House of Representatives

The House met at 10 a.m. and was called to order by the Speaker pro tempore (Mr. HARRIS).

DESIGNATION OF THE SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The SPEAKER pro tempore laid before the House the following communication from the Speaker:

WASHINGTON, DC, JUNE 28, 2011.

I hereby appoint the Honorable ANDY HARRIS to act as Speaker pro tempore on this day.

JOHN A. BOEHNER,
Speaker of the House of Representatives.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair will lead the House in the Pledge of Allegiance.

The SPEAKER pro tempore led the Pledge of Allegiance as follows:

I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE

A message from the Senate by Ms. Curtis, one of its clerks, announced that the Senate has passed without amendment a bill of the House of the following title:

H.R. 2279. An Act to amend the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 to extend the funding and expenditure authority of the Airport and Airway Trust Fund, to amend title 49, United States Code, to extend the airport improvement program, and for other purposes.

The message also announced that the Senate has agreed to a concurrent resolution in which the concurrence of the House is requested:

S. Con. Res. 15. Concurrent resolution supporting the goals and ideals of World Malaria Day, and reaffirming United States leadership and support for efforts to combat malaria as a critical component of the President’s Global Health Initiative.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION REFERRED

A concurrent resolution of the Senate of the following title was taken from the Speaker’s table and referred as follows:

S. Con. Res. 15. Concurrent resolution supporting the goals and ideals of World Malaria Day, and reaffirming United States leadership and support for efforts to combat malaria as a critical component of the President’s Global Health Initiative.

ADJOURNMENT

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Without objection, the House stands adjourned until 10 a.m. on Friday next.

There was no objection.

Accordingly (at 10 a.m.), under its previous order, the House adjourned until Friday, July 1, 2011, at 10 a.m.

The Senate met at 10 a.m. and was called to order by the Honorable Jeanne Shaheen, a Senator from the State of New Hampshire.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Dr. Barry C. Black, offered the following prayer:

Let us pray.

Gracious God, whose glory has been revealed through the generations, renew within our Senators a true understanding of Your purpose for this Nation and world. Illuminate their minds with the light of Your wisdom so that they will know how to meet the complex challenges of our time. Lord, use them to lift the spirits of the American people, to encourage the hearts of those on life’s margins, and to bring peace to those troubled by the problems in our world. May their trust in Your Word fill them with confidence in Your providential leading.

We pray in Your sovereign Name. Amen.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE

The Honorable Jeanne Shaheen led the Pledge of Allegiance, as follows:

The legislative clerk read the following letter:

Mr. REID. Madam President, following leader remarks, the Senate will be in executive session to consider the Cole, Monaco, and Seitz nominations. These are all for the Justice Department. The first vote today will be at noon on the confirmation of James Cole to be Deputy Attorney General. We are hopeful that the Monaco and Seitz nominations can be confirmed by voice vote. Following that first vote, the Senate will be in recess until 2:15 p.m. for the weekly caucus meetings. At 2:15, the Senate will resume consideration of the Presidential Appointment Efficiency and Streamlining Act. We are working on an agreement to complete action on that bill and the Rules Committee resolution which will follow. Additional rollovers votes are expected today.

MEASURE PLACED ON THE CALENDAR—H.R. 1249

Mr. REID. Madam President, H.R. 1249 is due for a second reading. I ask the clerk to report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

A bill (H.R. 1249) to amend title 35, United States Code, to provide for patent reform.

Mr. REID. I now object to any further proceedings on this bill at this time.

THE DEBT CEILING

Mr. REID. Madam President, yesterday I sat down with the President to talk about how to avoid a default crisis that would be a black mark on this country’s reputation for generations to come. If we fail to avert this crisis, it would be the first time in our Nation’s history that we have defaulted on our financial obligations and would send shock waves through the global economy. But I am not the only one saying that. The most respected voices in the business and financial community are saying the same thing: Default would be awful. Business leaders, economists, bank executives, credit rating agencies, and even a Republican adviser to Presidents Reagan and George Bush—the same adviser to Presidents Ronald Reagan and George H.W. Bush—have used some very serious words to describe the kind of crisis defaulting on our debt would cause. The word many have used is it would be a “catastrophe.” The legendary Warren Buffett said a few days ago that allowing the United States to default on its debt would be Congress’s “most asinine act” ever. Treasury Secretary Timothy Geithner said a failure to avert default would have “catastrophic economic consequences that would last for decades.”

Failure to avert this crisis would have dire consequences and would result in the most serious financial crisis this country has ever faced. Millions of Americans could lose their jobs, Federal prisons would have to be changed dramatically with their personnel, border security would have to change, and our court systems would likely no

There is sim- language is irresponsible. There is sim- his words—voted out in a wave of tea break the cycle of wasteful giveaways, deficit, but to dig ourselves out of this difficult spending cuts to reduce our are dead wrong, though. The junior Senator from South Caro- Democrats know we need to make Both sides. The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tem- Temple. That is how des- erate it would be.

What could be so important that my Republican colleagues are willing to put themselves at such dire risk? What could be worth walking down from the negotiating table, as they have done? Tax breaks for wealthy oil companies and corporate jets? Republicans have gone to the mat for Big Oil, fighting again and again to preserve wasteful tax giveaways to companies that made tens of billions of dollars in profits in the first quarter of this year alone. Republicans walked away from the negotiating table to save tax breaks for corporate jets. So which big industries and special inter- ests will they fight for next? Oil compa- nies? To ship jobs overseas? Companies that ship jobs overseas? Corporate jets? If they were truly serious about reduc- ing the deficit, they would admit this kind of waste must end. Yet some top Republicans say eliminating these subsidies shouldn’t even be part of the discussion as we find a way to reduce the deficit and avoid a catastrophic de- fault. While most rank-and-file Repub- licans have said handouts to oil and gas companies and other wasteful tax breaks should be on the table as we neg- otiate. These are Republicans. And 34 Republicans endorsed the view that any taxpayer giveaways should be part of the solution when they voted to eliminate subsidies for ethanol. It seems Republicans can’t even agree among themselves whether subsidies and giveaways are sacrosanct. One thing they can agree on, it seems: They are willing to balance the budget on the backs of seniors instead. They are willing to end Medicare as we know it. They are willing to slash Medi- caid, jeopardizing coverage for 80 percent of American seniors in nursing homes. Medicaid is for the poorest of the poor, but about 70 percent of Medi- caid money goes to people who are in rest homes, nursing homes. Republican priorities, then, are very clear. They are dead wrong, though. Democrats know we need to make difficult spending cuts to reduce our deficit, but to dig ourselves out of this financial hole, we must also create jobs to spur our economy, and we must break the cycle of wasteful giveaways, not break our promise to seniors. The junior Senator from South Caro- lina, a Republican, threatened that any Republican who votes to avert a de- fault crisis will be “gone”—those are his words—voted out in a wave of party anger. This kind of inflammatory language is irresponsible. There is sim- ply too much at stake. Also, this same Senator did not men- tion that 235 Republicans in the House and 40 in the Senate, including my friends from South Carolina whom I have just talked about, have already voted to increase our debt this year. Their ideological budget—it came from the House—that they wanted to sup- port here and did vote for, it would have increased the debt by more than 60 percent over the next 10 years. The so-called Ryan budget would increase the debt by more than 60 percent over the next 10 years. That is about $9 trillion in a decade. What did Republicans get for their so-called $9 trillion? What would we get? A plan that ends Medicare; a plan that would slash Medicaid, jeopardizing coverage, as I indicated, for 80 percent of American seniors in nursing homes; a plan that protects tax breaks for bil- lionaires and oil companies while put- ting millions of seniors at risk. That is the choice. The psychologist Alfred Adler once said, “It is easier to fight for one’s principles than to live up to them.” Republicans shouted loudly and repeatedly about reducing debt. Then they gave us 9 trillion reasons not to trust this rhetoric. The time for empty rhetoric is over. Now it is time for my Republican col- leagues to put the good of our economy ahead of their own politics.

RESERVATION OF LEADER TIME

Mr. REID. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded. The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tem- pore. The clerk will call the roll. The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. SCHUMER. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent to speak as in morning business for 5 minutes. The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tem- pore. Without objection.

BUDGET NEGOTIATIONS

Mr. SCHUMER. Madam President, the last thing we need right now we are try- ing to get back on track is a default crisis that would grind our economy to a halt and bury us under even more debt. Yet the latest round of Repub- lican politicians threatening to default on our debt has made their priorities clear: They would rather stop paying our men and women fighting overseas, force deep cuts to Social Security and MediCare, and throw even more Ameri- cans out of work than tell big oil com- panies and corporate jet owners to pay their fair share. Clearly our Republican colleagues are serious about politics, not deficits. You cannot be serious about deficits and at the same time recklessly jeop- ardize our economic standing in the world in order to protect tax breaks for the wealthiest few. Yet that is what leaders such as Mitch McConnell seem to be saying. Yesterday my Republican colleague drew a line in the sand on cutting wasteful spending in the Tax Code, calling elimination of special in- terest giveaways politically impos- sible. Politically impossible? Really? Just two weeks ago 34 Senate Repub- licans joined Democrats in passing the repeal of subsidies to ethanol compa- nies. Politically impossible? The land- mark budget agreements of the 1990s brought us into balance and ushered in surpluses that took a balanced approach and created prosperity and job creation such as we have not seen in this decade. Politically impossible? Right now in America middle-class families are liv- ing paycheck to paycheck while Sen- ator McConnell and his colleagues are going to the mat to protect billions in tax breaks to oil companies. They say two things—first, they say two things: He says he is not raising taxes. He wants the average American to think it is your taxes. No one wants to raise taxes on people below $250 million—many of us, people below $1 million. But when oil companies get big giveaways, when corporate jets get huge deductions, a greater deduction than Delta gets when it buys a plane for commercial use, that should be on the table. We should ask Senator McConnell and the press should ask Senator McConnell: When you say no taxes, do you mean some of our largest corporations should pay no taxes? When you say no taxes, should no taxes be on the table? Are you saying we should not close corporate loopholes? Are you saying people who are making $1 billion should not sacrifice and all the sacrifice should be the middle class? Because that is what Senator McConnell is saying.

Again, we do not wish to tax and will not tax average middle-class people. That is the President’s pledge and that is our pledge. The question is: When you tell an average teacher or firefighter you have to sacrifice, are you going to tell the millionaire they have to sacrifice too? Not because we dislike them, but because it should be shared. Senator McConnell has said: No, the millionaires should not sacrifice. Because the only way they are going to sacrifice is closing loopholes in the Tax Code. They don’t need loans to help their kids get to college.

One other thing: Senator McConnell says we should take anything about corporate loopholes, about taxing wealthy people off the table. His “my way or the highway” approach is what is standing in the way of getting an agreement. The person standing in the way right now is Senator McConnell. You have not heard such strident language from the other leaders. He says: Take everything we want and nothing you want or we will not get an agreement. That is what he is saying.

The bottom line is very simple. Senator McConnell, cutting Medicare benefits will not make us stronger; hiring teachers will not make us stronger; rolling back investments in innovation and research and high-tech jobs of the future will not make us stronger, but ending wasteful tax subsidies that do nothing but contribute to the deficit for oil companies and corporate jet owners will make us stronger. Meet us part of the way here. Don’t say my way or no way because that is too risky, and that is telling the world we will not fulfill our obligations the way every family in America has to fulfill theirs.

I yield the floor and note the absence of a quorum.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore, The clerk will call the roll.

Mr. KIRK. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

STEALTH SURVEY

Mr. KIRK. Madam President, I rise with great concern regarding a program just revealed in the Sunday New York Times—outstanding work by Robert Pear—‘‘U.S. Plans Stealth Survey on Access to Doctors.’’ I am asking my colleagues to join me in sending a letter to Secretary Sebelius, sharing our concerns with the legality, standards, and repercussions of this program.

I have deep concerns regarding the Department’s recent plans for this so-called stealth survey, its legality, the notification to Congress, the lack of standards for any misconduct or bad reporting by the staff hired to carry out the survey. We are also asking Senator McConnell if he will talk at American doctors and their practice of medicine. The cost and proposed clandestine method of collecting information about physicians’ offices is questionable. Therefore, I will be requesting the Department will be conducted and how investigators will be punished for misconduct or extortion they may carry out in their duties and how patient and physician confidentiality will be maintained.

In our letter, we are outlining 12 key questions.

No. 1. Since there are already a number of surveys answering this question, does this expenditure of taxpayer money add anything? We are asking for the Department to provide detailed records of their literature review on the current research that has already been published on the subject before launching this taxpayer-funded expenditure.

No. 3. In concluding the results of this survey, how will the NORC decide what qualifies as an acceptable response or best practices from physicians they have targeted?

No. 5. Once concluded, who has access to this information—the Department, the White House, the Congress, the press?

No. 6. By what criteria will individual physicians be targeted for participation? Will data collection include surrounding office locations or political affiliation be excluded from factors considered when targeting physicians?

No. 7. If Federal resources are spent in conducting the survey, who is to supervise it? Will Federal resources on ways we can actually address these problems rather than launch another taxpayer-funded spending program to clandestinely reveal the work of our doctors?

In this time of serious fiscal constraint, I urge us to focus our limited Federal resources on ways we can actually address these problems rather than launch another taxpayer-funded spending program to clandestinely reveal the work of our doctors.

I yield the floor and suggest the absence of a quorum.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The clerk will call the roll.

Mr. KYL. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. KYL. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that I be allowed to speak as in morning business for up to 7 minutes.

THE DEFICIT

Mr. KYL. Madam President, I just wish to bring to my colleagues’ attention a very well-written but disturbing opinion today’s Wall Street Journal by one of our country’s foremost economists, a person whose calculations and prognostications we should not lightly lay aside. Larry Lindsey.

In this piece, entitled ‘‘The Deficit Is Worse Than We Think,’’ he posits three reasons why we need to get serious about deficit reduction. I will just mention the three reasons, put this op-ed in the RECORD, and make a comment or two about it.

First, he notes, if interest rates in this country go back to their historic levels, we would have annual interest expenses on our debt roughly $420 billion higher in 2014 and $700 billion higher in 2020, and the 10-year rise in interest rates would be about $4.9 trillion higher than under the current cost of borrowing. That would obviously wipe out any savings, and then some, that we are trying to achieve in our deficit reduction discussions.

The second problem is, the official forecasts for growth are probably far too rosy considering the current circumstances. If we were to grow at a rate that he believes is much more realistic than those projected by the President’s budget, we will miss the President’s number by a cumulative 5.2 percentage points and incur an additional debt of $4 trillion, which is the equivalent to all the 10-year savings in the budget that passed the House of Representatives.

Third, the cost estimates for what we call ObamaCare are going to be well off the mark, unfortunately, on the low end, that the prognostications by people who have surveyed the businesses that will have to pay into that subsidies that the government will have to pay to. The whole $700 billion collected over 10 years is less than a fifth of the proposals of the Obama administration raise about $700 billion, less than a fifth of the budgetary consequences of the excess economic growth projected in their forecasts.

Should we ramp up to the higher number, annual interest expenses would be roughly $200 billion higher in 2014 and $700 billion higher in 2020. The 10-year rise in interest expense would be $4.9 trillion higher than “normalized” rates than under the current cost of borrowing.

Finally, in a National Review Online piece today by Albert Stiles, there is this reference to a Harvard economist, Alberto Alesina, I will quote from this article. Alberto Alesina, a Harvard economist who has analyzed the ways in which various countries responded to large fiscal crises, concludes that spending cuts are “much more effective than tax increases in stabilizing the debt without harming the economy.” In fact, in several episodes, spending cuts adopted to reduce deficits have been associated with adoptions of tax increases other than recessions.” Alesina writes. These findings were echoed in a report from Goldman Sachs analysts Ben Broadbent and Kevin Day, which examined “every major fiscal correction in the OECD since 1975.”

The point of all these things is the projections about economic growth, about increases in interest rates and spending reductions that the Federal Government all point to the need for us to reduce our expenses at the Federal Government level and that spending cuts are a much more effective way to stabilize the debt and not hurt the economy than tax cuts.

I say all this because, as everyone by now knows, the negotiations that were being conducted under the auspices of Vice President BIDEN have broken down over the issue of whether tax cuts have to be a part of the resolution of the issue. The point is—the point we have been making is—tax increases in times such as these, when we are trying to come out of a recession and we need economic growth, would be the wrong medicine for this ailing economy, and so the best thing to do it is by spending reductions. It is obvious from Larry Lindsey’s piece that the spending reductions we have been talking about, far from being Draconian, are actually not nearly enough in order to achieve the result we have to have to avoid the kind of interest rate increases and increased costs at the Federal Government level that he predicts. I hope my colleagues will think again as to the sort of ideological commitment they have to raising taxes. In the context of today’s issue, that should not be part of our discussion. That will only hurt the economy, inhibit job creation and economic growth, and delay the day when we begin to recover from this economic downturn. Instead, we need to focus on the kind of spending reductions that were embodied in the budget that the House of Representatives passed and that those of us on the entitlement area can begin to address.

Madam President, I ask unanimous consent to have printed in the RECORD the Wall Street Journal op-ed by Lawrence Lindsey.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

[From the Wall Street Journal, June 27, 2011]

THE DEFICIT IS WORSE THAN WE THINK—NORMAL INTEREST RATES WOULD RAISE DEBT-SERVICE COSTS BY $4.9 TRILLION OVER 10 YEARS, Dwarving the Savings From Any Currently Contemplated Budget Deal.

(By Lawrence B. Lindsey)

Washington is struggling to make a deal that will couple an increase in the debt ceiling with a long-term reduction in spending. There is no reason for the players to make their task seem even more Herculean than it already is. But we should be prepared for upward revisions in official deficit projections and downward revisions in the official forecast.

There are at least three major reasons for concern.

First, a normalization of interest rates would raise the debt at a much higher rate than when one deal or another one should occur. At present, the average cost of Treasury borrowing is 2.5%. The average cost of Treasury borrowing over the last two decades was 5.7%. Should we ramp up to the higher number, annual interest expenses would be roughly $200 billion higher in 2014 and $700 billion higher in 2020. The 10-year rise in interest expense would be $4.9 trillion higher than “normalized” rates than under the current cost of borrowing.

Compare the official estimates of what the current talks about long-term deficit reduction may produce, and it becomes obvious that the gains from the current deficit-reduction efforts we would be wiped out by normalization in the bond market.

To some extent this is a controllable risk. The Special Reserve could act aggressively by purchasing even more bonds, or targeting rates further out on the yield curve, to slow any rise in the cost of Treasury borrowing. Of course, this carries its own set of risks, not the least among them an adverse reaction by our lenders. Suffice it to say, though, that given all that is at stake, Fed interest rate policy will increasingly have to factor in the effects of any rate hike on the fiscal position of the Treasury.

The second reason for concern is that official growth forecasts are much more optimistic than what the academic consensus believes we should expect after a financial crisis. That consensus holds that economies tend to recover from a financial crisis without ever recapturing what was lost in the downturn.

But the president’s budget of February 2011 projects economic growth of 4% in 2012, 4.5% in 2013, and 4.2% in 2014. That budget also estimates that the 10-year budget cost of missing the growth estimate by just one point for any year is $750 billion. So, if we grow at a trend rate those three years, we will miss the president’s forecast by a cumulative 5.2 percentage points and—using the numbers provided in this budget report—of $4 trillion. That is the equivalent of all of the 10-year savings in Congressman Paul Ryan’s budget, passed by the House in April, or in the Bowles-Simpson budget plan.

Third, it is increasingly clear that the long-run cost estimates of ObamaCare were well short of the mark because of the incentive that employers will have under that plan to end private coverage and put employees on the public system. Health and Human Services Secretary Kathleen Sebelius has already issued 1,400 waivers from the act’s regulations for employers as large as McDonald’s to stop them from dumping their employees’ coverage.

But a recent McKinsey survey, for example, found that 30% of employers with plans will likely take advantage of the system, with half of the more knowledgeable ones planning to do so. If this survey proves correct, the extra bill for taxpayers would be roughly $74 billion in 2014 rising to $86 billion in 2019. Thanks to the $700 billion increased cost added to the value of the coverage in the government’s insurance exchanges.

Underestimating the long-term budget situation is an old game, and one can never have the numbers been this large. But never have the numbers been this large. There is no way to raise taxes enough to cover these problems. The proposals of the administration raise about $700 billion, less than a fifth of the budgetary consequences of the excess economic growth projected in their forecasts. The whole $700 billion collected over 10 years would not even cover the difference in interest costs in any one year at the end of the deficit reduction efforts we would be wiped out by normalization in the bond market.

Legislative Relief: 2013 and Beyond officials to hide the need for entitlement reforms behind rosy economic and budgetary assumptions. And while we should all hope for a deal that cuts spending and raises the debt ceiling, unless the details are tough, bondholders should be under no illusions.

Under current government policies and economic projections, they should be far more concerned about a return of their principal in 10 years than about any short-term delay in a coupon payment in August.

Mr. KYL. Madam President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The clerk will call the roll.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Madam President, I assume that we are now on the Cole nomination?

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. We are on the nomination.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Madam President, earlier this year the Senate expressed its opposition to proceeding to Mr. Cole’s nomination when it failed to invoke cloture on Mr. Cole’s nomination because the Justice Department had failed to respond to a legitimate oversight request that both Senator CHAMBLISS and I made relating to separate topics.

The Justice Department was withholding vital documents related to my inquiry of the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearm’s Operation Fast and Furious and to an inquiry by Senator CHAMBLISS in his capacity as vice chairman of the Select Committee on Intelligence.

As ranking member of the Judiciary Committee, I have been seeking and still seek documents, information, and access to interviews to determine who approved Operation Fast and Furious. This was an operation that you have heard me talk about often where ATF agents were ordered to knowingly allow straw buyers to obtain weapons on behalf of criminals and traffickers intent on smuggling those weapons into Mexico.

The courageous agents who blew the whistle and testified about their efforts to warn supervisors about the dangers referred to me this practice as “walking guns.” Of the more than 1,800 weapons allowed to “walk,” hundreds have been recovered in connection with crimes in the United States and Mexico, including two such weapons in connection with the murder of Border Patrol agent Brian Terry.

After seeking information from the Justice Department, I was repeatedly told that the ATF did not knowingly allow these sales. Working with Congressman Issa, who is chairman of the House Government Oversight and Reform Committee, we released information that showed that the initial denials were false. This risky policy was, in fact, implemented at ATF and the Justice Department.

Despite the seriousness of the whistleblowers’ allegations and my repeated inquiries, the Justice Department continued to deny me access to the documents. As a result, I urged my colleagues to file cloture on James Cole to be Deputy Attorney General. Well, that cloture opposition worked. We have since reached an agreement with the Justice Department and Senator LEAHY that will guarantee my access to vital document information and witnesses regarding this ATF operation.

I also understand that Senator CHAMBLISS has reached an agreement on obtaining the information he has sought on behalf of the Intelligence Committee. Accordingly, I now lift my opposition to the Senate holding a vote on Mr. Cole’s nomination. However, I want to explain that I am going to vote against his nomination for many reasons.

I oppose the nomination of James Cole to be Deputy Attorney General at the Department of Justice because I have serious concerns regarding Mr. Cole’s qualifications. In addition, I am troubled by President Obama’s recess appointment of Mr. Cole to this position. I have been consistent in my opposition to recess appointments over the years on committees where I have been chairman or ranking member. Whenever the President bypasses the Senate, I express my disagreement in writing and request that he reconsider his appointment of a person, by making a recess appointment, such nominees will not receive my support where I have been lead on my side responsible for reviewing such nominees.

We have a process in place for nominations, and if the President is not willing to work with Senators to clear nominations, the nominee should not get a second bite at the apple. The Deputy Attorney General is second in command at the Department and is responsible for overseeing the day-to-day operations of the Department.

Managing this vast bureaucracy is a difficult task that requires a serious commitment to protecting our national security, enforcing our criminal laws, and safeguarding taxpayer dollars. We need a qualified leader who has the smarts, the capability, and the willingness to manage Department programs and root out inefficiencies and abuse in those programs.

After reviewing all of his responses and his hearing testimony, I concluded that I could not support Mr. Cole’s nomination to be Deputy Attorney General. In particular, I am seriously concerned about Mr. Cole’s views on national security and terrorism. Back in 2002, Mr. Cole was author of an opinion piece in the Legal Times. In that piece he stated:

For all the rhetoric about war, the September 11 attacks were criminal acts of terrorism committed by individuals, much like terrorist acts of Timothy McVeigh in blowing up the federal building in Oklahoma City, or of Omar Abdel-Rahman in the first effort to blow up the World Trade Center. The criminals responsible for those horrible acts were successfully tried and convicted under our civilian criminal justice system without the need for procedures that altered traditional due process rights.

But I want to quote further.

The acts of September 11th were horrible, but so are . . . other things.

The other things he referred to were the drug trade, organized crime, rape, child abuse and murder. Mr. Cole’s opinion piece argued that notwithstanding the involvement of foreign organizations such as Al-Qaeda, which have never treated citizens influenced by foreign nationals or governments as a basis for “ignoring the core constitutional protections enshrined in our criminal justice system.”

Mr. Cole concluded his opinion piece by arguing that in addition to stopping future terrorist attacks, the Attorney General is a criminal prosecutor and that he has a special duty to apply constitutional protections ingrafted in our criminal justice system to even including terrorists captured on foreign battlefields.

Mr. Cole wrote this opinion piece 2 days short of the first anniversary of the September 11 attacks. Given the close proximity in time to the September 11 attacks, we must accept this opinion piece as Mr. Cole’s true beliefs about the application of the criminal justice system to terrorism cases, including those who masterminded the 9/11 attacks.

From the opinion piece and his responses to our inquiry, it appears that if given a choice of prosecuting high-ranking terrorists in civilian courts or military commissions, Mr. Cole would likely favor civilian courts based upon his longstanding belief in the role that the Attorney General plays in protecting the principles of the criminal justice system.

Absent a clear statement from Mr. Cole about what factors would warrant selecting a civilian or a military forum, it is hard to look at his entire record of past opinion, his testimony and responses to our questions, and reach any different conclusion.

In fact, my concerns about the individuals at the Justice Department supporting prosecution of terrorists in civilian criminal court have been validated by recent events surrounding the arrest of two Iraqi nationals at Bowling Green, KY. Those Iraqis have admitted targeting American soldiers in Iraq, plotting to equip foreign fighters in Iraq with weapons such as grenades and missile launchers. They made their way to our country and somehow got past the Department of Homeland Security.

After they were identified, the Justice Department is seeking to try them in civilian court even though their activities regarding terrorist activities and their financing are a very serious offense.

I have serious concerns about Mr. Cole’s views on national security and terrorism. Back in 2002, Mr. Cole was author of an opinion piece in the Legal Times. In that piece he stated:

For all the rhetoric about war, the September 11 attacks were criminal acts of terrorism committed by individuals, much like terrorist acts of Timothy McVeigh in blowing up the federal building in Oklahoma that no one in the Justice Department, including Mr. Cole, has objected to prosecuting these individuals in civilian court. This is despite the clear nexus to the battlefield in Iraq. So it now appears the Justice Department, where Mr. Cole is currently serving as a recess-appointed Deputy Attorney General, rewards terrorists who are smart enough to evade Homeland Security’s determination on whether they can come to this country, and at the same time make their way from the battlefield with the same rights and privileges as American citizens. All of this occurred on Mr. Cole’s watch as Deputy Attorney General.

Military tribunals have many advantages to civilian criminal courts and are better equipped to deal with dangerous terrorists and classified evidence while preserving due process. I am troubled that Mr. Cole does not appear to share this belief. Because of his responses and testimony, I have serious concerns about his support for civilian trials for terrorists captured on a foreign battlefield. This is of particular concern, given that the Deputy Attorney General oversees the National Security Division at the Justice Department.

Now for a second reason. I have concerns about Mr. Cole’s abilities relative to oversight of government programs. We asked about oversight of the Department’s grant programs. When he was asked, Mr. Cole failed to commit to a top-to-bottom review of the programs, nor has he undertaken such a review since he was recess appointed. Given the enormous Federal deficits and enough examples of the tremendous inefficiencies, duplications, and waste in these programs, one would assume the Deputy Attorney General would be looking for cost savings in the Department. I am disappointed Mr. Cole has failed to recognize a need for a comprehensive review of Justice’s grant programs—not only for the sake of saving taxpayer dollars at a time when we face skyrocketing fiscal deficits but also to ensure that grant objectives are being met in the most efficient and effective manner possible.

A third reason, I have concerns about Mr. Cole’s abilities based on his performance as an independent consultant tasked with overseeing the insurance firm AIG. In the wake of the financial crisis, the Justice Department provided copies of the reports Mr. Cole issued when he was overseeing AIG, but they were labeled “Committee Confidential.” As a result of their being labeled “Committee Confidential,” I can’t discuss with specificity the contents of those documents publicly. Nevertheless, when taken into context with the public responses provided by Mr. Cole to my questions, a troubling picture developed about Mr. Cole’s performance in his independent consultant role. His responses and reports do not dispel the serious questions raised about Mr. Cole’s independence or his complete

Further, they reveal what appears to be a level of deference to AIG management one would not expect to see from someone tasked with the responsibility of being an “independent” monitor.

In order to clarify a number of questions on this matter, Senator Coburn and I sent a followup letter seeking additional answers from Mr. Cole. Mr. Cole’s reply clarified that the Department of Justice and the Securities and Exchange Commission, and the New York Attorney General’s Office were aware of his practice of seeking input from AIG and making modifications to the reports. He indicated that the changes AIG made were often factual changes such as AIG employee names, dates of materials, and events. He also indicated that some of the changes requested by AIG were included in a section of the report entitled “AIG Regulation.” He ultimately requested “on a few occasions” AIG would “suggest a stylistic change of phrasing in the analytical section of the report.” He stated that while he included the edits made by AIG, he “did not believe that a detailed presentation of this factual review process was necessary to an understanding of each party’s position.”

As a result, the reports did not necessarily show which edits AIG made that were incorporated. Instead, he said the changes were available in working papers that were “available to the SEC, the DOJ, and the New York Attorney General’s Office.” Unfortunately, he added, “the agencies—which were aware of this practice—did not request such documents.

While I appreciate Mr. Cole’s responses to these clarifying questions, they raise concerns about how independent his monitoring was, what changes were ultimately requested by AIG, what changes were included, and how much the SEC and the Department of Justice knew about edits AIG was making to the “independent” reports.

In addition, I have serious concerns about his failure to suspend a compliance review at AIG’s financial products division following the government bailout of AIG. In his testimony, Mr. Cole acknowledged that subsequent to the government bailout of AIG, he scaled back his efforts until the future of AIG as a corporation was determined. After Mr. Cole suspended his monitoring, AIG restructured its compliance office and terminated a number of staff overseeing the company’s compliance with SEC regulations. Mr. Cole said after it was determined that AIG’s financial products division would not be dissolved, the compliance and monitoring were “revived and are being reviewed and implemented where applicable.”

Under Mr. Cole’s watch, AIG not only got $182 billion of taxpayer dollars for a bailout, but was able to talk the independent consultant—Mr. Cole—out of monitoring what the company was doing.

I am concerned about Mr. Cole’s ability to perform the duties required of a Deputy Attorney General. In that role, he would be in a position to potentially influence future compliance monitors appointed under settlements with the Justice Department, the Securities and Exchange Commission, and other corporations that have violated the law. Independent monitors need to be truly independent and, of course, completely transparent. They are selected and appointed to ensure the interests of the American people are protected.

I urge my colleagues to do the same.

Madam President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

The Ethics Committee. The Ethics Committee is not a committee, as you know, on which a Member asks to serve; it is something we must do.

We had a very sensitive investigation in the House of Representatives concerning the Speaker of the House, Newt Gingrich, and the six of us who served on the Ethics Committee needed to come to a fair, nonpartisan conclusion to this very challenging investigation. To say we thought this would be impossible was an understatement of where we first thought we would be in regard to the investigation. But then we reached out and agreed to bring in an independent counsel to help us in our deliberations. That person was Jim Cole.

Jim Cole worked with all of us to look at the facts and do what was in the best interests of the House of Representatives, the best interests of our constituents, and to leave the side of the American people so that we could come out with a result that was fair and would restore confidence in the legislative process. In fact, we did that. We were able to reach a totally unanimous judgment, one that was agreed to on the floor of the House of Representatives and I think spoke volumes about our ability to get our work done in the best interests of our Nation.
I thought Jim Cole did a fabulous job, a great job in helping us. That was also the view of Porter Goss, who was the Republican leader on the Ethics Committee and chairman of the committee at the time. He said he felt Jim Cole enjoyed the highest level to our investigation and allowed us to come forward with a fair nonpartisan conclusion. That is the exact person we need in the Department of Justice. It is the person we need in the Department of Justice who will work in a nonpartisan way, a way that will bring nonpartisan leadership to the Department of Justice. Jim Cole is that type of person. He has the experience, he has the character. He has the commitment to fill this very important position in our Nation, with 13 years in the Department of Justice and experience in public interest law. His career has been devoted to the public interest in community service.

I was listening to my colleague and friend Senator Grassley talk about his concerns about some of the private law practice of Jim Cole. Here is a person who has devoted his life basically to community and his career in public interest law. He has been a prosecutor. He has been a person who has dealt with white-collar criminals. And, yes, he is an effective attorney. As those of us who know, we will represent our clients aggressively, but we don’t lose sight of our system. That has been Jim Cole throughout his career. He will bring the expertise he has had in his previous experience to represent our country. These are tough times. We are dealing with threats around the world where we need an Attorney General and a Deputy Attorney General who will use all lawful tools in order to protect our country.

I think that Jim Cole enjoys endorsement from both sides of the aisle. When we look at high-ranking Department of Justice former officials, both Democrats and Republicans have endorsed his nomination’s confirmation to be the Deputy Attorney General. Let me quote from one Republican source that I think is typical of the endorsements we have received encouraging the confirmation of Jim Cole. We received a letter from Fred Fielding. He was White House Counsel for former President George W. Bush. I think most of you know Fred Fielding. He was White House Counsel for former President George W. Bush. I think most of you had close dealings with and respected him greatly in the service to the Nation. This is what Fred Fielding said about Jim Cole:

Mr. Cole combines all the qualities you would want in a citizen public servant. He understands both sides of the street and is smart and tenacious, and is a person of unquestioned honor and integrity.

Well, I agree with Fred Fielding. This is the type of person we need to be Deputy Attorney General of the United States. I am pleased we are going to have this vote later on today. I encourage my colleagues to vote for his confirmation. It is important that we have individuals in key positions who enjoy the full confirmation from the Senate, and I hope my colleagues will join me in supporting this nominee.

Mrs. FEINSTEIN. Madam President, I rise in strong support of the nomination of Ms. Monaco to be the Assistant Attorney General for National Security that is before the Senate. The Assistant Attorney General for National Security is a fairly new position but a very important one, especially in a time of rapidly evolving threats to our nation and increasingly challenging legal questions about how to prepare for and combat those threats.

As the Assistant Attorney General for National Security, Ms. Monaco would be responsible for implementing the Department of Justice under the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Act, FISA, proceedings and sign off on applications to allow the government to move quickly to track down terrorists and spies operating against the United States. She is the principal official in the Department of Justice for engaging with the intelligence community as agencies determine the authorities and limitations under the law.

Ms. Monaco’s confirmation is long overdue. She was approved unanimously by both the Senate Judiciary and Intelligence Committees last month after the May 1 strike against Osama bin Laden.

Importantly for the Assistant Attorney General for National Security position, that operation netted a large cache of al-Qaida documents, communications, and videos that will, no doubt, lead to new counterterrorism leads.

On May 8 National Security Adviser Tom Donilon was on “Meet the Press,” and he said, “This is the largest cache of intelligence derived from the scene of any single terrorist. It’s about the size, the CIA tells us, of a small college library.”

In the past 2 months, intelligence and law enforcement professionals have been scouring that information for new threats, leads, and insights into al-Qaida and global terrorism. As the intelligence community turns into counterterrorism actions, Lisa Monaco will oversee those activities.

The bottom line is that at this time of heightened potential threat of terrorism, the Attorney General, the intelligence community, and the entire administration need to have their team in place.

Ms. Monaco was approved by the Senate Judiciary Committee on May 9 and by the Senate Intelligence Committee on May 24, in both cases by unanimous vote. Both committees held confirmation hearings for Ms. Monaco and for both committees, she completed prehearing and post-hearing questions. I know Ms. Monaco also had a chance to meet with members of both committees and it is clear she is impressive and well-qualified.

There is no doubt that Ms. Monaco has the experience to be an effective Assistant Attorney General for National Security. Let me describe her background in more detail.

Since February 2010, Lisa Monaco has served as the Principal Associate Deputy Attorney General or acted in that capacity, and she served as Associate Deputy Attorney General from January 2009 through February 2010.

She also has considerable experience with the Federal Bureau of Investigation, having served as chief of staff to Director Robert Mueller, September 2007–January 2009.

Ms. Monaco spent 6 years as an assistant U.S. attorney for the District of Columbia when she received the Attorney General’s Award for Exceptional Service, the Department of Justice’s highest award. She also received Department of Justice Awards for Special Achievement on three occasions, in 2002, 2003, and 2005.

She received her law degree from the University of Chicago Law School, 1997, and her B.A. from Harvard University, 1990.

Ms. Monaco’s nomination has received support from a range of former senior officials of the FBI and Department of Justice, including former Attorney General Michael B. Mukasey and former Assistant Attorney General for National Security Kenneth L. Wainstein.

So we see that Ms. Monaco’s background and qualifications are impeccable. I strongly urge the Senate to approve her nomination to be the Assistant Attorney General and wish her success in this position.

Madam President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mrs. Gillibrand). The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. LEAHY. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The Senator from Vermont.

Mr. LEAHY. After extensive and unnecessary delays, the Senate will finally vote today on three important nominations to fill high-level posts at the Department of Justice. Two of these positions have national security responsibilities. I have been here since the Ford administration, and I cannot recall a time when the Justice Department and the country were deprived of such critical appointees. Whether we had a Republican or Democratic President, we always quickly filled these kinds of national security positions. So it is hard to understand why we have not been able to vote on nominees for such critical positions. Whether we had a Republican or Democratic President, we always quickly filled these kinds of national security positions. So it is hard to understand why we have not been able to vote on nominees for such critical positions.
The nominations of Jim Cole to be Deputy Attorney General, Lisa Monaco to be Assistant Attorney General for National Security, and Virginia Seitz to be Deputy Attorney General for the Office of Legal Counsel have been blocked for months by Republican obstruction over matters not related to the qualifications of the nominees and in abject disregard of the needs of the Justice Department and the country. So I am glad that today we are finally going to vote and, I trust, confirm these superbly qualified nominees.

The unprecedented filibuster of the nomination of the Deputy Attorney General has been especially egregious. The Deputy Attorney General is the No. 2 position at the Justice Department, and it is a position with key national security responsibilities. Despite significant bipartisan support and unquestionable qualifications, Jim Cole’s nomination was blocked for nearly a year. He was reported favorably by the Senate Judiciary Committee in July of last year—11 months ago—but the Republicans prevented a vote. He was renominated and reported favorably a second time in the middle of March, but Republicans stalled and filibustered consideration of the nomination last month. During my time in the Senate, I have seen the nominations of many Deputy Attorneys General. They have been voted on favorably by the Senate Judiciary Committee—whether under Republican or Democratic control—their nomination has been voted on within a matter of days on the Senate floor. This is the first time in the Nation’s history that a President’s nominee to serve as Deputy Attorney General was filibustered, and it was wrong.

Jim Cole’s nomination should not have been controversial. It is a nomination supported by former Republican Senate majority leaders, who was nominated by President Bush to be our Ambassador to the United Nations. Senator Danforth worked with Jim Cole for more than 15 years. When he introduced him at his confirmation hearing, Senator Danforth described Mr. Cole as someone without an ideological or political agenda. He also wrote to the committee:

Jim is a “lawyer’s lawyer.” He is exceedingly knowledgeable, especially on matters relating to legal and business ethics, public integrity and compliance with government regulations. He is highly regarded . . . as a skillful litigator. As his resume demonstrates, he has valuable experience in the Department of Justice.

I agree. Jim Cole served as a career prosecutor at the Justice Department for a dozen years and has a well-deserved reputation for fairness, integrity and toughness. He has demonstrated understanding and deep experience in issues of crime and national security that are at the center of the Deputy Attorney General’s job. Nothing suggests that he is anything other than a steadfast defender of American safety.

We have received numerous letters of support for Mr. Cole’s nomination, including letters from many former Republican public officials. I put several letters on the record last month. The Senate should have heeded those recommendations as well as the advice of former Deputy Attorneys General of the United States who served in both Republican and Democratic administrations. They wrote to us last December to urge the Senate to consider Mr. Cole’s nomination without delay—last December—pointing out that the Deputy Attorney General is “the chief operating officer of the Department of Justice, supervising its day-to-day operations” and that “the Deputy is also a key member of the president’s national security team, a function that has grown in importance and complexity in the years since the terror attacks of September 11.” They wrote it was wrong for us to filibuster this nomination. The Senate has the opportunity today to finally confirm this good man and public servant. I trust this institution will take that opportunity.

Incredibly, the nomination of the Deputy Attorney General was subjected to a partisan filibuster for over three more months while the country faces concerns about terrorism in the aftermath of the President’s successful operation against al-Qaeda and Osama bin Laden. It is hard for me to understand how, at a time when experts are concerned that al-Qaeda will seek reprisals, some in the Senate have delayed action to ensure that President Obama has his full national security team in place. No matter who is President, we should want that President to have their national security team in place for the good of all Americans.

In the aftermath of 9/11, Senate Democrats provided necessary advice and national security nominations, confirming an additional 58 officials to posts at the Justice Department before the end of 2001. The Senate should have done the same with the nomination of Jim Cole. Senate Republicans should have treated Mr. Cole’s nomination with the same urgency and seriousness with which Senate Democrats treated all four of the Deputy Attorneys General who served under President Bush. All four of those nominees were confirmed by voice vote an average of 21 days after they were reported by the Judiciary Committee. No Deputy Attorney General nomination had ever been subjected to a filibuster before. That is what Senate Republicans did this year. It was wrong.

In addition, Senate Republicans have blocked votes on the nomination of Lisa Monaco to head the National Security Division at the Justice Department, another key national security position. Her nomination was blocked even though it was considered at hearings and reported unanimously, not only by the Judiciary Committee but also by the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence. She was reported unanimously by all Democrats and all Republicans in two key committees. Senator Grassley, Senator Chambliss and all the Republican members of the Senator Intelligence Committee and the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence voted for her. To have an almost 2-month delay has been incredible—she should have been confirmed right after her nomination was reported by the Intelligence and Judiciary Committees.

Lisa Monaco’s nomination has long been supported by former Justice Department officials, including former Attorney General Mukasey, who served during President George W. Bush’s administration. He wrote:

Based on my meetings and conversations with Ms. Monaco, I believe that she has both sound judgment and a keen understanding of national security law. Which is to say, she understands both the stakes and the rules.

The Monica nomination to head the National Security Division at the Justice Department should have been confirmed before the Memorial Day recess. I have little doubt that she will be confirmed overwhelmingly. But the almost two-month delay in voting for her confirmation now. The National Security Division has been without her leadership. The national security team has been without another key member.

Virginia Seitz is another superbly qualified nominee with bipartisan support who should have been confirmed before the Memorial Day recess, but whose nomination has been blocked from consideration by Senate Republicans. A Rhodes Scholar and former Supreme Court clerk, Ms. Seitz has received support for her nomination from some of the most preeminent lawyers in the country, including many who have served in Republican administration.

This nomination was also reported unanimously by the Judiciary Committee. All Republican members and all Democratic members voted for her. Then Senate Republicans turned around and blocked her confirmation.

I have seen the crocodile tears of some over the last few days as they lament the lack of an Office of Legal Counsel opinion on how the War Powers Act applied to the NATO-led operation in Libya. It is Senate Republicans who are responsible for this delay and blocked the Office of Legal Counsel from having its Assistant Attorney General in place. Today, after 7 weeks of obstruction, the Senate will finally consider the nomination of Virginia Seitz.

The treatment of these nominees is now carrying over to other nominations and important legislative initiatives, as well. Just last week we witnessed for the first time since the infamously partisan vote on the nomination of Brett Kavanaugh, the spectacle of Republican Senators who had voted in favor of a nomination in committee switching to vote against the
The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The bill clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. RUBIO. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the floor be rescinded and to speak as in morning business.

Mr. LEAHY. Madam President, reserving the right to object, I will not object. But insofar as many had planned to be here for the 12 o'clock scheduled votes, could the Senator from Florida tell me how long he wishes to take?

Mr. RUBIO. Five minutes.

Mr. LEAHY. I will not object, Madam President.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

L I B Y A

Mr. RUBIO. Madam President, over the last 2 weeks, we have seen a deepening divide between the White House and Congress over Libya. It is a clash that was completely avoidable but also counterproductive.

First, for the life of me, I do not understand why this administration did not bring this issue to the Congress from the outset. In the early days of the Libyan rebellion, the President should have come to the Congress, informed us that an armed rebellion had arisen against Libya's anti-American, criminal dictator; that the rebels were asking for our assistance in establishing a no-fly zone over Libyan air space so they could take care of the dictator themselves; and that with our support, he intended to work with our allies to establish such a no-fly zone.

If this President had done this, I believe he would have found support here and Qadhafi would have been gone a long time ago.

But instead, this administration waited. While it did, Qadhafi reestablished momentum and began to carry out atrocities unprecedented even by his murderous standards. And then, only with the Qadhafi mercenaries on the outskirts of Benghazi threatening to massacre thousands of innocent civilians, did the United States finally agree to participate.

But even that was botched. First, we ceded most of the operation over to our NATO allies. God bless them for trying, but they do not have the military capability to finish the job.

Second, the President never consulted Congress, again ignoring a coequal branch of government unnecessarily.

And then, when finally he was pressed under the War Powers Act, he claims the United States is not involved in hostilities in Libya.

Why have we reached this point? Something history will have to explain. Suffice it to say, it didn't have to be this way. And the reason why it is is 100 percent the result of the President's failure to lead.

Now, all that being said, we need to decide what to do next. This is not about hawks versus doves or interventionists versus isolationists or any of the other labels being thrown around here.

And this cannot be about how upset any of us are at the President for botching the handling of this situation.

What we do next should be decided based on what is in the best interest of our country.

And here is the reality: Whether you agree with it or not, the United States is now engaged in a fight, and it is a fight that only has two possible endings.

It can end with the fall of a brutal, criminal, anti-American dictator or it could end in that dictator's victory over our allies and us.

I would suggest, given these two choices, the best choice for America is the first one, the fall of the anti-American dictator.

Going forward, how do we do this? First, we should officially recognize the Transitional National Council.

Second, we should provide additional resources to support the council, including access to Libyan funds frozen here in the United States. And by the way, we should also make sure the frozen funds are also used to reimburse us, the United States, for the cost of this operation.

Third, we should intensify strike operations to target the Qadhafi regime and get rid of this guy once and for all, and as soon as possible.

Then, fourth, we should go home and allow the Libyan people to build a new nation and a new future for themselves.

I understand that, rightfully so, many here in the Congress and across America are weary of more war and more overseas engagement during a time of severe budget constraints at home.

But the fact remains, whether you agree with it or not, we are already involved. We are already involved in Libya. We have already spent a considerable amount of money there. Are we going to let all that go to waste? Are we prepared to walk away and get stuck with a lose-lose proposition? We spent all this money on Libya, and Qadhafi is still around?

It is in our national interest to get this over with already.

This afternoon, the Foreign Relations Committee will meet to consider a resolution on this matter. I am concerned that rather than push the President to do what is necessary to bring this conflict to a successful conclusion, some are pushing to restrict our campaign.

No matter how you may feel about the original decision, we must now deal with the situation as it now stands. And the bottom line here is that if we withdraw from our air war over Libya, it will lengthen the conflict, increase the cost to American taxpayers, and raise questions about United States leadership among friends and foes alike.

Here is what withdrawal will mean in real terms:
The coalition would quickly unravel. Qadhafi would emerge victorious, even more dangerous and determined to seek his revenge through terrorism against the countries in NATO and the Arab League that tried and failed to overthrow him. We would see a bloodbath inside Libya. This killer, Qadhafi, will unleash unspeakable horrors against the Libyan people. And the ripple effects will be felt across the Middle East. For example, the democracies movements in places like Iran and Syria would conclude that they too might be abandoned and the dictators they oppose would be emboldened. Our disengagement would irreparably harm the NATO alliance.

I fully understand the frustration at the way the President has handled this situation, but the answer to any problem is not to make it worse. Some may think what we do here this afternoon on the resolution is largely symbolic, simply intended to send a message to the White House. Yes, it will send a message to the President, but it will also send a message to Qadhafi and those around him. And here is the message that I fear we are sending: That the coalition is breaking and the Qadhafi regime might yet win. I know that is not anyone’s intention, but that is the very real risk we run. There is a better, more pragmatic way forward.

Let’s pass a resolution backing these activities. For those frustrated with the President’s failure to adequately make the case for our involvement, our job in Congress is to push the administration to do a better job explaining our effort in Libya.

Here is the good news: The tide in Libya appears to be turning against Qadhafi. The opposition in Benghaz was successful in expanding the territory under its control, breaking the siege laid by regime forces on Misrata, the country’s third largest city.

At the same time, the Qadhafi regime has been shaken by further defections and collapsing international support. Libya is at a critical juncture. And for the United States, there is only one acceptable outcome—the removal of the Qadhafi regime and, with it, the opportunity for the Libyan people to build a free and democratic society.

Madam President, I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Connecticut.

Mr. LIEBERMAN. Madam President, I yield back all remaining time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is, Will the Senate advise and consent to the nomination of James Michael Cole, of the District of Columbia, to be Deputy Attorney General? Mr. LIEBERMAN. I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second? There is a sufficient second. The clerk will call the roll.

The bill clerk called the roll. Mr. DURBIN. I announce that the Senator from Wisconsin (Mr. KOHL), the Senator from West Virginia (Mr. MANCHIN), and the Senator from New Mexico (Mr. UDALL) are necessarily absent.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there any other Senators in the Chamber desiring to vote? The result was announced—yeas 55, nays 42.

The nomination was confirmed.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is, Will the Senate advise and consent to the nomination of Virginia A. Seitz, of the District of Columbia, to be an Assistant Attorney General? The nomination was confirmed.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is, Will the Senate advise and consent to the nomination of Lisa O. Monaco, of the District of Columbia, to be an Assistant Attorney General? The nomination was confirmed.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, the motions to reconsider are considered made and laid on the table, and the President shall be immediately notified of the Senate’s action.

Mr. RUBIO. Madam President, today, the Senate considered the nomination of James Cole to be deputy Attorney General of the United States. I voted against his nomination and want to explain my vote.

Mr. Cole has been a vocal critic of the use of military commissions to try terrorists. Based upon my review of his record, it is apparent that he is an ardent supporter of the use of article III courts to try terrorists. He has advocated a criminal law approach to prosecuting terrorists. By way of example Mr. Cole has stated:

For all the rhetoric about war, the September 11 attacks were criminal acts of terrorism against a civilian population.

Testifying before the Judiciary Committee, he refused to say whether he favored a civilian or military trial for Osama bin Laden, should he be captured alive.

I believe that such decisions should be made on a case-by-case basis, based on all the relevant factors and circumstances available at the time of the suspect’s capture.

Additionally, under Mr. Cole’s watch, the Justice Department has announced that it would try two Iraqi nationals who were arrested in Kentucky on charges related to attacking and killing U.S. troops in Iraq, in civilian courts.

While Mr. Cole has the academic and legal background necessary to fill this position, his actions as Deputy Attorney General and history supporting criminal trials for terrorists clearly establishes that he will pursue an agenda that seeks to ensure that terrorists are tried in article III courts. These issues are of paramount concern and I cannot support a nominee who subscribes to these views. Accordingly, I had no but to oppose this nomination.

LEGISLATIVE SESSION

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, the Senate shall resume legislative session.

RECESS

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, the Senate stands in recess until 2:15 p.m.

Thereupon, the Senate, at 12:41 p.m., recessed until 2:16 p.m. and reassembled when called to order by the Presiding Officer (Ms. KLOBUCAR).

PRESIDENTIAL APPOINTMENT EFFICIENCY AND STREAMLINING ACT OF 2011

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, the Senate will consider the nomination of S. 679, which the clerk will report by title.

The legislative clerk read as follows: A bill (S. 679) to reduce the number of executive positions subject to Senate confirmation.

Pending: DeMint amendment No. 501, to repeal the authority to provide certain loans to the International Monetary Fund, the increase in the United States quota to the Fund, and certain other related authorities, and rescind related appropriated amounts. DeMint amendment No. 511, to enhance accountability and transparency among various Executive agencies. Portman amendment No. 509, to provide that the provisions relating to the Assistant Secretary (Comptroller) of the Air Force, the Assistant Secretary (Comptroller) of the Army, and the Assistant Secretary (Comptroller) of the Navy, and the Controller of the Office of Management and Budget shall not take effect.
Let me remind everyone of President Obama's pledge when he signed the Dodd-Frank banking act into law last year, an act which, by the way, is turning out to be a job-killer and is itself a threat to our financial markets. The President clearly stated, "[t]here will be no more tax-funded bailouts—period."

Unfortunately, that promise has proven hollow. Recall that a Democrat-led Congress, urged on by President Obama, upped the U.S. ante with the $700 billion Troubled Assets Relief Program in 2008. Additional funding of up to $108 billion was provided to the IMF which can now be used to bail out profligate European governments. Make no mistake, bailouts are continuing and there are threats of even more on the horizon.

Let me be clear now, before any crisis hits. There can be no further bailouts, of banks or foreign countries or private companies or unions or states that are funded by innocent American taxpayers.

The people of Utah, whom I represent, and the vast majority of Americans want to hold the President to his promise. They are done with taxpayer-funded bailouts.

The administration and the agencies responsible for oversight of our financial system need to bring some sunshine to this situation, and make clear to the American people just what the bailout risk is from the Eurozone or anywhere else.

I am proud to cosponsor with Senator DeMint and several of my colleagues an amendment that will roll back the funding provided to the IMF in 2009. To make the President's pledge of no more tax-funded bailouts meaningful, and to do what the American people are clearly demanding of Congress, it is imperative to protect taxpayers from bailouts of profligate European countries through the IMF.

American taxpayers deserve assurance now that they will not be again forced to assume risks and losses that they did not create. Taxpayers deserve to know that they will be protected from future bailouts.

That is precisely what the amendment that I am cosponsoring will do. It is a simple amendment and its message is clear.

No more taxpayer bailouts.

If the President is unwilling to fulfill his pledge of his own, there are those of us in Congress who are happy to hold him to his word.

I urge my colleagues to stand up for taxpayers and vote for this critical amendment.

So far I have been speaking about this administration's abuse of power with regard to the IMF. I would like to switch gears for a few minutes and talk about another series of abuses that are no less outrageous. I am speaking about the Obama administration's labor agenda.

Over the last month or so, many in this Chamber have expressed concern about the National Labor Relations Board's complaint against Boeing. That complaint has been almost universally criticized, if not outright condemned, from all corners of the country. Just last week, the Washington Post, not exactly known for having an anti-union bias, had some harsh words for the board's handling. I ask unanimous consent to have the Post's editorial printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD as follows:

[From the Washington Post, June 19, 2011]

FLIGHT RISK FOR BOEING

The opening of a manufacturing plant with nearly 1,000 jobs should be cause for celebration. But Boeing Co.'s $1 billion facility in South Carolina has met a different, less welcome response.

The National Labor Relations Board, spurred by the International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers, hit Boeing with a complaint of unfair labor practices. The board charges that Boeing illegally shipped jobs to South Carolina from the company's Washington state facility in retaliation for past strikes by unionized workers in Puget Sound. Both facilities will be involved in building the company's new and mammoth 787 Dreamliner.

The NLRB pegged its case to "coercive" threats by Boeing executives who told the media that disruptions caused by the strikes played a role in deciding to build in South Carolina. They also spoke of the need to "geographically diversify" to avoid shutdowns caused by natural disasters and to control costs, which would be easier to do in a "right-to-work" state through lower labor costs.

If the punishment, the NLRB is seeking to compel Boeing to move the Dreamliner jobs in South Carolina to Washington state—which the company says would essentially force it to shut the plant. Boeing calls the proposed punishment "indisputably the most consequential—and destructive—remedy ever sought by an officer of the NLRB."

The law forbids employers from discriminating or retaliating against employees for lawful union activity. To prevail, an aggrieved party typically must prove that the retaliation resulted in denouncements, dismissals, wage reductions or other punitive measures. In Boeing's case, these reprisals are absent; the company also claims its collective bargaining agreement gives it the explicit and exclusive right to locate work where it wishes.

The allegation that the company "transferred" jobs out of state is unconvincing because the jobs in South Carolina are new. The company has not cut jobs in Washington, nor has it reduced or slashed the wages of union workers. Boeing has added about 3,000—albeit temporary—jobs in Washington since it announced its South Carolina plan, and says it is likely to add more to keep up with demand for its commercial airliners.

Employers who engage in unfair labor practices should be punished. But the NLRB's move goes too far and would undermine a company's ability to consider all legitimate factors—including potential work disruptions—when making decisions. It substitutes the government's judgment for that of the company. This is neither good law nor good business.
certify the union. The motivation behind this proposal is simple, the less notice the employers have regarding a union election, the less time they will have to make their case to the workforce.

Unions and their democratic allies have sought these kinds of so-called reforms for decades. I want to be clear. For all of their talk about representing the little guy, and standing for the people, these reforms are an affront to the spirit of democracy. They show disrespect by attempting to deny them critical information that could inform their choices in these elections. Their genesis is not in a concern for the common man but in the unholy alliance between union apparachiks who want to grow their power and union dues, and the labor bosses that depend on those dues to elect representatives who have little in common with the workers whose paychecks they dock to elect them.

Unions tell us now that President Obama has packed the NLRB with former union lawyers, who, in a sense, are no different from the union bosses. Union members have the right to know how those elections will turn out. Yet unions are fighting to deny workers critical information that could inform their choices in these elections.

The National Mediation Board, which has jurisdiction over labor relations in the railroad and airline industries, has, like the NLRB, aggressively pursued a unionization-at-all-costs agenda. While the NMB's activities have not received the same attention as those of the NLRB, their actions are every bit as egregious.

Last summer, the NMB, at the behest of big labor, issued the voting procedures for all union elections under its jurisdiction. For 75 years, an airline or railroad union had to win the support of a majority of the entire workforce in order to be certified as the representative. Under that system, workers who did not vote in an election were counted as no votes.

The logic of this rule was sound. Unions do not seek to represent just those workers who vote in an election. A union claims to represent the entire workforce. The established rule ensured that the results of an election accurately reflected the will of a true majority of a given workforce.

Unfortunately, logic and common sense often stand in the way of the big labor agenda.

So in 2010 the NMB unilaterally changed the rule to lower the bar. Now these elections are decided by a majority of those voting in an election, regardless of how many workers actually voted. In other words, under the new rule a union could be certified even if a majority of the workers did not support it.

Given the timing of this decision, one can only conclude that the pro-union appointees on the NMB were specifically targeting Delta Airlines for unionization after its merger with Northwest Airlines. I think it would be naive to think otherwise.

But here is the remarkable thing.

The stage was set for a union cake-walk. Shortly after the NMB fixed the rules to secure a pro-union outcome, a series of challenges to Delta's flight attendants to determine if they wanted to be represented by the Association of Flight Attendants or AFA. All the rails were greased for the union.

And the union still lost.

The result was a triumph of employees over the union bosses.

The employees had three options. One, voting yes to certify AFA representation. Two, voting no, to reject certification or, three, voting in an alternative choice for representation.

The NMB did its best to fix this for the union. They counted the write-in votes, votes cast for an option other than the AFA, as votes in favor of the union.

But when the dust settled, with 94 percent of Delta's flight attendants voting in the election, the union still lost. Of course, the unions cried foul and have challenged those results. The NMB, which has shown little desire thus far to vindicate the rights of non-union workers, let alone those of employers, is currently investigating the AFA's claims that Delta interfered in the vote.

I think we can guess how this investigation will turn out.

This recent election was not the only setback the unions have received at the hands of Delta employees. Last fall, three other Delta workforces, the ticket agents, the bagging agents, and the reservation agents, all held separate union elections, all of which ended with similar results. The NMB is also investigating claims of interference in those elections, even though no substantive evidence has been presented.

With these latter three elections, the union suitor was the International Association of Machinists, the same union whose interests the NLRB is serving with its absurd complaint against Boeing. If the Obama administration's commitment to serving IAM is consistent between agencies, and there is absolutely no reason to assume that the NMB is an exception, we should be surprised.

During the 2008 campaign, President Obama addressed a gathering of the SEIU, probably the most politically powerful union in the country. During his speech, the President told the crowd if he were elected, "we are going to paint the Nation purple with SEIU." Apparently, Madam President, this is the one campaign promise President Obama intends to keep.

4,200 pages long, and who knows how many thousands of man hours that document took to produce—was going to be the solution to our fiscal problems. But it was so unserious it would have added over $12 trillion to our Nation’s debt. It was so unserious that when it was voted on in the Senate, it lost by a vote of 0 to 97. It was so unserious that not a single member of the President’s own party voted for it.

Instead of rolling up his shirt sleeves and personally tackling the No. 1 problem we face in this Nation right from the beginning, President Obama delegated his role in sporadic negotiations to Vice President BIDEN. Now that those talks have broken down, the President is finally getting personally involved in this process.

But what kind of process is this? A few people talking behind closed doors, far from the view of the American public, is that the process that is going to decide the fate of America’s financial situation? Is this how the U.S. Government is supposed to work? I don’t think so. Of course not.

Unfortunately, this has become business as usual in Washington. As a manufacturer, I know if the process is bad the product will be bad. Business as usual in Washington is a bad process. Business as usual is bankrupting America. It must stop. America is simply too precious to subject our financial future to Washington’s business as usual. I am pretty new here. I don’t pretend to understand everything that makes the Senate work, or maybe more accurately what doesn’t allow the Senate to work. But I do know the Senate runs on something called unanimous consent. If we don’t have that, the Senate will not pass a budget. It shouldn’t be that difficult. Families do it every day. A husband earns $40,000; a wife earns $40,000. The total family income is $80,000. That is their budget. That is what they can afford to spend. American families figure out how to live within their means. The Federal Government should be no different. A budget is a number. We should start picking one number and then a set of numbers that will not let America go bankrupt.

The Senate needs to pass a budget. It should be a process that is fair to all parties. It should be transparent, open, and accountable to the American people. The Senate needs to come up with a balanced budget, passed by a vote of at least 60 votes, that will not lead us to bankruptcy. The American people deserve to be told the truth. Unless that happens, I will begin to withhold my consent. Unless there is some assurance the Senate will take up its budget responsibilities in an open process, I will begin to object.

Madam President, I suggest the absence of a quorum. The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant editor of the Daily Digest proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. SESSIONS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

Mr. JOHNSON of Wisconsin. I object. The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. FRANKEN). Objection is heard. Mr. SESSIONS. I thank the Chair. The assistant bill clerk continued with the call of the roll, and the following Senators, ordered by the Chamber and answered to their names:

Quorum No. 2

Mr. REID. Madam President, I move that the Sergeant at Arms be instructed to request the attendance of absent Senators, and I ask for the yeas and nays. The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. CASEY). Is there a sufficient second? There is a sufficient second.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. BENNET). Are there any other Senators in the Chamber desiring to vote?

The result was announced—yeas 44, nays 40, as follows: [Rollcall Vote No. 98 Leg.]

NAYs—40

NOT VOTING—16

Accordingly, the amendment No. 512, as modified with the changes that are at the desk, Carper No. 517, and Paul No. 503; that a managers’ amendment which is at the desk be agreed to; that at 11 a.m. on Wednesday, June 29, the Senate proceed to vote in relation to the remaining amendments to S. 679 in the following order: DeMint No. 501, Portman-Udall of New Mexico-Cornyn—that is three Senators—No. 509, as modified, with the changes that are at the desk, DeMint No. 511, and Paul No. 514; that the Cornyn amendment No. 504, McCain amendment No. 493, and Paul amendment No. 502 be withdrawn; that no amendments be in order to any of the amendments prior to the votes; that upon disposition of the amendments, the bill be read a third time and the Senate proceed to vote on passage of the bill, as amended; that there be no motions or points of order in order to the bill or any of the amendments other than budget points of order and time limits; that the reconsideration period be 60 days; finally, that all other provisions of previous orders with respect to S. 679 remain in effect.
I oppose S. 1145 in its current form because it does not include a sufficient carve-out for intelligence, law enforcement, or protective assignments abroad. The current version of S. 1145 does include a carve-out for intelligence activities, but the current version of the intelligence carve-out is problematic. There is repetition in the language and extraneous language is unnecessary. Further, under the current carve-out an intelligence agent may not be protected from prosecution, even though he was authorized to undertake an operation. The current provision in the bill would require that a supervisor’s directive be authorized and also be “consistent with applicable U.S. law.” This extra requirement opens up a world of questions. How should an agent in the field know his supervisor’s instruction was “consistent with applicable U.S. law”? Will this provision now require agents to obtain a legal opinion before they take action? This is not the message we should be sending to the agents in the field.

Instead, I proposed a carve-out in the Judiciary Committee that would exclude government employees performing intelligence, law enforcement, and protective assignments abroad. This version was based upon existing U.S. law that some members of the Judiciary Committee previously supported. If the carve-out I proposed is good enough for employees operating inside the United States, it should be good enough for those operating abroad. Why would we give agents operating in the U.S. more protections than those operating in foreign lands?

Further, the current carve-out in S. 1145 is not the preferred language that the intelligence community proposed at the beginning of negotiations. If past is any prologue, this appears to be yet another instance where the intelligence community for some reason has had to settle for language it can “live with” as opposed to the optimal language it should be seeking. This same problem occurred in negotiations during consideration of legislation extending the three expiring provisions of the USA PATRIOT Act. Ultimately, extraneous language that would have restricted the ability of law enforcement and the intelligence community was removed from the extension of the PATRIOT Act authorities and a similar outcome should occur on CEJA.

I also oppose S. 1145 in its current form because the legislation does not currently include the Unborn Victims of Violence Act, UVVA, in the list of covered offenses that would apply to crime victims abroad. The UVVA applies to violent Federal crimes in the United States, and to employees and contractors of the Department of Defense abroad under the Military Extraterritorial Jurisdiction Act. There is no reason that extending the long arm of Federal criminal law expanded under CEJA should exclude the UVVA.

None would dispute the importance of holding government employees and contractors accountable abroad. I support the idea of this legislation because we should never have government employees or contractors committing serious crimes like rape or murder abroad with impunity. However, we need to think long and hard about the consequences of our actions if we legislate criminal extraterritorial jurisdiction too broadly absent a sufficient carve-out for authorized intelligence, law enforcement, and protective activities.

Until these concerns are addressed and further changes are included in the bill, I support holding this legislation on the Senate floor. No one should take my support for reporting this bill out of committee to mean anything more than an expression of my willingness to work with the sponsors on this topic to address these concerns going forward.

KYRGYZSTAN’S DEMOCRATIC TRANSITION

Mr. KERRY. Mr. President, this is a critical moment for Kyrgyzstan’s democratic transition.

On June 27, 2010, the people of Kyrgyzstan took to the polls to adopt a new constitution for their country. The vote was a monumental step for this region and to the world: that democracy is an idea whose appeal transcends ethnic divides.

Kyrgyzstan’s President, Roza Otunbayeva, deserves enormous credit for orchestrating the transition to democratic rule after the deadly inter-ethnic clashes of last summer.

Since that tumultuous period, President Otunbayeva has overseen the first free and truly democratic parliamentary elections in central Asia. She has made it a priority to strengthen the rule of law, and she has moved to create a government that is increasingly responsive to the needs of all its citizens, regardless of ethnicity.

Kyrgyzstan today stands at a crossroads. Its people have expressed the desire to live in an open, free, and just society. Over the past year, we have witnessed some progress toward that goal, with credible parliamentary elections in October, the formation of a government in December, and a more vibrant media and political debate. But let’s be clear: Kyrgyzstan’s democratic experiment faces considerable challenges.

Three, in particular, threaten the aspirations that powered last year’s historic vote.

First, Kyrgyzstan’s coalition government is beset by infighting. The task of rebuilding the country after the turmoil of last year is daunting. But the challenges should also inspire a sense of common purpose. Upcoming Presidential elections in the fall present an opportune moment for Kyrgyzstan’s leadership to articulate a political compact that unites the diverse elements of society.

Second, the country’s fractious political environment has impeded efforts to combat organized crime and corruption. Rampant crime has heightened the sense of insecurity among citizens, created an unfavorable climate for business, and slowed economic growth. To the government’s credit, over 90 members of organized criminal groups are now behind bars. But much work remains to be done to reform Kyrgyzstan’s criminal justice system, and strengthen controls over its borders.

The United States can play a constructive role by providing financial support and technical expertise. We must also speak out forcefully for the prosecution of Almazbek Atambayev cases related to last year’s violence. Guaranteeing justice and equality before the law would go a long way toward alleviating interethnic tensions.

Finally, Kyrgyzstan must deal with the underlying causes of last year’s violence. Reconciliation initiatives have been slow to get off the ground. And tensions between ethnic Kyrgyz and Uzbek communities continue to fester.

Mr. President, Kyrgyzstan is a multi-ethnic state. Its diversity is a source of strength. But too often, opportunistic actors have exploited ethnicity to settle scores, acquire resources, and reclaim land in the fertile plains of the Ferghana valley.

Last June, Senator LUGAR and I authored a resolution on Kyrgyzstan calling for a full and fair investigation into the violence. The recently released report of the Kyrgyzstan Inquiry Commission is a welcome contribution to this debate, and I hope that all parties will give serious consideration to its findings.

The United States has committed over $28 million for projects that will support reconciliation in Kyrgyzstan. The United States will engage the civil society to increase links between Kyrgyz and Uzbek communities. U.S. assistance will also support implementation of the recommendations contained in the inquiry commission’s report. Going forward, we must continue to look for ways to bring Kyrgyz and Uzbeks together through economic and community-based initiatives.

I harbor no illusions about the road ahead. Indeed, no experiment—democratic or otherwise—has been without its fair share of setbacks. But I remain confident that the people of Kyrgyzstan will seize this moment and advance the cause of democracy for the benefit of their country, the region, and the world.

REMEMBERING SAN FRANCISCO FIREFIGHTERS

Mrs. BOXER. Mr. President, I ask my colleagues to join me in honoring the memory of Lieutenant Vincent “Vince” Perez, and Firefighter and Paramedic Anthony “Tony” Valerio. Both of these heroes were long time veterans of the San Francisco Fire Department who were tragically killed in the line of duty fighting a fire on June 2, 2011.

During their many years of service to the city of San Francisco, both Vincent and Anthony earned the respect and admiration of those with whom they worked by consistently going above and beyond the call of duty. Both men led by example, and were considered shining stars among San Francisco’s courageous and dedicated firefighters.

Vincent was a San Francisco native, growing up in San Francisco’s Mission District and Bernal Heights neighborhoods. He attended St. Charles Elementary School, and graduated from Archbishop Riordan High School in 1981. After graduation he attended City College of San Francisco, and then served his country in the U.S. Marine Corps and later as a deputy sheriff in Alameda County.

In 1990, Vincent joined the San Francisco Fire Department, ultimately rising to the position of lieutenant, where he supervised the crew of Engine Company 26, located in San Francisco’s Diamond Heights neighborhood.

Vincent is survived by his mother Irene; siblings Lucio, Maryleeen, and Alexander; many other family members and loved ones; and was preceded in death by his father Vincent and brother David.

Anthony was born in Fort Monmouth, NJ, and later moved to the San Francisco Bay Area. In 1975, he graduated from El Camino High School in South San Francisco and then went on to earn an associate’s degree from San Francisco State University.

He embarked on his career in public service in 1980, starting as an EMT at Acme Western in the city of Oakland and later as a paramedic for 13 years with the San Francisco Department of Public Health. In 1997, Anthony began serving the City as both a firefighter and paramedic who was assigned to numerous fire stations in the city, including his last assignment with Engine Company 26.

Anthony is survived by his parents Lorraine and Frank; siblings Jacqueline, Donna, Marina, Laura, Mark, and Kevin; and many other family members and loved ones.

Lieutenant Vincent Perez and Firefighter and Paramedic Anthony Valerio dedicated their lives to their family, community, and Nation, and they will long be remembered for their courage and dedication. Their service and bravery inspired others and both will be deeply missed by all who knew them. I extend my deepest sympathies to both men’s families, colleagues, and friends.

WESTON PLAYHOUSE THEATRE COMPANY

Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, it is a delight to call the Senate’s attention to the record of 75 years of quality productions achieved by the Weston Playhouse Theatre Company as they celebrate this major milestone with their community and friends. Among its many accolades—including the Moss Hart Award for Best Production in New England for “Floyd Collins” and Weston’s Playhouse has earned a national reputation as a professional theatre. As Vermont’s oldest theater, and one of the 15 oldest theatre companies across the United States, the Weston Playhouse has entertained families and visitors from New England and beyond since its founding in 1935. Its first professional season in 1937 included the opening of Noel Coward’s “Hay Fever,” featuring young actor Lloyd Bridges. Since then the Weston Playhouse has grown to include musicals and late-night entrainment in Weston’s small village of 640 people.

Consistent with Vermonters’ willful determination and hard work, Weston’s Playhouse Theatre Company endured a 1962 fire that destroyed the original playhouse building. Despite this hardship, the community pulled their resources together and continued to provide Vermonters and New England with quality theatre and musical experiences. Today the company serves 25,000 Vermonters and Vermont visitors each year with its devoted staff, talented artists, and dedicated board. The Weston Playhouse Theatre Company has routinely met its goals of making live theatre accessible and meaningful to a broad population of Vermonters. Resource support through the National Endowment for the Arts has allowed the playhouse to expand its offerings of cultural experiences to thousands of elementary, middle and high school aged children every year. Their outreach programs have promoted educational productions and have toured often throughout Vermont and New England while continuing to produce prestigious regional and world premieres.

Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, I am pleased to ask my colleagues to join me in celebrating the centennial of Devil’s Postpile National Monument in the Eastern Sierra Nevada of California. When Devil’s Postpile Postpile was first surveyed in the early 20th century, it became apparent to geologists that its distinctive formation and features of the surrounding landscape provided a special window into the volcanic and glacial processes that shaped the Sierra Nevada as a whole.

The cliff of columnar basalt that constitutes the Devil’s Postpile, so named because it looks like tall posts piled together, is one of the wonders of the geological world. The columns can reach heights towering more than 60 feet. Those on the west front are high, straight and clean-cut; those at its southern end stand out for their curvature.

Shortly after the initial survey, U.S. Forest Service Engineer Walter Huber learned of a plan to blast portions of the Devil’s Postpile to create a dam that would flood the middle fork of the San Joaquin River and provide power to nearby mining operations. Mr. Huber considered the idea as a “wanton destruction of scenery” and began the effort to establish a monument to protect Devil’s Postpile along with the nearby Rainbow Falls, a spectacular...

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD — SENATE

S4151

TRIBUTE TO JUSTICE JUDITH MEIERHENRY

Mr. JOHNSON of South Dakota. Mr. President, I recognize the service of Judith K. Meierhenry to the Unified Judicial System of South Dakota. In June of this year, Justice Meierhenry will retire after nearly 9 years as associate justice on the South Dakota Supreme Court.

Justice Judith Meierhenry was educated at the University of South Dakota where she received her bachelor's, master's, and juris doctorate degrees. Upon completion of her education, Justice Meierhenry practiced law in Vermillion in 1977 and 1978. She began her service to the State of South Dakota in 1979 when Governor Janklow appointed her to the State Economic Opportunity Board. The beginning of her commitment to South Dakota; she was appointed as Secretary of Labor beginning in 1980 and Secretary of Education and Cultural Affairs in 1986.

In 1985, Justice Meierhenry left the public sector and worked as a senior manager and assistant general counsel for Citibank in Sioux Falls, SD. Justice Meierhenry was appointed by Governor Mickelson in 1988 as a Second Circuit Court judge serving Lincoln and Minnehaha Counties. She became presiding judge of the Second Judicial Circuit in 1997.

Governor Janklow appointed Justice Meierhenry to the South Dakota Supreme Court in 2002. This historic appointment made her the first woman to serve on South Dakota's highest court.

Whether it be a traffic ticket or a death penalty conviction, Justice Meierhenry has approached each case with the application of the highest of legal scholarship. The South Dakota Supreme Court, the legal profession of South Dakota and all of the citizens of South Dakota are better for the public service of Justice Judith Meierhenry.

South Dakota Second Judicial Circuit court judge Patricia Riepel also notes that Justice Meierhenry "was always well-prepared and decisive, she required decorum in the courtroom as well as civility and cordiality to all of the participants, and she has worked tirelessly for the advancement of women within the legal profession, and especially within the judiciary."

I wish Justice Meierhenry a happy and healthy retirement. In her own words, "life and time are our only real possessions," and it is time that she reclaim those possessions for herself and her family. I thank Justice Meierhenry for her commitment to the rule of law, and her long and distinguished career serving the State of South Dakota.

TRIBUTE TO COLONEL ANTHONY WRIGHT

Mr. MURRAY. Mr. President, it is with great privilege that I congratulate COL Anthony Wright, Seattle district engineer for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, on his well-deserved retirement after 30 years with the Army Corps. Colonel Wright has been stationed with the Seattle District for 30 years and I have had the pleasure of working extensively with him during that time.

Western Washington State has suffered several severe storms in the last few years, resulting in devastating flooding and millions of dollars of damage to homes and businesses. Under Colonel Wright's leadership, the Army Corps responded quickly and efficiently to minimize the threats of rising floodwaters, and for this we are extremely grateful. His professionalism and expertise helped our region through disasters and undoubtedly lessened the destruction and prevented the loss of life.

An example of Colonel Wright's leadership ability was his response to a storm that caused serious damage to the Howard Hanson Dam in King County, raising the flood threat for hundreds of thousands of residents in the Green River Valley, which is one of the largest manufacturing and distribution bases on the West Coast. Colonel Wright and the Army Corps reacted quickly and decisively to counter this vulnerability, working with local governments and the public to ensure that the region was prepared until the dam could be repaired.

On behalf of all Washingtonians, I thank Colonel Wright for his dedication to the safety and well-being of the people of western Washington. His knowledge, experience, and tireless effort will be sorely missed. I congratulate Colonel Wright and wish he and his family the best of luck in their future endeavors.

A TRIBUTE TO BOBBY ALLISON

Mr. SESSIONS. Mr. President, it is with great pride that I recognize racing legend Robert Lew "Bobby" Allison upon his induction into the second class of the NASCAR Hall of Fame. Bobby is a founding member of the "Alabama Gang" and one of the greatest drivers of NASCAR's modern era.

NASCAR is the most popular and competitive racing organization in the United States, and its premier league, the Sprint Cup Series, draws thousands of fans to each of its 36 races. Last year NASCAR opened a NASCAR Hall of Fame to honor the sport's greatest contributors, inducting Richard Petty, Dale Earnhardt, Junior Johnson, Bill France, Sr., and Bill France, Jr. In the second class of inductees, Bobby Allison was honored along with racing greats Ned Jarrett, David Pearson, and Lee Petty, and team owner Bud Moore, joined these elite racers in receiving one of the sport's highest honors.

Bobby Allison was the perfect candidate for this race while he was still a high school student in southern Florida, needing written permission from his mother to compete. Seizing the opportunity to race...
REMEMBERING KATHRYN TUCKER WINDHAM

- Mr. SESSIONS. Mr. President, I would like to take a moment to honor a woman whose sparkling personality and literary voice truly captured the essence of Alabama. Kathryn Tucker Windham, a beloved storyteller, photographer, and proud citizen of Alabama, passed away on June 12, 2011, at the age of 93. She lived a rich, full life, true to the highest ideals of our State. I knew her well and follow her work. In my opinion, her qualities of character, professional accomplishments, and simple decency place her at the top of all who have been products of our State.

Ms. Windham authored over two dozen books in her lifetime, giving an endearing and insightful voice to Southern culture and folklore. Her books related everything from ghost stories and memories to delicious recipes, and she developed a devoted audience in Alabama and around the United States. Ms. Windham also became a celebrated radio personality, appearing on Alabama Public Radio for over 20 years and commenting on NPR’s “All Things Considered” from 1985-1987. She was cherished, beloved, and evocative tales of the South, with such titles as “Grits Is a Singular Delicacy” and “Honeysuckle Blossoms Smell Wonderful,” all with a Southern accent that remained true to the highest level of culture. In addition, she was a positive force for good, constant in her efforts to promote racial reconciliation in her hometown of Selma and in her State.

Ms. Windham spent her childhood in Thomasville, AL, not too far across the river from where I grew up, and later attended Huntingdon College, my alma mater. After graduation, she began work as a police reporter for a Montgomery paper, an impressive and unusual job for a female reporter at that time. Ms. Windham developed a distinguished journalistic career, working for the Birmingham News and winning several Associated Press awards for her work with the Selma Times Journal, where she made her home for many years. Stories and memories she left behind.

Some of her best known books are Alabama: One Big Front Porch and Thirteen Alabama Ghosts and Jeffery. Ms. Windham was also a noted photographer, and her images provide a vivid record of people and places of her home State. Her photography was included in the Huntsville Museum of Art’s 1989 traveling exhibit, “Alabama Landscape Photographs,” and in a later show, “Encounters 24: Kathryn Tucker Windham.”

Among many honors and awards, Ms. Windham was inducted into the Alabama Academy of Honor. This organization celebrates Alabama’s best and brightest, and Ms. Windham’s membership reflects her status as one of the State’s beloved cultural figures and influential personalities. Ms. Windham was indeed a great Alabamian, and her work showcases the best of Alabama’s values in a way that should make every Alabamian proud.

I recently watched a video of her in her small rocking chair, telling stories. They were told superbly, with perfect timing, and I burst out laughing. She was much like my great aunts, he con- nected was deeply missed, but her legacy will live on in the stories, artwork, and memories she left behind.

TRIBUTE TO LAW ENFORCEMENT OFFICERS

- Mr. SESSIONS. Mr. President, I would like to take a moment to honor an exceptional group of law enforce- ment officers. I recently met with Sheriff James Kelly of Catahoula Parish, LA, who informed me that a member of his department was conferred the 2011 National Missing Children’s Special Recognition award by the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children.

The man was last known to be in the company of a young boy. The man had no personal ties to the area and was last seen in the woods. The Sheriff had received reports of a motor vehicle driving erratically. He was last seen driving a red pickup truck.

The Sheriff had received reports of a motor vehicle driving erratically. He was last seen driving a red pickup truck.
In 1984, John Walsh cofounded the private, nonprofit National Center for Missing and Exploited Children, NCMEC. This center serves as a focal point in providing assistance to parents, children, law enforcement, schools, and communities in recovering missing and exploited children, and raising public awareness about ways to help prevent child abduction, molestation, and sexual exploitation. NCMEC has worked on more than 73,000 cases of missing and exploited children, helped recover more than 91% of children, and raised its recovery rate from 60 percent in the 1980s to 91 percent today.

I truly enjoyed talking to Sheriff James Kelley about the work being done by both NCMEC and his own police force in Louisiana. While I have worked closely with and seen the success of the many excellent Alabama law enforcement officers, I am glad to hear of the fine work of these officers.

On behalf of my colleagues in the Senate, it is an honor to recognize them for their exemplary service.

TRIBUTE TO JOE STELL
- Mr. UDALL of New Mexico. Mr. President, if Joe Stell had only one career, he would still be worthy of our admiration.

If he had been only a hard-working and talented New Mexico educator who was loved by his students, he would deserve our respect. If he had only been a New Mexico State legislator who was admired by his constituents, he would deserve our thanks. And if he had been only a land and water steward, revered by the many ranchers he mentored on land management practices, he would deserve our admiration.

But Joe Stell was all of these things: A no-nonsense public servant who asked tough questions, restored the landscape of New Mexico and changed the way government agencies and ranching communities work together to improve the land.

Former Representative Stell retired from the New Mexico Legislature after serving 20 years and being recognized as the preeminent legislative expert on water issues in New Mexico. Then-Governor Richardson referred to him as "Mr. Water." In his "retirement," he now runs a cattle ranch in Carlsbad, NM. It is on this ranch and the surrounding areas of southeastern New Mexico that he took part in Restoring New Mexico, reseeding grasslands, bringing back its riparian areas and wildlife species and their habitats as part of the Healthy Lands Initiative.

Joe Stell has spent his life dedicated to public service, education, and land and water stewardship. He is proactive and constant in his efforts to improve rangelands; to communicate and coordinate between agencies and individuals; and to leave the land in better shape than when he first came to it.

For this lifetime of work, Joe Stell has been the recipient of various prestigious awards and honors, and today I am proud to see the words "Joe Stell" be awarded the Bureau of Land Management's Rangeland Stewardship Award.

On behalf of the people of New Mexico, I would like to extend my sincere appreciation for Joe Stell's statesmanship and dedication to our State. Joe Stell's conservation work will always remind us that a commitment to the land and environment is powerful. For his more than 60 years of dedicated work in the public interest, I wish to honor Joe Stell.

MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT
A message from the President of the United States was communicated to the Senate by Mr. Thomas, one of his secretaries.

EXECUTIVE MESSAGE REFERRED
As in executive session the Presiding Officer laid before the Senate a message from the President of the United States submitting nominations which
MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE

ENROLLED BILL SIGNED

At 2:18 p.m., a message from the House of Representatives, delivered by Mrs. Cole, one of its reading clerks, announced that the Speaker has signed the following enrolled bill:

H.R. 1249. An act to amend title 35, United States Code, to provide for patent reform.

Whereas, a federal court of appeals decided in 2004 that the government had failed to prove that the appellants had willfully infringed the patents...
Mexico’s most cherished and significant places, including Chaco canyon, Carlsbad caverns and White Sands national monument; and

Whereas, the state probably contains additional sites on federal land that meet the criteria for national monument designation; and

Whereas, the residents of New Mexico have a clear and compelling interest in how federal lands in the state are managed; and

Whereas, the federal Antiquities Act of 1906 requires that lands to be "confined to the smallest area compatible with proper care and management of the objects to be protected" and necessary to preserve and protect the historical sites or objects; and

Whereas, the residents of New Mexico wholeheartedly embrace the opportunity to engage constructively and participate in identifying and recommending sites and boundaries of potential national monument designations; and

Whereas, the president of the United States should recognize and take steps to ensure the interests of the residents of New Mexico are recognized and represented in the design of national monuments in the state; and

Whereas, sustainable land management and conservation policies are best developed and advanced through joint federal, local government and community support and commitment to those policies: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the House of Representatives of the States, That there be requested formal consultation and coordination among the president of the United States, the governor of New Mexico, the New Mexico congress delegation, the New Mexico legislature, local officials and interested conservation, industry, Indian nations, tribes or pueblos and user groups ensuring transparent and inclusive participation prior to any designation of national monuments in New Mexico; and, be it further

Resolved, That copies of this memorial be transmitted to the president of the United States, the secretary of the interior, the president pro tempore of the United States senate, the speaker of the United States house of representatives and members of the New Mexico congressional delegation.

STATEMENTS ON INTRODUCED BILLS AND JOINT RESOLUTIONS
By Mr. DURBIN (for himself, Mr. SANDERS, Mr. MERKLEY, Mr. WHITEHOUSE, Mr. BLUMENTHAL, Mr. LEAHY, Mr. KERRY, Mrs. GILLIBRAND, Mr. COONS, Mr. AKAKA, and Mr. LAUTENBERG):

S. 1283. A bill to amend the Family and Medical Leave Act of 1993 to permit leave to care for a same-sex spouse, domestic partner, parent-in-law, adult child, sibling, grandchild, or grandparent who has a serious health condition; the Committee on Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions.

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, I rise today to introduce the Family and Medical Leave Inclusion Act. This bill, which I also introduced in the 111th Congress, would extend the important protections of the Family and Medical Leave Act to same-sex couples in America.

I am pleased to introduce this bill with a coalition of Senators who are committed to ensuring justice and equality for all Americans. I would like to thank Senators AKAKA, BLUMENTHAL, COONS, GILLIBRAND, KERRY, LAUTENBERG, LEAHY, MERKLEY, SANDERS, and WHITEHOUSE for standing with me in support of the Family and Medical Leave Inclusion Act.

In 1993, Congress passed the Family and Medical Leave Act to, among other things, protect American workers facing either a personal health crisis, or that of a close family member.

People in the workforce who suffer a serious illness or significant injury should be able to take time to heal, recover, follow their doctors' orders, and return to their jobs strong, healthy, and ready to be productive again. Thanks to the FMLA, they can take that time knowing that their jobs will be there when they recover.

As we all know well, most employees are not only concerned about their own health and wellbeing, they are concerned about the health and wellbeing of those that they love. The FMLA gave workers with a child, parent, or spouse that was sick or injured, an opportunity to provide that care and support, knowing that their jobs would be there when they returned.

When it was passed, the FMLA was an important and historic expansion of our nation's laws. Unfortunately, as families have evolved and expanded, we've learned that the FMLA does not provide the same level of protection to all American families. Under current law, it is impossible for many employees to be with their partners during times of medical need.

As I stated when I introduced this bill last year, Congress followed the lead of many large and small businesses when it enacted the FMLA. Almost 20 years ago, many of these businesses had put in place systems that gave their employees the benefit of FMLA and addressed the need for employees to take time off to care for themselves or a loved one that was battling a serious health condition. These companies had put in place systems that gave their employees the benefit of FMLA and addressed the need for employees to take time off to care for themselves or a loved one that was battling a serious health condition. These companies had put in place systems that gave their employees the benefit of FMLA.

The FMLA took the model these companies provided and brought the majority of the American workforce under the same protections.

We once again have an opportunity to learn from the best practices of American businesses who have adjusted their employee policies and benefit packages to better meet the needs of American families, as we find them today. These businesses have assessed the composition of their workforces and realized that, in order to meet the needs of employees and enhance productivity, they needed to go one step further than the protections provided by the FMLA.

The Human Rights Campaign, leading civil rights organization that strongly supports the Family and Medical Leave Inclusion Act, reports that 502 major American corporations, 10 states, and the District of Columbia now extend FMLA benefits to include leave of absence for a same-sex partner. Moreover, as of March of this year, 58 percent of Fortune 500 companies provided health benefits to same-sex partners, a 13 fold increase since 1995.

When the FMLA was signed into law, it provided for employee leave to cover individuals caring for a very close family member. The law sought to cover that inner circle of people, where the family member assuming the caretaker role would be one of very few, if not the only person, who could do so. That idea has not changed.

What has changed is the people who might be in that inner circle. The nuclear American family has grown, sometimes by design, and sometimes by necessity. More and more, that inner circle of close family might include a grandparent or grandchild, siblings, or same-sex domestic partners in loving and committed relationships.

The law should not force too many of these people to be excluded from the protections of the FMLA.

In these tough economic times, when unemployment is high and those with paid leave don't have everything they can to keep them, we all know the value of job security. Hardworking Americans should not have to make the impossible choice between keeping their jobs and providing care and support for loved ones in their time of need. Almost 20 years ago, the FMLA ensured that millions of Americans did not have to make that choice. Now, the time has come to ensure that the security afforded by the FMLA is available to a broader range of American workers.

There are many who would understandably question what this kind of change in the law would cost the business community. As I have stated in the past, the FMLA is already a very good law; it is already in place and it is working. It provides unpaid leave when the need arises, and it only applies to businesses that have enough employees on hand to handle the absence of a single worker without too great a burden. Ninety percent of the Fortune 500 companies that have been taken under the FMLA has been so that employees can care for themselves or for a child in their care, and those situations are already covered under the law as it stands. What the Family and Medical Leave Inclusion Act would do is provide a little more flexibility, and recognize that there are a few more people in that inner circle of family who we might call upon, or who might call upon us.

Mr. President, all agree that the FMLA is the first and best safety net in times of personal crisis. Families need to be given the realistic ability to provide that assistance. What the Family and Medical Leave Inclusion Act does is give those family members the ability to help their loved ones in ways that only they can, without fear of losing their jobs in the process.

The Family and Medical Leave Inclusion Act enhances the FMLA. The FMLA, like the FMLA when it was passed almost 20 years ago, is long overdue. Our bill contains reasonable changes that reflect what many businesses have already done and accurately capture the modern American family.

The Family and Medical Leave Inclusion Act is supported by over 80 organizations from the business, civil rights, LGBT, and labor communities, including: the National Association of Working Women; AFSCME; American Pedi- atrics Association; the National Center for Trans- gender Equality; the National Stonewall; the National Gay and Lesbian Task Force; Human Rights Campaign; People for the American Way.
Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,—

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.
This Act may be cited as the “Family and Medical Leave Act of 1993.”

(2) in subsection (b)(4)(A), by striking “spouse, or parent, and an estimate of the amount of time that such employee is needed to care for such son, daughter, spouse, or parent” and inserting “spouse, domestic partner, parent, parent-in-law, grandparent, or sibling”.

By Mrs. FEINSTEIN:
S. 1284. A bill to amend the National Flood Insurance Act of 1968 to require the Administrator of the Federal Emergency Management Agency to consider reconstruction and improvement of flood protection systems when establishing flood insurance rates; to establish a Federal government program for safety. As FEMA does this, and we will enjoy the fruits of their labor.

Mrs. FEINSTEIN. Mr. President, I rise today to introduce the Flood Protection Act of 2011. This legislation will make three common sense changes to the National Flood Insurance Program, NFIP, to ensure that the program incentivizes local participation in the funding of flood protection infrastructure.

The bill allows levees paid for with local tax dollars to qualify for the same discounted flood insurance rates as communities that rely on Federal tax dollars to build their levees.

The bill allows Federal Emergency Management Agency, FEMA, to calculate the value of a levee system in current dollars instead of using the unadjusted cost of levee improvements completed years ago. This encourages local governments to fix problems as they arise.

The bill allows areas protected by coastal levees to qualify for the same flood insurance rate zones as areas protected by riverine levees, provided they meet equivalent flood protection standards.

I firmly believe in the strong and rigorous regulations that limit development in flood plains. Development in an unprotected flood plain is dangerous, and I do not support legislation that encourages new construction in hazardous areas.

But the regulations that prohibit local investments from being counted, and prevent communities from having full access to the NFIP are antiquated. To understand the scope of the problem, it is important to have a little bit of context. FEMA is currently undertaking an extensive Modernization effort and examining levees around the country for safety. As FEMA does this, the Agency is learning that many levees do not provide an acceptable level of flood protection. This means that the people living behind these levees are in real danger of flooding, and until recently, were unaware of it.

Fortunately, the Map Modernization effort is bringing all of this information to homeowners and consumers. With this information, they are able to protect themselves with flood insurance.

As I have said, there is actually a disincentive for communities to pitch in and help build flood control systems; if the locals build the levee, the National Flood Insurance Program won’t give homeowners the same discounts they would receive if the levee were built by the Federal Government.

The program does this by limiting which communities can qualify for reduced rate flood insurance zones.

FEMA created the reduced rate AR and A99 zones to reflect a reduced flood risk and limit improvements to a partial completion levee system. But this designation only applies to communities protected by federally funded levees.

Every in Sacramento where residents have approved two property assessment increases to help pay for levee repairs, the homeowners are still hit with higher insurance rates because the improvements are not being paid for by the Federal Government.

The original intent behind this requirement was that information on non-federal levees was unreliable, and we did not know how safe they really were.

That was 30 years ago. Now we have better information, and better science, and FEMA has sufficient data to make sound judgments on levee safety. The rule is antiquated, and it needs to be modernized.

Congress assembled, other agencies also recognized the need for a change. In California, the Sacramento and West Sacramento Flood Control Agencies, as well as the California Department of Water Resources are seeking this change.

The bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

SECTION 1. CONSIDERATION OF RECONSTRUCTION AND IMPROVEMENT OF FLOOD PROTECTION SYSTEMS IN DETERMINATION OF FLOOD INSURANCE RATES.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 1307 of the National Flood Insurance Act of 1968 (42 U.S.C. 4014) is amended—

(A) in subsection (e)—

(I) in the first sentence, by striking “construction of a flood protection system” and inserting “construction, reconstruction, or improvement of a flood protection system (without respect to the level of Federal investment or participation);”;

II
(B) in the second sentence—
  (i) by striking “construction of a flood protection system” and inserting “construction, reconstruction, or improvement of a flood protection system”;
  (ii) by inserting “based on the present value of the completed system” after “has been expended”; and
  (iii) by inserting “in subsection (a) shall take effect on December 17, 2010.”

SEC. 2. APPLICATION OF ACT OF AUGUST 31, 1950.

The provisions of the Act of August 31, 1950 (64 Stat. 568) shall apply to the amendment approved under this joint resolution to the amendments and furnishings of such information or data by the Bi-State Development Agency as is deemed appropriate by Congress.

Notice of Intent to Object

Mr. BINGAMAN. Mr. President, I would like to announce for the information of the Senate and the public that a business meeting scheduled before the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources, previously announced for Thursday, July 14, 2011, will be held at 10 a.m., in room SD-306 of the Dirksen Senate Office Building.

The purpose of the business meeting is to consider pending legislation.

For further information, please contact Sam Fowler at (202) 224-7571 or Alison Seyfert at (202) 224-4905.

Authority for Committees to Meet

Committee on Agriculture, Nutrition, and Forestry

Mr. CARDIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Committee on Agriculture, Nutrition, and Forestry be authorized to meet during the session of the Senate on June 28, 2011, at 2:45 p.m. in room 106 of the Dirksen Senate Office Building.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Committee on Armed Services

Mr. CARDIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Committee on Armed Services be authorized to meet during the session of the Senate on June 28, 2011, at 10 a.m. in room SD–216 of the Hart Senate Office Building, to conduct a hearing entitled “The DREAM Act.”

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Subcommittee on Immigration, Refugees, and Border Security

Mr. CARDIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Subcommitteee on Immigration, Refugees, and Border Security be authorized to meet during the session of the Senate on June 28, 2011, at 10 a.m., in room SH–216 of the Hart Senate Office Building, to conduct a hearing entitled “The DREAM Act.”

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Subcommittee on Water and Wildlife

Mr. CARDIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Subcommittee on Environment and Public Works be authorized to meet during the session of the Senate on June 28, 2011, at 10 a.m. in room 406 to conduct a hearing entitled “Status of the Deepwater Horizon Natural Resource Damage Assessment.”

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Reaffirming the Commitment of the United States to a Negotiated Settlement of the Israeli-Palestinian Conflict

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Foreign Relations Committee be discharged from further consideration of S. Res. 185.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The clerk will report the resolution by title.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

A resolution (S. Res. 185) reaffirming the commitment of the United States to a negotiated settlement of the Israeli-Palestinian conflict, reaffirming opposition to the inclusion of Hamas in a unity government.
unless it is willing to accept peace with Israel and renounce violence, and declaring that Palestinian efforts to gain recognition of a state outside direct negotiations demonstrate the key lack of a good faith commitment to peace negotiations, and will have implications for continued United States aid.

There being no objection, the Senate proceeded to consider the resolution.

Mr. Reid. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the resolution be agreed to, the preamble be agreed to, the motions to reconsider be laid on the table, that there be no intervening action or debate, and any statements relating to this matter be printed in the Record.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The resolution (S. Res. 185) was agreed to. The preamble was agreed to.

The resolution, with its preamble, reads as follows:

S. Res. 185

Whereas the policy of the United States since 2002 has been to support a two-state solution to the Israeli-Palestinian conflict; and

Whereas a true and lasting peace between the people of Israel and the Palestinians can only be achieved through direct negotiations between the parties; and

Whereas Palestinian Liberation Organization Chair Yassir Arafat wrote to Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin on September 9, 1993, that “all outstanding issues relating to permanent status will be resolved through negotiations”;

Whereas the reconciliation agreement signed by Fatah and Hamas on May 4, 2011, was reached without Hamas being required to renounce violence, accept Israel’s right to exist, and accept prior agreements made by the Palestinians (the “Quartet conditions”); Whereas Hamas, an organization responsible for the death of more than 500 innocent civilians, including two dozen United States citizens, has been designated by the United States Government as a foreign terrorist organization and a specially designated terrorist organization;

Whereas Hamas kidnapped and has held captive Israeli sergeant Gilad Shalit in violation of international norms since June 25, 2006;

Whereas Hamas continues to forcefully reject the possibility of negotiations or peace with Israel;

Whereas by contrast, Prime Minister of Israel Benjamin Netanyahu has accepted a two-state solution to the Israeli-Palestinian conflict;

Whereas, on April 22, 2009, Secretary of State Hillary Clinton stated, “We will not deal with nor in any way fund a Palestinian government that includes Hamas unless and until Hamas accepts all prior agreements made with the Government of Israel and agrees to follow the previous obligations of the Palestinian Authority.”;

Whereas the United States, under two different Administrations, has vetoed 11 United Nations Security Council resolutions in the last 15 years related to the Palestinian-Israeli conflict and its outstanding issues;

Whereas United States Permanent Representative to the United Nations Susan Rice stated on February 18, 2011, that it was “unwise” for the United Nations to attempt to recognize keys issues between the Israelis and Palestinians;

Whereas Palestinian leaders are pursuing a coordinated strategy to seek recognition of a Palestinian state outside United Nations and other international forums, and from foreign governments;

Whereas, on March 11, 1999, the Senate adopted Senate Concurrent Resolution 5 (106th Congress), and on March 16, 1999, the House of Representatives adopted House Concurrent Resolution 24 (106th Congress), both of which resolved that “any attempt to establish Palestinian statehood outside the negotiating process will invoke the strongest congressional opposition”;

Whereas current United States law precludes assistance to a Palestinian Authority that shares power with Hamas unless that Authority has publicly and in effect renounced violence and all prior agreements with Hamas, including assistance to a Palestinian Authority who are among the world’s largest recipients of foreign aid per capita;

Whereas aid to the Palestinians is predicated on a good faith commitment from the Palestinians to the peace process;

Whereas abandonment by Palestinian leaders of the Quartet conditions and inclusion of Hamas in a government controlled by the positive steps the Palestinian Authority has taken in building institutions and improving security in the West Bank in recent years; and

Whereas efforts to form a unity government without accepting the Quartet conditions, to bypass negotiations and unilaterally declare a Palestinian state, or to appeal to the United Nations or other international forums or to foreign governments for recognition of a Palestinian state would violate the underlying principles of the Oslo Accord, the Road Map, and other relevant Middle East peace process efforts: Now, therefore,

Resolved, That the Senate—

(A) to ensure that any Palestinian government that includes Hamas unless and until Hamas publicly and in effect renounces violence, accepts prior agreements made with or in any way fund a Palestinian government, that shares power with Hamas unless that Authority and all its members publicly accept the right of Israel to exist and adheres to all prior agreements and understandings with the Governments of the United States and Israel; and

(B) to take appropriate measures to counter incitement to violence and fulfill all prior Palestinian commitments, including dismantling the terrorist infrastructure embodied in Hamas;

(C) to reaffirm the strong support for a negotiated solution to the Israeli-Palestinian conflict, resulting in two states, a democratic, Jewish state of Israel and a viable, democratic Palestinian state, living side-by-side in peace, security, and mutual recognition;

(D) to reaffirm the strong support for a negotiated solution to the Israeli-Palestinian conflict, resulting in two states, a democratic, Jewish state of Israel and a viable, democratic Palestinian state, living side-by-side in peace, security, and mutual recognition;

(E) to reaffirm the strong support for a negotiated solution to the Israeli-Palestinian conflict, resulting in two states, a democratic, Jewish state of Israel and a viable, democratic Palestinian state, living side-by-side in peace, security, and mutual recognition;

(F) to reaffirm the strong support for a negotiated solution to the Israeli-Palestinian conflict, resulting in two states, a democratic, Jewish state of Israel and a viable, democratic Palestinian state, living side-by-side in peace, security, and mutual recognition;

Whereas current United States law precludes assistance to a Palestinian Authority that shares power with Hamas unless that Authority has publicly and in effect renounced violence, accepts prior agreements made with or in any way fund a Palestinian government, that shares power with Hamas unless that Authority and all its members publicly accept the right of Israel to exist and adheres to all prior agreements and understandings with the Governments of the United States and Israel.

ORDER FOR Adjournment

Mr. Reid. Mr. President, there will be a series of up to five rollcall votes at approximately 11 a.m. tomorrow. We are hopeful a few of the amendments to S. 679 will be agreed to by voice vote.

ORDER FOR Adjournment

Mr. Reid. Mr. President, if there is no further business to come before the Senate, I ask unanimous consent that it adjourn under previous order, following the remarks of up to 15 minutes of my friend, the Senator from Wisconsin.
The DEFICIT

Mr. JOHNSON of Wisconsin. Mr. President, I realize a number of people in this Chamber are asking why I am doing this. First of all, I think it is important for everybody to realize that—and I certainly mean no offense to anybody in this Chamber—I did not run for the Senate because I wanted to be a Senator. I ran for the Senate because I realized we are bankrupting this Nation.

I think the evidence is quite clear, if we take a look at the budget deficit for just the last 3 years: $1.4 trillion, $1.3 trillion, and for this year estimates as high as $1.65 trillion. We have incurred over $4 trillion worth of debt in just the last 3 years, and our Nation’s debt stands at $14.3 trillion. We have reached our debt limit. Our debt is almost the size of our entire economy.

I have been watching Washington for 32 years from Oshkosh, WI, and I realized that Washington was pretty broken. I have been here now for 6 months, and I haven’t seen anything here that convinces me otherwise.

The Senate has not passed a budget for over 2 years. Of the six pieces of legislation we have passed—only six pieces of legislation we have passed from this Chamber have actually become law, and of those six three dealt with last year’s business. They were pieces of legislation dealing with this year’s budget that should have been passed last summer.

The bottom line is the Senate is fiddling while America is going bankrupt.

As I mentioned, the debt ceiling has now been reached. What are we doing about it? The answer is virtually nothing. We are scheduled to go on recess next week. We should not be doing that. We should be staying in session.

We should be debating. We should be developing a budget. Bottom line, all we are doing is waiting for the results of a negotiation between a limited number of people, conducted behind closed doors, far away from the view of any American citizen.

Is this the process we are going to rely on to prevent the bankruptcy of America? Is this on what we are placing the future of America? I hope not.

The Senate needs to get back to work. We need to pass a budget. It should not be that hard. American families do it every day. They figure out what their income is and they figure out how to learn to live within their means. The U.S. Government needs to figure out how to live within its means as well.

Let me kind of start the process by naming a figure. I would start with $2.6 trillion. That is the amount of money President Obama, in his budget, says we will receive in revenue to the Federal Government next year—$2.6 trillion. It is $800 billion more than we spent just 10 years ago.

It would pay for 100 percent of the interest payment, which is $256 billion. It would pay for all of Social Security, which is $760 billion. That totals $1 trillion. There would be $1.6 trillion to pay for all other essentials: defense, security, health and safety spending.

If that is not enough—and, again, that would be living within our means—then what I believe is required is every Member of Congress, members of the administration should come down into congressional committees, and they need to, in the open, justify how much they want to spend, how much they are willing to borrow, and how much debt they are willing to pile on the backs of our children, our grandchildren, and our great-grandchildren because that is what we are doing to this country.
EXTENSIONS OF REMARKS

AMERICA INVENTS ACT

SPREE OF
HON. LAMAR SMITH
OF TEXAS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Wednesday, June 22, 2011

The House in Committee of the Whole House on the State of the Union had under consideration the bill (H.R. 1249) to amend title 35, United States Code, to provide for patent reform:

Mr. SMITH of Texas. Madam Chair, H.R. 1249 makes a significant change to the system by which patents are filed and granted in the United States. Moving to a first-inventor-to-file system will modernize and harmonize our patent system with our international trading partners. In so doing, we recognize that we are also modifying other parts of our patent system that implements this change.

One key part of the transition that has already been recognized by the House Judiciary Committee is the necessary inclusion of prior user rights under the new first-inventor-to-file system. The inclusion of prior user rights is essential to ensure that those who have invented and used a technology but choose not to disclose that technology—generally to ensure that they not disclose their trade secrets to foreign competitors—are provided a defense against someone who later patents the technology. Even as we make this make this change, we recognize that uncertainty remains as to the appropriate scope of the prior-user rights defense and how best to provide protections for America’s most innovative companies.

H.R. 1249 takes steps to explore these issues, including requiring an important PTO study of prior user rights and whether we should expand the defense created by the America Invents Act. One important area of focus will be how we protect those who make substantial investments in the development and preparation of proprietary technologies. For example, in the semiconductor industry, the design of a state of the art processor takes roughly three years from the high-level specification to the production of the first silicon, at a cost of billions of dollars. Inventions such as these, which are present throughout our economy, should be protected. I should also note that parties who commercialize a product will still be able to assert a defense of prior art invalidation. Upon release of the forthcoming PTO report, we may introduce legislation that implements the conclusions and refines the nature and scope of the prior-user rights defense. This will ensure that our most innovative companies who hold many of the keys to U.S. economic competitiveness are provided sufficient prior user right protections to put them on an even competitive field internationally.

REMEMBERING THE LIFE AND LEGACY OF PHOTOJOURNALIST BRIAN LANKER

HON. PETER A. DeFAZIO
OF OREGON
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, June 28, 2011

Mr. DeFAZIO. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to remember the life and legacy of Pulitzer Prize-winning photojournalist Brian Lanker. Ten days after being diagnosed with terminal pancreatic cancer, Brian passed away with his family at his side.

Brian was a remarkable photographer and an even better friend. In 1970, Brian shot a groundbreaking feature on the Lamaze technique for natural child birth, which at the time was unusual. Brian followed expectant mother Lynda Coburn through the birth of her second child. The feature culminated with a powerful photo of the ecstatic mother with her newborn daughter Jacki just after birth. This iconic photo earned Brian the 1973 Pulitzer Prize.

But Brian won an even greater prize. He found Lynda, his soul mate. Brian and Lynda were married in 1974 and together they built a loving family with their children Julie, Jacki, and Dustin.

In 1974, Brian and his family moved to Eugene, Oregon to take a position with the Register-Guard. Brian’s passion for the craft was unmatched and his incredible work at the Register-Guard earned him a Newspaper Photographer of the Year award.

Brian left the Register-Guard to work as a freelance photographer. His breathtaking photographs have been featured in national publications like National Geographic, Life Magazine, and Sports Illustrated.

He collaborated with poet Maya Angelou on two books: “I Dream a World,” his portraits of black women of achievement; and “Shall We Dance,” a photographic documentary of dance in America. The books were Brian’s proudest achievements. The book “I Dream a World” set attendance records at Corcoran Gallery of Art in Washington, D.C. Now in its 14th printing, the book shared with readers the stories of these incredible women who forever changed the course of history. Brian attributed the book’s success not to his work, but rather to the women.

But Brian had an uncanny ability to capture an image that revealed these stories. And throughout his career, his work moved people.

Two of Brian’s children, who had separately planned weddings for later in the year, chose to get married at Brian’s bedside so he could share in their celebration. He passed away not long after. He is survived by Lynda Lanker and their children Julie, Jacki, and Dustin.

Carl Davaz, who is the deputy managing director of photography at the Register-Guard, reflected on his final visit with Brian in a New York Times remembrance piece. At that visit Brian simply told Carl, “There’s just so much left to do.”

I agree. Brian—there was just so much left for you to do. You will forever be missed. Thank you for sharing your gift with us.

LIMITING USE OF FUNDS FOR ARMED FORCES IN LIBYA

SPREE OF
HON. RON PAUL
OF TEXAS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Friday, June 24, 2011

Mr. PAUL. Mr. Speaker, I rise to oppose this legislation, which masquerades as a limitation of funds for the President’s illegal war on Libya, but is in fact an authorization for that very war. According to H.R. 2278, the U.S. military cannot be involved in NATO’s actions in Libya, with four important exceptions. If this passes, for the first time the President would be authorized to use U.S. armed forces to engage in search and rescue; intelligence, surveillance, and reconnaissance; aerial refueling; and operational planning against Libya. Currently, absent an authorization or declaration of war, these activities are illegal. So instead of ending the war against Libya, this bill would legalize nearly everything the President is currently doing there.

That the war in Libya can be ended by expanding it and providing the President a legal excuse to continue makes no sense. If this bill fails, we may pass a better congressionally-authorized war on Libya, with four important exceptions. If this passes, for the first time the President would be authorized to use U.S. armed forces to engage in search and rescue; intelligence, surveillance, and reconnaissance; aerial refueling; and operational planning against Libya. Currently, absent an authorization or declaration of war, these activities are illegal. So instead of ending the war against Libya, this bill would legalize nearly everything the President is currently doing there.

Additionally, it should not really be necessary to prohibit the use of funds for U.S. military attacks on Libya because those funds are already prohibited by the Constitution. Absent Congressional action to allow U.S. force against Libya, any such force is illegal, meaning the expenditure of funds for such activities is prohibited. I will, however, support any straight and clean prohibition of funds such as the anticipated amendments to the upcoming Defense Appropriations bill.

I urge my colleagues to reject this stealth attempt to authorize the Libyan war and sincerely hope that the House will soon get serious about our Constitutional obligations and authority.
