to lead, and he must leave”.
(5) On March 29, 2011, the Transitional
National Council of the Libyan Republic issued “A Vision of a Democratic Libya”, which stated that its goal is “building a free and democratic society and ensuring the supervencency of international humanitarian law and human rights declarations”, and that “[t]his can only be achieved through dialogue, tolerance, and cooperation, evenness, and the active participation of all citizens”. In that statement, the Transitional National Council pledged itself, without reservation, to the establishment of “a constitutional civil and free state” that upholds intellectual and political pluralism and the peaceful transfer of power and guarantees full citizenship rights to all Libyans.
(6) On April 7, 2011, Ali Aujali, the Official Representative to the United States of the Transitional National Council of the Libyan Republic, wrote to the Secretary of the Treasury that the United States is “working with the Executive branch to ensure that the assets frozen in Libya are made available to and for the benefit of the people of the LIBYAN ARAB JAMAHIRIYA.
(7) On May 19, 2011, the President of the United States, referring to the Transitional National Council of the Libyan Republic, stated that “the opposition has organized a legitimate and credible interim council”.SEC. 3. AUTHORIZATION OF CONFOCATION OF PROPERTY OF THE GOVERNMENT OF LIBYA.

"(D) may not be amended.

"(2) REFERRAL TO COMMITTEES.—A joint resolution of disapproval introduced in the Senate shall be referred to the Committee on Banking, Housing, and Urban Affairs and a joint resolution of disapproval introduced in the House of Representatives shall be referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs.

"(3) COMMITTEE DISCHARGE AND FLOOR CONSIDERATION.—The provisions of subsection (b) through (d) of section 152 of the Trade Act of 1974 (19 U.S.C. 2192) (relating to committee discharge and floor consideration of certain resolutions in the House of Representatives and the Senate) shall apply to joint resolutions under this section.

"(i) In General.—If, at any one time after the date of the enactment of the Libyan Assets for Humanitarian Relief Act of 2011, the President submits to Congress the certification described in clause (ii), effective on and after the date on which that certification is submitted, the President may confiscate and vest not more than an additional $2,000,000,000 under subsection (c) over the amounts otherwise authorized to be confiscated and vested under the amounts otherwise authorized to be confiscated and vested under such section 209 of the International Emergency Economic Powers Act.

"(ii) CERTIFICATION DESCRIBED.—The certification described in this clause is a certification that it is in the national interest to confiscate and vest the additional amount specified in clause (i) to address an emergency need for additional humanitarian assistance.

"(3) CERTIFICATIONS BY CERTAIN PERSONS.—The President may transfer funds to any person, other than an executive agency, under paragraph (1)(A) unless that person certifies to the President that the person—

"(A) will use such funds only for the costs described in paragraph (1)(A); and

"(B) will not—

"(i) transfer any of such funds to a person or organization described in paragraph (1)(A); or

"(ii) use any of such funds to purchase weapons or military equipment of either a lethal or nonlethal nature.

"(4) USE OF CONFISCATED PROPERTY.—In this section, the term 'use of confiscated property' means—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—The authority of the President to confiscate and vest funds and other property under this section (c)(1) shall be limited as follows:

"(A) INITIAL LIMITATION.—Effective on and after the date of the enactment of the Libyan Assets for Humanitarian Relief Act of 2011, the President may confiscate and vest not more than $4,000,000,000 under subsection (c).

"(B) CONFISCATION AND VESTING OF ADDITIONAL AMOUNTS.—

"(i) IN GENERAL.—If, at any one time after the date of the enactment of the Libyan Assets for Humanitarian Relief Act of 2011, the President submits to Congress the notification described in clause (ii), effective on and after the date of the enactment of the Libyan Assets for Humanitarian Relief Act of 2011, the Senate shall be referred to the Committee on Banking, Housing, and Urban Affairs and the Committee on Foreign Affairs of the Senate.

"(ii) JOINT RESOLUTION OF DISAPPROVAL.—If, at any one time after the date of the enactment of the Libyan Assets for Humanitarian Relief Act of 2011, the Senate shall be referred to the Committee on Banking, Housing, and Urban Affairs and the Committee on Foreign Affairs of the Senate.

"(3) EMERGENCY CERTIFICATION; CONFISCATION AND VESTING TO ADDRESS EMERGENCY HUMANITARIAN NEEDS.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—If, at any one time after the date of the enactment of the Libyan Assets for Humanitarian Relief Act of 2011, the President submits to Congress the certification described in clause (ii), effective on and after the date on which that certification is submitted, the President may confiscate and vest the additional amount specified in clause (i) to address an emergency need for additional humanitarian assistance.

"(ii) CERTIFICATION DESCRIBED.—The certification described in this clause is a certification that it is in the national interest to confiscate and vest the additional amount specified in clause (i) to address an emergency need for additional humanitarian assistance.

"(2) JOINT RESOLUTION OF DISAPPROVAL.—In this section, the term 'joint resolution of disapproval' means only a joint resolution of the House of Representatives and the Senate submitted after the resolving clause of which is as follows: 'That Congress disapproves of the confiscation and vesting of the amount of funds or other property specified in section 209 of the International Emergency Economic Powers Act.'
and Urban Affairs' for 'Committee on Finance'.

"(C) RULES OF HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES AND SENATE.—This paragraph is enacted by Congress to:

(i) as an exercise of the rulemaking power of the Senate and the House of Representatives, respectively, and as such is deemed a part of the rules of each House, respectively, but applicable only with respect to the procedure to be followed in that House in the case of a joint resolution, and it supersedes other rules only to the extent that it is inconsistent with such rules; and

(ii) with full recognition of the constitutional right of each House to change the rules so far as relating to the procedure of that House at any time, in the same manner and to the same extent as in the case of any other rule of that House.

"(g) RECORDKEEPING.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The President may, in exercising the authority provided under this section, require any person to keep a full record of—

(A) any act or transaction carried out pursuant to any regulation, instruction, or order described in subsection (f)(1), and any information required to be kept under paragraph (1) under oath and in the form of reports or any other form; and

(B) any record, book of account, record, contract, agreement, or other written or verbal evidence that is relevant to any act or transaction described in paragraph (1) and any information required to be kept under paragraph (1).

(2) REPORTS ON USE OF FUNDS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Not later than 90 days after the President first confiscates and vests funds or other property under subsection (c), and every 90 days thereafter, the President shall submit to the appropriate congressional committees a report describing the plan of the President for the 90-day period preceding the submission of the report.

(A) any amount of funds and other property confiscated and transferred under this section; and

(B) the manner in which such funds were used.

(2) Special rule with respect to report relating to authorization of confiscation of additional amounts.—If, after the date on which a report required to be submitted under paragraph (1) before the next such report is required to be submitted, the President submits to the appropriate congressional committees a report describing the plan of the President for using any funds remaining of the amounts confiscated and vested under this section that—

(A) describes how any of such funds that are obligated as of that date will be expended; and

(B) provides for the distribution of any of such funds that are unobligated as of that date to a successor government of Libya.

(3) DATE DESCRIBED.—The date described in this paragraph is the date on which the national emergency declared by the President with respect to Libya pursuant to section 202 expires and is not continued by the President.

(4) ACTIONS TAKEN UNDER THIS SECTION.—

(A) NO LEGAL PROCESSES WITH RESPECT TO CONFISCATED PROPERTY.—Any funds or other property confiscated and vested under subsection (c), including any proceeds from the liquidation or sale of such property, shall be immune from any legal process or attachment.

(B) ACTIONS TAKEN UNDER THIS SECTION.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Except to the extent necessary to carry out the plan required by paragraph (2), the provisions of this section (other than subsections (a), (g), (j), (k), and (m)) shall terminate on the date described in paragraph (3).

"(h) REPORTS RELATING TO CONFISCATION OF ASSETS OF THE GOVERNMENT OF LIBYA.—If the President exercises the authority provided under this section, the President shall submit reports in accordance with subsection (b) of that section.

"(i) TERMINATION.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Except to the extent necessary to carry out the provisions of this section.

"(j) CLERICAL AMENDMENT.—Section 204 of the International Emergency Economic Powers Act (50 U.S.C. 1704) is amended—

(1) in subsection (b), by striking "Whenever" and inserting "Except as provided in subsection (e), whenever"; and

(2) by adding at the end the following:

"(e) REPORTS RELATING TO CONFISCATION OF ASSETS OF THE GOVERNMENT OF LIBYA.—If the President exercises the authority provided under this section, the President shall submit reports in accordance with subsection (b) of that section.

SUMMARY OF LIBYAN ASSETS FOR HUMANITARIAN RELIEF ACT OF 2011

Authorization of Confiscation: The measure authorizes the President to confiscate and vest certain funds and other property of the Government of Libya currently frozen by the U.S. government, allows liquidation of the assets and sale of any property, and directs the proceeds to be used solely for humanitarian purposes to benefit the Libyan people. The Government of Libya is defined to include Libya’s Central Bank.

Account Established: The bill requires the President to establish a U.S. government account to hold confiscated funds and the proceeds from any auction of property. The Secretary of the Treasury must hold funds that are not needed immediately to meet urgent humanitarian needs.

Use of Confiscated Funds: The bill authorizes the President to confiscate and vest funds confiscated under section 202 for humanitarian purposes to benefit the Libyan people, consistent with United Nations Security Council resolutions. None may be used to purchase weapons or military equipment. The President must designate recipients of funds and impose appropriate terms and conditions, which may include detailed recordkeeping requirements, on recipients.

The measure prohibits the knowing transfer of funds to: 1) foreign terrorist organizations; 2) supporters of acts of terrorism or of terrorist organizations; 3) a person whose assets are blocked by the International Emergency Economic Powers Act (IEEPA); or 4) a person the President determines to be responsible for violations of internationally recognized human rights.

Framework for Confiscation: The bill authorizes an initial confiscation and distribution of $4 billion; if additional funds are needed, the President may notify Congress of his intent to confiscate an additional $4 billion, to be released within 30 days unless Congress objects via enactment of a Joint Resolution of Disapproval. The measure prohibits the transfer of confiscated funds to: 1) foreign terrorist organizations; 2) supporters of acts of terrorism or of terrorist organizations; 3) a person whose assets are blocked by the IEEPA; or 4) a person the President determines to be responsible for violations of internationally recognized human rights.

Investigations and Recordkeeping: The President may require the appropriate congressional committees to investigate recipients as necessary, and require recordkeeping from recipients of these funds, which could include books of account, enter contracts, return property seized, or provide other information. In the event of a humanitarian emergency, the measure also authorizes the President to notify Congress of his intent to confiscate funds on a continue basis and upon certification of need, an additional $2 billion to meet emergency needs.

Audit and Reporting Requirements: The President must provide a report to Congress every 30 days describing the amount of funds confiscated and transferred to designated recipients, the recipients of these funds, and the manner in which these funds were used. If the President notifies Congress of an additional confiscation in the middle of a fiscal year, the President must also include any new information on fund distribution. GAO is required to conduct and provide to Congress periodic audits of the program.

Penalties: Substantial penalties apply to persons who violate provisions of the Act, including fines provided for under section 205 of IEEPA.

Legal Protections: Judicial Review: Decisions made with respect to confiscated assets are not subject to judicial review; a "good faith" exception is provided for those acting consistent with the requirements of the Act; and any funds or property confiscated under the Act are immune from any legal process or attachment.

Termination: The authorities provided for in the bill terminate once the existing emergency determination of the President under IEEPA with respect to Libya expires. Upon termination, the President must submit to Congress a report describing a plan for use of any remaining funds, including reallocation of such funds to a successor government of Libya.

Regulations: The bill requires the President to prescribe regulations as necessary under the Act.

By Ms. COLLINS (for herself and Mr. CARPER):

S. 1183. A bill to establish a national mercury monitoring program, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Environment and Public Works.

Ms. COLLINS. Mr. President, today along with Senator CARPER, I am introducing the Comprehensive National Mercury Monitoring Act. This bill would require that the Environmental Protection Agency, EPA, has accurate information about the extent of mercury pollution.

A comprehensive national mercury monitoring network is needed to protect human health, safeguard fisheries, and track the impact of emissions reductions. By accurately quantifying regional and local changes in atmospheric deposition, ecosystem contamination, and bioaccumulation of mercury in fish and wildlife, it would be in response to changes in mercury emissions, this monitoring network would help policy makers, scientists, and the public to better understand the sources, consequences, and trends in United States mercury pollution.

Mercury is a potent neurotoxin of significant ecological and public health consequence for children, pregnant women. It is estimated that approximately 410,000 children born in the U.S. were exposed to levels of mercury in the womb that are high enough to impair neurological development. Mercury exposure has gone down as U.S. mercury emissions have declined; however, levels remain unacceptably high.

Each new scientific study seems to find higher levels of mercury in more ecosystems and in more species than we had previously thought. For example, as of 2006, every state in the country has issued mercury advisories for human fish consumption. These advisories cover 57 percent of the Nation’s total lake acreage, and 68 percent of our total river miles. This is 19 percent more lake acreage and 42 percent more river area than in 2006. At present, scientists must rely on limited information to understand the critical links among mercury emissions and environmental response and human health. Successful design, implementation, and assessment of solutions to the mercury pollution problem require comprehensive long-term information. This information is currently not available. We must have more comprehensive information and we must have it soon; otherwise, we risk making misguided policy decisions.

Specifically, the Comprehensive National Mercury Monitoring Act would direct EPA, in conjunction with the Fish and Wildlife Service, U.S. Geological Survey, National Park Service, the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, the appropriate Federal agencies, to establish a national mercury monitoring program to measure and monitor mercury levels in the air and watersheds, water and soil chemistry, and in aquatic and terrestrial organisms at multiple sites across the Nation.

The act would establish a scientific advisory committee to advise on the establishment, site selection, measurement, recording protocols, and operation of the monitoring program; establish a centralized database for existing and newly collected environmental mercury data that can be freely accessed on the Internet; and require a report to Congress every 2 years on the program, including trend data, and an assessment of the reduction in mercury deposition rates that are required to be achieved in order to prevent adverse human and ecological effects every 4 years.

We must establish a comprehensive, robust national mercury monitoring network to provide EPA the data it needs to make decisions that protect the people and environment of Maine and the entire Nation.

By Mr. THUNE (for himself, Ms. KLOBUCHAR, Mr. GRASSLEY, Mr. JOHANNES, Mr. HOEVEN, Mr. FRANKEN, Mr. MORAN, Mr. LUGAR, Mr. NELSON of Nebraska, Mr. NADLER, Mr. JOHNSON of South Dakota, Mr. KIRK, Mr. COATS, Mr. DURBIN, and Mrs. McCASKILL):

S. 1185. A bill to amend the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 to provide for a variable VEETC rate on the price of crude oil, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Finance.

Ms. KLOBUCHAR. Mr. President, I first wish to thank my colleague from Minnesota who spoke before me for his strong words. Also, I am here with the information that Senator THUNE, Mr. HAYAKAWA, and Mr. THUNE, to speak about the legislation we are introducing today, along with several other Senators, to find a good way to handle this—not the way it thus far has been handled.

My colleague from Minnesota talked about Senator COBURN’s amendment, which we will be voting on tomorrow. I urge my colleagues to oppose this amendment. First, all we need to do is invest in homegrown energy. The Coburn amendment would abruptly eliminate the VEETC—the Voluntary Ethanol Excise Tax Credit—without any kind of a glidepath during this year. Consequently, the $50,000 metric Ethanol Excise Tax Credit—this is a situation that needs to change. We are in a difficult budget situation in the Senate, and that is why we are introducing legislation today and working with stakeholders and the Administration to find a reasonable solution that offers a responsible and cost-effective approach to reforming our biofuels policy.

This bill would transition to a more sustainable model of support for renewable fuels, instead of pulling the rug out from under an industry, with 4 days’ notice, that employs hundreds of thousands of people in this country, as well as provides an alternative to oil. Senator THUNE is here, and maybe he wishes to address this a bit. We will go back and forth.

But I think one thing people need to understand is that this biofuels industry has become a major component of our fuel supply. One statistic is that biofuels produce 21 percent of the gasoline that is made from the oil we import from Canada—people know Canada is our biggest trading partner for oil. We literally produce as much biofuels as we produce gas from the oil we import from Canada, so it is a major part of our fuel supply. So we shouldn’t just decide with 4 days’ notice to change the rules of the game. In fact, as a recent vote showed us, oil is keeping every single cent of its subsidy.

Senator THUNE and I have a bill which basically gives away the subsidies for the rest of the year that the biofuels industry has and puts $1 billion toward deficit reduction—$1 billion toward deficit reduction—as well as making some investment with the reining in the money in the infrastructure that this industry needs to be able to compete on any kind of an even playing field with oil.

So I know Senator THUNE has some thoughts on this. It is an issue that would like to come back on this. America likes to come back on this country. But I think it is important to understand the bill we are introducing today could be a major help with $1 billion in deficit reduction.

Mr. THUNE. Mr. President, if I might just say to my colleague from Minnesota, I appreciate her good work and advocacy on this subject. This is something we have been working on for some time, along with some of our colleagues on both sides of the aisle, for a lot of reasons; one of which, of course, is, because, as the Senator from Minnesota mentioned, these are difficult fiscal times.

Obviously, every area in our budget needs to be reviewed and scrutinized and looked at to see where we might be able to achieve some savings. But, as my colleague noted, there is a right way and a wrong way to do this. The way that has been proposed in the amendment that was offered, and on which the cloture vote will occur tomorrow, is the wrong way. We cannot tell the December 31st—we are going to give them a set of policies that are going to be in effect for the year, that they are going to be able to make investment decisions, they are going to be able to go to their lenders, they are going to be able to secure financing based upon this set of policies—we do that around here all the time. We make policy, and we try to do it in a way, hopefully, that gives those who are investing their dollars some certainty about what those policies are going to be, and how can we then, in the middle of the year, come back and say we are just going to pull the rug right out from under them? We are sorry, that is just the way it is. This is gone.

Well, frankly, there is a much better way to go about doing this, and what the Senator from Minnesota and I have proposed does just that and, in my view, does this in a responsible, measured, thoughtful, reasonable way. We get to the same ultimate result, which is that for those who are really interested in doing away with the volumetric ethanol excise tax credit, it does phase it out, but it does it in a way that does not create disruption and harm and allows people to plan for the future. It also invests some of those resources in areas that are important to the future of that industry; namely, blender pumps, which is the one thing that does not exist out there today. It is not in any great numbers. If those pumps were more available, I believe we would see a lot higher usage of the fuel than we already have seen. But we already know it is 10 percent of our fuel supply.

Whether the opponents of this like it or not—and I know they do not—there are 13 billion gallons of ethanol produced in this country. At least that is what it was in 2010. We assume it will be that number, maybe a little higher, this year. That displaces 45 million barrels of imported crude oil. That is 55 million barrels more than the total crude oil imports from Saudi Arabia last year.

Now, think about that: a fuel that is produced from a kernel of corn now displaces more than the entire imports of Saudi foreign oil into this country. That is what we ought to be looking at. We ought to be looking at more ways to produce domestic energy, homegrown energy, adding to our fuel supply rather than taking it out.

What the amendment our colleagues are trying to get a vote on tomorrow would do is basically to say to this industry: Yes, we are going to take away this particular tax incentive, and we are going to do it right in the middle of the year. We are going to do it, and we do not like this industry—which is probably what animates a lot of the opposition to this because if people look at the facts, if they look at the contribution that biofuels have made to our fuel supply in this country, it is significant.

Ten percent of our entire fuel now is biofuels. In fact, if we look at the other biofuels—we take the starch out of that kernel of corn and convert it into liquid form, we can get, for every bushel of corn, almost 3 gallons of ethanol. But we also get dry distillers grain, which is something that has been used extensively now for feed for livestock.

So if we take 5 billion bushels of corn, for example, that are used for ethanol production in any given year, the feed product equivalent is about 1.7 billion gallons of corn that is returned to the livestock food chain as this ethanol byproduct called dry distillers grain. So we are adding additional protein that is fed to livestock in addition to the almost 3 gallons of ethanol we get from every single bushel of corn.

So I do believe there is an approach that makes sense. What the Senator from Minnesota and I and many of our colleagues on both sides have come together around is a way in which we can move forward. That way that not only makes it reasonable for the industry to plan for the future but also in a way that returns dollars to the Treasury of this country because there is $1 billion in here for debt retirement. I think that is something the industry recognizes, we all recognize, and we need to address. It is addressed as part of this bill.

So I appreciate the good work of the Senator from Minnesota in working with me, along with other colleagues of ours, to introduce the bill we introduce today.

Ms. KLOBUCHAR. Mr. President, if I may continue, I thank Senator Thune for his work.

One point I think he made that is incredibly important: I think not all of our colleagues understand that the way it is under the current rules is VEETC, which has been in place to make sure we have an alternative to oil in this country, ends at the end of this year. The alternative that continues for another year is the cellulosic research, the cellulosic credit. But the rest of it ends at the end of this year.

So instead of looking at a glidepath, as suggested in our bill, where we could take $1 billion and put it into deficit reduction, and take another $1 billion or so—which would be going right now as a credit—and put that into the infrastructure, the alternative that is cost supported by the amendment by our colleague from Oklahoma is just to cut it off today, basically, with a few days' notice.

What I have heard time and time again from businesses—whether it is in the energy area or in the medical device area—is they want certainty. They do not want Washington just coming in with one day's notice and changing things. That is why I ask my colleagues to look at this bill as an alternative. We are glad to discuss details with them.

One of the things we have tried to do with this bill is to acknowledge the emerging field of cellulosic with algae and other forms of research into biofuels. That would end next year. But, basically, the proposal Senator Thune and I have put forward would end VEETC as we know it.

We look at the comparisons here. Over the last few decades more than $80 billion worth of subsidies have gone to the oil companies. That is nearly 10 times greater than the investments we have made in home-grown biofuels. Now they are set up in a different way, but those are the numbers. What they have with biofuels are jobs that are made in America. We are basically investing in the farmers and the workers of the Midwest instead of the oil cartels in the Mideast.

I have seen the boom in oil drilling in North Dakota. That has been a good thing. So I am not just a one-size fuel person. But I think to disrupt an industry like this, with no notice, is the wrong way to go. I hope our colleagues look at the jobs at our bill seriously, talk to us about this, think about the gas prices which have now topped $3.75 per gallon. While they are high now, look at the fact that the Chicago Tribune looked at the fact that if we ceased to produce the 13 billion gallons of ethanol we make every year, as Senator Thune has pointed out, it would drive up prices at the pump by as much as $1.40 per gallon. I do not think that is something we can afford right now.

We are putting together a faith proposal that basically even those who have a lot of questions about biofuels right now, about ethanol, will have to admit is a dramatic change. It ends VEETC as we know it. It puts a big chunk of change, $1 billion—that otherwise would be given this year, right now—toward deficit reduction while still allowing for that infrastructure investment, and then looking into next year for just some of the key pieces but severely changing any kind of subsidy for this industry.

So with that, I thank Senator Thune. I do not know if the Senator has something else to add.
Mr. THUNE. Mr. President, if I might add one point.

I think the Senator from Minnesota did point out that there are a significant number of jobs that are associated with this industry—in fact, one-half million jobs. They are American jobs. They are jobs in the heartland of this country. They are jobs that help grow the economy, make it more prosperous. It strikes me, at least, that what we ought to be looking at is more jobs in this country and less investment in foreign regimes, where we get a lot of our energy today.

Mr. President, $1 billion a day is what we send outside the United States because of our addiction to foreign oil. We have a dangerous dependence upon foreign energy, and we have a fuel that, as I said, displaces 445 million barrels of oil every single year—more than we import from Saudi Arabia. That is a pretty remarkable number when you think about it.

We had a debate here a few weeks ago on the floor of the Senate about whether we ought to change tax policy with regard to oil companies. The decision was reached that we should not do that; that it would be punitive, directed at oil companies. We decided, too, that it would raise taxes on gas for people in this country.

I would make the same argument today. We are talking about a tax increase—a large tax increase—which we know gas prices will get passed on. So we are talking about raising taxes on consumers at a time when they can least afford it.

We have today 3½ to $4-a-gallon gasoline. The last thing consumers in this country need is something that would actually push that gas price higher. In fact, if we did away with biofuels altogether—which some people would like to do—there was a study out last year, in 2010, that said the price per gallon of gasoline would go up by 89 cents a gallon. So we have a proposal here that would have an adverse impact on energy prices, fuel prices for people in this country, which, frankly, again, because of the commitment that was made last December strikes at the very heart of economic certainty, which so many of us come down here and talk about: the importance of having policies in place that are reliable, that people who are investing in particular areas of our economy can know they are going to be there, at least when Congress makes a commitment.

This completely undermines the commitment Congress made back in December that this particular tax credit would be in place until the end of the year. So what the Senator from Minnesota and I have done is propose a path forward that we believe makes sense and that is a thoughtful, measured, reasonable, responsible way in which to get to the goal that many of the provisions we have proposed that will be voted on tomorrow want to get to; that is, to phase down the volumetric ethanol excise tax credit. But it does it in a way that makes sense for American consumers and those who have investments in the industry today.

So I hope my colleagues will take a look at this legislation. We think we can get it moving this year. It does, as the Senator from Minnesota, put a significant amount toward reducing the debt, which I think is something all of our colleagues are very interested in doing. So we will present this legislation, obviously, to our colleagues and hope there will be many who will choose to support it.

Mr. President, I yield the floor back to the Senator from Minnesota.

Ms. KLOBUCHAR. Mr. President, again, we just hope our colleagues will look at this bill. It is a serious bill and very different than other bills that have been proposed in the past, and it actually takes existing money that was set out for the end of this year and puts a big number—$1 billion—into debt reduction.

SUBMITTED RESOLUTIONS

SENATE RESOLUTION 207—SUPPORTING NATIONAL MEN’S HEALTH WEEK

Mr. CRAPO submitted the following resolution; which was considered and agreed to:

S. Res. 207

Whereas despite advances in medical technology and research, men continue to live an average of more than 5 years less than women, and African-American men have the lowest life expectancy; Whereas 9 of the 10 leading causes of death, as defined by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, affect men at a higher percentage than women; Whereas between ages 45 and 54, men are over 1½ times more likely than women to die of heart attacks; Whereas men die of heart disease at 1½ times the rate of women; Whereas men die of cancer at almost 1½ times the rate of women; Whereas testicular cancer is 1 of the common cancers in men aged 15 to 34, and, when detected early, has a 96 percent survival rate; Whereas the number of cases of colon cancer among men dropped almost 49,470 by 2010, and nearly half of those men will die from the disease; Whereas the likelihood that a man will develop prostate cancer in his lifetime is 1 in 6; Whereas appropriate use of tests such as prostate specific antigen exams, blood pressure screens, and cholesterol screens, in combination with self-testing for problems such as testicular cancer, can result in the detection of many of those problems in their early stages and increase the survival rates to nearly 100 percent;

Whereas women are 2 times more likely than men to visit their health center or physician for regular screening examinations of male-related problems for a variety of reasons;

Whereas Congress established National Men’s Health Week in 1994 and urged men and their families to engage in appropriate health behaviors, and the resulting increased awareness has improved health-related education and helped prevent illness; Whereas the Governors of all 50 States issue proclamations annually declaring Men’s Health Week in their respective States; Whereas since 1994, National Men’s Health Week has been celebrated each June by dozens of States, cities, localities, public health departments, health care entities, churches, community organizations throughout the United States that promote health awareness events focused on men and family; Whereas the National Men’s Health Week Internet website has been established at www.menshealthweek.org and features Governors’ proclamations and National Men’s Health Week events; Whereas men who are educated about the value that preventive health can play in prolonging their lifespan and their roles as productive family members will be more likely to participate in health screenings;

Whereas men and their families are encouraged to increase their awareness of the importance of a healthy lifestyle, regular exercise, and medical checkups;

Whereas June 13 through 19, 2011, is National Men’s Health Week; and Whereas the purpose of National Men’s Health Week is to heighten the awareness of preventable health problems and encourage early detection and treatment of disease among men and boys:

Resolved, That the Senate—

(1) supports the annual National Men’s Health Week; and

(2) calls upon the people of the United States and interested groups to observe National Men’s Health Week with appropriate ceremonies and activities.

AMENDMENTS SUBMITTED AND PROPOSED

SA 459. Mr. INHOFE submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the bill S. 782, to amend the Public Works and Economic Development Act of 1965 to reauthorize that Act, and for other purposes; which was ordered to lie on the table.

SA 460. Mr. DeMINT submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the bill S. 782, supra; which was ordered to lie on the table.

SA 461. Mr. ENZI submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the bill S. 782, supra; which was ordered to lie on the table.

SA 462. Mr. GRASSLEY submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the bill S. 782, supra; which was ordered to lie on the table.
SA 463. Mr. MENENDEZ submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the bill S. 782, supra; which was ordered to lie on the table.

SA 459. Mr. INHOFE submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the bill S. 782, supra; to amend the Public Works and Economic Development Act of 1965 to reauthorize that Act, and for other purposes; which was ordered to lie on the table.

TEXT OF AMENDMENTS

SA 459. Mr. INHOFE submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the bill S. 782, supra; to amend the Public Works and Economic Development Act of 1965 to reauthorize that Act, and for other purposes; which was ordered to lie on the table; as follows:

SEC. 13. AMENDMENT TO AMEND THE Internal Revenue Code of 1986 to Treat S Corporations as Eligible for Certain Credit.

SEC. 3. CLOSURE OF BIG OIL TAX LOOPHOLES.

(a) FINDINGS.—Congress finds that—

(1) gas prices have risen significantly large recently in the United States, North Africa and the Middle East, unrelenting speculation is capitalizing on increased oil futures prices and making huge profits; and

(2) by raising the quality of life of the people of the United States, cutting savings, and jeopardizing jobs and the economic recovery of the United States; and

(3) to prevent the regulatory reforms enacted by Congress in the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act (Public Law 111–203, 124 Stat. 1556) from eroding the regulatory framework to compensate for any supply shortage experienced in member countries; and

(b) SENSE OF SENATE ON HIGH GAS PRICES.—

(1) the President and Administration should be commended for recognizing the severity of high gas prices and taking appropriate action to help reduce gas prices, including actions—

(A) to move forward with expeditious and responsible decision making in the Gulf of Mexico and elsewhere;

(B) to form a Task Force led by the Department of Justice to investigate and eliminate oil and gas price gouging and market manipulation;

(c) to establish a national oil savings goal to cut imports by 10% by 2013;

(D) to call for 1,000,000 electric vehicles to be on the road by 2015;

(E) to harmonize corporate average fuel standards under section 32802 of title 49, United States Code, (CAFE) and carbon pollution standards to achieve 1,800,000,000 barrels in oil savings from new vehicles built before 2017, and working with stakeholders to increase those savings from future year vehicles;

(F) to establish the National Clean Fleets Partnership and Green Fleet Initiative to reduce diesel and gasoline use in fleets and incorporate electric vehicles, alternative fuels like natural gas, and efficiency measures; and

(G) to clarify and expand the use of E-15 fuel for new motor vehicles;

(2) Congress should take additional actions to complement the efforts of the President, including enacting provisions—

(A) to encourage diligent and responsible development of domestic oil and gas resources onshore and offshore;

(B) to eliminate subsidies for major oil and gas companies and the savings to promote research, development, and deployment of affordable alternative fuels and vehicles;

(C) to give consumers choices at the pump and incentives for buying vehicles that displace petroleum consumption; and

(D) to direct and fund the Commodity Futures Trading Commission and the Federal Trade Commission to rapidly implement the energy consumer protection requirements of the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act (Public Law 111–203, 124 Stat. 1076);

(3) the Organization of the Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) should contribute to the stabilization of world oil markets and prices and reduce the burden of high gasoline prices borne by the consumers in the United States by using existing idle oil production capacity to supply shortages experienced in member countries; and

(4) the economic, environmental, and national security of the United States depend on a sustained effort to drastically reduce and eventually eliminate the dependency of the United States on oil.

(c) MODIFICATIONS OF FOREIGN TAX CREDIT RULES APPLICABLE TO MAJOR INTEGRATED OIL COMPANIES WHICH ARE DUAL CAPACITY TAXPAYERS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Section 901 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 is amended by redesignating subsection (c) as subsection (o) and by inserting after subsection (m) the following new subsection:

"(m) SPECIAL RULES RELATING TO MAJOR INTEGRATED OIL COMPANIES WHICH ARE DUAL CAPACITY TAXPAYERS.—

"(1) GENERAL RULE.—Notwithstanding any other provision of this chapter, any amount paid or accrued by a dual capacity taxpayer which is a major integrated oil company (as defined in section 167(h)(5)(B)) to any foreign country or possession of the United States for any period shall not be considered a tax—

"(A) if, for such period, the foreign country or possession does not impose a generally applicable income tax, or

"(B) to the extent such amount exceeds the amount determined in accordance with regulations which—

"(i) is paid by such dual capacity taxpayer pursuant to the generally applicable income tax imposed by the country or possession, or

"(ii) would be paid if the generally applicable income tax imposed by the country or possession were applicable to such dual capacity taxpayer.

Nothing in this paragraph shall be construed to imply the proper treatment of any such amount not in excess of the amount determined under subparagraph (A) or (B) or higher as world demand grows as

(1) the oil production policies of cartel of OPEC as long as the United States depends on foreign oil; and

(2) the economic, environmental, and national security of the United States depend on a sustained effort to drastically reduce and eventually eliminate the dependency of the United States on oil.

(d) LIMITATION ON SECTION 199 DEDUCTION ATTRIBUTABLE TO OIL, NATURAL GAS, OR PRIMARY PRODUCTS THEROF.—

(1) DENIAL OF DEDUCTION.—Paragraph (4) of section 199(a) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 is amended by adding at the end the following new subparagraph:

"(b) SPECIAL RULE FOR CERTAIN OIL AND GAS INCOME.—In the case of any taxpayer who is a major integrated oil company (as defined in section 167(h)(5)(B)) for the taxable year, the term 'domestic production gross receivables' shall not include gross receipts from the production, transportation, or distribution of oil, natural gas, or any primary product (within the meaning of subsection (d)(9) thereof).

(2) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendment made by this subsection shall apply to taxable years beginning after December 31, 2011.

(e) LIMITATION ON DEDUCTION FOR INTANGIBLE DRILLING AND DEVELOPMENT COSTS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Section 280(e) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 is amended by adding at the end the following new sentence:

"(d) SPECIAL RULE FOR CERTAIN OIL AND GAS INCOME.—In the case of any taxpayer who is a major integrated oil company (as defined in section 167(h)(5)(B)) for the taxable year, the term 'domestic production gross receivables' shall not include gross receipts from the production, transportation, or distribution of oil, natural gas, or any primary product (within the meaning of subsection (d)(9) thereof).

(2) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendment made by this subsection shall apply to amounts paid or accrued in taxable years beginning after December 31, 2011.
The amendments made by this subsection shall apply to taxable years beginning after December 31, 2011.

NOTICE OF HEARING

COMMITTEE ON INDIAN AFFAIRS

Mr. AKAKA. Mr. President, I would like to announce that the Committee on Indian Affairs will meet on Thursday, June 23, 2011, at 2:15 p.m. in room 628 of the Dirksen Senate Office Building to conduct a hearing entitled ‘The Indian Reorganization Act—75 Years Later: Renewing our Commitment to Restore Tribal Homelands and Promote Self-Determination.’

Those wishing additional information may contact the Indian Affairs Committee at (202) 224-2251.

The PRESIDENT OFFICER. The majority leader.
SUPPORTING NATIONAL MEN’S HEALTH WEEK

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate proceed to S. Res. 207.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report the resolution by title.

The legislative clerk reads as follows:

A resolution (S. Res. 207) Supporting National Men’s Health Week:

There being no objection, the Senate proceeded to consider the resolution.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the resolution be agreed to, the preamble be agreed to, and the motions to reconsider be laid upon the table.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The resolution (S. Res. 207) was agreed to.

The preamble was agreed to.

The resolution, with its preamble, reads as follows:

S. Res. 207

Whereas despite advances in medical technology and research, men continue to live an average of more than 5 years less than women; and

Whereas African-American men have the lowest life expectancy; and

Whereas women are 2 times more likely than men to visit their doctor for annual examinations and preventive services; and

Whereas men are less likely than women to visit their health care center or physician for regular screening examinations of male-related problems for a variety of reasons; and

Whereas Congress established National Men’s Health Week and urged men and their families to engage in appropriate health behaviors, and the resulting increased awareness has improved health-related education and helped prevent illness; and

Whereas the Governors of all 50 States issue proclamations annually declaring Men’s Health Week in their respective States; and

Whereas since 1994, National Men’s Health Week has been celebrated each June by dozens of States, cities, localities, public health departments, health care entities, churches, and community organizations throughout the United States that promote health awareness and events focused on men and family; and

Whereas the National Men’s Health Week Internet website has been established at www.menshealthweek.org and features Governors’ proclamations and National Men’s Health Week events; and

Whereas many of whom are educated about the value that preventive health can play in prolonging their lifespan and their roles as productive family members will be more likely to participate in health screenings; and

Whereas men and their families are encouraged to increase their awareness of the importance of a healthy lifestyle, regular exercise, and medical checkups; and

Whereas June 13 through 19, 2011, is National Men’s Health Week; and

Whereas the purpose of National Men’s Health Week is to heighten the awareness of preventable health problems and encourage early detection and treatment of disease among men and, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Senate—

(1) supports the annual National Men’s Health Week; and

(2) calls upon the people of the United States and interested groups to observe National Men’s Health Week with appropriate ceremonies and activities.

ORDER OF PROCEDURE

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that on Tuesday, June 14, following the 2:15 cloture vote on the Coburn amendment No. 436, as modified, the Senator from Minnesota be recognized as in morning business for debate only or for up to 20 minutes for the purpose of delivering his maiden speech in the Senate.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

APPOINTMENT

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair, on behalf of the Vice President, pursuant to 22 U.S.C. 276c-276k, as amended, appoints the following Senator as Vice Chairman of the Mexico-U.S. Intergovernmental Group during the 112th Congress: the Senator from Texas (Mrs. Hutchison).

ORDERS FOR TUESDAY, JUNE 14, 2011

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that when the Senate completes its business today, it adjourn until 10 a.m. on Tuesday, June 14; that following the prayer and pledge, the Journal of proceedings be approved to date, the morning hour be deemed expired, the time for the two leaders be reserved for their use later in the day; that the Senate proceed to a period of morning business until 11 a.m., with Senators permitted to speak for up to 10 minutes each, with the time equally divided and controlled between the two leaders or their designees, with the majority controlling the first half; that following morning business, the Senate proceed to executive session under the previous order; further, that the filing deadline for second-degree amendments to the Coburn amendment No. 436, as modified, be at 11:30 tomorrow morning.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

ETHANOL

Mr. THUNE. Mr. President, the Senator from Oklahoma has a strongly held view about ethanol, particularly on this issue, on the VEETC, and I understand that. I understand there are Members who would like to see that particular tax credit go away. I understand that. What the Senator from Minnesota and I have come up with is a way for them to achieve that objective, but it does what it is supposed to do. It is measured, and which doesn’t totally, in the middle of the year, abruptly disrupt an industry and all of the investments that have been made.

The question I ask my colleague is, does our word mean anything around here? We passed this in December. There were 81 Senators who voted for a package of tax extenders, one of which was the volumetric ethanol excise tax credit. Eighty-one Senators are on record. If you want to do away with it, there are lots of ways you can do that. But the way the Senator from Oklahoma is proposing to do that is to say, tomorrow let’s pass this and end it. It is $2.5 billion we can save the taxpayers. Well, about $500 million a month, if this is going to cost. With every month that goes by, there is a little less available to the taxpayer.

What we are saying is that we put in a billion dollar policy into this proposal that would go toward debt retirement, and we phase out the tax credit to which the Senator from Oklahoma refers, and we take a very forward-looking, futuristic-type view toward ethanol production in this country, biofuels production in this country. We are going to be capped out at 15 billion gallons, which is the RFS, the renewable fuel standard to which the Senator from Oklahoma referred. We are going to hit that. Then we have to get to the next generation of biofuels. With all due respect to my colleague from Oklahoma, methanol is not a realistic option. You would have to retool every plant in this country. We have 204 plants in America today that, directly and indirectly, employ 500,000 Americans. Those are the jobs that are impacted. We have had policy on the books now for nearly 30 years that has encouraged the investment in these plants on the belief that we need to get beyond dependence on foreign sources of energy. That ought to be our energy policy, and we ought to be looking to producing more.

I am for oil and gas. The reason I voted against the proposals leveled a couple of weeks ago that would have targeted the oil and gas industry is because I think we need all forms of energy—oil and gas, clean coal, biofuels, nuclear, and we need any form of energy we can generate and produce in the United States. I am for it. That is why I think the future of this industry is still very bright, because I think there is an advanced biofuels future out there, and a cellulosic ethanol, next-generation ethanol, whatever you want to call it, where we can make it from biomass, from blue sunlight grass, from corn stover, and these types of products. That is out there. But you don’t get there unless you have a corn-based platform to start with.

The Senator talked about a renewable fuel standard and talked about this being redundant public policy. One of our colleagues from South Carolina introduced this bill that would end that. I assume—I don’t know this for a fact—that my colleague from Oklahoma would support that amendment, which would do away with the renewable fuel standard.

Mr. COBURN. Will the Senator yield? Mr. THUNE. Certainly.

Mr. COBURN. The Senator obviously didn’t hear what I said. I said I support ethanol, and I would not support that. I have been upfront with the Senator in the past, and you know my position on that.

So the question here—and I ask him a question: How do you fit what this up and how about this $3 billion, who the Senator says they don’t want—why would they say that if it is going to have a negative impact on their industry?

Mr. THUNE. Well, I say to my colleague from Oklahoma that I was not aware he said he supports ethanol. I was not aware he supports the RFS. If there is an amendment offered to strike the RFS, which there will be—am I wrong in saying the Senator would oppose that amendment?

Mr. COBURN. I will oppose that amendment. My worry is because of the process of the Senate, we may not get that amendment to vote on. My colleague, as an auctioneer, would recognize that we have a problem with amendments.

Mr. THUNE. I don’t disagree with that. There is an issue I have not argued. It is your prerogative to bring this up and to have the $3 billion, who the Senator says they don’t want—why would they say that if it is going to have a negative impact on their industry?

Mr. COBURN. Will the Senator yield? saying that we should. I have come to the Senate with a proposal to do that. That is not something, obviously, that he agrees to. That is fine. He is entitled to not support that. But I believe we ought to reform it. I think the way we reform it is do it in a reasonable way that doesn’t cut it off tomorrow but, rather, phases it out.

I think that for the Senator from Oklahoma, to me, it is something that is a win for him as well. He gets what he wants. He gets the phaseout, $1 billion in debt reduction, and if this thing goes to the end of the year, we get zero. We get goose-egged.

This thing expires at the end of the year. Whether it gets extended or not remains to be seen. But one thing we know with certainty is that I am putting a proposal on the table today that gets $1 billion in reduction, that provides some certainty at least in phasing out the VEETC and also makes an investment in blender pumps, which is something that is very important to the future of the industry.

So I think it is a reasonable way to deal with this issue.

The Senator from Oklahoma and I have a disagreement, and that is probably not going to change. But I am offering what I think is a reasonable proposal that gets you where you want to end up and I think also is a way in which we can keep this industry from having the rug pulled out from under them after we made a commitment to them in December of last year.

Mr. President, I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Oklahoma.

Mr. COBURN. Mr. President, let me make a couple of points.

When the Federal Government writes a tax credit, that means we take money from our Treasury, which is empty; therefore, we borrow it, and we write a check to people. When we have an “accelerated appreciation,” what we do is allow people to pay less back in, an “accelerated appreciation,” what we write a check to people. When we have empty; therefore, we borrow it, and we money from our Treasury, which is a tax credit, that means we take make a couple of points. This is because they are afraid that they will actually be able to deal with the large blenders of gasoline, the reason why there is such a resistance to it.

The reason is because the oil and gas industry has actually gone out there and found an environmentally smart way to produce tons of gas liquids, which are easier to convert into fuel than anything—easier than oil, easier than any other product we have.

We have gotten ourselves in this mix where, actually, what people don’t realize is we are down to only 47 percent of our oil coming into this country is coming from outside now. We have moved from 62 down to 47 percent, and the reason is because the oil and gas industry has actually gone out there and found an environmentally smart way to produce tons of gas liquids, which are easier to convert into fuel than anything—easier than oil, easier than any other product we have.

So I think it is a reasonable way to deal with this issue.

The Senator from Oklahoma and I have a disagreement, and that is probably not going to change. But I am offering what I think is a reasonable proposal that gets you where you want to end up and I think also is a way in which we can keep this industry from having the rug pulled out from under them after we made a commitment to them in December of last year.

Mr. President, I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Oklahoma.

Mr. COBURN. Mr. President, let me make a couple of points.

When the Federal Government writes a tax credit, that means we take money from our Treasury, which is empty; therefore, we borrow it, and we write a check to people. When we have an “accelerated appreciation,” what we do is allow people to pay less back in, a big difference.

How many of the ethanol refineries and blenders are not represented by this group? It is about 11 percent. They all reside in the upper Midwest. That is why there is such a resistance to it.

When I met with the representatives of the ethanol industry, the reason they don’t want the credit to go away is because they are afraid that they won’t be able to compete as hard as a bargain with the large blenders of gasoline, that they will actually be able to determine what their grind cost is—in other words, what their true cost is.

The difference between what the Senator from Minnesota and the Senator from South Dakota offer is $2 billion. That is the only difference. Theirs is just denial and spend $1 billion on pumps and infrastructure—money we don’t have—and mine is to say quit doing it because we are going to blend the ethanol anyway. That is the only difference in the two programs. One continues to subsidize noneconomic blenders, obviously, because they want to keep the vast majority of people are producing ethanol-blended gasoline. And they say: How did they ever get to the point in our country where the Federal Government is going to tell you that you have to buy a gasoline that is only 65 percent as efficient as the gasoline you were buying? And, oh, by the way, because it is only 65 percent efficient, it actually pollutes more. That is why in this list of people supporting this are all the environmental groups, because they know it is a bad policy.

The reason I support a mandated level of ethanol is that until we have a cogent drilling policy in this country that says we are going to actually utilize our own resources, we need to keep ethanol. But what really ought to happen is we ought to let markets determine it. We will all be better off. We will have less government regulation, we will have less Tax Code expenditure and the markets will determine what the most efficient is by what the people will buy—what people will buy, what they want to buy. It is called freedom.

We have gotten ourselves in this mix where, actually, what people don’t realize is we are down to only 47 percent of our oil coming into this country is coming from outside now. We have moved from 62 down to 47 percent, and the reason is because the oil and gas industry has actually gone out there and found an environmentally smart way to produce tons of gas liquids, which are easier to convert into fuel than anything—easier than oil, easier than any other product we have.

So the Senator didn’t really answer why the people who are getting the money don’t want it and yet we should continue sending it to them.

Ask yourself the question. We are broke, we are going to run a $1.4 trillion debt, $1.5 trillion deficit this year and here is a way to save $3 billion, and the people we are going to send the money to—and borrow the money to be able to send it to them—don’t want it. Yet they cannot answer why they do not want it. This represents 97 percent of all the blending in the country. They don’t want the money and we are going to sit here as a body and continue to send them money they do not want? Go home and explain that to your constituents.

From which child are we going to take opportunity because we do not have the courage to do the smart thing? We have a mandate. They have to blend it. They are making a ton of money.

One final point, and I will let the Senate staff go home. Every time you go home to buy a gallon of gasoline today, the price you pay at the pump is not the price you pay. If you look at all the subsidies that are going to ethanol, when you go look at that $3.75—or that $4 around here, $3.50 in Oklahoma and Colorado—add $1.72 per gallon to it because that is what you paid in terms of the government support for the ethanol program in terms of subsidies, $1.72 a gallon. You buy it for $3.50, add $1.72, and you are paying $5.22 a gallon. You just don’t know that we have picked your pocket through the government expenditures. Out of your taxes you paid, we pay them $1.72 per gallon. It makes no sense. What this does is eliminate 45 cents of that. It doesn’t take it all away, the grants and the loans, the low-interest loans.

The other thing people do not recognize is most of the ethanol plants, even with this subsidy, have been bought out because they were not economical because they did not know how to run them. That is why most of them ended up with the large companies, because they did not know how to run them, they were not efficient, and now they are profitable even without the blenders credit.

It is a simple question: Do we save $3 billion or save $1 billion? I tell you, with what is in front of us as a Nation with our $14.3 trillion debt, I am going to opt for the kids who follow us and the grandkids. I am going for the $3 billion, not $1 billion. I yield the floor.

ADJOURNMENT UNTIL 10 A.M. TOMORROW

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senate stands adjourned until 10 a.m. tomorrow.

Thereupon, the Senate, at 7:02 p.m., adjourned until Tuesday, June 14, 2011, at 10 a.m.

EDWARDS, JOHNSON & HUBBARD FAMILY REUNION

HON. HENRY C. “HANK” JOHNSON, JR.
OF GEORGIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, June 13, 2011

Mr. JOHNSON of Georgia. Mr. Speaker, Whereas, in the mid 1800s, the union of Hennyetta Hubbard and William Johnson in Choctaw County, Mississippi has blessed us with descendants that have helped to shape our Nation; and
Whereas, the Hubbard and Johnson union produced many well respected citizens, today we honor all of the matriarchs and patriarchs, who are pillars of strength for the Edwards, Johnson and Hubbard families; and
Whereas, in our beloved Fourth Congressional District of Georgia, we are honored to have many members of the Edwards, Johnson and Hubbard families, such as Ms. Dorothy Edwards, who are some of our most productive citizens in our District; and
Whereas, family is one of the most honored and cherished institutions in the world, we take pride in knowing that families such as the Edwards, Johnson and Hubbard families have set aside this time to fellowship with each other, honor one another and to pass along history to each other by meeting at this year’s family reunion in the Fourth Congressional District.

Now therefore, I, HENRY C. “HANK” JOHNSON, Jr., do hereby proclaim July 22, 2011 as Fourth District of Georgia has set aside this day to honor and recognize the Edwards, Johnson and Hubbard families; and

WHEREAS, family is one of the most honored and cherished institutions in the world, we take pride in knowing that families such as the Edwards, Johnson and Hubbard families have set aside this time to fellowship with each other, honor one another and to pass along history to each other by meeting at this year’s family reunion in the Fourth Congressional District.

Whereas, the U.S. Representative of the Fourth District of Georgia has set aside this day to honor and recognize the Edwards, Johnson and Hubbard families;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, HENRY C. “HANK” JOHNSON, JR., DO HEREBY PROCLAIM JULY 22, 2011 AS EDWARDS, JOHNSON & HUBBARD FAMILY REUNION DAY IN THE 4TH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT.

Proclaimed, this 22nd day of July, 2011.

HONORING HABITAT FOR HUMANITY OF GREATER NEW HAVEN AS THEY CELEBRATE THEIR 25TH ANNIVERSARY

HON. ROSA L. DELAURO
OF CONNECTICUT
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, June 13, 2011

Ms. DELAURO. Mr. Speaker, it is with great pleasure that I rise today to join the supporters and volunteers gathered this evening to congratulate Habitat for Humanity of Greater New Haven as they celebrate their silver anniversary. In its 25 year history this outstanding organization, fueled by the generosity and energy of its volunteers, has revitalized many of our neighborhoods and enhanced the quality of life in our community. Theirs is a mission that is quite literally reflected in the theme of this celebration—building hope, lives, and neighborhoods.

Over the course of its history, Habitat for Humanity of Greater New Haven has forged partnerships with individuals, religious and civic organizations, as well as local businesses and corporations that have translated into homeownership opportunities for more than eighty families. Offering a hand up rather than a hand out, families who qualify for the homebuyers program work side by side with community volunteers to build their home, investing a minimum of 400 “sweat equity” hours to the project. The families’ personal investment also translates into their personal investment in the community.

Founded by a group of community leaders, Habitat for Humanity of Greater New Haven, like its sister chapters across the country, is a real grassroots organization. It encourages people to dedicate their words and actions to the elimination of poverty housing and attracts more than 2,000 volunteers every year. The need for affordable and safe housing is as much a need today as it was when this local organization was founded 25 years ago and it is heartening to know that there are so many who so willingly devote their time and energies to these efforts.

I would like to take this opportunity to extend my deepest thanks and appreciation to the many volunteers and donors who have gathered tonight to celebrate this remarkable milestone. Without their generosity, compassion, and willingness to devote their time and energy, the mission of Habitat for Humanity would not be possible. Whether they have donated funds, construction material, or simply spent their time, it has been through their good work that Habitat for Humanity of Greater New Haven has been able to make such a difference in our community.

A home is so much more than simply a roof over one’s head—it is a source of pride, comfort, independence and stability. This is the gift of Habitat for Humanity and I have been proud to support the good work that they have accomplished throughout Greater New Haven. I am honored to stand today to extend my heartfelt congratulations to Habitat for Humanity of Greater New Haven on their 25th Anniversary. I have no doubt that they will continue their extraordinary contributions for as long as there is a need.

BOB HENLEY TRIBUTE

HON. SCOTT R. TIPTON
OF COLORADO
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, June 13, 2011

Mr. TIPTON. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize Bob Henley for his outstanding service as a founding member of the Chimney Rock Interpretive Association in the San Juan National Forest.

In 1996, Mr. Henley began working as a tour guide for Chimney Rock, which helped to foster his appreciation of the archeological area, and urged him to seek that tours of the ruins be independently operated in order to ensure the area receive proper attention and upkeep. In 2003, Mr. Henley’s work helped to make Chimney Rock an independent organization.

Because of his efforts and the efforts of many volunteers, the Chimney Rock Interpretive Association hosts nearly 11,000 visitors in total each year, allowing it to be independently funded and operated. In addition, the Association is able to give elementary schools free tours, educating between 300 and 500 students about the history of the Chimney Rock Archeological site every year.

Mr. Speaker, it is my honor to recognize Bob Henley today. His service has provided many assets to the Chimney Rock Interpretive Association and the San Juan National Forest.

HONORING LILA STERN

HON. ELIO T. ENGEL
OF NEW YORK
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, June 13, 2011

Mr. ENGEL. Mr. Speaker, Hebrew School teacher and long-time community volunteer Lila Stern of Rockland County, is being honored by Congregation Shaaray Israel at their annual Journal Dinner Dance on June 12, 2011. For her numerous contributions to her community, Lila will receive the congregation’s prestigious “Woman of Valor” award.

Lila has served as a leader of the Rockland Jewish community since 1953. As her husband Jules rose to the head of their congregation in the 1970s, Lila sought to encourage women’s involvement in the Jewish issues as Chairwoman of Rockland County Israel Bonds Women’s Division, President of Sisterhood at the Jewish Community Center, and a lifelong member of Hadassah.

In addition to her work in the Jewish community, Lila pursued a career as a “Professional Volunteer.”

While raising three children, she took the time to work as a Pink Lady at Good Samaritan Hospital and as a literacy volunteer.

Lila now works as an adult teacher at Shaaray Israel where she teaches a class on Jewish appreciation. Every Wednesday she leads a discussion on Jewish issues ranging from religious issues to Israeli politics.

As a grandmother of 11, Lila has instilled in her family a respect for Jewish tradition as well as a sense of gratitude and support for the state of Israel, which she and her husband travel to frequently. Her visits to Israel began in 1950, when she first went with her parents lugging suitcases of clothing as well as money for the needy of the fledgling new country.

Through her charity and tireless dedication to her community, Lila has certainly earned her title as a “Woman of Valor,” and I congratulate her on this honor.
work towards our shared goals of advancing the safety and security of Israel and creating a lasting peace.

CARL TAYLOR TRIBUTE

HON. SCOTT R. TIPTON
OF COLORADO

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, June 13, 2011

Mr. TIPTON. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize Carl Taylor, a farmer, soldier, and Colorado Native who lived his life in service of his country and family.

Mr. Taylor was born in Blanca, Colorado on May 16, 1919. Shortly after his twenty-third birthday, Mr. Taylor joined the U.S. Army. He was assigned to Fort Bliss in Company B, 271st Infantry, which eventually allowed him to serve in military campaigns all over the world. He was involved in the Battle of the Bulge, as well as other campaigns in Tunisia, Naples, Rhinelands, Rome, and Southern France.

After the war, Mr. Taylor returned to Colorado where he farmed barley. He and his wife lived in Center, Colorado, where they eventually began to distribute their barley to the Colorado Coors factory. On January 8, 2008, Mr. Taylor and his wife, Mona, retired and moved to the Colorado State Veteran Center at Homelake, Colorado.

Mr. Speaker, it is an honor to recognize Carl Taylor today. Throughout his life he has served as an outstanding soldier and citizen, and his great life achievements deserve to be noted.

IN RECOGNITION AND REMEMBRANCE OF MR. LUTHER R. GATLING

HON. CHARLES B. RANGEL
OF NEW YORK

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, June 13, 2011

Mr. RANGEL. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor Mr. Luther Gatling, the Consul General of Israel to Florida and Puerto Rico for his many years of service to the South Florida Jewish Community, which is being honored this evening by the Jewish Community Relations Council of the Jewish Federation of South Palm Beach County.

The son of Israeli diplomats, Mr. Gatling has dedicated his life to public service since his graduation from the Hebrew University of Jerusalem with dual degrees in International Relations and Middle Eastern Studies. Like many Israelis, Mr. Gatling courageously served his country in the Israel Defense Forces, rising to the rank of Captain.

In 1991, Mr. Gatling joined Israel’s Foreign Ministry, and has since served his country in Israel’s Embassies around the world, including Madrid and Rome. Mr. Gatling’s success as a diplomat and foreign policy expert led to his appointment as a Policy Advisor to the Foreign Minister of Israel in 2005. Subsequently, Mr. Gatling was appointed Counselor in the Foreign Ministry's North America Division in 2006.

Mr. Gatling’s diplomatic career has culminated with his 2007 appointment to his current position of Consul General of Israel to Florida and Puerto Rico. It has been an honor working side by side with Mr. Gatling to further America’s unshakeable relationship with Israel.

I congratulate Mr. Gatling, his wife Ayala, and their three children for their great honor tonight, and I look forward to many more years of strong partnership with Mr. Gatling as we Luther Gatling was an economically savvy man who never resisted sharing his wealth of knowledge with those in need. The Credit Doctor, as he was known, believed in empowering struggling and financially illiterate consumers through the power of sound credit comprehension.

Consumer credit, debt education, financial literacy are passions of Mr. Gatling. Instructing consumers on how to manage their credit wisely and pay their debts responsibly was important to my friend Luther.

Luther symbolized the American Dream. He worked vigorously with the One Hundred Black Men to expand educational and economic opportunities for African Americans and other minority communities. Mr. Gatling worked tirelessly to properly educate the public on fiscal responsibility.

Luther extended his guidance through practically every medium to educate the masses. He worked his first job as a taxi driver later to become the CEO of the Budget and Credit Counseling Service.

I would like for my colleagues in the Congress to join me in offering our heartfelt condolences to his wife Bonnie Gatling and their children, Dr. Sharon, Waldo, Lydia, Miller, Robin Gatling, and Richard Patton. It is important that they know that their friends and all of those whose lives were touched by Luther over the years, are with them in spirit and the Gatling family are in our thoughts and prayers.

No amount of words can ever replace this titan. Luther bore his illness with great dignity and pride. And through his illness, he continued to persist on living and fighting for causes true to his faith and community. Now free from pain and discomfort, we can all draw some comfort in knowing that he found peace in the eternity of God’s Kingdom. He will long be remembered for his extraordinary commitment, humor, liveliness, energy, wisdom, discipline, principle and clear purpose which won the admiration of all who were privileged to come to know and work with him during his distinguished career.

Mr. Speaker, I consider myself fortunate to have had the opportunity to observe and experience Luther’s example as a personal inspiration. Though Luther is no longer with us, we will continue to keep his memory alive in our hearts and minds, and continue to honor his legacy with our advocacy for the issues he cared about the most. We as a nation are all blessed to have known a Luther Gatling, “The Credit Doctor,” a titan who shaped financial counseling history with his everlasting spirit.

ED ELLIS TRIBUTE

HON. SCOTT R. TIPTON
OF COLORADO

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, June 13, 2011

Mr. TIPTON. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize Ed Ellis for his commitment to the railroad industry and his investment in Colorado's infrastructure.

Mr. Ellis has provided many Coloradans with railroad service to remote areas that would normally not see such attention. His company, Iowa Pacific Holdings, LLC, specializes in reviving small rail lines that serve less populated areas. One of these lines is the Rio Grande Scenic Railroad in Colorado's San Luis Valley. His dedication to running the scenic train has provided a much needed boost to the area's economy and tourism.

Mr. Ellis has provided a needed service to southern Colorado and a number of other states that benefit from his attention and investment.

Mr. Speaker, it is an honor to stand and pay tribute to a man so devoted to local transit and to a small company fighting in a big industry. I have no doubt that under Mr. Ellis' leadership Iowa Pacific Holdings will continue to thrive.

IN HONOR OF EDWARD M. KING, VICE PRESIDENT FOR GOVERNMENT AND COMMUNITY AFFAIRS AT BOSTON UNIVERSITY

HON. STEPHEN F. LYNCH OF MASSACHUSETTS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, June 13, 2011

Mr. LYNCH. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in honor of Edward M. King in recognition of his 23 years of dedicated service to Boston University and his passionate advocacy on behalf of the University throughout the halls of government and the communities of Boston.

Ed began his tenure at Boston University in 1987 as Associate Vice President for Government & Community Affairs. In 1991, Ed became Vice President, overseeing all functions relating to federal, state, city, and community relations. Prior to coming to Boston University, Ed was the Director of Community Relations and Public Affairs for the Massachusetts Turnpike Authority. He was also the Executive Secretary and Director of the Youth Activities Commission for the City of Boston and is a former Manager of Little City Hall in South Boston as well as a former assistant to Mayor Kevin White.

Throughout his career at Boston University, Ed served under Presidents John Silber, Jon Westling, Aram Chobanian, and Robert Brown. During Ed's tenure, Boston University went through an unprecedented growth that benefited both the University and the economy of the city of Boston. Through Ed's effort at both the community and governmental levels, the University successfully completed such projects as: Biosquarage, Sargent College, the John Hancock Student Village complex that includes 1,800 new dormitory beds and the Harry Agganis Arena, the School of Management, the Photonics Center, the Life Science & Engineering building on Cummington Street, and the new East Campus Student Services Center on Bay State Road. There was nearly $1 billion of construction that went through extensive community and government review during Ed's time at Boston University.

Admittedly, Ed was the University's ambassador to the business and academic communities. He was Boston University's contact to the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce, A Better City, Association of Independent Colleges and Universities of Massachusetts, Associated Industries of Massachusetts, and the Massachusetts Association of Non-Profit Schools & Colleges. He was active in charities such as The Boys and Girls Clubs, the Greater Boston Girl Scouts Council, the West End House, the Little House, Dorchester neighborhood Little Leagues, and Catholic Charities.

A 1981 graduate of Boston State College, where he received his Bachelor of Arts degree in Sociology, Ed currently resides with his wife, Kimberly, and their son, Charles, in Hingham.

Mr. Speaker, it is my distinct honor to join with Ed's family, friends, and the Boston University community to thank him for his incredible dedication and commitment to the University and the city of Boston. I hope my colleagues will join me in celebrating Ed's distinguished career and in wishing him good health and success in all of his future endeavors.

JAMES BEDARD TRIBUTE

HON. SCOTT R. TIPTON
OF COLORADO
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, June 13, 2011

Mr. TIPTON. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize Dr. James Bedard, of Alamosa, Colorado, for being selected to the E. (Kika) de la Garza Fellowship program. With this recognition, Dr. Bedard will be able to further represent southern Colorado and Adams State College while continuing his already impressive research.

Dr. Bedard is one of 20 other faculty members in schools across the country selected for the honor. Nominees for the fellowship are chosen based on their educational experience and the relevance of their research to the USDA, specifically to issues facing the Hispanic population. It is one of the most prestigious awards available to Hispanic-American citizens.

The new resources available to Dr. Bedard will allow him to provide a more thorough education to his students and show them opportunities that were more elusive. He will also have greater access to federal agencies that specialize in agricultural problems facing the community.

Mr. Speaker, it is an honor to stand and recognize Dr. James Bedard today. Southern Colorado has long benefitted from his work and will now see even greater results with help from the E. (Kika) de la Garza Fellowship. I have no doubt that Dr. Bedard will continue his important agricultural research and thrive as a teacher and community leader.

JIM B. JONES TRIBUTE

HON. SCOTT R. TIPTON
OF COLORADO
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, June 13, 2011

Mr. TIPTON. Mr. Speaker, I rise to pay tribute to Jim B. Jones, a man who proudly served his country during WWII.

Drafted into the U.S. Army in 1945, Mr. Jones was assigned to G Company as a corporal, and was sent to Hawaii. Upon arrival in Hawaii, Mr. Jones boarded the USS Niagra, to Okinawa. During his time in Okinawa, the United States dropped the bombs on Hiroshima and Nagasaki. On V-J Day, only a few days after the bombing, Mr. Jones was moved to Korea. Here, he took part in accepting the surrender of the Japanese Army in ceremonies in Seoul.

During the remainder of his time in Korea, Mr. Jones served as a rifleman and a clerk typist in Chongju.

In 1946, when he was twenty years old, Mr. Jones left Korea after spending a year there. He arrived home in time for the first day of hunting season.

Mr. Speaker, it is my honor to recognize the service and character of Jim B. Jones.

IN RECOGNITION OF THE 60TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE TEMPLE BETH SHOLOM

HON. GARY L. ACKERMAN
OF NEW YORK
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, June 13, 2011

Mr. ACKERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in celebration and recognition of 60 years of unrivaled spiritual leadership and unequaled community service by Temple Beth Sholom in Roslyn Heights, New York.

In the summer of 1951, approximately 70 Jewish families gathered with the hope of establishing a place of worship for the Jewish community in Roslyn and the surrounding area. They could have hardly hoped or anticipated that these humble beginnings would Temple Beth Sholom for its six decades of pressing my gratitude and congratulations to the synagogue’s extraordinary accomplishment will allow the Temple to continue its asset to the congregation and the surrounding community. I am proud to recognize Lucas, Temple Beth Sholom is continuing in their membership. Through innovation and recognizing diverse capabilities to give within the movement. The Temple was also one of the egalitarian congregations in the Conservative Jewish movement while encouraging unwavering fidelity to the values of the Conservative Judaism while embracing both open-mindedness and innovative practices. Emblematic of this, Temple Beth Sholom elected its first woman president in 1972 and, in subsequent years, became one of the first egalitarian congregations in the Conservative movement. The Temple was also one of the first to collect congregational contributions according to a sliding scale based on income—recognizing diverse capabilities to give within their membership. Through innovation and creativity, Temple Beth Sholom has remained faithful to its Conservative tradition while embracing new and pioneering practices.

Under the current direction of Rabbi Alan B. Lucas, Temple Beth Sholom is continuing in its great tradition of faith, family, and community. His spiritual guidance is an invaluable asset to the congregation and the surrounding community, and his leadership and commitment will allow the Temple to continue its good works for years to come.

On June 12, 2011, Temple Beth Sholom will celebrate its 60th anniversary. Since 1951, it has been an essential element of the Roslyn Heights community. I am proud to recognize the synagogue’s extraordinary accomplishments. I ask my colleagues to join me in expressing my gratitude and congratulations to Temple Beth Sholom for its six decades of service to the Jewish community of Roslyn.

JOAN ANZELMO
HON. SCOTT R. TIPTON
OF COLORADO
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, June 13, 2011

Mr. TIPTON. Mr. Speaker, it is my honor to rise and pay tribute to one of America’s most dedicated and beloved Civil Servants. On July 1st, 2011 Joan Anzelmo will be hanging up her “flat hat” after a meritorious 35 year career with the National Park Service.

Joan is a native of Washington, D.C., and graduated from the University of Maryland in 1975 with a Bachelor’s Degree in French. She began her Park Service career the next year as the Visitor Services Chief at the National Visitor Center in Washington, D.C. Along the way, Joan has served in Virginia at Great Falls Park, Yellowstone National Park and Grand Teton National Park, and has been tasked by the Park Service to coordinate large scale events including the Bicentennial Celebrations at Yorktown, the 75th Anniversary Celebrations of the National Park Service in Yellowstone, and the 50th Anniversary Celebrations for Grand Teton National Park. Among her accomplishments is her service as National Park Service spokesperson during the 1988 wildfires that swept through Yellowstone, equipping her with nationally recognized crisis communications prowess, and seeing her assigned to the Unified Area Command for the National Park Service in response to the BP Oil Spill in 2010. She has received numerous awards for her service, including the Superior Service and Meritorious Service awards, two of the Department of Interior’s most prestigious honors.

Joan wraps up her career overseeing the management of the awe-inspiring red rock canyons and formations of the Colorado National Monument in my district at the far west-erd of Colorado, where she serves as Superintendent. With her visiting, outreach to the local school population, and a very successful centennial celebration just this year, this is a fitting capstone to an accomplished career, and worthy of our recognition. I wish her well as she returns to Jackson, Wyoming, where she will be in close proximity to her daughter, Jenny, who is herself employed at Grand Teton National Park’s public affairs office.

HONORING THE TRINITY CHOIR OF MEN AND BOYS AS THEY CELEBRATE THEIR 125TH ANNIVERSARY

HON. ROSA L. DELAUR O
OF CONNECTICUT
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, June 13, 2011

Ms. DELAUR O. Mr. Speaker, it is with great pride that I rise today to join the New Haven community in commemorating the 125th Anniversary of the Choir of Men and Boys of Trinity Church. This extraordinary group of gifted adults and children has been in continuous service since its founding and has been nationally and internationally recognized for its talent and service.

With members as young as age eight and ranging to men well into adulthood, the Trinity Choir of Men and Boys is the oldest such choir in Connecticut, one of the oldest in the United States, and one of very few that have been in continuous service since inception. In addition to providing choral music at Trinity worship services, the choir also performs at the Christmas and spring concerts as well as throughout events in the wider community. The dedication and talent of its membership have earned the choir a distinguished reputation and they have regularly appeared with other musical organizations such as the Orchestra of Old Fairfield Academy and the members of the Choir of Christ Church in Greenwich, Connecticut, the Julliard Orchestra, the Boston Philharmonic and the American Classical Orchestra. They have appeared in venues ranging from the Green in New Haven to Carnegie Hall, Lincoln Center, and the White House. The boys of the choir have also in this country, in England, and in Italy. They have received well-deserved accolades throughout their history and they continue to make their hometown of New Haven, Connecticut proud.

The youngest of the group have a separate identity as the Trinity Boys Choir and their service to the community is certainly something to be recognized. Their frequent outreach activities have included benefit performances for the Children’s Center, Ronald McDonald House, Sage Services, Newtown Children’s Hospital, the Fair Haven Parents’ Ministry, the Smlow Cancer Center, and, most recently, for WFSB Channel 3’s annual Joy for Kids Holiday Show at the Hartford Stage. They have sung in the Cathedrals of the British Isles and have been invited to appear at five Christmas traditions at the White House. Their talent is remarkable, but it is the commitment they have made to bring the joy of music to some of our most vulnerable citizens that is what makes the choir so special.

Today, with members past and present gathered as their year-long celebration comes to an end, the choir can reflect on their exceptional history and look forward to many more years of acclaimed performances. I consider it a privilege to have this opportunity to join the New Haven community in extending my heartfelt congratulations to the Trinity Men and Boys Choir as they celebrate their 125th anniversary. Under the leadership Music Director Walden Moore, Associate Music Director Andrew Kotylo, and Organ Scholar Benjamin Straley, I have no doubt that the Trinity Choir of Men and Boys will continue to bring distinctive and unique performances to our community and others around the world.

HONOR FLIGHT CHICAGO PROGRAM

HON. RANDY HULTGREEN
OF ILLINOIS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, June 13, 2011

Mr. HULTGREEN. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor all the World War II veterans, but especially our distinguished guests from the Honor Flight Chicago Program. This noble organization is the natural outgrowth of a similar program that was created by the late Senator Orrin Hatch of Utah to honor the World War II veterans in his state. The program has since blossomed to include flights that serve veterans from across the United States.

HONORING CHIEF ROBERT FINN

HON. KENNY MARCHANT
OF TEXAS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, June 13, 2011

Mr. MARCHANT. Mr. Speaker, it is with great pride that I rise today to honor the service of an outstanding public servant in the 44th Congressional District of Texas. Police Chief Robert Fin is a hardworking, family-oriented individual who has served the Southlake area selflessly throughout his personal and professional life. Chief Finn is retiring after 24 years of public service with the City of Southlake.

Chief Finn graduated from Grand Canyon University in Phoenix, Arizona, with a bachelor’s degree of Public Safety Administration and an Executive Masters of Business Administration. In 2001, Chief Finn also graduated from the FBI National Academy. He has been married to his wife, Monica, for eight years and has two children.

In 1987, Chief Finn began his career in public safety as a Firefighter EMT-Paramedic for the city of Southlake. In 2002, he was appointed as the Southlake Fire Chief, and in 2008 he became Chief of the Southlake Police Department.

During his tenure as a public servant, Chief Finn has been involved in the completion of the beautiful Southlake Department of Public Safety headquarters. Chief Finn developed strong relationships with neighboring cities, Keller and

During his tenure as a public servant, Chief Finn has been involved in the completion of the beautiful Southlake Department of Public Safety headquarters. Chief Finn developed strong relationships with neighboring cities, Keller and Colleyville, for joint cooperation in jail and dispatch services. He created and implemented a career guide to improve the knowledge, skills, and abilities of the command staff and supervisors in a successful effort to secure a safer community.

Chief Finn has received numerous awards and recognitions throughout his career. In 1993, Chief Finn was recognized as Southlake Firefighter of the Year, and in 1995 he received the Southlake DPS Director's Award for Excellence. As a member of the community, Chief Finn’s leadership has been recognized by the Southlake Rotary Club as 2007 Rotarian of Year and Southlake Chamber of Commerce as 2008 Southlake Citizen of the Year.

Chief Finn has also served as a leader in many of the Southlake community organizations. He was the President of the Texas Association of Law Enforcement Planners from 2000–2001, Peer Assessor for the Commission of Accreditation for Law Enforcement Agencies from 2000–2005, FBI National Academy Alumni Association member since 2001, Peer Assessor and Team Leader of the Center for Public Safety Excellence since 2006, Rotarian since 2004 and President from 2006–2007, Advisory Board Member for Southlake Art in the Square since 2008, Board of Trustee Member of Metropolitan Meals on Wheels since 2010, and Advisory Board Member of Kids Need To Read since 2011.

On behalf of the 24th Congressional District of Texas, I ask my colleagues to join me in thanking Chief Finn for his 24 years of public service to the City of Southlake.

HONORING STACIE AND KEN Podos

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Mr. ENGEL. Mr. Speaker, Congregation Shaaray Israel of Monroe, NY, will honor Stacie and Ken Podos at their Journal Dinner Dance on June 12, 2011, for their long-time dedication to the congregation. Stacie and Ken are deeply involved in the synagogue and have held various leadership positions within the congregation.

Ken, a sales representative for J.K.J. Sales Inc., currently serves as Chairman of Shaaray Israel’s Board, and until recently was President of the congregation. Before his term as President, Ken began as financial secretary at Shaaray Israel, eventually moving on to serve as third, second and first Vice President. In addition to his work at the congregation, Ken is active on the Jewish Federation of Rockland’s Board of Trustees.

Stacie, like her husband, is a leader in the congregation. She currently serves as chairperson of Shaaray Israel’s Dedication Committee and is the incoming Vice-President of the Sisterhood. In addition to her work within the congregation, Stacie was heavily involved in the construction and design of the synagogue’s new building. Trained at the Fashion Institute of Technology, Stacie is an interior designer by trade and helped decide on the materials and colors of the new synagogue.

Ken’s and Stacie’s commitment to the Jewish community extends beyond their congregation. They are actively involved in the Jewish Community Center of Long Beach Island, and serve on various national Jewish organizations. Ken and Stacie have been honored with the Tree of Life Award from Israel Bonds and serve as Solidarity Founders and Keepers of the Gate for Hadassah. Stacie, who has been a member of Hadassah for 24 years, also holds a position on the organization’s national board.

Ken and Stacie are proud parents of Jordan, Kimberly, and Jared and are expecting their first grandchild this September. They have made outstanding contributions to their community, through their involvement and dedication to Jewish issues, and I congratulate them on this honor they so richly deserve.

WILLIAM R. THURSTON TRIBUTE

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Mr. TIPTON. Mr. Speaker, I rise to pay tribute to businessman, community philanthropist, and courageous WWII and Korean War hero, William R. Thurston.

While studying for a geology degree at Harvard University, Mr. Thurston trained to fly torpedo bombers for the Navy after Pearl Harbor. He was awarded the Air Medal 11 times and the Distinguished Flying Cross three times for his bravery while flying missions in the Pacific and over Japan.

Mr. Thurston put his geology degree to use, working for Sun Oil Co. between WWII and over Japan.

Mr. Thurston moved to Durango in 1977 with his wife Beatrice, where he became involved in the local arts scene and was an avid supporter of community theater. Lovers of live music, the Thurstons founded Four corners Opera in 1980, and also became sponsors of the Rainbow concert series, and participants in many other community endeavors.

Mr. Thurston’s community involvement also included efforts to preserve and protect the rich history of the Four Corners area, and educate others about the region and its people.

Mr. Speaker, it is my honor to rise and pay tribute to the inspiring life of William R. Thurston. Colorado was fortunate to benefit from his tremendous spirit and lifetime of community service.

RECOGNIZING THE LIFE OF ALPHONSE "AL" G. CONDON, JR.

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Mr. MILLER of Florida. Mr. Speaker, on behalf of the United States Congress, I am privileged to recognize the life of Al Condon, Jr. of Pensacola, Florida. My wife Vicki and I offer our congratulations for his entire family. He will be truly missed by all of us.

HONORING PAUL HIRSCHON

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Mr. DEUTCH. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor Paul Hirschon, the Deputy Consul General of Israel to Florida and Puerto Rico for his many years of service to the South Florida Jewish Community. We are honored this evening by the Jewish Community Relations Council of the Jewish Federation of South Palm Beach County.

Born in London, Mr. Hirschon spent his early life in South Africa and pursued degrees in accounting, law, and business before immigrating to Israel. Upon his move to Israel, Mr. Hirschon served in the Israel Defense Forces and worked in the Civil Service.

After a brief time back in England, Mr. Hirschon returned to Israel and spent ten years as a respected businessman in the hi-tech sector, where he focused on developing lasting relationships with businesses throughout the Middle East. However, in 2004, Mr.
Mr. Hirschon returned to public service and joined the Foreign Service.

Mr. Hirschon was quickly promoted up the ranks of Israel’s Foreign Ministry, working for the Consul General’s Office in the Persian Gulf countries before being named the Deputy Consul General of Israel to Florida and Puerto Rico in 2008. It has been an honor working side by side with Mr. Hirschon as Israel and the United States continue advancing our shared core values of freedom, equality, and democracy.

I congratulate Mr. Hirschon for this great honor tonight, and I look forward to many more years of strong partnership with Mr. Hirschon.

INTRODUCTION OF H.R. XXXX, “TO DESIGNATE THE FACILITY OF THE UNITED STATES Postal Service Located at 14901 Adelfa Drive in La Mirada, California, as the ‘Wayne Grisham Post Office’.”

HON. LINDA T. SÁNCHEZ
OF CALIFORNIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, June 13, 2011

Ms. LINDA T. SÁNCHEZ of California. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to introduce H.R. XXXX, the “To designate the facility of the United States Postal Service located at 14901 Adelfa Drive in La Mirada, California, as the Wayne Grisham Post Office.”

Mr. Wayne Grisham spent a significant portion of his life working for our country. He valiantly served our country as a fighter pilot during World War II and was held as a prisoner of war when his plane was shot down over Germany. Mr. Grisham was awarded the Purple Heart for his courageous service. After the war, an entrepreneurial spirit drove Mr. Grisham to open his own realty business in La Mirada, which he maintained for much of his life.

His dedication to the local community was truly remarkable. Mr. Grisham proudly served the City of La Mirada for over two decades, beginning in 1970 when he was elected to the city council. He continued his service to the community with his election to Congress in 1978 and the California State Assembly in 1984. He also lent his talents to the Peace Corps, serving as Director in Kenya in 1983. A resident of Long Beach and later La Mirada, and graduate of Whittier College, Wayne Grisham was a longtime leader in the local community.

Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues to join me in honoring the service and memory of this true civic leader.

A TRIBUTE TO NORTH CAROLINA VETERANS PARK
HON. RENEE L. ELLMERS OF NORTH CAROLINA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, June 13, 2011

Mrs. ELLMERS. Mr. Speaker, I rise today not only to celebrate our nation’s 235th birthday, but also to take note of another very special event taking place in the great state of North Carolina. Today in Fayetteville, NC there will be a very special celebration for the dedication of the North Carolina Veterans Park.

Fayetteville, North Carolina has a rich history of supporting our troops and honoring those who chose to serve this country in support of our way of life. Across the state, our military institutions have led the way in protecting our country whether it be from Cherry Point Air Station to Charlotte Air National Guard from Camp LeJeune to U.S. Coast Guard Air Station Elizabeth City, from Fort Bragg and Pope Army Air Field to New River Air Station and Seymour Johnson Air Force Base, from the Military Ocean Terminal at Sunny Point to the Oak Island and Wrightsville Beach Coast Guard Stations. North Carolina has opened its hearts and hands to support those who have made so many sacrifices for all of us.

Today’s dedication of the Veterans Park is yet another way that North Carolina can show its appreciation to our men and women in uniform. Just as each generation has continued to protect our freedoms, this park exemplifies why North Carolina continues to hold the designation as the “Most Military Friendly State.” The NC Veterans Park will be a place of remembrance, and it further solidifies the commitment that North Carolina and its citizens have to the military and to all veterans. Today, our state affirms its gratitude for the men and women who have sacrificed in protecting the freedoms of this great nation.

Mr. Speaker, in closing I would like to offer some words from General Douglas MacArthur, who understood the commitment of those who choose to serve and the honor they be stow upon this great nation by doing so.

The soldier above all others prays for peace, for it is the soldier who must suffer and bear the deepest wounds and scars of war. Therefore, let no man [be] entitled to crown upon this great nation by doing so.

Mr. Wayne Grisham was a longtime leader in the Wayne Grisham Post Office. It is my honor to introduce H.R. XXXX, the “To designate the facility of the United States Postal Service located at 14901 Adelfa Drive in La Mirada, California, as the ‘Wayne Grisham Post Office’.”

OF MICHIGAN
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, June 13, 2011

Mr. KILDEE. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize Pastor Robert E. Smith, Sr. and Mother Gilda J. Smith. Pastor Smith and Mother Gilda continue to encourage and bring spiritual healing to many “adopted children” throughout our Nation.

Mr. Speaker, I ask the House of Representatives to join me in congratulating Pastor Robert E. Smith, Sr. and Mother Gilda Smith as they retire from ministry at the White Cloud Empowerment Center, Church of God in Christ and I pray they will find much joy as they enter this next phase of their lives.

HONORING SERGEANT CORNELIUS H. CHARLTON, “THE HERO OF HILL 543”

HON. CHARLES B. RANGEL
OF NEW YORK
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, June 13, 2011

Mr. RANGEL. Mr. Speaker, I rise today before you in continued celebration of the 60th Anniversary of the Korean war in honor of SGT Cornelius H. Charlton, the Hero of Hill 543. On Saturday, June 11, the Cornelius H. Charlton Memorial Society and the 369th Historical Society celebrate the bravery of Sergeant Charlton by unveiling an in his honor highlighting his historic exploits on Hill 543, a major battle during the Korean war.

SGT Cornelius H. Charlton is one of 87 African-American Medal of Honor recipients. He was born on July 24, 1929, in East Gulf, West Virginia to Van and Clara Charlton. In 1944, the family moved to the Bronx, New York. Cornelius attended James Monroe High School. After graduation he enlisted in the U.S. Army in 1946. Initially assigned to an engineering group, Sergeant Charlton requested a transfer to an infantry unit and was placed in Company C of the 24th Infantry Regiment, 25th Infantry Division. The 24th Infantry, nick named the “Buffalo Soldiers,” was the United States Army’s last, all-Black, segregated regiment to engage in combat. Sergeant Major Charlton volunteered for frontline duty for this rear-echelon outfit.

On June 2, 1951, near the village of Chipo ri, northeast of Seoul, Korea, Sergeant Charlton’s platoon encountered heavy resistance while attempting to take Hill 543. Taking command after his platoon leader was wounded, he took control of his men and led an assault against the hill. Wounded by a grenade, Sergeant Charlton refused medical attention and continued to lead the charge. He single handedly attacked and disabled the last remaining enemy gun emplacement, suffering another grenade wound in the process. Sergeant Charlton succumbed to his wounds and died after he knocked out two Chinese machine guns guarding Hill 543. The North Korean troops and United Nations troops advance for three days. Prior to that tragic battle, and ultimate sacrifice, Sergeant Charlton was recommended for a battlefield commission by his Commander. On February 12, 1952, for his actions during the battle, he was posthumously awarded the Medal of Honor and the Purple Heart.

After his death, Sergeant Charlton's body was returned to the United States and buried in his mother's family burial place in Virginia. According to family members and other veterans, Sergeant Charlton was not buried at Arlington National Cemetery because of his race. The Army later stated he was not buried at Arlington because of an administrative oversight. In 1989, the Medal of Honor Society discovered Sergeant Charlton's burial site in poor condition; in 1990 re-interred his remains at the American Legion Cemetery in Beckley, West Virginia. Finally, on November 12, 2008, Sergeant Charlton was finally re-interred at Arlington National Cemetery.

The Cornelius H. Charlton Memorial Society, Inc., CHCMS, a non-profit organization, was founded in 2010 by the family and friends of SGT Cornelius H. Charlton. Sergeant Charlton, a member of Company C, 24th Infantry Regiment, 25th Infantry Division, was awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor during the Korean war, 1950–1953. The mission of CHCMS is to preserve the heroic legacy of Sergeant Charlton, while also promoting his character and leadership qualities to young people through his college scholarship fund.

The 369th Historical Society Museum is housed in the 369th Regimental Armory, home of the famous Harlem Hellfighters. The 369th Historical Society is an all volunteer non-profit 501 (c) 3 organization, chartered by the New York State Board of Regents. Established in 1960 to collect, preserve and maintain artifacts, books, papers, photographs, film and articles on the history of the 369th Regiment, its allies and affiliates, and of African American soldiers who served in the Military Service of the United States. The Museum’s holdings consist of an extensive collection of photographs and artifacts of the 369th soldiers from WWI to the present.

Mr. Speaker, I ask you and my colleagues to join two very grateful nations in honor and memory of our American hero, Medal of Honor recipient SGT Cornelius H. Charlton, as we continue to celebrate and remember the 60th Anniversary of the Korean war.

Mr. MILLER of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize the University of West Florida's baseball team on becoming the 2011 NCAA Division II National Champions. Saturday, June 4, 2011 was a proud day to be wearing green and blue. Over 700 miles from home, the USA Baseball National Training Complex was filled with Argonaut spirit. After a remarkable season of 52–9, the University of West Florida baseball team scored a National Championship, earning the first national NCAA title for UWF.

Under the direction of Head Coach and former Argo player Mike Jeffcoat, the impressive victory of 12–2 against Winona State showcased not only his leadership, but also the determination of these young athletes. Through their unwavering dedication and teamwork, these young men earned the title of national champions and have made Northwest Florida proud. Their inspiration and victory was a grand slam not only for the team, but for the University and the entire Gulf Coast.

On behalf of the United States Congress, I congratulate the University of West Florida Argonauts for their outstanding accomplishments. My wife Vicki joins me in offering our best wishes to the team, coaches, faculty, and students at the University of West Florida for their continued success.

Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor the Filipino Ladies Association of Guam (FLAG) for their years of exemplary service to our community. Founded in 1962, FLAG has worked to preserve and promote Filipinos’ culture through volunteer efforts, educational assistance, and fundraising projects for local charities. FLAG has contributed to national charities such as the American Red Cross, American Cancer Society, Salvation Army, and local non-profit organizations such as Edgar's House, Family Visitation Center, Alee Shelter, Sanctuary Incorporated, Carmelite Sisters, the University of Guam, and our local hospital. FLAG’s efforts have been an asset our community, especially for our island’s women and children.

I congratulate the Filipino Ladies Association of Guam on their 50th Anniversary, and I commend them for their years of humanitarian service and efforts in helping Guam’s community. I also commend the efforts of the Board of Trustees, executive officers, members, and volunteers who have dedicated and contributed their time in promoting Filipino culture and values over the last five decades. I look forward to many more years of service as we commemorate the hard work and contributions of the Filipino Ladies Association of Guam.

Now therefore, I, HENRY C. “HANK” JOHNSTON, JR. do hereby proclaim June 5, 2011 as Mr. Donnie A. Bryant Day in the 4th Congressional District. Proclaimed, this 5th day of June, 2011.

RECOGNIZING DR. MARION J. BROOKS AND THE NAMING OF THE MARION J. BROOKS BUILDING
HON. MICHAEL C. BURGESS OF TEXAS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, June 13, 2011

Mr. BURGESS. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize the contributions of Dr. Marion Jackson Brooks, an individual fondly known as “Dr. Jack,” a name not only synonymous with medical care among Fort Worth’s African-American community, but also the community at large. As a lifelong resident of the City of Fort Worth, he was a devoted family man, a generous and caring physician, a tireless advocate for social justice and a steadfast friend. His legacy of community service has been immortalized in Fort Worth through the naming of the Tarrant County Health Building in his honor.

Jack Brooks was the third of four boys born to Roy and Eula Brooks, graduating from I.M. Terrell High School in 1936. A born leader, he became commander of the ROTC while attending Prairie View A & M College, a service that presaged his role in World War II as an army First Lieutenant. On Christmas Day, 1945, Jack married the former Marie Louise Norris and returned to Fort Worth with his wife and four children to begin practicing medicine in Fort Worth’s black business district.

From this vantage point, he recognized the broad needs of his community beyond the delivery and access to quality health care and encouraged and helped politically organize the African-American community through dissemination of information, programs, voter registration and organization. Dr. Brooks worked toward expanding access and equality for his community. Initiatives he worked and advocated for included integration of Fort Worth’s hospitals and public schools, as well as the founding and the first president of the Sickles Cell Anemia Association of Texas, and service on boards and commissions devoted to his alma mater, Prairie View. Additionally he worked to expand economic opportunities as head of the local Urban League chapter and toward expanding political empowerment as a founding organizer of the Tarrant County Precinct Workers Council.

He expanded his medical practice with his brother Donald through the establishment of the Brooks Clinic in Fort Worth’s Morningside Community, a full-service medical facility in the heart of the African-American community. In this neighborhood he and his wife established a home for what had now expanded to a family of five children and organized the Morningside United Methodist Church in their living room in 1962. From this foundation he served over 30 years as Sunday school teacher.

Dr. Brooks also contributed to the McDonald Branch Y.M.C.A.; Free and Accepted Masons-Prince Hall, Ft. Worth Chamber of Commerce, the Ft. Worth Symphony Orchestra and served as the first African-American member of the Parks and Recreation Board of the City of Ft. Worth. He was also a professional affiliate of the Tarrant County Medical Society, American Association of Family Practice Physicians, and the National Medical Association. He was also a member of the Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, NAACP and SNCC.

Through his medical practice and his life, Dr. Brooks remained committed to the under-represented and underprivileged. He accepted his role of service as a physician within the African-American community and broadened the responsibility to speak out for the rights of its citizens as an elder statesman, impacting the lives before closing his story of service to God, family and community on March 3, 2003.

Mr. Speaker, I am honored to recognize Dr. Brooks contributions to the City of Fort Worth and to celebrate the naming of the Dr. Marion J. Brooks Building. He has enriched the city, county and state which I am honored to represent.

HONORING SUKANYA ROY
HON. TOM MARINO OF PENNSYLVANIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, June 13, 2011

Mr. MARINO. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in honor of my constituent, Miss Sukanya Roy, to celebrate her victory in the Scripps National Spelling Bee, having finished in the top twenty for previous years. This year Sue said she knew every word and did not guess once. Sue was crowned this year’s champion after correctly spelling “GYMOTRICHIOUS,” a word of Greek origin relating to having wavy hair. Although she is just about to enter high school, Sue wants to pursue a career in International Relations and hopes to bring an end to world poverty and hunger.

Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor Sukanya Roy and ask my colleagues to join me in praising her achievement as the 84th Scripps National Spelling Bee Champion.

IN HONOR OF JENNEFER LOYD SANTEE WINEMAN
HON. SAM FARR OF CALIFORNIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, June 13, 2011

Mr. FARR. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor the life of Jennifer Lloyd Santee Wineman. Jennifer was a kind, giving and strikingly beautiful woman who generously gave her time and talents in an effort to better the lives of those around her whom she loved. She passed away on November 26, 2010. Jennifer was born on May 15, 1931 in Montreal, Canada, but soon moved to Carmel, California where she later became a proud U.S. citizen. In the beautiful backdrop of cypress trees and glowing sunsets, Jennefer flourished and graduated from Carmel High School in 1949 earning the “Gold C” award, which was given to an outstanding female student. It was during my years at Carmel High School that I really became close with Jennefer, through her younger sister Cindy. Following Carmel High, Jennefer attended Stanford University where she met Nathaniel Baylis and they soon were married. Jennefer and “Nat” were blessed with two wonderful sons, Owen and Lloyd. Those closest to her have said that her most natural and intuitive gift was that of being a wonderful, caring mother.

In addition to being a loving wife and mother, Jennefer helped pioneer a revolutionary form of education. She became a teacher at the Charles Armstrong School for the dyslexic, a school which specifically caters to the needs of children who require a different method of teaching. Education became Jennefer’s passion and led her to play a pivotal role in the establishment of Chartwell School in Carmel. Through her dedication to improving the lives of her students and their families, Jennefer molded Chartwell school into one of the premier special education institutions. After completing her lifelong dream of providing Chartwell with its own independent campus, families from across America began to relocate to the Central Coast just to have their... children attend. Chartwell graduates have gone on to very successful careers in many fields, adding to the strength of our country. As Margaret Mead said, “never doubt that a small group of thoughtful, committed citizens can change the world; indeed, it’s the only thing that ever has. ”

Jennifer and the Chartwell School did change the worlds of many young people for the better.

Not only a brilliant educator, Jennifer was the guiding light for the Lloyd family, a family which will be celebrating the anniversary of its 100th year in Carmel this coming July. She loved her family and cherished her family’s history. She set to work tracing her lineage and eventually joined the Daughters of the Revolution, in which her membership remained an integral part of her life. She challenged her family just as she did her students, to overstep the insurmountable and to take what you want from life with tenacity; she was the catalyst that lit the fire.

Jennifer’s bright smile and positive outlook helped her see the good in everyone around her and she had the ability to always bring the best qualities of a person to light. Her friends and family have many stories of how Jennifer encouraged them to try again, to gain new skills and reinvent themselves. As a friend of Jennifer’s, I truly believe she took to heart the song, “Over the Rainbow.” She believed “the dreams that you dare to dream really do come true.”

Christmas was Jennifer’s favorite holiday because it was a time for the entire family to be together and a special time to give thanks because it was a time for the entire family to be together and a special time to give thanks for the wonderful things in life. If you were to ask her what she wanted for Christmas, the answer was always the same, “peace on earth.”

Mr. Speaker, Jennifer Lloyd Santee Wineman always put others before herself and dedicated her life to serving her community and family. She was so beautiful, caring and remarkable and I know that one day, on the other side of the rainbow, where skies are blue, and where troubles melt like lemon drops, that is where I’ll find her.

MILITARY CONSTRUCTION AND VETERANS AFFAIRS AND RELATED AGENCIES APPROPRIATIONS ACT, 2012

HON. CHRIS VAN HOLLEN OF MARYLAND
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Thursday, June 2, 2011

The House in Committee of the Whole House on the State of the Union had under consideration the bill (H.R. 3055) making appropriations for military construction, the Department of Veterans Affairs, and related agencies for the fiscal year ending September 30, 2012.

Mr. VAN HOLLEN. Mr. Chair, I thank Chairman CULBerson and Ranking Minister BISHOP for bringing the FY 2012 Military Construction and Veterans Affairs Appropriations bill to the floor today. This bill provides funding that is critical to the strength and the well-being of our military families and veterans, and training of our veterans, construction of Department of Defense hospitals, schools and family housing.

The bill provides a total of $143.9 billion in FY 2012, of which $69.5 billion is mandatory funding for pensions and other benefits administered by the Veterans Benefit Administration. This funding will support service-connected compensation programs that help an estimated 4 million veterans and dependents and makes pension payments to 507,000 veterans and survivors.

The bill also provides $60.2 billion in discretionary funding for the Department of Veterans Affairs and $14 billion for military construction and family housing. This includes funds for inpatient care and treatment of beneficiaries in 152 hospitals, 101 domiciliary residential rehabilitation treatment programs, 133 nursing homes, 300 Vet Centers, 50 mobile Vet Centers and 807 outpatient clinics, which include independent, satellite, community-based and rural outreach clinics.

Our nation’s servicemembers and veterans and their families deserve the best quality care and support available. This measure helps to fund the programs and benefits they have earned for their service and sacrifice. I encourage my colleagues to join me in support of the bill.

THE BETHLEHEM GRANGE
NUMBER 121

HON. CHRISTOPHER S. MURPHY
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, June 13, 2011

Mr. MURPHY of Connecticut. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize the Bethlehem Grange on their 120th anniversary. The Bethlehem Grange Number 121 is one of nearly sixty National Grange chapters in the state of Connecticut. On January 6, 1891, the Bethlehem Grange was organized by 24 charter members. Through the years, the Bethlehem Grange has grown substantially, having at one time over 150 members. The Bethlehem Grange has maintained a strong commitment to the rural communities of northwestern Connecticut.

The Bethlehem Grange has a rich history of promoting family farming and community service in rural Connecticut. In 1891 the Bethlehem Grange sponsored their first Grange Fair in the Town Hall. The fair has grown and expanded since then, eventually becoming the popular Bethlehem Fair, which I’ve had the pleasure of attending numerous times over the years.

The Bethlehem Grange is committed to fostering a deep-rooted sense of community. In addition to their monthly activities, the Grange supports their local school system and makes donations to the local elementary school, and provides scholarships to local high school students. Their dedication to civic responsibility doesn’t end there; the Bethlehem Grange holds an annual community flea market and participates in the Adopt-A-Road program.

Over its 120 years of existence, the Bethlehem Grange has done its part to preserve the cherished historical character of northwestern Connecticut. Mr. Speaker, I believe that we can all learn from the Bethlehem Grange’s dedication to fellowship and service, and so I ask you to join with me and the people of Bethlehem, in recognizing the Bethlehem Grange Number 121 on their 120th anniversary.

RECOGNIZING SAM GILLIAM OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, June 13, 2011

Ms. NORTON. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to ask the House of Representatives to join me in recognizing Sam Gilliam, a world-renowned artist, an innovative leader in artistic expression, and a resident of the District of Columbia. Sam Gilliam’s work has been acclaimed throughout our nation. We now ask the Congress of the United States to officially recognize Sam Gilliam as well.

Born in Tupelo, Mississippi, Sam has spent most of his distinguished career as a resident of the nation’s capital. Through the guidance and encouragement of his elementary school teachers, Sam discovered his interest in painting and artistic expression while growing up in Louisiana. Mr. Gilliam graduated from Central High School in Louisville, Ky., and earned a bachelor of arts degree in fine arts and a master’s degree in painting at the University of Louisville. He taught in Louisville public schools and served in the United States Army.

Sam Gilliam’s work is distinctive in its creative artistry, using bright, piercing colors (which solidified his place at the Washington Color School), distorting geometric shapes, and displaying unframed painted canvases, enabling the work of art and background to blend as one.

As a member of the Smithsonian Art Collectors Program, Sam has produced several pieces to benefit arts education programs at the Smithsonian Institution, including in Celebration of the bicentennial in 1987 and Museum 2009. In 2005, the District’s prestigious Corcoran Gallery of Art honored Sam with a retrospective exhibition that highlighted his artistic achievements. Sam’s first solo exhibition was featured in the District’s Jefferson Place Gallery, and in the current exhibition of his work at two premier galleries in the city, the Phillips Collection and the Katzen Center at American University, indicate continuing appreciation of his unique pieces. Sam has been awarded numerous honorary degrees, and his work has been featured throughout the country, including the National Gallery of Art, Washington, DC; Tate Gallery, London; Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York; Hirshhorn Museum and Sculpture Garden, Washington, DC; Cleveland Museum of Art, Cleveland, OH; and the Musee d’Art Moderne de la Ville de Paris, Paris, France.

Sam’s new piece for the Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Authority’s (Metro) Art-in-Transit Program, From a Model to a Rainbow, is being displayed at the Metro underpass at 4th and Cedar Street, NW near Takoma Station. I will be among the guests to recognize Sam on Saturday, June 11, 2011, at Takoma Station.

The District of Columbia and its residents are particularly grateful for Sam Gilliam’s work in developing the next generation of artists by mentoring and teaching art classes to DC Public Schools students. His studio is located in the historic Shaw neighborhood, an area of the city known for its diverse forms of music, dance, and culture.

For a lifetime of achievements and for continuing contributions to the arts, as recognized throughout the nation and the world, I ask the House to join me in celebrating the uniquely distinctive place of Sam Gilliam in the arts.
Mrs. MYRICK. Mr. Speaker, it is with a heavy heart that I rise today to honor the life of Lance Corporal Nicholas O’Brien—a Marine from Stanley, NC, who was killed in action while serving our country in Afghanistan. He had just turned 21 two weeks earlier.

Lance Corporal Nic O’Brien is what his father calls “a true American hero in every sense of the word.”

There is no way that we can adequately thank our men and women in uniform all for their service and sacrifice to protect our freedom. The thoughts and prayers of our entire Nation are with them—those who have bravely served, and the families of those whose ultimate sacrifice will never be forgotten.

Mr. Speaker, I ask my colleagues to join me in expressing our deepest thanks and condolences to the O’Brien family and to everyone who knew Nic—a true American hero.

HONORING THE LEGENDARY JIMMY HEATH, RECIPIENT OF THE 2011 DC JAZZ FESTIVAL LIFETIME ACHIEVEMENT AWARD

HON. JOHN CONYERS, JR.
OF MICHIGAN
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, June 13, 2011

Mr. CONYERS. Mr. Speaker, many of my colleagues know of my passion for jazz music. This original American art form has played an influential role in my life and is as integral to my District as Motown and automobiles. As such, it has been my pleasure to support and promote the music over my many years in Washington.

I am proud to be an original supporter of the 7-year old DC Jazz Festival, now the largest music festival in the Nation’s Capital. It has truly been a pleasure to be a part of this event and all it offers the District and the Nation—from great year-round jazz programming to real educational partnerships with the DC public schools. Truly, the DC Jazz Festival demonstrates that equality, inclusion and democratic values stand at the heart of jazz music.

Since its inception in 2005, the DC Jazz Festival honors living legends every year with a Lifetime Achievement Award. Past recipients include Dave Brubeck, Dr. Billy Taylor, Clark Terry, Hank Jones, Buck Hill, George Wein, Ellis Marsalis and James Moody. Today I rise to add my words of congratulations to the most recent jazz legend to receive this honor—Mr. Jimmy Heath.

The second oldest brother of the legendary Heath Brothers, Jimmy Heath has long been recognized as a virtuoso instrumentalist, and magnificent composer and arranger. He has performed on more than 100 recordings with his own groups, as well as with jazz icons such as Dizzy Gillespie, James Moody, and Miles Davis, to name just a few. Nicknamed “Little Bird” due to his similarities in saxophone style to Charlie “Bird” Parker, Mr. Heath has written more than 125 compositions, many of which have become jazz standards. Mr. Heath has also long understood the importance of educating the next generation of jazz musician. A preeminent educator, he directed the jazz program at Queens College in New York for over twenty years. Jimmy Heath was also a panelist at my 1987 Congressional Black Caucus Foundation Jazz Forum entitled: “Jazz a Family Tradition.” He talked about his experience growing up in a household with two brothers who also became world renowned jazz musicians: Percy Heath, and Albert “Tootie” Heath.

Jimmy Heath has served on the Board of the Louis Armstrong Archives housed at Queens College, and taught at renowned institutions, including New York’s famed Jazzmobile, Houston’s, the City College of New York, and The New School for Social Research. Recipient of the 2003 NEA Jazz Masters Award, we celebrate Jimmy Heath’s enduring achievements and contributions to our nation’s singular original art form.

Today, I am proud to honor this American living legend and pass on my congratulations for a job well done and an award well deserved.

HONORING KARL BAUER
HON. MIKE QUIGLEY
OF ILLINOIS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, June 13, 2011

Mr. QUIGLEY. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor the life and accomplishments of Karl Bauer who passed away on February 16, 2011. For many years, he served as an active member of the Greater Independence Park Neighborhood Association and a source of joy for all those who knew him.

As a young man, Mr. Bauer escaped from East Germany and arrived in Chicago in 1957. He brought with him tremendous skill as a machinist and worked in several small shops throughout the city over the course of his life. After marrying Edith Bauer, the love of his life, the two bought a house at the corner of Byron and Halmín in the center of the 5th Congressional District. This house served as a source of pride and happiness for Mr. Bauer and came to be a model of excellence for the rest of the neighborhood. He soon became active in his new community, joined GIPNA and, in the words of his neighbors, served as “a familiar and lovable presence.” Always willing to help, he acted as a dependable block representative and made sure to greet neighbors at the pancake breakfast every year.

Mr. Speaker, I ask my colleagues to join me in remembering Karl Bauer and his commitment to his neighborhood. His work has touched the lives of many in his community, and his contributions will be greatly missed.

IN HONOR OF LANCE CORPSAL NICHOLAS O’BRIEN
HON. SUE WILKENS MYRICK
OF NORTH CAROLINA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, June 13, 2011

Ms. MYRICK. Mr. Speaker, it is with a heavy heart that I rise today to honor the life of Lance Corporal Nicholas O’Brien—a Marine from Stanley, NC, who was killed in action while serving our country in Afghanistan. He had just turned 21 two weeks earlier.

Lance Corporal Nic O’Brien is what his father calls “a true American hero in every sense of the word.”

There is no way that we can adequately thank our men and women in uniform all for their service and sacrifice to protect our freedom. The thoughts and prayers of our entire Nation are with them—those who have bravely served, and the families of those whose ultimate sacrifice will never be forgotten.

Mr. Speaker, I ask my colleagues to join me in expressing our deepest thanks and condolences to the O’Brien family and to everyone who knew Nic—a true American hero.

IN HONOR OF THE REV. REVEREND JOHN KEVIN RING
HON. NANCY PELOSI
OF CALIFORNIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, June 13, 2011

Ms. PELOSI. Mr. Speaker, I rise to honor Father John Kevin Ring, who on June 12, 2011 will celebrate his Golden Jubilee of priestly service in San Francisco, California.

As a young man, Father Ring served in profound gratitude for Father Ring’s service as Pastor of St. Vincent de Paul Church and St. Vincent de Paul School, both which have flourished with his guidance over the past 24 years.

Father John Ring was born in San Francisco and grew up in St. Anne’s Parish in the Sunset district. He entered the seminary at St. Joseph’s College in Mountain View and continued his studies for the Priesthood at St. Patrick’s Seminary in Menlo Park. Father Ring was ordained a priest on June 10, 1961 at St. Mary’s Cathedral and began his first assignment at the Most Holy Redeemer Parish in San Francisco. He served at St. Patrick’s in Larkspur, St. Matthew’s in San Mateo, St. Bridgid’s in San Francisco and Mater Dolorosa Church in South San Francisco before being appointed by Archbishop Quinn in 1986 to serve as fifth Pastor of St. Vincent de Paul Church in San Francisco.

St. Vincent de Paul Catholic Church was founded in 1901, also called the “Church of Cow Hollow” for its oldest neighborhood, “Church of the Exposition” for the Panama Pacific International Exposition that took place largely in the Marina District and the “Church of the Earthquakes” since it withstood both of San Francisco’s big earthquakes.

The 1989 earthquake was a momentous event in the history of the St. Vincent de Paul parish because much of the damage was sustained in the Marina District, including considerable structural damage to the church itself. On the Friday following the earthquake Archbishop John Quinn offered mass at the church. Father Ring presided over the church’s renovation which was celebrated at the Feast of St. Vincent de Paul on September 27, 1991. Both the new altar and the new pipe organ were dedicated by Archbishop Quinn in 1993.

As Pastor of St. Vincent de Paul Church, Father Ring stressed the need to involve the laity in decision and policy making. During his Pastorate there were many beginnings, including a mass for young adults, a group of Home Visitors to care for the sick and homebound in the parish, and beyond, and girls were allowed to be altar servers.

Father Ring formed a Parish Finance Committee and worked to stabilize St. Vincent de Paul School that has become a highly regarded parochial school in San Francisco.

The individuals and families in Father Ring’s parish have been blessed with a Pastor who has strengthened their church and school, built community, and inspired their love for service and their love for God.

On a personal note, my husband Paul’s parents John and Corinne Pelosi became parishioners of St. Vincent de Paul in the 1930s and our family has had a close parish relationship for over 70 years. Although Father Ring will be retiring he will long be an inspiration to our family.
IN RECOGNITION OF HONDA NORTH AMERICA'S OPERATIONS BACK UP BY AUGUST 2011

HON. MIKE ROGERS OF ALABAMA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, June 13, 2011

Mr. ROGERS of Alabama. Mr. Speaker, I would like to pay tribute to the people of Honda, whose editorial below from The Daily Home on May 28th about their resilience after the tragedies in Japan is very news that Honda expects all its North American operations to be back to full strength as soon as and that includes its Lincoln plant where three of its most popular vehicles are assembled.

The March earthquake and tsunami in Japan severely hampered Honda's supply chain and ended up costing the giant automaker months of production as it faced difficult times.

And after the April 27 tornadoes ripped through Lincoln, Honda made it through this parts crisis without laying off a single employee in their North American operations to be back to full strength as soon as.

The Japanese automaker obviously enjoys a late fall date for full production to resume. Last week, however, the company announced it wouldn't take that long.

"Honda will increase production volume at its North America automobile plants to a rate of 100 percent original production plan in August," a company press release announced.

Honda's employees in Lincoln met the news with enthusiasm. "Today we announced to our associates in Lincoln that we are planning to accelerate recovery of our production," said Mark Morrison, a company spokesman.

"When we announced that the Odyssey and Pilot would reach 100 percent of their original production plan in August, our associates greeted the news with great applause," Mr. Morrison said. The 4,000 people who work in the local plant are intensely loyal and, based on the plant's expansion and productivity, have been rewarded with a unique approach to the forced slowdown in production. Rather than lay off workers, Honda allowed them to work on maintenance chores, or to take earned vacation time to keep their paychecks coming.

And after the April 27 tornadoes ripped through our area, Honda allowed its employees to take two days per week to volunteer at cleanup activities while getting paid as though they were at work.

Those policies say a lot about Honda and the kind of company it is. And they say a lot about Honda's employees and the kind of people they are.

Honda made it through this parts crisis without laying off a single employee in their North American plants, the company said. Now that they are ready to ramp up production again, those employees are available and their morale should be high, since no one had to do with a reduced paycheck during the difficult times.

The Japanese automaker obviously enjoys great economic strength to be able to weather such a crisis without cutting employee paychecks. We commend Honda for its approach and wish the company a long and prosperous future in Lincoln and the rest of its North America plants.

PERSONAL EXPLANATION

HON. CHARLES F. BASS OF NEW HAMPSHIRE
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, June 13, 2011

Mr. BASS of New Hampshire. Mr. Speaker, on June 3, 2011, I was on a leave of absence from the House of Representatives to attend the funeral of former Congressman Peter Frelinghuysen. As a result, I did not have the opportunity to vote on rollcall votes 410, 411, and 412. On rollcall vote 410, providing consideration of H. Res. 292 and H. Con. Res. 51, I would have voted in the affirmative. On rollcall vote 411, declaring that the President shall not deploy, establish, or maintain the presence of units and members of the United States Armed Forces on the ground in Libya, I would have voted in the affirmative. On rollcall vote 412, directing the President, pursuant to section 5(c) of the War Powers Resolution, to remove the United States Armed Forces from Libya, I would have voted in the affirmative.

Stowe leveraged the media of her day, demanding that America fulfill its promise of freedom and recognize the human face of bondage. Virulent criticism from slavery proponents prompted Stowe to publish A Key to Uncle Tom's Cabin, detailing her sources. Over the next decade, public attitudes toward slavery changed.

Stowe's informal, conversational writing style inspired people in a way that political speeches and newspaper accounts could not. Many believe that Uncle Tom's Cabin helped 19th century Americans determine what kind of country they wanted.

One can only be impressed by Stowe's legacy is proof that we all have the ability to make profound position changes to our world, no matter the obstacles. Her creativity and courage positively influenced the lives of many. I ask my colleagues to join me in officially recognizing the bicentennial of the birth of an incredible American, Harriet Beecher Stowe.

PLEDGE FOR RESPECT

HON. EARL BLUMENAUER
OF OREGON
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, June 13, 2011

Mr. BLUMENAUER of Oregon. Mr. Speaker, the National Council of La Raza (NCLR) has called on Congress to oppose irresponsible and inflammatory rhetoric toward Latinos, and instead to focus on forging solutions to the nation's most pressing concerns that work for all Americans. Today, I join with them in opposing irresponsible rhetoric and supporting the importance of civil discourse in the political process, especially on issues related to race and ethnicity.

The current national immigration narrative misrepresents the Latino community. Some use the community as a scapegoat, and some blatantly encourage xenophobia for political gain. Like all Americans, Latinos care about and are deeply affected by the complex issues facing our nation: serious economic challenges, a flawed immigration system in need of reform, an unnecessarily complex tax code that often hurts the middle class, and an aging infrastructure that endangers the literal ties between us. Those who slander, dehumanize or disrespect any community in particular are refusing to solve problems in a thoughtful, constructive way.

As we as a country join hands, move forward and choose to be respectful of Latino—and all racial and ethnic communities—we can solve our problems together. Every day, Latinos make substantial contributions to the economic, civic, and cultural life of Oregon and this country. I encourage my colleagues to seek out and consider the Latino perspective on today's issues, and to find areas of common ground based on our shared values and interests. I encourage them to meet with NCLR and other Latino businesses, non-profits and community groups in their area. Hearing the Latino perspective benefits all Americans.
HONORING LEONARD REZMIERSKI
OF MICHIGAN
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, June 13, 2011

Mr. MCCOTTER. Mr. Speaker, today I rise to honor and acknowledge Mr. Leonard Rezmierski upon his retirement after 46 years of service with Northville Public Schools and having served the last 20 years as Superintendent.

After receiving a Bachelor of Science from Western Michigan University in 1965, Leonard Rezmierski went on, in 1969, to earn a Master of Arts majoring in Special Education with a minor in Administration at the University of Michigan. He earned a Doctor of Philosophy, majoring in Education and Anthropology, at the University of Michigan in 1982.

Founder of the Galileo Leadership Training Program, Dr. Rezmierski served as the Tri-County Alliance President and as the Michigan Association of School Administrators Region 9 President during the 2003/2004 school year. He held the position of MASA Region 9 Vice President in the prior year and during the 2006/2007 school year he was chosen as President Elect while also being an active member and President of the Wayne County School Superintendents’ Association.

Dedicating considerable time and effort to the Council for Exceptional Children at the state, national and international levels, Leonard has also devoted himself to the Wayne County and Tri-Michigan Association of Administrators of Special Education.

Dr. Leonard Rezmierski has been the recipient of numerous awards including the Northville Parent-Teacher Organization Service Achievement Award, the Marvin E. Beekman Administrator of the Year Award, the Susan Phillips Gorin Award for Outstanding Service to University Students and the TASH (The Association for Persons with Severe Handicaps) Award for Leadership in Non-Adversive Programming for Handicapped Students.

Active in his community as a member and Past President of the Northville Rotary and as a member of First Presbyterian Church of Ann Arbor, Leonard has volunteered as a Boy Scout Leader, a youth hockey and Little League Baseball coach, and with Meals for the Homeless Program. Perhaps, the most poignant recognition of his devotion to educational distinction, innovation and leadership in academics, athletics, the arts and community service is the establishment of the Dr. Leonard Rezmierski Fund for Excellence. This enduring legacy will stand as confirmation of his devotion to our community.

HONORING THE LIFE AND LEGACY OF MR. FRITZ CARL STEIN, JR.
OF FLORIDA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, June 13, 2011

Mr. HASTINGS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor the memory of Mr. Fritz Carl Stein, Jr., a founding member of the Sugar Cane Growers Cooperative of Florida. Mr. Stein was the former President and secretary-treasurer of the Belle Glade cooperative and a third-generation farmer in the Everglades Agricultural Area. He also owned and operated Stein Sugar Farms and a cattle ranch in Highlands County.

A talented farmer and businessman, Mr. Stein had a heart as big as the Everglades. He was a leader in many organizations, donating his time to the Boy Scouts and the Belle Glade Little League, among others. Mr. Stein served on the boards of the South Florida Conservancy District, the South Florida Water Management District, and the Palm Beach County Soil and Water Conservation District.

Demonstrating his concern for the less fortunate, Mr. Stein was chairman of the Belle Glade Housing Authority. As an example of the trust and respect he enjoyed among his fellow Belle Glade residents, he was a founding trustee of Glades Day School. He was also a longtime member of the Belle Glade Rotary Club and the Belle Glade Missionary Alliance Church.

Mr. Speaker, Mr. Stein was a graduate of Belle Glade High School and the University of Florida and he served honorably in the United States Army. He made great contributions to the sugar cane growers cooperative and contributed immensely to the economic health of the Glades area. His passing will be mourned by his wife, two grandsons, nine grandchildren, two great-grandchildren and people throughout the community surrounding Lake Okeechobee.

HONORING REVEREND MARVIN DOZIER
OF NEW YORK
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, June 13, 2011

Mr. BISHOP of New York. Mr. Speaker, on the occasion of his retirement from the Southampton School Board, I rise to commend the Reverend Marvin Dozier for a life spent in service to others.

As a board member and past president of the board, Reverend Dozier devoted eleven-and-a-half years to the children and families of our community. Never contented with recognition or accolades, he made the students his first priority. He was the first African-American to serve as president of the school board, and he worked tirelessly, with dignity and wisdom, to encourage collaboration and forge a common vision among those with different backgrounds.

Reverend Dozier’s community activism began when he was a student at Southampton High School during the 1960s. He worked with several teachers to organize diversity training workshops for students, advocating for the hiring of black teachers and served as a voice for the minority in student government. Although he considered himself an activist, his goal was never to be divisive, but to work to bring people together.

In 1980, Reverend Dozier was ordained by the First Baptist Church of Southampton and is now pastor of the Unity Baptist Church of Mattituck. He also served as chair of the Southold Town Anti-Bias Task Force. Among many other contributions, Reverend Dozier is Director of the Southampton Youth Association, an organization that coordinates sports programs and summer camps for the school district and seeks to build character through sports. He has insisted that SYA remain true to its mission to give every child an opportunity whether or not the family has money or resources to pay for it.

Furthermore, Reverend Dozier serves as the voice for those who cannot speak for themselves, making sure they have a chance to participate and become involved. A man who always seems to have a smile and a warm welcome for everyone he encounters, Reverend Dozier makes sure his work is guided by his desire to put the children of the community first—not himself, not his own children, but all the children.

Additionally, Reverend Dozier has held positions of leadership with great responsibility and dedication, always striving to raise social consciousness and create awareness. His purpose has never been to blame, but to hold people accountable for their actions.

I congratulate team owner Mark Cuban, Coach Rick Carlisle, his staff, and the entire Maverick organization for their accomplishment in winning basketball’s coveted Larry O’Brien championship trophy.

I also congratulate the team’s captain, Dirk Nowitzki, on being the recipient of the Bill Russell NBA Finals Most Valuable Player Award.

The Maverick’s success is a result of contributions by the entire team, including players Jose Barea, Rodrigue Beaubois, Corey Brewer, Caron Butler, Brian Cardinal, Tyson Chandler, Brendan Haywood, Dominique Jones, Jason Kidd, Ian Mahinmi, Shawn Marion, DeShawn Stevenson, Peja Stojakovic, and...
Jason Terry; head coach Rick Carlisle, and assistant coaches Terry Stotts, Dwane Casey, Darrell Armstrong, Monte Mathis and Robert Hackett, head athletic trainer Casey Smith, and assistant trainer Dionne Calhoun, led the Mavericks to their first NBA championship by stressing teamwork and determination. The Mavericks have such a loyal following not only because they are champions on the court, but because they are champions in the community as well. The Dallas Mavericks possess a strong sense of social responsibility, acknowledging that a community is only as strong as its weakest link. The team displays a strong commitment to the community through its foundation. The Dallas Mavericks Foundation is dedicated to inspiring and motivating youth to take their education seriously, strive for healthy bodies and minds, become involved in community service activities, set personal goals, visualize their dreams and take responsibility for their own lives and neighborhoods.

Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues to join me in congratulating each member of the 2011 Dallas Mavericks for their many victories on the court and in the community. They are champions to their sports fans, to beneficiaries of their Foundation, and to the entire Dallas community. We thank them for bringing the NBA championship trophy where it belongs—the American Airlines Center located in the heart of the 30th Congressional District of Texas.

HONORING SRI SRI RAVI SHANKAR
HON. MIKE QUIGLEY
OF ILLINOIS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, June 13, 2011

Mr. QUIGLEY. Mr. Speaker, Sri Sri Ravi Shankar is a renowned spiritual leader and multi-faceted humanist whose mission of uplifting human values and creating a stress-free, violence-free world has inspired millions of people around the world over the past 30 years.

In 1981, Sri Sri established the Art of Living Foundation, an international nonprofit educational and humanist organization, with a presence in 151 countries, which offers educational and self-development programs designed to eliminate stress and foster well-being, including programs which are helping inner city youth turn away from gang violence and programs which are helping transform the lives of veterans, prison inmates, terrorists and victims of trauma around the world;

Through Sri Sri’s message of religious harmony, non-violence, equality, tolerance and peace transcends class; race, religion and nationality and promotes ecumenical and universal human values; and

In 1997, Sri Sri founded the International Association for Human Values, a humanitarian nonprofit organization that advances and strengthens society by strengthening the individual.

The Art of Living Foundation and the International Association for Human Values collaborate on humanitarian initiatives that include solving: trauma relief at the site of the world’s most horrific natural disasters and conflicts, including helping such traumatized populations as survivors, refugees, veterans, Katrina and 9/11 survivors, earthquake and tsunami survivors in Japan, and others; and prison settings, where more than 350,000 staff and inmates in 32 countries have participated in stress relief and life-skills programs, including both adult and juvenile offenders; and corporate, military, and government settings, bringing stress relief, team building, and a competitive edge to the World Bank, IBM, Shell Oil, Intel, the Third Circuit Court, the Army National Guard, and many other organizations in the U.S. and around the world; and addressing corruption and ethics, including hosting the World Forum for Ethics and Business each year at the European Parliament and speaking out against corruption in India; and the Youth Leadership Training Program, which has trained 100,000 at-risk youth and others to become leaders, who in turn have brought transformation to more than 36,000 rural villages; and the environment, with numerous environmental initiatives, including clean-up and awareness programs, sustainable agriculture and the planting of 10 million trees around the world; and U.S. school initiatives, with more than 12,000 U.S. students participating in stress relief and life-skills programs in the last year alone; and

The Foundation’s self-development programs have benefitted over 30 million people around the world over the past 30 years.

GINA CALABRESE
HON. CHRISTOPHER S. MURPHY
OF CONNECTICUT
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, June 13, 2011

Mr. MURPHY of Connecticut. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor a great woman and constituent, Gina Calabrese. Ms. Calabrese is the principal of the Rotella Interdistrict Magnet School in Waterbury, Connecticut, and was recently honored as the National Principal of the Year by the Magnet Schools of America. This award is presented annually to an exemplary school leader who has created strong, school-based and innovative academic and extracurricular programs in magnet schools.

The students of the Rotella Magnet School and the community of Waterbury as a whole are fortunate to have a leader like Gina Calabrese, and I am proud that the Rotella School is in my district. Her dedication to education and her students is remarkable. In fact, largely because of Ms. Calabrese’s leadership, the Rotella Interdistrict Magnet School was also honored in 2008 with the Magnet Schools of America’s Dr. Ronald P. Simpson Distinquished Magnet Schools of Excellence.

Ms. Calabrese has demonstrated an outstanding commitment to innovation and education, and her efforts have raised the bar for magnet schools and educational institutions in Connecticut and across the country. Gina’s achievements represent the highest dedication to success, and I am proud to recognize her contributions here today.

Although the Rotella School only opened in 2000, it has quickly distinguished itself as one of the best Magnet Schools in the country. It embodies hosting the World Politics Education Project, which incorporates a strong academic program and an emphasis on the performing and visual arts. This approach combines the most valuable aspects of the arts—self-expression, creativity and practice—with academics, leading to a unique and valuable student experience. On behalf of the people of Waterbury, I want to congratulate Ms. Calabrese for this award and thank her for her tireless efforts to educate the future leaders of Connecticut.

STANLEY K. SHEINBAUM
HON. EARL BLUMENEAU
OF OREGON
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, June 13, 2011

Mr. BLUMENEAU. Mr. Speaker, I rise to celebrate the 91st birthday of Stanley Sheinbaum, one of our country’s most unique civic leaders. In his early years, Stanley served as a cartographer in World War II and was a student at Stanford, where he received top honors. He went on to become a Fulbright scholar and a professor of economics—first at Stanford, then at Michigan State. In 1964 he married Betty Warner and together they moved to Santa Barbara, where Stanley became one of the most vocal opponents of the war in Viet Nam. He twice ran for Congress on an aggressive anti-war platform and helped raise money for the legal defense fund of Daniel Ellsberg, the Defense Department analyst who leaked the “Pentagon Papers” to the New York Times.

After the war, Stanley remained deeply involved in the causes that were dear to him. His many interests, accomplishments, and important relationships are too numerous to recount. A few of the highlights include the nine years he served as chairman of the American Civil Liberties Union Foundation of Southern California, where his leadership led to a ten-fold increase in contributions. In 1988, he was the leader of a Jewish-American delegation that convinced Yasser Arafat to recognize Israel and disavow terrorism. From 1991–93 he served as president of the Los Angeles Board of Police Commissioners in the wake of the Rodney King beating, during which time he led the fight for justice and accountability, during that explosive period in the city’s history.

His many achievements are in a delightful documentary, Citizen Stanley, which pays tribute to his many years of service and activism. Today, here in Congress, we have the opportunity to wish “Citizen Stanley” a happy birthday.

Today, here in Congress, we have the opportunity to wish “Citizen Stanley” a happy birthday. There are few who have dedicated their lives to the cause of peace and justice in this world. Today, we are joined by his many friends and admirers, who have come to celebrate his extraordinary life and his legacy.

Citizen Stanley, we wish you a very happy birthday.

REPUBLICAN POLICY PROPOSALS HARM SENIORS
HON. EDDIE BERNICE JOHNSON
OF TEXAS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, June 13, 2011

Ms. EDDIE BERNICE JOHNSON of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to discuss how the proposed Republican policies will harm our seniors. Republicans are attacking our seniors’ most vital support systems. The Republican budget would replace Medicare with an underfunded voucher system that eliminates guaranteed Medicare benefits. Private insurance companies, which would be much more expensive than traditional Medicare, would be in charge of seniors’ health care for those currently under the age of 55. It is estimated that seniors’ health care costs would increase by more than $6,000 a year and costs would continue to skyrocket over time.

Republicans have claimed that their budget does not affect current Medicare beneficiaries; however, this claim is false. In fact, the Republican proposal would immediately cut benefits and would require seniors to pay more out-of-pocket for prescription drugs.

With respect to Medicaid, the Republican budget would cut almost $800 billion dollars over the next decade. Currently, Medicaid is the primary payer for nursing home care; massive cuts in this area would result in staffing shortages and reduced care quality.

At a time where our seniors are struggling to stay afloat in an unstable and unpredictable economy, we should be creating policies that will protect them instead of proposing policies that will put them in harm’s way. Balancing the budget on the backs of seniors is reprehensible to say the least. We must fight for our nation’s seniors and defend them against these reckless attacks on their health, economic security, and peace of mind.

TRIBUTE TO JESSICA BOLAND

HON. BENJAMIN QUAYLE OF ARIZONA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, June 13, 2011

Mr. QUAYLE. Mr. Speaker, today, I would like to recognize Jessica Boland, a third-grade teacher at Rose Lane Elementary School in Phoenix, Arizona, who on April 28th, 2011, received the 2010 Presidential Award for Excellence in Mathematics and Science. This honor is recognition of teachers with an exemplary record in both mathematics and science. Ms. Boland is one of only 85 recipients of this celebrated honor.

Ms. Boland always knew she wanted to be a teacher. The goal of all teachers should be to do everything possible to encourage, support, and promote excellence in the classroom, and she eagerly takes on this challenge every day. Ms. Boland has proven that she is up to this task, and while she is humbled and honored by this award, the satisfaction she gets every day when a classroom of eager students “get it,” is by far her greatest reward.

Jessica’s day does not begin with the first bell, nor does it end when her class is dismissed. She provides before and after school assistance to students who are struggling with their school work, offering a greater opportunity to succeed. She facilitates math academies for parents so that their children have more than just one teacher to help them understand. Her belief is that if a parent can help at home, then the child never runs out of opportunities to learn. She also works with student teachers who will soon be entering the field of education. This allows for each new generation of teachers to have a greater feeling of belonging in the classroom for the first time. Students then receive a quality education, regardless of the experience of their teacher.

Few awards offer such esteem and honor as the Presidential Award for Excellence in Mathematics and Science. This award is testimony to the gratitude that our nation shares for teachers like Jessica Boland. I am proud today to enter this recognition of Jessica’s achievements into the Congressional Record, and hope that all teachers across our great nation share in the responsibility that she has undertaken. It is with great joy and honor that I recognize Jessica Boland, and thank her with never-ending gratitude for giving her students the greatest opportunity to succeed.

HONORING MARINE SERGEANT SEAN T. CALLAHAN

HON. FRANK R. WOLF OF VIRGINIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Monday, June 13, 2011

Mr. WOLF. Mr. Speaker, Marine Sergeant Sean T. Callahan of Warrenton, Virginia, made the supreme sacrifice for his country on April 23, 2011, while conducting combat operations in Helmand Province, Afghanistan. Sergeant Callahan was assigned antitank missile duties and was from the 3rd Battalion of the 9th Marine Regiment, 2nd Marine Division, II Marine Expeditionary Force, based at Camp Lejune, North Carolina.

Sean joined the Marine Corps in March 2008 and received a combat meritorious promotion to the grade of sergeant on February 2, 2011. He deployed in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom from August until October 2009. He deployed again in support of Operation Enduring Freedom in December, 2010. His awards include a Purple Heart, the Good Conduct Medal, National Defense Service Medal, Afghanistan Campaign Medal, Iraq Campaign Medal, Global War on Terrorism Service Medal, Combat Action Ribbon, and Navy-Marine Corps Commendation Medal with Valor Device. Sean was escorted home from Dover, Delaware, by his brother, Corporal Daniel J. Callahan, who is assigned to the 1st Light Armored Reconnaissance Battalion at Camp Pendleton, California.

Sean was born on Flag Day, June 14, 1987, in Manassas, Virginia, the youngest of four children. He grew up in Prince William County and graduated from Brentsville High School in 2005. He was an accomplished guitar player who loved music and went out of his way to encourage younger musicians to pursue their shared love of music.

Sergeant Callahan’s leadership qualities, his loyalty and dedication are qualities for which he joined the United States Marine Corps. He believed deeply in his calling to defend the freedoms granted in America and in the defense of dignity and freedom in other countries.

Sean was a true son of Virginia and will be deeply missed by those who knew and loved him.
